Computer Cytes

The State Board for Higher Education has recently approved a Computer Science major to be offered by Frostburg State College beginning this semester. Dr. Guild feels that the program is a timely and important addition to the college curriculum as there is no baccalaureate degree program in computer science from a four-year public institution in Maryland within a 100 mile radius of Frostburg.

"Aside from the esoteric skills developed by computing such as creativity, logical thought, and problem solving, tomorrow's educated person will not be able to cope without some knowledge of the computer," Dr. Guild said.

The Computer Science major is designed to provide students with the background in Computer Science which would be necessary for entrance into graduate programs and would provide adequate preparation for careers in education or industry. Emphasis in the program is placed upon attaining the knowledge and attitude required for successful employment as senior programmers and systems analysts.

Students majoring in Computer Science may select one of two options. One option will be designed for those individuals who are interested in industrial or educational careers, while the other is designed for students interested in the scientific or mathematical application of computers.

The Computer Science Program at Frostburg State College will be enhanced by the new classroom and laboratory facilities in recently-renovated Lowndes Hall and by the installation of new computers for academic and administrative purposes later this year.

Additional information about the Computer Science Program and enrollment in the program is available at the College's Office of Admissions. The telephone number is 689-4201.

Arty Bits

An exhibition of prints illustrating the ancient myths that have captured the imagination of artists over the centuries can be seen at Frostburg State College Fine Arts Gallery from January 11, 1983 to February 15.

Chosen from The Baltimore Museum of Art's extensive and notable collection of works on paper by Malcolm R. Daniel of the Museum's Education staff, these prints are telling examples of how the individual artist interprets, according to his temperament and taste, these age-old legends.

These thirty prints of landscapes and legends, figures both fantastical and demi-historical, afford fascinating glimpses into the temperments of the artists as well as the temper and philosophy of the several ages and cultures represented in this exhibition.

Presented by The Baltimore Museum of Art, the show is made possible by grants from the Maryland State Arts Council and The National Endowment for the Arts, Washington, D.C.

Allison Hinckle, a 20-year old junior at Frostburg State College, was driving on Interstate 79 just outside Morgantown, West Virginia early in the morning of December 19 when she apparently either fell asleep at the wheel or hit an ice patch and lost control of her car.

She died soon after, a victim of the injuries incurred in the accident. For those on the Frostburg State campus that knew her, the news was heartshattering. How could a woman so full of life, so enthusiastic about everything around her, be struck down at such a young age?

Many returned to the campus unaware of the event. The entire campus grieves the loss of so talented an individual. A therapeutic recreation major from Clinton, Md., Allison Hinckle was almost the epitome of how to live. She wanted to get involved in everything, proof being her participation in women's field hockey and lacrosse. She was actively involved in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

"She was a very enthusiastic type of kid," remembers Sharon Irwin, her lacrosse coach. "She wasn't one of the more highly skilled lacrosse players, but if we had a spirit award, she would have won it. She came to me last fall and said she wanted to play lacrosse. She didn't play in high school, but she came in at lunch time and learned the skills." She won the Most Improved Player Award this past year.

Chris Lottes, Frostburg's field hockey coach and coordinator of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes program, agrees. "She went at things with everything she had. She always gave as much as she could. She was a good person to have on the team; very team oriented. But more so, she was very positive about life in general. She had an open spirit to good."

It seems unfair that a girl so full of vigor could die at so young an age. For those on campus that were close to Allison, somehow matters such as school, dates and parties just don't seem important. Hopefully Allison will never be forgotten; her spirit, her good humor, her care for others. Billy Joel once wrote a song titled "Only the Good Die Young". Never was a title more appropriate.

Lottes summed it up best when she stated, "She fully lived her twenty years on this earth." Allison Hinckle, you will always be fondly remembered.

John Charles Durst, director of fire and safety at Frostburg State College, died December 19 at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland. Mr. Durst, who was 47, was assistant chief of the Frostburg Fire Department, having served as chief for nine years previously. He was the head usher of Frostburg United Methodist Church, as well as a member of Frostburg Lodge 470, BPO Elks, Mountain Lodge 99, AF & AM, and the Appalachian Snow Seekers Ski Club.

His family suggests that memorials take the form of contributions to the Frostburg United Methodist Church Memorial Fund, Box 420, Frostburg, Md., or to the Memorial Hospital Building Fund, c/o Miss B.J. Hoff, 600 Memorial Avenue, Cumberland.

Unemployment! Unemployment! I'm tired of hearing about all this crap! Mary Gross was right when she said the problem with unemployment is that the WRONG people are unemployed. You bet, sweetheart! Those steelworkers shouldn't be out of work, they don't deserve it, and there's a boatload of bobos right here at State that they could replace any day for my moneys worth. Continuing a fine tradition of stealing a good idea and running with it, State offers its own list of the people who have the right stuff to be unemployed:

- Men at Work
- The Village People and their costume designers
- David Stockman's economics professors
- Ronald Reagan's agent
- Jorn Bramann
- whoever put that Clock in the sidewalk
- whoever wrote the cookbook they use in Chesapeake
- "Dim Jim" Watt's trailguide, preferably after Watt is safely lost in the tundra
- Any distributor of any ANNIE product
- the few who thought TRON was good
- Ms. Pacman
- Nancy and Sluggo
- Nancy and Ronnie
- Kim Cairnes and anybody that sounds like her
- Ronnie Milsap
- Andy Kaufman and anybody that sounds like him
- people who burn cookies
- department store Santas
- whoever came up with TIME's man of the year
- L.L. Bean
- people that work at L.L. Bean
- people who wear L.L. Bean stuff
- people that can't afford L.L. Bean stuff but get the catalog anyway and leave it out just for the status
- the inventor of the general studies program
- the makers of Paraquat
- people that own more than six pairs of designer jeans
- Harry Hughes
- Mary Kay and her cosmeticians
- Al "Mister Moderate" Haig
- Ronald McDonald
- The Burger King
- Wendy
- Col. Sanders, if he wasn't already dead
- the judge in the Roper case

ATHLETICS

Women's Basketball

The FSC Women's Basketball team (6-2) open the new year at home on Saturday, January 15 against undefeated Grove City (6-0).

Grove City, ninth ranked in the country last year, features the nation's leading scorer in Jody Imbrie. The 5'8" senior averages better than 30 points per game. Overall, the Wolverines are extremely tall, with 11 players at 5'8" or taller.

Not only must the Bobcats overcome a strong Grove City team, but also their own inconsistency. Winners of four straight, coach Jim Crawley still feels his team's play has been very inconsistent.

"This is a pivotal game," Crawley admitted. "If we beat Grove City, we are back in the scene for the playoffs. From here on out, we can't afford many losses."

The Bobcats have lost a promising scoring asset in Kim Jobe. Jobe, who scored 17 points in FSC's last win over Bridgewater, decided not to return to school.

The Bobcats are ranked third in the Atlantic Region in the latest rankings. A win over Grove City could boost that ranking further, not to mention the national rankings.

Men's Basketball

Returning from Christmas break, the FSC Men's Basketball team returns to action this week at home. On Thursday Jan. 13 the Bobcats open against Pitt-Johnstown and then host Grove City on Saturday January 15.

A number of changes have been made on the Frostburg roster since their last game against Baldwin-Wallace. Kevin Walsh, Bruce Zimmerman, James Dudley left due to lack of playing time, while Yates is academically ineligible. Kevin Theis has been added to the squad.

With the loss of the Yates and Zimmerman, coach Kurt Wolfe will have to choose between freshman Mike Kelley, Joe Liggett and Toby Henson to fill the void at the starting point guard position.

Eddie Rutledge returns as the other guard, averaging 17 points per game. Kevin Bode will continue at the center position (10.1 points per game) Phil Walters also returns at one forward position averaging 10 ppg.

The other forward spot is normally handled by Mike Breslin, FSC's leading rebounder (8 rpg.), but he was unable to return to practice on time. Therefore, his spot will be taken by Bill Bender.

Swimmers Drop First Meet

The Men's Swim team got the jump on the other winter sports, getting back into action on Monday, January 10. After opening the season with three straight wins, the men were unable to overcome Edinboro State, dropping a 69-44 decision.

Bobcat's bright spots were Bill Croft and Chuck Jacobs. Croft set a team record in the 500-yd freestyle with a time of 5:05.12, winning the event in the process. Jacobs captured first place in the 200-yd breaststroke, and finished second in the 200-yd I.M. and 200-yd backstroke.

Both the men and women will be in action Saturday, January 15, facing Georgetown. The women still show a perfect 3-0 record, while the men will carry a 3-1 record into the meet.
