MR. WALTER B. MILLER County Treasurer's Office And The Mortgage Tax.

To The Public:

Mr. Walter B. Miller, the Republican Candidate for State Senator, has publicly declared, in his political speeches in Wicomico County during the present campaign that the Democratic officials in Wicomico County are incompetent, inefficient, and dishonest; that the Treasurer's office in particular was run in a loose and careless manner, and that he was unable to get a correct bill rendered from the said office for taxes.

He has further stated that it was his intention to make a published statement of such inaccuracies.

As this is the last issue of any paper in Wicomico County before the day of election, it will be impossible for me to correct any misrepresentation that may be made, or any explanations if such be necessary. I take this opportunity of giving the facts known to me in reference to the conduct of our affairs and those of my office in particular.

As Treasurer and Collector of Taxes for Wicomico, I deny any such accusations and think that at the present time, and from the particular source they are entirely unfounded.

In the first place I wish to say that I do not claim infallibility either for myself or for my subordinates, and it is possible that among the thousands of bills rendered yearly from the office some errors might be discovered in fact it would be remarkable if some of the bills were not so rendered.

In all the years of my experience in business affairs I have not yet found the man who never makes mistakes, and we are inclined to think that Mr. Miller himself would be found no exception to this rule, and that his infallibility would be found to exist only in his own delusive imagination.

Mr. Miller repeatedly has declared publicly that the local affairs of Wicomico County were admirably managed, and he has repeatedly commended the management of the County Treasurer's office under my administration, up to the time I became his opponent for the office of State Senator, and these complimentary references were made long after the rendering of the alleged erroneous bills, and even since my re-nomination for the office of County Treasurer.

My administration met with his approval then, it seems strange and remarkable that as soon as I have become his opponent for office, I suddenly became, in his opinion, an inefficient and incompetent officer.

Let us look for the reason of this "usual" somersault in Mr. Miller's opinions.

As is generally known, Mr. Miller is a large holder of mortgages in this county, which under the laws of the State are subject to taxation and on which he paid taxes up to the year 1905, when he declined to pay further taxes on said mortgages, and decided to contest the law.

Whereupon the County Commissioners instituted an amicable and friendly suit which suit has been decided against him in the lower courts.

After the charges which Mr. Miller publicly made as to the general incompetency and dishonesty of our officials, I referred to him on the stamp in this county as being "in the eyes of the law" a "tax dodger," which I still maintain and re-iterate.

While this statement was not made against him personally, it seems to have been made against him and he suddenly became an incapable incompetent public official and he has made an incapable incompetent public official and he has made an incapable incompetent public official and he has made an incapable incompetent public official.

I regret exceedingly that Mr. Miller's apparent consuming desire to represent Wicomico County in the State Senate has caused his judgement to become warped and has started him upon a campaign of abuse and misrepresentation of our Democratic officials who have heretofore always met with his approval and confidence.

As far as myself am concerned I prefer the approval and confidence of my fellow citizens to that of the honor of holding any office in the gift of the people.

To the Honorable, The Board of Commissioners of Wicomico County, Salisbury, Maryland.

Gentlemen:—In compliance with the request of your President, Mr. William M. Cooper, I beg to advise you that I have completed an examination of the accounts of your Treasurer, Mr. Jesse D. Price, from December 1st, 1905 to November 30th, 1906.

I have verified each Quarterly Report in the time mentioned as well as examined the Cash Book, making the necessary corrections which were very trifling indeed and in the aggregate amounted to $2.27, which amount has been accounted for in Quarterly Report for Quarter ending November 30th, 1906 and which was a credit to the Treasurer. Vouchers are on file for every cent expended in that time and the amount to balance $12414.28 on deposits in bank and on hand in change.

In reference to vouchers the only in formal one and to which I wish to call your attention, is September 30, 1905, payable to Jesse D. Price, Treasurer, for balance purposes $181.08, this voucher does not seem to have been approved by the Board of Commissioners.

I would suggest that more systematic attention be paid to all vouchers being approved by your Honorable Board. The system is better now than in the past but I feel that I should call your attention to the same.

I wish to complement the book-keepers of the office on the very neat and legible condition of all the books and records; all matters are easily traced and the only additional books that I would suggest would be a daily book in conjunction with the present Cash Book System, which contains the days work in totals.

I have taken care to go into the Levies of 1904 and 1905 separately, to prove that there is still unpaid in those years on the tax books the difference between the amount of the Levy and the amount paid to your Board for which the Treasurer holds your receipt and the amount paid the State. This is hard to do accurately owing to the fact that extra amounts are being continually added after the Levy is struck and the balance will invariably be more than is required by the Levy Book. I have in each case found more than the required amount.

I did not make this test for the 1906 Levy as but a small portion of the taxes have been paid and I thought it best that this be done at the end of the next year.

I find you herein a condensed statement of the receipts and disbursements for the time mentioned and showing the balance on hand and in bank; which amount I hereby certify to as being as stated.

Respectfully submitted,
W. S. Gordy, Jr., Auditor.

HALT ON BRIBERY

Of Votes. Prominent Citizens Hold Important Meeting and Organize For Action Every District in The County.

Pursuant to the call by the prominent citizens and business men, published in last week's issue of the Advertiser a number of persons interested in the stopping of vote-buying met at the Court House Tuesday afternoon and organized an Anti Bribery League for Wicomico County.

In spite of the fact that the hour was an unfavorable one, 30 in the afternoon, the call was well attended. The meeting was called to order by the Hon. Jas. E. Ellegood, and a committee on resolutions consisting of Mr. Thos. Perry, J. Cleveland White and Elmer H. Walton, was appointed and presented a form of government or constitution, which was unanimously adopted. The following officers were elected: Jas. E. Ellegood, Pres.; J. Cleveland White, Secretary; U. W. Dickerson, Treasurer. An executive committee consisting of James E. Ellegood, T. H. Williams, J. Cleveland White, U. W. Dickerson, F. P. Adkins, John H. Dulany, was appointed.

This committee was authorized to appoint a Vice President and Vigilance Committee in each district of the County, and to do whatever else in their judgement was necessary to prevent or stop bribery in the county. A number of speeches were made at this meeting, and quite a little enthusiasm was shown. As funds will be necessary to carry on the work of this League, voluntary subscriptions were called for, and quite a little sum was promised. On motion of W. J. Stanton the meeting then adjourned until Thursday evening.

On Thursday evening the meeting was called to order by Mr. L. W. Gunby as the President. Mr. Jas. E. Ellegood had been detained in Snow Hill on legal business. A number of speeches were made, and it was readily seen from the temper and spirit of those present that a determined effort will be made from this time on to arouse public sentiment and stop the practice of buying here. Among those who made addresses were Messrs. L. W. Gunby, Prof. J. Walter Hurling, Mr. W. M. Cooper and the Rev. W. S. Phillips, Kingman Hays and T. E. Martindale. The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved that it is the sense of this meeting that all ministers of the Gospel in Wicomico be, and hereby are requested to speak from their pulpits next Sunday Nov. 3rd, on the subject of the use of money in our elections.

On motion the Executive Committee was authorized to appoint a committee in each election district to enroll members in this league.

It is understood that in addition to the appointment of a Vigilance Committee in each district in the County to prevent or stop bribery, a number of detectives have been employed and placed all over the County. A number of other precautionary steps have been taken as well. Below will be found a list of the Vice-Presidents and Vigilance Committees of the various districts, the vice-president in each district being the first named:

EX-GOVERNOR JOHN WALTER SMITH,
A Gentleman of High Ability, Large Experience And Unquestioned Qualifications; A True Democrat; An Eastern Shoreman And Neighbor. Should Be Elected United States Senator.
VOTE FOR HIM
After Voting For The Candidates On The Democratic Ticket.

CLOSING WEEK FINDS DEMOCRATS AHEAD.

Majority May Be From 10,000 To 15,000 In State And Should Be 400 To 500 In Wicomico County. Present Government By Democrats To Prevail.

In this closing week of the campaign the outlook for Democratic success throughout the entire State looks brighter than ever. Driven to desperation the Republicans have taken refuge in abuse and vilification, and have been pouring out the vials of their wrathful slander on the Democratic candidate for Governor. Ignoring that sense of decency and fairness which usually governs gentlemen in dealing with those who are sick and incapacitated and are unable to reply, they have disgraced their party and themselves by the volume of their ribald vituperation, and have disgusted a great majority of the decent people of the State. Already there are signs of a reaction and the prospects are that hundreds of people who might otherwise have voted for the Republican nominee, will vote for Judge Crothers as a protest against such campaigning, for which Mr. Gaither must be held largely responsible.

Hand in hand with the vilification of Judge Crothers has gone the defecation of Mr. Gaither. Even the warmest friends and admirers of that gentleman have been surprised to learn what a paragon of virtue and greatness he is. According to his panegyrist he is the epitome of all the virtues. Statesmanship, political sagacity without guile, great legal statements, and other virtues too numerous to mention, have been attributed to him and the people of Maryland have been astounded at what has been said of this second rate city lawyer, who has doubtless been greatly surprised himself at all this poison. Those who have seen him recently for the first time have been greatly disappointed, for he is not eloquent, could hardly be called magnetic, and has failed to size up to what was expected of him.

Independents For Crothers.
It is rather strange that not one prominent lawyer in any part of the State has had anything to say in comment of Mr. Gaither's greatness and ability. With the exception of a few Republican political lawyers of second rate ability the members of the bar, that is the eminent ones, have all come out for Judge Crothers. All the great independent lawyers of Baltimore and the counties, are openly out for the Democratic ticket. The men who in former campaigns have furnished the brains and the arguments for the opponents of the Democratic ticket, are this year with the Democratic ticket. The same may be said of the great business men of the State and the city of Baltimore. Not one of the whole list of those who have made Baltimore and the State famous, and have given character to them, has come out for the Republican ticket. On the contrary a large proportion of them have openly espoused the Democratic cause, and are working earnestly for the election of Judge Crothers. The Republicans are in a bad way and as they have come to realize that fact, they have turned in their desperation to their old weapons of meddling and abuse. It is their only weapon this year, for they have no issue of importance. The real character and ability, the brains and the negligence as well as the material interests of the State are bound up with the Democratic party, and the people who represent these things do not propose to allow a party composed fifty per cent of ignorant, illiterate and non-tax paying voters to regain control of public affairs.

Democrats United For State Ticket.
A close comparison of the situation at the present time with former campaigns at this stage reveals the rather surprising fact that not for a quarter of a century has the Democratic party been so thoroughly united in favor of a State ticket as it is this year. In every contest since that of 1879, when the late Governor Hamilton's nomination united all factions of the party, and a large majority was the result, the air has been full of discontent and Democrats of great influence have supported the Republican ticket. In every campaign since that time, the newspapers have been filled from day to day with interviews and letters from prominent Democrats, denouncing their party, its ticket and its leaders, and advocating the election of the Republican ticket. As has already been pointed out, the contrary is the case this year, and the papers from day to day have been filled with letters and interviews from prominent independents advocating the election of the Democratic ticket, and denouncing the Republican ticket and the men who placed it before the people and the methods being used in its behalf.

To all outward appearances there is no cloud on the sky portending evil to the State Democracy of Maryland on Tuesday next, and the probabilities are that a victory, greater than any since that of 1891 when Frank Brown received 51000 majority, will be the result on that day, which will be the opening of a new, harmonious, and brilliant era for the party which has governed the State justly and well, almost continually since 1867.

In this county, considering the general Democratic trend, it is not unreasonable to think that Wicomico should give from 400 to 500 Democratic majority.

A LARGE GATHERING OF CITIZENS LAST SATURDAY

To Hear The Campaign Issues Ably Discussed By Prominent Speakers. Gov. Smith And Gov. Warfield Both Present. Republicans Charged With Undue Trifling With Senatorial Primaries And Politically Codding The Negro.

Large Gathering Of Citizens Saturday.
Saturday was a great day in Salisbury. The streets were crowded with citizens who had come in town to hear the Democratic spellbinders and their campaign oratory at the Opera House. It was said to be the largest state political gathering here for many years.

The afternoon meeting was called to order by Mr. Geo. W. Bell. On his appearance ex-Governor Smith was greeted with open arms. He made a masterly speech, and when it was finished the hall rang with applause. After the meeting the speech was discussed on the streets and in the stores, and many independents who went to be convinced asserted their intention of supporting the ticket.

The other speakers at this meeting were Dr. Joanna W. Hering and Col. J. E. R. Woods, of Frederick. The speech of each was well received. In the beginning his speech ex-Gov. Smith declared that he wanted it to be distinctly understood that he was not at the meeting to advocate his own candidacy, but for the purpose of assisting in electing the entire Democratic ticket. He declared that he would rather go down to personal defeat with his friends than to victory without them. Ex-Governor Smith then said:

Gaither And Negro Office-Holding.
"It is written in the experience of mankind that the Anglo-Saxon race has never, and will never, submit to the domination of an inferior race; so that when Mr. Gaither, heralded as the best man in his party, proclaimed as a man in advance of his time, earnestly endeavored, as he admits, as far back as 1897 to secure the nomination of negroes on the legislative ticket in Baltimore city, he was laying the certain and deep foundation for race trouble.

Senatorial Primaries.
The Republican speakers and the Republican press have professed to see something amusing in our proposed plan to give for the first time to the Democrats of this State a widely advertised and perfectly fair primary election, the opportunity to say who shall be the next two United States Senators. Now, why don't they stop meddling and jeering at this praiseworthy, popular advance and go do likewise? Simply because the negroes, by organizing, could nominate whom they pleased, without deference or reference to the wishes of the white minority element of the party.

The Night Meeting.
Hon. Chas. R. Disharoon, presided over the evening assemblage. The town was filled with many Democrats, who so quickly filled the opera house that an overflow meeting had to be arranged on the outside. Traffic was stopped by the crowds that blocked the street from curb to curb. It was just in the midst of the outdoor meeting that Governor Warfield, attended by ex-Senator E. Stanley Toadvin, drew up in a carriage. As the crowd recognized him he was greeted tumultuously, and the cheers were repeated when he made his appearance on the stage.

"Maryland has been governed by the Democrats to the satisfaction of all of our citizens," he said, "and to change the administration now to that of a Republican would be a disadvantage to the State's interests. Judge Crothers, who has been nominated for the office of Governor, will give to this State an honest and clean administration. I know that I vote for that. I have talked with him, have had him at my home and we have discussed the situation, and I can say for him that Maryland can well elect him and I know that he will conduct the affairs of the State to the best interests of all.

Hon. Isaac Lode Strass made a strong and vigorous speech which was well received.

Letter to Sheriff's Bradley. Dear Sir: Here's a tale with a point to it. Florida is the hardest state in the Union for paint.

Gilmore & Davis Co., Tallahassee, Florida, think they know what paint can do in their climate: they've been painting for 35 years, Devco ten years; and they say Devco wears ten years—their words are: "Buildings we painted Devco ten years ago are in good condition of paint today."

They also say lead-and-oil wears only one year there; Devco ten years! Ten years is a long lifetime for paint in Florida; longer than twenty in Maine. We don't dare say that either is true as a general fact in those States; but there are such instances.

If we should call the cost of Devco in Florida half of the usual cost of paint, it would be too much; we suppose it's about one third; there is so much trash there—the costliest paint is the worst, and the worst is the costliest everywhere.

Yours truly, F. W. DEVCO & CO., P. S.—The L. W. Gunby Co., sells our paint.

HINTS OF Ladies' Fall And Winter SHOES. If we had but one style at each price, we could tell you of them all. But with a dozen or so of variations at each figure, how can we? It's for you to fix your price mark, then come here to be satisfied. If you want a shoe at $3.00, you won't need to look at a single shoe of a different price. Something in our $2.00 line will be sure to please you. Three dollars is a favorite price with a good many women, but unless they have bought here they don't know the full possibilities of $3.00. Our $3.50 shoes are smart enough and good enough for almost any foot. But if you want positively the most elegant and luxurious footwear that can be built, the most exclusive styles, the finest leathers—why pay $4.00 or $4.50 and get it all. We would like to have every lady in town and surrounding towns and counties bring her shoe ideas right in here. Yours for best styles, E. Homer White Shoe Co. Salisbury, Md.

TO VOTE BUYERS

Warning—One Conviction Made in Neighboring State—Others Probable.

The late Grand Jury in Kent County, Delaware, brought in an indictment against Garrett S. Wharton, a prominent Republican of Dover, for trying to bribe William H. Hard, a voter at the election in November, 1906. The case came to trial in the Circuit Court for Kent County on Wednesday last, and Wharton was found guilty by Chief Justice Lore and Associate Judge Spruance, and sentenced by the Court to two months in the County jail, to pay a fine of $500.00, and to disfranchisement for ten years.

It seems that Wharton was working for the interests of his ticket, and approached William H. Hard, a Democrat, offering him a sum of money to vote the Republican ticket. Mr. Hard did not accept the money, but gave information of Wharton's offer to bribe him, with the evidence of the fact.

There are several other indictments in the Courts of Delaware for bribery and attempts at bribery which will come to trial in the other Counties, and conviction in some of them seems likely to follow.

These prosecutions are the result of the general movement last fall to put a stop to bribery in Delaware.

MAKE IT YOURSELF.

Says Many Persons Here Can Be Made Happy Again By Using This.

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice given by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer: Get from any good pharmacy one half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this drean and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood system the poisons, acids and waste matters, which cause not only Rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active or who suffer from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after awhile.

Our home druggists will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

Kidney Disease, First Stage Promptly Relieved By Pe-ru-na.

THE first stage of Bright's Disease of the kidneys is known as the catarrhal stage. Catarrh of the mucous membrane lining the kidneys is the first step of a drama that often ends as a tragedy.

To stop the catarrh is to head off the disease. If Bright's Disease can be relieved during the catarrhal stage all will be well.

Pe-ru-na has achieved a reputation for mitigating catarrh of the internal organs.

This explains why Pe-ru-na has been used with so much success in kidney diseases.

Mr. James M. Powell, 431 Kensington street, Kansas City, Mo., writes:
"About four years ago I suffered with a severe catarrh of the bladder which caused continued irritation and pain. I was miserable, and could not stand up or walk for any length of time without extreme weariness and pain. I began taking Pe-ru-na and it greatly relieved me, and in eleven weeks I was completely cured, and felt like a new man."

Kidneys and Liver Affected.
Mrs. Carrie King, 720 North Cascade, Colorado Springs, Col., writes:
"Pe-ru-na has been my favorite and only household remedy for nearly five years. I have suffered for years with biliousness and kidney and liver troubles. If I caught a little cold, the pains were increased, and backache and headache were of frequent occurrence. However, Pe-ru-na cured me—twelve years ago—and I have enjoyed it ever since. I keep Pe-ru-na on hand, and if my husband or I do not feel disposed, a few doses is a sure cure. If to reassure me, I, G. Gaffney, Corpus Christi, Tex., testify to the truthfulness of Pe-ru-na as a catarrh cure, and am ready to testify on it. I purchased Pe-ru-na in my own name. The medicine did its work, and I feel much better now."

To the Committees in The Several Districts for Wicomico County.

As it is manifestly impossible for the Executive Committee of the League to make diligent inquiry into suspected cases of Bribery in the Several Districts, you and each of you are earnestly requested to examine into every complaint or suspected case of Bribery, and if the facts seem to justify it, report the same over your signatures, with names of all the parties involved, with all the facts and circumstances, and whether the complainant is willing to swear out a warrant against the suspected party, and the Committee will then advise you whether the facts will justify the swearing out of a warrant. We ask you to make it a thorough and impartial, regardless who the parties may be, but not to burden yourselves or this Committee with groundless suspicions. The Circulars issued will show what the law is on the subject. We desire in due time to make a report.

How It Effects Kent And Sussex Counties.

As a result of the election in Kent and Sussex counties the saloons and hotels in these districts will soon be compelled to go out of business. The returns of the elections will be canvassed on Thursday by the judges at Georgetown and Dover and two days later the returns will be sent to the Secretary of State.

Then they will be forwarded at once to the governor, who, under the law as interpreted by an eminent attorney of this city, will forthwith issue his proclamation compelling the hotels and the saloons to close up.

After the proclamation it will be unlawful to sell liquor in either county. There are twenty four saloons and hotels in Kent county affected. They pay a license to the State treasury of $5,350 yearly.

The law provided that part of the license shall be refunded when the bars close. In Sussex county there are 17 saloons and hotels which pay a State tax of $3825 yearly. The assessed value of the Kent county property affected by the election is $192,632, and the assessed value of the Sussex property affected is $88,860.

DEMOCRATS SWEEP THE STATE.

Judge Crothers Elected Governor By Over Seven Thousand Majority. Majority in Wicomico County Largest In Years.

DEMOCRATS HAVE BOTH BRANCHES LEGISLATURE.

General Results. John Walter Smith Wins Senatorial Contest. Large Vote Polled in Wicomico County.

The Democratic party seems to have made a complete sweep in this State, having elected Judge Crothers as Governor as well as the entire state ticket by a large and substantial majority. The legislature will be overwhelmingly democratic, the party will have a two thirds majority in both the senate and house. In Wicomico County the Democratic majority is the largest it has been for several years, and is considered a vindication of the party as to the attacks made on its management of affairs in this county. The result in Wicomico County was not a surprise to those who had carefully watched the progress of the campaign as it was evident the party had succeeded in an unusual degree in arousing the interest of the voters in the election. Whenever this is done and the vote gotten out it means democratic success, as this county is normally strongly democratic.

Anyone who watched the various meetings held throughout the county could not fail to see that an unusual interest was taken in the election; everywhere the meetings were well attended and the enthusiasm of the rank and file was apparent even to the uninitiated. No one instance in the county perhaps showed this as forcibly as the parade held by Salisbury, Parsons, and Camden districts the night before the election, when the wagons filled with a cheering enthusiastic crowd, with flying banners and flaming torches, a band before and one behind, paraded up and down the streets of Salisbury followed by a large crowd fully as enthusiastic as the workers themselves. Those who watched this parade could not fail to see how high a key the voters had been pitched to and prophesy an unusual success for the party at the polls next day.

This promise was fulfilled, and Wicomico gave the party an endorsement that showed an entire trust in its future management as well as satisfaction with the past.

Outside of the state the democratic party seems to have at least held its own, and in several instances the vote gave a strong indication of dissatisfaction with the Republican party and its policies. Tom Johnson's victory over congressman Burton in Cincinnati is especially worthy of study, as here the administration backed up Burton in his fight, and attempted to make National questions an issue.

In view of this fact the decisive victory of Mayor Johnson has a national value in the eyes of the political student. No less remarkable is the close call Fort, the Republican nominee in New Jersey had, here it seems that treachery in one of the cities, where the governor was swapped off for the mayor, alone prevented his defeat.

Tammany Hall is the victor in New York City with substantial majority. Gov. Higgins, the Democratic Governor of Rhode Island was re-elected, Kentucky elects a Republican Governor.

Below is given a tabulated vote of Wicomico County, and the majorities for Governor by counties, also a statement of the Political complexion of the next legislature:

Worcester	750	Worcester	4
Totals	90,845	Totals	92

One feature of the election day's work was the vote on United States Senator in the democratic primaries. That this was a popular move is proven by the unusual interest taken in it, not only in Wicomico County but in the state as well. Here the total vote cast for the long term nearly equaled that cast for Judge Crothers, the nominee for Governor. Crothers vote being 2433 while the vote for John Walter Smith, Gov. Warfield, and Congressman Talbot was 2968, only 535 short of Crothers vote. There is no doubt but what this primary election was worth a great many votes for the Democratic Party throughout the State, and its success has been such that there can be no reason for not making this Primary a legalized one, and doubtless this will be done as the Democratic platform pledged the party to it in case of its success. Here on every side the plan meets with approval and endorsement and it is believed that a primary election law similar to the Crawford County system would meet the approval and endorsement of the major part of the Party. The interest taken in the Senatorial contest is evidence that the voters would exercise the privilege of voting if given the chance under such a system. To vote in Wicomico County is highly gratifying to the friends of Ex-Gov. Smith and it would appear that most of the Democrats here are his friends even those who vote for Gov. Warfield, feeling almost as well towards him as for their first choice. Indeed it is characteristic of the voting for Senator here both of the men were regarded with favor and admiration and the case of not wanting Gov. Warfield, but of wanting John Walter Smith more. Below is given the vote in the Senatorial Primaries in this County, and the majorities by counties in the state.

REDUCE NEGRO VOTE.

Planned On Broad Lines To Meet Views Of All Who Believe In Such A Measure.

It is fairly well assured that the Democratic leaders of the next General Assembly will propose to the people of Maryland a constitutional amendment to reduce as far as possible the large illiterate negro vote which exists in the State. This amendment, it is understood, will differ in several important particulars from the suffrage amendment which was defeated in 1905. A strong effort will be made to avoid those features of the last amendment to which effective objection was made. There will be no undefined discretion or power vested in the registration officials. The provisions of the proposed amendment will be as definite and certain as possible. There will, it is also stated, be an appeal to the courts expressly provided for the citizen in order to correct any abuse of power on the part of the registration officers. The rights of foreign-born citizens will be accorded careful consideration and the fullest protection and security. The idea will be to secure the vote of the white citizen and eliminate only the illiterate negro voter from the State electorate. It is believed that this can be constitutionally accomplished.

Meet All Views.

Another important feature of the amendment now under consideration is that an effort will be made to make it reflect the views of every shade of opinion in the Democratic party on the subject, as well as the opinion of non-partisan citizens, both native and naturalized, and leading Republicans who are in favor of eliminating the ballots of illiterate negroes from the suffrage. To this end there will be an earnest attempt to unite all classes and elements of the Democracy with independents and liberal minded Republicans upon a measure which they all can approve and which public opinion in the State will probably support. In this way it is hoped to avoid the mistake of presenting an amendment which reflects the views of only a single wing of the party instead of the views of a wide and varied circle of citizens, including

Democrats, independents and non-partisans as well. It is believed that the course above indicated will be adopted by the leading men and influences of the party.

It is practically settled that the Democrats will have a majority of fully three fifths of the membership of each branch of the General Assembly. This will enable them to propose a suffrage amendment to the people. The party is distinctly pledged to the platform adopted by the last State convention and on which the recent election was so sweepingly won by the Democracy, to submit a constitutional amendment to eliminate their illiterate negro from the State voters without, however, in any manner endangering the voting right of the foreign born citizen and which shall also be free from the objections which were made against the amendment of 1905.

To Prepare Draft.

Mr. Isaac Lobe Straus, the newly elected Attorney General, will probably be requested to thoroughly examine all the Constitutions of the Southern States, as well as those of many leading States in other sections of the country, and prepare the preliminary draft of an appropriate amendment to be submitted to the leading Democratic members of the Legislature, as well as other Democratic leaders and also to prominent lawyers and citizens, including foreign born citizens and prominent Republicans who favor the disfranchisement of the illiterate negroes, with a view of harmonizing every variety of sentiment which is fundamentally in favor of repressing the ignorant negro vote.

It is believed that Mr. Straus is especially equipped to prepare the draft of the desired amendment by reason of his acquaintance with the decisions of the Supreme Court on the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments and on other constitutional questions pertaining to the suffrage and the respective rights of the States and the Federal Government.

It is recalled that most of the Democrats and independents who opposed the suffrage amendment of 1905 openly declared themselves as opposed to an illiterate negro suffrage and as in favor of an amendment to disfranchise the ignorant negro, which should be free from the objections they pointed out to the amendment then pending.

ENTERTAINMENT AT MASONIC TEMPLE.

Thursday Evening Nov. 21st. Prof. Spedden.

The people of Salisbury are again to have a rare treat in the entertainment given by S. M. Spedden, Cartoonist from New York City, at the Masonic Temple, Thursday evening, Nov. 21.

The following article from the "New York Sun" will give some idea of the worth of this entertainment to which the people of the city are invited.

"The men's rally at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening, wherein S. M. Spedden, cartoonist, of New York, was the entertainer, was well attended and proved very enjoyable.

Mr. Spedden certainly showed himself capable of having 'something doing' every minute he was upon the platform. He made sketches in crayon exceedingly rapid and it seemed that every stroke of his hand was accompanied with a witty remark.

In fact, the stroke and joke came so rapidly that one had to be awake every minute or he would lose it. Mr. Spedden is also a fine singer and character delineator and added to the interest of the occasion by his talents in these directions. Miss Musson, a local pianist, acted as his accompanist.

Mr. Spedden's mission seems to be, at least it was Thursday night, to make people laugh. His last drawing was especially apt and effective in contrasting the difference in the physiognomical expression of the sober individual and the one whose countenance wreathed in smiles. Considerable amusement was occasioned by Mr. Spedden caricaturing different persons in the audience, they were readily recognized by those present.—From the Norwich, N. Y., Sun, Sept. 30, 1904.

—Rev. S. W. Beigart, D. D., will preach at the Methodist Protestant Church tomorrow, Sunday, morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. W. B. Elliott will preach in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. W. S. Phillips will be in St. Michael's, assisting in the dedication of the new Methodist Protestant Church at that place.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and to have published broadcast and sent to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated "Golden Medical Discovery." Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merit, and made them remedies of known composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the public scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomachs, biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located in the human system, contain a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be sent to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native medicinal roots of great value, also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Peppermint Cure, his Nervine, over-worked, run-down, nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-root," of great value for the relief of not a few of our most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up of improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

E. F. DAVIDSON - RUTLAND VT.

STONES CRYING OUT.

Nov. 10, '07.—(Josh. 24:14-28).

The world is full of trying places, altars of promise, mountains of aspiration, sanctuaries of vow and oath, monumental pillars commemorative, instructive and inspiring. Such a memorial of great historical significance will be the monument now being erected at Provincetown, Mass., the corner stone of which was laid by the President of the United States last August, the granite pile marking the spot where the Pilgrims first set foot upon New England's "stern and rockbound coast."

Such a pillar was that which Joshua erected under an oak at Shechem, in the presence of a great assembly of the people just before he died. The warrior who had driven out the Canaanites and carried on a successful campaign lasting 40 years, the corner stone of his military operations triumphantly completed and the people peacefully settled in the Promised Land. At the age of 110 he felt the premonitions of being mustered out and gathering a great assembly of the people he dedicated a monument that should stand as a constant reminder of their obligations and vows. The people made a new confession of faith, and a monument was reared like that at Bunker Hill and Waterloo and Marathon to keep green in their memories the transactions of that day, throbbing with history and pulsating with devotion and prophetic service.

So the earth is full of stones that cry out. Every individual, every family, every nation has memorial places, marking turning points in history, places of great deliverance, spots which cannot be passed without great memories leaping up from them, causing us to live our years over again in sudden agony, of pain or of rapture. It may be a child's grave, it may be a marriage altar. It may be a tree, a shady nook, a brookside a country farm house, a city flat, a shimmering star, a fragrant flower, a toy or a keepsake. Whatever or wherever it may be, whenever we look upon it, it whispers words that cannot be forgotten or thunders its reverberations in the soul.

Palestine is today a heap of stones every one of which has a voice trumpet-toned concerning a nation that sold its birthright. It is a land of monuments but they all speak of departed greatness. They are tombstones over the graves of national justice.

Joshua erected that witnessing stone so that it should not be possible for the Israelites to forget or to resist the action of that day. And we like that it is impossible to wipe out of our memories the places at which our vows were spoken, or monuments, pillars were poured out of the heart. And these considerations loom large in a man faithful to his vows who would otherwise break them. If he could somehow wipe out of existence the commemorative pillar he once erected so cheerfully, he could rush down that path without a pang. But as it is he cannot get past it in a retrograde course. He is kept up to his best, because of what the past has been. He cannot get away from his vows.

The path of decline is not an easy path. Those who have reached a high level do not slip into the valley without a struggle. They are obliged to stifle conscience, and crucify memory, and grapple with judgment, and wrestle down pride, and obliterate the former footprints, and trample on holy places, and pluck up plants that love has watered, and close their eyes to hallowed scenes, and stop their ears to tender entreaties, and harden their hearts to every good impulse. The way of the transgressor is hard, but it is the burning mark of perdition to the transgressor who has first tollomely climbed to the heights of respectability.

Let it not be supposed that defaulters and forgers who have succeeded in their schemes to get money, and who have fled to the uttermost parts of the earth with their booty find life a bed of roses. They are in hell now.

Memorial pillars are likewise of value to others. The stranger as well as the native is impressed with the commemorative stones of the land. He reads the lesson therein contained, and expects to see conduct appropriate to it. The American strives to live up to Bunker Hill, the foreigner within the gates would be filled with contempt for American loyalty if he discovered a disposition on our part to discount the meaning of that monumental shaft. Forever it stands speaking one message, casting a shadow over the whole land, from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate, and rendering it absolutely impossible for the nation that erected it, to repudiate the Revolution. So with the individual. The more definitely, decisively, publicly and permanently great decisions can be made, the less liability there is that in after years we shall repudiate what we did in a time of great inspiration. If we should do so, the very stones would cry out against us.

WHAT JAPAN WOULD LIKE.

In the early days of Japan's relations with the Occident foreign warships used to make wild excitement by sailing into the big bay of Tokio and firing salutes in honor of the country, says the New York Sun.

The upper part of the bay is so shallow that the warships couldn't get within miles of the great city of Tokio. The Mikado moved into the palace in 1869, but from that day had no misgiving that foreign warships might some time knock his residence to pieces. They could not get within several gunshots of it.

When foreign engineers said it would be a simple problem to turn Tokio into a fine port and make the city a factor in the world's trade the Mikado's faithful subjects said, "No thank you," with much emphasis. They did not propose to have a ditch dug up to their city so that foreign warships might get within shelling distance of the town.

Times have changed, Japan has warships of her own, and they have done much to command respect. The Japanese do not feel just now that a safe canal up to Tokio would place the Imperial palace and the state buildings at the mercy of a foreign foe. So we see the municipality of Tokio planning to raise about $24,000,000 to make a harbor for deep sea ships.

WOMEN AND WAR.

Has the Rev. Anna H. Shaw forgotten the Spartan mother who sent her sons to the war with the injunction to return with their shields or on their shields? Or does she imagine that the race of Spartan women is extinct?

Her prescription for universal peace is to give women the ballot. "When women get the ballot," she proclaimed, "they will think twice before they vote sons to death? We will venture to say that the Southern women were at least as beligerent as the Southern men were, and the Northern women were not much behind them, add on to mothers in 1898 we saw wives and mothers in about the same attitude toward war that their mothers held."

We fear the Rev. Anna Shaw is greatly mistaken and that women are not especially a power for peace in the world. On the contrary, they are decidedly susceptible not only to the allurements of the uniform, but to manifestations of physical courage upon the battlefield. If, as a London Magazine said the other day, the "doves are becoming eagles," the future woman is more likely to don the skirts or mount a cross saddle and do some fighting herself than she is to keep her son at home when there is fighting to be done.

FORM OF AMERICAN UPLIFT.

For the calendar year 1906 over $16,000,000 was sent to Italy from the United States in the form of money orders, the average amount of each order being slightly in excess of $40. For a number of countries named the total from America was over $62,000,000. Nearly all this money, it is believed, was sent back home to friends and relatives by wage earning immigrants. With its help mortgages are paid off, improvements are made and standards of living are permanently raised. The effects of the return of immigrants themselves upon the habits of the people is quite as marked as the change wrought by the money alone.

It is interesting thus to note the way in which civilization influences operate. The country that raises children and sends them out to make a livelihood in another land, as soon as they reach the wage-earning stage impoverishes itself in one sense and benefits the country which thus is enabled to get full fledged workers without the expense of rearing them. But, on the other hand, the effect of money going out of the United States in large quantities is very essential to debt ridden sections of Europe. The effect of this drain upon the United States also is worthy of consideration by economists and financiers.

Prof. von Hanseman, of Germany, has concluded, after examining the brains of Mommson, von Helmholtz and the painter Menzel, that geniuses are hydrocephalus. Yet with a financial genius, at least in America, there is apt to be water in the stock rather than on the brain.

The Milwaukee man who sued for divorce because his wife refused to let him provoke a considerable number of other benefactors to the reflection that some men never know when they are well off.

The premier of Australia, specifies that it will be Germany who must fight Japan for the control of the Pacific. It is one of the interesting phenomena of the day that every one's convinced and anxious that somebody else must fight Japan. That is every one except Japan.

A New York man declares that 90 per cent of the women are utterly selfish. As he seems to speak from personal experience it suggests a suspicion that his wife may have refused to support the family by taking up washing.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease. Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What to Do. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about kidney troubles, sent to you by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

A PIGGY RACE.

Ju-u-u-y! Ju-u-u-y! The pig's got out!" Grandma Poole called out from the chamber window to Judy, "drinking tea" under the great lilac with Tempy Tyler, her next neighbor.

The two little girls had got as far as a delicious square of bees' honey which stood dripping on a china plate close by two slices of the whitest bread.

How could she go—right in the best part of the party? But quickly there came a more urgent call: "Judy Poo-oo-oo!" Come home this instant moment!"

There was no appeal from this. "You go help me, Tempy," and Judy looked at the honey wistfully. "Pigs are the awfullest things to run."

"Can't," replied Tempy, shortly. "The flies'll eat the honey all up if I don't stay and watch it."

"You will, more likely," said Judy, "Greedy thing!"

"I'm not going to chase your old pig! It's hot!"

Judy ran off in high temper. But to do Tempy credit she didn't even taste of the honey, but kept the flies off and waited for Judy to come back.

Pretty soon Aunt Susan shouted shoo-oo-oo! Tempy, run, run! That mischievous little white pig's got out again into the new strawberry bed!"

"Dear me!" groaned Tempy. "It's an awful day for pigs!" and she looked longingly, too, at the honey.

But of she ran, her bonnet hanging on her neck, and away went piggy, "woof! woof! woof!" through the strawberry bed, in and out of the currant bushes. Then he stuck fast in the lane gate.

Tempy scudded on and seized his smooth sides. But he wriggled through, and galloped across the potato field into the corn. He stopped to taste a tender stalk. Tempy almost had her hand on him, but he darted away with a squeal down one row, up another, then took a helline across the fence into Grandma Poole's goose pasture, where he sniffed curiously among the goslings till the gander, clearing his throat of a polly-wog from the puddle, flew at him, and bit his inquisitive little pink snout till he shrieked loudly and dashed away again.

She lost sight of him for a while and she heard Judy shouting at her pig across the brook. Pretty soon a white back bobbed among the brakes not far away, and she caught sight of her runaway as he dashed into the birch grove.

With her flying, one shoe lost in the goosepaddle and a thorn in her toe, Tempy hopped after him cautiously. Piggy was busy munching bunchberries. He had forgotten all about Tempy and the gander.

Tempy stole upon him, jumped forward, threw her gown over him, and held him down.

How he squealed! But she gathered him up in it, and was about to carry him to his pen.

"What have you got my pig for, Tempy Tyler?" cried Judy, jumping over a log right before her. "I've just run him in here."

"Tain't your pig! He's my pig!" cried Tempy, panting; "and I've been a-racing him all over the lot!"

"Din't you hear Grandma Poole holler that our pig was out, Tempy Tyler?"

"And didn't I hear Aunt Susan holler that our pig was out, Judith Poole? I guess I can hear, if I am greedy." And Tempy marched off with her wriggling burden, followed by Judith, scolding angrily, not at all convinced that it wasn't her pig that Tempy was carrying home.

The little girl arrived at the pen, and began tugging him up to the top of the fence.

"Stop, Tempy Tyler! Didn't I tell you that our old pig turning his tongue topsy turvy!" shouted Judith. Tempy started over the fence. Sure enough and the black one, too.

"You may just carry him back home, now! I won't help you one bit!" Judy cried, triumphantly.

Poor tired Tempy turned about and tolled back up the hill. The pig was heavy and struggled to get away. Judy giggled behind. At last she stumbled up to the Poole's pen. "My goodness me!" shouted Judy, in dismay. "Tain't our pig, neither!"

"Whose is it, then?" demanded Tempy in disgust.

"Oh, I don't know. Let's ask grandma."

But Grandma Poole was down to Aunt Susan's.

Just then Ma'am Drinkwater, with a horn-headed cane, came up the hill. "Have you seen anything of my pig, girls?" she inquired.

"Dear me! I should think so!" cried Tempy, opening her skirt the least bit. "Here he is."

"Ain't I thankful!" said Ma'am Drinkwater. "I couldn't 'a' caught him to have the world."

Judy took him home; then the two little girls went back to the tea party under the lilac, laughing over the funny race.

But naughty Rover, Tempy's dog, had licked the honey clean from the china plate, and was just finishing off the bread. They nudged his ears, and sent him away in disgrace. But Ma'am Drinkwater had given them each a strawberry turnover, upon which they supped royally, and were happy.

TO ONE IN PARADISE.

Thou wast that all to me, love, For which my soul did pine— A green, late in the sea, love, A fountain and a shrine, All wreath'd with fairy tresses, And all the flowers were mine.

Ah! dream too bright to last! Ah! starry hope! that didst arise But to be overcast! A voice from out the Future cries, "On! on!"—but o'er the Past (Dim gulf!) my spirit hovering lies Mate, motionless, aghast!

For, alas! alas! with me No more—no more—no more— Such language holds the solemn sea To the sands upon the shore, Shall bloom the thunder-blasted tree, Or the stricken eagle soar!

And all my days are trances, And all my nightly dreams Are where thy dark eye glances, And where thy footstep gleams— In what ethereal dance, By what eternal streams?— Edgar Allan Poe.

SHAKE IN A BOTTLE.

Advice Of Noted Authority Also Give A Simple Home Prescription.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bed-time.

Just try this simple home made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not enacting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, an almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at a small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

A Bostonian died, and, when he arrived at St. Peter's gate, he was asked the usual questions. "What is your name and where are you from?" The answer was "Mr. So-and-so, from Boston." "You may come in," said St. Peter, "but I know you won't like it."—Christian Register.

—Mankind does supremely ridiculous things in a very serious way. Even when a man bows his head before the minister at the marriage ceremony he takes himself very seriously. In six months he forgets all about it. —Manchester Union.

Biliousness And Constipation.

For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed, I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally.—Mrs. Rosa Poite, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale at Toulson's Drug Store, Salisbury, Md.

"Yesterday," said the minister, "I married six young couples in an hour. How's that for rapid work?" "Rapid?" replied the yachtsman, "Huh! six knot an hour is one thing to brag about."—Philadelphia Press.

THE HIGHER LIFE.

Selected Cases of Thought from Pious and Pulpit of All Ages.

A Root of Folly.

The root of folly is self-will, which is but another name for sin. God has a plan for every man, and our wisdom is measured by our unwillingness to fall in with it.

The case of King Saul is in evidence. He insisted all his life long on having his own way. He had it; and the result is expressed in his confession, repeated again and again, "I have played the fool."

Attaining the Highest Type.

The highest type of life cannot be reached without effort and struggle and therefore the soul demands the fight to struggle and the chance to overcome. The soul's imperative is that it must be loyal to the best, and it can be satisfied with no less. There is a vacuum in the soul, says Romans, that none can fill but God, and it is the greatest proof of the being of God that the soul thirsts for Him and will not be content till it finds Him.—Rev. Fred Smith, Reformed.

Man's Helplessness.

The natural world of night and day and summer and winter does little for man. We do not get much inspiration out of soil and sun and clouds. Left to mere physical forces for companionship, man is desolate, solitary and lifeless, for he is impotent for creative achievements and inspirational victories as some creature in the Arctic night, amidst his ice house, blubber and ignorant sleas. The seed in the frozen cloud waits for the sun to release it. And the soul waits for its Saviour, for wing power, uplift and outreach.

Reward of Suffering.

Life is a school, work offers the arena, happiness is the graduating point, but joy and suffering toll together as teachers. In general, man was built for happiness, and the world gratifies the instinct. Man laughs a thousand times where he weeps once. Blessed is the martyr, the patriot, the poet and the hero who grows richer and richer, taught in the school of adversity and of suffering. The heroes of eternity are the warriors of time who have come out of the great tribulation and staked their banners on crimson with their heart's blood.—Rev. Alex.ander Dawson, Baptist.

Health and Religion.

If religion is a matter of doing good we ought to remember that we cannot do good work with broken, blasted tools. A heart consecrated to heaven's work will endeavor to bring the body up to its high standard of efficiency as an instrument for doing good. You can glorify the Most High more by the health that imparts cheer, the strong hand that lifts big bundles for poor old ladies, the abounding vigor that helps to spell virtue in your own life, than by a year's prayer meeting which or by the most pious wishes for the eternal welfare of your neighbors.

The Power of God.

God can raise up men of genius out of the stones of the street. A new enthusiasm stirred in the heart of a young merchant in Assisi gave us the world's St. Francis, who saved Italy; gave the world Xavier, who journeyed like a summer's day over a winter clad earth named the Far East; gave us Paul, who overthrew three heathen religions. When Christ enters the heart, the intellect glows. Then the ideals are rekindled, the will bestirs itself, the coward becomes a hero, the selfish man a patriot, enemies become apostles, and a stammer named Saul becomes one of the exhorters of the world.—Rep. Edw. Wilson.

Dr. Frank Crane's Epigrams.

The heart that is not hopeful is not Christian.

Only a life that feels the power of the infinite is proof against despair.

It is with God as with the sun; to most persons the one and the other are pleasant and beautiful, to a few rare souls they are the sources of power.

How few well-told souls! A Christian is one who sees the invisible, hears the inaudible, obeys the impossible, knows the unknowable and clasps hands with the omnipotent.

You can distinguish between true and false success when you can distinguish between aspiration and ambition.

Foundation of Prayer.

The proper foundation of prayer is praise and thanksgiving. Jesus puts the thought of God's character first then of His Glory and His purpose. Most of us dare to say, in our private devotions think first of our sins and then of what we want for ourselves and our family. We go to a concert, and are uplifted by the music, and then come home and utter a prayer which has no relation to that feeling of exaltation. We are that impressed by a gorgeous sunset, but see no angle standing in the sun as did St. John. We pray for a safe passage across the sea and then forget to thank God when we reach the land in safety.

But Daniel, exiled, persecuted, about to be thrown to the lions, knelt at the open window and gave thanks to God.—Rev. W. H. Wilson, Presbyterian.

Oldest Bank Notes.

The oldest banknotes in the world are the "flying money," or convenient money, first issued in China in 2697 B. C. One writer tells that the ancient Chinese bank notes were in the present day, bearing the name of the issuer, the signature of the official who issued it, and its value, in both figures and words. On the top of these curious notes was the following philosophic injunction: "Produce all you can; spend with economy."

LUNACY IN IRELAND.

Cause of the Growing Number of Patients in the Asylums for the Insane.

The lunacy question in Ireland has lately received much attention. It has been asserted for a long time that the people of Ireland have been steadily degenerating mentally, and that the madhouses, which years ago were almost empty, are now full to overflowing. Various reasons have been given for this state of things, ranging from the persecution practiced by the landlord down to the abuse of whiskey.

The writer has made investigations in a great number of the country asylums and has made inquiries among the people who could throw light upon the matter, including the doctors who look after the insane. The information thus obtained indicates that the people have lost their dread of the poorhouse and the lunatic asylum, just as the English people have lost the same dread. Twenty years ago it was considered a disgrace to have a relative in either institution; now the feeling of disgrace has disappeared.

Therefore when the farmer becomes too old to look after his property and sits down in the chimney corner to smoke his pipe and to chat with himself during the process, his sons decide that he is "queer" or "off his head," and they have him examined and sent to the asylum. He is thus provided with good quarters and they save the expense of keeping him. This is one reason for the fullness of the lunatic asylums.

Other reasons may be supplied by the lunacy doctors and their desire to better themselves and their brethren. Each asylum must have one doctor for a certain number of patients, and as the patients increase so does the strength of the medical staff. Then a doctor having spent a short time in an asylum and becoming unfit for his work is pensioned off for life. One result of this is that the asylum doctors will pass as insane anybody who exhibits signs of eccentricity, however insignificant, the main object being to employ as many medical men as possible, each of whom takes his pension when he considers that his time has come.

As a matter of fact, I find that the madhouses, which some time ago was dreaded much more than the prison, is now preferred to the workhouse, and it is asserted that if a commission of independent mental experts visited the asylums and examined the inmates a large proportion of the patients would be discharged as not being entitled to the hospitality of the establishments. As for the great Central Criminal Lunatic Asylum outside Dublin, it is declared to be a notorious fact that most of the inmates are sane.

To this asylum are sent prisoners convicted of violence or murder when the juries find that they were insane at the time their crimes were committed. I have recently played cricket with those "dangerous criminal lunatics" in the asylum and conversed with them. I have found much less rational men in the clubs and streets of Dublin.

There is a lunatic asylum in the country which has been a long and serious one, and has no doubt, told upon a proportion of the people who were evicted or driven to eviction.

Oil From Rabbit Skin.

A new industry has been started in Australia in connection with rabbits. Nearly half a gallon of lubricating oil has been obtained by a rabbit at Gulgandra, New South Wales, from 73 pounds of skins, without lessening the commercial value of the latter.

With a clear three fifths majority in both branches of the next Legislature the Democratic control will be supreme.

Already there is speculation concerning the organization of the two branches and several men have spoken in of connection with the speaker-ship. The Legislature will meet on New Year's Day, January 1, and the preliminary caucus to elect the officials of the House and Senate will be held Tuesday night December 31, in Annapolis.

The general impression is that Mr J. Enos Ray, of Prince George's county, will be the Speaker. Mr. Ray has already served two terms in the House of Delegates. At the last session he was chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means and in addition was Democratic floor leader in the House.

Another member mentioned as a possible candidate for the Speaker-ship is Mr. Martin Lehman, who has been re-elected from the Third Legislative district in Baltimore city. As to the Presidency of the Senate, it is likely that Gen. Joseph B. Seth will be re-elected without opposition, although it is not yet possible to tell what developments there may be.

The young people of Quantico gave their annual Halloween's Masquerade Party on Oct. 31. Herbert Bailey, clown; Knowles Gordy, tramp; Rollie Gillis, the healthy one; Marous Acworth miller; Presley Geoghegan, cousin of the clown; Stevia Bailey, Teddy Bear; Lay Phillips, old bachelor; Paul Taylor, little Japanese boy; Ira Disharoon, negro dade, and Ray Disharoon, "Skidoo." Games were played and all sorts of relics were indulged in. There were a large number present and all reported a jolly time.

Schooner Prascott, laden with about a million and quarter of shingles for the W. B. Tilghman Co., was grounded at storm tide about five miles north of the light house early this week. Mr. W. J. The "gen", the yacht owned by Mr. T. H. Mitchell made a trip down to the Light House on Monday. Those that joined the crowd were: Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ulman, Miss Gladys Mitchell, Mr. James Bulliday, Mr. J. W. Corkran and Mr. William Mitchell.

Great Discoveries.

The National Advisory Board on Fuels and Structural Materials is meeting at the Exposition, and the Washington Post anticipates that it will find that some remarkable conclusions have been reached by the experts of the Geological Survey. It says: Prof. Joseph A. Holmes and his assistants have been conducting a series of experiments along lines suggested by the advisory board with noteworthy results. For instance, they tell us that they have demonstrated that the steam engine requires from three to three and one half times as much coal to produce a given unit of power as does the gas engine and that in a plant of 6,000 horsepower the use of the gas engine will effect an annual saving of $73,000, while the general adoption of gas engines would save the manufacturers of this country between $100,000,000 and $300,000,000 a year. They declare that the gas engine will economically utilize the low grade coals of North Dakota, Texas and Florida, some of which cannot be used under a steam engine at all. They claim to have operated a 1,000 horsepower plant all Summer without making any appreciable smoke; and finally, they assert that they have made briquette composed of coal-dust and slag, usually waste materials, which will give entirely satisfactory results, under marine boilers and which will make no smoke, even under forced draft.

If these statements are verified by the national board it will have amply justified its existence and the experiments which the Geological Survey has been carrying on at its suggestion. There has been some criticism of this board and of this branch of the survey's work, on the ground that it savored too much of paternalism, but the single achievement of producing a smokeless fuel which would enable our naval vessels to approach an enemy, or to pass one, without immediately revealing their presence by dense clouds of black smoke, would amply repay the cost; while if the assertions made with regard to gas engines prove to be well founded the saving effected to the manufacturers of this country and the conservation of the national fuel supply hereby promoted will far more than justify and compensate for the outlay.

Prof. Holmes has given us reason confidently to look forward to the day of smokeless engines, fired by automatic stokers extracting every ounce of energy from the material consumed, while specially moulded briquettes occupy every inch of our battle ships' bunkers, and the fighting ships slip through the waves without leaving in their wakes great trails of unconsumed smoke and soot. —Ledger Dispatch, Norfolk.

The "pure food law" is designed by the Government to protect the public from injurious ingredients in both foods and drugs. It is beneficial both to the public and to the conscientious manufacturer. Ely's Cream Balm, a successful remedy for cold in the head, nasal catarrh, hay fever, etc., containing no injurious drugs, meets fully the requirements of the new law, and that fact is prominently stated on every package. It contains none of the injurious drugs which are required by the law to be mentioned on the label. Hence you can use it safely.

Resolutions.

Whereas, our friend and fellow Knight Past Chancellor, and for many years, Master of Finance Brother William Henry Harrison Dashiell, having fought so many years, with knightly courage and manly valor, the great battles of life; entered into single combat with the last enemy, on Monday October, 14th, last, and after a brave and noble fight of seven days, surrendered his sword and raised his visor, to the King of Terrors and passed over into the Universal Domain, as the Sun was sinking behind the Western hills.

Therefore, be it Resolved, by us, his fellow knights and Brethren of this part of the Grand Domain of Maryland, that while we deplore his loss and sadly miss his loving form, moving in and out among us, and mourn in tender sympathy with his sorrowing widow; yet, we thank the Supreme and All Pateasant Chancellor of the Universe, for having given us such a pure man; valiant knight; wise chancellor; and beloved physician.

And, also, be it further Resolved, that we will strive to emulate his example, in ministering to the sick and distressed; and his courteous, gentle, and noble bearing to all sorts and conditions of men. Like the Beloved Physician of the Gospel, he was ever present with those who needed him, and loved his profession more than sordid gain. Like his Lord and Master, the Great Physician of souls and bodies, he laid down his life in ministering to suffering. He was a Christian because he knew Christ and loved Him; and loving Christ because he loved his fellow men, he did the works of the Master. And when the voice from Heaven spoke, as we were lowering him into his last earthly resting place, with the choir on earth singing the sweet strains of "For all thy saints who from their labours rest," we felt that the Holy Spirit leading the choir in Heaven, took up the strain—"They rest from their labours, and their works do follow them."

Resolved, that these Resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Lodge and a copy sent to the widow of our beloved Knight and Brother; and also, to the county papers.

Respectfully and courteously submitted.

Franklin B. Adkins, P. C. and O. C., George W. Messick, P. C. and Prelate, Albert L. Jones, P. C. & K. of R. & S. Committee.

Resolutions.

Whereas, our friend and brother in this Conclave of Wisdom, Dr. William Henry Harrison Dashiell, passed the outer to the inner circle of perfection, on Monday afternoon, October 21st, as the sun was setting in the West, we his friends and collaborators in the search for that treasure which the Seer declared to be more precious than rubies, in Conclave assembled, wish to bear testimony to the wise counsel; earnest zeal; pure life and illustrious example of him who has passed over the level of time to that undiscovered country, from whose bourne, no traveller returns.

Therefore, be it resolved, that he being ever an earnest, conscientious, and untiring seeker after Wisdom, was always ready, but cautious in advising others, who not having reached the same number of milestones along the path of knowledge, applied to him for guidance. Like all those who have really learned, he fully realized how much there was yet to be retained as veil after veil lifted, there must be veil after veil behind.

Be it further Resolved, that we deeply sympathize with his widow in her affliction, and pray that the Blessed Spirit of Wisdom and Understanding "Connaet and Ghostly Strength; Knowledge and True Godliness and the Spirit of Holy Fear—will strengthen her faith, lighten her pathway and give her perfect peace.

Resolved that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Conclave and a copy thereof, be sent to the widow of our Beloved Brother and to the county press, for publication.

Respectfully submitted;

Franklin B. Adkins, Albert L. Jones, Nathaniel P. Dashiell, Committee.

Nature "makes all things beautiful in their time." Every one of life's seasons, when life moves on Nature's lines as its own charm and beauty. Many women dread that period when they must experience change of life. They fear that face and form may suffer by the change, and that they may fail to please those whom they love. The value of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription in this crisis of woman's life lies in the fact that it assists Nature. Its use preserves the balance and buoyancy of the mind and sustains the physical powers. Many women have expressed their gratitude for the help and comfort given by Favorite Prescription in this trying period. Its benefits are not passing but permanent. No "patent medicine" because all its ingredients are printed on the bottle wrapper.

The Spirit Of Home.

It was obvious to him that neither carpets nor furniture, no matter how new and fine, could be arranged so as to make a home. Old carpets and old furniture have much the character of old friends, and they suit the Farmer to a T. But old or new, they have nothing to do with a home if something else is lacking. What that something is, or how it is to be acquired, no man can tell you: there is no recipe for it. According to a well defined rumor the Pullman palace cars have been the means of rendering many a home hideous, and a hideous home can never be fashioned into a home. The finest things in the world are as cheap as dirt when they are not subordinate to something else. They cannot make a home if the spirit of home be not in those who inhabit the house. It is bred in the air, it is borne on the breeze and is so insistent that no one can mistake it.

We all know that every dwelling house is not a home. Neither poverty nor riches can make it so, and that is a pity, too, since we are all so anxious to breathe its atmosphere. The stuffy smell of the shop, the intolerable odor of varnish will not destroy it, nor will they make it more pronounced. Old furniture, for which there is such a peristent demand, will not better it. All of us know a number of fine houses where the massive walls enclose and try vainly to hide some of the most hideous tangles of life and hope. And so it is that fine houses and mostly furnishings play no part whatever in the making of a home; they have nothing to do with it. —Joel Chandler Harris in Uncle Remus's Magazines for October.

CONFIRMED PROOF.

Residents of Salisbury Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proven.

In gratitude for complete relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Salisbury, who so testified years ago, now say their cures were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Salisbury sufferers.

J. D. Jouburn, farmer, living two miles out from Salisbury, Md., says: "My first attack of kidney complaint was in 1899. I was laid up three weeks at that time. I seemed to recover and was able to be around. I had two more attacks when it settled down to a regular daily headache and misery through my loins, limbs, joints and muscles. I do not think that I was wholly free from pain one moment during four years. It was as bad at night as during the day. I doctored and I think used every known remedy for kidney trouble, at least everyone that I heard of. Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and I got them at White & Leonard's drug store. The first box gave me so much relief that I kept on taking them using several boxes. They cured me and the cure was a lasting one as not a vestige of the trouble has ever returned. I made a statement for publication in 1903 endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills, and it gives me great pleasure at this time, May 11, 1907, to reiterate all that I said in my former statement."

"Whom does it belong to?" asked the good man.

How To Cure A Cold.

Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids excretion, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale at Toulson's Drug Store, Salisbury, Md.

PERIODS OF PAIN

While no woman is entirely free from periodic suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Irregularities and pain are positive evidence that something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to serious derangement of the feminine organism.

Thousands of women have found relief from all periodic suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science.

It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs women of their health and strength.

A QUARTER FOR PESTER.

And Even at that she Was Getting off Cheap.

Mr. Huckins was trying to make over a screen door for the Widow Jennings. The day was hot and muggy, and she hung over him all day with questions, suggestions and complaints.

"Aren't you getting that too narrow?" asked the widow, hovering over the carpenter in a way suggestive of some large, persistent insect.

"No, ma'am," said Mr. Huckins. "You know a few minutes ago you thought 'twas too wide, and I measured it to show ye."

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. Jennings. "Well, anyway, I believe it'll sag if you don't change the hinge. Just hold it up and see."

Mr. Huckins held the door in place, and proved that the hinges were in the right stops, and after that Mrs. Jennings kept silence for a few moments.

"Oh, dear," she said, grasping Mr. Huckins' hand after the short respite. "I'm sure you planned it off so that the flies can get in at the top! Please hold it up again, and I'll just get on a chair and see if a fly could squeeze through. You may have to add a piece."

When it had been proved that not even the smallest and most enterprising fly could find entrance space, there was another short respite. After that Mrs. Jennings once more had an alarm over the possibility that the door might stick some where.

When at last it was hung and Mr. Huckins was ready to depart, the widow asked him for his bill.

"I don't make out any bills," said Mr. Huckins wearily. "But I'll tell ye what this work'll cost. If I'd've done it under the ordinary circumstances I have to contend with 'twould have been fifty cents, but in this case I'll have to charge ye an extra quarter, ma'am, for pester."

Trading on Honesty. "At a journalists' dinner in New York," said an editor, "I once heard the late William L. Brown, publisher of the New York News, tell an interesting story about an upright Ohio Judge.

"Colonel Brown said that when he was running the Youngstown Vindicator a civil case involving a large sum of money was tried before this Judge. It was the Smith-Jones case, and Smith won.

"A friend, meeting Smith later, said: 'I was surprised to hear that you won that case. I thought the evidence was rather in Jones' favor.'

"Maybe it was," said Smith, with a cunning smile. "But, you know, the Judge is such an honest old boy. The day before the case ended I sent him a letter begging him to accept an inclosure of $500."

"Why," said the other, "I should think that would have made you lose your case."

"To be sure, it would," said Smith, with another cunning smile; "only I signed Jones' name."

The Human Ball. N. C. Goodwin, the actor, described at dinner a Turkish bath that he once took in Mexico.

"My rubber," said Mr. Goodwin, "was a strong man, a very strong man. He laid me on the slab, and prodded and kneaded and punched and hammered me in a most emphatic way.

"At the end, after I had gotten up, he came behind me before my sheet was adjusted, and gave me on the bare back four resounding whacks with the palm of his enormous hand.

"What on earth did you do that for?" I panted, staggering.

"No offense, boss," said the man. "It was only to let the office know I was ready for the next bath. You see, the bell's out of order in this room."

Why He Thought So.

Willie—Is Mr. Jones near-sighted, mamma? Mamma—Not that I know of, dear. Willie—Well, he always sits so close to sister when they're in the parlor.

Her Idea of It.

Lady of the House—Martha, was your husband good to you during your illness? Martha—Yes'm. He was more like a friend than a husband.

Her Objection.

She—How dare you attempt to kiss me, sir! Don't you see that mirror there, placed so that they can see us in the next room!

A Double Hardship.

The following anecdote is told of a prominent Baptist minister, celebrated for his caustic wit:

He was speaking once at a dinner given to commemorate an important event in the history of New England, his text being, "The Pilgrim Fathers." "I have always," he said, "felt the deepest sympathy for the Pilgrim fathers, who suffered such extraordinary hardships in establishing a foothold in this country. But, sorry as I have felt for the Pilgrim fathers, I have felt still sorer for the Pilgrim mothers; for not only were they obliged to endure the same hardships, but they also endured the Pilgrim fathers." —Harper's Weekly.

The Humor of the Hour.

Bobby—Oh, auntie, dear, do come and look at my kite; it's right out of sight. —London Tatler.

A Friend.

Fred—Well, old man, I'm going to get married. Will you stand up with me? George—Sure, and after you've married a month you'll need a man to sit up with you.

There was a time when dogs did the roasting—at least they kept the meat turning, so it would not burn. "Spit dogs" they were called, and their descendants are called "spit" to this day. Spit dogs were trained to turn the spits on which roasted chickens, beef, ducks and turkeys. The little fellows did their work well. They were never known to let a fowl burn or to snatch a morsel or two from it. As late as 1816 spit dogs were employed.

BETRAYAL BY LETTER.

One of the diversions of modern magographers is to dig up the private correspondence of dead worthies, in order to glean from it what manner of man, the real Jones was. This practice has its intrusive aspects, but in results it is less startling than the latter day habit of pilfering the letters of the living, or publishing, under provocation or under court subpoena, missives marked "confidential."

It is becoming a hazardous thing to write a real letter. Your ex-inamorata will flash it upon the jury in a court trial, and prove, in damages secured, that an epistolary kiss is far more heinous than a real one. Your ex-friend will "give out" the record of your inmost thoughts. Your ex-stenographer will peddle his notes from office to office, and there will always be some newspaper to act the part of "fence" and take a profit from the stolen goods. The "love letters of a senator," the dispatches of a quack and the chatty confidences of a captain of industry may have a market value equally high.

The "perfect letter writer" nowadays does not write at all. When it becomes the fashion to accept the hospitality of other men in order to tattle about them, the wrong use of private correspondence will be matched by a treachery equally reprehensible.

GOWNS FOR MAGISTRATES.

It seems a rather queer thing that just as women appear to be inclined to discard gowns, men, and very important men at that, should be found anxious to put them on, says the New York Times. The magistrates of the city have solemnly resolved that they wish to wear gowns on the bench, and as there is nothing to prevent them from doing so, we shall undoubtedly soon see them all in the full-glowing silk which from time immemorial has been a part of the trappings and habiliments of the justice.

In certain mining camps in Arizona the Judge on a warm day, removes his coat and sometimes puts his feet on the table. But in those places nobody respects the law. Every citizen retains the privilege of taking it into his own hands as often as he chooses. But here we have some respect for the law left still, and are trying to cultivate a good deal more. The best way to make people respect the law is to enforce it fully, equally and honestly. An accessory means is to have respect for its instruments and its procedure. As the gown is likely to be of some assistance, by all means let the magistrates put it on.

MAN AND MACHINE.

Too many untoward incidents have presented the automobilist in the light of a ruthless superman defiant of constable, careless of the law, hitting and rushing on to escape detection and responsibility in his own dust. It is good, therefore, to see a marked development of social consciousness in his class.

Several owners of autocrats have had themselves appointed as special policemen to make arrests of illegal speeding. Incidents are multiplying where automobiles have killed or maimed, and taken them in record time to the nearest hospital. Wealthy devotees of the sport are showing a disposition to surrender their cars on stated days to the use of the invalid pool.

It takes a little while to socialize so dynamic a thing as the automobile, and to adjust the individuality of its owner to the huge powers of which it possesses him. There is occasion for satisfaction that the man is at last measuring up to the machine.

Lord Rothschild, following the custom of thirty years has sent to King Edward his annual gift of one thousand cigars worth $2.65 each. Couldn't you hear in imagination the avvil chorus if Rockefeller our richest man should similarly compliment the White House? There is strength in the contention that it is not so much graft as sensitiveness to graft that is characteristic of America.

The German scientist's prediction that water will be worth 15 cents a drink by and by creates no uneasiness. By the time the water in the highest coats is 15 cents, the whisky will undoubtedly be free.

Charged with swindling a pawn-broker, an English lord was sent to the Penitentiary. Bit rough on the industrious garter and hard working burglar who had to associate with a piker in crime like this.

A New York man joked while his leg was being cut off. That sounds very fine and heroic, but let him toss off a few merry quips while his teeth are being pulled if he wants to attract attention.

Bill to legalize marriage was a deceased wife's sister is again being agitated in England, but just who it is that now wants to foreclose a matrimonial mortgage on an entire family is not mentioned.

Thousands of struggling authors will heartily endorse the statement by a Boston pundit, that "somebody is writing good literature that never gets into print."

THE COFFEE MASQUERADE

Advice of the largest coffee dealers in the world is always to buy the old-fashioned Arbuckles' ARIOSA Coffee in the sealed packages. Don't ask for a pound of Mocha and Java, or buy by the price for Coffee fluctuates and you cannot get the same coffee for the same price all the time unless you pay too much for it. Most of the so-called Mocha and Java Coffee is simply masquerading, and is not nearly as good coffee for you as Arbuckles' ARIOSA, the blend of the Brazilian Coffees most suitable to the taste and health of American people. By the books there is no difference between roasted Java and Brazilian Coffees; many people drink Brazilian but pay for Java. The principal difference is that Arbuckles' costs you less. It is a mistake to believe that a high price guarantees quality. When you buy Arbuckles' ARIOSA Coffee, you get a full one pound package of the leading Coffee of the world. Its sales for 37 years are greater than the combined sales of all the other packaged coffees. By giving better Coffee for the money, we have built up a business exceeding the combined businesses of the four next largest coffee firms in the whole world. If your dealer will not supply the genuine, write to ARBUCKLE BROS., New York City.

FARM IMPROVEMENT

In Maryland Has Been Rapid in Recent Years. Being Modernized.

There has been a marked and most gratifying advance in the improvement of farms in almost every part of the State. In all the great wheat growing counties the yield per acre has greatly increased and far more money is realized from the sale of what may be termed by products. The people in the country live better than they did in former years. They have more comfortable homes and more of the conveniences of life, and they raise more of that which they consume. This has all been brought about by better methods and more intelligence in farming. There is less wastefulness and greater diversity in crops if the wheat crop fails, the farmer has something else upon which he can live.

Thirty years ago a large proportion of the farms of the State were heavily mortgaged, and to provide for the annual interest was the great problem of the year which the farmer had to solve. Since then the farm mortgage has almost disappeared from Maryland, and almost every industrious farmer has a balance each year which he either puts in bank or spends in the improvement of his property. Between 1880 and 1900, notwithstanding the Civil War and the destruction of the labor system in that time, the value of farm property in Maryland increased about $140,000,000. Between 1700 and 1800 the value of farm products increased nearly $9,000,000 a year.

In every part of the State have the farmers improved their condition more certainly and to a greater extent than in those counties where tobacco is the main crop. The farmers in the tobacco counties have not advanced so rapidly in wealth, and the farms seem but little more productive than they were before the Civil War. At one time the people in nearly every part of Maryland were engaged in tobacco growing. All of them have abandoned it as their money crop, except in three counties, where it is still the main reliance, and parts of two other counties. And in every instance the counties which have abandoned the cultivation of tobacco as the chief crop have advanced more rapidly in wealth than those who have adhered to it. For example, Howard county exceeds Calvert county in area but 30 square miles, and its wealth is assessed at four times as great a sum. Charles county is larger than Carroll, while the valuation of Carroll is five times as great as that of Charles. St. Mary's is larger than Queen Anne's and Queen Anne's wealth is more than double that of St. Mary's. One of the reasons why the tobacco growing industry has not advanced at the same pace with the production of other crops is, perhaps the fact that tobacco is a crop that requires proportionately more labor than any other of our staples, and farm labor is becoming more and more unobtainable and machinery cannot be employed upon tobacco growing and preparation for market as it is employed in wheat and some other crops.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS

Should Receive More Thought Says Judge Dennis of Baltimore. Some Ideas From The Bench.

Looking back over a long experience on the bench, Judge J. Uphar Dennis of Baltimore has reached the conclusion that the press and pulpit do not pay enough attention to the question of marriage. He believes that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure; that if people were wisely advised, before marriage they would not keep the divorce courts so busy afterward.

In his cozy office in the Courthouse Thursday Judge Dennis discussed the question of marriage and divorce. "The divorce laws are alright," he said. "There is no necessity for altering them. The trouble about marriage is that so many people go into it without giving it proper consideration. They ought to be advised on the subject by the pulpit and the press. We do not want more divorce laws; we want more common sense advice about matrimony."

Imperfections of Human Nature.

"What is the leading cause of divorce, Judge?" he was asked. "The many imperfections of human nature," he said promptly. "You can not ascribe the general failings of matrimony to any specific cause. Here's a poor fellow for instance, who makes a dollar or so a day. He comes home some evening and the dinner isn't just right, and there's a quarrel. The upshot of it is that he clears out and leaves the wife to shift for herself. It makes no difference to him. Perhaps he'll get a job in some other city; any place where he has a job is home to him. Well, his wife ought to be allowed to divorce him and marry some fellow who'll take care of her—that is, if she wants to. As it is, she's neither maid, widow nor wife. The point is that the couple went into the married state headlong, without duly considering the fact that marriage is a bond for life. They hadn't been advised on the subject. If they had they probably wouldn't have been married in the first place. This is where the pulpit ought to come in. Preachers ought to talk more about these questions; so ought the newspapers."

Too Much Attention To Divorce Scandals.

"As a matter of fact the newspapers pay more attention to the exploitation of divorce scandals than they do to advising people about being married. And it does a great deal of harm. Some half-baked intellects see these long accounts of the marital troubles of prominent people, and finally they begin to think that they'll have to get a divorce, too, in order to be in the swim."

"Do you think, Judge, that poverty causes much of the divorce court's business?"

"It is responsible for some. But, understand me, do not mean to say that poor people ought not to be married. I do mean to say that they ought to consider it carefully before taking so serious a step, just as rich people should do."

How City Compares With Others.

Judge Dennis says that Baltimore compares favorably to any city in the country as regards the number of divorces, with the exception of Charleston, S. C., where divorces are not permitted except by Legislative enactment.

"As I say," remarked the Judge, "the divorce laws in Maryland are entirely sufficient. We don't want any changes. What we do want is more thought on the subject by the educators of the people."

"Who are the most to blame for divorce—men or women?"

Both Sides Equally To Blame.

"Lord bless you, that question cannot be answered by any general statement. Humanity isn't perfect. It's full of imperfections, and trouble is bound to come when two people settle down to live the remainder of their natural lives together. It makes no difference which side is to blame. As a matter of fact, suppose one side is as often at fault as the other. The point is that trouble does come, and that much of it ends in the divorce courts, and some of it would certainly be prevented if people were made to realize beforehand the irreversibility of the step—the fact that it isn't a temporary arrangement, but a life contract—and could be made to think seriously before getting into it."

Judge Dennis was moved to make these observations on the subject of matrimony by the fact that he has been busied lately with the hearing of a large number of alimony cases.

LIQUOR MEN PLAN

An Attack On The Constitutionality Of Local Option In Delaware.

Determining to attack the constitutionality of the local option laws through which the saloons in Kent and Sussex Counties were closed by the proclamation of Governor Lea following the election, the hotel and saloon men of the two "dry" counties held a meeting in Wilmington Monday afternoon and it was unanimously decided to make an effort to set it aside. It is said that Willard Salisbury, a prominent attorney of Wilmington has been retained and will make the fight. The law is to be attacked on the ground that it becomes operative as soon as the result of the election is issued by the Governor in a proclamation, and that it does not give the hotel and saloon men an opportunity to dispose of their properties and stock.

Death Caused By Nail.

Thomas Dryden, 25 years old, son of the late Joshua W. Dryden, of Pocomoke, died at the home of his mother Monday morning of lockjaw, after an illness of about ten days. He was an employee of R. P. Stevenson, the town electrician. His death was due to a nail on which he stepped in descending from a ladder, while engaged in wiring one of the residences now being built in Pocomoke City. Symptoms of tetanus began to develop about five days ago which gradually became more alarming until convulsions seized him early Monday morning causing almost instant death.

After the dissolution of their firm, Mr. Fowler went to Brooklyn, N. Y., and took a position in one of the railway offices, which he held until last July, when falling health compelled him to remove to Salisbury. Decidedly a member of Governor E. E. Jackson's staff with the rank of Colonel. "Ned" as he was known to a host of friends in Salisbury was a genial and kind hearted man, and his death is regretted by those who knew him. He married Miss Belle Williams, daughter of the late John D. Williams, who survives. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon conducted by Rev. ## SAD FIRE ACCIDENT.

Mrs. E. J. Truitt's Little Grand-daughter Burned To Death. Grandmother Fatally Injured Trying To Save Her.

A sad fire accident happened at the home of Elijah J. Truitt, near Powellville, this week. Mr. and Mrs. Truitt's little grand-daughter was at their home on a visit, and being left alone for a few moments got too near the fire. Her clothing caught in the flames and her grandmother, Mrs. Truitt, who was about 78 years old, attracted by her screams, rushed to her rescue. Seeing the condition of the little girl she caught her in her arms and attempted to put out the flames. This she did after a while, but not until her clothing was burned off, and the child so badly burned that she died almost immediately afterwards. The clothing of Mrs. Truitt, herself, caught on fire and before it could be extinguished she had received burns that proved fatal to her, after suffering with great pain for several days. The little girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Brittingham and was four years, six months and five days old. She was buried Tuesday, Nov. 12th. Mrs. Truitt is survived by three children, Gen. W. Truitt, of Willards, John Truitt, Mrs. Sarah Matthea, Tenit Brittingham, a husband, Mr. Elijah James Truitt. The funeral services will be conducted at her home Sunday afternoon. ## GROTHERS WON 7769.

Official Canvass Of Votes Is Completed. Carried Baltimore By 4143, State By 3626. Some Predictions Go Astray.

Judge Crothers' plurality in Baltimore city is 4143, according to the official tabulation of the returns completed yesterday afternoon by the clerical force in the office of the Election Supervisors. His plurality in the whole State is 7769.

The same returns give Dr. Hering, for Comptroller, a plurality of 7981 in Baltimore city. The result on the Baltimore City ticket puts to shame those who dared to forecast results. Great concern was expressed for the political safety of States' Attorney A. S. J. Owens. He led his ticket. Judge Gorter was picked as the star vote getter. He ran far behind Judge Niles. The average Democrat would have great difficulty in giving a reason for outting the name of Mr. Stephen C. Little for Clerk of the Superior Court, yet he got less plurality and less votes than did Mr. Robert J. Padgett, Democratic candidate for Sheriff and a regular of the regulars. Both are genial men, with a faculty for making friends.

Democrats of the ultra-regular kind predicted dire things for Charles P. Coady, the Democratic candidate for the State Senate in the First district, because he was inclined to be independent. He got more votes than any Legislative candidate in the First district, Democrat or Republican.

The voters did seem to show appreciation of faithful political service. Leigh Marriot and Martin Lehmayr, Legislative candidates in the Third district, with good records to their credit, got big votes in that district, Lehmayr leading his ticket, with Marriot only a few hundred voters behind.

The vote in the counties for men at the head of the respective ticket followed precedent. The total vote there was about 250, greater than in Baltimore city. The pluralities for the Democratic candidates given by the city were about doubled in the counties. Baltimore county established a new high record by giving Judge Crothers a plurality of 2948.

Queen Anne's swung back sharply to the Democratic column, breaking completely away from the Citizens' party, under which the Republicans and Independents of the county were expected to make common cause. The Democratic county ticket was elected to a man.

The State vote for Governor, according to the official canvass, is as follows:

DOUBLE WEDDING

Takes Place At Quantico. Parrott—Woolford. Hearn—Woolford.

Many relatives and friends filled the Methodist Episcopal Church at Quantico, Wednesday at one p. m., to witness the double wedding of Mr. William R. Parrott and Miss Lillie Ellen Woolford, and Mr. Fenwick L. Hearn and Miss Bessie Frances Woolford. As the couples entered the vestibule of the church, Mr. Ira Disharoon sang "Love Me And The World Is Mine" with organ accompaniment. Miss Mabel Bailey rendered Lohengrin bridal march as the couples walked up the aisle of the church preceded by the ushers, Dr. Lynch and Mr. W. Knowles Gordy. The double ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Gough, pastor of the church. The brides are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ashby Woolford, of Quantico district. They were attired in costumes of brown cloth with hats and gloves to match and carried white chrysanthemums. Immediately after the wedding the happy couples drove to Salisbury where they took the train for a wedding tour.

Big Vote Cast.

The official statement of the Senatorial election returns shows that Ex-Gov. John Walter Smith's plurality was 1717. His total vote was 48,121. Governor Warfield received 30,205 votes and Congressman Talbot 16,214, making a total vote for the three competing candidates of 94,445, which is only a few thousand short of the total Democratic vote cast in the State. Senator Whyte, who had no opposition for the short term, received 68,200 votes. The total vote in Baltimore city was 39,256, showing that the interest here was not quite as pronounced as it was in the counties of Maryland.

Miss Mildred Keller, 718 13th street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I can safely recommend Peruna for coughs. I had it for years and it would respond to no kind of treatment, or if it did it was only temporary, and on the slightest provocation the trouble would come back. "I was in such a state that my friends were alarmed about me, and I was advised to leave this climate. Then I tried Peruna, and to my great joy found it helped me from the first dose I took, and a few bottles cured me. "It built up my constitution, I regained my appetite, and I feel that I am perfectly well and strong." Mildred Keller. "We have on file many thousand testimonials like the above. To Pump A Great Sea Dry.
 Little Holland, with its 6,000,000 people living safely behind their washed dykes, is about to make a new conquest over its old enemy, the ocean writes Emmet Campbell Hall in the Technical World Magazine for November. Already Dutch engineers have begun the tremendous task which will result in turning the Zuyder Zee into 1,400 square miles of dry land. Where of old the great Dutch sea fleets gathered, where now 4,000 fishermen sink their nets there will rise happy villages, broad pastures, popular bordered roads and sleepy canals—new farms and homes for 50,000 Dutchmen.
 The task to be undertaken is a tremendous one. It will cost nearly $75,000,000. In return the government expects to secure annual rentals of more than $3,000,000 from those who occupy and till the bare ground.
 The Zuyder Zee has occupied a most prominent place in Dutch history. On its shores are the ancient towns of Medemblik, Hoorn, Harderwyk, Norren and Enkhuizen, under whose walls the Dutch fleets used to lie at anchor in the days when Holland disputed with England the supremacy of the seas. It seems peculiarly appropriate, now that Holland has turned from the ways of war to the to the paths of peace, that she should win in a great fight with the sea—a fight that has continued throughout hundreds of years—attaining victory only by ceaseless vigilance and fierce endeavor. And yet one cannot but experience a feeling of regret that those ancient cities which, though nations rose and fell, made good the circles of their battered ramparts, defying alike the power of the sea and the might of Spain should become quiet inland towns, far removed from the roar of the breakers against the dykes.
 The above is but the opening of a beautifully illustrated article of interest and importance, well worth the price of the magazine to any reader.

Communicated.
 To the Public:—
 We, the members of Mt. Olivet M. P. Church, and also members of the official board of that church do write the following article to relieve our pastor, Rev. E. P. Perry, of the injustice done him and our church because of the false rumors that have been circulated in the towns of Delmar and Salisbury relative to his attitude toward the licensed saloon, and also the attitude of the church in the same matter.
 The following reports have been started. First, that the Methodist Protestant Church of Delmar was very much exercised on account of the pastor being in favor of license. Second, that he would not do anything for temperance in any way. Third, that he was allied with the license people and was aiding them in their work.
 We are sure that anyone will agree with us that these reports are of a very serious nature, and if they were as all true would be still more serious; but we take this opportunity to put in the columns of the several local papers the following statements relative to Rev. Mr. Perry's attitude toward the liquor traffic. He has done many things to let the public know his real attitude in this matter. He stated in the most emphatic terms from the pulpit on several occasions to large congregations that he was opposed in every way to the liquor traffic, and had and could do all in his power to abolish this terrible evil. Furthermore, he wrote a lengthy article in the Delmar News setting forth his opinion of the saloon and arguing its being driven out of the land. He also had the Rev. Alfred Smith of the Wilmington M. E. Conference, and a representative of the Anti Saloon League, to preach in his church, and these facts should certainly be enough to convince all who want to believe the truth that Mr. Perry is a thorough temperance man.
 "It has also been said that he was too friendly with those persons who handle liquor. His friendly attitude toward them has been and we are sure will be to teach God's truth. We know he has spoken to men who deal in liquor about the welfare of their souls. He has gone to a number of worldly men of this town, those toward whom others seem to stand aloof and has had lengthy conversations with them about their spiritual welfare. We have gotten knowledge of these facts by those same men coming to members of our church and saying that Rev. Mr. Perry had had more influence over them relative to their spiritual welfare than any man they had ever meet. It may be seen every day whenever the opportunity is given him to teach the worldly people that which is right. It can be said of him that his conversation with all with whom he comes in contact is of the most edifying character. Since he has been pastor of the M. P. Church he has had the greatest success ever known in the church. He has so managed the work that it has improved in every department. Improvements have been made on the church and parsonage. In many ways the spiritual condition of the church is far better than it has been for years, and we are glad as an official board representing, we are sure, the sentiments of every member of the church, to thus publicly state that we are proud of our beloved pastor and feel that we have received a great blessing by having him with us. And in conclusion we will say that deep water in running makes but little noise and yet has great effect at the proper time and place, and thus we can speak of our pastor, that while he has made but little confusion we know wherein he has accomplished much good in the temperance cause.

FERRIBLE ITCHING AND SCRATCHING
 On Hands, Feet and Face—Caused by Poison Oak and Ivy—Was Unable to Rest Night or Day—Developed into Eczema, which Affected Whole of System—Suffered 4 Years Without Relief.
 CURED BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"A healthy person does not heed statements made by sick people, but if such persons suffer from poisonous weeds, a remedy is anxiously desired. I suffered severely for four years from poison oak and ivy. My condition was serious, as I could not rest night or day and was free from a terrible itching sensation from scratching on my hands between the fingers, my feet and face. I got the best of advice and treatment from six different doctors who were anxious to cure me. One of the doctors told me that when the poison was cured, eczema (a worse disease) would follow, which became true. My eyesight was affected, and I went to a hospital especially for the eyes and got relief, but eczema got a terrible hold on my system.
 "I was about to give up all hope of ever being cured, yet I could not be reconciled to such results, as my health had been good and free from any disease all my life. My age is seventy-three years. In my extremity I happened to read of Cuticura Remedies for skin diseases, and wrote you to please send me a supply of the Cuticura Remedies. I was anxious about my condition and desired to evade any spurious imitation. This was in July, 1905, and I was instructed to call on a certain druggist for the Cuticura Remedies. I bought five boxes Cuticura Ointment; also some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Pills as I required them. In four weeks' treatment my face was smooth, and the itching gradually left my hands and feet and I could rest comfortably, for which I am grateful and happy. W. Field Cowen, Justice of the Peace and Notary Public, Hartly, Del., May 15, 1906."
 Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Form of Itchings, Chafes, and Aches consists of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills. MAKING A NEWSPAPER
 Moving Pictures Show Every Step in Production of "The Record."
 There has been a general curiosity on the part of the public to know how a modern newspaper is made and to see all the whole story was recently told at Keith's Philadelphia Theatre in a remarkable series of life-motion pictures called "The Making of a Modern Newspaper." "The Philadelphia Record" was selected as the model by S. Lubin, who made the series of very realistic pictures.
 The series opens with a scene representing a newspaper office over a hundred years ago. This is to give artistic and historical contrast to the great mechanical advance in journalism since that time. It shows the outside of an old Philadelphia printing shop, and the next glimpse is of the inside of the same printery. A journeyman is laboriously pulling impressions with a Blower, or Washington hand press, while his apprentice is busy among the type, both dressed in the costume of the period. Next appears Ben Franklin himself. He walks to the window, looks critically at the sheet, and again returns to his office, in a short time putting on his hat and walking out.
 The next picture leaps across a century and shows the present-day view of the home of "The Philadelphia Record." In a flash is seen "The Record's" famous Electric Baseball Score Board, with great numbers of the telegraph room of an exciting game between the Detroit and the Athletics.
 We, the members of Mt. Olivet M. P. Church, and also members of the official board of that church do write the following article to relieve our pastor, Rev. E. P. Perry, of the injustice done him and our church because of the false rumors that have been circulated in the towns of Delmar and Salisbury relative to his attitude toward the licensed saloon, and also the attitude of the church in the same matter.
 The following reports have been started. First, that the Methodist Protestant Church of Delmar was very much exercised on account of the pastor being in favor of license. Second, that he would not do anything for temperance in any way. Third, that he was allied with the license people and was aiding them in their work.
 We are sure that anyone will agree with us that these reports are of a very serious nature, and if they were as all true would be still more serious; but we take this opportunity to put in the columns of the several local papers the following statements relative to Rev. Mr. Perry's attitude toward the liquor traffic. He has done many things to let the public know his real attitude in this matter. He stated in the most emphatic terms from the pulpit on several occasions to large congregations that he was opposed in every way to the liquor traffic, and had and could do all in his power to abolish this terrible evil. Furthermore, he wrote a lengthy article in the Delmar News setting forth his opinion of the saloon and arguing its being driven out of the land. He also had the Rev. Alfred Smith of the Wilmington M. E. Conference, and a representative of the Anti Saloon League, to preach in his church, and these facts should certainly be enough to convince all who want to believe the truth that Mr. Perry is a thorough temperance man.
 "It has also been said that he was too friendly with those persons who handle liquor. His friendly attitude toward them has been and we are sure will be to teach God's truth. We know he has spoken to men who deal in liquor about the welfare of their souls. He has gone to a number of worldly men of this town, those toward whom others seem to stand aloof and has had lengthy conversations with them about their spiritual welfare. We have gotten knowledge of these facts by those same men coming to members of our church and saying that Rev. Mr. Perry had had more influence over them relative to their spiritual welfare than any man they had ever meet. It may be seen every day whenever the opportunity is given him to teach the worldly people that which is right. It can be said of him that his conversation with all with whom he comes in contact is of the most edifying character. Since he has been pastor of the M. P. Church he has had the greatest success ever known in the church. He has so managed the work that it has improved in every department. Improvements have been made on the church and parsonage. In many ways the spiritual condition of the church is far better than it has been for years, and we are glad as an official board representing, we are sure, the sentiments of every member of the church, to thus publicly state that we are proud of our beloved pastor and feel that we have received a great blessing by having him with us. And in conclusion we will say that deep water in running makes but little noise and yet has great effect at the proper time and place, and thus we can speak of our pastor, that while he has made but little confusion we know wherein he has accomplished much good in the temperance cause.

How To Cure a Cold.
 Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids excretion, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale at Toulson's Drug Store, Salisbury, Md.
 Stealing souvenirs has become so common that some hotel keepers, in grim humor, have their silver and glass marked. "Stolen from the Hotel." The caterer who provided the luncheon for the Kaiser's yacht, Meteor, lost nearly all the silver which he furnished for the occasion. An American naval officer who had given a lady visitor the freedom of the ship discovered that all the buttons on his best uniform had been taken off. He had the courage to seek her back to the cabin, provide needle and thread, and lock her in until the buttons were sewed on again. An Italian warship which visited New York harbor was so shamefully robbed that visitors had to be entirely excluded; not long ago the Swedish warship which brought Prince Wilhelm to Boston was stripped, as one of the officers put it, "of everything but the anchors and guns." Such acts of vandalism, instead of being regarded lightly ought to be called by their

THE NEW UNION STATION AT WASHINGTON.
 All the passenger trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad will enter and depart from the new Union Station at Washington on November 17, 1907, and on the same date the present station at Sixth and B Streets will be closed to traffic.
 The date is singularly fitting. In 1807 both wings of the Capitol were completed, and now a century later a building every larger is opened for a great public utility, which did not exist at that time.
 The railroad terminal facilities at Washington have been inadequate for years, particularly at inauguration periods and on the assemblage of other large gatherings, at the Capital. Their improvement was imperative, and so it has come about that, by the combined effort of the railroads and the United States Government, one of the largest and unquestionably the handsomest railroad station in the world is now provided not only for the convenience of the citizens of the United States, but as a notable architectural addition to the great public buildings of the Capital City. It is a monumental edifice and a worthy type of the future structures which will make Washington the municipal beauty spot of the world.
 The station, including the Concourse, is longer than the Capitol and nearly as wide. The waiting-room is larger than the hall of the House of Representatives. The concourse, which is the train lobby, is longer than the interior of the Capitol building, if it were one continuous hall, and half as wide. It is the largest building ever constructed for a like purpose.
 Within this great structure there is every convenience the traveler can desire, so grouped about the central hall as to serve his purpose to the best advantage.
 The lofty arched entrances face a plaza as large as an ordinary city park, which will be laid out as a plaza and adorned with shrubbery and fountains.
 The trackage is sufficient for all demands upon it, and as the entrance to and exit from the trains are separated, the confusion and jostling of hurrying crowds moving in opposite directions will be obviated. The bigness of the station is impressive; its utilities obvious.

JAP A SPY FOR RUSSIA

Traitor To His Country, He Was Hacked To Death.

TRAILING THE SUSPECT

Floot Discovered in Tokio—Attempt of Russified Japanese to Secure Naval Secrets—The Spy Killed by an Accomplice After He Had Betrayed Himself.

During the recent Japanese troubles on the Pacific Coast various persons thought they discovered Japanese spies taking measurements and making notes about the coast defenses thereabouts. The Japanese War office may have a more or less perfect system for gathering information about the defenses of other countries, but it is a safe guess that it never before had to investigate the operations of one of Japan's own people spying on Japan's own forts in the interests of a foreign power. The Tokio Asahi prints an interesting story of this unique treason of a Japanese.

Seiji Mayeda, a former instructor in the Oriental Languages School of Valdivostok and a naturalized Russian citizen, dropped into Tokio after a continued absence of more than ten years. He was highly educated and passed among the gentlemen of the better class in Tokio political clubs as a personable man of refinement. Because he spoke Russian fluently and had lived many years in Siberia it was not considered a matter of suspicion that Mayeda spent a great deal of his time with Russian Military Attaches of the legation.

About the same time that Mayeda came to Tokio another man from Siberia, Kuzuki Imamura, came down from the Japanese fisheries at Nikolaevsk in the Primorsk Province, where he had been working since the war. He went to his home in the slums of the city and nobody knew that he ever met Mayeda, the gentleman, or that he knew anything about Mayeda's movements.

Recently a Japanese cooile of the low class visited the office of the Tokio Asahi and desired a word with the news editor. When the cooile had that satisfactory carefully secluded in an inner room he told him that if a reporter from the Asahi would follow Mayeda, the gentleman and clubman, on the train to the Yokosuka naval station that night he would learn that the Russified Japanese was a traitor and that he was preparing reports of the defenses at Yokosuka for the Russian Government.

Marnu, the cooile, told the Asahi editor that Mayeda had gained his confidence by hiring him as a servant and that the day before Mayeda had asked him to take a night trip to Yokosuka, promising that for the work he would do there would be a large reward. Marnu had suspected his master of being in league with the Russians because of his constant association with the legation staff officers, and this Yokosuka trip convinced him, he said, of the treacherous designs of the man.

Japanese newspapers are not slow at scenting news even though the reporters wear cloaks and are happy on a salary that an American newspaper would not think of offering to an office boy. The Asahi immediately assigned a man to follow Mayeda and then notified the central office of the police.

That night when Mayeda and the cooile went to Shimizu station to take the train for Yokosuka an Asahi reporter and a detective followed. Mayeda thought to throw possible pursuers off the track by taking a Shimonoski train and changing at a junction beyond Yokohama, but the reporter and the detective were not fooled.

When Mayeda stopped overnight at an inn near Yokosuka the sleuths on his trail camped there also.

The next morning when the spy happened to catch sight of the two trailers he decided that it was getting warm for him and tried to double on his tracks, going for a time to the Yoshiwara on the outskirts of a neighboring town, then trying to make a quick loop back in the neighborhood of the forts.

Mayeda evidently grew suspicious, for he gave up the trip through the fortification zone on the following night and returned to Tokio. There it was that his career of treason came to a sudden end before the intervention of the police.

Kuzuki Imamura, the cooile who had known Mayeda in Siberia and who had come down from the fisheries to live in the slums of Tokio had got an intimation through some channel that the police believed that he and Mayeda were in the same plot. On the same day that Mayeda returned after the fruitless Yokosuka trip Imamura went to Mayeda's home and stabbed him a dozen times in the neck and body with a short sword.

The police subsequently searched Mayeda's papers and found confirmation of their suspicions—that he was trading in military secrets. They also found evidence enough to convince them that the patriotic Imamura was in the plot with the gentleman Mayeda. So Imamura will get the punishment that Mayeda escaped.

HER MORNING TOILET

EMPEROR OF CHINA IS ROUGED WITH GREAT CEREMONY.

Often Necessary To Paint and Powder Her Thrice Before the Imperial Ideal is Reached—The Tedium Relieved By Song and Story.

The empress of China is rouged every morning regularly after breakfast until her cheeks flame delicately against the creamy composition with which the rest of her face has been coated. A huge mirror is then rolled to the couch upon which the source of all power in China reclines. Tai Hau studies the effects of the labors of her young ladies so critically that it is said to be necessary occasionally to rouge her twice or thrice before the technic of the operation quite realizes the imperial ideal. The monotony is made less tedious by song, the narration of court gossip and not infrequently application of her majesty's rattan cane to sensitive surfaces.

The penciling of the eyebrows and eyelashes has had to be abandoned. If we may trust French sources of information, owing to the growing weakness of the old lady's sight, but the lips continue to be carmined. The slightly stubborn growth of hair on chin and upper lip is dealt with after the fashion of those Western artists who obliterate black eyes by the application of heavy paint. A wig of extreme lightness, notwithstanding the suggestion of black hair, parted centrally, is adjusted to the cranium. The false teeth are nicely established in the appropriate place, one of the most trying achievements of the whole toilet, evidently, as the chronic swelling of the majesty's lower jaw is rumored to be due to some painful experience with artificial dentition.

No attack of illness could be too severe to justify the slightest omission of comical detail by the several ladies concerned with the empress dowager's toilet. Though Tai Hau be so ill that her day must be spent in bed, she is rouged, penciled and massaged on the flat of her back. She emerges from her toilet, we are confidently informed by the French daily just referred to, looking "perfectly natural."

Her appearance, even in the severe stage of the recent paralytic spell, was that of the "blooming matron" in "an autumnal glory of enchanting womanhood." Our contemporary admits that to a critical Western eye the complexion of Tai Hau would seem "greenish." But that coloration renders a feminine cuticle all the more seductive to the Manchou eye. Tai Hau being Manchou herself to the tips of her extremely long finger nails.

Her majesty wears peculiarly contrived gloves in bed, not as has been inferred, for the beautification of her supple, delicate hands, but for the preservation of that unparalleled length to which her finger nails have attained. The nails will break at times, the phenomenon portending, in her majesty's opinion, a calamity to the country.

By the time the last dash of carmine in the Cupid's bow of her majesty's upper lip has been made appropriate to the charm of woman at 40, the enuchs have begun to admit the throngs into the hall of audience. They comprise usually the privileged ones of the court of Pekin—a vicerey or two in favor, support porters of the four candidates for the post of heir apparent and some member of the diplomatic corps bearing a personal message from his sovereign. The progress of the imperial toilet is bulletined by the enuchs. The fate of a decree abolishing the opium traffic or the promulgation of an edict for which a whole province is sighing may depend upon the skill of the young lady with the rouge brush. Once the wig is adjusted and the empress has passed into the hall of audience—not to be confused with the grand apartment in which the diplomatic corps is officially welcomed—the serious business of Tai Hau's day commences. It may be summed up in the word "attention." So dexterous was the aged woman become in the art to which her life has been given that it is a saying in some parts of Pekin that she has ceased to live, but is evading death.—Current Literature.

Had Shelley Lived.

Great as is the poetry Shelly has left us I think it is not the pretense to what he might have done had he lived. He was coming daily to a ripier, fuller life, to greater power, saner vision. His poetry was growing steadily clearer and more direct, steadily freer from needless preachment and boyish diffuseness. We can note this in "The Skylark" and "The West Wind," more expeditious do we note it in "The Centinel." Symonds calls this play the greatest English drama since Shakespeare; and Symonds was not given to reckless praise. It is not Shelly's greatest work, but it is the freest from his youthful faults, and gives better than anything else a vision of his coming maturity. If the vision had not become reality—Shelly was as complex a nature as Hamlet, and needed as long to come to the fullness of his strength. Yet he died at 30, an age when the bard of Avon had but begun to build his fame. Had Shakespeare died at 30 what would he have left us? The blood-dripping nonsense of "Titus Andronicus," the splendid horror of "Richard III," the dainty music of "Midsummer Night's Dream," the undying pathos of "Romeo and Juliet." Much, indeed. But where would have been Hamlet, and Macbeth, and King Lear, and Othello, and Coriolanus, and Shylock, and Cleopatra, and Caesar? Set these by those and think you have a fair measure of what that summer storm on the Ligurian coast cost the world. Had Shelly lived I doubt not we should have had works from his pen as much surpassing anything we now possess as Macbeth overtops Richard III. The music which made the charm of his earlier verse, pulsing in double measure through his latest; music softer and fuller and less vexed by the turmoil of the world than ever before; and then, just as his greatness was ripening, the reaper came.—George L. Knapp in Lippincott's

The Corset.

The whole essence of a successful appearance revolves around this article, though frequently neglected, little item," remarks a fashionable authority. "The very cheap corset is an abomination, be the fibre what it may. A too slender form asks the assistance of a well-cut model to impart the necessary rounded curves while one blessed with too liberal an allowance of adipose tissue seeks the service of a shape so maneuvered as to lend altness and suppleness to an otherwise shapeless waist.

"Now a good corset is quite capable of circumventing any ordinary defect of a figure modern knowledge moreover, insisting that health and hygiene shall be also taken into strict account. There is no reason whatever for a corset to cause undue pressure anywhere, but the now-defunct outline demands a certain shapeliness of form while still maintaining the approved straight front.

A Queen's Precept.

Queen Alexandra takes womanly pleasure in feminine and domestic accomplishments, and is deeply interested in all matters that affect the health and well-being of the middle and lower classes. Her tastes, like those of the King are exceedingly simple, and she believes that every person in the ordinary walks of life should know how to cook a dinner and manage a baby.

The Queen has always been a lover of home and family; her devotion to her late father is a matter of history, and her constant attachment to brothers and sisters is equally well known. It follows naturally that her interests are closely bound up with those of her brother, King George, of Greece, about whom we have recently heard so much in connection with the current growing industry of his gallant little country.

The slightly stubborn growth of hair on chin and upper lip is dealt with after the fashion of those Western artists who obliterate black eyes by the application of heavy paint. A wig of extreme lightness, notwithstanding the suggestion of black hair, parted centrally, is adjusted to the cranium. The false teeth are nicely established in the appropriate place, one of the most trying achievements of the whole toilet, evidently, as the chronic swelling of the majesty's lower jaw is rumored to be due to some painful experience with artificial dentition.

No attack of illness could be too severe to justify the slightest omission of comical detail by the several ladies concerned with the empress dowager's toilet. Though Tai Hau be so ill that her day must be spent in bed, she is rouged, penciled and massaged on the flat of her back. She emerges from her toilet, we are confidently informed by the French daily just referred to, looking "perfectly natural."

Her appearance, even in the severe stage of the recent paralytic spell, was that of the "blooming matron" in "an autumnal glory of enchanting womanhood." Our contemporary admits that to a critical Western eye the complexion of Tai Hau would seem "greenish." But that coloration renders a feminine cuticle all the more seductive to the Manchou eye. Tai Hau being Manchou herself to the tips of her extremely long finger nails.

Her majesty wears peculiarly contrived gloves in bed, not as has been inferred, for the beautification of her supple, delicate hands, but for the preservation of that unparalleled length to which her finger nails have attained. The nails will break at times, the phenomenon portending, in her majesty's opinion, a calamity to the country.

By the time the last dash of carmine in the Cupid's bow of her majesty's upper lip has been made appropriate to the charm of woman at 40, the enuchs have begun to admit the throngs into the hall of audience. They comprise usually the privileged ones of the court of Pekin—a vicerey or two in favor, support porters of the four candidates for the post of heir apparent and some member of the diplomatic corps bearing a personal message from his sovereign. The progress of the imperial toilet is bulletined by the enuchs. The fate of a decree abolishing the opium traffic or the promulgation of an edict for which a whole province is sighing may depend upon the skill of the young lady with the rouge brush. Once the wig is adjusted and the empress has passed into the hall of audience—not to be confused with the grand apartment in which the diplomatic corps is officially welcomed—the serious business of Tai Hau's day commences. It may be summed up in the word "attention." So dexterous was the aged woman become in the art to which her life has been given that it is a saying in some parts of Pekin that she has ceased to live, but is evading death.—Current Literature.

HER MORNING TOILET

EMPEROR OF CHINA IS ROUGED WITH GREAT CEREMONY.

The empress of China is rouged every morning regularly after breakfast until her cheeks flame delicately against the creamy composition with which the rest of her face has been coated. A huge mirror is then rolled to the couch upon which the source of all power in China reclines. Tai Hau studies the effects of the labors of her young ladies so critically that it is said to be necessary occasionally to rouge her twice or thrice before the technic of the operation quite realizes the imperial ideal. The monotony is made less tedious by song, the narration of court gossip and not infrequently application of her majesty's rattan cane to sensitive surfaces.

The penciling of the eyebrows and eyelashes has had to be abandoned. If we may trust French sources of information, owing to the growing weakness of the old lady's sight, but the lips continue to be carmined. The slightly stubborn growth of hair on chin and upper lip is dealt with after the fashion of those Western artists who obliterate black eyes by the application of heavy paint. A wig of extreme lightness, notwithstanding the suggestion of black hair, parted centrally, is adjusted to the cranium. The false teeth are nicely established in the appropriate place, one of the most trying achievements of the whole toilet, evidently, as the chronic swelling of the majesty's lower jaw is rumored to be due to some painful experience with artificial dentition.

POLITICAL FEELINGS. There is one thing about the American people, and that is they can be aroused to as high a degree of enthusiasm before an election comes on as any Nation on the Globe.

After strolling around Norfolk for an hour and admiring the magnificent buildings for which the city is noted, they next took the Southern train for Mr. McGrath's home, arriving there about ten o'clock p. m.

On Friday morning they had arranged to have a genuine old Virginia fox hunt. The sound of the hunters horn called the party together about sunrise and a short time afterwards the forest was echoing with the music made by the hounds.

Therefore it is only logical to conclude that according to the opinions of the voters of the county, these men were on the wrong side of political questions, and it was this, and this only that caused their defeat.

Therefore to be defeated for ones' principles is no disgrace, but an honor instead, and the only humiliation or shame that can come to a man by a defeat, is the knowledge of unfair and dishonest practices used to bring about a victory, and this applies equally as well to the victors as to the vanquished.

Political principles are by no means the only issue involved but men themselves often become issues, and even if the nominees are clean, the ring or clique who are responsible for their candidacy come in for censure.

A Delightful Trip. Monday morning of last week Mr. Lafayette Hobbs and Moody Brown, two well known citizens of this county and residing near Salisbury, boarded the early morning train enroute for the Jamestown Exposition and for a hunting trip at the home of their friend Mr. L. W. McGrath at Vindraw, Va.

Next morning they arose about five o'clock and after a drive of about two hours they reached the hunting grounds of the deer to find that a party of hunters were waiting for them. In a few minutes the hounds were on the scent and in less than fifteen minutes after they had dismounted Mr. Hobbs shot and killed the deer.

On Saturday and Sunday were spent quietly at the home of their host. Monday morning the visitors were driven to Courthouse where they boarded the train for Norfolk and home, carrying with them vivid and pleasant memories of the most delightful trip of their lives and a desire to repeat their visit at their earliest opportunity.

Paid a Visit to "Scotty." Messrs. Joseph H. and Wm. E. G. Hitchens, of Frostburg, and James T. Robertson general freight and passenger agent of the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad at Cumberland returned Monday from a two weeks' trip to the Pacific Coast in the private car, Idlewild, made with a party of Eastern capitalists interested in copper.

FEARS OF THE INDIAN. The whirlwind and the Thunder Objects of Curious Theories. The Dakotas believe that there is a close relation between the whirlwind and the fluttering wings of a moth.

The Blackfeet see a relation between the moth and sleep and appeal to it when they desire to have dreams, for with them power is always conferred in a dream. In the case of unrequited love the whirlwind is invoked. It is believed that it can confuse the mind of a girl to such a degree that she cannot resist the pleadings of the enamoured suitor.

Some of the Dakotas believe that the bear controls the power of the whirlwind and that a prayer must be addressed to the animal for the assistance of the whirlwind. Sometimes a person will receive power from the bear in a dream of vision, and thus come to have the aid of the whirlwind because of the conceived relation between the two.

Whatlings made from the leg and wing bones of eagles are employed by the Dakotas to symbolize the cry of the eagle as a representative of the thunder bird. In battle, or sometimes in stress of great trial, they are sounded to summon the aid of the power of the thunder. As a rule a zigzag line is scratched down the sides of these whistles.

One Ranch a School District. Probably in no other State in the Union does a big ranch constitute a district, a family the members of a school board, and the son of the family the only pupil in the school district.

Such conditions exist on the Woods ranch, formerly known as the Seventy Ranch, near Hardin. The president of the school board is Charles Ailyn, manager of the ranch; secretary is his wife; and the treasurer a young woman living in the home.

Two German bacteriologists claim to have discovered an effective serum against typhus fever. It is obtained from horses, and as the result of many tests carried out independently in Berlin, Vienna and Prague, it has been shown to annul the fever, regularize the pulse and arrest diarrhoea. The names of the two bacteriologists are Dr. Meyer and Dr. Bergell.

Two days were spent automobiling in Death Valley, where the visitors met the famous "Scotty" and were entertained by him at his camp. Mr. Robertson said that "Scotty" was all that had been said about him and that there was no exaggeration as to his exploits. "Scotty" treated the visitors most hospitably.

TO REOPEN FAIR. Jamestown Exposition Directors Vote To Do So. Directors of the Jamestown Exposition Thursday afternoon took a bold stand in voting almost unanimously to reopen the Exposition next year.

The stockholders may be induced to vote to reopen it, because they probably could lose nothing and may gain something by it. But even then to make the reopening a success it would be necessary to have the National Government again participate in it, as well as the States, and that is at least a doubtful proposition, and the State Exposition Commissioners have already voted against it.

Stagn. Volcanic Eruptions. Floods And Quakes Coming. Signor Alfani, director of the Florence Observatory, Italy, states that the sun spots which he calculated are twelve times the size of the earth, and which will reach the solar meridian about the middle of November, are likely to lead to violent volcanic disturbances, resulting in storms, floods, volcanic eruptions and earthquakes.

The prediction has attracted attention from the fact that the former predictions of Signor Alfani have been realized. O. H. Kahn of the banking firm of Kahn, Loeb & Co. is a lover of fresh air and when he crossed the Atlantic on La Provence during her record-breaking westward trip, he insisted on having all the public room well ventilated.

ARRESTED FOR BRIBERY. FREE!

Larry Townsend, Gabriel Banks and Henry Taylor Held for The Grand Jury. Two cases of alleged bribery during the recent election in this county were given a preliminary hearing before Justice W. S. Boston Saturday afternoon. The first case was that of Larry Townsend, who, with two other men was placed under arrest election day, on a writ sworn out by Capt. William White.

Townsend was charged with having received money in consideration that he should vote the Democratic ticket, the money having been given him on the Monday night preceding the Tuesday election. White in his testimony stated that he was eighty three feet away and could not see the demonstration of the money owing to the darkness, nor could he identify the person giving the money.

Mr. Townsend denied that he had received any money for the purpose of voting, and that on the night in question he was not even at the place where the alleged bribery took place. The justice decided to hold Townsend for court and placed him under bail.

The second case was that of Granville Banks and Henry Taylor, both of Trappe District. The testimony in this case was that Banks had given Taylor a five dollar bill to vote the Democratic ticket. They both denied the charges. The Justice held both for the action of the Grand Jury.

By F. E. DAVISON — EDITORIAL STAFF

THE POWER OF THE MINORITY.

Nov. 17, '07. — (Judges 7:9-13.)

Here is a description of the strangest battle that was ever fought. Three hundred men made a night attack upon an army of 135,000 and practically wiped out the enemy.

Armed only with trumpets, empty pitchers and torches Gideon and his immortal 300 take their positions in small companies clear around the sleeping host. Then at the word of command they lift a mighty battle shout, shake their blazing torches in the air, and smash the crockery pitchers to make the most racket possible.

The Midianites, already trembling with apprehension of the approaching Israelites, estimated by their spies to number at least 32,000, are awakened out of a sound sleep to find themselves surrounded, and a panic seizes them, compared with which Bull Run was an orderly retreat.

Gideon was a master of strategy as the result shows. Three hundred against 135,000, and the 300 victors! When was there ever a conflict equal to that! One hundred and thirty-five thousand practically annihilated; not a man of the 300 injured.

Thus early in the history of nations it was demonstrated that it is not numbers that counts. We hear a great deal in these days about majorities, and the power of numbers, but the fact is the world has always been ruled, regulated and regenerated by the minority.

So it has always been. We look back and say there have been a multitude of leaders, but if we examine history closely we shall find Cromwell leading the Puritans, Wesley leading the Methodists, Railkes establishing the Sunday schools, John Howard purifying the prisons, Florence Nightingale regenerating the hospitals, Abraham Lincoln freeing the slaves, Frances Willard redeeming the vot. Gen. Booth uplifting the lapsed masses.

There never was a greater lie than that the voice of the people is the voice of God. The voice of God is always a voice crying the wilderness. It is a still small voice uttered in a few hearts here and there, and by these hearts shouted on the housetops till the thoughtless multitudes are compelled to listen.

You cannot do much with the crowd. The crowd never did anything for the world or for itself. It is only a man here and there who has the courage of his convictions, and who thereby becomes a leader, the rest follow him like sheep, or else stone him to death only to weep bitter tears of regret at his loss, and rear a costly monument over his bones.

Not all are called to be Gideons. They who step into the lime light of the world's observation have little comfort or pleasure. The great men of the world have been sad men. They carry in their faces the shadows of eternity, and in their souls they feel the birth-pangs of a new creation.

Gold and Grop in Children. "My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. H. Serig, No. 41 Fifth Street, Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell, and a terrible cough but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup." This remedy is for sale at Tolson's Drug Store, Salisbury, Md.

TWIN CURSES OF CHINA.

Vices That Were Unknown One Hundred Years Ago.

Opium and gambling are the twin curses of the Celestial empire, and no more important step could be taken toward the reclamation of the Chinese than the abolishing of these two vices.

The smoking of poppy juice is the worst vice in which Chinese indulge and it is generally looked upon as lower and more degrading than any other. It is doubtful, however, if it is any more prevalent in China than is excessive alcoholism in our own country and it is also questionable whether its effects are worse than those of whiskey.

However this may be, the vice was almost unknown in the Flowery Kingdom until about a hundred years ago, when it was forcibly introduced by the English in order to dispose of the poppy crop of India. In fact, it was not until after the opium war of 1842 that the vice was at all prevalent in the interior.

It is popularly supposed that nearly all Chinese indulge in the opium habit but, as a matter of fact, the percentage of those who use the drug is small. They are, however, of all ranks, from the lowest "coolie" to the wealthy and governing classes.

A "opium den" grows out of the fact that considerable apparatus is necessary for the enjoyment of the drug. A reclining position is best adopted to the operation of smoking. In fact, any other position would be extremely awkward and almost impossible.

The Chinaman is a natural gambler and indulges in numerous games of chance. The most common of these is called "Fantan." The "layout" for this game consists of a table marked with a series of squares numbered consecutively, a bowl of cash (the common Chinese coins with small square holes in the center), and a chopstick. The players "make their game" much as is done in roulette, placing the amount they wish to wager on the square of their choice.

For example, we will say the table is divided into 10 squares. The bowl is overturned and the operator withdraws 10 coins at a time until there remain, let us say, but nine of the "cash." The player whose money is on the square numbered nine will then receive nine times the amount he has wagered, while the operator takes the money from all the other squares.

The game is complicated by numerous combinations. Money may be placed between two squares and win on either, but at a lower percentage than when within one or the other. A square may be "opened," that is, played to lose, and so on.

A girl at the Red Lodge, one of the homes for girls established by Miss Carpenter, had a rooted aversion to laundry work, and the weekly washing day was invariably the signal for a seizure of the most alarming kind.

Having sent for the doctor, she saw him alone, and requested him to notice her symptoms and to approve her proposed method of treatment. "I have been strictly investigating the nature of these fits, doctor," she said, quietly, as they stood together by the bedside, "and I find that the most efficacious cure is the application of a hot iron to the soles of the feet."

The doctor acquiesced with a professional gravity that did him great credit. Turning to the nurse, Miss Carpenter said, sharply, "Heat me that poker, red-hot, immediately."

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle free also.

What Does It Mean to Life Insurers "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give.

Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co. contains special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before placing your insurance. You owe it to your family to have the best.

HOME, NOT A HOUSE.

A PLACE REVEALING SOMETHING OF ITS INMATES.

It Ought Not To Be Conducted Like a Public Institution—Something About First Wife's Portrait Again—Children's Habits.

If I had married a man who had been married before, I should have made it a point of honor to say in the beginning, "I am going to change everything in the house." Personally, I can imagine nothing so dragging as to uphold continually the remembrance of another. But mind, in the making of a home, this may be carried too far in the opposite direction.

The second woman who became her husband's second wife. "His first wife had been a great beauty; the second was extremely plain, but a woman of brilliant intellect. The only sister of her husband did not like her, and she contrived to do work upon the feelings of the unfortunate living wife by means of the incomparable beauty of the dead one, that life for her was made little short of that state which we call 'hell.' Then the sound common-sense of the husband came into play, and he delivered the second wife of a few short, sharp sentences which settled the question once and for all.

"I married my first wife, and I loved her," he said. "I had the misfortune to lose her. I met you and I loved you. The last thing that my dead wife would wish, if she could express an opinion, would be that her remembrance and her portrait should make my living wife wretched. I shall put away the portrait; and you, my sister, who have made me wretched, will go out of my life now, for always."

To that, I believed I am right in saying, he held to the end of his life. For some years the portrait of the dead wife was never seen; but the second wife some ten or twelve years later, took the opportunity when they were moving house to tell her husband that she had no longer any feeling such as that once moved her, and the long-hidden portrait was brought to light again and hung in a place of honor in the new drawing room.

This house was essentially a home and for many years this husband and wife lived in perfect peace and amity. The difference between a house and a home is often in matters so trifling as to be almost inappreciable. A new parlormaid will transform your own drawing-room until you hardly know it yourself. And, let me tell you that is one of the disadvantages of keeping your servants a long time—you have so much to explain and to show when you do change. I have just lost a parlormaid of three and a half years' standing. The other day I said to my new one, "Come with me, and I will show you how I like my drawing-room." "See," I said, "as you have arranged it, it might be the drawing-room of a clean lodging-house. Now just notice how I put things, and see what a difference a few touches will make."

In truth, when I had given those few touches the difference was startling even to myself. The hand which did not understand my ways, which did not possess my faculty for making a home, had transformed my dainty sitting-room out of all likeness to itself. Perhaps a matter of temperament.

There can be no home in the house of a woman who shuts off her fires on the first of April, and never permits one to be lighted again outside the kitchen till the first of November. That house is not a home; it is a prison or a charitable institution.

In my opinion a house is never a home unless it contains evidences of the pursuits of its inmates. At present I myself am under the thrall of a small person who is all pursuit, who fits from one hobby to another with a rapidity which makes my middle-aged brain worn and weary. Now it is painting; half an hour ago it was pastels; this afternoon it may be cutting out such advertisements as take her fancy in order to make a scrapbook on quite a new plan. Her doll's house takes one corner of my study, her plants are on almost every window-leige. She collects lead-soldiers and price-marks of articles bought in shops; she has the whole scheme of pink books from the very beginning, and a small collection of pictures of which her favorite is Millet's "Angelus," which hangs over her bed. This bed-room is a perfect museum.

Personally, I do not think there can be any home without animals. Everybody is not blessed with children, who go far to make houses into homes, but everybody can have a dog or a cat, or both. But the house where the dog is never allowed to sit on a chair, and where the cat does not look for anything outside the kitchen—well, I think that house is seldom a home. It is all a matter of temperament. Fresh blooming flowers and growing plants, children who are frank and free and fearless, animals who bark and join in the family life, all these things combine to make a home. And there is something outside of all these, which I think only lies in the hand of the house mistress—that power to invest mere objects with a certain atmosphere and a certain charm.

But, as I have already said, it is mostly a matter of temperament. If The Baby is Cutting Teeth. Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy, Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for children teething. It soothes the child, cures the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

SHAKE IN A BOTTLE.

Advice Of Noted Authority Also Give A Simple Home Prescription.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce of Compound Karkon, three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not enacting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, an almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at a small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, who check the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

THE HIGHER LIFE

Selected Gems of Thought from Pious and Patriotic of All Sects.

The Law of Heredity.

The law of heredity is a most marvelous law. Thereby the race weeds out ugliness and disease and constantly strengthens health and beauty and virtue. No father liveth unto himself. Family traits flow on through the generations, as the Mississippi flows on through different states. Some of you have been blessed beyond all words, in that gifts many and rich have united in you.—Rev. James Wilson, Unitarian.

How We Will Know God.

How shall we know God? By being like Him. My brethren, get sin under your feet to-day. Let the blood of Calvary pour into your soul. Then will your whole being be in rapture because of the revelation of God to you and you will exclaim: I have heard of Thee for years, but now I see Thee. "Now we see through a glass darkly;" but the time is coming when "we shall know even as we are known."—Rev Dwight Hillis, Baptist.

How We Serve God.

There is a tendency to allow the very things that are supposed to aid us in our realization of God to obscure Him. We shut Him up in the very Book whose open pages are the chart of eternal life. We leave Him behind in the pew where we tried to worship Him on Lord's Day. We say good-by to Him at the family altar where we asked His help for the busy day. That is not as it should be. He has promised to be with us always and nothing less than that is our exalted privilege.

Choice of the Spirit Life.

Our choices in regard to the spirit life will grow strong or weak, according to the prayerful and thoughtful attention we pay to spiritual things. If you desire your will to grow strong for the accomplishment of spiritual deeds, daily study God's Word diligently; be much and lovingly in prayer and communion with God; go out with an earnest and loving purpose to win souls for Christ, and "your peace will be like a river, and your righteousness like the waves of the sea." You will secure and enjoy the abundant life.

Working Our Salvation.

Paul resolves a difficulty in these words: "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling, for it is God that worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure." That is, we are to do our best to make our lives as a new everything they ought to be, physically, mentally, morally, socially, spiritual—we are to believe that God will empower us in our efforts, so that what He desires shall be accomplished, and we are to rest assured that the net result will be God's plan for us. In other words, trust God, do your best, and accept the outcome as His will.—Rev. Chas Parkhurst, Presbyterian.

Dr. Frank Crane's Epigrams.

Beauty is never apparent, the highest beauty, whether in painting or music or morals; only the pretent student can find it.

The child, compelled against his will to go to school and to school, has more liberty than his mother, who, he thinks, does as she pleases.

A man is great only as he is bound; great souls break the chains of superstition and conventionality, only to be bound still more firmly by the demands of character.

The higher the soul, the more irresistible its obligations. No soul is beautiful until it is bound; a man is good only when he is internally compelled to keep his word, to be kind, and loyal, and true.

Beast by Doubts.

We never drop a word dishonoring to God, but He hears it. The sippant mention of His name, the profane exclamation, the weak confession of our fear that He has forgotten us, the whispered assertion of His indifference to humanity, the secret thought of our heart that, after all, we have no tangible, evidence of the divine love or power, or even being—all these are known to Him who tenderly addressed Him, self to the mental difficulties of His disciples.

He permitted the doubting student the very evidence he had demanded: "Reach hither thy hand and thrust it into my side, and be not faithless but believing."—Rev. Frank Tupper, Baptist.

Dr. Frank Crane's Epigrams.

Almost every man can look back to a certain parting of the ways in his youth. At some crisis there stood before him two alternatives, his success and his ideal.

I'd rather be a failure, with my ideals flying, than to be a success with a mouth full of ashes. A man has no business entering the ministry except he be independent, rich, or independently poor.

There is no reason why a girl, as well as her brother, should not choose a trade or profession. To be sure, her real business is to get married; but the best preparation for marriage is independent abominations left us from the affete institutions of a former social order, the worst is the "young lady at home," with nothing to do but to be amused.

Oldest Bank Notes.

The oldest banknotes in the world are the "Sving money," or conventional money, first issued in China in 2497 B. C. One writer tells that the ancient Chinese bank notes were in many respects similar to those of the present day, bearing the name of the issuer, the signature of the official who issued it, and its value, in both figures and words. On the top of these curious notes was the following philosophic injunction: "Produce all you can; spend with economy."

Story of a Black Cap.

Here is an amusing story that Capt. Christopher Craddock, skipper of the Swiftsure, a vessel now in the British Channel fleet, is fond of telling. A court-martial was being held on board the Hibernia at Malta for the trial of a gunner who had been drinking not wisely but too well. The evidence had been taken, the finding decided on, and the court cleared to consider the sentence. The court was reopened and the prisoner ushered in. Hardly had he crossed threshold when to the astonishment of the members of the court, he threw himself face downward, uttered a wild shriek, and pleaded piteously for mercy. Every one looked at the president, and the reason for the prisoner's strange behavior at once dawned on their perplexed minds. The president's hair on top was conspicuous by its absence, and in private life he invariably wore a black skull cap. Now, the Hibernia was one of the draughtiest ships in the navy, and the deliberations had been somewhat long, so in the prisoner's absence the president had covered his head with his usual protector, but on the man's re-entry quite forgot to hide it by putting on his cocked hat. The unfortunate gunner whose nerves were somewhat unstrung as a result of his recent debauch, jumped to the conclusion that the wearing of the black cap by the president signified that he was to be hanged for his offense, instead of which his punishment turned out to be a few days' cells.—London P. T. O.

—Uncle Abe, a grizzled old negro, visited a zoological garden. He stood fascinated before a cage containing a chimpanzee, and could not be induced to move. After a while the animal came to the front of the cage, and Uncle Abe spoke to him.

"Howdy," he said. "Howdy."

The chimpanzee not making any response, Uncle Abe chuckled and winked at him knowingly.

DRY SATURDAY IN KENT AND SUSSEX.

Reports Declare There Was No Drunkenness.

Reports are that the first Saturday night in "dry" Kent and Sussex counties was devoid of any disorder and that the merchants in the principal towns did a thriving business. Correspondents in the various towns report that there was not a drunken man seen on the streets. Saturday night in the great night in Kent and Sussex towns. Persons flock in from the surrounding country to do their shopping and many come in to get their liquor, part of which they drink and part of which they take away with them. The latter class is composed mostly of negroes. But the liquor was missing on Saturday night, and none of the incidents that stirred the residents in their crusade against license were seen on the street. Reports from some of the towns say:

Smyrna.—Residents of Smyrna are highly pleased with their first Saturday night under prohibition. Not a drunken man was seen on the streets, which is unusual for Smyrna on Saturday nights.

Dover.—If Saturday night here under the "dry" regime is to be taken as a criterion, it will be difficult to get them to vote "wet" should the license question ever be re-submitted. The merchants did a big business and all expressed themselves as pleased with their sales. The usual Saturday night crowd came to town, but there was no drunkenness or disorder.

Milford.—Milford got another sample of a "dry" Saturday night, and the town is satisfied with the result. The big crowds flocked in from the country as usual, there being a big population of colored folks about Milford, and the merchants report that their business was as good as ever, while there was an utter absence of intoxicated persons on the streets.

Harrington.—Saturday evening was the most quiet night experienced at this place for a long time. The usual Saturday drinking was done away with and there were no brays of any kind.

The people here are pleased with the new order of things and are satisfied that no license will be a success. Business was up to the usual standard in Delmar Saturday night. There was not a drunken man in sight, and as a consequence there was not a brawl of any kind. We are convinced that the people are already seeing the advantage of prohibition.

—A small boy who lives near a lake was fishing and his mother had to call him five times to make him hear. Finally, she landed on him, and, shaking him in a terrible manner, wanted to know why he did not answer. This was his reply: "I didn't hear you the first three times, and the last time I had a bite."

MAYOR OF SUNBURY SAYS PERUNA IS A GOOD MEDICINE.

Hon. G. C. Brooks, Mayor of Sunbury, Ohio, also Attorney for Farmers' Bank and Sunbury Building and Loan Co., writes:

"I have the utmost confidence in the virtue of Peruna. It is a great medicine. I have used it and I have known many of my friends who have obtained beneficial results from its use. I cannot praise Peruna too highly."

There are a host of petty ailments which are the direct result of the weather. This is more true of the excessive heat of summer and the intense cold of winter, but is partly true of all seasons of the year. Whether it be a cold or a cough, croup of the head or bowel complaint, whether the liver be affected or the kidneys, the cause is very liable to be the same. The weather slightly deranges the mucous membranes of the organs and the result is some functional disease. Peruna has become a remedy to

INVASION OF WOMAN INTO MAN'S FIELDS OF INDUSTRY.

Large Gilties Show Various Occupations Ventured In.

Men regard with alarm, pretended or real, the advance of women in the various fields of labor at one time monopolized by them. Every now and then there is a fresh outcry when some brave pioneer from the feminine ranks "breaks in" a new business, and, worst of all, makes good in it. Baltimore has a number of women who are working at things which at once would have been considered entirely out of their province. There are for instance, in that city women undertakers and women embalmers. One of the first feminine embalmers in the country went from Baltimore to learn her profession in Philadelphia, and came back there to enter business. She liked her work, too, which seems queerer than all to the laymen, and always insisted it was a good one for her sex to enter.

There are, of course, any number of feminine physicians in the city. The fact that there is a women's medical college here and that the Johns Hopkins Medical School admits women in its ranks is evidence of the progress of the thing. The fact that there is a women's medical college here and that the Johns Hopkins Medical School admits women in its ranks is evidence of the progress of the thing. The fact that there is a women's medical college here and that the Johns Hopkins Medical School admits women in its ranks is evidence of the progress of the thing.

When the immigrant boats come in from Europe they are invariably met by women interpreters, who are usually in the employ of some church or society, and who help the bewildered newcomers to buy their railway tickets, to carry their baggage and get started in their own particular "promised land," wherever it may be.

Several Baltimore girls are now studying bookkeeping, mathematics and business generally, with the design of becoming auditors and expert accountants when they have fitted themselves for the work. One girl from the city had made a specialty of forestry, and was for some time in the Government employ.

Some of the colleges and hotels have women purveyors, and declare that they buy more economically than men, and that there is less graft where they are than there was under the other regime.

A woman archeologist came from one of our schools, and has done excellent work in her particular field. Several women have studied architecture, holding that if anyone could design a proper sort of house it was a woman.

So far as can be discovered there is in Baltimore no feminine bricklayer, carpenter or blacksmith. A man knows when feminine hands enter the ranks of these trades and do the work better than anyone else. Already it has usurped a position which was long felt must be filled by man or boy—that is, women, have become newsboys. The passerby may see them at any time, standing on prominent corners and selling more papers than their rivals. A newsboy philosopher, commenting on this scandalous usurpation the other day, voiced in every day language the thoughts of his better-educated brothers.

"Dey butta in where dey ain't wanted an' acts like dey had been specially invited," said he, cynically.

Train On The Delaware Division Jumps Track.

Seaford, November 20.—Passenger train No. 41, of the Delaware Division due here at 9.29 p. m., was wrecked about two miles north of this station last night. The train was running at high speed when without warning, the front trucks of the locomotive jumped the track and plowed the road bed up for about 300 yards, before the engineer could discover what was wrong and stop his engine.

The passengers were badly shaken up but no one seriously injured. The majority of the passengers were bound for Seaford, most of whom finished the journey on foot, while others were met with tears and brought to the town. The wrecking crew was summoned from Delmar and after a delay of nearly five hours succeeded in repairing the broken tracks allowing the train to proceed.

WICOMICO REAMERS.

Can Receive Some Information Relating To Causes, Mains Responsible.

At one of the meetings in Baltimore last week a prominent seat fell asleep in a dream theatre he probably saw a performance as interesting as any he had ever seen. For he moved his head and shook his head and seemed to be wholly wrapped up in whatever was copying his mind at the moment. The incident aroused some of the spectators of the double show, and yesterday Prof. James Mark Baldwin of Johns Hopkins University was asked to tell something of the nature of the dream and its cause.

"While there are many questions connected with dreaming which have not been satisfactorily answered," said Dr. Baldwin, "psychologists are pretty well agreed as to the general nature of the dream. They consist of a series of impressions on detached portions of the brain, and not, as in our waking moments, on larger areas which would enable us to view the thing we are dreaming of in its relation to the facts of our past experience. Apparently the most absurd things do not appear at all absurd in our dreams."

Two That Cause Dreams.

There are two diametrically opposed theories to account for this dream activity—one that it is caused by a rush of blood to the brain and connection, the other that it is caused by absence from the brain during the hours of sleep of the ordinary quantity of blood. Both are true, probably, one causing one kind of a dream, the other another.

Motion of the various parts of the body, arms and legs, is caused by stimulation of the various areas of the brain. When we consider the ordinary workings of the nervous system the order is, not that there is some movement during sleep as there is in that there is no more. You may imagine that somnambulism would be a nightly occurrence with all everyone.

"The dream theory, by the way, that somnambulists never come to harm in their moments unless awakened has been disproved. Fatal accidents have occurred in many cases, and one of my own relatives—a little girl—fell down the stairs while walking in her sleep and hurt herself rather seriously. Somnambulists do perform risky feats, but these are due to the absence of fear or reflection or doubt. Most men can walk 20 feet on a rail on the ground, but few could do it in mid-air."

Nearly Everyone Dreams.

But everyone dreams, although there are some persons who say that they never do. That some of this class do dream, however, has been proved by observation of them during sleep and there is some ground for the theory that everyone dreams, the impressions presented to the brain being stronger or fainter, as the case may be. Some of the animals dream, especially those of the higher order, which is not surprising when we consider the similarity of their brain formation to that of the human being. It is a common occurrence for a dog, for instance, to move and even bark in his sleep.

Telepathic Theory of Dreams.
Some writers have attempted to establish a telepathic theory regarding dreams, to prove that they are due to the influence of one mind upon another, but nothing of that sort is accepted by psychologists. Others have attempted to show that the range of subjects connected with dreams is very limited, but they haven't proved their case, either. One man said once that no one ever dreamed of things in relation. That, to me, is absurd. Another said we never dream of music, but that is not true.

"We usually dream of things familiar to us, although they may appear in unfamiliar relations. Professor Jastrow of the University of Wisconsin, formerly of the Johns Hopkins made a very interesting inquiry into the dreams of deaf mutes, and he established the fact that persons born deaf and those who became deaf at an early age never dream of hearing. I think the age he gives is seven years."

"Another interesting point about dreams is that sometimes only an infinitesimal time is required to dream about a series of events that would take an hour maybe in the telling of them. But in connection with this it is to be remembered that the average man in telling of a dream is prone to fill in a great many details. One's recollection of dreams is apt to be faulty, and the vague impressions are usually dressed up a great deal when being told to others."

There are several phases of this question which have not been investigated thoroughly, and I do not know of anyone who is working on them at this time."

THANKSGIVING DAY

What It Used To Mean And The Use Of It Today.

Next Thursday, November 28th, has been appointed a day of Thanksgiving in the United States by the President and the Governors of the several states. Thanksgiving, or the day for giving thanks, has grown into a great National holiday in the United States, almost equalling that of the Christmas Holidays. The idea of Thanksgiving was derived from the Hebrew feast of tabernacles which was "the feast of ingathering at the end of the year," and like it, is placed at the end of the harvesting year, which is the most important—from a material standpoint—event to mankind.

The first celebration of Thanksgiving in this country was held by the Pilgrims at Plymouth in 1621, after they had passed through one of the worst winters in their history—the one immediately following their landing in December of 1620, and after they had harvested their first crops.

From this time on the custom of holding a Thanksgiving day has been more or less prevalent, and has been gradually adopted by all the states and churches and has been recognized by the Presidents of the United States since Abraham Lincoln issued his proclamation in 1863. The Episcopal church recognized the observance of the day in 1789, and the Catholic Church in 1863. The original idea of the day was to make it one of religious character entirely, on which services in all the homes and churches were to be offered to God for his many blessings and care during the year.

Celebration Changed From Olden Days.

Those who have made a study of the early history of the Pilgrim Fathers can imagine how solemn and strict they made the celebrations of this day, and how removed from any idea of personal gratification or self-indulgences that have since become a part of the present day celebrations, they were. We can readily imagine that a community like unto that of Connecticut where under the old blue laws it was made an unlawful act for a wife to make mince pies, the table was not likely to groan under the weight of delicacies, as is the case of Thanksgiving dinners of the present time, when the table of the day is closely associated with ideas of turkey stuffed with oysters, with cranberry sauce and the other delicacies of the season not forgetting the old time Pumpkin pie.

Today it is a great season for the gathering of the various members of the family around the dining table, and those who by reason of their occupations or who have gone off to make homes for themselves try to honor and remember the old home, and make an effort to once more gather in the paternal mansion to cheer the hearts of their parents and give them an additional cause for thanksgiving by having around them the dear ones of their family.

Family Day In This Section.

This is essentially a family day. For each one in reach of home tries to be present at the family board, and only intimate friends are usually included in the guests of the day. The day is made an occasion of special services in every church throughout the land, and in many cases the different religious sect forget their differences in creed, and join together in Union services to the God they all follow. Such has been the case in Salisbury for several years, and most of the churches have joined in a Union service held in first one church then the other. Even before this was recognized as a National Holiday, a day was appointed on the occasion of a National deliverance as was the case in 1784 after the close of the Revolutionary War, and again in 1790 after the adoption of the United States constitution, and after the war of 1812 closed in 1815. States used this as a state holiday at seasons of general prosperity, or relief for any threatened evil.

In Wicomico the turkeys have been carefully watched to see how the fattening process was coming on, the celerity has been bleached and put aside for the occasion, the oysters are nice and fat as well as abundant, and the supply of pumpkins inexhaustible—all other necessities of the occasion are at hand to make the day one of usual joyfulness and happiness.

THE HUNTING SEASON

In This County Finds Plenty Of Willing Guns But Little Game. The Ways.

Our gunners have been very active, since the 15th, when the law for hunting rabbits and quail provided they might be killed in this county. Many are the tales the hunters tell, and if their reports could always be relied upon, there would not be many rabbits or birds left, but fortunately for those who have not yet tried their luck in the hunting field these stories of game bagged, are somewhat similar, at least in many cases, to the long celebrated fish stories, and the game when sized up and counted come not up in either numbers or size to the claim of the boastful hunters. While there seem to be a plenty of game in town, yet the supply is not such as to throw the price down, as would be the inevitable result if the supply was in the large quantities claimed by these marksmen true, who never fail to find, and never miss when they shoot.

Another great question that is agitating hunting circles is the question of dogs, and, as is usually the case, every man who owns a dog has got the best one going. Other dogs may have merit, but they are not equal to in trailing the rabbit or finding the birds. In fact this argument as to the respective merits of their canine possessions sometimes grows so warm, as to occasion more feeling than should be engendered in a spirit of friendly rivalry, and often results in sharp and acrimonious discussions, by which each seeks to prove that either his opponent is deliberately trying to misrepresent the facts or is such a big fool that he can not distinguish real merit and true worth from its shadow or from poor imitation. It also seems to be a pretty hard question to settle, for if they hunt separately and one finds birds and the other does not then the failure was not due to any fault of the dog but due to the fact that there were no birds to find and if the same ground had been gone over that the other dog had covered, as many birds, and probably more would have been found.

Again if the trial is made by having the dogs hunt together, then both claim the credit of finding the game and if one of the dogs happen to "flush" the covey, the blame, according to the owner, is not his, but the other dog made him do it. And thus the war merrily is waged.

There is an old tale of a man who saw a large flock of birds pitch on a tree, one day, when he was out hunting with a rifle, in which he is represented as being filled with sorrow and regret that he did not have a ball for every bird, since it was a pity that any should escape, from such a fine flock. After meditating a long time as to what action he should take in order to get as many as he could with his one bullet, finally the alignment of the birds attracted his eye. On close examination he found that it had happened that in pitching, each bird had alighted directly on the center of an old limb that reaches far out from the trunk of the tree. This gave him a happy idea and he commenced slowly and carefully to creep up on the birds until he managed to crawl directly underneath the limb on which they were seated, without disturbing them, then carefully taking aim directly at the center of the limb, he fired. His plan worked even better than he had anticipated, for not a single bird escaped, his bullet had passed directly through the center of the limb and in doing so had caused it to split from one end to the other. The split had been so sudden that every bird had fallen in the crack of the limb which had immediately closed and imprisoned each bird resting upon it. We do not remember the number of birds so caught, nor the name of the redoubtable hunter whose ingenuity and skill met with such well deserved success, but the truth of the story has been vouched for by narrators and students hunting lore for many a generation.

No story equal to this has as yet been related, but some truly marvelous shots have been made, and the strangest thing about all these wonderful exhibitions of marksmanship is that they are never seen by any one but the actor himself, due, perhaps, to the fact that each individual's mind is concentrated on the performance of some such act himself, or having given up the idea of rivaling or equalling these records, is engaged in the sure plan of manufacturing one out of the whole cloth. One of the hunters told of being out rabbit hunting and seeing a rabbit coming straight for him and about the time he was ready to shoot, when it dodged behind a tree, nothing phased however by such a little thing the hunter leveled his gun directly at the tree and let her go, with the result that the rabbit gave one kick and then forever was still. This story was spiced however by the hunter explaining that the tree in question was only a holly sapling and that he could see the rabbit on both sides of it at the same time. Too bad that everything has to be spelled by too much imagination.

THANKSGIVING IN EVERY LAND AMERICA'S FESTIVAL IS IN MANY RESPECTS UNIQUE.

The Jewish Nation's Festival of Thanks is the Oldest Known in History—Quaint Vintage Festivals in Sunny Italy.

Thanksgiving Day in America began as a public rejoicing over a good harvest—the first reaped by the New England colonists. The idea is not peculiar to our people; probably they imbibed it from English customs or those, as old as history, which prevail in one form or another on the continent. Gratitude for plentiful harvests is the keynote of these customs, although among us the day would probably be celebrated even if Governor Bradford had not started the observance in 1623 by that memorable Thanksgiving Day when a long drought was broken by a heavy rain during the prayers of the assembled colonists.

Different peoples have different times, but always some time for harvest thanksgiving. When the Jews inhabited Palestine the festival of Pentecost embraced a thanksgiving for a plentiful harvest; but as the wheat is not gathered in Europe at the time of the Pentecost flowers take the place of the first-fruits in the synagogues there. The druids had their harvest festival on November 1; the Chinese and Japanese have theirs at their year's close.

The second of the three great festivals of the Jewish ecclesiastical year occurs on the sixth and seventh days of the third month (sivan) which includes part of May and June. It is called in Hebrew Shovonot, but more generally the Feast of the Pentecost, the fifteenth day, since it commemorates the giving of the day to Moses on Mount Sinai fifty days after the deliverance of the Israelites out of Egypt. It is also called the Feast of the Weeks, because it marks the completion of seven weeks, counted from the second day of Passover.

In the old-simple days of England the Harvest Home was such a scene as Horace's friends might have expected to see at his Sabine farm. The grain last cut was brought home in its wagon called the hock cart—surrounded by a figure formed of sheaf with six dringles suggesting a representation of the goddess Ceres—while a pipe and labor went merrily sounding in front and the reapers tripped around in a hand-in-hand ring, singing:

Harvest home, harvest home, We have plowed, we have sowed, We have reaped, we have mowed, We have brought home every load, Hip, hip, hip, harvest home!

In the evening of Harvest Home the supper takes place in the barn or some other suitable place, the master and mistress generally presiding. This feast is always composed of substantial food with plenty of good ale.

There is a growing tendency at the present time to abolish these old harvest festivals and to substitute a festival for the whole parish, with services in the parish church in the forenoon, and a dinner afterwards, followed by sports and games for the men and a tea-drinking for the women.

Harvest festivals are, as far as the Anglican Church is concerned, a later-day institution. This is strange, for in pre-Reformation times Dammas Day, so called from the Anglo-Saxon half a loaf, and massed a feast, and which fell on August 1, was marked by the presentation of a loaf made of new wheat in the churches by every member of the congregation. Previous to Reformation of the calendar in 1752 Dammas-tide ushered in the second quarter of the year. Since then the term has fallen into disuse.

An Italian vintage festival is about the nearest thing the people have to a Thanksgiving Day, but the two things are the same in spirit if very different in detail.

At these festivals a primitive interchange of labor takes place; everybody helps everybody, no wage is given. This man's vines facing full south are toward, another man's vines are backward. From all the hillsides round the peasants flock to each vineyard as needed. Occasionally an Italian will do a lot of work in a day, but he will not hurry; he is making love, meanwhile, to the girl who works with him. The grapes, stems and all, are put into high wooden tubs and beaten with heavy cudgels until the juice rises foaming to the top. Then the tubs are emptied into the great vats and there churned thoroughly.

After the vintage comes the feast. It begins at dark and lasts through the night. The peasants dance in the padrone's kitchen, men dancing with both men and women. The music is continuous; partners, a pair at a time, take two or three turns and sit down, giving place to another pair. Not until daybreak do the revelers, singing and laughing, go to their homes.

OUR NATIONAL FEAST HOW MEMBERS OF STUDENT COLONY ENJOY IT.

The Thanksgiving Dinner Sent From This Country—Absence of Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes and Pumpkins in the French Markets.

Of all the Thanksgiving dinners to which America's self-exiles—and there are many—sit down once a year, none can equal in jollity those of the art students in Paris, says a writer in the Chicago News.

These observances are marked by none of the solemnity which usually banks thick as a pall over the Thanksgiving dinners of the American chambers of commerce in Paris and Berlin and the formal dinner in London to which British worthies are invited and long and tiresome speeches are made, after an elaborate menu generally in French, has been noted or less laboriously run through to the coffee. The art students, as a body, are never a solemn lot, and this fact is in evidence when they give thanks for the mercies extended to them since a previous Thanksgiving.

Just to give some idea of how the art students observe the day, let me go back to the time when the students' club (the American Art Association of Paris) held its final Thanksgiving dinner. This was about fifteen years ago, shortly after the club's organization.

As Thanksgiving day would be the first national holiday to be observed on the occasion, but how? No member had ever seen cranberries in a French market; the only pumpkin offered for sale was not in the shape of pies, but in dried strips, for baking and soups, and as for sweet potatoes, they were as utterly unknown to the average Frenchman as were cranberries. True French turkey could be secured—and good turkey at that—but what was turkey without the trimmings?

When the club, in the depths of despair, had about decided that it would be compelled by circumstance to forego a good old fashioned Thanksgiving dinner word was received from the Art Students' League of New York that it was going to present the new association with a Thanksgiving dinner that would recall the kind mother used to serve up steaming hot on that crisp, memorable day back on the farm in the years gone by. This message was soon followed by a consignment of real American turkeys, all done to a golden brown and all stuffed; enough cranberry sauce to last the club for a month of Sundays, seemingly, and pies, pumpkin pies, regular New England pumpkin pies. You know the kind.

The dinner was served in the little house on the Boulevard Mazarine, then occupied by the club. The room was decorated chiefly with the stars and stripes and the tricolor, intertwined, but I believe I am safe in saying this feature was not noticed until the dinner was well over, for the eyes of every Yankee as he entered the room were on the table, a sight of which brought tears to more than one pair of eyes.

In addition to the students' formal dinners—if the adjective can be rightly applied to any thing that the art students do or think or say many small dinners of Thanksgiving are given in the studios. Next best to say, they are thoroughly bohemian. Some certainly rank among the queerest Thanksgiving meals ever spread; and it is my belief, founded on twelve years' residence in the quarter, that the studio dinner most prescribed by tradition would cause one of the custom's stern originators to fall dead of sheer horror were it possible for him to be seated at the opening course even.

The studio dinner that "Long Snider" gave to a select party of cronies a half dozen years ago is still laughed over in the quarter, and it's fair to become a Thanksgiving tradition among these apparently carefree self-indulgent bohemians. Two or three days before the festival was due to roll round "Long Snider" decided that he would give a dinner. He investigated the state of his pocket book, finding only his monthly allowance sufficient to meet running expenses. Nevertheless there must be a dinner, and when his guests appeared at the appointed hour on Thanksgiving evening, he was seated at a table temptingly loaded with a great turkey done to a golden brown and all the old-time trimmings provided by the hilarious host to prevent a consuming thirst from overwhelmingly attacking his guests was contained in a big bowl. "Harvard Law-School Punch," "Long Snider" called it, and it had been sollicitously mixed by his own hands.

That punch was a most deceptive drink—mild to the taste, so mild, in fact, that it was in constant demand. As a result when the feast barely half through, there came a knock at the door the punch had got in its work on nearly every one present and the effect produced by the note handed to the host by his concierge was just the opposite of what it would have been on an ordinary occasion.

"Fellow!" shouted "Long Snider" waving the bit of paper madly. "Proprietor says got to pay rent next day or have things confiscated. Can't pay rent. Spent money on dinner and punch. Three cheers for Thanksgiving!"

This little speech seemed but to add zest to the dinner. At last the punch consumed, some one, more ingenious than the rest—perhaps he had got more than his share of the brew—proposed the plot that the whole assemblage put into execution. The belongings that had been threatened with confiscation were not numerous; in a few minutes they were in the hands of the students, and then there began a weird procession of easels, palettes, long rolls of canvas and the host's big bass viol down the long and dark stairway from the sixth floor, with the glimmer from an occasional match to light the uncertain way.

"Long Snider" was thankful that the concierge was a "sound sleeper and somewhat deaf to boot. The street was safely reached, a hand cart was hastily secured, into it the trappings were dumped and, with an exultant yell that aroused the concierge too late for his frantic calls for the police to be of any use, host, guests and cart were off up the street. "Way over to Montmartre went the rascals. Up the long hill they climbed to the large studio of an accommodating and truly sympathetic friend and there, in the early morning hours, "Long Snider's" Thanksgiving dinner celebration ended in a riotous house-warming.

"Gobblers' Chorus. N November. Cold the moon is, cold and drear With a cloud upon her face That it chills our hearts with fear To remember And—oh, gubble, gubble, gubble! Life's a bubble, full o' trouble For the hunted turkey race, For the victims plump and savory Of the human gobblers' knavery And the greed that's their disgrace.

We have heard our fathers tell, Since our childhood, Of Thanksgiving in the town, And the dire things that befall In the wildwood. Tud—oh, gubble, gubble, gubble! Life's a bubble, full o' trouble. We must wear the martyr's crown; We must die to feed the pelouse; Of the fends who dine at leisure— May they choke as we go down! —J. H. L. in Life.

Washington's First Thanksgiving. The initial national Thanksgiving was held under a proclamation by George Washington in the first year of the new republic, 1789. Washington issued one other proclamation of like nature in 1795. Adams also issued one or two, and Madison called for a day of thanks after the close of the war of 1812. So far as presidential notice was concerned, the day was allowed to lapse, however, until permanently revived by Abraham Lincoln in 1863. In 1870 congress passed a law making the day set apart by the president as one offering thanks a national holiday.

What have I to be thankful for? Two eyes, two ears, a nose, Two feet, two hands a generous mouth From which thankfulness flows; A heart that beats with sympathy For all in trouble sore; A brain that's balanced evenly, And much—oh, so much more! I'm thankful for the air I breathe, The sun that gives me light; The summer time so glorious, The winter and the night, I'm thankful for my happy home, And dear ones that I love; And most of all I'm thankful for Is our dear Lord up above.

There was a time when dogs did the roasting—at least they kept the meat turning, so it would not burn. "Spit dogs" they were called, and their descendants are called "spits" to this day. Spit dogs were trained to turn the spits on which roasted chickens, beef, ducks and turkeys. The little fellows did their work well. They were never known to let a fowl burn or to snatch a morsel or two from it. As late as 1816 spit dogs were employed.

READY FOR WORCESTER.

Shellfish Commission Completes The Wisconsin Survey.

Dr. Caswell Grave, of the Shellfish Commission states that the engineering force of the commission has been making such rapid progress that the survey of oyster grounds within the waters of Wicomico county has been completed, and that the houseboat Oyster will be moved from Wicomico to Worcester county waters tomorrow and the survey work started in the latter county.

It is said that Worcester has a somewhat larger area of oyster producing bottoms than was at first expected, but the engineering force expects to finish up there about the middle of December. It is estimated that the work in Worcester could be completed in about two weeks, but allowing for bad weather conditions and other setbacks it will take about a month to finish the job.

After completing Worcester no more field work will be started until next spring. The engineering force will then establish winter headquarters at Annapolis and continue the work of preparing the necessary charts and other data pertaining to the field operations.

The commission is busily engaged preparing its report to be submitted to the coming session of the Legislature. It is expected that the report will be issued from the press about December 15th.

ARCHIE AND THE MINCE PIE GOBLINS

If there was one thing that Archie liked more than another it was mince-meat, and if there was another thing that he liked more than that it was mince pies.

It was Thanksgiving the next day. Archie began to think about the mince pie as soon as he was dressed, and it seemed to him a long time before dinner would be ready.

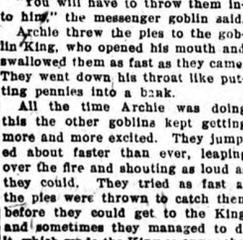

"WHO ARE YOU?" ASKED ARCHIE settled down to sleep when a little round man, with green eyes and a red coat, came for him and told him to get up.

"What do you want me to do?" Archie asked. "Nothing," the messenger goblin said. "It isn't that kind of do. It's the kind that you mean when you say that a pie will do when it is done."

"His buttons flew off." Archie did not mind them at all. He just sat there and let his eyes glow at Archie. They were green eyes.

"You will have to throw them in to him," the messenger goblin said. Archie threw the pies to the goblin King, who opened his mouth and swallowed them as fast as they came.

and they stopped to eat in front of the fire. Archie was so tired that he fell asleep. He woke up with a start when he felt a hand on his shoulder.

A HARVEST CANT By Theron Brown What is bounty but love in giving. That waits for no plea in power. The evergreen boon of the field. To the fields that are blest by its flow.

God is never at loss with plenty. And Nature, his hand no more Ripens sweets for the feast the dainty Than bread for the fare the poor.

Peter had scarce begun to snore. E're some one thundered at the door. And when he said, "Come in" in fright. What curious guests should come in sight.

"Put him in a stone jar and seal him up!" Archie picked up an armful of the toadstool pies and took them to the fire where the King was sitting.

Advice of Noted Authority Also Give A Simple Home Prescription.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble whether is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce of Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bed time.

Just try this simple home made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not excreting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, an almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at a small cost. Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

FOR THE SAKE OF OTHERS.

Nov. 24, '07—(Rom. 14:12-23.)

The question which was agitating the church in Paul's time was whether a Christian should ever eat meat if it had been once offered by the heathen as a sacrifice to an idol. It was customary after the carcass of an animal had been offered on an altar to an idol to put it on sale in the market.

Now some Christians said, to buy that meat and eat it was to give countenance to idolatry, for a heathen seeing them do that would say, "That is consecrated, meat, and you are an idolater." Others said, the mere act of putting it on the altar did not effect the meat one way or the other. They bought it in the market, and asked no questions as to what had been done with it before the butcher got it, and they repudiated the idea of idolatry.

You see, the extremists would not allow that there was any middle ground. One party said no man could be a Christian and eat such meat, and they were ready to excommunicate everybody who could see no harm in it, their consciences were not troubled over it, and they should eat it as often as they pleased. So Paul first of all gently reproved those who insisted that it was sin to eat it.

He practically said: "You convicted ones, who judge others and condemn others, presuming that you know all that is right and all that is wrong in these doubtful matters, let me say you know nothing at all, in the large way in which you ought to know it. If you would gain the necessary basis of knowledge you must love God. For if any man love God, God knows him and he knows God in a way that gives him understanding in these questionable matters."

Or, as we might phrase it—first become intimate with the Almighty; breathe in His spirit, and that will possess you with God's ways of looking at what your friend, neighbor or Christian brother does. And you will thereby become forbearing and generous in your judgments of the others. For God is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil.

"You will all agree that an idol is nothing. It is only a dead thing. Therefore meat is not changed by being offered to a dead unmeaning thing and whosever desires to eat it let him do so."

Now the modern application of this rule is this: Do not sit in judgment upon those who do certain things which you may think wrong but which the gospel does not explicitly declare to be wrong. Some of us can remember when whistling on Sunday was supposed to be wicked. We have vivid recollections of hearing parental authority say: "Stop that whistling! Didn't you know it was Sunday?" So we were led to think that the other boys who whistled on that day were in danger of eternal condemnation. Of course that was absurd, but it took us a long time to outgrow the notion.

We have known of churches being split and torn asunder because the preacher was caught playing croquet. Some professed Christians refuse to participate in the Lord's supper because the church has adopted individual communion glasses. A minister said a while ago that whenever he met a young man on the street wearing toothpick shoes he felt sure that the young man was going to be wicked. And it is not so long ago that a preacher told the women of his congregation who wore ribbons and feathers in their hats, that those same ribbons and gewgaws would serve in the future world to kindle the fires of hell, to which their folly was fast taking them.

But there is another side to this subject as there is to all subjects, and so Paul turns in conclusion to teach the Christian lesson of refraining from doing allowable things for the good of others.

"It is true," Paul says, "that eating meat won't hurt you, but the fact that you do eat it, hurts your brother, and because you are stronger than he, the Christian way would be to abstain from eating it for his sake!" If he sees you doing that, which he thinks are wrong, though they may not be, that may influence him to do things which are actually wrong. If you don't do those things you will be able to say, "He never fell by my example." And so through your self-denial you may save your brother. It is true he is weak, foolish perhaps, certainly not so brilliant and self-possessed and wise as you, and it is hard always to have to carry him along, but that is the spirit of true Christianity. It is hard to have to carry people on a stretcher always, but it would be harder if you had to occupy the stretcher. You ought rather to rejoice that you can do without things that annoy him, and on the way to glory take not only the strong and vigorous, but the weak and feeble too. Perhaps with care, the time may come, when they, too, will be able to stand upon their feet. He is the true hero in life, who can calmly resolve not to eat or drink what he has liberty to.

Quick climatic changes try str constitutions and cause, among other evils, nasal catarrh, a troublesome and offensive disease. Sneezing and snuffling, coughing and difficult breathing, and the drip, drip, of the fond discharge into the throat—all are relieved by Ely's Cream Balm. This household remedy contains no cocaine, mercury, nor other harmful ingredient. The worst cases yield to treatment in a short time. All druggists, 50c., or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

The Exposition A Failure.

The Jamestown Exposition has been a failure, financially. The liabilities of the Exposition Company are three and one-half times as great as the assets. It is anticipated that within twenty-four hours after the Exposition closes on the night of November 30th, a receiver will be appointed to wind up its complicated financial affairs. A receiver may be appointed before the gates are closed. With assets involved by judgement suite, first and second mortgage bonds, original purchase price, deficit mortgage, the Government loan, unpaid salaries and many lesser creditors who have not standing, it is the opinion of those who have made a careful study of the situation that there can be no other solution to the problem except a receivership.

Hazleton, Pa.—While attending to his duties, Patrick Gallagher, sexton of St. Gabriel's Cemetery, was startled by a large catamount entering the cemetery and climbing a tree.

He hurriedly secured a gun and brought the intruder to earth with one shot. It measured three feet, and is the first one seen in this section in 30 years.

Woman is often referred to by man as "doubbling his joys and halving his sorrows." That may be complimentary but it would seem to be rather hard on the woman. For in plain terms it means that where things are going well with the man his wife makes them go better. But when things are going ill with him, he expects the wife to share half his burden. And there's more truth than poetry in this presentation of masculine selfishness. Men don't appreciate the fact that the strain of motherhood alone is burdensome bigger than all the loads that rest upon male shoulders. They see the wife grow thin, pale, nervous and worn without a thought that she is overburdened. Among the pleasant letters received by Dr. Pierce are those from husbands who have walked up before it was too late to the crushing burdens laid upon the wife, and in the search for help have found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a restorative which has given back to the mother the health of the maiden and the maiden's happiness. "Favorite Prescription" always helps, and almost always cures. It has perfectly cured ninety eight out of every hundred women who have used it when afflicted with disease peculiar to women.

Rome.—Important changes soon are to take place in the complicated administration of the Vatican Palace. Several of its departments are to be merged by the Pope's direct orders for reasons of economy. It has been found that the Vatican administration maintains more employes than it can afford.

John Schaeffer, of North Benton, O., has just celebrated his 101st birthday. He is the oldest clergyman in Ohio, and possibly in the United States. He was born in 1796.

"AND HIS BODY TO THE DEEP."

By Theodore Roberts. Written for "The Ocean."

Into the small tide, into the blue and the brown, The spotless canvas flashes, the nervous lay slips down, Starting the cruising fishes, where the golden shadows sleep, Breaking the purple drift and shaking the amber deep.

The parts of the South and East will be rid of his boy's'din When another trip is made and the good old bark draws in. The girls will question his measurates: but little enough he'll care, With the amber weed about him, like strands of a mermaid's hair.

Seasoned he was to laughter, danger, and rugged toil— South with a cargo of fish East with a cargo of oil— Balmly nights at the wheel, under a smiling moon, And fog and ice, and fear, crossing the banks in June.

Headless of calm and tempest new may he sleep, serene, Wrapped in a hammock of silence, where the coral forests lean. Free of the jumping deck, free of the heaving spar.

In his dreams he will drop the Cross and raise the white North Star. He stood his watch and his trick as well as most of us do. His lights were those of the sea—fitful myriad, true: And the sea, that grudging him his bread, has called him to rest, at last. With sand on his eyes and his lips, till the trafficking years are past.

Wouldn't Be Taken In.

"There are still a few honest men left in the world," said J. J. Hill the financier, at a banquet. "It is well to be cautious, but we should not suspect everybody. If we are too suspicious we make ourselves absurd."

"I worked in St. Paul in my youth and they still tell there about an old farmer and his wife who started for St. Paul on a visit.

"Before the couple set off they were cautioned repeatedly by their friends to beware of the St. Paul sharpers. They replied that they would keep their eyes open. And they started on their journey with a nervous determination to look out for sharpers and confidence men.

"Well, on the way the old farmer got off at a junction to buy some lunch and the train went off without him. It was a terrible mishap. The last he saw of his wife she was craning out of the car window shouting something reproachful at him which he couldn't hear on account of the noise of the train.

"It happened that an express came along a few minutes later. The old farmer boarded the express and beat his wife to St. Paul by nearly an hour.

"He was waiting for her at the station when she arrived. He ran up to her and seized her valise.

"'Well, Jane,' he said, 'I'm glad to see ye again. I thought we was separated for good.'

"'But the old lady jerked the valise from him indignantly. 'No, ye don't, Mr. Sharper,' she cried. 'I left my husband at the junction. Don't be comin' any of yer confidence-tricks on me or I'll call a policeman.'—Minneapolis Journal.

"'In my country,' said a Swedish engineer, 'they make a brown cheese of goat's milk. It is a delicious cheese, but to a foreigner its aspect is not inviting. It is made in little bricks.

"'In Sweden last summer I sent to some of my Philadelphia friends a few of these cheeses, along with some Swedish punch and other native delicacies.

"One letter of acknowledgement that I got said:

"'Thanks awfully for the punch and salmon. The soap too, is very nice, but we find great difficulty in making it lather.'

"'The soap of course was the cheese.

PLAYS FOR CHARITY

Two in One Night Under Auspices of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Ulman's Opera House, Dec. 5. - The Cast.

Tickets are now on sale for the two plays to be given in the opera house Thursday evening, December 5th, under the auspices of the Ladies Guild of St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

"Sunset" the first of the plays to be produced is a beautiful comedy in one act by Jerome K. Jerome. The piece is founded, with permission, upon the second and longer poem "The Sisters," by Lord Tennyson.

Special scenic and stage effects will be produced in this play by Mr. P. N. Anstey, under whose direction both plays will be rendered. "Sunset" will be produced by the following cast:

Lois Rivers, Joan Rivers, half sisters, Miss Beatie Trader, Miss Annie Dashiell.

Miss Druella Rivers, Mrs. J. M. Toulson.

Mr. Rivers, Mr. S. R. Douglas.
Anastah Stodd, Mr. O. A. White.
Mr. Lawrence Leigh, Mr. Ralph Grier.

"Change Partners" is a myth producing comedy in one act in which Mr. Charles Gust, a young barrister is violently in love with Mrs. Somerton, a prepossessing widow of middle age.

Sir Fitzal Gust, Charles' father, is an ardent admirer of Mrs. Somerton's daughter, an artless unsophisticated school girl. In a delightful bit of comedy, however, the daughter dispels the impression created by the mother and all hands agree to "Change Partners."

This play is also being staged by Mr. Anstey and will be rendered by the following cast:

Mrs. Somerton, Mrs. J. M. Toulson.
Parker, the maid, Miss Lettie Leatherbury.
Florence Somerton, Miss Ada Scott.
Mr. Charles Gust, barrister, Mr. O. A. White.

Sir Fitzal Gust, Mr. S. R. Douglas.
Tickets for these plays are on sale at White & Leonard's and at Toulson's drug stores. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

At His Home in Salisbury At The Age Of 59. Succumbs To Pneumonia And Bright's Disease.

Dr. Eugene W. Humphreys died at his home in this city Sunday morning about one o'clock of acute Bright's disease and pneumonia, followed by heart trouble. Dr. Humphreys had been ill about three weeks. He was 59 years of age and had been practicing medicine in this vicinity for over thirty years.

Dr. Humphreys came of one of the oldest and best known families of Salisbury. He was a son of the late Gen. Humphry Humphreys, one of the pioneer business men of this town.

After completing his course in the public schools of Salisbury, Dr. Humphreys entered Princeton University from which he graduated in 1869. He then entered the University of Maryland, graduating in medicine in 1872. He entered upon the practice of his profession in Salisbury which he prosecuted until his death.

Dr. Humphreys was a communicant of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, and was for many years Senior Warden in this church.

Dr. Humphreys married Miss Josephine Tarr, daughter of the late Joseph Tarr, of this city, in 1869. Besides his widow, he is survived by five children. They are Miss Lucy Humphreys, of Baltimore; Theodore Humphreys, of Pittsburg; Dudley Humphreys, and the Misses Elizabeth and Nellie Humphreys, of this city.

He is also survived by one brother, Mr. Randolph Humphreys, of Portsmouth, Va.

ENTERTAINMENT SERIES.

Music Next. The Otterbein Male Quartette The Attraction Dec. 6, Masonic Temple.

The people of Salisbury are to be given a rare treat on the evening of December 6th, when the Otterbein Male Quartette Company make their first appearance in Salisbury at the Masonic Temple under the auspices of the E. S. C. This company has entered upon its sixth year of platform work. During the time they have been before the public, they have appeared on hundreds of fine Lyceum courses in thirty states, their travel in two seasons amounting to over 50,000 miles.

This long experience has enabled the Quartette to prepare a splendid programme suited to all classes. The management presents this organization with the full assurance that they will satisfy and delight the people of the city.

Captain Jack Crawford speaks of them as follows: "The Otterbein Male Quartette has been with me in two Southern Chautauques and gave splendid satisfaction. I consider them equal to the best."

The "Daily Standard" says as follows: "The Otterbein Quartette was at the Vereloff Hall Saturday night as one of the attractions of the Lyceum course. All of the Quartette are stars and sing with their hearts and soul in the music. Harry U. Engle, the bass and manager, is certainly fine, and his singing was greatly appreciated, but to pick him from the rest would be wrong, for all are men who understand singing and music as a finished art."

The people of the city are urged to secure their reserved seats early as there are a great many spoken for from people outside of the city. The seating capacity of the Masonic Temple is limited and if you get a good seat you must come early. Next Monday, part of the Hall will be on exhibit at Toulson's Drug Store and all parties holding season tickets are requested to get their seats reserved at that time.

MARYLAND SWAMPS.

Wicomico, Worcester And Somerset May Be Government Beneficiaries. Big Movement for Drainage.

That Maryland is regarded as back of the drainage movement heart and soul was shown Tuesday when at the second day's session of the National Drainage Association's Congress, being held in McCoy Hall, two Baltimoreans were elected as officers of the organization.

The Marylanders thus signally honored are Dr. James Bosley, Health Commissioner of the city, who was elected to the first vice-presidency, and Mr. B. Howell Griswold, who was chosen as treasurer. The other officers elected were:

President—Hon. N. B. Eroyard, Governor of Florida.
Second Vice-President—W. S. Braddock, of Wisconsin.
Additional members of the executive committee:

Mr. C. B. Brown, of California.
Col. James Coogrove, of South Carolina.
Mr. Frank J. Book, of New Jersey.

May Experiment in Maryland.

It has been persistently suggested since the congress convened that if the United States Government finally agreed to drain certain acreage of swamp as an experiment Maryland will probably be recommended by the association.

Reasons advanced for this are that Maryland's swamp lands are comparatively small in extent and that drainage would not be exceptionally difficult, and the work would be close to Washington, within easy reach of the Government's experts and interested officials.

The fact that the congress chose to meet in Baltimore even after dates had been arranged at St. Paul, Minn., and that two Baltimoreans were elected to high offices, seems to strengthen the idea that when the time comes this State will be the one selected as the scene for the first of the great work the association expects the Federal Government to undertake.

Mr. George Barnes Barstow, the retiring president, was the first to be elected as head of the association. He comes from Barstow, Texas, a community which he founded, after having unsuccessfully irrigated the arid desert into fertile farmlands. The proposition of drainage deeply interests him.

Menace to Health.

Prof. William Bullock Clark, State Geologist told in an interesting manner, the geological history and the character and the extent of the swamps of the State, presenting a table showing the area in the counties totally or partly under water.

Professor Clark said: "I feel some hesitation in describing the swamps of Maryland, when the swamp lands of Florida alone are three times the size of our State. Yet, they constitute nearly 10 per cent. of our total area, and outside of their economic significance are today a menace to the public health. The proximity of our region to the markets of Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia are under these lands peculiarly valuable and their reclamation a question of the first importance."

"The swamp lands of Maryland are mainly confined to the counties bordering the Chesapeake bay and its tributaries, and to the Atlantic border district of Worcester county. The remainder of the State is nearly all well drained, with the exception of certain areas on the Alleghany plateau in Garrett county. Outside of these districts the isolated areas of undrained lands would probably not reach 5,000 acres."

"The following table gives the areas of the swamps in the several counties:

Counties.	Sq. miles.	Acres.
Baltimore	7.1	4,544
Anne Arundel	3.2	5,338
Prince George's	8.8	5,633
Charles	84.0	21,700
Calvert	4.4	2,816
St. Mary's	1.6	1,034
Harford	11.7	7,488
Cecil	6.7	4,288
Kent	8.8	5,812
Queen Anne's	14.2	9,068
Talbot	5.6	3,584
Caroline	12.3	7,872
Dorchester	201.6	128,000
Wicomico	59.9	35,088
Somerset	76.2	48,768
Worcester	68.4	43,776
Garrett	4.5	2,880
Other counties	4.0	2,560
Totals	328.7	228,768

328,768 Acres of Swamps.

"It will thus be seen that the State has 328,768 acres of swamp land, of which 194,888 acres are under fresh water swamps and 204,416 acres are salt water marshes. The eastern and southern counties bordering the Chesapeake bay and the Atlantic Ocean have 228,000 acres of swamps and the remaining counties 5,440 acres. The Maryland swamp lands, said Professor Clark, had their origin in the Tertiary period, the last period of the geological era, when the sea level was higher than the present Chesapeake and submerged the land. After another period the land rose, forming a terrace. Later another elevation took place and then another. It is on the last terrace that the swamps are found, the land not having been elevated enough in some parts to rid itself of the water.

On these older geological terraces, he said, stream action has drained off the ancient swamps, but on the Eastern Shore, where the Talbot terrace formed the stream action is so feeble that natural drainage is not possible. He also told of the ancient streams becoming sluggish and allowing basins to fill, and then a revivifying of the rivers and the drainage of the swamps."

Importance to State.

Continuing Mr. Clark said: "Throughout the central counties the revived streams have already cut back into the undrained areas and we find few swamps. Here and there some flood plain carries a small swampy tract scattered at irregular intervals in the larger valleys, between the head of tide and the Alleghany front."

"Sometimes swamps are due to differences in the character of the rocks. Sinks may be formed here and there in limestone districts that afford a few scattered acres of marshy land, but these are of rare occurrence in Maryland, although some are found in Carroll, Frederick and Washington counties."

"The swamps of glacial origin, so prominent in many of our Northern States, do not occur in Maryland, as the State lies to the south of the influence of the great continental ice sheet of the last glacial period."

"The importance to Maryland of the drainage of her swamp lands is obvious. The resulting soil will prove to be very rich. Putting the value at about $80 an acre, which would be reasonable for land of this character, it would add $10,000,000 to the taxable property of the State. Furthermore, adjacent lands would be improved, and if desired, the water of the fresh water swamps could be used to irrigate sandy tracts that today have little value. A systematically devised scheme carried out under expert engineering supervision as proposed by the bill now before Congress, would, therefore be of lasting benefit to this State."

Not For Benefit Of Few.

Mr. F. H. Newell, rector of the United States Reclamation Service, speaking of the work of the service said: "It is of the greatest importance to the future development of the Commonwealth that these vast areas of exceedingly fertile land be reclaimed, not to form princely estates for a few men, but to be divided and subdivided into the smallest practicable area upon which, in accordance with the terms of the Reclamation act, a family can make a comfortable living."

"There is no higher use to which the powers of the Federal Government can be put than in bringing about such a condition as to promote the creation of homes. The stability of our institutions rests directly upon the prosperity of the individual farm and home. That this result can be brought about is no longer a theory, but is a demonstrated fact. The effects of the operations of the Reclamation act have been not only to reclaim public lands, but to break up large holdings, regulate the water supply to these and put upon the lands which otherwise are unproductive through excess or deficiency of moisture a dense population of land owners and producers."

Wants $1,000,000,000 Bond Issue.

"Do both of these great works at one time. Let them go together under the command of the United States Government. Let rivers be improved and swamps reclaimed simultaneously, and you will find it much cheaper. These 80,000,000 acres of land that are under water will be needed by this country some day, and I think the United States should meet the expense. Let $1,000,000,000 worth of bonds be issued to do the work."

Colonel Goodyear also said that "a war against the mosquito should enlist every patriotic American citizen."

SENTENCED TO 10 YEARS

In State Penitentiary For Murder Of Bruce Purnell.

Ten years in the Maryland Penitentiary was the sentence pronounced by Judge Holland Wednesday morning, against Ernest Robbins and Edward Dashiell, both colored, for the murder of Bruce Purnell, several weeks ago.

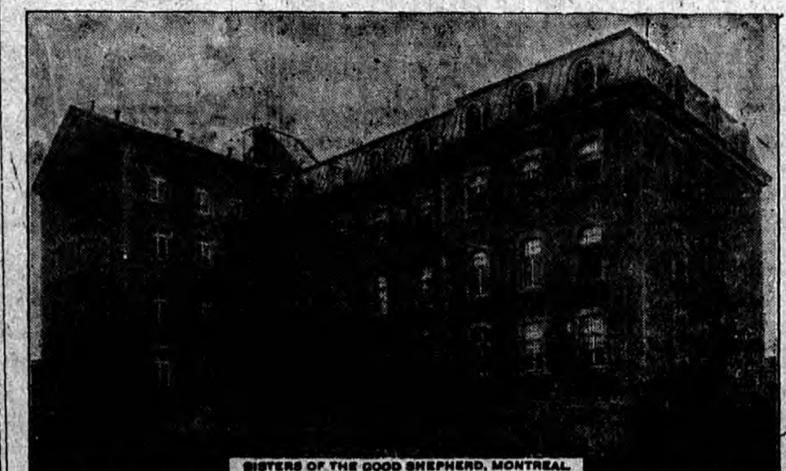

Before passing sentence, Judge Holland reviewed the testimony thoroughly both of the State and the defense, and stated that the circumstantial evidence clearly connected these two men with the murder of Purnell, but that the Court did not think there was any deliberation or premeditation about it. Therefore, the Court found the prisoners guilty of murder in the second degree.

The killing of Purnell occurred on Delaware street about two months ago. He had been engaged in a ring game with Robbins and Dashiell on the night of the shooting, and a dispute arose as to $2. The three men were seen together a few minutes before the fatal shot was fired, and after Purnell fell, mortally wounded, Robbins and Dashiell were seen with him. It was at first thought the shooting was done by a negro named "Bliss," but there was no evidence to connect him with the crime.

The case was tried Tuesday by Judge Holland and Lloyd, the State being represented by State's Attorney Bailey, and the defense by E. H. Walton and J. H. Handy.

—One school house was burned and 12 young children were killed.

PROMINENT HOSPITALS SAY PE-RU-NA IS EFFICIENT IN RELIEVING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES.

SISTERS OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, MONTREAL.

HOSPITALS ALL OVER THE CONTINENT FIND PE-RU-NA VALUABLE IN TREATING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES

CATARRH of the respiratory organs is a common ailment in Canada for at least two-thirds of the year. This condition is no doubt caused by the long, severe winters experienced in this part of the continent.

Therefore, when Peruna was discovered by Canadian people to be a reliable remedy for these catarrhal diseases, it at once became a popular medicine, not only among individuals and in families, but in the great hospitals, where it was used as a preventative and relief in hundreds of cases.

These institutions do not hesitate to give their endorsement of the remedy which has been so helpful in the treatment of their poor and sick.

Among these institutions is that of the Sisters of Good Shepherd, who gave the following endorsement:
The Peruna Company,
Columbus, Ohio.

Having used Peruna for the past few months, for our sick and poor, we are happy to say that it has given us great satisfaction.
The Sisters of the Good Shepherd,
August 20, 1906.

After a continued use of the remedy, this institution has found no reason to change its great opinion of the remedy.

Montreal, Nov. 7, 1902.
We found Peruna a relief in several cases.
We can say it is a good tonic and we are very thankful.
Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

When catarrh once fastens itself upon the system it becomes an obstinate disease to eradicate.
A systematic remedy—one that reaches every internal organ of the body—is an absolute necessity.

Peruna is just such a remedy. It searches out the cause of the disease, healing and strengthening the mucous membranes, and thus giving Nature an opportunity to perform her part of the restorative process.

One of the many hospitals which have found Peruna of value in treating old and obstinate cases of catarrh is the Hospital St. John, who writes, as follows:
"We are happy to tell you that your Peruna has given us satisfaction. Three patients have tried it, one 68 years old, Vincent Dupuis, afflicted with catarrh, is much relieved, more than he has been for a number of years."

"A young girl, 12 years old, had an obstinate cough, which kept a bottle of Peruna on hand."
"As to myself, two bottles have convinced me that Peruna is a magnificent tonic."

experiencing much fatigue. Now I can walk a mile easily.
"Through these three cases we desire to make known to the public the efficiency of your remedy."
Hospital St. John, St. Johns, Province of Quebec.

A letter received from the same institution reads as follows:
"Three weeks ago I wrote to tell you how satisfactory we found Peruna. We recommend it highly for colds, coughs, catarrh and neuritis."
"I have used it myself as a tonic with the best results, taken as directed, half a teaspoonful every half hour."

Mrs. Etta Booker, Burkland, Ga., N. W. T., Canada, writes:
"I suffered with pelvic catarrh until I wrote to Dr. Hartman, and after taking treatment as he advised, I can say I am now cured of this most trying affliction, for which I am truly thankful. I think Peruna the best medicine for catarrh. I never felt better in my life than I do at present."
Peruna not only promptly relieves coughs and colds in their first stages, but is equally prompt and efficient for catarrhal diseases in the chronic stage. Of course, it is only reasonable to suppose that a great deal less medicine will be necessary to cure a slight case of catarrh than would be required to cure the chronic case.

SAMSON, THE ANOMALY.

Dec. 1, '07—(Judges 16:21-31).

It takes all kinds of people to make a world. It is not reasonable to fix our eyes upon one type of man as a sample of humanity. Human history revolves around all sorts of men. That is the reason you find in the Bible such a great variety among mankind.

This age is physical-culture mad. Not content with teaching the laws of health, physical culture fads and faddists everywhere abound. All sorts of devices, "movements" and rules are advertised to rid mankind of "that tired feeling" and lengthen his days.

But before physical culture was thought of, Samson lived and posed among men a demi-god in physical proportions. He was a prodigy, a phenomenon, the envy of all his fellows. And yet, the only thing he is celebrated for and ever will be is his colossal bulk.

Yet the lesson is plain that the Almighty used even Samson to advance his cause. And why not? Does he not use cataclysms, convulsions that tear the globe asunder, glaciers grinding down the mountains, typhoons and cyclones, and devastating storms? Has he not created vipers and adders, leopards and lions, horrible devil-fish, and leviathan wallowing in bloody mire? Let us not forget that he who causes the spring with its apple blossoms, sends winter howling across the world.

Colds and Croup in Children. "My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. H. Serig, No. 41 Fifth Street, Wheeling, West Va.

SPEED AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

As Shown by Experiments Before and After a Motor Drive.

The record motor-drive of twenty-four hours on the new English track at Brooklands, by S. F. Edge, is particularly interesting because of the observations made upon Mr. Edge by his physician, Dr. L. P. Gibson, of Cowes, just before the race and immediately after it. The results are given in The British Medical Journal as follows:

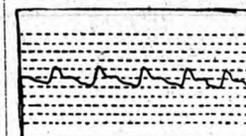

FIG. 1.—THE PULSE BEFORE STARTING.

"After the race a few peas and bread and a drink of water were taken, and he was in bed and asleep within three hours of the finish, slept well all night, and was eating a good breakfast at nine o'clock next morning. The pulse temperature, and respiration were normal, and he was none the worse for the extraordinary and exhausting strain he had been through.

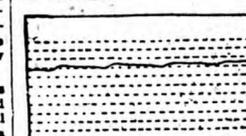

FIG. 2.—AFTER THE STRAIN.

"His temperature before starting was 98.4, pulse 74, of which Fig. 1 is a sphygmographic tracing. At the end of the race, his temperature was 100, and his pulse, of which Fig. 2 is a sphygmographic tracing, 70. I take it that the slowing was due to exhaustion, that the blood control, and that the residual blood in the left ventricle was increased by the fact of the blood being soaked up, as it were, by the lungs, owing to the long-continued rapid movement through the air.

A Peculiar Effect. It is said that the throbbing and vibrations of the engine on a modern steamer have a most extraordinary effect on the heart. "The vibration is transmitted to this vital organ with the most extraordinary results as far as the medical examination is concerned. Through the stethoscope it seems as if every moment the heart would stop. Still, it is some comfort to know that this is considered beneficial.—The Medico.

Open Air Museum. An open air museum is planned for Bremen of the type already familiar in many Scandinavian towns. An outline of the local culture and art from the earliest days is to be offered in a park dotted with old peasant houses.

Bengal's Produce. The monor products of the State forests of Bengal are bamboo, sabal grass for paper making, honey, gollputta thatching wax, mica, shells, india rubber, coal, nux vomica, lime, stone and silk cocoons.

Plant as Fly Paper. The pinguin is a plant which is a natural fly-paper. Its leaves are constantly covered with a sticky substance that traps all insects alighting thereon.

A Single Crop Country. Burma is one of the world's single-crop countries, basing her prosperity on rice, as Hawaii does on sugar and the Philippines do on hemp.

How To Treat a Sprain. Sprains, swellings and lameness are promptly relieved by Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This liniment reduces inflammation and soreness so that a sprain may be cured in about one third the time required by the usual treatment.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and over-treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

What Does It Mean to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy?

In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give. Dividends are declared every year in the Mutual Benefit, and the policy-holders use them either to help pay premiums or to buy increased insurance. The policies of the contain special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before placing your insurance. You owe it to your family to have the best.

CAMPAGNA'S HERDERS

Counterparts Of The American Cowboy Near Rome.

HOME OF FINE SHEEP

Shepherds Who Are Picturesque, Poetic and Short Lived—Few Human Dwellings Encountered—Farm Workers Who Wear Livery—Savage Buffaloes.

One of the most striking features of the Campagna is the herds of cattle which are bred there and roam at liberty over its hills and valleys. They are estimated to number about 200,000. They are magnificent beasts, generally with whitish skins, enormous spreading horns and large soft eyes.

Buffaloes may also be seen in herds here and there. Though sulky and sometimes savage, they submit to training, are very sagacious and will drag enormous loads.

One meets them generally in the marshes where they are sometimes used to clear the canals of the reeds, flags and aquatic plants with which the summer has choked the streams. Though generally under control, their original avagary will occasionally break out, and they sometimes attack their drivers and trample them to death.

Along the walls of Rome at regular intervals little pens are railed off with strong beams to afford refuge to any pedestrians in case they may chance to meet a drove of buffaloes or cattle.

A considerable number of horses are bred on the Campagna and several hundred are often seen together on one farm. The Campagna horses are not handsome in figure, but they are very strong and enduring. They are of so robust a constitution that they are practically immune from ailments and one of their characteristic features is that they do not require shelter either in summer or winter.

The horses seen in the Campagna are mostly mares and unbroken colts. The latter, known as pulidri, are generally left wild until they are 3 years old. They are provided with water, and very rarely, when the cold and rains have destroyed the grass, some hay, but generally they are left to roam at large without any shelter except what they can find for themselves under the trees.

A solitary driver, the counterpart of an American cowboy, called felttero, wearing a peaked black felt hat, a short jacket or a long riding black cloak lined with green, according to the season, breeches of goat-skin with the long shaggy hair hanging from them, short riding boots and long spurs, with a long pole, visits them occasionally. When the third year is passed the drivers go out together to catch them as if they were wild animals.

Approaching cautiously they either entrap them by dropping over their heads a plain headstall, which they extend on a long pole, or if the colts are very wild they use the lasso, which they handle very skillfully. Many of the Campagna horses are sold to the Government for cavalry remounts, and as they are capable of enduring great fatigue and withstanding great heat and cold they do excellent service.

The sheep on the Campagna are another characteristic feature. They are tended by shepherds whose costume is picturesque, consisting of pointed hats adorned with a feather, coats and breeches of undressed sheep skin, and sandals of cioci, whence their name of ciociari. At their side they carry a gourd of water, in their pocket a black wedge of bread, and in their hand a long pole.

All day long, year in and year out, they spend their time leaning on the pole, watching the herds, gazing vacantly into space, dreaming perhaps, or sleeping under the shade of some solitary tree, while their dogs do all the active work, keep guard over the sheep, prevent them from straying, drive them and direct their course.

The sheep follow after the shepherd and are not driven before him and at nightfall when they are gathered together he leads them to the fold. The fold is movable and now pitched in one spot and now in another. It is made of network of twine, stretched on stakes about three feet high, and it is identical with the old sheepsfold of Roman times called retia.

The Campagna shepherds very often are victims of the malaria and they seldom live long. They are ignorant and superstitious, but often imaginative and poetic, especially in speaking of the beauties of nature, which shows their native susceptibility to fine impressions. In summer, when the great heat renders the Campagna unhealthy, the sheep are driven to higher levels and cooler pastures on the hills.

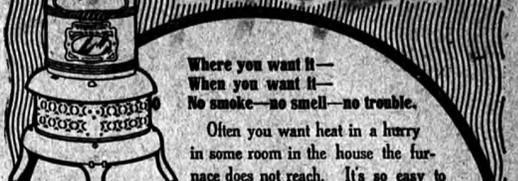

On some large farms of the Campagna owned by noble families there are large casolari where the fattore or overseer of the estate lives. If the farm is not rented but run by owner the fattore has several men or his orders who wear the livery of the noble house that employs in. There are the head herders, the butleri or drivers, the shepds, carteri and many others.

If The Baby is Cutting Teeth.

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy, Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Selected Cases of Thought from Free and Pious of All Ages.

Care of Christianity. The very core of Christianity lies in the text, "Whosoever willeth to save his soul shall lose it, and whosoever is willing to lose his soul for My sake shall find it."

When we seek an example of absolute purity of character we are compelled to turn to Jesus.

With the unyielding diligence of parental love our Father watches His children at play here below, and His desire and purpose is that we shall win in the game of life.

It has been said that a rich man, though he be a sinner, can do more good in two minutes by the mere signing of a bit of paper than many faithful souls can accomplish in a life-time of faithful service.

Teachings of Jesus. The teachings of Jesus are designed to provide foundations for practical systems of business and industry, as well as of religion.

Let us not forget the real meaning of the phrase, "It is expedient for you that I go away."

The Power of Evil. There is nothing like a full equipment for any great and good task.

Some men are broad because they have so deeply, some men are so broad because they are so deep.

Malabar Ice Cream.

It was a weird story that was told the other day on the deck of the British freight steamer Swallow by Jake Bain, the bos'n, as to the origin of the tons of curious stuff that were being taken off the steamer at the Bush stores in South Brooklyn.

Natives of the Malabar coast give them in return for axle grease, which they eat as Americans do ice cream. "Yessir," began Jake Braun, "ye needn't take no fancy things to you want a good trade. On a previous voyage me an' the other fellows aboard the ship took with us all the pretty things that we could think of."

"About six of us went to the coast one day with our things and tried to swap with those fellows all day long without getting so much as a cocoanut. In the stock that we had taken ashore was a can of axle grease that had come ashore with us against our permission."

"One of the niggers stank his fingers in the can and ate the axle grease an' the next minute we were offered every sort of inducement to leave the axle grease with them. They even offered us the inducement of a massacre, an' were only restrained by the sight of our pistols."

"Finally we 'lowed the axle grease to stay with the natives, but we took all the curios and ornaments they had an' netted a pretty penny on them a Colombo. So, when he comes here again we put our spare money in axle grease."

"There was a celebration among the cannibals, an' they took all we had, which was no small matter. These natives like that axle grease better than we do ice cream. They eat it, an' then when they can't get any more down their stomach they paint their faces and necks with it."

How To Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids excretion, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale at Toulson's Drug Store, Salisbury, Md.

WORDS CAN NOT EXPRESS GRATITUDE TO CUTICURA

"Words are inadequate to express my gratitude for Cuticura Remedies. I had been troubled with eczema for five years on my ear and it began to extend on my cheek. I had been doctoring with the best physicians, but found no relief whatever. When informing them that I could not bear the itching, they told me to use one of our best doctors, 'not to scratch.' As the medicines and salves did me no good, I thought I would get the 'Magic Three,' Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, costing me one-half of one visit to my physician. After using as directed, with plenty of hot water, I can truthfully state that I found instant relief. When I had used three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and two boxes of Cuticura Soap I found my skin as soft and fine as a baby's. My circle of friends is very large, and I am persuading them to use Cuticura Soap and give up the kinds they were using. I find no trouble as my case has proven to them that if Cuticura Ointment is good, Cuticura Soap must be likewise. I hesitate to send you the enclosed picture as it has been lying around in my desk for two years and is very soiled. At the time it was taken my ears were deaf and you will find some remnants of Cuticura Ointment on it, and, to me, it is very precious, as I can now say when looking at it that Cuticura is a blessing, and that is why I have kept it even though it was soiled. Miss Nettie Ayers, 131 Franklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 1 and 15, 1906."

Don't Squander Energy.

If people realized how precious physical and mental vitality are, they would not squander them by foolishness any more readily than they would take their veins and squander their life blood.

To accomplish great things we must have a strong, vigorous life force, a powerful vitality. If we do not have these, everything we do will bear the stamp of weakness. It will drop out in every act. It is the strong vitality that tells in the great struggle of life. It is the reserve-power that enables the runner to keep going when others fall exhausted by the way.

It is a great art to learn to accumulate and conserve vitality, to store it away for future emergencies. It is success capital. You may succeed without money, but you cannot succeed without physical and mental capital. It is the strong vitality that wins. The plus force, the mental energies themselves are the things that enable one to surmount difficulties and ride triumphantly over obstacles.

Many people work so much that they do not store any reserve power. They use up all the power they generate as they go along. All creative work especially, requires a fresh brain, vigorous, spontaneous thought.

All effective work is a result of concentrated faculties. A tired and exhausted brain cannot focus its ideas with any power. It is not so much a question of will power as a question of vigorous mentality, and that is a child of pure blood; it depends upon a hundred other conditions being just right. —Orison Sweet Marlein in "Success Magazine."

CONFIRMED PROOF.

Residents of Salisbury Cannot Doubt That Has Been Twice Proven.

In gratitude for complete relief from aches and pains of bad back—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Salisbury, who so testified years ago, now say their cures were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Salisbury sufferers.

J. D. Jonburn, farmer, living two miles out from Salisbury, Md., says: "My first attack of kidney complaint was in 1899. I was laid up three weeks at that time. I seemed to recover and was able to be around. I had two more attacks when it settled down to a regular daily headache and misery through my loins, limbs, joints and muscles. I do not think that I was wholly free from pain one moment during four years. It was as bad at night as during the day. I doctored and I think used every known remedy for kidney trouble, at least everyone that I heard of. Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and got them at White & Leonard's drug store. The first box gave me so much relief that I kept on taking them using several boxes. They cured me and the cure was a lasting one as not a vestige of the trouble has ever returned. I made a statement for publication in 1903 endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills, and it gives me great pleasure at this time, May 11, 1907, to reiterate all that I said in my former statement."

"Civilization extends everywhere; the Russian and the Hottentot feel its influence; Christian men send the Bible to every island in the Pacific sea. Plenty becomes general; famine rare. The arts advance, the useful, the beautiful with rapid steps. Machines begin to dispense with human drudgery. Comfort gets distributed through their influence more widely than ancient benefactors dared to dream. What were luxuries of our fathers, attainable only by the rich, now find their way to the humble home. War, the old demon which once possessed each strong nation, making it deaf and blind but yet exceedingly fierce, so that no feebler one could pass near and be safe, war is losing its hold of the human race, the devil getting cast out by the hand of God. The day of peace begins to dawn upon mankind, wandering so long in darkness and watching for the happy star. Science, letters, religion, break down the barriers between man and man 'twixt class and class. The soldier yields to the merchant. The man-child of the old world, young but strong, carries bread to his father in the hour of need. The ambassador of science, letters and the arts come from the old world to reside near the court of the new, telling truth for the common welfare of all. The genius of America sends also its first fruits and a son of its own green tree, a token of future blessings to the parent land. These things help the great synthesis of the human race, the reign of peace on earth, of good will amongst men." —Theodore Parker.

THE DOGS OF BAGDAD.

Excisiveness of Different Bands.—How Kept Under Control. Wherever a Lazarus lies in wait for a dole at the gate of Dives; wherever an omnium-gatherum rubbish heap fringes the street corner, wherever the supply of carrion and offal promises to be regular, there, says a writer in the Nineteenth Century is to be found the Bagdad dog.

Banded together in guilds or brotherhoods, each of which strictly observes its own municipal boundary, the dogs of Bagdad exhibit that ne plus ultra of doggedness which in the human species so often passes for strength of character. The reception given to a new boy at a public school is bland and amiable compared with the surly manners of the dogs when the dealer of a different quarter (timorous; shows his nose among them. After a brief parley, conducted in some primitive guttural language, the intruder is made to run for his life.

A good many years ago one of the European traders who come to Bagdad to make their fortunes and return to their respective countries brought with him a small black poodle which he regarded with feelings of respect and affection resembling those of the American savage for his totem. Naturally enough our friend desired to take his dog with him when he went out riding in the cool of the day dawn. Outside in the desert it was all clear sailing. The difficulty was how to get his little favorite past the dogs which patrolled the intervening spaces. —oo' was set before the green eyed natives, who, however, only turned the cruet. If even one of them whose muzzle was in a mess of potage chanced to catch a glimpse with a corner of his eye of the foreigner's curried darling it would not be his fault if he failed to grab him.

There was nothing for it but to put the dog in a saddle bag and set him down in the desert. One unlucky morning, however, poor Jacques, chancing to stray from his master, was not only killed but eaten.

After sundown the dogs keep up an incessant babel, from the varying tones of which it is easy to gather whether they are merely giving tongue promiscuously to proclaim their vigilance or are dealing with some one in particular.

Many a time in riding after dark into the unlighted city attended by a mounted escort I have known the street cur to fall so truculently on the heels of the horses as to cause, in spite of spur and bridle, a general stampede back again into the open country.

How is it that such packs of furies do not loot the bazars of the town? The explanation is as simple as it is interesting. The Bagdad shop fronts are absolutely open. The goat and mutton carcasses are hung where every dog that runs can reach them. But time out of mind, the first glimpse of a dog's eye toward forbidden dainties has been visited with the swift descent on him of a cudgel or a hatchet.

On one of a series of marches parallel with the Euphrates I chanced to meet a desert horde whose grey-eyes are in high repute. Buying a brace of saplings, I took them on with me, lodging them in the tent and doing everything that was possible to make them feel at home. Surprising to relate, they obstinately refused both food and water. The remains of a venison pasty seemed at once to attract and to repel them. A pan of water appended to them even more strongly, but they would not go up to it.

After a time a Persian mulcteer explained the mystery, in a twinkling. No sooner did he upset the water and toss the viands on the ground before them than the silky eared ones ran in like Trojans, and made up in a few moments for a day's fasting. Accustomed to lap from the river, from irrigational channels and from sheets of surface water, and reared among people who do not use tables, they had been taught by many a buffet to keep their noses out of cooking pots and vessels of every description.

In Bagdad man and beast alike drink of the great river; which also forms the arterial common sewer of the city, the place where clothes are washed, and the "Slygian wave" into which is dragged every beast of burden when it is not let to lie where it has fallen. The muddy bottom, with the water ever receding, the exposed surface, dotted with impurities and the tropical sun, "steeping up all the infections," must be a regular hotbed of miasma and pestilence.

And yet, mirabile dictu, Bagdad is not, as Eastern cities go, unhealthy. But let the reader only imagine to himself what the Bagdad of the foregoing slight description would be like without the dogs that scavenge it. Refuse animal and vegetable matter is largely disposed of by the dogs in situ.

A Soap Spring. Natural soap baths are not an unaltered blessing. The curious soap spring that forms a wonder of a village in Timor, East Indian islands consists of a small elevated mud cone, from which bubbles up water heavily charged with alkali and radium, the discharge giving the appearance of a miniature volcano. A disadvantage of such a washing place is that vegetation is ruined for miles around.

Reading Into the Telephone. A young Philadelphia woman of good family but reduced means, who has retained an extensive acquaintance among her aristocratic associates, has hit upon a novel and original means of earning a livelihood by the use of her voice and excellent reading ability. She has combined some of her wealthy friends of advanced years into a reading circle, who listen to her over their telephones for about an hour a day, and pay her generously by the week for her entertainment.

STOP WOMAN AND CONSIDER

First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, becomes necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Irregularities, Displacements, Pain in the Side, Dragging Sensations, Dizziness and Sleeplessness.

Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has cured more cases of female ills than any other medicine known. It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth and during the period of Change of Life.

Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Bulletin.

THE NEW UNION STATION AT WASHINGTON.

All the passenger trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad will enter and depart from the new Union Station at Washington on November 17, 1907, and on the same date the present station at Sixth and B Streets will be closed to traffic.

The date is singularly fitting. In 1807 both wings of the Capitol were completed, and now a century later a building even larger is opened for a great public utility, which did not exist at that time.

The railroad terminal facilities at Washington have been inadequate for years, particularly at inauguration periods and on the assemblage of other large gatherings at the Capital. Their improvement was imperative, and so it has come about that, by the combined effort of the railroads and the United States Government, one of the largest and unquestionably the handsomest railroad station in the world is now provided not only for the convenience of the citizens of the United States, but as a notable architectural addition to the great public buildings of the Capital City. It is a monumental edifice and a worthy type of the future structures which will make Washington the municipal beauty spot of the world.

The station, including the Concourse, is longer than the Capitol and nearly as wide. The waiting room is larger than the hall of the House of Representatives. The concourse, is the train lobby, is longer than the interior of the Capitol building, if it were one continuous hall, and half as wide. The largest building ever constructed for a like purpose.

Within this great structure there is every convenience the traveler can desire, so grouped about the central hall as to serve his purpose to the best advantage.

The lofty arched entrances face a plaza as large as an ordinary city park, which will be laid out as a plaza and adorned with shrubbery and fountains. The trackage is sufficient for all demands upon it, and as the entrance to and exit from the trains are separated, the confusion and jostling of hurrying crowds moving in opposite directions will be obviated. The bigness of the station is impressive; its utilities obvious.

His Wife

"Dick, Dick," called his sister May, as she knocked softly on the door of Warren's den, "are you there, dear?" "Yes, you know very well I am," growled that young man.

"Well, please go down and amuse Ethel Shannon until baby goes to sleep. He's so restless that I can't leave him with Ellen—" and May Lawrence ran down the hall, leaving her brother in a quandary. Go down and "amuse" the girl who had refused him six months ago.

"Dick, go down this minute," called an imperative voice. "Ethel has not been here for a year. Dick, you must—why, I thought you liked her."

"I'm going," answered Warren, and, after pulling his tie into place, he wrathfully departed, inwardly rejoicing at the thought of seeing her, and determined that no hint of this feeling should be shown. In a moment he would see her, the girl of his choice, her slender figure, the pretty head crowned with red-gold hair, the brown eyes. She had an indifferent expression which was quite irresistible to poor Warren.

He had reached the reception room. As he entered Ethel went toward him and put out her hand quickly.

"Good afternoon, Dick," she began. "It seems good to meet one's old friends again." She sat down in a chair by the window and leaned back wearily, for she had been shopping all the morning and was on the verge of a sick headache.

Warren made his sister's excuses in a forced, cool manner, adopted for the occasion. This, after his last reception at her hands. He had not thought that she was moody. He sat down in the chair farthest from her, and wondered what she would think if he said what his heart prompted.

"What a lovely place May and Jack have." At last she had thought of something. She got up and stood looking out of the window at the stretch of green lawn surrounding the tiny lake. Her head was throbbing unreasonably now, and she grasped the window sill firmly with one small hand. She had always been proud before him and she was not going to succumb to a mere headache now.

Warren's mind a plan was forming. Perhaps it was a harsh one, but he would at least find out if she cared for him or not. He would be a brute, perhaps, but it was his only chance of finding out whether there was any hope for him. He moved over to the window and said distantly, his keen eyes fixed on her face.

"His wife!" The girl at the window was glad she had a firm grasp of the sill for the sudden realization of the fact that she loved Dick Warren with all her heart suddenly swept over her. Her head throbbed wildly now. She must hold out till May came. What if she should show him how much she cared. His wife!

"Yes, sweetheart," he answered, drawing her closer, and looking down into the frightened, astonished face, "my wife, I am glad to find like the place, too."

Sorry to report Mrs. John Prior on the sick list.

Mr. John Livingstone is building an addition to his house.

Notwithstanding the heavy rainfall of last week Rev. F. S. Cain, former pastor of Union people, and Joseph L. Brown, of Manokin, Md., a brother of several of our well known citizens of this place, arrived at noon with horse and buggy at the home of Sydney T. Brown, where, after having dinner and a little rest, the party of five started on a tour through the country hunting the quail. On returning reported a lively time. Soon supper was served, after which several friends and relatives were entertained, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pollitt, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Livingston, Miss Stella Pollitt, Messrs. Marion Bussels, Carl Bussels, Clarence Brown, Fred Brown, and others. After a short night's sleep, and an early breakfast the little hunting party set out on a rabbit hunt and joined by several friends had quite a lively chase. Although interfered with by another shower, the party, including more than a dozen returned to the home of A. C. Pollitt, where all enjoyed a hearty dinner. Soon brother Cain and Brown with buggy loaded with fruit and game made ready for home, after a muddy ride through Somerset County to greet their families, with only to regret their not having seen many more of their numerous friends of this vicinity. We hope that at some future time to be able to greet them for a longer stay.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Dora Trull of near Pittsville was the scene of a very pretty but quiet wedding Wednesday evening, Nov. 20th, when their daughter, Miss Ira Florence became the bride of Mr. Raymond Parker, of Salisbury. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. A. Ogg of Pittsville. Nellie Grant's wedding march was beautifully rendered by Miss Mae Oliver, of Salisbury. Miss Beattie Parker, sister of the groom and Miss Rosie Trull, sister of the bride acted as bridesmaids, and Mr. Lee Trull, brother of the bride and Mr. Willie Brittingham, in of the groom as groomsmen. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was given to those present. They received many handsome and useful presents. We wish them a long and happy life.

THE HOME GAS COMPANY

Highly Gratiified At The Prompt Response From Citizens.

In our last issue the Home Gas Co., issued notice to the citizens of Salisbury to send in their applications, who desired gas service run into their houses, and the Company feels very much gratified at the prompt responses which they have had. Hardly had the Advertiser been distributed before applications began to pour into the Company's office for service, some by postal, some by phone, and other by personal callers.

Mr. George Sharpley, however, was the first to respond by postal, or the first to make written application for gas. There are others who have applied personally, among whom are: Dorman Smyth Hardware Co., request the Gas Company to place pipes into their store as soon as possible as they will use gas for lighting their store. They have several dark cellars in which they will use gas lights nearly all day long. Mr. Dorman says "We will welcome gas any time, the sooner the better."

Mr. L. W. Gunby, the head of the large L. W. Gunby Hardware Co., says, "We want gas placed in our store as soon as the Company can possibly do it, as it is a long felt want for lights, especially on dark days."

Another applicant was R. H. Phillips, proprietor of the Peninsula Hotel. He will use gas for both light and fuel, will dispense with gasoline stoves and buy gas stoves. He will have three gas ranges by the time the company turns on gas.

Harper & Taylor, who have one of the finest jewelry stores on the Peninsula, have applied for gas, and will use it both for lighting and heating. Mr. Harper says he proposes placing gas radiators in his store for heating, which will dispense with all dust and soot, so general with coal stoves.

Following is a list of those who have sent in their applications for gas: Geo. Sharpley, res. Broad St. H. W. Owens, res. Division St. Rev. W. S. Phillips, Camden Ave. U. W. Dickerson, res. Division St. M. T. Skinner, E. S. College. L. Atwood Bennett, res. Elizabeth St. W. J. Stalon, res. Camden Ave. W. G. Gullett, res. Division St. Jay Williams, res. William St. A. Fragg, res. This makes a total of thirty eight consumers the first week, which makes a very good showing. There will be many others who will apply next week, as the company expects to have 500 consumers by spring. Send in your applications, friends, if you want to be among the first to be served. Now is the time to get gas pipes laid clear into your house for nothing. All you have to do is buy a gas stove which you can get from $1.50, $2.00, $3.00 and up and the Gas Company does the rest. Be wise, don't delay. If you love her buy her a gas range and then you can sing "Home, Home, Sweet Home."

Simple Home Made Treatment Said To Overcome Rheumatism.

When an eminent authority announced in the Scranton, Pa. Times that he found a few way to treat that dread American disease, rheumatism, with just common, every-day drugs found in any drug store, the physicians were slow indeed to attach much importance to his claims. This was only a few months ago. To-day nearly every newspaper in the country, even the metropolitan dailies, is announcing it and the splendid results achieved. It is so simple that any one can prepare it at home at small cost. It is made up as follows: Get from any good prescription pharmacy Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Sargol, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. These are all simple ingredients, making an absolutely harmless home remedy at little cost.

Rheumatism as every one knows is a symptom of deranged kidneys. It is a condition produced by the failure of the kidneys to properly filter or strain from the blood the uric acid and other matter which, if not eradicated, either in the urine or through the skin pores remains in the blood, decomposes and forms about the joints and muscles, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and backache. He also warns people in a leading New York paper against the following...

"Quick lunch" is one of the commonest of city signs. The sign doesn't say "a healthy lunch of good food"—the character of the food apparently is not considered. It's just a quick lunch—eat and get away. Is it any wonder that the stomach breaks down? Food is thrown at it, sloppy, indigestible and unnutritious food, very often, and the stomach has to do the best it can. Normally there should be no need for medical assistance for the stomach. But the average method of life is abnormal and while this continues there will always be a demand for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the one medicine which can be relied upon to cure diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It is not a cure all. It is a medicine designed for the stomach, and to cure through the stomach remote diseases which have their cause in the weakness and derangement of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system. It cures when all else fails. Ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper.
