

SMILES MAKE YOUNG FACES.

It is about the mouth that age shows first. A woman first shows her age in her mouth, said the beauty doctor.

"In woman the tendency to smile disappears at different ages. There are women of 30 who laugh easily, but the mouth of 30 is usually set, without curves, without dimples.

"The first is upward, working from the outer corners. Press the thumbs at the opposite corners of the mouth and gently push upward.

"The second exercise is that of moulding the upper lip so that it will curl outward as one laughs. Take the thumb and press them at the outer corners of the mouth.

"Then gradually work the thumbs inward until they meet just in the middle of the upper lip. This is a beneficial massage movement, it should be practised once a day, at least.

"The third movement is from the tip of the chin upward. Place your fingers upon the tip of your chin so that three fingers of each hand press into the flesh. Then gently but firmly massage upward and outward.

"Rub your finger tips from the point of your chin up to the middle of your cheeks. This movement makes your cheeks plump and gives them that healthy look which is so much admired.

"The fourth massage movement is that of lifting the corners of the mouth. Lift them gently with the middle finger until the corners make a pretty cupid's bow. Then smile. This does wonders for the flexibility of the facial muscles.

"Pressing the lips outward is also good for the mouth and its expression. If your lips seem thin and are inclined to be tight and drawn, the exercise of pressing them outward and downward is excellent.

"Put out the lips. Then pull the under lip downward while at the same time you press the upper lip upward. You will get a full round rosebud of a mouth.

"To keep the mouth from sagging at the corners there are some half dozen exercises. The first and most important is that of holding water in the mouth. This trains the muscles and keeps the mouth from twitching.

"The second is that of filling the mouth with air and holding it a few seconds. This also disciplines the muscles.

"The third is that of actually smiling.

Kitchen Utensil. A kitchen utensil which would be welcomed by every housewife and cook is shown in the accompanying illustration. It is an adjustable filter whereby pans or other cooking utensils on the fire which are too hot

KITCHEN UTENSIL. To be removed with the hands and to be taken up by the lifter and placed wherever desired. The lifting operation is accomplished by inserting a small plate glass beneath the utensil on the fire. Above the plate is a wire clamp which normally projects upward, the plate and clamp being attached to separate spring rods. When the plate is inserted beneath the pan the lamp extends over the rim of the receptacle. By moving the handle forward the rod supporting the clamp is forced downward, raising the clamp to level and firmly grip the rim. The pan can then be lifted from the fire and carried to a table or other place.

When making cloth gowns snap the side of the seams, and you will find the turnings will lie quite flat and never raise up in the wear of the garment.

When making pleated skirts, do not turn up the bottom until the pleats have been basted and pressed. By doing so this will prevent the skirt from hanging unevenly. Run a line inside a skirt about twenty inches from the bottom; this will be used to hold plates in their place.

How to Mend a Stay. The nicest way to mend a broken corset or dress stay is to bind the top of the stay or where it is broken with a small piece of chamois skin. To the end of the stay, it will be found, will not pierce through the chamois as it frequently does through cloth.

HIS STAGE FRIGHT

It is lots more entertaining to hear Brewster tell the story himself than it is to tell it for him, for the simple reason that he can relate a story quite as well as he does numerous other things.

"When I read that notice," Brewster said, "I had a chill. You may not think that I'm a modest man, but it is even so. Since I was 3 years old and flunked on 'The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck' at primary school I had never faced an audience because I had intelligence enough to know that that was not my particular bent in life. To be frank, I was scared to death.

"They had kindly assigned to me a subject about which I knew nothing. I sat up all that night with a

"I burst forth into words," wagonload of library books trying to dash off a few brilliant thoughts about it. At 6 o'clock in the morning I sent down a hurry call for black coffee and telephoned a university professor who was at my hotel.

"He said everything would be all right if only I'd remember when I got on the platform to pretend I there was a man in the back of the hall to whom I was talking. Then he added casually, that when I found my voice going—just really fading away into nothingness—was to stop and cough a little and begin again at the start of the sentence. He explained that never by any chance did an amateur speaker's voice leave him anywhere save in the center of a remark. Also I was to take an easy attitude and not act stiff.

"My spirits had been low before he told me these things, but they ran out of my heels as I dragged myself to the tortoise chamber for that 10 o'clock meeting.

"As they showed me out on the stage I reminded myself that I had always paid my debts and that none of my ancestors was hanged for highway robbery. There were several million people banked in front of me, with six million more in the balconies, and they glared at me but I looked for the man in the rear and began shouting at him.

"Suddenly I felt my voice going. I had no more control over it than if it had not belonged to me. I turned icy dead with panic and then remembered. I stopped coughing, pretending to study a word—and some man who could not see, turned a switch which let a huge cluster of electric lights right over my head blaze forth.

"A friend who had not been present at my brilliant debut put me down for a response to a toast at a big banquet, later on. I reflected that nothing ever could be as terrible as that first time.

"When I found myself seated at the speaker's table next the toastmaster, with a university chancellor opposite me, a senator renowned for his wit farther down, a famous clergyman and a noted lawyer and others as awesome flanking me I turned cold again. In my pocket were my few impromptu remarks over which I had labored. Each pulse-beat sounded like the stroke of doom and I waited the fatal minute when I should stand on my feet with all the pleasant sensations of a man tied to a railroad track with an express train due.

"Somehow when my name was called I struggled to my feet. I had to hold to the table to keep from going right on up through the ceiling. I seemed to be swelling and filling all space. Moreover, in addition to these symptoms, which had been mine before, I seemed a victim of paralysis.

"Suddenly I burst forth into words. I haven't the remotest idea what I said. I never asked and nobody was kind enough to tell me. When I could wily away I did so.

"Then I let myself loose in a letter to my friend the toastmaster.

"The next day I took to my bed and the doctor said it was nerves and grip, but I knew it wasn't. It was just acute stage fright that hadn't worked out of my system. Anyhow it was painful.

HE'D DONE ENOUGH

Wasn't Pleased that Greatness Should be Thrust Upon Him.

In a western Kentucky town Ben Watson had saved the life of Myra Underhill. Miss Underhill had been overturned in a creek with a swift current, and the act of young Watson was a very heroic one. He had saved the life of the girl after she was sinking for the third time, and had barely strength to pull himself and the young woman to shallow water.

The news soon spread, and Ben Watson was hailed as the real live hero of the village.

Aunt Tabby Wilson, the oldest woman in the village, the mother of the little colony, was loud in praise of the heroism of the young man, and at once declared that Ben and Myra must get married. "Ben saved Myra's life," she said, "and now they must marry and be happy every afterward, just as they do it in the story books."

But Ben demurred; the arrangement did not suit him.

"Why not marry Myra, Ben?" said the old lady. "She is yours and we must have a wedding."

"She is a nice girl, all right," replied Ben, "but I don't think we oughter marry. Seems to me," he went on, "I have done enough for Myra."

Living Death. "The late Senator Morgan," said a resident of Selma, "was a keen nature student, and nature faking was as abhorrent to him as to the greatest personages in the land."

"I once saw Senator Morgan throw down a magazine with a sneer.

"Another nature fake, he exclaimed. 'Why, these things are as absurd as—' as absurd as—"

"And then he laughed and said that it reminded him of an address that he once heard an absent minded missionary make.

"In China, dear friends," said the missionary, "human life is regarded as of but slight value. To a wealthy Chinese man is condemned to death, he can easily hire another to die for him; and I believe many poor fellows get their living by thus acting as substitutes."

In a Roundabout Way. "I had a high compliment from Miss Peschley the other evening," remarked the boarder with the expansive forehead.

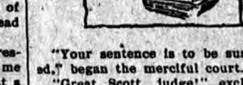

"What was it?" asked the other boarder.

"I told her she was a little ducky, and she said I was a horrid old man drake."

"Where is the compliment in that?"

"Don't you see, you bunch of leatherheads? A mandrake is a May apple."—Chicago Tribune.

Forgot Something. When the train that conveyed President Roosevelt through Virginia on his trip South stopped at Charlottesville a negro approached the President's car and passed aboard a big basketful of fine fruit, to which was attached the card of a prominent grower.

In the course of time the orchardist received a letter of acknowledgment from the White House expressing the President's appreciation of the gift and complimenting the donor upon his fruit. The recipient of the letter was, of course, greatly pleased, and feeling sure that his head gardener would be much interested in the letter he read it to him. The gardener who served in the capacity mentioned listened gravely, but his only comment was:

"He don't say nuthin' bout sendin' back the basket, do he?"—Success Magazine.

A Centre Shot. A good country mayor found himself at a table in a large restaurant between two young men who began to make fun of him.

"I see, young sirs," he said, "that you are making fun of me. But I assure you that I am neither stupid nor an ass."

"Ah," said one of them, "perhaps you are between the 'os'."

"Exactly," was the prompt reply; "I'm between the two."—London Tit-Bits.

Reading Into the Telephone. A young Philadelphia woman of good family but reduced means, who had retained an extensive acquaintance among her aristocratic associates, has hit upon a novel and original means of earning a livelihood by the use of her voice and excellent reading ability. She has combined some of her wealthy friends of advanced years into a reading circle, who listen to her over their telephones for about an hour a day, and pay her generously by the week for her entertainment.

AUTO FIRE ENGINES

Milan Has Them Since The Year 1901.

FIRST A BENZINE CAR

The Second Trial Was With An American Car of About 7 Horsepower. —In 1905 the Fire Brigade Bought An Orion Car of Italian Make.

Vice-Consul Ernest Sant' of Milan reports as follows on the mechanical progress of that Italian city in fighting fires:

The first automobile fire engine tried in Milan in the year 1901 was a benzine car, 10 horsepower, and was fitted with first-aid material and with places for four firemen. The second trial was made with an American car (the Oldsmobile) of 7 horsepower for the use of the chief officers, and with a Panhard car for four firemen, which was at first used as a first-aid car, but was then rebuilt into an engine by using the motor of the car when not running for pumping purposes.

In 1905 the fire brigade bought an Orion car of Italian make and fitted it with a piston pump with a delivery of 750 quarts of water, and driven by the motor of the car when not running. These first trials were satisfactory, but their continuance showed that some most important changes would have to be made so as to get a perfect working of the engine.

In 1906 the Milan department bought two large automobiles, Bianchi cars, made in Milan. These two 18 and 24 horsepower cars were intended for carrying the men to fires, but the system was of little value, as the crews arrived so far ahead of the horse engines that they had to remain idle for some time until the slower apparatus arrived. For this reason on one of the cars a small pump was fixed, worked by the motor when the car was not running. An Italian-made pump was built especially for this service so as to fill the smallest possible space, while, being a piston pump, it delivered the water as high as an ordinary fire engine. The pump is two feet long, one and one-fifth feet wide, and one and three-tenths feet high, everything included. It has two cylinders coupled together with two connected pistons. The pump weighs 275 1/2 pounds. Starting is effected by the same lever by which the motor is worked. The interlocking mechanism of the wheels during the working of the pump is closed in an aluminum box, with an oil bath, and supported by spherical bearings. The disposition of the pump is such that the car itself did not have to be modified in any way. The handle for the aspirator is on the posterior side, next to the benzine tank, and the handle for the pressure tube is under the right forward seat. The air tube for the pressure mechanism is fixed to a corner of the car in a rubber tube. The maximum velocity of this car on a plain is forty-four miles per hour, although as a rule it runs generally at thirty-seven miles, with a cargo of four men, one officer and chauffeur, together with hose and first-aid material. Experiments have shown that the maximum delivery of the pump is about 500 quarts per minute, and the mean delivery 456 quarts.

The Milan fire brigade has also experimented recently with a steam automobile pumping engine bought recently from a firm in Saxony. The chassis, a U-shaped frame, resting on springs attached to the axles, carries the boiler, the motor, and the mechanism for the propulsion of the car, and for the pump. The rear wheels have a diameter of three feet. The front wheels have solid inner-tube rubber tires, while the large wheels have double solid tires. A special friction differential apparatus allows one wheel to work backward and the other to work forwards, to be guarded in places where the streets have sharp curves. The motor propulsion of both the pump and the car has two cylinders, with the so-called Stephenson disposition. The pump is a two-cylinder machine. The fuel can be either coal or petroleum, but petroleum is found much more convenient, as the stoker only turns the tap on and the flame is immediately working. The feeding of the boiler can be effected in three ways—by the injector, by a hand pump, and by a special steam pump. There are two water tanks, a small one on the rear of the engine next to the boiler, and a larger one under the seat of the chauffeur.

Five firemen and a stoker can be accommodated on the car, which, so laden, can run at a mean speed of fifteen and one-half miles per hour, although on a smooth road and with no obstacles in the way of other traffic it has run easily at the rate of twenty-two miles. Experiments have shown that the car can deliver 950 quarts of water per minute at a sufficient height. The machine when running requires 30 horsepower and the pump 25 horsepower.

The remarkable small brigade, as well as the low fire loss, in Milan, the population of which is nearly 600,000, is explained wholly by the strict inspection laws and by the stone and cement construction required by the laws.

The difficulties of sending wireless messages during the hours of daylight have been overcome to a great extent.

Danger From Electricity. If your dwelling is electrically lighted never place wood, clothes or other inflammable material against the wires meters or switches; never use an electric wire as a clothesline, and see to it that your dwelling is kept free from rats, as these pests often gnaw the insulation from the wires. An amount of loss from "electric fire" in the United States in one year, according to the Saturday Evening Post, is $15,000,000.

FEARFUL ITCHING BURNING SORES

Boy in Misery 12 Years—Yuma Spread Over Body in Rough Scales, Cracked, Inflamed, and Swollen—Case Pronounced Incurable, but Completely Cured by Two Sets of Cuticura Remedies.

HIS SKIN NOW FINE AND SMOOTH AS SILK

"I wish to inform you that your wonderful Cuticura has put a stop to the terrible itching and itching of my son. As an infant I noticed on his body a red spot and treated same with different remedies for about five years, but when the spot began to get larger I put him under the care of doctors. Under their treatment the disease spread to four different parts of his body. The last of the doctors treated him the worse it grew. During the day he would get rough and form like scales. At night it would be cracked, inflamed, and badly swollen, with terrible burning and itching. When I think of his suffering, it nearly breaks my heart. His screams could be heard down stairs. The suffering of my son made me full of misery. I had no ambition to work, to eat, nor could I sleep.

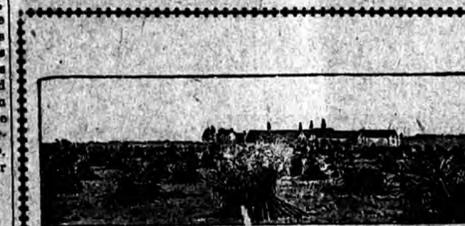

"One doctor told me that my son's sores were incurable, and gave it up for a bad job. One evening I saw an article in the paper about the wonderful Cuticura and decided to give it a trial. "I tell you that Cuticura Ointment is worth its weight in gold, and when I had used the first box of Ointment there was a great improvement, and by the time I had used the second set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent my child was cured. He is now twelve years old, and his skin is as fine and smooth as silk. Michael Steelman, 7 Sumner Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., April 15, 1905.

ON THE ED

By Ford Heuffer.

"And Waring?" one of the men asked. "What became of Waring? Did he go off with Mrs. Statham? You know there were bets about it before I went. One remembers that sort of thing out there." "Oh, Waring," the other answered. "No. It was rather funny. He went off by himself." The man from "out there" whispered softly.

"Dapper Waring," he said, "discreet Waring. Got the—stiddy mittens; mustache and all!" The other had the air of shuddering a little at the slang. It was a matter of going back to old times, and they were at the club, the old place—in the old armchairs. The man who had come back "wanted to know" furiously.

The other knew; he was the sort of man who did; who knew his way about, too, having stayed for all his life in a town where, for the man who knows, there are more gold and more fruit than in all the other hemispheres. He had put on more flesh than the other, and was the older man and the quieter. His beard was trimmed square, and was thick. At home, he had a collection of very choice water colors, and underneath his broad, bare forehead another of modern instances. All these things gave him an air of balance and assurance.

"Oh, it was the other way round," he said. "You see, Waring had got as far as packing his bag. Further. You didn't know Mrs. Statham, or Statham?" "Wasn't it Statham who used to sit over there sometimes—sit huddled up in a hooded chair and wear some guy's hygienic clothing?" he said.

The other nodded. "Yes, that was Statham," he answered. "Mrs. S. was another sort. I knew her a bit—very well before she was married. She used to be one of your bright and beautiful English ones; the sort you fellows talk about. Tall, golden hair in coils. And blue eyes. Drooping eye-lids, though, and a nose with a tendency to gulver in the nostrils like a blood horse's. Looked splendid, sometimes. Splendid!"

"I don't now what she married Statham for. Bored at home, I suppose. I don't know. Anyhow, she married him. And then he began to get on her nerves after a year, or, maybe, two. You see, he covered his monstrous importance in the scale of things—his scale. Something reminded him that there were such things as death and health."

"As long as he limited himself to pills she didn't mind, I suppose, but when it came to red fannel liver pads she aged a little. Grew up, you might say. It was a sort of forecast, and opened up prospects."

"Well, Statham grew worse and worse, became the Statham you were speaking of; went to all the doctors in town, and took to wearing hygienic clothes. And then Mrs. Statham became the Mrs. Statham that Waring knew—a woman. And a real woman's the devil. It was tragedy, really, for her. And I began to realize that I, too, was—well, growing up when I saw her. I began to think my hair must be getting thin on the top; round the crown. Bit of a tragedy for me, too, eh? You see, I had been away on business for the firm, to New York and Louisiana, and then I came plump into the middle of the whole thing again. We had rather intimate business with Statham's house, and I used to see him a good deal, and talk things over at night. I got the whole position in a misale—in two. If you like. You remember Waring—a little fellow, well set up, close curly golden hair, blue eyes, with a twinkle, and that mustache of his you spoke of—a yellow one that I looked as if it carried him about. You fellows didn't know the man here—not as I knew him and saw him in that menage. His eyes had a different quality; they didn't flicker, but went soft, when he talked to a woman. So did his voice, and his mustache drooped."

"I hated him, until one day it came into my head that, but for the grace of God, there might have been—me. Anyhow, I pitied her. There we used to sit at that dinner table of theirs; Statham with his head buried between his shoulders and a gigantic screen behind his back; hygienic clothes and a blue fannel shirt that swathed round his neck like that sort of patent leggings you see advertised. Well he had his tragedy, too, poor beast; he looked like an old bald crow on a rafting in a dripping fog."

"As for her, she'd sit opposite, with Waring near her. She'd look at her husband, and practically as she looked at him. There'd be lines on her face. "She had grown up, as I said. Some women never do; but she had, and hardened in type. It was pretty sad to see, because she used to be, oh, a glorious girl. She was a glorious woman, too, when she didn't happen to have her eyes on her husband. But the face was intensely proud."

"What she clung to most, desperately, was the tradition of indistinguishability, of being like everybody else. Anytime she amounted to what do you call it? 'albinism?' when you're a white chaffinch in a flock all alike. It's a race instinct, accentuated by a moral code, when you come to think of it, and this was like a blow from a clear sky, something unheard of and quite hateful. She was horribly afraid was was 'noticeable' as far as Waring went. I could see it in the way she looked at me, as if she were trying to catch my notices. It frightened her, and Statham was a kind of moral support. "She would look at him, and I would see a sort of light in her eyes; flashes of rebellion against, not Statham, but the tradition that had tied her to him. Then Waring would say something, in a voice as if he were arguing and arguing, a voice you never heard here. She would take a sip of wine, and brighten up; flush all over; become like a Bacchante. There was a sort of fitness in things in it. That sort of man will do the trick for that sort of woman; and any one would have looked well opposite Statham, even I."

He paused, and began dropping lumps of sugar into his coffee; gazed at the little clusters of bubbles that resulted, and separated them with the extreme point of his teaspoon. His friend looked at him with the suspicion of a grin. "You were pretty hard hit, old chap," he said. "Oh, I don't say," the other answered. "Anyway, I saw the tragedy of her position. Waring either did or didn't see, I don't know; Statham certainly did not. I don't believe he ever spoke to his wife, except to tell her what Dr. Ferguson had said in the morning, and Dr. Thwaite at lunch time, and both in consultation with Sir Saul Nelson on the morning of the day when he had felt such palpitations."

"I don't know what put the screw on—in Waring's affair. I mean things reached a head in one way or another, and they decided to knock the head off in the approved way. You know how these things come about; or, perhaps you don't. It probably upset little Waring when it came; he too, had a sort of fear of the noticeable. Anyhow, he got the bags packed and deposited at Charing Cross, and the tickets taken (told me that himself), and put on a bowler hat and a long coat for traveling in. Then he trotted to their house to take her for a trip—outside the radius."

"She was standing there gloved and veiled and frozen, ready for traveling to—the Isles of the Blest. Waring saw she had a letter in her hand. It struck him that she had been writing to Statham; the sort of letter one leaves on a dressing table, I believe."

"Ready?" he asked, a little throaty, but determined to avoid a scene or anything like it, as if it were a matter of a trip to Putney. "Oh, I'm ready," she answered. "But—look here." She held the letter out to him.

"I knew what was in it; I'd written it. I had had to go round from us to Statham's—it was something about bonded business. I had found him with a couple of doctors called in by his head clerk. And there was a basin full of something red—and a sponge. Poor beggar, he had never taken his maladies seriously, and he knew it. He was anxious to see his wife, as far as we could tell, because he was speechless. I think he wanted to get some sort of acknowledgment from her. It was a triumph for him; if he had been able to speak, he might have said, 'I told you so!' I had sent the office boy in advance with the letter I wrote, and then I followed with Statham in a cab."

"That was the real tragedy of her life, poor thing, that scene in the drawing room. I don't know just what passed. I imagine that she must have tried to—not to persuade exactly—but to point out that the letter did not make any difference; that it was probably only one of Statham's little ways. But Waring had a lively sense of the consequences, you know."

"I expect, too, she didn't look quite up to the mark that morning. She used to get washed out pretty easily then. Probably she had had a bad time the night before, thinking of the momentous step, and there remained in her face nothing but—oh, the pride and something else, a little alarming for a man like Waring. He had a sort of vision of the future, of what she would be for—ever and ever, in that pale woman, that was the idea of running away with—with the wife of a corpse were a little too noticeable even for Waring."

"Anyhow, as we were carrying Statham up the steps—all that remained of him—Waring was coming down. He never saw her again; took a trip round the world; bolted, in fact. He would have faced the scandal the other way; he would have stuck to her, too; he'd even have faced out the being tied to her as he saw her then; I suppose because he would have had the run for his money—the glow and the glamor. That's what it amounts to."

He came to a stop, and relit his cigar. "And Mrs. Statham?" the Colonel asked. "She's still Mrs. Statham."

"And you?" "I'm still I—not more of a fool than Waring, and a little less than Statham. And I began to get bald soon after."

Comblon je regrette
Mon bras et dodo.
The other was scratching a minute speck of mud off his coat sleeve. "Oh, it hardly amounts to that," he said.

Export of Cape Colony Diamonds. The export of Cape Colony diamonds during 1905 amounted to $2,247,078, or a large increase as compared with 1904, the greater part of which, both in and uncut, went to the United States through European ports. In addition the export of Transvaal diamonds through Cape Colony last year amounted to $7,729,371. Orange River diamonds to $4,048,928 and Rhodesia diamonds to $28,469.

In Eagle Eye.

Eastern Bard (timidly)—"Is there any opening for a poet in this settlement?" Amber Pete—"Waal, maybe so, pard, if he could write obituaries for horse thieves that we string up."

Somewhat Different. The honeymoon was only a memory. "On our wedding day," she said, "I was under the impression that you had filled my heart with sunshine."

If the Worst Comes.

Jill—"Gents what smokes should be excluded from ladies' society." Jack—"Aw, well! There's allers youse golls ter fall back on."

Ever Notice It? Little Willie—"Say, pa, what is fame?" Pa—"Fame, my son, is the thing that makes everybody want to shake hands with a man."

More Trouble. Bacon—"I told him his troubles would increase after he married." Egbert—"And have they?" "Sure! He's bought an automobile!"

Getting Famous.

Pegleg—"Wal, I swannie, I allers 'lowed as how that Simpkins boy would make his mark in the world. Why, of this ain't the second time I seen his name in the paper as appearing against con men in the city. E'gosh, he's a regular detective."

Infringement.

Mr. Otto Moller—"This is an outrage and the power of the railroad is must be curbed. Why, I blew my horn eight distinct times when approaching the crossing and that bloomin' engineer didn't slow up a particle."

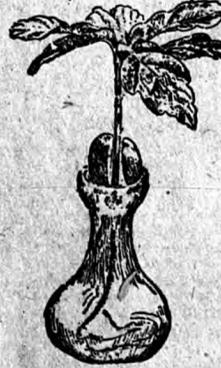

KEEPING OPEN HOUSE.

Choosing a Husband.

Mrs. Meade speaks wisely when she remarks that a girl should love the man she marries, and should desire a sufficient income. Mrs. Tooley points out the necessity of prudence, and Mrs. Humphrey Ward, with great practical wisdom (in my opinion) recommends girls to be careful who they make friends with. But there is something still further in the depths of a girl's consciousness, to be considered. The question of an income, of a good character, of love, even, are all, in a sense, side issues.

A girl will never choose a husband (if she can be said to choose anybody at all) because of any amount of wise advice showered upon her, although she may choose in accordance with the advice; for the simple reason that how great soever may be the virtues of a possible husband and how suitable soever the marriage, she will choose—that is, she will fall in love with the man that suits her temperament and who embodies the ideas or ideals—in the faith of which she has been brought up.

The question of choice goes further back than the girl's memory or the girl's will. It is largely a question of her own taste and character. In some ways one may say that the mother chooses her daughter's husband for her while the daughter is in the cradle. Bring up the girl in a certain way, give her certain habits of thought, certain instincts of refinement, certain aspects of faith, and it will not be difficult to predict the sort of man she will "choose."

Even if she makes a mistake at first, and thinks that she loves a man whose history and antecedents are altogether different from any that she has hitherto found admirable, she is likely to recover herself and find out that her chance of happiness is based on her fidelity to the old paths. And the man is, of course, equally bound by the conditions of his age, family and environment. It is so very much an instinctive and involuntary matter on both sides that I should think it about as useful to give advice to pairing birds as to young persons who wish to marry.

But, granted that their inclinations are thus predetermined, there is still hope that they, being reasonable human beings, will consider whether they ought to indulge those inclinations. I should advise a girl to remember that she must be able to trust a man as well as to love him; that she cannot hope to reform his bad habits; and that unless she is prepared to give up her own friends, her own opinions, and her own comfort for his sake, she does not love him well enough to become his wife. And it must not be forgotten that a girl's right of refusal is not quite the same thing as the right of choice. However, when all is said and done, a girl has to be asked before she can choose, and lucky is the girl whom the right man asks—Adeline Sargeant.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.

When boiling cabbage, if a little vinegar in a dish is placed on the stove it will counteract the disagreeable odor. When making boiled taro put in a little kerosene oil. It will keep the irons from sticking and give an extra gloss to the clothes. To clean soiled wall paper slip a clean flour sack over a broom and dip in corn meal. This rubbed over the paper will clean it wonderfully.

Some of the skirts have hip yokes, from which the plates start. The yoke is, in all cases, plain and tight-fitting.

Honesty in War.

A recent fight with brigands in Chalchicomula resulted in the death of a soldier. The brigands sent $3,500 to his widow. Bush-rangers who held up a favorite Australian official, discovered later the identity of their victim. They returned his horse, with his wallet tied about his neck, and his money and watch inside. Even the Chinese pirates have some honor; a counsel reports, and will pay for the loss of vessels which they commandeered for their expeditions.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAMBE BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable. Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but your kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Oysters Kill typhoid Germs.

The National Oyster Growers and Dealers' Association has been incorporated in Connecticut with its office in New Haven. The membership is expected to include about 15,000 wholesale and retail dealers who are combining in this way to conduct a campaign of education as to the wholesome and nutritious character of this sea food and to reply to reports which attack the conditions under which oysters are prepared for and distributed to the markets of the country.

Cause Of The Warm Weather.

The New York Herald says numerous reasons have been advanced as to the probable cause of the present warm weather, but the most plausible one is advanced by the captain of a ship just in from the Gulf of Mexico. The captain says the waters of the Gulf Stream are as warm as in summer, and that it was warm enough for a man to go in bathing anywhere between the Gulf and New York.

To Meet At Ocean City.

The Maryland State Teachers' Association will meet at Ocean City June 24, 25 and 26. Prof. A. S. Cook, president of the association, will deliver the annual address. Senator select John Water Smith, will welcome the delegates, and President E. H. Norman, of the Baltimore Business College, will respond. Gov. Austin L. Crichters, Dr. Chas. B. Gilbert, lecturer on education in Western Reserve University, and Prof. Samuel M. North, of the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute are expected to speak.

The oceans occupy three fourths of the surface of the earth. A mile down in the sea the water has a pressure of a ton to every square inch. If a box six feet deep was filled with sea water, which was then allowed to evaporate, there would be two inches of salt left in the bottom of the box. Taking the average depth of the ocean to be three miles, there would be a layer of salt 440 feet thick covering the bottom. In case all the water should evaporate, in many places, especially in the far North, the water freezes from the bottom upward. Waves are deceptive things. To look at them one would gather the impression that the whole water traveled. This, however is not so. The water stays in the same place, but the motion goes on. In great storms waves are sometimes forty eight feet high, and their crests travel fifty miles an hour. The base of a wave, the distance from valley to valley is usually considered as being fifteen times the height of the wave. Therefore a wave twenty five feet high would have a base extending 375 feet. The force of waves breaking on the shore is seventeen tons to the square inch.

ASAS US TO PRINT IT.

To relieve the worse form of rheumatism, take a teaspoonful of the following mixture after each meal and at bedtime: Fluid Extract Dandelion one half ounce; Compound Kargon one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

These harmless ingredients can be obtained from our home druggists, and are easily mixed by shaking them well in a bottle. Relief is generally felt from the first few doses. This prescription states a well known authority in a Cleveland morning paper, forces the clogged-up, inactive kidneys to filter and strain from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, which causes rheumatism.

Rheumatism is not only the most painful and tortuous disease, but dangerous to life, this simple recipe will no doubt be greatly valued by many sufferers here at home, who should at once prepare the mixture to get relief.

It is said that a person who would take his prescription regularly, a dose or two daily, or even a few times a week, would never have serious Kidney or Urinary Disorders or Rheumatism.

Get this out and preserve it. Good Rheumatism prescriptions which really relieve are scarce, indeed, and when you need it, you want it badly. Our druggists here say they will either supply these ingredients or make the mixture ready to take if our readers so prefer.

—The Schenck Bridge, which has been under construction for some time, will be opened to traffic on Wednesday next.

—Services in the Presbyterian Church will be held as usual next Sunday at 11 A. M. and 7.30 P. M. In the morning Mr. Beale will deliver his final sermon on "The Master Passion of the Christian," "The Passion Analyzed." The evening subject will be "Is this Your Answer?"

—A recital will be given at the Masonic Temple, Thursday, February 13th, by pupils of Professor Richard Meyer, assisted by Miss Jessie Rae Taylor. Reader: Mr. Albert Hildebrand, of Baltimore, Ocellist: Mr. Richard E. Meyer, pianist. Tickets on sale at Toulson's drug store.

—Rev. E. S. Fooks, of Vienna, Md., has published a very attractive booklet of twenty pages, entitled "Optimism in Life's Dark Hours," containing eight original poems, three half tone engravings and other matter. It may be bought for twenty cents per copy, or six copies for one dollar post paid.

—A grand carnival will be the feature of the evening at the skating rink Tuesday night. The affair is in charge of a committee of ladies of Salisbury and one half of the proceeds will be used for charitable purposes. Regular prices of admission will be charged and the ladies who participate are requested to wear white dresses and the gentlemen are urged to appear in fancy costume.

—The Court of General Sessions, Chief Justice Chas. B. Lore and Associate Judges Grubb and Penne-will sitting have handed down an opinion, declaring the local option law passed by the last Legislature, under which an election was held in Delaware last November, resulting in Kent and Sussex counties going "dry" and Newcastle remaining "wet" was Constitutional. The decision was unanimous, and, as a result it is not likely that an appeal will be taken.

—The following officers of Besay Ross Council, No. 17, Daughters of Liberty, were duly installed by Deputy State Council J. G. Bristingham: Coun., Miss Mamie Townsend Associate Coun., Mrs. Martha Hayden V. C. Miss Clara Wilson A. V. C. Mrs. Mary Lowe Rec. Sec. L. T. Parker; A. A. Miss Grace Kersey; Fin. Sec., Mrs. Emma Brittingham; Treasurer, John H. Connally; Guide, Miss Ella Shockley; Representative for two years, Mrs. Annie Lucas; Representative for one year, Mrs. Rosa Smith; Alternate for two years, Miss Willie Short; Alternates for one year, Virginia Kilderson.

—Mr. S. King White gave a progressive euchre party to the following gentlemen Tuesday evening: Messrs. Henry B. Freedy, M. A. Humphreys, George C. Hill, W. U. Folk, I. E. Jones, A. M. Jackson, Harry C. Fooks, Rev. W. S. Phillips, Dr. J. McFadden Dick, Dr. H. O. Tull, D. B. Cannon, John H. Tomlinson, W. S. Dougherty, Joseph L. Bailey, John M. Coulson and J. E. White.

—There will be a musical given at the home of Mr. L. W. Gouby, Cambridge Avenue, Tuesday evening, February 4th. A very interesting program will be rendered and refreshments served. The admission fee will be 25 cents, proceeds to go to the benefit of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Wicomico Presbyterian Church.

—Mr. William H. Anderson says he selected Delegate Jones of Wicomico to introduce the anti-saloon local option bill because he wanted a man who would "stand without hitching." From all accounts, Mr. Jones is no "backing bronco," nor will he soar at a rumbling brewery wagon. The Wicomico Delegate, no doubt, will make his local option fight as old "Bob" Harper of Kentucky used to run his horse races—from end to end.—Balt. News.

—A meeting of the prominent clergymen of the Eastern and Delaware Dioceses, was held at Easton this week to consider the advisability of merging the two dioceses. At the request of the Delaware representatives Bishop Adams appointed the members of the standing committee of the Diocese of Delaware to draft a memorial to be presented to both Dioceses to take action on the advisability of merging the two. Rev. David Howard of St. Peter's Church, was present at the conference.

Why Refer to Doctors

Because we make medicines for them. We tell them all about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and they prescribe it for coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption. They trust it. Then you can afford to trust it. Ask your own doctor.

40,000 California Privet Hedge

Get your plants direct from the grower and save half the cost. I have a splendid lot of it, and guarantee it equal to any you can buy. My price is $1.50 per hundred. W. F. ALLEN, Salisbury, Md.

P. S.—There are some parties selling Privet Hedges that either have no regard for the truth or else they are very ignorant, who will tell you that their hedge plants are grown from the seeds. DON'T BE FOOLED. Buy your plants anywhere you please, but remember it is all propagated from cuttings, as it should be, and if you will examine any of those plants that were grown from the seed, you can easily see where the cutting started to grow and where it rooted.

THE HIGHER LIFE

Christ Message To Us. The words of Christ are alive. They contain a living message for living men.

Beware of selfishness. Beware of the beginnings of selfishness. And if, perchance, you have become callous and dead, and no longer revolt from these sins, and remain unmoved under the divinest overtures, then beware, a thousand times beware!

COATS FOR GIRLS

Line Between Young Girls and Women Not Closely Drawn. The line of demarcation is not closely drawn between the modes for young girls and their elders, and it is essential that such materials as cloth and velvet be suit upon tailored models.

COATS FOR GIRLS

Coats can be connected, it desired. The high incroyable collar is of the velvet faced with silk braid and finished with a little French tie of satin.

HOME COOKING

White Lemon Cake. One-quarter cup butter, 1 cup sugar, cream, 1 egg mixed with the above, 1 1/2 cups flour, mixed with 3 rounding teaspoons of baking powder, 2-3 cup milk, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and grated shreds of lemon skin.

Swedish Cake

Four eggs, whites and yolks, beaten separately; sift into each 1-2 cup sugar and beat; then put together and beat again. Take 4 moderate tablespoons of Swedish flour and 1 scant teaspoon baking powder and fold lightly together; flavor to suit taste. Bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes.

Dolly Varden Cake

One cup white sugar, 1-2 cup of butter, beaten to a cream, white of 3 eggs beaten to a froth, 1-2 cup sweet milk, 2 cups of flour, 1 teaspoon cream tartar, 1-2 teaspoon soda, flavor with lemon; beat the yolks of three eggs with 15 spoonfuls of powdered sugar; put the frosting on the cake as soon as removed from oven.

Chocolate Cookies

Rub together 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup butter (slightly melted), 1 whole egg and 1 yolk, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 cup raisins, 1/2 cup flour, 1/4 cup sweet milk and 2 cups flour in which 2 teaspoons cream tartar and 1 of soda are sifted; melt two squares chocolate and put in last. Flavor with vanilla and drop on tin.

Beesbury Turnovers

Make crust the same as for pie and cut out with a cover or saucer in form of turnovers and use the following filling: One egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup dried raisins, little salt, grated rind and juice of 1 lemon. Put tablespoonful in each turnover and bake.

The Woman and Her Auto

"There are many women to whom an automobile appeal simply as a means for getting there, but there are a great number who are beginning to wonder if the high-priced authority at the steering wheel might not be dispensed with and the feminine brain succeed in grasping the knowledge necessary to operate a car. To these women I would say from experience that there is no more delightful way of spending one's hours than in learning to run and take care of an automobile, and that it is by no means so difficult as one would suppose."

LEGACIES TO PETS

A STAFFORDSHIRE CAT WHICH INHERITED $10,000. A Chicago sailor made a will leaving his dog $1,700—An Eccentric Spinster of Aberdeen Left Legacy of $2,000 for Dinners.

A very wealthy lady residing in a fashionable suburb of London, after willing generous legacies to a number of charitable institutions, set apart the sum of $60 a year for the support of a handsome gray pony, and an additional sum of $5 a year for the keeping of a greyhound.

A Chicago sailor, aged 70, has made a will leaving his dog $1,700. The money has been deposited with trustees, who have undertaken to execute the peculiar provisions of the will.

An old maiden lady who died in Staffordshire left her favorite nephew and niece each a cat and ordered in her will the whole of her fortune, amounting to $10,000, should be given to the one whose cat survived the longest.

An eccentric old lady, a spinster of Aberdeen, left a legacy of $2,000 to a nephew, providing that he "have a cat to dinner with him every New Year's Day."

Romeo and Juliette are two of the most interesting personages in Paris. Juliette is the only daughter and Romeo the favorite dog of an eccentric but very wealthy widow lady who died a couple years ago.

Up the Swiss mountains runs a sensational aerial cableway from which a car body is suspended by means of running gear. The cable is stationary, the tractive effort being exerted by motors on the moving vehicles.

The line will be divided into two sections. The second section will consist of a double aerial railway passing through a nearly vertical tunnel, inclining only a few degrees out of the upright.

The highest mountain railway is in Peru. The culminant point at the Central Peruvian Railway occurs in a tunnel 15,774 feet above the sea level, or forty-four feet higher than the summit of Mont Blanc.

NAVAL SUBMARINES

Rapid Development of This Kind of War in Twenty-one Years. The first steps toward the practical adoption of submarines in modern fleets were taken in France. The Gymnote of 1866 was the earliest example.

This vessel was followed by the Gustave Zede in 1879, a vessel 148 feet in length, weighing 285 tons, and having a speed of seven knots at the surface and eight knots under water.

Simultaneously with the movement in France attention was directed in the United States to the performance of submarines built by Holland.

DOCTORS PRESCRIBE SULPHUR.

But Sulphur Should Be Used in Liquid Form Only.

"Hancock's Liquid Sulphur is the most wonderful remedy for Eczema I have ever known," writes Dr. W. W. Leake, of Orlando, Fla., who was cured of a case of years standing. Dr. W. A. Heard, of Mattland, Fla., was cured of Eczema after he had suffered for thirty years and says "Hancock's Liquid Sulphur is the finest remedy for all Skin troubles he has ever used of prescribed. Doctors everywhere prescribe it, but they say Sulphur should be used in liquid form only, as it is in Hancock's Liquid Sulphur. Doctors sell it. Booklet free, if you write Hancock Liquid Sulphur Co., Baltimore. It cures all Skin and Scalp Diseases, if used in connection with the wonderful Hancock's Liquid Sulphur Ointment.

SUFFERING AND DOLLARS SAVED. E. S. Loper, of Marilla, N. Y., says: I am a carpenter and have had many severe cuts healed by Enochians Aconite Salve. It has saved me suffering and dollars. It is by far the best healing salve I have ever found. Heals burns, sores, ulcers, fever sores, eczema and piles 35 cents at Toulsons Drug Store.

—Washington, Jan. 20.—Believing that the religious part of the proceedings of the House of Representatives should be preserved in official form, Mr. Honston, of Tennessee, today offered a resolution directing that the prayer with which the chaplain opens each day's session be printed in the Congressional Record.

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saves women from surgical operations. Mrs. S. A. Williams, of Gardiner, Maine, writes:

"I was a great sufferer from female troubles, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health in three months, after my physician declared that an operation was absolutely necessary."

Mrs. Alvina Spurling, of 184 Claybourne Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I suffered from female troubles, a tumor and much inflammation. Two of the best doctors in Chicago decided that an operation was necessary to save my life. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely cured me without an operation."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ailments and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it? Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

ROADS AND ROAD MAKING

SAND AS HALT ROADS.

Property Owners of Jacksonville Fla. using the California Plan.

"Property owners of Jacksonville, Florida, have begun trying what has become known as the California plan of making good roads by mixing oil, heavy with asphalt, with the earth or the sand of the highways. These property owners paid for grating about a mile and a half of road, which was later scored or furrowed deeply by a machine having long teeth. Immediately behind this machine followed one which carried the oil, which was heated enough to make it flow freely down into the little furrows in the sand. After that came another machine having long teeth which raked back and forth across the first furrows, and so mixed the warm oil and the sand.

When this operation was completed a roller heavy enough to put a weight of 150 pounds to the square inch on the road, and studded with spikes eight inches long, ran from an inch a half to two inches in diameter at the base, went repeatedly over the oiled road. It is said that these spikes ran their whole length into the sand in the first rolling, and that at each following rolling the spikes sank less and yet less into the road, until it became so solid that they made no impression upon it.

It is said that this sand and the asphalt of the oil combine chemically to form a coating or surface which is impervious to water, hard enough to resist the wear of heavy loaded wheels, the wash of rains and the pounding of steel-shod hoofs; also that its color is restful to the eyes of man and beast.

This experiment with Florida sand is said to have been made at Jacksonville, Fla., and is said to have been made at Jacksonville, Fla., and is said to have been made at Jacksonville, Fla.

Jailers Conspiring Against the People. From Virginia comes the story that the people of that State demand that their convicts shall be put at work on the highways, instead of being permitted to rest in jail and idleness at the expense of the public.

It is alleged further that Virginia jailers are conspiring to defeat the avowed purpose of the people to have their laws so changed as to require the courts to condemn their convicts to serve terms at road making, instead of giving them terms in prison. The reason for this alleged conspiracy is that the revenues of the conspirators, servants of the people, would be reduced by the proposed change. That such change would reduce the expenses of the people is another story, to which the jailers may feel complete indifference.

The Virginian question seems to be: Shall the jailers permit their profits to be cut down—perhaps consent to serve for their more salaries, or shall the people who employ the jailers get the services of the convicts, for whose offenses the public suffers, and for whose conviction and keeping the people pay?

Tarring Roads in Great Britain. Dust prevention and preservation of macadam highways is a subject of deep concern in Great Britain and on the Continent, as it is in this country also; therefore interest will be felt in the account which tells of the spraying with tar of thirty miles of highways for the corporation of Birmingham, England.

While spraying a road the corporation closes either one-half or the whole of it to traffic, thus giving the tar time to penetrate before traffic is permitted to go on the freshly tarred part. After the second coat of tar has been put on, the road is covered with granite chips, which make an even surface and prevent the road from becoming slippery.

A number of roads thus treated have been opened to traffic on the day of application of the tar, the second coat of tar having been put on within an hour after the first was applied; but it is usual to allow a day to pass between the two applications.

The project to construct a boulevard for automobiles between Buffalo and Niagara Falls, N. Y., has been taken up by the Buffalo Automobile Club. A. B. Thomas, the well-known manufacturer of automobiles, has been appointed chairman of a committee to take the matter up.

State Engineer George W. Cooley, of Minnesota, was recently quoted as saying that he was convinced that there was no reason why good gumbo roads cannot be built. "The gumbo road built last year near Crookston," he stated "is now in excellent condition and has been every day during the year in which it has been in use."

Types of "Phobias." There is a class of well-defined "phobias," as they are called, with which nerve sufferers are plagued. "Monophobia," or fear of being alone; "astrophobia," or fear of closed-in spaces, a "teraphobia," or fear of crowds or of brass open spaces; "insomnophobia," or fear of not going to sleep, and many others. The one great remedy for all these and similar mental miseries writes Dr. Daniel McGinnis of 1400 Broadway, N. Y., is auto-suggestion.

THE SEA'S CALL.

The heave of a deck and a wide blue track,
That rises to meet the sky.
The belch of smoke from her funnels black,
And spray that is leaping high.
A half moon, ghostly, white—
The salt sea smell and the bright Pole star,
And the winds of a tropic night.

A sky with the storm clouds bending low,
And her bow with a coat of flock—
The spume on her slanting deck,
The glare in the hold when the stokers feed,
A cheer from her busy crew:
A cry from the old man: "Give her speed!"
And the beat of her throbbing "sorew."

Oh, these are the things, the ocean's lure,
That creep in a sailor's veins—
Aye, steal in his heart and soul as sure
As the sunlight follows rains.
And I am one of the deep sea's brood,
A child that has gone astray,
But I hear her call, and she's understood—

DOWNWARD COURSE.

Fast Being Realized By Salisbury People. A little backache at first. Daily increasing till the back is lame and weak.

Disorders quickly follow: Diabetes and finally Bright's disease.

W. A. Foreman, living at the Norris Hotel, Easton, Md., says: I never obtained so much benefit from any remedy as I did from Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered for some time with inactive kidneys, irregularity of the secretions and pains through my back. At times the secretions would be too profuse and at other times scanty, but there was always the desire to void them. My back was very weak with a constant pain across my loins and sides and my sudden movements would cause sharp painful twinges to shoot through my back to my shoulders. I was treated by a physician and used many different remedies, but could not find relief. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at a drug store and a short use with this remedy brought me relief. A continued use of Doan's Pills effected a complete cure, and I have had no return of the trouble since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

HE WENT BEFORE.

Christ's heart was wrong for me, if mine is sore;
And if my feet are weary, His have bled;
He had no peace whereon to lay his head;
If I am burdened, He was burdened more;
The cup I drink, He drank of long before;
He felt the unuttered anguish which I dread,
He hungered who the hungry thousands fed,
And thirsted who the world's refreshments bore.
—Christina G. Rossetti.

"For several winters past my wife has been troubled with a most persistent and disagreeable cough, which invariably extended over a period of several weeks and caused her many sleepless nights," writes Will J. Haymer, editor of the Euryly, Colo., Bulletin.

"Various remedies were tried each year, with no beneficial result. In November last the cough again put in an appearance and my wife, acting on the suggestion of a friend, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The result was indeed marvelous. After three doses the cough entirely disappeared and has not manifested itself since." This remedy is for sale at Toulsons Drug Store.

ADDRESSING A GOVERNOR.

One Man Did It High-Justice Enough. "Lord, Most High and Honorable Governor," is the way a resident of Gasconade County recently addressed a communication to Governor Polk, wherein he sought a slight favor. Whether he had been through the cellars of the Stone Hill Wine Company at Hermann and tasted the contents of the "Twelve Apostles," as twelve huge wine casks are referred to in that town, before letting the letters, or supposed that he was living under some Oriental potentate who would order him bastinadoed and beheaded if his court etiquette was at fault has not yet been discovered at the State Capitol. The favor he sought, however, will be granted him, since it is neither money, an office, or a patent to 160 acres of land.

THE SOLDIER BUSINESS.

A Modern Army Should be Organized So As To Attract Good Men. In the old days of chivalry the soldier did not receive direct pay in the exact sense that he does today, but for his services rewards were due, and necessarily so, to preserve in him proper subordination. His keep and his weapons were furnished him by his "over-lord," and with them food and raiment, and certain privileges pertaining to his art, now known and included in the modern term "loot."

Ely's Cream Balm has been tried and not found wanting in thousands of homes all over the country. It has won a place in the family medicine chest among the reliable household remedies, where it is kept at hand for use in treating cold in the head just as soon as some member of the household begins the preliminary sneezing or sniffing. It gives immediate relief and a day or two's treatment will put a stop to a cold which might, if not checked, become chronic and run into a bad case of catarrh.

Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. Has been used with success in our family for eight years.

Queen Alexandra's Charm. Queen Alexandra of England has lost little of her early vivacity and charm. Her laugh has the insouciance of a young girl, and her frank enjoyment is a pleasure to look at. This is the more remarkable because her life has been by no means free from care or sorrow, but the true secret is she possesses one of those bright sunny natures on which shadows do not linger long. In this she is to be envied by her daughter-in-law who possesses it in the same degree.

St. Gerónimo's Unpleasant End. An interesting souvenir of St. Gerónimo, whose martyrdom consisted of being thrown alive into a block of setting concrete, is at present on exhibition in the quarters of the Concrete Association of America, New York. It consists of a photograph of the cavity left by the saint's body, and was secured by Frank P. Baldwin, chief engineer of the battleship Maine, while visiting in Algiers. According to history, there was born about the year 1520 an Arab boy named Gerónimo. He was captured in infancy by the Spanish garrison at Oran, and when about eight years old he escaped from his captors and went back to his family, living as a Mohammedan till the age of twenty-five. He then voluntarily returned to Oran and resumed the Christian life which he had adopted previously when in the hands of the Spanish authorities. A few years later he went on a coasting raid with a party of Spaniards, but the raiders were themselves captured by a Moorish corsair and brought to Algiers. Here the attempt was made to convert him to Mohammedanism, but he persistently refused to embrace that faith, so that he was tried and condemned to die. His hands were tied behind his back, and he was cast alive, face downward, into a block of concrete, then being prepared for the "Fort des Vingt Quatre Heures," then building. Careful use was taken of the spot by Haldé a Spanish Benedictine missionary to Algiers, who prayed the time might come when the Lord would pave the way for his exhumation and Christian burial. In 1853 the French found it necessary to destroy the fort, and the data left by Haldé was found to be correct. For the designated block of concrete on being cut open disclosed the bones of Gerónimo and the cavity left by his body. The bones were removed December 27, 1853, and given a Christian burial, and they now rest in a massive stone sarcophagus in the cathedral. A plaster cast was made of the cavity and afterward photographed.—Washington Herald.

It consists of a photograph of the cavity left by the saint's body, and was secured by Frank P. Baldwin, chief engineer of the battleship Maine, while visiting in Algiers. According to history, there was born about the year 1520 an Arab boy named Gerónimo. He was captured in infancy by the Spanish garrison at Oran, and when about eight years old he escaped from his captors and went back to his family, living as a Mohammedan till the age of twenty-five. He then voluntarily returned to Oran and resumed the Christian life which he had adopted previously when in the hands of the Spanish authorities. A few years later he went on a coasting raid with a party of Spaniards, but the raiders were themselves captured by a Moorish corsair and brought to Algiers. Here the attempt was made to convert him to Mohammedanism, but he persistently refused to embrace that faith, so that he was tried and condemned to die. His hands were tied behind his back, and he was cast alive, face downward, into a block of concrete, then being prepared for the "Fort des Vingt Quatre Heures," then building. Careful use was taken of the spot by Haldé a Spanish Benedictine missionary to Algiers, who prayed the time might come when the Lord would pave the way for his exhumation and Christian burial. In 1853 the French found it necessary to destroy the fort, and the data left by Haldé was found to be correct. For the designated block of concrete on being cut open disclosed the bones of Gerónimo and the cavity left by his body. The bones were removed December 27, 1853, and given a Christian burial, and they now rest in a massive stone sarcophagus in the cathedral. A plaster cast was made of the cavity and afterward photographed.—Washington Herald.

Queen Alexandra's Charm. Queen Alexandra of England has lost little of her early vivacity and charm. Her laugh has the insouciance of a young girl, and her frank enjoyment is a pleasure to look at. This is the more remarkable because her life has been by no means free from care or sorrow, but the true secret is she possesses one of those bright sunny natures on which shadows do not linger long. In this she is to be envied by her daughter-in-law who possesses it in the same degree.

New Hampshire's Roads. New Hampshire's system of good roads includes "three magnificent gateways to the highlands of the north." One follows the sea coast, and the eastern side of the State, while the others follow the valleys of the Merrimac and Connecticut rivers. The sea coast section of the first, extending from Seabrook, to the Massachusetts line, to Odiorne's Point, a distance of sixteen miles, was begun six years ago and has progressed until it is now almost practically completed.

H. W. McCARTY ACCIDENT

Narrow Escape Of H. W. McCarty While Fixing Wires.

Mr. H. W. McCarty, District Manager for the Diamond State Telephone Co., at Salisbury had a very narrow escape from death last Friday morning while working on the wires leading from Vienna to Salisbury. Mr. McCarty had driven on the marsh across the river from Vienna to fix the wires, and finding the tide very much higher than he expected, loosened his horse from the buggy, which was running over with water, intending to mount it and ride on high land, but instead the horse succeeded in getting away from him, with the result that he was compelled to wade in water nearly to his shoulders until he could get to a telephone pole, which he climbed, tapped the wire and phoned to Salisbury to ask Vienna to send him help.

However, Messrs. Thos. J. Moore and Don N. Higgins had seen his predicament and had hurried across the river to his assistance. These gentlemen walked Mr. McCarty to the bridge of the B. O. and A. Railroad across the Nanticoke, but when he got there he was unable to cross, his clothing having frozen stiff upon him and he having completely lost consciousness. They carried him to the station and summoned aid and after applying restoratives and working over him for some time he finally regained consciousness and was able to go back to Salisbury on the night train. —Cambridge Record.

BENEFIT P. G. HOSPITAL

Play Given By Local Talent. Private Secretary's Comedy.

In connection with the recent articles which have appeared in the local papers regarding "The Private Secretary," it is interesting to note the announcement that this much advertised play is to be given by local talent at the benefit of the benefit of the Peninsula General Hospital and will include in the cast several of the members who made such decided hits in the performances of "Sunset" and "Change Partners" given last December under the auspices of the Ladies Guild of St. Peter's P. E. Church, as well as some of the cast of the "Olive O'Connell" performance.

Of the play itself too much cannot be said. Its unprecedented success throughout the country is sufficient testimony to that. It is pleasing to note, however, the views of Mr. Charles Frohman recently expressed in one of the New York papers about this play. Mr. Frohman, who is perhaps one of the most widely known theatrical managers in England or America, recently classed one of the present day comedies as the equal in fun and novelty with "The Private Secretary." From this one would conclude that in his opinion the criterion by which to judge modern comedy is that well known old play, and furthermore 't must still be looked upon by him as being unsurpassed in fun and novelty, as he only refers to the other play as its equal.

This performance will be given at Ulman's Opera House, two nights, commencing February 24th. The regular price of admission will be charged.

The Thaw Verdict.

Not guilty on the ground of insanity. Took jury 25 hours to arrive at an agreement. Committed to Matawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane by Judge Dowling.

Attorney Littleton filed exception to Court's decision, and the Court agreed to withhold his order pending a conference of attorneys on question as to whether his sanity should now be inquired into.

Discharge would be dangerous to public safety, says Court.

Trial lasted three months, and cost New York county more than $50,000. The cost of the second has not yet been computed.

Martin W. Littleton conducted Thaw's defense in the trial just closed, while District Attorney Jerome conducted the prosecution. Both seemed satisfied with the verdict.

PROCEEDINGS AT ANNAPOLIS.

Disfranchising Bill, Local Option, Etc.

The disfranchising amendment to the constitution has been occupying the attention of the legislators at Annapolis this week. There seemed to be a difference of opinion in regard to it, which made the Democratic caucus defer consideration of it until Thursday evening.

However, prominently the disfranchising bill may now stand out, it will have to take a "back seat" soon if reports of the coming fight on the anti-saloon league local option bill be true.

Anti-Saloon Fight.

The members of the temperance committee in both house and senate are already being deluged with letters from all over the state advocating and opposing the bill. Those in Wicomico County who recall the fight here on the saloon can readily imagine what a fight participated in by united anti saloon sentiment of the state and opposed by the entire liquor strength will amount to. Mr. Roscoe Jones, of Wicomico County has introduced the local option bill, for the anti saloon league and will have charge of their fight in the house. This is the bill that Mr. Jones introduced and not one in reference to Wicomico County, as erroneously stated by one of the daily papers. Mr. Jones selection to introduce this bill, and conduct the temperance fight in the house, by the Anti-Saloon League is quite a compliment to Mr. Jones and to the County which he represents. Mr. Anderson is looking around for a man in the legislature, that he could depend upon to make an aggressive fight and, as he put it, one that "would stand without blinching" selected the Wicomico Countyman, and it is prophesied that time will show that his selection was a wise one. One thing certain Mr. Jones is a hard fighter and will certainly stand without "blinching."

Worcester Will Get Vote.

Whatever may be the general result in regard to the state local option bill, our neighboring county of Worcester is going to get a vote on whether or not whiskey is to be sold there. Mr. Robley D. Jones of the house and Sen. Moore of the Senate have introduced a bill providing for the submission of the question to the voters of the County on March 21st. This is the result of the strong fight that the Anti Saloon League of Worcester County has been waging for several years, and some of the best informed people of the county prophesied that every district in the county will go dry. In connection with this, we note the Worcester Advocate article appearing in our esteemed contemporary, "The Wicomico News," relative to the sending of several of our offenders to the house of Correction into an argument that closing the saloons was a failure here. There was nothing in the article that could have led to any such conclusion and we feel sure that the Wicomico News will so tell the editor of The Advocate, and if that is not conclusive let him come over and interview our people and see for himself whether or not the citizens of Wicomico County regard prohibition as a failure.

Biennial Elections.

Another measure attracting considerable attention at Annapolis is the proposed change in the time of our elections making an election every two years instead of annually as at present. This was brought up by Mr. Stanford, of Somerset, and is regarded by many as a move in the right direction, giving as it will the same results with half the present expenditure for election purposes, and also giving the public time to breathe between elections and campaigns.

Appointments.

This has been a strenuous week for office seekers and Gov. Crothers has been literally swamped, with delegations and endorsements in favor of this or that candidate. The appointment that Wicomico is mostly interested in is that of Land Commissioner; Hon. E. Stanley Todvine, who has made such a good record for himself, is a candidate to succeed himself. Mr. Todvine's has brought the office up to a much higher standard of efficiency and usefulness during his administration of his affairs, and his retirement would be a loss to the state. He has the unanimous endorsement of Wicomico County's delegation.

Unclaimed Letters.

Mr. J. L. Allender, Mr. Chas. Crouch, Mr. L. F. Damon, D. Grant, Esq., Mr. W. H. Gosline, Mr. Zena Hersey, Mr. Allan H. Herlock, Miss Emma Jones, Mr. Wilson Jones, Mrs. Jennie Layton, Mr. S. C. PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Discussed. Reminder Of Past Statesmen High Moral Plane. Fairness.

Members Editors:— Permit me to say a few words complimentary of the President's special message to Congress this week. Leaving out entirely political or party considerations, the message is a refreshing contribution to the growing reform sentiment of the country. Consistent with vigor, earnestness and truth, it is difficult to conceive how the message can be accused of intemperate expression, granting the facts on which it is based are true. If truth is to be told, justice and morality to be taught and preached only when those who defy these rules are anxious to hear them, it is difficult to conceive of an opportune time when these necessary principles are to be enforced.

If business conditions are brought about in the manner the President alleges in the message, it is also difficult to conceive how these conditions can be amended, if the plan that "it will hurt business" is allowed to stand; so that the objections to the message from this source simply amount to objections to all plans for honesty and fair dealing, on the ground that "it hurts business," or simply that we "can not afford to be honest" or to tell the truth.

No one can read the message carefully without being impressed with the fact of the evident desire of the author to state the facts fairly and in a temperate and judicial tone. It is true that when he answers his detractors, the men whom the department of Justice have been after, he pours out the vials of righteous wrath, and uncovers the hypocrisy and hidden motives of these same detractors.

On economic questions the President is on high moral ground. From the amending of the Employers Liability Act, use of injunctions, compensation to government employees for accident in the service, to the suppression of stock gambling, and the regulation of corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

In this wide range of subjects, the President takes strong ground, embracing it would seem, the welfare of the entire country, in which there is no mere partisanship.

He has risen in a real statesman, and carries one back to that period of our country, when men were broad enough to embrace humanity itself, to the period of our Websters and Clays. Now we do not mean that our President has the abilities of these men in some special lines, but the point here is, that he has crossed the line once more and broken the shackles of hide-bound partisanship in his desire to benefit his country.

It is difficult to escape the logic of his policy toward public device corporations, whatever may be our party proclivities. If Congress must regulate commerce among the states, it is difficult to escape the conclusion that it must in some measure supervise and regulate their origin. It is difficult to defend the policy of a state chartering a corporation (that corporation intending to do none or only a partial business in that state) and then turning it loose without further responsibilities on all the other states of the Union. Responsibility, "it would seem should go hand in hand with creation. There can be no objection at least to the theory, that the power that regulates should create, in order to have entire harmony in the result and no clashing of state and federal jurisdiction.

Again if there should have to be a physical valuation of the properties of interstate corporations, in order to regulate charges and rates as recommended in the message, how is it possible for the states to do this except as to domestic corporations. Even these corporations and such foreign corporations as do business in the several states frequently overawe political parties in small states, and escape the supervision and control which by law they are amenable to the people. So that the President besides the high moral tone which pervades his message, has taken a stand on economic questions that is well worth the considerations of sober thinking people. It has hoped he has contributed in some measure to the revival of comprehensive statesmanship and broad principle and that people will not be driven to take their stand on public question altogether from mere policy or expediency or from the hope of personal advancement, but from the conviction that that stand is for the best interests of the people.

It would have undoubtedly added to the message if some reference had been made to the demands for tariff revision, and we have no doubt a thorough-going presentation of the banking and financial questions would have been equally entertaining as well as instructive.

THE FARMER'S INSTITUTE

At Salisbury To Be Held Feb. 10 and 11. Many Prominent Speakers. Advantages.

The Farmers Institute, held under the auspices of the Maryland Agricultural College will be held in Salisbury next Monday and Tuesday, February the 10th and 11th. A very interesting and instructive programme has been arranged, and it is hoped that a full attendance will be had. What our farms need is progressive up-to-date farming methods, and the Institute are the means of getting much of this valuable information, by the experience of those who have made a practicable test of them as well as those who have made the study of farming and agriculture a life time work and business. We have in Wicomico County one of the kind of soil and well adapted to various crops and trucks, and if our farmers will put the natural advantages to the best of use, there is no reason why the production and value of our crops should not be very appreciably increased. There are a few who believe in doing the things that their fathers before them did, and insist upon raising the same crops year after year without regard to the best capabilities of the soil and treatment for the crops. It is however very noticeable that the number of farmers in this class are getting fewer all the time, and each year more and more are realizing that they are not getting the full value of their lands by the old methods, and consequently dropping them to try new and improved methods in the farming. Give our farmers good methods and enlightened ways of treating the soil and crops as well as a thorough knowledge of the character of the soil, what crops it will pay best to plant, and in connection to this good roads and our community will be vastly improved. The regular listing of workers will be assisted by local men, and others from the Agricultural College and Experiment Station. Mr. W. C. Mitchell is the Vice President for Wicomico County.

The following programme has been arranged:

John Jeannin, Jr.—"Strawberry Culture."

Afternoon Session
Question Box.
John Jeannin, Jr.—"Poultry Keeping for the Farmer."
By Patrons—Resume of the Subjects Treated.

Tuesday, Feb. 11, 11.30 a. m. to 4 p. m.
Conductor's Announcement.
A. J. Lovejoy—"The Hog as a Consumer of the By Products of the Dairy."
Afternoon Session.
D. Ward King—"Good Roads Right Now."
F. H. Rankin—"Developing the American Farm Boy."

On request of the Local Correspondent and the affirmative vote of two thirds of the Patrons present at the opening of the Institute, this program or any part of it may be set aside to admit home talent. Director.

SEVEREST STORM OF THE SEASON

East Of The Rocky Mountains Causes Much Suffering. Skating.

One of the severest storms of the winter swept over the country this week, the entire country east of the Rocky Mountain being affected. Philadelphia experienced the coldest day since 1904 and low temperatures were recorded all over the storm swept area in many places snow almost impossible, and the water traffic on the bay was almost blocked. Instances suffering resulted in many places among the poor and destitute, in some cities they were compelled to build bon-fires in the streets in order to keep warm, and the various charitable organizations of the country have been hard pressed to render necessary relief. Ice is piling up in the rivers and bays rendering navigation difficult and dangerous. Wicomico County had a touch of real winter and it looked as though we were going to have one of the old time "snow-falls" that our Grandfathers are always talking about, when the snow piled up over the top of the fence and even in some cases almost covered up the yard to the top of the doors, but fortunately for those who do not see pleasure in snow and cold, it turned into rain and not very much of the snow is left on the ground. Skating was fine here for several days, and those who enjoy the sport made the best use of their opportunities. This was spoiled by the falling of the snow, followed by warm winds from the South. On Thursday the temperature fell again, and if any confidence can be put in the weather reports, we are in for another cold spell. On Friday morning the ice was hard enough on Humphreys' Lake to allow some skating.

The number of unemployed in the cities has been gradually increasing and this cold weather is causing much hardship, some of the municipalities are starting improvements in order to furnish work for these. In Wicomico County heavy snowfalls were reported with rivers and ponds frozen solid. This is a time for those who have an abundance or sufficiency to contribute of their means to help alleviate the sufferings of their less fortunate brothers—Salisbury's Charitable Organizations, we understand, can do more at present to great advantage.

A Correction.

We regret an error which appeared in our columns last week. The item in question was one in which it was stated that the Rev. Mr. Phillips, in company with several other gentlemen, were present at a progressive euchre party at the home of Mr. S. King White. There were no cards played at the party mentioned, only checkers.

PERUNA EDITORIAL NO. I.

Dr. Hartman is now offering Peruna to the public as a regular pharmaceutical product. It is just as ethical as any compound put up for the medical profession. No straining of medical ethics can find any fault with it. THE PRINCIPAL ACTIVE INGREDIENTS are prominently incorporated in the label on the bottle, that the people may know that the claims made for Peruna have a true justification.

The only departure we shall make from medical ethics in the conduct of Peruna affairs in the future, is the fact that we shall continue to advertise and sell our product TO THE PEOPLE.

If we would agree to sell to doctors only, to advertise for doctors only, then the medical fraternity would be obliged to recognize Peruna as being entirely within their approval.

BUT WE SHALL NOT DO THIS.

We shall continue to offer Peruna to the people. We shall continue to convey to the people our claims for Peruna as a household remedy. We shall continue to supply the people with free literature, teaching them how to use our medicine, teaching them how to avoid disease, teaching them many things of benefit to the home. We shall continue to do this, whether the medical profession like it or not.

We are proposing from this time on to take the public into our confidence. Notwithstanding that some imitators and substitutes will be attempting to put up something which they consider just as good as Peruna, we are going to pull aside the veil of secrecy and allow any one who chooses to know exactly what PERUNA IS COMPOSED.

This ought to disarm all honest criticism. We expect, however, that critics will come. On some pretext or other those who are envious of the success of Peruna will continue to find fault. But we are determined to give such people no just complaint. PERUNA IS A GREAT MEDICINE. It has become a household word in millions of homes. Our faith in the remedy is stronger than ever. Every year we expect to establish new plants until the people of all the world are supplied with this valuable remedy.

PERUNA TO BE A CATARRH REMEDY. Buy a bottle and let you, be honest and acknowledge that it has helped you. Let us to we will publish your statement exactly as you furnish it. We will not do this without your entire consent.

Thousands of people of chronic catarrh, in many phases at least, that is what the people say to us, through unsolicited letters will cure many thousand more, in spite of fabricated literary.

LET EVERY BOTTLE OF PERUNA TO CONTAIN THE PRINTED ON THE LABEL.

That every testimonial we use is absolutely true—in the fullest sense.

That every photograph published is the photograph of the person who signed it.

That we are determined to meet falsehood with truth, and to beat our opponents by being fairer than they are, and to stand by our own side, with sincerity.

The name of Peruna will appreciate our stand. We believe Peruna will appeal our cause. We expect even our opponents to acknowledge finally that Peruna is not only a remedy, but one of the GREATEST HOUSEHOLD MEDICINES.

STATE PAWN SHOPS

PIUS II. OPENED THE FIRST

The Mont de Piete a Great Success in Paris—It's Run in the Interest of the Poor Under Direct Government Control, and is a Boon to Humble Folk.

Lending money upon property great and small is probably as old as human society itself. But it was not until Middle Ages that authority stepped in to prevent abuses in this connection and protect the masses of the people from usurers.

In the middle of the thirteenth century there was between the church and the monarch a third power, which, although it worked in secret, nevertheless dictated terms to the proudest nobles. This power was the purse of the Jew.

In 1284 Pius II. opened the first State Pawnshop in beautiful old Perugia—that ancient cradle of art on the quiet Umbrian Hills. The idea was to relieve the peasants and humble laborers who unquestionably often passed the day in utter penury to the money lenders.

The necessary capital was obtained by pious appeals to the rich and noble, and in a few years branches were founded in every city in Italy. For generations thereafter these establishments were under church control, but gradually they became a part of the public service.

The system took three centuries to cross the Alps into France. It was in 1778 that M. Necker, the famous minister of Louis XVI. caused the first law of the Mont de Piete to be hung out in Paris. Twelve years later, however, the revolution broke out and the constituent assembly decided to close up the short-lived institution.

Naturally enough the old pawnbrokers and usurers at once resumed business and were more extortionate than ever, the game being now entirely in their hands under peculiarly advantageous conditions. Their oppression indeed became so great an evil that the provisional government had sense enough to restore the now famous Mont de Piete, as the State Pawnbroking Department of France is called.

This vast national concern is run in the interests of the poor under direct control of the government. It is a kind of state bank, receiving deposits from the people on which it now pays about four per cent interest, and it lends money at five per cent.

No private person is allowed to lend money on goods in Paris or in any other part of France. This is a state monopoly conducted as we shall see with machine-like precision, with no unseemly haggling, no hurry, no discourtesy and no unkindness. The Mont de Piete is endowed with its auxiliary offices in every quarter of the great city of Paris and "succursales" or branches throughout the provincial cities is beyond doubt a very real boon to millions of humble folk. It will take into safe-keeping and store the arms and the street chess at seller at the approach of spring; and takes charge of the "fontaine" of the lead drink peddler when chilly October warns him his trade is at an end. It will lend the out-of-work laborer sixty cents on his tools that he may go here and there in search of employment.

The headquarters of the institution are in the Rue des Blanc-Manteaux, and there are two great branches or succursales, one in the Rue de la Harpe, and the other in the Rue de Bonaparte. The latter is the more important and is somewhat incongruously placed near that noble institution the Ecole des Beaux Arts. One enters through a passage leading to an open court surrounded on all sides by the various buildings of the Mont de Piete. On the left, as you enter, is the department of "Degagements," where the prosperous redeemer their pledges. Next comes the hall of "Engagements," where articles are received and beyond that the immense auction room where undredged pledges are sold.

It is curious to observe that although crowds are present in the various departments, pledging, redeeming or buying at auction there is no noise or excitement and certainly no confusion. It is an anxious crowd but a silent one which passes about the counters of the various departments. Here is an artisan out of work, a dry goods clerk, an assembly dressed lady "pawning" her shawl instead of putting them into cold storage for the summer. The whole transaction is looked upon as most matter-of-fact. Parcels handed across the counter are taken to an inner room to be valued by the appraiser who never so much as sees the applicant. The first parcel is perhaps a christening set of silver, a fork and a spoon. The valuer turns to his little weighing machine, weighs the silver, tests it and, illiconsequently calls out "Twenty-five."

A malacca cane follows with a too alleged to be gold. It is rubbed on a test stone, flicked with acid and promptly despoiled as an impostor. Diamond rings and brooches go through most searching examinations. There is no sentiment.

Commission of Miss Dost. In a recent article in a German paper, Herr Paul Spies shows that spontaneous ignition of fine dust is not the question when the material is properly packed. Wetting the material is also without danger and explosion can only in the presence of air. The is of some importance, inasmuch as steamship owners sometimes refuse to transport this material, and underwriters have regulations with respect to

CENSUS OF PARIS TREES.

Approximately 87,000, the Horse Chestnut the Commonest.

In the course of its annual stock taking the Paris municipality has gone the length of making a census of all the trees which the city owns and cares for. The total number is approximately 87,000, or roughly one tree to every thirty-two inhabitants, not counting the "garden city" without, but ample to provide all honest Republicans with plenty of the cheap yet artistic badge which Camille Desmoulins made popular.

The horse chestnut is the commonest tree planted by the municipality; after it comes the plane tree, followed by the Judas tree. In some of the more distant and secluded avenues limes and acacias are found, but variety must not be sought outside the gardens and parks, which belong to the State. There one may find almost every tree that may be grown in the Paris climate.

The municipality also excludes the trees growing in its own parks—the Parc Monceau, the Buttes Chaumont, the Parc Montrouge—from this census. The area of these parks and other public squares is about 1,500,000 square yards, and about half of it is grass grown.

The Red Death. It will be remembered that Edgar Allan Poe, in his "Masque of the Red Death," described a plague, the main symptom of which was a bleeding from the pores of the body. In Central America the Red Death is personified in the Blood Snake, or, as the Spaniards call it, Vivora Saugre. This snake is of a red-tinted black on the back, with underneath it is of a bright vermilion. Its deadly work is easily recognizable in the condition of the victim. An Indian cattleman, finding a cow bleeding at the nose, eyes, and ears, and perspiring blood at every pore, does not hesitate to blame it on Vivora Saugre. Unfortunately, the effect upon the human being is the same, and our Indian friend quite realizes it when he lights a cheroot, gathers his blanket around him, and stoically sits down to await the meeting with his forefathers.

Lest We Forget. In the good old kaffir corn days of Blaine county, when Uncle John Dillon, the Geary banker and County Clerk Tyler hauled cedar posts to El Reno and Oklahoma City and sold them to buy bread for their families, they would go to hear a good old preacher, who was a post hauler with them. This good old preacher in his prayers would thank God for his goodness to them, and one season, when he was especially thankful for good crops raised, but not forgetful of the past, he said: "Dear Lord, let it never come we forget, we thank Thee O God, for the cedar in the canons."

Indian Cotton Tree. The Indian cotton tree, it is claimed, is able to withstand long periods of drought, and has so far escaped the ravages of the troublesome boll worm. This tree does not appear to require much attention after it has been once planted, and it grows to a height of six or seven feet. Its great export is now being made in England to organize a company for the production and exploitation of this cotton.

Josephine's Hair. Now that Maimalson has reverted to the French nation possessors of objects once associated with it all the world over are showing themselves quite eager to restore them to the place so inseparably associated with the sad romance of Bonaparte's unfortunate, Empress. The Bonaparte legend may be dead enough, but Josephine's legend is not. Her hair is the latest object to find its way back.

Earliest Mention of Forks. The earliest mention of forks was in "Crudities," a singular book of travels by Coryates, published in 1611. "The Italians, and most strangers that are cormorant in Italy, do always, at their meals, use a little fork when they cut their meat." Queen Elizabeth was the first English sovereign to use one, and her court condemned the fad as a silly affectation.

Color Photography. The feature of the exhibition of the Royal Photographic Society, which opened recently in London, was the display of color photography by the new starch grain process. This is not yet regularly in the market, but a large number of amateurs have made or secured plates, and over 100 color pictures were submitted, 72 of which were accepted and hung.

Poorest of All European Kings. King George of Greece is the poorest of all European Kings. His income is about $700 a day, which is nothing to one obliged to maintain the state and dignity of a King. He would be poorer still were it not for outside help. England, France and Russia each subscribe $20,000 a year toward his income.

Large Land Owners. The Roths family of the State of Durango, Mexico, are among the largest. It is not the largest, family owners of land in the world. They count their wealth by millions of dollars and are in supreme control of a mountainous territory embracing about 10,000,000 acres.

How to Mend a Stay. The nicest way to mend a broken corset or dress stay is to bind the top of the stay or where it is broken with a small piece of chamois skin. The end of the stay, it will be found, will not pierce through the chamois as it frequently does through cloth.

To Clean Agate Ware. To clean agate ware that has become stained take 1 tablespoonful of chloroform of lime and a small piece of soda, then fill with cold water and set come to a boil. Rinse well.

FEAR OF ASSASSINATION

AFFECTS STATE AFFAIRS

Men in Power Have Reason to Fear the Murderer, Not Only for Their Own Sakes, But Also for the Sake of the Order of Things They Represent.

While actual assassinations are happily infrequent, the continual state of apprehension that rulers have to endure has in itself no slight effect on political affairs. Men in power have reason to fear the weapon of the murderer not only for their own sake, but also for the sake of the order of things they represent. Of the natural terror in which those in high places at present live the London Spectator makes a remarkable statement in these words:

"The rulers of Europe more especially those of North and South America are almost equally affected—are greatly influenced by the fear of murder. They know that they are always in danger, and believe that the murderers are generally persons of extremely democratic opinions, or men hostile to the present constitution of society. This causes a distrust between rulers and people which arrests many ameliorations that would be adopted if confidence between classes could be restored, increases the desire for military protection, and diminishes the hope of the masses in the concessions they seek from those above them. We say it is the rulers who are shocked out of their self-control because the permanent danger is not felt only by the kings or presidents, or even by the leading ministers who so often require special police protection. Kings and statesmen can more or less guard themselves; but their danger affects large groups, and sometimes very important and extensive interests."

The effects of any cutting off of sovereigns at present ruling in Europe is speculated upon as follows: "The murder of the Czar would affect every member of the bureaucracy, and be regarded as a frightful blow by the whole body of reactionaries in Russia. The murder of the German Emperor or of the Emperor of Austria would shake all Europe, disturb all political calculations, and perhaps produce sudden and unexpected wars. Huge parties of great interests would find the world as they had known it crumbling around them. The murder even of President Fallieres, with his limited prerogatives, would open the road to new ambitions, and perhaps provide France with a new master whose international policy would be totally different from that of the present government. The general effect, in fact, would be equal to that of the Revolutionary Terror, which in the judgment of many of the most thoughtful observers directly arrested the European progress which it seems to other observers to have secured. The rulers of Europe were slowly beginning to understand their peoples when that frightful explosion with its attendant massacres d over the whole of the conservative classes into an attitude of ferocious self-defense. Every great multitude of dependents, or of people who look to him for guidance, and every assassination in such a case disturbs opinion among millions, shakes confidence, and postpones hope. It is felt to be impossible to reason reasonably because of the possibility, the imminent possibility, of bolts from the blue. How are you to calculate when an earthquake may at any moment destroy the data of calculation? Europe would not be the same place, the same people would not be important, the world drift of international politics would be different, if the Emperor of Austria, for example, died suddenly, and more especially, because more scientifically, if he died through external violence."

The danger of assassination is present moment is "really acute" and is one of the causes which create distrust between rulers and the ruled and lead to extreme measures of repression. "If assassination were impossible, Mr. Stolypine would not have functioned drumhead court-martial. How is the condition of things to be remedied? Freedom of speech and freedom of the press are two safety-valves by means of which much suffering will evaporate. Another means of allaying popular distrust and hatred is by making every one feel himself a sharer in the constitutional power and authority of the realm. To quote The Spectator: "The two remedies in which at present any hope can be found are publicity, through which no doubt much hatred is exhaled, and that dispersal of power and responsibility which is involved in every constitutional system."

He who would enjoy fame must not forget to pay the press agent.

"The census bureau says there is a divorce granted every three minutes. Isn't it a wonder we are not deluged by the continuous snapping of the ties?"

Reading into the Telephone. A young Philadelphia woman of good family but reduced means, who had retained an extensive acquaintance among her aristocratic associates, has hit upon a novel and original means of earning a livelihood by the use of her voice and excellent reading ability. She has combined some of her wealthy friends of advanced years into a reading circle, who listen to her over their telephones for about an hour a day and pay her generously by the word for her recitation.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all stages, and that is Ostarth. Hall's Ostarth Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Ostarth being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Ostarth Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

—Gen. Booth, on his last visit here," said a supporter of the Salvation Army, condemned the modern Christmas spirit. He said that it was too much a spirit of grab. He illustrated his meaning with the help of a small boy. Meeting this boy on one Christmas morning, Gen. Booth patted him on the head and said: "Well my son, how did you fare this Christmas?" "Fine," the boy replied. "I done better 'n all my brothers' n' sisters put together."

"How did that happen?" asked the General. "I got up three hours before they did," said the boy.

SAVE MONEY BY BUYING CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY. You will pay just as much for a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough remedy as for any of the other cough medicines, but you save money in buying it. The saving is in what you get, not what you pay. The sure to cure you quality is in every bottle of this remedy, and you get good results when you take it. Neglected coughs often develop serious conditions, and when you buy a cough medicine you want to be sure you are getting one that will cure your cold. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy always cures. Price 25 and 50 cents a bottle. For sale at Toulson's Drug Store.

USES CUTICURA AND IS SOON SOUND AND WELL. "I was very badly afflicted with eczema for more than two years. The parts affected were my limbs below the knees. I had beautiful hair up to that time. The dandruff destroyed my hair. I tried everything I could hear of. I had no doctor, but I went into a drug store where I was well acquainted and asked the druggist if he knew of anything that would be good for me. He said: 'Of course I do. Just get a cake of Cuticura Soap.' I got it, and it did my hair good the first time I used it. My sister-in-law couldn't keep the dandruff off the top of her baby's head, and the hair wouldn't grow. I was there, had a cake of Cuticura Soap with me. I told her about it, and gave her the Cuticura Soap, and in about three months I went there again, the child's head was covered with hair and not a sign of dandruff. My sister said it was the Cuticura Soap. The child is not past three years old and has a lovely head of hair. Mrs. E. W. Shigley, Columbus, Kan., Oct. 25, 1905.

PROPOSED LEGISLATION.

As the legislature continues, there is a growing opinion that this session will prove to be one of the most important for several years.

The promise of the party to pass a corrupt practice bill that will be more than a sham and mere farce to deceive the public with a pretense of carrying out the party's platform in this respect, seems to be about to be fulfilled, as well as a constitutional amendment to prevent negroes from voting.

Mr. S. J. Bond, of Somerset has introduced an amendment to the constitution providing for a change in the election so that instead of having annual elections we will have bi-annual elections.

Those who are interested in the tuberculosis question feel that the men who have given up their time to this labor should be encouraged to continue it and that no more deserving cause exists in the State.

When an eminent authority announced in the Soranton, Pa., Times that he had found a new way to treat that dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, everyday drugs found in any drug store, the physicians were slow indeed to attach much importance to his claims.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and backache.

$175,000 MORE NEEDED

That Amount Will Be Required To Put The Institution Near Sabillasville In Good Shape.

The first annual report of the Board of Managers of the Maryland Tuberculosis Sanitarium, which has been submitted to the Governor, shows not only the great progress made by the commissioners for the establishment of a much needed institution for the care and cure of tubercular patients, but the plans are for the making of an institution that will be an ideal one, second to none in the country.

In order to accomplish this a bill has already been introduced in the Senate appropriating $175,000. When the plans of the commission are finally carried out Maryland will have a tuberculosis sanitarium of which the state may be proud and the sufferers from the white plague will have a place to go where every comfort and attention incident to a cure may be given them.

It is urged that the State of Maryland can expend its money in no more useful way than by the completion of this sanitarium; that it means much to the health and welfare of the whole community, and that it will be the means of not only saving the lives of many men and women smitten with this disease but of removing to a great extent a grave danger to those who have not contracted it.

The site selected is in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains, overlooking the beautiful Hanover and Gettysburg valleys. It comprises 300 acres of land, with a dry, porous soil, capable of good drainage and with an unlimited supply of water of unquestionable purity.

Patients pavilions $65,000 Powerhouse 31,000 Mechanical plant, sewage disposal field 32,000 Barn and out-buildings 10,000 Overseer's cottage 2,500 Stock and farming implements 25,000 Furniture 14,000 Grading, fencing, etc. 50,000 Auditorium and chapel 15,000 Architects' commissions 7,000

Those who are interested in the tuberculosis question feel that the men who have given up their time to this labor should be encouraged to continue it and that no more deserving cause exists in the State.

Senator-elect Smith will come to Annapolis, it is understood, tomorrow for the purpose of appearing, with others, before the Finance and Ways Committees in the interest of the bill which was presented in the Senate by Senator John P. Moore.

When an eminent authority announced in the Soranton, Pa., Times that he had found a new way to treat that dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, everyday drugs found in any drug store, the physicians were slow indeed to attach much importance to his claims.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and backache.

Hicks' Forecast for February.

Nov. 1st R. Hicks didn't hit it very well in his weather prognostications for January, but there is still hope for him in February. The secret of whatever success he has had seems to be that he predicts storm periods for every day in the year, and he is bound to strike it right sometime.

No sooner will we be rid of this storm than we will have another on our hands. During the 18th, 19th and 20th a steady procession of rains and snows will march eastwardly across the devoted country.

Another storm period is predicted to follow the one just mentioned as promptly as he new year follows the old. This will culminate in the West Rev. Mr. Hicks says, on the 22nd, but it will not be until three days later that the outposts of the storm will flee out over the Atlantic Ocean.

Notice.

There will be services, D. V. in Spring Hill Parish on Sunday next February 9th., as follows: Spring Hill, 8 p. m. if weather permits: Quantico 7.30 p. m. Franklin B. Adkins, Rector.

Why Refer to Doctors.

Because we make medicines for them. We tell them all about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and they prescribe it for coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption. They trust it. Then you can afford to trust it. Ask your own doctor.

ACCIDENT AT HEBRON

Noah W. Majors Killed While Loading Mine Props.

A fatal accident occurred at Hebron on Monday of this week, while Mr. Noah W. Majors was engaged in the loading of Mine-props on the switch there. Mr. Majors and his assistants were engaged in loading the car with the help of a derrick placed on a forty foot pole, when by some means the heavy grapple irons slipped striking Mr. Majors on the head and resulting in immediate death, the top of his head being severed.

Mr. Majors was a well known farmer, and very highly thought of by all who knew him. By honest and hard work he had succeeded in accumulating some property and was in a position to enjoy the fruits of his past work. In recent years he had become interested in the lumber business and was associated with Mr. C. E. Williams in several ventures. He was a son of the late Kendall Majors and was about 48 years of age.

He leaves a widow, who was a Miss Goslee and a sister of Prof. Grant Goslee, who is now principal of the Preston High School, he is also survived by three children, two girls and a boy, the eldest of which is about 12 years old. The funeral services were held at his late home on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, and remains interred in the Henry burying ground near Delmar.

Proceedings Of School Board.

The School Board was in session last Thursday, and after transacting considerable routine business, spent some time in discussing the proposed new school laws.

Resignation of C. D. Williams, trustee of Shad Point School, was accepted as having moved from the school district.

Resignation of Miss Beulah Melson principal of Trullitt's School, was accepted.

The action of the Superintendent in sending Miss Hattie Twilley to assist in the Athol School, Miss Beulah Melson at Powellville, and Miss Grace Harrington in the 6th grade room, Salisbury, was confirmed.

The Superintendent reported a donation of $100 by Mrs. L. A. Steber, of Coatesville, Pa., for the purpose of purchasing a bell for the Pittsville school, in memory of her father, Mr. Parsons, who died at the advanced age of 87.

The colored schools of the county were ordered to be closed on February 28th, the same date as last year.

A Committee from Fruitland was before the Board asking for an additional teacher for the school and the enlargement of the school building.

40,000 California Privet Hedge

Get your plants direct from the grower and save half the cost. I have a splendid lot of it, and guarantee it equal to any you can buy. My price is $1.50 per hundred. W. F. ALLEN, Salisbury, Md.

P. S.—There are some parties selling Privet Hedge that either have no regard for the truth or else they are very ignorant, who will tell you that their Hedge plants are grown from the seed. DON'T BE FOOLED. Buy your plants anywhere you please, but remember it is all propagated from cuttings, so it should be, and if you will examine any of those plants that were grown from the seed, you can easily see where the cutting started to grow and where it rooted.

HINTS OF Ladies' Fall And Winter SHOES

If we had but one style at each price, we could tell you of them all. But with a dozen or so of variations at each figure, how can we? It's for you to fix your price mark, then come here to be satisfied. If you want a shoe at $3.00, you won't need to look at a single shoe of a different price. Something in our $3.00 line will be sure to please you.

Three dollars is a favorite price with a good many women, but unless they have bought here they don't know the full possibilities of $3.00.

Our $3.50 shoes are smart enough and good enough for almost any foot. But if you want positively the most elegant and luxurious footwear that can be built, the most exclusive styles, the finest leathers—why pay $4.00 or $4.50 and get it all.

We would like to have every lady in town and surrounding towns and counties bring her shoe ideas right in here. Yours for best styles, E. Homer White Shoe Co. Salisbury, Md. MAIN STREET.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicine is composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been the subject of no less than every bottle-wraper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, diarrhoea, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvic, perhaps dark spots or specks showing before the eyes, faint spells, nervousness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's table and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home.

"Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of women's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription"; it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence in regard to this medicine is strictly confidential and is protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Kidney and Bladder Pills are the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One or two or three or four a day. Easy to take as candy.

HUSBANDS AS PRIZES

And Wives Are Offered To, for Advertising Purposes.

TRICKS OF TRADESMEN

Berlin Merchant Issues a Circular Promising to Bestow His Son as a Husband to the Spinster Who Collected the Most Coupons — Other Chances.

A Berlin tradesman has lately issued a circular promising to bestow a husband, in the person of his son, upon the spinster who shall, within a year's space, collect the most coupons — one of which is given with each purchase to the value of 5 marks. To the prize husband, as a wedding gift, he has promised to bestow a share in his business.

This singular offer, though, of course, of rare occurrence in the commercial world, is not without precedent. Some years since a Leeds firm of drapers circulated among its customers penny tokens, whereon was depicted a stylishly dressed man surrounded by the legend "A Husband for a Guinea," signifying that such as expended that amount on the firm's goods were allowed one chance in a raffle for an eligible young man, the junior partner in the house.

A circular which a law defunct tea company contributed among its lady canvassers contained the announcement that "the young lady who procures the best result compared with the amount of salary received, for not less than six months service, will receive £500, and be allowed to marry any single young gentleman in the firm. Should the young gentleman refuse to marry her, we will pay the breach of promise damages, £1000 extra, and dismiss the young gentleman from the firm."

In the early years of our late Queen's reign the proprietor of a library at one of the leading Kentish watering places issued the announcement of a lottery for a husband, who was guaranteed to be in the enjoyment of an annuity of not less than £200 per annum. The event created quite a stir, as the prize was a handsome young fellow who appeared to be in every way eligible. Great, then, was the dismay created by the arrival, on the very day when the draw was advertised to take place, of a couple of London constables, by whom the much admired Adams was arrested on a charge of fraud.

Every New Year's Day a large Vienna firm of bootmakers was wont to offer a husband to the lady whose foot was considered to be the smallest and most shapely of the year, guaranteeing at the same time to set the couple up in business should such help be needed. For over twenty years was this practice continued, until the head of the firm, an old widower, fell in love with and himself married the Cinderella footed lady, who, being of an ultra jealous disposition, sternly vetoed the custom's continuance.

In the late '80's a Brussels tailor took a young man into his employ on the stipulation that he should be allowed to dispose of him in marriage. The agreement signed, the tailor made public announcement that he would bestow a husband upon that spinster or widow who should bring most custom to his establishment within twelve months. After a keen competition the prize was carried off by a "duxom widow" of 60, who besides introducing her eight sons to the tailor's notice was the means of inducing over a score of brothers, cousins and nephews to patronize his shop.

To all spinsters and widows a chance in the lottery of a husband was the inducement held out by a New York photographer to have their photographs taken at his establishment, while to such ladies as were married and therefore ineligible it was permitted to nominate a friend in their stead. The circulars to this effect, which were distributed broadcast, were surrounded with a likeness of the prospective prize, a man of such attractive appearance that many matrimonially inclined women were induced to try their luck before the camera.

After some months, during which trade prospered, a young man of good looking young man was duly delivered over to a lady who, it subsequently transpired, was the photographer's own daughter, whose father had persuaded her to exploit for the good of his business, her fiancée of some three years standing. The remaining trio soon afterward left New York.—Trib.

It is reported from Australia that Mr. Tom Mann, lately a London publisher, who has since transferred the benefits of his fight leading to the Antipodes has instituted a form of Socialistic "baptism" in those parts. This consists in his mounting a platform, receiving babies into his arms and attaching to them scarlet oeslets inscribed with their names, their parents acting as their sponsors in devoting them to a lifelong service to Socialism.

All simple things are best—except 'trix.

Too Much Restraint.

Fox—"Well, how did you enjoy traveling with the circus?"

L. Elephant—"Not very much. I managed to stand bled breakfast food when they got too expensive, but when the kids began giving me their patent painless predigested peanuts, I thought it time to get out."

Regular Mint.

Remus—"What do you think of that cranky Pete Perlimmon? He said he would like to be a mormon on his sixteen wives."

Jasper—"I don't blame him. If Pete had sixteen wives all takin' in washin' for him he could play de races ebby day in de year."

Information Wanted.

Wearry—Excuse me, ma'am, but I'm looking for information.

Lady—Well, what is it you wish to know?

Wearry—What time will youse have dinner ready?

As An Aged Egg.

Mrs. Kidder—I wonder how Columbus made the egg stand on end?

Kidder—Easy! He shook it around until he had the chicken's feet in the big end of the egg and then stood him on them.

Practical Outlook.

Mrs. Filhigh—You must enjoy nature, for you're eagerly scanning the countryside.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

The Traveling House.

Mr. Jonas Whistlebill was an ingenious man and had it not been for the common, and his townfolk were very proud of him and his inventions. He made so many simple yet wonderful improvements in the town of Gayburg that folk used to come from great distances to admire them.

One day he got his best idea; and he immediately set to work at it. It was nothing more or less than an automobile house.

"You see," he said to his fellow citizens who gathered to watch the work, "or rather you would see if you were as original as I am, the automobile is the great modern invention. Well, I am going to be ahead of the automobile. I am going to build a whole house and automobile.

Mr. Jonas Whistlebill was not only ingenious, but a great worker, and the house grew fast. It was a handsome shingled Queen Anne cottage with fifteen large rooms, and everything in it was of the most highly modern description. It had tiled bathrooms and a music room and a conservatory and immense verandas.

"Thus," said Mr. Jonas Whistlebill, "I can sit on my front veranda and steer the house as we go through the country. And if it should rain, I have another steering bar that comes up through the parlor floor so that I can sit inside on the sofa and steer quite comfortably."

The trial trip of the wonderful house made a great occasion, and it was estimated by the editor of the Gayburg Palladium that more than twenty thousand people had gathered from all parts of the country to see it.

Mr. Whistlebill got a great deal of pleasure for a time, but after a while people began to criticize. One night the Mayor of Gayburg came home late, and just as he was turning into the lane that led to his own house, he saw Mr. Whistlebill's house. It was so dark that he did not recognize it as the wonderful automobile house and he imagined that he was on the wrong road and turned around again to look for the right one. The result was that he got lost and drove around the country all night and got caught in a thunder storm, and the next morning he was extremely cross about it.

The next people to make trouble were the people who printed the city directory, because they received many abusive letters from strangers who came to Gayburg to do business with Mr. Jonas Whistlebill and failed to find the house where the directory said that it was.

One night the family had just retired to bed after a pleasant run down the road to a pretty spot about two miles out of town, when Mrs. Jonas Whistlebill awoke. She awoke Mr. Jonas Whistlebill, who soon discovered that the house was burning in the rear and that the flames were already bursting from the roof.

Being a man of quickness of thought, he did not waste a moment, but turned on the power and went as fast as he could toward the town, so as to get to the fire, "for," said he to his wife, "we can go to the firehouse faster than the fire engine could get to us."

MEDICAL FALLACIES.

Many Prevalent Among the People Concerning Food Value.

A doctor was pointing out medical fallacies—the wrong ideas about things medicated that many people hold.

"One fallacy," he said, "is that beef tea is nourishing. It is nothing but water in which pleasant and exhilarating meat salts are dissolved. You would starve to death on beef tea, the same as on whisky or on coffee."

"Another fallacy is that alcohol—whisky—warms the body. Alcohol lowers the temperature. It chills, instead of warming. Hence it is of no use whatever as a guard against cold."

"A third fallacy is that one egg contains as much nourishment as a pound of meat. Sick people without appetite think complacently that if they take an egg or two a day they are doing well. As a matter of fact, they are doing anything but well. They must remember, if they are substituting eggs for meat, that eight eggs, not one, are required to equal one meat pound."

"Then there's the liver fallacy. Many, as soon as their stomachs get out of order, begin to treat their liver. But the liver is a dangerous thing to treat unless one understands it, for there are over ninety distinct liver troubles, and what is good for one is bad for all the rest."

Napoleon and Russia.

It is a singular fact that the fall of Napoleon began with his attack on Russia. Thenceforth Russia was a fear and dread to him. He used to her the most extravagant language, such as "Russia is on the march to conquer the world." He thought that any one who could successfully resist Napoleon must have a charmed life. And these seem to be Russia's ideas about herself. Under those words "manifest destiny," is hidden an ambition which is unsatiable.

The Call of the Wild.

Most of our song birds have three notes expressive of love, alarm and fellowship, says John Burroughs in Country Life in America. The latter call seems to keep them in touch with one another. I might perhaps add to this list the scream of distress which most birds utter when caught by a cat or a hawk—the voice of uncontrolled terror and—dismal and piercing. The other notes and calls are characteristic, but this last is the simple scream of common terrified nature.

Extracting Elephant's Teeth.

The greatest dental operation on record was performed upon an elephant in the City of Mexico. The aching tooth was twelve inches long and fourteen inches in diameter at the root. After Mr. Elephant had been securely fastened with chains his mouth was prised open and a quantity of cocaine applied to deaden the pain. When this was done, a hole was bored through the tooth and an iron bar inserted. Then a rope was twisted around the bar and four horses attached.

Baker's Regulations in France.

Bakers in France are subjected to several unusual rules and regulations. In large fortified towns for instance, they must always have a certain stock in hand in case of war. Not only this, but everywhere they have to deposit a sum of money in the hands of the municipal authorities as a surety of good conduct; and the law, not content with merely looking after their weights and measures, actually decides the price at which bread is sold.

Distance Travelled in Dancing.

A young man fond of dancing took a pedometer with him to a ball, and found that in the course of the evening he had covered thirteen and a half miles. The average length of a waltz was half a mile, of a polka, three-quarters of a mile, of a galop or schottische, a mile, and of lancers, a quarter of a mile. A girl usually dances more than a man, and is calculated to cover more than sixteen miles in a single evening.

Enforcing Law in England.

In England no arrests may be made on a Sunday, except for treason, felony, or a breach of the peace; and freedom from arrest at any time on civil process is a privilege enjoyed by members of the royal family and their servants, bishops, peers and peeresses, and members of Parliament during the sitting of Parliament and forty days before and after each session.

You Look Yellow

The trouble is, your liver's sick. One of its products, "bile," is overflowing into your blood.

You can't digest your food, your appetite is poor, you suffer dreadfully from headache, stomach ache, dizziness, malaria, constipation, etc. What you need is not a dose of salts, cathartic water or pills—but a liver tonic.

Thedford's Black-Draught

It is a true medicine for sick liver and kidneys, and regulates all the digestive functions. Try it.

DOCTORS PRESCRIBE HANCOCK'S LIQUID SULPHUR.
But Sulphur Should Be Used in Liquid Form Only.
"Hancock's Liquid Sulphur" is the most wonderful remedy for psoriasis I have ever known, writes Dr. W. W. Leake, of Orlando, Fla., who was cured of a case of years standing.
Dr. W. A. Heard, of Maitland, Fla., was cured of Rosacea after he had suffered for thirty years and says "Hancock's Liquid Sulphur is the finest remedy for all skin troubles he has ever used or prescribed."
Doctors everywhere prescribe it, but they say Sulphur should be used in liquid form only, as it is in Hancock's Liquid Sulphur.
Druggists sell it. Booklet free, if you write Hancock Liquid Sulphur Co., Baltimore.

SUFFERING AND DOLLARS SAVED.
E. S. Loper, of Marilla, N. Y., says: "I am a carpenter and have had many severe cuts healed by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It has saved me suffering and dollars. It is by far the best healing salve I have ever found. Heals burns, sores, ulcers, fever sores, eczema and piles 25 cents at Toulson's Drug Store."
—Joy Morton, the wealthy banker of Chicago, is hatching out a scheme to turn a desert county of Wyoming into a great garden, where 10,000 people may live and become independent. He is going to irrigate the section and when ready for cultivation will sell the land at such a nominal sum that almost anyone will be able to purchase if they so desire.

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saves woman from surgical operations.
Mrs. S. A. Williams, of Gardiner, Maine, writes:
"I was a great sufferer from female troubles, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me to health in three months, after my physician declared that an operation was absolutely necessary."
Mrs. Alvina Sperling, of 164 Claybourne Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes:
"I suffered from female troubles, a tumor and much inflammation. Two of the best doctors in Chicago decided that an operation was necessary to save my life. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely cured me without an operation."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.
For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ailments, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, indigestion, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, satulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?
Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

THE LAST OF HIS RACE : : WENT HOME

By A. B. Atwood.

Without the storm raged, the wind howled and shrieked as though pursued by a thousand furies; it shook even the sturdy oaks and bent and buffeted the long, lithe branches of the willows till they whirled and twisted like living things; the rain dashed in ever recurring sheets against the windows till they shook and shivered in their casements.
Within all was warmth, light and comfort. The master of Lanchester manor sat in his great leather chair before the glowing coals within the grate; the soft shaded lamp diffused a rosy glow throughout the room, a stand covered with the maners of the day stood close at his elbow, but he was not reading, he sat lost in reflection. At length he drew a letter from his breast pocket. He smoothed the creases out upon his knee with slow, lingering fingers.

The letter from his son Jack, his only boy. Ah! ten long ago it seemed, that night of the bitter quarrel between them. Why had he not listened to the boy's explanation? But he had been so sure the tale was true, the circumstantial evidence had been so strong, his disappointment, shame and anger so great, he had poured forth such a torrent of abuse that the lad had at length turned sharply on his heel and quitted the room.
In a moment the hall door had slammed and he was gone, out into the blackness of the night. And in a day or two how everything had been made clear, the real culprit exposed and punished.

In vain he had tried to trace the lad, to discover his whereabouts; time and money had been expended, the best services of Scotland Yard employed, but the boy had vanished as completely as though the earth had opened and swallowed him.
Eight long, silent, solitary years had passed, he had grown older and grayer, more silent, more morose; then last June had come the letter from his son in far off California, whether he had gone and amassed wealth.

Then had come that fatal day, when in the early hours of the morning the city trembled beneath the earthquake shocks; when in a few short hours San Francisco, the pride and glory of the Western slope, had become a stricken city, a scene of horror, desolation and despair. His son, with his wife and child had been buried in the crumbling ruins of their home, from whence later he and she alone had been rescued.
In his grief and despair he had written to his father, and instantly, in response, a cable message had flashed across the ocean, an urgent, beseeching message for him to return.
He had been busy in arranging and settling his affairs, and on the eve of his departure had been seized by a long, lingering illness, but the fever had abated, he was convalescing, and the physicians had rejoiced to see him on his feet again.
He would be here now, in a few more hours; the steamer would be due in a day or two; the weary wait for years would then be over; his son would inherit the broad acres, the vast estate, he could carry on the old name; he smiled and replaced the letter. At that moment a footman entered, bearing upon a small silver salver a telegram, which he brought to his master and noiselessly left the room.
Slowly he broke the seal and read the words: "John Allworth Lauderdale died at sea Nov. 9. Signed."
The letters blurred before his eyes; his hand dropped heavily to his side; the fingers relaxed; the pink slip fluttered to the floor.
The silence remained unbroken in the room save for the dropping of the coals with the grate, and the soft ticking of the tall clock in the corner.
After a while the Great Dane, who, with his nose upon his paw, had been sleeping on the rug at the farther end of the room, arose slowly, stretched himself and sniffed the air, then with slow, padding steps he crossed the room to his master's side and laid his heavy head upon his knee.
He started back; a long, loud howl broke the silence of the night; another, and then another followed; they rang out into the hall; they floated up the staircases, and penetrated even to the domestic quarters, where a frightened maid servant muttered, "The Banshee," as she crossed herself and covered herself beneath the clothes.
In the cold gray dawn of the November day a man servant entered the library to replenish the fire. He started back in affright as he perceived the master sitting in his customary seat, his arm hanging motionless at his side, a gray, ghastly pallor was on his face; at his feet crouched the huge beast with bloodshot eyes, with lips drawn back from the white, gleaming fangs, and hair bristling erect upon his neck. The last of his race had gone to his long home.

Types of "Phobias."
There is a class of well-defined "phobias," as they are called, with which nerve sufferers are plagued. "Hemophobia," or fear of blood; "astrophobia," or fear of stars; "geophobia," or fear of crowds; or of crowd scenes; "hypnophobia," or fear of not going to sleep, and many others. The one great remedy for all these and similar mental ailments writes Dr. Samuel McCombs in Good Housekeeping, is hypnotherapy.

FIRST STAGE INTO DENVER.

An Enthusiastic Reception by the Early Miners.

On the seventeenth of May, 1859, Denver turned out to welcome the first through coach of what was destined to grow into the "Overland Mail," an enterprise which, for sheer American pluck and daring, must be forever linked with the fame of the "Pony Express."
Red shirts drifted to the outskirts of the hamlet and dotted the hills around. Hard faced bartenders made ready for the "hottest night that ever stretched out on the gallop, emerged from their curtained and behind them. There was lively betting in dust and nuggets that the first through stage had been gathered in by Indians, with takers as eager to stake their faith that the scalps of driver and guard would come through intact.
At length a swirl of dust showed far down the trail. It grew into a yellow cloud that crept toward the wagon, hamlet. Then six mules, stretched out on the gallop, emerged from their curtained and behind them was the lumbering, swaying stage, come safely through, on time, and Denver was in touch with the world where men wore white shirts and lived in real houses. The cheers that roared a welcome to this heroic enterprise were echoed in every Western town which hoped and longed for a link of its own with the house country. "way back East."

His Son Would Pass.
In the line of aides on duty at the White House receptions stands Lieut. U. S. Grant 3d, of the engineer corps, who graduated from West Point several years ago near the head of his class. Throughout his course at West Point Lieut. Grant was among the star men, and long before graduation it was certain that he would be selected for the engineer corps, whose officers are taken from the "plebe" year, about the time of the midyear examinations, his father, Major-Gen., then Brig.-Gen., Frederick Dent Grant, became a little anxious about the stand his son was taking and wrote to the superintendent of the academy, a classmate of his, to ask his honest opinion as to whether his son would pass the midyear examination. The answer which came promptly was brief and to the point and said:
"Your son is a standing higher in all his classes than you stood in any one."
Gen. Grant has never worried himself since about his son's career.—Boston Transcript.

Growth of Finger Nails.
It is well known that in certain diseases there are very marked variations in the growth of the finger nails, both in length and thickness. Recently a Japanese student has been making a study of the variations of the thickness of the hair. He finds that the hair is influenced by the health much as the nails are and that anything which lowers the general health of the subject tends to decrease the thickness of the hair. Thus the length of the affected part or the thinner portion of the hair will give an idea of the duration of a malady, and even of slight affections. The variations are more strongly marked in the case of coarse-haired races than of others. Provided the hair had never been cut, the subject would have his pathologic history written, so to speak, in capillary terms.

Latest in Railroads.
Hochstauffen, near Bad Reichenhall, in Germany, will soon have one of the most peculiar railways in the world. It will run up a steep mountain side, and will be operated by a balloon. The mountain is so steep that no ordinary way of locomotion would do, so it has been planned to hitch a balloon to the car that makes the trip, and have it practically lift the car to the top of the hill. But the car will be held to the earth by clamps that will retain the wheels close to the rails, and the upward tendency of the balloon will furnish the power. The big bag of gas will be 7 feet in diameter, and will have a lifting capacity of about 10,000 pounds.

Unearthed Roman Pottery.
In the course of the operation for restoring the foundations to the cathedral at Winchester, England, the excavators discovered some interesting relics of the Roman occupation. Thirteen vases and lamps were unearthed. One piece was an excellent specimen of pottery, intact and in perfect preservation. The lamps are of the type known as "the lamp of learning" and resemble in shape a gray boat with a spout at one end, from which the wick protrudes, and a handle at the other. The vessels are made of iron and though discolored with age are unbroken and in an excellent state of preservation.

Trade in Switzerland.
England was represented in Switzerland last year by fifty-three commercial travellers; Germany, which enjoys the lion's share of the Swiss import trade, employs an army of nearly five thousand "drummers," and is followed by France, with 1,386 of these enterprising agents, who annually sell $40,000,000 worth of French merchandise.

Height of China's Great Wall.
China's great wall was recently measured by an engineer, the height being given as eighteen feet. For 1,300 miles the wall goes over plains and mountains, every foot of the foundation being of granite—the rest of the structure solid masonry.

Danger From Electricity.
If your dwelling is electrically lighted never place wood, clothes or other inflammable material against the wires, meters or switches; never use an electric wire as a clothesline, and see to it that your dwelling is kept dry from rain, as these pests often gnaw the insulation from the wires, and amount of loss from "electric fires" in the United States in one year, according to the Saturday Evening Post, is $15,000,000.

TO THE NIGHT.

Swiftly walk over the western wave,
Spirit of Night!
Out of the misty eastern cave
Where all the long and lone daylight,
Thou wovest dreams of joy and fear
Which make the terrible and dear—
Swift be thy flight!

Wrap thy form in a mantle gay,<
Dance-in-wrath;
Filled with things that the eyes of day,
Kiss her until she be wearied out;
Then and o'er city and sea and land,
Touching all with thy opiate wail—
Come, lone-sought!

When I arose and saw the dawn,
I sighed for thee;
When light rode high and the dew
Has gone,
And noon lay heavy on flower and tree,
And the weary day turn'd to this rest!
Lingering like an unloved guest,
I sighed for thee.

Thy brother Death came, and cried
"Wouldst thou sleep?"
Thy sweet child sleep, the slimy
Cryd.
Murmur'd like a moonlit bee
Shall I wattle near thy side?
Wouldst thou see me? And I replied
"No, no thee!"
Death will come when thou art dead,
Soon, too soon—
Sleep will come when thou art dead;
Of neither would I ask the bee.
I ask of thee, beloved Night—
Swift be thine approving flight,
Come soon, soon!

DOWNWARD COURSE.
Fast Being Realized By Salisbury People.
A little backache at first.
Daily increasing till the back is lame and weak.
Disorders quickly follow:
Diabetes and finally Bright's disease.
This is the downward course of kidney ills.
W. A. Foreman, living at the Norris Hotel, Easton, Md., says: "I never obtained so much benefit from any remedy as I did from Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered for some time with inactive kidneys, irregularity of the secretions and pains throughout my back. At times the secretions would be too profuse and at other times scanty, but there was always the desire to void them. My back was very weak with a constant pain across my loins and sides; any sudden movement would cause sharp painful twinges to shoot through my back to my shoulders. I was treated by a physician and used many different remedies, but could not find relief. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at a drug store and a short use with this remedy brought me relief. A continued use of Doan's Pills effected a complete cure, and I have had no return of the trouble since."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"For several winters past my wife has been troubled with a most persistent and disagreeable cough, which invariably extended over a period of several weeks and caused her many sleepless nights," writes Will J. Hayner, editor of the Burley, Colo., Bulletin.
"Various remedies were tried each year, with no beneficial results. In November last the cough again put in an appearance and my wife, acting on the suggestion of a friend, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The result was indeed marvelous. After three doses the cough entirely disappeared and has not manifested itself since."
This remedy is for sale at Toulson's Drug Store.

ASK YOURSELF THE QUESTION.
Why not use Chamberlain's Pain Balm when you have rheumatism? We feel sure that the result will be prompt and satisfactory. One application relieves the pain, and many have been permanently cured by its use. 25 and 50 cent sizes. For sale at Toulson's Drug Store.

BY PLEASANT.

Evidence permitting there will be proceeding Sunday at this place at the regular hour 10.30 o'clock. Hope we will have a large congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Patey entertained quite a number of their friends Sunday last. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Kniss, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Rayne and family, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bristingham and son, Ira, Myrtle and Mrs. Herman Patey and little son Harold. All reported a very pleasant trip.

Miss Elizabeth Bayne and Master Ira Bristingham of this place returned home Saturday after spending some time with their aunt Mrs. L. W. Winbrow, of Salisbury.

We are sorry to report Mr. Elisha T. Tubbs is still on the sick list, but hope he will soon be out again.

Mr. Clyde Hammond and Mr. Edward [Truitt] of Friendship visited friends at this place Saturday evening. Hope they enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

The roads are very rough to drive on with horses without shoes, but hope they will soon get better instead of getting worse.

The young people seem to be enjoying themselves skating as it is a very fine sport.

Mr. and Mrs. William Maasop, of this place, visited Mr. and Mrs. William G. Rayne of near Friendship Sunday last.

Mr. John Jones made a business trip over to Salisbury Tuesday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Lewis, of New Hope visited friends at this place part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, of near Pittsville, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Massey, Tuesday last.

BIVALVE.

Revels re-opened here Tuesday night. The pastor will be assisted by an evangelist.

Miss Susie V. Inaley has returned home after a visit to the home of her brother, Mr. Wade H. Inaley, at Salisbury.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Annie Foreman, Mrs. Warren Measick, Miss Myrtle Measick, Master Edgar Powell, Mr. Howard Walter, Mrs. Frank Willing on the sick list.

Our young people are enjoying themselves skating.

Our community was shocked Saturday morning by the announcement of the death of the two infants of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. [Name] who were born on the 1st and 2nd of January. The loss of their little ones.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Inaley spent Wednesday with Mrs. Layfield, Green Hill, Md.

Mrs. W. D. Mitchell, of Tyaskin, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Inaley, Wednesday.

The sight of a steamboat or the sound of a whistle would make us all happy, as the river is blocked with ice.

Mr. Wade H. Inaley, of Salisbury, was in our town this week on a business trip.

Mr. James M. Inaley has returned home after a short visit to Salisbury.

Miss Frances Inaley spent Sunday with Miss Ella Anderson.

Burglars entered the home of Mr. R. Ward Thursday about 6.30 P. M. and after searching the house left only a few things missing so far as a pocket book containing about two dollars in change.

A shade bustled up to St. Peter. "My good man," he said, "will you tell me where I shall go to procure some post cards?"

And St. Peter, eyeing him sourly, told him where he could go.—Puck

A LETTER FROM QUILL.

Comedy At Annapolis Legislators' Deb. Messrs. Editors:—

My old quill is becoming restless again, and has begun to jump around. This usually means something. I mean reading again about things and "sich." Got to let off a little steam. Wake up farmers, taxpayers, everybody! The present legislature has begun to exhibit harpness of hearing toward the word, Publicity. In fact, it appears so large to a number of the delegates at Annapolis, that would be the proper term. What does it mean? The voters and taxpayers of the state have a right to know what is done with their money, and demand of their representatives publicity.

Now can there be but one interpretation of a hesitancy to exhibit the expenditure. If the people's money has been properly spent, why should the word publicity be so unbearable to the responsible, and cease so much cross-eyedness in the legislature? Gentlemen, the intelligent voter is watching you, and will require of you, an account of your stewardship. You are expected to represent, faithfully, the people, to protect and promote their interests. The gambler, grafter and tippler are not the men the people want, because they are not the men who will best serve the people. Away with them! They are a "back number." Sobriety, faithfulness, neatness, constitute a trinity akin to the screw of Archimedes, with which he could "lift the world." We do not expect impossibilities. We do not expect to accomplish in a day the work of a year. We do not expect representatives to subsist on air and water alone; but we do expect—may demand—honesty and economy, and will be satisfied with nothing less. Every man cannot be a Webster, nor a Calhoun, but every man may be honest, faithful, economical.

Who will say these demands are unreasonable? The time is come when the people can't be any longer fooled with the word, politics. The intelligent voter is becoming more frequently in evidence, and is looking for results, and falls down no longer and worships the party-god, but stands erect and asks: What's the issue? Is not this a commendable attitude? Who but the man of questionable motives, objects to it?

We beg leave to again call attention to the "Torren's Land Registry System." This is a matter Wisconsin feels much interest in, and one the "party leader" can not afford to ignore. Footnote should not lay in his hands to not do things now? Consider a policy case no figure with and most people. We believe in doing something. Bah! Bah! for the man who will stand on rigid legs and fight the people's cause. Quill.

PARSONSBURG.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. D. F. Parsons is very ill.

Mr. Robert Jones has a son 4 years and 9 months old, who stands 3 feet 9 3/4 inches in height and weighs 60 pounds.

Mr. Ohas. Wilkins, of Salisbury, was the guest of his many friends here this week.

Good roads are needed now, if they ever were.

If the people of our little town could get together and arrange for street improvements it would add much value to their property, also much comfort to the shoppers. Let this have your consideration.

ROCKAWALKING.

Died at her home in Rockawalking, Jan. 20th, Jennette, the faithful old gray horse, of Mr. H. F. Pollett, age thirty two years. Mr. Pollett had owned her thirty one years. Jennette was always ready to do her part of all work, and worked on Saturday before her death.

THE SOCIAL EVIL.

Feb. 8, '07.—(John 4:1-42.)

The social evil cannot be winked out of existence. It is universal in its scope.

It is the deep, broad, virid, sluggish, powerful, deadly evil of modern times.

And its influence is all the more disastrous because of the disposition of men and women to let it alone.

Other evils we fight, bravely, publicly, by speech and example and rebuke.

The pulpit flames against intemperance, but has little to say about a "White life for two."

The press agitates concerning the liquor traffic, but does not thunder to any great extent about the "traffic in girls."

Men speak of the evil under their breath, and women blush when it is mentioned.

The ostrich sticks his head in the sand so as not to look upon danger; he got his theory from observing the actions of men.

The social evil will continue to eat like a cancer at the very heart of the nation, until false modesty is kicked into the street by intelligent men and women, and, for the sake of ultimate America, the knife of publicity is applied, though it may be necessary to mightily disfigure the premises afterward.

Ignorance is another cause of this curse. Fathers and mothers who taboo the subject of the intercourse of the sexes and allow their children to get all their information on the street or from vice companions are themselves to blame for the results.

When the grass is full of snakes children should be warned against them and told the reason why. Many a pure girl has gone to ruin as thoughtlessly and unintentionally as the fascinated bird.

The hard-heartedness of society is responsible for much of the social evil. Society is oblivious to the moral leper if he belongs to the male species; it slams the door in the face of the female sinner.

She may be the victim of a reptile; the reptile is arrested, the victim is damned. Women are notoriously the severest critics and the harshest judges of their sisters.

Let a woman stray and the women of the community—church members and all—will cut her dead. They will elevate their sanctimonious noses at her approach; they will draw aside their garments lest they should catch the outcast and be defiled; they will stab the ladder toward heaven and pull the ladder up after them lest the stumbling footsteps of the strayed sinner by any chance follow them to heaven's gate.

Where there is one Mrs. Whittemore, or Mrs. Elholm, or Miss Booth, to put their arms around the fallen one and woe her back to rectitude, there are ten thousand to tread with spiked boots upon her bleeding heart.

It is interesting in this connection to inquire: "How did Jesus Christ treat the social evil?" It is certain he did not dodge it nor hold himself aloof from it.

How did he treat the women of Samaria? He treated her like a gentleman and not like a brute. He spoke kindly to her. He was not so afraid of his reputation that he dared not be seen talking with her.

Most men would have fled in consternation. He was perhaps the first man who had given her a respectful, a sympathetic, a kind word for years. He inspired her with hope, he filled her soul with desire for purity, he gave her something to live for, and he made her a preacher of such wondrous power that a whole city was converted under her message.

There are hundreds and thousands of just such souls down in the mire, that, if you had His disposition, you could rescue, and they are only waiting for some other being so not as Jesus Christ acted. But business men, because you are so prudent, or so much more afraid of what people will say than of what Jesus Christ will think.

What is needed in this country, is not light on this subject; we know enough about it already. It is not statistics we want, we want the spirit of Him who said to the broken-hearted woman, Go and sin no more. We want more of the heroic indignation that flashed in His eye when he turned on the jeering crowd at male reproaches.

critical purple and fine linen, who had picked up paving stones to crush the life of a shrinking, faltering woman, turned upon them as one who could read the very secrets of their past lives, and thundered: "He that is without sin among you, let him cast away the first stone!" See them sink away, shame-faced and trembling. That is the reason the social evil has such a grip upon society. And that is the way it will be wiped out. If it is ever wiped out. Pity and sympathy and a helping hand to the fallen, contempt and indignation for those who cause others to fall.

A Delayed Funeral Sermon. The funeral of H. G. Solomon, who died at his home near Sapp, Boone county, Mo., had an unusual feature in that the funeral sermon of Mrs. Solomon, who died about ten years ago, was preached at the same time.

At the time of her death no minister was available and it was not possible to have services over the body as desired. It was afterward decided by the husband and family that when death came to the elder Solomon, funeral services should be held over both at the same time.

Feeding Skim Milk. The secret in successfully feeding skim milk to calves is always to remember that it is not poor or weak food, but has all the nutriment of new milk except the fat and is in a growing animal that is used to keep the system open or active rather than to make fat. If the skim milk is fed warm it does not seem to matter if it is a little turned, but do not give too much.

Good milk breeds pay both in quantity and in the quality.

MASKS MADE IN GERMANY.

Large Establishments Devoted Exclusively to Their Manufacture.

There is an extensive demand for masks throughout Germany for the carnival season and other merry-making occasions. In central Germany there are several large establishments devoted exclusively to manufacturing this article.

They not only meet the needs of Germany's trade, but also supply a very large demand from foreign countries. The materials used in mask-making are chiefly paper, cloth and gauze, with small quantities of silk and wool.

Each establishment employs its own artists, and there is a constant effort to place novelties on the market. It is largely due to the great variety of these novel designs that a promising trade with the United States has grown up during recent years, which is reported to be steadily increasing.

Lamp for Dante's Tomb. The Italian Dante Society is to furnish the tomb of the poet of Ravenna with a lamp which it is proposed shall be kept perpetually burning at the expense of the municipality of Florence.

The lamp is in the fourteenth century Venetian style, its main feature being an intricate egg surrounded at its greatest diameter by a chisel of copper with ornaments of gems, lapis lazuli and malachite.

The cup of the lamp will be of the finest Venetian Crystal. The work is pronounced worthy of the best traditions of Florentine craftsmanship. It will probably be placed in position at Ravenna soon.

Use of "Your Humble Servant." The use of "your humble servant" and of "your most humble and obedient servant," which have given way to the curt "yours truly," came first into use in England in conversation, and later in correspondence, on the marriage of Queen Mary, daughter of Henry IV of France, to King Charles I. The usual salutation before that had been "God keep you."

"God be with you" among the general people. With the common people it was "how dost thou, Hodger?" with a lamp on the shoulder.

Optimistic Shipment. As an indication of the continued optimistic shipments from India to China General Micalet, of Calcutta states that during the week ending August 20, 182 1/2 chests of opium were removed from the warehouse in Bombay. Of these 74 1/2 were shipped to China, 22 were bought for the government of Madras, 1 1/2 for the government of Bombay, 2 by the natives at Amoy, 3 by the natives at Nankai and 5 1/2 by the natives of Pootai.

Cobblers' Proverbial Smokers. Cobblers are proverbial smokers, and the Syrian shoemaker is no exception to the rule. He, however, smokes not a short pipe but a long-stemmed hookah while he works. He is properly a sipper smoker, and to his skill in handling leather he must add a knowledge of embroidery in order that he may decorate with colored silks and ballion the gorgeous outgear of his fortunate customers.

Imports of Cotton Seed Oil. The imports into Hamburg of cotton seed oil increased during the four years from 1901 to 1904, from 15,700 to 13,400 tons, whereas the amount of cotton seed cake decreased from 176,000 to 148,000 tons. Approximately 250,000 to 280,000 tons thereof are annually imported into Germany, of which large quantities pass through that port on the way to the inland consumers.

Nile Failed to Rise. Quite a sensation has been caused among biblical students by the discovery by Brugsch Bey, the great Egyptologist, of a monumental inscription telling how the Nile failed to rise for seven years—a succession about 1,700 years before the Christian era, and a long and terrible famine was the result.

Had the Church Moved. The Second Congregational Church at Falmouth, Mass., built in 1821, was turned end for end 20 years later by a member who did not like the way the church stood, and a monument has now been erected with an inscription stating these facts.

Police Women Must Be 40. The chief of the Ghent police, who is organizing a brigade of police women, proposes to take on none except those of from 40 to 50. At that age he thinks the sex has reached years of discretion and has sufficient experience of life and human nature.

Salaries of Bank Presidents. The salaries of presidents of banks, even those in the largest cities, are as a rule, very much less than the salaries of railroad presidents. James Stillman, president of the National City Bank of New York, gets only $25,000 a year.

Offal of Fish to be Utilized. Consul L. E. Dudley of Vancouver calls attention to the opening afforded for the establishment of a plant to utilize the waste offal of fish in the manufacture of guano in British Columbia.

Nun Butterflies a Nuisance. A government commission is struggling with the problem of exterminating the Nun butterfly, which has become a plague in Bohemia.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

And Whence It Came. The Story Of The Mythical Cupid.

In ancient times of yore olden myths when Gods were plentiful, and took a great deal of interest in the affairs of mere mortals, there has always been one that the people have ever held dear—the Greek God Eros, or the Roman Cupid, who was always sending his darts into the hearts of mortals below, after his first encounter with mortal maid. When Venus in her jealousy, sent her little messenger down to the earth to torture the heart of Psyche because of her great beauty and the tender God instead of inflicting the tortures of unrequited love upon the maid, himself fell a victim to her charms, and lingered long at her side—until the foolish maiden, not content with the perfect bliss of love returned, unaided the bandage from her eyes that warned and forbidden, and gazed upon the face and form of her beloved, and like her predecessor, Eros, of old, paid for her curiosity by the loss of her Eden.

Unlike Eros, however Cupid's appeal to Jupiter to save her from the tortures of the outraged Venus, were successful, and she was carried to the immortal regions by her faithful lover, to dwell with him in everlasting bliss. The grateful people have ever worshipped at his shrine, and when the Christian religion with its stern rebuke of Pagan worship, came to be spread and believed throughout the world, the people gladly forgot and forgot all their Gods but Little Cupid, and since they could not have him as of yore, it became necessary to substitute, so Saint Valentine was chosen, whose chief claims upon sainthood lay in his miraculous cure of the deformed son of a Greek Rhetorician.

In prose and verse since the time of Shakespeare, St. Valentine's day has been connected with hearts and love, and the custom of today in sending out love sonnets in St. Valentine's name has grown to be nearly universal. The Valentines that breathe the spirit of love are the only ones that properly represent the true spirit of the day, and the comics which have of recent years come in are only a misuse of the occasion and are a great insult to good old Saint Valentine, as well as to his predecessor, Cupid.

There is no doubt that most of the comics sent out are sent for fun and frolic, but some take occasion to make the custom of sending out these ridiculous, absurd, and grossly exaggerated Valentines of use to them showing spite of envy to some one of their acquaintances. What a misuse of the day—turning the sweetness of love into the bitterness of hatred, or the low passion of envy! What owdards they who dare not speak or write but hide under the custom of the day, their identity! Here's to good old St. Valentine's day! Here's to its good old customs! And here's to the city of Salisbury, which is noted for the fact that it needs no God Cupid to blind the eyes of mankind in order that they may see perfection of form, grace, beauty, or character in the fair ladies that live within its borders!

SOCIAL ENTERTAINMENT

Valentine's Day Fittingly Observed, And Cupid's Darts Fall Plentifully Nither And Thither.

As usual the malls were crowded this week with Valentines, possibly breathing love, with Valentines, breathing fun and mischief, and with Valentines possibly breathing hate, spite, or envy. Our children, and grown folks joined hands in celebrating the customs of St. Valentine's day. The very young with mischief and fun, cards and pranks, the older, but still young and tender, with misalves breathing undying love. Some of the older still breathing respect and affection, and also some other feeling not akin to the spirit of the day. In addition to these Valentine's Day was celebrated by the giving of several entertainments.

At Miss Disharoon's.

A Leap Year Valentine party was given by the young ladies of the town at the home of Miss Ora Belle Disharoon last evening.

The house was prettily decorated in red hearts, which were tastefully arranged all over the handsome home. Progressive bridge was the feature of the evening's entertainment. Two of the latest novels were given as ladies' and gentlemen's prizes.

Afterwards refreshments consisting of chicken salad, biscuits, pickle, ice, cake, salted nuts and coffee were served.

The guests were Misses Mamie Adkins, Alice Wailes, Lottie Leatherbury, Annie Dashiell, Lonnie Perry, Eloise Riggold, Willie Lowe, Lucille Trussell, Margaret Todd, Rebecca Smyth, Ora Belle Disharoon, Mrs. E. C. Fulton, Miss Helen Dickinson, of Berlin, Miss Pritchett of Philadelphia, Messrs. Claude Dorman, G. Wm. Phillips, Wm. Sheppard, Harvey Robinson, H. Winter Owens, Carl Schuler, Ralph Grier, Howard Bank W. B. Tishman, Geo. Dorman, E. C. Fulton, Ray Truitt, Herman Hodson, J. Cleveland White.

A. B. G. Club.

The A. B. G. Club gave a Valentine party at the home of Miss Labele Spring Friday evening. The house was beautifully decorated in red hearts. There were many prize contests. The guests were, Misses Mary Brewington, Ruth Price, Nancy Moore, Marian Evans, Katherine Toadvin, Mildred Collier, Laura Bank, Bessie Cooper, Vera Weisbach and Isabel Springs. Messrs. Franklin Woodcock, Karl Howard, Lex Grier, Newton Jackson, William Dorman, Clarence Perry, Robert Brotsmarkis, Prescott Trussell, Preston Ayars, James Lowe, Davis Collier and Richard Waller. Elaborate refreshments were served at 11 p. m.

Mrs. D. B. Potter.

Mrs. D. B. Potter entertained a number of her friends at an informal card party, Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 6. Bridge, whist and finish were the games indulged in by the guests. This is the second of a series of card parties that Mrs. Potter is giving.

Those present were: Messdames H. L. Brewington, Chas. E. Harper, I. S. Powell, Louis W. Morris, Mrs. Whedden and Mrs. Whymple, Messdames Vandalia Perry, Ernest A. Toadvine, O. R. Disharoon, Mrs. Snowwell and Miss L. W. Burgoon.

IT COSTS MANY LIVES

"Parlor" Matches Said To Kill 500 Women And Children A Year. To Make Dresses Fireproof. "Safety" Match Bill Urged.

"The parlor match burns to death 500 women and children a year in the United States," said State Fire Marshal Lloyd T. MacGill. Continuing he said:

This does not include mothers who died from having their clothing ignited while trying to save their burning children. The number of buildings fired by children with matches was 2,900, but comparatively this seems unimportant. The mortality is greatest in children of 4 years of age. Five sixths of those who suffered death in this most horrible form were children playing with matches which had been left lying about and the remainder women whose clothing was ignited by glowing sticks or flying match heads.

"The liability of the cottons, from which the clothing of women and children is largely made, to take fire and burn them to death deserves general and serious consideration. A professor in Scotland has found by experiment that muslinette, which is muslin with a nap raised on it, is no more dangerous than ordinary muslin or calico. The easy and effective way to terminate this slaughter of the innocents by roasting is to screen open fires and for women to demand that cotton goods for wearing be fireproofed by manufacturers.

"Perhaps 30 years ago the chemist in Bellevue Medical College Hospital, New York, lost a boy from his pinafore taking after. The Professor, by experiment, found that phosphate of ammonia used to saturate cottons made them permanently fire proof, and he spent years in efforts by lectures and pamphlets to get the New England cotton mills to use it. This fireproofing can be done in the web after the goods are made up. The Scientific American supplies the following recipes: For light woolen fabrics—sulphate of ammonium, 8 parts by weight; carbonate of ammonium, 3 1/2 parts; borax, 5 parts; boracic acid, 8 parts; starch, 2 parts; water, 100 parts. This is the German method, which has stood the test especially well.

"The United States Consul at Nottingham, England reports: In a meeting of the society of dyers at Manchester titanate acid was claimed to possess remarkable fireproofing qualities. An incipient fire in flannellets smoldered and went out, refusing to burst into flame. Cloth treated with any one of these combinations will smoulder, but cannot blaze.

"Boiling does not remove the chemicals, and the cost of fireproofing linen, muslin and calicoes is but one seventh of a cent a yard.

"Our Legislature should pass the bill now before it that has for its purpose the prevention of the sale of the 'parlor' match and allowing the use of the 'safety' kind, which, because they can be lighted only on the box, will be kept in it and will not be thrown about in reach of children."

THE PRIVATE SECRETARY

On Its Road To Success. The Cast Ready.

As the opportunities for the display of talent in The Private Secretary are very great, it is expected that some clever acting will be the result of this undertaking, by Salisbury, which will be produced by the following cast February 24 and 25th.

Douglas Catermole, Mr. Raymond K. Truitt, a young claimant. Harry Marsland, Mr. Harry W. Bank, his chum. Mr. Gibson, Mr. W. S. Gordy, Jr., a fashionable tailor. Robert Spaulding, Mr. Clarence A. White, The Private Secretary. Mr. Catermole, Mr. A. M. Jackson, from India. Mr. Marsland, Dr. C. Brotemarkie, a retired rake. Jimmie Knox, Mr. Louis S. Humphreys, bailiff. Jenkins, Mr. Ralph Grier, butler. Mrs. Stead, Mrs. Whymper, a landlady. Miss Ashford, Mrs. J. M. Toulson, a governess. Edith Marsland, Miss Louise Perry. Eva Webster, Miss Annie E. Dashiell, Edith's companion.

Death of Mary E. Kennerly, Aged 59 Years.

On Feb. 3, 1908, Mary E. Kennerly, wife of Isaac J. Kennerly, a daughter of the late Roger Phillips of this county was called to go the way appointed to all, aged 59 years 8 months and 9 days.

The departed one had been afflicted for years and confined to her bed since last August. Though she suffered much from the disease that was wearing away her strength yet she bore it all in great patience ever trusting in the one, who alone can help in all times of need. When the end came she was ready to depart to the clime where sickness and death are unknown. She left a husband and three daughters to mourn her loss. The funeral services were held in Branch Hill Baptist Church and the burial in the Cemetery adjoining.

—Dr. Clinton Brotsmarkis, Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist, who has had offices in the Masonic Temple has secured the office of the late Dr. Humphreys, where he can be found after February 2nd.

G. J. PURNELL DEAD.

Fell Lifeless To The Floor As He Was Crossing His Room. Sudden End Of A Busy Snow Hill Man.

Mr. Clayton J. Purnell died suddenly at his home in Snow Hill about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. He had been in poor health for some months, but Monday he had seemed better than for some days past. He expressed a desire to take a little exercise and was being assisted in walking across the room when he fell unconscious. Dr. Straughn reached him in a few minutes but Mr. Purnell was dead. The physician is of the opinion that death was instantaneous.

Until May 1895, Mr. Purnell was one of the most active members of the bar of the Eastern Shore. During the Spring term of court of that year he was stricken with paralysis, and for a year or two was entirely incapacitated physically for the practice of his profession.

He is survived by a widow, who was Miss Ella Hubbell, and two daughters—Mrs. Thomas H. Wharton, of Stockton, and Miss Bessie Purnell, of Snow Hill.

He was born in 1856. When a young man he was Deputy Clerk for the Worcester Court. He was admitted to the bar at 22 years of age and immediately began to practice, winning his way to the front in a very short time. He was one of the organizers of the First National Bank of Snow Hill, the Pocomoke City National Bank and the Pocomoke Electric Light and Power Company, taking a leading place in the directorate and being counsel to the Boards. At the time of his death he was vice president and counsel of the First National Bank of Snow Hill, president of the Depository and Savings Bank of Snow Hill, president of the Exchange and Saving Bank of Berlin, president of the Equitable Building and Loan Association of Snow Hill, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Maryland Agricultural College, the Board of Directors of the Delaware, Maryland and Virginia branch of the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Railroad Company, of all of which institutions he was a valuable member.

In 1898 Mr. Purnell was a candidate for Judge of the First Judicial circuit. Judges Page and Lloyd were also candidates, making three candidates, with only two vacancies. Mr. Purnell had the eight votes of Worcester and Wicomico Counties and Judges Page and Lloyd the eight of Somerset and Dorchester. A deadlock resulted and after a session of several days at Ocean City the convention adjourned to Salisbury where several hundred more ballots were taken before the nominations were finally won by Judges Page and Lloyd. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon.

ADAMS EXPRESS CO.

Have Splendid New Home On Church Street Modern Equipment And Conveniences For The Public.

The new quarters of the Adams Express Company, on Church Street have been thoroughly renovated and fixed up with all conveniences for the business. The public has been provided for in a space at front entrance, which is reserved entirely for the use of the patrons of the office, and is not encumbered with express packages as is the case in the present office. The outgoing and incoming express being kept in an adjoining department laid off separately.

A side entrance on Church Street has been provided to be used for the loading and unloading of express doing away with the necessity of bringing all goods through the front or public entrance door, as was the case on Main Street. In addition to these departments, the Route Agent Mr. Nealey has a comfortable office partitioned off, as well as compartments for the records and freight, and a separate money order room which is also used as the agent's office. On the whole the Company will have a more commodious as well as convenient place, than in their old quarters, with a room well lighted and heated with gas radiators. As a matter of public interest in this connection Mr. Nealey states that in the use of gas with the three radiators used to heat the building, less than 3000 ft. has been used in the past two weeks, four days of which the radiators were turned on continually all day. The location of the office will be near the centre of the town and is believed to be fully as convenient to the public as the one on Main Street. It is understood that 95 per cent of the business is done over the telephone, and that the wagons call for and deliver packages in all parts of the town. As far as the country trade is concerned one is about as convenient as the other. The office vacated by the Company on Main St., has been leased by J. A. Jones and Co., real estate agents.

MUSICAL RECITAL

At Masonic Temple Was Well Received By A Thoroughly Appreciative Audience.

The Musical given at the Masonic Temple Thursday evening by Prof. Meyer's class assisted by Miss Taylor, clarionist, and Mr. Hildebrandt, cellist, was quite an artistic success. The selections rendered showed careful training and several of the voices were of unusual depth and sweetness, and promise much in their further development—all of which was thoroughly appreciated by a large audience. The programme in full was:

PART FIRST.

Piano Solo, Impromptu, Schubert. Miss Isabelle Brotsmarkie. Song: a. "Jean," Burleigh; b. "Dreams," Strelezka—Mr. Claude O. Dorman. Song, "O, Dry Those Tears" cello obligato "Del Rigo"—Miss Sara Phillips. Reading, "The Cremona"—Miss Jessie Rae Taylor. Song, "Good Night Sweet Dreams," Bischoff—Miss Mary Brewington. Vocal Duet, "Floating Onward," Hoffman—Miss Ruth Price and Mr. Claude Dorman. Piano Solos, a. Nostalgic, Vincent; b. Appassionata, Chopin—Mr. Richard B. Meyer.

PART SECOND.

Song, "For All Eternity" cello obligato, Mascheroni—Miss Ruth Price. Song, "Life's Lullaby," Lane—Mr. Luther Messick. Cello Solos, a. Romanza, Goltz; b. a. Gavotta, Poppo—Mr. Albert Hildebrandt. Song, a. "Sehnsucht" Casello; b. "Thy Sentinel Am I," Watson—Mr. William A. Sheppard. Monologues, "At The Bench"—Miss Jessie Rae Taylor. Song, "A Rose in Heaven," Trotter—Miss Ella Messick. Piano Solo, "Lucia" arranged for piano, Donizetti—Mr. Richard B. Meyer.

WILL TRY BLACKSTONE

Judge Forman Accused Of Drunkenness And Immorality, Will Be Tried By Given The Details.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 11.—Specific charges against Judge Blackstone, of the 11 Circuit Court of Virginia were filed Tuesday in the Virginia Legislature at Richmond. The charges had previously been laid before the House Committee for Courts of Justice at its meeting early in the day, but the committee declined to receive them and ordered that they be returned to the petitioner.

"Drunkenness and immorality are the two charges named. The former accusation is that on two occasions, at least, Judge Blackstone, while presiding over sessions at his Court, went to sleep on his bench and was aroused from his alleged drunken stupor only when the clerk of the court seized his shoulder and shook him. It is also specified that Judge Blackstone on several different occasions spent days at a time in houses of ill repute, conducted by negro women. It is alleged that on one occasion he telephoned to Sheriff R. K. Curtis, of Elizabeth City county, from such a place in Phoenix and asked the Sheriff to bring the records of the Circuit Court of the county there that he might examine and sign them.

Delay of Term Alleged.

It is further specifically alleged that in January last the business of the Circuit Court of Elizabeth City County was obstructed for the greater part of a week because Judge Blackstone was on a debauch, and that while in this condition he attended a dance given on Monday by abandoned women. As a result of this debauch it is alleged, his condition became such that he was unable to hold this term of court. The allegations give witnesses and make up a paper of about 1,500 words.

The Blackstone matter consumed the early hours of Monday's House session, and finally a resolution was adopted by Delegate Featherstone for Courts of Justice to investigate charges authorized it to summon witnesses and send for persons and papers if necessary. This committee, by terms of the resolution, shall report to the House such action as shall seem proper to take. Mr. J. G. Mason, of Richmond, is chairman.

The committee will hear the beginning February 26th.

HELPFUL ADVICE

You won't tell your family doctor the whole story about your private illness—you are too modest. You need not be afraid to tell Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., the things you could not explain to the doctor. Your letter will be held in the strictest confidence. From her vast correspondence with sick women during the past thirty years she may have gained the very knowledge that will help your case. Such letters as the following, from grateful women, establish beyond a doubt the power of

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND to conquer all female diseases. Mrs. Norman R. Barndt, of Allentown, Pa., writes:

"Ever since I was sixteen years of age I had suffered from an organic derangement and female weakness; in consequence I had dreadful headaches and was extremely nervous. My physician said I must go through an operation to get well. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I took it and wrote you for advice, following your directions carefully, and thanks to you I am today a well woman, and I am telling all my friends of my experience."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration.

HEROISM OF DOGS

FROM OHIO TO KANSAS

The matter of finding their way over long stretches of territory in order to be with those they love is one of the most inexplicable traits of the canine character. In this connection may be cited the case of a dog of peculiarly affectionate disposition belonging to a family who moved from Ohio to Kansas, a distance of more than eight hundred miles. The route on which the dog accompanied his owners was by rail as far as St. Louis, then by steamboat up the Missouri River to Atchison, thence by wagon road to their destination. After remaining a few years in Kansas, the owners of the dog returned to Ohio without him, having presented the animal to a friend who lived near the Kansas home.

Some weeks after their occupancy of the original homestead in Ohio, there appeared before their astonished eyes, emaciated and footsore, but in a wild state of joy and excitement at being with his old friends, their canine companion they supposed happily with his adopted family. It was ascertained by letter from Kansas, answering one inquiring as to the dog's disappearance, that he must have traveled between forty and fifty miles a day, in order to arrive within the calculated time. It was impossible for him to have followed the original route to Kansas, as it was, partly at least, by water, and he must have taken the overland trail, which he located in his own incomprehensible fashion, but which had led him unerringly to his home again.

Deserving of honorable mention was Bob of the Grenadier Guards, who participated in the Crimean campaign with that corps; also Patte Blanche (White Paw), a comrade of the English mastiff, who served with the 116th of the line, and received a terrible wound while he was bravely defending the flag.

Unusual distinction was attained by a dog attached to a French regiment, that of recovering the regimental colors, which act of heroism was performed at Anzures. The fearless animal was Muzache, entered on the regimental rolls as entitled to a Grenadier's rank, while the barber of the regiment had orders to pluck and comb him once a week. Muzache received a bayonet thrust at Marengo, and by order of Marshal Lannes the dog was decorated with a blue ribbon, by which a medal was attached to his neck. The dog followed a soldier to Marengo, and was reported missing during the retreat from Russia.

A military mastiff, designated on the rolls as Misere, helped swell the fighting strength of the Sixth of the Guard, and had three white stripes sewed into his black hair. Other famous dogs of war were Loutoute, a Crimean veteran; Mittrahill, which saved its life from a shell at Inkerman; and Mofino, a native of Milan, which is deserving of special mention. This splendid animal saved his master in Russia, was lost later, and incredible as it may seem, retraced his way from Moscow to Milan.

At the Great St. Bernard Hospice, almost at the summit of the celebrated Alpine pass, on the mountain road leading from Martigny to Aosta in Piedmont, at an altitude of eighty-two hundred feet, one of the most elevated permanently inhabited spots in Europe, for generations St. Augustinian monks have reared and trained the great St. Bernard members of the canine tribe. The pass is notorious for the terrific snow storms which sweep over the crest unexpectedly, overwhelming travelers and leaving them bewildered in the treacherous defiles to perish miserably from cold. But for the dog patrols of the Saint Augustinians, not hundreds merely, but thousands so overtaken, would have been irretrievably doomed to death.

More than would fill a volume are the true stories related of this admirable dog, but his exploits one October day, opening at the hospice with skies clear for that climate, closing on a wild, winter ridden scene of deepest severity, will suffice.

After night had descended on the now silent mountain, the temperature touching the zero point, the slight Barry pricked up his ears, sniffed through the falling flakes outside and bounded forth into the darkness, while the monks eagerly awaited his return.

Day broke on the fury of an Alpine tempest seldom witnessed, and grave fears were entertained by the monks for Barry's safety. Three days intervened before the storm abated sufficiently to allow the monks to sally forth with Barry's mates.

The dog was more than half a mile from the hospice, in a sheltered place where he had dragged an unfortunate wayfarer, stretching himself out on the half-conscious man to shield him with his shaggy coat from the snow, and transmitting the heat from his own warm body. Through the instrumentality of the great dog's fraternal care alone the man survived to tell his experience.

How to Mend a Stay.
The nicest way to mend a broken corset or dress stay is to bind the top of the stay or where it is broken with a small piece of chamolis skin. The end of the stay, it will be found, will not pierce through the chamolis as it frequently does through cloth.

To Clean Agate Ware.
To clean agate ware that has become stained take 1 tablespoonful of chloroxide of lime and a small piece of soda, then fill with cold water and let come to a boil. Rinse well.

TO ILLUMINATE BATTLEFIELDS.

It is To Be Accomplished by Means of a Revolver.

An interesting novelty that has been recently introduced into the German army is a revolver which fires illuminating bullets. The weapon has the general appearance of the regular service revolver, but is larger in calibre and in general dimensions. The bullets, after being fired, become highly illuminating. The discharge is practically noiseless; the bullet rises about a hundred yards and has a range of about the same distance. Wherever the bullet alights the landscape is lit up as brilliantly as by daylight for about half a minute. This enables attacking troops to reconnoitre effectively, and readily to detect the presence of an enemy. On falling to the ground or on buildings these illuminating bullets do not set fire to combustible objects, and they are therefore not dangerous to use in localities where fire might be as dangerous to the attacking troops as to the enemy.—Washington Herald.

Divers as Diamond Diggers.
Divers work as diamond diggers in South Africa. They work in icy cold water and black darkness. About three and a half miles down the river from Klerksdorp a wire rope stretched across the Vaal River from the Transvaal to the Orange River Colony side, by means of which a large scow is placed in mid-stream, where the divers descend and work in from 48 to 52 feet of water. At present they have no light, and work for three or four hours in cold water and intense darkness. All they are able to do at present is to grope around, move the big boulders with crowbars and scrape up the smaller stuff from the bed of the river, emptying it into a large iron-bound wire drum, which takes about half an hour to fill.

German a Jolly Good Fellow.
The management of the Theatre under Spree in Berlin has offered a prize of 3,000 marks for the best play which will have the city of Berlin as the seat of action and the characters representative of the various strata of Berlin's population. The aspirants for the prize and honor are warned to avoid the complex psychological or problem style, but they are at liberty to submit any form of play from farce to tragedy, and in all cases it must be remembered that the Berliner, despite his faults, is "a jolly good fellow."

Answered Lincoln's Call.
Major General McCaskey, recently retired on account of age, was the last commissioned officer on the active list who answered President Lincoln's first call for volunteers. He began his Civil War career with the Pennsylvania Volunteers, and was in most of the famous battles of the war, and afterward participated in the campaigns against the Indians, in Cuba and in the Philippines. He will make his home in San Diego, California.

Prisoners Their Prvy.
In Cologne, Germany, at a recent court trial, it was asserted that as soon as a well-dressed prisoner appeared in the prison he was beset with attentions from the warders, all eager for his patronage. Their object was to act as middlemen between him and his relatives. They would convey letters, money and food, and for these services they received their reward from the relatives of the prisoners.

Chinese Punishment.
The other day the Chinese police court punished one of its female subjects in a novel way.

The woman referred to assaulted an elderly man by dragging his pipe from his mouth, thereby causing the loss of two of his front teeth, and for this she was compelled to delay the expenses of a Chinese theatre for two days which performed at the temple close to the main gateway.

English Music Festivals Pay.
While most American music festivals end in a deficit, large or small, the English festivals are apt to yield a handsome profit. The Grosvenor festival held recently was $2,240, which goes to the support of clergymen's widows and orphans.

Khedive a Cultured Ruler.
Abbas II, the Khedive of Egypt, is one of the most cultured of Oriental rulers. He is an expert linguist, a devotee of music, a composer, a practical agriculturist, something of a mechanic, a horseman and a motorist. He is a ready wit and fond of a joke.

Chinese Love Blue.
It is well known that the millions of Chinese living in the northern sections of China are clothed in American shootings and drills. It is also well known that they wear no white outer garments, unless in mourning, and that nearly everything is dyed some shade of blue.

Effect of Electric Lights Upon Eyes.
Reports to the effect that electric lights are detrimental to the eyesight are pronounced unfounded by an electrical expert in the London Times. He says that the trouble arises from too direct exposure of the eye to the light, and that effect would be the same or worse with any other light.

Reading into the Telephone.
A young Philadelphia woman of good family but reduced means, who has retained an extensive acquaintance among her aristocratic associates, has hit upon a novel and original means of earning a livelihood by the use of her voice and excellent reading ability. She has combined some of her wealthy friends of advanced years into a reading circle, who listen to her over their telephones for about an hour a day and pay her generously by the week for her entertainment.

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

—F. Marion Crawford, at a dinner in New York, attacked Spiritualism. "In principle it may be true," Mr. Crawford said, "but Spiritualism as it is practiced today is a thing to beware of. "I know a man whose wife suddenly developed a great interest in Spiritualism. She attended seances after seance at the house of a handsome medium with dark, thick hair and smoldering eyes. "Her husband cared her, though. He took to accompanying her to the medium" and at every seance he got the most passionate and tender messages from his first wife."

BABY TORTURED BY ITCHING RASH

IMMEDIATE RELIEF AND SPEEDY CURE

"My baby was about nine months old when she had rash on her face and feet. Her feet seemed to irritate her most, especially at night. She would cry and cause her to be broken of her rest, and sometimes she would cry until she was tired out. I had always used Cuticura Soap myself, and had heard of so many cures by the Cuticura Remedies that I thought I would give them a trial. The improvement was noticeable in a few hours, and before I had used one box of the Cuticura Ointment her feet were well and have never troubled her since. I also used it to remove what is known as 'cradle cap' from her head, and it worked like a charm as it cleaned and healed the scalp at the same time. Now I keep Cuticura Ointment on hand in case of any little rash or insect bites, as it cures and soothes the skin. Perhaps this may be the means of helping other suffering babies. Mrs. Bazzie Currier, Thomaston, Me., June 9, 1904."

TEMPERANCE CALL

A call has been issued for a mass meeting in the Court House Monday evening, to consider temperance legislation at Annapolis.

THE LEGISLATURE AND WHAT IT IS DOING.

The session of 1908 is half gone and but little substantial work done. Several measures of public interest to which the Democratic Party is unqualifiedly committed are in a very unsatisfactory condition.

As to the Suffrage Amendment there are some Republicans who honestly contend that the Negro should have an equal right of suffrage with the white man, but the greatest objection to that party is its elimination, comes from the Republican politician, who looks upon the negro vote as a most valuable and sure voting asset.

While men of Democratic and Republican parties, with all their party prejudices, sometimes contend against the machine vote, but the negro never, hence it is the republican machine opposition to his dropping out of politics.

As to the Corrupt Practice Act there has been and is but one opinion among honest voters of all parties, as to the absolute necessity of cutting money out of politics—not only its corrupt use, but reducing what has been called legal expenses. These have become unbearable for men of moderate means, while the bribery crime has reached such proportions that men have felt themselves compelled to choose between the evil of taking no part in politics, or going in and participating in the crime, which would forever disgrace them if convicted.

—Mr. John H. Farlow, who conducts a grocery business on East Church St., Salisbury, reports that during the year 1907 he purchased from W. J. Rawson, a progressive farmer of Parsons District, 5,284 half pound prints of butter, for which he paid 23 cents per pound. Mr. Farlow thus paid to Mr. Rawson the sum of $87.44 for butter, or more than $16 per week.

—Reports from the canneries in Maryland show that there was packed in this state last year 5,294,228 cases of tomatoes, against 3,599,953 cases the previous year.

—One tenth of the total output of tomatoes is packed in Caroline county and Maryland packs five twelfths of all that are canned in the whole country.

—If you want to invest $5,000 to $50,000 permanently at 5 per cent. No taxes. Address "E" in care of Advertiser.

satisfy itself that 'the interests of public justice require further proceedings' and then to require private citizens to give security for costs for the prosecution of an offense against 'Public Justice.'

This is so manifestly unjust, that even patriotic citizens might with propriety be unwilling to submit to the imposition.

But while a few persons might submit, yet unless there can be ten of such the investigation is to be barred out. The people surely ought to have as much protection against crime as elections of the corrupt politicians have for committing it—let the antidote be equal to the poison.

We hope this legislature will do every thing possible to make this bill to purify elections more effective than any legislation heretofore enacted on this subject.

Warning To Farmers.

Dr. John G. Dennis, veterinarian of Cecil county, states that he fears a great loss of live stock during the next few months, due to the unwholesome character of corn and corn fodder. The doctor was called to see a valuable horse in the county last week, but the animal was dying from spinal meningitis. The doctor ascribed the cause of the disease to mouldy corn and fears there will be many more cases unless the farmers exercise great precaution.

POWELLVILLE.

On Sunday evening, February 23, an entertainment of unusual interest will be rendered at Powellville Methodist Protestant Church. The beautiful story entitled, 'The Pink Rose' will be read by the pastor, and all through reading of the redemption of a fallen girl of the slums of New York, appropriate music will be rendered. A silver offering will be placed on the sista at the door. The story is pathetic, religious and touching.

At The Rink!

The usual special features will be on top at the Rink tonight. Great Rooster Race! New moving picture every night. The General Demand of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

'The Cuban Spy' At Sharptown. Home Talent Made A Splendid Record.

The Cuban Spy, a comedy drama in four acts, by Frank Damon. Lists: Cuba, 'Elinora,' Miss Beatrice P. Robertson; Richard Carson Mr. E. S. D. Inaley; Rodrigo Valdey, Mr. Wade H. Gordy; Jasper Gomey, Mr. Herman Howard; Lopey, Mr. Irving Covington; Phelim McNab, Mr. Austin Bennett; Carl Weisbeer, Capt John Winstead; Jerry, Mr. Herman Gravenor; Bridges Monohan, Miss Berkley Wright; Sophie, Miss Alice Robinson; Sailors, Mr. Harold Johnson, Mr. Frederick Olash, Mr. Gorman Mann.

This thrilling play vividly portrayed numerous hairbreadth escapes from the treacherous Spaniards, the sterling patriotism of the American Volunteers, and the sacrifices made for her native island by the Cuban Spy, the heroine of the play.

Phelim McNab and Carl Weisbeer, the comedians of the play kept the audience in a roar of laughter from the moment of their appearance until their exits.

Jerry, the negro comedian created for the audience a happy moment, when attired in an attractive costume, he rushed upon the scene. No character added more than this one to the finish of the play.

Lopey, the inn keeper was strong in his part.

Perhaps in no part of the play was the rendition stronger than when the villain Roderigo Valdey, with his lurid glances, haughty air and unsympathetic feeling for the struggling Cubans stepped upon the scene. From first to last, he held himself, the master of his part—the ever hated villain. At his appearance the audience was tense with feeling, which is the highest praise to the art of the player.

Scarcely less vigorous than the villain was his trusted ally Jasper Gomey. To Jasper was reserved the happy pleasure of redeeming himself from the villainous life. Amidst quiet and stirring scenes, Jasper moved, true to convictions, though sometimes hidden. When the climax was reached, to Jasper fell the privilege of upholding manhood and lofty purpose. The character was strongly taken.

To Richard Carson, a young American aiding the patriotic Cubans, was reserved the part to uphold the American principle of Liberty. In parts, he was scarcely less loyal to the actuating principle than the noble Patrick Henry when he said, 'Give me liberty or give me death.'

'Elinora,' the Cuban Spy was ever present in the moments of great crises to relieve and help the Cubans or American volunteers. By her frequent disguise and stratagems the Spaniards were outwitted and the Cubans saved.

To Sophie falls the part of the attractive little player, who stands for innocence and love. The audience were seen leaving with happy smiling faces and frequent expressions of the pleasure received from viewing the play are heard from all sides.

Be it said, that the Sharptown audience showed by their most excellent considerations for the purpose of the play a most loyal and noble spirit. The net proceeds of the play amounted to fifty dollars. It is the purpose to begin a School Library and beautify the rooms of the school. No community, no organization can have a higher, nobler purpose than the one that affects the education and school life of the child.

Surround the child by beautiful, pure, noble influences and that child will absorb them or a part of them to his betterment, even though the sower passes beyond the time of the harvest. All helps for Sharptown High School will make it in time a noble institution.

The play directed by Miss Beatrice P. Robertson and assistants should be a nucleus of a beginning of greater helps. Miss Alice Taylor, of River-ton furnished music during the acts, which was highly appreciated and greatly enjoyed. Miss Sallie Olash charmed the audience by an attractively rendered solo.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE HELD

At Salisbury. Sessions Twice Daily Monday and Tuesday of the Week.

The farmers institute, under the direction of Prof. Amos, of the Maryland Agricultural College, was held in the Court house Monday and Tuesday of this week. The subjects discussed were "Fertilizers," "Growing White Potatoes," "Strawberry Culture," "Poultry," etc.

The farmers were told the value of the different kinds of manure and that it should not be left exposed to air and rain, where all the strength would be washed out of it; instead, it should be protected from the weather or put on the land as fast as made.

The talk on growing white potatoes was especially interesting, and the most important information was how to get good large potatoes. The seed potatoes should be selected for their size and quality, putting aside for that purpose large potatoes with large eyes, and when such are planted you get the best results. As potatoes require lots of moisture, the lecturer said the rows should not be heaped up to a point, but rather flattened on top so that the rainfall might penetrate to the seed rather than run off between the rows.

It was claimed that the old fashioned way of hatching and raising chickens beats the incubator way to a stand still and is less trouble. As the people in this section know more about strawberry culture than the lecturers do that part of the program was not so satisfying as the other subjects.

A subject in which our people are vitally interested was presented on Tuesday afternoon by D. "ard King, of Missouri, whose topic was "Good Roads Right Now." Mr. King is regarded as the leading speaker on country roads in the United States. He dwelt upon the maintenance of roads and the advantages to be had by the using of the Split-dog-drag.

Letter To Wm. Bond. Salisbury Md.

Dear Sir: Paint goes by gallons. There are useful and useless gallons. Useful paint is lead-zinc and oil with dryer and color; useless paint is whitening, china-clay, ground stone, barytes, benzine, or water. This stuff is put-in, because it is cheap, to stuff out the paint, to make more gallons to sell; of course the buyer doesn't suspect, or he wouldn't buy it.

It costs as much to brush on this useless stuff as lead-zinc-and-oil; but it looks like that and feels like that in the brush; the painter doesn't suspect it. Besides, if the owner is willing, why should the painter object to painting two gallons for one? He is paid by the day; more gallons, more days, more money.

Average paint at full price is about one-third this useless stuff; the average paint at $7.35 or $1.50 or $1.75 a gallon is two-thirds trash. Fool paint is the proper name for all but pure paint. It is made to fool people with. Knave paint is another good name for it; it is made, of course, by knaves. Sick paint is a name for an honest weak paint. They are all weak and all extravagant; too many gallons to buy and too many gallons to brush on. Devote is the standard.

Yours truly, F. W. DEVOE & CO. P. S.—L. W. Gunby Co., sell our paint.

—A meeting in the interest of The King's Daughters will be held in the M. P. Church on Tuesday evening February 18th, at 7.30 Mrs. Medley Price, State Secretary of the Circle of King's Daughters will give a talk on the work. The Society is non-sectarian and as there is a great deal of suffering among the poor and sick in our midst a full attendance is desired.

—We have received T. W. Wood & Sons' Seed Catalogue, for 1908. It is one of the handsomest and most complete of seed catalogues. This catalogue is particularly valuable in the information that it gives about southern seeds and southern crops, and should be in the hands of all our gardeners and farmers. It will be mailed free upon request to T. W. Wood & Sons, Richmond, Va.

—The Rev. F. T. Tagg, of Baltimore, a former pastor of the M. P. Church here, and now resident of the General Conference of the M. P. Church, will be the speaker at tomorrow afternoon's Sabbath meeting at the Court House. His subject will be "The Appeal of the Gospel to the Average Man."

—Division Street Baptist Church, Kingman A. Handy, minister, preaching at 11.00 and 7.30; Bible School, 9.45; Prof. Turner will address the Young Men's Class on "The Human Body." He will use a manikin to illustrate his talk. Bible School at Hitch's Hall at 2.30, James Price, Supt. Young peoples meeting, 7.00, W. K. Allen, Pres. E. Y. P. U.

—A reporter from Hebron writes that there is a population in that town now of 695 of which only 25 are negroes. This speaks well for the thriving Hebron which probably stands fourth in size in the county.

—The Ladies Auxiliary of St. Peters P. E. Church will give a musicale at the home of Mrs. Thomas Perry Thursday evening, Feb. 27th. Admission 25 cents.

—Mrs. Louis W. Morris entertained a number of her friends at Bridge Whist Friday afternoon. This is the first of a series of card entertainments that Mrs. Morris is giving.

A Square Deal

Remember you when you buy Dr. Pierce's daily medicine—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are stated under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are getting for, and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests, while potent to cure the most stubborn, harmful, and to the most delicate women's ailments. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. Much better than any other medicine for curing and preventing the mucous membrane diseases in the nose, throat, and lungs. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Chlorine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heartburn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all disorders of the mucous membrane, whether of the throat, the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this solvent remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal Passages, it is well worth taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, nagging coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membrane. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be resorted to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all chronic, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

MAN'S ODD BIRD.

Kiwi Has Some Remarkable Peculiarities.

When the first skin of a kiwi was seen some English naturalists about seventy years ago, they were greatly perplexed as to its relation to the Kiwi is a native of New Zealand, and while once very common there, is now becoming extinct. The remarkable peculiarities are—

The apparent absence of wings, the plumage so covers the small, rudimentary skeletal appendage of a leg, that none whatever is apparent. The situation of the nostrils, at the bill's extremity, "is a second peculiar feature. While hunting for earth worms it probes the soft ground, making a continual sniffling sound; thus the scent is evidently of great help in finding food, and the reason for the position of the nostrils is quite apparent.

A third peculiarity is the very disproportionate size of the egg in comparison to the bird. It is a little less than one-fourth the bird's own weight. One kiwi's egg found weighed fourteen and one-half ounces, while the bird weighed just under four pounds (sixty-four ounces) and was about the size of an ordinary hen.

The plumage of the kiwi is a dull brown streaked with light gray, and the body resembles a miniature hairy-shanked rather badly hacked off at the rear part, as nature has not provided the kiwi with such decorations as a tail. The absence of wings is compensated for by their swiftness of foot, and the large, clumsy-looking legs, which are sometimes used as weapons, are placed far back on the oddly shaped body.

How Six Million Live.

Consul-General Wynne furnishes an interesting compilation from the Statistical Abstract for London, 1905. The 6,500,000 persons in Greater London live in 928,008 houses. The population 100 years ago was just one-fifth of what it is now. Though the number of births was nearly double the number of deaths in 1904, the birth rate is steadily declining. The recent figures show that in 1905 there were 1,238 post offices in London, and 2,435 public telephones working. The total imports at London in 1904 amounted to $849,086,000, and the total exports $462,299,000. Some idea of London's wealth is shown by the assessed income tax value in 1904 in the administrative county, houses representing $219,264,000, trades and professions $393,045,000, profits of companies and other interests $698,511,000, salaries (corporate bodies) $116,044,000, salaries (army and navy) $103,674,000. In 1905 there were 2,993 motor cars and 1,852 motor cycles in London. Licenses to drive were granted to 8,070 persons, the fees received amounting to $36,300.

Use for Spider's Silk.

Several small articles of wearing apparel have been made of silk worn from spiders' webs, and they were found to be more durable, lighter in weight, and more pleasing to the touch than articles made of the ordinary kind of silk. Spiders' silk is not likely to become popular, however, because spiders cannot be cultivated profitably owing to their enormous appetites.

The spider's web, not to be regarded as an enemy to mankind, for it does a great service as a destroyer of insects. The spider's web which it can gobble up a house fly is mousing. It has been calculated that a man, eating at the same rate as a spider, would require "a whole fat ox for breakfast, an ox and five sheep for dinner, ten supper two bullocks, eight sheep and four hogs, and just before retiring, nearly four barrels of fresh fish." It is, however, a wasteful feeder, and often only sucks the juices of its victim, discarding the more solid parts.

Some Russian Proverbs.

When the hynder ceases the peasant forgets to eggs himself.

A man needs only not to be a cripple or a hunchback to be accounted a handsome fellow by the women.

Even an old man can win a woman's love and keep it if he isn't jealous.

When the devil cannot arrive in time, he sends a woman on before him.

Praise your wife, not three days after the wedding, but three years after it—if you can.

Poverty is not a sin, but it is the cause of many.

Fellow-travellers and fellow-camblers soon know each other well.

A lie told cleverly may be truer than the truth told foolishly.

Effect of Dew on Colors.

Dew is a great respecter of colors. To prove this, take pieces of glass or lead and paint them red, yellow, green, and black. Expose them at night, and you will find that the yellow will be covered with moisture, the green will be damp, but that the red and black will be left perfectly dry.

SKIN DISEASE OF 20 YEARS STANDING CURED.

I want you to know how much Chamberlain's Salve has done for me. It has cured my face of a skin disease of almost twenty years standing. I have been treated by several smart physicians as we have in this country and they did me no good, but two boxes of this salve has cured me. Mrs. Fannie Griffin, Troy, Ala. Chamberlain's Salve is for sale at Toulson's Drug Store.

DAIRY AND CREAMERY

SELECTING A DAIRY COW.

The Milk Producing Type is Angular, Thin and Loose-jointed.

While there may be no infallible rule by which a man can be governed in selecting a high-class dairy cow, there are many points that will assist, and if carefully considered, will prevent disappointment as a rule. Remember that a cow is a machine and is intended to change the different products in which she is fed into something of more value. There are two distinct types of these machines. One manufactures or converts feed into beef; the other into milk. There is a very decided and pronounced difference in the type of the animal that makes beef, and the one which manufactures milk.

In the dairy type we have an animal that is angular, thin, somewhat loose-jointed and with prominent bones. She is wedge-shaped from the front and with a lean head, moderately long face, slightly dished and a general contented expression of the features. The muzzle is large, mouth large, nostrils wide and open, a clear, full bright eye, a broad, full and high forehead, ears medium size, fine texture, covered with fine hair and orange-yellow inside. The neck is thin, moderately long with little or no dewlap and the throat is clean. Wide spaces between the jaws, the withers lean and sharp, the shoulders lean and oblique and the chest deep and wide which indicates vigor and constitution. Field and Farm.

White Scour Among Calves.

This dread disease needs lots of study. All sorts of theories are propounded as to its cause, says Hoard's Dairyman. It is generally thought to be due to external infection taken through the nasal cord. But no matter what the theory be or what is done to prevent its deadly effect it still does its work.

Where cows give very rich milk the first milking is at times so heavy in butterfat as to cause very serious disturbance in the bowels of the calf. Added to this, this milk some times contains a ptomaine poison.

Milk fever is now shown to be due to ptomaine poisoning and is cured by pumping air (oxygen) into the udder. Possibly many cases of so-called white scour are caused by the same toxic conditions of the first milk. It would be interesting to know whether calves from cows that have not been dried off ever die of white scour.

When Butter Will Not Gather.

When butter will not gather the difficulty can be traced usually to advanced lactation or too low a temperature of cream. The milk from one cow long in lactation is sufficient to spoil a whole churning. The viscosity of such milk renders separation of butter fat slow and imperfect. It often happens during the winter months that butter, or cream rather, will break or separate into small particles which often refuse to adhere or gather in spite of all coaxing. The only remedy is to raise the temperature of the whole mass up to the proper degree. In this work the dairy thermometer is almost indispensable, as it will save much time and worry. If the churn is a revolving one and the cream just breaks into minute particles, refusing to gather, then add warm water to that used in rinsing the butter until it reaches about 64 degrees. The butter particles will generally adhere after a few revolutions of the churn. Trouble of this kind can be avoided. Before attempting to churn the cream should be tested until 64 degrees is reached in winter and should be smooth and velvety and have the required degree of acidity. If this degree of warmth is not imparted to cream by the temperature of the room in which it is kept then it can be raised to the right degree by setting the cream jar or can in a larger one containing warm water.

Winter Dairying.

We admit that it costs a little more to keep cows during winter than summer, but results of hundreds of dairymen show that when cows come fresh early in the fall or toward the latter part of the summer, if they are properly cared for they produce more milk or butter for the year than if they freshen in the spring about the time grass begins to start. This together with the better price obtained for the products in winter renders dairying more pleasant than summer dairying.

Profitable Dairy Farming.

What is successful dairy farming? asks a writer on dairy topics. It is not just squandering through year after year, with nothing to show for one's work. There must be a "fair margin of profit after all expenses are paid.

Coal From the River.

It is said that as much as 25,000 tons of coal are taken year from the bed of the Susquehanna River. There are several large companies engaged in this business, and those which can afford it, recover the coal by means of a suction dredge, an extremely novel manner of taking coal from the ground. The fuel is washed down from the colleries and calm piles along the upper river.

Painting the North Bridge is no light undertaking. So vast is its structure that it takes fifty cars of paint to give it one "coat," and the area dealt with is something like 130 acres.

Phoebe—"Now, don't tell them city folks you're from the kentry or they'll cheat yer."

Agent—"You say your wife is nervous and wants a maid that doesn't talk much? Well we have a deaf and dumb girl. How do you think she'd do?"

Subbubs—"Oh, she wouldn't answer at all!"

Mrs. Benham—"I had two men in love with me; I married one and the other died."

Benham—"I don't know who the second fellow was, but he knew his business."

The Robin—"I should say so. Why some fellow just sent a wireless kiss through the air and it passed right through me."

SELECTING A STANDARD.

Doubts Which Meet the Young Man in the Business World.

A great many young men who go out into the world of business from school or college or from the influences of a refined home are often puzzled to hear experienced men say that ideals are all right in their way and in theory, but that in practical life, in the rough-and-ready game of business, or in the professions, the younger young men get rid of much of their "fine-spun nonsense" the quicker they will succeed, says the Philadelphia Ledger. What is a young man to say to that sort of talk? If he be weak and disposed to be "highly practical," and of an unformed character, and with only a veneer of civilization spread thinly upon him, he will hearken to the callous man of the world and do as he does, becoming hopelessly vulgarized. If he have the framework of character, he will exclaim "that is that be the way of the practical world, the world is wrong, and that there is a better and higher view and pathway for him. How far would the world advance if its ideals were based on the opinions of the most mercenary and common of the people? It would retrograde. How much progress onward and upward would a young man make if he were to key his existence to the ordinary pitch fixed by the low average of those with whom he comes in daily contact. He would be ashamed to own to himself that he had fixed such a standard for himself. The right standard to take is to choose the very best, and to try to the utmost to live up to that standard.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Manufacture of Candles.

Although the use of candles for domestic illuminating purposes is declining, there still exist in Belgium three important manufactures.

Materials used there in the manufacture of candles are stearin, stearic acid and paraffin. Important quantities of church candles, short, medium and very long, simple and decorated, are also manufactured in Belgium. About nine-tenths of the output is exported to other countries. It is shown that the export trade of the manufacture of candles in Belgium would practically be abandoned.

Candles are moulded by machinery. The machines are of German, French and English origin, the German made machine preeminent. The capacity of machines in use varies from eighty to four hundred moulds. Average daily production is about thirty-five thousand pounds for each factory.

The candle industry in the Venetian provinces is a comparatively important one. The statistics for the port of Venice show that the exportation exceeded the importation by about $210,000 in the calendar year 1904. Large quantities are also shipped to other parts of Italy, of which there is no official record. Altogether the field is a fair one for exploitation by manufacturers of candle making machinery, although it is a fact that the rapidly extending use of electricity, even in small villages, correlatively reduces the more primitive methods of illumination.

Put Money Where It Grows.

A young bond salesman for a New York house interviewed the late Marshall Field in the spring of 1905 with a view to selling him a number of guaranteed bonds, yielding a little less than 4 per cent, says the World's Work.

"Young man," said Mr. Field, "you are only wasting my time and yours. I like your bonds. When the trustees of my estate come to investing the interest on my investment I hope they will buy that kind of bonds, but I am a business man, and do not care to put a large part of my surplus in a fully developed property any more than I should care to buy out a business enterprise that seemed to me to have reached the limit of its growth, no matter how solid it might be. Your bonds are too good for me."

Mr. Field, it will be noted, invested his surplus on the same principle upon which he built up his business, namely, to put the money where it has a chance to grow.

Most Commonly Used Fish.

The herring is more largely used as an article of food than any other fish, both in its fresh and cured states. More than 250,000 tons of herrings are landed on the coasts of Great Britain every year, representing a money value of about £1,200,000.

Welding by Electricity.

Welding has been brought to such a state of perfection that welding apparatus can be carried to a railroad track and two rails joined as solidly as if they had come out of the rolling mill in one piece.

Drugs Causing Death.

Excessive use of drugs is the cause of death of 20 per cent. of the population of Austria, according to official statistics, while 44 per cent. of the medical profession in that country die of their disease.

Vaporizing Gold.

Gold is one of the most difficult metals to vaporize, but by the use of the electric furnace it can readily be set boiling at the temperature of about 4,400 degrees Fahrenheit.

Painting the North Bridge is no light undertaking. So vast is its structure that it takes fifty cars of paint to give it one "coat," and the area dealt with is something like 130 acres.

Animal Instinct.

Some of the leading naturalists have been comparing notes as to the existence of a loftier feeling in parent animals than mere instinct, and the examples they have brought to light are intensely interesting.

Dr. Weir has a she dog which was so proud of her puppies that she used to bring them one by one from their kennel and lay them at the feet of her master and mistress, and wait till they had been duly admired; then she carried them back to their nest like a mother who has been exhibiting her baby.

Another instance is well established. A farmer was awakened one night by a pawing and neighing at the door of his house. In dressing and going down he beheld his favorite mare. Immediately on perceiving him she leapt the garden fence, and guided him to a ditch. It appeared that a foal had been born to her during the night, and in stumbling about the little animal had fallen in a ditch. Unable to help herself, the mother sought human aid.

DOCTORS PRESCRIBE SULPHUR.

But Sulphur Should Be Used in Liquid Form Only.

"Hancock's Liquid Sulphur is the most wonderful remedy for Eczema I have ever known," writes Dr. W. W. Leake, of Orlando, Fla., who was cured of a case of 7 years standing.

Dr. W. A. Heard, of Matfield, Fla. was cured of Eczema after he had suffered for thirty years and says "Hancock's Liquid Sulphur is the finest remedy for all Skin troubles he has ever used or prescribed."

Doctors everywhere prescribe it, but they say Sulphur should be used in liquid form only, as it is in Hancock's Liquid Sulphur.

Druggists sell it. Booklet free, if you write Hancock Liquid Sulphur Co., Baltimore.

MODERN PEARL INDUSTRY

New Methods Have Changed the Work of Gathering.

PEARLER WELL EQUIPPED

With a Suit of India Rubber, Copper Breastplates, and Leaden Weights He Descends to the Bottom of the Sea—Spends From Six to Eight Hours There.

The Servilla pearl given by Julius Caesar to Brutus' mother was said to have been worth $175,000, says London Tit-Bits. For a pearl an inch in diameter a Persian shah of the seventeenth century is said to have paid $320,000. The pearl market is somewhat lower nowadays, but prices are still high enough to make diving profitable.

The era of naked divers exposed to peril from sharks has passed away. Modern progress equips the pearler with a suit of India rubber, copper, breastplate, with leaden weights back and front; helmet, glass pannelled and with telescopic attachments; air pipes, life lines and a submarine flashlight. Thus equipped the pearler diver may spend six or eight hours at the bottom of the sea, whereas in olden times three minutes made a record.

Although pearls are found in nearly all mollusks and even in univalves like the Australian halloita, a kind of barnacle, true pearls are produced only by the pearl oyster or mother of pearl shell. The latter is really the diver's bread and butter. The shells are as big as dinner plates and weigh two pounds when cleaned. They fetch from $500 to $750 a ton.

The ancient fisheries were chiefly in the Indian Ocean and Persian Gulf but nowadays the best pearls come from Ceylon and from Australian waters, especially Torres Straits. Pearl fishing in Ceylon is a government monopoly. In March the fleet starts for the pearling grounds, each vessel with twenty or thirty divers and their assistants. But the headquarters of pearling are to be found in the desolate country extending from Exmouth Gulf to King Sound, in Western Australia.

A glistening white coast line is this, whose monotony is broken only by mango fringed salt water creeks and scorching deserts of spinifex and sand. Long before inland gold was dreamed of roving natives fished these seas for pearls, and they paid many visits to Roebuck Bay and what is now the pearl town of Broome.

Chinese and Malays as well as tribes of native blacks follow after there to-day, but the old-time divers, the reign of terror and piracy when a large haul was made—these and similar conditions have passed away, giving place to fleets and luggers carrying modern diving outfits and representatives of the inevitable capitalist in the person of the market pearler. Here are six hundred miles of coast line, with perhaps five thousand hardy adventurers engaged in the pearl trade.

There are some thousands of Japanese, Manilamen, Malays and men of other races acting chiefly as crews for the vessels. The vessels are schooner rigged and from seven to fourteen tons burden. Each carries a master diver and a crew of four, one of whom is the diver's assistant and works the air pumps. Another holds the life line and pays attention to signals; another is catching up or peeling potatoes for dinner, and it may be a third has gone off in the dingy for fresh water and fire-wood.

The shells are found on ledges about ninety feet down in the sea; but they are far more plentiful at greater depths. Postume awaits the inventor of a diving apparatus which will enable the pearler to work in comfort one hundred fathoms down.

The lugger has a low freeboard to allow the diver with his heavy dress and gear to be easily hoisted on board. He carries a net holding the shells with him, and when this is full he has it hauled up so that he himself may run no risk of entangling life line or air pipe.

When the pearler works at, say twenty fathoms he moves easily, notwithstanding his forty-pound boots, amid groves of coral trees, interlaced with fluttering, fern-like plants, among whose branches swim gorgeous tropical fish and sinister water snakes, which seem to resent the intrusion of so strange a monster.

A good day's work is anything more than two hundred pairs of shells. The business is short-cut and speculative. One diver may gather ten after ton of shells without securing anything of greater value than a few seed pearls, while another may take a fortune out in a day's gathering.

The most famous pearl discovered in Australia of late years is known as the Southern Cross. It consists of a cluster of nine pearls in the shape of a cross. This freak of nature was picked up at low water on the Lacpede Island by a beseechingly named Clark, who, after buying it for some time for superstitious reasons, sold it for $50; later it brought $50,000.

The pearl diver of to-day, protected as he is by every device known to modern submarine engineering, is exposed to many perils. He may lose his life by the tearing of his dress upon the sharp coral rocks.

WATCH MAKING IN AMERICA.

Trade of Great Britain Gradually Transferred to This Country.

The fact that the United States has forged ahead of Great Britain in the manufacture of watches is made the subject of an article in the Magazine of Commerce.

"Forty years ago," the writer says, "the best known devices in the modern watch were invented by English makers, and at that time only 50,000 watches were made in the United States and 164,000 in Great Britain. But in the course of these forty years the whole situation has been reversed and while in Great Britain only 220,000 watches were made in the year 1902, in the United States the enormous number of 2,750,000 were turned out. Against the very nearly three millions of watches made in the country somewhere about six millions are made on the Continent of Europe, but these do not seem to compete with the American watch. The American watch is rapidly superseding the Swiss and English watch."

The writer attributes the decay of the watch-making industry to what he calls the "obsolescent essay law" of Great Britain and the strict enforcement of them, and also to what he calls the "fetich of free trade," which has hindered Parliament in its legislation.

New Facts About Pompeii.

The question whether Pompeii was a seaport in the strict sense of the word, says Harper's Weekly, or whether it was separated from the sea by a strip of land, was solved de facto in 1879 by a network of trenches opened by Ruggero across the disputed district. It was ascertained on this occasion that the story of a three-masted ship, in fact, of the flagship of Pily, alleged to have been found near the farmhouse of Messigiu in 1833, was absolutely groundless. The masts, seen and described by the naval architect Giuseppe Negri, were simply trunks of cypress trees.

Many such trunks of cypresses have been found since. They measure, as an average, m. 1.42 in circumference, m. 0.47 in diameter, which seems to be the proper size for a tree 40 or 45 years old. Their roots are still planted. In the antique humus of the mouth of the Sarno, whereas the trunks are embedded in the lapilli of the eruption of '79.

With the help of these fossils remaining the list of the ancient seaports has been traced from Torre Annunziata to Castellammare, crossing the River Sarno 3,000 feet above its present mouth. The picturesque rocks of Rovigliano, the petra Herculeis of the Romans, which before the eruption, were separated from the mainland by a channel 1,550 meters wide come now within 420 meters of the shore.

Reward of a Spy.

Fresh light has been thrown on Russian methods of espionage by details which have come to light of the career of Zinaida Smollianoff, a beautiful young woman, who was sentenced at Leipzig to fifteen months imprisonment for betraying German military secrets. Mile. Smollianoff received a salary of $10,000 a year, which enabled her to enter the highest circles in German society. The Russian government valued her services very highly, for during the five years of her activity as a spy she communicated to them over 80 important military secrets. To this end she fascinated and ensnared over 100 state officials and army officers, and exploited them for her purposes. When she emerges from prison she will be expelled from Germany and prohibited from ever again entering the country. German military authorities regard her as the most dangerous and successful spy of recent times.

Novel Use for Mummies.

Ground up mummy makes a row of a certain rare color that nothing else can give. It is on account of the asphaltum in the mummy that this is so. The Egyptians wrapped their dead in garments coated with asphaltum of an incomparably fine and pure quality. This asphaltum, as the centuries passed, impregnated the dead with the dead themselves. It turned them into the best paint material in the world.

Colored Rain in France.

"Colored rain." In the shape of millions of little red, green, and yellow insects, fell recently at Angers, France. The phenomenon lasted several hours, and so numerous were the insects that they choked the water pipes in the town and were showered up in the streets by the cart-loads.

Memento of Whaling Days.

A curious memento of the whaling industry of Monterey in Mexico remains in the pavement leading up from the street to the west door of the San Carlos de Borromeo, one of the churches founded by the Spanish missionary fathers, and is still in excellent repair.

Yearly Cost of Golf.

It has been estimated that ten millions sterling is spent each year on golf. There are 879 golf clubs in England, 780 in America, 632 in Scotland, and 134 in Ireland, numbering altogether 600,000 players.

Steamship's "Full Mail."

When an Atlantic steamship has on board what is called a "full mail," she is carrying about 200,000 letters and 300 sacks of newspapers to London alone, besides large quantities of other places.

HE WHO LAUGHS LAST.

The sailorman laughed as the puffing craft sought shelter when the breeze blew.

A perfume boat' has no right to float. He cried as onward he flew. 'Oh, give me a sail and a washing rail And it's ho for the breezes that blow; I'll sing me a song as we skip along, Not fearing old Davy below."

He turned him back on the homeward track. As the sun was touching the hill, The sails flapped back and the stays hung slack. And the sea was glassy and still. "Ahoj," he cried as the "arank" he spied, "Oh, take my line," says he, "And over the foam they towed him home. And the engine puffed mer-ri-lee. When at last they stopped and anchor dropped, 'I'm sorry I laughed," said he; "A sail's a delight when the wind's all right, But a kicker's a certain-tee."

DOWNWARD COURSE.

Fast Being Realized by Salisbury People.

Disorders quickly follow: Diabetes and finally Bright's disease.

W. A. Foreman, living at the Norris Hotel, Easton, Md., says: I never obtained so much benefit from any remedy as I did from Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered for some time with inactive kidneys, irregularity of the secretions and pains through my back. At times the secretions would be too profuse and at other times scanty, but there was always the desire to void them. My back was very weak with a constant pain across my loins and sides and any sudden movement would cause sharp painful twinges to shoot through my back to my shoulders. I was treated by a physician and used many different remedies, but could not find relief. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at a drug store and a short use with this remedy brought me relief. A continued use of Doan's Pills effected a complete cure, and I have had no return of the trouble since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"For several winters past my wife has been troubled with a most persistent and disagreeable cough, which invariably extended over a period of several weeks and caused her many sleepless nights," writes Will J. Haynes, editor of the Hurley, Colo., Bulletin.

"Various remedies were tried each year, with no beneficial result. In November last the cough again put in an appearance and my wife, acting on the suggestion of a friend, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The result was indeed marvelous. After three doses the cough entirely disappeared and has not manifested itself since."

This remedy is for sale at Toulsons Drug Store.

ASK YOURSELF THE QUESTION.

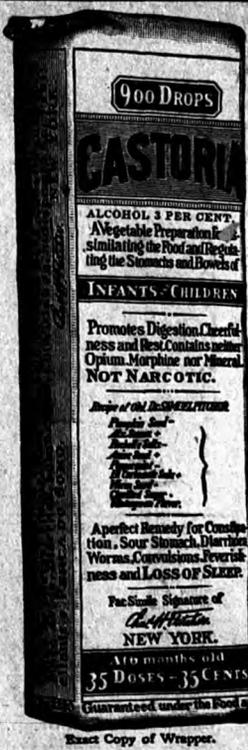

"Why not use Chamberlain's Pain Balm when you have rheumatism? We feel sure that the result will be prompt and satisfactory. One application relieves the pain, and many have been permanently cured by its use. 25 and 50 cent sizes. For sale at Toulsons Drug Store.

Women Everywhere Use Pe-ru-na.

MRS. JOHN UNDERWOOD

Tired, Worn-Out Mothers.

Mrs. Lydia H. Jesselyn, 201 Westminster St., Providence, R. I., is Treasurer of the Editors League of Rhode Island, chartered in Providence. She writes: "My experience with Peruna has been most gratifying. Last winter I contracted a severe cold, and for several days I coughed until my voice failed me. When other remedies did me no good, I decided to try Peruna, and within four days the cold was broken up, and the cough abated. "Within another week an increase in my usual strength and vitality told me that Peruna was doing all that it promised, and more. I also consider it very superior for tired, worn-out mothers, and have advised several to try it, and have seen most gratifying results from its use. "I give it highest praise."

MRS. LENA R. MOUDY

MISS BESSIE B. FARRELL

MRS. EMILY KELLOGG

MRS. JOSEPH VITTUR

Bilious Headache.

Mrs. Emily Kellogg, 6649 S. Lawrence St., South Tacoma, Wash., member of Ladies of the Maccabees, writes: "Three months ago I had an attack of biliousness which threatened to undermine my health and strength. Luckily for me, I tried Peruna at the suggestion of my friends before it was too late. "I found in a few days time that I did not have the usual sick headache, neither did food nauseate me any longer. In two weeks' time Peruna had completely rid my system of the poison and bile, and I was in a much better condition. My skin assumed its normal color, I had a splendid appetite, and I was in every way improved in health. I used Peruna for a month longer, and it wrought a wonderful change in my entire system. I consider it a most wonderful medicine."

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, 61 Marchant St., Watsonville, Cal., writes: "I was troubled with cramps in the stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors. They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months. I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again. I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured. "I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial. I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken nineteen bottles and am entirely cured. Have gained in strength and flesh and feel like a different person. "I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Mrs. Ella Embree, Clark, Mo., writes: "I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I can truthfully say that Peruna is a woman's friend. I have no more terrible pains and am stronger than I have been. Your medicine has worked like a charm."

Cataract of Head.

Mrs. Joseph Vittur, 6709 Erie St., Austin Sta., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Your medicine, Peruna, was of great benefit to me. I suffered with cataract of the nose and head for many years. Three bottles of Peruna cured me, after I had considered it impossible to ever be cured again. "I now always keep Peruna in my house, and recommend it to every one suffering from cataract. As soon as one of my children commences to cough I give them Peruna, and their cough is soon gone. "This medicine is surely a great boon to suffering humanity."

Pe-ru-na the Family Doctor.

Mrs. M. E. Seymour, R. F. D. 2, Bowman, Ga., writes: "I am ready to speak a few words in favor of Peruna and Manalin. I have tried them for nearly every ill of life for myself and family, and find them to be all the doctor claims them to be. Peruna cured me of internal trouble when my doctor could not. "My advice to all suffering women is, consult Dr. Hartman. What he has done for me he will do for you."

Pe-ru-na in Tablet Form.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets, which represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

Suffered With Stomach.

Mrs. John Underwood, 630 W. Walnut St., Columbus, Ohio, writes: "Having had catarrh and stomach trouble and having suffered very much, I, after being doctored a long while, as a last resort took Peruna. The result was wonderful. I would highly recommend it as a good remedy. I still use Peruna and would not be without it. I always have it in the house."

Catarrh and Stomach Trouble.

Mrs. T. French, R. R. No. 1, Hickory Point, Tenn., writes: "I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. I have followed your good and kind advice faithfully. I bless the day when I wrote you of my condition, and I will always praise Peruna. I think it is one of the grandest medicines on earth. "Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach trouble for seven years and after having tried four different doctors they only relieved me for a little while. I gave up all hope of being cured. I only weighed 130 pounds, and was so weak I could hardly get around the room. "I was induced to try Peruna, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My weight is now 188 pounds, my health never was better in my life. "I shall always praise Dr. Hartman and his remedy."

Thousands of families have learned the use of Peruna, and its value in the treatment of catarrhal ailments.

Bowel Trouble.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 1832 North St., Little Rock, Ark., writes: "I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. "One doctor said he could cure me. I took his medicine two months. But it did me no good. "A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well. "I can recommend Peruna to any one, and if any one wants to know what Peruna did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly. "Peruna is a household remedy of great merit, and is useful in many climatic ailments, such as coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis and catarrhal diseases generally."

Restorer of Lost Strength.

Miss Bessie Farrell, 1011 Third Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., is President of the Young People's Christian Temperance Association. She writes: "Peruna is certainly a valuable nerve and blood restorer, calculated to build up the broken-down health of worn-out women. I have found my personal experience that it sets a wonderful restorer of lost strength, assisting the stomach to assimilate and digest the food, and building up worn-out tissues. In my work I have had occasion to recommend it frequently, especially to sick women. "I know of nothing which is better to build up the strength of a young mother, in fact all the ailments peculiar to women, so I am pleased to give it my hearty endorsement."

Pe-ru-na a Woman's Friend.

Mrs. Ella Embree, Clark, Mo., writes: "I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I can truthfully say that Peruna is a woman's friend. I have no more terrible pains and am stronger than I have been. Your medicine has worked like a charm."

A Grateful Patient.

Mrs. Ella J. Case, R. F. D. 8, Bedford, Ind., writes: "I have been cured by using Peruna and Manalin. I thank you for your advice."

RECIPE MIXED OFTEN.

Druggists Hear Much Praise For This Simple Home Made Mixture.

Some remarkable stories are being told about town and among the country people coming in of this simple home-made mixture curing Rheumatism and kidney trouble. Here is the recipe and directions for taking: mix by shaking well in a bottle one half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion; one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Take as a dose one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.
No change need be made in your usual diet, but drink plenty of good water.
This mixture writes one authority in a leading Philadelphia newspaper has a peculiar tonic effect on the kidneys; cleansing the clogged-up pores of the eliminative tissues, forcing the kidneys to sift and strain from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous waste matter overcoming Rheumatism, Bladder and Urinary troubles in a short while.
A New York druggist who has had hundreds of calls for these ingredients since the first announcement in the newspapers last October stated that the people who once try it "swear by it," especially those who have Urinary and Kidney trouble and suffer with Rheumatism.
The druggists in this neighborhood say they can supply the ingredients which are easily mixed at home. There is said to be no better blood cleansing agent or system tonic known, and certainly none more harmless or simple to use.

MARDELA.

The revival meetings which have been in progress here at the M. P. Church for four weeks closed Sunday night.

Miss Emma Brattan, who has been visiting friends and relatives over to Salisbury for the last four weeks returned home Monday.

The young people have been enjoying the skating for several days.

Quite a little excitement was caused in town Wednesday when a run mad dog came through and bit several of the dogs but fortunately none of the people were bit.

Preaching at the M. E. church Sunday 10.30 a. m., by the Rev. Mr. Conaway.

Miss Mary Brattan spent last Saturday and Sunday with friends in Salisbury.

Among the young men from here, that attended the dance at White Haven last Friday night were Messrs. Nathaniel Austin, Roland Taylor, Rodney Austin and Don Bacon.

If the young ladies are going to give a leap year dance in the Grange Hall on Friday February 28, wake up girls as this is leap year and remember there are only ten more months to do your talking, we are sure you could make some of the old bachelors happy before 1909 if you only try Why not?

We often see our young men visiting neighboring towns and wonder what the attraction is, boys, if it is pretty girls you are looking for get wise and do not leave Mardela.

A Helpless Child.

A weak and puny child is badly handicapped in the battle of life. It is isolated from the healthy enjoyment of its little fellow beings. It cannot partake either of their play or their sturdy work and progress in the world; its whole life is embittered by incapacity and weakness.
Any woman who expects to become a mother ought to know what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do both for her own health and safety during her time of trial and also to insure her in bequeathing a fair measure of health and strength to the prospective little one.

Dear Sir:—Say milk is worth 80 a quart.
If 1/2 water, and sold at 80, the milk in it fetches 120 a quart.
If 1/4 water, 160.
If 1/8 water, 240.
If 1/16 water, 320.
That's rather too stiff for milk; but watered paint is sold in all those proportions.
Pure paint—Devoc—is sold for $1.75 a gallon.
"Paint" at that price and 1/2 white wash fetches $3.50 a gallon for the paint part of it.
"Paint" 1/2 white wash fetches $7.00 a gallon for the paint in it.
"Paint" 1/4 white wash fetches $14.00 a gallon for the actual paint it contains.
And people are paying all these prices for paint, when they buy adulterated paint. There are 800 such: only 8 pure paints; only one Devoc.

Yours truly

TO USE SKATING RINK

Bowling Alleys, Etc., For Benefit of A Ladies' Tennis Court. Large Association Formed.

Arrangements have been made by the Salisbury Men's Tennis Association in conjunction with Mr. J. D. Showell, proprietor of the Roller Skating Rink in this city by which the receipts of the Rink, bowling alleys, pool, billiard and target gallery over a specified amount for thirty days, starting yesterday, Feb. 21, up to and including March 31, are to be used for the construction of an adequate tennis court for the lady tennis players of Salisbury, and the benefit of tennis in this city, generally in the discretion of the Association.

Mr. Showell has created a large business at the Rink, which now offers more for the money in the line of entertainment than any other place of amusement here.

For only five cents an evening excepting Saturdays, the goer can see one entire new reel of moving pictures usually combining two new pictures every evening, making four pictures that are seen each night. These are shown three times every night at 7.30, 8.30 and 9.30.

The popular bowling alleys at the Rink with the pool, billiards, target gallery, etc., go in the arrangement made by the Men's Tennis Association, which includes some of the most active and prominent young men of the city in business and society.

A large number of the ladies of the town have generously interested themselves and a series of unique and attractive entertainments will be arranged throughout each week, with special double program on Saturdays. The Rink will thereby be made the centre for the various social circles to congregate and meet.

The Association has a membership of about twenty young men, with a like membership of young ladies with whom Mr. Showell will co-operate in the management. An enjoyable occasion may be anticipated by the general public who will doubtless attend largely.

Letter to Wm. H. Jackson.

Salisbury, Md.
Dear Sir:—Say milk is worth 80 a quart.
If 1/2 water, and sold at 80, the milk in it fetches 120 a quart.
If 1/4 water, 160.
If 1/8 water, 240.
If 1/16 water, 320.
That's rather too stiff for milk; but watered paint is sold in all those proportions.
Pure paint—Devoc—is sold for $1.75 a gallon.
"Paint" at that price and 1/2 white wash fetches $3.50 a gallon for the paint part of it.
"Paint" 1/2 white wash fetches $7.00 a gallon for the paint in it.
"Paint" 1/4 white wash fetches $14.00 a gallon for the actual paint it contains.
And people are paying all these prices for paint, when they buy adulterated paint. There are 800 such: only 8 pure paints; only one Devoc.

Yours truly
F. W. Devoc Co.
P. B. L. W. Ganby Co. sell our paint.

FREE PUBLIC GAS

Demonstration. Mr. Lovejoy, of Phila., Will Be Here Next Week To Cook With Gas.

The Home Gas Company is going to have a big demonstration at their store on Main Street next week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 27th, 28th, and 29th, from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. each day.

The demand for gas stoves is so great that the Company is going to show its appreciation by giving to the citizens a free demonstration to show everybody who is interested in cooking with gas, the merits of the gas stove over the old coal or wood stove.

The Company has secured the service of an expert stove man from Philadelphia to be here to show how to operate and cook with gas.

Everybody is invited to be present to see how simple it is. The Company has received this week its first order for stoves and all who have not bought their stove should do so at once to avoid the rush. Everybody will want to put in the gas stove as soon as spring opens. Don't wait weeks until you want your stove as it takes one month to get them here.

The Gas Company want one thousand gas consumers by this time next year, and everybody should get busy. The best friends of the Gas Company are the people who are now buying gas.

The Company don't propose to have any dissatisfied customers. Everybody will have the very best attention and courtesy and everyone will be pleased. The evidence of a happy home is a gas range in the kitchen.

Buyers Mercantile Agency—Book For The Free Use Of Our Manufacturers And Merchants

The Mercantile Agency Book at the Peoples Bank for the use of Sellers, giving the names and ratings of all dealers, etc., are universally known and used.

A mercantile Agency Book arranged for buyers, enabling the user to instantly find who manufactures anything desired, giving the capital rating of each manufacturer is also very valuable.

Thomas' Register of American Manufacturers and First Hands is the standard index to the American Manufacturing Industries, for the use of Buyers and others, classified so that the user is enabled to instantly find the names, addresses and ratings of all the manufacturers of or sources of supply in any line desired. 20,000 pages, 20,000 names, 38,000 articles and kinds of articles.

It is complete. No charge is made for publishing names and addresses. It should not be confused with any advertising scheme that publishes only those who pay for insertion. It is used by the Government at Washington, by the American Consular service throughout the world, and by the leading manufacturers and merchants in the United States.

When the Manufacturers of any line are wanted it does not pay to spend time looking through papers, or making inquiries.

A copy of the Third Annual Edition, September, 1907, has been placed, for the free use of our merchants and manufacturers who do not subscribe in the office of the Peoples National Bank.

THE AUDITOR'S REPORT

Shows Splendid Financial Condition of The County Commissioners' Affairs. In Detail.

At the request of the Board of County Commissioners, Messrs. W. S. Gordy Jr., and Huston H. Ruark, public accountants, have just completed an audit of the County's books, having been working on same for more than two months. The report was made to the Board at its meeting last Tuesday and is a very complete and comprehensive report, covering in detail the methods used as well as the financial condition. This report shows that the condition of the finances of the county are in a very good shape. And we doubt if there is a county in the state that can produce a better record. The Board and officers are to be congratulated on the showing as per the statements of the auditors. A full report is appended below.

The following is the report in full: Salisbury, Md., Feb. 15, 1908; To the Honorable, The Board of County Commissioners of Wicomico County, Salisbury Md. Gentlemen:—

In compliance with the request of your President, Mr. William M. Cooper, we beg to advise you that we have gone into the accounts, records and system of the office of your County Treasurer from December 1, 1908, to and including December 1, 1907, and beg to submit to you the following report as to our investigation:

We first audited the receipts and disbursements for the time mentioned and wish to say that we found them unusually correct, only a few trifling errors were found and which we have corrected and balanced the account to that date. The accompanying statement will show you the total receipts and disbursements for the period and the balance on deposit in the Peoples National Bank, of $18,738.91, which amount has been paid over by your retiring Treasurer, Mr. Jesse D. Price, to his successor and your present Treasurer, Mr. Thomas Perry.

We then verified the balances due for unpaid Taxes for the following years, 1904, 1905, 1906 and 1907, which amounts you observe on our statement hereto attached, showing the assets and liabilities of your County to January 1, 1908. We then proceeded to obtain the amount of past due Mortgage Taxes to September 1, 1907, which we find to be $7,455.07, but the payment of which we understand is in a great measure under litigation, and we have not allowed them in our statement of assets but have taken the amount as an unadmitted asset.

We then completed this credit side of our statement by adding all other assets we could find due the County and which you will find enumerated on statement.

Having completed this we made an inventory of the liabilities of the county as of January 1, 1908, which you will find attached and specified, as one note due Farmers and Merchants Bank, some small pieces of county script yet unpaid for the years 1899, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905 and 1906, giving the amounts due each year and the amount of script for levy of 1907 and contracted debts as of January 1, 1908, and which shows a surplus of $23,998.33 admitted assets and $7,455.07 unadmitted and which we think leaves you in a very healthy financial condition. But we feel that we should mention the fact that there will no doubt be some obligations contracted for and paid before the next levy that will reduce this surplus to a certain extent.

We are pleased to say that the records and accounts of the office are kept in a very neat and legible manner and the office force is to be congratulated; but we think a great improvement can be made and we would recommend their adoption, as soon as is convenient.

1st. The adoption of an itemized daily cash book of receipts. The amounts are now only kept in a permanent way in totals as gathered from receipt stubs, etc.

2nd. In our opinion it is advisable to have a new set of tax ledgers, to be opened when the next levy is struck, and we would recommend that the number of ledgers be reduced to a more convenient set, for instance open the ledgers alphabetically, from A. to H. I to P. Q to R, and put under each name all the taxes he or she owes, in all the districts, instead of entering as at present his or her name in as many ledgers as there are districts in which they own property. By this system you can turn to a party's name and have the entire indebtedness at one glance.

3rd. We advise that the ledgers and all other permanent records, at night especially, be more safely stored in a safe or vault against fire and other destruction; the tax ledgers from our observation are left out at all times and the loss and destruction of them would entail an enormous amount of work.

4th. For the upbuilding of the records of the office, we advise the eventual adoption of the Double Entry System of Book keeping, the introduction of which, it seems wise to us, to postpone until such time as a new levy is struck, and such a thing is in contemplation, the making of a re-assessment, so there will be a first starting place. We realize in making this recommendation that it will add to the clerical work of the office and we are of the opinion that it will require an extra clerk, who should be an experienced double entry book keeper.

5th. As to the matter of issuing County Orders, in payment of various accounts, payable out of certain levies, it seems to us it would be very desirable to discontinue, and instead issue them in certain amounts, say $100.00, $500.00 and $1000.00 denominations, sell them to parties who wish them, with the understanding that they are transferable only on the books of the Commissioners, and you will have a record, as to where each order is held, and from the sale of these orders at various times and for various amounts, pay all contracted bills in cash.

6th. We think that the combined Mortgage Tax Record and Ledger now in use should be so amended as to show without having to refer to the books, the exact amount of tax that has been paid and how simply show, as it does now, that certain years have been paid, and not giving amounts paid.

7th. We recommend a more systematic approval of vouchers and accounts by your Board before being paid. We find quite a number of vouchers which have not been approved by you; while they are not important ones, we think all vouchers should be improved so as to make the system of approving complete.

LARGE ASSEMBLAGE

Of Citizens At The Court House Monday To Further Cause of Temperance. Help For Worcester.

A large number of citizens gathered in the Court House Monday evening in response to a call issued through the columns of this paper in last week's issue, to discuss the question of temperance legislation, both from the standpoint of our own county and that of the state at large as far as the Local Option Bill, now before a committee in the legislature. It was a very enthusiastic assemblage and it was easily to be seen that the prohibition sentiment was as strong as ever in this county.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. L. W. Ganby, who was made permanent chairman. Mr. F. P. Adkins was chosen Secretary. A number of speeches bearing on the questions at issue as well as the general effect of doing away with the saloon in Wicomico County were made. Messrs. E. S. Adkins, W. O. Powell, Thomas Perry and Walter O. Humphreys spoke on the beneficial effects of local option here. Jas. E. Ellegood explained the laws on the subject as they now exist and pointed out some defects and urged a general law, with additional features to enforce the will of the people on this subject.

Among some of the recommendations made by Mr. Ellegood were: uniformity in the law for the County; to put a stop to the soliciting of orders for alcoholic beverages; to give the right of seizure and search for public houses and places of business suspected of dealing in the traffic; to forbid the shipping into the County from outside point. On motion of Mr. Perry the chair appointed Messrs. Jas. E. Ellegood, Thos. Perry and F. P. Adkins as a committee to prepare and draft a law embodying the ideas of the meeting. Rev. Dr. Martindale spoke fearlessly of the fight against the saloon now going on in Worcester County. Mr. Jerome Withrow of Worcester was called upon to address the meeting, and he in a forceful speech pictured the conditions of his home County and asked for the help and assistance of Wicomico. Mr. John W. Townsend of Delaware spoke of the fight that had just closed in his state, and in the name of the citizens of his County thanked the people of Salisbury for the great aid they had tendered to Delaware in the fight last fall. The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, The City of Salisbury, after an experience of about four years under the Anti License system is well pleased with what has been wrought; and as we believe that what is good for this community is likewise good for other communities;

Therefore be it resolved by this meeting of the citizens of Salisbury, First—That we hereby bear testimony to the improved condition of our people both morally and financially, and declare that public opinion is so firmly opposed to return to the license system, as to place such an event beyond all probability.

Second—That while we have confidence in the representatives from this county, we desire to express and emphasize that confidence by urging them to give their hearty support to the General Local Option Bill to the end that all portions of the state may have the opportunity of declaring whether or not they wish to be added to Anti License territory.

Third—That we request the representatives of Wicomico County to have the Local Option Law of this County so amended as to make it uniform throughout the whole county, and the violations thereof easier of detection.

Fourth—That we are deeply interested in the pending local option issue in our sister County of Worcester. We hereby bid her God-speed in her noble endeavor and pledge ourselves to render her every possible help to secure the result which she so greatly desires.

The following committee was named to go to Annapolis to be present at the hearing on the State Temperance bill: L. W. Ganby, C. W. Dickerson, W. J. Downing, James E. Ellegood, F. L. Wallis, E. S. Adkins, W. A. Crew, Revs. W. S. Phillips and W. T. M. Beale.

KING'S DAUGHTERS

held Meeting Tuesday. Addressed By State Secretary.

The meeting held in the interest of the King's Daughters in the M. F. Church Tuesday evening was well attended. Rev. William A. Cooper presided. He spoke well of the work, the good the Society was doing in the town, also of the importance of dispensing charity through an organization instead of going indiscriminately. When one asks for aid on the street, or home, report it to the members of the organization, who are familiar with the work, who investigate all cases and are in a position to know who are needy and who deserving. They desire to say here that it is seldom if ever assistance is rendered except during a snow storm, extremely cold weather or where there is sickness.

Mrs. M. J. Price, State Secretary and speaker of the evening gave a very interesting talk on the work the King's Daughters and Sons were doing, especially the Home Home on Light and Ice Street, Baltimore. Several hundred girls are employed in a tobacco factory near there, and at one time they were compelled to get lunch in the saloons, which abounded in that section. The King's Daughters and Sons have bought this Home and now these girls can get soup, a vegetable, bread and butter, coffee or tea for a nominal sum.

The musical program of the evening was well rendered and we desire to thank all who took part. Several expressed a desire to join and the new names were enrolled as members.

REVIVAL OF TRADE
Improved Outlook in Financial and Commercial Affairs. In New York.

Reports from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and other business centres furnish the most encouraging news yet received of business revival in New York, where the Merchant Association keeps a register of visiting merchants. It is stated that the opening day showed the past year's first day registration increased in ten years. The second day was the largest second day registration in ten years. Speaking of the bright outlook of the spring trade, the secretary of the Association said: The merchants had to come, as their stocks had run low. Some of the big Western houses have sold out almost all of the goods they had, and this means a great outflow of property. It means that at least 8000 out of town merchants and their representatives will buy goods here for the spring trade.

This testimony agrees with other evidence which promises a good outlook for business. There is no doubt that retail merchants throughout the country let their stocks run down very low last summer and fall. The financial condition made every body abnormal. There is every reason to believe that with the opening up of spring there will be a demand for goods which the retailer cannot supply and to meet which factories must again begin to run on full time. It takes time to recover from such depression as the country witnessed a few months ago, but the way matters are straightening out is certainly most encouraging.

EASY TO MIX TINS.

What will appear very interesting to many people here in the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, as formulated by a noted authority, who claims that he has found a positive remedy to cure almost any case of backache or kidney or bladder derangement, is the following simple prescription, if taken before the onset of Bright's disease.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained as a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic cases with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a powerful action upon the kidneys, stimulating and cleansing these most important organs and helping them to sift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause such ailments and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

Mrs. T. G. Willardson, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. For years I suffered with the worst forms of female complaints, continually doctoring and spending lots of money for medicine without help. I wrote you for advice, followed it as directed, and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has restored me to perfect health. Had it not been for you I should have been in my grave to-day. I wish every suffering woman would try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ailments and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

REFUTES OSLER'S THEORY

Dr. Campbell Thinks the Man Over Forty is Best

EXPERIENCE OF VALUE

Says the Man of Mature Judgment and Adequate Knowledge of the World is the Intellectual Asset of Every Civilized Community—Doctors and Lawyers.

"Whatever may be said to the contrary, the intellectual asset at least of every civilized community, is preponderated by the men who have reached the age of 40, not those before it."

Sitting quietly in his office at 36 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, Dr. William Francis Campbell, one of the most noted physicians of that borough, made this assertion to a representative of the New York Times in a manner that left no doubt as to his perfect feeling of certainty on the subject.

"During the practice of my profession I have come in contact with all sorts and conditions of people," he continued, "and I have been brought to the opinion by both observation and contact that the man of intellect, as opposed to the man of purely physical prowess, is the man who does things that are of lasting benefit to mankind."

"I believe this in the first place because a man in the intellectual world has not received the necessary amount of experience to make him of benefit to his fellow-man until he is at least forty. Experience, after all, is the one great teacher, the one method of gaining knowledge. Yes, I might add emphatically, the one method of obtaining wisdom, by a long shot."

"Then you think that it is wisdom and experience that count rather than the physical ability to forge ahead without regard to the barriers that might be thrown in the way and can only be overcome by a strenuous effort?"

"By all means."

"One might take, for instance, the medical profession. There are any number of physicians and surgeons in the world. Is it not apparent to the most casual observer that it is as a rule impossible for the man under 40 to have acquired the requisite amount of knowledge, experience, and wisdom in the profession, without having brushed up against the world and the various cases he is called upon to treat?"

"Yes, but are there not a number of eminent young surgeons in the country who have made names for themselves?"

"I grant you that. But, if you will look over the cases, they are largely of the kind that required physical prowess, or, rather, what one might call nerve, rather than a showing of knowledge. It might be said that these young men rush in where the older and wiser heads fear to tread."

"And of the man past forty?"

"The man past forty as a rule that is almost unbroken, is appealed to by the intellectual for the benefit of his experience. It can be safely said that the man in the medical profession who has reached the forty mark has at least seen, if not treated, all kinds of disease that may be brought to him. He has then the benefit of his past experience, and I can go ahead thoughtfully and intelligently."

"So much for the medical profession. What would you suggest as another set of men?"

"Well, you might take the members of the bar. Our counselors-at-law who are making names for themselves in the history of the country are the men who have practiced the profession for many years. Men who have gradually brushed up against the world and have by study and intelligent application placed to their credit in the bank of expertness a deposit that can constantly be drawn upon. They have a reserve that cannot be taken away from them, an asset that time and study constantly adds to."

"When a great railroad, a great corporation, a great institution of any kind has recourse to the courts, do you think it goes to the beardless youth fresh from the law college?"

"Suppose we take the great statesmen and the great politicians of the country. Can it be said that the great diplomats of the world have attained their positions before arriving at the age of 40? Far from it. I doubt if at the recent peace conference at The Hague there were among all the delegates half a dozen who had not won the right to appointment by virtue of an experience gained through a long course in the school of experience. And was this not proper?"

"That theory as propounded by Dr. Osler when he was at Johns Hopkins University has done an untold amount of harm. Yes, in many instances, a great deal of harm. It has taught the youth of the country that the fathers are little better off than nothing, that they are in the way, that they are old and useless men. It has taken from many a boy the reverence that he should have for age."

How to Mend a Stay. The oldest way to mend a broken corset or dress stay is to bind the top of the stay or where it is broken with a small piece of cambric skin. The end of the stay, it will be found, will not pierce through the cambric as it frequently does through cloth.

MR. CROKER'S BULL

Even in the Animal Kingdom There Are Some Who Hold sway.

"I attended the Derby in England," said a Chicagoan. "I was one of the first to congratulate Richard Croker on his victory."

"Afterwards I dined with him. I asked him if he did not find life in the country dull."

"Dull?" said the famous boss. "Not a bit dull. With crops and animals about you, especially with animals about you, life is never dull!"

He told me a little story on this head.

"He said an old Irishwoman was milking a cow one day when a bull charged straight down on her. She was not in the least alarmed. She kept on milking calmly. And to behold, the bull thundered on till he was within a few yards of her, and then, when everyone expected to see the old woman and the cow and the pail of milk knocked helter skelter, the bull suddenly stopped, turned tail and retreated meekly."

"But, Mary," said an onlooker, "how is it you didn't run? Weren't you scared?"

"Scared," said Mary. "Not a bit was I scared. Sure, an' ain't that cow the bull's mother-in-law?"

It Didn't Corner Him. City Superintendent of Education William Maxwell told a good story about a young medical friend of his who is interested in insanity symptoms and is a sort of amateur alienist.

The other day the student got a chance to visit one of the wards in the Asylum for the Insane at Matamoras, and having heard that there was a man confined there who labored under the hallucination that he was God, the student asked that he be allowed to see this patient first, as he appeared the most promising for investigation. He was taken to the ward where the lunatic was confined and the following conversation ensued:

Student—Are you the Deity? Lunatic—From everlasting unto everlasting I am he.

Student—Well, I've been looking for you for a long time. I have a question to ask you. How do you reconcile the doctrine of predestination and free will?

The lunatic drew himself up to his full height, and giving the medical a scornful glance, replied, "My dear Sir, I never talk shop."

It Was Late.

Gerald—"I'm going to kiss you when the clock strikes." Geraldine—"You'd better do it now; father will be down when he hears it striking."

The Game Warden's Story.

The game warden of Colorado was walking out in the mountains the other day when he met a hunter with a gun. The official suggested that that ought to be a good country for hunting.

"Certainly is," said the hunter proudly. "I killed one of the finest bucks yesterday I ever saw, and he weighed over 200." It was the season when deer may not be shot without subjecting the hunter to a heavy fine.

"Well, that is a fine one," said the warden, "and do you know who you are talking to?"

"Being assured that he did not, the official said: "Why, I am the chief game warden of Colorado."

The hunter was only taken aback a moment when he said: "And do you know who you are talking to?"

The warden did not know. "Well, sir," said the hunter, apparently much relieved, "you are talking to the biggest liar in the whole state of Colorado."—Kansas City Star.

—Some time since, according to a story recently told by an after dinner speaker, an old lady was taking her first ride on a railroad train when she noticed the cord of the emergency brake and asked a boy what it was for. The boy unhesitatingly said that it was the signal rope to the dining car, and that if she wanted anything to eat she would have to pull. Finally, getting hungry, the old lady pulled the rope and the train stopped with much suddenness.

Who pulled that rope?" cried the conductor, rushing into the car. "I did," answered the old lady.

"What did you do it for?" peevishly demanded the conductor. Don't ask so many foolish questions," returned the aged one, bring me a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee and forget it."—Sel

"Do you think there is any difference in a man's weight before he eats his meal and afterward?" asked the boarding house lady.

TERRIBLE ITCHING AND SCRATCHING

On Hands, Feet and Face—Caused by Poison Oak and Ivy—Was Unable to Rest Night or Day—Developed into Eczema, which Affected Whole of System—Suffered 4 Years Without Relief.

CURED BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"A healthy person does not heed statements made by sick people, but if such persons suffer from poisonous woods, a remedy is anxiously desired. I suffered severely for four years from poison oak and ivy. My condition was serious, as I could not rest night or day and be free from a terrible itching sensation from scratching on my hands between the fingers, my feet and face. I got the best of advice and treatment from six different doctors who were anxious to cure me. One of the doctors told me that when the poison was cured, eczema (a worse disease) would follow, which became true. My eyesight was affected, and I went to a hospital especially for the eyes and got relief, but eczema got a terrible hold on my system."

"I was about to give up all hope of ever being cured, yet I could not be reconciled to such results, as my health had been good and free from any disease all my life. My age is seventy-three years. In my extremity I happened to read of Cuticura Remedies for skin diseases, and wrote you to please send me a supply of the Cuticura Remedies. I was anxious about my condition and desired to evade any spurious imitation. This was in July, 1905, and I was instructed to call on a certain druggist for the Cuticura Remedies. I bought five boxes Cuticura Ointment; also some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Pills as I required them. In four weeks' treatment my face was smooth, and the itching gradually left my hands and feet and I could rest comfortably, for which I am grateful and happy. W. Field Cowen, Justice of the Peace and Notary Public, Hardy, Del., May 15, 1906."

The Mystery of the Border Trail

I had been down in the country around Alamos, Mexico, on a mining prospecting trip and had returned to Naco disgusted with my luck and determined to go on to Globe, Ariz., where I had a job offered me with a smelting concern. Naco lies square on the border between the two republics, and but for the watchfulness of the United States government customs inspectors and those officers who are charged with the enforcement of the immigration laws of this country, many would be the undesirable pilgrims who would cross into the land of Stars and Stripes. The Chinese are the hardest to watch. Their devious ways are past finding out, so the border inspectors say.

I had an outfit of two strong mules and a mountain road wagon, strong and very low frame, but light of movement. It was built to order and had a capacity sufficient to carry my supplies and over-testing and camping outfit. I was taking supper at a Chinese restaurant on the Mexican side of the town of Naco on the evening before my departure for Globe, when a mining acquaintance whom I had met at the board lunch counter asked me how I was going overland, and then proceeded to describe my wagon outfit to him.

I noticed that the Chinaman who was waiting on me seemed to be quietly interested in our conversation, but I thought nothing of it at the time. The next morning I hooked up my mules to the wagon and drove out of the wagon yard and started on my long trip to Globe. I made probably twenty miles the first day and went into camp at a likely spot for the night.

The feeling of loneliness which comes over the camper when the solitude of night falls on the Western plains is hard to describe. I relieved this feeling as best I could by having a good talk to my mules. With the supper over and after a good smoke I lay down by the fire and was soon asleep. The howl of a coyote or two was the only sound that came to my ears as I dropped off to sleep.

It must have been some time after midnight when I awoke with the feeling that a human being was somewhere close by. I glanced quickly around camp, and by the light of the dying embers of my campfire I saw a dusky form of what seemed to be a woman disappearing down into the gulch about fifty yards distant. I fired twice at the indistinct object with my pistol and then followed the direction which the person had taken as quickly as I could. No sign could I find of the mysterious visitor. I sat up until nearly daylight, with my gun in hand, awaiting a possible repetition of the visit, but I was not further disturbed.

When daylight came I found that several cans of meat and fruit had been opened and their contents devoured. Several slices of bacon which I had left in the frying pan were also gone.

"It's some poor devil of a Mexican, probably a hungry goat herder," I mused.

I still kept a watchful eye out, however, determined not to run the chance of being taken by surprise and probably murdered. I got an early start and made a good forty miles the second day.

It had been a tiresome day's journey over the rough stones of the foothill country, and I slept undisturbed throughout the night. The next morning I got to my feet and rolled up my blanket preparatory to fixing a snack of coffee and bacon for breakfast. I had not taken three steps when I was dumbfounded upon the scene of being taken by surprise and probably murdered. I got an early start and made a good forty miles the second day.

There was an uneasy feeling in me toward the spot after this second mystery and I lost no time in getting away from there. I had good roads the next day, and I was well on toward Globe by sundown that afternoon when I began to look around for a desirable camping place. The road was through a wild country, and not a human being had I seen all day. I was driving over toward a movie of a dead horse, with a view of making it my camping spot for the night, when over the brow of a hill not 200 yards in front of me rode two men on horseback.

They rode up and greeted me gruffly. "We've been roundin' up cattle for the Bar J ranch and are too far from the chuck wagon to get to it for supper, so if you don't mind, stranger, we'll fine in and bunk with you to-night," one of the men said.

Of course, I invited them to my hospitality and we were soon fixed up for the night. I found them very taciturn and noticed that they made a close long-range inspection of my rifle and pistol, which I kept by my side as I moved around camp getting supper and attending to my mules.

It must have been along toward 3 o'clock in the morning when, no longer able to keep my eyes on the two men who lay stretched on the other side of the dying camp fire, I had kept watch vigilantly up to that time. The man had apparently slept soundly. They were lying side by side. Their pistols were in their holsters, which they had not removed, and close at hand were their rifles. I had my pistol and rifle within easy reach.

brush close by awoke me with a start. My eyes immediately caught sight of one of the men, who was advancing toward me with his pistol leveled at my head. I made a quick movement with my hand to grasp my pistol.

"We've got you, pardner, don't lift that gun, or I'll get nervous and might hurt you," he said, as he continued to advance.

"I saw it was useless for me to attempt any defense, so I fell back on to my blanket helplessly.

"We're not going to kill you; at least that's not our present intention. Just dig up what stuff you've got and put us in possession of that outfit as we won't trouble you any further. Will we, Bill?"

"No, there's nothin' small about me and Jim," said Bill, as he walked up to where I was lying.

The men first took my pistol and rifle out of my hands and then they then began to search me and to search through my pockets. They built up the camp fire and counted the money with great glee.

"Now, I'll tell you, stranger, just what we're goin' to do with you," one of the men said to me, after they had counted and divided the money.

"It is about five miles over to the stage road that runs to Tucson. The semi-weekly stage will pass along that to-morrow evening. We are goin' to take you over there and then we'll send you on the stage, so that you will be seen and picked up when the stage comes long. By that time we'll be over in Mexico if them mules of yours are any good."

I muttered a protest about being left bound hand and foot on a desert road to die.

"You're gettin' off easy; if we hadn't found that 'bunch' of money on you our feelings might have been hurt, and when we get that way we hinger our guns mighty nervous. Don't we, Bill?"

Jim and Bill laughed long and loud at this rough and gawsome piece of wit.

They lifted me into the wagon and laid me down in its bed. Both men got down on the ground to fix something about the harness of the mules.

Suddenly the reports of two pistol shots rang out. The firing of the two shots was almost simultaneous. The reports came from under the wagon bed, directly beneath me.

Following the shots came an outburst of human gibbering such as I never heard before or since. I managed with an effort to rise partly to my feet, and looking in front I saw the two outlaws lying prostrate upon the ground, one on each side of the team of mules. The gibbering continued, and out from under the wagon crawled two of the dirtiest and most ragged specimens of Chinese I ever saw. When they saw me a grin spread over their round faces.

"We killer them blad mans, all right; them Melican lobbers; them may mal hombre," and with a confusion of terms and a Spanish mixture of languages they explained to me that they were concealed under the wagon bed and were witnesses to my capture and the events of the night.

They each had new pistols of 45-caliber and their several years' experience in the mining camps of western Mexico had taught them the perfect use of the weapons.

They admitted to me that they had hidden in their uncomfortable places under the wagon bed all the time from the moment they had slipped along my back and into the bed of the wagon and had quietly occupied them during the long trip. They took that means of gaining an unlawful entrance into this country.

The mystery of the disappearance of the canned meat and of the abandoned figure which I shot at two nights before was explained. The testicles had saved me from being robbed and had probably saved my life. Under these circumstances I did not feel like shirking gratitude to them by turning them over to the officers of the law. We looked over the remains of the two bandits. Both men had been shot through the heart. We buried them in that desolate spot.

I turned over the two horses of the dead outlaws to the two Chinamen, gave them each a beautiful supply of my provisions and told them to shift for themselves. I parted with them a few miles farther on.

Attracting Wild Geese by Fire. A "norther" in Oklahoma brought with it a heavy flight of wild geese and ducks. At Guthrie and other towns having electric street lights, geese circle all night in the illuminated mists, often flying so low as to be in reach of shotguns. A number of geese were killed.

An old hunter said that on such a night wild geese in high flight mistook these radiant spots in the darkness for water. Once in the light the geese quickly lost their bearings, became confused and seldom extricated themselves until daylight revealed the cause of their deception. "Knowledge of the attraction of fire beacons for wild geese on stormy nights was used to advantage by native sportsmen in Southern Kansas and the Northern Osage country where I lived in early days," said the hunter.

"As fall approached, a high landmark would be chosen by the hunter and on its top he would pile wood for a big fire. Then he waited for the storm that brought the geese. Lighted by his fire, his glare could be seen for miles. Geese were drawn to the spot by hundreds. I have known hunters to kill a wagonload of geese in a single night—Kansas City Times.

Against Japanese Customs. The Empress of Japan has been reading some European plays and she does not like them. She believes that they deal with forbidden subjects and must lead to dangerous meditations. The freedom with which women in them are represented is an expression of their opinions in public giving vent to their intimate sentiments and putting their handkerchiefs over their eyes and in the before people is said to strike her as quite incomprehensible.

A SENTIMENTAL BURGLAR

By Ernest Roemer.

He knew how to stretch lightly and "jimmy" the long French window in the dark corner of the veranda, so he must have understood his business. "No amateur burglar could have effected entrance into the house so neatly and surely.

And after he was in the room he exercised the same deliberate care, the seeming unconcern, and sat down by a smouldering fire to warm his hands. When he was comfortable he surveyed the room with an electric flash lamp, and then calmly ransacked the tall desk in the corner.

One drawer was locked, but he toolled this with ease and then, for the first time, evidenced excitement, scooped out its contents.

"Seventeen dollars," he muttered disdainfully. "Hardly worth taking." But he had no idea of leaving it, evidently, for he carefully stowed the bills in his vest pocket.

He continued his search of the room, picked up a trinket here and something there, all of which he placed in the middle of the table, preparatory to wrapping them together when his task was finished.

In one corner of the room, the glow and his flash lamp glistened on the shining, polished surface. He reached into the shadow and lifted a "cello into the dim light of the fire. After examining the instrument critically, he dropped its base to the floor and, as he did, swung it to and fro, seemed spidering. Then he looked at the instrument long and intensely and sat down in meditation. He unconsciously thumbed the strings and the touch evidenced a knowledge of the instrument.

"If I had a chance to run the bow over the strings for a minute or two," he muttered, "I might be able to toll it's worth. It's too big and suspicious a package to carry away at this time of the night, and then, after all, it may not be genuine."

After a short pause, he arose abruptly, like one with his mind made up. He walked softly and quickly to the door leading out of the room, closed it, went to the corner, and then returned to the instrument with the bow in his hand.

"I'll chance it," he said below his breath.

Softly—very softly—he drew the bow across the strings, and then, after tuning a little, he tested, with the anxiety of a purchaser, the qualities of the cello. If it was a good one, he would take it—If not, it was not worth the trouble and risk. Evidently he was hard pressed for money when he was quite willing to steal anything that might be converted into cash.

As he played, very low, a note seemed to catch a vein of song and climbed sweetly until it swayed in tender, sweet and trembling notes.

Sometimes it seemed that he was playing on the heart-strings of a woman, and she was weeping, more in sorrow than pain. Then again, he was conversing with his soul, and the melody ran on the strings until it found a man's voice and floated in the air. He laughed and cried, he sang and then moaned and all the time his lips parted, his head and body away and he seemed to be unconscious of where he was, how he came to be there, and of everything else.

He did not hear the door softly opened, nor did he see the figure of a young girl, her dark hair falling on the cloak she had thrown around her, and her face expressed wonderment, fear and admiration all at once. She stood immovably by the doorway, listening, and she, too, became lost in the wonderful melody produced by the burglarist. And then—

A coal in the fire grate snapped and with a nervous start, he leaped to his feet, turning about swiftly. Instinctively he knew that he was not alone in the room. The girl pressed her hands to her bosom, and shrieked against the wall. For fully a minute they surveyed each other and then, the girl, breaking the spell, made a movement toward the door as if to flee. He quickly raised his hand.

"Stop!" he said. "You need have no fear. I—I am sorry that I so far forgot myself as to arouse you." And he seemed ashamed that he had been so unprofessional.

"Who are you?" she cried. "And what are you doing here?" "I am a musician," he said bitterly, "makes no difference. As to why I am here, I was trying to better my condition with anything I might find." Pointing toward the window, he continued: "I came in there. I was fortunate enough to find this instrument in the corner and then I was fool enough to allow it to betray me. I guess it's about time I'm going."

"It's yours, isn't it?" he asked, simply.

She nodded her head, too frightened to speak.

"I guessed as much—otherwise I would take it with me. It's a grand instrument. Do you play it?"

Again she nodded, then, with effort, she hastily added:

"But not like you—not like you!" "You must study—study hard. You have the face of an artist."

He walked toward the window to depart, when recollecting himself, he took the $17 he had stolen from the desk and dropped it on a table.

He stepped onto the veranda and, before closing the window, he took a last look at the girl, who still stood like a statue near the door way.

"You must study hard," he said, and was gone.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Prevalence of Kidney Disease. Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease.

While kidney diseases are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physician, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage.

It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or had effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

THE IDEALS OF WASHINGTON AND LINCOLN

February the shortest month of the year, is noted in American history as the birth month of two of our most noted patriots and statesmen, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, the two men who represent the two great crises, and the two great periods of American history, one born in about ten years of the death of the other.

What our country owes to the distant acts and agencies of those two men is too well known and recognized for anyone to attempt to throw any new light on their careers and services to our people, yet it is eminently fitting that as each year rolls by, their memories be kept fresh in the heart of our great nation. Among the ancient races it was customary to celebrate the death-days of their great and illustrious men because greatness did not reach its climax at the cradle, but nearer the tomb, but we in America reverse this custom, and honor our great men on the day of birth, because, we suppose, that the idea of celebrating a birth-day is associated with the sadness that befalls to a "death-day" there the life is seen, and the cradle is seen, and the sepulchre.

While as may in a certain way comprehend and measure the outward phases of these men to our country, it is impossible to estimate the influence of their lives and character have had upon the formation of true, ethical ideals among our people. They were men who not only exerted a strong and dominant influence upon the people of their time, but whose influence on politics, statesmanship and morals has been felt by each succeeding generation as it passed, and whose influence will be felt on each generation to come, as long as this country continues to exist as a free and true democracy. When their influence begins to wane, when their virtues are no longer cherished, and when it can be said that the people of the Republic have lost which their fathers fought, who of, and for the Free State. Five politics and history have held the fall of the Roman Empire due to the loss by the people of its high ideals.

The probity of its early rulers gradually gave way before the corruption of its later dictators, the youth of the land had before him the bad example of dishonesty and sensual indulgence, to which pattern, they had to conform if they wished for preferment or success, as against the example of sacrifice, probity and ability that the youth in the earlier days of the Empire had as a model. Is it any wonder that the high ideals of the early age brought out so many patriots and public benefactors, or that the spectacle of corruption and dishonesty brought forth a race of money worshippers, selfish and degenerate?

Americans are known as a dyspeptic people. The extent of this disease may be inferred from the multitude of so-called "medicines" offered as a remedy. They are often in tablet form and have no value except as palliatives of the immediate effects of dyspepsia. The man who used them may feel better but is surely getting worse. They do not touch the real cause of the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine especially prepared to cure diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is not made to give temporary relief but to effect permanent cure. In ninety eight cases out of every hundred it cures perfectly and permanently.

Write to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. for free booklet giving all the ingredients contained in his medicine which have been so widely used for the last forty years, and the opinion of the highest medical authorities in the world. In Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the triple refined glycerine is used instead of alcohol to extract the medicinal virtues from the roots and prepare the same unimpaired in any way.

It has cost Dr. Pierce $25,000 to get away in the last year the copies of his Common Sense Medical Discovery, which have been appearing in the receipt of $1 one cent per copy express of mailing only. Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUSY AT ANNAPOLIS

Little Legislation, Lots Of Discussion And Agitation. State Local Option Prominent. Local Bills

This has been, in several ways a rather strenuous week at Annapolis. On Tuesday the friends of the general Local Option law descended upon Annapolis from all over the state, under the command of Mr. Anderson. Judging from the size of the delegation, and the enthusiasm of its members this bill has a large number of friends in the state. The special train which was chartered to take the delegation from Baltimore, and to be divided into three sections, and it is estimated that fully two thousand were in the party that made the trip to the ancient city, which they figuratively speaking, took charge of, filling the house to overflowing. Short but direct speeches were made by representative men of the delegation, but the biggest argument in favor of the bill that was produced was the size of the delegation asking for the passage of a local option law. Mr. Roscoe Jones spoke in behalf of Wicomico County, and made a very effective speech. The following Wicomico Counts, who were appointed at a temperance mass meeting held in the Court house Monday evening to represent the sentiments of the meeting were present: Messrs. L. W. Gandy, U. W. Dickerson, W. J. Downing, Jas. E. Ellegood, F. L. Waller, E. S. Atkins, W. A. Crew, Rev. W. S. Phillips, W. T. M. Beale.

Appointments. This was also the week when the Governor sent down his "green bag" and as a consequence much of joy and perhaps more sorrow was seen around the old State houses, as there were a great many applicants for all the places to be given out, and as only one out of each list could be chosen, the disappointed ones were in a large majority. United States Senator elect John Walter Smith has sustained his reputation of standing by his friends through "thick and thin" and it is believed that he is satisfied with the appointments made. Hon. W. Laird Henry captured the prize of Land Commissioner, which seemed to be the only place that Wicomico County was making any real effort to land. Mr. Henry succeeds Hon. E. Stanley Towdvin, who was a candidate to succeed himself, and who it is generally admitted made a most excellent record for himself during his eight years service as Land Commissioner.

As for the legislative side of the week, it seems to be standing still as far as outside observation can tell. The Corrupt Practice bill has apparently made no more progress, neither has the General Primary Election law, all the interest at Annapolis seemed to have been centered on the Governor's appointments, and the public hearing of the friends of the Local Option Bill, and in legislation for the different counties of a local nature only. Several bills have been introduced dealing with the oyster question. Mr. Willing, of Wicomico has introduced a bill bearing on the oyster situation in Wicomico, such we understand is the nature of the bill. We have not seen a copy of same.

Other Local Bills. To do away with the uncertainty that now exists as to the exact testimony given in court by witnesses during the trial of cases, Senator Price at the suggestion of the Bench and bar of this judicial district has introduced a bill providing for the employment of a court stenographer at a salary of $1000 per year—this will mean a cost of $250 per county, as there are four counties in this judicial district. It is believed that the creation of this office will be of great help to our courts and that the expense will be fully justified by the benefits received. Senator Price has also introduced a bill to incorporate the Wicomico Electric and Power Company, the purpose of which is to construct a trolley system in the county connecting every important point. If this is not like several other companies they have been incorporated in the past for similar purposes, but never so far as incorporation, it will prove of the greatest benefit to our community. The incorporators mentioned in the bill, comprise in its lists some of our best business men. They are named as follows: L. W. Dorman, W. B. Miller, A. W. Robinson, E. G. Davis, H. James Messtok, M. V. Brewington, W. M. Cooper, A. A. Gillis, W. S. Lowe, W. J. Staton, G. C. Bounds. Another bill introduced by Sen. Price provides for the appropriation of $50,000 for the purpose of building a state road from the Delaware line to the Virginia line on the south. The proposed road to start from Delmar passing through Salisbury, thence to Princess Anne then to the Virginia line via Pocomoke City. This will make the road pass through the three counties of Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester. The bill provides for the expenditure of $50,000 for each of three years and the road is to be known as state road No. 3. In case the legislature passes the Good Road Bill, the provisions of this bill can be incorporated therein.

Wilmington Methodists are busy preparing for the session of the conference which is to be held in Annapolis, beginning March 18th. The first session of the conference was held in that church and there has been one held there since then, this one making the third session held in historic old Annapolis.

The handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Towdvin on corner of Williams Street and Park Avenue, was the scene of a very enjoyable "Washington's Birthday party" given by the Ladies afternoon Euchre club, on Friday evening. Various games, including whist, euchre and blitz were engaged in by the members of the club and their guests until a late hour. Prizes were awarded the winners. After the games were over and the winners declared elaborate refreshments were served: Over fifty guests were present. The members of the club are: Mrs. W. S. Gordy, Mrs. C. E. Harper, Mrs. Irving Powell, Mrs. Graham Gunby, Mrs. S. King White, Mrs. J. M. Dick, Mrs. D. J. Wheaton, Mrs. Lloyd Watson, Mrs. R. D. Grier, Mrs. W. U. County Commissioners' Proceedings.

At the session of the County Commissioners Tuesday, the Commission ordered the new road engineer to begin work on the two miles of stone road to be built under the Shoemaker Act, by the County from Salisbury to Quantico. He will begin work at once. He was also ordered to proceed at once to build a brick culvert under the shell road leading from Salisbury to Tony Tank, near the former residence of W. F. Allen.

George K. Owens was appointed Constable for Sharpwood District, and R. E. Smith Constable for Tyaskin District. Both filed their bonds which were accepted.

Messrs. Locates, Tingle and Layfield, of Parsons District were before the Commissioners asking for a new road to be built to shorten the distance from Melson's to Delmar, and filed their petition. Messrs. E. E. Freeny, James H. West, and H. M. Clark were appointed Commissioners on same.

Joseph K. Waller was appointed Constable for Delmar District. James W. Oalloway was appointed road supervisor for Delmar District.

The report of the Commissioners on new road in Barron Creek District from Wright's old mill to end of Holme's Lane was finally ratified.

The report on a new road in Tyaskin District was filed and the final ratification notice ordered published.

HINTS OF Ladies' Fall And Winter SHOES

If we had but one style at each price, we could tell you of them all. But with a dozen or so of variations at each figure, how can we? It's for you to fix your price mark, then come here to be satisfied. If you want a shoe at $3.00, you won't need to look at a single shoe of a different price. Something in our $3.00 line will be sure to please you. Three dollars is a favorite price with a good many women, but unless they have bought here they don't know the full possibilities of $3.00. Our $3.50 shoes are smart enough and good enough for almost any foot. But if you want positively the most elegant and luxurious footwear that can be built, the most exclusive styles, the finest leathers—why pay $4.00 or $4.50 and get it all. We would like to have every lady in town and surrounding towns and counties bring her shoe ideas right in here. Yours for best styles, E. Homer White Shoe Co.

"This Side Up" Joke.

That railroad companies in New York State must observe the injunction "This side up" when it is placed on a freight package has been decided by the Court of Appeals.

The decision comes in a suit brought by Stephen M. Hoyt against the Pennsylvania Railroad for $550, the value of a number of electric batteries which were damaged in transit because the railroad paid no attention to the printed warning on the box.

When he went to the Railroad Company for a settlement Mr. Hoyt says he was told that railroad men had long ceased to pay any attention to such an injunction and that it was considered a joke to them.

The suit has been in the courts for four years.

DOCTORS PRESCRIBE SULPAUR.

But Sulphur Should Be Used in Liquid Form Only.

"Hancock's Liquid Sulphur is the most wonderful remedy for Eosema I have ever known," writes Dr. W. W. Leake, of Orlando, Fla., who was cured of a case of yers standing. Dr. W. A. Heard, of Maitland, Fla. was cured of Eosema after he had suffered for thirty years and says "Hancock's Liquid Sulphur is the finest remedy for all skin troubles he has ever used or prescribed."

Doctors everywhere prescribe it, but they say Sulphur should be used in liquid form only, as it is in Hancock's Liquid Sulphur.

Price of Coal in Irkutsk.

Consul Paul Nash of Vladivostok makes the report that the wholesale price of coal in Irkutsk varies from $3 to $3.45 per ton of 2,000 pounds, while the retail price is 1 kopeck per coal, or 25 cents per ton, more. All the coal used comes from 11 mines not distant from Irkutsk, most of which are situated on or near the line of the Trans-Siberian railway. The quality of these coals is said to be uniform, or nearly so, and fairly satisfactory for steam and domestic purposes. The prices of firewood vary considerably, according to the season and the cost of transportation, and are generally very low. Owing to the cheapness of coal brick stoves are not used at all.

In South Australia it costs the railway companies $50,000 a year to remove the vegetation that grows on the permanent ways.

Types of "Phobias."

There is a class of well-defined "phobias," as they are called, with which nerve sufferers are plagued. "Monophobia," or fear of being alone; "astrophobia," or fear of closed-in spaces; "gustrophobia," or fear of crowds; or "dromophobia," or fear of going to sleep, and many others. The one great remedy for these and similar mental ills is the "Phobias" cure.

A VERY BOLD, BOLD MAN

"I hate a bashful man!" she suddenly cried.

And as for him, his teeth chattered, he turned as red as a poony, dropped his handkerchief, picked it up, and wiped the perspiration from his brow.

"No-o," he gulped.

"No," she cried, "you're a great, bold thing, and there are times when I'm afraid of you. Oh, you!"

"Yes," he said, "I—I know I am."

"Now you take some men," she orlaly continued, "they make a girl tired. They sit away off in a corner and they look scared to death."

She moved to the end of the table and gave him an encouraging look as he sat over in his corner—a look that said "a-hem!"

"That's right," he murmured.

He dropped his handkerchief again, coughed, picked it up, dropped his eye-glasses, picked them up, and feebly moistened his lips.

"Of course," she said, "there are some men who aren't up to such things. They don't know how to pick up the family album and ask whose picture this is? But you—you know!"

"There's an old family album on the center table," she briskly mentioned.

"Yes, I—I was looking at it the other night while I was waiting for you."

She smothered a sigh, got up, fetched the album and sat down again.

"This one!" she cried.

"No, it isn't."

"Is it the lady in the crinoline?"

"No, sir."

"Which one is it, then?"

"Can't you come and see?"

Swallowing hard he went over to see and she made room for him in such an ostentatious way that down he sat beside her.

"Why?" he said in surprise, "it is the old man with the dog."

She gave him a look and turned another page. "Can't you wait until I get to it?" she reproached him.

"I beg your pardon," said he.

"Oh, that's all right."

"I'm awfully sorry," said he.

"Oh, don't mention it."

"I hope you won't think I was intentionally rude."

"Oh, not at all, Mr. Hoppergrass. Ah, here it is!"

"That's my grandfather and grandmother the day they were married."

He dropped his eyeglasses; she helped him pick them up; and then they looked at the picture again.

"Yes, sir," she said; "bride and bridegroom. Think of that; bride and bridegroom!"

He thought of it.

"You can see the pattern of the lace on the bonnet if you look close," she said.

BLOOD WILL TELL.

He knew the Men He Wanted By Their Fine Old Noses.

Not in a thousand years will blood forget blood. The column had been winding all the morning through open country. Now it was approaching close woods and high grass.

The captain of the company, acting as advance guard, knew that trouble was probably lying ahead.

He called to his pet sergeant—the man he had been saving through all the day for the time when a "best" man was needed.

"Sergeant O'Hara," he said, "I want you to pick out from the company any six men you choose and go ahead. You can have anybody you want—only choose the best you know. I think we will be fired on from those low hills."

Sergeant O'Hara's eyes searched the company.

"Sullivan!" he called. "McCarthy, O'Donnell, Moriarty, McGinnis!" He hesitated. His glance wandered uneasily up and down the line. Big, honest Sweden, burly Teutons, lanky Yankees there were in plenty. But where—oh, yes, there on the left of the line—that bright-eyed, pug-nosed, red-headed little beggar, nodding and imploring attention with his twisted-up face.

The sergeant's brow cleared.

Hesekiah and the Mosquito.

"By gosh! but Uncle Hesekiah is down on them Washington officials," said the old farmer with the big scythe.

"What is the trouble?" inquired the windmill repairer.

"Why, you see, them Washington folks sent out a circular saying that 'sketchers could be killed with kerosene.'"

"What happened then?"

"Most everything happened, see, Uncle Hesekiah tried the experiment. He hunted around half the morning and broke his suspenders before he could catch a live 'skeeter. Then when he did catch one he took him out in the yard and ducked his head down in a big can of kerosene."

"While Uncle Hesekiah was bending over the sun reflected through the corner of his spectacles and set fire to the oil. Before Uncle Hesekiah could get away it burned off half his whiskers and exploded his celluloid collar. And worst of all, Uncle Hesekiah isn't sure whether the 'skeeter was killed or not."

Wanted to Experiment.

"For several winters past my wife has been troubled with a most persistent and disagreeable cough, which invariably extended over a period of several weeks and caused her many sleepless nights," writes Will J. Hayner, editor of the Burley, Colo., Bulletin.

"Various remedies were tried each year, with no beneficial results. In November last the cough again put in an appearance and my wife, acting on the suggestion of a friend, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The result was indeed marvelous. Explaining It.

"Mebbe," suggested Rube Robbins, "they're goin' to have the tow-path asphalted. That runs inter a heap o' money."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Just a Hint.

An Irish provincial paper recently printed the following notice: "Whereas Patrick O'Connor lately left his lodgings, this is to give notice that if he does not return at once and pay for the same he will be advertised."

Danger From Electricity.

If your dwelling is electrically lighted never place wood, clothes or other inflammable material against the wires meters or switches; never use an electric wire as a clothesline, and see to it that your dwelling is kept free from rats, as these pests often gnaw the insulation from the wires, and amount of loss from "electric fires" in the United States is one year, according to the Saturday Evening Post, it $10,000,000.

Ducks Killed By Storm.

With 700 wild ducks piled about them and all secured without the expenditure of one cent for ammunition, the good people of Hog Island were a happy lot last Saturday morning says the Eastern Shore Herald. The night before there was a terrific storm. The wind howled about the tower of the lighthouse; a heavy dense cloud seemingly enveloped the light, and it literally rained ducks—of the brant species. The seeming clouds were immense flocks of ducks—thousands of them. The upper deck of the light was covered with the toothsome birds. It was a veritable battle of the birds against the elements.

Attracted and blinded by the lights the birds dashed against the sides of the light structure, only to fall on the deck or ground, dead or stunned.

A similar scene was enacted at Hog Island some seven or eight years ago, when the residents captured hundreds of ducks and geese in a like manner.

Hog Island light is 85 feet high and is the most powerful one between Cape May and Hatteras.—Ex.

DOWNWARD COURSE.

Fast Being Realized By Salisbury People.

W. A. Foreman, living at the Norris Hotel, Easton, Md., says: I never obtained so much benefit from any remedy as I did from Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered for some time with inactive kidneys, irregularity of the secretions and pains through my back. At times the secretions would be too profuse and at other times scanty, but there was always the desire to void them. My back was very weak with a constant pain across my loins and sides and any sudden movement would cause sharp painful twinges to shoot through my back to my shoulders. I was treated by a physician and used many different remedies, but could not find relief. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at a drug store and a short use with this remedy brought me relief. A continued use of Doan's Pills effected a complete cure, and I have had no return of the trouble since."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE SKATING RINK

To Afford A Social Centre To The People Of Salisbury Under Tennis Auspices. Entertainments.

Wide circles of interest have awakened in the skating rink for March. The Men's Tennis Association in conjunction with a similar Association on the part of the ladies suspended operations the first five days of this week that they might not be any interference to the public revival meetings which were held at the Court House the evenings of this week excepting Saturday, to-night.

The term now under the auspices of the Association begins today, Feb. 29, and runs to, including Saturday, March 28th.

During this time the Rink is expected to be made the general rendezvous and meeting place of Salisbury society, where the people can assemble or join their friends, watch the skates, view the moving pictures, and the bowling or participate in the amusements as they please.

Entertainments of varying character enlightening and instructive will be given on special evenings. There is now in process of arrangement a test of polo between Easton and Salisbury and Dover and Salisbury.

Tonight (Saturday) The Rink will ring with fun. A three legged race never before had here will be presented and a comic spectacle witnessed by the audience.

Wednesday and Friday evenings of next week, March 4th and 6th, some special features will be arranged for.

Highest score on bowling alleys received each week $1.25; second highest 75 cents.

Highest score on duck pins each week receives $1.35; second highest 75 cents.

Delegate Timmons Introduces Bill For Growers and Packers.

Delegate Ernest B. Timmons, of the Wicomico delegation, has a bill before the General Assembly which is of considerable interest to the growers and packers of Wicomico County. It is a local bill for Wicomico, although its provisions may be extended to some of the other counties in the State. The provisions of the bill are as follows:

"That all shippers and sellers of all fruits and vegetables in Wicomico county, shall be compelled to stamp or mark all baskets, boxes, barrels, packages, crates, parcels or other receptacles used by them for the shipment or sale of any fruit, fruits or vegetables, with his, her or their names or initials, or with some distinguishing device or mark which may be readily and easily read and seen on the same, before such fruit, fruits or vegetables shall be offered for shipment or sale, and if any shipper or seller shall fail to comply with the provisions of this section, he, she or they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall pay a fine of five dollars. Said fine to be applied to the Public School fund for Wicomico county. But nothing in this act shall apply to packers selling in quantities less than a full package."

Mr. Timmons gives as his reason for the passage of this bill that it will be a great incentive to growers to pack their fruits and produce properly. Many cars of berries and fruits are made to sell in the cities far below their real value because some careless shipper has packed his fruit badly and has faulty fruit in his packages. At present there are no names on many of these packages and it is hard to tell who is shipping the bad stuff.

THE BUSINESS MEN

To Form Association For Protection And Encouragement Of Trade.

Preliminary steps were taken at a meeting of some of the leading Salisbury merchants in the City Hall Wednesday evening for the formation of a union organization for the promotion of business and the general progress of commerce, to serve in effect as a City Board of Trade, to pass upon and adjust local matters to the betterment of all concerned and to further in any practical way the establishment of manufacturing establishments, and to encourage the commercial growth and importance for our city.

At Wednesday's meeting the following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Association:

That no discount be allowed the clergy except to the clergyman himself and those of his immediate family.

That in the case of dealers wholesale price of goods is not to be given unless goods to the amount of $5 is purchased, except in the case of unbroken packages.

Above resolutions to take effect March 2, 1908.

The Association will hold another meeting the Council Chamber of the City Hall Tuesday evening at which a full organization will be effected.

MAKEMIE PACK

Notice has been issued by the Post Office Department, as well as by the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad Co., announcing that the name of the station at Bloomtown, which is located at Accomac County, Va., will, on and after Monday, Feb. 24, be changed to "Makemie Park."

There is rather an interesting history in connection with this change. It has been brought about mainly through the instrumentality of Rev. Henry C. Cook, D. D. President of the Presbyterian Historical Society in the U. S. A. Mr. Cook, on a recent visit to the Eastern Shore of Virginia found the unmarked grave of Rev. Francis Makemie, who was the chief founder of organized Presbyterianism in America in 1705, and was the first Moderator of General Assembly.

Dr. Makemie died at his home on Holden's Creek, Accomac County, Va., in 1781, and was buried there in the family lot, and with funds raised by Dr. Cook this lot was purchased and suitably enclosed, and a monument has been erected which will be dedicated on a date to be determined upon, probably in May, next, at which time it is expected that representative members of the Presbyterian Church all over the country will be present and take part in the exercises.

A RARE OCCASION

The Presentation Of "Private Secretary" At Uman's Opera House Replete With Success. Heartily Applauded.

The people of Salisbury were given a rare treat in the "Private Secretary" produced by local talent in the Opera House, on Monday and Tuesday evening. While the play itself is almost without a plot, yet it is filled from beginning to end with ludicrous situations and laughable incidents that held the close attention of the audience throughout the play. Not a single scene was allowed to drag but all moved along with a smoothness not often seen in amateur performance, each incident appropriately leading up to the situation to follow, and fitting in with it so closely and naturally as to give the whole a very realistic effect.

Mr. P. N. Anstey had the play in charge and looked after the entire training as well as the details which go so far in adding effect to performances they had been thoroughly trained in their various characters, and the audience expressed their appreciation of Mr. Anstey's work by an insistent call for him at the close of one of the scenes, and would not let up until he came forth and bowed his acknowledgements.

The play opened with a scene in a lodging house in London, where young Cattermole had his rooms, which were presided over by his landlady who was well represented by Mrs. Whimper, and then shifts to the country home of Mr. Marshall, who was represented by Dr. Br. Remark, who made an excellent country gentleman with a very attractive daughter and niece who were represented by Misses Louise Perry and Annie Dashiell respectively and whose acting with young Cattermole Mr. Raymond K. Truitt in the song and dance act was one of the leading hits of the evening. The music of their song was composed especially for the play by Mr. Clarence White and the words by Mr. Anstey, and was a decided success.

Mrs. John M. Toulson in the character as governess, and believer in spiritualism, met with hearty applause and commendation, especially in the "Ghost Scene" when the power of concentration expressed in her face when by force of will she was calling the spirit to her side, was remarkable, together with her motions "of swimming through the air" at the same time.

Mr. Ralph Grier acted the part of Footman in a typical manner, and Mr. Louis Humphreys well played the part of an officer of the law.

Mr. W. S. Gordy, Jr., as a fashionable tailor with social ambitions, brought down the house in the scene where the wife at a gentleman's table proved too much for a tailor's head, making him forget his assumed position as gentleman and take up the natural bent of his mind on tailoring. His "drunk" was very realistic, and his appropriate appearance in the ghost scene was an unexpected and pleasing climax, that set the house wild with enthusiasm.

Messrs. Raymond K. Truitt and Harry Ruark in their characters of "sporting young gentlemen" took their roles, exceedingly well, and Mr. Truitt's singing in the song and dance scene referred to before, was one of the features of the evening.

But though all the others took their parts well, the crown of the acting must be given to Mr. A. M. Jackson, and Mr. Clarence White, in their respective characters. Mr. Jackson, as that of an old time sport, with ginger and sporting proclivities as fresh as when he was younger, and Mr. White in that of "The Private Secretary." Both had difficult parts to play, and were much in evidence—one filled with life and vitality, the other with lassitude, and an undoubtedly strong natural inclination for quietude and rest, which it is needless to say was not his lot in the play.

It is impossible to properly describe the ludicrous positions that were constantly popping up one after another, but it is sufficient to say they were carried out in a manner that reflected credit on the acting of all and it is seldom that a more appreciative audience greets a play.

The actors and acting were applauded over and over again, and were compelled to come to the front several times during the evening, and the play was unanimously classed as one of the greatest successes that had ever been produced by local talent in Salisbury. It was given, under the auspices of Mrs. E. Stanley Towdine and Miss Irma Graham, for the benefit of the Peninsula General Hospital, and it is understood was quite a success from a financial standpoint as well. The Company under the management of Mr. Anstey will produce the play at Dover, Delaware, on Tuesday evening of next week, for the Home for the Aged.

NEWS FROM ANNAPOLIS.

Local Option, Good Roads, General Election And Primary Election, Corrupt Practice Act.

This has been the busy week at Annapolis for the Temperance Committee especially. Those favoring the saloon have held the center of the stage and the week has largely been given up to public hearings of the whiskey men, and the associations allied with them in their fight against the Local Option Bill—two days having been devoted by the committee to this purpose. The first fight, in the House came off Tuesday when Mr. Roscoe Jones, of Wicomico, who has charge of the Local Option Bill, moved that the Temperance Committee, report the bill to the House, favorably, unfavorable or without recommendation by Tuesday of next week. In making this motion, Mr. Jones called attention to the short time there would even then be for the passage of the measure in House and Senate in the thirty days before adjournment. This move was opposed by Mr. Dawkins, the chairman of the committee on temperance, on the ground of its being a reflection on his committee. The motion was lost. It developed in the debate that preceded this vote that Mr. Jones of Wicomico would have able assistance on the floor, in pressing the measure as Mr. Jones of Worcester and Mr. Stanford of Somerset rallied to his support. Gov. Crothers this week signed the Worcester county Law giving the people the right to vote on whether or not liquor should be sold. The vote will be taken on March 21st.

Good Roads Bill.

Mr. Benson offered his good roads bill this week. This bill which it is understood has the approval and support of Gov. Crothers and the members of the special committee the good roads question provides for a loan of $5,000,000. The time of expenditure is limited to seven years, and the amount to be spent each year is not to exceed one million a year. The loan is to be issued at periods at a rate of interest not to exceed 5% per cent per annum. The tax to meet this loan is fixed as follows 2 cts. for 1909, 3 1/2 cts. for 1910, 4 1/2 cts. for 1911, 5 1/2 cts. for 1912 and thereafter 6 cents. The work of building the roads is put in the hands of a commission consisting of six members, one from each congressional district lying wholly or partly outside of Baltimore City, one from Baltimore City and one at large. The salary of each commissioner is fixed at $2000 with exception of the chairman who shall receive $3000. In addition the commission shall employ an engineer at a salary of $8000 per annum. The commission is supreme in all matters, and has the right to condemn property, including tarpaulin roads.

General Election Bill.

Mr. Lehman's bill to correct and remove some of the technicalities surrounding the marking of the ballots has been favorably reported. It has however been amended so as to leave only the question of the cross marks extending beyond the square. The bill originally provided for improper filling, and the validity of the votes for all other candidates but the ones duplicated when too many candidates were voted for, and intended to apply to Baltimore City alone. On motion of Mr. Stanford who wishes the bill to apply to entire state it was made special order for Monday night.

Primary Election Law.

No progress seems to have been made as to the passage of a primary election law, by the democrats. There seems to be objection on the part of some to the passage of such a law now, although the promise of so doing was made in the Democratic Platform, and on the stump all over the state. Gov. Crothers has expressed the wish that all the promises of the Democrats last fall be lived up to, and in the case of the Corrupt Practice Bill he is credited with forcing a caucus on the measure. It is expected that he will also make an effort to see that a good primary law is enacted.

Corrupt Practice Bill.

A caucus was held by the Democrats on the Corrupt Practice Bill, Thursday night, and after a long debate a bill was framed, which was adopted by the caucus, which also ordered the bill as passed to be reported out of the committee. This means that the Democratic pledge on a corrupt practice bill will be redeemed. About 25 amendments were made to the bill, as originally introduced, each of these amendments it is claimed, tending to render the bill more effective. One of the most important changes in the bill is that it gives either side to a contest in regard to the invalidating of the election on the grounds of bribery, the right to ask for a jury trial instead of having it decided by the court. Sen. Blair Lee offered a number of amendments, but only succeeded in getting two amendments adopted. Sen. Harper of C... offered the

FIGHT IN WORCESTER

Warm. Anti-Saloon vs. Saloon People Enthusiastic. Many Large Meetings. Wicomico Helping Aids.

There was a great gathering of people in Dierckson's Hall, Berlin, Md., Feb. 26th, when L. W. Gunby, Esq., of Salisbury compared the conditions of Wicomico County under liquor license and local option. He produced facts which should rob the fancy we have been hearing. He says the moral, social and financial conditions have all improved. The taxable base has increased $400,000 which accounts for the decrease in the tax rate. The people are now enjoying their earnings in personal and real estate instead of throwing it away for whiskey. The schools have longer terms and better paid teachers and are giving greater results without an increase of assessment. Salisbury has grown 50 per cent in four years and is in a flourishing condition and the whole county has participated in the benefits which date from the abolition of the saloon—better roads, better farming, better labor, better people are some of the results. Mr. Gunby is well and favorably known by the people and statements declared by him are taken for facts.

Rev. E. T. Liddell, of Chincoteague Va., followed with a burst of eloquence, aratory and logic seldom heard in these rural districts, and he drove conviction home to many hesitating consciences. His 450 audience was convulsed at his witicism, as dissolved in tears at the pathos of the incidents cited to illustrate the horrors of the rum traffic; rapt attention was given him. He will speak in Berlin at 2.30 and at Newark at 7.26 Sunday March 1st. Try to hear him.

Meetings Held During The Week.

St. Martin's Station, Thursday evening, Rev. E. T. Liddell, Ironsides, Thursday, D. P. Sanderlin, Stockton, Wednesday, Rev. Ralph T. Courney, Bishopsville, Thursday, Frank P. Jones, Taylorville, Monday, D. P. Sanderlin, Girdletree, Thursday, Rev. P. Holland, Ebenezer, Friday, Rev. E. T. Liddell, Whaleyville, Thursday, E. T. Liddell, Spow Hill, Thursday, Evening, Dr. Young, of Salisbury, Ky., and Rev. Ralph T. Courney, Synopent Church, Friday evening, P. Sanderlin, Friendship, Friday evening, Rev. McDowell, Pocomoke City, Tuesday evening addressed by John P. Holland, Robert Grier and Ralph T. Courney, at Parnellville School House Thursday evening meeting addressed by Dr. E. J. Dierckson and Wm. G. Karbin, John P. Holland and Hon. L. H. Stanford, Pocomoke City, Saturday.

Meetings have been arranged for next week as follows:
Rev. George Bonds, at Stockton, March 1st, Whaleyville, Rev. Frank Faulkner, on the evening of March 5th, at Berlin, John P. Holland, Saturday afternoon, Public Mass Meeting to be addressed by the ministers of the town, Thursday evening March 5th, speakers to be announced later. Rev. Alfred Smith has been holding meetings during the week at different points.

These meetings have been well attended and polite attention given by the audience. Great enthusiasm is animating the people to rise up, wipe out the blight that is destroying happy homes, paralyzing the arm of Justice, impoverishing and nullifying the beneficent influence of the Church. We shall win. The people are arising and in their might will throw off the smothering coils of this monster—the saloon.

"WANTED: The services of an intelligent young man of good address who is desirous of learning the plant business, to assist one of our representatives in canvassing the town of Salisbury. Permanent position in right party. Please state age, whether married or single, salary expected and give us at least three references. Address: Chas. M. Stief, 2 E. Liberty Street, Baltimore.

Fruit Growers Bill.

Mr. Ernest B. Timmons, of Wicomico, has introduced a bill that is considerable interest to fruit growers and shippers of our county. This bill provides for the labeling and marking of all packages used by the growers and sellers of all fruit, fruits or vegetables, with either the name or initials of the shipper or grower, and some other distinguishing mark, which will enable it to be identified. The object of this bill is to make the growers and packers of berries and fruits and vegetables to use more care and it is claimed that it will be a strong tendency to improve the quality of goods shipped, this is a better market for Wicomico produce to comply with the provisions of this bill is made a misdemeanor, and is punishable with a fine of $5, and to be applied to the County Public School fund, and then selling the same in packages are common.

Various amendments adopted at the caucus.

WOMAN'S BACKACHE

The back is the mainspring of woman's organism. It quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells, with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in the limbs, weight in the lower part of the body, that a woman's feminine organism needs immediate attention.

In such cases the one sure remedy which speedily removes the cause, and restores the feminine organism to a healthy, normal condition is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Will Young, of Columbia Ave., Rockland, Me., says:

"I was troubled for a long time with dreadful backaches and a pain in my side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to try it; after taking three bottles I can truly say that I never felt so well in my life."

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had very severe backaches, and grinding-down pains. I could not sleep, and was miserable in every way. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a new woman."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

BEING GRACIOUS

A WOMAN'S CLUB GOES BACK TO GRANDMA'S DAYS.

The Members Will Try the Old Fashioned Ways of Life—Politeness at Home and in Public Made Necessary to Avoid a Fine.

A great shock is in store for the traveling public of New York city. It may not come to-day or to-morrow or the next day, but there won't be long to wait. "Our Grandmothers" has reorganized and is at present busy mapping out its campaign.

Be it understood that "Our Grandmothers" is built around a brand new idea which according to its organizers will first shock and then revolutionize the city of New York. Last winter and for several previous winters the members had a club devoted to Bridge—written with a capital B. Because the tri-weekly meetings consumed several hours they always had a luncheon that included champagne. It was an ideal club, at least the members thought so, until a real grandmother arrived in New York from South Carolina. She was a lovely, silver haired, soft voiced grandmother and as she knew how to play bridge she was invited to a meeting of the club.

"That was our last meeting, at least the last meeting of the club as we then understood it," declared the president of the new club. "She was such a sweet, lovely old lady, with such charming manners that we forgot her age and that she was not one of us. Things went on as usual, a number of checks changed hands and several of the girls drank more champagne than was good for them. I don't know just how it began, but the first I knew of it our guest was taking her leave.

"Her manner was just as gracious and charming as ever, but there was just a faint suggestion of her feeling out of place. We objected, begged her to remain, and some of us began to apologize and explain. She stopped them and said that she alone was to blame.

"In my young days," she said. "We used to say that we had to be careful where we took our daughters. Now it seems that the shoe is on the other foot and you girls have to be careful where you take your grandmothers. I didn't realize how much the world had changed.

"From that we began to persuade her to stay and tell us about our grandmothers. I couldn't repeat another word she said, but I know that when she finished life for me at least had changed its aspect. I had come to feel that if my husband did not attain his ambition it would be because of my lack of sympathy. If my children did not turn out to be the men and women I wished them to be it would be from my lack of care. If my servants were not faithful and happy the blame would be on my shoulders. And even the people I met on the streets, on the cars, if they did not treat me courteously the fault was all mine.

"I can't think she scolded or lectured us. Not at all. She sat there among us and told us about the grandmothers she had known. Some of them were the mothers of men whom we knew about, men who have made their mark in the world. It was a charming, gossipy bit of reminiscence and all of us were interested, not only because of her subjects but the intimate way in which she told her anecdotes, making them apply to us.

"When she left we all left with her and I for one never intended to attend another meeting of the club. The next afternoon I had a telephone call from a fellow member, a woman several years younger than myself and whom I had known before her marriage. She said that she wanted to reorganize the club and asked me to come the next afternoon to a meeting at her house for that purpose. That old lady's words had sank pretty deep in my mind and it took quite a little argument for me to promise.

"It was at that meeting that our Grandmothers organized. The young woman who had called us together made a little speech. 'We all love our husbands better than we do bridges,' she began, 'and those of us who have children know how dear their futures are to us. Then let us follow our grandmothers' examples and prove our love.'

"That is the aim of our club, to prove that we love and have the best interests of our homes and our families at heart.

To Prevent Rust. If the vessel in which the clothes are washed, steamed or boiled becomes rusty at the bottom, spots of rust are apt to form on the garments. This may be prevented by cutting out a round of unbleached linen to exactly fit the boiler or pot, and laying this at the bottom before putting in the clothes says Women's Life. The requisite shape may be obtained by drawing a round by means of the covers, an inch all round being allowed for the hem.

Wasted Hours. In the days when piano lessons were thought a necessary part of a young woman's education, without regard to aptitude, the head of a fashionable school in St. Petersburg asked Rubenstein how many hours a day her pupils should practice the piano. "None," was the laconic response of the great pianist.—Youth's Companion.

How to Mend a Stay. The nicest way to mend a broken corset or dress stay is to bind the top of the stay or where it is broken with a small piece of chambray skin. To the end of the stay, it will be found, will not pierce through the chambray as it frequently does through cloth.

To Clean Agate Ware. To clean agate ware that has become stained take 1 tablespoonful of chloride of lime and a small piece of soda, then fill with cold water and set come to a boil. Rinse well.

THE LINGUISTIC ANARCHISTS.

Efforts to Attract Attention by Eccentric Phrases and Forms.

It is in the literary language that the linguistic anarchist is most frequently met with, claims the Forum, and there he is a clearly defined type. Falling to attract attention by the quality of his thought or the charm of his expression, he forces himself upon our notice by shocking our sense of that which is becoming and normal in language. He depends upon a dull linguistic moral sense in his readers for the acceptance of whatever is novel and striking in language as permissible or even artistic. Unfortunately his faith is only too often justified by the result. That which at first seems a wretched piece of revolting, violence comes to be endured, then accepted, and even in the end regarded as admirable. As Bagehot remarks in his study of the poetry of Robert Browning, when "we put down a healthy, instinctive aversion, nature avenges herself by creating an unhealthy, insane attraction."

This healthy, instinctive aversion every sensitive reader must frequently feel toward the language in which Browning's poetry is written, toward those peculiarly Browningesque features of style which have contributed so much to the growth of the Browning cult. Our objection is not that this poetry has style, that it is individual. Its fault is that it has too much style, that it is too individual and that it does not sufficiently take into account the persons to whom it is addressed. The author lays violent hands upon the language for no other reason than that he has some private purpose to accomplish. This appears in willfully obscure syntax, in un-usual value and collocation of words, sometimes humorous but not always appropriately so. But above all it appears in rhyme, for here, besides the usual feeling for language, there is a special language convention that may be violated, the convention of rhyming. These grotesque rhymes, as they have been called, are sometimes appropriate to the subject.

The poems in which they occur, but that their use is not dependent upon any such consideration is evidenced by such poems as "Count Gismond," "The Grammarian's Funeral," and "Many others, where they are altogether out of place. They are cheap sensational tricks, linguistic contortions, gone through with to make the dull reader gape and admire. Only one who had lost or who had never had any sensitiveness to the order and the fitness of language could ever become enamored of such vicious creations.

Another obvious instance of the literary linguistic anarch is to be found in Whitman, in whom disregard of the traditions of language is sometimes taken as merely part of a general disregard of the law and tradition. This, however, is too extreme a statement of the case. It has been shown, with a fair degree of certainty that Whitman was not willfully inconsiderate of law and order, that he thought he had before him the vision of a larger law, a constructive philosophy of life which the diligent and the sympathetic may read in his verse. But granting this in his choice of a means whereby to voice forth this philosophy of life, Whitman has fallen into a serious economic error. He has made the mistake of centering attention upon his form much to the detriment of his matter. For besides the strangeness of the thought even the sympathetic reader is confronted by an added and a considerable impediment in the outlandishness of the expression; only after the shock of surprise has passed away, after the linguistic misdeed has been forgiven and forgotten, can the thought receive full justice.

Numerous examples of these stumbling blocks will come readily to mind. We cannot quote illustrations of his monstrous sentence structure, but in vocabulary we have such creations as "literataes" (plural of literatus), "divilizee," "discorrupt," "cool-freshing breeze," "me melted-word with sweat." Whitman also frequently uses French and Spanish words, whether in correct or incorrect forms matters not to him, and he does this not because the French words are elegant or are necessary to express a subtle meaning, nor even as is sometimes said because he holds the theory that the American population is heterogeneous and therefore American authors should use a polyglot vocabulary. French, Spanish, Polish and all other outlandish words without restriction; he does it merely because the use of these foreign words is striking and unexpected. If we add to our list such horrid Latinisms and Gallicisms as "O me imperturbus," "I have not the delectation of a diplomat" and others of their kind, we certainly justify the statement that Whitman has little respect for the style in which he writes. His language is not the creation of the scholar's care or of the nice discrimination of the literary artist. He is merely gunning for attention with a big gun. We say the phrases or words are in bad taste; but they are worse than that, they are intentionally obtrusive and offensive. And whether you want to hear him or not, he takes the life of the language.

"What does it signal?"
"Wants to know if we have a cork screw aboard."

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all stages. And that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

SKIN TORTURES AFFLICT CHILDREN

Obstinate Case of Eczema Covered Little Girl's Limbs with Running Sores—Poison Oak Made Boy's Hands and Arms a Mass of Torturing Sores—Sufferers Soon Relieved and Completely Cured—Grateful Mother Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES A HOUSEHOLD STANDBY"

"Last year, after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for an obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and was so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble."
"In July of this year a little boy in our family poisoned his hands and arms with poison oak, and in twenty-four hours his hands and arms were a mass of torturing sores. We used only the Cuticura Remedies, washing his hands and arms with the Cuticura Soap, and anointing them with the Cuticura Ointment, and there came him the Cuticura Remedies. In about three weeks his hands and arms healed up. So we have lots of cause for feeling grateful for the Cuticura Remedies. We find that the Cuticura Remedies are a valuable household standby, living as we do twelve miles from a doctor. Mrs. Lizzie Vincent Thomas, Fairmont, Walden's Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 13, 1906."

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Dave and His Wheelbarrow.

"Cr-o-o-goo-h! Cr-o-o-goo-h!" groaned the over-tried wheel of the old wheelbarrow, as it waded under its load around the house from the garden, across the front yard to the barn, and then around to the swamp-hole behind, which needed to be filled, and so was used for a dumping place for all sorts of refuse.

No one ever thought to grease the wheel; and Dave in his enthusiastic energy crowded double the weight it ought to bear into the wheelbarrow, and then bent his own back to the exertion of holding up the handles and pushing it forward.

Dave was ready and willing, and the wheel was ready and willing, too; but it bent first to one way and then to the other, under the load, and voiced its pain in a discordant wail at being forced to wear out prematurely just for want of a little grease.

But no one had told Dave about it, and he had not yet found out for himself, though more than once he had bent over and peered into the wheel in search of a possible stone or stick that might have worked into it somewhere.

Dave was not a real country boy who knew all about such things, and the woman who employed him was not a real country woman, who might have known. She had bought the big farm just for a place to stay at a few months in the summer with her friends, and Dave, whose growing ambition had made him walk out from the city, had been hired for a month, with a promise that if he suited he would be engaged permanently, and could help look after the place in the winter, when the owner would be away.

For this he would receive $15 a month, and, if he wished it, the use of a tiny house at the foot of the orchard.

The house had appealed to Dave even more than the wages. If he got it he would send to the city after his mother and sister, who were out of work and wanted to leave.

That is why he put double loads into the wheelbarrow and tried to trundle it around behind the barn twice as often as any other boy would have done. But day by day, as the creaking grew louder and more insistent, he began to glance toward the windows apprehensively.

Then, at what seemed the critical moment, a bit of Dave's bread upon the water returned to him. A neighboring farmer stopped by the garden wall one day and looked at him curiously.

"Ain't ye the boy who fixed up a dog's foot in the road one day," he asked—"a yaller dog?"

"Yes, sir; there was a big splinter in it."

"Well, I seen ye 'cross the field. It was my dog, an' 'twas nice of ye. But why don't ye grease that wheel?"

"Grease it—how?" asked Dave, blankly.

"Why—but wait a minute. I guess I've got some grease in my wagon."

In a few moments the man climbed over the wall and removed the barrow wheel, then with a stick he applied grease liberally to the inside of the hub.

"There," he said, as he replaced the wheel. "S'pose ye try it now."

Dave did so and his face shone.

"Why, it don't make a bit of noise," he exclaimed. "It runs just as still as the rubber-tired carriage. I believe it'll do the job."

Perhaps it did, and perhaps it was the way Dave worked. At any rate, when the owner paid him at the end of the month she said she had decided to engage him permanently.

The next day he sent for his mother and sister.

Coat Stitched With Soutache.

Soutache braid is such a fashionable trimming that it is not surprising to see it stimulating fine stripes upon the new silks and cloths of the season. Heavy black taffetas lends itself admirably to stitchings of soutache, as will be seen by the above illustration. The coat follows the new length, which ranges from thirty to thirty-two inches and is close-fitting at the back and sides, while the box-front is semi-fitting.

Soft silk fibre braid is used to outline the coat all around and the braid again appears in the wide plaids that fall over the shoulders and continue down to the waist where they are lost in the line of the coat. The revers are of the soutache silk and collar of black velvet.

A pleasing note is struck in the dark green and deep purple velvet collars that are stitched upon some of the black coats, and still another smart idea is the collar of pale grey or white suede. They do not necessarily have cuffs to match, for close-fitting coats, as a rule, have long, simple sleeves which are simply stitched with braid about the edge, with buttons at the back.

Finishing this coat is a quaint little French turban of pale mauve trimmed with crushed roses and ostrich tips.

HOME COOKING.

Lemon Pudding.

Beat the yolks of 4 eggs smooth with 2 tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar, then stir in the juice and grated rind of a large lemon, add 2 tablespoonfuls of boiling water and cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until thick cream; beat whites of eggs stiff and add to them 2 tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar; when this looks like a meringue it is to be beaten into the yellow mixture while the latter is hot. Serves five people; if 6 eggs are used it will fill a quart dish. This is very delicate and delicious, and resembles a yellow puff ball.

A Dainty Dessert.

One quart of strawberry, cherry, orange or any kind of fruit juice, 1 cup water; let boil; add 2 tablespoonfuls sugar, 4 tablespoonfuls corn starch, wet in cold water; let boil 5 minutes; mould in small custard cups with whipped cream or boiled custard sauce.

Chocolate Custard.

Heat 1 quart milk, when hot add 3 tablespoonfuls corn starch, wet with cold milk, 3 tablespoonfuls cocoa or chocolate, wet with hot milk or water to dissolve it, add 2-3 cup sugar. Boil 3 minutes, stirring all the time. Remove from stove and add 1 tea spoon vanilla. Serve with either thin or whipped cream.

Against Japanese Custom.

The Empress of Japan has been reading some European plays and she does not like them. She believes that they deal with forbidden subjects and must lead to dangerous conditions. The freedom with which women in them are represented as expressing their opinions in public, giving vent to their intense sentiments and putting their members over their eyes and ears, she feels is not to be tolerated.

KEEPING OPEN HOUSE.

GREATEST RACE HORSE

Velocity, Owned by Mrs. H. V. Jackson, An American.

HAS WON $112,000

He's the idol of the English Horse Lovers—Was Bought From a Roscrea Hotel Keeper at £90 When He Was a Yearling.

To be the owner of the "greatest race horse in the world" is a distinction that has come to an American young woman as result of a racing season in Great Britain and France. The possessor of this unusual honor, which carries with it an entrée into the exclusive racing "set" in England, of which King Edward VII. is the head, is Mrs. H. V. Jackson, of Inane, Roscrea, County Tipperary, Ireland, and East Orange, N. J.

The horse which the English turf experts, with one accord, acclaim the king of all race horses, on form, is Velocity, who crowned his remarkable turf career by defeating in handy style, for the great Doncaster Cup the greatest horses of England and France.

It is now conceded by English turfmen that the greatest two horses are Velocity and Orby, the latter owned by Richard Croker. This reluctant admission has only been made by the Englishmen, who are, more than anything else, jealous of their prestige on the turf after one of the most remarkable racing campaigns in English history, when they have been forced to see their own colors lowered in the great Derby and the equally coveted Cambridgeshire in a single season by American-owned horses, the champion in the first great stake being Richard Croker's Orby, while the Cambridgeshire was one of the many trophies won this year by Mrs. Jackson's Velocity, whose owner has the distinction also of being the first woman in England to win the Cambridgeshire.

No one is more proud of the remarkable career of Velocity than King Edward, who has been a witness of all his great victories and a liberal backer of him every time he has started.

Velocity won for his fair owner $112,000 in purses alone, while she and her friends have won large sums in wagers on his remarkable performances. Immediately after the Doncaster Cup race Mrs. Jackson was offered £25,000, or $125,000, for Velocity by the representative of the Argentine Government. This was almost equivalent to the horse's weight in gold but the tempting offer was refused, as Velocity was then only five years old, and as he comes of a stock that has scored its greatest performances in the aged class, Mrs. Jackson was unwilling to cut short his great racing career. Her refusal to do so won her much commendation from the turfmen of England, who expected that next year Velocity would perform even greater wonders on the turf than he has accomplished up to the time.

Mrs. Jackson, who was formerly Miss Mary Nevins, a daughter of the late Thomas Nevins, the millionaire banker of East Orange, who several years ago bought the Irish estate of the Earl of Clare, and a sister of the famous Old Huntress and Cobalt Central mine, has a beautiful estate near Roscrea, in County Tipperary, Ireland. She bought Velocity from a Roscrea hotelkeeper for £90 when he was a yearling.

His great speed was discovered soon after he had been added to Mrs. Jackson's stable, and since his two-year-old form he has appeared in most of the great turf events in England and the Continent, nearly always as a winner. He won, among other famous events, the Grand Prix at Ostend the Chichester Stakes at Goodwood, the City and Suburban, the Doncaster Cup, the Cambridgeshire and the Chesterfield stakes. The Earl of Chesterfield is chairman of the English committee of the Cobalt Central mines, of which Mrs. Jackson's brother is the majority owner.

"Tell the Earl," she said one day to her brother, "that I have decided to win the Chesterfield with Velocity, out of compliment to him."

This was before Velocity's victories had placed him in the first rank, and despite his Irish performances he was not well known in England. "That is a rash promise," replied the Earl, "for he will have to beat the best horses in England."

The Chesterfield was an easy gallop for Velocity and the best horses in England were almost distanced by the great colt. The Earl of Chesterfield, together with the King, were among the first to congratulate Mrs. Jackson.

Throughout England at the present time Velocity is invariably spoken of as "the best horse in the world." This title is conceded to him by D'Oraay, of Sporting Sketches, "The Scout," of the London Daily Express, and the other leading turf authorities.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages, saps the vitality, saps the vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, dependent upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

DEMOCRATIC PROMISES AND THE LEGISLATURE.

When the State Democratic convention met in Baltimore last summer it made certain specific promises in its platform. The candidates of the democratic party accepted their nominations under this platform, and made their campaign before the people on that platform, and promised them if elected they would carry out the pledges made.

Among other things this platform provided for a corrupt practice law and a general state primary law. It would now appear that there are some of the Senators and members of the house who are not strongly in favor of the passage of laws carrying out the pledges of the party in this respect. If these men had any objection to the principles of their party, they should have so stated before they accepted a nomination under it, and should not have made their campaign on principles which they did not believe, nor should they have made promises which they had no idea of fulfilling.

The future of the party may to a great extent depend upon the thoroughness with which its promises made to the people of the state are carried out. By their delay and dickerings over these two pledges, the members of the legislature have created the impression that there is an attempt being made to defeat the passage of laws on these subjects, or at least that an attempt will be made to so form and construct the laws that they will be of little use in carrying out the intention and spirit of the promises.

To fail to pass laws on the corrupt use of money in the elections of this state, seeking in every way possible to stop the use of it, will be no more nor no less than an acknowledgment, that the representatives of the party are in favor of corrupt methods. To pass a bill with all its best features excluded in order to pass a bill which will mean nothing more than a bribe, and will not, nor will it be intended to be a hindrance to the use of money for corrupt purposes will mean the same thing, with the exception in addition to their being in favor of bribery, they are not men enough to say so, but are attempting to fool the people with their bluff, and are working off a palpable fraud.

On the use of money in our elections there cannot be too honest opinions, and whoever opposes the passage of a good corrupt practice bill, should and will be put down by the people of the state, as a man in favor of vote buying.

The passage of a primary law will give the people a chance to say who they want for their officers; the necessity for a law to this effect will be readily acknowledged by those who have followed the history of nominations by our conventions, and the election of the United States Senators by our legislatures.

The abuses of the convention system have been pointed out too many times. It is a well known fact that those who attend conventions often do not know for whom they are to vote until they reach the convention grounds, when they are told, by those who take it upon themselves to name the candidates for their party—if there is any doubt in the minds of any citizen let him ask those who attend conventions through the state and if the party will tell the exact state of affairs, he will tell him "we vote like sheep at some man's or man's dictation."

There is nothing unfair or unjust about a legalized primary system, it is but putting the power back where the constitution intended it to be—in the hands of the people. Nor is it a slap at organizations, for it is admitted by all that organization is essential to party success, and organizations are proper and right as long as they are run in the interest of the party and people, and no longer. If the legislature of Maryland, controlled by democrats, fail to fulfill the pledges of the party in regard to Legislative Primaries, it will be but a fair proposition to infer that they are afraid to treat the people with this system—or that they have more sinister reasons for their failure. A distraught bill has been passed and signed by the Governor, and it is to be voted on by the people, and not only will it fail to fulfill the promises by the passage of a good corrupt practice law, and primary law, injure the party with the people but it will endanger the ratification of the disfranchising amendment. For many who are sincerely in favor of the Amendment and who will vote and work for it, will hesitate to increase the power of a party whose representatives are in favor of corruption, and who moreover are afraid to trust the voters of their party to nominate the men who are to represent them in the various offices of the state. All democrats who are interested in the success of their party will hope that the legislature will live up to its pledges, and show their sincerity by passing bills of such a character as will leave no doubt of their intention in the minds of the people to live up to the spirit as well as the letter of their promises, and the sooner done the more creditable to the representatives and the better for the future of the Democratic party which they were selected to represent.

SIMPLE HOME REMEDY.

Mix This Simple, Helpful Recipe at Home And Try It, Anyway.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by an eminent authority who writes in a New York daily paper, as the finest prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation it is said, was established by it.

A druggist here at home when asked stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

Do You Want To Know What You Swallow?

There is a growing sentiment in this country in favor of medicines of known composition. It is but natural that one should have some interest in the composition of that which he or she is expected to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growing disposition on the part of the public, and satisfied that the fullest publicity can only add to the well earned reputation of his medicines, Dr. E. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. has "taken time by the forelock," as it were, and is publishing broadcast a list of all the ingredients entering into his medicines, Golden Medical Discovery the popular liver invigorator, stomach tonic, blood purifier and heart regulator; also of his "Favorite Prescription" for weak overworked, broken down, nervous and invalid women.

This bold and open spoken movement on the part of Dr. Pierce, has by showing exactly what his well known medicines are composed of, completely disarmed all harping critics who have heretofore unjustly attacked them. A little pamphlet has been compiled, from the standard medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, showing the strongest endorsements by leading medical writers of the several ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines. A copy of this little book is mailed free to any one desiring to learn more concerning the valuable, native, medicinal plants which enter into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicine. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

OLD KINGSTON HALL

In Somerset Sold To A Southerner. One Of The Most Noted Plantations of Colonial And Historic Days

The J. W. Frank Co., Real Estate dealers, of Denton, Md., have sold to Mr. John Hallburg, of Lexington, Alabama, "Kingston Hall," an historic old plantation on the Annesmessex River, in Somerset County, owned by Rev. A. H. Holloway, of Salisbury.

The sale of Kingston Hall, brings to our mind the numerous historic incidents, connected with the old place, not generally known, perhaps, to the majority of people in Somerset County. In the year of 1769, while America was still under British rule, King George III, then ruler of England, granted to an English nobleman Sir Thomas King, a lot of land containing 1800 acres, in the colonies, situated on the Annesmessex River, in what is now Somerset County, Maryland. Two years later, Sir Thomas King came to America, and took possession of the lands granted to him by the King. Bringing with him bricks, stone and other building material from England, on a beautiful hill, washed by the waters of the Annesmessex River, he erected a handsome old Colonial Mansion, containing about twenty rooms, where with his servants and slaves, his horses and hounds, he lived a life of luxury, king supreme of all he surveyed.

The plantation was planted in tobacco and at that time, became one of the most productive tobacco plantations in the American colony. On numerous occasions the owner made presents of his choice weed, to King George who it is said enjoyed the noted American product to the fullest extent.

When America under the lash of the English government cried for freedom and in 1776 engaged with war with the mother country King George found in Sir Thomas King Governor and Owner of Kingston Hall a staunch and loyal supporter. During the great struggle, lasting through out four years which resulted in the freedom of the United States, Kingston Hall was used on numerous occasions as headquarters for the British commanders and many of the important movements of the British army during the war, were born and framed within the walls of this historic old mansion.

War was over, and peace and quiet again reigned in America. The Kingston Hall plantation continued a large producer of tobacco, and the Hall, the scene of merriment and splendor. At the death of Sir Thomas King, in 1794 a nephew, Sir Chas. King, came in possession of his uncle's home and lands. The new Lord and Master came to America a few months later, and took up his abode at his new possession. Unlike his uncle, he was a lover of freedom and liberty, and a strong American sympathizer. During the years that followed he became a prosperous planter, and one of the most prominent citizens in the new nation. Through the years in which took place the battles, conquests and reign of the great Napoleon, throughout Europe and the old world. Sir Chas. King, was an ardent admirer of the great French statesman and soldier. When the man that conquered Europe, went down to defeat at Waterloo, and was banished to the Isle of St. Helena, a possession of the English government, where he was held a captive, in solitude until his death a few years later, Sir Chas. King, with a few friends and admirers of Napoleon, spent many months in launching a plan to surprise the fleet guarding Helena, rescue Napoleon, and bring him to Kingston Hall, and in America and give him his freedom. Preparations were made, and several large ships fitted out for the expedition, but the untimely and unexpected death of Sir Chas. King, just at the completion of all arrangements, thwarted the plot that undoubtedly would, had it succeeded, have played a most prominent and important part in European history, and furnished excitement and gossip for the whole world. The passing of the Lord of Kingston Hall, in 1817, was the closing chapter to the last hope of Napoleon, and the career of a noted American gentleman.

The plantation was then purchased by an American citizen in whose possession it was held for several years. A few years later it was purchased by John Lee Carroll, an ex-Governor of Maryland, who with his family resided there for a number of years. In 1845, Kingston Hall, and the lands belonging to same was purchased by United States Senator, Dr. George R. Dennis, and was his home in the later years of his life. It was also the birth place of Judge J. Upsher Dennis of Baltimore city. During the years that Kingston Hall plantation was in the possession of the Carrolls and the Dennis's it was a place of aristocratic fame, and the center of Maryland Social circles.

When the struggle between the north and the south came, the owner of Kingston Hall, was a staunch southerner, the owner of many slaves and a planter of much prosperity. During the years of the war, the culture of tobacco ceased, and the lands of the Kingston Hall plantation lay in waste and untilled. Since the war, the place has changed ownership several times, and the land has been sold until there now remains but 800 acres to the old plantation.

The place is situated within about one half a mile off Kingston station, and it was from this that the name of the village of Kingston originated. The old Mansion constructed of brick with gray stone finishings, ver-andas and towers, contains secret rooms and passages, made necessary by virtue of the times and the unsettled state of affairs at the date of its erection. And though since the war, the place has degenerated in a large degree, the beautiful, picturesque grounds, overlooking the silent tranquil Annesmessex, the old slave quarters now going to dust and decay in view of the great house, the majestic old oaks, more than a century in age, and the imposing mansion standing out against the horizon, as a sentinel guarding the dead, presents a picture that would do credit to an artist, and brings back fond recollections of those days "befo de wab."

Where Poultry Raising Pays.

One of the most lucrative occupations in southern California, when it succeeds, is poultry raising. But, perhaps, more people fail at it than in any other business, because so little capital is required to begin on a small scale. Although the climate is balmy all the year chickens do not thrive unless cared for in a skilful and hygienic manner. Roup, which is a kind of diphtheria for fowls is the most fatal and prevalent disease, and once it breaks out the destruction of all chickens in the coop is almost certain. Then, too, the cool nights are said to affect them, and for this reason the coops are made warm. It is the dream of many who go to southern California to own a few acres and raise chickens and sell eggs. A small percentage only of those who give it a practical trial succeed. Thousands of dollars are wasted annually in vain attempts, and in some sections abandoned coops and incubators can be seen frequently.

But those who persevere and succeed are richly rewarded. The most successful egg farm that I know of is not far from Long Beach, off the coast. The owner now produces daily an output of five hundred eggs from one thousand five hundred chickens, besides getting a fair price for the superfluous coopers. All of his chickens are white leghorns, and he asserts they are the best layers. His income is about seventy-five dollars per week, less a total expense of three dollars a day for chicken food oil for heating the incubators, and incidentals. He and his wife attend to the chickens, and the outdoor life has cured her of incipient pulmonary trouble. He makes a total failure in the beginning, at one thousand dollars the first year, but he saw his mistakes and courageously started again. At first he took the advice of neighbors, left his coops open at the bottom, and the cold nights killed the fowls by the score. Roup came and finished all he had, and then he plowed up his three-acre farm, sowed it in barley, and did nothing with chickens for six months. His second trial was successful, because, as he asserts, he relied upon his own judgment. His coops are closed, and a small aperture, left for the chickens to enter, is the only ventilation for the night. Each coop, each runway, is kept absolutely clean, and if a chicken shows the slightest symptoms of illness it is, as a rule, killed, unless he knows how to cure it. Frequently he cuts open the craw, takes out the offending matter, and sews it up again. Mites are great enemies to chickens, but his system of cleanliness keeps these pests away. All of his chickens are wild and the sound of a human voice startles them as it would an animal in the forest. Neither he nor his wife makes pets of the fowls, and at feeding time they are called by hitting a stick on a tin bucket. The theory is that a petted chicken, too tame, lies around, waiting to be fed, and does not work and scratch for a living. His neighbors, who started when he did on a large scale, are now following other occupations. He says lawyers and doctors have no study for years to acquire their profession, and it stands to reason that a man cannot, at once, raise chickens successfully. He has to learn by experience and good judgment. Chickens are so expensive to buy in the market that every household, if possible, has a few in the backyard in a wire corral, and often leading an almost frisco existence, i. e., with no coop whatever to keep them warm at night. And, strange to say, these few fowls are often hardy. Trying to raise them on a large scale seems to be more difficult. Some of the swell residential houses in Los Angeles, in West Adams Street, the Fifth Avenue of the city, have chicken corrals in the backyard, and the chorus of the chanticleers makes music in the early morning. Chickens raising pays handsomely in southern California, it understood.—H. F. in Leslie's Weekly.

DOCTORS PRESCRIBE SULPHUR.

But Sulphur Should Be Used in Liquid Form Only. Hancock's Liquid Sulphur is the most wonderful remedy for Eosoma I have ever known, writes Dr. W. W. Deane, of Orlando, Fla., who was cured of a case of y ars standing. Dr. W. A. Heard, of Maitland, Fla. was cured of Eosoma after he had suffered for thirty years and says "Hancock's Liquid Sulphur is the finest remedy for all Skin troubles he has ever used or prescribed. Doctors everywhere prescribe it, but they say Sulphur should be used in liquid form only, as it is in Hancock's Liquid Sulphur. Drugists sell it. Bottles free, if you write Hancock Liquid Sulphur Co., Baltimore. It cures all Skin and Scalp Diseases, if used in connection with the wonderful Hancock's Liquid Sulphur Ointment.

ASK YOURSELF THE QUESTION. Why not use Chamberlain's Pain Balm when you have rheumatism? We feel sure that the result will be prompt and satisfactory. One application relieves the pain, and many have been permanently cured by its use. 25 and 50 cent sizes. For sale at Toulson's Drug Store.

—R. W. Hubbard, New York's Commissioner of Charities, showed with a luminous illustration, in the course of a recent address, the harmful effect of indiscriminate charity. "An old woman in Utica," he said, "had been given a pint of milk and a loaf of bread daily for eight or nine years by a rich young man. Well, the old woman died the other week, and it was found that she had left a will. In this brief testament she coolly bequeathed her daily bread and milk to her nephew."

SUFFERING AND DOLLARS SAVED. E. S. Loper, of Marilla, N. Y. says: I am a carpenter and have had many severe cuts healed by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It has saved me suffering and dollars. WOMEN IN PERSIA.

WITH THE PERSIAN YOU MUST NOT BE TOO HIS WOMENFOLK. The Most You Can Do Is to Ask About the "Mother of His Son"—A Persian's Only Daughter He Will Not Mention Them.

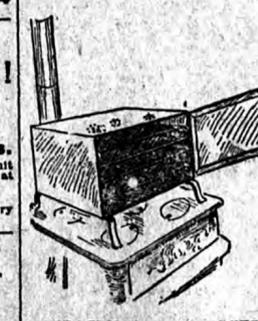

With the Persian one cannot discuss his womenfolk. To ask a Persian about his wife is a grave breach of etiquette. The most you can do is to ask about the "mother of his son." If he has only daughters he does not mention them; they are in a sort of limbo, to be suffered in silence. While the sexes remain separated as at present there can be but little real intimacy. The man does not see his wife after the marriage ceremony; the woman still lives the secluded, stultifying life of the harem. "She grows up like a wild flower; nothing which Europeans generally keep out of their children's sight is concealed from her; she is left to the dictates of her instincts, which as she sees very little society but that of servants and slaves, are not very elevating. Her religion is drowned in the lowest superstitions, and as she is seldom taught to read and write, the only means she has of learning is from tales which would hardly have any meaning for us because they are so stupid.

She is kept secluded that she may remain faithful, and the inevitable result is that intrigue forms half the life of Persia. M. de Lorey relates an adventure he had with a well-guarded lady of high rank in a jeweler's shop. He attracted her attention, she lowered her veil, he gazed—she lowered the glass—adoringly, she dropped her jasmine, he picked it up. The next day they met again in the same shop. We could have wished for the conclusion of that story, but the author tantalizes us by breaking off in the middle. If it had no conclusion—the sad state of too many love affairs—we would almost have forgiven him, says the London Globe, had he done what a Persian surely would have done and invented the rest.

It will come as a surprise to many that divorce is as easy in the unchanging East as it is in the strenuous West. It depends entirely on the will of the husband, who, under the pretext that his wife is bad tempered, barren, extravagant, excessively lean, invalid or blind, can repudiate her. The only drawback for the husband is that he must pay the dowry if the action is his. For this reason husbands are found who in order to avoid this nuisance ill-treat and beat their wives till they themselves move for divorce—since in that case there is no necessity to pay anything.

In another way Persia reminds one of the West, for there are such things as difficulties with servants, even in Teheran. The author dismissed one of his servants who, as he had been a tailor, was incompetent to do anything but sew on buttons. The man protested: "What will become of me now that I have been eating your salt for such a long time and am driven out into the streets?" He was reminded that he had only been employed for a fortnight; he answered that he felt it had been for years. His volubility only increased. "How can I be no good after having stayed with you? Can you forget what Sa'di said: 'A piece of clay having fallen in the Hammam from my beloved's hand into mine, I said to it, Art thou musk or ambergris that I am drunk with thy perfume, which catches at the heart?' It answered: 'I was but a worthless piece of clay, but I was in the company of the rose for a moment.'

A Practical Fruit Dryer. To form the legs of the fruit dryer shown in the accompanying cut, I had the blacksmith cut two pieces of an old wagon tire the desired length and then bend each end to form legs eight inches high. The outside of the dryer frame was covered with tin from kerosene cans, and the top was perforated

PRACTICAL FRUIT DRYER. With numerous small holes cut out, over which were placed a couple of small inner lids from lard pails. The dimensions can be changed to suit any size range or cook stove. On dull and rainy days it can be set on the stove utilizing the fire with which the cooking is done, as the dryer stands high enough to permit the use of any cooking utensils underneath.

Types of "Phobias." There are a number of well-defined "phobias," as they are called, which which nerve sufferers are plagued. "Machophobia," or fear of being stung; "castraphobia," or fear of clowns; "agoraphobia," or fear of open spaces; "goraphobia," or fear of crowds or of broad open spaces; "lacunaphobia," or fear of not going to sleep, and many others. The one great remedy for all these and similar mental miseries writes Dr. Samuel McComb in Good Housekeeping is auto-suggestion.

KISSING AS A NECESSITY.

Under What Circumstances and by Whom Should It Be Indulged. Is kissing a necessity or a luxury? Under what circumstances, to what extent, and by whom should it be indulged? And why, among those presumably capable of, and responsible for the shaping of our common destiny, has it received so small a percentage of the attention which all of us not unfamiliar with its certain delights and probable consequences fully realize that it deserves?

Clearly custom plays a large part in the determination of these problems. The marriage service does not impose the specific osculatory obligation upon either party to the contract; but nobody would question for a moment the implied right of each to kiss the other at suitable moments, and in a manner, of course, not inconsistent with the maintenance of the dignity of both. Although we may safely assume, in a large majority of cases, the practice has not been wholly neglected during the period of courtship, there is general tacit recognition of an abrupt change taking place in the quality or flavor, if we may so term it, of the caress simultaneously with the exchange of marital vows. Indeed, no engraving is more popular, particularly in our rural communities, than that of the tired and tearful bride receiving from the groom a salutation of the variety commonly described as "melting" as the minister and parents ostentatiously disappear through the doorway. In France, where young persons are permitted far less freedom than in America or even in England, the picture is truthfully labelled "The First Kiss;" but here the difference in condition is recognized by the substitution of "Wedded Bliss," or, as if spoken or breathed, "Mine!" and, in rare instances "All Mine!"

It is in this hint of possession that we detect the underlying cause of the change in quality or flavor; probably at no other moment either before or afterward, are necessary and luxury so happily blended. From that time forward, even among the best regulated and least fashionable families, the ease and frequency and ease of acquisition, gradually slimes down to an inoffensive but somewhat perfunctory evidence of friendliness. It by no means follows that this fact implies reproach; on the contrary, evolution in any other direction, especially toward a display of more ardent emotion, would be in flat opposition to the laws of nature and consequently abnormal.

A further distinction, involving partial reversal to the earlier type, often arises from the decrease of one of the partners, usually the husband; but it may be accepted as a certainty that the sever peculiar to the original participation can never be wholly regained. A more apt illustration or more conclusive confirmation of this unhappy truth could not be desired than that contained in the appellations bestowed upon the products of his art by the most famous of concocters of beverages designed to induce a quickening of the appetite.

Of the two mixtures from whose invention he derived the lightest satisfaction, one he called "The Maiden's Prayer;" the other was designated as "The Widow's Delight." Both were, and continue to be, according to current reports, deservedly popular; but the significance of the delicate differentiation and the certainty that even to the untortured mind a reversal of the terms would have seemed preposterous tend greatly to clarify our sufficiently explicit, yet necessarily somewhat vague, assertion respecting the constantly varying quality of the kiss as a consequence of changing conditions. We suspect, moreover, that the essentials to full appreciation of osculatory favors differ correspondingly; the ingredients, for example, composing that which the artist felicitously termed a "maiden's prayer," while suffering in early life, in later years seeming insipid and inadequate as compared with the richer combination of elements comprised in a "widow's delight." Either would be regarded, of course, as a luxury. Indeed, broadly speaking, we may safely assume that only such kisses as convention decrees that we may and should have at will fall within the realm of necessity; all others, although in widely varying degrees, are indeed luxuries.—George Harvey in the North American Review.

Strange Wedding Account. "I had a wedding account sent in to me," said a local society editor a day or two ago, "that was rather unusual in a way. It was an unusually elaborate account. The account went into a minute description of everything.

"But elaborate though it was it occurred to me that there was some detail missing. I read all through the account phrases again and again unable to detect just what it was that was missing. It told all about the bridal bouquet and the gobs away gown and hat to match—everything seemed to me to be there—but still I had a feeling that there was some slight detail that was not included. Well, I read the account over for the third time and then at last it struck me that there was nothing in the account to lend any information as to the name of the bridegroom. He was absolutely not mentioned. I had known of plenty of cases where the best the groom got was the conventional black, but that was the first account I ever saw in which he was ignored entirely."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Danger From Electricity. If your dwelling is electrically lighted never place wood, clothes or other inflammable material against the wires meters or switches; never use an electric wire as a clothesline, and see to it that your dwelling is kept free from rats, as these pests often gnaw the insulation from the wires, and amount of loss from "electric fires" in the United States in one year, according to the Saturday Evening Post, is $15,000,000.

Fast Being Re... A little backache Daily increasing the lame and weak. Disorders quickly follow; Diabetes and finally Bright's disease.

This is the downward course of kidney ills. W. A. Foreman, living at the Morris Hotel, Easton, Md., says: I never obtained so much benefit from any remedy as I did from Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered for some time with inactive kidneys, irregularity of the secretions and pains through my back. At times the secretions would be too profuse and at other times scanty, but there was always the desire to void them. My back was very weak with a constant pain across my loins and sides and any sudden movement would cause sharp painful twinges to shoot through my back to my shoulders. I was treated by a physician and used many different remedies, but could not find relief. I finally procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at a drug store and a short use with this remedy brought me relief. A continued use of Doan's Pills effected a complete cure, and I have had no return of the trouble since."

—As a reward for good behavior Johnny was allowed to come to the dinner table when company was expected. He wanted to appear big, too, so he chose a low chair which brought his mouth just to the top of the table. But he didn't mind this, because it was on a line with his plate and he was not so likely to drop anything while eating. He ate ravenously of everything, having nothing to say to the guests, as his mother had told him to remember that good children are seen, not heard. Finally after desert, when there was a lull in the conversation, he exclaimed:

"Say, Pop, you can't guess what I've got under the table?" "No, my son," said his father with an indulgent glance, "what is it?" "Stomach-ache" shouted Johnny gleefully.—Ex.

"For several winters past my wife has been troubled with a most persistent and disagreeable cough, which invariably extended over a period of several weeks and caused her many sleepless nights," writes Will J. Haymer, editor of the Euryly, Colo., Bulletin. "Various remedies were tried each year, with no beneficial results. In November last the cough again put in an appearance and my wife, acting on the suggestion of a friend, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The result was indeed marvelous. After three doses the cough entirely disappeared and has not manifested itself since." This remedy is for sale at Toulson's Drug Store.

REALLY KNOW WHAT PE-RU-NA IS.

Mrs. Emma F. Mumford, No. 1 Olsen's Court, Salt Lake City, Utah, writes:
 "Four months ago I became chilled through and through by getting my feet wet.
 "The next morning I was stiff and sore with a severe cold which had settled all over my body. The blood seemed to rush to my head, causing dizziness and blinding headaches.
 "As soon as Peruna was recommended to me I decided to give it a trial and am pleased to say that it cured me after I had used it only two months.
 "I think you have a splendid medicine and gladly endorse it."
 "People preferring solid medicines should call for Peruna tablets. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna."

Mr. George W. Amory, 227 West 19th St., New York City, New York, writes:
 "Somehow I have always had a prejudice against advertised medicine, but I want to make one decided exception in favor of Peruna.
 "I caught a cold last winter and it settled in throat and head, developing a most persistent catarrh, which seemed to defy all medicines until I tried Peruna. Before I had used two bottles I considered myself cured."

Mrs. I. D. Hayes, 1927 Druid Hill, Baltimore, Md., writes:
 "Peruna is one of the best remedies for gripe, cold in the head, sore throat, nervous headaches, and coughs that have ever been discovered. After the use of one bottle in my family I don't feel safe without Peruna in my house."
 In a later letter Mrs. Hayes says: "I am never without a bottle of Peruna in the house. I find it good for most every complaint. I give the children Peruna if they have a cold and it always relieves them. I don't think I could find a better remedy to give my children."

It is so easy to criticize things about which the critic knows nothing.
 Take, for instance, Peruna. There are plenty of people who are willing to say Peruna is this and that, who never have tasted Peruna, and have never known anything about its effects upon the human system.
 There are people who say, and probably believe, that Peruna is used as a beverage by some people. It would be the easiest thing in the world to show the falsity of such a belief.
 Let any one who reads this go to the drug store and purchase a bottle of Peruna. If, after attempting to use it as a beverage or to take it in doses sufficient to produce anything like intoxication, if after putting it to this test such a person is still of the opinion that Peruna is a disguised alcoholic drink, he will be warranted in making such a statement. Practically, Peruna cannot be so used. Any one who knows anything about Peruna by personal use knows that Peruna is a medicine. The very label on the bottle, giving the principal active ingredients, furnishes indisputable proof that Peruna is a medicinal compound. We will be willing to guarantee that no normal person can or will use Peruna as a beverage. If any one thinks this remedy can Catarth of Bronchial Tubes.

 Mr. W. H. Smith, editor of The Potomac Herald, formerly principal of the schools at Cameron, Idaho, writes:
 "For some time I suffered with catarth of the throat and bronchial tubes. I tried many remedies, but could find nothing that would give me relief. Finally I tried Peruna. Three bottles cured me, sound and well. I believe it will do as much for others as it did for me."

Gained Thirty Pounds.
 Mrs. Alice J. Bordner, 1311 Maple Ave., Harrisburg, Pa., writes:
 "I have found a cure in Peruna. I cannot recommend Peruna enough, and I also thank you for your kind attention to me. I am as well as could be ever since I began taking Peruna, and will recommend it to others. I only weighed 35 pounds before taking Peruna; now I weigh 125."

MARDELA.

The young ladies of this town gave a Leap Year Dance at Grange Hall last evening, Friday, the 28th. The hall was beautifully decorated with flags, bunting and evergreens. Midnight supper was served at the 'Round House.' The menu consisted of ice, cakes, chocolates and coffee. Many out of town guests were present.

Miss Beale Bounds returned home last Monday after having spent the past two weeks visiting her aunt Mrs. Pusey, Rockwalking, Md.

Messrs Ernest and Irving Kennerly, formerly of our town but now of Shelltown spent a part of the past week visiting friends and relatives.

Our town is very active at this season of the year and more help is needed. The Basket and Crate Factory, Stave Mill, Shirt Factory and The Mardele Mineral Water Co., are working every day in order to handle all their orders. Why not move in Mardele?

Mr. D. Powell, of Pocomoke City, spent the past Sunday in town.

A. L. Seabrook and Bro. just finished and launched a large and commodious launch from their railway on Thursday of last week. It was built for Mr. J. P. Marshall of Vienna.

Mr. Ray Gillis visited Princess Anne, Pocomoke, Snow Hill and Salisbury this week.

Mr. Elmer Venables of Camden, N. J. returned to his home after having called to see our boys in town. He also piloted a party on a bear hunt.

We notice Mr. Sam Hitch of Salisbury, is a very frequent visitor in our town, however we are pleased to have him.

On Wednesday, the primary room of our school was closed owing to the illness of the teacher, Miss Mary Brasen.

Mr. Harry Kenney of White Haven is visiting Mr. Dow Bacon, Main St.

Capt. Frank Horseman of Athol, has accepted a position with the Mardele Springs Water Co.

—Dr. Clinton Brotsmarkie, Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist, who has had offices in the Masonic Temple has moved the office of the late Dr. Humphreys, where he can be found after February 2nd.

BIVALVE.
 Mr. C. G. Messick was in Salisbury one day last week.

Reverals closed here last week with success.

Mr. Earl White was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Larmore several days.

Miss Etha Messick who is a student of the W. H. S., of Salisbury, spent several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Messick.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Larmore, of our place moved to Washington, D. C. Miss Cora E. Insley is spending her vacation in Salisbury.

We are still having quite a little trouble about the late hours of the mail.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Insley and children have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Insley.

Mr. Fred Jackson was taken sick in the school room last week and had to be carried home. We hope he will soon be able to join his school mates.

Mr. Bradley Dayton, who has been in Fairmount, West Virginia, since the summer, has returned home.

PARSONSBURG.
 Mr. Roscoe Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Davis, died at his home near Parsonsburg Sunday night, February 16th, after a lingering illness of consumption. Funeral services were held Tuesday at his home by Rev. G. A. Ogg, of Pittsville, after which the remains were laid at rest in the family burial ground, S. J. R. Holloway, of Salisbury being undertaker. The pall bearers were Messrs. Ernest White, Stanley Brown, Virgil Mumford, Walter Hancock, Clarence Parsons, Curtis Morris. He leaves a father and mother, four brothers and one sister and other relatives and a host of friends to mourn their loss. We extend to the bereaved family our heart felt sympathy.

Letter to Prof. W. J. Huffington, Salisbury Md.

Dear Sir: Will you give your Arithmetic class—and Algebra class—this problem?
 If average paint is worth $1.00 a gallon, and goes two thirds as far as Devos, and wears half as long, what is Devos worth per gallon, painters' wages being $3.00 a day and a day's work a gallon of paint.
 The answer is $1.50 a gallon; but don't tell 'em that.

Yours truly
 F. W. DEVOS & CO.
