Careful Thorough Prescription Work

Sometimes you imagine that you have to wait a long time for the medicine, but if we gave it to you in less time, it would NOT be such good medicine. No matter how busy we are, every prescription is prepared carefully and thoroughly; no part of the work is slighted in any detail. It must be right before we let it go out of our hands.

You may think at the time that we are being too particular, but that is due to your anxiety and impatience. In your calmer thought you will admit that we are right, and will thank us for preparing such RELIABLE medicine. Our methods have won the commendation of all local physicians who have had occasion to know about them.

OCTOBER CONVENTION

Of The State Christian Endeavorers. The Working Committees Appointed Here. Press And Publicity Begin Operations.

The Christian Endeavorers of Salisbury are showing much enthusiasm in the coming C. E. Convention which is to meet here on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 16, 17 and 18th. It was at first intended to be only a two day's convention, but in order to make this the best ever held another day has been added.

Mr. W. C. Parkins, of Baltimore has charge of transportation arrangements and he has secured reduced rates on the railroads. The B. C. & A. The full committees at Salisbury have been appointed as follows:

Executive Committee—Rev. W. S. Phillips, Chairman; Mr. W. C. Humphreys, Vice Chairman; Mr. Jas. T. Malone, Secretary; Mr. Wm. E. Sheppard, Treasurer.

Beer Drinking And Cancer.

With regard to the curious fact of the influence of beer in promoting cancer the evidence appears to be extremely convincing. In so far as there has been a real increase in the mortality of cancer in recent years, the amount consumed in Great Britain, which was 27 gallons per head in 1885, was 31 1/2 gallons in 1900, and in the German Empire the consumption rose in the same period from 90 to 125 liters per head. In countries such as Italy and Hungary, in which the consumption of beer is small, the mortality for carcinoma disease is far below the average. In France beer is largely consumed in those departments in which the cancer rate is exceptionally high, although cider also is here one of the staple drinks, and it may be pointed out that the rate is particularly low in many of those departments in the wine growing districts, in which beer is an unusual luxury.

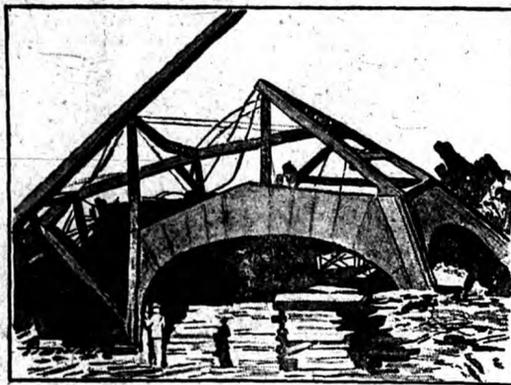

It was also noted that the two towns in France in which most beer per head is consumed, Rouen and Lille, have a high death rate from the disease. In Germany, from a return lately made to the Reichstag, it appears that Bavaria, Baden and Wurtemberg are the three States showing the largest consumption of beer, and these all figure in the list of those having a high cancer rate. In Austria, Salzburg is stated to be the province in which most beer is consumed, followed at some distance by Bohemia and Upper and Lower Austria, and the same situation is revealed there, as elsewhere. In no country could any instance be discovered in which a large consumption of beer was accompanied by a low cancer mortality. No decided explanation of the influence of beer in the production of the disease can be given at present. It is fairly certain that it is not due to its intoxicating quality, as a similar effect is not observed in the case of other alcoholic beverages. It is, of course, possible that beer may sometimes contain deleterious ingredients, such as arsenic, which may predispose to the disease, but this is scarcely likely to be the case all over Europe, and with regard to the influence of arsenic, it may be noted that cancer is not very common among the arsenic eaters of Syria. The effect of beer is most probably to be accounted for by the fact that the specific infective cause of cancer finds an entrance into the drink either through the water from which it is made, or, perhaps, not improbably from the malt itself.

MISS GENEVIEVE MAY.
CATARH OF STOMACH
CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

Miss Genevieve May, 1817 S. Meridian St., Indianapolis, Ind., Member Second High School Alumni Ass'n, writes: "Peruna is the finest regulator of a disordered stomach I have ever found. It certainly deserves high praise, for it is a skillfully prepared." "I was in a terrible condition from a neglected case of catarrh of the stomach. My food had long ceased to be of any good and only distressed me after eating. I was nauseated, had heartburn and headaches, and felt run down completely. But in two weeks after I took Peruna I was a changed person. A few bottles of the medicine made a great change, and in three months my stomach was cleared of catarrh, and my entire system in a better condition."—Genevieve May.

The famous Ferris Wheel, one of the most striking features of the Chicago World's Fair in 1892, later of Coney Island and still later of the St. Louis Exposition, is no longer. With one hundred pounds of dynamite a wrecking crew in St. Louis reduced the famous wheel to a tangled mass of junk.

PEACHES A-PLENTY

Promised From Delaware, Maryland And California This Summer. June Drop Now Over, And Luscious Fruit Ripening.

According to the Collector of the Port David S. Clark peaches will be plentiful this year. Because of the late frosts it was feared that the crop would be short. At the time of the frosts it was difficult to tell much about the prospects, as the fruit was so far advanced that it required some time before any conclusion could be reached. The farmers examined their orchards and found where the frosts had done some damage, but they could not guess at what the result would be until after the June drop.

The time for the June drop has about passed, and Mr. Clark says very few of the peaches have fallen, which is a better condition of affairs than the farmers had expected. As a result he thinks, the crop this year will be more than 100 per cent greater than during the past two years. He estimates it at about 110 per cent. Mr. Clark lives at Kenton, Del., which is a peach centre, and the conditions there are about the same as in the other peach districts.

In the spring the trees were well filled with buds and the young peaches got along pretty well before any serious frosts came and that being the case they did not suffer seriously from the late cold spell. In most of the orchards the trees are well filled and the fruit appears to be in fine condition.

It is likely that the season will open early this year as the fruit is now well advanced. Many of the farmers are already making preparations for getting it to market and some have sold their orchards to dealers in the cities.

Enormous Fruit Crop From California.
The prospects are good for large fruit shipments to the East during the season which has opened. Fully 7000 cases of green fruit and grapes will be sent east of the Rocky mountains before the season closes next fall.

This volume of business will mean between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000 to the California orchardists.

The cherry crop throughout the State is splendid and shipments are now going forward rapidly. The peach, pear and apple crops promise large yields, particularly of apples and pears. Grapes give promise of a big yield.

Apricots and plums do not promise so well. What is lost by those will more than be made up, it is said, on pears, apples and grapes.

Several Cases Before Justice Trader.

The following cases have been tried before Justice of the Peace, Wm. A. Trader, this week:

John H. Smith was fined for disorderly conduct toward his wife.

Isaiah Reed was fined for disorder near Senator Brewington's home.

Chas. Sturgis, colored, Barney Dashiell, colored, Jack Hammond, colored, Wm. Woolford, colored and three others were arrested on the B. C. & A. excursion train Wednesday night after spending a day at the beach. They were confined in the jail Wednesday night, were tried Thursday morning, found guilty of disorder and fined $7.75 each.

Clark Chatham was fined $5.00 for assaulting Herman Dennis and held under $500.00 bail for the action of the grand jury, charged with shooting with attempt to kill.

Six or eight boys have been arrested this week for jumping trains at the N. Y. P. & N. E. R. Station. We advise the boys to be careful.

The Baltimore-bulling, Reuben Foster, purchased by Capt. R. B. White and W. B. Tighman & Co., and others is being repaired at Lloyd's shipyard, Salisbury, and will be used for the Wicomico River trade under a new name. Capt. White will be in command.

TRIED AND SENTENCED

Negro Convicted In Baltimore. To Be Stretched On The Gallows. Trial Before Court.

George Scott, colored, better known as William Lee, the assailant of Mrs. Lilly R. Barnes and Miss Frances Powell of Somerset county, Maryland, was convicted in the Criminal Court Thursday morning in Baltimore after a trial lasting a little more than three hours, and was promptly sentenced to death by Chief Judge Harlan.

The taking of testimony began at 10.29 o'clock Thursday morning, and when the State's evidence was in, Lee's counsel, Mr. Charles O. Melvin, asked the negro if he wanted to testify in his defense. Lee said "No." Mr. Melvin then rose, and addressing the Judges Harlan, Wright and Dobler, who sat in the case without a jury, told them that the defense had no evidence to offer. There was no argument by counsel for State or defense.

Verdict Announced At Once.
The two indictments in the case were handed up to the judges, and after a whispered conference, lasting a few minutes, Judge Harlan announced that the verdict was "guilty as charged" in both cases. While the judges were looking up the law relating to the disposition of Lee pending his execution the negro was told by his counsel not to entertain any vain hopes.

"Your sentence will be death," said Mr. Melvin, "and I advise you to make your peace with your Maker."

Had Nothing To Say.
Lee was then called to the bar, where he stood with his head hanging down on his breast.

"Have you anything to say?" asked Judge Harlan.

The negro murmured something unintelligible.

"Did I understand you to say 'No'?" Lee nodded his head, and the Judge then passed the death sentence without commenting on the case at all. According to the sentence, Lee is to be taken back to the City Jail and held there subject to the order of the Sheriff of Somerset county. When the Governor appoints a date for the execution the negro is to be turned over to the custody of the Somerset county Sheriff, at a date to be fixed by that official, and is to be hanged in Somerset county.

Negro's Nerve Gives Way.
After sentence was passed Lee was hustled out of the courtroom by the deputy jail wardens and taken down to the Courthouse lockup. Not until the barred door clanged behind him did he seem to realize his position.

Then he flung himself down on a bench in the lockup and burst into tears. Half an hour later he was taken to jail in the "Black Maria."

At no time during the proceedings was there the slightest semblance of disorder. The crowd in the courtroom was kept seated for a few minutes after Lee was taken away, and was then dismissed.

Saturday Messrs. George W. Bell and Henry B. Freeny, trustees, sold the William W. Gordy property, situated at "Five Points" in this city. According to the provisions of the sale, the property was offered as a whole, after being offered separately and was bid off by Mr. W. C. Gullett, for $5,760.00. Mr. Gullett will move the dwelling from this lot up Church street, adjoining the house occupied by Mr. Bates, and will also remove the store house from the corner early next fall. He intends to use the entire lot on which to erect a handsome modern residence for his own occupancy. This will make a beautiful site for a home and when improved as Mr. Gullett will improve it, will add much to the appearance of that part of Salisbury. This property is one of the old land marks of the city. While the buildings were built after the late fire, the property had been in the Gordy family for over sixty years. It was one of the original "points" which went to make up the wall known as "Five points" of this city.

BERLIN GOES DOWN

Has Poor Luck, Scoring But One—Salisbury In Fast Trim.

An interesting game of ball was played on the Fourth of July at the Salisbury Athletic grounds between the Berlin nine and the Salisbury team. On account of the inclement weather there was but a small attendance. Jones of the Salisbury nine struck out seven men while but four hits were made on him. Geo. Austin made a three bagger and a single. R. Austin made a three bagger. Sewell Fields got a two bagger. Carl Schuler, our champion short stop, had twelve chances without a single miss.

Political Gossip Ament Mr. Jackson's Candidacy.

Politicians of both parties have taken it for granted that the Republican nominee for Congress in the First district would be former Representative William H. Jackson and that his Democratic opponent would be Congressman Thomas H. Smith. Following the action of the House of Representatives last Thursday in adopting resolutions that allow Mr. Smith to hold his seat in Congress until the next session, at least, have come unconfirmed reports that Mr. Jackson might, after all, be a candidate for Congress this fall. The rumors are based on the story current in Washington that Mr. Jackson told one member of the Elections Committee that if he wasn't seated he would make no further efforts to have the Eastern Shore represented in Congress by a Republican.

Mr. Jackson's friends in this city all expect him to be the nominee of his party this fall, and expect him to be elected. Mr. Jackson himself is not saying that much, however. A special dispatch to The News from Salisbury says: "When asked whether or not he would again be a candidate for nomination to Congress from the First district, Hon. William H. Jackson absolutely refused to have anything to say."

"Tell them," said he "that I never sing until the hymn is announced."

"When told that Chairman Hanna of the State Republican Executive Committee had said that Mr. Jackson would be renominated and reelected, Mr. Jackson replied: "If Mr. Hanna has made that statement, he knows more about it than I do."—Balto. News.

BANKS MAKE AGREEMENT

Five Eastern Shore Counties Included.

A meeting of representatives of the banking institutions of Caroline, Kent, Dorchester, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties was held in Easton Monday afternoon to decide upon a rate of interest to be paid on savings deposits. The meeting was presided over by Dr. James Bordley, of Queen Anne's, with Albert G. Towers, of California, as secretary.

After a lengthy discussion resolutions were adopted to this effect:

That the interest paid on savings deposits in any of the banks represented at the meeting should not exceed 3 per cent. per annum.

That interest should be carried forward twice a year and no money should draw interest unless it had been on deposit four calendar months.

Banks now in this agreement paying 4 per cent. per annum should reduce their rate of interest 3 per cent. by January 1, 1907.

Such banks should not take deposits from any depositor in any county other than their own at a greater rate than 3 per cent. per annum.

Mr. Kenney D. Taylor, of Atlantic, Va., and Miss Ethel Lee Smack, of Berlin, Md., were married at the home of Mr. James K. Disharoon, Isabella Street, on the Fourth of July, by Rev. W. B. Phillips, of the M. E. Church.

TO HAVE EXPOSITION

That Will Show True Worth And Progress Of Mother State. Creditable Representations.

It is a lamentable fact that the exploitation of the illimitable resources of the South and particularly of Virginia, has been sadly neglected and almost ludicrously inadequate at previous world's fairs and expositions. This neglect has amounted to the proportions of a commercial and industrial crime when viewed in the light of the fact that other sections of the country less favored by nature have brought their resources into the limelight and exhibited them to the world in a way to help those sections to reap vast material benefit therefrom.

It is safe to say that nine tenths of the space at previous expositions, even those held in the heart of the south—has been taken up by exhibits from other sections of the country. So notable has been this condition that it has caused much comment and has created a false impression regarding the spirit of enterprise in the southern states.

The time has arrived for Virginia to make good, or better, a showing before the world as her sister states, and the greatest opportunity that has yet offered for the purpose, is here.

The exhibition of Virginia's great and diversified resources, should and doubtless will be the piece de resistance of the Jamestown Exposition. Every man connected with the development of her mineral resources, her manufactures or her agricultural wealth is alive to the value of the present opportunity to show the world what Virginia holds within her borders, and to show it in a manner commensurate with the dignity and greatness of the state.

The managers of the Jamestown Exposition are doing what they can to encourage the enthusiasm existent throughout the state and direct it into the most practical channels. From the Division of Exhibits a letter has been sent to every manufacturer in the state containing a valuable idea that will doubtless appeal to a very large number of recipients. The following extract from the letter explains itself.

One of the underlying motives or principles actuating those who conceived the idea of holding the Jamestown Exposition was, that the great State of Virginia might be once more placed before the world in a manner befitting the position she formerly occupied.

Pursuing that thought still further it is proposed to make an innovation in the Exposition custom by erecting and setting apart an individual exhibit building, in which is to be displayed exclusively the wonderful and diversified products of Virginia manufacturers, no others.

It is proposed in the case of those manufacturers, especially the smaller ones, who do not care to go to the expense of personally looking after the matter, to arrange to have all the work done for them. The price would include the erection of an attractive booth to contain the exhibit, the installation of the exhibit, the responsibility and care of same during the entire Exposition period, and the repacking and returning of the exhibit to them after the close of the Exposition; also the presentation of the merits of their manufactures in the most favorable manner to the Jury of awards.

The value of an award, alone, counts to more than offset the small cost to the manufacturer of an exhibit under either of the plans mentioned.

A most earnest appeal is therefore made to every manufacturer in Virginia to display his products and unite in an effort to make the Virginia Manufacturer's Building the most notable, unique and attractive feature of the Exposition. There is nothing that will help to impress the millions of people who will attend the Exposition with the importance of Virginia more than this, and therefore it is felt that no loyal Virginia manufacturer, interested in the welfare of the State, as well as his own business success, should fail or hesitate to be represented.

FEED RICH AND POOR IN FAT.

Quality of Meat Obtained From Pigs Fed in This Manner.

In experiments conducted by the Connecticut Station to find the relative value of feeding rich and poor milk to pigs, the following conditions were found. For the first forty days the pair receiving skim milk gained 62 pounds; and the pair receiving milk poor in fat, 42 1/2 pounds. For the next ten days the gain was for each pair 22 pounds, and 3 1/2 pounds respectively. From 50 to 60 days the results were 20 pounds gain, and 6 pounds loss respectively.

Result of slaughter—the skim milk fed pig dressed 65 per cent. of its live weight, and the rich milk fed pig, 70 per cent. The weight of liver, spleen, and blood was practically the same. The sixth rib of each pig was dissected out and analyzed with the following results: There was 21.25 per cent. of fat in the skim milk fed pig, which is about the amount found by Lawes and Gilbert in the

Fig. 2—Fed milk rich in fat.

"Store Pig." The whole milk fed pig contained 35.68 per cent. of fat. The skim milk fed pig had 1.78 per cent. more lean meat and 11.93 per cent. more water, and 14.43 per cent. less fat.

Finding Age of Cattle.

Twelve months.—Animals of this age shall have all of its milk (calf) incisor teeth in place.

Fifteen months.—At this age center pair of incisor milk teeth may be replaced by center pair of permanent incisors (pinchers), the latter teeth being through the gums, but not yet in wear.

Eighteen months.—The middle pair of permanent incisors at this age should be fully up and in wear, but next pair (first intermediate) not yet cut through gums.

Twenty-four months.—The mouth at this age will show two middle permanent (broad) incisors fully up and in wear, and next pair (first intermediate) well up, but not in wear.

Thirty months.—The mouth at this age may show six broad permanent incisors, the middle and first intermediate pairs fully up and in wear, and the next pair (second intermediate) well up, but not in wear.

Thirty-six months.—Three pairs of broad teeth should be fully up and in wear, and the corner milk teeth may be shed or shedding, with the corner permanent teeth just appearing through the gums.

Thirty-nine months.—Three pairs of broad teeth will be fully up and in wear, and corner teeth (incisors) through gums but not in wear.

Working the Horse.

Many horses do not reach the acme of their powers until they have entered their teens. Especially is this the American roaster at its prime when the horses of other countries are generally speaking, closing their careers. With moderate care and good usage a horse's life may be prolonged to twenty-five, thirty-five and some have lived forty years. Cases of longevity with marvelous conservation of speed and stamina can be multiplied. It is a fact generally known among horsemen that horses used well and not worked beyond their powers at an early age have been able to stand the strain of the work they have been called upon to do at a much greater age than horses that have been worked hard when young.

Restraining Horses.

Icelanders have a strange but effective plan for preventing horses from straying away. They tie the head of one horse to the tail of another and the head of this to the tail of the former, just as our American Indians have been doing for hundreds of years. In this way it is impossible for the horses to move very far either backward or forward. If disposed to move at all, it will be only in a circle and even then there must be mutual agreement to turn their heads the same way.

Horse Notes.

Teach a colt to stop at word of command. Halter break the colt when two or three weeks old. Even with the best of breeding, colts will not stop.

WHAT SHE WANTED.

She Rang the Bell as Per Directed and Got Nothing.

The following story is told by a well known traveller: "On the Bagdad railway the coaches are cut up into a small number of small rooms, or compartments. The passengers are isolated in these compartments. Sometimes, indeed, they are locked in. Their only means of communication with the brakeman is an electric bell which must never be rung save in an emergency or crisis. This bell always stops the train, and creates immense confusion and alarm.

"It is a poor system. It is an old-fashioned system that often causes trouble.

"An old lady, very near-sighted, got into a carriage one day in which a boy sat. She and the boy had the compartment to themselves. The train started, the old lady looked about her, and, spying the bell, she said to the boy:

"Young chap, I ain't used to rail-roads. What's that there-bell for?"

"The boy smiled maliciously.

"That's to ring when you want something to eat," he said. "The road provides lunch."

"The old lady nodded. A half hour or so went by. Then she leaned forward and rang the bell.

"Instantly the brakes ground down upon the wheels. The locomotives whistled. The train stopped so suddenly that many people were thrown forward to the floor. There were shrieks. Windows were lowered and heads protruded. Guards ran from carriage to carriage.

"Finally a guard approached the old lady's carriage.

"Who rang that bell?" he shouted as he ran along.

"I did, young man," said the old lady.

"Well, what do you want?" he asked.

"She thought a little while. Then she said, calmly:

"I think you might bring me some chicken sandwiches and a bottle of root beer."

Prolivity of Lawyers.

A number of men at a New York club were discussing the question of style when professional men have occasion to express themselves in writing; whereupon one of the group, a lawyer, remarked:

"From the standpoint of clearness and explicitness of diction, I can safely say that we lawyers are unexcelled. For instance, if my friend the doctor here was to give anyone an orange, he would no doubt simply say 'I give you the orange'; but should the transaction be entrusted to one of our legal lights to put in writing, he would adopt something like this form:

"I hereby give, grant and convey to you all my interest, right, title and advantage of and in said orange, together with its rind, skin, juice, pulp and pips; and all rights and advantages therein, with full power to bite, suck or otherwise eat the same, or give away with or without the rind, skin, juice, pulp or pips; anything hereinbefore or in any other deed or deeds, instruments of any nature or kind whatsoever to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding."

Could Keep a Secret.

A man who had purchased a fine-looking horse soon discovered that the animal was blind, and after several weeks he succeeded in disposing of her, as the defect did not seem to lessen her speed nor detract from her general appearance. The next day the new owner of the horse approached him.

"Say, you know that mare you sold me?" he began. "She's stone blind."

"I know it," replied her past owner, with an easy air.

"You didn't say anything to me about it," said the purchaser, his face red with anger.

"Well, you see," replied the other, "that fellow who sold her to me didn't tell me about it, and I just concluded that he didn't want it known."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Warning.

The poet awakened with a shuddering scream.

"What is it?" cried his wife; "what is it?"

"A terrible dream," he said. "I spent an hour last evening writing a poem about the glory of the good old times, and I dreamed just now that by some magical influence I had been set back some eighty years. No telephone, no telegraph, no gas, no electric light, no plumbing in the house—no modern conveniences whatever!"

"But that needn't have frightened you," said his wife soothingly. "That wasn't the worst of it. There were no magazines to write to."

LONDON JEWEL THIEVES

Precautions Taken by Dealers to Prevent Robbery.

WOMEN KLEPTOMANIACS.

Plan Pursued in Engaging Clerks—Instance of Owner Committing Theft—As Safeguards Many Proprietors Employ a System of Constant Stock Taking.

Wiser in the selection of their assistants than in some other details connected with their business, London jewelers are seldom troubled with thefts—though an occasional robbery may occur, owing in great measure to the inadequate police measures which have for so long disgraced London. Fortunately for proprietors of jewelry establishments, they are not wholly dependent on the police, consequently they are in a position to safeguard themselves against thefts by their customers and assistants.

When a vacancy occurs on a jeweler's staff, he either advertises for an assistant or selects one from among his acquaintances. But before the new hand is engaged his antecedents undergo a searching examination, and numerous confidential inquiries are set on foot concerning his character. Should he be known to have frequented race courses or to have played any game of chance, he will not be employed, for the proprietor of the business argues that gambling may lead to theft. In fact, the man whose mode of life suggests that he lives beyond his means has no hope of employment in a leading establishment. Though his record for honesty is without blemish, scarcely a single jeweler will risk employing him. It is, indeed, astonishing to what extent these inquiries are carried. Some managers—especially those who have been "let in"—almost have the would-be assistant shadowed before they engage him. And even after the contract is signed, the proprietor's chief check on his employees is constant stock taking. The assistant in charge of a certain showcase is required without warning to show that his stock tallies with the manager's stock book. This is done to prevent any member of the staff who is financially embarrassed pawning an article of jewelry in the hope of redeeming it before the regular stock taking day. The system certainly has its advantages, though it is resented in certain cases.

It is seldom that the proprietor of a jewelry store robs himself—to de-fraud the assurance company—but a London jeweler lately enlisted public sympathy by causing himself to be bound, gagged and tied to a heavy table in his office. His modus operandi was as follows: His first step was to select a public holiday, knowing that no customers would come and that a visitor would naturally turn away from a closed shop. He then arranged with his partner to secure him to the table and to so arrange the gag that he need not be unnecessarily inconvenienced. The obliging partner carried out these instructions to the letter and after spending the night feasting and drinking with his accomplice left him about 9 o'clock in the morning, first taking the precaution to leave the safe door open and to give the room the appearance of having been ransacked. Shortly after the departure of this number one, the victim (?) began bellowing for the police and upon their arrival a piteous sight awaited them. Tightly tied to the leg of the table, the jeweler appeared to be at his last gasp. His clothes were disordered, his neck was pulled out, a button had been torn from his waistcoat, and his hair stood on end! Indeed, no detail had been omitted—the play was admirably acted.

His next move was to put in a claim for the loss which he had sustained. But here he was at fault, for the sagacious manager of the assurance company—to adopt the vulgar tongue—"smelled a rat" and hinted that the jeweler could throw more light upon the subject. The last-named professional injured innocence and threatened the company with an action for libel and the manager advised the police to prosecute the jeweler for fraud. Acting upon this hint, detectives set to work and had it not been for the timely disappearance of the jeweler's partner the twain would probably have been made to suffer the penalties of the law.

Of late years London jewelers have had to face the wiles of the female kleptomaniac. Formerly the gentleman was above theft—he simply owed for what she could not pay; nowadays if she steals she is said to suffer from kleptomaniacs. Sometimes she is prosecuted, and if she is a titled person the tender-hearted police court magistrate lets her off with a caution. If the prisoner is unlikely to be of use to him she is fined, and if family influence is brought to bear she may be certified mad and told "not to do it again." Occasionally the jeweler thinks it better policy not to give her in charge. He fears that by allowing the law to take its course he may cause his establishment to be boycotted by the "smart set." And by compounding a felony he secures her custom and that of her friends, for if they do not patronize him he may hold over her head the

Every bottle of Dr. Pierce's world-famous medicine leaving the great laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., has printed upon its wrapper all the ingredients entering into its composition. This fact alone places Dr. Pierce's Family Medicine beyond the reach of quackery. They cannot be classed with patent or secret medicines because they are neither. This is why so many unprejudiced physicians prescribe them and recommend them to their patients. They know what they are composed of, and that the ingredients are those endorsed by the most eminent medical authorities.

The further fact that neither Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, his great stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart regulator and blood purifier, nor his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over-worked, broken-down, nervous women, contains any alcohol, also entitles them to a place all by themselves.

Not only do physicians prescribe the above, non-secret medicines largely, but the most intelligent people employ them—people who would not think of using the ordinary patent, or secret medicines. Every sufferer who has passed through the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines has the strongest kind of an endorsement from leading medical writers, of the several schools of practice. No other medicines put up for like purposes has any such professional endorsement.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, Colic, and other ailments of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two "Pellets" a Bragg's sell them, and nothing is "just as good." Easy to take as candy.

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE CO. OF CANADA.

AS A COMPANY IN WHICH TO ASSURE.

"The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada does things liberally and promptly. Twenty years ago an application took out, with that company, a Semi-Endowment Policy for $1,000, of which $500 was guaranteed at the expiration of the policy, with accumulated profits, and $1,000 in the event of death within the period.

"Now, the assured has been notified that the Endowment period has expired, and that he could, if he chose:—1st, withdraw $500, plus $101.05 of accumulated profits, of a total of $601.05; or 2nd, Obtain with the amount of the first option, a non-participating policy for $1,630 payable at death; or 3rd, obtain an annuity for life of $73.15.

That sum of $401.05 of profits earned in twenty years for the assured by the Company, added to the $500 of guaranteed Semi-Endowment, is a result which is an eye-opener for people who desire to invest their savings safely.

"The owner of the above policy (No. 13,537), was protected in case of death during the period of twenty years for the sum of 1,000, for nothing, and finally he draws nearly fifty per cent. more than he paid out in premiums during his twenty years of assurance.

"Once more therefore does the Sun Life of Canada prove the truth of its motto—

"PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

"We keep for public inspection the positive proof of the assurance policy as above related."

"Le Moniteur du Commerce."

With such results it should be easy for intending insurers to make a decision as to the Company which best looks after the interests of its policyholders.

THE STORY OF A SONG

By MRS. NEVILLE PEEL

A cool breeze blew through the dusky room of a Swiss hotel. Mrs. Fayne shivered and rose to close the window; as she did so she saw snow covered mountains towering high against the starlit sky.

"What a price to pay!" Her dog, which was sitting on a rug close to her whined sympathetically. "Never mind, Larry!" said his mistress.

"I am afraid I am disturbing you," said the intruder in his civil, level tones. "but I have to go away early to-morrow morning, and I should like to speak to you, as from what you say, I will not see much of you until we meet in St. George's, Hanover Square, in three weeks' time."

"I wanted to show you the photographs of my children," he said abruptly. "They came by this evening's post." Awkwardly he unfolded the parcel and showed her the pictured faces of his offspring, nestling together against a background of seecy clouds.

"Why did you not tell me how absolutely perfect they are?" There was life and animation in her voice; in her artistic sense of the beautiful it was an unexpected alleviation to turn from the father to the exquisite loveliness of her future stepchildren.

"The children are like their mother," he said, in his slow, quiet, hesitating tones. "I hope you will be kind to them; they have had a wretched time with me. Somehow we a— and he paused. "We don't get on," he ended simply enough, looking down at his large boots.

"Nonsense!" she said in her soft voice, "how ridiculous to talk of not getting on with such babies as these! Their mother must have been perfectly charming," she added gently.

"She was," returned the Scotchman, blinking his eyes and smiling bitterly. "Charming to every one, but never to her husband. You see, she never cared for me, she married me for my money, and—"

"No, do not tremble so, dearie," he said. Mrs. Fayne thought "dearie" was a dreadful word. She rose to her feet and walked to the other end of the room, picked up some music and sat down. He loved her and dreaded that the moment should come in which he must say "good-by," though only for three weeks. His eyes wandered to the open piano.

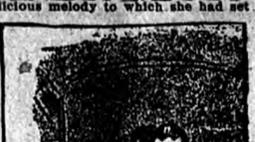

"Won't you sing to me? Just one song before I go?" he said, anxiously. "I am very tired," she answered, "but I will sing you my last composition; it is not given to the world yet—I have to correct and improve it, and when we are settled up in Scotland there will be plenty of time; it will be the first song that I shall sign with my married name."

She looked down at him from her great height and smiled softly; the vision of wealth and pleasure which she had conjured up for the moment was not unpleasing, while the allusion to their life together was music in the Scotchman's ears. He followed her like a great faithful dog to the piano, and as her right cord touched the keys he saw that his wife was laughing matter at the time. That is why I feel that in marrying Eveleen I am doing the best for my children." He looked at Sylvia with a sort of wistful air, as of one who would have his statement confirmed.

"Oh, of course!" said Miss Blair eagerly, but as she looked up at her host she saw him turn on his chair and listen intently while the pale pink color rose in his withered cheek. "They are singing in the sitting room next to this," he said, rather excitedly. "The woman's voice is not unlike Eveleen's—not quite so sweet, perhaps, but it resembles hers."

"Yes?" returned Sylvia interrogatively. "I have never heard her sing." "She has not been singing lately," said Sir James. "She has been much too busy; she wrote to me this morning from her little house in Motcombe Street that she was overwhelmed with all she had to do, in the giving up of her house, etc., and in making preparations for our sojourn at Cairo." He dwelt on the words with pleasure, while all the time the music in the room beyond rose and fell in soft cadence, till the melody died away on the listening ear.

"It is a lovely voice," he said. "It is more like Eveleen's timbre of voice than any I have ever heard. Assure you, Sylvia, she sings divinely."

"Won't you sing to me?" old words, he plain, commonplace man as he was, felt himself to be in fields of Elysium. There is no song of all our hearts are singing But has some note whose haunting sadness grieves; There is no rose of all the year is bringing But has some thorn unseen amid the leaves. There is no garden but some weed incloses; There is no day but has its hour of pain. Yet still we sing, and gather earth's bright roses— Walk in its garden and forget the rain. Sing on, oh Heart! although the tears may glisten, Gather life's roses although the rain be rife. Earth is not all—His angels ever listen; Heaven shall make perfect our imperfect life.

She ceased singing and looked at her gaunt lover; he was gazing at her in a sort of shy, furtive rapture, and in the moonlight she could see the tears glistening in his narrow little eyes.

"Who believes in angels nowadays?" she said. "Who believes in heaven and a perfect life?" "I have not had a dinner that one can call a dinner for years," said Mr. Arthur Blair, looking up pathetically at his brother-in-law and cousin, Sir James MacDonald, as he sat at the flower-decked table of a small sitting room on the Hotel Metz, Pall Mall.

"Flora has a cook now whom she keeps because she has joined the Band of Hope in the village; she does not seem to think that she is rapidly driving me to the band of despair," and Mr. Blair wrinkled his little brown forehead and looked like a monkey to whom his keepers are not quite kind.

"Sir James laughed. "I wish you had persuaded Flora to come, too," he said mendaciously. Now, Flora was Sir James's sister, and Arthur Blair's wife, an accomplished kill-joy of whom they were both afraid.

"Not in her line," said Sylvia Blair. "No," returned the husband. "A funeral, now, she would have enjoyed that."

"You really are too bad, Arthur," said his sister. "It is merely a matter of taste, you know," he replied, "but, dear Jim, it was an excellent idea of yours, bringing us here instead of at your gloomy old quarters in Westminster. The worst of it is that, in my official capacity of best man, I should have lined you. By the bye, why did you ask me to be your best man, Jim?"

"Eveleen tells me that she will welcome the solitude and silence of a place, that she may devote herself more than ever to her art," returned the fiancé, proudly. "That is all very well," said Sylvia, "but you must open the castle gates sometimes; she will never bear the strain of being shut up in an incommunicable park, with the wind shrieking down the great avenue through long stormy days."

"Don't you think you could do without me at Drumlyra?" said Sylvia gently, as the door closed on her brother. "No, certainly not," said Sir James decidedly. "There is the housekeeper, you know," returned Sylvia, soothingly. "The housekeeper," repeated Sir James. "This one seems a fairly responsible person, but she has only been with me six weeks, the one before entertained paying guests all the time I was away in Norway. Oag of her lodgers was taken ill at Drumlyra and died; a friend of mine passing saw a funeral coming out at the North Lodge and wrote to console with me on the death of one of my children. I shall never forget the shock it gave me."

"OUPID AND CASH. It has been a poetic fiction that there can be no affiliation betwixt Cupid and Mammon. Love in a cottage or a flat (modern version) was to be preferred to lack of it in a palace, says the Boston Post. Marriage for money has been held up to execration and even the thought of the bride has been frowned upon as something approaching sacrilege.

It remained for a Boston girl to prove the connection between Cupid and cash. A swain won her heart and the day was set. The bride-elect inquired into the financial responsibility of her adorer. He told her he had money in bank. She asked for the book; but he was equal to the occasion. She also, accompanied by her brother, she went to the bank and was told that the groom-to-be had no such sum on deposit as the book pretended to show. The wedding is off.

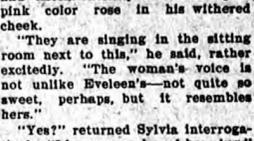

A man who would stoop to deceit on the eve of his wedding might be expected to resort to it as a regular practice ever after. We congratulate the young widow from Boston on the result of her investigation.

AS a renovator of soil and as a food for stock, the cow pea is unsurpassed. To get the largest possible yield of cow peas from any given soil, a plentiful application of POTASH is necessary.

The best methods leading to certain success are fully explained in the 65-page illustrated book, which we send free to farmers who write for it. It tells of the remarkable results attained with cow peas nourished upon POTASH.

ROADS AND ROAD MAKING

OBJECT-LESSON ROADS.

Variations in Cost Per Square Yard in Different States.

During the fiscal year 1904-5 the Office of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture constructed nineteen object-lesson and experimental roads in nine different states.

During this year there were more permanent object-lesson roads built by the office than in any previous year, and about one-fourth as many as were built during the entire period from 1896, when the work was first begun, to the year 1905.

The maximum cost of the macadam roads constructed was 98 cents per square yard; the average, 55 cents, and the minimum, 27 cents per square yard. The wide difference in the cost of the macadam roads was due to the difference in the depth of material and the cost of labor and teams, the amount of grading, the culverts built, the length of haul of materials, and the relative efficiency or inefficiency of the labor employed.

Many kinds of materials were used, including limestone, granite, trap-rock, flint-rock, novaculite, marl, chert, gravel, oyster-shells, clam-shells, burned clay, and sand clay.

In many cases local materials were used, but in districts where suitable materials were not available these were shipped in by boat or rail. It is supposed by many people that to secure materials from distant places by rail is too expensive, and is therefore not advisable, but this supposition is without foundation, for it has been found that most of the railroads are willing to haul road materials at very low rates. In some of the Western States the rate is practically the same as for slack coal—which is the minimum—in some cases being less than 1/2 cent per ton-mile.

Stump or Rock Extractor.

In this apparatus a supporting frame is employed, triangular in shape, to the apex of which is suspended the lifting mechanism. This consists of a supporting bar, one end of which is provided with an opening for the reception of a link, which is attached to the top of the stump, the opposite end being recessed and having a vertical slot in which is mounted a rackbar. The rackbar is adjusted to raise or lower the load by means of a lever. At the inner end of the lever is a terminal pin which engages with the teeth on the rackbar. As a means for locking the rackbar preparatory to taking a new grip, a latch is provided. Secured to the lower end of the bar is a ring or link, to which is fastened in any manner one end of a chain or rope for attachment to the stump, rock or other article to be extracted. After the chain has been attached to the stump the lever is operated, which forces the rackbar up a notch, after which a fresh hold is secured and the operation repeated.

Expenditure for Roads.

The justification for the expenditure of public money in the improvement of the highways must be found in the traffic itself. Not only the present amount of travel on the road, but also the amount it would be increased by improved conditions, should be taken into account. The importance of accurate and reliable information in this connection can be readily understood, and the almost entire lack of such data is a severe detriment to the cause.

Interstate Highway.

An interstate highway is planned to extend from the border of British Columbia through Washington, Oregon and California to the Mexican boundary. It is estimated that this road can be constructed at an average cost of $5,000 per mile. King County, Washington, has already appropriated the amount necessary to build its portion, which is made available during the next five years, and if other counties act as promptly the road will be completed by 1911.

What Peru Taught Us.

The Good Roads Magazine says, "The invaders of 'savage' Peru found good roads in that country four centuries ago, and yet here is a picture of American farmers unable to move their crops, with children kept out of school and wives and family in prison, who themselves can only venture away from home when the tobacco pouch is empty, posing as civilized. Isn't it about time to make good this claim?"

Starting Russian Students.

Many of the 1,500 Russian students in Paris are said to be starving owing to the stoppage of the remittances which they have been accustomed to receive from their relatives at home. Most of them have been receiving $15 a month, but many have lived on as little as $10.

CONCESSIONS BY RAILROADS.

Passengers Free in Ireland—Baths for Employees in Russia.

The news that the Belfast and Northern Counties railway of Ireland has offered free travelling for ten years to proprietors or tenants of new houses along its line between Belfast and Lough Larnoe has been widely commented upon, says London Tit-Bits.

One of the chief grievances of male travellers has been the invasion by ladies of smoking compartments. The writer has noticed that the Midland Company has recently labelled a number—possibly all—of their smoking compartments, "Smokers only."

French railway carriages standing higher from the platform than ours do, it has long been a source of complaint on the part of ladies and invalids that they were most difficult to enter or descend from. The Paris, Lyons & Mediterranean Company is remedying this matter by the provision of portable steps for the convenience of those who are not alighted. These steps are a yard in breadth and covered with thick carpet. The employees are directed to place them at the disposal of anyone who asks for them.

Another most excellent regulation which has recently come into force on French lines and which our own companies would do well to copy is to the effect that any first or second-class passenger travelling with valuables, such as specie, important documents, jewelry, paintings or the like, may have a compartment reserved for him either by paying the price of a single ticket or by the payment of a charge calculated on a weight ten times that of the package. If the weight of the object or package exceeds a certain fixed amount a whole truck is placed at the disposal of its guardian, and he is then allowed to travel free on condition that he keeps guard over his property and relieves the company of all responsibility.

Russia is not usually supposed to be particularly up to date, in any respect, yet there is one line at least, the Kursk-Charkov-Sebastopol, which has shown that its methods are very far removed from those of barbarism. The company has built a travelling bath for use along the line by all their employees and their families. The bath consists of two cars connected with each other by a covered way. One contains baths fitted with hot and cold water; the other consists of dressing rooms. The travelling bath is moved along from one station to another according to a regular schedule, and remains there for so many hours, during which time the employees and their families can use it free of charge.

Certain American railways, especially the South Florida and other Southern lines, carry clergymen in the dress of their profession free of charge. This is a most valuable concession to the clergy, whose parishes are in some cases as large as an English county. The late Episcopal Bishop of South Florida once told the writer that his average yearly journeying by rail within his own diocese was 4,000 to 5,000 miles.

Man's Weaker Half of Body.

The popular belief is that the left side is weaker than the right, and, as in all popular beliefs, there is much truth in this. In most cases, says the Grand Magazine, the right arm is decidedly stronger than the left, the bones are larger and the muscles more vigorous.

When we come to consider the lower limbs, however, we find a precisely opposite state of affairs; the left leg is stronger than the right in the great majority of cases. This want of symmetry is noticeable all through the body. Nine times out of ten we see better with one eye than with the other, and hear better with the left than with the right ear, or vice versa.

Not only so, an injury to the body—a burn or a cut, for instance—causes more pain on one side than it would were it inflicted on the other. Even diseases attack one side on their first onset in preference to the other. Eczema, varicose veins, sciatica, and even tuberculosis begin, invariably, to manifest themselves on our weaker side. A blistering plaster, too, will provoke an eruption only if applied to the left side.

The simplest way, apparently, of discovering which is our weaker side is to observe which railway we lie upon by preference when in bed, as it is certain that we will instinctively adopt the attitude which is most agreeable, or, rather, which causes the least inconvenience; in other words, we will lie upon the side the muscles of which, being more vigorous, are less sensible to the pressure upon them of the weight of the body.

Statistics and observation go to prove that in about three cases out of four it is the left side which is the weaker, thus giving reason to the popular dictum. Curiously enough, however, pneumonia, it has been noticed, unlike most diseases, usually attacks at first the right—that is to say, the stronger side of the body.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Scottish women have organized a "Woman's Domestic Guild." With this they intend to solve the servant-girl problem.

A business academy for women only has been opened in Fribourg, Switzerland; under the auspices of the university of that city.

The first woman to become principal of the Chappaque institute, one of the best known Quaker schools in the United States, is Mrs. John W. Cox, wife of a New York architect.

The University of Paris has established two scholarships of $1,500 each for women students who will visit England, America, Germany and Norway and study the educational systems of those countries.

NERVOUS AMERICAN CHILDREN.

Are Overcrowded in Restraint and Overcrowding in Studies.

It is really a fact that modern civilized children are born with nervous tissue of finer fiber, and therefore, more irritable than that found in more primitive cultural states, it is a condition to be given most serious consideration. We are no longer justified in arranging school work as though all the little ones were as phlegmatic as Indian babies. The natural environment of childhood is untrammeled freedom in the open air, says American Medicine. The explosive abouts emitted as soon as a child is released from a season of restraint. Of course this fact has long been known by intelligent teachers who give their little charges numerous occasions to blow off steam, but it does seem that much more can be done than is done. If it is true that American children are of a more nervous type than those of northern Europe, we can expect to find a greater proportion of nervous abouts among them.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

In mending gloves it is better to use cotton the color of the glove rather than silk. The gloss of the latter draws attention to the stitches, which would hardly be visible in cotton.

To curl feathers the ribs are scraped with a bit of glass cut circularly, in order to render them pliant, and then, by drawing the edge of a blunt knife over the filaments they assume the curly form so much admired.

Among the lace accessories are sets of collars and cuffs of dainty embroidery. The collars are made with round yokes and deep cuffs. Another pretty set is made with a small round yoke for the collar and deep cuffs; the material is organdie, with edging and insertion of Irish lace.

Cut off the feet of old stockings, cut the legs open and sew them up, two together, for rubbers. These will be found to make excellent "house flannels," and useful potholders for furniture. The cut-off feet, opened out, are handy for applying the beeswax and turpentine, or other polishing medium.

A Pretty Waist.

A simple but pretty and effective waist is made of coarse cream net, with a little vest and deep cuffs of a finer net of the same tone. The vest cuffs and stock are fancifully edged with heliotrope ribbon.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policyholder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give. ## The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS

The Publisher of Webster's International Dictionary alleges that it "is in fact the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in its content, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the large and ever-increasing requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, in its new edition, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and is admirably adapted to meet every part, and in admirably adapted to meet the larger and ever-increasing requirements of a generation, which demands more of popular educational knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work, as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in our judicial work we will be the source of constant reference.

The Outdoor Girl.

The fashion of outdoor life for girls as well as for boys has had many beneficial results, says Harper's Bazar. The better health and better spirits of our young women, their less conventional and more wholesome attitude toward the young men, are all pleasant to note; but sometimes an onlooker is led to wonder if the change is wholly for the better. One misses the gentleness, respect and reverence that are naturally looked for in well-brought-up young womanhood, and which used to be combined so admirably with no mean intellectual ability in the girls of the last generation. One ceased long ago to expect of them what used to be called "manners." But are the essentials also lacking, and, if they are, where lies the blame? The steel-engraving lady is not to be called back, but the gentleman cannot be allowed to pass. She may play tennis and golf—baseball if she likes. She may ride, row and sail, but gentle should she be when the sport is over—gracious in her own home, respectful to her superiors, whether in age or in wisdom, and reverent before the sacred things of life.

How to Be Well Dressed. The Frenchwoman would tell her English sister, if the question were asked her, that one reason why the Parisian as a rule looks better dressed than the women in her case she patronizes the dyer and cleaner more frequently. In Paris alone there are upward of three thousand cleaning establishments, for the careful Frenchwoman does not wear a nice blouse or dress till it is dirty and draggled looking, but directly it shows any lack of freshness she packs it off to the cleaner's to have it restored to its original condition. Thus the garment does at least six times the smart service that it might if owned by the average Englishwoman, and she can afford when she replaces it to buy something really good and well made.

Scolds About Women. Deaf mutes are the only women that ever go without saying. The average woman don't want a vote if she can get a voter.

The woman who hesitates isn't always slow, but she stutters. The less you say about woman keeping a secret the better.

The woman who is proud of her small feet walks on her pride. A woman never finds experience for sale on a bargain counter. A woman never weeps more bitterly than when she weeps for spite.

A King's Curious Habit. King Carlos has a mania of never wanting to creak twice from the same class. Just as soon as his lips have touched a glass filled with any liquid, he has only taken a few drops of it he no longer touches that glass; another must be given to him. While in the palace of the French Minister of the Interior on the Quay d'Orsay, those who were waiters specially chosen to serve the King were constantly on the qui vive to take away a glass out of which the King had drunk, and to replace it with another.

COOKING WITH OLIVE OIL.

Said to Contain Nutritive Qualities and Render Food Digestible.

Two tablespoonfuls of absolutely pure olive oil, if it is said, contain more available nourishment than a pound of beef. Unfortunately the use of olive oil has not as yet been very greatly developed by American housekeepers, although its value as an article of food is fully appreciated by the people of southern Europe. Food fried in olive oil has a delicious crispness, and not only lacks the quality of making the food indigestible but adds much to the food value of all articles fried in it. The best grade of olive oil is not greasy. Overripe olives make greasy oil, and it is a fault that is generally found with the medium grades. If there is even the slightest hint of a musty odor about olive oil it means that it was made from olives that were allowed to remain after picking until they became moldy and fermented.

The better grades of the oil are made by machinery, much of it being made right in the olive groves, where the olives are picked and crushed on the same day. The machinery is kept scrupulously clean, and it is this attention to small matters that makes the difference in the grades of oil. Even though the best oil is considerably more expensive, it is well worth the difference in the price, and the cheaper grades should never be considered in providing for one's table.

Vitality of Scarlet Fever. In a farmhouse in one of the New England States a case of scarlet fever unexpectedly developed not long ago. On seeking for its origin, the physician found that some old cotton quilts, laid away in the garret for years, had recently been taken down and aired and put to use by the family. These bedcoverings, it was remembered, had been put away after a siege of this disease. This is only one of many instances that could be related to show how long the infectious agent retains its vitality and how common a thing it is for scarlet fever to be disseminated by bedding and other objects. These quilts should have been burned as soon as the first patients had recovered.

The children of a certain physician were one day allowed to unlock an antique secretary that had not been opened for years. In it they found tresses of hair that had been cut from the heads of children who had died twenty years before of scarlet fever. In a few days they were both stricken with this dread disease. The ease with which this disease is disseminated is appalling. It has been known to spread to a neighboring house simply from the airing of bed clothing in a window. Infected bed clothing should never be washed with any other. The disease has been transmitted in this way. A bouquet of flowers that was sent from a scarlet fever room to a hospital carried the disease.—Emma E. Walker, in Good Housekeeping.

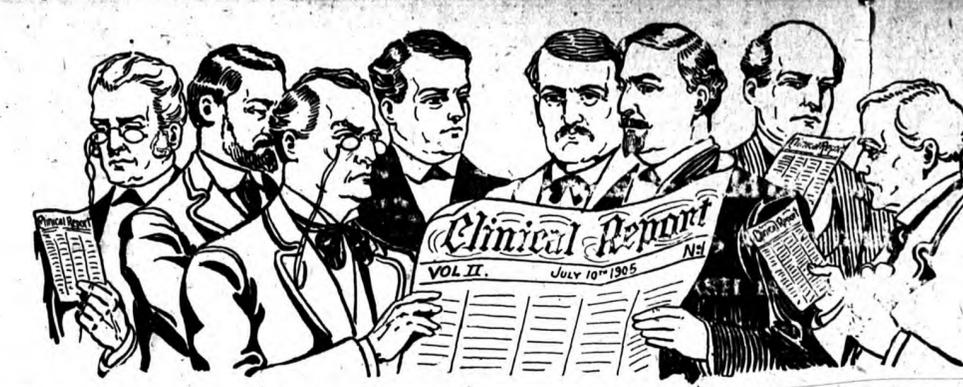

How to Get Fat. Absolute freedom from care and anxiety. At least one hour of sleep of every twenty-four. In addition to this nap during the day if possible. This sleep must always be natural. Nothing is so bad for the appearance and general health as sleep induced by anodynes or narcotics in any form. The diet should be liberal and should consist largely of food containing starch and sugar; potatoes, fresh, sweet, butter, milk, cream, fruits, cooked and served with sugar, all vegetables containing starch and sugar, such as corn, sweet potatoes, beans, peas, foods of the macaroni and spaghetti kind, fish and oysters, ice creams, desserts, without pastry, plenty of outdoor life, and a moderate amount of exercise. I do not believe any one can gain flesh if there is any internal disease, certainly not if there is any tendency to dyspepsia or liver trouble, says Modern Women. When the patient is plump in one part of the body and falls in another a systematic course is advised. The patient who wishes to gain flesh can never do so if she worries, is harassed, or permits her nerves to get the better of her.

Told By The Face. Faces have an influence that words can never have. The eyes, the brow, the lines of the whole visage, speak out as the tongue can never speak. The face is not merely physical, it changes inevitably as the inner man changes. Hard thoughts, evil desires, selfish ambitions, show through the countenance as in no other way says Woman's Life. And the influence of those inner thoughts and purposes of ours is felt by those who merely look at us. It is not enough that we should have a care about words and deeds as influencing others; the very countenance itself, lighted from within, should speak forth a clean, wholesome message to all who look us in the eyes.

Novelties in Vails. Many shaded or "radium" veils are worn. The effect in most cases, says the Daily Telegraph, is extraordinarily becoming, but the wise woman will be very careful in the selection of colorings, and will bear in mind that many of the soft draperies that look well round the hat and head do not look well over the face. For instance, the red-pink effects and cold blue tones are quite unbecoming when worn over the face, whereas in most cases black, brown and dark blue enhance the beauty of a good complexion. As a rule, I think a face seen through a red, pale blue or mauve veil looks its worst, and yet these are very favorite shades.

Cause of Drunkenness. It is alleged as a chief reason for the excessive drinking indulged in by our countrymen that life is monotonous, and men drink to obtain excitement. Doubtless there is much in this reason. It does not apply to all cases, but it does to many. But that very craving for excitement is itself a symptom of something unnatural.

Everybody understands that an old bottle must be treated with care, but very few understand that an old stomach is in the same condition as an old bottle.

CURES AFTER THE DOCTORS HAVE FAILED.

RHEUMACIDE has cured thousands of cases of Rheumatism after all the doctors and all other means had failed. Rheumacide cured John F. Eline and others, of Baltimore, after the famous specialists of Johns Hopkins Hospital, the greatest hospital in the world, had failed. Rheumacide cured Austin Percelle, of Salem, Va., and D. H. Oimstead, the Norfolk, Va., contractor, after they had spent large sums on other remedies and the doctors had given up hope. Rheumacide cured Mrs. Mary Weiborn, of High Point, N. C., of rheumatism she had endured for 20 years. Rheumacide cured W. R. Hughes, of Atkins, Va., after the most famous New York specialists failed. There is a reason why it cures: Rheumacide is the latest discovery of medicinal science, and while powerful enough to sweep all germs and poisons out of the blood, it operates by purely natural methods, does not injure the most delicate stomach, and builds up the entire system.

Almost a Miracle in This Case. Dillon, S. C., Aug. 28. Bobbitt Chemical Company: Gentlemen—In September, 1899, I took rheumatism in a very bad form (inflammatory). In a month after the disease started I had to give up my work and to bed. I continued to grow worse until my arms and hands were badly drawn, so much so that I could not use them. My legs were drawn back till my feet touched my hips. I was as helpless as a baby for nearly 12 months. The muscles of my arms and legs were hard and shrivelled up. I suffered death many times over. Was treated by six different physicians in McColl, Dillon and Marion, but none of them could do me any good, until Dr. J. F. Ewing, of Dillon, came to see me. He told me to try your RHEUMACIDE. He got me one bottle of the medicine and I began to take it before the first bottle was used up. I began to get better. I used six bottles and was completely cured. That was years ago and my health has been excellent ever since. Have had no symptoms of rheumatism. Will say further that I began to walk in about six days after I began to take RHEUMACIDE with the aid of crutches; in about three months after I began to take it I could walk as good as anybody, and went back to work again. Yours truly, JAMES WILKES.

Rheumacide GETS AT THE JOINTS FROM THE INSIDE. SWEEPS ALL POISONS OUT OF THE BLOOD. A purely vegetable remedy that goes right to the seat of the disease and cures by removing the cause. Your druggist sells and recommends Rheumacide. Sample bottle and booklet free if you send five cents for postage. BOBBITT CHEMICAL COMPANY, Proprietors, Baltimore.

"A Humble Confession."

Several years ago, in a Western town, a young lawyer, a member of a large church, got drunk. The brethren said he must confess. He demurred. He knew the members to be good people, but that they had their little faults, such as driving sharp bargains, screwing the laborer down to low wages, looting at illegal rates, misrepresenting articles he had for sale, etc. But they were good people, and pressed the lawyer to come before the church meeting and own up his sin of taking a glass too much, for they were a temperance people and abhorred intemperance. The sinner finally went to the confession, and found a large gathering of brethren and sisters, whose bowed heads rose and whose eyes glistened with pure delight as the lawyer began his confession. "I confess," he said, "that I never took ten per cent for money." On that confession, down went a brother's head with a groan, "I never turned a poor man from my door who needed food and shelter." Down went another head. "I confess I never sold a skim milk cheese for a new one" whereupon a sister shrieked for mercy. "But" concluded the sinner, "I have been drunk, and am very sorry for it." Whereupon the meeting very peaceably adjourned.—Kentucky Sentinel.

NATURE'S WARNING.

Salisbury People Must Recognize And Heed It.
Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously. But nature always warns you. It's time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills.
To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes. Doan's have done great work in Salisbury.
E. Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last February. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back. The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used was Doan's Kidney Pills. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life will make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach, which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant drudgeries which are often consequent on marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness. As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comeliness. Half a million women and more have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

Saved His Comrade's Life.

I have been engaged for ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." Sold by C. L. ### Cuddle Time.

As the evening shadows gather,
Then 'tis cuddle time I know
When my baby, dressed for dreamland,
Comes a romping to me so;
Comes and begs of me to hold him
On my knee and "rock-a-bye,"
As the purpling sun sinks lower
In the gleaming western sky.
And he cuddles to me nearer,
As the twilight softly glows,
And across the dusky portals
Ghostly flickering shadows throws;
And two dimpled arms about me
Are clasped tighter for a kiss—
Ah, was richer, rarer necklace
Placed about one's neck than this?
And I clasp and hold him closer,
Little tousled head of gold,
As he begs for a "tory"
Which a hundred times I've told;
Begs to have me "tell it over"
Of the quaint Red Riding Hood,
Or the bears—that happy family
Living in the deep, dark wood.
Soon the drooping, drooping lashes
Cover up two eyes of brown,
And the tousled head so golden
On my breast sinks lower down;
Lower yet, till deep in slumber,
Cuddled close to me he lies,
With the glory of the sunset
In his sleeping, dreaming eyes.
In his eyes, in whose rare luster
Shines the beauty of the dawn,
Till I know that into Dreamland
My wee golden head has gone.
Ah, the sweetness of the pleasure,
Making life one golden rhyme,
With a dimpled babe to fondle
When it cometh angel time!

JOHN H. PHELPS, Scranton, Pa.
Gentlemen:
Your Night Caps were almost thrust upon me by a friend who evidently knows a thing or two. Shortly after the middle of last January I was in a state of almost complete nervous exhaustion, arising from excessive business effort, resulting in inability to sleep and mental depression. My physician for two months treated me, at a large expense, for nervous prostration, advising complete rest for an indefinite period. At that time, a vacation was impossible. Fortunately for me, I was then introduced to Night Caps. Skeptically I tried them. One had a box seemed to brace my nerves within a week I could sleep. With sleep has come a return of normal health and I feel like myself again. I have recovered my normal weight. You may be very sure that I now keep Night Caps constantly on hand, particularly as an assistant in case of over indulgence at table. If, at any time, you should deem it wise, or to your advantage, to refer anyone to me, do so. I will be very glad to write inquirers about it. I would suggest, however, that you instruct them to enclose stamp for reply, for I have reason to believe that I might find myself financially embarrassed if inquiries come from all who need your remedy. Kindly withhold this letter from publication. Believe me,
Very truly yours,
(Signed) HARRY W. CROSS.

MARDELA.

Dr. L. N. Wilson and family have just arrived in Mardela where they will spend the balance of the summer.

J. Wallace Parker, of Philadelphia, is spending his vacation with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. B. G. Parker.

Mrs. Harry Rorer, of Jonkinstown, Pa., is spending a few days at the Baptist Parsonage.

Henry Billings Brown, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, has retired from the bench and his place will be filled by appointment between now and next October. He was appointed to the Supreme bench in 1890 to succeed Justice Miller.

Virtue Of Sea Water.

The virtues of sea water are not half known to the public, it seems. We are accustomed to regarding it the best means of making life tolerable on a hot day, but as a medicine we are shockingly ignorant concerning it. A swim in salt water is bracing, but a simple dip, repeated three or four times, is regarded by some doctors as a tonic which weak stomachs crave.

But there are systems which cannot bear the shock of the cold plunge. Some women who have tried it with unpleasant results, have found that they can use tepid sponge baths of sea water, and when that is not obtainable, there can be found at the druggists a pretty good substitute, sea salt, to be dissolved in ordinary water at home. An actress, noted for her vigor at an age when humanity is prone to ailments, gave me her bath secret—a cupful of sea salt dissolved in two quarts of boiling water with an ounce of spirits of camphor and ammonia added later.

After twenty four hours the mixture is ready to use, and the proportions are one teaspoonful to a basin of water. Soap can be used with this bath, but avoid such a combination with real salt water. There is a special soap, I believe, that harmonizes with this kind of water, though I have never used it. Medical authority asserts that one of the best features of a sea bath is the water swallowed by bathers, a wonderful tonic for the liver, stomach and kidneys. I know that dogs which are fond of swimming in sea water invariably drink some of it, without bad results, and in Paris a number of tuberculous patients were treated to hypodermic injections of sea water with most favorable results.

I have been investigating reported cures of rheumatism by the application of hot sea water. I find half a dozen persons who admit cures of this kind. One woman injured her knee, rheumatism set in and the left leg was useless for months. Cloths wrung out in hot sea water were applied every night for a week, and the trouble disappeared. A man with a sprained ankle into which rheumatism crept, tried the same treatment with flattering results. The remedy is sufficiently simple to make a thorough trial quite worth while.

There is just one bar to its popularity—cheapness. The value of a remedy depends largely upon its price, in public judgement. I have ceased to give unsolicited advice but when I am asked to suggest remedies, I shall only speak of those of which I am reasonably certain, and the inexpensive ones will head the list. But it is an era of lavish expenditure, and in the majority of cases cheap things are despised. The ordinary home is heavily stocked with expensive preparations to combat illness, and something cheaper and just as good will not be considered. It is purely a matter of individual choice, but it is not a bit inconsistent to keep on complaining after refusing aid?

HEBRON.

Dear Editor.—I notice in a letter in your valuable paper from Hebron, signed Secretary, he speaks as though they are holding camp for the benefit of Hebron people. No doubt but what it is a benefit to a few persons. If the Secretary will get the names of the heads of families in Hebron he will find that three fourths of them arbitrarily opposed to any camp. It is a great expense to them and no profit only to a few. It does seem a little hard to push things upon the people when really they don't want it, but if the B. C. & A. R. Co., will stop running excursions here on the Sabbath the camps will cease at Hebron. Subscriber.

Careful Thorough Prescription Work

Sometimes you imagine that you have to wait a long time for the medicine, but if we gave it to you in less time, it would NOT be such good medicine. No matter how busy we are, every prescription is prepared carefully and thoroughly; no part of the work is slighted in any detail. It must be right before we let it go out of our hands. You may think at the time that we are being too particular, but that is due to your anxiety and impatience. In your calmer thought you will admit that we are right, and will thank us for preparing such RELIABLE medicine. Our methods have won the commendation of all local physicians who have had occasion to know about them.

GETTING DOWN TO COSTS

Salisbury's Street Improvement Soon to Begin. Estimates Are in—Vitrified Brick Being Recommended.

The City Council are now in possession of the plans and specifications for Salisbury street improvement submitted by Civil Engineer T. C. Hatton who recently made a survey here.

The report is a thorough one, and goes exhaustively into the subject, recommending the use of vitrified brick for Salisbury.

In his plans Mr. Hatton has provided for the improvement of several more streets than were contemplated by the City Council, and estimates the cost at $111,666.45. Of this amount he puts the city's part at $63,904.86, and that of the property owners at $47,661.59. The estimates of Mr. Hatton provide as follows:

Main Street, from Division St. to river	$10,637.73
Dock Street, from Main St. to bridge	5,147.70
St. Peter's Street	2,432.21
Camden Avenue, from the Bridge to Winder Street	20,627.92
Camden Street from Division Street to Dock Street	5,581.18
Division Street from Camden Avenue to Church St.	6,181.97
West Church Street from Division St. to H. C. & A. depot.	23,468.67
West Church Street from Division St. to St. Peter's St.	3,212.94
East Church Street from Division Street to depot	19,940.87
Broad Street from Division St. to East Church St.	10,948.01

These estimates are for vitrified brick with granite curbing. The estimates, using blue stone for curbing, are $3,000 less and for concrete curbing, $5,000 less.

In his report on the durability of the various paving materials, Mr. Hatton says that granite blocks are the most durable, but are too expensive. Vitrified granite he regards vitrified brick as the most durable. The cost of maintenance of brick pavement, he says, would be practically nothing for 20 to 25 years. He cited a piece of pavement in Charlestown, W. Va., which was put down 36 years ago, which is still in good condition. Sheet asphalt, he says, is not durable, and the cost of maintenance would be a heavy burden after a few years' use. So taking everything in consideration, the engineer recommends brick as the material to use in Salisbury.

It is evident from the estimated cost as prepared by the engineer, that the

The Wicomico Shirt Mfg. Co., of Salisbury, Operated by Messrs. Disharoon and Galloway, Now in Smooth Running Trim.

The new shirt factory which was opened here on the third of May, by Messrs. Chas. E. Disharoon and W. F. Galloway on Nailor Street has been making excellent progress and is now in successful operation.

This establishment employs about 40 girls at from $3.00 to $8.00 per week, and turns out about 300 dozen shirts per week.

Strass, Eisman & Co., of Baltimore ship the shirts here, already cut out. They are then made and sent back to Messrs. Strass, Eisman & Co., are well pleased with the quality of the work done. Our low rent and plentiful labor makes it more profitable for them to have their work done here than in Baltimore.

A starch and dry room has been built and will be ready for use in a short while. The plant is 30 feet by 70 feet. It is equipped with 40 new Singer sewing machines and two button hole machines. Eight more machines will be added in a few days.

The machines are run by a seven horse power gasoline engine furnished by E. A. Grier & Sons. It is doing good work. Requires about three gallons of gasoline per day and very little attention.

The Council will be compelled to cut out some of the streets named, as the city is limited to $50,000 bond issue, and this amount is nearly $14,000 short of the cost as estimated by the engineer. The Council has the matter under consideration and will soon decide as to the streets to be improved.

HANDSOME NEW OFFICE

Of E. S. Adkins Co. Receiving Finishing Strokes. Has a Touch of the Colonial in its Architecture. Model of Convenience in Arrangement.

The finest lumber office in Salisbury and one of the best constructed in Maryland is now nearly completed. The E. S. Adkins Co's new office near the site of the old one destroyed by fire several months ago is more than 40 feet long and about 30 feet wide. In its arrangement it will be a model of comfort, convenience and is well ventilated.

In the center of the building is a fire proof vault, large enough to hold nearly one hundred and fifty bushels of wheat. The company can store their papers and valuables here without any fear of their being destroyed. At the entrance and in front of the vault is a reception room. The main part of the office is at the left of the entrance.

There are two small cloak rooms and a telephone room. In the rear of the vault is a large private office with a great open fireplace reminding one of Colonial times. The building is finished with California oak.

The exterior is covered almost entirely with best heart shingles, both roof and wall.

Mr. Adkins estimates the cost complete to approximate between $4000 and $5000.00.

At Tuesday's Session Of The County Commissioners.

Mr. Watkins, of the Chas. Warner Co., was before the Board to state the merits of limestone for road building. He quoted 1 and 2 inch, $1.80 a ton; 3 and 4 inch, $1.80 a ton; screenings, $1.60 a ton; these prices are for delivery at Salisbury. The clerk was instructed to write Engineer Crosby as to the relative cost of shells and limestone as per above figures.

Mr. Cooper was authorized to investigate the condition of the boat and wharves at the upper ferry.

Garrison Lewis was appointed Constable for Willard District, No. 14. Commissioner Larmore appointed Thursday, July 19, as the day to have the surveyor resurvey and lay out a road in Nanticoke District from Jesterville to Nanticoke Point. Commissioner Wright reported that he had contracted with Atlas Bradley to repair the Weatherly mill bridge and dam for $125.00. Next meeting of the Board, July 17.

COUNTY CONVENTION

Of Democrats Occupy The Court House Green Tuesday. Discuss County Affairs, Pass Resolutions And Name Delegates.

Not since the Wicomico Democrats met last at the November polls has there been so large a gathering of the blue stockings as assembled at the Court House in County Convention, on Tuesday. The occasion called for the selection of delegates to attend the First Congressional District Convention at Ocean City, Thursday.

The meeting was called to order by acting chairman, Jas. T. Truitt. Mr. George W. Bell was made Chairman of the Convention. Messrs. B. Frank Kennerly, of Salisbury and J. O. Adams, of Sharpton, Secretaries.

The several districts had elected the following delegates Saturday, who were present:

Barren Creek—L. S. Bennett, J. Windsor Bounds, A. M. Bounds. Quantico—G. M. Measick, Joseph L. Nelson, W. H. Gale. Tynakin—W. W. Larmore, Elmer M. Langrall, John W. Farnham. Phillips.

The following were a Committee on Resolutions—Messrs. W. C. Mitchell, H. James Measick and John E. Johnson. Mr. Elmer E. Bradley offered the resolutions which were adopted, as follows:

Whereas, By the death of Senator Arthur Poe Gorman, the Democracy of the State of Maryland has lost a great leader, the Nation a great statesman and the State an eminent and useful citizen, therefore,

Be It Resolved, That in common with our fellow Democrats of the State and Nation, we stand in admiration and respect for the career of our late lamented United States Senator. He held a position of prominence in Maryland which has seldom been attained by any of her sons, and his wise and able leadership will be sadly missed by the party he so dearly loved. Be it further,

Resolved, That the Democracy of Wicomico County extend to his bereaved family its sincerest sympathy. Whereas, By an agreement between the Democratic and Republican organizations of this county, a convention was held in Wicomico County at the election of 1905; and

Whereas, The absence of the use of money to induce voters either to vote or refrain from voting was productive of universal gratification and commendation on the part of our citizens, irrespective of party affiliation.

Therefore, Be It Resolved by the Democratic Convention of Wicomico County, assembled this 10th, day of July, 1906:

First, That this convention endorses the action of the Democratic Central Committee in helping to bring about a better condition in the politics of this county, so that the vote of the poor man became equal to that of the rich man.

Second, That public sentiment demands that corruption shall cease, and that the ballot box shall be kept uncontaminated from the corrupt influence of corporations or millionaires, and from all manner of venal influence.

Third, That the Representatives of the Democracy of this county, now assembled, express a sincere desire that the law and constitution against bribery shall be faithfully kept and vigorously enforced, and that this may be the more easily accomplished, they request that the Republican Convention and organization and all other good citizens pledge themselves to aid in the accomplishment of this end.

Fourth, That we endorse the faithful and diligent attention which Hon. Thomas A. Smith has given to his duties as Representative from his District in the National Congress, and recommend his renomination by the Democratic Convention to assemble at Ocean City on July 19th, 1906.

Fifth, That the Delegation from Wicomico county in the Congressional Convention cast the vote of the county as a unit and in the absence of the Delegation, that the Delegates present be empowered to cast the vote for the county.

The following delegates were named to the Convention at Ocean City, Thursday:—

District:—Messrs. Wm. H. Bailey, G. C. Bounds, W. W. Larmore, G. Ernest Hearn, Clayton C. Parker, E. M. Bethards, John W. Dashiell, George W. Fooks, Jerome T. Hayman, C. J. Gravenor, Charles E. Williams, George D. Insley, A. M. Jackson and E. G. Davis.

Delegates at large:—Messrs. James E. Ellegood, Charles E. Disharoon, A. W. Robinson, J. Cleveland White, H. James Measick and S. Ker Slemmons.

We have on file thousands of testimonials like the ones given here. We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements we are constantly receiving. No other physician in the world has received such a volume of enthusiastic letters of thanks as Dr. Hartman for Peruna.

SMITH RE-NOMINATED

As The Democratic Candidate From The First Congressional District. Anti-Bribery Resolutions are Adopted.

Delegates from nine counties, comprising the whole Eastern Shore of Maryland, met in the parlor of the Atlantic Hotel, in Ocean City Thursday, and named Thomas A. Smith as the Democratic candidate for Congress. Mr. Smith now represents the district in Congress, having been declared elected two years ago, but a contest was instituted by Mr. William H. Jackson, his Republican opponent in this fight. This contest has not yet been decided by the House of Representatives. It is very probable that Mr. Jackson will again be named by the Republicans to make the fight against Mr. Smith.

No friction marked the proceedings of the convention. Some stir was promised as the result of the efforts of Mr. James E. Ellegood of Salisbury to have the anti-bribery plank inserted in the platform reported by the committee on resolutions. Bribery was condemned, but the action taken did not go quite as far as Mr. Ellegood desired. He expressed himself as satisfied, nevertheless, with the action taken.

It was believed that some mention would be made of William Jennings Bryan in the resolutions. This did not prove to be the case, however. It was thought unwise to take such action so far in advance of the selection of a Presidential candidate.

The Party Platform.

The committee on resolutions submitted the following report:

We, the representatives of the Democratic party of the First Congressional District of Maryland, in convention assembled, reaffirm our allegiance to the fundamental principle of the party as enunciated by the founder and which through continued application by a long line of constructive Democratic statesmen produced the growth of our country from a struggling land of independence to a great Constitutional Republic. While the present programme of the Republican party as formulated at the White House has been constructed on principles long ago and still advocated by the Democratic party, so far as the regulation and control of the great trusts and other illegal combinations of capital are concerned, it is a noteworthy fact that upon the essential necessity of a reform of the high tariff, which has made possible undue corporate wealth and dangerous monopolies, the Republican party has failed to take any effective action.

It is the duty of the Democratic party to stand for the protection of American industries, which is in reality a systematic robbery of the pockets of the great body of the people. A radical reduction of tariff duties to a revenue basis is cardinal principle of the Democracy and will be obtained only through its power. To that principle we commit the candidate this day nominated and pledge his firm adherence and earnest advocacy.

Corruption Should Cease.

The security of the rights of the people and sound public sentiment demand that corruption in politics shall cease, and that the suffrage of the people shall be kept uncontaminated by the venal influence of corporations or individuals who seek political control through the corrupting power of great wealth, and not by the advocacy of honest principles.

In furtherance and support of that sentiment we sincerely declare that the law and constitution against bribery shall be faithfully enforced, and we call on all good citizens to aid in the accomplishment of that end.

We commend to the fullest extent the able, upright and wise business administration of our State affairs by the Governor and other State officials chosen as representatives of the Democratic party. The high standard of public service which the administration has given the people of Maryland is a convincing proof that the Democratic party, constituting, as it does, a large majority of the tax payers and people of intelligence, is the party apt to be entrusted with the Government of this State.

Congressman Smith Commended.

We heartily endorse the course in the Congress of the United States of our Representative, Hon. Thomas A. Smith. His firm stand with his party on all matters of moment to the country, his fidelity to his public duties of every character, and his earnest labors for those measures of concern to this district make the renomination this day to be recorded. Him the just reward of a faithful public servant and we confidently commend his candidacy to the thoughtful and unprejudiced voters of all parties.

Bryan's Name Applauded.

State Senator John P. Moore of the State Central Committee of Worcester County called the convention to order in a short speech, and asked for nominations for a temporary chairman. Mr. J. Frank Harper of Queen Anne's county was named. He spoke at some length, attacking the policy of the Republicans on the tariff question and declaring that such reforms as had been made during the present administration were along the lines advocated by the Democratic party. Incidentally he referred to William Jennings Bryan, declaring that the eyes of the Democrats were turned to him as the Moses to lead them to victory. The reference was greeted with applause.

Committees Named.

C. Gray La Compte of Dorchester county was named as secretary, and each county as it was called named a member of a committee to act on the credentials of the delegates. The members were Thomas L. Day, of Caroline county, C. G. Taylor, of Cecil county, B. L. Litchman of Dorchester county, A. W. Nicholas of

SALISBURY'S WINNING

Team. The City Beginning To Awaken To The Fact That Their Home Boys Are A Fast Nine. Two Additional Victories. More Interest Desired.

Salisbury nine, Delmar three, was the record brought home by our boys last Friday night from their second game with the Delmar team.

Score by innings:
Salisbury 1 0 0 0 0 1 7-9
Delmar 0 1 0 0 0 1 0-3
Umpires, Jackson and Roberts.
Batter for Salisbury, Jones and Austin.
Battery for Delmar, Duncan and Cannon.

Duncan gave four men base on balls.
Jones gave no men base on balls.
Hits off Duncan 3. Hits off Jones 5.
Errors, Salisbury 4, Delmar 3.

Duncan had Salisbury guessing until the ninth inning, but you can't keep a good team down. Salisbury took a brace, got five hits, one base on balls, had four walk downs by being hit by pitched ball, got 7 runs, in the ninth inning and came off victorious.

Wednesday, July 11, Princess Anne O. Salisbury 3.

Although it was rainy and a disagreeable afternoon, several people were out to see the game, yet there could have well been a larger crowd at the games. A team can play much better where all the seats in the grand stand are full. We have cause to be proud of our team this season for the score book doesn't show a single defeat and we should give them our loyal support. Blind Man On Commission.

Governor Warfield, has recently appointed George W. Conner, Ph. D. teacher in the Maryland school for the blind of Baltimore on commission to investigate the condition, and need of the adult blind of our state. Mr. Conner is an energetic, self-supporting blind man, and will canvass the entire Eastern Shore this summer. He has found already, in Somerset, Worcester, and Wicomico Counties, over 60 adult blind, and 15 young blind, and deaf children. He represents the Maryland school of the blind of Baltimore, and the Maryland school of the deaf Frederick City.

These are long established, free boarding schools for the young blind, and deaf of the state, including those whose sight and hearing are so defective as to render them unable to attend public schools.

In an address delivered at the Division Street Baptist Church of this city last Sunday evening on the self-reliant blind, Mr. Conner, said, that the idea that the blind must forever beg, or live in idleness is false, but that a good all-around education will lift them up to a level of usefulness among men. If readers of the Advertiser know of a blind man, woman, or child kindly bring it to the attention of Mr. Conner, whose Postoffice for the summer will be Marion, Md.

Queen Anne's county Tughman Sheriff of Kent county, George S. McCready of Somerset county, W. H. Jump of Talbot county, Chas. E. Disharoon of Wicomico county and J. C. Crockett of Worcester county.

Credentials were reported as correct, and the Convention then chose the following committee on resolutions: Caroline—Henry R. Lewis; Cecil—James H. Smith; Dorchester—William F. Applegarth; Kent; John A. Hester; Queen Anne's; J. Kirk Brown; Somerset—Ernest F. Kelly; Talbot; G. W. Rowe; Wicomico, J. E. Ellegood; Worcester, E. W. McMaster.

While the Convention was in session Ex-Governor John Walter Smith, who came to Ocean City yesterday, entered the hall. He was warmly greeted. Governor Smith was in nomination by Dr. Stephen P. Stone, of Caroline county.

WOMEN SUFFER NEEDLESS MISERY.

There are hundreds of thousands of women in America suffering from Female Diseases, endangering their lives by doing nothing. If they write to me I will give them the benefit of my extensive experience.—S. B. Hartman, M. D.

IN view of the great multitude of women suffering from some form of female disease and yet unable to find any cure, Dr. Hartman, the renowned gynecologist, has announced his willingness to direct the treatment of as many cases as make application to him during the summer months without charge.

The treatment will be conducted by correspondence. The medicine prescribed can be obtained at all drug stores.

The Doctor will prescribe all medicines, applications, hygienic and dietary regulations necessary to complete a cure. Furthermore, all correspondence will be held strictly confidential.

This offer will hold good only during the summer months. Any woman can become a regular patient by sending a written statement of her age, condition of life, history and symptoms of her derangements, and previous treatment.

Fe-ru-na Brought Health and Happiness.

Miss Nellie South, late of Manchester, Eng., writes from 86 Prince Arthur St., Montreal, Can., as follows:

"Peruna has made a wonderful change in my life. It has brought me health and happiness.

"Since my seventeenth year I have had female complaint and irregularities. My general health suffered, I had pains in my back and lower limbs, my eyes were dim, and I became morose and unreasonable.

"Mother sought the advice of our family physician, who prescribed for me, but I grew no better.

"I then read of Peruna and procured a bottle. That one bottle was worth more than all the doctor's medicine I had taken previously.

MISS Angelina Grotton, 305 St. Urbain street, Montreal, Can., writes:

"Having heard Peruna praised so highly induced me to try it for my cold, and pains in the groins with which I had been suffering for months. It took nearly three bottles to cure me, but I consider that was but a short time, as I have often taken doctors' prescriptions for months before I got relief."—Angelina Grotton.

As is well known, Dr. Hartman is the President of the Hartman Sanitarium, an institution which has a department devoted to the treatment of female diseases.

He is thus brought to see thousands of such cases every year, the most of whom return to their homes to be treated by correspondence.

Half of Woman's Ills are Catarrh and Catarrh Po-ru-na is Unrivaled.

MISS EDNA MOORE, 4611 ST. BUFFALO ST., BUFFALO, N. Y.

"I was a great sufferer from systemic catarrh, was extremely nervous, could not sleep, fainted easily, was very irritable, had a confusion of the senses, and got up in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed.

"I was very wretched, but upon taking Peruna I began to improve, and after using the medicine four months, I felt like a new woman and was completely cured."—Edna Moore.

The principal remedy which Dr. Hartman relies upon in curing catarrhal diseases of women is Peruna. Hundreds of women suffering from Peruna's household remedy.

The Cultivation of Oysters.

As before stated, planting was tried experimentally on the north side of St. Vincent Sound, Florida, and enough was done at the time to show that it could be made a decided success, if the laws of the state regarding planting could be enforced. As it was, no protection whatever was given, and the experiment proved unsuccessful for that reason. The State laws protect the planters, but there appears to be no attempt to enforce the laws, and the moral sentiment among the oystermen is not in favor of such protection.

The whole question of oyster cultivation is of the greatest importance to the people of Appalachicola and vicinity, as undoubtedly, if the law is enforced and the planters protected, it may be made a great industry, and it is only necessary to cite as an example the great success met with by the oyster cultivators of Long Island Sound in order to show what a great business may be developed. But first the oystermen must be brought to a realization of the fact that the protection of oyster cultivation does not in any way infringe upon their rights, and that on the contrary it is directly for their best interests.

The cultivation of oysters would be more easy on account of the number of oyster shells brought into Appalachicola. By simply spreading these shells over the areas of planting ground, the spat would attach itself to the oyster, and only little care in cleaning and spreading would be required to form, in time, a productive bed. It should always be borne in mind, as has already been mentioned, that oysters grow and thrive much better in a current than in still water, as they have a better food supply. In transplanting the clusters should be broken up and each oyster should be thoroughly cleaned of barnacles and mussels.

It is almost certain that if the question of oyster cultivation were taken up in the proper way by the people of Appalachicola and vicinity, excellent results would be obtained. No better flavored or conditioned oysters can be found anywhere than those at Cat Point Bar and at Silva's Bar, and by using the seed from these bars it can be safely prophesied that oysters of the cultivated bed will excel those of the natural beds. There is little doubt that if the oysters on East Hole are, where the vegetable growth renders them unfit for canning purposes, were transplanted to other localities, they would lose the peculiar characteristics so injurious to them, and become, like the Cat Point oysters, excellent in quality.

The spawning season as near as may be ascertained, extends from April 15 to July 15, but these limits of time vary with the temperature to a considerable degree. However, it is probable that in these waters the oysters spawn, to a greater or less degree, all the year around. This is borne out by the fact that during the season of the survey spat was noticed from the beginning of the work in November to the end of March, and oysters in all stages of growth were observed. It is considered that the oysters reach a spawning age at the end of three or four years, according to the temperature. Depth of water of course affects the temperature, and the current the food supply of the mother oyster. If freshets occur during the spawning season the mud or silt kills the spat.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

A Fine Art.

A favorite axiom of the creator of the Prussian monarchy, Frederick the Great, was that "an army marches on its stomach."

The truth of it was demonstrated during the war between France and Germany in 1870. The food supplied to the Prussian soldiers was better than that provided for the French, it was more palatable, more nutritious, and more nutritious. Undoubtedly it was one of the factors that led them to victory.

That a household marches on its stomach is every whit as true. It is true indeed of every individual that the march of life "is on the stomach." Consider this fact in elementary physiology. All brain power depends upon the proper circulation of blood and its efficient nourishment. When the blood is very poor, as in anemia, the mind is apt to become dull. When it is charged with bile, as it is when the liver does not act, a person becomes peevish, irritable and despondent. When it is loaded with poison as in uraemia, and uric acid is not eliminated from the system, stupor and coma supervene. The blood is indeed the life, and it is dependent for its renewal upon the daily food supply.

There is no need, therefore, for much force of logic or any long explanation to prove the connection between break down and cookery; for if cookery be defective the best food in the world may be made worthless for purposes of nutrition.

"Cooking, if badly done," said a doctor, "will destroy the character and value of food. It is possible to give a hare the same flavor as veal, and venison no better than kid."

Bad cookery is also a potent factor for the invocation of dyspepsia. The incompetent cook is one of the greatest forces on earth for calling it into being commonly bringing breakdown, sometimes of a very serious character. The sedentary worker is much more liable to dyspepsia than the man or woman who leads an active outdoor life. There is no class whom it so much behooves to guard against its insidious advances as that of the great army of office workers, those who, year in, year out, are "chained to the desk."

Every one who is obliged to toil for a living with brain and pen, or who is constrained by the exigencies of occupation to sit for the major part of the day pent up in one room, should remember that he cannot eat like a ploughman without sooner or later doing serious harm to his health.

It has been truly said that a man who in India eats and drinks like an Indian cannot escape illness. It is equally true to say that the clerk who lives like the outdoor laborer cannot escape disease.

It is easy to understand why this should be the case. Nothing is so stimulating to the stomach as fresh air; it gives tone and strength to it, and this causes the secretion of the digestive juices to be abundant. Exercise gives tonicity to the stomach muscles and causes them to perform the mechanical part of the work of digestion in a vigorous manner.

A man who is doing hard bodily labor all day in the open air is much like an ostrich as far as his digestion goes; he can digest almost any amount of anything. It is far otherwise for one who is obliged to breathe the vitiated air of a crowded town, and whose exercise is rarely more than the walk to catch a car or tram.

The only thing he can do if he wants to avoid breakdown is to suit his diet to the circumstances of his life, and avoid overtaxing his digestion, as he cannot live in a way that will make it a powerful one.

For instance, a man who works in a city office and who lives close to the conveyance that takes him to it does not need, or rather will be very much better without, a heavy meat breakfast. He should at this meal limit himself to fish, or eggs and bacon.

With such portridge and fruit give all the nourishment needed to keep a sedentary man going from eight till nine.

A limited knowledge of cookery is the chief cause of the over consumption of meat and those heavy, "substantial" kinds of food that are so injurious to people leading sedentary lives. Cookery is an art, and not a piece of household drudgery, as it is too frequently looked upon by mistress and maid. Like all arts it needs study, and in its practice it needs some thought and care. This is really why many women object to it. They prefer the easiest method of putting a piece of meat in a pan, and letting it fry, to the slightly more troublesome work of constructing nutritious and digestive dishes.—Sel.

TERRIBLE ECZEMA ON LITTLE BOY

Mouth and Eyes Covered With Crusts—Face Itched Most Fearfully—Hands Pinned Down to Prevent Scratching

MIRACULOUS CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"When my little boy was six months old, he had eczema. The sores extended so quickly over the whole body that we at once called in the doctor. We then went to another doctor, but he could not help him, and in our despair I never he opened the mouth they began to bleed and suppurate, as did also his eyes, back, in short the whole body, was covered over with crusts, and he was unable to rest by day or night. Whenever he was laid in his bed, we had to pin his hands down; otherwise he would scratch his face, and make an open sore. I think his face must have itched most fearfully."

"We finally thought nothing could help, and I had made up my mind to send my wife and child to Europe, hoping that the sea air might cure him, otherwise he was to be put under good medical care there. But, Lord, be blessed, matters came differently, and we soon saw a miracle. A friend of ours spoke about Cuticura. We made a trial with Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent, and within ten days or two weeks he was a decided improvement. Just as quickly as the eczema had appeared it also began to disappear, and within two weeks the child was absolutely well, and his skin was smooth and white as never before." F. ### FARM AND GARDEN

THE MATH OF THE ORCHARD.

Continuous Cultivation Gives Most Satisfactory Results.

Thorough and oft-repeated stirring of the soil is absolutely essential to success. Such culture as is needed to produce a first-class crop of corn or potatoes will keep an orchard in good health and vigor, provided the ground is sufficiently fertile. In no case should small grain or grass be grown in an orchard. This mistake is often made by thoughtless or inexperienced planters.

The ground having been properly prepared before planting, a two-horse cultivator frequently run between the rows will keep it in good condition during the growing season. Each year the surface should be well stirred with a two horse plow, using a short singletree next to the row of trees to avoid danger of bruising the trunks of the trees. In plowing, the furrows should be alternately turned toward and from the trees. Such culture should be continued from year to year at least until the trees come into full fruiting, and even then it should be discontinued. If it should be discontinued, red or crimson clover is the only crop allowable, and that should be turned under as often as once in every two years.

Treatment of Anthranose.

This is quite a serious grape disease in some sections, and as yet has not yielded as readily to treatment as other grape maladies. In combating this disease, use Bordeaux mixture throughout the work. In addition, the vines should be carefully examined before the leaves put out, and whenever the large scars produced by the fungus, are seen, they should

A—anthranose of berries. B—anthranose of grape leaves, stem, be cut out. Good results have followed the use of a strong solution of iron sulphate applied to the wood during the winter. The solution may be made by pouring a pint of sulphuric acid upon 25 pounds of iron sulphate, and then slowly adding 50 gallons of water. In no case should this preparation be used after growth starts.

Preventing Tomato Blight.

When tomatoes have been raised for two or more years in succession on or near the same piece of ground blight often becomes a serious problem. It is a fungous disease the germs of which live over winter on old vines and in the ground. Planting on land not recently used for this crop is some protection, but by no means a prevention. The plants may be infected in the seedbed, or the spores may be scattered by other means perhaps by the wind and possibly from wild plants. At any rate they find their way to fields that are a long way from ground where tomatoes were ever grown before and their attacks are not mild. If the disease is taken in time it can be kept under control by constant spraying with the Bordeaux mixture. Treatment should begin with the young plants and be continued till the fruit is ripe. It is at its worst during a wet season, but it is bad enough when the weather is dry.

Farmer's Superstitions.

Farmers "stick to the moon" in regard to planting corn and other crops. Some of them will not under any circumstances plant corn in moonlight nights, claiming that corn planted then will produce a tall stalk with short ears. Others just as successfully plant when they are ready, when nights are dark or moonlight, as the case may be.

Other notions are indulged in, such as throwing the cobs into running water to keep corn from firing. Some farmers would under no consideration burn pinder hulls, the seed of which is to be used for planting; they must be scattered along a path or highway, to be trodden upon in order to secure a good crop.

Green butter bean hulls must be thrown in a road after being shelled for table use from day to day to insure a good crop the following season.

Hardening the Fence Post.

The life of fence posts will be greatly lengthened if dipped in hot tar before being placed in the ground. The posts should be thoroughly seasoned; the tar brought to a boiling point in a large caldron kettle and the posts placed in the tar long enough to become saturated. This is not very much of a job and costs but little.

There is no better opportunity for a young man than raising apples. It requires skill, energy and perseverance.

Oleomargarine and Butter.

Analysis shows that, from a chemical standpoint, oleomargarine varies but slightly from creamery butter; it is made by churning 443 pounds of butter oil, 120 pounds of milk and 87 1/2 pounds of cream-made butter and 1 1/2 ounces of emulsifier of soda. When this becomes a smooth, creamy mass it is solidified in ice cream freezers, and is finally worked

Her Kind Neighbor.

"That's your bell ringing, isn't it, Mabel?" asked young Mrs. Lane's visitor.

"Yes," answered Mrs. Lane in a whisper, "but I'm not going to the door, Gertrude, or I know whose ring it is. You see, I'm afflicted with a kind neighbor," she explained. "When you have a home of your own, my dear, pray that it will be in some desert where neighbors are unheard of. Just hear that bell! She knows I'm at home—she always knows when I go out and when I come in. I really feel as if I were under detective surveillance most of the time, so closely does she watch my movements."

"There, she's stopped ringing at last. Perhaps she took the hint. Anyway, let's be thankful for a few minutes' peace."

"Is she such an inveterate visitor?" asked Gertrude. "My dear, there is scarcely an hour a day when she isn't here. I could stand it when I'm here alone if she'd only let me have my visitors to myself, but she entertains all my company. You know how hard it is for mother to come away out here to see me. Well, she came out last Thursday to spend the day and I was counting on a lovely long visit with her, but she hadn't any more than taken off her wraps before Miss Lewis appeared at the door which I had accidentally left open. She came in and talked to mother all the morning about the proper way to bring up children.

"At last I said very pointedly that it was growing late and I must get lunch. Well, she remarked cheerfully that she'd chat with mother while I was in the kitchen. Poor mother was helpless in her hands. Though she longed to follow me into the kitchen, she was too polite to leave Miss Lewis.

"Harry says I'm too considerate of her feelings and I suppose I am, but she is always putting me under obligation. Why, the day mother was here she found out that we were going to have lamb chops for lunch and she insisted on running across the hall to her flat to get a glass of currant jelly to serve with them. There was nothing to do then but to invite her to lunch with us, and she stayed until after mother left, late in the afternoon.

"That evening she came in again to tell Harry that she had sent to the country for some pure maple syrup, as she had heard him say that he was fond of it. Of course, she remained the whole evening. Indeed, Harry and I rarely have an evening to ourselves, for if she does not come on an errand of kindness to us she comes to ask Harry's advice. She says she considers it a privilege to have such an upright young man to counsel her on her business affairs. Notwithstanding what Harry is always saying to me about being too polite, he is just as kind as he can be to her. She won't even pay her rent or her gas bill without consulting him. But I've quite determined to treat her coldly in the future and that's the reason I didn't answer her ring."

"Goodness, Gertrude, there she is again! I suppose I may as well let her in as to have her ringing the bell like mad all day."

"Oh, good morning," said the tall, determined-looking woman whom Mrs. Lane reluctantly admitted. "I was here a while ago and rang the bell, and as you didn't answer and I knew you were at home, I was afraid you were sick, so I just ran over with my hot water bag and my smelling salts."

"You are very kind, but I'm quite well, thank you," said Mrs. Lane, standing inhospitably in front of the sitting room door.

"Oh, I see you have company." Miss Lewis looked over Mrs. Lane's shoulder and smiled at Gertrude, who was turning over the leaves of a book. "For luncheon? Oh, do let me run home and bring some flowers I have for the table."

"Please don't trouble," said Mrs. Lane weakly.

"It's no trouble, it's quite a pleasure," Miss Lewis hurried away and Mrs. Lane had only time to cast a despairing glance at Gertrude before the neighbor returned with a bunch of carnations.

"Now, just let me arrange them for you," she said, sweeping by Mrs. Lane down the hall toward the dining room. "You see, I brought my best cut-glass vase for them and a centerpiece that I embroidered myself."

Mrs. Lane went into the sitting room and, smiling, Gertrude whispered, "Well, she's here now!" "I must invite her to lunch, of course. What else can I do?" was the murmured reply.

Significance of Humming Wires.

Herr Bock of Babenhausen has been carrying on observations of the humming, both of telegraph and telephone wires. The humming of wires running east and west is said to presage a fall in temperature, often ten or more hours in advance of the thermometer; the humming of wires north and south advises a rise in temperature, almost always several hours in advance of the thermometer.

Race and Insanity.

Race has a marked effect in determining forms of insanity. The Teutonic and Scandinavian races are more subject to the morbid and melancholy forms of mental disease, while the excitable Celts are more liable to acute mania.

PROGRESS IN THE STATE. Of Road Building. 30 Miles Now Under Way, And Many More Under Survey.

Various causes have prevented the commencement of as many new road contracts this year, as had been begun at a corresponding date last year.

Exclusive of the Baltimore-Washington highway, surveys have already been made this year on about forty miles of road, in response to applications from twenty of the twenty-three counties in the State and detailed plans and estimates have been furnished on about twenty miles.

Bids are now being asked for the construction of this road, according to the plans on file in the office of the Commission. From these plans it is seen that the work planned for this summer, and for which the appropriation of $800,000 for 1906 is available, consists of reducing present grades, where they are over six per cent, to a maximum of six feet in a hundred; of replacing all bridges and culverts not in good condition, with modern permanent structures, and the addition of such further culverts and bridges as may be found necessary; of widening the traveled way to at least twenty-four feet in its narrowest part; and of the construction of a modern water tight stone surface of crushed trap (Niggerhead) rock, carefully spread and thoroughly rolled, making a smooth, even surface, and comparable with the best results in other states.

It is estimated that because of the unusual difficulties in these first ten miles, such for example, as the necessity, in order to secure a permanent road-way, of making a heavy fill from the bridge just north of Laurel to the town, and the installation in this fill of a good size concrete culvert,—that the average cost of this work will be approximately $7,000 per mile. It is hoped, however, that by the use of the culverts at the House of Correction, as provided for by the Act, to be able to keep the cash expenditures below these figures.

It is expected that the successful bidders will push the work as rapidly as possible, in order that as long a section as possible, will be finished this year.

The roads built under State supervision, up to this time, have apparently given the greatest satisfaction. Places where two winters ago, an empty Dayton wagon was "stalled," and which were improved under the "Shoemaker Law" last year, have successfully withstood even the heaviest hauling through the winter 1905-6, often, to the great surprise of the local residents.

It is hoped the experience of the contractors last year, will show them the advantages of keeping the work better in hand, and that less unfinished work may hereafter be left to go through the winter months.

EVIL OF OVEREATING

Gluttony the Great Fault of the Sioux Indian.

CONDIMENTS IN DEMAND.

From Ten to Twenty Pounds of Meat Alleged to be Consumed by a Single Indian at a Feast—Uncle Sam to Introduce Cook's Civilized Influence.

The great tribe of Sioux Indians is disappearing. The members, it is declared are literally eating themselves to death on account of the plenty about them.

With the new railroad being built through the White River Valley the Indians will be enabled to secure supplies with greater ease. They are likely to become greater feeders than they are now, and thus to hasten the time of their disappearance from the reservations in South Dakota.

If corroborative evidence was not easily obtained, it would scarcely be accepted as true that in the course of a night of feasting, dancing and story telling the average Indian will consume from ten to fifteen pounds of meat, and if he has an abundance of food and can make his own selection of the parts to be eaten, he will swallow without inconvenience not less than twenty pounds of meat in a single night.

Carloads of canned meats are consumed by the overfed Sioux Indians, and some canned foods have become almost as sacred a dish with the red men as the fat dog stew of old, for which the Sioux tribe is famous. Among the varieties of canned goods eaten to excess, the oyster holds first place. A hungry Indian will eat half a dozen cans and drink the liquor.

Besides the harm done by eating excessive amounts of food, the fact that it is not properly prepared makes it the more injurious. There is no variety or style about Sioux Indian cookery, no French methods, no necessity for titillating appetites already over-keen.

A pot full of meat and water is put on the fire by the squaw and allowed to boil for some time, and no definite time for the cooking process when it is done. The dinner is ready whenever her lord comes in and grunts about being hungry.

If the Indian is especially hungry he may begin on the contents of the kettle by the time the meat is fairly warm. There is never any faultfinding about the way in which the food is prepared, and whether it is half raw or done to rags, no objection is made by the head of the family.

The Indians know the choicest tidbits of every animal and how to cook them. The hunt at this time of the year gives the Sioux Indian the fullest enjoyment of his appetite, and during the next three months the average buck will devour enough meat to satisfy four ordinary men.

Condiments are in great demand by the Indians, and the Sioux Indians probably consume more black and red pepper per capita than any other people in the United States. Their former favorite condiment was the gall of an elk.

The Sioux Indians are responsible for the reputation which nearly all tribes have of eating dog meat, but there are few other tribes which over-serve dog meat, even at the feast of important ceremonies. The Cheyennes, Shoshones and Arapahoes never touch dog meat.

To remedy the gluttony of the Indians and prevent them eating themselves to death, the Indian Bureau is trying to make good housekeepers of the Indian girls. Ten times as much wheat flour is used by the Sioux today as fifteen years ago. It is said by the agents that, where cereals and wheat flour are used by the Indians, there is some hope of civilizing and curing them of gluttony.

At the schools, among the first things in their course, the girls are taught to make bread. But these lessons have not reached the wigwags on the reservations to any marked degree. The Indian cares little for wheat bread anyway. Cereals don't interest him. The reservations west of here are places at least where wheat breakfast foods are not fashionable.

Ten months in the year the Sioux Indian prefers meat and the average meal consists of coffee, meat, beans, dried fruits and corn syrup. The last dish is a great favorite with the Indians.

At some time in the past New Englanders traded beans for furs or wampum, and since that day the navy bean has been a favorite dish with the red man. They prefer it to soup, and as beans are sometimes dear and hard to secure twenty-five or thirty miles from the railroad, the soup of the wigwag many times consists of "one bean and two soups."

The potato has never had a high standing with the Indian. A dish similar to chop suey may be found in almost any Indian home, and a fair grade of Mexican chili can be secured, but the delicately baked potato, so easily prepared in the ashes of a camp fire, is as little known to the Sioux Indian as Saratoga chips are to the natives of New York.

HIS LAST DESPERATE RESORT.

There Were Others in the Same Predicament He Was.

The judge had his patience sorely tried by lawyers who wished to talk and by men who tried to evade jury service. Between hypothetical questions and excuses it seemed as if they never would get to the actual trial of the case. So when the puzzled little German, who had been accepted by both sides, jumped up, the judge was exasperated.

"Shudge!" cried the German.

"What is it?" demanded the judge.

"I think I like to go home to my wife," said the German.

"You can't," retorted the judge.

"Sit down."

"But, shudge," persisted the German, "I don't think I make a good shuror."

"You're the best in the box," said the judge. "Sit down."

"What box?" said the German.

"Jury box," said the judge.

"Oh, I thought it was a bad box that people gets in sometimes."

"No," said the judge, "the bad box is the prisoners' box."

"But, shudge," persisted the little German, "I don't speak good English."

"You don't have to speak any at all," said the judge. "Sit down."

The little German pointed at the lawyers to make his last desperate plea.

"Shudge," he said. "I can't make noddings of what these fellers say."

It was the judge's chance to get even for many annoyances.

"Neither can anyone else," he said. "Sit down."

With a sigh the little German sat down.

Among Friends.

"Whew! What, Lottie Brown engaged? That proves what I've always said, that no matter how plain a bad-tempered a girl may be, there's always a fool ready to marry her. Who's the poor man?"

"I am!"—Lida.

Norman Haggood, the distinguished journalist and essayist, was discussing American newspapers.

"It is not enough that our papers shall tell the truth," he said. "Truth telling in itself is not particularly wise nor praiseworthy. Indeed, it is sometimes the reverse."

"Thus a young man called on a young lady one spring morning very early. He had his automobile along. He wanted to give the young lady a morning spin through the country."

"A little girl, the young lady's niece, answered the bell."

"Is your auntie in?" said the young man.

"Yes, sir," said the little girl.

"That's good. Where is she?"

"She's up stairs," said the little girl. "In her nightgown, looking over the balcony."

His Candidate.

District Attorney Jerome tells of a certain citizen whom he encountered on the last Presidential election day. Conversation was somewhat hampered by the fact that the citizen's vocabulary was limited to about eighty-five words. "Who" and "what" were evidently one to him as yet, but he made himself clear on one point.

"How long have you been in this country?" he was asked.

"Ah bane one month," he answered.

"Are you going to vote?"

"Yah."

"Whom are you going to vote for?"

"Ah bane goll vote for tan dollars," was the self-satisfied response. —Harper's Weekly.

Taking Time by the Forelock.

A lady, entertaining a guest of importance, was giving final instructions to her maid.

"Now, Polly," she said, "in the morning take a pitcher of hot water up to Mr. X's room. Be sure not to forget this."

"No'm," Polly answered. The lady thought no more of the matter until the next day, when at noon she remarked casually, "Of course, Polly, you carried that hot water up to Mr. X's room this morning?"

Polly beamed. "D' law, Miss Mary, I was so feared I mought forget dat water dat I cy'ard it up las' night." Lippincott's.

Last Resort.

An actor rebuked the little maid of all work for her incompetence.

"Look at the smudge on the tablecloth; look at the greasy plate and window. This won't do at all. You will have to leave, and then what will happen to you?" The poor

FEAR OF THE BLACK CAT.

If people are superstitious at all, there is every reason why they should be superstitious about black cats.

In our modern life many ancient superstitions have expired for want of direct suggestion, but the black cat has stood faithfully by to take over as many of these dark fears as she could. A lady, returning to her house found a strange black cat waiting at the house door. Upstairs a faint light burned in a sick woman's chamber. As the returning lady entered, the black cat tried to brush past her into the house, and was excluded with difficulty. Next day the sick woman was dead!

Men watch beside the dead for fear of the intrusion of cats; and sometimes in the silence of the night, these watchers hear strange scatchings, eager purrings, faint mewings, all around, as if from walls and floors and ceilings.

If there are more things in heaven and earth than we have dreamed of, the pitiful human hunger for indications and hints from an unknown world has caused us to dream many things that are neither in heaven nor earth.

The Ladies' Smoker.

"The smoking cars for women will be provided on our trains de luxe," says the general superintendent of the Pennsylvania system, commenting on the running of a train from London to Liverpool yesterday with the label "Ladies' Smoking" on one of the coaches.

With all due regard to the privileges of the American woman, we hope not. Whether she shall puff an occasional cigarette at her own dinner table, or among a select circle of her friends, or even, perhaps, in the ladies' den of a hotel is a matter that she may be trusted to take care of herself.

The smoking car as an institution implies two accomplished facts—the tobacco habit carried to the point of slavery, and the practice of smoking in public, on the streets. Because even the stoutest champion of the equality of the sexes is squeamish about welcoming or promoting either thing, so far as the gentler sex is concerned, smoking cars for women will not recommend themselves to popular favor.

They Stand Alone.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone, as a conspicuous example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, over-worked, delicate, nervous, "run-down," peevish, irritable women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous remedy for weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, chronic bronchitis, or other ailments, and is the best guaranty of their merit. They cannot be classed as patent or secret medicines for they are neither.

Each bottle of the above medicines bears upon its wrapper a badge of honor in the full list of ingredients complete in English. This frank and open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves, and is an effective remedy for all diseases arising from thin, watery, or impure blood, as scrofulous and skin affections.

A glance at the printed formula on each bottle will show that no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines, they being wholly compounded of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American forest plants. These are best and safest for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases, and Dr. Pierce's medicines can be consulted with confidence by addressing him at Buffalo, N. Y., and all communications are regarded as confidential.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

What Does It Mean

to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give. Dividends are declared every year in the Mutual Benefit, and the policyholders use them either to help pay premiums or to buy increased insurance. The policies of the Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co. contain special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before purchasing your insurance. You owe it to your family to have the best.

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE CO. OF CANADA.

AS A COMPANY IN WHICH TO ASSURE.

"The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada does things liberally and promptly. Twenty years ago an application took out, with that company a Semi-Endowment Policy for $1,000, of which $500 was guaranteed at expiration of the policy, with accumulated profits, and $1,000 in the event of death within the period.

"Now, the assured has been notified that the Endowment period has expired, and that he could, if he chose—1st, withdraw $500, plus $401.00 accumulated profits, or a total of $901.00; or 2nd, Obtain with the amount the first option, a non-participating policy for $1,680 payable at death; or 3rd, obtain an annuity for life of $78.15.

That sum of $401.00 of profits earned in twenty years for the assured by the Company, added to the $500 of guaranteed Semi-Endowment, is a sum which is an eye-opener for people who desire to invest their savings safely.

"The owner of the above policy (No. 13,537), was protected in case of death during the period of twenty years for the sum of 1,000, for nothing, finally he draws nearly fifty per cent. more than he paid out in premiums during his twenty years of assurance.

"Once more therefore does the Sun Life of Canada prove the truth its motto—

'PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE.'

"Le Moniteur du Commerce."

With such results it should be easy for intending insurers to make decision as to the Company which best looks after the interests of its policy holders.

OPERATION AVOIDED

EXPERIENCE OF MISS MERKLEY

She Was Told That an Operation Was Inevitable. How She Escaped It.

When a physician tells a woman suffering with serious feminine trouble that an operation is necessary, the very thought of the knife and the operating table strikes terror to her heart, and our hospitals are full of women coming for just such operations.
There are cases where an operation is the only resource, but when one considers the great number of cases of menialing female troubles cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after physicians have advised operations, no woman should submit to one without first trying the Vegetable Compound and writing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice, which is free.
Miss Margaret Merkley, of 375 Third Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:
Dear Mrs. Pinkham:
"Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, shooting pains through the pelvic organs, bearing down pains and cramps compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said I had a female trouble and ulceration and advised an operation. To this I strongly objected and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The ulceration quickly healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared and I am once more strong, vigorous and well."
Female troubles are steadily on the increase among women. If the monthly periods are very painful, or too frequent and excessive—if you have pain or swelling low down in the left side, bearing-down pains, don't neglect yourself; try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

POULTRY

PROFIT IN DUCKS AND GEESSE.

Pekins are Good Egg Producers and Mature Early.
The gray Toulouse geese are bred in large numbers by farmers and are fairly well thought of for market purposes. Their flesh is a trifle too coarse and flabby, when compared with some other geese, to be prized very highly for table purposes. They are termed a Christmas goose, as being later in maturing than the others they are just about right at the holiday time. They are fairly good layers, averaging about 40 eggs in a season.

There is profit in ducks if properly managed. Ducks require more fresh air and will stand more cold than chickens. Do not pick during winter, nor during the laying season. Always give ducks plenty of water to drink, and it should be near the feed trough, for ducks wash their food down with water and are liable to choke if they do not have it.

The Pekin duck is the largest of all known breeds of ducks. For early maturity, laying quality and as table fowls, they have no superior in this country. Their feathers being pure white always command a good price. Do not let the ducks out of the house in the morning until they have laid, as they are liable to drop the eggs anywhere. They usually lay early in the morning, though occasionally a duck will not lay until eight or nine o'clock. With proper care a duck will lay from a hundred to a hundred and twenty-five eggs in a season, but to do this they must have a good shelter and plenty of egg-producing food. No one can successfully raise ducks unless they can be kept apart from the other feathered fowl of the farm, especially the chickens and turkeys. They foul the drinking water and gobble up nearly all, if not all, of the food within sight.

A wire netting fence two feet high will do to enclose a duckyard. It is not necessary to have a stream or pond for them, but if either is near, and can be inclosed wholly or partly in the yard, do so. The ducks must have a house or shed as well as the chickens, and some place to stay at night and for protection from driving rains and storms. The floors should be well covered with a litter of straw or leaves and this should be changed often.

Duck Feathers.
The feathers of ducks are their covering and protection, which should admonish farmers not to pluck them during a cold spell, or in winter. It costs something to produce feathers, as they are grown only from the most nourishing foods. Ducks that are in poor condition or that are not well covered with feathers, should not be plucked.

The rule is to pluck the feather when they are "ripe," which may be known by the birds dropping them in the yards or by testing a few from the breast, the ripe feathers having no blood or colored fluids in the ends of the feathers. When in good condition some ducks will produce feather every six weeks, or even more frequently, much depending upon the food.
The feathers of the Pekin and Aylesbury ducks, being white, are nearly equal to those of the geese, and as both kinds are large of size, the feathers are an important part of the profit. The common puddle duck, however, is of but little value compared with the pure breeds. The Aylesbury, Rouen, and Pekin ducks not only give a fair proportion of feathers, but also produce large and desirable carcasses. The feathers may be steamed, and then sun dried, but some experience is necessary to properly dry them for market.

Packing Eggs for Market.
Instead of packing eggs in oats, sawdust or bran, for transportation to market, try placing a newspaper on the bottom of the box or basket. Put in a layer of eggs, laying them closely so as to prevent moving about. Over this lay two thicknesses of newspaper then another layer of eggs, and so on till the receptacle is filled. Cover the top layer with a blanket or shawl. This will be found more satisfactory than the old way.

Scale Wash for Fruit Trees.
The scale wash for fruit trees is made with 40 pounds of lime, 30 pounds of sulphur, and 30 pounds salt, boiled together and diluted with 100 gallons of water.

RAMIE FIBER FOR FLAX.

Cheap Substitution May Replace Genuine Article.

About twenty years ago ramie fiber was experimented with by manufacturers in Scotland as a substitute for flax in the weaving of damask table cloths and napkins with unsatisfactory results. But their attention has recently been brought to the subject by a Glasgow firm, who believes it has solved the problem of overcoming the objections to ramie as a substitute for other fibers. Their ideas relative to the proper method of treating ramie so as to overcome the objections heretofore raised against it as a fiber for weaving purposes are here quoted:
"The hairy appearance of spun and woven ramie goods is due either to all of the following points or to one or the other of them—If a ramie fiber is degummed more than flax the fiber is more 'cottonized'; consequently the woven goods made therefrom possess a 'touch' almost like cotton. The hairy appearance of the ramie yarn or woven goods is a proof that the fiber has not been properly combed—that is to say, the fiber has not been drawn and combed into equal lengths, and by spinning, not all of the lengths of the fiber has been caught in the torsion of the yarn."
"In order to spin ramie like flax it ought to contain as much gum as flax when ready for being hackled. This can be done. Further, the spinning machinery ought to be made suitable for the length of the fiber, and care should be taken to spin fiber combed to equal lengths. Assuming this were done properly with a fiber not made brittle by the misuse of chemicals, the results undoubtedly would be a regular yarn with a firm touch like flax. The woven goods made thereof would not show a 'hairy' appearance more than flax does."

"Ramie has no doubt a great future, but a regular supply of this fiber prepared in the state of flax for hackling must, in the first instance, be created and sold on the market at a price between jute and flax. It is to-day possible to accomplish these two points owing to the fact that the fiber can now be extracted by machinery properly; and in quantity."

Mechanical Diving Rod.
A mechanical diving rod has been invented by a Swiss engineer. It includes a magnetic needle, which oscillates vertically when the instrument is placed above a spring. The machine was thoroughly tested by experts.

Story of a Photograph.
The following story of a young lady living in the country who came to London to be photographed is vouched for by a well known London photographer. After some days the lady, Miss B., was informed the photograph was not a success, and another sitting was suggested.
"This she agreed to, but again she was informed that the photograph was a failure. There was a third sitting. In two days time she received an urgent letter from the photographer, asking her to come to his studio, and to bring a friend with her. Miss B. went, accompanied by her mother, and was shown the amazing results of the three sittings.
The pictures of the girl herself were quite good, but in each case, there was to be seen standing behind her the figure of a man holding a dagger in his uplifted hand. The features, though faint, were clearly discernible, and Miss B. recognized them as those of her fiancée, an officer in the Indian army. The effect of this experience was so great that after a few days she wrote out to India, breaking off the engagement."

Postal Officials Numerous.
According to the returns just issued by the International Union, Germany has more postal officials than any other country in the world, the total number amounting to 268,517. It must, however, be taken into consideration that in Germany the telegraph and telephone employees are included in the total, while in other countries they to a certain extent put in a separate list. The United States comes second with a total of 251,515. Great Britain occupies the third place with 182,454. All the remaining countries have each fewer than 100,000. The smallest of all postal administrations is that of the Turkey islands, which consists of one solitary official.—Exchange.

An Admirable Lie.
"I admire a liar," said Morgan Robertson, the writer of sea stories, "even when his provarications strain my credulity. A friend of mine, who objects to efforts to pry into his personal affairs, recently limped into my workshop.
"What's the matter with your foot?" I asked, more to be polite than because I cared what was the trouble.
"Then he gained my overland admiration by a display of nerve and mendacity I never saw equalled. 'An ail stepped on it,' he said."

VIKING and I.

By Elizabeth Glidden Wood.

There was mourning in our neighborhood when the Gerald Devos Witherspoons left for a six months' tour abroad. Now they have returned and the festivities of the season will begin. There will be euchre and bridge whist and kaffee klatches and a general exchange of confidences that will exceedingly enliven those who have not passed the summer on the other side. The fits of life will be deepened, and the little rifts which have made for unhappiness will disappear and be forgotten. Ambitions, small and great, will again awaken, and unless all signs fall, the way of the transgressor will be hard.

An old stager like myself, who has fought her own battles through many a tempestuous year, who can ride rough shod over most things that get in her way, who can tell a hawk from a hand-saw when she has to, never bankers after a bicycle built for two, and never worries over what John will say when she buys a bonnet.

True, there are times in the twilight, when I get to thinking as we sit by the fire, Viking and I—with my pot of tea. And I say to Viking—"My boy, you are growing old. Sooner or later you must leave me, and what shall I do then?"

Viking looks up at me with his soft brown eyes as he rests his nose on my knees, and I pat his head musingly, forgetting what is and what has been until a monitory poke from the fire and to Viking, and I say as cheerfully as I can—

"We won't cross that bridge till we come to it, will we, my boy?"
"We have grown old together. I understand Viking and he understands me, and though the Past I saw by the freight held many pictures in which he had no part, his true dog friendship has brightened my pathway for many a year.
I can never get another Viking."

And now Mrs. Gerald Devos Witherspoon has come back—back to bridge and euchre and coffee—to heart burnings and envy, to gaiety and gossip, to fuss and feathers and furbelows—and what is more than all, to the undisputed leadership of "our set."

Mrs. G. D. W. has attained her present position at the cost of considerable effort. But there are others. As soon as an east wind touches Mrs. W. (G. D.) she will shiver and wilt, and when the south wind comes back there will be another set and another leader and another leader to the old set. And some will say, "Who is Mrs. W. (G. D.)?" And the sad thing will be that Mrs. W. (G. D.) will not know it until her crown of leadership is forcibly removed. She will reach up for her laurels and they will not be there. Her tears will avail nothing, nor will her sighs touch the obdurate hearts of those who followed in her train when the soft south wind fanned her brow.

The sun may beat with unremitting fervor upon my head and I say the shadows will fall at evening. My mid-day guests make merry over my prosperity, but Viking and I sit alone in the twilight, and when the black night is upon me and the storm threatens my leaky roof.

What a blessing to a forlorn old maid is a faithful and loving dog. Never once has my hand been raised against Viking and never once has his heart turned from me. Never has he failed to greet me joyously at my coming or sorrow when I said my short farewell, and never have I failed to be thankful for his watchful care and the great, warm heart that beats under his shaggy coat.

Viking is not waiting for me to die that he may have the little I leave behind. But if Viking should die first my tears would fall and my heart be sad for many days, for I should have lost my best friend.
I should raise no stone over his grave; for I bethink me of the origin of the tombstone. I remember that long after the cave men had passed into the darkness, there came others and still others, each generation more and more civilized than the one before it, until thought came, in a measure, to take the place of animal appetite.

The human race began to bury its dead with forms and rites. The mound was no longer solitary, and the calm or rude pile of stone gave place to the rough stone. Then somebody smoothed and carved the rough stone and placed on the shining surface a graven record of virtues that never existed in the heart of the sleeper below, and sentiments that the dead man never knew or felt when he was alive.

And the reason of it all lay not in the loving heart of the bereft relic but in the trembling fear of those who were left behind—the fear that was the origin of the tombstone. If you have never thought of the matter search the records and you will find that the reason why your friends or your ancestors' friends placed a stone over their dead was not a mark of respect, but to ensure the living against the return of the departed—literally, to keep him down. So when you see a monument that towers high and massive, you may say to yourself—

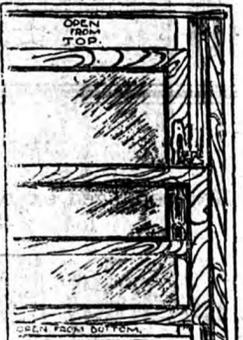

"Poor shakedown! How very anxious your former friends must be that you shall never again come back!"
How true we are! How warm and brave are our friendships! How becoming is our mourning, and when we go into mitigated grief what lovely shades of heliotrope and purple we will wear!

I prefer Viking.

IDEAL SAFETY WINDOW LOCK.

Ventilates Without Sacrificing Security or Defacing Sashes.

The value of ventilation to health is acknowledged by every thinking person. To ventilate without sacrificing security, without mutilating sashes, has been looked forward to by all builders and owners. Such perfection seems possible in the safety window lock shown in the illustration. The lock consists of a ratchet and lock, whose bolt, pressed by a spring, is thrust into the depression of the sash and prevents the raising of the window. The casing of the lock is made of the hardest steel, and the spring of fine wire. It cannot be broken by the use of a jimmy, neither is it capable of being tampered with by means of a wire, string or knife. Even when the glass is cut and the burglar tries to manipulate the lock through the pane, he is helpless, as his arms are as a wedge between the sashes and prevent their movement. The lock can be raised or lowered a few inches for ventilation, but even then it is safe from the burglar. When it is desired to raise the sash to its full height it is only necessary to pull out the spring bolt. It locks automatically and all danger of forgetting to fasten the windows before leaving is thus entirely obviated.

Keeps out the burglar.

Beer Trained to Stalk Sheep.

In a number of counties lying on both sides of the Sacramento River, in the central portion of California, every winter by the depredations of countless flocks of wild geese, which swarm over the broad grain fields destroy the young, sprouting grain.

Indeed, so serious has this pest invasion become that nearly all the large farms have employees who regularly patrol the fields and do nothing but keep the feathered pests on the wing.

One of the most novel blinds or devices ever used in that section, or any other, for the purpose of destroying the geese, is that of a Colusa farmer who lives on the bank of the Sacramento. He has a big red steer which he has trained to stalk geese.

The steer walks round a flock of geese in an ever decreasing circle, his master, armed with a repeating shotgun, walking beside him, but on the further side of the flock.

The geese have become so used to seeing animals grazing near that they pay no attention to them; so the farmer is enabled to get within shot distance and pour a broadside into the flock while it is feeding on the ground, and two more shots before the birds are out of range when they rise.

This dumb hunter is held in family by its eyes, and his family, it is needless to state, and receives the best of everything.

The Symbol of an Epoch.
The universal use of one and two dollar bills in the East always furnishes a detail of contrast to people from the West, where silver and gold are the rule, and paper currency almost unknown. On the East Side of New York even a fifty cent piece is looked upon with some distrust by newly arrived foreigners, who seldom see anything larger than a quarter in silver. Hand one out, and it is subjected to scrutiny as careful as a five-dollar bill in the Rockies.

A New Yorker was receiving change from a Bowery barber, when the latter, after searching through his cash register for another bill to make up the amount apologized profusely.

"Any other day but Saturday I could give you paper," he explained, "but to-day there ain't any other way out of it. Everybody around here is clean out of change. I'll have to give you this Bryan."

Do. to Wooden Shoes.
The use of wooden shoes may explain why the exportation of hoes, shovels and sole leather from the United States to France is comparatively small. There is, however, in addition to the peasant class using only wooden shoes, another smaller rural class wearing cheap leather shoes. The wooden shoes are made from walnut and birch, the latter being the cheap ones and retelling at 20 to 30 cents a pair. Entirely wooden shoes are carved out of a solid piece of wood. When the sole only is used the split leather uppers are fastened on with nails.

The Pope's residence at Rome, with its treasures, in money, is said to exceed $150,000,000 in value.
A government expert estimates that the expenditure for advertising in 1905 was $125,000,000.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SOCIALISM IN GERMANY.

What is to be done with the growing power of socialism all over the world? asks the New York Mail. That is perhaps the greatest problem that confronts the statesmen of today. It is particularly urgent in Germany, where socialism has made great strides in the Imperial Parliament. Prince Bismarck believed in annexing socialism to the monarchical state. He was overruled, and socialism in all Germany, although many measures have been conceded to it, has grown into a great army whose soldiers are mainly inveterate enemies of conservative society and the monarchy.

Chancellor Von Buelow has distinctly declared himself in the Prussian House of Lords as in favor of a "sharp application of all existing laws against the common enemy," meaning socialism. This presages an intensification in Germany of a struggle which, by the Liberal and Labor victory in Britain, is in the latter country brought nearer than ever to a compromise.

A SCHOOL LOCK-STEP. The grading system in the New York public schools, by which an attempt is to be made to average the pupils, is condemned severely by D. W. J. Shearer, superintendent of schools of Elizabeth, N. J., in a paper issued on the subject. Visits to the schools here, he says, prove that 500,000 pupils are bound in chain gangs or from thirty-five to forty and forced to move in intellectual lock-step, not only month after month, but year after year, for their whole school lives.

A HAPPY KING. Most of the photographs of the King of Spain show him wearing as broad a grin as the Cheshire cat in "Alice." We do not remember ever to have seen the portrait of any other Spanish sovereign in which the sinner was represented as venturing on a smile. A gloomy lot of personages these. But then, perhaps, the reason why Alfonso is so cheerful is because he kicked the stuffing out of his family tradition and made a real love match.

THE AGE OF BETTING. Betting is as old as human nature and probably as durable. Since Eve made her venture in apples with the Garden of Eden at stake her sons and daughters have been risking their hopes of happiness on everything from the comparative celerity of quadrupeds to a matrimonial engagement.

NO SUCH WOMAN. One of the Chicago newspapers is charged with having gravely compounded the query, "What shall a woman do after she is forty?" The charge is not to be believed. It carries its falsity on its face. There are no such women.—Chicago Chronicle.

Now we are to have our milk delivered in the form of powder. That's nothing new. Only we used to call it chalk before the milkman mixed it.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

THE WORLD A NEIGHBORHOOD.

July 15, '06.—(Luke 10:25-37.)

The Jews, as a nation, in Christ's day, were a race of bigots. Sectarian and sectarianism among them had come to its full fruition. They were, in their own estimation, the chosen people of God, his peculiar and special treasure. The rest of the world they designated as Gentiles and nicknamed as "dogs." They believed that the crumbs that fell from tables was luxurious fare for those less favored than themselves, and that even in the world to come this distinction would be observed and that Abraham, Isaac and Jacob would be surrounded in the kingdom of heaven with their numerous descendants, the twelve tribes of Israel judging the rest of the world.

Jesus Christ was a Jew, born of Jewish mother, so far as his human nature was concerned having the blue blood of the aristocracy in his veins. He was the great-grandson of King David, and yet in heart there was not a vestige of this universal bigotry. He smashed the traditions of the elders right and left. He told the warring hypocrites that the publicans and harlots would go into the kingdom of heaven ahead of them. He hurled his denunciations at them for misconstruing and perverting the teachings of Moses. And to discredit and pour contempt upon their sectarian bigotry he uttered the parable of the Good Samaritan. In that matchless story he punctured Jewish exclusiveness and race hatred as shown by the Jewish Priest and Levite, and glorifies the humane act of the Gentile dog, the Good Samaritan, as an example worthy of imitation by all men everywhere. When he said to his Jewish questioner, and through him to all others, "Go thou and do likewise," he drove a spear into the white of bigotry that caused it to writhe in pain and will yet bring it to the grave.

The spirit of caste against which the Man of Galilee cast the whole weight of his influence, has more or less affected all races of men. Heathen lands are to-day under its almost omnipotent control. India is its native heath, China is gridironed with it, Africa pays tribute to its power. It is a greater hindrance to missionary effort than all other obstacles combined.

And the same thing is true in so-called Christian lands. William Cowper long ago sang: "Mountains interposed make enemies of nations, which had else like kindred drops been melted into one." Not only is that true of geographical boundaries, but of invisible boundaries. Color and sex is a barrier, blood is a barrier, language is a barrier, education is a barrier, position is a barrier. Chinese walls are run through society seemingly high as heaven, and impassable as the gulf between Dives and Lazarus.

Nevertheless twenty centuries have made vast breaches in those sectarian walls. They are crumbling everywhere. They are not down yet, and they may never fall like the walls of Jericho in one grand crash of ruin, but the battering rams of truth set in motion by the Son of Man will never cease until the last vestige of bigotry and sectarian narrowness has crumbled into dust. Churches that once wasted a good deal of powder on doctrinal disputations, have spiked their guns or turned them on the common enemy. The solidarity of the race is being recognized more and more. It is now pretty generally conceded that manhood does not depend upon the color of the skin or the slant of the eyes. The heart of man is one. Let disaster fall upon any portion of the earth's inhabitants and quick as the tidings is known the hand of brotherly help is stretched out across the continents and over the oceans. Famine in Japan or Russia, earthquake shock in Formosa or Jamaica, mine explosions in France or Virginia, fire or flood or cyclone, war or pestilence anywhere causes the heart of humanity to throb with sympathy and the purse strings to loosen all around the world. The Good Samaritan never was so much in evidence as he is to-day.

There are those who do not like this idea. They say that God made the Chinaman, and set him down in one place, and the African and set him down in another place, and the Caucasian and set him down in still another place, and that He expected them to stay in their own place and work out their own destiny, irrespective of others. But St. Paul knocks down that idea, when standing in the presence of an aristocratic audience he declared the democratic doctrine that "God hath made of one blood all the nations of men." They started in one garden, they fell in one transgression, they are redeemed by one cross, they will dwell forever in one heaven. Differences forever, but no quarrel. The towers that have so long sounded the tocsin of alarm shall yet ring the silver melody of the Millennium. The flags of all nations, once carried in the forefront of hostile armies, shall hang in graceful festoons above those who sometimes were full of hate. The "Marseillaise" and "Bonny Doon" and "Hail Columbia" and "God Save the Queen" shall yet mingle in one great oratorio as it comes to be recognized that all the world is a neighborhood and all mankind a brotherhood, the song of joy bursting into a million-voiced acclaim.

To Renovate Carpets. Some housekeepers have their carpets wiped off while on the floor with a cloth wrung out of warm water with which a little ammonia has been mixed. The water must be changed often. The colors of a light Annamite or any other heavy pile carpet will brighten wonderfully after this treatment. One housekeeper has all her heavy carpets scrubbed on the floor, with plenty of soap and warm water.

"MAKES YOU WELL ALL OVER." RHEUMACIDE goes right to the seat of the disease, sweeps all the germs and poisons out of the blood, cleans up all the plague-spots in the body and sets all the organs to work again in Nature's way. RHEUMACIDE has cured thousands of cases after all other remedies and famous doctors had failed. Dietrich, of 2120 Ramsay street, Baltimore, says it "made him a new man." Mrs. S. A. Combes, 114 S. Gilmore street, Baltimore, says it "cleansed her blood, took away her pains, and made her feel like a new woman." Your druggist sells and recommends Rheumacide. CURES AFTER ALL OTHERS FAIL. "While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Elgin, Iowa. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe it saved his life. I have been engaged for ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." Sold by O. L. ## NATURE'S WARNING.

Salisbury People Must Recognize And Heed It.

Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously. But nature always warns you. It's time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills.

To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes. Doan's have done great work in Salisbury.

E. Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last February. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back. The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used was Doan's Kidney Pills. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Denmark's kings for 384 years have all been named Christian or Frederick. It is the law of Denmark that Christian must be succeeded by Frederick and Frederick by Christian. To attain this, every Danish prince, no matter what other names he may receive, always has Christian and Frederick among them.

Modest Claims Often Carry The Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below that he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise, instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by O. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

The contrast between the high price of living and the low rate of wages may explain in a measure why Italy is being depopulated by the thousand. In the first three months of the present year over 60,000 Italians emigrated to the United States alone, while many go to South American countries and to other parts of the world.

Bowel Complaint in Children.

During the summer months children are subject to disorders of the bowels which should receive careful attention as soon as the first unnatural looseness of the bowels appears. The best medicine in use for bowel complaint is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as it promptly controls any unnatural looseness of the bowels. For sale by O. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

The outdoor art section of the Civic League of Los Angeles, Cal., has begun an energetic campaign against the unsightly billboards. The effort will be to make advertisers realize that this is the very poorest form of advertising, let alone the public considerations which make so powerful against it.

Do Not Neglect Your Bowels.

Many serious diseases arise from neglect of the bowels. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are a pleasant and agreeable laxative. They invigorate the liver and regulate the bowels. For sale by O. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

THE BALLAD OF THE OYSTERMAN.

By Oliver Wendell Holmes.

It was a tall young oysterman lived by the river side, His shop was just upon the bank, his boat was on the tide; The daughter of a fisherman, that was so straight and slim, Lived over on the other bank, right opposite to him.

It was the pensive oysterman that saw a lovely maid, Upon a moonlight evening, a sitting in the shade; He saw her wave her handkerchief, as much as if to say, "I'm wide awake, young oysterman, and all the folks away."

Then up across the oysterman, and to himself said he, "I guess I'll leave the skiff at home for fear that folks should see; I read it in the story book, that, for to kiss his dear, Leader swam the Hellegpont, and I will swim this here."

And as he leaped into the waves and crossed the shining stream, And as he clambered up the bank, all in the moonlight gleam, Oh there were kisses sweet as dew, and words as soft as rain, But they have heard the father's step and in he leapt again!

Out spoke the ancient fisherman, "Oh what was that my daughter?" " 'Twas nothing but a pebble sir, I threw into the water."

"And what is that, pray tell me love, that paddles off so fast?" "Is nothing but a porpoise, sir, that's been a swimming past."

Out spoke the ancient fisherman.— "Now bring me my harpoon! I'll get into my fishing boat and fix the fellow soon."

Down fell the pretty innocent, as falls a snow white lamb, Her hair drooped round her pallid cheeks, like seaweed on a clam.

Alas for those two loving ones! he waked not from her swoon, And in the waves was drowned; But fate has metamorphosed them, in pity of their woe, And now they keep an oyster shop for mermaids down below.

MARDELA.

By a careful reading of the Articles of Incorporation of our town, and which were passed at the last session of our Legislature, we see that the Commissioners are required under oath to a faithful performance of their duties. The performance is to be without favor, partiality or prejudice. Then the Articles go on to specify a few of the things that shall be done. The Commissioner shall order the cleaning of privies, sinks or other places of deposit for refuse of unwholesome matter; to prevent and remove nuisances; to regulate and restrain the running at large of horses, cattle, swine, geese, ducks or chickens within limits of town. Complaints have already been made about pasturing cows within the town limits. In some cases they have broken loose from their fastenings and done damage to growing crops. The article about the duties of the bailiff declares that he shall, under the direction of the Commissioners, enforce the town ordinances, and he shall have the same powers as a constable in criminal cases. All fines and penalties shall be for the use of the town. The people at large are waiting patiently for Commissioners to settle the question of drainage. Where the streets have been filled up, and which has prevented the water from flowing off, this should be remedied at once. Property owners have a right to demand that this nuisance be remedied. A little expense now, might save the town a large expense in the future. It is not legally or morally right to back up the water on private property.

Sometimes you imagine that you have to wait a long time for the medicine, but if we gave it to you in less time it would NOT be such good medicine. No matter how busy we are, every prescription is prepared carefully and thoroughly; no part of the work is slighted in any detail. It must be right before we let it go out of our hands. You may think at the time that we are being too particular, but that is due to your anxiety and impatience. In your calmer thought you will admit that we are right, and will thank us for preparing such RELIABLE medicine. Our methods have won the commendation of all local physicians who have had occasion to know about them.

ACTUAL OYSTER SURVEY

Began On Thursday In Anne Arundel Waters. Estimated It Will Take Two Years To Complete The State.

Under clear skies and with perfect conditions of water, the actual start in the work of surveying the waters of Chesapeake bay and its tributaries for oyster culture as provided in the Haman Oyster law, was begun Thursday. All preliminary details, such as the erection of the triangular points and stations and the establishment of the tide gauge in the waters contiguous to Anne Arundel county, where it had been decided to first begin, had been completed, so that there was nothing to hinder the progress of the work. The State steamer Gov. P. F. Thomas, Captain Turner, was used to convey the surveying party and others out to the scene of operations. In the party were Chairman Mitchell and Dr. Grave, the latter the scientific member of the State Shellfish Commission, Hydrographic Engineer Sweeney and his corps of assistants. Mr. Green the third member of the commission, was unable to be here as he is still confined to his home in Somerset county by sickness.

Began At Sycamore Point.

The surveying party took up its work at Sycamore Point, inside Annapolis harbor, and worked along the flats there as far out as the buoy on the edge of Horn Point bar, a distance of about 1 1/2 miles. In that distance a natural oyster bed of between a mile and a half long and varying from one eighth to a quarter mile wide was developed. The bed was found to be pear shaped, but under the provisions of the law it will be in the form of a rectangle when marked off by the stakes and buoys. In determining the oyster bed an iron chain was thrown over the stern of the boat and allowed to drag along the bottom during the entire time that the survey work was being conducted, and one can readily tell when the chain strikes upon oysters or shells or firm bottom. This method will be employed throughout.

To Mark Known Bars First.

It is the intention of those in charge of the work to finish up with the establishment of the known natural oyster beds or bars, such as Hackett's, Tolley's and Chincoteague points and other places, first, then follow up the surveys along other bottoms.

May Complete Work In Two Years.

The officials have been figuring as to the amount of time it will consume to complete the survey in Anne Arundel waters, and it is estimated that it will take at least six weeks. At this rate of progress it will be about two years before the survey is entirely complete, as there are 13 tidewater counties.

First Experience Of A Visitor To The Eastern Shore—Descriptions Adapted to Salisbury.

Julia had always wanted to ride horse back.

It was such a lady like and without so romantic a sport that the one desire of her life was to be able to say she was the possessor of the gentle art. Horseback riding had many possibilities. In the historical novels the heroes escaped on horses from wild Indians; they mounted fiery steeds and fled from hated suitors and frequently eloped on pet ponies that were always fleet of foot than the gray nags of oboeing papas. Automobile heroes had ridden to be so commonplace! Every other girl, judging from the stories in the magazines, began a delightful romance in a touring car. It was too prosaic for Julia's taste. She longed for the more arduous horse.

So, when she went to Johnsonville for a two weeks' vacation—it proved to be a pathetically small two weeks, too—she determined to learn to ride.

Greeted With A Frown.

Johnsonville, by the way, was a delightful town. The townfolk called it a city, and when Julia inquired for the "village belles" and the "village beaux" she was greeted with a terrible frown.

There are some beautiful homes in Johnsonville, and the people are hospitable as only Eastern Shore people can be. The scenery is picturesque, and everywhere Julia went she saw a lake. The townfolk called them ponds and said there were only two near by. Julia saw so many beginnings and endings of these same two that she began to think she was afflicted with astigmatism or moonlight.

At every little corner of every lake stood an "old mill" which caused Julia to wonder if such a thing as a new mill ever existed, even at the summer resorts. The water lilies in these ponds were really beautiful, pink and white and so cool and refreshing looking.

Those Fearful Stumps.

But before she had been in town two hours Julia learned that there were hundreds and hundreds of stumps in these same ponds. Whenever she went boating the conversation drifted to stumps—how, just last week, Virginia Jones, trying to push her boat off a stump, had fallen into the pond on her head, and after spending at least 10 seconds down among the seaweed and fishes had been rescued by her veil and so pulled up to safety. Then, too, boating at night was dangerous on account of these same stumps. In fact, every resident of Johnsonville told Julia some new tale of a thrilling battle with the stumps, until she began to fear them as she would lions and murderers and earthquakes. She even dreamed of stumps, and one night woke up from a sound sleep to hear herself calling: "Look out for that stump!" And the strangest part of it all was that she did not see a stump while she was in Johnsonville, except of course the tree stumps along the road where she went horseback riding.

Now The Plot Opens.

Cousin John kindly and unselfishly offered to teach her to ride. Julia was delighted at the prospect, and immediately had a conference with Jessie, whom she was visiting, about a riding habit. As a result of the consultation one of Jessie's big black skirts was tucked in to fit. Brother Frank had a fascinating campaign hat and a pair of khaki leggings had been seen duty in the Philippines, and Julia had a Peter Pan shirtwaist with a stock collar and a horsehoe pin to fasten it with. So, she felt that nothing was lacking.

When she was arrayed in these Brother Frank declared she looked enough like a feminine "bronco buster" to have her picture on the cover of a magazine. Julia was delighted and felt that half the battle was won.

Soon she discovered that she had been ready to go for at least five minutes, and looking at the clock she saw that Cousin John was just three and one half minutes late. Thereupon she vowed always to be punctual for waiting was agony.

Suddenly down the village street came the sound of hoof beats. Julia clutched at her skirt to give it the fetching kink adopted by footlight stars and went skipping down the steps trying her best to make a clatter.

There before the door was Cousin John on a big gray horse and beside him the liveryman was holding another gray.

And His Name Was Wonder.

"What is his name?" queried Julia. "Wonder, and he's as gentle as a lamb too. Not a better horse in town," answered the liveryman. "I'm a little sorry he's so gentle. I think I'd prefer a horse with some spirit."

Julia was disappointed that he was not champing his bit and pawing the ground. She longed for a colt like George Washington used to break in the Fourth Reader.

"Ever been on before?" the liveryman asked.

"Oh, no!"

Julia thought she saw the liveryman wink.

"I'm not at all afraid," she hastened to add, and prepared to mount. She knew exactly "the light easy manner in which Gwendolyn vaulted into the saddle," and took particular pains to put her best foot foremost, which in this case happened to be her left. Giving a big jump, she landed in the saddle.

"Fine!" said the liveryman. "I can't hardly believe you've never been on a horse before." Julia smiled and concluded that this was a mighty nice liveryman, after all.

"Feel all right?"

"Yes; a—a—that is—I think I do," Julia heard herself hesitate. She straightened up, however. It was pride that made her, for in a long row stood the nine members of the family, eight next door neighbors and the four friends across the way, who had all gathered to see the fun.

"Walk the horse down the street to get yourself accustomed to the saddle. Can you rein him all right?" Cousin John said to begin the lesson.

"Oh yes! I know how to do that," Julia was determined on this question.

He Deserved His Name.

"Gee up Wonder!" she commanded, and flapped the left rein gently over his neck. Wonder began to go around in circles. Julia pulled at the rein. Round and round he went, like a merry-go-round.

When he had executed 10 circles Julia began to shriek: "Whoa! Make him stop can't you, please!"

The liveryman stepped up, caught the bridle and said sternly:

"Quit your foolishness, Wonder! Why can't you behave?"

"There isn't anything the matter with him is there?" Julia looked anxious. "He hasn't the vertigo, has he?"

"Oh no, ma'am! He's as gentle as a lamb. Just don't pull on one rein all the time; he thinks you want him to go round."

"Oh how stupid of me! I'll do better next time. There, now; be a good old horse and go."

She patted him on the neck. Wonder stood still and didn't even take the trouble to raise his ears.

"Maybe he wants some sugar. Get him a lump, please somebody."

"Oh, no, Miss; he don't. Here take this whip and give it to him if he needs it."

What! Whip The Poor Horse?

Julia looked horrified.

"Oh, I couldn't do that! It might hurt him."

Just then however Wonder started on a walk of his own accord. Julia of course went too. The horse headed straight for his stable.

Down Main street he went at a side ways trot. Julia held on tight, and as she passed the postoffice she heard remarks like these:

"Looks scared to death, doesn't she?"

"Pale as a ghost."

Julia heeded them not, but alternately pulled on the reins and called out:

"Whoa, Wonder! Come back here, I say! Do you hear me? Stop, Stop! Oh, my! What's the matter with this horse?"

As she passed the courthouse she summoned all her energy in one terrific jerk of the rein, which brought Wonder to a standstill. Then he began to get fractions and insisted on standing on his hind feet and then on his front feet, and even tried a waltz and two step like circus horses. Julia turned green and yellow from fright, and was just about to fall off and end her misery when a man rushed up and took the bridle. Julia learned afterward that he was the "catch" of the town. Wonder at once calmed down.

"He's an awful horse!" Julia gasped.

"His bit was turned over; that's all," her rescuer said.

"Oh I'm so sorry. I hope it didn't hurt him. Won't you please turn him around? I want to go home."

The liveryman arrived just then and inquired what had happened.

"Oh, nothing, except that the horse wouldn't mind what I said!"

The liveryman smiled. "Oh he's all right. I'll try you on a gallop when we get around the corner. Hold on tight to the saddle or his mane or anything. Whatever happens don't fall off. Here, now let's begin."

"I can stay on all right. Whoever heard of holding to a saddle in such an undignified manner? The idea!" Julia said this to herself. She was not quite so confident as when she first mounted.

Fine—in Some Ways.

Then they started, Oh, it was "terribly nice," and if Julia had been quite sure she would stay or it would have been heavenly. As it was she was glad to have that saddle to hold on to. And every time she bounced up she was surprised the she came down again on the horse's head of in the street. Such a jumping and jolting and thumping and bumping! "Oh, oh—h, let—t's stop!" she pleaded.

When Wonder began to slow down the sensation was frightful. The jolting and thumping and bumping were exaggerated ten times, and when at last she pulled up before the house and found the family waiting in an expectant row her campaign hat was down over one ear, her hair down over the other and three hairpins were caught in the pocket of her shirtwaist.

"How did I do?" she queried timidly.

"Fine, fine!" Jessie said, with tears in her eyes and her shoulders shaking.

"Did I look very much like Iahobad Crane?"

"Of course not! How could you?" Julia didn't know just how she could, but just the same she had an idea that was the way she had looked.

Uncle John's Turn Next.

Then Cousin John decided it was time to begin his instruction. They started off again.

"Stay on and don't let her break her neck!" shouted the family in a farewell chorus.

"I think it would be best if we walk our horses for a while," said Cousin John, "until you get accustomed to the motion."

Julia meekly agreed. When they had gotten about a mile out in the country Cousin John asked if she felt safe.

"Oh yes; I feel very safe—that is, I think I do!" Julia was not quite certain.

"Let's gallop a little. Shall we?"

"Oh yes; let's!"

And they did.

When they drew up Cousin John declared she had done splendidly. Cousin John was such a cheerful person, anyhow.

"I felt like I was going a little sideways. This saddle feels just a little too narrow, or maybe the girth is too loose."

Cousin John dismounted and tightened the girth. Then he mounted again and they tried another gallop.

Soon the buckle on the stirrup strap got in the wrong place and began to feel uncomfortable. Cousin John fixed it three times before it was just right. It didn't feel good even then, but Julia didn't have the heart to object.

After a while she got accustomed to her horse and liked it so much that she persuaded Cousin John to keep her out a long time. They came in town at a gallop. When they turned the corner toward home there stood the family in a row. Waving her hand in real cowboy fashion, Julia tried to dash up with great flutter and confidence. The family greeted her in horrified tones.

"Where on earth have you been? Why did you stay so long? You've been gone five and a half hours."

"We've been waiting out here for half an hour," said Jessie. "I was afraid something had happened."

"Whew! How you'll feel tomorrow and the day after! Oh my; I'm awful sorry for you!" Brother Frank was inclined to be spiteful.

Then Came The Reward.

When Cousin John had helped her to dismount Julia could hardly stand up, she was so tired and when she tried to walk she discovered a big blister under her knee, where the pom-pom had rubbed. Every bone in her body ached. The muscles on her left arm were puffed up into a hard knot. Even her neck felt sore and her back—oh, it was indescribable! She felt dislocated all over.

"Oh, my! Wait until tomorrow," laughed Brother Frank.

Julia tried to muster up energy enough to frown, but somehow she couldn't.

At any rate Cousin John had said she didn't bounce up so very much. He declared she did unusually well. That was a small comfort. As she dragged herself up the stairs she met Eloise, the maid, coming down. Eloise was excited.

"Oh, Miss Julia," she said, "I seen you; 'deed I did; comin' flyin' down the street. Yore arms was flopping and you was jumping up and down from that saddle like a great big rubber ball! Lawd, chile! I was 'fraid you'd fall off. You'll be awful stiff tomorrow."

Julia sank into a little heap on the stairs and said nothing.

TO OCEAN CITY

By Mono-Rail—113 Miles In Less Than 2 Hours Would Wake Things Up. Trial At Jamestown.

Plans are being prepared by the Baltimore and Ocean City Railway Company for the building of a mono-rail line between Baltimore and Ocean City. Engineer Frank H. Sloan has become connected with the Company, and is preparing drawings of a proposed route for the line. It is proposed to ferry across the Chesapeake Bay north of the Patapsco so as to make the water route as short as possible. It is hoped to construct a road over which trains can make the trip of about 113 miles in less than two hours, as compared with more than five by the present route.

While the Company has rights to enter Baltimore they are subject to the consent of the Mayor and City Council the same as all other grants, and no effort has been made to obtain such franchise. It is believed, however, that the Company proposes, if possible, to make some arrangements for entering the city through the United Railways, but these arrangements are not likely to be perfected before the adoption of the new financial plan of the United.

The American Mono-rail Company, which is behind the Ocean City Charter, proposes to erect a sample track for exhibition purposes at the Jamestown Exposition, having obtained a concession for that purpose. The Company proposes to use the patents of Howard H. Tansie of Baltimore which provide for a railroad of a single rail, on which trains may be run at a very high speed.

Democratic Ticket. FOR CONGRESS: HON. THOMAS A. SMITH, Of Caroline County.

THE ANTI BRIBERY RESOLUTIONS. There is an impression that the Anti Bribery Resolutions adopted at the Ocean City Convention was a sort of compromise on the part of Mr. Ellegood. On the contrary he informs us that the only resolutions he submitted were the resolutions adopted at the Wicomico Convention which were only altered so as to be adapted to the District and made somewhat stronger and were readily accepted by Mr. Smith, also by the Committee on Resolutions and the Convention without alteration. It is up to the Republican Convention to do likewise or make them more stringent if they wish and for Republicans as "good citizens to aid in enforcing the Constitution and Laws against bribery." We predict that there will be no vote buying in Wicomico this year. The Denton Journal has taken up the matter in Mr. Smith's county and gives its hearty endorsement to the effort and speaks in most complimentary terms of the Wicomico Resolutions. The leaven is leavening and the whole lump will soon feel it.

SURRENDER OF A TRUST. One trust appears to have come to time for fear of the law—not any new law, but the old anti-trust legislation which has been on the statute book for years. There may be but few people who know there is a Licorice Trust, an octopus which has its tentacles fastened on the independent tobacco manufacturers, whom it is stated, it charged 20 per cent higher prices for licorice than it charged the Tobacco Trust. As licorice is not an article of steady diet except to those who use chewing tobacco, the public will gain nothing now the trust has determined to do equity by charging all its customers alike, for the tobacco manufacturers will probably not reduce the price of tobacco in consequence of the vigorous trust prosecutions by the Administration of the predatory trust. If President Roosevelt would stir up his young men to prod the Beef Trust, the Sugar Trust, the Coal Trust, the Standard Oil Trust and others that produce necessities and force them to cut their prices 20 per cent there would be something to rejoice about, that would help the over-lazied purse of the housewife.

TAMING MONEY. The Democrats of Wisconsin in their platform just adopted remind the country that the Republican national committee has not made restitution of the large sums received from the Life Insurance corporations siphoned from the funds that should have been sacred to the widows and orphans of policy holders. The plank adopted condemns the Republican party for the acceptance of the policy holders' money and demands that the same be restored. Now President Roosevelt has five months' holiday before him, there can be no excuse, for lack of time, for his not taking up the matter with Chairman Cortelyou and ordering that a restitution of these tainted funds be made to their rightful owners.

BONDS FOR SALE. Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, Maryland, until MONDAY, JULY 30th, 1906, 8.00 P. M., for the purchase in whole or in part of TWENTY THOUSAND DOLLARS FOUR AND ONE HALF PER CENT BONDS to be issued by said Mayor and Council of Salisbury, Maryland, for the improvement of certain streets in said town of Salisbury, Md. Bonds will be in denominations of five hundred dollars each, and will be numbered from one to forty, and redeemed according to numbers as follows: Ten bonds first day of February, 1912; and four bonds each succeeding year until all are redeemed. Said bonds bearing date of August 1st, 1906. This issue is authorized by Act of Legislature of 1905, and an Ordinance passed by the Mayor and Council of Salisbury. These bonds are exempt from State, county and municipal taxation. By order of Mayor and Council of Salisbury, HENRY J. BYRD, Clerk.

STYLES AT SARATOGA

Cottage Life Increasing. Afternoon Driving, Morning Toilets. Seen At The Hotels And Congress Springs. The Linen Craze. Saratoga bids fair to be itself again this season, and gay groups are gathering on verandas, listening to charming music, and the young and old are ready for the flirtations which are an epidemic in this celebrated resort. Linen is the wear par excellence of half the fashionables one meets, and it may take the form of the simplest little pony coat and skirt, or be built of linen, fine as gossamer, and embroidered all over like frost work and set with lace until it represents the value of an ordinary woman's whole year's dress allowance.

Linen Coats And Wraps. The extra coat of linen and little fancy capes of linen and lace, or coats of all over lace with linen trimmings are in evidence everywhere that fashionables assemble; at the lake, or at afternoon teas, at the cottages, as well as on the hotel piazzas, one sees linen wraps worn with costumes of silk, light wools, or cottons.

Old Time Ideas. Over skirts, panels, fichus and dolmans. All the old time things that a few of us remember are seen again. Pinked rushes, gowns flounced up to the waist, lacings of ribbon and velvet. Floral garnitures for evening gowns are made all of ribbon; toilettes of taffeta in black or colors with flounces trimmed with velvet ribbon—Greek key patterns, and shawl and cape shaped wraps.

Fancy Sleeves Galore. The styles in sleeves are in endless variety, but as a rule they are short, ending at the elbow or just below. Tailored sleeves often have the long coat sleeve and half long coat and long sleeves are predicted for the fall, but for the present the short sleeve and long gloves hold the "blue ribbon."

Hats For Girl And Matron. Flower trimmed hats of leghorn or straw are first choice with young girls, while older women wear hats trimmed with aigrettes to a considerable extent. Embroidered linen hats are the newest arrival and suitable for any and everybody. The use of black velvet ribbon on such hats is a confirmation of the coming popularity of black velvet ribbon. A beautiful leghorn is worn by a lovely blonde, had a brim folded against the crown, with a full draping and fluffy bow of blue tulle, with two handsome blue ostrich plumes waving above and below the brim. Lilacs are fashionable, but violets have disappeared completely. Soft made plumage of white or pale yellow is a favorite garniture and tulle continues to be worn in hat trimmings and fluffy neck ruffles.

For Utility Gowns. For gowns that go to all sorts of places, "Mill or meeting" nothing is better than blue voile with silk trimmings finished with tailor stitchings. These with guimpes and sleeves of washable linens look cool and serviceable and will last far into the autumn when linen togs look freezing. Figured mohairs are smart in Paris and are seen here on the few who are ahead in style. They need to be tailor made to look right, hence are not for home construction.

May S. V. A dry shampoo is easily managed. Powder the hair with any good absorbent powder. Powdered oris is excellent. Let it stay for a few moments and brush out thoroughly. The oil will come with it and leave the hair clean and fluffy.

Dolly S. Try Sozodont. It is pleasant to use, leaves a sweet clean taste and is the best preparation I know of to keep the mouth pure and the teeth white. The paste in tube form is especially nice for traveling.

THE BRIDGE PLAYERS ESCAPE

How They Eluded Their Informants and Had a Quiet Game.

Herbert Tate-Willis, the well-known authority on bridge, plays badly if there are too many onlookers about.

"As some people dislike anyone to look over their shoulders while they are writing letters," he said recently, "so I dislike to have anyone look over my shoulder while I am playing bridge.

"Two gentlemen were playing one night at a club to which I belong. While they played two other gentlemen entered the room. These latter two took their positions, each behind a player's chair, and blowing cigar smoke into the players' ears, and breathing on the backs of their necks, they nodded sagely, or whispered advice, as they deemed best. The pleasant game, in short, was spoiled.

"Finally one of the players rose. "Would you mind playing this hand a minute or two for me?" he said, turning to the man behind him. "Why, no; not at all," the man replied, and he took the cards, and the first player left the room.

"Some little time went by and then the second player turned to the man behind him. "Play these cards for me a moment there's a good fellow," he said, rising hastily. "Sure, old man," was the reply, and the second player left the room.

"The substitutes played out their hands and had a new deal. They played out their hands again and had another deal. They could not imagine what had become of the two men for whom they were substituting.

"A waiter entered the room and one of the substitutes said: "Waiter, where are Mr. A. and Mr. B., do you know?" "Yes, sir," the waiter answered. "They're playing in the next room, sir."

Not Any for Her. A story is told of a young wife who knew little of housekeeping. She was, in consequence of that inexperience, disposed to stand a bit in awe of the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick-maker, for she felt sure they must be aware of the extent of her ignorance in household matters. She ordered only such things as she was absolutely sure of, and she made her interviews with the tradesmen as brief as possible.

One morning there came to her house a collector of ashes. "Ash-ees!" she heard him calling in stentorian tones. As the cry was repeated again and again she became more and more perplexed as to what "ash-ees" meant. Finally, she went to the gate in the rear and opened it. "Ash-ees!" came in guttural question from the man.

The young wife hesitated for a moment; then, drawing herself up to a dignified attitude, she replied coldly: "No, I don't think I care for any to-day."—Harper's Weekly.

Amusing the Baby. Roscoe C. Sutcliffe, who has fought child labor so successfully for sixteen years, said recently in Dallas: "These employers of child labor seem to me to be lunatics. They fatten on tender little children," working them 11 or 12 hours a day, stunting alike their bodies and their minds, yet in nine cases out of ten they are pious, church-going people, and they assure you calmly that their work benefits and gladdens the children instead of harming and saddening them.

"They remind me in their perfect assurance of my wife's niece, a child of nine. "My wife's niece was once left in charge of her baby brother for some hours. "When her mother returned home, the first sound she heard was the loud yelling and squalling of the baby. She ran upstairs at once. "What is the baby crying for?" she said. "And the baby's mistress answered calmly: "He's cross with me, mamma. I was trying to make him smile with the glove stretcher."

Benny on the Goat. The goat is a small, tough animal that lives in lodge rooms and on the roofs of coal sheds. When there is a goat playing in the streets you can taste him a mile away. He is sometimes familiar with the human species, but not friendly. I have heard that goats are fond of beer, which they drink while standing erect on their hind legs, but it is wrong to drink anything stronger than soda water with a large spoonful of ice cream stirred into it with a spoon. Nobody ever ought to be a drunkard if he can help it. Once there was a man who went out to Kansas to raise goats. I guess he did not like the business. He came back in about a year, and went to mending shoes. The goat has fewer stomachs than a cow, but it can eat more kinds of things.—Chicago Tribune.

HOME COOKING. Beef Loaf. Chop fine 2 pounds round steak and 1/2 pound salt pork; roll 3 crackers fine and pour boiling water over them to swell them; add 2 eggs, salt, pepper and poultry seasoning to taste; bake in buttered pan 1 hour.

Codfish and Cheese. Boil 1 pound of codfish and chop very fine. Make a cup of drawn butter, add while boiling. Stir in the fish, using pepper, parsley and two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese for the seasoning. Place all in baking dish, scatter fine bread crumbs over the top and brown nicely in the oven.

Clam Fritters. One pint of four, 2 eggs, little salt, 1/4 pint milk. Beat the eggs, add the milk and half the flour and beat well. Then add the rest of the flour and as many clams as you wish.

Everybody understands that an old boiler must be treated with care, but very few understand that an old stomach is as dangerous as an old boiler.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By F. E. Davison Rutland Vt.

THE WORLD A NEIGHBORHOOD.

July 15, '06—(Luke 10:25-37.)

The Jews, as a nation, in Christ's day, were a race of bigots. Sectarianism and bigotry among them had come to its full fruition. They were, in their own estimation, the chosen people of God, his peculiar and special treasure. The rest of the world they designated as Gentiles and nicknamed as "dogs." They believed that the crumbs that fell from tables was luxurious fare for those less favored than themselves, and that even in the world to come this distinction would be observed and that Abraham, Isaac and Jacob would be surrounded in the kingdom of heaven with their numerous descendants, the twelve tribes of Israel judging the rest of the world.

Jesus Christ was a Jew, born of Jewish mother, so far as his human nature was concerned having the blue blood of the aristocracy in his veins. He was the great-grandson of King David, and yet in him there was not a vestige of this universal bigotry. He smashed the traditions of the elders right and left. He told the warring hypocrites that the publicans and harlots would go into the kingdom of heaven ahead of them. He hurled his denunciations at them for misconstruing and perverting the teachings of Moses. And to discredit and pour contempt upon their sectarian bigotry he uttered the parable of the Good Samaritan. In that matchless story he punctures Jewish exclusiveness and race hatred as shown by the Jewish Priest and Levite, and glorifies the humane act of the Gentile dog, the Good Samaritan, as an example worthy of imitation by all men everywhere. When he said to his Jewish questioner, and through him to all others, "Go thou and do likewise," he drove a spear into the heart of bigotry that caused it to writhe in pain and will yet bring it to the grave.

The spirit of caste against which the Man of Galilee cast the whole weight of his influence, has more or less affected all races of men. Heathen lands are to-day under its almost omnipotent control. India is its native heath, China is gridironed with it, Africa pays tribute to its power. It is a greater hindrance to missionary effort than all other obstacles combined.

And the same thing is true in so-called Christian lands. William Cowper long ago sang: "Mountains interposed make enemies of nations, which had else like kindred drops been melted into one." Not only is that true of geographical boundaries, but of invisible boundaries. Color and sex is a barrier, blood is a barrier, language is a barrier, education is a barrier, position is a barrier. Chinese walls are run through society seemingly high as heaven, and impassable as the gulf between Dives and Lazarus.

Nevertheless twenty centuries have made vast breaches into these sectarian walls. They are crumbling everywhere. They are not down yet, and they may never fall like the walls of Jericho in one grand crash of ruin, but the battering rams of truth set in motion by the Son of Man will never cease until the last vestige of bigotry and sectarian narrowness has crumbled into dust. Churches that once wanted a good deal to consider on doctrinal disputations, have spiked their guns or turned them on the common enemy. The solidarity of the race is being recognized more and more. It is now pretty generally conceded that manhood does not depend upon the color of the skin or slant of the eye. The heart of the race is one. Let disaster fall upon any portion of the earth's inhabitants and quick as the tidings is known the hand of brotherly help is stretched out across the continents and over the oceans. Famine in Java or Russia, earthquake shock in Formosa or Jamaica, mine explosions in France or Virginia, fire or flood or cyclone, war or pestilence anywhere causes the heart of humanity to throb with sympathy and the purse strings to loosen all around the world. The Good Samaritan never was so much in evidence as he is to-day.

There are those who do not like this idea. They say that God made the Chinaman, and set him down in one place, and the African and set him down in another place, and the Caucasian and set him down in still another place, and that He expected them to stay in their own place and work out their own destiny, irrespective of others. But St. Paul knocks down that idea witheringly in the presence of an aristocratic audience he declared the democratic doctrine that "God hath made of one blood all the nations of men." They started in one garden, they fell in one transgression, they are redeemed by one cross, they will dwell forever in one heaven. Differences forever, but no quarrel. The towers that have so long sounded the tocsin of alarm shall yet ring the silver melody of the Millennium. The flags of all nations, once carried in the forefront of hostile armies, shall hang in graceful festoons above those who sometimes were full of hate. The "Marseillaise" and "Bonny Doon" and "Hail Columbia" and "God Save the Queen" shall yet mingle in one great oratorio as it comes to be recognized that all the world is a neighborhood and all mankind a brotherhood, the song of joy bursting into a million-voiced acclaim.

To Renovate Carpets. Some housekeepers have their carpets wiped off while on the floor with a cloth wrung out of warm water with which a little ammonia has been mixed. The water must be changed often. The colors of a light Axminster or any other heavy pile carpet will brighten wonderfully after this treatment. One housekeeper has all her heavy carpets scrubbed on the floor, with plenty of soap and warm water.

A new product of the German chemists is "banana essence," a syrup whose taste is at first caustic and then bitter and then sweet. Dr. T. Gigli has found by analysis that it contains 5 per cent of saccharine in a base like pyridine, but a solution of saccharine in pyridine did not yield to the substance.

The natives of the Malay Peninsula have in use the smallest current coin in the world. It is a sort of wafer, made from the resinous juice of a tree, and is worth about one-twentieth of a cent. The smallest metal coin in circulation at the present day is the Portuguese 3 reis piece, worth six one-hundredths of a cent.

NATURE'S WARNING.

Salisbury People Must Recognize And Heed It.

Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously.

But nature always warns you.

It's time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills.

To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes.

Doan's have done great work in Salisbury.

E. Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension says:

"My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last February. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back. The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used was Doan's Kidney Pills. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

In Northern China the average annual rainfall is under 40 inches. It increases to the southward and decreases from the coast toward the interior of the empire, and in individual years it is subject to large fluctuations. In Korea the annual fall is about 36 inches on the west coast and is generally more than 40 inches on the east and south coasts.

Modest Claims Often Carry The Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below that he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise, instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

In Java the planting of indigo is steadily decreasing by reason of the great increase in production of the synthetic article; in fact, much of the land on which indigo has heretofore been cultivated has now been turned into sugar plantations. Exports in 1905 were 1,397,374 pounds and in 1905 540,252 pounds.

Bowel Complaint in Children.

During the summer months children are subject to disorders of the bowels which should receive careful attention as soon as the first unnatural looseness of the bowels appears. The best medicine in use for bowel complaint is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as it promptly controls any unnatural looseness of the bowels. For sale by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

GRIT.

There's nothing that's gained without grit—

Remember that always, my lad—Ambition will solemnly sit.

And energy, mayhap, go mad: Unless grit will push them along.

To the goal where success reigns supreme.

Your life's but a somnolent song.

Your struggle a wearisome dream.

Ah then, if the nail you would hit, Be sure that you do it with grit;

For, until you do, You will find it quite true

That nothing is gained without grit, my lad—

That nothing is gained without grit.

You struggle until you are old.

Then say, with a sigh, "Nothing won.

Oh, why didn't some one take hold And drive me till something was done?"

Why didn't you know how to grasp The value of each flitting day.

And not let old idleness creep

You tight in his meshes, and say: "Ah, lad, you can't win on your wit.

It takes lots of courage and grit— You may conquer a place

Near the first in the race— But nothing is gained without grit, my lad—

No, nothing is gained without grit."—Success.

Saved His Comrade's Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Eldon, Iowa. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe it saved his life. I have been engaged for ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." Sold by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

Gentlemen:
Your Night Caps were almost thrust upon me by a friend who evidently knows a thing or two. Shortly after the middle of last January I was in a state of almost complete nervous exhaustion, arising from excessive business effort, resulting in inability to sleep and mental depression. My physician for two months treated me, at a large expense, for nervous prostration, advising complete rest for an indefinite period. At that time, a vacation was impossible. I recovered my normal weight. You may be very sure that I now keep Night Caps constantly on hand, particularly at an assistant in case of over indulgence at table. If, at any time, you should deem it wise, or to your advantage, to refer anyone to me, do so. I will be very glad to write inquirers about it. I would suggest, however, that you instruct them to enclose stamp for reply, for I have reason to believe that I might find myself financially embarrassed if inquiries come from all who need your remedy. Kindly withhold this letter from publication. Believe me,
Very truly yours,

MARDELA.

The incessant rains are making our farmers and truckers very blue. Wheat is still in shock and it is feared that it is soaked through and through. No doubt much of it has sprouted. This will be a great loss, and to those who cannot well afford the loss. Would it be better for our farmers to do as is done in many other sections, to stack their wheat as soon after cutting as it will do? This would save the wheat and the additional expense would amount to but very little. By this means, if the threshers should disappoint, the grain would not spoil. It may be more convenient to let the wheat remain in shock, but the risk is too great.

The other day, the writer of this overheard some of the fairer sex objecting to going down to the spring at night, unless accompanied by some gentleman. Then they went on to state their reasons. They claimed that there were so many men and boys lounging around and filling up the entrance to the spring that they cannot get at it. There are some who are ever ready to make way for the ladies, but there are others who remain seated on the pavement with their feet hanging over the opening to the spring and who will not budge an inch. They also claimed that there is at times so much profanity indulged in and in a loud tone of voice that they will not venture near. Now if this indictment is true, a stop should be put to it at once. Every male in the town has a duty to perform. The Spring, a public necessity, should be a safe and respectable place for any lady whether protected or unprotected, to visit day or night, as she pleases. If this does not remedy the difficulty complained of, then the town Commissioners can remedy it. They are empowered by law to prevent the repetition of the things to which objections have been made. The limits of the town extend beyond the Spring and if complaints are made to the Commissioners they will see that all profanity is stopped and stopped at once. The articles of Incorporation say, that the Commissioners are "to provide for the regulation of good government and improvement of said town and may enforce the observances thereof under such penalties, fines and forfeitures as they shall deem proper. And still further, "to prohibit and disperse the tumultuous meetings of idle, dissolute or drunken persons." There is law enough and our Commissioners have backbone enough to correct any abuses, if their attention is only called to it. Until the owners of the Spring object, all persons in the town have a right to go there, drink water, sit and talk to their heart's content, provided they do not in any way hinder others in their uninterrupted access to the Spring.

Some one has asked, "What has become of that Dog tax of 50 cents on each dog?" If there is a tax of 50 cents on good dogs, what about the dogs that howl all night long and thus keep nervous people awake all night? Such dogs should not be kept in town. They are a public nuisance. They should be taxed out of existence.

It has been practically demonstrated that the present way of lighting our town is a dismal failure. Some claim that the failure is in the kind of lamps used. True, it is hard to regulate them. Often after they have been properly lit, as was supposed, the flame will shoot up to the top of the lamp and they have to be put out entirely. The best lights in the town, and the lamps best kept, are those attended to by Mr. Gillis and Mr. Cooper. The one that comes in as a close second is the one that is cared for by Dr. Elderdice and Mr. Parker. Give us a new and better system and let us make the new system work.

Those who were sick in the home of Mr. Peter Livingston are now convalescing.

The members and friends of St. Luke's M. E. Church will hold a basket supper and festival on next Thursday, July 26th. If that day should be stormy it will be held the next day. All friends are cordially invited to assist in the supper.

LAST OF THUGS OF INDIA

Men Who Reduced Murder to an Art—Victims Sacrificed.

HOW GRAFT FLOURISHED.

Religious Devotees That Divided Spoils of Their Crime With Temple—How Members of the Band Were Initiated—Their Palmy Days in Paris.

The Thugs were under vows to kill Devi, the black-browed consort of Siva the Destroyer. She is that terrible personage who appears in the Hindu Pantheon as a fierce but beautiful woman, riding on a tiger, or as a hideous, blood-stained idol, garlanded with skulls. Banded together as caste brothers, the Thugs hunted men to offer them to the deity of destruction, and because she required a bloodless sacrifice they killed their victims by suffocation.

The Thugs, not being cannibals, could not live by mere murder. So they robbed their victims and divided the spoils between themselves and the temples of Kali. As a religious body they were protected by the British and by powerful Rajas, who licensed and taxed them. It was an easy way for a ruler to increase his revenue and the victims were traveling merchants who would not be missed.

During the many centuries of war and anarchy in India Thuggee flourished mightily. Under Aurungzeb, to whom as a Moslem Kali was an abhorred idol, it suffered a check.

The Emperor ordered the Thugs to be strung up by the left hand in the jungle and left there to die. The British, prototypes of the sentimentalists who present notorious modern criminals with bouquets, banqueting the strangers before the execution.

These terrors of the Indian highway are now extinct, like the sabre-toothed tiger. About sixty years ago many hundreds were executed and the remainder transported or put to work at tent making and other peaceful trades, in strict confinement.

It was the writer's privilege a few years ago to visit one of the last of the world famous strangers. He had been captured young, and sentenced to imprisonment for life in a central Indian jail.

Nadho, so he was called, had been so long a prisoner that he was rather cared for as a curiosity, a museum specimen, than treated as a criminal. He had become an expert in weaving and when the looms were idle was by no means unwilling to talk of his experiences as a Thug. He had been torn in the caste, and devoted early to the service of Kali. His father led him to a secret place in the jungle and initiated him, by the wretched rite of the corpse and the dagger, into the freemasonry of the brotherhood. He learned their signs, how to interpret the omen of the owl, the patter of the "ramawasi"—the secret language of the craft. Being a precocious youth, as he said, he was selected to play the part of "talker," or confidence man. The old man illustrated with wrist and knuckle the act of tightening the rumal, or handkerchief, round the neck of the victim. He told how the travelers were buried while warm in the graves that had been prepared for them. For himself it was his destiny, he said, "The potter's son takes to the potter's wheel; the copper-smith's to the tinkling of the hammer."

The garroters who infested London in the '40s choked, but did not kill the returning citizens. When chloroform came into use in surgery, the underworld of crime, or at any rate its master minds at one appreciated its value. It was painless, it was safe for them; the victim would awake in a state of mental confusion—he could give the police no clue. The drug became popular with the scientific criminals who operated on English railroad lines, where the closed compartments secure privacy. Sometimes a subject died under chloroform by misadventure, but that might have happened at the hands of a young medical practitioner.

In Paris, however, the tricks of Indian Thuggee have been closely followed. Look over the files of the Parisian papers of recent years, you will find accounts of men found dead in lonely places with leather cords around their necks and empty pockets.

A robber dressed like a workman or petit bourgeois would approach a belated clubman and offer him for sale a ring, ostensibly picked up from the pavement. If Monsieur did not take alarm the robber's partner, who had crept behind his victim, snared his mouth and throat in a noose. Then with a quick Jiu-jitsu turn the thug heaved him off the ground on to his own back, like a sack of coal, and his partner stepped up and rifled Monsieur's pockets. The latter was then dropped on the pavement with force enough to stun him and the thugs made their escape.

To the Grave in a Cab. The eccentric life of the late Horatio Bright, wealthy retired manufacturer of Sheffield, England, was no more eccentric than his funeral.

Before daybreak an ordinary cab drove up to the door of his house, and his body, contained in a plain coffin, was placed in it. A second cab carried a party of undertakers' men, and they were driven over to the bleak moorland to the village of Moscor, six miles away, where Mr. Bright many years before erected a magnificent mausoleum to shelter the coffin of his first wife and his own. He used to sit in it for

OUR GREAT BATTLESHIPS.

The Connecticut is the Most Powerful Ever Built in This Country.

As the newest, largest and most formidable engine of destruction in our navy, and, save one, the heaviest armed vessel in the world, much interest will attach to a description of some of her leading features.

Her keel was laid on March 10, 1903, and she was launched on September 29, 1904. She is 450 feet long by 76 feet 10 inches in extreme width. About 2,200 tons of coal can be carried in her bunkers. Her speed will be eighteen knots, and she draws 24 1/2 feet of water. Nearly 7,500 tons of steel plates have been used in the construction of the hull. Her total cost reaches $8,000,000.

It is said by one of the chief naval constructors that at the time the Connecticut was laid down she was admitted by European naval experts to be the best designed and most powerful warship of her class in existence, and she is only exceeded at present by the English Dreadnought, of 18,000 tons, whose gun range is somewhat greater.

The dominant feature and supreme importance of the Connecticut as a destructive engine of war is centered in her terrific battery of long range guns. Four huge 12-inch breech-loading rifles, navy's latest model, 45 feet long, are mounted in two turrets, one forward and one aft. These guns are capable of hurling 850-pound projectiles with sufficient force to penetrate armor and sink a ship six to eight miles away. Besides these monster weapons, and 12-inch guns complete the main battery while twenty 3-inch and 12-pounders are installed, intended principally to ward off torpedo boat attacks.

The hull of the Connecticut is protected at the waterline by a complete belt of armor 9 feet 3 inches in width and 11 inches thick, which runs 200 feet amidships, while the front and back of this, embracing the magazine spaces, is 9 inches until it gradually decreases to 4 inches in thickness at the stem and stern. The casement armor, from the top of the waterline to the edge of the 7-inch gun ports and upper casement, is 6 inches thick throughout.

The work of placing in the turrets the four 12-inch guns, weighing 125,000 pounds each, was a delicate engineering feat. The powerful electric crane Hercules, however, with its strong coils of wire rope, slowly lifted these monster weapons, and lowered them safely into their proper positions. To sustain the shock of a large 13-ton recoil jacket is slung over the breech end of each gun. The rebound is about five or six feet.

A belt of armor 12 inches thick forms the front projecting plate of the rotating turrets of these guns. One of the record breaking equipments is the largest naval searchlight in the world, placed high up on the front of the military mast. The projector is 5 feet in diameter, and on a clear night an object 10 by 20 feet can be picked up at a distance of four to five miles at sea. This cost $4,000, and was made in Germany.

Two of the most vital spots on the ship are away below the waterline, in the dynamo rooms, one forward and one aft. Here are the great generating machines. Each plant is capable of operating the ship independently in case the other should be incapacitated and put out of order in battle. The electrical equipment is the most modern and extensive so far used on a vessel, operating some seven hundred and fifty lights in the battle service and about five hundred more in general lighting.

Twenty-five miles of wiring is used, which provides for an elaborate intercommunication between all parts of the ship, directing the firing, range finding of all batteries, submerged torpedo tubes and, in fact, controlling the complete maneuvering operations of the ship in time of action or otherwise.

One of the striking accessories for gun loading is an ingenious electric rammer for driving home the shell and powder charge in the breech of the gun. This is of brass and telescopic in action. Three hundred pounds of smokeless powder are used to fire the projectiles. One charge cooks over $200. The powder is put up in bags and stored in large, round copper cans, 3 feet high, tightly sealed and kept in the magazine.

The Eleventh Hour.

By Jessie Bowman.

Stealthily, Jim Rodney withdrew his wire from the lock of the massive oak door, and pressed the button on his pocket light.

He fumbled in his pocket and drew forth a saw, almost as slender as the wire itself, and inserted it into the crevice between the door and its casing. Slowly he drew it toward him. The sharp teeth of the saw bit into the wood, and grated harshly, causing Rodney to stop and listen, but all within the great house was silent as the grave. He turned once more for his delicate task. After a few quick strokes, the saw had cut a fine groove in the hard wood, and the grating became more muffled.

A clock in the distance struck 2, and he heard a car bumping over a crossing at the foot of the street, but silence still reigned within.

Grouping cautiously in the opaque darkness, he felt the stair railing, and, keeping one hand on it, crept slowly and noiselessly upward, until he had reached the upper landing. A quick flash from his pocket light showed a door, directly in front and ajar. Silent and ghostly, he drifted toward it. So slowly as to be scarcely perceptible, the door swung in, and the burglar, maintaining the same silent, cat-like tread, glided across the carpeted floor toward a bureau, which his light revealed, on the farther side of the room. The flash of light also revealed a bed, and he could hear the deep, regular respiration of the sleeper, but he never turned his head.

Again he flashed his pocket light, as he reached the bureau. A small box, studded with jewels, lay on one end of it. He took it, placed it in his pocket and stole softly toward the door. He halted a moment by the bedside, and a strange impulse made him press the button on his light.

The bright flash shone for an instant full on the face of the sleeper, and then all was dark, and in that intense darkness, Jim Rodney, gentleman burglar, stood, shaking like a leaf in the gale. There, almost in a second, it seemed, Jim Rodney's life passed like a kaleidoscope before his mental vision. His early life, his successes, and his failures came before him, in a mighty tide of recollection. And Alice—a lump rose in his throat as he thought of her as she looked a few short seasons before when they wandered together over rocks and along the beach, and she listened to his plans for the future.

Slowly the criminal recovered himself and softly crept back across the room, took the bejeweled box from his pocket and replaced it upon the bureau. Then, silent as the night itself, he left the room and cautiously descended the stairway. More he removed the block of wood from the door, passed out and replaced it, then wandered off down the dark, deserted street.

It was early evening in a great city, a few years later, that a man might have been seen walking slowly along one of the principal streets in the residential district. He halted in length in front of an imposing brownstone house. After some hesitation he pulled the bellknob and a minute later sat, with pounding heart, in the drawing room, waiting. A soft rustle sounded outside and the color mounted to Jim Rodney's face as he arose.

There she stood in the doorway, a vision of loveliness. "What, you—Jim Rodney!" she almost gasped. "Yes, Alice," said Rodney, sadly. "It is I; little enough, but that little due to yourself."

"Why?" she exclaimed. "I don't understand. Why did you stay away so long?" Then Jim Rodney told all. "And there," said he, in conclusion, with a sweeping gesture, "is the very door from which I cut the lock. Alice, I must go now, for I know your life can never be linked with mine."

"Jim," she whispered tremulously, "do you remember the parable of the servant who came at the eleventh hour?" "And shall we depart from the teaching?" she continued. "What?" exclaimed Rodney eagerly. "Shall we?" "There was silence, but she slowly

SHIPPING LIVE POULTRY.

Precautions to Be Observed to Obtain Best Profits.

Dressed poultry finds a decidedly better market for our western States in cold weather than warm, much of the shipment in these regions being directed East as there we usually find better markets. But dressed poultry shipment fall far below the live poultry shipments at any time of the year for one good reason at least, much of the time live poultry comes too near the price per pound of dressed poultry to pay for the trouble of dressing, with even the consideration of the loss in "drift" as the poultry buyers name the loss in weight from handling and shipping.

Old fowls lose the least amount of weight in shipment, ducks and geese come next, soft young chickens lose greatly, and turkeys come highest in the loss for drift.

Many persons are not aware that every large market has its killing division set aside for the Jews, and a rabbi presides at the killing. The Jews are our best buyers of live stock in poultry, and for the reason that a Jew is forbidden to eat a fowl unless it has been killed in a certain way, and under the direction of a rabbi, there is a great call for live poultry, especially on the Jewish holidays, which vary each year to some extent. The commission houses keep run of these dates and order in larger shipments of live poultry at these times.

In certain localities not well supplied with local poultry buyers, neighbors go in together at certain times of the year to dispose of their surplus poultry, the commission houses keeping them acquainted with the prices. Certain rules must be complied with, if the drift be not too heavy on these shipments. First are the shipping crates, mostly just rough affairs, not made to come back; although if the crates are extra good, the express companies will return these crates at a cost of ten cents each for handling them. For private shippers on a small scale it is best to have the crates made substantial, as the ten cents is a small outlay to the time consumed in making new ones each time.

The crates must be made roomy for the fowls, yet easy of handling by the trainmen and others. Ventilation must be perfect because the railroad company has a fashion of doubling up the crates, piling on top, and in this way, if the coops are not ventilated right, the loss in competition is heavy. If the conditions must be put in as the trainmen will pile the crates in handling, and the partitions keep the fowls from falling together at one end, many of which are then sure to be crippled if not killed outright.

If the fowls are to be shipped long distances, feed should be put in the crates. Before shipping, the crops must be well filled with corn or whole grain that takes longer time to digest than soft foods, and the last thing before starting all must be given fresh water.

The first days of the week are usually chosen for shipment of live poultry, that they may reach the market not later than Friday morning. Earlier than this suits the commission men better.

To neglect these small precautions given above means always an extra loss of birds and profit, besides the loss by drift, expected.

Artificial Hatching.

Incubation by machinery is an old idea, and yet very little information of those olden ideas has been handed down to us. Eggs were hatched by artificial means centuries ago. Machines were invented for that purpose by the Egyptians long before the Christian era. Some of them depended upon the customary fuel for the necessary heat, while others were heated by stones brought to the right temperature by the action of the sun, and others again heated by lamps.

The whole theory of incubation is based upon the fact that if a fertile egg is kept for a sufficient period of time, under certain conditions of heat, moisture and position, it is going to be transformed into a healthy fowl of its kind.

The period of incubation varies with different species of fowls. The average period is a little over 20 or 21 days for the hen. This period may be shortened or prolonged by variations in the conduct of the mother hen, as well as the lack of or abundance of bodily heat. Chickens have been hatched in nineteen days, while they have been known to hatch on the twenty-fourth day, and quite often on the twenty-second or twenty-third. The same applies to other fowls, each in its own course of incubation. The periods of incubation for the most common fowls are: Common hen, twenty-one days. Pheasant, twenty-five days. Common duck, twenty-eight days. Peafowl, twenty-eight days. Guinea, twenty-five days. Partridge, twenty-four days. Goose, thirty days. Turkey, twenty-eight days. Barbary duck, thirty days. Muscovy duck, from thirty to thirty-three days.

Hens set early should not be given more than 11 eggs as they cannot be kept sufficiently warm. Be sure the eggs have not been chilled before setting.

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE CO. OF CANADA.

AS A COMPANY IN WHICH TO ASSURE.

"The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada does things liberally and promptly. Twenty years go an application took out, with that company, a Semi-Endowment Policy for $1,000, of which $500 was guaranteed at the expiration of the policy, with accumulated profits, and $1,000 in the event of death within the period.

"Now, the assured has been notified that the Endowment period has expired, and that he could, if he chose:—1st, withdraw $500, plus $401.05 of accumulated profits, or a total of $901.05; or 2nd, Obtain with the amount of the first option, a non-participating policy for $1,630 payable at death; or 3rd, obtain an annuity for life of $78.15.

That sum of $401.05 of profits earned in twenty years for the assured by the Company, added to the $500 of guaranteed Semi-Endowment, is a result which is an eye-opener for people who desire to invest their savings safely.

"The owner of the above policy (No. 18,887), was protected in case of death during the period of twenty years for the sum of 1,000, for nothing, and finally he draws nearly fifty per cent. more than he paid out in premiums during his twenty years of assurance.

"Once more therefore does the Sun Life of Canada prove the truth of its motto—

"PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

"Le Moniteur du Commerce."

With such results it should be easy for intending insurers to make a decision as to the Company which best looks after the interests of its policy-holders.

WATER FOR HEALTH.

WHEN AND HOW TAKEN TO OBTAIN BENEFICIAL RESULTS.

Three Parts Consumed in Twenty-Four Hours—Cases of Kidney Trouble Attributed to Lack of Observing This Caution.

How and when and where we drink water seems to most of us such an unimportant part of our daily existence that we really give the matter very little thought. It seems so much like something for nothing that we neglect what is really not only a preventative of, but a panacea for, many ills.

A beginning of kidney trouble lies in the fact that people, especially women, do not drink enough water. The few general hints I am giving are well worthy of consideration.

Try to drink as little water as possible with meals, but take a glassful about half an hour before eating. This rule alone, persisted in day after day and month after month, will improve the general health and the complexion likewise.

Water taken with meals should be sipped as well as taken sparingly. Ice water should be taken as seldom as possible, never would be a better rule. And the habit of putting chilled ice in the drinking water is to be avoided, as the water as possible may be taken into the stomach through this medium. The better way is to fill bottles with water and allow them to stand beside ice to chill.

Tests which have been made show that one gill of ice water, which means an average tumblerful, poured hastily down the throat reduces the temperature of the stomach so that it takes it more than half an hour to regain the heat it has lost.

Cold water, sipped slowly, will quench the thirst and not cause such a result.

When in doubt about the purity of the drinking water the following simple test can be made: Pour a pint into a perfectly clean bottle, cork it securely and allow it to stand five or six hours. Instantly on withdrawing the cork smell the contents. If it has an unpleasant odor, beware.

The most important things to remember about drinking water are: First, be sure that it is pure; second, drink generously between meals, but sparingly with them; third, avoid chilling the stomach with ice water taken hurriedly and in large quantities.

As to hot water, there is no end to the good that may be acquired through this simple remedy. Cold-blooded people, who have little thirst, will do well to make a business of drinking a certain amount of hot water every day throughout the winter season. It lessens the tendency to take cold and improves the circulation. Before going to bed is a good time for this, as it warms up and relaxes the system, thus preparing the way for a good night's sleep.

Many cases of indigestion, headache, neuralgia, cold hands and feet can be quickly cured by drinking slowly one or two pints of water so hot that it almost burns the throat.

Improved Ironing Board.

This ironing board has a special support and has in addition a sleeve board above and parallel with the ironing board, the sleeve being easily attached and detached. The ironing board is of the same size and shape as those in common use, a vertical slot being cut in the head end, through which projects the center leg of the tripod support. Parallel brackets are arranged on the under side of the board upon opposite sides of the vertical slot, which act as braces to keep the board rigid. Recesses at each corner of the head hold the other two legs in position when the board is spread open, the upper ends of the legs being beveled in order to be flush with the top surface of the board. The upper end of the center leg is notched upon the under side to fit into a crosspiece, and the leg, acting as a lever, will be prevented from folding, the board being in this way securely supported. The sleeve board, slotted longitudinally at the rear end, fits over the upper end of the center leg. All the parts are so constructed that the board and the attachments can be folded up and placed in a small space.

Simple Headache Remedy.

One way of relieving a headache is to apply a hot water bag to the feet. This draws the blood away from the head and so relieves the pain. In case of an ulcerated tooth, do not apply heat to the face but to the feet instead, and for the same reason it will give relief.

FARM AND GARDEN

GROWING THE SUGAR BEET.

Depth of Planting Has Marked Influence on Amount of Sugar Present.

It is important not only that a sugar beet should be of a proper size and shape, but also that it be grown in such a manner as to secure the protection of the soil for all of its parts except the neck and foliage. The proper position for a beet to occupy in the soil at the end of growth is shown in the illustration. This position can only be secured for the beet by growing it in a soil sufficiently porous to permit of the penetration of the taproot to a great depth. It is for this reason that subsoiling in the preparation of a field for the growth of sugar beets is of such great importance. If the beet, in its growth, should meet a practically impervious subsoil at the depth of 8 or 10 inches, the taproot will be deflected from its natural course, lateral roots will be developed, the beet will become disfigured and distorted in shape, and the upper portion of it will be pushed out of the ground. Experience has shown that the content of sugar in those portions of a beet which are pushed above the soil is very greatly diminished.

Pruning Berry Bushes.

Grape vines bear upon shoots of the current season's growth and in order to get strong shoots it is necessary in pruning to shorten the wood to two or three eyes. Gooseberries bear upon the last season's wood and also on spurs from older branches. These should be thinned when too numerous, and shortened if necessary to allow light and air to circulate freely and none ought to be allowed to rest upon the ground. Red and white currants bear fruit upon one, two and three-year-old wood, as also upon spurs on older branches. Generally, however, the berries bear most freely upon wood of the previous season. In pruning, the shoots should be shortened back to three or four buds and reduced in number when there are too many. Black currants require somewhat different treatment, as the fruit is produced chiefly upon the wood of the previous season and less abundantly upon older spurs. The pruning required is to shorten back the shoots when necessary and thin out if they are too numerous. Raspberries fruit upon canes of the previous season's growth. The pruning required is to remove the old canes as soon as the fruiting season is over and all the young ones, excepting from three to six of the strongest which must be left as fruit bearing shoots for the ensuing season.

Variety in the Orchard.

Growers really have very little practical knowledge concerning the interpollination of fruit, but most people have learned by observation that the most productive and satisfactory orchards are those of mixed varieties, says Field and Farm. No subject connected with our modern horticultural operations needs to be understood better than this subject of interpollination of fruits. The Keiffer and many other varieties of pears such as the Bartlett, Howell, Sheldon, etc., have imperfect blooms and should have such varieties as Le Conte or Garber well mixed throughout the orchard as pollenizers. We have seen orchards of Keiffer trees which scarcely bore at all until some pollenizer was interspersed in the orchard. With alternate rows of Le Conte the Keiffers bear heavily. Old plantations in which there is no room for new trees may be regulated by topworking a section or two of the staminate sorts into each tree and in this way overcome the difficulty.

Plants for Home Decoration.

The various ornamental peppers make handsome pot plants suitable for room decoration in winter when properly grown. Prince of Wales, with lemon fruits; Tom Thumb, with dark scarlet fruits and Kaleidoscope, white fruits changing to red, are all fine varieties for pot culture and if the seeds are started in small pots at this time and shifted into larger ones as they grow, finely developed plants will set with fruits may be produced by Christmas. They will grow in any rich potting compost, and do not mind the hot sun if well watered, but the sun-rays should not strike the sides or rim of the pot. All are easily grown from seeds.

Keen Scent.

McJigger—My wife's sense of smell is so keen that once when I just happened to mention the word "whisky" during the day she noticed it on my breath.

Thingumbob—Oh, come, now!

McJigger—Fact, I or mentioned it to a bartender.

Messages Mixed.

The girl in the pretty gown looked as pathetic as she could. "It was all," she told the other girl in the stanning toque, "because I was in too great a hurry to use paper and pen. But it seems to me they might have had more sense—only men never do."

"It sounds slightly involved," murmured her friend, wrinkling her brow interestedly.

"Oh," explained the girl in the new gown, "I'm speaking of the elaborate and thorough misunderstanding there is between Jeff Hawtreay and Mr. Ferguson and myself. Nell was spending a week with me and there was one vacant evening that I had to fill up. I concluded that I'd have a table of what and that I'd get Jeff and Mr. Ferguson to make up the four. It was nearly dinner time then, so there was no use telephoning to their offices. I asked Augusta, our new maid, to take the messages to their homes. You know Jeff's home is just around the corner and Mr. Ferguson's people live only three blocks away. Augusta is an obliging little creature and listened carefully to orders.

"Go to Mr. Ferguson's first," I said, "and tell him that Miss Bingham would like to have him come over and play whist this evening and to please bring along the new deck of cards his sister borrowed of me for her party. Then go to Mr. Hawtreay's and tell him that Miss Bingham also is in when he runs up to the corner for cigars—he always does that, you know, after dinner—he would be so good as to get me a pound of cheese." I thought a rarebit would be nice, and I know Jeff so well that I didn't mind asking the favor.

"Nell and I got into our most fetching gowns and I lighted all the shaded lamps and made things as nice as possible. There's no telling just what may impress a man, you know, and Mr. Ferguson, well, I never saw any one quite like him! He's so—"

"I've no doubt you are right," broke in the girl in the stanning toque, as though stopping something she had heard before. "Well!"

"Well, we had dinner and waited. Then we waited some more. It got to be 8.30. Then I sought Augusta. Yes, she had done exactly as I told her. I couldn't imagine what had happened, because if they had not been coming they would have let me know. Finally at 9.30 I answered the bell. On the step stood Mr. Ferguson and he lifted his hat politely.

"Good evening," he said. "Here's your cheese." Then he started to depart.

"Wait a minute!" I called wildly. "Aren't you—didn't you—you're coming in, aren't you?"

"He seemed surprised and not at all anxious to follow me into the hall. Just then Jeff came around the corner out of breath and dashed in.

"Here's the cards," he said. "Best I could do—and I've no idea what it all means—and what on earth Miss Griswold will do to me I don't know."

"By this time I had come partly up to my trance. I knew there was something wrong all around. "Did you two men intend to accept my invitation or not?" I demanded point blank.

"They looked at each other vaguely. Then I told them to sit down. Next I began to ferret out the mystery.

"It seems when Mr. Ferguson got home his small sister was just leaving for a party and fired the novel news at him that Miss Bingham had the word that she would bring a pound of cheese for a rarebit and not to fail. Augusta had mixed the cheese and the deck of cards. Well, Mr. Ferguson had an important engagement, but his natural politeness led him to obey orders. I got it out of him that he had been to ten stores before he found the cheese I wanted. Thus he had missed his appointment. I gathered that only his early training restrained him from expressing his feelings.

"As for Jeff, the cook told him that Miss Pinkham wanted him to come to a party and bring a deck of cards that had a sister on them. That slightly staggered Jeff. There happens to be a Miss Pinkham who has moved into our neighborhood, an awfully pretty girl whom he had never met.

"Well, he tore down to the drugstore and playing cards with a girl of some sort on them. He didn't know why Miss Pinkham specified a particular artistic design or why she has specified any, and it was queer all around, but he wasn't missing any chances to oblige such a stanning girl, even if she was eccentric. He says words would fail if he ever attempted to repeat the scene which occurred when he reached Miss Pinkham's house. After he had convinced her that he was not an insane man she was very lovely, but—well, Jeff felt edgewise toward me, and I don't see how I was to blame. And he had promised to take Miss Griswold to the theater that evening. And neither of the men had had a hint that they were asked to come and play whist at my house.

"So when we parted everybody hated everybody else—except Nell. She showed she'd never enjoyed an evening so before in her life. Some people have such a queer sense of humor!"—Chicago News.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away, cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

FOR ANY PART, WOMAN OR GIRL, THAT WANTS TO BUY

A Ghost and Others.

Will Livingston Comfort.

Here was an earnest, sober young man of twenty-five, Tom Crossman, with eighty acres of fairly good land soon to become his own, a tidy girl promised to him, a considerable inheritance coming from his father—having, in short, every reasonable prospect for a successful life in the quiet way of the tillers. And yet in one month his world tottered and fell with a sickening crash about him.

It began with the elder Crossman marrying again. The father was seventy and Tom's mother had been dead for a decade, when the country-side was astounded to hear of a spinster of fifty, whose inclinations both toward shrewishness and avarice were unequivocal.

Undoubtedly it was Eliza Grigsby's closeness and cupidly which incited the old man's interest in the first place. She appeared valuable to him for the same reason that a burner which saves a pint of kerosene in a month becomes an estimable source of profit in twenty years.

A man who is bound to the service of the soil for twelve hours a day, six days a week for fifty years, knowing not, caring nothing for nature save her yield, and who begins his career with fixed calculations of thrift, ends either with a complete tarnish of soul or an out-and-out money madness. The elder Crossman had bent and withered his body through toil, and diminished his natural limitations of mind through a half century's concentration upon the one instinct to hoard, until he became, all unobserved, a menace to the community.

For two years before his marriage he had been unable to work. Sitting upon the porch in summer and before the fire in winter, his brain had revolved steadily in the old and ever-concentrating circle. It readily can be seen that his mind, or the brutalized remnant of it, was most arable to a temptation whose fruition meant an important addition to his fifty years' savings. Eliza came, listened, speculated, encouraged—and the thing was done.

A late afternoon in spring, Life Hodge drew up his team before the Crossman door and entered good naturedly.

"Hello, John," he said. "I just called around to tell you that the note for $2,500 which I indorsed for you is due day after to-morrow."

The old man's face was grayish-white, the wrinkles were stretched tightly about his shrunken mouth, and his rheumy eyes darted from the carpet to the hearth. "I can't pay, Life," he murmured.

"I've lost it—all, and mine," the old man added.

Hodge paled. He thought the farmer crazy and called out to the woman. "What's Crossman talking about, Life? He says he can't meet the note I indorsed for him three months' ago."

"I don't know anything about the old man's business," she said angrily, and re-entered the kitchen.

Hodge drove back to town, deeply bit, enraged and mystified. At the bank the dominating fear which had grown upon him for the past half-hour was realized. Old man Crossman no longer had an account there. The bank held three other Crossman notes besides the one Hodge had indorsed, all due in two days. The aggregate sum was $10,000. The county records showed no transaction of any kind involving an investment in the name of Crossman. The day's investigation proved that the old man had demonstrated a raised $10,000, added it to his life's savings, and turned the whole over into his wife's name with the attempt to defraud.

Such had been the fruits of the plottings of a disordered mind. It was variously estimated, including the stolen $10,000, that the old man had given the woman from $30,000 to $45,000. In the eyes of the law the money could not be attached. The creditors went in a body to the Crossman farmhouse. A couple of sentences from Eliza embodied the substance of the satisfaction they received:

"You kin talk till you're black in the face, but I hain't got nuthin' to do with the old man's dealin's. Ye should know bettr'n to lend money to one in his dotage!"

The affair dashed young Tom Crossman. A good mother had redeemed him from the tainted Crossman blood, and he took the dishonor home. His father's marriage had robbed him of his heritage, and the culminating dishonesty had robbed him of his sweetheart—for in his eyes the bonds of romance were broken, since he was the son of a thief.

The young man sat alone on the porch of the farmhouse the third night after the horrid revelation. His father and the woman were quarreling within the darkness. His pony was at the door; yet he could not make up his mind to go—to Mary. To tell her that their whole little dream was done bore upon him more desperately. He felt the need of her now more than ever in his great loneliness and misery. To those within he had spoken no word since the fall of the house itself. He had been to town several times, and imagined that the faces of men were turned against him. Mary was the best and dearest of his attractions in the land grown desolate. A carriage here down the road in the dark and stopped at the Crossman gate.

"Tom—oh, Tom!" was called softly.

She had come to him. He gained the seat beside her, and as they drove away the old man's voice was wafted to frenzied pitch within the house. It may have been that the woman had clutched him and that he perceived the iron rod with which she had dealt in this woman.

"Why that nonsense, Tom!" Mary was saying. "You have done nothing. You need us all the more. We'll see you can't walk."

me up—that's all there is about it!" His throat tightened so that he could not speak, but he kissed her. "Those men must be paid before we can be happy, Mary," he said finally. "I believe still that father could have done no such a thing if his mind had been right. The debts come home to me."

"Some way will turn up, Tom," she said cheerfully, and though he could not see how he was to earn $10,000 in short of a lifetime, the courage of the girl served and cheered him.

He found that a terrible scene had taken place in the house during his absence. His father was lying undressed upon the bed, moaning and muttering incoherently. His mind had absolutely forsaken its old course and was peopled with shadows. Eliza moved about grim and silent in the dark.

"He told me he'd killed me if I didn't give him back the money," the woman said sullenly. "That old fool with money! I told him he had given it to me and that I meant to keep it. Then he hollered and tore himself until he got plum' crazy!"

A week later the elder Crossman died, and from the vague sentences which his lips mumbled at the last, it was plain he had repented on the night of his struggle with the woman and found that in making her coadjutor of his property he had given the same irrevocably away. It was this realization which had crushed the mind and slain the body of the old farmer.

Eliza Grigsby, shaken and aged somewhat, but still repellent to all and apparently sufficiently unto herself, moved about the old house and garden engaged in commonplace tasks. In four months she had gained what Crossman had given his life and soul to win. The creditors of the late farmer had given up hope. They believed in Tom's intentions, but doubted his capacity. They promised that Eliza Grigsby would die alone—when her time came—even as she had lived.

But the inner life of the woman was besieged. Threats and the hate of man were impotent to move her, but there had come an intangible horrible, investment which lengthened her nights into long drawn terrors. There was no one in the house but Tom; and yet she had heard her name called in a woman's voice.

Again and again the summons came again and again Tom protested that he heard nothing. Once, lying awake, she felt drops of icy water upon her face, and as she leaped from bed, the door leading into the hall swung shut and locked itself. Tom was in the front part of the house, and said the wind had wrought the miracle of the kitchen door.

No matter how securely the outer doors were barred, on certain mornings they were found open. One forenoon as she stood in the doorway she heard the passing children say that her house was haunted. The words clutched her with terrible meaning.

There was no one to whom she could appeal, save a volume of hate from every passerby. For years she had laughed at these glances, strong in her bulwark of worldly possessions. But money could not help her now. The stimulating poison of it had left her veins, but she was a moral leper in the eyes of the world still. . . . She lay trembling in the dark one still, hot summer night, conscious of a presence in the kitchen. Plainly she heard the breathing of Tom in the front room, so the sounds came not from him. The kitchen door swung open softly and there was a horrible sound, a moaning sigh from the dark. Then all power bereft the limbs of the woman and distended eyes fastened upon a white filmy figure in the aperture.

"I am the wife of John Crossman, whom you murdered! Why will you not let me rest?" The words were long drawn, faintly uttered. From a woman, dead or alive, they surely were. The uneasy question was repeated: "Why will you not let me rest?"

Eliza's hands fluttered before her and there was a rattle from her throat. Inexorably the question came forth again:

"What—can I—do?" the tortured woman mumbled at last. "Pay John's Crossman's debts!" "Yes, yes!" "To-morrow!" "Yes, yes!"

"Yes, yes!" "You do not I will come with John Crossman to-morrow night!" "I will. Oh, go away!" Eliza implored. The figure vanished.

The next day was one of great surprises in the little country town. First, Eliza Crossman drove down to the bank and took up the notes of her late husband. She seemed very feeble and on the verge of a nervous outbreak. Second, the news came that Tom Crossman and his wife Mary had been married three months before, a week after the old man had died, in fact. Third, it became whispered about that in some mysterious way Mary was responsible for the softening of Eliza Crossman's heart.

GERMANY'S PRACTICAL LESSON. Germany is nothing if not practical and thorough in the training of her civic and state officials as well as her soldiery. It is related that a number of young assessors have just been delegated to spend from six months to a year in some of the large business houses and manufacturing concerns of the chief cities to acquaint themselves with affairs pertaining to the trades and industries of the empire. This service will serve to make them more efficient officers, and tend to give their work the most intelligent results.

A young man who spells "business" as the spelling reformers want him to spell it may show a progressive spirit, but he is not likely to hold a "business" job.

About 3,600,000 people are on the sea every day in the year, says a statistician. And about half of them wish they were safely on land.

NEW YORK'S GREAT KITCHENS.

Getting Bigger Every Year—Ovens Recently Under the Street.

In recently built hotels the kitchen is a space about 150x200 feet, floored with red tiles. The walls where exposed are tiled in white. The ceiling is 14 feet high.

At the entrance is the chef's office, and near him the principal refrigerator for the storage of meat. Along one side are from fifty to 100 linear feet of ranges adapted to coal, gas and charcoal.

In front of these are the cooks' tables, in the steel tops of which are sinks, bainmarie and steam tables. Underneath are steam plate warmers. Above the cooks' heads are racks, on which is hung a picturesque array of copper pots, kettles, saucepans and knives, and above this again is the elaborate system of ventilating ducts which carry off the smoke and odor from every appliance where heat is generated.

Near the main kitchen and about one-half its size, says indoors and out, is the soup and roasting department, provided with stock, soup and grease boilers and an oven for roasting fowl or large joints of meat. Such an oven in one of the new hotels has a capacity of 1,000 pigeons or 50 chickens or sixteen large ribs of beef.

The boilers are huge copper affairs, double jacketed, and some of the spits for roasting meats are turned by electricity. This department contains its own refrigerator, in which is kept all uncooked food prepared here.

Sandwiches and salads, for example, are prepared near the garde manger. Coffee urns and roll warmers, griddle and waffle ranges, toasters and egg boilers must be where their products can be most conveniently delivered to the room above.

The kitchen should not be removed more than one floor from the dining room, grill room or cafe to be served. Dumbwaiter communication is unpracticable, as it cools the food. The human waiter must have free access to the kitchen, and so speedy that he shall spend the greatest possible time in the dining room within call of patrons.

Having dropped his written order in a tube, he must go to the proper place in the kitchen to obtain it when prepared. On his way to the ranges he should pass the counter, near the kitchen entrance, where bread and relishes are supplied, for he must be placing these before his customer while the fish or meat is being cooked.

As he starts up the stairway he must pass the checker, who places the price upon whatever he is serving. For salads he must be able to reach the salad department with equal ease. For wines and liquors he must go to the bar of the kitchen.

Whatever number of stories a hotel displays above the street, the business of the enterprise goes on in those below the pavement, and so hard pressed is the city hotel for space that every foot the laws allow the owner to reach under the sidewalk is eagerly seized.

What Does It Mean to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give. Dividends are declared every year in the Mutual Benefit, and the policy-holders use them either to help pay premiums or to buy increased insurance. The policies of the Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co. contain special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before placing your insurance. A childless home is a cheerless home. The maternal instinct exists in every woman, and when it is ungratified she is deprived of much of the happiness of life. It often happens that childlessness is due to some cause which can be removed by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The vigor and vitality which this remedy imparts to the delicate womanly organs, puts them into a condition of normal health, the lack of which is often the sole obstruction to maternity. Every woman should read Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book containing 1008 pages and 700 illustrations. It is sent entirely free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21-one cent stamps for the paper bound volume, or 31 stamps for cloth covered. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

FINE ACCOMMODATIONS.

The Immense Throngs Of People Who Will Visit The Jamestown Exposition To Be Well Cared For.

The great expositions of the world have usually been held in or near metropolitan cities. The knowledge of this fact has caused some to question whether Norfolk will be able to furnish adequate hotel accommodation for the immense throngs which next year will visit the Jamestown Exposition. No anxiety need be felt, however, on this score.

The Jamestown Exposition is peculiarly fortunate in its situation. Although it is but a scant six miles from Norfolk, it is hardly a greater distance from Portsmouth, Newport News or Hampton. It is within a few minutes ride of some of the most famous seaside hotel resorts in America: Ocean View, Virginia Beach, Pine Beach and Fortress Monroe, or Old Point, long famous as all-year health and pleasure point. The cities enumerated above are well equipped with modern hotels, and cottages for the accommodation of summer visitors line the shores of Chesapeake Bay, the roadway to the sea, and the Virginia coast.

Several large hotels are now building in the cities near the Exposition and a number of temporary hotels are going up in the vicinity of the grounds. Further to assure comfortable and attractive accommodation for its guests there is being constructed within the Exposition grounds an inside Inn which is unique among Exposition hotels. This Inn will be a real hotel—not a hastily constructed barn with shallow partitions built for a day. It will be a permanent affair lasting after the Exposition is over and will add one more to the well known resorts of the section.

It will have a frontage of six hundred and fifty feet and a depth of four hundred and fifty feet and will be three stories high. It will contain nearly one thousand rooms, accommodating two thousand guests. It is located near the main entrance of the Exposition and faces Hampton Roads separated from this sheet of water only by a shady boulevard. To the left of the hotel is a splendid grove of stately pines; to the right separate some hundred yards is the Amusement section of the Exposition named by General Lee "The Warpath." At the rear of the Inside Inn is the Forestry and outdoor Horticultural Exhibit. It will be seen from these items of surroundings that the situation of the Inn could not be improved.

At other expositions the chief, if not the sole advantage of the Inside Inn was that its guests were saved the slight annoyance of going to and coming from the Exposition in crowded street cars or in conveyances speeding over dusty roads for as a rule exposition visitors especially those whose stays were brief did not leave the grounds once they entered. The minor advantage of being able to change attire for social or other functions of course might be added together with the economy resulting from a location on the grounds whereby extra admission fees were saved but there were compensating disadvantages; insufficient space for rooms thin partitions that did not keep out sounds inadequate attendance and unsatisfactory cuisine.

The Jamestown Inn will suffer from none of these disadvantages. While the management of the property is in the hands of a company the Exposition reserves the right to insist upon first class service for all patrons. The structure will be built on the most modern plans; its furnishings will be strictly first class and its arrangement comfortable in every particular. The rooms will be single and in suites, with and without baths. The first story will contain a large lobby, public writing rooms, ladies parlors, a buffet, a dining room each for American and European guests, barber shop, postoffice, public stenographer's room, and in fact everything which usually accompanies the accommodations of a first class hotel. There will also be a large convention hall, occupying parts of the first and second floors. It will have a seating capacity of one thousand. There will also be a fine banquet hall where a thousand or more guests may be served. The two upper floors containing about five hundred rooms each will be used entirely for sleeping quarters.

Broad piazzas will encircle the building, enabling the guests to secure fine views of the pageantry on the Roads and ashore. Taken all in all, this Inside Inn will have whatever advantages a first class seaside resort may offer, together with those incident to proximity to an exposition.

Sad Accident.

Mr. James Patton, of Bridgeville, Del., had his leg cut off by a train at the Junction of the B. C. & A. & N. Y. P. & N. R. R. Thursday afternoon. He was attempting to board the moving train when he stumbled and fell, his leg going under the wheels. He was taken to the Peninsula General Hospital where his leg was amputated.

48,296 CASUALTIES

To Passengers and Employes on Railroads in Three Months' Time. Present Service as Deadly as a Small War.

The accident bulletin which has just been issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission for the three months ending March 31st, 1906, shows the total number of casualties to passengers and employes to be 48,296, 1126 killed and 17,170 injured. This is an increase of 17 in the number killed and 23 in the number injured over those reported in the preceding three months.

The number of passengers and employes killed in train accidents was 374, as against 390 in the preceding three months, a decrease of 46. The total number of collisions and derailments was 4890/1921 collisions and 1669 derailments, of which 989 collisions and 167 derailments affected passenger trains. The damage to cars, engines and roadway by these accidents amounted to $2,924,785. There was also a decrease of 283 in the number of collisions and derailments from those reported in the preceding three months.

The number of employes killed in coupling and uncoupling cars and engines was 84, being 17 less than the number killed in the last quarter.

In closing, the bulletin says: The most disastrous accident reported in the present bulletin, a collision causing 34 deaths and injuring 24, was due to the striking failure of the train dispatching system. A telegraph operator at a small and lonely station who had been on duty all day and more than half the night fell asleep, and on awaking, misinformed the train dispatcher as to what had occurred while he was asleep. It is pertinent to observe that the block system repeatedly advocated by the Commission is the true means that ought to be adopted for such distressing disasters as that reported in accident bulletin No. 19, just made public.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Great Factor in Progress, Upbuilding And Success Of A Town.

Governor Joseph W. Folk, in addressing the retail merchants of Maryland at their convention recently, spoke against the mail order business and favored advertising in the town papers. He said, in part:

"We are proud of our splendid cities, and we want them to increase in wealth and population, and we also want our country towns to grow. We wish the city merchants to build up, but we also desire the country merchants to prosper. I do not believe in the mail order citizen. If a place is good enough for a man to live in and to make his money in, it is good enough for him to spend his money in. No merchant can succeed without advertising in one way or another. Patronize your town papers, build them up and they will build the town up and build you up increased trade and greater opportunities. Do not be afraid that business is going to be hurt by the recent exposures of wrong doing in the commercial world. No man who is doing an honest business can be injured by the light. All business will be better for the cleansing process it is going through and for the steaming out of evil."

ARE LOOKING AHEAD

Counties of Maryland Growing Wiser on the Inestimable Value of Good Roads.

The great change of sentiment throughout Maryland in regard to the importance of improved roadways is emphasized strongly by Highways Engineer A. N. Johnson, in his fourth report, which with the first report of Chief Engineer W. W. Crosby, has just come from the press. In this connection Mr. Johnson says: "Some of the counties have become so accustomed to look to the Geological Survey for advice in these matters that no road improvement of any magnitude has been undertaken recently without consulting the officers of the survey. This fact shows an important change of sentiment—a change looking toward the adoption of more economic methods. This cooperative work, though modest in the actual amount of road constructed has had a gradually widening influence on public opinion. Where but a few years ago the very name of engineer in connection with road construction was scarcely considered, today there are four county road engineers appointed under the new county road laws and a corps of engineers engaged under the State Aid Road law.

"Other evidences of this gradual change of sentiment are the special meetings which have been held to discuss the question of better county road administration. A number of such meetings were addressed by the highway engineer of the survey, who advocated the general plan for a county road law as outlined on page 49 of the Third Highway Report. Meetings of this character were held at Sandy Spring, Denton and Annapolis.

"One of the results of these discussions is the adoption of improved road laws by Caroline and Allegheny counties which were passed at the last session of the General Assembly. These laws, which are a long step toward more economical administration of county road funds, provide that the road work in each of these counties shall be intrusted to the immediate charge of a trained engineer."

Both reports are replete with interesting data and statistics about Maryland roads.

Mr. Johnson's report shows that the State has 16,456 miles of public roads. Frederick county heads the list with 1,151 miles of highway, with Baltimore county second, with 1,119 miles. Calvert county brings up the end of the list, with only 335 miles of public roads.

Under the Shoemaker law, approved on April 2, 1904, which provides that the State may participate in actual road building in all of the counties, appropriating $200,000 annually for the construction of modern macadam roads, one half of the cost of the roads constructed under the law to be paid by the State, Frederick county's allotment is $144,898.89. Only 18 of the 23 counties of the State applied for the benefit of State aid, leaving the $200,000 to be divided among the counties so applying. This increased Frederick allotment to $18,889.51, and the allotments of the other counties correspondingly.

Approximately of this Mr. Crosby says: "Of the 155 miles petitioned for by 18 of the 23 counties of the State, estimates have been furnished on 78.09 miles. The work has been limited to the latter figures at the request of the county authorities. Thirty five arrangements have been entered into by 14 counties for the improvement of 40.46 miles. The estimated cost, according to the contract prices is $312,592.63. Seventeen and one half miles of road have been turned over for acceptance, and 5 1/2 more miles will be completed this year; 15 1/2 miles contracted for will be finished as soon as the weather permits in the spring; 1.7 miles, the balance of the 40.46 miles contracted for, may remain uncompleted until new arrangements can be made for the proper performance of the work."

NEGRO LEE EXECUTED.

Meets His Doom On Smith Island, Somerset County, Hanged For Heinous Crime.

On the barren marshes of Smith's Island William Lee, the negro who committed the recent brute assault in Somerset county was hanged at 8:25 o'clock Thursday morning. The fiend met death on the scaffold that had been used for the Winder execution in Baltimore county.

Aboard the State steamer McLane, which secretly brought the hangman's party to Somerset was Robert Barnes, Sheriff Brown had sworn him in as a deputy, and he was told that he could help pull the trap.

The McLane anchored off Soloman's Light, in Kedges straits, shortly after 4 A. M. At 4:30 o'clock two skiffs put out—one carrying the dismembered scaffold and the other carrying deputies who were to erect it. With binoculars those on the boat watched the work progress until the scaffold was well in the air.

Nearly three hours later the skiffs put back. As they plowed through the choppy sea groups of men could be seen hurrying along the beach. Sails sprang up in all directions and a dozen boats made for the spot. Those aboard the ship thought perhaps the mob had heard of the plan, but nautical glasses proved the surrying figures to be fisher folk.

In a statement made to Dr. Fisher to be used in filling out the death certificate Lee gave his name as George Scott and his age as 17. He knew scarcely anything of his people.

The law gave Lee 30 days to live after he had been convicted and sentenced. The Governor was determined that the law should be upheld. In commenting on the affair Governor Warfield said: "It would have been indiscreet to send Lee back to Princess Anne. I could, of course, have ordered out the militia or a big force of policemen, and could have had the negro guarded until he reached the Somerset County Jail. This, however, would have excited the people, and there may have been bloodshed.

"Lee has been executed according to law, promptly and quietly. Every one that had a legal right to be present was given his credentials. I studied out with Commander Howard every detail for the execution. The scaffold was placed on the McLane, and a trained carpenter went along to erect it. The only discreet way was the plan we followed. The whole county of Somerset is connected by telephones, and had we attempted to take the negro to Princess Anne the news of the coming would have been flashed in advance, and there might have been serious trouble and loss of life.

"I am convinced that I acted for the best interests of all the people in the State. The negro was legally executed for his crime, and there was no violence."

A Superb Summer Magazine.

The August Burr McIntosh Monthly, which is now on all news stands, will delight lovers of the beautiful in pictorial art. It is considered a foregone conclusion that summer numbers of magazines are not equal to those issued at other seasons of the year, but those who have seen The Burr McIntosh Monthly claim it to be better than any number which has preceded it.

The panoramic form covers many attractive summer scenes throughout the country and altogether the issue is unusually pleasing.

Died While Visiting Relatives in Salisbury.

Mrs. A. P. Trader, of Martins Ferry, Ohio, came to Mrs. Willie Trader's about two weeks ago. She caught a cold enroute which developed into pneumonia. Later she visited her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary A. Trader, in South Salisbury, where she died last Wednesday afternoon. The funeral was held at Mrs. Mary A. Trader's Friday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. Rev. Mr. Howard officiated. She was buried in Parsons Cemetery.

Base Ball.

Salisbury put up a fine game against Seaford last Monday beating them 3 to 11. The sensational play came in seventh inning when Seaford had the bases full and nobody out. Seaford's Wm. Perry caught the ball and threw it home in time to get the man coming from third, putting two men out and saving the day for Salisbury.

Score by innings:

Items Of Interest.

M. Delcasse, ex-minister of foreign affairs, of France, intends to visit the United States soon.

New York city consumes nearly 1,000 million units of electricity per annum, while London, with nearly double the population, consumes not more than one fourth that amount. The consumption per head of population in New York is stated to be 282 units against only 2 per head in London.

An artist named H. Costa, known as "The man with the Revolutionary head," has been examined at a meeting of the German Medical Society at Prague. He turned his head round naturally as far as the shoulder, and then twisted it farther with his hands until he looked directly backward, with his chin above the line at the spine.

Seven hours of sleep is the minimum amount required by the average person, according to Professor Weygand, of the University of Wurzburg. He ascertained experimentally that reduction of the usual period of sleep by three hours diminishes the power of the memory by one half. Fast-ing, he found, had a much less injurious effect.

How many Parisian people born in Paris are there living in Paris at the present time? According to the last census about 36 per cent of the total population. Paris has the smallest indigenous population of any European capital. St. Petersburg has 40 per cent, Berlin 41 per cent, Vienna 45 per cent, London 65 per cent.

The Herole is the name of a new steamship belonging to the Belfast Steamship Company. She will ply between Belfast and English ports. She is an Irish-built boat, an Irish firm having designed and constructed her, Irish capital being used to pay for her, and she is manned only by Irishmen. It is the object of her owners to foster Irish tourist traffic, and also the Irish fish produce business.

The Michigan mines produced 20,000,000 pounds of refined copper in May, which sold for approximately $3,700,000. That was the largest output secured in any month since copper was first mined in the Lake Superior region. It indicates an annual production of 240,000,000 pounds, but an even larger product is expected as a result of preparations made by the mine owners to handle a greater output.

All Envy The Farmers.

The man is to be envied who has a good farm well stocked and paid for. There is no life as independent and as free from care, unless one puts a lot of useless worry in it. The poor farmer deeply in debt certainly has an uphill pull, but even so, he is infinitely better off than his brother in the city in similar circumstances, for with a little effort the soil will give him a living, and the poor man in the city is gambling with fate to a large extent. A well equipped and well managed farm which is capable of turning out every year good crops and good stock is a kingdom in itself. No capitalist in the city lives better and more comfortable nowadays than the well to do farmer, who has the telephone and the daily mail. He generally has what the city capitalist cannot buy at any price—peace and contentment.

HANDS RAW WITH TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Suffered for Ten Years—Spreading to Body and Limbs Despite Efforts of Three Doctors—Another Remarkable and Speedy

CURE BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I had eczema on my hands for ten years. At first it would break out only in winter. Then it finally came to stay. I had three good doctors to do all they could, but none of them did any good. I then used one box of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and was completely cured. My hands were raw all over, inside and out, and the eczema was spreading all over my body and limbs. Before I had used one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, together with the Ointment, my sores were nearly healed over, and by the time I had used the third bottle, I was entirely well. I had a good appetite and was fleshier than I ever was. To any one who has any skin or blood disease I would honestly advise them to get the Cuticura Remedies and get well quicker than all the doctors in the State can cure you." Mrs. M. E. Falin, May 19, 1905. Specsra Ferry, Va.

CURED OF ITCHING HUMOR

"I have been troubled with a humor on the back of my neck and head for four or five years. It had an itching and burning sensation, and was a very uncomfortable feeling. I have used the Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent Pills three months, and can say I am completely cured." Respectfully, Mrs. H. D. Ludlum, Ocean City, Md. July 28, 1905.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Beware of cheap imitations. Cuticura is the only one that is made in the U. S. A.

Marriageable Ages.

From the Milwaukee Sentinel. In Austria a "man" and a "woman" are considered to be capable of conducting a home of their own from the age of fourteen—a fact which accounts in no small degree for the spirit of child fatherhood of the man" so prevalent in Austria.

In Germany the man must be eighteen years of age, but the age of the bride-elect is left to popular discretion.

In France the man must be eighteen and the woman fifteen, while in Belgium the same standard prevails.

In Spain the intending husband must have passed his fourteenth year and the woman her twelfth. These figures, in connection with the admitted poverty of Spain, socially considered, are all of the deepest meaning.

In Hungary for Roman Catholics the man must be fourteen years old and the woman twelve; for Protestants the man must be eighteen and the woman fifteen.

In Greece the man must have seen at least fourteen summers and the woman twelve.

In Portugal a boy of fourteen is considered marriageable and a woman of twelve.

In Russia and Saxony they are a little more sensible, for in both countries a youth must refrain from matrimony till he can count eighteen years and the woman till she can count sixteen.

In Switzerland the men from the age of fourteen and the women from the age of twelve are allowed to marry.

In Turkey any youth and maiden who can walk properly and can understand the necessary religious service are allowed to be united for life.

To go farther afield, mere children of ten, nine and even eight years of age are, by Indian custom, often married. This applies to the girl only, although native boys of from twelve to fourteen become husbands and the nominal heads of households.

In China too the custom is nearly as senseless. Boys and girls who ought to be on the school bench or playing battledore and shuttlecock set up their family gods.

It is curious to note that the "marriageable age" standard increases in cold or temperate latitudes and that the lowest point is touched in tropical latitudes, lack of civilization also having much to do with it.

Arising Phoenix-Like.

History does not record such a calamity as that which visited San Francisco when sixteen square miles, covering over five blocks of buildings, were laid waste by fire on April 18. The business and financial centers were wiped out, and although ruin and desolation stared San Francisco in the face, yet they rose to the occasion, and with that energy and push for which they are credited everywhere the business men immediately opened houses or offices in adjoining cities and in unburnt districts, and were ready for business again. Hardly before the bricks had grown cold, many firms had commenced to clear away the debris to erect temporary one story buildings. These enterprising firms were soon joined by others and today conditions in the wholesale fruit, grocery and other branches of trade are fast assuming normal conditions, and in the expressive language of F. W. Van Sickle, of Dodge Sweeney & Co., the devastation wrought by the fire on April 18 is a memory of the past. Trade is reported by jobbers and others quite active, with orders coming in freely. Nearly all of the temporary buildings that have been and are being erected are built in such a way that permanent structures can be built around them. It is a well established fact that more large fire and earthquake proof buildings will be erected than was at first thought possible. Several of these will cost over $2,000,000 each, with some going over $3,000,000 each. Buildings costing from $100,000 up to over $500,000 each will be quite common. There seems to prevail not only a spirit of pride to make San Francisco excel in this respect, but there is a prevailing opinion that large modern constructed buildings will bring in a good revenue and pay good interest on the investment. Eastern and foreign capitalists are seeking investment in this city, for they recognize that its geological situation, wonderful harbor and large back resources, combined with its large financial resources, will always keep San Francisco in the front and continue it the New York of the Pacific Coast.

Editor—We take the above from your exchange "The Trade Journal" of San Francisco, Cal., which has arisen like a Phoenix from the first eight issues No. 1 of Volume I. Mr. J. R. Farish, Editor and Publisher has the grit that succeeds. He desires to prosper.

Harnessing The Mississippi.

Work will be begun before the year is out on a dam across the Mississippi River, at the foot of the Des Moines rapids, or the development of water power, says The World Today. It will be the greatest project of the kind except the combined works at Niagara, the dam the greatest in the world except those built by the British in the Nile. A minimum of 60,000 horsepower is to be obtained and transmitted to factories in the heart of the agricultural centre of the nation. The dam will be in sight of the three States of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, the Legislatures of each State having adopted resolutions approving the work and promising all possible assistance. The estimated cost of the work will be $6,000,000, which is $100 per horsepower on the minimum power capacity of 60,000 horsepower. The cost of supplying power, including all fixed charges, maintenance, operation and all expenses is closely estimated at $8 per horsepower year, the cost of steam power in the territory within 200 miles now being from $40 to $65 per horsepower year, with $55 as a conservative average.

Within a radius of forty miles of the central power house lie twenty towns with a population of 1000 or over, the population in this area aggregating 242,161. The average distance by railroad to the twenty towns is twenty four miles. Their population in 1900 was 112,122. Included in the same 6299 square miles of territory are also forty villages with a population of 17,661 and a rural population of 112,378. Within a radius of 150 miles there was a population in 1900 of 1,145,946, including hundreds of towns and cities. Within a radius of 150 miles there was in 1900 a population of 3,917,046.

It is said that a Christian church existed at Glastonbury as early as A. D. 300. St. Martin's Canterbury, was built about A. D. 597.

FARMING BY ELECTRICITY

What Niagara Power Can Do For Western New York.

APPLIED IN GERMANY.

German Experiments in Plant Culture Suggest Great Possibilities—All Sorts of Machinery Now Available—Utilized in the Preparation of Fertilizers and Purification of Water.

The scientific farmer of the future will direct his farming operations from a central station, where he will control electricity for the germination of his crops, the tillage and fertilizing of the soil and its irrigation or drainage.

Germany furnishes examples of the uses to which electricity may be put in farming. Some of the large German sugar beet farms now have their own electric plants, supplying light and power for a great variety of operations. The farmers of Western New York will have an immense advantage over German farmers in that current will be delivered on their farms at no cost to them but for current used.

In contrast to this convenience the German farmers using electricity have had to establish a costly steam generating system or harness some stream. The Quednau farm of 447 acres near Koenigsberg is a large producer of milk and butter. The daily product of milk is 2,200 gallons.

A 50-horse power engine generating 500 volts furnishes current for three motors used about the farm for some of the purposes that manual labor formerly accomplished. One 2 1/2 horse-power motor runs a carrot cutter. Two small motors are portable and are drawn to various parts of the farm and connected with power cables. Crushing faxseed, driving pumps, saws, grain machinery, lathes, drills, seed cleaners, cream separators, butter workers and churns are a few of the uses to which the portable motors are put.

The Simmern farm on the Simmern River, Germany, secures electric power from a falls in that stream and turbine driven dynamos. This method is, of course, much cheaper than that employed on the Quednau farm.

Prof. Guertel, a Belgian scientist, has given a number of lectures under Government auspices at the Agricultural Institute at Gembloux and his views are startling to Americans:

"Electricity passing through a plant from air to earth or vice versa decomposes carbonic acid gas in the chlorophyll, which is essential to plant growth. Soil chemicals are likewise decomposed by passing currents and nourishing elements are readily assimilated. Circulation of the sap is increased by electro capillary effect by which water and other nourishing materials are drawn up into the plant, tree or vine."

If these things are to be realized in this country, western New York with its cheap electric power has a wonderful future as a farming country.

In some of the experiments conducted abroad galvanized iron rods were set about a growing field of grain, vegetables or berries as distributors of current.

The galvanized iron conductors were connected by wires with the source of current and the supply regulated by conditions of the atmosphere, the soil and amount of water in use ground. Field experiments in electrifying grain have shown as high as 85 per cent. increase in growth over grain not so treated.

Other experiments frequently showed 45 to 55 per cent. increase for grain and 95 per cent. for raspberries. Peas freely watered increased 75 per cent. with electric aid, while peas not watered did better without electric current. This is explained by saying that the accelerated digestive powers of the plants "require more food and drink."

The "aging" of wine is now accomplished by the use of electricity. Electrolysis, decomposition by electrical force, is the method applied. In the same way water is now purified in Amiens, Boulogne, Le Bourne and Philadelphia by electricity.

One way that the tremendous power of Niagara can be utilized for the enrichment of the land is in the production of nitric acid for fertilizing purposes. Nitric acid salts produce almost marvelous results in the plant world.

The secret of the wonderful growing quality of nitric acid fertilizers lies in the availability of their elements for immediate plant use. It is usually delivered to the farm in the form of nitrate of potassa and soda or nitrate of lime. Prof. Guarini states that nitric acid can be produced with Niagara power at 95 cents for 220.46 pounds.

Libel in Old Times. Libel was esteemed a grievous offense in the old English law. In an old case, where the libelers had charged the lord keeper of bribery this punishment was inflicted on two of the criminals:

One thousand pounds fine each, and they were required "to ride to Westminster from the Fleet, with their offense, to acknowledge their offense, faces to the horse's tail, and at the chancery bar, and in this court, with papers on their heads declaring their and ask forgiveness for it, and then be set on the pillory with one ear nailed to it, while the courts sit; and another day to ride into Cheapside in such manner as before and there be set on the pillory with their other ear nailed, and be carried to prison, there to remain during life."

To Renovate Carpets. Some housekeepers have their carpets wiped off while on the floor with a cloth wrung out of warm water with which a little ammonia has been mixed. The water must be changed often. The colors of a light Axminster or any other heavy pile carpet will brighten wonderfully after this treatment. One housekeeper has all her heavy carpets scrubbed on the floor, with plenty of soap and warm water.

TO SOUTH DAKOTA

The Land of Bread and Butter

South Dakota is Long on wealth and short on people. Today it presents the best opportunities in America for those who want to get ahead on the Highway to independence. More than 47,000,000 bushels of corn, more than 47,000,000 bushels of wheat, live stock to the value of $41,000,000, hay to the value of $12,000,000, and products of the mines above $12,000,000 were some of the returns from South Dakota for 1905. with a population of only 450,000, and the annual production of new wealth above $166,000,000, it can be readily seen why South Dakota people are prosperous and happy. The outlook for 1906 crops is the best South Dakota has ever known.

Why don't you go there and investigate the openings along the new lines of this railway for yourself.

From Chicago, and from many other points in Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, direct service to South Dakota is offered via the

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway

Its main lines and branch lines fairly gridiron the rich agricultural and stock country of South Dakota. Its mileage in South-Dakota is more than 1200 miles, and by the building of extensions is being rapidly increased.

A new line is now being built from Chamberlain, S. D., to Rapid City, S. D., through Lyman, Stanley and Pennington Counties. Some of the best opportunities for success are along these new lines. The railway company has NO farm lands for sale or rent. If you are interested it is worth your while to write today for a new book on South Dakota. It will be sent free.

QUESTIONS FOR CANDIDATES FROM N. C. I. A.

To check the political ambitions of the Labor Union leaders, the National Citizens Industrial Association is submitting to political candidates throughout the country two questions:

"Have you pledged your support to the Labor trust or to any other trust, organization, or corporation seeking special legislation?"

"Will you or will you not represent the citizens as a whole and seek to protect them from class legislation, whether by organized capital or organized labor when such legislation is in the interests of the few to give power over the many?"

The Citizens propose to support public men of either party who stand free from pledges to any organization.

The New England fisheries in 1906 broke all records. Maine contributed to the food supply of the world, 1,000,000,000 packed sardines valued at $5,000,000 and in fresh fish alone Boston sold $4,000,000 worth. Gloucester, the home of the Grand Banks fishing fleet, provided for the consumption 125,000,000 pounds of salt fish valued at $3,750,000, and handled fresh fish to the value of $2,000,000. There are now more than 500 vessels of all sizes in the fishing fleet ranging in value from $1000 to $15000 the entire fleet being valued at about $3,000,000.—EX-

NATURE'S WARNING.

Salisbury People Must Recognize And Heed It.

Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously. But nature always warns you. It's time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills. To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes. Doan's have done great work in Salisbury. E. Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last February. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back. The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used was Doan's Kidney Pills. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

The Southern Colonizing Company, recently incorporated under the laws of New York, is making it a business to locate settlers in the Southern States. It has agents in Northern, Eastern and Western States and in Canada, and is making arrangements for agents in Europe. Lands are sold on easy terms to emigrants, and a class is sought after which would be a great advantage to the South.

Modest Claims Often Carry The Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below that he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise, instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

MY GARDEN.

An old iron gate of quaint entwined work Admits to this my garden, or denies, Beside it, cedar shadows 'thwart the grass Lengthen and deepen as the daylight pales, And watchful over all above the gate A sundial tells how time fits so fast, "Doeds are the fruit of life," its motto says, Pregnant with thought and miserly of word. Life in this garden runs so pleasantly We might forget that there be worlds beyond. Flowerless, yet fruitful too with evil deeds Gardens of death. —Fall Mail Gazette.

Mental Poise And Health.

People who reach extreme old age are, as a rule, pretty well balanced, physically and mentally, writes O. S. Marden, in Success Magazine. A poised life is serene, and serenely and harmony tend to longevity. The mind that is not well balanced is constantly jangled and out of tune. There is a constant jarring which racks the whole human machinery.

There is discord in an unbalanced life, and discord is always destructive—deadly. The well poised, dignified life is not thrown off its center quickly. The man who goes all to pieces over trifles is one-sided. There is a momentum in a poised, balanced nature which steadies its progress and helps hold it on its chosen track. Hot temper, constant mental confusion and disorder are vitality-snappers—life shorteners.

NOVEL LIFE SAVING TRUCK.
 Baskets Convey Occupants from Burning Buildings.
 The majority of modern buildings, especially office buildings and factories, are fireproof, and in case of fire there is only slight danger to the occupants from the flames. In the case of the older buildings there is always great danger, and frequently those who are in the building do not have time to escape by the regular exits. It is then that the fire truck illustrated here, the invention of a Missouri man, would be of immense value in saving lives. Although complicated in construction, it can be conveniently transported from place to place for the purpose of gaining access to the upper stories and the roof of the building, in order to facilitate the escape of the occupants. At one end of the truck is a collapsible tower, formed of a number of telescopic sections, which can be elevated or extended to position by compressed air. When the sections have been elevated they are locked in this position and automatically released by reducing the air pressure. Connected with the tower are supporting arms, upon which are mounted a pair of life-saving baskets or cars. These baskets can be adjusted to any position and swung near the window or other portion of a burning building, the occupants entering Raised by Compressed Air, the baskets being transported in safety to the ground. An additional advantage is the fact that the tower can be inclined at any angle with respect to the truck. The tower can be constructed of many sections as necessary to reach the desired altitude, the sections being of similar shape and graduated sizes, so as to telescope one within the other. The motor for supplying compressed air is inclosed in the hood on the front part of the truck.

Odd Sea Food of China.
 Though the flesh of the abalone is a nutritious and wholesome article of food, highly esteemed by the Chinese and Japanese, few people in the United States know anything about the abalone, except that it has a large shell with a bright, pearly interior. The abalone is a gigantic sea snail, whose natural home is the deep water off a rocky coast. The whole coast of central and lower California, from Cape Mendocino to Cape St. Lucas, abounds in abalone, the supply being absolutely unlimited. As fast as an area of fishing ground is depleted it is repleted by full-grown abalones coming in from the ocean. Three months after a piece of ground has been thoroughly cleared by the abalone fishers the supply is as abundant as ever. The contents of the large abalone shell weigh as much as two pounds.

Long ago the Chinese and Japanese discovered the value of the abalone as a wholesome and digestible food. The supply of abalones in Chinese waters is, however, small, and the fishing grounds off the coast of Japan were so heavily drawn upon that they became exhausted. The people are forbidden by an imperial edict from taking them. The Japanese and Chinese in California dive for the abalones, which crawl about the rocks at the bottom of the sea in deep water outside the surf. The divers bring them ashore and spread them out in a sunny place to dry. This process reduces the abalone to about one-third of its original bulk, leaving a tough horny product. The dried abalones are sent to the orient, where they are soaked and stewed, or ground into powder and used for making soup.

In the pure, deep water of the ocean the abalone lives, and as it is a clean feeder its flesh is always sound and wholesome, being superior in this respect to that of oysters and clams, which live near shore and are often contaminated by sewage and other impurities. The viscera of an abalone, unlike those of the clam or oyster, are quite separate from the muscular or edible part, and can be detached by a single stroke of the knife.

Early English Dishes.
 Many strange dishes were eaten by Dean Buckland, the English cleric, man and geologist. At his dinner parties, which were attended by leaders of science and literature, the menus were often of a most eccentric character. On one occasion pickled horse tongue was greatly relished by the guests and they were told what they had eaten. Alligator was served up as a rare delicacy and pupples occasionally, and mice frequently. At other times hedgehogs, tortoises, potted ostrich, and sometimes rats, frogs and snails were prepared for the delectation of favored guests. Henry Labouchere says that the dean swallowed the mummified remains of the heart of Louis XIV. of France.

 PUSH AND PULL.

July 29, '06—(Luke 14:1-14.)

There is nothing that appeals to people generally more than a "feed." Let it be known that refreshments are to be served and there is no trouble about getting a crowd. So universal has this custom become that societies of all kinds habitually wind up their exercises with a banquet.

The churches even have gone into the catering business and a well-appointed kitchen is as necessary an adjunct of the sanctuary as a communion set. In many cases it is more frequented than the altar. Many a preacher finds it difficult to fill the front row of seats on prayer meeting nights, but if he succeeds in getting into the church when a festival is on he has to be there early. People who are exceedingly reluctant about coming to the front in ordinary services never hold back when roast turkey and cranberry sauce or strawberries and cream are to be served.

This tendency to keep close to the leaves and fishes has been observed in all ages. On one occasion he was invited to dine with a leading Pharisee and a good many of the "400" had also been bidden. When the supper was served there was the usual rush for place and position. Some people got a higher seat than they deserved and others got left, and there was a lot of acrimonious speech, heart burnings, flushed faces, pushing and hauling, movings up and movings down, before the company finally got settled. In his after dinner speech Christ incidentally referred to the circumstance and lanced the conceit of the crowd by remarking that it was a pretty safe course to wait until you were invited before choosing the place at the head of the table, for it was less damaging to a person's pride to step up than to step down.

To be compelled to vacate and make way for a superior after getting comfortably settled in a good place is exceedingly embarrassing. He who can do it without betraying his emotions is a master in self-control. After having picked out the softest seat, the most conspicuous position, to be officially requested to get down nearer the foot is gall and wormwood to one's pride, to be publicly snubbed is an experience far from agreeable. Many a man has been made to feel exceedingly cheap through his inability to rest in a good place. He walked up to it with erect head and the mien of a conqueror, he vacated it with flushed face and hasty exit.

This is practical instruction for the age in which we live. The very air we breathe is the air of independence. We are taught to look out for number one from our cradle. The changes are rung unceasingly on the value of the "strenuous life," we glorify "hustling" qualities, "get there" is the chief end of man. The result of such education is a race of men and women who have little regard for the rights of others. There is a universal scramble for position, for the seats of the mighty, no matter who stands in the way. Humility, courtesy, self-restraint, a regard for the rights of others, are old-fashioned virtues that are as rare as the old-fashioned flowers of grandmothers' garden.

Hence a good many people are rattling around in positions which their predecessors filled, conspicuous failures to everybody but themselves, indignant at the suggestion that they give place to some one more worthy. To step into other people's shoes it is quite necessary that you wear the same size. It is one thing to claim that the world is your oyster; it is another thing to be able to open it. Much of the trouble of this world comes from the habit of exalting one's self. Brag and bluster are sure in the end to collapse. To make a bluff at real worth sometimes succeeds for a while, but in the long run it gets found out. The real hero never has to sound a trumpet before him. True worth is seldom overlooked. Crowns on some men's heads only make them appear ridiculous. A crown on a throne would be a clown still. It is an impossibility to put round men into square holes.

Real exaltation does not consist in riding on the band wagon. Many a man who carries a gun is a finer character than some who wear shoulder straps. True worth is a thing of character, not of laurel wreaths. By crowding and tramping over others you may reach a place at the bargain counter only to find when you examine your purchase that you could have got a better article for less money elsewhere, and kept your manners also. In the long run the people who scramble for place, and pelf, and power, and popularity come to grief. For it is ever more true that, "pride goes before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall."

This lesson is no reflection upon proper ambition. The man who has no desire to improve his condition and place in the world is no better than a clam. The teaching is a condemnation of that spirit which elbows its way to the front without regard to the rights of others, and but illustrates the old saying that "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

"THERE'S A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM!"

 CURED AFTER 16 YEARS.
 Baltimore, Dec. 10th.
 For 16 years I have suffered terribly with Rheumatism. I was treated by leading physicians but got no relief. Long since I despaired of ever being well again. But hearing of RHEUMACIDE, I decided to give it a trial. I have taken two bottles, and, thanks to this wonderful medicine, I now feel that I have gotten a "new lease on life." Every vestige of the disease has been driven from my system.

Unhappiness in home life, disagreements, marriage, love and divorce, ill-health, long years, law-suits, whom to trust; how to guard against enemies, develop personal power—are comprehended at a glance. There are two paths in life; by knowing which to choose mistakes are avoided. Call and be convinced.

The New England fisheries in 1905 broke all records. Maine contributed to the food supply of the world, 1,000,000,000 packed sardines valued at $5,000,000 and in fresh fish alone Boston sold $4,000,000 worth. Gloucester, the home of the Grand Banks fishing fleet, provided for the consumption 126,000,000 pounds of salt fish valued at $3,750,000, and handled fresh fish to the value of $2,000,000. There are now more than 500 vessels of all sizes in the fishing fleet ranging in value from $1000 to $150,000 the entire fleet being valued at about $3,000,000.—EX.

NATURE'S WARNING.

Salisbury People Must Recognize And Heed It.

Kidney ills come quietly—mysteriously. But nature always warns you. It's time then to use Doan's Kidney Pills.

To ward off Bright's disease or diabetes. Doan's have done great work in Salisbury.

E. Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last February. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back. The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used was Doan's Kidney Pills. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

The Southern Colonizing Company, recently incorporated under the laws of New York, is making it a business to locate settlers in the Southern States. It has agents in Northern, Eastern and Western States and in Canada, and is making arrangements for agents in Europe. Lands are sold on easy terms to emigrants, and a class is sought after which would be a great advantage to the South.

Modest Claims Often Carry The Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below that he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise, instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

Germany are pushing industrial undertakings in the Shantung Peninsula of China. According to the British consul at Chefoo, it appears that a glass factory has been established at Poshau, on a branch of the Tsingtau-Chinaiu Pa Railway, equipped entirely with German machinery. The governor of the province furnished 15,000 taels and a Tientsin firm 10,000 taels toward the project.

Bowel Complaint in Children.

During the summer months children are subject to disorders of the bowels which should receive careful attention as soon as the first unnatural looseness of the bowels appears. The best medicine in use for bowel complaint is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as it promptly controls any unnatural looseness of the bowels. For sale by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

Germany has just revised its railway tariff, which involves a multiplication of tickets. It is calculated that a traveler with a small family going from Mulhouse to Bale, will find himself furnished with 60 tickets, in addition to which are those for baggage.

MY GARDEN.

An old iron gate of quaint entwined work Admits to this my garden, or denies, Beside it, cedar shadows 'thwart the grass Lengthen and deepen as the daylight pales, And watchful over all above the gate A sundial tells how time fits so fast, 'Deeds are the fruit of life.' its motto says, Pregnant with thought and miserly of word.

Life in this garden runs so pleasantly We might forget that there be worlds beyond, Flowerless, yet fruitful too, with evil deeds.

Gardens of death.

—Pall Mall Gazette.

Saved His Comrade's Life.

While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Eldon, Iowa. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe it saved his life. I have been engaged for ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." Sold by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

Mental Poise And Health.

People who reach extreme old age are, as a rule, pretty well balanced, physically and mentally, writes O. S. Marden, in Success Magazine. A poised life is serene, and serenely and harmony tend to longevity. The mind that is not well balanced is constantly jangled and out of tune. There is a constant jarring which racks the whole human machinery.

There is discord in an unbalanced life, and discord is always destructive—deadly. The well poised, dignified life is not thrown off its center quickly. The man who goes all to pieces over trifles is one-sided. There is a momentum in a poised, balanced nature which steadies its progress and helps hold it on its chosen track. Hot temper, constant mental confusion and disorder are vitality-snappers—life shorteners.

Old Chronic Sores.

As a dressing for old chronic sores there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Salve. While it is not advisable to heal old sores entirely, they should be kept in a good condition for which this salve is especially valuable. For sale by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

MARDELA.

The mortality among infants in this community has been quite large this season. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kennerly lost their little one the past week. It was a bright and interesting little child.

Our people are sympathetic people. As an illustration of this, last week Mr. James Wright's horse severely hurt itself. Numbers of men went in to see the horse and to sympathize. Here we might raise a query. Was it sympathy for the horse, or for its owner? Perhaps it was some of both, and either one would be praiseworthy. It is no bad sign when men feel for their dumb animals. To feel for human beings, like ourselves, is expected. But some men seem to think that they are not required to feel for animals. A man would become fighting mad if his faithful dog should be harmed by others. This is the spirit that is at the bottom of the Organization of the "Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

The Bryan boom has struck our town, but it seems to some that it is rather early to launch booms. They might be caught in counter currents and carried out of their course. It is however the opinion of many who are not of Mr. Bryan's way of thinking that he is a wiser and stronger man now, than when first nominated for the presidency. His trip around the world has broadened him. Mr. Albert Bonds, our enterprising townsman has just built and launched two ferry boats. How is it that when people want good work done, they come to our workmen.

Somewhat extensive repairs are being made upon our Stave Factory. The machinery is being changed around and new machinery is being put in. When this mill stops the whole town is affected.

Mr. J. B. Armstrong is quite unwell. He has been ailing for some time past. We hope that he may soon be out again.

The Methodist Protestants had a bad day for their excursion to Ocean City. It was a pity, as so many had planned a pleasant day's outing. Quite a number went notwithstanding the rain.

There are rumors of manufacturing plants seeking new localities. Could we not entice some of them to locate here? This would give regular employment for a larger number of our citizens. And it would also bring more people to our town and this in turn would give a larger home market for our wares. It would make a sale for building lots, and create a larger demand for houses and this would increase the work of our carpenters. A bid for some of these plants, with special inducements would bring them here. The writer knows of a small town that did this, and now it has grown to large dimensions in a few years. A notice of this kind put in the city papers might do great good. It is an experiment worth the trying. Our young people would not go elsewhere if they could secure employment at home. The Stave Mill will not always remain here, for timber will be exhausted. Let us be wise and secure other means of employment before the mill shuts down. The writer for one, is enthusiastic over this matter. Let us create a sentiment in this direction and then move together, for I feel confident that we can succeed.

Rev. B. G. Parker will preach in the Presbyterian church on Sunday night at 8.00 p. m.

ATHOL.

Miss Mae Phillips gave a party Thursday evening at her home. Quite a large crowd was present and a very pleasant evening was spent. Among those present were Misses Mae Phillips, Ethel Marshall, Carrie and Katie Evans, Daisy Harley, Ada and Dora Austin, Addie Truitt, Ida Phillips, Mary Elliott, Lora Horseman, Messrs. William J. Phillips, Louis Phillips, Harry Green, Willard Donoho, Rodney Austin, Howard Truitt, Claude Wright, Randolph Green, Edward Lloyd, Stanley Bailey, John Seabreeze.

Mrs. Mason and daughter of Norfolk, Va., are at present the guests of the Misses Ellis, Ferry Street.

Miss Gassaway who has been visiting her brother, Dr. W. N. Gassaway, here, returned to her home Thursday of this week.

Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Zimmerman of Philadelphia are spending some time with Mrs. Zimmerman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Gravenor, Main Street. Mrs. Xander, of Philadelphia, who with her two little daughters, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gravenor, returned home Saturday.

Mr. L. T. Cooper was in Salisbury Friday of this week to attend a meeting of the School Board of which he is a member.

On Saturday last the Sharptown Base Ball Club crossed bats here with the Delmar nine. Both are strong amateur teams and the game was quite interesting. Our boys did some fine work, the strong points being Marvill's fielding and Wright's pitching. The result was a score of 7 to 5 in favor of the home team. Next Saturday our boys will play Laurel. Del on the Sharptown diamond.

There will be a dentist in town for professional work Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

We are again visited by a patent medicine show. They are holding forth on the vacant lot next the shirt factory and the attendance has been large every night.

Mr. and Mrs. John Culver of Delmar spent last Sunday with Miss Amy Ellis.

Little Miss Rheba Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips, of West Collingswood, N. J., will spend the remainder of the summer with relatives here.

Mr. William Walker, of this place is again on the Steamer Tangier.

LUCK OF GREAT SINGERS

Fortunes Earned in America Not Always Kept.

Mme. SEMBRICH'S WEALTH

Operatic Favorites of a Generation Living at Their Ease—Others Obligated to Teach—Etelka Gerster's Case Unique and Pathetic—Divas With Brief Glory.

The great popularity of Wagner's music has made it possible for German singers, such as Herr Knote and Mme. Terina, to earn large sums in New York, says the New York Sun. But the German opera houses do not pay high prices to their own singers, when the intendants of these theatres pay $1,000 a performance, it is to the Brunhildes and Elisas.

German audiences are satisfied with their own singers in these Wagner roles. The singers of the last generation made their fortunes here, just as those of the present day have done. The noted sopranos, with the single exception of Mme. Sembrich, who is reputed to be one of the wealthiest of all singers, made their fortunes in the United States. So did the tenors, like Campini, who died poor, through his own recklessness, and Jean de Reszke, who is still a rich man. Abbey & Graup paid Mme. Sembrich $125,000 and her expenses during her first visit to this country, which was her second year on the stage, but her fortune was earned in Russia.

The American prima donnas earned their money in their own country. Clara Louise Kellogg, who sang from 1861 for about twenty-two years, has an ample fortune, on which she lives now in great comfort. Her home at New Hartford, Conn., is not pretentious, but has every comfort and Mrs. Carl Strakosh, as she is now, spends much of her time in travel.

Mme. Eames has a large following here, but she practically sings nowhere else. She has appeared at Monte Carlo, St. Petersburg, Paris and London, but she is now heard chiefly in New York. Clara Louise Kellogg, on the contrary, enjoyed great success in Russia, and for years sang regularly in Italian opera in London. Although her career was not long, she had plenty of opportunity to earn her fortune, as she sang during the season of 1874-75 125 times. Half as many appearances satisfies the most industrious prima donna nowadays.

One of her most popular contemporaries was also her compatriot. This was Annie Louise Cary, about the most popular contralto that this country has ever produced. She was born, Mrs. Strakosh was, in 1842. Miss Kellogg, as she was called, made her debut in 1861, and Miss Cary sang for the first time a few years later, at Copenhagen.

She was immensely popular in Russia and in Brussels, where she frequently sang. For seven seasons she was engaged at the opera house in Hamburg. She sang a great deal in concert and oratorio. One of her most popular operatic impersonations was Amneris in "Aida."

Etelka Gerster is now teaching in New York, where, in 1878, she began a career that made her one of the most popular singers ever heard there. If her voice had not failed before she had sung less than ten years she would not probably now be teaching.

She knew no failures while she kept her voice, and she could have sung there for years, such a reputation did she make when she sang at the Academy. As a beginner, Etelka Gerster sang in Venice in 1876, but before 1887 she had lost her voice and was compelled to leave the stage.

Mme. Gerster began to teach in 1896. During the intervening years she had given concerts in small towns but with little success. Her activity as a teacher may continue for years, however, and that is one advantage she gains in having her career as a singer cut short.

Mme. Gerster sang only at the Academy. It was at the Metropolitan that she attempted to appear in concert after her voice failed. It was a long time before she could be persuaded that it was really gone. She maintained for years, that it was in as good condition as ever, and that she was merely the victim of a cabal. Her case was unique in the history of opera singers. Never before was a woman so famous with a career of only seven years.

Christine Nilsson, who has not sung in public for almost twenty years, not only earned most of her large fortune in the United States, but invested it here. It was only a few years ago that she sold her investments in Boston real estate and reaped a great profit on her money she had originally paid out. Alfred Rothchild did much to invest her earnings judiciously for her, just as he did in the case of Adeline Patti.

When Nilsson made her first appearance here, in 1872, it was in concert at Stuyvesant Hall. The following two years she sang in opera, and she returned twice afterward to sing in concert. She was able to sing four times a week without trouble, which was the reason for the large profits she made.

If the nations insist on fighting, as a last resort the case should be left to them in detail just how it is to be whipped.

May—There goes Edna's husband. What do you think of him? Eva—Oh! his clothes don't fit him very well, do they? May—But supposing they did?

Editor:—Yes, that's my idea of a poem. Poet:—No, it's mine. It's yours for two dollars.

Had Enough for Two.

"You want your husband to break smoking? One must have a strong will to do that." "Well, I have a strong will."

The Height of Deceit.

Teacher—Johnny, what is a hypocrite? Johnny—A boy not comes to school with a smile on his face.

REMOVE WRINKLES.

MASSAGING THE FEET WILL OBLITERATE LINES IN FACE.

These Highly Sensitive Centers Have Influence Upon Temperament Continued Pain Leaves Well Marked Signs.

"If women would have their feet massaged instead of their faces there would be fewer wrinkles," says a well known chiropodist. "For this treatment would relieve the cause of numerous worried lines that appear in the forehead and around the eyes and mouth, though few persons realize it. They do not know that the feet are the greatest nerve centers in the body, and that when they become irritated and hurt it shows plainly in the face. Nor are they aware that continued pains make wrinkles. For this reason I would advise women to make certain that their feet are well cared for before they begin to have their faces treated to remove lines, or the massage will be practically useless, for unless the cause of the wrinkles is first done away with the superficial patting and pinching of the seamed flesh will be of small consequence in making the skin look fresh and young again."

"I know, too, that many cases of stomach trouble are directly traceable to the irritated nerves in the feet and that, as a rule, all sorts of causes are suggested before this one is considered as even possible. Yet when women appreciate the sensitiveness of the nerve centers located in the feet they realize how important it is to have them properly treated and well cared for to secure comfort as well as good health."

"By proper care of the feet I do not mean that one should have them regularly treated by a trained chiropodist unless there is actual need, but I do believe that a surgeon or some one who understands thoroughly anatomy should make an examination to be sure the instep has not dropped or sagged, and then should recommend a kind of shoe that would meet all the necessary requirements in shape and width, and give the proper support to toes, arch and ankle. The rest, the selection of stockings and daily bathing, etc., can be easily attended to by each individual, and the natural law of hygiene, if followed, should be sufficient to keep them in condition. With hosiery that fits closely, yet does not bind or cramp the toes, and shoes that conform to the shape of the foot—women can well defy the marks of time."

Dainty Lingerie Hats.

There is a charm about the dainty lingerie hat that every woman feels and appreciates. Here is one which can quite easily and readily be made at home and that are suited to a number of materials.

The hat shown in the illustration is adapted to Irish lace, both the heavy and the baby sorts, and to heavy linen embroidered by hand. As when the better for it. Curiously enough, it has been ascertained by experiment that the foods which digest most readily in the presence of tea are the usual breakfast foods, to wit: Eggs, bacon and fish. Tea does not appreciably retard the digestion of these; hence it may be taken with perfect physiological safety at breakfast, when it is peculiarly grateful after the long night's sleep, and is undoubtedly beneficial to the system in virtue of the comparatively large quantity of hot water which is introduced into the tissues along with the theine proper.

Tea Drinking.

How often may one take tea in the day without injury to health? Most persons can take tea twice a day, and feel the better for it. Curiously enough, it has been ascertained by experiment that the foods which digest most readily in the presence of tea are the usual breakfast foods, to wit: Eggs, bacon and fish. Tea does not appreciably retard the digestion of these; hence it may be taken with perfect physiological safety at breakfast, when it is peculiarly grateful after the long night's sleep, and is undoubtedly beneficial to the system in virtue of the comparatively large quantity of hot water which is introduced into the tissues along with the theine proper.

When tea has been taken in the morning it should not be again taken until well on in the afternoon, when a cup or two will be found to be very welcome, expediting, as it so often does, the final stages of digestion of the midday meal, and reviving in an entirely wholesome way the vital energy which tends to flag toward 5 o'clock.

A Long Life.

To prolong life one should take plenty of sleep and remember to sleep lying on the right side, indulge in a morning bath in tepid water, keep the window of the sleeping room open all night, take frequent and short holidays, do not over-exercise and hold one's breath.

A Prominent Commercial Journal Of Montreal States What It Knows About The

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE CO. OF CANADA.

AS A COMPANY IN WHICH TO ASSURE.

"The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada does things liberally and promptly. Twenty years go an application took out, with that company, a Semi-Endowment Policy for $1,000, of which $500 was guaranteed at the expiration of the policy, with accumulated profits, and $1,000 in the event of death within the period.

"Now, the assured has been notified that the Endowment period has expired, and that he could, if he chose:—1st, withdraw $500, plus $401.05 of accumulated profits, or a total of $901.05; or 2nd, Obtain with the amount of the first option, a non-participating policy for $1,630 payable at death; or 3rd, obtain an annuity for life of $78.15.

"That sum of $401.05 of profits earned in twenty years for the assured by the Company, added to the $500 of guaranteed Semi-Endowment, is a result which is an eye-opener for people who desire to invest their savings safely.

"The owner of the above policy (No. 13,537), was protected in case of death during the period of twenty years for the sum of 1,000, for nothing, and finally he draws nearly fifty per cent. more than he paid out in premiums during his twenty years of assurance.

"Once more therefore does the Sun Life of Canada prove the truth of its motto—

"PROSPEROUS AND PROGRESSIVE."

"We keep for public inspection the positive proof of the assurance policy as above related."

"Le Moniteur du Commerce."

With such results it should be easy for intending insurers to make a decision as to the Company which best looks after the interests of its policy-holders.

What is a Backache?

IT IS NATURE'S WARNING TO WOMEN

Disease of Woman's Organism Cured and Consequent Pain Stopped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"It seems as though my back would break." Women utter these words over and over again, but continue to drag along and suffer worse than the pain of the back, pain low down in the side, "bearing-down" pains, nervousness and no ambition for any task.

They do not realize that the back is the reinsman of woman's organism, and quickly indicates by aching a diseased condition of the female organs or kidneys, and that the aches and pains will continue until the cause is removed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been for many years the one and only effective remedy in such cases.

"I have suffered with female troubles for over two years, suffering intense pain each month, my back ached until it seemed as though it would break, and I felt so weak all over that I did not find strength to attend to my work but had to stay in bed a large part of the first two or three days every month. I would have sleepless nights, bad dreams and severe headaches. All this undermined my health."

"We consulted an old family physician, who advised that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it regularly and soon found that I could sleep and eat better than I had done for months. Within two months I became regular and I no longer suffer from backache or pain."—Miss Maude Morris, See Ladies' Aid and Mission Society, 25 E. Hunter St., Atlanta, Ga.

ROADS AND ROAD MAKING

FOR TAR MACADAM ROADS.

They Reduce to the Minimum Force Required to Haul a Load.

The treating and mixing of tar macadam, says Good Roads Magazine, was done by hand in this country until Mr. Arthur Brown, the city engineer of Nottingham, co-operating with Herbert G. Clark, another engineer, invented an apparatus to supersede the crude method of heating granite chips on an iron slab and then mixing them with hot tar, a disagreeable process, which has been found to produce sundry throat troubles. The new apparatus consists first of a hopper, into which the material to be treated is delivered directly from carts or wagons either by tipping or other suitable methods. The material is fed into a cylinder from the hopper by mechanism which regulates at an even rate the supply of the material, slag or otherwise, and delivers it into the cylinder, which is divided into longitudinal compartments, and so inclined as to pass through it readily the material delivered into it. It is mounted on anti-friction rollers to minimize the driving power. Inside this cylinder is an inner cylinder or trough, containing a worm conveyor. Under the apparatus are two combustion chambers in which coke fires are maintained for supplying heat to the outer cylinder and its longitudinal compartments, and also to the outside of the inner cylinder or trough containing the conveyor. These combustion chambers supply that also to two tanks holding the tar or other mixture, which are situated at the lower end of the apparatus in the form of a saddle over the cylinder. Connected with these tanks are pipes, which are coupled to a piece of mechanism for automatically distributing or spraying the tar onto the slag or other material.

The process is, therefore, as follows: Slag or other material is delivered into the hopper and fed automatically into the longitudinal pockets in the cylinder. As this cylinder is inclined, the material is slowly passed through as it revolves, is thoroughly dried and heated, and then falls into the lower end of the inner cylinder, where it receives the proper amount of tar, and is turned over and mixed in the trough which contains the worm conveyor, when it is delivered at the upper end and thoroughly mixed and coated. The quantity of tar is adjusted to the speed of the feed of the machine, and there can be no surplus or deficiency of tar. It is claimed that the inventors have solved the difficulty, never before overcome, of drying, heating, and mixing the material in one apparatus at one operation, and that the cost of the mixing is at most one-fourth the mixing by hand. The process, from the emptying of the granite chips into the hopper until they are ready to be put down on the road, occupies about four minutes. The apparatus is now being manufactured in this city.

Respecting tar-macadam roads in general, it is claimed that they give the maximum amount of mud and dust, and that they reduce to the minimum the tractive force required to haul a load. A good sample of such a road is a favorite drive along the river Trent, England, which appears to be in perfect condition after five years' use. It is stated that Belgian engineers sent to this country by King Leopold to investigate tar-macadam roads, after visiting several places pronounced this the best they had seen; and that the eventual result was the construction of a similar road from Ostend to Blankenberg, Belgium, principally for the use of the King in motoring.

Hollow Concrete Blocks.

A recent farmer's bulletin says: Among the advantages claimed for hollow concrete block construction may be mentioned the following: Hollow block construction introduces a saving of material over brick or stone masonry. The cost of laying concrete blocks is less than for brickwork. This is due to the fact that the blocks, being larger, require a much smaller number of joints and less mortar, and, being hollow, are less weight than solid brickwork. A wall constructed of good concrete blocks is as strong or stronger than a brick wall of equal thickness. Concrete blocks, being easily molded to any desired form, will prove to be a far more economical building material than stone, which has to be dressed to shape. Experience has proved concrete to be a most excellent fire resisting material.

Concrete blocks, being hollow, tend to prevent sudden changes of temperature within a house, making it cool in summer and easily heated in winter.

The hollow spaces provide an easy means for running pipes and electric wires. These spaces may also be used wholly or in part for heating and ventilating flues.

Railroad Ties.

A writer in Maxwell's Tallyman says: The great consumers of wood in this country are the railroads, most of their demand being crossties, station houses, platforms, bridges, road-crossings, rolling stock, furniture and many minor uses. There are in the neighborhood of 285,262 miles of railroad track in the United States to-day.

A King's Queer Habit. Kings have curious habits. Don Carlos has a mania of never wanting to drink twice from the same glass. Just as soon as his lips have touched a glass filled with any liquid, even if he has only taken a few drops of it, he no longer touches that glass; another must be given to him. While in the palace of the French Minister of the Interior on the Quay d'Orsay, those who were waiters specially chosen to serve the King were constantly on the qui vive to take away a glass out of which the King had drunk, and to replace it with another.

A BROKEN IDOL.

"Has the paymaster spoke yet?"

One grimy giant stoking the furnace for the castings asked the question of another. The other, a tall, thin Scotoman, granted out a curt reply in the negative, and, opening the furnace door with his pole, flooded the place with light.

It was Friday night. The clock in the front shop pointed to the quarter before five. In another ten minutes or so the men engaged at the engineering works of John H. Ransom & Co., would be paid off for the week. The money was already neatly done up in little paper bags with the name of the firm on them, and stacked in little rows in the office. Sandy MacTavish, having temporarily finished with the furnace, caught his "mate" in the act of getting into his coat. He looked at him in silent fury and burst into Scotch expletives.

"Ay, dinna work a minit our lang. A loon like you has michtie important beens outside the shop. It wants ten minutes to the 'oor. If those bits o' piping are not staked—"

The boy fled from him in dismay. The bits of piping measured six feet in length and more, and he was due to play the cornet in a church band at six o'clock. He refused to touch the piping, and Sandy swore at him more lustily than before. Another man walking through the casting shed laughed as he listened to it all. It was Sandy's way of licking the boys into shape.

Ronald Leslie, foreman fitter at Ransom's came and stood beside the furnace, too. "What's the row, Sandy?" he said. "Ronald, my lad," said the old man, "it's the old story; the young lads are not worth their salt. It's come in late if you can, go away early, sleep in the cupboard or on the rug whenever you think the old man's back is turned. Is that the way to keep your job, I'd like to know?"

"Your job!" said Donald, with a shrug. "What's your job worth when you've kept it?" Thirty-eight shillings a week won't keep a man out of the workhouse when he's old. Your job! The job that takes all your waking time, that gives you no leisure to think, that—

"That wina let you sit down and spend your days fiddlin' wi' a toy that has nae mair sense in it than my pole." Leslie did not speak. Instead, he stared into the heart of the furnace. It may have been that he saw the realization of his dream there.

"The idea's good," he said, "and if I could put it into any firm to take it up and work it for you. Ye canna do it, Ronald Leslie. And why? The thing's ben tried before, man. You've got brains in your head. Canna you see that you're throwin' away time and money, and brakkin' a woman's heart?"

"It's not only thirty-eight shillings a week you're throwin' away, Ronald, mind you that." Sandy went to claim his money, and Ronald Leslie went out into the darkness of the night and swung himself on to an electric car which would take him to his home in Walton, where most of Ransom's men lived.

Usually the time occupied by his journey was given over to his invention, but to-night a new thought chased the other, "Breaking a woman's heart?" What absurd nonsense! Why, Maggie was just as eager as himself. There would be no need to stink the housekeeping when the idea was taken up and every ship in Liverpool carried Leslie's steering gear. The car drew up with a jerk. Ronald walked up the street to his home—a little house, one of a row of other little houses, each the replica of the other. Ronald Leslie let himself in with his latch-key, and groped in the gloom of the narrow, unlighted hall. The Leslies' house had a kitchen and a front parlor. Both were usually lighted up before the return of the head of the family. Ronald stumbled toward the kitchen in the dark. The light was unlighted except for one solitary candle on the dresser. A woman who hushed a fretful child in her arms did not look up as her husband came in. This, too, was unusual. Maggie Leslie always met her husband on the threshold of his home.

"What's the matter?" said Ronald. "Why isn't the gas lighted?" "We haven't paid the rate," said Maggie in a dull voice. "They've cut it off."

To do her justice, she tried hard to keep reproach out of her voice. Ronald was a good husband, and she was as proud of his invention—the great invention that was going to do such wonders—as he was himself. But when you've two children who want shelter and food and fire, and when you see money being spent on lifeless, inanimate pieces of steel and iron, when your dress is worn beyond recognition, and when your jacket is too shabby to go out, how can you help saying "things" that "perhaps you won't mind getting your own tea," said Maggie. "There's some bacon in the cupboard. It's all I've got."

Ronald kicked off his boots, and pulled a chair to the fire and looked at the boy asleep on his wife's knee. "What's the matter with Laddie?" he said. "I don't know," said Maggie. "He's been feverish. I'd take him to the doctor if I could."

They looked at each other. They were young. They had loved each other dearly, but something had come between them. It was the thing that occupied the table in the front parlor, and at which Ronald worked in all his leisure. Ronald was going away for the week-end to see some ship owner in Glasgow about his gear. If he paid the water rates he wouldn't have enough for his journey, and for the twelfth time he told himself that it was his great chance. Maggie pleaded mutely with him, and pleaded in vain.

"The shop is shut to-morrow," he said. "We've got a day off. I'm going to Glasgow by the midnight train."

The boy panted on his pillows, eased only when his mother carried him, wrapped in blankets, up and down the room. He was a dear burden; but he was two years old, and Margaret Leslie was worn with waiting and with the incessant toll of her own household work. "Help me not to hate him," she murmured; "help me not to blame him for this!"

Ronald's visit to Glasgow had been as usual, a futile effort. The shipowner had accorded him a five minutes' interview, and had told him that his idea was no good. He had come raging against the stupidity of men with money. The grumble was an old one. For once Margaret had met it with indifference, almost with disdain.

This idea of his that he was a genius with an invention that would revolutionize the world of ships driven by steam was the curse of their lives. He came in from his work now and stood at the door of the room, still in his brown overalls, wearing his lute's cap on his head. "Eetter?" he asked. There was anxiety in his voice.

"Worse," she answered. "We can't keep him. My boy must go!" Her eyes were fearless; there would be plenty of time to cry later on. Leslie came over to her, touched her hand. She flung it off. Raising, she faced him, holding the child against her heart.

"You don't care!" she said. "What are we to you, him and me, in comparison with that thing downstairs? It's a devil, that thing; it's turning a good man into a brute. Oh, I don't want to say it, but it's true! You have forgotten to love me—you wife; you have let your child die!"

Laddie stirred in her arms; she carried him to the bed and laid him there, watching the gray shadows creep over his face. Sob rent her. The child, beloved by them both, had been sacrificed to an idea. Leslie stared at her like a man in a dream, and then, as if he had no right there, he turned and left them, creeping as noiselessly as he could down the stairs.

The street in which the Leslies lived was badly lighted. No one saw Ronald come out of his house staggering under the burden in his arms. It was heavy, the thing he carried, weighed with the load of a man's lost years, an idol to which love and duty had been sacrificed—the false god of a man's imagined genius—swept from the pedestal at last. Ronald Leslie walked slowly to the piece of waste ground near the brickfields, where the sound of his hammer would not be heard.

He looked at it lying at his feet. Where was the fortune it should have brought? Where, even, was the weekly wage that he had earned for years now? Bowed by the idea, useless, silent toy, the model of the engine that should have revolutionized the world, representing ten of the best years of a man's life.

"Lie there," he said, "unburied and forgotten! Let me not think of the lies you have whispered to me, of the false promises that have beckoned me along a road I had no right to tread. Only the fool never repents of his folly!"

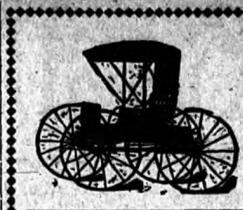

He stood a moment in the darkness, and light came to him. It was the new and different idea that who entered the house on his return. He climbed the stairs again; the light was still burning in the little front room, a woman still knelt beside the bed. It was all so still and quiet that he hesitated, stricken with a new fear. Had the Angel of Death touched the door-post even while he had been away? Entering, he lifted his wife from the ground. His voice was tender when he spoke.

"Margaret!" he said, "Meg! My wife!" It was the little tender name of their courting days. Maggie's arms stole round his neck; he felt the tears on her cheeks as she pressed her face to his.

"He is better," she whispered. Her voice broke in a sob. "He fell asleep soon after you left. Ronald, forgive me all I said."

"Dear human love—that is a man's reward here for every lost hope and dead ambition. Ronald Leslie comforted the sobbing woman in his arms. "I have smashed it," he told her. "Maggie, you will never see the thing you hated so fiercely and so well. I've smashed it; it was no good. I've been a fool!"

She looked up at him; he could see that her regret was deeper than his own. "Oh, Ronald," she said, "it was the treasure of the world to you!" "God has been good to me," he said. "The treasure of the world is here!"—London Answers.

SHEEP FOR WOOL PRODUCTION.

French Merinos Give Large Yields and Are Good Mutton Producers. The Rambouillet or French Merino is the largest of the tribe and indeed some individual specimens of the Rambouillet have been among the largest of all sheep, weights having been recorded as great as 400 pounds, and fleeces are as heavy as sixty pounds. These, however, are entirely exceptional, and it is doubtful if ever any sheep in the world yielded as much as sixty pounds or even forty pounds of fairly clean wool in one year's growth. The Rambouillet has had rather a remarkable history in the United States. Early introduced it was found not hardy and was quite generally condemned and discarded. The fact is, its lack of hardiness was more an inability to withstand starvation than anything else. If given food there is no harder sheep than the Rambouillet. However, a few admirers of these great sheep having sufficient food for them, retained their flocks and bred them pure for years. Some flocks founded more than fifty years ago that have remained continuously upon the same farms ever since, which is proof that American soil and conditions make a congenial home for the French Merinos. Rambouillet. Some fifteen years ago the Rambouillet came again into notice and achieved a sudden and remarkable popularity when it was discovered there existed in America a few good mutton flocks of really very creditable sheep of this breed. They enjoyed a decided boom for ten or a dozen years and are at present in good demand. Large flocks of Rambouillet are now kept upon many favorably situated western ranches, notably in Colorado, Utah, California, Oregon and Montana, which supply Rambouillet to the ranch trade by thousands. The Rambouillet makes considerable claim to being a mutton sheep as well as very good Merino wool.

Experience has taught that it is best to dip twice for cattle in the fall of the year, regardless of the condition of the cattle but in the spring there is not so much necessity for the double dipping as the animals are not now so likely to reinfestation. There are numerous dips on the market at the present time and no doubt they all have merit, but many failures have been made in dipping possibly due to the fact that the dip was not efficient. The coal tar preparations are effectual in curing mange. When using these however it is well to test the water. Where soft water cannot be obtained add to the hard water sufficient washing soda or sal soda to break it. This is best done by taking a small sample of water and determining whether it will saponify readily. Otherwise these preparations may not perfectly mix.

Profits in Stock. Money put in good stock will double itself, while money put in a poorer breed melts away. We know a man who has a Shorthorn cow that cost him $75. The former owner did not recognize the marks of good blood in the animal, but the other fellow did. That cow has made him $4,000 in seven years and is still working for him. He sold one of the calves for $755 and another for $800. Four years ago he bought another for $225. He has sold three of her calves for $1,100. It takes some brains to run this business.

Studying Your Cows. An excellent and careful dairyman who has fifty-two excellent cows, says that he knows every one of them by their voices in lowing, in dozing and dark. One who is so familiar with his cows as that is sure always to make a success of his business, which this dairyman does. He can tell what they want and what their needs are when each one lows, and they know just as well that their wants will be supplied.

Celery. Celery is a plant similar to celery, but more easily grown and more easily cooked. There are few times of the year when a good pair of pruning shears can not be used to good advantage. When a better price for better fruit is obtained, the difference in price pays for handling. It pays to grow the best for that reason.

In trapping wild animals, destructive to crops and fruit trees it is most humane to use contrivances which cause instant death to the victim. Ordinarily the steel trap is very cruel and causes much suffering to the creature caught.

Keen Scent. McJigger—My wife's sense of smell is so keen that once when I just happened to mention the word "whisky" during the day she noticed it on my breath. Thingumbob—Oh, come, now! McJigger—Fact, I—or—mentioned it to a bartender.

DEAFNESS IN STAMMERERS.

Elocution Teacher Says the One Ailment Accompanies the Other. A woman elocution teacher has developed an interesting theory concerning the more or less common affliction of stammering. This she claims is due, not to the enlarged palate, defect in certain muscles and other causes to which physicians and specialists usually attribute it, but simply and entirely to incorrect breathing. "In the course of my professional engagements," she says, "I have come into contact with a large number of persons afflicted either slightly or to a distressing degree with stammering. I began by dint of questions and examination to discover their methods of respiration. In every case that has so far come under my observation this has proved to be a difficult and laborious process, drawing upon wrong sources, calling wrong muscles into play, and actually choking up the avenues through which the natural voice should come. I have made some experiments in a purely non-professional way through the use of the subject of stammering is out of my province—and I find that even a little instruction in correct respiration methods is beneficial and has immediate effect for good upon the subject. "Another thing! Have you ever noticed how commonly the stammerer is afflicted with deafness? It is almost rare to find a subject who does not labor under this second malady as well. In fact, every stammerer may consider himself, unless cured within a reasonable time, a sure victim of the dreaded deafness. He uses the vocal apparatus incorrectly and loss of hearing is the almost inevitable penalty. "Most of the subjects examined in my experiments were men, for the simple reason, I suppose, that men stammerers are to the women afflicted in this way in the proportion of fifty to one. If not more. Women do, of course, stammer, but few and usually in less serious cases than those of the men."

Uncle Sam's Postage Stamps. Some idea of the magnitude of the postal service of this country can be gained from the fact that over 6,000,000 stamps of the latest series have already been issued. In 1847, when the post office was instituted, a total of 25,000 stamps of the 5 and 10 cent varieties were issued, and it was feared, according to the government report of that year, that the system would be a failure, as it did not seem to meet with popular approval. And this was only 58 years ago.

The astonishing increase proves that the government was far from right in its first diagnosis of the results of the introduction of a public post, and if the gentlemen who formulated that report in 1847 could see the force of employees working in the government bureau of engraving and printing at Washington, where the United States prints all its stamps, they would suffer a severe change of heart.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905, the bureau of engraving and printing had issued to the post office, and the post office had distributed of the whole issue, 6,000,000 postage stamps. These were distributed as follows, according to their value: Of the 1-cent, 1,500,000,000; 2-cent, 4,000,000,000; 3-cent, 43,000,000; 4-cent, 53,500,000; 5-cent, 83,000,000; 6-cent, 18,000,000; 8-cent, 28,000,000; 10-cent, 36,500,000; 12-cent, 2,500,000; 15-cent, 6,000,000; 20-cent, 2,500,000; $1, 59,000; $2, 4,500; $5, 6,000.

The trial cost of printing the single year's supply of small, rectangular "stickers" was $328,000, while they yielded to the government about $111,000,000, a gross profit that makes it quite worth while.

Noisy Chinese Worshipers. Of native church service a missionary writes from a mission in western China: "The men, on one side and the women on the other, it is almost impossible to keep the place really quiet. In the first place the Chinese are not used to keeping quiet; it is entirely foreign to their training. Their temples are about as noisy as a place could be, their ideas of worship being associated with noise rather than quiet. The man who can make the most noise is evidently considered the greater success as a worshiper—witness the din just now in process down the temple, which may be a great benefit to the soul of the pilgrim and his ancestors, but it is a decided hindrance to me when I am trying to write a letter. "Another feature which adds to the noise and restlessness of the service is the fact that half the women are accompanied by babies, equally noisy to the foreign music as intended to be personal. Very often the presiding minister has to pause and give directions as to the treatment of the unruly infant. At Sulu Dr. Tompkins had just returned from ushering out one mother, the door being difficult to manage, when Dr. Oenshaw announced from the pulpit, 'There's another, Doc,' referring to another wailing child. "Of course, this did not detract in the least from the dignity of the occasion for the Chinese, being spoken in English, but it was hard for the rest of us to repress a smile. So it is with all the services; we have to content ourselves with trying to create an atmosphere for the people, and they, knowing nothing better, are content, but we cannot help longing for the restfulness and quiet of our home church service."

The Liar.

By L. Lundaley. I threw myself down in the crumbling shell of an old shooting-but to wait the incoming tide, when the widgeon would return through the dusk light, in low, snags, flights, to their night haunts. At length I picked up my gun, rose, shook myself and started to walk back along the sea wall, abandoning all thought of a chance shot. I had not proceeded many yards when, in the hollow between the ridge and the dike which cut it off from the salttings, I saw the body of a man. He was lying on his breast, his arms stretched out stiffly before him, his face buried in the grass. The attitude could mean only one of two things—despair or— "Hullo!" The call was involuntary. The man sprang up with the quick, nervous action of one taken unawares. "Why can't you leave me alone?" He snarled fiercely, at bay on the instant. Then, evidently finding I was not whom he had expected to see, he scrambled up in front of me, and stood slumped against the sky—his pitiable, ragged, wasted figure. He commenced to whimper. "It's those birds; they're always calling, calling, 'Curse them!' he broke out savagely; 'they'll end by sending me mad. You can't think what it is,' he went on, more quietly, and making a motion toward the bank from which he had risen, "when that's your bed—to lie awake on, listening to those screams, falling asleep with them still haunting you and making you dream you're tormented by screeching devils. He had come a step nearer, and his eyes fell on my gun. Involuntarily he put out his hand, much as does a child who longs to touch some object, but half fears to do so. In a moment his manner changed. "By Jove!" he cried; "eight-bore? That must pepper 'em up a bit!" As he spoke the words, in a flash I knew the man—Abolfsford! Abolfsford, lost, strayed, dead? Nobody knew, nobody cared. He was one of those who have "lived and gone" when the world has forgotten them, and no gleam of recollection upon me. The sudden recall of his old manner, too, had passed as suddenly as it had come; yet in his bearing there lurked something apologetic. "That isn't what I have been used to—long, you know." He spread out his hands deprecatingly toward the beach and the few eel catchers' huts that dotted it. "Once I used to be a pretty rich chap."

True, he had been. "But," he went on, shrugging his shoulders, "I had no luck; it all went." Gambled, flung wantonly away. "Well—" "It doesn't bother you to listen? It's months since I met a man I could talk to." "It interests me," I replied. "It did." "Well, then the poor old governor went broke—that was devilish bad luck." So it was; to be ruined in his old age, turned out of his home to appease his son's creditors, to die broken-hearted—devilish bad luck indeed. But I merely nodded my head. "After that," he engaged unhesitatingly—"of course I had to get married. Not a bad sort, with a pile of her own; but that wouldn't work. You know what women are?" Yes, I knew the woman who had been tied to this man, who had been cheated of her money by him, dragged down by him, insulted by his associates, and, finally, deserted by him for—I shuddered at the recollection. "After that," he proceeded, "I went in for speculation, but—my luck again—everything went against me; yet it's a game lots of chaps win at."

The game of the bogus company! Why did I let him go on salving his wretched mind by one more flash of imposture? All I know is that I stood mechanically listening, mechanically translating the fact. "At last," he proceeded, feeling in his tattered coat, and drawing out a blackened briar pipe, "everything came to an end, everything but the bad luck, and that stuck. Fish!" He shook off his cap and I saw that his hair was flecked with white. Strange as it seemed, this man was growing full of pity for himself as he believed he was impressing me with the sorrows of the past. I remembered the end, too: a card scandal, expulsion from clubs, the slow falling away of all men. "I could not speak. He looked at me expectantly. In the name that followed he began to grumble under his breath and whimper once more. Then, appearing to recollect his pipe in his hand, he looked up. "You don't happen to have a pouch, do you?" he asked insinuatingly. I handed him my tobacco box. He took the box in his hands greedily, and, as he bent to open it, his eyes rested on the lid. For a moment he hesitated; then, without looking up, he held out the box. I took it automatically. With his head still bent, he turned round, thrust pipe and hands deep in his pockets and lurched off—out there into the gloom from which came the never-ceasing screams of the perishing souls.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood. It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs. The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty. If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

DAIRY AND CREAMERY HOME CHEESE MAKING.

Require Small Expenditure of Time and Few Utensils.

Use milk three or four hours old that has been held at about seventy degrees and which has not as yet begun to sour, says Field and Farm.

About Cream Separators. It is just as easy to handle the separator right as it is the plow, or any other implement.

1. The speed of the bowl has an influence on the cream. A change in speed from one separation to another changes the per cent. of fat of the cream.

2. The temperature of the milk affects the cream. If the milk is warm the cream will be thicker than if it is cold.

3. The amount separated per hour is another factor. This is especially important. For, if the milk is unevenly fed into the bowl, the thickness of the cream is vastly influenced.

4. The amount of water or skim milk used to flush out the bowl will affect the quality of the cream.

All these things tend to show that the separator must be handled with care and good judgment. It is difficult to observe all the points mentioned, but they are so simple and apparent that it would be very easy for the heedless operator to pass over them.

Precautions in Butter Making.

In making butter the churn should be revolved at a speed that will produce the best concretion. With a forty-gallon box or barrel churn this will be about fifty revolutions a minute; with a smaller churn somewhat more speed is required. One can soon learn to feel by the sound when the cream begins to break. Then close watching is needed, so as not to churn it too much. The churn should be stopped when the granules of butter are somewhat smaller than wheat kernels.

Milking With Regularity.

The loss from irregularity is nowhere more apparent than in milking. Some dairymen milk a little later on Sunday morning than through the week. The following test shows the folly of this practice. A Denver dairymen delayed milking his cows on Sunday morning for an hour and a half and the milk yield showed a large shrinkage that evening and for the day.

Dairy Notes.

Keep the dogs away from the dairy herds. Excitement from the presence of dogs means less milk.

Clean cow stables and stalls are kept more readily by gutters behind the cows in the stalls 15 to 16 inches wide to catch the excrementa.

Keeping record for each cow's milk are pointers to their feeding and helps to prompt the feeder.

Cows may be allowed to eat anything they like without hurt or taint to the milk if eaten a few hours before they are milked.

Highly Seasoned Candy.

The following is accredited to the late Senator Hoar: At a Fourth of July celebration in a Canadian town, where both English and American guests were assembled, the flags of the two countries were used in decorations.

A trifolious young English girl, loyal to the queen, but with no love for the Stars and Stripes, exclaimed: "Oh, what a silly looking thing the American flag is! It suggests nothing but checker-berry."

"Yes," replied Senator Hoar, "the kind of candy that has the checker-berry look who ever tried

AUTOMATIC IRRIGATOR.

Successfully Used in Germany for Watering Plants.

The first device has for its essential features an unvalved wick about five feet long such as is used by lamp-lighters, says the Scientific American. This is protected by a glass tube about three feet long and about one-quarter inch bore, bent into a siphon or U-shape with one leg longer than the other. The wick, which fills the tube and projects at both ends, takes up water slowly at first, and the whole is prepared for use by leaving it over night in a vessel of water. To quote from the article: "To use this device for watering potted plants, three or four pots are placed near together, and a pail of water is put near and above them, on a bench. The short leg of the tube is immersed in the water and the flow is started by sucking at the other end. The strands of the wick are distributed among the pots, being placed in contact with the earth but not with the stalks of the plants. One or more strands are assigned to each plant, according to its need of water, and, of course, the entire flow may be given to one pot, in which case the end of the tube is inserted in the soil. In very hot weather it is advisable to cover the pail and wrap the tube with wadding to prevent the wick drying. The German inventor of this device says that he has always found it to work perfectly. It was designed for watering house plants during the absence of their usual caretakers, but it seems adapted to garden use as well. Furthermore, it is not apparent why a tube of rubber, tin, iron, or lead should not answer the purpose as well as the fragile glass tube.

"This second device, is still simpler. It consists of a pear-shaped glass bulb drawn out to a point at one end. The point itself is closed, but near it is a lateral opening, through which the vessel may be filled with water. When filled it is thrust into the earth near the plant, to which it supplies the proper quantity of water for several days or weeks, as the water flows from the hole with greater or less rapidity, according to the dryness of the soil. The apparatus is furnished in a number of sizes, holding from a gill to a gallon.

"Either of these devices offers a convenient means of applying liquid or soluble fertilizers, which may be added to the water in any proportion desired."

The Law of Attraction.

As a rule big men are shy and lacking in assurance. A daughter of the gods, divinely tall, fills them with something like terror. The woman who appeals to them is usually some sparkling, vivacious, fairy-like creature with kittenish way and roguish glances. The little man, on the contrary, is seldom burdened with humility. He is a being of great aspirations and stupendous ambitions; he believes in himself, which is the reason why he generally can get the woman of his choice to smile upon him. The dainty, wee, Titania like woman possesses no charms for him. "A nice little thing," he says of such a one. "Fall in love with her? Oh, no! She isn't grown up enough to inspire the tender passion." He likes a woman to be one or two inches his superior and thoroughly mature. He dreads any trace of the bread and butter schoolgirl. His ideal resembles the strong, heroic woman Shakespeare has pictured, full blooded and vital, full of character and spirit, with a fair spice of temper.

Eminent Doctors Praise Its Ingredients.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Dr. John F. Fife of the Editorial Staff of The Eclectic Medical Review says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the Favorite Prescription: "It is a remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator, and restores the vitality of the entire reproductive system." It continues: "In its action it has a medicinal effect which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In its use, there is no peculiar action upon the system, and it is especially adapted to women in whom there is a general debility, and a morbid condition of the reproductive organs, and a general enfeeblement. It is useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root: "In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is unobscuredly regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal: "It is valuable in many of the most important (leucorrhoea) and congestive gynecological affections, and in the treatment of the female system."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which

It Almost Failed the Boon Companions at a Critical Moment.

They were fellow members of the unemployed, but they had been "given a start" by the contractor for certain building works. They had worked almost two hours when an opportunity came for a rest and naturally they took it. In the middle of a discussion of their wrongs, however, it became evident that the foreman hadn't, as they thought, gone home to breakfast, for he stood before them.

"Well," he said acidly, "and what are you busy about—eh?"

"We're— we're shifting planks, sir," said the ever-ready Jack Thompson.

"Oh, you are, are you?" was the rejoinder. "Well, where's the plank you're carrying now?" There was a pause. Jack looked at Joe, and Joe looked at Jack; but the latter is a hard man to baffle.

The Cat Steps Up.

A babu in charge of the documents of a certain town in India found that they were being seriously damaged by rats. He wrote to the government to provide him with weekly rations for two cats to destroy the rats. The request was granted, and the two cats were installed—one the larger of the two, receiving slightly better rations than the other. All went well for a few weeks, when the supreme government of India received the following despatch: "I have the honor to inform you that the senior cat is absent without leave. What shall I do?" The problem seemed to baffle the supreme government, for the babu received no answer. After waiting a few days, he sent off a proposal: "In re Absentee Cat I propose to promote the junior cat, and in the meantime to take into permanent service a probationer cat on full rations."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Thomas Perry, Executor of the last will and Testament of Mary Virginia Dashiell, late of Wicomico County, deceased; vs. Charles Huntman, Henry Huntman, Lulu Huntman, Virginia Dashiell, Louise Perry, Nellie W. Waller, Marian W. Stanford.

No. 1625 Chancery in the Circuit Court for Wicomico County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of order of the Circuit Court for Wicomico County, in Equity, whereby the further administration of the trust estate mentioned in the above entitled cause may be conducted under the supervision and direction of said Court.

The bill states that Mary Virginia Dashiell, late of Wicomico County, deceased, died in 1904, leaving a last will and testament, and that said will was duly admitted to probate by the Orphans Court of Wicomico County, and that letters Testamentary thereon were granted by said Orphans Court and above named complainant, the executor named in said will, and that said Executor has passed his final Administration account in said Orphans Court; and that he has paid all the debts of said testatrix and has paid and delivered to the proper parties all the cash and specific legacies in said will mentioned, and that the distribution of the balance or remainder of the estate has been made by said Orphans Court, that by the residuary clause of the said will, an undivided one-sixth part of said remainder was bequeathed to said executor in trust, to invest the same and to collect the interest therefrom, and to pay the net income from the same to the children of Mary Louisa Huntman, late of Washington City, deceased, and at the time the youngest survivor of said children shall attain his or her majority, then the principal of said trust in the sum of $911.47, with which net sum the said children equally share, and share alike, the descendants of any deceased child of said Mary Louisa Huntman, to stand in the place of said child deceased, and if no such child or descendant of the same, then said principal to become vested in the above named defendants, Virginia Dashiell, Louise Perry, Nellie Waller and Marian Waller Stanford, equally, share and share alike, to the survivor or survivors of them, and that the said children are the defendants, Charles Huntman, Henry Huntman and Lulu Huntman, all of whom reside in the city of Washington, D. C., and are infants and minors, and that under the aforesaid distribution the said undivided one sixth part of the aforesaid remainder, bequeathed as aforesaid, for the benefit of said children of said Mary Louisa Huntman amounts in the net sum of $911.47, with which net sum the said Executor charges himself to be accounted for in accordance with the trust created in said residuary clause of said will, and that the said Charles Huntman, Henry Huntman and Lulu Huntman are non residents of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 12th day of June, 1906, ordered by the Circuit Court for Wicomico County, in Equity, that the plaintiff by using a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Wicomico County, once in each of four successive weeks, before the 1st day of August, 1906, give notice to the said defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor on or before the 30th day of August next, to show cause, if any they have why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.
