

ALL BOYS IN CITY UNDER 15 TO SEE BALL GAME THURSDAY FREE

Youngsters Will Be Guests Of Rotary Club At Gordy Park On That Day.

VISITING ROTARIANS TO BE ENTERTAINED

Big Outing And Evening Event On August 3 Follows Banquet Given To Ballplayers Last Thursday When Loyal Support Of Every Member Was Promised Team.

Boys under fifteen years of age will be guests of the Rotary Club at Gordy Park on Thursday, which is to be Rotary Day. Every youngster in the community is urged to be at the Y. M. C. A. at two-thirty to march over to the ball park with the band of boys. All admission expenses will be borne by members of the club and the boys will get to see a good game between Salisbury and Pocomoke absolutely free of charge.

The Rotarians have tied no strings to this offer to take every boy to the ball game on that date. There are no conditions except that all who wish to take advantage of the occasion must be at the "Y" at the hour named. Every young male who has not yet attained the age of fifteen will be welcomed by the Rotarians and will be well taken care of. Horns, hats and noise-makers will be distributed as souvenirs and the day should be an eventful one.

Members from Dover, Easton, Cambridge, Crisfield, and Pocomoke clubs will also be present and after the game will be entertained at supper at the Y. M. C. A. at the regular Thursday night meeting. It is expected that nearly one hundred guests will be present for the Rotary Base Ball Day and the local Club is anticipating a joyful occasion.

To make matters a little more interesting at the Park, the Club here has offered to buy a feature play for the price of five dollars cash. The Ball Club officials have agreed to let the play and the following Rotarians will judge the proposition: Henry S. Todd, Senior, George R. Cobb, and Louis W. Gunby. The feature play will be announced and the prize awarded immediately after the game.

That the Rotary Club is back of the base ball team is evidenced by the great interest they have displayed in the aggregation lately. On Thursday night, the team was entertained at supper at the "Y" and each player was introduced to those present. President Grier, in making the introductions, gave the nick-name and position of each player.

One of the most interesting features of the meeting was a short talk made by Judge E. Stanley Toadwine on base ball in the early eighties. Judge Toadwine gave a short account of the original White Clouds team and told how on July fourth, many years ago, they had won the championship in the presence of a gallery of nearly three thousand spectators. The speaker also described some of the more characteristics of base ball then and now and pointed out how widely the game had departed from the original idea in some ways and how closely it still retains its first characteristics in others.

FAIL TO ESCAPE FIRM RIGORS OF CAMP LIFE

Delinquent Guardsmen Are Disturbed by Lieutenant Morris Who Takes Them to Edgewood.

The way of the transgressor is hard and so is the path of the National Guardsman on occasion. When Company "I" of the First Infantry, Maryland National Guard, left Salisbury for the annual encampment at Edgewood, it left behind several members who believed they had escaped the rigors of simulated campaigns and were contentedly pursuing the even tenor of their ways in peace and quiet.

Not for long, however, did they remain in undisturbed content. On Saturday, Lieutenant Dewey H. Morris appeared on the scene armed with formidable documents signed by the Adjutant General and other authorities empowering him to round up the delinquent guardsmen and take them to camp. Lieutenant Morris performed his work well, for he returned to Edgewood with every man who was A. W. O. L.

The duty roster of Company "I" has therefore been enlarged to take care of the additional five men, Messrs. Walter Willing, Walter Tilghman, Rudolph Wright, William J. Downing, Jr., and Alton Lankford. Latest advice from the front indicates that the last five men to arrive at camp have settled down to the routine of military life without a struggle and now all is quiet.

Bank's Interior Is Being Made Larger

Officials Of Peoples National Are Adding Improvements To Accommodate Increased Business.

Extensive improvements are being made on the interior offices of the Peoples National Bank. For the past week carpenters have been engaged in removing part of the old partitions so as to make the office space much larger and to enable the employees to take care of the bank's increasing patronage more quickly and efficiently.

Cashier Painter estimates that approximately 50 square feet will be added to the interior floor space by reason of the alterations now being made and which he expects to be completed by the end of the week. The biggest feature of the new plans is the separate and distinct windows which will be provided for the paying and receiving tellers. Heretofore both of these operations have been conducted through the one window but with the vast amount of business now being handled, a change was made necessary and the new improvements made by the bank are calculated to satisfactorily meet the conditions.

WHITE CLOUDS WIELD MIGHTY CLUBS TO WIN

Clout 7-5 Victory Over Cambridge And Go Into Third Place.

HEARNE HAS CHALKED UP 8 STRAIGHT WINS

Visitor's Rally In Seventh Inning Falls One Run Short Of Tying Score—Flowers And Kunosh Thrill Fans With Circuit Smashes Over Fence.

Wielding their war-clubs in effective fashion, the White Clouds subdued Manager Armstrong's scrappy outfit from Cambridge at Gordy Park on Tuesday afternoon. The final score was 7-5. Southpaw Hearne, who has chalked up eight victories for the local team, without yet drinking the bitter drops of defeat, held the Choptank "Tongers" in easy check until the 7th inning when he let up a bit and allowed the visitors to stage a rally that fell one run short of tying the score at six all.

Single by Wilson and Dolan backed up with Flowers' long drive over the center-field fence did the trick. Kunosh then entered the ranks of the day's heroes in the very next session with a circuit smash over the left field bulwarks. The graceful second sacker is fast recovering from his sprained ankle. Warren, at short, played a pretty fielding game.

The White Clouds, after Cambridge had tallied once in the third, came back in their half with three counters as a result of good solid clouts by Hearne, Brown, Kunosh and Thompson. This order was duplicated in the fifth inning when Mays poked out a safety. Brown walked and Kunosh advanced the runners a base with a sacrifice from whence they scored on Shiefer's hit. Hart then brought home the new third baseman with a single.

A slight rain interrupted the struggle in the last of the fourth but play was soon resumed and a victory was hung up by the White Clouds that carried them up to third place in the league standing.

The summary: Cambridge 0 0 1 1 0 0 3 0 0 5 8 1 Salisbury 0 0 3 0 3 0 1 0 x 7 10 2

Batteries—Stansberry and Staylor; Hearn and Hart.

Left on bases: Salisbury 4; Cambridge 8.

Struck out: By Hearne 10, By Stansberry 2.

Hit by ball: Hearne.

Two base hits: Brown, Thompson, J. Griggs and Stansberry.

Home runs: Flowers and Kunosh.

Double plays: Hearne to Kunosh to Thompson; Hearne to Warren to Thompson.

Umpire Darby. Time of game, 2 hours.

Firemen Will Stage Celebration On 25th

Crab Supper And Evening Entertainment Will Commemorate Birth Of Local Organization.

August 25th will be a big day for the "smoke-enterers" of the Salisbury Fire Department. An attractive supper and entertainment has been planned by the local firemen in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the birth of their organization.

Half a century ago, the present company was formed, and six years ago last month the first motor-driven vehicle was acquired. It was planned that the last five men to arrive at camp have settled down to the routine of military life without a struggle and now all is quiet.

CROWDS FLOCKING TO OCEAN CITY'S BEACH

August Is Big Month—Dancing Chief Amusement With Attractive Card at Pilmhinmon Hotel.

Ocean City's hotels and cottages are rapidly filling up and the prospects are that by the first of August, accommodations will be hard to secure unless they have been reserved in advance. With torrid days of the first two or three weeks in August facing them, vacationists are slipping a way from the nearby cities and the major portion of the general exodus will probably unpack its trunks in the popular Maryland seashore resort.

Folks from Baltimore and Washington are rapidly completing the registers of the beach hotels which already contain the names of many guests from all parts of the Eastern Shore who every year flock to this point. Bathing this season is good as ever and the sun blisters and tans are as readily as before.

Perhaps the chief amusement on the seashore is the dancing in the evenings. The exclusive and well-known Pilmhinmon Hotel, nightly draws throngs to its dancing hall and tea-room. It is the mecca for all the terpichorean enthusiasts and lovers of jazz for Morris' Novelty Orchestra—delightfully harmonizes the strains of jazz with catchy syncopated melodies and this musical quintet is a favorite on the beach.

Wednesday and Saturday evenings are the "big nights." On these two occasions handsome silver loving couples are presented to the winning couples in the Elimination Contests. The management has announced that the separate and distinct windows which will be added features on these nights.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons the tea dancants are favorite attractions in the Pilmhinmon Grill which is also open on the other alternate evenings from 11.30 to 12.30 with dancing included on its menu card.

Other amusement "lacers" are also drawing crowds. There is dancing every night from 8.30 to 11 o'clock at the Atlantic Hotel and after that in the Summer Garden adjacent. The bowling alleys on the pier are also attractive rendezvous places. High-class photo-plays are being presented at the Casino Theatre and other houses while the Mid-Way still is popular with all the visitors.

John W. Garrett Has Begun Tour Of Towns

Republican Candidate For Senatorial Nomination Will Be In Ocean City Sunday.

Following the announcement on Wednesday of his platform to the Republican voters of Maryland, John W. Garrett will commence his tour of the counties. The republican candidate for the coming senatorial nomination will be in Ocean City Sunday reaching there late Saturday evening. On Monday he will begin his trip through the Shore's counties.

Mr. Garrett will visit Hagerstown and Frederick the latter part of the week and from there will come direct to the Eastern Shore where he will present his claims to be the people's choice over Senator France.

Mrs. Harvey Farlow entertained the Ladies Aid Society of Charity M. P. Church on Saturday evening, July 29, with a good attendance.

Mr. E. Stanley Bedworth and Mr. J. I. Bedworth, of Baltimore, were in this city last week.

Spic And Span Company I Awaits Review And Inspection By Governor At Arsenal

Local Troops In Camp At Edgewood Ready To Show Mettle On Thursday—Schedule Of Practical Instruction Has Included Athletics—Oscar Morris And Charlie Tilghman Volley Ball Leaders.

Word comes from Company "I's" headquarters in the State Guard Camp at Edgewood that Wicomico's crack unit is all ready for the big review on Thursday before Governor Ritchie with his staff and several distinguished generals of the Marine Corps. The local boys declare that the other organizations will have to go some in order to beat them out for top honors.

Lieutenant Ralph Dulaney, who returned from camp on Monday, stated yesterday that the members of Captain Russell's command were in fine fettle and could be counted upon to give a good account of themselves during the course of the inspection and parade. Every available minute of the men has been spent in shining buttons, cleaning uniforms and equipment, making tents spic and span and getting the "houses" in order for the inspection by the State's executive.

It is predicted in every corner that Company "I" is going to present the best line in marching in review. The keenest kind of rivalry is existent between the various outfits and the one who wins special mention will certainly deserve the praise.

On Wednesday afternoon the entire Maryland forces were paraded before General Pershing after he had made a brief inspection of the camp. On Governor's Day the reviewing party will consist of Governor Ritchie, Major-General W. C. Neville, Brigadier

PEOPLE CLAIM WATER SUPPLY IS DEFICIENT

Lack Of Pressure Deemed Serious Menace In Event Of Fire.

SPECIAL MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL CALLED

Question Will Be Thoroughly Discussed On Thursday Night By Executive Body With Investigating Committee Who Will Make Unfavorable Report On Situation.

Calling a special meeting of the City Council last night to discuss the water situation here Mayor Kennerly was compelled to postpone the meeting until Thursday of this week because only two of the city fathers were present. The members of the committee appointed by the Council some weeks ago were on hand to assist the gentlemen of the governing body in arriving at a clear understanding of the problem which confronts them.

On April 21, the Underwriters Association of the Middle Department, with headquarters at Philadelphia, made a complete and comprehensive survey of the fire hazard here. This survey was analyzed and a written report was sent to the committee in charge at this end. This report showed the present water system and plant in poor to fair condition, and that the present water pressure was deficient under varying circumstances.

The flow of water in the mains was tested at various points and in the residential sections of the city was found to be in places but three or four pounds, or 60 per cent. less than it should be. Other sections of the city were not so bad. Those areas lying well to the eastern side of the community are menaced day and night because it is estimated the water that could be supplied through the mains would not be sufficient in case of a large fire and hose lines from the river stretched for such a distance would be impossible.

It is not only with regard to fire that the survey has been made. Due to the sediment that is "mired" into the standpipes through machinery in a poor state of repair, the water over the city is clogged and rusted to such a point that even with plenty of water flowing into the mains from the pumping station the flow would still be so obstructed that the full pressure could not be obtained. There are in the system a number of leaks and which prevent circulation and this fact also causes the mains to clog more than they otherwise would. Mains laid long ago for a much smaller community are today inadequate for the city and should be changed without delay.

The problem that faces the City Council with regard to the water plant is a serious one and one that will be difficult to solve. Yet the authorities realize that something must be done, for a city the size of Salisbury cannot indefinitely face the menace that an under-supply of water entails.

Mayor Kennerly has certain well defined plans for the future and he expects that the citizens will co-operate with him fully in trying to obtain for Salisbury a modern, adequate and efficient water system.

Swimming is a major attraction on the camp every afternoon when practicing all of the men don their trunks and take a splash in the waters of the Gunpowder. Lieutenant Dewey is in a class by himself in the aquatic sports. And there have been no complaints about the "chow."

When Bugler Dean Powell sounds the favorite call, all "hands are on deck." Sunday's dinner consisted of a roast pork, all kinds of fresh vegetables, dressings, ice cream and cake. Perhaps the high-quality of food served accounts for the unusual record of no sickness being recorded for the first week in camp. Ellwood Phillips is the cook and Tom Hutchins struts in under dictatorial rule of mess sergeant.

Lieutenant Morris returned from Salisbury the last of the week with "the five conscientious objectors to camp life" and they immediately were assigned to the Western Shore of Virginia the latter part of this week. The tour has for its purpose a further investigation into the matter of the proposed boat line between the Northern Neck counties and Salisbury.

Members of the Wicomico Presbyterian Sunday School enjoyed a most delightful picnic and outing down at Sandy Hill on Tuesday afternoon. The trip was made down to the bathing beach in trucks and private machines and both young and old had a big time.

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE AGAINST MAN BY GIRL

Lee Justice Who Rooms in Same House as Young Collins Girl Is Arrested.

Sheriff Farlowe on last Thursday night arrested Lee Justice on a charge of criminally assaulting an eleven year old girl, the daughter of Mrs. Clara Collins. Mrs. Collins, who about three months ago was separated from her husband, Larry Collins, occupies an apartment on the third floor of a rooming house on Main Street.

Justice had a room on the second floor of the same house and it is said that for a few days preceding the alleged assault, the man had been showing the girl no little attention. She is fairly well developed for her age and rather attractive.

On Thursday evening, Mrs. Collins happened to be on the third story landing when she noticed Justice come out of his room on the floor below, look around hastily, and then go back only to emerge a second later with the young girl who started upstairs. When questioned by her mother regarding her action in going into the man's room little Ethel broke down and admitted that she had been invited into the room wherein the alleged assault is said to have taken place.

According to the story told the authorities by the girl, Justice told her that he would give her money to go to the movies with if she came into his room. While in there, she said, she was fondled and caressed, and given 50 cents with a threat of being harmed if she told anyone. The mother upon hearing the story, immediately got into touch with the authorities and the arrest in the case followed.

Later developments disclosed the fact that another young girl had also been mixed up in a similar affair. It is said that she had also been taken into the room of Justice who is 38 years old and that he had given her money for her accepting his friendly advances. She then went out on the street and told other girls how easy it was to get money by just going up into this room. In her instance, however, it is not believed that an assault took place.

Justice is supposed to come from somewhere in Virginia down by the town of Parkley. He is said to have several other rooms engaged in other parts of the city and it is understood that dry forces might become interested in the case.

September 4 Will Be Opening School Day

Colored Children Start Two Weeks Later—School Board Awards Transportation Route Contracts.

Wicomico's white children will start to school on September 4th and the colored children will hold their first assemblies on September 17th. These were the opening dates agreed upon by the County School Board in its meeting Tuesday morning. The schedule for the remainder of the year was not decided upon as the fuel question still hangs in the air.

The school board awarded its contracts for the transportation of children to and from their schools to the following parties: Fruitland-Salisbury Route to Oscar L. Smith for $92.50 a month; Waterview to Nanticoke Route to Edgar Robinson for $40 a month; and the Clara-White Haven route to George W. Timmons for $55 a month. Although the bids were in on the Farlow-Pittsville route no contracts were awarded.

CAMDEN AVE. SITE SELECTED FOR EASTERN SHORE'S NORMAL SCHOOL

Fines Offenders In Three Assault Cases

Magistrate Imposes Heaviest Penalty On Man Who Went On Sunday Night Rampage.

Imbued with a strong fighting spirit last Sunday night Rallie Revell went on a rampage which cost him fines amounting to about $65 imposed by Magistrate Jones, Tuesday morning. Revell was arrested by Officers Cahall and Sullivan on Sunday night after he had assaulted Albert Doyle in White's Restaurant on Church street following a few angry words and a little later had beaten up Ellwood Townsend whom he found asleep in front of R. D. Grier & Sons machine shop. The affairs are said to have been started over a few ugly remarks cast by the men against Revell.

Another case that came to the attention of Magistrate Jones was that of Ethel Dashiell, colored, who was charged with stabbing Lemuel Purnell, also colored, at the camp meeting grounds on Lake street. Some trouble arose between the pair whereupon the girl is said to have drawn a knife and plunged it into the man. She was fined $25 and costs.

INDIFFERENCE OF PUBLIC IS OPENLY SCORED

Pastor Of Asbury Methodist Protestant Church Denounces Attitude Of The People.

PROMISED MEMORIAL TO WAR HEROES FORGOTTEN

Dr. Herson States That Fund of $450 Held In Trust By His Church Will Be Used For Erection Of Some Sort Of Memorial. Is "Heartlessly Sick Of Selfishness."

At a meeting of the official board of the Asbury M. E. Church on Monday night, the matter of a memorial to the Wicomico men who died in the World War was brought up. It was stated that there was in the church treasury for this purpose a fund of approximately $450 which had been raised at a lecture delivered at the Arcade Theatre by Dr. J. T. Herson on his return from Europe in 1919.

The church has been holding this fund in trust in the hope that some movement would be started by the county for the raising of a popular subscription or some other means funds for the erection of a suitable memorial. Several attempts have been made to get this movement under way, but particularly by Dr. Herson who not long ago went before the City Council with an urgent appeal for support.

Each movement has died away without a ripple in the apathetic waters of public indifference. The people seem so ready to do anything for the men in olive drab during the tense days of the struggle appear to have forgotten the promises made when popular orators stirred their audience to the depths with their impassioned appeals to patriotism.

"An heartlessly sick of the selfish attitude that has been taken toward the memorial idea," says Dr. Herson who goes on to state that unless something is done within the near future the funds his church is holding in trust will be used to erect some sort of public memorial so that Wicomico County shall not be called utterly forgetful.

It is understood that there are some additional funds held in other hands for the purpose of building a memorial to the heroes of the World War. Lumping all the funds together, however, it is not likely that there will be more than sufficient to place a bronze tablet somewhere or set up a small shaft, neither of which, it is felt, is the proper kind of memorial for a county as large and prosperous and wealthy as is Wicomico.

What the outcome of this new movement will be remains to be seen. It is unquestionably true that something will be done soon, for the trustee of the fund raised through Dr. Herson's lecture are determined that the county shall not remain longer under the stigma of utter forgetfulness.

Commission Purchases Wm. F. Allen Property Of 29 Acres For $16,000.

COMMITTEE REVIEWS 16 OTHER LOCATIONS

Architects Now Preparing Plans and Specifications For Structures Of Colonial Design—Will Commence Building In Early Spring With Opening In Fall Of 1924.

Salisbury's new institution, The Eastern Shore State Normal School, will be erected next Spring on Camden Avenue, extended, just beyond the city limits. On last Friday afternoon, the commission delegated to investigate the feasibility of several proposed sites for the Normal School, made a choice of the property of Wm. F. Allen's property on the city's outskirts in the Camden District.

Immediately afterwards, the deal was closed, the purchase price being $16,000 for the tract of 29 acres. The property faces on the Princess Anne and Pocomoke roads on Camden Avenue extended. It begins at the shell road which leads to the Combourne Road and extends 700 ft. south and in depth includes all land back to the N. Y. P. & N. tracks.

At the last legislature, funds were provided for the erection of a State Normal School at Salisbury. The following members were appointed on a commission which was to meet and investigate the feasibility of a site: Dr. Henry M. Fitzhugh, president of schools; Senator Charles K. Disharoon, Senator Orlando Harrison, of Worcester County, Senator John B. Robins, of Somerset County, Mr. W. L. Gunby, president of the Wicomico County Board of Education, State Comptroller William S. Gordy and Mr. W. J. Holloway, State Supervisor of Rural Schools.

This commission met last Friday, the only absentee being Senator Robins who was kept away on account of a death in the family. Senator Disharoon was made chairman, Mr. Gordy, treasurer and Mr. Holloway, secretary. That afternoon an inspection was made of the different properties that had been brought before the commission for consideration. In all there were 16 tracts presented, chief of which were: "The Oaks," Lemuel Phillips property on the Ocean City Road, that of Charles M. Peters at Fairfield, Oakley property, the McBride tract on the River Road, land on the Toney Tank Road offered by Messrs. Franklin Woodcock and Mark Cooper, and two sites belonging to W. F. Allen.

WELCOMED AT EASTON

Easton's Rotary Club is host to the Big Inter-City Meeting Last Wednesday Night.

Easton's Rotary Club was host last Wednesday night to over 200 Rotarians from Baltimore, Washington, Annapolis, Wilmington, Dover, Crisfield, Pocomoke and Salisbury. A banquet was held in Music Hall and Dr. William N. Palmer of the Eastern Rotary Club presided.

Presidents of the various clubs were the speakers of the evening and Bill White, of Wilmington, and one of the best song leaders in the East, led the community singing. The committees having the affair in charge were: Dinner, C. E. Bray, chairman; Frank Roberts, E. P. Wallis; Decorations, John S. McDonald, chairman; P. K. Abbey, Russell Fountain, C. Norman Jefferson, Herman Hancock. The dinner was served by 15 young women of Easton. They were as follows: Miss Emma Patchett, head waitress; Mildred Wheatley, Violet Sturti, Agatha Cohen, Mary Wheatley, Evelyn Sturti, Josephine Cohen, Gladys Kottcamp, Elsie Summers, Lucille Meeks, Dorothy Meintzer, Mary Mulliken, Muriel Warner, Elizabeth Meintzer and Leona Warner.

A large delegation from Cambridge, headed by ex-Governor William B. Foster, attended the meeting. It is the intention of some of the business men of that city to organize a club in the near future. About 25 of the local men constituted a delegation from this city.

Edgely T. Melvin who at the installation of the new club, a little over a year ago presented a handsome gavel to Easton, spoke interestingly of the international convention just held at Los Angeles. He gave a brief resume of the outstanding accomplishments of that convention.

He was followed by Dr. Ulrich who spoke of Baltimore. The doctor challenged the clubs of the Thirty-fifth District present to look to their laurels, as the Thirty-fourth District of which the Maryland clubs are a part, intends to make a record during the present year. He also paid a splendid tribute to Captain Geo. Lumb, of Earlsboro, governor of the Thirty-fourth District.

William B. Foster, president of the Wilmington Club, conveyed hearty greetings to all the clubs present and extended an invitation to visit the Wilmington Club at its home.

Harry V. Hallway, secretary of the Dover Club, also told of the benefits of a meeting such as this, and wanted a closer fellowship with the Del-Mar-Via Clubs.

J. G. Healey, president of the Annapolis Club, proudly called upon his delegation to stand and to show by their presence that they were interested in the development of Rotary in Easton and on the Shore.

Leo M. Moore spoke of Havre de Grace and intimated that an inter-city meeting would soon be held by his club. He said the inspiration received by him and his fellow-members was more than worth the 180 miles they had to travel to be present.

Ralph Grier, president of Salisbury Club, was gratified at the success of the meeting because to Salisbury belongs the honor of organizing the Eastern Club. He expressed a continued interest in the progress of Eastern Rotary.

Wm. J. Peyton, president of the Crisfield Club, declared the benefit of such a meeting was such that his town felt the need of one and would sound the call when Tangier oysters were again ripe.

C. O. Dunn, president of the Beckley, W. Va. club, was in Easton, and hearing of the meeting came to extend greetings from the Twenty-fourth Rotary District. He predicted great things for Rotary with such a fine spirit as was shown at this meeting.

The director of the Boy Scouts of Maryland was present and gave an interesting detail of the result of the Boy Scout movement. He asked the influence of Rotary to make the movement stronger on the Eastern Shore.

Everett C. Johnson, of the Wilmington Club, was the last speaker. Mr. Johnson had been heralded by the Eastern Club as a speaker better qualified to talk Rotary than any other on the Peninsula. Many had keen anticipations of the pleasure and profit to be had in hearing him, and it is safe to say that none of the 200 present had ever before heard the gospel of Rotary so eloquently and so forcefully propounded. With an occasional injection of most delightful humor, Mr. Johnson held his hearers with wrapt attention for half an hour, and when he closed the audience rose as a man to applaud him.

He particularly stressed the fact that the unrest in the world today would finally be solved by the application of the ideals and principles of International Rotary. Idealists' talk around the banquet table amounted to nothing unless it was put into actual practice.

Kurtz, as he defined it, is on a very high plane, and the thoughts expressed by him sank deep in the hearts of all. Scores present declared the trip to Easton has been made an epoch in their lives by the "dream of Rotary" which he so beautifully presented.

The president and members of the Eastern Club were "ratified with the many congratulations poured upon them upon the beneficial outcome of the meetings.

MOSQUITO "WRIGGLERS" FILL STAGNANT WATER

Radio Lecture By New York Health Commissioner Thoroughly Covers Subject of Pest.

Despite the repeated agitation produced against the mosquito in this county, very little energetic work has attended the campaign against this malaria-carrier and consequently the species is to be found in great quantities. Interesting then is a lecture on the mosquito given below.

The following article with one or two unimportant changes made by substituting the name Maryland for New York is from a short radio lecture recently given by Dr. Herman M. Briggs, State Commissioner of Health of New York. The information is as applicable to Maryland as New York:

"In Maryland there are many species of mosquitoes but only two kinds that are at all numerous. Of these, the more common is known as 'Gulex'. While 'Gulex' is a great annoyance and a pest it is, so far as known, not capable of carrying disease. The other type ordinarily found in Maryland, the anopheles, is definitely known to be a carrier of malaria. Much less numerous is a third species found along the Chesapeake Bay and Ocean front sections which breeds only in salt water. This yellow fever mosquito is not found in this State.

"It became possible to build the Panama Canal in the swamp lands of the torrid zone only after effective means had been developed to get rid of the millions of mosquitoes which bred in the stagnant swamps. The same simple methods used under the world famous administration of General Gorgas can be applied by any one at home. Of course, where the swamps like the swamp lands in many parts of the Eastern Shore have to be treated, it is a matter for the community or the county to handle rather than the work of an individual.

"There are three ways of getting rid of mosquitoes: By draining or otherwise destroying their breeding places; by killing them with oil while they are in the undeveloped or wriggler stages of growth; and by providing natural enemies that feed on the wrigglers. All three methods were used effectively at Panama.

"Mosquitoes can only breed in stagnant or still water. By draining swamps, filling in low places and covering over or overturning all receptacles that will hold water it is possible greatly to reduce the mosquito population.

"The mosquito deposits eggs in large numbers on the surface of still water. In a few days they develop into the larval stage and are then commonly known as wrigglers. In a short space of time they grow into a larger form known as pupae. In both of these forms they have to breathe and in order to do this they are obliged to come often to the top of the water and stick their short breathing tubes above the surface.

"If a thin film of oil is spread across the surface of the water, these breathing tubes become clogged with oil and the young mosquito dies of suffocation. A few drops of cod oil or kerosene or any other light, cheap oil will spread over a large surface area and thus prevent the development of mosquitoes. In using the oil, however, it is necessary also to seek out and fill all depressions and to overturn or destroy all small receptacles capable of holding quantities of water.

"An uncovered rain barrel or a stopped-up house gutter will serve as a breeding place for millions of mosquitoes, while a few tin cans half filled with rain water will supply enough of these pests to annoy a whole neighborhood.

"Sometimes it is impracticable to fill a lake, pond or slow-flowing stream. In such cases it is possible to accomplish the destruction of mosquitoes by stocking with minnows, gold fish, roach and certain other small fish which feed on the mosquito larvae and pupae."

Salisbury, Wicomico County, and other sections in the vicinity can be largely if not entirely rid of mosquitoes and malaria with the suffering and expense if the citizens will but demand that their city and county officials follow out the suggestions as given in the "Report on Malarial Survey in Salisbury" made by Doctor supply should be available without great expense for extending the service.

8. Assuming that the school will make use of the graded schools of the town for purposes of observation and practice teaching, the normal school should be within easy walking distance of these schools.

9. The school should be within easy walking distance of churches, refreshment resorts, and places of entertainment.

10. The price should be reasonable. Smith & May, Baltimore architects, have been retained to prepare plans and specifications, and it is understood by the officials in charge that work on the buildings is to commence next spring. It is hoped to have them completed and all in readiness for the school's opening in the fall of 1924. There will be about $117,000 available next August with which to continue building operations and the next legislature is expected to appropriate the necessary maintenance funds for the following year.

Tentative plans have already been reviewed that concern the style of architecture and the general outlay of buildings. It is contemplated building a large structure of Colonial design for the administration building in which will be the offices, classrooms, assembly hall and gymnasium. One feature about the auditorium and gymnasium is that the latter will be built on the same level of the former's stage so that by merely throwing open large wing doors, the stage will open up into the spacious floor of the gymnasium thus making it possible to hold large pageants and the like indoors.

On either side of this main building and connected with it by colonnades will be two wings, one containing the laundry, kitchen, serving room and dining room and the other, the library, study hall and 3 class rooms. Dormitories for the students will be on the second floors of the wings, it having been found inadvisable to permit girls to sleep on the ground floors. In the halls of the two colonnades will be provided the social rooms and

The long expanses of ground extending back to the railroad tracks will be divided off into athletic fields and playground lots for instruction purposes. Recreation advantages are becoming more and more a part of the curriculum of schools and colleges and this phase will not be neglected in the new institution.

The courses of study will be the same as outlined for the other normal schools. However here special stress will be laid upon the preparation of teachers for rural schools. It is estimated that approximately 250 girls will be conveniently enrolled with sleeping quarters for 142.

The acquisition of this institution by this community means a great stride taken in the educational field and innumerable advantages will accrue from its work. It will be a high center of professional activities with extension work in the summer and like possibilities. The value therefore to the city can scarcely be estimated. And it is distinctly emphasized by the officials that the Normal School will absolutely be no expense to Wicomico County.

S. Todd, short stop; Sam Smyth, first base; and Samuel A. Gordy, third base.

Rotarian Fred P. Adkins made a short talk on the value of the right kind of base ball and Walter B. Miller, president of the League, then told the Rotarians and their guests something of the difficulties of his position, concluding that he is big enough to be impartial when it comes to deciding on matters of a controversial nature between clubs, regardless of what those clubs might be, and at the same time, as a Salisburyman, to wish for the success of his home team. He complimented the local team highly on their gentlemanly conduct which has been especially worthy of pride during the entire season.

A short report was made of the boys camp at Fairlee in which it was pointed out that the youngsters who were able to attend that camp by reason of the generosity of the Rotary Club had greatly benefited by the outdoor life and experience.

Wasted Enough To Buy A Home

Rhodes Says Nothing Reached His Case and He Was Losing Ground Every Day.

"I have actually spent enough money trying to get my health back to buy a house and lot, and Tanlac has put me on my feet at a cost too small to mention," is the emphatic statement of George H. Rhodes, a well-known citizen living at 2915 Frederick Street, Baltimore.

"I had suffered from stomach trouble for a long time and think I had about all the miserable feelings

I had eighteen pounds in weight and had no energy whatever. There was a constant pain across the small of my back and I had fearful headaches. I also had a pain in my left side that almost bent me double and my nerves were all undone. I kept going down hill until last winter I got in such a bad fix that I don't think I put in as much as two months at my work the whole winter.

"Well, I will always bless the day my sister talked me into trying Tanlac. Before I finished the first bottle over me, and three bottles have just the same as made a new man of me. I can eat anything now and that tired, draggy feeling has given place to new life and energy. My headaches have vanished, my pains have just about disappeared, nerves have steadied down and now I am fast regaining my lost weight. Tanlac has brought me out of misery to health and happiness and I just think it is worth its weight in gold."

Tanlac is sold in Salisbury by all good druggists.—Adv. 366.

CHIROPRACTIC WILL HELP YOU

The Drugless Health Science of Chiropractic will help you. This may seem too strong a statement to apply in a general way, but it is based alone on the evidence of what Chiropractic is doing where consistently tried out.

Chronic cases are the Chiropractor's stock in trade, not because he is specially desirous of having such cases to the exclusion of the acute, but because people usually try everyone and everything else before consulting a Chiropractor.

However, the recovery of a chronic case at the hands of the Chiropractor is the best proof that Chiropractic is right. Such recoveries are being witnessed in many quarters over a wide range of territory every day. Chiropractic will help you when everything else fails, but it is to your interest to not wait for further experiment with methods that are known to be failures. Any so-called mode of healing that does not deal with the cause of disease is a failure. Chiropractic locates the cause and adjusts it. The result is Health. Consultation and Spinal Analysis Free.

Gentlemen:-

We have been using your AMERICAN-STRATE Gasoline in our Demonstrating Cars for sometime and believe it to be the best regular gasoline on this market.

We find that the AMERICAN-STRATE Gasoline gives unvarying satisfaction, keeping the valves clean from carbon, and on the road we have been averaging fourteen miles to a gallon. Considering the extreme power and high rate of speed most Stutz cars are driven, this is truly a remarkable performance.

It also seems to give more power, more flexibility, and we are recommending it to use to owners of Stutz cars.

Very truly yours,

HAS THE PUBLIC FORGOTTEN?

Public apathy, indifference, forgetfulness, call it what you will, is the cause for the beginning of another movement having for its purpose the erecting at some point in this county of a fitting memorial to the men who made the supreme sacrifice for their country in the World War.

From time to time there has been started a similar movement, never gaining great headway, causing only a slight stir among even the most ardent, and finally sinking out of sight in the rushing stream of current events with hardly a ripple to mark its lonely, forgotten grave.

Perhaps the present venture will likewise come to some such end, passing into oblivion. Perhaps there shall be a more happy culmination. It depends entirely upon the people. If they have not forgotten the men who made the sacrifice, if they are willing now to make good the vows registered during the war, if they want to leave a permanent monument in commemoration of their own heroes, they can and will do so.

The latest movement for a memorial has developed out of the fact that Asbury Church has, since 1919, been holding in trust certain funds which it was hoped would be a nucleus around which popular subscriptions would spring up, making a total sum large enough to erect a monument of some type that would be a fitting tribute to the Wicomico dead. The trustees of this fund feel that it is not a church fund but a public fund. Bearing in mind, however, the sacred purpose for which it was raised, they are now determined that unless something is done to carry out the original plans for a memorial, they will use the money for the erection of something in memory of the men who died in the war, even though that something be nothing more imposing or useful than a bronze tablet or a marble shaft.

What a travesty either would be! That the flower of the country should perish and to their memory be raised a little, useless shaft, or an ornamental tablet bearing in bold relief the names of the men who leaped to arms and gave their all that the world might be made safe for democracy!

Patriotism, stripped of its glamor, its tinsel, its gilt, is naught but service in the larger sense. It is a service of love, bigger than the individual, broader than the community, measurable only in terms of the need of the nation. The men who surrendered their arms on the battle fields of Europe only to the Commander of all the Armies of Earth, were truly giving their lives in service.

Could those men come back, even for a little while, they would urge that any memorial erected in their honor carry as a dominant note the idea of service. Of what use to them or to the ideals for which they died are the marble shaft, the bronze tablet, physical symptoms of man's innate vanity, the vanity not of the dead but of the living?

Even as the heroes of this county gave their lives in service to their country, so should their fellow citizens lend their efforts in perpetuating the ideals of service for which they died. When the time comes to build a memorial, let that memorial signify but one thing—service. Let it be a public library, a gift of permanent value to the Hospital, a perpetual scholarship for the needy at some worthy college, something, anything that will be worth while, that will serve some need at present unheeded.

Thus shall the spirit of our heroes return to watch over us, proud to know that we are carrying on the fight of serving our country, and grateful to know that we have not forgotten them.

THE VITAL FIFTEEN MINUTES.

Authorities of the highest caliber and greatest experience are of the unanimous opinion that the vital time of a fire is during the first fifteen minutes after the conflagration starts. If proper measures are taken then, the chances for heading off the fire are exceedingly good. If the flames gain a fifteen minute headway, no one can foretell the end.

Realizing this, what must the thinking citizen of Salisbury believe with reference to the fire protection of the city? Of fire fighters, we have a corps second to none. These men, summoned at the tap of the bell from their work all over the city, are able to get under way with their apparatus in an average of something like sixty seconds. They are always there in time to start the fight well inside the fifteen minute limit. We have nothing to fear from this source.

The real menace lies in the water system. Without a plentiful supply of water, the firemen can do nothing. Chemicals of little use after the blaze has reached certain proportions; water is the only thing with which the flames can be subdued. The water supply of Salisbury is not only inadequate, it is also liable to fail almost entirely at any time.

Surveys of the water plant and system have shown that the equipment is inadequate and in a poor state of repair. Screens thru which the water is supposed to be drawn are so damaged that a high content of sand and dirt is drawn from the wells with each stroke of the pump. This grit has cut the pumps badly and it is understood that the packing has to be replaced much oftener than would ordinarily be necessary. This naturally weakens the pumping unit as a factor in fighting fire, for it is likely to be thrown out of commission altogether under stress.

With the largest pumping unit out of commission, the water plant is but twenty-two per cent. efficient. With the plant working at capacity, the system is still twenty-five per cent. deficient. Add to this deficiency the risk of the entire plant being put out of commission, and even the unthinking will realize the hazardous position of the city.

The water system is privately owned by a corporation which seems unwilling or unable to do anything to correct conditions. The matter has been put up to them a number of times, yet nothing has been accomplished. The case has been taken before the Public Service Commission before which tribunal it was found that everything centered on the interpretation of the word "adequate supply" of water, which the water company under its charter is supposed to supply. It was then decided that the supply was adequate since in fighting all fires it was shown that sooner or later the Fire Department had conquered the flames.

In April of this year, a comprehensive survey of the fire hazard in the city was made by a competent committee. On June twelfth, this committee appeared before the Mayor and City Council and submitted its report. The report was taken under consideration and it was decided that a special meeting of the Council be held on Friday night, July 28th, at which time the Committee would be invited to appear and aid the city fathers in arriving at a clear understanding of the problem confronting them.

When the Council met, the Mayor and two members only were present. The other gentlemen of the councilmanic board sent word they could not be present. A hearing on the report was therefore postponed until Thursday night of this week at which time it is devoutly hoped the Council will determine on some action that shall bring adequate protection from fire to the property owners of Salisbury.

The problem is big and its solution is difficult. It will take tireless effort, true initiative, pluck and courage to work out that solution. The task is clearly and indisputably one for the City Council and they cannot pass the responsibility to other shoulders. They are the chosen governors of the city. To them is confided the property of the citizens. It is their duty to furnish adequate police and fire protection. If any obstacle hinders them in trying to secure this protection, they should leave no stone unturned to remove that obstacle and accomplish their end.

The water system of Salisbury is hardly adequate for a town one-third the size. It constitutes a real menace and one that must be removed. The property holders have a right to protection from fire. They can get it if they will lend their support to the City Council, but the City Council must lead the way.

WHO FAILED?

Word received from the State Department of Health advises that the fight against malaria is the peculiar duty of the county in which malaria conditions exist and is in no way the duty of the State. The State Department is perfectly willing to co-operate to the fullest extent of its powers, but it cannot and will not do the work that should be done by county and municipal officials.

Last year the State Department made a partial, not a complete, survey of the malaria conditions here and recommended certain measures which, had they been heeded, would have stamped out the malaria mosquito before last Christmas. It will be remembered that during the campaign preceding the last municipal election, it was stated by the present administration that all was in readiness for the fight against the mosquito, and that the forces here were simply waiting the right time to start. It was said that the word would be given by the State Department, a fact which officials of that Department emphatically deny.

The survey makes public some startling facts that should be in the possession of every citizen. It shows that in 1917 the percentage of cases in Salisbury in relation to the total number in all the other counties of Maryland was 3.13%. In 1918 this percentage was lowered to 2.86%, and in 1919 it jumped back to 3.28%. The following year, Salisbury had 19.23% of the total number of cases of malaria in the counties of the State and in 1921, to September first, that percentage reached the appalling mark of 62.26%.

As further evidence of the unparalleled spread of this disease that saps the vitality of the community, the report showed that 1100 people had been included in the survey and from these it was found that malaria had occurred in 30 homes in 1919 and in 119 homes in 1921. It was also shown that the number of cases in 1920 was 61, while in 1921, just until the first of September, that number had grown to 210. Cases were found in every section of the town that was visited and it is stated in the report that 1500 people were incapacitated at some time or other during the year.

"The prosperity and progress of Salisbury is in danger. Many inquiries are received by the Maryland State Health Department from prospective business firms and citizens concerning the presence or absence of malaria in a community, and final selection of a locality often depends on a report of good or bad health conditions. No corporation employing a group of people can prosper when conditions are such that malaria is prevalent in the community." So runs the report.

Concluding, the State Health authorities gave the locations of the most menacing danger spots and recommended the means for eradicating them. This was as far as the State Department could go. The fight now became the task of the county and city authorities. So far, however, nothing has been done, yet the malaria situation this year is almost as bad as it was in 1921.

There is no cause for undue alarm. The thing to do now is to face the facts and fight the mosquito. It must be the duty of the individual citizen to protect himself as best he can and it is the duty of the Mayor and city officials to get to work and eradicate the source of disease. The job is theirs. Ordinance Number Z 10 of the city of Salisbury clearly designates the Mayor and City Council, together with the Health Officer and assistants, as the municipal Department of Health. As such they are officially responsible for the malaria conditions that confront us today. As such, they are responsible for eradicating the danger spots in which the malaria mosquitoes breed. As such they are responsible for the time, energy and money that are being wasted because of the prevalence of the disease in this city.

It is not too late for them to begin their work now. What is the cost of suppressing the danger in comparison with what suppression would mean in better health to the citizens of Salisbury? In the name of suffering humanity, let the work be done!

SPINNING HAS MOVED FAR.

The spinning process to which we owe much of the advance of civilization, is a very ancient one.

The original method of spinning, presumably, was to draw out the wool into strands with the fingers and twist it into thread. If one will do this with a piece of cotton wool, for example, one will have a practical illustration of the fundamental principle of spinning. This method, of course, was extremely tedious, and eventually somebody hit upon the idea of using a stick instead of the fingers for twisting the thread. The stick was operated by twisting it with the palm of the hand against the thigh. In order that it might revolve more easily and rapidly, a piece of stone, metal or other heavy substance was attached to the top of it. Such was the primitive spindle, used the world over until comparatively modern times.

The first important improvement was the invention of the spinning wheel. This originated in India, probably at what period is not known, and it made its first appearance in Europe toward the end of the fifteenth century. It consisted of a spindle to twist the thread, a wheel to turn the spindle and wind the finished yarn, and a distaff to hold the raw material. At first the distaff was held in the hand or stuck in the belt of the spinner, but later it was attached.

RULES FOR WEATHER FORECASTING GIVEN

Knowledge of Certain Conditions Preceding Various Kinds of Weather Helps One Predict.

The following rules for forecasting the weather have been compiled by The World Almanac from the best official sources here and abroad:

A rapid rise indicates unsettled weather.

A gradual rise indicates settled weather.

A rise with dry air and cold increasing in summer indicates wind from the northward; and if rain has fallen, better weather may be expected.

A rise with moist air and a low temperature indicates wind and rain from the northward.

A rise with southerly winds indicates fine weather.

with dry air and reasonable temperature indicates a continuance of very fine weather.

A falling barometer.

A rapid fall indicates stormy weather.

A rapid fall with westerly wind indicates stormy weather from the northward.

A fall with a northerly wind indicates storm, with rain and hail in summer, and snow in winter.

A fall with increased moisture in the air, and heat increasing, indicates wind and rain from the southward.

A fall with dry air and cold increasing in winter indicates snow.

A fall after very calm and warm weather indicates rain with squally weather.

The barometer rises for northerly winds, including from northwest by north to the eastward for dry, or less wet weather, for less wind, or for more than one of these changes, except on a few occasions when rain, hail or snow comes from the northward with strong wind.

The barometer falls for southerly wind, including from southeast by south to the westward, for wet weather, for stronger wind or for more than one of these changes, except on a few occasions, when moderate wind, with rain or snow, comes from the northward.

The Almanac contains much other weather data, revised yearly, including temperature and rainfall tables for New York City and for every im-

States and all over the globe.

Weather Wisdom.

A gray, lowering sunset, or one where the sky is green or yellowish green, indicates rain. A red sunrise, with clouds lowering later in the morning, also indicates rain. A halo occurring after fine weather indicates a storm. A corona growing smaller indicates rain; growing larger, fair weather. A morning rainbow is regarded as a sign of rain; an evening rainbow, of fair weather. A deep blue color of the sky, even when seen through clouds, indicates fair weather, a growing whiteness an approaching storm. Fogs indicate settled weather. A morning fog usually breaks away before noon. Unusual clearness of the atmosphere, unusual brightness or twinkling of the stars, indicates rain. The first frost and last frost are usually preceded by a temperature very much above the mean.

BUFFALO HERDS ARE INCREASING SLOWLY

Protection Given To Almost Extinct Species of American Animal Is Bearing Fruit.

Forty-six new buffalo calves are reported on three of the four game preserves maintained by the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture for the special protection of buffalo. On the National Bison Range in Montana, there are 417 buffalo, including 28 calves born this spring. Fifteen calves are reported at the Wind Cave preserve, in South Dakota, and 3 at Niobrara, Neb.

The department has been very fortunate in maintaining the herds established at these three points and at Sulphur Hill, N. D. There are relatively few large buffalo herds now scattered over the country, and the Biological Survey has made special efforts to provide suitable ranges and protection for what threatened a few years ago to become an extinct species of native American animal.

26,000 TELEPHONES INSTALLED IN YEAR

This is Estimate of Chesapeake and Potomac Company Which Has Released Pertinent Statistics.

More than 6,500 telephones in Maryland will be moved from one place of residence or business to another during 1922. This means that virtually one out of every 23 will be disconnected and reconnected at another location.

Officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. estimate that there will be a total of 26,200 new telephones actually installed during this year, in Maryland. An usual, a large number of telephones will be disconnected, so that the total net increase in the State during the year will be about 8,500. There are now about 144,500 telephones in Maryland.

Last year in the whole country 1,820,000 telephones were moved from one place to another by the Bell System, at a cost of more than $15,000,000. In Maryland during 1921, there were 23,437 connections and 15,538 disconnections, in spite of the fact that telephone subscribers are probably the most stable and permanent portion of the State's population.

To most people, the connecting or disconnecting of a telephone seems a simple operation of installing or removing the instrument. As a matter of fact, in every case it necessitates changes in the cables and wires overhead or underground. It also necessitates changes in central office wires and switchboard connections; in subscribers' accounts and directory listings; and frequently requires the running of new "drop" lines from open wires or cables.

In the telephone business, every day is "moving day." Though there are certain periods, especially in spring and fall, when the number of connections is abnormally large, many stations are being moved every day. And the habit is not peculiar to Maryland, since nearly 2,000,000 telephones out of 13,000,000 in the Bell System were moved last year.

The problems of station movement are among the largest problems of the telephone people. It is only by the most expert management of plant facilities that service is enabled to follow the subscriber where he goes.

Lone Officer On Duty At Local Sub-Station

Four Members Of State Police Force Have Resigned Within The Past Week.

Officer R. P. Eicholtz is the only member of the state police force on duty at the Salisbury sub-station and he is doing 24 hour duty. Consequently there are no motorcycle men out on the highway in this section.

This condition was brought about through the resignation of Officer Thompson following the Delmar strike trouble and the quitting of the force by Officers Topper, Taylor and Maczias, all three leaving Sunday. Both Topper and Taylor were involved in some trouble while off duty it is said and when it appeared that a suspension from duty was forthcoming, both men resigned.

SILOAM CAMP OPENS SATURDAY AUGUST 5

Siloam Methodist Episcopal Camp opens up on August 5th and continues on to the 13th. This is the fourth year that the Rev. J. M. S. Van Blunk has been the pastor in charge and the success of this camp-meeting has become widely known. This year many prominent speakers have been engaged and the services are expected to be most interesting.

RECEIVES MOST VOTES CAST IN SINGLE NIGHT

Miss Tyndall Polls 910 Tuesday—Coupons Will Count Double Friday and Saturday Nights.

Polling the greatest number of votes cast in a single night for any contestant, Miss Irma Tyndall forged to the front again on Tuesday night in the Arcade Theatre's popularity contest. Her total was jumped 910 points by this heavy voting. Miss Jean Dashiell, however, is within easy striking distance and may assume the lead at any time.

Conspicuous has been the rise of Miss Helen May Jones to third position and a strong follow-in backing the popular little telephone operator. Miss Margaret Dick is perhaps showing the most consistent standing and is apt to force the leaders to spurt when the last lap is reached next week. The contest closes on Saturday night, Aug. 12.

In order to stimulate interest and to give the girls whose ranking is below third place a chance to get in the running, the management announces that on Friday and Saturday night all switchboard coupons will count 20 votes instead of the usual ten. It will therefore be to the advantage of every contestant to register as many votes as possible on these two days as next week the normal total will resume. The list of the first 20 girls follows:

Irma Tyndall 8940

Jean Dashiell 8430

Helen May Jones 5990

Lillian Parker 5230

Louisa Graham 4990

Margaret Dick 3640

CITY MINISTERS ARE ENJOYING VACATIONS

With Pastors Away Several Churches Have Discontinued Services During August.

Ministers of the various churches in this city are for the most part enjoying their vacations away from Salisbury during the present month. Some of the houses of worship have accordingly closed their doors while others are having their pulpits filled by outside pastors.

Dr. Herson of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church is not taking his vacation at this time, although Sunday he is scheduled to speak at the large Emory Grove Camp Meeting outside of Baltimore.

Rev. Cone of the St. Peters Church has closed its doors and is taking a trip up north. Dr. Shipley, pastor of the Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church is attending the summer conference meeting in Westminster and later on will visit friends in Baltimore, returning about the end of the month.

Rev. Dr. John Brandon Peters is enjoying a month's vacation at his cottage on the beach at Ocean View, Va. His place in the pulpit will be filled next Sunday by Rev. Dr. H. W. Davis, of Hampton, Va., an old pastor of Trinity Church.

Rev. Alexander Boyle of the Presbyterian Church is now in Hagerstown but is planning to make a trip within a few days to Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

Sunday services have not been discontinued at the Division Street Baptist and the pastor, Rev. V. L. Edmunds will conduct both morning and evening meetings. Rev. Edmunds is holding a girls camp down at Ocean City which has been most successful. He will come over to Salisbury on Saturday evenings. Rev. Rehkop, of the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church is not taking his vacation now nor is Rev. Burnette, of St. Andrews.

Arundel Corporation Will Dredge Wicomico

Government Engineers Have Prepared Contracts And Operations Should Commence in Six Weeks.

Dredging of the Wicomico will in all probability commence during the middle of the month of September. Mr. Charles Harper of this city, to whom goes no little credit for the accomplishment of the project, has received a letter from the office of the government engineers stating that the contract has been prepared with the Arundel Corporation of Baltimore, and that it is in their hands for signature.

Then it will be sent to the Chief of Engineers for approval, eight or ten days being consumed usually in securing final action on the contracts sent to the main office. The contractors are allowed thirty days in which of six weeks will likely elapse before to begin operations so that a period actual work commences.

Commissioners Award The Ferry Contracts

County Board Met Tuesday—Mr. Peter Smack Appointed Constable In Pittsburg District.

Meeting on Tuesday afternoon, the County Commissioners received and opened the bids on the ferries. Contracts were awarded to the following parties: White Haven Ferry to Laird J. Davis, price $725, Wetpquin Ferry to Cadmus Bailey, price $249.50, Upper Ferry to Lemuel Taylor, price $365, and on the Wicomico Creek Ferry the contract was held up to a later date.

Mr. Peter Smack was appointed constable in the Pittsburg District. Mr. William M. Hunt was credited with personal property in District 9. It was decided that the cost of operating tractor with one man running it should be $12.00 per day.

TELEPHONE COMPANY INSTALLS NEW BOARD

Another Multiple Switchboard Has Been Added to Local Exchange's Modernly Equipped Plant.

Evidence that the officials of the local telephone company are doing all that they can to maintain efficient service for their patrons is contained in the announcement that a new multiple switchboard has been installed in the operating quarters. This makes a total of 15 switchboards now in use, over which it has been estimated, approximately 12,000 local calls pass each day. The busiest hour is between 9 o'clock and 10 o'clock in the morning.

The local central is one of the most complete stations in the State and is equipped with all up-to-date apparatus so that service of the best kind can be assured the subscribers. One only has to go through the station to be convinced that, within its domain, system and organization are the two essential forces that control the inner workings.

The various departments are so arranged and divided that efficiency is a natural consequent. Everything is in neat order and there is no careless handling of supplies or machinery while in the traffic section the operators are required to always be on the alert and courteous to the patrons.

Mr. H. W. Carty is the manager of the commercial department, Mr. F. G. Adams is the district superintendent of the plant and Mr. E. R. Wingrove is the district traffic chief.

On Saturday afternoon Rev. H. S. Dulany took the members of the Junior Epworth League to Harlock for a short trip and it was very enjoyable.

Mrs. William J. Griffith died here on Saturday afternoon, having been for many months a great sufferer from cancer of the face. She bore her suffering with much patience, realizing that the only relief would be death. She was conscious that the end was drawing near and made arrangements for her burial, selected her pall bearers and the songs she wanted sung at the funeral. On Monday afternoon her remains were taken to the M. E. Church of which she had been a member for many years, and the funeral preached by Rev. H. S. Dulany. Her remains were interred in the Taylor cemetery. She leaves her husband, a great many relatives and a number of friends. She was considered a good woman, was kind and attentive to the sick and was always ready to help those who needed her help. She was held in high esteem and known for many years as "Aunt Ell." She was 76 years old. She was well read and posted on current events and a student of the Bible.

IN HEBRON DISTRICT

County Authorities Warn Against Spread Of Disease And Advise Vaccination Of All Hogs.

Hog Cholera has been found on the premises of certain individuals in the Hebron district. Warnings have been issued by Dr. McLaughlin and County Agent Cobb to the hog raisers of Hebron. Five cases have been discovered on the same street and all within a distance of about two hundred yards. It is advised by the above authorities that unless the people of Hebron take prompt action and have their hogs vaccinated the disease will spread to other places. It is believed that the Hog Cholera started in this section by feeding the stock infected pork in table scraps.

Many of the people seem to be of the opinion that Hog Cholera Serum spoils the meat. This idea is entirely wrong. There are about ten millions vaccinated in the United States every year. Hog Cholera is the disease that spoils meat as about 90 per cent. of the hogs that contract this disease die.

Where hogs are sick the owners should adopt every precaution to keep the disease from spreading. People and animals can carry the germ from place to place as this germ is present in the manure. Hogs that die should be promptly buried or burned to comply with the state law. Hog pens should be carefully cleaned and disinfected before new hogs are put in these pens.

All cases of sick hogs should be promptly reported to the County Agent or the U. S. Specialist at the Court House, Salisbury, Md.

Cancel Freight Rate With Minimum Charge

Bills On Shipments To Nearby Points Now Based On Actual Mileage Not 50 Miles.

Exhibits filed with the railroad officials of lines running into Salisbury by the Chamber of Commerce showing the unfair freight rates that were being charged in certain instances, have been accepted by the railway people who have agreed to abolish the minimum fifty mile rate, to which was added an additional penalty of some forty per cent.

The schedules showed rates for distances within fifty miles of Salisbury. Within this radius, the rate charged was for the full fifty miles, even though the shipment went no more than one-tenth that distance. In other words it cost as much to send a shipment from Salisbury to Delmar as it did to send the goods fifty miles up the road, and then to this cost was added an additional percentage that perceptibly increased the rate.

Cooper Family Holds Big Reunion Thursday

Pretentious Program Has Been Arranged for the Occasion With Several Addresses Featuring.

Thursday at the old Cooper Homestead, Columbia, Del., will gather many of the family clan who are holding their second annual reunion. Quite a pretentious program has been arranged for the day, including a luncheon, literary reading and athletics. Music is to be furnished by the Snappy Six orchestra of Salisbury.

Addresses will be made by the president, John S. Cooper, of Columbia, by Mr. Irving Pollitt, of Baltimore, who will speak on "Family Ties," and by the Hon. Robert G. Houston, of Georgetown, Del., and the Hon. Rex Taylor, of Salisbury. Mr. Levin T. Cooper, of Sharptown will deliver an historical address on "What the Coopers Have Done."

Diamond Dust

The White Clouds experienced a bad slump last week that killed all chances of their overtaking Pocomoke within the next few days. When "Duke" Adams came to the managerial reins, he instilled new life into his charges and for a while the Clouds looked good in their tiffs with the other clubs and followers of the Club were predicting great things to happen. However after winning eight out of twelve starts, the team felt last Monday the reaction that was bound to come after such a spurt and a loss to Cambridge opened up the sliding downwards.

When the season first opened, the work of Flowers at short for Cambridge was sharply criticized but the Washington College star is now causing his opponents to retract some of their statements regarding his ability on the diamond. His fielding has been spectacular here of late while at the plate he has become a menace to rival moundsmen.

There can be no denial of the fact that the local nine is exceedingly weak on the offensive. Woefully in need of several more natural hitters, Manager Adams must look somewhere for them and consummate a deal if he plans to finish in the first division. The pitchers have been good in their work of turning back opposing batsmen and herein lies the secret of Salisbury's games won. With one exception not a single contest has been acquired on the right side of the ledger because of heavy clouting. The Clouds have emerged victorious, generally speaking, because of air-tight twirling on the part of Hearne, Mays and Adams, coupled with advantages taken of every opportunity to push counters across the plate. In addition the locals have been fortunate in most cases to get the breaks.

American Legion

State Funds For Sick Veterans.

Concentration of large numbers of sick World War veterans in States where the climate is believed to be an aid in curing tuberculosis, has burdened the welfare agencies of the communities, and the American Legion Auxiliary is planning to come to their assistance.

Creation of a national fund for welfare work in hospitals has been pledged by the Auxiliary, so that each State can provide comfort for her down sick veterans no matter in what State they are hospitalized.

Need for this central fund from which comforts can be furnished the 28,000 veterans in hospital was emphasized today in a statement by Mrs. W. H. Cudworth, national chairman of the hospital and welfare committee of the Auxiliary, who has just concluded a tour of the hospitals of Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and California where about 10,000 tubercular ex-service men are being cared for.

"Boys from all over the country are in the hospitals," she said. "In Fort Hazard, nine miles up in the mountains from a railroad station, are several thousand, suffering with the 'white plague.' Only at intervals does a welfare worker make a trip there to take their extra food dainties, or the hospital garments, the hospitals furnish, such as pajamas, bathrobes and bed socks and caps. Seven hundred of the veterans belong to the American Legion, but their commanders soon break down under the combination of work and t. b. Funds to provide sick men with comforts must be administered from the spot to do the most good. The Auxiliary is working out a plan for State cooperation in a nation-wide campaign to care for our disabled veterans."

On Lookout For Forger. A request has been received by the national headquarters of the American Legion for the assistance of that organization in apprehending one of the cleverest and most unique forgers in the country. Police in Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania have for some time been on the lookout for a man giving the name of Edwin Magin, alias Donald C. Gordon, who it is alleged, has been obtaining money on forged certified checks in the States.

The checks are drawn on the Merchants National Bank of Hampton, Hampton, Va. Each check is apparently certified and bears the name of the cashier, L. M. Von Schilling, of the Hampton Bank.

Magin has so successfully gotten away with the same stunt in a number of towns that the Merchants National Bank at Hampton has found that he has obtained something over $12,000 in two months.

Posing as a World War veteran and wearing the uniform of either the United States or Canadian soldier, Magin appears in a town and makes acquaintances. Later he either mails himself or has a confederate mail him a letter containing what seems to be a certified check.

At Luray, Va., Magin startled the population by saying that he was looking for a war comrade from whom he had borrowed $2 while in France. His friend had located in Luray, he said. A few days later the friendly creditor appeared, said that he had been employed near town and collected $2. Magin with the cash, was "the one honest man in the United States." A check for $250 was cashed and later came back as a forgery.

According to the account sent the Legion, Magin is about 37 years old, six feet tall, has sandy hair and blue eyes. He has a decided limp in his left leg.

The last check came from Chicago and the one before that from a town in New York.

Legion Post in China.

A charter has been granted for a post of the American Legion here, and it is planned to establish a branch of the woman's auxiliary, owing to the number of women in this vicinity who are eligible.

The post commander, John Hervey Rice, explaining the purposes of the organization here said: "Our activities will be devoted mainly to the protection of American ideals."

Hero of Seven Wars Gets Job.

Robert Bruce MacGregor, of Seattle Wash., soldier of fortune who has spent the greater part of his 48 years drifting around the world looking for chances to fight, recently obtained jobs for 236 former soldiers. In MacGregor's career he found seven different times and jumped into them all. His last war was the one where the Allies won from the Germans. He served with the original Princess Pat regiment which numbered 1,093 men in 1914. Eleven of those 1,093 are now alive. Two of the eleven can walk. One of them is MacGregor. Before the World War MacGregor fought in the Philippines as his West Point appointment followed a campaign by the Phoenix American Legion and Major Claude Decatur Jones, under whom Shoenup in South Africa. MacGregor made the jump to China and landed in the middle of that war. The Matabele Uprising and the Jamieson Raid followed.

Twelve medals, four decorations and wounds which keep him constantly under the doctors' care are his spoils.

Despite his disabilities he still fights. Just now he is giving the unemployment problem a battle in his home city, Seattle. Besides that he has adopted and is educating a fifteen year old boy.

Paper Turned Over To Legion.

The entire issue of The Western Kansas News of June 29 was turned over to the Goodland, Kansas, post of the American Legion to use as the book saw fit. T. A. McCants, editor of the News, who is an enthusiastic Legion booster, said that the "American Legion Edition" was a decided success and added that the columns of his paper are always open to whatever the Legion may want to get before the public.

Will Do Police Duty.

One thousand uniformed members of the American Legion will assist the police in handling the 150,000 visitors expected at the American Legion national convention in New Orleans next October, according to plans announced by Police Superintendent Molony.

The Legionnaires will aid the police in regulating the large crowds thronging the parade route and will serve as provost guards in the business sections. A former army officer probably will be placed in charge of the provost guard force.

During a recent trip to Kansas City, Superintendent Molony investigated conditions prevailing in that city during last year's American Legion convention. He discovered that city and police officials of Kansas City were pleased concerning the way in which the 150,000 visiting ex-service men conducted themselves.

As proof that the men did nothing distasteful, Superintendent Molony said Kansas City officials would welcome the opportunity to have the organization again choose Kansas City as their convention city. In fact, Kansas City endeavored to have this year's convention held there.

Championship Shoot.

Hundreds of marksmen from all parts of the country will participate in the first American Legion national championship rifle meet which will be held during the Legion national convention in New Orleans next October.

Teams chosen from all Legion State departments will compete at ranges of 200, 300 and 500 yards, while a match open to all individual entries will be fired on the 600-yard course. Department teams will be composed of four firing members, one alternate and a team captain.

The winning department team will receive a loving cup which will be retained until the next annual rifle meet to be held in conjunction with the 1923 Legion convention. The members of this team, in addition, are to receive gold medals. Prizes will also be awarded for marksmen making the highest aggregate scores as well as to the leaders in the meet open to individual entries on the 600-yard range.

To Attend Convention.

President Harding, General Pershing and Major General John A. LeJeune, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, are expected as distinguished guests at the American Legion national convention in New Orleans next October.

Definite acceptance of an invitation attend the convention has been received from General LeJeune, while President Harding and General Pershing have expressed the hope that official business will not prevent their attendance at the Legion gathering.

The military career of the Marine Corps leader embraces service in the Spanish-American and World Wars as well as the Philippine Insurrection and the capture of Vera Cruz. He obtained greatest recognition as commander of the Fourth brigade of marines of the Second Division, serving in the Marbache sector, the battles of St. Mihiel, Blanc Mont ridge, Meuse-Argonne, march to the Rhine and the occupation of the Coblenz bridgehead.

"Kid Corporal" Favored.

The "Kid Corporal," John Shoemaker, of Phoenix, Ariz., has put over another knock out. This time the lad who enlisted in the army at the age of 14 and served months with the A. E. F., has received a presidential appointment to West Point. A school boy when the World War started, Shoemaker, somehow, evaded the sharp questionings of a recruiting officer and enlisted as a member of a machine gun company, 64th Infantry, and was with the outfit two years. His home was in New Jersey before the war. His West Point appointment followed a campaign by the Phoenix American Legion and Major Claude Decatur Jones, under whom Shoen-maker took special courses in military tactics.

CIGAR MANUFACTURING FORGES TO THE FRONT

Three Plants Now in City—New Firm Wins Smoker's Favor With Popular Delmarvia Brand.

Salisbury has witnessed the past three years an introduction into its midst of the tobacco manufacturing industry which had its inception some years back when Watson's Smoke Shop opened up on Dock Street. This house is the pioneer in the city's tobacco business which just now is extensively developing.

About three years ago the American Cigar Co. opened up a branch plant here which has been a success ever since. The fact that a slump experienced in the market caused seven other branch factories to close down, including the one at Crisfield.

When Mr. Samuel A. Watkins, an experienced cigar maker, left the American Cigar Co., he brought with him nearly three months' experience, and opened up a shop of his own he ran the total of Salisbury's cigar manufacturers up to three and this industry is now firmly entrenched among the city's list of large labor-employing establishments.

Samuel A. Watkins & Sons have opened up their plant in the old star shirt factory building, the lower floor of which is occupied by the Eastern Shore Poultry Sales Co. Their weekly production averages about 1,500 cigars with the "Delmarvia" the most popular brand. This cigar is known as an old-fashioned cigar at the old price and smokers in this section are fast learning to appreciate its quality which is the best to be had at the price, so the manufacturer states.

The distributing agents, H. S. Todd & Co., local jobbers, are finding a demand for the Delmarvia cigar that is taking the entire supply and output of the manufacturers. Mr. Watkins, who has been in the business for over 20 years, himself supervises the work of his hands in rolling the stock, and personally inspects the tobacco that is used in the fillers and wrappers.

Porto Rican blends are entirely used and the cigars are all hand-made and made up of long fillers. Genuine Sumatra wrappers are used in the final processes. The Delmarvia is the only brand in the company fills orders for higher-priced cigars and announces a specialty of making private brands to order.

An interesting fact to be noted in connection with this new business is the fact that the fifth generation of the Watkins family is attending to the work. Mr. Watkins' two sons being on the job every day with their father at the plant. The latter's great grandfather was among the first pioneers in the tobacco field. The various steps in the making of a "good smoke" are of an interesting nature. Mr. Watkins shows his true southern hospitality when he issues the invitation for anyone to inspect his plant and watch the process of cigar-manufacturing.

RESIGNS AFTER PROBE INTO DELMAR TROUBLE

Officer Thompson in Charge of State Police Sub-Station Here Admits Being in Delaware.

Growing out of the strike disorder at Delmar recently with subsequent probe by Motor Vehicle Commissioner E. Austin Baughman and Captain Roger H. Williams of the State police force into the activities of the Maryland force on Delaware soil, came the resignation last Thursday of Harry L. Thompson, in charge of the substation in this city.

Investigation by Captain Williams, following statements from Mayor J. S. Thorington, of Delmar, Del., that the Maryland officers had crossed the line, disclosed the fact that Officer Thompson had gone into the neighboring state and had instructed Officers B. J. Topper and Raymond Eicholtz to accompany him.

When first reports of the trouble and the supposed participation in it by the members of the law force reached Captain Williams, he got in touch with Officer Thompson who said that he and one man had gone up on the Delmar road to investigate auto law violations and that they did not go into the town of Delmar on the Delaware side. Whereupon the Baltimore headquarters of the state police announced that the members of the force had not gone into the neighboring state. On Wednesday, however, when further questioned in his superior's office, Thompson apparently retracted his story to a certain degree and signed a statement which told of entry into the Delaware town.

Officer Thompson, in explanation, said that they had got into the town before they had realized the step had been taken across the border line. Then he said as soon as they were informed of the trespassing they crossed back into Maryland.

The above statement came after Captain Williams had learned from Officer Topper that Thompson, Topper and Eicholtz had joined the party that crossed the line. It developed that the police of the Pennsylvania System had called the local substation early in the evening on Monday and asked whether any Maryland men would be available in the event of any trouble in Delmar, Md., there being indication that disorder was in prospect.

Topper replied that the services of the Maryland men could not be used in connection with strike duty except by order of the Governor. It was later, about 10 P. M. when Thompson had finished his tour of duty that he got on his motorcycle and instructed the other two officers to accompany him to "investigate conditions" as being reported that automobiles were being stopped on the Salisbury road and stoned when the drivers refused to stop.

Sheriff Farlow had been in the town earlier in the evening to serve warrants and at that time he stated that he saw no evidence of any serious uprising. However just before midnight two of the railroad guards who had just finished duty as pickets were stopped by a group of men in their machine en route to this city and a few minutes later arrested by the town authorities for carrying concealed weapons. They were released upon the railroad company's promise of appearance at the September term of court at Georgetown, Del. In this mixup the state police stationed here had no interest whatever and were not at the scene of trouble.

After writing out his resignation and leaving it in Captain Williams' office, Officer Thompson said that he was quitting because he wanted to "go out west." His resignation was immediately accepted. Officer Arthur Maczka, who has been on duty in this territory since the first of the year, has been appointed the officer in charge of the local substation temporarily.

BALTIMORE WILL HOLD ANNUAL FASHION SHOW

Exhibit At Fifth Regiment Armory August 7 to 19 Expected To Be Most Elaborate Spectacle.

Baltimore's second annual fashion show will be held Aug. 7 to 19 at the Fifth Regiment Armory, with a supplementary manufacturers' exhibit at the Howard Street Armory.

The show last year at about the same season attracted an attendance of 200,000, breaking all records for crowds day and night for the whole period. On a more elaborate scale than ever the show is now expected to attract larger crowds, especially of the buyers of the State and from other parts of the country.

There are three distinct displays: That of the local manufacturers and jobbers which will be in the Fifth Regiment Armory that of the big national firms engaged in the manufacture of wearing apparel and third the theatrical pageant displaying fashions on live models in real human life situations.

The director of this big pageant is Arthur Voegtlin, who has directed many of the largest spectacles at the New York Hippodrome. Wholesalers and manufacturers of Baltimore have put at his disposal a large fund and bid him to make this show that will surpass every other effort along this line. The prettiest show girls of New York will be the models and figure in scenes as dazzling as any ever shown in New York. A greater part of the Greenwich Village Follies have been engaged, this being possible on account of the late opening date for the new follies. The pick of a number of other musical shows has been made to supplement this number.

The leading modistes and designers of the country have created the styles that will be displayed. These will give the very last word in women's and men's wear.

The leading firms of Baltimore, backed by the national manufacturing concerns that sell from Baltimore as a distributing centre, have put behind the show financial backing, all aimed to stimulate trade, to help the merchant and his buyers to select the goods that will be most likely to sell to advantage to the consumer. There will be no retail selling and no commercial element in the show, except in the largest sense, that of building the city's trade wearing apparel lines.

Many of the most telling features of the show have been kept a secret. A chorus of 500 will sing, a big orchestra and band will play and there will be illuminating effects far surpassing anything ever attempted here before.

Young Cadet Returns From R.O.T.C. Course

John Phillips, of Quantico, Completes Officer's Training—Entered St. John's When 15.

Possibly one of the youngest students to ever enter St. John's College at Annapolis was Mr. John Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Phillips, of Quantico. Young Phillips entered the institution on the Severn when he was about 15 years old and next spring will witness his winning of the coveted sheepskin.

The cadet is now at the home of his parents in Quantico having just finished the six weeks of training at Edgewood under the R. O. T. C. Infantry courses. He has acquired the Training School certificate of the Senior Division and is wearing the medals of sharpshooter and pistol marksman.

RAIN HAMPER ROAD WORK.

Road repair work and construction has been greatly hampered by the recent rains and floods according to a statement made the first part of this week by District Engineer Burroughs. Rains have washed away parts of the roadbeds and repair forces have found their work doubled while the construction gangs have also been set back because of the time lost.

FRUIT GROWERS URGED TO KILL PEACH BORER

Remedy Called "Paracide" Recommended by Authorities To Be Very Effective Against Evil.

At the present time the Peach Borer is killing more peach trees on the Delaware and Chesapeake Peninsulas than all other causes combined. There is no need for much of this loss for there is a remedy. Dr. J. T. Headlee of the New Jersey Experiment Station told us all about it at the meeting in Berlin last winter, and he has stated that one-half of the peach trees in New Jersey over six years of age have been treated with the remedy and the results are very successful. He quoted at length from E. B. Blakeslee of the United States Department of Agriculture who has been working on this remedy for several years and at last he discovered it.

Headlee experimented with it and he is satisfied that it is entirely practicable. Paracide is a substance specially crystallized for the purpose about like granulated sugar. It is now converted into a gas and the gas is poisonous to Peach Borers but not to human beings. This material is placed in a circle around the trees about two inches from them, and about an inch or two in width. An ounce to a tree is enough. The best time in this latitude is about the tenth of September. It will not do to use it on trees less than six years of age.

When a peach orchard is set out great care should be taken that the trees contain no Peach Borers. They should be examined very carefully to see that the Borers are removed, and they should be wormed every year until they are at least five years old. They should then have the Paracide application every year thereafter. The whole work could be done for not much more than three cents per year per tree.

The New Jersey Bulletin gives the following method of procedure: Prepare the trees for application of the material by removing with a hoe the weeds, leaves, stones, sticks, etc., from about the base of the trunk. In other words make a smooth, flat clear space six to twelve inches wide about the tree at soil level. Do not dig into the surface soil any more than is necessary. In case a large amount of gum is present about the tree remove it. It seems to be advisable to apply Paracidechlorobenzene at a point level with or about the highest infestation on the tree if one wishes to kill all of the larvae. However, recent experiments show that this is not so important, provided a sufficient amount of dirt is piled high above the crystals and the larvae within the tree.

When the trees are ready for treatment, measure out the amount of Paracidechlorobenzene to be used in some container which is graduated or holds when level full the amount required. A short, wide mouth bottle, or a tin or wooden pill box may answer the purpose. Some growers measure out one ounce in a closed fist. Take a hand full of the crystals and then close your hand tightly with the first joints of the fingers straight. The size of your hand will determine the amount you can hold in this way. The crystals should be evenly distributed in a continuous, narrow, circular band two inches from the tree. Do not place crystals against the trunk, for serious injury may result. Material placed four to six inches from the tree has given fairly satisfactory results provided the soil is dry and plenty of dirt is placed above the crystals.

After the material is in a ring around the tree, place several shovels of dirt (four to six) free from weeds, grass, sticks, stones, etc., over the crystals and compact it with a shovel or hoe or otherwise. The first shovel of dirt placed above the "death ring" should be fine and carefully placed on top of the crystals in order that the position of the poison be not disturbed.

The matured insects emerge from the tree and begin to lay their eggs about the middle of July and they hatch in ten days. The remedy should be applied about the tenth of September. The fall treatment is much better than spring because the worms are small and young and are easily killed. They have done little injury to the tree at this time while in the spring the injury has been mainly done and the worms are much harder to kill than in the previous fall.

THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED: Do not apply the Paracide to trees under five years of age. It may cause injury.

Use three-fourths of an ounce on small trees and not over an ounce on any tree.

Apply the material two inches from the tree and in a circle about two inches wide.

Pack the earth solidly over the crystals (four or six shovel-fuls of dirt.)

Do it about September tenth. Remove in a month to avoid injury to the tree.

CALVIN W. ENGLISH DEAD.

After a lingering illness from a complication of diseases of nearly seven months duration, Mr. Calvin W. English passed away at his home at Branch Hill Saturday night, July 29. Mr. English was the son of Mrs. Louisa and the late Cornelius English and was 53 years of age.

Twenty-nine years ago he was married to Miss Rhettie Graham by the Rev. F. H. Farley. Besides his widow and mother he is survived by one sister Mrs. Levin T. Beech.

EASTERN SHORE, THE GARDEN SPOT AND SOME OF ITS TOWNS

Remarkable Has Been Evolution Of Strawberry Plant. In This Section With Accompanying Growth Of Basket Industry. Wm. F. Allen and Albert Robinson Are Pioneers.

The very large yield of strawberries on the Peninsula and especially on the Eastern Shore and the immense amount of money realized from the crop is suggestive of the introduction and growth of strawberries in this section within the last 50 years. What it has been, from a financial point of view, to a certain class of men, women and children is almost beyond computation.

Strawberries, like many other products of field and garden came into commercial value here with the advent of the railroad across the Peninsula. In the yield, the land has done its best, being well adapted to the growth of the strawberry, in almost every section. The soil, the climate, the seasons and the art of culture have all contributed to the growth of the strawberry, one of the finest table desserts grown in the world and from a financial point of view, a most valuable property. The strawberries grown on the Eastern Shore have no superiors in the world.

The yield has always been larger under reasonable conditions and in a point of commercial value has added materially to the wealth in every community, as well as to the table supply, where special attention has been given to its culture. It is perhaps equalled only by the delicious peach.

The strawberry, like many of the valuable products of the field, has yielded to the gentle touch of the busy hand of industry when brought from the wilds of both Europe and America. The plant is found in Great Britain, in Europe, throughout Asia and in North and South America. The plant was first brought under cultivation in the early part of the 17th century. The different species, found in the several localities, crossed and re-crossed in various manners, have produced the vast number of old and new varieties now enumerated in the catalogues.

The fruit now grown for commercial purposes in the West as well as on this Peninsula, is native to this country and the early varieties were selected from the wild plant. For years our native plants, after being highly developed have been shipped to foreign countries, and the first shipments across the great waters were made by the Eastern Shore grower, W. F. Allen, of Salisbury. The plants are still found occasionally, growing in a wild state. A few years ago, Jesse A. D. Bradley, near Columbia, Del., found a variety of strawberry growing in the swamps near his home. He took a few plants and from them has developed a very large luscious and prolific strawberry which he calls the "Swamp Angel."

The early growth and extension of the strawberries on this Peninsula, came with the introduction of the Wilson which was brought to the New Jersey market and sold at $8 per thousand plants. The Wilson is from the native America strawberry. A similar berry however is grown along the Pacific coast, in Chili and is called the Chilean strawberry. It should be remembered that strawberries were not introduced here in small patches, before the Wilson or any other variety was known. The plants were taken from the woods and cultivated, in gardens and other small places, just for table use.

So far as the writer has been able to ascertain the first strawberries ever grown by actual cultivation were grown in a garden at Portville, just west of Laurel, Del. They were taken up in a wild state, transplanted and cultivated by George and Henry Adams. This was about 1840 or 1852, but it was only a few years later when the growth for market was begun and the cultivation extended, the wild, undeveloped plants giving place to the improved nursery stock.

In passing we might add that the first sweet potatoes ever bedded for sprouts and first sprouts ever transplanted, from which potatoes were produced on this Peninsula was at Portville and this only a few years before the introduction of the strawberry. The sweet potato experiment was made by a colored man by the name of Spencer. Later on he furnished to farmers what was then considered the finest variety of sweets known to the farmers.

In fact, Portville, has always had a prominent place, but recently overlooked, in the early history of the Peninsula. It is one of the highest places above sea-level on the Peninsula and hence well adapted to the growth of fruit and vegetables. Here, too, was the first shipyard ever put into operation in lower Delaware and the stream flowing through one of the richest sections of Sussex county, had more saw and grist mills located on it, than any other stream of its length, in the early settlements of that section. Near here is the site of the second oldest Methodist Church on the Peninsula, known at first as Moore's Chapel, now as Mt. Pleasant, full of romance as well as religious history.

However the first strawberries growing wild to attract the attention of farmers, in this county, then Somerset, were at Spring Hill, in the adjacent woodland. This too, is an other historic place and it is a high privilege accorded the good people of that section to be given the first observation of what was destined to become the first fruit of the land.

Now as to varieties, we find that after the introduction of the Wilson, from 1868 to 1872 large quantities were grown on the Shore and shipped to Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and later to Boston. Following the Wilson came the Lady Finger, the Hoffman, the Sharpless, the Crescent, the Tennessee Prolific, Lady Thompson, Mitchell's Early, Parson's Beauty, all of which proved to be good varieties. At present perhaps the leading varieties are the Klondyke, Chesapeake, Gandy, though several other varieties are being tried out and are bearing very satisfactory results, among them being the Missionary and the Premier.

So far as the writer has been able to trace, the first strawberries grown for market in Wicomico County were cultivated at Pittsville, in 1868, but shipments to the city markets did not begin until about 1870. The pioneers were Dr. G. W. Truitt, Ritchy Fooks and J. J. Timmons, each beginning about the same time. At Sharptown, in the same year R. T. Wright and Hiram B. Cooper marketed a few very fine berries and these two places placed started a great field product.

Pittsville leads the county in the growth of strawberries which are the greatest money producer the community has. The community has grown rich and independent by the growth of the strawberry. There were shipped from this one point last season three hundred and fifty-seven thousand crates, nearly one and one-half million quarts. It is estimated that the strawberries shipped from Pittsville this season averaged about 15 cents per quart net to the grower. From present indications, in looking over the acreage now growing, if next season should be a normal one and if the crop can be gathered properly and marketed it will exceed any previous crop in the history of the strawberry culture on the Peninsula.

Nothing ever introduced in the way of fruit or vegetables on this Peninsula has brought such good results as has the strawberry. The planting takes labor, the cultivation, the picking, the packing, and the hauling to market, all give employment. The manufacturing of the berry crate and little boxes in which they are shipped has afforded a market for the vast acreage of gum timber, before considered almost worthless. Swamps, low, wet and dismal, have turned millions of dollars into circulation and proven real gold mines for the owners.

There is labor in cutting, hauling, sawing, making, packing and shipping of the finished product. The railroads and steamboats have shared in this crimson berry's distribution of wealth and food. The consoling fact is that the strawberry has not yet been reached. Millions of dollars were put into circulation this year and thousands of people were aided by this product of field and garden. In many communities of this Peninsula it is the very best money producer today that the community has and new patches will be set out and more care and attention be given to its cultivation than for many years. The Peninsula shipments this year are estimated to have exceeded previous years, especially during the war by a few thousand crates.

The most widely known and the most extensively grown of strawberries on the Peninsula is William F. Allen, of Salisbury. He has done more to develop the industry and furnish true-to-name varieties for all sections of the country than any other man in the East. In fact, other countries have shared the benefit of his skill and profited by his experiences. His first plants were bought 38 years ago from G. H. Perkins, Moorestown, N. J., and were known as the Mary Queen, a very popular variety which later became known as the Queen and regarded as a leader and great seller for several years.

While Mr. Allen was not here to start with the industry he entered the field at the age of 17 years and from that time on he has proved a great benefactor in the culture of the strawberry and has demonstrated the fact that strawberries pay a good profit. He has attained a degree of success few men reach in his line. Not only has he achieved large results for himself but he has greatly aided others by spreading his knowledge and experience by letter, by catalog and in a more practical way, by growing and selling to farmers and truckers, plants of highly developed stock that prove true to name and bring good results. Others in a large measure have shared the benefits of his experiments and success and today he is considered the best authority in the East on the growth and culture of the strawberry and in fact is a horticulturist of national and international repute and a leader in his line of work.

With the growth and marketing of the strawberries came the demand for a suitable package in which the beautiful crimson product of the field could be shown to good advantage. It is said the first shipments were made in huckles, like the huckleberries at that time. But this was very unsatisfactory from the outset. The next step was round baskets in crates, Baby Wants Name, Not Gold, says mother.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT WHITNEY

MISS EVAN BURROWS FONTAINE

MISS MARIE NORTON

The son of multi-millionaire Harry Payne Whitney, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, has been asked to give his name to the 18-month-old baby of Miss Evan Burrows Fontaine, noted Oriental dancer of New York.

The action was started when the engagement of young Whitney to Miss Marie Norton, society girl of New York, was announced.

The dancer claims young Whitney wanted to marry her while he was student at Yale but she refused as theirs was a true love match and she didn't want to hurt his career. He grew cold, she says, when she told him of the baby, which she now calls Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Jr.

It's a name not gold that my baby wants, she says. Miss Norton says her friendship for young Whitney is unchanged.

but in the mean time a number brainy men on the Peninsula were carefully studying to invent a suitable container, and a crate to contain a small package. It had been discovered that the berries were too soft to ship in large bulk. Then came the little boxes made of thin slats shaved or trimmed from gum and put together with small tacks. At this time several men began to plan and devise some real substantial package and the result was a square quart-vener box, subsequently packed in crates holding 32, 48 and 60 quarts. The first quart box was the same size at the bottom as the top but soon the bottom was made smaller so they could be nested.

Now as to the real and original inventor of these boxes, trays and crates, it is rather difficult to say as quite a number of men have claimed that honor and much dispute was brought about by the various claims, but was finally conceded to H. Marvel, of Laurel, Del. He was entitled to the credit and as patentee he began the manufacturing of these packages at Laurel, the first plant of its kind on the Peninsula.

The next was a small factory at Sharptown, owned and operated by John and James Robinson. The early methods used in preparing the material were very primitive and crude and the machinery of the same character. A long slicing knife was used to make the veneer from boards and later came the impression roll. The first findings that held the veneer together were dressed off the edge of a board by a jack plane, set so as to make the binding thick enough to hold. Before the installation of steam power a gentle mule was used, which was later replaced by steam power. All the available local timber was first consumed and later gum became the principal timber and it is still used, most of which comes from the vast swamps of the South.

Factories, which were very few in the beginning, now cover all territory where there is a demand for the product. The most modern machinery is now used and the output increased a thousand fold; machinery is now doing what was slowly and neatly done by women up until a few years ago and these women worked hard with little compensation. The annual consumption of these little baskets first made in small, improvised buildings was then only a few thousands, now the consumption has reached the enormous figures of at least three hundred million.

There has been a remarkable development in the manufacture, not only of the berry crate and basket but of fruit shipping packages generally. While these packages have been greatly improved in the East many of the original packages may be seen in the West. Wicomico County has the distinction of being the birth-place of the oldest man in point of experience and activity in the berry crate and basket manufacturing business in the United States, in the person of Albert W. Robinson of Laurel, Del. Mr. Robinson, whose father, James Robinson, was a pioneer in the crate and basket business at Sharptown, entered the mechanical department of the factory of John Robinson & Bro. when a mere boy, 49 years ago. It was the oldest plant of its kind in the State of Maryland and he worked himself up to the top by getting his training and knowledge from the actual experience in the business.

The fact that Mr. Robinson is the oldest man in the business in the United States is proved by the men attending the state and national conventions. Mr. Robinson took light work and began at the bottom of this great industry and as he gained experience, he was advanced until he became an expert in examining the finished product; then he took charge of the material and it was in this line that he developed great judgment, not only in determining the quality, but in estimating the relative value of materials.

From here he entered the sphere of production and became an excellent party for the purchase and selection of material for diverse products. He acquired the art of handling labor and using it to a high degree of service, giving his undivided attention to the various departments of the business as business director, purchaser and salesman, until he became a past-master in this great industry, familiar with every detail. Today Mr. Robinson is the general manager of five of the largest plants of the kind in the East, brought together and consolidated by the business skill and integrity of himself and his associates.

This combination of interests has proved to be the most successful combination ever made on the Peninsula, contributing thousands of dollars annually to the industrial life of the communities in which they do business and elevating the mutual and confidential relations existing between employer and employee so that remarkable and outstanding is their record that no serious disturbance has ever occurred between the two forces to prevent the filling of order or contracts. Not only does the business shared money throughout the communities for labor and local material, but the combination has meant the saving of thousands of dollars annually to the users of the products.

The strength of this combination and its ability to buy raw material cheaper than a small concern has enabled them to keep prices lower than it is possible for any small concern to do and thrive. The immense amount of material used and its purchase through one channel brings it to the various plants at a much less cost than one might suppose could possibly get it. The acquiring of the vast amount of gum timber used in the mining of and realizing the enormous expense of transportation from the vast gum swamps of the South by running their fleet of barges running two and three at a time means a large saving in putting this material at the factories. No small plant could possibly meet the cost of transporting this material at so long a distance.

Again the hardware that enters into the manufacture of the berry crates and baskets can evidently be bought at a much lower rate by the immense quantity used. The same thing may be said of lumber. It can certainly be bought in large quantities cheaper than in small lots.

Referring again to the primitive means of making these little quart baskets in this section, the fact could not be overlooked that in those days there was energy and pluck behind the business. Fifty years ago last May, John Robinson & Bro., manufacturers at Sharptown, ran short of bindings for the quart baskets just as a rush order came into the office. A man was sent early in the morning to the home of Barney Beach, at Columbia, Del., with instructions to get a good poplar tree into lumber as quickly as possible and take it to Sharptown. Mr. Beach and his boys went up the Blumery Branch, cut the poplar tree, hauled it with ox team to the Pocomoke steam mill, near Columbia, Samuel J. Cooper now living at Sharptown sawed the logs into lumber and it was hauled by Mr. Beach to Sharptown and long before night, hundreds of bindings were shaved off the edges of this lumber with a jack plane by Levin J. Kinkaid of Sharptown. The baskets were made and the order was filled.

METHODISTS IN FIGHT FOR PROHIBITION ACT

Board of Bishops Pleads For Law That Induces High Educational and Religious Ideals Also Prosperity.

The Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church have noted the present discussion of the Volstead Act and the Eighteenth Amendment to our Constitution. Such discussion was to be expected. Infringement would be expected to discover or invent reasons for the repeal of the laws. Allowing that all the results anticipated have not been realized that fact lies not against the law but against those who have failed in its enforcement and against those who have encouraged the betrayal of administrative trust. When all has been said, the accomplishment in the writing of these particular laws makes the greatest chapter in America's story of moral reform. It has attracted the attention of the world. It has given to our industrial life an advantage recognized by economists everywhere.

The relation of the drink traffic to crime has long been familiar. We need to see that the disrespectful treatment of prohibitory laws is not a mere academic impropriety. The great objectives of civilization can not be gained when lawlessness goes unquashed and unrebuked. Mob violence is today a menace which demands most careful thought and wisest treatment. The ability to suppress or prevent disorder which jeopardizes the right of property and life is one of the ultimate tests of civilization.

Obedience to law is not an elective to be rendered or refused on the basis of individual or group choice. This we believe. But it is inconsistent to inveigh against the spirit of lawlessness on other fields if in our attitude toward the prohibitory enactment we who make public opinion must be held accountable for the total result when inconsiderate criticism of laws induces insult to laws. The press of this country must be made to see its responsibility inescapable if its persistent caricature of so called lawless laws leads the immature to believe that law itself belongs really and only in the comic supplement.

Where present legislation seems inadequate let it be perfected. Where the law is ineffectual, find the cause and as quickly as may be, remedy it. Let us insist upon it that those who deal with occasion not as propagandists of personal judgment but as defenders of the law.

Let us choose for office those only who have by word or act established their right of recognition as the friends of prohibitory reform, and saying this, we would record appreciation of the help given to this cause by the resident of the United States and by the Chief Justice; and we would pay tribute to those in the House of Representatives and in the Senate of the United States and to those in other places of public trust who have taken and held their place on the side of national morality.

For the sake of the nation and the world, in the interest of industrial prosperity as of peace and order, for the promotion of all the ends of education and religion we accept for ourselves and urge upon all our people the solemn obligation of our sacred duty to guard against and to complete the work upon which so many lovers of mankind have wrought—anticipating with confidence the day when despite the cupidities of some and the treacherous intrigues of others the life of the nation shall be lifted to the level of its laws.

Issued by authority of the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Bishop L. B. Wilson, Sec'y.

A NEW LUNCHEON DISH.

Choose a large, smooth potato, longer than it is thick. Bake till done. Cut a slice off one side and scoop out the pulp. Mash and season with salt, pepper, butter and milk.

Beat till very light and keep hot. Break two eggs in the potato shell, carefully, not break the yolks. Cover the eggs with chopped ham.

Fill potato shell with mashed potato, piling it up above the top of the shell and piping it around the edge. Grate cheese over surface of the mashed potato. Put in a moderate oven for eight minutes to cook the eggs.

Increase the heat and brown the edges of the mashed potato. A smaller potato may be used and only one egg dropped in the shell.

Crab meat, flaked salmon, chopped chicken, tuna fish, chopped shrimp, flaked lobster or shrimps, freshened salt codfish may be used in place of ham.

If the pastry bag and tube are not at hand for piping the potato and press through the ragged hole. The potato may be piped in tiny cone-shaped puffs or any little fancy design. Tomatoes can be used in the same way. Wash medium size tomatoes and cut a slice from the stem end. Scoop out the pulp with a spoon.

Put a thin layer of cooked rice or macaroni in the bottom of each tomato, add an egg, cover with chopped ham or fish and fill shell with rice or macaroni.

Rub the pulp through a strainer and pour into the tomato. Sprinkle top with grated cheese and bake ten minutes in a moderate oven.

If the tomatoes are baked in ramekins there is little difficulty in serving them.

A different kind of meat may be used in each potato or tomato. The eggs should be seasoned with salt, and pepper and a bit of butter before the meat is added. If ham or a salt is used, omit salt in seasoning.

"Farm Laborers," as used in this Act, shall mean any employee who, at the time of the accident, are engaged in rendering any agricultural service, including the threshing and harvesting of crops, or who, at the time of the accident, are engaged in service incidental to and in connection with agricultural pursuits or developments, whether the employer be the farmer or other person undertaking or contracting with the farmer to perform any such agricultural service, pursuit or development. This Act shall not apply to farm laborers, domestic servants, nor to country blacksmiths, wheelwrights or similar rural employments; unless these employments elect to come under this Act as provided in Section 33, nor in any case where the accident occurred before this Act takes effect, nor to casual employees, or any employees who are employed wholly without the State.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That this Act is an emergency law and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health and safety, and having been passed by a yeas and nays vote by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses of the General Assembly, the same shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 13, 1922.

CHAPTER NO. 441

AN Act to repeal and re-enact with Amendments Section 63 of Article 33 of Bagby's Annotated Code of Maryland, title "Elections," as amended by Chapter 1, Acts of 1920, Extraordinary Session.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 63 of Article 33 of Bagby's Annotated Code of Maryland, title "Elections," as amended by Chapter 1, Acts of 1920, Extraordinary Session, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with Amendments so as to read as follows:

63. The polling places shall be opened by the judges of election at 6 o'clock A. M. in the City of Baltimore, and shall be kept open until 5 o'clock P. M. of the same day, at which time the polls shall be closed, and in the Counties the polling places shall be opened at 7 A. M. and shall be kept open until 7 P. M. at which time the polls shall be closed except that in Garrett, Washington, Carroll, Montgomery, Calvert, Dorchester, Worcester and Precinct No. 2, District No. 3 of Worcester County, the polling places shall be open at 6 o'clock A. M. If any judge or clerk shall not be present at the expiration of fifteen minutes after the time for opening the polls the judge or judges present shall fill the place of the absent judge or clerk by appointing in his stead a person of the same political party as the absent one. One of the judges shall administer to such substitute the oath required of the judge or clerk originally appointed. After the opening of the polls no judge or clerk shall absent himself therefrom until all the ballots cast shall have been counted and the returns completed. If, in case of absolute necessity, any judge or clerk in attendance shall be compelled to absent himself, he shall appoint some fit person of the same political party with himself to act in his stead until his return, having first administered to such substitute the same oath as he himself has taken. Blank forms for the appointment of the substitute judges and clerks and the oath aforesaid shall be supplied by the supervisors, and the oath when administered, shall be preserved and returned by the judges to the supervisors. The appointment and swearing in of all such substitutes and the reason therefor, and the time when such substitute began and ceased to serve shall be noted by the judges in the poll book of the precinct; such substitute shall cease to act whenever the judge or clerk in whose stead he was appointed shall be present.

Approved April 13, 1922.

CHAPTER NO. 490

AN Act to repeal Article LXV of the Annotated Code of Maryland (Bagby's Edition), title "Militia," and all amendments thereto, and to enact in lieu thereof a new article to be known as Article LXV of the Annotated Code of Maryland (Bagby's Edition), title "Militia."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Article LXV of the Annotated Code of Maryland (Bagby's Edition), title "Militia," and all amendments thereto, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That in lieu of the Article repealed in Section 1 of this Act, a new Article LXV of Annotated Code of Maryland (Bagby's Edition), title "Militia," is hereby enacted, and shall read as follows:

1. All able-bodied male citizens and able-bodied males of foreign birth, who have declared their intentions to become citizens, and who are more than 18 and less than 45 years of age, and who are residents of this State, shall constitute the militia, subject to the following exemptions: (a) persons exempted by the laws of the United States; (b) persons exempted by the laws of Maryland; (c) the members of any regularly organized fire or police department in any city, village or town; (d) judges and clerks of courts of record, registers of wills and deeds, sheriffs, ministers of the Gospel, members of religious communities, ecclesiastical students in the various seminaries and schools of divinity, practicing physicians, superintendents, officers and assistants of hospitals, prisons and jails; all persons actually employed as teachers in any established school, college, or university; light-house keepers, conductors and engineers of railroads, seamen actually employed as such; (e) idiots, lunatics, paupers, vagabonds, confirmed drunkards, persons addicted to the use of narcotic drugs, and persons convicted of infamous crimes; all such exempted persons, except those enumerated in subdivisions (a) and (e), shall be available for military duty in case of war, insurrection, invasion or imminent danger thereof.

2. When the militia of this State, or a part thereof, is called or drafted under the Constitution and laws of the United States, the Governor shall order out for service the Organized Militia, or such part thereof as may be necessary, and if the number available be insufficient he shall order out such part of the unorganized militia as he may deem necessary.

3. Whenever any portion of the militia shall be on duty pursuant to the orders of the Governor, or shall be on duty or ordered to assemble for duty, in time of war, insurrection, invasion, public danger or to aid the civil authorities on account of any breach of the peace, tumult, riot, resistance to process of this State, or imminent danger thereof, or for any other cause, the Articles of War governing the Army of the United States, as well as such regulations issued thereunder, shall be in force and regarded as part of this Article until said forces shall be duly relieved from such duty. As to offenses committed when such Articles of War are in force, courts-martial shall possess, in addition to the jurisdiction and power of sentence and punishment exercisable by like courts under such Articles of War or the regulations and laws governing the Army of the United States, or the customs and usages thereof; but no punishment under such rules and articles, which shall extend to the taking of life, shall in any case be inflicted, except in time of actual war, invasion or insurrection, and then only after the approval by the Governor of the sentence inflicting such punishment. Imprisonment other than in guard-house shall be executed in jails or prisons designated by the Governor for the purpose.

4. Every member of the militia ordered out, or who volunteers, who does not appear at the time and place designated by his commanding officer or the sheriff aforesaid within twenty-four hours from such time, or who does not produce a sworn certificate of physical disability, to no appear, from a physical

A treat for tonight—Popcorn Balls and Fritters
After the corn has been popped, take from it a quantity any convenient or partially cooked grains, being sure to have only fine, large, fluffy grains. To one cup Karo, (Blue Label), add one tablespoon vinegar. Boil together until it is tender when dropped in cold water. When ready to pour over the popcorn while hot, as soon as you are ready to handle, toss the balls well and form the mass into balls. To make popcorn fritters, form mass into flat, round cakes instead of balls.

The "USCO" You Buy To-day is a New—A Better—A Heavier "USCO" at the $10.90 Price with No Tax added
LAST Fall at the $10.90 price it seemed to motorists as if the 30 x 3 1/2 USCO had reached the peak of tire value.
Yet, the makers of USCO have now produced a still better USCO—a longer-wearing tire with—Thicker tread—thicker side walls. Better traction, longer service, more mileage.
And the tax is absorbed by the manufacturer.
The new and better USCO is a tire money's worth that was impossible a year ago.
It is possible today only in USCO.

trial for the following offenses:

1. Disobedience of orders.
2. Disrespect to superior.
3. Mutiny.
4. Desertion.
5. Neglect of duty.
6. Drunkenness on duty.
7. Conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline.
8. Any act contrary to the Militia Law of the State or to orders and regulations issued for the government of the Militia.
9. Absence without proper excuse from or tardiness without like excuse in attending any drill, parade, encampment, meeting or instruction, or any other duty ordered by competent authority.
10. Neglecting to take proper care of any arms, uniforms, equipment or military property, or wilfully injuring or destroying any arms, uniforms, equipment or military property whatever.
11. Fraudulent enlistment.
12. Any officer of the Organized Militia, on conviction of any of the offenses mentioned in the preceding Section may be sentenced to be dismissed from the service, fined to an amount not exceeding $200.00, or reprimanded, or to all or either of such fines and penalties. Any enlisted man of the Organized Militia, on conviction of any of the offenses mentioned in the preceding Section, may be sentenced to be dishonorably discharged, reprimanded, and if a non-commissioned officer, reduced to the ranks, or fined to an amount not exceeding $100.00, or to all or either of such fines and penalties. No excuse shall be valid for any absence from assemblies except bona-fide absence from the city or place where such assemblies are ordered. Illness of member (such as would prevent attention to ordinary pursuits), or sickness in family requiring his personal care and protection; provided, however, that the court may in its discretion, excuse his absence for any other reason satisfactory to it. No excuse will be valid for absence from annual inspection except illness of member such as would prevent his attendance, or illness in family requiring his personal care and presence.

Service of summons to appear before a court-martial shall be made by delivery to and leaving with each delinquent a copy thereof, or by reading it to him, or by leaving a copy at his last known place of abode or business, or by mailing to him a copy directed to his last known place of abode or business. The officer or enlisted man serving such summons shall, if required, make a return thereof containing the time, place and manner of such service, which may be verified by oath before any commissioned officer. Such verified return shall be as good evidence on the trial of such person so summoned of the facts therein stated, as if such officer or enlisted man had testified to the same before the court-martial.

44. Any person, who shall secretly, sell, dispose of, offer for sale, purchase, retain after demand by a commissioned officer of the Organized Militia, or in any manner pawn or pledge any arms, uniforms, equipment or other military property issued under the provisions of this Act, and any person who shall wear any uniform, or device, strap, knot or insignia of any design or character used as a designation of grade, rank or office, such as are by law or general regulations duly promulgated and prescribed for the use of the Organized Militia or similar thereto, except members of the Army or Navy of the United States and the Organized Militia of this or any other States, officers of the independent military organizations as designated in this Article members of associations wholly composed of soldiers honorably discharged from the service of the United States and members of the Confederate Veterans or like societies, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before a justice of the peace having criminal jurisdiction of the city or county wherein such offense was committed, or by the Circuit Court of the county wherein such offense was committed, or the Criminal Court of Baltimore City, should the accused party prefer a jury trial, shall be fined not less than twenty nor more than fifty dollars for each and every offense, and in default of the payment of the fine and costs, shall be committed to the jail of the county or city, as the case may be, until such fine and costs are paid, provided, that said term of imprisonment shall not exceed thirty days for each offense; such fines shall be paid to the Ranking Line Officer of the State, who shall apply the same to the use of the Organized Militia.

45. Any person who shall wilfully or unlawfully misappropriate or convert to his own use any money or other property belonging to said Organized Militia, any organization thereof, or who shall when lawfully called upon to do so the proper officer, fail or refuse to pay or deliver to said officer any money or property in his possession, or for which the said person was chargeable or accountable, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before a justice of the peace having criminal jurisdiction of the city or county wherein such offense was committed, or by the Circuit Court of the county wherein such offense was committed, or the Criminal Court of Baltimore City, should the accused party prefer a jury trial, shall be fined a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, or be sentenced to imprisonment in jail for a period not exceeding one year, or shall be both fined and imprisoned, at the discretion of the Court.

46. No person belonging to the Organized Militia, shall be arrested in any process except such as may be issued by military authority, while not out, remaining at, or returning from a place at which he may be required to attend for military duty.

It shall be unlawful for the owner, the owner's agent, whenever any of the latter's designation, of any place of amusement or of recreation, otherwise opened to the general public, admission to which is free or otherwise, to refuse admission to or exclude from the said place of amusement or of recreation, any officer or enlisted man of the United States Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Revenue Cutter Service, the Organized Militia of this State or of any State, Territory and of the District of Columbia, by reason of such officer or enlisted man being in uniform, and any such officer, or agent aforesaid, who, upon conviction before a court of criminal jurisdiction, shall be found guilty of a violation of the provision of this section shall be deemed and he is hereby declared to be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, or imprisoned for not more than six months, or both in the discretion of the court.

47. Members of the Organized Militia ordered into the active service of the State by proper authority shall not be liable civilly or criminally for any act or acts done by them while in the discharge of their duty. When a suit or proceeding shall be commenced in any court by any person against any officer of the Organized Militia for any act done by such officer in his official capacity in the discharge of any duty under this Article, or against any person acting under the authority or order of any such officer, or by virtue of any warrant issued by him pursuant to the law, the court shall require the person prosecuting or instituting the suit or proceeding to file security for the payment of costs that may be awarded to the defendant therein, and the defendant in all cases may make a general denial and give the special matter in evidence. In case the plaintiff shall be non-suited, or have a verdict or judgment rendered against him, the defendant shall recover treble costs.

48. Every member of the Organized Militia shall be exempt from jury duty, provided he shall present certificate of his immediate commanding officer to the effect that he has performed the duties required of him for the year immediately preceding the summons to act as jurymen, and every such member who shall have received a full and honorable discharge shall be exempt for the three years next succeeding his discharge, from all jury duty. Every regiment or separate organization of the Organized Militia of this State may receive and have as many honorary members as it has active and uniformed members, on payment in advance by each person desiring to become such honorary member, of not less than ten dollars per annum, which money shall be received by the commanding officer of the regiment or separate organization, and be by him applied to a special fund of such organization and expended by the commanding officer for the best interests of his organization, and the commanding officer of every regiment and separate organization shall, on or before the first day of June and December in each and every year, render to the Ranking Line Officer an account of the money so received and expended by him, and every such honorary member shall be entitled to receive a certificate of honorary membership of the said regiment or separate organization, to be signed by the commanding officer thereof, or some officer designated by him for that purpose, and bearing the date of its issue, which certificate shall exempt the said honorary member from petit jury duty, for one year from the date of the issue of the said certificate, providing the same be filed with the Clerk of the Superior Court of Baltimore City or the Clerk of the Circuit Court of any county before the drawing of the jury.

49. Any member of the Organized Militia of this State, going to and returning from any parade, encampment, drill or other meeting which he may be required by law to attend, shall, together with his conveyance and military property, be allowed to pass through all toll gates, and over all toll roads, bridges and ferries, free of charge, if he presents an order for duty or certificate of membership.

50. The commanding officer upon any occasion of duty, may place in arrest during the continuance thereof, any persons who shall trespass upon any camp ground, parade ground, armory or other place devoted to such duty, or who shall in any way or manner interrupt or molest the orderly discharge of duty by those under arms, or who shall disturb or prevent the passage of troops going to or returning from any duty; he may prohibit and prevent the sale or use of all spirituous liquors, wines, ale or beer, the holding of huckster or auction sales and all gambling within the limits of the post, camp grounds, place of encampment, parade or drill, under his command.

51. Wherever the words "National Guard," "Militia," "Organized Militia," or "Military forces" appear in this Act they shall be construed to cover the Naval Militia or Naval forces of this State, wherever applicable and wherever the words "Army Regulations," "Secretary of War," or similar words appear they shall be construed to read "Navy Regulations," "Secretary of the Navy," etc., in all matters pertaining to the Naval forces of the State.

52. Any and all sections of the National Defense Act, as amended, and regulations made in pursuance thereof, applicable to the Militia of Maryland or any part thereof, shall be considered as a part of this Act in all respects as though written herein.

53. Regiments, battalions, and separate organizations may, with the consent of the Governor, adopt a full-dress uniform of their own and at their own expense.

54. No section or provision of this Article, or any part thereof, shall be deemed to be repealed, altered or amended by any statute passed by the Legislature, unless such statute explicitly refers to this Article as the Militia Law, or by its other title, as part of the general laws of the State, and explicitly repeals, alters or amends the same or some part thereof.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That all Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Article are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That this Act is hereby declared to be an emergency law and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public safety, and being passed upon a yeas and nays, supported by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses of the General Assembly, the same shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 13th, 1922.

CHAPTER NO. 494

AN ACT to authorize and empower a Commission to acquire by purchase, condemnation or otherwise, the bridge over the Susquehanna River between Havre de Grace and Perryville used for vehicular and foot passenger traffic, with the approaches, easements, land, roads, rights, and franchises, belonging to any person or corporation necessary or convenient for the purposes specified, and to authorize the creation of a State debt in the aggregate amount of seven hundred thousand dollars ($700,000.00) or such thereof as may be necessary for the acquisition of said bridge, and providing generally for the issue and sale of certificates of indebtedness evidencing said loan to carry out the provisions of this Act, and fixing certain regulations regarding the maintenance of said bridge and tolls thereon after it has been acquired.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the State Roads Commission of Maryland be and it is hereby authorized and empowered, in the exercise of the power conferred by Section 48 of Article 91 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, and in no way in limitation of the power so conferred, to acquire by purchase, condemnation or otherwise (and when so acquired to maintain) the bridge over the Susquehanna River between Havre de Grace, in Harford County, and Perryville, in Cecil County, used for vehicular and foot passenger traffic, together with all lands, roads, approaches, rights, franchises and easements belonging to any person or corporation, and necessary or convenient for the purposes specified in said Section 48 of Article 91 of the Annotated Code of Maryland; provided, that the price, whether fixed by agreement as hereinafter provided or by condemnation, shall not exceed the sum of six hundred ninety thousand dollars ($690,000).

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the Chairman of the State Roads Commission, a member of the Public Service Commission, and the Attorney General of Maryland be and they are hereby constituted a Commission for the purposes of this Section, and said Commission is hereby authorized, to make an offer on behalf of the State of Maryland in a sum not exceeding Six Hundred and Ninety Thousand Dollars ($690,000) to the Havre de Grace and Perryville Bridge Company, a body corporate (or to its successors in interest) for the said bridge, land, roads, approaches, rights, franchises and easements of said Company (or its successors in interest) and if said Havre de Grace and Perryville Bridge Company (or its successors in interest) shall in writing accept within twenty days thereafter said offer of the State of Maryland a written option of purchase for ninety days at a sum not exceeding Six Hundred and Ninety Thousand Dollars ($690,000) then the Board of Public Works, as hereinafter directed shall upon notification of the receipt of said option by the Chairman of the State Roads Commission, at once proceed to sell said Bonds as hereinafter directed for the purpose of acquiring by purchase said bridge, land, roads, approaches, rights, franchises, and easements. But if said Havre de Grace and Perryville Bridge Company (or its successors in interest) shall fail to accept the offer on behalf of the State of Maryland and fail to give the written option as hereinafter mentioned, then the said Commission is hereby authorized to acquire said bridge, land, roads, approaches, rights, franchises, and easements by condemnation in accordance with the provisions of Article 33A of the Annotated Code of Maryland by proceedings instituted in either the Circuit Court for Harford County or the Circuit Court for Cecil County, as the said State Roads Commission shall elect; provided, that the cost of the said property shall not exceed the sum of Six hundred and ninety thousand dollars ($690,000); and further provided, that the State Roads Commission of Maryland shall forthwith institute the condemnation herein referred to, if any of the things to be done or agreed upon in this section are not attained within the time limit or limits herein set forth.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That for the purpose of raising the money necessary to carry out the provisions of this Act, a loan is hereby created to be known as the "Susquehanna Bridge Loan of 1922" to an amount not to exceed seven hundred thousand dollars ($700,000). Said loan shall be dated with a date of thirty (30) days after the date on which a price is determined for the purchase of said bridge, either by agreement, condemnation, or otherwise, and shall bear interest at a rate fixed by the Governor, the Comptroller of the Treasury and the Treasurer of the State, or a majority of them, not to exceed four and one-half (4½) per centum per annum, and the said interest shall be paid semi-annually, and the said loan and every part thereof, and the interest payable thereon, shall be and remain a general debt of the State, county and municipal taxation, and the principal amount of said loan shall be paid upon the serial annuity plan hereinafter specified, and all within fourteen (14) years after the issuance thereof.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That in issuing the certificates of indebtedness for said loan as herein provided in Section 3, the Governor, the Comptroller of the Treasury and the Treasurer of the State, or a majority of them, shall issue said certificates according to what is known as the serial annuity plan, and each series as issued shall be lettered, beginning with the letter "A" and so down the alphabet until the said amount of seven hundred thousand dollars ($700,000) or so much thereof as it may be necessary to issue shall have been issued, so that the entire principal shall be redeemable as follows:

Series A—$50,000 1 year from date fixed for said loan.

Series B—$50,000 2 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series C—$50,000 3 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series D—$50,000 4 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series E—$50,000 5 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series F—$50,000 6 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series G—$50,000 7 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series H—$50,000 8 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series I—$50,000 9 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series J—$50,000 10 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series K—$50,000 11 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series L—$50,000 12 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series M—$50,000 13 years from date fixed for said loan.

Series N—$50,000 14 years from date fixed for said loan.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury and Treasurer, constituting the Board of Public Works, or a majority of them, are hereby authorized and directed to have prepared proper certificates of indebtedness of the State in good and sufficient form to aggregate the amount of seven hundred thousand dollars ($700,000.00), or so much hereof as may be necessary for the purpose of this Act, as evidence of such loan; such certificates of indebtedness shall bear date as of the time of their issue as provided in Section 3 of this Act, and shall not be issued in less sums than one hundred dollars ($100.00) or any multiple thereof. Each of said certificates shall be signed by the Treasurer of the State and countersigned by the Comptroller of the Treasury, and shall bear interest at the rate fixed by resolution of said Board of Public Works, payable semi-annually, and a portion or all of said certificates may be registered, and the said certificates, or any portion thereof, shall have interest coupons attached, all as the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury and Treasurer or a majority of them, shall determine.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That in order to provide for the selling of the certificates of indebtedness aforesaid, to be issued under the provisions of this Act, the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury and the Treasurer of this State, or a majority of them, are hereby directed to advertise twice a week for four successive weeks before the said certificates of indebtedness, or any part thereof, shall be issued, in two newspapers published in the city of Baltimore, that the Treasurer of this State will be in readiness at a time within (15) days after the expiration of said notice to receive bids at such place or places may be named in said respective advertisements for bonds or certificates of indebtedness issued under the provisions of this Act, under such regulations as may be made in the discretion of the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury and Treasurer, or a majority of them; and the accrued interest between the date of the bonds or certificates of indebtedness and the time of sale and delivery of and payment for said bonds or certificates of indebtedness shall be adjusted with the purchaser thereof under such regulations as may be made in the discretion of the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury and Treasurer, or a majority of them; and upon the day mentioned in said advertisement as the day for opening the bids or the proposals thereby called for they shall receive such sealed proposals for the purchase of as many of such bonds or certificates of indebtedness as may be mentioned or designated in said advertisements; and on the opening of such sealed proposals, as many of said bonds or certificates of indebtedness as have been so bid for shall be awarded by the majority of them to the highest responsible bidder or bidders therefor for cash, if the prices bid are adequate, in the judgment of the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury and Treasurer, or a majority of them, and when two or more bidders have made the same bid and such bid is the highest and the certificates so bid for by the highest responsible bidders are in excess of the whole amount of the certificates so offered for sale, such bonds or certificates of indebtedness shall be awarded to such highest responsible bidder or bidders bidding the same price in a ratable proportion; and if any of said certificates so offered for sale are not bid for, or if any insufficient price be bid for them, they may be subsequently disposed of under the direction of the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury and Treasurer, or a majority of them, at a private sale upon the best terms they can obtain for the same; provided they shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) or so much thereof as may be necessary, shall be paid by the Treasurer of this State upon the warrant of the Comptroller out of the proceeds of the sale of bonds or certificates of indebtedness, for the payment of the expense of engraving, printing and other outlays connected with the issue of the loan hereby authorized and for the payment of the advertising directed by this Act, and all other incidental expenses in connection with the execution of its provisions pertaining to said loan.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That the actual cash proceeds of the sale of the certificates of indebtedness to be issued under this Act shall be paid to the Treasurer of the State, and such proceeds shall be used exclusively for the following purposes, to wit: The Comptroller shall immediately upon the sale of and payment for said bonds or certificates of indebtedness first return to and credit the Treasurer for whatever advances or payments may have been made as provided for by Section 7 of this Act. The remainder of the proceeds of said loan shall be turned over or credited to the State Roads Commission, and by it used, expended and applied in accordance with the provisions of this Act for the acquisition by purchase, condemnation or otherwise of the bridge across the Susquehanna River between Havre de Grace, in Harford County, and Perryville, in Cecil County, together with all land, roads, approaches, rights, franchises and easements belonging to any person or corporation and necessary or convenient for the purposes specified in Section 48 of Article 91 of the Annotated Code of Maryland. Any unexpended balance which may remain shall be credited to the retirement fund for said loan.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That for the purpose of raising sufficient funds to pay the interest on the said bonds or certificates of indebtedness, and to assist in retiring the principal of said loan, the State of Maryland pledges the full faith and credit and for these and the further purpose of maintaining said bridge, and appurtenances thereto, the State Roads Commission shall upon its acquisition charge such tolls to the users of said bridge for vehicular traffic to be fixed by the State Roads Commission of Maryland, but not to exceed the limits herein mentioned. No charge for pedestrian traffic. Sheep or Swine, each .05. Horses, Mules and Cattle, each (Drivers Extra) .10. Wagon or Carriage, empty drawn by one man .10. Wagon or carriage, empty, attached to wagon drawn by one or more horses .10. Wagon loaded, two or four wheels, attached to wagon drawn by one horse .15. Wagon, loaded or empty two or four wheels drawn by two horses, with driver .30. Wagon, loaded or empty, four wheels, drawn by three horses, with driver .35. Wagon, loaded or empty, four wheels, drawn by four horses, with driver .45. Wagon, loaded or empty, four wheels, drawn by five horses, with driver .50. Wagon loaded or empty, four wheels drawn by six horses, with driver .60. Carriage, pleasure, two or four wheels, drawn by one horse, with driver .15. Carriage, pleasure, four wheels, drawn by two horses, with driver .25. Carriage, pleasure, four wheels, drawn by four horses with driver .45. Passenger in all vehicles in excess of the driver .05, each Bicycle and rider .10. Motorcycle and driver .25. Automobile, pleasure, with driver .60. Commercial motor vehicles and trucks, not more than one ton carrying capacity, loaded or empty, with driver .75. Commercial motor vehicles and trucks more than one ton and not over three tons carrying capacity, loaded or empty, with driver 1.00. Commercial motor vehicles and trucks more than three tons and not over four tons carrying capacity, loaded or empty, each with driver 2.00. Commercial motor vehicle and trucks, more than four tons and not over five tons carrying capacity, loaded or empty, each with driver 2.50. Motor or other vehicles of weight or carrying capacity over five tons are subject to special regulations and tolls, if allowed to cross at rate of fifty cents per ton based upon actual weight but in no event less than 3.50. The State Roads Commission is hereby authorized and directed to issue commutation tickets for such terms and for such amounts as it may deem wise, at prices lower than generally charged for single passage over said bridge. The revenue derived from said tolls to be used for the redemption and for the interest on said loan, then for the maintenance of said bridge, and any amount over and above the cost of said redemption, interest and maintenance remaining from the tolls collected, shall be paid into the retirement fund for said loan annually, and a report made to the legislature of Maryland setting forth the receipts and expenditures in connection with said bridge and a report of its condition. Upon the payment of the principal of the loan of said bonds or certificates of indebtedness outstanding, no further charge for the use of said bridge shall be laid or collected, except the tolls not to exceed twenty cents on all motor vehicles.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That the State Roads Commission shall annually consider the amount of tolls collected, the expense of maintenance, the annual interest and annual amount of loan to be retired and shall reduce said tolls accordingly, if possible, so that none shall be charged other than sufficient to pay for the annual maintenance, annual interest, and annual retirement of said loan, and after the retirement of all of said loan then only as hereinafter provided.

Sec. 11. And be it further enacted, That this and all parts thereof are to be construed in its entirety, the conditions therein depending one upon the other and each section depending one upon the other in order that its intent may be carried out, and after the acquisition of said bridge by purchase or otherwise it shall be under the control, regulation and jurisdiction of the State Roads Commission of Maryland, and all Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with this Act, giving any other body or State department supervision, jurisdiction, regulation, or control of the said bridge, be and the same are hereby repealed as of the date that is purchased by the State of Maryland, in so far as the bridge mentioned is concerned.

Sec. 12. And be it further enacted, That this is an emergency law, necessary for the health, preservation and safety of the citizens of the State of Maryland, and on account of the inconvenience, hindrance, and expense of all traffic and business now existent because of the high tolls on said bridge, and three-fifths (3-5) of the members of the General Assembly concurring therein, shall take effect from the date of its passage.

POULTRY NOTES

H. W. RICKEY

It is most important to remember that successfully dry picking depends upon the rapidity with which the feathers are plucked after sticking.

It has been pointed out in a former article that the "sticking" or the plucking of the "sticking" causes the feathers to loosen, making it possible to pull them out without the necessity for scalding, but this condition is only temporary, lasting but a few minutes. The picker must therefore begin to pick immediately after sticking and then complete the job as quickly as possible.

The inexperienced man is at the outset usually nervous or disturbed, because of the fear that he will blunder and injure the carcass, and he usually does, especially if there are spectators about. He follows directions closely; he grasps the handful of feathers and pulls. In this haste to get them out quickly the feathers somehow in some way get twisted in his hand; he doesn't make the pull quite right with just the proper twist of the wrist; the feathers come, but so does the skin. The directions were right, but not for a novice; he is able to follow them closely requires practice, then more practice. I would say to the beginner, move carefully and with precision; practice on adult fowls until you have acquired confidence; take few feathers in the hand at a time and pluck with short, snappy pulls. At the same time twisting the hand away from the body slightly. While doing this the fowl may be held on the lap or table or it may be hung down at a convenient height, from a cord tied to the legs.

With the carcass held in the lap or against a hard stool demands and danger of bruising the flesh if not carefully handled, but with a fowl hanging out in the open this danger is eliminated, which is one reason why this mode of picking is the most popular. However, I have found it of some advantage to have the bird against a wall for support in order to use both hands for picking.

It will be noticed, as the picker becomes more familiar with his work, that certain portions of the body tear more easily than others, namely, the breast, neck and thighs. Of these the breast is the most torn, and as a torn breast so greatly mars the beauty of an otherwise nicely dressed carcass the utmost care should be exercised to prevent the slightest mutilation. After the main tail and wing feathers are plucked in rapid succession the feathers are then taken from the tender parts, beginning with the breast. There is a narrow fatty tender strip of flesh near the center and running lengthwise of each side of the breast, in which the feathers are deeply imbedded, and the plucking requires the greatest care.

When plucking the large feathers of the wings both the primaries and secondaries are grasped in one hand, the wing arm being held firmly in the other, and with a quick pull straight down from the body to the tip of the wing all may be pulled out at one and in this a novice may become proficient with little practice. All the main tail feathers may be plucked with one sharp, twisting, upward pull. After this the breast is usually attacked, but it will aid the beginner somewhat if he first pulls the feathers of the back and sides, as they can be removed very rapidly in handfuls with little danger of tearing. With these feathers out of the way, those on the tender portions of the breast can be more easily located and plucked. It is right here that the greatest care must be exercised in order to avoid trouble. If the thumb and forefinger of the left hand are pressed down close against the breast on each side of the tender strip, while the feathers imbedded in the strip are pulled out between the fingers with short snappy strokes, a certain degree of control can be obtained and the possible damage to the skin reduced to a minimum.

When removing the neck feathers, if the skin is drawn tight around the neckbone with one hand the work will be made easier. Unless these precautionary measures are observed the skin may not only be torn but badly mutilated, possibly making the fowl unsalable.

With experience the picker gradually acquires such a keen sense of touch that he is able to hold the feathers just tightly enough to prevent tearing, and to permit them to slip through his fingers just at the point where tearing begins. He knows instinctively when the skin is about to break, and by easing up in his pull and his grasp on the feathers he is able to keep it intact. Do not be discouraged if your first attempts are failures; they usually are. It is too much to expect to become an expert in dry picking without constant practice.

After the plucking is completed the small, undeveloped "pin" feathers must be taken out. This may easily be accomplished by using a pocket or fruit knife. If the bird has been hanging, take it down and place it on the lap. Hold it firmly with one hand, and with the sharp edge of the blade against the base of the feather and press the "pin" hard against the blade, hold it there and pull. Two or three of the pin feathers, and possibly more, if they grow close together, may be pulled out at the same time. Metal forceps or tweezers are made for this purpose, but are not in general use.

The feathers have a market value. Scalding, however, so lowers their value that it does not pay to dry and cure them for the saving of the feathers profitable where only few chickens are kept, but in the large commercial plants it is a fruitful source of income. The price varies from 25 to 45 cents per pound, according to the market demands and the character of the feathers. White feathers bring more than the dark ones. The must all be kept clean and free from mold. They are prepared for market by being spread out on a bare floor in a well ventilated room or shed and turned two or three times a week for three or four weeks, when they are bagged and sold.

As the feathers are plucked they are thrown into a separate receptacle, as they must be kept free from blood. The blood is valuable as a poultry food, and there are methods in use which permit it to be caught and saved free from particles of feathers. In some cases small weighted cups are attached to the head of the chicken. In others, where the chickens are picked hanging, a large trough is arranged underneath, so that the feathers as they are plucked fall directly into it. The lower beak of the fowl is caught in a hook attached to the front and on the outside of the trough, while a pail is set to catch the blood as it runs from the mouth.

FRUIT PROSPECTS NOT AS POOR AS PREDICTED

Though Yield Will Be Below Average Frost Damage Has Failed to Cut Production Entirely.

Tree fruit prospects in Maryland and Delaware were a good deal better at the close of June than a month ago, notwithstanding the "June drop" was heavy in some of the best-producing counties of both States.

Because of the frosts late in April a very short crop of the major fruits was looked for in these States, especially in northeastern, northern, and western Maryland counties, where fruit in the valleys and lowlands sustained heavy frost damage. In Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore and in Delaware tree fruits generally are turning out somewhat better expected, though nearly all of these crops will be considerably below average. Pears are particularly short in both States.

According to estimates made by the Crop Reporting Board of the United States Department of Agriculture, based on a large number of growers' reports of an average date of July 1, the prospects are summarized as follows:

Maryland.

Apples—Condition about 45 per cent. of a normal, or full crop, forecasting a probable production of about 1,375,000 bushels, against 2,250,000 last season and 2,161,000 bushels, the average production for the last ten years (1912-1921). A commercial crop of about 229,000 bushels is in sight.

Peaches—Condition about 45 per cent. of a normal, forecasting a probable production of about 412,000 bushels, against 59,000 last season and 679,000 bushels, the average production for the last ten years (1912-1921).

Pears—Condition about 45 per cent. of a normal, forecasting about 224,000 bushels, against 35,000 last season and 412,000 bushels, the average production for the last ten years (1912-1921).

Delaware.

Apples—Condition about 79 per cent. of a normal, or full crop, forecasting a probable production of about 764,000 bushels, against 68,000 last year and 487,000 bushels, the average production for the last ten years (1912-1921). A commercial crop of about 166,000 bushels is in sight.

Peaches—Condition about 77 per cent. of a normal, forecasting a probable production of about 239,000 bushels, against 70,000 last year and 367,000 bushels, the average production for the last ten years (1912-1921).

Pears—Condition about 33 per cent. of a normal, forecasting a probable production of about 99,000 bushels, against 9,000 last year and 188,000 bushels, the average production for the last ten years (1912-1921).

FEW ALIENS IN SOUTH.

Foreign-born farmers are most numerous in the North Central States, although there are considerable numbers in the Pacific States, and a relatively high proportion of the total number of farmers in some of the Eastern States are foreign-born. There are a very few foreign-born farmers in the South, except in Texas.

Torpid Liver

Black-Draught "has no equal for headache, sour stomach, torpid liver and feverish colds..." declares Mrs. Annie Whitmore, of Gate City, Va. "It is easy to take and does not gripe, as a lot of medicines do," she adds. "It is good to take in a hot tea for colds, or can be taken in a dry powder. I can't say enough for Black-Draught and the sickness it has saved us."

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

has been found a valuable liver medicine, in thousands of homes. "I do not use any other liver medicine," says Mrs. Mary O. Brown, of Europa, Miss. "It is splendid for sour stomach, a bad taste in the mouth or torpid liver. I keep it all the time, use it with the children and feel it has saved us many dollars in doctor bills and many days in bed."

Insist on the genuine—Thedford's.

REEDVILLE

The Northumberland Chamber of Commerce, with headquarters here, has taken steps to have a marine railway established at Reedville, or some suitable point on Cockrell's Creek. Looking to this end they have been in communication with the Smith and Williams Marine Railway, of Salisbury, Md., who have a railway now at Sharptown, Md., which they expect to move to some other place. Messrs. Smith and Hall, of the firm, made a recent trip here to look over the grounds. They expressed themselves as thinking the location ideal for such a business, but made no definite plans. Mr. Luther B. Rice, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is hopeful of the result. Every one is of the opinion that Cockrell's Creek needs the marine railway. Dozens of fish steams from here are taken down to Carter's Creek, Norfolk or Baltimore to have the work done now. It could be done at home at less expense, and a business of that kind here would offer employment to a number of people.

Mr. F. C. Jett, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been furnished with a typewriter, table, etc., and has had quite a lot of Chamber of Commerce correspondence come his way.

Miss L. Gertrude Haynie, of Baltimore, is here on business pertaining to her home "Nayve" Road, near the town of Carter's Creek. Mr. B. B. Haynie, and others are glad to have her here.

Miss Lela Dey, of this place, is visiting relatives at Carrollton, near Norfolk, leaving her mother, who is getting along very well now to the competent care of her brother, Mr. Russell Dey, and a nurse.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Johnson, of this place, had as guests for supper Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Rodson, of Baltimore. Mrs. Barnes and Miss Barnes, from near Coon, motoring in the Barnes' car, Mrs. G. W. Haynie and daughter, Miss Margaret, from Tibbitha, Mrs. Lizzie Whaley and son, Mr. Winton Whaley, and Mrs. Catherine McFarland, this town.

The Bethany Play Grounds, have been thrown open the past two weeks for the entertainment of the children. Three evening each week, two ladies are on the grounds to watch over the little ones and see that they have a good time, escape injury and make peace, should there enter disturbing or refractory moments. The lot is large and shady and well supplied with lawn, swings, seats, etc., making it a fine play ground.

Rev. W. R. Evans, of Bethany Church, has been away the past week, holding in revival meetings.

Mr. T. A. Jett, Jr. is looking after the store and postoffice at Tibbitha while Mr. O. R. Williams and party enjoy a motoring trip.

Mrs. Fannie Golden and her little granddaughter, Gertrude McKim, spent last week in Heathsville, with Senator and Mrs. C. H. Walker. Today (Monday) they are returning to Baltimore.

On Friday Mrs. Golden and Mrs. Mary Reed Tallofer were guests of Mrs. Wm. M. Huddall in Hack's Neck for dinner and a delightful day on the river.

Many friends of Mr. Chas. J. Covington have been sorry to hear of his illness at his home on the "Hill". Appendicitis, an old enemy of his, is again causing the trouble. We hope soon to hear of improvement. Mr. Covington is opposed to an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Towles, Miss Mildred and Little Spottswood, left Reedville Thursday for Greene County, Va., where with the exception of Mr. Towles, they will spend two weeks or more in the beautiful Blue Ridge Country, visiting relatives who conduct a Protestant Episcopal Mission at Stanardsville.

Mrs. Eva Burgess has been with her sister, Mrs. Henry Blundon, and niece, Mrs. Albert Davis, in Reedville the past week, also attending the Rappahannock Baptist Association at Fairfield's Baptist Church. Quite a number of delegates have been entertained here in private homes and at Muir House and Reedville House, while the services at the church have been well attended, and of a delightful and interesting nature.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Roseland Cemetery Co., was held Wednesday afternoon of last week in Liberty M. P. Church, whose lot adjoins the Roseland grounds. The Roseland Co. has wanted for several years to buy Liberty Church to use as a cemetery chapel and at this meeting a committee was appointed to negotiate with the Quarterly Conference of Northumberland Charge, M. P. Church for that purpose. If the purchase is made, Liberty will at once be put in good repair and painted, and thereby restored to her once beautiful and attractive estate. Nothing could please the former members of dear old Liberty Methodist Protestant Church more than to know that in future years her doors would swing open only to welcome the honorable dead and for such sacred purposes. The officers of the Roseland Cemetery Co. were reelected on Wednesday as follows: President, Dr. L. E. Cockrell; vice-president, Mr. C. S. Towles; secretary, Mr. Geo. N. Reed; treasurer, Mr. T. H. Jett, all of Reedville. There are a large number of stockholders taking in all sections, and all denominations. A great many own lots who do not own stock in the company and some of them are beautifully kept, especially the family lots belonging to Capt. J. B. Hinton and Mr. William Blundon.

Mrs. Wm. H. Edwards, who spent last week with her brother, Dr. Cockrell and family here, is at "Melville," near Lillian, this week visiting her old home, and brother, Mr. Thos. L. Cockrell and wife, Mr. Henry Edwards has been enjoying a fishing trip this week, going out on the Southampton with Capt. T. H. Haynie. Fishing has been poor on the creek recently.

Mr. Eugene Cockrell, of Fredericksburg, was at home for a day or two last week.

We had a pretty and most interesting souvenir of Lillian, Ill., a few days ago, from Mrs. James C. Fisher, who, with Captain Fisher, is motoring across our own beautiful and wonderful Continent.

Mrs. Thomas Edgar Davis and her two little children and, Miss Alice Davis, of Rockingham, N. C., are spending a month or more with Mrs. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Blackwell, near Sunnybank. Mr. Blackwell is getting much better, his many friends are glad to hear.

Miss Clara Burgess, who was so ill sometime ago, has gotten very well again, to the joy of her loved ones, and friends. Miss Fannie Coles, of Wicomico, has been visiting her for several weeks.

Mrs. Milton Booth, of Lillian, has been very ill the past week at the home of her son, Capt. Arthur Booth, of this place. Mrs. Owen Booth has been staying in the home this summer while the family were at Chincoteague and her mother-in-law was taken sick while visiting her. Miss Minnie Booth, and Mrs. Roland Neal, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Arthur Booth and family from Chincoteague, are with the sufferer at this time as well as her loved ones. Mrs. E. E. Cockrell, Mrs. Booth may be restored again to her usual health. Dr. L. E. Cockrell has been in constant attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Neal and family were in this section visiting relatives a few weeks ago, motoring down from their home in Baltimore in their handsome automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie McGill, of Mila, and children, spent sometime at the McGill home here recently.

Miss Mae Lewis, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. Owen Lewis and family in Richmond, since her school closed in Calvert County, Md., is at home now. She came to Reedville with Mr. R. B. Moore, who was bringing a new Cadillac for a purchaser near Coon. She is warmly greeted.

Battery Questions Answered

Why take the trouble to send your battery questions in to the automobile editor and then wait a week for your answer?

Our automobile page isn't printed. It's "talked". And you get the answer—the right answer just about as soon as you've finished asking the question.

And we're even better at repairing batteries—all kinds—and keeping them in shape, than at answering questions. Bring your battery in and we'll prove it.

CITES EXAMPLE OF SUCCESSFUL START BY TWO YOUNG MEN INTO POULTRY BUSINESS

Local Authority Describes Rise Of Profitable Industry From An Initial Outlay Of $100 Capital And Small Lot Of Equipment—Believes Poultry Keeping Lucrative.

Starting with a cash capital of one hundred dollars and a various assortment of other assets including a few yearling hens, several second-hand incubators and brooders, two poultry houses, a tenant house and the usual outbuildings, a profitable poultry business was developed by two Americans within two years on a worn-out Canadian farm not far from the Maine border. The story is told by Prof. H. W. Riecke, manager of the Eastern Shore Poultry Sales Co. in this city and should furnish those interested in the business with a world of helpful advice and deep inspiration.

Seven years ago, after serving an apprenticeship of four years in representative poultry plants in this country, making a study of the poultry work, I went to Canada for the purpose of starting a poultry business with a friend who owned a small country place, beautifully located on the shores of the Pemaquod Bay, in the Province of New Brunswick. My pocket held my entire monetary possessions, seventy-five dollars in all, fifty of which was to be devoted to the financing of the business.

Besides this, and an equal sum invested by my partner, we had, to begin with, 40 hens, valued at $25 and a 300 egg Cyphers incubator, worth $20, and 140-egg machine of the same make worth about $15, and 1908 Model Cyphers outdoor brooders, and old laying house 16 ft. x 50 ft. and another 8 ft. x 16 ft.; also a basement barn and cow shed with loft, a stable and a tenant house (the original farm house) in good repair. The large poultry house we converted temporarily into a brooder house and put the brooders inside for early spring work. The basement of the barn, which at one time had been used for the storage of farm implements was renovated and made into an open-front laying house with dimensions 24 ft. x 30 ft., capable of accommodating a hundred and sixty laying hens. The meat house was fitted up and used for killing and dressing. In the tenant house was a complete poultry plant; laying pullets occupied the dining room and parlor. The breakfast room was used as a feed room, the kitchen for fattening broilers and the pantry was the hospital, while upstairs were the incubator rooms; here the hens did the hatching in nests built up around the walls. In a little room partitioned off from the parlor was a fireless brooder and the incubators were run in the cellar.

Of course all this was not accomplished in a day, but during the 18 months that we carried on the work every workable thing on the place was made use of, including six colony houses that were built for us in the spring of the second year at a cost of a hundred dollars. By remodeling barns and the lofts we were able to house 875 layers, the small house, house, 20, the two rooms in the tenant house, 80, and the basement of the barn 160; and all that was necessary to be done in order to make these farm buildings fit for the fowls was to cover the walls with one-ply roofing paper, to put in a few windows, and open the fronts.

Of course, we had many discouragements. Coons, skunks and weasels raided the coops and killed a number of hens and chicks and one morning we found 26 two-day broilers finished for market, lying around dead on the floor of the pen, but the hardest knock came when we discovered that our account at one store had grown to $350 and not a dollar in the treasury; but that served only to spur us on to greater efforts. We bought live chickens and paid premiums above the market price for good stock, crate fattened them and sold them dressed at a substantial profit. They were dry picked and prepared in a most attractive way, and delivered to our customers in small wicker baskets, nicely packed in green leaves and garnished with parsley; occasionally a few cucumbers or a head of lettuce, fresh from the garden would be sent with the order. A newly laundered white napkin covered the baskets and their contents. Our packages were the talk of the town and helped to create for our products a demand that exceeded the supply.

In order to have milk for fattening we found it necessary to buy a cow, and as we had unlimited pasture, its feeding cost, except in winter, was practically nothing.

milk for the chickens, but cream for our coffee and butter.

Our neighbors furnished the succulent food, such as turnips and mangels at a ridiculously low figure, but when it came to buying eggs for hatching, the prices soared; the local farmers, taking advantage of our necessities at the start, insisted upon a six-cent price for a three-cent egg. The spring of the second year was so wretchedly cold and long-drawn-out that, though we had on the farm a thousand growing chickens, we felt that we were unduly hampered and that our efforts could be used to better advantage elsewhere, and so decided to return to the States where climatic conditions were more favorable.

When we closed our account and disposed of our stock in the following October, every debt had been paid, dollar for dollar, my partner and I, with a young boy, had lived entirely on the proceeds from the business; the permanent improvements amounting to at least a hundred seventy-five dollars, stock and other incidentals and been paid for; and a first-class retail business worth hundreds of dollars had been built up, especially with the summer colonists.

After an experience of this kind we can have no patience with the chronic skeptic who through ignorance of actual facts, insists that there is no money in poultry, except when kept in small flocks as a side line on the farm. Our experience can easily be duplicated on many run down farms on this side of the border; out-buildings now fast going to rack and ruin could be easily and profitably utilized and turned into suitable poultry houses with very little expense.

With the aid of the poultry droppings, the soil can be brought back to its highest state of fertility within a few years and the farm made to produce a large part of the grain and green food required by the fowls. Such opportunities should certainly not be lost sight of in these back-to-the-farm movements so much in evidence at the present time. Poultry keeping may be a sure road to wealth, but it is one way to a good living and an independent existence.

CHEAP ROADS KNOWN AS MOST EXPENSIVE

Government Will Indirectly Penalize States That Construct Inferior Highways.

The new Federal aid highway bill recently signed by President Harding and providing $190,000,000 for highway construction during the three years starting July 1, last, indirectly inflicts a penalty on the community that builds cheap and squalidly-maintained pavements on important thoroughfares.

The Federal money is distributed to the various states with the understanding that each state will match its quota, dollar for dollar. The government, through the Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture, not seeking to dictate what type of pavement shall be constructed in any given community, specifies that the type of surface must be adequate for the traffic anticipated.

However, the government does insist on protecting its investment by providing that the various states, out of their own pocket, must keep all Federal aid roads in good condition of repair. If this is not done, the government will itself maintain any road not properly maintained and will deduct the cost from the state's Federal aid allotment.

Highway engineers point out that the community which devotes its quota of Federal aid to constructing the less durable pavement types will, within a few years, be greatly burdened by heavy annual repair and maintenance costs. This maintenance henceforth can not be neglected as it too often has been in the past.

The community which builds pavements that, while costing a little more at first, will last so much longer and not call for constant and costly repairing, will escape the penalties of heavy maintenance charges and early reconstruction costs.

The Bureau of Public Roads, using its observations of the behavior of pavements under heavy motor truck traffic as a basis, has carefully listed pavement types in order of their durability. Starting with the most durable the list includes: Vitrified brick, sheet asphalt, cement concrete, bituminous concrete, bituminous macadam, surface treated macadam, waterbound macadam, gravel macadam, gravel and sand clay.

Mother's Gentle Hand.

The little boy in this story from "Touche a Tout" was evidently a firm believer in the old adage, "Of two evils choose the less." Turning a corner at full speed he confided with the minister.

"Where are you running to, my little man?" asked the minister, he had regained his breath.

"Home!" panted the boy. "Ma's going to spank me!"

"What!" gasped the astonished minister. "Are you eager to have your mother spank you that you run home so fast?"

"No," shouted the boy over his shoulder, as he resumed his homeward flight, "but if I don't get there before pa, he'll do it!"—Pittsburgh Christian Advocate.

WILL INSTALL APPARATUS TO PATROL LINES

Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. To Make Salisbury Toll Center.

NEW TESTING BOARD SCIENTIFIC MARVEL

Enables Testmen at Central Desk to Locate "Dead" Lines Miles Away—Will Patrol Network of Communication Over Entire Shore—$13, 150 For New Equipment.

Extensive improvements to be made at the Salisbury central office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company include the installation of special apparatus, one of the marvels of modern science, that will effectively patrol the long distance lines connecting every town and village of the Eastern Shore.

An appropriation of $13,150 has been made by the company for new equipment, and the order placed for its manufacture.

A toll testing board will be installed, to which will be connected every toll line and Morse telegraph circuit of the company's system in Salisbury, and through which can be reached every other toll line that keeps the Eastern Shore in communication with the rest of the world.

It will be possible for testmen sitting at this board to determine the exact location of any trouble, or breaks in the lines extending in all directions from Salisbury, and for that matter, in all the lines connecting other towns of the Shore.

Should a line go "dead" miles away from Salisbury, in a remote country section or swamp, the testmen, by means of their electrical testing devices attached to the board and connected to the lines, can within a few moments locate the trouble, and dispatch repairmen to virtually the exact pole where it occurred. This reduces to a minimum the time in which lines are in trouble, since it is unnecessary for linemen to hunt for the source.

The testmen not only will virtually patrol the wires that form a network of communication over all the Eastern Shore counties, but will keep watch over 20 "phantom" lines, which are distinct circuits made possible by using wires that carry other conversations at the same time. Morse telegraph circuits also will be connected to the board, among them a number of lines that can transmit telephone and telegraph messages at the same time, without either interfering with the other.

The company also will install a new wire chief's desk, embracing all the latest improvements and replacing a board which has been in use a number of years. At this board all the tests on lines serving Salisbury will be made.

The additions are being made to the Salisbury office as one of the steps in the telephone company's policy to install the latest improvements wherever practicable. The installations will be made as soon as the equipment is manufactured. It will probably go into service early next year.

KIDS WITH ROTARIANS SCORE AT GORDY PARK

Cheering of 150 Lusty-Lunged Youngsters Last Thursday Signaled Victory of White Clouds.

Rotary Day at Gordy Park was a huge success and more than a thousand fans were present to watch the White Clouds halt the Pocomoke Salamanders 5-1 after their little manager Ducky Davis had led them through four straight contests in victorious fashion. 150 lusty-lunged youngsters occupied the grandstand as guests of the local rotarians and rocked the stands with a din and roar that made one imagine he was present at some wild west show where the Indians and cowboys were staging a real battle.

Undoubtedly the kids had the times of their young lives for at the beginning horns and other noise-making devices were passed out which were immediately brought into play by these zealous cohorts of the White Clouds. And whenever their "whistles" went dry, coca cola was the refreshing stimulant and the signal again given for a fresh outbreak.

Aware of this tremendous support given them by the cheering sections the White Clouds went about their slaughter of the Salamanders in cold-blooded fashion and a goose-egg was hung up opposite the word Pocomoke on Waller Williams' new scoreboard in left field while the numeral 4 conspicuously marked the sign Salisbury.

The game was one of the best witnessed on the local diamond this season, six lightning fast double plays checking the fighting spirits and scoring activities of both teams during intervals throughout the contest. There was a large delegation of Pocomoke Rotarians present for the afternoon's fracas who were later to be the guests of the local club at its evening supper. It was a gala day for all, and one little urchin expressed the sentiment of many when he blurted out, "Gee-whiz they ought to hold these ere occasions every week."

EXCURSION FOR WEST SHORE PEOPLE AUG. 23

Northern Neck Citizens Will Have Chance of Visiting This Section During Fair Week.

In order that the people of the Western Shore of Virginia may have a good opportunity of becoming better acquainted with the Eastern Shore, the officials of the B. C. & A. and the M. D. & V. Railroad Companies have arranged to run an excursion from the Western Shore to Salisbury during fair week.

The steamer will leave points on the Potomac River on Wednesday, Aug. 23, and will pick up excursionists at Kilmarnock and Reedville. The fare for the round trip is only $3.50 and allows a stop-over of three days at Salisbury. Tickets are good from any wharf at which the steamer touches.

By way of making the trip worth while to the Northern Neck people who take advantage of the low excursion rates, the local commercial authorities will endeavor to have the visitors examine the farm products exhibits especially and it is probable that good methods of packing produce will also be demonstrated.

It is planned later to run excursions from Salisbury to the Western Shore, probably during fair week at Kilmarnock. If these trips can be arranged, many Salisburyans will take advantage of them because the beauties of the trip cross the Bay and up the winding Virginia rivers have been well advertised in this community.

SISK FLINGS HAT IN RING FOR CONGRESS

Prominent Caroline Business Man Comes Out On "Wet" Platform.

THINKS PROHIBITION LEADS TO DEBAUCHERY

Colonel A. W. Sisk of Preston States He Has Carefully Studied Present Prohibition Statutes and Is Convinced Something Radical Must Be Done To Save Boys and Girls.

In opposition to the candidates already in the field, Colonel A. W. Sisk of Caroline County has announced that he will enter the race for the Democratic nomination to the House of Representatives. Colonel Sisk is well known on the Eastern Shore as a successful business man and his advice is sought in many business ventures. In addition to his business friends, he has a host of personal friends who have been urging him to fling his hat in the ring and have assisted him of their hearty support.

Colonel Sisk comes out on a "wet" platform because he believes the present prohibition system does not prohibit but rather debauches. His theory is one of Governmental manufacture, supervision, regulation and sale and under such a system as he proposes, Colonel Sisk thinks that lawlessness and corruption would cease.

"Allowing the present Volstead Act to remain in force means the perpetuation of bootlegging," says the Colonel in his formal statement, and after 12 months of close and careful study of the situation he is convinced that something must be done. He is opposed to the saloon in any form, either stationary or peripatetic, and bases his claims to the nomination on the repeal of the Volstead law and the passage of some measure that will effectively deprive the individual of profits on the manufacture and sale of liquor. This, he believes, will automatically eliminate the bootlegger.

Colonel Sisk thus far is opposed in the fight by A. M. Jackson, of Salisbury, also a "wet," and Representative J. Allan Goldsborough who has proposed a "dry" platform on the Eastern Shore and particularly in Wicomico County. Mr. Goldsborough some months ago spoke here on the pending tariff legislation and convinced his hearers that he is a man of shrewd judgment and sagacity. What the present incumbent's platform will be has not yet been made public, but the fight in the First District promises to be a hot one.

Series Of Violent Thunderstorms With Severe Lightning Effects Wreak Havoc

Saturday Night's Deluge Of Rain And Hail Destructive To Crops—225 Tons Of Hay Lost When Barns Burn—Second Storm's Spectacular Electrical Discharges Keep Firemen Busy And Cripple City's Lights And Telephones.

Hurling torrents of water down upon the earth with unslashed fury, two terrific storms wreaked havoc in this section on Saturday and Monday nights. Heavy thunder and spectacular bolt lightning accompanied these deluges which rendered heretofore pronounced as severe as any experienced during the last decade or two.

Following close upon the heels of a hot and sultry day, the first storm broke loose about 7 o'clock Saturday evening and soon sent down its walls of water in alarming proportions upon the city's people and the outlying district's farm lands. In support of this cloudburst there came a violent hailstorm that showered its marble-like bits of ice down upon the city and country in wintry fashion.

Immediately telephone lines and electric lights went out of commission in Salisbury and during intermittent periods the residents were forced to move about in darkness and forego communication with other parties. The streets were veritable running rivers and the sharp electrical display caused the inhabitants no little fear.

One bolt descended at ground level in the rear of the Woolworth store on Main street but inflicted no serious damage.

Two barns on the Cottman farm near this city which belonged to Mr. W. S. Noek were struck by lightning about 8 o'clock and totally destroyed in spite of the tenant's efforts. Pappick's efforts to quell the flames, 115 tons of Timothy hay and 110 tons of alfalfa hay went up in smoke, a loss of about $12,000 being sustained by the owner. Part of this was covered by insurance. 40 tons of wheat straw and 350 empty truck barrels were also destroyed by the fire.

Sunday morning one was able to witness the extent of damage inflicted by the storm, which fortunately was not prevalent over the entire county in the same degree of violence. Certain localities were hit harder than others. In many places fields of corn had been cut to shreds by the driving hail and sweet potato vines lay beaten into the earth. Acres of the lower lands were totally submerged under lakes of water and tomatoes and catanpous were injured by the excessive wetness.

It is said by those in a position to know that the sweet potato crop is probably too far advanced to suffer any material setback and that the grain of the corn will likewise not be affected. However the latter will be difficult to harvest and the fodder will not be up to the usual standard. Mr. Lee Allen, who is a member of the Allen group, Salisbury's premier fruitgrowers, stated during an interview following the storm that their orchards had not been damaged in any considerable extent, and that heavy picking of the fruit would continue this week.

The section had not yet recovered from the effects of the above storm when a second one crashed its way through the black overhanging clouds on Monday night. However this tempest was devoid of the destructive hail-storms. This time the wrath of the wind, rain and fire gods asserted itself later in the evening, just about bedtime. But when the heavens did unloosen their elements of fury it was on an enormous scale.

Salisbury was figuratively rocked and torn by thunder and lightning. At exactly 11 o'clock a phantom-like line of fire swept through the electrically charged atmosphere and with a resounding crash set fire to the steeple of the St. Paul colored church on E. Church street. Through a driving rain three trucks of the fire department responded, and after a short struggle, the blaze was got under control with the aid of the aerial ladder that enabled the firefighters to batter their way into the top part of the steeple and pour a stream of water down on the flames.

The cost of replacing the tower will probably amount to about $1000. Other parts of the House of Worship were not burnt and the auditorium was kept free of water. While the entire force of the fire department was engaged in checking this outbreak another alarm was sent in from the Camden District. Chief Davis quickly dispatched some reserves to the scene of the new outbreak and the extra pump was rushed from the station house to Camden avenue near the city limits.

Lightning had struck the bungalow on Oak Hill avenue owned by Mrs. Alice C. Williams and rented by Mr. J. W. Billett. Mr. Billett was sitting in the parlor with his wife when a bolt of fire came down the kitchen chimney and seemingly exploded in the room with a blinding flash that sent out a dense and sickening smoke. Mr. Billett describes the action. Reviving his wife who had been stunned by the blow, he rushed into the bedroom and carried his baby to safety. By this time flames were leaping out of every corner.

The young man made his way to Camden avenue where Captain Price picked him up in his car and carried him to the fire station to sound the alarm. In the excitement this machine was struck and damaged by the reserve fire truck leaving the station. Neighbors near the scene of the fire carried for Mrs. Billett and child and also managed to get out of the burning structure practically all of the furniture. One man was seriously hurt when someone threw a victrola on him and he had to be carried to the hospital.

The fire had got such headway before the alarm was sounded that it was a hopeless task to save the bungalow and it burned down almost to the foundations. A loss of about $3,000 was partially covered by insurance. In both instances the firefighters did remarkable work and their efforts were cheered by hundreds of people attracted to the flaming areas.

It will be hardly possible to compute the exact amount of damage caused by this series of storms which have been couched among the worst ever visiting this part of the Peninsula. Besides the three fires, and loss to the crops, there were countless other disastrous effects. The Telephone Company reported that 71 subscriber's lines had been put out of order, together with 268 subscriber's stations and 30 of the long distance lines. The transformer of the Electric Light Company's plant at Ocean City was burned and White's grocery store at Cambridge was destroyed by fire. Reports of the havoc wreaked are continually coming in and conservative estimates are that the total losses will reach the $100,000 mark.

Boys At "Y" Have New Library Of 225 Books

Group of Business Men Makes Possible Library of Selected Volumes For Young Members.

Boys of the Young Men's Christian Association are now enjoying a new library that furnishes them with excellent reading material by all the modern boy story authors as well as by the old classic writers. This new library was made possible by a group of local business men who were interested in seeing to the fact that the boys were provided with the right kind of reading matter. It is composed of 225 volumes made up of books recommended for boys' libraries by the Boys' Department of the International "Y" Bureau in New York City.

The bookcase is placed in Secretary Hammerslough's private office. The information desk is now placed in the hall at the entrance through the main door. The books will not be allowed out of the building at present but it is possible that in the future plans may be worked out for a circulating library.

Next Friday will be "Ladies Day" at Gordy Park. That afternoon all ladies will be admitted free of charge to the park and grandstand. This surprise handed out to its patrons by the Salisbury Ball Club comes as the result of a full recognition by the management of the support that has been accorded the club by members of this city's fairer sex.

The ladies have certainly been ardent devotees of the sport and their loyalty to the team during the early days of stress and storm is to be greatly commended. Therefore as a token of appreciation to the ladies President Ruark has offered this innovation of a "Ladies Day."

Cambridge will be the opponent of the White Clouds and a worthy battle may be expected. It will be up to the male of the species to see that the "weaker sex" will be strongly represented at Gordy Park on Friday. Husbands, sweethearts, brothers and fathers are expected to help the movement for there are no better rooters than the women folks. The Salisbury Baseball Club "expects every man to do his duty."

STAR LAWN PARTY.

The Star Manufacturing Company's Employees' Protective Association will hold their first lawn party Saturday night, Aug. 19, 1922, corner Camden and Dock Streets. Every one is welcome.

UNLOADS BRICKS HERE.

Unloading her load of 25,000 bricks near the Camden Street bridge that was consigned to Morris and Pardee, the two masted schooner, Ella Strickland has left the Wicomico waters. She was from Planktank and was in charge of Skipper Soles.

MARDELA PARTY IN SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Tourists From Wicomico Town On Way To Philadelphia Injured When Machine Hits Motorcycle.

News was received at Mardela last Monday night of the accident which befell Mr. Nelson Miller and party on their way from Mardela to Philadelphia. Mr. Miller and wife and Mrs. Kate Venables and daughter, Helen, had been spending a week or two with relatives in town and on Saturday they started on their way home and took Mrs. Mollie Venables with them. They remained over night with Rev. and Mrs. W. N. Connaway at Wye Mills, leaving there Sunday afternoon.

Before reaching Centerville they were run into by a motorcycle and the car was completely demolished. All members of the party were rushed to the Emergency Hospital Easton for treatment. Mr. Miller received a sprained wrist while Mrs. Miller was badly shaken up and bruised. Mrs. Mollie Venables received a very bad cut on one limb and the veins were badly twisted and she was hurt severely in the chest.

Miss Helen Venables escaped injury but remained in the Hospital over night for observation. Miss Lena Venables left for Easton on Tuesday and will remain until the folks are able to leave the Hospital. Word was received on Sunday that the two Mrs. Venables are able to sit up a little while.

The candidate's purpose in visiting Salisbury was to get the preliminary organization under way. At the meeting on Monday night, E. Dale Adkins was chosen chairman of the county committee, while E. W. Townsend was selected as treasurer and William B. Tilghman, Jr., as secretary. This committee will be enlarged by the appointment of additional members both men and women, from each of the election districts.

The senatorial candidate spent Sunday at Ocean City where he held conferences with Republican leaders from all parts of the Shore. On Monday, he left on his itinerary which included Berlin, Snow Hill, Pocomoke City, Crisfield, Marion and Princess Anne. He spent the night in Salisbury and left the next morning for other points on the Shore where the process of organization will be carried out.

Mr. Garrett, who declares himself to be a 100 per cent. American and a 100 per cent. Republican, has come out in favor of a modification of the Volstead act so as to permit the manufacture, transportation and sale of light wines and beer, including cider and home-made wines, and many people think that this will give his campaign an added impetus which his trying to stem. With all the candidates either slightly moist or quite "soaked" it is difficult to determine the effect of the anti-prohibition plank.

With Mr. Garrett on his tour were Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Baker, Mr. Blanchard Randall, Miss Eeder of Frederick County, and Mr. Garner, state correspondent of the Baltimore News and American. While Mr. Garrett met here and talked with some forty or fifty influential Republicans from all sections of the County, the ladies of the party were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan F. Benjamin on Park street.

LOCAL INSURANCE MAN CAPTURES ALL HONORS

Mr. Albert M. Walls High Among Field Force With $142,000—Wins Toronto Trip.

Staging a last minute rally and whirlwind finish, Mr. Albert M. Walls, insurance agent in this city for the Continental Life Insurance Co., placed among all the other members of the field force in a spirited drive for new business during the months of June and July.

In attaining the top rung of the ladder in the contest, Mr. Walls secured the honor of representing his company at the International Association of Life Underwriters at Toronto, Aug. 22, 23 and 24. Mr. Walls has attended this conference on several other occasions and is a well-known figure among this group of prominent insurance officials.

The Wicomico agent had to extend himself to acquire the lead in the amount of business turned in during the past two months and it was only at the last count that he topped his nearest competitor, Arthur Cheyne. These two men were easily the leaders among the other 34 members of the field force who were also participants in the drive.

Mr. Walls secured $142,500 or $92,500 more than his allotment for the two months, while Mr. Cheyne secured $135,000 or $85,000 in excess of his allotment. The winner received congratulations from many sources for his splendid work and especially commendatory was the official letter from President Philip Burnett of the Continental Life Insurance Co., of Wilmington, Del. In it was also enclosed the Honor Roll Certificate for the month.

TO BUILD SCHOONER.

Salisbury's premier shipbuilders, Smith & Williams, have just been awarded a contract to build a two masted-auxiliary schooner for Mr. Keresky of New York City. The schooner will be a snug sailing craft that is to be used for pleasure purposes only by the owner. Work will commence at once and will be finished in about eight months.

RENOVATIONS COMPLETED.

Completely renovated has been the auditorium and gymnasium of the Young Men's Christian Association building. The ceiling and walls and woodwork have all been retouched and repainted and on the floors have been outlined the courts for basketball, volleyball and indoor baseball. The showers downstairs have also been repaired.

DECLARES HE IS IN FIGHT TO A FINISH

Only Way To Avoid Contest Is For France To Withdraw From The Race.

GARRETT'S SUPPORTERS ARE SURE OF VICTORY

Candidate For Republican Nomination For Senate Makes Tour On Eastern Shore To Organize Campaign. Says He Has Been Assured Everywhere Of Support. Wicomico Committee.

Asserting he is in the fight to the finish and that the only way a contest can be avoided is the Republican primaries this fall is by the withdrawal of Senator France, Mr. John W. Garrett on Monday night assured a group of party leaders in Wicomico County that in his tour of the State he has found a majority of the people with him and that he is confident of his ability to win the nomination over his opponent. Mr. Garrett amplified this statement by saying that Senator France has read himself out of the Republican party and that the party will no longer support him.

The candidate's purpose in visiting Salisbury was to get the preliminary organization under way. At the meeting on Monday night, E. Dale Adkins was chosen chairman of the county committee, while E. W. Townsend was selected as treasurer and William B. Tilghman, Jr., as secretary. This committee will be enlarged by the appointment of additional members both men and women, from each of the election districts.

The senatorial candidate spent Sunday at Ocean City where he held conferences with Republican leaders from all parts of the Shore. On Monday, he left on his itinerary which included Berlin, Snow Hill, Pocomoke City, Crisfield, Marion and Princess Anne. He spent the night in Salisbury and left the next morning for other points on the Shore where the process of organization will be carried out.

MOSQUITO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR INQUIRY

Investigation Of Public Health Of County Caused By Malaria Pests.

MEDICAL MEN ARRIVE TO STUDY CONDITIONS

John Hopkins Expert And State Health Officer Will Map Out Plans For Destruction Of Malaria Mosquitoes Which Are Responsible For Prevalence Of Sickness Here.

Mayor W. Arthur Kennerly, the members of the City Council, members of the Board of County Commissioners, Dr. Robert Fulton of the State Board of Health, Dr. Francis M. Root of Johns Hopkins, and Mr. L. O. Taintor, have been invited to attend the meeting of the Rotary Club on Thursday evening at which time the malaria situation here will be thoroughly discussed. It is understood that all those who have been invited to attend will be present.

Dr. Root is associate in medical entomology at the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health and came here Wednesday to study measures for the destruction of malaria mosquitoes which are responsible for the prevalence of malaria in this section. He plans to make a survey particularly with regard to new and recurrent cases.

Dr. Fulton is here in the interests of public health. The State provides no funds for remedial measures, but the recommendations of the investigators will be made to the Mayor and Council and to the County officials whose responsibility is to take whatever steps may be necessary to safeguard the public. Talks on health conditions here will probably be made by Doctors Dick, Fulton and Root at the Rotary meeting.

Following Rotary Day at the ball park, on which occasion all boys in the community under fifteen years of age were guests of the Rotarians, the club members gathered at the Y. M. C. A. with their guests and had a rousing meeting. The Dover and Pocomoke Clubs were present in force and several members of each organization were called upon for short talks.

One of the interesting features of the meeting was a talk by E. H. Burt of Toledo, Ohio, who is walking around the United States. He is accompanied by E. D. Jonkers of New York. The speaker told something of his travels and his purpose in starting out on the long hike. The talk was quite interesting.

T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH THROWS HAT INTO RING

On August 5th, Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough filed his certificate for renomination for Congress with the Board of Election Supervisors in each of the nine counties of the First Congressional District.

Mr. Goldsborough made no statement other than that he had attended to the duties of his office to the limit of his ability and felt that his party would accord him the customary renomination without opposition.

TO BUILD SCHOONER.

Salisbury's premier shipbuilders, Smith & Williams, have just been awarded a contract to build a two masted-auxiliary schooner for Mr. Keresky of New York City. The schooner will be a snug sailing craft that is to be used for pleasure purposes only by the owner. Work will commence at once and will be finished in about eight months.

Comment of County Agent Cobb On Agricultural Happenings

There are many reasons given to explain the firing of corn and which is the real reason is hard to say. Corn yellow very often when the potash content of the soil is low and it also yellow when the soil is present. Another cause, in addition to the above and the many more popular reasons for firing, is corn root rot. This disease is the same one that is known as wheat blight or smut. The wheat plant is affected and the small yields of wheat this year, in many cases, are due to the presence of this disease. About tasseling time firing is often noticed on the lower blades when this disease is present. Cultivating every other row will have no beneficial effect. Selection of seed and rotation are the two most practicable ways of holding it in check. We have assisted many of our farmers in their selection of seed corn this year and we also have several demonstrations over the county where selected and unsalted seed are being grown on the same farm on a test or what we call a demonstration.

Jim Smith is going to treat his watermelons before shipping this year. For several years now the melons have decayed in transit, especially at the stem end, and we have been able to get Jim to use the blue-stone treatment this year. This treatment is used to a large extent in the watermelon sections and has given fine results. The stems will be cut long when harvested and loaded they will be cut again and treated with a Bordeaux mixture. Commercial Bordeaux paste, which may be brought at any of our hardware stores, will be used and will be thinned down with water until about the thickness of paint. It will be applied to the cut end of the stems with a brush. We will not try the Bordeaux Starch paste this year as we think this Bordeaux mixture will give as good results at less labor.

We are mighty glad to see our friend "Jimmy" Shields on the job once more. No fun to be sick especially in the summer and we sure hope that he won't see fit to become ill again.

The usual number of summer widowers are with us again and it is a pathetic sight to see them congregated at the "eating" places or at George's and elsewhere along the street. Yes, we are a member of this club. The membership was increased last week by the addition of Dr. J. "Moose" Carpenter.

The boys and girls are getting interested in the prizes to be awarded at the County Fair. There seems to be some confusion in some minds as to which Fair we mean. These prizes are to be awarded at the County Fair held at the Fair Grounds and not at the Community Fair which is usually held at the Armory in November. There will be prizes at the Community Fair also but the $400 in prize money that we spoke of is given by the Salisbury Fair Association and will be awarded at their Fair which will be held the week of August 22, 1922. At least 12 different articles produced on the farm including hay, grains, vegetables, fruits, etc., will be required from the boys while a like number of jellies, jams, pickles, breads, etc., will be required from the girls. Sewing and allied articles will not be allowed to compete for these prizes. The prizes are $100, $50, $30 and $20.

Hog cholera has broken out in Hebron and it behooves every hog owner in that section to watch out for the disease. Vaccination is the best and perhaps only preventive that can save the animal, not treated. But be sure that the person doing the vaccinating is using the proper amount of serum. Pills or other so called remedies are only "sucker bait" and have no more effect on hog cholera than they would have on hay fever. Serum costs money and no man can vaccinate a good sized hog for five cents as was being done. Neither should the farmer or hog raiser pay any exorbitant fee for his service. Read the notice in this issue by Mr. McLaughlin, of the cases of hog cholera and follow the right method of dealing with this disease rather than using fake medicine, pills and other so called remedies which are not only worthless but may prove injurious.

We were down in the Quantico section the other day among some real tomato growers and farmers. Admitting that the land or soil is better in some other sections of the county we must also admit that many of the growers seem to know how to grow tomatoes that are tomatoes. A. B. Phillips has some mighty fine looking patches and if nothing happens between now and when he should get a very good yield. Another thing that we have noticed about Mr. Phillips is that whenever he notices any disease or insect in his crops that he does not know he does not wait for Providence or some other agency to handle the situation for him but gets in touch with some one at once who can tell him the nature of the disease or insect and the remedy if there is one. This is the age of specialists, apparently, and no one should feel ashamed or backward in calling to his or her assistance some one who knows how to handle the situation at hand.

We were somewhat ashamed of our selves and others one day last week. While we were eating breakfast in one of our local restaurants a traveling man at an adjacent table asked the waiter if they had any good cantaloupes. The waiter assured him that they had and what was more they were home grown. The riddle is very easily solved but for the benefit of those who may be somewhat are 97,200 deaths each year in this country due to malaria and intestinal diseases, spread by insect carriers, continues the same "authority." And while in the whole Spanish War only 300 men were killed by Spanish bullets, 5,000 died of fly-borne diseases. Yet the great majority of insects are either harmless or beneficial to man. Although it is possible to determine the damage done by insects, it is impossible to calculate the benefits they confer. Practically no fruits could be formed without the blossom-pollinating aid of insects, and in the production of a harvest, insects, especially bees, of course, dwarf into insignificance all modern implements of husbandry. It would be impossible to get a single crop of red clover without the aid of insects, and the present scarcity of bumble bees, who usually perform this service, is making itself felt in the smaller crops and lower vitality of the clover seed. Their importance in this connection was realized in Australia and the Philippine Islands, which imported bumble bees for the sake of their clover crops. Flies could not be successfully grown in this country until a fly-pollinating insect was imported from the Mediterranean countries.

Speaking of lopez we remember the one paragraph of our notes in a late issue started off by saying that "cantaloupe prospects look bright" while at that particular time the prospects looked everything else but bright. Those notes were written two weeks before they were published and any blame must be at the editor, the editor, proof reader or the person who allowed that statement to get by.

STATISTICS OF CENSUS GIVE VALUES OF FARMS

Average Value of Land and Building Per Acre on Farms in 1920 Was $70.94.

The average value of land and building per acre of land in farms in the United States in 1920 was $70.94, as compared with $39.60 in 1910, says The World Almanac in its summary of the latest Federal Census.

The average value of land and buildings per farm for the United States as a whole in 1920 was $10,514, as compared with $5,471 in 1910. The value of implements and machinery per farm in 1920 was $568, as against $199 in 1910.

The average value of a farm in New York State in 1920 was $9,879, as against $6,722 in 1910; in New Jersey, $10,499 ($7,610 in 1910); in Pennsylvania, $8,550 ($5,715 in 1910). In the census reports a distinction is made between farmers operating their own land only and farmers who hire some land in addition to that which they own. The former are classified as "full owners" and the latter as "part owners." The value of farms operated by full owners in 1920 was $30,717,493,565 and of those operated by part owners, $9,158,810,001. The corresponding figures for 1910 were: Full owners $17,310,639,016, and part owners $5,055,295,262.

FARM MORTGAGES IN U. S. Number of farms reporting mortgage debt (1920), 1,183,878 (1910), 1,006,511, according to The World Almanac.

Value of mortgaged land and buildings (1920), $13,772,729,610; (1910), $6,330,236,951.

The percent of increase in value of mortgaged land and buildings, 1910 to 1920, was 117.6.

The total number of farms operated by their owners in the United States on Jan. 1, 1920, according to the Fourteenth Census, was 3,925,690. Of this number it is estimated that 1,611,378, or more than 41 per cent, were mortgaged and 2,313,712 were free from mortgage.

In 1910 there were 3,948,722 farms operated by their owners. Of this number 1,327,439, or 33.6 per cent, were mortgaged and 2,621,283 free from mortgage.

In New York State, of 151,717 farms operated by owners, 75,522 are free from mortgage.

desert and Death Valley, all of which are in California.

The deserts of the United States are not mere level wastes of sand. Included within them are lofty mountain ranges, deep and gloomy canyons, pinnacles and "sinks"—i. e., depressions and considerably below sea level.

Death Valley is in Southeastern California, near the Nevada boundary. It is the deepest depression in the United States—28 ft. below sea level in one place—though Mount Whitney (14,501 ft.), the highest point in this country, is only 100 miles away. The center of the valley is 280 miles by road from Los Angeles.

Up to recent years the only permanent inhabitants of the valley were a few Indians. But in 1892 a white men's settlement was established there by a borax company and a tract of 5 acres at the eastern edge was irrigated with water brought from near by in the Furnace Mountains.

The water comes from springs, at a temperature of 100 degrees, maintaining throughout the years the flow of a small stream called Furnace Creek.

The creek got its name from the fact that it flowed into a depression where the air was so hot as to suggest a blast from a furnace. A ranch is now maintained near there, chiefly to furnish food for the borax miners. The contrast between its green fields and the surrounding brown desert is very striking to the eye. Four crops of alfalfa are raised annually. The principal product of the ranch is dressed meat, but experiments are being made with poultry, vegetables, dates and citrus fruits.

Hardly any rain falls in the valley. Clouds rarely obscure the sun and the sands and rocks are so highly heated during the long summer days that they do not get a chance to cool in the night time. There is almost no moisture in the air and hence evaporation is so rapid that one feels thirsty all the time.

Animal life in the valley is represented chiefly by jack rabbits, kangaroo, rats, rattlesnakes, horned toads, desert turtles, lizards and scorpions. Insects are abundant. Flocks of migrating birds often stop at the ranch for drink and food.

The geography books of a generation ago had maps on which the "great American desert" covered all the territory between the Missouri river and the Sierra-Cascade Mountain range. As a matter of fact, the only true extensive deserts in the country are in Southeast California, Southern Nevada and Western Arizona. The most conspicuous and hopeless wastes are the Colorado desert, the Mojave

AN INTOLERABLE TAX.

A partial survey of the banks, department stores, and industrial plants of the city, with a view to ascertaining economic losses due to malaria fever was made last week by The News and a number of vitally interesting facts were brought to light.

We know already, from the health records of Salisbury, what a drain on the community malaria fever has been. People have from time to time estimated in dollars and cents what the malaria mosquito costs the citizens of this community but heretofore no steps have been taken to verify those estimates. It is hoped that the facts given here will, to some extent at least, convince the business people particularly that their monetary loss every year aggregates a considerable sum that if expended in prevention of malaria would add to the health and wealth of the community.

Out of 205 individuals interviewed, 43 have had malaria this year, and of the 43 victims, 28 were forced to stay in bed for one or more working days with a consequent loss of time from their work and with a further loss in time and money to their employers. The total number of working days irrevocably lost so far this year is 132 1/2. For these lost days, Salisbury employers have paid out $442. This represents an actual financial loss because the sum mentioned was actually paid out on the pay rolls. Decreased productivity due to the employee's absence from work can only be estimated, but every employer can realize readily what that loss has been in his own case.

In one corporation last year the head of one of the departments was ill and unable to work for several months. During this time, his firm paid out $1100 for his services. Had he been able to continue at work, he would have been worth several times this amount to his firm but as it was his illness caused a distinct loss to the corporation. In another case, malaria lowered the efficiency of a large force by 25% at a conservative estimate. Translate this lost efficiency into dollars and cents and you will gain some idea of what Salisbury is paying for its stagnant pools of mosquito-infested water.

There is hardly a family in this city that does not, at some time during the year, purchase quinine or chill tonic. The money expended for these remedies would probably be more than enough to effect permanent prevention of malaria. Finally, the loss thru malaria fever of well-being, of health, of good spirits, of fitness, of efficiency, is utterly incalculable.

The remedy is obtainable. The State Department of Health has pointed the way to prevention. The law designates the Mayor and City Council as the municipal Health Department, charged with the responsibility alike for remedial and preventive measures. The intolerable malaria tax has been imposed upon the people of this city long enough. If the citizens insist upon its repeal, it will be repealed. And if the business men of the community will conduct a small survey among their own employees to determine their losses due to malaria, there is not the slightest doubt that the insistence will be forthcoming and forthcoming in a hurry.

ON THE RIGHT PATH.

In an adjacent column appears in full a very timely and interesting letter from Mr. Benjamin A. Johnson, a prominent member of the local Bar, who suggests that the Mayor of Salisbury call a mass meeting of the people of Wicomico County and place before them the subject of a memorial to the men from this County who, in the terrible days of 1917 and 1918, laid down their lives for their fellow countrymen.

Mr. Johnson suggests that the logical method of obtaining this memorial is first to call the meeting, lay before the people the various plans for a memorial that have been advanced from time to time, and then, after a full and careful discussion, vote on the type that is believed will best express the idea of the community's gratitude and appreciation. The vote once recorded, every man, woman and child should work in hearty sympathy with the expressed will of the majority.

Let us urge Mayor Kennerly to call this meeting at an early date. In the meantime, let those who have advanced ideas for memorials of various kinds arrive at some estimate of the cost of the memorial suggested. This will establish a working basis and then the real drive for cash subscriptions can be started. It is absolutely imperative that the kind of memorial be first chosen and its cost estimated before work can start. Otherwise, we would be working in the dark for any goal that might be reached whereas the goal should be distinctly designated and the people should not cease their efforts until that goal is reached.

If we are ever to erect in this County a memorial worthy of the men in whose honor it is raised, now is certainly the accepted time. The subject is stirring in many hearts; our heroes have been too long neglected; the good name of the County is almost at stake. Call the meeting, Mr. Mayor, and let us get under way.

THE PATH OF DUTY.

Within a few days, the members of the Department of Maryland, American Legion, will gather in Ocean City for their annual convention. Unofficially, the delegates and other members will be the guests of the Eastern Shore Posts and as such will look to the Shore Posts for a certain amount of entertainment. This is an excellent opportunity for the Posts on the hospitable Eastern Shore to exhibit their famous hospitality and there is little doubt they will do so. To do aught else would be to prove themselves derelict in duty.

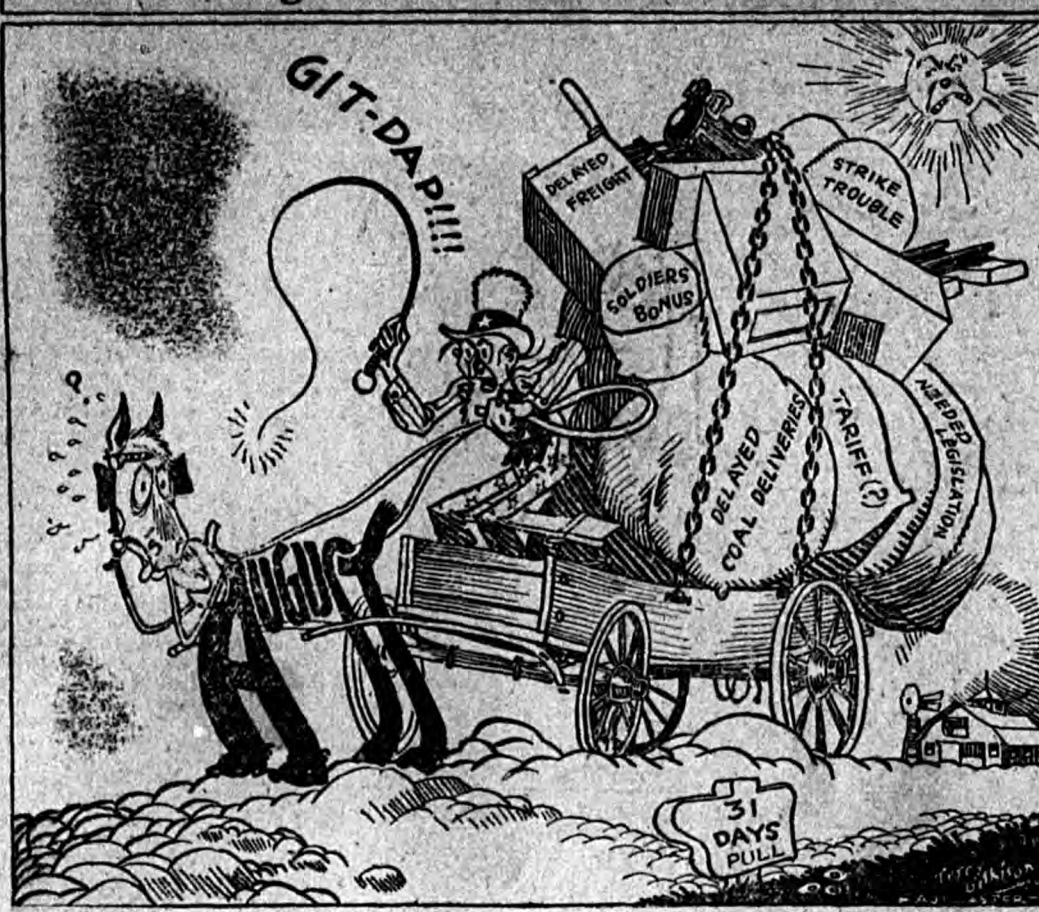

Of more importance, however, than the entertainment of delegates is the formation by all the legionnaires of some constructive program for the coming year. There is much to be done along the lines of education, hospitalization, Americanization, and we hope the Legion will face these problems with careful consideration and attack them with unlimited energy. The sooner the legionnaires take the "ex" out of "ex-service" and constitute themselves an organized body working untiringly for the welfare of the State, the sooner will they gain full recognition from the people among whom they dwell.

To carry out a program of real accomplishment, energetic, competent, broad-minded officers are necessary. The delegates to the State Convention owe it to themselves, to their Posts, and to their State, to select as their official head for the ensuing twelve months a man strong and capable, broad-gauge and sympathetic, far-seeing and tireless, a man behind whom the Legion will line up as a unit, and supporting whom they will put through a fine constructive program.

The eyes of Maryland will be on Ocean City during the last few days of August and the public at large will be glad to see the delegates lay aside petty jealousies of every nature and elect a man of whom all will be proud.

Now the Senate proposes to investigate itself. Auto-investigation thus takes precedence over ultra-in-(come)-tax-ication.

Perhaps one attraction at Ocean City is the nautical costumes.

HOT DAYS—HERE AND THERE

We sizzle in the livin' room, an' smother on the porch. Old Sol is mighty reckless with his pesky little torch! But soon we'll roll from under, an' there'll be the twilight breeze, till we set around an' wonder if there's better days than these. . . .

A feller ort to think about the everlastin' flame, in the pit that's so infernal, that I hate to write its name.—But they tell us it is real, an' we got to run the chance of payin' fer our meanness, where they wear asbestos pants!

It's foolishness to grumble when the sun's a little hot, with nothin' wuss to bother, than to hunt a cooler spot—while we face a possibility that's likely to occur, of sweatin' on, ferever, in the place we're headed fer. . . .

So—we better be contented with the tan that's on our hide.—it beats the conflagration where they serve a feller—fried! An' I had ruther linger where the weather's apt to change, than to settle down fer ages, to a deathless cookin'-range!

For Uncle John's

Deplores Wicomico County's Apathetic Treatment of War Memorial and Suggests That The Mayor Call A Public Meeting at Once When Memorial Form Could Be Settled.

To the Editor of The News—Sir:

I have read with interest your editorial in today's issue of your paper in which, in common with what is hoped to be the sentiment of all our people, you deeply deplore the fact that Wicomico County has attained no tangible results commemorative of the valor and patriotism of our World War heroes. In this connection I am forcibly reminded that about June 20, 1918, word was received of the death of Lloyd R. Coulbourn, of this County, who valiantly perished in defense of his country. He was the first Wicomico boy to make the supreme sacrifice.

I had known this boy from an infant and took it upon myself on July 1 of the same year to write the then editors of your publication suggesting that they undertake to receive subscriptions from our citizens in amounts of one dollar each, the fund so realized to be used in the erection of a monument to the Coulbourn boy and all others from our county who thereafter saw service or made such a sacrifice. It was suggested the contributions be made so low in order that everyone might be permitted to subscribe to the fund on an equal basis with all others. I enclosed my check with that letter. Your editors for some time earnestly devoted themselves to the task of raising such a fund. Later on, as everyone knows, attention from the general object was diverted to endless discussion as to what form of monument should be erected.

It was soon found there was no dirt of suggestion and they varied from making flower beds along our State highway to a comfort station in the City of Salisbury. Result: A matter in which everyone must have felt a deep interest was side-tracked upon a mere detail and discussed to death on the siding. Under such circumstances, it was inevitable that, in view of so many conflicting ideas all agitation must cease until some self-interest had banished; all discussion must die, thus giving place later on for those finer, nobler and unselfish qualities of our citizens to assert themselves and push forward the central idea until something was actually accomplished. Such an opportunity is now upon us.

It is my suggestion that our Mayor call a public meeting at the Court House at once and that in addition to the public in general, he call it especially to the attention of all civic and commercial organizations of the City and County. Their counsel and cooperation are needed. Let there be a full and frank discussion of any form of memorial which is suggested, put the matter to a vote and stand by whatever a majority in attendance vote for. This being decided, let a committee be appointed to ascertain its cost and collect subscriptions throughout the county until every dollar's worth shall have been paid for. The above plan would seem to be the simple, logical and entirely democratic. Therefore, in justice to ourselves, let this matter be begun and finished promptly.

Yours truly,
BENJ. A. JOHNSON.

Dr. J. T. Herson Suggests That The Form of a Memorial To The Soldiers Be First, Public Park, Second, City Library With Club Rooms For Boys.

Editor of The Wicomico News,

Sir:—I do very greatly appreciate the space given by your paper last week to subject of the Soldiers Memorial. I want to say "Thank you" two times—one is not just enough. I do not imagine for a moment that any man who wore the uniform and followed the flag in the recent war, will thank me a bit for calling attention to this subject again. I have talked with a number of our boys and they feel that Salisbury knows little and cares less about the record made by her own boys.

Never a finer crowd of fellows ever marched under a flag than left this county when Uncle Sam called. Their record is a matter of history and it ought to be taught in every school in the county. And let it not be forgotten that not one single stain of dishonor attached itself to any of our boys in all the days of that terrible strife.

To me this is not so much a question of honoring our boys, as it is a question of saving our own honor. Up to this moment Salisbury has played false to the spirit of every hymn sung, and every prayer offered on Main Street at the morning meetings. Maybe we were only posturing and never intended God to take us seriously, or maybe getting folks to Main Street at nine o'clock in the morning was an indirect way of encouraging the "do your shopping early in the morning."

We had some queer folks with us during the war, for instance, the man who saw only a chance to make money, and the man who was perfectly willing to lick Germany, if the other man's son did the fighting, and the man who while our boys were fighting and dying on the fields of France, and folks at home were skipping to use their money to help win the war, sent his measly little check that in all honor had to be returned to him, but thank Heaven we had thousands of folks willing to go all the way of sacrifice to win the war, and these same thousands are willing, if need be, to finance this Memorial if given the opportunity.

Let us decide first just what form this Memorial is to take. Give the people to know—how much money is needed. Have appointed a committee of five, who will direct the work of other District Committees. Make the subscription a popular one. Give the school girls and boys the opportunity and under proper direction they will every one earn and pay a dollar. Let others give as they can and there will be no hardship to any one of us.

I suggest one of two things: First, a public park which is just terribly needed, and which would provide playgrounds for the children for both summer and winter. In this park let some kind of shaft, or fountain or club house hold forever the name of every man who served from this county. Second, a real honest-to-goodness city library with club rooms for the boys. This can be made a real contribution to the life of this city and at the same time honor our heroes.

Let the folks be given a chance and they will put this thing across.
J. T. HERSON.

Battling Laborers Overturn Stove in Shack—One Rests in Hospital, Other in Jail.

Richard Lavell and John Mitchell engaged in a rumpus last Monday evening in the extra help shack belonging to the Salisbury Ice Co. and when the former hit his antagonist over the head with a copper pipe, a stove was overturned and flames immediately began to find their way all over the wooden building.

The fire department responded to the alarm at 6:30 o'clock and with the chemical wagon and two pumps on the scene soon checked the flames and prevented their spreading to more valuable property. The loss sustained was not great.

As a result of the fight, Lavell is in jail, having been arrested by Officers Cahall and Sullivan, while Mitchell is being cared for at the Peninsula Hospital. Both men were employed in loading ice for the Fruit Growers' Express Co. into the cars on the siding at the plant.

REGRETS THE ERROR.

In the issue of July 27th, The News stated in an item telling of the death of Mr. John S. Hastings in a Cambridge hospital, that the deceased was 67 years old and that his eldest son was Mr. Carl Hastings. His age should have been given as 72 and his oldest son's name as, Mr. Joseph C. Hastings.

VICTIM IN APHASIA CASE IS IDENTIFIED

Parents Take William Phoenix Back to West Chester, Pa.—Not a Wounded War Veteran.

Parents of the young aphasia victim being cared for by the local hospital authorities came down from their home in West Chester, Pa., last week and identified the patient as being their son, William Phoenix. The young man's mother and father learned through the papers of the unidentified individual, having been found here in Salisbury and immediately took steps to investigate.

Although well-dressed they had no funds with which to pay the hospital bills and the case had to be put down as a charity one. Phoenix was found in an unconscious condition after midnight Thursday, two weeks ago by Policeman O. S. Furniss and after a doctor had been summoned, he was taken over the Peninsula General Hospital.

There the young man told many conflicting stories, one of which was to the effect that he had been wounded overseas in the World War and therefore resulted these attacks. Because of his refined appearance and manners and sad story, the stranger's unfortunate condition aroused no little interest and sympathy here in Salisbury and the local Legion Post had him removed to the Y. M. C. A. pending investigation into his past, but a couple of attacks suffered there caused him to be moved back to the hospital.

The parents stated that he had always been a nervous boy and that the scalp wound on his head was the result of an operation for brain pressure and not the result of fight wounds received in France. He had never been away from home until three weeks ago when he ran away and disappeared, subsequently landing in Salisbury and remaining here until connections with former associations were established.

Both in the Swim—"My daughter sprang from a line of peers," said the ardent father.

"Well," said her father, "I jumped off a dock once myself."—The Naval Monthly.

DIED LAST SUNDAY IN WASHINGTON HOSPITAL

Lafayette Wimbrow Suddenly Succumbs Just When Recovery From Operation Seems Likely

Lafayette Wimbrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Wimbrow, of Wango, died suddenly last Sunday at the George Washington Hospital, following an operation for acute appendicitis. The patient had been taken to the hospital two weeks previous and on Wednesday, the 26th of July, was operated on by surgeons of the institution.

Reports of his recovery were very favorable and members of the family received with great shock the news of his death on Sunday. For everything pointed to his soon being out again. The young man was 25 years old and had spent the last four years in Washington.

During the war he was stationed part of the time in Baltimore and after the Armistice, when discharged, he started to learn the undertaking business and kept at this until about two months ago when the life of a traveling salesman appealed to him and he entered the field.

Funeral services were held in Washington first and then the body was brought home on Tuesday afternoon. The young man had many friends in Washington and was a member of Stuart Walcott, American Legion Post, there. Services were again held at the home of the unfortunate parents near Wango Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Dr. Hersons and the pastor of the Wango Church conducted them. The body was laid to rest in the family burying ground.

BETHESDA CHURCH OUTING.

The annual outing of the Bethesda M. E. Sunday School will be made to Ocean City Thursday, August 17th. A special train will leave Union Station at 10:00 A. M., returning from Ocean City in the evening at 8:30.

WILL DISCUSS POOL AT MEETING OF "Y" BOARD

A representative from the international bureau of the Association in New York City came down today to make a survey and his report on the matter will be read at this meeting.

NAVAL ACADEMY CLASS OF '81 VISITS JAPAN

Led by Senator Weller of Maryland
Members of Distinguished Group Hold Reunion in Orient.

Reports reaching Washington from Tokyo show that the visit of the U. S. Naval Academy Class of '81, led by Senator O. E. Weller, of Maryland, its president, has done everything predicted by those who sponsored the voyage. Despatches indicate that Japan regards the Naval Academy Class as an unofficial measure giving an opportunity to further cement the favorable ties created by President Harding and the work of the Armament Conference.

In 1877 the United States Government invited the Japanese Government to send to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, a representative young man of that country. The invitation was accepted. Mr. S. Uriu was selected by his government to come to Annapolis, and was graduated with the Class of '81. In June of last year Admiral Priu, accompanied by his wife, came from Tokyo to Washington, to attend the reunion of his class, and bring with him an invitation from the Mikado for the class to hold its next reunion in Japan, and to be the guests of that government during its sojourn. The invitation was accepted, the trip approved by President Harding, Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of the Navy Denby.

The famous Class of '81 reached Yokohama, aboard the U. S. S. Henderson, on July 2, and proceeded at once to Tokyo, where the Japanese government provided spacious quarters at the Imperial Hotel. They were in time to participate in a great celebration on July 4, as evidence of goodwill. The reports indicate that almost all of Japan joined the Americans in commemorating the history of the United States.

The class is headed by U. S. Senator O. E. Weller, of Maryland, who has been its president since graduation. The party is composed of 66 members, including such prominent men as Secretary of the Navy Denby, representing the Cabinet, Major Gen. George Barnett, ex-commandant, U. S. M. C., Brig. Gen. H. C. Haines, Co. C. M. Perkins, Rear Admiral J. A. Hoogeveerff, Capt. William H. Stayton, president of the Baltimore Steamship Co., Col. H. K. White, and others prominent in military and civil life.

A most elaborate program has been arranged, both by the Japanese officials and the class itself. The first of these took place on July 3. It was a luncheon given by Minister of Marine Uchida, (Secretary of the Navy), Uchida, at the beautiful Navy Club, in honor of the class and Secretary Denby, who, with his family, is accompanying the party. The American-Japan Society entertained at a banquet that evening.

U. S. Ambassador, Hon. Chas. B. Warren of Michigan, received the party at the Embassy in the afternoon of July 4. This was but a forerunner of the great, if not greatest, Fourth of July event of the year, 1922—the reunion banquet of '81. This event, while typically American, also savored of international diplomacy.

Senator O. E. Weller, of Maryland, as president of the class, presided at the banquet, and seated with him at the table were Secretary Denby, Ambassador Warren, U. S. Naval Attache Capt. Cotten, brother of Mr. Bruce Cotten, of Baltimore, Consul General George H. Scidmore, Admiral Uriu, Admiral Baron Kato, Premier of Japan, and head of the Japanese Delegation to the conference on the Limitation of Armament, Minister of Marine Uchida, the Japanese Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Japanese Ambassador to the United States, Baron Shidehara, and other prominent guests of the class.

The after dinner speeches clearly expressed the spirit of the times, the warm reception of the Japanese, the joy and honor of having so distinguished a gathering come across the Pacific for a reunion in their country, and on the part of the class, the honor and gratitude felt because of the privilege extended, the joy of meeting at the festive board, once more, and of dining over "their yesterdays". This was the greatest of all class functions.

JOHN T. LOWE
of Baltimore, a member of the Board of Directors of the Cooper Reunion Association.

tions, and its results will be recorded in the history of both Japan and the United States.

During the evening the ladies of the party were entertained at the Imperial Hotel, and later enjoyed a special performance by Japanese actors at the Imperial Theatre.

The afternoon of July 5 included an excursion trip to some of Tokyo's beauty spots, while the Minister of Foreign Affairs entertained at dinner in the evening.

A luncheon was given by the committee of the exposition, now being held in Tokyo, on July 6, and Ambassador Warren feted the party in the evening.

Of historic interest was the trip on July 7 to the monument erected by the Japanese at Kurihama, in honor of Commodore Matthew C. Perry, U. S. N., who broke Japan's "closed door" policy, and opened that country to the world on July 3, 1853. This excursion also included a visit to the Yokosuka Navy Yard, and to the enormous statue of Buddha, one of the sights of Japan. The day was closed with a dinner party given by the American-Japan Relations Association.

July 8, 9, 10 and 11 have been reserved for an audience with the Mikado at the Imperial Palace, for various functions there, including a garden party and for other festivities and excursions to be arranged by Senator Weller and Admiral Uriu.

The benefits of this expedition are now partially understood and appreciated in Japan and the United States but to the future must be left its complete realization. It is receiving great publicity in both Japanese and American papers and the Japanese Government has done everything within its power to make this a trip of international significance.

BEAUTY OF GARDENS ENHANCED BY ROSES

Many Types Offered To Attract Individual Tastes of Home Owners.

How many times have you looked through the pages of a catalogue, or at the beautifully colored plates of the nursery agent, and said to yourself, "I must have a rose garden this year—there is no reason why we can't have them just as well as the Smiths, or the Jones."

And of course there isn't any reason—except, in the first place, that you are very, very busy, just when they should be planted; and in the second, place that there are so many roses to choose from that you can't make up your mind what to plant.

There is, however, a good way of settling the latter problem. That is to pick out your roses now, while they are in bloom all around you. In your friends' gardens, in the public parks, in the trail grounds of florists and nurseries; you can find roses in bloom, at the height of their glory, this month; and the best way to select the variety you want for your own use, is to pick 'em out where they grow, side by side with other varieties, old and new. And once you have decided definitely what varieties you want to grow, you will find that that is really the hardest part of getting your own garden started. With a list of the sorts you want actually made out, the rest is easy! Therefore, resolve that this month you will see roses, and find out the names of the ones you would like to have for yourself.

Among the many roses that will attract your attention, as you look around, you will find several different types. It is really more important to learn the difference between these different types than to know a lot of different varieties by name.

For a regular "rose garden" the most desirable roses are the hardier "hybrid teas." These are also known as the "monthly" or "ever-blooming" roses. They are not really "ever-blooming," but they do have some blooms most of the time throughout the summer, and quite a "second crop" in the fall. Among these hybrid teas, you will find some beautiful new varieties, such as "Los Angeles," Willocomere, Mrs. S. K. Ringo, Rose Marie, Golden Ophelia.

Make a special effort to find some of these in bloom.

In addition to the regular "bush" or "garden" roses, however, you will find several other types, equally important.

You will notice for instance, some climbing roses that are absolutely different from the old kinds you used to know, like "Chimion Rambler" and "Dorothy Perkins." These new climbing roses have great big blooms, some of them as large as most of the garden roses, and borne on long, stiff, stems that are as good for cutting as any these roses you ever saw. Whether you have a regular "rose garden" or not, these fine new climbing roses you will want to plant around your house, climb arbors, or on fences.

They not only have glorious blooms but their foliage is always clean, bright and beautiful, in contrast to the dirty, milky appearance of the old Climion Rambler and other of that type. Among these beautiful new climbers you will find such sorts as Dr. Van Fleet, Climbing American Beauty, Silver Moon, American Pillar, Christine Wright, etc.

Another class you may not be familiar with, and which will undoubtedly attract your attention, is the "Baby Ramblers." These are little dwarf ground roses, which grow only a foot and a half or so high and which bloom not only in spring, but throughout the summer and fall. You will wonder how they can have so many flowers. And they are tough and hardy, and require practically no running—merely cutting out the old flower-stalks, and the oldest wood, once a year.

These splendid little roses are good for low hedges, along paths and for planting around the base of the house, either by themselves or in connection with other things. The first of these "baby" roses to make itself popular was the "Baby Climion Rambler" (Miss Norbert LaVasseur), but now there are a dozen other good ones.

"Wear-Ever" WINDSOR KETTLE

Heat the empty kettle over a low flame; sear the roast on all sides; then turn down the fire to a mere flicker. Turn the meat when half done. Thus a "Wear-Ever" kettle reduces both your fuel and meat bills.

Because of their wonderful durability "Wear-Ever" utensils save you money and the annoyance of continually buying new cooking utensils. Compare the price of a "Wear-Ever" kettle with that of the best enamel kettle of the same size. You will be surprised that "Wear-Ever" utensils can be bought so cheap.

Replace utensils that wear out with utensils that "Wear-Ever"

"Wear-Ever" utensils are made in one piece—without joint or seam—from thick, hard steel. They have no coating to chip or peel; no place for food to lodge—cannot rust—are pure and safe.

SALISBURY,

MARYLAND

A Corner In Sports On The Eastern Shore Of Maryland

Diamond Dust

Several releases and acquisitions have been made by the various clubs during the past week. Pocomoke let go three players. The hard-hitting Jap shortstop was gobbled up by Crisfield and his teammate Wilson landed with Cambridge while Russey who had chalked up 6 straight wins on the mound, came to Salisbury. Duffy was released by Cambridge because the former Washington College star had fallen into a slump and he was immediately picked up by Salisbury where he filled in nicely gaps made open by sickness and injuries.

Crawling out of a disheartening batting slump, Bob Brown has jumped his average from the mark of .214 two weeks ago to the coveted .300 class. Manager Adams' reliable gardener is now hitting at a .310 clip.

With the ousting of the veteran Ryas from the manager's bench at Pocomoke, unanimous came the selection of Ducky Davis as the new leader. Ducky assumed the managerial reins, sacrificed three of his stars, Yap, Wilson and Bussey, in order that he might have more teamwork and less individual flash, and then proceeded to win four games in a row, being stopped by Salisbury last Thursday at Gordy Park in a game that was fought bitterly from the first to the last out. The former Oriole seems to have the right dope in that a club in order to make a creditable show-in this league must have a strong pitching staff including enough twirlers to work in turn without being called to mound duty too often.

President Miller appears to have secured a very creditable lot of umpires. Barring the unfortunate Crisfield and Cambridge episodes the work of these arbiters has not been seriously questioned and as a result the character of sport provided on the various diamonds has been clean and square.

It seems that the old "line" has been camping on the trail of the White Clouds for the past week. Several of the stars have been forced to forsake the afternoon tilts on account of injuries or sickness and consequently a patched-up lineup has been presented from day to day. First it was Wolfe, the third baseman who began to suffer with a severe case of rheumatic trouble in his legs. Then Manager Adams fell victim to the dreaded chills of malaria which have had the big southpaw in their throes for over a week. Brown was the next to succumb, sustaining an ankle in the game at Pocomoke last week and on Thursday, Bill Thompson had the middle finger of his left hand painfully knocked out of place when Davis, Pocomoke's scrappy catcher tagged him with the ball on a play at the plate.

The White Clouds are not what one would call a good "road club." Out of the last 15 games played the Clouds have annexed 8 and dropped 7. 6 of the latter victories have been chalked up at Gordy Park as contrasted with 2 gains on foreign fields. And this is practically a true criterion of the style of play throughout the whole season.

Look where you will on the six diamonds of the league and you won't find a pair of players that work as smoothly together as Warren and Kunesh of the local club. They are finished infielders and their work around the keystone station is of Class A variety. Thursday on Rotary Day, Salisbury was leading 3-0 and pitcher Roche was trying hard for a shut-out against his former teammate. With runners on first and third and one out in the eighth, things looked bad for the Clouds. McKnight spun a slow roller down between first and second. Kunesh came in fast, made a clean pick-up and whirled to make the throw to Warren at second who in turn got the ball off in time to beat the batsman to first. This checked a threatening rally and enabled the scorekeeper to credit Roche, who had twirled a fine game, with the coveted goose-egg sign on the Salamanders.

"Lefty" Hearn by winning Tuesday's tilt with the league leaders at Parkley ran his sensational string of unbroken victories up to 9. The popular little southpaw also added fame to his conquest over the Virginians by delivering a circuit smash from the plate, thus duplicating a former feat against Poke Whalen's charges.

Frantic efforts are being made by managers of the Cambridge, Pocomoke, Crisfield, Laurel and Salisbury clubs in the Eastern Shore League to bolster up the weak places in their line-ups, in an effort to overhaul Parkley, the league leaders. Many releases and acquisitions have been made within the past two weeks. Players turned loose by one club for various reasons have been quickly gobbled up by the others.

Perhaps the greatest sensational release was that of Yap, the Pocomoke star shortstop. He and "Skeet" Wilson, mates on the crack University of Delaware nine, last spring were let go by the Pocomoke management, which charged them with too much individual and flashy playing with no regard for teamwork. The hard-hitting Yap was immediately gobbled up by Crisfield while Wilson found a berth in right field on the Cambridge diamond.

Shepke, Parkley's pitching ace, violated some training rules and last week witnessed his advent in the box for Sam Frook's Blue Hens, of Laurel, Del. He made his debut at Salisbury Friday and lost his tilt because one of the four hits garnered off of his delivery was a circuit smash by Hart, Salisbury's reliable receiver, with three men on bases. Early, Laurel's centerfielder and pitcher, later made the longest hit on the local field when he lifted one of Hearn's shots 100 feet further than the left field fence. Laurel has considerably strengthened its infield with the release of Lloyd from the Waynesboro Club in the Blue Ridge League to its roster. Salisbury has secured Russey from Pocomoke, Duffy from Cambridge and Shiefer from Crisfield. Munda comes from Pennsylvania.

Among the new players appearing in the line-up of the various clubs are: Crisfield, Rockett, third base; Knowlton, pitcher and outer gardener; Paperman and McVey, pitchers; Pocomoke, Rothrock and Alexander, pitchers; Ryan, short stop; Sloan, second base and Krepps, right field; Cambridge, Staylor, catcher, Stansbury, pitcher and Robinson, right fielder.

In Sunday's papers there appeared an item stating that Sam Frook's resignation had been called for by the directors of the Laurel Club. The former Dry Dock's mentor was charged with deception in retaining a portion of the salary money which was supposed to be used in acquiring first class players. When called by long distance Wednesday morning Manager Frook stated that he had not resigned, holding as he did a season contract, and that furthermore the players in a meeting had expressed themselves as satisfied with all conditions.

Frantic efforts are being made by managers of the Cambridge, Pocomoke, Crisfield, Laurel and Salisbury clubs in the Eastern Shore League to bolster up the weak places in their line-ups, in an effort to overhaul Parkley, the league leaders. Many releases and acquisitions have been made within the past two weeks. Players turned loose by one club for various reasons have been quickly gobbled up by the others.

Perhaps the greatest sensational release was that of Yap, the Pocomoke star shortstop. He and "Skeet" Wilson, mates on the crack University of Delaware nine, last spring were let go by the Pocomoke management, which charged them with too much individual and flashy playing with no regard for teamwork. The hard-hitting Yap was immediately gobbled up by Crisfield while Wilson found a berth in right field on the Cambridge diamond.

Shepke, Parkley's pitching ace, violated some training rules and last

Many of the fans hated to see pitcher Mays, released. The sturdy right-hander had been with the club from the start of the season and never had hesitated to do more than his turn in the box. However, it seemed that whenever he mounted the turtle-back, then was the time when his teammates booted the ball in the field and he seldom ever got the support needed to turn in a win.

IN MEMORIAM.

JONES—In sad but loving remembrance of my dear sister, Blanche V. Jones, who died four months ago, Sunday, Aug. 7, 1922. Alas! did my dear sister die. How awful it must be. To bid all of her friends good-bye. Oh! it does seem hard to me.

But now her lifeless form lies here, Her spirit lives in heaven, And sees her vision, bright and clear, The God of life and love.

You have left me dear sister, Left me in this world of trial; But one day I'll meet you, sister, In that home up in the sky.

God called her home. It was his will, But in our hearts we love her still; Her memory is as dear today As the Sunday that she passed away.

Sleep on, my dear sister, And take your rest, For God has called you, To his home of bliss.

COOPER FAMILY STAGES REUNION AT OLD HOMESTEAD IN DELAWARE

Preentious Reception And Entertainment—Hundreds Present At Second Annual Gathering, Applaud Eulogies And Histories Of Noble Ancestors—Program Merits Praise.

The second annual reunion of the Cooper family was held at the residence of John S. Cooper, at Columbia, Del., on Thursday of last week, Aug. 3, 1922 and it was estimated that there were between seven and eight hundred people there during the day. The company began to assemble about nine o'clock and continued to arrive until the afternoon.

The first exercise was at eleven o'clock when the family and the guests who had arrived up to that time went to the family cemetery nearby and there decorated the graves of the deceased members of the family. After this the oration was delivered by L. Wesley Cooper, of Baltimore. Returning to the homestead, there followed greetings and a general social hour and then came lunch time. Most of the guests brought lunch with them, some ate on tables, some in automobiles and some with the host and hostess. Ample provision was made for those who did not take lunch and all were served and much was left.

Then followed the literary program, beginning by singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" after which the invocation was made by Rev. John T. Bailey.

MR. and MRS. JOHN S. COOPER, Reunion Host and Hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Cooper extended a cordial welcome to all. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper did all in their power to make every guest feel at home and all the home and its conveniences were given over to the guests.

Earl T. Cooper, secretary and treasurer read the minutes and gave a full report of the association. Rev. John T. Bailey, of Georgetown, took the place of L. Irving Politt, who was unable to be present, and delivered an address on "Family Ties" which was well received and much enjoyed. Then followed a recitation by Miss Emma Ralph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ralph, of Laurel, of "Rispa" by Tennyson, an effort that demonstrated great ability and was received with loud applause.

The history of the Cooper family was then read by L. T. Cooper. Hon. Robert G. Houston, an attorney of Georgetown, was introduced and delivered an address on "Reverence for Our Forefathers." He was master of the subject and received much applause. He related some interesting facts regarding the Cooper ancestry and their high standing in the State of Delaware and showed in a forceful manner how hereditary virtues were to be seen in successive generations, in all families. His address was interesting from several viewpoints and much applause followed. "Blessed Be The Tie That Binds" was sung.

Here the regular program was suspended and eulogies given on the recently deceased members of the family. Mrs. B. H. Phillips gave a very touching eulogy on the life and character of the late Levin T. Cooper of John, who died just previous to the first family reunion. She gave a splendid account of his beautiful life as it touched the home, the church and the community. She spoke very forcefully of his pure, clean life and nobility of character and the great loss sustained by the family and the community in his death. Those who knew him and heard her speak of the excellence of his character knew that his life had verified her eulogy.

Then followed Miss Addie Cooper who paid a high tribute to the life and character of Mrs. Adeline Owens who had died since the last reunion. She spoke of her labors and sacrifices for home and church and how her children were giving evidences of good home training by the splendid lives they were all leading as good Christian citizens, one Rev. Irving S. Owen, a prominent member of the Maryland Annual Conference and now filling the pulpit of Powellsville charge.

Mrs. L. B. Bradley was then introduced and spoke of the quiet home life of Mrs. Mary E. Waller a member of the family who had died during the war. She stated that the departed one had married twice and that her life had been one of sacrifice and work for the interest of her family, that she had been a good wife, a good mother and neighbor and had left her impress upon the family and community for good. Her Christian life was shown to have been the brightest in the home and in her devotion to her family.

Tom. William M. Cooper, of Salisbury, was next introduced and spoke at some length and with much emphasis upon the sterling character of the late Harrison Cooper who had died since the last reunion. Mr. Cooper spoke of the latter's honesty, his fidelity and his public spirit and the value of his life to his family, his community and to the country at large. It was brought out that he had reared a large family, all of whom were leading splendid lives in different communities and that he had been a man of enterprise and had achieved success in almost every side of life and that his death was a loss to all touched by his influence.

Following this were greetings, readings of letters from absent members of the family groups and especially the reading of the will of Mrs. Margaret Cooper, widow of William Cooper. Her husband died 40 years before her death and left a large family of children, but with her labors and economy she brought all to womanhood and manhood and left a good large estate to be divided among them at her death which occurred in 1864. It will be recalled that from her marriage to William Cooper about 1800, the exact date can not be found, there were born nine children and according to the family tree exhibited on the occasion of the reunion there have been nine hundred and forty-eight children, or seven generations within a little over one hundred years.

Hon. Rex Taylor, a prominent young lawyer of Salisbury, was next introduced and he delivered an address on "Our Aim." He spoke very positively on the aim of assembling the family together and of the perpetuity of this splendid institution, the Cooper Reunion Association, showing that it meant much to the family, present and future, to continue these annual meetings and that it should be the object of all to cooperate to make the occasion even greater than this. Miss Ruby Owens, recited a poem, "Down in Old Sussex County," that touched every Delawarean present and brought to mind so many of the good things that the county gives to life and happiness. The poem not only included the good things to eat in the fields and gardens but included the food animals of the woods and the products of the streams. She was greeted with loud applause and high commendation for her effort.

Ice water and lemonade was served

IMPRESSING THE JAPS

Secretary of Navy Denby went to the Orient on a peaceful mission, nevertheless, his stop in Japan did not fail to impress the little islanders. His great size was made more conspicuous as he walked through the palace grounds with Admiral Uriu. His wife is with him.

In abundance during the day. Before the field sports began, a large supply of Crane's block ice cream was distributed, and while this was being passed around, the ladies of the community, to the surprise of the guests, brought out some of the finest cake ever served at any gathering. When this was over a base ball game was arranged between the older and younger boys in fact the boys were lined up against the men, of age and experience. The base ball field was the seat of amusement for more than an hour and to those who enjoy that kind of sport it was filled with fun and laughter. This, the last event of the occasion, was followed next day by stiffness of joints, and soreness of limbs.

The guest of honor was Capt. Thomas W. H. White, of near Salisbury, who was present and enjoyed the occasion, the whole day through, at the age of 90 years on his last birthday. The next oldest man was George Robert Ellis, a guest of the occasion, and a Civil War veteran who was 84 on his last birthday. The present were Mrs. Margaret Heater Culver at the age of 80 years and Samuel Cooper a Civil War veteran at the age of 79 years. The youngest member of the Cooper family was George Edward Cooper, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cooper, of Sharptown, at the age of seven months. The youngster was baptized by Rev. George R. Donaldson, before the guests and seemed to enjoy the act.

The preparation for this occasion required time, labor and expense. The expense was met by voluntary contributions which were provided with perfect ease and but little effort. Mr. and Mrs. John S. Cooper, for setting their house in order for the reception of such an assemblage of people, deserve special mention, but when it comes to counting time and estimating labor Earl T. Cooper, the secretary, has to be credited in a very special manner. To investigate, with the "spokes" divided so as to include the products of the sons and daughters of William and Margaret Cooper covering seven generations and locate each so as to be seen at a glance and traced without an error from the "hub" to the "rim" required both labor and time and for this Mr. Cooper deserves special consideration; Mrs. Cooper and son Robert assisted in this in a way that should be and is appreciated. B. H. Phillips, chairman of the committee on entertainment, was untiring in his efforts and put in much time and work and to him especially is due the credit of pushing the essential preparation. Jos. P. Cooper who looked after the finances, assisted by John T. Lowe, of Baltimore, are entitled to much praise for their effort and Mr. Cooper especially in looking after the refreshments. There was perfect unity and concentration of effort on the part of all, which insured the complete success of the occasion.

SILAGE MIXTURES ARE GOOD FOR ALL STEERS

Best Gain Made in Tests of Department of Agricultural by Steers Fed on Straight Corn Silage.

To get results economically most cattle feeders should use some kind of silage in the ration, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Steers fed on silage usually not only make more economical gains, shrink less, and make more profits than steers fed on dry roughage, but also make it possible to utilize crops grown primarily in a rotation for restoring the fertility of worn-out lands.

The comparative value of a number of different silage crops for steer feeding was recently worked out by the department in cooperation with the Louisiana Experiment Station. In one instance similar lots of cattle were fed a ration of cottonseed meal and blackstrap molasses in combination with corn silage, and another lot with corn silage, corn and Biloxy soy-bean silage, and Japanese cane and Biloxy soy-bean silage.

The best gain was made by the steers fed the straight corn silage, but it was shown that the capacity of a farm for fattening or wintering cattle may be greatly increased by the use of heavy-yielding silage crops such as sorghum and Japanese cane. Immature Biloxy soy beans mixed with corn or sorghum were not so satisfactory, but with late-maturing crops like Japanese cane these soy gave very good results. Sorghum silage and Japanese cane and Biloxy soy-bean silage are practically equal in feeding value for steers when supplemented by cottonseed meal and molasses.

GIVES STOMACH REMEDY TO FELLOW SUFFERERS

Mrs. Smithy, Columbus, O., Gives Her Friends Quick Stomach Relief with Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules

The best proof of the value of any remedy is the readiness with which those who are helped by it recommend it to their friends. Those who have suffered of pains and tortures of indigestion and dyspepsia are quick to acknowledge the prompt relief given by a brief use of Jacques' Little Wonder capsules. To indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation. They are so grateful for the relief they have obtained they not only recommend this valuable stomach treatment, but in many instances buy the capsules to give to fellow sufferers. This is the case with Mrs. G. G. Smithy, 323 N. 11th St., Columbus, O., who writes: "Please find enclosed stamps for which send me two boxes Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules. I used them last summer in Pittsburg and they gave me such relief." A few days later Mrs. Smithy wrote again: "I received the two boxes of your Capsules and as I have several friends here who are bothered with their stomach I have given almost all my Capsules away for them to try; so send me two more boxes for which you will find stamps enclosed. Please send at once as I do not want to get out of them."

Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules relieve indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulence, catarrh of the stomach, acid stomach, biliousness, heartburn and heaviness and dizziness after eating. They are easy to take. Simply place one in your mouth and take a swallow of water. Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules are made of pure gelatin which promptly dissolves upon reaching the stomach, freeing the contents to do their work in restoring the digestive organs to normal.

On sale at Bennett's Pharmacy, Sharptown; or 60 cents by mail postpaid from Jacques Capsule Co., Pittsburg, N. Y. Adv't, 425.

Korean Wants To Reenlist.

Born in Korea, taken to Hawaii when a child without any trace of relatives, an honorable record in the United States army behind him, Ah Han Kook, a little brown man came into American Legion headquarters here the other day and declared his intention of "going back home" to the army.

"I was a dental officer's assistant in San Francisco," Kook private first class and specialist, medical department, said producing an honorable discharge to prove it. "The officer was Dr. H. C. Feyler, now of 822 Gay Street, Portsmouth. He asked me to come to see him when I got out of the army. He is in private practice now. So when my enlistment expired in San Francisco, I got on a train and went to Portsmouth. The officer said he would like to have me work for him. He treated me very good and I had a pleasant visit with him, but I got homesick. The army is the only home I know. I am a member of the American Legion, Schofield Barracks, H. T. Post No. 6, and I heard a lot about legion headquarters in Indianapolis, so I thought I would like to see them."

Kook was taken about the offices at Legion headquarters and the various phases of the work explained to him. Then this little brown man, now an American citizen, who first entered military service in the national guard of Hawaii in August, 1917, and continued the service through the national army and the regulars until May 28, 1922, departed for Fort Benjamin Harrison, at Indianapolis, to reenlist.

"Sure, he was homesick for the army," the recruiting officer at the fort said later over the telephone. "We welcome him back."

Designs Winning Poster.

Clarence Reeder, an erstwhile "top sergeant" who is also artist on a New Orleans newspaper, defeated 18 competitors in a contest for designs for a poster to advertise the American Legion national convention in New Orleans next October. The poster will be sent to all Legion Posts and will be displayed in railroad stations in all parts of the country.

Members of each branch of the service, navy and marine, are pictured in arm looking at a book labeled "New Orleans, the Paris of the U. S. A." A scene in the old French Quarter and the words "Oh, Buddy, Let's Go," with the announcement of the convention dates, Oct. 16-20 appears.

Bonus Not In Issue.

L. R. Baird, of Dickinson, N. D., State Senator and State finance officer of the American Legion, while on a visit to legion headquarters here issued a statement to show that adjusted compensation legislation is not a political issue in that State.

United States Senator P. J. McCumber, advocate of the adjusted compensation bill in Congress, was defeated for reelection on the Republican ticket because of local conditions, Lynn J. Frazier, the successful candidate, being also a supporter of the measure.

"Mr. Frazier signed the bill that provided the highest bonus of any State," Mr. Baird said. "As governor, he pushed and signed the measure that provided $75 a month for service men, the limit being $775. In Missouri the bonus was $10 a month." Baird said he believed that Senator McCumber's failure to take part in the local situation on the recall of the industrial commission in November, 1921, was the cause leading up to Frazier's success over him for the nomination. The industrial commissioner is composed of the governor, the attorney-general and the commissioner of agriculture. The adjusted compensation fight in Congress had nothing to do with the campaign, Baird declared.

Would Honor Mother.

Who is the American mother who had the greatest number of sons in the World War?

The American Legion Auxiliary, composed of the wives, mothers, daughters and sisters of legionnaires of the war, desires to have this mother's name and the records of her son's service, so that they may honor her.

An Indiana community has a mother who had seven sons in the service of the country during 1918—two in the navy and five in the Army. Several mothers in the Auxiliary have as many as five sons in the service, and two or three sons were not uncommonly found representative of one family.

But to the mother who had seven sons or more to give to her country is due great honor, and the American Legion Auxiliary national headquarters in Indianapolis is desirous of obtaining the name of this greatest of war mothers.

Pacific Arlington On Coast.

A Pacific Arlington is planned by the American Legion posts in Los Angeles county, Calif. A large plot, with space for 11,000 graves, has been acquired in Glendale cemetery. A fund has been set aside for a large monument and for the upkeep of this burying ground of the West coast's soldier dead.

Scale Mount Hood.

Ninety-nine members of the American Legion scaled Mount Hood at the Legion's second annual climb held July 16. A party of 249 participated in the base camp activities which began the afternoon before the climb. A pack mule, which succumbed to heart disease at an altitude of 9,000 ft. and plunged down the mountain into a deep crevasse, was the only casualty.

Mayor Fails To Stop Dance.

Because the mayor of Summer, Wash., could give no legitimate reason why the Summer American Legion should not give dance on the Main Street of the city, after he had strictly forbidden such frivolity, Legionnaires obtained a court writ restraining the mayor from interfering with the celebration. Citizens of the community and visitors form many nearby towns danced up and down Main Street in response to the Legion's invitation which read: "Dance with the Lewis-Gull Post No. 53 of the American Legion by order of the court."

Playground For Children.

After spending two years in acquiring funds for a clubhouse, the American Legion Post in Moscow, Okla., decided the children of the town needed a playground worse than the former service men did a club house. Accordingly, the Legionnaires obtained an eight year lease on a plot of ground and used the fund they had been so long in collecting to purchase playground equipment.

To Care For Cemeteries.

In order that all the cemeteries in the State may always have the proper care the Arkansas American Legion has started move for the formation of cemetery association which will supervise the laying out of new plots and the upkeep of all burying grounds.

"The Truth About Bergdoll."

In his series of articles "The Truth About Bergdoll," Charles R. Fehrlin of Philadelphia, describes the present appearance of America's arch slacker as that of a "fat middle-class German with a hatred of everything American." Fehrlin was one of the party of army intelligence operatives who recently tried to kidnap Bergdoll in Germany. It was the purpose of the United States Government to return Bergdoll to this country to serve the sentence imposed for the violation of the selective draft act.

Weds Wrong Girl.

Shell shock caused Thurman K. Williamson, Lincoln, Neb., veteran of the World War, to forget the girl to whom he was engaged. He married another. The district court has annulled Williamson's marriage, leaving him free to carry out his first pledge, if the first girl still feels that way about it.

Official's Plane Falls.

Edwin Denby, Secretary of the Navy and members of his party who have for some time been touring the Orient, narrowly escaped death July 19 in an airplane accident. While flying at a height of 4,000 ft. over the great wall of China, about 40 miles north of Peking, the engine of the plane in which the party was riding broke down. The pilot managed to volplane to the earth but the plane was wrecked against the rocks that strewn the ground. None of the party were injured. Mr. Denby will return to the States in September and is expected to attend the American Legion national convention in New Orleans, Oct. 16-20.

Atlantic City Reunion.

The men who fought with the 78th Division of the American Expeditionary Forces will hold their annual reunion this year at Atlantic City, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. Although distinctly separate from the American Legion, the veterans of the 78th worked with the organizers of the Legion in Paris, 1919. It is estimated

WEAK, NERVOUS, ALL RUN-DOWN

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui—Says "Result Was Surprising"—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. I saw after taking some Cardui... that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person. "Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me... My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it." Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui if troubled with womanly ailments. For sale everywhere. R. 22 that more than 70 per cent. of the division personnel is now enrolled in the ranks of the Legion.

Selects Own Grave.

While assisting his American Legion comrades in decorating the graves of Dorchester, Mass., ex-service men last Memorial Day, Jen Frederick Lang, Jr., of that city placed a flag on an unattended grave, and asked that it be reserved for him. He has just died of war wounds and has been buried in the plot he picked out but two months ago.

Every Man To His Bunk.

"Every man to his own bunk in 'bunks,'" says V. A. W. Steger, chairman of the housing committee of the American Legion national convention, to be held in New Orleans next October. Convention visitors will be housed in a variety of ways.

While the bulk of the crowd will choose the hotels and rooms in New Orleans homes, there will be an opportunity for a substantial percentage to remain on the Pullman cars and the steamboats and ocean liners which bring them to the convention city.

Mr. Steger has obtained a hotel rate of $1.50 a day without bath and $2.50 a day with bath. More than 14,000 visitors can be housed in the Pullman cities which will be provided with all conveniences of a modern hotel. A special arrangement with railroads will enable the convention guest to live on his Pullman car for about $2 a day and a uniformly low rate will also prevail in rooms in New Orleans homes.

Those doughboys who prefer to return to the barracks life for five days may be quartered in New Orleans' $15,000 Army Supply base and in various halls and lodge rooms. Reservations for rooms, Mr. Steger has announced, must be made through the visitor's American Legion state adjutant, who will confirm them with the convention on housing committee.

Synthetic Godliness.

Daughter: "The preacher just phoned and said he was coming to call this afternoon." Mother: "Gracious, we must make a good impression. Give the baby the hymn-book to play with."—American Legion Weekly.

Landis and Gompers Accept.

Organized labor and organized baseball will be represented at the American Legion national convention in New Orleans next October. The convention committee has received word that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of organized baseball, will appear on the convention program.

Acceptance of the convention invitation by the labor leader follows an address made before the recent national convention of the American Federation of Labor in Cincinnati by Hanford MacNider, Legion national commander. A resolution adopted by the labor delegates instructed Mr. Gompers to appear before the Legion gathering as the representative of organized labor.

In his letter to Commander MacNider, Mr. Gompers said: "One of the most interesting and pleasurable events of the Cincinnati convention was the eloquent address you delivered. I heard many expressions of commendation of your remarks. You made a deep impression upon the delegates. Personally I want to take this opportunity to say to you that I regard your address as another strong link in the chain binding together the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor."

Mr. Landis, who recently resigned his position as Federal judge of the Northern District of Illinois to devote his entire time to baseball, has spoken at Legion meetings in all parts of the country and is considered as one of the leading advocates of the interests of World War veterans. His son is an ex-service man.

Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States Marine corps, had previously accepted the convention invitation while tentative acceptances have been received from President Harding and General Pershing.

$40,000 In Claims.

Former service men in Pennsylvania have received $40,000 in claims from the government during the last month through the efforts of the Pennsylvania American Legion.

War Hero Kills Self.

A hero of the World War, five times wounded at Chateau Thierry, but without work and with no prospect of government compensation to which he was entitled, Daniel Webster of Philadelphia, Pa., committed suicide and would have been buried in a potter's field had not the American Legion given him a decent burial.

Travel By Canoe.

Paddling down the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, two members of the American Legion post at Chillicothe, Mo., will travel by canoe to the Legion national convention at New Orleans, La., in October.

Build Orphan's Home.

An orphan's home for children of World War veterans will be built by the Pennsylvania American Legion. A survey is now being made to ascertain the number of children for whom accommodations must be made.

Not every ginger ale contains Jamaica ginger

All Clicquot Club Ginger Ale is made with Jamaica ginger. The ginger is ground. The flavor is drawn out by a process of dripping a liquid through the ginger. Then this "debaased ginger" is thrown away, though it could be used, by another method, for making ginger ale.

It is not solely from virtuous motives that this is done. What would it profit us to save a little ginger and lose some good customers and friends?

So you can depend always upon Clicquot. You can be sure that only fresh water from bed-rock springs is used and that every ingredient of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale is absolutely pure.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Salisbury women know how the aches and pains that often come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, are frequent indications of weak kidneys and should be checked in time. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Here's proof of their merit in a Salisbury woman's words:

Miss Lavinia Messick, 109 Fooks St., says: "A short time ago my kidneys became weak and I was so distressed with backache. I could hardly keep on my feet. I didn't know what it was to be free from pains across my kidneys. Nervous headaches kept me feeling miserable and my kidneys acted irregularly. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and got some from Collier's Drug Co. They proved to be just what I needed and soon freed me from the backaches, headaches and other signs of kidney complaint." 60c at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

Did You Get the Bottom Price, After All?

The man who buys a "long discount" tire usually finds himself troubled by the above question.

Did he pay less for the tire than his neighbor might have paid, or actually did he pay more?

Did he get the bottom price, when all is said and done, or could he perhaps have driven a sharper bargain?

Was the net price really more than he might have had to pay for a tire of established reputation and value?

In the belief that the average motorist prefers a frank and open transaction, we built the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord and discounted the "discount" in advance.

Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can.

We build it of high-grade long-staple cotton, using the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction, and sell it at a lower price than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown worth.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

REEDVILLE

The primary passed off so quietly in Reedville, that one wondered if it were really "election day," but a very strong vote had been given Senator Swanson, when the count was made at the close of the day, which proved indeed the end of a perfect one for him. Not much interest was shown by the women voters. Probably the novelty was not so great since the result seemed so sure. Mr. Swanson has many true friends here, who are rejoicing with him in his great victory.

Mr. J. D. Carey and daughter, Miss Frances, also the boys, Granville and Jefferson, motored up from Lillian last Sunday, for the day with relatives at Kinsale. Mrs. Addie Vansant, who spent the winter with her son, Dr. W. L. Vansant, and his wife, at Hinton, W. Va., is at her home in Kinsale for the summer. Dr. Vansant ("Willie Lawrence," as we knew him before he became so professional) is doing wonderfully well in his hospital work at Tinton and is building his home in the town. We are glad to hear of his success.

Mrs. Evans and her daughter from Petersburg, have been visiting Mrs. E. Warren Edwards, at her pretty Fleeton home, for the past week or two.

Miss Gertrude Haynie, after spending a few days with Miss Laura Crowther, of Tibitha, went back to Baltimore Wednesday, taking her father, Mr. B. B. Haynie, with her to stay until their old home "Bay View" can be relieved of an undesirable tenant upon whom a written notice to vacate the premises at the end of the year, has been served. We will miss Uncle Bert so much, but are happy to know that he will be so pleasantly and comfortably at home with Gertrude in her pretty apartment on Harlem Avenue. Congenial surroundings are everything in this life of ours.

Miss Anna Lee Morrison and Miss Laura Jett, of Reedville, were traveling companions to Baltimore Wednesday, chaperoned by their uncle and cousin, Mr. Haynie and Miss Gertrude Haynie. They are anticipating a joyous time visiting and sight-seeing.

Mr. J. C. Jett, of the Peoples Bank, Reedville, was in Baltimore last week on banking business.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bussells, of Norfolk, and little Miss Dorothy Lee, have been visiting Capt. and Mrs. I. M. Bussells at Fleeton the past week. They have also been recent visitors of Mrs. Bussells people at Kinsale.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Neal, of Washington, have been visiting Mr. Neal's old home near Sunnyside and spending sometime with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Neal, recently.

Quite a number of our people have been away during the past few weeks. Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Jett, and Henry Lee, have returned from a splendid stay at Pen Mar, Pa., where overcoats and blankets had to be used. They visited the National Park, Gettysburg, went over the battlefield, so beautiful to look upon, but so sad to contemplate because of the terrible loss of life sustained there during those July days of 1863, drank water from historic springs and enjoyed the fine Cumberland Valley scenery.

Misses Mary and Martha Rice are home after a wonderful trip through the Valley of Virginia after the former had finished the Normal course at Charlottesville. With their uncle, Mr. J. E. Marsh, Jr., of Norfolk, they visited Natural Bridge, Luray, and other caverns, having a delightful time.

Miss Elizabeth Muir is home again at "Muir House." After finishing at Farmville she spent sometime with friends in Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Stagg, enjoying the trip wonderfully.

Mrs. W. B. Jett, of "Chestnut Point" entertained as delegates to the Rappahannock Baptist Association last week, her cousin Mr. Archie Seagar and his pastor, Mr. Hudson, of Middlesex County. They motored over and reported a delightful visit to Northumberland and our town.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Perkins and son Joe Minor, of Reedville, and Mr. Bert Burgess, of Burgess Store, motored to Charlottesville, Saturday for a week-end visit with relatives of the former and friends of the latter.

Mr. Jos. Clarence left spent Saturday in Reedville, arriving on the Potomac from Salisbury that morning. At night he boarded the same steamer at Merrimack Point, on the Rappahannock, enroute to his home in Norfolk, and taking with him his wife and little Miss Esther, who had been most welcome guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Jett for two weeks.

Dr. Wilson Selby, of Culpepper, was greeting his many friends in this section the past week. He is looking in perfect health and finding plenty to do.

Dr. John V. Tarrant and Mr. Russell Day, of this place, motored to King William County for a pleasant day recently with Dr. Tarrant's people.

Mr. Jacob French and family of Fairport were at Callao Sunday, Mr. French attending a Sunday School meeting at Kinsale in the afternoon.

Mrs. L. B. Rice and others from Bethany were also there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Edwards, of Baltimore, came to Lillian in their car recently spending some time with Mrs. Edwards' parents Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hudnall and other relatives here. Miss Elizabeth had been down for several weeks and will spend this week at camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Davis were at Wharton Grove last Sunday and brought home with them for a few days in Reedville, Mrs. Davis' father Mr. C. S. Burton of Urbana and her brother Rev. C. Arthur Burton of California who is in the homeland for a visit.

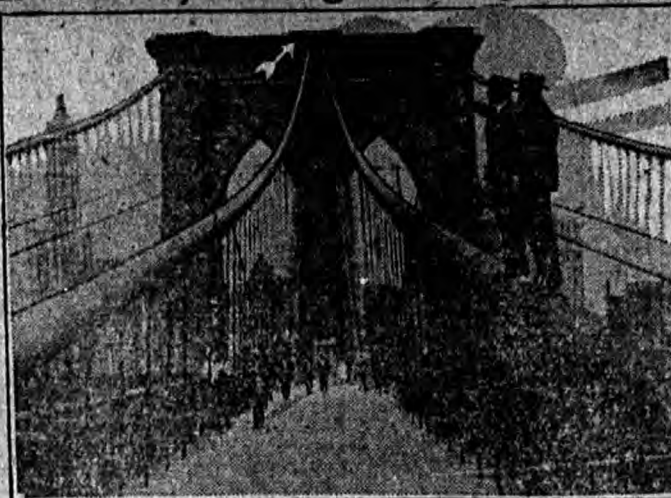

Dr. T. S. D. Covington, of Lillian, was in Richmond last week for a day or two. Mr. Ross Covington has a position on the State quail farm in New Kent County. Thousands and thousands of the timid looking, demure little creatures are raised there and the work is very interesting.

Old friends are giving Mrs. C. E. Green, of South Norfolk, who is visiting Mrs. T. W. Haynie this week, a warm welcome back to Reedville. Little Charles is with his mother and little Miss Ethel is spending her time with Misses Eva and Flora Alice Morrison, just over the bridge. Rev. Mr. Green will be at Marvin Grove for the week and will also spend some time at Reedville before going home. They are welcome guests.

Rev. Stanley Flournoy and his wife motored from Richmond, are spending this week at the home of Mr. George N. Reed, this place, also attending Marvin Grove camp. Mr. Flournoy served Bethany for a short while and has many friends here.

Right many from Bethany Church are spending the week at Marvin Grove, Md., and Mrs. Luther Rice and family, Mrs. Alonzo Dawson, of Capt. James E. Marsh, from his home near Tibitha, was a most welcome visitor in Reedville recently for the first time since about Christmas. Many friends were giving him a glad hand-shake and congratulating him upon his great improvement. We are hoping he may go on and on to perfect health again.

Mrs. Niser, of Baltimore, is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Susan Toulson, of this town and her nieces here this week.

Fishing parties have been a popular sport on the creek the last week with fine results reported.

DELMAR

Mr. S. N. Culver attended the Cooper reunion, at the home of Mr. John S. Cooper, Thursday, near Sharptown. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown have returned from their wedding trip and were given a sirenade Tuesday evening by the Tall Cedar's Band.

Dr. Robert Ellegood and Dr. James E. Brayshaw were Philadelphia visitors this week.

Miss Aney Ellis has gone to Roanoke, where she will spend the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Walter Hastings and sons spent Sunday at Virginia Beach.

Mr. William G. Rowe, of New York, is the guest of Mrs. S. F. Stevens.

Miss Blanche Matthews is visiting in Dover.

Miss Grace Elliott of Baltimore is spending several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Elliott.

During the storm Saturday evening lightning struck the residence of Mrs. S. F. Stevens partly destroying a chimney and the roof and porch at and back of the house.

Miss Virginia Collins, of Delmar, spent part of last week with relatives in town.

Mrs. Cyrus Risler and son Clark, returned to their home in New York on Saturday after having spent three or four weeks with Miss Annie Robertson.

Mrs. Lizzie W. Parker has been on the sick-list for the past ten days.

Mrs. D. B. Owens is the possessor of a white Leghorn pullet which at the age of four months and one day laid its first egg. Any one in this vicinity beat that?

Mr. and Mrs. Levin Wright are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a fine baby boy on Aug. 4.

Mrs. Lizzie Wilson is having her store painted. Messrs. William Elliott and Carlton Lloyd, of Athol, are doing the work.

On Wednesday of last week the bicycle belonging to Miss Margaret Jackson was stolen from in front of the store of Mrs. John Bennett where it was left by her father, Mr. G. F. Jackson. Sometime after dark Thursday night it was placed in the rear of Mr. Levin Wright's carriage house where it was found early Friday morning. Suspicion points strongly to one of two parties.

The members of the C. E. Society of the M. P. Church will hold "A Next Step Meeting" in connection with the regular monthly business meeting in the Sunday School room on Friday evening, Aug. 11, at 8 P. M. All members and friends are invited to be present.

Miss Edith Eversman spent Friday in Easton.

Miss Thelma Seabreeze spent last week as guest of her sister Mrs. Jas. Richards, of Hebron.

Mrs. Chas. Wilkins, Mrs. Nell Trice and Miss Anna Lankford, of Salisbury, spent last Saturday with their aunt, Mrs. Jas. S. Watson.

Miss Rebecca Wilson spent last week visiting relatives in Pocomoke.

Mrs. Lizzie Wilson and Mrs. L. P. Brockson and little son Leslie Wilson spent Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hinch Johnson and family of Rockawalkin.

Mr. and Mrs. Slater Lloyd and son, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, of Chester, Pa., spent the first of the week as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hurley.

We are sorry to report Mr. W. J. Graham as being on the sick list.

Miss Rebecca Wilson was a member of a yachting party held over the week-end at Ocean City by Miss Lucille, of Salisbury.

Mrs. Lizzie Bounds was the guest on Sunday of her sister Mrs. B. J. Pusey, of Rockawalkin.

TYASKIN

Several of our young folks enjoyed the camp meeting at Bivalve.

Miss Margaret Willis and Mr. John Burr, of Baltimore, are visiting Miss Ida Larmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Larmore have returned to their home in Norfolk, Va., after spending a few days with friends here.

Mrs. Frank Barclay is visiting her daughter at Hebron.

Mrs. W. B. Messick and daughter spent the past week in Princess Anne.

Miss Clara White and Miss Katherine Hopkins spent Sunday at Sandy Hill.

We were glad to have our Pastor, Mr. B. F. Moore with us again.

Miss Cecia Larmore, of Baltimore, is spending the weekend with Miss Mildred White.

Miss Ida Larmore entertained the following people Sunday afternoon: the Misses Horsman of Jesterville, Miss Margaret Willis, Cecia Larmore and Mr. John Burr, of Baltimore, Miss Mildred White and Viola Anderson, Mr. Solters Graham of Tyaskin and Mr. Gorman Downing of Bivalve.

Mrs. Elmer Kraft and friends of Philadelphia are visiting her mother.

Miss Anna Austin has returned to her home in Mt. Vernon after spending some time with Miss Mildred White.

Mrs. Edgar Anderson and son are visiting her sister here.

Mrs. Alvin Graham and children are spending some time at Athol.

Miss Mary Larmore has returned home from summer school.

ATHOL

Mrs. John Brettingham and children from Baltimore are spending sometime with relatives at this place.

Miss Alice Graham and little nephew, Vernon Sewell, have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Stanford Twilley, of Eden.

Mr. Samuel Phillips has returned home from Laurel, where she has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lafayette Lowe.

Mr. Robert Majors has been suffering with throat trouble. We hope he will soon recover.

Mrs. Nellie Porter and grandchild, of Berlin, are now visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hutton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bailey entertained Thursday evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Slater Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. George Lloyd and daughter Blanche, Mr. and Mrs. Weymouth Lloyd and baby Elizabeth, Mrs. Samuel Sewell, of Baltimore, and daughter Ruby and Mrs. Maria Sewell.

The farmers have been very busy with cantaloupe shipping, but lost many owing to the lack of boxes.

Mrs. William Lloyd is very ill at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Slater Lloyd, of Chester, visited Mr. and Mrs. George Cox Friday.

Quite a few of our people attended

Shiloh and Bivalve Camps this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bailey and son Robert, Jr., of Delma, have been visiting here.

Miss Elizabeth Graham and friend, William Marsh, and Mrs. Bryant and daughters Viola and Gladys and little grandson Gordon Franks, of Philadelphia, are now visiting Miss Graham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Graham.

Mrs. Alvin Graham and two children, Maurice and Ralph, are now spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Cox and little daughter Virginia Lee, of Baltimore, are now visiting Mr. Cox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George.

MT. HERMON

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Merritt and son spent Sunday with Mr. Merritt's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Walston visited Mrs. R. C. Jones, of Pittsville, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. V. G. Robertson, of Mardele, spent a few days of last week with Mr. R. D. Robertson and family.

Mr. Ernest L. Parker and family gave Mr. E. M. Walston a gentle surprise on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Ennis, Mr. and Mrs. Dorris Ennis and baby and Mr. George Walston motored to Ocean City Sunday.

Miss Lilian Parker, of Salisbury, spent a few days of last week with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Parker visited his brother Mr. J. J. Parker near Parsonsburg on Wednesday.

Mr. E. M. Walston, Mrs. Ronie Baus and daughter Louise spent Sunday at Ocean City.

Nash Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Nash Again Reduces Prices

Effective August 1, 1922

At the time of the last Nash price reduction C. W. Nash frankly declared his policy of keeping faith with buyers by passing on the savings earned through increased business.

The response on the part of purchasers was immediate and nation-wide. Sales rose to new records monthly and at this writing we are running 100% beyond last year's business.

So again we announce new and lower prices on every model in the Nash line, and this proves, as nothing else could prove, the truthfulness of the statement that "Nash Leads the World in Motor Car Value."

Make Your Home More Livable

EASY TO APPLY

COSTS LITTLE

IT IS CHEAP AND EASY TO REMODEL WITH WALL BOARD

Probably you have space in your attic which could be changed into an attractive play room, sewing room, or bed room. This change can be made at very small expense with Cornell Wood Board—a wall board of pure wood fibre that resists moisture, won't shrink, won't bulge, and takes paint wonderfully. You can make the waste spaces in your house the most attractive spots in the home. Dining rooms can be remodeled beautifully with Cornell Panels and at a cost that will surprise you.

Let us talk over this remodeling proposition with you. It may be exactly what you have in mind. At any rate it will cost nothing to get estimates.

CARING FOR THE HOME FLOCK

After the fowl has been plucked, pinfeathered and made ready for the final processes in the preparation for market or for the table, it should be cooled without delay, but not frozen in order that the animal heat may be quickly driven from the body and thus retard the decomposing action of putrefactive bacteria. In the larger commercial poultry plants and in the packing houses the cooling is accomplished by refrigeration, but on the farms of the smaller producers the dressed fowls are cooled in iced water. If the carcass is frozen during the cooling process, it does not properly cool throughout; the flesh hardens, and the natural flow of the body juices, which, under normal conditions, continues for some time after death, is stopped, thus preventing the escape of the animal heat at the surface.

The best practice in "wet cooling" is to dip the fowl, immediately after it is pinfeathered, in tepid water, and then wash the feet, shanks and mouth. The blood found in the bleeding may easily be removed by "throwing it out." The fowl is held swinging by the legs, head down. It is then swung upward in front of the body, then down to the side with a light jerk; a too vigorous downward swing will often cause the skin to tear badly in front of the thigh joint.

After the carcass has been washed in the tepid water, it is at once thrown into iced water for one hour. While this method of cooling is reasonably satisfactory and is in general use, largely because it is economical and is available to most poultrymen, it is not as effective as the cold air method, as it increases the susceptibility of the skin to the action of bacteria.

Furthermore, the flesh protein is lost, as it dissolves in the water at the rate of 4 per cent. per hour and, according to Pennington of the United States Bureau of Chemistry, about four times as much water is absorbed by the body as there is protein dissolved. To be exact, four and three-tenths per cent. of water are absorbed for every ounce of protein dissolved. But unfortunately the materials and appliances required to cool by cold air in all seasons are, because of the expense incident to their installation, out of reach of the average poultrymen.

At the end of the hour, when the carcass is taken from the cold water, it is ready to be stored, packed or drawn for the table. Chickens are now sent to market undrawn, as they keep much better than those that have been drawn by the removal of the intestines and other internal organs, an opening leading into the body cavity must of necessity be made, and it is through this opening that the decomposing organisms gain entrance.

Experiments have been conducted by Pennington, Pierce and Witmer of the United States Bureau of Chemistry to determine the comparative decomposition in drawn and undrawn poultry. In these experiments both full drawn and partially drawn fowls were used in comparison with others not drawn, and in no instance, after a reasonable period has elapsed, did the undrawn fowls show the presence of any appreciable numbers of bacteria in the body cavity, while millions were found in the bodies of both the drawn and partially drawn birds. Those that were partially drawn had only the intestines removed and these were pulled out through minute openings.

When drawing for immediate use first singe off the hairlike feathers (feopomies) by passing the body over a flame. With the head in one hand and the feet in the other, move the body about until the feopomies on all parts have been singed. The alcohol flames do not discolor the skin, while burning paper, though often used, smokes the skin badly. The gas flames are quite satisfactory.

After the singeing is completed cut off the head near the base of the skull. Then pull back the neck skin and cut off the neck bone close to the body. Trim the skin to within an inch and one-half of the body. Find the crop and pull it away from the skin and let it hang loose. Next cut off the shanks at the hock or knee joints. Do not break the bones, but cut the ligaments that bind the two leg bones together at the joint. This makes a clean cut, leaving no jagged edges of bone and prevents the tendons of the legs before the shanks are cut off. This is accomplished by first sticking a knife blade through the shanks just back of the shank bone between the bone and the tendon, and then making a clean cut from the knee joint to the foot. An iron hook is then inserted in the end around the tendon, and with a hard, steady pull the tough cord is drawn out. With older fowls it is often found necessary to attach the hook to the wall for support. The tendons, being tougher and not so easily removed, a stronger pull is required.

After cutting off the shanks stick the knife through the skin just below the vent and make a straight cut to the end of the keel bone. Then remove the intestines, liver and heart through the opening thus made. If the bird is young the crop will usually come out with the other organs, but with the larger chickens and adult fowls the crop may be taken out through the neck opening. The windpipe must also be pulled out at the neck. The lungs, which are light red in color and which lie embedded against the ribs and backbone, and the kidneys, similarly placed, but further down the back, should also be removed through the rear opening. For fancy individual trade, where it is necessary to draw the fowl for the customer, a somewhat different method is employed. The neckbone is first cut off and the wishbone removed. The skin is cut straight down the back of the neck to the back to a place midway between the points where the wings join the body; it is then drawn back over the body and pulled away from the windpipe, gullet and crop. The head is cut off and the neckbone is then cut off well down at the base. The wishbone is scraped bare of all flesh, and by using the knife blade as a lever it is pulled away from the body. A cut is then made completely around and as close to the vent as possible, care being taken not to puncture the intestines. One finger is inserted in the small opening thus made and the intestines gradually and carefully drawn out; they break off at the gizzard, which organ is then pushed out with a blunt stick through the opening at the neck. The work is then completed by folding the loose skin of the neck and holding it in place by locked wings.

Cause of Appendicitis.

When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or large intestines become packed with refuse matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known as appendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you have little to fear from appendicitis. — Adv.

OVER SIX MILLION MEN TILL COUNTRY'S FARMS

Statistics Show 9 Per Cent. Are Foreign Born and 14.7 Per Cent. Colored.

Of the 6,448,306 farmers in the United States, 6,186,313 are male and 261,993 (4.1 per cent.) are female, according to one of The World Almanac census summaries.

Of the owner-farmers, 3,737,326 are males, 187,769 females; of the managers 67,762 are male, 763 female; of the tenant farmers 2,381,225 are male and 73,221 female.

Of the total farm acreage males operate—929,878,145 acres; females 25,798,400 acres. Of the 2,454,746 tenant farmers (1920) 1,117,730 tilled on shares; 561,005 (in the South) were "crop-pers"; 127,834 were on "share-cash basis"; 489,927 were cash tenants and 104,937 (in the South) were standing renters. Tenant farmers in 1910 numbered 2,354,676.

Native white farmers were 76.3 per cent. of all farmers in 1920, as against 75 per cent. in 1910; foreign-born white farmers were 9 per cent., as against 10.5 per cent. in 1910; colored farmers, 14.7 per cent., as against 14.5 per cent.

In New York State in 1920 foreign-born white farmers were 13.3 per cent. of all farmers, as against 12.5 per cent. in 1910.

MOST OF U. S. FARMS ARE 50 TO 174 ACRES

Interesting Facts Disclosed in Statistics Gathered on Nation's United States totals, 1910—Under 20 acres, 839,166; 20 to 49 acres, 1,414,374; 50 to 99 acres, 1,438,060; 100 to 174 acres, 1,516,280; 175 to 499 acres, 978,175; 500 acres and over 175,430.

The 796,534 farms under 20 acres as reported for 1920, comprised 20,350 farms under three acres in size, 268,422 farms from three to nine acres, and 507,762 farms from 10 to 19 acres. More than six-tenths of the farms under 20 acres in size are in the Southern States. Of the farms from 20 to 49 acres, likewise, a very large percentage (71.2 per cent. in 1920) are found in the Southern States.

More than 45 per cent. of all the farms in the United States are between 50 and 174 acres in size. This group contains, of course, those farms which consist of a quarter section of land or half of a quarter section. In the group of large farms were included in 1920, 530,795 farms of 175 to 299 acres, 475,692 farms of 300 to 499 acres, 149,812 of 500 to 999 acres, and 67,387 of 1,000 acres and over. The above official census figures are from The World Almanac.

Devise Instrument For Testing Soils

Public Roads Bureau Can Now Determine Conditions for Building Certain Kinds of Roads.

An instrument for testing soils on which roads are to be built has been devised by the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. It consists of a metal disk resting on the soil and supporting a cylinder into which shot can be poured. The apparatus is held in position vertically by means of a tripod, at the top of which is mounted a small dial that tells to one-tenth of an inch how far the disk sinks into the soil as shot is poured into the cylinder. By means of the instrument it is possible to get information as to how the soil will act in wet weather.

The kind of soil beneath a road surface has a great deal to do with how it will stand up under modern traffic, and engineers look upon this as an important consideration in determining the kind of road to be built. This is confirmed by a number of instances where two sections of the same road have been built in exactly the same manner and subjected to the same

MYSTERIOUS LEGEND AT VIRGINIA CHURCH

St. Paul's Church in Alexandria Has Monument Erected "To Memory of Female Stranger."

Visitors to the cemetery attached to St. Paul's Church, in Alexandria, Va., seldom leave without examining the inscription upon a handsome monument, which is one of the outstanding places of interest in the city as well as one of the most baffling riddles of identity which the passage of more than a century has failed to solve. This inscription comprises within a few lines all that the world knows of the woman in question, for it reads:

TO THE MEMORY OF A FEMALE STRANGER

"Whose mortal sufferings terminated on the fourth day of October, 1816, aged 28 years and 8 months. This stone is erected by her disconsolate husband, in whose arms she breathed out her last sigh, and who, under God, did his utmost to soothe the dull, cold ear of death."

That is all—and the most determined efforts of the residents of Alexandria during the first half of the last century failed to throw the slightest light upon the mystery. The facts in the case are few, but, such as they are, they are supported by the unassailable evidence of a number of persons who were eyewitnesses to the brief public appearance of the "female stranger." The big four sons docked at Alexandria on July 25, 1816, on the way from Halifax to the West Indies. The Virginia city was not a port of call on the regular route, but the captain stated that one of his passengers had been dangerously ill, and that her husband had demanded that she be put ashore at Alexandria, where a boat was lowered and a man and a woman, the latter apparently very ill, were taken ashore.

As the weeks of scorchingly hot weather progressed, however, the man began to wilt under the constant strain of watching beside the bed, and finally agreed to permit two of the guests in the inn to help him—but only after they had taken an oath that nothing they might learn would ever be divulged, an oath which was kept as a sacred trust.

During the 10 weeks which followed the woman's arrival in Alexandria she grew steadily worse, and at last, on Oct. 4, her husband announced that she had died. Then, for fear that some one might see the face which he had kept hidden from the world, he himself prepared the body for burial, sealed the lid of the coffin, and, after attending the funeral and ordering the headstone, with the strange inscription, disappeared.

On Oct. 4 of the following year Alexandria was surprised at the sudden and unheralded return of the husband, who remained in the city only long enough to place flowers on the grave of the "female stranger" and to see that the plot in the cemetery was well taken care of. Once a year for 12 years he returned. Then his visits ceased and the grave was neglected until a number of years later a distinguished elderly man and woman came and ordered the monument to be replaced by another and more costly headstone, bearing the same inscription, with the addition of the verse:

How loved, how honored once, avails thee not—
To whom related, or by whom begot;
A heap of dust alone remains of thee
Tis all thou art, and all the proud shall be.

Heir to Spanish Throne in 18th Century Scratches Researches on Walls of Living Tomb.

About fifty-five years ago the story given below was going the rounds of the secular as well as religious press.

The learned Prince of Grenada, heir of the Spanish throne, imprisoned by order of the crown, for fear he should aspire to the throne, was kept in solitary confinement in the old prison at the Palace of Skulls, Madrid. After thirty-three years in this living tomb, death came to his release, and the following remarkable researches taken from the Bible, and marked with an old nail on the rough walls of his cell, told how the brain sought employment through the weary years.

In the Bible the word Lord is found 1,853 times; the word Jehovah, 6,855 times and the word Reverend, but once, and that in ninth verse of the One Hundred and Eleventh Psalm. The eighth verse of the One Hundred and Seventh Psalm is the middle verse of the Bible. The ninth verse of the eighth chapter of Esther is the longest verse; thirty-sixth verse of the eleventh chapter of John is the shortest. In the One Hundred and Seventh Psalm four verses are alike, the eighth, fifteenth, twenty-first and thirty-first. Each verse of the One Hundred and Thirty-sixth Psalm ends alike. No name or words with more than six syllables are found in the Bible. The thirty-seventh chapter of Isaiah and the nineteenth chapter of Second Kings are alike. The word "girl" occurs but once in the Bible, and that in the third verse and third chapter of Joel.

There are found in both books of the Bible 3,586,483 letters, 773,893 words, 31,373 verses, 1,189 chapters and 6 books. The twenty-sixth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles is the finest chapter to read. The most beautiful chapter in the Bible is the Twenty-third Psalm. The four most inspiring promises are John xiv, 2; John vi, 37; Matthew xi, 28, and Psalm xxxvii, 4. The first verse of the six hundred and fourth chapter of Isaiah is the one for the new convert.

All who flatter themselves with vain boasts of their perfectness should learn the seventh chapter of Matthew. All humanity should learn the sixth chapter of Luke from the twentieth verse to its ending.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

That Problem of Obedience.

Have you ever stopped to consider that most of the annoying things that children do are not deliberate disobedience but the result of the time they act either thoughtlessly or through mistake.

Just glance over today for instance in your own home. You feel tired and nervous and know that things have seemed to go wrong. And you probably drove the children for doing things that made you trouble or work. But did they really mean to?

Julia tore her new gingham dress climbing a tree to rescue Muggins, the pet kitty. Now Julia didn't say, "I'm going to climb this tree and tear my dress because mother isn't looking." But she came along home from school and saw poor Kitty howling from the topmost branch, where Fido had chased her. And in Julia's heart was just one desire—to help her pet down. She acted on impulse and not because she intended to disobey.

Now the hole is in the dress and has to be mended—but surely if we think of the accident as such and not as a direct disregard of our commands, we can feel no resentment toward the child. We mothers all tore our dresses when we were small and our mothers had to mend them. So let us not classify such acts as these under disobedience. But let us now consider another incident. You have told Julia not to loiter on the way home from school; but she goes over to Mary's and plays until five o'clock and you do not know where she is. This is direct disobedience. But right here is a secret which every mother knows although she may not admit it. If a child has been consistently taught to come home at once from the very first day she started to kindergarten, she will never go to another child's house and stay until five o'clock without permission. This is a vital point. There must be no hit-and-miss obedience. To spank a child one day for loitering and then go off to the club the next day and leave her to wander about as she pleases after school is not consistent discipline and any child soon realizes this. Constant obedience becomes instinctive habit, and the success of the whole system depends on starting in time to discipline and maintain a steady hand even though it sometimes is inconvenient for the parents.

When baby first starts deliberately to throw his spoon off his high chair and throw his porridge about, that is the time to teach obedience to the laws of table manners. When he first hits you with his little fist because you have reproved him for a misdeed—that is the time to insist into

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lake, Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."—Mrs. MARY SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing the merit of this well-known medicine. If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

his mind a respect for authority, and do it each time he strikes until it becomes a habit with him to respect you and your commands.

The secret of making obedience a habit is keeping a steady hold over the child's actions and directing him always in each little action until deliberate disobedience is reduced to a minimum. To forbid the child not to do a thing one day and then to permit him to do the same thing the next day is a course of action which gives him no definite idea of what real obedience is. "Consistency—thou art a jewel" is no more truly applicable anywhere than in discipline of children. And the next law of successful training in obedience is to discriminate wisely between the act of impulse and the malice-afore-thought conduct.

Entomologists Find Chigger Reallants

Nature Lovers Told of Ways To Successfully Reduce Discomforts Caused by Tiny Mites.

Rare days in June and July and August—tempt nature lovers into woods and fields and by the sides of babbling brooks. Frequently they return to undergo several days of acute torment due to attacks by chiggers, the tiny mites whose larvae attach themselves to the skin in any exposed spot.

The Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture has made a careful study of the habits of chiggers and methods of control, and suggests two ways of reducing the discomfort caused by chiggers.

The first step is to clothe the feet and ankles properly when going into the woods where chiggers are likely to occur, by wearing heavy high-top boots instead of low shoes, thick stockings or even spiral puttees. The second method is to apply repellents either directly on the skin or on the hose and undergarments before starting out for a "hike" or a picnic. Flowers of sulphur is ordinarily used for this purpose. A hot bath with a thick lather of soap taken immediately after returning from an outing often kills chigger larvae on the body.

Palliatives such as sulphur ointment, alcohol, ammoniac cooking soda, dilute solution of iodine or camphor are of use chiefly because of their acrid or mite-killing action or because of their antiseptic quality, or for both reasons.

Same Old Story But a Good One.

Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savanna, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened in almost every neighborhood in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles."—Adv.

THE GREAT SALISBURY FAIR

14th ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Opens Tuesday, August 22nd.
At SALISBURY, MD.

The Great Salisbury Fair will open its gates for its 14th consecutive Fair, on Tuesday, Aug. 22nd, and continue for 4 days---Aug. 22-23-24-25th

Beginning as a small Fair it has grown year by year in size and value until to-day it is the largest and best Fair in this section. It has striven during these years to help arouse the people to the value and importance of improved methods of farming and stock-raising and at the same time provide clean and healthy amusements and sports for its patrons.

THIS YEAR'S PROGRAM: The management is confident that this year its program of entertainment and exhibits is better than ever before presented here.

RACING—The lovers of horse racing—and they are numbered by the thousands—will see a bigger and better field of horses contending in the trotting and pacing events than ever. The racing ought to be exciting and interesting.

MOTOR CYCLES—There is always a thrill to be found in a motor cycle race. To see men of daring and skill drive their machine around the track at breakneck pace is an event worth while. Fast time has been made in the past on this track and faster can be looked for this year. You will hear a hum, a roar and the rider will have come and gone like a streak of lightning. Don't miss them.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITS—These will be larger and better than in past years. A special feature will be the display of the Boys and Girls. Four prizes aggregating $200 will be given to four boys for the best exhibits and a like number of prizes aggregating a like sum of money to four girls. Full information regarding these prizes can be obtained from the Fair Office.

STOCK EXHIBITS—The poultry exhibit already large will be double this year. Other live stock will show proportional increases. Lovers of pure bred stock and poultry will find this year's exhibit well worth seeing.

OTHER EXHIBITS—Fine exhibits of fancy work, flowers, household goods, and other lines will again be attractive features of the Fair.

FREE ATTRACTIONS—Our Motto "To Get The Best."

THREE RAYMONDS—Two ladies and one gentleman perform on a trapeze in a pleasing and skillful manner. This act is second to none in the country of its class.

ZENO, MOLL, CARL—A daring three bar casting act executed by real artists.

OUR MIDWAY—Our Midway will be under the management of a man who has much experience with midways. It will be bright and cheerful and filled with clean shows and many interesting and amusing features.

DIVING ACT—Miss Quincy, the foremost high diving lady in America, will delight the crowds with her superb High Diving Act.

DIVING HORSE—This is something new—a real live horse diving with a lady on his back. The horse walks up a steep incline forty feet in the air; Miss Jack, known as "The lady in Red" climbs a ladder at the same time. Reaching this high platform Miss Jack mounts the horse and together they leap into space coming down in a tank of water. The magnitude of this act can be seen when it requires a tank of water 10x10x20 feet having a capacity of 125,000 lbs. of water to hold the horse and fair rider. Did you ever see a horse dive? Did you ever see one swim? This feature is alone worth several trips to the Fair Grounds.

Remember This Fair. The Best Yet Given. Your Friends Will All Be Here. Join The Thousands Who Will Pass Through The Gates During These Four Days.

CHESAPEAKE'S FIRST HONORS TO CAMBRIDGE

Emma Faulkner And Agnes Take All Prizes And Humble
Crisfield Entries.

FOR SECOND TIME IN TWO YEARS BOATS WIN

Before 12 Mile Breeze And In Rain Storm Skipjacks And Other Craft
From Choptank Port Outsell
Opponents in Championship Races Off Annapolis.

Rain and a scudding 12 mile wind.
Twenty-three Chesapeake Bay workboats tossing full-sailed and free across a rolling bay, spluttering spray and foam.

Workboats? Boats! The sun-baked Eastern Shore skippers who sailed them across Maryland's blue waters, in the second annual Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club regatta yesterday, will tell you how they carry oysters, crabs and dories in season.

Don't believe it until you see it.
Hundreds of people on the wooded shores of Bay Ridge, near Annapolis, and on nearly 100 yachts lining a broad aisle of blue water, saw them yesterday as white bay gulls, with nothing to do but corner the breeze market. It was hard to believe that they never had done anything else.

Cambridge again carried off "The Sun" and "The Evening Sun" prize money and the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club cups. Two boats from this Eastern Shore city—the Emma A.
Faulkner, of the big bugeyes, and Agnes, of the big skipjacks—outlasted the best of the bay birds for the second time in two consecutive years.

But not on a walkaway. Yesterday's races were no drifting parties, like last year's. A stiff northeast breeze chased them down to the Thomas Point Light, came across their beams on the way to Tolleys Point, and kept them tacking, luffing and jibbing on their way back to the start. It was a man's boat race.

Crisfield had nothing to weep about. Her George T. Todd hung to the swift flying Faulkner until the last buoy and the home stretch. Then the flying jib on the Cambridge boat caught the full wealth of the breeze and pushed the Emma Faulkner's nose out in front. But not far. She boomed home with a bone in her teeth, less than four minutes ahead of the Todd, and not 15 minutes ahead of the Emma Cox, of Rock Hall.

Unconvinced as Crisfield was at the outcome of the big bugeye race, they had no argument over the brush between skipjacks. Class II. A breezy boat from Wicomico, the Sham R. with Capt. Clifton Webster at the tiller, breezed across the finish as far ahead of Crisfield's Vernon Lee as Capt. Ernest Milder, did to bring the Vernon Lee home at all.

While Baltimore may have been famous once as the home of sporting seamen, she has been busier recently claiming fame at the making of straw hats and chemicals. But yesterday she came back as a king of the blue water when her own sailing canoe, the Bay Ridge, with Capt. Daniel B.
Chambers aboard, showed her heels to the Pung Tang, of St. Michaels, and the Island Bird, of Baltimore.

That was about the last of the sailing races. When the canoes were off, they started the work motorboats, and when the first motorboat came in Cambridge had a third feather in her cap. It was Cambridge's day, that was all, and the Dixie, piloted by Capt. Alonzo Elliott, made it three in a row.

To the landlubber it looked like a fearful day for sailboat races. The erstwhile pretty blue bay was a sinister gray thing full of white-toothed waves that leaped hungrily up to ward the decks and rain that pattered mercilessly down the sails. There could count 88 yachts and smaller pleasure boats swimming toward the course and that later lined up in a long aisle starting next to the Folly, where the judges were and the racers would start and finish. There may have been more than 88.

But from the viewpoint of the bay sailor the day was ideal. He had "a wet sheet and a flowing sea" and a wind that followed fast. Last year, the yachtsmen remembered, the races went off on a day that was just one notch better than a dead calm and the fastest "drifters" had won. But they knew by 9 A. M. that this year's meet was going to be a boat race and no mistake.

JOSEPH Y. BRATTAN DEAD.

Joseph Y. Brattan, widely known Maryland journalist, died suddenly at the home of his son-in-law, Caleb D.
Rodgers, near Elkton City. For years he was associated with the Baltimore Sun and with the Baltimore
American. He was a kinsman of Mrs.
Walter S. Sheppard, Miss Lizette Collier and Levin D. Collier. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and a son.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS.

BURGLARIOUS ATTACK ON PEOPLES NATIONAL BANK WOULD FAIL NOW

Institution Has Just Installed Complete Electrical Burglar Alarm System That Manufacturers Assert Cannot Be Defeated.
First Bank in County To Install Protective System.

On account of the many burglaries which have occurred in this and other States, the banks are beginning to use extraordinary precautions to protect themselves against yeggmen. Not long ago the banks on the Eastern Shore procured ample supplies of firearms and were given expert advice on how to protect their valuables against robbers.

This week Peoples National Bank installed the latest and most improved type of burglar alarm system on the market. The system and floor of the vault are lined with copper wiring arranged that no entrance can be made at any point without setting off the alarm.

An attempt to enter the vault from any direction will immediately sound the gong or alarm which is contained in a large outside housing. This gong housing is also constructed that any tampering with it, such as turning a bolt, or attempting to cut the cable leading to it, will sound the alarm.

The vault door, in addition to the connections with the bolts through the combinations, has what is called the Thermo-Electric attachment, which will sound if the door is heated to a certain temperature. This will prevent any attempt to burn through the vault door.

The entire system controlled by an electrical timer located in the vault. This is set on definite hours for opening and closing, and if the dial on the vault door is turned a fraction either way after a certain closing hour, it will result in the sounding of the gong.

The O. B. McClintock Co. of Minneapolis, Minn., manufacturers of this up-to-date burglar alarm system not only guarantee the system to do its duty at all times, but also offer a standing reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any party attacking any bank using this system.
Mr. Carl M. Paynter, cashier of the institution, states that he will be glad to have the public inspect the system at any time.

EXPERT RECOMMENDS SWIMMING POOL AT "Y"

Committee Authorizes Architect to Draw Up Blue Prints For 18x30
Ft. Tank in Basement.

Blue prints are now being made of a swimming pool for the Young Men's Christian Association building.
An architect from the building committee of the International Association was down from New York City and made a survey.

That evening he went over with members of the pool committee the question of putting in a pool and they were so impressed with his recommendations that he was authorized to go ahead and draw up plans which would be submitted to the local Board of Directors for action.

The architect viewed the project as most possible and practical and favored the installation of a pool 18x30 ft.
in the basement about midway of the building. The pool would be of a certain type of concrete that has a finished polished surface of the appearance of tile.

It would be of a depth of 3 to 8 ft.
and would extend out from underneath the east side of the building. The cost would be in the neighborhood of $12,000. The expert considered the pool large enough for the community citing an instance of a pool only 18x 43 ft. serving the Young Women's Association in New York City with a membership of 10,000 girls.

PLAN EASTERN SHORE BOY SCOUTS' COUNCIL

Speaker Outlines To Rotary Club
Prospect of Large Organization With Headquarters Here.

Plans looking to the formation of a great Eastern Shore Council of the Boy Scouts, with headquarters at Salisbury, were briefly outlined to the Rotary Club on Thursday night by Dr. Alexander Mitchell, of Harrisburg, Pa.

Dr. Mitchell stated that there are six or eight million boys in the United States of scout age and that of these more than half a million are scouts at the present time. The scout movement is outstanding in more than 30 nations. The speaker informed his hearers that a survey of the Naval Academy showed that 48 per cent. of the midshipmen at Annapolis have been scouts.

"Speaking of the practical work the scouts do, Dr. Mitchell described how the boys and greatly aided the health authorities of Fort Belvoir in stamping out the malaria mosquito and he also cited other incidents that prove the worth of the movement.

In the near future, a council will be called at Salisbury at which eleven Eastern Shore counties will be represented. It is hoped that there will be 6,000 scouts enrolled before this time next year. The work locally will be more or less in charge of the Boys' Work committee of the Rotary Club.

BLUE BIRD TEA ROOM TO OPEN THURSDAY AT NOON.

Salisbury's new restaurant and tea room, the Blue Bird, will open its doors on Thursday, 17th. This attractive little eating place is located on the second floor of the Williams building on North Division Street and will be in charge of the Misses Dorothy and Beulah White, the latter having been formerly associated with the Lantern Tea Room on Main Street.

"REXOLINE" FOR MOTORISTS.

With Sherwood Bros., of Baltimore, opening up a new station in Sharp-town that will serve the wonder lubricant "Rexoline" to motorists many customers will be pleased. The above firm is the producer of "Rexoline" a high-grade motor fuel and in their lubricant there is the same high quality of perfection. The new station in Sharptown will sell the product in bulk and motorists for a radius of 50 miles can easily obtain same.

LOCAL LEGION POST NAMES 4 AS DELEGATES

Alternates Are Also Chosen For State Convention At Ocean
City Aug. 25-27.

COL. PALMER'S ADDRESS TO FEATURE OCCASION

Preparations Are Being Made For Handling Many "Buddies" and Newsboys' Band From Baltimore
Will Attend—Election of Officers Slated For Final Day.

Delegates from the local legion post to the State convention at Ocean City, Aug. 25-27 were named at the meeting of the Legionnaires last Friday night. Those chosen to represent the Wicomico post during the coming assembly were: Lex Grier, W. B.
Cocington, Jack Estill and Sam Adkins. The alternates are: Dr. Pil-chard, S. L. Estill, John L. Morris, and E. E. Powell.

Preparations are fast being consummated for the receiving and entertaining of all the "buddies" and their friends. The local post of the legion has charge of the decorating of the convention hall and of the obtaining of rates at the hotels and making other necessary arrangements for the comfort and convenience of the visitors. While no one post will be the host on this occasion, those located nearest to the scene will naturally be looked to to do their part toward making the convention a great success.

Legionnaires from all parts of the State are planning to come in full force to Maryland's seashore resort and there is every indication that this year's congress will eclipse all previous "gatherings. One of the features will be the presence of many members of the Women's Auxiliary and a number of disabled veterans from various hospitals and institutions.

The "Evening Sun's" newsboy band from Baltimore will be on hand to play the martial airs. One of the outstanding parts on the program will be an address by Col. John Palmer, of General Pershing's staff, Adj-Gen. Milton A. Redford, of Maryland, will also deliver an address.
Business sessions will be held on Aug. 26 and 27. The election of officers is slated for the final day and a sharp contest is expected between the city and county factions.

JOINT EXCURSION THURSDAY.

On Thursday, Aug. 17, the Sunday School of Bethesda M. P. Division
Street Baptist and Asbury M. E.
Churches will run a joint excursion to Ocean City. Special trains will leave Ocean City at 8:30 P. M. This is expected to be a large excursion with the members and friends of the three schools participating.

BROOKLYN PASTOR TO PREACH.

The Rev. Mr. Kelsey, of Brooklyn, New York, will visit Spring Hill parish, Sunday, Aug. 20, and hold services as follows: Spring Hill, 10:30 A. M.; Tyaskin, 3:30 P. M. and Quantico, 7:30 P. M. Mr. Kelsey will remain in the parish and hold services at Old Green Hill Church the following Thursday, Aug. 24.

MODERN EQUIPMENT INSTALLED BY LOCAL TELEPHONE EXCHANGE IMPROVES SERVICE

$16,400 Is Cost Of New Switchboard Making Total Of 15 Multi-plex Operated By Highly Trained Girls Who Serve 1868
Subscribers And Long Distance Calls.

Most modern and up-to-date equipment has just been installed in the Salisbury Office of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. which will enable the company to handle the long distances and local service more efficiently and satisfactorily to the public. The Telephone company is one of the largest public service corporations in the country, being the only State wide public utility in Maryland. It is constantly studying the public's need, providing for additional equipment and plant facilities to meet the growing demand for service.

The installation of the additional equipment costing $16,400 gives Salisbury a total of 15 switchboards which make up one of the largest exchanges outside of Baltimore City.

Through its lines 1,868 subscribers are served.

Each operator has before her an opening or "jack" for each and every telephone line in the district, and she can reach any telephone simply by inserting a plug in the proper jack. These jacks are arranged in what is known as a multiple, and there may be as many as 1,000 jacks in each multiple, arranged in blocks of 100. There is a multiple for every section of switchboard, and each is connected to every line going out of the office.

The operators at the switchboards are highly trained girls, picked for their adaptability, quickness and intelligence, to maintain service on a high standard. The company welcomes its subscribers at all times to visit its offices.

Dr. J. H. Carpenter To Be Delegate Of Moose

Will Represent Local Order at Great Mooseheart Convention in Illinois—Will Visit Niagara Falls.

Dr. J. H. Heiskell Carpenter will represent Salisbury Lodge 715, Loyal Order of Moose, at the supreme convention during the week of Aug. 20, at Mooseheart, Ill. Dr. Carpenter will leave for Philadelphia Friday, where he will be joined by Mrs. Carpenter and little girl.

From Philadelphia a large delegation will travel in special Pullman cars to Niagara Falls where a sightseeing trip will be arranged. From here the party will take a boat to Detroit where it will be entertained.
The most elaborate preparations have been made at Mooseheart for the reception of guests and the convention. President Harding and four members of the Cabinet will be present to survey Mooseheart in all its glory. It has been styled the shrine of childhood and the home of happy children.

PROGRESSIVE CITIZEN INSTALLS RADIOPHONE

Sharptown Merchant Adds To Town's List Of Recent Developments By Latest Acquisition.

J. P. Cooper, of Sharptown, has installed a radio-phone, so constructed as to be used either in his large department store or in his home nearby. So far as we have learned it is the first in the county outside of Salisbury.

This is a progressive move for Sharptown and Mr. Cooper, being the leading merchant in the town, is to be congratulated for using his best endeavors to modernize the place, already there are located three shirt factories and one of the largest berry crate and basket factories in the Shore and also an up-to-date packing house.

The radio-phone which Mr. Cooper has installed will receive the sound waves easily. It distinctly receives for a distance of one thousand miles under a guarantee by those who did the installation and from whom he purchased the machine. This will be ample to take from the two nearest distributing centers.

CABELL BRUCE FILES PAPERS AS CANDIDATE

Public Service Commission's Counsel Seeks Democratic Senatorial Nomination.

BACKED BY CITY AND STATE ORGANIZATION

Last Entry Into Race Assures Voters of a Wide Field of Candidates Both in Types and Views—
Mr. Bruce Is Opposed To Velstead Act.

William Cabell Bruce, general counsel to the Public Service Commission, filed his certificate of candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator on Friday. The announcement of his candidacy was not a surprise because he was known to have prepared his papers for filing before he left Baltimore on a trip to his Virginia farm.

It is understood that he has the support of the city and State organization. John S. Kelly is for him and John J. Mahon says "Mr. Bruce is the best man the party could have to run. Prominent Eastern Shore Democrats have been frank in avowing their intention of supporting Mr.
Bruce, who they say is well qualified for the Senate by reason of his birth, his training, his services to the State, and his ability.

In common with all the other candidates, Mr. Bruce is openly opposed to the Volstead Act. In its present form and would substitute for that act a measure allowing the free use of light wines and beers under Federal supervision. The last Democratic candidate to get in the race is also in favor of a lenient attitude toward Germany and is opposed to Government ownership of public utilities.
The fact that all the candidates are "wet" will undoubtedly mitigate the force of the anti-prohibition element in the State and will, in fact, prevent the wet and dry question becoming a real issue.

Speaking editorially of Mr. Bruce, the "Baltimore Sun" says: "The entry of Mr. William C. Bruce into the contest for the Democratic Senatorial nomination serves a distinctly useful purpose. It insures to the voters of a party what has hitherto been lacking—an opportunity to make their selection from a field of candidates of widely different types and opposing views."

"Mr. Bruce has been in public life in Maryland a good many years. In that time he has frequently commended himself to public confidence by his ability and earnestness. On the basis of his training and educational attainments, he is of the type ordinarily regarded as being of Senatorial calibre. And, to the extent that he will be able to inject life into an otherwise dull and uninteresting campaign, his appearance in the field is an advantage for those who are sincere in their desire to preserve the vitality of the primaries system."

LADIES ROOT HARD AT GORDY PARK ON FRIDAY

"Ladies Day" at Gordy Park was observed last Friday by more than 1, 000 loyal fans, half of which number were members of the fair sex. Urging their favorites, the White Clouds, on to victory with loud exhortations, the ladies were rewarded with a pretty battle of baseball in which neither side was able to emerge victor and after fourteen innings of strenuous baseball the chief arbiter called a halt and the game was pronounced a draw 2-2.

Four Children All Under 12 Lost To Parents When Train Hits Automobile

Young Daughters Of Henry W. Jones, Eden Farmer, Hurled To Death When Father Fails To See Fast Express Approaching At Crossing—Husband And Wife On Front Seat Not Seriously Injured But Prostrated With Grief.

Huddled together on the rear seat of their father's car, four little girls, daughters of Henry W. Jones, a farmer near Eden, were hurled to death early Monday afternoon, when train No. 455, a fast southbound express, struck the machine in which the family was riding on a private crossing just a half mile north of Eden Station on the N. Y. P. & N. railroad.

The accident was one of the saddest and most distressing this section has experienced for some time.
Losing their all in a single blow, the father and mother, although not fatally injured, were frantic with grief and the latter lies in the hospital here, suffering from both severe shock and intense sorrow. Doctors however do not consider her injuries serious although she is badly cut about the face as is the father.

Three of the children were killed when the heavy locomotive crashed into the light Chevrolet touring car, hurling them through the air for a distance of 40 yards. The fourth child, Thelma, age 9, who died early Tuesday morning in a hospital was thrown only about half the distance of her sisters and when picked up was unconscious, remaining in that condition until the last.
None of them were mangled but died from internal injuries. One doctor was of the opinion that their necks had been broken.

Mr. Jones together with his wife and the four children dressed immediately after dinner Monday afternoon for a trip to Mrs. Jones' relatives at Shad Point. Before marriage

Mrs. Jones was Miss Ruby P. Hilgh-man. Getting into his machine the father placed all the children on the back seat and with his wife in front started out the road leading from his farm to the main road running parallel to the railroad but on the other side.

Thinking that the fast southbound express had already passed and concerning himself only with viewing the northbound track for the approach of the locomotive, Mrs. Jones was also due at this time. Mrs. Jones started across and was horrified to see the impending danger on his right. It was too late for action and ere he could speed up the motor and slip to safety the massive locomotive struck the car just behind the driver's seat smashing it to pieces on the roadside 16 yards away. Mrs. Jones, it is thought, was catapulted through the windshield, while her husband was also thrown out. Crouched on the back seat of the machine the children met their fate. They must have heard the father's cry of fear but knew that something was wrong.
However storm curtains placed on the side of the machine that was hit obstructed a clear view.

A colored woman working for Mrs.
David Pryor, who lives near by, witnessed the accident and rushed in to tell her mistress, who was the first only children.

on the scene followed by Mr. H. P.
Snelling, another neighbor. They found Mrs. Jones in a dazed state staggering about near the wreckage and the father rushing around distractedly to each child, picking it up in his arms and begging for an answer to his words.

In the meantime the train, Conductor A. A. Waller in charge, had stopped and the Engineer B. M.
Pusey leaping to the ground called for doctors among the passengers.
There happened to be a couple aboard and rendering first aid to both the father and mother, they turned their attention to the one child who seemed to be yet alive. Train No. 482 was then stopped on its way north to Salisbury and the injured placed on board. A record run was made to the Salisbury station and the victims rushed to the hospital where the child died Tuesday morning and the mother now lies prostrated. The father is able to get about.

The three dead children, Mildred, 7, Aileen, 5, and Helen, 12 were carried to the home of Mr. Snelling nearby.
Thelma, who died later, was 9 years old. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Fruitland Church and the little bodies laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery.
The grief-stricken parents are the recipients of much sympathy and many expressions of condolences.
They have been married for about 13 years and the four girls were their only children.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS AT ARCADE THEATRE TODAY

Popular Movie Actor Appears In His Greatest Production "The Three Musketeers."

Salisbury movie-goers will have an opportunity on Thursday to see on the screen one of the greatest plays of the season. In fact "The Three Musketeers" has been adjudged one of the best ever filmed.

Critics in New York City were loud in their praise of Douglas Fairbanks for his movie version of Dumas' famous novel. It is a 20th century production that in historical reproduction is minutely correct.

The picture came to the Arcade Theatre, Wednesday the 16th, for a stay of two days and the prices are of the same popular scale. In "The Three Musketeers" Douglas Fairbanks does his greatest bit of acting and his many fights are most thrilling. Especially keen is the sword play. In order to make his work real and natural, the hero practiced for weeks fencing with the best masters in France.

MOSQUITO IS CUNNING BELIEVES IN EXERCISE

Particular of Diet. Associates Only With Good Moods. People. In Mood of Industry.

That the prevalence of the mosquito even of the poison-filled malaria mosquito, can be viewed with perfect equanimity and, indeed, a certain sense of humor, is indicated by the following essay, written by a high school student of Hoboken and published in the "New York Times."

"The mosquito is generally described as an insect. This is entirely wrong. The true definition of the mosquito is the same as General Sherman's definition of war. The mosquito consists of a large boring machine with wings attached and just enough legs to support it while it is boring. The mosquito is easily raised and will thrive without attention. He grows as well in roof spouts or rain barrels as he does when surrounded by every luxury that man can buy. In fact, the mosquito when left to make his own way on streams or marsh land is more likely to reach maturity than those raised in incubators.

"You need expend neither time nor thought on your mosquito herd. It is not necessary to water it, drive it some at night or drive it to pleasure in the morning. It will come to the house of its own accord at feeding time, spend the night in song and depart for the swamp or woodland in the morning. The mosquito likes company. He not only loves his own kind and is devoted to his family and relatives, but is exceedingly fond of the companionship of human beings. He is very trusting and affectionate and seems to be without fear. Cruel persons sometimes take advantage of his confiding nature.

"The mosquito naturally has a cunning disposition and is always light-hearted. His song is a falsetto tenor of a most penetrating and pleasant timbre. Even a young one, whose voice has not been placed, can fill a room with his tones and set the hearers to waving their hands. Some mosquitoes are afraid to go home in the dark and will follow a human being for miles to have company. The porch is a spot much frequented by mosquitoes in the evening. They like to play hide and seek with you, hiding underneath your skirt or trouser leg or behind your ear. The little things!

"The ant is supposed to hold the record for persistence in the insect world, but as a matter of fact he comes second to the mosquito, which never waits for opportunity to knock at the door but goes to it. It is an indication in how to achieve success to watch one trying to get through a screen. The mosquito is a firm believer in the value of exercise. Many a man can ascribe his escape from a malarial fever to the tactics of this sometimes unappreciated Little Stinger of All the World.

"He likes nothing better than to have you get up at two o'clock in the morning and chase him around the room, making wild swings with a towel or newspaper. Apparently he is terror-stricken, but he is only egging you on. All the time he is chuckling to think how he is forcing you to exercise muscles which ordinarily you allow to get soft. Compared to the mosquito's Nightly Ninety the Daily Dozen are child's play.

"He knows human nature, does the mosquito. He knows if you light the gas or turn on the electric light it will show his comrades who are pinning for your society where you are. Likewise he knows that the scent of a mosquito is a deadly thing and that unless you sleep in a bathtub full of it the time is bound to come when he can approach you without offending his sense of smell. Were it not for the mosquito the wire screen and mosquito net industries would need more protection than a Republican tariff could give them. It is said that the manufacturers of these commodities are much interested in improving the breed of mosquitoes and are financing experiments intended to produce a mosquito of greater boring and stinging power."

WHITE POTATO CROP BREAKS ALL RECORDS

16,019 Carloads Shipped From Delaware Peninsula This Season.

The white potato crop of the Maryland-Delaware-Virginia Peninsula has been a record-breaker this year, according to data compiled by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The movement for the present season has been practically completed. To date it consists of 16,019 carloads, an increase of 10 per cent. over the previous high record made last year. Comparatively little of the crop seems to go to Baltimore, the bulk of it going to the markets of the Philadelphia, New York and New England districts and to the Central Western region between Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis. Nearly 20 per cent of the entire crop this year went to New England.

The Pennsylvania Railroad reports that though the crop has been the heaviest ever known the car supply has been adequate. About 5,000 box cars were required to handle the crop, each car averaging about two round trips between shipping point and market. July 12 was the heaviest day for shipments this year, the Pennsylvania that day carrying 661 carloads away from the Peninsula farms.

WATERS FAIL TO GIVE UP BODY OF J. M. KING

Frantic Search Made for Victim of Cape Charles Bathing Tragedy
Who Perished With Fiancee.

People all over the Peninsula are sympathizing with Mr. Joseph D. King, of Cape Charles and supervising agent for the N. Y. P. & N., whose son, James D. King, was drowned last week together with his fiancée, Miss Rosaline M. Seny, of Cobb's Island.

Miss Seny's body was recovered shortly after the tragedy but that of the young man failed to appear on the surface of the waters. For the past week scores of craft have been patrolling the marshes and bays and ocean water front for some trace of the corpse but in vain.

There have also been two seaplanes in the search which have hovered low over the waters and have scoured the territory for miles. It is the opinion of many that the body will soon wash ashore.

Mr. King was one of the most popular young men of the Eastern Shore, having graduated from the high school of this city in 1917, entering Cornell University that fall, and was a member of the students' army training camp in the fall of 1918. He entered Washington and Lee University in the fall of 1919, and graduated in law last spring. He passed the State bar examination in May. He was popular with the students at Washington and Lee, serving as vice-president of the student body and vice-president of the junior law class, and was a member of Kappa Beta Phi, Delta Xi and Phi Delta Phi.

Joseph D. King, the father, who was rescued from drowning after going down twice and later was given aid by the life guards on Cobb's Island in trying to rescue his son and Miss Seny, has entirely recovered. He and Mrs. King are sorely grieved over the tragedy. Mr. King is widely known in railroad circles, having been supervising agent for the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad Company for a number of years.

Miss Seny was born at Amelia Courthouse, Virginia, but lived most of her girlhood days in King and Queen county. She attended the public schools of that county and graduated from Fredericksburg Normal School in 1914. She taught school here for two seasons, and it was while here she became acquainted with young King. She had been teaching in Highland Park school, Richmond, for the last two years, and was among the most popular and efficient teachers in the State.

Sh-h-h!

An old colored woman in Alabama was on her sick bed and, fearing the worst, essayed to make preparations for her departure.

"Willyum," she said to her devoted spouse, "you gotter promise to bury me in de old place in Bummint'ham near mah mammy. Ah ain't gwine to rest in peace among all dese strange folkses hyah."

"Dat'll be all right," assured Willyum, "we is gwine try you' hyah fust, an' den, does you' start raisin' a ruckus, we is gwine try you' in bummint'ham."

He Craved Action.

It was a sad day in Barracks B. The most popular buck in the company was high unto death in the reservation hospital and rumors were that he had attempted to take his own life.

VINES MAKE VERANDAS COOL AND COMFORTABLE

Airy Green Curtains of Mother Nature Make Excellent Coverings for Porches of All Kinds.

How much attention do you give your outdoor dining room—the veranda?

No veranda is quite complete until it is covered with some thick, green vines that furnish the necessary shade for the hot summer days.

To be sure, one can provide shade with a make-shift canvas awning which will shut out everything but the heaviest breezes with its heavy canvas folds. But how does this compare with the soft, airy green curtain which Mother Nature will so generously weave for us, if we provide her with a few plans of vines to start with?

Economical folk will realize also the saving in the cost between even the simplest cloth awning with its accompanying fixings and that of a few small growing vines.

Each year, too, with a very little assistance to nature in the matter of fertilizing and cultivation you will have an entirely fresh, new green curtain, a thicker, handsomer one every summer. The awning cloth, on the other hand will probably look a little faded and shabby even after the first summer's use, and will be almost "impossible" after the second summer.

With so many varieties of vines it is always possible to choose one that seems to be especially adapted to the shape of the veranda to be covered, or to the special architecture of the house. Although all vines are beautiful and beautiful any spot, they may over, nevertheless, one may use judgment in choosing just the right one.

For covering the front of the porch there are many good vines. The one which gives the densest shade, and also protection from rain, because of the overlapping leaves, is the "Dutchman's Pipe Vine" (Aristolochia Sipho). Its name is derived from the curious pipe-shaped flowers of brownish color. The leaves are large. It is a very rapid grower.

The Japanese "Virgin's Bower" (Clematis paniculata) is also one of the finest porch vines. Inconspicuous in early spring, it makes its growth early enough to give shade from the mid-summer sun, and in autumn is a mass of beautiful flowers, which almost hide the vine.

The honeysuckle not only makes a pleasant shade, but are so deliciously fragrant that one or two should be planted, even where other vines are used. Hall's Japan is one of the most satisfactory varieties.

Another fragrant climber is the Akebia. It is very ornamental and graceful, and especially well suited to sunny patios.

For the quickest results, plant the Kudzu vine (Pueraria Thunbergiana). It grows with almost unbelievable rapidity, and gives a very tropical effect.

Vines for Walls.

For covering walls, nothing equals the ivy. The best known is the very hardy Boston Ivy (Amelopsis Veitchii); but there are several other good sorts. The Boston Ivy will cling to a smooth stone or bush surface, and as the leaves naturally "lap" like shingles, it sheds the rain. A beautiful dark green during summer, it changes to the most gorgeous shades of crimson under the brush of a frost.

The well known Wisteria is perhaps the most decorative of all vines. The foliage is attractive, and the long pendant plumes of fragrant flowers, of purple or white, are unequalled by the flowers of any other hardy vine. It is ideal for plants to climb over old stumps, or a dead tree. The Trumpet Vine (Bigonia) is also excellent for this purpose. Both of these vines need some support, as they will not "cling" like the ivy.

A vine is a good investment because from a single planting you get returns for years and years, and they require little or no care being not only very hardy, but comparatively free from insect and disease troubles of all kinds. Moreover, they can be planted in either spring or fall or for that matter, during the summer if you get pot-grown plants. Don't let another season go by without providing your home with at least a few vines.

Washington Student Is First In Essay Contest

Karl G. Pearson, Senior at Central High, Wins State Prize of Near East Relief.

The first prize in the contest for an essay by high school students of Maryland District of Columbia on the situation in the Near East Relief territory has been won by Karl G. Pearson, 1410 N Street, N. W. Washington, D. C., who wrote on Armenia. Mr. Pearson, besides winning the State prize, is now in the race for the nationwide prizes, the highest being $500 and all offered by Henry Morgenthau, former United States Ambassador to Turkey. Mr. Pearson won his prize over a number of contestants. He is 17 years old and is in the senior class at the Eastern High School, Washington, D. S. He won a gold medal last February in an essay contest by the Sons of the Revolution and Sons of the American Revolution and has been elected editor of the school paper and was presented by the faculty of the Eastern High School with a silver medal in scholarship.

Tax Commission After Full Property Values

Mr. Lindsay, Representative of As- sessment Division, Outlines Plans To Local Assessors.

Mr. Lindsay, representing the as- sessment division of the State Tax Commission, in a two-hour talk to the local assessors of the county, made it plain that the commission wanted as- sessments that indicated the full mar- ket value of property. Buildings are to be assessed in accordance with present values and not on cost values.

The local men were given to under- stand that they were the court of last resort but if necessary the State Tax Commission would send a representa- tive down to check up. The holding of the assessment this year was com- pulsory under the law. Property val- ues are considered unsettled and it is probable that the new assessment might lower the taxable basis of the county.

The Great AUCTION SALE of One Hundred Superb Building lots and One Hundred ad- ditional Ideal Vacation Camp Sites

In Ocean City Heights

The New Addition to Ocean City, Md.

Beginning

Tuesday, Aug. 22nd 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Wednesday, Aug. 23rd 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

This High Class property fronts the Southside of the New Concrete Highway and is the first high and dry ground West of the New Bridge leading into Ocean City. It is within 5 minutes walk or 1 1/4 minutes by auto from the Ocean front. It is also the most elevated land between Ocean City and Berlin. Every foot we sell is high, dry and well drained.

As there are practically no available desirable building lots left in Ocean City East of the Bay, we are of the unquali- fied opinion that, Ocean City Heights is The Key to all Future Growth and Development of Ocean City.

Every lot and camp site will be sold unreservedly for the High Dollar on terms easy and attractive to every one who desires a permanent home, a summer cottage or a camp site at the seaside, for vacation time.

Every lot and camp site fronts a broad street with a fine view of the Bay, town and ocean; close enough for comfort, and far enough away to be rid of the annoyance during the summer season of the noise of the crowds and vehicles that fill this popular resort. It will pay you to visit Ocean City Heights before the sale to inspect this property either from a point of home building or investment. We will be pleased to see you, or to mail you a map of the property free, together with particulars of the big event, etc.

Special Entertainment Features of the Great Sale

The Famous Dixie Twin Auctioneers in action, selling a lot a minute; The Merry Band of Cambridge, conceded to be the best spontaneous aggregation of musical genius in Mary- land. $100.00 in gold awarded as prizes in the free for all contests of the occasion and four Ideal Vacation Camp Sites given away free, one at each morning and afternoon session each day.

We invite you to our Camp Office on the grounds of Ocean City Heights to see one of our demonstration Vacation Camp Tents. It is cozy and complete from cot to cook stove. It is a dandy.

Ladies are cordially invited to the auction.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES BOOMING.

Sales totals of the great mail order houses show an enormous increase, particularly in strictly farming sections. This is not pleasant news for retail stores in our average small town, but it is what they may expect.

There is only one way in which the insidious mail order campaign can be combatted, and that is by local merchants frankly explaining their merchandising possibilities to the people through advertising.

It is a well-known fact that the big mail order concerns maintain departments of considerable magnitude to check up the towns where the local merchants appear to lack enterprise.

There they concentrate their batteries of advertising and catalogue distribution.

The mail order house never prospers in a town where the local merchants advertise consistently, because the mail order men know they cannot compete with the local store if the merchant understands his business.

The cheapness with which the big mail order man can buy is more than offset by the low overhead the local merchant can get along with.

To hold his own, however, the local merchant must not hide his light under a bushel.

The public needs educating to a knowledge that they can buy at home as cheaply, that they can actually see what they are buying before they pay for it, and that they do not have to wait sometimes weeks for the delivery of the article they want.

The National Cloak and Suit company reports a heavy increase in its business, all in the country, though it is doubtful if this great concern carries anything like the line of up-to-date goods carried by local stores throughout the country.

When the merchants get ready to talk plainly to the people they will have nothing to fear from the mail order man, but if they remain silent, then the outsider will surely burrow his way into their profits.

Self-satisfaction has spelled many a bankruptcy.

THE GREAT AMERICAN BELL.

In practically every home on farm and in town, in every shop and store, factory and office there is a little bell behind which is a story of romance and before which is a wonderful world that is made less wide. That is your telephone bell.

We used to call hello across the field. This little bell now carries our hello across the continent. The farmer who was ten miles away from town had to harness his horse and drive the old spring seat for better than an hour to deliver a simple business message. Now he rings the little bell and in two minutes the business is done.

With equal ease the business man in Minneapolis confers with his customer in New Orleans and the New York lawyer talks to his San Francisco client.

Imagine what it would be to be without it. How strange that scientific men of sixty-six years ago viewed it with suspicion.

On the first day of this month in his Nova Scotia summer home, Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, died in his seventy-fifth year. His death brought back the story of the advent of the phone.

Bell was highly educated in the scientific schools of Scotland and England. As a young man he was a professor of sciences in Boston University. He married the daughter of a wealthy merchant. He joined the family in extending to her special tender consideration for she was deaf. He resolved to use his scientific knowledge to perfect a device that would give her an artificial ear drum that his voice might carry to her. For a year he experimented in his father-in-law's barn. He failed to find a way to carry his voice to his beloved and afflicted bride, but that romantic effort brought to him the instrument that has carried the human voice over seas and across continents.

His father-in-law lost his fortune. This invention rebuilt it beyond the proportions of all former dreams.

In 1876 Mr. Bell carried his newly patented invention to the Philadelphia exposition where our nation celebrated its Centennial. But no one noticed the telephone. Popular interest seemed to center in the butter lady, moulded out of New York's famous Herkimer County butter.

Scientists assembled there but even they were not attracted. At last two of the more eminent consented to look at the odd little device. One spoke into the mouthpiece, another at a distance listened at the receiver.

"My God, it talks!" the latter cried. And then the telephone came.

It is in your house and my house, your shop and my shop. Our life is now built to be dependent upon it.

On the first of this month few took notice of the passing of this great benefactor of mankind. He shortened distance; saved time; sped up all the wheels of industry and promoted commerce. He was a great progress-maker. Mr. Bell sent our hello everywhere. He brought us the little bell that we have made the Great American Bell. It is the little bell that calls us to its bidding more than any bell the world has ever known.

HONEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922.

Since we are all out helping to make the world better why not do it in half the time? If we put the time spent in kicking into correcting, gee, what a hole we could knock in the things we don't like! Most people who don't kick say "what's the use?" because they think they are powerless, so they waste their time grumbling. That's not it. There's no use kicking because there never can be an end to the cause for kicking. As soon as one thing's cured another bobs up. When we're shaving by wireless there'll be a kick because the static shakes the razor. Meantime suppose we all butt in an' better things, and meantime also smile.

WICOMICALITIES.

It certainly has been a wet season for crops and candidates.

"Steel Plants Turn to Oil" says a headline. Some transformation!

"Sun Still A Menace" says a headline in a Baltimore daily. What Sun? Daily, Evening, Sunday, Old Sol, or the Chinaman?

According to Leonard L. Cline, everybody's brewing it on the Eastern Shore.

Home bruin will make any man as grouchy as a bear.

Now Lloyd George can live in peace.

Another Strike Possibility

ATTENTION TO DETAIL.

When a feller pays attention to the commonest of things, there's a powerful sight of comfort in the happiness it brings. If we overlook the details in the rush of gettin' there, we may face the grim necessity of bringin' up the rear.

In the thousan' little ventures that a feller undertakes, it may be plantin' flowers, or it may be killin' snakes. Our hand may grasp the saber, or the handle of the plow—but we don't accomplish anything, without a knowin' how!

The man that borrows money at a triflin' rate per cent, may dissipate his wages till he don't know how they went. . . . But the keeful money lender, as he figgers the amount, might illuminate the spender, on the little things that count.

I reckon there is women that's disposed to keepin' house. . . . They'd entertain the elephant an' squall about the mouse! They fight the little red ant, while they love a dog, by jings, but that's the way with women—they aspire to greater things!

RED RUSSIA FONDLY CLINGS TO ITS TEA

English Drink Is Foundation of Russian Daily Life And Is Used By All Classes.

The Bolsheviks have clung obstinately to at least one capitalistic rite. Observers report that the Russians refreshed themselves in the intervals of the Genoa Conference with copious draughts of tea. It was probably of better quality than that which they had recently had at home.

Russia produces no tea, but in the present disruption of commerce tea is about the only commodity generally distributed in the channels of trade. This is because it is not imported from Europe, but comes from China through Mongolia, and the trade by camel and horse caravan long antedates modern commerce and its methods and hence was less upset by the collapse of banks, railroads, advertising, mail and the whole paraphernalia of Twentieth Century business.

If tea is the ornament of English social life it is the foundation of Russian daily life. One sees it everywhere, among all classes of society in all districts, the White Russians of Volga and the north, the great Russians, the most typical Slavs of Moscow and the central region, the Little Russians of the Ukraine all drink tea.

So do the 60 and more other races, from the Samoyaydi (self-eaters, because they were once cannibals) and Mongolians of Northern Siberia and the highly intelligent Tartars of Kazan, related to the Turks, and the fierce Mordva, Cheremis and other Finlike races.

Every Russian will admit that his people have little mechanical genius and will tell you as a classical joke that the sole Russian invention is the samovar, invented by a Turk. This large-copper urn, often very old and beautiful in its simple design, is the one essential piece of furniture for the poorest log hut. It consists of a large chimney, at the base of which burns charcoal surrounded by a compartment for water.

To start up the charcoal after it is lit, the top of an old boot is fitted over the chimney of the foot pumped up and down like a bellows. Then a short length of stove pipe is attached to the chimney of the samovar with the hole in the stone chimney of the house, and the draft-forced flames speedily bring the water to a boil. The samovar is then disconnected and set on the table, where the glowing charcoal keeps stove water hot for some time. The red glow through the grate at the bottom makes a pretty picture accompanied by the cheerful hum of the boiling water.

At no matter what hour an acquaintance may call hot tea is immediately ly prepared and served to women in cups, to men always in ordinary glasses. An old custom still common among the peasant women but discarded by the Europeanizing class was to drink the tea from the saucer, balanced delicately on three fingers. It requires real skill, and when gracefully done by a pretty girl with slender fingers is a delight to watch.

Moscow merchants drink dozens of glasses of tea while dickerings in a room back of the shop. At every railroad station crowds of passengers surrounded a tap from which flows boiling water for their kettles. There are many classes of tea. The staple is dried tea leaves such as we use.

SECOND LIEUTENANTS ARE IN MUCH DEMAND

Preliminary Examinations For Commissions Now Being Conducted by War Department.

The War Department is in need of Second Lieutenants from the Regular Army.

While the recent act of Congress limits the total number of Army Officers to 12,000, the reduction will be entirely in the higher grades, and in carrying out the entire plan of Congress, it will actually create vacancies in the grade of Second Lieutenant. Thus the Army will be reduced at the top and filled up at the bottom.

Preliminary examinations for appointment as Second Lieutenant in the Regular Army are now being held in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia under the supervision of the Commanding General of the 3rd Corps Area, whose headquarters is at Baltimore, Md.

A board to conduct preliminary examinations has been convened at Richmond, Va.

Final examinations for appointment as Second Lieutenant will be held the first week in September. The Headquarters 80th Division at 7th and Franklin Streets, Richmond, Va., has been constituted an agency to furnish information to those interested and many inquiries are being received from former officers and college graduates.

There are about 1,800 vacancies so that it is expected that every one who qualifies will be appointed. Appointments will be made in all branches except the Judge Advocate's Department.

The Strategic Moment.

Citizen: "That's my car. The thief is just fixing a blowout." Policeman: "All right, I'll go over and arrest him." Citizen: "Sh-h-h! Wait till he gets the tire pumped up."

REGULAR OFFICERS OF ARMY FACE "PLUCKING"

Board of General Officers Has Begun Selection of 2,500 Who Will Lose Ranks.

The Board of General Officers appointed in Washington to undertake the most wholesale "plucking" job ever initiated among the regular army officers' corps held its first meeting with Maj.-Gen. Joseph T. Dickman, retired, presiding. It has begun operations toward the elimination or demotion of some 2,500 officers today.

Members of the board, which is representative of all arms of the service, were greatly concerned in their preliminary discussions over the probable effect upon the morale of the army of the suspended sentence now hanging over the head of practically every officer in the service, with the exception of General Pershing and the baker's dozen of second lieutenants now in the army.

Congress, in directing that the officers' corps be reduced by Jan. 1 to 12,000, did not include the general officers of the army in fixing the number to be retained in each grade. The War Department, in preparing instructions for the "plucking board," did include the general officers so far as retirement of any of the major or brigadier generals on physical disability would create vacancies and permit the appointment of colonels to general officer rank, reducing the number of surplus colonels to that extent.

There appeared also to be much concern among board members as to the view army officers might take of the board's action in recommending any officer for honorable discharge. Preliminary investigation indicates that probably more than 1,700 officers now on the rolls must be "separated" from the active service in this way.

The board, it is understood, will seek by every means to impress upon the army and upon the general public the view that discharge under those conditions in no way reflects upon the character of the service or a discharged officer has rendered and that in a majority of cases at least the army would much prefer to retain these officers' services.

Board members are understood to feel that there is little prospect of finding many officers now on the rolls who merit discharge. The army recently cleaned house in this regard on its own motion, and the suggestion of General Pershing to Congress that the strength of the corps be fixed at 13,500 was based upon the efforts then in progress to get rid of unsuitable officers in the way Congress previously had provided through efficiency ratings and the "Class B" ratings.

Workshop For Blind To Exhibit At Fair

State Institution Will Display Variety of Articles Made by Invalids and Hold Sale.

Through the courtesy of Mr. D. J. Ward, president of The Wicomico Fair Association, space has been granted to the Maryland Workshop for the Blind, located at 401 North Fulton Avenue, Baltimore, Md., for an exhibit and sale of articles made by the blind.

This exhibit includes a great variety of knitted and crocheted articles, fancy and useful baskets, hammocks, mops, brooms, etc. These products show really wonderful craftsmanship and are interesting as evidence of the skill of the blind workmen, and because of their intrinsic value.

We hope to make this sale a feature of "The Great Salisbury Fair." We promise that the work will intrigue the citizens of Salisbury, who are interested in and proud of their State Institutions.

REPUBLICANS OF MARYLAND

Your Duty To Your Party Is To SEND

John W. Garrett

to the United States Senate!

Senator France, on March 2, 1922, on the floor of the United States Senate, repudiated the Republican Party.

This is a photographic reproduction of a section of Page 3616 of the Congressional Record of March 2, 1922. Read where Senator France turned his back on the Republican Party:

If you Democratic Senators stand steadfastly and determinedly for these principles which my party seems to be now repudiating you will meet with your reward at the hands of the American people, and I hope to God that you do.

Mr. Garrett insists that the Republican Party has NOT departed from its high principles; nor has it become apostate, as Mr. France charged on the floor of the Senate on March 20, 1920.

VOTE FOR

John W. Garrett

And send to the Senate a true Republican, one who will adhere to the principles for which the Republican Party stands.

OLD FIRE HORSE KILLS SELF WHEN DISCHARGED

Rather Than Haul Garbage After Ten Years Faithful Service Old "Jack Gallop" Commits Suicide.

Ten years of honorable service as a fire horse rewarded with a job hauling a garbage wagon broke the heart of old "Jack Gallop." He committed suicide recently in front of a firehouse, and his firemen friends say he did it deliberately.

Old Jack for years was one of three plump, sleek bays who whirled a steamer to every big fire in Washington, and to many a little one, too. But the motor finally got Old Jack and his pals and they went the way of thousands of others in an age of progress.

A week ago there were some eobs choked down and some tears brushed away among the firemen over in Congress Heights when Jack and his mates were led away. Today Jack turned up with one of them on an ill-smelling filthy garbage wagon in old Georgetown.

The day was hot and the job was nasty, and the disgrace was worst of all. Nobody knows what Jack might have said in horse to his mate, but anyway, he took the bit in his teeth and bolted, dragging his teammate with him and heading for the nearest engine house. Jack knew right where it was, too, although he never had worked in that part of the city before.

He galloped full tilt right into the brick wall, head-on, and crumpled down in a heap. The shocked and grieved firemen, recognizing the old hero by the brand marks on his hoofs gave him the coup de grace to end his struggles.

Nobody could convince them that Jack Gallop did not deliberately take his life rather than end his hauling a garbage wagon.

SANITARY TERMS ARE EXPLAINED TO LAYMEN

Department of Agriculture Emphasizes Distinction Between Antiseptic and Disinfectant.

Pointing out that an insecticide is not a dependable disinfectant and that there is a wide difference between an antiseptic and a disinfectant, the United States Department of Agriculture emphasizes the use of the right preparation in disinfecting premises. Sanitation is especially important in preventing losses from animal diseases and along with attention to cleanliness, disinfectants are frequently necessary, especially after an outbreak of a contagious disease. Here is condensed information on the subject, prepared as a result of the department's experience in advising persons who misunderstand the purpose and correct use of disinfectants.

The word "infect" means contaminated with or affected by disease germs; "disinfect" means freed of disease germs. A "disinfectant" is a product that destroys disease germs or renders them harmless. An "antiseptic" is a substance that prevents the development and growth of disease germs, but an antiseptic is not a disinfectant unless it is capable of destroying disease germs in addition to preventing their growth.

A disinfectant is not necessarily an "insecticide" for some powerful disinfectants are relatively harmless for insects and the best insecticides may be of little value as disinfectants.

Formaldehyde is one of the most powerful disinfectants known but it is a very weak insecticide; and, conversely, hydrocyanic acid is deadly for insects and all forms of animal life, while it has little power as a germicide or disinfectant. It is well to remember also that "deodorants" are not necessarily disinfectants—one destroys odors, the other destroys germs.

No single disinfectant is appropriate in all cases. Select the proper substance, apply liberally, allow ample time for the disinfectant to do its work, and remember that success depends in large part upon the care and exactness of the persons who prepare and apply the disinfectant.

STATES GET SURPLUS WAR MATERIAL TO USE

All Sorts of Supplies and Equipment Delivered to States For Road Building.

Surplus war material valued at $139,773,986 was delivered to the States for use in road construction up to July 1, reports the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture. The material, which consisted of all sorts of supplies and equipment suitable for road building for which the War Department had no further need, was distributed on the same basis as monetary Federal aid.

In value of material delivered, Texas and New York lead with nearly $8,000,000 worth of material, and every State with the exception of five of the smaller ones received supplies valued at over $1,000,000.

This material has been of great value in road construction, and there is hardly a county in the United States in which some of it has not been used.

Probably of greatest value has been the 29,325 motor vehicles distributed, consisting of 24,752 trucks and 4,573 automobiles, and in addition a large number of tractors.

The system of distribution has been so arranged that the States requisition only material useful to them. In some cases they fall behind in allotments in order to wait for material.

Many of the States have shown great ingenuity in conditioning worn equipment, using war material to equip shops in which other war material is made suitable for use.

There is still a large quantity of material in this country for distribution. This will be further increased by material used by the army of occupation in Germany soon to be brought back.

CATTLE TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT GIVEN IMPETUS

Louisiana Latest State to Fall in Line and Inaugurate Campaign Against Stock Plague.

As the possibility of eradicating tuberculosis in cattle becomes apparent to a greater number of people, the campaign against the great live-stock plague gains impetus. States and counties that have given little thought to this work from the economic standpoint are now taking it up in a businesslike manner, says the United States Department of Agriculture, because they can see the possibility of ending for all time this drain upon their live-stock resources.

The latest State to fall in line for practical tuberculosis eradication work is Louisiana. On June 29 the legislature passed a bill authorizing the State Live Stock Sanitary Board to cooperate with the United States Department of Agriculture, and providing an indemnity fund of $15,000 a year for two years. A small amount of eradication work had been done there before, but because no money was provided for paying indemnities for slaughtered animals almost no progress was made. Since the State has only a light infestation of tuberculosis, estimated by the Bureau of Animal Industry at 1 per cent., it should require only a few years of such appropriations to free the cattle entirely.

Massachusetts a State that has been spending money to fight tuberculosis of cattle since 1894, recently passed a law enabling the State Bureau of Animal Industry to cooperate with the United States Department of Agriculture. About $60,000 a year will be provided to pay indemnities on the cooperative basis with the Federal Government.

14 PER CENT. WORLD TRADE DONE BY U. S.

Figures Show This Country Controlled Only 7 Per Cent of International Trade in 1870.

World international trade in 1920 aggregated approximately $100,000,000,000 in value, at par of exchange, compared with $63,000,000,000 in the closing year of the war and $40,000,000,000 at its beginning, states The World Almanac, using data compiled by the National City Bank of New York. The figures are based on the published trade reports of 20 principal countries whose international commerce ordinarily forms about two-thirds that of the world. The $100,000,000,000 total is ten times the world trade of 1870, the bank says, when the United States took off its coat and entered seriously into world trade. In that year, 1870, our international trade was about 8 per cent. of that of the world; in 1918 approximately 11 per cent.; in 1919 about 14 per cent., and in 1920 again about 14 per cent.

Prior to the war we supplied but about one-sixth of the manufactures entering international trade and in 1920 nearly one-third. Our manufactures, exported, amounted to little more than $1,000,000,000 per annum and in 1920 were more than $4,000,000,000, having thus increased 300 per cent. in value in the 1913-1920 period, while world international trade was increasing 150 per cent. in nominal value in that same period.

Imports form an unusually large share of the aggregate international trade of the world. As nearly as can now be determined the nominal value of the merchandise imported by all countries of the world in 1920 will aggregate about $55,000,000,000, and the exports about $46,000,000,000, making the share which imports formed of world trade in 1920 about 55 per cent., against an average of about 52 per cent. in the pre-war years.

But There Aren't Many.

St. Peter was examining a newly arrived immigrant seeking entrance. He had given his occupation as editor and publisher. Following is a transcript of the testimony:

Q: "Ah, yes—of the world's greatest newspapers?"

A: "No, sir. Just a common rag."

Q: "Circulation the largest in your city?"

A: "No, sir; oh, no indeed! One of the smallest in the country."

Q: "You'll do," said St. Peter. "Pick your harp."

THE GREAT SALISBURY FAIR

14th ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Opens Tuesday, August 22nd.
At SALISBURY, MD.

The Great Salisbury Fair will open its gates for its 14th consecutive Fair, on Tuesday, Aug. 22nd, and continue for 4 days---Aug. 22-23-24-25th

Beginning as a small Fair it has grown year by year in size and value until to-day it is the largest and best Fair in this section. It has striven during these years to help arouse the people to the value and importance of improved methods of farming and stock-raising and at the same time provide clean and healthy amusements and sports for its patrons.

THIS YEAR'S PROGRAM: The management is confident that this year its program of entertainment and exhibits is better than ever before presented here.

RACING—The lovers of horse racing—and they are numbered by the thousands—will see a bigger and better field of horses contending in the trotting and pacing events than ever. The racing ought to be exciting and interesting.

MOTOR CYCLES—There is always a thrill to be found in a motor cycle race. To see men of daring and skill drive their machine around the track at breakneck pace is an event worth while. Fast time has been made in the past on this track and faster can be looked for this year. You will hear a hum, a roar and the rider will have come and gone like a streak of lightning. Don't miss them.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITS—These will be larger and better than in past years. A special feature will be the display of the Boys and Girls. Four prizes aggregating $200 will be given to four boys for the best exhibits and a like number of prizes aggregating a like sum of money to four girls. Full information regarding these prizes can be obtained from the Fair Office.

STOCK EXHIBITS—The poultry exhibit already large will be double this year. Other live stock will show proportional increases. Lovers of pure bred stock and poultry will find this year's exhibit well worth seeing.

OTHER EXHIBITS—Fine exhibits of fancy work, flowers, household goods, and other lines will again be attractive features of the Fair.

FREE ATTRACTIONS—Our Motto "To Get The Best."

THREE RAYMONDS—Two ladies and one gentleman perform on a trapeze in a pleasing and skillful manner. This act is second to none in the country of its class.

ZENO, MOLL, CARL—A daring three bar casting act executed by real artists.

OUR MIDWAY—Our Midway will be under the management of a man who has much experience with midways. It will be bright and cheerful and filled with clean shows and many interesting and amusing features.

DIVING ACT—Miss Quincy, the foremost high diving lady in America, will delight the crowds with her superb High Diving Act.

DIVING HORSE—This is something new—a real live horse diving with a lady on his back. The horse walks up a steep incline forty feet in the air; Miss Jack, known as "The lady in Red" climbs a ladder at the same time. Reaching this high platform Miss Jack mounts the horse and together they leap into space coming down in a tank of water. The magnitude of this act can be seen when it requires a tank of water 10x10x20 feet having a capacity of 125,000 lbs. of water to hold the horse and fair rider. Did you ever see a horse dive? Did you ever see one swim? This feature is alone worth several trips to the Fair Grounds.

Remember This Fair. The Best Yet Given. Your Friends Will All Be Here. Join The Thousands Who Will Pass Through The Gates During These Four Days.

SALISBURY FAIR, Salisbury, Maryland, August 22-23-24-25th.

A Corner In Sports On The Eastern Shore Of Maryland

Diamond Dust

Six games in five days is on the baseball cards for Salisbury fans next week. A double header with Cambridge Monday afternoon ushers in the line of contests and on the four succeeding mornings the turnstiles will be counting the crowd.

Fair week at Salisbury will be a busy one for the White Clouds who will open up against Cambridge on Monday in a double header followed by a morning game on Tuesday against Parkley. At 10:30 Wednesday morning Crisfield will engage the locals at Gordy Park while on Friday at the same hour Pocomoke will be the opponents. In one week the White Clouds will have clashed with every club in the league with the exception of Laurel and on the outcome of these games depends the final standing of Salisbury as the season closes on Labor Day. Manager Adams' charges must win a big majority in order to finish in second place.

Knowlton, the youthful twirling star for Crisfield, is pushing Salisbury's pitching ace, Hearn, for top honors. The latter has nine unbroken victories to his credit while the former has five.

Martinsburg appears to be the class in the Blue Ridge League and it is very likely that this team will be the opponents of Parkley in the championship series for the State honors. However it can hardly be called a Maryland championship for both contending clubs are outsiders as it will resolve itself into another struggle between Virginia and West Virginia representatives. These sister States have no love for each other.

Salisbury with its large park should experience no trouble in inducing the two managements of the pennant winning clubs in the Shore circuit and the Blue Ridge loop to stage one of the championship games here.

Crisfield has taken on a new lease on life and is making a desperate stand for second place honors. The benching of Manager Davis and the acquisition of the veteran Pat Ryan after he had been released by the Pocomoke Club proved to be a good move. The straight win over Cambridge indicates the force with which the Somerset boys have been driving here of late. The infield was materially strengthened by Yap, the Jap shortstop, who was placed on the hot corner.

Parkley has about cinched the flag in President Miller's league. The Virginia team needs a win out of their remaining 12 contests in order to top Crisfield present runner-up, even if the latter were to win all the remaining games on schedule.

Rain has been playing havoc with the gate receipts of the various clubs within the past two weeks. It is unfortunate that Jupiter Pluvius should intrude just at this time for the different managements are eager to close the season with a balance on the right side of the ledger and with the fans in progress they stand a mighty good chance of increasing the attendance figures. Salisbury could have played Tuesday had the two teams stayed on the field a little longer as the showers were but of a short duration. One thing is certain and that is the officials of the local club should see that the diamond at Gordy Park receives some attention before next season in the way of drainage. There is too much clay on it and sand is badly needed.

Next year will probably witness the raising of the player's salary limit. Eastern Shore fans demand a certain class of ball and they are good enough sports to pay for it. Therefore it should be the move of the officials to set the limit that players of the caliber desired can be secured without resorting to any "slush funds."

Casey's Comeback

It's been forty years, or thereabouts, since Casey gained renown; just because he could not climb the ball and knock it out of town. The citizens of Mudville, who cheered that fateful day—The young ones are all old folks and the old have passed away. Still, Mudville has her baseball team, composed of faces new; of course there are no Cobbs or Ruths, it's a bush league team, that's true. So, I won't start criticizing the brand of ball they play. I'm simply going to tell you what occurred the other day. Now, I'm selling parts this summer, for "the Hardy-able" car—It's the fastest thing on rubber, from Maine to allston Spa—When who should I meet, in Mudville, but my grand-shire, Hiram Bash. With a pinch-back suit of linen and a freshly-bobbed mustache. He had complimentary tickets for the game that afternoon—And when it comes to baseball, I'm a bleacher-shoutin' loon—It seems the Mudville "A" team were to play the Mudville "B" team. And the game would be a hummer and was sure to raise the hairs. Most every fan in Mudville, as well as some "fanettes". Had put their hard-earned money up to suffer their bets. That Mudville didn't have a chance with Mudville's hardy clan. Oh! they backed the home team's chances, and they backed them to a man. The innings came, the innings went, the seventh had gone by—

Five thousand threats in Mudville were tired, and very dry; While on the field the athletes played errorless and true. And when the ninth had rolled around the score stood two to two. From the benches, black with people, there went up a lusty roar. The Mudville bunch had their last—And failed to make a score. Now a Mudville man makes second—No! "He's out," the umpire said. While five thousand tongues in Mudville showered curses on his head.

Up from the home team's "dug-out," a stranger to each fan. There came, in ancient uniform, a sadly battered man. Whose hair had turned to silver; whose face was lined and seamed. But upon whose florid countenance determined beams. The young fans didn't know him; the old ones there were few. But when grand-pa saw his profile—"right in the air he flew!"

For this three-score-ten-year batter was the often talked about. The stately, Mighty Casey, who had, three years before, struck out. And now the pitcher holds the ball, and now he lets it go. Alas, the air is shattered by the force of Casey's blow. And far off on the outskirts, some a baseball broke as window—also a window frame.

Oh! somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright. For Mighty Casey's smiling, as he says he never knew.

All the vigor that was garner from a goatland that was new!

WORLD'S HIGHEST CITY 14,800 FEET ABOVE SEA

Encircling Wall of Phari in Tibet Gives It Appearance of Large Citadel.

At last we saw, in the far distance plain, a small, black speck—Phari (in Tibet), the dirtiest and highest town in the world, standing 14,800 feet above sea level. It looked descriptively near in that rarified air, and we had many miles to go before we reached our little fortified bungalow, which was just outside it.

The ruined long, or fort, and the encircling wall of Phari gave it, as we approached, the appearance of one large citadel rather than a town. I looked at the few poor stalls that constituted the bazaar and observed from my saddle the wild-looking, filthy crowds in the narrow alleys, which were mere gutters flanked with mounds of refuse higher than the houses themselves.

Mr. Macdonald conducted us to the house of the jongpon, or principal Tibetan official in the place. He was a big, jovial, somewhat gross-looking young man, and his wife, who was from Lhasa, was a sweet and intelligent-looking woman, slightly cleaner than the others.

The house was just a peat hovel outside, but it was built round a small courtyard and was comfortable with in. Around the living room ran, a two bench covered with leopard skins and a European stove stood in the center. We were most hospitably entertained by the jongpon, and the gentlemen of the party stayed to lunch with him.

The land at Phari was very great. We had there our first experience of the famous Tibetan winds, which rise with clockwork regularity every afternoon and sweep across those desert plains, often accompanied by cutting hail and subsiding usually between 6 and 7 in the evening.

Though the thermometer did not enfold at, covering behind a small stone boundary pillar, my head tied up-tied on, I was going to say—with a shawl, and my sheepskin coat on top of every other warm wrap I possessed and a large crowd of the unwashed pressing round me, ready to burst into loud giggles at the smallest provocation. It takes very little to raise the

FAMOUS MONARCHS HAD ANIMALS FOR OWN PETS

History Cites Many Instances of Rulers Displaying Love and Sympathy for Their Pets.

If you love animals you will be interested in a few stories which history has preserved for us. You are all once on the side of the pet white doe at which Louis the XV. fired just for fun. The poor creature came wounded toward him and licked his hand, but the king drove the animal away from him and shot it repeatedly until it died.

But there were other monarchs who really loved their pets, observes Marie Louise, the wife of Charles II of Spain, had two parrots who talked French and who were her constant companions. Queen Victoria on her deathbed sent for her favorite pet, a Pomeranian dog named Marco. And after the headman had done his work it appeared that the favorite dog of Mary Queen of Scots, had followed his mistress and was concealed under her clothing. When it was discovered it gave a short cry and seated itself between the head and the neck, from which the blood was still flowing.

Henry I formed an extensive menagerie at Woodstock. "The king craved from other kings lions, leopards, lynxes and camels and other curious beasts of which England had none. Among others was a strange animal called a stry sent him by William of Montpelier, which beast he said was among the Africans counted as a kind of hedgehog covered with prickling bristles, which shook out variously on the dogs that pursue them."

HAWAIIAN ISLE GROUP HAS VOLCANIC ORIGIN

Active Volcanoes Give Wonderful Demonstration of Formation Process of Islands.

The entire group of Hawaiian Islands, twenty in number, extending in a chain of hundreds of miles, is of volcanic origin, says The World Almanac, though some of the islets and reefs are but the wave-battered remnants of volcanoes whose fires died out long ago. The island of Hawaii has been formed by the coalescence of many recently formed volcanoes. The walls of the crater of the active volcano of Kilauea, on the island, are broken down on one side, giving access to its "lake of fire." This volcano has not always been gentle in its ways, but it is now so well behaved that the visitor can stand safely on the edge of its fiery pit, and if the volcano is active, watch the molten rock boiling and spouting 100 to 3000 feet below. Sometimes many fountains throw up jets of glowing sulphurous lava and light up with ghastly glare the frowning crags that rim the crater. Then, suddenly and with deafening detonations, the jets rush together and convert the lake into a burning, seething, roaring mass, making a scene to which few others in the world are comparable. Mauna Loa, on the island of Hawaii, and a neighboring volcanic cone, Mauna Kea, both nearly 14,000 feet above the sea, are among the highest island mountains in the world. On the other islands of the Hawaiian group there are volcanic mountains scarcely less interesting. The crater of Haleakala, in the summit of East Maui, 10,000 feet above sea level, is one of the largest extinct craters in the world and is as well preserved as if its fires had been extinguished but a few years instead of perhaps several hundred years ago.

The active volcanoes of Hawaii give a wonderful demonstration of the processes by which all these island mountains have been built up from the great depths of the ocean. Since the days of Capt. Cook, geologists and others who are interested in the problens of volcanoes have visited the Hawaiian Islands and written about them. Near the base of these mountains of igneous rock lie fields of sugar cane, which are just now of special interest. They are supplied with water from mountain streams and from wells and drainage tunnels that tap underground supplies.

Warned.—The newly elected president of a banking institution was being introduced to the employees. He singled out one of the men in the cashier's cage, questioning him in detail about his work, etc.

"I have been here forty years," said the cashier's assistant, with conscious pride, "and in all that time I only made one slight mistake."

"Good," replied the president. "Let me congratulate you. But heretofore be more careful."—Wall Street Journal.

MISS IRMA TYNDALL VOTED TO BE MOST POPULAR GIRL IN SALISBURY

Winner Is Presented With Check For New York Trip By Arcade Theatre.

FIRST TEN GIRLS ON LIST WILL BE FILMED

Assistant Manager Vincent Will Produce Screen Comedy With Local Talent and Background—Another Contest This Week in Order to Pick Hero.

Miss Irma Tyndall has been adjudged the most popular girl in Salisbury. And it was no haphazard guess either but the result of a well-conducted contest in which patrons of the Arcade Theatre were asked to name their favorite on a small ballot slip which was deposited in a safety box at the entrance to the theatre. Every night these votes were cast and tallies made. Miss Tyndall has been a consistent leader, and at the final counting stood over 7,000 votes ahead of her nearest competitor, Miss Jean Dashiell.

Miss Dashiell waged a furious fight, that is, her admirers did, and on several occasions she displaced her rival from the top of the ladder only to lose the advantage gained. Miss Helen May Jones made a remarkable sprint to win third place while Miss Margaret Dick was late in starting but proved herself a strong contender towards the last.

Monday night the announcement of Miss Tyndall's accomplishment was made from the stage and the pretty young lady was introduced to the audience. Demurely and modestly she received the prize awarded, which was a check covering all expenses for a trip to New York. Her winning smile proved to all that here was a girl who greeted everyone alike, who was kind and gracious on all occasions and whose most admirable quality was a huge quantity of naturalness, an honest, to goodness real girl. Miss Tyndall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Tyndall, Locust Street, and has a position with Harper & Taylor, Jewelers.

Mayor Kennerly officiated at the final counting and made an address that covered the rise of the idea of play and the development of the modern houses of amusement from the days of the ancient Greeks. Mr. Vincent reflected the popular sentiment of those interested in the contest when he announced for the remainder of the week a similar race for the most popular male of the species who would be given a part opposite the chosen heroine in the coming screen comedy which will be produced here in the cast of which will be the ten leading girls in the contest just staged.

Final returns:

FALL COAL SHORTAGE CAN YET BE AVOIDED

Production Records Show If Strike Ends Soon Enough Fuel May Be Mined To Meet Needs.

With a fuel famine staring the community in the face during the coming winter months, individuals find some cheer in the recent messages from government officials in Washington which state that the shortage of coal this fall can be averted yet, provided a settlement is effected with the miners this month. This conclusion has been reached after a study of production records for nine years.

An average of 46,000,000 tons of fuel was produced by bituminous mines each month in the coal year the records of the United States Geological Survey. At this rate of production nearly 400,000,000 tons of fuel can be produced the remainder of the present coal year, provided a settlement of the strike controversy be effected within the next few weeks.

Record production was established in the coal year, 1917-18. Officials say that to equal this rate of production the remainder of the present coal year would be a severe strain upon the industry and upon its workers. But they emphasize that what has been done before can be repeated.

There would remain of course, the problem of transportation. The point upon which officials lay stress is that a 90-day shutdown of the union mines need not necessarily cripple the nation's industry.

Coal production can be speeded up more easily, in one sense, than almost any other commodity. The record for nine years shows violent fluctuations. In the coal year 1914 production amounted to 482,685,000 tons. In the following year it fell off to 399,002,000 tons. But in 1916-17 the total rose to 504,134,000 tons.

Approximately 552,041,000 tons were produced in 1918-19, and only 434,279,000 tons in the year ended March 31, 1922. In that year, however, the number of men employed by the industry was 839,547, largest in history. With only 557,456 men employed, the mines in 1915 got out a much greater tonnage than in 1922.

Mrs. John T. Ellis has returned to her home on High Street after a six weeks visit with relatives in Wilmington, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

RETURN STOLEN AUTOS VALUED AT $2,567,208

U. S. Agents Find 2,773 Cars Reported Stolen—Made Possible By Federal Act.

Since the passage of the Dyer Anti-Theft Automobile law in October, 1919, 2,120 automobiles, worth at a fair second-hand valuation $2,567,208, have been recovered by the Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice, according to figures compiled by that bureau at the request of officials of the American Automobile Association.

The department, according to these figures, has investigated 2,931 cases, which involved 4,385 persons. There were 2,773 persons arrested, of whom 1,533 were indicted and 1,113 convicted. These convicted persons received sentences amounting in the aggregate to 2,956 years 6 months 11 days, and paid fines amounting to $41,140.

The American Automobile Association took an active part in supporting the Dyer Anti-Theft bill, which was prepared by Representative L. C. Dyer, of Missouri. Credit for the enforcement of this law, which has resulted in such a large percentage of arrests, is largely due to William J. Burns, head of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice. Mr. Burns has given especial attention to automobile thefts, realizing the extent of this industry, and has placed some of his best operatives on these cases.

The outstanding feature of the Dyer law is the fact that it places interstate transportation of stolen motor vehicles under Federal law and makes such an action punishable in Federal courts. Before the passage of this act there had been built up a great and growing traffic in stolen motor vehicles, conducted by bands of men who maintained assembling factories at various points and who, through their ability to transpire parts of various machines, one to the other, were able to so alter a stolen car as to make it practically unrecognizable to the original owner. State laws were inadequate to reach these men, and the Dyer bill filled a long-felt want.

At the present time officials of the American Automobile Association are working in conjunction with Federal officials and heads of other organizations in an endeavor to induce motor car manufacturers to permanently mark all automobiles so as to make identification more easy. It is hoped that results along this line will be obtained in the near future.

LAYMAN'S DAY AT TRINITY.

At the 11 o'clock service next Sunday morning at Trinity Church, Brothers W. L. Nelson, of Onancock, Va., Russell Parsons, of Cape Charles, Va., and G. W. Phillips, lay leaders of the Eastern Shore District, will have charge of the service. All laymen of the city are invited, especially those who have no service in their own churches.

TALL CEDARS PREPARE FOR SEASHORE FROLIC

Over 1,500 Lodgers Are Expected to Meet For Picnic At Ocean City August 31.

Tall Cedars, of Salisbury, and other parts of the Shore are getting ready for their day of frolic and picnic at Ocean City on Aug. 31. Mr. D. N. Magruder, chairman of the financial committee, and Mr. H. L. Van Horn, chairman of the entertainment committee, are busy getting everything in shape and readiness for the big day at the seashore.

There will be a grand parade of the Eastern Shore Forest 53 and other forests from Wilmington, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Milford. The march will be begun at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and two or more bands will be in line.

Featuring the parade will be clowns of all descriptions and make-ups and the famous old figures of Cy Perkins and his donkey, Big Mike, the cop, and his little brother, Bill Perkins, from Shad Point, Rube Hicks from Toonerville, Judge Grier and Charlie Chaplin.

More than 1,500 Tall Cedars are expected to be present for the celebration and the general public is also invited to participate in the funmaking. There will be no business meeting. Fireworks will be elaborately displayed after dark on the boardwalk.

DR. GEORGE HANDY WAILES DELIVERS AN IMPRESSIVE SERMON AT ASBURY CHURCH

Prominent Philadelphia Teacher and Biblical Scholar Praises Wonders of Bible in Its Structure, Contents, Influence, Origin, and Impression—A Priceless Gift to All People

Professor George Handy Wailes, of Philadelphia, was the preacher of the morning service on last Sunday at The Asbury Church. Notwithstanding the severe storm a large congregation was present and heard one of the most uplifting and helpful messages ever presented here.

Dr. Wailes is a teacher of Greek and Hebrew in one of the Philadelphia Universities and one of the most successful leaders of the Presbyterian Church and it was a great pleasure to the people of the Asbury Church to be privileged to hear him preach.

He is a native son of this city, and as successful as he is, sets a good example to the other Salisbury boys who are out in the ministry of the church. The sermon follows:

"Thy testimonies are wonderful; therefore doth my soul keep them."—Psalm 119, 120.

Books have a time to be born and a time to die. Some expire in the author's study, some in the publisher's department and some after a long life of usefulness go in a good old age into the grave of oblivion. But one this which has survived the ravages of time, whose pages quiver with eternal truth as a diamond at every facet trembles with imprisoned sunlight. It was completed almost two thousand years ago; it has been subjected in the meantime to the most vigorous persecution, nevertheless it has come down to us unharmed—the wonder of the ages.

I. The Bible is wonderful as to its structure. It was composed by approximately forty authors, representing every sort of temperament, every degree of endowment and every grade in the social scale. Princes and peasants, sovereigns and slaves, passionate enthusiasts and calm reasoners have contributed their quota to the sacred volume. The time during which they labored extends from the hoary past of Egypt Legend to the Golden Age of Rome. The forms also which their messages assumed are of the most diverse types. Here are the sweetest strains of poetry, the most memorable deeds of history, the most thrilling incidents of biography, and the most exalted principles of ethics. And all these imply corresponding variations in the purposes for which they were respectively prepared; and yet these 66 books, 1,189 chapters, 31,173 verses penned in fragmentary fashion in the centers of Europe, in the deserts of Arabia and among the rustic scenes of Palestine throughout fifteen centuries, when brought together, are found to be possessed of an organic unity which is as truly the utterance of one mind as the various parts of our body are the expression of one life.

The same doctrines are taught from beginning to end, unfolding like a seed into a full-blown flower. Historically there is a connected whole despite the silence of four centuries between the New Testament and the Old. But this unity is manifest especially in the portraiture of a single individual, Christ Jesus. From the promise of him in Eden on to the close of the Volume, one gradually developing picture grows before our eyes. Insofar as the Book is a liturgy, its system of sacrifices is a type of the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world. Insofar as it is prophecy, the seer's vision is fixed on the coming Messiah. Insofar as it is history, the rise of dynasties and the fall of empires mark the approach of the fullness of times. And when at length the shadows all flee before the rising of the sun of righteousness the whole firmament of scripture is filled with the Christ. The Evangelists describe him, the Apostles preach him, the Spirit in the Church glorifies him and the Volume closes with a vision of him crowned triumphant.

Bring together any other sixty-six books, be they upon medicine, jurisprudence, or upon any other kindred topic, and at best you have a miscellaneous collection. But marvel of marvels, these pamphlets prepared by men who to a considerable extent had no opportunity for mutual acquaintance, written in two languages which were quite out of sympathy, gathered from many countries and from various centuries constitute one volume as bone, muscle, sinew, nerve and all else needful consummate one body.

II. The Bible is wonderful as to its contents. Although it is not a haphazard collection of literary gems, yet it contains the choicest gems of the imagination. While it is not a compendium of history, nevertheless it narrates events with infallible accuracy. Although it is not a treatise on philosophy, yet it unfolds in order and symmetry the grandest system of thought which has ever entered the mind of man or of angel. While it is not an expository of science, it nevertheless is in harmony with the most recent triumphs in this department. Primarily it is a volume on religion and as such its revelations are most sublime.

What a vision it gives us of God! How infinitely superior to all human speculations concerning the Deity! Here are a few of its utterances:

"Before the mountains were brought forth, or even thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting thou art God."

"The Lord is righteous in all his ways and holy in all his works."

"The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger and plenteous in mercy."

"God is love."

Someone has said that there are five distinct conceptions of the Deity in the Bible which are not to be found among any of the so-called religions of the world, namely:

"God is a spirit, existing from all eternity, maker of heaven and of earth."

"God is one, manifesting himself in the three-fold distinction and personality of Father, Son and Holy Spirit."

"God is absolutely infinite in all of his capacities, is knowledge omniscient, in power omnipotent, in existence omnipresent, in purpose immutable, in character immaculate."

"God is providential, in all his laws, over all his laws, back of all his laws, full of pity compassion and love."

Last of the five, but by no means least:

"God is a Redeemer, living and dying in self-sacrifice ineffable in order to bring us from darkness to light and from sin unto glory."

What a disclosure this Book gives us of man; it informs us regarding our origin, that we were made in the image of God and after his likeness. It acquaints us with the end story of the fall in all of its stern realism. Yet it never permits us to sink into despair, for just as a rain drop is seen in its true nature, not as it lies in the dusty gutter, but as it is lifted to the clouds and woven into the beauty of the rainbow, so the Bible teaches us that we are ourselves only as we are associated with the skies and dwell in the heavenlies in Christ Jesus. Nor does it permit us to think of ourselves only. It teaches that we are saved that we may assist in saving others—thus do we become co-laborers with God in time and Kings and Priests unto him for evermore.

What a revelation this gives us of the Mediator between an offended Maker and offending man. It is the most wonderful story that was ever told—how that God is in Christ reconciling the world unto himself; not through a mysterious incarnation, although "the word became flesh and dwelt among us;" not through the influence of a peerless character, although he was "holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners;" not through the magic of matchless words, although "never man spake like this man;" not through the performance of miraculous deeds, although "he went about doing good;" but God is Christ reconciling the world unto himself through the blood of an all-sufficient atonement, through Jesus Christ crucified.

Little wonder that Augustine should have said of the Bible "marvelous are its depths. Oh, my God, marvelous are its depths! It is a shudder to look into, the shudder of reverence, the thrill of love."

III. The Bible is wonderful in its adaptation. There is a broadness about this Book which differentiates it from the sacred volumes of the world religions. They are national or racial. The Koran suggests Arabia; the writings of Confucius, China; but the story of the Scripture is as universal as mankind, as individual as our separate selves. It is equally at home in the cottage of the plain man and in the palace of the king. It is suited alike to the profound philosopher and to the susceptible child. It has its place in the knapsack of the rugged soldier and by the bedside of the pale invalid. It is a Book of the heart which has felt all the joys and all the sorrows, all the hopes and all the fears of man.

Their Job To Keep Our Home Fires Burning

Here are the men who are to try to keep us all supplied in coal this winter. They are officers of Coal Emergency Commission, created by President Harding. These men each have full authority in their respective districts. Front row, left to right, shows Clyde B. Aitchison, Commissioner; John C. Roth, Director Bureau of Service; E. H. De Groot, Jr., Assistant Director; and F. C. Smith, Chief Inspector. Second Row: J. B. Ford, Birmingham, Ala.; B. S. Robertson, Bluefield, W. Va.; C. C. Semple Huntington, W. Va.; C. S. Reynolds, Knoxville, Tenn.; H. M. Priest, Louisville, Ky.; W. L. Barry, Norton Va.; and S. J. Mayhew, Thurmond, W. Va.

Therefore, however, unlike our conditions may be, the Bible finds us and it fits us. It has blessed us at our birth; it has hallowed the bridal altar; it has a message for our burial, and it sheds light upon the distant home which God hath prepared for those who love him.

IV. The Bible is wonderful as to its influence. It has gripped the intellect with tremendous power. From it the poets have drawn their inspiration. The orators have turned to it for the well spring of their thought. The essayists have been unable to write apart from its high levels; and so deeply is it embedded in jurisprudence that it is the substance and basis of law.

But infinitely more important than its control of the head is its conquest of the heart. The Gospel of this Book has emancipated the drunkard from his appetite and the miser from his greed. It has made the frivolous serious, the profane reverent, the self-seeker the philanthropist, the basest of men and women the noblest of Christians. And for those who have never known such depths of sin and loss the Bible is not less truly a benediction; for it lifts them above the angle and confusion of society into the clear pure air of serene thought, whence they may look calmly on the mysteries of life and then come down to play a noble part in the world which Christ has hallowed by his blessed presence.

If the Bible has done so much for individuals, what shall we say of nations? Ask of Asia, of Africa and of the distant islands of the sea whose blind eyes have been opened and whose burdened hearts have been filled with hope. And what of civilized countries? "It is the Bible," exclaimed Garibaldi, "which has freed Italy." Queen Victoria, on being asked for the secret of England's greatness, handed the inquirer a handsomely bound copy of the Scriptures, remarking, "this is the secret of England's greatness." And how shall we speak of our own beloved land? Surely her prowess is not due to the strength of her arms, though splendid victories have crowned her valiant sons. It is not because of the greatness of her wealth, although ours is the richest country on the globe. It is not to be explained by the vastness of her territory, although it has been estimated that if Great Britain, France, Portugal, Denmark, Sweden and Greece should be consolidated into one empire it might be laid down thrice in our country west of the Hudson River. Oh America, enthroned between the seas and scouted with power, no child of infidelity art thou. Thou hast been nurtured upon the strong meat of the word; thou art indebted to it for all thou hast of character and to it thou must look as thy guide for the future. In truth wherever the Gospel has gone, there we will find the highest type of individual, the noblest grades of society, the best forms of government.

V. In view of what has been said, we are now prepared to appreciate all the more another wonder—the origin of the Book. It is true that on (Continued on Page 15.)

'WORKED LIKE MIRACLE' SAYS SYRACUSE MAN

Praises Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules for Dyspepsia

"I have suffered considerably with dyspepsia for the past four years until I heard of and was advised to try your LITTLE WONDER CAPSULES, and they worked like a miracle, as I am now able to eat everything without any bad effects. I am recommending your LITTLE WONDER CAPSULES to all my friends."

This is an exact copy of a letter written by E. Manning, of 954 Lancaster Avenue, Syracuse, N. Y., to the Jacques Capsule Co., Inc.

Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules were originated by W. B. Jacques, a prominent druggist of Plattsburg, N. Y., nearly 20 years ago. He at that time suffered with severe stomach trouble and tried many remedies without relief. After making an exhaustive study of the causes of dyspepsia and indigestion Mr. Jacques compounded this formula and secured prompt relief. Then he began to sell the capsules in his drug store. The results were so uniformly satisfactory, and the demand grew so large that the capsules are being manufactured and sold on a large scale to relieve the stomach ills of the general public.

Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules are quick, sure relief for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, heartburn, sour stomach, flatulence, distress after eating, and biliousness. There is no fuss or bother, you simply take one or two capsules and a swallow of water. Prompt, satisfactory results are guaranteed or money refunded.

Comment of County Agent Cobb On Agricultural Happenings

Wilt is showing up among the tomato plants and may cause as much damage and loss as the blight on the tomatos. Rotate the tomato crop, get wilt resistant seed and spray, at least in the seed bed, if you wish to keep this disease in check. Rotation will serve to starve out the disease to a certain extent while wilt resistant seed and spraying will catch the germs that rotation misses.

Somewhat hard to know whether to seed Grimm alfalfa or other hardy kinds. Grimm is the most hardy variety grown and will stand the most severe winters but Nebraska, Dakota and other old states produce seed that is perfectly hardy in our climate. Wilbur Nock, Edw. Papendick and Dave Dallas, among others, prefer the Grimm as they only seed ten pounds to the acre while the others seed from fifteen to twenty. Get prices on the above varieties and buy the seed that gives you the most for your money provided it is good seed with good germination. Cheap seed has cost our growers a whole lot of money these last few years that we know of and the same thing has probably happened for years.

An old saying that we remember hearing years ago is that "spraying is good insurance" and we have not seen any reason to change the sentiment. Blights, wilts, mildews, etc., are diseases that can in many cases be prevented to a great extent, if taken in time. Loupes have been visited with blight this year and many patches will yield much less than they would have done if spraying or dusting had been practiced. We know that prices have not been any too high but the cost of spraying could be covered by two or three extra ears that would be produced by the spraying. Truck farming, as well as any line of farming, is more or less of a gamble but a grower should do what he can to eliminate every possible chance of loss.

Several of our farmers have already signified their intention to enter the egg laying contest that is expected to carry on this winter. This contest will start this fall and will continue until spring to be conducted on each man's own farm. The rules call for 25 birds as this number answers the purpose we have in mind. Entry blanks will be available at the County Fair and we hope to get a large number of farmers and poultrymen interested in this movement as it will develop the poultry industry to a great extent. The bookkeeping will not be complicated for the entrant as the main reason for this contest is to get a line on the good and bad birds, improve the quality and care of the poultry and arouse more interest in good laying stock.

Corn and winter wheat crops below last year. Cattle prices set new high mark for the current year. Florida cabbage shipments filled .040 cars this season, or twice as many as in 1921. Records broken by loadings of California Cantaloupes, daily shipments reached unprecedented total of 648 cars and prices dropped to low levels. New Jersey's sweet potato shipments the past season were 700 cars less than the year before, having filled only 2,225 cars. Georgia shipped an average of 500 cars of watermelons per day during the latter part of June. That is equal to 500,000 melons a day. Tennessee shipped nearly 1,000 carloads of sweet potatoes during the past season, an amount almost twice as large as during the 1920-21 season.

Total strawberry shipments this year will amount to 18,500 carloads. This is an increase of 12.5 per cent over the 1921 record. Allowing an average of 4,000 quarts to the car, the season's movement will equal 186,500,000 quarts or 1 1/4 quarts for every individual in the United States. This does not take into account the vast quantities of home grown berries which are not shipped from the farms or which do not enter into the carlot movement.

We are making arrangements for a forestry or farm-woodlot week to be held in September. State Forester Beasley with assistants will be with us to handle the affair and they will be here to advise and actually show the farmers what should be done with their woodlots to make them pay out as they should. They will also be available for our lumber men who may wish their services. Here is "something for nothing" that we hear so much about and we want to keep these men busy every minute that they are here. More details will be made known soon so that every man with a woodlot, large or small, can avail himself of this opportunity.

The wool to blanket movement gained quite a little headway last year and we rather expect to see more of it this year. The blankets have been very satisfactory so far as we know, and this movement makes a good market for wool. This county did not do much pooling last year but a large number of individuals, as well as two or three clubs, sent wool to the manufacturer to be made into blankets.

Home grown white potato seed is getting to be the most popular for several reasons but mainly because of the disease in the Maine grown seed. Maine seed this year was poor in size and shape, had more or less disease and yielded poorly. Home grown seed in Accomack and Northampton counties yielded from 60 to 75 barrels per acre while Maine grown seed only averaged from 25 to 38 barrels per acre. We are making arrangements now for a supply of home grown seed for next year. Just as soon as there is a cold storage house in Salisbury our farmers will be able to handle home grown seed to much better advantage. The earliness of the Maine grown seed hardly repays for the lessened yields. Frank Johnston has already ordered 125 bus. of Cobbler seed from Western Maryland and we have several more orders that we are going to send in for next year's seed.

WILSON GIVES HIGH PRAISE TO DAVID J. LEWIS

Ex-President Says Maryland Would Be Fortunate In Such A Senator.

Washington, July 23.—Former President Woodrow Wilson has given what amounts to an endorsement of the candidacy of David J. Lewis for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, it was learned today.

In a letter to Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, of Cumberland, made public here today, Mr. Wilson speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Lewis, of his past public service and of his qualifications for Senator.

The letter of former President Wilson follows:
WASHINGTON, July 20, 1922.
My Dear Mrs. Henderson:
It gives me pleasure to reply to your letter of July 19 because it is always a pleasure to testify to the character and attainments of such a man as Mr. David J. Lewis. My observation of him and my association with him in public matters have led me to entertain a very high opinion of his integrity, his ability and his equipment to deal with public questions.

I have been very much interested to learn of his candidacy for the United States Senate and do not hesitate to say that I regard him as in every way qualified to fill the position of Senator. He is most conscientious in all his dealings with public questions and has, moreover, a legal insight into their merits and extraordinary industry in familiarizing himself with their details.

I was often glad to be guided by his knowledge and judgment in dealing with legislative matters and should deem the State of Maryland fortunate in having such a representative in the United States Senate.

Mrs. Wilson joins me in warm regard and most cordial good wishes and I am, as always, your sincere friend.

WOODROW WILSON.

Political Agent of David J. Lewis

American Legion

Foch Is Appreciated

A gracious and appreciative letter from Madame Ferdinand Foch has been received by subscribers to the American Legion Mission French War Orphans fund, expressing her and Marshal Foch's thanks for a gift of $10,000, which is to be used for the rearing and educating of five little French war orphans.

A Paris draft for $1,199.52 frs. was presented to Marshal Foch by legionnaires on the even of his departure for France last December, after a tour of the United States as the guest of the American Legion.

The Marshal and Madame Foch selected daughters of officers killed in service. They have taken for each of the children bonds worth $2,000 frs. each. The children can not touch the bonds until they are of age, but the income from these will be paid the children each year.

"The mothers of the children adopted," said Madame Foch in her letter of thanks to the Legion, "have nothing but what their own badly paid work brings them and they have no hope of any other pecuniary aid."

"I tell you the joy of these families would be difficult to describe. I was very moved by it. The American Legion has done a beautiful and a good work."

State Bonus For Heirs

Although heirs of deceased World War veterans in Pennsylvania are entitled to State bonuses, comparatively few of them have taken the initial steps toward obtaining them. This is true in other States also where State bonuses have been voted for service men, according to information received at National Legion Headquarters in Indianapolis.

Heirs of World War veterans who died in service or have died since, living in States where a bonus has been given, should make investigations as to where applications for deserved compensation are to be sent.

Regalia For Convention

Illuminated by 23,000 electric lights and decorated with flags, banners and streamers, the downtown streets of New Orleans will be in holiday regalia during the American Legion national convention next October.

For five days the conventional names of business streets will be thrown into the discard and they will be rechristened with designations more appropriate to the Legion gathering.

Court of Honor of the Nations will be established in ten blocks, each block being set aside for one of the principal Allied powers with corresponding flags and decorations. Signs indicating the names of the States, with their contributions in numbers of World War fighters, will feature the Court of Honor of the States, to be held on the principal residential street, American Legion Avenue will be decorated with Legion banners and emblems.

Visiting doughboys in search of their buddies will be assisted in the establishment of the Streets of the Divisions, suspended across the streets utilized for this purpose will be the insignias of all divisions in the World War army. Impromptu reunions of men who served in the same division will be held near the banners inscribed with their divisional insignia.

Red, white and blue electric bulbs will illuminate Canal Street, the main thoroughfare, and all principle side streets.

Motorcycle Races Held

Internationally known motor cycle riders are being signed by the Springfield, Mass., American Legion for that organization's solo and side car races to be held on the Eastern States Exposition track Aug. 19.

Big Musical Gathering

New Orleans will entertain the largest assembly of musical organizations in its history during the American Legion national convention next October, according to plans announced by the convention band contest committee.

More than one hundred bands and drum corps from all parts of the country are expected to compete in prize contests. Entries, which will be restricted to Legion organizations, will be judged by a committee of New Orleans musicians as the units march by the reviewing stand in the convention parade.

Prizes for the band contest will be: First, $1,000; second, $300 and third, $250. Bands will be judged on the following basis: Playing, 75 points; appearance, 10 points; marching, 10 points and number of instruments, 5 points.

The winner of the drum corps contest will receive $250, with a prize of $100 for second place. Playing will count for 50 points; appearance, 20 points; marching, 20 points and number of instruments, 10 points.

Strange Case of Shell Shock.

The New York police have picked up an unknown man who for several days has answered every question put to him with, "I was in the war." The same answer has been given to requests for his name, place of discharge, parents and other questions. The American Legion has been asked to try and find the young man's folks. He is about 28 years old, 6 feet, 7 inches tall, weighs 145 pounds, has black hair and eyes, and has a small American flag with the initials "J. W. W." tattooed on his right forearm. He is in the observation ward at Bellevue hospital where they do not know what is the matter with him although the case has indications of shell shock.

Sites Chosen For Hospitals

Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans Bureau, has chosen two more sites for veteran hospitals. With the selection of St. Cloud, Minn., as one of them it is believed that Minnesota and nearby sick and wounded veterans will be well taken care of. The lack of hospitals in Minnesota caused the American Legion to collect a fund of its own and start building a hospital at Rochester. This hospital will take care of between 250 and 350 mental cases among service men. The Legion's hospital, which will be operated in connection with the Mayo clinic, will look after surgical and general cases.

Director Forbes also announced that he has decided against the Great Lakes Naval Training station as the site for a Michigan hospital for mental cases. Instead $1,500,000 will be spent for a sanitarium at Camp Custer. The Michigan hospital will be of 500 beds capacity.

As far as can be learned no further announcement has been made regarding the establishment of a mental hospital in New York State. The New York Legion has just opened its own camp in the Adirondacks for the care of tubercular ex-service men. Several hundred of these diseased veterans are being housed, fed and doctored by the service men's organization. Urgent need, according to published statements, exists in the Empire State for the quick erection of a hospital for mental cases. New York, Western Pennsylvania and certain sections of the west are said to be hard hit by the number of mentally unbalanced veterans for which these sections have to provide accommodations.

Food Requested For Sick

Canned vegetables, jams, potatoes, other food and all sorts of camp equipment is requested by the New York American Legion which has recently opened its Adirondack camp for tubercular World War veterans. The service men paid $85,000 for the site and have expended many more thousands on equipment in an effort to make inroads into the rapidly increasing ranks of veterans who are suffering from the disease.

Declare War On Fakery

Persons who have suddenly acquired World War records, wound stripes and a desire to help other disabled veterans by soliciting subscriptions to equally bogus magazines have so aroused the American Legion and municipal authorities at Syracuse, N. Y., that the forces have combined against such fake soliciting. Anyone seeking a license to sell magazines is turned over to the Legion for investigation.

Hent Colony For Jobless

A tent Colony, composed entirely of jobless ex-service men has sprung up in the South Dakota wheat regions, near Aberdeen. The colony which has been going some months is part of the American Legion's plan to provide farms with labor and at the same time do away with veteran unemployment.

Returns Lost Necklace

A strange member of the American Legion, out of work and with no money, found a gold necklace while walking down the street in Aberdeen, S. D. Instead of "hocking" the jewelry for a meal or two, he turned it over to the local Legion headquarters, asking that they find the owner.

Parisians Thrifty Now

The intimation of the United States Government that a payment of the French war loans would be appreciated has caused a decided tightening of the purse strings of free spending Parisians, according to a report received at the national headquarters of the American Legion. The gaiety and free spending of the common people that has always marked Bastille Day, were not in evidence this year on July 14. Pleasure resorts of every sort, as well as wine shops and restaurants, have experienced a decided falling off in patronage during the last few months, according to the report.

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kind. I have never found anything that touches the spot like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which gripped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive."

Opera Ciochows To Strike.

The mill workers strike at Manchester, N. H., has reached such proportions that the American Legion has thrown open its club house to them and has established camp kitchens.

Mountain Camp Purchased.

A mountain camp on Big Tupper Lake has just been purchased by the New York Department of the American Legion. The camp will be used as a vacation resort by the service men. The Legion paid $85,000 cash for the property.

Land Deeds To Veterans.

Approximately 10,000 acres of land in New Mexico may be taken over by veterans of the World War, according to an announcement by the land office of the United States Department of Interior. The land which was formerly withdrawn under the reclamation act for reservoir sites has been restored and will be subject to entry at the land office at Las Cruces, N. M. The American Legion advises prospective homesteaders to write immediately to the office at Las Cruces for information.

100 Per Cent. Legion Membership In Korea

An application has just been received for a charter for an American Legion post in Korea by the Legion's national organization department. There are 15 persons eligible for membership in Korea and the application bears the name of those 15 persons. The local post will have its headquarters at Kwangju, Chosen. The post in Korea is being organized by M. L. Swineheart, treasurer of the Southern Presbyterian Mission in that country. In his letter accompanying the application for a charter, Mr. Swineheart said: "Please have the application acted upon as quickly as possible as we have good reason for wanting to get busy and get the post organized into a going concern."

It is unfortunate that some World War veterans in the United States, where it is harder to stay out of the Legion than it is to get into it, don't get some of this enthusiasm manifested by their erstwhile comrades in arms in far away Korea.

War Mother Sought

The American Legion Auxiliary national headquarters, in Indianapolis, is trying to locate the greatest war mother in America—that is, the mother who had the largest number of sons in service. One Indiana community has a mother who had seven sons in the World War, others had as many as five—but the auxiliary wants to know definitely where in America is the woman who has the honor of having more than seven sons in service.

Gay White Way

Twenty-three thousand electric bulbs will transform the downtown streets of New Orleans into Broadway during the American Legion national convention next October.

BETTERMENT OF NEGRO FARM LIFE DISCUSSED

Annual Conference of Negro Farmers Is Held at Hampton Institute and Conditions Surveyed.

The annual conference of Virginia negro farmers was held recently at Hampton Institute, Va., for the purpose of giving farmers, extension agents, and others interested in rural welfare an opportunity to discuss means of improving farm and home conditions among the negroes of the State.

Assistant Secretary Pugsley of the United States Department of Agriculture, in addressing the conference, spoke of the need of recognizing agriculture as the industry by which the larger proportion of negroes earn their living. He also called attention to the need for the right outlook with reference to his industry and the importance of proper preparation of negroes for farm life.

The place of negro schools and teachers in bringing about farm efficiency and contentment was emphasized. The value of boys' and girls' club work in the promotion of agriculture and home economics was brought out. C. B. Smith, chief, Office of Extension Work, States Relations Service, stressed the value of agricultural education in improving farm and farm home practices of negroes and the need of cooperative effort, since the average individual makes progress about in proportion as the entire community makes progress. Other speakers, including members of the extension staff of the department, the director and assistant director of the Virginia extension service, and the principal and assistant principal of Tuskegee, discussed the importance of an education in agriculture, the need for community betterment, recent developments in cooperative marketing and its bearing on farming activities, the development of extension

The "any time" drink

Clicquot Club Ginger Ale is one beverage that is good at meal-times and between. The time to drink it is any time you want it.

There is nothing that is not pure and good in Clicquot. The water is drawn from springs. The ginger is the best that is grown on the island of Jamaica. Fruit juices and other ingredients equally pure make the happy blend, the delightful taste. They all like it.

Get Clicquot by the case for home use. If you want variety, you can buy Clicquot Club Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Birch Beer and Root Beer.

Discounting the "Discount" in Advance

You don't have to be a shrewd bargainer to get the bottom price on the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord.

Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can. You can see from the figures below that its advertised price is lower than the net price you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value.

We believe the average man would rather buy tires on this frank and open basis, and assure himself a product of recognized worth.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord is made of high-grade long-staple cotton, and it embodies the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction.

In design, materials and manufacture it is a representative Goodyear product, built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation.

It has a different tread from the famous All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for substantially less.

REEDVILLE

A meeting was held at Reedville last Thursday in the interest of the steamer line between the Eastern and Western Shores. Messrs. Freeman and Evans of Salisbury, Soule and Little of Baltimore, Tawes, Horsey and E. Benson Dennis, of Crisfield, were present among others. Mr. R. M. Patterson, of the Virginia Farm Bureau, also Dr. L. Hudnall, of Beverlyville, who is president of Northumberland County Farm Bureau, were in the meeting. The visitors stated that nothing had been said about discontinuing the boat, though the lack of freight, and indeed the little interest shown in her support, was freely discussed. The schedule was admitted poor, as the Potomac is covering a very large territory. This the company will try to improve. Dr. Hudnall thought that by another year the farmers would be well organized, and in a position to render more support. The Chamber of Commerce officials here are fully convinced that the Salisbury boat will continue to operate, if the people here show any interest in helping along the freight question. Tongue she must have.

Mrs. Slater Rice, after being very ill at Fleeton last week, was taken to Norfolk Friday night on the "Bellows". Her husband, and mother also an aunt and Dr. Crockett, went down with her. An operation was performed and the patient is improving. We are very glad to know.

Mr. T. H. Jett arrived on the Potomac Friday morning for a few days at his home here. He brought with him as guests Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Burwell, of Chincoteague, whom we were delighted to meet. Dr. Burwell is from near Roanoke and is a direct descendant of old "King Carter." They will go tomorrow in Mr. Jett's Buick to visit old Christ Church in Lancaster County. This church was built in 1649 by John Carter, father of Robert, who was known as King Carter.

Mrs. Chas. Lofland is at Raleigh, N. C., spending a month with her sister.

Mr. Fitz Hardine of Fleeton has bought of the Palmer and Moore Co. here a new Buick car, to take the place of his roadster which was recently wrecked in an auto accident. Miss Lola Day returned Sunday from a very pleasant visit to Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Vondelcher, of Richmond. Miss Flora Haynie, who was with Mrs. Dev for the week, has returned to her home up town.

Mrs. Howie Haynie spent last week with her brother, Mr. S. Clyde Haynie, and Lillian Lee, at this place.

Mr. Charles Frederick Courtney spent several days with his uncle, Mr. J. D. Carey, and family, at Lillian, last week, also looking in upon relatives here and at Tibitha. Fred travels largely and has headquarters at Hamilton, O. Sees little of his people here, but is a most welcome guest.

Miss Mabel Sayre, of Baltimore, spent last week in Reedville, visiting Miss Elizabeth Muir, at Muir House.

Paul Muir and Stuart Jett, Reedville boys, spent last week in Baltimore on pleasure bent. They had been working here since school closed and felt that they had earned the splendid trip they enjoyed.

Miss Myrtle Waring, of Essex, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. B. Jett, and family, at "Chestnut Point". Miss Waring is a recent graduate of Frederickburg Normal, and has a school near Washington this fall.

Miss Evelyn Covington, of "Chestnut Grove" Burreess Store, has as her guest a school friend, Miss Mary Eskridge, of West Virginia.

Two young men from Richmond have been touring Reedville, and finally this week, selling rustic tables for flower stands. They turned their truck into sleeping quarters at night and found ready sale for their tables which were not very expensive.

We had a very severe thunder storm, accompanied by rain, and furious winds last Monday afternoon, followed by a continuation of storms lasting all night. Several houses in Bridge Neck were blown down and a number of trees uprooted or broken off. In Mrs. T. W. Haynie's yard a very large tree fell during the night carrying terror with the sound and leaving the lane blocked to all but travelers on foot. The storm has been followed by very cool weather.

Prof. and Mrs. W. W. Barnhart, motoring from the Barnhart home at Staunton, arrived at Reedville Wednesday afternoon, for several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McAloney. Many friends will be glad to know they are here again. Both Mr. and Mrs. Barnhart are working for a degree from the University of Virginia and have been at Charlottesville for the past summer or two.

Mrs. Sadie Crosswell, her daughter Mrs. Ora Merritt, and her little grandson, Richard Merritt, of near Baltimore, left here last week, after spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Crosswell and others at Reedville. Many friends were glad to have them home again, and they were welcome guests in many homes while here.

Miss Elizabeth Muir is assisting to handle the mail at the Reedville Post Office while the regular assistant, Miss Virgie Dunaway, spends some time in Baltimore.

The Radcliffe Chautauqua, which has been coming to Reedville for the past five years, will be in our town probably the first week in September. We do not know yet what the program will hold, but feel assured that it will have of "good numbers not a few," but let us all remember that "success of Chautauqua depends upon you," so get busy. "Talk it up. Do your bit. Persuade at least a few. For success of Chautauqua depends upon you."

Rev. Starke Jett and his family are here from Newport News for a very welcome visit with his people near Tibitha. They are now with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Williams, where the mother, Mrs. T. A. Jett, makes her home, and later will visit Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Jett, Jr., at the corner.

Teachers for Reedville High School have about all been secured, we have just learned from our newly appointed trustees for Fairfields District, Mr. S. Frank Atwill, of this place. Entrance Examinations
Engineering Scholarships

Applications for Scholarships in the School of Engineering, established under provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, competitive examinations will be held September 22, 1922, beginning at 9 a. m.

Each Legislative District of Baltimore City and each County of the State, with the exception of Caroline, Cecil, Queen Anne, Talbot and Worcester, will be entitled to one or more engineering scholarships for the year 1922-1923, in addition to those already awarded. In the five counties mentioned, all available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City Scholarships in the School of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted them.

The Scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text books, and exemption from all regular fees. One of the scholarships in each County and in each Legislative District of the City carries also the sum of $200. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is not greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College, University of Maryland (Maryland Agricultural College), Mt. St. Mary's College and Rock Hill College.

Applicants should address The Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University, for blank application forms and for catalogues of information regarding examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction. The next session begins Tuesday, October 3, 1922.

Their first glimpse AT YOUR NEW HOME

TEN thousand people may pass your house where but one enters in. The passers-by get only a glimpse at its beauty. What pride will you know if even they admire it!

The front entrance bids a hospitable welcome. The porch tells of its owner's love for the out-of-doors. The windows give an insight into his good taste. The cornice may add a touch that wins praise. Dormers, bays, and shutters bring comfort and joy to the interior and add interest and beauty to the outside.

We make it possible for you, through our co-opera- tion with the manufacturers of standardized Curtis Woodwork, to build a beautiful home with as few as 3 rooms, or with as many as 8. Curtis Woodwork consists of those exterior and interior architectural details for homes that add distinction and character to a house and raise it above the ordinary.

Many different standard designs of Curtis Woodwork are photographically illustrated in our Curtis Catalog, which you can see in our office any time. This book will give you many suggestions for adding beauty, comfort and convenience to your home.

The architects, Trowbridge & Ackerman, of New York, foremost authorities in their profession, and the designers of many of America's most beautiful homes, translated into Curtis Standard Designs the best that the past and present day architecture offer. The result is woodwork of beauty as well as of good materials and skillful construction.

Would you like to see some houses and plans that show the beauty, comfort and convenience of Curtis Woodwork?

At your request we will obtain for you, free, a por- tfolio of "Better Built Homes." If you are interested in 3-, 4- or 5-room houses, you will want portfolio VI; if you desire a home of 6, 7 or 8 rooms, we will obtain portfolio VII for you. Or perhaps you will find por- tfolio VIII, which shows houses particularly adapted to farm use, of help to you. Each portfolio contains exterior and interior illus- trations, floor plans, and complete descriptions of 32 houses; 8 of them are pic- tured in colors and others are illustrated from photo- graphs. Homes of four different architectural types—Colonial, English, West- ern and Southern—are shown, from which you can make your selection. Surely among these many de- signs you will find just the home you want—the home of your dreams.

Come in and see us soon, and we'll tell you about our free plan service to homebuilders. We take the guesswork out of homebuilding and make it a real pleasure.

POULTRY NOTES

H. W. RICKEY

Logically, today's article should deal with the marketing of poultry products, but owing to the interest now being shown in the question of culling the flocks and the saving of prospective layers and breeders for next year, and because of the necessity for immediate instruction on the subject, marketing will be held over until next week, while we discuss today our culling problems.

It is safe to assert that in so far as the production of eggs is concerned the greatest profits are made from fowls that are kept only during one laying season and then marketed, though fair profits may be made from layers during the second season.

Experiments conducted with leg-horns at Cornell clearly demonstrated that the highest producing females lay the greatest number of eggs during their first laying season, while the poorer producers lay fewer eggs the first season than they do the second. But as a matter of fact those that lay heavily the first year lay more eggs during the second year than do the poor layers of the first year, in spite of the fact that the production of the latter increases in the second year.

No laying fowls, with the possible exception of those of the light breeds, such as the leghorns or anconas, should be kept for more than two years; and it is important that those that are held over for the second year are the high producers, with an abundance of strength and vigor; and there should be only a sufficient number to furnish breeding stock, unless, of course, you have rooms for layers, then there are young birds to be housed. Under such conditions enough yearlings should be saved to occupy the available room in the laying houses. It must be borne in mind that though the pullets yield the most profit, that obtained from the older fowls is well worth the time and care devoted to them.

How to cull out the poor layers at the end of the first laying season and select the high producers for the next year is the problem just at this time. On the average farm no individual trap nest records have been kept during the past winter nor are such records necessary in order to separate the high producers from low producers. While it is practically impossible to accurately determine the number of eggs any single hen or pullet has laid within a given time, without the use of the trap nest or without making a daily physical examination of certain parts of the body of the fowl, it is possible, at summer approaches, to pick out the hens or pullets that have laid few eggs during the winter.

It is a fact supported by experimental evidence that the poor producers during the three winter months begin to molt early while the high winter producers molt late. It is, therefore, a good plan to dispose of the hens that molt in June, July and during the first week or two in August, provided they have stopped laying at the time. In most cases molting hens stop laying before or shortly after their feathers begin to fall; but occasionally egg production continues, regularly far into the molt. Under such circumstances it would be well to save the hen, as the protracted laying indicates vigor, strength and high egg-laying characteristics.

It is good practice to watch the hens carefully at this season for the beginning of the molt. Don't mistake the ragged appearance of a hard working, heavy laying hen for the natural molt. As soon as a molting hen is discovered examine the "lay" or pelvic bones. If they are closed so that not more than one finger can be placed between them, it may be safely assumed that the fowl is not laying and may be culled, as she will in all probability not lay again for a period of three, four or five months. If the opening between the bones is wide enough for the entrance of two or more fingers, the hen is laying moderately. If three fingers can be put in the opening it is an indication that she is laying heavily, but as to how long this production will continue cannot be learned from one examination.

I would suggest that where the flock is small the examination of the pelvic bones be made at regular weekly or bi-weekly intervals through July and August and that the fowls found with the bones closed be disposed of as soon thereafter as possible, though they may not be molting at the time. We may feel quite certain that if hens stop laying during the extremely hot weather of summer there is little possibility of a renewal of production until after they have molted, especially if they have been properly fed.

Several years ago another valuable discovery was made at Storrs, Conn., during the course of the egg-laying contest then being carried on at the college. One of the men in charge of the work noticed that the color of the beaks and shanks, normally yellow, changed with production. Further study disclosed the fact that by these changes a correct estimate could be made of the egg production of any individual during a stated period; but this is beyond the ability of any but experts using specially designed instruments.

A laying fowl uses up the surplus fat in her body, largely for the building up of the yolks of the eggs. This loss of fat with the yellow fatty pigment is clearly shown by lack of coloring matter in the beak, shank and also in the skin around the vent. These parts grow lighter and lighter in color as production increases.

Hens that have laid few or no eggs will have bright yellow shanks and beaks and the color of the skin around the vent will be normal.

With these facts in mind it is a simple matter to cull out the poor layers from any flock and save the best producers. If we discard the early molters, showing little or no opening between the pelvic bones, and if these fowls are of the yellow-skinned variety, with yellow legs and shanks, it is certain that our flock is rid of its poor producers, and those that are left over for another season. Later, weakness in certain individuals may develop; if so, they should be discarded at once, as only the strongest and most vigorous fowls are profitable.

Many poultrymen are using the trap nest in order to get a complete record of the daily egg production of individual hens; others would like to have the records but balk at the use of the trap nest for various reasons. A method for obtaining these records recommended by Adler and Ebert of the Utah Agricultural College and by Mr. Waite of the Maryland State College consists of a daily physical examination of each fowl. The operation is quite simple and the results obtained from it are said to be more accurate than those from trap nesting. Early in the morning before the hens begin to lay, each one is caught and an effort is made to locate the egg in the body. If one is to be laid during the day it will be found suspended up near the back and well toward the rear of the body. With the fowl laid on its side, with one hand grasping the thighs and the other supporting the back, the tips of the fingers of the hand at the back are pressed into the lower side of the body and up under the pelvic bones; the egg, if present, may be easily felt. A little practice and patience is all that is required in order to become proficient in the work. If records are to be kept, each hen should be leg-banded and numbered and the presence or absence of eggs recorded by number.

This method is also recommended for use in spring and summer culling. A three-day consecutive test will usually answer the purpose, as a hen that does not lay at least once in three days is of little account.

Wisconsin Leads

The 115 cow-testing associations in Wisconsin, kept in operation with the assistance of county agents and specialists employed cooperatively by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural College, equal almost one-fourth of all the associations of the country. Twelve of these associations have been organized since December 1, 1921, and the membership in the State now numbers about 3,300 farmers owning 55,000 cows.

The aims of the associations have been to weed out unprofitable cows and feed the animals balanced rations for maximum milk production. Records of the associations show the value of high-grade cows and purebred sires. Last year 335 purebred bulls were purchased by the associations and 83 scrub bulls replaced by purebreds in 59 associations.

ALWAYS TIRED NO AMBITION

Nervous and Dizzy, Everything Seemed to Worry Me.
How I Got Well

Larwill, Indiana.—"My back was so bad I could not do my washing. I was always tired out and had no ambition, was nervous and dizzy and everything seemed to worry me and I had awful pains in my right side. I felt badly about four years and could not do my work as it should have been done. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised so much and it did so many people good that I began to take it myself. I am feeling fine now and everyone tells me they never saw me looking so well. I live on a farm, do all my work, and have three little girls to take care of. I am recommending this medicine to my friends and know it will help them if they use it like I do." — Mrs. HERBERT LONG, R. R. 3, Box 7, Larwill, Indiana.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort. They are always tired out and have no ambition. When you are in this condition give it prompt attention.

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it is especially adapted to correct such troubles, as it did for Mrs. Long.

DOLFIELD ESTATE IS MARYLAND GAME FARM

Various Kinds of Birds Are Bred on 290 Acre Tract and Distributed to Counties.

What is it? What is its object? Who is supporting it? Such and other questions are frequently asked and the greater number of people who ask them, as a rule, do not investigate the purpose of same.

With very few exceptions, every person loves nature and freedom of the great outdoors, and enjoys a stroll through the country, run in hand, and body as well as soul rejoices in the sport of sports—hunting. This wonderful instinct over us every fall, and is the opportunity to regain our lost vitality, harden our muscles and restore the rich crimson corpuscles to our blood. In the days of our forefathers they had very little trouble in satisfying their ambitions as a hunter, but from season to season the bag has grown smaller until it becomes absolutely necessary for progressive legislation to protect our natural resources.

At present we have in the State of Maryland a Hunter's License System, which became effective June 1st, 1918. The State Game Department is supported solely from funds derived through the sale of hunter's licenses. The taxpayers of this State do not contribute one cent to the support of the State Game Department or to propagate or protect the game unless said taxpayers should procure a hunting license. Therefore, we found it very essential to give the sportsmen returns for monies expended by them by "More Game," hence the State Game Farm of Maryland was established during the propagating season of 1920.

The department purchased the Dolfeld estate, at Gwynbrook, Baltimore county, comprising 290 acres. After careful investigations and consultations with game commissioners of other States, in which were established game farms, we deemed it advisable to purchase this property. During the 1921 brooding season, which was our second year at the game farm, from a number of Chinese Ringnecked Pheasants, we secured 8,005 eggs—5,027 of which were used for brooding purposes, and 2,978 shipped to parties making application for same. From these we hatched and placed on the brooding field 5,027 birds and shipped to the 23 counties of the State 2,900 birds, by sending a shipment to each county which we think is a very good record for the second year, and we hope to be able to double the number of birds during the season of 1922.

The department decided on the propagation of Chinese Ringnecked Pheasant because of their wonderful hardiness, their excellent sporting qualities, their delicious meat and their very prolific nature. You may ask why quail or native partridges were never chosen for propagation on the State Game Farm. The answer lies in the lamentable fact that this species of game birds cannot be reared in large numbers successfully as the pheasant, and their propagation under artificial methods is yet in an experimental stage. We attempted during the propagating season 1920 to raise Bob-white Quail, but with very poor results. However, it is hoped that some day there may be a method by which Bob-white Quail may be raised in captivity profitably. The Ringnecked Pheasant is very hardy, perhaps the hardest of all game birds. The severe cold weather has no terrors for them, they are easily raised and mature very quickly. The fact that their food consists largely of insects and the seeds of obnoxious weeds, makes them a very valuable asset to all agricultural communities.

The State Game Department contemplates distributing a large number of Ringnecked Pheasants' eggs and young birds annually, and in this manner afford the sportsman of this State better hunting in the future. We earnestly request the support and cooperation of the public in general in stocking the covers of this State with the species of game which we are sure the sportsman will find to be the best game bird he ever bagged.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

Right habits for children—Obedience

The life of every individual is largely a life up of habits. The time when habits are most easily formed is during the early years of life. It is therefore most important not only that habits be formed which will help the child to become a good citizen, but that the formation of all good habits begin very early in life.

Everyone interested in the children of today desires to see them develop into good boys and girls and later into the right kind of citizens. Good habits are, however, essential in the child's life if he is to become a good citizen.

There are many ideals and standards to be desired, many good habits that should be formed in early childhood—truthfulness, honesty, justice, cleanliness, service, courtesy and obedience. In this brief article we are to consider but one, obedience, to the laws of home, school, state and country.

The lack of respect for and obedience to the laws of the group in both adults and children is one of the greatest dangers of our country today, yet great men of our country—Washington, Lincoln, and Roosevelt—had the utmost respect for law and order. If we are to have law-abiding citizens, we must have obedient children in the home and school.

It is a common criticism today that children do not obey. If this is a just criticism, the fault is with the adult, not the child. It is often too much trouble to insist upon obedience but this course will lead only to greater trouble in the future. Sometimes it is the right of the child to be told the reason for a request or command, but there are times when prompt and unquestioning obedience is essential. If a child is in danger, there may be no time to reason, argue or explain—in such a case prompt obedience may be necessary to save him from serious injury. The habit of obedience will never be formed through making unreasonable or unjust demands, but a demand once made should be followed to the end—absolute obedience.

There is no place in society where the law-breaker is welcome—there is no gang or group in child life in which the child is wanted who does not respect the law of the group. The child who has little or no respect for the laws of the community, is a free country is not a place where every individual does as he pleases, regardless of the rights of his neighbor, but a place where every individual has a right to the opportunities of the land and the privilege of making the most of them, provided he does not interfere with the rights of other members of society.

It is the duty of each to obey the laws of the group, and the place in which this respect for law, order and the rights of others should be inculcated is the home.

Dr. Wailes Delivers Serman At Church

every page are the marks of the human. There are the songs of David the minstrel or the musings of Solomon the philosopher. Here is the calm majesty of Isaiah, or the rustic simplicity of Micah. So very human indeed is the book that it reflects the moods of its writers, as, for example, in the Epistles to Colossians and Ephesians. In one his thoughts were like a rushing mountain torrent cutting their way through every barrier. In the other the movement of his mind was like a quietly expanding lake in which the troubled waters have found rest and in whose placid depths are reflected the glories of heaven. But these men were only the media through which God himself spoke. He providentially selected and prepared certain men, put them at the particular viewpoint in the development of revelation from which he wished them to write, and he co-operated with them in such a way that, while they were free in the use of their powers, what they wrote was at the same time the errorless expression of the mind of God. Thus the Bible is a message from the bosom of the Father to the heart of his child; in its "spirit with Spirit" doth meet.

VII. Now let us ask ourselves what should be our attitude toward this Book. There was no doubt in the mind of the psalmist. "Thy testimonies" said he "are wonderful, therefore, doth my soul keep them." As an ardent lover toward the queen of his affection, so was David toward the word of God. Listen to his passionate utterances:

"Oh, how love thy word; it is my meditation all the day."
"How sweet are thy words unto my taste, yea sweeter than honey to my mouth."

"More to be desired are they than gold, yea than much fine gold."

"Thy statutes have been my song in the day of my pilgrimage."

We know how our fathers and our mothers felt. We turn to the old family Bible and we find its pages thumbed by fingers which have long since ceased to toil and its leaves stained by tear-drops from eyes now closed in death. They loved the Book, they lived by it and they would have died rather than be false to it. But times have changed. We are living in a new era now. The very air is electric with excitement. We hurry to our tasks in the morning, we spend ourselves throughout the day, we return at evening for our social engagements and then at last, weary and worn, we fling ourselves down to rest for the night; and the dear old Book—what of that? "Oh," said Edward Irving "if books had but tongues to speak their wrongs, then might this Book well exclaim: 'Hear Oh Heavens and give ear Oh Earth, I came from the embrace of God, to man I came and my words were to the children of men. I have opened to you the Gates of Eternal Life and the way of salvation hitherto unknown. I have poured upon your earthly lot the full horn of Divine Providence and consolation and nothing in heaven have withheld from your hope and ambition but you repaid me with no welcome; ye held no festivity on my arrival; ye sought me from health and happiness; ye cloister me with sickness and infirmity and shut me up to a corner of your time."

And still as in the day of Irving, it is largely a neglected book. The impression is that the Bible is uninteresting. Dull when the sweetest pastoral in all literature is the story of Ruth following Naomi for love's sake to a foreign land and gleaming after the reapers of Boaz. Dull when the finest lyrics are the psalms which contain "all of the music of the heart of man swept by the hand of his Maker." Dull when before the simple words of the Great Teacher pales the rhetoric of far famed orators. Dull when superior to the classics of Rome is the little letter to Philemon gleaming like a pearl of rarest purity among the treasures of the New Testament. When the splendor of the sun shall fade before the glimmer of a candle, then, but not before, may the word of God be thought void of charm. The Bible is the most fascinating book in the world.

Let us accept it as God's priceless gift; let us use it as a "lamp to our feet and a light to our pathway." So shall we walk aright in this life and eventually enter into another where our communion shall be forever perfect and our joy forever full.

10,000 INDIANS IN WAR.

Over 10,000 Indians served in the World War. In the past eight years the Indians have spent $18,000,000 for homes, barns, and modern farm implements; 37,000 Indian farmers cultivate 1,000,000 acres; 47,000 are raising live stock worth $38,000,000, says a census summary in The World Almanac. The 2,100 Osage Indians (in Northeast Oklahoma) received over $7,000 apiece in income in 1920 from oil and gas lands they had leased. There are 419 Protestant and 208 Catholic missionaries among the Indians, and 657 churches. Church-going Indians number 106,176, of whom 58,838 are Catholic. Of the Redskins, 133,193 speak English; 91,331 read and write English; 196,844 are citizens' clothing; $3,402 are United States citizens; 29,738 are voters; 26,949 are engaged in industries other than farming and stock-raising (fishing and native textiles); 6,504 families keep milk cows; 44,195 families live in permanent houses and 10,346 families live in tents; the birth rate is 31.67 per 1,000 population, and the death rate is 22.32 per 1,000 population; 8,049 able bodied and 8,033 disabled Indians receive government rations without laboring or paying therefor; 61,800 children go to schools, which cost the government over $4,700,000 a year. The Indians own 150,966 horses and mules; 211,938 cows, 1,361,315 sheep and goats.

Same Old Story, But a Good One.

Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savanna, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened in almost every neighborhood in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles."—Adv.

Cause of Appendicitis.

When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or large intestines become packed with refuse—matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known as appendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you have little to fear from appendicitis.—Adv.

Baltimore, Maryland.

Gentlemen—

Sixteen months ago, after thoroughly testing the various fuels on the market, we decided to use AMOCO-GAS and other tests made at different times have convinced us that AMOCO-GAS is superior in every way.

It keeps the motor free from carbon, does not overheat it and does away with that carbon knock. It also gives the motor more power, more flexibility and increases mileage.

We therefore, feel confident in recommending AMOCO-GAS to owners of Oakland cars.

Very truly yours,

ABSOLUTE SECURITY!

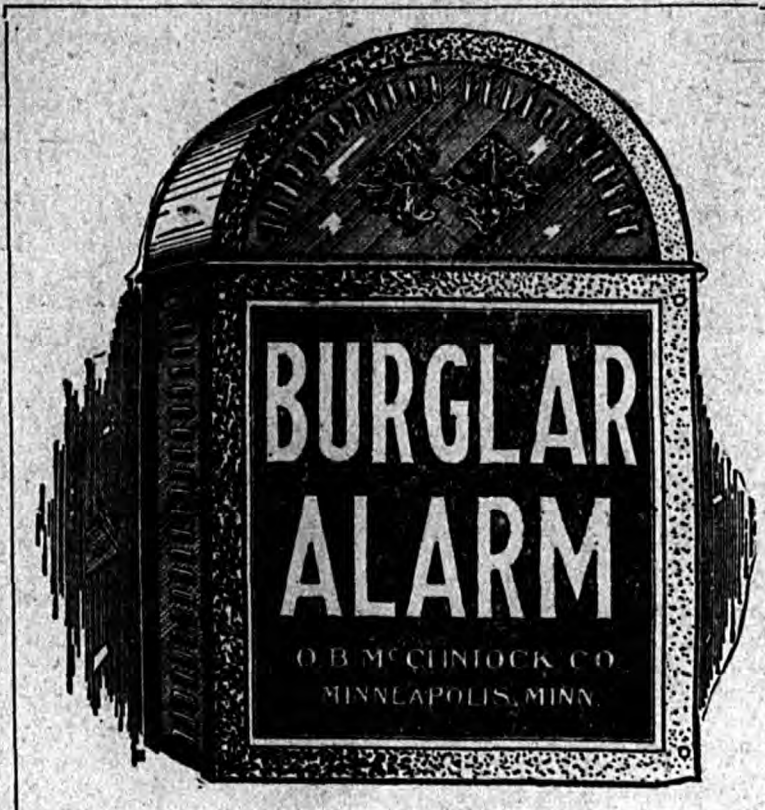

The One Thing Above All Others That Every Depositor Wants and Every Real Banker Seeks to Provide

It is the solemn duty of every financial institution to use every means possible to protect the funds, securities and valuables entrusted to its care. To offer that feeling of absolute security is positively due to the patron to justify his confidence. The Bank must actually protect, or it betrays.

The Peoples National Bank has carried and continues to carry the best insurance protection it is possible to secure covering loss by burglary and daylight hold-up, whether the attack be against our own property or against the property and valuables of others entrusted to our care. We have felt equal concern for the safety of both, and have spent money freely to afford them both protection.

But the management felt that we had not done our full duty until every possible precaution was taken—until our patrons had the very best protection it was possible to obtain.

That, obviously, included some form of burglar alarm system, such as is maintained by practically all the banks in the larger cities, and is being adopted rapidly as well by progressive country banks, especially since the great increase in attempted burglaries during the past few years.

A careful study of the situation, and investigation of the methods employed by the banks in the larger cities and towns, has led us to install one of the most modern and efficient Electric Burglar Alarm Systems and the ONLY Thermo-Electric Protection in existence. It is acknowledged as being absolutely Burglar Proof, and is a fitting climax of positive security with our modern Vault. This system is manufactured by the O. B. McClintock Company of Minneapolis, which fully guarantees that the system cannot be defeated by the most expert burglar.

There are over 6000 of these systems in use in the United States and in no case has a burglar ever succeeded in his attempts to rob a bank so equipped. In fact, the attacks upon the banks with the system installed continue to grow less as time passes, though the number of systems rapidly increases, indicating that the yeggmen are beginning to pass by institutions which carry the familiar sign indicating that every modern device that genius can provide has been called into service to defeat their efforts.

The First Bank in Wicomico to be Absolutely Protected

INSURANCE COMPANIES INDORSE THE SYSTEM

One of the very best indorsements of our Burglar Alarm System is that given by the Old Line Burglary Insurance Companies. So firm is their belief in the protection thus afforded that they reduce by 50 per cent the premiums on the burglary insurance which we carry on the contents of our vault, including the Safe Deposit Boxes of our customers.

These insurance people know better than any one else, doubtless, the value of the additional protection thus afforded.

We solicit your business on the broad basis of safety and service.

$500 REWARD

IN CASH WILL BE PAID BY THE O. B. MCCLINTOCK COMPANY OF MINNEAPOLIS, MINNESOTA, FOR THE CAPTURE AND CONVICTION OF ANY PERSON OR PERSONS ATTEMPTING TO BURGLARIZE THIS BANK.

CROWDS GREET GREAT SALISBURY FAIR WHEN GATES OPEN TUESDAY

Thousands Of Visitors Admire Quantity And Quality Of Exhibits.

FREE ATTRACTIONS AND MIDWAY SCORE HEAVILY

Management Fortunate To Secure Such High Class Attractions—Large Entries In Various Departments Bid For Prizes—Weather Ideal For Event.

Displays and exhibits of the Great Salisbury Fair got off to a good start Tuesday when the weather man favored the opening day with ideal weather that lured thousands of visitors to the fair grounds. Folks from the many county districts and those from distant sections made early getaways from home and were on hand to pass through the gates as soon as they were opened.

By noon the enclosure was beginning to take on the customary fair aspect of hundreds of automobiles parked along side of each other in zigzag fashion and their hordes of occupants promading about the grounds first gazing and marveling at the wonderful exhibits and later taking in the midway with its various attractions and forms of amusements.

Lovers of horse racing wandered to the grandstand and inside track to watch their favorites respond to the tugs and whips of the drivers in the struggle between the horses and more honors. The banktail always has a large following and the afternoon's card of sport yesterday was heartily enjoyed as some mighty good races were staged.

The exhibits of poultry and cattle this year far exceed those of previous years, while the agricultural exhibits are fully up to the standard of former fairs held here. The commercial displays are also coming in for their share of attention. All of the booths have been nicely arranged and there is something in each one of them that is calculated to be pleasing to fair visitors.

Especially fine are the exhibits of needlework, fancy work and household goods and the work of the inmates of the Maryland Workshop for the Blind is arousing no little comment from passing spectators. Keen is the competition among the county fairs and girls to the 200 in prize offered by the management for the best show of twelve articles.

The free attractions this year are absolutely the best ever shown. Miss Quincy, the diving girl, draws throngs to her act while the trapeze artists also come in for their share of applause. But the feature performance which deserves special mention is "The girl in red" with her diving horse. A special tank has been provided within the enclosure of the race track that holds the water for the plunge of horse and rider to a height of 40 feet. Approximately 50,000 gallons of water was pumped into this tank by an engine of the local fire department.

The gray, white midway has its same line of fascinating games and extraordinary shows. The Lone Star ranch puts on a show of Indian and cowboy fight in true western style while closely there stands the tent in which a beautiful woman is sewed in half. "If you believe there is a trick in it, pay down your coin and see for yourself the actual deed."

Other stands are vividly decorated and their "ballyhoosers" are exploiting the shows in stentorian voices. "The wild lady who eats snakes alive and the shrunken living corpse of the cigarette fiend" are parts of tent programs that elicit an "oh look, pap" from the kiddies as they tramp along hen-pecked fathers who welcome this annual relaxation from vicissitudes of home life and leave "mother" on the grounds somewhere with the lunch (Continued on Page 5.)

ENGINEER LEWIS HERE TO MAKE WATER SURVEY

At Request of Mayor and City Council Public Service Commission Sends Expert To Salisbury.

Engineer Lewis of the Public Service Commission arrived in Salisbury the first of the week to make a survey of the water situation. Mr. Ellis came as a result of a request forwarded to the Public Service Commission by the Mayor and City Council of this city asking that someone be appointed to investigate the poor condition of the water supply here.

Salisbury authorities have long recognized the inadequacy of the water supply both for domestic consumption and fire fighting. Unable to secure any improvement by local action they determined to ask the cooperation of the Commission. It is desired to develop new water resources, drains and filtration activities.

Engineer Ellis said Wednesday morning that he would be in the city for another day in order to make a complete investigation and survey. It is his duty to view the matter from both sides and therefore he is studying every phase of the situation. Mr. Ellis said that he had made a previous survey and report about five years ago of the water problem here and that so far he had noted no material change in existing conditions for which he had made certain recommendations.

Suitcase Mystery

Scores of people rushed down to the river front early Thursday morning when they received word that a baby was to be found floating down the Wicomico in a suitcase back of T. L. Ruark's warehouse. Never before did a mere "kewpie doll" attract so much attention. What's that Barnum said about one being born every minute? And what are they going to do with that roll of names of prominent citizens who eagerly sought the scene of the mysterious crime.

INTERVIEW IS SECURED WITH CONGRESSMAN

T. Allan Goldsborough Points To Endorsed Record In Nation's Capitol.

COMMENDED IN LETTER FROM CLAUDE KITCHIN

Democratic Candidate From This District Seeks Renomination And Election Stating That Interests Of People Have Always Been Paramount In Determining His Policies.

Discussing the political situation a few days ago, Congressman T. Allan Goldsborough, of this District, made the following short statement: "A little while ago, in announcing my candidacy for renomination and reelection to Congress, I expressed the feeling that I would be nominated without opposition in accordance with the time honored custom of our party, but I was mistaken in this, as others have filed their certificates for this nomination, one from my own county of Caroline. I am sure that the people, as well as the party leaders, believe I have done what I could to be helpful, but I think also the people would be interested to know what impression my efforts have made on the congressmen in Washington.

A few days ago I received a letter from one who has been a great national figure for many years, and who has honored me with his friendship, the chairman of the ways and means committee of the House of Representatives, and leader of the House during the Wilson administration, now minority leader. The letter follows from Mr. Claude Kitchin: My Dear Goldsborough:

I thank you for sending me your excellent speech which I read with unusual interest. It was admirably conceived and logically and clearly put. I congratulate you. I made no mistake when I championed your candidacy for membership on the banking and currency committee and am glad I withdrew in your favor our North Carolina candidate. I want you to be as watchful and diligent as possible on that committee. On every measure from the committee I suggest that you make a speech, however short, explaining and analyzing the bill. When the Democrats get control of the House we will have much important legislation before that committee. I want you to go right to the front with respect to the bills before it. Your power of analysis and clearness of expression together with your practical experience will justify your taking a leading part and becoming a most valuable and useful member.

"I trust you have had a most restful and pleasant vacation and that opposition in the primaries has or will arise. Your splendid record in Congress, together with the esteem and confidence of the membership of the House in you, should certainly prevent any such opposition.

Your friend,

CLAUDE KITCHIN.

Mr. Kitchin was at his home in North Carolina recuperating from an illness when the speech he refers to was made; he consented for me to publish the letter when I told him I was sure all our folks would be interested in it.

I think our people would be glad to know also about a letter recently received from an ex-Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall.

My Dear Mr. Goldsborough: I am so glad that you have introduced a bill to stabilize the purchasing power of money. I wish I could be present at the hearing but it will be impossible for me to do so. Don't let this matter drop or stop with a perfunctory hearing because this is a thing that is going to come to pass and you will be a very proud man to know that you had the honor of taking the initial step in the House of Representatives.

Sincerely yours,

THOS. R. MARSHALL.

I believe all I ought to say is that I have taken no time over in Washington playing politics, and that it has been my ambition, within the limits of my ability, to be a hard working faithful public servant."

ACUTE COAL SITUATION HITS CITIZENS GAS CO.

Forces Operating Expenses Upward But Plant Is Maintaining Same Service To Customers.

Slowly the public is realizing the acute fuel situation brought on by the coal strike. It is very likely that a cold spell will be the only means of impressing upon the populace the seriousness of the existing condition. Coal for domestic use is hard to get and as a result of the strike of the last five months large firms are finding fuel hard to secure in large quantities.

Mr. John W. Downing, manager of the Citizens Gas Company which is operating in Salisbury and Delmar is serving 1,800 consumers, stated to a News reporter this week that his company has been up against it in buying coal, both from the standpoint of quantity and price. He cited one instance where the Gas Company had been quoted a price of $12 per ton which was advanced to $17 a ton in a. b. point of shipment.

The cost of unloading coal is also much higher than usual due probably to the dangers attending the unloading. Cars have been found with dynamite sticks hidden in the coal. Just recently in a car acquired by the Citizens Gas Company was discovered sufficient quantities of the deadly explosive material to have destroyed the whole plant.

Mr. Downing states that although his company has already spent nearly $2,000 more than the normal cost of maintenance, it is still rendering service whereas in other sections of the country similar plants have been forced to shut down. The Citizens Gas Company has enough hard coal on hand to last until Dec. 1.

Fire Department Is Host Friday Evening

Crab Supper and Entertainment Awaits Guests—Officials Want Public Inspection.

All is in readiness for the celebration of the Salisbury Fire Department on Friday evening on its 50th anniversary. More than 200 invitations were sent out and an evening of entertainment is promised the guests.

A big crab supper will feature the occasion the engine hall being used for the banquet, the fire trucks taking places in the street. It is the wish of the fire officials that the Salisbury public make it a point to visit the engine house and firemen quarters on the day of celebration. They are eager to show the citizens what an up-to-date department they have and how carefully the equipment is handled.

HANNAMAN COMPANY GETS SOMERSET ROAD CONTRACT

Bids for building State roads in various parts of Maryland were opened Tuesday by the State Roads Commission, prices offered averaging around $30,000 a mile. These bids were for concrete construction of the standard width and thickness. D. A. Hannaman Construction Company, of this city, made the low bid on 1.8 miles of road from Marion towards Tull's corner in Somerset corner. The figure named was $49,542.

GIRL KILLED IN ACCIDENT AT SEASHORE

Miss Wilson, Of Philadelphia, Victim Of Ocean City Auto Wreck.

REGINALD BAILEY OF SALISBURY BADLY CUT

State Police Seeking Red Roadster That Failed To Stop After Forcing Pocomoke Hiring Car Off Road—Machine Turned Turtle—Two Passengers In Local Hospital.

Miss Sarah L. Wilson, of Philadelphia, was killed, and several other members of an automobile party were badly bruised and cut when the automobile in which they were traveling from Ocean City to Pocomoke turned turtle Sunday midnight just past the bridge leading into the seashore resort.

Reginald Bailey, of Salisbury, who was Miss Wilson's escort, was cut and bruised about the hands and face and considerably shaken up. The other occupants of the car were Mr. James B. Townsend, of Pocomoke, owner and driver, who is in a highly nervous condition following the accident besides having several fingers broken and other parts of the body bruised; George Calvin Littleton, a young 12 year old nephew of Mr. Townsend, who was not injured, and Captain Wash Milligan and Mr. J. Drummond, of Cape Charles, who suffered several broken ribs and were carried to the Peninsula Hospital.

Miss Wilson had been visiting Mr. Townsend's daughters in Ocean City for a couple of weeks and Sunday night was on her way home. Planning to catch the northbound train from Pocomoke for Philadelphia, she was included in the party of Mr. Townsend who as a hiring car driver was taking two passengers to Pocomoke. His nephew and Mr. Bailey, who was going as far as Salisbury with Miss Wilson made up the load.

According to Mr. Townsend's story he had just passed over the Ocean City bridge and was proceeding along at a rate of speed not over 25 miles per hour when he saw a car approaching with dim lights and on the wrong side of the road. Waiting to the very last minute for the other driver to change his course, Mr. Townsend finally swerved to the left to avoid what seemed a headlong collision. At the same time the other car came over to the right side of the road and forced the victims of the accident off the concrete into the sand.

The car turned completely over and righted itself again facing in the opposite direction it was traveling. Reginald Bailey was the first one on his feet and calling to his girl friend he found her lying on the concrete with blood streaming from wounds in her head and apparently lifeless. A passing car was hailed and the girl rushed to Ocean City where doctors pronounced her death as instantaneous. Her skull was fractured with both jawbones crashed in and both knees broken.

The car that was responsible for the accident never stopped and state police all over the Shore are looking for a low red speedster roadster as it has been described. The dead girl's father is a salesman for the Vacuum Oil Company and upon notification of the accident came down by machine to Ocean City and had the body removed to Rehoboth, Del., at the home of the grandfather, Mr. Jesse Wilson. It is said that Miss Wilson's other grandfather, Mr. Pointer, of Lewes, Del., was killed the same night in another automobile smash-up.

DISCHARGES SHOT-GUN MUZZLE AGAINST BODY

Mrs. Marion Reddish, of Nutters District, Makes Good Second Attempt To Kill Self.

Mrs. Marion Reddish, of Nutters District, committed suicide Saturday by shooting herself with a shotgun. Mrs. Reddish obtained the firearm during her husband's absence, from home and going up into her room prepared for her death. Sitting on the side of the bed, she leaned against the muzzle of the gun and with a stick fired off the load, all of which entered her stomach.

Death must have been instantaneous as her aunt who was downstairs in the kitchen rushed to the scene of the shooting upon hearing the shot and found the body apparently without life. The victim was bleeding profusely and although medical aid was summoned immediately, doctors pronounced her dead upon first examination.

The authorities, after an investigation, decided that death was caused by suicide and that no inquest would be necessary. Several years ago Mrs. Reddish was very ill with the flu and it is said that she has never fully recovered from the attack and has been despondent ever since. On one occasion the woman purposely put some crushed glass into some food and ate it but survived.

William Cabell Bruce To Be In City Friday

Last Entrant Into Democratic Senatorial Race In Fast Making Friends And Organizing Forces.

William Cabell Bruce, candidate for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, will be in this city Friday. Mr. Bruce will come down from Baltimore for the purpose of meeting his friends and will probably spend part of the day at the Fair. The organization candidate has just recently entered the race and yet his campaign is gaining more and more momentum as the days roll by.

It must be gratifying to the former City Solicitor and late counsel of the Public Service Commission to note the praise appearing for him from both the ranks of his opponents and backers. The verdict seems to be unanimous that he is a scholar and a gentleman, and that he is qualified highly for the honor which he is seeking.

T. ALLAN GOLDSBOROUGH TO BE AT FAIR FRIDAY

Congressman T. Allan Goldsborough, of this district, who is seeking renomination and reelection to Congress, will be in Salisbury on Friday and will go out to the Fair to meet his constituents and friends. Candidate Goldsborough has made a deep impression on his colleagues in Washington and his work in Congress has been heartily approved by Claude Kitchin, chairman of the ways and means committee and other party leaders.

POPULARITY CONTEST FOR MEN IS RUNNING

Arcade Theatre Patrons Now Voting For Their Male Favorites—Vaudeville This Week.

Following close upon the heels of the popularity contest for Salisbury girls, the Arcade Theatre is staging a similar one for the men of the city and no small amount of interest has been aroused. Various forms of campaigns have been resorted to by supporters of the leading competitors. Slides have been shown on the theatre's screen "begging" for the votes of the "multitude" while other forces have even distributed circulars for their favorites.

"Babe" Adams the idol of the Salisbury ball fans showed that he is a good sport by requesting that his name be removed inasmuch as he was the public eye too much on the diamond thus working an unfair advantage over the other contestants. Ted White and Ernest Laws appear to be the red-hot favorites. The standing is as follows:

Ted White 2,610; Ernest Laws 2,580; Arthur Boyce, 1,610; Denwood Mitchell 1,600; Fulton Brewington 1,590; Jack Adkins 1,500; James E. Humphries 1,010; "Beau" Mitchell 990; Harry Dennis 940; Everett Duncan 750; Harry Wubbold 670; Roy Rhodes 580; Howard Ruark 550; "Punch" Fields 540; Carroll Leach 530; Henry Mitchell 490; Lester Powell 480; Harris Riggins 470 and Walter Tilghman 460.

Vaudeville has been booked for this week in addition to the first-class pictures being shown. Jules Black and his company present a real scream in slapstick comedy on Wednesday and Thursday and on the last two evenings of the week make an entire change of program.

"PLIM" MASQUERADE BALL AT OCEAN CITY

Attractive and Original Costumes Attract Throngs To Boardwalk's Featured Event.

Throngs were present at the Masquerade Ball held in the casino of the Plimhinon Hotel last Saturday night. Many couples from Salisbury were present for the dancing although they did not go masked. The ballroom was attractively decorated and the costumes of the masqueraders were beautiful and original.

The first part of the program was given over to the children, and the youngsters dressed in fancy little creations drew rounds of applause from the lookers. Little Miss Harris and Miss Buys won the prize for the most beautiful costumes, Master McCabe for the most original, Miss Mallier and Miss Weaver for the most comic and Miss Jensen and Master Shreve for the most original couple.

The adult's part of the evening's entertainment attracted a large group of prize-seekers and the judges found the picking of winners a difficult task. The various individuals and groups were forced to parade and promenade several times ere selections were made. Here the Glynn Morris Novelty Orchestra scored heavily with their copyrighted music as each masquerader came to the front. This quartet of syncopated melodists has been featured at the Plimhinon Hotel all summer.

The prize winners were: Most beautiful costumed couple, Miss Stubbs and Mr. Course as an original couple; most original, Miss Mallier and Mr. Zollers, as school-kids; most comic, Mr. Derrickson in a half boy and half girl make-up; most original, Miss Kemper and Mrs. Georgia Carey, who were fascinating girls in Oriental silks; most comic, Mrs. Morris and Master McCabe. Group prizes: Miss Calloway, Miss Thibault, Miss Mallier, Mr. Weaver, Mr. Wehr, and Mr. Zollers. The judges were Mrs. John F. Wagerman, Annapolis, Mrs. Wm. F. Wehr, Baltimore, Dr. W. L. Marcy, Annapolis, William F. Wehr, who played the part of master of ceremonies.

LEGIONNAIRES PLANNING TO TAKE OCEAN CITY BY STORM ON FRIDAY

Flower Takes Dip

A prosperous darkey from Nanticoke came to Salisbury on business trip early Sunday night. He parked his "fiver" near the water front in an alley by Sheppard & Co. Coming back about 8 o'clock to go home the visitor discovered starting trouble. Jacking up the rear wheels he thought the rest would be easy. But Miss Lizzie decided a cool dip would end a perfect day and without warning to her owner slid off the props and rolled into the murky waters, where she lay until Tuesday morning.

MEASURES TO BE VOTED ON IN NOVEMBER

Several Important Questions Are At Stake In Proposed Amendments.

TO CONSIDER SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT AND OTHERS

Agitation Aroused Over Plan For Increased Representation Of Baltimore City—New Article Known As "Fewer Elections Bill" Provides For State Elections Every Four Years.

There are several important measures to be voted upon in the elections to be held in November of this year. A digest of the measures has been prepared by Dr. Horace E. Flack, executive of Department of Legislative Reference. All voters will note that there two amendments dealing with increased representation: One for the 50 per cent. increase in the Senate and the other for the 50 per cent. increase in the House of Delegates.

In the agitation for increased representation we must not lose sight of the fact that most legislation is secured by trading. Admitting this to be true, and we must, on examination, have the Baltimore City Delegates' House of Delegates is worth considerably more, in many instances, many times more, than the vote of a County Delegate.

If a Baltimore City measure is before the House, Baltimore with its 24 votes needs only 30 additional votes to have the Constitutional majority of 54. In other words in order to have a Constitutional majority for a Baltimore City measure all that is necessary is for every Baltimore City Delegate to secure one vote from some other part of the State and they have within six votes of the Constitutional majority.

On the other hand if a certain County Delegation want a measure passed those County Delegates must each secure 26 Delegates from other parts of the State to have a Constitutional majority. In other words a Baltimore City Delegate's vote is 26 times more valuable than a single County Delegate. In the case of a county having the largest possible number of Delegates which is six the value of one of its Delegates' votes is only 1-8 that of a Baltimore City Delegate.

Two amendments are proposed to the Constitution of Maryland providing for increased representation of Baltimore City in the General Assembly first by adding two legislative districts to Baltimore City, which will give 2 additional Senators. If the amendment is adopted, Baltimore City will have 6 Senators out of 29.

Chapter 20, proposes to amend the Constitution by providing an increase of 12 members of the House of Delegates for Baltimore City. If the amendment is ratified, Baltimore City will have 36 members of the House of Delegates out of 118.

Chapter 141, proposes to amend the Constitution by making the term of the State Comptroller and State Treasurer 4 years instead of 2 years. The amendment also leaves the salary of the State Comptroller to be fixed by law instead of being fixed in the Constitution.

Chapter 227 proposes an entirely new Article to be known as Article 17 of the Constitution. This amendment is known as the "Fewer Elections Bill" and provides for having state elections every 4 years. If the amendment is adopted, all elective State officers, except judges, and all elective county officers shall be elected for 4-years terms, beginning with the election in November, 1926. Members of the State Senate and House of Delegates will be elected for 4-years terms but the General Assembly will meet every two years. If the amendment is adopted, however, there will be no session of the General Assembly in 1926 but the General Assembly elected in 1926 will meet in 1927 and there will be biennial sessions thereafter.

Chapter 275 proposes to amend the Constitution by providing that "All words or phrases, used in creating public offices and positions under the Constitution and laws of this State, which denote the masculine gender shall be construed to include the feminine gender."

Officials Of State Organization Expect Over 400 Veterans To Assemble.

NAMES OFFERED FOR POST OF COMMANDER

Keen Fight Looked For In Election Of Executive Heads—Prominent Orators And Noted Representatives From National And State Departments To Come.

Maryland's legionnaires are coming to Ocean City in full force for attendance at the State convention opening August 25th. Friday will witness numbers of world war veterans promading on the boardwalk at the seashore and gathering in the various hotel lobbies. The good old times and the hard knocks suffered will all be gone over in detail and battles with the hoes and crotches will be fought over again.

Over 400 delegates are looked for during the course of the coming congress, and the assembly will be asked to take up some very important questions and outline definite policies along certain lines. One of the chief matters that will be aired at the convention will be the recent charges of brutal treatment of disabled and shell-shocked soldiers at the Spring Grove Hospital in Calonsville.

The gathering of notables will mark the annual gathering of the state's American legion members. Both national and state departments will be represented by men high up in the various forces. Colonel Herron, of the General Staff, will be General Pershing's representative. Then there will be General Record of the Maryland National Guard, Garland Powell, of the National Headquarters American Legion and Mr. Sargeant of the Veteran's Bureau.

Each post has been urgently requested to bring along as many wounded buddies as possible and this number is expected to be of no small proportion. Several weeks ago Commander Woodcock sent a letter to each post in which he stated that he desired to have a grand reunion of all veterans and those who felt the pinch of hard times and for that reason hesitated to come could have the benefit of a personal check from him to cover expenses.

The administration of Col. Woodcock and his adjutant, Mr. Truitt, has been considered in every quarter as most successful and it will be no surprise if they are not publicly lauded at one of the meetings of the coming convention.

Another feature that will be no less a drawing card than the full representation of every post in the state will be the presence in large numbers of the Auxiliary, for every veteran who attends the convention has been requested to bring along his mother, wife, or sweetheart and special exercises will be held for the women.

Serious things will claim the attention of the legionnaires for at least part of the time. But it will be the purpose of everyone to enjoy the outing as much as possible. Several business meetings will be held and of particular interest will be the election of officers. Rumor is rife as to who will be the next State Commander and already city and county forces are beginning to line up their forces. The names have been mentioned: Mr. Key, of Frederick; Ben. of Baltimore; French, of Baltimore; Swezey, of Baltimore; and Carmichael, of Hagerstown.

Members of the Salisbury Post have been hard at work in their tasks of arranging for accommodations and the decorating of the convention hall. The Wicomico boys are also planning to have engaged a special room at one of the large hotels for a rendezvous and rest place. La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux is quietly concluding ar (Continued on Page 5.)

IMMENSE SAVING ON FREIGHT RATES SOON

Removal of 50 Mile Minimum on Local Shipments Goes Into Effect September 5th.

For many years Salisbury and Wicomico County have suffered an unjust freight charge by reason of the fact that the railroads maintained a rule whereby local freight rates were based on a 50 mile minimum haul.

Last January the whole matter of local rates was taken up with the railroad people by the Chamber of Commerce, and five exhibits were presented to the railroad officials at that time. It was shown by these exhibits that class one rate from Salisbury to Delmar, if the goods originated on the B. C. & A. was fifty-six and one-half cents (.56 1/2). The exhibit asked for a per mile rate which would correspond to similar distances on other roads and which were then thirty-five cents (.35c.). In view of the fact that these requests have been granted means a saving of twenty-one and one-half cents (.21 1/2c) for that particular class and, of course all other classes are in the same proportion.

This immense saving in local freight rates will go into effect September 5th. The exhibit covering commodity rates as well as those covering fertilizer and lumber are being closely followed up and we are assured that all of them will be granted and put into effect early this fall.

COWBOY OF THE AUTO IS LATEST TITLE GIVEN TO ROAD TESTERS AT FACTORIES

Methods Of Preparing A Car For Delivery To Its Ultimate Owner Much Like Breaking A Mustang To Saddle Or Harness On The Big Western Ranches.

Lasso chaps and romances may be gradually disappearing in the cattle lands, under the influence of so-called civilization, but right in the effort East you do not have to look any farther than an automobile factory to find a class of men who preserve the cowboy traditions.

They never appear on the magazine covers, and popular songs are not written about them; in fact, the casual visitor at a motor car factory seldom even sees them, because, like the real cowboy, they are a modest, retiring lot and are not usually around the factory anyway, but they are the same doughty breed of men. They are the road testers.

Substitute a winding gravel road for a mesquite-patched prairie, a hundred-horsepower motor car for a fire-spitting mustang; a sensitive accelerator for a touchy pair of spurs, and a responsive steering wheel for a cowhide bridle, and you have in the road-tester as fine a bronco-buster as ever ranged the plains. With a pair of pliers, he swings out of the gate and down the road in a cloud of dust which could not be equaled by a herd of buffaloes.

Just as the bronco-buster takes a natty-heeled mustang fresh from the prairie and with patience and skill converts it into a well-behaved piece of horse flesh, the factory road-tester has turned over to him an assembly of metal, wood and rubber which, although approved in its units, has never felt the breath of life.

Two weeks ago the pistons were standing on the concrete floor. And when it leaves his hands it is a perfectly coordinated piece of mechanism which, in the possession of an owner, will soon be rolling down a boulevard somewhere, quietly and with ease. It is an important and inspiring task.

Some of these factory cowpunchers have owl-like qualities. In the experimental division night shifts are frequently employed to pile up as much mileage as possible during the 24 hours. Hundreds of miles are covered between sunset and sunrise. In exploring new roads great distances from the factory these drivers learn to find their way perfectly by darkness, but are often completely lost in trying to take the same trip by daylight. In the sunlight it does not look like the same clump of trees or the same yellow barn.

There are many interesting tricks of the trade. For example, a gear or axle noise might be discernible on a north and south road with the wind from the east, but not from the west. It is therefore necessary to test the car with the wind from all quarters. The cars are also put through their paces in lonesome gullies, where the high walls have the effect of a sounding board.

Like the cowboy, the road-testers are something of a clannish lot and speak in language all their own. Out in scorching sun and driving rain, blinding dust and swashing mud, they are a brown-skinned crew, and distinguished in appearance from all other factory workers.

They are also inclined to be heavy-footed, marching on the accelerator whenever another make of car which makes any pretense or speed shows signs of battle. Weaving in and out in traffic, maneuvering with sure hand, a sharp, unexpected turn, hammering over treacherously jagged roads, shooting unerringly through a narrow opening with the accuracy of threading a needle or coursing quietly down the straight, wide highway, they are an inspiration to those who have learned that the driving of an automobile is an art.

When you see them turn into the factory yard, white with dust and with butterflies flattened against the radiator, you know they have been somewhere.

Certain Test.

Two fishermen were angling in a river when one suddenly dropped his rod. "Say!" he ejaculated. "Did you see that fellow fall off that cliff over there into the river?" "Don't get excited, Bill," soothed the other. "Mebbe it was a movie actor makin' pictures." "But, my stars! How kin we tell?" "Well," counseled the judicious one, "if he drowns, he ain't."

WHITE CLOUDS SLUMP BADLY IN PAST WEEK

Injuries To Stars Check Efforts Of Local Aggregation To Gain Second Place In Standing.

The White Clouds have been in a bad slump during the past week and as a result are many points behind in the effort to place Salisbury in second place when the curtain is rung down on the Eastern Shore Baseball League.

Injuries have played no small part in checking the aspirations of the local players. In fact, the team has lost the leading hitter in the circuit as the leading pitcher has been forced out of the game with an injured knee while Thompson the first baseman has his hand broken by a pitched ball.

Hearn the star pitching ace wrenched his right shoulder during one of the games and has not been available for duty for the past five days. With a crowded schedule facing the maturing fair week the White Clouds were forced to present a patched up line-up on the field and consequently several losses were sustained.

Cambridge pulled away with the opening game of a double header on Monday afternoon in which four circuit clouts were secured off the twirlers on the mound for the home team. However the nightcap was saved for the locals by tight playing. Parkley administered a shutout on Tuesday morning and demonstrated its ability to keep in front in the race for the flag.

Wednesday and Thursday mornings the fast-going Crisfield crabbers were entertained while Pocomoke comes to Gordy Field on Friday morning. It is possible that the Clouds might pick up lost ground during the course of these last few contests.

Child Left Alone In Machine Wanders Off

Two Year Old Son Of Oliver Collins Slips Off Sightseeing—Found on Railroad Avenue.

Leaving his two year old child in the back of his car which was standing near Waller, William's garage on Church Street, Oliver Collins, Thursday morning, went into a store on Main Street to make some purchases. When he returned a half hour later the youngster had disappeared. At once the father had visions of an abduction or a serious accident befalling the child and he frantically notified the police and various people in the neighborhood.

An organized search was instituted as it was the general opinion that the small boy had probably wandered off

Dairy Owner Is Like A New Man

W. J. Eldman Says Tanlac Has Ended Troubles That Kept His Miserable For Years.

"My customers on my milk route ask me what makes me so much healthier than I used to be, and I never fail to tell them about the benefits I got from Tanlac," said Wm. J. Eldman, 2011 Wilkens Avenue, Baltimore, Md., owner of the Belview Dairy, who has resided here all his life and is well known.

"I suffered four or five years from stomach trouble, nervousness, constipation and a badly run-down condition. I got so bad off it was torture for me to go through the day's work, an old was simply a shadow of my former self. I suffered the most intense pains after eating, bloated up with gas until I could hardly breathe and also had headaches that nearly blinded me. I had awful pains in my arms, shoulders and back, and my wife had to rub me with liniments at night.

But since taking Tanlac I feel like a new man. I can put in a big day's work now, turn in and get a good night's sleep and feel fresh as a daisy in the morning, something I haven't known in years. I am gaining weight right along, never have any trouble with my stomach and no more headaches. I can't find words to praise Tanlac highly enough."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Ham Prices Are Down

Ham—Boiled, Baked (Hot, or Cold), Broiled, or Fried—is one of the most appetizing and savory foods that the market offers.

The wholesale price of ham is fifteen to twenty per cent lower than it was six weeks ago.

The U. S. Dept. of Agriculture in an announcement dated June 19, 1922, in referring to vitamins found in meat said, "Various cuts of meat were tried, and in every instance pork was found to be relatively rich in vitamins. Pork tenderloin, fresh ham, smoked ham, and pressed boiled ham were tested and the results were much the same with all of them."

Swift's Premium Hams are always of a uniform high standard of quality, regardless of price. A special cure of sugar and salt, and smoking over hardwood fires impart a flavor that has made "Premium" Ham the world's standard.

Summer time is ham time. Insist on having "Swift's Premium"—see the blue identification tag.

CLUB WEEK BOYS AND GIRLS VISIT CAPITOL

University of Maryland Guests Are Visitors in Washington and Meet Harding.

The 250 or more boys and girls who have been attending "club week" at the University of Maryland recently called on Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, in this city, and were received by the Secretary, who posed with them for a photograph, and gave them a little informal talk. The young visitors were introduced to the Secretary by Dr. Thomas B. Symons, director of the University of Maryland extension service.

Secretary Wallace expressed gratification at the rapid organization of boys and girls interested in agriculture. "I trust that you will continue this work," he said, "and that as you grow older, you will all take an interest in some branch of agriculture."

The Secretary spoke to them of the various kinds of work which the Department of Agriculture is performing, and then asked them questions. He also explained that he had hoped to present them to President Harding, but said that the many pressing problems connected with the strike situation had made it impossible for the President to greet them.

Julia, Lucile and Rebecca Hyde, the Charles county triplets, were separately introduced to Secretary Wallace and the four were photographed as a group.

Much interest was manifested at the Agricultural Department in the success of the three Maryland boys.

Warren Rice, Joseph Glackson and George Worliff, of Cecil county, who after defeating all boys in this county in stock-judging contests, were sent to England as American representatives and there won the cup given by Lord Northcliffe from a picked team of lads representing the British Isles.

The Maryland visitors, after their interview with Secretary Wallace, visited the White House and some of the other public buildings before taking cars to Rock Creek Park, where they spent the afternoon.

Hunger, the Best Sauce.

Sauce is used to create an appetite or relish for the food. The right way is to look to your digestion. When you have good digestion you are certain to relish your food. Chamberlain's Tablets improve the digestion, create a healthy appetite and caused a gentle movement of the bowels.—Adv.

WHY REGISTER FOR THE PRIMARY?

It has been clearly indicated in a number of ways that the present primary campaign will be anything but apathetic and that an extraordinary effort will be made to have the potential voters in each party register on September Fifth and vote in the primary elections on September eleventh.

While the actual work of stirring a more or less sluggish electorate to its duty will be done by the several candidates and their supporters, the combined effort must necessarily arouse some citizens who might otherwise forget that he, or she, has an inalienable right to vote and that this right implies a real duty which cannot, in all due honor, be neglected. The benefit of the primary campaign, therefore, while belonging essentially to the successful candidate, will also help the body politic at large.

The work of the several candidates will, of course, be selfish; but so long as the results count most for the public generally, every citizen should be on the alert and should register at the proper time and place. There are many important reasons why he, or she should do this, not the least of which is because it is a solemn obligation which cannot be righteously avoided.

At the general election in November several amendments to the State Constitution will be voted upon. These changes in the organic law of Maryland affect, directly as well as indirectly, every man, woman and child in the State. That which will most vitally affect the voters is the amendment providing for elections every four years. Reflect for a moment on the vast amount of money required today to hold a general election. Multiply this amount by three or four and you will have some idea of what it costs the State and counties to carry on this one phase of government.

By holding elections only once in every four years, the expense should be proportionately reduced. This reduction will necessarily be reflected in the amount of money required for governmental purposes and should, therefore, mean an ultimate reduction in the tax rate. The amendment, consequently, becomes of vital interest to every voter in the State and is of no less importance to those qualified to become voters but who do not register.

A second amendment that will be voted upon in November is one giving women equal rights with men in regard to holding public offices and positions under the Constitution and laws of the State. While this amendment is primarily of more interest and importance to the women of Maryland than it is to the men, it nevertheless is important to the latter and should be so considered. Other amendments deal with various matters which are related more or less fully elsewhere in this issue. It will pay every man and woman in the County to read the mover carefully and be prepared to vote upon them intelligently on election day.

These, then, are some of the reasons why every potential voter in the county should register when the books are thrown open on the morning of September fifth in each election district. Unless one registers then, he will be unable to vote in either the primary election on September eleventh, in which candidates will be selected from each party for the United States Senate and for the House of Representatives, or in the general election in November when the amendments outlined above will be accepted or rejected.

Polls on Monday, September fifth, will open at eight o'clock in the morning and will close at eight o'clock in the evening. The places of registration will be the usual voting places in each district. In the newly created Fruitland District, registration will be carried on at the home of Mr. J. C. Palmer on Main Street. The Election Supervisors have been busy transcribing from the old books the names of those in the new district who will henceforth vote in Fruitland District. It will not be necessary for these to register again.

Any citizen of Maryland, qualified by reason of residence in this county to become a voter therein, may register on September fifth. Any man or woman in Wicomico County, who has the residence qualification and is of legal age since the last registration, may register at any time before the general election in November, but it is not permissible on this registration to change residence.

There are the reasons for registering and the way to register. Let every citizen in Wicomico County do his duty on September fifth, on September eleventh, and again on November seventh. Thus will Maryland become an even greater State.

CONGRATULATIONS, S. F. D.

It is a genuine pleasure to felicitate the Salisbury Fire Department on the celebration of their fiftieth anniversary and to wish for them a long life, a happy life, a successful life, and a life as useful through the future years as it has been in the past.

To have efficiently worked for and safeguarded the property and lives of the citizens of a community for fifty years is a record in which unusual pride may be taken. The traditions of a strong organization are worthy of reverence and of emulation, a fact peculiarly true of the traditions of the Salisbury Fire Department, and it is gratifying to know that the new members admitted to the Department are as thoroughly imbued with the spirit of these traditions as are the oldest members of the company.

With a firm foundation of fifty years of efficiency, the Salisbury Fire Department can build through the coming years a record of which every man, woman and child in Salisbury will be proud. Never yet have they failed to answer the call to protect, even at risk of their lives, the lives and property of others, and so great is our confidence in them that we know they never will fail.

DELAWARE STATE FAIR TO ENTERTAIN WALLACE

Head of Agricultural Section of President's Cabinet to Greet Farmers at Elsmere Labor Day.

One of the principal guests which the Delaware State Fair management expects to entertain at the Fair which opens at Elsmere on Labor Day is Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Because of his desire to advance agriculture throughout the country, Mr. Wallace is anxious to meet the farmers of Delaware and realizes that the Fair offers the best opportunity.

County agents from Sussex, Kent and New Castle Counties will have wonderful exhibits at the Fair. Each agent will show how science has aided the farmers in selecting seed, in proper fertilization and in cultivation of crops and harvesting methods. The accomplishment achieved by Delaware farmers in fighting crop pests that have in the past worked thousands of dollars worth of damage will feature the exhibits.

The farm exhibits from each county will be the largest assembled for any Fair ever held in Delaware. The bumper crops of produce and fruit have afforded an excellent selection for unusually big fruit and produce.

J. Wirt Willis in charge of the horse racing for the Fair, announces the biggest four days meet ever witnessed in the State. Some of the fastest trotters and pacers that have ever been seen in Delaware are entered and the judges and officials of the meet which have been carefully selected will see to it that so far as racing conditions go, the best horse will win.

To The Editor of The News, Sir:

Owing to the fact that I am a native of Wicomico County and of course always interested in its affairs—I noticed an article dealing with the proposed "Soldiers and Sailors Memorial" to be erected in the future, or it should be. It appears that the "Boys" have been neglected for a long time and I will be only too glad to contribute in a small way. Being that I am a photographer I have been called upon to photograph a Memorial for Rockland County, this State, one for Kane County, Ill. and one for Wassau County, Wis.

FOR CONGRESS

T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH

HIS RECORD ENDORSED BY

HON. CLAUDE KITCHIN, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives during the Wilson Administration, now Democratic leader of the House:

OFFICE OF MINORITY LEADER, HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, AUGUST 4, 1922.

My Dear Goldsborough:

I thank you for sending me your excellent speech which I read with unusual interest. It was admirably conceived and logically and clearly put. I congratulate you. I made no mistake when I championed your candidacy for membership on the Banking and Currency Committee and am glad I withdrew in your favor our North Carolina candidate. I want you to be as watchful and diligent as possible on that committee. On every measure from the committee I suggest that you make a speech however short, explaining and analyzing the bill. When the Democrats get control of the House we will have much important legislation before that committee. I want you to go right to the front with respect to the bills before it. Your power of analysis and clearness of expression, together with your practical experience, will justify your taking a leading part and becoming a most valuable and useful member.

Trust you have had a most restful and pleasant vacation and that no opposition in the primaries has or will arise. Your splendid record in Congress, together with the esteem and confidence of the membership of the House in you, should certainly prevent any such opposition.

With warm esteem,
Your friend,

P. S.—Am thankful to say that I will soon be back to my "old-self" in good shape. C. K.

HON. THOS. R. MARSHALL, ex-Vice President of the United States:

"Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough, Washington, D. C."

"My Dear Mr. Goldsborough:

"I am so glad that you have introduced a bill to stabilize the purchasing power of money. I wish I could be present at the hearing, but it will be impossible for me to do so. Don't let this matter drop, or stop with a perfunctory hearing, because this is a thing that is going to come to pass and you will be a very proud man to know that you had the honor of taking the initial step in the House of Representatives."

"Cordially yours,
"THOS. R. MARSHALL."

COUNTY TO STAGE AN EGG LAYING CONTEST

Rules and Regulations Governing Poultry Competition Given Out By County Agent Cobb.

Announcement has been made of the first egg laying contest in Wicomico County. County Agent Cobb gives out the information that it begins on the 1st of November and ends April 30th, 1923. Such a contest is now being staged in Delaware and is eliciting much interest. For the benefit of our readers the News is herewith publishing the list of rules and regulations.

1. The Contest is open to all poultry raisers in Wicomico County, Md.

2. The Contest begins Nov. 1, 1922 and ends April 30th, 1923.

3. No entry fee will be charged.

4. Twenty-five pullets shall constitute a pen.

5. Pullets of any standard breed may be entered in the competition. Pullets not standard bred and hens are excluded from the pens.

6. Artificial illumination, lights, shall not be used.

7. Contestants must keep a daily egg record for six months.

8. Contestants must furnish the County Agent at Salisbury once each month on blanks provided the following information: (a) Average net price received for eggs for the month; (b) Cost of 100 lbs. of Laying Mash; (c) Cost of 100 lbs. of Scratch Grain; (d) Total number of pounds of mash fed per month; (e) Total number of pounds of scratch grain fed per month.

9. All reports must be in the County Agent's office on or before the 15th of the following month.

10. Monthly reports will be sent to all Contestants. The report will show the average egg production, amount of feed consumed per hen, the cost of production, etc.

11. Male birds may be placed in the Contest pen for breeding purposes, after January, 1923. Special instructions will be sent later as to allowances for male birds.

12. Ribbons will be awarded monthly to those making the highest average egg production.

13. The County Agent or Poultry Specialist will endeavor to visit each Contestant at least once a month during the contest.

14. All entries close October 15th, 1922.

For further information apply to County Agent Cobb.

BIG REUNION OF WHEATLEY FAMILY HELD

Between 700 and 800 Guests Gather Together For Social Event With Entertaining Program at Old Wheatley Church on Eldorado Road Near Sharptown.

The second annual re-union of the Wheatley family was held on Wednesday of last week in the beautiful grove where Wheatley's Methodist Protestant Church and the country school house are located, on the State road from Sharptown to Eldorado, about two miles from the former town. This has been a church location for more than a century and the original boundaries of the lot are kept intact. It is in the center of a very thrifty community and surrounded by a happy, cheerful people.

The early Wheatleys carved their way as pioneers, through dense forest and cleared farms and erected homes in this section of what was then Somerset County, now Dorchester. Wheatley sentiment and influence still prevail and a sturdy, strong yeomanry may be found here as in days of yore. They are living the life of the honest toiler. These industrious, kind-hearted, hospitable people met on this the second reunion day of the family and gave every man, woman and child present a good time.

Long before the noon hour the people began to assemble and discuss the current topics of the day and by one o'clock a large crowd had gathered and the ladies prepared dinner. Several tables had been arranged and the various families who had provided the good things to eat gathered around the "festive board" and with open handed hospitality moved around through the crowd and saw that every man, woman and child was taken care of. The cooking was done at home. The tables were all filled with good eatables, such as country ham, fried chicken, pickles, salads, bread, cake, beef, preserves, jellies and ice cold lemonade. Nearly two hours were spent at dinner as the guests kept going and coming, some families coming in early and others later, but none were left. All were well provided for and it was said that enough food was left and taken home by the families to have fed as many again as had dined and this number went up into the hundreds.

After dinner, Mr. L. T. Cooper was requested to arrange a program of entertainment. He called to his assistance Mrs. Lena Wheatley to arrange for some music. A platform was fixed up and the church organ brought out with Mrs. Wheatley as organist. Hundreds of men, women and children gathered around and some fine selections were sung and the air was filled with the familiar melody. Short addresses were made by Rev. W. C. Buckson, Rev. Melvin Wheatley, Rev. George L. Hardesty and Rev. W. E. Thomkinson. It will be recalled that Rev. Melvin Wheatley, now a prominent member of the Wilmington Conference, was born near this spot and got his early education and inspiration to enter the ministry from this community. These exercises lasted about one hour and the people stood with strict attention and all seemed to enjoy this part of the program.

The next feature was an ice cream feast, ice cream and cake being served to all present. It is not necessary to compliment any one for doing special work for every member of the Wheatley family and all others present were ready to lend a helping hand and representatives were there from Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Virginia. George Robert Ellis, a veteran of the Civil War was the guest of honor at the age of eighty-four years. He was cheerful and told many war reminiscences and said he was in 21 engagements and but slightly wounded once and that at Gettysburg. The number estimated as present, including the many children was from seven to eight hundred. They hope to meet again at the same place in 1923 for the celebration of another Wheatley reunion.

POTASH ON FREE LIST.

The potash provisions of the tariff bill were under consideration during the week. The graduated duties, which were proposed to be levied for a period of five years, contained in the bill as it passed the House, were rejected by the Senate, which also rejected the proposal of the finance committee to pay graduated bounties for a period of five years to domestic producers, thus placing potash on the free list.

INVESTIGATE CHARGES AGAINST SPRING GROVE

Legion Delegates Will Take Up Question at Convention Despite First Exonerations.

One of the chief questions that will be discussed at the Legion convention in Ocean City the last of this week will be the alleged brutal treatment of disabled veterans at the Foster Clinic, Spring Grove Hospital. It is certain that the veterans will take up this problem although Spring Grove has been partially supported in a preliminary investigation.

The "Baltimore Sun" says: Dr. W. L. Kline, chief medical inspector under the Veterans' Bureau for the Fourth district, yesterday announced that, after inquiry, he has found no substantiation for the charges of brutality and alleged mismanagement of the Foster Clinic of the Spring Grove Hospital, Catonsville.

At the same time the hospital's board of managers met in the City Hall in executive session, after which they issued a statement inviting investigation and exonerating Dr. J. Percy Wade, manager, from blame. Declaring "there is no foundation of truth in the reports," board members said Dr. Wade was present and had been subjected to examination.

Investigation by the American Legion here will not begin until after the close of the Legion's State convention at Ocean City next Sunday.

Henry S. Barrett met with Governor Ritchie yesterday and decided upon Dr. Gideon Timberlake as the third member of the investigating committee of three. Adj. Gen. Milton A. Reekord, who was appointed by the Governor to represent the State, was detained in New York. Mr. Barrett will represent the Legion, and Dr. Timberlake is the choice of the other two members, having been selected as agreed.

The investigations result from charges by Dr. E. C. Reitzel, former administrator of the clinic. Dr. Kline's statement was issued in Washington after a part investigation. While having talked as yet with no ex-service patients, who are the alleged victims of the brutality, Dr. Kline had no hesitation in declaring he has regarded the Foster Clinic as being a model institution.

Dr. Reitzel's charges, he said, refer to a time prior to his own connection with the institution as district medical inspector. The hospital, he added, is conducted better now than formerly, and he has found nothing yet to convince him that mental patients were ever "man-handled," as charged by Dr. Reitzel.

"We have every confidence in Dr. Henry C. Mitchell, who now is in charge of Foster Clinic," said Dr. Kline, "and we are sure no brutality has been going on while he has been there."

"The care given mental cases at Catonsville is considered as good or better than that in any place in the United States. The veterans there have their own building and are not housed with the other patients. They are divided into classes, which is especially good, the noisy or violent cases being set apart where they do not annoy the quiet patients.

"The Veterans' Bureau keeps its own man there constantly. And we have found Dr. Mitchell is more than willing to make improvements when any are suggested."

"We had one case three or four months ago—and it is the only one—where an attendant shoved a patient. I recommended the attendant be let go. Dr. Mitchell willingly agreed and the man was 'fired.' We have taken the position all along that we cannot tolerate anything even bordering rough treatment."

"My questioning of doctors and attendants inclines me to believe that, even in the time when Dr. Reitzel was there conditions were not the way he now declares. Certainly they have not been that bad since I have known the place."

Death Comes To Aged Citizen Of Sharptown

Mrs. Rebecca Phillips, Mother of Captain John Hurt, Was Oldest Resident of Town.

Mrs. Rebecca Phillips died Saturday at Sharptown, aged eighty-seven years. She was staying with her daughter, Mrs. John T. Melson when stricken down and her funeral was held at the home on Monday by the Rev. Henry S. Dulaney, assisted by Rev. John T. Bailey and L. T. Cooper. After the services at the late home the remains were interred in the Taylor cemetery. The funeral was very largely attended as an evidence of the high regard in which she was held.

She leaves one son, Captain John W. Hurt, captain of the steamer Joppa, Nanticoke river route, two daughters, Mrs. John T. Melson and Mrs. Orestus W. Owens, all of Sharptown. She left several grandchildren and four great grandchildren. She was much loved by all who knew her and was a true and faithful friend always ready to administer to those who needed help or assistance. Beautiful floral tributes of love and sympathy were given by her friends and relatives. She selected her pall-bearers and gave direction for her burial. She was the oldest person in Sharptown.

The Distinguished New Fall Fashions can be seen NOW at this store. The store you have learned to recognize as having the new styles first—in showing the styles of tomorrow before you grow tired of the styles of today, and in showing the styles that are practical as they are new.

The New Silhouette makes one very tall, very straight, and very slim. The Skirts are from five to seven inches from the ground.

Suits have long, long jackets, or else they are of the three piece variety, with canton crepe blouses. Most of the skirts are draped and the suits are often beautifully fur trimmed.

Coats are also straight of line—although the wrappy models are somewhat widened at the waist. Many fur collars are of the choker variety. Squirrel, beaver, fitch, fox, mole and monkey are the favorites.

Dresses insist on the low waist-line, in spite of the fact that Paris has returned to the normal waistline. Trimming, designing—all add to the impression of height. They are talking of the circular skirt, and this store shows a few. The draped skirts on some of the dresses give some of the impression of height. You'll notice tight sleeves and short sleeves with drapings.

A Corner In Sports On The Eastern Shore Of Maryland

PENNANT WINNERS IN EASTERN SHORE AND BLUE RIDGE LEAGUES MEET SEPTEMBER 7

Parkley and Martinsburg Likely To Be Opposing Clubs—Gordy Park At Salisbury Slated To Be Scene Of Third Battle. Plans Formulated Last Week in Baltimore.

With the ringing down of the curtain on the baseball stage both Eastern Shore and Blue Ridge leagues, the two pennant winners will engage in a "Five-State" championship series. The name "Five-State" was chosen because the Blue Ridge and Eastern Shore circuits are represented in five states—Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware and Western Virginia.

Plans for the holding of this series was formulated on Thursday in Baltimore at a meeting of J. Vincent Jamison, Jr., president of the Blue Ridge League and J. Harry Rew, a director of the Parkley Club who represented President Walter B. Miller, of the Shore League. The series which is promoted by The Baltimore Sun had its inception last year when Princess Anne and Frederick were the rival nines, the latter easily winning out.

Parkley and Martinsburg, the two teams on the Eastern Shore ever since the opening of the season. It is so far in front that only an earthquake can prevent it from participating in the series. The other clubs in the wheel, realizing that they are unable to win, are staging a battle royal for second place.

In view of this fact and that the Eastern Shore visited the Western Shore for the opening of the series a year ago, and that three clubs—Martinsburg, Frederick and Waynesboro—have a chance to win in the Eastern Shore, it was decided to open at Parkley, where plans can be made immediately for the first game, which has been set for September 7.

Rew stated that he would like to have the first two games at Parkley, and the third, which would fall on a Saturday, at Salisbury, the hub of the wheel on the Peninsula. By playing at Salisbury, where the largest crowd of the series was Frederick and Princess Anne took up a year ago, practically all Eastern Shoremen would be in a short radius of the contest. It is possible that the Eastern Shore club wins in the Blue Ridge League, that the home team would want only two games, provided the series was not won in four straight, and would let some other town have the sixth, if that contest was required.

In the case of Martinsburg, which represents the Blue Ridge, Hagerstown or Frederick might want to see the teams in action. Frederick or Waynesboro also might let one of its neighbors have a contest should either be victorious.

If the series should require the full seven games, the deciding one will be played at Oriole Park. This will be September 14, provided rain does not interfere with the schedule. Jack Dunn has agreed to stage a double-header, meeting Newark at 2 o'clock, and letting the Class D nines perform at 4 o'clock.

In the event of a postponement, Baltimore and Reading will meet at 2 o'clock on September 15, and the series clubs two hours later. This will give Baltimoreans, who so liberally patronized the games of a year ago, see the clubs play. Incidentally, the deciding game will be played at Oriole Park, which is managed by Poke Whalen, a local catcher, who formerly caught for Frederick.

The 1921 series, which was promulgated by The Sun, received a hearty endorsement of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs at its annual meeting at Buffalo last December. This series drew practically 10,000 persons and about $7,000. Each winning player received almost 150 and each losing man about $92, and each club more than $900.

Both the Blue Ridge and the Eastern Shore Leagues will finish their season under their own and National Association rules. The "Five-State" Commission decided that no man could be added after August 25 without its consent. In order to assure the patrons of the games that the Eastern Shore club must carry five pitchers and two catchers, and each has the privilege of selecting two additional men by Labor Day from their respective leagues to compete in the series. The player limit it was set at 14 men.

Instead of employing four umpires like last year, only two will handle the series next month. The cost for another pair would be too great because of the distance the competing clubs will be forced to travel this year. Each league president will select what he regards as his best pitcher.

A year ago the players' pool was 60 per cent. The commissioners decided to make it 70 per cent. of the first four games for this series. The clubs also will split more, being voted 25 per cent.—12 1/2 per cent. apiece. The other 5 per cent. of all the games will be divided equally between the leagues. Ten per cent. last year went to the Maryland Commission, which paid the umpires a flat rate and returned to the clubs the balance. This year each club will pay the expenses of one umpire and then divide between them the total of winning and one losing player's share.

The admission a year ago was 75 cents, and each club charged for its grandstand. This year the general admission price was set at $1 and 25 cents for the grandstand. The opinion seemed to prevail in 1921 that $1 should have been charged. This year the clubs will be put to a larger expense because of the long jump between Parkley, Va., or Martinsburg, W. Va.; Frederick, Md., or Waynesboro, Pa., and the fact that Sunday will be a day of illness. The series of 1921 began Tuesday and ended Saturday.

Each of the competing teams will be required to post with The Sun a $1,000 check by August 25 to show its good faith in carrying out its obligations.

Others who attended the meeting were H. J. Barnes, business manager and a director of the Parkley club, and Max von Schlegel, treasurer of the Blue Ridge League.

BASEBALLS ARE MADE BY MODERN MACHINERY

Some of The Highly Developed Machines Are "Trade Secrets" And Not Open To Public.

Nearly all of the work of making a standard baseball today is done by machinery. Some of the most highly developed machines are still "trade secrets" and are operated in locked rooms where no outsiders are permitted to see them in operation.

The ball is weighed five times in the course of manufacture, for it must weigh exactly five ounces.

A small rubber ball about an inch in diameter forms the centre of the ball. Around this rubber sphere is wrapped a few layers of coarse twine. By means of accurately adjusted machinery layers of blue and white yarn are then wound. During this process the ball is several times soaked in a cement solution and laid aside to dry in order to give it compactness. Finally a still smaller cord is wrapped snugly around the ball.

The cover is made of best grade horsehide, cut by hand and prepared for the purpose in a special solution. After the ball is put into clamps the cover is sewed on with cotton threads in regular intervals, each time sending up a 300-foot column of mud and water, which is higher than any of the other geysers in the park.

NEW 300 FOOT GEYSER AT YELLOWSTONE PARK

Column of Steaming Hot Water Named The "Semi-Centennial" For Park's 50th Anniversary.

Yellowstone's newest and biggest geyser, which erupted Monday when, without preliminary manifestations, a quiet mud pool, near the head of Obsidian creek, sent a column of steaming hot mud and rocks 300 feet into the air. The eruption lasted several minutes and is repeated at irregular intervals, each time sending up a 300-foot column of mud and water, which is higher than any of the other geysers in the park.

The eruption inundated the automobile road between Mammoth Hot Springs and Norris Geyser Basin, and covered several acres of ground. Automobiles parked nearby while their passengers waited for the new geyser to perform again were struck with stones thrown up by the stream.

The geyser will be named the "Semi-Centennial" in honor of the fiftieth anniversary this year of the establishment of the park.

In 1915 the same pool threw water 15 or 20 feet into the air, but it never before has been regularly active.

Arounds The Clock—"Yes, boys," telling "true" and "thrilling" stories, "yes I was working on a clock tower one afternoon about twelve minutes to six, when I slipped, slid down the roof and caught on the long hand of the clock. There I dangled while the town folks gathered below. So I yell to 'em, 'Say you folks, go home to your suppers, I'll be close to half an hour before I drop.'"

LEGAL NOTICES

ORDINANCE FOR TRAFFIC.

First reading was given by the City Council at its Monday night meeting to an ordinance regulating traffic upon the streets of Salisbury by operation of motor vehicles, and signs of all teams attached to vehicles, or otherwise, prohibiting the parking on the north and south side of W. Main Street from the western end of the pivot bridge to the center of the alley between the property of L. W. Pusey and Peter Sennett and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions.

The State Employment Commission of Maryland will hold examinations at Annapolis, Baltimore, Cumberland, Frederick, and Salisbury on the dates indicated below to establish list of persons eligible for appointment in the following classes of positions in the State service. The usual annual salaries are as indicated:

SWARTHMORE CHAUTAUQUA PRESENTS 1922 PROGRAM IN SALISBURY SEPTEMBER 8-14

Twenty-five Events Make Up Performances Of High Quality By Selected Artists—Feature Acts This Season Are Morning Hour Lectures, Oriental Pageant And Playlet.

Swarthmore Chautauqua comes to Salisbury on Sept. 8th for its 1922 program. The performance will be from Sept. 8th to the 14th and inasmuch as the program offered this year appears on paper far superior to last year's, capacity crowds are expected to attend. The attendance figures last season were high and the community is fast learning to look upon these specialty acts and concerts as things worthwhile to come to see.

There are twenty-five events on the list of performances and they present a number of premier artists in a variety of first-class entertainments. Music, plays, single act features and lectures make up the program for which season tickets are available so that people in the community may have their pleasure at a comparatively small cost.

There are six features to which the management wants to call the public's special attention.

First—The "Morning Hour" lectures. In response to the popular and continuous demand expressed to us for more lectures, we are this year adding to an already full program four special lectures. These will be given in the afternoon in place of the usual series lectures by the superintendents. But the valuable and popular superintendents' lectures will be assigned to the "Morning Hour," an innovation with us, but a tried and successful institution in Western Chautauquas. At eleven o'clock on the second, third, fourth, and fifth days, the "Morning Hour" lectures.

Second—On the second night, we are presenting Julius Caesar Nayphe in his "Oriental Pageant." You will realize the popularity of his lecture-demonstration when we tell you that, according to the averages of the reports of committees, he scored the highest of any attraction on our American circuit last summer. He is bound to satisfy you with his unusual program. There is nothing else like him on the lecture platform. We might mention in passing that the musical program on the second night is given by the Ernest Gamble Concert Party.

Third—On the third night you will have an opportunity to hear the Dunbar Philharmonic Choir in a magnificent three-part program of vocal music, distinctly high grade but not "high-brow." Trained by Ralph Dunbar, who is known everywhere for his artistically coached organizations, this group will live up to the best of his reputation. Sacred numbers, popular light and grand opera selections, and the opera "Cavalleria Rusticana" in costume.

Fourth—On the fourth night comes the feature lecture of the week, by Brooks Fletcher, the dramatic orator.

More than one million people in the United States and Canada have paid to hear Brooks Fletcher again and again. He goes back to the same towns year after year. He fills more return dates than any other present-day orator. His voice, his appearance, his personality, all contribute to his magnetic control over his audience. His lecture will thrill and inspire all who hear it.

Fifth—On the fifth night "Turn To The Right." Aren't you delighted? We are. To present this "comedy that will live forever" has been a long unfulfilled ambition. It was difficult to secure the rights to the play. But we finally won out and you are to be congratulated. The cast, directed by John A. Regan, whom many of you will recall as the "quite so" deacon in "Polly of the Circus," will be competent and the costumes and scenery will insure an artistic production. This play ran 413 nights in New York. It will be in your town only once.

Sixth—On the last night comes Ralph Bingham. This man-o-fun has been before the public since he was six years of age. His versatility is remarkable. He is pianist, violinist, impersonator, and raconteur. He puts himself into his humor. He is always a 100 per cent success. Hear him on the last night, "Joy Night."

TIME LIMIT EXPIRES FOR ALL CANDIDATES

A. M. Jackson Last In First Congressional District To File Certificate—Liquor Views Quoted.

Alexander M. Jackson has filed his certificate of candidacy for representative from First Congressional District. The Salisbury lawyer was the last to enter the race. The time limit allowed for filing certificates expired Monday night at 12 o'clock. Any candidate who has filed may withdraw, but no new entries can be made. The time limit for the Senatorial candidacies expired 12 days ago. Much interest has been aroused over the position of the various candidates on the prohibition question and the News is herewith printing a list of entrants with their publicly expressed views on the wet and dry issue.

For Senator:
William Cabell Bruce, Democrat—Favors beer and light wines.
David J. Lewis, Democrat—Proposes liquor that will "stimulate" but not intoxicate.
William I. Norris, Democrat—Favors repeal of Volstead law and prohibition amendment.

Joseph I. France, Republican—Favors repeal of Volstead law and Eighteenth amendment.
John W. Garrett, Republican—Favors beer and light wines.
For Representative, First Congressional District:
T. Alan Goldsborough, Democrat—Dry.
Alexander M. Jackson, Democrat—Wet.

Albert W. Sisk, Democrat—Favors sale of liquors under Government supervision and on a rationing system.
For Representative, Second Congressional District:
Millard F. Tydings, Democrat—Wet.
George D. Iverson, Jr., Democrat—Wet.

Frank H. Zouck, Democrat—Dry.
Albert A. Blankeney, Republican—Dry.

For Representative, Third Congressional District:
Anthony Dimarco, Democrat—Wet.
James A. McQuade, Democrat—Wet.

John Phillip Hill, Republican—Wet.
For Representative, Fourth Congressional District:
J. Charles Linthicum, Democrat—Wet.

For Representative, Fifth Congressional District:
Dorsey J. Dunlap, Democrat—Dry.
J. William Klemm, Democrat—Wet.

Francis E. Mattingly, Democrat—Wet.
Clarence M. Roberts, Democrat—Wet.

Sydney E. Mudd, Republican—Wet.
For Representative, Sixth Congressional District:
Andrew J. Cummings, Democrat—Did not reply to questionnaire of Association Against the Prohibition and classed by that organization as dry.

Frank Mash, Democrat—Wet.
Frederick N. Zihlman, Republican—Classed as dry by Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

SENIORITY AND PENSION— DISTINCT ON RAILROADS

Pennsylvania System Denies That Loss of Seniority Involves Loss of Pension Privileges.

In recent public discussions of the shopmen's strike, the erroneous statement has been repeatedly made that loss of seniority, by returning men, also involves forfeiture of accumulated pension privileges. This is so serious a mistake that the Pennsylvania System Management believes it of the utmost importance to have corrected.

On the Pennsylvania Railroad, and on other systems generally, seniority rights and pension privileges are entirely separate and distinct matters.

A man's seniority is determined by the position his name occupies on a roster kept for his particular craft at the point, or for the division, where he is employed. If he leaves the service, and returns, his name goes to the bottom of the roster as of the date on which he is reemployed. The importance of seniority is that it entitles a man to the choice of shifts, day or night, and to priority in bidding for better or otherwise more desirable positions, as such opportunities open; also that it gives him preference over junior employees in holding his work when it is necessary to lay men off. Seniority depends upon continuity of employment.

Pensions, however, are based upon the total years of service, regardless whether they are continuous or not. Under the Pennsylvania Railroad plan every employee, regardless of grade or rank must retire at the age of seventy years. If incapacitated he may be retired at sixty-five or over if he has been in the service 30 years. He receives then as a pension 1 per cent of his average monthly earnings during his last ten years of work, multiplied by his total number of years of service. He may enter or leave the service once or half a dozen times during his career and the method of computing the pension will be the same in any case.

Therefore, if a shopman now on strike on the Pennsylvania Railroad seeks reinstatement and is accepted. He loses seniority, that is, his name goes at the bottom of the seniority roster at the point where he is employed. But he does not lose anything at all of the accumulated benefit of his previous years of service with respect to his pension privileges.

The Pennsylvania System Management's position on the seniority issue does not in any way impair or lessen the pension privileges of its former employees who are now out of the service, provided they seek reinstatement and are accepted.

Another error which has received circulation lies in supposing that the pensions of railroad employees are paid for, in whole or part, by contributions from the men themselves. This is not the case on the Pennsylvania Railroad, nor, as far as the Management is aware, on other American railroad systems. Pensions are paid entirely out of the funds of the Company, as a voluntary gift in recognition of long and faithful service, and to assist old employees who have passed the period of active work. The Company pays the pensions and bears the entire cost of operating the Pension Department.

The pension system on the Pennsylvania Railroad was inaugurated January 1, 1900. Since that time it has paid out $26,800,000 in pensions. At the present time 6,893 employees are being carried on the pension rolls, and the annual payments of pensions are now at a rate exceeding $3,000,000 per year.

MODEL POULTRY HOUSE.

The Eastern Shore Poultry Sales Co. has an interesting exhibit at the fair. A modern and correct style chicken house has been built through the courtesy of the E. S. Adkins Co. and in it are housed numbers of chickens. Prof. Rickey is giving demonstrations each day of culling processes and his work is attracting great crowds.

"Fine—$25.55 said the judge."

Lots of folks confuse bad management with destiny.

HOSPITAL BENEFIT ARRANGED.

Under the local direction of Mrs. George B. Conner, a Recital is being arranged by Miss Mildred Matthews, dramatic soprano, to be given as a benefit for the Peninsula General Hospital. The program will be given in the State School Building at Ocean City, Tuesday evening, August 29th at eight o'clock.

The Finest Model "45" Buick Ever Built

A New Principle

The new Buick six cylinder models are perhaps the easiest-riding cars of the day due to a distinctive development in cantilever spring construction.

The 1923 Buick "45" has taken the country by storm. Always a favorite, this model reaches the highest pinnacle of value ever attained.

It is a beautiful car—it is luxurious—it is a mechanical masterpiece. Stand off and note the snappy lines, the higher hood, the full crown fenders, sturdy artillery wheels, drum-type head and cowl lamps, the low khaki-lined top. Then sit in the car. Here is comfort equalled only in the costliest automobiles.

Look about you—the upholstery and trimming are of the finest quality, the instrument board is equipped with richly finished instruments, the control lever is at finger's end, the cowl ventilator control and windshield wiper are within easy reach.

And the chassis shows far-reaching improvements. Lock the handy transmission control and know that this feature, with others, gives Buick a low rating by insurance underwriters. Even the famous Buick Valve-in-Head motor shows important changes—higher cylinder block, larger connecting rods and pistons, larger crank shaft, with pressure feed to main bearings. These are just a few of the sweeping improvements in the new Buick "45".

REPUBLICANS

Vote for Joseph I. France for Senator in the Primaries
September 11, 1922.

He is a man of the people and for the people.

He has never refused to aid a constituent, rich or poor.

He is a scholar and a statesman whose one aim is to serve his State and Country, and to uphold our Constitution.

His opponents say that he is a Bolshevik. But why? He went to Russia to rescue an American woman in peril and did it. He advocated a commission of Americans to study the Russian situation. Nothing more. Does that make him a Bolshevik?

His opponents charge that he said he hoped the Democrats would win. That is simply the misrepresentation of a newspaper owned by a New Yorker that is attempting to dictate Maryland politics. One day after quoting at length from Washington's Farewell Address he said if the Democrats would advocate the principles of that address, he hoped they would meet their reward. Does any fair minded man find fault with that?

His opponents say that he is not a Republican. Again the misrepresentation of the same newspaper. Let those who know say whether he has not been for the last twenty years a constant and loyal supporter of our party in Maryland. Can that newspaper say as much? President Harding approves of Senator France and his Republicanism. Is not that enough?

His opponent was appointed to office by President Wilson. He is a member of the firm of Robert Garrett and Sons, Investment Bankers. He inherited great wealth. During the lean years of Republicanism in Maryland, when Senator France and W. P. Jackson were fighting the Poe Amendment, when they were trying to keep the party alive, what was Mr. Garrett doing for Republicanism in Maryland?

When Mr. Garrett came to the Eastern Shore two weeks ago, he did not know ten persons on it. That was merely his misfortune. Mr. Garrett is a gentleman who has served as a Diplomat. But what does he know of Maryland people and their needs? Senator France has felt the keen pinch of poverty. He knows the struggles and problems of the poor. He knows the needs of Maryland. He has studied the problems of the farmer. He has sympathy and understanding with all. A Senator should understand and represent all the people, not only the favored few.

Senator France can be elected. The Democrats realize it. He is entitled to a second term by long party custom. He has proved himself by service in the ranks, as well as while a Senator, a loyal, earnest Republican with the will to think and the courage to act. The great majority of the leaders and of the rank and file favor his renomination.

SALISBURY IS DIRECTING HEADQUARTERS OF AMERICAN RAILWAY EXPRESS DIVISION

Wicomico Metropolis Is Main Point On Delaware-Chesapeake Division For Re-icing Processes And Refrigerator Service Special Article In "The Express Messenger."

"The Express Messenger," a monthly publication of the American Railway Express Company in its August number features a story by K. N. Merritt, Chief Clerk to Superintendent, Chesapeake Bay Division, on the movement of the strawberry crop on the Delaware-Chesapeake Division during the days of May and June. In it Salisbury is credited with being the directing headquarters of the commanding officer during the strawberry traffic and the article describes in detail the re-icing processes carried on in this city. The cover design contains two cuts showing close-up views of the refrigerator service in the local yards. The article published in the magazine follows:

The months of May and June are busy ones in the Delaware-Chesapeake Division. It is during these months that the big strawberry traffic moves. Between eight hundred and a thousand cars are usually forwarded from the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Peninsula in a period of six weeks and that means that those charged with the supervision of this movement must travel at a twelve-cylinder gait. They start early and finish late, going at full tilt all day, with only one thought in mind—that of moving this highly perishable business as quickly as it is possible to move it, but taking proper time for the necessary re-icing of cars and the icing and reicing of them. Every item of protection is thoroughly covered by men experienced in the handling of refrigerator traffic but not a movement or a minute can be wasted.

The cars assigned to the movement of this traffic are principally of the Pennsylvania Railroad R-7 type, supplemented by a few Company-controlled cars.

Many of the cars are initially iced at Salisbury, Maryland, and the most of them are reiced there. Before the ice is put into a car the interior of the bunkers and of the car itself must be thoroughly cleaned. Particular attention is given to the drain pipes because it is through these pipes that the water from the melting ice escapes and if they do not function properly the car will flood and at least a portion of the contents be ruined.

The first ice that is put into the bunkers when a car is being initially iced is broken into comparatively small pieces. These small pieces act as sort of a shock absorber when the larger pieces, weighing about a hundred pounds, are dropped in. An inspector makes sure that these larger blocks of ice do not pile in such a way as to leave big cracks or crevices, using a pike to distribute the ice evenly. As the ice bears the top of the bunker it is broken into much smaller pieces so as to fill in all small crevices and small holes between the larger blocks.

The icing platform at Salisbury is up to date in every respect. The ice is brought from the storage rooms to the icing platform, which is on a level with the car roof, by electric elevators and is carried from the elevators along the platform to the open refrigerator car bunker by an electric ice conveyor. A record of the ice put in each bunker is taken by an expressman.

The reicing process is, of course, very similar to that followed in initial icing, and after reicing, the exterior of every car is examined, particularly the doors and drain pipes, and when the inspector gives the car his final O. K. it is ready to be placed in one of the six solid express trains that are needed to carry business from the Peninsula section, during this heavy season.

Salisbury, Maryland, is the directing headquarters of the commanding officer during the movement of the strawberry traffic. R. L. Kinsman, Route Agent at that point, has complete supervision over the work and the Superintendent of the Division, W. H. Huff, spends practically all of his time during the season at Salisbury.

Mr. Kinsman is in almost constant touch with his staff of assistants located at the various icing and loading stations. His office is a buzz from early morning until late at night. Three telephones are ringing almost constantly, keeping Mr. Kinsman in touch with the shippers, the railroad people, his field forces and the Superintendent's office at Philadelphia.

Special inspectors are stationed at the larger berry shipping points. These men are all picked because of their experience and knowledge of the handling of refrigerator traffic. Brief memorandums of phone conversations, weather conditions and other features that enter into the work are kept in log books provided for that purpose.

During the season of 1920, 990 cars of strawberries left the Peninsula in express service. In 1921, 898 cars were moved, and 517 orders were refused because cars were not available. This year, 793 cars carried these berries to various destinations. Boston usually gets the largest number, 217 being sent there this season. Other cars go to various points in New England, New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and there were six cars this season destined to Canadian points.

This big day in 1920 saw 80 cars of strawberries forwarded from the section; in 1921, 83 cars of berries; this year 76 cars. The traffic this season would have been much heavier than in the past, but many cars that had to be stopped because of defects; there were assigned to other service; and some of the company controlled cars were assigned to the Tennessee berry section.

Much planning is necessary—detailed arrangements must be made, and obstacles unforeseen overcome, if this big business is to be moved successfully. Many of these arrangements are made a year ahead. If in the handling of the business we run across something that has not been provided for, a memorandum of that is made and put in the file for the coming year. Suggestions are made from time to time, and new ideas are presented. These memorandums are all given consideration and brought up at the strawberry meeting held in March of each year.

That meeting is attended by all those in the Division who supervise the handling of the traffic, and by officials of the company who are particularly interested. This year H. M. James, Superintendent of Claims, New York City, attended in the interest of claim prevention. A. C. Neal, Superintendent of Transportation, represented the Transportation Department. At this meeting all definite arrangements are made and detailed instructions to the agents are drafted.

The Delaware-Chesapeake Division specializes in the handling of perishable products and this strawberry traffic, which has grown from practically nothing to its present proportions, gives an opportunity to all the specialists in the handling of perishable products connected with the Division to use all of the knowledge and skill at their command. The successful season just passed speaks well for their ability.

On May 16, in addition to moving 76 cars of strawberries from the Peninsula Section, 57 other cars of perishable matter were moved from the same territory, making a total of 133 cars of perishable traffic originating in one section of this Division in one day.

GAME SEASON OPEN FOR CERTAIN BIRDS

Yellow Legs, Black Breasted and Golden Plovers May Be Shot—Game Wardens For Strict Laws

The first open season on Game is Yellow Legs, Black Breasted and Golden Plover, opening August 16th. It is reported these birds are more numerous along the Coast than they have been for years past, due to the protection given them under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act enforced by the Federal Government. The beaches of Worcester County and fresh water ponds along the Eastern Shore to which these birds migrate this season of the year in their flight between the North and South provide excellent territory for this species of game.

The Acts of 1922, Chapter 301, provides for an open season on Squirrels, Sept. 1 to Oct. 15th, closed until Nov. 10th on which day it opens for the second time and closes Jan. 1st. The open season for Doves also opens Sept. 1st. The Doves also opens Sept. 1st. The Bag Limit on Squirrels and Doves is 25 each per day.

The State Game Department has about 700 Deputy Game Wardens scattered throughout the State, who have been instructed to rigidly enforce the Law and we sincerely trust that persons who are allowed the privilege to hunt Squirrels and Doves in September will not molest other species of game in any manner, thereby avoiding the embarrassment of being persecuted for violation of the Game Laws of this State. To avoid the usual rash which always occurs prior to the opening season for the killing of Game, the Clerks of Courts who are empowered to issue hunting licenses, would appreciate the favor very much if the sportsmen would secure their license as early as possible and avoid the last minute rush.

Each hunter at the time he purchases a license will be furnished free a tag, which must be worn on outer garment between shoulders while hunting. License must be in possession and Tag in full display while hunting. Penalty for each offense $15.00 and costs.

Entrance Examinations

Engineering Scholarships

Applications for Scholarships in the School of Engineering, established under provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, competitive examinations will be held September 22, 1922, beginning at 9 a. m.

Each Legislative District of Baltimore City and each County of the State, with the exception of Carroll, Cecil, Queen Anne, Talbot and Worcester, will be entitled to one or more engineering scholarships for the year 1922-1923, in addition to those already assigned. In the five counties mentioned, all available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City Scholarships in the School of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted them.

The Scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text books, and exemption from all regular fees. One of the scholarships in each County and in each Legislative District of the City carries also the sum of $200. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is not greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College, University of Maryland (Maryland Agricultural College), Mt. St. Mary's College and Rock Hill College.

Applicants should address The Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University, for blank application forms and for catalogues of information regarding examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction. The next session begins Tuesday, October 2.

WILD TRAINING AT HOME

Nature Study for Little Children.

When Froebel was looking for a name suitable for his system of education, he did not call it "Child School," or "Child House," but "Child Garden," and he intended that the "garden" of the kindergarten should be the teacher herself.

Nearly half of Froebel's Mother Plays deal with the things of nature. At one time he said, "A little child that freely seeks flowers and cherishes and cares for them in order to wind them into a bouquet for parents or teachers cannot be a bad child, or become a bad man. Such a child can easily be led to the love, and to a knowledge of his Father—God—who gives him such gifts."

Love of nature is the heritage of childhood. It is a tendency in every child of every land, be he black, white or yellow.

All nature is akin to childhood; birds, animals, flowers, insects are all beautiful to children, even the "lowly crawling caterpillar," and the "creaky snail."

We all know how a dog will allow a child to stumble over him, recognizing the action by only an expression of long-suffering indifference; he will stand all kinds of teasing which he would not tolerate from an adult. There seems to be a silent but mutual understanding among young animals of all kinds whether they have four legs or two.

As primitive man opened the early scenes of his life among the wonders of nature, so the child needs the experience of the race in nature wonder and play. All natural phenomena are matters of personal interest to the young child, and towards the moon, stars, sun, wind and rain he feels the inherent interest of the race.

It is well to be able to tell the children the names of the plants and flowers they bring, and to awaken in them a longing to know more of the wonderful life of the bird, bee and other insects.

Children love the stories of animal and plant life; they love nature because they are a part of it. It is a good thing for children to collect specimens; how they revel in the woods no matter what season it may be! What can be more joyous than to gather acorns, butts and berries in the autumn woods? Will not the children be interested to know that acorns grow only on oak trees, and that they are the seeds of the oak as well as food for squirrels?

We may have only a vacant lot near, but if so, we possess a whole plant colony for.

In the mud and scum of things, There always, always something sings.

How many different weeds grow there? Why can some grow there, while others are unable to do so?

One of our most delightful kindergarten excursions was the suppression of a child, to see how many different kinds of clovers we could find, and no one seemed bored. We need not be surprised if questions of real scientific value be asked by the children—Why do people call those white flowers dogwood?—was the thoughtful inquiry of one of my kindergarten children.

"How do birds fight snakes?" "What is the grease inside the buttercup used for?"

"Is it true that only female polar bears hibernate?"

"Why does the mullein have such a fuzzy coat?"

This shows a spirit of real inquiry. How the child's imagination grows as he pictures the building of the nests, the return of birds and insects! Their songs become part of his nature, and give strength and sweetness to his life.

To cultivate direct observation, to enlarge the growth of character, to stimulate the imaginative powers, in other words to see things to know things—does it not seem worth while?

Who knows the inspiration given to an embryo artist, poet or scientist, when we wander with the fairies through the meadows and woods, enjoying with them the concert of insect, bird and breeze?

Beginnings in Language and Literature.

The three most wonderful things in nature have always been to me, the unfolding of a flower, the dawn of a new day, and the way in which a child learns the use of language. There are never two of these exactly alike; they are always happening and always different.

I have watched three children closely and their way of learning to talk has been absolutely as individual as are the children themselves. The eldest began at nine months to say Mama, Dada, man, boy, dog, and so forth, and after awhile, come, go, stay, run, and all the necessary verbs, and then the connecting words, in such absolute agreement with the best authorities on "learning to speak" that I began to plume myself upon it as a personal matter. It is interesting to note that this interest in language, in words and their exact meaning and accurate use, has always been a part of this child's development.

My personal vanity as a good trainer in language received a shock when the second baby came to the speaking age. Not a word would she say, "Uh-hum" doing duty for everything; and so clever was she and well developed mentally that it was almost uncanny to see how she conveyed her entire meaning and got what she wanted without words. We tried encouragement, discipline, and example (as her sister was then five) and when we had begun to feel quite disconcerted, she suddenly at about eighteen months, burst into whole sentences run together such as "Give it to me, I don't want to do it" and others of which not one single word was clearly defined, but as a whole perfectly intelligible. As she grew older she showed the same impatience of language as a means of communication, making a language of her own to which she clung until she was six, which was intelligible only to her family and playmates, as strangers could make nothing of it, a fact which rather pleased her than otherwise. "Me don't min' if dey tant understand me say; me likes to talk 'ike dis," was a frequent remark while we were trying to train her out of it. We had at six to have recourse to expert help in proper articulation. There was no physical defect, and now her enunciation is unusually clear and she reads better than any child of ten I have ever known.

Why should such things be in children of the same family, with the same training and the same environment? It is an interesting problem. The third child being a boy, I have watched for his use of language with great interest, and find that at his present age of two, he has a large and growing vocabulary and very clear enunciation with a slight tendency to let go the "s". He does not like his eldest sister at this age, substitute "it" or like a first cousin, pull an "it" everywhere. This little girl when learning to talk was most amusing on account of this propensity. "Hum and see the ho" was "Come and see the show" and she was often a puzzle to her elders. My own girl of her age was always understood and this is the dialogue I heard one day when they were having a tea-party. "Alice I huck a hork in hase and it hell on the hoo!" and then my own baby, "Oh, you mean you tuck a tork in your tace and it tell on the too!"

The best helps to a good and early use of language as far as my experience goes, are first, no baby-talk talked to the child, then all the nursery rhymes that there are, told over and over again until they are known; then all the best and simplest stories that have become Baby classics, told again and again in good language or the words of the books; especially containing much repetition. My two-year-old already playing the foundation of good literary taste by saying the last word on every line of the nursery rhyme, with occasional delightful variation drawn from his own experience such as this one—

"If I had a pony that would not go, Do you think I would whip him, Oh, no, no, no, no!"

I'd put him in the barn and give him some tea And treat him kindly the rest of the—milk!"

No child should lose the delight of the first flight into the realms of fancy. Not to know "When I was a Bachelor" and "The Old Woman and the Shoe"—not to sympathize with "Dapple Gray" and "Simple Simon"—not to enjoy all the hosts of nursery friends of birds, beast and every human being—why a child has not begun life without them! Nothing can make up for this early loss. Besides everything else, these "right beginnings" give a right use of words, enlarge the vocabulary and make the foundation that will stand the child in good stead all the days of his life!

Same Old Story But a Good One.

Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savanna, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened in almost every neighborhood in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles."—Adv.

REEDVILLE

Mr. Slater Rice has returned from Norfolk where he had been staying while his wife was so ill. He left her getting along very well at Sarah Leigh Hospital, though at one time her life was despaired of. A transfusion of blood was necessary, the blood being furnished by her husband. Mrs. Rice's father, Capt. R. E. Edwards, of Fleeton, and sisters, Misses Ruby Lee and Cornelia Edwards, and Mrs. E. L. Hardings are in Norfolk at this time, going down for a short stay with the invalid.

Marchant Powell and Jack Kerney, Baltimore boys, spent last week in a novel and most delightful trip on the fishing steamer "Easthampton" of Davis Packing Co. This week they will be at Muir House, Reedville.

Capt. and Mrs. T. H. Haynie, of this place, were in Baltimore several days last week.

Mrs. Nora Foltz, of Washington, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. I. Brent, and family at Burgess Store.

Miss Sallie Downing, of Washington, is with her people at "Kentwood," near Heathsville, for a most welcome summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Covington, of Lillian, are at home again, to the sincere pleasure of many friends. Mr. Covington has recovered nicely from the operation for appendicitis and is able to sit up. We are hoping he may soon be all right and well again.

Mrs. Mary R. Taliaferro spent part of last week at Mila, with her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Russell.

A very interesting letter from Mrs. J. C. Fisher written from Livingston, Mont., Aug. 1, has been received here by friends. They had experienced a wonderful trip up to that time and were entering Yellowstone Park the next day. They had crossed miles and miles of prairie lands, miles of valleys and canyons, over the irrigated lands, nearly one hundred miles through the Indian Reservation, west of the Missouri. "A land of wonderful scenic beauty," Mrs. Fisher writes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bertram Pattinson and little son, Noel, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Morrison, of Reedville, this week. Many relatives and friends will be glad to see them. Miss Anna Lee Morrison and Miss Laura Jett recently have been visiting Mrs. Pattinson and Mrs. Annette Noel Ayers.

Mrs. Wright, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Jesse, of Lancaster, motored over for a day at Lillian last week, with Mrs. W. T. Edwards, of Baltimore, who is spending sometime with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hudson.

Mrs. W. R. Phillips, of Salisbury, and her little daughter, are visiting Mrs. Kate Blundon, and family, near Burgess Store, coming over on the "Potomac."

Dr. Ryland Hudson's son Jack, of the western part of this state and Mrs. Carrie Blundon Burgess' son, Robert, of Baltimore, are spending sometime at Reedville, with their relatives, Mr. Wm. Blundon and Mrs. L. B. Rawlings.

Rev. R. W. Brooking, of Fleeton, motored over to Gordonsville, last week carrying his daughters, Mrs. Sampson, whose home is there and Misses Esther and Rosa Brooking. They will visit in Orange for a while.

Mrs. W. A. Edwards and Mrs. E. Warren Edwards also motored in company with the Brookings to Orange, for a short stay there and at Fredericksburg.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Coles, of Baltimore, spent last week with relatives at Fleeton and in Bridge Neck.

A parcel post sale was held on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Jett, near Avalon, on Wednesday evening last, for the benefit of the new church which the Methodist Protestants of that neighborhood are planning to build on a beautiful lot recently bought from Miss Mamie Koenig. The sale was well attended, the articles richly worth the sales price and the evening quite a success.

Messrs. Archie and Arthur Jett, of Norfolk, have been visiting their father, Mr. R. A. Jett, recently. Also Mr. Page Jett and sister, of Baltimore, have been guests in the home the past week. This week they are visiting their uncle, Senator T. J. Downing, of Lancaster.

Rev. Mr. Phillips, Mrs. Phillips and their daughter, Miss Lillian, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. John I. Brent and other friends at Burgess Store.

Miss Evelyn Selby, of Hack's Neck, is spending sometime with her aunt, Mrs. W. P. Sydnor, and Miss Mamie Koenig near Burgess Store. Miss Evelyn will return to Westminster to take up again her studies at Western Maryland College in the next few weeks. Vacation days are slipping

Dr. and Mrs. Walter Ellis and family and Miss Dorothy Stanley, of Delaware City, are guests of Dr. and Mrs. James Bradshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. West are spending the week at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Fred Scott is visiting in Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Mr. J. Fred Stevens spent part of the week in New York.

Mrs. Russell of Milford and Mr. L. D. Fisher, of Philadelphia, were recent guests of Mrs. Arthur Brewington.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cannon and Miss Alice Cannon have been spending the week at Oak Orchard.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Phillips and family, of Baltimore, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Freeny.

Miss Arva Marvel, of Wilmington, is visiting her mother Mrs. Cora Marvel.

Mrs. J. Fred Stevens entertained a few friends Friday afternoon in honor of her house-guests, Miss P. Farmer and Miss Virginia Marshman, of Rocky Mount, N. C.

Mrs. Stevens' guests were: Mrs. Howard Leates, Mrs. J. Frank Brown, Mrs. J. West, Mrs. Marion Hastings, Mrs. Frank Lynes, Jr., Mrs. William G. Ross, Mrs. J. P. Ellis, Miss Ruth Hayman, Miss Elsie Hearn, Miss Marie Leates, Miss Elizabeth Grabel and Mrs. C. N. Laidler.

Mrs. J. Brad, Mrs. Milton Cleary, Mrs. R. R. German and Miss Alice German have been spending the week at Ocean City.

Mrs. E. E. Freeny entertained her Sunday School class, Thursday evening.

Dr. Walter Brown, of Pottsville, visited friends in town this week.

Mrs. W. S. Hitchens and Mr. Frank Hitchens, of Philadelphia, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Freeny.

Miss Catherine Hearn has been spending some time at Atlantic City where she was the leading soprano in several concerts.

Mr. C. S. Towles, motored over to Green County last week, bringing home to Reedville, Friday, Mrs. Towles, Miss Mildred and little Spottwood. They had a delightful stay in the mountains and doubtless thoroughly enjoyed with other things, the pure, wholesome air, which is one of our greatest needs here at this season.

The huge hulk of the "Caponka", the steam tramp from which the machinery was taken to put in another large boat, the "Louise", now is quietly resting in and almost filling up, our little creek. A strange and monstrous looking visitor she is and unsightly though it may seem, we are hoping her stay in our peaceful little stream, may be short. The "Louise" is probably the largest steamer ever seen in the harbor here. She is to fish at the new factory which Mr. John A. Palmer, Jr., is putting up on the creek. They will probably start fishing this week.

"So you want to marry my daughter. What are your prospects?" "Well Sir, I have a wealthy bachelor uncle, sixty-five years old, who has just taken up aviation."

Preaching was held at Parker Chapel last Sunday. Rev. V. L. Edmunds was in charge of the service. Everybody enjoyed his sermon. We are sorry to report Miss Rosa Niblett on the sick list at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ruark visited Mr. Hermon Fryer and family Sunday evening.

Misses Mae and Rose Niblett visited Mr. Marshall Brinker and mother Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Fryer and Mr. Howard Ruark visited Mr. Alfred Niblett and family Friday evening.

WHITE HAVEN

Miss Jessie Windsor, of Baltimore, is visiting her cousin, Miss Mildred Dolbey.

Miss Lulu Dolbey, a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Dolbey.

Misses Lucy Blodsworth and Hilda Caney were the guests of Miss Dorothy Watson at Seaford Tuesday.

Mr. James Leatherbury, of Baltimore, spent the week-end with his mother here.

Mr. Lankford Phelbis, of Oriole, was the week-end guest of Mr. Parks Young.

Mrs. John Moore returned home from Baltimore Sunday morning.

Mrs. M. D. Gausey and son, Earl, returned home Sunday after spending the week-end with her mother at Nanticoke.

Mrs. Sue Jones, of Salisbury, spent the week-end with her brothers, Messrs. Walter and Frank Bloodworth, of this place.

Miss Ida Jester, of Jestersville, was a visitor at the home of Miss Mildred Dolbey Sunday.

Mrs. H. B. Causey is spending this week at Ocean City.

Mrs. Montgomery of Washington is visiting Mrs. P. M. Loomisworth here.

HOUSEWORK IS A BURDEN.

Woman's lot is a weary one at best. But with backache and other distressing kidney ills life indeed becomes a burden. Doan's Kidney Pills have made life brighter for many Salisbury women.

Mrs. William E. Wells, 410 Martin Street, Salisbury, says: "I was feeling badly for some time before using Doan's Kidney Pills. I was in a weak condition and everything I did was a burden to me. Rheumatic pains shot through my shoulders causing me a great deal of pain. My head ached nearly all the time and I had constant dizzy spells. I tried different remedies but got no relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. After using one box of Doan's I was much better and they entirely relieved the trouble. I have had no return of it and gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

Mrs. Wells gave the above statement January 25, 1909 and on January 8, 1921, she added: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills after what they did for me. If I have the least symptom of kidney complaint a short use of Doan's always gives quick relief."

ALBERT W. SISK

For Repeal of the Volstead Law
Modification of the 18th Amendment

Albert W. Sisk
FOR CONGRESS

SOME REASONS WHY

1st.—He favors the repeal of the Volstead Law and such a modification of the 18th Amendment as would make impossible the return of the Saloon, and place control of all alcoholic liquors in the hands of the Government; the Government to control its manufacture and guarantee its purity also to distribute it with such safeguards and penalties that will insure its being done with due regard for the morals of the people. Today as all informed people know, it is being made and sold without any regard whatever for the morals of young or old.

He believes this plan will drive the travelling saloon and all other private interests out of the liquor business, and is thoroughly convinced this to be the ultimate and only solution of the liquor problem which faces the country today.

He further believes the adoption of this plan would make unnecessary the existence of the Anti-Saloon League.

Look for next week's issue for some startling facts and statistics.

2nd.—Col. Sisk is not permitting the above issue to cloud other questions of the day. He believes our government has grown too paternal, which has a tendency to destroy individual initiative which is so necessary to the upbuilding and success of any career.

Too much government is more harmful than too little.

Bureaus without number have been established in the last few years, the heads of which are authorized to make rules and regulations which are, in effect, laws that enter into every intimate relation of social and business life. He believes that Congress is the proper law-making body under our constitution and that these Bureaus should be abandoned or deprived of legislative authority. Too much government is one of the immediate causes of high taxes. There is a great need of reducing both, especially our taxes.

3rd.—He was born and educated on the Eastern Shore. His life has been spent here and his interests are its interests. His success in farming, fruit growing, and the distribution of canned products, has placed him in direct touch with the principal interests of the people of this section.

The Evening Sun of June 12th said, "Mr. Sisk is the type of man of which more are needed in Congress today." An editorial in the same issue declared, "He is seeking political office with no thought of personal gain, and that he is in no way allied with the liquor interests."

4th.—The fact that Col. Sisk has not been dictated to in his campaign utterances is a pledge that his hands are not tied, and that his statements are the result of honest and independent thinking. He believes we can never better man's condition by forbidding him to do things because he might over do them. To become men strong in purpose and character, we must have freedom. To grow, we must work out our own salvation, learn by experience, and suffer the consequences.

THE EASTERN SHORE THE GARDEN SPOT AND SOME OF ITS HISTORY

Illustrious Women Have Signalized History Of This Peninsula— Particularly Interesting Is The Life Of Miss Amanda Elizabeth Dennis, Eminent Teacher And Poetess.

While the Eastern Shore has produced men of skill and ability who have held their own in the world of letters and merchant princes, there are also many women who have become illustrious in the literary and philanthropic world and we hope to be able to get such data as will enable us to present to the readers of the News, one of these characters occasionally.

Many school teachers, men and women, who taught in this county when George W. M. Cooper and Thomas Perry were superintendents, then examiners, will recall the erect, stately form of Miss Amanda Elizabeth Dennis, as being one of the number. She was courteous, social and admired by those who knew her. She was an eminent literary woman and a prominent school teacher in her day, beginning almost with the free school system in the State.

Many years ago three brothers survived Dennis, came to this country from England. One settled at Rehoboth, another at Princess Anne and a third named Valentine Dennis, settled near Snow Hill. He had several children, one of whom was Littleton Dennis. Quinton's sister became the wife of William M. White, son of Rev. Henry White who flourished in the eighteenth century on this Peninsula and prominent in the calling. Littleton Dennis was the father of Miss Amanda Elizabeth Dennis who was born near what is now called Powellville, then consisting of one store and a few dwellings scattered around the place, twelve miles from Snow Hill and about fourteen from Salisbury.

Littleton Dennis married Elizabeth Riley Sturgis, the only child of Captain Sturgis, a sea captain, who died while on a trip to the West Indies, in 1810 of yellow fever and was buried somewhere in the waters surrounding those islands. A burial at sea is the most solemn of all burials. Captain Sturgis married a Miss Reid of Virginia, a relative of the Custis family of that state. The name Valentine still lives in the Dennis family and also in the White family. Valentine White, of the Democrat Messenger, Snow Hill, is a lineal descendant of the Dennis-White family. Thus Miss Amanda is supported by splendid ancestry.

Miss Dennis began her education in the primitive days when the Comely speller had to be learned from the "A B C's" clear through words of six, seven and eight syllables before reading was begun. The reading began with those familiar rhymes, still remembered by many.

"How doth the little busy bee— Her parents moved to Baltimore when she was but a small girl and she spent five years in school in that city, two of which were spent in the high school. In 1861 her father returned to Worcester County and moved to the old homestead, near Powellville.

In 1846 Miss Dennis was appointed teacher of the little country school near the village, then in Worcester County, but when Wicomico was formed her school was in this County. She had as pupils the first year two married men, one of whom had been teaching several years. One of these wanted to teach in Delaware and wanted to study Smith's grammar then used in that State and when he was told he would have to use the books prescribed by his own County he left school. He wanted permission from the School Board to chew tobacco in school. This was denied him. Miss Dennis continued to teach this school for 23 years, but in a much more commodious building. Failing health forced her to discontinue teaching.

Miss Dennis was a poetess of national reputation. She wrote "Asphodels and Pansies" a book containing more than two hundred of her poems. It was published in 1888 by J. B. Lipincott Company, Philadelphia. David Wilson, who wrote the introduction states that in her poems "The reader will discover a shyness and reticence, showing how the tide of human suffering has flown secretly over her spirit, shutting in her personality even from the knowledge of confidential friends." Miss Dennis says she does not know what led her to write poetry, only it seemed to her that she had to write the fancies, thoughts and dreams that always crowded her brain, heart and soul.

She was a beauty lover. Everything beautiful to the eye, the ear, appealed to her, permeating her whole being. The golden sunshine, the glorious sunsets, the moon, the stars, the splendors of autumn, singing birds, whispering winds—in fact everything so filled her mind and heart that there had to be an outlet and verse-writing seemed to be her only relief, the natural outlet. While her poems were published by the "Baltimore Weekly Sun" and other papers she wrote only one volume and that was "Asphodels and Pansies."

In 1904 while Miss Dennis was living with her brother in Berlin, fire destroyed all her books, together with her papers and manuscripts. She writes that she was the sixth of seven children and the frailest one of the family. The others have passed over the Great Divide, and she is left, the last leaf on the tree, having past the eightieth mile stone last November. She further writes that failing eyesight and the growing years keep with her all the way yet she retains still her love for the beautiful and the good.

She now lives near Berlin and States that she often feels weary and lonely and often thinks her feet must be very near the outer westward rim of the sunset valley, and it is well. Her life in retrospect is her comfort and in prospect her hope. We have written this to remind her friends of her long useful life of love and sacrifice and that she may know that she is not forgotten with the passing of the years.

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules Relieved Obsolete Intestinal Indigestion

L. H. Phillips, of 268 West 128th Street, New York City, is one of the hundreds who heartily praise Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules. He recently wrote: "I have been afflicted for many years with an obstinate case of intestinal indigestion and constipation for which I have used many remedies with little benefit. JOSEPH Y. BRATTAN'S BURIAL LAST FRIDAY

Funeral Services of Widely-Known Newspaper Man Held From Baltimore Home—Beautiful Flowers.

Joseph Y. Brattan's remains were laid to rest in Loudon Cemetery, Baltimore, on Friday afternoon and the services at his home, 1802 St. Paul Street were attended by many relatives and friends. They were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Allison, of the St. Michaels and All Angels Church of Baltimore and were impressive and a fitting testimonial to the noble career just ended. The flowers were beautiful. Mr. Brattan died on Tuesday of last week at the "Cedars", the home of his son-in-law, Caleb D. Rogers, near Ellicott City.

Mr. Brattan was a native of this county, being the son of Joseph Brattan of Maryland, and a great grandson of Joshua Brattan who at one time was one of the largest landowners in the vicinity of Mardela Springs. He was one of the four children of his father by his first wife, who was before her marriage, Miss Elizabeth Venables, the other three being Mary A. Brattan, Mrs. Louise Collier and Robert F. Brattan, being dead.

Miss Susan Robertson was the second wife, a sister of Mr. Robert G. Robertson, of Mardela. By this union there were four daughters all of whom are living now: Misses Linda and Susan Brattan, of Washington, Miss Annie Brattan, of Baltimore and Mrs. Cyrus Rialer, of New York. The deceased leaves besides his half-sisters a widow, who before her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Hunt, of Ellicott City. There is also one son, Thomas H. Brattan, and two daughters, Mrs. Caleb D. Rogers and Miss Catherine Brattan. Mrs. Walter Sheppard, Miss Elizabeth Collier and Dr. L. D. Collier, of Salisbury, are nieces and nephew respectively.

Mr. Brattan was a widely known newspaper man, a former president of the Board of Post-Examiners and a member of the Board of Liquor License Commissioners. For twenty years he has been an active and familiar associate at the sessions of the Maryland Legislature.

Mr. Brattan was born at Mardela Springs, Wicomico County, in 1864 and was educated in the public schools and at Wicomico, Washington Academy, Princess Anne; the high school at Lawrenceville, N. J.; and at Princeton University, where he was graduated. Soon after his graduation he acquired the Ellicott City Times and edited and published it in 1886 and 1887.

He then became connected with the passenger department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and later resigned to take up the newspaper work in Washington. In 1894 he joined the staff of The Sun and later went to the Baltimore American, where he covered political assignments.

He remained with the paper until its acquisition by Frank A. Munsey two years ago, and then became associated with Mr. Hough and Frank Lawson in the publicity firm of Hough Lawson & Brattan. He edited the Maryland Farmer, which they controlled.

WORN OUT AFTER SHE COOKED A MEAL

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Read the Result

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I suffered for a year with nervous troubles and irregularities before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back pained all the time and I was unfit for housework. I was worn out if I cooked a meal, and was unable to do my washing. My girl friends and my sister told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could not do my work until I was stronger. So I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 19 months old boy. He is fat and healthy and I am sure I could never have carried him if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound. I recommend your medicine to all women although I am young to be advising some one older."—Mrs. CANIST, FERRIS, 318 W. Liberty St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains no harmful drugs and can be taken in safety by any woman.

SCHOOLS OF COUNTY OPEN NEXT MONDAY

Officials Still Face Crowded Conditions—Coal Situation Is Alarming.

TO CLOSE DOORS WHEN SUPPLY IS EXHAUSTED

Total Amount Of Fuel On Hand Now Only 50 Tons Whereas Yearly Consumption Averages Around 500 Tons—Superintendent Bennett Declares Outlook Dark.

School bells will ring on September 4th. Early Labor Day morning, teachers in the various schools of Wicomico county will open the classroom doors and principals will conduct the first assemblies. Probably the only routine accomplished at the initial sessions will be the enrollment of the scholars. Glasses proper will hardly start before Tuesday or Wednesday.

Last year there were 6,975 white and colored children on the roll calls and this fall will witness an even greater number. The colored schools are scheduled to open two weeks later than the white.

Wicomico county has failed miserably to provide accommodations for its school children. Last year more than 50 per cent of the children were attending school on a half-time basis and the classrooms were taxed to their utmost capacity to care for the overflowing number of scholars.

What seemed to officials and leading educators the only way to properly care for the education of the county's charges was dashed to pieces on the rocks last spring when the voters denied a bond issue. It was apparent then that educational facilities in Wicomico county were not paramount questions with the citizenry and for some reason or other the cause was destined for apathetic treatment.

However money was finally appropriated for portable buildings and 6 of these have arrived and are being erected on the grounds near the High School. Work is being conducted to have them ready for the opening day September 4th. One portable house is being set up between the Bell street school and the Chestnut street school in order to save the children from the long walk to Camden.

Although the county schools open on September 4th there is no telling how long they will continue for the coal situation is acute and Supt. Bennett states that they will go along as far as possible with the classes until their coal supply gives out, when orders will be given to close the doors.

Only 50 tons of coal are in the bins at present with no prospect of getting any more. Whereas the yearly consumption amounts to between 450 and 500 tons. Some of the schools have only enough fuel with which to start fires once. After that the stoves will be idle. Unlike Baltimore City schools Mr. Bennett states the schools in this county are unable to use the soft coal which has been secured for the former's furnaces.

It is possible that plans of the Maryland Coal Distribution Committee will include provisions for schoolhouses but at present the outlook in this community is anything but bright and the Superintendent of Education has already announced that the various district schools will continue classes as long as practical but when cold weather sets in and the fuel supply is exhausted then the children will be sent back to their homes.

RESIGNS AS MANAGER OF SHARPTOWN PLANT

Mr. Wade Gordy, of Marvil Package Co. Succeeded by Mr. Fred Bounds 29 Years With Firm.

On Aug. 15 Wade H. Gordy resigned as local manager of the Berry Crate and Basket Factory of the Marvil Package Co. at Sharptown, a position he has held for 15 years. Mr. Gordy came to this county as teacher. He taught one year at Delmar and for three years was principal of the Sharptown High School. He is a graduate of St. John's College.

Mr. Gordy was considered a very honorable man and being a student of machinery, his resignation was much regretted by the firm. He was also an agent for fire insurance and at one time was in the milling and timber business, but at the close of the war abandoned this line of work. Mr. Gordy has not made known his plans for the future, but will likely leave the county.

Mr. Gordy is succeeded by Fred S. Bounds, of Sharptown. Mr. Bounds takes charge with much experience in the operating part of the plant having been in the employ of the company for 29 years, most of which has been spent in charge of the manufacturing department. He is in charge of the business end of the plant with a knowledge of its workings. Mr. Bounds has proved himself very competent in his particular field and he is given the new responsibility with much confidence of success. His appointment was a just recognition of his past service and an evidence of his merit.

SALISBURY FIREMEN RIVAL BELSHAZZAR'S FAMOUS FEAST WITH THEIR CRAB SUPPER

230 Guests Have Naught But Praise For Sumptuous Banquet And Entertainment Prepared By "Smoke-eaters" Who Celebrated 50th Anniversary In Grand Style.

Had Belshazzar been fortunate enough to have survived the surrender of Babylon and with the aid of an overdose of the famous "elixir of life" so prolonged his life that he could have guided his steps into Salisbury last Friday night according to a Blue Book routing that led to the city hall, the so-called "son of the king" would have witnessed a feast such as he had dreamed of in the days of old. For there in the firehouse minus the fire trucks were gathered the firemen, without their regalia, but each man familiar with one distinct order from his chief and that "Feed 'em hard crabs and soft drinks till they throw up their hands and yell stop." The objects of such threats were 230 perfectly respectable citizens of Salisbury who had accepted the invitation from the receipt of an invitation from the Salisbury Fire Department to attend a smoker and banquet at 8 o'clock Friday night in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the company's organization.

Salisbury's "smoke-eaters" must have read the legend of the ancient king's sumptuous feast and with their characteristic modern-day "go-getter" spirit decided that it had to be surpassed. Now to make a long story short, let it be said that they did provide a feast that could not have been rivaled by any king and those who were lucky enough to bear cards of invitation arose in one accord at the conclusion of the repast and rendered praise and thanks.

Friday the 25th was a red letter day in the history of the Salisbury Fire Department. Through two-score years and ten the progress of this little city's volunteer fire company has been noted. Gradual have been the stages of development from the pioneer bucket brigade to the miniature hand pump, until now the motorized trucks and pumpers are the last words in firefighting efficiency. And these red-blooded men are welded into an organization which, when the hazards of the flames are cut loose, displays cool and daring work, and when in the evenings the alarms are quiet, gives evidence of a wonderful spirit of fraternal bond and cordiality.

In the morning the fire-fighters were spectators at Gordy Park and watched their team humbled before the attack of the Crisfield Crabbers. In the afternoon the engine-house was the scene of the party. But it was that night when the real party was staged. Nearly 50 dozen hard crabs were placed out on the banquet tables before the guests who were told to eat to their heart's delight and to their digestive organs' disgust.

After a most delicious supper the tables were cleared and the chairs were rearranged and a smoker-entertainment followed. Fred Grier was the first speaker called. Subtle and abounding in wit were the remarks of the "ole gent"man. He said that he was out for anything that he could get and nobody cared he would like to be health commissioner under Dr. Skinner. Senator Norris, a guest of Mr. Will Gordy and democratic candidate for United States Senator, responded to the repeated calls for "speech." He confessed having come around to meet the old crabs (Continued on Page 3.)

INTEREST NOW CENTERS ON CHAUTAUQUA SEASON

Although Price Of Tickets Has Advanced Slightly Patrons Are Assured Excellent Performance.

Inquiries made regarding the Chautauqua season which opens here on September 8th and continues until the 14th, shows that no little interest has been aroused over the coming shows and that a heavy attendance may be looked for. Advance notices given out by the Swarthmore Association promise some high-class performances and it is said that this year the program will be the best one ever presented.

Six features are offered by the Association which include: Morning Hour Lectures, Oriental Pageant, Dunbar Philharmonic Choir, Brooks Dilettante dramatic orators in "Scream," "Turn to the Right," and Ralph Bingham in "Joy Night." Twenty-five events altogether make up the program and special artists will appear in each.

Miss Ruth Cann, advance agent for the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association, Swarthmore, Pa., was in Salisbury last Wednesday and Thursday in the interest of the Salisbury Chautauqua which this year will be held from September 8th to 14th.

Wednesday evening, a meeting of the local guests was held in the Chamber of Commerce room, at which Miss Cann outlined this year's program which she characterized as the "best yet." Season tickets have advanced slightly in price this year and will cost $3.00, the children's admission price, however, remains unchanged.

POCOMOKE EDITOR DIES AT NORFOLK HOSPITAL

S. M. Crockett Succumbs After Operation to Pneumonia at Age of 58—Served in Legislature.

Mr. Samuel M. Crockett died Wednesday morning at the Protestant Hospital, Norfolk, Va., after an illness of about two months during which time he was advised by specialists to undergo an operation. This was considered successful but pneumonia set in and the patient was unable to stand the added strain. He was buried in Pocomoke.

Mr. Crockett was a native of Worcester county and was 58 years of age. For the last 25 years or more he has been the owner and editor of the "Worcester Democrat," Pocomoke's only newspaper.

He was sergeant-at-arms of the House of Delegates for a number of terms and for the last two terms represented Worcester county in that body. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias lodge of this city and of the Methodist Protestant Church. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Willie C. Crockett, and four brothers, William Crockett, of Texas; Edward P. Crockett, of Norfolk, Va.; John Crockett, of Delmar, Del.; and J. Shiles Crockett, attorney of this city.

Fire Department Is Recipient Of Thanks

Receives Donation Of $100 From Salisbury Ice Co. and Church Resolutions of Appreciation.

Growing out of the Salisbury Fire Department's prompt response and efficient service on Monday evening, Aug. 7, when the fire was sent in from the Salisbury Ice Plant and later in the night when lightning struck the St. Paul Zion Church on Church Street letters have been received from both parties.

From the officers and members of the St. Paul Zion Church the local company received a letter containing resolutions praising the work of the firemen at this conflagration. Pastor Lee presented the lines of thanks and appreciation. J. D. Price, manager of the ice company enclosed a check for $100 as a token of appreciation for the service rendered and the hope he hoped the Fire Department would be always supported by the citizens of the community for whom it is engaged in self sacrificing work.

BANKER GETS NEW DUTY.

Mr. Carl M. Mr. Irvin T. Kepler, of Elkton, is the state chairman. It is the purpose of this committee to bring the banks to the school-children and the school-children to the banks.

Parksley Will Probably Meet Blue Sox Of Martinsburg In Championship Series

Poke Whalen's Spuds Officially Won Pennant Last Friday—Smooth Working Combination Of Young Players Has Been Welded Together—Fans Will Flock To Third Game Here September 9—Organized Ball Triumphs On Peninsula.

On last Friday afternoon, Parksley's team of ball-tossers officially won the pennant in the Eastern Shore League although the race in the baby minor has been generally conceded to the Red Sox for some time. Although they lost to Laurel on that date, Cambridge's upset of Crisfield, runner-up, eliminated that club's chances of overtaking the leaders although the feat was recognized to be well-nigh impossible.

Parksley practically assured itself the winning of the gonfalon at the very outset of the season when a string of 12 unbroken victories was won by Poke Whalen's charges who secured the jump on their rivals by early work-outs in Baltimore and by superior conditioning when the umpires called "Play Ball" on the opening days.

A glance over the baseball biographies of the even dozen performers whom Whalen has led to the first organized ball championship on the Delmarvian peninsula reveals as the most striking fact the youth of the players and the consequent almost absolute absence of anything that would enable one to account for the phenomenal success of the Spuds.

Nearly half of the players have yet to reach or have just reached their majority and the team's manager and Klinghoffer are more than 25 years old. This pair together with Godfrey and Fisher are the only members of the team that have had previous experience in organized ball. While each of the other clubs were

WOODCOCK DELIVERS FORCEFUL ADDRESS

400 Delegates In Session Hear Prominent Speakers And Constructive Committee Reports—Successful Administration By Salisbury Men—John Morris Elected To Board.

Maryland Legionnaires assembled in Ocean City Friday for a three day convention, the largest of its kind in the state, representing 28 posts scattered all over the state were in attendance. The hotels and cottages on the boardwalk were taxed to their capacity to handle the influx of visitors in addition to the usual number of vacationists.

As early as Thursday night, the veterans began to pour in and by Friday noon the gathering was large. It was a grand reunion as buddies clasped hands and patted each other on the back and talked of old times. Smokers were held in the various hotel lobbies and restaurants.

The opening session of the fourth annual congress was held Friday afternoon in the state high school auditorium and a large audience was present when Amos W. W. Woodcock, department commander, delivered his address, telling the work accomplished during the past year and suggesting a policy to be followed for the next 12 months. This speech is printed in its entirety in another section of the paper. The proposal by Mr. Woodcock that the United States cancel the debts owed by the Allies was applauded vigorously by the delegates.

The state commander also stated that he would have the Legion again declare its belief in preparation for war, either for defense or to maintain righteousness and justice in the world. He also stated that the address was in favor of strict law observance and enforcement, and against state cash bonus and it was suggested that the Legislature be asked to establish a hospital for Maryland soldiers where "red tape" would be consigned to the limbo of history. The high buffs of the Susquehanna near Port Deposit were offered as an admirable site for the location of such an institution.

Representing the national commander of the Legion, Garland W. Mitchell, applied and asked that the convention devote serious attention to the subjects of hospitalization, Americanism and publicity. The Ladies' Auxiliary held their sessions in conjunction with the main body.

On Saturday afternoon, Brig. Gen. Mitchell addressed the assembly, outlining the different branches of the service and favoring the adoption of a definite war policy. Semmes Wainwright was on the platform for a few minutes during which time a lot of the preparations being made by New Orleans for the national convention in October.

GREAT SALISBURY FAIR CLOSES GATES ON FRIDAY PRONOUNCED A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Nearly 50,000 People See Fine Display Of Exhibits, Particularly Agricultural And Poultry, And Enjoy High-Class Amusements—State Police Efficient.

With attendance figures conservatively estimated at nearly 50,000, the Great Salisbury Fair closed its gates last Friday night on what has been accorded by officials and patrons alike, the greatest display of exhibits and attractions ever presented on the grounds and on the outside and the crowds while the free attractions staged by the management were acts of the highest class.

"The Diving Horse" performance proved to be the sensational feature in the afternoon and young and old eagerly sought out this part of the program. The horse races and motorcycle contests were thrilling and kept the huge grandstand filled to its capacity. Particularly noticeable was the order maintained by the State Police in the parking of machines within the grounds and on the outside and the directing of the heavy traffic. Captain Williams of the force was on the job himself with a special squad of mounted men, and these in addition to the motorcycle cops rendered invaluable service not only in providing systematic and organized traffic regulations but also in the general policing and picketing of the grounds and buildings.

The exhibits were many and varied. In this age of progressiveness there is hardly anything manufactured that does not have a direct or indirect connection with the farm and farm life. The horse and buggy has been replaced by the automobile, the old pump by a water system, the broom in many cases by the vacuum cleaner.

Epworth League Holds Institute At Melfa, Va.

Interesting Program Is Arranged For Eastern Shore District Delegates On September 8th.

All Epworth Leaguers and every one interested in Epworth League work are cordially invited to attend the Institute for the Eastern Shore District, which is to be held at Melfa, Va., Friday afternoon and evening, September 8th, 1922. The program is as follows: 2.15 Enrollment of delegates. 2.30 Devotions. 2.45 "The Standard of Efficiency," by Miss Verna Miller. 3.00 A Model Devotional Meeting. 5.15 Presentation of Life Service, by Mr. Johnson. 6.45 Supper. 6.15 Directed recreation led by Miss Miller. 7.15 Vesper Services, by Mr. Vanderberry. 8.00 Address: "The Supreme Surrender."

HARDWARE STORE GIVES LUCKY NUMBER PRIZES

Announcement was made this week by the Dorman & Smyth Hardware Company that holders of the lucky numbers obtained at the Fair could get the prizes for same if they called at the store on Main street. Mr. 1765 gets first prize, a silver Pyrex casserole. No. 1290 takes second prize, a four quart Gem ice cream freezer. No. 1774 takes third prize, a Wear-Ever griddle one foot in diameter.

the old coal oil lamp by electricity and so on down the line. All of these so called "new fangled notions" were on exhibit at the Fair and the attendees seemed to have a better line of talk and to know more of their products than has been the case in years gone by. Local dealers vied with their neighbors from adjoining counties but all had the boosting spirit and had a good word to say for the other fellow's goods. More sales are made when this spirit prevails than when each dealer slams the other fellow and his goods.

Agriculture, the backbone and nearly the whole skeleton of the county had its share in the success of the occasion. Comments from all sides were all alike in that this was the best exhibit of agricultural products ever staged at any county fair. Too much credit cannot be given to the directors and officials of the association for their success as they have been on their toes at all times to strengthen this particular part of the program.

VICTIM OF FALL INTO CELLAR IS IDENTIFIED

E. P. Gordy, Farmer Near Laurel, Recognizes Corpse As Being James Boyce, A Farmhand.

Falling through the open cellar door of the basement of the G. E. Kennerly Company's building on the corner of West Church street and Mill street on Thursday morning, James M. Boyce of near Laurel was found in an unconscious state by Mr. Simms, an employee of the G. E. Kennerly Company which occupies the building. Mr. Simms was working in the cellar when he heard a heavy thud and rushing over to that side of the cellar he found the man lying on the cold floor. A bus was called and the victim of the fall carried to the hospital, where he died a few minutes later without regaining consciousness. The cause of his death was given as apoplexy.

At first the authorities were baffled in an attempt to learn his identity as a close examination of the man failed to disclose any clue to his name or place of residence. It was believed that he had come here to attend the fair.

The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of S. J. R. Holloway & Company. On Friday, Mr. E. P. Gordy, of Laurel, who was near the store on Main street, having heard of the accident, and viewing the corpse, identified it as being that of James M. Boyce, a farm hand of his. The body was then removed and buried at Blades on Sunday.

ODD FELLOWS ENJOY MANY SOCIAL EVENTS

Country Store At Fair Grounds Netted Newton Lodge No. 56 I. O. O. F. Neat Sum For Temple.

After successfully conducting a country store in a booth at the Fair Grounds last week, Salisbury Odd Fellows are busily planning other activities for the near future. That the friends of Newton Lodge No. 56 of the I. O. O. F. are a loyal lot was evinced by the way they patronized the paddle wheel at the Fair and the neat sum of money realized from this project will be used to help pay the expense of a new temple.

On Tuesday evening the I.O.O.F. held its Fall rally and arrangements were made in getting the degree team organized for the coming months. The men were entertained by games and musical programs and refreshments were served at the end.

The next event scheduled by this order is a country festival to be held next Saturday afternoon and evening, September 2nd. This festival is made possible by the Helping Hand Rebekah Lodge, who will bake cakes and pies, and contribute them for the good cause. This big event will be held on the corner of Dock and Camden streets and music will be furnished by the I. O. O. F. band. Ice cream, lemonade, cake, soft drinks, etc., will be on sale.

There will be a meeting of the Grange on Saturday night at 7.30 o'clock in the Knights of Pythias Hall on Main Street. Members are urged to attend as several matters of importance will be taken up.

WOMEN'S CLUB SUCCEEDS IN OBTAINING Y

Plans For New Department Of Local Association Completed Tuesday Night.

PHYSICAL CLASSES NOW FOR GIRLS AND WOMEN

Acting Upon Request Of Business Women's Clubs For Place For Recreational Advantages Secretary Hammerlough Gets Consent Of Y Directors—Mon. and Sat. for Ladies.

Hopes of the members of Salisbury's Business Women's Club to have physical department work at the local Y. M. C. A. have at last been realized. Plans were consummated on Tuesday night for the including of the girls and women of this city into the physical programs offered by the Association.

Some time ago there was agitated the question of how to take care of certain activities of this city's girls and women. The Business Women's Club which was organized about a year ago interested itself in the matter and considered the advisability of approaching the local Young Men's Christian Association with a proposition of renting their building for physical exercises. At that time this rental plan seemed to be the feasible thing to do.

Upon receiving such a request from that organization Secretary Hammerlough at the last monthly meeting of this board of directors proposed the inauguration of a Women's Department of the Association giving them the same privileges along physical lines as are indulged in by the boys and men. Mr. Hammerlough was thoroughly in sympathy with any movement that would take care of a long felt need and it was an outstanding fact that girls and young women in this city were able to enjoy no recreational advantages at all indoors and inasmuch as the winter months were coming the outdoor sports would be denied them.

Accordingly the Board of Directors appointed a committee composed of Mr. Ralph Grier, chairman, Mr. William Cooper and Secretary Hammerlough. This committee met Saturday night with the committee of the Business Women's Club, composed of Miss Mary Hearn, Miss May Hill, Miss Helen V. W. and Miss Anne Johnson. Here at this meeting a definite program was outlined by Secretary Hammerlough which was received favorably by all present. On Tuesday night the Business Women's Club acted upon this report and adopted it. All that remains is for place to be arranged.

Next week a campaign will be inaugurated to enlist new members of the physical classes to be formed. Mondays and Saturday afternoons are the days selected that will be given over exclusively to the Y to the women's department. Director William Boggs will be the instructor and a supervisor from the Business Women's Club will always be present.

On Monday afternoons there will be two classes for the junior girls, the first one for small girls coming from 4-5 o'clock and the other for high school students from 5-6 o'clock. On Monday evening, business women groups will enjoy the use of the gymnasium. Programs will also be worked out for Saturday afternoons.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN AT PRO-FRANCE MEETING

More Than 60 District Leaders Hear Mrs. Schwartz And Others Speak At Tuesday Luncheon.

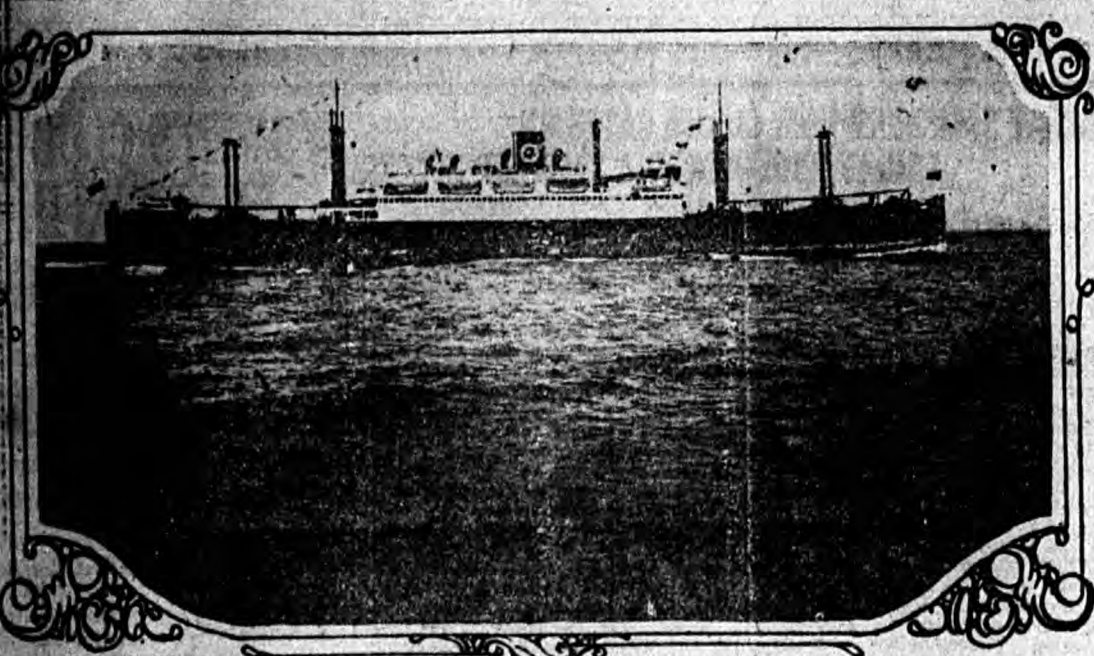

Women district leaders of the Republican party, supporting Senator France in his bid for the senatorial nomination, gathered Tuesday afternoon at a luncheon served in the Peninsula Cafe. More than 50 of Wicomico's feminine political partisans were present with a sprinkling of men to hear the speakers scheduled for the afternoon's meeting.

The principal talk was made by Mrs. Louise Wilson Schwartz, of Baltimore, a grand-daughter of former United States Senator Wilson, from Worcester county and a daughter of the late Sidney Wilson, both prominent Democrats. Mrs. Schwartz is an ardent supporter of Senator France and is well-known in this section.

Mrs. Schwartz opened her remarks by saying that she had a sneaking suspicion that her old friend Colonel Humphreys wanted the audience to see what a renegade Democrat looked like but that she was a Republican on principle and not by inheritance. Mrs. Schwartz stated that Senator France showed by his votes in the senate that he was a true friend of the women and children. She also approved his stand on the "fourth power" part.

Mrs. J. William Funck, of Baltimore, a prominent suffrage worker and the first president of the Maryland Suffrage Association, was the next speaker on the program and her short talk was heartily applauded. Miss Etta Annette Beveridge next briefly addressed the gathering. Miss Beveridge is a representative from the Republican National Committee and a leader in her group.

Southern Baptists Send Fifty New Missionaries Out to Foreign Fields

WITH the sending out this season of fifty new missionaries by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, 250 new workers have been sent to foreign fields during the 75 Million Campaign, or one-half the goal that was set in the number of workers to be provided during that movement. It is anticipated that the remainder of the Campaign period that will expire in December, 1924. The workers going out this season will enter the fields of China, Japan, Africa, Palestine, Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay, Chile and Mexico.

Inasmuch as the largest missionary effort of the denomination is centered in the Orient, the larger portion of the workers sailed from Seattle Saturday, September 2, on the Admiral Liner President Jackson for stations in China and Japan. The missionaries for fields on other continents sail from New York on various lines and some of them will not depart until September 30.

Varied Types Workers Sent
Included in the list of missionaries are preachers and evangelists, teachers, doctors, nurses, one architect, one expert in domestic sciences, and special workers among women and children. William Earle Hines of Spartanburg, S. C., who goes to Shanghai to supervise the construction of all missionary buildings in China, enjoys the distinction of being the first architect ever sent out by the Foreign Mission Board, and his appointment indicates the vast extent of the Southern Baptist work in that country. More than half of the total number of missionaries in the employ of this board are located in China, where the results of their labors are very gratifying to the officers of the Board.

Large interest centers, also, in the launching of an intensive missionary work in Palestine, to which country there go Rev. and Mrs. Fred Bunyan Pearson of Moulton, Ala., and Rev. and Mrs. J. Walsh Watts, of Laurens, S. C. Some native missionaries are already at work in Palestine, and the outlook there is considered very encouraging, despite the present complicated political and racial controversies.

Campaign Brings Enlargement
In addition to the sending out of 250 new workers to foreign fields the 75 Million Campaign has made it possible to increase the number of native workers from 771 to 1172, to practically double the missionary equipment in the older fields of China, Japan, Africa, Italy, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Uruguay and Mexico, and to enter the new fields of Spain, Jugoslavia, Hungary, Roumania, Southern Russia, Palestine and Siberia. Southern Baptists now have a practically unbroken string of mission fields encircling the globe, and a possible mission audience of 900,000,000 people, or one-half the total population of the globe.

And the results on the field have kept pace with the larger investment in the work and number of workers. Since the outset of the Campaign the Foreign Mission Board reports the organization of 117 new churches, 21,723 baptisms, 211 new Sunday schools with a gain of 17,576 pupils, native contributions to Baptist work of $1,003,390.68, and 529,642 treatments administered by missionary physicians. Churches on the foreign fields, exclusive of the new territory in Europe and the Near East, now number 622 with 64,251 members. There are also 971 Sunday schools with 53,691 pupils, and 694 mission schools of all grades with 26,507 students.

Expense Rate is Low
More than $6,250,000 net has gone from the Campaign into foreign mission work, and so economically have these funds been handled, the Board reports, that 96.24 cents out of every dollar has actually reached the foreign fields, only 3.74 cents out of each dollar being required to care for the total cost of administration. But with these larger receipts and economical administration the Board is unable to meet the demands upon it, and at its last annual meeting it was compelled to reduce the requests of the missionaries on the field for appropriations by more than $1,000,000.

Legionnaires Name Renaup Commander

Three candidates were proposed: Claude B. Sweezey, warden of the Maryland Penitentiary and former commander of the 139th Infantry, John Carmichael, of Hagerstown, and Arthur Renaup, of Baltimore. It required eight ballots to be taken before Mr. Renaup who was treasurer last year and who is a member of Marine Post No. 1, was elected to succeed Mr. Woodcock. On the third ballot, Mr. Sweezey lacked only one vote to gain the needed majority.

The following men were named as vice commanders: J. M. Edlevitch, of Hyattsville; Dr. Arthur P. Dixon, of Cumberland and Dr. R. R. Norris, of Crisfield. E. Johnson Poe, of Baltimore, was elected treasurer. Miss Miriam Apple, of Frederick, historian, and Rabbi Morris L. Lazaron, chaplain. John Morris, of Salisbury, was given the honor of being a member of the executive committee. Alfred T. Truitt, another Wicomico son, is to continue as adjutant at least for a short period, inasmuch as there is a possibility of the young secretary entering the newspaper field. For the first time since its organization, the Legion's treasurer shows a balance on the right side of the ledger, a great credit to the administration of the late officials. In fact resolutions were drawn up and approved that commended the work of the officers during the past year for the success encountered in every phase of the Legion's activity.

Posts of Easton, Chesapeake City, Crisfield and Salisbury presented to Ex-Commander Woodcock a gold medal, a testimonial of excellent services rendered. Frederick was selected to be the scene of the next convention. No report was made on the past charges and investigations of Spring Grove Hospital but the veteran's welfare committee was made a permanent committee and a report was made in October to the Executive Board.

The state commander was instructed to send a telegram to Maryland's Senators urging them to support the adjusted compensation bill in one resolution, while another instructed the commander to urge the Legion's legislative committee in Washington to take a firm stand in favor of the five-fold adjusted compensation bill as passed by the House.

Creation of a State settlement fund by the State to be used as a revolving fund out of which money can be loaned to disabled veterans who are being rehabilitated through farming was called for in resolution adopted by the convention. No action was taken on the question of the State bous.

PROTESTS MOTTO'S USE BY THE FRANCE LEAGUE

Leaders of Service Star Legion Deem "Lest We Forget" Too Sacred
For Political Slogan.

The "News" was the recipient this morning of a letter from the headquarters of the Service Star Legion in Baltimore in which the leaders of that organization protest most vigorously against the use of the motto "Lest We Forget" by the Women's France League as a political slogan. The above motto was officially adopted by the War Mothers of America in their last convention and they have called upon the party to discontinue its use. Their letter and resolutions follow:

To the Editor of the Wicomico News: It having come to our attention that our motto "Lest we forget" was being used in connection with the political campaign, our executive board passed the resolution, copy of which is enclosed, and which is self-explanatory. We feel that the action on the part of this political organization justifies us in obtaining the widest publicity possible of the action we have taken. We, therefore, most earnestly request that you will publish this resolution, and if you so desire, our letter in the next issue of your paper.

Yours very truly,
MRS. T. PARKIN SCOTT,
Pres. Maryland Service Star Legion.
MRS. K. GOLDEN KENNEDY,
1709 E. Lanvale Street,
State Organizer Service Star Legion.

Whereas: It has come to our notice that the Women's France League, a political organization devoted to the renomination and reelection of Senator Joseph I. France, has adopted the slogan "Lest We Forget," and, Whereas: Since so many of our boys lie in Flanders Field and other spots sacred to the memory of those who died that liberty and democracy might live, and

Whereas: The Service Star Legion, War Mothers of America, in National Convention assembled, adopted the motto, "Lest We Forget," thus making it sacred in every mother's heart and an appeal to the patriotism and sympathy of every lover of his Country and its institutions.

Resolved: That we vigorously protest against the use of this sacred motto as a political slogan and call upon the said political organization to discontinue its use.

Be it further
Resolved: That a copy of this resolution be sent to Senator France with the request that he direct its use to be discontinued; also a copy be sent to the newspaper with the request that it be published as a protest against the use of sacred things in political campaigns.

Cultivate Kindness In Training Of Children

Sympathy For Animals Should Be Instilled Into Boys And Girls In Early Stages Of Life.

By Elsie F. Kartack.
We were in the garden one morning shortly after my arrival. John, Mary, Bobby and I. Mother had gone away for a vacation.

The garden was beautiful, and we were quietly enjoying all its loveliness when suddenly Mary cried, "Oh, there's an ugly old toad, I'm afraid of it!"

John and Bobby ran toward it in eager anticipation of destroying it. "I hate toads," said John with a vengeance.

"I'll step on it," exclaimed Bobby at the same time.

I was just in time with my "Wait, Bobby. Why are you going to kill it?"

"Because I hate it," he answered.

"And why do you hate it?"

"It's ugly."

"Oh, is it? I don't think so. Let's take a better look at it. Why see, it has beautiful jewels on its back, and look here at its gold rimmed spectacles."

The children looked surprised.

"Suppose we sit down and watch it while I tell you all about it," I continued.

"Don't do that, you'll get warts."

This from John as I reached out to stroke the toad. "No, you won't," I replied. "Not any of the books that I have ever read about toads say that you get warts from stroking them. The toad likes it and he sometimes sings a song, just as a cat purrs when it is stroked. Do you see the pouch under his mouth? That swells as he sings. He cries too, when he is hurt. There are different kinds of toads. The tree toad becomes the color of the surface on which he finds himself so that people or animals cannot see him."

"I wish I could do that when I'm playing hide-and-go-seek," said Mary.

"Well, you see the toad can do some things that you cannot do," I replied. "Let's hear some more about it," exclaimed John, breathlessly, moving closer to the toad. "The mother toad lays the eggs in the water and covers them with a jelly for protection. After they are hatched, they are called tadpoles." "Are those little black things that swim around in the water tadpoles?" interrupted Mary. "Yes. They live in the water six weeks and then they lose their tails, grow legs and swim to shore. After that they live on land. When a toad wants a new suit he splits his old one up the back, pulls it off, rolls it into a ball and swallows it and there he is in his new suit." "Really? The children all exclaimed at once. "Yes, really," I replied, "and I have left the best for the last. The toad is one of our best helpers. He eats all the insects that would destroy our crops and flowers, so is very valuable to the farmer and gardener. If unharmed, he will live for years in our garden. There is one very old toad who spends his winters under my stone steps at home, and every spring I look eagerly for him to come out, and he has not disappointed me yet," I ended.

Mary moved nearer. "I don't believe I'm afraid of you any more, nice old Mr. Toad."

"Say Bobby," said John, "let's be good to this toad and then he'll stay and maybe some day we'll see him change his coat. Anyway, we can take him into partnership in our garden work."

he and she displayed in their respective exhibits. The winning exhibit had a variety of products displayed and did not confine itself largely to one class. Peaches, white and sweet potatoes, apples, corn, soybeans, grain and other products were displayed in a very attractive manner. The exhibits of Messrs. Tilghman, Ragains, Taylor, White and others were fine and it is hoped that these same young men will continue the good work that they have so well started.

The young ladies were not one bit behind their brother exhibitors and deserve as much credit and congratulations. The first prize exhibit by Miss Brown was highly complimented by the other contestants as being one of the best they had ever seen. A large number of adult canners, preservers and cooks were very much interested in these exhibits and some of them would doubtless like to ask these young ladies just how long they sterilized the jars, whether they used the cold pack or not and in fact would like to know all about the way it was done.

The display of pumpkins reminded one of the "Charge of the Light Brigade" as there were pumpkins to the right of them and so on, but not any too many as this class always calls for much comment and interest. Lee Johnson was mentioned several times as the man to take John Holloway's place as the biggest pumpkin raiser but from the looks of the exhibit, Lee is going to have strong competition. The display of watermelons was not as large as would have been had not so many melons blistered a few days before the opening of the show. There were to be six entries but because of much blistering only two growers brought entries. Corn stalks showed the after effect of the severe hail storm of a few weeks ago but even so this particular part of the exhibit was above the general standard. Visitors were astonished that such large stalks and ears could be grown on the light sandy land in the county. The aim for all corn exhibitors especially in the three stalk class, is to have good strong stalks with at least two good ears on a stalk, well placed. Some of the exhibits had the ears about as high as a man could reach which is not just what would have been shown if the exhibitor could have brought just what he wanted to bring.

Potatoes, both white and sweet, were selected and well displayed but some washed specimens were present as usual. Only one basket of red ones displayed and they seem to be going the way of the old variety of apple called Sheep's Nose or Gilliflower. Perhaps the new varieties may be better for commercial purposes but the old varieties still have their friends and supporters. No large overgrown specimens of potatoes were exhibited showing that the growers have learned that first prize does not always go to the biggest specimen. The whole aim of these exhibits is to show a good average-sized product and one that would be readily saleable on the open market.

The display of tomatoes was very fine as were the displays of grain and other farm products. In fact the exhibits this year showed care and thought as well as work in getting them ready and displaying them, which is to be highly commended.

The swine exhibit was the only real live-stock exhibit and that was way above previous years. Excluding poultry from the live stock class, more interest and attention was paid to the swine than any other class. More cattle displays would add a great deal to the interest. Perhaps it might be well for the Fair officials to make a separate class for farm cows and farm animals as compared to open classes that are open to experts along these particular lines. Hampshire and Poland-China hogs were the only breeds exhibited and, any farmer interested in either of these two breeds surely got his money's worth.

The poultry, in its enlarged quarters, made a much finer display than when it was cramped up in the old building. About nine hundred entries as compared with five hundred in 1921 shows the increased interest being displayed in this industry. Fancy and utility stock are not always one and the same and for this reason the large poultry shows of today are making a class for each so that the real egg layer may have an equal chance with her better dressed and better figured sister in the judges eye. More Anconas were exhibited than usual but the Reds, although high in quality perhaps were low in quantity as were the Barred Rocks.

and had found them a good lot. He commended the local boys for their excellent fraternal spirit.

Among a lot of other things he said, Jim White made one motion that immediately won support and that was to have such a banquet every year, and not to wait for 50 annuities to roll around. Senator Price told the audience that in his day the fire company was neither motorized nor animalized. Some one yelled out, "Nor civilized."

Mr. L. W. Gunby thanked the Department for the good it was doing the community and praised the individuals for their integrity and uprightness. "You are all gentlemen and that is the best I can say for you" he added. Mr. Gunby was a member of the old company 50 years ago when the organization was composed of ten companies of ten men each and composed of men between the ages of 10 and 40. The bell-ringer at that time he said was an old negro, James James, who was known for his ability in battling the flames.

Mr. Gunby exhibited a helmet that he wore in those days. It was of the same pattern practically as the modern headgear and cost $4.50 which was quite an item, the owner remarked, when at that time his monthly wages were only $12.50 out of which he had to feed and clothe himself. The old helmet was presented to the Fire Department by Mr. Gunby. Donations were also received from Miss May Parsons and Mrs. S. Q. Johnson.

Others who were called upon for short talks included Fred Grier, Jr., Rev. Boggs, of Philadelphia, and State Comptroller Will Gurdy. Stunts were pulled off by some of the home talent until half-past ten when Manager Lee Insley of the Arcade Theatre arrived with his group of vaudeville artists and the "gang" was treated to entertaining songs and sketches.

During the course of the banquet and entertainment an orchestra played. Many of the guests and visitors were shown over the company's quarters by "regular guides" and all were thankful for the generous spirits of the firemen hosts who did everything in their power to make the anniversary a huge success. And they failed not.

AMERICAN BAR LOOKS FOR JUDICIAL REFORM

Association in Convention Has Outlined To Them Needed Changes By Chief Justice Taft.

The American Bar Association, in convention assembled, has made many recommendations, doubtless all wise, looking towards judicial reform. Chief Justice Taft, whose world-wide reputation as a jurist suffers not at all from his able exposition of needed legal changes, has outlined through this association to the legal profession of the country, the things which he believes should be done to make our judicial system better.

All of which is well, very well; but perhaps not well enough. Did it ever occur to a lawyer, do you suppose, to ask a layman for his ideas of judicial reform?

It probably did not. The "legal mind" can't think as the layman thinks, and yet law is for the layman. Justice is for the layman, courts are for the layman.

If you have a case of any sort it is cute it. If they say tomorrow and put on a docket. When it is reached, you come tomorrow and bring fifty witnesses tomorrow, and the court isn't ready for you, you wait. The witnesses wait. The judge must not wait. If course ran to a schedule and the schedule ran out once in a while, and the court did nothing but hold its hands, more money would be saved than under the present rule, which is to keep the court busy; though hundreds of witnesses, lawyers, complainants, and defendants wait around and lose money.

If you are sued . . . and any one can sue you for anything, whether you owe for not . . . you must defend the suit. You must pay your lawyers; lawyers have to live. If it costs you a hundred, a thousand, or fifty thousand dollars, you must pay it. If you win the unjust suit, you are told you have justice; but your bank account doesn't show it.

What we need is not reform of the law from within, so much as reform from without; what the law needs is that speed and absence of expense are both parts of true justice; that no decision, no matter how correct, is truly just if it has cost much money and time to obtain.

He Said a Mouthful.—During a recitation in natural history a teacher asked:

"Can anyone tell me where the home of the swallow is?"

There was a long silence. Finally one lad rose and offered this response:

"The home of the swallow is in the stummick."

POTENTIAL POISONERS.

Several weeks have elapsed since the agitation was begun about getting rid of the malaria mosquito in Wicomico County. Officials of the State Department of Health visited Salisbury, made a survey of conditions, and presented to the members of the Rotary Club, to the Mayor of Salisbury, and to the President of the Board of County Commissioners for Wicomico County, the results of their survey and made certain recommendations with regard to alleviating existing conditions.

It was made clear at that meeting that funds were not available from the city and county treasuries with which to fight the mosquito and Mayor Kennerly stated that he would be glad to co-operate with any agency or organization in raising by popular subscription enough money to drain certain areas of stagnant water, cut ditches, and make one or two of the most dangerous pools tide-water. So far, however, no agency or organization has volunteered to undertake the raising of the money despite the fact that each day sees more victims added to the malaria list.

Perhaps it is generally unknown that each malaria sufferer becomes a potential source of poison to the community and this fact is an additional reason why every precaution should be taken against the spread of the disease. The malaria mosquito may be a harmless pest until it has absorbed the blood of a person who has malaria fever, but from that time on that same mosquito becomes a positive menace to the health of the city. If individuals will take the prescribed amount of quinine during the danger periods and thus prevent themselves having malaria, they will do much toward solving the problem.

Among other interesting facts made known by the State Health officials was this: the malaria mosquito which injects the poison into your veins was probably bred within thirty or forty feet of where you live. A tin can partly full of water lying in the yard, a gutter on the roof stopped up and filled with stagnant water, a rain barrel that is never emptied or cleaned—all become sources of danger. The property owner, the housekeeper, should eliminate these small danger spots, leaving the larger places to the municipal and county authorities.

Unless an attempt is made in the very near future to raise funds for draining ponds and for similar work, the Council should exercise its legal powers and clean up those places where the malaria mosquitoes breed. The City Council has ample power to insist that citizens keep their property reasonably clean and free from disease-breeding pests.

Section one of Article one of Ordinance 2 10, the Sanitary Code of Salisbury, constitutes the Mayor and City Council the Health Department of the city of Salisbury. They are the agency specifically charged with the responsibility of keeping the city sanitary. Their powers are unlimited.

Under Article two, section one, of the same ordinance, appears the following: "Whatever is dangerous to human health, whatever renders the ground, the water, the air, or food a hazard or an injury to human health," is declared to constitute a nuisance. There follow certain specific nuisances and among them this: "the accumulation of water in which mosquito larvae breed."

Section three of this Article fixes the penalty in the following words: "Any person maintaining or aiding in the creation of a nuisance shall, upon conviction thereof, forfeit and pay a penalty of ten dollars for the first offense and twenty-five dollars for each subsequent offense, and each day during which a nuisance is allowed to exist shall constitute a separate and distinct offense."

That is the law on the subject. The Mayor and Council, without spending one cent of public moneys, may legally compel any property owners to abolish a particular nuisance. There is, however, a better way. That is for the citizens of this city and of this county to lend their voluntary efforts toward eliminating the malaria mosquito either through individual work or through the raising of funds by popular subscription. The method means nothing: it is results that count. Let the Mayor initiate the movement; the citizens will follow his lead.

The malaria mosquito is too great a liability for this community. It must be removed.

PARKSLEY GETS THE PENNANT.

Congratulations, Parksley! You have won the pennant of the Eastern Shore Baseball League during the first year of organized ball on the Shore. Your club will go down in the history of sports for this reason and for others as well. You have played clean ball in a sportsmanlike way and have made a name, not only as an aggregation of ball players, but as a group of gentlemen as well. Again, we congratulate you!

What the future for organized ball will be on the Peninsula remains to be seen, but the prospects are bright for a splendid circuit next year which will, we believe, have greater support from the sport loving public than at any time in the past. President Miller states that the first season has been a success beyond the expectation of many of the most enthusiastic fans and with this success to build on, there is no reason why our Shore League should not become one of the best minor associations in the country.

WE MUST UNBEND BACKS.

Hanging heavily about his neck, the sack of seed bowed down the ancient sower. Today, without weight, he only holds the reins that drive the faithful team that haul around his harrowed field, the modern seeder.

Today we no longer have to walk in the furrow of the plow. We can mount the seat on the sulky and till vast acres where once we turned the soil of patches.

Once we used to bend our backs to drop the kernels of corn and finger over the soil that covered them. Today we ride the planter that does the bigger job in the better and easier way.

We used to tether by hand but now we tether by horse. Maud Muller had to walk the stubbed field when she raked the new-mown hay. Today a loader lifts it on the rack and a harpoon throws it on the stack.

Millet, the great French painter of peasants, pictured the harvester bending low to swing his sickle. Then came the cradle. At last a Cyrus McCormick found a reaper which in its turn became the harvester, cutting and binding the ripened grain.

Threshing once done by flaying the floor is now done by the threshing machine without which the great fields of grain we now sow could never be gathered in huge elevators.

We have made more work possible by making work easier. We let the wind lift our water. The tractor has come to release the horse.

The inventor is the great farm helper. The machinist has multiplied both the muscle and the skill of the farm hand. We work more, produce more and labor less. Dull drudgery is fast being made a story of the past.

The soil that cultivated sullenness in the days of Millet is cultivating skill and prosperity today.

All Ready But The Horses

The telephone has brought the farmer into conversing distance with his next county neighbor.

The automobile has changed the measure of distance. We talk not of miles but of fitness of the roads.

The moving picture has brought the ablest actor and the best in drama to our own town opera house.

The farm that once was the young man's idea of what he should flee from is now beginning to lure the town boy as the ideal vocation to work toward.

Throughout all the world the basic business is the production of food and shelter. The farm is the bulk producer; the town the refiner. That business has grown more productive and more profitable as it has grown less irksome and more alluring. The business farmer is the machine farmer.

We build bigger as we unbend backs. When the tiller of the soil is emancipated from toil, when he is able to stand erect and be a worker, as every business man is a worker, using more head than hand, then do his eyes behold the beauties of the countryside of which the poets preach. Then does the farmer become not the man with the hoe, but the man with the hope.

Nothing puts this world forward faster than unbending backs.

WICOMICALITIES.

Well, how does the coal strike you?

Since Paris has decreed against short skirts, the American girls aren't wearing them any longer.

The coal miners seem willing to choose but not to pick.

We do hope that the capitalists won't raise the "rate" in coal operations.

Another fuel question: have you got your coal yet?

PREPARATIONS FOR CONTROL OF GRASSHOPPERS THIS YEAR

Various steps are being taken in the regions heavily infested by grasshoppers last year to prepare for their adequate control during the coming season should the same situation arise, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

At a recent conference attended by entomologists from Canada, as well as State and Federal entomologists, plans were coordinated for conducting a series of experiments this year to determine the most effective poisoned baits for various species of grasshoppers which infest different regions. The work is to be done on a uniform basis, so that the results obtained may be easily compared.

It is also planned to construct an international map, showing in a large regional way the grasshopper conditions in both Canada and this country. This map will be available both in making an annual record and for future reference in control work. A special agent of the Bureau of Entomology, with headquarters at Billings, Mont., has been assigned to make investigations bearing on the grasshopper situation this year in Wyoming, North Dakota, Minnesota, and other affected areas.

MANY BOYS AND GIRLS EARN SCHOOL MONEY IN CLUB WORK

In 15 Southern States 2,042 boys and girls' club members last year paid all or part of their school expenses from money earned in club work. In other sections 1,344 former club members are now attending agricultural colleges, most of whom are partly paying their expenses from club-work earnings. This does not include 465 girls taking home economics in various colleges. The number of boys and girls in all the States attending high schools, normal schools, and colleges on scholarships won for club work is 1,056. These clubs are an important feature of extension work as carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture co-operating with the State agricultural colleges.

These boys and girls did not wait until ready to go to high school or college before starting their club work and savings. Some began two, three, or more years before, or, as one boy said, as soon as he could, meaning 10 years—the youngest age at which children are admitted to the clubs. Two girls of Mobile, Ala., with a flock of chickens, began their savings three years ago. In Georgia a number of club girls have started "go-to-college funds." They put the money realized from the sale of their club products, which are mostly fancy packs of preserves, jams, and marmalades, in the bank to their credit. Thus far 200 Georgia girls are attending school on the proceeds from their work.

Another development from the interest shown in education by the club girls is that in Birmingham, Ala., the members of women's clubs became so much interested, that they voted an annual scholarship of $200 to be lent to girls wishing to prepare for home demonstration work.

Wise And Otherwise

It matters not how a man dies, but how he lives.

His Reply—"Good morning judge," chirped the genial speeder as he stepped before Judge Hackett, of Tacoma. "How are you this morning?"

Same Old Story—"That young man stays to an unearthly hour every night, Gladys," said an irate father to his youngest daughter. "What does your mother say about it?"

"Well, dad," Gladys replied, as she turned to go up-stairs, "she says that men haven't changed a bit."

Motive power must be added to ideas to make them worth while.

His De'fense—"Are you the defendant?" asked the State's attorney, addressing an old negro in the court room.

"No, sah, I ain't. I's got a lawyer head to do de defensein'."

"Then who are you?" "Yoh honah, I's de gentleman dat stole de chickens."

Remarkable—A camera man working for the educational department of a film company, met an old farmer coming out of a house, in the town where he was working. "I have just been taking some moving pictures on your farm," he said.

"Did you catch any of my laborers in motion?" asked the old man curiously.

"Sure I did."

The old farmer shook his head in reflectively, then said "Science is a wonderful thing."

"Just once," replied the conductor.

Those Suffragettes Again—Two pretty girls met on the street and kissed each other rapturously. Two young men watched the meeting.

"There's another of those things that are so unfair," said one. "What is that?" asked his friend.

He pointed to the scene—"Women doing men's work."

Senator Joseph Irwin France

His Position on National and International Problems as United States Senator from Maryland

Achievements upon which He Seeks

RENOMINATION and RE-ELECTION

Senator France Reviews His Record in Washington

I know that the people of Maryland believe in the fundamental principles of that Americanism for which I have stood through the last five and a half years which have been filled with perplexities and trials for all the members of the Congress of the United States. The popularity of the position which I have taken is proved by the fact that those who are opposed to me, and these are few in number, have studiously avoided giving the real facts concerning my record to the people of my State.

But the people of Maryland are not deceived. In spite of much misrepresentation, they know that I have been true to the faith and that I have never evaded or avoided any issue, and that I have sought only to do what was best for the welfare of my country. I challenge my opponent and the papers which have been opposed to me to present to the people of Maryland the measures for which I have stood and those which I have opposed, in full confidence that the overwhelming majority of the members of my party and of the people of my State will approve of what I have done.

Every stand which I have taken in the Senate of the United States on all questions has been taken after the most careful study and deliberation, with consideration for the welfare of all the people. At one time I would be battling, as in my fight against the price fixing bill, for the welfare of our farmers, miners and coal operators. At another time I would be contending, as when I voted against the Esch-Cummins bill, for a proper solution in the interests of all of the railroad question. Again, I was working for the interests of the business men and of all the people when I was opposing government ownership, government in business and by commissions, fighting for lower taxation, for our export trade and for a general economic conference at Washington to avert the difficulties now overtaking Europe. These and many other issues I should be pleased to discuss during the campaign.

I challenge my opponent to criticize my record, before the people of our State, and tell them how he would have done otherwise.

If my opponent expects his candidacy to be taken seriously, it will now be necessary for him to make a careful examination of the principles of government for which I stand and of the policies which I have proposed or opposed at Washington and tell the people of the State of Maryland how he would have done otherwise.

I shall be especially pleased to have my opponent state what his attitude would have been upon free speech, the price-fixing on wheat, the League of Nations, the Four-Power Pact, the Eighteenth Amendment, and all the other questions which shall be issues in this campaign.

I look forward with keen pleasure to my opponent's reply to my inquiry and with perfect confidence that the overwhelming verdict of the people will be one of universal approbation of the principles of true Americanism for which I have stood.

Joseph Irwin France

YOUNG CASHIER RESIGNS.

Milton Cannon, assistant cashier at the Farmers & Merchants Bank this city, has tendered his resignation to the officials of that institution and it was accepted to take effect in the near future. Mr. Cannon has not made known his plans but he will be missed by many of the patrons of the bank.

Danny was looking at a picture of the prophet Elijah ascending to Heaven in a chariot of fire. When he saw the halo about Elijah's head he cried, "Oh, look, mama, he's carrying an extra tire."

READY TO 'SHOOT' MOST POPULAR MAN AND GIRL

Salisbury's Chosen Couple In Arcade Theatre Contests To Star In Screen Comedy.

Everything is now set for the "shooting" of Salisbury's most popular girl, Miss Irma Tyndall, and Mr. Ted White, the most popular man in the city. And instead of being a double tragedy as many would expect it promises to be a delightful little comedy twosome in which the principals will be supported by a group of the younger set, who for some time have been so anxious to see how a real movie is made.

Manager Insley is making arrangements now to have a camera man come down from a Baltimore studio to do the "shooting" and "Sid" Vincent, assistant manager of the Arcade, has his plot all hatched up and is prepared to do the directing.

The contest for the male of the species ended last week and although it did not create as much excitement as that for the fair sex, nevertheless much fun was provoked. Below is given the final standing of the candidates.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols Surprise Grandchild

Little Catherine Tingle Of Delmar Has Party Given In Her Honor At Sharptown.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nichols surprised their little granddaughter, Catherine Anna Tingle, of Delmar, by giving her a party upon her arrival at Sharptown, Saturday evening in honor of her third birthday. Catherine and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Tingle, came late Saturday evening to visit Mrs. Nichols' parents. Catherine was surprised to find so many little children at her grandfather's. Later the little children began to present her with presents which were pretty and useful.

Those present were: Sally Ellys Gravenor, Merriell Gravenor, Jr., Mary Gravenor, Lynn, Reda, Clara and Atley Allen Lankford; Elinore and William Fletcher, Anna Belle Hurley, Elizabeth Frances and Mary Bradley, Elenore Cordrey and Catherine Tingle. Mr. and Mrs. Atley

Lankford, Mrs. Lake Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Tingle, Mrs. Merriell Gravenor, Mrs. George Bradley, Mrs. Henry Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. William Nichols and Mr. Roy Nichols. At 10 o'clock ice cream and cake was served. All departed at a late hour reporting a good time and wishing little Catherine many more happy birthdays.

BIG FALL DANCE HERE NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT

Glynn Morris' Orchestra After Successful Season At Ocean City To Play At Richardson's Hall.

Thursday evening, September 7th, a big dance will be given in Richardson's Hall by Glynn Morris' popular orchestra from the Pimhimmon Hotel at Ocean City. This quintet of syncopating melodists has been featured on Ocean City's boardwalk all summer and their dance music is always a tuneable score of the latest hits.

It is expected that this event will draw many couples to Salisbury on that night as these boys are popular favorites with all the dancing enthusiasts in this section of the Shore. Their evening dances at the Pimhimmon Hotel have been great drawing cards and members of Salisbury's younger set could nightly be found in that attractive ballroom. The orchestra closes its season at Ocean City on Wednesday night and is on its way back to Baltimore.

BEACON COLLEGE IS PREPARING TO OPEN

Lectures By Business Men, Industrial Motion Pictures and Other Advantages Greet Student Sept. 4.

The Beacon College is now quite busy making preparations for the fall term which begins on Sept. 4. Quite a number of students have made application for admittance to begin on that date, and others are planning to enter on subsequent Mondays. It is hoped that the school will be filled almost to capacity by Christians.

Several new advantages are to be offered to the students. Some of them follow: Monthly lectures by prominent business men. These lectures are to be so arranged that each man will speak from a different line of work. By this plan the management expects to further correlate practice with theory. One hour a week is to be used in the showing of industrial moving pictures. This is to be done for the special benefit of Business Organization and Administration students. These pictures, however, will be shown before the student body.

A debating society is to be organized which will debate the many current questions relative to business. It is expected that this will do much toward developing the student's ability as a public speaker. Night school sessions will open about the middle of September. The school rooms have

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

JUANITA.

THE lovely Spanish favorite, Juanita, has come to be a "name without a country."

The music of its syllables proved irresistible to many countries and in modern times it lost its Spanish heritage and came to be as American as Anne or Edith.

Juanita means "grace of the Lord." It comes originally from the same source as John. It was probably in honor of St. John the Evangelist's guardianship of the Blessed Virgin that her name became joined with his. In the Fifth century a Giovanni (John) Maria Visconti of Milan appears and straightway Juan Maria became a popular name in Spain.

By adding a final "a," the feminine Juana was formed, a name which proved more acceptable than the masculine Juan as a preface to Maria, and soon Maria was dropped entirely and Juana became a separate name. Spain is fond of endearments and diminutives, as Rosita and Carmencita and scores of other names prove, so presently the ever-popular Juanita was evolved. Many famous women of Spain bore the name, among them a queen, who was known as Juana la Loca. Her reign in Castile was an unfortunate and distressing period.

It may be that the Spanish influence in the Southwestern states brought Juanita into vogue in this country, or her fame, according to some, may have been established by the country-wide vogue of the old song with which even the present generation is familiar. Who does not remember:

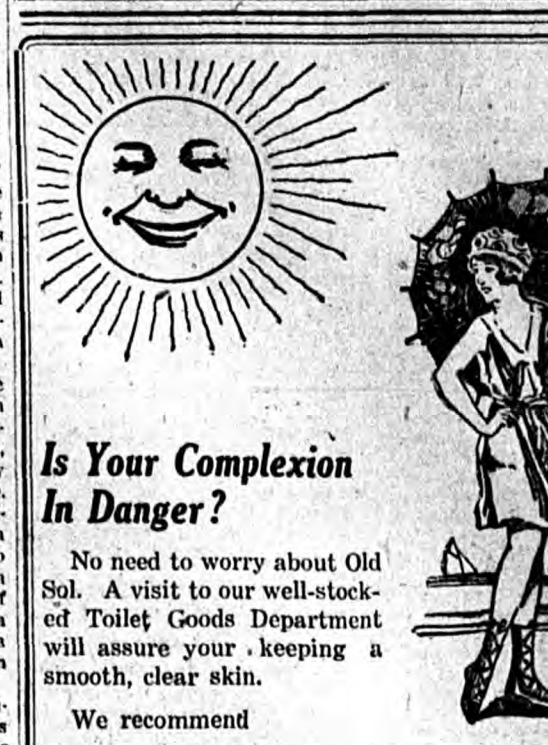

"Juanita, ask thy soul if we should part?"

Juanita's talismanic gem is the fireopal. That gem of sunny Spain promises her protection from evil spirits, good health and happiness. Tuesday is her lucky day and seven her lucky number.

FOR CONGRESS

T. ALAN GOLDSBOROUGH

From "The Centreville Observer," August 26, 1922.

Democratic Floor Leader Commends Goldsborough

No Democratic candidate for re-nomination as a member of Congress probably has a stronger recommendation than was this week accorded Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough, of the First District. People of the Eastern Shore naturally are interested in what impression Congressman Goldsborough has made with his colleagues in Congress during the last two years, and on Tuesday, The Centreville Observer sent this telegram to Claude Kitchen, Democratic floor leader of Congress.

Hon. Claude Kitchen,
Scotland Neck, N. C.

What is your and his colleagues estimate of T. Alan Goldsborough, member of Congress?

THE CENTREVILLE OBSERVER.

Wednesday morning the following telegram was received from Mr. Kitchen:

Centreville Observer,
Centreville, Maryland.

Answering your inquiry, will say Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough is regarded by his colleagues as an able, wise, diligent and patriotic representative.

He has won in a pre-eminent degree the esteem and confidence of the entire membership of the House, regardless of party.

Of the many new members who entered the Sixty-Seventh Congress, no one has a more promising career than he. His District may well be proud of him and I count any District most fortunate in having such a representative.

EVERGREENS POPULAR FOR LANDSCAPE WORK

Different Specimens That Are To Be Found on Market Have Many Distinct Advantages in Use.

The evergreens, compared to any other trees that grow, have many distinct advantages.

Of course, for forming a screen to hide unsightly buildings and to afford privacy from the street or from neighboring places, no other trees can be so effective as the evergreens. Aside from their many particular advantages they serve as points of accent in any scheme of planting which may be used to make the home site more beautiful. Even so few as a half-dozen planted with good taste may completely transform the appearance of a place.

Among the many special purposes for which evergreens may be used are the planting of single specimens for ornament; the planting of hedges, either for privacy or to serve as a shelter to the grounds from cold winds in winter; "foundation planting" around the base of the house; and for screens of various sorts.

As single specimens, no other trees are quite so effective. Almost any of the evergreens lend themselves to this purpose, but particularly good are the various firs and spruces. Among these, Nordman's Fir and Koster's Blue Spruce are particularly good. The Nordman's Fir is particularly hardy and so dense growing that even its natural growth gives the effect of having been pruned or sheared. Koster's Blue Spruce is one of the best known of all ornamental trees. Its characteristics, pleasing blue color, makes it stand at the same time its color harmonizes with the foliage of other evergreens and ornamental trees. One or two specimens of this variety may be used with advantage in almost any landscape grouping.

The Pines also make excellent specimen trees. The best known of these is the ordinary White Pine (Pinus Strobus), but in sections where there is danger of the "blister rust" one of the other pines, such as Red or Norway Pine (Pinus Resinosa), or Austrian Pine, should be used in its place. The dwarf or Mugo Pine may be used in many places where there is no room for one of the tall growing varieties. It is very hardy, and while making a low mound-like growth, the distinct upright new growth which is formed each year gives it the characteristic beauty of the pine family.

The Cedars are particularly effective as single specimens, where a slender columnar effect is wanted in the landscape or to harmonize with the architecture of the house.

One of the finest of all evergreens for hedges or windbreaks is the Hemlock. This may be planted close and sheared to any form desired or a most naturalistic and graceful hedge; may be had by planting the trees at some distance apart so that they will touch as they grow.

Arbor Vitae is also largely used for hedges and windbreaks and is excellent for this purpose because of its hardiness, long life and the exceedingly dense growth which it makes.

For foundation planting, of course, the tall growing evergreens are objectionable because, after a few years, they either must be cut back, which spoils their natural beauty or else will grow out of all proportion to the purpose for which they are being used. For foundation planting, select some of the dwarf varieties such as the Mugo Pine which has already been mentioned, or the dwarf or spreading Cypress and Yews.

For screens practically any of the evergreens may be used. The variety to be selected will depend on the conditions to be met—how tall the screen may be wanted, whether dense enough to serve as a windbreak or merely to screen the view, etc. The Hemlocks and Pines, most varieties of which are rapid growing, are particularly good for this purpose, as they keep their branches down close to the ground.

In former years before modern methods of packing and shipping were in general use, the season during which evergreens could be successfully set out was very much limited than it is at present. With the "R. & B." or ball and burlap system of shipping, transplants can be set out any time until well into the summer and throughout the fall. This makes it possible to enjoy the advantages of evergreens the first season after the new house or bungalow is finished; or when the rush of spring planting is over on the farm.

Another thing which has helped greatly in the planting of evergreens of all kinds is the advanced method of delivering by auto truck direct from the nursery to your grounds. Trees of any size are now generally handled in this way and in many cases are out of the ground for only a few hours before being dug at the nursery and being planted on your place.

In planting evergreens, as with most things, care should be taken in preparing the holes in which they are to be set. They should be made large enough, and good soil, well pulverized, should be packed firmly about the roots as the trees are put in. If the soil is so dry that watering is necessary, it should be applied when the hole is about half filled up and not poured on the surface after planting.

Hot Weather Diseases.

Disorders of the bowels are extremely dangerous, particularly during the hot weather of the summer months, and in order to protect yourself and family against a sudden attack, get a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It can be depended upon. Many have testified to its excellence.—Adv.

FIRST OPERA TRACED BACK TO 16TH CENTURY
New Form of Musical Art Was Presented in Palace of Italian Nobleman at Florence.

As with any other beginning of a device or art, opera can be traced back to the times of ancient Greece and perhaps older peoples, but the first opera proper dates back to the latter part of the sixteenth century, when, in the palace of the Italian Count Bardi, the new form of musical art was outlined.

Count Bardi, an Italian nobleman residing in Florence, was one of a group who felt within them the urge that distinguishes so many of our present-day reactionaries. These cultured men were especially interested in the masterpieces of ancient literature and in the dramas of the Greek poets in particular. The form prevalent in those days of presenting dramatic works with musical interpolations written in the stiff contrapuntal church style they felt to be incongruous and entirely at variance with the spirit of the works to be enacted. From their discussions and strivings for a form of music to more suitably reflected dramatic expression resulted the opera "Dafne" written by Peri and produced in a homey way in the year 1594.

"Dafne" was a crude work, but it had opened a new path to musical expression, and it was not long before the new form gave birth to several great geniuses like Monteverdi, Scarlatti and Gluck, who shaped opera into something like the "form we know it now."

Incidentally the word opera is a misnomer; it is really an abbreviation of "opera in musica" (the Italian for "works in music"), which was the original full name of stage musical productions. Opera in itself means simply "no. as."

PECULIAR STRUCTURE FIG CHARACTERISTIC
Produces Fruit First And Then Blossoms Inside Fruit So That No Flower Is Seen.

A peculiarity of the fig is that it produces its fruit first and blossoms inside the fruit, or so nearly so that no flower is perceptible to an ordinary observer.

Because of the peculiar structure of the fig fruit the process of pollination cannot be accomplished either by the wind or by ordinary insects. A peculiar hymenopterous insect is an inhabitant of the wild figs in their native countries and also visits the cultivated varieties. It is to this insect alone that the pollination of the cultivated sorts is due. Smyrna fig would be an impossibility without this insect.

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME
By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

WHEN HE CALLS.

Practice in time becomes second nature. —Anon.

IN A MOTION picture recently produced, the charming young actress impersonating a New York society girl receiving the call of one of her men friends takes the caller's hat and coat from him as he enters the hall. Now as a matter of fact no girl who knew social usage would do that. Of course, if the man were aged or otherwise too feeble to dispose of them himself, she would. Otherwise, if there is no servant at hand to take them from him, the young woman would simply show him where the hatrack was located. A young man caller need not be asked by his hostess to remove his coat. If a maid comes to the door he should remove his coat in the hall after he has taken off his hat and give them to the maid or hang them on the hatrack before going into the reception room or drawing room. If the young woman receives a caller in a sitting room above stairs he should leave his outer things in the downstairs hall before ascending.

The American girl should always extend her hand to the young man caller when he calls, if he has asked to see her. It was an old-time courtesy always to say "Pray be seated," or something of that sort, and the young man did not take a seat until he had been so requested. Now, however, we do not stand on such formalities. The young man takes a seat after his hostess has been seated, but he avoids taking the most comfortable chair in the room.

The question is often asked by young women as to whether young men should be given refreshments when they call. If they come in the afternoon about four or five it is customary in large towns to serve tea, which the hostess dispenses from a tea table in the drawing room or living room. Of course, with the majority of young men, an afternoon call is an impossibility and all their calling is done in the evening. Now hospitality does not require any refreshments for the evening call; but, especially if the young man has expressed his intentions of coming a certain night, or if there are

Diamond Dust

Salisbury fans were not so anxious for their club to win the pennant this year because of the fact that this city is the largest in the foot and the have caused unfavorable comment upon the game here on the Eastern Shore diamonds. But they did not figure that their team would finish last and a mighty big howl will be let out if the White Clouds ring down the curtain as undoubted champions of the cellar position. Admitting that a disastrous start was made by the local aggregation at the beginning of the season and that here lately injuries to stars have handicapped greatly the ability to win games, there is yet something else that accounts for the loss of 37 contests out of the 64 so far played. And the reason is not deeply hidden. To those lovers of the sport who have been accustomed to watch athletes fight to the very last with a never-say-die spirit, the absence of just such a carrying along force has been noticed at the beginning of the season. Had the individual players exhibited just a bit more of the bull-dog tenacity in their efforts recently, several games that have gone on the wrong side of the ledger might have been turned into assets. Listlessness has certainly characterized the play of the entire team at times. It is not too late for Manager Adams to instill into his charges the necessary amount of pep and fight that will provide stiffer opposition for rival teams and thus possibly save Salisbury, the hub of the wheel, from finishing the first year of organized ball in last place. Is the title "Cellar Champions" one to be proud of?

Umpire Derby will probably be President Miller's selection as this league's representative for the duties of arbiter during the big tilt. Each circuit has the power to name one umpire. Derby's work in the six cities of the Shore loop has been of the high order and not marred by any serious disturbances. He is popular with the players although he does not "buddy" with them and the spectators have lots of respect for the former University of Delaware coach.

With the leaving of Hearn, the White Clouds' pitching ace, for his home in Brooklyn prospects look dark for the local team pulling out of the cellar. The star southpaw received a telegram stating that his mother was seriously ill. Thompson, the first sacker has also departed, as has Hart, the veteran backstop. Both of these players were injured in recent games and favored a release at this time. With three pitchers playing in the outfield the defensive strength of the club has been weakened as has the offensive power. The last game, however, has been lacking all summer, for the players sporting the colors of Salisbury were woefully weak in the batting department.

Officials connected with the staging of the coming series made a wise move when they selected Salisbury as the scene of action for the third battle on September 9th. Gordy Park stands second to Oriole Park in Baltimore as being the best-equipped plant in the state and the field will be amply large to take care of the thousands of fans who will flock here from all parts of the state because of the city's central location.

All roads will lead to Parkley next week when the championship series gets under way in the small Virginia town. That section of the Peninsula has been red-hot for baseball all summer and with the staging of the junior world series in their backlot, people of Accomac county and the rest of the potato counties will be on hand when the sun goes up in order to get seats of cantage in the small park. Parkley has made a good strong fight and has played clean ball all along. It is worth while to watch the performance of the diminutive shortstop in the series. Dried-in-the-wool fans acclaim Hearn as being without a peer in this league and if he measures up to a very high standard in the coming contests he stands a good chance of advancing in Organized Ball.

Bitter is the struggle being waged in the Blue Ridge League by Martinsburg, Waynesboro and Frederick for the coveted honors awaiting the victor in the race. Frederick's defeat by Hagerstown on Monday practically eliminated that club's chance to emerge on top. It is the opinion of the writer, that the opponent for Parkley in the coming "Five State" championship series will be the Blue Sox of Martinsburg.

Delaware's only representatives in the Eastern Shore League, the Blue Hen's Chicks, of Laurel, are going strong on the last lap of the playing season, and their work is the talk of all the fans of Lower Delaware and others around the circuit. The Laurel club today is probably the most dreaded team in the Eastern Shore, and it shares with Crisfield the honor of staging one of the most sensational spurts of any club in the league during the playing season, not barring Parkley's long list of victories at the beginning of the 70-game schedule.

It's high time that the White Clouds show a little fight in their make-up and overcome the recent attitude to listlessly concede games to their opponents. Although the best interests of both Salisbury and the Eastern Shore League would not have been served by a pennant coming to the Wicomico metropolis, that fact does not justify indifference to the title of "Cellar Champions."

We can believe in the transmigration of souls when we observe how readily some men make asses of themselves.

ATTRACTIVE BOXING CARD ON LABOR DAY

Promoter Olen Hackett, of Wilmington, Will Put On Some Classy Little Fighters in Local Ring.

Local sporting fans will have an opportunity on Labor Day to witness the best boxing show ever presented on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Olen Hackett, of Wilmington, is promoting the show and has arranged a card from the pick of Wilmington and Philadelphia boxers.

The feature bout which will be the windup, will introduce Buck McGinnis, Wilmington's premier K. O. artist, to the Eastern Shore fans. His opponent will be Young Johnny Dundee, of Philadelphia.

The semi-windup will show Patsy Murphy against Johnny Traub, of hester. This pair fought a great six-round bout here last spring and are being rematched by popular request.

Another classy bout is the third bout between Pete Dierni, the local Polish flash, and Battling Earl Johnson, of Fort Dupont. This pair recently put on a great fight at Kennet Square and they are bound to make a big hit in the local ring.

The second stanza on the card brings together Ralph Sharp, of Milford, Del., and Kid Williams, of Wilmington. This pair of duty battlers will battle for the colored middleweight championship of the Eastern Shore. The opener will be between Kid Peters and Young Tulo, two of the best paper-weights in Delaware.

The bouts will be staged at the Wilbur auditorium, on Water street, this show is the best ever staged south of Wilmington, and according to advance dope a record crowd will be in attendance.

STRAWBERRY EXPRESS RATES WILL BE SAME

After Hearing Protests Interstate Commerce Commission Rules Against Rate Increase.

The American Railway Express company filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C., Supplement No. 2 to their L. C. C. 1438 which had the effect of advancing the rate on strawberries from stations in Virginia on the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad to Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Brooklyn about 10 per cent, effective Aug. 18, 1922.

The Commission notified the Express Company of the protest and Mr. W. H. Huff and other officials called to see Mr. Gardner in reference to this protest, who then explained the situation to them, stating that the Exchange was on record protesting against any advances and would so limit the case that none were not into effect from this territory. The result being that the Express company withdrew this Supplement effective Aug. 18, 1922, thereby restoring the old rates that were previously in effect which does not permit of any increase in express rates and they remain the same as before.

"What's the matter? What's all this fussing about, Bill Sheehan?" asked a newcomer who had been on guard duty and had missed the first news.

EVERGREENS POPULAR FOR LANDSCAPE WORK

Different Specimens That Are To Be Found on Market Have Many Distinct Advantages in Use.

The evergreens, compared to any other trees that grow, have many distinct advantages. Of course, for forming a screen to hide unsightly buildings and to afford privacy from the street or from neighboring places, no other trees can be so compared with the evergreens. Aside from their many particular advantages they serve as points of accent in any scheme of planting which may be used to make the home site more beautiful. Even so few as a half-dozen planted with good taste may completely transform the appearance of a place.

Among the many special purposes for which evergreens may be used are the planting of single specimens for ornament; the planting of hedges, either for privacy or to serve as a shelter to the grounds from cold winds in winter; "foundation planting" around the base of the house; and for screens of various sorts.

As single specimens, no other trees are quite so effective. Almost any of the evergreens lend themselves to this purpose, but particularly good are the various firs and spruces. Among these, Nordman's Fir and Koster's Blue Spruce are particularly good. The Nordman's Fir is particularly hardy and so dense growing that even its natural growth gives the effect of having been pruned or sheared. Koster's Blue Spruce is one of the best known of all ornamental trees. Its characteristics, pleasing blue color, makes it stand at the same time its color harmonizes with the foliage of other evergreens and ornamental trees. One or two specimens of this variety may be used with advantage in almost any landscape grouping.

The Pines also make excellent specimen trees. The best known of these is the ordinary White Pine (Pinus Strobus), but in sections where there is danger of the "blister rust" one of the other pines, such as Red or Norway Pine (Pinus Resinosa), or Austrian Pine, should be used in its place. The dwarf or Mugo Pine may be used in many places where there is no room for one of the tall growing varieties. It is very hardy, and while making a low mound-like growth, the distinct upright new growth which is formed each year gives it the characteristic beauty of the pine family.

The Cedars are particularly effective as single specimens, where a slender columnar effect is wanted in the landscape or to harmonize with the architecture of the house.

One of the finest of all evergreens for hedges or windbreaks is the Hemlock. This may be planted close and sheared to any form desired or a most naturalistic and graceful hedge; may be had by planting the trees at some distance apart so that they will touch as they grow.

Arbor Vitae is also largely used for hedges and windbreaks and is excellent for this purpose because of its hardiness, long life and the exceedingly dense growth which it makes.

For foundation planting, of course, the tall growing evergreens are objectionable because, after a few years, they either must be cut back, which spoils their natural beauty or else will grow out of all proportion for the purpose for which they are being used. For foundation planting, select some of the dwarf varieties such as the Mugo Pine which has already been mentioned, or the dwarf or spreading Cypress and Yews.

For screens practically any of the evergreens may be used. The variety to be selected will depend on the conditions to be met—how tall the screen may be wanted, whether dense enough to serve as a windbreak or merely to screen the view, etc. The Hemlocks and Pines, most varieties of which are rapid growing, are particularly good for this purpose, as they keep their branches down close to the ground.

In former years before modern methods of packing and shipping were in general use, the season during which evergreens could be successfully set out was very much limited than it is at present. With the "R. & B." or rail and burlap system of shipping, transplanting can be successfully done until well into the summer and throughout the fall. This makes it possible to enjoy the advantages of evergreens the first season after the new house or bungalow is finished; or when the rush of spring planting is over on the farm.

Another thing which has helped greatly in the planting of evergreens of all kinds is the advanced method of delivering by auto truck direct from the nursery to your grounds. Trees of any size are now generally handled in this way and in many cases are out of the ground for only a few hours between being dug at the nursery and being planted on your place.

In planting evergreens, as with most things, care should be taken in preparing the holes in which they are to be set. They should be made large enough, and good soil, well pulverized, should be packed firmly about the roots as the trees are put in. If the soil is so dry that watering is necessary, it should be applied when the hole is about half filled up and not poured on the surface after planting.

Hot Weather Diseases.

Disorders of the bowels are extremely dangerous, particularly during the hot weather of the summer months, and in order to protect yourself and family against a sudden attack, get a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It can be depended upon. Many have testified to its excellence.—Adv.

FIRST OPERA TRACED BACK TO 16TH CENTURY

New Form of Musical Art Was Presented in Palace of Italian Nobleman at Florence.

As with any other beginning of a device or art, opera can be traced back to the times of ancient Greece and perhaps older peoples, but the first opera proper dates back to the latter part of the sixteenth century, when, in the palace of the Italian Count Bardi, the new form of musical art was outlined.

Count Bardi, an Italian nobleman residing in Florence, was one of a group who felt within them the urge that distinguishes so many of our present-day reactionaries. These cultured men were especially interested in the masterpieces of ancient literature and in the dramas of the Greek poets in particular. The form prevalent in those days of presenting dramatic works with musical interpolations written in the stiff contrapuntal church style felt to be incongruous and entirely at variance with the spirit of the works to be enacted. From their discussions and strivings for a form of music to more suitably reflected dramatic expression resulted the opera "Dafne" written by Peri and produced in a homey way in the year 1584.

"Dafne" was a crude work, but it had opened a new path to musical expression, and it was not long before the new form gave birth to several great geniuses like Monteverdi, Scarlatti and Gluck, who shaped opera into something like the "form we know it now."

Incidentally the word opera is a misnomer, it is really an abbreviation of "opera in musica" (the Italian for works in music), which was the original full name of stage musical productions. Opera in itself means simply "no. as."

Another thing which has helped greatly in the planting of evergreens of all kinds is the advanced method of delivering by auto truck direct from the nursery to your grounds. Trees of any size are now generally handled in this way and in many cases are out of the ground for only a few hours between being dug at the nursery and being planted on your place.

PECULIAR STRUCTURE FIG CHARACTERISTIC

Produces Fruit First And Then Blossoms Inside Fruit So That No Flowers Are Seen.

A peculiarity of the fig is that it produces its fruit first and blossoms inside the fruit, so that no flower is perceptible to an ordinary observer.

Because of the peculiar structure of the fig fruit the process of pollination cannot be accomplished either by the wind or by ordinary insects. A peculiar hymenopterous insect is an inhabitant of the wild figs in their native countries and also visits the cultivated varieties. It is to this insect alone that the pollination of the cultivated sorts is due. Smyrna fig culture would be an impossibility without this insect.

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME
By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

WHEN HE CALLS.

Practice in time becomes second nature. —Ann.

IN A MOTION picture recently produced, the charming young actress impersonating a New York society girl receiving the call of one of her men friends takes the caller's hat and coat from him as he enters the hall. Now as a matter of fact no girl who knew social usage would do that. Of course, if the man were aged or otherwise too feeble to dispose of them himself, she would. Otherwise, if there is no servant at hand to take them from him, the young woman would simply show him where the hatrack was located. A young man caller need not be asked by his hostess to remove his coat. If a maid comes to the door he should remove his coat in the hall after he has taken off his hat and give them to the maid or hang them on the hatrack before going into the reception room or drawing room. If the young woman receives a caller in a sitting room above stairs he should leave his outer things in the downstairs hall before ascending.

The American girl should always extend her hand to the young man caller when he calls, if he has asked to see her. It was an old-time courtesy always to say "Pray be seated," or something of that sort, and the young man did not take a seat until he had been so requested. Now, however, we do not stand on such formality. The young man takes a seat after his hostess has been seated, but he avoids taking the most comfortable chair in the room.

The question is often asked by young women as to whether young men should be given refreshments when they call. If they come in the afternoon about four or five it is customary in large towns to serve tea, which the hostess dispenses from a tea table in the drawing room or living room. Of course, with the majority of young men, an afternoon call is an impossibility and all their calling is done in the evening. Now hospitality does not require any refreshments for the evening call; but especially if the young man has expressed his intentions of coming a certain night, or if there are

Diamond Dust

Salisbury fans were not so anxious for their club to win the pennant the first year because of the fact that this city is the largest in the loop and the securing of too strong a team might have caused unfavorable comment upon the game here on the Eastern Shore diamonds. But they did not figure that their team would finish last and a mighty big howl will be let out if the White Clouds ring down the curtain as undisputed champions of the cellar position. Admitting that a disastrous start was made by the local aggregation at the beginning of the season and that here lately injuries to stars have handicapped greatly the ability to win games, there is yet something else that accounts for the least of 37 contests out of the 64 so far played. And the reason is not deeply hidden. To those lovers of the sport who have been accustomed to watch athletes fight to the very last with a never-say-die spirit, the absence of just such a carrying along force has been noticeable in the play of the local nine. And the nifty just players exhibited just a bit more of the bull-dog tenacity in their efforts recently, several games that have gone on the wrong side of the ledger might have been turned into assets. Listlessness has certainly characterized the play of the entire team at times. It is not too late for Manager Adams to instill into his charges the necessary amount of pep and fight that will provide stiffer opposition for rival teams and thus possibly save Salisbury, the hub of the wheel, from finishing the first year of Organized Ball in last place. Is the title "Cellar Champions" one to be proud of?

Umpire Derby will probably be President Miller's selection as this league's representative for the duties of arbiter during the big tilts. Each circuit has the power to name one umpire. Derby's work in the six cities of the Shore loop has been of the high order and not marred by any serious disturbances. He is popular with the players although he does not "buddy" with them and the spectators have lots of respect for the former University of Delaware coach.

With the leaving of Hearne, the White Clouds' pitching ace, for his home in Brooklyn prospects look dark for the local team pulling out of the cellar. The star southpaw received a telegram stating that his mother was seriously ill. Thompson, the first-sacker has also departed for his home. Hart, the veteran backstop. Both of these players were injured in recent games and favored a release at this time. With three pitchers playing in the outfield the defensive strength of the club has been weakened as has the offensive power. The latter punch, however, has been lacking all summer for the players sporting the colors of Salisbury were woefully weak in the batting department.

Officials connected with the staging of the coming series made a wise move when they selected Salisbury as the scene of action for the third game on September 9th. Gordy Park stands second to Oriole Park in Baltimore as being the best-equipped plant in the state and the field will be amply large to take care of the thousands of fans who will flock here from all parts of the Shore because of the city's central location.

All roads will lead to Parkley next week when the championship series gets under way in the small Virginia town. That section of the Peninsula has been red-hot for baseball all summer and with the staging of the junior world series in their backlot, people of Accomac county and the rest of the potato counties will be on hand when the sun goes up in order to get seats of cantage in the small park. Parkley has made a good strong fight and has played clean ball all along. It will be worth while to watch the performance of the diminutive shortstop in the series. Dried-in-the-wind fans acclaim Hewell as being without a peer in this league and if he measures up to a very high standard in the coming contests he stands a good chance of advancing in Organized Ball.

Bitter is the struggle being waged in the Blue Ridge League by Martinsburg, Waynesboro and Frederick for the coveted honors awaiting the victor in the race. Frederick's defeat by Hagerstown on Monday practically eliminated that club's chances to emerge on top. It is the opinion of the writer, that the opponent for Parkley in the coming "Five State" championship series will be the Blue Sox of Martinsburg.

Delaware's only representatives in the Eastern Shore League, the Blue Hen's Chicks, of Laurel, are going strong on the last lap of the playing season, and their work is the talk of all the fans of Lower Delaware and others around the circuit. The Laurel club today is probably the most dreaded team in the Eastern loop, and it shares with Crisfield the honor of staying one of the most sensational spurts of any club in the league during the playing season, not barring Parkley's long list of victories at the beginning of the 70-game schedule.

It's high time that the White Clouds show a little fight in their make-up and overcome the recent attitude to listlessly concede games to their opponents. Although the best interests of both Salisbury and the Eastern Shore League would not have been served by a pennant coming to the Wilcox metropolis, that fact does not justify indifference to the title of "Cellar Champions."

We can believe in the transmigration of souls when we observe how readily some men make asses of themselves.

ATTRACTIVE BOXING CARD ON LABOR DAY

Promoter Olen Hackett, of Wilmington, Will Put On Some Classy Little Fighters in Local Ring.

Local sporting fans will have an opportunity on Labor Day to witness the best boxing show ever presented on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Olen Hackett, of Wilmington, is promoting the show and has arranged a card from the pick of Wilmington and Philadelphia boxers.

The feature bout which will be the windup, will introduce Buck McGinnis, Wilmington's premier K. O. artist, to the Eastern Shore fans. His opponent will be Young Johnny Dundee, of Philadelphia.

The semi-windup will show Patsy Murphy against Johnny Traub, of hester. This pair fought a great six-round bout here last spring and are being rematched by popular request. Another class-bout is the third bout between Pete Deirnl, the local Polish flash, and Battling Earl Johnson, of Fort Dupont. This pair recently put on a great fight at Kennet Square and they are bound to make a big hit in the local ring.

STRAWBERRY EXPRESS RATES WILL BE SAME

After Hearing Protests Interstate Commerce Commission Rules Against Rate Increase.

The American Railway Express company filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C., Supplement No. 2 to their I. C. C. 1438 which had the effect of advancing the rate on strawberries from stations in Virginia on the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad to Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, New York and Brooklyn about 10 per cent, effective Aug. 18, 1922.

The Eastern Shore of Virginia, Produce Exchange, through its traffic manager, Mr. W. T. Gardner, filed protest with the Interstate Commerce Commission asking that said advance be postponed, requesting a thorough investigation and hearing if necessary to determine the justification of such advances, for the reason that they did not consider that any advances in express rates was justified and if anything they ought to be reduced. Therefore, calling the Commission's attention to the proposed inquiry started by them as per Docket 13930 to make a thorough investigation of the entire express rates to determine whether or not there should not be a reduction similar to the freight reductions effective July 1, 1922.

The Commission notified the Express Company of the protest and Mr. W. H. Hoff and other officials called to see Mr. Gardner in reference to this protest, who thoroughly explained the situation to them. The Commission was on record protesting against any advances and would go the limit to see that none were not into effect from this territory. The result being that the Express company withdrew their Supplement effective Aug. 18, 1922, thereby restoring the old rates that were previously in effect which does not permit of any increase in express rates and they remain the same as before.

"What's the matter? What's all this fussing about, Bill Sheehan?" asked a newcomer who had been on guard duty and had missed the first news.

"The cheerful cherub I'll be a harp played on by life. The good and bad that each year brings Won't rest with me at all - my job is just to have no broken strings."

After the property has been offered in separate parcels, it will then be offered as a whole and if the bid for the whole property exceeds the bids for the separate parcels, it will be sold as a whole, otherwise the bids for the separate parcels will be accepted. This property is desirably located in the business sections of Salisbury and a splendid opportunity is offered for any one wishing to secure a desirable location. The property has been surveyed and plat and a plat of same can be seen by calling upon the undersigned Attorneys.

Terms of sale: One-third cash on day of sale, balance to be paid in two equal installments 6 and 12 months after date of sale, with interest from day of sale, to be secured to the satisfaction of the undersigned, or all cash at the option of the purchaser or purchasers.

Title papers and the expense of the purchaser or purchasers.

BENJAMIN A. JOHNSON, F. LEONARD WAILES, 36-509. Attorneys for Owners.

Public Sale

Real Estate and Personal Property.

I will offer at public sale at my residence on Main Street in the town of Hebron, Wilcox County, Maryland, on at 2 o'clock P. M. my farm situate within one mile of the railroad station at Hebron, Maryland, consisting of 30 acres, about 26 acres of which are cleared land, and about 4 acres of pine timber, lying on the road from Hebron to Salisbury, bounded on the east by the lands of the late James D. Gordy, on the north by lands of Herbert Hearn, on the west by lands of Ulysses U. Wilson, and on the south by the gravel road leading from Hebron to Salisbury.

This land has fruit trees on it, both peach and apple, and about one acre of strawberries, and is in a high state of cultivation.

Also at the same time and place the following personal property: One horse, pants and safe for women and children to use; one horse cart and harness; one dearborn wagon, one top buggy, one automobile, plows, harrows, harness and farming utensils.

Terms of Sale. On the personal property, on all sums of $5.00 or less, cash will be required. Above $5.00, a credit of twelve months will be given, secured by note with approved security, bearing interest from day of sale.

On the real estate, 15 per cent. cash at time of sale will be required, and a mortgage securing the remainder will be accepted, interest payable semi-annually and 5 per cent. of the principal payable each year till the end of the tenth year when all the remainder, both principal and interest, becomes due, or all cash at the option of the purchaser.

Possession to be given Jan. 1, 1923. Title papers at expense of purchaser.

DWELLINGS MUST HAVE RECEPTACLE FOR MAIL

Post Office Department Announces New Order Through Local Office—Is Advantage to Patrons.

An order effecting practically every home-owner in Salisbury has just come through from the Post Office headquarters in Washington which instructs postmasters to inform their patrons of the free-delivery routes that receptacle mail boxes or door slots must be installed.

The reason for this announcement seems to be that the delays suffered by the mail-carriers in their distribution of letters and packages is largely due to the failure of the occupants of the homes to come to the door within a reasonable amount of time after the carrier mounts the steps. It is true that many times they are out.

That the new order will be both beneficial to patrons and the Department is certain. For with receptacles provided the former will not always have to be on the look-out for the mail-man and again are not required to answer the door-bell for the purpose of receiving the mail if they happen to be engaged in doing something else. The order reads as follows:

On account of delays caused to carriers at dwelling houses where no door-slot or mail receptacle is provided, and the fact that a large number of dwellings are thus equipped already, the Post Office Department has issued instructions to postmasters to require all who receive mail by letter carriers at their dwellings to provide such accommodations, the expense of same being small.

It is not the Department's desire, of course, that any shall be deprived of delivery by the requirement, but rather it is earnestly hoped that it will see the reasonableness of it and its advantage to themselves as well as to the carriers. Sufficient and reasonable time will be given patrons who do not have door-slots or receptacles to provide such, but if it finally becomes necessary delivery service will be withdrawn from those dwellings not so equipped.

No particular style or make of receptacle has been approved by the Department, and the postmaster and his subordinates are not permitted under any circumstances to act as agents in the sale of boxes.

NEW STOCK WORTH 115 MILLION IS ON MARKET

American Telephone and Telegraph Company Offers To Stockholders Privilege To Purchase Shares.

The offer by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company of one hundred and fifteen million dollars worth of new stock to its stockholders is on the basis of one new share for five existing shares. This means that for every five shares that a stockholder now owns, he will have the right to purchase one share of the new stock at par ($100).

The offer provides for payment of the stock by means of partial payment, spread over a period of eight months; the first installment of $20 per share is due on Nov. 1, 1922, the second installment of $40 per share is due on March 1, 1923, and the third installment of $40 per share is due on July 1, 1923. Interest at the rate of six per cent. will be applied on installment payments from their due date to July 1, 1923.

This basis of partial payment will enable many small stockholders to avail themselves of the offer.

This privilege will be given to the stockholders in the shape of rights. If a stockholder owns less than five shares (the number necessary to enable him to purchase one share of new stock) he may purchase from any stock broker sufficient rights to give him a total of five. If the stockholder does not desire to purchase additional shares, he can sell his right to any stock broker.

In view of the present market price of the stock about $121 per share, the privilege to existing stockholders to purchase this stock at par is a fine opportunity for an additional investment, which probably cannot be found elsewhere in the market today; when we consider both safety of investment and rate of return.

The purpose of the new stock issue is to provide funds for the extension of the property of the Bell System, to take care of additional business.

All such industries must secure from time to time additional capital, either by sale of stock, bonds, or short term time notes.

The fact that the Bell System today is able to find a market for one hundred and fifteen million dollars of stock is a very striking indication of the strength of the Bell System and its high standing in the investment market.

The money secured by the issue of this stock will be used for extensions to the system as required and will add to the earning capacity of the company.

FEDERAL AID AROUSES BUILDING OF HIGHWAYS

Funds Administered By U. S. Department of Agriculture Stimulate State Roads' Boom.

Federal aid has been probably the most important factor in the big boom in highway building of recent years, and there are now many long stretches of trunk-line highway serving rich agricultural and industrial sections of the country which are almost entirely Federal-aid construction.

The United States Department of Agriculture, which administers the Federal aid fund, points out that a traveler going from Richmond, Ind., to St. Louis across Indiana and the southern part of Illinois, thence to Chicago by way of Springfield and Peoria, a distance of approximately 679 miles, would travel 605 miles, or 75 per cent. of the way, on Federal aid highways, practically all of which should be in service by the end of the present season.

Mr. Turpin Bennett Of Mardela Is Dead

Prominent Church Member And Lodgeman Succumbs To Heart Disease After Life of Service.

After an illness from heart disease of over four months, Mr. Turpin H. Bennett passed away at his late home in Mardela, Thursday afternoon, Aug. 24th. TALL CEDARS READY FOR PICNIC FROLIC

Over 1,000 Cedars Are Expected To Invade Ocean City Thursday 31st Three Bands For Parade.

Eastern Shore Tall Cedars, their relatives, friends and guests, will hold forth on Ocean City's boardwalk Thursday the 31st. That day has been marked conspicuously on the resort's calendar as a day that will be replete with entertainment and good times.

The Tall Cedars will assemble early in the morning from points all over the Shore and also nearby cities such as Baltimore, Philadelphia and Wilmington and indications are that over a thousand will be in line for the big parade.

Three bands will help to enliven the occasion for Evergreen Forest, No. 49, from Milford will be accompanied by its musicians and Eastern Shore Forest, No. 53, will have its band, while the third one will come from Laurel.

There is no doubt in the minds of anyone that this big picnic and frolic will be the event of the year as extensive preparations have been made for it. A "big parade" will be the feature, in which clowns of every description will participate. At night a brilliant display of fireworks will be staged on the boardwalk.

Following is the list of events as they appear on the official program of the day arranged by Chairman Magruder and Van Horn of the committee. General headquarters will be at the Life Saving Station.

10.00 A. M. to 12.00 Noon. Reception of Visiting Forests.

12.00 P. M. to 3 P. M.—Games on Beach between visitors and our Forest.

1. Tug of war between married and single men; 2. 100 yard foot race; 3. Fat man's race; 4. Skinny man's race; 5. Spoon race for women; 6. Three legged race; 7. Bag race; 8. 50 yard backward race; 9. Running board jump; 10. Standing board jump; 11. Running high jump; 12. Wrestling match between Charlie Chaplin and A. M. Walls; 13. This is a surprise for all; 14. Small boys race. Suitable prizes given for each event.

3.30 P. M.—Parade forms at B. C. & A. Railroad Station.

4.00 P. M.—Parade starts "on the dot." R. R. Station to Baltimore Avenue thence to Boardwalk down Boardwalk to end of Amusements and then disband.

4.45 to 5.50—Awarding of prizes and concert by bands.

8.00 P. M.—Fireworks begin.

9.00 P. M.—All Cedars wishing to dance will be taken care of at Atlantic Hotel ball room.

Prizes will be given to the Tallest Cedar in line, fattest Cedar in line, smallest Cedar in line, individual Cedar coming longest distance, funniest clown or comedian.

Judging from the feminine styles, the women must think all the men are from Missouri.

6,000 At Ocean Grove Hear William J. Bryan

Speaker Declares 18th Amendment Is Most Beneficial Law Ever Passed and Is Being Observed.

On Aug. 23, in the great auditorium at Ocean Grove, where Mr. Bryan was introduced by Bishop Berry, who classed him with Mr. Roosevelt, as one of the greatest Americans of the present decade, the speaker, for two hours and over, held his audience of nearly 6,000 spell bound to the last word. In his tour through the South, North and West Mr. Bryan is happy to report public sentiment growing constantly in the interest of the 18th amendment.

He reports that no other law has ever been enacted that has brought such equal benefits to our people nor was any other law ever better observed than the 18th amendment notwithstanding the many wet editors and office seekers. If some of the wet men acting as governors of a few of our states, or wet Congressmen or Senators had been present they doubt would have probably been pained at the narration of facts.

Repairs Are Begun On Railroad Bridge

B. C. & A. Span Over Choptank River Near Easton Which Collapsed Soon Ready For Traffic.

Passenger and freight service, particularly the former, on the B. C. & A. was seriously interrupted last Thursday when the bridge over the Choptank river, near Easton, collapsed last Thursday. The structure broke in the middle just as a heavy freight train was halfway across. Although two cars were thrown into the waters no injuries were sustained by any members of the crew.

Turnbull Murdock, general manager for the company, has ordered the bridge to be repaired immediately and it is expected that by the end of this week traffic will be resumed over it. During the interim passengers for Ocean City from Baltimore have been taking the M. D. & V. boat for Love Point, then by train to Greenwood and Seaford, Delaware, to Hurluck, where the train would resume the usual route.

CONGRESSMAN T. ALLAN GOLDSBOROUGH SPEAKS

Addresses Men's Community Club at Easton On Economic Problems of The Day.

A goodly representation of the Men's Community Club at Easton greeted Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough on Monday night in response to announcement that he would be the speaker of the evening. After a short routine of the general business, the speaker was introduced. Mr. Goldsborough held his audience for an hour, in which he discoursed upon the general unrest of the times, business depression, uncertainty and kindred attendants following unstable conditions.

His note was for stabilization. He did not profess to know, but gave his audience the benefit of his deep study upon economics, the monetary upheavals, and the explosions between corporations and labor. Mr. Goldsborough is not afraid to tackle the questions which are most vital to the welfare of America, and he deals with them from his angle fairly and conscientiously. He has made some telling speeches upon the floor of the House in spirited debates, and edified the club with casual review of problems that Congress had to meet.

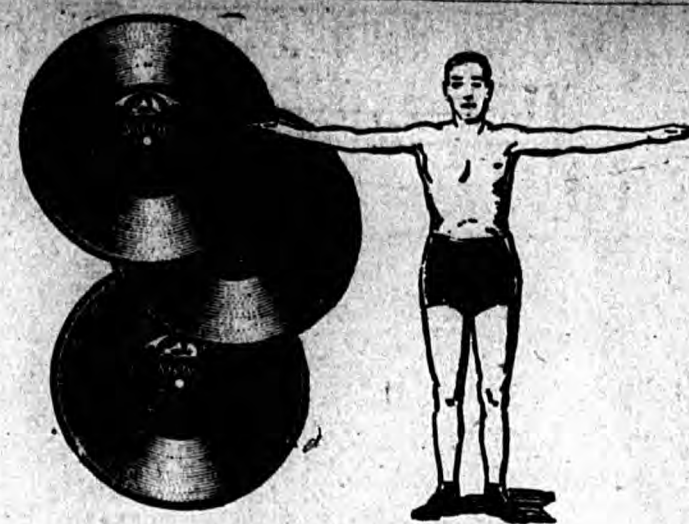

The lecture did not savor of politics, nor was it staged to strengthen his chances for re-nomination. He poses more as a student who, being in position to help his constituency, desires to give them the best as he understands it. His speech was well received, applauded, and a rising vote of thanks tendered.

DENTISTS HAVE ANNUAL OUTING AT OCEAN CITY

On Monday, August 21, the Eastern Shore Dental Society had its annual outing at the Mt. Pleasant Hotel, Ocean City, at 4 P. M. Dr. W. A. Smith of Denton read a very interesting and instructive paper.

A delightful dinner was served at 6 P. M. for the dentists and their wives and families who accompanied them, and Dr. and Mrs. Mason proved themselves a charming host and hostess.

Former Senator John Walter Smith says:

"Mr. Bruce is a gentleman of ripe experience, of character, has made a study of public problems for a lifetime and hence, as a member of the Senate, is best able to give the State and country that sort of service that is most needed.

"Mr. Bruce has achieved a literary distinction such as few men in our country can equal, and he will at once take rank in the Senate as a man of fine intellectual attainments. He is sound and conservative, wields an able pen and has a measure of culture and ability that does and will make him conspicuous.

"He is allied with no faction, and so far as I can see is best able of all the candidates named to command the wholehearted support of a united party at the polls. In short, he is a thoroughly capable, courageous and honorable gentleman, who can be, and will be elected. I shall be glad, as a patriotic duty, to aid so far as I am able in his nomination and election."

Mr. Bruce says:

"I confess that my leaning is toward the old Jeffersonian principles of Democracy which have proved entirely reconcilable with the most generous aspirations of the human race."

COLONEL WOODCOCK'S ADDRESS TO LEGION ASSEMBLY NOBLE IN TONE

Urges Cancellation Of Allied War Debt As "Big Thing To Do" And Recommends Soldier's Hospital, Devoid of Red Tape, On Susquehanna Bluffs At Port Deposit.

Past Commander Amos W. W. Woodcock, who addressed the members of the Maryland Department, American Legion, in convention at Ocean City. He recounted the "big things" that the veteran's organization had accomplished in the past year and outlined a worthy policy for the future. Applause greeted his remarks throughout the speech which is printed here below for the benefit of the "News" readers.

For the fourth time the American Legion has assembled in annual convention. It is the duty of the Department Commander to describe briefly the accomplishments of the year and to outline the course which in his judgment leads to greater usefulness in the future, giving thus his valedictory.

The Legion I conceive to be a great national organization of service to soldiers in the line of finding employment for those able to work and of care for the disabled—service to the nation in the line of doing for the people what former soldiers can do and of keeping alive the spirit of 1917. Of course when I say soldiers I mean without distinction all who were in the armed service of the United States during the World War. To accomplish the first of its two missions of service, the Legion maintained in Baltimore, Hagerstown, Salisbury and perhaps elsewhere, successful employment bureaus. That in Baltimore had the most conspicuous success because of its larger opportunities. Under the unflinching supervision of Mr. H. J. Lepper, this bureau found employment for over 1,500 ex-service men. It provided meals for them during the period of waiting. The bureau was self supporting with the exception of an appropriation of $50 from the Department. Captain Lepper has earned the gratitude of all ex-service men. The bureau ceased operating only when there were no longer applicants for work.

The Legion has gone its best to make the lot of the disabled more happy. It has not done all that should be done; for no benefactor or commander is too great for our disabled ex-soldiers. It has provided numerous entertainments at the various hospitals; it has made many small gifts to the men; it has assisted in adjusting many claims for compensation; it has insisted that the hospital at Fort McHenry be not closed until adequate facilities should be provided elsewhere. It has within the last few days initiated an investigation into the conditions existing in a private hospital where nerve shattered soldiers are stationed. That there should be even the suspicion of ill treatment of these unfortunates staggers the imagination.

Carrying out the mandate of the last State Convention, the Legion asked the General Assembly to pass two bills—one providing for a bonus to all ex-service men of Maryland as a mark of the State's good will towards them—the other providing for the marking of the battlefields where Maryland men fought and of the graves where Maryland men lie buried in France. The General Assembly passed each of those bills. The former contained a provision making it effective provided the voters should approve it at the next general election. That provision seemed necessary both in order to secure the passage of the bill and in order that, being a gift, it should come straight from the hearts of the people. A gentleman named Brawner, however, brought an action to prevent the question being submitted to the people, charging that the bill was unconstitutional. Judge Stein in the lower court overruled his contention. The Court of Appeals, however, ruled that the provision for a submission of the question to the people made the law unconstitutional.

As good soldiers trained to respect authority, we must cheerfully accept this decision and admit that while one county may vote on a question affecting that county, twenty-three counties and the City of Baltimore may not vote on a question affecting all of them together.

Criticism may be made because the Legislative Committee did not anticipate the action of the Court of Appeals and propose the law in the form of an amendment to the Constitution. The answer is we think that a careful reading of the Constitution would not reveal what part of it needed amendment. Lawyers of the standing of Judge Burke, a former member of the Court of Appeals had expressed the opinion that the state-wide referendum was constitutional. We used our best judgment.

As to the other law, Governor Ritchie has named a Committee of nine former service men to investigate and collect data. The bill carries no appropriation for carrying out its important work. Your State Commander is partly responsible for this. The impression was being created among some members of the General Assembly that this bill was simply the provision for a junket at the expense of the state. When I was called before the committee on Military at their hearings upon this bill, I therefore asked the committee to report the bill favorably and that I would ask the Governor not to include an item for the expenses in the budget. This I did. The American Legion must avoid even the suspicion of fostering a junket at the public expense. We will finance the thing ourselves. The bill is desirable as making the Commission official. There are plenty of ex-service men who will gladly bear their own expenses in carrying out the sacred purposes of this measure.

I pause at this point to express my appreciation of the unfailing consideration and sympathy that Governor Ritchie and Mayor Broening have always shown towards our problems. We have called upon them upon numerous occasions. They have never failed to respond.

In order to carry on its mission of perpetuating the spirit of 1917, the Legion invited to Maryland our former Commander-in-Chief, Marshal Foch; it arranged appropriate celebrations on Armistice Day and on Memorial Day; it has lent its influence in various localities towards forward looking measures, better schools, citizens training camps, and so forth. Any enterprise which unselfishly tends for the good of others than those promoting it is the direct and lineal descendant of the spirit of 1917, of the spirit of October 1918, the month which in my judgment saw the apotheosis of America.

The financial affairs of the Legion have been improved. All local indebtedness has been paid. There remains only an old account with National Headquarters for some buttons bought in the early days of the Legion. There is money in the Treasury to pay it. We wish, however, to turn the office over to our successors with a working balance in bank.

So much for the past. What of the future? What courses shall the Legion pursue in order to realize its greatest usefulness?

First of all I think each post must acquire a home—a room some place to call its own—where soldiers may meet and renew the old associations. What stronger ties bind men together than association in a common venture of danger and service? I have not very much, yet I think I would sacrifice it all before giving up the friendships and memories of my friends of '17, '18 and '19. Let us keep them alive. They represent youth, service, accomplishment, loyalty, and duty.

Next the Legion must always stand for that hope of the world's people—Americanism. Frankly, I do not like the prefix 100 per cent. It smacks too much of trade and commerce. Let me say Gentlemen, I am an American. It suffices. It places me in the most exalted position in the world. When Paul said: "I am a Roman citizen," it was sufficient. How lacking in dignity to say "I am a hundred per cent. Roman citizen."

And yet the word, conveying to all as it does an exalted ideal, causing everyone who honors it to swell just a little with pride, to hear the thought, is not easy to define. Some use it to cover selfish aims and bigoted opinions. "I am right. This is Americanism. Get out of my way." Sometimes such expressions betray that the speaker is perhaps not quite worthy to stand at the salute when the band plays the Star Spangled Banner and the flag flutters down. We know the feeling. It is not entirely different from that of the priest bowing at his altar when the angelus is being played.

I think first of all that Americanism connotes toleration, respect for the rights of others. Look back over your history and see if you can not agree with me that toleration is the distinguishing difference between Americanism and some of the other "isms" with which we are afflicted. Why can we have an election here, and a change of government without violence which the reverse is true in many less fortunate countries? I think, without elaboration the idea further, that it is because our majorities have learned that minorities must be left some rights and that these must be respected. Americanism—liberty—how these words merge the one into the other!

And if toleration is the distinguishing passive virtue of Americanism, service is its positive active virtue. The one is the outgrowth of the other. First tolerate the man; from that point it is easy to drift into serving him.

Every post has opportunities of service in its own community. Upon every local question there is the side of the forward looking men and the side of the reactionaries. The Legion Posts must always be on the former side. You were on the firing line once, the actual front line of American civilization. That is your position in every locality, fighting, unselfishly for what your community needs. If the Legion post can not do something for its home town, then it has forgotten the spirit of '17. I am preaching to you, gentlemen, a time-honored doctrine, springing straight from the origin of eternal truth, that it is more blessed to give than to receive. I would have you bring the blush of shame to the face of every shirking scoundrel in your town, by showing always that you served in '17 and '18 as few Americans ever served, and still willing to do more than your part for Main Street.

The service of the Legion as a whole in Maryland must naturally be embodied in the declaration of certain great principles and the efforts of the individuals composing the Legion to carry them into execution. To this end I would suggest certain declarations of policies for the approval of this Convention.

1. I would have the Legion declare in favor of Americans generously and spontaneously forgiving our Allies their indebtedness to us. In 1917 when our Allies had been holding the line for nearly three years we provided credits for them to the extent of about ten billions of dollars. I believe one of the conditions was that the money was to be spent in America. It is fair to suppose that the American profiteers divided a considerable profit and that the net return to our Allies on the front lines was considerably less than ten billions. Our people generally experienced the stimulation of trade and commerce that the expenditures of that much money in America brought. We are therefore, as a people hardly out of the full sum of ten billions.

If I came to appeal only to your emotions, I would say that America, who forgave the Boxer indemnity to China, who paid conquered Spain for the possession of our right of a conquest could hardly collect such a debt loaned as such a time to our hard pressed Allies. If I were to argue the justice of the question, I would say that ten billions was a small price to pay our Allies for holding

Entrance Examinations

Engineering Scholarships

Applications for Scholarships in the School of Engineering, established under provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship, competitive examinations will be held September 22, 1922, starting at 9 a. m.

Each Legislative District of Baltimore City and each County of the State, with the exception of Caroline, Cecil, Queen Anne, Talbot and Worcester, will be entitled to one or more engineering scholarships for the year 1922-1923. In addition to those already mentioned, in the five counties mentioned, all available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City Scholarships in the School of Engineering are awarded only to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted them.

The Scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text books, and exemption from all regular fees. One of the scholarships in each County and in each Legislative District of the City carries also the sum of $200. The expense of attendance for those who do not receive scholarships is not greater than at other Maryland institutions.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College, University of Maryland (Maryland Agricultural College), Mt. St. Mary's College and Rock Hill College.

Applicants should address The Registrar, The Johns Hopkins University, for blank application forms and for catalogues of information regarding examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction. The next session begins Tuesday, October 2, 1922.

THE DUTY OF TRUE REPUBLICANS IS TO SEND

BECAUSE:

John W. Garrett is a 100%
Republican And a 100% American

1 Mr. Garrett began serving his country under President McKinley, and has served through the administrations of Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson and Harding. Mr. Garrett, in addition to being a 100% Republican, is a statesman of international fame. The Republican voters of Maryland have an opportunity to send a man to the United States Senate who will be a credit to the state of Maryland in every sense of the word. Mr. Garrett is a man of ripe scholarship, sound judgment, sane and sensible utterance, years of experience in serving the Nation.

Mr. Garrett is a Well Versed Business Man And a Trained Diplomat

(The Baltimore American of July 13, 1922, says:)

2 "John W. Garrett is a quiet, studious, even-tempered man, of broad education and broad experience, a well-versed business man, a trained diplomat,—which means a trained observer of affairs—a man who has been shown the confidence of successive administrations."

(From the Baltimore American of July 16, 1922)

"John W. Garrett, as a Senatorial candidate, should prove himself the kind of man, who makes automatic appeal to the regular Republican voter and who is well liked, besides, by many voters within the Democratic party. He is the kind of man who should make a mark for himself—and not against himself—in the United States Senate. If we make Garrett a Senator, we will probably add one to that body from Maryland who will be both conspicuous and sensible."

Mr. Garrett Will Prove To Be An Asset To The Entire United States

(From the Evening Sun of July 13, 1922)

3 "For many years he (Mr. Garrett) has served the nation in important diplomatic posts. His knowledge of international affairs is probably as broad and as searching as that of any man in the country, and it is commonly agreed that during the next few years international affairs are to have equal place in our national policy with the more pressing domestic problems—to this extent his (Mr. Garrett's) presence in the Senate chamber would add dignity to a degenerating body and bring prestige to the State of Maryland."

JOHN W. GARRETT

BECAUSE:

Senator France Denounced The Republican Party

1 Senator France, on March 2, 1922, in denunciation of the Republican Party, said, according to page 3616 of the Congressional Record: "If you Democratic Senators stand steadfastly and determinedly for these principles which my party seems to be now repudiating you will meet your reward at the hands of the American people and I hope to God that you do."

Calls France a Bolshevich Sympathizer

(From the Phila. Public Ledger, August 3, 1921)

2 "Today Senator France is an avowed Bolshevich, primarily, and the supporter of Radical theories without number. His office in the Senate is the headquarters for Bolshevich supporters. Followers of Radicalism regard him as their leader and he accepts their trust."

Senator France Has Done Nothing Constructive

(From the Baltimore News, August 11, 1922)

3 "As a legislator Senator France has been tried out for six years. During that time there has been no other member of the Senate who consumed more hours in the exploitation of less practical ideas. He belongs essentially to that class of members whose activities shake the country's confidence in the judgment and ability of the Senate as a whole."

Senator France Has Been Destructive

(From the Baltimore Sun, March 6, 1919)

4 "In his filibustering activities Senator France talked to death over $3,500,000 of appropriations for Maryland. Practically $2,000,000 of this sum was to have been expended in the construction of permanent buildings at Baltimore, Annapolis, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Easton, Elkton, Ellicott City and Laurel, so that every section of the state is made to suffer."

Opposed Leading Doctrines Of Republican Party Leaders

5 Senator France cast the only vote against the bill for limitation of naval armament, the greatest measure passed in any administration. This measure stopped huge economic waste and danger of the race for naval armament. He stood against the entire United States Senate, although this particular legislation had been approved by, and had the hearty support of all elements in the United States.

Senator France Casts Slur At Every Republican Voter

6 The words of Senator France that appear below, appear in the Congressional Record of March 20, 1920. Every Republican should read this remark:

"Both of these two parties are decadent as to the issues that first quickened them into being. They hold their noble names, but they have become apostate from the great principles which they once advanced and so valiantly defended."

Comment of County Agent Cobb On Agricultural Happenings

To say that we were much pleased with the agricultural exhibits at the County Fair is a very mild statement as the exhibits were well worth time and attention spent to look them over. Once more Wicomico County tops the rest of the Eastern Shore and if we had our way the other counties would be mere "also rans" from now on. There is no reason why we should not have many and attractive exhibits at the Fair because we have the growers and they have the articles. The details of the exhibits are covered elsewhere in this issue so we will not dwell on that part.

Some of our people either do not know just how to fix articles for exhibit or they try to slip something over the judges and we are afraid that the latter is true in some cases. The judges look for good average sized specimens of good quality but uniformity in exhibition stuff carries a whole lot more weight than many people are aware of. Overgrown specimens, except in the case of the largest pumpkin, etc., are not wanted and are marked off accordingly. Not much use to put the nice specimens on top of the basket and poor ones on the remainder because as long as we judge the baskets are going to be dumped. Rise tomatoes half way down and green ones the rest of way, good clean potatoes on top and scabby ones on the bottom are things that count very heavily against the exhibitor. Many of the spectators merely see the top of the baskets and are, sometimes fooled when they see a first prize on a basket that does not look as well (on top) as another basket which may have only won third prize. Also do not wash potatoes and other like articles. It is permissible to clean the dirt off with a cloth or brush but do not wash specimens as the judges want them as near natural as possible.

Looking at the other side of the picture a minute we want to say that the exhibitors have made vast strides in the time that we have seen the exhibits. Very few, in fact, we have seen no common or exhibited and a rule the exhibits have been put up in good shape. People from outside this section have remarked a great many times on the fine manner in which our growers and "canners" put up and exhibit their stuff so our pessimism is not pessimism but an honest attempt to help out the persons who do not know just how to exhibit. We also want to suggest that "faking" may be permissible and may get by the judges but when the judges catch a case like this the score card shows what they think of such tactics.

We believe that we enjoyed being at this year's Fair more than any other since we have been in this section. Not because the exhibits were better, although that made us feel mighty good, but mainly because we met some farmers that we have long wanted to meet but they never needed our assistance and we have not had the time to do so. The really big thing of any Fair to our mind is the meeting of the people either acquaintances or strangers.

The boys exhibits were fine and attracted a whole lot of attention on the part of the visitors but more especially on the part of the judges. We might mention the fact that the judges spent over four hours judging the boys exhibits in order that they might do the work to the best of their ability. Next year, before time for the Fair, we would like to get all the boys, who expect to exhibit, together and talk over the principles underlying exhibiting and judging. In a year or two, if not before, we are going to ask for a separate building for the boys and girls exhibits and we want this to be the real show place on the grounds. It can be done and all we need is cooperation among the boys and girls with the Fair officials to make this part of the exhibition the best of any. If possible we want to take this matter up with the boys and girls this year and hope that Mr. Bennett will let us do it through the schools. Right here we want to say that we have received the heartiest kind of cooperation and assistance from Mr. Bennett, Superintendent of Schools, in any and every thing that we have tried to do in the schools since coming to Wicomico County.

It was a pleasure for us to meet some of our western shore neighbors this week and we surely hope that they will find time to run over and see us a great many more times. One of our friends from that section was an editor and we surely hope that he is lenient with us when he reads these notes and does not find too many places where the blue pencil should be used. We intend to return the compliment the first chance we get and make the western shore a visit as Vaughn Butler has aroused our curiosity with his glowing tales of the western shore.

We have had a rather difficult task lately in trying to keep friends from doing their best to join our summer club. In spite of our protestations and promises that they would be sorry some of them have qualified and are now members. But we have lost several of our older members and this next week will see more of them resigning.

Because of the interest being displayed in the egg laying contest we have decided to enlarge the entry list and make three classes. In other words there will be a contest for 25 birds, 50 birds and 100 birds. This will allow those who have 100 birds to enter as well as those with smaller sized pens. The rules and regulations will be same for each unit.

and we hope to have a large number enter.

JAPANESE BEETLE IS ON WAY TO MARYLAND

Insect, Highly Injurious To Fruit Trees Has Already Established Self In New Jersey.

The Japanese beetle is on its way to Maryland with the time of its arrival depending upon whether it hops a ride in an automobile or wings its way more slowly by natural methods of transportation, according to Ernest N. Cory, State Entomologist, who recently visited sections of New Jersey where the insect has succeeded in establishing a trans-Pacific colony.

While both State and Federal quarantines are in force in the heavily infested areas of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the beetle has steadily been extending its territory since it was first discovered in 1916, says Mr. Cory. The spread has been due chiefly to the rapid propagation of the insect, he says, but the chief danger of its introduction into new territory lies in the possibilities of its being carried by automobiles from the infested areas. It is difficult to see how Maryland can escape the invasion, even though the Federal, Pennsylvania and New Jersey officials are doing all they can to keep the pest within the present limits, he declares.

"The Japanese beetle is about the size of the ordinary potato beetle but slightly longer," says Mr. Cory. "Its head and thorax are shining bronze green in color. Its wing covers are brown, edged with green, and two distinct white spots mark the lower part of the abdomen below the wing covers. The insect is particularly injurious to apple, peach, cherry and shade trees but feeds voraciously on more than 200 different plants. The grub, which develops from the eggs which the beetle lays in the ground, feed on grass roots and do serious injury to lawns, golf courses, alfalfa and clover."

"As many as 276 beetles have been taken from a single apple," says Mr. Cory, "which means that a large apple may be completely covered by the insects. They usually remain until only the core of the apple remains, or in the case of peaches until nothing but the seed is left."

A spray consisting of four pounds of arsenate of lead to fifty gallons of water will largely prevent damage by the beetles, according to Mr. Cory, but is not practical for orchard fruits as two applications about two weeks apart would have to be made just about picking time. The spray also results in a contamination of the insects on unsprayed foliage, according to Mr. Cory.

LIFE IN CITY NOT AS HEALTHY AS COUNTRY

Women Live Longer Than Men—Interesting Figures Gleaned From Last Census.

Women live longer than men in the United States.

Life in the country is healthier than life in the city.

That statement explodes a lot of pet theories of our city brethren who have spread propaganda for many moons on the perfection of their sanitary existence.

The Bureau of Census at Washington has just compiled some interesting figures from the recent census. They should add to the contentment of all rural dwellers.

The average life of city women is 64 years. Of men 61 years.

The average life in both city and country for women has increased nearly three years and for men nearly four years in the last 10 years.

The healthiest spot in the union seems to be Kansas. Women average 69 years there and men average 69 years.

The next healthiest spot is Wisconsin where women average 60 years and men 58 years.

Washington is the healthiest city where women average 69 years and men 63.

Pittsburg is at the bottom of the city list where women average only 50 years and men 47.

These averages run into fractional years as announced by the Bureau but have been taken at the even year in this article. The figures quoted here apply only to whites. Negroes are shorter lived. The national average for them is 42 years for women and 40 years for men.

The accompanying table shows the average length of life in representative states or various districts.

| States | Men | Women |
|--------------|-----|-------|
| Minnesota | 60 | 68 |
| Oregon | 60 | 67 |
| Washington | 60 | 67 |
| Kentucky | 57 | 67 |

Cause of Appendicitis.

When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or large intestines become packed with refuse matter, that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known as appendicitis. METHODIST PREACHERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

55th Convention of National Association of Local Preachers of M. E. Church at Dover.

The Sixty-Fifth Annual Convention of the National Association of Local Preachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America will be held in Wesley, M. E. church, Dover, Delaware, September, the 27th to October the 1st inclusive. The Rev. W. Coloma, D. D., pastor of the church will provide free entertainment for all local preachers, state and female, whether members of the National Body or not, if word is sent to him before the 20th of September, informing him that the writer of the communication will be present and will want entertainment.

Among those who will address the Association at different times during the sessions are Bishop W. F. McDowell, Hon. John R. McSparran, a local preacher of the M. E. church, the Democratic nominee for governor of the State of Pennsylvania, and president of the Pennsylvania State Grange. In addition to these a great number of representative local preachers from all parts of the United States will have the platform at different sessions during the meetings.

Wednesday night, Sept. 27, representatives will fill all the Evangelical pulpits of Dover, and Sunday, Oct. 1, the pulpits of churches within a radius of 40 to 50 miles of Dover will be occupied by members of the National Association, including the Dover pulpits. Pastors of churches who want a supply for Sunday, Oct. 1, must communicate with Dr. Coloma, of Dover, or before Friday, Sept. 29.

A fleet of automobiles will take the group to Barrett's Chapel, leaving Dover at 2 P. M. Returning, arrive back in Dover 6 P. M. Saturday, Sept. 30, for a reception in Wesley M. E. church by the ladies of the many evangelical churches of Dover.

Programs can be had free by any one who will drop a card to the National Secretary, the Rev. D. H. Kenney, No. 3009 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, asking for one, whether they be local preachers or not.

There will be a very large class of members to join the body Thursday morning, Sept. 28, at ten o'clock, both male and female. Local preachers only are eligible to active membership, but in the "honorary" class, "life" class and "life patron" class any one may join. Information will be furnished any one who writes for it to the Secretary.

Bishop McDowell will have the pulpit at Barrett's Chapel Sunday, Oct. 1. At the meeting of the representatives at Barrett's Chapel Saturday afternoon, Sept. 30, the president of the association will deliver an historical address. In all probability, Hon. John R. McSparran will make a brief address following the president. All farmers especially in the Lower Peninsula are invited to be present and listen to the Pennsylvania Grange President, Saturday afternoon, at Barrett's Chapel.

The governor of the State of Delaware, the mayor of the city of Dover, the district superintendents of the Wilmington Annual Conference are expected to be present at some time during the sessions and make brief addresses.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

Inculcating Truth in The Child.

First! Be truthful yourself! Do not cherish the delusion that you can tell a child anything, and be believed. For you cannot! At first the child will believe, but after repeated misrepresentations, one will find that the thing told will be taken with a grain of salt. As an illustration: If you have promised the child a visit to the park on a certain day, and then feel too tired, after a hard morning's work, how are you going to make him understand? "Why, mother, you said you'd take me this afternoon," cried surprised Bobbie.

"Yes, I know," impatiently, "but you will have to amuse yourself at home today. I'm too tired to walk that far."

A very grieved and disappointed child is left to his own devices, with a prodigious problem to be worked out as to why his playtime hour has not been realized.

If a promise be made to a child, keep it. If, as sometimes happens, it is impossible to carry out that promise, explain carefully just why it cannot be fulfilled at that time.

Be truthful! To questions asked, I know there are legends answer truthfully, explain carefully, they may take time away from other duties, but one will be well repaid by the contented happy spirit born in the child when the information sought is gladly given.

Trust will be fostered, also, trust in the one who enlightens ignorance with knowledge; then will come trust in the world at large. The fountain head of knowledge for the children is centered in you who have the shaping of these young lives in your hands.

Let truthfulness be the basic test of your capability.

Brotherhood in The Kindergarten and The Home.

By Elsie Brierly. Very important to the future welfare of the world is it that the children of today be taught the principles of justice, love and brotherhood in their wisest and broadest sense. Where then shall the foundation for these be laid if not in the kindergarten, where children of all nations come, many from homes where such principles are unknown? Teach the child then that everything that has life in his brother, to be treated with kindness, love and justice.

The little girl who learns that her kitty needs her loving care, needs sleep, good food and careful handling, is learning lessons in Motherhood which she will never forget. The boy who learns that his rabbits, and other pets, share many of his own needs, and that he stands in place of a father to them, is being trained in parenthood, and when the child has learned that his animal pets have the same right to life and happiness that he himself has, it is not likely that he will treat his human companions unjustly in after life.

In the home should begin this teaching of which Brotherhood is the keynote. The wise mother will not teach her child cruelty however unintentionally, by giving him toy guns, swords and whips. Rather will she teach him compassion and thoughtful care of others, by training him to carry his Teddy bear carefully, to pat, not whip his hobby horse, to love his animal toys yet more when "maimed or halt, or blind" than when in their first glory. She will teach him that all animals are man's friends until he himself turns them into foes. She will explain to him that the dog which barks at him is merely saying "good morning" and he must answer with a kind word, that when it wags its tail it is laughing, and that it pants because it has no pores in its skin to let the heat out in perspiration.

Above all must she teach him to be brave as well as tender, that fear attacks evil, while love and courage repel it. Never must she make the least mistake of repeating in the child's hearing such remarks as "He was frightened when a baby by a dog or cat, or horse" as the case may be. This is to excite cowardice in him, and keep the child reminded of what he otherwise would soon forget. "Perfect love casteth out fear, because fear hath torment."

Thus are the days in both the home and kindergarten the most important of all in moulding the child's character, and indeed it is only in early childhood that such a foundation can be well and surely laid.

Hungry Children.

A mother was looking over a box of old photographs and her little boy, an interested watcher by her side. As one picture came into view the boy exclaimed, "Whenever I see a picture of Auntie Gertrude it makes me feel hungry." Afterwards he explained that it was because she brought him so many good things to eat.

The aunt referred to was a very busy woman, yet she always managed to find time to slip a gingerbread man, or a popcorn ball, or a surprise package into her bag for the children where she visited. Another child never forgot a basket trimmed with colored tissue paper, or a lunch-box baked cookies that her aunt brought to her after she had been sick.

Food plays an important part in a child's life and a mother may teach by it as well as by other things. All children love surprises, and little faces brighten on stormy days when a raisin cake baked in the oven, a little pan appears, or a lunch-box dished up in the playroom table with dainty sandwiches and fruit, and maybe a bit of candy or a few nuts.

Any little boy or girl likes to learn to cook when mother is cooking and though that is not an especially good time for mother is one way, yet in another way it is the best time, for children are happy when busy and learn quickly when interested. When mother makes bread, the little tot should have a ball of dough and a raisin or a bit of jam to make a biscuit. If the child has dishes big enough, and this is important, for there should be a small pan or a tin for there should be the cooking in—the work can be done exactly as mother does it and therefrom come the first lessons in cooking.

"I could turn those doughnuts," suggested a small boy to his grandmother, who was making the toothsome goodies. She started to turn them away as she was busy and a bit nervous, but thought better of it and showed the child just how carefully it must be done. Consequently he turned every single one in a most grown-up way and informed the family proudly that night, "Grandma and I made doughnuts today."

The ten-cent store has many a small tin and enamel pan that would make a start towards a little girl's cooking set, and would give her much pleasure and profit if she learned to take care of the pans and to cook simple things in them. The best way of all is to suggest to a child that a biscuit be made for daddy's supper, or a tiny cake as a surprise for a playmate. Thus the lessons in cooking and giving, planning and usefulness are learned together.

Competitors—Two little English girls were quarreling over the success of their fathers.

"My father can preach better than yours because he is a bishop," said the first.

The second little girl could not answer her back, but she suddenly recovered and said: "Well, anyhow, we've got a hen in our yard which lays an egg every day."

"That's nothing," said the bishop's daughter; "my father lays a cornerstone every week."—The Van Rantle Vanguard.

"KNOW YOUR WHEAT" IS AID TO FARMERS

Campaign Is Begun in West To Enable Farmers to Market Wisely By Knowing Their Products.

To enable farmers and local grain buyers to meet more satisfactorily the conditions under which wheat is handled and graded when it reaches the terminal market, the extension services of Minnesota, North Dakota, and South Dakota, cooperating with representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture, are conducting a "Know Your Own Wheat" campaign. During the first 10 days of the campaign, schools were held at Fargo, N. D., and Brookings, S. D., where specialists in handling and grading wheat gave instruction to county agents from the three States.

Following this preliminary work, local meetings of one or two days each are being held in wheat-producing counties where the county agents, assisted by the specialists assigned for the campaign, are demonstrating directly to farmers and local grain buyers the best methods of handling and grading wheat for shipment to terminal market. Grain-grading apparatus has been supplied to 10 counties in each of the three States, for use under the direction of the county agents and specialist conducting the work.

It is planned to have farmers and buyers attend the same meetings, so that both may have like information regarding methods of handling and grading. A representative of the department recently spent three weeks assisting in the campaigns.

Same Old Story But a Good One.

Mrs. Mahala Burns, Savanna, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened in almost every neighborhood in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: "I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for I know it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles."—Adv.

MUST THE COUNTIES BE DISINHERITED?

Is Baltimore city governing Maryland, and shall she continue?

Having about half of the population of the State and occupying a restricted area, Baltimore has been seeking and has been successfully grabbing most of the important governing offices while the twenty-three counties, with a great diversity of interests and an extensive territorial area, only have minority representation so far as important offices are concerned. The efforts of the city to dominate in this respect has been all the more successful since the rest of the state has not realized Baltimore's attempt to rule Maryland.

Here are the facts: There are four candidates for the United States Senate from Baltimore—William I. Norris, William Cabell Bruce, Joseph I. France and John W. Garrett.

There is one candidate for the United States Senate from the counties—David J. Lewis, of Allegany county.

When the books were closed the last-minute entry was picked by Baltimore politicians—William Cabell Bruce.

Baltimore now has the Governor, Treasurer, Secretary of State and actually both United States Senators.

These facts speak. It is obviously unfair that one city in a State shall rule a whole State. Since there are men in the counties of Maryland fully as capable as those in Baltimore, the counties of Maryland should have proportionate share in the State's rule. Representative government exists in this country, but does representative government exist in a state where one city has all the power of government?

The duty of the counties is to secure proper representation in their own government.

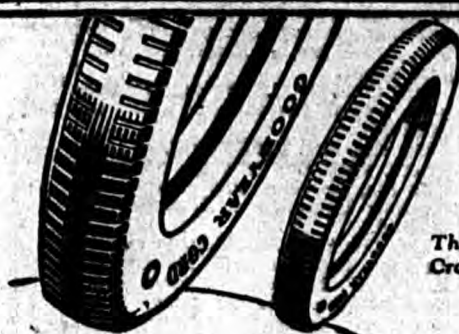

A situation now exists for their action. David J. Lewis is an unusually capable man, of tested legislative ability, of strong sympathies, open to suggestion and firm in his established purposes for the good of the individual, the State and the nation. He is the proper and logical man to represent the State in the United States Senate.

Support of Mr. Lewis will indicate that the counties are awakening to their danger and duty, and the counties MUST show that they do not intend to be disinherited by Baltimore City.

Isn't it time the rest of Maryland had a chance? The time and place to settle this question is at the primaries, Monday, September 11.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

A Real Cord Tire for Small Cars at a Popular Price

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord in the 30 x 3 1/2 inch clincher type is a tire that the small car owner will warmly welcome.

It gives him, at a price lower than the net price he is asked to pay for many "long discount" tires, every advantage of quality cord tire performance, for it is a quality tire through and through.

It is made of high-grade long-staple cotton; it embodies the reliable Goodyear quality of materials; its clean-cut tread engages the road like a cogwheel.

The scientific distribution of rubber in this tread—the wide center rib and the semi-flat contour—gives a thick, broad surface that is exceedingly slow to wear.

The tough tread stock in this tire is carried down the sidewalls clear to the bead, making it rut-proof to an extraordinary degree.

In every particular it is a representative Goodyear product, built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation. Despite its high quality, and the expertness of its construction, it sells at a price as low or lower than that of tires which lack its important features.

The 30 x 3 1/2 inch Cross-Rib Cord clincher $12.50

This price includes manufacturer's excise tax. Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord Tires are also made in 6, 7 and 8 inch sizes for trucks.

Protest Against Condition.

"We'll tear your desk figures to pieces," a committee of 50 prominent New York business men has written to Brig-Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, President Harding's personal physician and "chief coordinator" for the Federal Hospitalization Board. The statement is made in an invitation asking Gen. Sawyer to come to New York and see for himself the "wretched situation which exists in this district for the care of sick and wounded World War veterans."

The letter, sent by the State hospitalization committee of the American Legion, was in answer to Gen. Sawyer's reply to A. A. Sprague, chairman of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee, in which the President's physician claimed adequate hospital facilities for ex-service men in need of medical and surgical treatment.

The State Legion committee wrote Gen. Sawyer: "If you are unable to obtain through your channels a true report on the wretched situation in the Second District, we further ask that you spend 24 hours in New York in order to meet a committee of about 25 or 30 business men and men recognized as medical authorities to talk over the situation with them and the facts at hand. The rehabilitation committee will guarantee to tear your desk figures to pieces and conduct you to a place where you can see with your own eyes the true conditions, and perhaps you can have a report which is in harmony with the conditions existing."

The letter, signed by Col. E. Garrett Day, chairman of the hospitalization committee for the second district (includes New York, Connecticut and New Jersey), William E. Deegan, State Commander of the Legion, and Cornelius W. Wickersham of the New York hospitalization committee, states that one-third of New York's 2,800 tubercular veterans are in "contract boarding houses with little or no government supervision."

The New Jersey Legion answered Gen. Sawyer with a request that President Harding ask that a hospital for veterans suffering with tuberculosis be built in New Jersey at once. Four hundred veterans, the letter states, are in contract institutions.

Bonus Bill To Pass.
According to Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Soldiers' adjusted Compensation measure will pass the Senate in record time as soon as the Tariff bill is out of the way. The Indiana Senator backs this contention up with an opinion that once it is brought up the Adjusted Compensation bill will pass in four days.

Will Stage Meet.
To obtain necessary funds for its Veterans Mountain Camp the New York American Legion will stage the Empire State's largest track and field meet at Syracuse Sept. 22. An innovation in athletic meets is on now. The Legion has divided New York State into districts and is holding try-outs in all. The winners in the district meets will go to the finals at Syracuse, the winners there being awarded medals and the honor of being the State's best athletes.

First Man Killed.
Thirty hours before the declaration of hostilities which later plunged almost every civilized nation into war, Corp. Andre Peugeot of France was killed. He met death at Jochery, France, on Aug. 2, 1914, at the hands of a band of Uhlans. France has just dedicated a monument to Corp. Peugeot, the first man killed in the World War.

Collects War Relics.
Aside from the government's own the largest collection of war relics in the country will probably be owned by Henry H. Houston post of the American Legion, Philadelphia, Pa. The Philadelphia Legionnaires have started a collection which has already outgrown two huge rooms. Alterations in the club's quarters are being made to house additional trophies. These will include one of the captured German field pieces which the post will obtain from the government and place on the lawn of its clubhouse.

Fakes War Hero.
Following a "tip" given by American Legion men, the Department of Justice has picked up Arthur A. Starnes, 27, who was decorated with "medals" purporting to represent the French Medaille Militaire and Croix de Guerre and the Italian Iron Cross. Starnes, when spotted by the Legion and arrested by government officials, was dressed in the uniform of a colonel of the United States Army. Though arrested in Washington, D.

C. Starnes's home is said to be in Dallas, Tex.

Flag Used As Scarecrow.
Use of the American flag as a scarecrow in the corn field of a Hazleton, Pa., farmer brought down the wrath of the American Legion. The Legion protested and the scarecrow's attire was changed.

For Coal Distribution.
In resolutions being adopted by American Legion posts throughout the South, the posts' clubhouses and clubrooms are being offered to the various municipalities as headquarters for fuel administration bodies which will have charge of coal distribution during the coming winter.

Mrs. Chaplin To Stay.
Mrs. Hannah Chaplin, mother of Charles Chaplin, film star, will be allowed to remain in the United States by a special order of Secretary Davis of the Department of Labor. Mrs. Chaplin is mentally deranged from shell shock sustained during a war time air raid over London. Under the laws of the Immigration Department mentally irresponsible persons are allowed only a year in this country but following reports of California physicians that Mrs. Chaplin's condition is rapidly improving she was allowed to remain.

TUBERCULOSIS CONTROL IS TASK OF COMMUNITY

Local Authorities Must Organize Forces to Combat America's Most Dreaded Health Hazard.

In 1905, when the National Tuberculosis Association first began its work, there were less than a dozen tuberculosis associations in this country, and most of these were paper organizations. At the present time, besides the National Tuberculosis Association, there is a strong state association in every state and even in the outlying possessions of Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands; there is a strong local association in every large center of population, and there are even local associations in the less populous districts. These organizations number some 1,200 all told, and about one-half of them have either full-time or half-time executives.

The control of tuberculosis is distinctly a task for the city, the town and the county. State and even Federal aid may be necessary, but the ultimate control of the disease must be vested with the local authorities. The intimate connection between the tuberculosis campaign and any form of business men's organizations is evident, particularly when one realizes that tuberculosis is the most serious health hazard that American industry has to face and is costing business more money than any other single disease.

The functions of a local tuberculosis association include:—Bringing to the notice of communities all important new developments and turning over these developments to the community itself when the private agency has shown their worth.

2. Education.—Arousing community interest in the public health, as it has been so well put on other occasions, selling health to the individual and the community.

3. Organization.—Bringing together all of the agencies in the community in a combined movement against tuberculosis and for public health.

4. Legislation.—Securing necessary laws and ordinances for the control of the disease and the establishment of the proper official machinery to enforce the laws.

5. Stimulation.—The general supervision and standardization of all the activities, both official and non-official, with a view to seeing that every dollar spent for the public health produces one hundred cents' worth of value to those who contribute it, whether as taxpayers or in some other capacity.

Fifteen years ago there were less than 150 tuberculosis hospitals in the United States, with a total capacity of hardly 10,000 beds. Today there are 600 such institutions with a total capacity of 60,000 beds. Fifteen years ago one could count the number of tuberculosis dispensaries on the fingers of one hand. There were no tuberculosis or public health nurses. There were no open-air schools. There were no preventorium and, in fact, most of the community machinery for the control of tuberculosis was lacking. Today there are 600 tuberculosis clinics and dispensaries scattered throughout the country, to say nothing of scores of traveling clinics that are bringing the doctor to the people instead of waiting for the people to go to the doctor. There are 10,000 public health nurses, of whom a very considerable number are doing tuberculosis work in whole or in part. There are several thousand open-air schools and fresh-air classes. There are scores of preventoria for children.

The death rate from tuberculosis, which is the surest index of progress against the disease is declining.

TRAVELING MAN HAS STOMACH RECONSTRUCTED
Fainting Spells and Distress Relieved by Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules

"Last October," writes Walter Purman, traveling salesman of Richmond, Va., "when I was in Plattsburg I was bothered a lot with indigestion, dyspepsia, and a bloated feeling brought on by excess eating. Fainting spells would attack me suddenly, and I was in dire distress. In seeking relief I was advised to try JACQUES' LITTLE WONDER CAPSULES. This I did and before reaching the hotel that night for lodging I had decided relief. I felt so much better the following morning that I purchased an additional box, and found that one capsule following each meal immediately reconstructed my stomach and now feel remarkably well. My brother-in-law recently had an acute attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, that often troubled him, and within a few minutes after swallowing two of the capsules, he was relieved."

"If you are one of the suffering ones you can still save your stomach by using Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules. Just swallow one or two capsules and you will find prompt relief. The pure gelatin covering dissolves within one or two minutes after reaching the stomach, releasing the finely powdered medicines to do their effective work. One capsule aids in digesting 5,000 grains of food."

If you are bothered with indigestion, dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach, sour stomach, dizziness after eating, gas, biliousness or constipation try this valuable prescription.

Twelve days' treatment costs but 60 cents. Jacques' Little Wonder Capsules are sold under a strict guarantee of satisfactory results or money refunded.

On sale at Bennett's Pharmacy, Sharptown; or 60 cents by mail postpaid from Jacques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y. Adv. 425.

When the National Tuberculosis Association was organized, in June, 1904, the death rate for tuberculosis for the registration area of the United States was 200.4 per 100,000 population. In 1919, the last available figures for the registration area, the rate was 125 per 100,000 and there is abundant evidence to show that for 1920 the death rate was down at least to 120. For 1921, figures from every available source indicate that the rate is still going down.

In spite of this encouragement, there is yet a big task before us. There are approximately 1,000,000 active cases of tuberculosis in this country, according to best available estimates. The chambers of commerce and business men's organizations can unite on no movement that will produce bigger results for themselves and for the community than this movement for the prevention of tuberculosis.

There is safety in silence. The fish that keeps its mouth shut, doesn't get the hook.

SENATOR FRANCE, WHY DID YOU DO THIS?
(From Baltimore Sun, September 8, 1919.)
"RADICALS CHEER FRANCE"

"United States Senator Joseph Irwin France last night addressed a meeting at the Garden Theatre, staged by the Socialist Labor Party and drew from about 200 men and women who composed his audience warm cheers because of his advocacy of 'throwing open the prison doors for all sentenced for words they had the courage to utter,' and for denouncing this principle by espousing the cause of Eugene V. Debs and Victor G. Berger in their efforts to gain freedom."

"His audience welcomed the address. It was an audience warmly in sympathy with that group of radical Socialists of which the Socialistic Labor Party is composed, as was evidenced by the rapid sale of the various Socialistic Labor pamphlets offered in the audience. These included 'A Message to the American Workingman,' by Nicolai Lenin, the Bolshevik premier; 'The Russian Constitution,' which the salesmen announced as the 'I. W. W. Constitution in the making'; 'Soviet Russia,' a pamphlet which the salesmen announced, with the slogan, 'No Eats, No Work'; 'Violence and Solidarity,' and like radical literature."

COULD NOT TURN IN BED

Operation Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me. I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.' When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine."—Mrs. HENRIETTA MILLER, 137 Sprague St., Dayton, Ohio. THINKS GASOLINE TAX SOLVES ROAD UPKEEP

Mackall Believes Other States Will Adopt Levy in Near Future—
Heavy Machines Hit

That the proposed 2-cent tax on gasoline in Maryland will bring about reciprocity between this state and the District of Columbia and will go far toward solving the difficulties which have been perplexing officials with regard to motor vehicles in the two territories, is the opinion generally held by men in touch with the situation in Baltimore.

John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission, is an enthusiastic supporter of the idea. He believes that the question of the upkeep of State roads can be solved in this way. Mr. Mackall pointed out that 17 States have already adopted this plan, and said that he believed the other States will adopt it in the near future. The Maryland tax will become effective January 1st, 1935.

The one drawback to the plan at present, with only a few of the States adopting it, is that the motorist living in a State which has the tax but near the border line of a State which has no tax will be able to buy his gasoline across the line and escape the levy. Pennsylvania already has placed a tax on gasoline, however, so that one border line possibly for Maryland is thus removed.

It is explained that large motor trucks from other States which now use the Maryland roads without contributing to their upkeep will be caught by the proposed law. The fact is that these trucks, which do a great deal to destroy the roads will be more heavily taxed because they use much more gasoline than the average car. In addition, owners of these vehicles will have to pay an extra tax at the time of securing licenses.

The definite plan of operation in collecting the tax has not been worked out as yet, but it is thought that it will be a tax at the source—that is the tax will be collected from the carriers who bring the gasoline to the filling station.

FORECASTS OF WEATHER HELP ALFALFA GROWERS

Predictions of Low Temperatures by Bureau Enable Farmers To Make Cutting and Save Crop

Forecasts of weather conditions for alfalfa harvest are widely distributed in the West particularly in Oklahoma, where 2,000 or more growers receive forecasts through the local agents of the extension service of the United States Department of Agriculture. In Utah a rather limited but important frost-warning service for alfalfa-seed growers is in operation.

Seed is largely grown from the second crop, and if the season is late the harvest and fall frost periods come close together. As the seed crop increases in value at the rate of about $5 a day for each acre of seed when nearing maturity, the growers let the seed stand as long as possible. When temperatures low enough to cause damage are predicted by the Weather Bureau it is not unusual for the seed growers to run their cutting machines most of the night.

In one section of Utah during a recent harvest season fully 500 acres of seed were cut after receipt of the warnings, at an average saving of $20 to $30 an acre. Two of these growers reported that they saved at least $2,000 as a result of the weather information furnished by Uncle Sam concerning frost conditions.

ing the line for us for nearly three years while we might stay at home in safety, prosper and prepare. If I were arguing the question from a purely practical standpoint, I would say that the Allies are too poor to pay the debt so why not have the credit of being generous when we eventually must be, or that if the debt is paid at all, it must be paid in goods made by famished workers to the disruption of our own factories and industries, or I would point to the immense revival of trade that will follow our cancelling this debt and the era of good feeling that will inevitably follow, each of which will unbound to our everlasting benefit. I prefer simply to say that it is the big thing to do and I want my country always to do the big thing.

2. I would have the Legion declare again its belief in preparation for war either for defense or to maintain righteousness and justice in the world. I have no faith in the preaching of the pacifists that there must be no more war. It seems to me that this doctrine means that there is no cause worth fighting for, no right worth maintaining. Would not this doctrine make of us a nation of spineless, poltroons, without honor, courage or belief in anything? Far be it from me to advocate war except as a last resort. I can picture it in all its horrors—the partings in the cottages, the loneliness, the desolation of battle. But would I live with living without a belief in something? What will we come to if we preach that there is no right worth fighting for? As well tell me that I shall not kill to save my mother from attack as that there is no cause which justifies a war.

I want to see my country always ready and willing to fight for a just cause, for the oppressed in any land, to maintain American civilization, to spread it if needs be.

3. I would have the Legion declare in favor of law observance and law enforcement. Ex-service men have been trained to respect authority, to obey orders to the most minute detail, to find a kind of mental exaltation in obeying literally. I would have them show the same respect for the laws of the land, to look upon obedience as a virtue, as a fundamental. To ask for the repeal of a law in the constitutional way is the privilege of all American citizens; to connive at the evasion of any law, detrimental to the enforcement of all laws.

4. I have referred briefly above to the fate of the State Bonus law urged by the last Convention. It is my judgment that the Legion should not ask again for a state cash bonus. I was not personally in favor of the bonus request, but having been elected State Commander, I thought it my duty to use my best endeavors to carry out the Convention's mandate. Later I became converted to the idea because it seemed that the people ought to have the right to decide whether they wished to confer a token of appreciation upon their soldiers.

It appears however, that such a gift cannot be given spontaneously and gracefully, but only grudgingly and as a necessity, and the opinion of men who think as Brawner does, of whom there seem to be many. I doubt if our soldiers would appreciate a gift when the spirit of generous cheerful giver is absent. I would prefer that the Legion not ask the General Assembly to pass a second bonus bill. There is such a thing as being too proud to ask. In the meantime let us say to the state that we will cheerfully respond to the next emergency because, being soldiers, we could not do otherwise.

Probably even though the war is five years distant, none of our people would object to the State giving a simple medal to each man who fought. I recommend that the Legion ask the General Assembly to do this but that at the first sign of opposition from Mr. Browner the matter be dropped permanently and forever. Soldiers want no gifts that must be wrung from the giver.

There is pending before Congress an adjusted compensation bill which has received the practically unanimous endorsement of the Nationwide Legion. The theory of that law is fundamentally different from that of the State bonus law. It is, as its name implies, an effort to adjust in some fashion the difference between what the soldier received in a dangerous employment with what his brother received in civil life. As applied to the selected men the justice of this claim is apparent to all. The volunteer has no claim on that score, but of course, it would be more than unjust to compensate the one class and not the other. Their services were equally meritorious.

The great pity of it is that this absolutely just claim has become so stale. In the meantime most of the economic inequalities have been adjusted. The ship yard workers who received three hundred per month while his brothers received thirty has probably spent his money on silk shirts which have worn out. The soldier never received the money, but he has the compensation of having done a soldier's work. The one is poor without honor, the other is poor with honor.

I recommend that the Legion ask again Congress to pass this forthwith and that if they can't do it now, that our request be withdrawn.

6. I recommend that the General Assembly be asked to establish and maintain a hospital for Maryland soldiers. I would have it placed on the high bluffs above the Susquehanna there by Port Deposit where one may look straight down the Chesapeake Bay in to the heart of Maryland, where the air is pure and the view the finest in the land, a view that calls back ambition and strength. I would have it a hospital with no restriction, whatever, when a soldier who is sick or weary might knock and be admitted, without one single inch of red tape to bar his way, and there abide until he is strong and well again. I would have it a hospital where the doctors are soldiers who believe in soldiers and where the nurses are mothers, women with hands that are skilled and hearts that are kind. It seems to me fitting that the state should do this for its soldiers.

7. First and foremost, however, I would have the Legion resolve that its principal duty is the care of our disabled. Here is the ideal to sustain us. Here is clearly our foremost obligation.

I think Congress has passed a wonderfully benevolent law and that but for the opinion of today support unsparing attention to these, our comrades who are disabled. It shall be the Legion's duty to see that public opinion is always quickened in their behalf.

Benevolent as is the law, there are great and to me needless delays in securing the relief the people intend the disabled soldiers to have. Red tape seems to spring like weeds in fertile soil in every corner of the government undertakes. We have branches of the Veterans Bureau in Baltimore and in Hagerstown. But these branches are absolutely without authority to grant compensation. Is there anything impossible in giving these branches power so that when a soldier applies and presents his discharge he may be examined and forthwith granted his compensation? I can see no reason why it should not be done.

In 1867 Maryland had a pension law for the needy soldiers of the war of 1812. There was a Commissioner of Pensions for each county whose duty it was to examine and pass upon the claimants in his county. He could forthwith give them a draft upon the Treasury.

A simple reform of this kind seems to me to be the greatest need in Veterans Bureau with perhaps more examiners who have hearts or who perhaps have seen soldiers in battle. The four lower counties of the Eastern Shore are at present attached to the sub-district office of Norfolk.

They should be administered from Baltimore. We are a part of Maryland. The Baltimore branch is much more efficient than that at Norfolk. It is easier and cheaper for our soldiers to go to Baltimore than to Norfolk.

I have tried to place the aspirations of the Legion high. I would hitch its wagon to a star. In my mind the proposition is a simple one—nothing is too good for the soldier—and nothing that he will not do for his fellowman and for America. The country owes him much. He will insist on owing his country more.

I wish to say in closing that the work of the Department Adjutant, Mr. Truitt, has been of a high order. He has been loyal, intelligent and energetic. I shall lay down the duties of the office to which you have honored me with pleasant memories of those men in the Legion who have so faithfully aided me and regret that we have not done more. I believe, however, that the Legion in Maryland has its feet firmly planted on the road to a great success. The next Commander shall have all the support I am able to give him.

JUST GOT OVER A COLD?

Look out for kidney troubles and backache. Colds overtax the kidneys and often leave them weak. For weak kidneys—well, read what a Salisbury woman says:

Mrs. Gordon Hurley, 414 E. Isabelle Street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy I ever used for kidney complaint and I never miss an opportunity to recommend them. My kidneys were weak and if I overworked or took cold it settled on them, causing such severe backaches I could hardly keep going. Mornings, especially, I felt dull and languid and when I stooped or went up or down stairs I had blinding dizzy spells and almost toppled over. The action of my kidneys was irregular and my sight was affected. Doan's Kidney Pills from White & Leonard's Drug Store soon rid me of all this trouble. The backache left and I felt fine." NORTH POLE SLIDING. SOUTH IS NEW THEORY

United States Coast and Geodetic Survey Indicates Movement of Six Inches in Year.

Is the latitude of Salisbury changing? Is your home closer to the Pole than it once was?

These may appear to be foolish questions to the average man. He has no doubt grown to look upon the earth's "belt" and its axis as immovable lines even though they are imaginary. But an astronomer in London was quoted the other day as asserting that the distance between Naples, Italy, and the Equator has been shortened by a mile and a half during the past 51 years, and that Greenwich has apparently moved half a mile toward the tropic in less than two decades. The possibility of such changes in latitude is discussed in the following bulletin from the National Geographic Society:

There is no question that latitudes change, but there is a very large question whether the changes are of any considerable magnitude and whether they continue for any great length of time in the same direction. The variations that have been established are due to a slight wobbling of the earth like that of a top which is not spinning evenly around its axis. This irregularity does not change the direction of the axis itself, but does change the point on the earth's surface (the Pole-point) from which the axis emerges. By such changes most points on the earth would have their positions altered with reference to the Poles and to the equator, which is always 90 degrees from the Pole-point, and therefore follows it in any movement which it makes.

If the earth's simplest possible rotation had had a single wobble added to it, the Pole-point would trace a closed path; that is, it would return to the same position again and again after the completion of definite, equal periods. But there are at least two distinct and unequal wobbles known—one completed in a year, and one in about 14 months. Their combination causes the Pole-point to wander in a rather uneven way, tracing lines that are very roughly elliptical and which cross and recross each other. But these two known wobbles cause only a very slight variation from a steady rotation—the "wanderings" of the Pole-point because of them are believed to be always within a circle 60 feet across. The latitude of any city would be changed, therefore, because of these two recognized wobbles of the earth, at most only 30 feet north or south of its mean position.

There are other possibilities, however, in regard to change of latitude. One is that there are other yet unrecognized wobbles extending over longer periods which cause the Pole-point to wander in circles or ellipses that may be larger than the 60-foot circle. Another is that there may be forces in operation which shift the Pole-point steadily southward or northward along a certain line of longitude. Finally, latitude changes might be due to local movements, either a sliding of relatively small sections of the earth's crust, or to a recently postulated "floating" of the Continents.

Whether there is a progressive change of latitude has long interested astronomers. In 1900 the international latitude service was formed and a string of six stations was established, forming a band around the world, all within a few feet of the parallel of north latitude, 39 degrees 8 minutes. These stations were situated in Japan, Russia, Turkestan, Sardinia; Gaithersburg, Md.; Cincinnati, Ohio and Ukiah, Calif. Observations were made at all the stations for 14 years. The stations in Turkestan and at Gaithersburg were closed at the end of 1914, and the international latitude work was discontinued at the Cincinnati station at the end of 1915. The remaining three stations are continuing the observations.

The information assembled by the International Latitude Service has been interpreted in various ways. The changes in latitude observed were very small and it is recognized that the possibilities of error due to imperfect instruments, inaccuracies in star declinations and the human equation were many. One careful analysis by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, however, seems to indicate that the Pole-point is shifting progressively southward toward the Continent of North America. This would mean that in effect the cities of the United States are moving slowly to the north.

You need have little worry, though, over the likelihood that the North Pole will turn up some day in your back yard. Even though one becomes generous with assumptions and assumes that there is a southward movement of the Pole-point and that it will continue steadily its slowness makes the assumed shift almost negligible. The analysis referred to seems to indicate a southward drift of the pole amounting to a trifle over six inches a year. This would amount to less than one mile in 10,000 years. In 1,000,000 years the change would equal only 95 miles. At the rate assumed, in 1,000,000 years New York city would not be shifted as far north as the latitude of Boston today. Fresno would have reached a point only 23 miles north of the present position of San Francisco and Memphis would be shifted to about the present position of the south line of Kentucky.

The only difference between the difficult and the impossible is that the impossible takes a little more time.

Uncle Sam's Neptune Ace On Longest Flight.

When Lieut. Walter Hinton, U. S. Navy, flew the first seaplane across the Atlantic in 1919, he wrote his name in history. He is now on another assignment, in a Navy plane, flight from New York to Rio de Janeiro, which if completed will be a record trip of 8,400 miles.

HEALTH VALUE OF THE DANCE IS OVERLOOKED

From a Medical Point of View Proper Rhythmical Movement Is Regarded as Excellent Exercise.

The health value of dancing somehow has been overlooked. A civilized community is invariably too sedentary. When primitive man stalked and hunted and killed his dinner and primitive woman filled her day with agricultural pursuits in the intervals of arduous domestic labor, dancing was not in all probability a necessity. The human body had other means of activity and leisure was spent in some method more restful.

Not that dancing is a modern invention. Neanderthal man danced himself into the erect posture a million years ago, and ever since rhythmical movement has brought health as well as pleasure to mankind. Dr. Elizabeth Sloan Chester writes in the Glasgow Herald.

"A great deal can be said in favor of dancing as an exercise from the medical point of view. It does nearly everything the doctor tries—and usually fails—to do with drugs," Dr. Chester says. "It makes not only the skin but every organ in the body act briskly, function as the saying goes, more normally, more healthfully. Most of us suffer from stagnant livers, imperfect working digestive organs that accumulate poisons and cannot throw them off. Hence the anaemia and listlessness of the girls, the depression and irritability of the middle-aged and adipse."

"And you find the remedy and the prevention both in dancing. Anybody over 5 and under 90 years of age will benefit. It is excellent for stiff joints, and all the ills of the flesh grouped under 'rheumatism'. It is an easy cure for boredom and depression. The mere fact of learning something new is good for people, especially those who have reached the middle life and are in danger of 'settling down' in the wrong way."

"One of the best things about dancing nowadays is the way it brings people of all ages together. Boys of 18 dance, and enjoy dancing with their mothers—even with their grandmothers."

"Men of all ages recapture their youth in the activity of the fox trot, because the modern dancing requires no excessive strain of exertion."

"It is infinitely superior to any 'exercises' that can be devised from the health and medical point of view. So long as it does not interfere with the necessary sleep time, so long as the exercise is carried on in properly ventilated rooms, very little can be fairly urged against dancing. Any exercise or game of pleasure indulged in to excess is a mistake—that goes without saying; it is true of dancing as of everything else. Those who want to keep young and healthy, free from self-poisoning and self-pity, should try the medicinal effect of dancing."

VOTE FOR SISK FOR CONGRESS

As proof that the suggestions which Col. A. W. Sisk has made from time to time as to the best method of handling the liquor problem, is simple, practical, and will work out for a better and cleaner condition than the Volstead Law is giving us, we give below a statement from the "Social Information," a paper published in Stockholm, Sweden, dated June 26th, covering the situation in the three countries: Finland, total prohibition, Norway, partial prohibition, and Sweden under Government control of both manufacture and distribution.

In Finland there is total prohibition like ours. The capital city, Helsinki, has 188,922 inhabitants, number of arrests for intoxication for three years were as follows:

| 1919 | 1920 | 1921 |
|-------|--------|--------|
| 5,488 | 12,307 | 13,550 |

increase of 250%.

In Christiania, the capital of Norway, there is prohibition of hard liquors only—wine and beer being permitted—has 258,341 inhabitants, arrests for intoxication three years were as follows:

| 1919 | 1920 | 1921 |
|--------|--------|--------|
| 16,483 | 13,624 | 13,750 |

A decrease of nearly 20%.

In Stockholm, the capital of Sweden, where the Government has absolute control of all alcoholic liquors, the number of arrests for intoxication with a population of 419,788 were as follows:

| 1919 | 1920 | 1921 |
|--------|--------|-------|
| 11,115 | 10,120 | 6,848 |

A decrease of 38%.

The Swedish system modified to suit our conditions is the plan which Col. Sisk has been advocating for the past three months. It is the only plan that will cure the present distressing condition which like a cancer is eating out the moral vitals of our people. This business must be taken out of the hands of the criminal class, and controlled by the iron hand of the Federal Government.

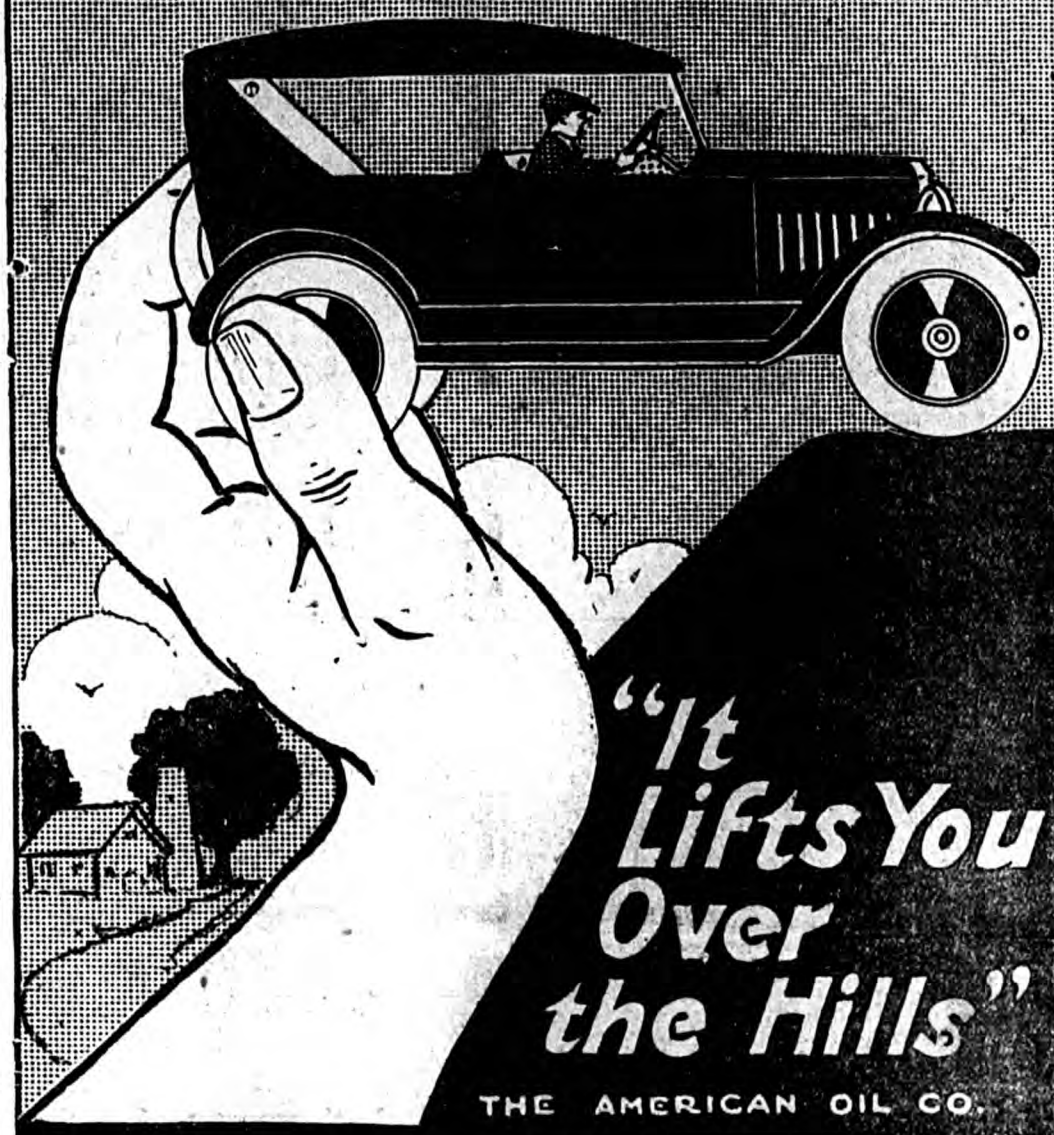

The provinces of Quebec and British Columbia also have Government control while Ontario has prohibition. British Columbia tried prohibition but for only a very short period, when it adopted the Quebec plan. Reports from there bear out our contention most emphatically that there is no control at all unless the Government does it.

Wm. Cabell Bruce, when announcing his candidacy last week, laid special emphasis upon the modification of the Volstead Law and Governmental control.
