A VETERAN OF THE BLACK HAWK, MEXICAN AND THE CIVIL WARS.

CAPT. W. W. JACKSON.

Sufferings Were Protracted and Severe—Tried Every Known Remedy Without Relief—Serious Stomach Trouble Cured by Three Bottles of Peruna!

Capt. W. W. Jackson, 705 G St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I am eighty-three years old, a veteran of the Black Hawk, Mexican and the Civil Wars. I am by profession a physician, but abandoned the same. Some years ago I was seriously affected with catarrh of the stomach. My sufferings were protracted and severe. I tried every known remedy without obtaining relief. In desperation I began the use of your Peruna. I began to realize immediate though gradual improvement. After the use of three bottles every appearance of my complaint was removed, and I have no hesitation in recommending it as an infallible remedy for that disorder."—W. W. Jackson.

REPUBLICANS IN SESSION

Hold County Convention in Court House Tuesday and Later Nominate Hon. Wm H. Jackson for Congress.

At the meeting of the Republican Convention in the Court House Captain L. A. Parsons was made Chairman and William B. Tilghman, Jr., was elected Secretary. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

The Republican party of Wicomico county and State of Maryland, in convention assembled, does hereby reaffirm its allegiance to the policies and declarations announced in National Platform of 1904 and the State Platform of 1903.

We hereby endorse the splendidly patriotic and peculiarly progressive administration of President Roosevelt, and declare that his fearlessness on the discharge of the duties of his high position has given this country a new impetus in the business world and added prestige abroad.

We hereby desire to enter our emphatic endorsements of the course of the Hon. William H. Jackson in the Fifty-Seventh and Fifty-Eighth Congresses of the United States, and favor his nomination for the Sixtieth Congress by the Ocean City Convention of the First Congressional District. But for an iniquitous Ballot Law placed on the State books by the Democratic party and glaring and notorious frauds perpetrated under it, we believe that he would today have been a member of the Fifty-Ninth Congress, and his nomination and election this fall is the vindication of his course demanded by his friends throughout the District. His conscientious fidelity to the people of this District during his career in Congress was such as to command the respect and esteem of the entire people, and we believe that his return to public life is demanded by the business interests throughout the District.

Delegates elected to represent the county at the Ocean City Convention: Barren Creek—Dr. John L. Elderly, W. S. Walker, Thomas W. English.

Quantico—W. F. Disharoon, J. O. Wilson.

Proceedings of County Commissioners At Tuesday's Session.

The County Commissioners held a session Monday afternoon to consider the improvement of the Snow Hill road as petitioned for by the residents and taxpayers of Nutter's District. Those interested in the road have filed their bonds to pay 10 per cent. of the cost of same, two miles to be improved. The Commissioners discussed at considerable length the material to be used, whether shells or lime stone. The Board instructed the clerk to write State Road Engineer Crosby for an estimate on an all lime stone road, and for plans and specifications on same.

Tuesday the Board met again. Mayor Harper was before the Board and requested that the county build a footway on the north side of the pivot bridge for the use of pedestrians. The matter was referred to Commissioner Cooper.

A committee was before the Board with a petition asking for a commission to be appointed on a tax ditch in Pittsburg District, known as the "Beaver Hole Ditch." The Board appointed Elisha W. Parsons, W. A. Dennis and J. R. Farlow commissioners on said ditch.

The report of E. W. Parsons, R. H. Smith and P. T. Baker, commissioners on the south prong of "Green Branch" tax ditch was filed, and notice of ratification given for September 25.

MARDELA SPRINGS.

Correspondent Touches Conditions And Needs That The Present Rainy Season Has Impressively Brought Forth.

We are having a good deal of sickness in our community. The Doctors are kept busy. Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Truitt, who have been so seriously ill are now much improved. Mr. John Bennett is very sick and many others are ailing. The probabilities are that we will have much sickness this fall. The trouble has commenced very early in the season. Our citizens should see to it that no filth of any kind is permitted to accumulate in or around their dwellings. Weeds are a fruitful source of contagion. They should be cut, raked up and taken clear away from the house. Low places around that cannot be drained, lime should be sprinkled around quite heavily. If these precautions are taken we may save ourselves from an epidemic of typhoid fever. Houses where there is much shade, mould has accumulated in the closets. Chloride of lime should be put in shallow receptacles and placed in each room in the house and in all of the closets. Chloride of lime is much cheaper than medicines. A small box of it can be had at any drug store for ten or fifteen cents. To stop the stable odor after the house is stolen is poor policy. "An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure." Cut the weeds in all of the open lots and gardens. Those few heads of standing cabbage that have been allowed to decay, should be pulled up and taken away. They are reeking with disease germs. All shallow wells where surface water can get to them should be abandoned entirely. In no case should anyone drink water from these wells unless it is boiled. Dug wells are especially dangerous. The Town Commissioners have warned us and let us all heartily co-operate with them in a general clean up. It is the opinion of medical men that the great London Plague could have been prevented had the city been kept clean. The above precautions should be observed as well in the country as in the town. In each case where there is sickness let us do all we can to aid the sick ones.

Rev. Mr. Parker has returned from his short outing and will preach at Brown Hill on Sunday at three o'clock in the afternoon, and at Athol at night. He preached for the Grace Baptist Church of Baltimore during his two Sundays away.

Rev. Mr. Perry is kept busy in looking after the sick ones in his own congregation, and assisting his brother minister in Sharptown by burying the dead and looking after the sick ones.

We are praying for sunshine in order that our farmers may be able to save their fodder.

There is quite a large amount of tomatoes being shipped and canned. This crop is larger than was anticipated. It will bring considerable money into our community.

"The Warning Bell."

No spot on earth is more wildly beautiful or sublime than the rugged New England; and the scenes have all been painted from aerial photographs, made from the locality of the play. The splendid scenes of the ocean, the light house, the ragged, reefs, bathed in the sunshine, and smiling with the calm or lashed by the terrible con storms, and illuminated with the lightning, are always thrilling, grand and beautiful. The scenes for this play are beautiful and elaborate, and are unlike anything seen in any other play. The Company carry everything complete for this gigantic production. At Ulman's Grand Opera House, Wednesday, September 5th. Price 35, 50 and 50.

WHAT OUR MARYLAND

Proposes Having At The Jamestown Exposition. Plan To Have A Handsome Building Worthy of The State.

The Maryland Commission to the Jamestown Exposition are beginning to take up the actual business preparations of the State's exhibition next year.

The commission is facing the problem of making as good a show with its $65,000 as its neighbors—Virginia with $150,000, and Pennsylvania with over $100,000. It received many applications for spending special sums in different exhibits, but it was found that these sums would far exceed the amount of money at its disposal. The committee decided to ask the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association to recommend suitable men who might take the matter of collecting industrial exhibits and seeing that they were properly placed and cared for. The expense will be born by the exhibitors.

The commission has tentatively engaged liberal space in the buildings. The Committee decided to co-operate to the limit of its resources in having Maryland fully represented in every department.

The Maryland Agricultural College will be asked to outline a plan for an agricultural and horticultural exhibit, for which the commission hopes to be able to pay.

One Baltimore firm has applied for half the space engaged by the Maryland Commission in the Manufacturers Building. There is no doubt that there will be more applications than can be accommodated, but the Exposition authorities have treated Maryland with great liberality.

To Show Carroll Harpsichord.

A vote of thanks was given to Mr. Ernest J. Kaabe, Jr., for his offer of the Charles Carroll harpsichord, built in 1780, which has been delayed by competent authorities to be the best example of 14 known instruments of this type in existence. Messrs. William Knabe & Co. and Mr. Charles M. Steff offered pianos of their best make for the Maryland Building it was decided to accept an instrument from each of these firms.

Historic articles were offered by Marylanders, and the loan of these was accepted. Such articles will be insured at the expense of the commission.

The plans for getting Virginia and North Carolina to unite with Maryland in the cornerstone laying on September 9 are being pushed. Governor Warfield and his staff will attend with the Maryland Commission.

Details of State Building.

The committee adopted measures to expedite the progress of the Maryland Building. The contract will be let and construction begun soon.

The building will be of the Colonial period, combining effects found in historic buildings of the state.

The wings of the building have wide connecting loggias and are in effect commodious porches, so arranged that they can be enclosed in inclement weather. The purpose was to secure as much room as possible for the view of Hampton roads, which the building fronts.

The structure will be one of great dignity. It reaches almost across the lot of 168 feet and is in admirable harmony with the designs of the Virginia Building, which will be a reproduction of General Lee's home at Arlington, and of the Pennsylvania Building, which will be a reproduction of Independence Hall. Thus will be found together three of the most striking types of historic American architecture.

The main portion of the building will be used for the display of historical furniture and in it will be reproduced the Senate Chamber at Annapolis, where Washington resigned his commission. There will be two stables, with suitable accommodations for visitors. There will be a reading room, a reception room and retiring rooms. The architect is Mr. Douglas H. Thomas, Jr.

City Council Proceedings.

Mr. Glen Purdue of the Farmers and Planters Co., and Mr. W. B. Tilghman, Jr., representing the W. B. Tilghman Co., were before the Council last Monday night asking for the privilege of extending racks from Fulton Station down along the wharf front through the property of H. S. Todd and Mr. W. B. Tilghman across Main Street. The Council still have the matter under consideration.

Poochontas is to have a monument. Her descendant, including all relatives of the two Harbisons, Gouverneur Morris, Mrs. Burton Harrison and the large and important Randolph, Calab and Fairfax families of Virginia, not to mention many less well known people in New England and other portions of the United States, have decided that the little Indian maiden deserves the recognition and have organized to raise $10,000 to that end.

BRYAN AT HIS STRONGEST

His Home Coming Tour Around The World. An Event of Unprecedented Welcome For A Modern American Statesman.

The reception to William Jennings Bryan on his return from his trip around the world was, perhaps, the most remarkable ever given to a man who has been traveling as a private citizen.

At the Battery, where he landed, there was a great assemblage to cheer him when he was greeted by Acting Mayor McGowan, Governor Folk, of Missouri, Mayor Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, and other well known men, and the procession to the Victoria Hotel was witnessed by 100,000 persons.

Madison Square Garden, where his carefully prepared speech was made, was thronged, and many thousands attended the overflow meeting outside.

He was greeted by Governor Warfield and other Marylanders, who took a prominent part in the proceedings, and the Governor will invite him to Maryland.

The Governor was loudly cheered at the Madison Square Garden meeting.

The Bryan Doctrine of The Present.

The trusts must go. Tariff for revenue only necessary, particularly in view of its influence in eliminating the trusts.

The money question, through unexpected circumstances, no longer an issue in national politics. Government ownership of railroads just as soon as the country is ready for it.

An income tax. No more colonialism, and the same treatment of the Filipinos as was accorded the Cubans.

Popular election of Senators. No collection of private debts by the use of the navy.

Universal international arbitration, and arbitration of all labor troubles. An eight hour day for the laboring man.

Money Question Goes To The Rear.

"Unexpected conditions have removed the cause of our difficulties and permitted us to present a united front on present issues. The unlooked for and unprecedented increase in the production of gold has brought a victory to both the advocates of gold and the advocates of bimetallicism—the former keeping the gold standard which they wanted and the latter securing the larger volume of money for which they contended. We who are bimetallists are satisfied with our victory if the friends of monometallism are satisfied with theirs, and we can invite them to a contest of zeal and endurance in the effort to restore to the people the rights which have gradually been taken from them by the trusts."

Crap Shooters Beware.

Five negroes, Barney Dashiell, Ben Handy, Harold Powell, Dorman and Sid Wright were arrested last Sunday night by night watchman, James Crouch and Policeman Woodland Disharoon, for shooting crap in W. B. Tilghman Co's shingle yard. A large bunch of blacks were shooting crap between some piles of shingles by the aid of candles. The policemen picked five and got the names of five others. They were tried before Justice Trader Monday morning and fined $3.75 each.

Every Time The Clock Ticks.

Life in a big city has so many phases that every few weeks a new one is discovered and made the subject of analysis. A statistical expert on the New York Tribune has been tempted by the subject, and the following is the result of his investigations:

Every fifty five seconds a train enters the city and unloads several hundred passengers.

Every forty eight minutes a ship enters the harbor, either from a foreign country or a coast port.

Every forty seconds an immigrant enters this city, and every two and two thirds of a minute one takes up his residence there.

Every six minutes a child is born.

Every seven minutes a funeral is held.

Every hour and three quarters somebody is struck down in an accident; every ten hours there is a suicide; every two days a murder.

Every thirteen minutes a man and woman marry.

Every ten seconds a new law suit is started.

Every twelve hours a new lawyer starts out in search of still more litigation.

Messrs L. S. Short & Company have purchased the most marketable of the late T. B. Phelps on Beach Street and moved from Fifth Street to the Phelps Stand. Telephone number now 123. Messrs. Wilkes Bros. occupy the store vacated by Short.

BEES AND BEE KEEPING

ADVANTAGES OF EXCLUDER

Prevents the Deposition of Eggs in Partly Filled Sections.

If the brood apartment has been much contracted when the supers were added, the queen may go into the sections and deposit eggs unless prevented by the insertion of a queen excluder as shown in illustration. This, merely a sheet of zinc with perforations which permit workers, but not the queen, to pass, is placed between the brood apartment and the supers. The great inconvenience of having brood in some of the sections is thereby prevented.

When the honey in the sections has been nearly capped over, the super may be fitted up and another added, between the sections and the apartments. Or, should the strength of the colony not be sufficient, or the harvest not abundant enough to warrant the giving of so much space, the sections which are completely finished may be removed and the partly finished ones used as "bait sections" to encourage work in another set of sections on this hive or in new supers elsewhere. The objections to the removal of sections one by one, and brushing the bees from them, are (1) the time it takes, and (2) the danger that the bees when disturbed, and especially if smoked, will bite open the capping and begin the removal of the honey, thus injuring the appearance of the completed sections.

Prevention of Swarming.

The most commonly practiced and easily applied preventive measure is that of giving abundant room for storage of honey, says the Agricultural Bulletin. This to be effective should be given early in the season, before the bees get fairly into the swarming notion, and the honey should be removed frequently, unless additional empty combs can be given in the case of colonies managed for extracted honey, while those storing in sections should be given additional supers before those already on are completed. With colonies run for comb honey it is not so easy to keep down swarming as in those run for extracted honey and kept supplied with empty comb. Free ventilation and shading of the hives as soon as warm days come will also tend toward prevention. Opening the hives once or twice weekly and destroying all queen cells that have been commenced will check swarming for a time in many instances, and is a plan which seems very thorough and the most plausible of any to beginners. But sometimes swarms issue without waiting to form cells; it is also very difficult to find all cells without shaking the bees from each comb in succession, an operation which, besides consuming much time, is very laborious when supers have to be removed, and greatly disturbs the labors of the bees. If but one cell is overlooked the colony will still swarm. The plan therefore leaves at best much to be desired, and is in general not worth the effort it cost and can not be depended on.

Hearing Queen Bees.

Few bee keepers are so situated that they can with profit rear their own breeding stock. It is the rule in some apiaries to choose the queen from the colony with the best honey records as the breeder for the following year, but this, while seemingly good policy, leads to serious errors. Unless it is certain that the queen is of pure stock or of a fixed cross she should not be used, for it is a well-known fact that when a first cross is used as a breeder the resulting offspring are most variable. Queen rearing can not be carried on without careful attention, but the methods are not, as many believe, so complicated as to make it impossible for the honey producer to afford the time. The beginner in bee keeping can scarcely expect to rear good queens during the first year, and no one can hope to do so until he becomes well acquainted with the habit of bees.

Substitute for Pollen.

Bees can be stimulated to early brood rearing by putting out some kind of finely ground meal or flour, which they will take as a substitute for pollen, says Field and Farm. Beekeepers vary in their opinion as to what is best, but commonly recommend rye, oats, or pea meal. Common wheat flour, wheat middlings, corn meal, barley meal and malt all have their advocates. The order of preference as nearly as can be judged is as follows: Ground whole kernels of oats, cottonseed meal, pea meal, wheat flour, rye meal, and barley meal. The three last named will hardly be touched so long as others are accessible.

Test of Woman's Ability.

If a girl has successfully nursed three kittens to maturity and good habits she is competent to bring up seven children.—Somerville Journal.

Starving Russian Students.

Many of the 1,500 Russian students in Paris are said to be starving owing to the stoppage of the remittances which they have been accustomed to receive from their relatives at home. Most of them have been receiving $15 a month, but many have lived on as little as $10.

DISAPPEARING WINDOW SASH.

Possesses Special Advantages Over the Form Now in Use.

The modern window sash with its large panes of glass does not obstruct the view very much when opened, as it did in the old days, when the glass manufacturers only knew how to make the small panes then in vogue, but nevertheless the open door, in summer, is always more inviting than the open window. Of course, the double sash window, as commonly designed, only admits of being half opened, that is, it may be put either up or down, but affords an opening but half the size of the frame. The illustration shows a new conception in window architecture, in which the sashes disappear entirely at will. A casement or pocket is provided below the sash, into which they disappear, and a movable sill covers the sash in this position, giving a suitable finish to the opening. This sliding sill carries in its ends recesses for the retention of the sash cords, locking the sash securely in the concealed position. When the weather is warm the window is transformed into an unobstructed opening, and when the weather is cold or stormy the sill is adjusted and the sash raised and locked in position, when they resemble the ordinary window construction.

Shoe Sense.

The shoe should be three-fourths of an inch longer than the foot, for the foot works forward in walking. Short shoes force the toes back and finally the joints become distorted and bulge out on the sides and above. Thus corns, bunions and other disorders are developed. Careful attention should be paid to the care of shoes. Shoes made on your last will preserve the shape if used in the shoes when they are not worn.

Walking shoes should not be worn in the house, neither should the same pair be worn on consecutive days, thus giving them a chance to rest.

If the shoes are cleaned every day and oiled once a month, they will last much longer. Oil them, especially on the soles and about the stitches where the uppers join the soles. For this purpose castor oil is very good.

The heels should always be kept in good repair. Rubber heels will prevent the jarring that comes from contact of the heels with pavement. Be careful always to have fresh leaces and ribbons in your shoes. Nothing so marks a woman untidy as worn ribbons or flowing, stringy shoe ties.

Said About Women.

With cleverness, thirty years and a little beauty, a woman makes fewer conquests but more durable ones.—Dupuy.

Tears are the strength of women.

—Saint-Evremond.

A woman's best qualities do not reside in her intellect, but in her affections. She gives refreshment by her sympathies rather than by her knowledge.—Smiles.

A woman's thoughts run before her actions.—Shakespeare.

It is valuable to a woman to be young unless pretty, or to be pretty unless young.—La Rochefoucauld.

Silence and modesty are the best ornaments of women.—Burleigh.

The plainest man who pays attention to women will sometimes succeed as well as the handsomest who does not.—Colton.

Between two beings susceptible to love, the duration of love depends upon the first resistance of the woman, or the obstacles that society puts in their way.—Balzac.

The great secret of French cooking is a knowledge of the variety of food to be had, plenty of time to prepare the food and a slow fire.

American cooks are in so much of a hurry that when they prepare a turkey they imagine that what is necessary is plenty of fuel and a roaring hot fire.

With meats this simply bakes or incinerates the fibers, instead of permitting the juices to perform their proper functions. And this "turkey" system is what is slowly, perhaps, but surely making Americans a race of dyspeptics.

Utidy Man.

General slovenliness in the matter of dress has been steadily growing among us for several years past. There is no harm in a young man being a bit of a dandy. It is better than the slovenliness which seems to have become universal of late years, even at the universities.—The Sketch.

WE CAN UNDERSSELL ANY FIRM IN MARYLAND

To begin with we are the Largest Combined Horse and Carriage Dealers, Manufacturers and Livestock in the world. In the year 1905 we sold over 22,000 horses, mules and ponies and every one at a wholesale price of $250 per head profit. Whether you are a dealer or not, makes no difference; one man's money is as good as another's with us, and our Genuine Wholesale Prices at Retail is one of the important reasons why you should pay us a visit before buying, no matter what inducement may appear on the face of the other fellow's argument.

Democratic Ticket. FOR CONGRESS: HON. THOMAS A. SMITH, Of Caroline County.

THE TWO CANDIDATES.

Again has the Republican nomination for Congress been thrust upon Hon. William H. Jackson, of Salisbury, and the political "hymn" with which he is exceedingly familiar, has been given out with great gusto and feeling by patriotic followers, who now expect him to "sing."

One or the other of the two candidates now before the people of the First Maryland District will represent them in the Sixtieth Congress, and the people have some eight weeks in which to weigh the qualifications of the candidates and decide which of the two shall receive their suffrages for the important post of Representative in the Congress of the United States.

It cannot be said that the people of this District have not had abundant opportunity for judging between the candidates whom the Democratic party and the Republican party have chosen.

The place of Congressman was surely not created by the founders of the nation for the gratification of an ambition which is purely selfish, but rather for the purpose of giving to the people of the States one federal body in which they should be proportionately represented; and to be represented, it is necessary that the occupant of that place should be one whose strength and activities are devoted solely to the onerous task of serving his constituents and his State and his country.

He does this who is to be found in Washington on every legislative day; who is accessible to his constituents; who not only attends two committee meetings in two whole Congresses, but who is not conspicuous by his absence from any committee meeting in one session; who does not content himself with an occasional visit to the House and an infrequent and unconsidered vote on public measures, but who faithfully follows the debates and course of legislation and is ready, when the occasion demands, to present the interests and sentiment of his own people.

Care of One's Clothing.

If mud stains on a skirt of black cloth are difficult to remove, try rubbing them with a slice of raw potato.

A bottle of camphor or oil of cedar with the cork left out, if hung on a hook in the closet, will keep away moths without imparting a disagreeable odor to the clothing.

To clean velvet first brush or shake out all of the dust and remove any grease stains with benzine. If it needs freshening pass the wrong side first over a bowl of boiling water and then over a hot iron.

If furs have become flat and oily looking about the neck, they may be made fresh and new looking by rubbing the fur the wrong way with hot bran. Furs that are wet should never be dried in front of a stove or an open fire, but should be allowed to dry slowly without the aid of artificial heat.

"Crusoe's" Island Doomed.

Lima, Peru.—The Island of Juan Fernandez, off the Chilean coast, is reported, was destroyed by the earthquake. The island belonged to Chile and on it was a penal settlement and a fort.

Juan Fernandez was very mountainous and sparsely settled like the Galapagos Islands. It was about twice the size of the Island of Oahu, on which Honolulu is situated.

Juan Fernandez is the island made famous by Daniel DeFoe as the scene of the adventures of Robinson Crusoe. That thrilling tale, which was published in 1719 in the London Post and afterward translated into many languages and published in scores of editions, was based on the adventures on Juan Fernandez of Alexander Selkirk, a privateer's man, whom De Foe met after his rescue from the island.

Selkirk was born in Fifeshire, Scotland. He ran away and joined a privateering expedition in the South Seas. In 1704, while aboard the Cinque Ports, a sort of pirate ship he quarreled with the captain and at his own request was put ashore on an unexplored island which later was named Juan Fernandez. Many of the adventures ascribed to Robinson Crusoe, notably the salvage of stores from a wrecked ship and the terror inspired by visiting parties of savages, were actual experiences of Selkirk. He remained on the lonely but fruitful island off the Chilean coast for four years and four months, and was rescued by Captain Woodes Rogers captain of a privateer. He again went to sea, and became a naval lieutenant on H. M. S. Weymouth, on which he died in 1723.

We like best to call SCOTT'S EMULSION a food because it stands so emphatically for perfect nutrition. And yet in the matter of restoring appetite, of giving new strength to the tissues, especially to the nerves, its action is that of a medicine.

HOW TO REACH MEN.

Sep. 2, '06—(Luke 18:35:19:1-10).

This is one of the perpetual themes of discussion in religious conventions. When all other subjects fall they can always fall back upon this one: "How to reach the masses!" And usually those who are the least able to do it, seem to know the most about it. There is no mystery about it. The question was settled long ago. There are only two essentials: First, you must really want to reach men. Second, you must go for them.

Jesus Christ had no difficulty about reaching men. And there is not a word of advice, in all his addresses as to means and methods to be pursued. Theological students get plenty of instruction in ways as to how to reach men, advice which they seldom use after they graduate.

The most unpopular man in the city of Jericho was the tax collector and Publican Zaccheus. He was a Jew who had purchased the tax-collector's office of the Roman government, and who had made his countrymen smart under his exacting and unjust assessments.

It is interesting to note that the sale of the propounded in these proceedings is reported by Chas. O. Mel-Trieste, be ratified and confirmed because to the contrary be in on or before the 1st day of August next. Provided, a copy of Order be inserted in some newspaper in each of three successive weeks the 25 day of August next.

HE WAS STUNG. The Lady Gave a Satisfactory Reason Why He Could Not Be Seem.

In the cross-examination of a woman called to the witness-stand in a recent trial at Pittsburg one of the first questions put to the lady was: "At what time of the night was it that you saw the prisoner in your room?" "About two o'clock," said the witness.

Other Kind of Beans. Harold:—What kind of beans are these, Mother? Mother:—Lima beans, dear. Harold:—Why don't you have human beans, Mother, I often hear you speak of them.

Degrees by Instalment. They seem to have queer ways of getting their D. D.'s in, and from America. The story goes that recently a congregation in one of the Southern States was anxious to get a high degree for their pastor.

Not His Denomination. "Now, look here, sir," exclaimed the gamekeeper, imperatively, "didn't you see the notice at the end of this road, 'Pedestrians not allowed'?"

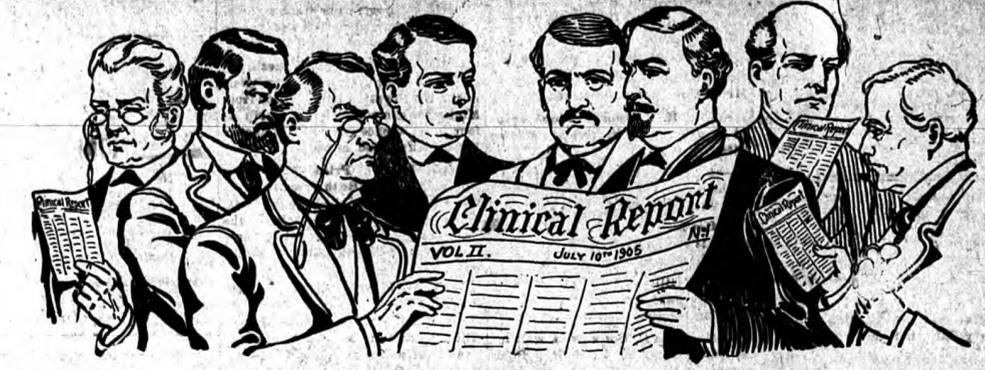

Co-Laborer in the Great Work. "What's all this racket about?" demanded the policeman, who had heard sounds indicating a disturbance while passing the building, and deemed it his duty to investigate.

Modern Methods. "We have some fine sausage," ventured the waiter. "Keep it." "How about a taste of ham?" "Cut it out."

Incidentals. "This bill for your new frock is really a bit high," observed the plutocrat to his daughter. "Six thousand dollars is considerable to pay just for an auto suit."

WORKS WONDERS.

A Wonderful Compound. Cures Piles, Eczema, Skin Itching, Skin Eruptions, Cuts and Bruises.

Doan's Ointment is the best skin treatment, and the cheapest, because so little is required to cure. It cures piles after years of torture. It cures obstinate cases of eczema. It cures all skin itching. It cures skin eruptions. It heals cuts, bruises, scratches and abrasions without a scar. It cures permanently. Salisbury testimony proves it.

Henry C. Anderson, farmer residing one mile north of Salisbury, says: "Doan's Ointment is without an exception the best preparation of the kind I ever used. I have used it myself and also in my family for cuts, bruises, burns and in fact for all purposes for which the use of an ointment is indicated. I think it has no equal. I cheerfully give it my endorsement and advise others to go to White and Leonard's drug store, procure a box and give it a fair trial if in need of such a preparation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster—Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

—London—Walter Wellman, leader of the Wellman Arctic expedition, telegraphs from Spitzbergen, August 14, via Hammerfest, Norway that the completion of the balloon house has been greatly delayed owing to the magnitude of the work. Many minor defects have been discovered in the mechanical parts of the airship, and these are being remedied as fast as possible. The motors work excellently and the balloon part of the airship is in good condition.

Mr. Wellman says it will still be possible, weather permitting, to get away toward the Pole during the first week of September. The buildings erected will provide a valuable plant for next year's operations if a start is not made this year.

WAS A VERY SICK BOY.

But Cured By Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

When my boy was two years old he had a very severe attack of bowel complaint, but by the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy we brought him out all right," says Maggie Hickox, of Midland, Mich. This remedy can be depended upon in the most severe cases. Even cholera infantum is cured by it. Follow the plain printed directions and a cure is certain. For sale by O. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

Pain From A Burn Promptly Relieved By Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

A little child of Michael Strauss, of Vernon, Conn., was recently in great pain from a burn on the hand, and as cold applications only increased the inflammation, Mr. Strauss came to Mr. James N. Nichols, a local merchant for something to stop the pain. Mr. Nichols says: "I advised him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and the first application drew out the inflammation and gave immediate relief. I have used this liniment myself and recommend it very often for cuts, burns, strains and lame back, and have never known it to disappoint." For sale by O. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

The Yucatan exports for 1906 consisted of 597,289 bales of sisal fiber, valued at $39,625,490, Mexican, $117,500 worth of skins and $18,300 worth of chicle. During the last ten years the single product of sisal has produced the enormous sum of $397,000 Mexican silver as income to the state and people.

AUGUST.

All the long August afternoon, The little drowsy stream Whispers a melancholy tune, As if it dreamed of June, And whispered in its dream.

The thistles show beyond the brook Dust on their down and bloom, And out of many a weed-krown nest The aster flowers look With eyes of tender gloom.

The silent orchard aisles are sweet With smell of ripening fruit Through the warm grass, in shy retreat Flutter at coming feet, The robins strange and mute.

There is no wind to stir the leaves, The harsh leaves overhead; Only the querulous cricket grieves, And shrilling locust weaves A song of summer dead.

Portland and Seattle rank next to San Francisco in importance among the ports of the Pacific Coast of the United States. In 1900, when San Francisco had 348,000 inhabitants, Portland had 90,000 and Seattle 80,000. Each of these towns are growing much faster than the California metropolises.

Birth-marks which mark and mar the outside of the body are a grief to every mother whose children may bear them. But for every child who bears a birth-mark on the skin there are many who bear an indelible birth-mark on the mind. Nervous mothers have nervous children and many a man and woman owes an irritable and despondent temperament to those days of dread when the mother waited the hour of her maternity. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription strengthens the mother for her trial. With strength comes a buoyancy of spirits and quietness of mind which is one of the happiest gifts a mother can bestow on her offspring. By giving vigor and elasticity to the delicate womanly organs "Favorite Prescription" practically does away with the pain of maternity and makes the baby's advent as natural and as simple as the blossoming of a flower. There is no opium, cocaine or other narcotic contained in "Favorite Prescription."

"An oven or stove should never be built where the sun will strike it," said an architect. "Sunlight puts a fire out, you know."

"I had often heard from old women that fires would not burn well if the sun shone on them, but I thought this was a superstition. I thought the fires only seemed to burn less well because the bright light of the sun made their flames look pale and weak. I was wrong, though."

"It is a fact that sunlight, on a range or stove, will weaken and eventually extinguish the fire. The reason is that the sun's rays hinder combustion, rarefying the air and lessening the bulk of oxygen so necessary to a good bright blaze."

JOHN H. PHELPS, Scranton, Pa. Gentlemen: Your Night Caps were almost thrust upon me by a friend who evidently knows a thing or two. Shortly after the middle of last January I was in a state of almost complete nervous exhaustion, arising from excessive business effort, resulting in inability to sleep and mental depression. My physician for two months treated me, at a large expense, for nervous prostration, advised complete rest for an indefinite period. At that time, a vacation was impossible. Fortunately for me, I was then introduced to Night Caps. Strangely I tried them. One-half a box seemed to brace my nerves within a week I could sleep. With sleep came a return of normal health and I feel like myself again. I have recovered my normal weight. You may be very sure that I now keep Night Caps constantly on hand, particularly as an assistant in case of over indulgence at table. If, at any time, you should deem it wise, or to your advantage, to refer anyone to me, do not. I will be very glad to write inquirers about it. I would suggest, however, that you instruct them to enclose stamp for reply, for I have reasons to believe that I might find myself financially embarrassed if inquiries come from all who need your remedy. Kindly withhold this letter from publication. Believe me, Very truly yours, HARRY W. CROSS.

QUANT SUPERSTITIONS

Belief in Charms Held by Those Bred in Rural England.

SCENE AT CHURCH DOOR

Cures For Whooping Cough—When a Kitten at Table Signifies Good Luck—Ridding a Child of Disease—Curative Properties Possessed by Toads.

How strongly some of the strange folk-lore and superstitious beliefs still survive in some of the rural parts of Devonshire is illustrated by the following incident, which took place at Sotcombe, and which is thus described by the rector, Rev. F. G. Scrivener.

"On Sunday the parish church of Sotcombe, a small village between Holworthy and Hartland, was the scene of a revival of an interesting old faith cure. A woman in the parish has of late been a sufferer from epileptic fits, and at the persuasion of a neighbor, who nineteen years ago had done the same thing, and had not suffered from fits since, she went around the parish and got thirty married men promise to attend the parish church at the morning service.

"At the close of the service the rector desired the selected men to pass out one by one, and as they passed through the church they found the woman seated there, accompanied by the neighbor who had done the same thing nineteen years ago (as many who were present remembered). Each man as he passed out put a penny in the woman's lap, but when the thirtieth man (the rector's church warden) came he took the twenty-nine pennies and put in half a crown. A silver ring is to be made out of this half crown, which the woman is to wear, and it is to be hoped that the result will be as satisfactory in her case as it was on the previous occasion.

Another extraordinary belief still prevalent is that a child will recover from whooping cough if, while the dew is on the ground, it is laid face downward where a sheep has been sleeping. Sheep are sometimes driven into the farmyards over night so that the farmers' wives make the more easily try this reputed remedy in the morning.

When, as of course frequently happens, the little sufferers are not relieved, it is said that the parents have not had sufficient faith.

There are cases on record where mothers have taken their offspring and placed them for a few moments in graves prepared for the reception of a body of the opposite sex, in the belief that they will thereafter not suffer any more of the infirmities that children are heir to.

Toads are supposed by many Devonians to possess remarkably curative properties. Persons suffering from sores of any kind are recommended to wear the corresponding part of a toad tied up in a little bag, or otherwise, attached to the person. As a people, nothing like a fat pig; which has to be placed on the parts affected. To cure an adder's bite the victim has to catch an adder, fry it, and put it on the spot where he was bitten.

The number of Devonshire superstitions regarding cats is extraordinarily large. If puss sits with her back to the fire it is a sign that there will be cold weather. The coming of a stranger may be expected if a cat, when washing her face, puts her paw above either of her ears.

Many Devonian housewives will not on any account allow a kitten to be in the house at the same time as a baby, fearing that in such a case harm would come to the infant. In other households, kittens born in May are always killed. The reason assigned for this harsh proceeding is that "May kittens bring home the evil." Being interpreted, this means that when they grow up they will not be content with killing rats and mice, but capture and carry home all sorts of unpleasant creeping things.

The only time when kittens are regarded as being absolutely essential in a Devonshire household is when thirteen persons are expected to sit down to dinner. In such a case a kitten has to take a place on one of the guest's knees at the table. This makes thirteen at table lucky instead of unlucky.

Between superstition and witchcraft there is not a very wide gulf; but although reputed witches are not nearly so numerous in Devonshire as they were even a dozen years ago, there are a good many modern practitioners of black art in the county.

Names Indians Have Left Us. In the United States we find "Indian" names in profusion from ocean to ocean. All the great lakes except Superior, the largest rivers—Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, and Arkansas—and countless other natural features, such as rivers, lakes, mountains and valleys, bear names of Indian origin. So do a majority of our States, to say nothing of counties and towns. Many are of striking beauty. In the instance, Tippecanoe, Minnesota, Susquehanna, Alabama—and some are harsh, they seem to be "in" remarkably well.

Odd Numbers in Rooms. It is the number of rooms in a house, or windows or doors in a room, or even of ranges on a ladder, that always odd. From numbers 1 to 10, 11 is the only odd number.

A "PERSUADED" PRISONER.

The Condition of the Man Showed How Strong It Was Made to Be.

The resourceful man is the one who succeeds. There is a deputy marshal in Alabama who does not let any such trifles as extradition laws stop him. A writer in the Washington Post tells a story of one of his achievements. When the term of court was about to begin one time, a man who was out on bail was reported to be enjoying himself over in Georgia.

Deputy Jim went after him. The next day he telegraphed the judge: "I have persuaded him to come." A few days later he rode into town on a mule, leading his prisoner, tied up snugly with clothe-line. The prisoner looked as if he had seen hard service.

"Why, Jim!" exclaimed the judge. "You didn't make him walk all the way from Georgia, did you?"

"No, sir," replied Jim. "I thought not," said the judge. "No," responded Jim. "Part of the way I drug him, and when we came to the Tallapoosa River he swam."

The Youthful Realist.

"Mamma, what's the boy in the fifth row, who was looking with open-eyed wonder at the scenery and stage setting, 'there's the moon!'"

"Yes, dear."

"It's a real moon, too!"

"Sh, dear!"

He was quiet for five minutes, and then he spoke again.

"Say, mamma, what's the reason we didn't see the moon while we were coming here in the carriage?"

"Donald, you mustn't talk so loud. People will hear you."

"Yes, but I want to know."

"I'll tell you all about it after the play is over. You must keep quiet now, or I shall have to take you out."

"That held him for nearly half an hour. Then he broke loose again.

"Mamma," he said, with ineffable disgust, "that moon hasn't moved one bit, either up or down! It's a fake!"—Chicago Tribune.

Resorbent Repetee.

Ole Read recently made a trip through Arkansas on horseback. He lost his way, and rode up to where a squatter was sitting, his saddle by his side. "Jes' ridin' or a-goin' somewhere?" asked the squatter with little show of interest. "I was going somewhere," answered Read, "but I've lost my way and now I'm just riding. How do you get to the next town?" "Ridin' or walkin'?" "Where do I hit the road?" "Hit it on the side or in the middle, or if you-all get close 'nuff you-all can hit with a stick." "Are there any forks to the road?" "No forks 't all, mister, jes' straight as a string."

"You're a fool," Mr. Read said, losing his temper. "Yes, sir, maybe so," answered the squatter, taking up the fiddle and drawing the bow carelessly over the strings, "but I ain't lost."—The Argonaut.

But Never Call Him Early.

He—Funny thing about your sex. Call a woman a bird and she's pleased; but call her a hen or an old crow and she gets angry.

She—Nothing exclusively feminine about that. Call a man a sad dog and he feels good, but call him a miserable cur—the same thing—and he'll knock your head off.—Boston Transcript.

He Felt Slighted.

Mr. Lakeside (of Chicago)—Curse all newspapers and reporters, anyway!

Mrs. Lakeside—Why, Jackson! What's the matter?

Mr. Lakeside—Not a single one of them has devoted more than an inch of space to my hold-up last night; and after me taking pains to give the hold-up reporters all particulars of my loss, the position I occupy in North Side society, and my rating in Bradstreet!—Puck.

How Is This For High.

Senator Clay of Georgia was once showing a constituent the sights of the national capital when the Washington Monument was reached.

"What do you think of it?" carelessly asked the Senator, as the constituent stood gazing in awe at the stately shaft.

"Senator," responded the Georgian gravely, "that's the darnedest, highest one-story building I've ever seen!"—American Spectator.

She Paid the Paint Bill.

In Brookline, a short time ago, a woman was brought into court, charged with intoxication. She was fined $10, and as she arose she said to the judge: "Well, I suppose you need this $10 to help paint your house!"

"Oh, you," said his Honor; "I think you had better give me $5 more, and I guess I'll paint the blinds." The fine was promptly made $15.—The Green Bay

THE DEATH OF THE POET

By BARRY PAIN

The young man had a glass eye, which was by no means a perfect fit, a position in life as assistant to a grocer in Fulham, which was extremely distasteful to him, and a passion for a girl called Annie, which seemed absolutely hopeless. The young man himself was fully content. He knew that it was from such a furnace as this that the pure gold of poetry was extracted. He took to doing a little poetry in his leisure hours.

It was very much like other poetry; that is to say, it was neither very bad nor very good. The leisure hours were limited, and this limited the supply of the poetry. There was not enough for a volume. Perhaps there never would be. That which was already written did not entirely satisfy the young man's nice and critical taste. He would have recast it again and again if he had the money. Much meditation on the poignancy of this situation led him to the decision that when he was dead, with the green grass growing over him, after his name, carved in a simple headstone, should come the effective words, "Who died unexpressed." It was some regret to him that he could never live to see it.

Most of his poems were addressed to Annie, who was a practical young lady. A girl who is called Annie is almost certain to be practical. He would, without much encouragement read these poems to her. Then she would say "Thank you," and look very doubtful. He did not like the look. He went so far as to ask her if she did not think he was right in using the one talent that heaven had given him.

"Well, I don't know about that," said Annie. "It's nothing to me, and you've got to suit yourself. Of course, it's better that you should spend your time over this writing than if you stopped boozing in the public house all night—same as some do. My two brothers make picture frames in the evening and sell them, too. It's not for me to advise, but why don't you try the picture frames? Besides, ought you to go on writing poems about me when you know perfectly well there's nothing in it? I like you well enough so far as you go, but if ever I take a husband it'll be somebody in a far different position than you. Just think about that."

At that moment he was extremely annoyed and had to be pulled up by Annie with a sharp jerk. Afterwards he did go away and think about it, and all the while he was thinking about it a respectable soap-boller of moderate fortune passed peacefully away.

By the death of the soap boller, who was indeed his uncle, the young man was placed in a very different position. Annie received the news from him in a brief and extremely business-like note. Her mother agreed that it was clearly her duty to go round and see about it. She would be able to catch him at the shop in Fulham on her way to work. He was not at the shop, and she was informed that he had resigned his post. She had just time to go on to his lodgings. But he was not there either. He was at the moment engaged in the purchase of one of the very best glass eyes that money could buy. It was a triumph. He himself could only tell the difference between the real eye and the artificial by shutting first one lid and then the other. His self-respect grew tremendously.

Annie, who, as I have said, was quite practical, did not forget that August 9 was his birthday and sent him a pair of slippers which she had worked with her own hands. She thought the acknowledgment which she received of her gift was a little too formal. She was driven so far toward desperation that in a perfectly needless letter of reply she asked him to send her any poetry that he had been doing lately, and he never wrote a single line.

Just once, as he enjoyed his afternoon cigarette, he did recall the simple headstone and the proposed inscription. "Who died with nothing to express" occurred to him. But he did not worry about it. He had promised to take a girl out on the water that afternoon, a remarkably pretty girl, too. He went in search of her, whistling as he went.

Is Disease a Crime?

Not very long ago, a popular magazine published an editorial article in which the writer asserted, in substance, that all disease should be regarded as criminal. Certain it is, that much of the sickness and suffering of mankind is due to the violation of certain of Nature's laws. But to say that all sickness should be regarded as a crime, must appeal to every reasonable individual as radically wrong.

It would be harsh, unsympathetic, cruel, and criminal to condemn the poor, weak, over-worked housewife who sinks under the heavy load of household cares and burdens, and suffers from weakness, various displacements of pelvic organs and other derangements peculiar to her sex.

Excess bearing of children, with its exacting demands upon the system, coupled with the care, worry and labor of rearing a large family, is often the cause of weaknesses, derangements and debility which are aggravated by the many household cares, the hard, and never-ending work which the mother is called upon to perform. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is especially adapted for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription says that one of the great mistakes in the treatment of this class of maladies is the fact that the poor over-worked housewife can not get the proper rest from her many household cares and labor to enable her to secure from weakness, various displacements of pelvic organs and other derangements peculiar to her sex.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on request of patients to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. J. C. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

POULTRY

POULTRY ON THE SMALL FARM. Prove a Profitable Investment With Little Initial Outlay.

It should be comparatively easy to raise poultry successfully on the average farm, and to make it pay. Most fowls are natural foragers and scavengers, and much is utilized by them that otherwise would almost go to waste.

To achieve good results requires care and vigilance. The lowest cost compatible with satisfactory results should be aimed at. If you live on a small farm, your flock cannot have the same free range that the flock raised on a large farm has.

Take care that the poultry yard is kept clear of rubbish that would be foul to it. Supply the scratching shed with light litter of straw and corn husks.

Feed your poultry whatever is edible that cannot be used on the table, and see that all waste and litter from the garden ultimately finds its way to the compost pile.

Interest in the pecan industry is steadily increasing in the South; where its cultivation is carried to the highest point. In the illustration is shown the method of budding and grafting, the success of which depends upon the size and age of the tree.

1. Dormant buds inserted in sprouts. 2. Branches cut back and cleft grafted. shape for working: i. e., if no branches of desirable size and age are found in convenient place, the tree is trimmed to a pollard, cutting the main branches back to stubs, and when shoots have started from these, they are grafted or budded.

Blood and Egg Production. Fresh blood from the slaughter house is well adapted to egg production.
