THREE MEN SUPPOSED

To Be Drowned At Ocean City. Left In A Skiff May 26th. And Haven't Been Heard From. Capsized Boat Found Answering To The Description.

Capt. Isaac Jones, William Short and William Jones left Ocean City Thursday, May 26th., bound for Holly Beach, N. J., to fish for sturgeon. They should have reached Holly Beach the same day. A telegram was received June 2, stating that the men had not reached their destination, but a boat had been found capsized and towed ashore at Cold Spring Inlet, N. J., answering the description of the boat in which the men left Ocean City; also some of the oars and sails bearing Captain Jones' name. The boat was a 20 foot sea skiff and had a gasoline engine in it, and was also fitted with a sail. She was heavily loaded with part of a sturgeon-fishing outfit, and it is supposed she capsized in crossing the mouth of Delaware bay.

Surfmen along the Maryland and Delaware coast watched the little boat as it passed the different stations, and the last seen of it was from the Lewes (Del.) station. From this station it was watched until half-way across to Cape May and was then lost sight of. There was a strong south wind blowing at the time, and it is thought that the wind and sea were too much for the little boat, which probably sank from under the men. There is a possibility of their having been taken aboard some passing vessel.

Captain Jones has a wife and four children. Short was unmarried. William Jones is a lad of 16 years, son of Capt. John B. Jones, keeper of Isle of Wight Life-Saving Station. Captain Jones had a son who lost his life on board the United States ship Texas last Christmas Day at Key West.

Sudden Ending Of Mayor McLane, Of Baltimore.

Mayor Robert M. McLane, of Baltimore, was found in the dressing-room of his bed-chamber, on the third floor of his house, 29 West Preston Street, at 3:30 o'clock Monday, fatally wounded, and died at 4:55 P. M. A bullet wound diagonally through the head, going in one side and emerging on the other did the deed. The shot was heard by his wife, whom he had just left in the front room on the same floor. When she reached her husband he was lying on the floor.

Dr. Edward N. Brush, medical superintendent of the Sheppard and Enoch Pratt Hospital, says:—

"From the accounts of the affair it is apparent that at the sight of his revolver his mind suddenly gave way. If he had not come across that revolver I do not think he would have had the impulse to kill himself."

"From my personal acquaintance with Mr. McLane I know him to have been a man of peculiarly fine caliber, reserved and keenly sensitive. For months he had been under a heavy strain. No, it is not at all remarkable that a man of such finely organized sensibilities should have broken down suddenly under the strain of the accumulated burdens."

Mr. McLane's successor is a Republican—Mr. H. Clay Timmons—who was elected President of the Second Branch City Council at the time Mr. McLane was elected Mayor.

MASONIC CEREMONIES

Of Tuesday, At The Corner Stone Laying Of New Temple, Furnish An Event Of Historic Importance To That Order. The Building.

The cornerstone laying of the Masonic Temple, now being erected here, was witnessed by many people Tuesday afternoon, the ceremonies being elaborate and impressive.

Lodges from Delaware and other parts of the peninsula, including Berlin, Snow Hill, Easton, Cambridge, Mardela Springs and Princess Anne, were represented and assisted Wicomico Lodge No. 91, A. F. and A. M.

The visiting Grand officers were: Grand Master Thomas J. Shryock, Past Grand Master James R. Brewer, Grand Tyler Washington Nicholson, Grand Lecturer Graham Dukehart, and C. C. Isaacs, all of Baltimore.

Thomas J. Shryock, Commandery No. 11 Knights Templar, acted as escort to the Grand and Subordinate Lodges. The Delmar Cornet Band furnished music. Grand Master Thomas J. Shryock of Maryland was present and conducted the ceremonies. A large choir which rendered some choice selections under leadership of Professor Dashiell, was a feature of the occasion, and contributed much toward enlivening it.

Mr. Henry L. D. Stanford, of Princess Anne, at the conclusion of the ceremonies delivered a strong address on Masonry, which was appropriately responded to by Rev. C. A. Hill and Dr. S. W. Reigart.

The box within the corner stone contained:

A full roster of the members of Wicomico Lodge, Chesapeake Royal Arch Chapter, and Shryock Commandery, copies of The ADVERTISER, News, and Courier, Blue Lodge Manual, presented by H. J. Byrd, the cards of several visiting Masons, a list of the Grand Lodge members present, several old coins and a cent of 1904.

The Board of Trustees under whose authority the Masonic building is being erected is composed of Messrs. R. D. Grier, L. E. Williams, Wm. M. Day, Wm. P. Jackson and Charles E. Harper. The members of the building committee in charge of the work are Messrs. W. U. Polk, A. A. Gilfill, Wm. M. Day, Wm. E. Booth and F. P. Adkins. Mr. Jackson got of Baltimore is the architect, and J. A. McAllen the builder.

The Masonic Temple will be a work of beauty, ornament and usefulness. It will be 75x75 feet, three stories and a basement, to be built of red brick with stone trimmings, and will cost when completed about $37,000.

The first floor will be used for post-office and The People's National Bank, with offices in the rear. The post-office will be fitted with all the newest furniture, hardwood throughout, selected by the Government, will have a brick vault, private office for the postmaster and lavatories. It will be so arranged that the rural delivery wagons can back up to the rear door of the building and have plenty of room to work and will be removed from the street.

On the other side of the hall the People's National Bank will have their quarters, and this room will also be fitted up, with the most luxurious office furniture; with a large, roomy vault and plenty of light and ventilation.

A large main hall runs through the building, at the rear of which, on the first floor, will be several offices for rent.

On the south side of the second floor will be a row of ten offices, en suite, all handsomely appointed and with plenty of ventilation. On the north side on this floor will be the Assembly room, which will be used by the Lodges as a banquet room and rental to the public for small entertainments. There will be a well appointed kitchen in the rear of this room.

The third floor will be occupied exclusively by the Masonic bodies, including quarters for Wicomico Lodge, No. 91, A. F. and A. M., Chesapeake Royal Arch Chapter, and Thomas J. Shryock Commandery No. 11, Knights Templar. There will be two large rooms on this floor, divided with aliding partitions, so that both rooms may be thrown into one when used for Commandery work. These rooms will be fitted with modern and comfortable furniture for the Lodges.

The building will be heated by steam from the basement and lighted with electricity. There will be a janitor on duty in the building at all times.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Wedding Dresses: Styles in Making: Veils: Bouquets: Things in the Metropolis. Graduating Costumes: Traveling Coats: Linenier Hats.

The craze for soft sheer materials which, this season, prevails throughout the entire range of feminine garments, extends also to wedding garments, always holds a distinctive place in changing fashions, but for all the toilets prepared for the happiest of girls. Silk and satin are no longer considered indispensable, and for a June wedding gowns choice is wide, and extends from chiffon or chiffon cloth through the crepes and gauzes to mull or plain net. Lace is of course the preferred garniture, and real lace, if economy is no object; but the net lace imitations of today are beautiful and moreover have received the stamp of approval from influential quarters.

The Alencon, Mechlin, and Chantilly laces are reproduced in beautiful patterns and Valenciennes has unusual distinction this season.

The Style Of Making. The style of making depends much on the type of the wearer, but in any case should be characterized by simplicity. The length of the train is regulated by the formality of the wedding. For a ceremonious church wedding two and a half yards from the waist line is the correct length. For an informal home wedding, it may be much shorter; but the round skirt now in favor for evening gowns is tabooed for the bridal gown. Elbow sleeves with frills are correct; and if the transparent stock is not liked by the wearer a surplice or a Dutchneck is allowable.

The Veil And Bouquet. A veil of illusion or tulle is often preferred even when expense need not be considered. Its length must accord with the length of the train. The tulle comes in three and four yard widths. Becomingness is the first consideration in adjusting the veil and it may be caught with a spray of flowers, or a bunch of tulle. As June is the month of roses, white roses are appropriately chosen for the bridal bouquet and the shower form is still the most popular.

Graduating Dresses. The sweet girl graduate like the bride has an extensive variety of materials to choose from this season. Organdie, batiste, mull, Swiss, plain or embroidered and linen lawn are staple fabrics always in order for the purpose, but there are other materials of fancy weaves, mixtures of silk and linen, or silk and cotton, in almost endless variety which are quite suitable for a graduation gown. They should be as girlish as possible and simply ornamented with hand work, and a little lace, edging frills in bertha or shoulder drapery. It is no longer imperative that it should be an all white toilet. A bit of color may appear in the hair, at the throat, and in the girle or sash. Pompadour ribbons serve the purpose charmingly and also wide sash ribbons of Liberty satin or mousseline in one's favorite color.

Lingerie Hats. These appeared rather tentatively a year ago but this season have come to the front, most insistently and in great variety. The term is elastic and covers hats made of shirred net with lace as well as those made with tuck and plaited ruffles, or of embroidery. Some of them are made so that they can be easily taken off the frame and laundered. To be becoming and dainty are the chief requisites of a lingerie hat and given a white wire or featherbone frame and sufficient sheer material any woman of taste, who is clever with her needle can construct for herself.

Traveling Coats. Pongee is the favorite par excellence for Summer travelling coats. It is light, cool, sheds the dust and can be laundered if not too complicated in its style of making. Mohair is also very popular for traveling coats, especially the mixtures of white with neutral tints or the dark shades pointed with white. Covert cloths serve the double purpose of traveling and rain coats but are warmer than the other fabrics mentioned. Tourists cloaks for sea-faring are made of Scotch tweed suitings some of which have plaid backs. The cut of traveling coats this season is graceful and becoming though with simple lines; stitching and buttons are the only trimming suitable. Lucy Carter.

Jackson—Hart Nuptials, In New York Wednesday.

A special dispatch from New York Wednesday night said: "Only relatives and intimate friends witnessed the marriage today of Miss Anna Dudley Hart, daughter of Mr. E. Burton Hart, to Mr. Hugh William Jackson, son of former Gov. E. E. Jackson, of Maryland, which took place at the home of the bride's father, 18 East Seventy-sixth street. Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson officiated. The bride, who was unattended, wore an elegant gown of white chiffon cloth over white satin, trimmed with applique lace. Her veil was of tulle and she wore a diamond necklace, a gift of the bridegroom. Mr. Richard N. Jackson was his brother's best man. There were no ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will make their home in Baltimore."

Four Sentenced Negroes Break Jail At Easton.

Four negro prisoners escaped from the Easton Jail Wednesday night. All were in long sentence and awaiting removal to the Penitentiary. They broke off an iron handle on a bench in the jail, forced off the iron screen from the upper part of a north window, and, by some unknown means, dropped the upper sash, prised off one of the iron bars and crawled through.

The Sheriff was not disturbed, and knew nothing of it until this morning. This is the second jail delivery in the past two years. The prisoners were Jenkins Bailey, Arthur Ockemy, Perry Ralsin and Marion Woolford.

Nature Lends

Every one knows that Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. Hence the housewife uses it with implicit confidence and without question, and she is justified in so doing.

But how few realize that Royal Baking Powder in its chief ingredient is a direct product of the healthful and delicious grape. The constituent of the grape, crystallized and ground to an impalpable powder, is the cream of tartar which forms the active principle of every pound of Royal Baking Powder.

Fruit properties are indispensable to the healthfulness of the body, and those of the grape as used in the "Royal" are the most valuable and healthful of all.

Hence it is that Royal Baking Powder produces food superlative both in flavor and wholesomeness.

WINGS OF THE ALMIGHTY.

I have been many times struck with the boldness of Hebrew poetry. It makes use of any figure that will serve its purpose, whether that figure be sublime or lowly. We are taught that God is a spirit, a being without form; but He is many times represented as having bodily parts. When, however, we come upon an expression that sets God forth rhetorically as having the physical make-up of something belonging to the lower orders of creation, we are startled by the fancy.
Look, for example, at the ninety-first Psalm. There God is spoken of as an eagle. Listen! "He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shall thou trust."

Here is a metaphor that would never have knocked at the door of any human brain, except at the bidding of divine inspiration. It is natural to think of God as an almighty man in His omnipotence driving a chariot of lightning through a storm, or directing the parade of the stars across midnight skies, or weighing the mountains in scales, or pouring out from the oceans the crystalline waters of the heavens; but to portray Him as having wings, like an eagle brooding over her young, is to show a boldness of conception that awakens wonder.

But that figure does not belittle
God. On the contrary, it brings Him vividly close to human hearts. "He shall cover thee with his feathers." "He shall be an apt illustration of God's care for His children. It is an eagle's love for her fledglings of which the poet is thinking. His thought rises from that to the thought of an infinite love. This care thus described is most powerful. What safer place could there be than beneath the sheltering pinions of the Almighty? To have that refuge is to abide where no harm can befall. What can endanger the eaglets in their nest upon some lofty crag so long as they are protected by the broad breast of their mother? Enlarge that thought into the thought of God's defence of those who trust in him, and it inspires a sense of safety that need never fail. Let the foes of the soul beware of being fought by the wings would be instant death.

Notice, too, the exceeding tenderness of God's care for His children. We all know something of the instinctive gentleness of a bird for her young.
Even a hen has such gentleness.
One of my delights is to watch a fowl providing for the chicks around her. Fierce to attack an enemy, towards her downy brood she is an embodiment of kindness. For them she lives. Christ made use of this idea in portraying His solicitude for the Jewish people. Listen to Him!
"How often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings!" That pathetic lamentation rings upon my ears whenever I see a fowl with her charges. It was the sob of divinity over the waywardness of a favored nation. So when I see the little ones of the barnyard going at nightfall to the warmth and brooding affection of mother wings I think of the surpassing love of God for lost mankind. A stable door becomes the gate of heaven. But alas, how many refuse to experience the tender care of those almighty wings of God!

Among the strong recollections I have of my sainted mother is that of her tucking in the covers of my couch on cold winter nights. No hands so gentle as her hands. Their very touch was magnetic with love. How such paternal care deepens in the rising of the thought towards God! His care is beyond description. Words cannot picture it. Would you know it, my friend? Then you must place yourself in His way.

But also note the confidence which God's children should have in Him.
"Under his wings shalt thou trust."
Here is where many fail. There is often a lack of faith that is reprovable.
When the sky is blue and the air is a gleam with sunshine, many are like nestlings under similar happy conditions. They are buoyant and exultant.
It is the rush of a tempest, with accompanying clouds of storm, that puts their trust to proof. They tremble even beneath the mighty pinions that shelter them from the blast and the pelting hail. How often do Christians believe their profession in times of trouble! They act as if the Lord had never given them a single promise. In affliction the promises of God are frequently forgotten. Such persons are then like the pilgrims in Doubting Castle whom John Bunyan has so graphically pictured in his princely dream. They lose sight of the fact that the promises of God are a key that will open any prison door.
Or keeping to the figure of the psalm quoted, there would be fewer tears and groans and complaints, and more sparkling eyes and flashing faces, if Christians would fully trust themselves under God's infinite wisdom and love. Let one get the promises written deeply upon his heart, and life would be full of song—songs without one minor chord. God's promises are the plumes of His wings. Find them, my friends, a convert, and there unwaveringly trust. Why should one be afraid under the wings of the Almighty? William Henry Baeroff.

Messrs. Lee and Edward Carey, who shipped over three bushels of fat and had made every preparation for the occasion and returned to their homes bountifully provided and pleased with the outing every way. Soft crabs, which ought to be plentiful at this time, are scarce and most difficult to procure in quantities—perhaps the hard freezes last winter may account for the scarcity.

CONTINUED PROGRESS REQUIRES CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT.

Each year a fast growing city, producing new conditions, paves the way for changes and improvements. Mayor Harper has noted many of these in his recent message to the City Council, and has made some excellent recommendations along the lines of present progress and anticipating the future expansion of a greater Salisbury and more important commercial centre.

In connection with Mr. Harper's message and the governmental offices delegated to him and the City Council, it is desirable and to be expected that all the tax-payers and voters each take a personal interest in the affairs of our city in which they have a common interest and co-operate in every way toward making it wisely governed, better and more prosperous.

Mr. Harper's appointments are tributes to the fidelity and efficiency of former officers appointed by Ex-Mayor Dickerson, all of whom were retained in their positions.

WHERE SLAVERY STILL EXISTS

Moroccan Government Approves Traffic, and Sales are Frequent.

In his article on "The Slave Market at Marrakesh," in "Harper's Magazine" for January, S. L. Benson has published a picture of this terrible traffic which goes on approved by the Moroccan Government. He describes the beginning of the sale as follows: "The crowd at the entrance parts to the right and left to admit twelve grave men wearing white turbans and eliabias. They are the dealers, or auctioneers, and the sale is about to begin."

"Slowly and impressively the details advance in a line to the center of the slave market, almost up to the arcade where the wealthy buyers sit expectant. Then the head auctioneer lifts up his voice and—oh, hideous mockery of it all—he prays."

"Now each deal has his people sorted out, and the procession begins. Followed by his bargains, he marches round and round the market, and I understand why the dust was laid before the procession commenced. Some of the slaves are absolutely free from emotion of any sort; they move round as stolidly as the blindfolded horses that work the water wheels in gardens beyond the town. Others feel their position."

"Twenty-one dollars—twenty one," cries the deal at whose heels the one young and pretty woman who has not found a buyer limps painfully. She is from the western Sudan, and her big eyes have the terror-stricken look that reminds me of a hare that was run down by the hounds a few yards from me on the marshes near my country home last winter."

"Why is the price so low? I ask."

"She is sick," says the Moor, coolly; "she cannot work; perhaps she will not live. Who will give more in such a case?"

Plus X. Helped to Dig Grave. A Baltimorean who is now in Rome writes home that many stories are being told of the new pope. One which he relates in his letter refers to the time when the present pontiff was parish priest at Salzano, a village near Treviso. The story depicts Plus X. as a gravedigger, and is credited to the Rev. Alexander Robertson, a Protestant missionary residing at Venice. It follows:

"A son of the soil himself, the pope in his earlier days was always willing to help his countrymen. The sacredness tells how more than once when he had to be brought to the service from a distance for a funeral service and three men only could be found to carry it. Father Sarto, then thirty-two years old, would himself form the fourth. When, in 1873, cholera broke out at Salzano, a panic seized the villagers, and none could be got to dig graves or bury the dead. 'Don Beppi,' as Father Sarto was called, then said to his sacristan, 'You and I must do it.' So getting up early they set to work. Their courageous conduct was not lost upon the parishioners, who soon relieved them of their toll."—Baltimore Sun.

Take a Look at the Wind. Ever take a look at the wind? Can't see it, you say? Yes, you can. Some day when a gale is blowing and the atmosphere is cold, go out in your yard, taking a nice, bright hand saw. If the wind is blowing from the north hold the saw with its ends pointing, one to the east, the other to the west. Take the saw as if you were going to cut the air upward, and let the teeth, which are on top, tilt it over till the flat part of the saw is on an angle of 45 degrees with the horizon.

Then if you look along the teeth of the saw you can see the wind pour over the teeth as plainly as the water over a waterfall.—Wilkesbarre (Pa.) Leader.

NOW HAS A MONOPOLY.

Salvation Army Controls Waste Paper Business in Kansas City. The waste paper business of the Key Bag and Metal Company, at First street and Hannibal bridge, was sold yesterday afternoon to the Salvation Army Industrial Homes Company. By the transfer of this portion of the business of the Key company the Salvation Army secures control of the waste paper business in Kansas City. Possession will be given next Tuesday. The Salvation Army now will be able to offer employment to about 100 men.

The Salvation Army Industrial Homes Company was organized about three weeks ago to handle the waste paper in the cities of the United States. Of the total stock offered for sale, $5,000 was set aside to be sold in Kansas City, with the understanding that the money raised here from the sale of stock would be used as far as possible in building up the local business. So far about half the amount of stock offered for sale here has been taken. The balance required to purchase the business from the Key company was furnished by Commander Booth-Tucker.

Active steps will be taken at once to increase the business. By the terms of the transfer the Salvation Army will obtain possession of all of the warehouses, teams, wagons and bales owned by the Key company. The business will be carried on at the old stand. The army will also retain its warehouse at 2020 Grand avenue.

The waste paper business of the Salvation Army was started in a modest way a little more than a year ago. The business first started through the contribution of old magazines to be distributed wherever they were needed. Finally, so many magazines were offered that the army had more than were needed, and arrangements were made for the sale of them for a few dollars a week.

The gathering of waste paper also was deemed advisable by the officers in charge, and one horse and a rickety old wagon were purchased for that purpose.

A warehouse was first established at 2300 Grand avenue, but the business increased to such an extent that more room was needed, and June 1, 1903, the building at 2020 Grand avenue was leased. More wagons were put out, and the business continued to grow until the army was unable to handle it on a limited amount of capital. For that reason it was decided to incorporate. From such a small beginning the business has grown, and beginning next Tuesday the Salvation Army will have ten wagons running in Kansas City, and will be prepared to handle about seven carloads of waste paper a week.—Kansas City Star.

Society And A Lot Of Us Other Folks Went To The Dogs Last Week. We All Enjoyed It, So did The Dogs—Down On The Midway Thursday Night.

They had a trained dog down there if you remember and before the performance in the tent they took this dog out in front of the tent and had him dive off the top round of a tall ladder. Thursday night the ladder was missing and such a hurry and scurry looking for a ladder. Get something, any thing, get a ladder or anything, only get something high so he can jump off. A man handed up a sort of a handbill price list to the manager of the dog show and remarked, "If your dog can jump from that price list and have nothing OCCUR to him he's a good one." The show man looked at it. It was a handbill advertising a certain clothing store in Salisbury where they were selling clothing at a sacrifice, $12.50, $15.00 and so on suits for $9.00. Truly it was high, too high for the dog to be risked on and they found a ladder. The dog show and the horse show demonstrate beyond a doubt that people will patronize a whole show if you give'em half a show, but they want a show for their money. You can always get that at Lacy Thoroughgood's or James Thoroughgood's. We are showing this season the best selected lot of Clothing and Hats that we ever owned. We are showing the grandest lot of soft shirts that ever came to Salisbury. We are showing more Men's Fine Underwear than any firm in Salisbury, nobody excepted. We are showing at least one thousand dollars worth of Men's Linen Collars, over forty different styles every style new. Day after day we'll take pleasure in showing you new things to wear. We're showing Salisbury people that one man can run two stores in Salisbury and not run them in the ground either. How is it done? By giving the people a show for their money.

BALLOONING ABOVE ALPS

Wonderful Journey of an Italian Aeronaut.

TWENTY HOURS IN AIR

Attempt of E. Spelterini to Sail From Zermatt to the Rhine. He Rode to a Height of 17,300 Feet, but Was Defeated in Attempt by Adverse Winds.

The Italian aeronaut, E. Spelterini, spent twenty hours in his balloon Stella on September 17 and 18 last at heights of from 10,000 to 17,300 feet in an attempt to sail north over the Alps to the Rhine. He was defeated by adverse winds, but nevertheless made a wonderful journey.

The few attempts at ballooning in high mountain regions have been regarded as especially interesting from a scientific point of view, and this aspect of Spelterini's exploit was very important. He has just printed in the German Aeronautischen Mitteilungen the only detail of his journey that has yet appeared.

He started day after day at Zermatt, the starting point for the Matterhorn for wind conditions that would take him north across the Bernese Alps, the central Swiss plain and the Juras to Germany. On September 17th the favorable breeze seemed to have come.

A gentle breeze was blowing from the south. The stations on the Santis, Gotthard and Gornergrat reported a weak south wind. At 11 o'clock a small balloon sent up by Spelterini floated slowly to the north-northeast toward Mount Dom.

A few minutes after 1 o'clock another trail balloon rising from Zermatt made direct for the Welschhorn to the north. The clouds were moving northward and everything seemed propitious.

At 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon the Stella was cast loose from her anchorage ground, rose with great rapidity to a height of 13,000 feet and drifted away directly north toward the Welschhorn. The day was very warm, and the overheated balloon rose to this height without any expenditure of ballast. But there was little wind, and her progress at first was only about six miles an hour.

The air was very clear and a dozen persons at Zermatt were watching the balloon through telescopes until she was finally lost to view in the neighborhood of Welschhorn. Every one supposed that the air vessel would certainly pass over the great summits and proceed on the northern journey.

But something unexpected occurred. To clear the tops of the mountains safely Spelterini emptied a considerable part of his ballast from the sandbags and ascended to a height of about 17,300 feet.

Here he struck a current of air that could not be reported from the high stations. It was a steady wind from the west and the balloon suddenly paused in its northern flight and drifted rapidly to the east.

This was the contingency that could not have been foreseen. The airship sped away far above the mountain tops, though some of them rose to heights of over 13,000 feet. The direction was eastward and southward.

The aeronaut passed over the tops of the Mischabel chain, the Fletschhorn, the Weissmies and the Lagginhorn. He was hovering over Italy now and the balloon began to move northward over Domo d'Ossola and the Val Anserio, and finally hovered over Lake Maggiore.

As darkness fell around him scarcely a breath of air was stirring and throughout the night the traveler could scarcely detect any movement of the balloon. He found in the morning, however, that he had drifted about thirty miles to the west and was over the Italian town of Pavia.

It was bitter cold, but he was well equipped for low temperatures and his physical discomfort was not so great as to impair his enjoyment of the prospect beneath him, a prospect more magnificent than any of the glorious views that may be seen from the tops of the Alps.

At sunrise his balloon was almost motionless, and he decided to throw out more ballast and see if he could get propelling power on higher strata of the air. He soon ascended to a height of over 16,000 feet, where a very weak wind took him slowly to the north.

There was no prospect that he would find a current of air that would take him over the northern mountains at least as far as the Swiss plain, so he decided to seek another earth, and a landing was effected at 9 o'clock in the morning, not without some danger, on the Alt Shingl, which overhangs the hamlet of Bignasco.

He had been in the air for twenty hours. The greatest altitude reached was 17,300 feet. The average altitude of the balloon above sea level during the whole journey was nearly 16,000 feet.

This journey clearly revealed one cause of inaccurate weather reports. The movements of the air currents are an important factor in weather predictions; but there are movements of air strata that are beyond the ken of observers, and so some elements which cannot yet be reckoned with. As far as could be ascertained at the start the conditions for a northern flight of the balloon were perfect; but there were other air movements above those which were observed and these currents prevented the aeronaut from making the journey he had contemplated.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

To Follow It Will Save Serious Trouble For Many Salisbury People.

The following statement by a well known Salisbury woman serves to illustrate the grave danger which beset many of her townsmen. But with such an example as hers to follow, there need be no fear of serious suits.

Mrs. G. W. Fouts, wife of G. W. Fouts, County Sheriff of the Court House, says: "I have suffered off and on with kidney complaint for the last eight years. It came on me gradually and continued to get worse. I felt tired and weak, was short of breath. One doctor told me I had kidney disease and it would finally result in Bright's disease. I was laid up at one time for three weeks. I was feeling very miserable when I went to White & Leonard's drug store for Dr. King's Kidney Pills. I had not taken them more than three days when the distressing aching across my back disappeared. I have great faith in this remedy, and I know if anyone will take the pills as directed they will receive beneficial results."

For sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bontorville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctor after doctor without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by all druggists. Trial bottles free, regular size 50c and $1.

Worst Of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when I was induced to try Electric Bitters, and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel trouble a Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by all druggists.

Driven To Desperation.

Living at an out of the way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident resulting in Burns, Cuts, Wounds, Ulcers, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's the best on earth. 25c. at any drug store.

That Throbbing Headache

would quickly leave you if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and build up your health. Only 25c. money back if not cured. Sold by all druggists.

An Alarm Clock for 25c.

If you want to get up early and feel good all day take a Little Early Riser or two at bed time. These famous little pills relax the nerves, give quiet rest and refreshing sleep, with a gentle movement of the bowels about breakfast time. W. H. Howell, Houston, Tex., says "Early Risers are the best pill made for constipation, sick head ache, biliousness, etc." Sold by all druggists.

All Druggists.

ask the readers of this paper to test the value of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Those persons who have used it and who have been cured by it, do not hesitate to recommend it to their friends. Kodol digests what you eat, cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It increases strength by enabling the stomach and digestive organs to contribute to the blood all of the nutriment contained in the food. Kodol Dyspepsia is pleasant and palatable. All drug gists.

For a Hundred Years.

For a hundred years or more Witch Hazel has been recognized as a superior remedy, but it remained for E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, to discover how to combine the virtues of Witch Hazel with other antiseptics, in the form of a salve. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the best salve in the world for sores, cuts, burns, bruises and piles. The high standing of this salve has given rise to counterfeiters and the public is advised to look for the name "DeWitt" on the package and accept no other. Sold by all druggists.

A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES"

What is known as the "Blues" is seldom occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disordered LIVER.

THIS IS A FACT which may be demonstrated by trying a course of

Tutt's Pills

They control and regulate the LIVER. They bring hope and buoyancy to the mind. They bring health and elasticity to the body.

MONEY-MAKING PER CENT.

There is a fascination about big profits to a business man. But the conservative had cautious trader prefers to have the larger per cent. of interest and the larger per cent. of safety in his investment. There is no business man who would not consider it a good proposition to invest in an enterprise in which absolute loss was impossible and which offered him twenty-eight chances in a hundred of a rich profit. The statistics of cures effected by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery shows that ninety-eight per cent. of cases of "weak lungs" can be absolutely cured. Almost if not all forms of physical weakness may be traced to starvation. Starvation says the strength. The body is just as much starved when the stomach cannot extract nutrition from the food it receives as when there is no food. "Weak lungs," bronchial affections, obstinate coughs, call for nourishment. "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies that nourishment in its most condensed and assimilable form. It makes "weak lungs" strong, by strengthening the stomach and organs of digestion which digest and distribute the food, and by increasing the flow of pure blood.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by Surgery. Organs are taken out and craped and polished and put back or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pectate the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by all druggists.

A Strong Heart.

is assured by perfect indigestion. Indigestion swells the stomach and puffs it up again; the heart. This causes shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and general weakness. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures indigestion, relieves the stomach, takes the strain off the heart and restores it to a full performance of its function naturally. Kodol increases the strength by enabling the stomach and digestive organs to digest, assimilate and appropriate to the blood and tissues all of the food nutriment. Tones the stomach and digestive organs. Sold by all druggists.

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.50 which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coacohella, Cal. "It is the fact he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Cholera, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by all druggists.

Thrown from a Wagon.

Mr. George K. Babcock was thrown from his wagon and severely bruised. He applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely and says it is the best liniment he ever used. Mr. Babcock is a well known citizen of North Plain, Conn. There is nothing equal to Pain Balm for strains and bruises. It will effect a cure in one-third the time required by any other treatment. For sale by all druggists.

REMARKABLE EXECUTION.

Russian Criminal Who Killed Twelve Helps Hang Himself.

Some time ago a Russian criminal was executed in St. Petersburg. He had, during the last two years, murdered twelve persons, the last one being a priest. The law did not show this monster any mercy, but speedily condemned him to death.

Stojanski was the name of this wholesale murderer, and he hoped to the last for clemency. When the death warrant was read and the keeper informed him that he had but six hours to live, he raged and swore to revenge himself in the most terrible manner. After being left alone in the cell the first thing he did was to break his lamp and procure some matches, he set fire to the wall, the window, and the entire building in a moment the flames broke through was for a time threatened with destruction. Fortunately, the fire was discovered in time and got under control before much damage had been done, but in the meantime a terrible struggle ensued between the keeper and the criminal, who had fortified himself with an iron bar, taken from his bedstead. The first man to enter the cell was knocked senseless, and it was only after being almost suffocated with smoke that the prisoner was finally overpowered. Next morning the execution took place. The condemned man ascended the scaffold with much bravado, made a thorough examination of the same, and finally declared the rope was too short.

"I cannot get my head in the loop," he said, "and though it will cause me some inconvenience to wait I will smoke a cigarette while you are having it attended to."

He lighted a cigarette and, turning to the executioner, made a speech, pointing out the detestable in his profession, and as a condemned criminal in Russia has certain rights, no one dared to interrupt him.

The executioner, who was really a tender-hearted man, became visibly affected by the moralizing words of the murderer, and, turning to the crowd assembled before the scaffold, declared that his conscience did not allow him to proceed or to take a fellow man's life, and he then and there resigned his position and departed midst the shouts of the assemblage.

This caused great confusion among the representatives of the law, for where could they in a hurry get another executioner? The question was, however, solved by the condemned man, who declared that he would execute himself as soon as he got through smoking. He started an interesting conversation with the priest during the five minutes or so which he had left, and recommended that he read Count Tolstoy's latest book, "which contains striking remarks about the relation of capital punishment to the teachings of Christianity. He then threw a kiss to a pretty girl among the spectators, stuck his head in the loop, and kicked away the trap beneath his feet.—Washington Post.

Size of Manchuria.

Manchuria corresponds in latitude to Manitoba, North Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska. Its area of 362,110 square miles is only 10,000 square miles less than the combined area of these great grain states. It is two and a half times greater than California, and is as big as Texas, Alabama and Louisiana combined. In the northern part of the province are thousands of square miles untouched. Manchuria has a possible wheat area as great as that of the United States.

PRODUCE EXCHANGE MET

At Pocomoke Last Week And Placed Mr. Cullen in Charge Of Selling Department. Other Doings Of The Organization.

The Directors and Officers of the Peninsula Produce Exchange of Maryland visited the General Office of the Eastern Shore of Virginia Produce Exchange of Onley, Va., on Thursday morning, June 2nd., in order to familiarize themselves with the workings of an Exchange, and on their return to Pocomoke City in the afternoon held a meeting of their Board; at which time considerable business of importance was transacted.

Mr. W. C. Cullen, Secretary and Treasurer, who has had four years experience in the office of Mr. Barton of the Virginia Exchange was placed in charge of the Selling department in addition to his other work. In the person of Mr. Cullen, the Exchange has no officer whose experience in the Exchange office at Onley, Va., will be of invaluable service to our new organization.

He has already made arrangements with some of the best produce dealers in the country to buy our goods. This very important matter was being attended to by him during the time that the Exchange affairs were in such an uncertain condition. It is to be regretted that the Exchange was not organized in time to be of service to the berry shippers this season, as we believe it would have been the means of putting thousands of dollars in the pockets of the farmers.

However, they are now ready to handle the Irish potato crop to a good advantage.

The Exchange representatives on the markets of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore are of the best in these markets; and only charge 5 per cent commission on all sales made. This should appeal to the shippers as it will be quite a saving to them. We hope our farmers will enroll as members of the organization and help to make it the success that it so richly deserves.

THE NEW WOMAN.

Mrs. EMMA MITCHELL.

Mrs. Emma Mitchell, 520 Louisiana street, Indianapolis, Ind., writes:

"For the past five years I have rarely been without pain, but Peruna has changed all this, and in a very short time. I think I had taken only two bottles before I began to recuperate very quickly, and seven bottles made me well. I do not have headache or backache any more, and have some interest in life."

Emma Mitchell.

The coming of what is known as the "new woman" in our country is not greeted by everyone as if she were a great blessing. But there is another new woman whom every body is glad to see. Every day some invalid woman is exclaiming, "I have been made a new woman by Dr. Hartman's home treatment." It is only necessary to send name, address, symptoms, duration of sickness and treatment already received to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and directions for one month's treatment will be promptly forwarded.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

GENERAL EDUCATIONAL

Bill Passed By Recent Legislature. Short Summary Of Its Features, And Differences From The Old Law, Of General Interest.

In view of the fact that a bill known as the "General Educational Bill" passed by the legislature and is now a law, I have thought it is proper to give a summary of the features of the present law wherein they differ from those of the old school law. I deem this all the more necessary because the revised school laws have not been published:

1. The office of the State Board of Education and State Superintendent of Education will be transferred from Baltimore to Annapolis. You will be notified when this transfer is made.

2. The State Board of Education is now composed of eight members consisting of six to be appointed by the Governor and the State Superintendent of Education. The terms of the members of the State Board correspond to those of the county school Commissioners and minority representative is provided.

3. The State Superintendent of Public Education is Secretary of the State Board of Education.

4. The official title of the Secretary of the county school Board is "Secretary, Treasurer, and county Superintendent." The name "Examiner" does not occur in the new law.

5. The Secretary, Treasurer, and county school Superintendent is appointed in the month of May when the Board is organized but does not enter upon his new duties until the beginning of the scholastic year August first.

6. Trustees must be appointed first day of May or first meeting thereafter which must be held in month of May.

7. Principal teacher is appointed by the Boards of Trustees and becomes the secretary of the Board of District Trustees.

8. All assistant teachers are appointed by the County School Boards.

9. County school Boards are given authority to consolidate schools when desirable and practicable and to pay charges of transportation.

10. The Normal school at Frostburg, the Normal Department of Washington College, the Maryland State Normal School and the Baltimore colored Normal school are under the supervision of the State Board of Education.

11. The free book fund is $105,000, and the expenditures of same is limited to text books and supplementary reading books and maps of Maryland. All text books are to be adopted and purchased by the county school Boards.

12. Diplomas of State Normal Schools from other states may be endorsed by the State Superintendent of Education.

13. The minimum county school tax rate is now fifteen cents.

14. The State school tax rate is fifteen cents instead of ten and one half as heretofore.

15. Teachers of white schools where the average annual attendance of pupils is fifteen or more shall receive a salary not less than three hundred dollars and such schools shall remain open not less than 9 months. Schools where the average is less than 15 are in the control of the county school Board who determine the school year and the amount of salary to be paid the teacher.

16. Where the school Board fails to provide a school year of nine months and the minimum salary of $300 to white teachers whose school average fifteen, the Comptroller will withhold the March installment of the school tax.

17. There is no separate fund for colored schools. All matters pertaining to colored schools are left with the county school Board.

18. The State school tax is now apportioned on the basis of children (colored and white) between the ages of 5 and 20 as disclosed by the census.

19. The Academic and free school funds are not affected by the new law.

20. The new law went into effect from the date of its passage. All state taxes for the coming fiscal year will be collected on the new rate of 22 1/2 cents.

21. In counties containing more than eighty five schools, the School Board may employ a clerk, where the number of teachers exceeds 175 they may also employ an assistant county Superintendent.

22. The Pension fund for teachers was increased to $30,000, annually. These are the main provisions which I trust will meet your needs until you can obtain a printed pamphlet containing the laws as revised.

Yours very truly,
M. Bates Stephens.

JACKSON MEMORIAL METHODIST

EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH.

The handsome edifice now being erected on North Division Street, Salisbury, by ex-Governor and Mrs. Elihu E. Jackson as a memorial to the Jackson family is represented by the above drawing. The church will be known as the Jackson Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and will cost about $50,000. The building will be constructed of Port Deposit granite with Indiana sandstone trimmings, and on the interior a great many glazed bricks will be used. The tower will be 55 feet high. The building throughout will be handsomely finished and will be one of the finest church edifices in this State. The contractors, McKnight & Nardin, of Baltimore, with a large force of stone cutters and masons, are making rapid progress and expect to complete the work by September 1.

COUNTY LEVY FOR 1904.

Assessment Made At Last Tuesday's Meeting. Rate Of Eighty And One-Half Cents. Large Appropriation For Public Schools. The Taxable Basis.

Tuesday was another well filled day with the Board of Wicomico County Commissioners, who struck the levy for 1904, the rate being 80 1/2 cents on the $100.

It will be agreeable to know that there has been a healthy increase in the taxable basis over last year of nearly $800,000.00, on real and personal property and stocks of corporations, 5,100,000.00 is the amount of real and personal property assessed; stock of corporations, $1,552,710.00; Bonds $5500.00.

Basis of the Districts for real and personal property is as follows, the bonds and stock, most of which are held in Salisbury, not being included:

Barren Creek	$17,011.00
Quantico	323,660.00
Yaquina	260,941.00
Pittsburg	376,496.00
Parsons	1,069,788.00
Dennis	144,463.00
Trappe	231,181.00
Nutter	626,742.00
Salisbury	1,388,831.00
Sharptown	204,507.00
Delmar	301,185.00
Nanticoke	279,117.00

Some of the larger items of the Levy:

Alma House	$1,456.70
State's Attorney and Special Attorneys	1,350.00
Bridges	1,016.70
Board of Health	1,130.00
Clerks of Courts	2,152.95
City Council	800.00
Court House	580.30
Court Expenses	3,500.00
Election Expenses	2,696.23
Ferries	611.63
Hospitals	3,425.00
Interest on Bonds	800.00
Jail	565.00
Out Pensions	2,500.00
Orphan's Court	534.60
Printing and Publishing	981.75
Roads	6,322.68
County Commissioners	1,000.00
Surplus	2,500.00
Treasurer's and Assistant	2,800.00
Public Schools	15,000.00

The increase of 2 1/2 cents over the county rate of 1903 is due largely to the allowance of $3000 to the School Board to continue the public schools after last year's levy had been made, and to provide for $800 interest on the bond issue.

Under the recent road law the towns of Salisbury, Delmar and Sharptown receive such proportion of the taxes levied for road purposes within their corporate limits. There has been an increased cost of timber for the construction of bridges, etc., while the Commissioners have shown a liberal disposition in shelling the county roads to further improve the public highways.

The Commissioners have exercised commendable judgement in the past year's administration of the County's affairs.

Hearn—Reddish.

The event that has recently stirred our social circle to its center is the wedding of Miss Mamie L. Reddish, daughter of Mr. L. A. Reddish to Mr. Albert H. Hearn, both of Spring Hill. The ceremony took place at the bride's parent, Wednesday evening June 9, at half after eight o'clock in the presence of the two immediate families and intimate friends. Rev. W. F. Atkinson, of Salisbury officiating. Miss Maggie Ellis presided at the organ and rendered "O'Henry's" march very artistically.

The bride was tastefully attired in a gown of white metallic silk and carried white roses. The groom wore the conventional black with light trousers. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. After the ceremony a reception was given at the bride's parents.

The happy couple received many handsome and useful presents and indications of the good wishes of hosts of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Hearn will reside with the groom's parents in Spring Hill.

A MOUNTAIN OF GOLD

$22,000,000 Already Taken From Mount Morgan.

NO SIMILAR FORMATION

A Mountain in Queensland Composed Entirely of Gold Ore—Sold by a Poor Herder for $5 an Acre—Fortunes Made By It for Subsequent Owners.

A London newspaper announced the other day that the usual monthly dividends of $145,000 had been paid on the stock of the Mount Morgan Company. Thus far the lucky shareholders in this company have received more than $22,000,000 in dividends.

The richest gold deposits were found at the top of the mountain, and until the top had been quarried away the dividends amounted to more than $500,000 a month. The sensational returns ceased several years ago, and since then the company has been paying regularly $145,000 a month, and seems likely to continue to do so for many years, for the entire mountain, as far as can be ascertained, consists of gold-bearing ore of uniform richness.

Mount Morgan in the southeastern part of Queensland, Australia, is probably the most marvellous gold mine ever opened. There is pathetic as well as romantic interest in its history.

Years ago the mountain was owned by a poor herder named Gordon, who eked out a precarious existence by keeping a few score of cattle. He had fenced in the mountain and a strip of the plain around it, established his residence there and fulfilled all the conditions necessary to make the property his homestead.

The few people who came to his little cottage wondered that he had chosen so uninviting a spot, for the pasturing was poor and little of the soil was adapted to cultivation. He said, however, that he had plenty of water, and that consideration had induced him to settle there.

One day two brothers named Morgan came to Gordon's cottage at nightfall and sought his hospitality. It was the custom in the bush country to make all travellers as comfortable as possible, and Gordon welcomed the strangers and set out his best store for their entertainment.

They were experienced prospectors and were looking for gold indications. As they were chiefly interested in mining, Gordon told them about his mountain. He said that he had observed curious green and blue stains all over it, and he would not be surprised if it contained copper.

He excited the curiosity of the Morgan brothers, who next morning examined the mountain. A shower during the night had wetted the rocks, and one of the brothers observed indications of gold that fairly started him.

They said nothing, but pocketed a few specimens of the rock and went on their way. They had discovered the richest known spot on the globe.

A few weeks later the Morgan brothers again appeared and offered to buy the land from Gordon at $5 an acre. He thought it was a good offer and decided to sell. At that time the Morgans had no idea of the enormous value of the mountain, though they were confident that it would pay handsomely to work it.

Gordon drove his cattle away to another freehold, and a few years ago it was reported that he had died in poverty. He lived long enough to know the value of the prize that had slipped through his hands.

A battery was needed to treat the rock, but the Morgans did not have money enough to buy the necessary plant. They therefore offered a half interest in the property to a resident of Rockhampton for $10,000, the money to be invested in machinery.

He said it was too great a risk for one man to take, but he found three other men to go in with him, each investing $25,000. There were thus six men in the enterprise, the Morgan brothers owning half of the property.

Five years later each of the six men was a millionaire. The stock is now more widely distributed, though it is in comparatively few hands. The mine has made a fortune for every one concerned in it.

It was found that the methods necessary for mining and reducing the ore were unique, as no similar formation or quality of ore had been discovered elsewhere. Original methods were therefore devised for working the mine.

At the foot of the mountain there is now a thriving town, and the whole district has been transformed by the great expenditures of the company. The place where poor Gordon's cattle found scanty subsistence is now marked by the luxurious homes of a few very rich men and the cottages of an army of workmen usually numbering 1,200.

Geologists believe that they have discovered how this mountain of gold ore came to be formed. They say that the occurrence of the gold is due to a former thermal spring that brought up the precious metal with other mineral substances, chiefly silica and iron, in solution and precipitated them at the surface.

In this way the wonderful mountain was built up and the whole of it is a solid mass of gold-bearing ore.

MAGIC POWER OF RADIUM

Diamonds Made to Glim Like Stars in the Darkness

FILLED WITH NEW JOY

Technology Club Tosts Alma Mater in Radium Cocktails at the University Club—Liquid Sunshine Was the Label for Wineglass.—No Headache Next Day.

Strange as it may appear, not a man who attended the Technology Club dinner at the University Club last evening reported either indigestion or "kazenjimmer" this morning. The occasion, though dignified, was a merry one. It was a feast of "radioactivity," as well as wit and substantial viands, and a new quality of radium was demonstrated. This was a "liquid sunshine" cocktail, prepared by Lester D. Gardner, and drunk as a toast to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"Liquid sunshine" was the label that adorned a wineglass of strange liquid at every cover, and every one of the 125 scientists and their guests was eager to quaff its contents, but this was part of the "radium show" scheduled for late in the evening.

At last Mr. Gardner was given the floor amid total darkness. Before exhibiting the strange qualities of radium, he told of a strange mistake made by a doctor who administered interior sunshine to a patient. A few days later the doctor found that the patient had a tanned liver. He communicated with Dr. Morison, and was scored for not providing a parasol with the radium sunshine.

The liquid sunshine, according to Mr. Gardner, was prepared from water and Esculin, or an abstract from horse chestnut juice. In each glass containing the solution he had every guest stir for a few minutes a tube filled with radium. The rays of the radium, it was said, would excite the Esculin into luminescence. This done, the merry diners lifted their glasses high in the darkness, and as little flashes of sunshines gleamed therefrom, they longed to quaff the sparkling nectar, but the entertainer had another aim in view.

"Nay, nay," he said, "leave this for the last," and producing some more radium, he brought its rays near a diamond, a kunzite, and willinite until they gleamed like stars in the darkness.

At this point the radium pains was exhibited. To the awe of the guests the skeletons of the founder of Technology and of old John Harvard appeared in the darkness above the head of Dr. Pritchett, in a close conference. But they were quickly disturbed by two roosters which, covered with radium paint, burst into a blinding view and by their crowing warned the ancient scholars of the approach of dawn.

Again the diners wished to quaff their liquid sunshine, but were deterred by the appeal of Mr. Gardner who went on to explain that he was going to furnish Commissioner McAdoo with radium paint for the policemen's shields. Golf balls, too, were to be painted with it for night play.

After the speaker had explained the workings of the perpetual motion machine he lifted his glass of "liquid sunshine" and said:

"Now let us drink a toast to our alma mater. I have kept this glass till the last, because the rays of radium entering the system will excite into fluorescence every part of the body. Thus, after your dinner to-night, you will awake in the morning glowing with sunshine; you will feel no fatigue from the loss of sleep, but bright and cheery you will go to work for your body will be bathed in liquid sunshine."

In hearty accord the glittering liquid was drunk. Through the magic power of radium water was again made wine as in the days of old, and the guests who drank thereof were not drunk, but filled with a new joy.

Too Busy to Make a Noise.

A Kansas City teacher of a kindergarten was incapacitated from work one day last week by the following incident. The subject of the lecture and object lesson were animals, birds and then more animals.

"Now, children," said the teacher, "I want each of you to think of some animal or bird and try for a moment to be like the particular one you are thinking about, and make the same kind of noises they are in the habit of making."

Here was the command. Here the finale: Instantly the schoolroom became a menagerie. Lions roared, dogs barked, birds sang and twittered, cows lowed, calves bellowed, cats mewed, etc., all in an uproar and excitement—all, with one single exception.

Off in a remote corner a little fellow was sitting perfectly still, apparently indifferent and unimpaired of all the rest. The teacher, observing him, approached and said:

"Waldo, why are you not taking part with the other children?"

Waving her off with a deprecating hand and wide, rebuking eyes, he fervently whispered:

"Sh—sh—sh, teacher—sh! I'm a 'cooter, and 'm not 'in a 'bit'!"—Kansas City Post.

Where They Differed.

Barbour Lathrop, the champion talker of Columbia, has left for the East Indies. His departure leaves an aching silence in the Bohemian Club. At the last low Jinks Abe Hur said to one of the minor characters: "Stop talking for a minute, can't you? Do you think you're Barbour Lathrop?"

This was not the first reference that had been made in the club to Lathrop's chatterbox propensities. At one of the Christmas trees he was presented with the jawbone of an ass, to which the difference between himself and Samson was that while Samson slew his thousands with the jawbone of an ass, he (Lathrop) had slain thousands of asses with the jawbone of a man. And it was decided that Lathrop had scored one.—San Francisco Town Talk.

COL. BRYAN'S JAPANESE PUPIL.

Yamashita Yaschiro Going Home to Become the Bryan of Japan.

Yamashita Yaschiro, the young Japanese who has been studying the science of government under the combined tutelage of William J. Bryan and the State University, will shortly thereafter return to Japan, where he will enter politics.

He is pleasant faced and rather slender, and he surprised Col. Bryan six years ago by descending upon him one afternoon while he was enjoying the restful shade of his porch and announcing that he had come to make his home with the Nebraskan to learn the art of becoming a state-man and a leader of the people. Mr. Bryan demurred, at first gently, but later strenuously; but nothing he could say or do could shake the firm determination of the young Japanese.

Mr. Bryan told him that he should find some place to work and in this way, obtain the means with which to go through school. Yamashita replied that that was just what he wanted to do, and as he had the right of choice he had fixed upon Col. Bryan's house as his home during the time he was getting his education.

The patient, gentle courtesy of the Japanese would be satisfied with no unfavorable answer, and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan capitulated gracefully. The young man said that he had read much of what Mr. Bryan had said and written, and these words had inspired him to educate himself and become the Bryan of Japan.

These were not the exact words of Yamashita, but that was what he meant, and as he could learn to be the Bryan of Japan only by sitting at the feet of the original he was no longer resisted. His gentle manners soon made him a household favorite. He was at home in any department of the domestic work and he faithfully performed every task that was required of him.

Despite his rather poor equipment for entrance into the university, he qualified within two years and has diligently applied himself to which embraced political economy, sociology, ethics and American history. Col. Bryan has interested himself very much in the young man, and guided him in his selection of studies and reading.

All the time Yamashita has made his home with the Bryans and has made himself a general favorite in the university and the city. To a reporter he said:

"My course of study has been shaped with the intention of fitting me for a career in politics in my native land. There are great opportunities there for young men, and many of us have been favored with the opportunity to imbibe the best there is of American ideals and institutions."

"We feel very grateful to you people for the chances we have had, and shall try to repay you by trying to make our own country more than ever deserving of the title of the America of the Orient. Japan is on the wave of a great intellectual uplift and is destined to take a more prominent position in world affairs hereafter. A knowledge of American politics and of political economy will fit our young men for the great opportunities that will arise."

"I will devote my life regardless of material interests to assisting mankind and helping to make their condition better. I am not versatile enough to do all things, and I hope I am not so unwise as to think myself capable to do many things, but I expect to meet with success in politics in my native land."

"To me that appeals as a great field of usefulness. It may be as broad as a nation is great or as wide as the world's brotherhood."

"The real basis of universal politics is to know man. I have been much interested in mathematics, literature and philosophy, but immeasurably more in finding out in what way I could better the condition of my fellow men."

You Needn't Take a Cussing in Kansas.

Squire Smith of Harrison township, in Kiowa County, has handed down some new law. A man was brought before him the other day charged with assault. The defendant admitted the crime, but said that he was justified in committing it because the complaining witness had called him a lot of vile names. The squire discharged the prisoner, saying that a man who would cuss another deserved to be licked.—Kansas City Journal.

Rheumacide

IT CURED HELPLESS CRIPPLE.

Mr. Wilkes writes in the course of a long letter, dated August 18, 1902: "My legs were drawn back until my feet touched my hips. I was as helpless as a baby for nearly 12 months. The muscles of my arms and legs were hard and shrivelled up. I suffered death many times over. Was treated by six different physicians in McCall, Dillon and Marion, but none of them could do me any good, until Dr. J. P. Ewing, of Dillon, told me to try your RHEUMACIDE. I began to take it, and before the first bottle was used I began to get better. I used 24 bottles and was completely cured."

Dr. J. P. Ewing confirms Mr. Wilkes' statement in every particular.

INCREASING SENTIMENT FOR SCIENTIFIC ROADS.

Encouraged by the Maryland Legislature's passage of the bill for state aid in the building of scientifically constructed roads, known generally as the Shoemaker Good Roads bill, the Maryland Geological Survey under the direction of Dr. Wm. Bullock Clark, is preparing for an active summer of service in the interest of the Board of County Commissioners throughout the State, from which calls for assistance in the way of expert information, estimates, and road-engineering have begun to come in to the Survey authorities. As the advantages of the new law become more generally understood in its economical aspect, ease of administration, and satisfaction to the users of the road the Maryland Geological Survey will be very active through its highway Engineer, Mr. A. N. Johnson in meeting requests of assistance from all quarters of the State.

A very striking sign of the prospective betterment of roads in Maryland is the interest and progress manifested in the various counties to help themselves and to push forward scientific road-building. In each case the fact that there will early be available a considerable sum under the Shoemaker Act will be a great assistance and it is expected that full advantage will be taken of the opportunity for obtaining the supervision of road-building by Mr. A. N. Johnson. The question with which each county is confronted is whether, under the present method of administering its road funds, the roads have steadily improved a dollar's worth for every dollar that had been expended upon them, and whether the very best results have been obtained in each case. In other words, have the roads in your county when once built, even though at considerable outlay, given thorough satisfaction and require but little expense from year to year for repairs, or does the same amount of labor have to be gone over each year at the same total expense, because they were not built scientifically in the first place.

What are the facts in this connection? In the past fifteen years the people of Montgomery county have expended on their roads, including tolls, over $540,000. Let us say that it is necessary to expend as much as half this sum on repairs which are absolutely needed to keep the roads in a safe condition and that the other half of the money should have been expended in making good macadam roads. If this had been done, then in the past fifteen years they would have spent a little over $270,000 on well-made roads. Now put the cost of a good macadam road at a comparatively high figure, say $6,000 per mile for a 12-foot macadam, accordingly they should have constructed in the last 15 years 45 miles of good roads. But 45 miles of good macadam roads have not been built in the last 15 years in Montgomery or in any other county of this State.

A realization of the unsatisfactory and wasteful methods pursued in the past is, however, apparent in many parts of the State and there is now in progress a definite sentiment for scientifically constructed roads. Requests for assistance have been received by the Survey from 144 of the 23 counties in the State and examinations, plans and estimates have been made for upwards of 60 pieces of roads. Not all of these have been improved wholly according to the suggestions given, but a large number of instances the work has been done according to the plans and specifications that were furnished.

FOR MEN, BOYS, YOUTHS AND CHILDREN,

surpasses any and every sale of apparel ever attempted in Salisbury. The stock which we offer to the public this summer exceeds $20,000 in value and completely fills two stores—with this grand stock, and because of our policy of strictly cash buying and selling, we are enabled to save clothing buyers many dollars on their purchases. Besides saving our customers from ten to twenty per cent on their purchases, we give yellow trading stamps—Lacy Thoroughgood's clothing department is just now in the height of its prosperity—growing faster than ever before. The stock that Thoroughgood carries comprises everything fashionable for men, youths and boys to wear. It is Thoroughgood's purpose to give customers the best goods that money can buy. Could Thoroughgood have grown to such importance from the little clothes box of an affair he started eighteen years ago, to two beautiful stores, if he hadn't done his work faithfully? Not a day passes that some one doesn't come to Thoroughgood and say "I have been buying clothes from you ever since I was a boy, and I haven't yet had cause to utter a word of complaint. That's just it, a great many of Thoroughgood's customers started with him when they were kid's and because Thoroughgood has treated them fair in every respect they have stuck to him—Now, you can understand why Thoroughgood has doubled his business in two years, he had an army of customers rooting for him; that is why Lacy Thoroughgood does more business than any other two stores in Salisbury put together, and more than any other store on the Eastern Shore of Maryland—Everybody is talking about it. Everybody sees that Lacy Thoroughgood is doing the clothing and hat business of Salisbury, why shouldn't he? Here's what Thoroughgood offers now

Dearest loved one thou art gone
The hard to give you up
To part with a darling like you
And drink the bitter cup.
You were patient, good and kind
As mortal child could be
The Lord in taking you from earth
Took a precious one from me.
Our home is sad and lonely
I pray the time to come
Our Este could you speak to me,
Yet you have gone to Heaven to dwell.
Oh Este, it was hard to see you die
And leave us all here alone
To print the parting lips when
Your lips as cold as stone.
As a sister you were gentle, good and kind,
And bore your afflictions without a groan,
But God has taken you away
Now you are lying in the tomb.
The hours move slowly, the days seem long,
I pray the time to come
That we all may go where you are
And be beside you in the tomb.
Eadie how I miss that sweet face,
I miss you calling: "Oh mamma,
I love you but I cannot live,
I want a change to a better place."
I did not think that God
Would call you away so soon,
You were angel-like, He wanted you,
And He called you home.
Dearest Este, how I miss thee,
Have on earth no more to see
God gave and He has taken
Fare-thee-well but not forever.

Fifteen Offenders Come Before Justice Trader Monday.

The nearness and convenience of Ocean City was brought home in a most unpleasant way to Salisbury people last Sunday and Monday. Officers Waller and Crouch, anticipating trouble, went over on the Sunday afternoon train to Ocean City. It seems that there was little limit to the liquor supply on land and consequently there were many later to risk a too intimate acquaintance with it. On the return train, it appears that a large fracas took place with a free fight, in which there were some twenty combatants. On Monday there was a different tale. Nine of the reported disturbers were arrested and after trial before Justice Trader fined $5.00 and costs each, amounting to $7.75 apiece, with the distinct understanding that, hereafter, if either of the offenders appeared before him again on a similar charge, he would place the limit of the law $50.00 on each and every guilty one.

Monday evening Deputy Sheriff Waller and Constable Kelley arrested three negro women and three men on the afternoon train from Ocean City, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. They were brought to Salisbury and locked up for a hearing.

The determined attitude of the officers of the law and prompt and severe punishment of all guilty offenders, will throw a damper on the hooliganism and rowdiness, which might otherwise be a continual threat on the public peace and safety, accompanying, particularly, the return of a Sunday train from the beach.

THE FRIGHTFUL BURNING

Of Some Thousand Persons On Excursion Steamer Near New York. Catastrophe Exceeds Recent Troops Theatre's Appalling Disaster.

The burning of the excursion steamer General Slocum in the East River, New York, at 10 o'clock, Wednesday morning led to one of the most frightful disasters of the kind which ever occurred in this country.

The loss of life will approximate 1000. This estimate is based on the opinion of the chief of the Fire Department, of the corner's office and of the police. 504 bodies had been recovered, of which 155 had been identified. There were reported missing 467 persons and the hospitals had 117 injured.

The victims are mostly women and children. The overturning of a pot of grease in the kitchen of the vessel caused the fire.

The Awful Story.

The Slocum left her dock, at the foot of Twenty-third street, New York, at 9.30 o'clock, bearing the annual excursion of St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 322 Sixth Street, Manhattan. She was bound for Locust Grove, a summer resort on Long Island Sound. The number of excursionists on board is estimated by the Knickerbocker Steamboat Company, owners of the vessel, at 873, but by others at from 1,500 to 2,500.

When off the Sunken Meadows, just east of Randall's Island, in the East river, the fire broke out. In a few moments it seemed as if there was an explosion and the flames spread with awful swiftness.

Hundreds of persons, their clothing ablaze, jumped into the water, most of them to drown. Others were carried down to an agonizing fate by the crashing of the hurricane deck into the furnace below.

Capt. William H. Van Schaik, commander of the Slocum, headed her for North Brother Island, a half mile distant, where she was beached, a total wreck. He has been criticised for not running her ashore at a nearer place, but declares the rock of Hell Gate and the nearness of oil tanks and piers prevented.

The captain and his five subordinate officers were arrested. A prompt investigation is promised, with a view to placing the blame.

Sacrifices And Heroism.

The race of the burning steamer from the moment the fire was discovered until her bow crashed on the shelving beach of North Brother Island lasted little more than ten minutes, yet that time sufficed for deeds of heroism which make the one bright chapter in the heartrending story. Brave men, devoted mothers and even maidens and youths of tender years each contributed their part to the roll of heroic acts. There were rescues in the face of almost certain death, and useless but exalted self-sacrifices.

Trimmer—Turner Wedding At Ocean City.

Promptly at 8 P. M., as the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march rendered by the bride's sister, Mrs. Gordon floated through St. Paul's By-the-Sea Miss Caroline Trimmer and Mr. William Turner met at Hymen's altar and there plighted their vows of wedlock.

The church was artistically decorated with evergreen and daisies. The bride was handsomely attired in a lace robe over white tulle and carried a shower bouquet of carnations and smilax. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Daniel Trimmer. Her attendants, Mrs. Edward Scott, Mrs. Harry Hastings, were gownned in white crepe de chine and carried American Beauty roses. Her young sister, Miss Elma, gownned in white made a charming maid of honor.

Mr. Harry Cropper was best man and Messrs. Harvey Hastings and Charlie Turner were ushers.

After the wedding an elaborate collation was served at the home of the bride's parents.

At The Session Of County Commissioners Tuesday.

A petition was filed by Samuel H. Carey and others asking for a new road in Parson's Election District.

Mr. Harry Mayer appeared for the Diamond State Telephone Company asking permission to erect telephone poles on the new Riverside road.

Permission was granted.

Road overseers were appointed for Tynakin District as follows: John A. Insley, James W. Jones, Chas. Dashiell.

George H. Larmore and George Moore were appointed Supervisors for Nanticoke District.

The Commissioners will meet at the Alms House, Thursday, June 23rd.

THE ST. LOUIS FAIR

Now in Full Swing. Marylanders Have Home to be Proud of. Letter From One of the State Commissioners.

It is the World's Fair for all. Never in the past history has there been such a Fair gotten up by the people of this country, massive as it is covering more than twelve hundred acres of land, it takes sometimes to get your bearings, yet the trolley line circle system that is inside the grounds with the competent and obliging conductors can tell you how to reach any building on the ground by car quickly yet in an Exposition of this kind people prefer to walk leisurely and try to absorb the sights as they go. If you want to pay for it you can go as you like. The Fair has outgrown all expectations even of the fruit promoters. President Francis said at the reception given by the Missouri people of St. Louis at the Maryland Building known as the Maryland St. Louis Club that this Fair had even outgrown his predictions.

"You Have a Home in St. Louis."

The people of Maryland are made to feel proud of their state to be welcomed as they are at St. Louis. No state has received more attention than the Marylanders. The Maryland building is a credit to our state and it is a home for every visitor; it belongs to the State and every one is welcomed. It is well located on one of the best avenues, beautifully designed, comfortably arranged and you will find Mr. Jones, the host and Mrs. Fisher the hostess ever ready to welcome you. Maryland hospitality is recognized and complimented by the press and people in general. It is the desire that every Marylander visit this Maryland building. You are welcome.

Exhibits.

The Geological exhibit is in good shape and in due time and shows great credit for Dr. Clark. The Ladies of John Hopkins have done well in getting it in proper shape. W. L. Amos, director of the Farmer's Institute, who has charge of the Agricultural Exhibits has been detained by labor conditions. The Commission set aside $10,000 for this exhibit for the benefit of the Farmers of Maryland and Mr. Amos says he will come out alright in the end. He has a display of Corn, Tobacco, Soils, Canned goods, Potatoes, a western Maryland barn and a Tobacco barn, a comfortable summer house all of which is differently arranged from other states. In another part of the building there is to be a special exhibit of corn and the third one to be a special tobacco exhibit all of which promises to be completed very soon. It would have been useless to have undertaken to have exhibited our strawberries this season at St. Louis. Having been selected as one of the Judges of strawberries grown in Missouri that were sent in from that state it was almost impossible to get them there in good condition. The berries were large in size but of poor quality. Among the best varieties exhibited were Tennessee Prolific, Bubach and Gandy. There will be a special effort made to show Maryland peaches and apples in quantities sufficient to attract attention as soon as our good peaches are ripe, the cost of same has been looked after and we will be prepared to pay the transportation on any fruit that any grower may have to offer for exhibit.

Maryland is well in the lead of many other states in growing of peaches and apples and we want the fruit exhibited in such a manner that due credit will be given her. One of the men in charge of the California Exhibit said that California feared Maryland peaches more than any other state in competition with their late ones. Don't be afraid to cultivate, prune, thin and carefully grade your fruit for the World's Fair at St. Louis and it will be cared for when ready. Orlando Harrison, one of the Commissioners from Maryland.

Disharoon—Matthews.

At the home of Mr. F. M. Cannon on Moore Street, Wednesday evening June 15th at eight o'clock, Mr. Carl Disharoon and Mrs. Abbie Matthews were married by Rev. W. F. Atkinson.

HAPPY GRADUATING.

Class of 1904 Have An Evening of Great Entertainment To A Large Audience Who Assembled At The Hall.

The Graduating exercises for the Buckingham High School for 1904 are numbered among the past and the young ladies, who composed the class are justly entitled to the many congratulations extended by their numerous friends and well wishers. The music and voices were a most attractive combination, and fully merited the applause and encore given by an appreciative audience which packed the Hall, both seats and aisles.

The program was unusually gotten up and was a decided success from start to finish. Miss Bell had a drill class of juveniles that did her credit and furnished all the comical amusement that one could wish. The maid and gallants made an attractive appearance. The only male voice on the stage, the Rev. Mr. Williams, was fine and the very happy and appropriate address, which was full of pith and continued wit from start to finish by the Rev. Mr. Bancroft, whilst making a distribution of diplomas to the young ladies accompanied by words of wisdom and fatherly advice was a feature of the evening. The recitation of Biff Perkins by Miss Mildred Warren speaks a promise, if properly continued, that one in a thousand does not possess. She was a drawing card, and her impersonation of an elderly aunt was immense. Miss Mildred could easily be a star if so inclined. An instrumental duet by Miss Mary Parker and Prof. Salter, of Ocean City completed the program and wound up a most enjoyable evening's entertainment.

Mr. Calvin B. Taylor, accompanied by Miss Marie Plets, left Monday for Hannibal, Mo., and the St. Louis Exposition. Mrs. Taylor will return with them later.

Edwin Calhoun, of Dover spent Sunday with his parents on Powelson Avenue.

William Morris, 18 years of age, son of David Morris, lost his balance whilst working at the box factory tank Tuesday morning and fell in up to his neck in boiling water, scalding himself most horribly. The Drs. Ned and Cyrus Dirickson were called and did everything to relieve his suffering in their power, he was beyond medical aid and died Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock. He was a bright and moral young man and quite a favorite, tho' a stranger until recently coming from Dagsboro, Del. 'Tis one of the saddest accidents that we have had to chronicle.

The Manhattan Club last Monday selected Berlin as the most favorable point, after looking over the situation and turned loose two coops of live pigeons which was a novel and new idea to many in this community. 'Tis seldom one sees a more beautiful collection of birds than arrived on the noon train Monday in bamboo cages with every convenience attached for water, food and comfort; a few minutes after one the cages were opened and the ones knowing their business after a few circles in the air and upward to get their bearings were soon away on their flight homeward as if aware their owners money was at stake and depending on them to win or lose. Some eight or ten, not so wise took the opposite direction and pitched about in different portions of the town leaving later by twos and threes, but evidently not in the game at the finish.

World's Fair:

June 9, 18, 28 and 30 are the next dates for great coach excursions to St. Louis via Pennsylvania Railroad on account of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. The rates for these excursions have been fixed at such a low figure that they afford those of limited means an opportunity of seeing the World's Fair at an exceptionally small cost. The unusual success attending the first Pennsylvania Railroad excursion indicates that these will be very popular.

Special trains of standard Pennsylvania Railroad coaches (of the most modern patterns) will be run on the above mentioned dates from New York, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Altoona and Pittsburg, directly through to St. Louis, with ample stops for meals at convenient hours. Each train will be in charge of a Tourist Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The rates will be the same as for the first excursion, May 10, $30 from New York, $18.50 from Philadelphia, and proportionate rates from other stations.

Specific information regarding time of special train and connections, and rates from principal stations east of Pittsburg, will be announced shortly.

Dear Sir:—What's the penalty for making or selling short measure paint in your state?

And does it make any difference, if three fourths of the paint is short measure?

Is seven pints a full-gallon or a fool-gallon?

What's the penalty for making or selling whitewash for paint?

Is whitewash paint, if mixed with a little paint and labeled "Pure mixed paint" or something like that?

But we don't intend to go into the business. We make Devco lead and zinc full-measure and true.

Yours truly,

BUCKETFUL OF DIAMONDS

Supposed to Have Been Hidden by a Kaffir Chieftan.

SEEN BY CECIL RHODES.

Many Attempts Made to Recover Them, but In vain. Who Buried Them Cannot Be Made to Tell. Diamonds Filled a Bucket. Were of Finest Color.

A bucketful of diamonds worth $200,000, and hidden by old Chief Magato, who long years ago ruled the Kaffir tribes of Rhodesia, has put all of South Africa in a turmoil of feverish excitement. In every part of Cape Colony and the Transvaal, in Cape Town and Kimberley, Pretoria, Mafeking, Johannesburg, Swartman's kop, Lady Smith and Potchefstroom venturesome men are making up expeditions to search Rhodesia and the mysterious wilderness lying far north of the Limpopo river to the Zambezi for these diamonds. Newspapers in South Africa are full of the excitement. Nothing else is talked of at that end of the world but Chief Magato and his bucketful of diamonds.

Chief Magato is not a myth. Neither is the bucketful of diamonds. Cecil Rhodes saw the big bucket filled to the brim with diamonds of the finest color and perfect luster. With Cecil Rhodes at the time were Sir John Willoughby, Justice Lange and D. C. de Waal. But with all his craftiness, Cecil Rhodes was unable to make a bargain with the old chief, who was willing to give away his kingdom, larger than the state of Texas, but who clung tenaciously to his bucketful of diamonds.

The story of the now famous meeting between Cecil Rhodes and old Chief Magato, of Rhodesia, dates back to 1890, when Rhodes, accompanied by Sir John Willoughby, Justice Lange and D. C. de Waal, M. L. A., came to the Transvaal from the newly-acquired territory now called Rhodesia. Magato long was the terror of the venturesome Boer pioneers. To set foot in his realm was to court death. Across Rhodesia his fearless black warriors, a living hedge with bristling spears, barred the way to the Zambezi river. But if Magato was fearless, so was Cecil Rhodes. The empire builder who had not feared to go alone to the heart of Johannesburg's country and make a treaty with more than a black scourge of the dark continent, did not hesitate to pay a visit to Magato.

During the conversation, Magato, who knew all the great men of South Africa by reputation, and who was dazzled by the fame of the great white chief from Kimberley, became confidential, and as the story has it, asked Mr. Rhodes if he had ever seen a bucketful of diamonds.

Magato thereupon spoke to an Indian, and within a few minutes two natives arrived on the scene carrying a bucket filled to the brim with precious stones of the finest color. It is stated that after an intimation from Mr. Rhodes as to the diamonds having been stolen, and the response of the chief that he would require more than the Transvaal police to recover them, Mr. Rhodes again carefully regarded the diamonds and estimated their value at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

The story was noised abroad and several private syndicates were afterwards formed to try and obtain the diamonds or a portion of them, from Magato, but notwithstanding a large outlay of money, none of these syndicates could get Magato to sell the stones. If he had them, which he invariably denied, or find out what had become of them.

As a matter of fact, the narrative itself began to be regarded as a myth, but it was resuscitated when, just before Magato's death, a large and valuable diamond was sold by the chief himself to a local trader. Renewed efforts were then made to get hold of the diamonds, but Magato himself denied having them or ever having had any. There are traders in the Spelonken who have stated more than once that though they never saw these diamonds themselves, they had often been told about them by Magato's Indians.

So far the theory has merely demonstrated the possession of the diamonds. As to the date of their being hidden, of how they were hidden, and possibly where—here is the connection with the hidden treasure which has started the various expeditions on their earnest search.

Just before his death Magato, who hated his nephew, Mpefu, the heir to the chieftainship, and who hoped to see one of his Indians installed instead, determined, at any rate, not to leave him any riches. So when he felt that his death was near he sent for four of his Indians, and addressing them solemnly on their duty and loyalty to himself, requested them to divide the diamonds into parcels and take them far away and bury them in some wilderness. This they promised to do, and the diamonds having been distributed among them, two Indians set out for the Matabeleland and the other two trekked toward the Selati, in the direction in which the remains of the murdered man, Van Niekerk, were subsequently found.

The facts leaked out in one way or another after Magato's death, and there must be many of Magato's people, as well as a few persons who know these details—perhaps even there are some traders in Zoutpansberg today who may remember two of Magato's Indians going on a special mission toward the location of Majiji, the mysterious "ele king," as the Kaffirs termed her.

LIKE A HUMAN ON TRAIL

Willness of a Wildcat as the Trapper Read it in the Snow.

BULLET STOPPED FEAST

The Stalking of a Deer Told by the Tracks.—Planning for the Vantage Ground and Watching the Time to Strike.—Man Wiser Than Wildcat in the End.

"Talk of the intelligence and tact that wild animals manifest in stalking prey," said A. W. Stevens of McKean County, Pa., "I never heard or read of a more striking instance of it than one that came under the observation of Leroy Lyman, a noted woodsman of northern Pennsylvania.

"After a fall of snow he was going into the woods to set a trap, when he came to tracks in the snow, in an old wood road, which he recognized as those of a wildcat. The trail kept along in the road for some distance, when it turned off at a sharp angle and entered the woods.

"The tracks led straight as a chalk line in the direction of one of the big hemlocks. Lyman followed it, and was surprised to find that it ended at the tree, with the impression of one of the wildcat's feet in the snow, a foot or so off the trail, near the tree trunk.

"The wildcat had not climbed the tree. There was no other growth into or upon which it could have leaped. What had become of it was a mystery. "After studying the situation awhile, Lyman believed that in that single footprint apart from the trail, at the tree trunk, he saw the solution of the puzzle. When he examined the trail closely, he was sure of it, for he discovered that each track bore the marks of two of the wildcat's feet. The animal had returned to the road by taking its trail back—and that without turning in its tracks. Then Lyman knew that the wildcat was on the scent of game, and to secure it had been obliged to resort to careful tactics.

"Following the trail back to the road, he found that the wildcat had continued along it for about twenty yards, to a spot where the ground at the side of the road was two feet or so above the road's level, and there it had turned and climbed back into the woods, behind another hemlock tree. Beyond this tree and in line with it, at a distance of a few yards, was another hemlock, about the same distance apart, straight in line, were two more. A rod or so beyond the last tree in the line lay a big log, against which the snow had drifted to the top.

"The wildcat's trail led from the first tree of the row of hemlocks to the second, around which it followed, close to the trunk, and so on to the second third and fourth. From the fourth, as the trail undoubtedly showed in the snow, the wildcat had crept low to the bottom of the drift against the log, and then along it and around to one end. There the scattered snow told the unmistakable story of a leap from that point of vantage, gained by tactics startlingly human in the calculation and judgment with which they were executed.

"The snow on the opposite side of the log was torn up and scattered about and covered with deer hair and blood. It was rare for a wildcat to attack prey as big as deer, but this one was evidently made desperate by hunger. A mound of snow a few feet away showed that the wildcat had won in the attack, for under it Lyman knew the beast had buried such of the deer as was left after it had satisfied its hunger.

"When he uncovered the mound he found the remains of a doe. The ground was bare on the lee side of the log, and there the deer had been lying when surprised and overcome. "To the woodsman it was plain that the wildcat had scented the deer from the road, and laid plans for its capture. Stealing in as far as the hemlock tree to which its trail first led, the animal had kept the trunk of the tree between it and possible discovery by its intended prey. Getting to the tree, and still careful not to expose its body, the wildcat had found it necessary to reconnoitre to discover the position and location of its game, so as to decide on the safest tactics to adopt in getting within capturing distance of it.

"To do this the wildcat had peered around the tree trunk, during which inspection it had put one paw out in the snow to steady itself, making the separate track near the tree. This stealthy glance had evidently satisfied the wildcat that further advance in that direction was out of the question, for beyond the hemlock there was no protection against discovery. So the wily animal had backed cautiously over its trail to and along the road, backing in order that it might keep its eyes in the direction of the spot where it had located its prey, thus to detect any suspicious movement it might make, and note the result.

"It was plan was to seek the row of hemlock trees that offered it such strategic advantage. "But with all its cunning, the cat was no match for the wiles of the trapper who had read the story of its wisdom in those tracks in the snow. Lyman replaced the snow in the mutilated remains of the deer, and set his trap as he knew how, knowing that when the wildcat hungered again it would return to the feast.

"It returned that very night, and next morning Lyman found it in the trap, but although thus hopelessly a prisoner it was gnawing at the deer's carcass. He stopped its feast with a bullet."

Size of Manchuria. Manchuria corresponds in latitude to Manitoba, North Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska. Its area of 362,310 square miles is only 10,000 square miles less than the combined area of these great grain states. It is two and a half times greater than California, and is as big as Texas, Alabama and Louisiana combined. In the northern part of the province are thousands of square miles untouched. Manchuria has a possible wheat area as great as that of the United States.

LUMBERING IN MANCHURIA.

Russians Likely to Become Our Competitors in Chinese Market. Many lumbering enterprises are being established in Manchuria, Siberia and Sakhalin, with the idea of competing with American Pacific coast lumber.

The most important is the Russian timber and mining company, of the far east, with headquarters at Port Arthur. This company is organized by some of the most prominent men connected with the Russian government, and is reputed to have a capital of 20,000,000 rubles ($10,000,000). Its principal operations will be on the Yalu river, where it runs down timber from the forests of Korea as well as the large forests of Manchuria. These forests are said to be very extensive and contain immense quantities of exceedingly fine timber. There is much of the like in this market from that locality, and it has been the source of supply for both this and the Tientsin market for ages.

At the mouth of the Yalu, Russia is to build the third largest sawmill in the world. Whether or not the mill is to come from the United States is not known, but a great mill enterprise is already in progress of construction, located exactly on one of the points now in controversy. In addition to this competition, which is already supplying large quantities of timber and lumber to Port Arthur, Dairen, Niuchwang, and the Chinese Eastern railway, the Russians are shipping quantities of lumber to all of these places by steamer from Vladivostok and vicinity and from the island of Sakhalin.

Another point of Russian competition in the lumber business is developing on the Sungari river, where the Chinese Eastern railway crosses it, about eighty miles south of Harbin. Timber in considerable quantities is run down this river to the point and is being made into lumber by the Chinese method, several hundred men being engaged in the work. Lumber from this source will never reach the sea, in competition for the trade of China, but it will be a splendid source of supply for railway use and for the city of Harbin.

It is clear that Russia intends to provide for all the requirements of lumber in Manchuria and Siberia, with a possibility of entering the Chinese market. The Russians are familiar with the lumber, wheat, and flour business, and as they have the natural advantages and the earnest support of their banks, railways and government throughout Manchuria, their development of these industries is likely to close this market to our country in these products, and if they show intense energy and enterprise they will become severe competitors in the great markets of China for flour especially, and possibly for lumber—National Geographical Magazine.

Scythes as Church Ornament. At the first sight the scythe is a strange ornament for a church, but there is nothing incongruous in these curious agricultural implements as seen in the parish church of St. Mary's at Horncastle, in Lincolnshire.

Thirteen of these blades are nailed above the door in the north chapel. At one time the blades numbered 40 or 50, but owing to rust and decay many of them have been lost. Each of the scythes is about a yard in length.

The general belief is that these blades were placed in the church in commemoration of the zeal of peasants who wielded them in defense of their faith in the rebellion known as "The Pilgrimage of Grace," which had its rise at Louth in 1536.

When the people saw the ruins of their churches and abbey, they rose in revolt, and arming themselves with the instruments of husbandry, such as scythes, they went forth to encounter the enemy.

They were beaten and dispersed, but in the eyes of their countrymen they were heroes, and the rude implements with which they fought were deemed worthy of an abiding place in the old church, where the peasants had worshipped—Christian Age.

You Needn't Take a Cussing in Kansas.

Squire Smith of Harrison township, in Kiowa County, has handed down some new law. A man was brought before him the other day charged with assault. The defendant admitted the crime, but said that he was justified in committing it because the complaining witness had called him a lot of vile names. The squire discharged the prisoner, saying that a man who would cuss another deserved to be licked.—Kansas City Journal.

A WORLD-WIDE OBJECT LESSON.

The awful catastrophe of the excursion steamer, General Slocum, in East River, New York on Wednesday, by which nearly a thousand men, women and children lost their lives from the burning vessel, comes at a time that may be providential to the nation at large.

It is now the season of excursions, and from now till the fall, navigable bodies of water will furnish an attractive outlet for many pleasure seekers. The fatal ending of the Slocum should immediately awake the country to the need of better provisions for the safety of human lives on the deep.

The public inspectorship of each vessel licensed to carry human treasure should be of the most thorough and by the most competent experts. All the appliances for life saving should be more than sufficient, in perfect condition and ready at a moment's warning, for immediate service, when all other precautions of ship construction have failed to insure it against the fire demon and other fatalities.

In this connection it is an opportune moment to further the tendency for fire proof steamers which has been advocated by modern naval constructors.

Metal bulkheads or partitions to restrict flames have been recommended. There are also several fire proof paints whose use should be obligatory, and all hangings should be treated by some fire proof wash.

It is usually from some world-wide shock like Wednesday's appalling tragedy that great object lessons are received for future guides and if acted on in this light may result in the preservation of many lives, and the prevention of untold woe and misery in hundreds of homes throughout the land.

Cards of invitation have been received here from Mrs. Emily Eldridge to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Alice Mabel Eldridge, to Dr. Lawrence Carl Freeny, of Pittsville, on Wednesday morning, the twenty ninth of June, nineteen hundred and four, at ten o'clock, Marietta Springs, Maryland.

The two daughters, Willie and Mary, of Mr. Frank Johnson, of Cannon's Station, Del., came to Salisbury Saturday night on the 7.00 train, and remained at the negro house Beavans till discovered by Chief of Police Disharoon and Watchman James Crouch, who took the runaways in charge and placed them with deputy sheriff Waller and family at the jail. After questioning Beavans the officers had him arrested and placed in jail for harboring girls under age. Beavans said that he used to live near the farm of the girls in Delaware and that they knew him and his wife, and had gone to their house Saturday night, because they knew no one else in Salisbury. He was bailed out of jail later by his employer, Mr. E. N. Todd, to await hearing before the Justice. Chief Disharoon phoned their father who arrived here Monday and took the girls home with him. They said, on being questioned that they left home because they were ill treated by their step-mother, and that it was their intention to secure homes in Salisbury this week.

How Health Is Gained.

The story of a great deal of the unhappiness of women is a story of lost health. Women wonder how it is that little by little they grow plump, the cheeks grow hollow and the hair falls out. In a large proportion of cases when women are weak, run-down and falling off in flesh and looks, the root of the trouble can be traced to womanly diseases which undermine the general health. The proof of this is that women who have been cured of painful womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have recovered their general health, gained in flesh and in appearance.

$500 Reward for Women Who Cannot be Cured.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Proflapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"I suffered for three years with ovarian trouble," writes Mrs. J. M. Sweeney, of Milwaukee, Wis. "The treatment I tried did not do me a particle of good, until a good neighbor who had been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription advised me to give it a trial. The first day took my first dose, and it was my first step toward recovery. In nine weeks I was a different woman; my flesh which had been flabby became firm, complexion clear and my great change within from pain and suffering to health and happiness." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Talmage Sermon

By Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage, D. D.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 12.—In this sermon the loving care of God in dealing with his children and the way in which he fits them for the battle of life are graphically described under the similitude of the eagle and its young. The text is Deuteronomy xxxii, 11, "As the eagle stirreth up her nest."

The war goddess has crowned the eagle "monarch of the air." His throne is the inaccessible cliff, his diadem the noontide sun, his footstool the morning clouds, his playground the vast expanse of infinite space. His keenness of eye, boldness of flight, sharpness of claw, merciless despatch of beak, cause him to be dreaded in mountainous lands, as the huge jaws and powerful claws of the lion cause him to be dreaded in the African forests.

But, though the eagle has been called the monarch of the air, as the lion has been called the monarch of the fields, yet the eagle, like the lion, never had a royal pedigree. By that word "royal" I mean a noble, brave and fearless ancestry. The eagle is not of heroic mold. He is a cringing, fawning, contemptible coward. Though he is a rapacious bird and loves to banquet off the quivering flesh of a newly slain carcass, the blood which flows through his own arteries is pumped from a craven heart. In terror this mighty winged flier will flee before the little kingbird, hardly larger than a drowsy English sparrow. Confined in a cage with a small barnyard fowl, the domestic bird has been known to make the eagle beg for mercy as a school yard bully will whine before an out-gaged youth half his size.

"Many reputations are undeserved altogether," once wrote an observant naturalist. "Let us not in this connection trouble now about statesmen, poets or authors, but take from natural history a familiar illustration, that of the eagle. The great strength of the eagle enables it to prey upon creatures that have no power of defending themselves from its terrible swoop, but we must not allow ourselves on this account, as our fathers did, to magnify him into a type of magnanimity and courage. In every courage he is not superior to most of the smaller hawks, and certainly inferior to the falcons, which will drive away this so-called 'monarch of the air' when he approaches too near their nests. So that, really, when we remember what a fame the eagle has always had for magnanimity and for courage, it is obvious, in view of the facts, that he, like many other birds and men, has obtained a reputation which is undeserved."

Eagle Protects His Young.

But, though the eagle is a cowardly bird in reference to his own life, no sooner does he become a parent than he is transformed into a daring, valiant protector of his young. No sooner are the dull white colored eggs deposited in the nest which the twin have built upon the tops of the dizzy heights, or upon the ledge of a precipice, than the parent birds are ready to protect those nests at any cost. I remember years ago seeing a powerful picture called "The One Strand." A mountain-twin of the far-off northwest had been lowered over the side of a cliff to rob an eagle's nest of its eggs. No sooner was the lowered by a rope over the cliff and dangling in midair, with the surging sea hundreds of feet beneath him beating its waves upon the jagged rocks, than the father and mother birds saw the would-be destroyer of their home. They started for their enemy. Aye, it was a royal battle—a battle for life. The eagles were circling about his head. The sturdy mountain man, swinging his knife round and round over his head, but once he swung the knife too far. The keen edge of the blade cut the rope, and all but one strand. With horror-stricken eyes he saw that strand gradually unraveling. The whole scene was so realistically portrayed that I could almost hear the triumphant screams of the parental birds as their human enemy was about to be dashed upon the rocks below.

Yes, yes; parental affection transforms the craven bird into a fierce, intrepid champion, capable of sublime self-sacrifice in defense of its offspring. Yet in our text we find him, in spite of that tender affection, disturbing the young birds and turning them out of their home. What does the Bible mean by comparing this strange conduct with God's providential dealing? Why does God, as a loving Father, turn his children in this seemingly rough way as the eagle bird pushes her offspring? For you must remember that we do not have to go entirely to this figure of the eagle bird to be taught the lessons that God's hand sometimes sues a loving parent, as well as gives a loving parent. In the epistle to the Hebrews we are taught that chastisement is one of the proofs God gives us of his affection. Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth." In his famous sermon upon the mount Christ says there is a blessing in falling tears and in persecutions and in heartaches and in all affliction as well as in smiles and perpetual sunshine and iridescent joys.

Work Makes Character.

First, God, like the parental eagle, stirs up our nests in order that we may learn how to depend upon ourselves, as well as upon him. He plunges us into the abyss of trouble in order that we, as fledglings, may learn to fly on our own. He troubles us so that we may soar higher than the cliffs upon which we are born, higher than the mountains whose bald heads are frozen amid perpetual snows, and higher than even the morning clouds that have hovered over us in many benedictions. He wants us just as a true parent should always treat a child. Some few weeks ago I was visiting upon the ranch of a wealthy man in California. He turned and said to me: "No young man ever amounts to anything unless he is compelled to work for his own mental and physical and spiritual development. So firmly do I believe it is the mountain upon the man and not the man upon the mountain that brings man to the highest development for which God intended him that I have compelled my boys to work for every cent they have received, even when they were little children. I never give them anything without a return. If they want spending money they must earn it by painting the fences or cutting the wood or gathering the walnuts. If they want a gun or a riding horse they must buy it with their own money which they have earned. I have not told them each year they have an $8000 income, which was left them by a dead relative, and that at twenty-one years of age they will be independently rich. I know that knowledge would ruin them. I make them work for every cent they spend. In their working I am developing two of the finest boys in all this part of the country."

The Dead Heart Led On.

That earthly parent is developing his children by work. Cannot we realize God is developing us spiritually, mentally and physically by work, and hard work? Why were the old Yankees, born amid the New England hills, and the old highlanders, born amid the Scottish heather, of the same heroic mold? We have read in the chivalric times the Scottish crusaders were being driven back, when an old highland chief took from his girle the leathern bag which incased the heart of the dead Bruce. He hung it far into the ranks of the enemy, as he cried: "Thou brave heart of a mighty Bruce, lead us on to victory! Lead us on! Lead us on!" Then the fleeing highlanders turned and charged where the dead Bruce would have led them. Oh, how we thrill at the story of that mighty deed! But why did the Scotchmen and the Yankees of old belong to races of giants and the Latin people of Central America and of the southern parts of Portugal and Spain degenerate into a race of pygmies? Difference of blood? Perhaps. But I believe it was not so much a difference of blood as a difference of geographical surroundings.

In the southern parts of Europe all that the inhabitants had to do for centuries was to tickle the soil and it would laugh with plenty. While among those northern snow clad hills, not only did the inhabitants have to fight human enemies, but climatic ones. Any man who wanted a harvest from the New Hampshire valleys or from the Scottish highlands had by necessity to be strong of brain and powerfully muscled of arm. It was the climatic obstacles which made the New Englanders and the Scottish clans the mighty men they were and are, and it is trouble, great trouble, and always develops men. The old peasant eagle pushes her fledglings off the nest to teach her young how to fly. God teaches us how to fly by pushing us off into the great abyss of trouble. He rescues us by the infinite power of the morning cross. He then teaches us how to go up and up by the object lessons of Christ's earthly life.

Christ's Life an Object Lesson.

Have you and I ever stopped to fully consider how Christ's earthly life was meant to be an object lesson for sinful men, as the flapping wings of the old eagles are meant to be visible object lessons to teach the young eagles how to fly? God did not tell us how to be good merely in the abstract, but he tells us to be good as Jesus Christ was good, because Christ was born bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh and suffered as we suffer and was tempted as we are tempted. Thus Christ's life is an object lesson to us in all our trial. We need not do as he would do if he were in our place.

He knows the bitter, weary way.

The endless striving, the ceaseless quest, the souls that weep, the souls that pray. He knows. He knows. But there is still another lesson to be learned from the old eagle stirring up her nest. She pushes out her young in order to make room for the next batch of fledglings. If she did not do this there would be only one brood hatched in the nest. Thus the eagle's offspring would only consist of two or three or four young. But no sooner does the old eagle finish raising one family than she prepares to raise another batch of fledglings.

Have you ever considered how soon this old earth would be overcrowded and an unfit place in which to live if God did not push the generations on and up? This is an age of the slaughter of the innocents. Life is in mortal combat for life. The ruthless never stops its endless chop. Every lullaby has its corresponding death rattle. Every candle impales a grave. So rapidly can shell life propagate that one tiny cell can reproduce itself one thousand million times in a month. A common cod-fish lays between eight and nine million eggs every year. A common queen ant has eighty thousand eggs in a day. Herbert Spencer declared that if the cattle propagated themselves as rapidly as the insects would the cattle would die of starvation in a week. But, though the human race does not reproduce itself as rapidly as the insect, it would live on this earth untrampled, it would soon be impossible for the growing members of the human family to exist.

New generations come, and room must be made for them.

The infant leaves the cradle to a successor and becomes the youth, the youth passes on to manhood and on to old age, and the younger generations tread upon the heels at every step. At last he passes on into eternity. What then? The apostle says, "It doth not yet appear what we shall be," but we know enough of that life to be full of hope. To those who through Christ have made peace with God there is the promise of continued development. "They that wait on the Lord," says the prophet, "shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." In that heavenly state there shall be neither hunger, nor pain, nor weariness, nor sickness, nor death. Even the eagle, long lived as it is, grows old and dies, but there we shall live forever. And the love of our Father in heaven is eternal. The love of the Father is transferred from one brood to the next, but nothing can separate us from the love of God, whose heart is large enough for all his children.

Dread Sin Like a Serpent.

Would you have such a future to anticipate? Then let that power which God promises to impart come even now into your life. The only thing that can blot out that prospect is sin. Dread sin as you would dread the bite of a serpent. Theodore L. Cuyler, the grand old man of the Brooklyn pulpit, graphically described a scene which I have carried in my memory for many years. A peasant living upon the mountain side was on his way home in the evening hour. Tired after a hard day's work, he turned to look down the valley which as a panorama stretched away at his feet. Suddenly he saw a mighty winged eagle begin to lift itself from a distant cliff. Higher and higher it rose, gorgeous amid the fires of the setting sun. Suddenly its movements became labored. It struggled and fought in midair and seemed to be gasping for breath. First one wing came helpless, then the second wing. Then the huge bird, like a stone, shot through the air and fell dead almost at the peasant's feet. The peasant could not understand the cause until he went to the side of the bird and picked up the still warm corpse. Then to his horror there wriggled from between his fingers a tiny serpent that had fastened itself under the bird's wing and sucked the life out of the "monarch of the air." So sin as a venomous, clinging serpent, tries to fasten itself upon us. The mightier we are the more anxious that satanic serpent is for our life's blood. But God will today not only save us, as the mother eagle does her young, but he does more. Christ has given us his life in order to overcome the power of the serpent. He has died in order that we might live. In this text of an eagle stirring up the nest of her young cannot you feel the touch of a saving Christ?

I would send this gospel message everywhere. The Episcopal rector reads the Scriptures on the Sabbath day, upon a lectern made up of the outstretched wings of an eagle. Some writers declare that these eagle's wings symbolize St. John's inspired vision, which beheld the heavenly glories, as the eagle's eye looks into the light of the dazzling sun. Others assert that those eagles symbolize the flight of the gospel message over the world. The last interpretation to me is the most beautiful. May this sermon not only have in it the message of God's love, but may it have the power which every gospel message should have—the speed like the lightning, which can bring to us, like a heart not only salvation, but emancipation from sin. May God bless us today as we use the eagle's cry for a pulpit.

And as on eagle's wings we soar To see the face of Christ once more May heaven come down our souls to meet And glory crown the victory nest. [Copyright, 1904, by Louis Kleppsch.]

Steam Versus Electricity.

The steam railroads vary greatly in their attitude toward electric competition, but it has been almost the uniform experience of railroad managers, east and west, that rate cuts to meet electric competition are quite futile. Electric transportation handles traffic in small units, and it can haul ten single cars as easily as it can a train of ten cars coupled together—more easily, in fact. But in steam service, to reverse the figure of speech, each transportation unit must have its own power house. Disregarding technical refinements, it may be said that it would cost a steam railroad five times as much to run an hourly single car train during a fifteen hour day as it would to run three five-car trains. This is the primary reason for the impossibility of a steam rail line to compete with an electric line for light short haul traffic—Ray Morris in Atlantic.

An Airy Honeymoon.

The following advertisement recently occupied a prominent place in the Gazette de Zurich: "An Austrian officer of the balloon section wishes to marry a lady who will have the courage to make her honeymoon voyage with him in a balloon." Then followed an address in Vienna and an intimation that no anonymous letters would be considered.

into your life. The only thing that can blot out that prospect is sin. Dread sin as you would dread the bite of a serpent. Theodore L. Cuyler, the grand old man of the Brooklyn pulpit, graphically described a scene which I have carried in my memory for many years. A peasant living upon the mountain side was on his way home in the evening hour. Tired after a hard day's work, he turned to look down the valley which as a panorama stretched away at his feet. Suddenly he saw a mighty winged eagle begin to lift itself from a distant cliff. Higher and higher it rose, gorgeous amid the fires of the setting sun. Suddenly its movements became labored. It struggled and fought in midair and seemed to be gasping for breath. First one wing came helpless, then the second wing. Then the huge bird, like a stone, shot through the air and fell dead almost at the peasant's feet. The peasant could not understand the cause until he went to the side of the bird and picked up the still warm corpse. Then to his horror there wriggled from between his fingers a tiny serpent that had fastened itself under the bird's wing and sucked the life out of the "monarch of the air." So sin as a venomous, clinging serpent, tries to fasten itself upon us. The mightier we are the more anxious that satanic serpent is for our life's blood. But God will today not only save us, as the mother eagle does her young, but he does more. Christ has given us his life in order to overcome the power of the serpent. He has died in order that we might live. In this text of an eagle stirring up the nest of her young cannot you feel the touch of a saving Christ?

The stock that Thoroughgood carries comprises everything fashionable for men, youths and boys to wear. It is Thoroughgood's purpose to give customers the best goods that money can buy. Could Thoroughgood have grown to such importance from the little clothes box of an affair he started eighteen years ago, to two beautiful stores, if he had not done his work faithfully? Not a day passes that some one doesn't come to Thoroughgood and say "I have been buying clothes from you ever since I was a boy, and I haven't yet had cause to utter a word of complaint. That's just it, a great many of Thoroughgood's customers started with him when they were kid's and because Thoroughgood has treated them fair in every respect they have stuck to him—Now, you can understand why Thoroughgood has doubled his business in two years, he had an army of customers rooting for him; that is why Lacy Thoroughgood does more business than any other two stores in Salisbury put together, and more than any other store on the Eastern Shore of Maryland—Everybody is talking about it. The Maryland Democratic editors will this year make a pilgrimage to Richmond, Va., for their summer outing, and take in Old Point Comfort on the return trip. President Joseph M. Street, of the Editors' Association, and the executive committee have arranged the following itinerary:

Members of the association will assemble in the cabin of the steamer of the York River Line, Pier 18, Baltimore, Friday, June 24, at 4.30 P. M., to secure tickets and state rooms. They will leave Baltimore at 5 P. M. sharp. Supper and breakfast and business meeting on the boat. Train at West Point at 8 A. M. Arrive in Richmond 9.15 A. M. Hotel Jefferson. Morning spent in inspecting public buildings, monuments, etc.; afternoon trolley ride in private car to battlefields; Sunday as you please. Monday, 7 A. M., steamer on James river, passing Jamestown, Newport News and other points of interest. Old Point Comfort at 4.30 P. M. Supper at the Chamberlain. Leave Old Point Comfort 7 P. M. Monday, arrive in Baltimore 7 A. M. Tuesday. Other visits as desired.

In making this announcement President Street proffers his wise advice to the brethren as follows: "Go with your friends, gather knowledge, prolong life and enjoy the pleasures of living."

Poplar Hill Farm Being Remodeled.

"Hollywood Plantation" is now replacing the "Poplar Hill" farm recently purchased by Mrs. A. T. Watt, of New York. Last week the owner contracted with Mr. F. A. Grier to put in a complete water and electric light plant at the farm. Mr. Grier will install a 6,000 gallon water tank, on a 37 foot tower, and connect up the house and barn thereto. A large Fox gasoline engine will be put in to pump the water and supply power for a 60 light dynamo. Electric lights will be put in throughout the house, barn and outbuildings, as well as upon the lawn and boat-house. The residence will be fitted with bath room and lavatories.

Mr. Grier has also sold to Mrs. Watt the gasoline launch, "Beulah," which has been named the "Hollywood." The boat has been thoroughly overhauled and refitted, and is a valuable launch. Mrs. Watt has contracted with Mr. Taylor, of Hebron, to build a large barn on the farm 60x100 feet, and has added a herd of blooded horses and cattle to the stock. The house will be repaired and remodeled slightly but not enough to change its present stately Colonial style. The water front will be terraced and built up to afford a convenient landing. About 1400 acres of land form Mrs. Watt's plantation, which is one of the largest on the Peninsula.

NERVES GAVE WAY— PE-RU-NA CURED

Mrs. X. Schneider, 2409 Thirty-seventh Place, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"After taking several remedies without result, I began in January, 1902, to take your valuable remedy, Peru-na. I was a complete wreck. Had palpitation of the heart, cold hands and feet, female weakness, no appetite, trembling, sinking feeling nearly all the time. You said I was suffering with systemic catarrh, and I believe that I received your help in the nick of time. I followed your directions carefully and can say to-day that I am well again. I cannot thank you enough for my cure. I will always be your debtor. I have already recommended Peru-na to my friends and neighbors and they all praise it. I wish that all suffering women would try it. I testify this according to the truth."—Mrs. X. Schneider.

Mrs. Fanny Klavatscher, of Summerville, N. Y., writes as follows: "For three months I suffered with pain in the back and in the region of the kidneys, and a dull, pressing sensation in the abdomen, and other symptoms of pelvic catarrh. But after taking two bottles of Peru-na I am entirely well, better than I ever was."—Mrs. Fanny Klavatscher.

BIG WRECK AT LAUREL

Engine Of Fast Mail Train Plunges Through Open Draw. Engineer Courtney Killed.

A railroad wreck filled with startling incidents, including the killing of the engineer, the sinking of a schooner, and the narrow escape of a whole trainload of passengers from plunging into the Laurel River, occurred at the edge of this town this morning.

The Delaware Division Express, No. 85 in charge of Engineer W. E. Courtney and Conductor L. B. Lewis, of Philadelphia was approaching the Laurel bridge at a high rate of speed when the draw was seen to be off and boat passing through. The engineer at once commenced work on his engine, using his emergency brake and also reversing the power. He nearly succeeded in stopping it as the train was barely moving when the engine plunged into the open draw on the deck of the schooner Golden Gate.

Fireman W. Pierce jumped into the river and escaped with his life but Engineer Courtney was not so fortunate as his dead body was later found where it had floated ashore. It bore no marks and it is supposed that his head came in contact with some of the piling with sufficient force to stun him and he was drowned. He was unmarried and about thirty five years of age. He is to be credited with possessing considerable bravery for if he had jumped from his engine before it plunged into the draw he would have probably escaped with slight injuries. There was great agitation among the passengers when they realized their narrow escape from death.

It is not known why the engineer did not see the signal was against him sooner as there are two signals governing trains at this point. The distant signal being nearly a quarter of a mile North of the draw. Mr. Courtney was one of the Maryland Division Engineers, who were recently assigned to this Division and was known to be a man of good judgment and long experience in railroad.

It will be several days before trains will be able to pass over the draw as it is badly battered and bent. Trains are being run via Harlock, the B. & C. & A. Railroad and Salisbury and in consequence are from one to two hours late. As none of the trains touch Delmar in the detour the Company is running Annex trains between Laurel and Salisbury to cover the service.—Delmar News.

Eastern Shore Banks To Receive Their Coin Quicker.

United States Assistant Treasurer A. Lincoln Dryden has succeeded in making an arrangement for forwarding coin to banks on the Maryland-Delaware-Virginia peninsula that will result in a valuable saving of time.

For a number of years there has been a great deal of trouble in forwarding coin to the banks on the peninsula by their correspondents in Baltimore. Heretofore, when deposit has been made at the United States Sub-treasury at Delaware or the Eastern Shore of Maryland or Virginia, it has required three days and sometimes longer to get coin as ordered to its destination, causing in many instances serious inconvenience. Recently the matter has been taken up by Assistant Treasurer Dryden with the department, and the Secretary of the Treasury has made an arrangement with the express companies whereby shipments from the Subtreasury at Baltimore will go direct and reach their destination within 24 hours after deposit is made to the credit of banks in the territory above referred to. This change has caused great satisfaction to the Baltimore Clearing House banks.

It is said that this change means much to the banking community and will secure a great deal of business for this city which is said to have gone to Philadelphia on account of the superior facilities afforded there.

Growth Of Diamond State Telephone Company.

The Diamond State Telephone Company now comprises 5,000 miles of wire and gives an opportunity of talking with any town, village or cross-road in Delaware or in the Eastern Shore counties of Maryland and Virginia. The possibility of communicating directly from some small town in Sussex county with New York or Boston demonstrates the practicability of the telephone and shows that President Richardson and General Manager Baker, of the Diamond State Company, are indeed public benefactors. Nothing can develop the peninsula as well as the telephone for the reason that it places it in instantaneous communication with the whole country. Large sums are constantly being expended in improvements of the lines. With the additional establishment of trolley roads, the territory between the Delaware and Chesapeake Bays will be in a position to grow more populous and to become more important generally.—Wilmington Republican.

MUSICAL ART CLUB

Gave An Elite Musicales In The Double Auditorium Of The High School. Pretty Selections, Delightfully Rendered. The Program.

The members of the Musical Art Club with the assistance of Miss Bertha Meyer and Mr. George E. Thumser, both of Baltimore, gave the most delightful informal musical of the season last Thursday evening in the double auditorium room of the High School Building. Prof. Barthold Meyer, of Baltimore, of whom all the members of the club are students, was the musical director, and credit is due him for bringing the singers here to such fine form in the short time he has been with them.

The Professor has a number of younger students who are also members of the club. Miss Meyer has an excellent mezzo soprano voice of a wide compass and range and she showed the result of good training under Prof. Meyer.

Mr. Thumser has a tenor voice of sweet quality with plenty of reserve force when he chooses to exert it.

The audience was heartily pleased with his voice, his performance and his self possession. Of the Salisbury singers it is sufficient to say that the audience applauded liberally and felt that they were a rare credit to the town. The soloists were in good form and the female and male choruses deserve special mention. Salisbury is not only the metropolis of the Eastern Shore in a business way but also in the artistic sense of the word as well.

The program was as follows:

When I told my love to you, female chorus; This number included solos for Mrs. J. D. Williams, Miss Edna Owens and Miss Annie Townsend.

My Noble Knights, from the opera of Nugeonists, Miss Meyer.

Song of a Heart, Mr. Thumser; Absence, Mrs. J. D. Wallop.

Summer Noon, Mr. Fred P. Adkins; Broken Dreams, Miss Meyer; Song from the opera Martha, Mr. Thumser.

Shubert's Serenade, female chorus; Robert De Diable, Miss Meyer; For Love of You, Mr. Thumser; A Song of Twilight, male chorus; Just for today, Miss Meyer; Then You'll Remember Me, Mr. Thumser.

The accompanists for the different selections were, Mrs. Wallop, Miss Meyer and Prof. Meyer.

The members of the female chorus were: Mrs. J. D. Williams, Mrs. J. D. Wallop, Mrs. R. D. Grier, Mrs. Gardiner Springs, Misses Edna Owens, Annie Townsend, Carrie Adkins, Nannie Gordy, Grace Ellegood, Bertha Stengle and Clara Walton.

The members of the male chorus were: Messrs. W. T. Dashiell, Edgar Laws, Dr. Gardiner Springs, Dr. Samuel A. Graham, Herman W. Murrell, Homer White, Vaughn Gordy, Ray Truitt, Fred P. Adkins and Arley Carey.

Refreshments were served to a limited number by the gentlemen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Grier after the musical, at which time a unanimous vote of thanks was given to Prof. Meyer, Miss Meyer and Mr. Thumser for their kindness in coming from Baltimore and giving the people of Salisbury such a pleasant musical treat.

Trial Trip Of The Trim New Yacht, "Holland."

Messrs. F. A. Grier & Son made a trial trip to Crisfield and return last Thursday on Judge Holland's yacht, carrying the Judge, Mr. S. R. Douglass and two employees with them.

The party left the wharf about half past seven a. m., and but for a slight accident caused by the stiffness of the new engine, had no mishaps all day, returning at 9.30. The Judge and machinists are highly pleased at the motion of the engine. The boat is furnished with all the conveniences of a home, so storms and sunshine will be equal sources of pleasure. The boat is 46 feet long, 10 feet wide, with awning in bow and stern, latter with curtain attached. The trip out was made in 6 hours, covering about 48 miles. On the homeward voyage better time was made, the yacht returning in 5 hours.

Fire Resisting Paints Given A Test Here Saturday.

The burning question of the hour, on Saturday evening last was a real fire testing of fire proofing materials and fire resisting house paints joists and dry goods boxes that were painted with materials known as Gibrates, by the Maryland Fire Proofing and Paint Company of Baltimore. The goods used are on sale by Dorman & Smyth. The Baltimore papers speak very complimentary of the exhibit there, and publish Chief Horton's and Asst. Chief Burkhardt's approval of the materials. We understand our Department was much interested in the demonstration. The fire was intense for several minutes and the test very satisfactory to the large crowd present.

MARYLAND TEACHERS

Association Will Meet In Annual Session At Ocean City, July 13-15. Interesting Program Being Arranged. Railroad And Hotel Rates.

The Thirty-Seventh Annual Session will be held at Ocean City, Maryland, on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, July 13, 14, and 15. The evening session will be held at 8 o'clock, the morning session on Thursday and Friday at 9.30 o'clock. It is hoped that every member of the Association will be present at the Opening Session on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

Arrangements have been made with the various railroad and steamboat companies for excursion rates. Card orders can be obtained by members of the Association from the various County Superintendents, from A. G. Harley, Laurel, Md., Secretary of the Association, or from the Chairman of the Executive Committee. Those who go via Baltimore will take boat at Pier 4, Light Street, at 6.30 A. M. and 3.30 P. M. for Claiborne, and thence by rail to Ocean City.

The following hotel rates have been secured: At the Atlantic Hotel, $2 to $3 per day; Hamilton, $1.25 to $2; Mt. Pleasant, $1.25 to $1.50; Belmont and Mt. Vernon, $1.25; Brighton, $1. Those who wish to remain a week can secure some reduction from the above rates.

Some County School Boards stimulate a large attendance by allowing a small sum toward the expenses of each teacher who attends. It seems to be a good custom. The annual dues of the Association are fifty cents.

An interesting program is being arranged for this year's sessions. Besides reports from the Standing Committees, addresses will be delivered by distinguished speakers, and literary and musical exercises will be added.

County Superintendents and others interested in the success of this meeting are requested to give it wide publicity through the local press and otherwise.

This Is "Knabe" Week.

We have unbored four Knabe pianos, on this week—two special orders—and one of the two others was sold in less than twenty-four hours after unboring. This makes the fifth consecutive of Knabe pianos since opening the temporary branch about four weeks ago. Here's a point—when a piano goes out of our front doors it is sold, hence you need have no fear of getting a piano sold you as a new instrument that has been at a dozen different places on trial. What can you tell in 30, 60 or 90 days about the durability of a piano? Might mean pianos that show signs of wear in that time. Our guarantee is all the trial you want.

We telegraphed for more pianos and by Saturday night our line will again be complete. Open until 10.00 o'clock.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Decrees Great Prevalence Of Drunkenness At Ocean City, Its Disastrous Local Effects And Asks Relief. Against Licensing Quantico. Commends Salisbury Police.

The Anti-Saloon League at its meeting June 17th., passed the following:

Whereas: The drunkenness at Ocean City on the Sabbath and other days has become so notorious, and the peace and security of passengers coming from Ocean City are so seriously imperiled thereby.

Resolved by the Anti-Saloon League of Salisbury in regular meeting assembled, that we call the attention of the State's Attorney of Worcester County to the deplorable condition of things, and most respectfully request him to do all in his power to enforce the law against the sale of liquor on the Sabbath.

We rejoice that the saloons, and with them the great body of drinking and drunkenness, have been eliminated from Salisbury. But we are suffering the effects of the drinking at Ocean City, and especially on the Sabbath, when it is not lawful to sell liquor.

We come to you in behalf of our beloved city and country, and earnestly beseech you and the other officials of Worcester County to do all in your power to save us from the woes entailed upon us.

We believe that not only will our peace and security be promoted, but that the true interests of Maryland's watering place will be furthered. Thanking you in advance for the strict enforcement of the law, which you will secure, we respectfully subscribe ourselves,

Anti-Saloon League, Salisbury, Md.

To The Board Of County Commissioners, Wicomico County.

The Anti-Saloon League, of Salisbury, in regular meeting assembled, requests that the application for license to sell liquor in Quantico be refused. In making this appeal to you at this time, we do not undertake to pass upon the character of the applicant, or of those signing his application.

We most earnestly beseech you to consider the peace and morality and prosperity of Quantico and immediate vicinity.

But we feel that there are strong and special reasons for refusing such license, because Quantico is so near to Salisbury. Gentlemen of the Board of County Commissioners, you must be convinced that Salisbury is enjoying much quiet and prosperity since the saloons have been closed. It must be evident to everyone that if a saloon should be established in Quantico, Salisbury would have to suffer from it. For the sake of all concerned, the young men and the old men, the wives, sisters and mothers, exercise your discretion under the law and turn down this application which is before you for action.

Since it is generally believed that our present police force are doing their duty in enforcing the prohibitory law, we wish to record our appreciation of such faithful services and call upon them to continue to use all diligence in the further performance of their duty, and we pledge them our endorsement and co-operation in their good work.

Not only so, but we call upon all officials and good citizens of the county to exert their influence to guarantee the enforcement of the law against the sale of liquor, by helping to bring to justice all violators of the law.

World's Fair.

June 9, 16, 28 and 30 are the next dates for great coach excursions to St. Louis via Pennsylvania Railroad on account of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. The rates for these excursions have been fixed at such a low figure that they afford those of limited means an opportunity of seeing the World's Fair at an exceptionally small cost. The unusual success attending the first Pennsylvania Railroad excursion indicates that these will be very popular.

Special trains of standard Pennsylvania Railroad coaches (of the most modern patterns) will be run on the above mentioned dates from New York, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Altoona and Pittsburgh, directly through to St. Louis, with ample stops for meals at convenient hours. Each train will be in charge of a Tourist Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The rates will be the same as for the first excursion, May 10, $30 from New York, $18.50 from Philadelphia, and proportionate rates from other stations.

Specific information regarding time of special train and connections, and rates from principal stations east of Pittsburgh, will be announced shortly.

Reduced Rates to Indianapolis.

For the benefit of those desiring to attend the Prohibition National Convention, to be held at Indianapolis, June 28 to 30, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell round trip tickets to Indianapolis, from all stations on its lines, June 26 and 27, good returning, leaving Indianapolis not later than July 15, at rate of single fare for the round trip. For specific information concerning rates and time of trains, consult the nearest ticket agent.

DISFIGURED WITH ECZEMA

Under Physicians Five Months. Went from Bad to Worse.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Wonderful Change in One Night. In a Month Face Was Clean as Ever.

"I was troubled with eczema on the face for five months during which time I was in the care of physicians. My face was in such a condition that I could not go out. It was going from bad to worse and I gave up all hope, when a friend of mine highly recommended Cuticura Remedies. The first night after I washed my face with Cuticura Soap and used Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent it changed wonderfully, and continuing the treatment it removed all scales and scabs. From that day I was able to go out, and in a month my face was as clean as ever."

THOMAS J. SOTH, 317 Stagg St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worried parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures of the civilized world.

A GREAT MOSQUITO CROP.

The New York Times promises for 1904 "a Lumpy mosquito crop," of which the "condition," estimated after the method of the Agricultural Department, is now 250. Race suicide is not in fashion among the buzzing transmitters of malaria and discomfort. Their progeny this year breaks the record and every culex and anopheles of them is a believer in "the strenuous life." The culex solitarians and the culex impiger—both worthy of their Latin names—and the anopheles quadrimaculatus with his relative, anopheles crucians, are all above the normal output. Humanity has to face the issue raised by their arrival. It would not be the calamity it is if the known methods of preventing the growth of the pests were applied by intelligent State and municipal administration.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or uneasy heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries. It is used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle by mail, name of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

To Follow It Will Save Serious Trouble For Many Salisbury People.

The following statement by a well known Salisbury woman serves to illustrate the grave danger which beset many of her townspeople. But with such an example as hers to follow, there need be no fear of serious results.

Mrs. G. W. Fooks, wife of G. W. Fooks, County Sheriff of the Court House, says: "I have suffered off and on with kidney complaint for the last eight years. It came on me gradually and continued to get worse. I felt tired and weak, was short of breath. One doctor told me I had kidney disease and it would finally result in Bright's disease. I was laid up at one time for three weeks. I was feeling very miserable when I went to White & Leonard's drug store for Doan's Kidney Pills. I had not taken them more than three days when the distressing aching across my back disappeared. I have great faith in this remedy, and I know if anyone will take the pills as directed they will receive beneficial results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Doan's Kidney Pills, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

A new enemy of the peach crop has been discovered in some Maryland orchards. It is described as an insect different from any heretofore known enemy of the peach. It eats a hole in the side of the blossoms and many orchards have suffered a vrelly.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in declaring, Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentorville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by all druggists. Trial bottles free, regular size 50c and $1.

The Hagerstown Electric Railway Company is planning to run its cars into Frederick and the Frederick and Myerstown cars to run into Hagerstown. The time between the two cities, 26 miles apart, will be about two hours for the through train.

An Alarm Clock for 25c.

If you want to get up early and feel good all day take a Little Early Riser or two at bed time. These famous little pills relax the nerves, give quick rest and refreshing sleep, with a gentle movement of the bowels about breakfast time. W. H. Howell, Houston, Tex., says "Early Risers are the best pill made for constipation, sick head ache, biliousness, etc." Sold by all druggists.

Mr. Robert F. McCall picked up an old cannon ball on the Lower Bloomsbury farm, near Havre de Grace. It is about 2 1/2 inches in diameter and is a two pounder. It is probably a relic of the British invasion and attack upon the city in 1812.

All Druggists.

ask the readers of this paper to test the value of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. Those persons who have used it and who have been cured by it, do not hesitate to recommend it to their friends. Kodol digests what you eat, cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. In creases strength by enabling the stomach and digestive organs to contribute to the blood all of the nutriment contained in the food. Kodol Dyspepsia is pleasant and palatable. All druggists.

Talbot farmers have suffered so much from the depredations of dogs upon their flocks and poultry that some of them met and agreed to shoot all dogs trespassing within their lands.

Thrown From A Wagon.

Mr. George K. Babcock was thrown from his wagon and severely bruised. He applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely and says it is the best liniment he ever used. Mr. Babcock is a well known citizen of North Plain, Conn. There is nothing equal to Pain Balm for strains and bruises. It will effect a cure in one third the time required by any other treatment. For sale by all druggists.

The Elkton City Council has passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of fireworks within the city limits, which applies to the Fourth of July.

That Throbbing Headache
would quickly leave you if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and build up your health. Only 25c, money back if not cured. Sold by all druggists.

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.50 which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coacolla, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine, I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Cholera, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by all druggists.

A reptile resembling a lizard or alligator was caught in a net set at Havre de Grace by Stephen and Chester Krause early in the week. It measured about 12 inches in length.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; postulate the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds; traumas, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm as on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by all druggists.

According to the Frederick Hornet the annual Emancipation Day celebration in Frederick will be abandoned because of the colored people's disapproval of the Jim Crow Law, the idea being that by abandoning the celebration the railroads will lose the money annually paid by visitors to Frederick on that occasion.

Forcible Facts.

One sixth of the deaths from disease are due to consumption. Ninety-eight per cent. of all those who have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for "weak lungs" have been perfectly and permanently cured. Cornilius McCawley, of Leeburg, Armstrong Co., Pa., had in all eighty-one hemorrhages. He says: "My doctor did all he could for me but could not stop the hemorrhages and I gave me up to di-consumption." What doctors could not do "Golden Medical Discovery" did. It stopped the hemorrhages and cured their cause. This is one case out of thousands. Investigate the facts.

FREE.—Dr. Pierce's great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay for cost of mailing only. Send 21 one cent stamps for paper covered book or 31 stamps for cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The two Constable farms in Kent county were sold at public sale last Wednesday, the farm near Tankford going to J. R. Leaverton for $10,756.25, and that near Galena to B. F. Merchant of Denver, Col., for $22,871.50.

A Strong Heart.

is assured by perfect indigestion. Indigestion swells the stomach and puffs it up against the heart. This causes shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and general weakness. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures indigestion, relieves the stomach, takes the strain off the heart and restores it to a full performance of its function naturally. Kodol increases the strength by enabling the stomach and digestive organs to digest, assimilate and appropriate to the blood and tissues all of the food nutriment. Tones the stomach and digestive organs. Sold by all druggists.

Henry H. Brady, of Chesapeake City vice president of the Elkton National Bank, fell while descending the steps at the courthouse, in Elkton, on Friday, and was seriously injured.

For a hundred years or more Witch Hazel has been recognized as a superior remedy, but it remained for E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, to discover how to combine the virtues of Witch Hazel with other antiseptics, in the form of a salve. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the best salve in the world for sores, cuts, burns, bruises and piles. The high standing of this salve has given rise to counterfeiters and the public is advised to look for the name "DeWitt" on the package and accept no other. Sold by all druggists.

A stock company was organized last week to back the Elkton Baseball Club, with Dr. Howard Bratten, president; John H. Terrell, secretary, and H. W. Lewis, treasurer.

Worst Of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Doctar Ala. "For three years" she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel trouble Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by all druggists.

FOR MEN, BOYS, YOUTHS AND CHILDREN,

surpasses any and every sale of apparel ever attempted in Salisbury. The stock which we offer to the public this summer exceeds $20,000 in value and completely fills two stores—with this grand stock, and because of our policy of strictly cash buying and selling, we are enabled to save clothing buyers many dollars on their purchases. Besides saving our customers from ten to twenty per cent on their purchases, we give yellow trading stamps—Lacy Thoroughgood's clothing department is just now in the height of its prosperity—growing faster than ever before. The stock that Thoroughgood carries comprises everything fashionable for men, youths and boys to wear. It is Thoroughgood's purpose to give customers the best goods that money can buy. Could Thoroughgood have grown to such importance from the little clothes box of an affair he started eighteen years ago, to two beautiful stores, if he had not done his work faithfully? Not a day passes that some one doesn't come to Thoroughgood and say "I have been buying clothes from you ever since I was a boy, and I haven't yet had cause to utter a word of complaint. That's just it, a great many of Thoroughgood's customers started with him when they were kids and because Thoroughgood has treated them fair in every respect they have stuck to him—Now, you can understand why Thoroughgood has doubled his business in two years, he had an army of customers rooting for him; that is why Lacy Thoroughgood does more business than any other two stores in Salisbury put together, and more than any other store on the Eastern Shore of Maryland—Everybody is talking about it. Everybody sees that Lacy Thoroughgood is doing the clothing and hat business of Salisbury, why shouldn't he? Here's what Thoroughgood offers now
