ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

Amanda M. Hearn, William J. Hearn vs. Geo. W. Smith and Mary E. Smith his wife, Alpheus Hearn, Amanda V. Hearn, Amelia H. Hearn.

No. 391 Chancery, Circuit Court Wicomico County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of a house and lot of ground in Salisbury, Wicomico county, Maryland, situated between and bounded on Walnut and Chestnut streets and bounded on the east side of the lot by the lot of Geo. H. Hearn, deceased, and on the west by the lot of Geo. H. Hearn, deceased.

The said Geo. H. Hearn died in the month of August, 1871, leaving his last will and testament proved in the office of the Register of Wills of Sussex county, Delaware, and that letters testamentary were granted thereon to the plaintiff, Amanda M. Hearn.

That she undertook the administration thereof and possessed herself of all the personal property and applied the same in the discharge of administration to the funeral expenses, costs of administration and other expenses, and that she sold the said real estate in final account on the 21st day of February, 1883 in which it appeared she had received the sum of $184.46 which is still owing her after the sum of personal property of the decedent in the estate of Geo. H. Hearn had been exhausted.

That the said decedent was also indebted to White & Wells of the said state by two certain judgments notes for $7.50 and the other for $25.00 and open account for $500.00 bonds interest, and that the said notes and account came by successive assignments from White & Wells to the plaintiff, Amanda M. Hearn, and that the said Geo. H. Hearn died in the month of August, 1871, leaving his last will and testament proved in the office of the Register of Wills of Sussex county, Delaware, and that letters testamentary were granted thereon to the plaintiff, Amanda M. Hearn.

That the said Geo. H. Hearn died in the month of August, 1871, leaving his last will and testament proved in the office of the Register of Wills of Sussex county, Delaware, and that letters testamentary were granted thereon to the plaintiff, Amanda M. Hearn.

That the said Geo. H. Hearn died in the month of August, 1871, leaving his last will and testament proved in the office of the Register of Wills of Sussex county, Delaware, and that letters testamentary were granted thereon to the plaintiff, Amanda M. Hearn.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

The Misses Hinch of Spring Hill took prizes at Eastern and Dover fairs this autumn. These ladies are very successful exhibitors.

Capt. George H. Jones died at Mt. Vernon last week aged 33 years. Capt. Jones' wife who survives him, is a sister of Dr. A. H. Murrell of Salisbury.

Mr. Clarence Vincent of the Snow Hill Messenger was a caller at the Advertiser office last Saturday. Mr. Vincent speaks cheerfully of the future of the "New Snow Hill."

The new mill and factory which is being built at Byrd's switch for Mr. J. J. Morris is well under way. Mr. Morris has purchased the boiler and engine that was in use at the old electric light plant. Another motor has been purchased and will soon be set up.

The Baltimore and Eastern Shore Railroad Co. will run another of their "cheap excursions" from all points on its line to Baltimore on Tuesday, October 10th; tickets good for return the same or next day, Wednesday Oct. 11th. See posters at stations etc.

Miss Nellie Jackson left Salisbury last Monday for New York where she will pursue French, music and drawing. In her party were Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and Mr. N. H. Rider. Miss Margaret Jackson accompanied them as far as Philadelphia.

A great storm has just passed over the Gulf States which did immense damage to property, and in which 1000 island people lost their lives by giant waves. Mobile, Ala. and New Orleans, La. were great sufferers. Water submerged the streets and checked business for many hours.

Ben. Jones, an old man who lived at Sharp's Point, was accidentally shot last Wednesday afternoon. He had started out on the morning river in a skiff with a lad who was hunting ducks. The gun was discharged and the lad entered Jones' thigh. Drs. Siemens and Morris were called, but the old man died a few hours later.

Rev. M. J. Eckles of Bradford, Pa., formerly pastor of Wisconsin Presbyterian Church, has received a unanimous call to West Arch Street Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, at a salary of $4500 per year. Mr. Eckles has not yet accepted the call, but will visit the church and preach to the congregation next Sunday, October 9th.

Miss Amelia Waller entertained a party of young folks last Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Lillias Brooks. There were present Misses Lillias Brooks, Grace White, Ella and Lizzie Munford, Clara and Mary Lee White, Carrie Fish and Marion Waller. Messrs. Alex D. Towdine, W. S. Gurdy, Jr., Harvey Gordon, Donald Graham, Gus. Towdine, Gordon Humphreys.

Carpenters began this week the erection of a residence on the corner of Division and Walnut streets. The old building will not be utilized as it was first decided, but has been moved back fronting on Walnut St. and will be rebuilt. The lot will now contain two residences. Mr. Siemens, the contractor, expects to have both ready for occupancy by January, 1894.

Mr. F. A. Grier, chief of the fire department, received this week from W. B. Miller a check for $50 given the fire department in recognition of services rendered in saving the wood from destruction by the fire which destroyed his factory. Mr. Grier on behalf of the company desires to thank Mr. Miller for his appreciation of the company's services.

Messrs. L. Ernest Williams, Billy McConkey, L. W. Dorman, Clifford Dorman, Samuel E. Gurdy, Huston Dorman, Wm. H. Jackson, Mrs. Jackson, Miss Mary Jackson, Miss Annie Belle Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. Bobb. D. Grier, Alan F. Benjamin, J. Cleveland White, and M. O. Benjamin, are among the Salisburyans at the World's Fair this week. Messrs. L. W. Gurdy, A. G. Gills, Irving Powell, Dr. W. G. Smith, W. B. Tighman and Rev. T. N. Potts, have returned.

William Ryan, a dredge hand, jumped from the steamer Enoch Pratt at 2 o'clock Sunday morning in Hooper's straits. Before taking his leap, Ryan was warned by the captain to get out of the water and then jumped to the saloon deck. Captain Vessey, who had just retired, was aroused, pursued the man and grabbed him, but he broke away from him. A riot was lowered and Ryan was rescued after being in the water about fifteen minutes. Restoratives were applied and when the steamer reached Wingate's wharf he was taken ashore by Captain Whately.

WICOMICO CIRCUIT COURT.

John Dennis, colored, guilty of Murder in the second degree, sentenced to the State Prison for ten years in Penitentiary.

The most important case in the Wicomico Circuit Court during its second week's session was that of John Dennis, colored, for the murder of his aged father James Dennis, the 31st of last May. The murder was committed on the Tony Tank road a mile and a half from Salisbury. The trial began at 9 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and many spectators had congregated into the Court House to hear it.

Messrs. Graham and Stanford, counsel for the prisoner, asked that the trial be held before Court.

Dr. George W. Todd was called as a witness. He testified that he was passing by the scene of the murder shortly after its commission. He stopped and made an examination of the body. Death was instantaneous. Other witnesses testified that they saw John Dennis on the morning of May 31st previous to the shooting, and that he seemed to be drinking but was apparently not drunk. Marcellus Majors, a witness, saw Dennis and his strange actions thought him drunk. Previous to this testimony Attorney Rider, counsel for state, had brought evidence as follows: Frank Disharoon said that he was coming along the Tony Tank road about noon on the 31st of May and saw John Dennis shoot his wife and then step behind a tree and reload his gun. He told the jury that he saw the body of Sheriff Hearn and members of a posse who pursued the criminal thought that he was not drunk. Dennis himself said when placed in the witness box, that he had no knowledge of his acts after he was shot on that day. He remembered running from his pursuers but did not save his life as he thought they intended to kill him. States Attorney Rider sought to establish the point that Dennis was not drunk at the time he shot his father, and therefore the murder was premeditated.

Messrs. Graham & Stanford, in their defense, argued that Dennis was crazed by drink and was not answerable for the act at the time of his commission. The second witness was admitted to the court Wednesday noon. At 2 o'clock Judge Holland announced that the court had found Dennis guilty of murder in the second degree and had sentenced him to the State Prison for ten years in the Penitentiary. The term comprehends the maximum limit of the law.

The Court House was filled with people who had come to hear the sentence. Dennis received his sentence with evident gratification.

A SLANDER CASE.

Second in interest to the murder trial comes the slander case of Wm. Killiam vs. B. B. Freney.

Mr. Freney claims that $61 in cash was taken from his residence during the absence of his family. He charged the alleged crime to Killiam, who employed Messrs. James E. Ellegood and George W. D. Waller to bring suit against the accused for slander. The case was opened before a jury last Saturday morning. Nearly fifty witnesses were examined. The jury found for Freney $75 and costs.

A BASTARDY CASE.

Last Friday afternoon Henry T. Dashiell, colored, was put on trial on an indictment for bastardy. The trial was before Judge J. Stanley Towdine, Esq., and Messrs. J. E. Ellegood and George W. D. Waller as counsel for the defendant. The case was opened before a jury last Saturday morning. Nearly fifty witnesses were examined. The jury found for Dashiell $75 and costs.

The case of State vs. Wm. B. Messick for removing boundary stone from oyster lots was abandoned because of lack of evidence to prove the charge.

D. H. Adkins got into difficulty with J. Dorman and applied through his attorneys, Messrs. Graham & Stanford, to the court to extricate him. The basis of the suit was a contract between the two men by which Adkins agreed to operate the Dorman's steam mill and pay the rent of Dorman's farm, which Adkins didn't go for currency along with Mr. Dorman for he sold the mill and Adkins left the farm. Dorman then attached Adkins' effects in lieu of rent. On day of sale Adkins replenished his goods, and they appeared to the law. Mr. Ellegood represented Mr. Dorman's case. The court assessed one cent's damages to Mr. Adkins, who, though he was not instructed to do so by the court, will probably take it out in slabs.

In the case of A. Graham and E. Stanley Towdine, trustees of Jobson Johnson and wife to renew a judgment by and against E. E. Jackson, Chas. M. and R. C. Peters, Amos Spencer, Salie Disharoon, and Louis Dashiell, represented by Jas. E. Ellegood; A. Gutschalk, Geo. H. Waller, and J. T. Collins, represented by Towdine & Bell; and Edward White, represented by Humphreys & Humphreys, terre tenants of Lemuel Malone, the case was submitted to the court without jury, and judgment for the following defendants: Mr. Edward White, Geo. H. West and Thomas J. Collins. As to the other defendants the judgment was rendered for the plaintiff.

BALTO. & E. RAILROAD CASE.

The first case removed from the court by the company vs. R. C. Ralph. Decided for plaintiff. Verdict for $251.25. Messrs. Graham & Stanford practiced medicine continuously within this State for ten years before the passage of the law in 1883, to obtain a license in this county to an immediate compliance with chapter 429 of the acts of 1883, and in the event of non-compliance with the law, and upon investigation of the company vs. R. C. Ralph, the court found that the law has not been complied with by any physicians in this county affected by the law, and it seemed right and proper that the law should be enforced, but we have refrained from doing this, hoping that the company would call (through the press) the attention of all practitioners of medicine in this county to an immediate compliance with chapter 429 of the acts of 1883, and in the event of non-compliance with the law, and upon investigation of the company vs. R. PULLED OUT HAIR BY HAIR. OLD TIME TROUSSEAU GOWNS.

Remarkable Story of Indian Cruelty Sup-perintended by Jealousy.

Living near this town is a woman more perfectly bald head tells a curious story of jealousy and ~~in~~ cruelty. In 1839 Oswald Thuralw, a Swedish farmer, splendors of silk and gold, but what our Earth Were "Canna" and "Atlas" Some one who has been delving into old, musty magazines has brought to light a description of some trousseau gowns made for Princess Charlotte when and brought out the status for the rapidly growing hair that had his parents in Dallas, where he intended to extend business, when the tragedy occurred that destroyed his home and scattered his family.

And this is the child of the Tonkawa Indians, who visited (not on the basis of the south on raiding expeditions) had sent Elias, the elder daughter, and fancying he offered to other of the tressow gowns was of white silk and was of the same pattern as the other said over yellow satin. In this case the mantis was of rich gold brocade with blown roses finely woven in and trimmed with gold lace. Of the other gowns this old lady had worn was of a green silk and was embroidered in the bright and dull tones of silver; another was of fine white india muslin worked over in little spots wrought in a figure gold and silver and was of the same pattern as the other said green gown. The gown of white tulle was with them. It was to find the holding her mother in her arms, the woman having just expired.

The next day the carl herself, lagging behind the rest of the crowd, was found in a faint, was shot. In the presence of sister, who had been seized and held in the moment of the attack till now, was taken to a village and given the charge of two squaws until she should have returned from the war.

At the meantime the Kickapoo dethe village, when the Tokwas and raided the Wapiti. Wasie Turval was the name of the Wapiti chief. The Wapiti were spared as slaves. The Wapiti in retreating, found the sickening remains of the horse and eating after the despoilers, Wasie Turval and his men, also, and they were the same. The Wapiti and the Tokwas came to a truce. The chief of Kickapoo, however, stipulated the white woman should be given clarity. This brings on a quarrel, which was terminated by a hand to hand fight between the rivals, following which the chief of the Tonkaws being slain and the bone of contention fallen to the victor.

He carried her home and consoled her, in the care of his squaw with the injunction that if she were injured in any way she was to tell him, and he would avenge her wrong.

He then returned to his country.

No Thief Will Touch It.

A costly ring, ungarbed by police or other special protection, hangs suspended to a silken cord round the neck of a woman, who is dressed in the latest fashion and is a native of the nation east of the Mississippi. In one of the Woman took advantage of her lord's moment to wreak her vengeance on thested object. Binding her to a tree, she cut off the thief's hair, and then she cut to beauty's hair thread by thread. Torture lasted several hours, until white woman's head was covered with blood and she shrieking with agony, begged for mercy. And then, when it had occurred, he dropped her weak body at the stake. She scattered into dust, but was recovered and the most frequented parks of the Spanish capital. It is set with valuable diamonds and pearls, but there is not the least trace of the woman who was the thief in Spain would sooner steal the plate from his own mother's coffin than to even so much as touch the uncanny relics. Its history is curious and interesting, but there is nothing related in medieval folklore.

It was made in accordance with a special order from the late Alfonso thru his execution. Thirwald had now been six months in the hands of his captors, but his hearing of his sister's death, and the news of her escape, re-awakening her after 18 months of captivity. Her head took weeks to heal, and she thought her mind was affected by the loss of her sister. She died a few days later in this vicinity. Her has never grown again.—Oklahoma in Philadelphia Times.

Naval Ensigns.—The English ensign was once visible from the ship, but was taken down on a convenient bulkhead before the officers' quarters. When he came again, he was astonished to find the ensign in the place where he had

THE STRUGGLE ENDED.

The struggle that has been going on for the past two months, to nominate judges for the First Judicial Circuit of this State, was terminated Tuesday by the yielding of Worcester and Wicomico to the nomination of Judge Page for Chief Judge and Judge Lloyd for Chief Judge of the Second Circuit.

The Wicomico delegation did all in their power to secure the nomination of Judge Holland for Chief Judge, believing as they did, and as the county does, that it was an honor due Judge Holland, earned by an acceptable service on the lower bench. But it did not seem probable in the course of events that the nomination would come to him. Under these circumstances and in view of the protracted struggle that had already taken place, Judge Holland requested his name to be withdrawn.

In withdrawing the name of Judge Holland, Ex-Governor Jackson said: "My delegation has voted for Judge Holland. We have done this because we think he is justly entitled to the nomination. Not only are the delegates of Wicomico county of this opinion, but 90 per cent of the people of my county are of the same opinion. Judge Holland is a democrat. The delegates to this convention are democrats and the people who elect them are democrats. We are not willing to run any risk in having republican judges in the first judicial district of Maryland. On behalf of our delegation and the people of my county, I desire to publicly thank the Worcester delegation for their steadfast loyalty to our choice, Judge Holland. In the interest of harmony and the furtherance of democratic principles we withdraw the name of Judge Holland and cast our four votes for the Hon. Henry Page."

After the nominations were made Senator Smith of Worcester moved that they be unanimous. In seconding this motion Senator Treadwell said: "Mr. President, in seconding the nomination of Senator Smith from Worcester county in making the nomination of Judges Page and Lloyd unanimous, it is pleasing to refer to the pleasant intercourse between the delegates to this convention and the omission of personalities. As to the candidates, it has been a contest of principles and local pride and necessity. Worcester and Wicomico counties presented as candidates for judges gentlemen who, for their legal attainments and standing, have not their peers in the judicial circuit. There has been no personal objection in the opposition to Judges Page and Lloyd, but only that Worcester county was deserving a judge in the person of Clayton J. Purnell and that Judge Holland was entitled to promotion. The proceedings of this convention have advanced so far that the time has come when some sacrifice must be made for the benefit of the democratic party of the first judicial circuit, and in withdrawing opposition to Judges Page and Lloyd their election is assured by a large majority."

As Senator Treadwell very properly intimated, that while the contest has been a very protracted one it has not been bitter.

The result of course is a disappointment to the friends of Judge Holland in this county, but of the men selected no man can say again, politically or personally, anything that would reflect upon them. They should therefore command the strength of the party at the polls.

THAT IMPOTENT STRUGGLE.

Last Wednesday the Senate of the United States went into continuous session for the purpose of forcing a vote on the repeal bill. The country must now witness the spectacle of its great legislative body waging a war of physical endurance, a minority against the majority.

We have discovered at last that the majority no longer rules.

The Senate has a clean majority willing to vote for the repeal of the bill but under the present rules of the Senate they seem unable to close the debate, or more properly, to prevent the filibustering of a few senators from the silver mining States.

The Senate seems to have arrived at that stage when it no longer a practical body, when it can do nothing without unanimous consent.

This action has certainly gone for to wakening public confidence in the Senate's conservatism. Many are asking if there is any other way of selecting United States Senators.

It is no excuse whatever to say that the body is bound by its rules and under these rules it is impossible to obtain a vote except by unanimous consent.

The Senate makes its own rules and can change them at any time. If it will not change them and will sit powerless it must answer to the country. The country will not endorse such a condition of things. If all the senators, forced by public sentiment to vote for the repeal, were in hearty sympathy with the measure there would be no trouble in bringing the question to a vote. Any senator that wants to vote for a measure, should be willing to vote for a rule that would give him an opportunity to do it. When a senator is not willing to do this he is supporting a measure from force of circumstances and not from choice and is desirous to shun a vote.

If there is no other means of reaching a vote on this or any other question let the country decide. The country is not so much afraid of that as it is of impotency.

The "citizens" ticket of Baltimore, put up in opposition to the regular democratic ticket recently nominated, was named last Monday night. Mr. Frederick W. Schultz was nominated for mayor. Otto Sutor, the Baltimore piano manufacturer, was named for sheriff, and Win Duncan was chosen as candidate for clerk of the city court.

THE SINGLE TAX.

Henry George's Theory of the Cause of the Present Depression.

New York, Oct. 8.—Henry George, who expected to speak Saturday night at the Union Square mass-meeting of the unemployed, sent the following letter to T. C. Walsh, secretary of the trade and labor conference: "If there be a scarcity of work while would be worse a suffer from want of the things that work produces, it can have but one cause—a scarcity of the element from which work produces these things. That element is land. There is no real scarcity of land. This continent is wide enough and rich enough to support in comfort all the millions of Europe.

"But there is an artificial scarcity. Land wherever labor seeks access to it, even where unused, is held at a price which increases with the demand for it. With all social growth and improvement this price goes up, and while the advance of civilization tends steadily to reduce the price of things produced by labor, the increase in land values adds millions upon millions to the profits of those who are mere landowners and do no work.

"Here is the explanation and the only sufficient explanation of the monstrous fact that there are all over the country great bodies of willing workers who cannot find work; here is the root of financial depression; here is the reason why the laboring class is the poor class. If we have access to land, labor is helped.

"There is only one cure; that is, in taking land values for the use of the whole community, and destroying the incentive to speculation by rendering land profitable only to the user, and making each citizen an equal sharer in the value which attaches to it by the public growth.

"It is true that it is not the business of the State to feed men or provide work for men. Nor yet ought it to be the business of the State to break down the restrictions that prevent men from working for themselves and from feeling by their own labor those dependent upon them. And when through the denial of equal rights and the stoppage of productions that results from great bodies of willing workers are unable to get work, it is the fault of the State, and not of the workers themselves and from feeling by their own labor those dependent upon them. And when through the denial of equal rights and the stoppage of productions that results from great bodies of willing workers are unable to get work, it is the fault of the State, and not of the workers themselves.

"Governor Flower—I gave him credit for ignorance—is wrong when he tells us that taxes levied on real estate for public works should fall upon the users of buildings and thus increase the real paid for the use of the buildings. The tax should fall on the land, and not on the buildings. That part of a real estate tax which falls on buildings does, it is true, fall ultimately on users, but the part which falls on the value of the land does not touch users. It must be borne by land owners.

"If this city had the power to impose municipal taxes on what it pleased it might, by imposing the tax burden on the value of land irrespective of buildings, contribute to itself a rapid transit and make all manner of improvements without one cent of the cost falling on labor. The cost would fall on the land owners of New York, many of whom live in Europe. And would not this be just? Who would reap the pecuniary benefit of a rapid transit or other improvement? Do not such improvements always add to the value of land.

"Poisoned by Scurfies. In the sad story of many lives made miserable through no fault of their own, Scurfia is more especially than any other a hereditary disease and for this simple reason: Arising from impure and insufficient blood, the disease locates itself in the lymphatics, which are composed of white tissues that are part of the body when the whole body consists of white tissues, and therefore the unborn child is especially susceptible to this dreadful disease. But there is a remedy for scurfies, whether hereditary or acquired. It is Hood's Scurfia Pills, which are a powerful expeller of the blood, and give to the vital fluid the quality and color of health. If you decide to take Hood's Scurfia Pills do not accept any substitutes.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Mr. Wm. V. Ooston of Princess Anne district of this county, and Miss Sarah Griffith, daughter of John Griffith, of Wicomico county, were married in Grace Episcopal Church, Mt. DORCHESTER.

The colored people of Dorchester have been very much worked over the arrival of the German immigrants. Some one has spread the report that the Germans are great fighters and are going to take charge of the whole district which, of course, alarms the colored race. The Germans, we hear, are finding employment with the farmers in the neighborhood and are proving satisfactory workers.

The Dorchester republican county convention met in Independence Hall last Tuesday evening. Dr. Washington A. Smith chairman and Silas Simpson and Chas. Wright secretaries. The following straight republican ticket was nominated:

Senator—W. Simon Hoddinott.

House of Delegates—M. Dale Howeth, Howard R. Spedden, Jeremiah Spicer, Sheriff—James O. Wright.

County Commissioners—John E. Seward, George Tyler, Joseph B. Andrews.

The convention adopted several resolutions favoring a reassessment of property, also favoring a repeal of the personal license feature of the oyster law and for free books in the public schools.

A motion favoring a fusion with democrats was adopted in caucus before the nominations were made, but was afterwards abandoned.

Philip L. Goldborough, Dr. Wash. A. Smith, Thos. A. Melvin and Charles J. Webb were elected as the central committee for Dorchester county.

FROM WORCESTER.

In Bethany Methodist Protestant church Tuesday evening the Rev. H. L. Eldridge married Wm. Gullett of Philadelphia and Miss Mary Landing of this town. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Collett, sister of the groom from Federalburg; Miss Nellie Dale, Mary Coston, Macon Hall and Gerie Vessey, of this town. The march was played by Mrs. C. O. Melvin. After the ceremony a reception was given by the parents of the bride at their home on Second street. They took the midnight express train for an extended bridal tour.

Rev. M. J. Eckels.

The Philadelphia correspondent of the Baltimore Sun said in last Monday's issue:

Rev. Mervin J. Eckels, who was recently called to the pastorate of the West Arch Street Presbyterian Church, occupied his pulpit yesterday morning and evening. Mr. Eckels was born near Carlisle, Pa., in 1854. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1877, and at the last commencement preached the annual sermon before the Young Men's Christian Association of his alma mater. After his graduation Mr. Eckels accepted a call to the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Salisbury, Md., where he had a most successful pastorate of five years. He declined a flattering call to the Central Church of Wilmington, Del., in 1888, and, through the influence of the following year, he prepared for the ministry at the Western Theological Seminary, Allegheny, and his first pastorate was the Presbyterian Church at Havre de Grace, Md., where he went in 1892. In 1893 Mr. Eckels accepted a call to the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Salisbury, Md., where he had a most successful pastorate of five years. MOUNTAIN CLIMBING.

The Safety of the Many Bought by the Death of the Few.

All crafts depend upon knowledge and acquired skill—knowledge of the material to be handled, acquired skill in the handling of the material. Pioneers of mountaineering had first to learn what mountains actually are like, the details of their structure, and the forces in action upon them. Rock structure, which has one meaning for a geologist, has others for a mountaineer. One kind of mountain masonry forms ridges and gullies, another forms ledges and precipices. One texture and dip make statements that can be rushed, another makes slabs that can scarcely be adhered to. One kind of substance is firm and trustworthy, another is friable and treacherous to hand and foot. If there was so much to be learned about rocks, snow and ice were at first far more unknown.

The anatomy of glaciers had to be discovered, the secrets of crevasse formation to be learned. There were so many varied phenomena implied in the phrase "state of the snow," to be understood. Both feet and eyes had to be trained to to recognize roots and eye had to be trained to recognize roots by feel and glance what the "state of the snow" at any time might be. Avalanches had to be investigated—avalanches of snow, ice and rock—where they might be expected to fall, where they were to be looked for, how far they would go. Climbers had to learn to distinguish afar off between snow and ice slopes. Moreover, the tools of mountaineering had to be invented. Many were tried and discarded; a few were retained and improved. The form of the ax was slowly evolved and its use learned. The way to employ the rope was a yet more difficult discovery. Even now the proper form for climbing iron is only being arrived at.

Accidents, usually fatal, were the lessons wherefrom these facts were derived. The great Matterhorn accident finally demonstrated how the rope should be used and proved that large parties were a source of danger. The Lyskamm accident showed the peril of cornices. Unroped climbers met their death on many mountains. From all most every accident something was learned. The safety of the many has been bought by the death of the few.

We can now plunge into the world of snow without undue peril. We know its dangers and can guard against them; we know also when we are safe and where we can freely go. Our forerunners went aloft as neolithic navigators put to sea—badly equipped and into a misunderstood region. We are now on the footing of the modern sailor. Snow, as such, has no more terrors for us than sea for them. Ill luck may overtake us, and we may fall, as they may be drowned, but with good equipment and experience the climber and seafarer are about as safe as the townsman at home.

How to Learn Music.

Do not fail to take advantage of the library. Begin a course of good reading. Music is notorious for narrowing one's mind, so resolve to counterbalance your practice with library work as well. As to your practice, I would give you this maxim, "The essential thing in practice is to see exactly what is to be done in all its details, and then do it again and again with the greatest clearness, precision and energy."

When you take up a new piece, notice the key, the harmonies, chords, scales, fingering and general effects. One of the first necessities is "concentration." Develop self criticism. "The thing you cannot do is the very thing you should make yourself do."

In practice begin where you left off the day before. Connect your day's work. Apply all your knowledge. Do not try to do more than one thing at a time. Spend a good deal of time every day thinking about what you are doing and what you will do.—Edward D. Hale.

Tricoups and His Dog.

M. Tricoups, who may be regarded as the foremost statesman in King George's dominions, and who has repeatedly held the office of premier, is distinguished for the store set by him on canine friendship. One day when he was crossing from the Piræus to Constantinople on board an English steamer, his dog fell overboard. Tricoups, who was not in office at the time and a stranger to the captain, entreated the latter to stop the vessel in order that he might rescue the "Impossible!" replied the Englishman. "My orders are very strict. I dare not stop, even were it a man instead of a dog drowning."

"Good!" laconically answered the Greek, and at the same time he sprang over the ship's side and swam toward his dog, although sharks abound in those waters. The sequel may be guessed. The English captain could not resist such a spectacle of pluck, and in spite of his strict orders to the contrary he stopped the ship and saved both man and dog. — New York Tribune.

Women In Medicine.

At the beginning of 1893 the number of women who had entered their names in the British medical register amounted to 198, of whom nine have died since registration. About 50 are in practice in India and other parts of the east, chiefly as medical missionaries; some of the younger women—perhaps 20—are still engaged in study at various schools and hospitals, chiefly on the continent, and the remainder are in practice in various parts of Great Britain, more than half of these having settled in London. The number of posts thrown open to medical women increases every day, and the demand for their services in various directions is still considerably in excess of the supply.—Medical Magazine.

Could Lift a Ton and a Half.

A Scotchman, said to be the last of the Stuarts, was possessed with an extraordinary strength, from which circumstance he got the byname of Jemmy Strength. Among other feats, he could carry a 24 pounder cannon and had been known to lift a carload of hay weighing ton and a half upon his back. Many time he took up a jackass, and carrying it on his shoulders walked through the tollgate.—Cincinnati Commercial
