For County Surveyor,
JOHN W. SMITH.

LAST Fall the Democratic Conservative voters of Wicomico County, had the proud satisfaction of rolling up the handiest majority of any county of the sisterhood on the Eastern Shore. That majority, one thousand and twelve, was the result of earnest, persistent effort on the part of our party leaders and of the hearty co-operation of the whole people—and we trust that the same spirit which animated every breast last fall, will assert itself in November next, so that our enemies cannot taunt us with losing ground by pointing to a diminished majority. Let the people remember that the position of "Banner County" is an enviable one, and one that our sister counties will struggle to attain in the coming election. Let us resolve, then, to do our whole duty, and by so doing, maintain our position at the top of the ladder.

Commercial Convention.
The National Commercial Convention which met in Baltimore City last week, is represented to have been one of the ablest and best conducted conventions that has ever convened since the establishment of the Union. The Convention discussed plans for internal improvements of every class and character; passed resolutions for the re-establishment of brotherly love between the States; memorialized Congress to abolish the income tax; suggested reforms in legislation where they are needed, and in every manner acted like an able and intelligent body of men anxious to benefit their country and humanity. The proceedings of the Convention were entirely free from sectionalism or politics. It was indeed a National Convention, representing the best interests of the whole people and acting with perfect harmony on all questions which came up for consideration.

It remains yet to be seen, whether or not Congress will respect the memorials of the Convention. It is more than probable that they will be treated with the same contempt as heretofore, and the solid interests of the country be neglected for the discussion of the Ku Klux and San Domingo business. It would be an incredible blessing to the people of this country if they would only have pluck enough to kick all politicians overboard and choose business men to fill the seats in Congress, and restore the old fashioned regime, by hurling the bloated, inflated thing of favorable circumstances, useless Grant, from the presidential chair, and placing a statesman there, whose time would be too precious to entertain bribe-giving office seekers, and whose integrity and honor would compel him to attend to the needs of the country instead of holding high court at Long Branch.

Grand Mass Meeting.—There will be a grand rally of the Democracy in Salisbury on Monday the 9th instant. Hon. W. Pinkney Whyte, Hon. A. K. Syester, Col. Levin Woolford, and other distinguished gentlemen will be present to address the people. The Central Committee called for a big turn out. Let none come, but come and swell the

The Old World's News.
ENGLISH WORKINGMEN AND THE RIGHTS OF LABOR.
The Collision between the Fenians and Police in Cork.—The Late Disastrous Gale.—The Rescue of a Shipwrecked Crew.
London, Oct. 2.—The collision between the police and Fenians at Cork yesterday was the result of illegal drilling by organized bands of Fenians, a number of whom were arrested. Some of these were found to have Snider rifles in their possession. The discovery caused considerable excitement among the police, and there was active searching for the violators of the law which resulted in the dispersion of several bands, and the arrest of a few more Fenians and the capture of their weapons.

The recent gales which have proved so disastrous to shipping on the English and Irish coasts have extended to the Continent with some damage to crops, vineyards, &c. The telegraph lines have also been prostrated in many directions. Communication with Paris and the principal cities of Germany is not, however, seriously interfered with.

The attempts to settle the difficulties with the laborers at Newcastle by arbitration have thus far proved unsuccessful. The proprietors refuse to accept the decision of the masters, on the ground that an adjustment reached by such means will not return to them the best class of workmen, who have sought employment elsewhere, and they cannot afford to make concessions unless they secure skilled labor thereby.

The scissors-grinders, outlaws, and carpenters of Sheffield, and the splinters of Boston and Dundee, have struck work. The strikers in Newcastle held a mass meeting to-day, and passed resolutions to insist on their demands and persevere in the strike until its objects were accomplished.

Later advices from Her Majesty's acting Consul at Batavia announce the safety of the crew of the ship Megara, wrecked on St. Paul's Island in July last. The men, who were previously reported to be starving, had received relief, and would soon be taken off and brought home.

VICTOR HUGO'S APPEAL FOR ROCHFORD.
Paris, Oct. 2.—Henri Rochefort is pressing his appeal for a mitigation of the sentence pronounced against him by the military court. His friends are also actively interfering by endeavors to influence the President in M. Rochefort's favor. Victor Hugo, among others, has written a letter to M. Thiers strongly interceding for Executive clemency. No intimation has yet been given that these appeals will be favorably considered.

Letter.—M. Thiers has written a letter to Victor Hugo in reply to the latter's appeal in behalf of M. Rochefort. The President says the Pardon Commission alone can modify the sentence of the military tribunal.

SPANISH REINFORCEMENTS FOR CUBA.
Madrid, Oct. 2.—Fresh reinforcements for Cuba embarked to-day at Cadiz. During his progress through the provinces, King Amadeus has made donations amounting to the value of £50,000 sterling and has received thirty thousand petitions.

COMPULSORY MILITARY SERVICE IN SWEDEN.
Stockholm, October 2.—The Upper House of Parliament has approved of the clause of the bill for the reorganization of the army, which makes military service compulsory on all male subjects of Sweden.

THE POPE'S NICE ENTERS A CONVENT.
Donna Louisa, a daughter of Count Mastai, and niece of the Pope, has entered a convent, and the ceremony is thus described:
The ceremony of her taking the veil was accomplished on the 8th instant, in honor of the festival of the Madonna, in the church belonging to the nunnery of the Oblates at Tor de Specchi. Cardinal Patrizi, Vicar of his Holiness, richly robed, was waiting at the altar, when at 8:30 A. M., a young lady, about twenty years old, dressed in white, and crowned with white lilies, pressing a crucifix in her hands advanced and knelt at the feet of his Eminence. During the celebration of Mass the sacred rites prescribed for the occasion were accomplished, and the young lady, putting off her silk robe and worldly gown assumed a humble serge gown, and covered her youthful head with a simple linen, on which to place the mystic crown which symbolized her as the spouse of Jesus Christ. Uncertain and trembling as long as she was surrounded with the adornments of earthly pomp, she seemed to smile with conscious grace as soon as she bade adieu to the dangers and deceptions of the world; at any rate the spectators so constructed her deportment: That young lady was Donna Louisa, of the Counts of Mastai, or as she will be called in future, Sister Maria Fide, grandniece of his Holiness Pius IX. Two younger brothers assisted at the ceremony, as well as the Duke of Castelvetro, Massimo and Caffarelli, the Princes of Viane and Arsoli, Marquises Cavalletti, Sorpiti, Vitelleschi and many other distinguished Roman and foreign gentlemen and ladies. The Marchesa Vitelleschi and Baroness Cappelletti waited on the novice during the ceremony, throughout which she was also attended by a charming little child with the traditional wings and ringlets of an angel.

WASHINGTON NOTES.
Lefferts Vanderbilt has been appointed Assistant Assessor of Internal Revenue in the First District, and James Barnett Gauger in the Twenty-second District of New York.
Gen. Robert Anderson of whom it was reported that he is sick in Geneva and too poor to hire a servant, is retired as a Brigadier-General, and receives a salary of $4,125 a year.
Rear Admiral James Alden was yesterday assigned to the command of the European fleet, to relieve Admiral Bagges. Alden, therefore, resigned his office as Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, and Capt. David A. Dutton was appointed to succeed him. Commodore C. P. Rogers succeeds Admiral as Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks. Admiral Alden will leave in the Washabout the 1st of November.

Indiana.
A Fearful Balloon Ascension—Shocking Death of the Aeronaut.
Louisville, October 2.—At Paoli, Orange county, Indiana, last Saturday, Professor Wilbur made arrangements for a balloon ascension. He was to be accompanied by Mr. Geo. H. Knapp, editor of the Orange County Union. As they were getting into the balloon the cords gave way, and they made a spring for the car, but only succeeded in grasping the ropes. As the balloon rose Mr. Knapp let go, and fell thirty feet, without serious injury. Professor Wilbur held on and attempted to climb into the basket, but was unable to do so, and the balloon shot upwards rapidly, with the aeronaut hanging below. The spectators were thrilled with horror at the terrible scene, which ended in a dreadful manner.
At the height of about one mile the doomed man let go his hold and came whirling to the earth. As he approached the earth he was feet foremost, then spread over horizontally, then doubled up, turned over and then straightened out with his head downward. As he struck the earth he fell upon his head and back. His head was crushed into an indistinguishable mass and his body was bruised and crushed horribly. The body made an indentation in the ground eight inches deep, and rebounded four feet from where it struck. Prof. Young, wife and little daughter were on the ground at the time, and witnessed the terrible affair. The remains of the unfortunate man were properly cared for, and buried at Paoli yesterday afternoon.

BUY THE GENUINE
THE AMERICAN WASHER
PRICE, $5.50.
THE AMERICAN WASHER SAVES MONEY, TIME, AND DUBIOUSLY.
The Fatigue of Washing Day no Longer Dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing Sure.
In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented, are here enumerated.
It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated, A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and efficiently use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to adjust, no delay in adapting. It is always ready for use. It is a perfect "little wonder." It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the tub board. It will wash the largest blanket. The sheets of a four, washing thoroughly; in a word, the abolition of any failure, from a quilt to a lace curtain or antique handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of this LITTLE. It can be fastened to any tub and taken off at will.
No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its washing efficacy and utility are annihilated, and the doubts and detractors at once become the best friends of the machine.
We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside their old-fashioned machines, which have usually failed to accomplish the object promised in prominent and loud sounding advertisements.
It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price and the quality of the laundry to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every house-keeper, and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.
$5.50.
All that is asked for this GREAT LABOR SAVER, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly.

CHANCERY NOTICE.
William Fawcett Dennis, No. 111, Chancery George R. Dennis, Jas. P. Dennis, In Equity in the Circuit Court for Wicomico County, Trustees of Henry E. Dennis, Francis Dennis, (Circuit Court for Wicomico County, Ex parte) vs. Maryland.
The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a sale of certain real estate situate on Quantico Creek in Wicomico County Md., which was devised by Litchford Dennis to his son William Fawcett Dennis, with certain limitations over. The bill in substance states that Litchford Dennis, father of said complainant, died a certain farm in Somerset County, but now in Wicomico County with limitations over, in the event of his death without issue, to John T. Dennis, the father of said defendant, that said John T. Dennis by his last will in the real-estate clause thereof devised all his undivided property which included this contingent remainder, to Geo. R. Dennis, James T. Dennis, Henry E. Dennis, Francis Dennis and Mary W. This will of Litchford P. Dennis all of which parties now reside in the State of Virginia, except George R. Dennis and James T. Dennis who reside in Somerset County Md. That the said Real Estate is rapidly depreciating in value for want of personal attention, which the complainant cannot give it as he is himself a non-resident of this State, and alleges that it is for the interest of all parties that the said Real Estate be sold and the proceeds invested by the Court's order for the use arising under the provisions of said will of Litchford Dennis, dec'd, and praying for a sale thereof and investment or accounting, it is therefore this 2nd day of August 1871, adjudged and ordered that the complainant by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published at Salisbury, in Wicomico County, once in each of four successive weeks, before the first day of October 1871, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, and warn them to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the first day of January 1872, which day is the first day of the January Term of said Court to answer the premises and show cause if any they have a decree sought for, or to be granted, or otherwise the same may be taken pro confesso as against them.

LOCAL ADVERTISER.

SATURDAY MORNING Oct. 7. 1871.

—Court adjourned last Saturday.

—Sometime since, a very independent young lady—probably one of the strong minded—attempted to break a colt. She now complains very much of her new set of teeth.

—Don't forget the temperance meeting to be held to-morrow (Sunday) evening in the Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock.

September, according to high authority, was the coldest and driest September for eighty years.

Teacher Elected.—The Trustees of Salisbury Academy met last Wednesday evening and elected Mr. Thomas H. Williams to the principalship of the Academy.

Notice.—Those who subscribed to the Lee Monument Fund are entitled to a book called "Journal of a Young Lady," which they can obtain by calling on Mr. Wm. Waller, at Mr. John White's store, Main street.

Camp Meeting.—A camp meeting has been in progress this week at Friendship alias Hard-scrabble. We should imagine the people had rather a hard scrabble to keep warm in the tented grove during the cool nights of this week.

PERSONAL.

A few days since, we had the pleasure of welcoming Clement Sullivan e-q.r., of the Cambridge Chronical, to our sanctum.

—Judge Merrick, of Howard county, Col. Levin Woolford, Hon. Daniel M. Henry, and Hon. Isaac D. Jones, were at the Peninsular House last week.

All persons wishing to purchase cheap, durable and fashionable clothing, should remember that Wm. E. Brewington & Co., under the Peninsular House, have just received a large supply of winter clothing, which they are selling at remarkably low prices. Gents Furnishing Goods, Notions &c., in almost endless variety. Do not forget the place.

H. S. Brewington has just received a magnificent assortment of Stoves, Tinware, Hardware, and goods in his line, of every description and in endless variety.

Now is the time to buy cheap stoves—call and be convinced. Store on Camden street.

F. C. Todd, one door from Five Points, is selling groceries at prices that defy competition. Fresh butter just received from Wilmington, 35cts; Country butter, 35cts; Sugar cured hams, 19cts; Dry Beef, 25cts. Call and examine his stock and be convinced.

A Good Appointment.—Mr. Clarence C. Waller, of this town, has been appointed Depot agent at Princess Anne.

In selecting Mr. Waller to fill this responsible position, the officers of the E. S. Rail Road displayed good sense; for he has, though quite young, a thorough knowledge of railroad business—is conversant with telegraphy—has an affable, obliging disposition, and is in every respect eminently qualified to discharge the onerous duties which will devolve upon him.

New Stock.—Messrs A. G. Treadwell & Co., who have always been noted for keeping a large and well selected stock of Merchandise in their large store rooms on Main street, have, this year, surpassed all former efforts, and their rooms are absolutely crammed with Boots & Shoes, Cassimeres, Dress Goods, Clothing, Notions &c., &c. They have also in store a splendid assortment of Carpetings of the latest patterns and styles. A $1000. stock of Shawls—the largest ever brought to this market, and to which they invite the particular attention of ladies—and goods of every description needed by the people to supply the demands of the coming cold weather. All of which they have determined to sell at very low prices.

N. B.—Highest prices paid for dried fruit.

To Registrars.—Part of Chapter 297 Section 5: And they (the Registrars) shall give at least ten days notice of the time and place of their sitting by publication in the several counties in which a newspaper is published having the largest circulation. —Bachelor.

The above is taken from the act of 1868, which was repealed in 1870, and the following (latter clause of Section 10 Chapter 459) enacted: And in one newspaper in each county in which a newspaper is published, and also by by handbills posted at such public places as said officers shall select in said ward and district.

Heretofore it has been the custom in Wicomico county for the Eastern Shoreman to publish the notices for those Registrars residing in the districts formerly attached to Worcester, and for the Advertiser to publish those on the Somerset side. The custom, has proved satisfactory to the Registrars and people—has been approved by the county authorities, who authorized it, and the law has not been deviated from one iota—for no one notice has ever been published in more than one paper.

The Bachelor with characteristic coolness, has appropriated the whole of this printing without any authority under heavens, and tries to sustain a false position by inserting a clause of a repealed law about the largest circulation &c.

We are not prepared to admit the boast so continuously flaunted in the face of the public, that that paper has the largest circulation of any publication in the county; for our worthy assistant Postmaster, Mr. Robert Ellegood, gave us the assurance last Thursday, that the boast was without foundation. Therefore, since the position taken by the proprietors of our very enterprising contemporary cannot be bolstered up by a scrap of dead law, nor strengthened by a larger circulation than the Advertiser, we cannot conceive of any pretext upon which the position can be maintained, save the right of proscription, and surely our able contemporary possesses too much knowledge of law and common sense to be guilty of such absurdity.

We have published to-day, notices for five Election Districts, and will send the handbills in due season.

Natures Gifts

Scientifically Developed.

As mankind, from indigestion or other causes, has been doomed to suffer from disease, so also has remedy for disease been provided. Our hills and valleys abound with roots and herbs, which if scientifically prepared and compounded, will restore health and vigor to the invalid. To find such a remedy we should seek one that has stood the test of age.

HOOFLAND'S German Bitters.

And all diseases arising from it. The great preventive of

FEVER AND AGUE.

It is an impossibility for any one to have Fever and Ague, if they will use a few bottles of this remedy each spring and fall.

$100 $100 $100

Will be given for any case of this disease that occurs to any one that uses the Bitters or Tonic as a preventive.

-II-

Those who have the Fever and Ague will find, after the chills have stopped, that by using a few bottles of the Bitters or Tonic, that the disease will not return.

These remedies will rebuild their Constitution faster than any other known remedy.

The remedies were placed before the public thirty years ago, with all the prejudices of so-called "patent medicine" operating against them, but gradually their virtues became known, and now, to day, they stand at the head of all preparations of their class, with the indorsement of eminent judges, lawyers, clergymen and physicians.

Read the following symptoms, and if you find that your system is affected by any of them you may rest assured that disease has commenced its attack on the most important organs of your body, and unless soon checked by the use of powerful remedies, a miserable life, soon terminating in death, will be the result.

ON BOARD BRIG "CASSANDRA,"
July 7th, 1871.
My DEAR JOHN:
You are aware before now, of my being missed from New York, but you are the only one as yet cognizant of my intention and you will not be surprised at my story when you hear it,
but don't feel that you are not shielded from not devoting it before. There are numbers of families in New York,
with a skeleton in their houses, of which no one knows anything but the innates. I was married in January, 1869. A cold wind swept the streets of New York—the snow was piled in huge banks along the street and everything bore the appearance of desolation. That night a brilliant throng assembled at a brown stone mansion
on Madison Avenue, to witness the ceremony of my marriage to the beautiful, wealthy and accomplished Miss
L. Everything which art could im-

Providence, or wealth obtain, was adopted to make that ceremony a noticeable affair. The brilliant light of a chandelier threw its gleams upon "stately dames and brilliant belles" upon men
known in letters, politics and in business—
"Soft eyes looked love to eyes which spoke again."
And all went merry as a marriage bell.
The ceremony passed, the merry
dance and voluptuous waltz protracted the ceremony until dawn. The company broke up and as I was bidding
good-night to a friend at the door,
I noticed a large drift of snow upon
the stoop, I ordered a servant to shovel
it off, and horror—it was found to be the spotless mantle of a poor Harp-
r and his little daughter, who weary
and foot sore sank down to rest,
soon sleep closed their eyelids
and the sleep of death relieved them
of all further suffering. I was horrified, and from that moment, when I turned again in the house, I felt a "sense of fear, the spirit haunted." It was as some demon pursuing and never overtaking. When the luster of enjoyment of my married life wore off,
I felt to my utter disappointment that I was undone. I became restless. I had married a bedridden woman of fashion. My fondest hopes vanished
and I realized that like Lady Clara Verde de Vere, I was
"Sickening of a vague disease."
I had in my rapture, mistaken insensitivity for modesty, and dulness for sweet bashfulness. I who thought to be possessing myself of "one of Earth's least mortal daughters," had gained
the Miller's tool and the trimming store self.
When she would bend her eyes upon
me in a sweet, affectionate manner,
I always noticed that one eye nearly closed, while the other had the stare
of a grave yard goblin. That eye worried and confronted me in every moment of life. In sweet sleep, I was continually dreaming that the eye of a demon was looking down and divining
my inmost thoughts. I affected a desire to travel, and the horrors of that voyage were worse than the sufferings of a shipwrecked crew. A chapter of misfortunes, which would cause any young man entering the state of fancied happiness, caution, and frighten
even pity of commiseration. I recon-strated with her, about her devotion to fashion, and begged that she would turn her eyes to letters and prudence
and effect, which the adversities of fortune could not deprive or envy en-slave.
We took passage on board of a Canadian and sailed for Europe.
When off the Grand Banks, a terrible storm piled up the waves and the ship
was laboring terribly, the angry bil-lows, broke their crested heads upon her deck and swept them of every mo-vable. My wife anxious to appear strong, when really delicate, walked upon deck, a fierce wave sent her
against the bulwarks, mangled her face in a terrible manner. She was carried to her State-room where she lay unconscious until morning. I sat up the entire night, wringing my hands in the anguish of sorrow. Soon
I heard a hoarse noise, a terrible thought rushed upon me, the ship was struggling with the angry elements,
my horror I thought I had a stateroom below the rudder chains and the noise was so excruciating, that I walked my room in agony. I placed my ear to my wife's heart to see if it was regular in its beat, when I felt as if the drum of my ear had been torn from its place—I was stunned, John,
my wife lay asleep, with the infernal stare of one eye, snoring. It was too true—I fainted—first there came the loss of every sense and I fell exhausted on the floor. At early noon
I summoned the Surgeon, a frightful gash appeared on her neck as if by a sabre cut. The Surgeon looked and shook his head and then went away.
That said I, is a queer diagnosis for a woman who is at death's door. I rushed to my hand-satchel and got my operating glasses and placed the glass upon
the neck, adjusted the lens and applied my eye, Sta!pha! It was a crack of her neck—truly it was enameled—I was stupefied.
I entered my stateroom with a feeling to endure, what I could not cure.
I was stupefied. Like Enneas, I began to think in my misfortune what divinity had presaged me. I rushed to the deck determined to throw
myself in the seething brine, "unwept, uncomforted and unknown"—but my better feelings prevented and I returned to endure it to the last, with Spartan resolution. I returned to her, and at in silence, visions of former happiness floated away in my imagination
and the settled gloom of the "Starless
night of desolation" seemed to drop
its leaden folds around existence.
Would that I were John, in the Isle
of Patmos where the stern and terrible
visions of the Apocalypse, would unfold to me the glory of the other
worlds, the
"Crystal river of the spirits joy
The Bridal palace of the Prince of Peace."
But John, I cannot stand this mar-

Selected Poetry.

A Grand old Poem.

Who shall judge a man from manners?
Who shall know him by his dress?
Paupers may be fit for princes.
Princes fit for something less.
Crumpled shirt and dirty jacket,
May be, clothed the golden ore.
Satin vests could do no more.
There are springs of crystal nectar
Ever welling out of stone,
There are purple buds and golden
Hidden, crushed and overgrown;
God, who counts by souls, not dresses,
Loves and prospers you and me,
While he values throngs the highest
But as pebbles in the sea.
Man upraised above his fellows,
O'er forgets his fellows then;
Masters, rulers, lords remember
That your meanest hinds are men;
Men by labor, men by feeling,
Men by thoughts, men by frame,
Claiming equal rights to sunshine
In a man's ennobling name.
There are foam embroidered oceans,
There are little-weed-clad rills;
There are feeble high-sung saplings,
There are cedars on the hills.
God, who counts by souls' not stations,
Loves and prospers you and me;
For, to him all vain distinctions
Lie as the pebbles in the sea.
Telling hands alone are builders
Of a nation's wealth or fame;
Titled laziness is pensioned,
Fed and fattened on the same;
By the sweat of others' forebrows,
Living only to rejoice,
While the poor man's outraged freedom
Vainly lifted up his voice.
Truth and justice are eternal,
Born with loveless and light,
Secret wrongs shall never prosper
While there is a sunny right;
God whose world heard voice is singing
Boundless love to you and me,
Sinks oppression with its titles,
As pebbles in the sea.

Correspondence of the "Advertiser."
Mourful Death of a Man Much Married.
DRUMMOND TOWN, Va.,
Sept. 29, 1871.

Messrs. Editors:

I have noticed that country papers
were always grateful for local news
and thereby rendering themselves the more interesting on that account. I enclose you a letter which I hope you will publish, as your paper has the largest circulation of any in your country; reaches the largest number of city
readers, with I trust, reach the sight
of some person who is anxiously waiting for some news of the individual in question. I will begin as it is necessary to give the circumstances which bear in any way upon the melancholy
instance:

Assateague is an Island on the coast, formed by the Atlantic and the land-locked bay, running down the whole Peninsula, bordering on both the coast of Maryland and Virginia.
Hither great crowds repair from the neighboring country to refresh themselves during the days of the raging
"dog star" and spend several weeks in truly patriarchal style. One evening a lady and gentlemen were seated together on the beach, looking out into the broad expanse of waters and the huge breakers, rolling gradually and bursting on the beach. The lady espied something like a bottle being washed by the returning sea. She bantered her gallant to seize and see what it contained, for said she, it might be the last message of some shipwrecked sailor to his betrothed or some wayward son's appeal to his pious mother, whom he had left. The mouth of the bottle was found to be enclosed with oil cloth and containing something resembling paper. They opened it and when they had read it, the far off dreams
of happiness which they were indulging, died gradually away as the wave
dies upon the shore or the tints of the setting sun, grow dimmer and
dimmer on the broad expanse of waters.

of Patmos where the stern and terrible
visions of the Apocalypse, would un-
fold to me the glory of the other
worlds, the
"Crystal river of the spirits joy
The Bridal palace of the Prince of Peace."
But John, I cannot stand this martyrdom. The enduring thirst of Sy-siphos or Ixion toiling at his wheel

could not accumulate in this short life,
too short—even to conceive of a distant hope, (as Horace says) so many ills as mortify my spirit.
After an absence of only eight months
we returned, the crescent moon which attacked her face, felt its power braved when it touched her glass eye, that was too much for the malady. She is now entirely disfigured, sick of life
herself, she does nothing in her distress but peel off, the different layers
of enamel and throw the bits at flies
on the window.
I left New York on the "Cassandra" in June with a firm determination to see it no more.
Can you imagine a worse case than mine? No home to greet, no eye, (but glass) to sparkle at my return. Yes,
even worse, with every hope blasted.
Sight no pleasure, nature no charm—
ruined, wrecked and undone. I fly from the habitation of man. The dul-
ness of despair closing slowly around until enveloped in its folds, I embrace the horrid hope of annihilation.
If ever you marry, be certain what you do, calculate every chance, place
no faith in figure or face. The arts to sooth is a chimera for "woman truly creates half the sorrows she boasts her power to soothe." Already the gloomy mansions of Pluto await me,
and the settled weariness of which the Hebrew wanderer bore, arising from all he thought of heard, closes around and the terrible eye of that demon is staring from the wall. I commit myself to destruction. It is idle to ask for salvation, when death ensues by my own hand, for my doom was sealed on the day of my marriage. Farewell forever. Remember my fate and shun its beginning.
Yours truly for a moment,
HENRI H. TARFEDO.

Such is the letter. I give it to you without a word of commendation. The letter has caused a great sensation in Accomac. I hope it will reach the anxious friends awaiting tidings of the lost. I am a bachelor from choice, but that letter is enough to have made
me one before.
Yours truly,
Lanc.

TAMING OF THE BRIDE-GROOM.

Mr. Spillman had just married a second wife. On the day after the wedding Mr. S. remarked:
"I intend, Mrs. Spillman, to enlarge my dairy."
"You mean our dairy, my dear,"
replied Mrs. Spillman.
"No," quoth Mr. Spillman, "I intend to enlarge my dairy."
"Say our dairy, Mr. Spillman."
"No, my dairy."
"Say our dairy, say our—" screamed
she, seizing the poker.
"My dairy! my dairy!" yelled the husband.
"Our dairy! dairy! screamed the wife, emphasizing each word by a blow on the back of cringing spouse.
Mr. Spillman retreated under the bed. In passing under the bedclothes his hat was brushed off. He remained under cover several minutes waiting for a lull in the storm. At last
his wife saw him thrust his head out at the foot of the bed, much like a turtle from its shell.
"What are you looking for?" exclaimed the lady.
"I am looking for our hat, my dear,"
said he.

SEEKING IS DECEIVING.—Here is a row of ordinary capital letters and figures:
SSSSXXXZZZZ33338888
They are such as are made up of two parts of equal shapes. Look carefully at these, and you will perceive
that the upper halves of the characters
are very little smaller than the lower halves—so little that an ordinary eye
will declare them to be of equal size.
Now turn the page upside down, and without any careful looking you will see that this difference in size is very much exaggerated—that the real top half of the letter is very much smaller than the bottom half. It will be seen from this that there is a tendency in any object upon which it looks. We might draw two circles of unequal size, and so place them that they should appear equal.—Once a Week.

Nothing so momentous as principles
as sure as August shows the work of the farmer, so sure the future will show the principles thou art cultivating now. "Buy then the truth!" buy it at any cost, for any amount of labor, sacrifice or talent—buy it, and when thou hast it, sell it not! Sell it not for pleasure, for prosperity, for fame or for life. Get holy principles and thou shalt get the pinions of an angel, which shall bear thee above all the clouds and storms of earth. into
the sunshine and calm of eternity.

The principal, if not the only difference betwixt honesty and honor,
seems to lie in their different motives;
the object of the latter being reputation, and of the former, duty.

An Interview with the Ex-Empress Eugenie.

From the London Globe.

Cassell's Magazine for October, with an early copy of which we have been favored contains an article by a lady who visited
and conversed with the ex-Empress Eugenie
at Chislehurst. The writer says:
She looked what Tennyson calls divinely
fair, but as one who has suffered much.
There was a worn, weary look inexpressibly pathetic in her eyes just touched over the lower lids with black; her cheeks were thin and very pale, her fair hair simply arranged low on the neck behind, drawn back at the sides, and with curls on the forehead, and it was her own hair—distinctly and palpably her own. Her dress was of black paramatta, self-trimmed, with a small tunic, and a general look of scantinous about it. She wore a little white shirt collar and cuffs, and not a single jewel, save one diamond star that held the little collar. Her manner suits her imperial presence—simple, courteous, earnest.
It is as of a really-wild woman, sweet tempered, full of human interests and feelings, impressible, mobile, fascinating,
emphasizing all she says with her gran-
it Spanish eyes, that might almost stand
her in lieu of speech, so eloquently
do they converse.
There is a wonderful and varied charm
about her. Cleopatra-like, that neither age nor custom can wither or stale. To see how the woman struggled with the Empress, and how it brought her down to claim sympathy
and pity from a solitary stranger was very touching. Decorum alone kept tears from my eyes.

She began in English (which she speaks
readily, and with a good accent, only now
and then wanting a word which she asks
you with her eyes to supply) by regretting
that the Empress was too ill to see me.
"Not seriously ill, far from it," she said,
"thank God, but suffering greatly from rheumatic pains, in consequence of a chill
when she first arrived at Chislehurst. The weather had been warm and fine, and he had been tempted out, too much I was sorry for it, as so cold at Witley, and he had had incautiously taken off his paletot, and so caught cold, which had produced an attack of rheumatism."
Then she expressed much interest about the place I came from. It was associated with her early life. "Ah! how happy I was then—it seems like a dream—so happy, and her glorious eyes glistened."
"How well I remember the house where I was at school, the broad terrace and the distant hills, and my companions—my dear friends—they have not forgotten me."
"Yes," said I, "Young Mrs. B. —"
"Young! ah, no," she said, and laughed.
"She is not young, she is my age, and that is not young."
It is not all that to contradict sovereigns
but as she said this she was a living contradiction of her own statement. She looks wonderfully youthful, and her presen-timeness is very becoming in this respect.
"When I first came to England," she continued, "I desired to go there."
"Ah, madame, why did you not come?
We would have received you with enthusiasm."
She bowed. "Yes, I wished it; it was my first thought, but it could not be."
"But madame, will you not come among us, and see your old haunts?"
"Sometimes, perhaps, but not now. I cannot; the Empress is ill. I cannot leave him, and I go nowhere. I think of nothing, day and night but of poor France.
Ah, what horrors will be passed through our France can be at peace! Those dreadful scenes are always before me, and the end
is not yet."
Her eyes filled with tears and rested on her shabby black dress—and this was the late Queen of fashion—and her look seemed to say, "See how I mourn!" And it was true. There is often a whole world of pathos in little trifles that involuntarily bear
witness to the individual mind.
"Madame," said I, "there is but one consolation—the worse things go in France
the more the Empress is sure to be recalled. It is the Empress alone who can govern France. They are like bad children, and I require the master-hand of wholesome restraint and discipline."
"I do not wish to return—I suffered too much, but I trust that events will justify the Empress. Surely the world must come to see what kind of people he had to govern. The Empress knew that these people were in Paris—for twenty years they knew it, and he did not shoot them. It was too merciful."
"Madame," said I, "it is as though the Fenians ruled in London. The Reds are the same all over the world."
"The Empress is blamed for everything," said she; "yet how rich and prosperous France has been for so many years.
The wages of the laborers andouvriers were high and work was plentiful. To Paris came all the world, and money was spent. Now the taxes have not been paid for three whole months. The taxes not paid and no money at the Bourse. The Empress is blamed, too, for the war. He was against it. Such blame is most unjust. But—and she drew herself up—
"we do not desire justification. Time will do that. Let events speak. By and by Europe shall judge the Empress fairly."

I expressed a hope that the trials she had undergone in Paris had not injured
her health.
"I was forsaken by all the ministers,
Trochu, whom the Empress had appointed to govern. They all left me, and betrayed
me. What could I do? I was alone.
Ah," she added, with an inspired look,
"it was my passion!"
She turned her tearful eyes to heaven.
"Her passion!" Could anything be more touching? Woman as I was I could have died for her.

"I was alone," she repeated, as though in justification; utterly abandoned. "What could I do but fly? I was not afraid. I could look death in the face; but all had left me."

"Were the details of your majesty's flight which appeared in the newspapers
accurate?" "Yes," said she, "tolerably so.
For thirty days I was guarded by these men of Belleville. Oh, it was horrible.
They took possession of the Tuileries. My only happiness was, that I suffered alone.
The Emperor away and my boy safe. No!
I could not have borne it had my boy been
in danger."
Again the inspired look came into the beautiful Spanish eyes.
"By what door did these wretches enter the Tuileries malame?"
"Everywhere—by all the doors, and the windows too. They came down from the Place de la Concorde. I saw them coming through the trees. Then they broke over the fences into the reserved
garden, and at last smashed the lower windows and broke open the doors. They came, too, on the other side, from the Place du Carrousel; black masses of men,
pressing closer and closer, they, too, broke in everywhere. No one opposed them; the guards were gone. There were horrible cries, and screams, and oaths. From these things I expected death; I saw it in their faces, these Belleville men, they wanted my blood. I was so weary I did not care to live or to die was the same to me. For the last three days there was a change; more savage men came about me.
I never left my room; I lay down a little
on my bed for rest, but I did not undress,
I would not be murdered in my bed in my
night-dress."

She made a little motion with her hand
as she said this that I cannot describe. It told of the delicacy of the woman, and the lofty decorum of the sovereign, that carefully gathered her robes around her as she died.
"Madame," said I, had you fallen by the hands of these wretches, you would have lived forever in history and poetry.
Every art would have been evoked to celebrate your memory. You would have undone the beauty and fascination of Mary Queen of Scots to the various fortune of Maria Antoinette. It would have been a glorious immortality!"
"Yes," she said, melting into the sweetest, merriest smile; "yes, that is all very well, but I would like to enjoy yet a little in my life."
"God grant you may, madame," replied
I.

The Empress then glanced at a clock.
"You have come far to see me, you must return. Your train will be soon due; you must not lose it." How I wished that time had ceased to be—how I longed to go on listening to that musical voice and looking into those portent eyes! She rose.
She was again the Empress—and stood
there grandly calm, to receive my salutations. It was a rapid change from the fascinating woman to the lofty sovereign.
She did not even offer me her hand; she only bowed her head, and I retreated backwards
into the hall where the lady in waiting
received and conducted me to the door.

The impression left on my mind was that Marie Antoinette had been speaking to me
escaped by a miracle from the Temple—
Marie Antoinette younger and more womanly, without the proud austere reserve.

From the Age & Intelligence.

The Celebrated Passion Play.

We have received from Dr. Wake Man-gath—a native of this place, at present traveling in Europe, a small pamphlet, containing a condensed description of the celebrated "Passion Play," as it is termed,
which is enacted every ten years, at Oberammergau, in Germany. The origin and character of this famous representation,
which attracts thousands of persons from all parts of Europe, are briefly as follows:
In the old parish records of Oberammergau can be read:
"In the year 1633 the pest raged so
fiercely that in the parish of Kohlgrub (three hours from here) were there only two couples left, and a man named Caspar Schneider, coming here to visit his wife and child, fell by the roadside and was buried.
From that day to the eve of Simon and Jude, a period of three weeks, eighty-four people died of the plague; accordingly
eighteen Burgers, assembled from the village of Oberammergau, vowed that once
in ten years they would present, in living pictures, the Passion of Jesus Christ. From that instant the plague ceased, and those who were ill instantly recovered."
Thus we have the origin of the Oberammergau Passion Drama, and with two or three exceptions—the vow has been faithfully observed every ten years. Interrupted by last year's war, the representations were

The principal characters are chosen, as the individual personating Christ must allow his hair to grow for that length of time, as also, Joseph of Arimathea, St.
John, and many of the disciples, while the beards are aimed to imitate as nearly as possible the best existing pictures of the various characters.

An eye-witness gives the following description of the drama.
Eight o'clock finds us at the theatre, the interior of which presents a most singular appearance, crowded to overflowing with representatives of every nationality, mingled with the odd characteristic costumes
of the neighboring districts. The announcement of the Sacred drama is accompanied by the firing of small cannon called "Pöckler."
As the echoes die away, the Babel of tongues and clamor of eager expectancy
are hushed by the solemn tender notes of the wailing overture.

As the last strains of the introductory music fall upon the ear, the Genii, or chorus-singers enter, and explain, or enforce as occasion demands, the tableaux or representation about to take place. The chorus consists of twenty persons eight men and twelve women—being all similarly attired in bright-colored flowing robes,
and wearing the Greek fillet upon the forehead they present a classical appearance
greatly in harmony with the duty devolving upon them. The choir come upon the stage after the manner of the Greek chorus
singing the prologue.
The curtain rising as they retire, displays the tableau of "Adam and Eve driven from Paradise." Again the choir, and the first act, showing the streets of Jerusalem through which the multitude come shouting hosannas, and strewing palm-branches, Christ in the midst, riding on an ass.

The whole audience tremble with excitement and the expectant hush is painful, as the personation of One so sacred to most of us makes his appearance. Our expectation is not to be disappointed for the tender, yet firm and dignified expression,
heightened in effect by the long dark hair
soft mill eye, plaintive yet commanding
voice, the whole face and figure, realize marvellously one's idea of the "God-man."
Every movement is natural, but indicative of extraordinary being. One forgets in the momentary, but intense feeling of reality that the dark green hills beyond the theatre are Bavarian, and fancies them
"the mountains round about Jerusalem,"
while the tall, swaying poplars which form
a line on each side of the theatre, help to strengthen the delusion and make one imagine one's self among the jubilant crowd
under the blue skies of Judea.

From 8 A. M. till 12 noon the various incidents in Christ's life are represented, closing with "Judas, Betrayer."
Every little detail is carefully observed, the festal washing, the sop of Judas, and the consecration.
"After holy refreshment" as the little text-book has it, the audience resume their seats at one o'clock, noon, and the wondrous drama proceeds with "Christ's trial
before Annas and the Jewish priests"—before Pilate, who literally washes his hands of "the blood of this just person." In this scene Christ and Barabbas are brought out on the balcony of the Roman governor
while the Jewish priests and the rabble
stand in the street making their accusations.
Then follows the release of Barabbas
and the "Cross-bearing," which is made particularly touching. Far in the midst stage is seen

Defaulters to the State.
STATE OF MARYLAND,
Treasury Department,
COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Annapolis, October 6th, 1871.
In compliance with Section 6, Article 69, Code of Public General Laws, to wit: "The Comptroller shall furnish each officer of the State whose accounts are in arrears, at least sixty days prior to a general election, a full statement of his accounts, and in default of his accounting for such deficiencies within thirty days, then it shall be the duty of the Comptroller to have published weekly for one month, in one or more newspapers in the several counties of the State and the city of Baltimore, the names and titles of said officers, with the amount of such deficiencies."
I herewith publish the following list which embraces the names of all accounting officers in default to the State of Maryland, together with the amount of principal and interest due by each.

Vol. 5.

SALISBURY, WICOMICO COUNTY, MD., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1871.

No. 6.

Defaulters to the State.

STATE OF MARYLAND.

Treasury Department.

Annapolis, October 6th, 1871.

In compliance with Section 6, Article 69, Code of Public General Laws, to wit:

"The Comptroller shall furnish each officer of the State whose accounts are in arrears, at least sixty days prior to a general election, a full statement of his accounts, and in default of his accounting for such deficiencies within thirty days, then it shall be the duty of the Comptroller to have published weekly for one month, in one or more newspapers in the several counties of the State and the city of Baltimore, the names and titles of said officers, with the amount of such deficiencies."

Interests published the following list which embraces the names of all accounting officers in default to the State of Maryland, together with the amount of principal and interest due by each.

LEVIN WOLFORD, Comptroller.

STATE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR,

Hon. W. Pinkney Whyte.

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL,

Andrew K. Syester.

FOR COMPTROLLER,

Col. Levin Woolford.

County Democratic Ticket.

For Sheriff,

ANDREW J. CRAWFORD.

For House of Delegates,

JOSHUA JOHNSON,

WM. J. LANGRELL.

For Sheriff,

WILLIAM TWILLEY,

For State's Attorney,

J. AUGUSTUS PARSONS.

For Judges of the Orphans' Court,

JAMES LAWS,

GEORGE L. WOODFORD,

HUGH JACKSON.

For County Commissioners,

THOMAS J. WILLY,

JOSEPH L. STATION,

ELIJAH FRENEY.

For County Surveys,

JOHN W. SMITH.

It must be apparent to all, that the Democracy of Wicomico had a free expression of opinion at the primary meetings and county convention, in the selection of candidates for the several offices; for never before, in the history of the county, has so much interest been manifested in primary meetings as in the present campaign. Notwithstanding this fact, there are a few, who prompted by the spirit of pecuniary gain, hope to ride into office by creating a split in the Democratic ranks, and league themselves with the Republican element. We feel assured, however, that no sound Democrat will aid in the support of such a selfish scheme; and that there are only a few, who are so deaf to the vital interests of the party, as to assist in disseminating discord in its ranks. At this stage of our political career, union of action is our only safeguard; we cannot, therefore, place too high an estimate upon the advantages of presenting an united front. For, in the coming contest, the Democracy of Wicomico allows itself to be divided through the bickering of a few dissatisfied candidates, the lustre of the victories we have so gloriously achieved in the past, will assuredly be tarnished with a signal defeat.

Believing then, that harmony is a necessary element of success, we hope every lover of Democracy will give his hearty support to the nominated ticket, and by his ballot, assist in defeating the futile effort of a Radical caucus.

MURDER AND LYNCH LAW.

Louisville, Ky., October 17.—On Sunday last, in Warsaw, Ky., a man named Gridley, said to be a desperate character, shot out of a hotel window at a man named Worth, with whom he had a difficulty, and inflicted a mortal wound. Gridley was arrested and imprisoned, and about 2 o'clock yesterday morning a party of men went into the jail and broke a hole through into Gridley's cell with crowbars, and freed him and killed the prisoner. The occurrence created considerable excitement at Warsaw.

LABOR REFORM IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Concord, N. H., October 17.—The Labor Reform State Committee met at Elm House this evening and passed resolutions to the following effect: That political events show the need of a new party; that the New York Tammany frauds find a parallel in the New York Custom-house, that while we do not ignore the record of Butler, we thank him on behalf of the laboring classes for his truthful and urgent statements of facts in the late Massachusetts canvass; that we invite the co-operation of all, irrespective of past political belief, at the coming convention to be held in December.

FANATISM IN RUSSIA.

London, October 17.—Advices from Odessa state that eight hundred buildings in the town of Bogoslov have been burned by incendiary fires, believed to be the work of the fanatical oppressors of the Jews. A great proportion of the inhabitants of the town are of the Jewish faith.

THE FLOODS IN CHINA.

London, October 17.—Details received from recent storms and floods in China are of a most disastrous nature. At least three hundred persons are said to have perished.

The Northwest Fires.

TWELVE HUNDRED LIVES LOST.

Wisconsin and Michigan Swept by Flame.

VILLAGES AND CITIES BURNED.

Milwaukee, October 15.—Later accounts from Northern Wisconsin confirm all previous reports and rumors. The loss of life in the neighborhood of Pishtigo will reach over 1,200. Fifteen per cent, of those injured cannot recover.

A member of the Relief Committee sent from Milwaukee with supplies says: The only survivors were those who were fortunate enough to reach the water, many throwing themselves into mill ponds, clinging to floating logs.

A number of those who were drowned by being thrown from the logs by maddened horses and cattle that rushed into the water. The fire swept over a tract of country eight or ten miles wide. Every building, fence, and all the timber were completely destroyed. The population of Pishtigo numbered one thousand one-third of whom perished that fearful night.

Reports from the east shore of Green Bay place the loss of life fully as high as at Pishtigo. The same account states that the immediate wants of the people are supplied but large amounts of provisions and clothing will be required for the coming winter. The mayor of Milwaukee has issued an appeal to the people of the country for aid.

FOURTEEN VILLAGES BURNED.

At Forestville the catastrophe was similar to that at White. There was no hint at midnight of the impending disaster; but shortly after that time a rushing, roaring flame was heard and seen fifty feet high, leaping from stump to stump, from house to house, until in an incredibly short space of time the whole village was in flames. The fire followed close upon the track of the fugitives until they reached the lake. The boarders at the hotel had scarcely time to escape from their beds. The very air seemed to be on fire.

Thetown of Verona, New River, Sand Beach, Huron City, a portion of Port Hope, Cecent, Centz Harbor, Elm Creek, White Rock, Paris Cracow, Minden, and the Polish settlement near Forestville, have also been destroyed; those on the lake to the very water's edge. These towns represent a population of at least 6,000 people. The loss of property amounts to from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, not including lumber and timber destroyed.

At Port Hope the mill, dock, ten dwellings, and the large steam tannery of S. M. Mann & Co. were entirely destroyed. Two thousand cords of wood and 600 cords of bark were burned. The rest of the village was saved. All the farms and buildings between Port Hope and Forest Bay were burned.

At Forest Bay nearly every building is burned. John Hopson's mill and residence below Forest Bay are entirely destroyed. Mrs. Emery, who lived back of Forest Bay, was very badly burned on the breast and face. Mr. Perkins was burned in the face and his eyesight supposed to be destroyed. A girl about fifteen years of age, living at John Hopson's below Forest Bay, was so badly burned that it was feared she could not live.

THE BURNING OF MANISTE.

The fire which broke out in the premises northeast of Manistee last week had nearly subsided when, on Saturday, a heavy gale sprang up from the southward, driving the flames and cinders toward Gifford & Buddock's mill. This the fire company checked but on Sunday evening a fire broke out near Canfield's mill, which is situated at the mouth of the river. In less than half an hour the mill, together with about 20 dwelling houses and boarding houses, were totally consumed. A hill intervening between this and the town, the fire could run no further, and people were already congratulating themselves upon the narrow escape of Manistee when a bright light was noticed northeast from the scene, where a number of dwellings were found to be in flames. The fire spread rapidly until it had destroyed the whole of the business portion of the town, including nearly all the stores and sawmills. The schoolhouse, Seneca Chief, which was loaded with hay and grain, was burned to the water's edge. The swing bridge was also destroyed. Both sides of Main street for a distance of five blocks were burned over, and almost everything on the north side of the river was destroyed. Some 1,500 or 1,800 people have been driven out of their homes.

The bank and shoe shop, rendered familiar by the Vanderpool trials, were among the buildings burned. The residence of Vanderpool was destroyed, as were also the residence of D. D. Ruggies, the house and office of Gen. Cutchener, and the mills of McGill & Canfield, Tyson & Robinson, Green & Milner, Cushman & Co., Libben & Co., and others. The Manistee Standard was also burned out. The total loss is estimated at $1,300,000, and the insurance at $250,000.

THE FIRE IN THE INTERIOR.

From the interior people are constantly coming to the shore of the lake, driven like cattle by the pitiless, ferocious fire. The destruction of life for the space of 30 miles in the interior back from the shore no longer estimates. The fire creeps under the ground, burning up the roots of the trees which fall on this side and that, their heavy trunks being piled up like an arbutus, obstructing the roads with barricades 20 feet high. The bridges are everywhere burned so that escape at present for those living in the interior seems almost impossible. Dead bodies burned to a crisp have already been found, and buried with as much care as the fugitives from the same fate could give them. A little heap of sand constitutes a grave, when the sextons are themselves in a headlong flight from death. One woman at White Rock sent her five children forward to the lake shore through a pine "slashing," and she followed them almost immediately, but could not find them. The fire drove her forward into the lake, and it is believed that the children all perished in the flames.

Doat-age—the age of infancy. There has been no mention lately of Butler's Amos. The Duke of Argyll owns a yacht called the "Columbia."

air Edward Thornton, the British minister, and family, are expected in Washington this week.

The Hanging of Barney Aaron in Chicago.

Among those who arrived in New York from Chicago on Sunday evening was George W. Smith, who with his brother-in-law, kept a cigar store at 185 Van Buren street. Mr. Smith was a special policeman during the great conflagration, and describes his experience as follows:

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Smith was sworn in as a special policeman. He stood at Randolph and Clark streets with about forty others. Mayor Mason took up his position opposite them, and read the oath of office. When he had finished he asked:

"Do you swear to this gentlemen?" Each man answered "Aye."

A gentleman who stood close by the Mayor suggested that they should shoot down any one whom they caught pillaging. The suggestion was enthusiastically received. Then a gentleman, who was said to be a member of the City Council, and who subsequently acted as a leader of the special police, passed through the line and gave a revolver to each man.

Mr. Smith, with four others, was detailed to do duty at Clark and Randolph streets. On this corner was the palatial jewelry store of Miller & Co. Early on Tuesday afternoon Mr. Smith was talking with Mr. Miller, the proprietor of the jewelry firm, and saw Barney Aaron standing on the sidewalk about twenty feet from him.

"Mr. Miller," said Smith, there's a notorious New York thief, Barney Aaron, his name is. I've seen him at sparring exhibitions, and know him well. Better keep an eye on him."

Mr. Smith had seen Barney Aaron at a sparring exhibition in a saloon in New York. He had also seen him in a saloon on La Salle street, in Chicago.

Five minutes after this the roof of Miller's store took fire, and Barney Aaron attempted to force his way into the establishment through the side door in Clark street. A number of gentlemen were standing near the door, and demanded Aaron's authority for entering the store. The New York politician replied that he was employed by Miller & Co., and was endeavoring to save some of the stock. He was pushed back, and was soon lost in the crowd.

Twenty minutes afterward Miller's store was in full blaze. In the confusion which ensued Aaron and a companion made their way into the store. For a short time Mr. Smith's attention was diverted from Miller's establishment. When he looked in that direction again he saw Barney Aaron in the hands of four citizens, who were taking him from the store. Behind him were three men dragging an unknown ruffian, who was said by some to be Joe Buffs, of New York. They were hauled to a lamp post at Clark and Randolph streets and a halt was called. No one had a rope.

Soon an old gray-haired man, who wore the badge of a special, stepped forward with ten yards of twisted yarn wound around his arm. In one hand he carried a horse pistol. He cut the rope into two pieces, and handed one portion to each of the committee that had charge of Aaron and his companion. In a few minutes more the tragedy was over.

A nimble citizen climbed the lamp-post and slipped the rope over the projecting rail. The special police attempted to interfere, but were repulsed by the great crowd which had assembled. Barney Aaron died demanding a trial by jury, and begging for his life. His companion cursed and consigned his executors to perdition with his last breath. The lives of the two men would have been spared, had it not been for the violence of Aaron's companion.

Before the men were dead, Mr. Smith was called away. When he returned, half an hour afterward, the bodies had disappeared, but the rope was still hanging. In La Salle street, Mr. Smith saw the body of a man whom he thought he recognized as a New York thief called Jack Dowd, who once kept a saloon in Water street in New York.

EXTENSIVE FIRES IN THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS.

Washington, D. C., October 13.—General Humphreys, Chief of the Engineer Bureau, War Department, to-day received a letter from Clarence King, geologist, in charge of the geological expedition of the fortieth parallel, dated "Camp in Eastern United Mountains, October 3," in which he states that extensive fires have raged throughout the Rocky Mountains since August 26, filling the air with such volumes of smoke as to altogether stop their topographical work. On the 2d of October a heavy snow storm prevailed, and on the 3d, for the first time, the air was clear. Engineer King says the survey will be completed by the 1st of December, and that the expedition is very successful.

Foreign News.

The French Commercial Treaty—Riots at Newcastle—Railway Accident in Scotland.

London, October 13.—The Manchester Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting held to consider the proposed abrogation of the French commercial treaties adopted a resolution expressing profound regret at hearing that the French government contemplated a measure which would fetter the exchange of commerce between France and other countries.

RIOTS AT NEWCASTLE. The difficulty between employers and employed at Newcastle seems as far from settlement as ever. The masters now refuse to re-employ all of their old hands, and the employers will not agree to pay an advance or make concessions on time unless they can thereby secure the skilled labor of the old workmen. The strike therefore continues, and threatens to be attended with serious disturbances. Last night the services of the police were necessary to quell an incipient riot, in which several men were seriously hurt. A number of the rioters were arrested.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

There was an accident to the Scotch express train last night, by which several persons were injured.

ACCIDENT TO THE SHIP ROBIN.

Her Majesty's training-ship Robin was again damaged by a collision.

VICTORIA'S HEALTH.

The health of Queen Victoria is improving.

WORLD DEEPATCHES.

LONDON OFFICE OF "THE WORLD," Monday, October 16.

Bradlaugh, the Republican leader, addressed an immense meeting of workmen this evening. He declared that the Queen was insane, and then called for a regency, the executive power to be intrusted to the judges of the law and equity courts until the republic should be established at some future time. P. G. SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE DEMAND-ED.

London, October 17.—An address has been issued by representative working-men separation demanding of church and state in England. The address announces that meetings of workmen will be held throughout the country in support of this movement.

STARTLING POLITICAL MANOEUVRE—ALLIANCE BETWEEN THE LORDS AND LABORERS. [FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

London, October 4.—A new political alliance has been effected between a section of the leaders of the Conservative party and the representative men of the trades-unions and working-classes. The men who have brought about this alliance, which has been perfected to-day, after negotiations extending through several weeks, are fifteen of the most wealthy and influential Conservative peers, baronets, and members of Parliament, and an equal number of the leaders of the trades-unions, and other working-men's organizations. Among the former are the Marquis of Salisbury, the Duke of Richmond, Sir Stafford Northcote, Sir John Pakington, and Lord Lansdowne; and among the latter are Mr. Applegarth, late Secretary of the Amalgamated Carpenters, Mr. Allan, President of the Amalgamated Engineers; Mr. Guile, Mr. Howell, &c. The two parties were first brought together by Mr. Scott R. A. S. the builder of the Great Eastern. The basis of the alliance is an agreement that at the next session of Parliament there shall be introduced in the House of Lords, not in the Commons, an elaborate scheme for the repeal of the existing laws, the nationalization of the land to a certain extent, and other similar reforms; and that this measure shall be pushed forward upon the government with the whole strength of that portion of the Conservative party which can be induced to join the movement. This scheme is one drawn up by the fifteen representatives of the working-classes, and approved by the fifteen Conservative leaders. The latter said to the former: "State plainly what you want and what in your opinion will satisfy the people, we will examine it, and if we can approve it we pledge our word to bring forward your scheme and support it with our strength." This was done; and the scheme drawn up, which contains seven points, was examined and approved, and the alliance was finally effected to-day, the contract being actually signed and delivered.

It is understood that Lord Derby and Mr. Disraeli are both in favor of the scheme, and that the measure will be pushed forward upon the government with the whole strength of that portion of the Conservative party which can be induced to join the movement. It is understood that Lord Derby and Mr. Disraeli are both in favor of the scheme, and that the measure will be pushed forward upon the government with the whole strength of that portion of the Conservative party which can be induced to join the movement. This scheme is one drawn up by the fifteen representatives of the working-classes, and approved by the fifteen Conservative leaders. The latter said to the former: "State plainly what you want and what in your opinion will satisfy the people, we will examine it, and if we can approve it we pledge our word to bring forward your scheme and support it with our strength." This was done; and the scheme drawn up, which contains seven points, was examined and approved, and the alliance was finally effected to-day, the contract being actually signed and delivered.

THE MOLTON GOLD.

There passed through Lancaster Pa., on Monday morning, on route to the United States mint, in Philadelphia, two sacks taken from the Chicago fire, and containing gold coin which had been more or less melted by the "ferocious heat." One of them weighed 1,038 pounds and the other 990 pounds, they were in a terribly dilapidated condition, and considerable trouble was experienced in transferring them at the depot from the No. 2 to the No. 1 Lancaster train.

YELLOW FEVER AT CHARLESTON.

Charleston, S. C., October 17.—There were two deaths from yellow fever yesterday and two to-day.

MEXICO—RE-ELECTION OF JUAREZ.

Havana, October 17.—The steamer from Vera Cruz has arrived, bringing late dates from the Mexican capital.

Juarez had been re-elected President of the republic by Congress, receiving 400 votes, all that were cast. The opposition abstained from voting.

Everything was quiet in the City of Mexico.

The telegraph wires between the capital and matamorras had been cut by trevino.

Municipal Election in Baltimore City.

The Municipal election of Baltimore city took place on Wednesday last, and resulted in the election of a Democratic Mayor and members of the City Council, except in the fifteenth ward, where Mr. James Hughes (Republican) was elected by a majority of two votes. Mr. Vansant, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, obtained a large majority in every ward. The election was conducted without any serious disorder, and was more closely contested than similar elections for several years past. The total vote cast was 28,960, and was the largest given at any municipal election since the war.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT FROM A RADICAL SOURCE.

The Cincinnati Commercial's Nashville correspondent (H. V. Redfield), in a late letter pays the "traitors" and "rebels" of the South the following compliment:

"The Southern people look a man who uses a public office to enrich himself. What- ever may be their faults, they are honest. They do not worship the almighty dollar to the extent of bartering away their honor for it. The old Southern free eating Democrats we are taught were wicked men, and wicked they were, about some things, but they did not use their offices to fill their pockets. They did not form rings to make money, or establish gift enterprises. This old-fashioned honesty, this abhorrence of anything that looks like prostituting public office to private gain, is as abhorrent to the Southern people now as it ever was, and probably more, for they have been called upon since the war to have considerable experience with that sort of thing, and to know it is not to love it, especially when it is done at their expense. For the past six years the Southern States have been converted into an arena of robbery, presenting a spectacle of fraud and corruption perhaps unequalled in the history of the world, yet Southern-born men have had little to do with it. Your true Southerner if he has sense enough to get an office, has too much honor to steal. In all my experience as correspondent of the Commercial in the different Southern States, I have found the worst thieves, the most insatiable robbers, to be Northern men. There has been some stolen in South Carolina, or in Louisiana, since the war, but in all the Southern States put together, from the revolution to 1860, and the strangest thing about this whole business is that the greater the robbers the more intensely loyal they are, and for that, or the other reason, the higher in favor of Washington. If Hodge had been stationed down south, and had gotten up two or three Ku-Klux scares just on the eve of some election where take radicals were sore pressed, and thereby enabled them to carry the day, he would have been canonized instead of caged—though he had stolen $4,000,000 instead of $400,000 of the people's money."

BANK ROBBERY IN NEWARK.

A well-dressed man entered the Essex County National Bank late on Monday afternoon, when only three clerks were in the building, and engaged one of them in conversation relative to the purchase of some Essex county bonds. The bank had closed, but as it was customary with Newark banks, the doors were left unlocked. While the two were conversing, another well-dressed man entered and talked with another clerk about selling a certificate of deposit for $1,000. The third clerk left momentarily, and while the conversation was proceeding another stranger came in, stepped behind the counter and stole $4,000 in greenbacks. The three men left together. Information was left at the police station yesterday, and detectives were set at work on the case. They have received notice from the Savings Institution that the three men called at the place on Saturday and Sunday last, and that they had just left the building when the robbery was committed. A severe gale of wind, the building was quite recently erected.

THE CHOLERA.

London, October 17.—Advices from Constantinople state that the cholera has again made its appearance in that city and its suburbs. In two days sixty persons died from the epidemic, ten of whom were Englishmen.

A Catholic Church Blown Down.

Malone, N. Y., October 17.—On Sunday last the congregation of the Catholic church here had just left the basement when the church was blown down by a severe gale of wind, the building was quite recently erected.

THE PRESIDENT AT PORTLAND—ANOTHER SPEECH.

Portland, Me., October 20.—General Grant and suite arrived in this city between 5 and 6 o'clock this morning from Bangor. He was received at the depot by a committee of reception and taken quietly to the Falmouth House, where apartments had been arranged for the distinguished visitor. At 9 o'clock a procession was formed, consisting of the Portland Light Infantry, the Portland Mechanic Blues, the Portland Band, the Norway Light Infantry, the Auburn Band, the Portland cadets of the army and navy, the Union Grand Army of the Republic, and a large number of invited guests in carriages. A long line of march was gone over, several private residences being elaborately decorated. Mr. William Allen, of Deering street, had the inscription, "The will of the people March 4, 1873—U. S. Grant." At the conclusion of the parade a public reception was given by the President in the City Hall, which was handsomely decorated. He was introduced to the people by Mayor Kingsbury, and spoke as follows:

I have a vivid recollection of visiting your city six years ago. This is the second time I have been in your city, and am much pleased with the reception here, as well as at other places I have visited in your State. If I do not offend then I have before me I shall not make many more visits here before I shall be quite an old man.

The crowd was then informed that they could shake hands with the President, and immediately there was a crush and a jam so much so that it was too much even for the General, and he made a hasty exit by a back entrance.

At 12:30 the President and suite, with invited guests, sat down to an elegant spread at the Falmouth, and at 2 o'clock took a carriage for the depot where a special train awaited them. The wind was blowing cold and raw during the march, and the dust rendered it very uncomfortable.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

THE REPORTED BONAPARTIST CONSPIRACY.

London, October 23.—The Times this morning states that Napoleon has declared that the recent reports from France of a Bonapartist conspiracy and intended ascent upon the coast of France, entirely without foundation. The Emperor, claiming that he is the only legitimate sovereign of France, advocates no violent measures for the restoration of his dynasty, but believes his partisans should urge the taking of the will of the French people by the means of a plebiscite.

FRANCE.

LATER FROM CORSIKA.

Paris, October 23.—The disturbances in Corsica, of which reports have been heretofore made, amounted to nothing more than slight broils between the local police officers of Ajaccio and the people. No serious trouble has occurred nor is any anticipated.

It is said that Prince Napoleon has announced his intention to deliver a political speech to the people of Ajaccio. An extensive military establishment is to be formed at Bonifacio. It will comprise a school of artillery and an arsenal within the city, and an entrenched camp and series of forts outside. President Thiers will lay the foundation stone of the artillery school with appropriate ceremonies.

SCARCITY OF MONEY.

There is great scarcity of money in Paris and the crisis is daily increasing in the intensity of public distress. The Bank of France to-day commenced to issue 35,000,000 francs in currency of small denominations.

SWITZERLAND.

CONVENTION OF INTERNATIONAL COMMUNISTS.

Geneva, October 23.—The Convention of International League Communists assembled at Geneva to-day. The attendance was small without the presence of any noted leader. The proceedings are without interest.

California.

Capture of a Convict—The Mormons—

Rioting Among the Chinese—Fifteen Men Hanged.

San Francisco, October 23.—Bill Russell, another escaped prisoner from Nevada, was captured while endeavoring to ship for a foreign port.

George Q. Cannon, the Mormon leader, says if convictions continue the Mormons will burn all they have and make another exodus as they did from Illinois.

At Los Angeles a fight occurred in the Chinese quarter. Officer Biddleston attempted to arrest a Chinaman for shooting another, but was resisted, when he called on Robert Thompson, a citizen, to assist him. The Chinese opened fire on both of them. Thompson fell and died immediately; Officer Biddleston was shot, but escaped on horseback. A mob soon collected and attacked the whole Chinese quarter. They were resisted by the Chinese. Five hundred armed men surrounded the Chinese quarter to prevent any from escaping. Fifteen Chinese were hanged by the mob, and their houses fired. The fire, however, was extinguished at 9 P. M., and order partially restored by the authorities. No more bloodshed has taken place since then. Several Chinamen have been arrested and lodged in jail.

The Chinese at Los Angeles numbered about fifty. The mob was determined to clean them out of the city. Before the hanging the mob fired on them from roofs and other points, killing one woman and several men. Quiet is now restored.

THE CHOLERA.

London, October 17.—Advices from Constantinople state that the cholera has again made its appearance in that city and its suburbs. In two days sixty persons died from the epidemic, ten of whom were Englishmen.

A Catholic Church Blown Down.

Malone, N. Y., October 17.—On Sunday last the congregation of the Catholic church here had just left the basement when the church was blown down by a severe gale of wind, the building was quite recently erected.

FIRES.

PREVALENCE OF EXTENSIVE FIRES.

Rochester, October 23.—Extensive fires prevail in the swamps and woods of Monroe, Seneca, Niagara, Genesee, Wayne and Orleans counties. The wind has been blowing a perfect gale since yesterday morning, and much business prevails throughout the burning district. The smoke obscures the sun to such an extent that lights have to be used in buildings to-day in this city. Rain is very much needed. Reports are constantly coming in of fires from all directions.

Auburn, October 23.—About three acres of forest, known as Chestnut Ridge, near this city, were burned yesterday. The flames were subdued by the united labors of the people of the neighborhood. The Monticuma marshes have been burning for several days. These marshes are about two miles wide and about twelve miles in length.

The grocery store of Thomas & Shaw of this city, was burned last night. Loss $1,000, partially insured. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

Troy, October 23.—The woods near the Shaker settlement, about six miles from here, are on fire, and it is feared considerable damage will be done.

Bradford, Ontario, October 23.—Thompson, Smith & Co.'s new lumber mill was burned yesterday. Loss $25,000; no insurance.

Investigating the fire as it is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Rondout, October 23.—A large fire is raging in the Shawangunk Mountains, near Port Huron. Several hundred acres are already burned over. A large fire is also raging in the woods, at Flatbush, near Rondout.

[LATER].

This city is enveloped in smoke. Reports are constantly coming in of fires in the woods throughout the country. Frame houses and other buildings near Walworth Wayne county, have been burned. Several houses, straw and hay stacks, near Canandaigua Lake, were burned to-day. It is also reported that a man was burned to death. A rumor comes from Albion, Orleans county, that a fire has burned to-day. The city has subsided. This evening the country is very dry and there is no hope of the fires being extinguished until heavy rains occur.

NEW YORK.

RELIEF FOR THE NORTHWEST SUFFERERS.

New York, October 23.—At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Relief Committee to-day, Governor Salomon, ex-Mayor Opdyke, Messrs. Mitchell, Jessup and others urged the necessity of immediate relief to Wisconsin and Michigan. A paper was read, signed by friends of this city representing $30,000 contribution to Chicago, requesting the committee to appropriate so much as is deemed proper to Wisconsin and Michigan. The sum of $25,000 was then appropriated and a subscription list opened for the relief of the sufferers in those States.

JACOB ROSENZWEIG, THE ALLEGED ABORTIONIST.

Accused of producing the death of Alice A. Bowley, whose body was found in a trunk at the Hudson River Railroad depot, was placed at the bar of the General Sessions this morning for trial for manslaughter. The case was continued until Wednesday to complete the jury.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH OF A SON OF GENERAL ROGER A. PRYOR.

The body found in the East river this morning has been identified as that of Young Pryor, son of Roger A. Pryor. It is not known in what manner he came to his death, and perhaps the mystery may never be cleared up. A peculiar sadness is attached to this severe domestic affliction in the high promise, winning manners, and lovable nature of this young man. He had but a little more than a year ago been graduated at Princeton with higher honors than had ever before been won in that institution by the most distinguished of its alumni. The intervening period had been spent by him in great part at Cambridge, England, where he won a prize in mathematics. A few months ago he returned to the United States and had since been prosecuting the study of law in the office of his father.

NATIONAL INSURANCE CONVENTION.

The afternoon session of the National Insurance Convention resumed the discussion of the mortality rates. Mr. Jones, President of the National Life Insurance Company, spoke at length upon the valuation. Mr. Shepherd Homans likewise spoke in favor of a 4 per cent. reserve as being more conservative. Mr. Morgan, President of the North American Company, favored the 4 1/2 per cent. rate. Adjourned.

A NEW RELIGIOUS VAGARY.—Charles

Voysey, the English clergyman, who was some time since tried and condemned for forestry, which he had been industriously advocating, has commenced to found a new "Church" of his own in London. The services, we are told, are read out of a revised prayer-book, stripped of every sentence that would prevent it harmonizing with a pure Theism. The Litany and communion services are entirely omitted. The Gloria Patri, Te Deum, Doxology etc., are very much shortened. The Psalms are carefully expurgated. The new Litany contains the following beseechment:

"That it may please Thee to help all literary persons and editors of the public press, that they may use all their powers in the cause of truth and righteousness, and rise above the praise and blame of men."

COMPLETION OF THE DENVER AND RIO

GRANDE RAILWAY.

Philadelphia, October 23.—General Palmer, President of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway, telegraphs from Denver, Colorado, to the trustees here that the road was finished to-day to Colorado Springs, seventy six miles, and is now open for travel and freight. This is the pioneer three-foot road of the country, and a number of officers of other narrow gauge routes throughout the Union are now at Denver to examine its operations. Surveys are pushing to Santa Fe and the St. Louis Valley.

Michigan.

A CALL FOR HELP.

Detroit, October 24.—The following appeal has been made by the Michigan State Relief Committee of the United States: "We need instant and plentiful aid. From twelve thousand to fifteen thousand people at least in the State of Michigan have lost their homes, food, clothing crops horses and cattle. On the night of the Chicago fire two thousand people on the east shore of Lake Michigan, and five thousand to six thousand on the west shore of Lake Huron, were reduced to almost absolute destitution. Within two or three weeks other small villages and settlements have been blotted out. The number of individual farm houses, barns and frontier dwellings which have been destroyed by the all prevailing fire cannot, from want of information, be accurately calculated. The aggregate we know to be enormous. The fires are still burning, and new ones spring up. The area of ruin and devastation is daily increasing, and much suffering exists. A long, hard, cold winter is approaching. A large number of these people are accessible only by water, and navigation will soon be closed. Scarcely a month, or six weeks at most, remains in which to feed, clothe and shelter them for the winter season which extends far into the spring. They must be helped now or they will perish. They will need, too, in the early spring, seeds and implements for harvest next year. The greater portion of them must commence life entirely anew, and without preparation at the beginning of winter. Their isolation from the centres of commerce and means of communication makes the problem of relief more difficult and urgent. The people of Michigan have not only repudiated to the appeals which this misery has made to their sympathy and generosity, but they are sorely crippled indirectly in their business by the Chicago fire, and directly by the assistance given to sufferers by that calamity before they were aware of the demands which would be made upon them at home. Many of them, too, have lost their resources by fires which occurred in this State. In the name, on behalf of the victims already known, and many whom we fear are yet unknown, we ask prompt and efficient aid from our benevolent fellow citizens everywhere. Money and supplies may be sent direct to the Michigan Relief Committee at Detroit or Grand Rapids."

Georgia.

SUCCESS OF THE GREAT STATE FAIR.

Macon, October 23.—The State Fair Exhibition is the largest ever held in the South. The city is thronged with visitors. All the incoming trains are crowded with strangers, for whom there are ample accommodations.

Purify Your Blood.

POKE ROOT!

Wherever Poke Root grows, it has a local reputation as a Blood Purifier, and for the cure of Rheumatism. With all this local reputation, and the praise of distinguished Physicians (Dr. Geo. Lee, King, Wilson M. Ault, Griffiths, Copland and others), who have tested its medicinal qualities, it has been neglected by the profession at large, as much through want of a proper appreciation of its merits, as a knowledge of the proper way to prepare it for medicinal use. Dr. Oliver Crook, (a physician who devotes his entire time to the duties of his profession), has fully tested the active medicinal qualities of Poke Root during the last 25 years, and unhesitatingly pronounces it to have some merit for diseases depending on a depraved condition of the blood, than any other articles named in Materia Medica. Under his instructions our Chemist has combined the active medicinal qualities of Poke Root, with the best Tonic Preparation of Iron, and we offer this preparation to the public under the above name.

DR. CROOK'S SYRUP OF POKE ROOT.
