Carey's Library

OF CHOICE LITERATURE

To say that this is a reading age, implies a desire for instruction, and the means to gratify

that desire. On the first point, all are agreed;

on the second, there is diversity both of opinion

and of practice. We have newspapers, magazines, reviews, in fine, pamphlets of all sizes, on nearly all subjects, which have severely their classes of readers and supporters. And yet, copious as these means of intellectual supply, more are still needed. In addition to the reviews of the day, and passing voices of books, the people, in large numbers, in all parts of our great republic, crave the possession of the books themselves, and details, beyond mere passing allusion, of the progress of discovery in art and science. But though it is easy to ascertain and express their wants, it is not so easy to gratify them. Expense, distance from the emporium of literature, engrossing occupations which prevent personal application

or even messages to libraries and book-sellers, are so many causes to keep people away from the least reason, and the enjoyment of the coveted literary aliment. It is the aim of the publishers of the Library to obviate these difficulties, and enable every individual, at a small cost and without any personal effort, to obtain for his own use and that of his favored friends or family, valuable works complete,

on all the branches of useful and popular literature,

and that in a form well adapted to the comfort of the reader.

The charm of variety, as far as it is compatible with morality and good taste, will be held instantly in view in conducting the Library, to fill the pages of which the current literature of Great Britain, in all its various departments of Biography, History, Travels, Novels

and Poetry, shall be freely put under contribution.

With, perchance, occasional exceptions, it is intended to give entire the work which shall be selected for publication. When circumstances authorize the measure, recourse will be had to the literary stores of Continental

Europe, and translations made from French, Italian, or German, as the case may be.

Whilst the body of the work will be a reprint, or at times a translation of entire volumes, the cover, will exhibit the miscellaneous character of a Magazine, and consist of sketches of men and things, and notices of novelties in literature and the arts, throughout the civilized world. A full and regular supply of the

THE GENTLEMAN'S VADE MECUM,
OR THE
Sporting and Dramatic Companion,
A WEEKLY REPOSITORY OF
Dramatic Literature, Sporting, the Turf,
Fashions, Grazing, Agriculture, and Various subjects of Interest and Amusement.
INTERSEDED WITH A MULTITUDE OF Appropriate Engravings,
INCLUDING
Portraits of Celebrated Winning
HORSES,
Philosophical and Natural Phenomena.
LEGERDEMAIN, & CO.

THIS popular journal, although but a few months have passed since it was commenced, has already obtained an extensive and profitable subscription list, which is daily increasing, and affords ample encouragement to the publishers to persevere in their efforts to the render it useful, amusing, and instructive.

On the commencement of the approaching year, the VADE MECUM will undergo several important improvements—instead of four pages, it will be increased to eight of nearly the present size, and consequently, will contain almost double the quantity of reading matter which is now given—Making it one of the largest and neatest quarto's ever published in the United States. It will be printed on new type, and fine white paper, and the embellishments will be considerably multiplied, and of a superior order. Persons desirous of procuring the work at the beginning of the new volume, will please send their orders at once—as they may fail to be supplied, as but few copies will be published more than are actually subscribed for at the time.

The subjects which are particularly embraced in this work will be more distinctly understood from the following brief analysis to them:
The Drama forms a material portion of the Gentleman's Vaude Mecum—every week an entire Play or Farce is given. They are collected with a single eye to their merits alone; a preference, however, will be extended in all cases to native productions when they can be obtained. Independent criticisms, carefully excluded; all individual comparisons, and recommendations by their brevity, are occasionally inserted; as also, Biographical Sketches, Anecdotes, and Bon Mots of prominent Comedians of the present and past ages, of which a rare and inexhaustible compilation is in store. The publisher, by the liberality of the management, has obtained a very excellent and numerous selection of Plays and Farces for the Vaude Mecum; many of them have never appeared in print.

THE TURF.
A faithful record is kept of all the Running and Trotting Matches in this country and England. Biographies and correct portraits of celebrated thorough-bred Horses are published once a month. Every fact relative to the breeding, management, keeping, and the diseases of this invaluable animal is particularly attended to.

THE SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.
At home and abroad occupies a considerable portion of our columns, and is collected from the most authentic sources.
Among the Portraits of celebrated Winning horses which have been given, are—
The American Trotting Horse, Edwin Forrester.
The imported Pacing Horse Messenger.
The American Trotting Horse, Lady Jackson.
The Racing Horse, Ariel, and her foal by Eclipse.
The true blooded popular Horse, Chateau Margaux.
The American Trotting Horse, Top Gallant.
The well known English Race Horse, Touchstone.
Maudslayi, the winner of the Derby stakes in June, 1855.
The unrivalled American Trotter Andrew Jackson.
The celebrated English Horse, Glencoe.
A complete treatise on Riding, with four-fold illustrations, for improvement of Ladies in that healthy of all exercises.
Explanation of the Automaton Chess Player, illustrated by eleven engravings.
Four engravings, designed to represent the scene which took place in Paris, in July last, on the attempted destruction of the Royal Family of France, with a view of the Infernal Machine, and a likeness of the Assassin, Gerard.
A correct Picture of a Race Course, occupying the width of seven columns.

SPORTING.
Beside other matters belonging to this head there will be published correct accounts of Shooting Matches, Pedestrian Feats, Gymnastic Exercises, Aquatic Excursions, Fishing, Gaming, &c. with anecdotes of noted Dogs.

MILITARY UNIFORMS.
The publisher has employed the assistance of an excellent artist to furnish a regular series of Engravings of the different Volunteer uniforms worn by the principal Volunteer Corps of Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore and other cities, which will be published periodically, with a particular description of each, furnished by a competent hand. This subject forms a peculiar attraction to the general interest of the work.

GENTLEMAN'S FASHIONS.
A quarterly review, is made out by a gentleman connected, with a fashionable house in Philadelphia, explanatory of the various improvements and changes which costumes worn in the dress circles consequently undergo; by which it will be rendered an easy task for drapers and tailors, at a distance, to suit their customers with the most approved colors and modern style of apparel at the earliest possible period.

MISCELLANY.
Although the purposes of our sheet may appear to be confined to the several leading subjects which have been stated, we deem it proper to say, that there constantly is, in addition to these, a considerable space allowed for miscellaneous matter, such as Tales, Poetry, Anecdotes, Legerdemain, an Epitome of News, Races of Amusement, Statistics, Agriculture Domestic Economy, Valuable Receipts, &c. Also, a republication of the best and most popular of the old English and American Sporting and National Songs, set to music; besides many other matters, regarding which an interest is supposed to exist.

By the above explanation, it will be seen that the Gentleman's Vaude Mecum is particularly designed as a companion for the patrons of the Turf, the Drama, Sporting, the Fashions, &c. It is worthy of notice, that its patrons in the course of one year, will be furnished with from forty-five to fifty popular Plays or Farces—the price of which, separately, at one of our bookstores, would be at least thirteen dollars! Here, then, is an absolute saving of ten dollars in the purchase of a well-stored Dramatic Library—to be had for an unprecendented small sum! without taking into consideration the multiplied variety which is sent along with it, free of additional charge.

The Gentleman's Vaude Mecum, is published every Saturday, on fine extra imperial quarto paper, of a superior quality each number forming eight pages of the largest class, at $1 per annum. Orders from abroad, postage paid, will be promptly attended to, and the paper carefully packed, to prevent it from rubbing by mail. As the number of agents will be limited to principal cities, or such other places where a considerable subscription may be obtained, we request those who propose to patronize the work, to transmit by mail at once to the publisher. Small notes of solvent banks of the different States, two copies of the paper will be forwarded to each year's subscription, for one year. Specimen numbers will be sent to any part of the Union, by addressing the publisher, postage paid.

THE MODERN Acting Drama,
Has hitherto been issued in volumes of about 300 pages each—containing the PLAYS, FARCES &c. which appear in the Vaude Mecum, neatly printed, and bound in elastic covers, for transportation—and constitute a set of six weeks.—Eight volumes constitute a set of one year's subscription, the terms of which are $3 dollars, payable in advance. (3) Subscribers to the Vaude Mecum are entitled to a deduction of one third, when subscribing for the Modern Acting Drama. An order for four sets will be thankfully received and the work forwarded to any directions, by enclosing a dollar note, postage paid. Gentlemen desirous of securing a set of this work, will please to forward their names immediately—the edition, which was a small one, is going off rapidly, and it cannot be re-published at the same price.

This work will undergo a material improvement on the commencement of a new series in January, 1856. It is intended to be published Every Month, or as near the beginning as possible, each No. to consist of 48 pages of fine letter press printing and 12 numbers to constitute a volume of 576 pages. Every Play or Farce which will be published, is to be accompanied by a beautiful and appropriate Engraving—making in the course of the year nearly Fifty Engravings—to which will be added as a Frontispiece a full sized steel Engraving, containing the likenesses of the distinguished Actors and Actresses. No alterations will be made from the present terms. Every person who desires to preserve an invaluable collection of the best Dramatic Authors should forward his name forthwith, as the edition will be limited to the number which is absolutely subscribed for. (3) The publisher pledges himself to make this work unequal in interest and superiority of execution to his prospectus, or he will refund the price of subscription, free of all charges. No subscription received unless the terms are complied with. No work of this kind has ever been attempted in the United States, and none is more likely to prove popular and satisfactory.

Any person collecting four subscribers to the Gentleman's Vaude Mecum, or the Modern Acting Drama, and remitting the amount of one year's subscription, ($3) for each—shall be presented with the Novelist Magazine, in two volumes a work of considerable popularity, and which is now selling for $3—It contains the productions of eight different authors well known to the public as among the most interesting writers of the day. The above will address CHARLES ALEXANDER, Athenian Buildings, Franklin Place, Philadelphia, and they may rest assured that every attention will be paid to have them carefully transmitted by mail.

PROSPECTUS OF A NEW PUBLICATION TO BE CALLED THE CATHOLIC PERIODICAL LIBRARY.
Which is designed to be a reprint of all the best Catholic Works in the English Language, in the weekly numbers, at 6 cents each.

The dearth and scarcity of the best Catholic works must long have been a source of regret to every intelligent and observing Catholic in America. So limited has been the sale, and so great the expense of printing these books, that but few individuals in the country have been sufficiently enterprising to undertake their publication; and their utility and their price, in consequence, has been more than proportionally high. In fact, so dear have Catholic books in general been, that it has been entirely impossible for the poorer members of the Catholic community, who stand most in need of instruction and for whom the Books have in general been compiled, to obtain copies, even of those works which are nearly essential to the practice of their religion.

The subscriber has long since observed this fact with the utmost regret, and yet certainly say, that up to this time, he has at least done something to reduce the prices of the most necessary Catholic works. Our religious books are still, however, extremely dear, and the Subscriber, depending on the support of a liberal and enlightened Catholic community, has determined to issue a Periodical publication, which, by its cheapness and the variety of the Catholic works within the reach of the poorest individual, and from the neatness and elegance of its execution will be found worthy of a place in the libraries of the rich. Such a proposition as that which the subscriber proposes to issue, has long been called for by the exigencies of the Catholic community; and the rapidly increasing number of the members of our Holy Church seems fully to justify him in the expectation that it will meet with sufficient encouragement to enable him to conduct it successfully. He, therefore, notwithstanding the expense and risk attending it, and confiding entirely in the liberality and generosity of his fellow Catholics of the United States, and the Catholics who have resolved to put it to press forthwith, and he therefore throws himself on his Catholic brethren, and calls on them for their support and patronage.

In this undertaking he is principally encouraged by the hope that it will meet with the cordial approbation of the clergy in general, and that he will be aided by the powerful assistance of that learned and devoted body of men. The undertaking is one which is eminently calculated to disseminate the principles of Holy Religion widely throughout the community, and to assist the clergy in the discharge of their parochial duties by affording, at an uncommonly low rate, at all the necessary knowledge and instruction. The subscriber, therefore earnestly requests that the Bishops and Clergy in general will exert their powerful influence in order to increase the popularity of the work and to obtain a sufficient number of subscribers to enable him to carry it on with success. By these means they will augment the spiritual comfort of their charges, and contribute, in a great measure, to the removal of the prejudices by which our brethren of the other denominations are unfortunately blinded.

TERMS.
The Catholic Periodical Library will be published in Weekly numbers, of fifty pages each, duodecimo size, on fine royal paper and beautiful new type, stitched in handsome wraps and will embrace the whole of the most celebrated Controversial and Devotional works, together with a large fund of ecclesiastical history. The first number will be issued on Saturday, November 7th.—Terms of subscription $4 Per Annum, or Eight Cents per Number, payable in advance.
Liberal commissions will be allowed to Agents. Any six persons, who may live at a distance, remitting a twenty dollar note, may have six copies of the work sent them for one year.

N. B. Postmasters throughout the country are requested to act as agents.
The following is a list of a few of the works which will be issued in this publication, and which will follow each other in rapid succession.
Moore's Travels of an Irish Gentleman in search of religion; Bosquet's History of the Variations of the Protestant Churches; the Faith of Catholics, by Kirk and Berington; Hayward's True Church; of Christendom; Hayward's Charity and Truth; More's Catholic, or Ages of Faith; Munford's Question of Questions; Lingard's History of the Anglo-Saxon Church; Perpetuity of the Faith; Dr. M. Hale's Evidence of the Catholic Church; Fleury's Manners of the Israelites; Fleury's Manners of Christians; Lannezan's Ecclesiastical History of Ireland; Bishop Hay's Works; Prince Gallatin's Controversial Writings; Manning's Works; O'Leary's Tracts; St. Bonaventura's Life of Christ; Chalkoner's Meditations; Butler's Book of the Catholic Church; Butler's Festivals and Fastes; Butler's Lives of Saints; Dr. Lingard's edition of Ward's Errata.

The above is a collection of Standard Catholic Works, which could not be purchased for less than seventy dollars; and it would be almost impossible to obtain many of the works included in it at any price whatever. The collection can now be obtained in this cheap and elegant Periodical for the uncomparably low price of about Twenty Dollars per Annum. All new Catholic Works will be published in the Periodical Library as soon as they are written, and able translators will be provided for all the European publications of peculiar excellence.

PROSPECTUS
THE BALTIMORE ATHENAEUM
AND
YOUNG MEN'S PAPER.
Published under the auspices of the Baltimore Young Men's Society.

The publishers of the "Young Men's Paper," encouraged by the liberal patronage extended towards them during the first year, have determined to enlarge and greatly improve their paper on the commencement of the second volume, so as to render it every way creditable to the city, and worthy of much more extensive circulation.
Its establishment was considered, even by its best friends, as but a doubtful experiment; and though all approved of the high stand that the first few months, or else that it would dwindle into a publication less dignified in character, and designed merely for a money making scheme—from this cause many stood aloof, unwilling to encourage what was believed would soon languish and die, or deviate in course from its original professions; these fears have, however, been indulged in vain, and the "Young Men's Paper" is now in the way of permanent establishment.

The publishers have been induced to adopt the new title of
in consideration of its being less vague in guiding than the old one. Every person has a peculiar idea of his own, as to what a "Young Men's Paper" should be, and the perplexities incident to the peculiarities of the name, to determine them to fix upon one less liable to so many objections. The publication is purely literary, and only as such do they wish it to be judged.

CONTENTS.—The "ATHENAEUM" will contain Original Tales, Essays and Poetry.—Intelligence on Scientific Subjects.—Notices of Passing Events.—Criticism on American Works.—Notices of New Publications.—Choice Selections from New Works.—Sketches of American and European Scenery and Character.—Extracts from British and American Magazines.—Essays on Political and Moral Philosophy.—Biographical Notices of Distinguished Individuals at home and abroad.—besides a great variety of matter upon every subject in the whole range of literature.

The publishers will still adhere to their original intention of making the "ATHENAEUM" such a paper as shall be worthy of admission into any circle of society, rigidly excluding every thing from its columns calculated to injure the moral character, or foster a vitiated taste, nor in doing this will they render the publication tame or spiritless, and as a guarantee will simply refer to the contents of the first volume.

The second volume will commence about the middle of November.
The "ATHENAEUM" will be printed on a fine quarto super royal sheet, and will make a handsome volume of 416 pages; for which a neat title page and copious index will be furnished.
TERMS.—$2.50 per annum, payable in all cases in advance.
Office of publication N. E. corner of Baltimore and Sharp streets.
63-Papers with which we exchange will please copy the above.

American Magazine OF USEFUL AND ENTERTAINING KNOWLEDGE.
VOL. II.
Published by the Boston Bewick Company—No. 47, Court Street.

The Publishers are encouraged by the flattering reception and extensive circulation of the Magazine for the year past, to prosecute the work with renewed assiduity and with a constant desire to fulfil the promises made in the outset of the work. We intend to stick to our text; and to serve those who have so liberally cheered us with their kind patronage, with what is useful and pleasant, little of dulcet shall still be our object and aim. We do not presume to instruct the veteran and erudit scholar, who has spent thirty or forty years in his study;—nor to lay open these hidden mysteries of nature which have escaped the ken of the most inquisitive. We do expect to approach so near to the moon or other planets, as to tell what are the trees, the birds, and animals which may there grow or live and move. We leave such extraordinary facts to those who are more visionary, or more daring than we are. But we hope and intend to keep up the character and spirit of the Magazine, in presenting solid and useful articles, which may be instructive to a portion of our readers, and not considered wholly unimportant to literary men. We consider the whole United States as our field, though not ours exclusively; and we ask the layman of our taste and science, to communicate important facts, and natural scenes, and works of art, for the benefit of all our friends. As republicans, we feel that we are of the same family as those in the south and west—as friends of improvement, of good morals and good learning, we wish also to be considered of the same family. If we can do anything by our labours to increase and strengthen this sentiment and feeling, "we should be ready to the good work."

We should call the attention of our present subscribers to the terms of the magazine, and to the notice in the last number relating to the subject. It is very important to us to know who propose to continue taking the Magazine, and to receive the very small sum, charged for it in advance.

SIXTH YEAR OF THE THE LADY'S BOOK.
A MONTHLY MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE, FASHIONS AND PORTRAITS.
The LADY'S BOOK was the first publication in this country to introduce and perfect a taste for COLORED PLATES OF THE FASHIONS; and the universal popularity which the book obtained, with the aid of these beautiful and costly embellishments, although they appeared every quarter only, was unprecedented and unexampled.—The publisher, emboldened by his long experience, and the success which has crowned his former efforts to signalise his work, intends, with the coming volumes, to introduce alternately every month, in the course of the year, SIX SPLENDID PLATES OF THE FASHIONS, SUPERBLY COLOURED. The engravings will be copied from ORIGINAL designs, prepared expressly for that purpose; thereby furnishing the patrons of the work with correct and constant information of the latest and most approved styles for ladies' dresses, as they come out. This arrangement will add considerably to the publisher's present heavy outlays; and while it will materially advance the value and beauty of his work, he trusts with confidence to the liberality of a discerning public for future remuneration, corresponding with his exertions and unremitting efforts to keep pace with the rapid progress of the improvements of the age. The following is the order which will be adopted for the Engravings of the Lady's Book for 1835, viz: January, March, May, July, September, November, SUPERS ENGRAVINGS.

PREVAILING FASHIONS ELEGANTLY COLORED.
With the June and December numbers will be furnished appropriately ENGRAVED TITLE PAGES, and a general Table of Contents for each Volume. February, April, June, August, October, December, FINE STEEL ENGRAVINGS.

Illustrating a variety of Interesting Subjects.
Besides every number will be enriched with a Plate from the PORTRAIT GALLERY, containing the Likenesses of two distinguished individuals. In addition to which, other various Engravings will be regularly added—with two Pages of POPULAR MUSIC.

The publisher has at present in the hands of an excellent artist a steel Engraving, which will contain a likeness of all the present reigning Queens of Europe, which will be given as an extra in the January No.

To meet these expensive engagements, it is absolutely necessary that remittances should be promptly made. At the end of the last six months, nearly six hundred names were erased from our list, in consequence of its appearing from the books that each owed two years' subscription. Many have since paid, and some had previously settled with agents. These and other previous inconveniences a publisher has to encounter, which should, as far as the Agent is concerned, be remedied by his rendering an account of all the sums that he has received, at intervals of every six months. Subscribers become annoyed when their names are erased for delinquency, & when they settle they will not again renew their subscription. This consequently is a serious loss to the proprietor. The following suggestions are respectfully tendered for the consideration of persons who are now in arrears: Let those who owe two years, or who will owe two in December or June next, send a Five Dollar note, on account. Many refrain from forwarding their dues because they cannot remit the exact sum; this is not necessary, if they continue their subscription. It is only when a person stops the work, that a liquidation of the whole amount due becomes necessary.

GALLERY OF PORTRAITS.—Under this head will be published every month, likenesses of distinguished Authors in this country and in Europe. Striking resemblances of Bulwer, Brougham, Hogg, Cunningham, &c. &c. have been given. The following are now ready for press, and will be published two in each number, until the whole is completed: Shelley, Lewis, Moore, Coleridge, Rodgers, D'Israeli, Neale, Mad. de Staël, Jane Porter, Campbell, Roscoe, Southey, &c.
Fac similes of the writing of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams, Byron, Scott, and other distinguished persons, have already appeared. Those of Napoleon, Franklin, La Fayette, &c. &c. are in preparation. The publication of views of beautiful scenery and remarkable public edifices, will be continued as heretofore.

Every number of the work contains forty-eight large octavo pages, printed on fine white paper, the whole neatly stitched in covers. The postage for each number is 3 cents for any distance under 100 miles—5 cents, over.

To convince those persons wishing to subscribe for the Lady's Book, that it is equal in point of embellishments, the interest of its contents, and general beauty of appearance, to the descriptions repeatedly given at large, and the flattering notices that have been made of it by editors in different sections of the Union, the publisher will forward any monthly number as a specimen, by sending him a letter, post paid.

The work will in future be published and delivered on the first of each month, in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore, and Charleston.—In New Orleans about the 5th.

Subscribers missing a number, will please inform the publisher, free of postage, and a duplicate will be sent them.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, 3 dollars per annum, payable in advance. Postmasters and Agents can have two copies forwarded to any direction, by advancing five dollars.

RUSSELL, SHATTUCK, & Co.

HAVE IN PRESS

THE WRITINGS OF

George Washington:

With Historical Notes & Illustrations,

AND

A LIFE OF THE AUTHOR.

BY

JARED SPARKS.

THE work is to consist of the writings of

Washington, selected from the volumi-

nous papers left by him at Mount Vernon,

which have all been in the possession of the Editor for six years. The object has been to gather from the whole of these papers, amount-

ing to more than sixty folio manuscript volumes, the best portions of Washington's writings, and to combine them into a methodical

arrangement, accompanied with explanatory

notes and historical elucidations. They will be published in the following order:

1. Letters and other papers relating to

Washington's Early Military Career in the French War, and as Commander of the Virginia Forces.

2. Letters, Instructions, Addresses, and other papers relating to the American Revolution.

3. Private Correspondence from the time of his resigning the Command of the Army, to the Beginning of the Presidency.

4. Public and Private Letters, Instructions, and other Papers, from the

time of his inauguration as President, to the end of his life.

5. Messages to Congress, and Public

Addresses.

It will be embellished with an accurate engraving of the original portrait, and of the original signature, with a full length

of Mrs. Washington. As also with a series

of plans and sketches, illustrating the military operations in which Washington was concerned.

The last volume will contain a very full index of the whole work. There will also be an alphabetical table of all the letters, indicating the names, dates, and places at which they were written. There will likewise be other

tables, comprising (as far as it can be done),

the arrangement of the various lines of the

army during the revolution, and the names and rank of the different officers. Similar tables will be added, containing the names of all

the principal civil officers in the United States,

during Washington's public career.

The whole work is expected to be completed in the course of the next season. The first volume will be taken up with the Life of Washington. This has been purposely delayed, for the obvious reason that it can be

much more fully and accurately written, after

going through with a minute examination of

the voluminous mass of papers, for the purpose

of selection and preparation for the press, and

gathering materials from other sources. Subscribers may be assured, that the advantage of

the delay will be altogether on their side.

Thus far, each volume has extended to a

considerably larger number of pages than was

promised in the prospectus, and no pains have

been spared to secure accuracy and faithful execution in every respect. Nearly thirty engraved plates, and drawings have been added,

none of which was originally promised. They have been executed at a large expense of money and trouble, and it is believed their value,

as an ornament to the book, and as illustrating the writings of Washington, will be duly estimated by the subscribers.

It will be printed and bound in the most

elegant style, on paper of superior quality.

CERTIFICATES

From Chief Justice Marshall and Governor

Tazewell.

I have looked over the two volumes of the

writings and correspondence of General

Washington, which have been published by

Mr. Sparks, and think the work possesses

great merit. He has collected valuable information in addition to the letters themselves,

which adds to their interest. The character

of Mr. Sparks ensures the faithful execution

of all his promises.

POETRY.

WRITTEN IN DEJECTION NEAR

NAPLES.

BY SHELLEY.

The sun is warm, the sky is clear

The waves are dancing fast and bright,

Blue isles and snowy mountains wear

The purple noon's transparent light.

Around are unexpanded buds;

Like many a voice of one delight,

The winds, the birds, the ocean floods,

The city's voice itself is soft, like Solitude's

I see the deep's untrampled floor

With green and purple sea-weeds strown

I see the wave upon the shore,

Like light dissolved in star-showers, thrown;

I sit upon the sands alone,

The lightning of the noon-tide ocean

Is flashing round me, and a tone

Arises from its measured motion,

How sweet! did any heart now share in my emotion.

Alas! I have no hope nor health,

Nor peace within nor calm around,

Nor that content surpassing wealth

The sage in meditation found,

And walked with inward glory crowned—

Nor fame, nor power, nor love, nor leisure.

Others I see, whom these surround—

Smiling they live, and call life pleasure—

To me that cup has been dealt in another measure.

Yet now despair itself is mild,

Even as the winds and waters are;

I could lie down like a tired child,

And weep away the life of care

Which I have borne and yet must bear,

'Till death-like sleep might steal on me,

And I might feel in the warm air

My cheek grow cold, and hear the sea

Breathe o'er my dying brain its last monod-ony.

Some might say that I were cold,

As I, when this sweet day is gone,

Which my lost heart, too soon grows old,

Insults with this untimely morn!

They might lament—for I am one

Whom men love not,—and yet regret,

Unlike this day, which, when the sun

Shall on its stainless glory set,

Will linger, though enjoyed, like joy in memory yet.

MESSAGE

EXECUTIVE,

TO THE LEGISLATURE OF MARYLAND,

DECEMBER SESSION, 1835.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

ANNAPOIS, Dec. 30, 1835.

Gentlemen of the Senate, and of the House of Delegates:

It has again become our welcome duty to lay before you a general view of the proceedings of the Executive department of the Government during the past year, and to suggest

for your consideration such measures as appear to us important to the happiness of our fellow citizens, or the prosperity of the Republic.

In the outset we must be permitted to pay a just tribute to the enlightened wisdom of the last General Assembly, who struck out from the difficulties with which those important subjects had been previously embarrassed, the

In pursuance whereof, the Speaker appointed on so much of the Executive communication as relates to the south western boundary, Messrs. Wharton, Merrick, Pratt, Bayly, Long, Hamilton, and Ely, the committee.

And, on so much thereof, as relates to the public documents, Messrs. Wharton, Bruff, Carpenter, Brown, Duckett, Gittings, and Duval, the committee.

“Dover, Dec. 28, 1835.

Dear Sir,—I hasten to inform you of the death of Midshipman John P. B. Adams, who was shot on the night of the 25th inst. about 9 o'clock by James H. M. Clayton, when entering Clayton's office. The muzzle of the pistol was about six inches from the left side of Adams' head, near the temple. About seven eighths of the ball was buried in the skull, which caused inflammation to take place, and he died of the wound, in about fifty three hours, very much lamented by all who knew him. Adams was an honorable, high minded young man, and fair to be an ornament to his state. The Coroner held an inquest this afternoon, and the jury returned a verdict of excusable homicide. There had been a personal combat between Adams and Clayton the night before, in which the latter was worsted.

A dashing young widow, hired a horse and chaise at Woonsocket Falls, about three months since, and drove to Sandwich, N. H., where she sold it for $40 and a cow. Since that time she has repeated the dose in Canton, Mass., and is still at her liberty to continue the practice of her profession.

THE GENEROUS CRIMINAL. I owe you a drubbing, says Frank, in a pet. Never mind it says Trifin, I forgive you the debt.

Judge Marshall left particular directions for an inscription upon his tomb. The inscription mentions simply his name—the day of his birth—the day of his marriage, the name of his wife, and the period of their separation by death—and the date of his own dissolution.

BLACKSMITHING.

JOHN RINGROSE

RESPECTFULLY informs the public he has taken the shop on Washington street in Easton heretofore occupied by Richard Spencer, Esq. where by the assistance of a well selected stock of the very best materials in his line, he is prepared to manufacture all kinds of work in the above business at a short notice and on accommodating terms. He deems it useless to say any thing in regard to his workmanship as the public have had a fair trial of it while he was carried on by Mr. Spencer; he feels confident the trial of his cast steel axes as well as his other work will give general satisfaction; he also intends keeping a supply of edged tools on hand, such as AXES—DRAWING-KNIVES—CHISELS—GRUBBING-HOES—&c.

He also informs the public that he has in his shop a first rate horse-shoe, and will execute that kind of work with all possible dispatch at a moment's warning. He is also prepared to repair all kinds of cast steel work. Gentlemen who have old axes will do well to call and get them re-steel.

THE subscriber begs leave to return his thanks to his friends and the public generally for the liberal support and encouragement which they have extended to him in the way of his business.

He offers at his hat store, lately occupied by Mr. Wm. L. Jones, as a Clock and Watch-maker's shop, and next to the Bank which he thinks he can safely warrant to be equal in fullness of workmanship and quality to any made in the State, and will sell on the most accommodating terms.

A LARGE AND GENERAL ASSORTMENT OF

He has just returned from Baltimore with a supply of Gentlemen's SILK HATS—a remarkably neat and superior article. Also, FURS of the best quality.

To country merchants or others, buying to sell again, he will sell by the dozen, as low as the same quality of hats can be had in a city market.

Buyers of all kinds, purchased or taken in exchange, at the strictest cash prices.

in his line of business, which added to his former stock, renders his assortment general and complete, all of which will be manufactured at the shortest notice and on the most pleasing terms. The subscriber flatters himself from his experience in his line of business, and his personal attention to the same, that he will be able to give general satisfaction to those who may see proper to give him a trial. He has also on hand

New Watches, Watch Chains, Seals and Keys, Watch Guards, Silver Thimbles, Silver Ever Pointed Pens, Silver Spoon-handles, Silver Shields, Plain Gold Rings, Razors, and Razor Straps, Shaving and Tooth Brushes, Penknives, Scissors, Percussion Caps, and a variety of other useful articles, all of which he offers at a small advance for cash. He invites his customers, and the public in general, to give him a call, view his assortment, and he thinks there is no doubt, but they will be induced to purchase.

The subscriber returns his thanks to his customers and the public generally, for the very liberal encouragement he has received at his hands, and still hopes by strict and personal attention to business to receive a portion of the public patronage.

A PRACTICAL TREATISE

ON THE

CULTURE OF SILK,

Adapted to the Soil and Climate of the United States, by F. G. COMSTOCK, Secretary of the Hartford County Silk Society, and Editor of the Silk Cultivator. Illustrated by Engravings.

Interest in all parts of the United States in the Culture and Manufacture of Silk, manifested by the constant calls for information on the subject, has induced the publisher to have prepared a plain Practical Treatise on the cultivation of the Mulberry and rearing of Silk Worms, adapted to the Soil and Climate of this country and to the wants of plain practical men.

The practical Cultivator in this country needs a directory adapted to the Soil on which he plants his trees, and the Climate in which he rears his worms; without reference to Soils and Climates less congenial to their growth. It has been therefore the object of the author to make a treatise strictly practical, omitting nothing of importance to the Cultivator, and adding nothing of a useless or extraneous character.

It makes the raw materials into Sewing Silk and Twist is very profitable to the Silk Grower, all necessary information for that purpose will be given.

The work will be published in a duodecimo of 100 pages, in handsome binding—price 25 cts. A part of the edition will be put up in plastic covers to be forwarded by mail.

THE SALTAMUNDI,

AND NEWS OF THE DAY.

PUBLISHED WITH A MULTITUDE

COMIC ENGRAVINGS.

A new periodical, of a novel character, bearing the above appellation, will be commenced on the beginning of January, 1836. While it will furnish its patrons with the leading features of the news of the day, its principal objects will be to serve up a humorous compilation of the numerous lively and pungent sallies which are daily floating along the tide of Literature, in which, for the want of a proper channel for their preservation, are positively lost to the reading world. Original wits and humorists of our time will here have a medium devoted to the faithful record of the scintillations of their genius. It is not necessary to detail the many attractions which this journal will possess, as the publisher will furnish a specimen number to every person who desires it—(those out of the city will forward their orders, postage paid)—and he pledges himself that no exertions on his part shall be wanting to make each succeeding number superior in every respect to the preceding ones.

The SALTAMUNDI will be printed on large imperial paper, equal in size and quality to that which is at present used for the Gentlemen's Vade Mecum. It is calculated that more than

will be furnished to the patrons of this Journal in one year—these, in addition to an extensive and choice selection of Satire, Criticism, Humor and Wit, to be circulated through its columns, will form a Literary Banquet of a superior and attractive order; and the publisher relies with perfect confidence on the liberality of the American public, and the spirit and tact with which this expensive undertaking will be prosecuted, to bear him successfully and profitably along with it.

The terms of the SALTAMUNDI will be two dollars per annum, payable in advance, in advance. No paper will be furnished unless this stipulation is strictly adhered to.

Clubs of three will be supplied with the paper for one year, by forwarding a five dollar note, postage paid. Clubs of seven will be supplied for the same term, by forwarding a ten dollar note. The papers that are sent out of the city will be carefully packed in strong envelopes, to prevent their rubbing in the mail.

THE SALTAMUNDI will be published on alternate weeks—otherwise it would be impossible to procure the numerous embellishments which each number will contain—and the general interest it will afford must be enhanced by this arrangement.

All orders must come postage paid.

PROSPECTUS OF A NEW PUBLICATION TO BE CALLED THE CATHOLIC PERIODICAL LIBRARY.
Which is designed to be a reprint of all the best Catholic Works in the English Language, in the weekly numbers, at 8 cents each.
THE dearth and scarcity of the best Catholic works must long have been a source of regret to every intelligent and observing Catholic in America. So limited has been the sale, and so great the expense of printing these books, that but few individuals in the country have been sufficiently enterprising to undertake their publication, and their publication, and their price, in consequence, has been more than portionably high. In fact, so dear have Catholic books in general been, that it has been entirely impossible for the poorer members of the Catholic community, who stand most in need of instruction and for whom the Books have in general been compiled, to obtain copies, even of those works, which are nearly essential to the practice of their religion.
The subscriber has long since observed this fact with the utmost regret, and may certainly say, that up to this time, he has at least done something to reduce the prices of the most necessary Catholic works. Our religious books are still, however, extremely dear, and the subscriber, depending on the support of a liberal and enlightened Catholic community, has determined to issue a Periodical publication, which, by its cheapness, will place all the best Catholic works within the reach of the poorest individual; and from the neatness and elegance of its execution will be found worthy of a place in the libraries of the rich. Such a proposition as that which the subscriber proposes to issue, has long been called for by the exigencies of the Catholic community; and the rapidly increasing number of the members of our Holy Church seems fully to justify him in the expectation that it will meet with sufficient encouragement to enable him to conduct it successfully. He, therefore, notwithstanding the expense and risk attending it, and confiding entirely in the liberality and generosity of his fellow Catholics of the United States and the Canada has resolved to put it to press forthwith, and he therefore throws himself on his Catholic brethren, and calls on them for their support and patronage.
In this undertaking he is principally encouraged by the hope that it will meet with the cordial approbation of the clergy in general, and that he will be aided by the powerful assistance of that learned and devoted body of men. The undertaking is one which is eminently calculated to disseminate the principles of our holy religion widely throughout the community, and to assist the clergy in the discharge of their parochial duties by affording, at an uncommonly low rate, at the necessary knowledge and instruction. The subscriber, therefore, earnestly requests that the Bishops and Clergy in general will exert their powerful influence in order to increase the popularity of the work, and to obtain a sufficient number of subscribers to enable him to carry it on with success. By these means they will augment the spiritual comfort of their charges, and contribute, in a great measure, to dispel the prejudices by which our brethren of the other denominations are unfortunately blinded.
TERMS.
The Catholic Periodical Library will be published in Weekly numbers, of fifty pages each, duodecimo size, on fine royal paper, and beautiful new type, stitched in handsome wrappers and will embrace the whole of the most celebrated Controversial and Devotional works, together with a large fund of ecclesiastical history. The first number will be issued on Saturday, November 7th.—Terms of subscription $4 Per Annum, or Eight Cents per Number, payable in advance.
Liberal commissions will be allowed to Agents. Any six persons, who may live at a distance, remitting a twenty dollar note, may have six copies of the work sent them for one year.
N. B. Postmasters throughout the country are requested to act as agents.
The following is a list of a few of the works which will be issued in this publication, and which will follow each other in rapid succession.
Moore's Travels of an Irish Gentleman in search of a religion; Bossuet's History of the Variations of the Protestant Churches; The Faith of Catholics, by Kirk and Berrington; Hayward's True Church of Christ shown; Hayward's Charity and Truth; Moore's Catholic, or Ages of Faith; Mumford's Question of Questions; Mumford's Catholic Scripturist; Lingard's History of the Anglo-Saxon Church; Perpetuity of the Faith; Dr. M'Hale's Evidence of the Catholic Church; Fiery's Manners of the Israelites; Fiery's Manners of Christians; Lannegan's Ecclesiastical History of Ireland; Bishop Hay's Works; Prince Gallatin's Controversial Writings; Manning's Works; O'Leary's Faith; St. Bonaventura's Life of Christ; Chastell's Meditations; Butler's Book of the Catholic Church; Butler's Festivals and Fasts; Butler's Lives of Saints; Dr. Lingard's edition of Ward's Errata.
The above is a collection of Standard Catholic Works, which could not be purchased for less than seventy dollars; and it would be almost impossible to obtain many of the works included in it at any price whatever. The collection can now be obtained in this cheap and elegant Periodical for the uncommonly low price of Twenty Dollars.
All new Catholic Works will be published in the Periodical Library as soon as received; and able translators will be provided for all the European publications of peculiar excellence.

PROSPECTUS FOR A NEW VOLUME OF THE "YOUNG MEN'S PAPER" TO BE CALLED THE BALTIMORE ATHENAEUM AND YOUNG MEN'S PAPER.
Published under the auspices of the Baltimore Young Men's Society.

THE publishers of the "Young Men's Paper," encouraged by the liberal patronage extended towards them during the first year, have determined to enlarge and greatly improve their paper on the commencement of the second volume, so as to render it every way creditable to the city, and worthy of much more extensive circulation.
Its establishment was considered, then by its best friends, as but a doubtful experiment; and though all approved of the high standard was taken, but few thought it would live over the first few months, or else that it would divide into a publication less dignified in character, and designed merely for a money making scheme, from this cause many stood aloof, unwilling to encourage what they believed would soon languish and die, or deviate from its original profession; these fears have, however, been indulged in vain, and the "Young Men's Paper" is now in the way of permanent establishment.
The publishers have been induced to adopt the new title of "BALTIMORE ATHENAEUM," in consideration of its being less vague in signification than the old one. Every person possessing a peculiar idea of this work, as to what a "Young Men's Paper" should be, and the publishers have experienced enough of the little perplexities incident to the peculiarities of the name, to determine them to fix upon one less liable to so many objections. The publication is purely literary, and only as such do they wish it to be judged.
CONTENTS.—The "ATHENAEUM" will contain Original Tales, Essays and Poetry.—Intelligence on Scientific Subjects.—Notices of Passing Events.—Criticism on American Works.—Notices of New Publications.—Choice Selections from New Works.—Sketches of American and European Scenery and Character.—Extracts from British and American Magazines.—Essays on Political and Moral Philosophy.—Biographical Notices of Distinguished Individuals at home and abroad.—besides a great variety of matter upon every subject in the whole range of literature.
The publishers will still adhere to their original intention of making the "ATHENAEUM" such a paper as shall be worthy of admission into any circle of society, rigidly excluding every thing from its columns calculated to injure the moral character, or foster a vitiated taste, nor in doing this will they render the publication tame or spiritless, and as a guarantee will simply refer to the contents of the first volume.
The second volume will commence about the middle of November.
The "ATHENAEUM" will be printed on a fine quarto super royal sheet, and will make a handsome volume of 416 pages; for which a neat title page and copious index will be furnished.
TERMS.—$2.50 per annum, payable in all cases in advance.
Office of publication N. E. corner of Baltimore and Sharp streets.
—Papers with which we exchange will please copy the above.

AMERICAN MAGAZINE OF USEFUL AND ENTERTAINING KNOWLEDGE.
VOL. II.
Published by the Boston Bewick Company—No. 47, Court Street.

THE Publishers are encouraged by the flattering reception and extensive circulation of the Magazine for the year past, to prosecute the work with renewed assiduity and with a constant desire to fulfil the promises made in the outset of the work. We intend "to stick to our text;" and to serve those who have so liberally cheered us with their kind patronage, with what is useful and pleasant, and of which we shall still be our object and aim. We do not presume to instruct the voracious and erudite scholar, who has spent thirty or forty years in his study; nor to lay open those hidden mysteries of nature which have escaped the ken of the most inquisitive. Nor do we expect to approach near to the moon or other planets, as to tell what are the trees, the birds, and animals which may there grow or live and move. We leave such extraordinary feats to those who are more visionary, or more daring than we are. But we hope and intend to keep up the character and spirit of the Magazine, in presenting bold and useful articles, which may be instructive to a portion of our readers, and not considered wholly unimportant to literary men. We consider the whole United States as our field, and not our country exclusively; and we ask the favour of persons of taste and science, to communicate important facts, and natural scenes, and works of art, for the benefit of all our friends. As Republicans, we feel that we are of the same family as those in the south and west— as friends of improvement, of good morals and good learning, we wish also to be considered of the same family. If we can do any of our labours to increase and strengthen this sentiment and feeling, "we should be ready to the good work."
We should call the attention of our present subscribers to the terms of the Magazine, and to the notice in the last number relating to the subject. It is very important for us to know who propose to continue taking the Magazine, and to receive the very small sum, charge for it in advance.

SIXTH YEAR OF THE LADY'S BOOK. A MONTHLY MAGAZINE OF LITERATURE, FASHIONS AND PORTRAITS.

THE LADY'S BOOK was the first publication in this country to introduce and perfect a taste for COLORED PLATES OF THE FASHIONS, and the universal popularity which the book obtained, with the aid of these beautiful and costly embellishments, although they appeared every quarter only, was unprecedented and unexampled.—The publisher, emboldened by his long experience, and the success which has crowned his former efforts to signalise his work, intends, with the coming volume, to introduce alternately every month in the course of the year, SIX SPLENDID PLATES OF THE FASHIONS, SUPERBLY COLOURED. The engraving will be copied from original designs, prepared expressly for that purpose, thereby furnishing the patrons of the work, with correct and constant information of the latest and most approved styles for ladies' dresses, as they come out. This arrangement will add considerably to the publisher's present heavy outlay; and while it will materially advance the value and beauty of his work, he trusts will confide to the liberality of a discerning public for future remuneration, corresponding with his exertions and unremitting efforts to keep pace with the rapid progress of the improvements of the age. The following is the order which will be adopted for the Embellishments of the Lady's Book for 1855, viz: January, March, May, July, September, November, and December.
SUPERB ENGRAVINGS OF THE PREVAILING FASHIONS ELEGANTLY COLOURED.
With the June and December numbers will be furnished appropriately ENGRAVED TITLE PAGES, and a general Table of Contents for each Volume. February, April, June, August, October, December.
FINE STEEL ENGRAVINGS.
Illustrating a variety of Interesting Subjects.

Besides every number will be enriched with a Plate from the PORTRAIT GALLERY, containing the Likenesses of two distinguished individuals. In addition to which, other and various Engravings will be regularly added—with two Pages of POPULAR MUSIC.
The publisher has at present in the hands of an excellent artist a steel Engraving, which will contain a likeness of one of the present Queens of Europe, which will be given as a Extra in the January No.
To meet these expensive engagements, it is absolutely necessary that remittances should be promptly made. At the end of the last six months, nearly six hundred names were erased from our list, in consequence of its appearing from the books that each owed two years' subscription. Many have since paid, and some had previously settled with agents. These and other grievous inconveniences a publisher has to encounter, which should, as far as the Agents are concerned, be remedied by his rendering an account of all the sums that he has received, at least once every six months. Subscribers become annoyed when their names are erased for delinquency, and when they settle, they will not again renew their subscription. This, consequently, is a serious loss to the proprietor. The following suggestions are respectfully tendered for the consideration of persons who are now in arrears: Let those who owe two years, or that will owe two in December or June next, send a Five Dollar note, on account. Many refrain from forwarding their dues because they cannot send the exact sum; this is not necessary; if they continue their subscription, it is only when a person stops the work, that a liquidation of the whole amount due becomes necessary.

GALLERY OF PORTRAITS.—Under this head will be published every month, the likenesses of distinguished Authors in this country and in Europe. Striking resemblances of Bulwer, Brougham, Hoeg, Cunningham, &c. &c. have been given. The following are now ready for press, and will be published two in each number until the whole is completed: Shelley, Lewis, Moore, Coleridge, Rogers, D'Israeli, Neale, Macle, Stiel, Jane Porter, Campbell, Roscoe, Southey, &c.
Fac similes of the writings of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams, Byron Scott, and other distinguished persons, have already appeared. Those of Napoleon, Franklin, La Fayette, &c. are in preparation.
The publication of views of beautiful scenery and remarkable public edifices, will be continued as heretofore.
Every number of the work contains forty-eight large octavo pages, printed on fine white paper, the whole neatly stitched in covers. The postage for each number is 3 cents for any distance under 100 miles—5 cents, over.
To convince persons wishing to subscribe for the Lady's Book, that it is equal in point of embellishments, the interest of its contents, and general beauty of appearance, to the best already published, given at large, and the following notices that have been made of it by editors in different sections of the Union, the publisher will forward any monthly number as a specimen, by sending him a letter, post paid.
The work will in future be published and delivered on the first of each month, in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore, and Charleston.—In New Orleans at the 6th.
Subscribers missing a number, will please inform the publisher, free of postage, and a duplicate will be sent them.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.—$3 dollars per annum, payable in advance. Postmasters and Agents can have two copies forwarded to any direction, by advancing five dollars.

THE GENTLEMAN'S VADE MECUM.
OR THE SPORTING AND DRAMATIC COMPANION.

A WEEKLY REPOSITORY OF Dramatic Literature, Sporting, the Turf, Fashions, Grazing, Agriculture, and Various subjects of Interest and Amusement.
INTERPERSED WITH A MULTITUDE OF Appropriate Engravings, INCLUDING Portraits of Celebrated Winning HORSES.
PHILADELPHIA, LEGERDEMAIN, & CO.
THIS popular journal, although but a few months have passed since it was commenced, has already obtained an extensive and profitable subscription list, which is daily increasing, and affords ample encouragement to the publishers to persevere in their efforts to the render it useful, amusing, and instructive.
On the commencement of the approaching year, the VADE MECUM will undergo several important improvements.—Instead of four pages, it will be increased to eight of nearly the present size, and consequently will contain almost double the quantity of reading matter which is now given.—Making it one of the largest and neatest quarto's ever published in the United States. It will be printed on new type, and fine white paper, and the embellishments will be considerably multiplied, and of a superior order. Persons desirous of procuring the work at the beginning of the new volume, will please send their orders at once—as they may fail to be supplied, as but few copies will be published more than are actually subscribed for at the time.
—The subjects which are particularly embraced in this work will be more distinctly understood from the following brief analysis of them:
The Drama forms a material portion of the Gentleman's Vaude Mecum—every week an act or Play or Farce is given. They are selected with a single eye to their merits alone; preference, however, will be extended to all cases to native productions when they can be obtained. Independent criticisms, carefully excluding all invidious comparisons, and recommended by their brevity, are occasionally inserted; also, Biographical Sketches, Anecdotes, and Bun. Moits of prominent Comedians of the present and past ages, of which a new and inexhaustible compilation is in store. The publisher, by the liberality of the managers of the two Philadelphia Theatres, and several other gentlemen connected with the stage, has obtained a very excellent and numerous selection of Plays and Farces for the Vaude Mecum; many of them have never appeared in print.
THE TURF.
A faithful record is kept of all the Runners and trotting Matches in this country and England. Biographies and correct portraits of celebrated thorough-bred Horses are published once a month. Every fact relative to the breeding, management, keeping, and the diseases of this invaluable animal is particularly attended to.
THE SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.
At home and abroad occupies a considerable portion of our columns, and is collected from the most authentic sources.
Among the Portraits of celebrated Winning Horses which have been given, are—
The American Trotting Horse, Edwin Forrest.
The imported Racing Horse Messenger.
The American Trotting Mare, Lady Jackson.
The Racing Mare, Ariel, and her foal by Edgemoor.
The true blooded popular Horse, Chateau Margaux.
The American Trotting Horse, Top Galant.
The well known English Race Horse, Touchstone.
Mundrig, the winner of the Derby stakes in June, 1855.
The unrivalled American Trotter Andrew Jackson.
The celebrated English Horse, Glencoe.
A complete treatise on Riding, with four-fold Illustrations, for improvement of Ladies in that most healthy of all exercises.
Explanations of the Automaton Chess Player, illustrated by eleven engravings.
Four engravings, designed to represent the scene which took place in Paris, in July last, on the attempted destruction of the Royal Family of France, with a view of the Infernal Machine, and a likeness of the Assassin, Gerard.
A correct Picture of a Race Course, occupying the width of seven columns.
SPORTING.
Beside other matters belonging to this head there will be published correct accounts of Shooting Matches, Pedestrian Feats, Gymnastic Exercises, Aquatic Excursions, Fishing, Gaming, &c. with anecdotes of noted Dogs.
MILITARY UNIFORMS.
The publisher has employed the assistance of an excellent artist to furnish a regular series of Engravings of the different beautiful uniforms worn by the principal Volunteer Corps of Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore and other cities, which will be published periodically, with a particular description of each, furnished by a competent hand. This subject forms a peculiar attraction to the general interest of the work.
GENTLEMEN'S FASHIONS.
A quarterly review is made out by a gentleman connected with a fashionable house in Philadelphia, explanatory of the various improvements and changes which costumes worn in the dress circles consequently undergo by which it will be rendered an easy task for drapers and tailors, at a distance, to suit their customers with the most approved colors and modern style of apparel at the earliest possible period.
MISCELLANY.
Although the purposes of our sheet may appear to be confined to the several leading subjects which have been stated, we deem it proper to say, that there constantly is, in addition to these, a considerable space allowed for miscellaneous matter, such as Tales, Poetry, Anecdotes, Legerdemain, an Epitome of News, a list of Amusement, Statistics, Agriculture Domestic Economy, Valuable Receipts, &c. Also, a recapitulation of the best and most popular of the old English and American Sporting and National Songs, set to music; besides many other matters, regardless which an interest is supposed to exist.
—By the above explanation, it will be seen that the Gentleman's Vaude Mecum is particularly designed as a companion for the patrons of the Turf, the Drama, Sporting, the Fashions, &c. It is worthy of notice, that its patrons in the course of one year, will be furnished with from forty-five to fifty popular Plays or Farces—the price of which, separately, at one of our bookstores, would be at least fifteen dollars! Here, then, is an absolute saving of ten dollars in the purchase of a well-stored Dramatic Library—to be had for an unappreciated small sum without taking into consideration the multiplied variety which is sent along with it, free of additional charge.

The Gentleman's Vaude Mecum or the Sporting and Dramatic Companion, is published every Saturday, on fine extra imperial quarto paper, of a superior quality each number forming eight pages of the largest class, at 83 per annum. Orders from abroad, postage paid, will be promptly attended to, and the paper carefully packed, to prevent it from rubbing by mail. As the number of agents will be limited to principle cities, or such other places where a considerable subscription may be obtained, we request those who propose to patronize the work, to transmit by mail at once to the publisher. Small notes of solvent banks of the different States, taken at par. By enclosing a Five Dollar Note, two copies of the paper will be forwarded to any direction ordered, for one year. Specimen numbers will be sent to any part of the Union, by addressing the publisher, postage paid.
THE MODERN Acting Drama.
Has hitherto been issued in volumes of about 300 pages each—containing the PLAYS, FARCES, &c. which appear in the Vaude Mecum, neatly printed, and bound in elastic covers, for transportation, and published every six weeks.—Eight volumes constitute a set or one year's subscription, the terms of which is 3 dollars, payable in advance.—Subscribers to the Vaude Mecum are entitled to a deduction of one third, when subscribing for the Modern Acting Drama. An order for four sets will be thankfully received and the work forwarded to any directions, by enclosing a ten dollar note, postage paid. Gentlemen desirous of securing a set of this work, will please to forward their names immediately—the edition, which was a small one, is going off rapidly, and it cannot be re-published at the same price.
This work will undergo a material improvement on the commencement of a new series in January, 1856. It is intended to be published Every Month, or as near the beginning as possible, each No. to consist of 48 pages of fine letter press printing and 12 numbers to constitute a volume of 576 pages. Every Play or Farce which will be published, is to be accompanied by a beautiful and appropriate Engraving—making in the course of the year nearly Fifty Embellishments—to which will be added as a Frontispiece a full sized steel Engraving, containing the likenesses of six distinguished Actors and Actresses. No alterations will be made from the present terms. Every person who desires to preserve an invaluable collection of the best Dramatic Authors should forward his name forthwith, as the edition will be limited to the number which is absolutely subscribed for. The publisher pledges himself to make this work unequal in interest and superiority of execution to his prospectus, or he will refund the price of subscription, free of all charges. No subscription received unless the terms are complied with. No work of this kind has ever been attempted in the United States and none is more likely to prove popular and successful.

Any person collecting four subscribers to the Gentleman's Vaude Mecum, or the Modern Acting Drama, and remitting the amount of one year's subscription ($33) for each, shall be presented with the Novelist Magazine, in two volumes a work of considerable popularity, and which is now selling for $3-4 contains the productions of eight different authors well known to the public as among the most interesting writers of the day.
Persons wishing to subscribe to the above will address CHARLES ALEXANDER, Athenaeum Buildings, Franklin Place, Philadelphia, and they may rest assured that every attention will be paid to have them carefully transmitted by mail.

RUSSELL, SHATTUCK, & Co.

HAVE IN PRESS

THE WRITINGS OF

George Washington:

AND

A LIFE OF THE AUTHOR.

BY

JARED SPARKS.

THE work is to consist of the writings of

Washington, selected from the volumi-

which have all been in the possession of the Editor for six years. The object has been to

gather from the whole of these papers, amount-

ing to more than sixty folio manuscript volumes, and to combine them into a methodical

arrangement, accompanied with explanatory

notes and historical elucidations. They will

be published in the following order:

1. Letters and other papers relating to

Washington's Early Military Career in the French War, and as Commander of the Virginia

Forces.

2. Letters, Instructions, Addresses, and

other papers relating to the American Revolution.

3. Private Correspondence from the

Time of his resigning the Command of the Army, to the Begin-

ning of the Presidency.

4. Public and Private Letters, Instructions, and other Papers, from the

dent, to the end of his life.

5. Messages to Congress, and Public

Addresses.

It will be embellished with an accurate engraving of Stuart's original portrait, and Houlston's bust, together with a full length portrait, at the age of 22, and two portraits of Mrs. Washington. As also with a series

of plans and sketches, illustrating the military

operations in which Washington was concern-

ed.

The last volume will contain a very full index of the whole work. There will also be an alphabetical table of all the letters, indicat-

army during the revolution, and the names and rank of the different officers. Similar tables will be added, containing the names of all

the principal civil officers in the United States,

during Washington's public career.

The whole work is expected to be completed in the course of the next season. The first volume will be taken up with the Life of

aftering materials from other sources. Sub-

ecution in every respect. Nearly thirty en-

graved plates, and drawings have been added,

none of which was originally promised. They have been executed at a large expense of money

and trouble, and it is believed their value, as an ornament to the book, and as illustrating the writings of Washington, will be duly appreciated by the subscribers.

elegant style, on paper of superior quality.

CERTIFICATES

From Chief Justice Marshall and Governor

Tazewell.

I have looked over the two volumes of the

Washington, which have been published by

Mr. Sparks, and think the work possesses great merit. He has collected valuable information in addition to the letters themselves,

which adds to their interest. The character

of Mr. Sparks ensures the faithful execution

of all he promises.

J. MARSHALL.

RICHMOND, January 2nd, 1835.

I very willingly add mine to the testimony of Chief Justice Marshall as to the value

mentioned by him, and as to the character of

Mr. Sparks.

PROSPECTUS OF A NEW

PUBLICATION TO BE CALLED

THE CATHOLIC PERIODICAL LIBRA-

RY.

Which is designed to be a reprint of all the best Catholic Works in the English Language, in the weekly numbers, at 8 cents

each.

THE dearth and scarcity of the best

Catholic works must long have been a source of regret to every intelligent and observing Catholic in America. So limited has been the sale, and so great the expense of printing; these books, that but few individuals

in the country have been sufficiently enterprising to undertake their publication; and their publication; and their price, in consequence,

has been more than proportionally high. In fact, so dear have Catholic books in general

TO THE HONORABLE

The Governor and Council of Maryland.

In accordance with the established usage, the President and Directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company avail themselves of this occasion to present a statement of the condition of the undertaking in which they are engaged, in which the State of Maryland has already so large a pecuniary interest, and the results of which, when completed, must have no immediate and important connection with her prosperity.

Since the last report, the main stem of the road has been extended as far as Harper's Ferry, at which point, there will, before long, be a connection between it and the Winchester and Potomac Rail Road, when the Rail Road communication between Baltimore and Winchester, a distance of one hundred and twelve miles, will be constant and uninterrupted. The Branch Road to Washington, after being used as far as Bladensburg as early as the beginning of July last, was opened to the Pennsylvania Avenue, for general use, with appropriate ceremony, in the August following. It is not the intention of the President and Directors to repeat in this communication, the details of their proceedings for the last twelve months; for these, they refer to their ninth annual report to the stockholders, copies of which they herewith respectfully present. From this document, it will be perceived, that, having reached the point on the Potomac, at which the prosecution of the Rail Road, up the valley to the river, must, in pursuance with the agreement to that effect with the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, be temporarily suspended, they have turned their attention to the ultimate objects for which their charter was originally granted and have caused surveys to be made, west of Cumberland, with a view of continuing the work from that place to the Ohio river at Pittsburgh and Wheeling; using for the present, as a connecting link between the two portions of Rail Road, the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, the early completion of which, owing to the liberal policy of the State, at the last session of the Legislature is now confidently anticipated.

The result of the surveys here mentioned has been gratifying in the extreme. Hitherto it has been supposed, that the only mode of crossing the mountain ranges, which divide the eastern and western waters, with a Rail Road, was by using a stationary power, which, besides being costly to establish and requiring a comparatively slow in its operation. Now, however, it has been proved beyond question, that stationary power may be entirely dispensed with, and that a Rail Road may be constructed over the Alleghenies with grades no where exceeding fifty feet per mile. Upon such a road, locomotive engines are being employed to convey trains, with the hundred passengers each, at the rate of twenty miles an hour, or two hundred and seventy passengers at the rate of ten miles an hour. The speed of ten miles an hour has never yet been attained to a mountain region, under the most favorable circumstances, on the ordinary turnpikes, and the speed of twenty miles an hour even as connected with the Rail Road system, is the result of very recent development. At the average speed of fifteen miles an hour, the entire distance from Baltimore to the Ohio river, may when the Rail Road shall be completed as originally intended, be passed which has hitherto with perfect safety, within comparison with the details of the his former stockholders here stated are of natural advantages, to ninth annual report, superiority, over both Pennsylvania and New York, the two States, which have entered most closely into competition for the Western trade; and it is because she has permitted these natural advantages to remain unimproved, by the enterprise and the art, which in the meanwhile have been doing every thing for their neighbors. New York can only reach the West by a long and circuitous route, by the Hudson, the great canal, and the navigation of Lake Erie. Pennsylvania's route, though less circuitous than the last named, is tedious, and requires several days to accomplish it—alternately throughout, with canal and Rail Road, and involving the crossing at the Mountains by means of inclined planes and stationary power. Maryland on the contrary enjoys, or might, it would be more proper to say, enjoy a route, that places the Ohio within twenty-four hours travel of her commercial enterprise. Along her Southern boundary, the Potomac leads through range after range of the dividing mountains, and presents a route, that may emphatically be termed a highway to the west, marked out by nature. It was this geographical proximity, which, while turnpike roads were among the best internal improvements however, made the growth of Baltimore contemporaneous, and almost coeval with the growth of the west; and it has required all the assistance of art, and all the efforts of skill and enterprise, overcoming the natural inferiority of their position, to give to the cities of New York and Philadelphia that pre-eminence which they now possess, and which once seemed the exclusive birth right of Baltimore. With the wisdom and foresight, that they have never had occasion to regret, and which is now the boast of their citizens, the States of N. York and Pennsylvania undertook their vast schemes of internal improvement, and in the aggrandizement of their commercial capitals have found the reflected property of all within their borders.

It is now for Maryland to say whether she will do likewise. All that is necessary is to connect Baltimore with the west, by such a scheme of improvement as the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company was incorporated to carry on, but which the prompt and efficient operation of the State can alone complete. When this is done, Baltimore, New York, and Philadelphia, compared to each other, will occupy the same relation towards the west, that they did before the Canals and Rail Roads of the two latter had compensated the disadvantages of their more remote position. The new diverted traffic of the great region watered by the Mississippi and its tributaries, will return to its old and wonted channel, and Maryland will have the rich harvest of property, which those who are permitted to reap, who have previously been. The city of Baltimore has already been benefited largely in the undertaking both in its corporate character, and through its citizens, constituting the great mass of the stockholders in the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road company; and there is little doubt that still further and from the same source may be obtained. But Baltimore and its citizens, patriotic and zealous as they may be, are incompetent single hands to the undertaking. Its success depends upon the State. Baltimore will contribute the West itself will contribute; but the efficiency of the efforts of both depend upon Maryland. Without her co-operation, the scheme, brilliant though it be, is as idle as a bubble, and as all nations, certain in its results, as demonstration can make it, and besting in its benefits as the mountain which it will overcome, must fall, paralyzed, to the ground; and the state, deprived of the strong arm of its defense against the rivalry of her neighbors, must decline into no independence, which the recollection of what might have been her destinies will only render this more humiliating.

Surely, these are motives sufficient to induce the Legislature, at its approaching session, under the influence of the liberal spirit which has already characterized its acts, to afford that assistance to the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company, which is here insisted upon as essential, so that the work, whose importance was fully appreciated, when the companies charter was originally granted, may be prosecuted to completion, while yet the contemporaneous characters of Virginia and Pennsylvania exist to authorize it.

The deep interest, which it is known that the Executive feel in all that relate to the prosperity of the State, has led the President and Directors, in making their customary report, upon the condition of their work to dwell at length upon the importance of completing it.

When this is done, Maryland and the West will become more united, and again as formerly, Maryland will enjoy the full proportion of the trade of the country beyond the Alleghenies.

On behalf of the Board, P. E. THOMAS, Pres't. B. & O. R. R. C.

From the (Me.) Augusta Age.

The following is an extract from an article in the New Orleans Union of the 29th ult., headed "What influence would a war with France have on the price of cotton?"

The consumption of cotton in France amounts to 250,000 bales per annum. It is well known that a people, when at war, consume a greater quantity of clothing than when at peace; for the recent war in Europe laid the great manufacturing wealth of England, although the latter power was deeply engaged in the contest.

If a war should happen, all trade between this country and France is at an end. We will cease to receive her luxuries, much to the annoyance of rich men and fashionable ladies—first cotton, now the only necessary to her, will cease to be England before arriving at France. It will be recollected that the war increases the demand for cotton in that country, and likewise in this, both of which facts do prove that there will be a greater demand, and the planter obtain higher prices.

In a contest with France, she has every thing to lose as regards trade. At present, we receive her wines and her gewgaws, and she obtains in return our richest and most necessary staples.

Let then, such of our countrymen as approach the question of our existing difficulties with France under the influence of that bugbear, "a fall in the price of cotton," be ever so certain, as unworried and unfounded. The President never will, by word or deed, under any circumstances, urged by any threat, abandon the noble, manly, and patriotic position which he has assumed before his country and the world.

It is by operating with what this writer calls the "Bugbear" about the price of cotton, that Duff Green and his coadjutors hope, in the event of a collision with France, to work the destruction of the Union. It may be that it will be tried whether a Hartford Convention can succeed any better at the South than at the North. Calhoun, McDuffie and their followers, are certainly more exasperated against the General Government, than were the Federal leaders in New England during the last war; and there is little room to doubt, so utterly reckless of all that is noble and patriotic has despised ambition rendered them, that they will endeavor to bring this Union, if thereby attached to the Union, to a dissolution with these Southern Whigs, and make common cause with them, we cannot see. It is said that the desperate orator of Kentucky has joined his ancient foe, and that in the event of a rupture with France, the Nullifiers will bring him forward as the "great pacificator," for the next Presidency. The fact that the National Intelligencer, which is in Mr. Clay's confidence, almost alone among the opposition press, assails the message as intemperate and calculated to produce war, seems to confirm the statement.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF WAR.

This document, which we published on Wednesday, is such a paper as might be expected from the pen of Governor Cass. After particularly describing the movements of the army for the past year, and approving the conduct of the officers in all their diversified duties, the Secretary recommends an increase of the corps of Engineers, assigning as a reason that persons in civil life cannot be obtained on advantageous terms, in sufficient numbers to supply the increased demand, caused by the increase of internal improvement, and the proper execution of the Public Works. In speaking of the great "Rail" on Red river, he says, "it has been cleared for a distance of 88 miles, and there yet remains 23 miles of obstructions to remove. The whole cost is estimated at $185,713. By removing this most productive land in the Union will be recovered by confining the water to the bed of the river, and render the stream navigable for some hundreds of miles."

By this report it appears that the great cause of our difficulties with the several Indian tribes is in a fair way of being soon removed by the humane system of transferring them to a place without the limits of the several States. When this great object is accomplished, we may look forward to a more happy destiny for the remaining aborigines of the country. The emigrants are removed at the expense of the United States, who also support them for a period after their arrival in their destined country. The whole document is worthy of a careful perusal.

The Argus, ashamed no doubt, to acknowledge the apostate White as a Whig candidate, says: "The Legislature of Virginia, in Convention, have nominated Hugh L. White, of Tennessee, as a candidate for the Presidency," thus attempting to show that the nomination of Mr. White was an official act of the Legislature, when in fact, it was made by Whig members only, who are in a decided minority in that body. It can now no longer be denied that Judge White is the Whig candidate of the South, for whom the Whig Democrats will no sooner vote than for the Petticoat Hero of North Bend.—The Palladium and Brighton Gazette.

THE RAIL IS ROLLING.—Never has the spirit of Democracy been so aroused and active in Indiana as at the present time. From what we can learn, there is not a single county in the State, where Democratic Van Buren and Johnson meetings have not been held or called; and they are not like the Harrison meetings, attended only by ten or thirty, but by scores and hundreds. Every county in the State will be represented in the 8th of January Convention. The people are up and doing tickets, next year throughout the State, with default. They are tired of voting for no party Whig men, who have so long deceived them. Democracy in its nature is bold and forbearing, but there is a point, at which moderation and forbearance ceases to be democracy, and the people are compelled to rally around the ballot box to maintain their rights. We say go ahead, and the good work will prosper.—Havah Mercury.

From the Elkhon (Md.) Gazette.

Murder!—A most horrible and brutal murder was committed in the neighborhood of a farm in this county on Thursday last. Mr. John Waggoner, a highly respectable citizen, in the 70th year of his age, had occasion to go to his stable after night, for the purpose of transacting some business. His long and created uneasiness in the minds of his family, when upon search being made, he was found, but shocking to relate—a corpse. The murderer had indeed effected his object in the most successful manner. His head was literally severed from the body, being suspended only by the skin.

Kidnaping.—A man named Charles McKee, was brought to trial, during the session of the Court which ended on Thursday last, for kidnaping a negro woman. The facts in evidence, as we have learned by addition, were as follows:—A negro man in collusion with McKee had paid his address to the negro woman in question, and persuaded her to elope with him and go to Pennsylvania, with the promise that he would marry her, and that she would there be free. She was placed in a vehicle with McKee, who then sought her to a tavern near Emmitsburg. McKee giving way to her suspicion that all was not right, she secreted herself, and McKee, upon being questioned, refusing to give his name and making prevaricating answers, was arrested and committed for trial. This resulted in his conviction, upon which he was sentenced to the Penitentiary for five years.—Frederick (Md.) Exam.

From the Baltimore Republican.

MR. HARRIS.—The following interesting occurrence so illustrative of the benevolent character of Colonel Richard M. Johnson, took place on his way from Pittsburgh to Washington.

This honest patriot, and gallant defender of the liberties of his country, on his way in the public stage, from Pittsburgh to Baltimore, accidentally met with a Mr. Bookner, a plain and industrious farmer of Somerset County in Pennsylvania. On their journey, Mr. Bookner stated to his fellow passenger, that he was bound Baltimore in pursuit of his wife and horses; that his family being sick, he had been under the necessity of hiring a wagon, and proceeded on to Baltimore, with a valuable cargo, and that after receiving the freight he alighted, leaving the wagon and horses at the tavern of Mr. Snyder, at the corner of Franklin & Howard streets, in Baltimore, who had kindly given him the information. That he was a poor man with a family dependent upon his personal exertions for support, and had but 86 in his pocket to meet his expenses and to see him to the depot.

Mr. Bookner, who was a native of Pennsylvania, sent a note to Mr. Snyder, informing him that Mr. Bookner's bill did not exceed $25, to draw upon him at Washington for the amount, and he would with pleasure pay it. Judge, Reader, what must have been the feelings of the unfortunate Bookner, when Mr. Snyder communicated to him the joyful tidings, to find himself suddenly relieved from his distressing embarrassment by the generous benevolence of a Stranger. And the eventual history of Col. Johnson's life, abounds in innumerable instances of a similar character. None of our prominent Statesmen are better known as public men, as very few so little personally known to the citizens of Baltimore. Hence the universal anxiety manifested to become acquainted with him, as he passed through Baltimore, and the disappointment of hundreds who were deprived of that pleasure by his limited stay. Hence, also, the anxious expectation indulged in by our citizens that he would be enabled to spend a portion of his Christmas holidays with us. But his constant engagements as Chairman of the Military Committee, compelled him to decline the warm solicitation of many of his political friends. But we are gratified by his assurance, that, some convenient time, before he returns to his favorite West, the Land of his Fathers, he will visit our patriotic city, when all may have the pleasure of shaking him by the hand; and giving him an hearty welcome.

BRETHREN OF THE SAME PRINCIPLE.

Some of Mr. Webster's friends applaud him for being instrumental in getting up the Hartford Convention; others, knowing it will be the political death of our country, as busy as bees in trying to cover up his tracks to that treasonable assemblage.—Connecticut Register.

A MORSER FOR FEDERAL WHIGS.

The Alexandria Gazette, (a fiery White paper) is urging the claims of the Judge to the Presidency, saying:—He is not offered as having receded from his former principles, or changed his views in the least. The only Mr. Van Buren, is he still available, Messrs. Wig—Connecticut Register.

THE SPY.

That pedlar in politics, Matthew L. Davis, Burr's jackal, since his disgrace, has designated biographer—the Bank & Webb's hired letter writer for the panic session, and, since then, the eavesdropper for the Whig Tories of London, to traduce, by his anonymous letters, the character of our country and its institutions, and of the public men who administer the Government, for the benefit of the enemies of liberal principles in England. We can establish the fact conclusively, that this spy and calumniator employed by the so-called Whigs among us, to fill the country with false rumors and scandal, actually receives a stipend from the Tory editor of the Times, at London; and no one who reads the letters from this country to the London print, signed "A Genevieve Traveller," will doubt that he receives it for services similar to those rendered the Tories here.

The Cincinnati Gazette states that a company of fifty-two volunteers were to have left that city on the 29th ult. for the Texas army. They are under the command of Captain Sidney Sherman.

IMPORTANT FROM FRANCE.

By last night's Western mail we received Baltimore papers of Monday, containing a Postscript from New York, headed "arrival of Mr. Barton," though nothing specific is said in relation to him.

A Paris correspondent of the Havre Journal writes that M. Boie Le Compe, an able diplomatist, is about to depart on a mission to the Government of the U. S.

France is making every preparation to meet the contingency of a war. She has levied 1,600 able bodied seamen, and is fitting out her vessels with all possible despatch. London papers say the prevailing opinion is that the amende honora must be made by our Government to France to avoid a war.

Col. Thos. Tennant died in Baltimore on Sunday last.

Twenty-eight individuals were shot at Tampico by the Mexicans on the 14th of December. They were attached to the Texian army, and nearly all citizens of the U. States.

—UP AT LAST!

The old Federal ship—as the opposition print of this town may be styled—has struck her blue light flag, and unfurled "the broad banner of Harrison and Tyler!" The nominal in charge deserves some credit for maintaining his ground until he received his orders from headquarters, though no other recourse was left him, but to "follow suite" though it be a bad play.

WIVES BY ADVERTISEMENT.

Those who are desirous to thrust their heads—never mind their hearts—into the matrimonial noose, now have a "choice" opportunity. No "pig in a poke," but a few scratch at first sight. Where now are the romantic—who are ready to fly to the earth's extremities, taken by the insolent foe, &c.—while sharing the perils of a location in Texas? The Texas Society in Baltimore offer them the opportunity, by advertising for a large number of young ladies, who will commit matrimony and then quit their paternal roof for the scenes of battle strife. They must address through the Post Office, and their application it is stated will be attended to immediately.

The Gazette gives one reason at least for supporting General Harrison for the Presidency: that is, he is "the choice and candidate selected and brought forward by the people." Four out of the five delegates from this county to the late convention are office-holders, and if the other counties were represented accordingly, it is not hard to tell who the people are that make up the Whig party. But there is another reason we can give to help him out: General Harrison in his correspondence with Thaddeus Stevens, the Anti-Masonic Rocius of Pennsylvania, says his prejudices against Masonry were formed as far back as he remembers; and claims the right to assert himself the oldest Anti-Mason in the United States.

It was unnecessary for Genl. Harrison to set his face against the Masonic order, and join in with the traducers of Masons solely no doubt for the purpose of securing his nomination for the Presidency. It shows a movement in the general that he never exhibited in the frontier war; and how certain ones who know the motives and integrity of the Masonic order can excuse him for being the supple instrument of such a faction—for faction it is—we cannot for the life of us tell.

Mr. Clay refused to make himself the tool of those men, and acted with a becoming promptness in his reply to them; but Mr. Webster and Gen. Harrison acquiesce in all their views, giving abundant satisfaction of their hostility to secret associations, hoping thereby to secure a nomination for the Presidency, and gratify their ambitions. The latter has succeeded. The General when interrogated by Thaddeus Stevens answered in good faith, and with sufficient decision to wind them to his purpose.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES.

On motion of Mr. Duckett, Ordered, That the committee on Internal Improvement be, and they are hereby instructed to enquire into the propriety of preparing and reporting to this house, a supplement to the act incorporating the Annapolis and Potomac Canal Company, passed at December session, 1825, chapter 189, which shall provide for the organization of said company, so soon as it shall be determined on the manner prescribed by the act of Congress confirming an act of the Legislature of Maryland, entitled, an act incorporating the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, and an act of the State of Maryland confirming the same, approved 3d day of March, 1834, that the canal thereby authorized to be made can be constructed without injury to the navigation of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, and that said committee report such other amendments to said act as may be necessary for the more efficient organization of the company thereby incorporated.

Mr. Teackle, chairman of the Select committee, delivered the following REPORT:

By the House of Delegates,
January 6th 1836.

Whereas a great number of persons, inhabitants of Somerset and Worcester counties, by their memorial in writing, have represented to the General Assembly, that they are laboring under great inconveniences from the want of a navigation being opened between the said counties, from the head of the "Dividing Creek" to the Pocomoke River, for the transportation of grain, timber, and other productions of the soil and forest, the distance being about twelve miles; and praying an appropriation in aid of opening the said navigation.

The accompanying resolution providing for carrying into effect the work, and making the requisite provisions, was referred to the committee on Internal Improvements.

Mr. Teackle submitted the following preamble and resolution:

By the House of Delegates,
January 6th 1836.

Whereas, the establishment of light houses at Hooper's Island, near the straits in Dorchester county, and at Sharp's Island, in Talbot county, have long been objects of desire to a large number of persons, and whereas, it is believed that the loss of a large amount of property might have been saved to the country, by the timely erection of the lights desired on those islands; And whereas, the necessary enactments for the session of territorial jurisdiction and the condemnation of sites have been passed by the Legislature of this State.—Therefore,

Resolved by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Senators and Representatives of this State, in the Congress of the United States, be requested to use their exertions to procure appropriations for the erection of light houses at such points on Hooper's Island, in Dorchester county, and on Sharp's Island, in Dorchester county, as may be selected by the proper officers of the United States, and report the completion of those erections, to recommend the light vessel now stationed in Hooper's Straits be stationed to some suitable station near the southern extremity of Tangier Island, in the Chesapeake Bay, or to the seven feet Knoll, near the mouth of the Patuxent River;

Further resolved that His Excellency the Governor, be requested to communicate a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolution, to each of the Senators and Representatives of this State, in the Congress of the United States.

Which was read the first time and ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Carroll, of St. Mary's submitted the following resolution.

Resolved by the General Assembly of Maryland, That His Excellency, the Governor, procure a sword with suitable ornaments and devices, and present in the name of his native State, to Capt. John A. Webster, for his gallant defence of the battery committed to his charge, during the memorable attack at the city of Baltimore, September 12th, 1814.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 5th, 1836.

The appointed hour having arrived, the Senate proceeded to the election of the Executive Council. The ballot box was prepared and the ballots deposited therein. It was then sealed up and delivered to Messrs. Groome and Hughes, who had been appointed by the Senate, jointly with a committee from the House of Delegates, to count the ballots and report the result. They retired; and after a time returned and reported that they had found there were 81 votes given in all, of which Gwynn Harris had 64 votes, Nathaniel P. Williams, had 68 votes, William F. Johnson, had 69 votes, John McKenny, had 62 votes and John C. Henry, had 64 votes, and there were 6 blanks.

Whereupon it was declared, that Gwynn Harris, Nathaniel P. Williams, William F. Johnson, John C. Henry, and John McKenny, are severally and duly elected Council to the Governor, for and during the term prescribed by the constitution.

CONGRESSIONAL SYNOPSIS.

SENATE.

TUESDAY, JAN. 5, 1836.

A report was presented from the Department of State with a list of the clerks and salaries.

Mr. Ewing presented a memorial from the citizens of Belmont County, Ohio, praying for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, which on motion of Mr. GRUNDY, was laid on the table.

The bill to authorize the allowance of charges to the American Consul in London was ordered to be engrossed.

A report was made from the Judiciary committee by Mr. Leigh, on the subject of the Smithsonian legacy, accompanied by a joint resolution authorizing the President of the United States, to appoint an agent to receive the money and grant an acquittance. The joint resolution was read a first time and the report ordered to be printed.

Some unimportant bills of a private character were reported and referred.

The following resolution was offered by Mr. Benton and lies on the day for consideration:

Resolved That a select committee of five members be raised to act jointly with any committee raised for similar purposes, by the House of Representatives, to whom shall be referred all the petitions now presented to the Senate for the removal of bank charters in the District of Columbia, with authority to examine into the conduct and condition of said banks, and for that purpose to have authority to send for persons and papers, to inspect books, to examine witnesses on oath; also to examine into the condition of the currency in the District of Columbia, and the means of improving it, and approximating it to the currency of the Constitution; also to inquire into the necessity of any, for banks of circulation in the District of Columbia, in contradistinction to banks of discount and deposit and for dealing in bullion and exchange, and inquire how far banks of any kind are wanted for the use of the Federal Government in this district, and wherefore the Treasury of the United States may not act as keeper and payer of the public moneys within the District of Columbia, and drawer of checks, and drafts in favor of those who claim to receive their money elsewhere; the said committee to have power to employ a clerk and to report by bill or otherwise.

The following resolution was offered by Mr. CALHOUN, considered, and agreed to.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to report to the Senate, before the third Monday of the present month, the amount of the revenue from all sources during the year ending on the 31st December last, as far as returns have been received, with an estimate of the amount to be received.

The following resolution was offered by Mr. EWING, considered and agreed to.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to inform the Senate what has been the whole cost attending the purchase and arrangements of the Public Lands up to the first of January, 1836, designating the amount of each of the various heads of expenditures. Also, that he inform the Senate what amount of land has been surveyed and offered for sale in each of the States or Territories the amount which has been sold in each, and the net proceeds of such sales to the said first day of January, 1836.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

January 5.

Reports were received by unanimous consent from the standing committees.

Mr. CAMBRELENG, from the committee on Ways and Means, reported the following bills.

A bill making appropriations to suppress the hostilities of the Seminole Indians, and

A bill making appropriations for the current expenses of the Indian Department for Indian annuities and other similar objects for the year 1836.

Mr. CAMBRELENG, from the same committee, reported a substitute for the second section of the bill for the relief of sufferers by the fire in New York, and gave notice that he should call it up to-morrow. He stated that the amendment met the approbation of the committee of the sufferers. It does away with the proposition to transfer a part of the public funds to banks in New York and proposes an extension of time on bonds given for duties.

Mr. CASEY, from the committee on public lands, reported a bill to graduate the price of public lands, to make provision for actual settlers and cede the refuse lands to the States in which they lie.

Three thousand copies of the bill and report were ordered to be printed.

Mr. THOMPSON, from the committee on military affairs, reported a bill to compromise the claims of the United States to Pea Patch Island.

All the above bills were twice read and committed.

Many private bills were reported.

Mr. BEARDSLEY asked leave to present a memorial from the Senate and House of Representatives of Michigan respecting the Boundary question, but leave was refused.

The subject before the House yesterday, when the House adjourned, viz. Mr. Adams' appeal, was taken up and postponed till Tuesday next, and the House proceeded to receive petitions and memorials.

A FREE NEGRO SETTLEMENT IN OHIO.

Some forty miles from Cincinnati, to its east, are two settlements of free negroes—probably near a thousand—men, women, and children, of the truest and best, with a very little mixture of the mahogany or lighter shades. The negroes own lands occupied by them, but without the power to sell. Each family has a small farm. They are emancipated slaves, and were collected out among them about fifteen years ago. Their lands are not of the best quality of Ohio lands, but, by good management could be made very good—they are particularly well adapted to grass, either meadow or pasture.

Having been formerly slaves and compelled to work, one would suppose they ought to have industrious habits. They have had every inducement to industry and good conduct, held out to them. The experiment was to test the merits of the negro race under the most favorable circumstances for success.

Has this experiment succeeded? No, it has not. In all Ohio, can any white settlement be found equally wretched, equally unproductive?

Farms given to them fifteen years ago, instead of being well improved, and timber preserved for farming having been badly managed—small awkward clearings, and these not in grass, but exhausted and worn out in corn crops—the timber greatly destroyed—wrecked of log houses, with mud floors, with chimneys of mud and wood—with little timber for fuel for farming.

They are so excessively lazy and stupid, that the people of Georgetown (near by their "camps") and the neighboring farmers will not employ them, as work hands to any extent. They do not raise produce enough on their lands to feed their families, much less do they have a surplus for sale abroad. They pass most of their time in their little smoke cabins, too listless even to fiddle and dance.—One may ride through the "negro camps," as they are called, passing a dozen straggling cabins with smoke issuing out of the ends, in the middle of little clearings without seeing a soul, either at work or play. The fear of starvation makes them work the least possible quantity, while they are much too lazy to play.

Why do not the zealous abolitionists go there and see the experiment in all its beauty? The slave changed into a free, but wretched savage! Why not make something of these three thousand negroes? There are not more than two or three families out of the whole who are improved by the change from slavery to freedom.

The two negro settlements are a dead weight upon Brown county, as to any productive benefit from the negro lands; or from negro labor (and that specie of country might as well, to this day, have remained in possession of the Indians).

If northern wealth can be applied to buy and colonize among us such a worthless population, what farmer in Ohio is safe? Has he any guarantee that a black colony will not be established in his neighborhood?

Let any one who wishes to learn the operations of emancipated negroes, visit the Brown county camps. As they sink in laziness, poverty and filth, they increase in numbers—only produce is children. They want nothing but cowards to make them equal to the negroes of the Niger.—[Chicinet's Gazette.]

A French paper relates that when the Emperor Nicholas of Russia recently passed through Prague, Charles X. sent a member of his household to pay him his respects. Nicholas persisted during the interview in calling the Duke of Bordeaux, Henry the fifth.

The ribbands now fashionable in Paris, are of Arabesque, Mosaic, and Zebra pattern, and are employed in trimming dresses. Among the novelties of fashion, are cloaks with wide sleeves and no capes.

Collars are worn of rich needle work edged with lace.

COLLECTOR'S NOTICE.
THE subscriber desirous of closing his collection of the County Tax for the year 1834, by the time specified by law, earnestly requests all those indebted for the same to come forward and settle with the subscriber or his Deputy on or before the 10th day of February next; as all those that do not settle by the time specified may expect the letter of the law enforced against them without respect to persons, as my duty as an officer will compel me to this course. All those in arrears to the County Tax for 1834, are requested to settle them without delay, as further indulgence cannot be given. Persons holding property in the county and residing out of it will please attend to this notice.
The public's obedient servant,
JNO. HARRINGTON, Collector of Talbot County.

CLOCK & WATCH MAKING.
THE subscriber begs leave to inform his customers and the public generally, that he has just returned from Baltimore, with well selected assortment of MATERIALS
in his line of business, which added to his former stock, renders his assortment general and complete, all of which will be manufactured at the shortest notice and on the most pleasing terms. The subscriber flatters himself from his experience in his line of business, and his personal attention to the same, that he will be able to give general satisfaction to those who may see proper to give him a trial. He has also on hand
New Watches, Watch Chains, Sails and Keys, Watch Gears, Silver Thimbles, Silver Ever Pointed Pencils, Silver Scissor-hooks, Silver Shields, Plain Gold Rings, Razors, & Razor Straps, Shaving and Tooth Brushes, Penknives, Scissors, Percussion Caps, and a variety of other useful articles, all of which he offers at a small advance for cash. He invites his customers and the public in general, to give him a call, view his assortment, and he thinks there is no doubt but they will be induced to purchase.
The subscriber returns his thanks to his customers and the public generally, for the very liberal encouragement he has received at their hands, and still hopes by strict and personal attention to business to receive a portion of the public patronage.
The public's humble servant,
JAMES BENNY.

SHARP'S ISLAND, For Sale.
THIS beautiful estate, situate at the mouth of the Choptank river, is now offered for sale, on the most moderate terms. In the deed to the late Jacob Gibson Esq. it is stated to contain six hundred and twenty one acres of land—But should any loss be ascertained to have accrued by washing, &c. for a survey of the present proprietor will make a proportionate abatement from the purchase money. This estate is offered at the very reduced price of $5000, one third of which sum is to be paid in cash, and the remaining two thirds, in one, two and three years; the purchaser giving Bond or Bonds with approved security for the payment of the same. For further particulars inquire of Joseph W. Reynolds, Esq. near Lower Marlborough, Calvert county, or of the subscriber at Easton, Talbot county.

PROSPECTUS OF THE CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE.
The success of the experiment we have made to furnish a succinct history of the proceedings of Congress, from day to day, with sketches of the Debates, induces the undersigned to persevere in their plan to extend and perfect it. They have resolved that the Congressional Globe shall not only embody the parliamentary acts of the country, but shall also furnish an abridgement, which will contain the finished speech of the prominent speakers, on the most important subjects, written out by the members themselves, as from the notes and printed sketches of the Reporters.
The Congressional Globe, with an Index, will be published weekly, upon double paper, in octavo form, as heretofore, at one dollar for the session. It may be subscribed for separately. The appendix of finished speeches will, also, be published for one dollar.
It is probable that the next session of Congress will continue nearly seven months; if so, the work will contain between four and five hundred pages, and will be the cheapest publication of the kind in the world.
The next session of Congress will probably be the most eventful one which has occurred for many years, and will certainly be replete with interest, as its course will have great influence in fixing the destiny of the Republic for years to come. Immediately preceding, as it does, the next Presidential election, and containing the leading minds of all the contending parties in the country, deep and abiding interest will attend the debates. The whole drama will be faithfully exhibited in the Congressional Globe and the Appendix.
We have already provided for our reporting corps, eminent ability and skill in one branch of Congress, and we expect to obtain an adequate reinforcement of capable persons in the other, by the time it meets, to fulfil our own wishes and the expectations of the Members.
No pains or cost on our part will be spared to accomplish it. As the work will be continued regularly, and its made permanent, authentic, and therefore highly useful, all who take an interest in the political affairs of the country will do well to begin their subscription with the next session.
TERMS.
Eng. Globe—1 copy during the Session, $1 00
Do. do. 12 copies during the Session, $10 00
Appendix—Same price.
Payment may be made by mail, postage paid, at our risk. The notes of any appreciating Bank will be received.
No attention will be paid to any order, unless the money accompany it, or unless some responsible person, known to us to be so, shall agree to pay it before the Session expires.

Carey's Library OF CHOICE LITERATURE.
To say that this is a reading age, implies a desire for instruction, and the means to gratify that desire. On the first point, all are agreed; on the second, there is diversity both of opinion and of practice. We have newspapers, magazines, reviews, in fine, pamphlets of all sizes, on nearly all subjects, which have severely their classes of readers and their supporters. And yet, conscious as we are, that the mass of intellectual property, more or less useful, is in addition to the reviews of the day, and passing religious books, the people, in large numbers, in all parts of our great republic, craves the possession of the books themselves, and details beyond mere passing allusion, of the progress of discovery in art and science. But though it be easy to ascertain and express their wants, it is not so easy to gratify them. Expense, distance from the emporium of literature, engrossing occupations which prevent personal application or even messages to libraries and booksellers, are so many causes to keep people away from the least of reason, and the enjoyment of the coveted literary aliment. It is the aim of the publishers of the Library to obviate these difficulties, and enable every individual, at a small cost and without any personal effort, to obtain for his own use and that of his favored friends or family, valuable works complete, on all the branches of secular and popular literature, and that in a form well adapted to the comfort of the reader.
The charm of variety, as far as it is compatible with morality and good taste, will be held instantly in view in conducting the Library, to fill the pages of which the current literature of Great Britain, in all its various departments of Biography, History, Travels, Novels and Poetry, shall be freely put under contribution. With per chance, occasional exceptions, it is intended to give entire the work which shall be selected for publication. When circumstances contraindicate the necessary recourse will be had to the literary stores of Continental Europe, and translations made from French, Italian, or German, as the case may be.
Whilst the body of the work will be a reprint, or at times a translation, of entire volumes, the cover, will exhibit the miscellaneous character of a Magazine, and consist of sketches of men and things, and notices of novelties in literature and the arts, throughout the civilized world. A full and regular supply of the literary monthly and bi-monthly journals of Great Britain and Ireland, in addition to home periodicals of a similar character cannot fail to provide ample materials for its part of our work.
The resources and extensive correspondence of the publishers, are the best guarantee for the continuance of the enterprise in which they are now about to embark, as well as for the abundance of the materials to give it value in the eyes of the public. As for judicious selections and arrangement are concerned, readers will, it is hoped, have reason to be fully satisfied, as the editor of the Library is not a stranger to them, but has more than once obtained their favourable suffrages for his past literary efforts.
TERMS.
The work will be published in weekly numbers, containing twenty imperial octavo pages, with double columns, making two volumes annually, 6: more than 220 octavo pages, each volume, and at the expiration of every six months, subscribers will be furnished with a handsome title page and table of contents.
The whole amount of matter furnished in a single year will be equal to more than forty volumes of the common sized English duodecimo books; the cost of which will not be less than ten times the price of a year's subscription to the "Library." The paper upon which the Library will be printed, will be of the finest quality used for book-work, and of a size admirably adapted for binding. As the type will be entirely new, and of a neat appearance, each volume, when bound, will furnish a handsome as well as valuable, and not cumbersome addition to the libraries of those who procure the work.
The price of the Library will be five dollars per annum payable advance.
A commission of 20 per cent, will be allowed to agent, and any agent or pretensor, furnishing five subscribers and remitting the amount is subscription shall be entitled to the commission of 20 per cent or a copy of the work for his year.
On a specimen of the work, or any information respecting it may be obtained by addressing the publishers post paid. Address, E. L. CAREY & A. HART, Philad'a.

THE SALMAGUNDI, AND NEWS OF THE DAY.
EMBELLISHED WITH A MULTITUDE OF COMIC ENGRAVINGS.
A new periodical, of a novel character, bearing the above appellation, will be commenced on the beginning of January, 1836. While it will furnish its patrons with the leading features of the news of the day, its principal objects will be to serve as a humorous compilation of the numerous lively and pungent allusions which are daily dealing about the life of literature, and which, for the want of a proper channel for their preservation, are positively lost to the reading world. Original wit and humorists of our time will here have a medium devoted to the faithful record of the scintillations of their genius. It is not necessary to detail the many attractions which this journal will possess, as the publisher will furnish a specimen number to every person who desires it.—(Those out of the city will forward their orders, postage paid.)—and pledges himself that no exertions on his part shall be wanting to make each succeeding number superior in every respect to the preceding ones.
The SALMAGUNDI will be printed on large imperial paper, equal in size and quality to that which is at present used for the Gentlemen's Vade Mecum. It is calculated that more than
will be furnished to the patrons of this Journal in one year—these, in addition to an extensive and choice selection of Satire, Criticism, Humor and Wit, to be circulated through its columns, will form a Literary Banquet of a superior and attractive order; and the publisher relies with perfect confidence on the liberality of the American public, and the spirit and tact with which this expensive undertaking will be prosecuted, to bear him successfully and profitably along with it.
The terms of the Salmagundi will be two dollars per annum, payable invariably in advance. No paper will be furnished unless this stipulation is strictly adhered to.
Clubs of three will be supplied with the paper for one year, by forwarding a five dollar note, postage paid. Clubs of seven will be supplied for the same term, by forwarding a ten dollar note. The papers that are sent out of the city will be carefully packed in strong envelopes, to prevent their rubbing in the mail.
The SALMAGUNDI will be published on alternate weeks—otherwise it would be impossible to procure the numerous embellishments which each number will contain—and the general interest it will afford must be enhanced by this arrangement.
All orders must come postage paid.
Address, CHARLES ALEXANDER, Athenian Buildings, Franklin Place, Philadelphia.

NEW-ARK COLLEGE.
THE Trustees of New-ark College are gratified in being able to announce to the public that the duties of the Institution were resumed at the collegiate year with the most flattering prospects. The Rev. Dr. Richard S. Mason of New York, the President elect, a gentleman of high standing for his intellectual qualifications and literary attainments, has accepted the office, and entered upon its duties. The Rev. T. H. Simpson, of Marietta, Pennsylvania, who was elected Professor of Languages and who is an experienced teacher and eminently qualified for the station, has also accepted, and entered upon the duties of his office. And the Rev. W. H. Mann of New York, who has been highly recommended as a gentleman of eminent standing in his profession, has been lately unanimously elected Professor of Mathematics in the collegiate department, and accepted of the office. Mr. N. Z. Graves who has been adjunct Professor of Mathematics and principal of the Academi-cal department, since the organization of the Institution still continues in that connection, and is deservedly esteemed both as a Professor and as a gentleman.
The requisite number of Tutors have also been appointed—so that there is now an efficient faculty. And the testimonials in favor of these gentlemen who have accepted and entered upon the duties of their offices, are such as entitle them to the entire confidence of the Board. A Steward of high reputation, has also been appointed who has entered upon the duties of his station and given entire satisfaction. The Trustees are determined to do all in their power to place the college on the most respectable footing.
The rigorous measures, which they have already adopted, the unanimity and harmony, which now prevail in the Board, and the selection of President and Professors as above announced; it is confidently hoped, will soon cause the Institution to attain a high standing as well as merit, and receive a liberal patronage from an enlightened community.
By order of the Board,
THOMAS CLAYTON,
President of the Board of Trustees.
ANDREW C. GRAY, Secy.
The Editors of the Baltimore Republican, Washington Globe, Eastern Whig & Advocate, Cambridge Chronicle, and New Castle Gazette, are requested to insert the above two months, three times a week—each weekly and weekly, and send their bills to this office.

THE ACADEMY AT EASTON
NOTICE is hereby given, that the Trustees of this Academy have appointed James Shanley, Esq. to succeed John Neely, Esq. as principal teacher in the classical department of the seminary, and that the school will be opened on Monday next, for the reception of pupils. Mr. Shanley is highly recommended as an accomplished teacher, by respectable gentlemen who have been his pupils and instructed by him. He has great experience as a teacher of youth, having taught many years in the City of Baltimore, and in Cambridge at the head of the Academy there, with reputation. The Trustees flatter themselves, that Mr. Shanley will give full satisfaction to those who think proper to place pupils under his charge.
THOS. L. BULLITT, President.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT
TO ALL PERSONS AFFLICTED.

A Certain Cure for Dyspepsia, Liver, Billions, and Nervous Complaints; Jaundice, General Debility, Lowness of Spirits; and Diseases incident to Females:
DR. LOCKWARD'S
Celebrated Vegetable
Anti-Dyspeptic Elixir.

Symptoms of Dyspepsia.
The first symptoms of this disease is a dis-
tressment of food, producing pain and uneasiness at the region of the stomach; fullness of that organ; belching of wind, with sour, oily, or putrescent eructations; pain and tenderness at the pit of the stomach; pain in the right side, extending after to the right shoulder, and under the shoulder-blade; the same kind of pain is very often experienced in the left side, extending after to the left shoulder, and under the shoulder-blade; the same kind of pain is also often in the small of the back, and in the region of the head; dizziness of the sight; coated tongue; disagreeable taste in the mouth in the morning after arising; coldness of the feet; and a general purgation, by which all food humors are removed from the system; at the same time it restores the lost tone of the stomach and bowels, opens obstructions of the Liver, Spleen and Pancreas, and will be found singularly efficacious in diseases of the Kidneys. As a family medicine none will be found cheaper or to answer a better purpose, and being composed entirely of vegetable matter it is perfectly innocent, which renders it very valuable.

As a certain remedy or cure for the above diseases this medicine stands incomparably beyond any other now in use. And as nothing more could be requisite to convince the medical mind of its utility, than the numberless testimonials which have been given in its favor, therefore, these testimonials will speak for it more than all encomiums which could be pronounced. Wherever it has been used, it has invariably been attended with complete success, and that too, in hundreds of cases, where apparently all hopes of cure have been despaired of. It was by this important discovery that the proprietor of the above Medicine, was in a few months, restored to perfect health; after years of the most lingering suffering, and after being abandoned by the physicians to the without any hope of relief. Since which, hundreds, and thousands, have in a like manner been restored from beds of sickness to perfect health.

DR. LOCKWARD.—Sir I have made use of your valuable Medicine for the Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints, both of which diseases I have labored under for about three years—I have tried a great many medicines, but all to no effect—I was induced to give yours a trial, and much to my satisfaction. I feel that of my friends, I was a short space of time completely relieved of my disease. My symptoms, when I first commenced using your medicine, were, a fullness of the stomach, with heartburn, sourness and vomiting of food; great tenderness at the pit of the stomach, accompanied with an acute pain in the right side, extending to the top of the shoulder, connected with this pain was a prominent enlargement in my right side, pronounced by my physician "an enlargement of the liver." My appetite was variable, sometimes good, at others a complete loss—bowels obstinately constipated. My head very much affected with dizziness and pain; my eye-sight was also affected with dimness; I was also much emaciated in flesh, and suffered extremely from nervous feelings; sometimes I imagined that a few hours would close my existence; I was disposed to feel constantly cold (especially my feet and hands); in the warmest days in summer. Thus I suffered until life was to me almost a burden, when, hearing of your medicine I was prevailed upon to make use of it; and contrary to my expectation and the expectation of my friends, I was in a few months restored to perfect health, which I still continue to enjoy. Any person desirous of knowing the particulars of my case, by calling upon me, in the Bazaar, Harrison street, I will give the details both as to disease and cure.

Yours, with respect,
JACOB D. HAIR.
The following is to the standing of the above named gentleman, is from his Honor James Hunt, late Mayor of Baltimore:
"I hereby certify that Jacob D. Hair, is personally known to me as a gentleman of first respectability and standing in the City of Baltimore."

SIXTH YEAR OF THE
THE LADY'S BOOK.
A MONTHLY MAGAZINE
OF LITERATURE, FASHIONS AND PORTRAITS.

The LADY'S BOOK was the first publication in this country to introduce and perfect a taste for COLORED PLATES OF THE FASHIONS; and the universal popularity which the book obtained, with the aid of these beautiful and costly embellishments, although they appeared every quarter only, was unprecedented and unexampled.—The publisher, emboldened by his long experience, and the success which has crowned his former efforts to signalize his work, intends, with the coming volume, to introduce alternately every month, in the course of the year, SIX SPLENDID PLATES OF THE FASHIONS, SUPERBLY COLOURED. The engravings will be copied from original designs, prepared expressly for that purpose; thereby furnishing the patrons of the work with correct and constant information of the latest and most approved styles for ladies' dresses, as they come out. This arrangement will add considerably to the publisher's present heavy outlay; and while it will materially advance the value and beauty of his work, he trusts with confidence to the liberality of a discerning public for future remuneration, corresponding with his exertions and unremitting efforts to keep pace with the rapid progress of the improvements of the age. The following is the order which will be adopted for the Embellishments of the Lady's Book for 1835, viz: January, March, May, July, September, November, SUPERB ENGRAVINGS.

PREVAILING FASHIONS
ELEGANTLY COLOURED.
With the June and December numbers will be furnished appropriately ENGRAVED TITLE PAGES, and a general Table of Contents for each Volume. February, April, June, August, October, December, FINE STEEL ENGRAVINGS.

Illustrating a variety of Interesting Subjects.
Besides every number will be enriched with a Plate from the PORTRAIT GALLERY, containing the Likenesses of two distinguished individuals. In addition to which, other and various Engravings will be regularly added—with two Pages of POPULAR MUSIC.

The publisher has at present in the hands of an excellent artist a steel Engraving, which will contain a likeness of one of the present reigning Queens of Europe, which will be given as an extra in the January No.

To meet these expensive engagements, it is absolutely necessary that remittances should be promptly made. At the end of the last six months, nearly six hundred names were sent from our list, in consequence of its appearing from the books that each owed two years' subscription. Many have since paid, and some had previously settled with agents. These and other grievous inconveniences a publisher has to encounter, which should, as far as the Agent is concerned, be remedied by his rendering an account of all the sums that he has received, at least once every six months. Subscribers become annoyed when their names are erased for delinquency, & when they settle, they will not again renew their subscription. This, consequently, is a serious loss to the proprietor. The following suggestions are respectfully tendered for the consideration of persons who are now in arrears: Let those who owe two years, or that will owe two in December or June next, send a Five Dollar note, on account. Many refrain from forwarding their dues because they cannot remit the exact sum; this is not necessary, if they continue their subscription. It is only when a person stops the work, that liquidation of the whole amount due becomes necessary.

GALLERY OF PORTRAITS.—Under this head will be published every month, likenesses of distinguished Authors in this country and in Europe. Striking resemblances of Bulwer, Brougham, Hogg, Cunningham, &c. &c. have been given, and the following are now ready for press, and will be published two in each number until the whole is completed: Shelley, Lewis, Moore, Coleridge, Rodgers, D'Israeli, Neale, Mad. de Staël, Jane Porter, Campbell, Roscoe, Southey, &c. Facsimiles of the writing of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams, Byron, Scott, and other distinguished persons, have already appeared. Those of Napoleon, Franklin, La Fayette, &c. &c. are in preparation. The publication of views of beautiful scenery and remarkable public edifices, will be continued as heretofore.

Every number of the work contains forty-eight large octavo pages, printed on fine white paper, the whole neatly stitched in covers. The postage for each number is 3 cents for any distance under 100 miles—5 cents, over.
To convince persons wishing to subscribe for the Lady's Book, that it is equal in point of embellishments, the interest of its contents, and general beauty of appearance, to the descriptions repeatedly given at large, and the flattering notices that have been made of it by editors in different sections of the Union, the publisher will forward any number, by mail, as a specimen, by sending him a letter, post paid.

The work will in future be published and delivered on the first of each month, in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore, and Charleston.—In New Orleans about the 15th.
Subscribers missing a number, will please inform the publisher, free of postage, and a duplicate will be sent them.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. 3 dollars per annum, payable in advance. Postmasters and Agents can have two copies forwarded to any direction, by advancing five dollars.
Address L. A. GODEY, Philadelphia.

OF USEFUL
AND ENTERTAINING KNOWLEDGE.
VOL. II.

Published by the Boston Bewick Company—
No. 47, Court Street.

The Publishers are encouraged by the flattering reception and extensive circulation of the Magazine for the year past, to prosecute the work with renewed assiduity, and with a constant desire to fulfil the promises made in the outset of the work. We intend "to stick to our text," and to serve those who have so liberally cheered us with their kind patronage, with what is useful and pleasant, with a due share of the object and aim of the Magazine. We do not presume to instruct the veteran and erudite scholar, who has spent thirty or forty years in his study; nor to lay open those hidden mysteries of nature which have escaped the ken of the most inquisitive. Nor do we expect to approach as near to the moon or other planets, as to tell what are the trees, the birds, and animals which may there grow or live and move. We leave such extraordinary feats to those who are more visionary, or more daring than we are. But we have an intent to keep up the character and spirit of the Magazine, in presenting solid and useful articles, which may be instructive to a portion of our readers, and not considered wholly unimportant to literary men. We consider the whole United States as our field, though not our's exclusively; and we seek the favour of persons of taste and science, to communicate important facts, and natural scenes, and works of art, for the benefit of all our friends. As republicans, we feel that we are of the same family as those in the south and west—as friends of improvement, of good morals and good learning, we wish also to be considered of the same family. If we can do any thing by our labours to increase and strengthen the sentiment and feeling, "we should be ready to the good work."

We should call the attention of our present subscribers to the terms of the magazine, and to the notice in the last number relating to the subject. It is very important to us to know who propose to continue taking the Magazine, and to receive the very small sum, charged for it in advance.

PROSPECTUS
"THE BATHING AND ATHLETIC JOURNAL."
YOUNG MEN'S PAPER.
Published under the auspices of the Baltimore Young Men's Society.

The publishers of the "Young Men's Paper," encouraged by the liberal patronage extended towards them during the first year, have determined to enlarge and greatly improve their paper on the commencement of the second volume, so as to render it every way creditable to the city, and worthy of much more extensive circulation.
It is established was considered, even by the best friends, as but a doubtful experiment; and though all approved of the high stand that was taken, but few thought it would live over the first few months, or else that it would dwindle into a publication less dignified in character, and designed merely for a money making scheme,—from this cause many stood aloof, unwilling to encourage what was believed would soon languish and die, or deviate in course from its original professions; these fears have, however, been indulged in vain, and the "Young Men's Paper" is now in the way of permanent establishment.

The publishers have been induced to adopt the new title of "BATHING AND ATHLETIC JOURNAL," in consideration of its being less vague in designation than the old one. Every person has a peculiar idea of his own, as to what a "Young Men's Paper" should be, and the publishers have experienced enough of the little perplexities incident to the peculiarities of the name, to determine them to fix upon one less liable to so many objections. The publication is purely literary, and only as such do they wish it to be judged.

CONTENTS.—The "ATHLETIC" will contain Original Tales, Essays and Poetry.—Intelligence on Scientific Subjects.—Notions of Fencing, Events.—Critiques on American Works.—Notions of New Publications.—Choice Selections from New Works.—Sketches of American and European Scenery and Character.—Extracts from British and American Magazines.—Essays on Political and Moral Philosophy.—Biographical Notices of Distinguished Individuals at home and abroad.—besides a great variety of matter upon every subject in the whole range of literature.

The publishers will still adhere to their original intention of making the "ATHLETIC" such a paper, as shall be worthy of admission into any circle of society; rigidly excluding every thing from its columns calculated to injure the moral character, or foster a vitiated taste, nor in doing this will they render the publication tame or spiritless, and as a guarantee will simply refer to the contents of the first volume.

The second volume will commence about the middle of November.
The "ATHLETIC" will be printed on a fine quarto superroyal sheet, and will make a handsome volume of 416 pages, for which a title page and copious index will be furnished.

TERMS.—2.50 per annum, payable in all cases in advance.
Office of publication N. E. corner of Baltimore and Sharp streets.
—Papers with which we exchange will please copy the above.

THE GENTLEMAN'S VADE MECUM.

OR THE
Sporting and Dramatic Companion,
A WEEKLY REPOSITORY OF
Dramatic Literature, Sporting, the Turf,
Fashions, Grazing, Agriculture, and Various subjects of Interest and Amusement.

INTERSPERSED WITH A MULTITUDE OF Appropriate Engravings,
INCLUDING
Portraits of Celebrated Winning
HORSES,

Philosophical and Natural Phenomena.
LEGERDEMAIN, & C.

THIS popular journal, although but a few months have passed since it was commenced, has already obtained an extensive and profitable subscription list, which is daily increasing, and affords ample encouragement to the publishers to persevere in their efforts to the reader it useful, amusing, and instructive.
On the commencement of the approaching year, the VADE MECUM will undergo several important improvements.—Instead of four pages, it will be increased to EIGHT of nearly the present size, and consequently, will contain almost double the quantity of reading matter which is now given.—Making it one of the largest and neatest quarto's ever printed in the United States. It will be printed on new type, and fine white paper, and the embellishments will be considerably multiplied, and of a superior order. Persons desirous of procuring the work at the beginning of the new volume, will please send their orders at once—as they may fail to be supplied, as but few copies will be published more than are actually subscribed for at the time.

The subjects which are particularly embraced in this work will be more distinctly understood from the following brief analysis of them.
The Drama forms a material portion of the Gentleman's Vade Mecum—every week an entire Play or Farce is given. They are selected with a single eye to their merits alone; a preference, however, will be extended in all cases to native productions when they can be obtained. Independent criticisms, carefully excluding all invidious comparisons, and recommended by their brevity, are occasionally inserted; as also, Biographical Sketches, Anecdotes, and Bon Mots of prominent Comedians of the present and past ages, of which a new and inexhaustible compilation is in store. The publisher, by the liberality of the managers of the two Philadelphia Theatres, and several other gentlemen connected with the stage, has obtained a very excellent and valuable selection of Plays and Farces for the Vade Mecum; many of them have never appeared in print.
THE TURF.
A faithful record is kept of all the Running and Trotting Matches in this country and England. Biographies and correct portraits of celebrated thorough-bred Horses are published once a month. Every fact relative to the breeding, management, keeping, and the diseases of this invaluable animal is particularly attended to.
THE SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.
At home and abroad occupies a considerable portion of our columns, and is collected from the most authentic sources.
Among the Portraits of celebrated Winning Horses which have been given, are—
The American Trotting Horse, Edwin For rest.
The Imported Racing Horse Messenger.
The American Trotting Horse, Lady Jackson.
The Racing Mare, Ariel, and her foal by Eclipse.
The true blooded popular Horse, Chateau Margaux.
The American Trotting Horse, Top Galant.
The well known English Race Horse, Touchstone.
Mundig, the winner of the Derby stakes in June, 1835.
The unrivalled American Trotter Andrew Jackson.
The celebrated English Horse, Glencoe.
A complete treatise, on Riding, with four-fold illustrations for improvement of Ladies in that best quality of all exercises.
Explanation of the Automaton Chess Player, illustrated by eleven engravings.
Four engravings, designed to represent the scene which took place in Paris, in July last, on the attempted destruction of the Royal Family of France, with a view of the Infernal Machine, and a likeness of the Assassin, Gerard.
A correct Picture of a Race Course, occupying the width of seven columns.

Beside other matters belonging to this head there will be published correct accounts of Shooting Matches, Pedestrian Feats, Gymnastic Exercises, Aquatic Excursions, Fishing, Gaming, &c. with anecdotes of noted Dogs.

MILITARY UNIFORMS.

The publisher has employed the assistance of an excellent artist to furnish a regular series of Engravings of the different beautiful uniforms worn by the principal Volunteer Corps of Philadelphia, New York, Boston Baltimore and other cities, which will be published periodically, with a particular description of each, furnished by a competent hand. This subject forms a peculiar attraction to the general interest of the work.

GENTLEMEN'S FASHIONS.

A quarterly review is made out by a gentleman connected, with a fashionable house in Philadelphia, explanatory of the various improvements and changes which costumes worn in the dress circles consequently undergo; by which it will be rendered an easy task for drapers and tailors, at a distance, to suit their customers with the most approved colors and modern style of apparel at the earliest possible period.

MISCELLANY.

Although the purposes of our sheet may appear to be confined to the several leading subjects which have been stated, we deem it proper to say, that there constantly is, in addition to these, a considerable space allowed for miscellaneous matter, such as Tales, Poetry, Anecdotes, Legerdemain, an Epitome of News, notices of Amusement, Statistics, Agriculture, Domestic Economy, Valuable Receipts, &c. Also, a republication of the best and most popular of the old English and American Sporting and National Songs, set to music; besides many other matters, regardless which an interest is supposed to exist.

By the above explanation, it will be seen that the Gentleman's Vade Mecum is particularly designed as a companion for the patrons of the Turf; the Drama, Sporting, the Fashions, &c. It is worthy of notice, that its patrons in the course of one year, will be furnished with from fifty-five to fifty popular Plays or Farces—the price of which, separately, at one of our bookstores, would be at least thirteen dollars! Here, then, is an absolute saving of ten dollars in the purchase of a well-stored Dramatic Library—to be had for an unrecouped small sum! without taking into consideration the multiplied variety which is sent along with it, free of additional charge.

The Gentleman's Vade Mecum or the Sporting and Dramatic Companion, is published every Saturday, on fine extra imperial quarto paper, of a superior quality each number forming eight pages of the largest class, at $3 per annum. Orders from abroad, postage paid, will be promptly attended to, and the paper carefully packed, to prevent it from rubbing by mail. As the number of agents will be limited to principle cities, or such other places where a considerable subscription may be obtained, we request those who propose to patronize the work, to transmit by mail at once to the publisher. Small notes of solvent banks of the different States, taken at par. By enclosing a Five Dollar Note, two copies of the paper will be forwarded to any direction ordered, for one year. Specimen numbers will be sent to any part of the Union, by addressing the publisher, postage paid.
THE MODERN

Acting Drama,

Has hitherto been issued in volumes of about 300 pages each—containing the PLAYS, FARCES, &c. which appear in the Vade Mecum, neatly printed, and bound in elastic covers, for transportation—and published every six weeks.—Eight volumes constitute a set or one year's subscription, the terms of which is 3 dollars, payable in advance.—Subscribers to the Vade Mecum are entitled to a deduction of one third, when subscribing for the Modern Acting Drama. An order for four sets will be thankfully received and the work forwarded to any directions, by enclosing a ten dollar note, postage paid. Gentlemen desirous of securing a set of this work, will please to forward their names immediately—the edition, which was a small one, is going off rapidly, and it cannot be re-published at the same price.

This work will undergo a material improvement on the commencement of a new series in January, 1836. It is intended to be published Every Month, or as near the beginning as possible, each No. to consist of 48 pages of fine letter press printing and 12 numbers to constitute a volume of 576 pages. Every Play or Farce which will be published, is to be accompanied by a beautiful and appropriate Engraving—making in the course of the year nearly Fifty Embellishments—to which will be added as a Frontispiece a full sized steel Engraving, containing the likenesses of six Distinguished Actors and Actresses. No alterations will be made from the present terms. Every person who desires to preserve an invaluable collection of the best Dramatic Authors should forward his name forthwith, as the edition will be limited to the number which is absolutely subscribed for. The publishers hereby pledge themselves to make this work unequal in interest and superiority of execution to its prospectus, or he will refund the price of subscription, free of all charges. No subscription received unless the terms are complied with. No work of this kind has ever been attempted in the United States, and none is more likely to prove popular and salacious.

Any person collecting four subscribers to the Gentleman's Vade Mecum, or the Modern Acting Drama, and remitting the amount of one year's subscription, ($35) for each—shall be presented with the Novelist Magazine, in two volumes a work of considerable popularity, and which is now selling for $5—it contains the productions of eight different authors well known to the public as among the most interesting writers of the day.
Persons wishing to subscribe to the above will address CHARLES ALEXANDER, Athenian Buildings, Franklin Place, Philadelphia, and they may rest assured that every attention will be paid to have them carefully transmitted by mail.

THE MOVEMENTS OF THE FRENCH.

The annexed translation from the Paris Moniteur and the Constitutionnel, (the first, to Government officials), afford a denouement to administrative keeping with our forty years struggle alternately with French piracy and diplomacy. We have most patiently endured twenty years spoliation—and twenty of negotiations. But these two scores of happy years of intercourse with our early ally, have been broken up into short intervals, and agreeably interrupted by five years of depredation—then five years of persecution—then five years of insult and outrage—then a like tally of politeness and false professions and so on.

In the progress of these agreeable vicissitudes, we at last reached the five years of the treaty of indemnity, through which the French secured immunities to the amount of millions in the exonerations of their silks and wines from duties; and they paid their first instalment in return, by a protested bill and damages; their next in the absolute rejection of the treaty, the advantages of which they had availed themselves to the utmost; then came a period of empty promises; and finally, we have the account closed by a new proposition to the treaty, stipulating for the subject submission of the United States, and the right of France to make treaties, and impose new terms at pleasure. By the following official intelligence, the American public is enlightened as to the mode in which the French Government undertakes to execute the last treaty which the Chambers so kindly legislated for us. It is by means of ordinances from which we have this account.

The Paris Moniteur of December 2, contains an ordinance, by which the King of the French, appoints Admiral Mackau Governor and commander in chief of the troops in the French West India Islands. By a second ordinance, published on the same day, he is to command the squadron of observation, which is immediately to be sent in the West Indies; and on his arrival at Port Royal, he is to take the Command in Chief of all the naval forces in the West Indies and the Gulf of Mexico. His flag ship is to be the Jupiter of 80 guns.

On the subject of this appointment, the Paris Constitutionnel of the 2d of December says:

"The extraordinary command conferred upon Admiral Mackau by this ordinance, of all the naval forces assembled in the West Indies and the Gulf of Mexico, must be considered as completing the measures of precaution, which the actual state of our difficulties with the United States warrants. We cannot but applaud the Government for thus preparing long before hand, and concentrating the power in the hands of one, who is firm and capable of using it to advantage, when necessary. It would be wrong, however, to view this nomination, as the certain sign of a rupture. Such promotions cannot always be made at the moment when they are required; time and space must be overcome before the news can reach those whom it concerns; and it is proper that the squadron which is sent out to sea, should know long before hand the name of the Chief, under whose orders it may be required to act. An inevitable precaution cannot be avoided; it is received as a motive for additional alarm; and it must not be concluded, that the armaments in preparation in our ports, are the infallible promise of a war. It is a mere precaution. The preparations for war often serve to prevent it.

After all, it is impossible to form an idea of the situation of things merely from their outward aspect; the question must be exercised more profoundly. What is it to realize in the opinion of a third party, which is entirely disinterested, that is to say, of the people of England, it is nothing more than a childish contest occasioned by wounded self-love. The English who know the Americans, believe that they will not sacrifice positive advantages for the gratification of their vanity, and they will not injure their own purse, by refusing us the satisfaction, which is due to us, and which may be given without the slightest stain upon the honor of the Government. The contest has not as far as we can learn, been rendered more bitter since the departure of the Executive Charge d'Affaires, if there should be any new difficulties in this unfortunate dispute, notwithstanding the habitual silence of the Government, we cannot believe that it will keep the country in ignorance, when commercial interests of so much importance are at stake.

Many clear headed people, think that the Superior of Admiral Mackau with a imposing force, is an assurance of peace, rather than of war. In presence of the French squadron, President Jackson has taken his departure from America with no force capable of being opposed to it, and no explanation which will be demanded, there will be nothing humiliating for the United States.

From another Paris paper, we learn that another squadron of 15 ships of the line, and a proportional number of frigates and smaller vessels is preparing in the Mediterranean ports, probably with the same destination.

We are admonished that it is "in presence of a French squadron that General Jackson must make up his determination" with regard to the requisition of the proviso. We cannot believe that the French Government, in such a case, would not be ready to give a satisfactory explanation. They know, how long since been told that they will submit to nothing that is wrong; and that, in the approval of Mr. Livingston's letter, he put his foot upon the instant proviso, to which they would have submitted, as "nothing humiliating to the United States." They know that neither a French squadron, nor Napoleon's grand army, (if it were possible to re-animate the dead,) could shake the President's purpose. We must think, therefore, that it is to help the Senate, not the President, not the Executive, to a conclusion. Some say, that the French Executive is well advised, inasmuch as the propriety of resumed negotiations, and we presume that Admiral Mackau must be sent to treat with the French of our national Executive. And it really seems that the Senate intend, as in the early days of Rome, to throw their sword into the scale to obtain our CONSPIRACY PATENTERS are now required to sign the price of peace.

There is one maxim certainly, which Admiral Mackau is sent to enforce upon our revered Senate, "Si vis pacem para bellum." If you wish peace, prepare for war. As the American Senate intend to give a satisfactory explanation, the French have taken it for granted that the patriotic body had determined, as one of the greatest mistakes it could bring on the Administration, to force it into a war. With such an appreciation of the motives of those who voted down the appropriations of the last year, the French Government have strained every nerve to put their navy in perfect condition. It is probably already in our power, to have sent our commander of our coast-guard to sea, but every thing to invite.

These tactics should ever be kept in mind, in the control of the American Senate, capable of directing all the cherished maxims of our Republic, is to the last degree mortifying. The "Oligarchical Chief" of Kentucky, the venerable Shelby, on concluding his civil and military career at the close of the last war, left this as the fruit of his experience, and parting advice to his countrymen:

"Under a long sunshine of peace, we had forgotten much of war. Most of those, who in the former war, had stood the battles brunt, and led us to victory, were in the silent tomb. Of those who remained, age had generally unnerved the vigor of early life. The generation which had sprung up in the meantime, had taken themselves to the pursuits of civil life. The nature of our Government, whose end and object is the general happiness of the whole of the community, rendered us averse to war, and solicited to avoid, by any honorable means, an appeal to arms. Our forbearance was considered, by the enemies of our institutions, as the result of weakness in the Government, and the loss of its citizens of that high sense of national honor and love of country, which had once been our distinguished characteristic."

He adds, however, "Our brilliant successes at sea, and our splendid victories by land, have placed on high ground among the nations of the Earth.

To secure this standing, and to transmit it unimpaired to our posterity; to avail ourselves of the experience which the late war has given us, by providing against these errors in our policy, which it has pointed out; and to cherish and improve the blessings of peace, after the privations of war, is the duty of the whole American family, but more especially of its several legislative bodies.

Towards the attainment of these ends:

We should avail ourselves of a period of peace to increase and improve our fortifications; our armaments; our armies; and every species of military equipment.

We should gradually increase our navy, as the increase of population, and the resources of the nation will permit.

What humiliation, after all the warning we have had, that the French should have the opportunity afforded, of profiting by our dereliction of this invaluable instruction—of adopting the policy abandoned by us, and sweeping across the seas, prepared to punish, in a whole people, the vice of tolerating factions cabals of selfish intrigues, ready to sacrifice every public virtue—every patriotic feeling, to the sinister ends of personal ambition.

Monday, January 11, 1836.

Mr. JARVIS, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, asked the consent of the House to present a resolution.

Objection being made, Mr. JARVIS moved to suspend the rule; which was agreed to.

Mr. JARVIS then offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Naval Affairs be instructed to inquire into the expediency of increasing the naval force in commission.

Mr. WISE was opposed to the call. He felt it to his duty to state, that the Committee on Naval Affairs had already determined that they would not, without a call from the Executive Department, recommend an increase of this branch of the service. The committee had authorized their Chairman (Mr. Jarvis) to call for information from the Department on this head, with a view to ascertain whether an increased appropriation was required.

Mr. JARVIS said there was no doubt as to the sense of the Naval Committee on this subject, there being seven out of nine in the committee in favor of the resolution. The gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Wise) was unwilling to take the responsibility of acting on this subject. That gentleman was disposed to place the committee and the House in the attitude of the mere creatures—the mere organs of the Executive, to carry into effect his will. He conceived that the Representatives of the People had the right to act on this important subject, without waiting for the views of the Executive or any other department of the Government.

Mr. WISE said,

If it were proper that this House should act

upon this subject, the Executive should make that fact known—the nation, as well as this House, should know it. Gentlemen may if the Executive is tardy we should stir it on. All who were acquainted with General Jackson, well know that he never needed a spur. Some of the Honorable Members, however, did—they wanted the royal stroke deep. He was disposed to wait further movements. I there was, inde d, dang'r, let the House be informed of it from the proper quarters.

At the commencement of the session, the Secretary of the Navy had recommended that two additional frigates and three sloops of war should be built or fitted out. This was a most ridiculous recommendation if we were to have a war with France. If danger was apprehended, let a call be made, not in a whisper, but in a bold, direct manner, in the form of an Executive message. Let those assume the responsibility whose duty it was to do so.

Mr. GLASCOCK thought that there could be no doubt as to the propriety of adopting the resolution, as it was one of inquiry merely. That there should be no inquiry merely. That the subject would agree. The adoption of the resolution, would not shield the Executive, or the Navy Department from any responsibility; nor did it authorize a supposition that there was any disposition in that quarter to shrink from responsibility. This House should act for itself, not as the creature of another department of the Government. They should be willing to share the responsibility resulting from this inquiry. If they looked to the preparations of a foreign power, there was good reason to expect a serious difficulty was impending. The time had arrived when this House should show to the country a willingness to act, and act promptly. Were they to consult the President in regard to their duty on the subject? Was this House afraid to act upon its own responsibility? If we were prepared to act—we were prepared to anticipate the course of the Executive in this emergency, and to do what he conceived to be his duty, leaving the Executive and the other departments to do theirs; and he had no fears but they would act promptly and avoid no responsibility, and he wished this House to do the same. We are presumed, said Mr. G., to know our duties, and knowing them, should not shrink from their performance.

Mr. HAMMOND said this was an extraordinary resolution, and the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. Glascock) had supported it with a most extraordinary argument. He said, said, that on the wisdom around us, he was for the immediate action of this House upon this subject. I understand him to be for putting the country in a state of hostile preparation. To what evidence does the gentleman allude? Where are the paragraphs of foreign newspapers, with which the country has been lately inundated? Did gentlemen call upon this House to legislate upon this kind of information? If we are to have war, let the proposition come—as from the proper quarter and let us not be smuggled into one by resolutions which are introduced by the vile rumors of the newspapers. He looked upon the resolution as the commencement of a series of war measures. He should not, therefore, vote for it, nor would he at this time support any measure looking towards a war.

Mr. HAWES said he was mortified, deeply mortified, at the remarks of the gentleman from Virginia and South Carolina, (Mr. Wise and Mr. Hammond.) Sir, said he, it is my individual opinion, and one which I have founded in fact, that it was owing to speeches of a similar character with these, that the Government of France had not already declared against one feeling motivated by the United States, upon every principle of justice, and which she had bound herself to discharge, by a solemn treaty. It was such speeches as these, which had mainly contributed to rob us of our just rights, and had endangered the peace of this country with her ancient ally and friend—Could American citizens, could members of an American Congress, utter sentiments which would be hailed in France as evidence that we were unwilling to protect our country from the invasion of a hostile force? What possible objection, he would ask, could be properly made to a resolution which inquired into the expediency of increasing the naval force in commission, when it was evident to all, that there was at least some ground to believe that there might be a rupture between the two nations? Sir, while France is actually making preparations for the worst that may happen, and if newspaper intelligence was to be relied on, their fleets were actually on their way to this country, shall we stand idly by and see our coast unprotected, and liable to be invaded by a foreign enemy? The course of the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. Wise) was peculiarly strange and unaccountable. Many of his statements, he believed, resided in fact, but he was exceedingly exposed to invasions and assaults from foreign naval powers; and when a proposition is now made to inquire into the expediency of preparing to repel invasion, and protect the lives and property of those whose representative he is, that gentleman rises in his place here and opposes it. It was a matter between the gentleman and his constituents, but he hoped the House would be unanimous in their adoption of the resolution.

Mr. McKEON asked the indulgence of the House for a few moments. It was well known that he was in the habit of introducing himself, and for the circumstances in which he found himself placed, he should have remained a silent observer of the discussion. The gentleman from Kentucky (Mr. Haves) informed us that he was mortified to hear the language of the gentleman from Virginia and from South Carolina, (Messrs. Wise and Hammond,) who addressed the House in opposition to the resolution upon the table. He was not only mortified, but also astonished at their arguments at such a period—as at such a crisis as this, when we find the country now placed—Representing as he did in part a portion of the Union deeply interested in the question, which now engages the public mind, he was impelled to an investigation which had for its object the defence of our sea-coast, and the protection of our commerce. Well might he be astonished to hear opposition to a measure of this nature with regard to the increase of our naval force, when the rumor is abroad that we have a squadron approaching our very borders. When the nose is actually ringing in our ears of the armaments in hostile array—While every thing portends difficulty, and points out the propriety and necessity of preparation, we must pause and discuss the expediency of inquiring into the propriety of the public defence, a work which relates to the public defence, we must debate the question by whom the first step ought to be taken. On whom the responsibility ought to rest. For one, he was willing to assume the responsibility: Why, sir, said (Mr. McK.) I was sent here to take responsibility like that now under consideration. Every member of this House was bound to take the responsibility. We are bound to our constituents, to the country, by every which can unite us to the honor and safety of the country not to hesitate. The present situation of our foreign affairs required the patriotism and action of every member of the Government. While around all was activity, we ought not to be passive. It was well known that the Executive, as the head of the Government, had been alive to the importance of this question. To the Executive the country, throughout the long and difficult negotiation to which gentlemen had alluded, looked with anxiety, and thus far the movements of his patriotic administration had received the entire approval of the country. The Chief Magistrate had thrown into the whole question the powers of his mighty intellect—had called into action his wonderful foresight—and with less vigilance had endeavored to obtain the rights of our citizens, and to maintain the dignity of the country.

With an Executive identified as he is with the history, of the most brilliant periods of the country, he had no fears but that in his hands the interest and character of our country would be entirely secure. While other branches of the government were zealously engaged, must we hesitate to execute our portion of the task imposed upon us by the peculiar state of things? I did not become so, said Mr. McK., to hesitate about directing an inquiry into the expediency of putting the country into a state of preparation against aggression. It cannot result in producing trouble—it cannot throw us into difficulty. The resolution should have been adopted without a question; but sir, it appears obstacles must be thrown in the way, impediments interposed before us to operate upon our minds and deter us from an attempt to overcome them. The gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. Hammond) threw out the suggestion that a war into which this country was about to be plunged would be a ridiculous war, and fatal to the liberties of the country. Who talks of war? Who has muddled the locom which is to give the alarm to the land, and conjure up into timid minds the dire apparitions of desolation and destruction, the commitments of a belligerent state? No one but the gentleman himself. If war must come, it was a question to be settled hereafter. That was not the question then under consideration, but merely whether it was expedient to inquire if the country should be put in a state of preparation. The inquiry may be necessary in other points totally separated from our present difficulties. The gentleman from South Carolina tells us we are to be driven into a war with France, which he if it should happen, would term a ridiculous war. Sir, I deprecate as with a most hostile and hostile attitude, that he has used the term ridiculous. Much as I regret war, I prefer it to dishonorable peace. Ridiculous he may consider the war, if it must come; but there may be a peace which is not otherwise than degrading. With robberies committed years ago upon our unoffending citizens, and presenting in the acts a gross violation of the code of civilized nations—with years of patient negotiation—with a treaty solemnly ratified—added to these injuries the insult of demanding from the American people explanations, (and those with their own hands,) which are incompatible with their self-respect and character as an independent people. If under such circumstances compelled to assume a hostile attitude, I said Mr. McK., cannot consider that attitude ridiculous.

He regretted that this discussion had taken place. To our divided councils many of our difficulties may be attributed. They give confidence to those who deny us justice. It is time these divisions should be healed. He had hoped that on an occasion like the present, but one feeling pervaded the body, as was certainly the case in the case of the late war, and the people of the country. To refuse the inquiry would look like an indisposition on the part of the House to sustain the country. He could not believe that one would object to a course which was demanded by the exigency of the times, or that we should present when the slightest speck was visible in the horizon portending the approaching storm, a divided people. On this question which had given rise to this debate, let us whether it continues to retain its present aspect or assume any other character fully around the altar of country, be true to our motto, let us be in fact of pluribus unum. Let us be true to ourselves, and to our own character; and weal to the civilized world but one front. Coming as he before remarked from a section of country, the lives, property, of the citizens of which were most exposed, he Mr. McK. felt compelled to address those remarks to the House on this occasion, and ask the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. REED observed, that the Chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs had instructed him to present the resolution.

Mr. LANE rose, he said, with no intention of discussing this subject, but merely to state for the information of the House, what his understanding was in relation to the course of the Executive on this occasion. He believed it was only on Saturday or Sunday that Mr. Barton arrived in Washington. (Several voices, "that is not correct; he has not yet arrived.") well, said Mr. L., there was such a report, and he made no inquiries as to its foundation. He would observe that he was well assured that the President would communicate all the information in his possession, at as early a period as possible. Of this Mr. L. had no doubt, and he could see no cause to arraign the Executive for want of vigilance, industry, or patriotism.

Mr. L. well recollected what had taken place on a former occasion. He recollected that complaints long and loud were made, that the proposed measure of preparing the country for defence at the last Congress, was entrusted the President with too much power. Mr. L. would not say, that he rested upon the firm conviction, and he would proclaim it here and elsewhere, that if the last Congress, had sustained the President of the United States, by making appropriations to put the country in a reasonable state of defence, the provisions of the treaty with France, would all have been complied with, and the money paid, and this dark and lowering cloud now hanging over us, would never have been seen. It was the maxim of the father of his country, "In peace prepare for war." What the situation of the country compared with France. She had been actively preparing and fitting out her fleets and armaments, which were hourly expected upon our coast. What was the situation of the American people? Scarce a ship in a condition to defend them! Not a militia regiment prepared for war! The only militia in the country, was that of the militia of the country, in war, cost hundreds of millions of money, and tens of thousands of lives, and which might have been avoided, had this appropriation been adopted we should have had no war, nor apprehension of war with a powerful and ancient ally. Mr. L. said he was in favor of the resolution, though, if he had been consulted, he would have preferred waiting for a communication from the President, who he had no doubt, would at an early period communicate all the information which he was possessed of; and then the House might be called upon to act in a very different manner and form.

The question on the adoption of the resolution was then decided in the affirmative, ye-a 164, nays 18.

BASTON, MD.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 19, 1836.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

FOR PRESIDENT,

MARTIN VAN BUREN,

OF NEW YORK.

RICHARD M. JOHNSON,

OF KENTUCKY.

We received no news from Washington last night, of any particular interest.

THE FRENCH QUESTION.

By last night's mail we received still later news from France. From the tone of the different paragraphs we think all excitement will be allayed; as the views of France are certainly pacific, and there is no danger of a war.

The French Ministry have at length intimated that if "the President would declare in his Message, that he acknowledged and adhered to the explanation given by Mr. Livingston, this would satisfy the French Government." The quotation is from a French Ministerial journal of a late date.

MR. BARTON'S OPINION.

We have the very best authority for stating, that in the opinion of Mr. Barton, the French Government, notwithstanding all the preparations noised abroad in the newspapers, have not the slightest disposition to refuse the payment of the Indemnity—to cease commercial intercourse with this country—or to consider it necessary in the present state of affairs, to take any step leading to a declaration of war.

On all occasions when Mr. Barton has been asked in relation to the payment of the indemnity, he has given it as his frank declaration—that he apprehended no difficulty.

It was further his opinion the Special Message would be entirely pacific and conciliatory, recommending no action of Congress of any kind until next spring, when it is believed the French government will have paid the money and fulfilled the treaty.

We received no news of interest from Annapolis last night.

Gov. Venzey was inaugurated on the 14th inst.

Our Court House has at last bowed its spiral head to the war of elements, with which it has so often contended. Even the old weather-cock, tired of shilling and changing, has laid itself down snugly to repose, notwithstanding the daily clamor of the bell. Is it a love for time-worn and gloomy looking buildings that cause so little care to be taken of the Court House? Certainly the accumulation of dust and moss upon its walls is not so pleasing to the eye, especially of a stranger. If anything can be done for its improvement, and especially for its repairs, now is the time for action; and it would be as well for the proper authorities to look to this matter, if we may take the liberty of making the suggestion.

THE PRESIDENCY.

The time is rapidly approaching when it will become us as one people to select an individual to fill the highest office within our gift. From the aspect of affairs it is probable all the candidates for that office are now before the people, from whom it will devolve upon them to make a selection. Our Government is largely for us, a Government of majorities, and the will of the people is the ultimate standard of action.

The constitution in the event the people fail to make a choice of any one of the candidates voted for, provides for the contingency, and the Representatives of the people proceed agreeably to the constitution to perform what the people may have failed to do. Here lies the danger—and in this manner is the scheme of the Whigs to be effected; effected among the representatives after the people have been deprived of the means to give the requisite vote. The constitution acknowledges no political party, and it is a subversion of it to make a contingency designed to meet political views; yet such is the scheme of the opposition party of the present day. They know their utter incapability to concentrate even a respectable vote upon any one man, and they therefore start as many candidates as are available to effect their design by operating upon state pride and sectional jealousies.

That if they effect their purpose and throw the election into the House, there, by intrigue and corruption, the will of the people may be barred away for the chance of reward. What irresponsible secret cabals may spring up to plot the destinies of the people for four years to come, only yet exist in the perpetual jealousy and vigilance that should be exercised by every lover of the rights and privileges of the people. There, Delaware is to hold perhaps the scale of power against New York—though only as one to forty-two, and deprive the people of the candidate of their choice.

It is treating lightly the wisdom of the American people to accuse them of being careless to such schemes designed intentionally to defeat their choice. They know too well how to appreciate the rich legacy bequeathed them by their forefathers, and will ever guard with jealous vigilance the inheritance thereof.

The storm of political excitement will be of short duration, when by such means the very fabric of our republic is to be shaken;

the people will arouse and virtue and wisdom resume their seats again.

Who to the man who is elected by the House of Representatives unless he receive also a majority of the people's votes. It was in an evil hour that Mr. Burr suffered his name to be used by his enemies in the memorable contest with Jefferson. It was when he threw himself into the arms of his enemies—the sun of his greatness sunk forever. The younger Adams was routed by the people from the post assigned him by their Representatives, in opposition to their popular vote. Judge White has thrown himself into the arms of the enemy—there to sink or swim with the fortunes of his adopted party, which act has placed him on a fearful precipice.

Judge White is to collect the scattered forces in the South—Harrison in the West, and Webster in the East; the two former will receive the strongest support—if strength can be applied to it—and become the competitors of Mr. Van Buren, who will go to the House unquestionably with a decided majority of Electoral votes.

The Journal of Commerce, an opposition paper gives Mr. Van Buren majorities in Eleven States; consequently he will receive eleven votes in the House. It also appears the Whigs—or the opposition of all sorts—have eleven States—Thirteen being the constitutional number to elect a President, it will devolve upon Mississippi and Missouri, which are equally divided, to make such majority. How this is to be effected cannot be foreseen. We will here mention, however, that Maryland will give her electoral vote, even in the House, in favor of Mr. Van Buren; for we have heard it asserted and never denied, that Mr. Turner will be governed in his vote for the Presidency as the voice of the majority of his district dictates. Then if such is the fact, any one conversant with Baltimore county will certainly admit it will give a majority, if not as large as it usually has, large enough to secure Mr. Turner's vote, and Maryland may be considered safe.

The electing of a President is a matter of too grave and serious an import to be made dependent upon the integrity of one man—nor will the people suffer their dearest privilege thus to be dealt with by speculation and lottery in the hands of their representatives.

The Tennessee Columbian Observer very properly holds the subjoined language, showing that the grand scheme may result in the attempt to force Mr. Clay in the House.

The Whigs have no hopes of electing a candidate by the people—they are running different candidates avowedly to prevent such an election, knowing that neither of their candidates can possibly succeed before the people. The three highest are to go into the House of Representatives. Who will they be? All agree that Mr. Van Buren will be one—Judge White is to be another, and the "strongest" of the Whigs—most of the States, is to be the third. Who is the strongest man? Harrison is tried, it will be settled—If Gen. Harrison is tried, it will be settled, that he can only unite the following States in any event—

Massachusetts, Vermont, Delaware, Maryland, Louisiana, Kentucky, Ohio—7.

If Mr. Webster is tried, he can only unite the following—

Massachusetts, Vermont, Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky, Ohio—5.

If Mr. Clay is tried, with the influence of Mr. Bell, in Tennessee, he may unite the following—

Massachusetts, Vermont, Delaware, Maryland, Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Arkansas—10.

Leaving South Carolina, Missouri, and Mississippi to decide the contest. Who, then, is the strongest man? and who will be the third introduced into the House of Representatives? We hesitate not to answer, Henry Clay.

We need make no calculation on Judge White's strength in the House—he is not run with an eye to his strength in the House—but solely to enable the "strongest man" of the Whigs to get in. Massachusetts, Vermont, Delaware, Maryland and Ohio, never will consent to elect a man who has been laboring against their principles so long, and who still avows his determination to support the same principles.

It rests with the people to decide whether they will have the result of 1801 acted over, or whether they will decide the contest with their own votes, by uniting upon the only man who has any prospect of success before the people.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT TO ALL PERSONS AFFLICTED.

A Certain Cure for Dyspepsia, Liver, Bilious, and Nervous Complaints; Jaundice, General Debility, Lowness of Spirits, and Diseases incident to Females.

DR. LOCKWARD'S
Celebrated Vegetable

Anti-Dyspeptic Elixir.
Symptoms of Dyspepsia.

The first symptoms of this disease is a disagreeable food, producing pain and uneasiness at the region of the stomach; fullness of the organs; belching of wind; with sourly, or putrescent eructations; pain and tenderness at the pit of the stomach; pain in the right side, extending after to the right shoulder, and under the shoulder-blade; the same kind of pain is very often experienced in the left side, difficulty often in lying on the right or left side; giddiness of the head; dimness of the sight; coated tongue; disagreeable taste in the mouth in the morning after arising; coldness. This medicine acts as a gentle purge, by which all foul humors are removed from the system; at the same time it restores the lost tone of the stomach and bowels—opens obstructions of the Liver, Spleen and Pancreas, and will be found singularly efficacious in diseases of the Kidneys. As a family medicine none will be found cheaper or to answer a better purpose, and being composed entirely of vegetable matter it is perfectly innocent, which renders it more valuable.

As a certain remedy or cure for the above diseases this medicine stands incomparably beyond any other now in use. And as nothing more could be requisite to convince the most skeptical of its utility, than the numerous testimonials which have been given in its favor, therefore, those testimonials will speak for it more than all encomiums which could be pronounced. Whenever it has been used, it has invariably been attended with complete success, and that too, in hundreds of cases, where apparently all hopes of cure have been despaired of. It was by this important discovery that the proprietor of the above medicine, was in a few months, restored to perfect health, after years of the most distressing suffering, and after being abandoned by the profession to die without any hope of relief. Since which, hundreds, nay thousands, have in a like manner been restored from beds of sickness to perfect health.

DR. LOCKWARD.—Sir I have made use of your valuable medicine for the Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints, both of which diseases I have labored under for about three years—I have tried a great many medicines, but all to no effect.—I was induced by your advertisement, and much to my astonishment & that of my friends, I was in a short space of time completely relieved of my disease. My symptoms, when I first commenced using your medicine, were, as follows:—After eating my food I felt great distress at the pit of my stomach, with heartburn, sourness and vomiting of food, accompanied with an acute pain in the right side, extending to the right shoulder, connected with this pain, was a prominent enlargement in my right side, pronounced by my physician "an enlargement of the liver." My appetite was variable, sometimes very good, at others a complete loss.—bowels obstinately constipated. My head very much affected with giddiness and pain; my eyesight was also affected with dimness; I was also much emaciated in flesh, and suffered extremely from nervous feelings, sometimes I imagined that I was disposed to feel constantly cold (especially my feet and hands), in the winter days in summer. Thus I suffered until life was to me almost a burthen, when, hearing of your medicine I was prevailed upon to make use of it; and contrary to my expectation and the expectation of my friends, I was in a few months restored to perfect health, which I still continue to enjoy. Any person desirous of knowing the particulars of my case, by calling upon me, in the Branch, Harrison street, I will give the details both as to disease and cure.

Yours, with respect,

SIXTH YEAR OF THE THE LADY'S BOOK.

A MONTHLY MAGAZINE
OF LITERATURE, FASHIONS AND PORTRAITS.

The LADY'S BOOK was the first publication in this country to introduce and perfect a taste for COLORED PLATES OF THE FASHIONS; and the universal popularity which the book obtained, with the aid of these beautiful and costly embellishments, although it appeared every quarter only, was unprecedented and unexampled.—The publisher, emboldened by his long experience, and success which has crowned his former efforts to signalize his work, intends, with the coming volume, to introduce alternately every month, in the course of the year, SIX SPLENDID PLATES OF THE FASHIONS, SUPERBLY COLOURED. The engravings will be copied from ORIGINAL designs, prepared expressly for that purpose, thereby furnishing the patrons of the work with correct and constant information of the latest and most approved styles for ladies' dresses, as they come out. This arrangement will add considerably to the publisher's present heavy outlays; and while it will materially advance the value and beauty of his work, he trusts with confidence to the liberality of a discerning public for future remuneration, corresponding with his exertions and unremitting efforts to keep pace with the rapid progress of the improvements of the age. The following is the order which will be adopted for the Embellishments of the Lady's Book for 1855, viz: January, March, May, July, September, November, SUPREME ENGRAVINGS.

OF THE

ELEGANTLY COLOURED.

With the June and December numbers will be furnished appropriately ENGRAVED TITLE PAGES, and a general Table of Contents for each Volume. February, April, June, August, October, December.

FINE STEEL ENGRAVINGS.

Illustrating a variety of interesting Subjects.

Besides every number will be enriched with a Plate from the PORTRAIT GALLERY, containing the Likenesses of two distinguished individuals. In addition to which, other and various Engravings will be regularly added—with two Pages of POPULAR MUSIC.

The publisher has at present in the hands of an excellent artist a steel Engraving, which will contain the Likeness of all the present reigning Queens of Europe, which will be given as an extra in the January No.

To meet these expensive engagements, it is absolutely necessary that remittances should be promptly made. At the end of the last six months, nearly six hundred names were erased from our list, in consequence of its appearing from the books that each owed two years' subscription. Many have since paid, and some had previously settled with agents. These and other previous inconveniences a publisher has to encounter, which should, as far as the Agent is concerned, be remedied by his rendering it only when a person stops the work, that a liquidation of the whole amount due becomes necessary.

GALLERY OF PORTRAITS.—Under this head will be published every month, Likenesses of distinguished Authors in this country and in Europe. Striking resemblances of Bulwer, Brougham, Hogg, Cunningham, &c. &c. have been given. The following are now ready for press, and will be published two in each number until the whole is completed: Shelley, Lewis, Moore, Coleridge, Rogers, D'Israeli, Neale, Mad. de Stael, Jane Porter, Campbell, Roscoe, Southey, &c. Facsimiles of the writings of Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams, Byron, Scott, and other distinguished persons, have already appeared. Those of Napoleon, Franklin, La Fayette, &c. &c. are in preparation. The publication of views of beautiful scenery and remarkable public edifices, will be continued as heretofore.

Every number of the work contains forty-eight large octavo pages, printed on fine white paper, the whole neatly stitched in covers. The postage for each number is 3 cents for any distance under 100 miles—6 cents, over.

To convince persons wishing to subscribe for the Lady's Book, that it is equal in point of embellishments, the interest of its contents, and general beauty of appearance, to the descriptions repeatedly given at large, and the flattering notices that have been made of it by editors in different sections of the Union, the publisher will forward any monthly number as a specimen, by sending him a letter, post paid.

The work will, in future, be published and delivered on the first of each month, in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore, and Charleston—in New Orleans about the 5th. Subscribers missing a number, will please inform the publisher, free of postage, and a duplicate will be sent them.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION. 3 dollars per annum, payable in advance. Postmasters and Agents can have two copies forwarded to any direction, by advancing five dollars.

American Magazine OF USEFUL AND ENTERTAINING KNOWLEDGE.

Vol. II.
No. 47, Court Street.

The Publishers are encouraged by the flattering reception and extensive circulation of the Magazine for the year past, to prosecute the work with renewed assiduity and with a constant desire to fulfil the promises made in the outset of the work. We intend "to stick to our text;" and to serve those who have so liberally cheered us with their kind patronage; with what is useful and pleasant, little at a distance shall still be our object and aim. We do not presume to instruct the veteran and erudite scholar, who has spent thirty or forty years in his study;—nor to lay open those hidden mysteries of nature which have escaped the ken of the most inquisitive. Nor do we expect to approach as near to the moon or other planets, as to tell what are the trees, the birds, and animals which may there grow or live and move. We leave such extraordinary feats to those who are more visionary or more daring than we are. But we hope and intend to keep up the character and spirit of the Magazine, in presenting solid and useful articles, which may be instructive to a portion of our readers, and not considered wholly unimportant to literary men. We consider the whole United States as our field, though not our exclusive; and we ask the favour of persons of taste and science, to communicate important facts, and natural scenes, and works of art, for the benefit of all our readers. As Republicans, we feel that we are of the same family as those in the south and west—as friends of improvement, of good morals and good learning, we wish also to be considered of the same family. If we can do any thing by our labours to increase and strengthen this sentiment and feeling, "we should be ready to the good work."

We should call the attention of our present subscribers to the terms of the magazine, and to the notice in the last number relating to the subject. It is very important to us to know who propose to continue taking the Magazine, and to receive the very small sum, charged for it in advance. GEO. G. SMITH, AGENT.

PROSPECTUS

"THE BALTIMORE ATHENAUM"

AND

YOUNG MEN'S PAPER,

Published under the auspices of the Baltimore Young Men's Society.

The publishers of the "Young Men's Paper," encouraged by the liberal patronage extended towards them during the first year, have determined to enlarge and greatly improve their paper on the commencement of the second volume, so as to render it every way creditable to the city, and worthy of much more extensive circulation.

Its establishment was considered, even by its best friends, as but a doubtful experiment; and though all approved of the high stand that was taken, but few thought it would live over the first few months, or else that it would divide into a publication less dignified in character, and designed merely for a money making scheme, from this cause many stood aloof, unwilling to encourage what they believed would soon languish and die, or deviate in course from its original professions; these fears have, however, been indulged in vain, and the "Young Men's Paper" is now in the way of permanent establishment.

in consideration of its being less vague in generalization than the old one. Every person has a peculiar idea of his own, as to what a "Young Men's Paper" should be, and the publishers have experienced enough of the little perplexities incident to the peculiarities of the name, to determine them to fix upon one less liable to so many objections. The publication is purely literary, and only as such do they wish it to be judged.

CONTENTS.—The "ATHENAUM" will contain Original Tales, Essays and Poetry.—Intelligence on Scientific Subjects.—Notices of Passing Events.—Criticism on American Works.—Notices of New Publications.—Choice Selections from New Works.—Sketches of American and European Scenery and Character.—Extracts from British and American Magazines.—Essays on Political and Moral Philosophy.—Biographical Notices of Distinguished Individuals at home and abroad.—besides a great variety of matter upon every subject in the whole range of literature.

The publishers will still adhere to their original intention of making the "ATHENAUM" such a paper as shall be worthy of admission into any circle of society, rigidly excluding every thing from its columns calculated to injure the moral character, or foster a vitiated taste, nor in doing this will they render the publication tame or spiritless, and as a guarantee will simply refer to the contents of the first volume.

The second volume will commence about the middle of November.

The "ATHENAUM" will be printed on a fine quarto supercal sheet, and will make a handsome volume of 416 pages; for which a neat title page and copious index will be furnished.

TERMS.—2.50 per annum, payable in all cases in advance.

THE GENTLEMAN'S VADE MECUM.

OR THE
A WEEKLY REPOSITORY OF
Dramatic Literature, Sporting, the Turf,
Fashions, Grazing, Agriculture, and Various subjects of Interest and Amusement.

INTERSPERSED WITH A MULTITUDE OF Appropriate Engravings,
INCLUDING
Portraits of Celebrated Winning
HORSES.

Philosophical and Natural Phenomena.
LEGERDEMAIN, & C.

THIS popular journal, although but a few months have passed since it was commenced, has already obtained an extensive and profitable subscription list, which is daily increasing, and affords ample encouragement to the publishers to persevere in their efforts to the render it useful, amusing, and instructive.

02-On the commencement of the approaching year, the VADE MECUM will undergo several important improvements—instead of four pages, it will be increased to EIGHT of nearly the present size, and consequently will contain almost double the quantity of reading matter which is now given.—Making it one of the largest and newest quarto's ever published in the United States. It will be printed on new type, and fine white paper, and the embellishments will be considerably multiplied, and of a superior order. Persons desirous of procuring the work at the beginning of the new volume, will please send their orders at once—as they may fail to be supplied, as but few copies will be published more than are actually subscribed for at the time.

03-The subjects which are particularly embraced in this work will be more distinctly understood from the following brief analysis to them:

The Drama form material portion of then Gentleman's Vade Mecum—every week a entire Play or Farce is given. They are selected with a single eye to their merits alone: a preference, however, will be extended in all cases to native productions when they can be obtained. Independent criticisms, carefully excluding all invidious comparisons, and recommending by their brevity, are occasionally inserted; also, Biographical Sketches, Anecdotes, and Bon Mots of prominent Comedians of the present and past ages, of which a new and inexhaustible compilation is in store. The publisher, by the liberality of the managers of the two Philadelphia Theatres, and several other gentlemen connected with the stage, has obtained a very excellent and numerous selection of Plays and Farces for the Vade Mecum; many of them have never appeared in print.

THE TURF.

A faithful record is kept of all the Racing and Trotting Matches in this country and England. Biographies and correct portraits of celebrated thorough-bred Horses are published once a month. Every fact relative to the breeding, management, keeping, and the diseases of this invaluable animal is particularly attended to.

THE SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

At home and abroad occupies a considerable portion of our columns, and is collected from the most authentic sources. Among the Portraits of celebrated Winning Horses which have been given, are—
The American Trotting Horse, Edwin Forrest.

The Imported Racing Horse Messenger.

The American Trotting Mare, Lady Jackson.

The Racing Mare, Ariel, and her foal by Eclipse.

The true blooded popular Horse, Chateau Margaux.

The American Trotting Horse, Top Gallant.

The well known English Race Horse, Touchstone.

Mundig; the winner of the Derby stakes in June, 1855.

The unrivalled American Trotter Andrew Jackson.

The celebrated English Horse, Glencoe.

A complete treatise on Riding, with four full Illustrations, for improvement of Ladies in that most healthy of all exercises.

Explanation of the Automaton Chess Player, illustrated by seven engravings.

Four engravings, designed to represent the scene which took place in Paris, in July last, on the attempted destruction of the Royal Family of France, with a view of the Infernal Machine, and a likeness of the Assassin, Gerard.

SPORTING.

Beside other matters belonging to this head there will be published correct accounts of Shooting Matches, Pedestrian Feats, Gymnastic Exercises, Aquatic Excursions, Fishing, Gaming, &c. with anecdotes of noted Dogs.

MILITARY UNIFORMS.

The publisher has employed the assistance of an excellent artist to furnish a regular series of Engravings of the different military uniforms worn by the principal Volunteer Corps of Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore and other cities, which will be published periodically, with a particular description of each, furnished by a competent hand. This subject forms a peculiar attraction to the general interest of the work.

GENTLEMAN'S FASHIONS.

A quarterly review, is made out by a gentleman connected with a fashionable house in Philadelphia, explanatory of the various improvements and changes which costumes worn in the dress circles consequently undergo; by which it will be rendered an easy task for dressers and tailors, at a distance, to suit their customers with the most approved colors and modern style of apparel at the earliest possible period.

MISCELLANY.

Although the purpose of our sheet may appear to be confined to the several leading subjects which have been stated, we deem it proper to say, that there constantly is, in addition to these, a considerable space allowed for miscellaneous matters, such as Tales, Poetry, Anecdotes, Legends, &c. as Epithomes of News, notices of Amusements, Statistics, Agriculture, Domestic Economy, Valuable Receipts, &c. Also, a republication of the best and most popular of the old English and American Sporting and National Songs, &c. &c. besides many other matters, regarded as of an interest is supposed to exist.

By the above explanation, it will be seen that the Gentleman's Vade Mecum is particularly designed as a companion for patrons of the Turf; the Drama, Sporting, the Fashions, &c. It is worthy of notice, that its patrons in the course of one year, will be furnished with from forty-five to fifty popular Plays or Farces—the price of which, separately, at one of our bookstores, would be at least thirteen dollars! Here, then, is an absolute saving of ten dollars in the purchase of a well-stored Dramatic Library—to be had for an unprecedented small sum! without taking into consideration the multiplied variety which is sent along with it, free of additional charge.

The Gentleman's Vade Mecum or the Sporting and Dramatic Companion, is published every Saturday, on fine extra imperial quarto paper, of a superior quality each number forming eight pages of the largest class, at 88 per annum. Orders from abroad, postage paid, will be promptly attended to, and the paper carefully packed, to prevent it from rubbing by mail. As the number of agents will be limited to principle cities, or such other places where a considerable subscription may be obtained, we request those who propose to patronize the work, to transmit by mail at once to the publisher. Small notes of solvent banks of the different States, taken at par. By enclosing a Five Dollar Note, two copies of the paper will be forwarded to any direction ordered, for one year. Specimen numbers will be sent to any part of the Union, by addressing the publisher, postage paid.

THE MODERN

Acting Drama,

Has hitherto been issued in volumes of about 300 pages each—containing the PLAYS FARCES &c. which appear in the Vade Mecum, neatly printed, and bound in classic covers, for transportation—and published every six weeks.—Eight volumes constitute a set or one year's subscription, the terms of which is 3 dollars, payable in advance.—03-Subscribers to the Vade Mecum are entitled to a deduction of one third, when subscribing for the Modern Acting Drama. An order for four sets will be thankfully received and the work forwarded to any directions, by enclosing a ten dollar note, postage paid. Gentlemen desirous of securing a set of this work, will please to forward their names immediately—the edition, which was a small one, is going off rapidly, and it cannot be re-published at the same price.

This work will undergo a material improvement on the commencement of a new series in January, 1856. It is intended to be published Every Month, or as near the beginning as possible, each No. to consist of 48 pages of fine letter press printing and 12 numbers to constitute a volume of 576 pages. Every Play or Far

rights by an address to her frankly and explicitly given by her to her Government, and officially communicated by him, in his letter to the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, of the 25th of April, 1835, and repeated by my published approval of that letter after the bill of indemnification. Does France want a degrading, servile repetition of this act, in terms which she shall dictate, and which will involve an acknowledgment of her assumed right to interfere in our domestic councils? She will never obtain it. The spirit of the American people, the dignity of the Legislature, and the firm resolve of their Executive Government forbid it.

As the answer of the French Minister to our Charge d'Affaires at Paris, contains an allusion to a letter addressed by him to the representative of France at this place, it now becomes proper to lay before you the correspondence had between that functionary and the Secretary of State, relative to that letter,
and to accompany the same with such explanations as will enable you to understand the course of the Executive statement made at the commencement of your session, of the origin and progress of our difficulties with France, it will be recollected that, on the return of our Minister to the United States, I caused my official approval of the explanations he had given to the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, to be made public. As the French Government had noticed the message
without its being officially communicated, it was not doubted that, if they were disposed to pay the money due to us, they would notice
any public explanation of the Government of the United States in the same way. But, contrary to these well founded expectations, the French Ministry did not take this fair opportunity to relieve themselves from their unfortunate position, and to do justice to the United States.

Whilst, however the Government of the United States was awaiting the movements of the French Government, in perfect confidence that the difficulty was at end, the Secretary of State received a call from the French Charge d'Affaires in Washington, who desired to read to him a letter he had received from the French Minister of Foreign Affairs. He was asked whether he was instructed or directed to make any official communication, and replied that he was only authorized to read the letter, and furnish a copy if requested. The substance of its contents, it is presumed, may be gathered from Nos. 4 and 5, herewith transmitted.
It was an attempt to make known to the Government of the United States, privately, in what manner it could make explanations, appropriately voluntary, but really dictated by France, acceptable to her, and thus obtain payment of the twenty-five millions of francs.
No exception was taken to this mode of communication, which is often used to prepare the way for official intercourse, but the suggestion made in it, was, in its substance, wholly inadmissible. Not being the shape of an official communication, it could not be made the basis of any action by the Government, and the Secretary of State, in

could not receive the communication in that form. That was not the case, because such was not the language of the letter. Mr. Forsyth to M. Pageot. On refusing the copy offered to him by the Charge d'Affaires,
Mr. Forsyth gave as the only reason,
that it was a document of which he could make no use; and that was the phrase repeated by me.

Mr. Forsyth made no objection to the form which I had adopted to communicate to the Federal Government, the views of the King's Government; in fact, not only is there nothing unusual in that form; not only is it employed in the intercourse between our Government and the intercourse between a Government and another, whenever there is a desire to avoid the irritation which might involuntarily arise from an exchange of contradictory notes in a direct controversy; but reflection on the circumstances will clearly show that it was chosen precisely in a spirit of conciliation and regard for the Federal Government.

Finally, sir, after having said "If the Government of the United States does not give this assurance, we shall be obliged to think that this misunderstanding is not the result of an error," I did not add, "and the business will stop here." The last error is, however, of go little importance, that I hesitated to notice it.

Receive, sir, the assurances of my high consideration.

MONSIEUR LE DUC: Having been recalled
by my Government, I have the honor to request that your excellency will be pleased to cause passports to be prepared, to enable me to proceed to my home, (hence to embark for the United States, and for my protection during the time I may find it necessary to remain in Paris. I am instructed to give as a reason for my departure the non-execution on the part of His Majesty's Government of the convention of July 4th, 1831.

I avail myself of this opportunity, Monsieur
le Duc, to renew the assurances of very high consideration with which I have the honor to be

To Mr. BARTON, Charge d'Affaires of the United States of America:
PARIS, November 8th, 1835.

SIR:—Having taken his Majesty's orders
with regard to your communication of the 6th instant, I have the honor to send you herewith the passports which you requested of me. As to the reasons which you have been charged to advance, in explanation of your departure,
I have nothing to say. (Je n'ai point a m'expli-

Washington, 20th June, 1835.

M. PAGEOT, Charge d'Affaires, &c. &c.

SIR: I have the honor to acquaint you, for the first time, that the Government of the United States, in consequence of the non-execution of the treaty of July 4th, 1831, between the United States and His Majesty the King of the French, and that the President has granted a special power to the said Messrs. de Rothschild, Brothers, of Paris, as agents to receive the payments from time to time due to this Government under the stipulations of the convention of 4th July, 1831, between the United States and His Majesty the King of the French; and that the President has granted a special power to the said Messrs. de Rothschild, Brothers, authorizing and empowering them,
upon the due receipt of the same, to give the necessary acquittances to the French Government, according to the provisions of the convention referred to.

The power given the Messrs. de Rothschild,
will be presented by them whenever the French Government is ready to make the payments.

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

To the Hon. Mr. FORSYTH,
Secretary of State.

SIR: I have received the letter which you
did me the honor to address to me this day,
and by which you communicate to me, for the information of my Government, that the Secretary of the Treasury, in virtue of the act of Congress of July 13th, 1833, has appointed Messrs. de Rothschild, Brothers, at Paris, agents for receiving, as they become due, the several payments of the sum stipulated as in-demnification by the convention concluded on the 4th of July, 1831, between His Majesty
the King of the French and the United States of America.

I beg to inform you, in transmitting this communication to my Government, and I embrace this opportunity to offer you the assurance of the high consideration with which I have the honor to be, your most humble and obedient servant.

POETRY.

OUR LASS AND A DROP OF WINE.

Fill up, and fill up, for wine is here,

And the glittering goblets shine;

We'll open our souls to sorrow and pain

May be drowned in a drop of wine.

We've met for the drinking of wine to-night;

To quaff from the swelling lines;

Our song as we pledge with the "ruby bright,"

Is our lass and a drop of wine.

The poet may sing of the drop like light,

That the dew has left to shine;

But his fancy never dreamed in its highest flight

Of a drop like a drop of wine.

When black browed misfortune is lingering by,

Like the storm on the angry brine;

The tempest is lulled in the melting eye

Of our lass and a drop of wine.

The foam to the billow—the breeze to the lee;

The grape to the twisting vine;

But bring to the heart that's swelling with grief

Its lass and a drop of wine.

To the sparkling eye of the diamond peer,

The miser may fondly incline;

He's welcome—if we but the eye shall have

Of our lass—and a drop of wine.

We ask but one gift, when weary and old,

On life's wintry banks we recline;

A gift that is better than mountains of gold—

Our lass and a drop of wine.

The burthen is sung—the girls of our hearts;

As their arms round our necks entwined;

And the kiss that heavenly sweetest imparts

To their lips and a drop of wine.

Then fill up the glass to its glittering brim—

We're kneeling at pleasure's shrine;

Give out the full voice to the merry hymn

MELODY.

Oh give me not unmeaning smiles,

Though clouds like cures may fly before them.

But let me see the sweet blue lake

Of radiant eyes when tears wash over them.

Though small the font when tears wash over them.

They form, 'tis thought in many a heart,

A sea to drown our sense of sin.

But ah! Love's ark still floats upon it.

Then give me tears—oh! hide not eyes;

For the soft gleam is but a shadow.

That faint gleam is but a shadow.

And faint gleam is but a shadow.

Yet give me tears in every form.

For tears are words that words in slaughter;

And men are still subdued by them.

As humming birds are shot with water!

PREDICTIONS FOR THE YEAR

1836.

This year will be famous for a thousand wonderful things. From January to December, the days will consist of twenty-four hours

each, and there will be such a number of eclipses, that many wise people will be in the dark. There will be fog in Maine, fires at Constantinople, and a lack of brains in many

a fool's head.

South America this year, will not extend beyond Cape Horn; and the North Pole will be exactly in ninety degrees of latitude.—

Those who love money will look sad, and those who are in want of cash when they borrow,

will want it more when they come to pay.

Wisdom will cry aloud, but few will regard it.

There will be long speeches in congress;

but for all that, Lake Superior will not be upset.

Quadrupeds, this year, will go upon four legs, pretty generally; and cows' horns will be crooked. The fate of lottery-tickets will be dubious; but whether there be a war with France or not, mortal wounds will be apt to kill, and he that is sick with old age,

will have a disease harder to cure than the mumps or chin-cough.

The celestial aspects indicate that political parties will not agree for some time to come;

but whoever is president water will run down hill and ducks will waddle as heretofore.

Cabbages, this year, will be rather round

than three-cornered, and carrots will be decided. Conals will be as black as every-cat's will love fish, but hate to wet their feet,

and all on account of Halley's comet.

THE ITALIANS call it, pena d'oro; the Germans heir gold; the French, seuils d'or;

and in this country, it goes under various names, but is most commonly known by the name of pena d'oro—Boston Courier.

Suppose.—The number of ancestors a person has is astonishing at first sight; at first two parents; in the second four, the parents of his father and mother; in the third eight, the pa-

THE GENTLEMAN'S VASE MECUM.
ON THE
Sporting and Dramatic Companion,
A WEEKLY REPOSITORY OF Dramatic Literature, Sport, the Turf, Fashions, Grazing, Agriculture, and Various subjects of Interest and Amusement.
INTERSPERSED WITH A
MULTITUDE OF Appropriate Engravings,
including
Portraits of Celebrated Winning
Horses,
Famous and Famous Horses.
LEONHEIMANN & CO.
THIS popular journal, although but a few
months have passed since it was commenced, has already obtained an extensive and
profitable subscription list, which is daily increasing, and which attests to the interest of the public in the subjects which it treats, and to the value of the material which it contains.
On the commencement of the approaching
year, the VASE MECUM will undergo
several important improvements—namely
of four pages, it will be increased to twenty pages, and the present size, and consequently
it will contain almost double the quantity of reading matter which is now given. Making
it one of the largest and most complete ever published in the United States. It will be printed on new type, and fine white paper, and
the engravings will be of the most select
and of a superior order. Persons desiring to procure the work at the beginning
of the new volume, will please send their orders at once, as they may fail to be supplied,
as but few copies will be published more than
are actually subscribed for at the time.
The subjects which are particularly embraced in this work will be more distinctly understood from the following brief analysis
to them:
The Dramatic form, material portion of them
Classical and Modern—every week a dramatic play or farce is given. They are selected with a view to their merit, and
a preference, however, will be extended to all
of native productions when they can be obtained. Independent criticisms, carefully
made, and allusions to the merits and demerits
of the plays, are given. Biographical sketches, anecdotes, and lives of prominent comedians
of the present and past ages, of which a
new and inexhaustible compilation is in store.
The publisher, by the liberality of the managers of the two Philadelphia Theatres, and
several other gentlemen connected with the stage, has obtained a very excellent and numerous selection of Plays and Farces for the Vase Mecum; many of them have never appeared in print.
THE TURF.
A faithful record is kept of all the Running
and Trotting Races in this country and England. Breeds and correct portraits of celebrated thorough-bred Horses are published once a month. Every fact relative to the breeding, management, keeping, and the discussion of this invaluable animal is particularly attended to.
THE SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.
At home and abroad occupies a considerable portion of our columns, and is collected
from the most authentic sources.
Among the Portraits of celebrated Winning
Horses which have been given, are—
The American Trotting Horse, Edwin Forrest.
The imported Racing Horse Messenger.
The American Trotting Horse, Lady Jackson.
The Racing Horse, Ariel, and her foal by Edgemoor.
The true blooded popular Horse, Chateau
Margaux.
The American Trotting Horse, Top Gal-
lop.
The well known English Race Horse,
Touchstone.
Mudger, the winner of the Derby stakes in June, 1855.
The unrivalled American Trotter Andrew
Jackson.
The celebrated English Horse, Glencoe.
A complete treatise on Riding, with four-
fold illustrations, for improvement of Ladies
in that most healthy of all exercises.
Explanation of the Automaton Chess Player, illustrated by eleven engravings.
Four engravings designed to represent the
scene which took place in Paris, in July last,
on the attempted destruction of the Royal Family
of France, with a view of the infernal Machine,
and a likeness of the Assassin, General.
pying the width of seven columns.
SPORTING.
Besides other matters belonging to this head
there will be published correct accounts of Hunting Matches, Pedestrian Races, Gym-
nastic Exercises, Aquatic Excursions, Fishing, Gaming, &c. with anecdotes of noted players.
MILITARY UNIFORMS.
The publisher has employed the assistance
of an excellent artist to furnish a regular series of Engravings of the different beautiful
uniforms worn by the principal Volunteer
Corps of Philadelphia, New York, Boston,
Baltimore, and other cities, which will be published successively with a particular description of each, furnished by a competent hand.
This subject forms a peculiar attraction to the
general interest of the work.
GENTLEMEN'S FASHIONS.
A quarterly review is made out by a gentleman connected with a fashionable house in Philadelphia, of the various improvements and changes which costume worn
in the dress circles consequently undergo; by
which it will be rendered an easy task for
drapers and tailors, at a distance, to suit
their customers with the most approved colors
and modern style of apparel at the earliest pos-

MISCELLANY.
Although the purpose of our sheet may appear to be confined to the several leading subjects
which have been stated, we deem it proper to say, that these contents, in addition to these, a considerable space is allowed for miscellaneous matter, such as Tales, Poetry, Anecdotes, &c. &c. &c. &c. &c. &c. &c. &c. &c. &c. &c.
and a regular series of the best and
most popular of the old English and American Sporting and National Songs, set to
music, under many other matters, regarding which an interest is supposed to exist.
On the above explanation, it will be evident that the Gentleman's Vase Mecum is

LEONHEIMANN & CO.
THIS popular journal, although but a few
months have passed since it was commenced, has already obtained an extensive and
profitable subscription list, which is daily increasing, and which attests to the interest of the
public in the subjects which it treats, and to the value of the material which it contains.
On the commencement of the approaching
year, the VASE MECUM will undergo
several important improvements—namely
of four pages, it will be increased to twenty
pages, and the present size, and consequently
it will contain almost double the quantity of
reading matter which is now given. Making
it one of the largest and most complete ever
published in the United States. It will be printed on new type, and fine white paper, and
the engravings will be of the most select
and of a superior order. Persons desiring to procure the work at the beginning
of the new volume, will please send their orders at once, as they may fail to be supplied,
as but few copies will be published more than
are actually subscribed for at the time.
The subjects which are particularly em-
braced in this work will be more distinctly
understood from the following brief analysis
to them:
The Dramatic form, material portion of them
Classical and Modern—every week a dramatic play or farce is given. They are selected with a view to their merit, and
a preference, however, will be extended to all
of native productions when they can be obtained. Independent criticisms, carefully
made, and allusions to the merits and demerits
of the plays, are given. Biographical sketches, anecdotes, and lives of prominent comedians
of the present and past ages, of which a
new and inexhaustible compilation is in store.
The publisher, by the liberality of the managers of the two Philadelphia Theatres, and
several other gentlemen connected with the
stage, has obtained a very excellent and numerous selection of Plays and Farces for the Vase Mecum; many of them have never appeared in print.
THE TURF.
A faithful record is kept of all the Running
and Trotting Races in this country and England. Breeds and correct portraits of celebrated thorough-bred Horses are published once a month. Every fact relative to the
breeding, management, keeping, and the discussion of this invaluable animal is particularly attended to.
THE SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.
At home and abroad occupies a considerable portion of our columns, and is collected
from the most authentic sources.
Among the Portraits of celebrated Winning
Horses which have been given, are—
The American Trotting Horse, Edwin For-
rest.
The imported Racing Horse Messenger.
The American Trotting Horse, Lady Jack-
son.
The Racing Horse, Ariel, and her foal by Edgemoor.
The true blooded popular Horse, Chateau
Margaux.
The American Trotting Horse, Top Gal-
lop.
The well known English Race Horse,
Touchstone.
Mudger, the winner of the Derby stakes in June, 1855.
The unrivalled American Trotter Andrew
Jackson.
The celebrated English Horse, Glencoe.
A complete treatise on Riding, with four-
fold illustrations, for improvement of Ladies
in that most healthy of all exercises.
Explanation of the Automaton Chess Player, illustrated by eleven engravings.
Four engravings designed to represent the
scene which took place in Paris, in July last,
on the attempted destruction of the Royal Family
of France, with a view of the infernal Machine,
and a likeness of the Assassin, General.
pying the width of seven columns.
SPORTING.
Besides other matters belonging to this head
there will be published correct accounts of Hunting Matches, Pedestrian Races, Gym-
nastic Exercises, Aquatic Excursions, Fishing, Gaming, &c. with anecdotes of noted
players.
MILITARY UNIFORMS.
The publisher has employed the assistance
of an excellent artist to furnish a regular series of Engravings of the different beautiful
uniforms worn by the principal Volunteer
Corps of Philadelphia, New York, Boston,
Baltimore, and other cities, which will be published successively with a particular description of each, furnished by a competent hand.
This subject forms a peculiar attraction to the
general interest of the work.
GENTLEMEN'S FASHIONS.
A quarterly review is made out by a gentleman connected with a fashionable house in Philadelphia, of the various improvements and changes which costume worn
in the dress circles consequently undergo; by
which it will be rendered an easy task for
drapers and tailors, at a distance, to suit
their customers with the most approved colors
and modern style of apparel at the earliest possible period.
MISCELLANY.
Although the purpose of our sheet may appear to be confined to the several leading subjects
which have been stated, we deem it proper to

these, a considerable space is allowed for miscellaneous matter, such as Tales, Poetry, An-

and a regular series of the best and
most popular of the old English and American Sporting and National Songs, set to
music, under many other matters, regarding which an interest is supposed to exist.
On the above explanation, it will be

TAILORING.
The subscriber presents his grateful acknowledgments to the subscribers of the tailoring and the adjoining counties, for the patronage he has met with, since he commenced the above business, and begs leave to inform them that he has just returned from Baltimore with A NEW MODE OF CUTTING.
That has never been practiced in Eastern,
but one that is almost universally used in Baltimore and in the best establishments; he has also engaged a FIRST RATE WORKMAN,
that none can surpass, which will enable him
to meet the demand of gentlemen for any kind of garments cut and made in the first style.
His work shall be executed in all cases, and otherwise he begs them for their goods or make them others. He respectfully solicits a continuance of the favors of a generous public.
The public's obedient servant,

NOTICE.
The subscriber has received a box of published and unpublished, the property of John Lee Kerr, Esq. in the town of Easton, known by the name of the
THE MODERN
Acting Drama.
Has heretofore been issued in volumes of about 300 pages each, containing the PLAYS
FARCES, &c. which appear in the Vase
Mecum, mostly printed, and bound in elastic
covers, for transportation—and published ever six weeks.—Eight volumes constitute a set or one year's subscription, the terms of which is $3 dollars, payable by advance, or Baltimore to the Vase Mecum, or by the deduction of one third, when subscribing for the Modern Acting Drama. As order for four sets will be thankfully received and the work forwarded to any directions, by enclosing a two dollar note, postage paid. Gentlemen desiring of securing a set of this work, will please to forward their names immediately—the editing, which was a small one, is going on, and it cannot be re-published at the same price.
This work will undergo a material improvement on the commencement of a new series in January, 1856. It is intended to be published Every Month, or at least the beginning as possible, each No. to consist of 48 pages, first better press printing, and 12 numbers to constitute a volume of 576 pages. Every Play or Farce which will be published, to be interpreted by a beautiful and appropriate Engraving—making in the course of the year nearly Fifty Engravings—to which will be added as a Frontispiece a full sized steel Engraving, containing the likenesses of six Distinguished Actors and Actresses. No alterations will be made from the present terms.
Every person who desires to secure a valuable collection, the best Dramatic Authors should forward his name forthwith, as the edition will be limited to the number which is absolutely subscribed for. The subscriber pledges himself to make this work
as perfect in letter and superiority of execution
to his prospectus, or he will refund the price of subscription, free of all charges. No subscription received unless the terms are complied with. No work of this kind has ever been attempted in the United States, and none is more likely to prove popular and satisfactory.
No person collecting four subscribers
to the Gentleman's Vase Mecum, the Modern Acting Drama, and reprinting the amount of one year's subscription, ($3) for each—
shall be presented with the Norelita Magazine,
in two volumes a work of considerable popularity, and which is now selling for $3—It contains the productions of eight different authors well known to the public, as among the most interesting writers of the day.
No person wishing to subscribe to the above will address CHARLES ALEXAN-DER, Athenian Buildings, Franklin Place, Philadelphia, and they may rest assured that every attention will be paid to have them carefully transmitted by mail.

American Magazine
OF USEFUL
AND
VOL. II.
Published by the Boston Bewick Company—
No. 47, Court Street.
The Publishers are encouraged by the fastening reception and extensive circulation of the Magazine for the year past, to prosecute the work with renewed assiduity and with a constant desire to fulfill the promises made in the outset of the work. We intend "to stick to our text," and to serve those who have so liberally cheered us with their kind patronage, with what is useful and pleasant, and of which shall still be our object and
aim. We do not presume to instruct the veteran and erudite scholar, who has spent thirty or forty years in his study; nor to lay open those hidden mysteries of nature which have escaped the grasp of the most inquisitive. Nor do we expect to put, upon the moon or other planets, as to tell what are the trees,
the birds, and animals which may there grow
or live or move. We leave such extraordinary feats to those who are more visionary or more daring than we are. But we hope and intend to keep up the character and spirit of the Magazine in presenting solid and useful articles, which may be instructive to a portion of our readers, and not be considered wholly unimportant to literary men. We consider the whole United States as our field, though not our exclusivity; and we ask the favour of persons of taste and science, to communicate important facts, and natural scenes, and works of art, for the benefit of all our friends.
As republicans, we feel that we are of the same family as those in the south and west—
as friends of improvement, of good morals
and good learning, we wish also to be considered of the same family. If we can do any thing by our labours to increase and strengthen the sentiment and feeling, "we should be ready to the work."
We should call the attention of our present subscribers to the terms of the magazine, and to the notice in the last number relating to the subject. It is very important to us to know where persons to continue taking the Magazine
and to receive the very small sum, charged for it in advance.

PROSPECTUS
FOR A NEW VOLUME OF THE "YOUNG MEN'S PAPER," TO BE CALLED
"THE BALTIMORE ATHENAUM"
AND
"YOUNG MEN'S PAPER," Published under the auspices of the Baltimore
Young Men's Society.
The publishers of the "Young Men's Paper," encouraged by the liberal patronage extended towards them during the first year,
have determined to enlarge and greatly improve their paper on the commencement of the second volume, so as to render it every way creditable to the city, and worthy of much more extensive circulation.
Its establishment was considered, even by its best friends, as but a doubtful experiment;
and though all approved of the high talent
it was taken, but few thought it would live over the first few months, or else that it would divide into a publication less dignified in character, and designed merely for a money making scheme,—from this cause many stood aloof, unwilling to encourage what it was believed would soon languish and die, or deviate
in course from the original professions; these fears have, however, been indulged in vain, and the "Young Men's Paper" is now in the way of permanent establishment.
The publishers have been induced to adopt the new title of
"BALTIMORE ATHENAUM,"
in consideration of its being less vague in signification than the old one. Every person has a peculiar idea of his own, as to what a "Young Men's Paper" should be, and the publishers have experienced enough of the little perplexities incident to the peculiarities of the name, to determine them to fix upon one less liable to so many objections. The publication is purely literary, and only as such do they wish it to be judged.
CONTENTS.—The "ATHENAUM"
will contain Original Tales, Essays and Pa-
er—Intelligence on Scientific Subjects—Notices of Passing Events—Critiques on American Works—Notices of New Publications—Choice Selections from New Works—Sketches of American and European Scenery and Character—Extracts from British and American Magazines—Essays on Political and Moral Philosophy—Biographical Notices of Distinguished Individuals at home and abroad—besides a great variety of matter upon every subject in the whole range to literature.
The publishers will still adhere to their original intention of making the "ATHENAUM" such a paper as shall be worthy of admiration into any circle of society, rigidly excluding every thing from its columns calculated to injure the moral character, or foster a vicious taste, nor in doing this will they re-sander the publication tame or spiritless, and as a guarantee will simply refer to the contents of the first volume.
The second volume will commence about
the middle of November.
The "ATHENAUM" will be printed on a fine quarto paper, and will make a handsome volume of 416 pages; for which a small title page and copious index will be furnished.
Terms—$2.00 per annum, payable in all advance.
Office of publication, N. E. corner of Baltimore and Sharp streets.
No. 10, 1855.
Persons with which we exchange will please copy the above.

SIXTH YEAR OF THE
THE LADY'S BOOK.
OF LITERATURE, FASHIONS, AND
PORTRAITS.
The LADY'S BOOK was the first publication in this country to introduce and perfect
a taste for COLORED PLATES OF THE FASHIONS; and the universal popularity which the book obtained, with the aid of these beautiful and costly embellishments, although they appeared every quarter only, was unprecedented and unexampled.—The publisher, emboldened by his long experience, and the success which has crowned his former efforts to signalize his work, intends, with the coming volumes, to introduce alternately every month, in the course of the year, SIX SPLENDID PLATES OF THE FASHIONS, SUPER-BLY COLOURED. The engravings will be copied from original designs, prepared expressly for that purpose, thereby furnishing the patrons of the work with correct and constant information of the latest and most approved styles for ladies' dresses, as they come out. This arrangement will add considerably to the publisher's present heavy outlay; and while it will materially advance the value and beauty of his work, he trusts with confidence to the liberality of a discerning public for future remuneration, corresponding with his exertions and unremitting efforts to keep pace with the rapid progress of the improvements of the age. The following is the order which will be adopted for the Embellishments
of the Lady's Book for 1855, viz: January, March, May, July, September, November,
SUPREME ENGRAVINGS.
OF THE
PREVAILING FASHIONS
ELEGANTLY COLOURED.
With the June and December numbers will be furnished appropriately ENGRAVED TITLE PAGES, and a general Table of Contents for each Volume. February, April, June, August, October, December,
FINE STEEL ENGRAVINGS.
Illustrating a variety of Interesting Subjects.
Besides every number will be enriched with a Plate from the PORTRAIT GALLERY,
containing the Likenesses of two distinguished individuals. In addition to which,
other and various Engravings will be regularly added—with two Pages of POPULAR MUSIC.
The publisher has at present in the hands of an excellent artist a steel Engraving, which will contain a likeness of all the present reigning Queens of Europe, which will be given as an extra to the January No.
To meet these expensive engagements, it is absolutely necessary that remittances should be promptly made. At the end of the last six months, nearly six hundred names were erased
from our list, in consequence of its appearing from the books that each owed two years' subscription. Many have since paid, and some had previously settled with agents. These purchases, however, are not sufficient to meet the other numerous inconveniences a publisher has to encounter, which should, as far as the Agent is concerned, be remedied by his rendering an account of all the sums that he has received, at least once every six months. Subscribers becoming delinquent, when their names are erased for delinquency, & when they settle they will not again renew their subscription. This, consequently,
is a serious loss to the proprietor. The following suggestions are respectfully tendered
for the consideration of persons who are now in arrears: Let those who owe two years, or that will owe in December or June next,
send a Five Dollar note, on account. Many remain from forwarding their dues because they cannot remit the exact sum; this is not necessary, if they continue their subscription. It is only when a person stops the work, that a liquidation of the whole amount due becomes necessary.
GALLERY OF PORTRAITS.—Under
this head will be published every month, likenesses of distinguished Authors in this country and in Europe. Striking resemblances of Bulwer, Brougham, Hoag, Cunningham, &c.
&c. have been given. The following are now ready for press, and will be published two in each number until the whole is completed:
Shelley, Lewis, Moore, Coleridge, Rogers,
D'Israeli, Neale, Mad. de Stael, Jane Porter,
Campbell, Roscoe, Southey, &c.
Facsimiles of the writing of Washington,
Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams, Byron Scott, and other distinguished persons have already appeared. Those of Napoleon, Franklin, La Fayette, &c. &c. are in preparation.
The publication of views of beautiful scenery
and remarkable public edifices, will be continued as heretofore.
Every number of the work contains forty-eight large octavo pages, printed on fine white paper, the whole neatly stitched in covers.
The postage for each number is 8 cents for any distance under 100 miles—5 cents, over.
To convince persons wishing to subscribe for the Lady's Book, that it is equal in point of embellishments, the interest of its contents,
and general beauty of appearance, to the descriptions repeatedly given at large, and the flattering notices that have been made of it by editors in different sections of the Union, the publisher will forward any monthly number as a specimen, by sending him a letter, post paid.
The work will in future be published and delivered on the first of each month, in Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore, and Charleston.—In New Orleans about the 5th.
Subscribers missing a number, will please inform the publisher, free of postage, and a duplicate will be sent them.
TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, 3 dollars per annum, payable in advance. Postmasters and Agents can have two copies forwarded to any direction, by advancing five dollars.
Address L. A. GODEY, Philadelphia.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT
WITH TED.
A Certain Cure for Dyspepsia, Liver, Biliary, and Nervous
Complaints; Jaundice, General Debility, Lowness of Spirits, and Diseases incident to Females:
DR. LOCKWARD'S
Celebrated Vegetable
Anti-Dyspeptic Elixir.
Symptoms of Dyspepsia.
The first symptoms of this disease is a dis-
tension of food, producing pain and uneasiness
at the region of the stomach; fullness of the tongue; belching of wind, with sour, oily,
or putrescent eructations; pain and tenderness
at the pit of the stomach; pain in the right side, extending after to the right shoulder, and under the shoulder-blade; the same kind of pain is very often experienced in the left side difficultly often in lying on the right or left side; pain also often in the small of the back, pain and giddiness of the head; dimness of the sight; coated tongue; disagreeable taste in the mouth in the morning after arising; colicness
This medicine acts as a gentle purge, by which all food is removed from the stomach,
and at the same time it restores the lost
action of the stomach and bowels, opens obstructions of the Liver, Spleen and Pancreas,
and will be found singularly efficacious in diseases of the Kidneys. As a family medicine
it will be found cheaper and to answer a better purpose, and being composed entirely of vegetable matter it is perfectly innocent, which renders it more valuable.
As a certain remedy or cure for the above diseases this medicine stands incomparably beyond any other now in use. And as neither sore nor can be required to continue the most scrupulous of its utility, then the numberless testimonials which have been given in its favor,
therefore, those testimonials will speak for it
more than all encomiums which could be pronounced. Wherever it has been used, it has invariably been attended with complete success, and that too, in hundreds of cases, where apparently all hopes of cure have been desired of. It was by this important discovery that the proprietor of the above Medicine, was in a few months, restored to perfect health, after years of the most distressing suffering, and after being abandoned by the profession to die without any hope of relief. Since which, hundreds, may thousands, have, in like manner,
been restored from beds of sickness to perfect health.
Dr. Lockward.—Sir I have made use of your valuable Medicine for the Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints, both of which I have labored under for about three years.—I have tried a great many medicines, but all to no effect.—I was induced to give yours a trial, and much to my astonishment & that of my friends,
I was in a short space of time completely relieved of my disease. My symptoms, when I first commenced using your medicine, were, a follows:—After eating my food I felt great distress at the pit of my stomach, with heartburnsourness and vomiting of food, great tenderness
at the pit of the stomach, accompanied with an acute pain in the right side, extending to the top of the shoulder, connected with the pain,
was a prominent enlargement in my right side,
pronounced by my physician "an enlargement
of the liver." My appetite was variable, sometimes very good, at others a complete loss
—bowels obstinately constipated. My head very much affected with giddiness and pain; my eye-sight was also affected with dimness; I was also much emaciated in flesh, and suffered extremely from nervous feelings: sometimes I imagined that a few hours would close my existence; I was disposed to feel constantly cold (especially my feet and hands),—in the warmest days in summer. Thus I suffered until life was to me almost a burden, when hearing of your medicine I was prevailed upon to make use of it; and contrary to my expectation and the expectation of my friends, I was in a few months restored to perfect health, which I still continue to enjoy.—Any person
desirous of knowing the particulars of my case,
by calling upon me, in the Bazaar, Harrison street, I will give the details both as to disease and cure.
Yours, with respect,
JACOB D. HAIR.
