LOTHING

On the foregoing petition, it is ordered, this lifth day of September, in the year eighteen hundred and eighty seven, by the Circuit Court for Wicomico county, in equity, that the petitioner, by causing a copy of this order, to be inserted in some newspaper, printed in Wicomico County, Md., once in each of four successive weeks, before the 15th day of October, 1887, give notice to Hattle W. J. Ewell of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to be and appear in the Court, in person by solicitor, on or before the 10th day of October, next, to show cause if any she have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed. The petition states that E. Stanley Toadwin, as trustee, under decree of this Court sold to Hattle W. J. Ewell, the property decreed, to be sold in case of Purnell Toadvine vs. Anna L. and Solomon H. Moore, for which said Hattle paid $1800 cash and gave her bonds for $182.00 with interest from 11th day of December 1899, and that said bonds, nor any part thereof have been paid, although over due and payment demanded and that the said Hattle W. J. Ewell is a non-resident, and pray for a re-cale of said property at the risk of said Hattle W. J. Ewell. CHAS. F. HOLLAND, True Copy, Test: F. M. BLEMONS, Clerk.

The production of a cast of Haydn's skull at a recent scientific meeting at Berlin recalls the weird story of the abstraction of the composer's head from the coffin after burial which most musical readers are familiar with. Haydn died strange we should meet. I was just on May 31, 1809, during the French occupation of Vienna. In 1820 his remains were exhumed in order to be transported to the family vault of the Esterhasy, at Eisenstadt, and the body in the coffin was found to be headless. A search was made in Vienna among collectors devoted to craniology, a skull, supposed to be Haydn's was found, and buried with the body in the Esterhasy vault.

An interesting contribution to the strange story is now made by Herr the traces of the polyearian tumors from Barton Dawn, after a few steps, turned made of varnished wood in the form of a to look back, he saw only the gleam of sarcophagus ornamented with a gilt lyre, golden curls and flutter of a white veil. wherein I deposited this precious skull.

WHO IS THE LABORER'S FRIEND? Who constitutes the friend of the la boring man? Upon this subject there has been lately, any amount of sentimental trash uttered.

There are those, even in our own com munity, who seem to think that public men can with a single stroke of the pen open vast monetary streams of unfailing source and every one, whether he labors or remains idle will have an abundance of life's choicests fruits. Now what we conceive to be a friend of the laboring man is not he who stands upon the publie platform and discourses upon gilded theories and a Utopian government where bread ready buttered is furnished free, and where no corn is accepted as a gift unless it is shelled-this class of men is neither a friend to the laboring man nor useful to any community; but what we conceive to be a friend of the laboring man is he who by his industry talent and capital, conducts vast enterprises, giving lowing them a sufficient compensation to tains, forests of them. W. & B.'s

This is our third years' run on it. Thought we made up enough of it the first season; thought the same every season since. Every season we have had more customers for it than we had goods. This season we're not going to make that mistake. We'll have enough for everybody, and to last the season out.

We have pretty big ideas of what we can sell. When it sells faster than even we expected rely on it, it must be good. There isn't as good to be had anywhere for equal money.

It's all-wool: all long wool: long strong wool: nothing but wool: neither cotton nor flocking to make it heavier or lower the cost.

It's an honest cloth, through and through, with a heap of wear past the ordinary in it. No other store has it. We twisted and pulled and harried it in all sorts of ways to try how it would stand rough usage, and then took all the mill made.

A negro by the name of Rayne was suspected, and these suspicions were made more plausible when it was learned that he had during the day, attempted to borrow $1.00, without being successful; but went the next day to the depot with his wife, and purchased two tickets to Salisbury giving therefor a ten dollar bill, after which he went across the street and

The route surveyed seems to be-not the next best, but the best, for the following reasons: First, because it crosses the county from West to East-from the Nanticoke to the Pocomoke. At Salisbury it would connect with the W. & P., R. R. thus giving to the eastern half of the county equal benefits with the western. Secondly, this is the only practical route to the oyster region of our county, which could, and undoubtedly would in the arrest of Robbins, who came over to near future, be reached by a branch road Salisbury with Rayne Saturday morning, from Quantico. Thirdly, it will afford a direct and speedy route to Baltimore now the best produce market in the country, and destined to be still better in the future. And lastly, if this road i at Fruitland. we settle down to our present railroad

Let the people consider these thoughts, not in a selfish or captious spirit, and act

At the recent meeting of farmers and taxpayers to consider the Baltimore & Eastern Shore railroad it was stated that the counties through which the said road is surveyed would be benefitted to the amount of $500,000 within a very short time. Five years was mentioned by the chairman. But if the land and its factor in valuation be considered together, it can easily be seen that the estimate, instead of being wild and exaggerated, is far below the literal truth. In estimating land we must look at its factors also

Thus land in itself is of little or no value, but we must add, 1st, labor on it, 2nd, intelligence and skill, 3rd, additional fertility from any cause, 4th, situation with regard to commerce, 5th, accidentals, that is, canals, railroads, towns or buildings, 6th, increase by divisions, that Armstrong's decision, Jno. Hughs, vs., s, dividing large tracts into small ones Thos. W. Bennett, trial before court for more thorough cultivation by a greater number of owners; and last though not least, the general thrift, intelligence and refinement which follow all these-

Taking into account all the above we see at once that our road from Bay to Sea, some 78 miles, would be in value in five'years, far nearer one million than the half of it. As to our county, it is easy to see that we could give to the company building it the $25,000 even the $50,-000, and make largely by the operation in at most ten years, and be receiving more taxes at a lower tax rate than now. And then too, if we want a greater population, more consumers and producers, we must arouse, join in, keep step to the music of the worlds, great procession in had no power to increase or lessen the its rapid march to the near millennium. damages. Another laudable institution of community is the Temperance Union, recently organized by the young ladies of the town. It promises to be a success. The oldest person living in our vicinty is Mrs. Anna W. Bethards, who comoleted her nintieth year on Sept. 22nd. She has reared twelve children, eight of whom are now living; and as nearly as can be counted, her grand-children and great-grand-children number more than one hundred. Some of these are in the south, some are in the west, and some are here. Seven of her children and a few of her grand-children were at the ld homestead, where the aged matron has lived nearly seventy-two years, to celebrate the anniversary of her birth. The old lady is quite active, often goes around to see to her poultry and other things connected with household affairs. She remembers about the aunoyances of the war of 1812, and could see to thread her needle without the use of glasses untill about two years ago. On the day of the family reunion she entertained her guests and was very careful of their comfort, and took some part in preparing linner. She is very entertaining, and her memory is good. With more than usual confidence we again offer, Our Mixture B. for wheat

From our knowledge of Agricultural Chemistry, personal experience, observation, ests and reports, we know what constitutes a complete manure, suited to the growing crop and the permanent improvement of the soil. We have built large trade near home, and we propose to hold and extend it, and we know the only sure way to establish a permanent business is to give an article of superior merit and up to the standard.

As the price of our materials have declined we have raised the standard, by the addition of bone, blood, etc., until to-day Our Mixture B. is intrinsically worth at least five dollars a ton more than it was five years ago.

We could furnish hundreds of testimonials, but knowing the value, generally of patent medicine and fertilizer testimonials from unknown and unreliable parties, we choose rather to refer any one in want of the best, to any person, anywhere and

Thousands of invalids have been unexpectedly cured by their use, and they are the wonder and dread of Physicians and Medical Colleges in the U.S., so much so, that Physicians graduating at Medical Colleges are required to discountenance Proprietary Medicine, as through them the country doctor loses his most profitable practice. As a man-ufacturer of Proprietary Medicines, Dr. G. G. Green of Woodbury, N. J., advocates most cordially, -in order to prevent the risk that the sick and afflicted are liable to, almost daily by the use of Pat-ent Medicines put out by inexperienced persons for aggrandizement only, and the employing of inexperienced and incompetent doctors by which almost every village and town is cursed; and men claim-ing to be doctors who had better be undertakers, experimenting with their pat-ients and robbing them of their money and health,-for the good of the afflicted that our government protect its people by making laws to regulate the practice of medicine by better experienced and more thoroughly educated Physicians, and thereby keep up the honor and cred-it of the profession, also form laws for the recording of recipes of Proprietary Medicines, under examination and decision of experienced Chemists and Physicians appointed for that purpose by the Government, before they are licensed for general use. He would most freely place the recipe of Boschee's German Syrup and Green's August Flower under such laws, had he the proper protection, and thereby save the prejudice of the people, and avoid the competition and imitation of worthless medicines -Copied from the Chicago Mail, August 3,

Probably a True Story.

Henry Simpson, of this city, has been in the habit of using dynamite for the purpose of blowing old tree stumps out of the ground. The other day he carelessly left the dangerous compound lying by the side of a stump. The dynamite was mixed with sawdust and gave an exceeding pleasant odor, which attracted the attention of two of Simpson's hogs.

They finished their inspection of the snuff by esting it, and then one of and he now mourns the loss of fifteen post at the entrance of a mule's stall. The mule remained passive for only a few moments, and then, as mules will do, gave the hog a tremendous kick in the side. A terrific explosion followed, and when the smoke and dust had cleared away the hog was only found in detachments, while an enormous hole marked the spot where he had stood. The mule, of course, survived, or it

The other hog escaped, and is now at large, greatly to the discomfiture of those in the habit of straying away from home at night.—Henderson (Ky.) Journal.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchits, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering I will answer it.

Materials of the suffering I will answer it.

Mixing Royal Babies. Caroline H. Guelph, who is at present in New York, claims to have been defrauded of her rights, and to be the real Princess Victoria, formerly Princess Royal of England, and now the wife of the Crown Prince of Germany, Her story is that the late Prince Consort had a child by the Countess Reiss about the time Queen Victoria's first child was born; that Prince Albert was very much in love with the Counters, and that he mixed the babies up. The wife of the Crown Prince of Germany is, therefore, the daughter of the Countes, and the other baby (Caroline Guelph) is the real princess. The tale combines the thrilling originality in one of Reynolds's novels with the rich and fruity flavor of the American chestnut. The New York Times says the Princess is writing a book.

Drunkness or the Liquer Habit Positively Cured by administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific. It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For full particulais, address GOLDEN SPECIFIC CO., 185 Race st., Cincinnati, O.

The Indianapolis News says: "Last winter a Baltimore reporter was sent to him that the grand jury had done a certain thing. It was held that he must tell or be deemed guilty of contempt. Per contra, a California judge has just decided that 'a reporter on a newspaper receives his information professionally and need not give the source of information.' This is an advanced ruling, and it remains to be seen if it will become general."

"Got Mess the Bunk."
The Central Labor Union's meeting in New York, Sunday, came near being the scene of a free fight. A series of rec the score of a free light. A series of re-olutions was offered calling upon the union to condemn the filling Supreme Court judges for sentencing the seven anarchiets in Chicago. The resolutions were listened to quietly, but as soon as they were finished, Delegate Wrinstein, a printer, moved that a committee be apa printer, moved that a committee be appointed to call a mass meeting to condemn the sentence. This was followed by a motion to lay the resolutions on the table. The socialists protested rehemently, and the motion was lost. Then the anarchists were attacked by Hugh Worskey, of the Carpenters and Johnson Hugh was and Vice Chairman Manager Hugh was a long to the land was long to the Joiners' Union, and Vice Chairman Mc-Kim made a furious enslaught upon all socialists and anarchists. The uproar following was deafening, and the proprietor of the hall appeared upon the plat-form, begging the delegates to desist, as his business would be ruined by such noise on Sunday afternoon. Comparative quiet being restored, G. G. Block, of the National Bakers' Union, began speaking of the resolution. He was in-terrupted by a cry of "God bless the hand that threw that bomb." "Yes," added Mr. Block, "God bless that bomb." The The majority of the delegation cried Parmers of Wicomico. 'Shame," and another scene'of confusion ensued. Finally a motion was made to call the previous question and this was passed. The final vote in favor of Weinstrin's mation carried it, and the minority left the hall under protest.

Dr. J. S. Combs, Owensville, Onio, says 'I have given Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver oil with Hypophosphites to four patients with better results than seemed possible with any remedy. All were hereditary cases of Lung disease, and advanced to that stage when Coughs, pain in the chest, frequent breathing, frequent pulse, fever, and Emaciation. All these cases have increased in weight from 16 to 28 lbs., and are not now needing any medicine. I prescribe no other Fmulsion of Cod Liver Off with Hypophosphites, Lime, and Soda, but Scott's, believing it to be the best."

Robbed on a Race Track William W. Bair, who drove Maud S when she made the fastest trotting time on record, and who is the trainer and driver of Johnson, Westmont Larene and other noted race horses, had a thrilling experience with three highwaymen on Belmont race track Saturday morning, hundred dollars in cash. He was dragthem, probably to aid and accelerate di-gestion, began rubbing its side against a ged from his seat by three men who took his money and escaped.

STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

The Extraordinary Attractions of the Centennial Celebration, and the great public interest centered therein, have caused us, for a time. to p stoone inviting conspicious attention to the unparalleled attractions we have to offer the present season.

For the first time since the occupancy of our new buildings we are able to say that we are fully prepared for the first season.

Puring the entire Summer we have been in a state of preparation, with an army of workmen busily engaged day and sight in thoroughly renovisting our old store premises, so that in conveniences for customers and in facilities for the transaction of business they will fully correspond with the new additional buildings, which have also been perfected. This work of preparation and of finishing is at last accomplished, and we are able to open

Wicomico County.

On the foregoing petition, it is ordered, this 12th day of September, in the year eighteen hundred and cighty seven, by the Circuit Court for Wicomico county, in equity, that the petitioner, by causing a copy of this order, to be inserted in some newspaper, printed in Wicomico County, Md., once in each of four successive weeks, before the 18th day of October, 1887, give notice to Hattle W. J. Ewell of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to be and appear in the Court, in person by solicitor, on or before the 18th day of October, next, to show cause if any she have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed. The petition states that E. Stanley Toadwin, as trustee, under decree of this Court sold to Hattle W. J. Ewell, the property decreed, to be sold in case of Purnell Toadvine vs. Anna L. and Solomon R. Moore, for which said Hattle paid $1800 cash and gave her bonds for $182,00 with interest from 11th day of December 1899, and that said bonds, nor any part thereof have been paid, although over due and payment demanded and that the said Hattle W. J. Ewell is a non-resident, and pray for a resale of said property at the risk of said Hattle W. J. Ewell.

WHERE THE WATER LILIES GREW

BY ALICE DALE Again and again Allyn Brandon pulled the shining brass bell-knob at the front door of the pretty, yellow brick and red erra cotta villa. But his repeated ringing elicited no ponse, and presently, with a look of ore wonder than disappointment, he seated himself in a big rocker on the shady porch, drew forth his cigar-case

"There must be somebody aroun omewhere; they would never have left the house entirely," he thought philosophically, as he drew a long, deliciou puff, and watching the perfumed smoke floating in fantastic rings and spirals above his handsome bloude head, And, as he smoked on in lazy resigns would like-something quaint and pic-Corrie hated the glare of yellow brick, and the gaudy red lines of grotesque terra cotta squares and figures.

But of one thing he was quite sure his home would be the happiest in all the land, and Corrie the happiest wife, if his great love and his life's devotion could make her so. Her wishes should be law to him; whatever she preferred would always be right and best in his

And then the thin blue coils of smoke seemed by the enchantment of his daydream to resolve themselves into a bright vision with lithesome figure all sylphlike grace, with laughing, bonny face framed in velvety brown waves of hair, pink moss-rose, with eyes large and round and dark like those of a gypsy. And the trumpet flowers clambering up the yellow pillars of the porch shook their great orange and scarlet horns, and seemed to whisper: "Corrie loves you-Corrie is to be your

Perhaps time and place would favor him; anyhow once captive in his little boat, with the vide water about them, his shy little

"Is ago a very elaborate exposition of Mr. determining the succession of the basic Ignatius Donnelly's attempt to dethrone Shakespeare and award the honor of the the use of the various modifiers; third, authorship of the so-called Shakespeare the rule determining the column of page plays to Lord Bacon. The article is written by Prof. Thomas Davidson, a wellknown scholar, philosopher and critic, whose opinion as to Mr. Donnelly's work cannot fail to carry great weight. Mr. Davidson has recently paid Mr. Donnelly a visit at his home at Hastings, Minn. examined the manuscript of his forthcoming work, the "Great Cryptogram;" had the main features of the cipher explained to him, and obtained permission to report. Before examining Mr. Donnelly's work Mr. Davidson was an entire skeptic in regard to the Bacon theory but he now admits that he is very much shaken in his belief that the plays were written by Shakespeare, and declares that if they had come down to us without any author's name attached they would have been unhesitatingly attributed to Bacon He says he reached this conviction altowhich he lived. gether apart from the cipher. The article gives a brief summary of the results resched in Mr. Donnelly's book, which is to be published about into two parts—an argument and a demonstration. The former collects, arthat have been put forward in the last 30 years in favor of the Baconian theory, 30 years in favor of the Baconian theory, again on the head and the sides of his and adds a large number to them. The body. His health was not good; his author first endeavors to show that the education and character of William were such that it is even ridiculous to imagine that he could have written plays which are distilled from all the wisdom and the stick breaks." There is here certainlearning of the world. He shows that ly no lack of vigor or definiteness. his education must have been extremely meagre, while that of the author of the plays was broad and deep. He emphasizes the fact that we have no record of What are they? As a general thing any study on the part of Shakespeare. His account of Shakespeare's character will certainly be a surprise to most readers. He shows him to have been steeped in almost every kind of vice, to have heen a fornicator, an adulterer, a usurer, an oppressor of the poor, a drunkard, a systematic liar and forger of pedigrees, dying in the prime of life from the results of a three days' drunken spree. He next shows that we have no record that Shakespeare ever owned a library or even a book, and that not a single scrap of manuscript of his has come down to as, not even a letter to any of the nunerous men with whom he is known to have been acquainted, nay, more, that there is extant no letter addressed to him except one asking for a loan of money. There is nothing to show that Shakespeare was not very nearly illiterate. Mr. Donnelly next proves very clearly that while the author of the plays was an accomplished lawyer, there is nothing to show that Shakespeare ever opened a law book or was inside a lawver's office except on usurious business.

And, as Allyn gazed with all his an guished soul in his bewildered eyes, he perceived the helpless figure, half suspended and salf cradled, in the netting of the tangled tree-branches.

The nam, at teast, a principal half in them, supplying the scholarship, the art and the philosophy. After the argument making the authorship of Bacon probable comes the demonstration, that is, the cipher narrative, which has already aroused so much interest in the public. turn.

Had she been mistaken in his senti; ments toward her? she questioned herself.
Had all his thrilling glances and, whispers meant nothing?

It was so strange, his departing so abruptly! his not awaiting her! and after they had planned such a delightful row together!

It seems that is charming. It being certain that Mr. Donnelly is not a fraud, and not likely. his character and intelligence being taken into account, to be self-deceived, Mr. Davidson hardly sees how that the conclusion that the cipner is a reality can be avoided. He however, suspends his own new information is given. Its basic num-bers and its modifiers are disclosed, and it is shown whence they are derived. In-formation is also given as to how the alculations are made, and assurance is made, excepting possible clerical er-rors, that they are correct. Some notion of the labor gone through by Mr. Donnelly may be obtained from the statement that the slips of paper on which he has made his culculations (he writes a fine hand and on both sides of the slip) when tied up in a bundle, can with difficulty be lifted from the floor by a strong man using one Mr. Davidson declares Mr. Donnelly

The World contained a few mornings still reserves to himself: First, the rule on which the count in each case is made: fourth, the rule determining the starting point of the count in each case after the page is settled. These he admits are the most important points to know, since without them it is utterly impossible to pronounce any independent judgment on the cipher. He quotes, however. from a letter in which Mr. Donnelly affirms in the most positive and unequivocal way that everything is conducted according to fixed and invariable rules of microscopic accuracy. Mr. Donnelly evidently has made the Issue a very definite one. If such rules exist the cipher is a reality and the authorship of the plays settled. And a great deal more is true, for the cipher narrative contains a whole history of Shakespeare and his relation to the plays and of the time in

The whole thing reads like a novel written-in vigorous Elizabethan English. Here is a passage from it describing Elizabeth's treatment of Hayward, author of the life of Henry IV. "Her grace was in a fearful passion, and, raising up, struck your poor friend with the steel end of heavy crutch. -We think it about time that the people should begin to consider the ques tion of voting for the calling of a Constitutional Convention. It is a matter that should be discussed, and by our best legal talent, that the people may vote intelligently on the subject.

-President Cleveland's receptions where he has stopped on his western tour have been orations. In St. Louis, no man was ever more heartily welcomed. The city put on its Sunday garb and literally presented itself to him. The country in doing this, is but showing to him its appreciation of his services, and all enter the more heartily into these demonstrations because they feel out and working out. he people, for we want them all to know that Mabley & Carew's MAM-MOTH STORE is the very centre of TRADE and COMMERCIAL LIFE; If you're thinking about buying new to examine our stock. This coal comes by RAIL clothes (Pantaloons, Suit or Overcoat,) r Furnishing Goods, Shirts, Unnde or Toilette "Fixings" of any description, you'll find the Grandest, Largest and upon now arranged for your selection at Mabley & Carew's. Buyers should remember that our mammoth store is not only the leading Clothing and Furnishing Goods House in the South, but that the thirty-two consolidated stores of Mabley & Carew represent the largest clothing syndicate in America. Our purchases and manufacturing interests are so enormous that we invest tens and undreds of thousands of dollars in our usiness where other concerns draw the imit at a few thousands.

Folks who are compelled to "go shop ping" experience many vexations and meet with numerous disappointments in their tedious walks from store to store, from shop to shop, searching for what they wish to purchase. There's as much difference in the individual tastes of people as there is in the variety and quality of goods. If a dealer does not sell goods to please everybody then these establishments must take chances for trade on uch patronage as they may accidentally eceive. There's no "accidental" paronage at Mabley & Carew's. A buyer who comes to our store can ALWAYS purchase just the goods he wants, for our enormous display affords him and abundance of styles and patterns to select

When you come to the city you're velcome to make our store your headparters. SHARPTOWN, MD., Oct. 5th, 1887.

The question of endorsing the bonds of the Baltimore & Eastern Shore rail road seems to be a leading topic in some parts of the county at this time. A coradjoining district predicts that there will be a mojority of over 200 in that district believe if the question were to be voted on here today our district would vote almost solld against it, as it is estimated by some that there is not over five voters in the district who favor it. In our opin ion this is one of the most importan questions that has been before the peoof this county for sometime, and every voter should consider well before he casts a ballot in favor of fastening a debt of $25000 on his county. It is gen-cenerally admitted that if the county and generally admitted that if the county endorses the bonds she will eventually have the whole amount to pay. The people are overburdened with taxation now, it seems that it is all they can do to pay the actual expenses of the county and the interest on the present indebtedness. And again, there is another important reason why the people should vote aginst the endorsement of the bonds, in Talbot county the very birth place of the project, the people will vote whether or not the commissioners shall endorse the bends after 10 miles of road are built. In Caroline there must be 5 miles of road built before the people will endorse the bonds, if st all. The friends of the project in this county seem to be more libat once, without even waiting for the

And we think if Wicomico endorses the bonds as proposed there will not only be a possibility, but a strong probability of the county having to pay the $25000 without any positive assurance of a single mile of the road ever being built ECONOMY. within the county.

In discussing a subject that effects the public interest, great care should be taken lest the advantages be overrated and the disadvantages overlooked, because the discussion often furnishes the basis of action which determines the result. The question of endorsing the railroad bonds, now before the people, is being shown-up in a way calculated to mislead. because many are dependent upon local authority, for their information; and the ocalities, through which the road is to pass, are giving information of a local character which must be intended for local purposes, only this railroad question has more than local significance. One calculation was that twenty-five thousand dollars was sufficient to build the road through this county. This does not agree with the estimated cost of construction, permile, given by the surveyor G. H. Toadving. road through this county. This does not struction, permile, given by the surveyor shiell, Mrs. Sydney A. Taylor. Miss Ma- when he says: "If the road could run through every district in the county, there would be but little opposition to voting the endorsing of the bonds." Such voting the endorsing of the bonds." Such an assertion signifies that the opposition is only in the districts not crossed by the road; and if we change the premis me a call. R. Ross. the road; and if we change the premis, it shows that the advocates of the road are only in the districts through which the road passes. If men's votes are actuated and limited by their own personal convenience or inconvenience, our public interests are very uncertain. We need broader views and more considerate voting than is suggested by Mr. Mugwump, He says: "As it cannot be so located," run through every district in the county, "any public spirited citizen Fifty cents. will be willing to accept the next best location." Anyone knowing anything of this county knows that the route surveyed is better than for it to run through every district in the county. He says Baltimrae is the best produce market in the country." This is good food for Baltimore conmission merchants who travel the Eastern Shore in the interest of their business, but it is too soft and crossed by the proposed railroad is cut too weak to build a railroad on. Baltimore, for some produce, and at some part of the season, is a good market; but it is small and uncertain compared with the large Northern markets. The territory up and divided by rivers, which are well supplied with transportation facilities which put the produce in market in a better condition and give it a better marketing than a railroad could do. and their facilities are nearly, or quite equal to the demand, and are all can at present be supported.

For Judges of the Orphans' Court— George W. Lindsay, Daniel Gans and Charles E. Jenkins.

Gov. Lloyd to fill the vacancy upon the Supreme Bench occasioned by the resignation of Associate Judge William A. entered upon his duties January 5 of the present year. He was born about 40years ago upon the estate of his father. the late United States Senator George H. Dennis, at Kingston, Somerset county. He is a nephew of James U. Dennis, who served several terms in the Maryland House of Delegates and Senate, and who was a member of the constitutional conventions of 1851, '64 and '67. He re-ceived his education both at Princeton College and the University of Virginia. He studied law in the office of Judge ted to practice at the Baltimore bar in 1867. He has ever since resided in this city. He soon became popular as a high-toned and talented gentleman, and at Johnston, of this town.—Someraet Herald. the time of his appointment enjoyed a lucrative practice. He was recommend ed to Gov. STATE'S ATTORNEY CHARLES G. KERR.

Charles G. Kerr, who has already served eight years as State's Attorney was born October 23, 1832, at Easton, Md Hon. John Leeds Kerr, once United States Senator, was his father, and his mother was Eliza, Kerr, nee Goldsborough, a member of the prominent Goldsborough family of the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Mr. Kerr began the study of law at Harvard University in 1852, pursued it in the office of Brown & Brune in this city, and began practicing in 1855. He early turned his attention to politics, identifying himself with the Anti-Knownothing party In 1858, together with Thomas W. Hall, Frank K. Howard and others, Mr. Kerr established the Daily Exchange, which was surpressed in 1861. In 1869 Mr. Kerr was elected from the Eleventh and Twelfth wards to the Second Branch City Council, serving four years. He was defeated for the State Senate in 1873, but offered a place in the House of Delegates. His refusal of this attracted much attention. Mr. Kerr became a member of the First Branch City Conneil in 1875 from t Eleventh ward, being elected without opposition. Since 1879 he has been State's Attorney for Baltimore City. Mr. Kerr is greatly respected and esteemed for his able discharge of the duties of that position. He was married shortly after the close of the war to a daughter of the late Hon. Reverdy Johnson.

MR. GEORGE MAY.

George May, president of the First Branch of the late City Council, received the Sheriffalty nomination to succeed Henry G. Fledderman, the present Sheriff. Mr. May is a son of the late Henry May, who served several terms in Congress as a representative from one of the Baltimore districts. The nominee for Sheriff has always taken great interest in politics. He was prominently mentioned during the summer as the choice of the Democratic party to succeed Mayor Hodges, whose official duties, during the absence, through illness, of the Mayor, he assumed by virtue of his position as president of the First Branch. Mr. May s about 30 years old and very popular.

MR. HARRY A. SHULTZ. Harry A. Shultz; the nominee for Clerk of the City Court, was a member of the last Legislature from the Sixteenth ward. He has served also as clerk of the First Branch of the City Council at the session just closed. Mr. Shultz is known as a leading member of the party in the city and has always taken an active interest in politics. He was a nember of the Board of Election Supervisors at the recent Legislative and municipal primaries. Mr. Shultz is about 42 years of age.

The Democratic county committees met at Easton last Tuesday, to make arrangements for the great mass meeting and barbecue; which takes place in Easton on Saturday, the 15th of October, They determined to make the meeting a big thing. It is expected that every Democrat in the county will contribute something; a beef, a calf, a sheep, a hog, a pig, a ham, or vegetables. Anything will be acceptable. The party organization will furnish the music and atten dants. Able and eloquent speakers have been engaged to come and talk to the people. By the 15th most farmers will be done seeding wheat, and can afford to give a day to the cause of their country. Let everybody come and bring somebody with them. Let us have such an old fashioned, bouncing demonstration, as shall prove to the enemy that the Democrats of Talbot mean business, and intend to carry the county for the whole ticket .- Faston Star.

AHEAD OF ALL OTHERS IN EVERY CONTEST.

With more than usual confidence we again offer, Our Mixture B. for wheat Please bear in mind the following facts:

From our knowledge of Agricultural Chemistry, personal experience, observation, tests and reports. we know what constitutes a complete manure, suited to the growing crop and the permanent improvement of the soil. We have built up a large trade near home, and we propose to hold and extend it, and we know the only sure way to establish a permanent business is to give an article of superior merit and up to the standard.

As the price of our materials have declined we have raised the standard, by the addition of bone, blood, etc., until to-day Our Mixture B. is intrinsically worth at least five dollars a ton more than it was five years ago.

We could furnish hundreds of testimonials, but knowing the value, generally of patent medicine and fertilizer testimonials from unknown and unreliable parties, we choose rather to refer any one in want of the best, to any person, anywhere and on whatever crop, as to what IT HAS DONE.

"Of the great nations of Europe Germany is, to my mind, far ahead of all others, and, under the admirable and wise measures proposed and fostered by Bismarck, it is rapidly leaving France and England behind. Its industries are great, multiplying and progressive both in their number, character and capacity. So much have I been struck with these facts that I've started a large factory there, and, although only a twelvementh old, it is producing very satisfactory returns. Germany is taking away much of the French trade, and is continually on the lookout for improvements in the methods of manufacturing her stuffs and fabrics and in her designs.

In the matter of the petition of E. Stanley Toadvin, Trustee, vs. Hattie W. J. Ewell filed in case of Purnell Toadvine vs. Anna L. Moore and Solomon R. Moore. In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County.

Wicomico County.

On the foregoing petition, it is ordered, this lith day of September, in the year eighteen hundred and eighty seven, by the Circuit Court for Wicomico county, in equity, that the petitioner, by causing a copy of this order, to be inserted in some newspaper, printed in Wicomico County, Md., once in each of four successive weeks, before the 15th day of October, 1887, give notice to Hattie W. J. Ewell of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to be and appear in the Court, in person by solicitor, on or before the 19th day of October, next, to show cause if any she have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed. The petition states that E. Stanley Toadwin, as trustee, under decree of this Court sold to Hattie W. J. Ewell, the property decreed, to be sold in case of Purnell Toadvine vs. Anna L. and Solomon R. Moore, for which said Hattie paid $1500 cash and gave her bonds for $102.00 with interest from lith day of December 1880, and that said bonds, nor any part thereof have been paid, although over due and payment demanded and that the said Hattie W. J. Ewell is a non-resident, and pray for a re-sale of said property at the risk of said Hattie W, J. Ewell.

> FOR SHERIFF: ISAAC H. WHITE:

The following letter was sent by Hon Elihu E. Jackson to Hon. Stevenson Archer, chairman of the democratic State central committee:

"To the people of Maryland: It was known when I accepted the democratic nomination for the office of Governor that I would not be a platform speaker. The babit of a laborious life, spent in mercantile pursuits, have not trained me to that occupation. I will meet and talk with you at your homes and places of assembling during the month of October. Instead of making speeches I shall say what I have to say to you in this details of State affairs which come within the control or supervision of a Governor of Maryland are very numerous. They require considerable knowledge for their proper handling. I hope that I have acquired the needed information. If I am elected I will certainly do my full share of public work. I shall give the same exact attention to the business of the State which I have heretofore given to my own business. I shall exercise my own judgment in making all appointments which I may have authority to make, and shall take more pains in making them than men take in selecting private agents. While public office is a public trust, it is also something more. Whether such office be great or small. it is a position which ought to impose upon its holder not only the general obligation of integrity, but also the particular duty of constant, patient, unselfish and efficient service. I will see that this obligation is respected. "You expect me to say something to you in relation to the proposed call for convention to form a new constitution for this State. The constitution of 1867 and a law enacted in 1886 provide that you shall determine this autumn whether you want to alter or amend that consti-tution in any particular or to continue to live under it as it is.

"You have lived under it for twenty years. Its provisions affect every move-ment of your daily life. If they chafe iny, where, you know it. I need not un-lertake to point out the sore spots. The stion is whether you, who are practially a new generation, and who had tle or nothing to do with the making f the constitution of 1867, want to reramine for yourselves the provisions of at instrument. This question each an must settle for himself. There is reason for any fear. If a convention alled it will be your convention. You certainly not afraid of what you will Conventions to smend the constituof a State are signs of the progress State: There is always room for

"I leave this amount in also for your day

"I leave this question also for your decision. You will of need any opinion to guide you. If any such legislation were obtained without a change in the constitution it would necessarily give might involve the gravest consequences. If it is desirable to change our present registration system, you will agree with m, I think; that we had better remove all doubts by first changing that provi-sion of the constitution which requires a uniform registration of the names of all the voters in this State.

"The present constitution properly provides that the General Assembly have not power to involve the credit of the State in the construction of internal improvements, or to give any aid to such works which will involve the credit of State, but it does not contain any sufficient provisions for the protection of the large investments which the State has already made in internal improve-

"The State has invested about $7,000,-000 in the construction of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. It has sunk about three times that amount in interest upon this indebtedness. The canal is a most important water-way. Its continued existence as a water-way is perhaps essential to the prosperity of the counties through which it is locate. It has yielded no revenue to the States but has probably added the amount of its cost to the value of properties in those sections of the State which it connects with tidewater. When it was seriously injured, in 1877, the State was unable to appropriate any money for its repair, and was obliged to authorize it to contract a mortgage debt of $500,000 for that purpose. Keen competition and later injuries to the canal have cut down its revenues, and it has been unable to pay the interest on this mortgage. It may be that a will take place, and the remedy given by the mortgage would then become enforceable at an early day. The General Assembly, under the present constitution, has not the power to prevent foreclosure by providing in any emergency for the payment of any part of the interest in arrears upon this $500,000 of indebtedness if it thought it right to do so. It must, under the present constitution, stand by, though abundantly able to ward off such a calamity, and see this great work wholly lost. "I do not undertake to say what the General Assembly ought to do in this case if it had the power to act, but it would seem that the difficulty is large and pressing enough to require that it take a week for them to go; at should possess some power to deal with most two weeks. the matter.

"If I am elected Governor my whole powers will be exerted in such changes in the existing registration and election law as may be practicable to insure fair elections throughout the State. I pledge myself to make such appointments of supervisors of elections in the city of Baltimore as will leave no doubt of my purpose to secure a proper execution of the registration and election laws in their present or in any amended form. Every with. The business in which I am en- a ladies' dress material. gaged is necessarily subdivided. Different portions of that business are conducted in localities widely apart from each other and under separate management of a resident partner or of resident superintendents. In each locality the person in charge has necessarily entire control. It is said that injustice has been done to some workingmen who have been employed in one branch of the business done by the firm of which I am member in the city of Washington. The matter shall be examined into, and whatever is amiss shall be corrected. This purpose and my own kindly relations to the men in my personal employment, my support as a Senator in our State Senate in 1884 and 1886 of all measures intended to promote the welfare of laboring men, women and children in this State, and my full and entire sympathy with organized labor in all its walks and departments, ought to and will prevent any continued misapprehension upon this subject. I ought before I conclude say a few words upon general politics. The election of President Cleveland has been of priceless value to you and to the whole country. It has healed the wounds made by civil war. It has restored fraternal relations between the people of the North and South. It has enabled our brethren in the Southern States to lay deeply and broadly the foundation of a wonderful prosperity. It has resulted in an ad ministration of the government which certainly ought to command the respect even if it does not receive the support, o all the people of the State. A general opinion, felt eyen more largely than it is expressed, points to Mr. Cleveland as his own successor. It is my conviction that his re-election is essential to the continu ance of your prosperity. Do you think that the election of a republican Governor in Maryland in 1887 would help to carry that State for Mr. Cleveland in 1888? I have little ambition. I am anxious for success in the coming election only for two reasons. I want you to prove by your vote in November that the State of Maryland will next year choose Cleveland electors. Take to your preliminary vote in November of your resolution to give him by your vote in 1888 time to complete his great work of perfecting good relations between all sections of this country, and of enabling us to live under good federal laws and under a proper federal revenue system. I shall be content, in my turn, if your vote in November will afford me the opportunity of showing by my administration of the affairs of this State that my

> Our County Roads. FRUITLAND, Oct. 14.

MR. EDITOR: The county road leading from Fruitland to Shad Point was re-surveyed yesterday;and the survey does not correspond with that made in 1850. Commencing at the store of Q. P. Brohawn, it so runs as to take off a large slice from the property of James Bennett and E. Hayman, and gives more land to Saml. Acworth, Messrs. Wm. Mc-Grath and Addison Hayman on the East side; then running, it takes off two ft. of a walkway near the M. E. Church to the store of J. H. A. Dulany & Sons. This walkway-5 ft. in width-was given by Dr. F. M. Slemons in 1866; and was built by T. H. A. Dulany and Saml. Acworth, the present road supervisor, by authority of the county commissioners. The old road is 22 ft. wide, and no part of that space is touched. It takes a part of Mrs. Jackson's front; and after passing the residence of W. S. Moore, it takes his entire fencing on the East side. Still widening it takes about ? of its width from Moore's woods, next the woods of Dulany & Sons, and the lands of L. Smith. The clerk was instructed to order 20 from whose field it takes a large strip, including a strawberry patch; then with another line runs through the house of Capt. H. Brewington, then crossing the old county road second time to the house of Capt. P. Field, thence through the lot of W. W. Smith, then and lastly, crossing he old county road a third time, for the river and with-in a few feet of Capt. Wm.

New York is the dresslest city in the world, and the coming sesson promises to be the dressiest that New York has ever seen. The lady's tailor and the modiste have divided the kingdoms of the earth between them, out-doors to one, the house to the other, and it would be hard to determine which has worked the more industriously to inaugurate the reign of gayety which the fates seem to

To costume a lady for the promens now as always, the tailor is to the fore: The tailor-gown, as he presents it for September and early October wear, is not the tailor gown of a season or two ago. to be sure. A full range of grays, London smoke, three or four dark greens, the new Gobelin blue and a new and peculiar crimson about complete its range. The material, too, is in no haste to change. The tailor-gown par excellence the tailor-gown that appeals to the New York heart, is of a fine, soft, smooth ladies' cloth, self-colored and fitting from top to toe without a wrinkle, There is a decided innovation, however, in the amount of trimming that it admits. Gold and silver braid and dark rich plushes have broken through the charming circle, and within limits, the more of them the tailor-gown assumes the more of a tailor-gown it is.

Important Battle in Africa

while ago it was reported that Mwanga, the King of Uganda, who has made himself famous by murdering Bishop Hannington and hundreds of native Christians, had sent an army North to eat up his enemy, Kabba-Rega, the King of Unyoro. The messenger who returned to Zanzibar last week, after informing Emin Pasha that Stanley was coming to his relief, say the war has been a hot and bloody struggle, and that Mwanga, who sits in the seat of anda have occupied, has been badly defeated.

have been brilliantly successful in warfare. Even Unyoro, with its 500,000 in habitants and its proud kings, who came from the warlike Gallas of East Africa, has long been little more than a suzerainty of Uganda's sovereign. But now the army of invincible Uganda has been besten by Kabba-Rega, who, Sir Samuel Baker says, was despised by Mtess, the father of Mwangs, as a person worthy only of contempt.-N. Y. Sun,

All these cases have increased in weight from 16 to 28 lbs., and are not now needing any medicine. I prescribe no other Fmulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, Lime, and Soda, but Scott's, believing it to be the best."

A Black Prophetess. The black priestess Scinda, in the b'ack belt of Mississippi, is building up a strong theocracy. She claims to be inspired and demands unquestioning obedience in all things from her followers. She holds that virtue is the highest law of man's nature, and her disciples, therefore, must lead very pure lives. She delivers inspired addresses, which are listened to with rapt attention. Altogether she fulfills the ideal of the large number of negroes who incline to the supernatural, and are constantly on the lookout for a new dispensation.

The female sex are all in this landom, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Well, it will help to solve a very trouble some question. Men have always had to es and lots to have a home to bring their wives to. It has always, except in a few odd cases, been expected that the man will come to the wo go down on his knees and say:

"Respected madam, I would thee. I have a house furnished. I have noney in the bank. I can give you a little home, over which you shall rule as queen. Come and be my wife," Then the young woman packed up her clothes and took away from the house of her father and mother all the little brica-brac other fellows had given her, and flitted off to rule in her own little domain. Now, for a small amount a woman can buy a lot; she can for another small sum build a house, and for a third smallsum furnish it. Then she can go to a man who hasu't any home but lodgings, and who lives at a restaurant, and take him by the arm and say:

"Respected sir, I have a house and lot close by a cable-car line. I would marry thee. I can give you a home as is a home where you can reign as king; where yo can get something to eat as is worth eating; where you'll be as happy as a clam." Then the man will go home and give his landlady a week's notice, buy a new smt of clothes, burn all his knick-knacks given him by other girls and move into the house and lot, and, when the king begins to assert his authority in that 25x 129 kingdom, the queen will get up and put on her crown, and get hold of her sceptre and bang it over his head and

The dangers which Boone and his comto the very doors of their cabins, and constantly menaced their families. Inlians lurked singly or in parties to seize prisoner or take a scalp whenever an ncautious white should give the opporcombat ended, as a rule, in the death of one or both of those engaged) had haituated the men to danger. It was later that they felt the danger of their wives and children. Late on a Sunday afternoon in July, 776, three younggirls ventured from the nclosure of Bconesborough to amuse hemselves with a canoe upon the river that flowed by the fort. Insensibly they drifted with the lasy current, and before they were aware of their danger were seised by five warriors. Their resistance was useless, though they wielded the paddles with desperation. Their cance was drawn ashore, and they were hurried off in rapid retreat toward the Shaw-Ah, night key, though so small thim art, Thou play'st a consequential part In all the works and walks of life With youth and maiden, husband and ee towns in Ohio, Their screams were heard at the fort, and the cause well messed. Two of the girls were Betsey and Frances, daughters of Col. Richard Callaway, the other was Jemima, daughter of Boone. The fathers were absent, but soon returned to hear the evil news and arrange the pursuit. Callaway assembled a mounted party, and was away through the woods to head off the Indians, if possible, before they might reach and cross the Ohio, or before the fatigue of their rapid march should so overcome the poor girls as to cause their captors to omahawk them, and so disencumber their flight.

Boone started directly on the trail through the thickets and canesbrakes. His rule was never to ride if he could possibly walk. All his journeys and hunts, escapes and pursuits, were on foot. His little party numbered eight, and the anxiety of a father's heart quickened its leader, and found a ready response in the breasts of three young men, the lovers of the girls. Betsey Callaway, the oldest of the girls, marked the trail, as the Indians hurried them along, by breaking twigs and bending bushes, and when threatened with the tomahawk if she persisted, tore small bits from her dress and drupped them to guide the pursuers. Where the ground was soft enough to receive an impression, they would impress a footprint. The flight was in the best Indian method; the Indians marched some yards apart through the bushes and cane, compelling their captives to do the same. When a creek was crossed they waded in its water to a distant point, where the march would be resumed. By all the caution and skill of their training the Indians endeavored to obscure the trail and perplex the pursuers.

The nightfall of the first day stopped the pursuit of Boone before he had gone far; but he had fixed the direction the Indians were taking, and at early dawn was following them. The chase was continued with all the speed that could be made for thirty miles. Again darkness compelled a halt, and again at crack of day on Tuesday the pursuit was renewed. It was not long before a light film of smoke that rose in the distance showed where the Indians were cooking a breakfast of buffalo meat. The pursuers cautiously approached, fearing lest the Indians might slay their captives and escape. Col. John Floyd, who was one of the party (himself afterward killed by Indians), thus described the attack and the rescue in a letter written the next Sunday to the Lieutenant of Fincastle.

prisoners without giving the Indians time to murder them after they discovered us. Four of us fired, and all of us rushed on them; by which they were prevented from carrying anything away except one shotgun without ammunition. Colonel Boone and myself had each a pretty fair shot and they began to move off. I am well convinced I shot one through the body. The one he shot dropped his gun; mine had none. The place was covered with thick cane, and being so much elated on recovering the three poor little heart-broken girls, we were prevented from making any further search. We sent the Indians off almost naked, some without their moccasins, and none of them with so much as a knife or tomahawk. After the girls came to themselves sufficiently to speak, they told us there were five Indians, four shawanese and one Cherokee; they could speak good English, and said they should to to the Shawanese towns. The warclub we got was like those I have seen of that nation, and several words of their languages, which the girls retained, were known to be Shawnese."

their satisfastion, the young lovers had proved their prowess, and under the eye of the greatest of all woodsmen had shown their skill and courage. They had fairly won the girls they loved. Two weeks later a general summons went throughout the little settlements to attend the first wedding ever solemnized on Kentucky soil. Samuel Henderson and Betsey Callaway were married in the presence of an approved company that celebrated the event with dancing and feasting. The formal license from the county court was not waited for, as the court-house of Fincastle, of which county Kentucky was part, was distant more han six hundred miles. ' The ceremony onsisted of the contract with witnesses and religious vows administered by Boone's brother, who was an occasional preacher of the persuasion popularly known as Hardshell Baptists. Frances Callaway became within a year the wife of the gallant Captain John Holder, afterward greatly distinguished in the pioneer annals, and Boone's daughter by a letter from a Boston gentleman There must have been some appeal the imagination of a poetic youth in this mediaeval inexperience, and what charm there was in it Whittier certainly found. It is not his nature to complain, and there is no word of self-pity in all his works to show that he was ever satisfied with his condition in boyhood. But one cannot help thinking that the budding poet, with his delicate sensibilities and perceptions, must have pined now and then for more books and the conversa-

The Democratic Mass Meeting at the Upper Ferry near Whayland's store on last Friday at 2 p. m. was the beginning of the county Democratic Campaign, and was one of the largest and most enthusiastic witnessed in Wicomico for years. The steamer Beulah, through the kindness of Dr. Humphreys took a number of the candidates down to the meeting and 28th. back. Thomas Turpin, Esq. of Quantico presided and introduced the Speakers. State's Attorney Rider being the first, and in a speech of thirty minutes, sounded the key note of the campaign, in an exposition of Republican misrule, and the hollowness of the cry of Reform Democrats of Baltimore City. W. H. Warren, Thos. W. H. White, E. Stanley Toadvin, Isaac White, and Mr. John H. Griffith; followed in the order named, made appropriate speeches which received hearty applause. The Oyster Roast, prepared by Capt. White, was a grand success, and enjoyed

BARREN CREEK SPRINGS, Oct. 10. The action of the Board of county comissioners in submitting the question of endorsing the R. R. bonds will-we hope -quiet the fears of some people; that the county might give away $25,000, and get no R. R., either. Perhaps the greatest trouble with such people is the fear, that some one else might reap more benefit from the proposed road than themselves, and for that reason, are opposed to it. That there are such people need not be denied, but we can hardly expect them to admit the fact as applicable to themselves. When a man's actions and words correspond, we may be willing to judge him by his words, but when actions and words do not correspond, he must excuse us if we judge him by his actions. To reason with such men is like casting pearls before swine. That the proposed railroad would benefit every citizen, or even every portion of our county alike, is not claimed by any one. Those living near it would reap the greater benefits. Still the most remote sections of the county would be benefitted out of all proportion to the cost. As to the interest on the bonds (and principal too, if required), that is too insignificant a sum to be any serious objection, even if the benefits did not extend beyond a few miles from the road. But they will reach out to the remotest limits of our county, and they cannot be prevented, unless the people shut themselves up like clams and utterly refuse to be benefitted. It is easy to say that the Delaware road has been no advantage to portions of our County remote thereform, but it will be hard for any one who will spend a thought on the subject, to believe the assertion. We have just now in our mind, a single enterprise, started with small capital besides enterprise, and the proprietors are now considered wealthy, they have at all events, made money for themselves, and made it possible for their neighbors to better their condition. This case is somewhat remote from the railroad, but Carey. is directly the effect of it, and would have been impossible without it. This is but a single instance, but if our readers-in any rart of our County -will take the trouble to think a little, they can call to mind numerous similar cases, besides the thousands of smaller benefits that some perhaps may think would have If it were possible to be deprived of even our present railroad facilities, and to be placed back where we were thirty years ago, we would have no difficulty in realizing what railroads have done for us, and what the B. & E. The first place you know wages, in some cases, are too low. The farmers can not raise corn at 40 cts. per bushel, pay heavy taxes, build railroads, and buy all that is necessary for their families and pay large profits. What has been the result? The question has been solved, and it is very simple and plain. The largest and best mercantile houses in the country have long ago adopted it. And it is this: You cannot live in this progressive age and sell one or two kinds of goods; the profits are so large that people can not, will not, and ought not to stand it. Thos. Perry, Publisher ording to the latest estimates the ad on the surface of the globe has an area of about 53,000,000 square miles, and supports a population of 1,4400,000,000 sonls. It is startling to reflect that there is a reasonable probability that, before many years shall have elapsed, nearly one-third of the world's superficies, and siderably more than one-quarter of the world's population, willbe ruled by couple who are now entertaining a family party at Copenhagen. King Christian of Denmark is at present sovereign of about 90,000 square miles of territory and more than 2,000,000 people; his eldest daughter's mother-in-lw, Queen Victoria, has an empire of nearly 8,500,000 square miles, with about 305,000,000 inhabitants; his son-in-law, the Czar, is lord of some 8,000,000 square miles of territory and about 180,000,000 people, and his son, the King of the Hellenes, rules dominions extending to about 25,000 square miles, with 2,000,000 inhabitants, It is well within the bounds of possibiliity that in the future, while King Albert Victor reigns over Great Britain, Nicholas will be Czar of Russia, Frederick will be King of Denmark, and Constantine will be King of the Hellenes; for prines bearing these names, and all grandchildren of King Christian IX, will some lay, in the ordinary course of events.

A valuable addition has been made to the Mary Queen of Scots Relic Exhibition at Peterborough, in the celebrated full-length oil-painting of the Scottish Queen from Blair's College. The porrait was formerly the property of Elizaboth Curle (one of Mary's attendants at the execution), and was bequeathed by her in 1620 to the Seminary or Scots Colege at Douai, her brother being at the ime one of the professors there. At the breaking out of the French revolution, writes the Echo, the inmates of the college were obliged to fly, and the portrait was taken out of the frame, rolled up, and hidden in a chimney of the refectory, the fire-place being afterward built up. In 1814 it was taken from its hiding place, transferred to the English Bene lictine College in Paris, brought to Scotland in 1830 by the late Bishop Pattison, and deposited in Blair's College. The painting, which is eight feet by four, is recognized as one of the few authentic portraits of Mary, and the portrait at Windsor is supposed to be a copy. It Wilder's keeping. has been insured by the local committee for $5,000, bringing up the total amount finsurance of the relic to $172,000.

Royalty in Europe.

It is a curious circumstance that there is hardly a reigning monarch in Europe as the people governed. The house of Austria is really the house of Lorraine. and even in their origin the Hapsburgs her to Newport, where she was the were Swiss. And if the emperor Francis acknowledged belle. It was generally Joseph be not, strictly speaking, an of Roumania and Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria are both foreigners; the founder of the Bernadotte dynasty in Sweden was born at Pau less than a century and aquarter ago; the Czar is a Holstein-Gottorp; and the King of the Hellenes is likewise a Holsteiner. Even in the English royal family there is very little English blood left. The Hohenzollerns were originally Susbians, and therefore partly Pavarian and partly Swiss. Neither was the historic house of Orange, in which patriotism has nearly always been the first instinct, Dutch to begin with,

was a bard-working man, and earned but small wages, barely sufficient to supply the necessaries of life. In addition to this he was affected with lung trouble-He was a brush-maker by trade. Next door to the Harts lived a middleaged gentleman by the name of Edward

Wilder. This Wilder was a rich man. His East New York residence he occupied only a few months in summer. His winter quarters were in New York City, not far from Fifth avenue. He formerly had a butcher-stand in Washington market, where after years of patient labor be amassed a competence. He then retired from business. Some lucky investments in real estate made him a mil-

Mr. Wilder, although passionately fond of children, had no little ones of his own. He often called upon the Hart family, and admired the little Marguerite. He had noticed the struggles of the head of the family to keep the wolf from the door, and observed with sorrow that the poor man's strength was nequal to the tasks imposed upon it. The baby antics of the little Marguerite had also worked upon his affections, and a great love for the little one arose in his

One day Mr. Hart returned from his work sick in body and mind. Destitution stared him in the face. His rich neighbor's sympathy was aroused, and, calling upon Mr. Wilder, the latter made a proposition to him. He stated how he had become attached to little Marguerite, how he had noticed their circumstances, and wound up by offering to adopt the

The poor man could not bring himself at once to let the child go, and asked for time to consider the matter. But Mr. Wilder had set his heart upon gaining ssession of the little one, and offered to settle an annuity upon the boys if his roposition were accepted. He also ofered to divide between the boys a valnable plot of land lying in the northern part of New York State. He stipulated that when he should once have possession of the child it should never again be reclaimed by its parents under any circumstances, and that Marguerite should never be made acquainted with the fact that he was other than her own father. Quite an affecting scene ensued. The parents did not want to let the child go, but at last came to the conclusion that it was the best thing under the circomstances, and gave the child into Mr.

Mr. Wilder immediately took Marguerite to his New York establishment, and she grew up to be a beautiful young woman, admired by all. She was of the blonde type, with deep blue eyes and golden hair and skin like alabaster. Her figure was superb. She was the belle of whose family is of the same nationality her set, and many were her suitors. But she had not as yet met her affinity.

They met at the church. A mutual reciprocation sprang up between the young people, and they were often seen upon the sands of Newport enjoying one another's society. They were a handsome couple, admired by all but envied by none. Society began to whisper that it was a match. Society for once was right. The friendship of the young couple in course of time ripened into a warmer feeling, and one beautiful moonlight night the young man rose to the occasion and the inevitable "proposal" was made. Marguerite had been expecting this for some time, but, like a dutiful daughter, asked for time to consider her answer, and in the meantime referred the whole matter to her father. The Odema correspondent of the L don Daily News writes: A case tra pired here the other day which reve person, a young man of some twenty five years of age and very poorly clad, but for sometime past picked up a preca-rious livelihood as a peripatetic vendor of almanacs, calendars, children's story books, etc. All these articles were of the cheap popular quality. His basket and wallet contained also the showy prints of re'igious subjects much affected by the poorer classes. A few days ago e was detected in the sale of Nibilist iterative. He was arrested and his stock confiscated. His character of a poor imbecile, supported by the evidence of the police, and his story of acquiring the forbidden literature at a trifling cost from an unknown stranger, and his general incoherence and inability to read or write, where so evident to he bench that he was at once discharged. A couple of days later it was found that the imbecile colporteur's passport was false; and, the police discovering that he was known to certain citizens as appearing on many occasions in private circles as a well-dressed, well-educated, and highly informed young man who spoke learnedly on matters of internal policy, warrant was immediately issued for his re-arrest. It is needless to say that he has not been found, nor is he likely to be. The characters and disguisess assumed by many of these young propagandists defy the utmost vigilance of the regular and secret police, and successfuly deceive, as in this case, both magistrates and the so-called lynr-eved Russian judges of instruction.

A Valuable Pr ssession Commander Ullman, a retired of ficer of Hungardan army, who is now traveling in this county, is the owner of the Tortugas island, about which the Haytian and British governments had quite a controversy some time ago. Tortugas are not not application.

Mr. John C. Searborough, Selma, N. C., writes: "I got malaria in the Southern army, and for a dozen years suffered from its debilitating effects. I was terribly run down when I heard of Kaskine, the new quinine. It helped me at once. I gained 35 pounds. Have not had such good health in 20 years. Other letters of a similar character from prominent individuals, which stamp Kaskine as a remedy of undoubted merit, will be tages, for the large ships of war, several natural harbors. Great Britain, it was said, wanted the island for this purpose, and the United States were also interested in it for this reason. The British government threatened to seize the island on account of a claim of $1,000,000, but this was seitled by the payment of $160,000. The Haytisn government owned the island and was in need of funds. When they were pressed for the claim they speedly raised the money in Paris, and the next thing we hear is that the island was purchased by Commander Ullman. He regards his purchase as a valuable one, as it commands an easy mode of travel to the Panama cana!. The new owner of the land is anxious for the United States to assume the dominion of the island. He has offered the island to this government on very easy terms.

WITH THE PEOPLE.

We like to talk about business with the people, for we want them all to know that Mabley & Carew's MAM. MOTH STORE is the very centre exp TRADE and COMMERCIAL LIFE. It you're thinking about buying ne clothes (Pantaloons, Snit or Overcoat,) or Furnishing Goods, Shirts, Uandewear or Toilette "Fixings" of any description, you'll find the Grandest, Largest and most Elegant stock your eyes ever gazed upon now arranged for your selection at Mabley & Carew's. Buyers should remember that our mammoth store is not only the leading Clothing and Furnishing Goods House in the South, but that the thirty-two consolidated stores of Mabley & Carew represent the largest clothing syndicate in America. Ourpurchases and manufacturing interests are so enormous that we invest tens and hundreds of thousands of dollars in our usiness where other concerns draw the limit at a few thousands. Folks who are compelled to "go show ping" experience many vexations and meet with numerous disappointments in their tedious walks from store to store, from shop to shop, searching for what they wish to purchase. There's as much difference in the individual tastes of people as there is in the variety and quality of goods. If a dealer does not sell goods to please everybody then these establishments must take chances for trade on such patronage as they may accidentally receive. There's no "accidental" patronage at Mabley & Carew's. A buver who comes to our store can ALWAYS purchase just the goods he wants, for our enormous display affords him and abundance of styles and patterns to select

When you come to the city you're welcome to make our store your headquarters. If you are encumbered with baggage or packages have them checked free at our first floor buudle counter subject to your order on demand. Courteous salesmen will give you any information desired, whether you purchase or not. Our store is Maryland's acknowledged Clothing and Furnishing Goods headquarters. We have goods for everybody. Merchants, Bankers, Mechanics, Laborers, Men, Boys and Children ar all treated with uniform courtesy and fairness. One price to all, and that is always the lowest quoted in Baltimore.

But presently a slim figure all in white from head to feet, seemed floating toward him through the hazy moonshine. The figure seemed to pause, to bend over him. Then the half hidden face so like the face of his lost darling, was close to his own; something as downy and fragrant as a rose leaf touched his lips, of the age on her lips, it was not long be- on the eager, frank, childish face of her den, wild tempest. of grassy earth and entered.

As he moved down the chancel, groping in the darkness and seeking, he knew not what, the doors were suddenly closed, there was a clanking of keys and the sound of a rapidly retreating tread, and he realized that he had been made a prisoner by the unwitting sexton. How long he might remain there until those doors were again unlocked or until some one chanced that way to release him perhaps, he could not conjecture. Even if he had been in strength and ealth, it would have been impossible to effect his own release unaided. And he knew he might shout himself dumb and his call would scarcely penetrate those vied walls of thick, quaint masonry. He was too weak of body and too spiritless of sold to struggle against the vexation of his predicament. And after a tentative glance at the secondary entrances and at the high stained glass ing hours which succeeded. Arthur Searle could never recollect. Weakened from his recent illness, and feebler still from his despondency of heart, he at length succumbed to a sort of stupor, and was scarcely conscious how the moments He measured time only by the glory of dawn flashing athwart the stained windows, by the twilight again glooming

It was at Rosecliffe they had dreamed away a long summer of delicious days together; and it was there they had finally parted, each with bitter thoughts and cruel words for the other-words and thoughts which Arthur Searle had lived to regret, with the haunting and torturing remorse with which a wrong beyond recall must ever be regretted! The beginning of his estrangement from fair Kate Douglas had been but trivial. There had been a flash of absurd jealousy on his part, and on hers a flash of equally absurd resentment. Then a half reconciliation had been marred by a half reserve, as if each withholding something of the olden perfect confidence from the other. That reserve had been the "rift within the lute," which had widened more and the trees; even the music of the sea was auger -parted almost at the altar steps! -The mayoralty election in Baltimor City has settled beyond question several rst.-The wholesale change of J. K. Cowan, that the city is ruled by the criminal classes has been refuted. Never was the opposition to the Democratic ticket more systematically organized, Republicans and Independent Democrats, vicing with each other in their united efforts to defeat the party. The city was scoured for voters, registration lists purged and absent voters sent for, yet at a peaceable election held under the supervision of judges so upright that not even a hint of suspicion has been uttered against them, the Hon. F. C. L atrobe has been elected by forty-five hundred majority. Baltimore city has vindicated herself and the Democratic party of the State against these vile slanders.

Secondly.-Its effect on the State election will be salutary. It will strengthen the weak, quiet the disaffected. It will prove that Democratic promises are worth more than Mr. Cowan's profanation. There were many good and true men of the garments. party throughout the State who could not countenance either primary or election frauds, but they set to work and secured these reforms within the party, and like good party men now stand with their party. Of them we say, all honor to their efforts.

.Thirdly.-While a defeat in Baltimore did not mean a defeat of the State ticket, the success at that election does assure the election of the whole State ticket by a strong majority.

Democrats of Wicomico, stand by your candidate; stand by your party integrity; stand by your time honored majority with an increase that will convince the people of the State that we have appreciation of our home candidate, Hon. E. E. Jackson.

This is our third years' run on it. Thought we come up enough of it the first season: thought the same every eason since. Every season we have had more customers for it than we had goods. This season we're not going to make that mistake. We'll have enough for everybody, and to last the season out.

There isn't as good to be had anywhere for equal money. It's all-wool: all long wool: long, strong wool: nothing but wool: neither cotton nor flocking to make it heavier or lower the cost.

It's an honest cloth, through and through, with a heap of wear past the ordinary in it. No other store has it. We twisted and pulled and harried it in all sorts of ways to try how it would stand rough 2000 People turn out to Ratify Jackson's Nomination.

A Grand Gala Day in Salisbury

THE PROMISED SPEAKERS COME AND DISCOURSE ELOQUENTLY ON THE ISSUES OF THE DAY. .

There was a mighty gathering of the emocracy of Wicomico last Tuesday to ratify the nomination of Senator Jackson and to forever settle the question of Wicomico's true and unswerving Democracy. The people of the county were determined to show to the State at large that they appreciate the honor which the parhas conferred upon them.

Like the great. Cleveland ratification meeting of 1884, it was held in the midst of a pelting north-easter, which would have chilled the order of anything except Wicomico Democracy.

A Mystery Solved.

We have been repeatedly asked how it is that we sell so many goods, and why our trade grows. If our kind readers will listen to us for a few minutes, we will give you an idea. For instance take our Ready-made Clothing Department, which is so very large and is attracting so many buyers that we never sold before. The first place you know wages, in some cases, are too low. The farmers can not raise corn at 40 cts. per bushel, pay heavy taxes, build railroads, and buy all that is necessary for their families and pay large profits. What has been the result? The question has been solved, and it is very simple and plain. The largest and best mercantile houses in the country have long ago adopted it. And it is this:

Third.—It will be much higher when navigation closes.

You cannot live in this progressive age and sell one or two kinds of goods; the profits are so large that people can not, will not, and ought not to stand it. And instead, we are carrying a very large line of Dry Goods, Ready-Made Clothing, Notions, Boots, Shoes, Furniture, Carpet, Etc. These goods were bought of first hand for spot cash, which enables us—with our varied line of merchandise—to offer the most ATTRACTIVE PRICES, which are the duty of buyers to get before pur-

AN ANNOUNCEMENT.

In making the announcement of our removal to our New Store we wish first to thank our friends and Patrons for the good will, and friendship, they have shown us in the past. They have stood by us in the time of trial and have been most kind and considerate in making all due allowance for our short-comings while in the board shanty. We have indeed since the fire, gone far beyond our most sanguine expectations, and now, that we have gotten in good shape for doing business, we feel more like coming before the people and telling them what we will do, feeling at the same time that we can fulfill all promises. Our Stock consisting of the following goods will always becomplete: Dry Goods, Notions, Fancy Goods, Millinery, Gents' Furnishing Goods, Ladies' Coats Oil Cloth Wall Paper, Queensware, Blankets, Robes, Comforts and indeed everything kept in a store of this kind. Our Dress Goods Department is conducted by Ladies who will be only too glad to show you through the store. Miss Laura Brenizer has charge of the Millinery Department and will be glad to see her many friends and former Patrons. For the convenience of ladies we have arranged a waiting room for them, which is immediately back of the Millinery, and we have every convenience for Ladies in the room which is for Ladies only. Remember we defy competition. Our prices are as Low as the lowest.

Miscellaneous Cards. OUR BUSINESS CHA WITH THE PEOPLE.

We like to talk about business with the people, for we want them all to know that Mabley & Carew's MAM-MOTH STORE is the very centre of TRADE and COMMERCIAL LIFE. If you're thinking about buying new clothes (Pantaloons, Suit or Overcoat,) or Furnishing Goods, Shirts, Uandewear or Toilette "Fixings" of any description, you'll find the Grandest, Largest and most Elegant stock your eyes ever gazed. upon now arranged for your selection atare really HANDSOME, MADE OUT OF THE VERY BEST MATERIAL, PUT Mabley & Carew's. Buyers should remember that our mammoth store is notonly the leading Clothing and Furnishing Goods House in the South, but that the thirty-two consolidated stores of Mabley & Carew represent the largest clothing syndicate in America. Our purchases and manufacturing interests are so enormous that we invest tens and hundreds of thousands of dollars in our business where other concerns draw the limit at a few thousands. Folks who are compelled to "go shopping" experience many vexations and meet with numerous disappointments in their tedious walks from store to store. from shop to shop, searching for what they wish to purchase. There's as much difference in the individual tastes of people as there is in the variety and quality of goods. If a dealer does not sell goods to please everybody then these establishments must take chances for trade on such patronage as they may accidentally receive. There's no "accidental" patronage at Mabley & Carew's. A buyer who comes to our store can ALWAYS purchase just the goods he wants, for our enormous display affords him and abundance of styles and patterns to select

When you come to the city you're welcome to make our store your headquarters. If you are encumbered with baggage or packages have them checked free at our first floor buudle counter subject to your order on demand. Courteous salesmen will give you any information desired, whether you purchase or not. Our store is Maryland's acknowledged Clothing and Furnishing Goods headquarters. We have goods for every-Laborers, Men, Boys and Children are all treated with uniform courtesy and fairness. One price to all, and that is always the lowest quoted in Baltimore.
