Poetical.
REGRET.
If I had known, O loyal heart,
When, hand to hand, we said farewell,
How for all time our paths would part,
What shadow o'er our friendship fell,
I should have clasped your hand so close
In the warm pressure of my own.
That memory still would keep its grasp—
If I had known.
If I had known, when far and wide,
We parted through the summer land,
What presence wandered by our side,
And o'er you stretched its awful hand,
I should have hushed my careless speech,
To listen, dear, to every tone
That from your lips fell low and sweet—
If I had known.
If I had known when your kind eyes
Met mine in parting, true and sad—
Eyes gravely tender, gently wise,
And earnest, rather, more than glad—
How soon the lids would lie above,
As cold and white as sculptured stone,
I should have treasured every glance—
If I had known.
If I had known how, from the strife
Of fears, hopes, passions, here below,
Unto a purer, higher life
That you were called, oh, friend, to go,
I should have stayed my foolish tears
And bunched each idle sigh and moan
To bid you last, a long goodspeed—
If I had known.
If I had known to what strange place,
What mystic, distant, silent shore,
You calmly turned your steady face,
What time your footsteps left my door,
I should have forged a golden link
To bind the hearts so constant grown,
And kept it constant ever there—
If I had known.
If I had known that, until Death
Should with his finger touch my brow,
And still the quickening of the breath
That stirs with life's full meaning now,
So long my feet must tread the way
Of our accustomed paths alone,
I should have prized your presence more—
If I had known.
If I had known how soon for you
I drew near the ending of the fight,
And on your vision, fair and new,
Eternal peace dawned into sight,
I should have begged, as love's last gift,
That you would bid God's great while thro' thro'
Would pray for your poor friend on earth—
If I had known.

SEEKING LOST FORTUNES.
Adventures of Claimants to Estates—
Heirs and Specie Lost at Sea.
"The novel-writer in search of material
for his work could get a good supply by
looking over some of the letters and papers
I receive and keep for reference," said a
lawyer of New York, whose chief labor consists in looking up claimants for English
estate, to a reported for the Mail and Express. "I receive any quantity of curious
communications from claimants, many of
which contain hints of personal hardships
and adventures which experience which could
not fail to gladden the heart of a romantic writer of realistic tendencies. For instance
here is one of a woman who went from England to the West India islands. After
living there some time the governor married her. At his death he left a large estate with 800 slaves. Soon after this the
widow died, leaving her property to her
brother, who was a drunkard. He was killed in a riot. This man left a son who
inherited his father's passion for drink,
who tried to get the estate, but didn't, be-
cause he could not prove his father's death.
The rightful heir now offers $1,000 to any one who will get the estate for him. An-
other writes that a mother who had had a
quarrel with her daughter shortly after her
marriage received a letter stating that her son
had died in the West Indies and had left a
large fortune for his wife, the one with
whom she had quarreled. The mother
thereupon showed it to her daughter, and the
latter was prevented from learning of her
good fortune. Not until she was on her
death bed did the mother confess her
secret, and the claimant now writes that all
efforts to trace the property have been un-
availing.
"One person writes: 'I don't know
anything at all about law matters, as I've
been buried in the coal pits ever since I
was nine. I am told that my great grand-
father was a very wealthy painter and left
his relatives a lot of money, but, being pit-
iful, they were too poor to get the money,
where the property was and look after it.
Not one of them could read or write.'
Here is a romantic person who writes that
a young lady of good family ran away with
an officer at a ball, given in honor of some regiment's officers in 1768. They were married at Gretna Green. The lady's
never acknowledged her. After her death
her husband needed a large sum of money
for his children, and he was obliged to
sell his property. He was still so angry at
the treatment his wife had received at the
hands of her people that he threw the letter
in the fire and refused to have anything to
do with them or their money. The fortune
is still in some Scotch bank."
"Do you not learn of many heirs having
been lost by shipwreck?"
"Yes, many. A curious case and one
of a very adventurous experience has come
to my notice was that of the heirs of Alderman Swan, mayor of Hull. Alderman
Swan left estates to the value of £20,000
per year. The last surviving heir was
named William Swan. He was found dead
in his bed one morning at an obscure lodging-house in London. He had been trying
to raise for over twenty years to recover
these estates. He'd father before him,
whose name was Richard Swan, met
through a terrible experience because of
them. At his age of 80 he was subjected
from home, in order that he should be disinherited, and put on board a brig. This
was wrecked on the rocks of Scilly. He
was afterward taken prisoner by an Alger-
ine vessel and sold for a slave. After four
years' imprisonment he was set to liberty,
but on his attempt to reach England he
was again shipwrecked, carried off and
sold for a slave. He finally returned to
his native place in 1726, after an absence
of about twenty years. Here he was identified by his nurse in childhood and by his
father's footman. He laid claim to the estates at once, but having neither money nor
friends was unsuccessful. After his failure
he married and settled in an obscure village
near Hull. He had only one son, the one
who spent his life trying for the estates and
who was found dead in the London lodg-
ing-house."
"Do you hear much of specie lost at
sea?"
"Yes, frequently. The case of the English
ship Letitia is one of the most remarkable.
She sailed from Yarmouth Roads on October 9, 1799, with several passengers and an
enormous quantity of treasure. A heavy
sea sprang up and the ship was driven
under the lee of the 7th Island.

who spent his life trying for the estates and
who was found dead in the London lodg-
ing-house."
"Do you hear much of specie lost at
sea?"
"Yes, frequently. The case of the English
ship Letitia is one of the most remarkable.
She sailed from Yarmouth Roads on October 9, 1799, with several passengers and an
enormous quantity of treasure. A heavy
sea sprang up and the ship was driven
under the lee of the 7th Island.

SEEKING LOST FORTUNES.
Adventures of Claimants to Estates—
Heirs and Specie Lost at Sea.
"The novel-writer in search of material
for his work could get a good supply by
looking over some of the letters and papers
I receive and keep for reference," said a
lawyer of New York, whose chief labor consists in looking up claimants for English
estate, to a reported for the Mail and Ex-
press. "I receive any quantity of curious
communications from claimants, many of
which contain hints of personal hardships
and adventures which experience which could
not fail to gladden the heart of a roman-
tic writer of realistic tendencies. For instance
here is one of a woman who went from England to the West India islands. After
living there some time the governor married her. At his death he left a large estate with 800 slaves. Soon after this the
widow died, leaving her property to her
brother, who was a drunkard. He was killed in a riot. This man left a son who
inherited his father's passion for drink,
who tried to get the estate, but didn't, be-
cause he could not prove his father's death.
The rightful heir now offers $1,000 to any
one who will get the estate for him. An-
other writes that a mother who had had a
quarrel with her daughter shortly after her
marriage received a letter stating that her son
had died in the West Indies and had left a
large fortune for his wife, the one with
whom she had quarreled. The mother
thereupon showed it to her daughter, and the
latter was prevented from learning of her
good fortune. Not until she was on her
death bed did the mother confess her
secret, and the claimant now writes that all
efforts to trace the property have been un-
availing.
"One person writes: 'I don't know
anything at all about law matters, as I've
been buried in the coal pits ever since I
was nine. I am told that my great grand-
father was a very wealthy painter and left
his relatives a lot of money, but, being pit-
iful, they were too poor to get the money,
where the property was and look after it.
Not one of them could read or write.'
Here is a romantic person who writes that
a young lady of good family ran away with
an officer at a ball, given in honor of some
regiment's officers in 1768. They were married at Gretna Green. The lady's
never acknowledged her. After her death
her husband needed a large sum of money
for his children, and he was obliged to
sell his property. He was still so angry at
the treatment his wife had received at the
hands of her people that he threw the letter
in the fire and refused to have anything to
do with them or their money. The fortune
is still in some Scotch bank."
"Do you not learn of many heirs having
been lost by shipwreck?"
"Yes, many. A curious case and one
of a very adventurous experience has come
to my notice was that of the heirs of Alder-
man Swan, mayor of Hull. Alderman
Swan left estates to the value of £20,000
per year. The last surviving heir was
named William Swan. He was found dead
in his bed one morning at an obscure lodg-
ing-house in London. He had been trying
to raise for over twenty years to recover
these estates. He'd father before him,
whose name was Richard Swan, met
through a terrible experience because of
them. At his age of 80 he was subjected
from home, in order that he should be
disinherited, and put on board a brig. This
was wrecked on the rocks of Scilly. He
was afterward taken prisoner by an Alger-
ine vessel and sold for a slave. After four
years' imprisonment he was set to liberty,
but on his attempt to reach England he
was again shipwrecked, carried off and
sold for a slave. He finally returned to
his native place in 1726, after an absence
of about twenty years. Here he was identified by his nurse in childhood and by his
father's footman. He laid claim to the estates at once, but having neither money nor
friends was unsuccessful. After his failure
he married and settled in an obscure village
near Hull. He had only one son, the one
who spent his life trying for the estates and
who was found dead in the London lodg-
ing-house."
"Do you hear much of specie lost at
sea?"
"Yes, frequently. The case of the English
ship Letitia is one of the most remarkable.

ber 9, 1799, with several passengers and an
enormous quantity of treasure. A heavy

Only Awaiting a Chance.
Benevolent Old Gent (to wretched tramp)
—Here's a quarter for you. Now go to work, my good man, and some day you'll
strike a fortune.
Wretched Tramp (confidentially)—Oh,
I'll get there, some day. There's a lot of rich old gentlemen in Philadelphia, you know.
"Yes."
"And there's plenty of dark nights."
"Yes."
"Well, sir, when I meet the rich old gentleman and the dark night at the same time,
you'll strike a fortune in short order."
Certainly a Valuable Remedy.
The Boonshoro (Md.) Times says: "Du-Lac's Swiss Balsam is an excellent cough remedy, and is recommended by those of our town who have used it." W. H. Gar-
riott (Sirocco, Ky.) writes: "Swiss Balsam
is an excellent remedy for croup." Sidney Reynolds (Hammondsville, N. Y.) writes:
"I find Swiss Balsam an unequalled remedy
for coughs, colds and hoarseness." Price, 35 and 75 cts. Sold by Dr. Collier, Salisbury, and country dealers.

are even older.
The who's at home every night,

And never says "bodge" when he might,
O, he's the daisy old fellow!
"Well, may I hope then, dearest that at
some time I may have the happiness of making you my wife?" "Yes, I hope so, I am sure," she replied. "I am tired of
using fellows for breach of promise."
The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra, la,

The roses you see on her cheeks, tra, la,
Are paints that she put on her face.
The Mormons deny the charge of lawlessness at Salt Lake City, the rumor has
it that they will attempt to prove that all
the trouble was caused by their wives robbing a millinery store where all the latest
winter fashions were displayed.
"What is 'The Dady of Lyons'?" asked Laura, looking up from her book. "Why,
'loneliness,' of course, you goose!" replied
Tom, with an expression of superior loftiness
and incomparable wisdom.
A man may be the noblest work of the Creator, but he don't always stop to think about it when on hearing his name mentioned in the street, he turns around and
finds it is some other man calling his dog.

WHITE'S CHILLED PLOW.

Free from Chocking, Light Draft, Harder than Steel; Warranted Best Chilled Plow made; particularly adapted to Southern soil.

The above is a faithful illustration of our new Two Horse Chilled Plow various shapes of which, suited to the wants of all, are now manufactured for us. In our Chilled Plows are concentrated all the good features found in others, and, in addition, many points of excellence peculiar to them, and which, latterly, have been covered by Letters Patent, owned and controlled by the manufacturer. The Standards are very strong, and so constructed as to be remarkably free from chocking. These are:

NO BOLT HEADS EXPOSED

On the wearing surface of Moldboards, and the latter being very sharp on their inner or cutting edge, the angle very acute, and being made of Cast Iron, the draft in consequence is very light, making this Plow most effective in heavy, clay and gravel soils, and for breaking up new ground and hedge rows infested with weeds, roots, etc. It is provided with the Patent Beam Adjuster, by means of which the Plow can be made to run deep or shallow or take more or less land; also the Patent Reversible Landside, one of which will wear as long as two of the old kind, and not half so liable to break.

The Atlas is the pioneer of the Improved Plows now in use and while its great success has induced many imitations, it still retains its superiority over the numerous competitors which aspire to an equal place with it. Among the prominent and distinctive features of the ATLAS, we name the Reversible Landside so constructed that when the rear end is worn out it can be reversed, changing front to rear, which makes it equal in wear to two of any other. The same standard of iron frame is used in all the One Horse Plows, and

With it, hence the impossibility of a misfit. Twelve different Moldboards are made to work on it, varying in size and shape, and adapted to light and heavy soils, and to turn, in the most efficient manner, sandy, clay soils, as well as loose and sticky lands. With the greatest ease to the farmer and team, together with thoroughness of work. For the above Moldboards different Points are made, cutting furrows varying in width from 8 to 24 inches.

The formation of the Standard combines great strength with freedom from chocking in rough and grassy lands. A simple, strong and effective device is provided for adjusting the Beam up or down and right or left, to run deep or shallow, or to take more or less land, at the pleasure of the operator.

650 "BOSS" PLOWS

Actually on Hand, all Ready for the Campaign.

READ CAREFULLY!

THE BOSS PLOW OF THE WORLD

It has curved front standard with flanges to hold the beam, and a simple device under rear end of beam to make plow run deep or shallow. It can be made to go in the ground in any weather and get double wear out of point. Beam is fastened firmly to side of standard by two bolts, and protected above and below by flanges (one above and one below), and cannot twist to right or left, which will make plow land correctly and run well until entirely worn out. Land can be changed if desired. It is entirely free from chocking.

Who in other Plows with beam to handles, or bolts through beams like other plows of this market, are loose, work badly, and are almost worthless, the "BOSS" will be solid and will wear longer than any other casting on the market. The "BOSS" castings are made of very superior metal, prepared by us for this plow and will wear longer than any other casting on the market. Various sizes are made to suit different soils and crops, which do perfect work and are of very light draft. Every one is guaranteed to give satisfaction and are sold subject to trial and approval. Examine the "BOSS" before you buy.

The "BOSS" is the best plow on the market, easy on the horse and man, free from chocking, and is made of the most durable castings (chilled). The price of the "BOSS" is in every other respect, is particularly adapted to the wants of our farmers and soil. I cannot but take the lead over all other plows on the market. We predict its universal use in this section in a few years. Ask the opinion of the following farmers, who have voluntarily given the "BOSS" plow wide-spread praise and commendation: viz. John T. Gordy, John T. Whitlow, Capt. J. W. H. White, John S. Stetson, S. E. McCallister, Orlando Mills, G. W. Maddox, Westover, Md., E. A. Figg, Snow Hill, Md., N. W. Evans, W. S. Moore, Jesse T. Key West in a Blaze. Key West, Fla., March 30.—A fire started in the San Carlos Theater at 1 o'clock this morning, which was not under control until 3 p. m., and has destroyed the principal part of the city. A fresh wind from the south caused the fire to spread, and five blocks in the center of the city were quickly destroyed. The Episcopal and Baptist churches, the Masonic Hall, several cigar factories and the bonded warehouse, containing nearly $250,000 worth of tobacco, were consumed. Officers from the United States steamers Brooklyn and Powhatan strove to isolate the fire by blowing up connecting buildings with gunpowder. There was no water, the cisterns being mostly dry, and the fire did not stop till it reached the harbor, where six wharves were destroyed. The loss is upward of $1,500,000, with an insurance of not more than $100,000. About 15 persons were injured, of which six were taken to the Marine Hospital and others on board the men-of-war. No lives were lost.

Interesting Experiences. Hiram Cameron, Furniture Dealer of Columbus, Ga., tells his experience, thus: "For three years have tried every remedy on the market for Stomach and Kidney Disorders, but got no relief, until I used Electric Bitters. Took two bottles and am now cured, and think Electric Bitters the Best Blood Purifier in the world."—Major A. B. Reed, of West Liberty, Ky., used Electric Bitters for an old standing Kidney affection and says: "Nothing has ever done me so much good as Electric Bitters." Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Dr. L. D. Collier.

It was to be expected that efforts would be made from time to time to get the Knights of Labor into politics, but the best friends of the order will use every endeavor to prevent such an occurrence. Master Workman Powderly is prominently spoken of as the Democratic candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, at next fall's election, but as Mr. Powderly declined a Congressional nomination, it is likely that his strong sense and sound judgment will prevent him from accepting the nomination for governor. It is all right for the Knights to exert whatever influence for good upon politics that they may be able to do, but when the leaders shall begin to have political ambition, the death-knell of the order shall have been sounded. Those who discern the great good which the Knights of Labor will accomplish if properly managed would be very sorry to see its powers for usefulness destroyed by the ill-advised action of its leaders. The past conduct of Mr. Powderly leads us to expect only wise action on his part. His conservatism, his desire to avoid strikes, his efforts to settle all matters in dispute by peaceful arbitration, and the good judgment he has displayed in trying crises, have inspired the people both in and out of the order, with confidence in him and hope for the future success of the Knights of Labor.

—With whom and when are the United States going to war? To judge from some of the pending legislation in Congress, one would think that we are alarmingly threatened with a foreign invasion, or even that a hostile force was at our very borders. Some of our warlike Congressmen propose an annual addition of $15,000,000 to the army appropriation, for the purpose of increasing the number of soldiers. Vast schemes for the construction of magnificent and useless coast-defences, for the building of costly men-of-war, and the purchase of immense steel guns, are current topics of discussion in Washington. If these proposals become laws, an outlay of hundreds of millions of the people's money will be demanded. At this time, when a strong clamor is going up from the sorely oppressed laborer, for a reduction in taxes, what can our Congressmen be thinking about, with their new schemes for depleting the National treasury? We have no need to prepare for war. Indeed, we were never farther from the chance of becoming involved in any serious contest with a foreign nation than we seem now to be. Far better would it be to apply the surplus millions towards reducing our National debt. Let the people sell a half to the extravagant and non-sensational efforts of Congress to impose upon the Nation any such military establishment as is now being proposed by the members of Congress.

Secretary Manning's Illness. The attack of vertigo which prostrated Secretary Manning last week, in Washington, has now been discovered to be of a more serious nature than the public was at first given to understand. It was announced as a slight attack of vertigo, from which the Secretary would recover in a few days. The vertigo now turns out to be an apoplectic stroke, and it is extremely doubtful if Mr. Manning can again resume the strain which the work of the Secretaryship of the Treasury imposes. The papers say he is gradually improving, but there is no concealing the fact that his recovery will be slow and tedious.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery. Capt. Coleman, sub. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness of his throat. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Oldman household and on board the schooner. Free Trial. Bottle of this Standard Remedy at Dr. Levin D. Collier's Drug Store.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

THEY HERE AND THERE BY THE ADVERTISERS' REPORTERS.

Weekly Edition of Everything Transpiring in Town and County. Paragraph for To-Day's Paper.

The usual first day of April jokes were repeated upon the unsuspecting ones of Thursday.

Mr. J. S. Graham, Secretary to the Maryland Hospital for the Insane, was in the city last week.

Rev. W. G. Holmes will preach in the P. Church, Salisbury, to-morrow (Sunday) morning at 10.30 o'clock.

Mr. J. Wm. Purner, a grandson of the late Mrs. Wood, was in Salisbury last week. He is now living in Jersey City.

The Maryland Annual Conference of the M. P. Church will meet in the Broadway Church, Baltimore, next Wednesday, April 7th.

Bishop Paret will preach in the P. E. Church next Friday evening, April 9th, and will administer the right of Confirmation to applicants.

We received this week a small box of Florida strawberries from Mr. B. Moore, of Gainesville. They were a little worse than their long journey.

Married, Tuesday last, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. J. H. Daugherty, Mr. W. M. Murphy to Miss Ella E. Oiler, all of this county.

We extend thanks to Dr. George W. Bishop for a copy of the report of himself and Col. J. Thomas Schaff, U. S. Commissioners from Maryland to the New Orleans exposition of last year.

Mr. Wm. H. Jackson last Saturday (yesterday) of Messrs. Charles E. and Wm. Williams a tract of woodland lying above Williams mill, for which he paid $5,000. The land is well set in old growth pine timber.

The supplement which we published last week, and which contained the advertisement of E. W. Perdue & Co., caused considerable complimentary comment upon the push and business sagacity of Mr. Perdue in his methods of conducting his growing nursery business.

Mr. A. J. Carey, who has been conducting the shoe store at the corner of Dock and Main streets, has moved his stock into the store of S. P. Woodcock & Co., next to the Peninsula House. The two large stocks are thus consolidated, and both Mr. Woodcock and Mr. Carey will remain at the upper store.

There will probably be a change in the main schedule of the N. Y. P. & N. Railroad in a short time. The authorities see the insufficiency and inconvenience of the present time-table, and a better train service and an earlier mail will doubtless be given us. These changes cannot be made so soon. Our business interests demand them.

On account of the disgraceful rabble which took possession of the town meeting last Monday night, and the consequent damage to the room and furniture, the court has instructed the County Commissioners to refuse the court room for any such purpose in the future. It is not much to the credit of the town that such an order has been found necessary.

There will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist at St. Paul's Church, Spring Hill, next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Evening Prayer in St. Philip's Chapel, Quantico, at 8 1/2 p. m. The Bishop of Maryland will visit St. Philip's Chapel, Quantico, on Friday afternoon, April 9th, at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of administering the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation. F. B. Jenkins, Rector of Spring Hill Parish.

Capt. Geo. W. Parsons, with a force of workmen, is engaged in repairing wharves of the Maryland Steamboat Co. on the Wicomico and Nantuxet rivers. The damage done by the high tides and winds of last winter is considerable, the greatest damage being to the wharves at Deal's Island and Sounding Point. The estimate of $10,000 for repairing this property, which the Admiralty voted last year, is not sufficient for the purpose, it is likely to be far out of the way. The work will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

Twiley vs. Downs. This case has attracted considerable attention during this session of the Court, as well as occupied more than a week of the Court's time. The facts may be briefly told. The suit was brought by Geo. C. Twiley against Mrs. Downs for trespass upon a piece of land, adjoining the lands of each and claimed by each. It is five-eighths of an acre in extent. Mrs. Downs, or her agents, cut some timber off the land, and Twiley notified her that she was cutting his timber. As she denied this, and claimed the land as her's, Twiley brought suit before a magistrate, but jurisdiction in land cases, magistrates has jurisdiction in land cases, but she refused to offer to compromise the matter for $30. This offer was refused, and suit was accordingly brought in the county court, at the January term, 1881. Since that time, the case has dragged along through every term of court, being continued from time to time for the purpose of making surveys and reconveys. Being now a pending case, the surveyors proceed that Mr. Twiley's deed covered the land in dispute, and no one questioned his paper title thereto. Mrs. Downs claimed it on the plea of undisputed possession for more than twenty years. The case was ready for trial at the September term of last year, but was continued at the request of plaintiff, on plaintiff's paying costs up to that time. The case then amounted to probably more than a hundred dollars. At the trial at this term, a verdict was given for the defendant. There were forty-six witnesses in the case.

The Boston Ferry Train. The officials of the Pennsylvania and the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Rail Roads held a conference in Philadelphia last week and met representatives of the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange on the matter of a time-table for the Boston ferry train from this section. It was decided to start a train from Delmar at 4 o'clock in the morning and get the berries in Boston early the next morning. A train on this road will connect with the Delaware road at Delmar. This will be a satisfactory arrangement.

Gents' List, Henry J. Jones, Jack Heam.

THURSDAY, Mch. 28.—Both Houses of the Legislature were in session, and each held a night session. In the Senate, favorable reports were made on Senate bills to refund to parties operation-carrying licenses and to make appropriation for the same. In the Senate the following bills were introduced: By Mr. Brewer, for an appropriation for printing a compendium of reports, to pay claim of James Bates; by Mr. Hayes, to provide for an execution in case of defendants against whom judgments have been rendered by an incorrect name; by Mr. Johnson authorizing the commissioners of Cambridge to make bonded debt of $4,000, also for better protection for the town of Cambridge. In the House general appropriation bill for 1882 was passed. The city Geauga reported favorably on the House bills to compel the B. and O. to erect its route and appropriating $300,000 for widening East Baltimore street and $1,300,000 for constructing certain sewers. In the Senate Mr. Hodson's bill taxing mortgages was defeated. The bill modifying the stoppage of trains at the Susquehanna was amended so as to make the P., W. and B. Railroad subject to taxation.

FRIDAY, Mch. 29.—Both the Senate and House of Delegates adjourned on this Monday afternoon. In the Senate the House amendments to the Susquehanna bridge bill, subjecting the P., W. and B. R. to taxation, was reconsidered and defeated; twelve-hour street-car labor bill passed second reading. In the House of Delegates, leave to introduce bills was granted to Mr. Holle, introducing the Citizens' Gas-lighting Company of Cumberland, Allegany county; Mr. Fitzgerald, prohibiting the delivery on Sundays of ice from wagons; Messrs. McCullough and Slinguff were announced as additional members of the Senate engineering committee. Senate bill to amend the charter of St. John's College so as to make it a part of the public school system of the State, appropriating $12,000 in addition to the usual State appropriation on its third reading failed for want of a constitutional majority by less than 8.

MONDAY, Mch. 29.—The Senate and House of Delegates both met at 8 o'clock. In the Senate the bill to pension Baltimore policemen was read the second time. Amendments reducing the militia appropriation from $400,000 were lost. The bill restricting labor on street cars to twelve hours per day was passed without opposition. The Senate refused to strike out the appropriations for St. John's and Washington Colleges. In the House, among other bills passed were the bill reducing marriage license fee to fifty cents and the bill providing for inspection of steam boilers in Baltimore city. The bill for the protection of beneficial relief associations was passed, as was also the bill to pension firemen. House bill appropriating $3,200 for repairs at the State House and Governor's mansion and $4,000 for repairs at Normal School was lost for want of a constitutional majority. The bill of late legislation now pending on through the country. Adm. Crenshaw writes a very fair article on "An Employer's View of the Labor Question," and George Gunter answers affirmatively, his question, "Shall an eight-hour system be adopted." The three articles, "The Child and the State," by David Dudley Field, "What the Roman Catholics want," by Monsignor Preston, and "Our Boys on Sunday," by Elizabeth C. Stanton, are full of interesting matter. The other articles are also good, and the Forum now takes its place among the leading periodicals of the country.

DEATH OF REV. DR. DASHIELL. A special to the Baltimore Sun from Eastern Tuesday last, says: The Rev. Ernest P. Dashiell, D. D., rector of St. Michael's P. R. parish, Baltimore, died at four o'clock this afternoon, after an illness of several months. He was among the most beloved of all the clergymen in the Diocese of Eastern, and held a high position in the councils of the church. He was a member of the standing committee of the diocese, and was on other important committees, and represented the Diocese of Eastern and previous to its formation the Diocese of Maryland, in the general convention. Dr. Dashiell was rector of St. Michael's parish about 20 years, and was previously rector of Chester and of Wye in Queen Anne's.

IN EARLY LIFE he had a parish in Calvert county. During his incumbency of St. Michael's parish he built the beautiful parish church in Queen Anne's, and the parish itself was divided into three. All Saints' and Miles River parishes being set off from it, a handsome church being built at All Saints', a rectory also, and another rectory in Miles River. The chapel of the Holy Innocents at Clayborne was also built under his pastorate. Dr. Dashiell was an earnest preacher, a faithful pastor and most exemplary man. He was a devoted personal friend of the Bishop of the Diocese. His death will be seriously felt throughout the Diocese of Eastern and also in the Diocese of Maryland, where he had many warm friends. He was a native of Somerset county, where there is a large family connection. He was 64 years old. His wife, a New Jersey lady, died 17 years ago. Four children are left—one married daughter, the wife of Chas. W. Dashiell, of Baltimore, two unmarried, and one son, Keen Dashiell, who lives in Newark, N. J.

AT THE BOTTOM of the Bay, The Delaware Bay Treasury Company, of Philadelphia, which has just been organized, proposes to fish some three or four million in money which was lost in Delaware Bay in 1798. The money was on board the sloop-of-war De Brock, which was capsized in a signal light inside the cape. The records of the vessel were destroyed by fire in the early part of this century, and its exact location and the amount on board is not known. So far $15,000 has been subscribed to the company.

OUR TALKED county neighbors are still at work upon their agricultural fair project. There has already secured $8,000, or two-thirds of the amount necessary to purchase the grounds, build the track, and erect the buildings, and it is probable that the remaining $4,000 will be raised in a short time. There is no reason why Talbot should not establish and maintain a first-class fair.

LEXINGTON, S. C., hosts of a farmer who has not yet had a ball of his own cotton crop, and who has been very successful in his crop, and who has been very successful in his crop, and who has been very successful in his crop.

THE SCHOOL BOARD in session Tuesday. All present, and Thos. Perry, secretary. Mr. Cannon reported that the $2000.00 due the School Board from Mr. Twiley, was not received, and that $2000.00, with interest, was still in his hands. Mr. Cannon reported that the $2000.00, with interest, was still in his hands.

THE TOWN MEETING. Five Candidates Nominated for Commissioners After a Hard Fight. A meeting of the citizens of the town was held in the Court House last Monday night to select five candidates for Town Commissioners, to be voted for at the regular annual election, which takes place the first Monday in April. Next Monday will be the regular time for the election.

LONG before the doors were open quite a number of citizens had assembled in front of the building, so as to be early upon the scene. Much interest had been aroused in the contest from several causes. The various candidates for town balliff had aroused their friends to come to their rescue; the members of the fire department were into the fight; some defeated candidates in last fall's county election were trying to pay off old scores; the fire department was into the fight; some defeated candidates in last fall's county election were trying to pay off old scores; the fire department was into the fight.

THE RESULT of the voting was as follows: A. G. Toadvine, 164; W. W. Gordy, 159; E. T. Fowler, 175; Joo. T. Ellis, 163; W. D. Gordy, 166; S. F. Toadvine, 237; W. D. Richards, 241; J. R. T. Laws, 233; Joo. P. Owens, 241; Herbert Hitch, 239.

THE FIVE last named having secured a majority of the votes cast were declared the choice of the convention. The number of votes cast was probably the largest ever polled at a town meeting in Salisbury.

WE HAVE the highest respect for some of the men whose names appear on the successful ticket, but greatly fear they have gotten into bad company. At least one name thereon was used without the consent and against the wishes of the owner.

STEAMER ABASHED at Ocean City. The past month has been full of maritime disasters. The high winds that have prevailed during the month have stranded more than one boat, and the number of wrecks along the coast is unusually large. We spoke last week of a boat ashore at Ocean City. This week the foundering of another at the same place is to be chronicled. The ship Tonawanda, from Liverpool to Philadelphia, went ashore a few miles below Ocean City last Monday, in a fog. The boat had been two months making the passage and leaked badly all the way. The cargo consists of empty barrels and chalk. The captain and five men started ashore in a yawl, but were capsized by the rough sea. They were rescued by the Life Saving Corps, and the vessel was afterwards taken off and carried to Philadelphia by tug-boats. Five of the crew were left ashore, whether accidentally or by design is not known.

THE TOWN MEETING. Five Candidates Nominated for Commissioners After a Hard Fight. A meeting of the citizens of the town was held in the Court House last Monday night to select five candidates for Town Commissioners, to be voted for at the regular annual election, which takes place the first Monday in April. Next Monday will be the regular time for the election.

LONG before the doors were open quite a number of citizens had assembled in front of the building, so as to be early upon the scene. Much interest had been aroused in the contest from several causes. The various candidates for town balliff had aroused their friends to come to their rescue; the members of the fire department were into the fight; some defeated candidates in last fall's county election were trying to pay off old scores; the fire department was into the fight.

THE RESULT of the voting was as follows: A. G. Toadvine, 164; W. W. Gordy, 159; E. T. Fowler, 175; Joo. T. Ellis, 163; W. D. Gordy, 166; S. F. Toadvine, 237; W. D. Richards, 241; J. R. T. Laws, 233; Joo. P. Owens, 241; Herbert Hitch, 239.

THE FIVE last named having secured a majority of the votes cast were declared the choice of the convention. The number of votes cast was probably the largest ever polled at a town meeting in Salisbury.

WE HAVE the highest respect for some of the men whose names appear on the successful ticket, but greatly fear they have gotten into bad company. At least one name thereon was used without the consent and against the wishes of the owner.

STEAMER ABASHED at Ocean City. The past month has been full of maritime disasters. The high winds that have prevailed during the month have stranded more than one boat, and the number of wrecks along the coast is unusually large. We spoke last week of a boat ashore at Ocean City. This week the foundering of another at the same place is to be chronicled. The ship Tonawanda, from Liverpool to Philadelphia, went ashore a few miles below Ocean City last Monday, in a fog. The boat had been two months making the passage and leaked badly all the way. The cargo consists of empty barrels and chalk. The captain and five men started ashore in a yawl, but were capsized by the rough sea. They were rescued by the Life Saving Corps, and the vessel was afterwards taken off and carried to Philadelphia by tug-boats. Five of the crew were left ashore, whether accidentally or by design is not known.

OUR LITERARY NOTES.

Wide Awake for April—A Unique Cyclopaedia of Literature.

WIDE AWAKE FOR APRIL. The April Wide Awake opens seasonably with an ideal Easter picture, "On Easter Day," a very lovely drawing by W. L. Taylor; this is followed by a charming spring-time poem, "Willie's Garden," by Kate Putnam Ogden. Lucy Larson also has a notable poem, "The Bird of the Eve-Evening," for which Taylor again furnishes a full-page drawing together with text illustrations. Mary Lathbury, too, has an illustrated poem, very piquant, "A Fairy Story." There are some excellent illustrated stories: "The Button Boy," by A. M. Griffin, "The Boy Soldiers of Cherry Valley," by Caro Lloyd, and "Deacon, the Foot-boy," by E. S. Brooks. "Cave Spiders," "Panama," and "What a Frog Lived Through." The instructive papers in the number are admirable and of great variety: Mrs. Sherwood in "Royal Girls' writes of "Carmen Sylva," the Queen of Rumania, Mrs. Fremont of Madame Bonaparte and her faithful friends, C. F. Holder of "Feathered Giants," Miss Harris of Alice and Phoebe Cary in her series, "Pleasant Authors," Mrs. T. G. of "The Dinner Party," G. E. Vernon of "Jurnal the Saturday," E. B. Gorton of "How to make an Aquarium," Susan Power of "What to do in Emergencies," while Mr. Adams goes on with his "Search-Quizzes in English Literature." There are also three fine serial stories in progress. $3.00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

A UNIQUE CYCLOPAEDIA. Volume II of Alden's Cyclopaedia of Universal Literature is just published. Novel in plan, and novel in form, at once beautiful and instructive, it is a work of great value compared with Mr. Alden's always low prices, this volume gives in its nearly 500 pages biographical sketches of one hundred and eleven prominent authors, with characteristic selections from their writings. The following authors, among others, appear in this volume: Audubon, St. Augustine, D'Auvergne, Bacon, Balzac, Baccarat, Benim, Barbauld, Beaumont, Beecher (several of the name), Benjamin, Bion, Bjornson, Black, Blackstone, Blackwell, Blackwell (Countess of), and Boccaccio; thus representing nearly all ages and all nations ever in this volume—American, English, French, German, Italian, Greek, Latin, Swedish, Portuguese, Scotch, Dutch, Irish, Norwegian, and Danish authors—from the period 280 B. C. to A. D. 1886. The literary and mechanical workmanship are both of a high order. The work is really one that ought to find a place in every home library; it is a work of great value, and its construction that will prove well-nigh inexhaustible. The price, only 60 cents a volume, makes its possession possible even to nearly every school-boy. The work is published also in parts of 100 pages each (exchangeable at any time for bound volumes), which are sent post-paid for 15 cents each. Every reader of this notice ought to get at least a specimen part for examination. John B. Alden, Publisher, New York.

THE APRIL NUMBER. The second number of the Forum (April) is quite up to the promise of the first issue. Two articles are especially timely in view of the labor agitation now going on throughout the country. Adm. Crenshaw writes a very fair article on "An Employer's View of the Labor Question," and George Gunter answers affirmatively, his question, "Shall an eight-hour system be adopted." The three articles, "The Child and the State," by David Dudley Field, "What the Roman Catholics want," by Monsignor Preston, and "Our Boys on Sunday," by Elizabeth C. Stanton, are full of interesting matter. The other articles are also good, and the Forum now takes its place among the leading periodicals of the country.

STATE AND PENINSULA.

Notes from Maryland, Delaware and Eastern Shore of Virginia.

Meers, J. W. Thurman and T. A. Walker have taken charge of the Onancock (Va.) Virginia. We wish them success.

The Town Council of Milford is considering whether that town shall be lighted by electricity or gas.

J. C. Reed, of Harrington, has purchased for planting four hundred bushels of peas, and a cartload of phosphate to make them grow. The crop will be quite a large item of his season's work.

A colored man, employed at Mr. Major W. Fitch's steam mill 3 miles from this place, met with the misfortune of having an arm nearly taken off by a saw a few days ago. Dr. J. T. Parker dressed the injured member.—Pocomoke Record.

Mrs. Martha Dupuy, whose sad affliction of insanity had become so great that it became unsafe for her to be restrained, was sent to Baltimore last Thursday to be placed in this hospital for the insane.—Pocomoke Record.

The Dover Building and Loan Association is seven years of age, and has over $102,000 invested. Its shares are worth $50.42. The Capital Building and Loan Association of the same town is three years of age and has $84,300 invested. Its shares are worth $29.50 each.

Owing to the strike, the Glass Works are unable to get soft coal and will be compelled to quit work Saturday. They have been running full blast since September, and have not sold their stock on hand, a large portion of it being No. 1 glass.—Dover Sentinel.

Nearly one hundred merchants and families have promised to take gas at $2.50 per 1,000 feet. The Penn. Globe Gas Light Company promised to erect works here if guaranteed 100 consumers and 70 street lamps at $30 each per annum. But the Town Commissioners will not give $1,400 for lighting 70 lamps.—Milford News.

The feeling among peach growers that there will be a part of a crop of fruit on the Peninsula is increasing. None expect a large crop. Indeed there is half a one, but those are so fortunate as to raise even a few hope the scarcity will increase the price that the lack of quantity may be in a great measure made up.

The statement of expenditures at the almshouse of Sussex county for 1885, just published at this office, shows the total number of persons now remaining to be seventy-one. During the year there were eleven received, eleven deaths and four discharged. The total expenditures, including cost of new buildings, amounted to $5,708.37.—Delaware Democrat.

The farm house occupied by John Short, and owned by Joseph Healy, situated on the county road between Hicksburg and East New Market, was burned last Sunday night. Mr. Short saved only a portion of his household effects. Mr. Healy loses about $500, and Mr. Short's loss is about $50. There was no insurance.—Cambridge Era.

One day last week as Mr. Severn McGrath, of Bevel's Neck, was driving a pair of mules, attached to a wagon, they became unmanageable and ran away. The vehicle was upset and the driver thrown to the ground, with considerable violence, sustaining painful, but not serious injuries.—Pocomoke Record.

Some farmers about Milford are finding a few live peash buds in the tops of their trees, while in several small orchards there are about enough buds for a crop. Still the destruction was general in February. There are more live buds farther north in this State and near bodies of fresh water. In some sections of New Jersey buds are yet uninjured.—Milford News.

Cambridge is taking active measures for protection against fire, and will shortly have water works. Snow Hill cannot afford the latter, but there is no doubt what- ever that she has the former, we shortly expect to see her with nothing short of the first-class destructive fire will wake up off Cape.—Spice Hill Messenger.

Mr. John L. Stagn, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Chestertown, died at his home Sunday. He was born in Philadelphia and lived there until the year 1858, when he came to Maryland. He was postmaster at Chestertown under Taylor and Johnson, and was for a long time engaged in the drug business at Chestertown.

The British steamer, Washington City, under the command of Capt. Valder ran aground on Tangier bar last Saturday. A large part of the cargo was thrown overboard to lighten the vessel, but after several unsuccessful attempts to get her off, Capt. Valder went to Baltimore for assistance. The schooner was loaded with iron ore, and bound for that port—Onancock Virginia.

Mr. Wm. H. Meekins, dry goods and grocery merchant, of this town, doing business at the brick store corner of Poplar and Gay streets, filed a deed of trust on Monday morning last for the benefit of creditors, appointing Mr. J. W. Waddell trustee. The assignment, we are informed was entirely voluntary on the part of Mr. Meekins, and was made chiefly because of his ill health and consequent inability to attend to business, and that the creditors will be paid in full.—Cambridge Era.

The school house in district No. 64, near Robbins, was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock. The fire was first discovered at recess, and in forty minutes the old house was reduced to ashes. The district has long needed a new house, and the taxables will undoubtedly build one that will be a credit to the town. The house was built 51 years ago.—Georgetown Journal.

We are glad to learn that C. E. Treat & Co. have made arrangements to call 100,000 cases of tomatoes. G. C. Calhoun is their authorized agent to contract with growers to plant 700 acres. Seed will be furnished by Mr. Calhoun on signing the contract. The growers will receive the seed, and the seedling will be planted in the peach crop. It is to be commenced for the fall to give our farmers something to talk about.—Georgetown Journal.

We are glad to learn that the peach buds have been found in the peach trees, and that the buds are full and ready to grow. It is to be commenced for the fall to give our farmers something to talk about.—Georgetown Journal.

town correspondent of the Every Evening has the following upon the subject of peaches in this locality: While we are likely to have a good crop of peaches here, the scarcity elsewhere will cause the price per basket to be so high that it is doubtful about either of the drying-houses being operated this season.

Mr. George B. Zell, of Westover, met with a painful accident last week—he had his collar-bone broken, and was otherwise injured by being thrown from a carriage. He was unconscious when some friends went to his assistance immediately after the accident. He was taken home and a physician summoned to administer the proper treatment to the suffering man. At last accounts he was improving.—Princess Anne Herald.

Dr. R. C. Carter died at his residence in Cherry Hill, Cecil county, four miles from Elkton, about noon Sunday. He had been a sufferer for over a year from nervous prostration and debility, and was a son of the late Robert Carter, the first papermaker of Cecil county. He was 62 years of age, and attended the Delaware College for some time, afterwards graduating in medicine at the University of Maryland.

The new buildings on Market street are going up rapidly. The frame work has been completed and will be roofed the coming week. The whole will be ready for occupancy by the first of May. Charley Orwall, who will construct them, expects to have one of the finest and most handsome jewelry stores on the peninsula. The other building will be occupied by the Torbert Brothers and H. C. Waller as a hardware and general furnishing store.—Laurel Gazette.

Wm. Tilghman, a son of Wm. Tilghman, residing about 5 miles from this place in Somerset county, came near losing his life by being crushed under a falling tree. On Tuesday morning, it seems he and another were cutting down trees, when one of them in falling caught against another, breaking off a large limb, which fell upon the head of young Tilghman, knocking him speechless and cutting a severe gash over his right eye and causing blood to flow from his ears and nose. Death subsequently followed.—Pocomoke Record.

About ten days ago Mr. Theodore James, of this county, presented a petition, in the House of Delegates, asking a re-submission of the liquor question to the voters of Brinkley's district, this county. The matter was referred to a committee. Last week the committee made a report adverse to a re-submission of the question, and the citizens of Brinkley's district will be saved the annoyance of an exciting campaign this year. We hear of no movement to interfere with the question in any other district.—Princess Anne Herald.

During a recent temperance meeting at Annapolis one of the ministers in attendance spoke of the way in which a "social club," where it was stated, liquors had been dispensed freely to customers, had been broken up. The speaker, who is the pastor of a church in the Second district of Anne Arundel county, had called the attention of his congregation to the "club," and advised them to boycott the program if he persisted in selling liquor. "In two weeks" added the minister, "the club refused to exist in that neighborhood."

Hambrocks farm, situated on the Choptank river, about 1 1/2 miles from Cambridge, has been sold by E. G. Waters to Ed. Ward Prime and Dr. Henry Nash of New York, for $30,000. Hambrocks is considered one of the most beautiful plantations on the Choptank. It was formerly the home of the late John C. Henry, and together with Horn's Point, the residence of the late Wm. T. Goldborough, was the scene of much gaiety in suit-wed days. Dr. Waters removed from Hambrocks to Baltimore several years ago, when he has since resided. His son Mr. E. G. Waters, now lives on the farm.—Cambridge Era.

The dwelling house on the farm belonging to the heirs of the late Wm. Leonard, in Trappe district, and occupied by 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. One feather bed was the only thing in the house saved. The roof of part of the building had fallen in when the inmates awoke, and they barely had time to make their escape. Mr. Leonard went back into the house and had to jump from the second story window to make his escape. Even the clothing of himself and family was lost. Mr. Leonard thinks the fire originated from a crack in the kitchen chimney. The house was worth $1,200, and Mr. Leonard's individual loss besides was at least $600. There was no insurance.—Easton Ledger.

Last Tuesday morning about five o'clock Hicks Todd, colored, was drowned off the sloop Grace Mills. Capt. Charles O. Tubman, whilst lying at anchor near Hall's oyster-house, Cambridge, on Monday evening, Capt. Tubman dropped out of Cambridge creek to be in readiness for scraping oysters early on Tuesday morning. About four o'clock Todd awoke and made preparations for breakfast, speaking to the captain as he did so. Captain Tubman shortly went to sleep again but was soon awakened to find the cabin a light blaze and a two gallon can of coal oil, nearly empty, burning in the middle of the floor. Quickly taking in the situation, he wrapped his overcoat around the can and threw it overboard and with buckets soon put out the fire. Search was then made for Todd but he could not be found. As the can was full of oil the night before the captain thinks Todd used it in making the fire, and that it exploded on his person, enveloping him in flames, burning him so painfully that he was glad to jump overboard to put out the fire. The companionway was burning from all that doubtless dripped from Todd as he sprang to the deck. Captain Tubman, who is a generous, kind-hearted gentleman, greatly regrets the accident. Todd was from Golden Hill, where he was employed in summer as a farm hand.—Cambridge News.

It is said that the Mirogira fowls, so well known in England, are not bred in this country. There has, however, been a recent importation for Philadelphia, Pa., which will be exhibited at the next State fair. It is claimed that they will lay over 200 eggs a year per hen.

Adams & Co.
Flour.
Have You Ever Tried Adams & Co.'s
Patent Process Flour?
The blacksmith tore off his apron
and died in happy mood,
Wondering much at the savor
of his humble food.
He thought it was a Sister of Mercy,
and look away to the face of the dying woman.
"Flour, you have come at last," she said
in low, labored tones. "I want you to for-
give me—ere I die."
"I could pardon the past," he said in
cold tones. "but I will never forgive you
for returning to shadow my life and blight
my prospects."
"But think, Floyd, I am dying. I will
soon be out of your way forever."
"I thought you dead years ago," he answered sullenly.
The woman's lips quivered and her eyes
grew dim.
"Cruel to the last," she murmured, and
lay quite still for a moment; then a gray
shadow crept over her face, and her eyes
grew dark and strained.
She raised herself with a last effort, and
held out her arms toward the sunlight.
"Floyd—husband, forgive, she gasped
and fell back upon the pillows.
"Ere he could bend above her, the gray-
cloaked figure had rushed to the bedside,
and he saw a horrible white face turned
upon him.
"This is dead!" said a voice in sad ac-
cents.
He was not thinking of the dead woman
before him, he saw only that form approach
in the gray mantle with the sweet, pale
face upturned.
"Ermine!" he cried. "It is you, and—
you have heard—do you know all?"
"Yes," she answered simply.
There was a look in her eyes as they met
his that chilled him to the heart—a mute
farewell.
"You will forgive, I decided, but I
love you, Ermine," he cried.
He stretched out his arms toward her,
and a look of wild appeal gleamed in his
eyes, his lips were parted and dry, his
breath came hard.
"Ermine, my love!" he pleaded, "I will
atone, only grant me pardon."
"I pardon you, but we must never meet
again. You were false to her, false to me."
"But your love?"
She looked at him sadly and shivered as
she turned away.
"I thought you had killed it," she said
aloud. "Good-bye, forever."
He watched her with strained gaze as
she glided across the room, and the next
instant the door had closed between them
and he was alone with the dead.
Across the woman's breast a lance of sun-
light fell and her lips were wreathed in a
faint cold smile. What did she know of
the sorrows of life?

If not, then you have lost a great deal. Take a few bushels of wheat up to Laurel and

ways be sure to get there in the

also be found a stock of Bran,
Meal and Buckwheat Flour. If

THE SEEKER
The woman who had sent for her smiling
contender at her entrance, and gazed
with her great dark eyes at the sweet
flesh-like face under the plain bonnet.
"You are Miss Gaylor," she breathed.
"It was so kind of you to come. You have been good to me and I wanted to thank you
before I die."
Ermine laid aside her bonnet and gilded
to the bedside. "What's white, was face it
was upon the pillow, yet she thought it
had been beautiful once."
The lips were delicately curved, and the
brown eyes were soft and liquid, though
they seemed unnaturally large and
were set in the frame-like rows
of jetty lashes.
With gentle words Ermine soothed and
comforted her, and listened to the rambling
stories of the woman's past life.
"I would have been happy now but for
the curse of my life, the curse blood that
dwells in my veins," she murmured, twisting her fingers nervously. "I strangled
my heart, but he was cruel to leave me.
I would have repented, had he needed some
modest creature like me, but he would not
patiently; he did not love me as I loved him.
As I thought I was dead, it was too
good to write to him. How he earned me when he found me here. Ah, it was his tongue that I had loved, and I—my eyes were broken, I did not know reply."
So she had talked in a vague, incoherent
manner, and Ermine could guess her life's his-

A DINNER AND A KEER.
"I have brought your dinner, father,"
The blacksmith's daughter said,
As she took from her arm a kettle
And lifted it shining lid.
"There's not any pie or pudding,
So I will give you this—"
And upon his toll-worn forehead
She left a childish kiss.
The blacksmith tore off his apron
And died in happy mood,
Wondering much at the savor
of his humble food.
He thought it was a Sister of Mercy,
and look away to the face of the dying woman.
"Flour, you have come at last," she said
in low, labored tones. "I want you to for-
give me—ere I die."
"I could pardon the past," he said in
cold tones. "but I will never forgive you
for returning to shadow my life and blight
my prospects."
"But think, Floyd, I am dying. I will
soon be out of your way forever."
"I thought you dead years ago," he answered sullenly.
The woman's lips quivered and her eyes
grew dim.
"Cruel to the last," she murmured, and
lay quite still for a moment; then a gray
shadow crept over her face, and her eyes
grew dark and strained.
She raised herself with a last effort, and
held out her arms toward the sunlight.
"Floyd—husband, forgive, she gasped
and fell back upon the pillows.
"Ere he could bend above her, the gray-
cloaked figure had rushed to the bedside,
and he saw a horrible white face turned
upon him.
"This is dead!" said a voice in sad ac-
cents.
He was not thinking of the dead woman
before him, he saw only that form approach
in the gray mantle with the sweet, pale
face upturned.
"Ermine!" he cried. "It is you, and—
you have heard—do you know all?"
"Yes," she answered simply.
There was a look in her eyes as they met
his that chilled him to the heart—a mute
farewell.
"You will forgive, I decided, but I
love you, Ermine," he cried.
He stretched out his arms toward her,
and a look of wild appeal gleamed in his
eyes, his lips were parted and dry, his
breath came hard.
"Ermine, my love!" he pleaded, "I will
atone, only grant me pardon."
"I pardon you, but we must never meet
again. You were false to her, false to me."
"But your love?"
She looked at him sadly and shivered as
she turned away.
"I thought you had killed it," she said
aloud. "Good-bye, forever."
He watched her with strained gaze as
she glided across the room, and the next
instant the door had closed between them
and he was alone with the dead.
Across the woman's breast a lance of sun-
light fell and her lips were wreathed in a
faint cold smile. What did she know of
the sorrows of life?

Miscellaneous.
DISCOVERED.
BY GUINEVERE.
"Floyd, what has come over you of late,
you act so strangely?"
"Strangely?" repeated Floyd Dunstan,
with a little flush on his dark face.
Ermine Gaylor was seated on a low ottoman,
at his feet, her silver-headed dress
sweeping the floor, her fair features gleaming like a cameo from the background made
by the dark-leathered fan she held between
her face and the glow of the fire.
"Now one white hand fell caressingly
upon his arm and the sapphire eyes were upraised.
"You seem suddenly abstracted," she
said. "So different from your old self.
Has something happened to displease you?"
"A little difficulty in business, that is
all," he answered carelessly, adding beneath
his breath, "Great God, if she knew the truth!"
He leaned forward suddenly and folded
his arms round her, bending upon her a
gaze so intense that she was startled.
"Ermine! do you love me truly?" he asked with a thrill through his low tones.
"Will you love me always? If you should
hear things of my past, if any one spoke ill
of me, would you doubt me then and desert me?"
"O, never, Floyd!" she cried. "But why do you say this? You have never been guilty of deeds unworthy. I know you are good and noble. I should not like to think you were less true than I believe
you now, that you had ever done what
could stand against you; yet if there
is anything in your past tell me—it is right
I should know."
"Yes, you should know," he leaned
back upon the cushions again and his arms
fell—"there is nothing to tell; I was just testing you."
She smiled up into his gloomy face and
nestled closer to his side, clasping her white
arms round his neck.
"Oh, do not doubt my love, dear," she
whispered. "It is yours forever."
"If I prove unworthy?"
"You will not do that."
"But should I?"
Her fair face dropped and a shade of sadness fell upon it.
"I do not know," she said in low tones.
"Yet I think, Floyd, so long as you were
true to me, I could forgive you everything
else."
True to her! He looked down at the golden hair resting on his breast and shuddered. True to her, was he not that?
His love was hers, his fidelity, his devotion,
his honor; he passed there and looked away
with troubled gaze.
Before the bright vision that was ever in
his mind, the witching beauty of the fair
face, the tender smile of the woman he
loved, rose a specter grim, gray, and awful,
a specter that cast its shadow upon his life
and blotted out its sunshine; it was the shadow of a wrong.
"Where are you going, Ermine?"
Mrs. Gaylor looked inquiringly at the form of daughter, draped in a long gray
mantle, with a plain bonnet tied down upon
the golden curls that were quite hidden under the veil of gauze that banded the crown
and was tied under the pretty dimpled
chin.
"On an errand of mercy, dear mother,"
she said smiling. "Julia says that the poor
woman was telling us of last week—the
one we saw at basket of dainties to, you
remember—is very ill, dying, the physician
says, and she has asked for me. It is a strange fancy she took to see her benefac-
trix, as she persists in calling me, and I cannot refuse."
"But her disease—is it not contagious?"
"Oh no; it is consumption. Do not fear.
I will be back within an hour. Good-bye."
She kissed lightly her mother's cheek and glided away, leaving the lady and Mrs. Gaylor
in a state of blank amazement.
Ermine never trailed her rich robes and
fur mantles into the homes of the poor
whom she befriended; the white hand that
smoothed many a sufferer's pillow was un-
dorned, and her only jewels were the glis-
tering tears that often dimmed her bright
eyes at sight of the misery surrounding her.

Prof. Ward, of Rochester, N. Y., has succeeded in restoring the human life, and
no other disease so prevalent, can be success-

At a recent masquerade a young lady attracted considerable attention to her representation of a hornet. Her dress was of black satin, the bodice fitting close and
high and laced down the back, and finished
at the shoulders with silver gauze wings,
confined by a slender silver wire around the
neck so that they fluttered with every motion. The dress showed in front a close fitting, horse-shaped archedness of the
black satin, barred with stripes of yellow velvet.

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., Sep. 18, 1883.
Dear Sir.—I have used your medicine,
"Aromanna" during the past three years
as a remedy for Rheumatism, and was so much relieved that Mr. James wrote out a certificate and took it to Dr. Hornbake.
"Oh, but that is the medicine," exclaimed the doctor, "and my dear sir, you might
make the certificate stronger."
The next day Mr. James called on the doctor and said:
"Have you printed that certificate yet?"
"No, it hasn't come out yet."
"Well, don't print it please."
"Because my poor wife died this morn-

"That so. Allow me to congratulate I mean
please except my sympathy. Of course it won't do to print the certificate. Here,

OUR NEW POSTMASTER.

The Contest is Settled at Last—A Brief Sketch of the Nominee.

The contest for the postmastership at Salisbury was terminated last Monday, by the appointment of Mr. Granville R. Rider. The two aspirants for the position were the applicant and Mr. James T. Truitt. Both gentlemen were regarded by the entire community as fully qualified for the position, and both were well endorsed by the business men of the town. The commission of Postmaster Owens expired March 16th, since which time the appointment of one or the other of the two gentlemen above spoken of, has been daily looked for. It is said that both gentlemen seemed so strongly indorsed and so well qualified for the office that the appointing powers were for a long time unable to determine whom to appoint. While the friends of Mr. Truitt will naturally feel some disappointment over the result, the appointment of Mr. Rider is considered to be a good one, and all are satisfied that the office will be well administered.

Mr. Rider was born in Salisbury, Feb. 25th, 1830, and is consequently 56 years old. His early education was acquired in the schools of the town, and after attending the Academy at this place he spent one year at school in Baltimore. In 1846 he went to Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., where he took a four years course and graduated in 1850. Since his graduation Mr. Rider has been engaged in the mercantile business, and has always had a reputation for upright dealing. Mr. Rider has also taken a lively interest in literature and literary matters. He is at present President of the Circulating Library, and has constantly labored to increase the value of and interest in that institution.

We extend our best wishes for Mr. Rider's successful administration of the office, and our acquaintance with the gentleman leads us to confidently predict such a result.

A Cutting Advers.

The congregation of one of the colored churches of town held a festival in the church last Thursday night. The attendance was large, refreshments abundant and enjoyment of the hour seemed to have possession of the guests. The men in the men's fair dancings gossiped in corners and promenade around the somewhat tightly packed room, and thus "all went merrily as a marriage bell," in the ever-present razor, in the hands of Charlie Layfield, decided to join in the festivities. Without any apparent provocation, Layfield began whacking with his deadly instrument upon another colored man, Haudy Robbins. Four ugly wounds were made, including one across the scalp and one just under the collar bone, which penetrated the lung. The wounds were dressed by Dr. G. W. Todd who regards the man as in a dangerous condition. It is said by some that Layfield was after some one else, and upon being prevented from reaching him by Robbins, turned his anger upon the latter.

Capitulated in the Wisconsin River.

The wind and rain-storm was very severe on Chesapeake bay Monday night and Tuesday morning. Several of the steamboats remained in safe harbors Monday night in preference to taking risks. The rain was particularly heavy from one o'clock Tuesday morning until three, and the wind during that time blew a hurricane. Capt. Veasey of the Maryland Steamboat Company's steamer Kent, which arrived Tuesday, reported that the steamer rescued the crew of the barge Boston Charlie, which had capsized in Wisconsin river Monday afternoon. The men were in a small boat when rescued, and one of them Daniel Webster, told Capt. Veasey that he had had a narrow escape, as the stove of the barge had fallen upon him as he was leaning over the vessel. After a great deal of difficulty he got under the stove and joined his companions. They were landed at Deal's Island by the Kent.—Baltimore Sun.

Sheriff Austin Visits Baltimore.

The Sheriff returned home alone, the other five, all of whom are colored, having desired to spend a year or so in Baltimore. While there, they will board at the Maryland Penitentiary, at the suggestion of our late Court. "Dr." Harris traded pants with an oysterman during the trip, and received 75 cents difference. As Harris knew his pants were old style and that he would soon be furnished with a beautiful new striped pair, this may be considered a good stroke of business on the part of the distinguished doctor.

A Challenge to Centinela's Doctor.

Mr. T. E. Merritt, of Merritt's Hotel, Wilmington, Del., has a pair of young mares, recently purchased in the lower part of the Peninsula, which he will try against any private team owned between the two bays. The team consisted of the Lawrence and Old Morris, 4-year-old fillies, and were purchased of Mr. T. E. Merritt, of Centinela City, Md. The Peninsula has and within its borders are many fine teams, so it is likely Mr. Merritt will have some challenge go.

OUR MARYLAND MEMBERS.

Some Facts About the Men who Represent Maryland in Washington.

Every one of the gentlemen who represent Maryland in both branches of Congress, was born in the State. Senator Wilson heads the list in age, and was born December 28th, 1811. He is consequently now a little over 64 years of age. The youngest is Representative McComas, who was born October 26th, 1846, and is 39 years old. Next to Senator Wilson in age is Representative Compton, who was born November 16th, 1820. The others come in the following order: Dr. Cole, born January 11th, 1827; Senator Gorman, born March 11th, 1826; Mr. Findlay, born December 21st, 1829; Mr. Shaw, born October 7th, 1841; and Mr. Gibson, born January 19th, 1848.

Of the entire number, just one half are lawyers, namely, Senator Wilson, and Representatives Gibson, Findlay and McComas; while two are doctors, Representatives Cole and Shaw, the former of whom practiced law for a short time. Mr. Compton is a farmer and Senator Gorman has held public office since 1863, when he was fourteen years old. The four lawyers and Mr. Compton received collegiate education, while the other three were educated at the public schools, and early entered upon the active business of life. All have held official positions before being sent to make laws for the Nation, except Mr. McComas, who has, however, served a previous term in Congress.

Among the eight Maryland members, the only Republican is Mr. McComas, of the sixth district, while there were two Republicans in the previous Congress.

Senator Gorman's present term expires March 3rd 1887, but he has been elected to succeed himself, and his second term expires March 3rd, 1891.

Mr. Gibson's district, the first, includes Caroline, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Anne's, Somerset, Talbot, Worcester and Worcester counties. At the election Mr. Gibson received 16,736 votes against 14,941 for Mr. Frank T. Shaw, representing the second district which comprises Carroll, Cecil and Harford counties, and the 2nd to 13th districts, inclusive, of Baltimore county. At the election he received 16,374 votes, while T. C. Blair, Republican, received 14,003.

Dr. Wm. H. Cole's district is the 3rd, and consists of the first nine wards of Baltimore city. His vote the election was 16,432 against 10,756 for his Republican opponent.

John V. L. Findlay is also from Baltimore city and represents the 4th Congressional district, which is somewhat complicated in arrangement. It includes the 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th and 20th wards entire, and the 15th ward except the 6th and 7th precincts; the 16th, except the 1st precinct; and the 18th, except the 1st precinct; of Baltimore city. At the election he received 15,702 votes, against 14,334 for Sebastian Brown, Republican.

Barnes Compton, of Prince George's county, is sent to Congress by the 8th district. This includes the parts of Baltimore city that were voted out of Mr. Findlay's district, together with the 1st and 13th districts of Baltimore county, and the counties of Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, Howard, Prince George's and St. Mary's. The vote in this district was 15,612 for Mr. Compton and 14,641 for Hart B. Holton, Republican, who carried the district at the previous Congressional election.

Loth E. McComas comes from Hagerstown, and his district, the 9th and last, is composed of Allegany, Garrett, Frederick, Montgomery and Washington counties. At the election Mr. McComas received 17,995 votes, while Fred. J. Nelson, Democrat, received 16,872.

SATURDAY, APRIL 24, 1886.

The labor troubles in St. Louis seem to be abating somewhat. The railroad company claim to be able to now handle all freight offered. The result has been a decided victory over the Knights of Labor.

The energy with which Land Commissioner Sparks has entered into the adjustment of the land grants by the government brought forth good fruit, and there is a prospect for even better results.

The railroad influence is very powerful, and if Mr. Sparks' official head is not soon demanded by this influential lobby, he may be depended upon to save the government millions of acres of land, which will then be opened to settlers.

After weeks of investigation into the charges of bribery, and much speech-making, the legislature of New York has passed a bill repealing the Broadway street-car charter.

A sudden rise in the river at Montreal causes immense damage. Montreal, April 19.—About 12 o'clock Saturday night the river rose suddenly and continued rising until the greater part of the business district was under water.

As an enterprising, reliable house. Dr. Levin D. A meeting of citizens of St. John, New Brunswick, was held on Thursday evening, of last week to consider the propriety of sending a decoration for the grave of General Grant on Memorial Day.

THE PRESIDENT'S BRIDE.

The First President to marry in the White House—Sketch of Miss Folsom. President Cleveland's approaching marriage is now regarded as a certainty.

There have been a number of marriages at the White House of members of the President's family. The first was that of Nellie Grant and Mr. Sartoris.

The best portrait of Miss Folsom now in Washington is a large one, which hangs in the President's bed room. Miss Folsom was very verse to giving a sitting to the photographers when she was here and has a great horror of publicity.

Miss Folsom's visit to Washington last spring was as a school girl enjoying her vacation. She accompanied her mother and the two were guests at the White House some ten or twelve days.

Miss Folsom's hair is soft and brown, of a shade between light and dark. It is combed well back from her full forehead and loose waves tendril fall away from their confinement against the ivory whiteness of her face.

Miss Folsom has been with her three during much of the past winter. Many of the young ladies have flowers pressed in their albums, labeled "From the White House," these being mementoes given by her from the boxes of flowers weekly sent her by the President from his conservatories here.

The bodies of Bridget Rowe, aged 47 years, and her daughter, Elizabeth Reed, aged 26, were found on Saturday morning in a field near Metuchen, N. J. The women were dissipated characters, and it is supposed they were frozen to death while tramping home from New Brunswick in January last.

Good Luck for an Engineer.—URBANA, Ill.—I had a severe fall upon my right kidney. Caused a great deal of soreness, but thought I would wear it out. Was running express engine, 212 miles, with four trips a week.

The members of the Miners and Laborers Amalgamated Association in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties will hold a grand demonstration in Wilkesbarre on Saturday next. A parade will take place during the day, in which over 5,000 persons are expected to participate.

Expounded to the Commons.—To Buy Out Irish Landlords. LONDON, April 16.—Mr. Gladstone proposed his Irish Land bill to the house of commons this evening. There was hardly any excitement attending the event, compared with the unprecedented enthusiasm which attended the memorable proceedings of yesterday week.

The Rev. Charles Kelly, treasurer of the Irish national league in Detroit, has received a telegram from Charles S. Parnell as follows: "I thank you for your encouraging message advising dispatch of magnificent subscription of £13,000. We have attached no credit whatever to the statement recently cabled from America as to the existence of any ill feeling on the part of the national league of America or its leaders towards our movement.
