Question of Roll-Call Voting Debated - SGA

Should a record of how each organization of the Student Government Association votes on any major issue concerning the student body be posted for all to see?

This was the topic of a fervent discussion in a recent SGA meeting when Barbara Bailey, president, suggested the roll-call system as a means of obtaining more student interest toward vital issues which come before the SGA.

As presented, the plan would include the selection of two recording secretaries, one each semester, whose duties would include the recording of votes, and seeing that the results, along with the roll-call vote, be posted on the student bulletin boards.

Opposition arose when members said that the publishing of how they voted on issues would put them in jeopardy. Since no majority was reached when a vote was taken, a motion was made by Bob Hall, president of the Men's Dormitory Association, that each of the organizations in the council meet to discuss the issue.

Gala Hallowe'en Party Is Planned by FTA

As has been a tradition for the past few years, the F.T.A., headed this year by Roberta Burns, has made plans for a Hallowe'en party and dance. It will begin at 8:00 in the snack bar on Saturday night, October 29.

The decoration committee, with Ward Taylor as chairman, is planning a "spooky" atmosphere with fodder and pumpkins as the basic materials. There will be a contest held and prizes given for the most striking costumes. Therefore everyone should come in costume if possible. Besides the contest there will be dancing and planned entertainment throughout the evening. Money for the juke box will be furnished and refreshments will be served.

There will be an admission fee of 25 cents per person to help cover the cost of the party. In past years a good representation of college students has attended the Hallowe'en party and had an evening of fun. The 1955 event is expected to uphold this tradition.

New Library to Feature Listening Booths, Previewing Rooms, and Typing Facilities

"Our new library will provide facilities for great expansion at S.T.C.," states Mrs. Grace S. Chaires, librarian. Plans for the new building, drawn up by Malone and Williams, Salisbury architects, have been approved by the State Board of Education and the Department of Public Improvements. Specifications will be drawn up by the architects, and bids will be asked for by the Department of Public Improvement. The building will be located between the Men's Dormitory and the Administration Building.

The plans call for a two-story building with a basement. On the main floor will be three units, with the large general reading rooms accessible to the stacks of major importance. The next unit will be the periodical and browsing rooms, where special emphasis will be placed on magazines. Besides these two units, there will be work rooms for the library staff, including a librarian's office. This main floor will have three entrances, but only one will be used regularly.

On the second floor will be several auxiliary rooms and rooms for special purposes. As on the first floor, there will be the large reading room with stacks. Children's books and a curriculum laboratory will be an important feature in the new library. A previewing room for previewing films, slides, and other audiovisual equipment will have folding doors, so that two conferences may be provided for at one time. Mainly for exhibits will be an art and treasure room. The music library room will be complete with two large listening booths. For the use of both faculty and students, a typing room has been included in the plans. There will be a lounge for the library staff on this floor, too.

Dr. and Mrs. Devilbiss Honored at Reception

To introduce to the city of Salisbury STC's new president and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Devilbiss, the faculty gave a reception in their honor on Friday, October 7. Guests, who were some of Salisbury's leading citizens, were received by Dr. and Mrs. Howard E. Bosley, the official college hosts; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Frampton, representing the State Board of Education, of which Mr. Frampton is vice-president; and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Boston, from the State Department of Education. Later they were served refreshments consisting of fruit punch, poured by Dr. Matthews, Dr. Thomas, and Miss Purnell, tea sandwiches and cakes, nuts, and mints. The reception drew to a close after Dr. and Mrs. Devilbiss and the faculty had greeted their guests.

Ranch House Made Into Music Department

Attention STC! Do you know that the music department of this college is moving? The new location will be in the former Administration Building, better known as the "Ranch House."

Two primary reasons for moving the music department are (1) to provide the much needed space for expanding activities, and (2) to provide a more aesthetic atmosphere for music.

With one exception the entire music curriculum will be conducted in this building. The exception is the practicing of the College Chorus. Due to the size of this group, it will continue to practice in the college auditorium.

The various rooms of the Ranch House will be furnished and used as follows: The kitchen will be used as a workroom and a reference library. It will be furnished in keeping with its purpose. Storage space for instruments, records, books, music and other equipment will be found in the closets. The former north bedroom will be the office of Dr. Jesse Fleming, the director of the music department. The two south bedrooms will serve as practice rooms when the pianos arrive, and as work rooms for small group work within classes.

Such classes as Music Literature, Music History, and classes of recorded music will be held in the living room. Also located in this room will be the high fidelity phonograph equipment and the piano from the present music room. Night classes of Music History will be made more interesting and comfortable here, since the fireplace will be used to create a more cheerful atmosphere.

The classes for Music Fundamentals, Creative Music, and Methods of Teaching Music in the Elementary School will be held in the former garage and business office. A piano will be in here, also. This room is ready for use now, except for the placing of blackboards.

Former Graduates Will Honor New President And His Wife, Dr. and Mrs. Devilbiss at Tea

On November 5, the State Teachers College will be the scene of the 20th annual Homecoming for alumni. The program of events planned for the day include a soccer game, an afternoon tea honoring Dr. and Mrs. Devilbiss, a business meeting, and a dinner. The day will be climaxed by a Homecoming Dance held in the Wicomico Hotel Ballroom in the evening.

The soccer game, featuring the Varsity Team vs. the Alumni Team, has been scheduled at 2:30 P. M. The Varsity Team will be captained by Bob Hall, with John Shaheen, Tom Comer, Charlie Muir, Dave Wheaton, Bill Curtis, Bill Brown, Nelson Lynch, Phil Slacum, J. D. LeMaster, and Joe Steelman constituting the team. The Alumni Team members include Marshall Moore, Nolan Owens, Joseph Udovich, Clark Cugler, Bill Dykes, Tom Sterling, Walter Potter, Ralph Kirby, Oris Horney, Ralph Nichols, Bob Travers, Elmo Powell, Jack Nichols, and Dickson Shahan.

From 2:00 until 4:00 P. M., a tea will be held in the social room honoring our new president and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Devilbiss. Responsible for arranging the tea is Miss Ruth Powell, former dietician and social director, who served in her capacity for over 20 years and endeared herself in the hearts and minds of all who knew her. Mrs. Samuel Sherwell, wife of the President of the Alumni Association, will pour.

The Alumni business meeting will be held at 5:00 P. M. in the Conference Room. On the business agenda for the day is the revision of the Alumni Constitution and By-laws, and the report of the Nominating Committee.

A dinner for the Alumni will be held in the Campus dining hall, and guests of honor will include Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur Devilbiss and Miss Ruth Powell. A menu for the dinner has been planned, to include roast turkey, dressing, gravy, candied sweet potatoes, broccoli, cranberry sauce, relish, hot rolls, coffee, and pumpkin pie.

To complete a day of renewing old acquaintances and reminiscing of past wonderful experiences will be a Homecoming Dance, held in the Wicomico Hotel Ballroom for all STC students and Alumni.

It is interesting to note that an office for the alumni has been provided in the wing of the building formerly the campus elementary school. This office will be open during homecoming, as will the dormitories, for inspection.

The annual homecoming is one of two meetings held yearly by the Alumni. The second meeting is held in the spring, at which time the officers for the coming year are installed. The officers for the 1955-56 year are: President, Mr. Samuel Sherwell; vice-president, Mr. Joseph Udovich; secretary, Mrs. Floyd Cooper, and treasurer, Mrs. Milton Whaylen.

This year the Homecoming was changed from the week before the annual Maryland Teachers Meeting to the second week following the Teachers Meeting, in order that more Alumni could be present. A record turn-out is expected this year.

Evergreen Staff Plans Summer Supplement

The 1956 Evergreen is to be bigger and better than ever before, having 240 pages; an increase of about 74 pages over the '55 edition. Much of this extra space will feature more pictures, with a full page being devoted to each senior. It is also hoped by the staff that the number of pictorial advertisements can be increased. The first 15 pages are to be in color, utilizing a dark green theme.

Much work has already been done by the staff, headed by Carolyn Bundick, in order to get the book out by the second week in May. A summer supplement of spring activities is being planned.

Assembly Program Problem Probed Here

At the beginning of this semester, a Student Life Committee, appointed by Dr. Devilbiss, took into consideration plans for assembly programs for this school year. The plans for the new programs are being considered, and there is one thought which lies behind discussion. That is: "To give STC the best cultural entertainment that is possible."

The co-chairmen of the Student Life Committee have found that there is a divided opinion among faculty and students. One of the questions which presents itself is this: "Should there or should there not be compulsory attendance at assemblies?" Another question which must be considered important is: "What is the best use of the money given by the State for cultural activities at STC?"

There will be a program formulated definitely in the near future. In fact, two have been planned already. On December 8, Dr. William Vitarelli will give a lecture on the topic "Paradise in Palau." This lecture will be illustrated by a color film. On the 10th of February a piano recital will be given by Theodore Ullman. John Shaheen, who is the student chairman, will introduce the two programs. Therefore, regardless (Continued on Page 4)

AS THE EDITORS SEE IT

STC is a college. We are college students, old enough to act as mature individuals should. Since this is a place where more than 300 people are living together, we must have rules to guide us. These rules are, however, subject to change, and it is up to us to decide what kind of rules we will have. Our new president believes in our living as nearly a normal life as is possible. While in college we must earn privileges by respecting others, their property, and their rights. If we cannot live as mature individuals, our privileges should be taken away from us. That is the only fair way.

What can we as individuals do? We can show our maturity in our conduct. Then, if we decide that a rule is unfair and needs to be changed, we may bring it to the attention of our Student Government rather than break it. This business of living maturely is everyone's concern. Why don't we all do something about it?

New Curriculum to Give 28 Semester Hours in Electives

For two years the faculties of the state teachers colleges of Maryland have been at work developing a new teacher education curriculum. Several workshops have been held, many state committees have been at work, and at each college scores of faculty and committee meetings have been held to make decisions on the many problems which arose as plans for revision developed.

Two major goals which dominated the efforts of the colleges were (1) the hope that a curriculum plan could be developed which would allow students to choose a field of major interest and elect more courses in the field of interest than had been possible under the old program, and (2) the desire to provide additional elective opportunities which would help in developing a broader background of knowledge in several fields which the student and his counselor might select.

To meet the first objective, an area of concentration may now be chosen by the student, which will allow him to elect a maximum of 14 hours in a subject field in addition to the courses which may be required in that field. An additional 14 hours of electives may be spread over several fields. Twenty-eight semester hours of elective courses are provided in the new curriculum.

Total requirements in the different fields are as follows:

NANCY LAWS

Nancy Laws Reigns at Harvest Dance Here

Falling leaves and autumn colors always brings to mind harvest, so it was fitting that the Sophomore Class called their dance the Harvest Ball. The dance which was held to honor Nancy Laws, the queen, took place in the gymnasium on October 14. The theme of the dance was harvest time showing a harvest field with that "old man moon" looking over the Monole Orchestra. Wine and yellow colors were used throughout, with harvest leaves and candles on the tables. Apple cider and cookies were served during the intermission. The Harvest Court consisted of Ardis Hoener and Cecil Bradshaw, sophomores; Jean Fitzgerald, junior; and Sue Nock and Mozelle Pardew, seniors.

The scene was the snack bar; the time was nine; and the mood baffles description. There it was Wednesday and I was still feeling Mondayish, although Tuesday's coffee did help me to discern the characters and hear what they were saying.

Now all plots must have a villain and this one is no exception. However, this villain will remain anonymous for two reasons: one, he really isn't mean, but rather callow . . . and two, there is a thread of this villainy in all of us. As the curtain of smoke spreads, the villain speaks:

"So what's happening around here? What's the action? They give us student government and we don't even know what our representatives are voting on. Who knows, maybe it's a fix."

Enter middleman. This character is clever . . . he's a yes man who always says, "Maybe." He speaks: "You might be right, after all. Deception is a tool and all governments believe that all tools should be employed."

At that particular moment a rather erudite-looking fellow with tie and socks that didn't match said, "I know what's going on in SGA. There is a bill of two thousand dollars that must be paid for last year's year book."

"More coffee anybody?"

"No thanks, just bring me a stomach pump."

"That's another thing, I'd be glad to pay a dime for coffee, but I hate to pay seven cents for phoney antiques."

"Gentlemen, gentlemen, please," said the erudite-looking chap with the tie and the socks that still didn't match, "Alexander Pope said, 'In search of wit they lose their senses.' Forget your bellies and consider your sovereigns. Weigh your logic, not your taste buds." How erudite can a man be?

Then a voice that should belong to Jack Webb said, "Let's look at the facts. You don't know what's going on in SGA and YOU do. Does this mean there is a leak or does it mean that any mind is granted any information if it can comprehend said information?"

"Exactly," said the scholar with the tie and socks that didn't match. Dissecting the villain magnificently he said, "The fact is that you feel the SGA owes you their proceedings."

"That's right," said the villain leaning forward.

"You want democracy."

"That's right," said the villain leaning farther forward.

"You want them to tell you everything so you can feel patriotic."

"That's right," said the villain leaning still farther forward.

"But the fact is that you aren't being patriotic because your shining light of patriotism is being eclipsed by your stupid chauvinism."

The villain did not repeat himself, but said, "Speak English then I'll dig."

A character who just woke up decided to translate for the hero whose tie and socks didn't match: "You're spoiled. The state is spending over four thousand dollars on your education and it has

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

John West to Head Freshman Class Here

On September 30, 1955, the Freshman Class gathered together to elect from its members officers for the 1955-56 school year. Taking into consideration the qualifications desirable for good leadership and assuming responsibility, they chose as president John West; vice-president, Francis Nelson; secretary, Connie Mears; treasurer, Rosalee Lynch, and Social Committee Chairman, John Weise.

Johnny West, whose full name reads John William West, is among the alumni of Bel Air High School of Bel Air, Md. Valuable experiences both as a team member and group leader qualify him for president of his class.

He was treasurer of his senior class, captain of the track team for two years, and a member of the football, soccer, basketball, and cross-country track teams. During his high school years, he was also an exchange student from Bel Air to Montgomery, a Hi-Y member, and a member of the Glee Club. Johnny's plans on the college level center around junior high school education and more specifically, in physical education.

spoiled you to the extent that you feel this school owes you a student government. Look, man, this is a privilege, not a right. Take SGA away for three months and you'll crawl."

"Right," said the fellow to my right as he loosened his tie and pulled up his socks. "The student government will grant you all the information you seek AS A TRUE SUPPORTER, but they have no intention of bombarding you with their activities as if they were commercials. This maintains their prestige. What you're asking them to do is to be overly-democratic and that's the very thing Plato warned us about."

"Expound!" I begged with my eyes larger than they were when I was five years old on Christmas morning.

Drawing himself to full-seated stature and directing his dictum toward the hapless head of the villain, the rebel of fashion spoke: "Plato said, 'If democracy becomes too free, in politics and economics, in morals, even in literature and art, then even the puppy-dogs in our homes will rise on their hind legs and demand their rights.'"

I applauded mentally. He continued, "You don't even have to go to your representatives to find out what's happening. All you have to do is ask any intelligent, mature, and conscientious student what's going on and he'll tell you."

Ladies and gentlemen, if someday I notice that my tie and socks don't match, it won't bother me at all.

Gulls Are Downed 2-1 But Are Moral Victors

In 80 minutes of thrilling soccer, Coach Royal's booters from the University of Maryland tallied twice in the third quarter to break a nothing-nothing halftime deadlock and defeat the STC Gulls 2-1.

As the grueling battle of booters goes under way, Maryland appeared to dominate the play, taking many shots which were quickly saved and returned by the brilliant playing of John Shaheen. From the very beginning, Maryland was out to prove that they deserve the rating of one of the top collegiate soccer teams in the country. Many times in scoring position, Maryland was stopped by center halfback, Bob Hall, who seemed to come out of nowhere and defend for the Maroon and Gold.

The second quarter was a back and forth game with STC threatening time after time. Tom Comer and Charlie Muir, star fullbacks, were on hand to stifle any attempts made by Maryland.

The third and most thrilling quarter saw both teams break quickly and battle for possession of the ball. The Maggamen showed real spirit and skill, but the Maryland Red and White overpowered and tallied off the foot of left inside McDonald after four minutes of play. The now desperate STC team, seizing the ball at the kick-off, passed and dribbled themselves to a score exactly one minute later, thanks to the passing ability of Phil Slacum and Joe Steelman. The goal was scored by Bill Brown, making the score 1-1. Sparked with hope, the Gulls fought desperately to better their score. After approximately five minutes, McDonald of Maryland hit again, putting them ahead 2-1.

The fourth quarter saw STC playing an offensive game under the guidance of Acting Captain Bob Hall; but with no breaks coming, they were on the short end of a 2-1 score when the final whistle blew.

A few weeks ago a short, stocky old man took the "longest walk" down a long aisle and went into a small enclosure to take on a bull single-handed. All this sounds like nonsense until you realize that it was the Marciano-Moore fight about which you are talking.

How in the world Moore ever managed to stay in the ring with Rocky for even nine rounds is amazing. I'm sure many of you saw the fight pictures and were amazed at the stamina of Moore. Marciano never stopped punching and he never stopped hitting Moore until the ninth round. Moore sure picked a way to make a measly $200,000.

One thing we are glad of though, is that the series is finally over. Things can return to normal and everyone can continue his search for higher learning. This was another of those nerve-racking years where it just took one break to win the ball game, and if no breaks popped up, then you went out and made your own. At least that's the way Jackie Robinson played it.

SERIES NOTES: Bunk Truitt and his portable were inseparable. Sandy Jones went in mourning for two days over the defeat of the Yanks . . . Still wondering what a "soft" curve and a "let-up fast" ball are . . .

While we are on the subject of baseball, some of the old favorites are making news again. Eddie Stankey has signed a Giants contract to manage one of their farm teams. Look for him to move up to the parent club in the next couple of years. The Giants' old manager, quiet, gentle Leo, took a job with NBC television for a reported five number salary. Just goes to prove that old managers never die . . . they just advertise for razor companies. (Saw more guys shaving during the series than we did ball playing!)

MANAGER OF THE YEAR. Paul Richards for bringing the hopeless Orioles to seventh place. Anybody who could get that ball club anywhere, except by bus, deserves a pat on the back. That was one of the most exciting races of the year . . . The one between Baltimore and the Nats for the cellar. Maybe they should have a World Series for the cellar-dwelling clubs. I can see it all now! Baltimore and Washington in one league and Pittsburgh and St. Louis in the other, all trying desperately to lose the most games.

Out in the Pacific Coast League, Big Steve Bilko, a favorite around these parts, has finally hit his stride. The big Pennsylvanian led the league in homers, hit three hundred and won the most valuable player award. This excellent record enabled Steve to sign a new contract that keeps him from being drafted into the majors. I guess he feels more secure on the coast after failing to make it in two or three tries with the Cardinals and once with the Cubs.

A little while ago I was talking with Hal Contini, Bilko's manager in 1946. Contini said that Stankey, then Cardinal manager, liked Bilko's power and attitude and he would play a lot of ball as long as Stankey was manager and Bilko hustled. However, Bilko's powers used up mostly in hitting long drives deep to left center field and most of his tremendous blasts are just long outs. There was a time though a year or two ago that he walloped the longest home run ever hit in a Texas League ball park. It traveled well over 440 feet and cleared a 40-foot scoreboard in the process. Man, that's really smacking them in anybody's league!

One last item before we put away the ole hunt and peck system for another week. Out in Colorado last week, a big, husky football player wearing a large red and white jersey walked out of the stadium without even being noticed. Coaches and players just shrugged it off with a calm of future plans, these two assemblies will be given, and attendance at them will be important.

OUR 51st YEAR . . . A START FOR THE FUTURE

All things considered, the assembly program for the 1955-56 academic year should prove most enjoyable and profitable for everyone at STC.

New Styles on Campus Feature Trim Fashions

Brown and black watch plaids, gay Italian stripes, soft autumn shades, and that boyish-feminine look constitute this year's typical college wardrobe. No extreme changes, such as Dior's "New Look," have been created by fashion designers for the winter of '55-'56. The accent on comfort is very obvious by the straight, plain, but neatly styled lines of the latest fashions. Designers have concentrated their clever, dressy designs on the prints of the materials, rather than the lines of the clothes.

The most popular material design this fall is the very "cool" black or brown watch plaid. All fall clothing is appearing in this design, both for the gals and the fellows.

A must for every girl's wardrobe is the brilliant Italian striped shirt. Worn well with skirts and especially with the chic, black tapered slacks, these shirts, straight from the streets of Rome, are stunningly attractive.

Seems as if boys' and girls' styles are becoming more and more similar every year. A novelty common to both this year are the ivy league styles. The well-liked buttoned collar shirts, now with the added ivy league touch, the button in the back of the collar and the back pleat, have become a favorite of both sexes. Another feature inspired by the fashionable New England colleges is the ivy league belt on both boys' flannels and khakis. This added touch to normally plain attire has also crept into the gals' wardrobe and can be seen adorning the backs of skirts and bermudas.

Jumpers, a carry-over from last season, are again rated high on the girls' fashion lists. The trim torso fit and wide, swirling skirt are both equally popular.

Several stunning colors seen a great deal this fashionable fall are the vivid periwinkle blue, the fresh, smooth evergreen, and the warm, soft shade so appropriately called pumpkin.

These are only a few of the exciting fall innovations worn by America's college coeds. No longer are the youth of America characterized by sloppy sweaters and dungarees, but rather by trim styles and lovely color combinations.

the heating equipment and the janitor's supplies. In addition to this, there will be three storage rooms, a vault, and rest rooms. Some library supplies will also be stored in the basement.

In the new library there will be special accoustical arrangements, so as to provide as quiet an atmosphere as possible. Mrs. Chaires hopes to put the major portion of books on the first floor, leaving the second floor for expansion. "There will be an increase in the library staff to take care of the anticipated increase in circulation and attendance," Mrs. Chaires stated.

Shirley Young is teaching the first grade at Cockeysville; Irving Custis and Werner Rebstock, eighth grade mathematics at Suitland; Bunky Brittingham, Essex. The last-named has also enrolled as a night student in law school.

A few of last year's seniors haven't begun their teaching career, as yet. Bobby Denston and Ralph Dryden are both in the Marines. Al Younger is also entering the Marines in January. He is now working at the Purina Plant in Delmar.
