WHY IS IT?

You can buy horses, mares and mules at King's for less money than elsewhere. One reason is he sells more horses than all the dealers in Baltimore combined. Another reason is, while our horse and mule business is the largest of any in Baltimore City, (stabling capacity 600 head and continuously receiving consignments from the breeders all over America), it is only one branch of the immense business. We carry in stock 1000 vehicles of every kind, of which a large selection is suitable for country use, at lowest factory prices. The final reason is, we are THE LARGEST COMBINED HORSE AND MULE DEALERS, LIVRETTES, CARRIAGE WAGON AND HARNESS MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

THE FARMERS WORLD

Of Culture. Grains, Fruits And Vegetables Promise Welcome Harvests. Favorable Weather Producing Good Results.

Fine growing weather was characteristic of the past week. Heavy rainfall occurred in all sections. Notwithstanding the precipitation was generally copious, there was but little damage by hail and washing and practically no damage by high winds. In some localities grains were lodged by wind, but recovery was general. The beginning of the week was very warm, and seasonably warm weather prevailed throughout producing rapid growth.

Harvesting Grain And Haying.

Wheat and rye harvest began during the week in nearly all portions of the Section, but wet weather suspended this work. Intermittent work was possible in parts of Southern Maryland, however, and harvesting was completed in St. Mary's County, where the showers early in the week were light and did not interfere. Except in Anne Arundel County, where some is dropping wheat is not overripe. Injury to cut wheat does not appear to have been great, and there is but little complaint of rust and none of lodging. Indications for this crop have not changed, a better than average quantity of good quality being anticipated. Corn, responding to favorable weather conditions, is making rapid growth and is in promising condition; while many fields are somewhat grassy, the crop in this respect is generally fair. Oats are heading nicely and are very promising, having a good stand and fine length of straw. Hay grasses have improved materially, but are still short and do not promise a good yield. Haying is progressing as rapidly as conditions permit, but much hay was damaged by rain during the week. Pastures are fine. Buckwheat sowing in Western Maryland has been delayed by wet ground.

Fruits Promising.

Blackberries and raspberries are ripening and some are being marketed. Small fruits are all heavily set and fine in quality. Early apples are beginning to ripen. A fair crop of apples and pears is indicated, and a light yield of peaches.

Potatoes, throughout the Section are unusually promising, early varieties being now in general use and late varieties advancing finely. Gardens are in prime condition.

Eastern Section.

Cecil county—Wheat about ready for binder; some grain and grass lodged; some corn fields washed, but corn looks well and is fairly clean; much hay spoiled by rain; potatoes vigorous and promising; oats heading finely; gardens good. Kent county—Weather unfavorable for harvesting and considerable wheat uncut, corn grassy, tomatoes and all other vegetables look fine. Talbot county—Harvest is general; fair crop of wheat; early potatoes fair and on market; vegetables plentiful. Dorchester County.—Harvest much interrupted, corn growing rapidly and improved. Wicomico County—Wheat being harvested under unfavorable weather conditions; crops doing well, especially corn; oats fine; potatoes and garden stuff fair. Worcester County—Wheat harvest retarded and grain getting overripe; corn doing well and being worked; gardens and tomatoes fine; early apples ripening; blackberries ripe, but in places are not abundant.

NEWSY ITEMS OF MARDELA.

Collections Being Made For Lights. Notes Of Breezy Interest From Our Correspondent.

There seems to be renewed activity in bottling our spring water. The medicinal properties are surely good and all that is necessary is to push the sales in the large cities. The owners of the hotel are having the house and grounds put in order. There are some rumors about town that the hotel will be in use soon. It is a fine location and a much needed place for the entertainment of the traveling public.

This week a large tree in front of Mr. Albert Bound's property, fell across the telephone wires and smashed four of the strans. The workmen who repaired the wires attracted quite a number of the small boys of the town who in opened-mouth wonder watched the process of climbing the poles. Rev. Mr. Perry had just passed under the tree when it came down with a crash. Fortunately that he had gotten beyond its reach.

The lighting of our streets is now about a certainty. Collections are being made this week and it is expected that the lamps will be put up in a few days. It is a pity that all of our citizens do not help in this much needed improvement. They are willing to have the lamps but some are not willing to help pay for them. What we need is public spirited men.

At the Baptist Association last week in Cambridge, Rev. Mr. Parker's doctrinal sermon was so much appreciated that the body ordered it printed and scattered broad cast. It is now in the hands of the printer.

The prices of white potatoes are so low that the truckers do not know what to do with them. As it is, they claim that it will not pay to ship them. How much better it would be for our farmers to do as the truckers do in Jersey. They have large cellars and pits walled up and then when prices are low, they store their potatoes and keep them until prices will pay. It would pay our farmers to do likewise. The first cost of the cellar may seem considerable, but they would pay for themselves in one or two years. It is senseless for us to give away our hard earned crops, and it is just as senseless to let the commission men and the railroads have all the profit. By a wise combination, we could to a large extent, control these matters ourselves.

Rev. Mr. Truitt is succeeding splendidly in raising funds to pay for the improvements in the M. E. Church. The furniture will be the finest in all these parts. The pulpit and pews are beautiful.

Dr. John M. Elderidge has returned from his examination before the State Board. The young Dr. is getting a hold in the community. The people like him personally. He is finely educated, and having had experience in hospital work, is thoroughly prepared for practice. He has already had success in his practice here, and judging

"NERVOUS AND IRRITABLE."

Per-u-na is Invaluable to Ailing Women.

Miss Celia Harrington, 303 Second Avenue, Detroit, Mich., writes: "Weakness has filled many months of my life with suffering. Through carelessness I caught a severe cold two years ago which settled in catarrh and seriously interfered with the regular functions of the body, and made me nervous and irritable. I began taking Peruna and found in it a faithful helper, as it enriched my blood and invigorated the whole system. I have no pains now and am always well." Female weakness is generally dependent upon catarrh of the pelvic organs. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. by the number of calls he has had, the people intend to stand by him. We, his fellow citizens, are glad to see him succeeding so nicely.

Mr. A. S. Venables is digging a cellar for a new house on Main Street, next to the M. P. Church. Jack Mason is doing the mason work. It will be a fine residence when completed.

Mrs. Walter, son, Reese, and daughter Evelyn, started this week on their annual outing. They will spend a time in Washington and then go to their old home in Virginia.

Rev. B. G. Parker will preach in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday night at 8 o'clock. Being as this is so near the Fourth of July, the sermon will be patriotic. The subject will be "Our Country and Our Flag."

The ladies of Mardela M. P. Church will have a Fourth of July celebration on the lawn of the Hotel property on next Tuesday, July 4th from 2 p. m. until 10.30 p. m. They will have ice cream, cake, confectionaries, fruits etc., for sale. Proceeds for benefit of church.

A memorial service will be held by the members of Riverton Lodge of Knights of Pythias on Sunday afternoon, July 2nd, at three o'clock in Riverton M. P. Church. A special programme has been arranged for the occasion.

Preaching at Mardela M. P. Church Sunday, July 2nd, at 10.30 a. m. and at Hebron at 8 p. m.

Prominent Crisfield Business Man Killed By Lightning.

During a severe thunderstorm at Crisfield Monday evening, Clarence R. Moore, a well known business man of that town was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

Mr. Moore left his home after supper and went to the store of G. C. Lawson, where he engaged in conversation with several friends for several minutes. Leaving the store he went out on the porch in front and took a seat to watch the storm.

There was a brilliant display of lightning and the thunder was almost deafening at times. Suddenly there was a blinding flash, accompanied by a roll of thunder that seemed to shake the store as if by an earthquake.

Those in the place, looking from the door saw Moore sink forward to the floor of the porch, limp and helpless. They hurried to his side and carried him into the store. There were no signs of life, and a physician who was sent for immediately, found that death had been instantaneous. His death occurred at eight o'clock.

Mr. Moore was about 30 years old and had been engaged in business for a long time. He was widely known and very popular.

Notice.

There will be services, D. V., in Stepey and Spring Hill Parishes, on Sunday next, July 2nd as follows: St. Mary's Chapel, Tyaskin, 10.30 a. m. St. Phillips' Chapel, Quantico, 8.00 p. m.

Franklin B. Adkins, Rector.

The class of 1904 of The Salisbury High School held a reunion at the High School building Thursday evening at which were present all of the class except Miss Parker who was unable to attend, being in Philadelphia. Prof. Huntington, Mr. Ward and Mr. Goslee, three of the teachers were present. Mr. Hawks, the Manual Training teacher being absent. The Assembly Rooms were tastefully decorated one with the Class colors, green and gold, and the other with the School colors, red and black. The evening was spent with games and music, and at eleven o'clock refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream, cake, lemonade, punch, salted nuts and bon bons. All spent a very enjoyable evening and their regret was that their class mate could not be with them.

Bishop Coleman is expected to officiate on Sunday next, July 2nd, as follows: A. M., St. Andrew's Church, Ellis Grove, P. M., St. Mark's Church, Little Hill. Evening, All Saints' Church, Delmar.

Salisbury Has Base Ball To Celebrate The Fourth.

The Base Ball season will open in Salisbury on the Fourth of July with two games against the strong Berlin team at the South Salisbury grounds.

Our boys have been practicing faithfully and expect to present a worthy line up to oppose the visitors.

The Starlight Band will be in attendance to enliven the occasion and cheer the home team on.

Enthusiasm has been aroused concerning the ball team and the boys will be supported by a faithful crowd of rooters.

The morning game starts at 10 o'clock and the afternoon game at 3.30 on Salisbury grounds. Admission 15 and 25 cents. Both teams are ready and close games may be expected.

Salisbury's line up will be A. M. Jackson, W. Harmon, W. Betts, W. Perry, C. Schuler, H. Schuler, S. Fields, Virgil Ward, captain and Manager, J. Polk, Gordon Smith, R. K. Truitt and B. Slaughter. C. Schuler, Truitt and B. Slaughter will probably twirl for Salisbury.

On July 7th Salisbury will play Princess Anne two games at the South Salisbury grounds.

PRaise AND CENSURE

Ticket Endorsed. "If Methods Become As Good As The Democratic Nominees, Many Democrats Will Become Highly Gratified."

Editor of the Advertiser.—The Advertiser's approval of the Democratic nominations, as well as its rebuke of the methods used at the primaries in Pittsburg District meets with the approbation of its many friends.

The nominations are generally regarded with favor by Democrats and Republicans, but the contest in Pittsburg is lamentable, and as both sides, so it is said, used the same means, the defeated parties can't complain.

While not condemning the offense, probably it is well not to be too severe in reprehending the parties engaged. It is said that apologies are being made, and that a sense of shame is felt in the calmer moments. This is a hopeful sign of regeneration.

A party worker once said to me that he felt like taking a soaking bath at the close of Election Day. Another said, he could go home and say his prayers. I thought the latter had need to pray and "pray without ceasing." He was a church member, the first wasn't. His condition was better than the latter.

It is unfortunate that the citizens of Pittsburg Election District allowed themselves to be drawn into the current that has been heretofore set in motion by forces outside of the District. The methods were only the product of a condition brought about by the bad management of the leaders in both the Democratic and Republican parties, and by vicious sentiment that a man should not go into politics, unless he goes in to win;—the sentiment of cowards and criminals; of cowards who fear defeat; of criminals like the horse breaker and the highwayman, who go in to get your money and do not balk at murder to get it, if that is necessary "to win." The desire to win is laudable; but the desire to win other than by "fair play" is culpable, and often criminal.

We recall that Pittsburg and Dennis Districts were the pionsers in the Temperance Reform, and from being among the most dissipated and turbulent, they are now among the most peaceable and sober of our citizens. Pittsburg has more Prohibition voters than any District in the county.

It would be a happy co-incident if they should take the lead on Election Reform. A few influential citizens could combine and serve notice that any one in the District or coming there with money for vote buying on Election Day will stand in jeopardy of prison bars; and it already seems that the Republican managers can't get their decent reliable Republicans to use the corruption fund in these districts, and some one is usually sent for that purpose. If the citizens of these Districts could hear the jeers and terms of reproach thrown at them by the managers of both parties, they would rise in indignation. Concerted action by a few citizens of these Districts can secure an honest election in November.

You wisely say "There are forcible instances and evidences that purification in politics is gathering steam and this section already sees its approach." A continuation of corrupt methods is sure to bring a rupture as it did in 1891.

You also suggest "that the Democratic party urge the Republican party to join in a binding contract to buy votes at the Fall election." I have heard Republican and Democratic organization men say that a few men—less than the fingers on one's hand—can stop bribery in Wicomico county. But the organization men of each side say of each other "You can't trust them."

The reputation of the Democratic candidates are such as to warrant us in believing that the Republicans can trust them. If men of like character are nominated by the Republican Convention, these with the Prohibition candidates and the respective party organizations can organize for a honest election—something a multitude of citizens are longing to see.

If there is "honor among thieves," surely there is among politicians in spite of the distrust which they express of each other.

If methods become as good as the Democratic nominees, many Democrats will become highly gratified. We believe the nominees are ready to help. Can't you invite suggestions?
Jas. E. Ellegood.

An Interesting Letter From Rev. J. A. B. Wilson Of Grass Valley, Cal. He Remembers Sharptown His First Appointment.

Mr. Editor:—I was agreeably surprised upon reaching my home from the "Effete East" recently to receive a marked copy of your excellent paper, noted also with interest and gratitude your kindly personal references to me and the sad mission which brought me East. I heard all the evidence which could be adduced against my two life long friends, Dr. Baker and Dr. Corkran, and could not but thank God that while it did reflect on their business judgement and showed an unusual gullibility, yet according to my judgement, there was not one thing in it to reflect upon the moral character of either. To say these things is not the purpose of writing however.

But how many sweet memories of dear Sharptown your article brought to me. I can never forget either in this world or in the other, that first Sabbath, July 24th, 1868, when I opened my commission as a Methodist preacher, a sailor boy not twenty until the 14th of September following, and well do I remember the Fair on July the Fourth, the day before. The brethren insisted on introducing me as the young preacher. I felt compelled to tell them, that I had come to fill that place, but I was no preacher, never having attempted to preach but once before, that I had held exhortor's license about two months only and had been in the church, but two years since. February 25th, I felt the divine call in my soul and had felt it from earliest childhood, but had guarded the secret sacredly and never more so than after my conversion. But the Lord had sent his children and his ministers to me to inquire as to the state of my mind on that subject and to assure me that the church had no question as to the fact, that I ought to be looking toward the ministry. I never denied. I never resisted, but always said, if the Lord wants me, he will open the door, and so he did, but when that great glorious man of blood and iron and tenderness of womanly sympathy, Rev. Vaughn Smith, the Presiding Elder in the name of the Lord, put his hand on me and by vote of the quarterly conference of Milton, Sussex county, Del., licensed me a local preacher and proposed to send me to Pocomoke City with Rev. T. E. Martindale, I said "Brother Smith tell me about the place. What kind of people are they?" He said, "It is a quiet town of 1500 inhabitants, there is a great deal of intelligence and a weekly newspaper published there. That did for me. Hold on Brother Smith, a town of that kind sustaining a newspaper has too much intelligence to endure such service as I can give them. Haven't you a place with a different people. I know those people want a better man than I."

"Yes, you can go to Sharptown. The Senior preacher is a local applying for the work. The salary is small." Pocomoke would pay you a good support for a single man and they have nice homes for you all over the circuit. You had better go there. No Brother Smith, please send me to Sharptown. I don't care about the salary and as for the homes, if the people can live in them every day in the year I can do so for one or two days at a time in a place. They will come nearer enduring me than the other people. "All right then I will send you to Sharptown and so he did, and I shall to the last day of my life thank God for the choice I made. Dear Fatherly old Brother Webb, when I think of his sympathetic forbearance always extended and of the sinical ridicule I should have met from my colleague on the other charge, which alone would have broken my heart and driven me back to sea, I have always been glad that right in the beginning I did interfere in the matter of my appointment.

A Message From Atlanta.

One of the best painters in Atlanta told us the Davis 100 per cent Pure Paint beats anything he ever put a brush into for covering capacity. Says he gave an eight room house one coat with only three gallons, without the additions of any thinners.

BABY GIRL'S AWFUL HUMOR

Would Scab Over, Break Open, and Be Raw—Intense Suffering for Two Years—Doctors and Medicines Failed to Help Her.

CURED BY CUTICURA AT COST OF 75 CENTS

Writing under date of Aug. 15, 1904, Mrs. L. C. Walker, of 5 Tremont St., Woodford, Me., says: "My sister had a terrible humor on her shoulder when she was eighteen months old, causing intense suffering for two years. We had several doctors, and tried everything, but in spite of all we did it kept spreading. One day it would scab over and then crack open and a watery matter ooze from it and the scabs would all fall off. It would be raw for a time, then scab over again. Some one recommended Cuticura, and we immediately procured a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a cake of Cuticura Soap. She was much better after the first bath with warm water and soap, and an application of the Ointment. Before it was half gone we saw a marked change for the better, and she was entirely cured, without a scar being left, by the one box of Ointment and one cake of Soap. Her skin is now entirely clear, and she has not had a sign of trouble since."

100,000 MOTHERS

Daily Tell Other Mothers That Cuticura Soap is the best baby soap in the world for cleansing and purifying the skin, and that Cuticura Ointment is of priceless value for soothing and healing itching, torturing, and disfiguring eruptions, itching, and chafing. A single application of Cuticura Ointment, preceded by a warm bath with Cuticura Soap, gives instant relief, and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies, and rest for tired, fretted mothers. Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Sole Proprietors. Send for "How to Cure Baby Humors."

JAPANESE IMMIGRATION.

It was charged, for instance, that the Japanese disliked Americans; that they worked for starvation wages, and so threw Americans out of employment; that they were prone to vice and crime; that they refused to amalgamate with foreigners, and retained their old standards of living and industry. It was America that opened the doors of Japan, hence it is to America that Japan is thankful. The wage scale of Japan is low, but there is nothing in which the Japanese shows his modernity so thoroughly as in his acceptance of better, as soon as he can get it, and being a conscientious, as well as an industrious worker, he commands what he asks. The moral standard in the east is different from that of our country, but so far as conduct is concerned, it is at least as high as ours. It is rarely that a Japanese openly breaks the laws or brings himself under the reprobation of orderly citizens. As for the refusal of these Oriental Yankees to amalgamate with Americans, the charge is absurd. Japanese learn from everybody. He will dress and speak as nearly like an American as he may, and he will have much more politeness.—New York Globe.

THE EXPORT OF PAUPERS.

We do not wish to appear inhospitable, but neither do we like the prospect opened by the Hon. Edward Lauterbach of making an almshouse of this country. He promises that 90,000 Russian Jews are shortly to immigrate to this port, and they will camp in New York, where over a half million of their co-religionists are awaiting them, a large proportion of their own country, also. So far there is no objection. But Mr. Lauterbach couples this information with the notice that urgent efforts must be made to care for the aged, the infirm—the pauperized, in short—who are to form, as we imagine, a very considerable number of these settlers. We want only those who are qualified to become citizens of this republic. We want to be strengthened by our additions.

If charity must be extended from these shores to the maimed, the halt, the blind, the aged and the ungrateful of Russia, let the money be sent to them in their present home. Do not bring them here. Self-preservation leads us to be stern.—Brooklyn Eagle.

FRIENDS OF THE NEGRO.

The negroes of the south will be fortunate indeed if they ever have again such cordial and sympathetic friendship as that which the so-called "aristocratic class" of the south in ante-bellum days bestowed on the black population. Nor was this kindness confined to the "aristocrats." Stonewall Jackson, while an instructor at the Virginia Military Institute, "taught colored children in Sunday school." There were many men and women in Dixie of gentle birth and high breeding who ministered unto the material as well as the spiritual needs of the slaves. There was perfect trust between whites and blacks—a confidence which was rudely shattered, however, immediately after the war by the alien agents of reconstruction. If this confidence and this friendship can ever be restored the solution of the "race problem" will be made infinitely easier.—Baltimore Sun.

SPEED OF BATTLESHIPS.

We do not build our battleships for the purpose of making the maximum in speed. If we had that purpose in view we would armor them less heavily and reduce their gun equipment. Two salient features of American construction methods which are just now beginning to appeal to the European admiralties. In the qualities of offense and defense, our battleships have always exceeded those of Europe, save only in the one particular of speed. That quality is most essential to a battleship when it is necessary to reach a designated point within a given time, or when the pursuit of a beaten enemy is requisite to complete a victory. But as a general rule the extreme of high speed is less to be preferred than the armament and armor which render the attainment of that extreme impossible.—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE EVILS OF CASTE.

It is easy to point out that upon the official caste of Russia, with its contempt for the common people, rests the blame for the break-up which the world is now witnessing. To those who believe that two or more races may well dwell together in peace and contentment, separated by eternal bulwarks of caste, this spectacle should be a revelation, even when they fall to see how utterly inimical to our splendid institutions is such a foolish dream as theirs. As long as there are Americans there will be warfare against caste, whatever its disguise; and in the long run it must be successful. The hour calls for protest against our growing class feeling from all who value men for what they are in themselves.

RAILWAYS OF THE FUTURE.

George H. Daniels told a gathering of railway and steamship men in Manhattan the other evening that before many more years shall have passed trains between this city and the eastern metropolis will leave the terminals every two hours and travel 100 miles an hour. He added reflectively that under such circumstances the train dispatcher will be a more important person than now even.

JESSE D. PRICE, Clerk and Treas.

MAN TAKES CUE FROM WOMAN.

Her Attitude Toward Him Shapes His Conduct and Even His Character. The code of manners which prevails in any age depends very largely upon the standard set up by its women, and this fact is one of the chief keys in the great wheel of society. A woman's personality, her airs and graces, her little faults and foibles, are all more or less instrumental in rounding out and polishing of the manners of men; and if she be truly "as wise as a serpent" the influence does not stop there, but continues to the shaping of men's conduct and even of their character. It has been said that "woman has only herself to thank or blame for a man's attitude toward her, whether his manner be careless or deferential, he has taken his cue from her." This may be putting it rather too forcefully, and yet, ever since the days of Mother Eve, unjust as the old story and its consequences may seem, woman has had to look well to her ways lest she be misjudged and condemned for man's shortcomings. "How much it is to be regretted," says one writer, "that women should sit down content to polish where they are able to reform, to entertain where they might instruct." Nothing delights men more than strength of understanding, when true gentleness of manners is its associate. It is the two allied in a woman that makes her the brightest ornament of human nature.

How to Wash the Hair. "There is a right way and a wrong way to wash the hair," Mr. F. de Donato informs me, "and one of the wrong ways is to apply the cake of soap directly to the head. I suppose nine out of ten people do this; but it is wrong, nevertheless. When the cake of soap is rubbed on the hair it crusts there and often cannot be rinsed out with the most elaborate applications of water. To wash the hair properly, so as to cleanse the head thoroughly, and at the same time leave the hair in good condition, a lather should be made from soap in somewhat the same general way as for shaving, and this latter then applied to the hair. Hot water ought also to be used for the rinsing; save toward the finish of the operation, when cooler water may be employed to prevent any possibility of taking cold when the hair is drying. The rinsing should be most carefully done, for the smallest quantity of soap clinging to the hair will prove a veritable catch-all for dust and germs, and perhaps lead eventually to a diseased condition of the hair and scalp.

For Pretty Teeth. "A pearl in the mouth is worth two on the neck," is an up-to-date adage which women would do well to ponder over. A woman of many charms will often fall of impression if her teeth are not delicately clean and whole. There are many factors which go to determine the soundness of one's teeth, but none more potent than that of use. Good vigorous action is necessary in order that a supply of blood may be called to the teeth to nourish them, says Woman's Life. Give a muscle no exercise and the soft, pink nerves which it will get soft. Give the teeth no work and they become chalky and an easy prey to decay. Too much cooking of food and the use of soft, prepared dishes have had much to do with getting people out of the habit of chewing. Those who live on coarse foods requiring thorough mastication have the perfect teeth of animals, white and hard and even. The blood supply is perfect on account of the stimulation given by thorough exercise of the jaws.

AMENDMENT READY TO SCORE.

Harping without material is up hill work. So we feel assured is the present ordeal of the Baltimore News and American, who already in the heat of an early combat have been strenuously opposing the suffrage Amendment bill. Looking to right and left, forward and backward, upward and downward, they are exerting their utmost to hatch up adverse arguments—how futile have been their efforts, is manifest over the whirlwind of matter, a dissension in Queen Anne that really at heart has little if any real relation to the Amendment, has furnished the Baltimore News. Outside of this and some published statements from erstwhile Democrats who usually vote the Republican ticket annually and talk Democratic, that part of Maryland's press which has been antagonistic has had little source of gratification. The real, unvarnished facts, are that the people of Maryland are predominately for the disfranchisement of the negro voter and the practical annulment of the Fifteenth Amendment which gave them a right which has proved a long suffering white man's burden.

That the Amendment bill passed by the last Legislature is in accord with the majority sentiment of the party in the state as expressed in the 1903 platform, is certain and its provisions should be in harmony with every supporter of that platform, under which Governor Warfield, Attorney General Bryan and others went before the people and received their election. Their plea that too much power would be vested in the ascendant party through its registrative officers seems to us unworthy of sound belief. Isn't the sole purpose of eliminating the negro from politics, to place political power in the hands of the more capable intelligence, and is it possible that such intelligence cannot trust itself? Was there ever a ring or bunch of individuals too strong for their party's correction. We say never. Wrong may go amuck for a long time, but it has its limits and right will have its kingdom, for once aroused the public conscience knows no obstacle. Pass the Amendment and trust the Democratic party through such men as are on its present ticket and the majority of educated, thinking, acting people which it represents to keep its registration and other officers in abeyance to right, law and justice.

Mr. Wm. H. Cannon, of Delmar, Del., and Miss Mattie Marie Hudson of Salisbury, Md., were married on Wednesday evening, June 28th, at the bride's residence, Salisbury, Md., Rev. E. S. FARM AND GARDEN CULTIVATION OF TOBACCO. How This Profitable Crop Should be Cared For. The first thing to be considered in raising a crop is the seed. It is of great importance to secure good seed and true to the name, which should be secured from some reliable seed firm or honest grower in one's immediate neighborhood.

The quantity to sow is about three-fourths of an ounce to the acre, which should be sown on one hundred or one hundred and twenty-five square feet surface of beds. The southeast or south exposure is the best position for beds, which, at all events, should be shielded from northwest and west winds. Lay out the beds three feet wide, and any length desired; fertilizers from hen-house or pigeon are preferable, together with good coat of unslacked wood ashes, to combine the alkali of the ashes with the acids of the fertilizers above mentioned. Spade and respage, until the fertilizers are thoroughly mixed with the soil. Work down the surface fine and smooth. The proper time to make the beds is as soon as the soil dries out so it can be worked fine and mealy, and has a perceptible warmth which, in this section, is the first week in April, but varies some with each season. Three or four days before sowing the seed, put it into a bowl, or other vessel, cover with warm water and keep in a warm place. When the seed is ready to sow, lay out the beds as directed. Then stake a foot-wide board on the north and a six-inch board on the south side. Make a frame of narrow strips of board, three feet wide and as long as convenient; on this tack common brown cotton cloth. This is to be placed on the boards at each side of your beds, and makes a primitive hot-bed. The advantages of the cloth are that it keeps off the frost and cold winds, keeps the surface from drying out, breaks the force of rain drops and keeps the heat from radiating at night. The frames should be removed every pleasant and sunny day, and after the leaves of the plants are as large as a finger-nail, should be removed entirely, except when there is danger of frost.

When ready to sow the seed, drain off all the water from it and mix each ounce with about four quarts of dry sand, ashes, or corn-meal, and sow immediately; rake in with a fine iron garden-rake, very lightly; then roll smooth with a light roller, or bar will do. Clay soil should not be rolled much, and sandy loam should be rolled considerably. Where there is a clay soil, sift on about half an inch of sand immediately after sowing, which prevents the surface from drying rapidly and fills the cracks as they occur. If you wish to enrich the beds while the plants are growing, put about half a bushel of refuse from the hen-roost in a coarse sack and place in a barrel of water; in about twenty-four hours the water will be ready to use. Do all the sprinkling late in the afternoon. Always use warm water. Keep the beds free from weeds, straw and sticks.

A Home-Made Cart. We present a sketch of a serviceable farm cart, which can be made by any one who understands the use of a saw and hammer. The sides of the box, which is six feet long and four feet wide, are of plank a foot wide, the bottom of inch boards; the end board is fastened with hooks, so that it can be readily removed when loading the cart. The wheels are those of an old, worn-out reaper, and the axle consists of a piece of gas pipe large enough to fit the hub of the wheels. Pins put in holes drilled through the ends of the axles, keep the wheels in their places. The axle is fastened to the box by wooden blocks, hollowed out to fit the axle; these blocks are firmly screwed to the side-pieces. The thills pass through the front board and are bolted to the sides of the box. A single-tree is fastened to a cross-piece bolted to the thills close to the box. Such a cart is very convenient on every farm, and, being low, it is easily loaded.

Effects of Good Roads. Localities where good roads have been built are becoming richer, more prosperous, and more thickly settled, while those which do not possess these advantages in transportation are either at a standstill or are becoming poorer and more sparsely settled. If these conditions continue, fruitful farms may be abandoned and rich lands go to waste. Life on a farm often becomes, as a result of "bottomless roads," isolated and barren of social enjoyments and pleasures, and country people in some communities suffer such great disadvantage that ambition is checked, energy weakened, and industry paralyzed.

The hroller rather has much with which to contend; his lot is anything but a pleasant one; it is one of patient study and toil and his season's profits and incidental pleasures are dependent on natural conditions far beyond his control. A Cosack Superstition. Among the numerous superstitions of the Cosacks there is none stronger or than the belief that they will enter heaven in a better state if they are personally clean at the time they are killed. Before an expected battle they perform their toilets with scrupulous care (dress themselves in clean garments and put on the best they have. This superstition is not confined to the Cosacks alone but is widely prevalent; it is said in all branches of the Russian army.)

THE LODGING HOUSE EVIL Conditions Good for Spread of Consumption, Says Report. DIRT OF BEDS APPALLING

101 Lodging Houses in New York City--Sanitary Conditions Prejudicial to Health--Mattresses Crumbling to Pieces--Not Uncommon to Sleep With Boots on. A lengthy report has just been made public by Mr. Paul Kennaday, secretary of the Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis, relative to the sanitary condition of New York City's lodging houses. Mr. Kennaday's investigation, which was searching and thorough, was undertaken with a view to discovering to what extent the city's cheap lodging houses were responsible for the spread of consumption in the community. The result of his inquiry Mr. Kennaday sums up as follows: "If the course of this inspection has given no direct evidence of tuberculosis among the lodging house population, nor of its use infection, it has sufficiently demonstrated that in not a few instances conditions are absolutely inimical to health and quite ideal for the rapid progress and communication of disease." According to Mr. Kennaday's statistics there are in the Borough of Manhattan 101 lodging houses, with a licensed capacity for 16,470 beds. The prevailing type is a four story brick structure, used as a store in front. There are two recognized kinds of lodging houses, those with individual rooms and those where the inmates are all herded together. In both classes Mr. Kennaday has found the ventilation, as a rule, excessively bad, although the ventilation in the second of the two classes is apt to be better than when the rooms are separate. The sanitary conditions are usually prejudicial to health, he said, and only forty-nine of the lodging houses were found to possess free baths. The dirtiness of the beds in ordinary use was appalling. The mattresses in many instances were crumbling to pieces. "As to the blankets," says Mr. Kennaday in his report, "eight houses were found to be very clean, fifty-five clean, twenty-three dirty and fourteen very dirty. I was assured many times that the blankets were washed 'at least' twice a year; no thought of cleaning them often seems to have occurred to the proprietors, although lodgers often go to bed with their boots on, and the floors are swept in such a way that the dust at once settles on the blankets, which, as a rule, are unprovided with coverslets. "By requirements of the Board of Health," Mr. Kennaday continues, "each lodging house must have an isolation or hospital room which must not be used for other purposes than the reception of such persons as may become sick while lodging in the house. In twenty-four houses the room was either used as a general storeroom for blankets or used as a sleeping room by the day or night clerk." The remedy which the tuberculosis expert suggests for the present state of affairs is a more stringent and frequent inspection of the lodging houses by the Board of Health. In defining his position, Mr. Kennaday remarks: "While the city charter provides that it shall be the duty of the Board of Health to cause a careful inspection of every lodging house at least twice a year, inspections of some houses are actually made much oftener than this. But the character of these inspections must be faulty if, despite the fact that the majority of the houses show an adherence to regulations, so many positive violations can be found and conditions of such a shocking character permitted to exist. In addition to more thorough inspections, a higher standard of needful cleanliness should be adopted by those inspectors who it would seem, have sometimes adopted the theory, often advanced by lodging house keepers themselves, that the condition of the men they harbor is a sufficient excuse for the truly abominable conditions sometimes found."

Trepoff's Black Record. Gen. Trepoff is notorious rather than famous. He is said by those who are in a position to know the facts to be the most detested man in the Russian army, the soldiers having nicknamed him "Iron Heart." When only a lieutenant not many years ago he secured his orders for a trivial breach of etiquette. His next exploit--according to his own boast--was the shooting of five men with a revolver. With this record it is not surprising that he should a few days ago have been the victim of an attempted assassination at Moscow, where he was chief of the police and where he had put down some disturbance in a particularly brutal fashion. He is a very big, smoky, fount of wine and of making speeches to his troops. In every speech the expression, "Obey your commanding officer" frequently occurs. The czar is fond of Trepoff, and has been heard to remark: "He is one of the few men I can rely on." Trepoff is married but is separated from his wife.--London Daily News.

Paradoxical. "Queer thing about those tall buildings, isn't it?" remarked the cheerful idiot. "What's queer about them?" asked the typewriter boarder. "Why, the nearer you get to heaven in one of them the more use you have for a fire-escape," explained the C. I.

Four Facts For Sick Women To Consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has an Unequaled Record of Cures--Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Is Confidential, Free, and Always Helpful

FIRST--That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, displacements of the uterus, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness. SECOND--The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, all uterine and ovarian inflammation, weakness and displacements, regulating menstruation perfectly and overcoming its pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life. THIRD--The great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice. FOURTH--Every ailing woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life. Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women--Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, your trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of the vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Surely, any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

Salisbury Defeats Princess Anne 10 To 8.

The game Friday morning with Princess Anne resulted in a victory for the home team, the score being 10 to 8. Princess Anne led off with good batting and ran up four runs in the first inning, but Schuler afterward steadied and allowed no more runs until the ninth inning when four more came in for the visitors. In the fourth inning Salisbury picked up, making four runs and tying the score. With one run in the fifth and another in the sixth our boys did good work getting four more runs in the eighth inning. This gave Salisbury ten runs, winning the game over eight runs credited to Princess Anne. Perry at second and Charles at third led in fielding, for Salisbury, while Dr. Smith batted well for Princess Anne. The line up of the teams was:

Salisbury: H. Schuler, s. s.; R. Charles, 3rd. b.; R. Truitt, 1st. b.; W. Harmon, r. f.; A. M. Jackson, c.; W. Perry, 2nd.; C. Schuler, p.; S. Fields and W. Betts, l. f.; G. Smith, c. f.
Princess Anne: L. Walker, p.; R. Folk, 3rd.; R. Beauchamp, r. f.; N. Richardson, s. s.; Malone, c. f.; Carey, 2nd.; Smith, c.; C. Beauchamp, l. f.; R. Morris, 1st. b.

New Lines Added To Electric Service.

Mr. Rhodes, manager of the Salisbury Light, Heat & Power Company has been much busied of late in the recent improvements being made in the electric service, among which are new lines:

On Wicomico Street from Camden Avenue to Beechwood Street; on Windor Street from Camden Avenue to near Riverside Church, with side lines to Franklin and Howard Streets. These lines took over 4,500 feet of wire and 14 new poles, adding seven new lights.

An entire new line has been built on Division Street from Philadelphia Street to the north end of the cemetery, with new line on Olive Street. This extension has three new street lights on it. New street lights have also been placed in front of L. E. Williams & Co.'s office on Camden Avenue and on Main Street extended beyond Hitch & Bro's store.

Becoming Hats For Ladies' This Season.

In the millinery world our correspondent states that hats, this season are beautiful and most all very becoming. There are many shapes to select from. A soft hat can be turned and twisted and bent to have the individuality of its wearer and yet give the finishing touch to the costume. Our evening dress necessitates a substitute for a hat which is more comfortable, but in shopping and for business the plain street hat should be worn no matter how inexpensive. In our cities, large and small, a lady does not deem it permissible to go without a hat of some kind, as the toilet is only half made and we are unfinished and certainly not correctly dressed.

Unless the Jackson-Smith contest is settled before election next November, new election boxes will have to be purchased for this congressional district. Those used at the last election are now being used as receptacles for the votes cast last fall and they will have to remain in them until after the contention is settled.

GREAT MILLINERY REDUCTION

All trimmed hats, made hats, horse hair, Tuscan chips, Milan braid, flowers, and baby caps, at greatly-reduced prices.

We do not intend to carry these hats over another year, and will sell them at your own price.

PEACH CROP REPORTS

Foretell Poor Yields Of This Midsummer Fruit On The Eastern Shore. Failure In Delaware.

Acting upon the advice of Eastern Shore growers, that the peach crop is a failure there, Baltimore commission men and transportation companies touching the great fruit sections across the bay are virtually not considering that part of the peach country in the arrangements being made to handle this year's crop.

A few baskets of early peaches have already arrived in market from Kent county; but excepting the orchards in that county and other Eastern Shore sections directly on the larger water courses the Eastern Shore crop is almost a total failure.

Delaware Orchards Stripped.

The trees in Delaware orchards are reported as having been almost entirely stripped of their fruit by late frosts and the "June drop," and will contribute but in a very limited way to this season's receipts. The "June drop" is now over, and it is possible for the Sho' farmers to figure definitely on the extent of the injury to the fruit buds by the late frosts of April, and they are forced, they say, to a most pessimistic view of the situation.

Peaches in carload lots will be almost unknown across the bay this year, unless the farmers there are woefully off the track in their estimates.

"The fruit is not on the trees, and that is the end of it," said a Kent county grower today. "We do miss on estimates sometimes when we are figuring on developed buds, but now the few good buds have developed, and it requires no expert to see that the Eastern Shore peach section will not figure in the market this year. There is a good Keiffer pear crop, which promises big yields, and the corn prospect is bright, so we are shouldering our disappointment and raising no howl about the absence of the peach."

Big Crop In Western Maryland.

While the sho' men are philosophically resigned to the failure of the peach crop, Western Maryland mountain growers are making arrangements to handle one of the greatest crops of fine fruit ever gathered along the foothills of the Blue Ridge.

The revival of the proposition to build the Maryland and Delaware Ship Canal so as to bring the port of Baltimore nearer the Ocean and save the long trip to and from the Capes, is being received with much favor. It is probable that some definite steps to carry out the project will be taken in the near future and the proposition be made a fact.

Games On The Fourth.

The ball game played with Berlin on the morning of the Fourth, resulted in a victory for the visitors with a score of 4 to 3. C. Schuler pitched a nice game for Salisbury, allowing but four clean hits, while the Salisbury boys made their batting a feature of the game. In the afternoon game, Slaughter twirled for Salisbury, Fields and Perry carrying off the batting honors. Salisbury won easily by a score of 11 to 2.

The line up for Salisbury was as follows: Jackson, c; Slaughter and C. Schuler, p; W. Betts and C. Schuler, 1st b; W. Perry, 2nd b; S. Fields, s; R. Truitt, 3rd. b; V. Ward, l. f.; Slaughter and G. Smith, c. f.; W. Harmon, r. f. The games were well attended and a great deal of enthusiasm was aroused.

BALTIMORE CLOUDBURST REAL ESTATE CHANGES.

Breaks Record For Sudden Water Fall Since 1868. High Floods And Swollen Streams Endanger Life And Destroy Property.

Three hundred persons in Baltimore are homeless, and damage to the amount of several hundred thousand is being counted up as a result of the overflowing of Jones falls and a consequent inundation suffered in the central section of the city late Wednesday night and early Thursday morning.

Estimates of loss of life and property damaged in the outlying regions through which the torrent passed are as yet meagre and unauthenticated.

The flood, which originated in a cloud burst at Timonium and was increased in volume from point to point in its course by streams and tributaries swollen by heavy rains, swept down upon Baltimore Wednesday night through the Green Spring and Gunpowder valleys, leaving havoc and devastation in its wake. It was the greatest flood this section of the country has seen since the memorable July day in 1868, when fifteen persons in this Baltimore alone lost their lives.

That it was accompanied by no fatalities in that city seems little short of a miracle, as the sudden rise of the waters came with startling rapidity, and took many residents of the inundated sections utterly by surprise, and in the confusion incident upon hastening to escape to a place of safety the liability to accident was very great. Thus far there have been no authenticated fatalities reported from Baltimore county, although one aged man living near Mount Washington is reported missing and the unidentified body of a woman is said to have been seen swirling along in the waters on its way out to the bay, whence all hope of discovery was cut off.

Waters Gather Force.

Baltimore was not visited by the flood until nearly 10 o'clock Wednesday night, although the cloudburst which sent down torrents of water at Timonium occurred shortly after five o'clock in the afternoon. Despite the fact that the flood was gaining in speed and increasing in volume with every mile that it sped cityward, Baltimoreans were not upon the lookout for such a disaster, and when the torrent swept into the city through Jones falls it took the residents of the affected districts on the central part of the city entirely by surprise.

At about 10 o'clock water began to set back through the sewers, and the falls was a surging tide, rushing down with an ominous roar toward the basin. With every added minute its volume increased. The streets situated immediately west of the falls began to fill up. In an hour Harrison, Gay, Frederick, Holliday, Hillen, Lexington, Fayette, Baltimore and Pratt streets were converted into a veritable sea of water. At two points—Gay street and Lexington street—the falls overflowed the restraining walls, and for a time the bridges across these streets were under water for the first time in almost forty years. Harrison street at 11 o'clock was four feet under water. The scenes in the flooded district as residents and storekeepers sought safety for themselves, their families and effects baffle description.

Foot Bridges Gone.

It is reported that not a foot bridge is left standing in Baltimore county. All along the country through which the railroad passes the debris of the bridges can be seen strewn in heaps. A few bridges of stone passed through the flood, holding their position, but they are so badly damaged and undermined by the water that they are considered unsafe and men in carriages are turning back rather than pass over them.

The cloud burst over Timonium at 5.02, according to the statement of John Kelly, the station agent, and continued to pour until the roads, tracks and fields were one surging mass of water that swept down toward the creeks. From Timonium the mass of water rushed in great volumes to the river. The water spread out over the fields and inundated the crops. Vast fields of wheat were under water and bundles that had been harvested and gathered in sheaves were torn from the ground and sent flying toward the river.

The School Board was in session all day Friday with a full Board present. Much routine business was transacted and many changes considered for the best interest of the schools.

The Board decided to close Melson's school located near Hebron, the pupils to attend nearby schools.

They also concluded to discontinue Deep Branch School located between Green Hill and Tyaskin. The building is in a dilapidated condition and unfit for occupancy and the small number of pupils who attended do not justify improvements as they can be provided for elsewhere.

The Board filled several vacancies of trustees who had not organized as the law directs.

United in Marriage.

Siloam M. E. Church was the scene of a pretty marriage on Wednesday evening, June 28th, when Mr. Eugene Smith of Baltimore led Miss Mary Katherine Simms of Whyland to the altar where they were pronounced man and wife by Rev. W. W. White, pastor of the church.

Promptly at eight o'clock the happy couple entered the church and marched slowly down the aisle to the altar while the sweet strains of the wedding march were played by Mrs. Belle V. White.

After the ceremony there was a reception given at the home of the bride where many friends of the bride and groom gathered and enjoyed themselves for many hours. The bride looked lovely and the groom never appeared better advantage. The bride presents were numerous and valuable. The happy couple took their departure for Baltimore on Friday the 30th which will be their future home.

In the marriage and departure Miss Katie, Siloam church loses a organist and one of its best members. May their future be bright and happy.

LOCAL NEWS

Niagara Falls Excursions.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has selected the following dates for its popular ten day excursions to Niagara Falls from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington; July 7 and 21, August 11 and 25, September 8 and 22 and October 13.

The excursions from Philadelphia will be run by two routes. Those on July 7 and 21, August 11 and 25, September 8 and 22, going via Harrisburg and the picturesque valley of the Susquehanna, special train leaving Philadelphia at 8.10 a. m., excursion of October 13 running via Trenton, Manunka Chunn, and the Delaware Valley, leaving Philadelphia on special train at 8.07 a. m.

Excursion tickets, good for return passage on any regular train, exclusive of limited express trains, within ten days, will be sold at $10.00 from Philadelphia and all points on the Delaware Division; $1.25 from Atlantic City; $9.00 from Lancaster; and at proportionate rates from other points, including Trenton, Bordentown, Mt. Holly, Cape May, Salem, Wilmington, West Chester, Reading and principal intermediate stations. A stop over will be allowed at Buffalo with in the limit of ticket returning.

The special trains of Pullman parlor cars and day coaches will be run with each excursion running through to Niagara Falls. An extra charge will be made for parlor car seats.

An experienced tour agent and chaperon will accompany each excursion.

For descriptive pamphlet, time of connecting trains, and further information apply to nearest ticket agent, or address Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia. 8-21

Reduced Rates To Buffalo via Pennsylvania Railroad.

On account of the Grand Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at Buffalo, N. Y., July 11 to 15, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Buffalo from all stations on its lines at greatly reduced rates.

From Bradford, Pa., Sherman, Portville, Black Creek and Salamanca, N. Y., and intermediate stations, tickets will be sold and good going July 10, 11 and 12, good returning until July 15, inclusive.

From all other stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad tickets will be sold and good going July 8, 9 and 10, leaving Buffalo not later than July 15. By deposit of ticket with Joint Agent at Buffalo not later than July 15 and payment of fifty cents, an extension of return limit may be obtained to leave Buffalo not later than July 25.

A stop over will be allowed at Philadelphia and Baltimore on return trip within final limit of ticket on all tickets good for passage via of these cities.

For specific rates, routes, and further information, apply to ticket agents.

Mr. T. A. Veasey is putting up one of the finest buildings in the town of Delmar. It is being built out of concrete block and galvanized iron. When completed it will be one of the best store houses in town, eligibly located, and will command a good view from the station. Mr. Veasey is a progressive man, and likes to see things go.

The music furnished by the M. E. Choir was an entertaining feature of the occasion, consisting of fine selections of a national character. Miss Brookie Gravenor presided at the organ with B. P. Gravenor as chorister, A. R. Connolly cornetist. The stand was beautifully decorated in national emblems and colors. The attendance was large and all seemed to enjoy themselves. It was a success in every way.

The privileges of the camp at Owen's Grove, to begin August 4th, were sold on Saturday last. Oscar T. Smith bought the boarding tent privileges at $6.00 and the confectionary at $52.00; John Beach the horse pound at $10.50 and Gravenor Bros., the barber privileges for $2.50.

The privileges of the camp to be held in Nelson's Grove beginning August 18th, will be sold on Saturday, July 16th, at the store of H. S. Elzey at five o'clock, consisting of boarding tent, confectionary stand and horse pound.

Capt. E. W. Bailey, of the schooner, Annie C. Grace, and Miss Lou Wright, of this town were married on Wednesday evening at the home of the bride by the Rev. J. Harry Wilson. Quite a large number of invited guests were present. Captain sailed Thursday for Norfolk taking his bride with him. He will land at Norfolk for Porto Rico. We wish them a pleasant and happy voyage through life.

If the Baby is Cutting Teeth, Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy, Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Book of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

THE GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE

Theford's Black-Draught comes nearer regulating the entire system and keeping the body in health than any other medicine made. It is always ready in any emergency to treat ailments that are frequent in any family, such as indigestion, biliousness, colds, diarrhoea, and stomach aches.

Theford's Black-Draught is the standard, never-failing remedy for stomach, bowel, liver and kidney troubles. It is a cure for the domestic ills which so frequently summon the doctor. It is good for children as it is for grown persons. A dose of this medicine every day will soon cure the most obstinate case of dyspepsia or constipation, and when taken as directed brings quick relief.

DANVILLE, ILL., Dec. 31, 1898. Theford's Black-Draught has been our family doctor for five years and we want to say when we feel our bodies unwell we take a dose and are all right in twelve hours. We have spent lots of money for doctor bills, but not along just as well with Black-Draught. IRA H. BADER.

Ask your dealer for a package of Theford's Black-Draught and if he does not keep it send to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., and a package will be mailed to you.

PA'S IDEA OF IT.

Willie—"Pa, where does all the mail come from?"
Pa (wearily)—"From people who have outstanding bills."

He Went Away.
He had been away on a two weeks' vacation and on the first day of his return he gave the following to his typewriter to strike off and post up in the office:

"Yes, I've been away."
"Yes, I had a good time, thank you."
"No, I didn't gain seven pounds."
"I believe there were a few mosquitoes."

"Can't say whether I brought home a case of the malaria or not."
"I didn't go hunting."
"I didn't go fishing."
"I didn't go sailing."
"I can't say that I feel a heap better."
"I didn't get sunburned."
"I don't think it had added ten years to my life."

"Yes, I may go again next year."
"Can't say whether I prefer the mountains to the seashore."
"All this is very satisfactory," observed one of the merchant's friends after reading the placard, "and I am glad to see that you didn't name the place you went to. It wouldn't look well in cold print."
"Didn't I put in the place? Well, I went—"

"Yes, I know. You went to Hades and had a good time and have come back looking better, but don't give us away for fear there'll be a rush to the spot and knock your fall trade out!"

Jim Comes First.
"There is no doubt," said the savant to the old farmer in the seat beside him, "that if everybody would go to work in earnest the mosquito pest could be eradicated within five years."
"But they won't do it," replied the farmer.

"No, they won't!"
"I'd be willin' to, and I believe I've killed more'n fifty skeeters this year, but there's Jim Hill, a naybur o' mine who won't do a darned thing. Even when a skeeter lights on the back of his wife's neck and she yells murder, Jim takes so much time to get 'nufter the crows that the pesky insect most all gits away and builds a nest and hatches out thousands of others. We want to get rid of 'keeters, of course, but I'm tellin' you we want to get rid of Jim Hill first and scare two or three others like him most to death."

Shooting the Rapids.
Two old farmers met on the road. "Where you been, Sile?" asked the one in yellow boots. "Been shooting the rapids," drawled the other. "Canoeing?" No; shooting at those pesky automobiles that run over my chickens.—Baltimore Herald.

A Consoling Thought.
Lady (calling on new vicar's wife)—Have you seen the library at the Hall? Sir George is quite a bibliophile, you know.
Vicar's Wife (warmly)—Oh, I'm so glad to hear that! So many wealthy men have no religion!—Punch.

Take Nélaton's Remedy and be Cured!

Here is a convincing proof that NÉLATON'S REMEDY, the guaranteed cure, positively cures Rheumatism. Read the stories of those who suffered and were cured—then ask yourself why you should put off taking NÉLATON'S REMEDY. Remember that our guarantee is wrapped around every bottle: "your money back if it fails to cure." At your druggist's.

I received the sample you sent me and got a large bottle from my druggist here in Salisbury. Your medicine has done me more good than anything I have ever taken for Rheumatism, and I think, if I continue using Nélaton's Remedy, I will be entirely cured of my Rheumatism. Before I took Nélaton's I was not able to walk or do any work at all.
Yours truly,

AUTO FORECASTS FOR FUTURE AMERICA.

In a special supplement issued by the New York "Herald," Winthrop E. Scaritt, former president of the Automobile Club of America, whom no one will be likely to accuse of failure to keep a sharp eye on the development of the motor car industry in the United States, makes the following prediction:

"I believe that within a few years a good runabout may be purchased for $300 and a good touring car for $600."

It will be noted that Mr. Scaritt, does not attempt to fix a specific date as to when this will be brought about but that present tendencies are in this direction seem unmistakable. It will be recalled that the safety bicycle at first commanded a high price and that it afterward dropped to a moderate one. There is, of course, a wide difference between the weight, first cost and extent of mechanism in these vehicles. But there seems to be no reason to suppose that the same principle which cut down the price of the one will not ultimately cut down that of the other.

Sooner or later the demands of the men who buy the big and expensive touring cars with their high speeds are bound to be largely satisfied as the novelty wears off. Then it is not unreasonable to suppose that many manufacturers will find that their surest margin of profit lies in turning out strong and durable but less showy and slower cars at a figure which will place them within the reach of individuals of moderate means. The market for automobiles of this type will be a very big one in the United States, and there will be plenty of money to be made in supplying it.

In the "Praise and Censure" article last week our typographical and proof reading department changed the sense of two expressions as follows:—

"While not condemning the 'offense' should have read, 'While not condoning the offense.'" In another place occurs, "You also suggest that the Democratic party urge the Republican party to join in a binding contract to buy votes at the Fall election." There should be a large capital "NOT" between the "to" and "buy" above.

The Advertiser is open to and invites any suggestion relative to best ways and means to suppress and eradicate the bribery evil.

Mrs. Eleanor Dickerson and Mrs. Edgar Fletcher, of Bloxom, Va., who have been guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Dickerson, Camden Avenue, returned home Thursday accompanied by Misses Margaret and Annie Dickerson, who will spend several weeks with relatives.

Mrs. Arena Waller, nearly eighty years of age and wife of Perry H. Waller, died after a long and lingering illness incident to old age and general infirmity, at her home near Re-wastico Mill, on Thursday morning about three o'clock. Funeral services, conducted by Rev. E. P. Perry, were held at the house on Friday afternoon at three o'clock. Interment took place in the cemetery at Mardela Springs.

—The county commissioners for Worcester county met at Snow Hill Tuesday and fixed the county tax rate at $1 on the $100. It was decided to place the county on a cash basis. This will be done immediately. Heretofore persons having bills against the county have been compelled to wait 15 months for their money. In the future the county treasurer will pay all debts on presentation of bills and then make his report to the commissioners.

—The vestry of Salisbury Parish has closed a contract with Mr. John T. Ellis to enclose the lot of Benj. Parsons at the Parson's Cemetery with a granite coping. The coping will be eight by twelve inches diameter; fourteen posts 10 by 10 and three steps at the entrance. The vault will also be rebuilt and the shaft repolished. The cemetery is the property of St. Peter's Church given by the late Benj. Parsons. The vestry are preparing also to take in the balance of the lot in the near future lying to the north after properly grading it. This portion has already been platted.

—Mr. W. F. Allen shipped his first crate of this season's cantaloupes yesterday consigned to the New York market. This we believe is a record breaker in earliness for this section coming about two weeks ahead of the regular season. The variety shipped was his famous Choice Rocky Fords and were handsome fruit. Mr. Allen has about 50 acres out in these cantaloupes and they present a most attractive field spectacle. He says the prospects now were never better for a good crop. It will require about 75 pickers to handle it during the busy season from July 15 to August 10.

Mr. Allen has about 50 acres out in these cantaloupes and they present a most attractive field spectacle. He says the prospects now were never better for a good crop. It will require about 75 pickers to handle it during the busy season from July 15 to August 10.

—Mr. W. F. Allen shipped his first crate of this season's cantaloupes yesterday consigned to the New York market. This we believe is a record breaker in earliness for this section coming about two weeks ahead of the regular season. The variety shipped was his famous Choice Rocky Fords and were handsome fruit. Salisbury Citizens Gladly Testify.

It is testimony like the following that has placed "The Old Quaker Remedy" so far above competitors. When people right at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Salisbury citizen:

E. Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last February. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back. The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

The Independent Democrats of Cecil county, in convention at Centerville, indorsed the administration of Governor Warfield, and adopted resolutions condemning the Poe disfranchisement amendment.

Hives are a terrible torment to the little folk, and to some older ones. Easily cured. Doan's Ointment never fails. Instant relief, permanent cure. At any drug store, 50 cents.

When you want a pleasant laxative that is easy to take and certain to act, use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by all dealers.

A little life may be sacrificed to an hour's delay. Cholera infantum, dysentery, diarrhoea come suddenly. Only safe plan is to have Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry always on hand.

What's the secret of happy, vigorous health? Simply keeping the bowels, the stomach, the liver and the kidneys strong and active. Burdock Blood Bitters does it.

Out of a flock of 400 young chickens owned by Mrs. Charles R. Price, of near Queenstown, 290 have been killed within the past few days by a cat. Her husband caught the animal eating a chicken and shot it.

Woman is often referred to by man as "doubling his joys and halving his sorrows." That may be complimentary but it would seem to be rather hard on the woman. For in plain terms it means that where things are going well with the man his wife makes them go better. But when things are going ill with him, he expects the wife to share half his burden. And there's more truth than poetry in this presentation of masculine selfishness. Men don't appreciate the fact that the strain of motherhood alone is a burden bigger than all the loads that rest upon male shoulders. They see the wife grow thin, pale, nervous and worn without a thought that she is overburdened. Among the pleasant letters received by Dr. Pierce are those from husbands who have waked up before it was too late to the crushing burdens laid upon the wife, and in the search for help have found Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a restorative which has given back to the mother health of the maiden's happiness. "Favorite Prescription" always helps, and almost always cures. It has perfectly cured ninety eight out of every hundred women who have used it when afflicted with diseases peculiar to women.

Two valuable cures owned by J. M. Moore and Mrs. Sallie M. Gault, died Thursday from eating Paris green left in a field on the former's farm, near Showell.

Brutally Tortured. A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equalled. Joe Golobick of Colusa, Calif., writes: "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by all druggists.

The thirty eighth annual meeting of the Maryland State Teachers' Association will be held at the Blue Mountain House on July 11 to 14.

Working Night And Day. The busiest and mightiest thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. These pills change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain fog into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by all druggists.

Ehrman Hover, a freight conductor, of Havre de Grace, is one of three heirs of Jacob Heighler, who died in San Francisco in 1880, leaving $4,000,000.

Good For Stomach Trouble and Constipation. "Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done me a great deal of good," says C. Towns, of Rat Portage, Ontario, Canada. "Being a mild physic the after effects are not unpleasant, and I recommend them to all who suffer from stomach disorder." For sale by all dealers.

If Nervous and Run Down simply improve your circulation. Remove the waste matter that clogs the blood by taking Chamberlain's Pills—then tone the nervous system with the Tonic Pellets. All in one box for 25c and money back if not satisfied.

The Haman Bill.

Captain A. Stanley Bryan, a native of Queen Anne's county, and for ten years captain of the police schooner, Frolic, of the oyster navy, was in the county last week and mingled freely among the oystermen of the Fourth and Fifth districts.

He returned to Baltimore, where he now resides on Thursday and in an interview with a representative of the Baltimore Sun stated:

"The history of the oyster in Maryland waters, if pertaining to 'Darkest Africa,' might be read without causing surprise or comment. It is disgraceful that such a record should be a bar to Maryland's boasted progressiveness. The savages of Africa could have done no less to perpetuate.

"Forty years ago oysters were so plentiful in our waters that a ton could realize handsomely from a day's catch selling at 15 cents per bushel. His independence was marked and commented upon by the farmers among whom he lived, and from the proceeds of his labor towns have been built along the water courses of Maryland and mechanics were employed and merchants prospered. Shipyards worked full time to supply crafts for the trade and along every waterway of the State could be seen improvised plank building boats to meet the demand of the oyster industry and prosperity attended every branch of the business, from the 12 year old boy at the cull board to the packer.

"Five years ago conditions had become so discouraging that the writer sought other employment. While not in the business, I have kept posted upon the conditions by inquiry and investigation. I have not neglected any branch in the search for knowledge. The tongs, buyer, dredger, measurer, passer and packer have all returned the same answer to my inquiries, 'the business is on the bum,' and unless something is done to increase the supply of oysters in Maryland the industry is doomed.

"The Haman Oyster Bill, as presented at the last session of the Legislature, contained all the requirements to protect private against corporate interests—planting in State waters by non residents prohibited; planting in county waters allowed only to residents of the county by limiting the acreage, giving all a show and presenting a monopoly by making oystermen and boatmen a preferred class. What more should be asked? What more could be offered to induce oystermen to endorse a measure, the purpose of which is to better their condition?"

"I was exceedingly pleased to find on my recent trip to my native county that in the very heart of the oyster region of Queen Anne's county a large majority of the farmers are in favor of the Haman Oyster Bill, and the leaders among the oystermen, as well as a great number—perhaps a majority of the thinking people among the oyster men generally in the part of the county I visited, are in favor of the same measure.

"The oystermen are men of greater intelligence than is supposed by some people. They have very carefully studied this bill, and while they were prejudiced against it at first, owing principally to the schemes of politicians, there is a strong tide of opinion running in favor of this legislation. If some one man in each one of the tide water counties had the courage to make a canvass for the Legislature on this issue the result would surprise a great many people.

"Many of them expressed a desire to see Mr. Haman, who is also going there to visit them. It is a slander and outrage to say that they would meet Mr. Haman in anything but a courteous way. Eastern Shore people are not savages and are not cowardly, and they would be glad to meet anybody, no matter what their opinions are, to discuss the oyster question even if they do not agree with them.—Centerville Observer, Md.

LOCAL Correspondence

MARDELA.

"The Glorious Fourth," was gloriously quiet in this place. For the most of the day it seemed that the peace of the Sabbath had fallen upon us.

Wallace Parker is spending two weeks with his parents, Pastor and Mrs. B. G. Parker. He is the city buyer for the firm of Watson & Co. of Philadelphia.

Miss Margaret Armstrong has just returned home from a visit to Pennsylvania. She had a good time but is glad to be back home again.

Addison Lloyd has gone to Philadelphia for a little while. His brother, Hillary, has been in the city of Brotherly Love for some time.

The ordinance of Baptism will be administered in the Branch Hill Baptist church on Sunday afternoon. Owing to the severe storm on Sunday night, Rev. Mr. Parker could not hold his patriotic services as had been announced.

HEBRON.

On May 23rd, State manager, E. S. Gunby, organized Wicomico Lodge, No. 1682 Modern Brotherhood of America at Hebron, Md., with sixteen life members and one social member.

Miss Nellie Lowe left on Wednesday for a visit to Baltimore and Wilmington and expects to be gone until September.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Phillips spent Saturday and Sunday with friends near Laurel.

July Fourth on the M. E. Church grounds that was very well attended.

The Modern Brotherhood of America will hold a picnic July 15th, at Hebron school grounds. All are invited.

Miss Lola H. Phillips has gone to Baltimore for a week.

WEST.

Services on Pocomoke Circuit next Sunday will be as follows: Friendship, Sunday School at 9.00 a. m. preaching at 10.00 a. m. and Christian Endeavor at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Jno. Powell, of this place, Mrs. Maggie Powell and little son, Howard, of Salisbury, were guests at the parsonage on Wednesday.

Mrs. Lena Pusey and little daughter, Hannah, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hastings.

Rev. F. J. Phillips and wife, Mrs. Jno. Powell and Mrs. Maggie Powell were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Pusey on Thursday.

The spread supper and festival at Friendship on the Fourth was largely attended and in every way a success. We would not fail to compliment Mr. J. T. Hayman, of Salisbury, for his excellent speech.

The festival next in order is at Nazareth which will be next Wednesday. Do not forget the date.

Mr. Columbus Lankford, of Princess Anne, and Miss Effie Fooks, of this place were married last Monday in Friendship Church at high noon by the pastor, Rev. F. J. Phillips.

After the ceremony the happy couple were conveyed to Princess Anne where they took the 1.30 train for Atlantic City. Mr. and Mrs. Lankford expect to return to Princess Anne in about a week and will make their home there.

DELMAR.

The Fourth was observed in Delmar by a parade of the M. E. Sunday School in wagons headed by the Delmar Concert Band. "Uncle Sam" was personated by Mr. Earl Elliott riding a pony.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Mayhew of New York have been guests of Mrs. Slemos this week.

Miss Elizabeth Hammond has resigned her position as assistant in the Delmar public school and will teach in Salisbury.

POULTRY MANAGEMENT OF TURKEYS With Reference to Feeding, Egg Laying and Care of the Young. The hen turkey will begin laying from the middle of March to the first of April. In the warmer localities they begin to lay even earlier than this. It often occurs that the hen turkey will begin to lay at a time when changeable weather may endanger the vitality of her eggs. She should be closely watched in her wanderings, so as to locate her nest and gather the eggs in order to protect them from the cold nights.

It is better, when the necessity arises of taking all or part of the eggs from her nest, to leave eggs of some other kind in their place: large-sized nest eggs of china are the best. If unrestrained, the hen will naturally select some secluded place, under a pile of lumber or logs, or in the brush, for example, where she can hide her nest, hatch, and bring out her young after her natural inclination. If she selects a place which is not well protected, it is better to provide a box or coop with a suitable opening for ingress and egress to protect her and her eggs from the weather during the four weeks of incubation. In addition to this, the nest or hatch frame may be placed over her a short time prior to the hatching of the eggs, so as to prevent the hen from wandering away with the young poults as soon as hatched. Good care should also be given to the feeding of these semi-wild flocks while young and in unusually wet weather. It should never be forgotten that in the wild state their food was the bugs, worms, seeds, etc., which they could find for themselves, and which were hunted for and scrambled after continually. There was then no over-feeding upon rich unwholesome foods that impaired health and produced bowel troubles or other ailments that naturally follow unwholesome food. Wet or sloppy foods are not recommended for young turkeys. "Food should be given (young turkeys) quite early in the morning and at frequent intervals during the day. Never overfeed them, but use discretion in providing plentifully for their necessities. Give them all they will eat willingly and no more. Avoid the use of rich foods, grains in hulls, and millet seed, which is not good for them while they are young; a little of this seed, however, may be fed as they grow older. Too much hard-boiled egg is bad for them, while a reasonable amount of bread is beneficial. "Coarse sand is excellent for grit, and if sufficient of this is at hand no other grit will be needed; but plenty of grit of some kind is a necessity, for without it the poults can not grind their food."

Goats to Kill Snakes. That useful animal, the goat, is being put to a new use on a farm ten miles northwest of Columbia. A carload of them was turned loose today on a piece of ground on the Branham-Hearn farm for the purpose of exterminating rattle snakes. The plot of ground is thickly covered with undergrowth and there are so many rattle snakes on it that workmen are afraid to enter it to clear it up. Goats were suggested and Hewitt Brothers, the proprietors of the farm, ordered a carload at once. The experiment is being watched with much interest. Goats on the state farm at Columbia have proved their efficiency in the clearing of thickly covered ground, but some doubt if they will be able to exterminate the snakes as well.—Kansas City Times.

A Cossack Superstition. Among the numerous superstitions of the Cossacks there is none stronger than the belief that they will never be beaten in a better state if they are personally clean at the time they are killed. Before an expected battle they perform their toilet with scrupulous care, dress themselves in clean garments and put on the best they have. This superstition is not confined to the Cossacks alone but is widely prevalent in the army in all branches of the Russian army.

BIG COTTON PRODUCTION Uses to Which This Southern Staple is Put by Science. U.S. GREATEST PRODUCER Egypt and India Are Growing Cotton, But They Do Not Count For Much in the Market—White Men Are Forced to Do Very Much of the Tilling. There is a world of interest in the culture of cotton. It does not end here, for there is something absorbingly interesting about every part of the transformation, from raw staple into the many attractive forms it takes before it reaches the markets. The bulk of the cotton crop is grown in the South of the United States. Egypt is producing largely, and India is trying to compete, but the Southern states control the market. The large majority of the 9,000,000 negroes in the United States owe their livelihood directly to this crop. They cultivate the cotton that clothes the world. Of course, they do not do all the work, for the white man has been forced to do much of the tilling himself, as the negroes have grown so shiftless and "no-account." The ground is broken thoroughly, then laid off in long rows of furrows. The rows are from 18 inches to 4 feet apart depending on the fertility of the soil. Contrary to the usual rule, the rows must be further apart the richer the soil. This is because the cotton plant must have room to spread. The distance between the plants in the same row is regulated by the same rule, which is directly contrary to that used in growing most other crops. The deep furrows first laid off are to receive the fertilizer that is to stimulate the crop to a rapid growth, early maturity and a consequent early bursting of the bolls, so that the harvest may be over before frost. As frost ruins the green bolls. Fertilizer is used both as a stimulant and for food. Most of the Southern fields would not produce a profitable crop of cotton if not liberally supplied with guano or manure. Indeed there are years when thousands of farmers do not make enough out of their cotton to pay for the fertilizer. In the far South the cotton begins to blossom early in June and by July 1 the fields are covered with blossoms. The third day the blossoms change slowly to a purple red and then begin to wilt, soon dropping off, leaving a tiny green bud that is to grow into a boll. The cotton bolls swell rapidly and soon show the lines where the boll will be divided into sections when it dries and opens. Cotton begins to open in August. The green bolls are full of tightly-wadded cotton and cotton seed. This cotton bursts the bolls which then spread wide open as the warming sun causes the cotton staple to expand further. After a few days the locks of cotton are hanging loose in the bolls. Hundreds of people go into the fields, with sacks strapped over their shoulders, and pick the cotton boll by boll. The cotton goes to the gin and is stripped from its seed. Then it is packed in bales of 500 pounds each, hauled to town and sold. It is compressed, two bales into one, before it is shipped any great distance. The cotton reaches the mills in bale form. It is dirty and full of trash, but a cleaning machine soon combs out the fibers, and cleans them thoroughly. In many mills it is twisted into yarn, and then sent north to be made into cloth, but the South is rapidly becoming a center for mills. It is quite a mill itself that is required to change the baled cotton into long strands of loosely-hanging lint. This is put on twisting machines and twisted into strands of thread. After the thread is twisted the weaving is begun. The spool filled with the thread that is to be the warp, or strong cross threads of cloth, is set at the back of the loom and the warp is arranged through certain frame-work which regulates the tension in the weaving process. After the cloth is out of the loom it passes to a machine known as the brushing machine. This machine clips off all the loose threads at the edges of the cloth and thoroughly brushes the cloth, putting it in as good condition as possible without washing. From the brusher the cloth goes to the following machine, which automatically folds the cloth in the bolts commonly seen at stores where cotton goods are kept. The last machine is the baling machine, its work being that of baling up the bolts of cloth into a bale somewhat similar to the one which cotton first entered the mill in. The coloring of the cotton takes place usually before the cotton is started into any of the machines, but is sometimes done after the threads of cotton have been spooled. Next to the breaker picker, and exclusive of the loom in interest, is probably the spinning machine. Up on this machine at one time are hundreds of spools whirling around with great rapidity winding the thread. This machine takes the loosely rolled threads of cotton fed to it, and by stretching them out and also at the same time twisting them produces the thread. Before they pass into the loom proper each one of these threads must pass separately through a small holder. If one of the threads should break this holder, which is held up by the thread, immediately falls down and automatically stops the machine. Thus no cloth is made with a thread lacking for even a short distance. Aid to Navigators. The development of marine signaling promises to be one of the chief aids to the navigator which the immediate future holds in store. By means of submerged bells and telephone apparatus for picking up the sound signals may be sent and received over considerable distances. The system has been installed on four lightships between New York and Boston, and many government and foreign officers have visited these ships during the past year.

Cure For The Blues ONE MEDICINE THAT HAS NEVER FAILED Health Fully Restored and the Joy of Life Regained. When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way: She has been feeling "out of sorts" for some time; head has ached and back also; has slept poorly, been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart-beats very fast; then that bearing-down feeling, and during her menstrual period she is exceedingly despondent. Nothing pleases her. Her doctor says: "Cheer up; you have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon." But she doesn't get "all right," and hope vanishes; then come the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES. Don't wait until your sufferings have driven you to despair, with your nerves all shattered and your cottage room, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. See what it did for Mrs. Rosa Adams, of 819 12th Street, Louisville, Ky., niece of the late General Roger Hanson, U.S.A. She writes: "I cannot tell you with pen and ink what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered with female troubles, extreme lassitude, 'the blues,' nervousness and that all-gone feeling. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it not only cured my female derangement, but it has restored me to perfect health and strength. The buoyancy of my younger days has returned, and I do not need any longer with despondency as I did before. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a boon to sick and suffering women." If you have some derangement of the female organism write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice.

HOME DRESSMAKING

By May Manton, FOR HOME WEAR

No woman who regards her health and comfort of her home should neglect her wardrobe. The dress is the most important part of her outfit. It should be made of good material, and should be well made. It should be comfortable, and should be easy to wear. It should be in keeping with the latest fashion, and should be suitable for the occasion. It should be made in such a way that it will last for many years, and should be easy to care for.

FOR GROWING GIRLS

Girls' Box Plated Dress (Illustrated). Size 12 to 14 years. This is a simple dress made of white material, with a high collar and long sleeves. It is suitable for school or for a simple occasion. It is easy to make, and is a good example of a simple dress for a young girl.

Simple Life

BY CHARLES WAGNER.

President Roosevelt says to the author of it "I AM PREACHING YOUR BOOK TO MY COUNTRY."

CHAPTER XII. PRIDE AND SIMPLICITY IN SOCIAL RELATIONS.

It would, perhaps, be difficult to prove a subject better qualified than pride to prove that the obstacles to a better life, stronger and more peaceful, are more in ourselves than in circumstances. The diversity and, above all, the contrast of social situations, inevitably cause all sorts of conflicts to surge upon us. But how many of these relations between members of the same society would not be, in spite of all, simplified if we put another spirit in the frame traced in external necessities? Let us be well prepared that it is not after all the difference in classes, functions, the so dissimilar forms of our destinies, which embroil men. If that were the case we should see an idyllic peace reign between colleagues, comrades, and all men with analogous interests and similar destiny. Every one knows on the contrary, that the bitterest quarrels are those which arise among similar things, and that there is no war worse than civil war. But what hinders men from living in accord, in before all, pride. Pride makes man like a hedge hog, which cannot touch any one without wounding him. Let us speak first of the pride of the great ones.

What displeases me in the rich man who passes in his carriage, is not his equipage, nor his toilette, nor the number and swiftness of his domestic service. It is his scorn. That he has a great fortune does not wound me unless I have a hateful disposition, but that he throws me in his way, over my head, shows in his whole attitude that I count for nothing in his eyes because I am not rich like him; that is where I feel the hurt, and with good reason. He imposes a suffering upon me, and after all a suffering quite useless. He insults me and humiliates me, and he does so in a way that is vulgar in him, but what there is the noblest in me, which rises in face of that wounding pride. Do not accuse me of envy, for I feel none, it is my dignity as man that is touched. It is useless to seek for to illustrate one's impressions. All men who have some life have some respect, and some rich men have not that respect in their eyes. In certain centers devoted to material interests, pride of wealth dominates to such a point that men quote each other as they quote values on the exchange. Esteem is measured according to the contents of the strong-box. Good society is composed of big fortunes; the middle class, lesser fortunes. Then come the people of little means, and those of nothing. On all occasions they act upon that principle. And he who, actively rich, has shown his disdain for those less potent than himself, is watered, in his turn, with the disdain of his superiors in fortune. Thus the rage of comparison saps from summit to foundation. Such a center is as though prepared to order for the cultivation of the worst sentiments; but it is not the riches, it is the spirit they put into them that we should fear. Some rich men have not that coarse conception—above all, those who, from father to son, are accustomed to ease. But they forget that there is a certain delicacy in not causing the contrasts to be too marked. Suppose that there is not that joyous enjoyment of great superiority, is it indispensable to spread out the superiority, to shock the eyes of those who have not the necessities, and to affix this luxury close to poverty? Good taste and a sort of modesty will always hinder a poorly man from speaking of his vigorous appetite, his plentiful flumber of his joy in living, by the side of some one who is fading away with consumption. Many rich men lack tact, and sometimes by that they lack even pity and prudence. Are they not from then on badly inspired in complaining of the envy of others, after having done all in their power to provoke it?

But what they lack most is discernment, when they put their pride in their fortune, or when they let themselves drift unconsciously with the seductions of luxury. Firstly, it is to fall into a puerile confusion to consider riches a personal quality. One could not mistake, in a fashion so simple, between the reciprocal value of the envelope and its contents. I do not wish to bear too heavily on that question: it is too painful. And yet, can one hinder oneself from saying to those interested: "Take care; do not confound what you possess with what you are. Learn the world side of the splendors of the realm, so that you may see the childishness and mortal misery of them more forcibly. Pride in truth lays traps too ridiculous for us. We must suspect a companion which makes us hateful to our neighbor and causes us to lose our clearness of vision."

Those who deliver themselves up to the pride of wealth forget another point—and the most important of all—which is, that to possess is a social function. Without doubt, individual property is an legitimate as the existence even of the individual and as his liberty. Those two things are inseparable, and it is an Utopia, full of dangers, to attack such elementary bases of all life. But the individual belongs to society with all his fibres, and all he does should be done in view of the whole. To possess is, therefore, less of a privilege, which it pleases him to glorify, than a charge whose gravity he feels. Just as it requires one to serve an apprenticeship, often difficult, to be able to exercise all the social functions, so does that which is called individual property exact an apprenticeship. The greater part of the people, poor or rich, imagine that in opulence there is nothing to do but to let one's self live. That is why so few people know how to be rich. In the hand of a too great number, wealth is, according to a famous saying, "a donkey's load—that has no idea of how to use it."

So, when one meets a man, rich and simple at the same time, that is to say who considers his riches as a means of filling his humane mission, we should respectfully salute him, for he is certainly somebody. He has conquered obstacles, surmounted trials, and triumphed in the vulgar or subtle temptations. He does not confound the contents of his purse with those of his brains or his heart, and it is not in figures that he esteems his fellow-men. His exceptional situation, far from lifting him up, humiliates him, because he really feels all that he lacks to reach the heights of his duty. He has remained a man, and that is to say all. He is approachable, willing to help, and far from raising with his goods a barrier to separate him from the rest of men, he makes of them a means of drawing more near to them. Although the trade of being rich has been singularly spoiled by so many men, proud and egotistical, this one succeeds in making himself appreciated by whoever is not insensible to justice. Every one, when approaching him and seeing his life, is obliged to turn to himself and ask: "What would have become of me under the same circumstances? Should I have that modesty, that indifference, that probity, which causes one to act with his own as if it belonged to another?" So long as there is a world and a human society there will be those harsh conflicts of interest, those envy and jealousies exist on the earth, nothing will be more respectable than riches filled with the spirit of simplicity. It will do more than to win pardon; it will win love.

More malevolent than pride inspired by wealth, is that inspired by power, which one man may have over another, whether it is great or little. I see no way of avoiding that there should be men in the world unequally powerful. All organization supposes a hierarchy of forces. We can never go beyond that. But I fear that if the taste for power is very widely spread, the spirit of power will be not by understanding it badly and by mistaking it, those who hold any parcel of authority almost everywhere end by compromising it.

Power exercises a powerful influence over him who holds it. It needs a strong hand not to be troubled by it. This sort of dementia, which claimed the Roman emperors in the days of their despotic power, is a universal malady, whose symptoms have existed in all ages. A tyrant sleeps in every man, and only waits a propitious occasion to awaken. Now this tyrant is the worst enemy of authority, because he furnishes us an intolerable caricature of it. He comes with a multitude of social complications, frictions and hatreds. All men who have said, "You will do this because it is my will," or better, "because it is my good pleasure," do evil work. There is something in each of us which invites us to resist power, and that something is very respectably. For at bottom we are equal, and there is no person who has the right to exact obedience of me because he is, and I am I. In this case, his command abuses me, and it is not permitted to let one's self be abused.

One must have lived in schools, studios, in the administration of public affairs, in the relations between men and servants; to have stopped a little everywhere where the supremacy of man is exercised over man, to have an idea of what those who do practice their power with arrogance. Of every free soul they make a soul enslaved, that is to say, a soul in revolt. And it seems that this terrible anti-social effect is more surely produced when he who commands is near the condition of the one who obeys. The most implacable tyrant is the small tyrant. A foreman in a workshop, or an overseer, puts more respect in his surroundings than the director or the owner. Such a corporal is harder on his soldiers than the colonel. In certain houses, where madame has not much more education than her maid, the relations between them are like those between a galleysman and his guard. Every where, the owners are afraid of the hands of a subaltern, drunk with his authority.

We forget too much that the first duty of whoever exercises power is humility. Grandeur is not the authority. It is not we who are the law. The law is above all heads. We interpret it only; but to make it valuable in the eyes of others we must be submissive to it ourselves. Commandment and obedience in human society are, after all, but two forms of the same virtue, voluntary servitude. The most of the time we are not obeyed because we have not obeyed first.

The secret of moral ascendancy belongs to those who command with simplicity. They soften by the mildness of the fact. Their power is not in gold lace, nor in the title, nor in disciplinary measures. They do not require ferule or threats, and yet they obtain everything. Why? Because each one feels that he is, himself, willing to do anything. That which confers on one man the right to ask a sacrifice of another man—his time, his money, his passions, and even his life—is that not only is he resolved to make all those sacrifices himself, but he has inwardly made them in advance. In the order which is given by a man animated by this spirit there is, I know not what power, which is communicated to him who should obey, and aids him to do his duty.

In all the walks of human activity there are chiefs who inspire, sustain, electrify their soldiers. Under their direction a troop does prodigies. They feel capable with them of all efforts, ready to go through fire, according to the popular expression, and with enthusiasm they would pass through it. (To be continued.)

Breaded Lamb Chops.

Carefully trim the chops and after sprinkling with salt and pepper dip them in melted butter and let it cool on them. Have ready the yolks of two eggs, well beaten; dip the chops in this and sprinkle with finely grated bread-crumbs. Let them broil over a clear fire. Add one teaspoonful of lemon juice to the gravy, and garnish with lemon, sliced very thin, and curled parsley.

How to Keep an Umbrella.

An umbrella should not be opened out to dry, as the stretchers are apt to warp in the bent form, giving an unsightly appearance when the umbrella is closed. The silk should be left to drain with the handle downward, and gently wiped with an old silk handkerchief.

WHY IS IT?

You can buy horses, mares and nules at King's for less money than elsewhere. One reason is, he sells more horses than all the dealers in Baltimore combined. Another reason is, while our horses and mares are the largest of any in Baltimore City, (stabling capacity 600 head and continuously receiving consignments from the breeders all over America), it is only one branch of this immense business. We carry in stock 1000 varieties of every kind of which a large selection is suitable for country use, at lowest factory prices. FINLAND'S STRUGGLE.

Characteristics Of The People. Russia Seeks To Subjugate. Their Love Of Liberty.

It is not only as one of the "little peoples" and little countries appreciated by Russia, but because of its peculiar political condition, that Finland has, of late, commanded especial interest. Always a coveted morsel, it has given its ursine devourer intense uneasiness. Its fate still hangs in the balance, with the great inter-rogation ever present to the watching world, "Is it or is it not to be permanently absorbed by Russia?" Finland, however, will never be satisfied until the rights of self-government are truly and not nominally restored.

When the Russian was foisted upon them by their adoptive parent-country, as the official language, the Finns positively refused it for general conversation. The government has now given up trying to compel its use, so that it is only taught in the universities.

Finland is distinct from all other languages, though it is thought to have been used throughout the whole of Russia and northern Scandinavia. It is said to be the most melodious survival of the Tower of Babel. With sixteen infections, made by as many endings to the same root, it is much more difficult to learn than the Russian.

Broadly considered, it is the speech of a nation of about three millions of people, not so many as the dwellers in Greater New York. Their land has an area as large as the United Kingdom, with Holland and Belgium attached. It is very accessible, readily reached from St. Petersburg, Stockholm, or Newcastle.

Traveling is cheap; railroads are good, and cars are comfortable; steamers are many, yet "Suomi," or the "Land of a Thousand Lakes," perchance of ten thousand, is, as yet, little known.

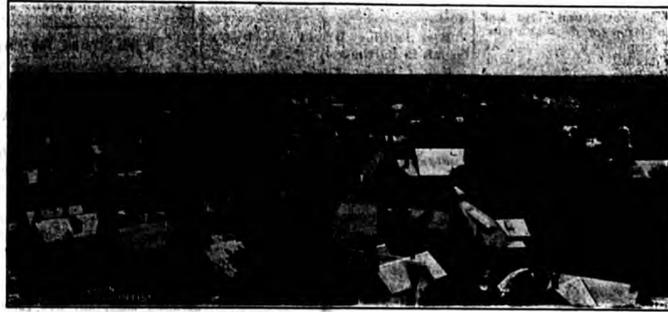

One reason why the Grand Duchy is so little known is on account of the peculiarities of the climate. It varies greatly in different parts of the country. In the south, where the longest night is eighteen and a half hours, the winter lasts seven months. In the north there is total darkness for two months. But to the Finns winter is the season of seasons, the Gulf Stream somewhat tempering the cold. The short summers, however, with the midnight sun to be seen in the Arctic portion for two months, are delightful for travelers. The changes in temperature, it is true, are somewhat startling. Sometimes the thermometer from intense heat falls below the freezing point in August on the box lands. The results to crops—especially to barley—are disastrous, and Finland is a vantage of famine. In one dreadful year 100,000 of the inhabitants died from starvation.

The Finns are by nature an agricultural people. Having been for such a length of time nomads the raising of little crops, during halts, brought out their innate love for farming, and finally overcame the tendency to wander. Thus they have followed the laws of history, the predominating class now being the bonnet or peasant owners of small farms. These they may have taken from large farms, in colonization, or may have been able to secure separately, in smaller plots between rivers.

Then there are the torpares, or peasant tenants, who rent small sections of land called torps, which are parts of larger estates. Their rents are moderate, sometimes only a few days' work, sometimes a certain fixed proportion of a crop of grain. After these come the cottagers, owning little garden patches, with, perhaps, pasture for a cow or two, and then the inhysingar, or lodgers, who seem to be a species of traveling laborer, somewhat like the lumbermen, who are often found in our Northwest.

Leaving out the Russian opposition, which at one time almost amounted to a scheme for serfdom, the general attitude of dominant sovereignty to Finland, has been freedom for internal development. Great thought and effort have been spent towards economic progress. There too, is a strong democratic tendency; nobles are selling hereditary estates to peasant farmers, who can make more of them than they, and more cheaply. These middle class people, as in America, often rise to prominent positions by force of character, educate their children at the universities, and aid the leveling process, which is fatal to feudal traditions.

Any one now may own land of any kind, and the nobles have no longer the right to possess estates without taxation. Many of the most aristocratic families, have, so to speak, "gone into trade," establishing land companies and timber industries wood pulp and wood paper mills.

By these similarities in social conditions, many of the Finns who have been taking refuge with us, are already imbued with the American spirit. They make good citizens for us, but let us be generous enough to hope that the political state of their own country, "poor, little Finland," as they have called her, will soon be such as to enable them to live there in happiness, and develop on lines similar to our own.—Maria Elmen-dorf Lillie.

Taylor—Johnson.

Mr. Waller Taylor of Riverton and Miss Viola Johnson of Mardela were married the eighth of June at Spring Grove Church by the Rev. T. P. Truitt of Mardela. The bride was attired in a gown of brown silk and carried bride roses. Miss Grace English, bridesmaid, wore white silk and carried orange blossoms. Mr. Louis Shockley was best man. Miss Lettie Bennett, cousin of the bride played the wedding march. The church was beautifully trimmed with potted plants and other flowers. After the ceremony was performed the happy couple returned to the home of the bride's parents where a reception was given. They were the recipients of many handsome presents.

Much Summer News in This Wicomico Town. Large Fatality Of Typhoid Fever in Taylor Family At White Haven.

It has been too hot this week for your scribe to gather news and so all that is here presented was caught on the fly, as they say in base ball parlance.

What do you think of these reasons for not helping to light the Streets of our beautiful little town? "I live in the suburbs and scarcely ever go out in the town after dark." This reminds one of the prayer of the man who said "Bless me and my wife, my son, John, and his wife, we four and no more." Here is another. "My father lived here and he got along without any street light and I am no better than he." Perhaps he isn't! Take another—"I am not a property owner and why should I contribute towards the lamps." I don't know, I will give it up. The writer passed an old man who was setting out apple trees and said to him, "You are an old man and will never live to eat any fruit from those trees." His reply was "If I do not, others will." Let us put this answer in our pipe and smoke it. We are not satisfied to have our town a little sleepy village. If others want to go to bed at sundown to save coal oil, we don't propose to do it. There is such a thing as being a penny wise and a pound foolish. When things do not go to our liking, it is poor policy to sit around and whittle store boxes and blame the Government. Too many people choose the path which furnishes the least resistance, while that which produces fiber is ignored.

Mr. Samuel R. Windsor, one of our much respected citizens, died this week. He was a great sufferer and will be mourned by a large circle of friends.

J. Wallace Parker's vacation being over, he has returned to his place of business in Philadelphia. His sister, Marian, went back with him and will spend a few weeks in visiting her old home, where her father was pastor for several years.

Rev. Mr. Perry was absent from town last Sunday and there was no preaching in his church. The three congregations, Baptist, M. P. and M. E. assembled in the M. E. Church at night to witness the re-opening services. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Truitt was in his element and received the congratulations of his friends on the beautiful appearance of the church. The furniture is the finest and most up to date of any in all this community. Those taking part in the services were Rev. B. G. Parker, of the Baptist Church, Rev. Dr. Cross, President of the Wilmington Conference Academy and the mother of the pastor.

At Branch Hill Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon, a tousing congregation was in attendance. The pastor immersed Mr. Howard Hatton, Mrs. Lena Parker and Miss Minnie Cordray. There is a steady work of grace in Rev. Mr. Parker's field, and has been ever since his settlement here. The church now numbers ninety three members. There are others awaiting baptism.

The Methodist Protestant excursion on Wednesday to Ocean City was largely attended.

Mrs. F. A. Hatton, of Charleston, Missouri, and Mrs. D. D. Roberts, of Lexington, Kentucky, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Truitt.

Pastor Parker will preach in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday at 4.00 p. m.

Within the past few days, the Angel of Death has hovered over the homes of Mr. William H. Taylor and his son, Mr. Woodland R. Taylor, and called both father and son to the realms above. Mr. Taylor, Sr., departed this life July 1st, and a little more than a week thereafter, July 10th, his oldest child, Robert James Woodland Taylor breathed his last. Thus a double stroke has fallen upon a family already bowed down with grief and affliction, and makes their loss profoundly sad and deeply pathetic.

An epidemic of typhoid fever first visited the family about six months ago and proved fatal to Clay Taylor, a son sixteen years old. Other members of the family had recovered when the oldest son fell a victim and he too succumbed to the dread malady.

Mr. W. H. Taylor was the son of the late James Taylor, and was one of a large family of skilled masons. He was born September 4, 1843. Mr. Taylor was twice married and it is worthy of note that each marriage took place in the month of March. When he was thirty years old he was married the first time, the bride being Miss May Frances Twilley, who lived not quite four years afterwards, leaving two children, a daughter, who died in childhood and the above mentioned son.

Nine years later he married Miss Rhodella G. Covington, by whom he has two surviving children, Miss Nanette and Waldo Taylor. His last wife was Miss Martha E. Truitt, to whom he was married March 7, 1882. She with one son, besides the children of his second marriage survive him.

"He the young and strong who cherished Noble thoughts for the strife By the road-side fell and perished, Weary with the march of life."

Mr. Woodland Taylor also leaves a widow and son. He was married three years ago to Miss Rosalie E. Dashiell, daughter of Capt. C. R. Dashiell. Only twenty nine years of age; a long life, it seems, should have lain before him but alas!

"So lived that when their summons came to join The innumerable caravan that moves To that mysterious realm, where each shall take His chamber in the silent halls of death, They went not like guilty slaves at night Scourged to their dungeon, but sustained and soothed, By an unfeeling trust approached their graves."

Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him, And lies down to pleasant dreams.

The deaths of these two men have cast a gloom not only in their own homes, but over the community at large. Their loss will be felt in the Church, in the Sunday School and in the hearts of the people, but let us rejoice that they.

Huge Storms And Small Floods Prevail In City And County.

Salisbury and vicinity have been visited by several severe storms lately, resulting in heavy rains, considerable flooded damage, but no loss of life. On Saturday afternoon a thunder storm unequalled in severity for a long time burst over the city and the lightning, intense and vivid, damaged houses in Frankford, and also struck the topmast of a vessel—the schooner Corbett owned by the E. S. Adkins Lumber Co. The brick underpinning of Mr. G. J. Hearn's residence on Park Street was badly damaged, sixteen feet of it being washed away. The brick-work of a new dwelling for Mr. Frank Dennis on Camden Avenue will have to be redone. Fortunately the damage was not proportionate with the intensity of the storm and there were no fatalities nor serious losses. Slowly have occurred frequently since, until Thursday afternoon when Salisbury experienced another severe storm. The lightning struck the top mast of another anchored vessel in the harbor, completely destroying the mast but not injuring the vessel in any other way. The poles of the telephone Co., were repeatedly hit but were not injured.

FASHIONS AT SARATOGA.

White A Prime Favorite: Combination Of Colored Linen And Lace Organdies; Silk Gowns: Lace Coats: Evening Costumes.

The furore for white finds full expression at this Mecca of the fashionist, where "from early morn to dewy eve" the plainest and most elegant white costumes overshadow for the time being, even those in delicate colors, nevertheless no hue is too bright or no design too pronounced for what are termed "hand painted" organdies, modified by elaborate trimmings of Val lace. Thus it is that the fashionable world is never without its contrasts. A white serge breakfast dress worn by a Chicago blonde, consisting of skirt and long coat, crimmled with white cloth leaves, applied on, and outlined by white silk cord, was a welcome change from embroidered linen or Val lace.

An Exquisite Combination.

of blue linen face was seen in a costume worn by a Philadelphia belle at a morning concert on a hot verandah. The skirt had a panel of lace and lawn at the front, and the back and sides were made up of three deep lace flounces, on a sheer lawn foundation. A long, pale blue linen coat was fitted closely at the back but not closed at the front, showing a full white lace waist and flowing lace jabot at the neck. Around the blue linen coat, was wide lace with a heavy edge, and beneath the edge was a blue linen band. At intervals of a few inches, white hand crocheted roses were placed on the edge at the top, with elbow cuffs trimmed with lace and roses, and deep lace ruffles gave the finishing touch.

A Plain Sea Green Organdie Dress.

made over white and worn by a handsome blonde, had three wide ruffles on the skirt edged with Val lace, and a full bertha around the shoulders, and edged with lace. The gathers on skirt and waist were held, in Princess style, by narrow tucks. The sleeves were three puffs with Val lace lower sleeves, and lace collar. The hat was of sea green Liberty silk, of large sailor shape, and trimmed with bows, shirring, and ruchings of the material. The parasol was of green silk, with a cluster of white lilies embroidered on each gore.

Illustration.

This charming gown of white linen, for the illustration of which we are indebted to the McCall Co., designers and publishers of Fashion, is trimmed with Broderie Anglaise bands. Belt and shoes of banana yellow. White hat of rice straw with fancy edge of quilted ribbon. Pumps and buttons of banana yellow tint. Parasol of yellow taffeta, and hose of white open work embroidered in yellow.

Silk Gowns.

of every variety of design and texture, appear in great numbers for the afternoon drive or the evening dance or promenade. A new style of cut is a tunic almost as long as the lower skirt, drawn up high on the left side and closely shirred. The V thus formed is filled in with wide tucks of the material, and the waist is a draped, pointed bodice, with lace chemisette and puffed elbow sleeves.

Lace Coats.

give an air of elegance to a costume, and are suitable to any and all handsome skirts, and especially desirable for evening use, being readily thrown off when dancing begins, and resumed when heated from that delightful diversion. Elegant costumes of flowered monameline, crepe de Chine, not chiffon or lace of many varieties contribute to make the ball rooms of the leading hotels scenes of exceptional charm, especially when jewelry is so generally worn as it is this season. The gay little coats of the Louis and Directoire styles, worn with lace skirts, add their quota to the general effect.

MUCH ADO IN CITY

Of Salisbury Society. A Busy Week Afforded By Much Entertaining In Honor Of Out-of-Town Visitors.

Salisbury has had an unsurpassed week in social functions. The entertaining has been general and the divisions many on land, river and lake. Monday morning, in honor of her guests, the Misses Jones of Baltimore, Miss Maria Ellegood gave a garden party to which many of her lady friends were invited. The following music was rendered by Miss Nettie Jones:

"Serenade," Landing; Waltz, E major, Chopin; Prelude, E minor, Chopin; "Fire Music," Wagner, from Walkire. Miss Ella Jones rendered the following vocal selections: "Aria" by St. Sams; "Who is Sylvia," by Schubert.

In the evening followed another entertainment and the guests were again permitted to enjoy a variety of rare piano selections charmingly rendered by Miss Nettie Jones.

Waltz, in E, by Moszkowski; "Rustle of Spring," by Linding; "On Wings of Love," by Mendelssohn; "Capriccio," by Hutchinson; "Ballade," by Chopin. Miss Ella Jones rendered as vocal selections, "Calm as the Night," by Bohm; "Slumber Boat," by Gayner. Mrs. H. B. Freeny sang, "When Love is Done," and Mr. Edgar Laws, "The Message of the Violets."

The Misses Houston entertained a party of friends at a musical Tuesday evening, given in honor of Miss McAtee, of Front Royal, Va., and the Misses Jones of Baltimore. About twenty five were present.

Misses Carrie and Nellie Fish gave a delightful porch party Wednesday morning in honor of the Misses Jones of Baltimore. Filling out the unfinished complets of a literary romance formed a part of the morning's entertainment. Miss Ella Jones won the prize. Refreshments were served at twelve. Among the guests were the Misses Jones of Baltimore, Miss McAtee, Port Royal, Va., Miss Crozier of West Chester, Pa., Miss Willis, Miss Fulton of Baltimore, Mrs. Erna Williams, Mrs. M. A. Humphreys, Mrs. F. P. Adkins, Mrs. Harry Tall, Mrs. Harry B. Freeny, Mrs. S. King White, Mrs. A. G. Toadvine, Mrs. Harry Phillips, Mrs. U. W. Folk, Mrs. Edward Fulton, Mrs. E. Stanley Toadvine, Misses Bertha Stengle, Nannie Wailes, Victoria Wailes, Katherine Todd, Irma Graham, Dora Toadvine, Lettie Houston, Mary Houston, Maria Ellegood, Mary Lee White and Gladys Moore.

Mrs. Marion Humphreys entertained about thirty five guests at a five o'clock musical on Thursday afternoon at her home on Camden Avenue, the guests of honor being the Misses Jones of Baltimore, Mrs. Edson of Chicago and Mrs. Freeny of Salisbury. The following exceptionally fine program was rendered in the course of the afternoon:

Piano Solo, Magic Fire, Miss Jones; Vocal Duet, Forest Nymphs, Miss Stengle and Mrs. Fulton; Piano Solo, Selected, Mrs. Tall; Vocal Solo, Aria, Miss Jones; Vocal Solo, Chopin Ballad, Miss Jones; Vocal Solo, Love's Sorrow, Miss Nannie Gordo, Duet, I Live For Thee, Mrs. Freeny and Miss Ellegood; Piano, Serenade, Miss Jones. In the evening about thirty married friends were entertained, the porch being beautifully decorated with lanterns.

Mrs. Harry B. Freeny gave a beautifully appointed luncheon Thursday in honor of Misses Nettie and Ella Jones of Baltimore. Covers were laid for eight. The guests were Mrs. Harry Tall, Mrs. F. P. Adkins, Mrs. S. King White, Miss Nettie Jones, Miss Ella Jones, Miss Maria Ellegood and Miss Mary Lee White.

Guilty But Hurt.
"I was governor of my state for two terms," said a well-known western politician, "and I made up my mind as soon as I was sworn in the first time to right any wrong I might find in the two state prisons. I had some how got the idea that many innocent men were sent there."
"And did you find it so," was asked.
"I did. There were over a thousand convicts in all, and I investigated 350 cases before I stopped. According to his own story, every one was an innocent man and the victim of injustice. There was one exception. He had been sent to prison for stealing a cow and he led to me for a long time. At length, one day after I had gone over the case with him for the fifth time and showed him that he must be guilty, he said:
"It's no use to try to deceive you, governor. I'll admit that I did the stealing, but what hurts my feelings is the mistake they made. It wasn't a cow at all, but a blamed old jackass, and the jury convicted me because it was sworn to that he gave twelve quarts of milk a day."

WELL EQUIPPED.
Askem—"How do you manage to make your opera succeed with only eight in the chorus?"
Manager—"I've got twelve bill posters."

Montana Coroner's Verdict.
"Gentlemen," said the Montana coroner, "this is a case where the decedent lying before you was mistaken in his man. He sets out to look for Steve Brady and fill him with lead, but comes across Sam Andrews instead and stops to ask him what he'll take for the cause he is riding. Sam sets a price and they get into a row and Bill Harper is shot dead."
"There is no question in my mind that had Bill found Steve he would have plunked him and there is no question but he was found by Sam and got plunked himself, but out of respect for the statutes made and provided it is my duty to inform you that a verdict of rush of blood to the head will be perfectly satisfactory to all interested parties."

Too Extravagant.
"It has come to my ears, gem'lens of dis Lime Kiln club, dat six different members hev dun gone and rented locked boxes at de post office. I don't menshun any names, but I want it understood dat I frown upon any sich piece of extravagance."
"Last Sunday I saw sartin members of dis club ridin' out wid livery rigst I don't call any names, but I know dat dose men don't ain't ober $8 a week at de best. Dar dey was, whoopin' around and puttin' on style when dey could no more afford it dan I kin afford to whitewash de capitol at Washington for de sum of 15 cents an' board myself."

When it comes to a quick parting the fool and his money are a close second to a woman and her secret.
Some men waste a lot of valuable time explaining their actions.

M. E. Sunday School Of Sharptown Spend Tuesday At The Seashore. A Delightful Trip.
The M. E. Sunday School of Sharptown made an excursion to Ocean City on Tuesday, going by way of Vienna. The day at the Ocean was a model one and every one reports a good time. Every feature of the trip was pleasurable and nothing occurred to disturb the happiness of the excursionists, young and old. They are loud in their praise of the railroad officials, who extended every courtesy possible and did all in their power to add to their comfort and pleasure. Conductor Parker was especially attentive and made every one feel like he was one of the party. The excursion was one long to be remembered for the abundance of its pleasure.

Schooner Grace Leaves.
At one o'clock Wednesday the railway whistle made three long toots, the tug Fearless, replied with three blasts in quick succession and many men, women and children, hastened to the wharves, river banks and shady glen to see the Annie C. Grace, move away on the placid waters of the Nanticoke on her way to Norfolk, Va., and E. W. Bailey at the wheel with his pretty bride by his side. The vessel is considered a beauty in appearance. She has been rebuilt at the railway and new sails by B. P. Gravenor and is in every way prepared to plow the stormy deep. Capt. Bailey expects to be gone about five months. His bride will return from Norfolk in about ten days. The best wishes of the town followed the Captain who has but recently become a member of our society, and his popular bride.

Niagara Falls Excursions.
The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has selected the following dates for its popular ten day excursions to Niagara Falls from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington; July 7 and 21, August 11 and 25, September 8 and 22 and October 13.
The excursions from Philadelphia will be run by two routes. Those on July 7 and 21, August 11 and 25, September 8 and 22, going via Harrisburg and the picturesque valley of the Susquehanna, special train leaving Philadelphia at 8.10 a. m., excursion of October 13 running via Trenton, Manunka Chunks, and the Delaware Valley, leaving Philadelphia on special train at 8.07 a. m.
Excursion tickets, good for return passage on any regular train, exclusive of limited express trains, within ten days, will be sold at $10.00 from Philadelphia and all points on the Delaware Division; $1.25 from Atlantic City; $9.00 from Lancaster; and at proportionate rates from other points, including Trenton, Bordentown, Mt. Holly, Cape May, Salem, Wilmington, West Chester, Reading and principal intermediate stations. A stop over will be allowed at Buffalo within the limit of ticket returning.
The special trains of Pullman prior cars and day coaches will be run with each excursion running through to Niagara Falls. An extra charge will be made for parlor car seats.
An experienced tourist agent and chaperon will accompany each excursion.
For descriptive pamphlet, time of connecting trains, and further information apply to nearest ticket agent, or address Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

BABY'S FACE MASS OF SORES
Ears Looked as if They Would Drop Off—Body Entirely Covered with Humor—Three Doctors Could Not Cure—Child Grew Worse.
CURED BY CUTICURA IN TWO WEEKS
Mrs. George J. Steece, of 707 Coburn St., Akron, Ohio, tells in the following letter of another of those remarkable cures of torturing, disfiguring skin humors daily made by Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, and after physicians, and all else had failed: "I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering babies to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was eaten away, her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of soap and box of ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body was as clear as a new-born babe's. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents, which is all it cost us to cure our baby, after spending many dollars on doctors and medicines without any benefit whatever."

SLEEP FOR BABIES

Rest for Mothers.
Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies, and rest for tired, fretted mothers, in warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, and parent's emollients. Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, are prepared at the Cuticura Soap and Ointment Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A. Send for New York City, N.Y.

How Do You Believe It.
I bought enough Davis 100 per cent Pure Paint to put on three coats. After putting on two coats, the work looked so well I found it did not need a third coat and returned what was left. My painter said he had never used any other paint that would cover as much surface as Davis 100 per cent Pure Paint. James L. McCray, Oct. 26-02. Blanch, N. C.

PRICE, Clerk and Treas., IMPURE FOOD IN NEW YORK, Enough Destroyed Annually to Feed 5,000 Persons, The food condemned by the board of health and destroyed in this city in a year, if accumulated in one spot, would make a pyramidal hill two hundred feet broad at the base and three hundred feet high. In quantity it would be sufficient to feed 5,000 persons throughout the year, supplying them with meat, fish, game and poultry, vegetables, groceries, all varieties of fruit and confectionery. There is a ceaseless vigilance in New York to insure pure food for its inhabitants. This does not mean that thousands of tons of adulterated and harmful foods are not eaten yearly—for the channels by which they may reach the tables of rich and poor are many, and the carelessness of householders and cooks are responsible for much. But at the gates of the city where food is admitted by rail and by stores and among the push-cart vendors of edibles the inspectors of the health department are always at work. During the ripe-fruit season they are most active, and their work is the heaviest. Their authority is almost supreme, and they can order the destruction of a train load or a ship load of fruit or vegetables, or a hundred head of cattle infected with disease, involving a loss to the owners of thousands of dollars. In the last twelve months 7,172,347 pounds of food stuffs were condemned, seized and destroyed. Some of this—especially fruit brought in by ship—went out to sea and was dumped in the briny deep. The entire shipload was a loss through a delayed voyage in hot weather, causing fermentation to set in among the perishable cargo. Many a shipload of bananas have gone that way. Of the more than 7,000,000 pounds of food destroyed in the last year, 4,629,090 pounds were fruit. Meat came next—more than a million pounds having been deemed unfit to use. Vegetables were a close third, 771,100 pounds. In addition to this, solid food, the amount of milk destroyed in the year has been 21,000 quarts. This, seen at once in all its bulk, is a lot of milk. It is, however, but "a spoonful" out of the great river of the liquid food that pours into the metropolitan city. In a year 550,000,000 quarts of milk are consumed in New York, 1,500,000 quarts a day. The effort to protect the city from impure or unwholesome milk has resulted through years of legislation and careful inspection in making the dealers careful that the milk they bring to the city meets the legal requirements. These requirements in one way place a premium on poor milk while guarding the city from milk that is unwholesome or entirely worthless. The law calls for not less than 2 per cent of butter fats in all milk sold in New York. This is not a high standard, and many dealers avail themselves of the small percentage required to reduce the nutritive quality of their milk to this low standard. Many consumers of milk in New York pay dearly for milk that is above the legal standard of purity and nutritiveness. It will surprise some people to know that milk—not cream—is sold in this city as high as 90 cents a quart. A sworn statement accompanies this milk, as to its freedom from injurious qualities—bacteria, etc.—and as to its richness in butter fats. The cows from which this milk is taken are selected registered Durhams and Holsteins. The sanitary arrangements for the care of the cattle and the milk are as perfect as expenditure of money and scientific skill can make them. The milk is kept and delivered at a proper temperature. Milk left uncovered in the living room of a tenement house for a few hours has been found to contain as many as 50,000,000 bacteria per cubic centimetre. The expensive milk served by the expert dairymen may contain less than 500 bacteria to the centimetre. This milk is bought chiefly for feeble and ailing children. Of the food condemned in this city by the health department but a small proportion is of adulterated food. Less than a hundred tons of groceries and confectionery have been seized in the last year because of harmful adulteration. In addition to this vast amount of food condemned and destroyed by order of the city's health department, the people of New York are notably wasteful in the food they throw away—the refuse from dining rooms and kitchens that goes to the garbage barrels. This adds some hundred thousand tons to the condemned foods that find their way, in the iron tanks of the garbage boats, to Barren Island. There this huge mass is "fried out," its oils extracted and its fertilizing elements reduced to powder and sold. In the year 1904 half a million tons of food stuffs from the kitchens of the city and of the food condemned by the health department were fed to the busy machinery at Barronsland.

Of the food condemned in this city by the health department but a small proportion is of adulterated food. Less than a hundred tons of groceries and confectionery have been seized in the last year because of harmful adulteration. In addition to this vast amount of food condemned and destroyed by order of the city's health department, the people of New York are notably wasteful in the food they throw away—the refuse from dining rooms and kitchens that goes to the garbage barrels. This adds some hundred thousand tons to the condemned foods that find their way, in the iron tanks of the garbage boats, to Barren Island. There this huge mass is "fried out," its oils extracted and its fertilizing elements reduced to powder and sold. In the year 1904 half a million tons of food stuffs from the kitchens of the city and of the food condemned by the health department were fed to the busy machinery at Barronsland.

PRICE, Clerk and Treas., IMPURE FOOD IN NEW YORK, Enough Destroyed Annually to Feed 5,000 Persons, The food condemned by the board of health and destroyed in this city in a year, if accumulated in one spot, would make a pyramidal hill two hundred feet broad at the base and three hundred feet high. In quantity it would be sufficient to feed 5,000 persons throughout the year, supplying them with meat, fish, game and poultry, vegetables, groceries, all varieties of fruit and confectionery. There is a ceaseless vigilance in New York to insure pure food for its inhabitants. This does not mean that thousands of tons of adulterated and harmful foods are not eaten yearly—for the channels by which they may reach the tables of rich and poor are many, and the carelessness of householders and cooks are responsible for much. But at the gates of the city where food is admitted by rail and by stores and among the push-cart vendors of edibles the inspectors of the health department are always at work. During the ripe-fruit season they are most active, and their work is the heaviest. Their authority is almost supreme, and they can order the destruction of a train load or a ship load of fruit or vegetables, or a hundred head of cattle infected with disease, involving a loss to the owners of thousands of dollars. In the last twelve months 7,172,347 pounds of food stuffs were condemned, seized and destroyed. Some of this—especially fruit brought in by ship—went out to sea and was dumped in the briny deep. The entire shipload was a loss through a delayed voyage in hot weather, causing fermentation to set in among the perishable cargo. Many a shipload of bananas have gone that way. Of the more than 7,000,000 pounds of food destroyed in the last year, 4,629,090 pounds were fruit. Meat came next—more than a million pounds having been deemed unfit to use. Vegetables were a close third, 771,100 pounds. In addition to this, solid food, the amount of milk destroyed in the year has been 21,000 quarts. This, seen at once in all its bulk, is a lot of milk. It is, however, but "a spoonful" out of the great river of the liquid food that pours into the metropolitan city. In a year 550,000,000 quarts of milk are consumed in New York, 1,500,000 quarts a day. The effort to protect the city from impure or unwholesome milk has resulted through years of legislation and careful inspection in making the dealers careful that the milk they bring to the city meets the legal requirements. These requirements in one way place a premium on poor milk while guarding the city from milk that is unwholesome or entirely worthless. The law calls for not less than 2 per cent of butter fats in all milk sold in New York. This is not a high standard, and many dealers avail themselves of the small percentage required to reduce the nutritive quality of their milk to this low standard. Many consumers of milk in New York pay dearly for milk that is above the legal standard of purity and nutritiveness. It will surprise some people to know that milk—not cream—is sold in this city as high as 90 cents a quart. A sworn statement accompanies this milk, as to its freedom from injurious qualities—bacteria, etc.—and as to its richness in butter fats. The cows from which this milk is taken are selected registered Durhams and Holsteins. The sanitary arrangements for the care of the cattle and the milk are as perfect as expenditure of money and scientific skill can make them. The milk is kept and delivered at a proper temperature. Milk left uncovered in the living room of a tenement house for a few hours has been found to contain as many as 50,000,000 bacteria per cubic centimetre. The expensive milk served by the expert dairymen may contain less than 500 bacteria to the centimetre. This milk is bought chiefly for feeble and ailing children. Of the food condemned in this city by the health department but a small proportion is of adulterated food. Less than a hundred tons of groceries and confectionery have been seized in the last year because of harmful adulteration. CAMP NORTHFIELD GROWING.

Camp Northfield, the well known College man's resort of New England, opened Thursday with over one hundred men safely encamped among the pines of Notch Mountain. It is expected that this number will increase to two hundred before the middle of July and by the time the camp closes, September 1st, it is probable that there will have been over five hundred men registered. The camp was started ten years ago by D. L. Moody as a Y. M. C. A. Institution but since that time has broadened out so that now any young man who is out for a good clean vacation is welcomed. Last year new tennis courts and better boating facilities were put in and a camp Club House was erected in honor of Henry Seifort, a former student manager of the camp who was killed on the General Slocum. The camp life begins with a rush as the athletic organizations already have their games and tournaments under way. An inter-collegiate field day and track meet took place on July Fourth and after that followed a series of base ball games between the different college delegations who are in Northfield during this period. The campers are in close touch with the educational and religious conferences which are held at Northfield throughout the summer, and are permitted to attend the platform meetings, of these gatherings.

FOR SUMMER THOUGHTS.

During the hot, tempestuous summer months little will be done in political lines toward actual public argument on the two great questions that will confront the people of Maryland at the November polls and the Legislature at its next session. Little, though, as may be accomplished during this inactive vacation season, it is an opportune time to stock up on the conditions in our State, which seem to demand from the Democratic party the fullest allegiance and support of the suffrage amendment to be submitted in the fall, and likewise to accumulate a sufficiently intimate knowledge of the oyster question to enable them to judge it intelligently and to the point. Let not all the summer be footprints of sand.

—Ex Governor Jackson has purchased of Mr. Geo. W. D. Waller the property opposite his residence, on the north side of the B. C. & A. R. R. This property extends from near Division street (with which it is easily connected by streets laid out) to the water power of the Electric Light Co., and from Hill street on the north to the railroad. The lot comprises about ten acres, being a part of the Middle Neck lot owned by the late George Waller, deceased, and about three acres purchased by Mr. Waller of G. H. Toadvine's trustees. The property will make a valuable addition to the already palatial residence of Governor Jackson. It is understood that the property brought $500 an acre.

—Mr. George Wm. Brownington, for several years a resident of Salisbury, died Wednesday afternoon of tuberculosis at the home of Mr. M. C. Lucas in this city at the age of 47. Mr. Gordon Brownington is the only surviving child. Messrs. Harry Brownington, of Princess Anne, James Brownington and Isaac Brownington are brothers and Mrs. Lucy Dove is a sister of Mr. Brownington. Funeral services were conducted Thursday at the home of Mr. Martin Lucas by Rev. Drs. C. A. Hill and T. N. Potts.

Contemplated Improvements To Wicomico Harbor.

Civil Engineer William H. Cochran, of the United States Engineers' Office was here Tuesday looking after contemplated improvements on the Salisbury harbor and the channel of Wicomico River from the Great Shoals lighthouse to Salisbury. He met a committee at the office of Former Congressman William H. Jackson. They pointed out the growth of business in Salisbury since the first improvements were made about 1875, and the further advantage a nine foot channel from the Great Shoals to Salisbury would be.

After carefully going over the situation with the committee, which was composed of A. A. Gillis, William J. Stator, John D. Williams, A. J. Benjamin, A. F. Benjamin, E. S. Adkins, Fred P. Adkins, Glen Perdue, R. B. White and M. V. Brownington and Congressman Jackson, Mr. Cochran said that he thought he could make a favorable recommendation, and expressed the opinion that there would be but little trouble in getting the work done. Congressman Jackson said: "I have been working for this improvement ever since I have been in Congress, and I now believe there is a chance of getting it."

Demise Of Mr. I. H. A. Dulany, At Fruitland, Wednesday.

Mr. Isaac Henry Dulany, one of Wicomico's oldest and most esteemed citizens, died at his home in Fruitland on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Dulany was widely known, having been in the mercantile business at Forktown, now known as Fruitland, for over thirty-five years.

He was a member of No. 23, I. O. H., in which order he was insured for $3,000, payable to his wife, children and grandsons.

He was 83 years of age and leaves the following children: Rev. H. S. Dulany, of Lawsonia, Md.; Messrs. Penn and Joseph Dulany, commission merchants, Philadelphia; Messrs. John and Albert Dulany, who were in business with him at Fruitland, and a married daughter.

His funeral took place Friday afternoon from his late home, at 2 o'clock.

A NOTABLE TRIBUTE.

The tribute paid recently in London to the retiring American ambassador has no parallel in the long list of courtesies extended to our representatives abroad. Mr. Choate was the guest of the lord mayor and the corporation of the city at a dinner given in the historic Mansion House. His services while in London have been rather social than diplomatic, but that was due to the absence of any serious international questions. We get along so well with Great Britain now that the professional burden put upon the shoulders of our ambassador at the court of St. James is constantly growing lighter. Still the American ambassador to London enjoys a distinction which can never be taken from him by the representative of any other nation. He is there as the spokesman of a people whose language, laws, literature and institutions, both social and political, prove the vitality and indestructibility of Anglo-Saxon ideals.

THE GAMBLING SPIRIT.

The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst wants to put the district attorney on a new scent. It is all very well, he says, to drive one big gambler to cover, but why not make a clean job of it and break up craps and penny-tossing? The doctor is pained by the sight of street urchins wasting their earnings or squandering the gift or loot from the parental board in demoralizing games of chance. "There is not a precinct nor an election district, nor scarcely a street in town," says the doctor, "in which there is not maintained a nursery of young gamblers. Little gambling seminaries that are never touched, and every one of the attendants upon those seminaries is a possible Cainfield." A true bill, but what is the district attorney going to do about it—invoke the Dowling law against the crap-shooters and the penny-tossers? But perhaps that would not be necessary: the damning evidence is to be had outdoors, and the gamblers can be taken in the act "with the goods on them."

OFF MILTON POINT.

(By Ruby Douglas.)

Dorothy picked her way carefully across the slimy, seaweed-covered stones to the big fishing rocks off Milton Point. Her russet oxford were wet, her hair was blown about in an untidy, if bewitching fashion, and on either cheek the delicate blue rose had bloomed into a veritable American beauty in its coloring.

Perhaps for the first time she realized what a comfort a masculine arm is when one goes fishing and climbing over slippery rocks. Her arm was tired from carrying her rod and bait and cushion—Dorothy could not go fishing without a cushion.

She had walked all the way from the Oxford because a certain young man with whom she did not care to have any more to do had gone to the beach and she could not get a boat without coming in contact with his distasteful presence.

The flat rock was deserted, and Dorothy heaved a little sigh of relief. She opened the usual angler would not come because—well, because one really should be alone when one fished.

Little wrinkles of perplexity dodged in and out on her brow and played hide and seek beneath the befringed sunbonnet when she began to get her rod and line ready for fishing. Such a tangle as it was in. She almost cried with vexation at the rod of course.

One by one she undid the tangles and did not notice the boat coming over the sound toward the rocks. A big-hatted, gray whiskered person with a pipe and several rods was preparing to ensconce himself on the rocks.

"I never thought he would do such a thing," Dorothy was commenting mentally. "And then for him to think I would accept an apology. It was an unpardonable offence—to let a girl go home with a whole crowd and at their mercy. Who ever heard of a man's being held by force when he had a girl to take home?"

At last she had straightened out her line and, gingerly, she drew the bait pall toward her. She looked in among the crawling fiddlers and shuddered. How could she ever pick up one and stick a hook through it?

She tried to summon up courage, and finally put her hand into the pall. "O! O!" she cried, jumping up and dropping her rod into the water. One of the fiddlers had nipped her finger and was stubbornly hanging on.

"Release," she said to the occupant of the rock turned from his poles and looked at her.

"Release," she said timidly, seeing that the old man did not offer to assist her, "won't you take this awful thing off?"

With some difficulty she recovered her pole and baited it, and was soon sitting placidly on the rocks, fishing and thinking.

"If only it had rained," she was saying to herself, "he might have come back, but the horrid crowd would not wait for him."

A nibble called her back to her occupation. She pulled in her line but found nothing but a portion of the fiddler on the hook.

Suddenly there was a strong tug at her line and Dorothy gave such a jerk that the long, slippery, squirming something on the end landed squarely on the head of the fisherman and sent his broad straw hat flying.

"O, what have I done?" cried Dorothy.

And then she gasped. A sleek head of brown hair. What a surprise to see that hair with the gray whiskers. The man took the hat—it was an eel. Dorothy had caught—and threw it back into the water.

"Tom Stanford!" Dorothy whispered almost inaudibly.

"Dorothy!" he replied, smiling.

Neither of them paid the least attention to the hat and the rods which were floating about in the waters of the sound.

"How could you do such a mean, mean thing?" she asked, pushing her hair back beneath her bonnet and trying, generally, to recover herself.

"Tom did not know which of the things she referred to—the escapade of the night before, or the prank he had just played on her.

"Because of you," she ventured, answering the latter idea.

"But—but I wasn't going to have anything more to do with you after last night," she said, slowly, trying and untying her bonnet strings.

"It was absolutely unavoidable, Dorothy. That gang of fellows held me forcibly upstairs, and I could not get away to join you. Do you think that I would purposely leave you to go home without me when I had escorted you there?"

"No," she admitted reluctantly.

"And you will accept my apology and admit that I played a clever game to see you alone and force you to listen to me?" he asked, going nearer to her.

"Perhaps," she said.

"And you'll forgive me, too, for taking that fiddler off your finger so unfeelingly and without making myself known?"

"Yes," Dorothy was very submissive. She was glad she was not alone on the rocks.

"And, dear, will you promise, while you are in the mood, to marry me?" He put his arm about her.

"If—if you'll take those whiskers off," Dorothy answered.

And later a boat arrived at the hotel with two occupants who had been fishing, but they had neither pole nor fish.

The broker who paid $22,500 for a Stock Exchange stock recently calculated that the privilege costs him between $12 and $14 for every day the Exchange is open for business. Never before was such a high price paid for a seat.

The broker figured that the interest on the investment at 5 per cent amounts to $1,125 a year, and that there are 300 working days in the year. Incidentally, he said, he hoped to make more than $13 a day out of his investment.

HERE AT HOME.

Salisbury Citizens Gladly Testify.

It is testimony like the following that has placed "The Old Quaker Remedy" as far above competitors. When people fight at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Salisbury citizen:

E. Sampson Truitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last February. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back. The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Millburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Beware Of Ointments for Catarrh That Contains Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

MRS TIM'S VAIN SEARCH.

"He must take the medicine in a recumbent position," said the physician who had been called to attend an injured Irishman. The man's wife was puzzled, but would not admit it. She confided her dilemma first to her husband.

"Tim, dear," she said, "here's your medicine all right, but the doctor do be saying ye must take it in a recumbent position, and a man haves we in the house."

"Ye might borrow yaw," suggested Tim. "There's Mrs. O'Mara, now she do always be having things comfortable and handy folks."

So the wife made her appeal to the more provident neighbor.

"Mrs. O'Mara, me Tim has been hurted."

"The poor soul."

"Yes, and he's that bad the doctor says. Give him his medicine in a recumbent position, me Tim, we haven't a man in the house. Would ye mind giving me the loan yaw?"

Mrs. O'Mara was puzzled in her turn, but she, too, refused to admit it. "Faith, and ye can have it and welcome," she said heartily, "but me friend, Mrs. Flaherty, has it; she borried it Chewayd week—just around the corner beyond, formin' the pump." So the quest was continued.

"Mrs. Flaherty, excuse me for troubling ye, me being a stranger entirely to ye, but me man is hurted, and the doctor says, 'N hope of saving him unless ye give him his medicine in a recumbent position.' Me self didn't happen to have yaw, so I stepped over to borra Mrs. O'Mara's. Would ye mind borrowin' me taking it the while, me Tim being so bad?"

"Mould? AV course not!" returned Mrs. Flaherty, with the polite readiness of her nationality. But sorry the day! Flaherty—he do be mighty on stidly betimes—he dropped it on the floor last night and broke it."

"I'll have to pour it into him the best way I can, poor man!" said Tim's wife, as she hurried home.—Baltimore Sun.

EXERCISES FOR THE ARMS.

Tried at Odd Moments Will Develop Muscles and Firmness.

The principal development is bending the elbow and drawing the hand toward the shoulder, which brings the bicep muscles into play, and if anything which will do this is done vigorously and continuously for weeks the arm will become strong and well shaped.

Therefore, some of these things may be gone through with at any time when a woman has a few spare moments. For instance, pushing against a wall is highly recommended by Blaikie, the exercise covering only a minute or so. It is of course to be repeated as many times as one will.

This is recommended as among the first for beginners, who should stand facing a wall and about two feet from it. Place the hands on the level with the head, about three feet apart, against the wall, and let the whole body lean forward very slowly toward the wall until the chest is almost against it, the face being upturned and back. Then push back to the original pose and repeat this many times. This exercise may be done while wearing corsets although it is better to remove them.

If it is true that women cannot drive a nail home straight it is time they learned for the continuous welding of a hammer in fine for the forearm. The repeated bending, raising and grasping of the handle are all developing. Carpentry, indeed, is a kind of work women should more frequently indulge in. Sawing is a fine chest development, as is also planing.

A thing to do when one has a spare moment during the day is to pick up any object that requires a little strength to hold and thrust it out at arm's length, either at the side or in front. Hold it out for a couple of seconds and then put it down, picking it up again and repeating. It makes no difference what the object may be, a light chair or a dumbbell is equally good. It should be heavy enough to tax the muscles without exhausting them. After repeated practicing a heavier object can be taken.

Lifting a weight from the floor will also develop the forearms, and this should be done consecutively several times at intervals throughout the day.

Climbing a ladder, lifting oneself up rung by rung; hauling, as pulling down a flag, anything that bends the arm while it is at work is desirable.

With these or any of those suggested the necessary thing is that they should be done several times daily without fail. At the end of the month the arms should show pronounced development.

To broaden the chest while at work stretch the arms to the very utmost capacity until a cross is formed. The stretch must be a very positive one, and it should be done for five minutes a day. There is nothing better and few things are easier to do for the chest than this.

If one will take the time at the end of these exercises to rub a good flesh food into the arms it will improve the texture of the skin. Either the elder flower cream, the recipe for which will be sent on receipt of a stamped envelope, is good, or a cucumber cream, the recipe for which was given out on this page a few days ago. Even one-third glycerine to two-thirds rose water, mixed, will be bleaching and softening.—New York Telegram.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

NOT EXACTLY.

Josh Billings (Just married)—"Say, is there a bridal suite in this here hotel?"

Proprietor of the Hotel Castoria—"Bridal suite? Say, do you take this for a boss hotel?"

Marriage Trust Magnate.

Judge William Hill, who dispenses justice—and then some—at Sunnyside when not engaged in pursuing the festive dollar while arrayed in the fine raiment or common garb of a dozen other callings, is pretty much the whole thing when it comes to outfitting folks for the married state. A few days ago a love sick swain called on the judge and solicited his services to unite him in holy bonds.

"By the way, judge," said the young man, "ain't you the proprietor of the dance hall?" "I am," replied the justice.

"Well, I want it for a dance. How about the music?" "Well, I can supply that," said the judge.

"Then I must give a supper," said the soon-to-be benighted. "Well, I am a professional cook," replied his honor, "and can serve you nicely in that line."

"All right," said the young man; "now I must see a photographer and make arrangements for photos of the wedding party." "Hold on," said the limb of the law, as the fellow was about to slip out of the door. "That's my line, too. Photographs, when I'm in a shirt, and if you don't want to go to Price for the marriage license I can fix that, too."

"Well, I'll be—," gasped the lover as he plunked down a yellow piece of money as part payment for all the proposed services. "Do you also sell cradles and baby buggies?"—Emery County (Tab) Progress.

Best Meat Producing Fowls.

The Asiatic, Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans are the great meat-producing fowls and it is astonishing how well many of these can do at egg-producing.

We hear farmers say they never again will turn hog to into a field of ripe standing rye, but in the future always will harvest the crop, thresh it and feed ground rye in strops. This will pay.

"Quick lunch" is one of the commonest of city signs. The sign doesn't say "a health lunch of good food"—the character of the food apparently is not considered. It's just a quick lunch,—eat and get away. Is it any wonder that the stomach breaks down? Food is thrown at it, sloppy, indigestible and unwholesome, very often, and the stomach has to do the best it can. Normally there should be no need for medical assistance for the stomach. But the average method of life is abnormal and while this continues there will always be a demand for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the one medicine which can be relied on to cure diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It is not a cure-all. It is a medicine designed for the stomach, and to cure through the stomach remote diseases which have their cause in the derangement of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system. It cures when all else fails.

$182,500.00 Worth of Seasonable Merchandise to Go For $121,666.

A Resolute, Positive Clearance of Summer Stocks While They Are Fresh and Fashionable

An Average Third to Be Saved on Things Wanted For Present Wear and Use.

In its immensity, in its scope, in its economy advantages, this Sale outclasses every merchandise event—even of our own planning and accomplishment—that has preceded it. And we feel very safe in saying that it will not be approached—much less equalled—by any sale of any kind anywhere until it is, perhaps, equaled by some future sale at this store.

$182,500 worth of seasonable merchandise to go for $121,666—which means that an average has been sliced from the prices of goods that have been selling freely in the regular way—goods that are all that they should be at every point. But please understand what "an average third" means—that while some things are at half price or less, others may not be reduced more than a fourth; that the average sum of the reductions amounts to a third.

It will pay anyone to make a special trip to Baltimore just to attend this Sale. The dollars that can be saved will pay over and over for the cost of the trip and the time.

Our Mail Order Department is equipped to give prompt and accurate service. The Mail Order Bazar of Fashion will be mailed free every month on request. Samples of Skirts, Dress Goods, Wash Fabrics, and so on, will be cheerfully sent if you will write for them.

HOME DRESSMAKING

By May Manton.
A CHARMING LITTLE FROCK.

There is a charm about the frock that is highly loved and which makes it a favorite one both for warm weather and for party wear. Here is one that can be made in the fashion of with yoke and cuffs as may be liked and is consequently suited to a variety of occasions. In the case of the model the material is embroidered muslin with trimming of embroidery, but while that material is exceedingly fashionable for the dressy frock, the design can be made available for almost everything that can be altered with success. Challis, cashmere, velvet and the like are excellent well suited to the design while the many line muslins are always attractive. When yoke and cuffs are used they can be made of any contrasting material that may be liked, looking either silk or muslin being especially well liked. The bodice is a simple affair that may be extended at the front to meet the girth of the skirt, or giving the long line that gives the childish figure an effect of height and slenderness. Material required for the medium size (all years) 6 yds. 2 1/2 yds. 33 or 4 yds. 44 inches wide with 1/4 yds. of wide and 1/4 yds. of narrow embroidery, 1/2 yd. of insertion and 1/2 yd. of facing when yoke and cuffs are used. Patterns mailed by Fashion Department ten cents each.

FOR WEAR WITH DAINTY BLOUSES.

Boy's Blouse Suit 4920. Sizes 6 to 12 years.
This one that is made with a sailor blouse and short trousers. It can be as active and as happy as he desires without any hampering consideration of clothes while at the same time it is always attractive in appearance. The model is made of military blue serge with shield of white on which and the left sleeve appropriate chevrons are applied, but the design can be utilized for galates, linen all the sturdier washable materials as well as for those of wool, so that it becomes suited to all seasons of the year. Again, when liked the shield can be of linen or plaid, which materials can be laundered and renewed without trouble. Material required for the medium size (10 years) 4 1/2 yds. 27, 28, 29, 34 or 35 yds. 82 inches wide with 1/4 yd. any width for shield. Patterns mailed by Fashion Department ten cents each.

Simple Life

BY CHARLES WAGNER.

Copyright 1904 by J. S. Ogden Pub. Co. (New York.)

President Roosevelt is the author of it
"I AM PRAECING YOUR BOOK TO MY COUNTRY."
NEW.

But there are not only the prides of the great; there are also the prides of the small ones, that low morgue which is the worthy pendant of the higher one. The root of these two prides is identical. The man who says, "the law is law," is not only the arrogant and imperious being who provokes insurrection by his attitude alone it is still the subaltern, whose wooden head will not admit that there is anything above him.

There are positively a quantity of people whom all superiority irritates. These who are intractable and susceptible to excess; who, in humbler conditions, never succeed in being contented, and who fulfill their duties with the airs of victims. At the bottom of these grieving spirits there is a misplaced self-love. They do not know how to keep their post simple; and they complicate their lives, and those of others, by ridiculous exactions and unjust after-thoughts.

When one takes the pains to study men at close range, one is surprised to find that pride has its haunts among those whom we call humble. Such is the power of this vice that it succeeds in forming around the lives of those who live in the most modest conditions a thick wall, which isolates them from their neighbors. They are there entrenched, barricaded in their ambitions and disdain, as unattainable as the powerful ones of the earth behind their aristocratic prejudices. Obscure or illustrious, pride drapes itself in its sombre royalty of enmity to the human kind. It is the same in its misery and in its grandeur power, its crookedness, distracting as by thing and complicating everything. And we can never repeat enough, that if there is so much hatred and hostility between the different classes, it is less to the external fatalities than to the inward fatality that we owe them. The antagonism of interests and the contrast of situations dig ditches between us—one can deny it—but pride transforms those ditches into abysses, and in reality it is they only who cry from one bank to the other, "There is nothing in common between you and us."

We have not yet finished with pride, but it is impossible to continue it in this article. It is a vice above all, when it mingles with knowledge and sterilizes it. We owe knowledge, like riches and power, to our fellow-beings. It is a social force, which should serve—and it cannot unless those who know remain in heart near those who do not know. When knowledge transforms itself into an instrument of ambition, it destroys itself.

What shall we say of the pride of the good people?—for it exists, and renders even virtue hateful. The just who repent of the evil that others do, live in a solidarity and in a social truth. On the contrary, the just who despise others for their faults and their crookedness, distract themselves against humanity, and their qualities, descended to the rank of a vain ornament of their vanity, become similar to those riches which kindness does not inspire to that authority which does not temper the spirit of obedience. As much as the country rich and the arrogant man, the proud virtue is detestable; it gives man features and an attitude that reveal, I know not what, that is belligerent. Its example drives us away instead of drawing us to them, and those whom this virtue designs to honor with its benefits feel as if they had received a blow.

Let us sum up and conclude. It is an error to think that our advantages, whatever they are, should be put to the service of our vanity. Each one of them constitutes for him who enjoys it an obligation and not an object for self-glorification. The material goods, power, knowledge, and the qualities of the heart and mind become as many causes of discord when they serve to nourish pride. They are only beneficent when they remain subjects of modesty for those who possess them. Let us be humble if we possess much, because that proves that we are debtors. All that man has he owes to some one, and we are sure of being able to pay our debts.

Let us be humble if we are vested with some important function and if we hold in our hands the fate of others, for it is impossible that a clear seeing man does not feel himself under such grave duties.

Let us be humble if we have many acquaintances, for they serve us but the better to authenticate the greatness of the unknown, and to compare the little that we have discovered by ourselves with the mass of what we owe to the pains of others.

AN ORDINANCE to grade, pave and repair the footways and sidewalks on both sides of Camden Avenue in the town of Salisbury, Maryland.

SECTION I. Be it enacted by the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, Maryland, that the owner or owners of real property fronting on either side of Camden Avenue in the town of Salisbury, Maryland shall grade, pave, repair and relay as may be necessary all sidewalks served on said property, with brick, stone or material that are already paved and shall grade, pave and lay new sidewalks or pavements with brick, stone or material when such pavements or sidewalks are not already laid or paved, and shall construct the same in conformity with the plan and specifications that are already on file in the office of the Street Supervisor of Salisbury giving notice to said property owner or owners to grade, pave or lay or repair the sidewalks fronting, his, her or their property on said sidewalks shall be repaired, laid or repaired by said owner or owners of property set forth and designated in said notice within thirty days after receipt of said notice by said owner or owners. All curbing to any sidewalk or pavement served on said property on Camden Avenue shall be constructed or made out of brick, stone, cement or other material as may be designated by the Mayor and Council of Salisbury.

SECTION II. And be it enacted, That any person or persons violating the provision of Section I. of this Ordinance by putting down new or relaying or repairing old pavements wider or narrower or on a different grade or of different material from that which may be designated by the Mayor and Council as set forth in the notice to be served as set forth in Section I. by said Street Supervisor, shall on conviction thereof before the Police Justice of Salisbury forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars ($5.00) and shall further on conviction thereof before said Justice be liable to a fine of one dollar ($1.00) for each and every such offending day such sidewalk may remain wider or narrower, or of a different grade or of different material from that designated by Mayor and Council in the notice to be served as set forth in Section I. by the Street Supervisor of Salisbury, and in default of the payment of any fine so imposed the person convicted shall be committed to the County Jail until fine and costs are paid.

SECTION III. And be it further enacted, That if any property owner or owners aforesaid after due notice shall have been given shall fail to repair, relaying or paving the sidewalk or sidewalks in front of his, her or their property on said Camden Avenue within the time specified in said notice the said Mayor and Council of Salisbury shall have the work done and he, she or they shall pay whatever sum it may cost the said Mayor and Council for repairing, relaying or paving the sidewalk or sidewalks in front of his, her or their property the same to be collected by said Mayor and Council as small debts and collected before the Police Justice of Salisbury, be liable to a fine of ten dollars ($10.00) and an additional fine of one dollar ($1.00) for each and every day after the time stated in said notice unless they shall have repaired or unpaved and upon failure to pay said fine and costs, any person so convicted shall be committed to the county jail until the fine and costs are paid.

SECTION IV. And be it further enacted, That this Ordinance shall take effect from the date of its passage.

The above ordinance was passed by the Council at its last meeting June 16, 1905.

HENRY J. BYRD,
Approved June 16th, 1905.

Young Cows Require Large Quantities of Water When Dry Fed. Ordinarily the small cow drinks from 6 to 8 gallons of water in 24 hours, and the large cow drinks from 7 to 9 gallons. There is no fixed measure, as no two cows, even of the same breed, or of the same weight, or on the same rations of the same food, will yield practically the same quantity of milk of the same quality, will drink exactly the same quantity of water.

My experience is that the younger cows require more water, and that there is a decrease each year in the water taken as the cows grow older. In some cases even this does not hold good. A cow out of sorts will drink more or less as she is chilly or feverish. Indigestion, pasturage, changes in ration, irregularity in feeding and milking, and the amount of exercise are factors that influence the drinking of the milk cow. The character of the food has much influence. Dry food calls for more water. Succulent food carries its own water largely. The cow on pasture needs less and drinks less water than the cow on dry feed.

Feeding Dish Water to Pigs.

It is a common practice to save the dish water as slop for pigs but as this often contains washing soda hogs fed on such slop are always out of whack and often sicken and die. The symptoms and course of the disease appear much like cholera. Diarrhoea, vomiting, fever, lameness, partial paralysis, nervous disturbance and death frequently occur. The course of the disease from a few hours to several days, apparently depending upon the amount of alkali ingested at one time. Death occurs in the majority of cases. Upon post mortem examination, the lymphatic glands along the bowels are found swollen and dark colored. The mucous membrane lining the intestines is pale and shiny. Other internal organs are also involved. Treatment is wholly preventive and consists in avoiding the feeding of slops containing these alkalies—Field and Farm.

Successful Vinegar Making.

The New York Agricultural Experiment station at Geneva was asked to ascertain the causes of poor quality, and to outline the methods of securing good vinegar. It is found that, properly done, there should be no difficulty in making vinegar containing the required 4.5 per cent of acid from York State apples; and by careful control of conditions the time of making may be considerably shortened. If the cider is not properly made and handled, however, the vinegar may easily fall below the standard, through failure to reach the required acidity, or through deterioration after the acid has been formed. Only sound, ripe apples should be used, avoiding dirty fruit or washing it before pressing. Use only juice from the best pressing, place in clean barrels which have been treated with hot water or steam to destroy undesirable germs. The barrels should not be full, nor tightly corked, as free access of air is desirable. In ordinary cellar temperatures the first stage, the alcoholic fermentation, should be complete in five or six months; but by storing in warmer rooms, and by the use of yeast the time can be much shortened. The second stage, the acetic fermentation, may be hastened by heat and by use of a good "starter" or "mother" or sharp vinegar. When the required acidity is reached the barrel should be filled to the bung and corked tightly to avoid undesirable fermentations.

Local Irritation. Itching, which induces a horse to rub the legs together, stamp on the stable floor and otherwise exhibit signs of restlessness, should lead to a careful search for possible causes of local irritation. Animal or vegetable parasites may locate themselves on the skin of the extremities and remain under the close covering of hair without being detected. Get rid of the irritation by the free use of soap and hot water, followed by a two per cent solution of carbolic acid.

Some claim that skim milk and corn make a balanced ration. Whether this is so or not—one thing is true: if hens are given skim milk they get more protein than they can get from corn alone.

A Cossack Superstition. Among the numerous superstitions of the Cossacks there is none stronger than the belief that they will enter heaven in a better state if they are personally clean at the time they are killed. Before an expected battle they perform their toilets with scrupulous care, dress themselves in clean garments and put on the best they have. This superstition is not confined to the Cossacks alone but is widely prevalent. It is said in all branches of the Russian army.

THE PRairie Sod House

Life on the Solitary Stretches of the Western Plains. WOMEN AGE QUICKLY

Settlers Grow Careless of Their Appearance and Lose Ambition Creates a Worthless Mental and Moral Sordidness—Field Mice Burrow Through Walls of House.

Life in a sod house away out on the plains, where for months at a time there is not a thing in nature to cheer the eye or vary the monotony, is certainly close to first principles, says Stanley Raymond. When the corn waves on thousands of acres, or when there is something to interest the sod-house dwellers, but from October to May no class of intelligent Americans live more dreary lives than these. One wonders what livelihood, what future prosperity or pleasure can repay a man and wife to live in such huge sameness. The shifting clouds by day and a sky of fine stars at night are for weeks the only sights to be seen. Yet some of the most contented and aspiring people we have ever seen are such flat sod-roving and dead solitude for years.

To realize in how primitive and solitary a fashion people can live and be happy one has only to imagine a man and wife in a sod house, fifteen miles from the nearest village, in one of the sparsely settled districts of western Nebraska or Kansas. For days, and in some seasons for weeks, they see no human beings outside of their own household. Even begging Indians and tramps are almost unknown in this country. Prairie dogs cast up their mounds and found towns in the unoccupied spots about the place; gophers and field mice burrow through the sod walls of the house; not infrequently snakes swing themselves down from the rafters inside, or crawl in at the door to get at any milk pans standing about. At night coyotes and some of the gray wolves come up through the canyons and skulk about the poultry yard or howl close to the windows. Through the day while the man is in the fields the herding usually falls to the woman's lot. Probably each takes a noon luncheon in a paper, to save coming back to the house until night. The woman attends to her necessary household duties, throws a gunny-sack over her broncho's back, jumps astride, rounds up her cattle, and drives them down the canyons to graze on the steep sides, or in a low strip beside a creek. Canyons are not sociable places; one can scarcely have a conception of the primeval unless he has walked through a canyon; he thinks of the dawn of creation, of the races of extinct mammoths, and by retired into the inner caverns. What the sod-house woman thinks about, all day long in solitude like that, is hard to tell—probably the mortgage on the farm, diseases among the stock, the prospects of crops, the time when they can put up their frame dwelling, the hard, unadorned facts in the treadmill of her life, new plans for the work, work which is her sole law of existence. Perhaps she has memories of another time, other surroundings, but they must seem vague and far away. Even the weather is monotonous; there is practically always the cloudless sky, the brilliant sun, the strong, dry wind that curls the leaves of the young corn, and turns the buffalo grass brown.

Living on the dreary plains and amid such monotony, with never a thing to appeal to one's esthetic, social or literary nature, is wearing upon most settlers, even if they are contented. The life makes women, particularly, prematurely old. A few years of residence apart from their sex usually makes them careless of their appearance, dulls their ambitions and creates a sordidness. Such a life must have its inevitable mental and moral effect. All the sensitive, the esthetic, sometimes the moral sense itself, becomes atrophied. The tragedies of a city are unearthened and brought to light, but the silent tragedies of these desolate lives are swallowed up and lost in the remoteness and immensity of the prairie wastes.

New Wireless Station. Another very desirable addition to the resources of wireless telegraphy we may shortly witness, it is hoped, by the installation of stations in the Azores. These islands are by nature a sort of half-way house between Europe and America, and lying within touch by wireless telegraphy of the routes of the ocean liners they can do good service for both continents. The King of Portugal, Don Carlos, may be trusted to interest himself in this measure, as it was largely due to his Majesty that the Meteorological Observatory was established in the Azores. A station for wireless messages would largely increase the value of that institution.—London Telegraph.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Increasing Among Women, But Sufferers Need Not Despair. THE BEST ADVICE IS FREE

Unless early and correct treatment is applied the patient seldom survives when once the disease is fastened upon her. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most efficient treatment for kidney troubles of women, and is the only medicine especially prepared for this purpose. When a woman is troubled with pain or weight in loins, backache, frequent painful or scalding urination, swelling of limbs or feet, availing under the eyes, an uneasy, tired feeling in the region of the kidneys or notices a brick-dust sediment in the urine, she should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it may be the means of saving her life. For proof, read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Sawyer. "I cannot express the terrible suffering I had to endure. A derangement of the female organs developed nervous prostration and a serious kidney trouble. The doctor attended me for a year, but I kept getting worse, until I was unable to do anything, and I made up my mind I could not live. Finally I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a last resort, and I am to-day a well woman. I cannot praise it too highly, and I will every suffering woman about my case." Mrs. Emma Sawyer, Conyers, Ga. Mrs. Pinkham gives free advice to women; address in confidence, Lynn, Mass.

THE BRUTE.

Wife—"Mr. Danber, the artist, asked me to let him paint my face. Husband—"Didn't think one coat was enough, I suppose."

Papa's Answer. Little Elmer—"Papa, what is a Shylock?" Professor Broadhead—"A Shylock my son, is a man who is called so by the people to whom he lends money, because he expects them to pay it back."—Town Topics.

Nothing for Him to be Sorry For. "Isn't that orator always saying something he will be sorry for?" "It's worse than that," answered the politician. "He is always satisfied with what he says. His political friends are sorry."—Washington Star.

Cut Him Short. "Has that new reporter a nose for news?" asked the publisher. "He did have," responded the managing editor, "until he tried to point the revolutions of an electric fan and then he lost it."

Two Sorts. "The man who is anxious to see his name in print is usually the worst sort of a chump."

"Not always. Sometimes he may be the best sort of a wise man. He may be an advertiser."—Philadelphia Ledger.

SCRATCHED DAY AND NIGHT

Lady Suffered Tortures with Itching Scalp Humor—One Box of Cuticura Ointment and One Cake of Cuticura Soap Cured Her.

WILL NEVER BE WITHOUT CUTICURA

"My scalp was covered with little pimples and I suffered tortures from the itching. I was scratching all day and night, and I could get no rest. I washed my head with hot water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment as a dressing. One box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap cured me. Now my head is entirely clear and my hair is growing splendidly. I have used Cuticura Soap ever since, and shall never be without it. (Signed) Ada C. Smith, 309 Grand St., Jersey City, N. J."

CUTICURA GROWS HAIR

Crusted Scaps Cleaned and Purified by Cuticura Soap

Assisted by light dressings of Cuticura, the great skin cure. This treatment at once stops falling hair, removes crusts, scales, and dandruff, destroys hair parasites, soothes irritated, itching surfaces, stimulates the hair follicles, loosens the scalp skin, supplies the roots with energy and nourishment, and makes the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp when all else fails.

Complete external and internal treatment for every humor, from pimples to scrofula, from infancy to age, consisting of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills, may now be had of all druggists for one dollar. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most distressing cases.

Methodist Protestant Sunday School Will Go To Ocean City, August 1st.

Arrangements have been completed for the annual excursion of the Sharptown M. P. Sunday School to take place on Tuesday, August 1st. Mr. Herman and Providence Schools will join in the excursion and it is expected to be very largely patronized. The Delmar Cornet Band has been engaged to accompany the excursionists and will join them at the place where they will leave at 6.30 a. m. and go by way of Vienna. Many people will join the company at Mardela Springs and Hebron, as the excursion rates will be given from those points. The music will be an attractive feature of the trip.

Robinson—Sauerhoff.

Frank C. Robinson, Jr., and Miss Lillian Sauerhoff of this town were married on Tuesday night at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Sauerhoff, by Rev. J. Harry Wilson. A large number of invited guests were present. After the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents. On Wednesday a reception was given them by the groom's parents, Capt. and Mrs. F. C. Robinson. They received a number of presents. They will leave in a few days for North Carolina where Mr. Robinson is employed by a large lumber company.

Confirming Our Claim—The Best in the World.

I have used Davis 100 per cent Pure Paint and found it to be all that is claimed for it; in fact in all my experience as a Painter I never found its equal. It will cover more surface and cover it better than anything I have ever used, and its appearance is equal to enamel. C. E. Mason, Master Painter, Marshall, Texas.

Ninety-eight Per Cent.

There is a fascination about big profits to a business man. But the conservative and cautious trader prefers to have the lesser per cent of interest and the larger per cent of safety in his investments. There is no business man who would not consider it a sound proposition to invest in an enterprise in which absolute loss was impossible and which offered ninety-eight chances in a hundred of a rich profit. The statistics of cures effected by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery shows that ninety-eight per cent of cases of "weak lungs" can be absolutely cured. Almost if not all forms of physical weakness may be traced to starvation. Starvation saps the strength. The body is just as much starved when the stomach can not extract nutrition from the food received as when there is no food. "Weak lungs," bronchial affections, obstinate coughs, call for nourishment "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies that nourishment in its most condensed and assimilable form. It makes "weak lungs" strong, by strengthening the stomach and organs of digestion which digest and distribute the food, and by increasing the supply of pure blood.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

What Does It Mean

to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give. Dividends are declared every year in the Mutual Benefit, and the policy-holders use them either to help pay premiums or to buy increased insurance. The policies of the contain special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before placing your insurance. You owe it to your family to have the best.

LAY OF THE PHARISEE. Ignoble beasts, as asses, swine, And bears uncouth and vulgar dogs, Are some acquaintances of mine, And some are wretched demagogues, Frauds, bullies, braggarts, too, I know Their glaring faults I plainly see— And some of them are nowise slow To say what they consider me.

Poltroons and quacks and gluttons I Regret to say I daily meet, And those who steal and those who lie And those who lose no chance to cheat, And bores and coxcombs—I condemn Their vicious ways in language free. I have my own strong views of them— They've their opinions, too, of me.

Fanatics, fakers, cads and fools, Rank upstarts, misers, bigots, sots, Corruptionists and venal totes, And such as hatch infernal plots; Then idlers, slovens, sneaks and rakes And prigs—and many more there are.

To recognize them all it takes A flawless character like me.

PERSONAL EQUATION IN THEFT. If the experience of the country since the passage of the national banking acts, or, for that matter, universal experience since the world began, shows anything, it is that no system which the wit of man can devise can eliminate the personal equation. In railroads, in banks, in municipalities, in all sorts of business and in every human activity, the results will inevitably be poor if poor men are in charge. It is the universal testimony of bank examiners, of bank officers, and of all who know how business is carried on, that no mere method can prevent dishonesty if the people in places of trust are themselves dishonest. If directors are dummies, the stealing will be easier than if they are keen, watchful and faithful. Alert bank examiners will prevent some defalcations, but the only really effective safeguard for banks and other fiduciary institutions is to have honest men in the bank—Philadelphia Ledger.

A HEBREW COLLEGE. It certainly does credit to the Americanism of the Hebrews of the United States that, with a population here of more than a million, they have no other denominational college than the Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati, which is partly a theological school, and that they employ for the higher education of their youth non-sectarian institutions, or those under the denominational control of other religious bodies. Their position in this regard contrasts with that of the Congregationalists, who, though they had in 1904 but 659,704 communicants, control fourteen universities and colleges in the United States, without counting theological schools.—New York Mail.

EVIDENCE OF TUBERCULOSIS. Doctors who made the autopsy on Adolf von Menzel's remains state that his lungs showed he had suffered as a young man from tuberculosis; yet he lived to be nearly 90 years old. Have the doctor's word for it that nearly half of mankind suffers from consumption at some period of life. Why nature cures some of her own accord and leaves the others to perish in spite of physicians is a mystery.

PIRACY IN CHINA. "Piracy continues to flourish." This startling phrase is embedded in a report by Consul General Scott on the trade of Canton, and he proceeds to give proof of his assertion. During the past year half a dozen organized attacks have been made in the delta, even on British steam launches, and pirates and robbers carried on their depredations in the harbor precincts. The authorities do nothing to prevent them, and the landing of a Hong Kong cargo under their noses did not galvanize them into repressive action. Yet in spite of all this the trade of the locality during the year exhibited remarkable expansion. China is a country of contradictions.

SWISS COMMERCIAL TREATY. The Swiss-Spanish commercial treaty expires Aug. 31, 1905. If it is not renewed American cheap watches, alarm clocks and similar products, may win back the leading place they formerly held in the Barcelona market.

Strictly limited in its operations to a crusade against juvenile smoking, the International Anti-Cigarette League has a membership of over 36,000, and is growing at the rate of 300 a week.

LAY OF THE PHARISEE. Ignoble beasts, as asses, swine, And bears uncouth and vulgar dogs, Are some acquaintances of mine, And some are wretched demagogues, Frauds, bullies, braggarts, too, I know Their glaring faults I plainly see— And some of them are nowise slow To say what they consider me.

Poltroons and quacks and gluttons I Regret to say I daily meet, And those who steal and those who lie And those who lose no chance to cheat, And bores and coxcombs—I condemn Their vicious ways in language free. I have my own strong views of them— They've their opinions, too, of me.

Fanatics, fakers, cads and fools, Rank upstarts, misers, bigots, sots, Corruptionists and venal totes, And such as hatch infernal plots; Then idlers, slovens, sneaks and rakes And prigs—and many more there are.

To recognize them all it takes A flawless character like me.

PERSONAL EQUATION IN THEFT. If the experience of the country since the passage of the national banking acts, or, for that matter, universal experience since the world began, shows anything, it is that no system which the wit of man can devise can eliminate the personal equation. In railroads, in banks, in municipalities, in all sorts of business and in every human activity, the results will inevitably be poor if poor men are in charge. It is the universal testimony of bank examiners, of bank officers, and of all who know how business is carried on, that no mere method can prevent dishonesty if the people in places of trust are themselves dishonest. If directors are dummies, the stealing will be easier than if they are keen, watchful and faithful. Alert bank examiners will prevent some defalcations, but the only really effective safeguard for banks and other fiduciary institutions is to have honest men in the bank—Philadelphia Ledger.

A HEBREW COLLEGE. It certainly does credit to the Americanism of the Hebrews of the United States that, with a population here of more than a million, they have no other denominational college than the Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati, which is partly a theological school, and that they employ for the higher education of their youth non-sectarian institutions, or those under the denominational control of other religious bodies. Their position in this regard contrasts with that of the Congregationalists, who, though they had in 1904 but 659,704 communicants, control fourteen universities and colleges in the United States, without counting theological schools.—New York Mail.

EVIDENCE OF TUBERCULOSIS. Doctors who made the autopsy on Adolf von Menzel's remains state that his lungs showed he had suffered as a young man from tuberculosis; yet he lived to be nearly 90 years old. Have the doctor's word for it that nearly half of mankind suffers from consumption at some period of life. Why nature cures some of her own accord and leaves the others to perish in spite of physicians is a mystery.

PIRACY IN CHINA. "Piracy continues to flourish." This startling phrase is embedded in a report by Consul General Scott on the trade of Canton, and he proceeds to give proof of his assertion. During the past year half a dozen organized attacks have been made in the delta, even on British steam launches, and pirates and robbers carried on their depredations in the harbor precincts. The authorities do nothing to prevent them, and the landing of a Hong Kong cargo under their noses did not galvanize them into repressive action. Yet in spite of all this the trade of the locality during the year exhibited remarkable expansion. China is a country of contradictions.

SWISS COMMERCIAL TREATY. The Swiss-Spanish commercial treaty expires Aug. 31, 1905. If it is not renewed American cheap watches, alarm clocks and similar products, may win back the leading place they formerly held in the Barcelona market.

THE XXTH CENTURY SEWING MACHINE

The highest type of FAMILY SEWING MACHINE—the embodiment of SIMPLICITY and UTILITY—the ACME of CONVENIENCE.

Time Tells the Story. There is a big difference between a first-class sewing-machine, embodying the best of materials and workmanship and one which is made in the cheapest manner. The buyer of the cheaper machine soon pays the difference of price in the constant cost for repairs, to say nothing of its annoying inefficiency.

For House of Delegates: CHARLES R. DISHARON, EBENEZER G. DAVIS, JAMES O. ADAMS. For Sheriff: ELMER E. BRADLEY. For County Commissioners: WILLIAM M. COOPER, JOHN E. JOHNSON, JOHN P. WRIGHT. For County Surveyor: PETER S. SHOCKLEY. EVIL WHICH MENACES MARYLAND. Following a game of crap on an excursion train out of Atlanta, Georgia, last Saturday, in which twelve negroes were killed and several more seriously wounded, Rev. J. A. Davis, presiding elder of the Atlanta district of the African M. E. Church, scored the rising generation of negroes in his sermon on Sunday in the presence of a congregation of 2000 colored people. Rev. Davis said: "The tactics and procedure of the new negro is destroying him. His reckless disregard for moral purity, a disposition to ignore the church and the gospel, a love for a life of ease and pleasure, an ignorant and malicious disregard for the laws of God and the rights of men that is daily being practiced by the majority of the race convince me that the negro is a lawless being, and he is a liar if he says he is not. "The negro is a lawless character without rule in the home. Therefore he can have but little in his church and society. His respect for law and order comes from a sense of fear. He does right either from fear of punishment or hope of reward. "I need not say there are exceptions; I need not say there are good men and women in the race, but they are in the hopeless minority. "Fully one-half of the negro preachers should be out upon the farms where they can best serve the people. The church is ruined with drunkards and debauched characters who live in bad rooms and sneak up and down alleys and streets all night and come into the church and take the front seats. "It is not the white man's prejudice, lynchings or mistreatment of the negro that will destroy him half as fast as his bad conduct and habits and love of immorality. "This is the class of negroes who are migratory; who run away from justice, who delight in primary contests and elections; who live in idleness and scorn labor; who steal and pilfer; who assault women and commit lesser crimes. "This is the class who will come to Maryland from the States south of the Potomac if the proposed amendment to the Constitution, designed to prevent the ignorant, idle and vicious negroes from voting, is defeated. "This is the class whom Charles J. Bonaparte, Attorney General Bryan, Edgar H. Gans, Leigh Bonsal, the Baltimore American and News would invite to come to Maryland, by having the franchise amendment defeated. It is astonishing that people who have been advocating purity of elections and higher aims in government; who proclaim civic virtue and declare for a higher electorate, should now, when the opportunity to attain these is presented, turn about and stand in opposition. "It is astonishing, too, that men who abhor insults to females and who would use the hangman's noose in the case of assaults, would by their acts invite a lawless class to this State and expose to greater danger the fair women of Maryland. "Their claim that too much power is vested with registration officers, is so trivial, if true, to be considered, in view of the evils to flow from a larger influx of the ignorant, lawless and vicious negroes of the South. But the contention is based upon a supposition that the Democratic and Republican registrars will be corrupt. Such a supposition rests upon a belief that the Boards of Supervisors will select corrupt men for registrars, and that Governor Warfield will appoint dishonest Supervisors. "There is a great crisis in the welfare of Maryland presented at this time. And it is not to be lightly considered by voters. The progress and prosperity of the State is involved. The peace and good order of society is involved. The sanctity of our women is involved. Constitutions and laws may be changed. It will be more difficult to get rid of undesired citizens and voters.

MARDELA. Hot, isn't it? On the sixth of June the mercury crawled up to the ninety third notch, and that night it seemed to have been ashamed of itself and made a corresponding tumble. On the fifteenth of July it ventured up to the ninety third notch again. But on the seventeenth it got still bolder and ran up to the ninety fifth notch, just to show us what it can do when it gets a good ready. On Tuesday it went up to 100 in the shade. If it goes much higher, we will have to do with our thermometers as they say they do with Texas steers; some of them get so old that they have to tie sticks on the ends of their horns for the age rings to run on to. We do not vouch for the truthfulness of the above. Anyway, old Sol is making us fairly sizzle, parboil and shrivel up. If we live to see next winter, some of us will complain that it is too cold. Surely we are hard to please. What a mercy that the good Lord does not either burn us up in summer or freeze us up in winter. While our truckers did not realize much, if anything, upon their white potatoes, the cantaloupes are being shipped real lively this week and the prospects for a large corn yield are real favorable. Look out for the grand illumination on Saturday night. In honor of this long looked for event, all the houses should be decorated with bunting and other gay colors. At this writing we are not informed as to how many visiting organizations are expected to take part in the proceedings, but we are satisfied that many of our country cousins will be here with their best girls, or with the other fellow's girls. Red lemonade, peanuts and ginger cakes galore! After Saturday night, remember there is to be no more "spooning" on any of the streets or lanes of this city. The street lamps will give you away every time. By the way, have you learned the names of our town fathers? There are three of them. They were duly inducted into office at one of our town meetings. They did not seek the office, but like all true American citizens, the office sought them. Had you been there, you might have been elected as Mayor, but that is what you get for being absent from the meeting when your country needed help. This will teach you to be more public spirited the next time. Ask your neighbor, who is the Mayor? "Those bad boys from Sharptown", as old Uncle Tommy Taylor used to say, will be locked up the next time they commit any depredations in our town. Notice—No more cows are to be allowed to pasture on our streets; all owners of dogs allowed to run loose, should be muzzled. Who is it that should be muzzled, the owners or the dogs? All chickens allowed to feed upon other people's lawns will be made into pot pie, by the persons upon whose premises they have strayed. No person will be permitted to drink more of the Spring water than they can well hold. Other ordinances will be made as the emergencies demand. Pastor B. G. Parker, of the Baptist Church, will preach in Baltimore on Sunday. His pulpit at Athol and Branch Hill will be supplied by Mr. Isaac J. Kennerly. After Mr. Parker's sermon at the Association had been published and scattered all over the State he received a communication from a large and influential church about becoming pastor. Very soon the work of all the churches will be disturbed by the camp meetings. Considering the excessive Sabbath desecration, either caused or occasioned by the camp meetings, there is a growing conviction in the minds of a great many good people as to whether or not they are a greater curse to a community than a blessing. As a rule very few conversions are reported, but an unusual amount of sin is indulged in. It is also a notorious fact that with many who seem to be very active in the services at camp, when they return to their home churches, they are practically of very little use. All of their religion seems to have oozed out at the camp, and they do not seem to have any for the home church. Ask the pastors if this has not been to a large extent their observation.

A WOMAN AT THE BANK.

"Good morning," said the lady in fashionable attire, as she approached the Teller's window in the bank.

"Good morning," came from the busy Teller as he wiped the beads of perspiration from his brow.

"Nice morning," continued the smiling female.

"Yes," said the Teller, turning his face away to escape the strong odor of violet extract.

"Family well?"

"Oh, yes, very well. What can I do for you, this morning?"

"Been on your vacation yet?"

"Not yet," very impatiently.

"Nice weather for vacation?"

"Yes."

"Family away yet?"

"No."

"Something I can do for you?" said the Teller, very much out of patience, as he saw the line growing behind the busy woman.

"Yes, let me see. What day is today?"

"To-day is Friday."

"Oh, yes, Friday. Yesterday was Thursday, of course."

"Those people are getting very impatient behind you, madam."

"Must keep you very busy here?"

"—I—I—I—"

"I suppose you're glad when Sunday comes, so you can have a day of rest?"

"Do you want to make a deposit or draw some money, madam?"

"Oh, yes. I almost forgot; why, I want to make a deposit. Oh, dear, I've forgotten to make out the check, won't you make it out for me?"

"How much?" as the Teller mopped his brow for the 15th time.

"Let me see! I think it is $34," fumbling in her pocket.

"Your book, please."

"Oh, my! Now, isn't that too bad! I've come away and left the book and the money at home. Well, I'll have to drop in again. Good day."

"Two old farmers were sitting on a fence enjoying the morning breeze. Suddenly there was a blur in the highway. 'I swan, Silo,' said one, 'what was that that red streak that just shot past?'"

"That that was an automobile," responded Silo.

"And what was the blue streak?"

"That was the man that got hit swearing."

The Original Macintosh.

"Macintosh boasts a great deal about his family, doesn't he?"

"Yes; I think he thinks that 'e head of his family was the original Macintosh that Noah had with him during that rainy season."—Philadelphia Press.

Bargain Weakness.

"How in the world did you ever sell that paper any poetry?" asked the tall peddler.

"Why, 'e editor is a woman," responded the short scribe.

"What of that?" She refused my matter at $5 per column."

"Yes, but I offered my manuscript at $4.99 per column."

Wasted Energy.

"What a terrible crush!" exclaimed one lady to another in an overcrowded car.

"Terrible!" said the other. "And such a waste of energy, too."

"Wasted energy?" echoed lady No. 1.

"No, no bargain counter near," explained lady No. 2.

The broker figured that the interest on the investment, at 5 per cent amounts to $4,125 a year, and that there are 300 working days in the year. Incidentally, he said, he hoped to make more than $13 a day out of his investment.

HERE AT HOME.

Salisbury Citizens Gladly Testify.

It is testimony like the following that has placed "The Old Quaker Remedy" so far above competitors. When people right at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Salisbury citizen:

E. Sampson Trullitt, farmer and owner of fertilizer factory, residing on East Church Street extension says: "My first experience with kidney complaint was felt a year ago last February. It commenced with pains in my left side and worked around to the small of my back. The pain was quite severe for a day or so and after that trouble from the kidney secretions existed for which I used many well known remedies. It is true I received some relief but the last of them I used Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured. They checked the trouble to a great extent. I believe them to be all that is claimed for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents.

Beware Of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, LaGrippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at all druggists.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equalled. Joe Golobich of Colusa, Calif., writes, "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by all druggists.

Working Night And Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. These pills change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain fog into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by all druggists.

Hives are a terrible torment to the little folk, and to some older ones. Easily cured. Doan's Ointment never fails. Instant relief, permanent cure. At any drug store, 50 cents.

FARM AND GARDEN

CANTALOUPE CULTURE

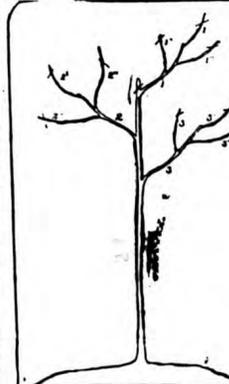

To Prevent Loss From Frost Three Plowings Are Made.

After the land has been thoroughly prepared, plow out furrows about 8 in. deep and 4 1/2 to 5 ft. apart, going twice in the same row in order to broaden out the trench. The trench is then about half filled with compost or stable manure, and thoroughly mixed with the soil by cultivating up and down the row 4 times or more. In order to prevent loss from frost or insects and to insure a stand, at least 3 separate plantings are made beside each other about a week apart. If the first planting is killed by frost, the second one may come up; whereas, if the second planting were delayed until after the frost appeared, there would be a loss in earliness of 10 days or more.

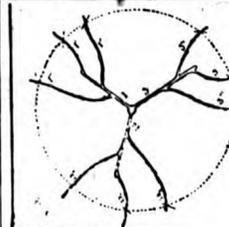

In harvesting the melons the first half of the season they are picked as soon as the stem can be forced with the thumb to part from the fruit without breaking off a piece of the melon with it. This condition should occur before the cantaloupe begins to turn yellow. A cantaloupe in this condition is considered just right to ship, but the day following would be quite yellow and unfit for transportation. After the season in one-half or two-thirds gone and the weather is very hot, as is usually the case, it is safe to cut them off with stems after they are full grown and have become densely netted. If no cantaloupes are picked on Sunday, many melons are overripe on Monday, and these are the ones that are saved for seed. It is important that the melons be stored in the refrigerator car as soon after picking as possible.—W. F. Allen.

Pruning and Growth of Trees.

During the early years of the life of both ornamental and fruit trees a vigorous use of the pruning knife is frequently necessary. Trees normally make much longer natural growth during the first ten years of their existence than later.

With pears and apples the main body branches left at planting time should not be more than 8 inches long. At the close of the first season, when pruning time arrives, the growth of that year should again be shortened to at least 1 foot and each of the main body branches should be allowed to carry not to exceed three subdivisions.

Each of which should be 8 inches long. The third year the same operation should be repeated and instead of allowing each subdivision to carry three branches the number should be reduced to two. The arrangement of these branches should in all cases be based upon the same principle as the arrangement of the branches on the main body of the tree.

Almost every woman of dainty instincts indulges to a greater or less extent in perfumed toilet soap, the better qualities of which are always rather expensive; and it is the latter fact which prompts her, if she be economically inclined, to use each tablet down to the very last fragment. In order that as little as possible of the precious substance may be wasted.

The smallest left-overs-of-soap may be used by placing the bits together in a small bag of linen cheesecloth, and tying securely, so that none of them can escape. The bag is used in precisely the same way as a tablet of soap would be, the soap lathering freely through the fabric when the latter is immersed in water.

For the bath a soap bag, is to be supported to the piece of soap, being decidedly less elastic and of the whole easier to manage. The bag may be unbuttoned, if one cares to bestow the necessary time and labor upon it, but a plain bag of cheesecloth is quite as satisfactory in use as an elaborately embroidered linen one.—New York Journal.

Dress Items.

Both plaited and circular skirts will be worn.

Suppleness and luster are characteristics of the fashionable silks.

Skirts will only be trimmed at or near the bottom.

Amethysts are promised considerable vogue this season and will be worn alone and combined with pearls and diamonds.

Trackless Trolley.

A trackless trolley line is being built by the community of Monheim to Langefeld, and will be about two and one-half miles long, with two short branches intended for freight purposes.

The roadway from Monheim to Langefeld is about twenty-three feet wide, with a good ballasting cover about 18 in. in width, running almost in an air line. A special contrivance for coupling will be provided in order to keep an exact rut of all the cars. The power will be conducted to and from the cars by means of two rotary poles, placed on the top of the cars, and sliding blocks enabling the train to give way from ten feet to twelve feet.

For entering farmyards lying close to the road there will be used, instead of the regular wire, a connector and flexible cable fifty feet to seventy feet in length by means of which the current will be transmitted to the motor car.

The trains will consist of an electric locomotive for drawing two or three cars, driven by two electric motors of from twenty-five horse power to forty horse power. The conducting crew will have its place on the locomotive. The cars for carrying freight have a capacity of about five tons. Some of the cars will be open and some closed, and all will be fitted with brakes. Couplings will be provided for attaching farm wagons.—Electrical World.

The Mummies of Venozoa.

Mummies have been found at various times in the tombs connected with some of the old European churches, their formation being due to natural process and not to any methods of embalming. By far the most notable places in this respect is the old parish church at Venozoa in the northern part of Italy. In this church there are thirteen tombs which appear to have the power of mummifying the bodies placed in them. These mummies seem to be the dried residues of the original bodies with all their organs in place. They are very light, weighing from 6 1/2 to 13 pounds. Various attempts have been made to give some adequate explanation of the cause of this unusual process, explanations which took into account the possible desiccating action of the mineral constituents of the earth around the tombs. The true reason appears to be the activity of a certain fungus (Hymenoblastia) which is always found growing upon the bodies and forming dense dark yellow masses on the surface. It has been found possible to induce mummification of various animals by inoculating their dead bodies with this fungus. The process is analogous to the so-called calcification of the silkworms in the disease to which they are subject caused by a fungus pest of the genus Botrytis.

NEWS FROM ALL SECTIONS OF WICOMICO SENT IN BY THE ADVERTISER'S REPRESENTATIVES.

DELMAR.

Rev. E. S. Fooks, of the M. P. Church, conducted his morning and evening service in Hastings Grove on Sunday last. A large congregation was present in the evening. These services will be continued there on Sunday during the very warm weather.

Mr. J. E. Kelley has rented the residence now building by Mr. C. R. Hutchison.

Mrs. Wm. Freeny of Baltimore is visiting her mother, Mrs. Theodosia Renninger.

Mr. Arthur O. German is sojourning at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Mr. Albert Waller and family, Mr. H. W. Hill and family, Mr. Ira Simpson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Stewart were at Ocean City on Sunday last.

Mr. Frank Lynch and family went to Ocean City on Tuesday for an extended stay.

Miss Polly A. Culver who has been employed in Washington for several months is visiting her home.

Miss Cropper of Chicago is the guest of Mrs. Daniel Parker.

Mr. Ebenezer M. Lowe, one of the old and prominent citizens of Delmar died at the home of his son, Lewis B. Lowe, in this town on Saturday last. Mr. Lowe had been feeling unwell and to recuperate, went to Ocean City last week. He became worse and sent for Dr. Robt. Ellegood of this town, who went to see him on Thursday. He found him with paralysis of the throat. He was brought from Ocean City on Saturday morning. He was in the seventy fifth year of his age. Mr. Lowe was a life long Democrat and had served as a member of the Levy Court for Sussex county. He had been married three times and was a widower at the time of his death. Five sons survive him. He was a member of the L. O. O. F., I. O. O. R. M. and Heptasoph. Funeral services were held at the Methodist Protestant Church, of which he was a member. The sermon was preached by Rev. J. M. Yinging of Laurel and interment made in the cemetery at Laurel on Monday afternoon. Wicomico Tribe I. O. R. M., attended the funeral.

Miss Margaret Ellis, daughter of the late James Ellis died at the old home-stand on Tuesday, July 18th. Funeral services were conducted at St. Marks P. E. Church on Wednesday by Rev. Mr. Higgins of Laurel and interment made in the church cemetery. Six nephews of the deceased acted as pall bearers.

Mr. Irving Culver and wife left Thursday in company with Mr. John H. Tomlinson of Salisbury for an automobile trip to Philadelphia, Atlantic City and other points. The trip will probably consume a week or ten days.

HEBRON.

G. A. Bounds & Co., are operating their large cannery at Hebron, packing blackberries. Thousands of quarts of berries have been canned. The cannery will next pack corn, tomatoes and sweet potatoes. Bounds & Co., were the introducers of the canned sweet potatoes and are the largest packers of potatoes in the work. They are building a large canning house and are going to put in all the up to date machinery with a dynamo for lighting which when finished will be the best equipped factory on the Shore.

Mr. G. Clifton Bounds made a business trip to Baltimore and Boston last week.

Miss Jennie Bounds of Quantico is spending the summer at Pen Mar for her health.

We are very glad to report that our Junior Epworth League is growing. We have quite a number of active members. Our service Sunday evening last was a temperance one. As our Superintendent does not wish us to miss our Sunday evening services we have decided to hold them on the campground.

Mr. Therman Taylor was the guest of his cousin, Mr. Everette Taylor, of Rockawalkin.

Dr. H. O. Conaway spent last Tuesday at Ocean City.

Mrs. Chas. Glosner, of Wilmington, Del., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. White, on Main Street.

Mrs. Annie Freeny is on the sick list this week.

Mrs. B. F. Waller, who has been visiting her daughter, of Delmar, returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Wm. Freeny and children of Baltimore, were the guests of Mrs. Annie Freeny.

Mr. Harrison Townsend of Newark is visiting his cousin Miss Pearl Townsend.

Miss Elizabeth Dashiell is visiting relatives and friends of this town.

ALLEN.

A very pleasant day was spent at the residence of Capt and Mrs. Columbus Fooks at Shad Point on Tuesday, July 18. It has been a custom with the family for many years to commemorate the anniversary of the birth of Capt. Fooks' mother, now deceased, by having a birthday dinner, and inviting several friends to partake of the same, with them. Though the mother is absent in the flesh the custom is still kept up. Mrs. Amanda Pollitt of Salisbury, the anniversary of whose birth also comes on July 18, and who is now 77 years of age, is always invited. Her daughter, Mrs. Hayman was also present on this occasion. Among others present were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gunby, of Salisbury, Mrs. A. P. Disharoon and her daughter, Miss Isabel of near Fruitland, Mrs. Roby Disharoon of Philadelphia, Mrs. Geo. H. Fields, Mrs. Sarah Washburn and Mrs. Smith of Shad Point, and Rev. and Mrs. J. E. White of Allen. Capt. Fooks has an excellent memory. It is interesting to hear him relate some of his recollections of the past. All spent a pleasant day and before leaving, the old family Bible which was owned by Mrs. Fooks' parents was brought in. This sacred volume reminded us of that beautiful and popular hymn, "My Mother's Bible," which begins as follows:

"There's a dear and precious book
Though 'tis worn and faded now
Which recalls the happy days of long ago."

A selection of Scripture was read and then all knelt in prayer led by the pastor. Years ago it was not an unusual thing for families and friends to meet together and spend the day, but in the busy whirl of progress nowadays when everybody seems to be busy and in the rush of business some men hardly have time to keep up acquaintance with their wives; an occasion of this kind is rather rare.

The picnic at Trinity Church Tuesday night was largely attended and was a success.

Special Excursion to Chesapeake Beach and Washington, D. C.

The Baltimore Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company will run their annual excursion to Chesapeake Beach and Washington, D. C., on Wednesday, August 2nd, 1905, giving passengers about an hour at Chesapeake Beach and three hours in Washington, or can remain at the Beach if they so desire, in which case they will have about eight hours on the Beach. Fare to Chesapeake Beach, Ocean City to Mardela Springs, inclusive, $1.00; Vienna to Hurlock, inclusive, 90 cents; Ellwood to Kirkham, inclusive, 75 cents; Royal Oak to Claiborne, inclusive, 50 cents. Only 50 cents additional to above to Washington, D. C. Tickets good for the day. Route via rail to Claiborne; steamer to Chesapeake Beach and rail to Washington.

If The Baby is Cutting Teeth.

Be sure and use that old and well-tried remedy, Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

JUST LAUGHS.

HAD MADE A MISTAKE. The late Bishop Dudley of Kentucky was on a hunting expedition near Louisville during the last few years of his life, and happened to fall in with a local nimrod whose unceasing admiration for the city man's marksmanship paved the way for further conversation.

"What's your name?" the countryman finally inquired. "Dudley," was the reply. "After some change of incident and experience the bishop's interlocutor hazarded.

"Say, Dudley, what business do you follow?" "I'm a preacher."

"O, get out. What are you giving me?" "But I am. I preach every Sunday."

"Where?" "In Louisville."

"Well, well; I never would have thought you'd stuck up a bit like most of the preachers down this way."

An invitation to hear this new made acquaintance preach was accompanied by a scribbled card, and the next Sabbath saw the rustic, in his "Sunday best," ushered into the bishop's parsonage, where he listened intently to both service and sermon.

He was manifestly amazed, afterward, to have the orator of the morning come down to greet him as cordially and familiarly as in the woods. He managed to stammer his thanks, and added: "I ain't much of a judge of this kind of thing, parson, but I riz with you not with you, and saw the thing through the best I knew how; but all the same, if my opinion is with anything to you, the Lord meant you for a shooter!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Scolding Set to Music.

In one of the beer gardens a brass band was playing what purported to be a Wagnerian selection with positively deafening effect. The god-natured people around the tables had wisely abandoned all effort at conversation. Not so with one woman, a shrewish-looking person, who was leaning over a table shaking her finger at her husband who, doing her best to make him hear the abuse that she was evidently hurling at him. Suddenly, with one grand blare, the music stopped and the woman's voice, pitched in a veritable scream, was heard:

"You bald-headed, sour-faced idiot, I'll—"

Checked by her own strident tones, she looked about her in consternation. Not so the husband. He was calqued to abuse. Picking up his stein, he looked at his wife and growled:

"Shut up till the band starts again."—New York Times.

How She Won Out.

She was busy holding one end of the sofa down and the other, and for seventeen consecutive seconds silence had reigned supreme. Then he said: "I wonder if any girl ever really did propose during leap year?"

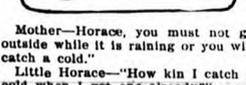

"I don't know," replied his fair companion, "but I'm sure no girl would do such a thing unless she was obliged to."

Several more silent seconds passed. "Um—yes," he said. "I hadn't thought of it in that light."

"And I'm sure," she continued, as she moved over and laid her hand softly on his arm, "you would never permit a girl to humiliate herself in that manner, would you?"

"Why—or—that is, of course not," he stammered. The ice having been broken, the rest was easy, and five minutes later they were engaged in looking up the advertisements of firms that sell furniture on the installment plan.

FORTIFIED.

Mother—Horace, you must not go outside while it is raining or you will catch a cold." Little Horace—"How kin I catch a cold when I got one already?"

Goat With a Charmed Life.

A well-known suburbanite who had been greatly troubled by the depredations of a neighbor's goat was driven to desperation one day when he learned that the animal had consumed a favorite red flannel coat of his. Determined on the goat's destruction, he employed an unscrupulous small boy who lived in the neighborhood to secure him to the railroad track just before the daily express was due. Some days afterward a friend inquired with interest if the goat had been effectually disposed of.

"Not on your life," was the disgusted answer; "that goat had a charmed life. He coughed up that red golf coat of mine and flagged the train."—Harper's Weekly.

Boxed.

They were returning from the baking bee. "And were there any red ears?" asked the friend. "Oh, yes," responded the girl in theingham dress. "I had two when pa caught that city fellow kissing me."

Growing Damson Plums.

Those who contemplate growing Damson plums can do so with no fear of the business soon being overdone. There are but few trees in this country of any note. The trees require close attention, making it almost impossible for one grower to have many acres, as is often the case with apples or peaches. The Damson plum offers to fruit growers who will pay close attention to their trees much better chance to realize a good income than from many other fruits.

BEEES AND DEE KEEPING

BEEES AND FRUIT FERTILIZATION. Experiments Prove They are Valuable on the Farm.

"I tried many experiments. I counted the blossoms on each of two branches, on apple, cherry, pear, strawberry, raspberry and clove. One of these, in case of each fruit, or experiment, was surrounded by cheese cloth just before the blossoms opened, and kept closed until the blossoms fell off. The apple, pear and cherry were covered May 14 and uncovered May 25 and May 19. The number of blossoms considered varied from 32, the smallest number, to 300, the largest. The trees were examined June 11 to see what number of the fruit had set. The per cent of blossoms which developed on the covered trees was a little over two, while almost 20 per cent of the uncovered blossoms had developed. Of the pears not one of the covered blossoms developed fruit. Of the cherries only five per cent of the covered developed, while 40 per cent of the uncovered blossoms set their fruit. In the matter of the various berries it was at the ratio of about three to one against the covered."—Prof. A. I. Cool in Indiana Farmer.

Why Use the Pure Bred Seed Corn.

It is well known by farmers that in the average corn field there is a large per cent of stalks without ears, or only bearing "nubbins." The purpose of pure bred seed corn is to secure one ear at least to each stalk of corn, and this has been nearly if not quite accomplished in selection and pure breeding. It is readily seen how this secures a great increase of bushels per acre over those of the average corn fields. When planted the regular distance apart each way in hills, an acre of ground will have 3,200 hills. In anything like fair corn land each hill will produce not less than two ears. When each stalk bears an ear which it does when pure bred seed is used, that would secure 6,600 ears, and with average sized ears on good land, it is estimated that 80 will make a bushel. It is therefore readily seen that with such results over 80 bushels of corn may be grown to the acre. These facts illustrate the importance of pure bred seed corn. Usually when more than two stalks are grown to the hill the result is more nubbins than ears, and therefore really less bushels of corn. In securing seed corn for the coming season it is well to consider these things.

Are Farmers Too Backward?

Farmers as a class are too backward in asserting their rights and making their claims before a legislative body. They are never represented in the lobby when legislation is being urged and but few of them ever write to urge the passage of bills in their interest. Farmers should be more strenuous for all measures which may improve their conditions, not only in their collective capacities, such as granges, institutes and other annual gatherings, but in their individual capacity. It is the one who claims, who makes a noise, who insistently demands, that is heard by a legislative member and the cry must not come like the yelp of a lame coyote out must be as thunderous as the storm and as sweeping as the prairie.—Field and Farm.

Honey Producing.

It is proposed to establish a model apiary of 50 or 60 colonies of bees at the Arlington Experimental Farm, as one of the breeding stations of the races or types of bees which are under observation, at the department of agriculture. Queens of the Caucasian, Cyprian, Dalmatian, Italian, and Carniolan races will be imported for breeding purposes and testing in different sections of the country. Possibly an importation of the bees of the Far East, particularly of the large races of Giant Bees of India, one species of which is found in the Philippines. It is believed that these bees would secure the nectar from flowers with deep corolla tubes, such as the red clover, etc., the sweets in which are, for the greater part, beyond the reach of our ordinary races.

Coal Ashes and Soil.

There is little fertility in coal ashes, but they can be made of some use in the garden. If the soil is hard and compact an addition of coal ashes will do it good. They may be put on liberally. Most soils are improved in texture by them. But plant food of some kind should of course be added, something which is in an available form. The ashes aid to keep the ground moist. A mulch of them is excellent for currants and gooseberries, which enjoy a soil that is damp and cool. Around pear trees they are good, and should do so, as well for other kinds of fruit trees. There are uses for coal ashes where there is a garden. Quite a quantity can be disposed of every year.

Rural Mail Boxes Not Private.

A rural mail carrier found in a box on his route two unopened letters intended for the owner of the box and put there by some one in passing. The letters were confiscated and sent to Washington with a request for a ruling. The government approved the action of the carrier and said that all mail found in any box without stamps or the proper amount for postage must be taken to the postoffice and held for postage. This ruling means that the owner of a mail box has no control over it.

Cultivating Chestnut Trees.

Contrary to the general belief that chestnuts will not grow on limestone land, the author states that Japanese chestnuts are successful wherever corn can be grown. The Japanese variety is advised for market purposes. The trees should be set about 25 feet apart, and when 7 or 8 years of age should produce about a bushel of nuts per tree. The trees should be planted on ground that can be cultivated in order to better control insect pests.—J. W. Kerr.

Thousands of Women ARE MADE WELL AND STRONG

Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Proves Upon the Fact that It Really Does Make Sick Women Well

Thousands upon thousands of American women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Their letters are on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office, and prove this statement to be a fact and not a mere boast.

Overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine, and compared with it all other medicines and treatment for women are experiments.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished its widespread results for good?

Why has it lived and thrived and done its glorious work for a quarter of a century?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has even approached its success is plainly and positively because there is no other medicine in the world so good for women's ills.

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant—not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructer ever discovered to act directly upon the uterine system, positively curing disease and displacements and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures, and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due. If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience that it will effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulency), leucorrhoea, falling inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration, or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Anyway, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It's free and always helpful.

$75 WORTH $100

WHY IS IT?

You can buy horses, mares and mules at King's for less money than elsewhere. One reason is he sells more horses than all the dealers in Baltimore combined. Another reason is, while our horse and mule business is the largest of any in Baltimore City, (stabling capacity 600 head and continuously receiving consignments from the breeders all over America), it is only one branch of this immense business. We carry in stock 1000 vehicles of every kind, of which a large selection is suitable for country use, at lowest factory prices. The final reason is, we are THE LARGEST COMBINED HORSE AND MULE DEALERS, LIVERYMEN, CARRIAGE, WAGON AND HARNESS MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

Of Worcester, Wicomico And Somerset To Be Held At Ocean City, August 28 To September 8. A Large Attendance Desired. The Inducements Presented.

County Superintendents, McMaster of Worcester, Dashiell of Somerset and Bounds of Wicomico, at a conference held in Salisbury, a few days ago made final arrangements for the Tri-County Summer School to be held at Ocean City from August 28th to September 8th.

State Superintendent M. Bates Stephens will be in charge, assisted by the above mentioned county superintendents, and the general sessions will be held in the Atlantic Casino, other meetings being held in suitable buildings at Ocean City.

Those who attend will have the advantage of special rates of $1 a day at hotels and cottages.

School Management. Arithmetic, Pedagogy, History, Music, Primary Methods and Physical Culture, will be treated by well known state and national educators, prominent among whom will be Prof. Murdaugh, principal of State Normal School at Frostburg; Dr. Ward, principal of the State Normal School of Baltimore and Dr. Cain, principal of the Normal Department of Washington College.

Some of the leading teachers of the three lower counties will probably help with the work.

Quite a large attendance is expected not only of teachers in the three counties but also of other counties.

In Burmah a divorce is arranged without the aid of lawyers and is very simple. If a husband and wife decide that life together is unendurable, she goes out and buys two little candles of equal size, made especially for the use of the unhappily wedded. She brings the candles home and then she and her husband sit down upon the floor, placing the candles between them. The candles are lighted at the same moment, and one represents the husband, the other the wife. The pair watch the burning tapers anxiously, for custom decrees that the owner of the one which goes out first is at once to leave the house. The second candle may have only flickered on a moment later, but its possessor remains owner of the house and all its contents, his or her late partner going away with nothing but the clothes worn at the moment.

Organizing Oystermen.

A local association of the Oystermen's Protective Association has been organized in Cambridge by Mr. Wm. Trickett Giles, secretary and counselor of the association. The following officers were elected:

President, George T. Johnson; vice president, Henry Stevens; secretary and treasurer, Alex. W. Gostee.

This makes the seventh branch association organized by Mr. Giles, and he proposes to organize numerous branches throughout all the tidewater counties. Some half dozen more will be organized in Dorchester county alone.

The objects of the association, as announced by Mr. Giles, are threefold. First, to protect the interest of those engaged in oyster industry; second to increase the oyster supply; third to secure a better enforcement of the oyster laws. No specific plans are proposed at present, but on the third Wednesday in November next a State convention will be held in Baltimore, to be composed of delegates from all the branch associations, and then and there the methods and manner of best securing the above objects will be formulated.—The Era, Md.

PELVIC CATARRH CURED.

General Health Greatly Improved by Pe-ru-na.

MRS. E. VON STIENAU.

Mrs. E. Von Stienau, 322 Fifth street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"I have been a sufferer for years with female trouble, causing backache and at times terrible headaches. I had also complications from indigestion and heart trouble, so that I often had to lie down. I took six bottles of Peru-na. I was then in perfect health, was regular, had no more headaches, in fact, my health is now all that I could wish."—Mrs. E. Von Stienau.

Kidney Trouble Cured.

Mrs. M. J. Danley, Treasurer of the Rebecca Lodge, I. O. O. F., writes from 124 First street, N., Minneapolis, Minn.:

"I was afflicted for several years with kidney trouble which became quite serious and caused me considerable anxiety. I spent hundreds of dollars trying to be cured, but nothing gave me any permanent relief until I tried Peru-na. It took less than three months and only ten bottles to effect a permanent cure."—Mrs. M. J. Danley.

BALLOT REFORM FOR WICOMICO HOPEFUL.

Public Opinion Aroused. Graft Has Its Root In The Ballot Box. Distinction Between The Bribe Giver And The Bribe Taker In Favor Of The Latter.

Editors of the "Advertiser":— Surely the "psychological moment" for ballot reform has come to Wicomico County. The Democratic nominees are gentlemen of conscience, of mental qualifications and unskilled in the arts of boodle politics. Nor were they nominated because they possess "the sinews of war"; and they are too independent in character to make themselves subordinate to, or to become servitors of, those who have.

Congressman Jackson and his organ are also showing decided interest in election reform for the Democratic party. The former thinks it a very unfair advantage, though it be legal to arrange names on the ballot to the disadvantage of Republican candidates; and his editor is leaping bribery in Democratic primaries, and wants to know what "Mr. Ellegood thinks of it." I am frank enough to say that those ideals of fair play in politics are commendable, and we hope that these gentlemen will continue to pull the mote out of the Democratic eye, and to cleanse the political household, in which it is my privilege to dwell, until it may become clean enough for their return and future abiding place, as in days of yore.

But they have so often, in cartoon and editorial, portrayed my "insincerity," that I am afraid I shall get scant credit at their hands for my preaching.

A minister once chided a bad boy for his boyish badness. The boy, with more pertinence than penitence, said "Dominie, do you know why a preacher is like a guide post?" "No. Why is he?" said the minister. "Because he always shows the right way to others, but never takes it himself."

It is very probable that but few are as good as they think themselves. Burns, sitting in church, saw an uncanny thing crawling on the neck of a frivolous and affected young girl, which inspired him to say,

"O, wad some power the giftie gie us
To see ourselves as ithers see us,
It wad frae manny a blunder free us
And foolish notions."

Illustration Of Seeing Oneself.

David did not recognize himself as the murderer and adulterer, characterized by the prophet, in the touching allegory of the poor man and his ewe lamb, which the rich man robbed him of, until Nathan, with more courage than prudence, said bluntly, "Thou art the man."

Two men went up to the temple to pray, but only one prayed, while the other praised himself as very unlike the ordinary run of mankind. He said he was no extortioner, nor unjust, nor an adulterer, nor giver of bribes; he fasted and gave tithes of all he possessed. He was therefore, moral, religious, benevolent. After all he was not quite so much justified as the poor fellow who would not so much as lift up his eyes. THE LATTER SAW HIMSELF.

Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, protested with tears, his innocence to his fellow senators, but a jury of his countrymen found him guilty. Now, instead of seeing himself as a respected United States Senator and the most important and political person in Oregon, he sees himself as a convict.

A few months since, Israel Durham held a responsible office in Pennsylvania, and was the most influential political factor in Philadelphia, to whom great corporations and councilmen paid Court, and to whom the Mayor of Philadelphia was for a time sub-ordinate. Today he is out of office, out of power, and SUPPOSED TO BE IN JEOPARDY OF THE JAIL!

The searchlight of public criticism has recently been turned upon Mr. John D. Rockefeller and his money making methods; though Mr. Rockefeller has always regarded himself as very religious, and he has been a very churchly man, it is now said he longs for sympathy from the people.

We need not pass upon the justice of the criticism, but this lesson may be drawn: whether "tainted" money is or not purged when given for religious purposes, surely honest money becomes "tainted" when given for corrupt purposes.

The Terrible Force Of Public Opinion.

Public sentiment when fully aroused is not always discriminating in judgement, and often becomes merciless towards offenders. But strange as it may seem, the people will sometimes submit to wrongs that infringe upon some abstract personal rights, with more patience than they will to those wrongs which rob them of their property. That is illustrated in Philadelphia. The people have known for years that the ballot was corrupt, and elections a farce, but they would not rebel until they saw themselves being robbed by the politicians in combination with the Gas Co. In our form of government the right preservative of all rights is the ballot, therefore, when the ballot is corrupted all rights are in danger. But does the vote buying bribe giver believe it? If so, he is willfully running a political muck, and while destroying others, he is courting destruction for himself and his rights. The disgraceful robbery in Philadelphia could never have been possible except for the rotten condition of the suffrage. Instead of buying voters, the officials—police and election officers—were bought to pad the voting list, and stuff the ballot box; differing only in the form from the corruption which exists in Wicomico County. Here our election officers have always been above reproach, and our elections officially honest; but what must be said of candidates for office.

Familiarity With The Vice.

The condition has been such, (I believe it is rapidly changing,) that a man could be a well known bribe giver and yet highly respectable in society and in business; prominent in church, and vastly more influential in politics, because of his bribes, than the poor man who could not, or the rich man who would not become a briber, no matter what the ability and character of the latter were. We "first endure, then pity, then embrace" the vice.

So familiar had this evil become that the people seemed to regard it as a much more important concomitant of a political contest than campaign literature or intelligent speech making, or individual effort.

Intelligence and fitness for office of the candidate was a minor matter compared to the boodle fund. It was frequently said that no one could be convicted of vote buying because the candidates and influential citizens participated; nor the Church member deprived of his membership, so general had it become. But in the estimation of these genteel politicians the vote seller was a very bad fellow, vicious and corrupt.

The correct differentiation between the two is really this; the bribe taker should be condemned with recommendation to mercy, because he is usually poor, ignorant and tempted; the bribe giving candidate should be condemned without mercy, because he knows better and is the tempter.

The motive of the two is alike, gain: the buyer to gain the office, the seller to get the money. J. E. E.

Dorchester County Man Drowned In Humphreys Pond.

On Tuesday evening about nine o'clock Mr. Wm. Lord, a farmer of Eldorado, Dorchester county, fell from the B. O. & A., train a section of the Rehoboth special, and was drowned in upper Humphreys lake. The train had stopped on the bridge waiting to back up to the station when a Mr. Layton who was on the platform right back of Lord saw him step off as if to the ground. Layton heard the splash and called to Messrs. Randolph Sermon, Dallas Hearn and Wilbur Nook, who were rowing on the lake, about 100 feet from the scene of the accident. The young men went to the spot at once but were too late to render assistance. On the body which was recovered within half an hour were found two pints of whiskey, a revolver, a knife and $1.35 in cash.

After Justice Trader had summoned a jury with Mayor Harper as foreman the body was turned over to Holloway who prepared it for burial. Mr. Lord's son was in Salisbury Wednesday morning to take charge of the remains.

Trolley Through Salisbury.

Within two years time it is entirely possible that a trolley line may be in operation through Salisbury, with a southern terminus at Fenwick Island, a few miles from Ocean City, which northern capitalists propose to make a rival to Atlantic City. This line is to start at Elkton, Cecil county, where it will connect with long distance lines already constructed or proposed to be, for Wilmington, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The engineer spent several days in Chestertown, Centerville, Easton, Princess Anne and Salisbury, through which towns the line will operate and stated that in addition to having stations in the towns, they will also stop at the intersection of every county road and prominent farm residence near the line. They will also run local freights to handle farm produce. The car fare will be reduced to a minimum.

The company will prepare a special bill before the next legislature asking for a right of way. Philadelphia and New York financiers will furnish all the capital.

HOWARD COUNTY AID.

Washington Counties With Others Declare Boldly For Suffrage Amendment— Gaining Headway Over The State.

Without a dissenting vote and not a murmur of disapproval from any of the delegates, the Democrats of Howard county at their convention Tuesday endorsed the franchise amendment after former Governor Carroll had stirred the assembly by a strong speech in favor of putting an end to negro suffrage.

In no uncertain terms the former Governor declared that all Democrats should come out boldly in their county conventions and in all other places and assert their support of the measure. By his forceful speech the ex-Governor swept away any possible objection that might have arisen to the speedy passage of the resolution.

He said: The suffrage amendment is the one subject of greatest importance that will come before this convention today. I hold that the men who stand here are the representative Democrats of the county and it is your duty to vote for this amendment. You are here called upon to endorse the Democratic members of the Legislature who have afforded you an opportunity to express your approval of their action.

"When you send your delegates to the Legislature they will be asked:

"Did you endorse or ignore the suffrage amendment? We want our delegates to say that they have been elected by the promise that they would take such action that would eliminate the negro from the suffrage lists of the State. You are called upon now to sustain the Legislature that has placed the amendment before you. Your Governor comes from this county, and he will ask how did his county act on the suffrage amendment in this convention.

"Every State south of us has circled around the constitutional questions involved and has refused the negro the right to vote. Are you to say that we are not interested in this, and that if we are interested we are ashamed to say so? No honest Democrat has ever been afraid to say he is opposed to negroes voting.

"Our Secretary of State, who is now a Republican, has said the greatest mistake the country has ever made was granting the privilege of suffrage to voters who do not understand it. Blacks and whites were never intended for social or political equality.

"Governor Warfield is a man and has a right to his own opinions. He has given a business administration and deserves praise.

"It will be the darkest day Maryland has seen for many years if this amendment goes against us—a dark day for Howard county if we do not endorse this measure."

Washington County Democrats Pass Strong Resolutions.

The Washington county Democratic Convention Tuesday endorsed the franchise amendment.

The convention was most harmonious. Everything that was done was done unanimously. When the resolution were adopted endorsing the amendment cheers were given with a hearty good will by the delegates.

Entrusting Our County's Welfare.

"We do not believe in entrusting the welfare of our country into the hands of a race that, though brought into immediate contact with advanced civilization for many centuries, has shown an utter incapacity to grasp, adopt and apply the rules of conduct underlying all organized good government, and whose political activities in our midst have been signalized by blind obedience, submission to personal ascendancy and corruption, which are a menace to free institutions.

"Since the right to vote was given them sums of money almost incalculable have been unsparingly contributed with the hope of improving the colored race and making them fit subjects of citizenship; but, instead of fruitful results after these many years of patient effort and enormous expenditures of the white taxpayers' money, it is found that no compensating progress has been made by the race.

"In political matters they are equal or by threat and fear driven in squads to the polls by those who for selfish purposes alarm them and incite them to disreputably flout themselves or form a body of voters corrupt and cancerous, controlled by dollars, and in no instance governed by intelligence.

"We believe and unhesitatingly assert that in great measure producing these unhappy, distressing and shameful conditions is the use of the elective franchise by the negro unprepared as he is for it.

"On this issue alone the Democrats carried the State by a large majority and in 1904 the Legislature, by a three fifths vote in the House and Senate, obeyed the will and command of the voters by passing an amendment to the Constitution of the State, which amendment is before the people for their adoption or rejection; an amendment not asserted to be illegal or unconstitutional, because it is framed along lines upheld by our highest judicial tribunal, the Supreme Court of the United States; an amendment,

DEATH OF MR. DORMAN

At The Age Of 86 Removes One Of The Well Known Standards Of This County. Early Identified With Its Interests. Held In High Esteem.

Mr. Levin P. Dorman, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed citizens of this community died on Friday evening at his home on East Church Street. Mr. Dorman, who was widely known all around this section was over 86 years of age and had been suffering for some time being very feeble throughout the last two weeks of his illness; his death though not a surprise occasioned the greatest regret and sympathy.

Mr. Dorman, who was the son of Levin and Elizabeth Dorman was born in February 1819 on a farm near Spring Hill about three miles from Salisbury. (Levin W. Dorman, one of the sons, now owns this farm. Mr. Dorman's father having died when he was 14 years of age, he came to Salisbury in 1841 and went in business with the late John Parsons till 1844, during the latter part of which year he married Rachel Waller. They then moved to a farm near Delmar where they remained about twelve years; moving in 1856 to the old Dorman place at Spring Hill. Here they lived until 1875, at that time coming to Salisbury where they built a comfortable home on E. Church Street. Mrs. Dorman died on August 3rd, 1889, after 49 years of married life. Mr. Dorman was one of the organizers and early promoters of the Trinity M. E. Church, South, and served it faithfully and well throughout his life time, being a steward at the time of his death. In political sentiments he was a strong Democrat holding several offices under this party. In 1864-65 when Roads was Sheriff of Somerset county, Mr. Dorman was elected deputy Sheriff and after Wicomico was formed, he was elected Sheriff of that county, in 1875, holding the position two years. He was county tax collector during this time.

Mr. Dorman is survived by five children, Levin Dorman, of the Dorman & Smyth Hardware Co., William E. Dorman, Mrs. Fannie Adams, Miss Lillian E. Dorman, Miss Stella W. Dorman; five grand children and two great grand children.

Funeral services conducted by Rev. Dr. T. N. Potts, were held in the Trinity M. E. Church, South on Sunday afternoon. Rev. David Howard, rector of St. Peter's P. E. Church and Rev. S. J. Smith, pastor of the M. P. Church, assisting.

The pall bearers were Samuel S. Smyth, Geo. W. Phillips, Harry Dennis, G. E. Serman, Dr. F. M. Slemmons and G. W. White, interment taking place in Parsons Cemetery.

Mr. Dorman's life was insured for $2,500 in the Aetna Life Insurance Company.

There will be service, D. V., in Spring Hill Parish, on Sunday next, July 30th., as follows: Spring Hill Church, 10.30 a. m.; Quantico, 8 p. m. Franklin B. Adkins, Rector.

which, if adopted, will protect us from the crowds of ignorant negroes coming here from States that have wisely restricted their right to vote; an amendment which will elevate and purify our politics and insure white supremacy. And we earnestly call on all white voters to forget party differences and to help to carry so wise a measure.

"We repeat, this is the only issue involved. On other questions and at other times we may differ, but not now. Not when we have the opportunity to advance so far the best interests of all our people. We are in favor of the amendment because it stands for cleaner politics, higher standards, white supremacy.

SCRATCHED DAY AND NIGHT

WILL NEVER BE WITHOUT CUTICURA

"My scalp was covered with little pimples and I suffered tortures from the itching. I was scratching all day and night, and I could get no rest. I washed my head with hot water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment as a dressing. One box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap cured me. Now my head is entirely clear and my hair is growing splendidly. I have used Cuticura Soap ever since, and shall never be without it. (signed) Ada C. Smith, 309 Grand St., Jersey City, N. J."

IN MEMORIAM.

Passed from a life of suffering into one of never ending rest, on the eighth of September, 1904 more than ten months ago, little Carroll Slemmons, son of Edward M. and Jennie V. Kelley, aged one year three months and eleven days.

The little crib is empty now. The little shoes laid by. We see no more his pleasant smiles. Nor hear no more his cry. Those little playful hands are still. Those feet beneath the clay. They're safe from sinful paths of life. And can never go astray. Oh in his dreams see him play As in life he used to do. But from dreams to grief I awake To find it all untrue. Ten long months and still we're lonely. And our hearts are very sad. But in heaven again we'll meet him. Where we'll ever more be glad. In his smiles then we'll be with him. When those little hands beckon us through. No more to grief I then will awake. My dreams will all be true. Written by his mother.

Special Excursion to Chesapeake Beach and Washington, D. C.

A Free Scholarship.

Any young man or woman who is a bona fide patron of this paper may secure free instruction in Music or Elocution.

The Ithaca Conservatory of Music, with the desire to stimulate the study of these arts, offer two scholarships to applicants from the State of Maryland, valued at $100 each, and good for the term of twenty weeks beginning with the opening of the school year, September 14, 1905, in any of the following departments: Voice, Violin, Piano, Organ and Elocution. These scholarships are awarded upon competition which is open to any one desiring a musical or literary education. Any one wishing to enter the competition or desiring information should write to Mr. Geo. C. Williams, the General Manager of the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, Ithaca, N. Y., before September 1, 1905.

Niagara Falls Excursions.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has selected the following dates for its popular ten day excursions to Niagara Falls from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington: July 7 and 21, August 11 and 25, September 8 and 22 and October 13.

The excursions from Philadelphia will be run by two routes. Those on July 7 and 21, August 11 and 25, September 8 and 22, going via Harrisburg and the picturesque valley of the Susquehanna, special train leaving Philadelphia at 8.10 a. m., excursion of October 13 running via Trenton, Manunka Chunk, and the Delaware Valley, leaving Philadelphia on special train at 8.07 a. m.

Excursion tickets, good for return passage on any regular train, exclusive of limited express trains, within ten days, will be sold at $10.00 from Philadelphia and all points on the Delaware Division; $1.25 from Atlantic City; $9.00 from Lancaster; and at proportionate rates from other points, including Trenton, Bordentown, Mt. Holly, Cape May, Salem, Wilmington, West Chester, Reading and principal intermediate stations. A stop over will be allowed at Buffalo within the limit of ticket returning.

The special trains of Pullman parlor cars and day coaches will be run with each excursion running through to Niagara Falls. An extra charge will be made for parlor car seats.

An experienced tour agent and chaperon will accompany each excursion.

For descriptive pamphlet, time of connecting trains, and further information apply to nearest ticket agent, or address Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

James T. Robinson.

James T. Robinson died on Monday night after a lingering illness of several months of cancer on the lower lip. It spread very rapidly recently and he was a great sufferer, but he bore his affliction with great resignation. He was for many years a member of the M. E. Church. He was held in high regard. He lived a quiet life. He was sixty two years old. He leaves a widow, one son, Capt. C. E. Robinson and two daughters, Misses Lala and Helen. The remains were interred on Tuesday afternoon in the Taylor Cemetery after funeral services at his late residence by Rev. J. H. Wilson.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, hemorrhage, failure of the kidneys, apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

What Does It Mean

to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give. Dividends are declared every year in the Mutual Benefit, and the policy-holders use them either to help pay premiums or to buy increased insurance. The policies of the Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co. contain special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before placing your insurance. You owe it to your family to have the best.

THE Simple Life

BY CHARLES WAGNER.

(Copyright 1904 by J. S. Optic Pub. Co. New York.)

President Roosevelt says to the author of it
"I AM PREACHING YOUR BOOK TO MY COUNTRYMEN."

If simplicity of the heart is an essential condition of respect, simplicity of life is the best school. Whatever be your condition of fortune, avoid all that may cause your children to believe that they are more than others. Even when your position permits you to dress them richly, think of the damage that you could cause them in exciting their vanity. Preserve them from the misfortune of ever believing that it suffices to be dressed beautifully to possess distinction, and, above all, do not add to the gaiety of their hearts by their costume and their habits. The distances that separate them already from their fellows. Dress them simply. If, on the contrary, you must make efforts of economy to give your children the pleasure of being regarded as more than others, do it for another and better cause: your spirit of sacrifice. You risk seeing it badly recompensed. You scatter your money, while it would be better if you saved it for serious needs; you prepare for yourself a later harvest of ingratitude. How dangerous it is to accustom your sons and daughters to a manner of life which exceeds your means and theirs. First, that is very bad for the pocket, and next it develops the spirit of scorn in the very bosom of the family. If you dress your children like little lords and ladies, you give them the impression that they are your superiors, it is astonishing if they finish by despising you? You would have fed those of another class. Now, this kind of product costs dearly and values nothing.

There is also a certain fashion of instructing children which for clear results brings them to despair. All their parents, their surroundings, and the labor in the midst of which they have grown up. Such an instruction is a calamity. It is good only to produce a legion of discontented ones who separate themselves from their stock, their origin, their affections, all of which in sum makes the first stuff of a man. Once detached from the robust tree which produced them, the wind of their foolish ambition blows them back and forth like the dead leaves which gather in certain places to ferment and rot upon the other. Nature does not move by jumps and bounds, but by slow and sure evolution. Let us imitate her in the manner of preparing a career for our children. Do not confound the advancement with those exercises which they call double somersaults. Let us not bring up our children in such a way that they will come to despise their aspirations and the spirit of simplicity of the paternal home do not expose them to the evil temptation of being ashamed of our poverty. If they should ever achieve fortune. A society is very sick the day when the sons of peasants forsake the plow, when the sons of sailors desert the sea, or working girls, in the hope of being taken for heiresses, prefer to walk alone in the streets rather than on the arms of their good parents. A society is healthy, on the contrary, when each member applies himself to do about the same thing as his parents are doing, but better, aiming to lift himself, yet contents himself with the most modest functions, filling them conscientiously.

Education should form free men. If you bring up your children for liberty, do it simply, and do not fear to thus destroy their happiness. Quite the contrary. The most pleasurable, healthful and extraordinary pleasures a child has, the less he is amused. There is in that a sure indication. Let us be sober in our means of rejoicing and diversions for youth, and above all do not create fictitious needs lightly. Food, clothing, shelter, amusements, let all these be natural and as little complicated as possible. To make life agreeable to children, certain parents give them habits of gluttony and idleness, allow them excitements incompatible with their age; multiply invitations and spectacles. Poor parents, they! Instead of a free man you raise up a slave. Too accustomed to luxury, he will weary of it, and in spite of it, and when for one reason or another his comfort is gone he will suffer and you with him, and what is worse you will have both. The most pleasurable amusements of life to sacrifice human dignity, truth, duty, by pure cowardice.

Bring up your children, therefore, simply—I would say, almost rudely; draw them to fortifying exercises, through privations even. Let them rather be doing, but better, aiming to lift himself, yet contents himself with the most modest functions, filling them conscientiously.

A too easy life brings a sort of lassitude of the vital energies. One becomes weary, disillusioned, a weary old man, without faculty for amusing himself. How many children and young people are to-day in this condition. On them are deposited, like a racking wind, the traces of our deceptions, our scepticisms, our vices and the bad habits contracted in our society. How many of these faded youths make us ask? How many warnings engraved on our brow!

These shadows tell us, even by the contrast, that happiness consists in being a real living being, active, headless, virgin of the yoke of passions, fictitious needs, unhealthy excitements, having kept in his heart the faculty to enjoy the light of day, the air, and in his heart to have the capacity for loving and to feel with power all that is generous and fine.

lead to frank speech. Falsehood is a vice of slaves, the refuge of cowards and the weak. He who is free and firm is also disfranchised from the collar. Let us encourage in our children that happy courage that tells all without chewing their words. What do we ordinarily do? We turn them inward, we level their natures in view of the uniformity which for the great stock is the synonym of good tone. To think with his mind, feel with his heart, express the real himself, what an impolite thing, what rusticity! Oh, the atrocious education that this is which consists in perpetually stifling in each of us the reason which gives him his reason for being! Of how many soul murders are we guilty? Some are beaten down with blows of the club, others gently smothered between two elderdowns. Everything conspires against independent characters. Little, they wish to see us like images or dolls; grown, they love us on condition that we shall be like the rest of the world, automatons. When we have seen one we have seen all. It is for that that the lack of originality and initiative has won us, and that platitude and monotony are the distinctive marks of our life. Truth will set us free. Teach our children to be themselves, to give their trumpets their own clear sound. Make loyalty a need, and in their gravest mistakes, if they avoid them, count it as a merit to have been openly naughty.

To frankness associate innocence in our educational solitude. Let us have for that companion of infancy innocence, all possible solitude; a trifle wild though it be, yet so graceful and beneficent. Do not frighten it away. When it has fled from a place it is rare that it ever returns. This innocence is not only the sister of truth, guardian of the qualities belonging to both; it is still a great educational and revealing power. I see around us the people so-called positive, who are armed with terrifying spectacles and great scissars to bring forth these innocences and clip their wings. They extirpate the innocence of the world, of thought, of education and pursue them to the very regions of their dreams. Under the pretence of making men of them they hinder them from being children, as though, before the ripened fruits of autumn it did not need the flowers, the perfume, the songs, the fairy land of spring.

I ask grace for all that which is innocent and simple, not only for its innocent daintiness which darts around the curly heads, but also for the legend, the innocent song, the stories of the world of marvels and mystery. The sense of the marvelous is the first form of that sense of the infinite without which man is like a bird deprived of its wings. Do not wean childhood from the marvelous, with the end in view to guard for him the capacity to lift himself above this earthly earth, and to appreciate later those plums and touching symbols of by-gone ages, where human truth has found expressions which our arid logic will never replace.

A WOMAN'S ORDEAL

DREADS DOCTOR'S QUESTIONS
Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private life, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female disease. This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise women more wisely than the local physician. Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Ia. She writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham— I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude in words. Before I wrote to you telling you how I felt, I had suffered for over two years, and spent lots of money in medicines besides, but it all failed to do me any good. I had female troubles and bearing-down pains, and my monthly periods were very irregular and finally ceased. I wrote to you for your advice and received a letter of instructions just what to do, and also commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have been restored to a perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave to-day."

Mountain of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

EVERY WHITE MAN MAY VOTE. No proposition ever brought before the people of this state has met with more unmerited censure than the constitutional amendment, drafted by John P. Poe, passed by a Democratic legislature in response to an overwhelming vote of confidence that elected the delegates thereto and now submitted to the citizens of Maryland for their approval or disapproval of this fall.

From beginning to end there is a sentiment in every line that is extremely palpable to every man. It is a feeling that Maryland must be governed by the white man; that his supremacy is in peril; that his welfare is jeopardized—that it would rescue him from this impending evil and place him on a footing where he will be free from the effects of that terrible curse inflicted upon the American people when the negro race was given the right of franchise.

It is a white man's measure in its entirety. Drafted by a white man, passed by the white man, for the protection of the white man in all time to come. And best of all, under its equitable conditions every white man may vote. He may not be able to render an oration or produce a refined essay—its fair conditions cover his disabilities with a cloak of charity: every white man may vote.

No matter whether he is not acquainted with the Greek alphabet or cannot so much as lay down in legible characters his own name. Under the wise provisions of this bill every white man may vote. In the equity of things, there are clauses that protect the white man under all circumstances and in all conditions. Every white man may vote. This measure is not as a few renegade democrats and a host of Republicans would have it, the product of a machine and drafted in its own interest. It is for the welfare of all white men and all alike will enjoy the blessings it guarantees them.

But its most impressive feature is that every precaution has been taken to insure the white man the right of franchise. No matter whether his worldly goods are limited to his wearing apparel or if he has not had the opportunity to so much as attend a kindergarten, every white man may vote. The amendment's avowed purpose is to take away from the negro that which was never lawfully given him—a vote. In the nature of things it will make him a better laborer, better man and better citizen. It will remove the bitter prejudice against him, now as strong in his own party at times as in the Democratic ranks. His personage will carry with it more genuine respect. He will have more friends and better friends. For the negro's own sake the amendment is a good thing.

But upon one thing we insist most, and appeal to every white man's better nature upon this very ground—the proposed amendment is for the best interest of the white men in the State, should be supported by the better elements of them, and if it is enacted, EVERY WHITE MAN MAY VOTE.

It is stated on reliable authority that the entire acreage of tomatoes planted this season will not reach 60 per cent of that of last year. The present holding of potato goods in the hands of first and middle men is less than one half of that of July 1, 1904.

Salisbury and Cambridge Enjoy A Game of Tennis.

Salisbury and Cambridge had a social bout at tennis in the latter hospitable city on Tuesday morning and afternoon, playing three events, one in doubles and two in singles with the following scores: Doubles, two straight for Messrs. Johnson and Barnett, of Cambridge, Messrs. White and Phillips for Salisbury, 6-4, 6-4. Singles, two straight for G. W. Phillips, Salisbury against S. J. Johnson, Cambridge, 6-4, 9-7. Singles, two out of three for J. R. White, Salisbury, against Dr. G. E. Barnette, Cambridge, 7-5, 1-6, 6-1.

Another game of doubles not in the regular events played in the afternoon between the same players went to Salisbury, 8-6, 3-6, 6-4. Cambridge comes to Salisbury this morning for return events which will be given at 10 o'clock. It is hoped to arrange a series of games for next week in Salisbury between the lady players of this city and those of Cambridge.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and four, two bills were passed, one proposing an amendment to section 1 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the State, the other proposing an amendment to section 31 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State, which said bills are in the words following, to wit:

CHAPTER 94. AN ACT to amend section 1 of Article 1 of the Constitution of this State and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Maryland, that the members of each of the two Houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to section 1 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the State, to be adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in place and stead of section 1 of said Article 1. SECTION 1. All elections by the people shall be by ballot. Every male citizen of the United States, whether native born or naturalized, of the age of 21 years or upwards, who has resided in this State for one year and in the Legislative district of Baltimore city or in the county in which he may reside for six months next preceding the election, and who moreover is duly registered in the affirmative as provided in this Article, shall be entitled to vote in the ward or election district in which he resides at all elections hereinafter to be held in this State; and in case any county or city shall be so divided as to form portions of different electoral districts for the election of Representatives in Congress, Senators, Delegates or other officers, he shall be entitled to vote for such officer, he must have been a resident of the ward or election district in which he offers to vote for six months next preceding the election, and a person who shall have acquired a residence in such county or city, entitling him to vote in any such election, shall be entitled to vote in the election district from which he removed until he shall have acquired a residence in the ward or election district in which he has removed. Every such male citizen of the United States having the above-prescribed qualifications of age and residence shall be entitled to be registered so as to become a qualified voter if he be: First—A person able to read any section of the Constitution of this State submitted to him by the officers of registration and to give a reasonable explanation of the same; or if unable to read such section is able to understand and give explanation thereof when read to him by the officers of registration; or Second—A person who on the first day of January, 1908, or prior thereto, was entitled to vote under the laws of this State or of any other State of the United States wherein he has resided; or Third—Any male lineal descendant of such last-mentioned person who may be twenty or more years of age over in the year 1908. No person not thus qualified by coming under some one of the above descriptions shall be entitled to be registered as a qualified voter, nor be entitled to vote.

SECTION 2. And be it further enacted, That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to section 31 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State, to be adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in place and stead of section 31 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State.

SECTION 31. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Maryland, that the members of each of the two Houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to section 31 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State, to be adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in place and stead of section 31 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State.

CHAPTER 95. AN ACT to amend section 34 of Article 3 of the Constitution of this State.

SECTION 34. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Maryland, that the members of each of the two Houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to section 34 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State, to be adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in place and stead of section 34 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State.

CHAPTER 96. AN ACT to amend section 34 of Article 3 of the Constitution of this State.

SECTION 34. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Maryland, that the members of each of the two Houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to section 34 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State, to be adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in place and stead of section 34 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State.

SECTION 34. No debt shall be hereafter contracted by the General Assembly unless such debt shall be authorized by a law providing for the payment of the same out of the annual or special tax levied for the purpose of raising the money to pay the same, and the tax levied for such purpose shall not be applied to any other object until the said debt and interest thereon shall have been paid. The credit of the State shall not in any manner be given or loaned to, or in aid of any individual, association, corporation, or other person, nor shall the General Assembly have the power in any manner to involve the State in the construction of works of internal improvement, nor of granting any aid thereto which shall not be applied to the benefit of the State; nor make any appropriation therefor, except in aid of the construction of works of internal improvement in the counties of St. Mary's, Charles and Calvert, which had no direct benefit to such counties, and have been heretofore aided by the State; and provided that such aid, advances or appropriations shall not exceed in the aggregate the sum of five hundred thousand dollars, and shall not be used for any other purpose than the construction of works of internal improvement, or of the State tax now levied or which may hereafter be levied for the purpose of paying the same, and the interest thereon, and shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars to meet temporary deficiencies in the treasury, and may contract debts to any amount which may be necessary for the defense of the State.

But nothing in this section or in this Constitution contained shall deprive the General Assembly of the State of Maryland of its power to appropriate to the city of Baltimore and the several counties of the State out of any funds in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, a sum of money not exceeding four hundred and fifty thousand dollars, to be expended only in the construction and maintenance of public roads and highways under and in accordance with the provisions of the General Assembly may from time to time prescribe.

Now, therefore, I, EDWIN WARFIELD, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the provisions of Section 1 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and of the mandate of the Court of Appeals of the State of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that a copy of each of said bills proposing said amendments to said Article 1 and 2 of the Constitution of the State be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State, where so many may be published, and in any county where not more than one newspaper may be published, then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers in the city of Baltimore, one of which shall be in the German language, once a week for at least three months preceding the next general election, which said election will be held on the 7th day of November, 1908, and such election in the said proposed amendments shall be submitted, in the form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection.

NEWS FROM ALL SECTIONS OF WICOMICO SENT IN BY THE ADVERTISER'S REPRESENTATIVES.

MARDELA.

A happy evening with the little folks—Miss Fanny Wilson on Saturday evening entertained a jolly lot of young people at her home.

We are all delighted to have Dr. L. N. Wilson with us again. The Dr. has a warm place in the hearts of very many of our people.

At this time while so much is being written about John Paul Jones, it may be interesting to know that one of our citizens, Rev. Mr. Parker, has a piece of the Ship Alliance that formed a part of Jones' fleet in 1779.

Quite a number of people from here went on the excursion on Tuesday to Rehoboth. The train as it reached our station was crowded to the platform.

Rev. E. G. Parker is off for a few days vacation; he will preach on Sunday for the Grace Baptist Church of Baltimore. His pulpit last Sunday was acceptably filled by Mr. Isaac P. Kennerly.

Miss Stella Richardson arrived home Saturday after taking a course of study at the Dover Summer School.

Miss Emily Scott, after spending several weeks with friends and relatives in Wilmington returned home Thursday.

Mrs. K. V. White is visiting with relatives in Salisbury.

Misses Rosa Palmer, Gertrude and Edith Shockley are quite sick at present. Dr. C. A. Holland is giving them his attention.

Mr. John Haman moved his family down to Piney Grove last week where he has been working for some time.

Mrs. Maria Adkins who has been quite sick is very much improved.

Little Lulu Williams met with quite a painful accident Monday, by falling out of the carriage and almost fracturing her nose. Dr. Holland dressed it and said it was not broken but badly hurt.

Mrs. Henry Jones visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus Dennis Saturday and Sunday.

WANGO.

Owing to the rain July 22nd, the festival which was to be held at Wango Church was postponed until August 5th. It is never too late to mend, boys, so come out and bring the girls. We will furnish your supper, cream, etc., in abundance.

We are very sorry to report Mrs. Arley Moore very sick with typhoid fever.

Miss Lucie Leonard has returned from Philadelphia where she spent a very pleasant visit with her aunt, Mrs. Louis Tull.

Miss Minnie Adkins of Salisbury is visiting her cousin, Miss Ethel Adkins.

Mr. Ernest Gordy spent Sunday with relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. George Adkins had a delightful trip to Rehoboth last Tuesday.

Mr. George W. Leonard is visiting relatives at Warfield, Virginia.

Mrs. Gertrude Walker and children are visiting at the home of Mr. Moses Wimbrow.

Who Can Dispute It.

In using Davis 100 per cent Pure Paint, sometime since in my residence, the painter coated the walls, ceiling and wood work of my kitchen, amounting to 625 square feet, one coat, with one half gallon of No. 27, and had some paint left. Geo. S. Aldhizer, May 13-04. Broadway, Va. W. D. Gravenor & Brother sells Davis 100 per cent Pure Paint.

PITTSVILLE.

Our agents have been very busy shipping huckleberries and white potatoes for the past two weeks.

Mrs. May Holland of Berlin is visiting relatives here this week.

Mr. Rufus Dennis and daughter of New York City are calling on their numerous relatives in this neighborhood this week.

D. J. Davis of this place made a trip to Snow Hill Sunday and Monday last to call on his cousins, Misses Dora and Mattie Duncan who have been visiting relatives in Wicomico and Worcester counties for the past two weeks. They returned home to Selbyville, Mo., this week.

A happy face boy graces the homes each of Dr. L. C. Freeny and Mr. Geo. Shockley.

Our clerk at the post office reports an exceedingly good time at Rehoboth Tuesday last. Nearly one hundred persons went from this place.

Mr. J. R. Freeny, the well known architect, has commenced to build the new parsonage at this place.

FRUITLAND.

There will be a basket festival at Zion M. E. Church Fruitland charge Tuesday, August 1st, afternoon and evening. A very interesting game of ball is expected in the afternoon commencing at 3.30 p. m. Everybody invited. Proceeds for the benefit of the church. Committee.

Hebron Camp.

The Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company will sell round trip tickets from all stations to Hebron, Md., account Camp, July 29th to August 7th, inclusive, good to return until August 7th, at rate of two cents per mile for number of miles traveled.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Losing your hair? Coming out by the comb? And doing nothing? No sense in that! Why don't you use Ayer's Hair Vigor and promptly stop the falling? Your hair will begin to grow, too, and all dandruff will disappear. Could you reasonably expect anything better?

Ayer's Hair Vigor is a great success with me. My hair was falling out very badly, but the Hair Vigor stopped it and now my hair is all right.—W. C. Lonsdale, Lindsay, Cal. Price a bottle, 25 cents. For sale at all druggists. Lowell, Mass.
