LEARNING TO COOK

By Girls At Capital—Many Of The Young Smart Set Take Lessons.

Washington society girls believe in the old adage that every woman should know how to cook and they are carrying out their convictions this Lent by attending a cooking school. Three mornings each week are devoted to the culinary art by this club of smart young girls. Among those who may be seen in the cooking school of the Housekeepers' Alliance with their sleeves rolled up above dimpled elbows and faces perhaps besmudged with flour are Miss Gladys Binckley, Miss Laura Merriam, Miss Frances Noyes, Miss Bower, Miss Mary MacCavety and Mrs. Sherman Miles.

Miss Helen Taft, although not a regular attendant, has been present at some of the lessons, but it is to be remembered that Mrs. Taft was very careful to have her young daughter taught the art of cooking as well as dressmaking while she was still in very young girlhood.

In these cooking lessons the girls are following the example of older women in society, including Mrs. Bryce, wife of the British Ambassador, who always has the ingredients for salad dressing brought to the dinner table, and while she carries on a brilliant conversation with her guests prepares the salad. Mme. Jusserand has won fame as a soup-maker, the ham which Mrs. Champ Clark cooked for the buffet supper which she gave in honor of her husband's birthday at the Congressional Club still lingers in the memory of the epicures, and Mrs. Stephen H. Elkins made cornbread and fried chicken that delighted her guests.

RENO FOR A DIVORCE

Mrs. Amanda F. Williams Charges Desertion And Non-support.

Mrs. Amanda Florence Williams, whose home is at 401 Buckingham Apartments, Grant Avenue, Pittsburg, Pa., the wife of John Dashiell Williams, Jr., a member of the big lumber firm of L. E. and J. D. Williams, of Salisbury, Md., and socially prominent throughout Maryland, filed an action for divorce alleging desertion and non-support.

Mrs. Williams is of an old Southern family, her parents' home being at 2900 Monument Avenue, Richmond, Va. Although she and her husband separated in 1906, they reunited after a few months, but separated a second time in 1907, when she went to live with her mother in Richmond. There she was discouraged in her intention to secure a divorce, but later she overruled all objections placed in her way and went to Reno last fall.

Mrs. Williams declares her husband's financial interest amounts to upward of $475,000, of which she asks a share.

Imported Family Too Big.

Orlando Harrison, a prosperous nurseryman of Berlin, will think twice before he sends for another Virginia negro family to come here, as a recent happening has convinced him that Virginia negroes are different from Delawareans. Some time ago Harrison needed some extra help on his place and wrote to a friend in Virginia to send him a family to occupy one of his tenant houses. Today the family arrived and Harrison jumped in surprise when he counted just 36 in the party. After writing to his friend that he wanted no more negroes forced upon him, he distributed the family in three separate houses and put them to work.

The Board appropriated $25 to try having a piece of sandy road at Shad Point covered with pine needles.

Mrs. Turpin H. Bennett

Mrs. Annie K. Bennett, wife of Mr. Turpin H. Bennett died at her home near Delmar last Sunday morning, of a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Bennett was born near Maryland Springs, March, 1st, 1875. Her parents dying in her childhood, she became the foster daughter of Rev. D. H. Holmes. She identified herself with the Methodist Protestant Church as the tender age of thirteen and had been a constant member until her illness prevented her from attending and her faith was lasting.

On March 13th, 1901, she married Turpin Hamilton Bennett to whom she has been a loving and faithful wife and a devoted mother to the two children that survive her, Levin Turpin and Francis Allen, aged respectively nine and six years. An acquaintance with Mrs. Bennett meant a lasting friendship and her death was a great shock to her relatives and great host of friends. Mrs. Bennett has been illiberal for some time but was scarcely ever heard to complain. Her only thought seemed to be of her husband and children.

Her funeral which was largely attended, took place on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 in the Mardela M. P. Church and was conducted by Rev. Harrison, assisted by Revs. Conway and Ed Clowe. They spoke at length of her sterling character and hospitality which they had enjoyed. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery. A Friend.

Large Reception Monday Evening.

Senator and Mrs. Jesse D. Price entertained Monday evening in honor of the eighteenth anniversary of their daughter, Miss Ruth Price. It was one of the largest receptions of the season. Their handsome home on the corner of Division and West Church Streets was beautifully decorated for the occasion. American Beauty roses being used in the drawing room and reception hall, and red carnations in the library. Miss Price was assisted in receiving by her mother and Miss Welbach.

At eleven o'clock Oatsel Phillips of the Peninsula Hotel, served the guests with chicken salad, Maryland biscuits, pickles, olives, ices, cakes and coffee. The ices were in the shape of dainty baskets filled with Florida strawberries. The favors were dainty baskets filled with cream almonds.

The affair was one of the most elaborate of the season, and Miss Price received the hearty congratulations of her host of friends.

LAST OF APRIL

The Laymen Will Hold Session Two Days In Salisbury.

The District Committee of the Laymen's Movement is perfecting plans for a series of meetings all over the Eastern Shore District, and have secured the services of prominent speakers. The meeting in Salisbury will be held on April 26th and 27th, on which dates Bishop W. R. Lambuth, one of the most eloquent bishops of the M. E. Church, South and Dr. Beauchamp, Secretary of the Board of Missions, will be the speakers. Meetings will be held twice daily and on the closing evening the laymen of Trinity Church will give a banquet in honor of the distinguished visitors.

Bishop Lambuth is the son of the honored pioneer missionaries, J. W. and Mary Lambuth, who are buried in Japan. He was born in China on November 10, 1854. He received his M. A. degree from Emory and Henry College and his degree in medicine from Vanderbilt University, with post graduate work in Bellevue, Edinburgh and London. He was appointed medical missionary to China in 1877, and he established the hospital at Soochow. Later he was transferred to open missionary work in Japan. He has been general secretary to the Board of Missions of the Southern Methodist Church since 1894, and has visited from time to time not only all the mission fields, but all the conferences in the interest of mission work. He is recognized with John B. Meiss as one of the great authorities in the United States on missions. He was elected a bishop of the Southern Methodist Church at the last session of the General Conference held at Asheville, N. C., May 1910. He has recently spent months in Brazil and given careful study to the situation there. He will bring great knowledge and inspiration to this campaign.

Williams—Parker.

The nuptials of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Parker, near Salisbury, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday evening when their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, became the bride of Mr. Ernest E. Williams. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Franklin Carey, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church South of Salisbury, promptly at eight o'clock. The wedding march was beautifully rendered by Miss Pearl Culver, cousin of the bride. The bride wore a handsome gown of white batiste and carried a bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair fern.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests were invited to the dining room where a reception was given, consisting of ice cream, cake and fruit. The guests numbered about one hundred and twenty five.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents. They will make their home with the groom's father, Mr. Samuel Williams, a prosperous farmer living along the bank of the Wicomico River, about five miles from Salisbury.

Schooner Salisbury Burned

The schooner Salisbury, owned by Mr. William Gale, of Quantico, was burned to the water edge in the Severn River, Sunday last. The boat was a total loss and was uninsured. The cargo consisted of 1800 crates belonging to the C. R. Disharoon Co., of this city and the cargo was also a total loss with no insurance.

Twenty minutes after fire was discovered in the hold the boat was ablaze. She was bound from Salisbury to Indian Landing. Her crew of three men were forced to launch their metallic lifeboat and pull to shore.

An hour and a half later the schooner was a total loss, all that could be seen of her was a charred hull protruding from the centre of the stream.

The Salisbury left here with a cargo intending to make Indian Landing about noon. She was within a comparatively short distance of the place when the fire was discovered.

COURT DECISION

Mandamus Proceedings Instituted By Ex-Sheriff Larmore Discussed.

Judge Jones delivered the opinion in the mandamus proceeding instituted by the ex-Sheriff W. W. Larmore, of White Haven to compel the Mayor and City Council of Salisbury to grant him a permit to build a storehouse on his property on Main Street extended, in this city, Saturday. The decision was the unanimous opinion of the three judges.

"We recognize the importance of such a case as this and the interest the public takes in such cases. We recognize also that often a denial for a petition of this kind works a hardship upon the petitioner. It is generally true that a man is entitled to a full enjoyment of his property and that unless he works a nuisance or some positive permanent damage or injury to other property he can use his own property as he sees fit. We recognize the fact that in this case it may be a hardship upon the petitioner, and we are frank to say that we have taken much time to consider the case and have tried our utmost to find a way to grant this petition. The contention is made that the petition must be granted because of the peculiar nature of the ordinance of Salisbury with reference to building permits. As the preamble of the ordinance sets out, this ordinance is for the purpose of preventing danger from fire, and the contention is made that the right to grant or deny permits of this kind is limited to cases of danger from fire. Granting that this is true—and we believe it is true—we think the ordinance is not as broad as it is thought to be for that reason. We think under the charter power given them the Mayor and Council might have passed a regulation governing building permits under all circumstances as has been decided in the Easton vs. Ovey case. But they saw fit to limit it to granting or refusing such permits only in those cases where danger from fire was considered, and notwithstanding that and granting that it is true, a discretion still remains in the Mayor and City Council. At the same time, we think that the ordinance, as it is, is a valid ordinance, and there are too many cases in the court of Appeals in building permit and liquor license cases that have been decided which hold that while they could regulate the exercise of that discretion the Court cannot compel it. The Court cannot compel any official whether it is a clerk or a corporation such as this to say that they must exercise their discretion in any particular way. Now the contention is made in this case that they are compelled to grant this permit. We think that they might be compelled to say whether they would grant it or not—they might be made to pass judgment on it to say whether they would grant it or not, but the Court, as we see the law—and we are deciding the case upon the law as we see it—has no power at all to say that they should do the matter in any particular way. It is entirely in their discretion, and if we understand the law and the decisions, they can do as they please about it. It may be considered arbitrary—and maybe it is—but we have no power in the world to say that it is arbitrary when we look at the charter powers given them and at the ordinance passed in pursuance of the charter.

"We have had a full bench to consult over this case, and as I said before, would like to grant this petition, but in view of the law we cannot do it, and we are compelled to dismiss it, and we will sign an order when presented to us dismissing the petition. As to the prayers in this case, neither of them can be granted. We do not think the plaintiff's prayer presents the law of the case as we see it, either do we think the defendant's prayer in shape in presenting its theory of the case, so we reject both prayers.

"It being a case of public nature with which we are dealing, and in which the public is more or less interested—and we can understand how they are interested—we think the petitioner is entitled to go to the Court of Appeals and have the matter adjudicated there, and if we have made a mistake in our construction of the law as applicable to the facts and the charter and ordinance, the Court of Appeals can have an opportunity to rectify the mistake which we have made here. By a little effort the record can be sent in time for the April Term of the Court of Appeals and its decision obtained in a few weeks.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Beware the Signature of J. C. Ayer & Co.

The Buyer who knows the Difference in Automobiles will own a

Our first object in advertising the Cadillac Thirty is to teach the buyers the real essentials of an automobile and to help them become competent to judge the merits of a car. If buyers knew the vast difference in automobiles, we would have three purchasers for every Cadillac we could secure.

Cadillac is Manufactured

There is abundant evidence to prove that no car at $2,500 or under will compare favorably with the Cadillac Thirty. In the first place a dependable, lasting automobile must be a manufactured car. It is foolhardy to claim that a machine assembled from parts secured here and there will give the same quality of service as a car the parts of which are made under one roof, with a thorough knowledge of the relation of each part to every other. The high standard of accuracy required in an automobile cannot be attained in an assembled car. Neither can the parts be made standard, so that the owner can rely on repair parts fitting properly. The buyer who knows automobiles will demand a great deal of the factory behind the car he is considering. And he ought to. It's the best insurance he can secure against high upkeep and trouble.

Cadillac Factory

It is the Cadillac factory, its methods and facilities, which so strongly commend the Cadillac Thirty. No one, in his mechanic or not, can visit this plant and not be soundly convinced that the Cadillac is an excellent car.

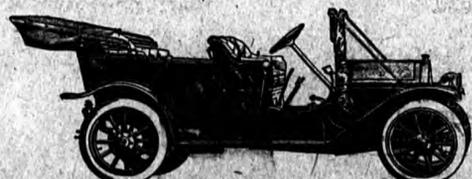

And comparison with other factories and their methods will reveal the fact that no car at double the price is made as carefully and as accurately as the Cadillac. What this means to an owner can be easily determined by asking Cadillac owners what kind of service they get and what their upkeep amounts to, and then comparing notes with owners of other makes. You'll find that no car will stand comparison with the Cadillac on these two vital points.

Cadillac Design

Then the design of the Cadillac affords advantages which no other car offers. No motor will compare with the cooling qualities of the Cadillac, yet less water is used than in any other car of equal power. What car of equal size will travel 17 to 22 miles on a gallon of gasoline? What other car will run 100 miles on a pint of oil? The Cadillac is doing this every day.

Cadillac Dependability

If you were an expert mechanic and had plenty of time to devote to your car, you could get good service from most any well-known machine. But only a few are expert mechanics. When you buy a car you want steady, uninterrupted service. You will get this in a Cadillac, whether you are mechanically inclined or not. And you will get it at lower upkeep expense than with any other car. Truly, the buyer who knows the difference in automobiles will own a Cadillac Thirty.

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

By FRANCIS LYNDE

FROM the time it was heretofore in the mammoth New Year's edition of the Plainman as "the newest, the finest and the most luxurious hostelry west of the Missouri" the Inter-Mountain hotel in the Sagebrush capital had been the gathering place of the political clans.

After the solid costliness of Wartrace Hall and the thirty mile spin in a high powered roadster, which was only one of the three high priced motor carriages in the Wartrace garage, Evan Blount was not surprised to find his father registered in permanence for one of the private dining room suits at the Inter-Mountain.

It was very evident that the simple life which had been the rule of the Circle Bar ranch household had become a thing of the past, and, though he charged the new and extravagant order of things to the ambition of his father's wife, he could not cavil at it, since he was himself a sharer in its comforts and luxuries.

For the first few days he was left almost wholly to his own devices. Beyond giving him a good many introductions as the opportunities for them came in the semipublic life of the hotel his father made few demands upon him, and they met only at luncheon and dinner, the first of which was usually served in their suit, while for the latter they went to the cafe. But Gantry was back, and he was always available.

Almost before he realized it Blount had been put in touch with the busy, breezy life of the city and was exchanging nods or handshakes with more people than he had ever known in Cambridge or Boston.

"Pretty good little old town, isn't it?" laughed Gantry one day when he had tolled Blount away from the Inter-Mountain luncheon to share a table with him in the Railway club. "Getting so you feel a little more at home with us?"

"If I'm not it isn't your fault, Dick, or the fault of your friends. Naturally I expected some sort of welcome as David Blount's son, but that doesn't seem to cut any figure at all."

Gantry's smile was inscrutable.

"The people with whom it cuts the largest figure will never let you know anything about it. Just the same, it's cutting a good bit of ice. I have met a dozen men, more or less, within the past day or so who have discovered that you are the brainiest thing that ever escaped from the law school."

"Tommyrot!" derided Blount.

"It's a fact. And they are prophesying all sorts of a future for you." And again Gantry's smile was broadly sly.

"Like what?" scoffed the listener.

"Well, for one thing, they are saying that you are pretty sure to run for attorney general this fall. It's all over town. Everybody's talking about it—talking a lot and guessing a good deal more."

Blount was balancing a spoon on the edge of his claret glass and frowning abstractedly. It was the first little discord in the filial harmony—almost a breach of confidence. Without consulting his wishes, without waiting for his decision, his father had committed him—"taken snap judgment upon him," was the way he phrased it.

"Dick, will you believe me if I say that I haven't authorized any such talk as this you've been hearing?" he asked.

This time Gantry's smile was a grin.

"The honorable senator took it out of your hands, did he? You'll understand that I don't mean any disrespect when I say it's just like him. If he has slated you, you are hooked to run and if he runs you'll be elected. Those are two of the things that say themselves in the Sagebrush State."

Blount was indignant—"Justly indignant," he called it.

"If that is the case, Dick, it is high time that some one should break the charm. I haven't said that I would accept the nomination, and I am not at all sure that I shall say so. And if I don't say so that settles it."

Gantry was plainly shocked. "You don't mean to say that you've got nerve enough to buck the old m—your father, I mean? Why, great cahn, Evan, you don't know what that stands for in the greenwood hills!"

"And I don't care, Dick. Up to this present moment I am a free moral agent. I haven't surrendered any right of decision to any one so far as I am aware."

Gantry's eyes dropped to his plate, and his rejoinder was not altogether free from galle.

"Will you authorize me to contradict the talk as I can?" he asked quickly.

Blount was still warm enough to be peremptory. "Yes; you may contradict it. You may say that it is wholly unauthorized." Then he remembered the claims of friendship. "I'll be frank with you, Gantry. This thing has been mentioned to me once, but nothing was decided, absolutely nothing. I didn't even promise to take it under advisement."

Among those who knew him externally Mr. Richard Gantry had the reputation of owning a loose tongue. But none knew better than the real Richard Gantry when to make the loose tongue wag away from the subject which has reached its nicely adjusted collar.

Almost before he knew it Evan Blount was proceeding with his table companion over a social function two days old. A week later the waiter brought the coffee, and the danger point, if any were, was safely past.

F. W. Sandruck,
913-915 N. Howard Street, BALTIMORE, MD.

"Don't you believe he's going to take any little Christmas gift this time," was the rasping reply. "He'll sell the railroad something and take good hard money for it. It's a cinch. The railroad can't afford to have the courts against it, and McKivkar will be made to sweat blood. You watch the wheels go round when McKivkar comes out here."

Evan Blount found himself turning sick at heart. Could it be his father whom they were thus calmly accusing of graft and tricky and blackmailing methods?

His first impulse was to face the two men, to demand proofs, to do and say what a loyal son should. But the sickening conviction that they were discussing only well assured and well known facts crushed him back into his chair, and after that he was anxious for only one thing—that they finish their cigars and go away without discovering him.

Fate was kind to him thus far. After a little further talk, in which the accepted point of view of the onlooker was made still more painfully evident, the younger of the two men spoke of an engagement, and they both went out together.

One clear thought, and only one, came to Evan out of the sorrowful confusion. Not for any inducement that could be offered would he now lend himself to the furtherance of his father's plans.

Beyond this he did not go in the miserable hour wrought out in the quiet of the club smoking room.

But when he rose to go another prompting was forcing its way to the front—a prompting to throw himself boldly into the scale against graft and chicanery, to redeem by whatsoever means might offer the good old name that had been so shamefully dragged in the mire.

He did not know just how it was to be done, but he would find a way. That it would be full of thorns he could not doubt, since every step in it would open and widen the breach between him and his father. But though it should lead him to the bar of justice as that father's accuser, he must walk in it. He determined that, though he might have to blush for his father, Patricia should not be made ashamed for her lover.

Upon leaving the club he hesitated long enough on the steps to remember that he was in no fit frame of mind to risk an immediate meeting with his father. To avoid the chance he crossed the street and, passing through the capitol grounds, strolled aimlessly out one of the residence streets until he came to the open country.

It was quite late in the afternoon when he re-entered the city by another street and boarded a trolley car for the downtown center. The long afternoon tramp and the conclusions it had bred made it imperative for him to see Gantry before the traffic manager should have left his office for the day.

His business with the railroad man was purely personal. He meant to ask Gantry a few pointed questions, requiring such answers as friendship may demand. If Gantry's answers were what he feared they would be he would seek his father and come at once to a plain understanding with him.

The trolley car dropped him within a square of the railway station, on the second floor of which Gantry had his office. The shortest way to the Sierra avenue end of the station building was through the great train shed.

Halfway up the block-long platform Blount met the incoming overland steaming in from the east. At the Sierra avenue crossing the yard crew was cutting off a private car. Blount saw the number on the medallion, "008," and noted half absently the rich window hangings and the polished brass platform railings.

A car inspector in greasy overalls and jumper was tapping the wheels with his long handled hammer.

"Whose car is this?" asked Blount.

"This Mather McKivkar's, sir—the vice president of the company," said the man.

Blount turned away, saying something which the hammer man mistook for a word of thanks. So the vice president had come, hastening upon the wing of occasions, it seemed, and in the light of the overheard conversation in the club smoking room it was only too easy to guess his errand in the Sagebrush capital. He had come to make such terms as he could with the man who was going to hold him up.

THE NEW ASSESSMENT. The changing of valuations on property for the purpose of taxation is almost certain to cause more or less dissatisfaction.

It is impossible to please all, and indeed hard to suit any, when an attempt is made to re-assess property. Although an anticipation there is some complaint and dissatisfaction in this County in regard to the new assessment being made this is not nearly as strong as some supposed it would be.

While not differing from other communities in their dislike to the paying of more taxes than is necessary, the citizens of Wicomico are for the most part, level-headed, wide-awake men, and realize that a higher assessment does not necessarily mean that they will be called upon to pay more taxes.

Our Board of Commissioners will lower the rate of taxation in exactly the same proportion as the basis of taxation is increased. The tax bill will be the same to a man who is assessed at $1000 with a .25 rate and to the man who is assessed at $2000 with a .125 rate.

While believing that our assessors are doing all they can to hurry up the work of completing the assessment, it will be well for all concerned if they will continue their efforts, so that the work may be brought to a close as soon as possible.

NEWSPAPER MEN EXEMPT

Reports in This State Need Not Divulge Sources of Information. The commitment of a newspaper reporter of Augusta, Georgia, to ten days in jail for refusing to divulge the name of a person who gave him information upon an important story, brings to light the fact that Maryland is the only State in the Union that has a law exempting newspaper men from revealing the sources of information.

The law in this State is very explicit upon this point and is as follows: "No person engaged in, connected with or employed on a newspaper or journal shall be compelled to disclose, in any legal proceeding or trial before any committee of the legislature or elsewhere, the source of any news or information obtained by him, for and published in the newspaper on which he is engaged, connected with or employed."

Will Stick to Girl Though He Has To Work.

"I care not for your gold. Once again, and this is final. I shall stay beside the girl for whom my heart beats. I will never part from Claire, even though I have to go to work." That sounds melodramatic, but, be that as it may, it is a quite faithful version of what Henry Du Boecq said to his aunt, Mrs. Carmela Du Boecq, in the Belleclaire Hotel, in New York, when she wanted to take him back to San Domingo and her $1000,000 estate, to which he was heir.

When Henry was eight years old his aunt placed him in the home of Anrillo Gonzalez at 766 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn. He went to the Boys' High School and later to New York Dental College. But it was reported to her that he was neglecting his studies, so Mrs. Du Boecq came to take him home.

His aunt told him that his choice lay between love and gold, that if he would not return with her she would disinherit him. "I choose the girl," exclaimed the youth. Mrs. Du Boecq returns alone.

New York's Great Pennsylvania Station.

One of the greatest works of modern times was the construction of the concrete lined steel tubes under the Hudson and East Rivers, the tunneling of Manhattan island, and the erection of the magnificent Pennsylvania Station at Seventh Avenue and Thirty second Street, New York, bringing the through trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad into the heart of New York City.

An illustrated booklet describing this great work and telling what it means to the New York passenger has been issued by the Pennsylvania Railroad and will be sent postpaid to any address by George W. Short Crop of Cow Peas Prices Are Going Up!

The enormous demand for Cow Peas last year carried the price very high, and as the crop is very short, and the acreage is rapidly extending, there are many indications which point to much higher prices as the sowing season approaches.

Whip-poor-will Cow Peas. The Whip-poor-will are generally preferred in the Central and Southern States. They are bush form, early maturing and especially desirable for feed.

New Era Cow Peas. New Era are a little earlier and make more vine than the Whip-poor-will.

Wonderfuls, Clays and Mixed Cow Peas. For Hay, the Wonderfuls or the Clays are better. Mixed Cow Peas are more productive. They should be planted with an occasional grain of Corn, Sorghum Seed, Kafir Corn, etc., which will prevent the vines from getting damaged by coming in contact with the ground.

Black Cow Peas. Black Cow Peas are a little earlier in maturing than Clays; they make a good growth of vine, are exceptionally good for medium or poor land, and will stand almost any amount of wet weather without injury.

FREE. Send us 5 cents in stamps to pay postage and mention this paper, and we will send you free a 50 cent package of "My Maryland" Tomato Seed. We can also supply Shinnery Peas, Red Ripper, Blackeye Peas and Sole Beans.

REMEMBER—Bolgiano's Cow Peas are unquestionably the best. If your Local Merchant will not supply Bolgiano's Cow Peas, write us direct and we will tell you where you can get them.

GOD'S KINGDOM

NO COMMON LEVEL THERE

"As Star Differeth From Star," "Greatest and Least in the Kingdom"

JOHN THE BAPTIST'S HUMBLE POSITION

JOHN THE BAPTIST

Berlin, Germany, March 20.—Pastor Russell delivered three addresses here today—one of them to the Jews on "Zionism in Prophecy," another on "Hereafter" and the third, "John the Baptist," which was reported from the text. "Of those born of women there is not a greater Prophet than John the Baptist, but the least in the Kingdom of Heaven is greater than he" (Luke vi, 28). Large and interested audiences attended. He leaves tonight for Copenhagen and Stockholm. Crowds of Jews are reported to have heard him during the last three days in Vienna, Budapest, Lemberg and Krakow.

There can be no better illustration of the sharp line of distinction between the earthly and the heavenly classes and their calling than is shown by our text, said Pastor Russell. The great Teacher freely attested to the loyalty and courage and saintliness of His cousin John, and he is revered by the words of our text. But if so great and honorable a Prophet, why could not John be a member of the Bride class? Why could he not be numbered with the disciples of Jesus and be an Apostle, or at least a footstep follower? The answer is that he was not called to the heavenly plane, but to the earthly. He was honored of God, and being made one of the Prophets of the Jewish Age—the last of them. Although a different honor from that conferred upon the Apostles, John's was a great honor and we have reason to believe that, under Divine providence when perfected in the resurrection, he will appreciate the earthly blessings and privileges which will be his, more than the spiritual and heavenly privileges bestowed upon the Apostles and the less prominent members of the Church.

The Lord "will choose our inheritance for us," we read (Psalm xlviii, 4). Happy are those who repose implicit confidence in Divine goodness and who seek to obtain whatever may be God's choice for them. If we have been called with the heavenly calling, let us not shrink back, but rather, let us be unworthy and decline to accept the favors of God and to choose an inferior position. Let us, rather, be glad to say, "Thy will be done in my heart, in my life, in all my future." "Order Thine steps in Thy word."

A Friend of the Bridegroom.

Jesus had a two-fold mission.—(1) He came "that the world through Him might be saved"—that He might give Himself "a ransom for all, to be testified in due time" (1 Timothy ii, 6).

(2) Incidentally His mission was to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord—the time in which God is willing to accept the sacrifices of such as desire to walk in the Redeemer's footsteps, and to constitute these the Bride and Joint-heir of Messiah.

John the Baptist referred to the latter feature of our Lord's work, saying, "He that hath the Bride in the Bridgroom, heareth His voice and rejoiceth greatly. This, my joy, therefore, is fulfilled (John iii, 29). It was not for him to be a member of the Bride, but he rejoiced to be a friend of the Bridegroom. As our Lord's forerunner he announced the Bridegroom; he called upon the nation of Israel to turn from sin, to purify their hearts, to come back into harmony with God and to be prepared to receive the Bridegroom and to become the Bride. So far as the nation was concerned John's mission was a failure, as God had foreknown and foretold. But so far as the Bride class was concerned John's mission was a success, for, as the Scriptures intimate, those who believe in John's testimony accepted Jesus and He accepted them.

Greatest in the Kingdom. We must remember that the Church is the Kingdom of God—now in a formative or embryonic state, but in the end, by "the resurrection," to be spirit beings and partakers with Jesus, their Bridegroom, in His wonderful glory, honor, immortality and Kingdom work. This Kingdom class is not reigning "on probation," after the Methodist style. If the probationary period of the present life be faithfully used, the full induction into the Kingdom, its glories, honors and immortality, will surely follow—by participation in the First Resurrection.

Amongst the faithful followers of the Master there will be differences. As St. Paul explains, "as one star differeth from another star in glory" (1 Corinthians xv, 41). We cannot know, and it is not necessary for us to guess, who shall occupy the chief places in the Kingdom. These shall be given to those whom the Father prefers, as the Redeemer explained to the woman who asked that her two sons might sit, one on His right hand and the other on His left hand in the Kingdom (Matthew xx, 21).

If we were to guess who shall be closest in position to the Master we would suppose that St. Paul would be first, with St. John, St. Peter and St. James near by in glorious exaltation. And yet we know not how nearly up to the Apostolic standard some may be who have lived very humble and obscure lives, have fought a good fight and finished their course with joy. Indeed, the twelve Apostles seem to occupy, by Divine decision in advance, the very highest stations in the Kingdom, next to that of the Redeemer. Who said of them, "Ye who have followed Me, in the resurrection, shall sit upon twelve thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel" (Matthew xix, 28). Again, they are pictured to us as the "twelve stars" to the Church (Revelation xii, 1), and yet again they are pictured to us as the twelve precious foundation stones of the Church in her future glory, as the New Jerusalem (Revelation xxi, 14).

Those called of God to this high salvation, as members of the spiritual Kingdom which shall bless natural Israel and through her all the nations, are required to demonstrate their loyalty to God by faithfulness even unto death—in the narrow way of self-sacrifice. As there is no other Name than that of Jesus whereby any may be saved to eternal life, so, likewise, there is no other path whereby any may reach the Kingdom except the narrow way, "and few there be that find it." All who attain to the Kingdom must be overcomers of the world and the flesh, and of the devil. The gradations of glory will be because of special manifestations of zeal for the Lord and His cause of righteousness and Truth against sin and error.

A Lesser Spiritual Salvation. The Scriptures clearly show another class in process of salvation during this Gospel Age, quite separate and distinct from the Bride class. These are referred to in various parts of the Scriptures. They will all be loyal, to the extent that they would be the Lord's, and they will practice sinless living, but they will not reach the status of the Bride as indicated in an insufficiency of zeal in connection with their loyalty. This class is described in Revelation vii, 14. They are represented as having failed to keep their garments unspotted from the world—failed to live circumspectly, carefully enough.

Hence in a great time of trouble in the end of this Age they are represented as washing their robes and making them white in the blood of the Lamb and then coming up through that tribulation to glory and honor, but not to immortality, nor to the same degree of glory and honor as the Church, the Bride. The distinction in their glory is indicated in that instead of being in the Throne they are before it; instead of being the Bride, they will serve; instead of wearing the crown, they will bear palm branches; instead of being in the Temple, they will be servants in the Temple.

This same class is referred to by the Apostle in his declaration respecting the end of this Age. He intimates that some will have an abundant entrance (1 Peter i, 11) into the Kingdom, while others will be "saved so as by fire" (1 Corinthians iii, 15). The fire, this time, is not the fire of judgment, but the fire of purification. Some will be proved to be gold, silver, precious stones. These the "fire" will not consume. Others will be proved to be an admixture of hay and stubble, which will be consumed, though themselves will be saved from the fire (1 Corinthians iii, 12, 13).

The tribe of Levi pictured the entire "Church of the first-born," but it will take two classes—the "little flock" of priests and the "great company" of Levites—the Bride class and the servant class, none of whom have any inheritance in the earth, all of whom have the heavenly inheritance.

As Isaac typified our Lord, the Redeemer, and as Rebecca typified the Bride class, so Rebecca's maidens typified the "great company" class. This same thought is brought to our attention in Psalm xiv, where the Bride class is pictured as being presented to Jehovah in the end of this Age in glory, honor and immortality, illustrated by raiment of fine needlework and gold. Following the Bride come "the virgins, her companions, who follow her." These also will be greatly honored, greatly blessed, though they will not constitute the Kingdom, although they will be identified with it and its wonderful salvation and blessing for mankind.

Keeping or Breaking Commandments. The Great Teacher's declaration that they who break God's commandments and teach others to do so shall be called "least in the Kingdom" has caused considerable perplexity in the past. The question has been, How could anyone be fit at all for the Kingdom who breaks God's commandments and teaches others to do so? The answer is that many of God's people have labored under more or less of blindness and have done things which they ought not to have done and left undone the things which they ought to have done. As an illustration, John Calvin, noble as he was, was burned as a heretic by the Roman Church. Such violation of the Divine commands and such wrong teaching must, according to our human judgment, assign Brother Calvin to a lesser place in the Kingdom than if he had more carefully, more earnestly sought the will and Spirit of God. However, it is not for us to judge. We are merely seeking to ascertain the spirit of our Lord's words.

Begotten of the Holy Spirit and privileged of the Lord to be disciples and to be guided of the Holy Spirit, we should be so faithful in the study of the Scriptures as not to be mistaken in respect to the general application of their meaning. Wrong practice and false teachings do not always represent disloyalty to God, but they surely do always represent slowness or inattention to the Divine message; though we may be sure of the Lord's faithfulness in enlightening all who are of the proper, teachable spirit.

John the Baptist's Class. To what class does John the Baptist belong, and what will be his share in the Kingdom, according to our text? Since the call of God began with the call of the Church, and since the Church began at the First Advent of Jesus, it follows that no one was called of God to salvation prior to Jesus' time—none for forty-one hundred, and fifty years after sin entered the world.

God did, however, recognize the loyalty of heart of His Prophet Enoch and communed with him, and Isaac, etc. God also recognized Abraham's faith and spirit of obedience, and Isaac's and Jacob's, and that of Moses and Aaron and numerous prophets and other faithful ones less notable. Did he not call these? We answer that he did not call them to salvation, for he salvation could be positively offered until the Redeemer had descended; nor were they called to the Kingdom, for the same reason. God did call them that in due time He would bliss all the world. He did tell them that in due time the great Ruler of the world would come forth from Abraham's posterity in the line of Isaac and Jacob and the nation of Israel. But telling them of a coming blessing and giving them eternal life are different matters. St. Paul declares that none of them got everlasting life, and that "by the deeds of the Law no flesh can be justified before God."

Israel's Law Covenant served to instruct the Chosen People. It was a call to do right, and a promise of eternal life if they would keep the Law. "He that doeth these things shall live." Israel learned the lesson that a perfect Law could not be kept by imperfect beings. Some of them and some of the Gentiles in due time heard of Jesus and how God has provided justification through His sacrificial death.

God Provides Some Better Thing For the Church Than For Ancient Worthies.

St. Paul tells us the status of those noble characters, of whom John the Baptist was the last. They were volunteer servants of God, so to speak. Those of them who were born under the Law Covenant, by their faith lived above it and will be fully rewarded, although they lived before any specific call or offer of eternal life was made. Their faith and obedience were pleasing to God; as St. Paul relates, "All these died in faith, not having received the things promised them, God having provided some better thing for us (the Gospel Church), that they without us should not be made perfect" (Hebrews xi, 13, 40).

"The Church of the First-born" is to be perfected first, and on the spirit plane, "partakers of the divine nature" (1 Peter i, 4). In due time those Ancient Worthies will come forth from the tomb to receive the blessing which God declares shall be the reward of their loyalty. As the Church will have the "better resurrection" on the spirit plane, so those Ancient Worthies will have the "better resurrection" on the earthly plane. They will come forth from the tomb actually perfect, while the remainder of mankind will be obliged to attain perfection by the slow process of faith, works, obedience, during the thousand years of the Kingdom.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all the particulars about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

NOW IS THE TIME TO DO IT!

PLACE YOUR ORDER FOR SPRING FERTILIZER.

WHERE?

With Mr. A. T. Dashiell, Salisbury, local agent for

ARMOUR'S HIGH GRADE ANIMAL MATTER FERTILIZERS.

The agricultural value, or the results produced in the field, is what you are mainly interested. Investigate the record of the Armour Brands and you will be convinced that you can't afford to plant without them.
 The Armour Brands are manufactured under the direct supervision of an experienced chemist, (who is thoroughly posted as to the plant food requirements of the different crops,) and are manufactured from a combination of the best fertilizer materials, such as Nitrate of Soda, Bone Meal Dried Blood, Animal Tankage and Acid Phosphate, and high grade Potash Salts, thus giving a plant food that will insure a steady feeding of your crops from the beginning through to maturity.

Ask your neighbor about Armour's—he knows. Place your order at once. Don't let anyone try to convince you something else is just as good.

LARGEST

...1911...

TAYLOR'S Horse and Carriage Bazaar has been crowded all this month with buyers. Never before were there so many strangers in our town buying horses, mules, wagons, buggies and harness; in fact it is hard to get waited on. Out-of-town customers are waiting to make arrangements ahead.

If anyone thinks the above statement is not correct and will come here, they will say they never saw anything like it.

I have 50 Horses and Mules, and most anyone can get suited, as our prices keep the crowd coming, and our reliability keeps them satisfied. Our guarantee is as good as any BANK.

I have more Horse Collars and Harness than any five stores on the Eastern Shore. Every customer is an advertisement for me. Seeing is believing; come see for yourself.

LARGEST CARRIAGE DEALER IN MARYLAND
Princess Anne, Md.

PER CONTRA

By JOHN BERWICK

[ANY one can see that this story was written by a horrid old bachelor.] My chum, Henry Burbank, and I courted the girls we married at the same time and married within a week of each other. As soon as we had returned from our wedding trips we met for a supper and a chat.

"Well, Harry," I said, "is your honeymoon over, or is it going to last forever?"

"I've learned just enough about working in double harness to realize that it requires adroitness to trot smoothly together."

"So have I."

"My wife seems to want to have her own way about every little thing."

"Same here."

"On our wedding trip if I proposed to go fishing she wanted that we should play tennis. If I wished to take an afternoon sleigh she insisted on going to ride."

"Well, what are you going to do about it?"

"I don't know—grin and bear it, I suppose. How are you making out?"

"Well, I don't have exactly the same trouble that you have. My wife is different. If we differ about anything she always argues and argues, and I can't stop her. If I say, 'It's not a matter of any importance; let's stop talking about it,' she says, 'I want to say just one more thing,' and she says it."

"A great many times?"

"The next summer my wife went to the country, and I, not being able to get away, stayed at home. I dined frequently with Harry and his wife. At the first dinner I took with them the subject of people keeping pet dogs in the city came up, and I was surprised to hear Harry inveigh against the practice."

"Why, I thought you loved dogs in your bachelor days," I remarked.

"Upon my word! Did you bring about this change, Mrs. Burbank?" I asked.

"Oh, no! I like dogs. I like all animals."

At that moment a little skye terrier ran into the room and jumped up on Harry's lap. Harry ordered him down harshly.

"I want you to come round, Tom," said Harry, "when my wife's absent."

"They're going to make us a visit. I'm looking forward to their coming with a great deal of pleasure. Lovely girls, both of 'em."

"That must be very nice for you, Mrs. Burbank," I remarked.

"Well, I'd like it if we had plenty of room and more servants and all that. Harry's got it into his head that he wants them to come. He thinks it lonely here—no one in the house with him but me. I give in to him in everything, but for once I'm going to have my own way."

I looked at Harry and thought I saw a strange look in his eyes.

"You see how I have my way," he said, addressing me. "My wife was a sun-d-d-earest old lady you ever met; poor woman, hasn't any home. I want her to come here and make a home with us."

"Now, Harry, you're giving an entirely wrong impression. Aunt Martha is old and irritable. She needs to run her own establishment. She would not be happy here at all. No home! Why, she has a very comfortable home—a small flat of five rooms."

"And not a soul in 'em," snapped Harry, "except herself. It must be awful lonely."

When coffee was served Mrs. Burbank left us while we smoked. She had no sooner gone than the skye terrier jumped into his master's lap, and Harry petted him as if he were a spoiled child.

"Why, Harry," I exclaimed, "I thought you hated the little beast!"

"Don't you give me away, old man. If I didn't make believe I hated him he wouldn't be here. You see, I've learned something since I've been married. I keep a sharp lookout, and if I see anything coming I don't like it just year right round on to that side, and the harder I blow for it the more determined Doll is that it shan't come off. She has two horrid old maid sisters that she's been thinking of asking to come for a visit. See the way I headed her off?"

"Oh, that's your game, is it?"

"And the old aunt—if she came here there wouldn't be any use having any vinegar on the table. She'd turn milk sour. She'd bring on a divorce between Doll and me within a week. The first thing I knew one day Doll began to talk about her aunt and how lovely she was living by herself and how much company the old cat would be for her when I was downtown and sometimes when I have to go away on business. I jumped right on to the scheme and swore it should be done at once. Doll doesn't like to be hurried into anything, and this and my being for it together have put her right on to the other side. I tell you I'm a jim dandy of a married man. These fellows who are loaded down with their wife's relations don't know how to keep 'em off. They must begin at home. It's the one of those valves that the more you blow their way the more they shut up."

"When my wife came home, the first time we had a disagreement I put in practice Harry's principle. But it didn't work. When I jumped on to her side of the question she jumped on to mine."

Congratulations

For a great many years the ladies of Salisbury and vicinity have borne the reputation of being the finest cooks in the country. Especially has this fame gone abroad in the matter of making bread and pastry. The purpose of this article is not to claim any of the credit due the ladies, but everybody grants that in order to have good results in cooking, the ingredients must be good. We claim that our Flour stands almost alone in the matter of quality. Most of the bread made here is made from our flour, and naturally we say to those few who don't use our goods—If you want the best bread use

THE SICKROOM.

It Should Be Kept as Cheerful as Possible.

Plenty of Light, Fresh Air and Scrupulous Cleanliness Are Among the Main Essentials to the Recovery of Patients.

The oft cited quotation in regard to "greatness" may be fittingly adapted to this discussion of home care of the sick—namely, "Some people are born nurses, others achieve (by training) the nurse's skill, and some have the nurse's work thrust upon them." And it is to this last class that a few simple suggestions about ways of making the sickroom more cheerful and the patient more comfortable should be made.

There are two kinds of sickrooms. One we see every day, and the other we would like to see oftener. They may be designated simply as "cluttered" and "cleared"—"cleared for action," to borrow the naval term, for really this fight with disease is one which demands a "clean deck."

In illnesses which are liable to be prolonged the furniture should be reduced to a bed—iron if possible—a table, a few chairs with washable covers and white washable curtains on the windows. No objection can be found to the patient's favorite books and pictures being left in the room, for they frequently shorten the long hours by their mere presence, suggesting all kinds of things to think about. Take out the clock! It has a trick in the sickroom of taking a few hundred minutes for the minute hand to get around, and its tick is most ominous at midnight when one can't sleep.

The bed should be placed as near a window as possible, and the window should always be left "down from the top." Any faintly scented flowers may be kept in the room. Medicines always stay outside. The room being now "cleared for action," we are ready for the patient. We have not space to take up the nursing of special diseases; but, no matter what the case is, one of the first duties of the nurse is to give a "bed bath," and to give it without allowing the patient to get cold or causing too much inconvenience. This is a simple operation which does not require three years' "nurse training" to learn to do. The patient should be placed between two blankets, preferably cotton blankets. The under blanket is arranged as follows: Lift the patient on one side of the bed by bracing the knees firmly against the bed, allowing the patient to grasp the nurse with her arms around her neck. The nurse puts her arms under the shoulders and thighs of the patient and lifts slowly. In this way the best leverage is secured. Now, with the patient on the side of the bed, a blanket should be folded and placed as near the patient as possible. Then lift her on the blanket, and the straightening of the blanket on the opposite side concludes the preparation. The bath should generally be given with tepid water, using a pure, non-scented soap. When a bath is given to bring down temperature it is advisable to mop for several minutes the parts of the body where the large arteries are most superficial—namely, the neck, under the arms and knees and at the elbow. The ice cap is a most useful accessory in a sickroom, but a hot water bag filled with finely crushed ice and squeezed to get the air out before applying on the top makes a very good substitute.

Disinfection after illness, especially after an infectious fever, is very important and may be done in the following manner: Close the windows, transoms, etc., stopping every air-chink with cotton. Then stretch a string from diagonal corner of the room to another, and hang it over the body where the large arteries are most superficial—namely, the neck, under the arms and knees and at the elbow. The ice cap is a most useful accessory in a sickroom, but a hot water bag filled with finely crushed ice and squeezed to get the air out before applying on the top makes a very good substitute.

MAKING ROOM OVER

MUCH CAN BE DONE BY THE EXERCISE OF TASTE.

First Study Out the Effect Desired—Then Harmony in Furnishing Will Give it Just the Right Appearance.

Often when a room is to be done over the results are disappointing, though much money has been spent. This is chiefly because the room has not been treated as a whole, and there is no fixed idea of what is wanted. Usually certain features of the room must be retained. Often these are articles that would gladly be dispensed with. There is but one thing to do. Make the best of them and decorate to them.

Thus, if you have Flemish oak-buffet and table, though you would prefer mahogany, buy new furniture to correspond, and refinish the woodwork to match. This gives harmony to the furnishing which can be heightened by using touches of golden tan, old blue and mahogany red in rugs, bric-a-brac and curtains.

The wall paper could be a two-toned golden tan, and the chandelier could be painted to represent wrought iron, the globes of amber. The results will be both handsome and please far more than you have believed possible.

To do over the woodwork the varnish must be scraped off, and the wood scraped and cleaned until it shows the grain, and is then treated with a dark brown stain and rubbed down until it closely matches the objectionable pieces of furniture, which were only objectionable because not in the right environment.

Suppose you have a corner cupboard that you hate. Try making the upper half of it glass, leading the panes into small diamonds and rubbing down the woodwork until it ceases to look cheap. You will be surprised to find your bug-bear has become a distinct addition to your room.

Often an old-fashioned sideboard may be turned into a desirable buffet by removing the clumsy top and substituting an oblong mirror to fit the wall space. This should be framed in wood to match the sideboard, or one of the colonial gilt mirrors can be used.

Sometimes furniture of a bad period can be much improved by removing the superfluous decorations. Often there are inartistic heads, bunches of fruit or garish carving that will be found to be merely gaudy.

Ugly chairs can be transformed by rubbing down the woodwork and covering the seat with leather or horsehair to match the color scheme of the room.

It is surprising what refinishing will do for a cheap oak table. Have it done over by some one who understands getting hard wood effects. Insist upon a dull finish. This wears better and looks handsomer.

If there are too many doors, one can be closed and either entirely hidden behind some large piece of furniture, or the space can be covered by a panel of tapestry, or Japanese embroidery. These may be arranged with a panel on each side so that no one could suspect the makeshift.

A window that is too wide or too narrow can have its dimensions apparently changed by the treatment of the curtains. Thus a long, narrow window should have sheer curtains only, with outer curtains hung so as to conceal the woodwork and broaden the lines.

Pickled Muskmelon Swiss Fashion. Peel off a slight skin from the melon, cut into slices as thick as a finger. Allow for two and a half pounds of melon one and a half pounds of sugar and one pint vinegar. Boil vinegar and sugar a moment, add to the melon, which has been placed in an earthen jar, set the whole away for four days in a cool place; then add cloves and stick cinnamon in a little cheesecloth sack. Boil the whole for an hour and a half on a gentle fire, or until the melon loses clear. This is very good served with cold meats and will keep for years.

Liver Loaf. Chop three large onions fine, soak some bread and crackers together, or all bread, two eggs, two pounds of beef liver, ground, and one pound of salt pork, ground; salt, pepper, and a little cayenne pepper. Mix all together, and if too soft put in some flour. Don't make too stiff or too soft. Take a deep bread tin and grease it well with lard and a little flour on sides and bottom; put in the meat and put a little flour on top. Bake about two hours.

Chocolate Caramels. Two cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of New Orleans molasses, one-half cupful of chocolate grated, one cupful of milk, butter half size of egg. Boil half an hour, stirring to keep from burning. Pour in buttered pans and when cool cut in squares.

Delicious Corn Gems. Delicious corn gems for Germania—1 1/2 cups of flour, one-half cup yellow meal, tablespoon of baking powder, 1 egg, one cup of sweet milk. Bake in gem tins.

Callouses. To prevent the hands from being calloused while doing housework, wash with soft soap around the hands of the broom, mop, carrier, sweeper, etc.

French Beef Stew. Two and one-half pounds beef cut from the round, one-fourth pound suet, four onions and one can tomatoes. Out steak and put into small thick plates. Cook slowly. When about half done, add onions and tomatoes. Season with one tablespoonful sugar (if tomatoes are quite acid). One teaspoonful salt and one-half teaspoonful each of cloves, cinnamon and red pepper. Before taking from fire, thicken with one tablespoonful of flour rubbed smooth with water. Serve on thick slices of well-buttered toast.

The Revival A Story

By HOWARD FIELDING

MRS. MORTON HARWOOD was a patroness of St. Paul's church of Bayside—the patroness, indeed; its main pecuniary pillar. In recent years her husband had made a great fortune, and he had bought a country seat at Bayside, which was the fashionable thing to do, and Mrs. Harwood had joined St. Paul's.

It had become more and more the custom for the holders of country seats to come down from the city for the week end, even in winter, but they rarely went to church. It was Mrs. Morton Harwood's belief that they could be made to go to St. Paul's.

In regard to this matter she called upon James Kelvin, the stationer, formerly active in the church, but fallen off into an apathy which seemed to be working like a dry rot throughout the congregation. To Mr. Kelvin the lady suggested the displacement of the present minister, who was very willing to go, and the calling of some one in his stead who would wield the requisite social influence—"some one," said she, "who can mingle with our wealthy people on terms of equality."

Mrs. Harwood, by the way, was not quite able as yet to do this herself, but she had one foot over the threshold and could see within. She had reason to believe that the Rev. Philip Lee Winslow, member of one of the most exclusive families in the country, could be secured for St. Paul's. He was at present in charge of a chapel of Grace church in the city.

"He would be an ideal man for us," said Mrs. Harwood.

Mr. Kelvin had no objection. He agreed to see several other men in the matter, and none of them objected. It might not be quite true to say that they did not care, but it is certain that they did not exhibit the old time interest. However, they mustered a quorum at the necessary meeting, and the Rev. Philip Lee Winslow was called to St. Paul's of Bayside.

Mr. Winslow was a tall, spare young man with a broad chest and the general look of one inured to outdoor exercises. His blue eyes were very bright, partly by contrast with his bronzed skin, and his teeth were white and perfect. Bayside admitted that he was a "fine figure of a man." His welcome came naturally from Mrs. Harwood and her circle, and his appearance in the pulpit of St. Paul's was signalized by the advent of several large automobiles that never before had been seen waiting outside the church. He was a success in the higher social circles, but singularly enough his own preferences seemed to be for the company of the common people and especially for James Kelvin and his family.

Kelvin had a very pretty daughter, Annie, nineteen at the time, and two boys some years younger. Mr. Winslow liked to spend or two at the Kelvin house of singing with Annie or playing accompaniments for her songs, and he would sometimes enthrall the boys with tales of his uncle's great stock farm, where there were hundreds of blooded horses, some of them as wild as zebras and not to be ridden by any living man except one that had the special gift.

You could hear the new pastor's praises from any of the Kelyns, and no one spoke ill of him, though some said that he was not overexerting himself for the rejuvenation of the church. The fact is that there was no great change throughout the winter. St. Paul's drifted along in the same apathy as before. When the pastor was asked what he thought of it he would only say: "The situation is very difficult. I am endeavoring to get at the root of the trouble."

In March there came to Mrs. Harwood's house a distinguished guest. He was a tenor of the first rank, or very near it, who had sung in grand opera during the winter, but was now in retirement because of an altercation with a reporter in which the latter had sustained some slight damage. His name was Kassimir, or thus he was known, and in his own land he was a count.

SINGING WITH ANNIE

and with those whom he admitted to be his equals he was said to be humane and engaging. Certainly the Harwoods valued him for what they conceived to be his personal qualities and not merely for the luster of his title and his fame as an "attraction" at their house. Thus only can be explained the determination of Mrs. Harwood that Count Kassimir should sing in St. Paul's at Easter.

The count had been gaining flesh faster than he liked and had taken to horseback exercise for its reduction. Mounted upon a splendid thoroughbred from the Harwood stables, he would tear through the streets of Bayside without the smallest regard for those who might be in his way. He had been an army officer, and his natural arrogance was enhanced by the thousand brutalities of European military service.

Now, to a simple citizen like James Kelvin Count Kassimir was an objectionable character in general and a fugitive from justice in particular, for the assaulted reporter had obtained a warrant, not valid in Bayside, which is across the state line. The idea of

...was confirmed.
...All Bayside dis...cussed it. Mrs.
...Harwood rallied

...St. Paul's."
...Everybody
...wondered what ...would happen,
...and naturally
...didn't ask me to say
...did happen it
...was made the ...subject of considerable exaggeration.
...It was the afternoon of the Thursday
...before Easter. The church was open
...and some ladies of the congregation
...were arranging floral decorations. Mrs.
...Harwood had desired to have a deco...rator from the city and had offered to ...pay the charges, but Mr. Winslow had ...insisted upon home talent.
...Now, the simple fact is that Count
...Kassimir was taking one of his rides,
...desiring to see Mrs. Harwood,
...he believed to be at the church,
...there to find her. It was re...spected, that he went to call
...to account for having ...made comments derogatory to his ...wife.
...was one of the count's delights to ...run a running horse in the shortest ...possible space. He would dash up to ...a place as if with no intention of halt-
...ing and then halt. He came whirling
...into the semicircular roadway that led
...from the street to the church door
...with an astonishing clatter of hoofs and
...with results very surprising to himself.
...At that moment one of the Kelvin
...boys, superintended by Annie, was ...wheeling a barrow laden with potted
...plants along a narrow strip of boards
...that had been laid upon the mud. The ...rushing steed came up unseen behind
...the boy, who dodged for his life, up...setting the barrow, from which a great
...mass of pots and flowers rolled under
...the horse's feet.
...The animal shied like a zigzag flash
...of lightning, and Count Kassimir leapt
...straight on through the air, landing
...on all fours without serious damage.
...He was up in an instant, but the horse ...that vanished around a corner of the ...church. In this direction, however,
...there was no exit, and the animal was ...not quite scared enough to dash him...self against a stone wall. He stopped,
...and Kassimir caught him and began
...to beat him unmercifully.
...At this there was an outcry, and Mr.
...Winslow, with others, came running ...from the church. The clergyman un...derstood the situation at a glance. He ...laid an iron hand on Kassimir's arm.
..."The horse is somewhat excited,"
...said he. "It is better that I should ...return him to
...Mrs. Harwood."
...Kassimir made
...a very violent re...sistance, and the next
...instant was
...stretched flat
...upon his back.
...The onlookers
...are not sure to
...this day whether
...Winslow or the ...horse did it. The ...minister never
...would tell. One ...thing, however,
...all saw plainly--
...that the horse
...was absolutely
...crazy and that to mount him seemed
...mere suicide. Nevertheless the pastor ...of St. Paul's got into the saddle as if ...it were no trouble at all and after ...permitting the animal to execute some ...amazing evolutions quite unchecked
...rode away at a very moderate pace.
...Kassimir walked to the Harwoods',
...the better part of two miles.
...Mrs. Harwood came to the church in ...the late afternoon in high dudgeon and ...demanded an apology for the mistreat...ment of her guest. Mr. Winslow was ...as courteous, courteous and pacific, but he ...would not express any regret for what ...he had done.
..."The man was abusing the horse,"
...he said. "I was obliged to interfere,
...and I did so as gently as possible."
...None of the Harwoods, none of the ...Wills set, attend at the Easter service
...at St. Paul's, but the congregation
...was the largest that had gathered in ...the church within two years.
...On the Tuesday following Mr. Wins-
...low called at the Kelvin house in the ...evening.
..."I have received word from Mrs.
...Harwood," said he, "that she ...has withdrawn from St. Paul's, at ...least for as long as I remain pastor.
...Under these circumstances I think it best ...that there should be a minister called
...to succeed me. I have expressed my ...wishes to the congregation, and they ...have agreed to my being succeeded by ...the Rev. Mr. Williams."

GEORGE W. COVINGTON

Former Maryland Congressman Dies in New York.

News was received at Snow Hill Thursday of the death of Hon. George W. Covington in a hospital in New York City. For several years Mr. Covington and his family had been spending their winters in New York City with his eldest son, George W. Covington. It was known to his friends in Snow Hill that he was in poor health.

For a number of years Mr. Covington was the leading spirit in the Democratic politics of Worcester County, but in 1885 he retired to private life and has since resided on his estate, Henges in Snow Hill. The funeral will take place from his late residence at three o'clock today.

The first public office held by Mr. Covington was auditor of the Circuit Court for Worcester County. In 1865 he was elected treasurer of the School Board, this being the first board under the present system of free schools. Two years later he was elected a member of the constitutional convention. In 1880 he was elected to the Forty seventh Congress. In 1882 he was re-elected. While a member of this Congress he was active in obtaining the Indian River waterways. In 1885 he was married to Sallie M. D. Bishop, who with two sons and a daughter, survive him. The oldest son, George B. lives in New York City. Harry F. is a professor at Princeton University.

MD. M. P. CONFERENCE

Opens. The President Reports Institutions Growing. J. M. Sheridan Is Re-Elected As Leader.

The eighty third annual conference of the Maryland Methodist Protestant Church opened at Federalburg Wednesday with Dr. J. M. Sheridan, presiding, and with a large attendance of delegates.

In his annual report Dr. Sheridan said the churches in this district are in a flourishing condition, with prospects of a greater growth next year. Touching on appointments, he said that there were three unappointed charges, and one minister who has asked to be released from membership.

Western Maryland College, at Westminster, an institution supported by the conference, was reported in a prosperous condition, while growth was noted in the theological seminary, at the same place. Dr. Sheridan also said that interest in the church home is increasing, but that the support is inefficient.

Though the deaconess movement of this church is in its infancy, great progress is being made in this line. Aside from the numerous new churches built and additions made to church property, there has been great growth along spiritual lines. There have been in all 2930 converts, 2596 of whom have united with the church. The church at Milford, Del., though only organized last October, reports 600 converts in six months, with 400 accessions.

Rev. L. A. Bennett, pastor of this church, after citing numerous proofs of the church's growth the president finished his report when the secretary, Rev. W. S. Phillips, moved that the body sing the Doxology as evidence of its gratitude.

At the afternoon session several more ministers arrived, and the report of the secretary was read and adopted. The usual routine, appointment of committees and acceptance of reports engaged attention for a short time.

A request that the sermon of Rev. G. W. Haddaway of the morning session be printed in the conference minutes was granted.

Officers were re-elected as follows: President, Dr. J. M. Sheridan. Secretary, W. S. Phillips. Assistant Sec., P. J. P. Straughn. Stewards, G. J. Humphreys, G. J. Hooker, Clayborne Phillips. Treasurer, C. P. Nowland.

Considerable routine business was transacted on Thursday and Friday. Reports from Committees on church extensions, superannuated funds, young people's work, ministerial education, benevolent purposes, public supply, education, etc., were taken up.

On Thursday Rev. Louis Randall called the dead roll. Church finance was discussed on Friday. Rev. W. S. Phillips presiding. Today and next week's program is as follows:—

Berlin Postoffice Robbed.
The Berlin postoffice was robbed Wednesday night by unknown parties. An entrance to the building was effected through the store room. The lock was destroyed on the safe and a hole was drilled in the safe preparatory to dynamiting it, but the burglars were frightened off by Mr. William Coffin who sleeps over the postoffice. Mr. Coffin got up very early and the burglars dropped every thing and made a break from the building as soon as they heard him moving around overhead. They scattered some money and a large number of stamps, but left behind them a mail sack filled with postal cards, etc.

"CHINCH" REVELLE

Arrested. Wheels Of Justice Work Quick. Three Years in Penitentiary.

"Chinch" Revelle, or to give him his full name Robert Revelle has for some time given our authorities a great deal of trouble. Arrested and sent to the House of Correction for two years did not phase or move more than to make him pursue his career of lawlessness. For he soon returned to continue his riotous mode of life. A menace to public order and safety and a terror to the police, who never seemed able to locate him at the right time. Sometime back he was indicted by the Grand Jury for larceny and it was upon this count that he was finally arrested by the authorities of Washington, N. C., to which place he had fled after his last escape here a few weeks ago. It seems that "Chinch's" downfall or arrest was due to a former chum of his in Washington with whom he had a dispute, which resulted in this friend receiving a good thrashing at his hands.

The party resenting this took steps to "look up" "Chinch's" past history with the result that the authorities in Washington were requested to arrest Revelle. Sheriff J. Clayton Kelley left for North Carolina on Thursday of last week and brought him home on his way home he confessed Sheriff Kelley his guilt.

Mr. Kelley states that he found "Chinch" who went by the name of Frank Robertson very popular with the people in Washington owing to the fact that he had administered a decent licking upon the big bully of the town, and that a crowd gathered giving "Frank" a good send off. Mr. Kelley had no trouble at all with his prisoner on his trip back. Revelle had a quick trial on Monday morning and pleaded guilty of stealing a suit of harness from Mr. Glen Perdue. Judge Toadwine held him guilty, sentencing him to a three year term in the Maryland Penitentiary and Sheriff Kelley and Deputy Roy Smith took the prisoner to Baltimore Tuesday and turned him over to the tender care of Warden Weyer at the "pen."

"Chinch" could have asked a jury trial and waited for his sentence until the September term of court, but he decided that he had better start his sentence and have that much of it over with. He said he knew the officers had the "dots" on him and that he could not escape punishment. Revelle has been a bad man for some time and leaves a family in Salisbury unprovided for. He has been a terror to the police of this and other cities for years and was known as a man who would resist arrest and fight to the finish.

UNION DEPOT DECIDED Upon. On Site Of B. C. & A. Junction. Work This Year.

After years of deliberation and discussion it begins to look as though Salisbury is at last to have a union station. According to the reports given out it has finally been decided to build an up-to-date union station on the present site of the B. C. & A. Junction. Salisbury has long been a sufferer on account of the stereotypical station on both of the railroads here, stations that would be a disgrace to any village from one to two hundred inhabitants, and the people generally will rejoice when both are torn down, and one put up more in keeping with the size and importance of this city.

It is to be hoped that the present report is no myth or stretch of the imagination as have been so many others of like tenor in the past, as apparently this is the genuine article, it looks as though this city's patience is sure to be rewarded as last. Work will probably begin on the new station early in the fall, if the present plans are carried out.

The new automobile and motorway ordinance was finally passed and signed by the Mayor and the police officers were summoned to the Council room and instructed that this ordinance must be vigorously enforced. B. F. Sweeten & Son, contractors who laid the brick streets in this city were notified that all the repairs to E. Church, Division, Main and Dock Streets must be made on or before April 15, or the city would sue on the bond of the company. A notice was also served on the National Security Company of New York, who are the caretakers for Sweeten & Son, that the work must be done at once or suit would be entered on the bond.

Twilley—Wright.
A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Sallie Wright, in Hebron, when her daughter, Mattie E., was given in marriage to Mr. Elwood Twilley, of Sharptown, Thursday, April 6th, at high noon. Rev. E. H. Marshall performed the ceremony. The wedding march from Loehgrin was beautifully rendered by Mr. J. M. Wallace. During the ceremony Melody of Love was played.

The bride was beautifully attired in a traveling suit of gray with hat and gloves to match, while the groom wore the conventional black. The happy couple left on the south bound train for Norfolk, Va., where they will reside.

The regular services at the Baptist Church Sunday, "Chas. T. Hewitt, the pastor will preach in the evening on "Is the Second Coming of Christ at Hand and How Will It Come." The Junior congregation will meet on Sunday afternoon at 2.30. Mr. Hewitt will give an object talk to the children.

RIOTING IN LAUREL, DEL.

Two Men Lose Their Lives. White Men Arrested As Leaders.

Trouble broke out in Laurel, Del., on Saturday night between what seemed to be a body of white and a body of colored men, though later reports would indicate the colored men were led by the white men. In the hall of shot, two white men lost their lives. The first to succumb to his injuries was Otto Stookley, 18 years old. He was shot during the beginning of the attack, but did not die until late Sunday afternoon in the Peninsula General Hospital, at Salisbury, where he was taken for treatment.

The riot occurred on the Main Street of Laurel about ten o'clock when a crowd of colored men, mad with liquor, marched down the street shooting right and left. George Hudson, a farmer fifty years of age, of Bethel, who was brought to the Hospital here, died on Wednesday.

The officials detailed in arresting those responsible for the trouble changed their course of investigation on Wednesday and arrested Edgar Wall, Roland Bonachamp and Charles Rogers, three white men, whom they believe were the leaders of the colored mob.

At first everyone was willing to think the colored men entirely responsible for the outbreak and threatened to lynch the first one who appeared in the white section, but since the arrest of the white boys indignation toward the colored folk has diminished and officials declare it will be useless to retain the extra officers, as disorder has subsided.

The body of Hudson, the second victim of the riot, was carried from the Peninsula Hospital at Salisbury, where he died Wednesday morning, to Laurel. Coroner King, of Lewes, empaneled a jury to conduct the inquest.

The three white men are held to await the verdict of the jury. The strongest evidence is against Wall, as several prominent citizens are ready to swear that the young man made remarks after the riot that would implicate him. Wall denies the charge and also the report that he confessed to the shooting when questioned by the chief of police. Hudson was wounded just as he was getting into his carriage to go to his home at Bethel. His friends and citizens of Laurel are stung to fury over his death, and if Wall is held by the Coroner's jury an attempt may be made to lynch him. Hudson was shot in the legs and died following the amputation of both.

At Georgetown indictments were returned by the Sussex County Grand Jury against George Williams, alias "Slim Jim," charging the illegal sale of liquor, and John Collins, pointing a pistol. These men were arrested last Sunday following the riot. It is believed that the Grand Jury will take up the cases of the other prisoners later.

The others injured are John Thompson, shot in the legs while he was shaving a patron in his barber shop; George Cannon, residing near Laurel, struck with several bookboys; James Spicer, shot in the ear, and Edgar Quillen, shot in the side.

The new automobile and motorway ordinance was finally passed and signed by the Mayor and the police officers were summoned to the Council room and instructed that this ordinance must be vigorously enforced. B. F. Sweeten & Son, contractors who laid the brick streets in this city were notified that all the repairs to E. COUNTIES CAN SAVE

On Roads Lays Lee—Senator From Montgomery Explains Workings of State Road Law.

Light was thrown on the way in which the State Good Roads Commission supervises good road work done by the counties by State Senator Blair Lee of Montgomery County, who in an interview, said: "The leading editorial of last Monday's issue of The Baltimore News entitled 'The Counties and the Good Roads' Fund," mentioned Montgomery and Worcester counties, and indicates that, in securing the aid of the counties to do State road work the State Commission gives up its supervision and opens the door for graft.

Governor Convinced. "The facts adduced before the committees of the last Legislature convinced the Governor and a majority of the members that changes of methods were possible that might produce beneficial results in State road making. These changes were authorized by the road laws and put in operation in several counties experimentally. Speaking for Montgomery county, the result has been so satisfactory that the State Commission on the motion of Dr. Remson after a report by Mr. Crosby, Chief Engineer, authorized the further application of this method for the coming summer. These methods have been in operation there sufficiently to be no longer experimental.

A competent engineer or superintendent has been employed by the county, subject to approval of the State Commission, who gives this work close supervision. The county helps out by paying this engineer. The State inspection and reports on expenditures, labor and material are independent of the county officials, and are the same and as strict as in any other place.

Work of Contractors.

Where contractors are employed they perform definite work, such as hauling stone by weight and moving earth by the cubic yard. The contractor is responsible only for doing a definite thing. The engineer is responsible for the result of the work and the economy of the same. There can be no shifting of blame from the engineer to the contractor or from the contractor to the engineer. When the contractor's part in the work is done he gets his money promptly. This feature of limited responsibility makes the contractor's bid lower, as he does not have to make allowance for possibly doing the same work twice. According to the report of the Chief Engineer, the result of the work on one section of road in Montgomery county last summer was a saving of $11,000 when compared with the State Engineer's estimates; moreover, the macadam was put down one inch thicker than the State specifications called for. The local engineer has a number of advantages over an engineer moving on a circuit and who can visit the work going on in several sections of each county only at irregular intervals.

Has Benefit of Surveys.

"The local engineer has the benefit of all the surveys and estimates of the State Engineer. The local man always being present can start quarry work in winter and operate stone crushers, whereby to save the heavy freight bills and other expenses of imported stone. The cost of freight has been one-fifth of all the cost of the roads formerly made in Montgomery county with stone brought into the county by rail. In contrast with this most of the local stone, being a form of trap rock, has shown better qualities for road making and should last several times longer than the imported stone.

"In addition to freight saved and contractors' charges reduced there is a further saving in hauling when stone can be gotten from alongside of a road rather than to haul it several miles from a railway station. In fact, after getting several miles away from a station, railroad stone becomes so costly as to almost prohibit solid construction at reasonable cost, as we have no gravel or oyster shells to substitute for stone.

Donations of Stone.

"Owing to his familiarity with local conditions and opportunities to interest local land owners in economical construction of these roads, the Roads Superintendent and those citizens cooperating with him, have been able to procure donations of thousands of tons of stone by property holders along projected roads, the State fund, of course, being used in quarrying, crushing and hauling the stone.

"As a practical illustration, take the work on three and one-half miles south of Kensington, in Montgomery county, completed last summer, being the last work given out where a contractor did all the work and also was held responsible for the stability of the road, and compare it with five miles of road now being built under the County Commissioners' southwest of Gaithersburg known as the Darnestown section. The Kensington section was controlled by a contractor from New Jersey who hired Italian labor and used a soft limestone from West Virginia.

was a loss of about one fifth in freight for a temporary sort of stone. On the Darnestown road, three mile long which are finished, more than half of the stone was donated, the crushing and other work was nearly all done by local labor and the quarries have been operated economically during the winter. Local trap rock took the place of soft limestone. Nearly all of the money spent including that for machinery bought, quickly returned to Maryland channels of trade that lead directly to Baltimore city. The experience in road building gained by the citizens of the county and State who have done the work makes them available for further and better work both of construction and maintenance and is a valuable asset added to the wealth of the State."

The Buyer who knows the Difference in Automobiles will own a Cadillac "Thirty". Our first object in advertising the Cadillac Thirty is to teach the buyers the real essentials of an automobile and to help them become competent to judge the merits of a car. If buyers know the vast differences in automobiles, we would have three purchasers for every Cadillac we could secure. Cadillac is Manufactured. There is abundant evidence to prove that no car at $2,500 or under will compare favorably with the Cadillac Thirty. In the first place a dependable, lasting automobile must be a manufactured car. It is foolishly to claim that a machine assembled from parts secured here and there will give the same quality of service as a car the parts of which are made under one roof, with a thorough knowledge of the relation of each part to every other. The high standard of accuracy required in an automobile cannot be attained in an assembled car. Neither can the parts be made standard, so that the owner can rely on repair parts fitting properly. The buyer who knows automobiles will demand a great deal of the factory behind the car he is considering. And he ought to. It's the best insurance he can secure against high upkeep and trouble. Dist. Missionary Campaign.

In every venture people are to be taught the What, the When and How. I have sent each pastor a small supply of the leaflet entitled "The Granberry; Our Christian College in Brazil," by Bishop W. H. Lambuth, D. D. Place these where they will do the most good.

Get out a representative congregation to hear these leaders in missions. Never mind about the crowd.

The district lay leader at Onley will send each pastor a copy of "The Hand of God Has Opened the Door," an inspiring account by Bishop Lambuth of the providential circumstances inviting our church in the State of Minas, Brazil. Read it to your people at the first opportunity. Below is an imperfect analysis. The State of Minas is as large as France.

Just as Bishop Lambuth was leaving Rio Janeiro last October, Rev. Mr. Tavares, Presiding Elder of the Joia de Fora district, and Rev. Mr. Escobar, pastor of our church at Otaguayzes, stopped him for an interview, saying they were sent by a number of Brazilian gentlemen.

Near the town of Otaguayzes, in the great State of Minas, is an agricultural and industrial school with modern buildings and equipment, without experienced directors to run it. They begged the Bishop to get our Board of Missions to take it off their hands. He replied that it was impossible because of lack of funds.

Upon reaching the United States letters followed him, pleading that the mayor of the city and leading men in the municipality were back of the proposition that the Methodists take the school. The Board of Missions was compelled to cable a refusal.

It is an interesting story, but here is the sequel. The business men of the city, with the mayor and leading banker, came back with an offer to assume the financial responsibility, erect new buildings and donate land for a church and parsonage, and that they wanted Rev. W. E. Lee, of the Granberry College to be put in charge.

Brother Lee also wrote asking to be allowed to go, that he and his wife were willing and ready.

The proposition seemed to be the voice of the Lord calling our church to a new field, with "the door lifted off the hinges." And Bishop Lambuth sent the cablegram—"Go."

Now some one must take Lee's place at Granberry. Where is the man? Below find plan of appointments for Bishop Lambuth and Dr. Beauchamp in Maryland.

Short Crop of Cow Peas Prices Are Going Up!

The enormous demand for Cow Peas last year carried the price very high, and as the crop is very short and the acreage is rapidly extending, there are many indications which point to much higher prices as the sowing season approaches.

Whip-poor-will Cow Peas. The Whip-poor-will Cow Peas are generally preferred in the Central and Southern States. They are bush form, early maturing and especially desirable for Peas.

New Era Cow Peas. New Era are a little earlier than Whip-poor-wills.

Wonderfuls, Clays and Mixed Cow Peas. For Hay, the Wonderfuls or the Mixed Cow Peas are more productive. They should be planted with an occasional grain of Corn, Sorghum Seed, Kaffir Corn, etc., which will prevent the vines from getting damaged by coming in contact with the ground.

Black Cow Peas. Black Cow Peas are a little earlier in maturing than Clays; they make a good growth of vines, are exceptionally good for medium or poor land, and will stand almost any amount of wet weather without injury. We can also supply Shinnery Peas, Red Rippers, Blackeye Peas and Soja Beans.

REMEMBER—Bolignano's Cow Peas are unquestionably the best. If your Local Merchant will not supply Bolignano's Cow Peas, write us direct and we will tell you where you can get them.

FREE. Send us 5 cents in stamps to pay postage and mention this paper, and we will send you free a 50 page catalogue of "My Maryland" Tomato Seed, also our 1911 Catalogue of Seeds and our 1911 Foultry Supply Catalogue.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL
CHRISTIAN MASS MEETING
In the World's Largest and Finest Auditorium.
AUDIENCE ESTIMATED AT SEVEN THOUSAND
Which is the True Gospel and What Must Our Creeds Sacrifice in Order to Christian Union?

London, April 2.—Pastor Russell addressed the huge Convention at the Royal Albert Hall to-night. Few preachers are so well known in Great Britain as he. Many of the leading newspapers, both here and in America, publish his weekly discourses. He took for his text, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ" (Romans 1, 16). He said: Let us approach our subject reverently. With reverence, because many of our creeds are white with centuries. They were the creeds of our fathers and mothers. They must not be handled ruthlessly, unkindly. But we must approach the subject with courage because it is a Christian duty. For long centuries God's people have been divided into sects and parties, separated by creedal fences. At one time they gloried in their differences and destroyed one another in their zeal for what they believed to be the Truth.

are members of the Church of Christ, for thus, according to their theory, they doom to eternal torture, as unsaved, all of their Christian brethren who have not been immersed. Surely Baptists and Disciples, therefore, may be expected to promptly and heartily repudiate these test features of their theories. The Methodist Creed was next examined. It was commended for the prominence it gives to the Love of God and His forbearance with the misrepresentations of those who honestly seek to be His children. The speaker asked the Methodist brethren to forego the worshiping of their Church and to give the more homage to the Lord. He admitted the masterfulness of their organization, but reminded them that their Episcopacy is not modeled after anything shown in the New Testament. It does not even pretend to be an authority along the Apostolic Succession. They must admit that the establishment of its Bishopric was, at least, semi-fraudulent—a supposed emergency, born of the error that an Episcopal ordination was necessary to an authority to preach.

Hell and Purgatory Must Go. Unitedly we must all acknowledge that we grossly misunderstood the teaching of our Bible when we believed and taught that our Almighty Creator prepared a great hell, manned with fire-proof demons, with the foreknowledge that all of our race would go thither except as a certain few would be specially rescued by the Savior, after His coming, when He was not sent for over four thousand years after the fall. Looking back to the "Dark Ages," we beheld with horror the terrible effects of this blasphemous doctrine upon good men of that time, who thought they were copying the Divine spirit and methods when they burned one another at the stake.

Now we see more clearly that none of our creeds are without flaw. Now we are willing—yea, glad, to take the Truth wherever we find it, and to acknowledge the error, though it be our own. The oneness of the Church requires that we should have this courage! The interests of the world demand it! We have come here realizing that the time for covering errors, of which we are ashamed, is past; that the time for reverencing God and His Word has come. Whoever thus approaches the subject cannot fall of a blessing from God, in harmony with the Master's prayer, "Sanctify them through Thy Truth: Thy Word is Truth" (John xvii, 17).

Are We Not All Christians? Our topic must be, What is the Gospel of which St. Paul was not ashamed—"the faith once delivered unto the saints"—"one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism" (Ephesians iv, 5). The speaker showed that the Roman Catholic Church, in order to unite with others, would need to cut out of her creed everything not found in the Bible—prayers to saints, homage to pictures and images, the sacrifice of the mass, holy candles, holy water, Purgatory, the infallibility of the Pope and the general theory that the clergy alone are the Church and brethren of Christ, and the laity are merely the children of the Church. He acknowledged that so great a concession could scarcely be expected at once; that the study of the Bible must prepare Catholics to accept it as the only standard of the "faith once delivered to the saints."

The Protestant Episcopal creed next had attention. Little that was objectionable was found. One point alone could cause any hesitancy, he was sure—Apostolic Succession. He urged that no Scripture could be found sustaining this theory in clear terms. On the contrary, he gave numerous citations in proof that the twelve Apostles only possessed plenary inspiration and were directly under Divine control. St. Paul taking the place of Judas. These are the twelve foundation stones of the New Jerusalem, and the foundations of the holy temple mentioned by St. Peter—the twelve authorized by the Master to bind or to loose from doctrines and practices (Matt. xviii, 18). Election—Foreordination—Predestination.

The Westminster Confession, the foundation of the majority of Protestant creeds, distinctly emphasizes the teachings of Brother John Calvin. We can all agree that the words elect and election, predestination and fore-ordained in Scriptural terms and that a truth must underlie and pervade them. But it will give none of us any pain to repudiate entirely the peculiar definitions attached to these words by Brother Calvin. Surely we are all prepared to deny that a God of Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power foreordained and predestinated before the foundation of the world that everybody but the "elect" should go to eternal torment! If we cannot all agree as to what these terms mean, we can unite in denying the atrocious doctrines of the past which have so greatly dishonored our Creator and ourselves and which have driven so many honest minds away from God and from His Book.

Baptists and Disciples, Pastor Russell declared, have something further to surrender. Surely they may keep water immersion. Surely they may claim that, more fully than sprinkling, it represents the underlying thought expressed in the symbol. The unreasonable and unscriptural thing which they must renounce in favor of mine is that water immersion is a part of membership in the Church of Christ. They must admit that Cornelius, at least, was accepted of the Lord and begotten of the Spirit before his baptism in water (Acts x, 47). The Pastor could not think that the Baptist and Disciple brethren have much difficulty in rejecting water immersion as a test of Christian fellowship, if once they saw the matter in its true light, thus: The Disciples, in holding that immersion in water is for the remission of sins, are claiming, in fact, that all not thus immersed are lost—doomed to eternal torment, according to their theory. Baptists should see the absurdity of claiming that only the water immersed

Then all the blind eyes must be opened. Then all the deaf ears shall be unstopped. Then the knowledge of the Word shall fill the whole earth as the waters cover the great deep. Then "whosoever will may come and take of the water of life freely" (Rev. xii, 17).

The Gospel Age Harvest. Pastor Russell declares that the signs of the times, in conjunction with the prophecies of the Scriptures, clearly indicate to him that we are living in the "harvest time" of this Age, which is drawing to a close—in the dawning time of the New Dispensation. He will soon be ushered in. He wished his hearers to clearly distinguish between his teaching and the common teaching represented in all of our creeds. Our hymn books, like our creeds, tell of the End of this Age as the end of hope—"the wreck of matter and the crash of worlds," in a huge bonfire. The Bible, on the contrary, shows that the most blessed days of the world's experience are about to be ushered in. The election of the Church completed, the saints, glorified with the Redeemer on the spirit plane, invisible to men, will take control of earth's affairs. God's Kingdom under the whole heavens will be established. Satan, the present spirit Prince, will be dethroned and deceive the nations no more for a thousand years.

The reign of Messiah in the glory of Divine power will constitute the Sun of Righteousness. Light and Truth will be specially renewed by the poor, death-stricken world. Healing will be in the beams of this Sun of Righteousness—Restitution, uplifting from sin, degradation and death. As the reign of Sin and Death terminates, the reign of Righteousness unto life everlasting will begin. The wonderful inventions and blessings of our day are but the forerunners of still greater blessings. "For ye shall be blessed, and the day is at hand"—the great Day of which Jesus and the Apostles and the Prophets continually spoke. It will be doomsday only for all the systems of iniquity and unbeliefness.

Let us, beloved brethren, lay aside every weight and hindrance. Let us come quickly into the "narrow way" and walk in the footsteps of the Redeemer and make our "calling and election sure" to a place with Him in His Throne, and in His great work of blessing and uplifting humanity.

MARDELA SPRINGS.

The new Mardele Springs Hotel, will have its formal opening on Monday next. The new management was disappointed in opening at the time they had planned for, but now the machinery for the Electric Lights is all in place. Mr. F. A. Grier and Sons have put in an eight horse power Poo engine, to furnish power for the motor. This will be sufficient to light up the building, the grounds, the stables and the Springs. This would have been a good time for the Town to have had its streets lighted. By putting in a larger engine the whole town might have been lighted. The proposition is to make this a first class Hotel in every respect. The services of an experienced cook have been secured, and this means a good table. We have inspected the House and found it greatly improved. The new furniture adds much to its appearance and comfort. Transient and permanent boarders will find in this Hotel everything desired. It is under entirely new management, and we can bespeak the hearty cooperation of the town's people in making it a success. While money has been lavishly, yet wisely, spent in making it a place to be desired by the traveling public. We understand that the Carbonated water will be sold for $2.50 per case of twenty-four quart bottles. The water has been thoroughly tested by invalids of all kinds, and it has proven very beneficial to them. It has been analyzed by competent chemists and said to contain silica, arsenious acid, oxide of iron, alumina, chloride of sodium, carbonate of lime and of magnesia, sulphate of lime and carbonate of soda, in such proportions as to make it a specific in many ailments.

Pastor E. G. Parker, of the Baptist Church, has just completed his seventh year as pastor. The Baptist interests are much stronger than they were when he first came among us. The revival meetings just closed, have been a great help to the church. Some excellent material has been added. The baptism in the stream last Sunday was largely attended and perfect order was observed.

Pastor A. A. Harriman, of the M. P. Church, is off to the Conference this week. The Churches that he serves have asked for his return. There is a very friendly and cordial spirit manifested between all the churches in this community. The pastors are on most excellent terms.

Mr. Kirk G. Phillips, a prominent business man of Deadwood City, S. D., is shaking hands with his old friends in Mardele Springs. He is a brother to the Misses Jennie, Emma and Nellie Phillips, of our town. Mr. Phillips left here about forty years ago, when he was a boy. He is now respectfully identified with business men in his home city. His many friends are glad to see him, and especially glad to see him looking so well.

PARSONSBURG.

The new Conference year starts off nicely on Parsonsburg Charge and Rev. E. H. Collins, who was returned to us for another year desires that every one pray that this may be a most blessed year for the entire circuit.

The managers of the Parsonsburg Camp have fixed the dates of August 4th to 14th for the encampment this year. Everything possible will be done to make this a great camp. Plans are being made to greatly improve the grounds and lay a cement walk at the main entrance. Also, if possible, to secure a short platform right in front of the grounds by the railroad Company, so that all special trains can stop at the grounds instead of the regular station, and thus save the walk back. Don't forget the date and arrange to spend the entire ten days with us. The preacher in charge, Rev. E. H. Collins, believes that every day ought to be a big one and the very best ministerial talent will be secured. Prof. W. W. Vansant, who led the large chorus choir last year, will be with us again. Also Hall and Mack and Prof. Messick and family. Why not build a tent with us?

With Mr. A. T. Dashiell, Salisbury, local agent for ARMOUR'S HIGH GRADE ANIMAL MATTER FERTILIZERS.

The agricultural value, or the results produced in the field, is what you are mainly interested. Investigate the record of the Armour Brands and you will be convinced that you can't afford to plant without them.

The Armour Brands are manufactured under the direct supervision of an experienced chemist, (who is thoroughly posted as to the plant food requirements of the different crops,) and are manufactured from a combination of the best fertilizer materials, such as Nitrate of Soda, Bone Meal Dried Blood, Animal Tankage and Acid Phosphate, and high grade Potash Salts, thus giving a plant food that will insure a steady feeding of your crops from the beginning through to maturity.

Ask your neighbor about Armour's—he knows. Place your order at once. Don't let anyone try to convince you something else is just as good.

...1911...

Taylor's Horse and Carriage Bazaar has been crowded all this month with buyers. Never before were there so many strangers in our town buying horses, mules, wagons, buggies and harness; in fact it is hard to get waited on. Out-of-town customers are waiting to make arrangements ahead.

If anyone thinks the above statement is not correct and will come here, they will say they never saw anything like it.

I have 50 Horses and Mules, and most anyone can get suited, as our prices keep the crowd coming, and our reliability keeps them satisfied. Our guarantee is as good as any BANK.

I have more Horse Collars and Harness than any five stores on the Eastern Shore. Every customer is an advertisement for me. Seeing is believing; come see for yourself.

HER SURPRISE

By THOMAS R. DEAN

There is no place wherein men—and women, too—will sooner sink to the brute level than in a lumber camp. Miss Margaret Storms of St. Louis was the daughter of an owner of lumber property in Wisconsin. She was city born and bred and had never been in a wild country in her life. But one winter she took to her head to go with her father to his lumber property, and, although he told her that the people were very rough and she would not like to be among them, she was possessed with a desire to go, and she did.

From the moment of her arrival she seemed to delight in the wild woods and showed no discrimination for the rude lumber folk she met there. She was eager to go about and in order to be able to travel on the surface of the snow she asked for some one to teach her to walk in snowshoes. A guide named Jim Hogan, a tall, strapping son of the woods, was recommended to her as an expert snowshoe and skie teacher. Jim had physical beauty enough to captivate a dozen women. He had a profusion of curly black hair, large brown eyes, an oval face, shaved except for a drooping mustache, and the figure of an Apollo Belvedere. He was perfectly fearless and thoroughly versed in woodcraft.

But here the guide's qualifications as a lady killer ceased. He could read and write, but if he had ever read anything he had no ability to impart it to others. He had little fancy for women and was rather annoyed at their attentions. Indeed, he kept himself as much as possible away from the settlements to avoid them.

Strange as it may appear, Miss Storms, who had been educated in the best schools, came under the spell of this ignorant, woodman. But it should not appear so improbable when we remember that the early kings of England could neither read nor write. True, their queens were just as ignorant, but there is ample evidence that they loved their husbands. At any rate, the lumber capitalist's daughter, skimming over the snow with her teacher, became bewitched. Possibly she possessed an emotional nature. Possibly her fancy was fired by seeing his graceful figure threading its way before her through the interminable woods. Be the cause what it may, she came to feel that life would be a wretched existence without her Hogan.

It happened that the daughter of the storekeeper of the camp found more favor in Hogan's eyes than Miss Storms. This girl, Anna Woodson, was also a city girl, but not of the class of Miss Storms. Perhaps the fact that she was nearer Hogan's level gave her his preference. He had become aware that Miss Storms was infatuated with him and that Miss Woodson really loved him. He did not break with either, feeling terrible with her, and he did not dislike especially to break with Miss Storms, for her father was paying him a handsome sum each week for his daughter's instruction.

One day Miss Storms was driving in her father's buggy when she overtook Jim Hogan and Miss Woodson walking side by side. Influenced by a sudden impulse, induced by jealousy, Miss Storms as she passed the couple gave her rival a cut with her whip, leaving a red welt on her cheek.

There was no opportunity to resent the insult then and there, for in a moment Miss Storms was beyond reach. Miss Woodson burned for an opportunity to get her fingers in Miss Storms' hair and so expressed herself to Mr. Hogan. Terrified at being the cause of a fracas between the two women, he told her that if she attacked her rival he would leave the camp and neither girl would hear from him again.

Miss Woodson, fearing that he would keep his word, yet not being able to restrain her thirst for revenge, chose a middle course. She secretly sent a challenge to Miss Storms to fight a duel. The feelings that induced this city girl who had been carefully reared to fight a duel with another girl in a lumber camp cannot be analyzed. Was it the influence of the wild ways among which she had fallen? Was it hate for her rival? Was it a return to the brute instincts which some scientists aver were once common with us all? Whatever the motives, the challenge was accepted.

Unfortunately seconds were necessary. Indeed, some one was needed to bear the challenge. The bearer told her most intimate friend, who in turn told her most intimate friend. This included two intimate friends, besides the principals, who knew of the affair. But as each intimate friend had one or more intimate friends within a few hours after the challenge had passed the coming duel was known of all over the camp.

Hogan fled.

One of Mr. Storms' managing men informed him of the situation, and when the next train left Miss Storms was on it.

A few years later Miss Storms married a professor of Greek literature in one of the universities. She took a fancy to go on her wedding trip to her father's lumber camp. While there she tripped a lumberman to walk the man for whom she had been willing to unsex herself and risk her life past the cabin occupied by herself and her husband. Hogan walked by with the lumberman, and the professor's wife observed him from behind a curtain. "Oh, heavens!" she exclaimed. "How could I have done it?"

DIPLOMACY AT HOME.

If Your Wife Asks the Right Question All Is Easy.

"Did you read that article in the paper the other day about the age at which a woman is most lovely?" asked Mrs. Dingleham.

Mr. Dingleham had been out very late the night before, and these were the first words Mrs. Dingleham had spoken to him since she had declared that the explanation which he had attempted to give was wholly inadequate.

"Yes," he replied. "I read it."

"What is your idea about it?" "I think," he said very gravely and very earnestly, "that a woman is loveliest when she is just your age."

For a moment all was still in the Dingleham household. Then Mrs. Dingleham put her arms around her husband's neck and said: "Henry, will you please forgive me for what I said last night—or this morning—when you came home? It was foolish of me, but I love you so that I am often unreasonably jealous and suspicious."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Pity the Postman's Wife. A clergyman, noting the simple appearance of the couple he had just married, decided to give them a few words of advice.

He explained to the young man his duties as a husband and then told the young lady how she should conduct herself, winding up with the old injunction that she must look to her husband for everything and, forsaking father and mother, follow him wherever he went.

The bride appeared very much troubled at this and faltered out: "Must I follow him to every place he goes?"

"Yes," said the clergyman, "you must follow him everywhere until death doth you part."

"Gracious!" cried the girl, "if I had known that before I would never have married a postman!"—Spare Moments.

At the Payne Club. "Now, who can tell me why a submarine is like a good man?" asked the thin boarder at the breakfast table.

"Cause it can't be shut up, I suppose," suggested a married man.

"Not right."

"Napa."

"We'll give it up!" came the chorus.

"Cause you can't keep a good one down all the time."—Tonkers Statesman.

HEAD OF THE FLOCK.

Farmers Are Nowadays Alive to the Necessity of Buying Good Rams.

The advance in agricultural education in the past few years is evidenced in no surer way than in the demand each year for better rams to head the flocks. It was but a very few years ago when any sort of a sheep, just so he was a ram, was good enough. The ruling price paid by the farmers for rams was $5 to $10. At present $15 is a very common price.

and even $25 is not an uncommon price for the farmer to pay for a ram that is really able to improve the flock. In purchasing a ram it is best to see him "on his own grounds"—to see the place where he was raised, the sheep he was reared from and how he and all the other sheep are handled. Good sheep often deteriorate when they are taken home and put under what are to them adverse conditions. The buyer becomes discouraged and looks upon the seller as a swindler when a little study of the methods of handling the ram, and a not too sudden change in "rose" methods would have saved the sheep for good service and would not have discouraged the seller in his attempt to improve his flock.

If it is impossible to go personally and select a ram on account of the distance or for any other reason a perfectly safe way to purchase, provided the buyer knows what he wants, is by mail order. If the kind of sheep wanted is clearly defined and the price stated to an honest breeder—and honest breeders are not hard to find—there need be no fear but that the ram supplied will be worth every cent of the money paid. The reputable breeder will not take the chance of hurting his reputation by sending out a ram not worth the price paid. If he hasn't the sheep asked for he will write and say so and will not attempt to fill the order from other sources. The county and state fairs are poor places to buy breeding stock of any kind. The stock at such an exhibition is always under unusual and advantageous conditions. The man who is not an expert judge is unconsciously misled by the high standard of all stock and often gets false impressions of the value of a breed or of individuals of a breed. The poorest sheep are at home. It is impossible to tell how much those present have been pampered. Disappointment and loss of money will often be saved by a personal selection of the ram on the farm where he was raised.

NEW CATTLE FEED.

A Grain Which is Drought Resisting Discovered on Experimental Farm in Wyoming.

According to Professor B. C. Buffum, formerly of the Colorado Agricultural college and now in charge of the World experimental farm in the Big Horn basin, Wyoming, a new cattle feeding grain has been developed at the Wyoming farm after four years' experimenting.

The grain, which is a cross between the Russian spelt and American wheat, is called "cancer" and is drought resistant, adapted to irrigated or arid soil and capable of giving a yield of from 90 to 100 bushels to the acre.

Roots For Swine.

Roots have been fed to hogs experimentally by different experiment stations, notably by the Utah, Ohio and Indiana stations and also by the central experiment farm of Canada. In most of these experiments there was quite a percentage gained by the feeding of roots. In compiling some of the feeding records Professor Henry shows that 615 pounds of roots will save 100 pounds of grain. It must be kept in mind that roots should not be fed in any very large way, for the reason that they produce a watery carcass. Rutabagas or one large mangold a day are plenty of this kind of food. The hog naturally demands a concentrated diet, and of course roots are just the opposite of being concentrated.

Method of Preventing Fence Flying.

Here is a novel way for preventing fence flying: Take good strong string and tie a knot about three inches from the end nearest the knot and put it around the tip end of the wing, and tie a slipknot below the knot in the string, so it cannot pull too tight on the wing. Then run the other end of the string under the other wing and have it fast loose enough so that the chicken can keep its wings folded naturally and tie the same as the other end. After it has been on about six weeks the string may be removed, and your chicken will stay in just as though it had never flown over a fence.

LIGHTNING PROTECTION.

Careful Study of Problems Involved Pursued at Washington.

In one of the laboratories of the George Washington university in Washington stand the models from which a new system of protection from lightning has just been adopted for all the buildings and chimneys in the various yards of the United States navy. Perhaps no better place for playing with lightning after the sober, serious scientific fashion exists anywhere. Typical among the models is a miniature brick chimney about two feet high and four inches in diameter, bearing four little metal rods whose most noticeable peculiarity is that they are not insulated from the chimney by any of the ordinary glass devices, but are so constructed as to allow whatever electricity is induced on the broad surface of the chimney to drain off, instead of remaining there to disintegrate the brickwork should a disruptive discharge occur.

A copper "spider" spread across the top of the chimney—a radiating network of wires connected with the vertical rods—is another special feature. Down the interior of this toy shaft, and the case applies to the big, real stacks of industrial centers, no chance is offered the bolt overhead to pursue its way dealing death and destruction to the engine and boiler rooms about the base.

That's a vital consideration, also. When a chimney is daily pouring heavenward a column of smoke and other products of combustion, including not a little water vapor, which at ways accompanies combustion of fuel, there is likelihood that in some thunderstorm a swift discharge from above may send an alternating current of incredible swift vibration down the long bore of the shaft.

Down the Hot Air Conductor.

The products of combustion rising from the chimney furnish a pathway which the lightning often prefers to the more carefully prepared system of vertical conductors. Dr. Hopkins' plan of a metal "spider" over the chimney top prevents such an occurrence.

Many a valuable stack, supposed to be protected from the electrical hazards by a system of exterior rods, has been badly damaged through the failure of its insulator to appreciate that a gaseous conductor reaches much higher, and is often a better conductor than the rods, and may therefore serve as the chief channel along which the opposing electricities of sky and earth rush to meet each other. On the model in the George Washington university, if the feet of the spider are firmly attached to the ends of the vertical conductors, the descending discharge when it reaches the copper network will be sent harmlessly to earth outside the stack.

Testing this and other schemes of protection, Dr. N. Monroe Hopkins, assistant professor of chemistry in the university and electrical engineer of the United States navy, is able at any time to produce a miniature thunderstorm, one offering just such conditions as those in the midst of which the tall stacks of Uncle Sam's navy yards in many cities need to be protected from the assaults of Jupiter Pluvius.

With the electric discharges zig-zagging across two or three feet of air space, taking now one copper point and now another, while a dull glow about the extremities of the other rods which the lightning has not taken indicates that the surface of the shaft is draining properly and that therefore the brickwork is safe from disintegration, the experimenter has solved at least a few of the problems of the lightning conductor to his satisfaction, so that they may be applied practically to the protection of the government's valuable property.

THE REVIVAL OF ST. PAUL'S

"Can we do it?" he gasped.
 "Mr. Kelvin," said the pastor, "we must. This church is dying of dependence. I have studied the situation thoroughly, and that is what is the matter. When you lost heart for a moment after a series of misfortunes the task that should have been shared by all was whisked out of the way by an act of ill considered negligence. Understand me, I will not bear one word against Mrs. Harwood. She meant well. But I insist that America is not the place for this sort of thing. It is a place where people act for themselves and bear their own burdens. So must we live here in this land of perish, sons first and bodies after-ward. We hear too much of great gifts. The whole community is becoming an object of charity. We stand with waiting palms like lackeys. But my face shall be against this in the small circle where I have influence. Let us get together, we who own this church, and pay for it. Now, at this good time of year, this season of spiritual rebirth, will you join with me and draw your friends after you to make our church live again?"
 The two men clasped hands in silence.

At the meeting, which was called at the pastor's request, there were but two notable men who were missed. One of them was known to be ill, and the other was his physician.

"I am sitting with Brother Barnes," wrote the latter in a note which was read at the meeting, "as the only sure way of keeping him in bed, where he belongs. Otherwise he would certainly be with you. Upon the money question, put us down as follows," and the sums named were liberal. Within an hour the amount required was subscribed. Whenever Mrs. Harwood's name was mentioned it was with respect and gratitude. She had borne the burden for a time. It was now the turn of others.

Winslow walked home with Kelvin when all was over. The stationer was in high spirits, and he chuckled like one who has heard a good joke.
 "To think," he burst forth at last, "that you came here as a fashionable minister! Why, I hardly thought I'd ever come to know you."
 The young pastor took off his hat and looked upward for a moment to the sky.
 "Do you know me?" he asked suddenly. "Do you know me thoroughly and like me well—well enough to let me steal the jewel from your house if I can and carry it to mine?"
 "You mean"—
 "Annie."
 Kelvin drew a deep breath.
 "Well," said he, "I'd be a long time waiting for a better man."

THE TALE OF WONDROUS LOVE

By THEODORE H. BOICE.
 Down through the cycles hoar with age,
 Through all the years of storied time,
 Has come the tale of wondrous love
 Shown forth in sacrifice sublime—
 The story of the Christ who came
 And for a time grief's burdens bore,
 Who felt the bitterness of death
 And rose to live forevermore.
 He came to lift a fallen race
 Borne down by sin and grief and care
 He opened wide the door of hope
 For those who groped in dark despair
 He wiped away the mourner's tears
 And gave them eyes of faith to see
 The pearly mansions for them reared
 And theirs for all eternity.
 For sinful man he gave up life,
 And on the shameful cross he died,
 The crowning sacrifice of love
 Through ages to be glorified.
 He broke the seal and bonds of death
 And rose in triumph from the grave.
 He reigns again as King of kings
 And welcomes those he came to save.
 And so with eyes of faith we look Beyond the shadows of the tomb
 And see the pearly mansions gleam
 Beyond the intervening gloom.
 We see the dear ones who have crossed
 The vale and reached the heavenly goal,
 And thought of fond remembrance there
 Is giving comfort to the soul.
 Rejoice, and let all hearts be glad!
 Let sorrow's tears be wiped away,
 Join in hosannas to the Lord,
 Who rose from night to endless day.
 For he has triumphed over death,
 And he has opened wide the door
 To that bright realm of endless life,
 Where loved ones meet to part no more.

AMERICA'S EASTER DAY.

At no other period in its eventful history has the American nation approached the Easter holiday under conditions conducive to so large a measure of national gratitude as at present. Just now more than ever the United States is emphatically the "good will" nation of the world, the nation that stands far more distinctly than any other for international peace, amity and worldwide fraternity. In almost every department of human industry, in almost every avenue of trade and commerce, at home and abroad, the year has witnessed advancement and enlargement such as have not been known before. It has been a record breaking year in the volume of our exports, in the production of our mines, in the extension of our banking interests, in the development of our railroads and the settlement of our public lands. It has been an ever memorable year also in the history of American philanthropy and beneficence, with gifts for educational purposes. These things should cause us to turn with renewed hope, energy and enthusiasm to the great task of making the American republic more truly than ever the exponent of popular rights and liberties and the leader of the world in the better ways of peace and all the nobler achievements of the highest civilization.

LEGEND OF THE EASTER LILY

No flower has been more honored in song or story than the imperial lily. Its purity and its stately bearing have caused it to be chosen as the symbol of divinity and the badge of kings.

Although in this country we understand by the word lily the lily of the valley, the stately calla or the wonderful harrissil or Easter lily, these are only three varieties of a very great family, members of which are found in all quarters of the earth. Everywhere the lily has been honored and held a sacred flower, whether by the banks of the storied Nile or Ganges, where, as the lotus, it received honors little short of those accorded to holily, or in heathen Greece, where it was consecrated to Juno, the spotless and imperious queen of Olympus, or later in Christian countries, where the flower was dedicated to the Virgin Mary. No great artist when he painted the Holy Mother ever forgot to place near her the flower that was the symbol of her heavenly rank. It is also in art the symbol of saints, martyrs and angels.

The Easter lily is a native of the east. Those now cultivated in Bermuda and popularly known as the Ber-

It happened that the Flowery Kingdom was ruled by the Emperor Chow, a monarch universally feared and hated. No one could depend on his favor, and at last his best friend, the prime minister, Li Chung, began to tremble for his life.

Knowing well the bloodthirsty nature of the emperor, Li Chung devised a plan to escape from his all-omnipotent hundred young men and maidens sailed was the very finest that China afforded. The larder was filled with dainties, and every provision was made that the victims should be kept in first class condition until the time for the sacrifice. The best tomtom musicians in the kingdom were loaned for the voyage to charm the ears of the passengers with sweet sounds. But in vain the artists tried their most pleasing compositions; nobody would sing or dance, while the prevalence of red eyes indicated that a good deal of weeping was going on.

When they were far from China, however, Li Chung took the passengers under his confidence. He had not intended to kill them at all; instead they were going to the most beautiful island in the world, where they would settle and where they would live happily ever afterward, far from the power of the wicked Chow.

This island was Japan, and here they did settle. But they had brought with them great quantities of lily bulbs for food. Nobody had been able to eat much on shipboard, and quantities of these bulbs were left over. They were planted, and in the balmy climate of the Flowery Kingdom they attained a beauty unknown in China.

Years later some Europeans discovered the beauty of this flower, imported it into their own countries and called it the Lillium longiflorum. But an American named Harris was probably the first to discover the flower and make it popular in two continents now called the Lillium harrissil.

Where the Lilies Grow. In the Bermudas, where the beautiful flowers grow, are a group of islands about 700 miles from New York and about 500 miles almost due east from Hatteras, on the Carolina coast. The group is almost fifteen miles long, averaging two and one-half miles in width, and comprises in all about 305 islands, some of them being very small and insignificant and others being of coral formation. The islands are inhabited.

METHODIST PROTESTANT

Ministers. Interest in Appointments. Two Churches Crowded to Hear List Read.

Anxious to learn what changes had been made in the various charges of the Maryland Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, which concluded its eighty-third session at Federalburg, Md., Tuesday night, crowds began to assemble in front of the church at 6 o'clock and long before the time for service the spacious building was filled to overflowing. The appointments were announced simultaneously in both the Methodist Protestant Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, where the overflow had been accommodated. While there were no changes in the larger and more important pastorate, the total number amounted to 33.

Five Changes in Baltimore.

There were five changes in Baltimore pastorate—Rev. C. P. Newlin comes to Hampden, Rev. C. C. Day to Patuxent, Rev. W. E. Ewell to Laurelville, Rev. W. E. Grove to Waverly, Rev. Ronald Taylor to Wilton Heights, Rev. J. W. Brown to Evergreen and Rev. W. F. Wright to Violetville.

While the general belief among the delegates was that there would not be many changes due to the fact that the president had been re-elected, nevertheless, the tension grew very strained when Dr. Sheridan left Dr. Little on three occasions to run the conference while he was closeted with delegates. The announcement of the few changes caused a general sigh of relief to escape the assembly, and when it was seen that the changes were confined mostly to the smaller charges the relaxation in the tension was pronounced. It is understood that the new pastors will take charge of their status after Easter.

Adjournment for Election.

Conference adjourned temporarily while the Church Extension Society

STRONG ARGUMENTS FOR THE SHARPTOWN BRIDGE

As The Matter Comes Up To The United States Government For Decision—Much Needed Improvement.

The following is a brief outline of argument made by Senator D. Price, of Wicomico County, Maryland, representing the citizens and officials of Sharptown, and the Business Men's Association of Salisbury, Md., in favor of the proposed bridge across the Nanticoke River at Sharptown, Md., as applied for by the Maryland State Roads Commission.

In the matter of the application made by the Maryland State Road Commission for the proposed bridge over the Nanticoke River, at Sharptown, Md., I have the honor of presenting a petition from the town of Sharptown, through their town officials, and also resolutions from the Business Men's Association of Salisbury, Maryland, both of which are attached hereto, and which set forth the necessity and reasons for the proposed bridge; and on behalf of these petitioners I desire to present briefly and in more detail, the reasons therefor.

In the first place the citizens of that section of Maryland are deprived of Railroad facilities, and notwithstanding their spirit of progressiveness, which strongly prevails, have made unsuccessful efforts in that regard for many years, they have fought for a bridge for years, both as a joint County project and as a State proposition, but the two counties which it is proposed to connect have felt the scheme was too expensive to undertake without State aid.

At last the sentiment for good roads which has become nation-wide, took root in Maryland, and at the session of the Legislature of this State in the year, nineteen hundred and eight, a movement was inaugurated for a system of improved highways to be constructed and maintained at the expense of the State.

A commission was formed and a loan of five million of dollars was authorized to start this movement.

This commission immediately began the survey of a system of roads covering every County of the State, and all leading, naturally to the great City of Baltimore.

Actual work was begun on this road system in the year nineteen hundred and nine.

At the Legislative session of the year nineteen hundred and ten, there was pointed out a weakness in this chain for roads on account of the geographical peculiarities of Maryland, which has, running East and West from the Chesapeake Bay a system of Rivers from one end of the State to the other, and which interrupted and made defective to a large degree the utility and benefits which the people hoped to derive from their State system of roads.

Hence in order to correct this defect and increase these benefits an additional loan of one million dollars was authorized to build bridges wherever needed, and in this Bridge Law there was particularly mentioned and specified as of special importance, a bridge over the Susquehanna at Copowingo, and the one at Sharptown over the Nanticoke, as these were the two principal barriers between the "Eastern Shore" and Baltimore, and the western section of the State.

Accordingly the State Roads Commission, realizing the importance and necessity for immediate action have prepared the plans for this proposed bridge—which are on file in this office—and made formal application to this Department for approval.

As to the plans—which seem to the mind of laymen, to be adequate and more than adequate for the protection of navigation—I shall have little to say as Mr. Crosby, the Chief Engineer of the State Roads Commission is present, and I am sure, prepared to defend them from an engineering standpoint. I wish however to call attention to the width of the openings as shown in these plans which are seventy five feet each; and I have been informed that the largest sidewheel steamers that traverse the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries are only fifty three feet, which leaves a margin of twenty two feet in the clear, and I do not believe the most prejudiced mind will contend that such a width is insufficient.

The majority of craft that traverses this River could go through, the openings of this bridge three or four abreast. Besides I am informed that the reach on which this bridge is proposed to be located has practically a straight channel for almost a half mile on each side of the bridge, eliminating the risks from cross currents, and as I understand, from those in charge of this project, the plans of the bridge as proposed to be located, while not absolutely straight as to the banks on either, is practically straight across the channel, so that it does seem to us that the Maryland Road Commission has done everything that could reasonably be required to preserve the rights of navigation.

At the next session of our Legislature an additional loan will be asked for to complete this great system of roads and bridges, and it is inconceivable that the War Department will hold up such a great state wide, and even nation wide scheme and render it partially ineffective because of a few protests which seem to us as being devoid of merit.

The Needs.

Second; As to the necessity for this proposed bridge, the fact that the roads commission in surveying this system of roads selected this route, only serves to emphasize the necessity for a bridge at this point.

As stated before, there are no Railroad facilities, and the only means of travel is by County Roads and across ferries, and it would be a hardship after these people have been fighting for two or three generations for some relief, to turn down this project and take away the first real hope that has taken possession of them, and consign them to an antiquated ferry transportation for all time to come.

Sharptown situated on the south side of the Nanticoke River, has about eight hundred inhabitants, is a live bustling little place; has several manufacturing enterprises which employ all their own people and those of the country immediately surrounding it, and besides many of the people of Dorchester County across the river, and who come there daily and cross the ferry to reach their daily occupations.

In times of storm it has frequently happened that these people were unable to cross the river to earn their daily bread, and a large population in the rural section of Dorchester County who trade at Sharptown are frequently unable to get across to purchase supplies for their families and dispose of their products, so risky is the mode of travel that it has happened several times in the past that travelers have lost their teams and some even their lives.

In this enlightened age ferries and toll gates should be relegated to the ash heap and wherever possible give way to more modern methods, and I am glad to say this is rapidly coming to pass.

The travel across the ferry at this point is enormous. From the best information I can obtain I learn that the average for years past has been about one hundred vehicles, including automobiles, and one hundred and fifty people daily, and from information that I have been able to gather I believe if a bridge was constructed, the travel would be double these figures.

To my own knowledge—while there is a State road coming down either side of the River at this point—many automobile tourists and other go many miles out of their way in going up and down the Peninsula to avoid crossing this ferry.

By reference to the map of this territory, it will be seen that there is no bridge from Seaford, Delaware, to the mouth of the Nanticoke River, except a Railroad bridge at Vienna, ten miles below Sharptown, and in all this great distance of forty miles only ferries at Vienna and Sharptown and Woodland. Some of the people of Seaford who are the protestants against this bridge would deny the people of Dorchester and Wicomico Counties and of Sharptown rights and modern conveniences which they themselves enjoy.

At the town of Seaford there is a Railroad bridge with a draw only sixty feet wide and a large part of their shipping is above this bridge, and yet we have heard no complaint as to the interference with navigation.

Above this bridge a few hundred yards is a drive bridge and were it not for this the people of Seaford would be in a measure as the people of Sharptown now are; and while they enjoy these conveniences themselves it does seem unreasonable to protest against their neighbors enjoying the same conveniences and blessings.

Again it is contended by these protestants that another bridge on the Nanticoke River will operate against their town by causing them to pay increased freight rates. This contention it seems to us is trivial to receive serious consideration.

Alleged trouble with the draw in the Railroad bridge at Vienna is cited as an evidence that trouble would arise in connection with the proposed Sharptown bridge, when as a matter of fact the openings at Vienna are sixty feet, and what little trouble that has arisen there, has been due to the position of the bridge across the channel and not to the width of the proposed Sharptown bridge, both as to the width of openings and plan of location.

One of the strongest arguments contradictory of the contention of these protestants of Seaford, that an additional bridge on the Nanticoke River will operate against the shipping interests of that town, is the position of the people of the town of Laurel, Del-

DIAMOND STATE PAYS

Damages—Mr. Disharoon Settles Case of Horse Drowning in 1910.

The suit of Asariah P. Disharoon, of near Fruitland, against the Diamond State Telephone Company has been settled. The Telephone Company paying Mr. Disharoon what he was asking, payment for horse and buggy. This case resulted from the accident on April 4, 1910, when a motor cycle ridden by an employee of the Company passed Mr. Disharoon's team badly frightening it. Owing to an accident to the motor cycle Mr. Disharoon overtook the machine and in spite of his warning to the contrary the cycle passed him a second time, this time making his horse unmanageable. The team dashed down Camden Avenue and plunged into the river, Mr. Disharoon being thrown out and narrowly escaping with his life. The carriage striking a telephone pole on the curve, throwing him out is all that probably saved his life.

The settlement was made through F. Grant Goslee, who was acting as Mr. Disharoon's attorney in the matter.

Strong Delegation Sent.

A strong delegation from Salisbury was present at the hearing this week in Baltimore in reference to the proposed bridge across the Nanticoke at Sharptown. This delegation composed of the following gentlemen, Messrs. Jesse D. Price, M. V. Brington, W. M. Cooper, C. R. Disharoon, P. S. Shockey, J. D. Williams, B. E. Kennerly, C. E. Harper, J. W. Cookran, Wm. P. Jackson, W. B. Miller, represented the Business Men's Association of this city and took up a strong set of resolutions adopted by the Association. A strong delegation was also sent by Sharptown, which place following its usual habit has shown that it believes in fighting for what it wants. It is not believed that the protest against the bridge will amount to much.

aware, whose shipping interests are in excess of those of Seaford, who recognize the convenience and the necessity for a bridge at Sharptown, and are not only willing for these people to have what they need and desire but have come here with petitions from their leading citizens in favor of this proposed bridge, saying that it will not affect their interests.

If this bridge will not affect the business and shipping interests of Laurel—which sustains the same relation to this bridge as Seaford being situated on one of the prongs of the Nanticoke—I ask in all fairness how can it affect Seaford?

In view of the flimsy reasons or excuses which are offered in opposition to this bridge, and however much we regret the necessity of questioning the motives of those behind this opposition, we cannot escape the conviction that the chief reason for such opposition is based upon the desire for local commercial advantages, which while it may be a legitimate ambition of a community or a citizen under ordinary conditions such a wish should have no place in the consideration of a broad question of this character nor in its determination, and certainly borders on selfishness of the roughest character when the rights of others are involved.

In behalf of these Committees I present these facts, believing that your Department will see the justice of our claims and pass favorably upon the application.

HOW I WAS CURED OF SCROFULA

"I was in a very bad condition with scrofulous swellings round my neck. It started with a bunch on the side of my neck and it kept growing until the whole side of my face was swollen.

"I had tried everything in the shape of medicines for five years. I had gone under an operation in one of the hospitals in Boston and had them cut out. I had thirty little tubular glands taken from back of my ear down my shoulder. After the cuts healed over they started to come again and worse than before.

"After suffering so much I thought I would try Pinkham's Blood Purifier and before I had taken two bottles there was a great change in the swellings. I continued its use and to-day I am a well woman. Every word of this is true.

"I cannot speak too highly in praise of Pinkham's Blood Purifier."

—Mrs. W. H. HAYNES, 58 Adams Avenue, Everett, Mass.

The tendency to Scrofula seems to be hereditary and it is hard to overcome. It may lie dormant for years, and then break out anew from time to time.

The only known remedy for Scrofula is to keep the blood pure and rich by the use of a good blood purifier. It may require long treatment, but Mrs. Haynes found that Pinkham's Blood Purifier cured her of this dreadful disease, after all other means had failed.

Pinkham's Blood Purifier is equally as good for all diseases emanating from impure, impoverished blood, and is the best Spring medicine known. People will find the Blood Purifier just as reliable a remedy as the women of the world have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Unequalled—satisfying and dependable.

STORY OF THE CLEARER VISION

AN EASTER INCIDENT

It was Easter Sunday. The streets were thronged with well dressed people on their way to church, and the spring air was full of the joyous sound of bells.

"What a hollow mockery!" thought one sad faced woman as she stood amid the worshippers in the crowded transept. The sun shone dully through the painted windows, and the lilacs sprang away from the pillars they enwreathed as though they yearned toward its warmth and radiance. The organ tones trembled through the scented gloom and then rose to a crescendo of glad, triumphant strains.

The pastor stretched out his hands toward the kneeling flock and spoke of the butterfly and the chrysalis, the marvel of revivified and blossoming earth. Let his words were meaningless, cold and empty in the ears of the sad, black robed woman who sought in vain for consolation. She looked longingly at the happy, prosperous people about her.

Were they indeed those mansions of God of which the rector spoke? Had these people found them? Why, then, were they barred to her? Ah, in her bitterness she doubted if she really cared for such joys. All she yearned for was the one tender, human smile which they told her was forever banished. Her heart rose up in a spasms of rebellion. It could not be true that anything so good was irrevocably gone.

"Christ is risen—He is risen from the dead!" sang the choir. But the sad and lonely woman turned and left the church.

That afternoon she walked along country roads, through the delicious odors of the spring filled air. As she trod the brown meadows the sky was aglow with the gilding gold of the sunshine, and the wind bore to her the scent of fresh hyacinths.

Still she wandered on, unheeding, absorbed in the bitterness of her own heart, until she saw before her a country churchyard, where a woman, black robed like herself, bent sobbing above a new made grave. Drawn by some intangible chord of sympathy, she walked over to where the other knelt at the tomb.

"It is Easter," said the second woman, mechanically lifting her heavy eyes, "and he is dead." A sudden comprehension came to her glance. She reached out her hand and touched the stranger's gown. "You understand!" she cried. "You understand!"

"Yes, I understand," answered the first woman monotonously. "Your story is also mine. He is dead."

"They are gone from us forever," cried the woman at the grave, with a burst of wild weeping. "Ah, for one sign of immortality, for one hope, one dream that it is not forever—that they but sleep to live again!"

Aid then for both these sorrowing souls was wrought a miracle. Life for the instant threw aside its mask of death and revealed itself in its serene majesty of reality. The sky became more vivid and opaline, the wind blew more freshly, bearing a thousand accents; hepaticas were blooming at their feet; a bird soared, singing, from the ground.

For the moment they seemed to feel the swirl of the earth on its axis, the stars revolving in their spheres, the mighty heave of the great oceans of life and knew that there was nothing in time nor space nor existence but change, motion and vitality.

In that one brief moment they felt and knew the presence of their dead, infinitely near and comforting and were assured beyond all doubt that theirs was—

The freer step, the fuller breath, the wide horizon's grander view. The sense of life that knows no death, the life that makes all things new.

And then the vision passed, the scenes fell upon their eyes, their ears once more grew dull, and yet its memory remained. They stood together in the world as they had known it, alone, but nevermore desolate.

Back in old Egypt, long before the Christian era, eggs were worshipped as the symbol of nature rousing from the sleep of the winter months, and in accordance with this worship each spring Egyptian artists would vie with each other in embellishing ostrich eggs with rare designs, gorgeous in color and unique in design. So decorated the eggs were fitting gifts for royalty itself.

PATIENCE.

In a recent editorial this paper took occasion to advise patience in the matter of the assessment now under way, and at the same time urged those in charge of the work to hurry it on as fast as was compatible with thoroughness and fairness. The Board of County Commissioners acting as a Board of Review is carefully going over the work of the assessors, and attempting as far as possible to make the assessment fair to all. An effort is being made this time to give all a square deal, and those who feel aggrieved at the valuation placed upon their property should appear before this body and give their reasons why a change should be made.

It is the duty of this body to raise or lower valuations whenever in their judgment either is necessary in order to place every one upon the same footing. All complaints should be made to this body, and all in presenting their case should have regard for the valuation placed upon like property situated. It matters but little after all whether the valuation is too low or too high provided that all are placed upon exactly the same basis.

A complaint based on inequality should, and doubtless will, receive far more consideration than one based merely on the statements of the value of property itself.

BALTIMORE'S POLICE TRIAL.

It is very evident to all that the trial of the Police Board of Baltimore before Gov. Crothers is not going to result in any advantage to the City or to the Democratic party. Whether wrong or right the impression has been made that the Governor's motives in bringing to trial this Board are not as disinterested as they are given out to be, and the fact that the people generally are opposed to the bringing of the Police in the game of politics has much to do with the way this trial is being received by the people not only of Baltimore City but throughout the State generally. While the Governor may be entirely sincere in his desire to better police conditions in Baltimore city but little good can be done by the continuation of the present trial which is regarded as a farce everywhere. If he should render a decision finding the members of the Board guilty of the charges preferred against, his verdict will be challenged and criticized on the ground of bias on his part. In fact there is no getting around the matter, the trial now going on is generally regarded as persecution rather than an investigation, and the sooner it is over and forgotten the better it will be for the city and the party.

It is believed by many close students of politics that the result of the recent primaries in Baltimore was to a considerable extent influenced by the trial now going on and to some extent shows the feeling of the voters of Baltimore on this and other matters.
Mahool is generally acknowledged to be a good clean man who has made good as Mayor and his recent defeat is generally regarded as being a slap at his backers and supporters rather than at himself.

Mrs. Margaret A. Cooper.

The many friends of Mrs. Margaret
A. Cooper were shocked to learn of her death on Friday morning. Mrs.
Cooper had been sick for about ten days before her death, suffering with a severe attack of pneumonia. She was the widow of the late Geo. W.
M. Cooper, whom she survived 31 years.

Mrs. Cooper was 58 years of age last August. There are few in this city who have so many friends and well wishers as had Mrs. Cooper.
These were drawn to her by the fine character, lovable disposition and kind heart. All that knew her will feel her death that they have met with a personal loss.

The funeral services will be held in the Ashbury M. E. Church on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. T. E.
Marshall. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Alice Smith and Mrs. E.
W. Smith and three brothers, Messrs.
Lafayette, William and Wallace
Cooper.

wear shown in Salisbury at their

Short Crop of Cow Peas Prices Are Going Up!

The enormous demand for Cow Peas last year carried the price very high, and as the crop is very short and the acreage is rapidly extending, there are many indications which point to much higher prices as the sowing season approaches.

Whip-poor-will Cow Peas. The Whip-poor-will are generally preferred in the Central and Southern States. They are bush form, early maturing and especially desirable for Peas.

New Era Cow Peas. New Era are a little earlier and make more vine than the Whip-poor-will.

Wonderfuls, Clays and Mixed Cow Peas. For Hay, the Wonderfuls or the Mixed Cow Peas are more productive. They should be planted with an occasional grain of Corn, Sorghum Seed, Kaffir Corn, etc., which will prevent the vines from getting damaged by coming in contact with the ground.

Black Cow Peas. Black Cow Peas are a little earlier in maturing than Clays; they make a good growth of vines, are exceptionally good for medium or poor land, and will stand almost any amount of wet weather without injury.

MEMBER—Boligiano's Cow Peas are unquestionably the best. If your Local Merchant will not supply Boligiano's Cow Peas, write us direct and we will tell you where you can get them.

FREE. Send us 5 cents in stamps to pay postage and mention this paper, and we will send you free a 2 1/2 package of "My Maryland" Tomato Seed, also our 1911 Catalogue of Seeds and our 1911 Poultry Supply Catalogue.

A REMARKABLE SERMON

Pastor Russell's Discourse on the True Church, Past, Present and Future.

London, April 9.—Agala Pastor Russell had a most intelligent and attentive audience, amongst whom were many ministers of all denominations. His text was "The Church of the First-born, whose names are written in heaven" (Hebrews xii, 23).

He urged that the subject be approached prayerfully and honestly—that all who see that there was but one Church in the beginning, established by the Redeemer, see also that there will be but the one Church in the end, the Church Triumphant in glory, "the Bride, the Lamb's Wife." For the same reason that there have been doctrines many amongst the followers of Jesus, there have been churches many, as representing those doctrines.

As last Sunday the question was, "What is the True Gospel?" and he found that true Gospel more or less scattered in all the various creeds, and none of them the pure and unadulterated Gospel, so tonight we should be prepared to find that the one true Church of Christ for the past eighteen centuries has been scattered here and there amongst various denominations, and that not one of these denominations is the true Church. Not one of them can claim to contain all the "wheat" and none of the "tares." Not one of them can claim to contain all the "saints" and no hypocrites. The time was when the various divisions of the Christian Church severally laid claim to being the one and only Church. But that time has passed, so far as the people are concerned, and has passed so far as the majority of the clergy are concerned.

"That They All May Be One." I am not here to charge intentional wrong-doing on the part of any of the divisions of the Christian Church, said Pastor Russell. On the contrary, I shall assume that the members of the various creeds were sincere, honest men; and that the original followers of those creeds were sincere, and that a few today may be equally sincere. I shall assume, however, that the majority of Christians, ministers and laymen, realize that the sectarian fences are largely composed of misconceptions of the Divine Word and Plan and that the causes which originally led to Church divisions have considerably disappeared. If we can now recognize one true Gospel we may all reunite, in harmony with our Master's prayer, that "All may be one, as Thou Father, and I am one."

I remind you again of the simplicity of this Gospel which recognizes the broad outlines of the Divine Plan and allows each individual to see as many of the finer lines of the same as his spiritual development will permit. On that broad basis of Christian union the early Christians were one and reprobated any division. St. Paul rebuked those who said, "I am of Paul; I am of Apollus; I am of Peter" (1 Corinthians i, 12). As only Christ died for us all, He alone must be recognized as our Savior. As He is the Head of the Church and the only Head, He only must be recognized. As all ye are brethren, so the class distinction as between clergy and laity must be abrogated that we all may be one Church with one Lord, one Faith and one Baptism and one God and Father over all (Ephesians iv, 6).

"Babylon the Great, the Mother of Harlots." How the divided Church, with clashing creeds, appears to the Almighty. He tells us, calling it Babylon—which signifies confusion. And who can deny the appropriateness of the name? In times past Catholics have applied this name to the Protestant sects, and the Protestants in turn have applied it to the Church of Rome. But when we come to examine the Scriptures on the subject they seem to include all—the Church of Rome being represented as the mother Church and the various Protestant Churches as her daughters. The charge of harlotry which the Lord makes against mother and daughters must be acknowledged, although with some this harlotry has been more open and pronounced than with others.

Using the Jewish marriage ceremony as the basis of the figure, all Christians, as members of the true Church, are declared to be "espoused to one husband, which is Christ" (II Corinthians xi, 2). Under the Jewish custom the espousal brought the woman under the same obligation of chastity as though the marriage had taken place. Thus the Church, by her vow to her Lord, is obligated to the full, although the marriage with the Heavenly Bridegroom will not take place until His Second Advent and the change of the espoused from earthly to heavenly conditions, for "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God" (Revelation xiv, 7; John xiv, 3; I Cor. xv, 50). Spiritual harlotry is the condition in which the espoused of the Lord become affiliated with and joined to the world—thus the Church of Rome became affiliated with or united to the civil government of Rome; and when the Roman Empire went to pieces the Papal Church entered into covenant relationship with various divisions of the civil government; and some of these paramours she still has, while others have left her. France is gone, Portugal also, and Italy, Spain is moody; Austro-Hungary is her chief reliance at the present time. She is well treated in America, but not joined to the American Government. She is well entertained and given every liberty in Germany and by many in Great Britain, but these countries are not her paramours.

"Like Mother, Like Daughters." The Greek Church is joined to the Russian Government; the Church of England to the British Government. The Lutheran Church is married to several European governments. Others of our Protestant Churches, having no opportunity for affiliation with earthly governments, have become united to worldly systems, worldly organizations of their own, in which, as a rule, wealth, mammon, sits at the head of the table. "Like mother, like daughters" is an old saying. Instead of charging this whole matter upon others, let us each recognize and take to heart our own share, for which we are responsible.

As the doctrinal errors which caused our divisions gradually developed during a long period of darkness, so our development along the lines of spiritual harlotry were gradual. It is not until we reach the fact which is undeniable, but so sincerely repent of the wrong condition and renounce it. Coming back to the one Lord, so doing He will graciously receive us and thenceforth His name alone will be quite sufficient. We will no longer need to style ourselves Roman Christians, English Christians, Lutheran Christians, Calvinistic Christians—but all will be members of the one true Church, which we now deplore. As the name Christian was sufficient for the early Church it is sufficient today for all heartily glad to abandon errors of the past and to come together as the one "Church of the Living God."

As for the one baptism, let us concede what the Scriptures claim and declare, namely, that the water immersion is merely a symbol or picture of the burial of the individual's self and incarnation into the life of Christ in fellowship with our Lord's self-renounced, even unto death. Thus all of the consecrated, of whatever denomination, can be recognized as members of the one true Church if they are dead with Christ to the world, His hopes and aims—buried with Him by baptism into His death, which death to the flesh (accepted by the Father) constitutes us members of the one Body of Christ, the true Church. If thus baptized into His death, we shall share also in His resurrection, says the Apostle (Romans vi, 4, 5).

The Church in the Wilderness. Is it asked, Where has the true Church been during all the eighteen centuries since the Apostles died? We answer that the Scriptures picture her as going into the wilderness covered, out of public view, for a hundred, and sixty years of this time. As pride, pomp, arrogance and error came into prominence, meekness, gentleness, love, simplicity, gradually retired. Through the long period of the "dark ages" no history of the true Church was written, just as no such history or record of her can be written today.

Since none of the various denominations is the true Church, therefore the history of none of these gives her history. As her members are Scripturally declared to contain not many, but many learned, therefore scattered amongst all the various creeds and churches, and some outside of them all, the espoused, chaste "virgin" of the Lord is not a prominent feature in Church affairs and is wholly unknown to the world. Indeed, these, while in the world, are not of it and usually are disesteemed. As the Master said, Marvel not if the world hate you. Ye know that it hated Me before it hated you. If ye were of the world, the world would love its own (I John iii, 13; John xv, 18, 19).—If, then, the spirit-begotten ones, constituting the Lord's betrothed virgin Church, are few, and if that few be scattered amongst the four hundred millions nominally styled Christendom, it follows that they are greatly in the minority and could have comparatively little influence today even if they were ever so determined and energetic. "The masses and classes rule." Faith, learning, sanctity, interest and zeal are better pleased with present conditions than with those which God's Word promises will be established when Messiah shall take to Himself His great power and begin His reign of righteousness.

"Come Out of Her, My People." In such a matter we need the wisdom which comes from above and take heed to the words which follow. The Lord's prayer must be our guide respecting His will concerning us—us who have by faith and consecration and begetting of the Holy Spirit been adopted into the One True Church "whose names are written in heaven." He prayed for us and not for the nominal mass, who are really parts of the world and thoroughly deceiving themselves in supposing that they have either part or lot in inheritance with the Church. Thank God that we now see that this does not mean that all except the saintly will be eternally tormented, but merely that none except the saintly, "copies of God's dear Son," can be members of the glorious "little flock," which God predestinated He would gather from every nation, people, kindred and tongue.

Of this faithful Church the Lord declares, "My sheep know My Voice and they follow Me." We hear His Voice assuring us that it is His will that we who belong to His chaste, espoused virgin class should all be one—and no longer be separated into sects and parties by creedal fences. The Lord declares that He gave Babylon time for repentance and she repented not. He declares that His sentence against the Babylonian system has already gone forth—that, from the Divine standpoint, already "Babylon is fallen! is fallen!" from Divine favor. What would we be the wish of our Beloved, to whom we are betrothed? What is His message to us? It is written, "Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues"—her troubles (Revelation xvii, 4). Since the nominal systems are not in that consecrated condition of heart, hungering and thirsting for the Truth and for righteousness and dead to self-will, therefore it is hopeless to think of their surrender of their interests, theories, etc. The very best they could think of doing would be to federate—not to agree not to war with each other. Far better would it be to have some theological battles and air their inconsistencies before the wise public of today. But whatever Babylon may do, mother and daughters, the course of the saintly few, the real Church, which is shortly to come from the wilderness, is waiting upon the arm of her Beloved Bridegroom, to

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. It kills five. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart-tissue, pneumonia, heart failure, apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys, and better health in that organ is always quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable blood-purifying properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

When all of the sanctified shall have been delivered, the flock of the Universe will strike the hour which closes the present Dispensation and opens the New; and "the salt of the earth" having been removed from Babylon, corruption will swiftly ensue. Flee out of Babylon! Deliver every man his soul! Let us use the light of "Present Truth" to the extent that such enjoys it. It will guide us in respect to all the affairs of life—into closer fellowship with God and the Savior and the brethren; and into separateness of mind and heart and service from Babylon. Let Babylon proceed with the good works in which she takes pride. The work of the saints, the Lord declares, is to "build one another up in the most holy faith," that eventually it may be said, "The marriage of the Lamb has come, for His Wife hath made herself ready."

League Essay Contest

The Anti-Saloon League Essay Contest, in which $1000 was offered in prize, $500 first prize, for the best four essays on "What It Costs Habitual Drunkenness to the Nation," closed. The time expired Saturday, April 1st, at midnight, and on Monday the headquarters Committee took charge of the seventy-six essays submitted and with such assistance as they may secure from specially qualified temperance leaders, will proceed promptly to examine the essays and make the awards. As the essays were allowed 5000 words, and the essays must be examined by a number of different men who can give only part of their time to the task, it will be at least a month and probably longer before the decision can be announced.

While the identity of the writers of the respective essays will not be known, even to the judges, until the winners have been picked, it is known that a number of men of note at writers and temperance workers have entered the contest. Ten different states are represented, Maryland leading in the number of contestants.

AIRSHIP LINE OVER ESTIES

A Business Proposition Between Boston and Washington. Company Formed.

An airship line between Boston, Mass., and Washington is a possibility of the next 18 months according to Charles J. Glidden, president of the Aerial Navigation Company of Boston, who is in Philadelphia looking for available sites for the landing of dirigible balloons and aeroplanes.

Mr. Glidden, who is famous as the founder of the Glidden automobile tours, declared yesterday that his company which was organized about two years ago, was prepared with the necessary capital to begin regular flights as soon as its engineers completed plans for airships that would convey 30 persons with safety and certainty. Experts employed by the company, he said, had been investigating and experimenting in Germany with Zeppelins and in France with other aeroplanes, and as a result of their studies negotiations are now pending with Melville Vaniman engineer of the Wellman expedition for the construction of a dirigible balloon. This dirigible will carry 30 persons several hundred miles says Mr. Glidden, at a speed which will require but 55 minutes between Philadelphia and New York.

If the first venture proves successful Mr. Glidden is convinced it will, the company is prepared to order a whole fleet of ships that will fly regularly between Boston and Washington, with principal landing stages at New York and Philadelphia. The route between Boston and New York, he said, has already been mapped out, and will follow the line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, with stops at Worcester, Springfield, Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport and New York.

"In 10 years if progress in the building and operation of aeroplanes and dirigibles continues at the present rate," said Mr. Glidden, "the only use for railroad lines between Philadelphia and New York will be for the carrying of heavy non-perishable freight for passengers and perishable stuff can save a full hour in transit by taking the air line."
"If a machine in France is capable of carrying 12 passengers across country there is no reason why it should not do the same in America, and it will be done in a surprisingly short space of time. We will not devote ourselves entirely to dirigibles. We will take up aeroplanes, too, and will prove their availability as means of travel. The passenger carrying aeroplanes of the future will not be like a train of cars, but will be one great car with room for several passengers. This is an sure to come as tomorrow morning."
Mr. Glidden will inspect more sites in the outskirts of Philadelphia and will next go to Baltimore.
It is probable that Wilmington will also be one of the stopping places.

MARDELA SPRINGS.

Spring is rather slow approaching us this year. I wonder why? Is she afraid the designs for the new Easter hats will scare her?

Our fishermen are meeting with much better success this week than last. Prices for shad are according to the scarcity of them.

Our High School will give a Comedy Drama in four acts, entitled, "Country Doctor," at the new School house next Friday and Saturday nights, April 21 and 22nd. We are anticipating a grand time. Come and enjoy yourselves with us.

Quite an exciting time was raised in town Tuesday night when a horse owned by Galston Dougherty broke loose and ran down the street of our town, having clear away of the street, it caused little damages.

We are glad to report Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Harriman returned to this charge for another year.

Misses Evelyn Walter and Mary Wilson, students at W. M. C., are spending the holidays at Mardela.

Miss Mary E. Wood, one of the teachers of Mardela School is spending the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Wood, of Easton.

A play entitled "The Country Doctor," will be given by local talent on Friday and Saturday nights, April 21st and 22nd at Mardela Grammar School. Proceeds for benefit of the school.

The Armour Brands are manufactured under the direct supervision of an experienced chemist, (who is thoroughly posted as to the plant food requirements of the different crops,) and are manufactured from a combination of the best fertilizer materials, such as Nitrate of Soda, Bone Meal Dried Blood, Animal Tankage and Acid Phosphate, and high grade Potash Salts, thus giving a plant food that will insure a steady feeding of your crops from the beginning through to maturity.

LARGEST

CARRIAGE, WAGON & HARNESS DEALER

...1911...

TAYLOR'S Horse and Carriage Bazaar has been crowded all this month with buyers. Never before were there so many strangers in our town buying horses, mules, wagons, buggies and harness; in fact it is hard to get waited on. Out-of-town customers are waiting to make arrangements ahead.

If anyone thinks the above statement is not correct and will come here, they will say they never saw anything like it.

I have 50 Horses and Mules, and most anyone can get suited, as our prices keep the crowd coming, and our reliability keeps them satisfied. Our guarantee is as good as any BANK.

I have more Horse Collars and Harness than any five stores on the Eastern Shore. Every customer is an advertisement for me. Seeing is believing; come see for yourself.

EASILY PUT RIGHT

EQUALIZING DISTANCE NO PROBLEM FOR TIM MOYNAHAN.

His Orders Were to Have Tool House Half Way Between Mile Posts, and Consequently Half Way It Was.

About ten years before the Eastern railroad was leased to the Boston & Maine, that portion of the old road between Swampscott and Salem was in charge of Section Foreman Timothy Moynahan, according to a Boston correspondent.

His strongest point was in doing just as he was told, and doing that with energy and accuracy. So when he was notified from Beverly by Roadmaster Stevens that the section lengths were to be changed, and that he was to move his tool house from the western end of the Salem yard to half way between mile posts 15 and 16, he started out with the determination to move the house half way, no more, no less.

To get this half-way point he stationed one of his men at mile post

Tim Explains.

15 and another at mile Post 16, and at a signal they started to walk toward each other until they met, and to a point opposite their meeting place the shanty was moved. This method of getting the correct distance did not quite suit Moynahan, especially when he remembered that one of the walkers was taller than the other, and the other tripped several times on the way down.

He carried this in his mind for nearly a year, when he met the engineers measuring through for signals, and asked them to tell him, as they measured, if his house was just half way or not.

When the measurement was taken the house was found to be 60 feet nearer mile post 16 than 15, and Moynahan, on being told, remarked that he thought he could fix things just right.

Later in the year the engineers met Moynahan in Salem, and asked him if his tool house was now half way between the mile posts?

"It is," he replied, "it's just half way."

"Did you have much trouble moving it?"

"No trouble at all; I just let it stay as it was and moved the mile post."

New Species of Zebra.

In Portuguese East Africa an explorer has discovered a new species of zebra, resembling the ordinary zebra in shape, but the head, neck, forelegs and fore half of the body dark brown in color, the hind part of the body, including the legs, being striped. He also discovered a peculiar style of antelope similar in size and shape to the Boer roebuck or impala, the distinctive difference being a black line down the center of the back and on either hind leg down to the foot. When the animal is started it immediately takes to flight, the initial leap being fully ten feet through the air.

Gold Nugget in Fish's Stomach.

A gold nugget, weighing several ounces and thought to contain about two dollars' worth of gold, was found in the stomach of a yellowtail caught by Capt. Billy Graves of Long Beach, Cal., about ten miles out at sea.

The nugget is really a piece of rich ore, but how it came to be lodged in the stomach of the fish is a mystery.

The fish weighed 22 pounds and it is expected that every large fish caught here for some time to come will be examined with the greatest care by the fishermen.

Buried Under Fine Coal.

James Irving, an employe at a New York coal yard, fell into one of the big bins the other afternoon. The bin contained more than 100 tons of hard wheat coal, which is very fine. Irving sank into it so far that he couldn't get out. A few minutes later Adam Brown drove up to get a load of coal.

A trap about 14 by 17 inches in the bottom of the bin was opened and the coal began to pour out. About two tons had run, into the wagon when Brown was started to see a shovel and a man's legs dangling from the spout. Some of the workmen got busy with axes, fish away and Irving dropped out with a few tons of coal.

He was unconscious, but at the hospital to which he was removed it was said that he had a good chance to recover.

LENT.

At last 'tis Lent, and now content Comes o'er us, calm and sweet, For while it last we all may fast And stint ourselves on meat.

No more we may three times a day Devour chop, roast or steak, By night and main we must abstain And of less flesh partake.

In other years we've fought with tears Such rules and laws severe, But now we yield, our joy-revealed With ill dissembled cheer.

For, oh, each steak that we forsake To-morrow instead a crust, Oh, what content if only Lent Could last the whole glad year!

—Paul West in New York World.

How He Won Her Back.

"At one time the wedding was delayed. But it's fixed again since he bought her a present."

"What is the present?"

"Nobody knows but him. He told her he would give her the present after the wedding, and she's bound to find out what it is if she has to marry him."

A Perplexing Problem.

I found the great inventor standing by his work bench. His massive brow was wrinkled and gnarled and told me he was concentrating his wonderful thoughts upon some mystifying problem. Before I could arouse him from his state of profound meditation I found it necessary to drop a sledgehammer on the floor and to yell at him in my loudest tone. But when he looked up and recognized me his absorbed manner changed instantly and he greeted me with most refreshing affability.

I asked him if he were still worrying over his wireless telegraphic invention.

"Oh, my, no!" he answered me. "I completed that and got it off my mind a week ago. The wireless device I am now trying to evolve is infinitely more perplexing."

I asked him what his intended device was.

"A wireless fly screen," he told me.—Chicago News.

No Relief.

Indignant Passenger (to railway manager)—Here, I say! I got a splinter in my eye from one of your engines, and it cost me $10 for a doctor to get it out and dress the eye. Now, what do you propose to do in the matter?

Railway Manager—Nothing, my dear sir, nothing. We have no use for the splinter, and you are perfectly welcome to it. No doubt, strictly speaking, you did go off with our property—the splinter, of course, was not yours—but we do not care to make a fuss about such a small matter. I may do not give the incident a moment's thought.—New York Journal.

Parthian Shot.

"I regret very much that we cannot use your story," said the magazine editor, handing back the manuscript. "It's astonishing how much really good literature we are compelled to decline."

"It's more astonishing, though," said the disgruntled author of the story, "that you never let any of it get into your magazine."—Chicago Tribune.

The Obedient Rodent.

"Why is Edgerly talking so excitedly to the single girl?"

"She rejected him when he was poor, you know, and I think he must be heaping coals of fire on her head."

"That's it. I was sure I smelt a rat."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Humor, but Abundant Sarcasm.

"A woman hasn't any sense of humor," said the cynic.

"Perhaps that is so," answered Miss Cayenne. "The neck is probably what keeps us from laughing at some men's efforts to be serious."—Washington Star.

Where There's a Will, Etc.

"I see that Dix has made a fortune with his pen."

"That absurd writer? Impossible."

"Not at all. His father died of grief after reading one of his stories and left Dix $50,000."—Boston Transcript.

Another Bathing Mystery.

Uncle Hiram (looking at bathbuns in a plumber's window)—Well, I swear! I've heard that these here New Yorkers are pretty nervous, but I never supposed they had the cheek to take a bath in the front window!—Judge.

Off Her Feet.

She—Isn't dancing with her whole soul?

He—Yes, that's about all.—Wisconsin Sphinx.

Soon.

In but a few short weeks from now The circus will be out, Your wife will hint at nothing, and The new year party will present, Liverpool Free Press.

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

"You'd set the house afire over my head, would you, Hardwick?" he queried, with the gray eyes lighting threateningly; then: "The last time you talked you posted your deft now, I'll post mine. You go ahead and do your worst. The boy and I will try to see that you don't have all the fun. I won't say that you mightn't turn him if you went at it right. But you won't go at it right, and as matters stand now—well, blood is thicker than water, and if you hit me you hit him. And I reckon between us we'll manage to give you as good as you send. That's all," rising to lean heavily upon the table but one thing. "You fight fair, Hardwick. Say anything you like about me, but if that boy has anything in his past that I don't know about, that he wouldn't want to see published, you let it alone and keep your newspaper reporters off it."

The vice president laughed. He was of those who regain equality in exact proportion as an opponent loses it. "You needn't let that boy's record trouble you," he averred. "It's as clean as a hound's tooth. That is one of the things I'm banking on. David, I'm going to have that young fellow fighting on our side before we're through."

At this the gray eyes under the penthouse brows flamed fiercely, and the senator took the two strides needful to place him before the man in the chair.

"Don't you do that, McVickar. I give you fair warning," he said, his deep toned voice rumbling like the bar of grinding wheels. "There's only one way you could do it!"

The vice president stood up and put on his hat. "And you'll take precious good care that I don't get a chance to try that way, you were going to say. All right, David. You tell me to do my worst, and I'll hand that back to you too. You do the same, and we'll see who comes out ahead."

It was some five minutes later when the vice president had made his leisurely way down to the lobby. The electric lights blazed out, and the great gathering place was beginning to take on its evening air of stir and activity. Mr. McVickar pushed his way to the desk, and a row of lately arrived guests waited when he asked his question. "Where will I be most likely to find Mr. Evan Blount at this time of day?" was the question he wished to have answered, and the obliging clerk made the line wait still longer while he summoned a helper and sent him scurrying across to one of the writing tables. "This is Mr. Evan Blount," he said, to the railroad magnate, indicating the young man who came up with the bell-boy. "Mr. Blount, this is Mr. Hardwick McVickar, first vice president of the Transcontinental Railway company."

There was no trace of the recent battle in Mr. McVickar's voice or manner when he turned and shook hands cordially with the son of the man who had defied him.

"Your father and I were just holding a little conference over your future prospects, Mr. Blount," he said, going straight to his point. "Suppose you come down to the car with me for a little private talk on the legal situation. I'm not sure but we shall wish to retain you in a cause that is coming up in September. Gantry tells me that you are pretty well up in corporation law. Can you spare me a half hour or so?"

Evan Blount glanced at his watch. Patricia had told him that she and her father would dine in the cafe at 7 and that there would be room at their table for him and for his father, if the ex-senator would so far honor a poor college professor. There was an hour to spare, and if the vice president of the Transcontinental company were not the king he was at least a great man whose invitation was in some sense a command.

It was at the precise moment when the butterfly doors of the lobby entrance were winging to their closing behind Mr. McVickar and his quarry that the house telephone called the registry clerk. A sad faced tourist was waiting, pen in hand, for his room assignment heard only the answer to the question which came over the wire from one of the upper floors. "No, senator," the clerk was saying; "he has just this moment gone out with Mr. McVickar! Could I overtake him? I'll try. But I don't know where they were going. I'll send a boy right away, though."

CHAPTER VIII.

THE QUEEN'S GAMBIT.

WHEN the news went out to the dwellers in the sagebrush hills that Boss David's son had accepted a place on the railroad's legal staff the first wave of astonishment was followed by many guesses as to what young Blount's action portended.

The Plainman, the principal daily and the leading organ of the reformers, was the first to find an ulterior motive in Evan Blount's appointment and its acceptance. The editor took a half column in which to point out in emphatic and vigorous phrase the danger that threatened the commonwealth in this very evident coalition of the railroad and the machine.

The Lost River Miner, on the other hand, was unwilling to believe that the younger Blount was acting altogether in his father's interest in taking the place provided for him by the railway. Hints there were in this editor's comment of a disagreement between father and son, of differences of opinion which might later on lead to a pitched battle.

The Daily Capital, however—the fall road organ—covertly insinuated that nothing for nothing was the accepted rule in politics; that if the railroad had made a place for the son it was only a justifiable deduction that the father was not as inimical to the railroad interest as the opposition press was willing to have the public believe.

Elsewhere in the state press comment was divided as the matters of public opinion happened to read partly less or gain in the appointment of the new legal department head. But on the whole the senator's son was given the benefit of the doubt and a chance to prove up. Time would tell.

Of the interview between the father and son, in which Evan had announced his intention of accepting a place under McVickar, nothing was said in the newspapers, for the very good reason that no reporter was present.

If the young man had been prepared for a storm of opposition he was disappointed. The interview took place in the evening of the day Mr. McVickar's private car was attached to eastbound train No. 104, and the place was the sitting room of the senator's private suit. Blount had meant to give some of the ethical reasons for taking the step which would put such a summary end to the attorney generalship scheme. But when the time came and he had humbly declared his purpose of accepting the railroad appointment he did not find it entirely easy to say the other things.

"So McVickar talked you over?" was the father's gentle comment. "It's all right, son. You're a man grown, and I reckon you know best what you want to do. If it puts us on opposite sides of the political creek we won't let that roll the water any more than it has to, will we?"

To such a mild mannered surrender or apparent surrender the purely filial emotions could do no less than to respond heartily.

"We mustn't let it," was the quick reply, but after that he added: "I feel that I ought to make some explanations, though. I've been going about with my eyes and ears open, and I must confess that the political field has been made to appear most unattractive to me. From what I can learn the political situation in this state seems to be very frankly controlled upon the principle of bargain and sale. I couldn't go into anything like that and keep my self respect."

"No, of course you couldn't, son, so you just took a place where you could earn good clean money in your profession. I don't blame you."

Blount was vaguely perturbed. He could not help feeling that his father was keeping something back.

"You think there will be more of

Will Jones

"YOU'D SET THE HOUSE AFIRE OVER MY HEAD, WOULD YOU, HARDWICK?"

less political work in my job with the railroad?" he asked, determined to get at the submerged facts, if there were any.

"Oh, I don't know. McVickar has hired you to do a lawyer's work, and I guess that is what he will expect you to do, isn't it?"

Mr. McVickar had not defined the duties of the new assistant counselship very clearly. But there was a strong inference running through all that was said to the effect that the headship of the legal department would carry with it some political responsibilities.

At the moment Blount had been rather glad that such was the case. The vice president had convinced him very thoroughly of the justice of the railroad company's contention—that the laws of the state, if rigidly administered, amounted to a practical consecration of the company's property.

While Mr. McVickar was talking Blount had rather hoped that his new position would give him opportunities to place the railroad's point of view fairly before the people of the state, and to do this he knew that he would have to enter the campaign as a political worker. Surely his father must know this, and he went boldly upon the assumption that his father did know it.

"I am to be chief of the legal department on this division, and as such it will, of course, be necessary for me to defend my client in court and out of court," he said finally. "And I mean to do it."

"Of course you do; you're not to be honest with yourself—and with McVickar. I don't mind telling you, son, that I am squarely on the other side this time, and I hope you were going to be. But you're not why, that's the end of it. We won't quarrel about it."

Now, this was not at all the paternal attitude which the young man had prefigured. But before anything more could be said Mr. Blount came in to remind them both that they had a dinner appointment with Professor Anners and his daughter and that there was barely time to dress for it.

It was late that night, several hours after the informal little dinner for five in the Inter-Mountain cafe, when the senator had himself lifted from the lobby to the fourth floor and made his way to the door of his own apartment. As was her custom, his wife was waiting up for him.

"Did you find out anything more?" she asked without looking up from the tiny embroidery frame which seemed to be her constant companion at home or elsewhere.

"Not very much. McVickar has fixed things to suit himself. Evan's new office position is to be pretty largely nominal, I guess, and Gantry's crowd is to see to it that he doesn't get to know too much, which means that the bribery is not to be done by the legal department in this campaign."

"But they can't keep him from finding out about it," she protested.

"They are going to try mighty hard anyway. Evan wants to believe that everything is on the high moral plane, and when a man wants to believe a thing it's pretty easy to fool him. It'll be a winning card to them if they can send the boy out to talk convincingly about the cleanliness of the company's campaign. That sort of talk, handed out as Evan can do it, if he is convinced of the truth of what he is saying, will capture the honest ranchman every time."

"We must get him back," she said. "Have you thought of any plan?"

"No."

She smiled. "I have a plan. He may have to take a regular course of treatment, and it may make him very ill. Would you mind that?"

David Blount leaned back in his chair and regarded her through half closed eyelids.

"I don't want to see the boy suffer any more than he has to," he objected.

"Neither do I," was the quick agreement; then, with no apparent relevance, "What do you think of Miss Anners?"

The senator sat up, and the slow smile wrinkled humorously at the corner of his eyes. "I haven't thought much about her. She's the kind you can't get near enough to think about, isn't she?"

"She is a young woman with a very bright mind and a very high purpose," was the little lady's summing up of Patricia. "But she isn't altogether a Boston Iceberg. She thinks she is in love with her career; but, really, I think she is very much in love with Evan. If we could win her over to our side—"

"This time the senator's smile broadened into a grin.

"You are away ponder out of my depth now, little woman," he chuckled. "Does your course of treatment for the boy include large doses of the young woman administered frequently?"

"Oh, no," was the instant reply. "I was only wondering if it wouldn't be well to enlist her sympathies."

"Why not—if you think best?"

"Will you give me carte blanche to do as I please?" asked the small inquirer.

"Why not?" said the senator again. "You can always outfigure me two to one when it comes to real politics. You have made a fine art of it, Honoria."

"You deal with people in the mass, David, and no one can do it better. I deal with the individual. That is all the difference. When do the Annerses go up to the fossil fields?"

"I don't know—any time when you will invite them to make Watrache Hall their headquarters, I guess."

"When I think it will be tomorrow," said the confident mistress of politics. "It won't do to let Evan see too much of the young woman until after his course of treatment has been begun. Shall we make it tomorrow? And will you telephone Dawkins to bring down the big car? I think Miss Patricia Anners will stand a little impressing. She is very democratic—in theory."

BAILEY NOT A CANDIDATE FOR THE JUDGESHIP

In Favor Of One Candidate In Wicomico County, Judge Toadvine. A Hard Fight Now Looms Up Between Toadvine And Stanford.

To my Democratic Friends of Wicomico County: In reply to a letter from Judge Toadvine, concerning the Judicial contest I have this day addressed him as follows: Salisbury, Md., April 21st, 1911.

Hon. E. Stanley Toadvine, Salisbury, Md.
Dear Sir:—Yours advising me that you are a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Associate Judge in our First Judicial Circuit reached me on the 5th through your former law partner, Mr. Geo. W. Bell. Being it is assured that there will be at least a candidate in one other County, I agree with you that for more than one candidate from this County to enter the primaries, other considerations being equal, would lessen our County's chances of retaining a resident Judge. I do not think, however, when human nature is frankly considered, that what you term a local primary contest in our County between those therein who would be candidates could well be fought without likewise materially injuring the County's chances of success in the regular primaries. I am told by yourself, and likewise advised by your supporters, that on account of your having been appointed by the Governor, you consider yourself in honor bound, and therefore necessarily compelled to be a candidate. I do not by any means understand why this follows, but concurring with you in that, ordinarily, more than one candidate from this County must necessarily lessen the County's chances, and holding as I do that a local primary contest would be fraught with like result, I hereby inform you that I shall not be a candidate while you are in the field.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH L. BAILEY.
The letter explains itself. I wish only to add that I thank sincerely each and every one of my friends in the County for their friendship and kindness and readiness and willingness to assist me as a candidate, by their words and their acts. I feel that my not entering, even under present conditions, the contest for the nomination will be, to some of my friends, in some degree, a disappointment, but only ask that with the same degree in which they have shown their friendship and kindness I may have, for the decision I am making, their faith and trust, and that they will leave it to my judgement, for with me the success of our party and its candidates is more to be desired than personal political preference.

PREPARING THE WAY

For The Delaware State Boulevard, Preliminary Surveys and Tests.

Bright and early Monday morning General T. Coleman DuPont was up and had a force of engineers and surveyors to accompany him from Wilmington down the State. The mule teams and construction wagons went through Smyrna Tuesday. Some of the engineers were to go with him to his country home, "The Moors," near Cambridge, Md., but the others were to start making a tentative survey through Sussex county. One force of engineers began operations on Friday near Laurel northward toward Harrington and some of those who went down the State Monday were to start near Selbyville and work toward Georgetown. General DuPont and the engineering force left Wilmington on the Delaware Railroad train at 6.55 o'clock a. m. There were several members in the party. General DuPont intended to go on the morning train to Cambridge, he changing cars at Staford. His idea was to get an early start for the day's work. He also arranged for several teams of mules and wagons and carts to go to his place at "The Moors," as he and some of the engineers will conduct road building experiments there for his own information. His idea is to test out certain theories in road building, and the drainage and enduring qualities of certain materials. By this method he hopes to determine upon the best methods of and the best material for constructing the State boulevard in different sections. The mule teams and construction wagons are being driven from Wilmington to Cambridge, and there was quite a procession of them. It will take at least three days for the trip, which is about 130 miles. After being used in experimental work at "The Moors" it is expected that the teams will be used on the State Highway project.

Invitations have been issued for a big Masonic reception in the Masonic Temple, this city, Tuesday evening, April 25th, from eight to eleven o'clock. The invitations have been issued by Wicomico Lodge No. 91 and A. F. and A. M., Chesapeake R. A. Chapter No. 1, and Thomas J. Shryock Commandery No. 14 T. E. It is proposed to throw the entire third floor of the Temple into one large reception room and to have the biggest Masonic gathering ever held in this town. A fine orchestra will be in attendance and several hundred guests are expected to be present. Each person receiving an invitation is granted the privilege of inviting one guest so it is expected to be a very general affair.

The committees from the various bodies are composed of the following well known masons: C. E. Harper, W. T. Phoebus, Leroy Lane, E. H. Ellis, B. D. Grier, E. O. Fulton, W. F. Allen, F. A. Grier, Jr., F. P. Adkins, E. D. Adkins and G. Wm. Phillips.

TO TEACH COOKING

And Corn Growing—The Caroline County Schools To Add Practical Courses Of Study.

The teaching of agriculture and domestic science is to be made an important part of the public school system in Caroline county and the School Board purposes to keep the schools abreast of those in other sections of the country where these subjects are being given close attention as a part of the Federal and State methods to prepare public school children for the farm and home. The Board has arranged a corn growing contest for boys and a domestic science contest for the girls this year. A. A. Christian of Philadelphia, formerly of Greensboro, has offered a prize of $50 to the boy growing the best acre of corn, and other prizes ranging downward to $25 as a fifth prize are included in the contest. The Board says that the object of the contest is primarily to interest the boys in modern methods of agriculture and create a pride in good farming.

A large number of prizes are offered girls for plain work aprons, shirt-waists, and bread. The Board, in announcing the contest, says its object is to get the pupils more interested in the practical things of life and to encourage a spirit of friendly rivalry in the schools.

Much interest is being taken in the contests by patrons of the schools. At the annual meeting of the County Teachers' Association in the high school at Denton in May Prof. C. E. Schopmeyer, an agricultural teacher in charge of the school at Higgely, where the initial effort to introduce practical agriculture into the public school system is being made will present to the association some phases of agriculture all teachers can handle in Caroline schools, and the teachers and school authorities will make this feature of the program one of the most conspicuous.

New Castle Presbytery's 82nd Meeting.

The New Castle Presbytery embracing all of Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Md., containing forty nine churches and fifty six ministers, met in its eighty second stated meeting this week in Makemie Memorial Church, Snow Hill. Rev. Joseph B. North, LL. D., pastor, Rev. J. A. Herold was elected moderator, Rev. J. W. Loudon, elder, J. N. Fromer, temporary clerk, and J. B. Mulligan, secretary. The opening sermon was preached by the Rev. Littleton P. Bowen on "Our Founder," with special music by the church choir. The hymns sung are known as the Makemie Memorial hymns and were written especially for this church.

Commissioners to the General Assembly from the Presbytery of New Castle elected at the afternoon session Wednesday are Rev. J. B. Henderson, Rev. Samuel Polk, Elders J. J. Hayes and Edgar Fontaine; alternates, Rev. J. D. Blake, Rev. L. P. Bowen, Elders H. B. Klair and F. R. Vincent. These will attend the meeting to be held in Atlantic City, N. J., next month.

The church which entertained the Presbytery is one of historic interest, as it is one of the five organized by Francis Makemie after he came to this country, in 1683, and boasts of continuous services since its foundation. The present pastor has been there thirteen years.

Men's Meeting At Court House.

A Men's Meeting will be held in the Court House, Sunday afternoon, April 23rd, at 3.30 o'clock, in the interest of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Mr. Yutaka Minakuchi, one of the most highly educated and brilliant Japanese living in America today, will be the principal speaker. Mr. Minakuchi is devoting his time to the work of the Laymen's Missionary Movement and his ability as an orator has been favorably commented upon by Hon. Wm. J. Bryan and other great American orators. Every man in Salisbury is invited, and it will be necessary to be there early to secure a seat.

Maniac Fights Police.

George Jones, a resident of Quantico District, this county, became so violently insane early Tuesday morning while in Salisbury on business that it required the combined efforts of several policemen and assistance from several bystanders to bring him under subjection. Jones was placed in the county jail and a jury immediately summoned, which adjudged him insane. He was taken to the State Insane Asylum in the afternoon.

—Miss Florence Grier and Miss Katherine Hall left today, Saturday, for Washington. While there they will act as bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Jamie Haysberger to Mr. Lawrence H. Boyer, of Washington. Miss Haysberger is well known in Salisbury.

Splendid for the Blood

"Being all run down last spring I was advised to take Pinkham's Blood Purifier. I tried one bottle, and got such quick relief that by the time I had taken three bottles I felt like a new person. After taking the medicine I gained twenty pounds in three months."—Aaron Winslow, 60 Washington Street, Lynn, Mass.

At this season of the year almost every one needs a reliable blood purifier or spring medicine. This is indicated by that tired, "dragged-out" feeling—humors and eruptions which appear on the face and body,—and unless the blood is purified and enriched more serious consequences are liable to follow.

Pinkham's Blood Purifier

The best spring and blood medicine, is prepared by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, of Lynn, Mass. You know this Company. You know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard medicine for women; your common-sense tells that the company which owns so successful and valuable a medicine as that could never afford to risk its reputation by putting on the market any other medicine not of the same high degree of excellence. When you buy medicine prepared by this company you get the best, and Pinkham's Blood Purifier is The Best.

SIX LITTLE WORDS.

Six little words lay claim to me each passing day— I ought, I must, I can, I will, I dare, I may.

I ought: That is the law (and on my heart has written, The mark for which my soul is with strong yearning sit-tion.

I must: That is the bound set either side the way By nature and the world, so that I shall not stray.

I can: That measures out the power entrusted me Of action, knowledge, art, skill and dexterity.

I will: No higher crown on human head can rest; 'Tis freedom's signet seal upon the soul impressed.

I dare: Is the device which on the seal you read.

By freedom's open door a bolt for time of need.

I may: among them all hovers uncertainly; The moment must at last decide what shall be.

I ought, I must, I can, I dare, I will, I may,

The six lay claim to me each hour of every day. Teach me, O God! And then shall I know each day That which I ought to do, must, can, will, dare and may. —"Wisdom of the Brahmin."

CHANGING.

If I were to deliver up my whole self to the arbitrament of special pleaders today I might be argued into an atheist and tomorrow into a pickpocket.—Bulwer-Lytton.

"SPREADHENISM."

"Spreadhenism" is one of our most dangerous modern manifestations. Spreadhenism is the feminine of spreadsthenism. I coined the word myself, and I think it is rather good. One sees it on all sides, among the women of today, that clucking content where content is perfectly unjustifiable. What have women done that they consider themselves better than men? How have they used their opportunities? Women have convinced themselves they are superior beings, and would like to know the grounds for their belief. Men are not so bad as the modern women paint them—nor women so good.—Mrs. Annie Nathan Meyer.

TEMPERANCE.

Temperance keeps the senses clear and unembarrassed and makes them seize the object with more keenness and satisfaction. It appears with life in the face and decorum in the person. It gives you the command of your head, secures your health and preserves you in a condition for business.—Jeremy Collier.

TRUE HEROISM.

All may be heroes. "The man who rules his spirit," saith the voice which cannot err, "is greater than the man who takes a city."—Mrs. S. J. Hale.

If hero means sincere man, why may not every one of us be a hero?—Carlyle.

'Tis as easy to be heroes as to sit the idle slaves Of a legendary virtue carved upon our fathers' graves. —Lowell.

Dream not helm and harness The sign of valor true; Peace hath higher tests of manhood Than battle ever knew. —Whittier.

TRUE PATRIOTS.

Humble fathers who are training their children in essential manliness, in self reliance, in independence, making them ashamed to beg and proud to rely on their own resources—they are patriots. They of every name who make men larger are working for liberty, and they who are demoralizing men are working for bondage and despotism.—Henry Ward Beecher.

PLEASANT THOUGHTS.

Make yourself nests of pleasant thoughts. None of us yet knows, for none of us has been taught in early youth what fairy palaces we may build of beautiful thoughts—proof against adversity. Bright fancies, satisfied memories, noble histories, faithful savings, treasure houses of precious and restful thoughts which care cannot disturb, nor pain make gloomy, nor poverty take away from us—houses built without hands for our souls to live in.—Baskin.

The Cell of The Blood for purification, finds void in pin-points, boils, sallow complexion, a jaundiced look, moth patches and blotches on the skin—all signs of liver trouble. But Dr. King's New Life Pills make rich red blood; give clear skin, rosy cheeks, clear complexion, health. Try them. 25 cents at All Druggists.

"Dr. Thomas Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. Has long been used with success in our family for a long time." Mrs. L. Whitman, B. Gale, N. Y.

Tutt's Pills

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

Salisbury has reached the point in her growth and progress when a great deal of care must be exercised in the management of her affairs. Not only must it be seen to that no backward step is taken, but caution exercised that in our desire to push onward and forward valuable rights and privileges are not given away or sacrificed.

We have today several public service corporations to whom the growth of our city means much in the way of future prospects, and to whom should be given as liberal treatment as is compatible with the best interests of the city; but while nothing should be put in the way of their expansion and improvement, yet it is necessary for the city to have as members of the Council, men who will see that the public is fairly treated, and that our corporations render the best possible service at the lowest price it can be rendered and at the same time pay to their stockholders a fair return on the money invested.

The next Council will probably have a great many difficult problems to solve. Few believe that the Diamond State Telephone Company will long be satisfied with the present rate and that an attempt will probably be made in a short time to increase it. The question of the proposed new railway may come up. The matter of proper protection from fire, a question of great importance and one that should not be neglected, is another proposition that will probably be before the next Council.

Good, honest, reasonable, broad-minded men are needed in our Council and men who will measure up to the proper standard should be nominated at the coming primaries.

WORK IN WASHINGTON.

The masterly way in which Speaker Clark is handling the Democratic party in the House of Representatives is focusing more strongly than ever the eyes of the country upon the able representative from Missouri. It is entirely too early to judge as yet who will make the best man for the Democrats to rally around in the next Presidential election, but with Wilson, Clark and Harmon to pick from, it does look like the party ought to name a man who will have the confidence of the people.

It is a pretty game now being played in Washington, and one that will probably decide the party affiliation of the next President. It looks as though the Democrats so far have the best of the situation and if the Senate shows the same spirit of getting together and doing something that at present exists in the House the party ought to come out of the extra session with greater strength than when it was entered upon.

Resignation of Mr. Pope As Singer Manager Here.

After twenty eight years service with the Singer Sewing Machine Company, a large part of which time has been spent in Salisbury as manager of this department, Mr. Milton H. Pope resigned his position last week and Mr. E. T. Motley, of Hagerstown, has been brought to Salisbury to take charge of the office here. Mr. Pope has made a very efficient officer and manager for the Singer Company. For twenty four years he has had charge of this territory, part of the time with his headquarters at Pocomoke and the rest at Salisbury. He is one of the best known Sewing Machine men in the State and has built up an enormous business for the Singer Company. Recently the Company added the Eastern Shore of Virginia territory to the Salisbury office and the field was so large and the Virginia business in such poor shape that Mr. Pope decided to engage in some other line and resigned. The Company has lost a valuable man whose place will be hard to fill. Mr. Pope is a substantial citizen and we hope he will not find it necessary to leave Salisbury but engage in business here.

Short Crop of Cow Peas Prices Are Going Up! The enormous demand for Cow Peas last year carried the price very high, and as the crop is very short and the acreage is rapidly extending, there are many indications which point to much higher prices as the sowing season approaches. Whip-poor-will Cow Peas. The Whip-poor-will Cow Peas are generally preferred in the Central and Southern States. They are bush form, early maturing and especially desirable for Peas. New Era Cow Peas. New Eras are a little earlier and make more vine than the Whip-poor-will. Wonderfuls, Clays and Mixed Cow Peas. For Hay, the Wonderfuls or the Mixed Cow Peas are more productive. They should be planted with an occasional grain of Corn, Sorghum Seed, Kaffir Corn, etc., which will prevent the vines from getting damaged by coming in contact with the ground. Black Cow Peas. Black Cow Peas are a little earlier in maturing than Clays; they make a good growth of vine, are exceptionally good for medium or poor land, and will stand almost an amount of wet weather without injury. We can also supply Shiloh Peas, Red Rippers, Blackeye Peas and Soja Beans. REMEMBER—Bolgiano's Cow Peas are unquestionably the best. If your Local Merchant will not supply Bolgiano's Cow Peas, write us direct and we will tell you where you can get them. FREE. WHY A RESURRECTION

What if the Dead Should Not Rise, Would This Affect Christian Faith and Doctrines and Prove Them All False?

PASTOR RUSSELL PROVES IT SO

London, April 16.—The London Tabernacle was crowded to hear Pastor Russell's Easter sermon on "The Resurrection Hope the Only One." His text was from I Corinthians xv, 12-18.

"How say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead? ... If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain and your faith is also vain. ... Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished."

For years God's people have had excellent Bibles, and thus have been blessed far in advance of our brethren who lived during the Dark Ages. But we have read our Bibles too carelessly and often have most of us wondered at the great stress St. Paul laid upon the resurrection. Rarely is the subject preached upon now and rarely is it ever thought of except as an absurdity. The reason for this is not far to seek. From childhood we have been taught that nobody is dead—that in dying everybody, good and bad, becomes more alive than ever before; that this aliveness, to the saintly few, means spiritual powers and an immediate entrance into heaven, death being swallowed up in life. The unsaintly masses also, we are told, have quickened sensibilities after dying—they become more alive, more able to appreciate and suffer pain.

Our Catholic neighbors tell us that the majority immediately go to Purgatory, there to be tried by various sufferings and tortures, and later, enter heaven. Our Protestant teachings have been to the effect that the unsaintly masses, unfit for the presence of God and the holy, will be consigned to an eternity of awful torture and made very much more alive to suffering than before. Thus we have been taught to believe that death is a portal or door into an intense life—that nobody is dead. Many of us perplexed ourselves, and were perplexed by others, with questions respecting how there could be a "resurrection of the dead" if nobody is dead? We avoided the question, or gave the answer, "Mystery; go run and play."

Some, indeed, attempted a patchwork of the matter and told us that those in heaven were happy, but not so happy as though they had bodies and that after thousands of years of craving for a body (which they had used for only a few years), they would get it back again for all eternity. Others said, "No, our bodies have been only a cloak and a hindrance and from the moment of death we will be better off without them; and we do not know why the Bible should teach a resurrection of the dead, to get back bodies that we would be glad to be rid of." Respecting the wicked, we said that after roasting for centuries without a body, then, to intensify their pain, the body would be resurrected and they would have double suffering. What bosh! What foolishness! Is it any wonder that many of us have been misled by the world learned to doubt everything connected with religion and the Bible? Rather the wonder is that, seeing things so obscurely, we did not all repudiate everything.

Now What Do We Find?

With the clearing of the mists of ignorance and superstition, with a better light reflected from one page to another of the Bible, the resurrection subject clarifies and the statements of Jesus and the Apostles and Prophets, which we thought so strange, become luminous and soul-satisfying.

When once we see that "the wages of sin is death" and not eternal torment; and that the Bible hell is the tomb and not a fiery furnace; and that all mankind go to sheol, to hades, just as our Savior; then we begin to see that what has been only a cloak and a hindrance, from hades, as was the Savior. A resurrection-salvation is thus the salvation hope of the Church and of the world.

What a relief this gives us as respects parents, children, neighbors, friends and the heathen, who have died out of Christ, unavailingly! What comfort it brings to know that they are sleeping in the great prison-house of death, unconscious of the lapse of time, waiting for the Redeemer. Who will as King set up His Kingdom in glory, associating His Bride with Himself for the blessing of all the families of the earth. The bringing forth of the prisoners out of the prison-house of death will be to set before them under the glorious provisions of the New Dispensation an opportunity for life everlasting, by obedience to the laws of the Kingdom under the assistance of the Heavenly One—the alternative being, not eternal torment, but death—Second Death.

All Souls Go to sheol.

Some one may say, "Pastor Russell, what about the soul? If the body goes to sheol, hades, the tomb, where goes the soul?" I reply that it is the soul that goes to sheol, to hades, the grave, the tomb, the state of death.

Although the words sheol and hades are translated hell more times than translated hell, nevertheless they refer, not to the mound of earth, which is in the nature of a monument, but to the secret, hidden condition, preferably styled the tomb, the abyss.

The Prophet David wrote, "Thou wilt not leave my soul in sheol (the tomb, the state of death), nor suffer Thine Holy One to see corruption" (Psalm cvii, 10). St. Peter quoted this on the day of Pentecost and explained that it is a prophecy in respect to Christ Jesus. David's soul was not delivered from sheol, and he did see corruption, and his sepulchre the Apostle could refer to. But being a Prophet, spoke those words respecting Jesus, that His soul would not be left in sheol; that His soul would not see corruption. St. Peter says that this prophecy was fulfilled in our Lord—in that He was raised from the dead on the third day. He tells us that Jesus was put to death in the flesh, but quickened in spirit—a spirit being far above angels and principalities and powers and every name that is named. Our Common Version Bible declares that our Lord's soul was saved from hell-hades (Acts ii, 27, 31).

Did, in the Old Testament, used the word sheol. St. Peter, in the New Testament, used the word hades. There is no dispute amongst scholars as to what is signified. The words sheol and hades are well known to refer, not to a place of suffering or torture or punishment of any kind, but to the unconsciousness of the death state. Jesus arose from the dead, from hades, the grave, and not from a place of torment. The so-called Apostles' Creed declares that Jesus descended into hell, but arose from the dead on the third day. All scholars know that nothing in the words sheol and hades has any relationship to fire or pain or suffering or condemnation, and thus this phrase of the Apostles' Creed is universally explained.

As Jesus descended into hades, so do all mankind. As the Father raised Him from the dead on the third day, so it is promised that He will raise us, the Church, from the dead. More than this, the unjust also, those who have not been approved of God in the present life, shall all be awakened from the sleep of death. They will come forth informed respecting sin, having lived under the reign of Sin and Death. They will come forth that they may learn the ways of righteousness, the reward of which is life everlasting, the glorified life, and the Kingdom of the Church, the Bride, will be the Royal Priesthood, whose special work for a thousand years will be the uplifting of mankind, not only from the tomb, but also to perfection of life, "every man in his own order" or rank. The uplifting will bless as many as are willing, lifting them from the degradation and meanness and imperfection into which all have fallen by one man's disobedience, under the laws of heredity.

Burst the Bars of Death.

In the poetic language of the hymn, Christ Jesus "burst the bars of death" in His resurrection. It was not possible for Him to be helden of death, writes the Apostle (Acts ii, 24). The Divine verdict went forth that He had been faithful and that to Him should come the reward of life upon the highest plane—the divine nature (Ephesians i, 20, 21).

Our fancies may legitimately picture that the holy angels marveled at the Redeemer's experiences from the time that He left the heavenly glory and was made flesh and dwelt amongst us until, by His resurrection change, He returned again from the earthly nature to the heavenly plane, "far above angels." As they sang at His nativity a rapturous song of glad tidings of great joy to all people, so they were filled with amazement, surely, at how the Father permitted Him to be tempted and tried and poured for Him His cup of suffering, which He drained to the dregs. They marveled when "He died, the Just for the unjust." They looked, and wondered, as hour after hour He remained in the tomb—dead. Their loyalty to the Heavenly Father was tested during that period, but was rewarded when they beheld that Divine power raised Him up even to a more excellent glory than that which He had before.

With what alacrity the angels must have acknowledged the risen One, in harmony with the Father's declaration, "Let all the angels of God worship Him." "Worthy is the Lamb to receive glory and honor, dominion, might and power." The point to be specially noticed is the change of nature which our Redeemer experienced in His resurrection. That change did not take place during the three days of Jesus' burial, but during the three and a half years of His ministry, which ended with His resurrection. When thirty years of age He gave Himself—He surrendered His earthly privileges and rights and hopes into the Father's hands, to be obedient to everything which Divine providence might permit. At that moment His sacrifice of His flesh was accepted. The evidence of its acceptance was the impartation of the Holy Spirit, which as a dove rested upon Him and exercised its quickening and illuminating influence upon His mind, enabling Him to understand more than human things and to perform more than human acts.

It was Jesus, a New Creature, begotten of the Spirit at Jordan, that did the mighty works of the Father. His flesh, His humanity, was gradually laid down sacrificially, in harmony with the Divine providence. He drank the cup which the Father poured for Him. Divine Power "Brought From the Dead" the Great Shepherd.

This Easter Sunday celebrates the momentous event of our Lord's resurrection from the dead. His resurrection is either a truth or a falsehood. In our text St. Paul assures us that if it is untrue, our faith, our hopes, our preaching and teachings are of no avail—useless. If the resurrection of the dead is impossible, then the resurrection of Jesus was impossible. If the resurrection of Jesus did not take place, then we have no proof, and no ground for believing, that Divine power could resurrect the Church. If Divine Power "brought again from the dead the great Shepherd of the sheep," it is Jehovah also who will bring us from the dead by Jesus, in God's due time.

Let none avoid the question! Let all decide at once! Either we believe in a resurrection from the dead, or we do not believe in it. If the resurrection be a myth then, says the Apostle, all those who fall asleep with faith in Christ are perished—they are not in heaven, Purgatory nor eternal torment. If we believe in the resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust, then, logically, we must believe that they are dead, except in the Divine promise, purpose, arrangement. The decision of this resurrection question is a most momentous one, as it affects practically every doctrine of the Christian Church. If we set straight the doctrine as the Redeemer, and the doctrine of the Resurrection of the dead, all of our doctrines will fall into line, and all of our absurdities, which have troubled us so long, will fall out of the way, and all of the Scriptures will be found harmonious in teaching Divine Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power.

Christ the First-Fruits.

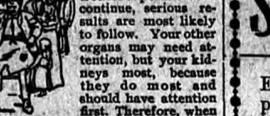

"But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first-fruits of them that sleep" (verse 20). Oh, thank God, the Apostle did not mean to insinuate the possibility of our Lord's not having risen. Merely, he would put the question that we might see how weighty is the subject—how much depends on the answer. He exultantly answers, "Christ is risen!" We rejoice in this for several reasons. First, how sad it would be if He who laid aside His glory and was made flesh and tasted death on our behalf should have lost by His loyal endeavor to serve us and to do the Father's will. How glad we are that He is risen, and how glad we are that He was raised again in the flesh, with the loss of His heavenly glory, but raised as the King of all, far above all others, and partaker of the divine nature!

Secondly, we are glad on our own account, and on account of all mankind; for if our Lord Jesus had not been raised from the dead it would have proven one of two things—either that He had not been faithful up to the Divine standard, and therefore that His life could not be a satisfaction for the human life lost in Adam, or else it would have proved that God, who had promised to raise Him from the dead if He would be obedient unto death, had been unable to do so; and, if unable to raise Him from the dead, we, likewise, would be without hope, even if our sins were cancelled by virtue of His sacrifice.

The Apostle's words give a further suggestion: "Our Lord in His resurrection became 'the first-fruits of them that sleep.'" This signifies that none has ever raised from the dead before Him. As another Scripture declares, "He was the first that should arise from the dead." There were indeed others awakened from the tomb, by Jesus Himself and also previous to His Advent. But they were merely awakened, not lifted fully up out of death conditions to perfect life. The Redeemer was the first to have such an experience. But the Apostle's words mean more. If Jesus was the first-fruits of them that slept, there must of necessity be after-fruits. And this the Apostle proceeds to prove, declaring that "as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive" (I Corinthians xv, 22). Glorious resurrection hope! Precious Bible! The one Book alone which teaches a resurrection of the dead, or that the dead are dead.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most, and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

A Helpless Invalid

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A woman who is sick and suffering, and won't at least try a medicine which has the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, is, it would almost seem, to blame for her own wretchedness. Read what this woman says:

Richmond, Mo.—"When my second daughter was eighteen months old I was pronounced a hopeless invalid by specialists. I had a consultation of doctors and they said I had a severe case of ulceration. I was in bed for ten weeks, had sinking spells, and was pronounced to be in a dangerous condition. My father insisted that we try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought me six bottles. I soon began to improve, and before it had all been taken I was as well and strong as ever—my friends hardly recognized me so great was the change."—Mrs. Woodson Branstetter, Richmond, Mo.

There are literally hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read what another woman says:—
Jonesboro, Texas.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for myself and daughter, and consider it unequalled for all female diseases. I would not be without it for anything. I wish every mother in America could be persuaded to use it as there would be less suffering among our sex then. I am always glad to speak a word of praise for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and you are at liberty to use this testimonial."—Mrs. James T. Lawrence, Jonesboro, Texas.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, it is not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering from the same trouble?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for her advice—it is free and always helpful.

Postal Authorities Unable to Locate "Miss Mills" Who Wants Stamps.

The mythical "Miss Mills, No. 37 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia," has again been heard from, according to a letter received by "The Record" from the editor of the Springfield Republican. An appeal received through the mail at the office of The Republic recently contained the well worn request to send ten cancelled postage stamps to the alleged "Miss Mills," with the names of three friends. Assistant Postmaster Knowles when questioned, said:

"We look on this matter up some months ago and found there was no Miss Mills at the address named, and never had been. We sent all the letters received about the same to the Dead Letter Office and supposed that was the last of it. We could never see how there could be any profit in using one good stamp to get ten used ones."

In the letter forwarded by the Springfield Republican there in the same object set forth as in the earlier epistles, to the effect that by securing 1,000 used stamps a ward for children can be established in a hospital at St. George's, New South Wales, Australia. The opinion of the postal authorities seems to be divided between considering the whole thing a practical hoax and supposing that with the ulterior purpose of building up a list of names for use in a mail order business.

THE NEW FASHIONS

In New York—Details That Mark The Season's Styles—One Sided Effects, Freshish Coats—Cord Girdles, Belts And Fringes.

Short coats, straight skirts with long loose panels at the back, high luffed waist, lines and abbreviated sleeves, most of them in one with the rest of the garment, are some of the striking details of this season's styles. Skirts are somewhat straight but still straight and clinging in effect, with few pleated models in the smartest showings. The circular or govt. skirts, plain all round or with inverted pleats front and back is the leader for suits.

For Fussy Dresses.

For fussy dresses made of thin silk, volles, or chiffon styles, which are often seen, but even these measure not over three yards at the foot and fall into deep narrow lines, over the skimpy drop skirt. Some of the French dresses show a ruffling of the dress material or of net bonded with the material at the hem of the skirt, and home of silk, satin, cloth or braids in matching or in contrast colors are very much used. Especially on the dresses of white cotton voile that promise to be a veritable craze this year, are their colored bands of voile to match the tones of the dress, or of embroidered patterns that with lace, trim such gowns attractively.

The Clever Needle Woman.

The clever needlewoman scores this year's ease for a little time spent in embroidery a blouse or dress pattern turns an inexpensive investment in material into styles that bring very high prices when bought ready made. French knots done in beaded patterns in heavy embroidery silk make modish garments quickly accomplished. The coupling of heavy threads in the brilliant corals or blues particularly effective when used on very light grounds, is another fashionable form of embroidery that is easy to do and goes quickly.

Cord Girdles.

Cord girdles continue their vogue and beaded styles and those with contrasting colors or tinsel in their weave add much to the style of many toilets. Embroidered cords are used in the same way with linens, voiles and other wash fabrics.

New Footwear.

Spats and colored upper, or shoes that give a spot effect are very much worn by the fashionable. Hosiery matches usually, and patent leather footings are popular. With black tailored suits of satin or serge with white spats, gloves and hat or hat trimmings are smartly worn here. Black ties with red hose, red hat and other touches of the color are also somewhat seen, but are rather rare.

Matching Sols.

Sets of matching scarf, toque and parasol are replacing the fur match ups of the winter, and are similarly useful in dressing up a plain gown or suit becomingly. These are often of embroidered or beaded, or French knot designs. Sometimes the work is done in raffia, and is the most familiar in beauty, that can be had in almost any desired shade.

One Sided Effects.

One-sided effects prevail not only in shoes and hats, but in complete traditional morning dresses and suits. They are not only novel but almost universally becoming since the woman with Maude's type of face "lovely regular" is the only one who looks her best in set styles, and she is the exception. Wherever colors emerge into the open from their numerous veils they are decidedly novel. Only their original combinations saves them from being unpleasantly inartistic. Fortunately veillings show no sign of abatement and rows built of many materials are the rule. Lucy Carter.

Saved From The Grave.

"I had almost given up hope after nearly four years of suffering from a severe lung trouble," writes Mrs. M. E. Dix, of Clarksville, Tenn. "Often the pain in my chest would be almost unbearable when I could not do any work, but Dr. King's New Discovery has made me feel like a new person. Its the best medicine made for the throat and lungs. Obsolete coughs, asthmas, colds, hay fever, influenza, grippe, asthma, croup, bronchitis and hemorrhages, hoarseness and whooping cough yield quickly to this wonderful medicine. Try it, 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed by All Druggists.

The Demon Of The Air

Thousands have proved that they wonderfully strengthen the nerves, build up the system and restore health and good spirits after a attack of Grippe, if suffering, try them. Only 50 cents. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by All Druggists.

Worse Than Bullets.

Bullets have often caused less suffering to soldiers than the coughs. L. W. Harriman, Burlington, Mo., got in the army, and suffered with forty years. "But Bucklin's Asthma Salve cured me when all else failed," he writes. Greatest healer for Sore, Ulcers, Bolls, Burns, Ours, Wounds, Bruises and Piles. 25 cents at All Druggists.

CHANGE IN SUNDAY MAIL

Deliveries—Service To Be Reduced in Salisbury On The Sabbath.

Owing to a very strong sentiment throughout the country in favor of closing post offices on Sundays, as shown by the comments of the press and by petitions received from religious organizations, the Postmaster General has authorized the discontinuance of Sunday service at a large number of offices.

Postmaster Humphreys states that he is in receipt of instructions from the Department to reduce the Sunday work at the Salisbury Post Office, and it is necessary, therefore, to change the practice with reference to the delivery of mail on Sunday.

Commencing next Sunday, April 30th, and each Sunday thereafter, no mail will be delivered from the carrier's window, as the carriers will not be required to report for duty. The general delivery window will be kept open one hour from nine to ten o'clock a. m., for the delivery of mail to the traveling public. Mail will be collected from the street boxes throughout the city and dispatched as usual.

It is believed that the discontinuance of the Sunday delivery through the carriers window, at least, can be effected without any inconvenience to the public, and it is anticipated that patrons will refrain from calling for mail on Sundays unless the occasion is urgent.

Notice.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES

Field Last Monday—Tilghman, Bradley And Jones Nominated—Independent Ticket In Field.

Last year, there was considerable complaint over the method used in nominating the Democratic ticket for the city. This cry was met with a "back" effect throughout the campaign following the nomination of Mayor Bonds on an independent ticket. King rule and organization politics, together with corruption influence, were the main issues raised, and these together with the fight made against certain city officials, were the causes leading up to the defeat of the regularly nominated Mayor.

Having in mind this lesson, those in charge of the party machinery took unusual care to see that the criticism of snap judgement, and closed primaries could not be levelled at the nominees this year. The nominees this year, for the first time in the history of the City, were named in a primary held open for the entire afternoon and open to all who desired to make a count. The following names were placed in nomination for City Councilmen:

MR. ELMER E. BRADLEY,
MR. WILMER L. TILGHMAN,
MR. I. ERNEST JONES,
MR. FRANCIS M. MITCHELL.

The vote was as follows: Bradley 272, Jones 265, Tilghman 278, Mitchell 15. Mr. H. H. Hitch received two votes and Mr. Merrill Abbott one. Neither of these gentlemen were regularly placed in nomination.

The primaries were conducted by the following officers: Judges, John W. Kiffin and John H. Farlow, Clerks, Carl Brewington and George Waller Phillips.

The following City Commissioners were elected: J. O. White, E. E. Twilley, O. E. Harper, Thomas Perry and G. E. Mitchell. The nominees for City Council are all young business men of Salisbury and are representative citizens. Mr. Elmer E. Bradley represents Camden and South Salisbury. He is well acquainted with the needs of the whole city and has time to give to the duties of Councilman.

Mr. I. Ernest Jones is a prominent railroad man of this city and is Division Passenger and Freight Agent of the Baltimore Chesapeake and Atlantic Railroad.

Mr. Wilmer L. Tilghman is one of the young manufacturers of this city. He is a member of the C. H. Disharoon Company, large mill operators, and his interest centers in the East end of the city and he is a hustler. He would make a valuable member of the Council as helping to represent the most rapidly growing section of the city. He has fine ideas regarding public improvements and is public spirited and progressive.

RED MEN CLOSE ANNUAL Meeting—Annual Reports And Election—Westport Next Year.

The brave in attendance on the seventy sixth annual Great Council of Maryland Improved Order of Red Men, gathered around the council fire and attended strictly to business. Those bearing reports, electing officers and selecting the next place of meeting the choice of location falling upon Westport which will next year see what it can do toward keeping up with the record made by Frederick this time.

The report of Dr. Littleton, of Baltimore, great keeper of records, showed a total of 81 tribes in the State, with a membership of 8 712 braves. Last year 854 new members were admitted to the order, 709 were suspended, 8 expelled and 73 died.

Receipts from all the tribes amounted to $74,836.16; $28,984.32 was expended for relief of members, $4,174.65 and $708.04 for burial of dead and orphans, $3 726.04 for voluntary donations, a total of $37,636.05. The income from the per capita tax was $5,271.34.

The report of Great Keeper of Wampum, Elisha E. Twilley of Salisbury showed receipts of $7,381.82 and disbursements of $4,956.06 leaving a balance of $2,425.76. The finance committee—Messrs. Albert L. Baker, J. H. Sloan, and F. H. Sewell—reported that the accounts of the great chief of records and the great keeper of wampum were found correct.

The election of officers developed a warm contest for several subordinate positions. The place most sought was that of great junior sagamore, which is regarded as the stepping stone to higher rank in the Great Council. Those elected were:

Great Sachem—Henry L. Bennett, Frederick.
Great Senior Sagamore—T. H. H. Blade, St. Michaels.
Great Junior Sagamore—John W. Walker, Baltimore.
Great Chief of Records—Dr. James O. Littleton, Baltimore.
Great Keeper of Wampum—Albert W. Baker, Baltimore.
Charles W. Townsend, the retiring Great Sachem, was elected Great Prophet and he was also chosen to represent the Maryland Council at the Great Council of the United States, Mr. I. L. Price, of Salisbury, was appointed on the Finance Committee.

CHALK TALK READY

For Thursday Night At Uman's Opera House—Other Artists.

J. Franklin Cavany, the chalk-talk artist, is to be at Uman's Opera House Monday evening, when, assisted by Marie M. Cavany and George W. Malpas, he will give one of his ever-popular entertainments under the auspices of the Uman Association of the Wicomico Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Cavany has achieved fame in Lyceum circles by his address and the diversity of his program; being a humorist, caricaturist, impersonator and play modeler. The Chicago Tribune says of him: "Cavany's chalk-talk was grand. His diction is superb. He is a genius."

Mr. Cavany is a musician of rare accomplishments, her work at the piano and her rich, full soprano voice having been the object of much favorable criticism.

The real beauty and charm of a superb tenor voice will be fully realized by all who hear Mr. George W. Malpas. This noted soloist is the tenor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Philadelphia, and has few superiors in his line.

It is confidently expected that this will be a delightful entertainment.

MASONIC RECEPTION

The Three Masonic Bodies of Salisbury Entertained Tuesday Night.

The Masonic fraternity was out in full force Tuesday night at the Masonic Temple. From eight to twelve o'clock the two large lodge rooms were crowded with invited guests, more than 350 guests being present. Elliott's Orchestra, of Wilmington, furnished music for the occasion and during the evening speeches were made. Guests were present from Orisfield, Delmar, Marshfield, Hebron and Princess Anne and all seemed to enjoy the occasion very much.

The rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion and refreshments were served in the blue room from nine to twelve. While many of the guests were in evening dress the whole affair was informal and everybody felt at ease. It was the first large gathering the Masons have held here for several years and it was voted a great success.

Great Sachem—Henry L. Bennett, Frederick.
Great Senior Sagamore—T. H. H. Blade, St. Michaels.
Great Junior Sagamore—John W. Walker, Baltimore.
Great Chief of Records—Dr. James O. Littleton, Baltimore.
Great Keeper of Wampum—Albert W. Baker, Baltimore.
Charles W. Townsend, the retiring Great Sachem, was elected Great Prophet and he was also chosen to represent the Maryland Council at the Great Council of the United States, Mr. I. L. Price, of Salisbury, was appointed on the Finance Committee.

Johnson—McFaul Wedding.

A very pretty quiet wedding was solemnized at the Farmington parsonage Wednesday, April the twenty sixth at one o'clock when Ethel Milby, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. D. F. McFaul became the bride of Mr. William J. Johnson, son of Mr. Zack Johnson, of Houston, Del. They were attended by Miss Katherine McFaul, of Wilmington, Del., and Mr. Wallace McFaul, sister and brother of the bride and Miss Elizabeth and Mr. Zack Johnson, Jr., sister and brother of the bridegroom. They entered the parlor to the beautiful strains of Loehengrin's march, rendered by Miss Grace McFaul, sister of the bride and were joined in marriage by the bride's father, assisted by Rev. I. S. Whitaker, of Houston, Del.

The bride was crowned in white silk trimmed in lace and ribbons and carried a large bouquet of bride's roses. The bridegroom wore a suit of black broadcloth. Miss Johnson and Miss McFaul wore beautiful gowns of pink and blue respectively.

Immediately after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left on the three o'clock express for Washington and other points. After their return they will reside in Houston, Del. The bride was the recipient of a number of beautiful presents.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Zack Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Johnson and Mr. Zack Johnson, Jr., Miss Margaret Wright and Miss Grace Tristram, of Houston; Rev. W. F. Stewart, of Camden, Del., Mrs. Mary Smaek and daughter, Miss Emma of Delaware, Ohio, grandmother and aunt of the bride; Rev. and Mrs. F. W. Laphan, of Saint Petersburg, Florida, uncle and aunt of the bride, Miss May McFaul, of Middletown, Del., Miss Katherine McFaul, of Wilmington, Del., and Rev. I. S. Whitaker, of Houston, Del.

Prices for the engagement of the English Opera Company are subsidized at $7 and 75c by the new Salisbury Band for which the company will appear as a benefit.

Gone South To Buy Timber

Messrs. Elmer O. Williams, L. Lee Laws and B. P. Bailey left Salisbury Sunday night for Georgia to look at a large tract of land with a view of purchasing same for development. Mr. Williams is already interested in timber in that state where the Crawford-Williams Lumber Company is operating at Duncan. Mr. Williams while in the South will take over the interests of Mr. Guy Crawford and continue to operate the property. If the three gentlemen succeed in closing a deal for the timber they will put in a big plant to operate same in the fall. Mr. Laws is an experienced mill operator and will probably have charge of that end of the business if it is established.

School Consolidation.

A large number of citizens from each side of Delmar assembled in the Opera House Thursday evening to consider the advisability of consolidating the two schools. There are about 350 pupils in the two, requiring the services of two principals and eleven assistants, and the expenditure of more than $5,000 in salaries.

Prof. Holloway, of Wicomico, and Prof. Hardesty, of Sussex, were at the meeting and advocated union. Elder A. B. Francis and Mr. B. E. Slemmons made addresses setting forth the desirability and advantages of a consolidation.

An expression of sentiment was taken by a rising vote, 60 for and 40 against it. The matter was left with the superintendents for further consideration.

Two vacant scholarships will be due Wicomico County next scholastic year in St. John's College, Annapolis. One gives free board and tuition; the other tuition only, leaving holder to provide his own board and expenses. The School Board will receive applications for these scholarships. If more than one applicant for each place, the scholarships will be awarded after competitive examinations.

GRAND OPERA TO BE Heard Here—Fine Company Will Appear Thursday For The Benefit Of The New Salisbury Band.

An unusual cast of singers of established reputation are to be heard Thursday night at the Opera House in the cast of "Cavalleria Rusticana" by the English Grand Opera Company and the program, as arranged, is certainly a combination to conjure an ideal musical and educational entertainment.

A double performance—two operas grand and comic in one night, is called "Gala Night" in musical circles. Oppenbach's sparkling little comic opera will precede the grand opera. During the interval the orchestra will play the latest selections from semi-popular music of the day including numbers from Madam Butterfly, the Chocolate Soldier and the Spring Maid.

Rumors were current for some days previous to the nomination that Mr. H. H. Hitch would make a fight for a re-nomination. Such was not the case however. It became known soon after the nomination that another ticket would be put in the field, and it was rumored that first one and then another would make up this ticket.

At a meeting held on Thursday night the following gentlemen were decided upon:

MR. HERBERT H. HITCH,
MR. FRANK M. MITCHELL,
MR. MERRILL ABBOTT.

These gentlemen will run under the name of Citizens' Municipal Ticket.

Herbert H. Hitch, is a prominent merchant conducting a large retail business in California. He has served in the Council in his several terms about eighteen years. He had many friends who desired to see him enter the regular primaries.

Merrill Abbott is a prominent builder and contractor and resides on Camden Avenue. Mr. Abbott's name has been heard several times in connection with this office.

Frank M. Mitchell, who resides on William Street, is also a leading builder and contractor, who has made a great success in his business ventures.

It is generally understood that the issue will be closely drawn at the coming election. The regular organization of the Democratic party will put forth every effort to elect the ticket nominated at the primaries, while it is currently reported and generally believed that the other ticket will have the active support and help of Republican organization in their fight.

Workers' Conferences.

State Supr. Geo. H. Nook spent Sunday last in Wicomico and conducted three Workers' Conferences at Marshfield, Mills Chapel and Spring Grove. M. E. Churches. They were well attended and the interest was great. Mr. Nook's long experience in Sunday School work enabled him to give many valuable suggestions. Among the matters discussed was the cigarette problem. As a result a resolution was passed with a view favorable to the passing of a law by the next legislature prohibiting the manufacture and sale of cigarettes. Later, at the State Supr. funds opportunity, similar conferences will be held in other parts of the county.

BELIEVE POLICE MURDERED

Youth—Mother Accusing Officials To Have Body of Son Exhumed As Evidence.
Was William E. Warrington murdered in Easton, Md., on the night of December 17th, 1910, or was his death the result of heart disease as reported? The question will, in all probability, be definitely answered within a few days, and it is now believed that sufficient evidence can be secured to prove that his death was not due to natural causes, but was the direct result of brutal and unnatural treatment at the hands of certain police officers in Easton, Md.

On the night of Saturday, December 17th, 1910, Warrington was arrested by the police of Easton, and, it is alleged, in spite of his protests and demands for an immediate trial he was taken to the jail, and when he resisted was picked up bodily and thrown into a cell; his head striking the cement floor and dislocating his neck, and that he received no further attention until the following morning when his lifeless body was found where it had been thrown the night before.

An inquest was called with M. B. Nichols, president of the County School Board, as foreman, but no post-mortem examination was held as a physician present decided it was unnecessary, and testified that Warrington had died from "heart disease superinduced by over stimulation and over exertion." The jury at once returned a verdict that Warrington's death was the result of natural causes.

Undertaker Is Suspicious.
On the following Tuesday morning his body was carried to Seaford to the home of his mother, Mrs. John Newell, and buried in the Odd Fellows' Cemetery the same day. When the casket was opened there, Undertaker Medford L. Watson, had his suspicions aroused by the appearance of the head and neck of the corpse, and after an examination declared it was his belief that the neck was broken. Dr. Everett Shipley was summoned by a member of the family and went to the home to examine the body, but was ordered away by another relative who objected to an examination being made and the body was buried.

Since that time a quiet investigation has been conducted by Mrs. Newell, mother of the dead man, and the evidence secured was handed to Magistrate George E. M. Stangle, who at once communicated with Deputy Attorney General Frank M. Jones, of Georgetown, and Governor Austin L. Crothers, of Maryland, as a result of which it has been decided to exhumate the body, and Governor Crothers has notified State's Attorney J. Frank Turner, of Easton, to send a representative to Seaford to get the result of the investigation.

Thus for the investigation has not been announced as it is desired to have it done privately, but that it will be done in a few days is certain. It is said the State will be able to prove that undue violence was used in handling the prisoner, and that his death was the result of a dislocated neck, received when he was thrown into the cell, and furthermore, that his injuries would not necessarily have caused his death if he had received proper medical attention at the time.

It is said a young woman of Easton is willing to testify to the treatment Warrington received and that for several hours afterwards his moans and groans could be distinctly heard on the outside, but that no one was allowed inside of the jail until the following morning when his body was found upon the cement floor.

Mother Certain of Murder.
The death was discussed freely both at Seaford and at Easton at the time and frequently the statement was made that the police had blundered and that the authorities were not as thorough in their investigations as they should have been.

Mrs. Newell believes that her boy was murdered and it is determined that the guilty parties shall be punished. Ever since the body of her son was carried home she has been quietly at work securing evidence. She has visited Easton several times, as have other members of the family, and little by little, gathered evidence that she is confident will prove conclusively that the death of her son was the result of foul play.

A committee was before the Council urging the widening and straightening of Pittwater Street. The Council and Mayor were named as a committee to investigate the matter.

Annual Congregational Meeting.

The annual congregational meeting was held Monday at St. Peter's P. E. Church, when the old board of vestry men were re-elected together with the Senior and Junior Wardens.

Treasurer Wm. Mc Cooper made his financial report for the year, which was fairly satisfactory. The committee having in charge the remodeling of the church made the report showing that improvements amounting to more than three thousand dollars had been put on the church during the past year. The Sunday School room and the basement has been made a most attractive room by Contractor W. E. Booth, and the tower on the church completed. Other improvements have been made in the rear of the church, and the property is now in first class condition.

A committee was named to finance the improvements and to clear up the debt on same, which will be taken up at once and pushed to a conclusion.

The Buyer who knows the Difference in Automobiles will own a

Our first object in advertising the Cadillac Thirty is to teach the buyers the real essentials of an automobile and to help them become competent to judge the merits of a car. If buyers knew the vast difference in automobiles, we would have three purchasers for every Cadillac we could secure.

Cadillac is Manufactured
There is abundant evidence to prove that no car at $2,500 or under will compare favorably with the Cadillac Thirty. In the first place a dependable, lasting automobile must be a manufactured car. It is foolhardy to claim that a machine assembled from parts secured here and there will give the same quality of service as a car the parts of which are made under one roof, with a thorough knowledge of the relation of each part to every other. The high standard of accuracy required in an automobile cannot be attained in an assembled car. Neither can the parts be made standard, so that the owner can rely on repair parts fitting properly. The buyer who knows automobiles will demand a great deal of the factory behind the car he is considering. And he ought to. It's the best insurance he can secure against high upkeep and trouble.

Cadillac Dependability
If you were an expert mechanic and had plenty of time to devote to your car, you could get good service from most any well-known machine. But only a few are expert mechanics. When you buy a car you want steady, uninterrupted service. You will get this in a Cadillac, whether you are mechanically inclined or not. And you will get it at lower upkeep expense than with any other car. Truly, the buyer who knows the difference in automobiles will own a Cadillac Thirty.

HOW I Was Cured of Malaria

"I was for over five years troubled with Malarial Fever. It would almost always come on in the Spring and would bother me for the remainder of the summer. I tried different medicines, but they did not seem to help me. I also had the doctor off and on for some time but the next year I would be troubled just the same and I would have to be at home for several weeks. I would be in bed one day and have chills and a heavy fever, and the next day I would be up about the house, and this is the way I would be for several weeks each summer.

"I finally decided to try some good blood medicine, so I began taking Pinkham's Blood Purifier, and found it did me lots of good. I began taking it early in the spring and continued taking it all through the summer. I found, after taking a few bottles, that my body was covered with pimples, and it seemed to drive all the humor out of my blood. After that I felt much better, and now I am just as healthy as ever I was, and I am never troubled with Malarial Fever."—George P. Snow, 35 Groveland Street, Lynn, Mass. Thousands of people believe in Malaria is caused by a parasite which gets into the blood, and unless the blood is in a healthy condition and has normal resisting properties, they attack and destroy the red corpuscles, and so seriously impair the general health.

Chills and fever are the most marked symptoms of Malaria, which can be cured by purifying and enriching the blood. Mr. Strong found that Pinkham's Blood Purifier cured him after all other means had failed, and what it did for Mr. Strong it will do for other sufferers.

DEATH NOT DEATH.
They never fall who die
In a great cause; the block may smoke their gore,
Their heads may sicken in the sun, their limbs
Be strung to city gates and castle walls.
But still their spirits walk abroad, though years
Eclipse and others share as dark a doom.
They but augment the deep and swelling thoughts
That overpower all others and conduct the world at last to freedom.
—Byron.

JUDGMENT.
It is a tremendous responsibility for any human being to say to another that that other is morally wrong. This implies a right of final judgment which is not only unauthorized, but presumptuous in the last degree.—
Job E. Hedges.

IMMIGRATION.
Let a boy come here from Germany or Russia or Britain who has all his life been permeated by the pernicious doctrine that one man is born to a right that here all are held to be created equal and that under our starry flag one man's privilege is every man's right, and you need not fear that that boy will be a German or Russian or Briton any more. He is more American than the native American, who is merely born to it. A man who knows that this republic has for the first time made him a man will never trouble the liberty of the republic. He cannot help loving the republic. It must not be forgotten that a man who comes here has the ambition to rise in the world, and he has also in some way contrived to save the money to come here—two very important things as showing character.—
Andrew Carnegie.

OBJECT OF LIFE.
I live for those who love me.
For those who know me true,
For the heaven that smiles above me,
And waits my spirit, too:
For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrong that needs resistance,
For the future in the distance
And the good that I can do.
—George Linnaeus Banks.

HEAD AND HEART.
No true manhood can be trained by a merely intellectual process. You cannot train men by the intellect alone; you must train them by the heart, and this shows the fundamental mistake which is being made by some modern teachers. You can never train a church out of the head. You may have a church so called, and you may open halls and bring to them the most scientific men in Europe, and you may lecture on all scientific topics, yet you can never make a church out of the head. You must take hold of manhood by the heart if you would train it into strength and dignity and usefulness.—Joseph Parker.

EXPERIENCE.
I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of experience. I know of no way of judging the future but by the past.—Patrick Henry.

CONTENTMENT.
Some have too much, yet still do crave.
I little have and seek no more.
They are but poor though much they have.
And I am rich with little store.
They poor, I rich; they beg, I give:
They lack, I have; they pine, I live.
—Edward Dyer.

SELF RESPECT.
I am more afraid of deserving criticism than of receiving it—Gladstone.
Self reverence, self knowledge, self control—
These three alone lead to sovereign power.
—Tennyson.

I am not concerned that I am not known. I seek to be worthy to be known.—Cicero.
When thou hast profited so much that thou respectest even thyself, thou mayest let go thy tutor.—Seneca Learn to stand in awe of thyself.—Democritus.

The Call of The Blood
For purification, finds voice in pimples, boils, yellow complexion, a jaundiced look, moth patches and blotches on the skin—all signs of liver trouble. But Dr. King's New Life Pills make rich red blood; give clear skin, rose cheeks, fine complexion, health. Try them. 35 cents at All Druggists.

"Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—grip. Has been used with success in our family for many years."
—Mrs. L. Whitcomb, Boston, N. Y.

THE JUDGESHIP.

No one at any time believed that Mr. Jos. L. Bailey would allow any personal ambition to prejudice Wicomico County's chance to nominate a Judge this fall.

DELMAR STATE ROAD.

There is likely to be a lively contest over the route to be taken by the new State Road, recently presented to Delaware by Col. Dupont.

Wicomico is interested in this road to the extent that the building of it by the way of Delmar would mean considerable to the convenience of many in this locality who have occasion to use this road.

REPUBLICAN TROUBLES.

It has been freely prophesied by our Republican friends that the extra session would be the death blow of the Democratic hope for the next Presidential election.

Short Crop of Cow Peas Prices Are Going Up!
The enormous demand for Cow Peas last year carried the price very high, and as the crop is very short and the acreage is rapidly extending, there are many indications which point to much higher prices as the sowing season approaches.
Whip-poor-will Cow Peas. The Whip-poor-will are generally preferred in the Central and Southern States. They are bush form and early maturing and especially desirable for Peas.
New Era Cow Peas. New Era are a little earlier and make more vines than the Whip-poor-will.
Wonderfuls, Clays and Mixed Cow Peas. For Hay, the Wonderfuls are the best. They should be planted with an occasional grain of Corn, Sorghum Seed, Kaffir with the ground.
Black Cow Peas. Black Cow Peas are a little earlier in maturing than Clays; they make a good growth of vine, are exceptionally good for medium or poor land, and will stand almost any amount of wet weather without injury.
We can also supply Shinney Peas, Red Rippers, Blackeye Peas and Soja Beans.
REMEMBER—Bolgiano's Cow Peas are unquestionably the best. If your Local Merchant will not supply Bolgiano's Cow Peas, write us direct and we will tell you where you can get them.

JESUS NO LONGER A MAN

Since His Resurrection He Is "The Lord of Glory."

Begotten and Born of the Spirit, "Put to Death in Flesh, Quicken in Spirit."

London, April 23.—P. A. Russell preached in London Tabernacle to-day in a crowded house. His theme was the resurrected Lord, no longer a man, but ascended where he was before—made partaker of the divine nature. His text was, "He was put to death in flesh, but quickened in spirit" (1 Peter iii. 18). The speaker said:

In the past those of us who continued to believe in the resurrection of the dead, held some inconsistent theories respecting the matter which served to make the resurrection doctrine more absurd in the minds of those opposed. For instance, we claimed that the Logos, the Son of God, left the heavenly or spirit nature and, according to the Scriptures, was made flesh and that He was resurrected from the dead a human or fleshly being and ascended to heaven with a body of flesh. In the same breath we acknowledged that human nature is a little lower than the angels; and thus, while still wishing to honor the Redeemer and to see wisdom and love in the Heavenly Father's Plan, we assumed that the Savior, since His ascension, has had a body inferior to that of the angels and out of harmony with His surroundings; and that this is to be all eternity a part of the cost of human redemption.

How absurd! Do not the Scriptures particularly tell us that in His resurrection the Son was highly exalted by the Father, far above angels, principalities and powers and every name that is named? Do they not tell us that "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God"? Do they not tell us that the elect Church, in order to be the Bride of Messiah and His associate in the heavenly Kingdom, must be "changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye," in order that she may be made like Him, and because "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom"? We have been too careless in our study of the Divine Word. On this subject, as upon others, we have assumed that our forefathers of the "Dark Ages" understood the matter thoroughly. We forgot that those who lost so much of the Holy Spirit that they could burn fellow-Christians at the stake were quite likely to be more or less confused on all questions. But "the path of the just is as a shining light, shining more and more unto the perfect day," and it is now our privilege to learn the way of the Lord more perfectly, in the light now shining upon the Bible through the aid of our wonderful concordances and other Bible study helps.

Begotten of the Spirit—Then Born. Our difficulty on this subject arose from our failure to understand that human and spirit natures are distinct, and that God has provided two distinctly different salvations for mankind—the salvation of this age being exclusively spiritual, while that of the next age will be exclusively human. We are not to think of these natures as blending, but according to the Lord's Word, we are to view them as distinctly separate. Whoever is of the human nature is earthly—fleshly, whether perfect or degraded. Whoever is of the spirit nature is heavenly, whether perfect or degraded. Thus, when "the Logos was made flesh and dwelt among us," He was human, though unblemished. And the fallen angels are still spirit beings, although cut off from Divine favor and fellowship. In other words, human nature is not an imperfect form of spirit nature, but a totally separate and distinct nature.

The Logos, the Only Begotten of the Father, "was made flesh" (John i. 14). He was not a spirit being incarnated in a body of flesh and wearing it as a garment, or living in it as a house. He became like others of the race, except that "He was holy, harmless, separate from sinners," while all others are sinners, imperfect. Like other men, the man Jesus was not a dual being—a spirit being living in a human frame. He was merely human. But the Redeemer became a dual being when He received the begetting of the Holy Spirit at the time of His baptism. Thenceforth, for three and a half years, until His crucifixion, He was dual. The flesh was the same; but the spirit-begetting received from the Father constituted Him a new ego, a new person. He not only thereafter had new hopes, based upon Divine promises, but He had a new mind or new will specially illumined, quickened, enlightened by the Holy Spirit. From the time of His baptism His flesh (that which belonged to His human nature) was given up to die in the carrying out of the Heavenly Father's purposes. Thenceforth the Spirit-begotten One waited merely for the accomplishment of His sacrifice according to the Father's will, and for a new body, a glorious spirit body, in the resurrection—His completing or perfecting as a New Creature.

Three and One-half Years Our Lord Was a Dual Being. Hence, during the period of our Lord's ministry, for three and a half years, He was a dual personage. So far as form and organism were concerned He was a man, but as far as mind and purpose and interests were concerned He was changed—A New Creature, a spirit being; earthly things had passed away. The New Creature followed the instructions of the Divine Word and providences to the extent of mortifying His flesh—surrendering it fully for the accomplishment of it of the Divine will. "The cup which My Father hath poured for Me shall I not drink?" The great Teacher Himself gives us the picture of a human birth as illustrating the experiences through which He passed and the similar experiences through which all of His faithful followers must pass in order to reach the pangs of heavenly glory. This picture contains three distinctive views—(1) begetting—(2) quickening—(3) birth. These three steps were illustrated by our Lord's own experiences. He was begotten of the Holy Spirit at the time of His consecration at baptism. He was quickened or energized by the Holy Spirit in the wilderness when He began His active service as "the Messenger of the Covenant," selecting His Bride, the Church.

When He finished His sacrifice at Calvary the man Jesus was dead, and the New Creature Jesus, spirit-begotten and quickened and developed, was three and a half years old. According to the Divine Program He slept in Hades, the tomb, and on the third day was born from the dead, raised up by Divine power as a New Creature, being given a spirit body of divine nature. "Him hath God highly exalted" (Philippians ii. 9). He did not lose His personality. His identity, and could therefore properly say, "I am He that liveth and was dead" (Rev. i. 18).

"Now the Lord Is That Spirit." II Corinthians iii. 17. This was our Lord "put to death in flesh and quickened in spirit"—made alive in spirit, a Spirit Being. True, He was also quickened by the Spirit. It was the Father's Spirit or Power which raised Him from the dead, as the Scriptures declare (Romans viii. 11). Indeed, as the Apostle reminds us, all the blessings of Divine providence are of the Father. From Him cometh every good and every perfect gift.

He Who thus ascended up on high, the Prince of glory and partaker of the divine nature, is the same Who first descended to the earthly nature, yea, Who was humbled even unto death, even the death of the Cross, and went to the tomb of the sinner's substitute. His forty days' teaching equally intervened between the Redeemer's resurrection and His ascension taught two great lessons:

(1) That the crucified One was no longer held in the bonds of death, no longer a prisoner in the grave.

(2) It also taught that the Risen One was different in many respects from what He was before He died. No longer was He a man. No longer was He flesh. The body of flesh prepared for Him for the suffering of death had served its purpose. He needed it no longer. The Father had raised Him up to the plane of glory again. As a quickening spirit He was with the disciples during the forty days, instructing them during the few moments of each of His seven or eight appearances. His words, teaching them equally when invisible to them. He noted their perplexities. His several appearances were in different forms—as a gardener, as a traveler, as a purchaser of fish on the shore of Lake Tiberias, calling out, "Have you any fish?" and then, "Drop the net on the other side."

He "revealed" Himself to the disciples in various ways in connection with those materializations and then straightway He "vanished" out of their sight, to be present with them, unseen, for days. For identification He appeared on two occasions in a body bearing the marks of His crucifixion. During those forty days the faithful Teacher established the faith of His followers in "Himself," the crucified Messiah, the Heavenly Bridegroom, Who would later come again and receive them into Himself and at that time give to them also a similar resurrection "change," that they should be like Him, "see Him as He is" and not as He was, and share His glory—because "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God" (I Corinthians xv. 50).

"Above the Brightness of the Sun." St. Paul, the last of the twelve Apostles to be called to take the place of Judas, needed, as well as the others, to be able to witness to the resurrection of Jesus. Of this He tells us, saying, "He was seen of Cephas, then of the twelve; after that He was seen of above five hundred brethren at once; after that He was seen of James; then of all the Apostles; and last of all, He was seen of me also, as of one prematurely born" (I Corinthians xv. 5-8).

In the ordinary course of events St. Paul would not have seen the Lord until His resurrection, when he himself would come forth as a member of "the Church of the First-born." He therefore describes his view of Jesus on his way to Damascus as being like that of one born before Him. In other words, St. Paul saw the Lord as He is and not as He was. He saw the Lord of glory, and not the man Jesus. The appearance was glorious indeed. In various parts of the Bible angels in their normal condition are pictured as bright-shining ones. Thus one of the Prophets fell as dead before an angel of the Lord, whose face shone as the sun. Thus John the Evangelist, granted a glimpse of the glorified Christ, fell as dead before Him. The effect of this great light above the brightness of the sun upon the eyes of Saul of Tarsus was destructive and a miracle was necessary for their repairment.

Thus the Lord identified Himself in glory with His former self, the man Jesus. These lessons of the Lord should not have gone unheeded. We should not have thought of the glorified Messiah as a man. The effect of the wrong thought has not only clouded our appreciation of the Savior in glory, but has also confused many respecting His Second Advent. It is safe to say that even yet the majority of those who are expecting the Second Coming of the Son of God and His establishment of His Messianic Throne are looking for Him as a glorified man, forgetting that He sacrificed Himself as a man, and that He took not back that sacrifice, but received exaltation to the many excellent glory than that which He had left to become our Redeemer. These wrong expectations respecting Messiah's Kingdom have turned the hearts of many in a contrary direction.

They have reasoned correctly—that the establishment of an earthly Kingdom, with Christ the King in the flesh and His salutes joint-heirs with Him in His Throne, also in the flesh, and with an earthly court—would be a condition of things inferior to the present one and apparently very inadequate for the accomplishment of "the great things which the Bible promises Messiah's Kingdom will secure." The proper thought respecting the resurrection of our Lord and His present glory shows us clearly that His Kingdom, when it shall be established, will, indeed, be a heavenly Kingdom, a spiritual one. From this standpoint only can we see the force of the Apostle's contrast, when he pictures to us how Satan, ambitious and scheming to be the Emperor of the world, took the path of disobedience. He indeed gained his desire and is the "Prince of this world"—over a sorry Sion, in which sin and death reign. On the other hand, the Apostle points us to the fact that our Redeemer, loyal to the Heavenly Father to the core, humbled Himself to take the human nature, to be crucified; and that therefore God has exalted Him and will give to Him the Kingdom now usurped by Satan, the Prince of this world.

Satan will be bound for the thousand years of Messiah's reign. The spiritual Prince of darkness will be deposed and the spiritual Prince of Light and Truth, the Father's honored Agent, will be inaugurated as King of kings and Lord of lords. And "He must reign until He shall have put all enemies under His feet"—the last enemy being death. Adamic death, the death introduced through the deceptive lie of "Satan, who was a murderer from the beginning and abode not in the Truth" (John viii. 44).

St. Paul, according to the Greek text, institutes a comparison between Satan's course and that of the Logos (Philippians ii. 6). He there implies that Satan was ambitious and sought to grasp Divine prerogatives, but that the Logos "did not meditate a usurpation to be equal with God," but, on the contrary, humbled Himself and made Himself of no reputation. Nevertheless, eventually, in the outworking of the Creator's great Program, the One who humbled Himself will be the Exalted One, and the one who exalted himself will be abased. The Apostle urges the Church to follow the example of Jesus—"Humble yourselves, therefore, under the mighty hand of God, that He may exalt you in due time" (I Peter v. 6).

STRUGGLES. He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill. Our antagonist is our helper.—Edmund Burke.

AFTER 7 YEARS SUFFERING

I Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Waurika, Okla.—"I had female troubles for seven years, was all run down, nervous, could not do anything. The doctors treated me for different things but did me no good. I got so bad that I could not sleep day or night. While in this condition I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and began its use and wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. In a short time I had gained my average weight and am now strong and well."—Mrs. SALLIE STEVENS, E. F. D., No. 8, Box 81, Waurika, Okla.

Another Grateful Woman. Huntington, Mass.—"I was in a nervous, run-down condition and for three years could find no help. 'I owe my present good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier which I believe saved my life.' 'My doctor knows what helped me and does not say one word against it.'—Mrs. MARI JANETTE BATES, Box 184, Huntington, Mass.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, and nervous prostration.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out. Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, or stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. Please send free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

117 Feet Of Snakes Seen Stretched Out On Fence.

People who traveled the highway from Addison to Leesburg, Pa., saw 117 feet of snakes laid along a board fence.

Tony Nicola and two sons killed nineteen snakes in the cellar of a vacant farm house. Never in that section have there been so many large black snakes been known to congregate in one bunch. Several black snakes measured fifty two feet, or more than seven feet each.

Eleven were females and in a short time more than one hundred young snakes would have been added to the list. The males are unusually savage at this season and had it not been for the timely arrival of the elder Nicola one of his sons might have been killed, as two of them had wrapped themselves around one arm and one leg of the youth.

The family will not, as they had intended, occupy the house.

CRYING FOR HELP

Lots of it in Salisbury But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help. Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed. Not one so important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble. It is the kidneys cry for help. Feed it.

Doan's Kidney Pills is what is wanted. Are just what overworked kidneys need. They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys; help them to do their work. Read the proof of a Salisbury citizen.

Miss Laura A. White, 205 William Street, Salisbury, Md., writes: "I am very glad to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement. Two months ago I got a box of this remedy at White & Leonard's Drug Store, and it gave me quick relief from acute pain in my back. I have had no trouble to speak of since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Can You Believe Your Senses?

When two of them, taste and smell, having been impaired if not utterly destroyed, by Nasal Catarrh, are fully restored by Ely's Cream Balm and you doubt that this remedy deserves all that has been said of it by the thousands who have used it? EXTRAVAGANCE.

Extravagance has been our great fault. We have been waiting entirely too much in non-productive undertakings. As a rule, we have been given too much to adornments. We have become obsessed with "the city beautiful" in municipal affairs. We have followed like policies in the state and national governments. Battleships, not only in this country, but also abroad, are illustrations of the extravagance in which the world has been plunged in the past two decades. The money for their construction has been withdrawn from commercial enterprises and almost as good as squandered, so far as there can be any tangible results observed.—James J. Hill.

FEED THE HUNGRY.

When Christ fed the multitude, you know, he did not give any lecture or precede it with homilies. He just fed the hungry, you remember. I think that is very significant, and I believe that when people are in need they should be lifted out of their condition.—Mrs. Russell Sage.

THE COMMONPLACE.

A commonplace life, we say, and we sigh.

But why should we sigh as we say?

The commonplace sun in the commonplace sky.

Makes up the commonplace day.

The moon and the stars are commonplace things.

The flowers that bloom and the birds that sing.

But sad were the world and dark our lot.

If the flowers faded and the sun shone not.

And God, who sees each separate soul.

Out of commonplace lives makes his beautiful whole.

—Susan Coolidge.

The Demerol of the Air is the germ of Grippe, that, breathing in, brings suffering to thousands. Its after effects are weakness, nervousness, lack of appetite, energy and ambition, with disordered liver and kidneys. The greatest need then is Electric Bitters, the splendid tonic, blood purifier and regulator of Stomach, Liver and Kidneys. Thousands have proved that they wonderfully strengthen the nerves, build up the system and restore health and good spirits after an attack of Grip. If suffering, try them. Only 50 cents. Worse Than Bullets.

Bullets have often caused less suffering to soldiers than the sores, ulcers, I. W. Harrison, Burlington, Md., was in the army, and suffered with, forty years. "But Buckler's Astringent Salve cured me when all else failed," he writes. Greatest healer for Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Burns, Cuts, Wounds, Bruises and Piles. 25 cents at All Druggists.

LARGEST CARRIAGE, WAGON & HARNESS DEALER
In the State of Maryland
...1911...

TAYLOR'S Horse and Carriage Bazaar has been crowded in this month with buyers. Never before were there so many strangers in our town buying horses, mules, wagons, buggies and harness; in fact it is hard to get waited on. Out-of-town customers are waiting to make arrangements ahead.

If anyone thinks the above statement is not correct and will come here, they will say they never saw anything like it.

I have 50 Horses and Mules, and most anyone can get suited, as our prices keep the crowd coming, and our reliability keeps them satisfied. Our guarantee is as good as any BANK.

I have more Horse Collars and Harness than any five stores on the Eastern Shore. Every customer is an advertisement for me. Seeing is believing; come see for yourself.

FOR SUNDAY NIGHT

MEAL THAT MAY BE SERVED WITH LITTLE LABOR.

Light and Portable Dishes Are a Feature of the Repeat—Chaffing Dish Should Figure in the Should Figure in the

In most households the Sunday night supper is a movable feast, to be eaten when appetites are agreeable. There is scarcely a housekeeper who does not regard it with mixed feelings of pleasure and pain; of pleasure because there is a certain sociability about it that is delightful while it lasts, and of pain because of the work which follows afterward. It is easy enough in the getting and great fun in the eating, but when at a late hour, after much gaiety at table, the poor young housekeeper is confronted by an enormous and indiscriminate pile of unwashed dishes on the kitchen-table, a shadow has invaded the household, and what appeared to have been a simple repeat now seems to have taken all the dishes in the press. The men in the family usually help to carry out the dishes, but this is a mistake, because when the male contingent undertakes this part of the evening's work it is usually necessary to scrape the bottoms of the plates as well as the tops.

A Sunday night supper, however, may be planned with a view to saving labor, and still be everything that could be desired. Coming as it does, after the heavy early dinner, it should consist of dishes of a light and palatable nature, which will not tax the digestion. Sandwiches or plain sliced bread and butter are a great help in the end, because they save the washing of bread and butter plates. Two dishes are the very most that should be expected, and one should often be sufficient. There should be no dessert, because of the heavy dish which winds up most Sunday dinners.

One of these dishes is generally prepared on the chaffing dish, while the other is prepared on the table. That makes only two plates all around. The chaffing dish course may be anything from bacon and eggs or sausages, to creamed oysters and mushrooms. Spaghetti is a favorite course, the spaghetti having been prepared earlier in the day and the tomato sauce made at the table on the chaffing dish. Welsh rabbit is always popular. There is a novelty about it that gives a certain zest to the meal. Other suitable dishes are creamed eggs, cutmeat chicken, lobster a la Newburg, mushroom stew, pigs in blankets, nudels au gratin, etc.

It is a good idea to have a fruit salad for a second course, for this partakes of the nature of dessert and salad at the same time. Almost any fruit makes a delicious salad, but the best are pineapple, orange, grape fruit, chopped apple and lettuce, and pear. With the pineapple salad, a thin mayonnaise is best, with grape fruit or orange salads, French dressing is used, and with apple or pear salads, either kind.

All the Year Round Suet Pudding. American women as a rule do not realize the dietetic value of suet puddings. Nothing in the way of animal food is so easily taken care of by delicate constitutions, and it is especially well not to harm the weakest digestion. Any fruit in season may be used, although pineapple is given as being especially delicious.

Take sugar, suet and milk of each one cupful, a teaspoonful of salt, three eggs and sufficient flour to make a stiff batter. Put half the batter into a steam cooker, add a layer of pineapple by taking about one-third of a good-sized pineapple and cutting it into small pieces, put the rest of the batter on top and steam two hours. Serve with any kind of sweet sauce.

Apricot Cake. One-fourth ounce chocolate (grated), one-half cup milk, yolk of one egg. Cook this all together, until thick, and let cool; then stir in one tablespoon of melted butter, one cup of sugar, one-half cup milk, one teaspoon of vanilla, one and a half cups of flour, and one scant teaspoon of baking soda, put the soda in the flour. Filling: Cook dried apricots, sweeten to taste; when cool spread between layers and on top. Beat the white of the egg to a stiff froth, add two table-spoons of sugar, and stir until smooth. Spread on top of the apricots.

Potato Pancakes. Large potatoes should be peeled over night and put in cold water. In the morning grate and drain them, and for every pint allow two eggs, beaten separately. Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dusting of pepper, and about a tablespoonful of flour, more or less, according to the quality of the potatoes. Brown in butter in thin cakes. In winter these may be used with meat, and in summer they go well with tomato or some brown sauce.

Plain Italian Roast. Take a nice piece of veal roast. If there is a bone in the roast cut around it with a small knife. Between the space put small pieces of garlic, salt and olives to taste. Cut as many times as desired, add more salt and spices to taste and tie a leaf of celery on top of the roast; a small red pepper may be added. Put the roast in a roastingpan, with some imported olive oil, or melted butter if preferred to oil. Cook a half hour, according to size of roast.

"I'm sure," said the postmaster at Drearyhurst, looking mildly at him over his spectacles, "it isn't my fault."

"Well, whose fault is it? I ought to have got it two days ago! Are you sure you haven't handed it out to somebody else?"

"Oh, yes. I'm quite sure I didn't do that. You see—"

"I've come to town today especially to get it. Been taking that paper for seven years. I used to live at Clover Junction."

"I'm sorry, but—"

"What good does your being sorry do? You ain't half as sorry as I am! This is the second time this thing has happened! I didn't get the paper last week either. And you say it isn't your fault! It's somebody's fault, and if it happens again I'll make complaint to the government!"

"I was about to say—"

"I won't stand it any longer! Here I've come six miles through a deep snow—"

"I think I can explain—"

"There's nothing to explain! I want my copy of the Clover Junction Vindicator!"

"Mr. Kincaid, I sympathize with you, but you won't get the Clover Junction Vindicator any more. The Clover Junction Vindicator collapsed, busted, potered out and went up the flue two weeks ago. That's what I was trying to tell you. Please step aside, Mr. Kincaid, and let me see what that little girl wants."—Chicago Tribune.

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

"Don't say 'practical politics' to me, Dick," rasped the reformer. "We've got the strongest argument in the world in the fact that the present law is an unfair one, needing modification or repeal. We mustn't spoil that argument by becoming lawbreakers ourselves and descending to the methods of the grafters and the machine politicians the country over. If you have been sending these pie eaters to me, don't do it any more. I have no use for them, and they won't have any use for me after I open up on them."
"I don't believe I'd do anything rash," said Gantry.
"Dating from this little heart to heart talk with the traffic manager, Blount began to carry out the new policy—"the starvation policy," as it soon came to be known among the would-be henchmen. The result was not altogether reassuring.
Many of the small grafters were on the payrolls of the railroad company, and Blount was soon definitely assured of what he had before only suspected—that they were merely nominal employees, given a payroll standing so that there might be an excuse for giving them free transportation and a retainer in the form of wages, if needful.
In many cases the ramifications of the petty graft were exasperatingly intricate. For example, one Thomas Gryson, who was on the payrolls as a machinist's helper in the repair shops, demanded free transportation across the state for eight members of his family. Questioned closely, he admitted that the "family" was his only figure of speech; that the relationship was entirely political.
Blount promptly refused to recommend the issuing of employees' passes for the eight, and the result was an immediate call from Bentley, the division master mechanic.
"About that fellow Gryson," Bentley began. "Can't you manage some way to get him transportation for his Jonesboro crowd? He is going to make trouble for us if you don't."
Blount was justly indignant. "Gryson is on your payroll," he retorted. "Why don't you demand the passes on account of the motive power department, if he is entitled to them?"
"I can't," admitted the master mechanic. "I am held down to the issuing of passes to employees traveling on company business only. We can stretch it a little sometimes, of course, but we can't make it cover the whole earth."
"Neither can I," Blount exploded. "Let it be understood, once for all, Mr. Bentley, that I am not the scapegoat for all the other departments. I have cut it off short. I am not recommending passes for anybody."
"Excepting Bent," Mr. Blount, "we're simply not to touch the passes of Gryson! He's the boss of his ward, and he has influence enough to turn even our own employees against us!"
"Influence!" scoffed the young man from the east. "How does he acquire his influence? It is merely another illustration of the vicious circle. You put into his hands the price of the club with which he proceeds to knock you down. Let me tell you what I'm telling everybody. If we want a square deal we've got to set the example by being square."
The master mechanic went away, silenced, but not convinced. A week later Gryson, who in appearance was a typical tough and in reality was a postgraduate of the lawless mining camps of the Caradine hills, snatched into Blount's office with an insolent taunt in his mouth.
"Well, pardner, we got them dicky birds over to Jonesboro after so long a time, and no thanks to you, neither. I just blew in to tell you that I'm going to hit you again about day after tomorrow, and if you don't come across there's going to be something doing—see?"
Blount sprang from his chair and forgot to be polite.
"You needn't come to me the day after tomorrow or any other time," he raged. "I'm through with you and your tribe. Get out!"
After Gryson had gone, muttering threats and curses, the young campaign manager had an attack of moral nausea. It seemed such a huge waste of time and energy to traffic and chafe with these petty scoundrels. Thus far every phase of the actual political problem seemed to be merely degraded, and he was beginning to long keenly for an opportunity to do some really worthy thing.
Notwithstanding his ideals were still unshaken. He still clung to the belief that the corporation, which was created by the law and could exist only under the protection of the law, must of necessity be a law abiding entity. It was unsafe to hold it responsible for the disreputable political methods of those whom it could never completely control.
It was on the day of Gryson's visit, as it chanced, that Blount was given his first opportunity of entering the wider field. A letter from one of the party chieftains in a distant mining town brought an invitation for him to kind he had been waiting for. He was asked to participate in a joint debate at the campaign opening in the town in question, and he was so glad of the chance that he instantly wired his acceptance.
That evening at the cafe dinner at the Inter-Mountain he found his father waiting for him and in a burst of confidence told him of the invitation.

"That's good," was the senator's even-toned comment. "Gives you a little chance to show the way you can shine best, doesn't it?" Then, "That was one of the things McVickar wanted you for, wasn't it?"
"Why, yes. He intimated that there might be some public speaking," admitted the younger man.
"Well, what all are you going to tell the Ophir fellows when you get over there?" asked the veteran quietly. "Going to offer 'em all free passes wherever they want to go if they'll promise to vote for the railroad candidates?"
"Not this year," was the laughing reply. "As I told you a week or so ago we've stopped all that."
"McVickar has told you it was stopped?"
The newly fledged political manager tried to be strictly truthful.
"I had but one interview with Mr. McVickar, but in that he gave me to understand that his recommendations would be given due consideration, and I have said my say pretty emphatically."
The senator's smile was not derisive. It was merely lenient.
"Set on 'em good and hard, did you? That's right, son. Never be afraid to say what you mean and to say it straight. Don't forget that when you're making your appeal to the horny handed sons of toil over at Ophir. Give 'em straight facts and back up the facts with figures—if you happen to have the figures. When do you pull out for the camp?"
"Tonight at 9:30. I can't get there in time if I wait for the morning train." Then, dismissing the political topic abruptly, "What do you hear from Professor Anners?"
"Oh, he's having the time of his life. I got him a state permit and scrapped him up a bunch of pick and shovel men, and he is digging out those fossil skeletons by the wagon load."
"And Miss Anners?" pursued Patricia's lover.
"I shouldn't wonder if she was having the time of her life too. I've given her the little four seated car to call her own while she is out here, and she and Honoris go careering around the country, breaking the speed limit every minute in the day, I suppose."
"I'm glad you are giving her a good time," said Evan, and he looked glad. Then he added regretfully: "I wish I could get a chance to chase around a little with them. I have seen almost nothing of them since they came west. I should think Mrs. Blount might bring Patricia down to the city once in awhile."
"Perhaps the young woman doesn't want to come," laughed the senator. "You told me you hadn't got her tag, son, and I'm beginning to believe it. What has she got against you, anyway?"
"Nothing, save that I don't fit into her scheme for her life work."
"It's too bad you're going out of town tonight, son. Honoris phoned me a little spell ago that she and Patricia would be driving down after dinner to take in the Westford reception. You'll miss 'em, won't you?"
"Isn't that just my infernal luck!" lamented Evan; then, "Give them my love and tell them I hope they will stay until I get back."
The senator rose and gripped the hand of leavetaking. "Shall I say that to both of 'em?" he asked, with the quizzical smile which Evan was learning to expect.
"Yes, to both of them, if you like, only I suppose Mrs. Blount will hold it against me. Good night and good-by. I'll be back day after tomorrow if the Ophir miners don't mob me."
It was only a few minutes after Evan had left that he had dreamed Ophirward out of the Sierra Avenue station that a dust covered touring car drew up at the curb in front of the Inter-Mountain and the porter who had put Blount's hand bag into the taxicab opened the tannish door for two ladies in muffling dust coats and heavy veils. The senator met the two late travelers in the vestibule, and while the three were waiting for an elevator a rapid fire of low toned question and answer passed between husband and wife.
"You got Evan out of the way?"
The husband nodded. "That was easy. I passed the word to Stuechfeld, and he helped out on that—diverted Evan to come to Ophir to speak in a joint debate. He left on the night mail."
"And Hathaway—will he be here?"
"He is here. Gantry has turned him down, according to instructions, and he is clawing about in the air, trying to get a fresh hold. I bluffed him-told him he'd have to make his peace with you for something. I didn't know what, before I could talk to him."
Miss Anners was watching the elevator lights glow and darken as the car descended, and the wife's voice sank to a whisper.
"He will be at the Westford?" she inquired eagerly.
"He is sure to be. I told him you would be there."
The small plotter nodded approval.
"Give us half an hour to dress and have the car ready?" she directed, and on the senator put the two into the elevator and turned away to finish his cigar.
