TWO MORE VICTORIES.

Cambridge and Princess Anne Defeated in Exciting Games—Notes of the Diamond.

Some two hundred and fifty of the faithful band of rooters that live within the borders of this busy town braved the threatening storm on Tuesday afternoon and were amply rewarded in seeing Salisbury defeat Cambridge in a close and exciting game of ball. The crowd was exceedingly apprehensive before the game, for they remembered the mighty Cambridge Club of old when the two leading towns of the Eastern Shore were rivals for base ball honors. But the nine that came over Tuesday was not the Cambridge team of 1900 and although the boys played a fair game, they were out-classed by the home club. Both teams had an off day in the field and some rank errors were made. Every nine has a bad day once in a while and the mis-plays of Tuesday must not be scored against either club.

Salisbury scored one run in the first on four clean hits. This put the fans in good humor as they thought the boys would soon send Wallace to the bench. After this, however, the visiting twirler settled down and, except for one inning, pitched a good game. Three more runs came to the home club in one inning on one or two hits and a bunch of errors. This was all the scoring Salisbury could do. Cambridge scored two runs in as many innings through errors by the home team. The one feature of the game was the brilliant pitching of Hearn. At a critical stage of the game with three men on bases he let himself cut and made the next three batters fan the air. The final score was Salisbury 4, Cambridge 2.

On Thursday the home club went to Princess Anne to play a return game on the latter's grounds. The management of the game there had padded their nine to a great extent and a Chester pitcher named Stevens was in the box. Our team, however, was greatly strengthened by the addition of Burris and Charles, two new players who will now be seen wearing Salisbury colors.

The game itself was a red hot one from start to finish and Princess Anne was only defeated after a heart rending finish. In the ninth inning with the score four to two in favor of Salisbury, the Somerset boys came to bat and scored one run and had men on second and third bases with only one out. This was a critical position for Charles who was in the box for Salisbury. A little single would do the work. With the Princess Anne rooters yelling like mad and offering "any old thing" for a hit, the new twirler settled down and struck the next man out and caused the third man to pop a little fly to third base. This ended the agony. The final score was Salisbury 4, Princess Anne 3. The Somerset enthusiasts took their defeat pretty hard as they had confidently counted on taking the game.

NOTES OF THE DIAMOND.

Marine made a home run in Laurel on Monday.

Some people think Truitt is fast on the bases, others think he is faster in a cantaloupe patch.

Seaford and Salisbury are now playing a game at the new grounds in South Salisbury.

Marine caught a beautiful game Tuesday but made a bad throw to third.

Schuler is banging the ball at a pretty good clip these days.

Burris played first in fine style Thursday but failed to make a hit.

Princess Anne will be here next Tuesday and you can expect to see a "warm time". They say they will win one game.

Reddy Wallace says, "just wait until we get you over in Cambridge."

At the pace we are going it won't be long before we see on the dodgers "Salisbury vs Dover."

The neighboring towns are raising the old time war cry, "anything to beat Salisbury." Keep it up boys.

Brother Haddaway's Industrial School. Henry Chase and his sister, colored, had a big fight on Friday. The girl secured a looking glass and smashed it twice on her brother's face and head making wounds that had to be sewed up. Henry says the difficulty commenced by his remonstrating with his sister for sassin' her mother. As it was a family affair no arrests were made. Thus did the girl start an industrial school in glass work.—Easton Ledger.

HAS ANOTHER PLAN.

"Resident of Trappe" Thinks Tony Tank Road Should Be Extended Before Money is Spent on River Road.

Editors Advertiser:—Your paper of the 26th of July contained the following account of a meeting of citizens held Tuesday 22nd at Shad Point:

"About forty business men of Salisbury and Trappe district met at Shad Point last Tuesday to consider the proposition to bridge Tony Tank Creek and extend the road down the river. Capt. T. W. H. White acted as chairman and Mr. R. Frank Williams as secretary of the meeting.

The proposition is to have the county make a forty foot shell road from Camden along the line of the old river road to the creek, bridge the creek and extend the road along the river into Trappe district, thus bringing a large territory closer to Salisbury."

Now I have always favored shell roads or anything else that would improve our public highways, but would it be wise for the County Commissioners to expend at present the money necessary to build such a road as was considered at this meeting? The county and citizens living along the line, have already built a first class shell road to Tony Tank Mills, which reaches to the border of Trappe District. It seems to me that if the people of our district are interested in good roads it would be better to build to Tony Tank to connect with this road, and if they are simply expecting the County Commissioners to build the road to the creek, then bridge the creek, I can't see that they would be greatly benefited by it as Tony Tank is about as accessible to the greater part of the district as the most of Tony Tank Creek is. If the county is to expend any more money on shell roads in the district, it seems to me that it would be much wiser to extend the road on from Tony Tank south, to the center of population in the district or where the most local aid could be obtained. If the people of Salisbury are to be consulted in the matter it would certainly be to their interest to extend it on over the Sandy stretch to the south, as far as the old Brinkley place. This would give good travel to the people of Trappe district and at the same time make it inviting to a large portion of Somerset County to go to Salisbury to deal.

It must be remembered that during the greater part of the year the public roads from Eden and Allen to Princess Anne are much better than they are to Salisbury, that is to Tony Tank, the course of their travel. It would be a good investment, it seems to me, as the ADVERTISER has frequently pointed out, both to the county and to Salisbury to have this road extended two miles to the South from Tony Tank. I would suggest that the commissioners, also the people of Salisbury, consider the question of building this road first.

M. P Church Improvement.

The improvements being made to the M. P. Church on Broad Street are now well under way. When completed the congregation will have a very commodious and convenient house of worship. In the corner stone of the church, which was taken out when the improvements were begun, was found a copy of the Salisbury Advertiser of the date February 17th, 1872, Messrs J. O. Freemy and A. L. Richardson being then the editors and proprietors; a copy of the Discipline of the church; a copy of the New Testament; a photo of a lady supposed to be Mrs. Esther Parsons and one penny made in 1862.

The present church building was begun in 1870 but it was not dedicated until Sunday February 17th, 1872. Rev. J. L. Mills was the pastor. He was assisted by Revs. Bates, Webster and Drinkhouse. The church building is said to have cost nearly $7000.

Among the interesting items contained in the issue of the Advertiser of February 17th, 1872 was the following: "Last Sunday, the Rev. J. L. Mills, pastor of the M. P. Church, while announcing to his congregation the dedication of his new church to take place on Sunday next, remarked that they did not intend to allow persons to use tobacco in that building. He said it cost too much money to be used as a spittoon etc.

Mr. Mills struck the right chord and we hope the members of his congregation will rigidly enforce the prohibition, and thus preserve their beautiful church from the defilement and slish incident to the free use of tobacco."

ALMS HOUSE AND JAIL.

Commendable Condition Of The Two Institutions.

Mr. G. S. Griffith, president of the Maryland Prisoners, Aid Association, and Rev. W. C. Stoundenmire, general agent, recently visited the Wicomico Alms house and Jail. Their report is very gratifying to the wardens of the two institutions. It is as follows:

"The Salisbury jail contained two prisoners, both colored, one male and one female; both being there on petty charges. The jail is in good sanitary condition, and is well kept by the Sheriff Mr. George W. Fooks, and his wife, the matron. The city of Salisbury supplies water and light and puts it on a par with the best county jails, with the exception that the Sheriff's quarters are very inadequate. Religious services are never held, which we greatly deplore.

"The Wicomico county almshouse, near Hebron, contained 17 inmates; white male, 5; white female, 2; colored male, 4; colored female, 6. This institution is in good sanitary condition, and inmates are made comfortable and happy by the superintendent, Mr. H. J. Seabreeze, and the matron, his wife. There are occasional religious services held for the inmates by a Baptist minister, who preaches at Quantico.

"The farm, containing 215 acres, is under the best state of cultivation we ever saw, the crops being excellent and the farm well stocked. We hope that in the near future the Board of County Commissioners, who have charge of the almshouse, will build a superintendent's house, and the part of the old building occupied by the superintendent can be fitted up for the comfort of the inmates, possibly as an insane ward. It is one of the ways for the county to economize, by preparing to take charge of their own insane. The splendidly equipped new barn is the only house on the place that is modern in appointments."

SCHOOL NOTES.

News of Interest Relative to the Coming Year—Advice to Teachers.

Vacation is rapidly passing and school duties will soon be upon the teachers of Wicomico. Are you ready for them?

It now looks as if there will be many changes of teachers in the county.

Salisbury High School expects to have a new piano when school opens. Let every school in the county strive to get an organ or piano in the school room. Music pleases, encourages and in many ways helps the pupils.

Teacher, how about your certificate? Is it first? grade if not, strive to make it such at the next examination. Begin now. The grade is according to your professional qualifications as shown by an examination. See also that your certificate is classified, if not ask your examiner to classify it. The class is according to your ability to govern a school and to impart instruction. By your endeavors strive to attain the first class mark.

The county Institute will be held from September 15 to 19 inclusive. This will be the beginning of the School term.

Are you a member of the Reading Circular? See particulars in your Institute Manual. If you will call at the Examiners office and get a few professional books to read you will enter the school room in September better prepared to do the work. Nothing helps a teacher like preparation for the work.

Every teacher should strive to keep in the front rank. Teaching is on a higher plane than it was a few years ago. It requires work and close application to every duty to keep up. The days of "Keeping School" are in the past. The duty is now to teach and the authorities want all the teachers to be at their best. C.

Death of Isaac T. Barnes.

Princess Anne, Md., July 28.—Isaac T. Barnes, 77 years old, a prominent farmer who resides near Peninsula Junction, died suddenly at his residence, Beverly, yesterday afternoon. He was conversing with his son Henry, when he was seized with a coughing attack and died sitting in his chair. Mr. Barnes' estate, Beverly, is one of the finest in the country. The brick mansion on the estate was built in Colonial times, and is in a fine state of preservation. Mr. Barnes is survived by a widow and three sons, Samuel S. Barnes, Gordon H. Barnes and Henry Barnes, and one daughter, Mrs. Sidney F. Miller.

—Mr. G. Edward Mitchell has finished his William street dwelling and now occupies it with his family.

ONE DOLLAR WHEAT.

Phillips, the Corn King Makes the Prediction and Gives his Reasons.

Corn King George H. Phillips, of New York, has been through the wheat belt of the West and he predicts one dollar wheat in the near future. Two years ago he was severely ridiculed for saying corn would reach fifty cents when it was selling at thirty cents.

In an interview in the New York World recently, Mr. Phillips gives his reason why wheat should reach a dollar per bushel as follows:

"I am a bull on wheat. During the past few weeks I have been repeatedly and correctly quoted as predicting a steady increase in the price of wheat, and of course when I talked of dollar wheat I was ridiculed as I was two years ago for predicting 50 cent corn when it was selling at 30 cents or under.

My prediction at that time was based on the argument that the consumption of corn had reached such a stage that it had caught up with if not surpassed, normal production and that nothing but a considerable increase in price would make both ends meet. That was after the country had raised six successive large crops of corn, each exceeding two billion bushels, a record never before equalled, and one that never will be equalled again.

But it was all consumed and high prices ruled. It is my opinion that we have reached the same condition in wheat, my opinion being based on my knowledge of the production of the country, the well-known requirements for home consumption and the usual demands from foreign countries.

The following figures, which are from the United States census and therefore authentic, bear me out: Fifteen years ago the population of the United States was 56,000,000. Then the country raised an averaged crop of 500,000,000 bushels of wheat, 1,900,000,000 bushels of corn and 600,000,000 bushels of oats. Today the population is 78,000,000—an increase of 22,000,000—yet despite that great increase in population we will raise this year only about 600,000,000 bushels of wheat, 2,000,000,000 bushels of corn and 750,000,000 bushels of oats.

The increase in livestock—horses, cattle, mules, cows, sheep and hogs—is enormous, and when is added the steady increase in exports of grain and grain products one can readily see that unless larger crops are raised short selling will surely become a dangerous pastime. In round numbers there are in the United States 20,000,000 horses, 4,000,000 mules, 18,000,000 cows, 68,000,000 cattle, 63,000,000 sheep and 63,000,000 hogs. They all eat grain—millions of bushels of it.

I do not believe that wheat can be kept down to its present low level, but it may depend upon the stand taken by the farmers. The average farmer goes on the theory that enough farmers must sell as soon as their wheat is threshed to make a decline, and that is the reason that the lower prices of the year are usual at this time. I advise all farmers not to hurry the marketing of their wheat.

Talbot County Fair.

The seventeenth Annual Talbot County Fair will be held at Easton, Maryland, August 19, 20 and 21 next, the advertisement of which will be found in our advertising columns. We ask our readers to read this advertisement carefully, give their best efforts this year for a successful fair and attend and enjoy its attractions. The management has spared no trouble and has arranged for a splendid line of attractions and offer fine premiums and special inducements to exhibitors, horsemen and visitors. The Race Program is an excellent one and varied in its features. Who can fail to win the "nearest to 4 minutes" race on Tuesday? And who can fail to enjoy every race on the list as well as the side shows and music? Every feature of the fair is good. Don't fail to enter your fast trotter, or exhibit your fine stock, poultry or produce, and attend the fair yourself. Read the advertisement and don't forget the dates.

The School Board.

The School Board was in session a short time on Monday afternoon and took into consideration the needed repairs and improvements to be done before school opens. After some deliberation it was agreed to divide the county among the three members of the board, giving each member a personal supervision over the districts assigned to him. Mr. Williams was assigned Delmar, Parsons, Pittsburg and Dennis election districts as his territory. Mr. Steton was assigned Salisbury, Trappe, Nutters and Nanticoke, Mr. Cooper, Sharptown, Baron Creek, Quantico and Tyaskin.

MR. WILLIAMS WRITES OF THE WEST.

An Enjoyable Trip Across the Country And A Visit to Many Interesting Points.

A letter to one of the editors of the ADVERTISER from Mr. Jay Williams, who, with his wife and son, is traveling in the West, conveys the pleasant information that all the party are enjoying excellent health, each having gained in weight and buoyancy since leaving Salisbury July 16th. Writing from Colorado Springs, Mr. Williams says:

"We found Denver to be a clear bright city. It is just one mile above sea-level. I am told that there are very few days in the year when it is not bright and clear in Denver. Its great cleanliness, healthfulness and surrounding beauty make it a very attractive city and a very popular place for conventions. So many people visit the city that special electric observation cars and automobiles are provided for visitors with competent guides to take one over all the city at a very nominal sum and point out all points of interest and answer all questions asked for information. Among the many handsome buildings there is the State Capitol, which we visited. It is built of Colorado granite at a cost of $2,000,000. To say it is beautiful is putting it modestly. It is fine. It reminds one as you approach it from the front, of the National Capitol at Washington. In it, besides the State department, the executive, legislative and Supreme Court, there are the mineral and horticultural exhibits, the museum of natural history and war relics, all of which are very full, interesting and complete.

I find Methodism strong in the West. We went to Trinity M. E. Church Sunday. It is a very large handsome stone structure. It had an immense organ said to be next to the largest in the United States. I was delighted with the music and pleased with the manner in which the choir director, standing near pastor between choir and people, beat time and brought out the sense of the hymn and the spirit of the song. We also on Sunday attended the First Baptist Church in order to see and hear General Hallington Booth of New York, the leader of the Salvation Army. He is a very plain looking man, a slow speaker, using choice language and apparently weighing every word before he uttered it. He spoke without notes, and he spoke as one very deeply in earnest in the effort to elevate humanity and to alleviate the suffering of the poor and needy. After the address, the chairman told the audience that Gen. Booth was a great musician, and played on several different instruments; that he had one of his instruments with him, upon which, at his request, Gen. Booth entertained the audience with some very sweet music. He told how that upon one occasion he had been asked to furnish the music for some music upon the same instrument. The chairman asked him the name of the instrument. He told him it was an Anglo-Germanic Harmonica. Oh! he says I cannot remember all that. Give me some name easier to remember. The General replied, "Tell them it is a Concertina." Then the chairman told the audience that Gen. Booth would furnish them some music on his "concert screamer."

While in the hotel Sunday morning on my way to breakfast we met my old friend N. Walter Dixon. I introduced to him Mrs. Williams and Everett, and we had a long chat in the hall, and as he was on his way to breakfast, we went to breakfast together. Dixon resides at Pueblo, but has a daughter married residing at Denver. He went from Princess Anne to Colorado several years ago, and after being in Colorado about four years, was elected Judge, and has held the position by reelection ever since. Judge Dixon is older than I. He was Senior at St. John's College at Annapolis when I was in the Freshman Class. I was afterwards in conversation with the post-master of Colorado Springs, who told me he knew Judge Dixon, and spoke very favorably of him. I could see no change in him. It seems to me he looks the same as when I knew him as College Schoolmate, as fellow teacher at Cristfield where I taught with him in 1883, and as lawyer at Princess Anne, where he for a time practiced law. He told me that Mr. James E. Ellegood took him by surprise by calling on him at his Chambers a few days ago. He said he was always pleased to see anyone from the "Eastern Shore."

We drove over to South Cheyenne Canon Monday morning. This is one of the prettiest drives about the Springs. The grounds including the Seven Falls belong to Hull Bros. and you may calculate how beautiful and attractive the scenery by the number who visit it, when you consider that although the admission fee is only 25 cents, yet from this source the income to Hull Bros. last year was over $40,000.00. The drive is beautiful all along with stream fringed with Willows and Cottonwood. These as you near the Canon give way to the spruce and other green foliage. Then you come to the great cliff in the granite mountain—then you pass into the canon, past "Eagle Cliff" till you come to "The Pillars of Hercules", then we begin the climb up the Seven Falls—very, very steep, but the grandeur and beauty are so great that we cannot stop till we have reached the top where the water of the stream begins to tumble and whirl till it has made seven leaps down the sharp stone precipices. Nothing daunted with this steep climb, we followed the very steep mountain trail till we came to the spot where Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson was at her request buried near the spot where she wrote her stories. A lady in our party sitting on the very rock on which Mrs. Jackson is said to have sat when she wrote, remarked that she did not wonder that Mrs. Jackson could be inspired to write with such beautiful surroundings. From that spot far up the Mountains, Manitou, Colorado City, Colorado Springs and The Garden of the Gods down in the valley seemed to lay at our feet—it was a grand view. But the tourists would not respect her grave; they would keep getting bits of stone and other items for souvenirs—So her husband who is a rich banker yet living and residing in the Springs, had her body removed and buried in the city cemetery.

Monday afternoon we took the drive through Manitou, the Garden of the Gods, and the private park connected with it and by the residence of Gen. Palmer, President of the Denver & Rio Grande R. E. Co., and the owner of this hotel, the Antlers, the largest and finest hotel in the Springs. This is also a very interesting and beautiful drive. We had some fun in having our photographs taken on burros at the bal anee rock in the Garden of the Gods.

On Tuesday morning we went over "the Short Line" to Cripple Creek, the gold fields. A friend, whom we met on the train, from Brooklyn owning considerable stock in two mines, gave us a bag of gold ore from his mines. This of course, we very much appreciated, as it is valuable and makes splendid souvenirs.

On this trip we made the acquaintance of Mr. Dana, the postmaster of Colorado Springs who in turn introduced us to Wm. Lennox, President of one of the largest Mining Companies, and a large stock-holder in the Short Line R. E. I had a long talk with him, concerning mining and other matters of information to me. The output from these mines last year was about $25,500,000.00. The supply is apparently inexhaustible.

On Wednesday we went to Pikes Peak, and climbed upon the tower built on the summit, and viewed the Country around from the telescope. It was a grand view. But as it was snowing at the time and the thermometer falling we could not stay up there long. I notice the thermometer was 40° when I reached the summit. In half hour afterwards it had fallen 5° and it was 85° when I left about 15 or 20 minutes later. Everett and I had some fun at snow balling in the snow while on the summit. When at the telescope we were 14207 feet above sea level. The ascent especially when near the summit is fearfully grand.

Colorado Spring and Manitou are very attractive, beautiful, healthful resorts. I could enjoy a long stay here if I could but spare the time, but I must pass on. I cannot be away too long. "There is no place like home" after all. Yours Faithfully,
JAY WILLIAMS.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture, Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Maryland and Delaware Section, week ending Monday, July 28th., says: It now seems a certainty that all kinds of fruit will be scarce in Maryland and Delaware this year. Apples are going to market, but the early varieties are not much of a crop in any district, and in places they are rotting badly on the trees. Peaches are scarce, and continue to drop; in a few places they are fairly promising, but the present damp and cloudy weather induces rot on the trees, and prevents the shipped fruit from keeping well. Japan plums are ripening, but there is much of the fruit that is imperfect.

WHAT BEING A CANDIDATE COSTS.
 Wm. S. Devery, the "Big Chief", of the Ninth Assembly district of New York City who hopes to be elected Tammany leader, gave an excursion up the Hudson last Wednesday to 20,000 of the women and children of his constituents. Here is a list of the provisions taken along to feed the party:

- Five thousand pounds of roast beef,
- 2,000 pounds of corned beef, 200 hams,
- 2 barrels of sugar, 4 tubs of butter, 50 barrels of potatoes, 25 crates of cooked tomatoes for chowder, 10 crates of raw tomatoes, 500 heads of cabbage, 250 pounds of coffee and 20 pounds of chicory.
- Three thousand nursing bottles, 2 barrels of onions, 20 pounds of pepper, 24 bags of salt, 15 gallons of catsup, 250 baskets of clams, 1,500 gallons of ice-cream, 80 barrels of pilot crackers, 7 gallons of mustard.
- Eight thousand quarts of milk, 1,000 pounds of fancy cakes, 1,500 boxes of sarsaparilla and soda water, 20 tons of ice, 5 gallons of vinegar.
- Three thousand large pies, 8,000 pounds of mixed candy, 1,400 bags of popcorn, 10 barrels of birch beer.
- Four bands of music, a comic opera troupe and a large troupe of vaudeville performers were taken along to entertain the party. Ten doctors, a dozen professional nurses and a life saving crew were on hand to meet any emergency.

WHAT BAD ROADS COST.

An exchange says; It has been shown, after careful inquiry, that the average haul of the American farmer in getting his produce to market, or to the nearest shipping agent, is 12 miles. The average cost per ton for hauling over the common country roads is 25c. per ton per mile, or $3 per ton for a 12 mile haul. Careful estimates also place the total tons hauled at 200,000,000 per year and the average haul at 12 miles making the total cost of getting the surplus products of the farm to the local market or the railroad, $900,000,000. This figure is greater than the operating expenses of all the railroads in the United States, which for the year ended June 1898, were only $818,000,000.

—Republican protestations of hostility to the trusts voiced under a panicky apprehension of defeat in the approaching Congressional elections have no effect upon the popular mind at this late day. The record of the Republican party is that of unflinching obedience to the will of the trusts. The political record of the trusts is that of unwavering financial and moral support of the Republican party. The two have been in close partnership ever since the trusts were nursed to strength by the malign operation of a high protective tariff.

The people have suffered grievously as a result of this partnership. They know that, to get rid of the trusts, they must get rid of the high protective tariff. They know that to get rid of the high protective tariff they must get rid of the Republican party in control of the Government.—St. Louis Republic.

—"The people who cast the votes have the power to enforce the order that they be protected against the trusts instead of the trusts against foreign business rivals, whom they are already underselling in the foreign market. And every proof of the misapplication of the high tariff system, such as Mr. Schwab furnishes, will incite the voters to exercise their authority at the polls."

And this from such a good Republican authority as ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker.

On last Saturday, in a grove on the farm of J. A. Gorden, near Union Bridge, the annual reunion of the Farmers' Club was held.

A Narrow Escape.
 Hon. Edgar W. McMaster, School Examiner of Worcester county, was in Snow Hill Tuesday, and spoke with some reserve of the terrible and probably fatal accident which he averted by the exercise of great presence of mind at a critical moment. Mr. McMaster, beside his public duties, is engaged in farming, and on his farm near Pocomoke City, he employs the most advanced and approved methods and machinery. While superintending the running of some machinery, a few days ago, his coat in some inexplicable manner caught in a rapidly revolving cog-wheel. Although he drew back with all his strength, the tough fiber of the goods held together without yielding or tearing, and he found himself being drawn nearer and nearer to a horrible death. Realizing his imminent danger, and the necessity for immediate action, Mr. McMaster, with a presence of mind marvelous for one in such extremity, succeeded in slipping out of his coat just as the greedy cog wheel was about to claim its human victim. Mr. McMaster's arm was grazed by the cogs, but otherwise he escaped unharmed.—Snow Hill Messenger.

Camp Near Sharptown.
 The Annual Campmeeting to be held by Union Circuit, M. P. Church, near Sharptown will begin on August 8th., and hold ten days. Camps have been held on these grounds for several years and there are more than fifty tents. Several who were desirous of tenting this year, were unable to get sites on the circle. Some changes and improvements will be made this year, and a pleasant time is expected. Hacks will run regularly from Sharptown to the camp.

The following preachers will be present and preach during the camp: Rev. F. T. Little, Pres. of the Conference, A. D. Melvin, J. M. Holmes, James Nichols, A. W. Mather, C. F. Nowlin, C. K. McCarlin, E. S. Fooks, Frank Clift, Thomas Wheeler, W. H. Kenney, Louis Randall and E. H. Miller. Rev. J. H. Johnson, the pastor has charge of the camp.

Baptists Have Large Meeting.
 Ocean City, Md., July 30.—The meeting of the Eastern Shore Baptists was held here today at the Oceanic Excursion Pavilion. In point of numbers it was the largest gathering of Baptists ever held on the Eastern Shore. Thirty-five coaches arrived, bringing nearly 3,000 persons. Ministers present were as follows: Rev. A. F. Williamson, of Philadelphia, Superintendent of Maryland Missions; Rev. S. G. Redding, of Hampton Baptist Church, Baltimore; Rev. J. H. Fizer, of Easton; Rev. Mr. Ford, of Cambridge; Rev. Charles Aday, of Marion; Rev. E. S. Tuttle, of Crisfield; Rev. S. K. Slemons, of Delmar; Rev. D. M. Lenox, of Salisbury.

Eastern Shore Shirt Combine.
 Easton, Md., July 31.—It has been decided to make the Salisbury Shirt Factory the headquarters for a combination of Eastern Shore shirt manufacturers, the cutting to be done at the Salisbury factory for the others in the combination, and the laundry, boxing and stripping forces to be concentrated at Salisbury. This does away with the laundry force here, throwing a large number out of employment, compelling them to leave Easton and seek work elsewhere.

—After a battle of eight rounds at San Francisco, Cal., with Robt. Fitzsimmons, Jas. J. Jefferies established his claim as the champion heavy-weight pugilist of the world. In the eighth round Jefferies knocked out Fitzsimmons, but not until after he had been badly punished. The idea seemed to prevail that Fitzsimmons would win the fight, but in a pause in which he stopped to speak, Jefferies landed two blows in quick succession and Fitzsimmons fell to the floor. A very large crowd witnessed the fight.

—There was some pretty good horse-racing at the Country Club track last Thursday afternoon. The first was a trotting contest between A. H. Perdue's Raymond Bell, Walter Miller's Winniewood, and Wm. M. Day's James S. All the horses were driven by their owners except James S. who was driven by Hudson. Raymond Bell won in three straight heats; best time 2:38. The next race was for pacers. The entries were David Ward's mare Lady Godfrey and E. Lee Waller's horse Peter Jackson. The mare won three out of four heats, in fast time.

No Summer Bowel Troubles

You may say I am safe from all of them and happy. You may not be as safe as you think for. The heat of summer causes organic matter to decay everywhere. All dead vegetable or animal matter rots if not kept on ice. All undigested food in the human body will ferment one hundred times as quickly in summer as in winter. Consequence—stomach, liver, bowels poisoned and thrown out of order, sour stomach, gases, colic, diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera, appendicitis. Little children suffer terribly everywhere. The proper thing to do is to use Truitt's Cholera Mixture, the only reliable, safe remedy because it cures diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera morbus, cramp colic, etc.

TALMAGE SERMON

By Rev. FRANK DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D., Pastor of Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church, Chicago

Chicago, July 27.—In this discourse Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage shows how the qualities which characterize a successful fisherman may be utilized in Christian work.

Are you a fisherman? "Oh, yes," you answer; "I have been a fisherman all my life. As Izaak Walton, the father of angling, used to say that true fishermen, like poets, were born, not made, so I was born with a love for the rod and the reel. As a little boy, many and many a time I have been late for school because I loitered on the way under the shadow of the old wooden bridge to cast a crooked pin used for a hook. Now that I am grown I love to go back to the scene where I was born. I love to wade in the old familiar brook and catch the speckled trout. I love to take a boat and pull out into the river which flows through the valley where my father is buried and try to coax with my hook the black bass and the timid perch."

No, my friend, you are not a true fisherman. A true fisherman is one whose life employment, not his summer vacation, is devoted to catching fish. You are no more a fisherman than William M. Evarts was a farmer. Mr. Evarts for recreation used to play at farming. He used to take the money which he made as a lawyer in New York city and put it into his Vermont farm. But Mr. Evarts never made a living off his Vermont farm. Farming was such an expensive luxury to him that one day while he was entertaining some fellow senators at his farm he offered them in one hand a glass of milk and in the other a glass of champagne as he said, "Take your choice, gentlemen; they both cost me the same."

There is just as much difference between the man who makes his living by fishing and one who fishes for sport as there is between the man who farms to make a living and the man who farms for recreation. It is the difference between work and play. It is the difference between the man who sets sail in the fishing smack from Nantucket or New Bedford and spends six long months off the banks of Newfoundland, facing the dangers of tempest and collision, and the man who paddles about in a canoe on a quiet stream. It is the difference between the man who is ready to defy the dangers of Lake Galilee—the most treacherous inland sea in the world—and the man who stands upon a rock on a sunny afternoon and casts his expensive line into the brook for a few hours' pastime.

The Fishermen of Galilee

Now, the two brothers, Peter and Andrew, to whom Christ spoke the words of my text upon the shores of Lake Galilee, were real fishermen. They were not dilettanti. They did not go out into the country for a few days with a hundred dollar pole to catch a dollar's worth of fish; but they made fishing their life's business. They belonged to what is perhaps the bravest class of men on earth—the fishermen. Christ, when he saw them mending their nets, turned and said: "Come, leave your nets and follow me. Give up your work of catching fish and I will teach you how you may use your energy and bravery and consecration and will make you fishers of men. Come with me and I will make you fishers in the great troubled sea of humanity and will call you my gospel fishermen."

The true gospel fisherman is a one purposed man, whose life is dedicated to the single object of saving souls. Every sportsman knows that it is an impossibility for a successful fisherman to think of anything else but his fish at the time of fishing. He cannot plan about business and attend to his line. He cannot read a book and watch his bait. He cannot dream of the woods and troll at the same time. When a real fisherman fishes, he concentrates his entire attention upon his fishing and excludes every other thought from his brain. Because fishing is so fascinating and absorbing, some of the greatest men of the world have found their recreation in the sport. Daniel Webster, whom the Massachusetts fishermen used to call Black Dan because he became so sunburned when fishing with Sergeant S. Prentiss off the shoals of Nantucket, used to forget his senatorial cares in watching his line. Christopher North, the intellectual giant of old Scotland, prolonged his life far into the eighties by his habit of running a reel from Edinburgh with his rod and reel. Chester A. Arthur and Grover Cleveland at every opportunity would exchange the comforts of the stately White House for the absorbing delight of baiting a hook and casting a line.

So a man cannot become a true gospel fisherman unless he consecrates himself, body and mind and soul, to the one purpose of saving men. He must live and eat and breathe and sleep only for the hope of bringing sinful men and women to Christ. He must be as deeply absorbed in the work of saving souls as was John Knox, who used to arise frequently in the middle of the night to pray. And one night, while he was pleading with God to help him in the work of saving souls, his wife chided him and told him to come back to bed. The great reformer turned and said, "Woman, how can I sleep when my country is not saved? Then he continued his supplications with this earnest cry: "O God, give me Scotland or I die!"

Put Your Mind into the Work.

Never was I more impressed with the thought that in order to be a true gospel fisherman a man must surrender himself, body, mind and soul, to the Master's service than when some years ago I went with a party of gentlemen fishing for Atlantic flounders. At that time I was not much of a fisherman. I was so absorbed in the beauties of nature that when I threw out my line I would forget all about it, and the fish would come and nibble off the bait and swim away. In the meantime I was admiring the curving waves; I was watching the winds pile up the clouds into valleys and mountains and domes and arches and fortresses and obelisks; I was watching the sea gulls take their morning baths or swoop down to clutch a fish in their talons, and then with a wild cry start away for the nests where their young were clamoring for food. And as I watched those sea gulls my mind wandered on, and I soliloquized: "What if death had slain my father and mother when I was young just as a cruel marksman for mere sport might shoot yonder bird? Would I then have died as the bird fledgling would die of starvation, or would I have lived to grow up a Christian man or have fallen into crime and finally been put behind iron bars as a convict?" And thus I dreamed the whole day away and only caught one small fish! But right alongside of me was a man who had the same kind of bait, the same kind of line and practically the same position. He differed from me only in the fact that he put his whole body and mind into his work. He did not go down New York harbor to watch the clouds or the birds or the waves. He went to fish, and he fished until the perspiration rolled off his face in streams; he fished until his hands were dirty and his till his clothes were dirty. He fished until he forgot everything but his line. But the result of putting his whole force into his work was a basketful of at least fifty or sixty big flounders. So, my brother, if you and I are to become one purposed Christians, if we want to live to save men, we must surrender ourselves, body, mind and soul, to the service of the Lord Jesus Christ. We must leave our worldly mementoes by the shores of Lake Galilee and follow him. Jesus demands that we make his service a life's consecration, not a Sabbath's recreation. He demands unceasing toil, not a summer's sport.

The True Gospel Fisherman

The true gospel fisherman is a brave man. We have been taught to regard the soldier as among the bravest of men. True, it needs a brave heart to stand unblanched amid a storm of shot and shell and to walk up to the cannon's mouth when the bullets are falling around like hail pattering upon the pavements. But the soldier never has to face great dangers continuously, like those the fisherman has to meet. I suppose that among all the different classes of men there is not one among which the destruction of life proportionately is so great as among the men who make the harvest of the sea their avocation or life work.

During a recent journey across the Atlantic and after we had been out a couple of days from New York harbor I saw two men pointing to a dark cloud ahead. I heard one of them say: "We are going to have a bad night. That is the Newfoundland fog bank." Soon the thick mists began to settle around us. All that night the gloomy fog horn blew. I said to the commander of the Cunarder: "Captain, why do you blow that terrific fog horn? Surely the danger of collision with a passing steamer is comparatively small." "Ah," answered the captain, "we are blowing the fog horn chiefly to warn the fishermen. All about these waters are hundreds of little fishing smacks. The fishermen come here and anchor. They stay month in, and month out until they catch their cargo, and scores and scores of these poor fellows are run down every year. We want to warn them, if possible, that we are coming along." Go to any of the little fishing towns along the rocky coasts of old Scotland. There you will find women who have lost fathers and brothers and husbands and sons in the awful dangers of a fisherman's life. Every seaman will tell you that the perils of a sailor's life are comparatively nothing if there are only thirty, fatboms of water under the ship's keel. But the fisherman rarely puts out to the deep sea. He must fish comparatively near the shore. Then the storms come up and threaten to drive the frail craft upon the rocks. Then the fog settles so thickly that the steersman can hardly see the prow of the boat from the stern. Yes, the true fisherman's life, whether it is found on Lake Galilee or off the coasts of Scotland or in the Newfoundland fog, is a life of overwhelming danger. Brave must be the man who would follow so perilous an avocation.

So the gospel fishermen, too, must be brave men! They must be as courageous as were Peter and Andrew, who, to become gospel fishermen, laid down their lives for Christ. They must be as brave as the heroic Father Damien, who in order to minister to the sick and the dying went to Molokai, the Leper island of the Pacific, and himself became a leper and died. They must be as brave as that Salvation Army girl who stands and sings and prays upon the street corner amid the scoffs and the ridicule of the passers-by and who penetrates the dark alleys, humanly unprotected, to seek out souls for Christ. They have to be as brave as that young Christian clerk who goes from saloon to saloon giving out gospel tracts and leading in prayer where the proprietor will allow him to pray. To show the kind of heroic stuff out of which the gospel fishermen are made I would point you to the tragic history of the greatest missionary of the Fiji Islands as he personally told it to me. Many years ago the cannibals of those islands killed and ate the first missionary who had been sent there by the London Missionary Society. Immediately after that event this missionary, then a young man, applied for appointment to the post of danger. He went forth with his young bride to what most of their friends thought was certain death. When the ship dropped anchor in the harbor of Suva, the native chief sent out word, "Give us another missionary, and we will make a meal out of him." In the face of that threat and of all these dangers the young missionary and his bride disembarked. For ten long years they never saw the face of a white man, except when the missionary supply boat made its biennial visit. The young missionary's children were born there, in the woods. Two of his children died because he had no proper medicine. He lived there alone with his heroic wife until he transformed the whole island. Such is the career of one heroic gospel fisherman. Are you and I ready to be as brave for Christ as were that noble missionary and his devoted wife? Are we ready to be inspired with that holy fearlessness and disregard of ourselves that we may save souls for Christ wherever we can find them, which all Christ's fishers of men should show in his service?

The true gospel fisherman must be spiritually a strong man. Peter and Andrew, to whom Christ spoke, were net fishermen. I think they rarely, if ever, fished with a line or a pole. They were in all probability the kind of fishermen you perhaps have seen off the Massachusetts coast. There the fishermen fasten their net to stakes that have been driven into the ground and the tops of which can be seen above the surface of the sea. They were physically strong men, else they could not have handled and set the nets, or they may have been fishermen who watched the surface of the sea, just as the fishermen used to do along the Long Island coast. Then, as soon as the sea would be ruffled by the schools of swarming fish, the signal flag would be lifted, the fishermen would gather upon the beach, and the longboat, filled with the piled up net, would be launched. Then the fishermen on shore would hold a rope attached to one end of the net, and the boat would be rowed out around the school of fish. Then, when the whole net had been "paid out," the boat would approach the shore, the other end of the net attached by a rope to the stern. Then the men would begin to pull the ropes at either end of the net, dragging the fish nearer and nearer to the shore until at last they would capture the whole school. Yes, those fishermen had to be physically strong men. Their nerves had to be steady, their muscles firm, or they could never have dragged in those heavy nets burdened with many fish.

A Strong Spirit Needed

The true gospel fisherman must be spiritually, as well as physically, a strong man. The gospel net of faith is a wide net, a long net, a heavy net, and unless supernatural power be given to the gospel fisherman he will never be able to handle it. How could Charles G. Finney have been able to lead thousands and tens of thousands of immortal souls to Christ unless he had been spiritually a strong man. In his own strength as a gospel fisherman he could do nothing, but with Christ he could do all things. To show how absolutely Mr. Finney depended upon divine strength for the handling of the gospel net, one of my old Pittsburgh elders used to tell me of a remarkable scene he once witnessed in a New York theater. Mr. Finney was preaching there, and the building was packed with people. After the noted evangelist had been speaking about ten minutes, he suddenly stopped and said: "Brethren, the Holy Spirit's influence is not here today. We must get the reinforcement of the divine power, else we are helpless. Let us pray." With that he knelt upon the stage, and he prayed until the audience was melted to tears. He prayed, and such was the re-enforcement of divine strength that at meeting that the gospel net gathered the sinners in by the score and by the hundreds, although during that entire service Charles G. Finney did not preach another word. He simply prayed—pleadingly prayed. How could John or Charles Wesley, or George Whitefield, or George Muller, or D. L. Moody, ever have handled the gospel net as he did unless he had been spiritually inspired and strengthened, unless he had been a man of deep faith and fervent prayer?

The Christian believer must be spiritually inspired if he is ever to become a successful fisher of men. My mother used to impress this thought upon me all my life, and especially did she try to do so after I had entered the gospel ministry. There was hardly a letter which she sent to me after my ordination that did not read like this: "My dear boy, it is important for you to be mentally equipped for your church. But, remember, a true gospel minister is essentially one who is inspired by the Holy Spirit. You cannot lead souls to Christ unless you yourself are divinely inspired. You cannot lead souls to Christ unless you have been much in communion with God, unless much upon your knees in prayer. You must plead at the mercy seat in your own home if you would plead rightly for 'Christ in the pulpit.' The mother cannot become a fisher of men and lead her children into spiritual lives unless herself has experienced this divine inspiration. The Sunday school teacher cannot lead his class to the feet of Christ unless he himself has first been baptized by the Holy Spirit. The minister cannot truly preach Christ unless he has first taken Christ into his own heart and life. Peter and Andrew became gospel fishermen because they themselves had first seen the Master's face and obeyed his voice when he said, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men."

The Importance of Revivals

People have often asked me whether I believed in revivals of religion. Of course I do. Every one of the different Protestant denominations has been started under the influence of a revival. Nearly all the mighty men of God, past or present, have confessed the Saviour through the influence which has directly or indirectly come from some revival. But revival services can do harm as well as good. When a great number of sinners are brought to Christ through the influence of a revival and then neglected, nobody looking after the converts, nobody caring for them, nobody trying to have them identified with a Sunday school class, a prayer meeting, a Christian Endeavor society or Christian work of any kind, there is an awful lack somewhere. It is all important to lead men to Christ, but it is also important not to let them backslide by neglecting them after they have once been brought to the feet of Jesus.

A few years ago in Neuchatel, Switzerland, a number of Christian men and women got together for an interesting experiment. They meant to see what personal work among the criminal classes might do for the Master. The criminal records of that county showed that 66 per cent of all criminals liberated from the penitentiary usually returned to crime and ultimately went back to the convict cells to serve out a second and a third term. So these Christian men and women put into practice this plain, simple plan: Whenever a criminal was incarcerated some one of their number was detailed to look after that convict. In a sense he was the prisoner's guardian. This gospel fisherman would visit the cell; he would pray with the prisoner; he would send him books and give him advice, and when that convict had served his term this Christian guardian would find work and set him upon his feet. Did this gospel plan work? The records of that county of Neuchatel proved that by this gospel process the number of the returned convicts was decreased over 50 per cent. Instead of 66 per cent of criminals being returned to the penitentiary for a second or a third term there was only 12 per cent. So it is not only important for the gospel fisherman to bring souls to Christ, but it is also important to have the new converts interested in and identified with Christian work. When an immortal soul is brought to the mercy seat, the true work for the gospel fisherman has just begun. If a sinner is allowed to confess Christ and then on account of the indifference of so-called Christian friends allowed to drift back into sin, his last condition is worse than his first.

Under the Master's Eye

But the true gospel fisherman is always working under the Master's eye, whether Christ's face is visible to him or no. After Peter and Andrew became Christ's fishermen he never left them. One night when these brethren, with John the Beloved, who was also a fisherman, and some of the other disciples, were tossing about on Lake Galilee they thought they were going to be drowned, but Christ was watching their struggles, and in the fourth watch of the night, or just about 5 o'clock in the morning, Jesus was seen walking toward them upon the waves of Lake Galilee. And after the crucifixion, when Peter and his brethren went back to their old avocation of fishing, Jesus again appeared upon them by the shores of Lake Galilee and told them to cast their nets upon the other side of the boat. The true gospel fisherman can feel that Christ is always ready to help him; that Christ will always come to his rescue when the waters of trouble begin to roll too high and the mists are settling too thickly around the gospel lifeboat.

Christ's care for his gospel fishermen is a constant and tender care. In the Scotch fishing villages the mothers and wives and daughters illustrate by a beautiful custom which prevails among them their care for their sons and husbands and brothers who have gone off to fish. When the fogs settle down upon the coast and the lighthouses can no longer be seen, the women go out and sit upon the rocks. When the returning fishermen begin to approach the shores and while yet unseen, they start a fishers' song. The loved ones waiting upon the rocks listen until they hear the familiar notes wafted through the fog. Then the mothers and wives and daughters and sweethearts also begin to sing, and the fishermen, hearing the voices of their loved ones, know which way to steer. So when the gospel fishermen in times of trouble call to Christ he always answers their call. And the Saviour's voice, sounding clear amid the voices of the loved ones who have gone beyond, will ultimately guide the gospel fishermen from the troubled sea of life into the great harbor of eternal peace.

Are you and I willing to become gospel fishermen? Are we ready to be one purposed Christians, ready to be fearless, ready to be spiritually inspired, to become Christ's fishers of men? Are we ready to surrender ourselves, body, mind and soul, to the service of the Lord? When Dr. Nett, who for years labored among the south sea islanders, was one day asking a native to give his life up to the service of the Master, the missionary explained, "I can only afford to pay you 15 shillings a month for your services." With that the native said, "Sir, I cannot afford to give up my time for 15 shillings a month, but I can afford to give it up for Christ." Like the south sea islander, have you such love for Christ that you are ready to consecrate your life to the Master's service regardless of remuneration, so that you may become one of his fishers of men?

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depends upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be toward the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose. Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Take care of what you eat, when you eat, and how you eat, and your stomach will take care of itself. But who takes care of such trivial things? That is why, someday, the majority of people have to take care of the stomach. It cures biliousness, heartburn, flatulence, indigestion, palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities and a score of other ailments which are but the symptoms of disorder in the stomach and its allied organs.

SHARPTOWN

The campmeeting closed on Monday morning and the people moved home, closing their tents until another year. Those who remained at the camp expressed themselves as having a pleasant outing. The many showers during the week interfered somewhat with the attendance, but on last Sunday there were quite a number gathered in. The campmeeting brought a great many of our town people living elsewhere here and this added materially to the social delights of the town as well as the camp. Joseph Kenney had the boarding tent, B. P. Gravenor, the horse pound and M. H. Bennett & Bro., the confectionery. It was generally understood that the camp would be held in 1903, beginning about the last of July, and embracing three Sundays. The receipts came from the following: Gate receipts for tickets sold, one dollar ground rent for each tent, and the privileges there being no collections taken. Nearly all the ministers whose names appeared in our list before the camp began were present and preaching service was regular when weather would permit, usually followed by prayer and song service. There were so very many visitors, friends and relatives here during the camp we find it next to impossible to give all their names. Suffice it to say there were but few disappointments, nearly everybody came who was expected.

It is reported that Capt. Wm. F. Donoho who has for several years resided in this district, on the Isaac Taylor place, will move at the end of the year, near Mardela, on the Wm. Darby farm, owned by Wm. Graham.

The school here is without a principal as Mr. Mayo, who was recently appointed, has resigned and accepted the principalship of the High School at Delaware City.

The remains of the infant child of Roland Smith and wife of Camden were brought here last week and interred.

WEST.

Quite a heavy rain fell in this section on Tuesday and another one on Wednesday consequently all vegetation seems to have been enlivened. But it seemed to interfere very much in the attendance at the various festivals held in different places Wednesday.

Order of Publication.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate in Wicomico County and State of Maryland of which Jackson Brown, late of said County, died seized and possessed, for the purpose of division amongst the parties entitled thereto.

The bill states that Jackson Brown was in his lifetime and at the time of his death seized and possessed of certain real estate, which is particularly described in said bill, that being so seized and possessed, he departed this life intestate about the year 1881, leaving surviving him at present the following heirs, James Elliott, a son of a deceased daughter, Lottie Phillips, Maggie Cox, Bertie Lloyd, Zenobia Howard, Georgia Evans and Katie Bailey, daughters of Sallie Horseman, a deceased daughter; John Bradley, a son of a deceased daughter; Clara Jackson a daughter; Glen Howard, infant great-grandson; Rodney A. Horseman, infant son of a deceased daughter; Lorenzo Bradley, infant son of a deceased daughter; Eula Bradley, infant daughter of a deceased daughter; and Myrtle Bradley, infant daughter of a deceased daughter, all of whom reside in said Wicomico County, Isaac Elliott, son of a deceased daughter, residing in Talbot County in said State, Clara Bedworth, daughter of a deceased daughter, residing in Worcester County in said State, Lizzie Corkran, daughter of a deceased daughter, and Estel M. Jackson, an infant great-grand daughter, both residing in Dorchester County in said State, and George Brown, a son who married Annie Brown, Burton Brown, a son who married Sarah Brown, and Perry Brown, who are non-residents of the State of Maryland, residing in the State of Virginia, to whom the said real estate has descended; that the said real estate is not susceptible of partition without material loss and injury to the parties entitled to interest therein, and that in order to make division of said interests, it will be necessary that the said real estate be sold and the proceeds thereof divided amongst the parties according to their several interests, and prays for a decree for a sale of the said property and a distribution of the proceeds amongst the parties entitled thereto according to their respective rights and interests.

It is thereupon this 1st day of August 1902, ordered by the Circuit Court for said Wicomico County in Equity that the complainants, by causing a copy of this order to be published in said Wicomico County once in each of four successive weeks before the 30th day of August 1902, give notice to the said non-resident defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 15th day of September 1902, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.
