

THE COURIER.

Vol. XII, No. 7.

Salisbury, Maryland, Saturday, May 7, 1910

$1.00 per Annum

The Latest Styles

Ladies'

Oxfords, Sailor Ties
Ankle Strap Pumps
The "Wishbone Pumps"
(The Latest)

Young Mens'

Oxfords, One and Two
Eyelet Sailor Ties
The "Kandy Kid"
(The Latest)

Make up your mind when you find the "Big Shoe" that you are at "The Right Place" for the season's latest styles.

E. Homer White
Shoe Company

225 Main St. Salisbury, Md.

TO CLEAR YOUR COMPLEXION USE

Sulphur and Cream of Tartar Tablets

Effective, Economical and Pleasant to Take

10c

White & Leonard

DRUG STORES

Cor. Main and St. Peters Sts.
East Church St.

It Always Pays To Feature The Best

El-Mardo

5c. CIGAR produces the best results wherever they are on sale.

The growth of El-Mardo Cigars proves their superiority both as to quality and workmanship.

WATSON'S SMOKE HOUSE
PAUL E. WATSON, PROPRIETOR
SALISBURY, MARYLAND

Confections Have Social Standing

as well as the people that buy them. There is one particular kind that goes into the most exclusive circles and is regarded as the candy of quality.

Belle Mead
Sweets

Chocolates and Bon Bons

in their beautiful gold seal box. Are recognized everywhere as a synonym for class —tone—exclusiveness.
Made in the "cleanest candy kitchen in the world."

No purer, more delicious, more reliable candy has ever been made.

SOLD BY WILKINS & CO.,
SOLE AGENTS

HAVEN'T YOU BEEN EXPECTING?

TO START A BANK ACCOUNT? Been trying to save an amount sufficient to "make a good start"? The "small purchase temptation" makes it very hard to accumulate any certain sum by keeping money in your pocket or hiding it around the house when probably it will be stolen from you.

This bank accepts deposits for $1.00 and up—why not come in and open an account with us NOW—let the bank help you save—its the only safe way.

The Salisbury National Bank
UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY
SURPLUS $50,000 CAPITAL $50,000
OLDEST BANK IN WICOMICO COUNTY

W. P. JACKSON, President
JOHN H. WHITE, Cashier

JAY WILLIAMS, Vice-President
W. S. GORDY, JR., Asst. Cashier

INDEPENDENT CITIZENS REVOLT AT DEMOCRATIC BOSS RULE

ELECTION WAS QUIETLY
BUT BITTERLY FOUGHT.

Unusual Scene Around Polling House
Tuesday And Over 1100 Votes
Were Registered—Great Anxiety Exhibited.

The election Tuesday had some distinctly remarkable features. Both of the candidates for the office of Mayor are recognized as splendid men for the place. It is said that the result hinged on the fact that the Democratic nominee, Mr. B. Frank Kennerly, was officially and financially connected with a number of Salisbury's biggest corporations—and it was for this reason that he met with defeat. There has been a feeling of unrest in the ranks of the Democratic party since it first became known that he was to be the nominee and it was the agitation of this feeling that brought about the nomination of a citizens' ticket. Realizing that his connection with these corporations was against him, Mr. Kennerly, at the last moment, flooded the city with circular letters in which he stated that, if elected, he would immediately resign his office as director in the companies with which he is interested.

The people were evidently determined to establish a precedent however, and the election of Mr. Bounds shows that in the future candidates representing public service corporations need not expect to be elected by the people of Salisbury.

All during the day there was no evidence of whiskey, a noticeable feature during an election in this county. There was nothing boisterous and although the election was conducted vigorously it was done in a peaceful and good natured manner. All kinds of conveyances were used by both parties to bring the voters to the polls and the number of votes cast shows no one was overlooked. The different factories allowed the employees to go to the polls in groups of six or eight and the automobiles, wagons and buggies were used for the purpose of carrying the ballots to the polls.

Owing to the fact that a large number of the ballots were cut it was not until a late hour that the accurate returns were announced. From the time that the polls closed it was known that Mr. Bounds was running ahead and the official announcement was anxiously awaited.

It was not a political battle in any sense of the word as both tickets were composed of well known Democrats. The only question involved was whether or not public service corporations shall have any say in the proceedings of the municipal government.

Sketch Of Mr. Bounds.

Mayor-elect William F. Bounds was born January 8th, 1858 within sight of Princess Anne. He is a son of John S. Bounds and Laura Lankford. He attended school in Princess Anne, and early in life learned the trade of brick mason under his uncle the late George Lankford. He came to Salisbury after the big fire of 1886 and with the late Albert W. Lankford, helped to rebuild Salisbury. He has lived here continuously ever since and has been associated with Mr. Thomas M. Slemons in the contracting and building business. He has been elected to the City Council three times, serving out two terms and resigning before the end of his third term. Mr. Bounds is married and has three children, his wife being a daughter of the late Zedekiah Truitt, one of the staunchest Democrats of Worcester County. He resides in his comfortable home on William Street. Mr. Bounds is a man of excellent judgment, a mechanic who has made a success of his business. He is a stockholder in several of the financial institutions of the city as well as one of the public service corporations—the Home Gas Company. Mr. Bounds will make a most excellent Mayor if he is not molested in his policies. He has the confidence of the citizens of Salisbury irrespective of party. He was the recipient of hearty congratulations Wednesday morning on his victory. Among the first to congratulate him was the defeated candidate for Mayor, Mr. B. Frank Kennerly, who wished him a successful administration.

What Tuesday's Election Means In Municipal Affairs.

That a precedent has been established.

That bossism and ring politics will not be tolerated.

That citizens of Salisbury will not be governed by a "select few."

That corporations cannot expect to elect candidates to city offices.

That public opinion is stronger even than the Democratic organization.

That for two years, at least, Salisbury's city government will be free and untrammelled and that the Mayor will be MAYOR.

That elections CAN be conducted in this city quietly, peaceably, and without the slightest evidence of whiskey or the buying of votes.

That the Salisbury Realty Company and all other public service corporations cannot expect something for nothing at the hands of the City officials.

SALISBURY'S TRESPASERS TO PLAY FOR CHARITY.

"The King's Carnival" To Be Produced By Local Players Under Auspices Of King's Daughters
Wednesday and Thursday.

The production of the "King's Carnival," which is to be produced next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the Opera House, promises to be one of the best entertainments ever produced by local talent in this city. More than one hundred of Salisbury's best amateur players will participate. There will be numerous fancy drills by the children and from curtain to curtain there will be catchy choruses, fancy dances and elaborate costumes. Tickets for these performances are now on sale and can be exchanged for reserved seats at Toulson's drug store. The performances will be given under the auspices of the King's Daughters and as the cause is a most worthy one there is no doubt that the opera house will be well filled each night.

The piece is under the direction of Miss Elizabeth McCloskey and her brother, Mr. Robert McCloskey, of Pennsylvania. They have given the production with great success in many cities and as Salisbury can boast of some exceptionally clever talent its success here is assured.

Presented With Silver Service.

The Board of Directors of the Wicomico Fair Association have presented Mr. and Mrs. Southy King White with a handsome silver service, in recognition of Mr. White's services to the association as Secretary, which were given gratuitously. When the Board tried to fix the salary of Mr. White as Secretary he flatly refused to accept any pay for his services. Mr. White had the bulk of the work to carry on the Fair, and as an evidence of his successful management, the Association paid to its stockholders fifteen per cent. on the first year's business. The silver service is an extremely handsome one, consisting of six pieces. The gift was a great surprise to Mr. and Mrs. White, who were touched by the sentiment expressed in the gift, showing the high esteem in which Mr. White is held by his associates on the Board.

To a News reporter Wednesday morning, Mr. Bounds stated his position in the following terse language: "I will go into office absolutely unhampered by pledges of any kind, to anyone, and my sole aim will be to give the city of Salisbury a progressive administration, in line with that of my predecessor, Mayor Harper. I hope to have the hearty co-operation of the Council in my endeavors, and that we will all work together for the further advancement of Salisbury."

DEATH TAKES AWAY TWO AGED SALISBURIANS.

Mr. C. A. Pope and Mr. R. D. Abdell
Die During The Week—The Latter Was Formerly An Undertaker And Well Known.

Mr. C. A. Pope, for many years a resident of Salisbury, died at the home of his son, Mr. M. H. Pope, on Poplar Hill Ave., Wednesday night, at 10.30 p. m., after a lingering illness. Three children, Mrs. C. T. Hawkins, of Montgomery county, Miss Lucy Pope and Mr. M. H. Pope, of Salisbury, survive him. Deceased was a veteran of the Civil War, fighting under Gen. Fitzhugh Lee. Funeral services were held at Gaithersburg, Friday afternoon.

Mr. Robert D. Abdell, a former resident of this city, who has many friends and relatives here, died Thursday morning at Sudlersburg, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Maggie Elliott. Mr. Abdell was 82 years old at the time of his death. He was an undertaker and engaged in his profession in this city for about thirty years. His remains will be brought to Salisbury for interment. The funeral services will be conducted Saturday afternoon at 2.15 at the Methodist Protestant Church, of which he was a life time member. Immediately after the services the body will be interred in Parsons cemetery.

New Equipment.

Messrs. William J. Downing, Robert D. Grier and Uriah Dickerson, the special committee appointed by the Directors of the Salisbury Light, Heat & Power Company to purchase the additional equipment for the plant in this city, closed a contract with the Allis-Chalmers Company, of Detroit, to install one of their Corliss engines in the plant within the next seventy-five days. The committee was in Philadelphia this week to close the matter up. This engine when installed will add 450 horsepower to the plant and will be ample for several years to come.

A Chance For Amateurs.

The managers of the opera house have completed arrangements to give an amateur vaudeville performance as the special attraction at the moving pictures at that place of amusement on Monday night. A number of local performers have agreed to do stunts and the attraction will undoubtedly be amusing. Anyone desiring to appear on the stage should notify Mr. A. Sidney Johnson, manager.

—If you want pretty matings that will wear. Try Ulman Sons.

—Get your screen doors and window screens at Ulman Sons.

REGULAR TICKET DEFEATED

BY INDEPENDENT POWER.

First Real Fight In Municipal Contest
In Salisbury Results In Overthrow Of Democratic Organization—Old Council Wins.

By a majority of 75 votes, Mr. William F. L. Bounds, the independent candidate for Mayor of Salisbury, nominated on a citizens' ticket, was elected after a bitter struggle at the polls Tuesday. The Mayor elect ran considerably ahead of his ticket and the present Councilmen, Messrs. Fred L. Smith, Harry Dennis and C. E. Bennett, were returned by small majorities.

The vote follows:

FOR MAYOR.

Wm. F. L. Bounds, 602
B. Frank Kennerly, 527
Bounds' majority, 75

FOR CITY COUNCIL.

C. E. Bennett, 507
Fred L. Smith, 570
Harry Dennis, 502
J. W. Corkran, 602
W. T. Banks, 546
A. R. Leonard, 533
Democratic majority, 80

Never in the history of Salisbury was such a battle waged at the polls in a city election. A total of 1143 votes were registered when the last man voted as the town clock was striking five o'clock. It was conceded by both sides that the result would be close and the announcement of the count was awaited with abated breath. Both the Democratic nominees, backed by the entire organization, and the candidates upon the citizens' ticket entered the contest with the determination to win. Every influence was brought to bear and no stone was left unturned by the Democratic organization to bring about the election of its ticket.

The result is a great victory for the people. It shows in unmistakable terms that the trend of public opinion is greater even than the united strength of the Democratic organization. In this contest it was the vote of the independent element of the Democratic party that elected a free and unhampered Mayor of Salisbury.

It was by an exceptionally narrow margin that the old members of the City Council pulled through. The highest candidate on the independent ticket, Mr. J. W. Corkran, was defeated by the lowest candidate on the Democratic ticket, Mr. Harry Dennis, by only three votes. Another remarkable showing was made by Mr. Arthur B. Leonard who was placed on the ticket at the eleventh hour, after several thousand tickets had been distributed upon which his name did not appear.

Taken altogether Tuesday's election it is generally believed was the complete overthrow of the Democratic organization and points to the time, in the near future, when the "select few" will not dare to frame up and nominate a city ticket without first consulting the rank and file of the party.

Mr. Bounds, as Mayor, will have the appointment of the following officers: City Collector, City Solicitor, Chief of Police, Night Watchman, Street Commissioner, Chief Fire Department, Police Magistrate.

Marriage Licenses.

The following licenses to marry were issued by Clerk of the Court Toadwine during the week:

Wayland-Webster-Harry T. Wayland 23, and Elizabeth E. Webster 18, Wicomico county; Causey-Ennis-Irving P. Causey 25, and Agnes M. Ennis 24, Wicomico county; Kenney-McLain-Harry D. Kenney 24, and Rebecca F. McLain, Wicomico county; Mills-Collins-Harry D. Mills 21, and Lillian W. Collins 21, Wicomico county.

Automobile Show.

The automobile people of Milford are arranging for an automobile show to be held in the Armory Hall, at Milford, May 12th, 13th and 14th. The purpose of the show is to draw people who are interested in automobiles and in the good roads movement. Salisbury owners are invited.

—Boy's Base ball supplies at Ulman Sons.

MARYLAND HAPPENINGS.

Deaths in The Counties—News Items of Interest To The People All Over The State.

John A. Holston, of Berlin, committed suicide by shooting himself with a double-barrel gun.

Foley Kidney Pills are antiseptic, tonic and restorative and a prompt corrective of all urinary irregularities. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Fourteen churches in York, Pa., observed Field Day of the American Bible Society by holding special services.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

The Baltimore Conference of the A. M. E. Church, in session at Crisfield, announced the annual appointments for the various districts.

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound.

Cardinal Gibbons will preside at the silver jubilee celebration of the Sisters of the Visitation at St. Mary's Academy, Leonardtown, on May 17.

Foley Kidney Pills contain in concentrated form ingredients of established therapeutics, value for the relief and cure of all kidney and bladder ailments. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Rev. Dr. H. L. Eldertice, president of Westminster Theological Seminary, delivered a sermon to the graduating class at the baccalaureate services held in the Westminster Methodist Protestant Church.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

Cumberland will hold its municipal primaries tomorrow under the new charter granting commission form of government. There are 7 candidates for mayor and 29 for councilmen, and partisanship has been eliminated.

Constipation causes headache, nausea, dizziness, languor, heart palpitation. Drastic purgatives grip, weaken the bowels and don't cure. Doan's Regulator acts gently and cures constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

Commander Julius A. Pratt Post No. 145 Dept. Ill., G. A. R.

Mr. Isaac Cook, Commander of above Post, Kewanee, Ill., writes: "For a long time I was bothered with backache and pains across my kidneys. About two months ago I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and soon saw they were doing just as claimed. I kept on taking them and now I am free from backache, and the painful bladder misery is all gone. I like Foley Kidney Pills so well that I have told many of my friends and comrades about them and shall recommend them at every opportunity." Sold by John M. Toulson.

What's in McClure's.

Under the title of "The New American City Government" George Kibbe Turner tells in the May McClure's of the rapid spread of the commission form of government; Burton J. Hendrick has an article on "The Skulls of Our Immigrants" which upsets the belief so long held by scientists that the skull was the one thing that could not change; W. A. Du Fay and E. T. Brewster show what the rat has cost us in lives and money, and M. Paoli gives his reminiscences of the Czar of Russia. Foremost in the fiction is an unusual detective story, "The Anthropologist at Large," by Dr. R. A. Freeman, editor of the London Lancet. Other stories are "The Glamour" by Oscar Gravel; "The Blue Pearl" by Neil Boyce; "The Nineteenth Hat" by Arnold Bennett; "The Point of View," another war story by "Ole Luk-Ole;" and "The Education of King Peter" by Edgar Wallace.

The High Cost of Living.

Increases the prices of many necessities without improving the quality. Foley's Honey and Tar maintains its high standard of excellence and its great curative qualities without any increase in cost. It is the best remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

For More Than Three Decades.

Foley's Honey and Tar has been a household favorite for all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. For infants and children it is best and safest as it contains no opiates and no harmful drugs. None genuine but Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Study For To-morrow, "A Lesson From Proverbs." Also Discussed by A Local Writer.

Proverbs 22: 29-33. Golden Text:—At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder.

The writer of Proverbs was a man of practical wisdom. No one knew better than he what it was to have all that earth could afford in the way of happiness. Wealth and knowledge were his, and he did not lack observation. His writings are straight forward statements of a nature that carries conviction with them, and although centuries have passed since the writing not a single statement contained in the description of the result of intemperance, as given in our lesson for today, has ever been refuted. The plain statements of fact concerning this question which so greatly interests us as a country at present, having withstood criticism and argument so long, certainly challenges our attention.

Why would this Hebrew sage write these statements? Simply this. After years of study and observation as an instructor and ruler of his people, naturally desiring their betterment, he states plainly what effect intemperance has upon them, and advises them concerning the use of alcoholic beverages. If our mayors, or governors, or presidents, after studying the economic conditions of their people, should observe habits among them disastrous to their well-being, and publish a proclamation warning them against such practices, would it not deserve their attention, and if the facts were true and the advice indisputable, should they not follow it? This was just the condition with the Hebrew nation at the time our lesson was written.

And touching this question he also wrote, "He who errs through wine and strong drink is not wise; drunkenness leads to poverty." And other writers of the Hebrews in his time declares that, "No other evil has held such sway over mankind since Noah." In our own country this is recognized as one of the questions of greatest moment touching our welfare. Sabbath desecration and intemperance are two things, which, if not driven from among us, will sap our national vitality and cause our name to be recorded among the names of effete nations.

The writer our lesson text makes plain the physical effects of intemperance. Alcohol is a drug, pure and simple, and classes among the poisons, hence is not a food. Its continuous administration produces change in physical structure and destroys function. It costs the body to get rid of alcohol by increased elimination in waste excited by it, consequently it is not a tissue builder, but a destroyer. Such substances as sugar, starch, and fats are builders and reconstructives—alcohol is of their class. As a drug its use is limited, and demands the knowledge of a trained physician to prescribe it. The physical effect of alcohol can be summed up practically as follows—the great building, renewing, and protecting mass of the body is protoplasm (cell-substance). This substance is destroyed by alcohol and causes a degeneration of body tissue, with a weakening of all organic functions.

The manifestations of its effects are plainly set out in our lesson text. It effects the physical body, and makes one unfit for work. The great desire of young men particularly today is to be "fit." You cannot be fit and take alcohol. Some one will say, "Oh! I knew a man who took a drink or two every day of his life, and lived to be eighty or eighty-five years of age." So he did, in spite of it, but had he been without it he would have lived one hundred years. All investigation in the matter bears out this statement.

It effects the mental capacity. Power of thought, memory, and judgment are curtailed. So it affects genius, and everything that tends to purity, safety, and the general uplift of man. It has cost nations at large their brightest and best. Locally it has cost communities useful men and women. The nation, state, or community does not place habitual drinkers in positions of importance. Employers do not accept services of a drinker—they are not "fit."

The writer of Proverbs gave advice about intemperance—stay away from drink, have nothing whatever to do with it. As a people we should heed his advice. Do not get the appetite, do not begin, without the beginners there would be no drunkards, watch the boys.

ALCOHOL'S "WANT AD." "Johnson, the drunkard, is dying today. With traces of sin on his face, He'll be missed at the club, the bar, and the play.

Wanted—a boy for his place. Simon, the gambler, was killed in a fight. He died without pardon or grace. Some one must train for his burden and blight.

Wanted—a boy for his place. Personally, for the one who is entangled in intemperance, relief and escape is in religion. The miracle of regeneration will make him free from its effects. Christ comes for the healing of the nations of the effects of intemperance.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This In Salisbury.

Scores of Salisbury people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

James K. Disharoon, 220 Isabelle Street, Salisbury, Md., says: "I have never taken another remedy of such wonderful curative powers as Doan's Kidney Pills. I know that my life has been saved by them. About fifteen years ago I began to suffer from kidney complaint, that was brought on by a heavy cold. My back grew lame and painful and in about a week I was unable to get about without the aid of a cane. I could not sleep on account of the knife-like pains in my loins, and when I walked, I had to go very slowly and be careful that I did not make a mis-step, as this was sure to bring on a sharp twinge. In the morning I had to be assisted out bed and I was in a serious condition. I consulted two doctors, who told me that I was so badly run down that there was but little hope for me. I gradually lost weight, grew weak and languid and had a poor appetite. The kidney secretions were very unnatural and I gave up hope of ever getting well. Finally someone told me about Doan's Kidney Pills. I began their use and to my great surprise, I soon found that they were helping me. I steadily improved until entirely cured and I had no further trouble until some years later when a cold affected my kidneys. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, however, the annoyance disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Advertised Letters.

Letters addressed to the following parties remain uncalled for at the Salisbury Post Office and will be sent to the Dead Letter Office two weeks from today. When inquiring please state that these letters have been advertised:

Mr. Geo. Burtles, Mr. Samuel Chat-ham, Miss Maranda Collins, Isaac Henry Campbell, Rev. L. W. Deakin, Mr. Clenton Coates, J. E. Green, Mr. Roland Horner, Mrs. Mollie Inley, Mr. S. W. Johnson, Mr. T. H. McKoy, Miss Maggie Neal, Mrs. Mary Powell, Mr. E. L. Folkenius, Mr. H. E. Pinkett, Mr. Morris Perry, Mr. H. L. Phillips, Miss Hester Rowley, The Somerset & Worcester Savings Bank, Mrs. Charlet Thomas, Mr. John Wilson, Mr. M. G. White, Mr. George White, Mrs. Mary Walker.

A Master Tactician.

"Why," expostulated the lady in the brown dress when the artist who had painted a portrait of her little daughter said the price of the picture was $100, "you charged Mrs. Crawford only $68 for the picture you painted of her Lucy."

"I am aware of that fact, my dear madam," the suave and polite artist hastened to explain, "but you must consider the great difference in the costs of the paints used for the hair of the two children. The scant, drooping hair of the Crawford child required just a touch of the cheapest kind of pigment, but the wonderfully beautiful and luxuriant curls of your lovely daughter required a large quantity of the best paints on the market."

Then the lady in the brown dress smiled, took out her purse and begged the artist's pardon for having spoken rudely to him.—Chicago News.

The Battle of Chalons.

There have been so many bloody battles it is perhaps impossible to say with absolute certainty which of them all was the bloodiest, but the balance of the evidence seems to be in favor of the battle of Chalons, France, fought A. D. 451 between the Huns, under Attila, and the Romans, Goths and Franks, under the command of Aetius, the most renowned captain of his day. At the head of his 500,000 of savages Attila was having everything his own way, and it looked as if Aryan civilization was destined to fall before the Tartar despotism, when suddenly, like the bolt out of the blue, Aetius fell upon the barbaric hordes and Europe was saved. It is estimated that 400,000 of the barbarians were left dead on the field.

Couldn't Frighten Him.

An Indian maharajah once received Lord Clive, the famous soldier, in his palace court. Presently in spring two whooping big Bengal tigers, as big as ever grew. They rolled and sprawled and romped all over the court, growled, spit and struck at each other. All the time the maharajah and his snail-like glances at Clive to see if it would scare him green white. After a little the tigers were driven out. Clive smoked his cheroot all the while.

What Everybody Wants.

Everybody desires good health which is impossible unless the kidneys are sound and healthy. Foley's Kidney Remedy should be taken at the first indication of any irregularity, and a serious illness may be averted. Foley's Kidney Remedy will restore your kidneys and bladder to their normal state and activity. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Dental Extraction.

Apply to MISS NELLIE LANKFORD, 104 William Street, Salisbury, Maryland.

DRS. W. G. & E. W. SMITH.

DENTISTS. Graduates of Wesleyan Medical College of Baltimore. Office Main St., SALISBURY, MD. Teeth extracted skillfully, with or without Gas or Cocaine. Satisfaction guaranteed on all kinds of Dental Work. Visit Crisfield Post and Third Friday of each Month.

C. D. KRAUSE

Successor to George Hoffman and Busy Bee Bakery

Having opened a first-class Horse and Mule Bazar on Lake St., I am making a specialty of

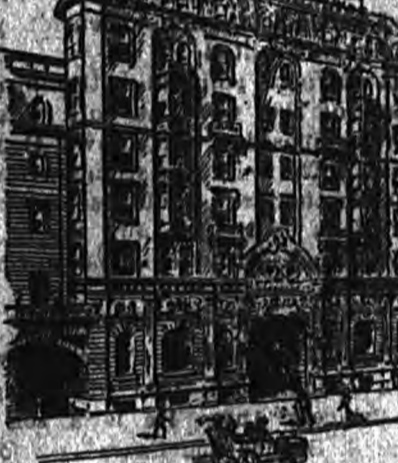

Fine Horses And Mules

Here can always be found Gentlemen's Driving Horses, Work Horses and Mules, and I am in a position to suit all customers—in quality of horseflesh and price. No need to go away from home to secure good stock—it's right here.

I. H. WHITE, SALISBURY, MD.

Hotel Kernan

European Plan. Absolutely Fireproof. In The Heart of The Business Section Of Baltimore, Md.

Luxurious Rooms. Single and En Suite. With or Without Baths. $1 Per Day Up. Partial Dining Rooms. Unsurpassed Cuisine. Shower and Tubs in Turkish Baths free to guests. Send for booklet.

JOSEPH L. KERNAN, Manager

Fine Oak Wood

Cut from Stump, Both Seasoned and Green

Also Pine Slab Wood

fully seasoned, delivered anywhere in Salisbury on short notice. Cut in any stove lengths.

W. T. Banks Telephone 246 SALISBURY, MD.

Boot and Shoemaker

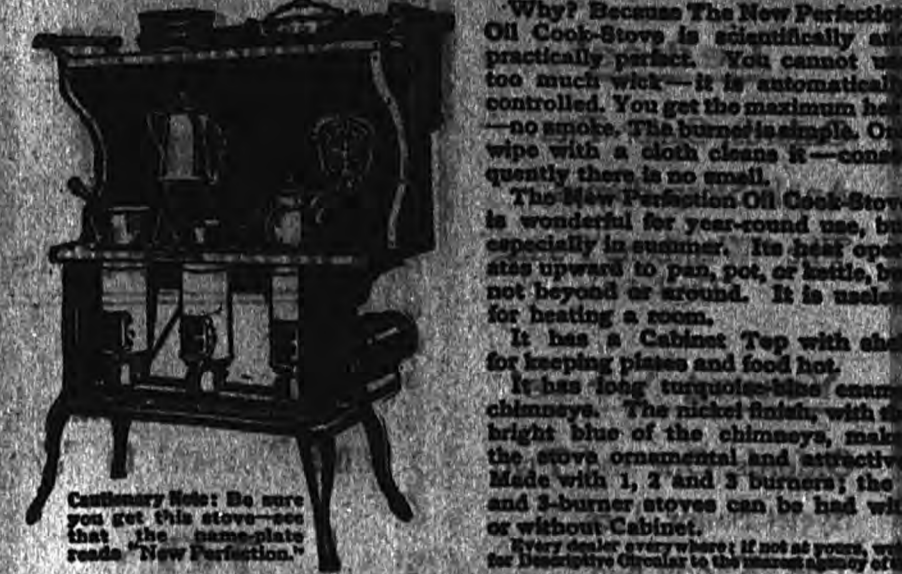

Boot and Shoe Repairing of all kinds neatly done on short notice. J. TUBBS, West Main St., Salisbury, Md.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat—no smell—no smoke.

Standard Oil Company (Incorporated)

ESTABLISHED 1847

"Baltimore's Oldest Furniture Store"

POLLACK'S

ISAAC DAVIDSON } Proprietors WM. B. EALLON }

SOLICIT your trade. We carry only the most reliable qualities which we guarantee. Our prices are reasonable and low. Not failing on installation, we sell strictly cash. All our goods are plainly marked with the lowest selling prices. One price only assures the same equitable treatment to every one. We therefore cordially invite you to call on us when in need of Furniture, Rugs, Mattings Refrigerators, Mattresses, Etc.

POLLACK'S Cor. Howard and Saratoga Streets BALTIMORE, MD.

C. I. HUDSON & COMPANY, BROKERS,

MEMBERS NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE Eight and Market Sts., Wilmington, Del. 34-36, Wall Street, New York.

STOCKS, GRAIN, COTTON For Investment or Carried on Favorable Terms

D. & A. Phone 4350, Wilmington. J. Montieth Jackson Manager.

Strawberry Checks $1 Per Thousand AT THIS OFFICE

Order Nisi.

William M. Day versus William J. Taylor, Martha Alice Taylor, his wife.

In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County. In Equity No. 1845. March, 1910.

Ordered, that the Sale of the Property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Jay Williams, Attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shown on or before the 20th day of May next, provided, a copy of this Order be inserted in some newspaper printed in Wicomico County once in each of three successive weeks before the 15th day of May next.

The report states the amount of sales to be $350.00. ERNEST A. TOADVINE, Clerk. True Copy, Test: ERNEST A. TOADVINE, Clerk.

FOR SALE!

Valuable City Property 1 LOT AND DWELLING 2 VACANT LOTS Will sell as a whole or separately to suit purchaser. Apply, COURIER OFFICE

Building Lot For Sale

Camden Avenue. Extended. 128 ft. front; 1040 ft. deep; 3 1/4 acres. Apply to A. H. Hardesty, Dover, Delaware.

FOR SALE!

Newspaper Agency, thriving business and making money. Owner wants to go in another business May 1st. For full particulars apply to NEWS STANDS Salisbury, Md.

E. W. TOWNSEND & CO.

GROWERS OF
Thoroughbred Strawberry Plants
PHONE 688 SALISBURY, MD. Stock Fine
Prompt Delivery

Surplus Stock of Strawberry Plants on Hand April 9th, at Greatly Reduced Prices

1,000,000 Climax	50,000 Parsons Beauty
500,000 Chesapeake	1,000,000 Red Bird
5,000 Cooper	500,000 Superior
200,000 Senator Dunlap	100,000 Stevens Late Cham'p
500,000 Bessie	50,000 Tennessee Prolific
1,000,000 Gandy	5,000 W's
25,000 Hoffman	10,000 Tabbie
50,000 Klondike	50,000 Wine
500,000 Lady Townsend	5,000 (Fall Bearing, Au-
100,000 Missionary	5,000 (Fall Bearing, Au-merican)

Write Us. Wire Us or Phone Us. This Advertisement may not Appear Again.

Fruitland on the Boom! 46 New and Improved Buildings and More to Follow

A Hundred and Fifty Dollar Gift Will Be Found in This Letter

Read Every Word—No Hoax
KIND FRIEND:
YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD
We want to give you a chance to make money with little or no capital. Five dollars, and ten cents a day thereafter, will start you on the road to success. DON'T THROW THIS AWAY. You can make money while you sleep. This is a home offer by a home firm.
AND YEARS TO PAY
The waste of the average person will buy a choice piece of property in the most thrifty village in our land. A boy could do it, and we predict that some bright girl will be among the early purchasers. We have thirty Building Lots to sell in Fruitland Annex, 60x175 feet, and to the first party building a thousand-dollar residence we will give a choice lot in "The Dulany Square."
THIRTY PER CENT PROFIT
Can be made. We will take the lot off of your hands at the expiration of three years, and return every dollar paid for it, with six per cent interest, IF YOU ARE DISSATISFIED. Select your lot early and get the choice. Prices low and terms easy. Business and working men can live in Fruitland at a much less cost than in Salisbury, and own their own property. Trains will accommodate you before and after working hours. Our town is on the boom. Get in on the ground floor and buy these
TOWN LOTS
Good, high streets. Three minutes' walk to depot, post office and center of business, where lots are worth five and six dollars a foot—and hard to get at that price. Come and see, or write for particulars—quick.

I. H. A. DULANY & SONS

FUITLAND, MARYLAND

If You Want Any Plumbing Done
Call Phone 377.
Lewis Morgan
102 E. Church St., Salisbury, Md.
Plumbing, Heating and Gas Fitting
Done. All Work First Class.

CHAS. M. MITCHELL
103 DOCK STREET.

Palace
Pool & Billiard
Parlor
Choice Domestic and Imported
Cigars, Cigarettes
and Tobaccos
Full Line of Lowmy's Chocolate Candies Always Fresh.

Desirable Home In healthful and charming Maryland Springs, where living is good and cheap, and the people neighborly and hospitable.
Apply to
WM. M. COOPER, Prop.
Salisbury, Md.

C. BROTEMARKLE, M. D.
EYE, EAR, NOSE, THROAT
OFFICE:—221 CAMDEN AVENUE
SALISBURY, MD.

Valuable Town Property For Sale!
The undersigned will offer at private sale valuable town property, including residence, splendidly located, and several nice building lots in desirable residential section of the City. For terms and particulars, apply to ELMER H. WALTON, AIT.

Why He Waited.
The man who is anxiously watching the steeple jack at work 300 feet from the ground is approached by a passing acquaintance.
"Hello, Brown!" says the latter. "Are you still here? It's fully an hour now that I saw you standing in the very same spot."
"That fellow up there gives me the cold shivers," says Brown. "He makes me feel weak in the knees."
"Going back to your office?" inquires the friend.
"I guess so," Brown reluctantly replies. "There doesn't seem to be much use in waiting any longer. I don't believe he is going to fall."
And he turned away with a lingering glance at the intrepid jack—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Great Age of Halley's Comet.
While Halley's comet has been identified as a member of our system for over 2,000 years, certain characteristics of its orbit lead us to believe that it has been with us at least ten or perhaps 100 times as long as that. According to all accounts, it was a magnificent object at the time of the Norman conquest in 1066. Its head was equal to the full moon in size, and its tail increased to a wonderful length—Century.

A Queer Hiding Place.
During a furious storm in Paris a janitor was struck on the shoulder by a small but heavy tin box which had fallen from an upper story of a house in the Rue de l'Est. The box was found to contain $5,000 in gold and notes. It was claimed, at the police station by an elderly woman, who said that the money constituted her entire savings, which she had hidden by tying the box to the drainpipe outside her window. —Chicago Record-Herald.

Another Theory Demolished.
"It costs nothing to be polite."
"You're wrong. While it was polite picking up a glove for a lady yesterday my new four dollar hat blew off and rolled in front of a passing trolley car." —Chicago Record-Herald.

Inherited.
Knicker-Jones is all the time wanting more money. "Barker—No wonder his father was a college president and his mother was a woman." —New York Sun.

Order Publication.
Martha Emma Downs Coyne
vs
Frank W. Coyne
No. 1847 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii of the plaintiff, Martha Emma Downs Coyne, from the defendant, Frank W. Coyne.
The bill states that on or about April 29, 1904, the said Martha Emma Downs Coyne was married to her husband, Frank W. Coyne, with whom she resided in Wicomico County, Maryland, until about the seventeenth day of January nineteen five, and that though her conduct toward her said husband was and has always been kind and affectionate and above reproach, the said Frank W. Coyne has, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her and declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterrupted for at least three years and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation, that there was born to them, after the date of said separation and abandonment one child, Edna Coyne, now residing with her mother in said County.
It is thereupon this 30th day of April, 1910 ordered by the Circuit Court for Wicomico County in equity, that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Wicomico County once in each of four successive weeks before the tenth day of June, 1910, giving notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the first Monday of July next, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.
E. STANLEY TOADVIN
True Copy—Test:
ERNEST A. TOADVINE,
Clerk.

For Rent.
Cottage at Ocean City. Will rent the furnished cottage at Ocean City known as the Blackburn cottage. Has all modern conveniences. Bath and electric lights. Furnished throughout and situated on Board Walk. Possession given June 1st. Price, $250.00.
N. H. RIDER,
Salisbury, Md.

STARVING CANCER TO CURE IT
Remarkable Results of a New Treatment Shown at a Clinic.
Dr. William A. Bainbridge of the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital has an entirely new treatment for cancer, which he explained in his annual clinical lecture at the institution the other afternoon.
In the course of the clinic, the subject of which was "Ligation," the process of cutting off the blood supply upon which cancerous affections feed, and absolutely isolating the cancer from the rest of the body, he exhibited several apparent cures which aroused the keenest interest. For instance, Dr. Bainbridge introduced first a man and then a woman, both of whom had suffered from serious cancers of the face. In each case nearly the whole side of the face had been removed and a new cheek created by grafting skin taken from the patient's leg and arm, on the side of the head where the cancer had been.
Dr. Bainbridge defined the subject of the clinic, ligation, as the starving out of the death eating growth. Near Dr. Bainbridge at this time was an elderly man, over the left side of whose face was spread a piece of antiseptic cloth. The man looked happy. Presently Dr. Bainbridge turned to him and, talking him by name, asked him to come forward.
The man walked briskly up to the side of Dr. Bainbridge, and the latter put his arm around him and removed the cloth which obscured his face. Even some of the doctors present shuddered at what they saw. Nearly half of the man's face was gone, but the hole was healing, as everybody could see.
The man came to Dr. Bainbridge several weeks ago, he said, apparently in a dying condition. An operation was performed, the blood vessels leading to the cancer being closed so that it had nothing to feed upon.
"This," said Dr. Bainbridge, "was operated on five weeks ago. He tells me now he has no pains, that he has gained eight pounds in weight and he is feeling fine."
Dr. Bainbridge told of one woman whom ten physicians had given up. At the cancer hospital ligation was performed, and in six weeks she was out automobile riding. One of his cases was a police sergeant, who first noticed his affliction a year ago, when seized with pains in the abdomen after eating. The sergeant has gained forty pounds since the operation and is back on the force. Another man was given up as dead when admitted to the hospital, but is now fast recovering.
In some of the cases presented there had been no indications of a recurrence of the malady. In others the ravages of the disease had been checked and life prolonged, perhaps for a period of years.

MR. BOWSER FAILS.
Experiments With a Frozen Hen to Prove a Great Theory.
FOILED BY THE FAMILY CAT.
In Massaging the Fowl to Restore It to Life, Thus Showing Doctors to Be Charlatans, Tabby Sealed the Bird, And All Is Lost.
By M. QUAD.
(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)
MR. BOWSER had been hitchhiking around in his chair in an uneasy way for half an hour and Mrs. Bowser had been expecting something to happen when the doorbell rang and he hastened to answer it. She knew that a boy was at the door, and she knew that he handed in a package of some sort, but when Mr. Bowser returned to the sitting room he had nothing in his hand. He was simply looking very wise and important.
"Your laundry was a day ahead of time," she half queried.
He walked about and made no answer.
"Was the boy looking for Brown?" No answer.
Mrs. Bowser let it go at that, and five minutes had passed when he halted to say:
"How queer! It seems to speak of my laundry or of old Brown in connection with such an affair as this. When a convulsion of nature was throwing up the Rocky mountains, do you suppose men went around talking about rat traps?"
"I didn't know there was a convulsion of nature going on. I thought things were very quiet just now."
"There are convulsions going on day and night, but little does a woman think about them unless they are headed 'Bargain Sales.'"
"And because a boy handed in a package there is to be an extra con-

might have been hit with a package, but not making a dent. The boy done his best. As soon as he was clear Mr. Bowser picked up the body on the reading table, out his notebook and prepared business. He felt just as Dr. Core when he reached a point 500 feet from the north pole and sat down for a year. He wrote:
"Temperature of room, 34 degrees." "Name and age of hen unknown, but evidently a fowl in the prime of life." "The doctors would pronounce it a case of death by freezing, but I call it suspended animation."
Massaging the Frozen Hen.
"Have just massaged her legs." "Have just lowered the head a bit." "Have gently kneaded the body with my knuckles." "Massaged her feet, but not too briskly." "Massaged her right leg again." "Have saturated a cloth with hot vinegar and placed it near Biddy's head. I estimate that the temperature of the brain must be aroused first. Hot water is the best." "Have gently massaged her toes. The toes are the other extremity of a hen. Work should begin on both extremities and proceed to the middle degrees." "Half an hour has passed and no signs of returning consciousness yet, but I can hardly expect it. No hen that has been frozen for three days is going to be aroused in thirty minutes." "More massage of the legs." "If I am not mistaken, one of the toes seems to be more limber than the other. Arouse a dead hen's toes to life and the hen herself must follow." "Have smoothed down the feathers on Biddy's bosom. For a moment I thought her bosom heaved, but I guess I was mistaken." "Have gently sought to open her closed wings, but it is too soon. A frozen hen can't be hurried along like a frozen grasshopper." "Have changed the hot vinegar rag for one saturated with ammonia. The fumes of ammonia must in time penetrate to the brain and arouse it." "Question—What was the last thought of this hen when the chill of what they call death struck her?" "Question—On being submerged will she pick up her life where she left off? If she was making ready to crow, will she go ahead and crow?" "I do not wish to deceive myself, but just now I thought I saw the hen open one eye for an instant. Are the fumes doing their work?" "Cat's Interruption at Hand." "And, again, there seems to be a slight twitching in the toes of the right foot. I was right about the extremities. I believe I am on the eve of the greatest discovery of the century. If I make it, it will prove that every doctor in the country is a charlatan." "Yes; one eye is surely quivering!" "The twitch of the toes is now beyond cavil. Keep cool, Mr. Bowser! Your theory was right, and—"
And just then the cat, which Mrs. Bowser had forgotten to keep an eye on, came gliding downstairs. Unseen by Mr. Bowser she entered the room, and of a sudden she sprang for that frozen hen, secured it and dashed down cellar and into the darkest corner.
Mr. Bowser's yells brought Mrs. Bowser downstairs on the fly, but it was too late. The experiment was a fiasco. She tried to comfort him, but he marched down the hall and put on overcoat and hat and left the house, and when he returned, two hours after midnight, he said to her as he stood on the steps:
"Shay, you go an' ask Mrs. Bowser if I can stay here all night. I've got a case. I suspended animation 'n' want to be thawed out!"
Unfurnished Quarters.
Mr. Bird—Well, I'll rent this hole for the summer. Are there any mosquitoes?
Landlord Squirrel—Nary a one.
Mr. Bird—What? Well, then, how in the dickens do you expect me to live?—Harper's Weekly.
A Confession.
Her—When I met you I thought you were a gentleman.
Him—When I met you I thought you were a little fool.
Her—Well, let's kiss and make up. It seems that we were both mistaken.—Cleveland Leader.
Using Influence.
"He seems to be an up to date politician."
"I should say so! Before proposing to Miss Specie he got up a petition with 2,000 signatures urging her to accept him."—Life.
The Solution of a Historical Mystery.
The man in the iron mask explained. "It is to protect my eyes from those long hatpins," he said.
Herewith there was a quick demand for more iron masks.—New York Sun.
Scared.
Mabel, aged three, taken to the butcher shop for the first time, gazed in horror at the sawdust on the floor.
"Pa," she whispered, "does he butcher dolls?"—Buffalo Express.
The Last Card.
"Miss Antiquate is making preparations to go abroad."
"Yes, poor thing. She has given up all hopes of being kidnapped at home."—New York Journal.
The Kid Speaks.
I'd like to be a player.
And with the ball team stand.
A wagon tongue beside me.
A mitt upon my hand.
And when the season opened
How happy I would be
To step up to the plate and have
The crowd all watching me.
—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

THE DOT HANDED MR. BOWSER A PACKAGE.
vulsion! Let me know the nature of it, please, that I may get ready for it." Her tone was so frivolous that Mr. Bowser stopped and stared at her, but finally resumed his walk, without saying anything. She had decided that he had lost his data and that the convulsion wasn't due for another six weeks when he ceased his promenade and asked:
"Mrs. Bowser, how many people do you think are frozen to death the world over every winter?"
"A hundred perhaps."
"Yes, and 10,000 perhaps. It's 10,000 anyhow and maybe double that—frozen to death and laid away among the dead—and all because of the ignorance of our medical men. I want to say, and say it boldly, that with a proper understanding of the case every frozen life thus far could have been saved. In other words, those 10,000 people have been buried alive."
Ten Thousand People Buried Alive.
"You don't mean it!"
"I say what I mean and what I am going to prove here tonight. I have long contended that freezing was simply a case of suspended animation. It is a sleep. Let the victim continue to sleep and he dies; apply the proper treatment and he awakens and lives on. Water freezes and becomes ice. That is suspended animation. Apply heat and it becomes water again."
"But water isn't a human being or an animal," protested Mrs. Bowser.
"But the theory applies just the same. There is 35 per cent water in human and animal life. It is the water that freezes. I shall devote this evening to an experiment that will prove my theory and revolutionize the world."
"Are you going to freeze to death and then thaw out and return to life?"
"Not exactly. Three or four days ago I asked a farmer to bring me in a hen that had frozen to death. That was what the boy brought. A hen that has been frozen stiff as a poker. She has been dead for three days—that is, they call it death, but I am going to prove to the contrary. I wish to be alone in making this experiment, and I wish you would take the old cat and go upstairs. I shall make some notes, and I want nothing around to distract my attention."
"But can't I stay and hold the poor hen's head?"
"I can attend to her head and body too. If I find that I need help I will call you down. Be sure to keep the cat with you."
After being shown the hen Mrs. Bowser went up to her room. Poor Biddy had got it bad. She was like a rock with feathers glued on to it. She might have been hit with a package, but not making a dent. The boy done his best. As soon as he was clear Mr. Bowser picked up the body on the reading table, out his notebook and prepared business. He felt just as Dr. Core when he reached a point 500 feet from the north pole and sat down for a year. He wrote:

"Temperature of room, 34 degrees." "Name and age of hen unknown, but evidently a fowl in the prime of life." "The doctors would pronounce it a case of death by freezing, but I call it suspended animation."
Massaging the Frozen Hen.
"Have just massaged her legs." "Have just lowered the head a bit." "Have gently kneaded the body with my knuckles." "Massaged her feet, but not too briskly." "Massaged her right leg again." "Have saturated a cloth with hot vinegar and placed it near Biddy's head. I estimate that the temperature of the brain must be aroused first. Hot water is the best." "Have gently massaged her toes. The toes are the other extremity of a hen. Work should begin on both extremities and proceed to the middle degrees." "Half an hour has passed and no signs of returning consciousness yet, but I can hardly expect it. No hen that has been frozen for three days is going to be aroused in thirty minutes." "More massage of the legs." "If I am not mistaken, one of the toes seems to be more limber than the other. Arouse a dead hen's toes to life and the hen herself must follow." "Have smoothed down the feathers on Biddy's bosom. For a moment I thought her bosom heaved, but I guess I was mistaken." "Have gently sought to open her closed wings, but it is too soon. A frozen hen can't be hurried along like a frozen grasshopper." "Have changed the hot vinegar rag for one saturated with ammonia. The fumes of ammonia must in time penetrate to the brain and arouse it." "Question—What was the last thought of this hen when the chill of what they call death struck her?" "Question—On being submerged will she pick up her life where she left off? If she was making ready to crow, will she go ahead and crow?" "I do not wish to deceive myself, but just now I thought I saw the hen open one eye for an instant. Are the fumes doing their work?" "Cat's Interruption at Hand." "And, again, there seems to be a slight twitching in the toes of the right foot. I was right about the extremities. I believe I am on the eve of the greatest discovery of the century. If I make it, it will prove that every doctor in the country is a charlatan." "Yes; one eye is surely quivering!" "The twitch of the toes is now beyond cavil. Keep cool, Mr. Bowser! Your theory was right, and—"
And just then the cat, which Mrs. Bowser had forgotten to keep an eye on, came gliding downstairs. Unseen by Mr. Bowser she entered the room, and of a sudden she sprang for that frozen hen, secured it and dashed down cellar and into the darkest corner.
Mr. Bowser's yells brought Mrs. Bowser downstairs on the fly, but it was too late. The experiment was a fiasco. She tried to comfort him, but he marched down the hall and put on overcoat and hat and left the house, and when he returned, two hours after midnight, he said to her as he stood on the steps:
"Shay, you go an' ask Mrs. Bowser if I can stay here all night. I've got a case. I suspended animation 'n' want to be thawed out!"
Unfurnished Quarters.
Mr. Bird—Well, I'll rent this hole for the summer. Are there any mosquitoes?
Landlord Squirrel—Nary a one.
Mr. Bird—What? Well, then, how in the dickens do you expect me to live?—Harper's Weekly.
A Confession.
Her—When I met you I thought you were a gentleman.
Him—When I met you I thought you were a little fool.
Her—Well, let's kiss and make up. It seems that we were both mistaken.—Cleveland Leader.
Using Influence.
"He seems to be an up to date politician."
"I should say so! Before proposing to Miss Specie he got up a petition with 2,000 signatures urging her to accept him."—Life.
The Solution of a Historical Mystery.
The man in the iron mask explained. "It is to protect my eyes from those long hatpins," he said.
Herewith there was a quick demand for more iron masks.—New York Sun.
Scared.
Mabel, aged three, taken to the butcher shop for the first time, gazed in horror at the sawdust on the floor.
"Pa," she whispered, "does he butcher dolls?"—Buffalo Express.
The Last Card.
"Miss Antiquate is making preparations to go abroad."
"Yes, poor thing. She has given up all hopes of being kidnapped at home."—New York Journal.
The Kid Speaks.
I'd like to be a player.
And with the ball team stand.
A wagon tongue beside me.
A mitt upon my hand.
And when the season opened
How happy I would be
To step up to the plate and have
The crowd all watching me.
—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

THE COURIER

Published Every Saturday, at Salisbury,
Wicomico County, Maryland.
OFFICE OF PUBLICATION NEAR FERRY BRIDGE, MAIN STREET.

(Entered Salisbury (Md.) Postoffice as Second-Class Matter.)

ELMER H. WALTON,
Editor, Proprietor and Publisher.
CLARENCE A. WHITE,
Associate Editor and Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION { Per Year . . . $1.00
Six Months50

Advertising Rates Furnished on Application.
Telephone No. 182.

The date on the label of your paper shows the date to which your subscription is paid, and is a receipt for an amount paid. See that it is correct.

SATURDAY, MAY 7, 1910

Commendable Appointment.

The Responsibilities Of Mayor-Elect Bounds.

Although Tuesday's municipal election was a brief but bitter struggle, the friendly attitude of the several candidates towards each other was a distinctly noticeable feature. There was not a moment during the nine hours that the polls were open that there was not a large crowd in the vicinity of the voting house and yet there was no wrangling, quarrelling, or boisterous talk. Intense interest was manifested by all citizens and never in the history of Salisbury has a like number of votes been registered in a city contest. Even after the votes had been counted and the success of the head of the Citizens' ticket was announced, the same friendly attitude existed. Mr. B. Frank Kennerly, the candidate for Mayor on the regularly nominated Democratic ticket showed us how a gentleman should lose. He was the first man to congratulate the Mayor-elect and to wish him a successful administration. This is, indeed, the proper spirit and as it is certain that the members of the present City Council, who were returned for another term, will assume the same friendly attitude, the administration of Mr. Bounds promises to be a progressive one.

The City Council is now composed of men, every one of whom is experienced. They know what is expected of them and they have shown that they are able to measure up to the standard which has been fixed in the minds of the tax-payers of Salisbury. Mr. Bounds has himself served three terms in the City Council and he now goes into office with a full knowledge of the duties he will be called upon to assume.

As we have previously stated in these columns, Mayor Harper, who will retire when Mr. Bounds takes the oath of office, will be a hard man to follow. Salisbury has never had a chief executive who has manifested such a keen interest in the city's welfare. The marked progress of the city during the six years of his administration will be a lasting monument to the excellency of his services. Mr. Bounds has before him a tremendous undertaking and behind him he has the splendid record of Mayor Harper. It is clearly up to the next Mayor to make good. He has been placed in office by the people and the people will naturally expect a return of the confidence they have imposed in him. We have every reason to believe that he will measure up to requirements. He goes into office as an independent citizen and we believe he will hold inviolate the interests of those who are responsible for his election.

A Better Fire Alarm System For Salisbury.

The fact that the fire department was unable to locate the building which needed its attention when the second alarm was turned in on Thursday morning is only another evidence of the antiquity of the method of sounding alarms in this city. The only information given over the telephone, in answer to the question, "Where is the fire?" was to the effect that Livingston's house was burning. This was all the information that could be gotten at the central office of the Diamond State Telephone Company, upon which Salisbury is absolutely dependent in case the fire department is needed. The result was that the scene of the fire could not be located. Fortunately, we understand, the blaze was discovered in time and was extinguished by a bucket brigade.

But this might happen when the department was needed badly, and the condition will remain unchanged until a proper system is installed by the city. A number of years ago, in fact only a few years ago, a fire might have easily been located by the mere mention of the name of the person who lived in the burning building. The rapid growth of the city and the steady influx of people from other states and the large number of dwellings which have been erected in the last few years have rendered the present method inadequate and something should be done by the city officials with the view of giving better protection to the citizens. In every other respect Salisbury has kept pace with the growth of the city but in this instance no improved facilities whatever have been installed.

The Mayor and Council now have under consideration the installation of a designating system when the alarm is sounded but if the proposed plan is adopted and installed the department is still dependent upon the Diamond State Telephone Company and it can readily be seen that a repetition of Thursday morning's occurrence could easily happen. A designating system which is dependent upon anyone in a city the size of Salisbury would be worthless. A system is needed by which the alarm is sounded automatically by the person who calls the department and at the same time gives the location of the burning building by the number of the box from which the alarm is turned in.

Editorial Jottings.

The conviction of one man in New York city for selling young girls into lives of shame marks the beginning of a crusade that will eventually stamp out the white slave traffic.

When will cement sidewalks be put down in front of the Humphreys property on South Division street? With this exception every property owner has complied with the provisions of the ordinance passed a year ago by the City Council.

The "Wharf Rat Ticket," as the Citizens' Ticket was dubbed by one person directly interested in the election of the organization candidates, proved to be even more than the epithet implies. It knawed its way into the minds of the people and will now feast on the glory of its success.

A movement is on foot now in the United States Senate to determine whether that body shall be conservative, become radical, or be thrown into political chaos—and no mention is made of the continuance of the Administration's legislative program. The House of Representatives has already made a laughing stock of itself in the eyes of other Nations by ignoring the claims of the United States Geographical Society in the Peary-Cook controversy and now our very highest legislative body is not sure whether it ought to be good, bad or indifferent.

For Sale Cheap.

One Planet Jr., riding cultivator and a lot of young Leghorn hens.
W. R. Strong,
Route 5, Salisbury.

J. T. TAYLOR, Jr.

Largest Carriage, Wagon and Harness Dealer in the State of Maryland

I Guarantee to give you more for Money than any Dealer in the United States I haven't any opposition, I am in a class to myself. I buy direct from manufacturers, no middle men to help keep up.

Our Wrenn Buggies are $20.00 less than any other make same quality. I now have 75 Doctors using them. Several carloads in stock to select from.

I have 150 Runabouts in Stock, rubber tires, high arch axles, drop axles, straight axles, low wheels and high wheels, prices from $30 up.

You can find 30 Surries in our stock. I have the lightest manufactured in the United States and the prices are cheap. You can save enough to buy you a suit of good clothes on each purchase.

I have nearly 5 carloads of Farm and Duplex Berry Wagons in stock.

"Yes, there are others as good, but they are $10.00 to $20.00 higher in price. I am general agent for Auburn Wagons, also Columbia."

Did you say harness? Yes, I have a carload, prices from $4.50 a set up. Speed Sulkeys, rubber tires at $50.00.

I have had a grand rush this spring, we are selling more goods than ever before. Don't be deceived by others who try to imitate, come see for yourself, seeing is believing.

J. T. TAYLOR, Jr.

Largest, Cheapest, Squarest Carriage Dealer in Maryland

Princess Anne, Md.

For Sale,
Seven-room house and lot in Maryland. Apply to
M. W. BOUNDS,
Salisbury, Md.

The Ancient Greeks

Realized that beauty of living came only with beautiful surroundings. They made their public buildings marvels of beauty. Today, beautiful wall papers at moderate cost, have brought true art within reach of the most modest pocketbook. My business is to suggest and carry out original and individual decorations to suit anybody's requirements as to price and environment.

John Nelson
The Paint Shop
Phone 191

FOR SALE

SMALL FARMS—BIG FARMS
We are the exclusive agent to sell the eight Phillips Farms, located on a fine shell road, one mile from shipping point, two miles from heart of Salisbury. The dollars talk with us. We shall sell these farms and other property placed with us at once. Come and let us show you these farms, which are well set in clover and wheat.

J. A. JONE & CO.,
REAL ESTATE BROKERS
SALISBURY, MD.

When the Fire Alarm Sounds

there is a world of comfort in the thought that your house is insured in a good company. Purchase this comfort today by placing your insurance in our agency.

Wm. M. Cooper & Bro.
112 North Division Street,
Salisbury, Md.

PRINTING CALCULATING AND GENERAL HOUSE WORK

Charges Reasonable
Prompt Service
Estimates Furnished
THEO. W. DAVIS
SALISBURY, MD.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor

Invites you to call and inspect the largest and cheapest line of

MILLINERY

in the city. We receive new goods every week. The very latest things in new shapes, ribbons and flowers.

A full line of baby caps, bonnets and euchings. A beautiful selection of chiffon and net veiling. We do special designing.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor

216 Main Street
Phone 428
Store closes at 6 p.m.
Saturdays 11 p.m.

LOWENTHAL'S

THE UP-TO-DATE STORE

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Special Sale of Ladies' Suits

Genuine Bargains—of Women's Garments. These goods are all new Spring Styles in latest coloring, which will be sold at 20 PER CENT. DISCOUNT. We have only a small lot, which must be sold to make room for Summer Wash Suits. Remember 20 per cent off on the dollar.

New Importation of Summer Shirt Waists

Waists worth 75 cents for	50 cents
Waists worth $1.00 for	75 cents
Waists worth $1.25 for	98 cents
Waists worth $1.50 for	$1.00 and $1.25
Tailored Skirts worth $5.00 for	$3.98
Tailored Skirts worth $4.50 for	$3.50
Finest Panama Skirts worth $5.00 for	$4.00

New Millinery

All new shapes; always something new and novel to be found in our Millinery Department. A beautiful showing of Children's Head wear, exclusive designs in small hats. "The New Chanticleer" Hat and Bird. An April Clearing of Dress Goods for spring and summer.

$1.50 Imported, Crisp Black Vellings	80c
60 cent Imported Fancies all Colors	50c
$1.00 Pique Silks all Colors	75c
75 cent Shantung all Colors	47c
$1.00 Tonal Silk Fancies all Colors	75c
60 cent Tussah-End Finish Silks	48c
60 cent Nuns Vellings, all Colors	50c

Something New and Dainty. Royal Silk at 20c equal to real Silk. Ramie; all Linnene cloth 80c worth 50c. These are all Exceptional Bargains, and only small lots.

Laces and Embroideries

Four typical lace values Real Torchon lace edge—5 to 10 cts. Real Torchon insertion 5 to 10 cts. Wide Lace edge insertion to match 5 cts. Wide Applique from 10 to 25 cts. Wide Hamburg 10 to 15 cts. Insertion to match 5 to 10 cts. Silk Under Skirts, $3.98 worth $5.00. The skirts are in black, and colored, remember this is special sale week. We also show a new line of neck wear and ruffling, collars, Dutch collars and all new novelties.

LOWENTHAL'S

The Up-to-date Merchant of Salisbury, Md.

WE carry the best line of Refrigerators and Oil Stoves made. Call or send for catalogue.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Dorman & Smyth Hdw. Co.

T. H. Mitchell

General Contractor and Builder

Anything from a Pig Pen to a Mansion

Also Lots For Sale, Desirable Location
Ask For Plot and Description

Our Telephone is 33
Call MITCHELL

Exclusive Designs in Ladies' Hats and Trimmings

KENT & SMITH

Main Street, Salisbury, Md.

SALISBURY HOUSE

MRS. WILSON FIGGS, Proprietor

Board by the Day, Week or Month
Reasonable Rates

Opposite Ulman's Grand Opera House
SALISBURY, MD.

THE COURIER.

Town Topics.

—Mrs. Lowenthal has returned from a trip to New York, where she purchased a line of Millinery and other novelties.

—Census takers in Salisbury have about completed their work and contrary to expectation have found their task an easy one.

—The next session of the Grand Lodge of Maryland and District of Columbia Shield of Honor will be held at Salisbury in April 1911.

—There will be a meeting of the Board of Lady Managers of the Home for the Aged next Thursday afternoon, May 12th, at the City Hall.

—County correspondents of THE COURIER are requested to mail their letters so that they will reach this office not later than Thursday noon.

—Architect Silco, of Baltimore, is preparing plans for an addition to the Division Street Baptist Church which will enlarge its seating capacity.

—The fifteenth annual convention of the Bankers' Association will be held at the Blue Mountain House, Blue Mountain, Md., on June 21, 22 and 23.

—Work is progressing rapidly on the new warehouse being erected for Turner Brothers Company. Contractor O. S. Lloyd has finished the work of driving the piles for the foundation.

—Mr. Leroy Lane, who formerly conducted a brokerage office in the Masonic Temple, has accepted a position with the Jackson & Weisbach Company as bookkeeper and took up his new duties Monday.

—Mr. Harold Smith, a former Salisbury, has accepted a position in the office of the Home Gas Company, entering upon his duties Wednesday. For the past several years he has been residing in Brooklyn, N. Y.

—Miss Mary L. Hewes, who has been bookkeeper for the Jackson & Weisbach Company for several years, has resigned to accept a position at Bridgeville, Del., and will leave to take up her new duties during the coming week.

—On account of the Barnum & Bailey Show, which exhibits in Baltimore on May 11th, the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway Co. will sell excursion tickets, good to return May 12. Round trip fare from Salisbury will be $2.00.

—Adjutant General Warfield has selected July 1 to 9 as the dates for the encampment of troops of the Maryland National Guard at the Camp of Instruction, to be held at Gettysburg, Pa., this summer. Company I, of Salisbury, will go the encampment.

—Mr. I. S. Powell has moved into his handsome new residence on Division street. The house is not yet finished but Mr. and Mrs. Powell will occupy the third story until the house is completed. Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Fulton will occupy the house vacated by the Powells on Broad Street.

—The Misses Houston, of this city, will sail in June from New York to spend the summer abroad. They will pass a month or so in the Alps and other points of interest in Switzerland, and will also visit France, England, Germany, Holland and Belgium. They expect to be gone until sometime in October.

—Considerable interest is being manifested in the coming production of "The King's Carnival", a musical comedy which is to be presented under the auspices of the King's Daughters on Tuesday and Wednesday nights of next week. Tickets are now on sale and can be exchanged for reserved seats at Toulson's Drug store.

—The oyster catching season for this Spring closed Monday of last week, but persons having oysters on hand were allowed until May 1 to dispose of them. In the opinion of practical oystermen the season just closed has been an average one. It is stated that the catch this year has been greater than ever, but a large part of the season prices were low.

—National Committeeman Wm. P. Jackson, of this city, attended a meeting of leading Maryland Republicans in Washington Thursday afternoon to endorse the men for the federal offices in Maryland. The candidates endorsed are: Phillips Lee Goldborough, for internal revenue collector; Dr. Ravenscroft, for surveyor of customs; George W. Padgett, for United States marshal; C. C. Pusey, for assistant treasurer; and Albert L. Towers, for naval officer.

—At the meeting of the Great Council of Maryland, Improved Order of Red Men, held in Oxford last week, Eliza E. Twilley was re-elected Great Keeper of Wampum. Marion E. Tindle was elected Great Mishnawa. There were representatives from 81 tribes in the State present, together with a large number of past sachems, the total number present being between 250 and 300. From the report of Great Chief of Records, Dr. James C. Littleton, of Baltimore, there are over 8,500 members in Maryland and during the past year have paid out over $83,000 to sick members as benefits.

—Tomorrow is "Mother's Day"

—Rev. Geo. H. Nock will preach in St. John's Church, Fruitland, next Sunday, morning and evening.

—Wear a White Carnation or some white flower in honor of your mother tomorrow and go with her to church.

—Regular services will be held at St. Peter's Church tomorrow. The Sunday evening service will be at 8:00 o'clock.

—WANTED: A man for clerk in a General Store, some experience necessary. Must be able to give references. Address all communications F. D. THE COURIER office.

—Marshall A. Hudson, of New York City, the founder of the Baraga Movement will deliver three addresses in Trinity M. E. Church, South, Sunday, 11 a. m., 3.30 and 8 p. m. At 3.30 p. m. a service for men only.

—Tomorrow, the second Sunday of May, will be celebrated in many of the churches all over the land as "Mother's Day." This custom is only three years old but it has met with such approval that it is almost universally followed.

—Mr. D. Russell Pope, formerly of this city, but now connected with the Norfolk & Portsmouth Traction Company, with headquarters at Norfolk, was in this city this week to attend the funeral of his grandfather, Mr. C. A. Pope.

—At Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church the pastor, Rev. Dr. Graham, will preach on Sunday at 11:00 A. M. and 8:00 P. M. Sabbath School 9:30 A. M. Christian Endeavor service at 7:00 P. M. Mid-week service in the lecture room Wednesday evening 8 o'clock.

—"Mother's Day" will be observed with appropriate services at the Wilcombe Presbyterian Church tomorrow. In the morning Rev. Mr. Beale, the pastor, will speak upon "Our Mothers" and at the evening hour of worship he will have as his subject "Where Mothers Prevail."

—The Southern Convocation of the Diocese of Eastern met in St. Bartholomew's Parish (St. Paul's Church, Crisfield), Somerset County, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The Convocation includes in its jurisdiction the counties of Dorchester, Worcester, Wilcombe and Somerset with their regular parishes and mission stations. Rev. David Howard, of Salisbury, delivered one of the addresses Tuesday evening.

—Miss Lena Toadvin entertained at her home Tuesday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Dora Austin, of Maryland. Those present were: Misses Dora Austin, Lena Toadvin, Mae Casey, Georgia Tilghman, Doris Parker, Ethel Carey, Emma Ruark, Eva Toadvin, Mattie Johnson, Audra Johnson, Messrs. Nathaniel Austin and Dow Bacon, of Maryland; Charles Bennett, Norman Lank, Marvin Phillips, Maurice Parker, Dennis Tilghman.

—On Thursday morning the alarm of fire called the local department to the residence of Mr. Charlie Campbell, on Barclay street, in the vicinity of the N. Y., P. & N. depot. The fire had gained considerable headway when the firemen arrived and the department was unable to save the building. While this fire was in progress another alarm was turned in, calling the firemen to the residence of Mr. Livingston on Division street. This blaze was extinguished before the arrival of the department.

—It is understood the Salisbury Realty Company has signed a contract with a well-known dredging firm to start in with the digging from the Camden Bridge to the head of the river at the Humphreys Mill Dam and that the work is to begin at once. It is the intention of the Company to dredge out the river from Camden street to the mill dam first and preparatory to this a general cleaning up of the property has been going on for the past week. Work will also start on the Mill Grove premises and the two old mill buildings within a short time. It is understood that the two old mills will be torn down and moved away. This will make a marked improvement in the general aspect of the property.

Personal.

—Mrs. Jas. E. Ellegood is visiting in Laurel, Del.

—Mr. W. B. Tilghman Jr. was in Philadelphia this week.

—Miss Mamie Woodcock spent several days in Baltimore this week.

—Miss May Humphreys is visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

—Mrs. Charles Ralph, of Crisfield, is visiting relatives in this city.

—Mr. Frank Long, of Duluth, Minn., visited friends in Salisbury this week.

—Mr. M. A. Humphreys was the guest of Mr. Clyde in New York this week.

—Mrs. S. Lowenthal, who has been in New York the past week, has returned home.

—Misses Beulah Laird and Fay Evans, of Crisfield, visited friends in this city this week.

—Messrs. Henry Todd and Lex Grier will spend the week-end with friends at Cambridge.

—Mrs. M. A. Humphreys, and children were in Philadelphia and Wilmington several days last week.

R. E. POWELL & CO.

MAIN ST., SALISBURY, MD.

Spring Millinery In All Its Brilliancy Is Now On Display

All the new shapes and colors are here and the great beauty and style used in our trimming department is the cause of a great deal of favorable comment.

Remember we are pleased to show you whether you intend to purchase or not

Spring Suits

In the newest shades and models

Coats with long rolling collars trimmed with Moire Silk, 32 and 34 inches long in the new shades of Grey, Electric, Reseda, Tan and Lavender.

Also a full line of suits in natural linens, separate coats in linens and silk are also here.

For Anything New in Spring Wearing Apparel Be Sure to See Us Before Purchasing

Different—Yet Dignified

Society Brand Clothes

Hello Boys! Did you see Nock Brothers Exhibit of Society Brand Clothes. What! All Trousers have permanent creases. That's a cinch. So long.

Society Brand Clothes For Mine!

FOR SALE AT

Nock Brothers

Main St., On the Corner E. Church St. Dock St. Salisbury, Maryland.

If you want to increase your earning capacity you can do so in a short time by attending one of

BEACOM'S BUSINESS COLLEGES

Salisbury College of Business Masonic Temple SALISBURY, MARYLAND
Wilmington Business School duPont Building WILMINGTON, DELAWARE
DAY AND EVENING SESSIONS
PHONE 361

Advertise in The Courier!

Y R U

Suffering with Backache, Kidney Trouble, Bladder Irritation, Lumbago, Bright's Disease, Suppression of Urine (Gravel), Scalding Urine or Urinary Troubles when

U O 2 B WELL

Use Toulson's Kidney Pills. Price 50 Cents

Mail orders will receive prompt and careful attention.

JOHN M. TOULSON
Druggist
SALISBURY, MARYLAND

It Is Awful, But True

Two Hundred and Fifty Millions of Dollars worth of Property was destroyed by fire in the United States during 1908. You may be one of the unfortunate ones during 1909. Come to see us or write us before it is too late.

White & Truitt
Salisbury, Md.

The Certainty of Good Service

YOUR clothing problem is a matter of securing all wool fabrics, cleverly hand tailored and styled up to the minute. This is what you receive when you buy B. Kuppenheimer & Co. Clothes. Excellence is built into every fabric of these clothes. It is expressed in every detail—linings, canvas, haircloth, buttons and each component part is 'not only good, but VERY good. B. Kuppenheimer clothes make converts by reason of the things you pay for within for clothes. Better trust to a good label than to poor judgment.

We guarantee these goods, should you find imperfection in the cloth or tailoring of a Kuppenheimer garment, return same and money will be refunded.

The Thoroughgood Co.

Salisbury, Maryland.

This Large Size Porch Rocker

AS LONG AS THEY LAST IS YOURS FOR

$1.50

[JUST LIKE CUT]

This rocker is made of fine finished hard maple. Double woven seat. Natural finish.

Be sure to see our full line of SUMMER FURNITURE

Ulman Sons The Home Furnishers

Under Opera House, SALISBURY, MARYLAND

Our Showing of New Greys and Blues are simply great

Kennerly & Mitchell
233-237 MAIN ST.
BIG DOUBLE STORE

Bertie Courtenay

The Stranger Who Took Part in a Baseball Game.

By MARTHA B. MONROE.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Charlie, let me tell you something. I think I know where you can get a first class twirler for the match game."

"Don't want any twirler. Dan Simpson is good enough."

"How about a fitter?"

"Don't want any fitter either."

This dialogue was spoken between Charles Wilkins, captain of the Roslyn Athletic club's baseball team, and his cousin, Kate Hathaway. Kate was an enthusiastic baseball girl—that is, she was infatuated with the game and a member of a girls' team that occasionally played on the diamond of the gymnasium club.

There was more between Wilkins and Kate Hathaway than a common interest in baseball. A lawsuit of long standing between their respective families over property acquired by a Wilkins three generations before was to be settled by their union—that is, it was hoped by their parents that the interest might be united in them.

The match referred to was to take place between the Roslyn club and the Ringolds, a champion game. Both teams were training hard, and both managers were testing and picking up the best men they could find. Ned Paddock, manager of the Ringolds, would require an infielder and Wilkins an outfielder. This was smooth sailing. But when both men wanted an outfielder and there was just one good man in that line to be secured the friction emitted more sparks than a skyrocket.

There had come to Roslyn that spring an invalid named Albert Courtenay. He was suffering from bronchitis and had been recommended to come to Roslyn on account of its dry air. For a couple of months he went about coughing and hawking, looking as though, having one foot in the grave, he was struggling to keep out the other. Then he began to get better and the flesh to come back on his bones. One could tell of his improvement by his clothes—the better his health the finer his garments. At last when he was quite recovered he bloomed into a first class dude. He manifested an interest in the society of Roslyn, joined the Roslyn Country club and showed a mild interest in the young ladies of the place. They were inclined to make fun of him, calling him "Bertie."

Bertie Courtenay seemed more inclined to bestow his attentions on Kate Hathaway than any other girl. Charlie Wilkins didn't object to his preference, for he considered him altogether too contemptible for a rival. Besides, Charlie was too much absorbed in preparations for the great game soon to come off to take any interest in anything else. But one day when Courtenay, who drew his words, was sitting chatting with Kate and watching a game of tennis, Wilkins came up. Courtenay drew out, Wilkins "batted in," mimicking Courtenay's speech. Courtenay impudently changed from English to Latin. Neither Kate nor Wilkins understood a word he said until Kate caught the meaning of "carissima Katherine" (dear Katherine) and blushed. Wilkins, with a growl, turned on his heel and left them.

This incident when repeated—that is, that Bertie Courtenay could speak Latin—occasioned a halt in the opinion of the young people of Roslyn were forming of him. Then one day, having appeared in a dapper tennis suit, white as an angel's wing, to play a game with a member of the Country club, he soon collected a crowd by sending the balls from his racket as if they had been fired from a roman candle.

Here was a second gain. Bertie could not only talk Latin, but he was a marvel at tennis.

From this point Kate Hathaway began to show an interest in him. As soon as Wilkins noticed that the "dude," as he called Courtenay, had found any favor whatever in Katherine's eyes he ceased his own attentions, indicating to her that a girl who could see anything interesting in a "chump like that" was of no use to him. As for Courtenay himself, Wilkins treated him with supreme contempt.

"He's one of these college men," said Wilkins, "they make professors of a great capacity for taking in knowledge and never making any practical use of it."

"But he's remarkable at tennis," suggested one who had seen Courtenay make fireworks of the balls over the net.

"Oh, that's a sort of slight of hand, like billiards. There's nothing manly in the game."

By this time nobody seemed to know what to make of Mr. Courtenay. He didn't seem to be a fool, though he sometimes acted like one. He wasn't exactly effeminate, though he appeared so. What could was left to him was certainly affected. Some said he kept it up to gain the sympathy due an invalid. Then his dress was too elegant for anything, his neckwear now representing the blue field of heaven studded with bright stars, now a snow squall, now the green waves of the sea and finally the red flames of a conflagration.

People began to wonder who he was and where he had come from. They pumped him, and he answered them in Greek. He was sitting at a table in the club one day with five men. They fell to trying to get from him something concerning his antecedents, each asking him one or more questions. He answered them in five different languages. With a bit of chalk he made a caricature of Wilkins that set every one who looked at it laughing. The bluff baseball man against the versatile scholar was like a bread club against a rapier of Damascus steel. Wilkins became furious at this unknown creature who had crossed his path and who returned his thrusts with satire. Courtenay did not seem to mind Wilkins any more than he would a goat, never manifesting toward him the slightest hostility.

Kate Hathaway was no less at sea with regard to Mr. Courtenay than were the others. He seemed to like her society, but never made love to her, nor did he tell her more about himself than he told them. There was certainly a fascination in the man she could not account for. When listening to what he said she felt lifted into a different atmosphere. At times he would chat with her about the politics of their native land, but no sooner had he interested her in the subject than he would skim away like a bird to ancient Greece, Rome or Egypt.

Meanwhile the competing clubs were making up and practicing. Paddock had selected the better team, and Wilkins, who knew his enemy's strength and the weakness of several of his own men, was feeling very much discouraged. But during the term of practice the Ringold team had a streak of bad luck. First their best infielder was hit in the face by a ball and incapacitated, then their next strongest man fell and broke his leg, and lastly their pitcher was taken down with typhoid fever. Thus in the space of a month the Ringolds were reduced from the better to a far inferior team.

"Why don't you try Courtenay?" asked a man who was sympathizing with Captain Paddock.

"What? That Miss Nancy? What could he do at baseball? He'd be all right for tiddiedewlaks, but baseball—never!"

"You can at least try him in a practice game."

"Yes, I can do that. But what's the use? It would be time lost."

Paddock's friend insisted, and Courtenay was invited to show what he could do. He accepted the invitation. What he did on the diamond was kept a secret. But on the day of the game when the Ringold team was walking out on to the oval Bertie, conspicuous in a crimson silk handkerchief around his neck, was among them. Wilkins remarked him with unconcealed astonishment.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed. "Is that all they could do in making up their deficiency? We've got them sure."

The game opened with inconspicuous play on the part of the Ringold team, which had the inning. All it came Courtenay's turn at the bat. The first ball sent him he knocked straight up in the air, dropped the bat and walked leisurely around the bases. Every man of the opposing team stood looking up for the ball to come down, but either it did not come down or if it did it landed in some other place. Courtenay completed his walk, and every one looked mystified. Some maintained that the ball had gone far out of bounds, but the majority declared that it had gone up in a straight line and should have fallen on the plate.

After ten minutes spent in hunting all over the field for it, the ball was declared foul. The next ball received by Courtenay he sent diagonally into the corner of the fence enclosing the field and again began his walk around the bases, completing it before the ball was found.

During the game Captain Paddock put the substitute into various positions, and he did as well in one as in another. He would catch a ball whether it came down in a curve or whether it was sent from the bat in a line parallel to the ground. When he pitched the batter never touched the ball. When behind the batter no pitcher could give a ball that he could not catch. He declined to use a body protector; indeed, there seemed no need for one, since he could catch any ball.

When the game was over the Ringolds had scored largely, while the Roslyn had made but three or four runs. Courtenay had carried the game on his shoulders, and that without any apparent effort. He had made but few runs himself, and then it seemed that he had been shot out of a gun.

The Ringolds wanted to take him up on their shoulders and carry him around the oval, but he protested so firmly that they desisted.

Courtenay was last seen, with the others, walking toward the dressing rooms. No one could say that he had seen him there or seen him leave there. Some thought that he had taken a train that passed about the time the game was over and gone to his home, wherever that was. Nevertheless the fact remains that without a word of farewell to any one he left the oval and the town.

Months afterward Kate Hathaway met a student of — university, to whom she told the story of Albert Courtenay.

"Oh, I know who that is! He's Ad Crichton."

"And who is Ad Crichton?"

"So called from the Admirable Crichton who lived in the sixteenth century. He knew everything, beat every man at any sort of exercise and spoke ten different languages. Courtenay is his counterpart. He's a queer duck. He's the wonder of our college."

Kate married Charlie Wilkins.

Prayer Meeting in the Commons.

For many years a prayer meeting has been held in the house of commons once a week during every parliamentary session. No one knows who originated the idea, but the records of the proceedings, which are faithfully noted each week, show that in the year 1833 the well known Quaker Mr. T. Fowell Buxton and the evangelist Mr. George Grey and Mr. Zachary Macaulay were in constant attendance. The prayer meeting is held in a room granted for the purpose by the sergeant-at-arms and is restricted to twenty minutes. The proceedings are very simple. At each weekly meeting a president for the following week is chosen. On the day of assembling—Tuesday, at 9 o'clock—the president for the day opens the meeting, reads a portion of the Scriptures and either offers an extempore prayer or calls on one of the members to pray. Two or three others offer short prayers, and the meeting closes with the benediction.—London News.

He Began Pardon No More.

Jones had just trod on the toe of an old gentleman while getting into the tram car.

"I beg your pardon," he said.

"Hey? Speak louder. I'm a trifle deaf."

"I beg your pardon," repeated Jones.

"Him! Peggy starving? Well, I'm sorry. Who's Peggy?"

Jones was red in the face now.

"You misunderstand, sir!" he shouted.

"Hey?"

"You misunderstand!"

"Miss Underwood, is she? Peggy, who is starving? Is Miss Underwood? Well?"

"I didn't say anything about Miss Underwood!" screamed Jones. "I begged your pardon, and you misunderstood."

"Oh, now I see!" said the old man sympathetically. "It is your Aunt Peggy who is starving Miss Underwood. Well, why don't you report the case to the police?"—Pearson's.

Not in Her Class.

While delivering an address at a woman's club an actress told the story of a young woman prominent in New York society who desired to achieve historic honors.

The manager to whom she confided her desire pointed out the inadvisability of the step she contemplated and added that even were he disposed to give her the chance she coveted he would still be in doubt whether her talents were such as to justify such action on his part.

"What is particularly desired by us at the present time," he said, "is the service of people who know the mechanics of the stage."

"Merciful heavens!" exclaimed the young woman, throwing up her hands. "You don't mean to tell me that it is necessary I should be on terms of intimacy with those dreadful stage hands?"—Lippincott's.

Proud of His Prospects.

Louis Pierre was one of a number of Canadian immigrants who settled at Fitzgerald, Ga. As he spoke both French and English he rapidly became a man of importance and was successively elected to the offices of city marshal, coroner and justice of the peace. A dispute arose between the French and English settlers as to the superiority of the United States over the Canadian provinces. They finally agreed to leave the decision to Judge Pierre, who handed down this decision:

"Toot tige a loog at me. Ferst dey minge me constabul, den coroner, und now justice of de pees. Soon I be ze governor, den senator, den president. I would be ze long time in Canada fore dey minge me queen."—Circle Magazine.

A Diet of Wild Honey.

Wild honey as a change is an agreeable sweetmeat, but after a few days constantly partaking of it the European palate rejects it as nauseous and almost disgusting. Our experience extended over a fortnight, during which period our food consisted solely of it and maize. It has escaped the Biblical commentators that John the Baptist must have undergone was his diet of wild honey.—Geographic Magazine.

Ancient Oath Taking.

A method of taking the oath far more hygienic than kissing the book was that observed at the Forest of Dean Mine court for about 500 years, beginning in the thirteenth century. It was not for any hygienic reasons, but to prevent selling the book that the miners before giving evidence touched the four gospels with a stick of holly. The witnesses wore their hats to show that they were free miners.—London Chronicle.

Only Part of the Truth.

Ives—I saw Captain Deepseer today. Beers—Well, what if you did? Ives—What if I did? Didn't you tell me that he was with his vessel when she went down last week with all on board? Beers—Yes, but I didn't tell you his vessel was a submarine.—Chicago News.

An Exception.

Binks—Here is somebody who says that no woman is a suffragist unless she has a grouse on some man. Sinks—That's queer. My wife isn't a suffragist.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Pa Was Wise.

"Papa, what is quiet hostility?"

"Quiet hostility, little Jim, is the way in which when I decline to give you a penny you sneak round behind my chair and make faces."—Scraps.

Nervous Prostration For Three Years

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine cured me of a period of nervous prostration of over three years duration, and the Anti-Pain Pills are as necessary to us as the roof of our house. They have been household remedies with us for many years."

WM. J. LOUGHRAN,
1214 Catherine St.,
Philadelphia, Penna.

Much sickness is due to nervous troubles. Headache, dizziness, epilepsy and insanity are nervous troubles. Then there is a large class of disorders which arise from a weakness of the nerves of an organ or part, as weak lungs, heart, stomach, kidney, bladder, eyes, etc. Dyspepsia and indigestion are usually the result of nervous disorders.

Restorative Nervine soothes the irritated nerves, and assists the nerve cells to generate nerve force.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by all druggists. If the first bottle fails to benefit, your druggist will return your money.

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Many farmers would like to keep an account of their receipts and expenses if some one would keep it for them.

Open a bank account and you will find the account keeps itself, without expense.

Your checks are always evidence of date and the amount paid, and your deposit book shows the amount of your receipts.

It is not required that a person have a large bulk of business in order to open an account.

If you have never done business in this way, and are not familiar with this plan, come to us and we will get you started.

The Farmers & Merchants Bank,
Salisbury, Maryland.

Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Ry. Co.
RAILWAY DIVISION.

Schedule effective Monday, Apr. 11, 1910.

East Bound		West Bound
PM	AM	PM	AM
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15
5:15	1:15	4:15	12:15
6:15	2:15	5:15	1:15
7:15	3:15	6:15	2:15
8:15	4:15	7:15	3:15
9:15	5:15	8:15	4:15
10:15	6:15	9:15	5:15
11:15	7:15	10:15	6:15
12:15	8:15	11:15	7:15
1:15	9:15	12:15	8:15
2:15	10:15	1:15	9:15
3:15	11:15	2:15	10:15
4:15	12:15	3:15	11:15

Professional Cards

RAILEY, JOSEPH L.
Attorney-at-Law
Office in "News" Building.

BENNETT, L. ATWOOD.
Attorney-at-Law
Office in Telephone Building, head Main St.

DOUGLASS, SAMUEL H.
Attorney-at-Law
Office Corner of Division and Water St.

ELLEGOOD, FREEMAN & WALKER.
Attorneys-at-Law
Office first floor Masonic Temple.

FITZ, N. T.
Attorney-at-Law
Office in "News" Building.

GOSLEE, F. GRANT
Attorney-at-Law
Office in "News" Building.

JACKSON, ALEXANDER M.
Attorney-at-Law
Office in Telephone Building, Division St.

LILLY, GEORGE W.
Attorney-at-Law
Room 18, News Building, Salisbury, Md.

ROADVIN & BELL.
Attorneys-at-Law
Office in Jackson Building, Main Street.

WALLER, GEO. W. D.
Attorney-at-Law
Office adjoining "Advertiser" Building.

WALTON, ELMER H.
Attorney-at-Law
Office in "Courier" Building, Main Street.

WILLIAMS, JAY.
Attorney-at-Law
Office in Williams Building, Division St.

Foley's Kidney Pills

What They Will Do for You

They will cure your backache, strengthen your kidneys, correct urinary irregularities, build up the worn out tissues, and eliminate the excess uric acid that causes rheumatism. Prevent Bright's Disease and Diabetes, and restore health and strength. Refuse substitutes.

For Sale By
JOHN M. TOULSON,

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

If You Want Cure That Back.

You need a pleasant herb remedy called Mother Gray's AURICULAR LEAF for all Kidney, Bladder and Urinary trouble. As a restorative it has no equal. Cures backache, nervousness, dizziness and loss of sleep. At all Druggists, or by mail, 50 cts. SAMPLE FREE. Address, The Mother Gray Co., LeRoy, N. Y.

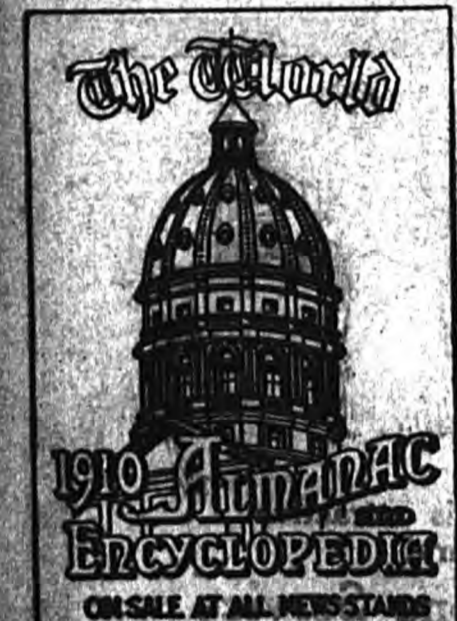

PARKER'S HAIR BALM
A beautiful growth promoter for the hair. It is the only hair balm that will grow the hair. It is the only hair balm that will grow the hair. It is the only hair balm that will grow the hair.

PILES

If you have Piles, we will cure you. Write to-day for FREE BOOKLET & GUARANTEE. Established in 1885, and have never found a case we could not cure. GREEN'S SPECIFIC CO., Broadway & Manhattan St., New York.

A COMPLETE LIBRARY In One Volume.

Will tell you something about everything and everything about a great many things; the army and navy, population of countries, States and cities, the new tariff of 1910, progress of Panama Canal work, census of Cuba, prosecution of trusts, party platforms of 1909, rise in prices of principal commodities, aerial navigation in 1909, Polar exploration in 1909—discovery of the North Pole, growth of the United States, Sixty-first Congress about wars, sporting events, weights and measures, universities and colleges, religious orders in the United States, debts of nations, weather forecasts, fatality tables, commerce, taxes, money, banking, insurance, secret societies, prohibition movement in 1909, report of national commission on country life and conservation of natural resources and

10,000 Other Facts & Figures

and everyday interest to everybody. No merchant, farmer, laborer, business man, housewife, school boy or girl should be without a copy of this greatest compilation of useful information ever set in type. On sale everywhere, 25c. (west of Buffalo and Pittsburgh, 50c). By mail, 30c. Address: Frederick Publishing Co., Publishers Building, New York City.

...If Going To...

Washington, D. C.

Write for handsome descriptive booklet and map

HOTEL RICHMOND

17th and H Streets, N. W.

Around the corner from the White House. Direct street car route to palatial Union Station. 100 rooms. 50 Baths.

European, $1.50 per day upward; with Bath $2.50 upward; each additional person 50c.

Americas, $3.00 per day upward; with Bath $4.00 upward.

Club breakfast 20 to 75c. Table d'Hôte breakfast $1.00. Luncheon 50c and Dinner $1.00. Restaurant a la carte. Reasonable prices; Music.

A Model Hotel Conducted for Your Comfort.

Seeing Washington automobiles leave hotel daily.

CLIFFORD M. LEWIS, Prop.

Summer Season

The American Luzerne in the Adirondack foothills. Wayside Inn and Cottage on the beautiful Lake Luzerne, Warren Co., N. Y. Open June 26th. to October 1st. Booklet.

FAIRFIELD BLOOD TONIC

THE SCIENTIFIC CONDITION POWDERS

that restores to Hay, Grain and Fodder the nutritive elements driven from them in the drying process.

A Separate Preparation For Each Kind Of Animal

Blood Tonic for Horses Only
Milk Producer for Cattle Only
Egg Producer for Poultry Only
Blood Tonic for Hogs Only

Each Tonic is specially prepared for the kind of animal for which it is intended and contains the medicinal roots and herbs that act most beneficial upon that kind of animal's peculiar digestive organism. These Tonics purify the blood by perfecting digestion and neutralizing the poisons in the system. They prevent and cure disease, make feed go further and increase vitality and production.

Sold Under Written Guarantee By
FARMERS & PLANTERS CO., Salisbury R. H. LOWE, Delmar.
E. R. ENNIS & CO., Parsonsburg W. S. DISHARON, Quantico

FOR SALE

Canning Factory

Equipped with all modern conveniences and machinery for canning Tomatoes and Peas. In first-class condition in every respect. Located on Rider farm about 1 1/2 to 2 miles from town. Will sell factory alone or with necessary ground as desired by purchaser.

APPLY TO
WM. H. JACKSON.

FEED FAIRFIELD'S FAITHFULLY

WANTED

TO BUY, FOR CASH,

50 Leghorn Chickens

State age, price and full particulars.

Address, LOCK BOX 275, SALISBURY, MD.

Money To Loan

In sums ranging from $500.00 to $5000.00 on First Mortgage Real Estate.

APPLY TO
L. ATWOOD BENNETT
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
SALISBURY, MD.

GREEN HOUSE

Permanent and Transient
BOARDERS

MRS. T. J. GREEN, Prop.
410 Hanover Street, Baltimore

ROOSEVELT AT LAKE NAIWASHA

Exciting Experience of the Former President While Hunting Hippopotamuses in the Wilds of Africa.

WHILE traveling in Africa Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, had several thrilling experiences on Lake Naivasha hunting hippopotamuses. A steam launch and a big rowboat were used in these trips. One day while hunting with Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Roosevelt, who wanted to get a big bull hippo for the Smithsonian museum, fired at a huge head of a hippo that rose up out of the waters close to his boat. The beast sank out of sight without a splash, but when its body was raised it was found to be that of a big cow. Soon afterward Mr. Roosevelt succeeded in his quest. In Scribner's Magazine for May, in his article on "African Game Trails" he describes as follows how he killed a big bull hippopotamus: "So I left Cunningham to cut off the head for the museum and started off by myself in the boat with two rowers, neither of whom spoke a word of English. For an hour we saw only the teeming bird life. Then in a broad, shallow lagoon we made out a opportunity to ponder the subject, for twenty feet away the water bubbled, and a huge head shot out facing me, the jaws wide open. There was no time to guess at its intentions, and I fired on the instant. Down went the head, and I felt the boat quiver as the hippo passed underneath. Just here the hippo pads were thick, so I marked its course, fired as it rose and down it went. But on the other quarter of the boat a beast, evidently of great size—it proved to be a big bull—now appeared, well above water, and I put a bullet into its brain." About an hour afterward four dead hippos were found by the hunters on the surface of the water, one huge bull and three big cows.

Ravages of the Hideous Baboons, Which Are a Dangerous Pest to the Animals and to the Timid Natives.

Even Kill Children and Women.

During his encampment on the shores of Lake Naivasha Mr. Roosevelt saw many baboons, and in the same article he describes their depredations as follows: "The baboons were numerous around this camp, living both among the dozen hippo, two or three very big. Cautiously we approached them, and when seventy yards off I fired at the base of the ear of one of the largest. Down went every head, and utter calm succeeded. I had marked the spot where the one at which I shot had disappeared, and thither we rowed. When we reached the place I told one of the rowers to thrust a pole down and see if he could touch the dead body. He thrust according and at once shouted that he had found the hippo. In another moment his face altered, and he shouted much more loudly that the hippo was alive.

LEOPARD TRAPPED BY MR. ROOSEVELT WITH REAR HORN LONGER THAN FRONT ONE KILLED BY MR. ROOSEVELT AND HIS BIG BULL HIPPO.

Lively Time With Bumping Hippos.

"Sure enough, bump went the hippo against the bottom of the boat, the jar caused us all to sit suddenly down, for we were standing. Another bump showed that we had again been struck, and the shallow, muddy water boiled as the huge beasts, above and below the surface, scattered every which way. Their eyes starting, the two rowers began to back water out of the dangerous neighborhood, while I shot at an animal whose head appeared to my left as it made off with frantic haste, for I took it for granted that the hippo at which I had fired had escaped. This one disappeared as usual, and I had not the slightest idea whether or not I had killed it. I had small rocks and in the treetops. They are hideous creatures. They ravage the crops and tear open newborn lambs to get at the milk inside them, and where the natives are timid and unable to harm them they become wantonly savage and aggressive and attack and even kill women and children. In Uganda, Cunningham had once been asked by a native chief to come to his village and shoot the baboons, as they had just killed two women, badly bitten several children and caused such a reign of terror that the village would be abandoned if they were not killed or intimidated. He himself saw the torn and mutilated bodies of the dead women, and he stayed in the village a week, shooting so many baboons that the remainder were thoroughly cowed."

Mr. Roosevelt also killed a cow rhinoceros which had peculiar horns. The rear one, which proved to be two feet in length, was a little bit longer than the stouter front one.

Various beasts were trapped by Mr. Heller, a member of Mr. Roosevelt's party. But in a steel trap set for much smaller animals, his most remarkable catch was made, that of a large male leopard which had been caught firmly by only one toe. How the beast was tracked to a thicket and there killed is interestingly described in the same article, as well as the preceding incident about the rhinoceros.

big game. It was a cat ally I saw earlier on this trip," said one of the staffbacks. "One of the dingiest rats I ever saw." They were rats in a from how to them, rats in the hall, to the gallery, in the stateroom, in the fore-cabin, in the old man's room—everywhere rats, horrible but.

"Bimby it got so bad we had to put in an' get them off. So we moved up to a dock an' fumigated. I was on deck an' I saw them rats leavin'. I counted 'em. They was 35,000,000 of 'em."

"Fifteen million!" asked the other. "An't that a lot o' rats? Are you sure?"

"Sure! Yes, I'm sure. They was 15,000,000 rats, an' I counted 'em. More than that every rat weighed half a pound. They was big, fat, easy ones, I'm tellin'."

"Fifteen million rats, and every one weighed half a pound, and they all came off your ship. That's 7,500,000 pounds of rats. Say, Jim, what was the tonnage of that ship?"

"Oh, about a hundred and fifty tons."—Judge.

His Sarcastic Apology.
A well known New Yorker figured in a quaint encounter with a "panshandler" not long ago. The fellow had asked him for a dime, when the following conversation took place: "You're a positive nuisance! Tuesday you struck me for a dime, Thursday I gave you another, and now you have the nerve to ask for a third!" "Excuse me, but are you the gent that gave me a dime on this corner the day before yesterday?" "Yes." "And now I've tackled you for the third dime?" "Yes." "Wasn't," said the hobo contritely, "I sincerely beg your pardon, old man. That's too much gall even for me. The only excuse I have to offer is that you have improved so much in your personal appearance that I didn't recognize you."—Cleveland Leader.

Both Stung.
Some time ago an eminent London physician requested an equally eminent surgeon to accompany him to see a distinguished but slippery patient. The patient was exceedingly polite to both the medical gentlemen, shaking hands with them and bowing them out of the room in the most affable manner. Soon after this professional visit the same physician called again on the surgeon, requesting him to accompany him to see another patient. On their way thither the surgeon observed, "I hope this patient will behave more liberally than the last did."

"Why?" said the M. D. "Did he not give you a fee?" "Not a shilling," was the reply. "Indeed!" said the eminent physician, with a toss of the head. "Why, he borrowed 2 guineas from me to give to you!"—Tit-Bits.

Inertia of the Nerves.
The researches and experiments of a French scientist have led him to the conclusion that the cerebral nervous system is incapable of perceiving more than an average of ten separate impressions per second. After each excitation of the nerves a period of inertia follows, lasting about one-tenth of a second, and during this period a new impression cannot be made. According to the investigations of this scientist a person cannot make more than ten or at the most a dozen separate voluntary movements of any kind in a second, although the muscles, independently of the will, are capable of making as many as thirty or forty.

A Romantic Career.
The romantic career of a very remarkable man, John Gully, who succeeded Cribb in his battle with Moll-nux, is thus summed up in the "Dictionary of National Biography": "Prizefighter, horse racer, legislator and colliery proprietor." Gully fought his first fight just before Trafalgar. He fought his last and retired from the prize ring in a blaze of triumph seven years before Waterloo. Gully rose to be a rich man and a member of parliament. He won the Derby three times and was the owner of a large and prosperous colliery. He died in 1863, the father of twenty-four children.

Compensation.
"I felt so sorry when I heard your house was burned down, Mrs. Jones," said Mrs. Hawkins. "It was too bad," said Mrs. Jones, "but it had its bright side. John and I were both afraid to discharge our cook, but now that the house is gone of course we don't have to."—Harper's Weekly.

Supplying a Want.
Shabby Individual (to painter up ladder)—Hi, you're dropping your paint all over me. Painter—Well, you're badly in need of a coat of some sort.—London Tit-Bits.

A Better Position.
"Why did Dollaby sell his hotel?" "He wasn't making money fast enough." "What is he doing now?" "He's luxuriating in the position of head waiter."—Pearson's Weekly.

That Boy Again.
Mrs. Boardem—I ordered lamb and you sent me mutton. Butcher—It was lamb when it left here, mum.—Judge's Library.

Good reasons must, of course, give place to better.—Shakespeare.

Absolutely Pure...

Royal Baking Powder
Increases the flavor and adds to the healthfulness of the food

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure

INTERNATIONAL PEACE ADDRESS

Colonel Roosevelt Speaks Before Nobel Prize Commission.

CHERISHES HIS GOLD MEDAL

Gives His Views on How War Can Be Avoided—Favors Arbitration First. Advises European Powers to Study Constitution of the United States. Should Limit Size of Ships.

Christiania, Norway, May 5.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt delivered an address before the Nobel prize commission on "International Peace" as follows:

It is with peculiar pleasure that I stand here today to express the deep appreciation I feel of the high honor conferred upon me by the presentation of the Nobel peace prize. The gold medal which formed part of the prize I shall always keep, and I shall hand it on to my children as a precious heirloom.

The sum of money provided as part of the prize by the wise generosity of the illustrious founder of this world famous prize system I did not, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, feel at liberty to keep. I think it eminently just and proper that in most cases the recipient of the prize should keep for his own use the prize in its entirety. But in this case, while I did not act officially as president of the United States, it was nevertheless only because I was president that I was enabled to act at all, and I felt that the money must be considered as having been given me in trust for the United States.

I therefore used it as a nucleus for a foundation to forward the cause of industrial peace, as being well within the general purpose of your committee, for on our complex industrial civilization of today the peace of righteousness and justice, the only kind of peace worth having, is at least as necessary in the industrial world as it is among nations.

There is at least as much need to curb the cruel greed and arrogance of part of the world of capital, to curb the cruel greed and violence of part of the world of labor, as to check a cruel and unhealthy militarism in international relationships.

Peace Generally Good.

We must ever bear in mind that the great end in view is righteousness, justice as between man and man, nation and nation, the chance to lead our lives on a somewhat higher level, with a broader spirit of brotherly good will one for another.

Peace is generally good in itself, but it is never the highest good unless it comes as the handmaid of righteousness, and it becomes a very evil thing if it serves merely as a mask for cowardice and sloth or as an instrument to further the ends of despotism or anarchy.

We despise and abhor the bully, the braver, the oppressor, whether in private or public life. But we despise no less the coward and the voluptuary. No man is worth calling a man who will not fight rather than submit to infamy or see those that are dear to him suffer wrong.

No nation deserves to exist if it permits itself to lose the stern and virile virtues, and this without regard to whether the loss is due to the growth of a heartless and all absorbing commercialism, to prolonged indulgence in luxury and soft, effortless ease or to the dedication of a warped and twisted sentimentality.

Moreover and above all let us remember that words count only when they give expression to deeds or are to be translated into them. The leaders of the red terror prattled of peace while they steeped their hands in the blood of the innocent, and many a tyrant has called it peace when he has scorned honest protest to silence.

Our words must be judged by our deeds, and in striving for a lofty ideal we must use practical methods, and if we cannot attain all at one leap we must advance toward it step by step, reasonably content so long as we do actually make some progress in the right direction.

Now, having freely admitted the limitations to our work and the qualifications to be borne in mind, I feel that I have the right to have my words taken seriously when I point out where, in my judgment, great advance can be made in the cause of international peace.

I speak as a practical man, and whatever I now advocate I actually tried to do when I was for the time being the head of a great nation and keenly jealous of its honor and interest. I ask other nations to do only what I should be glad to see my own nation do.

How to Secure Peace.

The advance can be made along several lines. First of all there can be treaties of arbitration. There are, of course, states so backward that a civilized community ought not to enter into an arbitration treaty with them, at least until we have gone much further than at present in securing some kind of international police action. But all really civilized communities should have effective arbitration treaties among themselves.

I believe that these treaties can cover almost all questions liable to arise between such nations if they are drawn with the explicit agreement that each contracting party will respect the other's territory and its absolute sovereignty within that territory and the equally explicit agreement that, aside from the very rare cases where the nation's honor is vitally concerned, all other possible subjects of controversy will be submitted to arbitration. Such a treaty would insure peace unless one party deliberately violated it.

Of course as yet there is no adequate safeguard against such deliberate violation, but the establishment of a sufficient number of these treaties would go a long way toward creating a world opinion which would finally find expression in the provision of methods to forbid or punish any such violation.

Secondly, there is the further development of The Hague tribunal, of the work of the conferences and courts at The Hague. It has been well said that the first Hague conference framed a magna charta for the nations. It set before us an ideal which has already to some extent been realized and toward the full realization of which we can all steadily strive. The second conference made further progress. The third should do yet more. Meanwhile the American government has more than once tentatively suggested methods for completing the court of arbitral justice, constituted at the second Hague conference, and for rendering it effective.

Study the United States.

It is earnestly to be hoped that the various governments of Europe, working with those of America and of Asia, shall set themselves seriously to the task of devising some method which shall accomplish this result. If I may venture the suggestion, it would be well for the statesmen of the world, in planning for the erection of this world court, to study what has been done in the United States by the supreme court.

I cannot help thinking that the constitution of the United States, notably in the establishment of the supreme court and in the methods adopted for securing peace and good relations among and between the different states, offers certain valuable analogies to what should be striven for in order to secure, through The Hague courts and conferences, a species of world federation for international peace and justice.

There are, of course, fundamental differences between what the United States constitution does and what we should even attempt at this time to secure at The Hague, but the method adopted in the American constitution to prevent hostilities between the states and to secure the supremacy of the federal court in certain classes of cases are well worthy the study of those who seek at The Hague to obtain the same results on a world scale.

In the third place, something should be done as soon as possible to check the growth of armaments, especially naval armaments, by international agreement. No one power could or should act by itself, for it is eminently undesirable from the standpoint of the peace of righteousness that a power of which some believe in the should play itself at the mercy of some rival which may at bottom have no such belief and no intention of acting on it.

Limit Size of Ships.

But, granted an entry of purpose, the great powers of the world should find no insurmountable difficulty in reaching an agreement which would put an end to the present costly and growing extravagance of expenditure on naval armaments. An agreement merely to limit the size of ships would have been very useful a few years ago and would still be of use, but the agreement should go much further.

Finally, it would be a master stroke if those great powers honestly bent on peace would form a league of peace not only to keep the peace among themselves, but to prevent, by force if necessary, its being broken by others. The supreme difficulty in connection with developing the peace work of The Hague arises from the lack of any executive power, of any police power to enforce the decrees of the court.

In any community of any size, the authority of the courts rests upon actual or potential force, on the existence of a police or on the knowledge that the abled men of the country are both ready and willing to see that the decrees of judicial and legislative bodies are put into effect. In new and wild communities where there is violence an honest man must protect himself, and until other means of securing his safety are devised it is both foolish and wicked to persuade him to surrender his arms while the men who are dangerous to the community retain theirs.

He should not renounce the right to protect himself by his own efforts until the community is so organized that it can effectively relieve the individual of the duty of putting down violence.

So it is with nations. Each nation must keep well prepared to defend itself until the establishment of some form of international police power competent and willing to prevent violence as between nations.

As things are now such power to command peace throughout the world could best be assured by some combination between those great nations which sincerely desire peace and have no thought themselves of committing aggressions.

The combination might at first be only to secure peace within certain definite limits and certain definite conditions, but the ruler or statesman who should bring about such a combination would have earned his place in history for all time and his title to the gratitude of all mankind.

Personal.

(Continued)

—The Misses Houston expect to leave the first of June for Europe where they will remain until October.

—Mr. Harold W. Smith, and family arrived in Salisbury Monday night and will make this their permanent home.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Jackson, who have been spending several weeks at Hot Springs, Va., have returned home.

—Mrs. S. P. Woodcock, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. W. B. Jackson, in Baltimore, returns home to night.

—The Mite Society of Asbury M. E. Church met at the home of Mrs. W. J. Downing Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

—Miss Louise Gunby entertained at Bridge Tuesday afternoon in honor of her guest Miss Frieder of Carbondale, Pennsylvania.

Pittsville.

March Honor Roll for the Fifth, Sixth and Eighth Grades, Pittsville Central School: Algebra, Alfred Truitt; Physiology, Edwin Wimbrow; Spelling, Elva Campbell, Carrie Hudson, Harry Collins; Arithmetic, Mamie Campbell, Carrie Hudson, Virgil Freney, Benny Middleton; Deportment, Carrie Hudson, Pearl Collins, Martha Smith, Alfred Truitt, Walter Collins, John Sturgis, Harry Middleton, Laura Dukes, Guy Ward, Florence Brittingham. C. S. SHERRARD, Teacher.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by him.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, setting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for Constipation.

Firemen's Bazaar.

At the regular meeting of the Salisbury Fire Department, Wednesday evening, the following were elected delegates to the State Convention: W. W. White, Severn Dawson, John Lank, Harry Turner and Thomas Howard. Alternates, Burton Cannon, Geo. B. Richardson, Roy Hearn, Edward Mills, and George Serman, Jr.

The Department is now getting ready to hold a Bazaar at the Armory Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, May 18, 19 and 20. The boys should receive help from every citizen of Salisbury, as they are always ready and willing to save property. This Bazaar is being held to raise money, so the boys can attend the State Convention which is to be held in Baltimore, June 9th and 10th.

For Sale Timber Lands

either in fee or stumpage only, well selected, with or without mills and in large or small tracts. I have nothing for sale to which titles are not clear and perfect. If you would save time and money in looking for tracts it will pay you to communicate with me. I am confident I can suit you.

W. W. Robertson,
Timber Lands,
Norfolk, - Virginia

THE PEOPLES' LUNCH ROOM

Meals Served at all Hours.
All Kinds of Game
In Season
Beverages of all Kinds dispensed from Soda Fountain
C. N. ENNETT, PROP.
407 MAIN STREET
Next door to Courier office
All Daily and Sunday Papers on Sale

Meals at all Hours, Salisbury Restaurant

J. EDWARD WHITE, Proprietor
Main St., near the Bridge.
Bill of Fare includes Oysters in all styles, all kinds Sandwiches, Ham, Eggs, Beef Steak, Etc. Game of all kinds served on order, also bought at highest market prices. Orders from town customers filled promptly with the best the market affords. Give us a call.
Telephone No. 335.

House Framing, Lumber, Cord and Slab Wood FOR SALE

ROOM PT. DELIVERIES
ADDRESS
A. F. BENJAMIN, Salisbury or
J. T. TOADVINE, Eden

A Few Bargains In South alisbury

A few bargains in nice, large building lots in South Salisbury, also a few near E. Church St., extended. These lots will be sold cheap for quick sale; also on easy terms, to suit purchaser. If you want a home in Salisbury in the next two or three years, now is the time to buy. Remember, land values have nearly doubled this year and keep advancing. I will take Farm Land in exchange if the purchaser desires.

E. W. TRUITT
SALISBURY, MD.

A Worldly Man

is generally alert as to when to make the best investment. When it comes to assuring his property with

Fire Insurance
he gets down to the "meat" of the matter. He bargains for low rates of premiums and gets insured in solvent companies. We write insurance for the "worldly man" and you can be as safe as he is by having all policies written by us.

P. S. Shockley & Co.
SALISBURY, MD.

Just Out

OUR newest and latest catalog of window and door screens is just out and we want you to have one. We would also like to have our "screen salesman" call and see you and give you an estimate on screens for your house. Our screens are recommended for their general practical features and it costs you no thing to get our prices. You know the investment for screens for your house is one of the best you can make as it not only saves labor in keeping your house clean and sanitary, but it prevents disease of various kinds (See bulletins from Maryland Agricultural College and otherlike institutions.) Only a line by mail or a word by phone and you can have a representative at your door.

WE would also remind you that our delivery system is in perfect shape and our stock of building material was never more complete. Everything in the building line. Framing, siding, sheathing, shingles, doors, windows, frames, blinds, flooring, ceiling, mantels, mouldings, plastering laths, lime, hardware, cement, bricks, prepared roofing, building paper, etc. ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING.

E. S. ADKINS & CO.
"Quality the First Consideration, Cost the Second"
SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

Kennerly-Shockley Co.

Tailor Made Suits

now in and ready for early purchasers. This cut represents one of our popular styles in Spring Suits. Our line this season consists of all the leading shades and popular designs. Prices ranging from $14.90 to $25.00. We have just received a lot of Silk Waists in popular shades which will be sold for $3.50.

Kennerly-Shockley Co.

Dry Goods, Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Shoes

SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

Social Life
for the farmer's wife is attractive since the advent of Rural

Bell Telephone Service

A friendly visit by telephone to a neighbor relieves the monotony of the day's household duties.

Write for particulars.

The Diamond State Telephone Co.

THE COURIER

Vol. XII, No. 8.

Salisbury, Maryland, Saturday, May 14, 1910

$1.00 per Annum

The Latest Styles

Ladies'

Oxfords, Sailor Ties
Ankle Strap Pumps
The "Wishbone Pumps"
(The Latest)

Young Mens'

Oxfords, One and Two
Eyelet Sailor Ties
The "Kandy Kid"
(The Latest)

Make up your mind when you find the "Big Shoe" that you are at "The Right Place" for the season's latest styles.

E. Homer White
Shoe Company
229 Main St. Salisbury, Md.

TO CLEAR YOUR COMPLEXION USE

Sulphur and Cream of Tartar Tablets

Effective, Economical and Pleasant to Take

10c

White & Leonard

DRUG STORES

Cor. Main and St. Peter's Sts.
East Church St.

It Always Pays To Feature The Best

El-Mardo
5c. CIGAR

produces the best results wherever they are on sale. The growth of El-Mardo Cigars proves their superiority both as to quality and workmanship.

WATSON'S SMOKE HOUSE
PAUL E. WATSON, PROPRIETOR
SALISBURY, MARYLAND

Confections Have Social Standing

as well as the people that buy them. There is one particular kind that goes into the most exclusive circles and is regarded as the candy of quality.

Belle Mead Sweets

Chocolates and Bon Bons

In their beautiful gold seal box. Are recognized everywhere as a synonym for class—exclusive circles and is regarded as the candy of quality.

No purer, more delicious, more relishable candy has ever been made.

SOLD BY
WILKINS & CO.,
SOLE AGENTS

HAVEN'T YOU BEEN EXPECTING?

TO START A BANK ACCOUNT? Been trying to save an amount sufficient to "make a good start"? The "small purchase temptation" makes it very hard to accumulate any certain sum by keeping money in your pocket or hiding it around the house when probably it will be stolen from you.

This bank accepts deposits for $1.00 and up—why not come in and open an account with us NOW—let the bank help you save—its the only safe way.

The Salisbury National Bank

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY
SURPLUS $80,000 CAPITAL $80,000
OLDEST BANK IN WICOMICO COUNTY

W. P. JACKSON, President
JOHN H. WHITE, Cashier

JAY WILLIAMS, Vice-President
W. S. GORDY, JR., Asst. Cashier

MORE FREE SERVICE FOR COUNTRY SUBSCRIBERS.

Small Towns in Southern Section of County Will Be Connected With Salisbury Exchange And Toll Charges Dispersed With.

By a special arrangement with the telephone subscribers in the Southern section of Wicomico county, the Diamond State Telephone Company, during the coming week, will dispense with the present toll charges for connection in the county. This means that subscribers at Quantico, Tynasin, Bivalve, Clara, Josterville, Nantux, and White Haven will be placed upon the same basis as other rural lines out of Salisbury and that free service to these points will be established. After this change has been made, telephone subscribers in Wicomico county will have practically unlimited exchange service, the only points not included in the free territory being Pittsville, Willards, Mardela and Sharptown. It is expected, however, that within a few weeks Mardela will be placed on the same basis. Sharptown is out of the question because of a sub-leased company which controls the service to that town.

Under the present contract for telephone service, subscribers in the towns mentioned above have no free exchange service, but guarantee to use the toll service to the extent of $25.00 per year. Under the new arrangement subscribers at these points will be connected with the Salisbury exchange on party lines and will be charged $25.00 per year. For a business telephone and $20.00 a year for service in a farm or residence. Except that they are on party lines this is the same service that Salisbury subscribers receive, as they will be able to reach any telephone connected with the Salisbury exchange without the extra toll charge.

City Solicitor Appointed.

Wednesday afternoon Mayor Chas. E. Harper appointed L. Atwood Bennett City solicitor to fill out the unexpired term caused by the resignation of E. Stanley Toadvin, who was recently appointed associate judge of the First Judicial Circuit. Mr. Bennett has served in this capacity before and is well equipped for the duties of the office.

Pay Again Increased.

The trainmen, engineers, firemen and conductors on the N. Y. P. & N. have been granted a substantial increase in pay over and above the recent raise in wages of six per cent. The men have also been assured of better working conditions, etc., and they are highly satisfied with their treatment at the hands of the superintendent.

SIXTEEN STUDENTS TO GRADUATE THIS YEAR.

Five Boys And Eleven Girls Constitute Wicomico High School Graduating Class—Exercises To Be Held At Opera House.

A class of sixteen, composed of five boys and eleven girls will be graduating this year from the Wicomico High School. Last year seventeen graduates received diplomas but the list this year shows an increase in the number of boys in the class, as there was only one male graduate in the class a year ago. The commencement exercises will be held on the evening of May 14th at the opera house and an elaborate program is being arranged. It is not known as yet who will deliver the annual address to the graduates and the competition is so keen among the members of the class that the valedictorian and salutatorian were not known yesterday when the COURIER went to press as these honors depend upon examinations which were being held at that time. The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered on the Sunday evening preceding the commencement exercises at Trinity M. E. Church by the pastor, Rev. F. J. Carey and the members of the class will attend in a body.

The names of the graduates follow: Messrs. Walter Kendall Allen, Clifford Ryall, Irving E. Phillips, Robert A. Brotemarkle, Everett Holland Williams. Misses Addie Belle Williams, Miriam Williams, Nancy Hooper Smith, Mary Elizabeth Pusey, Viola Blanche Pollitt, Dorothy Ellen Mitchell, Etha Etta Messick, Ruth Kennerly, L. Blanche Kennerly, Ruby Frances Hayman and Ethel Jane Day.

Marriage Licenses.

The following licenses to marry were issued by Clerk of the Court E. A. Toadvin during the week:

Spencer-Clark—Edward A. Spencer 27, and Nancy Clark 19, Worcester county.
Cantwell-Goslee—Roland T. Cantwell 27, and Sallie J. Goslee 25, Wicomico county.
Richardson-Wimbrow—Calvin P. Richardson 21, and Irma L. Wimbrow 19, Wicomico county.
Farlow-Gravener—Jesse H. Farlow, Jr. 23, and Cora E. Gravener 24, Wicomico county.

An Army Of Pickers.

The steamer "Olio," of Baltimore, arrived in Salisbury early yesterday morning with about 350 men and women who have been engaged to pick strawberries for different persons in this county. They left during the day for Pittsville.

NEW SCHEDULE GIVES BETTER TRAIN SERVICE.

Several Trains Added In Time Table Which Goes Into Effect May 29th. Salisbury To Have Five Trains Each Way Daily.

A change in the running schedule of the trains on the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad, which is to go into effect on the 29th of this month, if of considerable importance to the people of Salisbury. By this schedule this city will have the benefit of five North bound trains and five South bound trains each day except Sunday. People living at points South of Salisbury will have the opportunity of shopping in this city and people living at Northern points will be similarly benefited.

The new schedule follows: The North-bound trains will be as follows: No. 44, Pocomoke to Philadelphia, leaving Salisbury at about 7.45 a. m.; No. 43, Portsmouth to Philadelphia, leaving Salisbury at 1.50 p. m.; No. 40, Cape Charles to Philadelphia, leaving Salisbury about 3.10 p. m.; No. 30, Cape Charles to Delmar, leaving Salisbury about 9.40 p. m.; No. 50, Portsmouth to Philadelphia, leaving Salisbury at 12.25 a. m. South-bound trains will be as follows: Train No. 43, mail, Philadelphia to Cape Charles, leaving Salisbury about 11.25 a. m.; No. 47, through Express, leaving Salisbury at 1.45 p. m.; No. 45, leaving Salisbury at 7.00 p. m., running all the way through to Tasley, Va.; Train No. 41, Pocomoke City, leaving Salisbury about 10.00 p. m.; No. 49, New York to Portsmouth, leaving Salisbury at 3.00 a. m.

Court Goes To Crisfield.

Princess Anne, Md., May 12.—The state closed its case today in the trial of Lewis Boznango, Miley Elliott and George Smith, who are charged with the murder of J. Dallas Collins and the burning of the railroad wharf at Crisfield on February 9 last. The feature of the day's proceedings was when Attorney Miles, for the state, attempted to discredit the testimony of one of the state's witnesses, John Sherwood, who failed to answer the questions put to him as the attorney for the state desired.

Harry Buckley, a captain of police for the Pennsylvania Railroad, stated that after the arrest of traversera Boznango had said in his hearing: "They can't give us over 10 years for this."

Jaller J. A. Holland, of the Princess Anne Jail, testified that Boznango, while in jail, had told his sister to "get a good lawyer, for I've got a tough case, and if she don't help, I may stretch."

The state rested its case shortly before 11 o'clock, and the opening statement for the defense was made by Col. Thomas S. Hodson, who said that if Collins had been murdered and the burning of the pier had been other than accident, the defense would show that the prisoners were not the responsible parties. He also stated that they would show the whereabouts of the accused on the night of the fire, and that Boznango and Smith were aboard the boat where they slept at 9 o'clock that night.

Frank Tyler was the first witness called for the defense. He stated that he was the first fireman on the scene when the pier burnt, and Boznango and the other two men accused were not seen there by him. Witnesses for the defense stated they saw three strange men on the railroad pier the night the fire occurred, and one of them was a cripple.

While much valuable testimony for the defense was brought in by a number of witnesses, the state damaged this testimony on cross-examination by bringing out the fact that most of the witnesses were relatives of one or the other of the accused. Mrs. Florence V. Smith, wife of George Smith, the accused, and 16-year-old son, Edward, testified to the presence of Smith in his home on the night of the fire. On cross-examination of these witnesses maintained their statements, and the state only succeeded in making the boy say he "had rehearsed his testimony with the family."

Capt. M. Todd, of Dorchester county, corroborated the testimony of a number of previous witnesses. He was subjected to a severe cross-examination.

DRASTIC RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY COUNCIL.

City Authorities Formally Notify Principal Owner Of Stock In Salisbury Water Company That Mains Must Be Extended.

Unable to accede to the demands of the residents of the out-lying sections of the city for the extension of water mains so that better protection can be had in case of fire, the Mayor and Council, at its last meeting, adopted a resolution, and directed that a letter be forwarded to Mr. Louis Daimas, the largest stockholder in the Salisbury Water Company, stating that he must live up to his agreement with the Mayor and Council or suffer the consequences. The resolution is self explanatory and is published in full.

Resolved, That the Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to notify and direct the Salisbury Water Company to extend its water mains in the city of Salisbury, as follows: From Camden Avenue up Maryland Avenue to Smith street a distance of five hundred and twenty-seven feet; from intersection of Maryland Ave., and Smith street down Smith to North Boulevard a distance of nine hundred and ninety-four feet; from intersection of North Boulevard and Smith street west on North Boulevard to Camden Avenue a distance of four hundred and fifty three feet; from Humphreys Mill Dam South on South Division Street to the intersection of South Division street with Snow Hill road a distance of three thousand feet; from intersection of Philadelphia Avenue and North Division street to Corporate limits (North) a distance of thirteen hundred and thirty feet; said water mains to be laid with four inch pipe, on all of said streets and avenues, except South Division Street which is to be laid with six inch pipe. The city of Salisbury agreeing to place waterpiping for fire protection along said streets and avenues in accordance with contract as set forth in the charter of the Salisbury Water Co. granted by the Mayor and Council of Salisbury. Said work to commence on or before the 1st day of June, 1910, and to be completed as early as possible.

A Successful Production.

"The King's Carnival," which was given on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the opera house for the benefit of the King's Daughters of this city, proved to be a decided success. Over a hundred of Salisbury's best amateur players took part in the performances. Pretty stage settings, elaborate costumes, beautiful women, catchy songs, fancy drills and dances and clever comedy cannot help but please and in "The Carnival" all of these things were in evidence from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

The performances were well patronized and the King's Daughters made a net profit of about $140.00 from the attraction.

The piece was staged under the personal direction of Miss Elizabeth McCloskey and Mr. Robert McCloskey, of Loch Haven, Pa., and much of the production is due to their efforts.

The King's Daughters desire to thank all those who so willingly took part in the performances and the business houses which so kindly loaned articles for stage effects.

To Open Sanatorium.

Everything now looks favorable to the opening of the Pine Bluff Sanatorium near Salisbury during the present month. Monday, a meeting was held at the Sanatorium at which were present a number of the Board of Directors and the physicians of the City. The By-Laws of the concern were amended in several respects and an advisory Board composed of Dr. George W. Todd, Dr. J. McFadden Dick, Dr. Louis W. Morris, Dr. D. B. Potter, Dr. Harry C. Tull and Dr. Harry S. Wallis, was elected to take charge of the medical end of the Sanatorium. These gentlemen have all become stockholders and will help manage the institution. All applicants for admission will be passed upon by this advisory board so as to insure the admission of none but incipient cases of tuberculosis.

Mr. A. A. Marshall, of Washington, has consented to take charge of the financial needs of the Sanatorium and dispose of the rest of the stock in the treasury. It is proposed to start the Sanatorium on the highest plane. The State recognized the institution by making an appropriation of one thousand dollars a year towards its maintenance. The Sanatorium will be put on a sound financial basis and run as a high class institution.

SPECIAL FOR 30 DAYS ONLY

This Package Of Tea
FREE
With One Pound of
WHITE HOUSE COFFEE

To introduce White House Tea into families who are now using White House Coffee but have never tried the tea, we have arranged with your dealer to present you

Absolutely Free ONE FULL SIZE PACKAGE OF White House Tea

with ever pound of White House Coffee you purchase during the next 30 Days

White House Tea is chosen with experience and judgment from the product of plantations long famous for their excellence. The fragrance that arises from a cup of White House Tea is solely the result of care, and the tea itself is the very exponent of it.

Your Grocer Has a Package For You—Be Sure You Get It

TURNER BROTHERS CO.
DISTRIBUTORS

May 14, 1910.

MARYLAND HAPPENINGS.

Belongs In The Counties—News Items Of Interest To The People All Over The State.

The tax rate for Williamsport was fixed at 50 cents.

Foley Kidney Pills are antiseptic, tonic and restorative and a prompt corrective of all urinary irregularities. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Louis F. Haulup died on his farm, near Savage, Howard county.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Salisbury, Ohio.

The State Council, Knights of Columbus, held its annual convention at Hagerstown.

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Eucalyptic Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound.

Dr. Fred N. Nichols of Denton, was appointed health officer of Caroline county.

Foley Kidney Pills contain concentrated form ingredients of established therapeutic value for the relief and cure of all kidney and bladder ailments. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Harry Gaugh, brakeman on the Frederick Railroad Company, was crushed to death by cars at Catoctin Furnace.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

Twenty-one horses and mules were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the stables of John A. Lewis, at Cambridge.

Constipation causes headache, nausea, dizziness, languor, heart palpitation, drastic physics, gripes, sick, weakens the bowels and don't cure. Doan's Regulator acts gently and cures constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

Rev. Olympe S. G. Rapp, of Baltimore, has accepted the call to the pastorate of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, of Frederick.

Now's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by him.

Walding, Kinnear & Martin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for Constipation.

Birds and Lightning.

Birds are sometimes struck by lightning. Darwin records the case of a wild duck that he saw struck by a bolt while flying. It was killed instantly and fell to the ground. But birds seem to know instinctively that lightning is to be feared. That perhaps is why they seek shelter in thunderstorms. The sudden disappearance of the birds is, indeed, in the country one of the surest signs of an approaching tempest.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The High Cost Of Living.

Increases the prices of many necessities without improving the quality. Foley's Honey and Tar maintains its high standard of excellence and its great curative qualities without any increase in cost. It is the best remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Paid For Style.

"Room and a bath, sir," said the hotel clerk politely. "2 a day." "I said room and bath, young man," interrupted the pompous man. "Understand—bath!"

"Oh, room and bath? Beg pardon, sir. Then the rates will be $5 a day."—Pittsburg Press.

A Gentle Hint.

Young Man—Your twin daughters seem absolutely inseparable. The Mother—Oh, I don't know. A young man with half a million, like yourself, ought to make good as a separator. Chicago News.

For More Than Three Decades.

Foley's Honey and Tar has been a household favorite for all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. For infants and children it is best and safest as it contains no opiates and no harmful drugs. None genuine but Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Study For To-morrow, "Growing Hated To Jesus." Amly Discuss. ed by A Local Writer.

Matt. 12: 22-32, 33-42.

Golden Text.—He that is not with me is against me, and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.

The incidents of our lesson took place in Galilee, near or in Capernaum, late in A. D. 28. Christ's teaching and healing had precipitated marked jealousy from the scribes and Pharisees, and particularly from the political Jew. The common people, even the poor, had the Gospel preached to them, and the works of the Master caused many to accept Him as the Messiah. This caused a great stir in society. As often as the people flocked to Jesus and acknowledged Him as the Messiah, just as often came the Jewish politicians making charges against Him in order to destroy His influence. These charges and ever-increasing opposition eventually ended in the crucifixion.

Practically, hostility began with the beginning of Christ's work. It is ever so in society and even individual life. There is a gradual increase of opposition fostered by jealousy, and ignorance until at last an upheaval in rebellion culminates, and for a time evil holds sway until its force is spent.

Why was Christ persecuted? If He was just, pure, helpful, and doing good only, why was it not possible that He be let alone, and permitted to do good deeds to bless mankind? Surely the world had great need of Him at that time; there was no need to drive away the one who was doing so much good. It was jealousy—hatred because His works touched the hearts of the people. The goodness and purity displayed in His life and works brought the life and works of the old religious leaders into an unenviable light, and made them so conscious of a great lack of power that they envied Jesus. Envy is the most deadly sin, think of Cain, the sons of Jacob, and the children of Leban.

The charges that Jesus cast out devils through the prince of devils was unworthy consideration, yet however ridiculous the charge it is still made in our day; that is, that Christ is evil, not of God, and unworthy our confidence. It is unfortunate that one should not believe in God, and equally unfortunate to not believe in Satan, but to reverse the order and charge good with being evil, the God-head as being Satan, and accepting Satan as God is more than unfortunate.

Jesus, in His reply to this charge, makes clear the position of the critic. "He that is not with me is against me." In this day of freedom of speech and criticism one is apt to go far in inquiry and criticism and unknowingly pass far beyond the ground of neutrality, and assume the position of opposition. In the matter of good and evil there is a closely drawn line, it is either eye or nay, not even a lukewarmer, but a positive declaration either for or against. Jesus makes it plain that all manner of blasphemy against Himself and His relation with the Father may be pardoned, all outbursts of wrath, even the crucifixion may be forgiven, for the vilest may return through repentance; but that constant studying to disprove God's relation with His Son, Christ, and the great offer of salvation to mankind through Him which is proffered to us through the office of the Holy Spirit, to continue in this frame of mind, foster it, refuse all light, and accept evil in the face all this offer of grace, may not be forgiven. Not but, that if it was repented of, that the repentance would not be accepted, but that the condition precludes repentance. It is, "choose ye this day whom ye will serve."

Man may completely uproot himself from all good, and when thus uprooted become the prey of evil to the extent of destruction. Were it possible for a great tree to uproot itself completely from the earth, the surrounding forces of nature would consume it—destruction by the laws governing waste. So with man. Severed from God, the source of life, spiritual light and uplift, he is at the mercy of the powers of destruction. It is immutable law, and our lesson brings us a solemn warning.

Another phase of our lesson is "Show us a sign." Men say that today "we do not see clearly, give us more light, more proof, a sign." You have the Gospel, the scriptures, full of light—study them, for in them is the way of eternal life. No further sign shall be given; even though one return from the dead some would not believe. Others repent upon the light given. Thousands of thousands, a myriad host will rise up and witness against those who refuse.

Jealousy begets hatred, the sin that forever separates man from God, not alone hatred of Christ, but of fellow-man. Many who deem themselves at peace with Christ are jealous of and hate their fellow-men. They are not at peace with Christ. When one's mind or hand is raised against his neighbor he harbors the principle of mind and heart that marked Cain, and that destroys charity, without which there is not Christian life.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This In Salisbury.

Scores of Salisbury people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

James K. Disharoon, 220 Isabella Street, Salisbury, Md., says: "I have never taken another remedy of such wonderful curative powers as Doan's Kidney Pills. I know that my life has been saved by them. About fifteen years ago I began to suffer from kidney complaint, that was brought on by a heavy cold. My back grew lame and painful and in about a week I was unable to get about without the aid of a cane. I could not sleep on account of the knife-like pains in my loins, and when I walked, I had to go very slowly and be careful that I did not make a mis-step, as this was sure to bring on a sharp twinge. In the morning I had to be assisted out bed and I was in a serious condition. I consulted two doctors, who told me that I was so badly run down that there was but little hope for me. I gradually lost weight, grew weak and languid and had a poor appetite. The kidney secretions were very unnatural and I gave up hope of ever getting well. Finally someone told me about Doan's Kidney Pills. I began their use and to my great surprise, I soon found that they were helping me. I steadily improved until entirely cured and I had no further trouble until some years later when a cold affected my kidneys. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, however, the annoyance disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Pussy and the Burglar.

A good dog has hitherto been considered the best protection against burglars but a certain old lady differs from this view. She believes in cats, and her house being broken into not long ago, she proceeded to put her theory into practice and with marvellously good results. The midnight hour had not long struck when she heard unusual sounds in the hall below. She slipped out of bed, took her faithful feline in her arms and walked quietly on to the landing. She leaned over the burglar was on the stairs. Suddenly in an unlucky moment he struck a match upon the staircase. The lady could see the burglar, but the burglar could not see the lady. She held pussy up and then dropped her upon the burglar's head. The cat uttered an unearthly screech and then commenced to scratch for all it was worth. Pussy was certainly the willing worker. The next instant the man was outside in the street.—Manchester Guardian.

Commander Julius A. Pratt Post No. 143 Dept. Ill., C. A. R.

Mr. Isaac Cook, Commander of above Post, Kewanee, Ill., writes: "For a long time I was bothered with backache and pains across my kidneys. About two months ago I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and soon saw they were doing just as claimed. I kept on taking them and now I am free from backache, and the painful bladder misery is all gone. I like Foley Kidney Pills so well that I have told many of my friends and comrades about them and shall recommend them at every opportunity." Sold by John M. Toulson.

The Chamois Trail.

Every day at noon at Grindelwald there is a rush of visitors for the telescopes in order to gaze at one of the most interesting natural scenes in the Alps, "the chamois trail." Regularly at this hour a herd of twenty to thirty chamois may be seen passing in Indian file up the yawning abysses of the precipitous Mettenberg rocks, separating two glaciers, the male animals leading the way, the king of the herd keeping twenty yards in advance and on the watch. At the bottom of the Mettenberg, where the slope is freed from snow, the chamois find a meager subsistence when their usual feeding grounds are under deep snow. It is a curious fact that the chamois descend to their feeding grounds at dawn, when there is little likelihood of avalanches, and return to their haunts at an hour when avalanches for this portion of the mountain have frequent avalanches—have already fallen and the danger is past.—Geneva, Cor. Pall Mall Gazette.

A Clumsy Compliment. She to partner claiming first dance. —You are an early bird, Mr. Glossner. He (gallantly)—Yes; and by Jove, I've caught the worm!—London M. A. P.

This world is to the sharpest, heaven to the most worthy.—Cicero.

What Everybody Wants.

Everybody desires good health which is impossible unless the kidneys are sound and healthy. Foley's Kidney Remedy should be taken at the first indication of any irregularity, and a serious illness may be averted. Foley's Kidney Remedy will restore your kidneys and bladder to their normal state and activity. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Bismarck Instruction.

Apply to MISS NELLIE LANKFORD, 108 William Street, Salisbury, Maryland.

DRS. W. G. & E. W. SMITH.

DENTISTS. Graduate of Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery. Office Main St., SALISBURY, MD.

Teeth extracted skillfully, with or without Gas or Cocaine. Satisfaction guaranteed on all kinds of Dental Work.

Visit Willard Hotel and Third Floor of each Smith.

C. D. KRAUSE.

Successor to George Hoffman and Busy Bee Bakery.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents.

Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

You Can Have a Model Kitchen

as cool and white as a dairy. No smell, no smoke, no heat, no dust. No old-fashioned contrivances. The is the latest practical, scientific cook-stove. It will cook the most elaborate dinner without heating the kitchen.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

Boils, bakes, or roasts better than any range. Ready in a second. Extinguished in a second. Fitted with Cabinet Top, with collapsible rests, towel rack, and every up-to-date feature imaginable. You want it, because it will cook any dinner and not heat the room. No heat, no smoke, no smoke, no coal to bring in, no ashes to carry out. It does away with the drudgery of cooking, and makes it a pleasure. Women with the light touch for pastry especially appreciate it, because they can immediately have a quick fire, simply by turning a handle. No half-hour preparation. It not only is less trouble than coal, but it costs less. Absolutely no smell, no smoke, and it doesn't heat the kitchen.

The nickel finish, with the turquoise blue of the enameled chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

Every dealer everywhere; if not at hand, write for Descriptive Circular to the nearest agency of the Standard Oil Company (Incorporated)

ESTABLISHED 1847

"Baltimore Oldest Furniture Store"

POLLACK'S

ISAAC DAVIDSON } Proprietors
WM. E. EALLON }

SOLICIT your trade. We carry only the most reliable qualities which we guarantee. Our prices are reasonable and low. Not being an installment house, but strictly cash. All our goods are plainly marked with the lowest selling prices. One price only assuring the same equitable treatment to every one. We therefore cordially invite you to call on us when in need of

Furniture, Rugs, Mattings
Refrigerators, Mattresses, Etc.

POLLACK'S Cor. Howard and BALTIMORE, MD. Saratoga Streets

C. I. HUDSON COMPANY, BROKERS,

MEMBERS NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE
CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE

Eight and Market Sts., Wilmington, Del.

34-36, Wall Street, New York.

STOCKS, GRAIN, COTTON

For Investment or Carried on Favorable Terms

D. & A. Phone 4350,

Wilmington.

J. Montieth Jackson

Manager.

Strawberry Checks $1 Per Thousand AT THIS OFFICE

Order Nisi.

William M. Day
versus

William J. Taylor, Martha Alice Taylor, his wife.

In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County. In Equity No. 1845. March, 1910.

Ordered, that the Sale of the Property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Jay Williams, Attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shown on or before the 20th day of May, next, provided, a copy of this Order be inserted in some newspaper printed in Wicomico County once in each of three successive weeks before the 15th day of May next.

The report states the amount of sales to be $550.00.

ERNEST A. TOADVINE, Clerk.

True Copy, Test:—

ERNEST A. TOADVINE, Clerk.

FOR SALE!

Valuable City Property

1 LOT AND DWELLING
2 VACANT LOTS

Will sell as a whole or separately to suit purchaser.

Apply, COURIER OFFICE

Building Lot For Sale

Camden Avenue. Extended. 128 ft. front; 1040 ft. deep; 3 1/2 acres. Apply to

A. H. Hardesty
Dover, Delaware.

FOR SALE!

Newspaper Agency, thriving business and making money. Owner wants to go to another business May 1st. For full particulars apply to

NEWS STANDS Salisbury, Md.

Boot and Shoemaker

Boot and Shoe Repairing of all kinds neatly done on short notice.

W. J. TUBBS,
West Main St.
Salisbury, Md.

Small Farm For Sale

Located 1 mile from Salisbury, containing 17 acres, one half cleared, balance in timber estimated to cut 100,000 ft. P. O. BOX, 482, Salisbury, Md.

E. W. TOWNSEND & CO.

GROWERS OF
Thoroughbred Strawberry Plants

PHONE 633 SALISBURY, MD. Stock Fine Prompt Delivery

Surplus Stock of Strawberry Plants on Hand April 9th, at Greatly Reduced Prices

- | | |
|------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1,000,000 Chimes | 50,000 Parsons Beauty |
| 500,000 Chesapeake | 1,000,000 Red Bird |
| 5,000 Cooper | 500,000 Superior |
| 200,000 Senator Dunlap | 100,000 Stevens Late Cham'p |
| 500,000 Excelior | 50,000 Tennessee Prolific |
| 1,000,000 Gandy | 5,000 3 W's |
| 25,000 Hoffman | 10,000 Tubbs |
| 50,000 Klondyke | 50,000 Wine |
| 500,000 Lady Townsend | 5,000 (Fall Bearing, American) |
| 100,000 Mascot | |
| 100,000 Missionary | |

Write Us, Wire Us or Phone Us. This Advertisement may not Appear Again.

For Sale Timber Lands

either in fee or stumpage only, well selected, with or without mills and in large or small tracts. I have nothing for sale to which titles are not clear and perfect. If you would save time and money in looking for tracts it will pay you to communicate with me. I am confident I can suit you.

W. W. Robertson,
Timber Lands,
Norfolk, - Virginia

THE PEOPLES' LUNCH ROOM

Meals Served at all Hours.
All Kinds of Game in Season
Beverages of all Kinds dispensed from Soda Fountain
C. N. ENNETT, PROP.
407 MAIN STREET
Next door to Courier office
All Daily and Sunday Papers on Sale

Meals at all Hours. Salisbury Restaurant

A. EDWARD WHITE, Proprietor
Main St., near the Bridge
Bill of Fare includes Oysters in all styles, all kinds of sandwiches, Ham, Eggs, Beef, Steak, etc. Game of all kinds served on order, also bought at highest market prices. Orders from town customers filled promptly with the best the market affords. Give us a call.
Telephone No. 335.

House raming, Lumber, Cord and Slab Wood FOR SALE

PROMPT DELIVERIES
ADDRESS
A. F. BENJAMIN, Salisbury for
J. T. TOADVINE, Eden

A Few Bargains In South alisbury

A few bargains in nice, large building lots in South Salisbury, also a few near E. Church St., extended. These lots will be sold cheap for quick sale; also on easy terms, to suit purchaser. If you want a home in Salisbury in the next two or three years, now is the time to buy. Remember, land values have nearly doubled this year and keep advancing. I will take Farm Land in exchange if the purchaser desires.

E. W. TRUITT SALISBURY, MD.

A Worldy Man

is generally alert as to when to make the best investment. When it comes to assuring his property with

P. S. Shockley & Co.
SALISBURY, MD.

The Old Fashioned Woman.
"What caused your sudden blowing in?" asked a veteran in Shade Land of a woman who just arrived. The woman gave a sigh that blew over a tombstone as she replied: "I am an old fashioned woman, and I did my work in a kitchen with a six hole range, a big sink, three long tables, two pantries and a dishpan large enough to wash a turkey in. Two days ago I went to visit my daughter in a big city and found her cooking for her family in a chafing dish, doing her dishes in a washbowl and keeping them stored in the lower part of the washstand. When I saw her get the bread out of a big bowl on the piano called a jardiniere and reach for the butter out of the window I felt a cold chill come over me, and when she made soup by opening a tin can and pouring out a mess to which she added water from the wash pitcher I knew no more." Then the old fashioned woman gave such a sniff of disgust it blew all the shades over into the next county.—Atchison Globe.

Whistler's Friendships.
That Whistler, the man of famous enemies, had faithful friends is recalled by Ford Madox Hueffer, writing of the pre-Raphaelites in Harper's Magazine. Madox Brown had a circular printed drawing the attention of all his big patrons to the merits of Whistler's etchings and begging them in the most urgent terms to make purchases because Whistler was in indigent circumstances. The story is that upon one occasion Madox Brown, going to a tea party at the Whistlers' in Chelsea, was met in the hall by Mrs. Whistler, who begged him to go to the postoffice and purchase a pound of butter. The bread was cut, but there was nothing to put upon it. There was no money in the house, the postoffice had cut off his credit, and Mrs. Whistler said, "be dazed not send her husband, for she would certainly punch the tradesman's head."

Valuable Advice.
Young Lady—A friend of mine is engaged to a man, and now he refuses to marry her. What would you advise her to do? Old Lawyer—Is the man wealthy? Young Lady—No. He hasn't a shilling. Old Lawyer—Then I'd advise her to write him a nice letter of thanks.—London Telegraph.

A Crazy Spell.
The opera was "Trotatore."
"Though I no more may hold thee, Yet is thy name a spell."
sang the basso to the prima donna. And it was. Her name was Sophronia Czechinskiewicz.—Judge.

Order Publication.

Martha Emma Downs Coyne
vs
Frank W. Coyne
No. 1847 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii of the plaintiff, Martha Emma Downs Coyne, from the defendant, Frank W. Coyne.
The bill states that on or about April 23, 1904, the said Martha Emma Downs Coyne was married to her husband, Frank W. Coyne, with whom she resided in Wicomico County, Maryland, until about the seventeenth day of January nineteen five, and that though her conduct toward her said husband was and has always been kind and affectionate and above reproach, the said Frank W. Coyne has, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her and declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued un-interrupted for at least three years and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation, that there was born to them, after the date of said separation and abandonment one child, Edna Coyne, now residing with her mother in said County.
It is thereupon this 30th day of April, 1910 ordered by the Circuit Court for Wicomico County in equity, that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Wicomico County once in each of four successive weeks before the tenth day of June, 1910, giving notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the first Monday of July next, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

E. STANLEY TOADVINE
True Copy—Test:
ERNEST A. TOADVINE,
Clerk.

For Rent.

Cottage at Ocean City. Will rent the furnished cottage at Ocean City known as the Blackburn cottage. Has all modern conveniences. Bath and electric lights. Furnished throughout and situated on Board Walk. Possession given June 1st. Price, $250.00.
N. H. RIDER,
Salisbury, Md.

Alive Under an Avalanche.
Human beings occasionally live through incredibly long imprisonments after their dwellings have been overwhelmed by avalanches. On March 19, 1755, avalanches buried the village of Bergamotto, in the Italian Alps, and on April 25 three women were dug out alive from a stable in which they had been immured for thirty-seven days in the dark beneath the mass of snow which lay forty-two feet higher than the roof. With them had been buried a little boy, six goats, a donkey and some hens.
The child, the donkey and the fowls soon died, but the goats helped the women to survive; their milk supplementing the thirty or forty cakes and the pocketful of chestnuts upon which they depended for food. Hope of finding the women alive had been abandoned when far in April the brother of one had a dream in which she appealed to him for rescue.
The weather then at last made excavation possible, and the women were restored to the world and presently to health.—Chicago News.

Dew as Drinking Water.
The English administration at Gibraltar, where water is very scarce, collects dew by the following very simple method: A large pit is dug in the earth and covered with dry wood or straw, which in turn is covered either with earth or with sheet iron. The straw or wood serves as a heat insulator and effectually prevents the conduction of heat from the ground to the layer of earth or the sheet iron above. Consequently this earth or iron cools after sunset much more rapidly than the ground, so that its temperature soon falls below the dew point of the surrounding air; hence dew is formed upon the iron or the layer of earth in very large quantities. The water thus obtained is drained off into reservoirs and after clarification is used for drinking.—Scientific American.

Sheep as Land Cleaners.
In discussing the value of sheep on a country place their service as land cleaners should not be ignored. They like pasture grasses, but they seem to like weeds and bushes even better for browse. They will often clean up an old field in a year or two, so that what was a tangle of unsightly weeds and shrubs will appear a smooth, shaven lawn. Angoras are simply wonders at this sort of thing, but the common, everyday sheep of the ordinary breed will do mighty good work if you confine her to her job and put in enough of her. Five years ago one small pasture of mine was a veritable chaparral of thorn bushes and solidago. I set the ewes in it, and today it's as pretty a bit of sward as there is on the ranch—bushless and weedless and thick turf.—Country Life in America.

Seen Tired of His Books.
The 7,000 volumes of chronicles and travels from which Gibbon distilled the "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" were purchased by Beckford after the writer's death. "I bought it," said the author of "Vathek," "to have something to read when I passed through Lausanne." There were few rarities in the collection, but most of the authors were in the best obtainable editions and in perfect condition. The fastidious Gibbon was incapable of behaving disrespectfully to a book. For six weeks Beckford reveled in his purchase and read himself nearly blind. He soon tired of his books, however, and presented the whole collection to a German physician named Schell. The recipient showed his appreciation of the treasure by promptly selling it.

Not Moved by Kindness.
A stout woman entered a crowded car and took hold of a strap directly in front of a man seated in the corner. As the car started she lunged against his newspaper and trod heavily on his toes. "As soon as he could extricate himself he rose and offered her his seat."
"You are very kind, sir," she said, panting for breath.
"Not at all, madam," he replied. "It's not kindness. It's simply self defense."

Headed Him Off.
"Sir, I have grown gray in your service," began the old bookkeeper preliminary to asking for a raise.
"I was intending to speak to you about that," responded the head of the firm. "Get a bottle of hair dye. Otherwise the junior partner will be wanting to replace you with a younger man."—Kansas City Journal.

Appropriate.
"I want to look at some canes," said a magnificent young man to the shopkeeper, "and I'm in a great hurry."
"Yes, sir; yes, sir," responded the shopkeeper, very much flurried. "Here, James," to shop assistant, "show this gentleman some hurricanes."—London Fun.

He Was in Charge.
"What did you do in the army?"
"Most of the time I was in charge of a squad of men."
"On special duty?"
"No; they were taking me to the guardhouse."—Cleveland Leader.

Doesn't Feel Put Out.
Tess—I broke my engagement with him because he wouldn't give up to bacco. Jess—Then he is an old flame of yours? Tess—Yes, and he's still smoking.—St. Louis Star.

More Important.
Policeman—Do you have to take care of the dog? Nursegirl—No. The missus says I'm too young and inexperienced. I only look after the children.—Life.

Our National Game.
"The new American game," says Mills Parker Butler in Success, "is a game for the first time played on a field should be dropped into the Metropolitan Opera House and find himself hearing Wagnerian opera from a box in the midst of seasoned German opera goers. He hears a language that is new to him. The man at his right can tell more about the first bassman's peculiarities than he could tell about the manners of his own wife. The man at his left has trouble remembering the nice collar he wears, but he can name every man in every club of both major leagues, tell the age of each, give the complete table of batting records offhand and read, item by item, every feature of every game played on the home grounds during the last five years. That is why baseball is our national game. We love the game not because we are Chicagoans and the Chicago nine wins, nor because we are Pittsburghers and the Pittsburgh nine is winning, but because we are educated in baseball and like to see a good game played by the best men in their field that can be found in the world."

Her Father's Job.
The young daughter of a popular Chicago clergyman some time ago manifested a quick wit. Her father had gone on a brief holiday with a business partner and associate, and the talk of the children turned on the problem of which father needed the rare rest most sorely.

"Well, I think my father works the hardest," said little Miss Business, "and his work keeps him stirred up and anxious most of the time."

"Your father may work the hardest in one way," was little Miss Clergyman's answer, at once thoughtful and diplomatic, "but I think he gets more rest as he goes along. You see, he can let down a little evenings and Sundays, and if he gets cross and nervous nobody says anything. But my daddy has to be better than ever Sundays and evenings, because then everybody's taking notice and the whole lot of us children are around."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Shortened His Wait.
"Experience," said Mark Train once, "makes us wise, but it also makes us hard. Consider the old, experienced man in the busy restaurant: He took a seat, looked round him and, pointing to a well dressed gentleman who had not yet been served, said to the waiter:
"Waiter, how long has that gentleman been here?"
"About twelve minutes, sir," the waiter answered.
"What's his order?"
"Porterhouse and French fried, sir, with mince pie and coffee to come."
"The old man, hardened by experience, slipped a quarter in the waiter's hand.
"Waiter," he said, "I'm in a hurry. Put on another porterhouse and bring me his."

Fresh Discovery of an Old Truth.
Helen's enjoyment of the party given in honor of her ninth birthday was nearly spoiled by the ill tempered outbreaks of a very pretty and well dressed little girl who was among her guests. A peace-maker appeared, however, in a plain and rather shabby child, who proved herself a veritable little angel of tact and good will.
After her playmates were gone Helen talked it all over very seriously with her mother. She summed it up in this piece of philosophical wisdom:
"Well, I've found out one thing, mamma. Folks don't always match their outsides."—Woman's Home Companion.

Salt and Health.
Few persons understand the therapeutic value of salt. A little salt in one's drinking water is "good medicine." Salt applications to the skin are wonderfully soothing and wholesome. There is nothing better as a wash for the throat and the nasal passages to prevent or to cure catarrhal troubles than a solution of common salt in plain water—the cheapest remedy one can find. Many persons give their eyes a daily bath of cold salt water with satisfactory results.

The Married Voice.
A dramatic critic has been saying that our most accomplished players cannot reproduce on the stage the "married voice," even when they are married. There is a peculiar domestic note—used at home—which cannot get over the footlights and was never meant for publicity.—London Chronicle.

Separate.
"I heard one man," said the playwright, "who attended the premiere of my new play last night complain that it was so late when he got out."
"Yes?" queried the critic.
"Yes, and yet the final curtain fell before 10:45."
"Ah, perhaps he overtook himself!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

In Half Mourning.
"I don't understand you, Linda. One day you're bright and jolly and the next depressed and sad."
"Well, I'm in half mourning; that's why."—Fliegende Blätter.

Lost Both Ways.
"Did you get in without your wife hearing you last night?"
"No, and I didn't get in without hearing her, either."—Houston Post.

Between friends frequent reproach makes the friendship distant.—Confucius.

Fruitland on the Boom! 48 New and Improved Buildings and More to Follow

A Hundred and Fifty Dollar Gift Will Be Found in This Letter
Read Every Word—No Hoax
KIND FRIEND:—
YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD
We want to give you a chance to make money with little or no capital. Five dollars, and ten cents a day thereafter, will start you on the road to success. DON'T THROW THIS AWAY. You can make money while you sleep. This is a home offer by a home firm.
AND YEARS TO PAY
The waste of the average person will buy a choice piece of property in the most thrifty village in our land. A boy could do it, and we predict that some bright girl will be among the early purchasers. We have thirty Building Lots to sell in Fruitland Annex, 60x175 feet, and to the first party building a thousand-dollar residence we will give a choice Lot in "The Dulany Square."

THIRTY PER CENT PROFIT
Can be made. We will take the Lot off of your hands at the expiration of three years, and return every dollar paid for it, with six per cent interest, IF YOU ARE DISSATISFIED. Select your Lot early and get the choice. Prices low and terms easy. Business and working men can live in Fruitland at a much less cost than in Salisbury, and own their own property. Trains will accommodate you before and after working hours. Our town is on the boom. Get in on the ground floor and buy these
TOWN LOTS
Good, high streets. Three minutes' walk to depot, post office and center of business, where lots are worth five and six dollars a foot—and hard to get at that price. Come and see, or write for particulars—quick.

I. H. A. DULANY & SONS FRUITLAND, MARYLAND

If You Want Any Plumbing Done
Call Phone 377.
Lewis Morgan
102 E. Church St., Salisbury, Md.
Plumbing, Heating and Gas Fitting
Best. All Work First Class.

CHAS. M. MITCHELL
103 DOCK STREET.

Palace
Pool & Billiard Parlor
Choice Domestic and Imported
Cigars, Cigarettes
and Tobaccos
Full Line of Lowmy's Chocolate Candies Always Fresh.

Desirable Home in beautiful and charming Maryland Springs, where living is good and cheap, and the people neighborly and hospitable.
Apply to
WM. M. COOPER, Prop.
Salisbury, Md.

C. BROTEMARKLE, M. D.
EYE, EAR, NOSE, THROAT
OFFICE:—221 CAMDEN AVENUE
SALISBURY, MD.

Valuable Town Property
For Sale!
The undersigned will offer at private sale valuable town property, including residence, splendidly located, and several nice building lots in desirable residential section of the City. For terms and particulars, apply to ELMER H. WALTON, Atty.

THE COURIER

Published Every Saturday, at Salisbury,
Wicomico County, Maryland.

OFFICE OF PUBLICATION NEAR FIRST BRIDGE, MAIN STREET.

(Entered Salisbury (Md.) Postoffice as Second-Class Matter.)

ELMER H. WALTON,
Editor, Proprietor and Publisher.

CLARENCE A. WHITE,
Associate Editor and Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION For Year - $1.00
Six Months - .50

Advertising Rates Furnished on Application.
Telephone No. 152.

The date on the label of your paper shows the date to which your subscription is paid, and is a receipt for an amount paid. See that it is correct.

SATURDAY, MAY 14, 1910.

The People's Demands Should Be Considered.

The demand of the Mayor and City Council, in the form of a resolution which was adopted by that body at its regular meeting Monday night, that water mains be extended in several sections of Salisbury brings out forcibly the value of public opinion. For a considerable length of time the residents and property owners who have money invested in the out-lying sections of this city have not had proper protection against fire and they have repeatedly requested and even demanded consideration on the part of the city officials. On a number of occasions delegations have appeared before the Mayor and Council stating the needs of the people in this respect.

In the latest issue of the Wicomico News is published an article which fully explains the attitude of the Salisbury Water Company and from that article we learn, for the first time, where the responsibility for the unreasonable delay belongs. The principal owner of the stock of the Salisbury Water Company is Mr. Louis Dalmás, a non-resident of Salisbury, and who has no particular interests here since he disposed of his holdings in the Salisbury Light, Heat & Power Company about two years ago. The president of the company, Senator M. Y. Brewington, has, on different occasions, taken up the matter of extending the mains with Mr. Dalmás who assured him that the requests of the people here would be granted. But as yet nothing has been done that would tend to show that the promises were made even in good faith.

It is because of these broken pledges that the Mayor and Council notified Mr. Dalmás that the company would have to extend the mains or suffer the consequences.

Embodied in the franchise under which the company is now working is an agreement in which it is stipulated that the City may demand an extension of the water mains under streets and avenues upon the payment of $20.00 per year for water plugs at stated distances along the extended lines.

The letter to Mr. Dalmás is terse and to the point and will, no doubt, have the desired effect. In the letter it is stipulated that the actual work of laying the mains, as published on page one of this issue, be started by the first of June and as the failure to comply with the demands of the city authorities would probably mean the revoking of the company's franchise it is to be expected that the work will be started without delay.

Editorial Jottings.

A significant news item was published in a recent issue of the Marylander and Herald. The item follows: "Out of the 35 indictments found by the recent grand jury 18 were for selling whiskey. Eleven of these parties were convicted, all colored, and all from Crisfield." The article as published in a Princess Anne paper and may have been intended to point out the inefficiency of the Crisfield authorities, but whether this is so or not it does show clearly that the illegal sale of intoxicants has not been guarded against as closely in Somerset as it has in this county. A great deal of credit is due the local police for the stamping out of the practice here.

Some of the property owners on Broad street have repaired the old brick pavements so that they are now fit to walk upon. It is to be hoped that others will notice the difference and take the hint.

Local base ball enthusiasts may get some degree of satisfaction from reading the scores of the big league teams in the daily papers, but there is nothing like sitting on the bleachers and rooting for the home team. Where is the club that was talked of for Salisbury early in the season?

ROOSEVELT ON MAN'S PROGRESS

Delivers Address at the University of Berlin.

"I COME FROM THE DUTCH."

"The World Movement" Subject For Former President's Message to Germans—Ironless Age Generations
Hence—Great Men Spring From the Peas—What We Need.

Berlin, May 12.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt delivered the following lecture on "The World Movement" at the University of Berlin:

I very highly appreciate the chance to address the University of Berlin in the year that closes its first century of existence. It is difficult for you in the old world fully to appreciate the feelings of a man who comes from a nation still in the making to a country with an immortal historic past, and especially is this the case when that country, with its ancient past behind it, yet looks with proud confidence into the future and in the present shows all the abounding vigor of lusty youth.

Such is the case with Germany. More than a thousand years have passed since the Roman empire of the west became in fact a German empire. To this ancient land, with its glorious past and splendid present, to this land of many memories and of eager hopes, I come from a young nation which is by blood akin to and yet different from each of the great nations of middle and western Europe, which has inherited or acquired much from each, but is changing and developing every inheritance and acquisition into something new and strange.

"I Come From the Dutch."
The German strain in our blood is large, for almost from the beginning there has been a large German element among the successive waves of newcomers whose children's children have been and are being fused into the American nation, and I myself trace my origin to that branch of the Low Dutch stock which raised Holland out of the North sea.

Moreover, we have taken from you not only much of the blood that runs through our veins, but much of the thought that shapes our minds. For generations American scholars have looked to your universities, and, thanks to the wise foresight of his imperial majesty, the present emperor, the intimate and friendly connection between the two countries is now in every way closer than it has ever been before.

Germany is pre-eminently a country in which the world movement of today in all of its multitudinous aspects is plainly visible. The life of this university covers the period during which that movement has spread until it is felt throughout every continent, while its velocity has been constantly accelerating, so that the face of the world has changed and is now changing as never before.

Civilization's Records.
The first civilizations which left behind them clear records rose in that hoary historic past which geologically is part of the immediate present and which is but a span's length from the present, even when compared only with the length of time that man has lived on this planet. These first civilizations were those which rose in Mesopotamia and the Nile valley some six or eight thousand years ago.

As far as we can see, they were well high independent centers of cultural development, and our knowledge is not such at present as to enable us to connect either with the early cultural movements in southwestern Europe on the one hand or in India on the other or with that Chinese civilization which has been so profoundly affected by Indian influences.

The spread of the European peoples since the days of Ferdinand the Cat-

J. T. TAYLOR, Jr.

Largest Carriage,
Wagon and Harness Dealer in the State of Maryland

I Guarantee to give you more for Money than any Dealer in the United States
I haven't any opposition, I am in a class to myself. I buy direct from manufacturers, no middle men to help keep up.

Our Wrenn Buggies are $20.00 less than any other make same quality. I now have 75 Doctors using them. Several carloads in stock to select from.

I have 150 Run-
abouts in Stock, rubber tires, high arch axles, drop axles, straight axles, low wheels
and high wheels, prices from $30
up.

You can find 30 Surries in our stock. I have the lightest manufactured in the United States and the prices are cheap. You can save enough to buy you a suit of good clothes on each purchase.

I have nearly 5 carloads of Farm
and Duplex Berry
Wagons in stock.

"Yes, there are others
as good, but they are $10.00 to $20.00
higher in price. I am general agent for Auburn Wagons, also Columbia."

Did you say harness?
Yes, I have a carload,
prices from $4.50 a set up.
Speed Sulkeys, rubber
tires at $50.00.

I have had a grand rush
this spring, we are selling more goods than ever before. Don't be deceived by others who try to imitate, come see for yourself, seeing is believing.

J. T. TAYLOR, Jr.

Largest, Cheapest,
Squarest Carriage
Dealer in Maryland

Princess Anne, Md.

For Sale.

Seven-room house and lot in Mar-dels. Apply to
M. W. BOUNDS,
Salisbury, Md.

The Ancient Greeks

Realized that beauty of living came only with beautiful surroundings.
They made their public buildings
marvels of beauty.

Today, beautiful wall papers at moderate cost, have brought true art within reach of the most modest pocketbooks.

My business is to suggest and carry out original and individual decorations to suit anybody's requirements as to price and environments.

John Nelson
The Paint Shop
Phone 197

FOR SALE

SMALL FARMS—BIG FARMS

We are the exclusive agent to sell the eight Phillips Farms, located on a fine shell road, one mile from shipping point, two miles from heart of Salisbury.
The dollars talk with us. We shall sell these farms and other property placed with us at once.
Come and let us show you these farms, which are well set in clover and wheat.

J. A. JONE & CO.,
REAL ESTATE BROKERS
SALISBURY, MD.

When the Fire Alarm Sounds

there is a world of comfort in the thought that your house is insured in a good company. Purchase this comfort today by placing your insurance in our agency.

Wm. M. Cooper & Bro.
112 North Division Street,
Salisbury, Md.

PRINTING CALCULATING AND GENERAL HOUSE WORK

Charges Reasonable
Prompt Service
Estimates Furnished
THEO. W. DAVIS
SALISBURY, MD.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor

Invites you to call and inspect the largest and cheapest line of

MILLINERY

in the city. We receive new goods every week.
The very latest things in new shapes, ribbons and flowers.

A full line of baby caps,
bonnets and euchings.
A beautiful selection of chiffon and net veiling.
"We do" special designing.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor

216 Main Street

Phone 425
Store closes at 6 p.m.
Saturdays 11 p.m.

LOWENTHAL'S

THE UP-TO-DATE STORE

NEW LINE OF SUMMER FABRICS FOULARD SILKS IN NEW COLORINGS

Foulard Silks are the latest for Summer
Gowns, and our line is entirely New

This Week will be a Sale of Under-priced Silks
Special Values.

80 INCH CHECKED SILKS AT 80c worth $1.00. These silks are in black and white, brown and white, blue and white, black with white stripes, black with white check.
BLUE SATIN FOULARD SILKS, with white dot. Special this week 60c.
36 INCH SATIN FOULARD in blue, rose, grey and black, all with white designs. Special this week 80c value $1.00.
WOOL DRESS GOODS. All new colorings, new weaves, new styles.
LADIES' SUITS AND CAPES. These goods are all reduced.
LADIES' WHITE SERGE SUITS
LADIES' WHITE WITH BLACK STRIPE SUITS
LADIES' CLOTH SUITS in all colors.
PONGEE SUITS. Something new, just the thing for cool days. Special price $12.50.
PONGEE MOTORING COATS. Special price $4.00.
BLACK AND WHITE CHECKED MOTOR COATS. Special price $7.50.
Children's Light Weight Coats. Ladies' Wash Skirts and Waists. White
Linen Skirts, 90c to $3.00. Black and White Checked, 90c. Shirt Waists Embroidered Fronts, 50c. Tailored Waists, from 75c to $2.50. Linen and Net Suits, from $3.50 to $10.00.

MILLINERY

The newest shape in Hats in Milan and Hemp Braids, Children's French Hats. All new Flowers, Ribbons and Laces, Caps and Bonnets, Sailor Hats and Sea Shore Hats.

Our Summer stock is now complete and an inspection is solicited.

LOWENTHAL'S

The Up-to-date Merchant of Salisbury, Md.

WE carry the best line of Refrigerators and Oil Stoves made. Call or send for catalogue.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Dorman & Smyth Hdw. Co.

T. H. Mitchell

General Contractor and Builder

Anything from a Pig Pen
to a Mansion

Also Lots For Sale, Desirable Location
Ask For Plot and Description

Our Telephone is 33

Call MITCHELL

Exclusive Designs in

Ladies' Hats and Trimmings

KENT & SMITH

Main Street,

Salisbury, Md.

SALISBURY HOUSE

MRS. WILSON FIGGS, Proprietor

Board by the Day, Week or Month
Reasonable Rates

Opposite Ulman's Grand Opera House
SALISBURY, MD.

THE COURIER.

Town Topics.

The friends, parents and alumni of the Wicomico High School held a largely attended reunion in the assembly room at the Wicomico building last evening.

Special schedule for the berry season went into effect on the Wicomico River line last Monday, giving a daily boat to and from Baltimore. Steamer leaves Salisbury at 11 a. m.

At the Annual meeting of the stock holders of the Eastern Shore Trust Co., held last week, S. J. Cooper, of Sharptown, was elected a director to succeed A. W. Robinson, resigned.

Judge E. Stanley Towbin is sitting on the Bench at the Circuit Court for Somerset County this week. He went to Princess Anne in company with Judge Jones Monday night.

A number of strawberry shippers received telegrams Thursday from the cities requesting shipments. The telegrams stated that berries were scarce in the cities and that prices were good.

Mrs. Charles T. Levisess, who has been spending some time with her parents here, returned to Baltimore Wednesday. Col. and Mrs. Levisess will spend the spring at the Belvedere.

Mr. Alexander H. Seth, formerly connected with the B. & O. Ry., in Salisbury, and Mrs. Seth, spent Sunday in Salisbury. Mr. Seth is now assistant to General Manager Thomson with offices in Baltimore.

Under a law passed by the last Legislature all undertakers and their assistants doing business in this State are required to be licensed by the State Board of Undertakers of Maryland on or before July 1, 1910.

Mechanics are busily engaged improving the residence of James E. Ellegood, Esq., on Division Street. The house will be moved back several feet and raised up so that a heating plant can be installed in the cellar.

Miss Laura M. Reinwall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Reinwall, of Salisbury, and Mr. E. Byron Morton, Jr., of Boston, were quietly married at the Boston M. E. Parsonage by Rev. T. E. Perry, Monday evening May 9.

During the past two weeks many fruit growers have been alarmed over the cold weather killing the fruit this year. According to reports considerable damage has been done to the apples and cherries, but other fruits are not hurt to any extent.

The City Council, at Monday night's meeting, passed an ordinance providing for the curbing and draining of William Street from Park to Division Streets. This is a much needed improvement as this block on William Street has never had proper drainage.

The regular Sabbath services will be held at the Wicomico Presbyterian church tomorrow: Sabbath School 9.15 a. m., Morning Worship 11.00 o'clock, Christian Endeavor meeting 7.00 p. m., Evening Worship 8.00 o'clock. All of the services will be held in the Sabbath School room.

Captain Gordon Banks, of the schooner Thomas B. Taylor, met with a painful accident at Jamestown Island last week. He was going ashore from his vessel in a gasoline launch and got his foot entangled in the engine. The bone was broken and his foot badly torn. He is at his home in this county and is doing fairly well.

Mr. Percy L. Trussell, a former resident of Salisbury, but now a member of the reporting staff of the Baltimore News, spent a few hours in town Wednesday evening. Mr. Trussell is representing the News during the trial of the three men charged with the murder of Mr. Dallas Collins which is now in progress at Princess Anne.

"The Modern Ephraim" will be the subject of Rev. Dr. Graham's sermon in Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church on Sunday evening at 8.00 o'clock. At the morning service, 11.00 o'clock, the subject will be: "The Citizens of Heaven." Sabbath School 9.30 a. m. Christian Endeavor service 7.00 p. m. Mid-week service Wednesday evening at 8.00 o'clock.

Mrs. Lou M. Marchant died May 9th, 1910, at the residence of her daughter Mrs. A. W. Meeks, 1017 W. Barre St., Baltimore, Md. She was a daughter of the late John E. and Margaret Harris, of Hebron and the mother of Hugh H. Trader, Mrs. Lulu Boughman and Mrs. A. W. Meeks. She was the widow of the late Joseph Trader. Interment in London Park Cemetery.

The anniversary of the Jackson Chapter of the Epworth League of Asbury M. E. Church will be observed tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. There will be special music and an address by Hon. Roscoe Jones. The usual services will be observed during the day as follows: Class meeting at 9.30; Preaching by the pastor, Rev. T. E. Martindale, at 11.00; Sunday school at 2.30. Mid-week prayer meeting Thursday evening.

Don't forget to attend the Firemen's Bazaar at the Armory Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, May 18, 19 and 20.

All who have promised cakes for the Firemen's Bazaar will please have them ready by Tuesday, May 18th as they will be called for that afternoon.

The Ladies Aid Society of Hebron M. E. Church will hold a festival on the Church lawn Saturday evening, May 21st. Proceeds for benefit of Church. All are cordially invited to attend.

The managers of the Surprise Store have rented the store room on Main Street recently vacated by Lacy Thoroughgood and will open on Saturday, May 14th, with a full line of clothing and gent's furnishings.

Mr. John W. Morris, who was stricken with paralysis several weeks ago, died May 3rd at the home of his son, Sidney Morris, near Fruitland. Deceased was a brother of Thomas C. Morris, of Salisbury, and was 75 years of age.

Mr. R. D. Grier has received one of the 1910 Model "Overland" automobiles and will be glad to demonstrate this car to anyone desiring it. These famous cars range in price from $1000.00 to $1500.00 and are exceptionally stylish and durable cars.

Mr. J. A. Jones, of the firm of J. A. Jones & Co., one of Salisbury's leading real estate firms, closed a large sale of 1,500 acres of land in the Western part of Somerset county Saturday to Mr. Warren Sollenberger, of Kansas. This is the largest area of land that has been sold in a bulk in this section for several years.

There will be the last meeting for the year of the Parent-Teachers Association of the High School at the High School building, next Tuesday evening May 17. Dr. M. Bates Stephens, State Sup't Public Education, has promised to be present and there will be some musical numbers with a reading on the program. Will all parents and other friends of the school come to this meeting for the good of the boys and girls? By order of,

C. BROCKMARKE, President.

Shad eggs are exceptionally scarce this season and Fish Commissioner Twilley is experiencing considerable trouble in securing them for hatching for the Eastern Shore district. Mr. Twilley and Deputy Commissioner Vincent, of this city, have recently returned from a visit to the Government hatchery at Havre de Grace where they went in search of eggs, but found the same conditions existing there. Several million young shad however have been deposited in the streams in Mr. Twilley's district this season.

On Friday May 6th, Past State Councilor Dr. H. N. Willis, of Maryland, paid a fraternal visit to Salisbury Council No. 129 Jr. O. U. A. M. and made a very appropriate address on the workings of the Order, also several visiting brothers made short addresses. After the business was over the entertainment committee made their appearance and refreshments were served to all present. The above Council celebrated their anniversary on May 11th, by instructing 14 candidates into the mysteries of the order.

"Amateur Night" at the Ulman Opera House, Monday evening, was a big success, more than a thousand people packing the house to witness the vaudeville performance by home talent. Don Graham's Minstrel Troupe in their plantation songs and funny sayings took the house by storm and were repeatedly recalled to the footlights. The jig dancing by a small colored boy was marvelous. With such home talent, it is unnecessary to send to the cities for vaudeville attractions for the moving picture parlors.

This community was shocked Sunday morning to learn of the sudden death of Mr. John Nelson, which occurred at the Peninsula General Hospital about 4 o'clock Sunday morning. The cause of his death was pleural pneumonia. He had been sick but a few days, and but a few of his friends knew of his illness until they learned of his death. Mr. Nelson was 52 years of age, and was an expert painter and decorator. He was born in Philadelphia, but came to Salisbury about 25 years ago and soon built up a large business in his line. He was a member of the Elks, Red Men and Royal Arcanum. He is survived by a widow and five children.

Advised Letters.

Letters addressed to the following parties remain uncalled for at the Salisbury Post Office and will be sent to the Dead Letter Office two weeks from today. When inquiring please state that these letters have been advertised:

Miss Cornelia Barkley, Mr. Luther J. Harmon, Mr. James E. Johnson, Mrs. S. D. Lewers, A. M. Matthews, Mr. Andrew Parsons, Mrs. Leah J. Park, Miss Annie Petters, Mr. H. L. Phillips, Miss Estella Robertson, Mr. George H. Tilghman, Miss Lillian West.

Business Opportunities.

BALTIMORE, MD., offers them in any line; you may enlist service-money in established going business concerns, address, EASLOW & Co., Fiscal Attorneys, Baltimore, Md.

R. E. POWELL & CO.

MAIN ST., SALISBURY, MD.

Spring Millinery In All Its Brilliancy Is Now On Display

All the new shapes and colors are here and the great beauty and style used in our trimming department is the cause of a great deal of favorable comment.

Remember we are pleased to show you whether you intend to purchase or not

Spring Suits

In the newest shades and models

Coats with long rolling collars trimmed with Mohr Silk, 32 and 34 inches long in the new shades of Grey, Electric, Roseda, Tan and Lavender.

Also a full line of suits in natural linens, separate coats in linens and silk are also here.

For Anything New in Spring Wearing Apparel Be Sure to See Us Before Purchasing

Different— Yet Dignified

Society Brand Clothes

Hello Boys! Did you see Nock Brothers Exhibit of Society Brand Clothes. What! All Trainers have permanent Crease. That's a cinch. So long.

Society Brand Clothes For Mine!

FOR SALE AT

Nock Brothers

Main St., On the Corner E. Church St. Dock St. Salisbury, Maryland.

If you want to increase your earning capacity you can do so in a short time by attending one of

BEACOM'S BUSINESS COLLEGES

Salisbury College of Business Wilmington Business School
Masonic Temple duPont Building
SALISBURY, MARYLAND WILMINGTON, DELAWARE

DAY AND EVENING SESSIONS

PHONE 361

Advertise in The Courier!

Y R U

Suffering with Backache, Kidney Trouble, Bladder Irritation, Lumbago, Bright's Disease, Suppression of Urine Gravel, Scalding Urine or Urinary Troubles when

U O 2 B WELL

Use Toulson's Kidney Pills. Price 50 Cents

Mail orders will receive prompt and careful attention.

JOHN M. TOULSON
Druggist
SALISBURY, MARYLAND

It Is Awful, But True

Two Hundred and Fifty Millions of Dollars worth of Property was destroyed by fire in the United States during 1908. You may be one of the unfortunate ones during 1909. Come to see us or write us before it is too late.

White & Truitt
Salisbury, Md.

Kuppenheimer Clothes

Every Suit Is Guaranteed

The Thoroughgood Co.

Salisbury, Maryland.

This Large Size Porch Rocker

AS LONG AS THEY LAST IS YOURS FOR : : : : :

$1.50

[JUST LIKE CUT]

This rocker is made of fine finished hard maple. Double woven Seat. Natural finish. : : : : :

Be sure to see our full line of SUMMER FURNITURE

Ulman Sons The Home Furnishers

Under Opera House, SALISBURY, MARYLAND

Our Showing of New Greys and Blues are simply great

Kennerly & Mitchell
253-257 MAIN ST.
BIG DOUBLE STORE

THE PERKINS ROW.

Fallacy of a Furnace Shown by Collected Statistics.

DOCTORED DATA GIVEN OUT.

Why the Head of the House Renounced His Intentions of Getting a Cellar Heater to Save Wife's Life. She Ignores All.

By M. QUAD.
(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

THE hour was 7 o'clock in the evening, and Mrs. Perkins sat darning one of her stockings, and Mr. Perkins was surrounded by the coal stove and shivering now and then. By and by, after Mrs. Perkins had heard him growling to himself half a dozen times, she quietly observed:

"Mr. Perkins, you keep a diary. Please look it over for the first half of last December."

"Any particular object?" he queried.

"I want to find what you said about a hot air furnace on a certain evening."

"Um, um! Let me see. December. Here is the 1st, 5th, 10th. It is recorded here, my dear, that the evening of Dec. 10 was a stinger. We had this PERKINS ADVISED TO SHUT A FURNACE. old stove red hot and were shivering at that. Yes; it was zero and below."

"And isn't it recorded that you made any observations?"

"Yes, it is. On the evening in question I said that I would have a furnace in this house if I lived to the 1st of May. Do you wish to make any remarks on that observation?"

"Just a few, Mr. Perkins. May came and went."

"It surely did."

"And the summer came and went."

"I won't dispute it."

"And the winter is gone."

"Yes, Mrs. Perkins."

"And the furnace is not in yet. You are bugging that stove, while shivers go up and down your back. I do not ask for explanations. I am simply referring to the Perkins way of doing things."

"I see the point. I could see it even if I weren't bugging the stove. You wish for no explanation, but I beg the privilege of making a few. I seem to have been remiss. I seem to have usurped the functions of the furnace and given out the hot air myself."

"Oh, you will wriggle out of it, of course," said Mrs. Perkins in her lofty way.

"When you bring what you call your philosophy to bear nothing can stand before it."

Philosophy on the Subject.

"Um, um! Mrs. Perkins, I was a widower and you a widow. I brought her called philosophy to bear, and here we are as a consequence. Why not bring the same to bear on the question of a furnace? In the first place, it was early in December. The man who won't in December promise himself a hot air furnace for a year ahead is a shortsighted person."

"Oh, it was just a promise, was it?"

"In good faith, madam—in the best of faith. In fact, as recorded here in the diary, it was only four days later that I met Gillan, who has a furnace in his home. I spoke of my intentions to him, and he took me by the hand, and in the most earnest and solemn manner he replied:

"Perkins, don't do it. Hot air furnaces are killing off more people than tuberculosis. You are breathing baked air half the time. You are inhaling dust and cinders into your lungs. You are wantonly wasting money for coal. You are tempting the coal man to give you 1,900 pounds for a ton and thereby losing his soul."

"He said that to me, Mrs. Perkins, with tears rolling down his cheeks, and could I call him a liar? What kind of a husband would I have been not to determine to investigate further? Having married you only two years ago, was I to fill your lungs with dust and cinders and kill you off?"

"Nonsense!" she snapped.

"And so, having met Swift and knowing he had had a furnace for years, I asked him if he had any objections to them. He turned and answered me:

"Mr. Perkins, at this very minute men are in my cellar removing my furnace. It has aged me and my wife by twenty years. It has sowed the seeds of consumption in my children. Out it goes, and I shall return to coal stoves. Beware of the hot air furnace, Perkins—beware! The dear Mrs. Perkins will be a dead woman a month after you have put in one."

"Those are the words he said as near as I can recollect them, and what was I to do? Put yourself in my place, Mrs. Perkins."

"You should have called him an idiot and got the furnace. Land knows, there's cinders and dust and dirt and ashes enough about an old coal stove."

Steve Man Gets in His Work.

"And then I made it a point to go to Merriweather. He is in the stove and furnace business, you know. It is his business to sell them, but he is a truthful man. When I asked him if a hot air furnace was a good thing he looked at me with pitying eyes for a long minute and then replied:

"Perkins, do you want to kill off Mrs. Perkins in order to get a furnace? If you do then get a furnace. Why, man, the dust and cinders they throw out are killing tens of thousands of people every winter. Haven't you read of that experiment in Germany where a furnace introduced in a stable killed a strong bull in six weeks? Is that dear Mrs. Perkins stronger than a bull?"

"That's what Merriweather said, and could I say that he was lying to me? Take the case as it is, Mrs. Perkins."

"I do, Mr. Perkins, and I think those men made a fool of you. In another year you'll need a guardian."

"But I wasn't quite satisfied yet," he continued. "I had promised you a hot air furnace, and I wished to keep my promise. I wished to keep it even if you had to go around with a rag tied over your mouth to keep the cinders out of your lungs. I made it my business to call on Dr. Cuddy. He received me with a smile, but the moment I mentioned furnace to him he grew serious and said:

"None of that, Perkins. If you want to kill off your wife do it with an ax like a man. You shall not kill her by slow degrees. If you put a hot air furnace in your house I shall have you arrested for contemplating murder."

"That's what he said, Mrs. Perkins, and when I had satisfied him that I really had no murderous intentions against you he showed me some of the hot air statistics he had compiled."

"He didn't know enough to doctor a sick cat!"

Figures on Furnace Failures.

"And those statistics, my love, showed that hot air furnaces give out dust, ashes, dirt, gases, smoke and certain acids."

"Each year they make liars out of 50,000 coal dealers."

"The coal got in for the furnace may explode any moment, and any moment it may take fire through spontaneous combustion."

"The furnace is out one half of the time, and the other half it is giving out its poisonous gases."

"You can hang up to a coal stove and feel that you have a loving wife and a cozy home, but a furnace repulses you."

"You can burn up your old corsets and overcoats in a coal stove and not affect the atmosphere. Those things heaved into a furnace mean another victim for the grave."

"Living over a hot air furnace, the same as riding in an auto, inclines people to lie."

"You put half a ton of coal into a furnace and where is it? You put a scintilla into a coal stove and the house is immediately warm clear to the garret."

"These are not half the statistics the doctor had, but after the information I had got on all sides could I carry out my promise to put in a furnace? You must see that it was impossible. You must see, my dear Mrs. Perkins—"

"Hello, she's gone out!"

And so had the fire in the coal stove.

A New Vocation.

"I hear Sam Whitmetree has sold out. I thought he was very successful with his poultry and his crops."

"He was; so much so he has gone to the city and opened offices as a consulting farmer."—Pittsburg Post.

Giving and Getting.

"Do you believe it is more blessed to give than to receive?"

"Well, it depends on whether you are giving the cook a raise or receiving one yourself."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Waiting Policy.

"When are you coming out to spend Sunday with us?"

"Just as soon as you have got so used to your new house that you don't feel impelled to show it to anybody."—Life.

Music Ear.

"He proposed to me after I had sung a song for him."

"Then his claim that he has an ear for music is all pretense, isn't it?"—Houston Post.

At the Tea Table.

Mr. Newed—Well, dearest, you can't say I ever contracted bad habits.

Mrs. Newed—No, George. You generally expand them.—Judge's Library.

Epitaphs From Kansas.

Here lies a man who seemed to think his troubles he could drown in drink. He succeeded.

Sleeping here, quite free from strife. Is the man who contradicted his wife.

She's married again.

Dear friends, here lie the bones of one who always carried a loaded gun.

The other fellow pulled his first.

A hypnotist below doth lie. He looked a tiger in the eye.

No inquest.

Beneath this tree lies Paddy Shea. He yelled, "Hurrah for the A. F. A.!" No flowers.

This slab in memory of Maid Irene—A stove and a can of gasoline; That's all.

—Wichita Eagle

THE SHADOW OF GOOD LUCK.

An Overdose of Philosophy Sometimes Makes a Coward of a Man.

IT was midnight. The sunshine philosopher was seated in his study writing a few notes for his lecture on "How to Be Happy Though Miserable" when the resounding clang of his front door bell went echoing through the house.

"Humph!" he muttered. "Who on earth can this be at such an hour and on such a night? I wonder? Who's there?" he hallooed through the key-hole.

"Your Brother Jim. Hurry up!"

"Why, Jim," cried the philosopher, opening the door, "what on earth are you doing out such a night as this? Come in; come in."

In a moment the two were sitting before the crackling log fire in the philosopher's library.

"I've come over to get a little advice, Bill," said the visitor. "I am in all sorts of trouble."

"Oh, nonsense, Jim!" said the other. "There needn't be any trouble for anybody in this world. What if it is dark here? The sun is shining in the east!"

"Now, hold on a minute, Bill," said the visitor. "I don't give a rap for the state of the weather out in Honolulu; I'm here and I'm worried to death. First place, I have a note coming due for $500 tomorrow morning, and I haven't a cent in the bank. Second place, Saltperton, the tailor, has served a writ on me for my bill that has been running since 1906, and if I don't pay I've got to go to court on supplementary proceedings and explain why. Third, I got notice from headquarters this morning that after the first of next month—"

"There's no use of your going on, Jim," said the sunshine philosopher. "You might keep on giving me a list of your troubles from now until the crack of doom, but it wouldn't alter the situation one atom. The principle upon which I live is simply that trouble can't exist while the world is full of sunshine. If it doesn't happen to be visible it doesn't make the least difference. It is there, genial, sweet, invigorating, just the same. That marvelous orb from time immemorial has been pouring out its great stores of mellow light upon this earth incessantly, unrelentingly. Not once has it taken a day off from the beginning of recorded time."

"Yes," said Jim, "and there have been clouds, too, since."

"They prove my point," said the philosopher. "You don't mean to say for an instant, do you, that because there happens to be a sky full of clouds therefore the sun in all its glowing majesty has ceased shining? Really, Jim, you know better than that, and you know, you know better. The clouds pass away. No day is so dark and gloomy and dismal that sooner or later the sun does not pierce the clouds, dissipating them into thin filmy veils of footless mist. Get your mind in tune with this idea, my boy. Does the night envelop you? Somewhere the sun is shining. Are the heavens black with clouds? Beyond soars the orb of day. Let this be your philosophy, my boy, and all these afflictions of which you speak will pass away, or even if their onward passage is slow you can at least comfort yourself with the thought that calm follows in the wake of the storm and that on the trail of trouble there will inevitably follow the fruitifying rays of—"

"Do you mean to tell me, Bill Wimpleton," cried the visitor, "that there is sunshine enough in this world to handle such a case as mine—mine, who must meet that note, who must pacify Saltperton and whose job at the—"

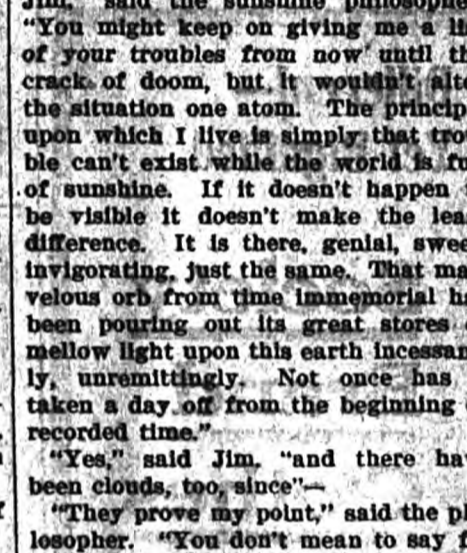

"All of that I mean to tell you and more, Jim," said the philosopher. "There's enough to cover your troubles raised to the nth power of infinity."

"All right, Bill," said the visitor, rising and putting on his hat. "If that's the case I'll go home and rest my mind. It's after midnight, and I judge that bed is the place for me. But before I go do me just one little favor, will you?"

"Anything I can do, Jim," said the philosopher kindly.

"Go upstairs and ask your wife to lend me her parasol to go home with. Will you?" he asked. "I don't want to be sunstruck on my way back."—Harper's Weekly.

Not Far Wrong.

Managing Editor (to foreman)—I wrote that the shower last night, though copious, was not sufficient to meet the wants of the mill men. The compositor set it up "milk men." No; let it stand.

A Possible Danger.

"There is danger of his dying for love."

"Nonsense!"

"Well, the rich heiress has refused him."

"What of that?"

"He may starve."—Browning's Magazine.

Dropsy—

Given up by Doctor

"I had dropsy, and was told by my family physician that there was no chance for me. My family also gave me up. My limbs and body were swollen one-third larger than natural, water collected around my heart and I had to be propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy until I was entirely cured. This was in 1902, and I am now able to do any kind of work on my farm. My cure was certainly marvelous."

L. TURLEY CURD, Wilmore, Ky.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been wonderfully successful in relieving heart trouble. Its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles is a great factor in assisting nature to overcome heart weakness.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold by all druggists. If the first bottle does not benefit, your druggist will return your money.

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Many farmers would like to keep an account of their receipts and expenses if some one would keep it for them.

Open a bank account and you will find the account keeps itself, without expense.

Your checks are always evidence of date and the amount paid, and your deposit book shows the amount of your receipts.

It is not required that a person have a large bulk of business in order to open an account.

If you have never done business in this way, and are not familiar with this plan, come to us and we will get you started.

The Farmers & Merchants Bank, Salisbury, Maryland.

Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Ry. Co. RAILWAY DIVISION

Schedule effective Monday, Apr. 11, 1910

East Bound				West Bound
11:15	PM	11:15	AM	10:15	AM	10:15	PM
3:00	PM	4:10	PM	1:20	PM	1:20	PM
8:45	PM	11:00	PM	7:50	PM	7:50	PM
11:00	PM	11:22	PM	6:10	PM	6:10	PM
PM	PM	PM	PM	AM	AM	AM	AM

Saturday only. Daily except Saturday and Sunday. Daily, except Sunday.

T. MURDOCH, I. E. JONES, Gen. Pass. Agt. Div. Pass. Agt.

WILLARD THOMSON, Gen. Mgr.

WICOMICO RIVER LINE.

In effect Monday, May 9th, 1910.

Steamer leaves Baltimore, Pier 1 Pratt St., weather permitting, 5 p. m. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday for Deal's Island, Nanticoke, Mt. Vernon, White Haven, Widgeon, Allen, Quantico, Salisbury. Returning, leave Salisbury 1:00 p. m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday for the above named points.

Steamer leaves Baltimore, weather permitting, Monday, Wednesday and Friday for Hooper's Island, Wingate's Point, Deal's Island, White Haven, Salisbury. Returning, leave Salisbury 11 a. m. Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday for above named points, also Nanticoke.

WILLARD THOMSON, T. MURDOCH, General Manager, Gen. Pass. Agt.

New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk R. R.

Cape Charles Route

Train Schedule in effect November 7th, 1909

South-Bound Trains.				North-Bound Trains.
Leave	a. m.	p. m.	a. m.	Leave	a. m.	p. m.	a. m.
New York	7:25	8:55	11:55	Norfolk	9:00	6:15	6:15
Philadelphia	10:00	11:22	3:00	Old Point Comfort	8:45	7:15	7:15
Baltimore	9:00	9:55	1:35	Cape Charles	10:55	9:30	9:30
Washington	10:44	12:05	3:44	Salisbury	1:50	12:25	7:45
				Cape Charles	2:10	1:03	7:05
				Delmar	p. m.	a. m.	a. m.

Leave p. m. a. m. a. m. p. m. p. m. p. m.

Delmar 1:30 3:01 7:00 6:52 12:16

Salisbury 1:45 3:10 7:15 7:04 12:10

Cape Charles 4:40 6:15 10:25

Old Point Comfort 5:35 8:00

Norfolk (arrive) 7:30 9:05

p. m. a. m. a. m.

North-Bound Trains.

Leave 2:40 1:50 6:40 1:00

Norfolk 9:00 6:15 6:15

Old Point Comfort 8:45 7:15 7:15

Cape Charles 10:55 9:30 9:30

Salisbury 1:50 12:25 7:45

Cape Charles 2:10 1:03 7:05

Delmar p. m. a. m. a. m.

Arrive p. m. a. m. a. m.

Washington 4:40 6:15 10:25

Baltimore 5:35 8:00 5:10 11:00

New York 8:15 9:00 1:15

p. m. a. m. p. m.

Holloway & Company
Furnishing Undertakers and Practical Embalmers.

Full stock of Robes, Wraps, Caskets and Coffins on hand. Funeral work will receive prompt attention.

South Division Street, Salisbury, Md.
PHONE 154.

GEO. C. HILL
Furnishing Undertaker

... EMBALMING.

All funerals will receive prompt attention. Burial Robes and State Grave Vaults kept in stock.

WATER STREET, Salisbury, Md.
Phone No. 23.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Professional Cards

BAILEY, JOSEPH L.
Attorney-at-Law.
Office in "News" Building.

BENNETT, L. ATWOOD.
Attorney-at-Law.
Office in Telephone Building, head Main St.

DOUGLASS, SAMUEL R.
Attorney-at-Law.
Office Corner of Division and Water St.

ELLEGOOD, FREEMAN & WATKINS.
Attorneys-at-Law.
Office first floor Masonic Temple.

FITCH, N. T.
Attorney-at-Law.
Office in "News" Building.

GOSLIE, F. GRANT.
Attorney-at-Law.
Office in "News" Building.

JACKSON, ALEXANDER M.
Attorney-at-Law.
Office in Telephone Building, Division St.

LILLY, GEORGE W.
Attorney-at-Law.
Room 18, News Building, Salisbury, Md.

TOADVIN & BELL.
Attorneys-at-Law.
Office in Jackson Building, Main Street.

WALLER, GHO. W. D.
Attorney-at-Law.
Office adjoining "Advertiser" Building.

WALTON, ELMER H.
Attorney-at-Law.
Office in "Courier" Building, Main Street.

WILLIAMS, JAY.
Attorney-at-Law.
Office in Williams Building, Division St.

Foley's Orino Laxative

For Stomach Trouble, Sluggish Liver and Habitual Constipation.

It cures by aiding all of the digestive organs—gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels—the only way that chronic constipation can be cured. Especially recommended for women and children. Clears blotched complexions. Pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes.

For Sale By
JOHN M. TOULSON.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

If You Would Cure That Back.

You need a pleasant herb remedy called MOTHER GRAY'S KIDNEY-LEAF for all Kidney, Bladder, and Urinary trouble. As a regulator it has no equal. Cures headaches, nervousness, dizziness and loss of sleep. At all Druggists, or by mail, 50 cts. SAMPLE FREE. Address: The Mother Gray Co., LeRoy, N. Y.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cures itching scalp, dandruff, and keeps the hair soft and shining. It is the most perfect hair dressing ever made. At all Druggists, or by mail, 50 cts. SAMPLE FREE. Address: A. S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

PILES

If you have Piles, we will cure you Write to-day for FREE BOOKLET & GUARANTEE. Established in 1885, and have never found a case we could not cure. GREEN'S SPECIFIC CO., Broadway & Manhattan St., New York.

A COMPLETE LIBRARY In One Volume.

Will tell you something about everything and everything about a great many things: the army and navy, population of countries, States and cities, the new tariff, the 1910 census, progress of Panama Canal work, causes of Civil War, presentation of trusts, party platforms of 1908, rise in prices of principal commodities, aerial navigation in 1909, Polar exploration in 1900—discovery of the North Pole, growth of the United States, Sixty-first Congress, about wars, sporting events, weights and measures, universities and colleges, religious orders in the United States, debts of nations, weather forecasts, fatality tables, commerce, taxes, money, banking, insurance, secret societies, prohibition movement in 1908, report of national commissions on country life and conservation of natural resources and 10,000 Other Facts & Figures and everyday interest to everybody.

No merchant, farmer, laborer, business man, housewife, school boy or girl should be without a copy of this greatest compendium of useful information ever set in type. On sale everywhere, 25c. (west of Buffalo and Pittsburgh, 30c). By mail, 30c. Address: Press Publishing Co., Fulfiller Building, New York City.

...If Going To...

Washington, D. C.

Write for handsome descriptive booklet and map

HOTEL RICHMOND

17th and H Streets, N. W.

Around the corner from the White House. Direct street car route to palatial Union Station. 100 rooms. 50 Baths.

European, $1.50 per day upward; with Bath $2.50 upward; each additional person 50c.

American, $3.00 per day upward; with Bath $4.00 upward.

Club breakfast 20 to 75c. Table d'Hôte breakfast $1.00. Luncheon 50c and Dinner $1.00. Restaurant a la carte. Reasonable prices. Music.

A Model Hotel Conducted for Your Comfort

Seeing Washington automobiles; leave hotel daily.

CLIFFORD M. LEWIS, Prop.

Summer Season

The American Luzerne in the Adirondack foothills. Wayside Inn and Cottage on the beautiful Lake Luzerne, Warren Co., N. Y. Open June 26th. to October 1st. Booklet.

FAIRFIELD BLOOD TONIC

THE SCIENTIFIC CONDITION POWDERS that restores to Hay, Grain and Fodder the nutritive elements driven from them in the drying process.

A Separate Preparation For Each Kind Of Animal

Blood Tonic for Horses Only
Milk Producer for Cattle Only
Egg Producer for Poultry Only
Blood Tonic for Hogs Only

Each Tonic is specially prepared for the kind of animal for which it is intended and contains the medicinal roots and herbs that act most beneficial upon that kind of animal's peculiar digestive organism. These Tonics purify the blood by perfecting digestion and neutralizing the poisons in the system. They prevent and cure disease, make feed go further and increase vitality and production.

Sold Under Written Guarantee By
FARMERS & PLANTERS CO., Salisbury R. H. LOWE, Delmar.
E. R. ENNIS & CO., Parsonsburg W. S. DISHARON, Quantico

FOR SALE

Canning Factory

Equipped with all modern conveniences and machinery for canning Tomatoes and Peas. In first-class condition in every respect. Located on Rider farm about 1 1/2 to 2 miles from town. Will sell factory alone or with necessary ground as desired by purchaser.

APPLY TO
WM. H. JACKSON.

FEED FAIRFIELD'S FAITHFULLY

WANTED

TO BUY, FOR CASH,
50 Leghorn Chickens

State age, price and full particulars.

Address, LOCK BOX 275, SALISBURY, MD.

Money To Loan

In sums ranging from $500.00 to $5000.00 on First Mortgage Real Estate.

APPLY TO
L. ATWOOD BENNETT
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
SALISBURY, MD.

GREEN HOUSE

Permanent and Transient
BOARDERS

MRS. T. J. GREEN, Prop.
610 Hanover Street, Baltimore

Delia Priddy's Tea Party

A Scheme For Revenge That Had a Happy Ending.

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Delia Priddy flew briskly around her little kitchen. Delia was giving a tea party that night.

In the other half of the house two women sat talking in a sunny bow window. Everything here was neat and orderly, but the rooms lacked the air of festivity that was imparted by the preparations for the party.

"If I was to give a tea party to the sewing society wouldn't you think I was mean if I didn't invite my next door neighbor?" demanded Ann Bart impatiently.

"I don't know," returned Mrs. White evasively. "I guess I'll put this edging in plain. What do you think, Ann?"

Mrs. Bart stabbed her knitting needles into the folds of the shawl and leaned back in her rocking chair. "I'd put it in plain if I was you, Benny. You needn't try to get out of answering me, for I want to know what's the reason Delia Priddy didn't ask me to her party? Haven't I always been nice to her? I've asked her time and again to every kind of doings me and James ever had. Not that she'd ever come a step, but I invited her, and now James is dead and buried and I've come to live in the other half of the house I should think she'd have manners enough to ask me. I've been a member of the sewing society ever since I married and came to Stillwater—that's twenty years ago. It's a public slight, that's what it is!"

Mrs. White quivered uneasily. "You never knew Delia before you were married and came to Stillwater?" she ventured hesitatingly.

Ann Bart shook her head. "I'll have to be going along home, I guess," said the other woman, rising slowly and picking the threads from her dress. "There's supper to get for Henry and the children and"—she paused awkwardly and shifted her glance from her companion's face to the flowering plants in the window—"your night blooming cereus has got—me, two, three—it's got seven buds on it! They look like they'll open to-night." She turned surprised eyes upon her hostess.

Mrs. Bart's lips took on a bitter curve as she replied: "Yes, it'll be a-bloom to-night. I guess I'll have to admire it all by myself. Every member of the society I asked to come in and see it said she had an engagement—just as if I didn't know 'twas Delia Priddy's party they were going to!"

As the afternoon wore on her bitterness increased, and she was trembling with anger and disappointment that she could no longer conceal from herself. She wished some calamity might befall Delia's tea party. Indeed, she was quite willing to become the author of any catastrophe that would put an end to the merry-making.

At 5 o'clock she saw Delia, arrayed in a black silk skirt and white shirt waist, tripping down the street with a pitcher in one hand. Delia would be back in ten minutes.

Like a little fury the widow flew across the hall and opened Delia's door. The table was set for supper—gold banded china, pale pink ham, pickles and preserves, three kinds of cake, balls of pot cheese, a golden salad—even the bubbling of the teakettle in the kitchen bespoke the pot of fragrant tea that was to come. Ten places were laid, and Ann Bart swiftly counted the members of the sewing society, and there were nine and one over—that would be Delia's cousin from the Junction. She was always invited to Delia's parties.

Ann Bart hesitated for an instant only. Then she darted back into her own room and fetched a large flat basket from her kitchen closet. Into the basket she set the plates of ham and cake and cheese, the dishes of preserves and the bowl of salad. Guiltily she returned to her own rooms and sought the stairs leading to the large, open rafters that was shared alike by the two inmates of the house.

On the north half of the room Delia Priddy kept her belongings, and in the south half Ann's things were stored away. Ann was particular to place the captured viands in Delia's half of the attic. When Delia found them she might conjecture what she pleased. Mrs. Bart was too angry to analyze her own motives at that moment.

A large chest was set back under the rafters. Ann crept forward and threw back the lid. The chest was half filled with boxes and bundles and formed a safe hiding place for the plates of food. These were set carefully on top of the packages in the trunk, and Ann held one small box in her hand while she arranged the chest. The sound of footsteps on the path below brought her to her feet with a sudden sense of guilt. She dropped the lid with a bang and threw the basket into a distant corner among her own things.

Once below in her own room she found herself clutching a small paste board box. She had forgotten to replace it in the chest. She heard Delia on the back porch talking to the cat, and she hastily thrust the box in her workbasket and threw her knitting over the whole.

Delia's light step came into the hall and paused at Ann's kitchen door. Mrs. Bart's heart almost stopped beating for an instant, then it went on in heavy, angry throbs.

Let Delia Priddy accuse her of stealing the supper. She would laugh in her face!

There was the sound of a low knock at the kitchen door, and Ann strode swiftly across the floor and threw the door wide open. There stood Delia with her milk pitcher in one hand and the black cat curling about her skirts.

"Good evening," hesitated Delia, with one look at Ann's face.

"Good evening," snapped Mrs. Bart, with questioning brow.

"May I come in for a few minutes?" asked Delia. "I want to say something to you, Mrs. Bart."

"Come in," said Ann ungraciously, leading the way into the dining room and pulling forward a stiff rocker.

"Sit down."

But Delia stood, tall and slender and very pale, her pitcher held in the curve of her long arm. The black cat still arched its back against her silken skirt.

Ann watched her and waited, fiercely expectant of the accusation. She imagined that Delia had seen her devastated supper table through the window, or she may have observed Ann in the very act of despoiling the table.

"I want you to come to my supper party," blurted forth Delia at last. "I know I've never been very friendly to you, Mrs. Bart, but I mean to do better, and I've put off asking you every day because I thought maybe you'd resent it. Now, at the very last moment, I just made up my mind to rush in and have it out! I've got a place all laid for you, and I expect we'll all have a real good time together. Will you come?"

Delia's blue eyes were lifted for an instant to the crayon portrait of James Bart on the wall over the mantelpiece; then her glance fell on the strangely working features of Ann Bart.

"I can't come," said Ann in a choking voice.

"Why?" asked Delia gently.

"You'll know why—when you go into your rooms," retorted Ann bitterly.

"I am sorry, I hope you'll change your mind," said Delia, turning to the door.

When the door had closed Ann reached down and took the box out of her workbasket and thrust it in a small cupboard in the chimneypiece. It slipped forward and before Ann could catch it fell to the floor, distributing its contents over the hearth rug. With a little cry of dismay Ann bent down to pick up the scattered letters and photographs. As she placed the last one in the box her arm stiffened, and she held the picture before her eyes with a strange set smile on her face.

It was a picture of her husband, James Bart, taken in his handsome young manhood. The bold dark eyes looked confidently into her own and seemed to challenge her to criticize the few words written in his crabbed writing across the bottom of the card:

"To Delia, from James, April 2, 1888." That was a year before he had married Ann.

Ann rose stiffly to her feet and closed the box with a snap; then she walked deliberately to Delia Priddy's door and knocked loudly.

"Come in!" said Delia's voice.

Mrs. Priddy was sitting near the devastated supper table, her eyes red from crying. The tall clock in the corner was slowly ticking away the minutes toward 6, when the expected guests would arrive.

Instead of feeling triumphant at the downfall of her enemy's hopes, Ann Bart felt very small and mean. But she could be as magnanimous.

"I was mad at you, Delia Priddy," she said in a low, even tone, "because you've always snubbed me and because you didn't ask me to your party, so I came in and carted all your food up into the attic, and it's there now, just as good as ever. I'll go up in a minute and bring it down. I want to ask you a question, and you needn't be offended. You used to know my husband before I was married, didn't you?"

Delia's head lifted proudly, and she broke the bitter silence of years. "I was engaged to him once, but he jilted me to marry you. I never felt that I wanted to have much to do with either of you when you came to Stillwater."

"I didn't know it, Delia, but you needn't have felt resentful. You ought to be glad you never married James. He was hateful. He was a hard man to live with. I had a hard life!" Two crimson spots glowed in Ann's cheeks as she bent over Delia Priddy and kissed her softly. "I'm going up to get that food now. I hope you'll forgive me," she added.

"Of course I do. I'm sorry I acted mean, but I couldn't see much of him, and it makes me feel better to know he wasn't perfect," half laughed Delia as she returned Ann's caress. "You'll go and get ready for supper now, won't you? And we'll all like to see the night blooming cereus too."

"Very well, I'll come in as soon as I've been up in the attic," returned Ann, hastening away.

A little later, as she tied the white lawn bow at her throat and touched her soft puffs of hair, she looked over at the crayon portrait of her husband on the wall.

"You were a good, kind husband, James, and I ain't really got a word of complaint to make about you, only somebody had to make it up to Delia for the way you treated her. She won't be anything but glad now because you married me instead of her."

Delia appeared in the doorway fresh and smiling. "Some of the folks are coming in the gate now, Mrs. Bart. S'pose you come and help me receive 'em."

WORLD EVANGELIZING PLAN

Proposed Laymen's Missionary Campaign Against Heathenism.

For the first time in the history of the world Protestant churches representing every denomination will meet on common ground to wage the greatest propaganda for Christianity the world has ever known.

The inspiration and backbone of this colossal undertaking is the Laymen's Missionary movement, with offices in New York city. The strength of the general interest given to this international movement, is voiced in the long list of names of men high in the world of finance, as well as those known in the professional and various lines of successful business life. Men whose names are identified with some of the greatest fortunes of the United States are actively interested in this movement to Christianize the world.

The keynote of the movement is based on the belief that if the successful business men of the United States were to apply their time, their business ability and their professional experience to a movement to evangelize the world the purpose of this mission could be accomplished. So for the first time in history the twentieth century will witness the spectacle of this great combination of power with the added strength of the allied churches arrayed itself against the heathen world.

The figures that deal with this proposed movement are something that even the lay mind will stop a bit to ponder. To begin with, the Laymen's Missionary movement proposes to evangelize the world within this generation. That this will be no small undertaking one need only observe these figures, furnished by the Laymen's Missionary movement:

Of the world's entire population of 1,500,000,000 only 500,000,000, or one-third, are Christians. Now, to fulfill the vow taken by the movement will require money, and much of it. The statisticians of the movement have figured that it will require about $55,000,000 annually to do the work. This means $1,925,000,000 to be spent in the next thirty-five years to evangelize the world.

Can this be done? The Laymen's Missionary movement says that it can, and on May 3 they will open their first national congress in Chicago to discuss plans for carrying on this worldwide campaign against heathenism. About 4,500 representative men coming from every state in the Union will attend this congress, to be held in the Auditorium.

ACTORS TO GIVE TAFT MEDAL

Presentation to President on May 9 First Event of Its Kind.

President Taft will receive the first medal ever presented to the chief magistrate by the theater on May 9, when he goes to New York from Washington expressly to open the Actors' Fund fair. The presentation will be made by a committee of twelve of the leading actresses on the dramatic stage.

The medal, which was designed by Chester Beach, one of the youngest of New York sculptors, was struck in gold. Mr. Beach was commissioned to make the design by Archer M. Huntington, president of the American Numismatic society. The selection of the design was made by John W. Alexander, president of the American Academy of Design and chairman of the art committee of the Actors' Fund fair, from a great number of drawings and plates submitted for the competition. The face of the medal portrays "Charity" coming forward, with "Comedy" and "Tragedy" stretching forth her arms in an appeal for charity. On the reverse side, in low relief, are the comedy and tragedy masks. The medal bears the words "Actors' Fund, New York, 1910." The dies for the medal were donated by Edward J. Deitch.

A PARTY FOR HUSBANDS.

Pittsburg Women's Club Will Give It In Place of a Rose Fete.

The Women's club of Pittsburg, which recently took umbrage at insinuations of race suicide in Pittsburg and which in self defense gave a baby show for babies of members only, caused additional interest the other night by announcing that the usual June rose fete would not be given this year by the club, but instead there would be a garden party for husbands. The club promises to make somewhat of a flutter by its display of husbands in the rose month. It is whispered that husbands of one half the members of the club do not know the husbands of the other half, and this is intended to make every one acquainted.

Mushrooms in Old Mines.

Theodore Imback of the Maryland state experiment station has found a new use for abandoned mines. He has produced in them mushrooms of the best grade, his experiment showing the abandoned mine to be an ideal place for mushroom culture. He is producing mushrooms of the best quality in an abandoned mine near the state farm at Morgantown, Md., having plants that yield from the one mine from $9 to $10 worth of mushrooms a day.

A Long Walk to Cure Tuberculosis.

Walking from Boston to Denver as a cure for tuberculosis, J. W. Lee, aged thirty, applied to the Allegheny General hospital, at Pittsburg, for medical treatment the other day and was invited to stay, but after a short rest continued on his trip. Lee said that he had no relatives or friends and was working his way across the country, riding when he could. He had walked most of the distance from Boston to Pittsburg.

Continued From Page 4.

ally a... has been across... every continent... the progress has been... that there has been a new... of the people, and new... have sprung in... of Europe and Asia.

This is what happened in the temperate and sub-tropical regions of the western hemisphere. In Australia, in portions of north-east Asia and south-east Africa. In other places the conquest has been purely political, the Europeans representing for the most part merely a small caste of soldiers and administrators, as in most of tropical Asia and Africa and in much of tropical America. Finally here and there instances occur where there has been no conquest at all, but where an alien people are profoundly and radically changed by the mere impact of western civilization.

Japan's Wonderful Growth.

The most extraordinary instance of this, of course, is Japan, for Japan's growth and change during the last half century have been in many ways the most striking phenomenon of all history. Intensely proud of her past history, intensely loyal to certain of her past traditions, she has yet with a single effort wrenched herself free from all hampering ancient ties and with a bound has taken her place among the leading civilized nations of mankind.

From now on, every man of leadership in any line of thought or effort must now look beyond the limits of his own country. The student of sociology may live in Berlin or St. Petersburg, Rome or London, or he may live in Melbourne or San Francisco or Buenos Aires, but in whatever city he lives he must pay heed to the studies of men who live in each of the other cities.

When in America we study labor problems and attempt to deal with subjects such as life insurance for wage-workers, we turn to see what you do here in Germany, and we also turn to see what the far-off commonwealth of New Zealand is doing.

When a great German scientist is warring against the most dreaded enemies of mankind, creatures of infinitesimal size which the microscope reveals in his blood, he may spend his holidays of study in central Africa or in eastern Asia, and he must know what is accomplished in the laboratories of Tokyo, just as he must know the details of that practical application of science which has changed the life of Panama from a death trap into what is almost a health resort.

Mankind Knit Together.

From a new discovery in science to a new method of combating or applying socialism, there is no movement of note which can take place in any part of the globe without powerfully affecting masses of people in Europe, America and Australia, in Asia and Africa. For weal or for woe, the peoples of mankind are knit together far closer than ever before.

A hundred years ago, when this university was founded, the methods of transportation did not differ in the essentials from what they had been among the highly civilized nations of antiquity. Travelers and merchandise went by land in wheeled vehicles or on beasts of burden, and by sea in boats propelled by sails or by oars, and news was conveyed as it always had been conveyed.

What improvements there had been had been in degree only and not in kind, and in some respects there had been retrogression rather than advance. There were many parts of Europe where the roads were certainly worse than the old Roman post roads, and the Mediterranean sea, for instance, was by no means as well policed as in the days of Trajan.

Now steam and electricity have worked a complete revolution, and the resulting immensely increased ease of communication has in its turn completely changed all the physical questions of human life.

Moreover, the invention and use of machinery run by steam or electricity have worked a revolution in industry as great as the revolution in transportation, so that here again the difference between ancient and modern civilization is one not merely of degree, but of kind.

In many vital respects the huge modern cities differ more from all preceding cities than any of these dferred... the... and... giant factory town is of and by itself one of the most formidable problems of modern life.

Steam and electricity have given the race dominion over land and water such as it never had before, and now the conquest of the air is rapidly impending. As books prove, I thought through time, so the telegraph and telephone transmit it through the space they annihilate, and therefore men are swayed one by another without regard to the limitations of space and time which formerly forced each community to work in comparative isolation.

It is the same with the body as with the brain. The machinery of the factory and the farm enormously multiplies bodily skill and vigor. Countless trained intelligences are at work to teach us how to avoid or counteract the effects of waste.

Ironless Age is Coming.

The enormous and constantly increasing output of coal and iron necessarily means the approach of the day when our children's children or their children's children shall dwell in an ironless age and, later on, in an age without coal and will have to try to invent or develop new sources for the production of heat and use of energy. But as regards many another natural resource scientific civilization teaches us how to preserve it through use.

The best use of field and forest will leave them decade by decade, century by century, more fruitful, and we have barely begun to use the indestructible power that comes from harnessed water.

The conquests of surgery, of medicine, the conquests in the entire field of hygiene and sanitation, have been literally marvelous. The advances in the past century or two have been over more ground than was covered during the entire previous history of the human race.

In this movement there are signs of much that bodes ill. The machinery is so highly geared, the tension and strain are so great, the effort and the output have alike so increased, that there is cause to dread the ruin that would come from any great accident, from any breakdown, and also the ruin that may come from the mere wearing out of the machine itself.

One of the prime dangers of civilization has always been its tendency to cause the loss of the virile fighting virtues, of the fighting edge. When men get too comfortable and lead a luxurious life there is always danger, lest the softness eat like an acid into their manliness of fiber. The barbarian, because of the very conditions of his life, is forced to keep and develop certain hardy qualities which the man of civilization tends to lose, whether he be clerk, factory hand, merchant or even a certain type of farmer.

Now, I will not assert that in modern civilized society these tendencies have been wholly overcome, but there has been a much more successful effort to overcome them than was the case in the early civilizations.

Wealthy men still exercise a large and sometimes an improper influence in politics, but it is apt to be an indirect influence, and in the advanced states the mere suspicion that the wealth of public men is obtained or added to as an incident of their public careers will bar them from public life.

Speaking generally, wealth may very greatly influence modern political life, but it is not acquired in political life. The colonial administrators, German or American, French or English, of this generation lead careers which, as compared with the careers of other men of like ability, show too little rather than too much regard for money making, and literally a world scandal would be caused by conduct which a Roman proconsul would have regarded as moderate and which would not have been especially uncommon even in the administration of England a century and a half ago.

Great Men Come From the Poor.

On the whole, the great statesmen of the last few generations have been either men of moderate means or, if men of wealth, men whose wealth was diminished rather than increased by their public services.

What is the lesson to us today? Are we to go the way of the older civilizations? The immense increase in the area of civilized activity today, so that it is nearly continuous with the world's surface; the immense increase in the multitudinous variety of its activities; the immense increase in the velocity of the world movement—are all these to mean merely that the crash will be all the more complete and terrible when it comes?

Personally I do not believe that our civilization will fall. I think that on the whole we have grown better and not worse. I think that on the whole the future holds more for us than even the great past has held. But assuredly the dreams of golden glory in the future will not come true unless, high of heart and strong of hand, by our own mighty deeds we make them come true.

We cannot afford to develop any one set of qualities, any one set of activities, at the cost of seeing others equally necessary atrophied. Neither the military efficiency of the Mongol, the extraordinary business ability of the Phoenician nor the subtle and polished intellect of the Greek availed to avert destruction.

What We Need.

We, the men of today and of the future, need many qualities if we are to do our work well. We need, first of all and most important of all, the qualities which stand at the base of individual, of family life, the fundamental and essential qualities—the homely, everyday, all important virtues.

If the average man will not work, if he has not in him the will and power to be a good husband and father, if the average woman is not a good housewife, a good mother of many healthy children, then the state will topple, will go down, no matter what may be its brilliance of artistic development or material achievement.

Unjust war is to be abhorred, but woe to the nation that does not make ready to hold its own in time of need against all who would harm it, and woe thrice over to the nation in which the average man loses the fighting edge, loses the power to serve as a soldier if the day of need should arise.

The Dream of Civilization.

It is no impossible dream to build up a civilization in which morality, ethical development and a true feeling of brotherhood shall all alike be divorced from false sentimentality and from the tancorous and evil passions which, curiously enough, so often accompany professions of sentimental attachment to the rights of man, in which a high material development in the things of the body shall be achieved without subordination of the things of the soul, in which there shall be a genuine desire for peace and justice without loss of those virile qualities without which no love of peace or justice shall avail any race, in which the fullest development of scientific research, the great distinguishing feature of our present civilization, shall yet not imply a belief that intellect can ever take the place of character.

From the standpoint of the nation as of the individual it is character that is the one vital possession. Finally, this world movement of civilization, this movement which is now felt throbbing in every corner of the globe, should bind the nations of the world together while yet leaving unimpaired that love of country in the individual citizen which in the present stage of the world's progress is essential to the world's well being. You, my hearers, and I who speak to you belong to different nations.

Under modern conditions the books we read, the news sent by telegram to our newspapers, the strangers we meet, half of the things we hear and do each day—all tend to bring us into touch with other peoples.

Each people can do justice to itself only if it does justice to others, but each people can do its part in the world movement for all only if it first does its duty within its own household. The good citizen must be a good citizen of his own country first before he can with advantage be a citizen of the world at large. I wish you well. I believe in you and your future.

For Sale Cheap.

One Planet Jr., riding cultivator and a lot of young Leghorn hens.

W. R. STRONG,

Route 5, Salisbury.

The Volunteer Fire Department is always ready to help you at all times. Now you be sure to go to their Bazaar, and help them.

Personal.

—Mr. G. M. Fisher was in Virginia this week.

—Mr. Claude Dorman is visiting in Philadelphia.

—Mr. Frank Young of Pocomoke was in town this week.

—Mrs. Samuel Graham is visiting relatives in Baltimore.

—Mr. Wallace White of Powellville was in Salisbury this week.

—Mr. Ralph Rich, of Onancock, Va. was in town several days this week.

—Miss Louise Barnes of Princess Anne is the guest of Miss Edna Woolston.

—Mrs. Chaffinch and children of Boston are visiting relatives in town.

—Miss Margaret Eise of Philadelphia was the guest of Miss Anne Dashiell this week.

—Miss Nettie Hardin and Miss Edythe Mills, of Boston spent last Sunday in town.

—Mr. Walter Graham of Baltimore is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Graham.

—Mrs. Marion Brewington and son Fulton were in Baltimore a few days last week.

—Little Miss Cornelia Wallis who has been visiting in Richmond, Va. has returned home.

—Miss Jean Leonard who has been spending the winter in Baltimore is visiting relatives in town.

—Miss Belle Jackson, who has been spending several weeks in Philadelphia and at Hot Springs, Va. returned home Monday.

—The Baraca Class of Trinity M. E. Church, South, was tendered a banquet at the Oaks by Mrs. E. E. Jackson last Monday evening.

—The Mothers, Jewels of Asbury M. E. Church will meet today at the home of Miss Virginia Kennerly on Elizabeth Street at three o'clock.

—The Womens Home Missionary Society of Asbury M. E. Church met at the home of Mrs. W. C. Phillips, Broad Street Wednesday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Imhoff and children of Boston were in Salisbury this week to attend the funeral of Mrs. Imhoff's father, Mr. John Nelson.

Meeting of School Board.

The School Board had a busy session last Friday. The following business was transacted:

The Board re-organized by re-electing Mr. H. L. Brewington president and Mr. Wm J. Holloway secretary, treasurer and county superintendent.

Mr. Isaac L. Price, the minority member of the Board, assumed the duties of office, having previously qualified before Clerk of the Court Ernest A. Toadvine. Mr. Price succeeds Mr. Levin T. Cooper, of Sharptown.

The session was principally taken up in the appointment of school trustees to serve for two years. There were but few changes in the present trustees.

A delegation was before the Board to urge the erection of a new school building at Jones' near Mr. Herman Church. This is one of the oldest school buildings in the county and is in bad condition. Accompanying the request for a change in the location of the school, it was suggested that the present school lot be exchanged for a lot near the Mr. Herman Church, in an oak grove. Sentiment however was divided as to location, and the Board promised to visit the neighborhood next Thursday and inspect the sites suggested, before reaching a conclusion. The Board decided upon June 14, 15, 16 as the dates for teachers' examinations.

Civil Service Examinations.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that the following examinations will be held at the post office in this city on the day named:

June 8, 1910.—Bacteriologist and Pathologist, Assistant Professor of Bacteriology and Pathology.

June 8, 1910.—Inorganic Chemist, Philippine Service.

July 13-14, 1910.—Examiner, Reclamation Service.

Just Out

OUR newest and latest catalog of window and door screens is just out and we want you to have one. We would also like to have our "screen salesman" call and see you and give you an estimate on screens for your house. Our screens are recommended for their general practical features and it costs you nothing to get our prices. You know the investment for screens for your house is one of the best you can make as it not only saves labor in keeping your house clean and sanitary, but it prevents disease of various kinds (See bulletins from Maryland Agricultural College and otherlike institutions.) Only a line by mail or a word by phone and you can have a representative at your door.

WE would also remind you that our delivery system is in perfect shape and our stock of building material was never more complete. Everything in the building line. Framing, siding, sheathing, shingles, doors, windows, frames, blinds, flooring, ceiling, mantels, mouldings, plastering laths, lime, hardware, cement bricks, prepared roofing, building paper, etc. ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING.

E. S. ADKINS & CO.

"Quality the First Consideration, Cost the Second"

SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

Kennerly-Shockley Co.

Tailor Made Suits

now in and ready for early purchasers. This cut represents one of our popular styles in Spring Suits. Our line this season consists of all the leading shades and popular designs. Prices ranging from $14.90 to $25.00. We have just received a lot of Silk Waists in popular shades which will be sold for $3.90.

Kennerly-Shockley Co.

Dry Goods, Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Shoes

SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

Social Life

for the farmer's wife is attractive since the advent of Rural

Bell Telephone Service

A friendly visit by telephone to a neighbor relieves the monotony of the day's household duties.

Write for particulars.

The Diamond State Telephone Co.

No Doubt

It Would Be To Your Advantage To Investigate One Or More Of The Following Articles:

Plain and Fancy Window Screens and Doors

Water Coolers, Nursery Refrigerators

Garden Hose and Fittings Metal

and Wood Hose Reels

Salisbury Hardware Co.

Phone 346. SALISBURY, MD.

THE COURIER.

Vol. XII, No. 9.

Salisbury, Maryland, Saturday, May 21, 1910

$1.00 per Annum

The Latest Styles

Ladies'

Oxfords, Sailor Ties
Ankle Strap Pumps
The "Wishbone Pumps"
(The Latest)

Young Mens'

Oxfords, One and Two
Eyelet Sailor Ties
The "Kandy Kid"
(The Latest)

Make up your mind when you find the "Big Shoe" that you are at "The Right Place" for the season's latest styles.

E. Homer White
Shoe Company
229 Main St. Salisbury, Md.

It Always Pays To Feature The Best

El-Mardo
5c. CIGAR

produces the best results wherever they are on sale. The growth of El-Mardo Cigars proves their superiority both as to quality and workmanship.

WATSON'S SMOKE HOUSE
PAUL E. WATSON, PROPRIETOR
SALISBURY, MARYLAND

Confections Have Social Standing

as well as the people that buy them. There is one particular kind that goes into the most exclusive circles and is regarded as the candy of quality.

Belle Mead
Sweets
Chocolates and Bon Bons

in their beautiful gold seal box. Are recognized everywhere as a synonym for class—tone—exclusiveness. Made in the "cleanest candy kitchen in the world."

No purer, more delicious, more reliable candy has ever been made.

SOLD BY
WILKINS & CO.,
SOLE AGENTS

HAVEN'T YOU BEEN EXPECTING?

TO START A BANK ACCOUNT? Been trying to save an amount sufficient to "make a good start?" The "small purchase temptation" makes it very hard to accumulate any certain sum by keeping money in your pocket or hiding it around the house when probably it will be stolen from you.

This bank accepts deposits for $1.00 and up—why not come in and open an account with us NOW—let the bank help you save—its the only safe way.

The Salisbury National Bank

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY

SURPLUS $60,000 CAPITAL $50,000

OLDEST BANK IN WICOMICO COUNTY

W. P. JACKSON, President
JOHN H. WHITE, Cashier

THE REXALL STORES

We Now Sell Rexall Remedies

WE HAVE just taken the Agency for these well-known, high-class remedies and are carrying a very complete stock of them, including the "93 HAIR TONIC" and the "Orderlies." Each remedy of which there is "one for each human ailment."

Positively Guaranteed To Give Satisfaction

This guarantee is a genuine one, and both we and the United Drug Co. stand back of it to the limit.

Ask for a copy of the booklet "HEALTH" which fully explains "Rexall Remedies."

White & Leonard

DRUG STORES

Main & St. Peter Sts. E. Church St.

DR. F. J. BARCLAY
DENTIST
Crown and Bridge work a specialty. Special attention given to children. Prompt and careful attention given to all dental work. Prices moderate.
500 N. Division St., Salisbury, Md.

TRUE time-keeping is a matter of workmanship and adjustment—not of the price you pay. EXCELSIOR makers approach their work in the right spirit. The result is a fine watch that you can buy at a popular price—$4.50 to $7.00.

Ask us for the EXCELSIOR WATCH.

WE also carry all of the leading AMERICAN Watches. This puts us in a position to take care of your needs, in the line of a time piece.

Prices from $1 to $150

S. M. Fisher,
Jeweler.

DR. H. C. ROBERTSON

DENTIST.

Good teeth are essential to good looks and to good health also. If your teeth are not good you had better come in at once and let me give them attention; because if you delay the matter they may give you all kinds of trouble.

Teeth extracted FREE where plates are made.

Prices reasonable and all work guaranteed satisfactory.

Crown and Bridge work especially solicited.

OFFICE: 106 E. Church St., near Division

SALISBURY, MD.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS.

Class Of Sixteen Pupils Will Be Graduated This Year—Class Day Exercises To Be Held Tuesday Evening Next.

The final examinations of the graduating class of the Wicomico High School having been completed the class honors have been divided as follows: Valedictorian, Clifford Ryall; Salutatorian, Mary E. Pusey. The complete program for the commencement exercises, which will be held at the opera house on the evening of Wednesday, May 25th, follows:

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.
Overture—Orchestra
Invocation—Rev. T. E. Martindale
Salutatory—Miss Mary E. Pusey
Essay, "Night Brings out the Stars"—Miss Miriam W. Trader
Solo, "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter"—W. A. Sheppard
Essay, "Woman's Sphere is in the Home"—Ruth Kennerly
Essay, "Unionism"—R. A. Brotemarkle
Selection—Orchestra
Essay, "Motto of the Sun Dial"—Irving E. Phillips
Valedictory—Clifford Ryall
Quartette, "The Rosary"—W. T. Da-shiell, C. Edgar Laws, W. A. Sheppard, F. E. Adkins—Nevin
Presentation of Diplomas—Mr. Wm. J. Holloway
Selection—Orchestra
Address—Francis H. Green Ph. D.
Benediction—Rev. Chas. Hewitt
Selection—Orchestra

The class day exercises will be held on Tuesday evening at the opera house and for this occasion the following program has been arranged:

PART I
Presidents Address—Mr. Irving Phillips
Roll Call and Reading of Minutes—Miss Etha Messick
Class History—Miss Ruth Kennerly
Class Presentation—Miss Dorothy Mitchell
Class Will—Miss Etha Day
Class Phrophey—Miss Ruby Hayman
Junior Class Song
PART II
"The Real Thing," a domestic farce in one act.—by John Kendrick Bangs.

Marriage Licenses.

The following licenses to marry were issued during the week by Clerk of the Court, Ernest A. Toadvine: Stewart Kibbie—Otha C. Stewart, 27, Washington, D. C., and Emma L. Kibbie, 25, Wicomico County; Ennis-Wimbrow—Wilmer T. Ennis, 22, and Anna Wimbrow, 18, Wicomico County.

Civil Service Examinations.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that the following examinations will be held at the post office in this city on the day named: June 15, 1910.—Geologist, Geological

THE 42nd CONVENTION DIOCESE OF EASTON.

Protestant Episcopal Clerical and Lay Delegates Will Assemble in This City On June 7-8. Bishop Adams Will Preside.

Salisbury will have the honor of entertaining the 42nd Protestant Episcopal Convention of the Diocese of Easton, which will convene in St. Peter's Church, on June 7. This convention will be one of special importance as several committees named by the last convention will report on matters of vital interest to the Diocese. Delegates to the General Convention, to be held in Cincinnati will also be elected. Bishop Adams will preside and the Rev. Henry B. Martin, D. D., will preach the Convention Sermon.

Thirty-three clerical and forty lay delegates will be in attendance. The reception committee is composed of ex Judge C. F. Holland, Wm. M. Cooper, Thomas Perry and Wm. E. Dorman. The delegates on their arrival will be met by the above named committee and the following automobile committee—Frank J. Adams, Mark Cooper, Roscoe White and W. A. Kennerly—and carried to the homes where they are to be entertained.

The Alert—"At Home".

The Alert Class of the Division St. Baptist Sunday School gave its first annual "At Home", in the new laundry building on Division street, Tuesday evening, May 17th. About one hundred members of the class and their invited guests attended the banquet. After supper Mr. W. B. Miller of this city gave an eloquent and powerful address on "The Future of America."

The entertainment was opened with a word of welcome by Mr. John Morris, president of the class. Mr. Walter Allen gave a short talk on "Our Aim." Toasts were responded to as follows: "Why We Won", Miss Marian Evans, "Never Again", Harry Hill; "Nine Months of Progress", Hammond Brewington.

Chas. T. Hewitt the teacher of the class made a few remarks in closing. Orchestra and vocal music participated in by Misses Bertie Downing, Emma Ward, Ruth Gravenor, Helen Hayman, Mabel Riggin, Messrs. Ganby Thomas, Milton Pragg and Alfred Colons, added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

A vote of thanks was tendered Harry Hill, Jessie Buckalew and contractor Arvey for the use of the building.

—Straw Hats! Straw Hats for young men, Straw Hats for conservative men, Straw Hats for older men. Straw Hats from 50c to $5.00. The greatest showing of Straw Hats ever made by this store. Kennerly & Mitchell.

SALISBURY CAN BOAST OF 52 AUTOMOBILES.

List Of Owners And Cars Now In Use In This City—Nearly $150,000 Invested In Machines And Number On Increase.

Considerable interest has been manifested recently in the number of automobiles in the city of Salisbury. The number has been estimated all the way from 40 to 80. For this reason a careful count of the machines in Salisbury has been made, showing that there are at present 52 cars in use in this city, as follows:

E. Dale Adkins
Chas. Bethke
F. A. Grier
C. H. Disharoon
J. H. Tomlinson
J. H. Tomlinson
Charles Reed
W. B. Miller
W. B. Miller
J. Roscoe White
R. D. Grier
R. D. Grier
R. D. Grier
R. D. Grier
W. M. Cooper
Irving Powell
U. C. Phillips
Fred Smith
F. J. Adams
W. B. Miller
Jay Williams
R. McK. Price
Dr. J. McF. Dick
Dr. G. W. Todd
W. B. Tikhman
M. A. Walton
W. P. Jackson
W. P. Jackson
W. P. Jackson
M. H. Day
Harold Fitch
W. A. Kennerly
John Hagan
L. W. Gunby
Jas. E. Lowe
Dr. H. C. Tall
W. J. Holloway
L. J. Coulbourn
E. W. Truitt
Wilson Pusey
F. W. Baysinger
Geo. H. Weisbach
White & Truitt
Graham Gunby
Mrs. Nannie Jackson
Hugh Jackson
Richard Jackson
L. W. Gunby Co.
A. A. Gillis
J. Walter Williams
Raymond Wimbrow
S. P. Woodcock
E. M. F.

In addition to these cars and not counted in the total number are 9 new cars in stock, owned by the L. W. Gunby Co. This firm has also in stock four second hand cars and has placed an order for 10 more stock cars.

The cost of the automobiles enumerated above shows that there is invested in cars in this city about $145,000.00.

Figuring the population of Salisbury to be 6800, this shows that there is at present one automobile to every 130 people. Another interesting item is that there is a sufficient amount of money invested in cars in this city to give each man, woman and child, if equally divided, and based upon a population of 6800, $21.32.

Whiskey Seller Escapes.

"Bob" Revell, Jr., better known as "Chinich" Revell, whom the officers had suspected for some time of selling whiskey in Salisbury, was arrested Monday night by Officers Disharoon and Waller, as he was driving from Fruitland to Salisbury. In Revell's buggy was found 16 quart bottles of whiskey which had been consigned to him by a Wilmington firm. The officers brought Revell to Salisbury and after questioning him sharply in the Sheriff's office, constable Waller and Deputy Sheriff Smith started to the jail with the prisoner. Just as the jail door was swung open and the officers were about to land their prisoner safely, Revell broke away from them and beat a hasty retreat down Water Street. Officer Waller fired twice with his revolver, but this did not stop Revell and he escaped, leaving his horse and buggy in the possession of the officers.

Held For Grand Jury.

Charged with abducting 16 year old Pauline O. Parker from her home in this city, Jefferson D. Galloway, who is employed by a local industrial insurance company, was held under $300.00 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury after a preliminary hearing before Justice Trader on Wednesday.

—Capt Wm. K. Leatherbury has contracted with Otis S. Lloyd to build 200 feet of wharf on the river front a short distance above the railway. The work has been begun. Capt. Leatherbury will also erect an oyster-packing house on the new wharf 65 feet long, with a wing large enough to store 2,500 bushels of oysters. The packing house will have a cement floor. Last year Capt. Leatherbury's packing house at White Haven was burned and he decided to build at Salisbury.

MAYOR HARPER'S LETTER READ UPON RETIREMENT.

Gives Review Of The City's Affairs From The Time He Was Elected Up To The Present—Railroad Station Due To Him.

Upon his retirement from the office of Mayor of Salisbury, which he has held for six years, Mayor Charles E. Harper, at the last meeting of the Council, submitted the following letter. It is clear and to the point and shows that Mayor Harper accomplished a great deal for the city during his term of office.

Salisbury, Md., May 16, 1910.

Gentlemen:—As retiring Mayor of Salisbury, I will ask your indulgence briefly, that I may review conditions in Salisbury, as I found them, six years ago upon my induction into the office of Mayor, and as I see them today.

Upon my inauguration as Mayor six years ago I found the financial condition of the City not so good, there being a floating indebtedness of thirteen thousand dollars, and this condition had to be promptly met in a manner that would bring in sufficient funds to pay off the indebtedness, as well as take care of current expenses. I also found our water supply very inadequate to meet the necessary demands for fire protection, and this was the first proposition of any moment to engage my attention. With your co-operation our water system has been improved so that at present we have considerable more mains, and one-third more fire hydrants at practically the same cost to the City as before, and yet the service at this time is not adequate for its demands.

The next matter to engage my attention was the problem of increasing our revenue. This, with your persistent co-operation, under our revised charter, was accomplished by an increase within three years from eight thousand dollars to eighteen thousand dollars per year. The demands of the City during this time were quite great, on account of the use of 100,000 bushels of shells per year for street maintenance as one item alone, at a cost of five to seven cents per bushel, and not only meeting these demands, we also decreased the floating indebtedness, and paid all current accounts promptly. It occurred to me as a business proposition that an annual outlay of seven to eight thousand dollars per year for shells was an extravagant outlay of the city's funds, and this condition seemed to demand a remedy. I therefore took the same up with your body, who cheerfully responded to the needs of the hour, with the result that at this time all the main thoroughfares are paved with brick or bitulithio. This permitted us to turn our attention to the needs and requirements of the other much-neglected streets and avenues of our city, and a large number of them have been put in excellent condition, by grading and shelling same, as well as the laying of ten miles or more of cement sidewalk during my administration. Other improvements of special notice are the guttering and curbing of several of our resident streets, and the laying under a number of streets of several large sewers, thereby making it possible to drain more effectually the streets of the city. Notwithstanding the necessary outlay to accomplish the before mentioned improvements, and an outlay of thirteen thousand dollars to complete the extension of bitulithio on Camden Avenue not provided for by our Bonds, but being paid out of the general fund, yet our city finances are in a healthy condition, which speaks well for the business management of your honorable body. At the present time we have about eleven thousand dollars in cash, and bills receivable about four thousand dollars, with no indebtedness save fifty thousand dollars Street Improvement Bonds, which will be taken care of by deducting a certain percentage from the annual income and placing same to the credit of the sinking fund. We now have an annual income of about twenty-five thousand dollars.

We have been laboring and looking forward to the much needed improvement of dredging and digging out the North prong of the Wicomico river, and our labors in this respect are about to bear fruit, as I am informed that an appropriation has been made for this purpose, and that the work will begin shortly.

Another improvement which we have agitated, and to which we have long been entitled, is better train service, and an adequate railroad station for the accommodation of the increased travel on railroads coming in our city. And both of these are about to be

(Continued to Page 1)

SPECIAL FOR 30 DAYS ONLY

To introduce White House Tea into families who are now using White House Coffee but have never tried the tea, we have arranged with your dealer to present you

Absolutely Free ONE FULL SIZE PACKAGE OF White House Tea

with ever pound of White House Coffee you purchase during the next 30 Days

White House Tea is chosen with experience and judgment from the product of plantations long famous for their excellence. The fragrance that arises from a cup of White House Tea is solely the result of care, and the tea itself is the very exponent of it.

Your Grocer Has a Package For You—Be Sure You Get It

May 14, 1910.

TURNER BROTHERS CO.

DISTRIBUTORS

MARYLAND HAPPENINGS.

Belongs In The Counties—News Items Of Interest To The People All Over The State.

Foley Kidney Pills are antiseptic, tonic and restorative and a prompt corrective of all urinary irregularities. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Salisbury, Ohio.

Never can tell when you'll wash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Eucalypti Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound.

Foley Kidney Pills contain in concentrated form ingredients of established therapeutic value for the relief and cure of all kidney and bladder ailments. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

Constipation causes headache, nausea, dizziness, languor, heart palpitation, drastic physics gripe, sick, weakens the bowels and don't cure. Doan's Regulax acts gently and cures constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

Anti-Saloon League Annual Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the State Board of Directors of the Anti-Saloon League was held at the Central Y. M. C. A. yesterday. The Treasurer and Superintendent reported for the last year, the policy for the ensuing year was outlined and officers elected. The meeting was unanimous and enthusiastic. It was decided:

1. To continue the local option fight for the same bill except for such verbal or technical changes as may be found advisable.

2. As for as consistent with the primary fight for local option, to support candidates for Congress who favor the Miller-Curtis Interstate liquor shipment bill as against those who do not.

3. To take all possible steps to perfect the organization in every county and ward with a view to securing the nomination and election of candidates who will support the local option bill.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. J. P. Helms, D. D.; Vice Presidents: Rev. Henry Branch, D. D., Mr. Jonathan K. Taylor and Dr. David H. Carroll; Treasurer, Mr. Henry S. Dulaney; Secretary, the Superintendent Headquarters Committee, Rev. J. P. Helms, D. D., Mr. Daniel Baker, Mr. Jonathan K. Taylor, Dr. David H. Carroll, Mr. Henry S. Dulaney and Mr. Charles W. Dorsey.

The financial report showed that the net revenue of the Maryland League for the year ending January 31, 1910, was $25,922.74, the principal items of expenditures being salaries of five regular and various special workers $8,894.18; traveling expenses of regular and special workers $2,307.10; six regular stenographers and special office help $3,168.98; printing and advertising $3,272.94; postage account $3,720.64; publication of American Issue $2,265.37; office expenses, including rent of three offices, $1,870.81; and special meeting expenses $1,094.57.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by him.

Walding, Kinnear & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for Constipation.

The High Cost Of Living.

Increases the prices of many necessities without improving the quality. Foley's Honey and Tar maintains its high standard of excellence and its great curative qualities without any increase in cost. It is the best remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

For More Than Three Decades.

Foley's Honey and Tar has been a household favorite for all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. For infants and children it is best and safest as it contains no opiates and no harmful drugs. None genuine but Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Study for To-morrow. "The Death of John, The Baptist."—Ably Discussed by A. Local Writer.

Mat. 14: 1-12.

Golden Text—"He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he thateth a city."—Prov. 16:33.

The beheading of John, the Baptist took place about March A. D. 29, after he had been in prison for some months. After the baptism of Jesus in the Jordan, John continued to preach—it was his office. He was of the priestly line, a descendant of Aaron, being the son of Zacharias, a priest of the temple service, and Elizabeth, a cousin of Mary, mother of Jesus.

John was imprisoned by Herod Antipas, governor or ruler of Galilee and Peraea from A. D. 4 to A. D. 39. This Herod had married as first wife a daughter of an Arabian King, Aretas, whom he discarded for Herodias, the wife of Herod Philip, his half-brother. Herodias took to her home with Herod Antipas's daughter, Salome. This unholy alliance has been far-reaching in its effect.

The preaching of John had become very effective. The people heard him and loved him, his preaching of repentance appealed to them; and no doubt many questions were propounded to him for opinion and advice. Herod seems to have been attracted, and his awful sin of the unholy alliance with Herodias could not escape John's notice, and called forth his denunciation, for he had told Herod that it was unlawful for him to have her as wife.

John's prominence as a preacher, the love of the people for him, and his open denunciation of sin in high life made him a danger to Herod. This caused his arrest and imprisonment in the tower Machabers, or "black" tower, east of the Dead Sea, where Herod built his castle. Herodias could never, as long as John the Baptist lived, be free of an ever impending denunciation of her sinful life before the people, an awful thing to an ambitious queen, so, through connivance with a daughter, she accomplished the death of John the Baptist.

Why did John endanger his life by preaching against sin in high places? Mark gives us to understand that John had frequent audiences with Herod. Was it necessary that he tell Herod personally of his sin? Yes, John knew sin but to hate and denounce it, and here he did his whole duty. It was the means of bringing his life to a close, but what it has accomplished—through all the ages since this aggressive denunciation of sin has challenged wrongdoing and made it harder for men to sin. The world needed a great declaration upon this great offence, and no more fitting opportunity could present itself.

John is still declaring the status of this act of Herod unto the ends of the earth. Little attention is given to Herod or Herodias, but John's sermon against the breaking of the seventh commandment will last as long as the human family needs instruction. Next to the baptism of Christ, his great life's work, stands this rebuke of sin in a high place. It is of unestimable value to the world, equal to the accomplishment of a long life.

Why had Herod not put John to death upon his arrest? He feared the people, and then Herod was a Jew, and had been well taught. He loved, no doubt, to hear honest words spoken, and then there was in him still, perhaps, something restraining his hand in the matter—not all given over to debasement. It is hard to rid the mind of a man who has been well taught in youth of all love and respect for good, but continually adding sin and wrong into one's life will accomplish a complete ruin. It was so with Herod. He yoked himself to sin, lived with it, opened all the avenues of his life to it and it destroyed him. He was ultimately deposed and banished. John was a hero to righteousness, a hero of undying fame; Herod was a sacrifice of sin, a failure. Where is the real prison? Beecher says, "The worst prison is not of stone. It is a throbbing heart, outraged by an infamous life." Conscience was the bars of the prison through which Herod looked for the remainder of his life. The report of Christ's works caused him to think of John, and he no doubt, never ceased to feel the effect of his awful sin.

John, the Baptist never ceases to point to Christ as the Lamb of God. He lost his life to find it; it was one of the things to make him great. As Jesus was lifted up to draw all men to him so John was lifted up to point all men to Christ.

Herodias is an awful example—an ambitious woman who sacrificed her all, and all that should have been dear to her in her daughter to that ambition to be worldly great. She instructed her daughter as to what she should ask for. The world offers much the same today, and mothers are instructing their daughters as to what they are to ask of life. This does not need application—it is too apparent. When the call of ambition overcomes the great mother instinct, sin takes a march forward.

C. B.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Fifty More Like This In Salisbury.

Scores of Salisbury people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

James K. Disharoon, 220 Isabella Street, Salisbury, Md., says: "I have never taken another remedy of such wonderful curative powers as Doan's Kidney Pills. I know that my life has been saved by them. About fifteen years ago I began to suffer from kidney complaint, that was brought on by a heavy cold. My back grew lame and painful and in about a week I was unable to get about without the aid of a cane. I could not sleep on account of the knife-like pains in my loins, and when I walked, I had to go very slowly and be careful that I did not make a mis-step, as this was sure to bring on a sharp twinge. In the morning I had to be assisted out of bed and I was in a serious condition. I consulted two doctors, who told me that I was so badly run down that there was but little hope for me. I gradually lost weight, grew weak and languid and had a poor appetite. The kidney secretions were very unnatural and I gave up hope of ever getting well. Finally someone told me about Doan's Kidney Pills. I began their use and to my great surprise, I soon found that they were helping me. I steadily improved until entirely cured and I had no further trouble until some years later when a cold affected my kidneys. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, however, the annoyance disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Delaware Produce Exchange, Inc., Shipping Strawberries.

The Exchange controls a large portion of the shipments going from the state and its local agents are now loading cars daily at the different stations.

All farm products, generally known as produce, with the exception of milk, butter, eggs, poultry and live stock will be handled in season. Contracting with local canning houses for tomatoes and other vegetable and fruit crops, or disposing of any produce for local consumption, will not conflict with the Constitution and By-Laws of the Association.

The Exchange is a farmers' organization, and in order to make it as successful and strong as the Eastern Shore of Virginia Produce Exchange, and other organizations of its kind throughout the country, it is very necessary that the farmers give it their support and patronage.

The farmer, in order to get his portion of the profits of his labor, must get closer to the consumer; he must do away with the middle-man; he must have his produce handled direct from the farm to the dealer, who distributes it among the retail trade, and the only way in which this can be accomplished is by thorough organization, close cooperation, a combination of products for shipment, and a centralization of marketing facilities.

The Delaware farmers are at the present time allowing from 300 to 400 buyers, brokers and solicitors to handle their products—the expense is entirely too great—therefore, it would be well for each and every grower to cooperate with the officers, directors agents and local inspectors of the Delaware Produce Exchange, Inc., in making it a great, strong, profitable and independent organization of farmers.

An Amendment.

"Are you ready to live on my income?" he asked softly.

She looked up into his face trustfully.

"Certainly, dearest," she answered.

"If I—"

"If what?"

"If you get another one for yourself."—New York Journal.

Commander Julius A. Pratt Post No. 143 Dept. Ill., G. A. R.

Mr. Isaac Cook, Commander of above Post, Kewanee, Ill., writes: "For a long time I was bothered with backache and pains across my kidneys. About two months ago I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and soon saw they were doing just as claimed. I kept on taking them and now I am free from backache, and the painful bladder misery is all gone. I like Foley Kidney Pills so well that I have told many of my friends and comrades about them and shall recommend them at every opportunity." Sold by John M. Toulson.

What Everybody Wants.

Everybody desires good health which is impossible unless the kidneys are sound and healthy. Foley's Kidney Remedy should be taken at the first indication of any irregularity, and a serious illness may be averted. Foley's Kidney Remedy will restore your kidneys and bladder to their normal state and activity. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Dental Instruction

Apply to

MISS NELLIE LANKFORD,
106 William Street
Salisbury, Maryland

DRS. W. G. & E. W. SMITH

DENTISTS

Graduates of Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery

Office Main St., SALISBURY, MD.

Teeth extracted skillfully, with or without Gas or Cocaine. Satisfaction guaranteed on all kinds of Dental Work.

Visit Children First and Third Friday of Each Month.

G. D. KRAUSE

Successor to

George Hoffman

and

Busy Bee Bakery

Having opened a first-class Horse and Mule Barn on Lake St., I am making a specialty of

Fine Horses And Mules

Here can always be found Gentlemen's Driving Horses, Work Horses and Mules, and I am in a position to suit all customers—in quality of horseflesh and price. No need to go away from home to secure good stock—it's right here.

I. H. WHITE,
SALISBURY, MD.

Hotel Kernan

European Plan. Absolutely Fireproof.

In The Heart Of The Business Section Of Baltimore, Md.

Luxurious Rooms. Single and En Suite. With or Without Baths. 64 Per Day Up. Partial Dining Rooms. Unsurpassed Cuisine. Shower and Plunge in Turkish Baths free to guests. Send for booklet.

JOSEPH L. KERNAN, Manager

Fine Oak Wood

Cut from Stump, Both Seasoned and Green

Also Pine Slab Wood

fully seasoned, delivered anywhere in Salisbury on short notice. Cut in any stove lengths.

W. T. Banks

Telephone 246 SALISBURY, MD.

Boot and Shoemaker

Boot and Shoe Repairing of all kinds neatly done on short notice.

W. J. TURBS.

West Main St. Salisbury, Md.

You Can Have a Model Kitchen

as cool and white as a dairy. No smell, no smoke, no heat, no dust. No old-fashioned contrivances. The is the latest practical, scientific cook-stove. It will cook the most elaborate dinner without heating the kitchen.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

Boils, bakes, or roasts better than any range. Ready in a second. Extinguished in a second. Fitted with Cabinet Top, with collapsible rests, towel rack, and every up-to-date feature imaginable. You want it, because it will cook any dinner and not heat the room. No heat, no smell, no smoke, no coal to bring in, no ashes to carry out. It does away with the drudgery of cooking, and makes it a pleasure. Women with the light touch for pastry especially appreciate it, because they can immediately have a quick fire, simply by turning a handle. No half-hour preparation. It not only is less trouble than coal, but it costs less. Absolutely no smell, no smoke, and it doesn't heat the kitchen.

The nickel finish, with the turquoise blue of the enameled chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

Every dealer everywhere; if not at your, write for Descriptive Circular to the nearest agency of the Standard Oil Company

(Incorporated)

ESTABLISHED 1847

"Baltimore Oldest Furniture Store"

POLLACK'S

ISAAC DAVIDSON
WM. B. EALLON } Proprietors

SOLICIT your trade. We carry only the most reliable qualities which we guarantee. Our prices are reasonable and low. Not being an installment house, but strictly cash. All our goods are plainly marked with the lowest selling prices. One price only assuring the same equitable treatment to every one. We therefore cordially invite you to call on us when in need of

Furniture, Rugs, Mattings
Refrigerators, Mattresses, Etc.

POLLACK'S Cor. Howard and Saratoga Streets
BALTIMORE, MD.

C. I. HUDSON & COMPANY,
BROKERS.

Established 1874

MEMBERS: NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE
CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE

Eighth and Market Sts., Wilmington, Del.

34-36 Wall Street, New York.

STOCKS, GRAIN, COTTON

For Investment or Carried on Favorable Terms

D. & A. Phone 4250,
Wilmington.

J. Montieth Jackson Manager.

Strawberry Checks $1 Per Thousand
AT THIS OFFICE

Order Nisi.

William M. Day

versus

William J. Taylor, Martha Alice Taylor, his wife.

In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County. In Equity No. 1845. March, 1910.

Ordered, that the Sale of the Property mentioned in these proceedings made and reported by Jay Williams, Attorney, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shown on or before the 20th day of May, next, provided, a copy of this Order be inserted in some newspaper printed in Wicomico County once in each of three successive weeks before the 15th day of May next.

The report states the amount of sales to be $550.00.

ERNEST A. TOADVINE, Clerk.

True Copy, Test:—

ERNEST A. TOADVINE, Clerk.

FOR SALE!

Valuable City Property

1 LOT AND DWELLING

2 VACANT LOTS

Will sell as a whole or separately to suit purchaser.

Apply, COURIER OFFICE

Building Lot

For Sale

Camden Avenue, Extended. 123

ft. front; 1040 ft. deep; 3 1/2 acres

Apply to

A. H. Hardesty
Dover, Delaware.

FOR SALE!

Newspaper Agency, thriving business and making money. Owner wants to go in another business May 1st. For full particulars apply to

NEWS STANDS Salisbury, Md.

E. W. TOWNSEND & CO.

GROWERS OF
Thoroughbred Strawberry Plants

PHONE 638 SALISBURY, MD. Stock Price
Prompt Delivery

Surplus Stock of Strawberry Plants on Hand April 9th, at Greatly Reduced Prices

1,000,000 Climax	50,000 Parsons Beauty
500,000 Chesapeake	1,000,000 Red Bird
5,000 Cooper	500,000 Superior
200,000 Senator Dunlap	100,000 Stevens Late Chum p
500,000 Excelior	50,000 Tennessee Prolific
1,000,000 Gandy	5,000 3 W's
25,000 Hoffman	10,000 Tubbs
50,000 Klosslyke	50,000 Wine
500,000 Lady Townsend	5,000 (Fall Bearing, Au-
100,000 Mascot	tumn)
100,000 Missionary	American.)

Write Us. Wire Us. Phone Us. This Advertisement may not Appear Again.

For Sale Timber Lands

either in fee or stumpage only, well selected, with or without mills and in large or small tracts. I have nothing for sale to which titles are not clear and perfect. If you would save time and money in looking for tracts it will pay you to communicate with me. I am confident I can suit you.

W. W. Robertson,
Timber Lands,
Norfolk, Virginia

THE PEOPLE'S LUNCH ROOM

Meals Served at all Hours.
All Kinds of Game
in Season
Beverages of all Kinds dispensed from Soda Fountain
C. N. ENNETT, PROP.
407 MAIN STREET
Near door to Court office
All kinds of delicacies on hand.

Meals at all Hours. Salisbury Restaurant

J. EDWARD WHITE, Proprietor
Main St., near the Bridge.
Bill of Fare includes Oysters in all styles, all kinds of Sandwiches, Ham, Eggs, Beef Steak, etc. Game of all kinds served on order, also bought at highest market prices. Orders from regular customers filled promptly with the best the market affords. Give us a call.
Telephone No. 335.

House Framing, Lumber, Cord and Slab Wood FOR SALE

PROMPT DELIVERIES
ADDRESS
A. F. BENJAMIN, Salisbury or
J. T. TOADVINE, Eden

A Few Bargains In South Salisbury

A few bargains in nice, large building lots in South Salisbury, also a few near E. Church St., extended. These lots will be sold cheap for quick sale; also on easy terms, to suit purchaser. If you want a home in Salisbury in the next two or three years, now is the time to buy. Remember, land values have nearly doubled this year and keep advancing. I will take Farm Land in exchange if the purchaser desires.

E. W. TRUITT
SALISBURY, MD.

Three Telegrams.
I. Blue Haven, May 3.
William J. Binks, New York.
Please send me $500 at once.
TOM.
II. New York, May 4.
Thomas Binks, Yale College, Blue Haven.
You must economize. Send me your bills.
FATHER.
III. Blue Haven, May 5.
William J. Binks, New York.
All right. Am economizing. Have forwarded bills by freight. Cheaper than express. Love to mother.
TOM.
—Harper's Weekly.

Another Catch.
Gunner—What's the latest news today?
Gayer—George Washington's auto sold for $500 in New York.
Gunner—What are you trying to have me? There were no autos in George Washington's time.
Gayer—Who said anything about automobiles? This refers to his autograph.—Chicago News.

New Mother Goose.
Simple Simon met a plemman going to the fair.
Said Simple Simon to the plemman: "Let me taste your ware."
Said the plemman to Simple Simon: "The ultimate consumer is permitted only to smell the pie. So take your snuff and go."—Minneapolis Journal.

The Candy Kid.
"I want to play the violin in this drama," howled the chocolate cream. "But why should you?" gurgled the gumdrop.
"When the clerk wraps me up in silver paper I can yell 'Folled again!'"—Cleveland Leader.

Sure Enough.
"What's in a name, anyhow?"
"What's the matter?"
"Here my name is Holdfast, and I can't keep a job, while my neighbor, who is named Gunn, has never once been fired."—Baltimore American.

In and Out.
Wigg—There seems to be quite a difference between a job and a situation.
Wagg—Oh, yes. For instance, when a fellow loses his job he often finds himself in an embarrassing situation.—Philadelphia Record.

Sounded Artificial.
"He praised her beauty, yet she hates him."
"Strange! Why so?"
"He concluded by saying he considered her a work of art."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Sightseeing.
On a visit to his grandmother Harry examined her handsome farmhouse with interest, and then asked, "Grandma, where is the miserable table that papa says you always keep?"—Success Magazine.

Well Provided For.
Benevolent Lady (to show girl)—And, dear child, have you no home?
Show Girl—Yes, indeed. My father and mother have both married again, and I am welcome at either place.—Life.

Order Publication.

Martha Emma Downs Coyne
vs.
Frank W. Coyne
No. 1847 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii of the plaintiff, Martha Emma Downs Coyne, from the defendant, Frank W. Coyne.
The bill states that on or about April 29, 1904, the said Martha Emma Downs Coyne was married to her husband, Frank W. Coyne, with whom she resided in Wicomico County, Maryland, until about the seventeenth day of January nineteen five, and that though her conduct toward her said husband was and has always been kind and affectionate and above reproach, the said Frank W. Coyne has, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her and declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued un-interrupted for at least three years and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation, that there was born to them, after the date of said separation and abandonment one child, Edna Coyne, now residing with her mother in said County.
It is thereupon this 30th day of April, 1910 ordered by the Circuit Court for Wicomico County in equity, that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Wicomico County once in each of four successive weeks before the tenth day of June, 1910, giving notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the first Monday of July next, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

E. STANLEY TOADVINE
True Copy—Test:
ERNEST A. TOADVINE,
Clerk.

HAVE YOU BEEN ENUMERATED?

For the purpose of insuring a full enumeration of all persons having their residence in the following Counties of Maryland: Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne, Caroline, Dorchester, Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester, I would request that any person, having a doubt of being enumerated, will fill out the following coupon and send it to me at the address mentioned in the coupon.

HAVE YOU BEEN ENUMERATED?

If not, or if you have any doubt, fill out this coupon, and mail to Isaac H. White, Supervisor of Census, Salisbury, Md., on April 15th, 1910, I was living at address given below, but to the best of my knowledge I have not been enumerated there or anywhere else.

NAME _____

STREET AND NO. _____

CITY _____

Before filling in said coupon, I would ask that you make careful inquiry of the several members of your family to be assured that you have not been enumerated without your knowledge or during your absence from home.

ISAAC H. WHITE, Supervisor,
Salisbury, Md.

Kitchen Matches Safe.
Insurance Agent (at home)—Wife, you must make daughter receive her young man in the kitchen after this.
"Why, the idea! He's about to propose to her."
"I know it, and parlor matches are dangerous, you know."

Explaining His Nerve.
"No, I have never experienced that feeling of dread which attacks a man when on his way to visit the dentist."
"How do you avoid it?"
"I have the dentist visit me."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Desirable.
"Would you advise me to study French before going to Paris?"
"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "It may not help you to be understood, but it makes an impression on Americans who may be listening."—Washington Star.

Undying.
She—You say you love with all your heart.
He—With all my heart!
She—And you would die for me?
He—Hardly. You see, mine is a sort of undying love!—Young's Magazine.

Illumination.
Mrs. Topdoor—Our grocer gave twelve eggs for a quarter yesterday, all candled.
Mrs. Nextdoor—Indeed! We get fourteen at the market, all electric lighted.—New York Sun.

Modest.
"They say there is a fool in every family. Do you think so?"
"Well, I hardly like to say. You see, I'm the only member of the family."—Lippincott's.

What Happened to Bill.
Mrs. Dixon was putting Frank, aged six, and Willie, aged four, to sleep with a bedtime story when she was suddenly compelled to answer the doorbell. Hastening away with the intention of immediately returning, Mrs. Dixon was detained by a caller. The boys grew restless. Finally, running to the top of the stairs, where he knew his mother could get a perfect view of him, Frank used heavily all his small stock of diplomacy in trying to attract his mother's attention without disturbing the visitor. After several futile attempts at gesticulations he called out in a loud whisper perfectly audible to both ladies below, "Mamma, you'd better come up; then in a most awe-inspiring tone adding, 'cause Bill's nose is couldn' unchoked'."—Youth's Companion.

Tibetan Penal Code.
The Tibetan penal code is curious. Murder is punished with a fine varying according to the importance of the slain, theft by a fine of seven to one hundred times the value of the article stolen. Here, again, the fine depends on the social importance of the person from whom the theft has been committed. The harsher of a thief is looked upon as a worse criminal than the thief himself. Orphans by fire and by boiling water are still used as proofs of innocence or guilt, exactly as was the custom in Europe in the middle ages. And if the human never inflicts death they are adepts at torture.

Taken Literally.
The tramp approached the pompous gentleman and asked for a copper.
"Go to the ant, thou sluggard," quoted the great.
"Tain't no use, mister," answered the weary one. "He ant's far as tight fasted as me uncle and me other relatives."—Exchange.

The Boy Told Him.
Father (after a long search)—Well, here it is. I wonder why one always finds a thing in the last place one hunts for it? Bright Boy—I s'pose it's cause after people find it they leave on looking.

She Still Lectures.
Mr. Tilt—Your wife used to lecture before she was married. Has she given it up now? Mr. Mils—Well, not now, but it is to enable.

Pennsylvania Railroad

Bulletin.

SUMMER VACATIONS.

The time is coming for summer outings. Have you thought about yours yet?

No country on the face of the globe contains so many delightful summer resorts as the United States, with its near neighbor, Canada.

The Pennsylvania Railroad will issue its popular Summer Excursion Book on June 1, and you will find it a wonderful help in plotting out your summer trip.

It contains descriptions of about eight hundred of the leading resorts of North America, lists of hotels and boarding houses at these various places, a map, routes and rates from the principal stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad and other valuable information.

If you have grown tired of the resort you have visited for years, you may make a selection from this book for a stay of a day, a week, a month, or the whole summer.

You may plot out an extended tour covering mountain and seashore, or a fishing trip, or a hunting jaunt, by rail or boat or a combination of both.

Any Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad will be glad to furnish a copy of this valuable book for Ten Cents, or it will be mailed you postpaid, on receipt of Twenty-five Cents, by Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Philadelphia, Pa.

If You Want Any Plumbing Done
Call Phone 377.

Lewis Morgan

102 E. Church St., Salisbury, Md.
Plumbing, Heating and Gas Fitting
Home. All Work First Class.

Desirable Home In beautiful and charming Mardela Springs, where living is good and cheap, and the people neighborly and hospitable.
Apply to
WM. M. COOPER, Prop.
Salisbury, Md.

C. BROTEMARKLE, M. D.
EYE, EAR, NOSE, THROAT

OFFICE:—221 CAMDEN AVENUE
SALISBURY, MD.

CHAS. M. MITCHELL
103 DOCK STREET.

Palace
Pool & Billiard Parlor

Choice Domestic and Imported
Cigars, Cigarettes
and Tobaccos
Full Line of Lowmy's Chocolate Candies Always Fresh.

Valuable Town Property For Sale

The undersigned will offer at private sale valuable town property, including residence, splendidly located, and several nice building lots in desirable residential section of the City. For terms and particulars, apply to ELMER H. WALTON, Atty.

A Worldly Man

is generally alert as to when to make the best investment. When it comes to assuring his property with Fire Insurance
he gets down to the "meat" of the matter. He bargains for low rates of premiums and gets insured in solvent companies. We write insurance for the "worldly man" and you can be as safe as he is by having all policies written by us.

P. S. Shockley & Co.
SALISBURY, MD.

THE COURIER

Published Every Saturday, at Salisbury,
Wicomico County, Maryland.
OFFICE OF PUBLICATION NEAR FIVET, BRIDGE, MAIN STREET.

(Entered Salisbury (Md.) Postoffice as Second-Class Matter.)

ELMER H. WALTON,
Editor, Proprietor and Publisher.

CLARENCE A. WHITE,
Associate Editor and Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION (Per Year - $1.00
Six Months - .50)

Advertising Rates Furnished on Application.
Telephone No. 152.

The date on the label of your paper shows the date to which your subscription is paid, and is a receipt for an amount paid. See that it is correct.

SATURDAY, MAY 21, 1910

Mayor Bounds' Appointments.

All interest in municipal affairs, at present, seems to center upon the appointments which will shortly be made by Mayor William F. Bounds. It is generally believed that there will be some changes in the personnel of the present appointees but upon this subject Mayor Bounds has vouchsafed no information and as it is not likely that he will, the announcement of the appointments will undoubtedly cause some surprise when the names are sent in to the Council for confirmation.

The appointments which Mr. Bounds will be called upon to make follow: City Solicitor, City Collector, Chief of Police, Night Watchman, Street Commissioner, Chief of Fire Department and Police Magistrate. In the first instance there is no reason to believe that any change will be made. L. Atwood Bennett, Esq. the present city solicitor, who was appointed by Mayor Harper to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge E. Stanley Toadvin, was formerly city solicitor and is fully equipped to discharge the duties of the office. Mr. John T. Parsons, the present city collector has proven to be highly efficient official and has made a splendid record for himself since his appointment several years ago. His experience and his record will, in all probability secure for him a re-appointment. In the appointment of the chief of police it seems to be generally understood that a change will be made. As stated above, however, Mr. Bounds has not expressed any opinion and the question is largely a matter of conjecture. If any changes are made in the city police force it should be made with the view of enlarging the force so that the city can be properly patrolled both day and night. For a number of years Salisbury has not had proper protection along this line. Under the present system the business section of the city is given all the attention and the residence and outlying districts are not patrolled at all. This is especially true at night when only one officer is on duty. We believe the time has arrived and that the growth of the city warrants some additional patrolmen and that it would be a wise plan to investigate conditions before the appointments are made. In his official capacity Officer Crouch has rendered faithful service to the city but he cannot be expected to guard the entire city single handed.

As to the appointment of a Street Commissioner and Chief of the Fire Department we have been supplied with no information. If a change is made it will come unexpectedly.

The appointment, however, which is of the greatest importance, is that of Police Magistrate. There are those who claim that Justice Trader has held the office long enough, but this is hardly a sufficient reason for his removal. Whether he is re-appointed or not, one thing is certain and should not be overlooked. Justice Trader, by his clever handling of the many cases that have come before him, especially in those cases dealing with the illegal sale of whiskey, has done much to stamp out the evil in this community.

Editorial Jottings.

Discoverer Peary is getting some degree of honor and glory out of his visit in Europe but he couldn't expect much more with Roosevelt on the same Continent.

In Baltimore a movement is on foot to abolish the teaching of vertical writing to the children in the public schools. There has been much unfavorable comment of late years, especially on the part of business men who employ school graduates to do clerical work about this method of writing and the movement started in Baltimore should include every school in the State.

Perhaps more sentiment is displayed in the commemoration of Memorial day than any other holiday which is observed in this country, and it is well that its so. This day has been set aside by the nation as a day on which to pay tribute to those members of the Grand Army of the Republic who so bravely lost their lives in their endeavor to preserve the Union. Let us not overlook this great day which will be observed on May thirtieth.

The attempt to have the quadrennial presidential inauguration day changed by congressional enactment from the fourth of March to the third Tuesday in April failed; it is now reported, because the passage of such a measure would have prolonged the term of President Taft for seven weeks. If he would accomplish nothing more during the last seven weeks of his administration than he did during the same period at its beginning it would make no material difference.

MAYOR HARPER'S LETTER READ UPON RETIREMENT.

Continued From Page 1
realized. The new train schedule is to go into effect the first of this month, and the plans for a new station have been submitted to me by Supt. Eliza Lee, and I trust that this improvement will soon be made.

While our income has materially increased within the last six years, you are well aware that the same has not been brought about by an increase in our tax rate, except an increase of five cents for the past year to take care of street improvement bonds, but is due to a steady and substantial growth in manufacturing industries, and the increase in the number of buildings erected, as you have issued on an average of one hundred and fifty building permits a year, many of which were for handsome and expensive structures.

The financial condition now attained by the city is attributable in a great measure to your untiring efforts and in seeing that all property of the city was equitably assessed.

Upon my retirement from the office of Mayor I desire to express my appreciation to your honorable body for your hearty co-operation with me during the past six years. Whatever has been accomplished, could only have been accomplished by your co-operation. It has also been quite pleasant that I should have had the co-operation of our citizens who were always ready to meet any condition which meant the uplift and betterment of Salisbury. My ambition was upon my induction into the office to make Salisbury the Metropolis of the Eastern Shore, a pleasant and healthy place in which to live, and this I think we have accomplished. If my actions have met with just or unjust criticism during the past six years, I have simply tried to perform the duties of Mayor as I have seen them. I retire active service as Mayor but I shall still have the same keen interest in the city's welfare as when I was its Chief Executive, and hold myself ready to render any assistance within my power that I may be called upon to perform. My associations with you during my incumbency have been extremely pleasant. I bespeak for you and Mr. Bounds, the present Mayor, a pleasant term of office, and wish you and him a very successful administration of the city's affairs. I am,

Yours very truly,
CHAS. E. HARPER.

Kennedy & Mitchell are showing the best $5.00 Panama Hat in town. See centre case.

J. T. TAYLOR, Jr.

Largest Carriage,
Wagon and Harness Dealer in the State of Maryland

I Guarantee to give you more for Money than any Dealer in the United States
I haven't any opposition, I am in a class to myself. I buy direct from manufacturers, no middle men to help keep up.

Our Wrenn Buggies are $20.00 less than any other make same quality. I now have 75 Doctors using them. Several carloads in stock to select from.

I have 150 Run-
abouts in Stock,
rubber tires, high arch axles, drop axles, straight axles, low wheels
and high wheels, prices from $30
up.

You can find 30 Surries in our stock. I have the lightest manufactured in the United States and the prices are cheap. You can save enough to buy
you a suit of good clothes
on each purchase.

I have nearly 5
carloads of Farm
and Duplex Berry
Wagons in stock.

"Yes, there are others
as good, but they are $10.00 to $20.00
higher in price. I am general agent for Auburn Wagons, also Columbia."

Did you say harness?
Yes, I have a carload,
prices from $4.50 a setup.
Speed Sulkeys, rubber
tires at $50.00.

I have had a grand rush
this spring, we are selling more goods than ever before. Don't be deceived by others who try to imitate, come see for yourself, seeing is believing.

J. T. TAYLOR, Jr.

Largest, Cheapest,
Squarest Carriage
Dealer in Maryland

Princess Anne, Md.

For Sale.

Seven-room house and lot in Mar-dela. Apply to

M. W. BOUNDS,
Salisbury, Md.

The Ancient Greeks

Realized that beauty of living came only with beautiful surroundings.
They made their public buildings
marvels of beauty.

Today, beautiful wall papers at moderate cost, have brought true art within reach of the most modest pocketbooks.

My business is to suggest and carry out original and individual decorations to suit anybody's requirements as to price and environments.

John Nelson

The Paint Shop
Phone 191

FOR SALE

SMALL FARMS—BIG FARMS

We are the exclusive agent to sell the eight Phillips Farms, located on a fine shell road, one mile from shipping point, two miles from heart of Salisbury.
The dollars talk with us. We shall sell these farms and other property placed with us at once.
Come and let us show you these farms, which are well set in clover and wheat.

J. A. JONE & CO.,
REAL ESTATE BROKERS
SALISBURY, MD.

When the Fire Alarm Sounds

there is a world of comfort
in the thought that your house is insured in a good company. Purchase this comfort today by placing your insurance in our agency.

Wm. M. Cooper & Bro.
112 North Division Street,
Salisbury, Md.

PRINTING CALCULATING AND GENERAL HOUSE WORK

Charges Reasonable
Prompt Service
Estimates Furnished

THEO. W. DAVIS
SALISBURY, MD.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor

Invites you to call and inspect the largest and cheapest line of

MILLINERY

in the city. We receive new goods every week.
The very latest things in new shapes, ribbons and flowers.

A full line of baby caps,
bonnets and euchings.
A beautiful selection of chiffon and net veiling.
"We do" special designing.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor

216 Main Street

Phone 425
Store closes at 6 p. m.
Saturdays 11 p. m.

LOWENTHAL'S

THE UP-TO-DATE STORE

NEW LINE OF SUMMER FABRICS FOULARD SILKS IN NEW COLORINGS

Foulard Silks are the latest for Summer
Gowns, and our line is entirely New

This Week will be a Sale of Under-priced Silks
Special Values.

36 INCH CHECKED SILKS AT 80c worth $1.00. These silks are in black and white, brown and white, blue and white, black with white stripes, black with white check.
BLUE SATIN FOULARD SILKS, with white dot. Special this week 65c.
36 INCH SATIN FOULARD in blue, rose grey and black, all with white designs. Special this week 80c value $1.00.
WOOL DRESS GOODS. All new colorings, new weaves, new styles.
LADIES' SUITS AND CAPES. These goods are all reduced.
LADIES' WHITE SERGE SUITS
LADIES' WHITE WITH BLACK STRIPE SUITS
LADIES' CLOTH SUITS in all colors.
PONGEE SUITS. Something new, just the thing for cool days. Special price $12.50.
PONGEE MOTORING COATS. Special price $4.95.
BLACK AND WHITE CHECKED MOTOR COATS. Special price $7.50.
Children's Light Weight Coats. Ladies' Wash Skirts and Waists. White
Linen Skirts, 80c to $3.00. Black and White Checked, 80c. Shirt Waists Embroidered Fronts, 50c. Tailored Waists, from 75c to $2.50. Linen and Net Suits, from $3.50 to $10.00.

MILLINERY

The newest shape in Hats in Milan and Hemp Braids, Children's French Hats. All new Flowers, Ribbons and Laces, Caps and Bonnets, Sailor Hats and Sea Shore Hats.

Our Summer stock is now complete and an inspection is solicited.

LOWENTHAL'S

The Up-to-date Merchant of Salisbury, Md.

WE carry the best line of Refrigerators and Oil Stoves made. Call or send for catalogue.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Dorman & Smyth Hdw. Co.

T. H. Mitchell

General Contractor and Builder

Anything from a Pig Pen
to a Mansion

Also Lots For Sale, Desirable Location
Ask For Plot and Description

Our Telephone
is 33

Call MITCHELL

Exclusive Designs in

Ladies' Hats and Trimmings

KENT & SMITH

Main Street,

Salisbury, Md.

SALISBURY HOUSE

MRS. WILSON FIGGS, Proprietor

Board by the Day, Week or Month
Reasonable Rates

Opposite Ulman's Grand Opera House
SALISBURY, MD.

THE COURIER. Town Topics.

—Mr. John Caldwell, of Baltimore, was in town this week.

—Experienced Sales ladies wanted. Address, G. care of THE COURIER.

—Miss Wilkie Adkins entertained informally at cards Tuesday evening.

—Miss Florence Grier, who has been visiting in Washington, has returned home.

—Mr. Harry Applewhite, of Baltimore, was in Salisbury several days this week.

—Miss Arlie Crockett, of Centralia, Missouri, is visiting Miss Margaret Woodcock.

—Mrs. Robert Graham and daughter, of Baltimore are visiting Mrs. Louisa Graham on Division St.

—Mrs. John White, who has been spending the past two weeks in Norfolk, is expected home today.

—Miss May Humphreys, who has been spending the past ten days in Philadelphia, returned home Monday.

—Miss Cornelia Frieder, of Carlisle, Pa., who has been the guest of the Misses Gunby for the past month, left Friday.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Davies and children, of Philadelphia, are the guests of Judge and Mrs. E. Stanley Towbin.

—The Travelers Club gave their annual entertainment Friday evening at the home of the Misses Houston on Camden Ave.

—Mrs. E. Stanley Towbin entertained a number of little "tots" Monday afternoon in honor of little Miss Florence Davies.

—Mr. L. W. Gunby and daughter, Miss Ruth, are in Atlantic City attending the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

—The Junior Epworth League of Ansbury M. E. Church gave a social Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. E. Martindale.

—Miss Louise Gunby left Friday for Washington, D. C., to attend the commencement exercises of Fairmont Seminary, her alma mater.

—The Young Ladies Missionary Circle of Ansbury M. E. Church met at the home of Mrs. Robert Leatherbury, Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

—Rev. Dr. S. W. Kelgart, Rev. Wilson T. M. Beale, Mrs. L. D. Collier and Miss Laura Brezner are attending the session of the General Assembly at Atlantic City.

—Misses Wilkie Adkins and Annie Peters, Messrs. Harry Adkins, Will Sheppard and J. W. Hiron, spent the week end in Quantico, Va., the guest of Miss Virginia Nelson.

—The pastor of the Division Street Baptist Church will occupy his pulpit Sunday, 11 a. m.—"The Convention." 8 p. m.—"A Young Woman's Religion." Services brief, interesting and helpful.

—Quite a number of the young people went down to Princess Anne Monday evening in automobiles to attend the home talent entertainment given under the management of Miss Elizabeth McCloskey.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the Wicomico Presbyterian Church will hold their regular Sabbath evening service at 7 o'clock this coming Sabbath. There will be no evening worship by the congregation.

—Silosm Camp Meeting will begin August 5th, 1910 and continue for 10 days. Due notice will be given of the program and arrangements for the conveyance of the people from Salisbury and other points on the river.

—At Ansbury M. E. Church there will be a special service on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in celebration of the World's Sunday School Day. Other services during the day will be as follows: Class meeting at 9:30; preaching by the pastor at 11:00; Sunday School at 2:30; Epworth League at 7:15.

—The King's Daughters wish to thank all those who helped in their entertainment held at the Opera House, as well as the general public who so generously contributed to the success of the venture. The proceeds amounted to $145.00 which will be used in the charitable work of the organization.

—Undertaker George C. Hill has purchased a very handsome hearse from Sayers & Scofield, of Cincinnati. It is of the latest pattern, with well front and back, and has heavy draperies. Two massive nickel lamps ornament the front. This is perhaps the handsomest hearse on the Eastern Shore.

—A meeting of the Board of Supervisors of Elections for Wicomico County was held at the office of the board in the News Building, Thursday and a permanent organization was effected. Mr. S. S. Smyth was re-elected president, and Mr. W. T. Phoenix, the Republican member, was elected secretary. Mr. C. Lee Gillis was re-appointed clerk to the board.

—A movement is on foot to pave the streets of Pocomoke.

—Rev. W. H. Durbie will have service at St. Phillip's Church, Quantico, next Sunday morning at 10:30. Service at St. Mary's, Tyaskin, 3 P. M.

—The Rev. Dr. A. H. Holloway will occupy the pulpit of the Wicomico Presbyterian Church, next Sabbath morning in the absence of the pastor, Rev. W. T. M. Beale.

—During the past week there has been an active demand for strawberries at prices ranging from 10 to 15 cents. Many of the growers are selling to buyers at the stations. Owing to the cool weather berries are not ripening fast.

—The official figures of the census give the State of Maryland a population of 4,333,689 which is a gain of 145,663 persons since the last census. In 1880 Maryland population was 934,943; in 1890, 1,042,390; in 1900, 1,190,050.

—There will be a play entitled "The Burglar Alarm" given at the home of Mr. Charles R. Disharoon Friday evening May 27th under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Wicomico Presbyterian church. All are invited to attend. Admission 25 cents.

—Monday night next will be amateur night at the Grand Opera House. Several character sketches by home talent will be put on and they are said to be extra fine. The last amateur night at the Opera House drew a big crowd. This event will be better than the last.

—Miss Emma Kibble, of this city, and Mr. Otis C. Stewart, of Washington, D. C., were married Monday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kibble, by Rev. P. J. Carey. The bride wore a gray traveling suit with hat and gloves to match. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for their future home in Washington.

—Mrs. Mary M. Fooks, widow of the late Josiah Fooks, died Monday at the Peninsula General Hospital, aged 62 years. Mrs. Fooks was operated upon for cancer of the stomach several days ago, but the malady had progressed too far to save her life. Funeral services took place Wednesday afternoon, the remains being interred in the family burying-ground at Fooks' mill.

—The Advice of the Herdsman of Tekoa in view of the Wonders of Astronomy" will be the subject of Rev. Dr. Graham's sermon in Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church on Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock. The morning sermon at 11:00 o'clock will be on "The Two-fold Blessedness of Life." Sunday School 9:30 a. m. Christian Endeavor 7:00 p. m. Mid-week service in the lecture room Wednesday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

—Plans for a new station in this city for the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad have been completed and approved by the officials of the road. The plans show a handsome brick structure 96 feet long, containing ladies' and gents' waiting rooms, with lavatories, two ticket offices, large baggage room and other conveniences of a modern railroad station. The style of architecture is very attractive. It will be the handsomest railroad station South of Wilmington.

—An amendment to the charter of the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad has been issued by the State Corporation Commission, increasing the capital stock from $2,500,000 to $3,750,000. The new stock is to be given to the shareholders of the company as a stock dividend. The argument is that for years much of the earnings have been devoted to expenditures for real estate, for improvements and for additions to motive power and rolling stock. This money, it is said, has exceeded $1,250,000.

—By authority of the Secretary of War a Board of Officers of the Corps of Engineers, consisting of Colonel Thos. L. Casey, Major Mason M. Patrick, and Captain Warren T. Hannum, will assemble at the U. S. Engineer Office, 309 Custom House, Baltimore, Md., at 10:30 A. M. Tuesday June 7th, 1910, for the purpose of holding a hearing upon the subject of establishment of regulations to govern the placing and operating of nets, pounds, traps, and other fishing appliances in Chesapeake Bay and its tributary waters, with a view of reaching an adjustment which will be just and equitable to all interests. At this hearing representatives of navigation interests and the fishing industry will be heard; but it is desired that so far as possible, their views be submitted in writing.

For Sale Cheap.

One Planet Jr., riding cultivator and a lot of young Leghorn hens.

W. R. STRONG,
Route 5, Salisbury.

Business Opportunities.

BALTIMORE, MD., offers them in any line; you may enlist service-money in established going business concerns, address, HANLON & Co., Fiscal Attorneys, Baltimore, Md.

THE VERY LATEST

A superb new book of Needlework for dress decoration and fancy work of all kinds.

"Butterick Designs for Embroidery, Braiding, Etc."

contains suggestions for using and illustrations of hundreds of

Butterick Transfer Patterns

And there is a

Butterick Transfer Pattern

for every new hand-wrought trimming used in fashioning the smart wearing apparel now in vogue, as well as for decorating household linens, home appointments and fancy articles.

With each book are two Transfer Designs (a Dutch Collar and a Shirt-Waist) worth 20 cents.

ALL FOR TEN CENTS

AT OUR BUTTERICK PATTERN DEPARTMENT

R. E. Powell & Co.

Different—
Yet Dignified!

Society Brand Clothes

Hello Boys! Did you see? Nock Brothers Exhibit of Society Brand Clothes. What! All Trainers have permanent creases. That's a cinch. So long.

Society Brand Clothes

For Mine!

FOR SALE AT

Nock Brothers

Main St., On the Corner E. Church St. Dock St.
Salisbury, Maryland.

IN SESSION ALL SUMMER.

FREE CATALOG.

W. H. BEACON, Pres.
DU FORT BUILDING
WILMINGTON

J. W. HIRONS, V. P.
MASONIC TEMPLE
SALISBURY

GOOD POSITIONS FOR OUR GRADUATES.

Advertise in The Courier!

Y R U

Suffering with Backache, Kidney Trouble, Bladder Irritation, Lumbago, Bright's Disease, Suppression of Urine Gravel, Scalding Urine or Urinary Troubles when

U O 2 B WELL

Use Toulson's Kidney Pills. Price 50 Cents

Mail orders will receive prompt and careful attention.

JOHN M. TOULSON
Druggist
SALISBURY, MARYLAND

It Is Awful, But True

Two Hundred and Fifty Millions of Dollars worth of Property was destroyed by fire in the United States during 1908. You may be one of the unfortunate ones during 1909. Come to see us or write us before it is too late.

White & Truitt
Salisbury, Md.

Kuppenheimer Clothes

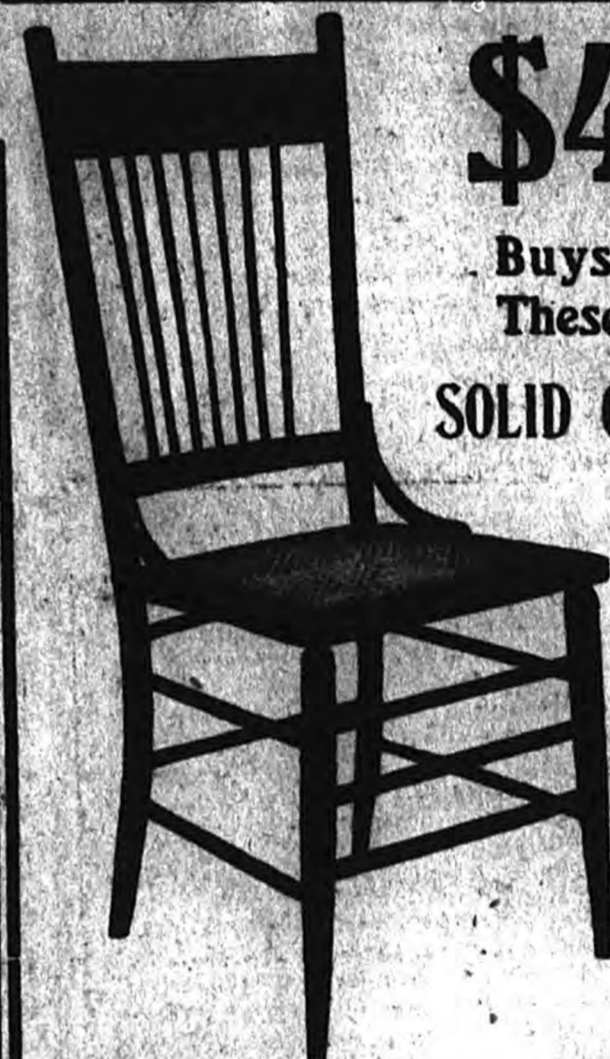

Copyright 1910
The House of Kuppenheimer
Chicago

Every Suit Is Guaranteed

The Thoroughgood Co.

Salisbury, Maryland.

$4.75

Buys a Set of
These Beautiful

SOLID OAK CHAIRS

THESE Chairs are made of solid oak, have a finely woven cane seat and are braced with a stout half arm.

Ulman Sons
SALISBURY, MD.

Our Showing of New Greys
and Blues are simply great

Kennerly & Mitchell
233-237 MAIN ST.
BIG DOUBLE STORE

A KISS

He Was Forgiveness Only Because
She Was Equally
Culpable.

By F. TOWNSEND SMITH.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The night was dark as Erebus. It rained, the wind blew, and the streets were flooded.

There are two suburban towns—Bloomington and Rosedale—near the city in which I have an office, my residence being in one of these towns. They are five miles apart and were at the time of which I write connected by an execrable road. I live in Rosedale, but on this wild night I was in Bloomington attending a social gathering. I telephoned for a cab, but a reply came over the wire that not a conveyance was to be had.

Turning up my trousers, buttoning my coat and opening my umbrella, I walked forth, trusting that I might pick up some conveyance to hire.

I found nothing in the way of a vehicle on the streets and, reaching the town limits, left street lamps behind me, pushing on into the darkness. I had walked or waded perhaps half a mile when, seeing something dark ahead of me close by the sidewalk, I approached it curiously. What was my surprise to find a carriage. This I knew rather by feeling than sight.

I groped my way to its door, and there were two horses standing, with their heads lowered, patiently enduring the rain. I took my matchbox from my pocket and, drawing forth a match—it was the only one left—struck it. It was extinguished by the wind, but not before I had caught a glimpse of a coachman in waterproofs on the box, leaning back against the body of the carriage fast asleep.

I shouted to him, then shook him. It was some time before I aroused him and then he could get nothing out of him as to how he came to be in such a singular position. Indeed, he didn't seem to know. He asked if I was the man who had been beside him awhile ago. I asked him for what point he had been headed when he had dropped off to sleep, and he said Rosedale.

"Very well," I replied, "start up your horses and we'll go there."

I thought it better for me to remain beside him till he became fully awakened, fearing he would fall off the box, I stayed by him till we had gone perhaps a mile, when he seemed in better condition, and, since I was getting drenched, I concluded to get inside the carriage. I directed him to pull up and, dismounting from my perch, found the handle of the door and in another moment was sitting on the rear seat.

There was a curious odor inside which I had smelled before, but could not remember what it was. The window was closed, and I opened it. I thought I would smoke, but remembered that I had used my last match. The jolting of the carriage was such that I braced myself in my corner. Dropping my hand beside me, it lighted on some delicate fabric like silk. I was astonished, but had cause for more astonishment when in another moment, the carriage passing over a hollow place in the road, some one was thrown up against my shoulder.

Instantly I put out my hands for protection and encountered a woman. I was seized with a desire to get out of the carriage despite the storm and without waiting for it to stop, I called to the driver, who drew up, and I asked him if he knew who was in his carriage. He seemed still dazed, at any rate so far as memory goes, and said that he didn't know that there was any one inside. Then he said he had started with a lady, but he didn't know whether she had left him or not.

There was silence for a moment, and I could hear the person beside me breathing. I judged that we were midway between Bloomington and Rosedale. We might as well go on as go back. There were few houses on the way, and the people in them were all abed. I told the driver to drive as fast as the road would admit. There was some one in the carriage who might need medical attention.

He whipped up his horses, and the jolting was terrible. It occurred to me that it would awaken any one with a spark of life. To facilitate matters I let down the other window so as to give plenty of air. Within ten minutes I had evidence that my companion was moving voluntarily; then a gasp.

"Where am I? What is it?"

"Don't be frightened," I said. "Has he gone?"

"Who?"

"The man who got in beside me and held a cloth against my face."

"Oh! That's the explanation, is it?"

"My brooch—it is gone!"

"Anything else missing?"

"I had nothing else with me. But how did you come to be here?"

All this was spoken in a frightened voice, and I knew that she was drawing away from me. I told her what she wished to know. Then she enlightened me still further. She said that while passing out of Bloomington the carriage had stopped, and she heard a man talking with the driver. Then the man got up on the box, she saw the flare of a match, and she smelt tobacco smoke. There was an odor to the smoke that made her feel ill. Presently the carriage stopped and the man who had got up beside the driver descended from the box and got into the carriage. Frightened, she ordered him out, but he forced a cloth over her mouth and nose, and that was all she remembered.

It was all plain to me now. A polly, her had persuaded the coachman to let him ride, had given him a drugged cigar and had then administered ether or chloroform to the lady, inside and robbed her. This explained her asking if I was the man who had been beside her.

The lady on coming to herself was in a much better condition than the coachman. The drug used in his case had undoubtedly been different from that used on her.

"I think you must be a gentleman," she said, "judging from the tone of your voice."

"I return the compliment. Your voice is not only that of a lady, but is very soft and sweet."

"It seems to me that I have heard yours before," she said after a pause.

"I was going to say the same of yours."

"We may be acquainted."

"Quite possibly."

"Who are you?"

By this time it struck me that this was quite an adventure. I was not disposed to spoil it by giving up my identity too soon. I gave a fictitious name.

"I'm disappointed," she said. "I was sure I knew you, and I would have felt so relieved if you had turned out to be one of my friends."

"I assure you of my protection. But you have not given me your own name."

"That is not necessary since I have learned that we are not acquainted. I wish I could see you. Have you no way of making a light?"

"I had only one match, and I have used that. I do not need to see you to know that you are young and beautiful."

"I am young, but a fright. I am pitted with smallpox scars. I suppose I needn't ask you if you are handsome?"

"I am considered the homeliest man in my set."

She had so far recovered her equanimity to give a little laugh.

"Do you live hereabouts?" she asked.

"Yes; in Rosedale. I have been to a musicale in Bloomington."

"And I have been to a dance there."

"At the Springers?"

"Yes. Do you know them?"

"I do. I was invited to their dance, but had previously accepted an invitation at the Deerings."

"We know the same people, then."

"And you are reassured?"

"Certainly."

"And don't feel any compunction at riding in pitch darkness with a strange gentleman?"

"None whatever, since I am sure he is a gentleman."

"You can trust me. I have recently become engaged."

"Oh, then I'm safe indeed!"

This was said in a tone that made me take notice. It did not seem to me that the lady cared especially about being so safe. I permitted my hand to fall upon hers. She allowed it to remain there.

"You are not the person you claim to be at all," she said. "I didn't recognize you at first, but I have done so since."

"Indeed?"

"And I question if you are one of the goody-goody kind."

"I don't know that I am."

"Are you really engaged?"

"I certainly am."

She leaned very close against me, and I felt her warm breath on my cheek. I was sure that, knowing me, she was intending to play some prank on me, get me to kiss her and tell my fiancée, or something like that. I steered myself against her blandishments. I was really more interested in discovering who she was than anything else.

"Do you know my fiancée?" I asked.

"Yes, I do."

"Do you admire her?"

"Not especially."

"Will you give me five guesses?"

"Not one."

Just then we passed on a horrible scow in the road. She was thrown against me, her cheek being pressed against mine. My will power was broken. I twisted my arm around her neck, held her fast and kissed her. She freed herself.

"There was an ominous silence."

"Now I suppose you're going to blame me."

No answer.

"It is rather off color for me to take advantage of this peculiar situation to take a kiss."

Was that a sob?

Great heavens! What had I done? I must have mistaken her. My action had been black as the night. I would give five years of my life to recall that kiss.

"Forgive me," I pleaded.

"Never!"

Good gracious! Suppose she told this to my fiancée. Edith might forgive my kissing another, but my taking a kiss under the circumstances she would consider simply brutal.

"Are you going to tell on me?" I asked in a supplicating tone.

"Oh, no! I won't betray you."

We had reached Rosedale. An electric light flashed into the carriage.

"Edith!" I exclaimed in amazement.

"You've kissed another girl," she moaned.

"I've kissed you, sweetheart, not another girl at all."

"I'll never forgive you."

"Then I'll never forgive you."

"Why?" she asked, starting.

"You've kissed another man."

I was even with her, so I received a free pardon.

The Courier

Telephone 152

OUR job department is equipped with every modern convenience to produce high class printing

WE originate tasty designs for stationery that pleases the eye and commands attention wherever it goes.

HURRY-UP printing is our specialty. We have the best machinery and thoroughly experienced workmen. We are in a position to handle any class of work no matter how large or how small.

IS your printed matter up to the standard—if not give us a trial. We cater to the most fastidious and a trial will reveal to the most critical eye that our work excels in workmanship and QUALITY.

The Courier

Telephone 152

RELIEVE Neuralgia

"I have awful spells of Neuralgia and have doctored a great deal without getting much benefit. For the last two years I have been taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they always relieve me. I have been so bad with Neuralgia that I sometimes thought I would go crazy. Sometimes it is necessary to take two of them, but never more, and they are sure to relieve me." MRS. FERRIER, 2434 Lynn St., Lincoln, Neb.

Sold by druggists everywhere, who are authorized to return price of first package if they fail to benefit. NILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Many farmers would like to keep an account of their receipts and expenses if some one would keep it for them.

Open a bank account and you will find the account keeps itself, without expense.

Your checks are always evidence of date and the amount paid, and your deposit book shows the amount of your receipts.

It is not required that a person have a large bulk of business in order to open an account.

If you have never done business in this way, and are not familiar with this plan, come to us and we will get you started.

The Farmers & Merchants Bank, Salisbury, Maryland.

Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Ry. Co.

RAILWAY DIVISION

Schedule effective Monday, Apr. 11, 1910

3:00	4:10		Lv. Baltimore Ar.	1:20
3:45	9:55	12-12	Salisbury	7:50	3:00
9:45	11:00	1:22	Ar. Ocean City Lv.	6:40	1:40
PM	PM	PM		AM	PM
! Saturday only.

Professional Cards

BAILLY, JOSEPH L.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in "News" Building.

BENNETT, L. ATWOOD,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in Telephone Building, head Main St.

DOUGLASS, SAMUEL R.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office Corner of Division and Water St.

ELEGOOD, FRENEY & WAILES,
Attorneys-at-Law,
Office first floor Masonic Temple.

FINCH, N. T.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in "News" Building.

GOSLEE, F. GRANT,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in "News" Building.

JACKSON, ALEXANDER M.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in Telephone Building, Division St.

LILLY, GEORGE W.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Room 18, News Building, Salisbury, Md.

TOADVIN & BELL,
Attorneys-at-Law,
Office in Jackson Building, Main Street.

WALLER, GBO. W. D.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office adjoining "Advertiser" Building.

WALTON, ELMER H.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in "Courier" Building, Main Street.

WILLIAMS, JAY,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in Williams Building, Division St.

Foley's Kidney Pills

What They Will Do for You

They will cure your backache, strengthen your kidneys, correct urinary irregularities, build up the worn out tissues, and eliminate the excess uric acid that causes rheumatism. Prevent Bright's Disease and Diabetes, and restore health and strength. Refuse substitutes.

For Sale By
JOHN M. TOULSON,

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

If You Would Cure That Back.

You need a pleasant herb remedy called Mother Gray's AUSTRALIAN-LEAF for all Kidney, Bladder and Urinary trouble. As a regulator it has no equal. Cures headaches, nervousness, dizziness and loss of sleep. At all Druggists, or by mail, 50¢. SAMPLE FREE. Address, The Mother Gray Co., LeRoy, N. Y.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Established in 1885. Cures itching scalp, dandruff, and promotes hair growth. Never fails to restore gray hair to its youthful color. Cures scalp diseases and hair falling. 25¢ and 50¢ bottles. Druggists.

PILES

If you have Piles, we will cure you. Write to-day for FREE BOOKLET & GUARANTEE. Established in 1885, and have never found a case we could not cure. GREEN'S SPECIFIC CO., Broadway & Manhattan St., New York.

A COMPLETE LIBRARY In One Volume.

WILL tell you something about everything and everything about a great many things: the army and navy, population of countries, States and cities, the new tariff the 1910 census, progress of Panama Canal work, census of Cuba, prosecution of trusts, party platforms of 1909, rise in prices of principal commodities, aerial navigation in 1909, Polar exploration in 1909—discovery of the North Pole, growth of the United States, Sixty-first Congress about war, sporting events, weights and measures, universities and colleges, religious orders in the United States, debts of nations, weather forecasts, fatality tables, commerce, taxes, money, banking, insurance, secret societies, prohibition movement in 1909, report of national commission on country life and conservation of natural resources and

10,000 Other Facts & Figures

and everyday interest to everybody. No merchant, farmer, laborer, business man, housewife, school boy or girl should be without a copy of this greatest compendium of useful information ever set in type. On sale everywhere, 25¢ (west of Buffalo and Pittsburgh, 50¢). By mail, 50¢. Address: Press Publishing Co., Publishers' Building, New York City.

...If Going To... Washington, D. C.

Write for handsome descriptive booklet and map

HOTEL RICHMOND

17th and H Streets, N. W.

Around the corner from the White House. Direct street car route to palatial Union Station. 100 rooms. 50 Baths.

European, $1.50 per day upward; with Bath $2.50 upward; each additional person 50c.

America, $3.00 per day upward; with Bath $4.00 upward.

Club breakfast 20 to 75c. Table d'Hôte breakfast $1.00. Luncheon 50c and Dinner $1.00. Restaurants a carte. Reasonable prices; Music.

A Model Hotel Conducted for Your Comfort Seeing Washington automobiles leave hotel daily.

CLIFFORD M. LEWIS, Prop.

Summer Season

The American Luzerne in the Adirondack foot hills. Wayside Inn and Cottage on the beautiful Lake Luzerne, Warren Co., N. Y. Open June 26th. to October 1st. Booklet.

FAIRFIELD BLOOD TONIC

THE SCIENTIFIC CONDITION POWDERS that restores to Hay, Grain and Fodder the nutritive elements driven from them in the drying process.

A Separate Preparation For Each Kind Of Animal
Blood Tonic for Horses Only
Milk Producer for Cattle Only
Egg Producer for Poultry Only
Blood Tonic for Hogs Only

Each Tonic is specially prepared for the kind of animal for which it is intended and contains the medicinal roots and herbs that act most beneficial upon that kind of animal's peculiar digestive organism. These Tonics purify the blood by perfecting digestion and neutralizing the poisons in the system. They prevent and cure disease, make feed go further and increase vitality and production.

Sold Under Written Guarantee By FARMERS & PLANTERS CO., Salisbury, B. H. LOWE, Delmar.
E. R. ENNIS & CO., Parsonsburg, W. S. DISHARON, Quantico

FOR SALE

Canning Factory

Equipped with all modern conveniences and machinery for canning Tomatoes and Peas. In first-class condition in every respect. Located on Rider farm about 1 1/2 to 2 miles from town. Will sell factory alone or with necessary ground as desired by purchaser.

APPLY TO

WM. H. JACKSON.

NEVER DESPAIR! WE HAVE IT!

THE WORLD'S GREATEST REMEDY CURES ALL

FEED FAIRFIELD'S FAITHFULLY

WANTED

TO BUY, FOR CASH,

50 Leghorn Chickens

State age, price and full particulars.

Address, LOCK BOX 275, SALISBURY, MD.

Money To Loan

In sums ranging from $500.00 to $5000.00 on First Mortgage Real Estate.

APPLY TO

L. ATWOOD BENNETT
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
SALISBURY, MD.

GREEN HOUSE

Permanent and Transient

BOARDERS

MRS. T. J. GREEN, Prop.
410 Hanover Street, Baltimore

Halley's Comet and Part It Has Played In Human History.

FACTS.

Identified by Edmund Halley (1656-1742), who predicted its return in 1758, fixing the period of its revolution in its orbit at seventy-five to seventy-nine years. This was the first recorded prediction of a comet's return.

Previous appearances identified as far back as 240 B. C. Sir Robert Ball identifies it as the comet that appeared in 2616 B. C., the year of Methuselah's death.

Conjectural diameter of the head, 9,000 miles; length of tail varying, present estimates ranging from 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 miles; present speed about twenty-five miles a second.

Its orbit, inclined to that of the earth at an angle of 18 degrees, extends beyond that of Neptune, the outermost planet of our system, to a distance of about 3,300,000,000 miles from the sun. Its speed is greatest near the sun and diminishes so rapidly as the distance increases that half of its period is spent in that part of its orbit lying beyond Neptune's.

SUFFRAGIST FLAG ON GRAVES

Memorial Day Tribute For Dead Warriors In the Cause.

All the graves of women suffragists are to be decorated this coming Memorial day. There is a little suffrage flag of blue with the words, "Votes For Women." In the center in white and with four white stars, one in each corner, which will be placed upon the grave of every warrior who died during what the suffragists call the great civil war for woman suffrage.

That is a little secret which leaked out the other night at the opening of a new suffrage settlement house by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont at 198 East Broadway, New York, the wage earners' branch of her Political Equality association.

There was a big blue and white "Votes For Women" flag across the end of the room where the platform was raised, and at the side the American flag, with many of the small blue flags, facsimiles of the large one, held in place by "Votes For Women" buttons. It was the first time the flag had been seen in New York, and Mrs. Belmont when asked about them let the secret slip out.

"Yes," she said, "they are quite new, and they are going to be used to decorate our suffragists' graves. The women's graves will be decorated as well as those of the men. Some of the flags were taken to Washington for the suffrage convention, and the women took them home to their respective states from there. We can have our own Memorial day ceremonies."

The graves of "Aunt" Susan B. Anthony of Rochester, of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Mrs. Lucy Stone, pioneers in the movement, will be among those which have the flag, which is the size of the American flag used on the soldiers' graves—raised on their last resting places.

SPEEDY FIGHTING CRAFT.

The Sterrett Pioneer of Enlarged Type of Torpedo Boat Destroyers.

That grim old sea fighter Commodore Andrew Sterrett would have swept the Mediterranean clean of Barbary pirates if he had had under his feet so speedy a craft as the torpedo boat destroyer which, bearing his name, plunged down the launching ways at Quincy, Mass., the other day.

When the Sterrett receives her equipment and takes on board a dozen or so of those long, destructive torpedo tubes it is a question of naval science whether she could make that final dash and deal a fatal blow to so formidable a fighter as the United States battleship Florida, which also made her maiden plunge on the same day.

In that final dash, for all torpedo boats are supposed to achieve glory and death at practically the same moment, the Sterrett is expected to make 29 1/2 knots an hour from the 600 revolutions each minute of her two turbine driven screws.

The Sterrett and her sisters are notable pioneers of a new and enlarged type of ocean going destroyers planned to keep the sea with the battle fleet under all conditions, and American naval architects say their ideas along these lines are being followed by the rivals abroad.

A Chaplain's Advice to Muck Rakers. The Rev. Henry N. Couden, the blind chaplain of the house of representatives at Washington, took a shot at the muck rakers the other day in his opening prayer.

"Help us as individuals," he said, "to strive earnestly to cast out the beetle from our own eye that we may see clearly to pull the mote out of our brother's eye. If we are to become muck rakers help us to rake before our own door, and if we have time then let us help our neighbor. Since cant and hypocrisy are the most heinous of all sins, deliver us, we pray thee, from them."

HISTORY AND FABLE.

A. D. 837.—So frightened Louis I., emperor of France and Germany, that he built many churches and monasteries.

A. D. 1066.—Frightened the Saxons and cheered the Normans and thus possibly influenced the success of William the Conqueror's invasion of England.

A. D. 1456.—Its appearance prompted Pope Callixtus III. to order prayers for protection against it and for the safety of Europe against the invasion of the Turks. This is probably the origin of the myth about the papal bull against the comet.

Associated by the superstition of the times with the following events: A. D. 66.—The war which ended in the destruction of Jerusalem.

A. D. 373.—The invasion of Italy by the Huns.

A. D. 451.—Invasion of Gaul and Italy by Attila.

A. D. 680.—Founding of a kingdom in England by Saxon invaders.

A. D. 1378.—Beginning of the forty years' schism in the Church of Rome.

A. D. 1531.—End of the power of Rome in England.

A. D. 1607.—Colonization of America by the English.

A. D. 1759.—End of French power in America with the fall of Quebec.

WHICH IS WHICH, KING OF ENGLAND OR CZAR OF RUSSIA?

The striking similarity of Great Britain's new ruler, George, and the czar of Russia has been frequently commented upon, and a glance at the portraits of the two monarchs leaves the average person in doubt as to which is which.

The beards worn by both men are chiefly accountable for the similarity. They both seem to have the identical expression of reserve or repression, both being serious minded men, upon whom the weight of responsibility does not rest lightly.

There is a strong hereditary reason for a similarity of appearance, the mother of the czar and the mother of the king being sisters, daughters of the late king of Denmark.

Close study of these two men from original photographs and not retouched shows many facial characteristics totally dissimilar. The eyes in portrait No. 1 are round and bulging, the upper part of the head is round, and the under lip is heavy. There are traces in the face of the comfortable, placid German type. In portrait No. 2 the eyes slant a trifle, suggesting the craftiness of the Asiatic; the upper lip is heavy, the nostrils broad and thick.

Portrait No. 1 is that of the king of England. No. 2 is that of the czar of Russia.

Bigger Farmers' Union Planned. Money, crops, the United States government and the farmer's wife were discussed at a recent session of the farmers' rally in St. Louis. The consolidation of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative union and the American Society of Equity has been agreed on by the executive committees of the organizations, which claim a membership of 3,000,000. The matter is to be put to a referendum vote next September.

Million Immigrants in Year. That the United States will receive a million immigrants during the fiscal year ending June 30 is the prediction in Washington. During April 1909, 1,227,271 arrived, making a total of 8,012,271 for this year. The last million immigrant year was in 1907.

NO DANGER IN HALLEY'S COMET

How Sir Robert Ball Dispel Fear of a Collision.

ONE COULD BE PUT IN SUIT CASE

So Claimed Sir John Herschel, Famous British Astronomer—Comet Parties on Hotel Roofs—Novel Feast at New York Pastoral in Improvised Power While an Orchestra Played.

If you have feared that Halley's comet would collide with the earth, causing a great disaster, and would snuff out all our lives with its poisonous gases you have been needlessly alarmed. Sir Robert S. Ball, the famous royal astronomer of Great Britain, in his final dictum concerning Halley's comet dispelled all fear of a fearful catastrophe when he said:

I have received multitudes of letters relating to the comet, and so many have expressed alarm as to the possibility of collision that I venture to send a reply. My dears, a rhinoceros in full charge would not fear collision with a cobweb, and the earth need not fear a collision with a comet. In 1841 we passed through the tail of a comet. No one knew anything about it at the time. For a hundred million years life has been continuous on this earth, though we have been visited by at least five comets every year. It comets could ever have done the earth any harm they would have done it long ago, and you and I would not be discussing comets or anything else. As far as I can learn, we were in the tail of Halley's comet May 12. I sincerely hope we were, and I think Sir John Herschel says somewhere that a whole comet could be squeezed into a suit case.

ROBERT S. BALL,
Observatory of Cambridge.

Courses Served in Diminutive Garden.

The interest in Halley's comet has reached the guests of the hotels in New York, and the roofs of all the big ones have been crowded nightly by comet parties. A guest at the Hotel Gotham gave a breakfast early the other morning to his friends on the roof of the hotel, and the occasion was enlivened with music. Many of the incoming visitors selected their rooms with the object of viewing the comet. A woman who registered at the Plaza asked for a room on the top floor where she could watch for the comet.

SIR ROBERT S. BALL.
[Can he coax the comet into his suit case?]

The breakfast on the roof of the Gotham was given by Dr. Ralph M. Grace, an amateur astronomer, who conceived the idea of inviting a dozen of his friends to watch for the comet and to entertain them with music and breakfast.

A section of the roof of the hotel was made over into a diminutive garden, with side awnings to keep out the cold. The place was decorated with palms, and Japanese lanterns were suspended on wires, but in such a way that their colored lights did not interfere with the view of the comet.

A round table was spread for breakfast at 2:30 o'clock in the morning, and the table was decorated with flowers. The menu was so planned that all of the dishes reflected in some way the interest over the comet. The guests sat around the table in their motorcar toggery, which consisted of fur coats and caps mostly, while a Hungarian orchestra played behind a screen of ferns and palms. One of the selections played was "A Trip to Mars."

Silver Telescopes as Favors.

The comet was sighted by the outlook just after the first course, so the guests were forced to leave their grapefruit to view the comet through their glasses. The breakfast was resumed half an hour later, and the last guest departed about the time the milk wagons began to rattle through the streets. They all carried away with them small silver telescopes, which had been given as favors by Dr. Grace. There was a jolly comet party on the roof of the Hotel Astor the other morning early, although no breakfast was served. One party was made up of seventeen guests at the hotel, who had procured binoculars the day before, and when Halley's comet first showed itself over the bridge there was a battery of glasses turned upon it from this particular roof.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
THE ONLY BAKING POWDER
MADE FROM ROYAL GRAPE
CREAM OF TARTAR
Absolutely Pure

COUNTY.

Powellville.

Strawberries are not coming up to the mark in this vicinity. Not more than half a crop is expected.

Misses Ida Perdue and Bertie Bradford and Master Avery Perdue, of Snow Hill, were the guests of their grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Sturgis, last Saturday and Sunday.

The play, "Hazel Adams," a thrilling comedy in three acts, also a farce in three acts entitled the "Persecuted Dutchman" with other interludes, will be played at the Mechanics Hall in Whaleyville next Saturday evening. May 21st by home talent from Powellville. The public is cordially invited. Admission 10 and 15 cents. Proceeds for the benefit of the St. John M. E. Church at Powellville.

Mrs. Lizzie Bonville and Miss Ella M. Phillips, of Indian town, are the guests of Mr. Augustus Purnell, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Adkins and Mr. Frank Adkins, of Willards, were the guests of Mr. W. G. Nicholson, last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. George Dennis and family, of Greenbackville, Va., spending the week with relatives at this place.

Mr. Wilmer Burdage, of Salisbury, spent a part of last week with his mother, Mrs. Laura Burdage, of this place.

Mr. Benjamin Jackson, of Friendship, visited relatives here Sunday.

Hebron.

Mrs. James Phillips and Miss Pauline Nelson were the guests of friends in Rockawalkin on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Showard, who have been visiting in Delmar and Zion, have returned home.

Miss Martha Nelson, of Salisbury, visited friends in town on Sunday.

Mr. W. Mitchell, of Tyaskin, was in town Tuesday.

Miss Coral Collins was in Baltimore last week.

The Ladies of the M. P. Church will hold a festival on the church ground, Saturday, May 21st. All are invited.

Mrs. J. L. Nelson entertained the teachers of Hebron School, Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Mr. J. Thomas, of Pennsylvania, was in town this week.

Mrs. John Phillips is spending some time with relatives in Crado, Md.

Mrs. Chas. Adkins, who has been spending several weeks with her mother, left this week for her home in Norfolk, Va.

Quantico.

Yesterday, Quantico High School closed for the summer vacation, after another very successful year. Prof. Bennett deserves a great deal of credit for the work he has done and for the good showing of our school in the higher institutions of learning. The representatives of the school this year are: Misses Mattie Bailey and Margaret Bouda and Mr. Maurice Phillips at Salisbury High School; Miss Pearl Woolford and Messrs. Rollie Gillis and Ray Phillips, Salisbury Business College; Miss Delia Bouda at Western Maryland College; Messrs. Claude Bailey and Holland Rigglin, at St. John College, Annapolis; and Miss Irma Boston, at State Normal School. It is rumored that Prof. Bennett, who has been principal of the above school for eight years, is much to our regret thinking of leaving us. He is a very efficient teacher and hope the above is untrue and that he will return for another year and continue the good work.

Uman Sons is the only firm in town who give a ten year guarantee on their Iron Beds.

Parsonburg.

The Epworth League here celebrated the 21st Anniversary Sunday night.

We are glad to report, that Mr. J. W. Wimbrow, is able to be out again.

The berry growers in this section think the berry crop will be very short, not more than half the average yield per acre.

Glenn and Cursey, the show men, are here for a week and promise a good show every night.

If you want any berry tickets in this section, this season, place your orders with Ernest C. Arvey, and get the up to date style. $1.00 per thousand.

Services Sunday as follows: Sunday School, 9.30 a. m.; Preschool, 10.30 a. m.; Class, 11.45 a. m.; Epworth League, 7.30 p. m.; Preschool, 8.00 p. m.; Prayer-meeting every Wednesday night. Everybody invited.

Bivale.

The members of the choir of Bivale M. P. Church will hold an ice-cream and cake social, Wednesday evening May 25, at Odd Fellows Hall. All are cordially invited to attend.

Advertised Letters.

Letters addressed to the following parties remain uncalled for at the Salisbury Post Office and will be sent to the Dead Letter Office two weeks from today. When inquiring please state that these letters have been advertised:

Mr. George R. Bennett, Mr. Robert W. Baker, Mr. Albert T. Baker, Mrs. Nellie Belle, Miss Mary Lizer Bell, Mr. Thomas Campbell, Mr. Howard Clark, Mr. George J. Farlow, Mr. Ernest Fields, Dr. G. W. Freney, Miss Mary Fields, Mr. John O. Gosler, Mr. Edgar Gordy, Mr. H. W. Gibson, Miss Gibson, Mr. John J. Hitchens, Mr. Ira V. Hitchens, Mr. Wm. T. P. Hill, Mr. Frederick Jones, Mr. George T. Jenkins, Mr. George Jones, Mr. James R. Lister, Mr. James T. LeCates, Mr. Jack E. Lewis, Mr. Thomas Layfield, Mr. Jason S. Moddow, Mr. Wm. J. Moore, Mr. Samuel B. Meswick, Mr. McKee, Mr. Wm. P. Phillips, Mr. John W. Ross, Mr. Willie J. Shaw, Mr. Merrill J. Smith, Mr. T. F. Stewart, Mr. Isaac Wm. Smith, Mr. Isaac H. Snockley, Mrs. E. Seymour, Mr. Francis M. Tighman, Miss Hattie Taylor, Mr. John W. Waller, Mr. Jasper L. White, Mr. Gabriel A. Webster, Mr. W. D. Wilcutts, Willie Wimper, Mrs. Dottie Wals, Mrs. Better Wallace.

What's in McClure's.

"How Tall Views His Own Administration"—An Interview With the President by George Kibbe Turner is only one of a number of features of unusual importance in the June number of McClure's Magazine. Senator Platt begins his autobiography by telling the inside story of the two nominations of Roosevelt; Asher C. Hinds, parliamentary clerk of the House, explains the tremendous power of the Speaker and when and why it was given him; John M. Gitterman writes about "The Cruelty of Our Courts"; M. Paoli gives his reminiscences of the King and Queen of Italy; and Theodor Schiemann, professor of history in the University of Berlin and a friend of the Kaiser, has a paper on the strained relations between Germany and England. The fiction includes "The Bug Squin," another of the John Thorndyke detective stories; "Neighbors," by Octavia Roberts; "A Text-Book Soldier," by Donal Hamilton Haines; "The Griswold Divorce Case," by Frederic Taber Cooper; and "Justice While You Wait," by Owen Oliver.

—You will make no mistake in buying your matings and rugs from Uman Sons.

—Correct Shape low cut shoes guaranteed not to break. All colors, tan, grey, gun metal, patent leather, and Interwoven Stockings to match. Kennerly & Mitchell.

Dying to Order.

Dying to order is one of the most sacred customs of the American Indian. Many years ago Standing Elk went to Major James McLaughlin, the author of "My Friend the Indian," and said, "Father, my wife will die today, and she wants a coffin for me."

The major asked him what the ailment was, and he replied: "Just nothing but that she heard the ghosts calling and must go." Somebody had told her, it turned out, that she was sick, so she had "died" and all her relatives, had gathered about to bid her—her—and incidentally divide her property as soon as she was dead. There was no use in the major's arguing about it, so he had the coffin made.

In many cases those "dying to order" are actually bullied into dying, but Mrs. Standing Elk was still too vigorous. Finally in despair she carried the coffin into the house on her own shoulders, and several years later the major saw it still standing on end in her house. Shelves had been fixed into it, and it was doing duty as a cupboard. —Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Improving Americans.

"Nothing is fixed but the certainty of change," said Goethe, and we know that the future American will represent a change. He may be taller or shorter or thinner or fatter than the American of today, but there is nothing in the existing state of society—and we use society in its broad sense—to indicate that he will not be better in many ways. Confidence in this is based largely on the evident determination of the American of today to leave our institutions and our ideas better than he found them. Every American, native or foreign born, wants his children to have a better education than it was possible for him to secure. He wants to have his children live in a community of higher standards and ideals than he has; he wants betterment in local, state and national conditions, and the result of the want will be improvement and a demand by his children for still greater improvement. —St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

An Economical Man.

A commercial traveler told of a man who was riding on a train and pretended to become ill after eating a sandwich. The man opened his grip and took out a hot water bag. "He got a sympathetic porter," the commercial man continues, "to fill the water bag with boiling water, and then he opened up his lunch basket, took out a piece of fried steak and warmed it up on the water bag. You talk about your light housekeeping! Then after he had warmed the steak he cut it all up with a pair of scissors and fed it to himself with a pair of sugar tongs, because he would not take a chance with a fork going around a curve. But his finish was a limit. After he had eaten the steak he unscrewed the stopper of the water bag and poured himself out a cup of hot coffee. He had the grounds in the bag all the time."

In a Quandary.

The young lady sighed deeply and was almost affected to tears. "Harold," she said, "declares that if I don't marry him he will end his life. And I am afraid he will."

She stifled a sob, then continued: "And Randolph declares that if I don't marry him he will go into politics and become great and famous, and then he says I shall see what I have missed. And I am afraid he will keep his word too."

Overcome by emotion, she buried her face in her hands, not knowing whether to save a life or to spare the country another politician. —Exchange.

Perseverance.

Timour, the great Asiatic conqueror, commonly known by the name of Tamerlane, had extraordinary perseverance. No difficulties ever led him to recede from what he had once undertaken, and he often persisted in his efforts under circumstances which led all around him to despair. On such occasions he used to relate to his friend an anecdote of his early life. "I once," he said, "was forced to take shelter from my enemies in a ruined building, where I sat alone many hours. Desiring to divert my mind from my hopeless condition, I fixed my eyes on an ant that was carrying a grain of corn larger than itself up a high wall. I numbered the efforts it made to accomplish this object. The grain fell sixty-nine times to the ground, but the insect persevered, and the seventieth time it reached the top. This sight gave me courage at the moment, and I never forgot the lesson."

Business Locals.

—Mrs. G. W. Taylor is back from Philadelphia with a new line of millinery and is giving special prices on the summer hat.

—Mrs. G. W. Taylor has a special sale of baby caps. 19c were 35 and 50c. Don't forget hair ribbons, they are good and cheap.

—Hammocks at all prices from 75c to $7.50. A big line. Pretty patterns and low prices. R. E. Powell & Co.

—Special prices on trimmed and untrimmed hats, ribbons, etc. at R. E. Powell & Co.

—See our line of porch furniture, refrigerators and other summer furnishings. R. E. Powell & Co.

—Ask to see our line of $2.00 Oxfords. The best values to be had. R. E. Powell & Co.

—Have Uman Sons to show you their immense line of pretty summer art squares.

—Mrs. Lowenthal is in New York and Philadelphia where she is purchasing a line of mid summer millinery.

Speak For Yourself, John.

The Lord Lovelace of a century ago had no sons by his first marriage and, being well on in years, was anxious to see his heir apparent, a nephew, happily wedded. His wish was that a charming daughter of his neighbor, the Earl of Albeinart, should be the future Lady Lovelace. With her and her sisters he used to enjoy his morning rides. One morning she came alone, and during the ride he asked, thinking to forward his nephew's interests, "Anne, my dear, how should you like to be mistress of Holkham?" "There is nothing I should like better," she replied. "Then I shall send my nephew William to court you," said the earl, and that the lady calmly and gravely answered, "I shall never be mistress of Holkham on those terms." "Why," exclaimed the astonished old gentleman, looking the lady hard in the face, "you don't mean to say you would marry me?" "Yes, indeed I would," was the answer, "and nothing I should wish better." And as a consequence the nephew did not succeed to the earldom. —London Chronicle.

The Dreaded Doctor.

"How did you like your dinner?" inquired the cureur.

"Well," answered the dyspeptic, "it was admirable in every respect. But my doctor has put me into such an apprehensive frame of mind that whenever I really enjoy eating anything I become utterly inebriated."

The Analyst.

"Did you have the soil of your back yard analyzed by the agricultural department?"

"Yes. They said it consisted largely of glass, tin and putty, with traces of builder's lime, and suggested that it might do to raise a mortgage on." —Louisville Courier-Journal.

Great Achievement.

"And what do you record as the greatest triumph of modern surgery?"

"Collecting the bills," promptly responded the great practitioner. —London Spare Moments.

Especially in the Subways.

"There ain't but one trouble with this here city air," said Uncle Rufus, sniffing the atmosphere speculatively. "It do need ventilatin'." —Holland's Magazine.

His Reason.

"Why do you always leave the house, James, when I begin to sing the old songs?" pointed Mrs. Howitt.

"Fresh air," said Howitt. —Harper's Weekly.

Special Auto Bargains!

Ford Touring, 4 cyl. equipped, $400
Reo Touring, late model, equipped, 400
Cadillac Touring, fine order, 800
Rambler Touring, perfect order equipped, 275
Buick, Ford and Maxwell Runabouts, $225 and up
100 others from $100 to $3000

ROMAN AUTOMOBILE COMPANY

1315 H St. N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.
Branch, PHILA. PA. Write for Bargain Sheet.

No Doubt

It Would Be To Your Advantage To Investigate One Or More Of The Following Articles:

Plain and Fancy Window Screens and Doors

Water Coolers, Nursery Refrigerators

Garden Hose and Fittings Metal

and Wood Hose Reels

Salisbury Hardware Co

Phone 346. SALISBURY, MD.

Just Out

OUR newest and latest catalog of window and door screens is just out and we want you to have one. We would also like to have our "screen salesman" call and see you and give you an estimate on screens for your house. Our screens are recommended for their general practical features and it costs you nothing to get our prices. You know the investment for screens for your house is one of the best you can make as it not only saves labor in keeping your house clean and sanitary, but it prevents disease of various kinds (See bulletins from Maryland Agricultural College and otherlike institutions.) Only a line by mail or a word by phone and you can have a representative at your door.

WE would also remind you that our delivery system is in perfect shape and our stock of building material was never more complete. Everything in the building line. Framing, siding, sheathing, shingles, doors, windows, frames, blinds, flooring, ceiling, mantels, mouldings, plastering laths, lime, hardware, cement, bricks, prepared roofing, building paper, etc. ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING.

E. S. ADKINS & CO.

"Quality the First Consideration, Cost the Second"

SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

Kennerly-Shockley Co.

Tailor Made Suits

now in and ready for early purchasers. This cut represents one of our popular styles in Spring Suits. Our line this season consists of all the leading shades and popular designs. Prices ranging from $14.90 to $25.00. We have just received a lot of Silk Waists in popular shades which will be sold for $3.50.

Kennerly-Shockley Co.

Dry Goods, Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Shoes

SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

Useless Trips

to the freight station in search of delayed materials can be avoided if you have Rural Bell Telephone Service

No better way of keeping track of things in general.

You can build, own and operate the line.

Write for particulars.

The Diamond State Telephone Co.

THE COURIER.

Vol. XII, No. 10.

Salisbury, Maryland, Saturday, May 28, 1910

$1.00 per Annum

The Latest Styles

Ladies'
Oxfords, Sailor Ties
Ankle Strap Pumps
The "Wishbone Pumps"
(The Latest)
Young Mens'
Oxfords, One and Two
Eyelet Sailor Ties
The "Kandy Kid"
(The Latest)

Make up your mind when you find the "Big Shoe" that you are at "The Right Place" for the season's latest styles.

E. Homer White
Shoe Company
229 Main St. Salisbury, Md.

THE REXALL STORES

We Now Sell Rexall Remedies

WE HAVE just taken the Agency for these well-known, high-class remedies, and are carrying a very complete stock of them, including the "93 HAIR TONIC" and the "Orderlies." Each remedy of which there is "one for each human ailment."

Positively Guaranteed To Give Satisfaction

This guarantee is a genuine one, and both we and the United Drug Co. stand back of it to the limit.

Ask for a copy of the booklet "HEALTH" which fully explains "Rexall Remedies."

White & Leonard
DRUG STORES
Main & St. Peter's Sts. E. Church St.

PETITION COUNCIL FOR BETTER FIRE PROTECTION.

People Of South Salisbury Now Assured That Water Mains Will Be Extended And Additional Fire Hydrants To Be Given Them.

That the people of Salisbury are determined to secure better protection against fire from the city authorities was again evidenced on Monday night when A. M. Jackson, Esq., representing the residents of that section of the city and the residents of Smith street, appeared before the Mayor and City Council with a petition signed by all of the citizens in the unprotected district. When informed by Mr. Jackson, however, of the nature of the petition, President Dennis, of the City Council, made the statement that the reading of the petition was unnecessary because every action was being taken by the authorities to provide the additional fire hydrants requested.

At a previous meeting the council adopted a resolution and forwarded a letter to President Louis Dalmas, of the Salisbury Water Company, in which the company was instructed to accede to the demands of the council or suffer the consequences which would mean the revoking of its charter. Under these circumstances, and provided the terms stipulated in the letter are carried out the work of extending the water mains will be started by the first of June.

FORMER BANK CASHIER SUED FOR $15,000.00.

Big Array Of Council Is Defending William P. Horsey, Who Is On Trial At Eastern, In Marine Bank Suit For Damages.

The May term of the Circuit Court for Talbot County is now on its second week and promises to last for three, if not four weeks.

The case on trial now is the removed case from Somerset county of the Marine Bank of Crisfield against William P. Horsey, former cashier, for $15,000 for alleged carelessness in allowing notes and other papers to become overdue and not reporting them, thereby causing a loss to the bank. The bank is represented by Messrs. Stanford, of Princess Anne; S. Gordon Cummings, of Eastville, Va., and State's Attorney J. Frank Turner, of Eastern. Mr. Horsey is represented by Alonzo L. Miles, of Baltimore, and Congressman J. Harry Covington, of Eastern. The case is being tried before a jury, with Col. Charles W. Adams as foreman.

The grand jury recommended to the County Commissioners the necessity of requiring the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railroad Company to place a flagman at the crossing at Lloyd's Branch Hill, near Queen Anne, and one near Hillsboro. It also commended the condition of the Talbot County Almshouse under the present management.

The jurors also called attention to the killing of fish by dynamite and recommended the strict enforcement of the law against it.

WILL CELEBRATE FOURTH IN GLORIOUS MANNER.

Horse Racing, Balloon Ascension, Fire Works And Many Other Attractions Will Cause Crowds Of People To Congregate Here.

Salisbury is to have an old-time Fourth of July celebration. Everybody is entering into the spirit of the movement and the Wicomico Fair Association has taken hold of the project with a view to making the day a memorable one in the history of Salisbury. This will be the first big celebration held here for many years and it should be made one which will be so enjoyable as to have it followed up year by year.

The program now under contemplation by the Board of Directors of the Fair includes three big races in the afternoon, a big vaudeville entertainment, and a big balloon ascension. The races will include some well known horses and the balloon will be a big one. It will go up from the Fair Grounds during the afternoon. A feature will be the throwing out from the balloon after it gets up high in the air about twenty envelopes, each containing a dollar bill. The Directors also want to enlist the aid of the merchants of Salisbury to have a hundred or so envelopes thrown out of the balloon each containing a coupon which will give the holder a rebate of ten per cent. on his purchases at the various stores provided he buys ten dollars worth of goods. This will also be an attractive feature.

At night it is proposed to have some big fireworks set off at the Fair Grounds. This feature will be a very attractive one and will draw a big crowd. There is also talk of having an automobile parade in the early evening from the city to the Fair Grounds, each machine being decorated with flowers and flags for the occasion. This will make a very pretty affair as the tiny old machines in Salisbury could give a very respectable parade.

It is the intention of the Committee to ask the people of the city to decorate for the occasion and to make this an old-time Fourth of July celebration. It is probable that we will even have the old-time orator to give an oration and to read the Declaration of Independence. It is to be hoped that everybody will enter into the spirit of this occasion and let us have a big day. It will be an enjoyable occasion for everybody and it is our duty to teach the young minds the importance of this great National Festival.

Arrangements will be made with the Railroads and boats to run excursions during the day and it is expected that at least five thousand visitors will come to Salisbury to help enjoy the occasion. Brass bands and red lemonade will also add to the occasion and the small boy will be allowed to make as much noise as he wants, which will be a plenty. The fact is, it is proposed to give over the town on that day for a day of pleasure and real fun. It is expected that at least a car load of confetti will be thrown to the winds during the evening at the Fair grounds.

SOME PERSONAL GOSSIP ABOUT YOUR FRIENDS.

Summer Season Always Brings Many Visitors To Salisbury—Early Arrivals Now Being Entertained By Salisburyans.

—Mr. Walter Diskhouse spent a part of this week in New Jersey.

—Prof. J. W. Hixson spent several days in Wilmington this week.

—Mr. Prescott Trussell, of Baltimore, visited friends in town this week.

—Miss Floy Hardesty of Crisfield spent Sunday with her parents.

—Miss Jean Leonard has returned to Baltimore after a visit to relatives in town.

—Mrs. Alice Durham gave a picnic Thursday for the pupils of her private school.

—Miss Louise Gundy, who has been visiting in Washington, returned home Thursday.

—Mr. L. W. Gundy and family are now domiciled at "Cherry Hill" for the summer.

—Miss Annie Peters entertained informally Saturday evening at her home "Fairfield."

—Miss Helen Porter, teacher of art in the High School, left this week for her home in Maine.

—Miss Marion Wilcox, of Conn., is the guest of Mrs. George Jones, on Division street.

—Miss Ruth Gundy has returned from Atlantic City, where she has been for the past week.

—Mrs. Samuel Costen spent a few days this week with her sister, Mrs. William Howard.

—Mrs. William Evans, of Newark, Del., visited her aunt, Mrs. Louisa Graham, this week.

—Miss Vessey, of Pocomoke, and Miss Thomas, of Buckeystown, are guests at Miss Louise Vessey's.

—Miss Wilkie Woodcock left this week for Boston, where she will spend some time with friends.

—Mrs. Alice Durham left this week for Wilmington, where she will spend the summer with her sister.

—Miss Cora Moore, who has been visiting relatives in town, returned to her home in Dover this week.

—Miss Margaret Woodcock entertained a few friends Wednesday afternoon in honor of her guest Miss Crockett of Missouri.

—Miss Sara Uman, who has been a student at Chacey Chase for the past winter, is spending her vacation with her mother.

—Mr. Herman W. Murrell, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Ronie K. Murrell, of Whaleyville, are visiting friends in this city.

—Miss Nina Venshles gave a "dinner party" Friday evening at her home on Camden, in honor of Miss Crockett, of Missouri.

—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Miffin, of Wyoming, Delaware, spent the week with their daughter, Mrs. Louis Hayes, on Church street.

—Miss Maude Bishop, teacher in the Commercial Department of the Wicomico High School, left this week for her home in Everett, Penn., where she will spend her vacation.

It Always Pays To Feature The Best

El-Mardo

5c. CIGAR

produces the best results wherever they are on sale. The growth of El-Mardo Cigars proves their superiority both as to quality and workmanship.

WATSON'S SMOKE HOUSE
PAUL E. WATSON, PROPRIETOR
SALISBURY, MARYLAND

DR. F. J. BARCLAY DENTIST

Crown and Bridge work a specialty. Special attention given to children. Prompt and careful attention given to all dental work. Prices moderate.

500 N. Division St., Salisbury, Md.

Chased Religious Fanatics.

Aroused to a state of furor because of the belief that Halley's comet would destroy the world, the members of the Holiness sect, at Blades, near Seaford, Delaware, created such a tumult Tuesday night that the religious fanatics were chased out of town by the peaceful inhabitants. Clubs, bricks, good and bad eggs, decayed fruit and vegetables and many other articles, too numerous to mention were used to rid the quiet village of the strenuous worshippers. The leaders of the sect have been conducting meetings nightly since the comet has been talked of so much. They implored the people to discontinue all worldly pursuits and make ready for the coming of the end of the world. The excitement reached its height Tuesday evening when it is alleged that one of the members, yelling like one being murdered, grabbed a chair in the house of worship and crying, "The devil is coming in the door," rushed to the exit. This caused an uproar, which resulted in a crowd of people running them from town.

Laymen Meet.

Among the most notable gatherings of the year in Eastern or Talbot county will be the Laymen's Missionary Convention Saturday and Sunday. The convention will be interdenominational in character and educational in purpose.

The convention is managed by three committees—laymen's, pastors and press—all working with Mr. David H. Brown, executive secretary. Invitations have been sent to all the churches and pastors of the county. There will be a banquet Saturday night in Christ Church parish house, followed by addresses from Joshua Levering and William F. Corkran, of Baltimore, and H. F. Yokoyama, of Japan. The banquet committee includes Mrs. Charles R. Wothers (chairman), Mrs. William H. Adkins, Mrs. George W. Mowbray, Mrs. John S. Griffith, Mrs. H. Avery Tuthill and Miss Marianna Hardesty.

Sunday morning the different pulpits will be filled by visiting laymen. Two mass-meetings will be held in Music Hall in the afternoon. The Sunday morning services will be addressed by Mr. Corkran, of Baltimore; Mr. Yokoyama, Mr. C. K. Edmunds, of Canton, China; Edwin H. Brown, of Centerville; and Mr. Levering.

After The Pale Faces.

At a regular meeting of Modoc Tribe of Red Men Men, of this city, held last Monday night, a move was inaugurated to increase the membership to 300 by having a class adoption on Monday night, June 6th. To this end there were two membership teams selected, consisting of ten each, and a prize offered by the Tribe to the team bringing in the greatest number of candidates for adoption. The captains of the teams are Mr. Charles Wilkins, who is Sachem of the Tribe and Mr. Geo. Hill, Senior Sagamore. Both of these captains are very popular young men and a very interesting contest is anticipated. Modoc Tribe is a very progressive order and well-fixed financially, their assets amounting to about $4000.00. The Tribe pays $4 per week sick benefits, $5 for nurse and $150 at death. The admission fee is $5, and the dues are $5.40 a year. Application for membership will be received for this class up to the evening of June 5, at which time the whole number received will be taken into the Tribe.

New State Councillor.

At a recent meeting of the State Council, Daughters of Liberty, Mrs. Cora Farlow, of this city, was elected State Councillor. Mrs. Farlow is a member of Betsy Ross Council, No. 17. The State Council presented this council with a large American flag for making the largest gain in membership since Christmas. A prize was also offered by the State Council to the individual securing the largest number of new members and this award, a handsome gold pin, was captured by Mrs. Eugene Hobbs, of this city.

The members of Betsy Ross Council, in the near future, will erect a new lodge room on East Church street, costing upwards of $2000.00.

Confections Have Social Standing

as well as the people that buy them. There is one particular kind that goes into the most exclusive circles and is regarded as the candy of quality.

Belle Mead Sweets

Chocolates and Bon Bons

in their beautiful gold seal box. Are recognized everywhere as a synonym for class—time—exclusiveness. Made in the "cleanest candy kitchen in the world."

No purer, more delicious, more reliable candy has ever been made.

SOLD BY WILKINS & CO. SOLE AGENTS

G. M. Fisher, Jeweler

DR. H. C. ROBERTSON DENTIST

Good teeth are essential to good looks and to good health also. If your teeth are not good you had better come in at once and let me give them attention; because if you delay the matter they may give you all kinds of trouble.

Teeth extracted FREE where plates are made.

Prices reasonable and all work guaranteed satisfactory.

Crown and Bridge work, especially solicited.

OFFICE: 106 E. Church St., near Division SALISBURY, MD.

Better Telephone Service.

A multiple switch board is soon to be installed in the central office of the Diamond State Telephone Company, in this city, which will do away with the ringing of the bell, as is now necessary, to call central. The new board has been ordered for some time and is now about ready for installation. When this new equipment is installed it will be necessary to change every telephone in Salisbury and replace them with new instruments to conform to the new switching apparatus. The company has also found that its present equipment is inadequate and several hundred feet of new cable is to be strung to accommodate the growing number of subscribers. Salisbury now has over 700 telephones in operation and is the largest exchange in the Diamond State territory.

Deserted Wife And Family.

Charged with deserting his wife and family of four small children Gordon Hayward, of White Haven, was arrested Wednesday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Smith just as he was boarding a train for Bridgeville. The arrest was made at the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad station. Hayward, who had been arrested on a warrant sworn out by his wife, was immediately given a hearing before Magistrate Trader and gave bond that he would support his family in the future.

Mr. Grier Was "Hungry".

Because he was "hungry," and because he does not particularly care to feast alone, Mr. Oscar H. Grier hastily summoned four of his bachelor friends (with one exception, said exception being Mr. Donald N. Higgins, of Vienna), and the quintet was served with a course dinner at Mead's Cafe on Wednesday evening. Mr. Grier was asked the occasion of the festivities but his only reply was that he was "hungry." Mr. Mead was also asked the same question and he gave the same reason and added, with a sigh, that although some fourteen courses were served the crowd, even then, seemed to be "hungry." Mr. Grier's hastily summoned guests were Mr. E. S. McBriety, Harry Gordy, A. L. Vickery, and Mr. Higgins.

Marriage Licenses.

The following licenses to marry were issued during the week by Clerk of the Court, Ernest A. Toadvine: Simpkins-Bounds-Clayton T. Simpkins, 24, Somerset county, and Esther L. Bounds, 21, Wicomico county.

Ellis Sheridan-Gordon Thomas Ellis, 22, and Daisy Edith Sheridan, 18, both of Delaware.

Davis Tillman-Henry H. Davis, 21, and Elinor Tillman, 20, both of Virginia.

HAVEN'T YOU BEEN EXPECTING?

TO START A BANK ACCOUNT? Been trying to save an amount sufficient to "make a good start"? The "small purchase temptation" makes it very hard to accumulate any certain sum by keeping money in your pocket or hiding it around the house when, probably, it will be stolen from you.

This bank accepts deposits for $1.00 and up—why not come in and open an account with us NOW—let the bank help you save—its the only safe way.

The Salisbury National Bank

UNITED STATES DEPOSITORY CAPITAL $50,000 SURPLUS $60,000 OLDEST BANK IN WICOMICO COUNTY

J. P. JACKSON, President
JOHN H. WHITE, Cashier

JAY WILLIAMS, Vice-President
W. S. GORDY, Jr., Asst. Cashier

Donation Day At Home.

Wednesday, the first day of June, will be the annual donation day at the Home of the Aged, this city. On this day nine years ago the Home was first opened in the old building in "Camden" and one year ago on the same date the new Home was formally opened. It is to be hoped that the people of Salisbury will respond to the call for donations and that the day will be made a memorable one in the history of the charitable institutions of Salisbury.

Civil Service Examinations.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that the following examinations will be held at the post office in this city on the day named:

June 29-30, 1910.—Domestic Science Teacher, Indian Service.

For Joint Primaries.

At a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee, held at the Eutaw House, Baltimore, Thursday, it was decided, after the reading of a lengthy opinion by Attorney General Straus, to arrange for a general primary for both parties in all the congressional districts on the same day. Consequently a resolution was passed at the meeting giving Chairman Vandiver of the Democratic Committee, the authority to confer with Chairman Hanna, of the Republican Committee, and decide upon the date or joint primaries.

In the event of no agreement being reached the law provides for the primaries being held on the first Monday in September. The election this fall will be only for members of the House of Representatives.

Joint Primaries.

At a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee, held at the Eutaw House, Baltimore, Thursday, it was decided, after the reading of a lengthy opinion by Attorney General Straus, to arrange for a general primary for both parties in all the congressional districts on the same day. Consequently a resolution was passed at the meeting giving Chairman Vandiver of the Democratic Committee, the authority to confer with Chairman Hanna, of the Republican Committee, and decide upon the date or joint primaries.

In the event of no agreement being reached the law provides for the primaries being held on the first Monday in September. The election this fall will be only for members of the House of Representatives.

MARYLAND HAPPENINGS.

Belongs in The Counties—News Items of Interest to The People All Over The State.

United States Senator John Walter Smith returned to Baltimore last Wednesday after a month's stay at Atlantic City. His health is much improved.

Foley Kidney Pills are antiseptic, tonic and restorative and a prompt corrective of all urinary irregularities. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

The commencement exercises of the Pocomoke High School were held last Friday evening. There were eight graduates.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury Ohio.

The first shipment of wood pulp and print paper ever imported from Newfoundland was received at New York last Wednesday. The consignment came in under the new tariff act and consisted of 940 bales of wood pulp and 1607 rolls of paper.

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Eucletic Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound.

Lieutenant Colonel William A. Craighill, Engineer Corps U.S.A., formerly engineer officer at Baltimore, has been relieved of his present duty as engineer secretary of the Lighthouse Board and ordered to report to Brigadier General William L. Marshall, U.S.A., chief of engineers. Colonel Craighill will be granted sick leave because of ill health. He is suffering from nervousness resulting from service in the Philippines several years ago.

Foley Kidney Pills contain in concentrated form ingredients of established therapeutic value for the relief and cure of all kidney and bladder ailments. Sold by John M. Toulson.

There have recently been made 42 arrests of suspects by detectives of the Pennsylvania Railroad, between Wilmington and Cape Charles in a search for three yeggmen who blew open the safe in the postoffice at Greensboro, Md. The force of Inspector Gorman, of the railroad, including Postal Inspector Plummer in an endeavor to round up the cracksmen. All the suspects were taken from freight trains. They were rigidly searched and some were sent to prison for trespass but nothing connecting them with the robbery was found.

Don't let the baby suffer from eczema, sores or any itching of the skin. Doan's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

Considerable uneasiness is felt at Chestertown over the arrest of William Waters, colored, charged with running a sneak-shop. When captured a barrel of whiskey and thirty dozen bottles of beer were confiscated. In order to protect himself Waters had a system in which he made his patrons accomplices by requiring every purchaser to sell him in return a small quantity of liquor for 5 cents and required all to register their names. Over 300 names are in the book, among them a number of well-known young men, and when they are made public it will cause a sensation.

Constipation causes headache, nausea, dizziness, languor, heart palpitation, drastic physical gripes, sick, weakens the bowels and don't cure. Doan's Regulets act gently and cure constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

For More Than Three Decades.

Foley's Honey and Tar has been a household favorite for all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. For infants and children it is best and safest as it contains no opiates and no harmful drug. None genuine but Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Duvall Named Secretary.

Louis M. Duvall has been named as secretary of the Public Utilities Commission and has accepted the position. The salary is $3000 a year.

Mr. Duvall was for many years business manager of the Baltimore News. His business career practically began with the Northern Central Railway, where he became an expert accountant. His next position was in the Record Office, where he served as cashier for 10 years under the administration of that office by James Bond, who is now a member of the Liquor License Board.

The High Cost of Living.

Increases the prices of many necessities without improving the quality. Foley's Honey and Tar maintains its high standard of excellence and its great curative qualities without any increase in cost. It is the best remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and all ailments of the throat, chest and lungs. The genuine is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Sold by John M. Toulson.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Study For To-morrow, "The Multitudes Fed." Ably Discussed by A Local Writer.

Mat. 14: 13-21.
Golden Text:—Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life.

Our lesson text of to-day is in the fifteenth chapter of Matthew, but we should study with it a part of the fourteenth chapter, which records the feeding of five thousand. These two miracles are alike in purpose and effect. They both were performed east of the Sea of Galilee in the domains of Philip the brother of Herod Antipas, where Jesus had withdrawn "apart" after hearing of the death of John, the Baptist.

Christ's labors had been very arduous. As a reformer His works had been questioned, and where it conflicted with the ambitions of others, and particularly of the politician of the day, they drew forth much opposition. The death of John was no doubt depressing, and the disciples, having just returned from their tour through Galilee, with no doubt many experiences to relate and much advice to seek, it was an opportune time to retire for a short season. Prayer, study, and conference marked this respite from labor.

The multitudes followed, and after feeding the five thousand, Jesus sought retirement to the west, crossing the sea to the west by Capernaum, and going into the country toward Tyre and Sidon. Returning again He came into the same country (Phillip's) east of the sea, and opposite Magdala, in the upland country where the multitude again sought Him. Christ healed their sick and taught them, and after the multitude had remained in the country district for three days without food, or an adequate supply of food, Jesus had compassion on them, and fed them.

In this country of ours we never see a crowd of people such as sought Jesus at that time. You will see many gatherings of our people before you, looking over them, catch a glimpse of faces distraught with suffering. This multitude before Jesus was of the sick, lame, blind and dumb, a people in subjection to a higher power, mental torturers, next to slavery, in many instances objects of charity—abject want. This condition caused compassion in the Master's heart.

Three conditions appealed to Christ that day, the need of food, of healing, and teaching. These have ever appealed to God, causing that great overflow of love toward man, culminating in the sacrifice of His Son to feed, heal, and teach mankind, and draw them back to Him.

These were the lost of the House of Israel, the ones who had been forsaken by those in power, who had sought bread and received a stone, the babes to whom was revealed the will of God that was refused to the wise. To these Christ came as a shepherd, finding them in the wild, fed, healed, and taught them. The great heart of Christ could not be opened to them in the great church, the synagogue. It was closed to their want and hunger, it had no healing for them, and it's teachings had ceased to express to them the love of a God that appealed to the need of broken, bruised hearts.

Jesus went where want was, and thus sets an example for His church. Many of that multitude could not approach the church of that day—it was of caste, and lacked the love that broke down caste, but Christ teaches us to go out to the "lost sheep of the house of Israel." The ideal church today is pleasing to contemplate, but are the pleasing, restful places to which we so often go just what Christ would have them? Do we find the lost of Israel there, do we find the opportunity to offer the cup of cold water in His name? Christ says that the thing which He did, His disciples may also do, and greater; are we to find the multitude and offer food to body and soul, and if we do, are we so willing in the labor that our cruise of oil will continually multiply in its pouring, that our loaves will increase to basketfuls of fragments when all are fed? Is the church as a body reaching the multitudes today?

Many earnest workers have but a few loaves and fishes, but Christ bids us minister in His name. Then we are to gather up the fragments, and thus gathering we may expect abundance to continue our ministering.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

Walding, Kinnear & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75 cents per bottle. Sold by all Druggists.
Take Hall's Family Pills for Constipation.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This in Salisbury.

Scores of Salisbury people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

James K. Diabaron, 220 Isabella Street, Salisbury, Md., says: "I have never taken another remedy of such wonderful curative powers as Doan's Kidney Pills. I know that my life has been saved by them. About fifteen years ago I began to suffer from kidney complaint, that was brought on by a heavy cold. My back grew lame and painful and in about a week I was unable to get about without the aid of a cane. I could not sleep on account of the knife-like pains in my loins, and when I walked, I had to go very slowly and be careful that I did not make a mis-step, as this was sure to bring on a sharp twinge. In the morning I had to be assisted out of bed and I was in a serious condition. I consulted two doctors, who told me that I was badly run down that there was but little hope for me. I gradually lost weight, grew weak and languid and had a poor appetite. The kidney secretions were very unnatural and I gave up hope of ever getting well. Finally someone told me about Doan's Kidney Pills. I began their use and to my great surprise, I soon found that they were helping me. I steadily improved until entirely cured and I had no further trouble until some years later when a cold affected my kidneys. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills a short time, however, the annoyance disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Purchase State For Negroes.

A negro minister in Baltimore quietly suggests that the United States Government purchase the State of Texas and give it to the negroes. Naturally Texans reject such a proposition and suggests that the Philippines be devoted to that purpose and that the negroes all be deported there. With this alternative we are in entire accord. We cannot imagine a better use to which to put that country. By all means send the negroes there, the climate will just suit them and the distance from the United States just about right.—Cecil Democrat.

Commander Julius A. Pratt Post No. 143 Dept. Ill., G. A. R.

Mr. Isaac Cook, Commander of above Post, Kewanee, Ill., writes: "For a long time I was bothered with backache, and pains across my kidneys. About two months ago I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and soon saw they were doing just as claimed. I kept on taking them and now I am free from backache, and the painful bladder misery is all gone. I like Foley Kidney Pills so well that I have told many of my friends and comrades about them and shall recommend them at every opportunity." Sold by John M. Toulson.

Good Berry Season.

Reports received from Marion indicate that growers of strawberries in the neighborhood of that thriving little town have had a good season. Among the well known citizens of that section who have made large shipments we mention Messrs. Southey F. Miles, A. A. Whittington, S. Frank Whittington, A. J. Howard, William J. and I. H. Hall, Washington Beauchamp and N. Forsythe. Mr. Southey F. Miles informs us that while some growers in the lower part of the county have had a full crop this was not the case with all. All, however, have sold their crops for good prices. Up to last Friday Mr. Miles himself had sold about 600 crates for $1800. In his own case he said his crop had been only fair, but that he would do well in the amount of his sales since he had begun to pick in good quantities early in the season.

What Everybody Wants.

Everybody desires good health which is impossible unless the kidneys are sound and healthy. Foley's Kidney Remedy should be taken at the first indication of any irregularity, and a serious illness may be averted. Foley's Kidney Remedy will restore your kidneys and bladder to their normal state and activity. Sold by John M. Toulson.

Force of Habit.

"Why did you break your engagement with that schoolteacher?" asked the friend.

"If I failed to show up at her house every evening she expected me to bring a written excuse signed by my mother."—Woman's Home Companion.

Hospitality.

"I say, Jones, dine with me at the house tonight, will you?"

"Certainly, with pleasure. Will your wife expect me?"

"No; that's the beauty of it. We had a quarrel this morning, and I want to make her mad."—Peekskill Palladium.

Dental Installation

Apply to
MISS NELLIE LANKFORD,
106 William Street
Salisbury, Maryland

DRS. W. C. & E. W. SMITH

DENTISTS
Graduates of Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery

Office Main St., SALISBURY, MD.
Teeth extracted skillfully, with or without Gas or Cocaine. Satisfaction guaranteed on all kinds of Dental Work.

Visit Critical First and Third Friday of Each Month.

C. D. KRAUSE

Successor to George Hoffman
and
Busy Bee Bakery

Having opened a first-class Horse and Mule Bazar on Lake St., I am making a specialty of

Fine Horses And Mules

Here can always be found Gentlemen's Driving Horses, Work Horses and Mules, and I am in a position to suit all customers—in quality of horsemanship and price. No need to go away from home to secure good stock—it's right here.

I. H. WHITE,
SALISBURY, MD.

Hotel Kernan

European Plan. Absolutely Fireproof.
In the Heart of The Business Section of Baltimore, Md.

Luxurious Rooms, Single and En Suite, With or Without Bath. $1 Per Day Up. Palatial Dining Rooms. Unsurpassed Cuisine. Shower and Plunge in Turkish Baths free to guests. Send for booklet.

JOSEPH L. KERNAN, Manager

Special Auto Bargains!

Ford Touring, 4 cyl. equipped... $400
Reo Touring, late model, equipped... 400
Cadillac Touring, late model... 800
Rambler Touring, perfect order equipped... 275
Buick, Ford and Maxwell Runabouts... $220 and up
100 others from $100 to $800

ROMAN AUTOMOBILE COMPANY

1315 N. St. N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.
Branch, PHILA., PA. Write for Bargain Sheet.

For Sale Cheap.

One Planet Jr., riding cultivator and a lot of young Leghorn hens.

W. R. STRONG,
Route 5, Salisbury.

Business Opportunities.

BALTIMORE, MD., offers them in any line; you may enlist service-money in established going business concerns, address, HANLON & Co., Fiscal Attorneys, Baltimore, Md.

Many Women who are Splendid Cooks dread having to prepare an elaborate dinner because they are not sufficiently strong to stand over an intensely hot coal range. This is especially true in summer. Every woman takes pride in the table she sets, but often it is done at tremendous cost to her own vitality through the weakening effect of cooking on a coal range in a hot kitchen.

It is no longer necessary to wear yourself out preparing a fine dinner. Even in the heat of summer you can cook a large dinner without being worn out.

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

Gives no outside heat, no smell, no smoke. It will cook the biggest dinner without heating the kitchen or the cook. It is immediately lighted and immediately extinguished. It can be changed from a slow to a quick fire by turning a handle. There's no drudgery connected with it, no coal to carry, no wood to chop. You don't have to wait fifteen or twenty minutes till its fire gets going. Apply a light and it's ready. By simply turning the wick up or down you get a slow or an intense heat on the bottom of the pot, pan, kettle or oven, and nowhere else. It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot, drop shelves for coffee, teapot or saucepan and even a rack for towels. It saves time, worry, health and temper. It does all a woman needs and more than she expects. Made with 1, 2, and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner sizes can be had with or without Cabinet.

Every dealer everywhere! If not at yours, write for Descriptive Circular to the nearest agency of the

Standard Oil Company

(Incorporated)

ESTABLISHED 1847

"Baltimore Oldest Furniture Store"

POLLACK'S

ISAAC DAVIDSON } Proprietors
WM. B. EALLON }

SOLICIT your trade. We carry only the most reliable qualities which we guarantee. Our prices are reasonable and low. Not being an instalment house, but strictly cash. All our goods are plainly marked with the lowest selling prices. One price only assuring the same equitable treatment to every one. We therefore cordially invite you to call on us when in need of

Furniture, Rugs, Mattings
Refrigerators, Mattresses, Etc.

POLLACK'S Cor. Howard and Saratoga Streets
BALTIMORE, MD.

C. I. HUDSON & COMPANY, BROKERS.

MEMBERS NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE
CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE

Eighth and Market Sts., Wilmington, Del.
34-36, Wall Street, New York.

STOCKS, GRAIN, COTTON

For Investment or Carried on Favorable Terms

D. & A. Phone 4250. J. Montieth Jackson
Wilmington. Manager.

Strawberry Checks $1 Per Thousand AT THIS OFFICE

THE SUN

BALTIMORE, MD.

ISSUED MORNING, AFTERNOON AND SUNDAY

Is the Cheapest High-Class Newspaper in the United States and will be mailed to Subscribers for 10 Cents a Week for 13 Issues

OR $5.20 A YEAR

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD is gathered by the well-trained special correspondents of THE SUN and set before the readers in a concise and interesting manner each morning and weekday afternoon.

As a chronicle of world events THE SUN IS INDISPENSABLE, while its bureaus in Washington and New York make its news from the legislative and financial centers of the country the best that can be obtained. AS A WOMAN'S PAPER THE SUN has no superior, being morally and intellectually a paper of the highest type. It publishes the very best features that can be written on fashion, art and miscellaneous matters.

THE SUN'S market news makes it A BUSINESS MAN'S NECESSITY for the farmer, the merchant and the broker can depend upon complete and reliable information upon their various lines of trade.

By Mail THE SUN (Morning or Afternoon) is 25c. a Month or $3 a Year
THE SUNDAY SUN, by Mail, is 10c. a Month or $1.00 a Year
And THE SUN, Morning, Afternoon and Sunday, . . . $5.20 a Year

Address All Orders to

THE A. S. ABELL COMPANY
BALTIMORE, MARYLAND

THE COURIER

Published Every Saturday, at Salisbury,
Wicomico County, Maryland.
OFFICE OF PUBLICATION 1001 POST OFFICE, MAIN STREET.

Entered Salisbury (Md.) Post Office as Second-Class Matter.

ELMER H. WALTON,
Editor, Proprietor and Publisher.

CLARENCE A. WHITE,
Associate Editor and Manager.

SUBSCRIPTION (Per Year) $1.00
(Six Months) .50

Advertising Rates Furnished on Application.
Telephone No. 152.

The date on the label of your paper shows the date to which your subscription is paid, and is a receipt for an amount paid. See that it is correct.

SATURDAY, MAY 28, 1910

The Fourth of July And Its Many Dangers.

As the Fourth of July approaches plans are being formulated for the fitting observance of the holiday in this locality and it is probable, as is usually the case, that the observance will be accompanied by the noise and clamor which, in some unknown manner, has become the chief means of celebration. It is true that the setting off of fireworks is a source of delight to the children, and even to a large number of grown people, but the danger of such methods of celebration is also an established fact.

Instead of impressing the minds of our children with the great importance of the day in history, we are prone to create in the undeveloped mind the idea of nothing but the boisterous. The constant firing of cannon, the deafening reports of huge fire-crackers, the setting off of dangerous fireworks does not in any manner recall to the child's mind the signing of the Declaration of Independence. It bears no resemblance to the Fourth of July, seventeen hundred and seventy-six. That was a day of serious moment. It was the turning point in the progress of events. It marked the beginning of a new nation. The Fourth of July—Independence Day—has been set aside by the United States Government as a holiday on which to commemorate the first great day in American history and should be celebrated only as such.

To learn of the dangers of the present day methods of celebration one has but to read the daily papers on the fifth of July. Each issue always reports a long list of deaths and accidents resulting from the use of powerful explosives. We need not comment here upon this danger. The truth is too well known.

In all of the larger cities and in many of the smaller ones the sale of explosives is prohibited and there is no reason why, in a like manner, the danger should not be lessened in Salisbury; or if there is such an ordinance in existence it should be enforced. If there is no such ordinance there is still time for the city authorities to take action.

The elimination of the dangers accompanying the celebration of the Fourth of July would undoubtedly meet with the approval of the people of Salisbury generally and the Mayor and Council would do well to pass such an ordinance.

Editorial Jottings.

And now for a sane Fourth!

The barons of the Sugar Trust now realize what it means to take a little of the bitter with the sweet.

When politics don't count, it is hard to find men to accept even a really big job as evidenced by the number of refusals on the part of well known men who have been tendered places on the Public Utilities Board.

These improvements on Broad street are right in line with suggestions which have often been made in these columns.

Francis H. Green, Ph. D., of West Chester High School, who delivered the annual address to the graduates at the commencement exercises Wednesday night, gave out some most excellent advice. He implored the graduates to add to their fund of knowledge, subtract from their vices, multiply their virtues and divide their blessings and time with others. Not only the graduates but all of us would do well to follow this advice.

The Making of Lenses.

The essential part of any device for the study of the starry millions—the suns, planets, comets and the nebulae that are perhaps new worlds in the making—is the lens or the optical train that consists of a series of lenses. It is this that makes the modern science of astronomy possible. There is absolutely no other human occupation that requires the accuracy of observation and the delicacy of touch that are requisite for the making of the finest lenses. These are the most perfect products of human hands. It may convey some idea of the labor required in the making of a large lens to say that at least one year's time is required for the grinding and polishing of a thirty inch object glass. A little lens two inches in diameter requires the unremitting care and attention of a skilled workman for two or three days. It is easy, then, to see why it is that even lenses of high class photographic work are costly. A forty inch object glass for a large telescope cannot be made in much less than four years' time, and if everything does not go just right it may require much longer than that.—Kansas City Star.

Mansfield's Coaching.

"Richard Mansfield," said an actress who played in his company, "was a great teacher, but terribly relentless. I shall never forget a time when I was playing with him in 'The First Violin.' I could not, strive frantically as I would, do the thing he wanted. He was gentle at first, and then, persisting in my failure, he began to lash and whip and sting me with his words until I thought I should have to run away. In agony of impotent desperation I cried out:

"I cannot! Oh, I cannot!"
"Mr. Mansfield threw up his hands in a gesture of relief, and a smile played about his lips.
"Why," he said sweetly, "you're doing the very thing right now. No one on earth could do it better. And then I know what he meant, and those times were a triumph to me all that season."
—Detroit Free Press.

Walking.

The Almighty has not freighted the foot with a single superfluous part. Every inch of every foot is meant for use. When a man walks in the right way, speaking literally, the back of the heel strikes the ground first. Then the rest of the heel comes down, after which the outer edge of the foot takes the bulk of the burden until the forward movement shifts the weight to the ball of the foot and finally to the toes. The ideal step is a slightly rocking motion. At no time should the entire foot be pressed against the ground. Heel to toe is the movement. Try it and see how much farther and more easily you can walk. It's the Indian's way, and what poor Lo doesn't know about footwork can go into the discard.
—New York Press.

A Lesson With His Autograph.

An admirer once wrote to Lowell describing his autograph collection and concluding with the remark: "I would be much obliged for your autograph." The reply came, bearing with it a lesson on the correct use of the words "would" and "should," which deeply impressed itself on the mind of the recipient. The response read:
"Pray, do not say hereafter, 'I would be obliged.' If you would be obliged, be obliged and have done with it. Say, 'I should be obliged,' and oblige yours truly."
JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

A Remodeled Text.

"Perhaps you could preach a sermon about the condition of things in our town," says the resident pastor to the visiting one. "Saloons, gambling houses and the like run wide open all the time, and the officers pay no attention to them."
"Yes," agrees the visitor. "I might take as my text, 'There's no arrest for the wicked.'" —Judge.

Grace Before Meat.

The Zulu admires a woman according to her weight. The Zulu can respect a 200 pound woman, but it is only a 300 or 400 pound one that he can really love. We enlightened persons, on the other hand, have been taught to like grace before meat.—Exchange.

Made a Noise.

"He didn't win the prize in the life race, did he?"
"No, but he hollered like he had it, and some people died envious of him."
—Atlanta Constitution.

Armed For Peace.

Wife—Will your disarmament meeting finish late? Husband—Yes, about midnight, I expect. But don't be nervous. I shall have my revolver.—Bon Vivant.

J. T. TAYLOR, Jr.

Largest Carriage,
Wagon and Harness Dealer in the State of Maryland

I Guarantee to give you more for Money than any Dealer in the United States I haven't any opposition, I am in a class to myself. I buy direct from manufacturers, no middle men to help keep up.

Our Wrenn Buggies are $20.00 less than any other make same quality. Now have 75 Doctors using them. Several carloads in stock to select from.

I have 150 Runabouts in Stock, rubber tires, high arch axles, drop axles, straight axles, low wheels and high wheels, prices from $30 up.

You can find 30 Surries in our stock. I have the lightest manufactured in the United States and the prices are cheap. You can save enough to buy you a suit of good clothes on each purchase.

I have nearly 5 carloads of Farm and Duplex Berry Wagons in stock.

"Yes, there are others as good, but they are $10.00 to $20.00 higher in price. I am general agent for Auburn Wagons, also Columbia."

Did you say harness? Yes, I have a carload, prices from $4.50 a set up. Speed Sulkeys, rubber tires at $50.00.

I have had a grand rush this spring, we are selling more goods than ever before. Don't be deceived by others who try to imitate, come see for yourself, seeing is believing.

J. T. TAYLOR, Jr.

Largest, Cheapest,
Squ arst Carriage
Dealer in Maryland

Princess Anne, Md.

For Sale.

Seven-room house and lot in Maryland. Apply to

M. W. BOUNDS,
Salisbury, Md.

The Ancient Greeks

Realized that beauty of living came only with beautiful surroundings. They made their public buildings marvels of beauty.

Today, beautiful wall-papers at moderate cost, have brought true art within reach of the most modest pocket-books.

My business is to suggest and carry out original and individual decorations to suit anybody's requirements as to price and environment.

John Nelson

The Paint Shop
Phone 191

FOR SALE

SMALL FARMS—BIG FARMS

We are the exclusive agent to sell the eight Phillips Farms, located on a fine shell road, one mile from shipping point, two miles from heart of Salisbury. The dollars talk with us. We shall sell these farms and other property placed with us at once. Come and let us show you these farms, which are well set in clover and wheat.

J. A. JONE & CO.,
REAL ESTATE BROKERS
SALISBURY, MD.

When the Fire Alarm Sounds

there is a world of comfort in the thought that your house is insured in a good company. Purchase this comfort today by placing your insurance in our agency.

Wm. M. Cooper & Bro.
112 North Division Street,
Salisbury, Md.

PRINTING
CALCULATING AND GENERAL HOUSE WORK

Charges Reasonable
Prompt Service
Estimates Furnished

THEO. W. DAVIS
SALISBURY, MD.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor

Invites you to call and inspect the largest and cheapest line of

MILLINERY

in the city. We receive new goods every week. The very latest things in new shapes, ribbons and flowers.

A full line of baby caps, bonnets and euchings. A beautiful selection of chiffon and net veiling. "We do" special designing.

Mrs. G. W. Taylor

216 Main Street

Phone 425
Store closes at 6 p. m.
Saturdays 11 p. m.

LOWENTHAL'S

THE UP-TO-DATE STORE

Mid-Summer Sale
Of Silks

This week we will have a Special Sale of Colored Black and White Silks in plain and figured, less than half the original price. This is no odds and ends sale, but all new goods, bought at prices especially for this sale.

Plain all colors with dot..... 29c worth 40c
Fancy designs on colored ground..... 35c worth 50c
Fancy designs on colored ground..... 39c worth 60c
Brocade Silk Tussorah, at..... 48c worth 60c
Foulard Silk in all colors from..... 50c worth $1.00

EMBROIDERIES AND LACES

A full line of Flouncings from 22 to 30 in. wide for Robe dresses.
Ladies' Suits all reduced.
Shirt waists, with new Dutch Neck.
New line of Lawns and Linen Suitings, all new Summer Goods.

SUMMER MILLINERY

New styles in Hats, all the latest shapes, and up-to-date Flowers and Trimmings

Be Sure To Visit This Store

LOWENTHAL'S

The Up-to-date Merchant of Salisbury, Md.

WE carry the best line of Refrigerators and Oil Stoves made. Call or send for catalogue.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Dorman & Smyth Hdw. Co.

T. H. Mitchell

General Contractor and Builder

Anything from a Pig Pen
to a Mansion

Also Lots For Sale, Desirable Location
Ask For Plot and Description

Our Telephone
is 33

Call MITCHELL

Exclusive Designs in

Ladies' Hats and Trimmings

KENT & SMITH

Main Street.

Salisbury, Md.

SALISBURY HOUSE

MRS. WILSON FIGGS, Proprietor

Board by the Day, Week or Month
Reasonable Rates

Opposite Ulman's Grand Opera House
SALISBURY, MD.

THE COURIER.

Town Topics.

—Advertise in THE COURIER.

—The first honors of the graduating class of the White Haven school were awarded to Miss Arishia Wingate.

—FOR SALE: Flat bottom row boat in excellent condition. Will sell cheap. Apply to or 209 N. Division street.

—Elder Dr. Ward will preach at the O. S. Baptist Meeting house in this city Saturday and Sunday next at the usual hours.

—Rev. B. G. Parker will speak in the Presbyterian Church at Mardela on Sunday at 3:30 p. m., on the subject, "Cleanings from the Fields of Genesis."

—Please look at the label on your paper. It shows the date to which your subscription is paid. You probably owe something and THE COURIER needs the money.

—Rev. W. H. Darbie will have service in the Presbyterian church at Mardela next Sunday morning at 10:30. Service at Spring Hill at 3 p. m. Service at Quantico at 8 p. m.

—With the wheat fields showing the effects of a favorable season, the outlook for this crop in this county is for a magnificent yield. The acreage of wheat in this county is increasing each year.

—Broad street is being improved by the laying of concrete curbing and gutters. The work is being done by Contractor W. A. Crew. Newton street and William street are to be improved in a similar manner.

—Star gazing has been the popular thing in Salisbury for the past two weeks but few people were gratified by a glimpse of Halley's comet on Monday evening there was a total eclipse of the moon which was visible to all observers.

—Senator John Walter Smith, who has been at Atlantic City recuperating from a recent illness, has recovered sufficiently to return to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Foster, in Baltimore. He left the New Jersey resort Wednesday.

—The little boys and girls in Miss Mary Cooper Smith's class held their closing exercises at the home for the Aged Friday afternoon. Through the kindness of Mr. Wimbrow the school was taken out in wagons and the little folks afterward enjoyed a strawride.

—The members of the local fire department desire to thank all those who contributed to and patronized their bazaar last week. The proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of the members who will attend the annual convention of the State Firemen's Association.

—Mr. John White, son of Hon. King V. White, and brother of Mr. Homer White, of this city, died at his home in Powellville last week. He was about 25 years old and had been a sufferer from early childhood. Funeral services were held at Powellville Friday afternoon, interment in the family burying ground.

—Mr. Sidney Pusey lost about forty young chicks by being stung to death by a swarm of bees which had been released from their hives and which swarmed near where the chicks were feeding. As soon as they spied the bees they went for them, with the result that all of the flock were stung to death.

—Mr. W. F. Allen has this year planted a larger acreage in melons, cantaloupes and cucumbers than ever before and is looking for heavy shipments. Last Monday, in conversation with Mr. J. D. King, of the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad, Mr. Allen stated that if the weather conditions are favorable he will ship 200 car loads of water-melons, 50 carloads of cantaloupes and 30 carloads of cucumbers.

—Nearly every cottage and hotel owner at Ocean City is painting or remodeling his property and large forces of men are engaged in cleaning up the city in preparation of the coming season. A splendid season is anticipated and the railroad companies will leave nothing undone to bring people to the beach. A schedule, similar to the one operated last year will go into effect on the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway about the middle of June.

—A class of seventeen was graduated from the Wilcomico High School on Wednesday evening. The exercises were held in the opera house and a splendid program was rendered. Francis H. Green, Ph. D. of West Chester High School delivered the annual address to the graduates and that his effort was highly appreciated was evidenced by the applause he received. The arrangements this year were in charge of Prof. Dye, principal of the High School.

—Dr. and Mrs. H. Laird Todd celebrated their 38th wedding anniversary Friday evening last at their home on Park Street. Dr. and Mrs. Todd are probably the oldest married couple in Wilcomico County, having lived together as man and wife for 38 years. Those present at the family dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Todd, Doctor and Mrs. George W. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Todd, and Doctor and Mrs. C. C. Selover, of Cambridge, Md.

—The regular services will be held at the Wilcomico Presbyterian Church tomorrow and Rev. Mr. Beale will preach both morning and evening.

—The manual training department of the Wilcomico High School has a most creditable exhibition on Tuesday and Wednesday, which was viewed and enjoyed by many.

—Following are the subjects of the sermons to be preached by Rev. Hewitt, at the Division St. Baptist Church tomorrow: Morning—"The Supremacy of Humanity". Evening—"On Guard".

—Mr. George H. Ward, who died on May 24th at his home near Waung, aged 81 years, was buried Thursday afternoon in the old family burying ground after funeral services at his late home.

—The members and friends of Washington M. E. Sunday School, will hold a picnic and basket supper in the grove at Shad Point on the afternoon and evening of June 15. Proceeds to be used in purchasing library for School.

—Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church services during Sunday as follows: Class meeting, 9:30 a. m.; Preaching by the pastor, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.; Sunday School, 2:30 p. m.; Mr. E. E. Twilley, leader. Mid-week prayer meeting Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

—Dr. Albert A. Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Parker, formerly of Salisbury, has decided to locate in Pocomoke City for the practice of his profession and is home now for that purpose. Dr. Parker is a graduate of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, of Baltimore, and after his graduation had a year's experience at practice in Baltimore.

—At Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Graham, will preach a sermon by request, to the Junior Order of American Mechanics on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. In the evening at 8 o'clock the Annual Children's Day exercises will be held. Songs and recitations by the children of the Sunday School. Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m. Mid-week service Wednesday evening in the lecture room at 8 o'clock.

—Dr. C. C. Billingsale, assistant Surgeon of the United States Army, and family are visiting Mrs. Billingsale's parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Graham, at the Methodist Protestant parsonage on Division St. They have recently returned to the States after a term of service in Manila, Philippine Islands. The Doctor has been granted a furlough of three months, one month of which they spent traveling in Japan. When the leave of absence has expired their post of duty will be the Presidio, San Francisco, California.

—Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith made a very clever capture of a colored thief Monday last at Greenwood, Del. Saturday night last Charles Williams, colored, who had been working for Mr. Leroy Wimbrow, left Salisbury with a suit of clothes, and an entire new outfit of underwear belonging to Wm. Ernest Byrd, who works at the Wimbrow stables. The Deputy Sheriff received word that Williams had gone to Greenwood, Del., and he went up Monday afternoon and captured the negro on the streets, bringing him here on the night train and locking him up to await the action of the Grand Jury.

—The entertainment given by the Traveller's Club, the crack female social organization of this city, at the home of Misses Houston, was unique and was a very enjoyable occasion. Some of the characters costumed to represent well-known advertisements of foreign goods sold in America, were exceedingly clever, and the character sketches given by several of the members were very fetching. During the evening the "Burglar Alarm" was rendered by the members of the Club, assisted by the husbands, and furnished amusement to the audience. The Club meetings will be called off for the summer to be resumed next fall.

Advertised Letters.

Letters addressed to the following parties remain uncalled for at the Salisbury Post Office and will be sent to the Dead Letter Office two weeks from today. When inquiring please state that these letters have been advertised:

Mrs. Emma Andrews, Mrs. J. C. Carey, Mr. Geo. R. Collins, Mr. C. W. Cordye, Mrs. E. S. Devoe, Mr. John B. Deabell, Miss Givley Holton, Catharine Hodgkins, Miss Birtie M. Hearn, Mr. John Hartman, Lee C. Johnson, Mr. Charles L. Jones, Mr. Isaac H. Joseph, Mr. J. F. Leonard, Mr. Maybrow Miller, Mr. Arlie Moore, George L. Moore, Mr. M. B. Obendorfer, Mr. H. L. Phillips, Mr. Joseph L. Rhoder, W. R. Riggs, Mrs. Farnell Shookley, Mr. W. R. Sweeney, Mr. John Twilley, Mrs. Ella Wilkerson.

Business Locals.

—60c and 75c Linoleum can be bought at Ulman Sons for 40c per yard.
—Cres Rugs as low as 35c at Ulman Sons.
—Japanese Matting Rugs 9x12 for $3. at Ulman Sons.
—Porch Screens as low as $1.00 at Ulman Sons.
—The prettiest line of Hammocks in Salisbury can be seen at Ulman Sons.

THE VERY LATEST

A superb new book of Needlework for dress decoration and fancy work of all kinds.

"Butterick Designs for Embroidery, Braiding, Etc."

contains suggestions for using and illustrations of hundreds of

Butterick Transfer Patterns

And there is a

Butterick Transfer Pattern

for every new hand-wrought trimming used in fashioning the smart wearing apparel now in vogue, as well as for decorating household linens, home appointments and fancy articles.

With each book are two Transfer Designs (a Dutch Collar and a Shirt-Waist) worth 20 cents.

ALL FOR TEN CENTS

AT OUR BUTTERICK PATTERN DEPARTMENT

R. E. Powell & Co.

Different—
Yet Dignified!

Society
Brand Clothes

Hello Boys! Did you see Nock Brothers exhibit of Society Brand Clothes. What! All Trousers have permanent crease. That's a cinch. So long.

Society Brand Clothes

For Mine!

FOR SALE AT

Nock Brothers

Main St., On the Corner E. Church St. Dock St.
Salisbury, Maryland.

THE PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT TEACH

Our Graduates are earning Good Salaries. Write and we will tell you What we can do for You.

Begin your course now. Both Schools are in Session all summer. Send for catalog. Address either school.

THE SUCCESSFUL SCHOOL

Wilmington Business School
Du Pont Building, Wilmington

Salisbury College of Business
Masonic Temple, Salisbury

Advertise in The Courier!

Y R U

Suffering with Backache, Kidney Trouble, Bladder Irritation, Lumbago, Bright's Disease, Suppression of Urine Gravel, Scalding Urine or Urinary Troubles when

U O 2 B WELL

Use Toulson's Kidney Pills. Price 50 Cents

Mail orders will receive prompt and careful attention.

JOHN M. TOULSON
Druggist
SALISBURY, MARYLAND

It Is Awful, But True

Two Hundred and Fifty Millions of Dollars worth of Property was destroyed by fire in the United States during 1908. You may be one of the unfortunate ones during 1909. Come to see us or write us before it is too late.

White & Truitt
Salisbury, Md.

Kuppenheimer Clothes

Every Suit Is Guaranteed

The Thoroughgood Co.

Salisbury, Maryland.

$4.75

Buys a Set of
These Beautiful

SOLID OAK CHAIRS

THESE Chairs are made of solid oak, have a finely woven cane seat and are braced with a stout half arm.

Ulman Sons
SALISBURY, MD.

Our Showing of New Greys
and Blues are simply great

Kennerly & Mitchell
253-257 MAIN ST.
BIG DOUBLE STORE

ANGEL OF CRIMEA AT NINETY YEARS

Reminiscence of Florence Nightingale, Famous War Nurse.

A VISIT TO HER BEDSIDE.

Like a Pilgrimage to a Holy Shrine, Says Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Her Goddaughter—Great Heroine Favors Suffragism, but With a Peaceful Campaign.

Florence Nightingale, the "angel of the Crimea" and the most famous of the world's living heroines, was ninety years old on May 12, and it was upon this anniversary that the following reminiscence of the great woman's golden aging and the leaning toward suffrage was told recently by Miss Nightingale's goddaughter, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall.

"It was only the briefest visit," said Mrs. Hall at the Hotel Judson, in New York city, "made in 1902 to Miss Nightingale's pretty home in Mayfair, London, where she had lain a bedridden invalid for many years. But to me it has always seemed like a pilgrimage to a holy shrine.

"Strangely enough, you know it was partly upon the advice of my father, Dr. Samuel Howe, that she undertook that great work to the Crimea forty years before.

"Honey-moon on Battlefield. "My mother, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, and my father had just been married in the early forties and were back in England on their honeymoon after visiting the scenes where father had fought and "nursed" in the Crimean war.

"Miss Nightingale, hearing of his presence, came to him and asked if a great work for humanity did not lie in the foundation of such a movement as has since developed into the Red Cross. "I think so, and I think it is a woman's place to lead it," said my father, and two years later Miss Nightingale was away at the German hospitals preparing for the events that even she could not then have foreseen.

"Meanwhile she had become firmly attached to my mother, and when some years later I was born she asked that I be given her name. She sent me a beautifully bound volume of Shakespeare as a birth gift, and I think it the most treasured heirloom in our family today.

"Long, long afterward, when her fame had become worldwide in the Crimea and after mother had also won note through the writing of the 'Battle Hymn of the Republic,' Miss Nightingale wrote to send a lock of her hair to mother and to ask that her goddaughter visit her if ever I came to London. And years after that when I finally did get to London I recalled that invitation which I had heard of as a girl and went upon the pilgrimage to Mayfair.

"As I remember now Miss Nightingale was sitting propped in bed facing a window that looked out upon a long vista of pretty cottages, tiny groves and tinsel gardens.

"She was eighty-two then, and even as she lay in bed I could see that before disease wasted her form she must have been a very tall and a very beautiful woman.

"I am very glad to see you, goddaughter, she said, putting forth her hand and smiling sweetly.

"Then she asked after my mother, said she had never heard such an inspiring anthem as 'The Battle Hymn' and wished me to convey her dearest love to my parent, whom she remembered to be just a little more than a year older than herself.

Believes in Suffragism. "I did not press her to tell me of her Crimea experiences, for that was a subject which she had long since put by. But I did discover that she believed in suffragism—not the militant suffragism of the English radicals, but in a peaceful campaign that should go on gathering volume peacefully through the years until it should conquer from the sheer weight of its justness.

"I think we talked together half an hour. Then I said goodby. I left her home with one idea of her that has never faded—her perfect serenity, the serenity of a great woman who has done a great life's work well and is content to await the end."

Prayer at Opening of a Council. Emanuel Wilhelm, newly elected Democratic mayor of Traverse City, Mich., introduced a decided innovation in beginning his administration the other night by calling Rev. B. A. Hill to the platform and having him open Wilhelm's first council meeting with prayer. A record-breaking crowd was present, and all the spectators ceased smoking and in absolute silence listened to the Unitarian minister plead that the city officials be guided by God in their every undertaking. The mayor, in his inaugural address, declared that the most serious duty of the city was to maintain its morality.

HOW THE FLORIDA WAS BUILT

Genesis of Great Battleship Just Launched at Brooklyn.

CAREFUL TO AVOID ERRORS.

After Plans Had Been Drawn on Blackboard and Parchment and Naval Architects Had Made a Wooden Model the Steel Mass Was Riveted Together Plate by Plate.

Most of those who crowded the stands and available points of vantage in the navy yard at Brooklyn and along the East river front to witness the launching of the other day of the battleship Florida, the largest warship in the United States navy, were content, no doubt, with the collective impression and with the emotion inspired by a mass of buoyant steel moving with breathless momentum to the water.

But those who were present on March 9, 1909, to watch the laying of the first keel plate, who had seen the hull grow week by week, and more in their minds than the mere spectacle. The builder of a skyscraper or a locomotive may build it heavier than plans contemplated. No one will know it but the designer, and the earth or the steel will bear the extra weight and never tell. But there may be no such mistake in a vessel. Old seamen are an inexorable inspector and speedily exposes the errors of humankind.

To those, therefore, who had seen the Florida grow the launching had added significance, and that others may follow their thoughts the genesis of the Florida and the manner of her building are here set forth in a general way. In the first place, then, Naval Constructor Baxter, with the instructions from the navy department in hand, sat down to work out a general scheme involving the features demanded. This scheme outlined the type, functions and characteristics of the Dreadnought. The cardinal points which the constructor held in mind may be enumerated as follows: Structural and defensive strength, speed, steaming radius and offensive power.

Plans of the Architects. Having worked out his scheme, the constructor turned it over to his naval architects, who began the work of drafting plans, tentative in their nature, showing in the main what the materials were to be and the way in which they were to be put together.

This was a task of six or seven months. When completed the naval constructor's force began upon their detailed plans and specifications. The work of actual construction began with "laying down the lines" in the big boiler molding loft at the navy yard. This loft has a blackboard floor, upon which the architects drew the shape of the entire hull and then proceeded to draw sections within the outlined hull. Of course all sectional calculations must be perfect, or otherwise the completed vessel might show discrepancies in construction sufficient to render her useless.

Sections of the hull drawing were sent from the molding loft to the drafting room, where draftsmen transferred the lines to parchment, on a greatly reduced scale, of course. A wooden model of one side of the battleship was made from these lines, and on the model the different strakes of plating were marked. The armor belt plating was also indicated, and sizes of each plate were marked. From this model the actual dimensions of each frame and plate were determined, and the results, in the form of orders, were sent to the steel workers for casting. The plates and frames were cast and forged in the order in which they were to go on the ship.

Keel Plates First.

The first plates to come from the foundry therefore were the keel plates. Keels of modern vessels do not consist of long bars of steel. Keels are built up of plates riveted together. With the keel plates all laid the work of riveting the frames, or the ribs, as they are popularly called, began. Each frame had been shaped at the foundry for the exact place it was to occupy in the hull. The frames were placed in position by huge traveling cranes, of which there were two in the work on the Florida. They towered as high as skyscrapers, way above the top of the red hull, idle today, their work all done.

With the frames in place, the cranes, traveling up and down on their steel rails, bore the great plates to places designated, where the riveters, with their powerful hammers, fastened them in their appointed places. While the work of plating was in progress ironworkers were busy inside the airy frames riveting the beams in place. These beams, to use a land term, were merely deck rafters. Ironworkers also were busy building up the steel girders for the various compartments and working the longitudinal girders—the backbones of the vessel—into the hull on each side of the keel.

When all this work was completed decks were laid, the bulkheads and casing finished, rudder and propellers were put in place, lighting and ventilating plans carried out, and the Florida was ready for her maiden plunge. In all a work involving about a year and a half, which is a creditable record for Naval Constructor Baxter and his assistants.

The Courier
Telephone 152

OUR job department is equipped with every modern convenience to produce high class printing

WE originate tasty designs for stationery that pleases the eye and commands attention wherever it goes.

HURRY-UP printing is our specialty. We have the best machinery and thoroughly experienced work. We are in a position to handle any class of work no matter how large or how small.

IS your printed matter up to the standard—if not give us a trial. We cater to the most fastidious and a trial will reveal to the most critical eye that our work excels in workmanship and QUALITY.

The Courier
Telephone 152

RELIEVE Neuralgia

TAKE ONE OF THESE LITTLE TABLETS AND THE PAIN IS GONE.

"I have awful spells of Neuralgia and have doctored a great deal without getting much benefit. For the last two years I have been taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they always relieve me. I have been so bad with Neuralgia that I sometimes thought I would go crazy. Sometimes it is necessary to take two of them, but never more, and they are sure to relieve me." MRS. FERRIER, 2434 Lynn St., Lincoln, Neb.

Sold by druggists everywhere, who are authorized to return price of first package if they fail to benefit. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Many farmers would like to keep an account of their receipts and expenses if some one would keep it for them. Open a bank account and you will find the account keeps itself, without expense. Your checks are always evidence of date and the amount paid, and your deposit book shows the amount of your receipts. It is not required that a person have a large bulk of business in order to open an account. If you have never done business in this way, and are not familiar with this plan, come to us and we will get you started.

The Farmers & Merchants Bank, Salisbury, Maryland.

Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Ry. Co.

RAILWAY DIVISION

Schedule effective Monday, Apr. 11, 1910

East Bound West Bound

11:10 PM Baltimore Ar. 1:20 PM

11:35 PM Baltimore Ar. 1:45 PM

12:05 PM Baltimore Ar. 2:15 PM

12:30 PM Baltimore Ar. 2:40 PM

1:00 PM Baltimore Ar. 3:10 PM

1:25 PM Baltimore Ar. 3:35 PM

1:55 PM Baltimore Ar. 4:05 PM

2:20 PM Baltimore Ar. 4:30 PM

2:45 PM Baltimore Ar. 4:55 PM

3:15 PM Baltimore Ar. 5:25 PM

3:40 PM Baltimore Ar. 5:50 PM

4:10 PM Baltimore Ar. 6:20 PM

4:35 PM Baltimore Ar. 6:45 PM

5:05 PM Baltimore Ar. 7:15 PM

5:30 PM Baltimore Ar. 7:40 PM

6:00 PM Baltimore Ar. 8:10 PM

6:25 PM Baltimore Ar. 8:35 PM

6:55 PM Baltimore Ar. 9:05 PM

7:20 PM Baltimore Ar. 9:30 PM

7:45 PM Baltimore Ar. 9:55 PM

8:15 PM Baltimore Ar. 10:25 PM

8:40 PM Baltimore Ar. 10:50 PM

9:10 PM Baltimore Ar. 11:20 PM

9:35 PM Baltimore Ar. 11:45 PM

10:05 PM Baltimore Ar. 12:15 PM

10:30 PM Baltimore Ar. 12:40 PM

11:00 PM Baltimore Ar. 1:10 PM

11:25 PM Baltimore Ar. 1:35 PM

11:55 PM Baltimore Ar. 2:05 PM

Holloway & Company

S. J. R. HOLLOWAY, Manager

Furnishing Undertakers and Practical Embalmers.

Full stock of Robes, Wraps, Caskets and Coffins on hand. Funeral work will receive prompt attention.

South Division Street, Salisbury, Md.

PHONE 154.

WATER STREET, Salisbury, Md.

Phone No. 21.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury, Md.

Office Hours:—9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Others by appointment.

HAROLD N. FITCH,

EYE SPECIALIST,

129 Main St., Salisbury, Md.

Phones 397 and 396.

Salisbury Machine Works and Foundry

Engines, Boilers, Saw Mills,

Threshers, Pulleys, Shafting,

Belting, Etc. Repairing a specialty.

R. D. GRIER, Salisbury, Md.

Salisbury Building & Loan and Banking Association

ASSOCIATION

This Association has two separate and distinct departments: "The Building & Loan Department" and "The Banking Department."

The Building & Loan Department, with its paid-up capital stock of $124,500.00, makes loans secured by mortgages, to be paid back in weekly installments of 25c, 40c, 50c, $1.00 or $2.00 per week, to suit borrower, and has been doing a popular and successful business since 1897.

The Banking Department was added in 1902 under authority granted by the General Assembly of Maryland of that year; to wit: $25,000.00 of the Association's capital stock for banking purposes, received money on deposits, makes loans on commercial paper, enters into such business transactions as a conservative bank ordinarily does, and earnestly solicits the patronage of its friends and the general public. Open an account with us, no harm can possibly result.

L. W. GURLEY, President. THOS. H. WILLIAMS, Secretary.

Sit Up And Listen To Some Questions Asked Farmer Jones

Have you any farms for sale, and what kind?

Yes, we have large and small Stock Farms, and large and small Truck Farms, and a full selection of Water Front homes, sizes 20 to 100 acres.

Are they productive?

Yes, the Truck Farms will net you clear of all expenses, $125 to $200 per acre; and the Stock Farms 20 to 30 bushels of wheat per acre, ½ to 2 tons of hay per acre, and 40 to 60 bushels of shelled corn per acre.

Where are the farms located?

On the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Delaware and Virginia.

Do you sell them?

Yes, this firm has recently sold 18 of them, 2000 acres for $32,000. Do you want one? If so, apply

J. A. Jones & Company

Real Estate Brokers

Dela., Md., and Virginia Farm Lands a Specialty

120 Main St., Salisbury, Md.

"Eastern Shore's Favorite" Hotel New Belmont Hotel

For Free Post Card Address Ocean End Virginia Ave.

W. J. Varrington Atlantic City, N. J.

Summer Rates: $2.50 and up daily $12.50 up weekly

Spring and Winter Rates: $10 and up weekly $2 and up daily

Excellent Table Service

Brick, Fireproof, Steam Heat, Sun Parlors

Long Distance Telephones in Bed Rooms

Elevator to Street Level

How About the Coal Question?

Better fill your Bin now, while the price is lowest, and save money. We make a specialty of summer orders and we can assure you satisfaction.

BEST STOVE WOOD ALWAYS ON HAND

R. G. Evans & Son

Main Street, Below Pivot Bridge

PHONE NO. 364.

DR. ANNIE F. COLLEY,
DENTIST,
No. 200 N. Division St.,
Salisbury, Md.

Professional Cards

BAILEY, JOSEPH L.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in "News" Building.

BENNETT, L. ATWOOD,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in Telephone Building, head Main St.

DOUGLASS, SAMUEL H.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office Corner of Division and Water St.

ELLEGOOD, FRENNY & WALKER,
Attorneys-at-Law,
Office first floor Masonic Temple.

FITCH, N. T.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in "News" Building.

GOSLEE, F. GRANT,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in "News" Building.

JACKSON, ALEXANDER M.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in Telephone Building, Division St.

LILLY, GEORGE W.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Room 18, News Building, Salisbury, Md.

TOADVIN & BELL,
Attorneys-at-Law,
Offices in Jackson Building, Main Street.

WALLER, GEO. W. D.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office adjoining "Advertiser" Building.

WALTON, KLMER H.,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in "Courier" Building, Main Street.

WILLIAMS, JAY,
Attorney-at-Law,
Office in Williams Building, Division St.

Foley's Orino Laxative

For Stomach Trouble, Sluggish Liver and Habitual Constipation.

It cures by aiding all of the digestive organs—gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels—the only way that chronic constipation can be cured. Especially recommended for women and children. Clears blotched complexions. Pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes.

For Sale By
JOHN M. TOULSON,

Building Lot For Sale

Camden Avenue, Extended. 128 ft. front; 1040 ft. deep; 3 1/2 acres. Apply to

A. H. Hardesty
Dover, Delaware.

FOR SALE!

Valuable City Property
1 LOT AND DWELLING
22 VACANT LOTS

Will sell as a whole or separately to suit purchaser.

Apply, COURIER OFFICE

A COMPLETE LIBRARY In One Volume.

Will tell you something about everything and everything about a great many things; the army and navy, population of countries, States and cities, the new tariff the 1910 census, progress of Panama Canal work, census of Cuba, propositions of trusts, party platforms of 1910, the list of prices of principal commodities, aerial navigation in 1909, Polar exploration in 1909—discovery of the North Pole, growth of the United States, Sixty-first Congress about war, sporting events, weights and measures, universities and colleges, religious orders in the United States, debts of nations, weather forecasts, fatality tables, commerce, taxes, money, banking, insurance, secret societies, prohibition movement in 1909, report of national commission on country life and conservation of natural resources and 10,000 Other Facts & Figures and everyday interest to everybody. No merchant, farmer, laborer, business man, housewife, school boy or girl should be without a copy of this greatest compendium of useful information ever set in type. On sale everywhere, 25c. (west of Buffalo and Pittsburg, 30c). By mail, 35c. Address: Press Publishing Co., Polk Building, New York City.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM
Gives a luxuriant growth. Restores hair to its natural color. Cleans scalp and keeps it cool. Sells at 15c a bottle.

...If Going To...

Washington, D. C.

Write for handsome descriptive booklet and map

HOTEL RICHMOND

17th and H Streets, N. W.

Around the corner from the White House. Direct street car route to palatial Union Station. 100 rooms. 50 Baths.

European, $1.50 per day upward; with Bath $2.50 upward; each additional person 50c.

American, $3.00 per day upward; with Bath $4.00 upward.

Club breakfast 20 to 75c. Table d'Hote breakfast $1.00. Luncheon 50c and Dinner $1.00. Restaurant a la carte. Reasonable prices. Music.

A Model Hotel Conducted for Your Comfort

Seeing Washington automobiles leave hotel daily.

CLIFFORD M. LEWIS, Prop.

Summer Season

The American Luzerne in the Adirondack foot hills. Wayside Inn and Cottage on the beautiful Lake Luzerne, Warren Co., N. Y. Open June 28th. to October 1st. Booklet.

FAIRFIELD BLOOD TONIC

THE SCIENTIFIC CONDITION POWDERS that restores to Hay, Grain and Fodder the nutritive elements driven from them in the drying process.

A Separate Preparation For Each Kind Of Animal

Blood Tonic for Horses Only
Milk Producer for Cattle Only
Egg Producer for Poultry Only
Blood Tonic for Hogs Only

Each Tonic is specially prepared for the kind of animal for which it is intended and contains the medicinal roots and herbs that act most beneficial upon that kind of animal's peculiar digestive organism.

These Tonics purify the blood by perfecting digestion and neutralizing the poisons in the system. They prevent and cure disease, make feed go further and increase vitality and production.

Sold Under Written Guarantee By FARMERS & PLANTERS CO., Salisbury R. H. LOWE, Delmar.
E. R. ENNIS & CO., Parsonsburg W. S. DISHARON, Quantico

FOR SALE

Canning Factory

Equipped with all modern conveniences and machinery for canning Tomatoes and Peas. In first-class condition in every respect. Located on River farm about 1 1/2 to 2 miles from town. Will sell factory alone or with necessary ground as desired by purchaser.

APPLY TO

WM. H. JACKSON.

WANTED

TO BUY, FOR CASH,

50 Leghorn Chickens

State age, price and fully particulars.

Address, LOCK BOX 278, SALISBURY, MD.

Money To Loan

In sums ranging from $500.00 to $5000.00 on First Mortgage Real Estate.

APPLY TO
L. ATWOOD BENNETT
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
SALISBURY, MD.

GREEN HOUSE

Permanent and Transient

BOARDERS

MRS. T. J. GREEN, Prop.
410 Hanover Street, Baltimore

MR. BOWSER'S JUG.

A Gallon of Spring Tonic Warranted to Restore Youth.

SIGHTS AFTER THE DRINKS.

Several Mrs. Bowsers Appear Before Him—One Cat Becomes Four, and the Gas Jets Increase—Runs Wild and Awakes in a Field.

By M. QUAD.
(Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.)

THE Bowsers had settled down for the evening when there came a ring at the basement bell, and presently the cook came upstairs to say that a boy had made a mistake and left a jug. Mrs. Bowser looked at Mr. Bowser, and after trying to look innocent for a moment he said:

"There is no mistake. The jug was left here for me. It contains a gallon of spring tonic."

"But why should you get a spring tonic?" asked Mrs. Bowser accusingly.

"Why should I get a fall tonic or a summer tonic? I get a spring tonic because spring is here."

"And some great doctor has recommended it to you, I suppose?"

"No, ma'am; some great doctor hasn't done any such thing. I'm doctor enough to know when spring comes everybody should take a tonic to cleanse the blood and get ready for a change of season. I got it partly on your account."

"You needn't have put yourself out. I shall not taste it. What quack charged you $5 for putting it up?"

"Mrs. Bowser, your language is in-temperate, but I shall overlook it for a moment. This tonic was prepared by a farmer from roots and barks. The recipe is over a hundred years old. It was used by his grandfather. He could make $10,000 a year by putting the tonic on the market, but he is no such man. He has made up a gallon for me because when he was in the office one day last fall I gave him some hints on feeding live stock."

A TASTE OF SPRING TONIC.

"Nonsense! You don't know how to feed an old hen! If that tonic makes you deathly sick it will be what you deserve. You have no more need of a tonic than our cat. Why can't you go along as other men do?"

"Are other men Bowsers?" he sternly demanded.

"It is well they are not."

"Mrs. Bowser, listen to me. Don't miss a word I say. I need a spring tonic. I have a spring tonic at hand. I shall proceed to take a spring tonic, and by the seven bulls of Bashan no one shall prevent me. Had you mildly and kindly and gently asked me not to take a spring tonic I think I should have given way, but when you resorted to sarcasm, innuendo and insult I made up my mind that I would absorb spring tonic if it killed me."

"Very well. I have nothing more to say."

Mrs. Bowser Silenced.

"Your eyes are bloodshot; you have a saffron color; there is a pimple on your chin; your blood is impure. My spring tonic would make you look five years younger in a month, but you can't have any of it, not a drop. You may beg of me on your bended knees, but I will turn you out!"

"Thanks!"

"I now go down to take some spring tonic to make a new man of me. If there are three pimples on your chin when I return don't blame me."

The jug sat there on the dining room table, and Mr. Bowser removed the cork and stuck his nose in the place of it. The smell was good. Those roots and bark gave out an odor that made one thirsty. There was a tag on the handle, and written on the tag was:

"To be taken three times a day. Keep in a cool place."

"Three times a day, and I'll begin right now," mused the patient. "It doesn't say how much to take, but that, of course, is left to a man's judgment. My judgment is good. About a tumblerful will do me."

It was taken. It tasted good. That tonic put on a table d'hôte menu and sold for seventy-five cent claret would have been a success. Mr. Bowser sat down and smacked his lips and decided that the farmer knew his business. He was also grateful to the jug for not having leaked any of the contents on the way. It wasn't ten minutes before he began to feel impurities of his blood purifying themselves.

"Three times a day," he said as he read the tag again. "That is for the average person. I'm Bowser. Besides,

I may get up in the morning and forget to take it. A spring tonic at hand is worth two doctors a mile away."

The First Swallow.

He poured out and swallowed the same generous quantity and then placed the jug in the refrigerator and went upstairs. Mrs. Bowser was reading. He picked up the evening paper and began to read about the "meat" crusade and had been at it a quarter of an hour when his sight began to flicker. He looked away and saw two cats on the hearth rug. He looked over and saw two Mrs. Bowsers reading two books. He puzzled for a moment and then got it. It was the impurities of his blood being dissolved and put on the hustle by the spring tonic. The farmer had said that it would cleanse his system in a month. The farmer hadn't figured that he was Bowser. It was going to do it in a week. He rose up and went downstairs to see if he had placed the jug in a cool place. He had. He took it out of the refrigerator to see if it was really a gallon jug. It was. He smelled and tasted. Same joyous spring tonic, made of roots and barks and warranted fresh.

Another tumblerful as evidence of his faith in it. No use taking a week when he could cleanse his system in two days. This time he did not put away the jug. It looked well there on the table. As he started for the stairs he fell against the wall. Any one might have done the same thing. He stumbled on the stairs. Even Napoleon stumbled now and then.

Mrs. Bowser sat in the same place. She had increased. There were two, and a half of her now and the same of the table and books. There were four cats and sixteen gas jets. That tonic was working.

Mr. Bowser started to sit down in his rocking chair. It moved away and he struck the floor. He thought he detected a smile on the two and one-half faces of Mrs. Bowser, but wasn't sure. He got up very carefully, so as not to shake down the walls of the house, and took five minutes to think before he said:

"Think I'll go out for a walk. Think it'll do me good. Think it'll help spring tonic."

Stuff Beats Multiplication Table.

A voice which seemed familiar, but miles and miles away, answered that perhaps it would be a good thing. He looked around for the two and one-half Mrs. Bowsers, and they had become four, and he could count six cats looking at him. He rose up and went down the hall to the bathroom. It seemed to him that kind hands helped him on with his overcoat and clasped his hat on his head. It seemed to him that he rolled down the front steps and that the gate kept dodging him. Later on he found himself at his family drug store, and he recognized that it was his voice saying:

"W-White. I am Bowser, ain't I?"

"Looks like it."

"I meet farmer, don't I?"

"Yes."

"And farmer makes me spring tonic."

"Yes."

"I want Mishis Bowser to take shame what spring tonic, but she won't."

"Bully for her!"

"But I take shame. Helps my blood right away. Makes new man of me. Shays, Mishis White, why don't you sell spring tonic? If you would sell spring tonic I'd buy—buy!"

And then it seemed to him that the druggist called him a jackass and hurt his feelings till he wept and that men took him by the arms and ran him miles and miles and finally left him in a field. When he awoke he was in his bed and it was morning and Mrs. Bowser was saying:

"When I went down half an hour ago to see about breakfast I found your spring tonic jug out in the back yard and broken to pieces. Could the cat have done it?"

But Mr. Bowser didn't answer. His blood was all right, and he had no more use for a tonic.

A Clear Case.

"Little Willie Withers is the brightest and best behaved boy in the neighborhood."

"Allow me to deduce."

"Go ahead."

"You don't know little Willie, and you've recently been chatting with his mother."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Ready Waiter.

"Waiter! Here I've found a hair in my butter!"

"Only one, sir?"

"Certainly, only one!"

"I'll get you some more, sir."

"Horrors! Some more what?"

"Some more butter, sir!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Much More Exciting.

Stranger (in Gotham)—What is it—a dog fight?

Excited Resident (rushing to join frenzied mob down the street)—Dog fight? Great Caesar's ghost! It's a fashionable wedding!—Chicago Tribune.

His Mistake.

"I'm sorry to hear, old man, that your wife left you."

"My mistake. I took her for a mate. She proved to be a skipper!"—Lippincott's.

Not So Bad For Johnny Jones.

Teacher—Johnny Jones, what is an incubator?

Johnny—An orphan asylum for chickens.—St. Louis Star.

Latest Wrinkles.

Biggs—Have you noticed Miss Fluffy's double chin?

Boogs—Yes; that's the latest wrinkle.—Chaparral.

ARTEMUS WARD ON WOMEN

Old sketch of Famous Humorous Plebeian to Present Time.

I PITCHED my tent in a small inn, in January one day last season, while I was standing at the door taking money a deputation of males came up & sed they was members of the Bunkerville Female & Reformatory & Wink's Rite association, and they axed me if they eood go in without payin'.

"Not exactly," sez I, "but you can pay without goin' in."

"Dew you know who we air?" said one of the wimins, a tall and ferocious lookin' critter, with a blew bottom umbrella under her arm—"do you know who we air, sir?"

"My impression is," sez I, "from a kernery view, that you air females."

"We air, sir," said the ferocious woman. "We belong to a society which beleeves wimins has rites, which beleeves in raisin' her to her proper spess, which beleeves she is endowed with as much intellect as man is, which beleeves she is trampled on and aboused & who will resist hensteth & forever the incroachment of proud & domineerin' men."

Durin' her discourse the exsentric female grabbed me by the coat collar & was swingin' her umbrella wildly over my head.

"I hope, marm," sez I, startin' back, "that your intentions is honorable. I'm a lone man here in a strange place. Besides, I've a wife to hum."

"Yes," cried the female, "she's a playe! Both she never dream of freedom? Both she never think of throwin' off the yoke of tyrinny and thinkin' & votin' for herself? Both she never think of these here things?"

"Not bein' a natural born fool," sez I, by this time a little riled, "I kin safely say that she dothunt."

"Oh, what, what?" screamed the female, swingin' her umbrella in the air. "Oh, what is the price that woman pays for her experience?"

"I don't know," sez I. "The price of my show is 15 cents per individual."

"& can't our society go in free?" asked the female.

"Not if I know it," sez I.

"Crooll, crooll man!" she cried & burst into tears.

"Won't you let my darter in?" sed another of the exsentric wimins, talkin' me affeckshunally by the hand. "Oh, please let my darter in. She's a sweet, gushin' child of nature."

"Let her gush!" roared I, as mad as I eood stick at their ternal nonsense—"let her gush!" whereupon they all sprung back with the simultaneous observashun that I was a beast.

"My female friends," sez I, "be4 you leeve I've a few remarks to remark. Wa them well. The female womain is one of the greatest institushuns of which this land can boast. It's impossible to get along without her. Had there been no female wimins in the world I should scarcely be here with my unparalleled show, on this very occasion. She is good in sickness, good in wellness, good all the time. O woman, woman," I cried, my feelins worked up to a high poetick pitch, "you air an angle, when you behave yourself, but when you take off your proper apparel & (mettiorically speakin') get into pantyloons, when you desert your fresses & with your beds full of wimins' rite noshuns, go round like roarin' lions peekin' whom you may devour somebody—in short, when you undertake to play the man you play the devil and air an embafic nonsense. My female friends, I confinned as they were indignantly departin', "we well what A. Ward has sed."

Then He Woke Up.

"That man Howler has a prodigious imagination."

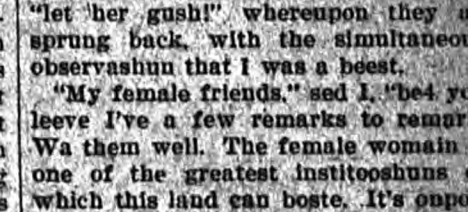

"Not little Howler."

"Yep. He told me he ate a cheese sandwich the other night and then dreamed that Saturn and Jupiter offered him either Mars or Venus."

"Which did he choose?"

"He says he tossed up the comet for the choice—head or tail."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Before Her Makeup.

Papa—That young man of yours comes very frequently.

Daughter—He never comes in the morning.

Papa (getting his laning)—I wish he would. If he could see you at that time he would never come again.

Pop's Way Out.

Miss Newlyrich—Oh, papa, I am as nervous. If some of those great foreign ambassadors speak to me what will I say?

Mr. Newlyrich—I was jest goin' to post you on that, Marier. You find out if you kin if any of 'em keef for pukes. By gum, but I'd like to get a few of 'em in the card room.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

To Any Cottage.

Just why you call your snug retreat by mountain, lake or sea.

The Idlehour or Restawile has often puzzled me.

For names like that called in the front certainly seem queer.

When half your time is spent in changing wood out in the rear.

ROYAL
BAKING-POWDER

Makes the food of maximum quality at minimum cost

COUNTY.

Riverton.

Plenty of rain.

Strawberries are still plentiful but prices are low.

Work was begun on the stone road this week by Mr. Phillips, of Riverton, who has left the work in charge of Mr. Collins, of Berlin. This road extends from the residence of Mr. Jno. Bradley at the "Crossroads" to Sharptown.

Mrs. Nellie Bradley and two children, Elmer and Kenneth, are spending the summer with Mrs. Bradley's mother-in-law, Mrs. Wm. F. Bradley.

Mrs. A. I. Kennerly and Miss Ada are in Salisbury this week attending the Commencement Exercises of the graduating class of the High School, of which Miss Blanche Kennerly is a member.

Miss Myrtle Kennerly, Bertha Cooper, Edna Bradley, Ada Kennerly, Emma Oscar Bradley Holmes Kennerly, Rodney English, Edgar Bradley and Carlton English attended the play "Merchant of Venice" given at Sharptown Saturday evening.

Parsonburg.

The berry business appears to be a little slow this week.

Capped berries are being barreled here daily.

The show is a thing of the past. It is in Pittsville for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Tilghman were blessed with a baby girl last Sunday morning.

Lost—A package containing 3 boxes of cigarettes and 1 box of cigars, between H. S. Todd & Co.'s store, Salisbury and here. Reward if delivered to Eads & Fooks store at Parsonburg.

The Landscape Near Jerusalem. The country about Jerusalem is essentially a vale country. Indeed, I often thought it looked stricken, as if its pallor had come upon it abruptly, had been sent to it as a visitation. I was not sorry that I saw it first under grayness and swept by winds. The grayness, the winds, seemed to me to emphasize its truth, to drive home its reality. And there was something noble in its candor. Even nature can take on an aspect of trickiness at times, or at least a certain coquetry, a delinquency not wholly free from suggestions of artificiality. The landscape in the midst of which Jerusalem lies is dreary, is sad; in stormy weather is almost forbidding. Yet it has a bare frankness that renders it dignified, a large simplicity that is very striking. The frame is sober, the picture within it is amazing, and neither, once seen, can ever be forgotten.—Robert Hichens in Century.

So Foolish.

"She is neglecting her game of bridge dreadfully."

"Why is she doing that?"

"Some silly excuse. Says the children need her. I believe."—Pittsville Post.

An Ancient Custom.

"I wonder if men have always complained about the food their wives prepared for them," said one woman.

"I guess so," replied the other.

"Adam started it."—Washington Star Transcript.

The New Cook.

Wife—This pudding is a sample of the new cook's work. What do you think of it? Huh! I'd call it mediocre.

Wife—No, dear, it's fabulous.—Boston Transcript.

Dashing Into Otago.

"When I was younger," a big Broadway traffic cop remarked, "I used to cuss at everybody who hustled on dashing across the street in front of a car or truck. I cuss the act still, but not the person. Fact is, I've learned that a majority of people just can't help it. An approaching vehicle about to cross their path is like a red rag to a bull. It's a sort of challenge, a dare. And the impulse to defeat its purpose can't be controlled. There isn't much plan of action. It's a case of dash first and think afterward, and sometimes, of course, the thinking is done in a hospital.

"It's a sort of disease of the nerves, I guess, because the head of a business house will do this fool thing just as quick as his errand boy will. But the cop and the driver are to blame whenever there's a miscalculation."—New York Hobbies.

Forsaken In.

Near Harvard square, in Cambridge, stands the old elm under which Washington first took command of the American army. Around this tree is an iron picket fence, a relic of the war, a couple of rods across. One night a man who had imbibed too freely stumbled against this picket fence. Grasping one picket after another, he groped his way painfully round and round the outside of the enclosure about a dozen times. Finally he sank down in utter despair. "Oh, ain't it awful—fearful in and no gate to get out of it!" said he as a party of students rescued him and took him home.—National Monthly.

A Memory of Edwin Booth.

My reason with Edwin Booth was delightful. I found him one of the kindest and pleasantest men of the profession. He also possessed what I consider a great quality—simplicity of manner. Some stars have the idea that it is necessary to be haughty and inaccessible with the members of their companies. They put on airs. They like to crush their fellow actors and pose as a kind of divinity before them.—From Miss Modjeska's "Memoirs" in Century.

A Story of Robespierre.

The story is told of Robespierre that at one time when at the height of his power a lady called upon him, beseeching him to spare her husband's life. He respectfully refused. As she turned away she happened to tread upon the paw of his pet dog. He turned upon her and asked, "Madam have you no humanity?"

On the Safe Side.

"May I see my father's record?" asked the new student. "He was in the class of '77."

"Certainly, my boy. What for?"

"He told me when I left home not to disgrace him, sir, and I wish to see just how far I can go."—Buffalo Express.

The Advantage.

Tenant—Look here, flat house, I took from you an extremely damp. House Agent (shrugging). Well, don't you see the great advantage of that? If it gets on fire it won't burn.

Right and Wrong.

Things should not be done by halves if it is right, do it boldly. If it is wrong leave it undone. Every day is a little life, and our whole life is but a day repeated.

A really great man is known by three signs—generosity in the design, humanity in the execution and moderation in success.—Bismarck.

Tommy's Reason.

"Tommy," the schoolmaster asked, "why are you so late to your head?"

"I was waiting for my head to get where it belongs."—Boston Transcript.

Parolan Jests.
An exceedingly ugly man, says the Persian Joe Miller, was once in the mosque, asking pardon of Allah for his sins and praying to be delivered from the fires of hell. One who overheard his prayers said to him: "Wherefore, O friend, wouldst thou cheat hell of such a countenance? Art thou reluctant to burn up a face like that?"

Another story the Persian Jester tells is that a certain person with a hideous nose was once on a time wooing a woman. Describing himself to her and trying to make an attractive picture, he said: "I am a man devoid of lightness and frivolity, and I am patient in bearing afflictions!"

"Aye," said the woman. "Wert thou not patient in bearing afflictions thou hadst never endured my nose these forty years!"

All of which is more witty than kind.—Harper's.

Bohemians and Wedding Rings.

"Here are two wedding rings that I have just made over," said the Jeweler. "They are for Bohemian women. They lost their own rings, so they had their husbands' rings cut down to fit. That is a custom in their country. Both husband and wife wear wedding rings there. If the man loses his ring he has to buy a new one, but if the woman loses hers she wears her husband's. I do a good deal of that kind of work. Other women who lose wedding rings just buy another one and say nothing about it, but these women are too conscientious for that. Usually I have to make the man's ring smaller, but once in a while it has to be spliced to make it fit. The women are always considerably chagrined over the splicing and offer all kinds of explanations to account for their big fingers."—New York Sun.

The Roulette Ball.

That capricious little ball that decides our fortunes at the ever fascinating game of roulette at Monte Carlo occasionally flies from the skillful croupier's hand, though not often. One afternoon it slipped from its manipulator's fingers and found its way into an Englishman's coat pocket. So impressed was the Englishman that he promptly lost a couple of hundred pounds. But the little ball once found a far stranger destination than that. Escaping from the croupier's hand, it flew straight into the mouth of a German onlooker, and he was so impressed that he promptly swallowed it.—London Bystander.

Tea in Paraguay.

When the natives of Paraguay drink tea they do not pour it from a teapot into a cup, but fill a goblet made out of a pumpkin or gourd and then suck up the hot liquid through a long reed. Moreover, the tea which they use is altogether different from that which comes from China, being made out of dried and roasted leaves of a palm-like plant which grows in Paraguay and southern Brazil. The natives say that this tea is an excellent remedy for fever and rheumatism.

Sparrowgrass.

It is stated that a well known riddle was written by a confectioner. The riddle in question is a charade and runs as follows:

My mate's a little bird as you see,
My second's needed in my crop;
My 'ole is good with nutmeg chop.

The answer, of course, is "sparrowgrass," which the learned Dr. Parr always insisted on using in preference to the politer "asparagus."—London Notes and Queries.

A Real Poet.

"Poetry," said the literary girl, "is the art of expressing intense feeling in figurative speech."

"In that case," replied Miss Cayenne, "the man who writes baseball news is sure a poet."—Washington Star.

She Wanted to Know.

Bridegroom—Now that we are married, darling, we must have no more secrets from each other. Bride—Then tell me, Jack, how much did you really pay for that engagement ring?—Illustrated B's.

She Was Numerous.

"I want a license to marry the best girl in the world," said the young man. "Young, isn't it?" commented the clerk. "That makes 1,200 licenses for that girl this season."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

I do not know of any way so sure of making others happy as of being so oneself.—Sir Arthur Helps.

No Doubt

It Would Be To Your Advantage To Investigate One Or More Of The Following Articles:

Plain and Fancy Window Screens and Doors

Water Coolers, Nursery Refrigerators

Garden Hose and Fittings Metal

and Wood Hose Reels

Salisbury Hardware Co.

Phone 346. SALISBURY, MD.

S. R. DOUGLASS, Solicitor.

Samuel P. Jenkins

vs.

Maudena Hopkins

Lewis Hopkins.

No. 1862 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County, Maryland.

Under and by virtue of the power invested in me by the above named Maudena Hopkins and Lewis Hopkins in the mortgage bearing date the fourteenth day of January, 1909, and recorded in the land records of Wicomico County, Maryland in Liber E. A. T. No. 56, folio 428, the undersigned will offer for sale at public auction on June 25th, 1910, at the Court House door in Salisbury, Wicomico county, Md. at two o'clock in the afternoon all that piece or parcel of land situate and lying in Trappe District, Wicomico County, Maryland, on the south side of and binding upon the county road leading from the town of Fruitland to Allen, and more particularly described as follows: Beginning for the same at a point on the south side of the county road aforesaid at its intersection with the west line of the land of Mary Jones (commonly known as Mary Politt) thence by and with the said west line of said land along the middle of a ditch in a southerly direction to the line of the right of way of the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad, thence and by with the said railroad in a southerly direction to another ditch marking the line of the land of John W. Dashiell, thence by and with said ditch to the said county road, thence by and with the said county road to the point of beginning, containing five acres of land, more or less, being the same land that was conveyed to the said Maudena Hopkins by said Samuel P. Jenkins by deed dated the 14th day of Jan. 1909, and recorded in the land records of said county and state in Liber E. A. T. No. 61 folio 448.

TERMS OF SALE:—CASH.
Title papers at the expense of purchaser.
S. P. JENKINS,
Mortgagee.

A Gastronomic Joy.

Of all the superb victuals which, by their great variety and unique collection, make Maryland—the Eden and Arcadia of every man who loves good eating, the planked shad is probably the most powerful and poignant in appeal to the senses. The wild duck, though it sets the palate to vibrating like an aeolian harp, has no thrill to the eye. It is a small and unlovely bird of a dull color and ungainly outline. So, too, the diamond back terrapin. It has no more beauty in death than a plate of soup. And certain other exquisite delicacies, for all their goodness, do not soothe the sense of smell. Of such are the raw oyster, the boiled hard crab and the Magdoo river chubbie. But the planked shad—ah, here we come to a delicacy which unites us alike through the eyes, the palate and the nose. As it comes upon the table it has the imperial dignity of a Charlie-magne. Its golden head moves on to reverence; the up-turned curve of its tail is like the curl of a great comb upon a coral beach. And it radiates a perfume as of Arabie.—Baltimore Sun.

Water Under Deserts.

Some of the most curious phenomena of the world are the underground water supplies beneath deserts. In the Rajasthan, deserts water is held in vast quantities in sandstone beds under the scorched surface and is drawn up from wells sunk into the strata. Bikaner raises its walls in the midst of a weary, arid rainless waste of sand and depends on these hidden treasures for its very existence. Whence it comes, where is the outfall and what quantity runs under the baked and barren remains a mystery. In one well at Bikaner it has been ascertained that the water supply is equal to 20,000 gallons an hour, which is held to point to the conclusion that there is an enormous subterranean lake and that the snow fed rivers of the Himalayas must be the source. People in Bikaner say that pieces of wood dropped into one well have come up in another. The idea of an underground river opening up a wide range of possibilities to the imagination.—Times of India.

To bear is to conquer our fate.—Campbell.

Just Out

OUR newest and latest catalog of window and door screens is just out and we want you to have one. We would also like to have our "screen salesman" call and see you and give you an estimate on screens for your house. Our screens are recommended for their general practical features and it costs you nothing to get our prices. You know the investment for screens for your house is one of the best you can make as it not only saves labor in keeping your house clean and sanitary, but it prevents disease of various kinds (See bulletins from Maryland Agricultural College and other like institutions.) Only a line by mail or a word by phone and you can have a representative at your door.

WE would also remind you that our delivery system is in perfect shape and our stock of building material was never more complete. Everything in the building line. Framing, siding, sheathing, shingles, doors, windows, frames, blinds, flooring, ceiling, mantels, mouldings, plastering laths, lime, hardware, cement, bricks, prepared roofing, building paper, etc. ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING.

E. S. ADKINS & CO.
"Quality the First Consideration, Cost the Second"
SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

Kennerly-Shockley Co.

Tailor Made Suits

now in and ready for early purchasers. This cut represents one of our popular styles in Spring Suits. Our line this season consists of all the leading shades and popular designs. Prices ranging from $14.90 to $25.00. We have just received a lot of Silk Waists in popular shades which will be sold for $3.50.

Kennerly-Shockley Co.

Dry Goods, Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Shoes
SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

Useless Trips
to the freight station in search of delayed materials can be avoided if you have Rural Bell Telephone Service

No better way of keeping track of things in general.
You can build, own and operate the line.

Write for particulars.

The Diamond State Telephone Co.