Judge Velvet with your eyes wide open. It is just the good old honest tobacco that it looks and smells

But the mellow, mellow, mellowness—the coolness and the comfort of it! The taste! Well, a pipeful of Velvet proves more than a page of print. Play Ball.

ORIGIN OF DOOR-KNOCKERS

Ample Proof That They Antedate Western Civilization by Many Hundreds of Years.

The origin of door-knockers is almost lost in obscurity, and their development from mere articles of utility to objects of art has been a long, slow process of evolution, covering centuries and antedating western civilization by many hundreds of years.

The first general use of knockers that is positively known was among the ancient Greeks, who probably adopted them from the Egyptians. We are told that the Greeks considered it a breach of good manners to enter a house without warning the inmates, and that the Spartans gave this notice by shouting their arrival, while the Athenians announced themselves by using the knocker. Its introduction doubtless came at the time when doors superseded hangings, for the purpose of insuring greater safety or privacy.

In the Greek houses of the better class a porter was in constant attendance at the door to admit visitors. Slaves were usually employed in this capacity, and were chained to the door-posts to prevent their wandering and shirking the monotony of the duty, and in order to awaken them a short bar of iron was fastened to the door by a chain, to be used as a rapper by those desiring entrance to the house.

It is said that this strictly utilitarian rapper, as it was first called, was often wrenched from the door to be used as a weapon of offense by visitors who were not friendly disposed toward the householder. A later development was a direct consequence of this misuse, the next being in the form of a heavy ring, fastened by a strong clamp or plate to the door, thus serving the double purpose of knocker and handle.

From Greece the custom was transferred to the Romans, and with the eastern trend of early civilization to early every country of Europe. The introduction of knockers to England, here together with Italy and Germany, they have attained the greatest artistic development, was no doubt due to the Roman conquest of western Europe and Britain.—Architecture.

VIOLIN ALWAYS THE SAME

For Centuries Shape and Substance of That Tuneful Instrument Have Not Been Altered.

Even in this age of bustle and change, some few of the old standbys remain unchanged, but at that it is rather startling to realize that the violin, probably the best loved of all musical instruments, has remained virtually unchanged in shape or substance for three centuries. In that time the harpsichord, lute and spinet have passed away, the harp has been improved, the piano has been invented and developed, but the violin, which took a hundred years to assume its present form, since the days of the great Stradivari, the world's most famous violin maker, has remained unchanged.

The violin is popularly supposed to date from the days of the ancient Indians, but the present instrument had its beginning back in the days of the troubadours, who used musical boxes called viols or gulfal fiddles. And as the years went by the little viols were improved. The shape was altered; bit by bit the instrument changed. Now a bridge was added; now a waist; openings on either side of the bridge were added.

And from 1560 to 1780 the violin industry rose to its greatest achievements in the developments of Amati, Guarneri, and Stradivari, Italian violin makers living in the town of Cremona. Since their time there has been no change, and the finest and most priceless musical instrument of today is a Stradivarius violin, made three centuries ago by the master craftsman Stradivari in Cremona.

Poetry and Plagiarism.

After Longfellow's poem "Excelsior," first appeared it was copied all over the country in the various journals. It was not long in reaching England, where it met with the same enthusiastic reception. Longfellow, in his diary of September 1, 1871, notes: "I received from Mr. Henry Gersoni to-day a Hebrew translation of 'Excelsior.'"

In the writing of "Excelsior," Longfellow was charged by a number of critics with plagiarism. One of these claimed that the poet had adopted lines from Brainerd's poem, "The Mocking Bird," but to this the poet replied:

"Now, when in 'Excelsior' I said 'A voice fell like a falling star' Brainerd's poem was not in my mind nor had I ever read it. Of a truth, one cannot strike a spade into the soil of Parnassus without disturbing the bones of some dead poet."—Detroit Free Press.

Had a Wide Use.

Unlike the diamond and the ruby, the emerald appeared to have been widely used, according to ancient and medieval writers, for useful as well as for ornamental receptacles. Drinking cups cut from the gem appeared to be the popular forms. Of some of these receptacles it was claimed that they possessed the magic quality of turning water poured into them into a pleasing drink with an exhilarating kick, perhaps a mint julep, that would doubtless, if they could be found, give them priceless value in the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave and instead of being a June jewel, the emerald would be the peerless gem every month in the year.

A Great Remedy

The merits of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy are well known and appreciated, but there is occasionally a man who had no acquaintance with them and should read the following by F. H. A Travelling Man's Experience

You may learn something from the following by W. H. Ireland, a traveling salesman of Louisville, Ky. "In the summer of 1888 I had a severe attack of cholera morbus. I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy and to take no substitute. I took a double dose of it according to directions and went to sleep. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping place, a well man."

"An apple a day keeps the doctor away," runs the old proverb. Apples, other kinds of fruits, and vegetables, have all played a big part in keeping Old Man Hungry

NO WONDER SHE HAS A SMILE

The big rooster lying so quietly in the girl's arms has just been looked over by a poultry expert and declared to be in tiptop shape for exhibition at any show his

MALEKULANS NOT ALL BAD

Pugnacious South Pacific Islanders Scrupulously Honest, Though Careless of Human Life.

The sending of a small naval force to Malekula island, in the New Hebrides, for the protection of planters against the natives brings some incidental information about a peculiar people with the undesirable fame of being the most bellicose inhabitants of any island in the South Pacific. Malekula island has long been under the joint control of France and England, and at intervals some display of force has been necessary to make the islanders respect the local representatives of a more advanced civilization. Despite their reputation for pugnacity, however, there is much, declares a recent writer, to be said for the Malekulans. For one thing, they are remarkably honest; the traveler who goes among them knows that however he may fare as regards personal safety, he is in no danger whatever of losing his personal property. And if he is careful not to irritate his hosts, he is likely to come away with a pleasant memory of the native village community, its discussions of community affairs in a kind of village forum, its dances, and its children's playground under the banyan tree. He learns also that many of the villages have a social club for men and that the islander, who is also a crack marksman with bow and arrow, takes great satisfaction in belonging to it.

JUST MISSED SEEING FATHER

Little Incident Reported From France Shows That Political Trickery Is Not Unknown There.

When it comes to the matter of political trickery, modern nations one and all seem to be pretty well tarred with the same brush. The following incident retold with a flavor of Gallic irony by the Cri de Paris is said to have taken place at Toulouse.

On election day a young man came to a booth to vote.

"But, monsieur," said one of the overseers, "you have already voted."

"I? Allos done! I am certain that I have not."

A search being made of the records, it is discovered that there has been an error in the recording of the Christian name. It is not Marius Tartarin that has voted but Gonzague Tartarin.

"Gonzague!" cried the young man; "you are quite sure that he has voted?"

"Yes, indeed! Look, here is the register."

"Ah, how I regret not having been here," said the young man. "I would have embraced him with much pleasure. He is my father."

"Your father?"

"Yes, and I have not seen him since he died, four years ago."—The Living Age.

A "General Settlement"

In the rich spoil that the Hapsburgs accumulated over many centuries, much of which is coming back to the nations that owned it, there is hardly a more interesting item than the coronation robes that Italy now proposes to have returned to Palermo, Sicily. Henry VI, emperor of the Holy Roman empire in the twelfth century, subdued the Sicilies and took back to Germany the gorgeous costume that Saracen artisans had made for Norman kings who had come into control a hundred years earlier. Since then the robes have been worn by Hapsburg monarchs at their coronations, and of late years they have been kept, between these ceremonial occasions, in the imperial treasury in Hofburg, Vienna. The robes include a magnificent mantle, a wonderfully embroidered alb or long gown of fine linen, and a girdle of gold scales. As between Austria and Italy, it certainly looks like what Weelum Sprunt would have called a "general settlement."

A Fellow Feeling

"I saw an ant on the window sill of my room on the seventh floor of the hotel where I stopped in Kansas City," related Gabe Gosnell of Grudge, who was just back from a brief stay in the Big Burg. "I looked at him a long time, and says I: 'Little feller, I don't know how you got here, away up in the air above the ground you are used to, but you don't look any more out of place than I feel, with all the cuffed rush and hurry and uproar going on around me day and night, in a never-ending hooraw,' says I."—Kansas City Star.

New Roads in France

Four great mountain roads are to be reigned and rebuilt in the upper Vosges, leading from France into Alsace.

The Commission des Routes of the district of the Vosges is looking to the near future when tourists will pass that way. Largely the roads existed as strategic military mountain roads and the present effort is in line with making them available for pleasure automobiles. Taken together they will form a new approachable circuit and entrance into upper Alsace.

Science Can Overcome Locusts

Fruit trees are always the special objectives of the locusts when they sound the rallying cry, and when thorough preparations are not made against their coming they can leave a trail of ruin in the wake of their flight; but the science of the day is almost a match for the pest, and no such havoc can attend his attack as he achieved in the earliest days of his destructive history.

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ill-afflicting people today can be traced back to kidney trouble.

The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers, of your blood.

Kidney disease is usually indicated by weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago.

All these derangements are nature's signals to warn you that the kidneys need help. You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately.

"Chinese cooking" had for its general basis chicken broth or poultry jelly and red sauce. The latter accompanies nearly all the dishes; it is a kind of dissolved meat jelly flavored with pimento and coriander. Pork and mutton are almost exclusively eaten; horse and camel meat, however, may be bought. The number of edible dogs eaten annually in China is estimated at 5,000,000.

Edinburgh Landmark Gone

An interesting bit of old Edinburgh, dating back about 1600, has been burned. The destroyed building, which consisted of a single story and attic, was one of the landmarks of the Holyrood area. It was the old Yew Tree tavern, and stood inside the bounds of the Holyrood sanctuary for debtors, within which, in days of yore, the fugitive was free from the attentions of his creditors.

Gruesome Binding

There is a copy of Milton's poems in the public library at Exeter (Eng.) bound in part of the skin of George Cudmore, who, with Sarah Dunn, was committed to the Devon county jail on October 30, 1829, for murdering his wife by poisoning her, was tried at the Lent assizes in the following year, and executed on March 25, 1830.

"Knocked Into a Cocked Hat"

The meaning of this expression is not generally known. "Cocked hat" was a variety of the game of tennis, in which only three were used, set up at angles of a triangle. When, in bowling at tennis, all were knocked down except the three at the corners, the set was said to be "knocked into a cocked hat."

Memory Must Be Cultivated

In any system of mental development, the memory must be cultivated at the outset, and that cultivation must continue unceasingly. It is fortunate indeed that every average person has a mind capable of excellent memory. It is only necessary that the native powers should be properly employed.

Time To Say Good-Bye

There is no more gracious way of terminating a telephone conversation than with "Good-bye." It is a simple expression indicating that the call is ended, and it prevents confusion in hanging up the receiver.

Sometimes the operator is blamed for a supposed cut-off when one of the talkers hangs up without taking the trouble to say the usual final word. We heartily recommend "Good-bye."

MILK STRAINING IMPORTANT

Utensils and Strainer Cloths Should Be Thoroughly Washed and Then Sterilized.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Strainer cloths containing 35,000,000 bacteria per square inch have been found in use on dairy farms.

The average strainer cloth, of which about 36 square inches is in contact with the milk, is likely to contain fully a billion bacteria if it is not washed and sterilized after each milking.

If the cloth is folded, the number of bacteria is likely to be still greater. Milk produced under conditions where utensils were not sterile was found to contain more than 688,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter.

When all utensils were sterilized, the average bacterial count was only about 31,000 per cubic centimeter, or less than one-twentieth as many.

Bacteria in milk are not necessarily injurious to health, but they reduce its keeping quality. Certain kinds of bacteria, if too numerous, also affect its palatability.

MARY'S SOLDIER

By MARGUERITE I. BLUE.

In one of our Northern states where the mountains rise highest and streams flow swiftest, there lies securely hidden from the world a tiny hamlet. On the last, most graceful curve of the road leading from the town, on slightly raised ground, stood with quiet superiority, a long, low comfortably modern bungalow.

Behind the guardians, Mrs. Marden, mistress of the house and mother of four healthy grown children, sat in a low wicker rocker, knitting. Not quite forty, plump, and with a sense of humor, Mrs. Marden surveyed life from a safe and sane altitude. Now as she sat, her face suddenly lighted and she smiled as she rose in greeting to her partner, who was equally plump, a little over forty, and with the same sense of humor.

"Supper ready, mother?" he asked, with that intimacy which needs no acknowledgment of meeting.

"Yes, we'll sit right down. Come, Mary and Dot," she called to her first and last born. "Come, boys," this last to two boys just turned into serious young manhood, recognized by carefully tied neckties and perfectly creased trousers. "Supper is ready."

How could they know, quietly eating their evening meal, that the great god Mars had sent his dark cloud to hang over America. That Clotho, the distaff holder, had snarled her golden threads and only by breaking them could her sister go on spinning.

"Mother, mother, someone's coming up the drive!" cried Dot, simultaneously jerking back her chair—the rest

CANS BETTER THAN BUCKETS

Much More Convenient for Handling Milk and Cream in Transferring to the House.

Milk and cream from even a few cows can be much more conveniently handled in regular milk cans than in the shallow pans and wide-mouthed buckets commonly used.

Cans are convenient for collecting the milk at the barn and transferring it to the house.

These cans may be bought in various sizes. For handling cream and skim milk where separators are used, or even where cream is set to sour for butter making, the "shotgun can" is very convenient. It can be easily covered and set in water and is convenient to handle.

SYSTEM OF CROP ROTATION

Successful Dairymen Will Have One Market or Cash Crop Besides Profit From Dairy.

The most successful dairymen have a system of crop rotation that enables them to have one market or cash crop, besides the profit of the dairy. The increased fertility that is brought on to the farm from the use of concentrated feed stuffs more than offsets the amount of fertility removed by the sale of the dairy products. Another factor is that the same help required to properly conduct a dairy can find time outside of the routine dairy work to care for a profitable market or cash crop.

It seemed as if there was nothing to be said.

"Mary, it is very late. You will wait till I come back, Mary? You must wait."

"Yes," she replied, "I shall always wait." He kissed her very gently.

Mary Marden walked slowly home from the Red Cross club, knitting as she walked. She had been rolling bandages most of the day and now she was tired. The outlook on life had changed very much for her.

"Mary, Mary, a telegram!" shouted Dot, racing toward her.

"A telegram," repeated Mary weakly. "Where?"

"Bill's got it," said Dot, as if she had imparted some important information.

"Billie, do hurry," from Mary. But Billie, with exasperating slowness, handed her all the rest of the mail before he got to the telegram.

Mary tore off one end of the envelope, not heeding in her haste how she got it off. Her hands trembled so that she could hardly unfold it.

"Why, why," she exclaimed. "He's in this country and I never knew. He'll probably be up here in a couple of weeks. Come quick. Let's tell mother and father."

She was tired no longer. The birds sang sweeter, the sky looked bluer, the sun shone brighter as she hurried toward the house.

The two weeks passed very quickly, but it was nearer four weeks, late one afternoon, while Mrs. Marden was bustling about setting the table with this china and sparkling glass for supper, that Mr. Marden came up the drive with a tall, young soldier in overseas uniform. The aroma of newly made biscuits filled the house. Dot was interpreting the latest music by a one-finger method, and Mary, enveloped in a huge apron, was cutting cake. Suddenly she turned and there he stood laughing at her. For just a moment she was startled, but a second later she flew toward him, knife, apron and all.

"My, but I'm glad to see you!" she exclaimed.

But there was to be no more peace for them that evening. Already the rest of the family had closed in and commenced a bombardment of questions that it would take weeks to answer.

EXTRACTS USED FOR BEVERAGE

Revenue Commissioner Says Private Sale Is Being Abused

Collector of Internal Revenue Joshua W. Miller received additional instructions last week from Commissioner Rogers relative to the enforcement of the law against the sale of medicinal and toilet preparations and flavoring extracts for beverage purposes in prohibition territory. In his letter the commissioner writes:

The general abuses recently discovered in prohibition territory of preparations manufactured with non-beverage alcohol, indicate that a change is necessary in the Bureau policy of enforcing the regulations governing such manufacture.

It has become clear that greater precaution must be taken to prevent the marketing, under the guise of legitimate and necessary medicinal and toilet preparations and flavoring extracts of preparations which do not conform to the standards fixed by regulations and which are easily and generally diverted to beverage use. It is not only important that the revenues should be protected in this regard, but also that manufacturers who habitually comply with the regulations and take care that their preparations are not sold as beverages, should not be discredited through the operations of the unscrupulous.

Abuses have developed to such an extent that it is believed to be essential to depart from the lenient policy adopted in the past in enforcing these Treasury decisions. Hereafter, all manufacturers of preparations in which non-beverage alcohol is authorized to be used will be uniformly held for tax and penal liability where their products have been found to be manufactured and marketed otherwise than according to the regulations. This rule will be followed even though there is no evidence indicating bad faith or neglect on the part of the manufacturer or user of non-beverage alcohol.

The general excuse given by manufacturers whose preparations are found upon the market after having been sold for beverage purposes and manufactured otherwise than according to the regulations, has been that such manufacturers were in ignorance of the requirements of the bureau. Accordingly, you are directed to send to each manufacturer, pharmacist, or other person in your district holding a permit to use non-beverage alcohol in preparations of this class, a circular letter calling attention to the fact that all preparations manufactured by them must conform to the standards of the U. S. P., the National Formulary, or Circular 19 of the Department of Agriculture, and to the regulations of the bureau governing the manufacture and sale of such preparations.

The circular letter should advise the permit holders that through constant supervision and frequent tests they secure themselves that their products are being manufactured according to regulations and that the department will hereafter hold them accountable. The duty is also clearly upon them, under the law, not only to assure themselves that their products are being manufactured in a legal manner, but that they are not distributed in such manner as to encourage their use as a beverage.

In conclusion the letter should carry the warning that whenever a preparation is found upon the market which does not conform to the required standards, full tax liability and all penalties, civil and criminal, imposed by the law, will be asserted regardless of the ostensible purpose for which the preparation is made.

Manufacturers, wholesale and retail dealers will similarly be held strictly accountable whenever it is found that the preparations made or distributed by them have been made or distributed under such preventable circumstances as would have assured them, had they cared to ascertain the facts, that the preparations were to be distributed and used as beverages.

ONE WEAK SPOT

Many Princess Anne People Have a Weak Part And Too Often It's The Back

Many people have a weak spot. Too often it's a bad back. Twinges follow every sudden twist. Dull aching keeps up, day and night. Backache is often from weak kidneys. In such case a kidney medicine is needed.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

For backache and urinary ills, Princess Anne people recommend the remedy.

Mrs. H. B. Wharrett, Extension Antioch ave., Princess Anne, says: "I had been troubled nearly all my life with kidney complaint and had severe backaches at times. If I did anything that caused me to stoop over, I suffered very much with severe pains through the small of my back, especially when I straightened up. At times I could see little black spots and fiery flashes in front of me. During the last attack, I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and I have had no further trouble. I now recommend this medicine to my family."

Advice To Boys

The boy who has the freedom of the street after nightfall without business or permission, is cultivating a dangerous habit. Any place where a boy has no business is no place for him, be it on the street, in stores or in the livery barn. A boy that is all right will prefer his home, friends, books and newspapers to the class found on the street. Business men of all kinds look upon the boy loiterer as the "dead beat" of the future. Boys, if you will adopt the right habits now you will, in manhood, be useful to the world. You will be a source of comfort to your parents and friends, and you will have the satisfaction of looking back upon a well spent past.

An irritable and fault finding disposition is often caused by indigestion. A man with good digestion and bowels that act regularly is usually good natured. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels.

Remember that when you bring your Ford car to us for mechanical attention that you get the genuine Ford service—materials, experienced workmen and Ford factory prices. Your Ford is too useful, too valuable to take chances with poor mechanics, with equally poor quality materials. Bring it to us and save both time and money. We are authorized Ford dealers, trusted by the Ford Motor Company to look after the wants of Ford owners—that's the assurance we offer. We are getting a few new Ford cars and first come first to receive delivery.

For 30 years, through times of panic and times of war this bank has steadily grown and prospered.

At no time in its history have depositors had occasion to be apprehensive over the safety of funds left in its keeping.

Conservative, yet progressive, its strength and reputation for its dealing have become a matter of tradition in the territory it serves.

Announcing The New Series Chandler Dispatch

THE Chandler Dispatch, for a year past, has outsold all other cars of the sport type. The Chandler factory has been unable to build this car in quantities which could fill the demand. Its popularity is one of the high spots in motordom.

And now comes the new series Dispatch—a snappy, handsome car. Thousands of alert Americans, who appreciate Chandler quality, welcome the new Dispatch. You, too, will be delighted with it if you wish a really good car, with style in design and beauty in finish and unexcelled in its ability to perform.

The new series Chandler Dispatch is handsomely upholstered in bright finish hand buffed leather. It seats four passengers in the ultimate degree of comfort. Its finish is in the beautiful new Chandler Rainbow Blue, richly lustrous.

You are asked to pay much more for cars which might perhaps be compared with the Chandler. And cheap cars sell for but little less

Heat Holds No terror for the COOL CLAD MAN

IDEAL—that greatly abused word—aptly describes Palm Beach cloth as a summer-clothes fabric.

It has long been the dream of the manufacturer to secure a material which, while light in weight, would yet be adaptable for the purposes of fine tailoring. And Palm Beach fills the bill.

You simply cannot understand the comfort and satisfaction of these eminently sane garments unless you have had the personal experience of wearing them.

Tropical-weight coat and trouser suits made of Palm Beach cloth, Summer worsteds, Breeze-weave, mohair—$10 to $20.
