PE-RU-NA CURED.

Mrs. X. Schneider, 240 Thirty-seventh Place, Chicago, Ill., writes:

I had palpitation of the heart, cold hands and feet, female weakness, no appetite, trembling, sinking feeling nearly all the time. You said I was suffering with systemic catarrh, and I believe that I received your help in the nick of time. I followed your directions carefully and can say to-day that I am well again. ### Building Permits Granted. Cement Ordinance Passed By City Council.

At the meeting of the City Council, Monday night several permits were granted for new buildings in different parts of the city, and the Collector was instructed to enforce the ordinance relating to building permits. A new ordinance was passed which provides that on and after July 1st all payments between the Pivot Bridge, on both side of Main Street, and the West side of Division street shall be made of cement. Every property holder who repairs or takes up a brick pavement in the territory set out in the Ordinance, shall replace the same with a concrete pavement of a certain width, and with a certain grade fall from the building line to the street. Failure to repair or lay a new pavement within the time specified in the notice makes the property holder liable to a fine, and if the payments are not laid strictly according to the grades furnished by the Street Supervisor, then the work will be done over by the city engineer and the cost of same charged up to the property.

DISASTROUS WRECK

On The N. Y. P. & N. R. R. At Bay View Kills One Man And Injures Two Others.

The largest and most serious wreck that has taken place in the history of the N. Y. P. & N. R. R. occurred at Bay View about three miles north of Cape Charles, last Friday afternoon when extra 17, south bound, with Engineer E. W. Palmer met in a head on collision at full speed with train No. 12, engine, 18, Engineer W. S. Henry, resulting in the death of Henry, caused by a falling box car, and the scalding of a brakeman, W. E. Pennel, conductor of the southbound train, also suffered a slight injury to his leg. That the loss of life was not much greater is because the men jumped when the trains came in sight of each other on a sharp curve. In addition to the injuries, the wreck caused the complete destruction of two locomotives and nineteen cars, many of them loaded. The majority of these took fire after the wreck, some of them burning until Sunday. The woods in which the wreck occurred also caught fire, severely injuring the growth of many trees. This wreck is by far the most expensive the road has ever had, some estimating the loss of engines, cars, lading, etc., at one hundred thousand dollars. While this figure is probably excessive it is safe to say that it will run well into the fifties.

As the railroad company has not completed its investigation as to the cause of the wreck it would not be fair to place the blame for the accident, and while it is customary in most cases to place the blame on the shoulders of a dead man, it is hardly possible that such will be the case.

In the death of W. Scott Henry, Delmar has lost a good citizen, a home has lost a fond father, a wife a good husband. May his soul rest in peace. The remains were interred in the M. P. Cemetery Sunday afternoon, preceded by funeral services at the M. P. Church by Rev. E. S. Fooks. The deceased was a member of several lodges. He is survived by a wife and three children.

As a result of the wreck traffic was blocked for about thirteen hours to and from Cape Charles until a track could be built around the wreckage. This work was rendered more difficult on account of the wreck being on a sharp curve. Had the track been straight the accident doubtless would never have occurred as it would have been possible for the engineers to have seen far enough ahead to have stopped their trains. The curve being in the woods made it impossible to see beyond, and when the trains came in sight they were in too close proximity to prevent a collision. Seeing this, the men who were in a position to see that a collision was inevitable jumped and all those who jumped escaped without injury with the exception of Mr. Henry. It is said that he fell when he jumped on the ground and owing to clumsiness, was unable to crawl away from the train before a box car was over turned on him, injuring him to such an extent as to cause death.—Delmar News.

"JIM CROW" CARS

Are Now On And Separate Accommodations Are Required For The Negroes. Brief Resume Of The Law Now In Force.

On and after midnight Thursday night any passenger entering a train at any railroad station in this State or boarding a steamboat at any landing on the waters within the jurisdiction of Maryland found his liberty to occupy any part of the boat or train curtailed. This will be under the operation of the "Jim Crow" laws passed at the recent session of the Legislature.

It is assumed by many that under these laws colored passengers will be accorded inferior accommodations to those set apart for white people; that negroes will be compelled to ride in smoking cars on the railroads, and to the steerage or second cabin on vessels. This will not be the case if the law is strictly observed, for it is expressly enacted that there must be no difference or discrimination in the quality, convenience or accommodation in the quarters furnished the two races.

Two separate acts were passed—one applying to steamboats and the other to cars on steam railroads. Bills were introduced for the separation of the races on street cars, but were viewed with some suspicion as being designed to "sand bag" the street railway companies. The act concerning railroads is Chapter 109, and that applying to steamboats is Chapter 110 of the Acts of 1904.

Separate cars or coaches on railroads are required by Chapter 109, but cars divided into compartments separated by good and substantial partitions, with a separate exit from each are permissible. In case the car or compartment set apart for passengers of either color shall be completely filled, the conductor is authorized to set apart a portion of the space assigned to passengers of one color to those of the other color.

Any passenger who shall refuse to occupy the space set apart for persons of his color may be ejected from the train and also fined not less than $5, nor more than $50, or be confined in Jail not less than 30 days, or may be punished by both fine and imprisonment. A conductor who shall fail to perform his duties under the law may be fined not less than $25 nor more than $50, but the railway company that fails to provide separate accommodations for the two races without discrimination will be liable to a fine not less than $300 nor more than $1000 for each offense.

The act does not apply to railroads employees, nurses, officers in charge of prisoners, or to the prisoners. Nor does it apply to the transportation of passengers in caboose cars, and to parlor or sleeping cars, or to through express trains which do no local business.

The last exception is somewhat vague and its interpretation may have to be settled in the courts. Some contend that any train which takes on passengers at any station in Maryland does a local business, and this would apply to all trains passing through the State. Others claim that under the wording of the act it applies only to accommodation trains, such as are popularly known as "milk" trains.

An effort was made during the closing days of the Legislature to have the exemption of certain trains made more specific, but the advocates of the measure were unwilling to take the chances of defeat by submitting to the necessary delay attending an amendment.

The provisions of Chapter 110, which applies to steamboats are similar to those of the law affecting railroads. The provisions against discrimination is as strict, and the same exceptions are made as to nurses, officers and prisoners. The same fines are provided for offenders on passengers or for pursers or captains as are ordained for similar offenders on railroads, but no punishment is provided for the owner who shall fail to properly fit up a vessel for the observance of the law.

All of the transportation companies affected by the laws state that they have made preparations for their observance.

B. C. & A. Summer Book of Great Descriptive and Illustrative Merit.

A booklet of more than ordinary tastefulness and artistic beauty has been issued by the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company. It is entitled "Summer Homes," and is devoted to a description of the delights of Ocean City and of the various points on the Eastern Shore generally. A great feature of the publication is its half-tone illustrations. Its 27 pages of reading matter contain no less than 49 of them, beautifully executed and showing every phase of pleasure or sport on the Eastern Shore—bathing, boating, sailing, golfing, driving, hunting, fishing, etc., with many typical scenes on the bay, on the beach and in the woods. A detailed description of Ocean City and its advantages is given, and all the many sorts of fish and game to be found in that region are specified. In a word, it tells where to go, how to go there and what is to be found when one gets there, and tells it so attractively that one is tempted on reading the booklet to lose no time in packing up. The description of the vegetable blessings of the "Sho" alone is enough to make one's mouth water.

The design of the cover is an exquisite one, showing between two big pine trees in the foreground a stretch of water and the company's steamer Virginia in the red and yellow sunset, with all the softness and delicacy of coloring of a fine water color. The half-tones are in a soft yellow-brown and made from excellent photographs and the printing is in red ink on paper of exceptional weight and fineness.

While no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it does not seem to have been the plan of nature that woman should suffer so severely. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It relieves the condition which produces so much discomfort and robs menstruation of its terrors.

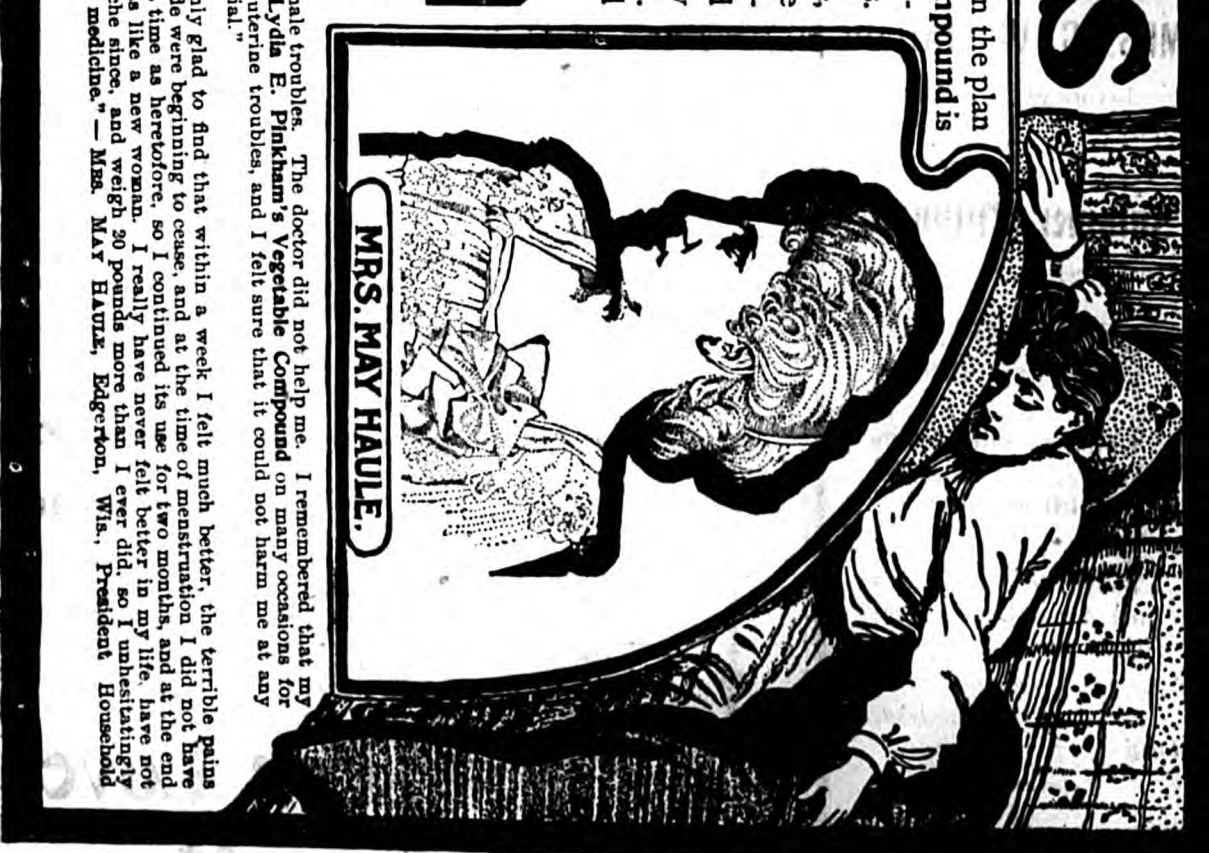

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. Thousands have been cured by so doing, and by the use of

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods) so much so that I dropped every month, as I knew it, about three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds. If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound. I started to take it. I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I am in perfect health, my system is brighter, have added 12 pounds to my weight, my color is good, and I feel light and happy. My address is 1250 Avenue C, Chicago, Ill."

—Miss Adeline H. Adams, Chicago, Ill.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better. The terrible pain in the back and sides and at the time of menstruation I did not have of that time. I was like a new woman. I really have never felt better in my life, have not had a sick headache since, and weigh 30 pounds more than I ever did, so you have recommended your medicine." —Miss Mary Baker, Edgemoor, Wis., President Household Economic Club.

Forecasts for July.

(The forecast of Rev. Irl B. Hicks are copyrighted by Word and Works Publishing Co., and kindly notice is hereby given that all rights are reserved. It is a manifest injustice to Prof Hicks to make these forecasts common property.)

This month begins in the last stage of a storm period central on June the 29th. Storms and perturbations of this period will be well on their way toward the Atlantic by the 1st and 2nd, with fair and cooler weather following from the west.

A reactionary storm period is central from the 4th to the 6th. As the moon is on the celestial equator on the 4th, we may reasonably calculate no decided rise in temperature, ending in thunder and rain storms during these reactionary days.

Mars equinoctial period covers almost the entire month of July, being central on the 28th and running into August. By reading the chapter on "each planet's peculiar influence," beginning on page 152 of our 1904 Almanac, it will be seen that the Mars disturbance tends greatly to prolong the kind of weather prevailing at its beginning. This being the case, we may know, with a degree of certainty the general character and tendency of the weather through July and August, by the character of the weather prevailing during the two first storm periods in July. If the general tendency is to excessive heat and light rains from the 4th to 6th, and from the 9th to 14th, it will be safe to count on a predominance of such weather nearly or quite up to September. We fear there are good reasons to expect such results. Upon the other hand, should cooler weather and general rains and storms be the rule at these periods, much of the same kind of weather will characterize all the storm periods for the following six to eight weeks.

About the 11th., to 14th, the central dates of the second July storm period, no one should be surprised by a wave of excessive warm weather, culminating in many threatening storms and violent dangerous blustering. Some local cloudbursts are probable here and there, but we do not believe that sufficient rains will occur at this time, over wide extremes of the grain-producing region. We shall be delighted to find that our opinion was erroneous, but we so believe and so make our forecasts. Heavy hail storms, especially to the west and north, will most likely attend these disturbances, in which event temporary change to much cooler may naturally be expected.

The 12th, 13th and 14th are the days on which the culminating crisis of this period is to be looked for. Change to higher barometer, westerly winds and cooler would be the normal order, progressively, behind, or west of the centers of storm areas.

On and touching the 17th, 18th and 19th the temperature will greatly increase, moving like a wave from west to east. Barometric unsteadiness and final fall to low readings will accompany the warmth, and many threatening storm clouds with thunder and bluster will take up their march eastwardly across the country. Heavy local concentrations of rain and hail will touch scattered localities, but we fear that there will be serious lack of general, diffused rains. We candidly confess that we can not foresee as yet the turn the weather and storms will take, in consequence of the Mars disturbances named above; but this question will be fairly settled by the character of the phenomena the first half of July. This reactionary period will partake largely of the same results attending the two previous periods.

A regular Vulcan storm period covers the 21st to the 24th, having its center on the 22nd. The most casual observers and readers of weather reports will see that a wave of increased warmth, attended by falling barometer and other storm conditions, will organize in the west and pass eastwardly across the country on and touching the above days. More threatening, summer clouds, with thunder, some rain and severe bluster, will break out and the paths of actual storm areas. This period is near the center of the Mars disturbance, and whatever peculiarity this particular Mars period may communicate to the general condition will approach a maximum stage at this and following July and August storm periods.

On the 25th, the storm period will be over, and the weather will be generally fair and cool.

On the 26th, the storm period will be over, and the weather will be generally fair and cool.

On the 27th, the storm period will be over, and the weather will be generally fair and cool.

On the 28th, the storm period will be over, and the weather will be generally fair and cool.

On the 29th, the storm period will be over, and the weather will be generally fair and cool.

On the 30th, the storm period will be over, and the weather will be generally fair and cool.

On the 31st, the storm period will be over, and the weather will be generally fair and cool.

—Capt. John Adams was buried from his late residence in Riverside last Sunday afternoon, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. S. J. Smith. Capt. Adams had a long and somewhat varied career. He was born in Dorchester county, but spent the most of his life in and around Salisbury. For many years he had charge of a vessel. Subsequently he was watchman on the steamer. He was faithful in all the relations of life.

—Capt. L. P. Coulbourn has received a communication from the headquarters of 1st Regiment Infantry, Maryland National Guards to the effect that a handsome trophy has been presented to the M. N. G. for competition at the State Range, July 4th, 1904. Only those who have completed their qualifying scores at 200, 300, 500, 600, 800, and 1000 yards this season and qualified sharpshooters of 1903 are eligible.

—Mr. Dean W. Perdue, owing to the great inconvenience of looking after his large carriage business and the duties of a county commissioner without sacrificing one, has resigned the latter, and Mr. Emory L. Disharoon has been appointed his successor. Mr. Disharoon is a sterling Democrat, and an active energetic business man who will make a most acceptable commissioner.

—The Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company will sell tickets July 4th between all stations at special excursion rates of two cents per mile for number of miles traveled, tickets good only to return same day, for trains 6, 1 and 2 only, good to return on all trains except Nos. 3 and 10 (except their regular and flag stops).

—The County Commissioners Tuesday, appointed J. W. Rounds and Zedoc P. Richardson road supervisors for Pittsburg District; Curtis A. Russell, supervisor for Barren Creek, and Wm. L. Wilson supervisor for Quantico District. The bonds of several of the supervisors recently appointed were approved.

—Prof. C. H. LeFevre, former principal of the Salisbury High School is a visitor here this week, the guest of Mr. F. L. Wailes. Prof. LeFevre has just resigned as principal of the Cambridge High School and will in a short time engage in the practice of law in Delaware. The professor has a large circle of friends in this city.

—Mr. A. A. Gillis is having his Camden property recently vacated by Mr. George Pooley extensively improved. The house will be moved back about twelve or fifteen feet and a porch will be erected. It will be occupied by Dr. and Mrs. Tull of Nanticoke.

The largest loaf of bread ever made in the United States will be on exhibition at the St. Louis Fair for next month. This loaf of bread is ten feet long, four feet wide and two and one half feet high and weighs more than 100 pounds.

Business Still Booming At Knabe's Warerooms.

One piano a day for last week is not a bad record. Two were shipped, one delivered about ten miles from town and three in the city. A very handsome $600 upright Knabe was sold to Misses Alice and Esther Davis, a Knabe to Miss Mary Kent, and a beautiful upright to Mr. E. H. Walton. We have sold since opening this branch eighteen pianos. This proves conclusively that people are taking advantage of this exceptional opportunity of securing a piano from a house whose guarantee is absolute, knowing if everything is not entirely satisfactory it will be made so. We have just unboxed a beautiful quarter grand Knabe. Call and see it.

"Refreshing"

are words that we often hear after people have tried Orange Phosphate at our fountain. Orange Phosphate is so common that it takes something extra to call forth such remarks. The secret of ours is that we are careful to have fresh syrup made from the best material we can find. Fresh syrup means syrup made not longer than the day before you taste it. Our Orange Phosphate is delicious because it hasn't that flat "cellary" pine wood taste. It has that tart acid taste that pleases.

KELLY.

Mr. and Mrs. Coral Johnson spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Powell.

Mr. John E. Freeny spent Monday with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Davis.

Master Aubrey Traitt is at the Peninsula General Hospital at Salisbury with a sore foot.

Miss Mamie Stayton and her grandmother, Mr. Townsend, were the guests, Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Fooks.

Huckleberries seem to be not very plentiful this season yet the buyers are only paying 4 1/2 cts per quart.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Parsons was the scene of a very pretty wedding Tuesday evening at half past seven o'clock when Miss Irena became the bride of Mr. George E. Hudson, of Salisbury. The bride was attired in cream cashmere, lace and ribbons. The ushers were Mr. Herbert C. Fooks and Mr. James Dickerson. The bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Misses Elizabeth and Ella Parsons. They were both becomingly attired in white lawn, lace and ribbon. The ceremony was performed by Elder T. M. Foulston of New Church, Va.

After the marriage a reception was held and later Mr. and Mrs. Hudson went to their future home in Salisbury. We all wish them a long and happy life.

CONGRESSMAN WILBER SAYS

(To The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., of Columbus, O.)

"Pe-ru-na is All You Claim For It."

Congressman D. F. Wilber, of Onondaga, N. Y., writes:

The Peru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio: Gentlemen—“Persuaded by a friend I have tried your remedy and I have almost fully recovered after the use of a few bottles. I am fully convinced that Peru-na is all you claim for it, and I cheerfully recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with catarrhal trouble.”—David F. Wilber.

Peru-na a Preventive and Cure for Colds.

Mr. C. F. Given, Sussex, N. D., Vice President of “The Past-time Boating Club,” writes:

“Whenever the cold weather sets in I have for years past been very sure to catch a severe cold which was hard to throw off, and which would leave after-effects on my constitution the most of the winter.”

“Last winter I was advised to try Peru-na, and within five days the cold was broken up and in five days more I was a well man. I recommended it to several of my friends and all speak the highest praise for it. There is nothing like Peru-na for catarrhal affections. It is well nigh infallible as a cure, and I gladly endorse it.”—C. F. Given.

A Prominent Singer Saved From Loss of Voice.

Mr. Julian Weissitz, 175 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y., is corresponding secretary of The Sangerist, of New York; is the leading second bass of the Sangerist, the largest German singing society of New York and also the oldest.

In 1899 The Sangerist celebrated its fiftieth anniversary with a large celebration in New York City. The following is his testimony:

“About two years ago I caught a severe cold while traveling and which settled into catarrh of the bronchial tubes, and so affected my voice that I was obliged to cancel my engagements. In distress I was advised to try Peru-na, and although I had never used a patent medicine before, I sent for a bottle. “Words but ill describe my surprise to find that within a few days I was greatly relieved, and within three weeks I was entirely recovered. I am never without it now, and take an occasional dose when I feel run down.”—Julian Weissitz.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

The moral of the story—for it has a moral and a good one—is that in places of high trust, all personal motives must be utterly surrendered that duty may be done.

FOURTH IN SALISBURY.

Attracts Many From The Surrounding Country. Base Ball Twice Against Laurel. Large Crowd At Afternoon Races. Few Accidents.

One of the most congratulatory features of the fourth in this section and indeed over the country generally was the comparative absence of the usual number of holiday accidents and fatalities.

In Salisbury, places of public business were closed and Declaration Day was largely observed except as mood or inclination tended. Base ball occupied a large part of the morning and afternoon, sharing the latter with the races which brought several hundred people to the fair grounds.

An eventful celebration was gloriously observed in California by the Salisbury Council, S. O. U. A. M. including various races, pole climbing refreshments and basket suppers.

The Laurel team came to town accompanied by many rooters with large expectations, which fell disappointingly short as the scores below show:

Morning Game.

Races in Afternoon.

Three trotting and one running race attracted about a thousand spectators. The Results:

2.40 Class—Entries, Peter Jackson, owned by Jno. Wimbrow; Happy Mudge owned by Capt. Burn White. The first heat was won by Peter Jackson, time 2.45. The next heats were taken by Happy Mudge, time 3.00, 2.50, 2.51.

3.00 Class—Entries, Ned Dennis, owned by Homer Dennis; Luther May, owned by Buck Bradley and Mary Basil owned by Reuben Bailey. The race was won in straight heats by Ned Dennis, time 2.55, 2.55, 2.50. Mary Basil second.

Free for all—Entries, Winniewood, owned by W. B. Miller; White Tips owned by Thomas Hearn; and Thelma owned by Willis Wimbrow. The race was won by Winniewood in three straight heats, time 2.46, 2.42, 2.41. White Tips second. In the second heat the buggy drawn by Thelma broke down at the first turn, and according to the decision of the judges the mare was barred from the remaining heats.

Running Race—Entries, Harry R. owned by Charles E. Bennett; Kittington owned by F. M. Dick; Boy Boy, owned by C. J. Hearn; and Oregon, owned by J. D. Bozman. The first heat was a walkover for Kittington winning the half mile in 55 seconds. In the second heat there were but two horses, Harry R. and Kittington, the other two having withdrawn. Several attempts were made to start Kittington in the second heat, but he refused to pass the first turn, and the heat and race were given to Harry R. time 1.08.

The judges were Wm. M. Day, Alex. P. Malone and Roll Perry.

WILL BUILD AIR LINE.

Arrangements Are Completed For The Air Line To Washington.

Arrangements have about been completed for the establishing of the new air line from the Eastern Shore to Washington. The line of steamers will run from Cambridge and other points on the Shore to Chesapeake Beach, thence over the Chesapeake Beach Railroad to Washington. This line will shorten the time greatly between Washington and Ocean City, as the boats will run from Chesapeake Beach to Clarksburg and there connect with the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway. The company has an option on the steamer. See for one of their boats. Washington business men have taken hold of the enterprise and will subscribe for the stock, as have also business men of Cambridge, which will be headquarters on the Eastern Shore for the company. It is claimed that Washington is a better market for Eastern Shore produce than Baltimore.—Delmar News.

At Tuesday's Session Of County Commissioners.

Mr. Emory L. Disharoon, the newly appointed Commissioner took the oath of office and was duly qualified to succeed Mr. Dean W. Perdue, resigned.

The bond of G. W. Moore, road supervisor for Nanticoke District was approved.

A petition was filed by W. H. Webb and others for a tax ditch in Pittsburg District, and E. T. Jones, G. W. Truitt and J. W. Truitt were appointed a Commission to lay out the ditch and report to the Commissioners.

After a lengthy hearing on the application of E. T. Gordy to sell liquor in Quantico district, which consumed most of the day, the application was unanimously rejected.

—For rent—The house number 800 Camden Avenue, corner of Newton Street. Possession given immediately. A. J. Vanderbogart, Ocean City, Md.

Important Announcement From Wm. Knabe Co's Piano Warerooms.

Our original intention was to remain in Salisbury two or three weeks, to give our friends and patrons an opportunity to see our goods, learning our method of doing business etc., right at their doors. Owing however to the large number of instruments sold we have prolonged our stay. We have decided to close the temporary branch, Saturday of next week. THIS IS POSITIVE. We have a few upright pianos left. Prices way down. A magnificent Knabe quarter grand, also some square pianos taken in exchange, these latter we will sell at your own prices. We don't want to ship any goods back to Baltimore. Now is your chance to save money on a reliable piano from a reliable house.

Letter to L. P. Coulbourn.

Dear Sir: Clothing is just like paint; it fits or it don't; it wears or it don't; turns weather and water or not; and goes out of fashion.

What do we wear clothes for? Did you ever think of it? Different persons have different reasons, no doubt, but one paints Devoe for beauty, to be in fashion, and keep out water.

Fashion says paint; we all paint. There is beauty in paint: we paint a good deal for that. And buildings are costly and fashionable: put on a waterproof two or three coats of paint, and your buildings last as long as you keep them dry. It costs nothing to paint; it costs your buildings not to.

Devoe is the paint that lasts! dissapointing paints are the paints that cost. Y. urs truly,
F. W. Devoe & Co.
P. S.—L. W. Gunby is our paint.

What Are They?

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. A new remedy for stomach troubles, biliousness, and constipation, and a good one. Price 25 cents. For sale by all druggists.

Girls' Reefers. Jaunty little reefers and short jackets are a pleasing change from the cumbersome long coats and raglans that have been worn during the winter.

They are made of many materials, some lined, others skeleton coats with the seams and hems neatly bound.

The reefer shown here is made of tan Venetian, with cream lace and fancy braid for trimming. The garment is adjusted with shoulder buttons, and hangs loosely in box effect. Deep, backward-turning plaits extend from shoulder to hem back and front. They are flatly pressed, but not stitched, and add considerably to the width of the coat at the lower edge.

A fancy collar completes the neck. It is made of white satin trimmed with lace and fancy braid. The collar has points over the shoulder, also back and front. The reefer closes in double-breasted style with crystal buttons, two rows trimming the front.

Once placed bishop sleeves fit the arm closely from shoulder to elbow and are quite wide at the lower edge, where the fullness is arranged on flaring cuffs that open at the top. These are made to match the collar.

Reefers in this style are developed in serge, flannel, cashmere, linen or pique. Simple little garments have collar and cuffs of self-fabric prettily braided, while those of wash materials have trimming of all-over embroidery.

To make the reefer for a girl of eight years will require three yards of material twenty-two inches wide, with one-half yard for trimming.

Many women are denied the happiness of children through derangement of the generative organs. Mrs. Beyer advises women to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered with stomach complaint for years. I got so bad that I could not carry my children but five months, then would have a miscarriage. The last time I became pregnant, my husband got me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the first bottle I was relieved of the sickness of stomach, and began to feel better in every way. I continued its use and was enabled to carry my baby to maturity. I now have a nice baby girl, and can work better than I ever could before. I am like a new woman."—MRS. FRANK BEYER, 22 S. Second St., Meriden, Conn.

CHAPTER I.

SEYMOUR could have voiced his thought he would have said that the earth itself did not afford a fairer picture than that which lay within the level radius of his vision and which had imprinted itself so powerfully upon his impressionable and youthful heart. It was not the scenery of Virginia either; the landscape on the Potomac, of which he would have spoken so enthusiastically, though even that was a thing not to be disdained by such a lover of the beautiful as Seymour had shown himself to be—the dry brown hills rising in swelling slopes from the edge of the wide, quiet river; the bare and leafless trees upon their crests, now scarce veiling the comfortable old white house, which in the summer they quite concealed beneath their masses of foliage, and all the world lying dreamy and calm and still in the motionless haze of one of those rare seasons in November which so suggests departed days that men name it summer again. For all that he then saw in nature was but a setting for a woman; even the sun itself, low in the west, robbed of its glory and faded into a dull ball seeking to hide its head, but served to throw into high relief the noble and beautiful face of the girl upon whom he gazed—the girl who was sun and life and light and world for him.

The most confirmed misogynist would have found it difficult to challenge her claim to beauty.

The whole impression she produced was the one which charmed and fascinated to the last degree, and Mistress Katharine Wilton's away among the young men of the colony was well nigh undisputed. A toast and a belle in half Virginia, Seymour was not the first, nor was he destined to be the last, of her admirers.

The strong, steady, practiced stroke, denoting the accomplished oarsman, with which he had urged the little boat through the water, had given way to an idle and purposeless drift. He longed to cast himself down before the little feet in their smart high-heeled buckled shoes and clocked stockings, which peeped out at him from under her embroidered chemise petticoat in such a maliciously coquettish manner. He longed to kneel down there in the skiff, at the luminous risk of spoiling his own gay attire, and declare the passion which consumed him, but something—he did not know what it was, and she did not tell him—constrained him, and he sat still and felt himself as far away as if she had been in the stars.

In this way he was quite as good to look at as the young maiden. Tall, blond, stalwart, blue-eyed, pleasant featured, with the frank, engaging air which seems to belong to those who go down to the sea in ships, Lieutenant John Seymour Seymour was an excellent specimen of that hardy, daring, gallant class of men who in this war and in the next were to shed such imperishable luster upon American arms by their exploits in the naval service.

Born of an old and distinguished Philadelphia family, so proud of its name that in his instance they had doubled the usual bluntness and roughness of the usual bluntness and roughness of the birth and breeding and by frequent attrition with men and women of the politer society of the largest and most important city of the colonies. Offering his services as soon as the news of Lexington precipitated the conflict with the mother country, he had already made his name known among whom Jones, Biddle, Dale and Conyngham were pre-eminent.

The delicious silence which he had been unwilling to break, since it permitted him to be undisturbed upon his fair shipmate, was terminated at last by that lady herself. She looked up from the water with which she had been playing and then, appearing to notice for the first time his steady, ardent gaze, she laughed lightly and said:

"Well, sir, it grows late. When you have finished contemplating the scenery perhaps you will turn the boat and take me home. Then you can feast your eyes upon something more attractive."

"And what is that, pray?" he asked. "Your supper, sir. You must be very anxious for it by this time, and really, you know, you look quite hungry. We have been out so long, but I will have pity on you and detain you no longer here. Turn the boat around, Lieutenant Seymour, and put me on shore at once. I will stand between no man and his dinner."

"Hungry? Yes, I am, but not for dinner, for you, Mistress Katharine," he replied.

"Oh, what a horrid appetite! I don't feel safe in the boat with you. Are you very hungry?"

"Really, Miss Wilton, I am not jesting at all," he said, with immense dignity.

"Oh, oh! He is in earnest. Shall I scream? No use. We are a mile from the house at least."

"Oh, Miss Wilton—Katharine," he replied desperately, "I am devoured by my—"

"Lieutenant Seymour!" She drew herself up with great hauteur, letting the cloak drop about her waist.

"Madam!"

"Only my friends call me Katharine."

"And am I not, may I not be, one of your friends?"

"Well, yes; I suppose so, but you are so young."

"Long enough! I have known you ever since Tuesday of last week."

"And this is Friday—just ten days, ten long days!" she replied triumphantly.

"Long days!" he cried. "Very short ones for me."

"Long or short, sir, do you think you can know me in that period? Is it possible I am so easily forgotten?" she went on, smiling.

"Now, it is all making love in a rowboat at best, and when one is in earnest and the other jests it is well nigh impossible; so to those remarks Lieutenant Seymour made no further answer save viciously to ply the oars and drive the boat rapidly toward the landing."

Miss Katharine gazed vacantly about the familiar river upon whose banks she had been born and bred, and finally, noticing the sun had gone down, closing the short day, she once more drew her cloak closely about her and resumed the neglected conversation.

"Won't you please stop looking at me in that manner, and won't you please row harder, or is your strength all centered in your gaze?"

"I am rowing as fast as I can, Miss Wilton, especially with this—"

"Oh, I forgot your wounded shoulder! Does it hurt? Does it pain you? I am so sorry. Let me row."

"Thank you, no. I think I can manage it myself. The only pain I have is when you are unkind to me."

At that moment, to his great annoyance, his oar stuck fast in the oarlock, and he straightway did that very unsalutary thing known as catching a crab.

Katharine Wilton laughed. There was music in her voice, but this time it did not awaken a responsive chord in the young man. Extricating his oar violently, he silently resumed his work.

"Do you like crabs, Mr. Seymour?" she said, with apparent irrelevance.

"I don't like catching them, Miss Wilton," he admitted ruefully.

"Oh, I mean eating them! We were talking about your appetite, were we not? Well, Dinah devils them deliciously. I'll have some done for you," she continued, with suspicious innocence.

Seymour groaned in spirit at her levity, and for the first time in his life he felt an intense sympathy with the devil crab, but he continued his labor in silence and with great dignity.

"What am I to infer from your silence on this important subject, sir? The subject of edibles, which every body says is of the first importance to men—does not appear to interest you at all."

He made no further reply.

The young girl gazed at his pale face at first with much amusement, but the laughter gradually died away, and finally her glance fell to the water by her side. A few strong strokes, strong enough, in spite of a wounded shoulder, to indicate a purposeful and sudden determination to the astute maiden, and the little boat swung in beside the wharf. Throwing the oars inboard with easy skill, Seymour sat motionless while the boat glided swiftly down toward the landing steps, and the silence was broken only by the soft, delicious lip, lip, lip of the water, which seemed to cling to it finally came to rest. The man waited until the girl looked up at him. She saw in his resolute mien the outward and visible sign of his inward determination, and she realized that the game so bravely and pluckily played since she met him was lost. They had nearly arrived at the foregone conclusion.

"Well, Mr. Seymour," she said finally, "we are here at last. For what are you waiting?"

"Waiting for you."

"For me?"

"Aye, only for you."

"I—I do not understand you."

"You understand nothing, apparently, but I will explain." He stepped out on the landing stage, and after taking a turn or two with the painter to secure the boat he turned toward his captive with a ceremonious bow.

"Permit me to help you ashore."

"Oh, thank you, Lieutenant Seymour. If I only could in this little boat I would court you in return for that effort," she answered, with tremulous and transparent bravery. But when the little palm met his own brown one it seemed to steal away some of the bitterness of the moment. After he had assisted her up the steps and held her hand tight within his own, and with that promptitude which characterized him he made the plunge.

"Oh, Miss Wilton—Katharine—it is true I have known you only a little while, but all that time—ever since I saw you, in fact, and even before, when your father showed me your picture—I have loved you. Nay, hear me out. There was an unusual sternness in his voice. My lord appeared to be in the imperative mood, something to which she had not been accustomed. He meant to be heard, and with beating heart she listened. "Quiet that spirit of mockery but a moment and attend my words, I pray you. No, I will not release you until I have spoken. These are troublous times. I may leave at any moment—must leave when my orders come, and I expect them every day—and before I go I must tell you this."

Her downcast eyes could still see him bluish and then pale a little under the sunburn and wind burn of his face as he went on speaking.

"I have no one. Never had I a sister. I can remember no mother. Believe me, I entrust you, when I tell you that to no woman have I ever said what I have just said to you. We sailors think and speak and act quickly—it is a part of our profession—but if I should wait for years I should think no differently and act in no other way. I love you! Oh, Katharine, I love you as my soul!"

There was a note of passion in his voice which thrilled her heart with ecstasy; the others had not made love this way.

"You seem to me like that star I have often watched in the long hours of the night, which has shown me the way on many a trackless sea. I know I am as far beneath you as I am beneath that star. But, though the distance is great, my love can bridge it if you will let me try. Katharine—won't you answer me, Katharine? Is there nothing you can say to me? 'Dost thou love me, Kate?'" he quoted softly, taking her other hand. How very fair, but how very far away, she looked! The color came and went in her cheek. He could see her breast rise and fall under the mad beating of a heart which had escaped her control, though hitherto she had found no difficulty in keeping it well in hand. There was a novelty, a difference, in the situation this time, a new and unexpected element in the event. She hesitated. Why was it no merry quip came to the lips usually so ready with repartee? Alas, she must answer!

He gravely bent his head and kissed her hand.

Alas, she must answer!

"I—I—Oh, Mr. Seymour!" she said softly and slowly, with a downcast face she fain would hide, he fain would see. "I—yes," she murmured with great reluctance—"that is, I think so. You see, when you defended father in the fight with the brig, you know, and got that bullet in your shoulder, you earned a title to my gratitude, my—"

"I don't want a title to your gratitude," he interrupted. "I want your love. I want you to love me for myself alone."

"And do you think you are worthy that I should?" she replied, with a shadow of her former archness.

He gravely bent his head and kissed her hand. "No, Katharine, I do not. I can lay no claim to your hand if it is to be a reward of merit, but I love you so—that is the substance of my hope."

"Oh, Mr. Seymour, Mr. Seymour, you overvalue me! If you do that with all your possessions, you will be Oh, what have I said?" she cried in sudden alarm as he took her in his arms.

"My possessions! Katharine, may I then count you so? Oh, Kate, my lovely Kate!" It was over, and over as she would have it. Why struggle any longer? The landing was a lonely little spot under the summer house at the end of the wharf. No one could see what happened. This time it was not her hand he kissed. The day died away in twilight, but for those two a new day began.

The army might starve and die, battles be lost or won, dynasties rise and fall, kingdoms wax and wane, causes tremble in the balances! What of that? They looked at each other and forgot the world.

LATE NEWS OF DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The ADVERTISER received the following special dispatch from the Baltimore News Late Friday afternoon:—
"Democratic Convention adjourned this afternoon until 8 o'clock tonight. Bryan gained a signal victory in fight with Platform Committee, succeeding in having the gold standard plank stricken out by vote of 85 to 15. He also had the tariff plank modified.
The platform as changed has been adopted by Committee and will be unanimously reported to night."

A WISE BEGINNING.

In striking contrast to the Republican Convention which declared for Roosevelt and Fairbanks, the present Democratic National Convention at St. Louis long debates within its ranks and among the states representatives the selection of a fitting man to breast the strength of public political analysis, and head as chief executive, the great American nation. The wisdom of the Convention's deliberations will, it is to be fervently hoped, be productive of such results, as to inspire the success for the Democratic presidential candidate, party principles and a wise and conservative administration that will win the nation's confidence.

It is not expected to have the building completed before next spring.

An Accident On The Fourth In Salisbury.

Carey is at her home on East Isabella Street in a serious condition. The little girl and her brother Julian were playing with an old gun barrel sawed off to about two feet. They filled the gun barrel with powder, but it refused to go off. Isabelle then procured a nail and placed it in the touch hole, struck it with a hammer, to widen the hole. This produced an explosion severely burning her hand and driving the nail for several inches diagonally into her palm. Dr. Todd, who is attending her reports that she is doing well.

A LAND FULL OF MISERIES

Owing to Revolutions its Resources are Scarcely Touched.

AREA 473,000 SQ. MILES.

Colombia is Fertile, and Rich in Minerals—People Shiftless—Manana the Stock Phrase of the Natives—Their Pride is Phenomenal—Roads of Colombia.

The republic of Colombia, like several others of the South American States, is a republic in little more than name and outward form. When not in the throes of one of its periodic revolutions, it is at the mercy of a military dictator. It has already had seven constitutions, and the march of political events is so rapid that its own historians can hardly keep pace with them. Colombian history during the past eighteen years is characterized by a series of misgovernment, confusion and tyranny. In form the government comprises a Senate of twenty-seven members, a house of representatives of sixty-six members elected by universal male suffrage for terms of four years, and a president whose term of office is six years.

The operation of universal suffrage in Colombia is thus described by Senor Morales: "Election day in the cities and towns of importance was one for the display of power and violence. The troops garrisoned there, and the police, from the first hours of the day, headed by their chiefs, surrounded the election tables and proceeded to deposit their votes. In that proceeding they nearly exhausted the time allotted by the law for the purpose to the citizens; and each soldier and each police agent voted under two distinct names and under more if necessary. The free citizen who might venture an effort to break through that barrier of soldiers to approach the urn and deposit his vote was ill-used, beaten, wounded, and threatened with death by the chiefs of the forces and the police. Regarding the present government, Senor Morales writes:

"A government de facto rules the country by the power of its bayonets backed by no political party."
The area of Colombia, excluding Panama, the most westerly of the nine departments into which it was divided, is estimated at 437,000 square miles, but several of the boundary lines are still in dispute and no accurate figures are obtainable. The same uncertainty prevails regarding the population, which is curiously estimated at from 4,000,000 to 6,000,000. The chief cities are Bogota, the capital, population estimated at 100,000; Barranquilla, the chief port, population 40,000; Medellin, population 40,000; Panama, 30,000; Cartagena, 20,000; and Bucaramanga, 20,000. Colombia is fertile, and rich in minerals, but owing to the shiftless character of the people, and the constant revolutions, its vast resources have been scarcely touched.

Immense beds of good coal are known to exist in several sections, and gold, silver, copper, and other valuable minerals are already mined to some extent. Along the sea coast and in the interior valleys tropical conditions prevail, suitable for the growth of those agricultural products requiring great heat and high humidity; while on the interior plateaus and table lands, from 4,000 to 8,000 feet above the sea, the products of the temperate zone can be profitably cultivated.

About half the population of Colombia are whites, or half castes, the remainder being Indians and negroes—negroes in the lowlands and Indians in the interior mountain regions. Manana (to-morrow) is the stock phrase of the natives.

"The pride of the Colombian of pure Spanish descent," says Mr. Scruggs, "is phenomenal, and runs into strange freaks. If poor, he is a sort of aristocratic hobo—not ashamed to beg, but offended if offered work, since to accept would be to forfeit his position as a gentleman. With him there is no such thing as the dignity of labor, and the gulf between gentility and honest toil is impassable."

In the cities all men of any standing are doctors, generals, or professors. Sunday is a holiday, and runs with cock fighting, bull fighting, drinking, and dancing. Every male smokes, and many of the ladies. French novels furnish the chief literary pabulum. A paper currency of over 350,000,000 pesos is in circulation, which has depreciated to one-twenty-fifth of its face value. Although the metric system has been established by law, the old Spanish weights and measures are still used.

Colchester's Oyster Feast.
Famous indeed is the Colchester Oyster Feast, and to be invited is considered the highest compliment the town can confer, not only from the importance of the function but because at that meal is an unlimited supply of the finest obtainable natives, of which some sacks are consumed. Even from the times of the Romans these oysters have been celebrated, says the London Chronicle. Exclusive rights to the oyster fisheries were granted to the town under a charter of Richard I. and in the reign of Elizabeth horseloads of oysters were accepted as gifts by the courtiers of the time. Massinger's "Justice Greedy" commences his day with "a barrel of Colchester oysters," a statement that shows how altered are the customs of today.

Letter to L. P. Coulbourn.
Dear Sir: Clothing is just like paint; it fits or it doesn't; it wears or it doesn't; it turns weather and water or not; and goes out of fashion.
What do we wear clothes for? Did you ever think of it? Different persons have different reasons, no doubt, but one paints Devos for beauty, to be in fashion, and keep out water.
Fashion says paint; we all paint. There is beauty in paint; we paint a good deal for that. And buildings are costly and fashionable; put on a waterproof two or three coats of paint, and your buildings last as long as you keep them dry. It costs nothing to paint; it costs your buildings not to.
Devos is the paint that lasts; it dissipates painting paints are the paint that cost.
Yours truly,

MILLINGTON, MD., GONE

Swept By Disastrous Fire On Tuesday.
About $200,000 Loss.

Devastated stretches of charred debris met the eye everywhere at Millington, Md. Wednesday. The sun shone in all its glory upon the ruins of the once prosperous little town of Millington swept away in one night by the fiercest fire in the history of Kent county. Those who were fortunate enough to gain shelter Wednesday night were upon the scene early, as sleep was impossible after such a dreadful night. The desolate appearance of the charred ruins on every side, together with the dry eyed sorrow of the many unfortunates who lost their all, made a sight never to be forgotten.

President of Town Commissioners J. B. Ahern has sent telegrams to neighboring towns and cities asking for aid.

Word has been received from Wilmington, Del., that Superintendent R. L. Holliday of the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania railroad had placed a car at the disposal of the people of that city who wish to contribute toward the relief of the fire sufferers. The first contributor in that city was W. D. Mullin, a wholesale grocery man, who donated a large quantity of provisions.

The message for aid sent out by the town commissioners was:

"Two hundred without food, clothing or shelter here. Every business place destroyed. Aid of any kind will be gratefully received. Distribution made by the board of commissioners."

People Are Stunned.

Pitiful sights can be seen on all sides and as yet the people are stunned and have not awakened to the extent of the great loss they have sustained. One woman was seen walking along the railroad one night with a chicken under her arm. She was crying bitterly and hugged the frightened fowl to her breast. It was all that she had left. There are many more who are in the same sad plight.

Only one store, a small pharmacy, is left standing, so thorough was the work of disaster. Every building in the business section on Cypress and Sassafras streets on both sides was destroyed. Among the structures that fell beneath the onslaught of the raging conflagration was the Millington Bank, a new institution, opened for business for the first time last May. While the building was totally destroyed, the fire proof vault remained intact and its contents were saved. The exact loss has as yet not been ascertained, but it is believed that it will reach $200,000, equally divided between personal property and real estate. The loss is covered by little more than one fourth in insurance. Many buildings carried no insurance at all.

Important Announcement from Wm. Knabe Co's. Piano Warehouses.

Our original intention was to remain in Salisbury two or three weeks, to give our friends and patrons an opportunity to see our goods, learning our method of doing business etc., right at their doors.
Owing however to the large number of instruments sold we have prolonged our stay. We have decided to close the temporary branch, Saturday of next week. THIS IS POSITIVE. We have a few upright pianos left. Prices way down. A magnificent Knabe quarter grand, also some square pianos taken in exchange, these latter we will sell at our own prices. We don't want to ship any goods back to Baltimore. Now is your chance to save money on a reliable piano from a reliable house.

TEACHERS OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF MARYLAND

Met in 37 Annual Convention At The Seashore. For 7th. Time. Much Enthusiasm And Rejoicing Over The State's Gift Of $250,000. Extended Excerpts From The Wicomico "Trio." Governor Warfield Present, Thursday.

The thirty seventh annual session of the Maryland State Teachers Association convened at Ocean City for the seventh time, last Wednesday evening and adjourned Friday evening. The Association was well attended and much interest manifested.

Thursday evening much interest was manifested in the "informal talk" of Gov. Edwin Warfield and the address of State Superintendent M. Bates Stephens.

Governor Warfield referred especially to the educational law passed by the last session of the General Assembly, in which provision was made for better compensation for the teachers as well as pensions for meritorious service upon retiring at the age limit. He urged the teachers to give the state their very best service in return for what it had done for them.

Another enjoyable feature of Thursday was a banquet given by President Thomas Fell, of St. John's College, Annapolis to twenty two, alumni of that institution who were present at the Convention. Besides the President, addresses were made by President Cain, of Washington College, President Soper, of Baltimore and Prof. Charles E. Dryden, vice principal of Frostburg Normal School.

By coincidence the opening session was given to Wicomico "boys" and they acquitted themselves with great credit. It was an honor to Wicomico to be thus recognized, and the ADVERTISER takes much pleasure in giving to its readers, extended excerpts from the addresses of the Wicomico "trio" who have been so successful in educational work.

The Address Of Welcome, By J. Walter Huffington, Principal Of The Salisbury High School.

Prof. J. Walter Huffington, Principal of the Salisbury High School said in part:

Mr. President and Fellow Teachers:—Once again the earth in its orbit has swung around the sun—once again the lands are bedecked with flowers delightful to the eye and once again the hand which revolves about the clock of time points to the hour for our assemblage in State Association of teachers.

For the place of meeting we feel highly honored. We are a bit proud that for the seventh time you have selected the Eastern Shore and the very spot upon this shore for your assemblage and as an Eastern Shoreman, as a Wicomico Countian, as a teacher from this section of the old Line State I bid you the heartiest and most cordial welcome.

You are here from the shores of the Patuxent and the Potomac, from the shadow of the national capital, from the slopes of the Blue Ridge, from the alignment of Mason and Dixon, from the crowded streets and avenues of Maryland's metropolis and ignoble indeed, would I be if I failed to bespeak some word of hospitality, drop some thought of good cheer as you come into our midst. The latch string hangs ever without the door, the bar is never up, upon our hearthstone and around our board you have always been cherished guests and you are not less such tonight.

I entreat you to break bread with us being well assured that your presence is a source of joy and your departure will be the cause of real pain.

If we make any distinction in our guests, it is made in favor of those of our own profession and properly so, for we come to a convention fraught with significance pregnant with importance. Our doings here will affect the home, the community, age, even the State far more than any political or church convention could do. We shall discuss matters that will have to do with civilization itself that will change the very tide in the affairs of men.

Are we not custodians of the men and women to be? Have we not thrust into our keeping the noblest objects of God's creation? Have we not the boys and girls in our schools who at some time will occupy prominent places upon the stage of the world's activities that a lone woman or one man is compelled to combat hundreds, yet I think it is a frailty of our nature to see only the thorns in our profession and all the roses in the professions of another and I'm quite sure the physician, the lawyer, the minister of the gospel, the professional man of whatever calling or the laborer of whatever occupation has his difficulties to surmount, obstacles to remove from his path which to him are as objectionable as those with which we have to do.

We have much to encourage us, when we glance back through the aisles of years and behold the tumble down school house, the rickety bench, the chinked floor, the back of school apparatus, when we remember that formerly, years were spent upon one or two subjects; when we notice school houses built every mile or two by the road side and even more the act of school consolidation which is so soon to be an established fact in our school system; when we see the majority awakening to the need of an education for whatever vocation they are fitted or whatever line of work they pursue, I think these all are civilities? We have indeed. It is ours to drill the youth so thoroughly that when ordered out by Him who marshals the armies of the world they will take their place promptly in line and fight bravely the battles of life. Let us remain public school teachers.

I know our remuneration is not as great as that of other professions but money is not our sole object else we would have long since fallen out of the ranks and entered other fields of labor, but we have a greater reward, a nobler ambition, the consciousness of some pupil having been helped by being in our school room, the consciousness of our place in the community having been filled, the consciousness of some duty having been performed.

Our paths do not always lead amidst beds of violets, or through rose gardens. We have to deal with what seems to us, unsympathetic parents; we are obliged to contend with indolent pupils, we are frequently thrown into unfeeling communities; many are the healthy signs and can do no other than encourage the earnest, the sincere and the faithful teacher. In the language of the song sung by our colored ancles, "There's a great day a comin' bye and bye" methinks I can hear the crowing of the cock announcing the approach of that day, methinks over the eastern hills I can discern faint streaks of red ushering in that day and soon, very soon, the sun of that day will rise and amid its rays of splendor we shall behold a happier and more prosperous season in our public schools.

Response To The Address Of Welcome By Irving L. Twilley, A. M. Of The Baltimore Polytechnic Institute.

Prof. Twilley began by saying, "Among all civilized nations, from time immemorial, there has prevailed a custom of extending a returning welcome to those who have achieved, of their city, state or country, some noble deed. But the manner in which this welcome has been extended has differed through the ages." After eloquently tracing the forms of welcome from the time of the triumph of Rome to the present day, he said:

"For the seventh time, the Maryland State Teachers Association has returned to Ocean City to convene in its annual session, and we are welcomed to night as a victorious army triumphant in having the length of the Maryland school term extended to at least a nine month's session. We are welcomed not by a band of music, but by the encouraging words of one of the professions whose hearty greetings and cordial welcome is most appreciated."

The speaker then briefly but forcibly discussed, what education has accomplished, referring to the teachers as "makers of Republics," and paying them a most beautiful tribute.

The Beginning Of Maryland's Free School

"It was in the year 1696 that the General Assembly of Maryland petitioned the King of England, asking that a free school be established, where Latin, Greek, writing, and the like should be taught and studied." Parliament to which the petition was submitted passed an act which King William approved proposing the spread of the Gospel and the education of the youth of Maryland in good letters and in good manners." Thus we see that the interest in our public schools began with the settlement of the earlier colonies, and has continued to the present hour, when our public schools are of more benefit to the American people than was the temple of Janus to the Empire. The temple, subjugated, has only a nightly blaze, but the public schools illumine with the brilliancy of day sunlight flashing the splendor of their torch of the world's greater civilization over the broad paths of industry down which hasten liberty, prosperity and enlightenment, the keystones in that majestic arch of triumphant America.

Methods That Teach To Think.

"This association composed of teachers and examiners with their new and proper titles, County Superintendents, has convened to discuss methods of teaching as well as to throw a calcium light, vitalized by the pure oxygen of our pleasant surroundings, and intensified by the powerful hydrogen of experience, upon the problem of school management.

"In the discussion of these methods, we remember that the Maryland boys and girls are not only to be equipped with the arrows of information, but they are more especially to be taught to discharge them from the bows of usefulness in order to be successful in the game of success. They are to be taught by methods that teaches to

L. ATWOOD BENNETT.

Among the foremost professional men of Wicomico county is L. Atwood Bennett of Salisbury. Mr. Bennett was born in the year 1873 in that section of Somerset county known as Monil. He received his earlier education in Chance, attending the public schools of that community. Later he became a student of the Western Maryland College graduating from that institution in 1894. Returning to Chance and taught school there until Spring of 1895. In the Fall of that year he went to the Maryland University, School of Law and graduated with high honors in 1897. He was admitted to the Bar in 1897 and took up his residence in Salisbury, where he established himself in the practice of law. His reputation in the city and county is too well known to mention here. In his capacity of City Solicitor he has proven that he possesses a cool, able head, capable of unraveling intricate legal tangles. He is a staunch Democrat and as such was elected to the Legislature for the term of 1904. In addition to his legal practice and the observance of his public duties, Mr. Bennett is the local representative of the American Bonding Company of Baltimore and the Kent county Mutual Insurance Company. He is an attorney of ability and energy, and for him the future is full of promise.

WILLIAM WIRT LEONARD.
Attorney at Law.

Among the younger and more vigorous members of the Wicomico County Bar the name of William Wirt Leonard is entitled to recognition. Mr. Leonard is a native of Salisbury, born on the 5th, day of April 1875. After graduating from the public schools of Salisbury, he became a student of Princeton College, graduating from that famous institution in 1896. After completing his studies at the University of Maryland Law School, Mr. Leonard submitted himself for examination before the State Board, successfully passing in November 1899. He was admitted to the Bar on April 5th, 1899, his 24th birthday. In that same year he was a candidate for State Attorney and was defeated only by a very narrow margin. Since then he has actively engaged in the general practice of law.

JOSEPH L. BAILEY.

It required a man of broad gauge character to efficiently fill the office of State's Attorney and to solve the intricate problems relative thereto. The present State's Attorney, Mr. Joseph L. Bailey seems to possess this character judging by the opinions expressed of him throughout this section. Born in Quantico, Md., and receiving his earlier education in the public schools of that town, he later entered the Washington College, at Chestertown, graduating from that institution in 1885. For a year or more he taught school, then entering the office of the Register of Wills of the County where he remained several years. Meantime, however he decided to study law and during his spare time prepared for examination before the State Board, passing and being admitted to the bar in 1888. About this time he opened an office for the general practice of law. In 1899 he was elected by a generous majority, to the office of State's Attorney and in 1903 was re-elected. It is frequently remarked by lawyers who know him best that his quick perception and analytical mind have given him a place with the ablest lawyers of the county. He possesses the faculty of gathering together the facts of a case and arguing them before a jury in pleasing and logical manner. He is a clear and logical debater on legal points. Mr. Bailey is genial and courteous in his business transactions; careful and painstaking in the preparation of legal documents and has the reputation of giving thoughtful attention to the preparation of cases for trial. He has an extensive practice, to which he already stated he devotes his whole time and energies. At his well equipped offices at rooms 11 and 12 News Building.

S. R. DOUGLASS.

One of the most promising of the young legal lights practicing before the courts of Wicomico County is S. R. Douglass of Salisbury. Mr. Douglass is a native of Milton, Del., born there in 1876. He attended the public schools there until his thirteenth year, at which time his family located in Salisbury. Mr. Douglass graduated from the Salisbury High School in 1893 and then took a three year course at the Washington College, graduating from that institution in 1896. It was at this time that he decided to take up the study of law, and for some time later he read law in the office of his uncle, Judge Charles F. Holland. In 1898 he went to the University of Maryland. The special course pursued here by the young student was law. His experience here fitted him to undertake later the strenuous duties as a member of the Wicomico county bar. After graduating from the University in 1899 Mr. Douglass taught school for two years, being Principal of the School at Sharpton, and afterwards at Delmar. On January 10, 1900 he was admitted to the bar, soon after opening an office in the News Building, taking up the general practice of law. Mr. Douglass' ability as a lawyer and irrefragable character are recognized throughout this and other counties. He is Counsel for the Salisbury Light, Heat and Power Co. and represents other important interests. He has always taken an active interest in educational matters. He is a gentleman of the highest standing in the community. He is popular in F. and A. M. and Modern Woodman circles and is one of the city's most esteemed citizens.

PARKER AND DAVIS—THE PLATFORM.

Some days have elapsed since the action of the Democratic National Convention at St. Louis, but the work of that Convention will pass into history as one of the most important epochs in the party's history. Judge Alton Brooks Parker, of New York and Hon. Henry Gassaway Davis, of West Virginia, respectively were nominated for President and vice-president and met with the great majority approval of the party of Jefferson and Jackson.

The convention was one of the hardest worked that ever formulated and approved a political platform and not until every plank contained therein was deliberately taken up and exhaustively treated by members of the party, nationally distinguished for their political insight, experience and tenacity, was it brought before the democratic delegates for their adoption. The main features of this platform will appeal to every true Democrat in the land. The present monetary system is not touched on. The gold and silver rankle of 1896 and 1900 is left undisturbed.

A revision of the tariff (and the consequent blow to the harmful Trusts) is aimed at. The old slogan of tariff for revenue, only, as opposed to tariff for protection in the Republican platform, is revived. The imperialistic policy of the present administration is deplored while the attitude of President Roosevelt on the race question and his strenuous ways are seriously depreciated.

The South does not stand alone any longer in this matter and the insertion of a board in the Republican platform favoring a Congressional investigation, as to whether the suffrage in certain states has been unconstitutional, limited, will arouse hosts of sympathizing Northerners who are now better acquainted with racial problems than they were before the civil war. Thinking and just minded men all over the country earnestly lament the tendency of the Republican administration and the embodiment in its 1904 platform of subject matter that will unduly agitate existing conditions in the South that now under Democratic supervision, promise peace to the people of that section and security to property rights.

Parker and Davis will make a strong running pair, and with their known views on questions of broad public policy, will draw great strength from the conservative element in the Republican party, whereas a more united Democracy, with a more acceptable platform has rarely faced the verdict of the people.

IN MEMORIAM.

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from us our beloved classmate, Daisy Anderson, therefore be it

Resolved, that we the class of 1901, of the Salisbury High School at our first meeting assembled, express our deep sorrow in the great loss we have sustained. Our ranks have been broken and our hearts saddened, but we bow in submission to the will of Him who does all things for the good of those that love Him.

Resolved, That we ever strive to follow in our lives the high ideals and noble examples that she has given us. We will ever cherish in our memories her lovely character.

Resolved, That these resolutions be kept among the records of our class, that they be published in the local papers and that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

MARYLAND TEACHERS

think, and to think deeply, normally and logically, so as to give vigor and strength, making the mind a citadel, offensive and defensive. To thus train the youth, the teacher must have an insight into that psychological something that will bring about reflective thought on the part of the pupils. Subjects are not to be drilled into them by artificial and mechanical processes, but are to be presented in such a manner that the mind will grasp them with its own spontaneity, for as Kant says, "Subjects are frequently taken in, but not digested; apprehended but not comprehended." It is in the province of the teacher by a sympathetic interest to direct the youthful mind into channels that will best stimulate mental activity for results.

The President's Address, By H. Crawford Bounds, County Superintendent Of Wicomico County.

Supt. Bounds spoke in part as follows:

"One year ago the members of the Association were hoping that the General Assembly of 1904 would enact such legislation as would assure every teacher in this State a living salary by guaranteeing a minimum salary to be paid. With the great majority of teachers this was more a hope than a belief; but with a unanimity that was surprising to all, the members of that Assembly gave what was asked and gave it in the spirit that makes the grant doubly welcome. In the light of this action, and judging it by the entire absence of organized opposition thereto and still more by the tone of the speeches made in favor thereof, it is now seen that the surprising development is not the passage of minimum salary law but the revelation of the appreciation that the public has of the teachers' work and worth. For years teachers have felt and frequently said in Associations and Institutes that parents did not know the importance of the teachers' work and the public in general had no knowledge of the value of the teachers' services and no desire to make the pay commensurate therewith. But to the first demand made by the teachers there comes a response from the highest representatives of parents and public that is surprising and still more gratifying. To what is this awakened public spirit to be attributed? In some measure no doubt to the organization of the teachers and to their work individually and collectively in educating the public and particularly in instructing the members of the Assembly and in explaining to them the nature of the legislation they were being asked to enact and the reasons for doing so.

"In this work due credit should be given to those who by their presence at Annapolis and their efforts there did so much to bring about the desired result, and this is said with no intention of depreciating the importance of this organization for without such union and such demand nothing could have been accomplished. In almost every speech advocating the passage of this measure, made either in the House or Senate reference was made to the PROFESSIONAL CHARACTER of the teachers' work and distinguishing it from the work of the unskilled laborer or the artisan. This is the gratifying revelation made by the General Assembly, a revelation worth more in its promise for the future than in its achievements in the past. Is it not time that by the work done in the county institutes and in the State Teachers' Reading Circles there has been created in the teachers themselves a higher standard of self criticism and a better professional spirit that have operated to arouse school patrons and tax payers to the fact that teaching is a profession, that it should be recognized as such, and as far as the means of the State would allow, paid as such. Certainly it can not be held that a minimum salary of $300.00 is as much as the State, meaning either State or county, can be reasonably expected to pay a member of a profession. The State is financially able to pay more and the teachers may hope that the future promises more. May not the same public spirit that has acknowledged the teachers' worth as professional be expected to operate and to influence State and county officials in making appropriations for teachers' salaries. But the same course that operated in the past must continue to work in the future. There is indeed hope but only so long as the teachers themselves realize that their work is professional and so govern themselves. This then is the duty imposed upon teachers that they shall take advantage of every opportunity for professional training and study.

"This law however is not valuable merely because it affects the financial welfare of the teacher; it is more noticeable because it is the first step toward the inauguration of a real system of State Education. A uniform salary even though it be a minimum salary paid by the State leads to uniform qualifications even though they be minimum qualifications prescribed and tested by the State.

Special Illustrated Service At Division Street Baptist Church.

The Division Street Baptist Church was filled to the doors on last Sunday evening, the occasion being the special illustrated service by Rev. Kingman Handy. Miss Tondy and a chorus of girls assisted in the music. Miss Beulah White, organist.

A song service interspersed with special selections opened the exercises. Mr. Handy presented adapted portions of Milton's "Paradise Lost" which were accompanied by the famous Dore illustrations and covered the war in Heaven, Satan cast into hell, the congress of evil spirits and Satan's journey to the garden of Eden. About forty slides were used and added much to the impressiveness of the occasion. Lessons were drawn from the story as it progressed and they were greatly strengthened by the accompanying views.

In the near future another of the series will be given. This will include the Temptation, the Fall and Redemption. The Masterpieces of art and music will accompany the Redemption.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering.

"I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Burge, of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from chronic diarrhoea for ten years and during that time tried various medicines without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much in favor of that wonderful medicine." This remedy is for sale by All Druggists.

In Hyattsville, Prince George's county, a hen belonging to Mrs. Joseph A. Mudd hatched a "double-headed chicken," which lived a few minutes after it came from the shell. It had three eyes—one in the center of the double skull-bone, and two separate and well formed beaks.

Safeguard The Children.

Notwithstanding all that is done by boards of health and charitably inclined persons, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather of the summer months in the large cities. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Mr. Frank Riggs, of Franklinville, N. Y., in speaking of this remedy said: "I have found it expedient to have a supply of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand. It has been a family safeguard and while especially beneficial to children, it is equally good in adult cases. I recommend it cheerfully and without reservation." For sale by All Druggists.

The Jacob Toms Institute has opened for its first summer session. The faculty consists of selected representatives from the different departments. The sessions of the school are held in the cool morning hours and the afternoons are devoted to pleasure and outdoor exercises.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistence and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equalled. Joe Golobick of Colusa, Calif., writes: "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by All Druggists.

The recently elected Town Commissioners of Princess Anne cast lots for their terms of office, Cassius M. Daahill getting the six year term, Frank Collins the four year term, and Edward D. Young the two-year term.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

This remedy is certain to be needed in almost every home before the summer is over. It can always be depended upon even in the most severe and dangerous cases. It is especially valuable for summer disorders in children. It is pleasant to take and never fails to give prompt relief. Why not buy it now? It may save life. For sale by All Druggists.

The Grantham Hall property in Martinsburg has been sold for $9,000, which is regarded as a very good price. The place has been in litigation for eight years.

Night Was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at any drug store.

H. T. Parsons, tailor, residing at 103 Water Street says:

"I had eczema or some skin trouble on my left leg which annoyed me off and on for the past three or four years. It would come on from no apparent cause and just as mysteriously disappear only to reappear again about a week or two later, or sometimes a month or two. In warm weather, or if I over-heated myself I was worse, and I happened to see an advertisement about Doan's Ointment which influenced me to go to White & Leonard's Drug Store for a box. A few applications stopped the itching for I used nothing else and it disappeared. What is of much more importance to me, at the present time, there is not a symptom of recurrence."

Miss Nettie Blackmore, Minneapolis, tells how any young woman may be permanently cured of monthly pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"YOUNG WOMEN:—I had frequent headaches of a severe nature, dark spots before my eyes, and at my menstrual periods I suffered untold agony. A member of the lodge advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I only scorned good advice and felt that my case was hopeless, but she kept at me until I bought a bottle and started taking it. I soon had the best reason in the world to change my opinion of the medicine, as each day my health improved, and finally I was entirely without pain at my menstruation periods. I am most grateful."—NERRIE BLACKMORE, 28 Central Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

If there is anything about your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She will hold your letter in strict confidence. She can surely help you, for no person in America can speak from wider experience in treating female ills. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her address is Lynn, Mass.; her advice is free.

IN SELECTING A COLLEGE THESE ARE THE VITAL POINTS:

1. HEALTHFULNESS.

Has new and substantial buildings. Steam Heat, Electric Light. Furnishes good food; comfortable rooms. Baths. Gymnasium. Athletic Field.
2. SAFE AND REFINED SURROUNDINGS.
Founded 37 years ago by Christian men, Western Maryland College has always striven for Christian ends in education.

Believes that character is formed by habits and habits by system, and so provides its students with a schedule that leaves no hour of the day unaccounted for.
Receives both sexes for the benefit of both, believing this also to be the ideal of the home; but separates the sexes in classroom and limits social intercourse.
3. MODERN METHODS AND EQUIPMENT.
Western Maryland College came in with the modern educational ideas.
Led the way in that form of co-education recently adopted by the University of Chicago—co-educational, but not co-incident education for men and women.

Mr. C. F. Given, Sussex, N. B., Vice President of "The Past-Time Boating Club," writes:

"Whenever the cold weather sets in I have for years past been very sure to catch a severe cold which was hard to throw off, and which would leave after-effects on my constitution the most of the winter.

"Last winter I was advised to try Pe-ru-na, and within five days the cold was broken up and in five days more I was well man. I recommended it to several of my friends and all speak the highest praise for it. There is nothing like Pe-ru-na for catarrhal affections. It is well nigh infallible as a cure, and I gladly endorse it."—C. F. Given.

DISCUSSES ELECTION

Last Spring, And Further Notes Bribery Situation. Mr. Jas. E. Ellegood Sounds Present Conditions And Hits Political Corruption.

Messrs Editors:—

While it was not pleasant to be told on the day of the Local Option Election in Salisbury, of the rumor that my office was headquarters for temperance bribery, I paid but little attention to it. But I heard it again on my trip to the Pacific Coast, and also since my return, with some apologetic remark for my supposed connection with it. It seems to me a very great incongruity in being a bribe giver one day and the next day leaving as a Delegate for a great religious Conference of a Christian Church, whose mission is according to its founder, "spreading scriptural holiness."

Being anxious to hold the esteem and confidence of all my fellow citizens, I wish to disclaim any connection or sympathy with bribery whether it be to buy a voter, a jury, a judge or a legislator. I have all my life contended with some degree of inconsistency, and I hope consistency, against two public evils, the LIQUOR TRAFFIC and POLITICAL CORRUPTION, and should not expect condemnation if I had participated in the greater CRIME to abate the lesser EVIL.

What a deplorable condition is the public conscience, which can look on this offense as a "conventional rime," in which church members may engage and still be PIOUS, and qualified candidates for Paradise, while the truth is that bribery for any purpose is a crime, as intolerable and indefensible as larceny.

It ought to be stopped, if not by the voluntary action of those who have engaged in it, then by the organization of the people either partizan or independently. Some undertake to beguile themselves with the false notion that "the end justified the means," which is as illogical as that slogan among corrupt politicians "fight the devil with the devil." To cool off H. H. out of the sulphur and put out the fire. A cold Hades has no more attractions for his Satanic majesty, than a cold jail has for a "boodler."

The fact that CRIMINAL "means" should have been used to accomplish a MORAL "end," shows the low tone of the political conscience in our midst and the DEPRAVITY of our political condition. Is it a surprise that politicians in this Congressional District should be looking for candidates with full barrels and empty consciences, while young men with full brains and strong convictions are relegated to obscurity.

The liquor traffic and bribery are both public wrongs; the former because it encourages drunkenness and is therefore IMMORAL; but the latter is a crime in its essence, and forbidden by human and divine law. Yet we are told that to clean out the saloon we must pollute the ballot-box; to PURIFY in one direction, we must CORRUPT in another; to deprive some of the legal right to sell intoxicating liquors we may do that which forfeits our right to vote, our citizenship; yea, saps the foundation of our right of self government. I should have no confidence in the permanency of that victory, did I believe it was due to the corrupt use of money, or that the great majority of the best sentiment of the people was not against license. That gives it stability.

The Anti-Saloon League at its public meetings, through its speakers, presented the issue as a moral one, as one of vice against virtue, and suggested an effort to suppress the use of money by the liquor dealers. But the political condition is so deplorable that it seems easier to raise thousands of dollars for the CORRUPTION of the people, than hundreds for their PROTECTION. Jas. E. Ellegood.

BASE BALL AGAIN

Salisbury Strikes Champion Of The Shore And Has Unfortunate Start, Eastern Winning Two Games. Rain Postpones Friday's Game To Wednesday.

Easton defeated Salisbury here Wednesday with the score of 4 to 0. The game with the exception of several bad throws on Salisbury's part was well played. This being the first game no better team work could be expected. Attendance 325.

The score:
Easton, 0 1 0 0 1 0 1 1—4r 7h 0e.
Salisbury, 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0r 2h 2e.
Batteries—Easton, Maddox and Selva.
Salisbury, Russell and Lovell.
Time of game 1:35. Umpire, Collier.

Salisbury suffered a second defeat at Easton Thursday, from the club of that town. The feature of the game was the great catch of Bob Russell of Salisbury in center field, of a long hit off Mathison with three men on bases and two out. The pitching was excellent, each pitcher allowing only four hits. In the eighth inning the game was won, Selva making a three base hit, scoring Mathison who was on first base.

Easton 0 0 0 2 0 1 0 1 x—4r, 4h, 1e.
Salisbury 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—3r, 4h, 2e.
Batteries—Easton, Berhard and Selva.
Salisbury—Slaughter and Lovell.
Umpire Hayward.
The game Friday between Salisbury and Crisfield was called off owing to rain. It is understood that it will be played here Wednesday at the usual hour.

The Salisbury Second Team played a tie game with Pittsville, Thursday, score 9 to 9.

Sudden Death Of Prof. Meyer, Prominent Musical Instructor.

Prof. Barthold Meyer, of Baltimore, who has been giving music lessons here for the last few months, died suddenly Tuesday night in front of the Peninsula Hotel. Prof. Meyer only arrived on the train Tuesday evening from Baltimore and having written a letter to his son, he walked out in front of the hotel. In a few minutes he was observed to reel and fall, but was caught by some gentlemen near. Dr. G. W. Todd was summoned but all efforts to revive him were futile. He was a fine instructor, and his death is greatly deplored.

Professor Meyer had a large summer class of vocal scholars in Salisbury, and it was his custom to go there on Tuesday of each week, returning to the city on Friday. When he left last Tuesday Mrs. Meyer accompanied him as far as Claiborne, as she frequently did, and returned to the city by the same boat. The Professor had been complaining a few days before, and had been under a physician's care but no alarm was felt over his condition, although he was 67 years old, and was known to have an affection of the heart.

Professor Meyer was a man of culture and could converse fluently not only in English and German, but in Spanish, French and Italian. He had many warm friends in this and other cities.

A very pleasant reception was given by Miss Mary Crew, in honor of her friend, Miss Amy Allen, of Allen, Md., Tuesday evening. Popular games were played and refreshments served at a late hour. Those present were: Miss Emma Steward, Oxford, Md. Misses May Coughlin, Lillian Coughlin, Ora Disharoon, Laura Elliott, Alma Lankford, and Nellie Lankford, Messrs. Frank Adkins, John Bacon, Joseph Carey, Emory Coughlin, William Sheppard and Gordon Smith.

POLITICS OF 1ST DISTRICT

Review Of The Situation. Like National Convention, Democrats Await To Assemble Before Nominating A Candidate. Several Available Men.

Eastern Shore Democratic politicians who were in the city yesterday intimate that the Democratic Congressional nomination in the First district will remain unsettled until the convention meets at Ocean City next month. A rumor to the effect that ex-Gov. Elihu E. Jackson was prepared to reconsider his determination not to accept the nomination, and that he could finally be brought to enter the field as a candidate for Congress against his brother, Congressman William H. Jackson, was brought here yesterday, but not much stock is taken in it by the local leaders to whom Governor Jackson emphatically declared weeks ago that he was not and would not be a candidate. If he could be induced to yield to the persuasions of his friends there is no doubt that the nomination would be gladly given to him, as it is generally conceded that he is in a position to put up a much stronger fight than any other man in the district, with the possible exception of ex-Governor Smith, whose friends say he would not take the nomination under any circumstances.

Aside from the Jackson rumor the impression is growing that Former State Senator Thomas A. Smith, who was Chief of the State Bureau of Labor Statistics under Governor Smith, is the leading candidate although a number of other names are mentioned. It is said that Mr. Smith's county—Caroline—will be solidly back of him in the convention, and that his selection would be acceptable to all of the Smith people throughout the district. The name of Gen. Joseph B. Seth, of Talbot county, is being urged by his friends, and it is understood that he would have the support of Governor Jackson in the fight.

Since the restoration of harmony between the Republican factions at the Union League Club it has been practically settled that Congressman Jackson will consent to accept a renomination from the First district, and it is generally believed that his renomination will be unanimous. Republican leaders of the district regard him as their strongest man, and express themselves as confident that with Mr. Jackson in the fight this district will be Republican.

The claim is made by prominent Republicans that the decision of Attorney General William Shepard Bryan, Jr., that it will not be necessary for the voters this fall to vote for each individual elector on the ticket in order to cast their vote for President or Vice President, practically nullifies the effect of the Wilson Ballot law in the district. It is said that, as it will now be necessary for the voter to make but three cross marks on the ballot to vote for President, Vice President and the Congressional candidate, it will not be difficult to teach the negro voter how to mark his ticket, notwithstanding the fact that in some of the counties on the Eastern Shore the Wilson bill has abolished the party denominations on the ticket and left merely the bare names of the candidate.

Democrats in the district do not attempt to disguise the fact that they are considerably disappointed at the opinion of the Attorney General, and there is already some talk of nominating independent candidates for Congress in some of the counties where the negro vote is largest in order to complicate the ticket. In Southern Maryland the Democrats, as has been stated, intend to nominate an Independent candidate named John Mudd for Congress. This name, with that of the Democratic candidate for Presidential elector, S. A. Mudd, it is believed, will so confuse the illiterate negro voter that Congressman S. E. Mudd will lose many votes which under ordinary circumstances he would get. It is now intimated that if the Republicans re-nominate Congressman Jackson in the First district the Democrats may find another Jackson in the district who will be placed upon the ticket as an Independent candidate.

In reference to the decision of Attorney General Bryan the law is said to be so plain that there is no possibility of misconstruction, and that there is hardly room for two opinions on the matter. Mr. Bryan's view has been sustained by Mr. Edgar H. Gans, Mr. W. Starr Gephart and others who looked into the question.—Baltimore Sun of Friday.

Folk—AND PLATFORM. DESERVED HONOR—TRUE WORTH.

Keynote of Folk's Platform.

"The Democratic party of Missouri not only stands for material and intellectual progress, but for moral advancement, and declares that the paramount issue before the people of Missouri is the eradication of bribery from public life in this State.

"The decree has gone forth that there is no room in the Democratic party for bootlickers. We repudiate their support and do not want their votes. We invite such as are masquerading under the cloak of the Democratic party to bolt, and propose to make them bolt not only the party, but the State.

"We favor the passage of laws making null and void all franchises obtained by bribery.

"We favor the passage of laws making professional lobbying in the Legislature a felony."

The platform pledges support to Parker, favors the initiative and referendum, taxation of corporations the same as individuals, the assessment of franchises, the eradication of the granting of railroad passes to legislators and the building of good roads."

The public who have been so long accustomed to see men devoted to civic righteousness, more or less neglected where honors are bestowed, will meet with encouragement in the nomination of Jos. W. Folk as Governor of Missouri. The explanation of this popular approval of the course of Mr. Folk by the public may in no small measure be due to the fact that besides being a man of excellent character he has proved himself to be exceedingly aggressive, and abundantly able to steer the ship of State. They possibly think that while modesty and an old-fashioned diffidence may not be the largest ingredient in his make-up, yet that modern political conditions are such that times demand, besides good character, a thoroughly aggressive disposition to impose that character upon others. The public need not enter into a too searching analysis of the motives that have actuated a career like that of Mr. Folk's. It may have been ambition or youthful exuberance, or a sincere desire for the betterment of political conditions in his State. So long as public life is made more respectable the people are entitled to look upon the public servant as of something to be proud.

The elevation of Mr. Folk not only brightens public life in Missouri, but in every state in the Union, and brings one's shaken confidence in popular verdicts to safer moorings. There is nothing more encouraging in public life than the elevation of such men, nothing more disheartening than the continued supremacy of self-seekers and bargain counter politicians.

SOLDIERS OF 'LIBERATION'

SECRET POLICE AGENTS

Surgical Operations Performed to Incapacitate Them for Service—Extraordinary Increase of "Free Tickets"—Nothing Impossible to the Medical Specialists.

A sidelight is thrown on the burden of military conscription in Russia by the proceedings in a case which has been followed in Odessa for many days with exceptional interest. The attention of the higher military authorities in that town was called some time ago to the extraordinary increase in the number of "free tickets" made out by the divisional military doctors in the names of soldiers who had served but a short period of their term with the colors. The investigations set on foot by the military authorities were continued over a larger area with the assistance of secret police agents, and many of the soldiers to whom "free tickets" had recently been given were hunted up, re-examined by a special medical and surgical staff, and vigorously cross-examined as to their previous health and the manner in which they came to be physically or constitutionally unfit to complete their term of service. Several of the rejected soldiers acknowledged that individuals whom they named, and whom they had met continuing in the vicinity of their barracks, had induced them to liberate themselves from their "unbearable burden" of service by tampering with their health.

The military authorities have now succeeded in arresting a well-organized band of ruffians, whose sole occupation for years has been the "liberation" of young Russian soldiers and recruits from military service. At the head of the society was a certain Kreek, who had under him several pseudo-doctors and touting agents. The method employed by the latter was to invite young soldiers singly to restaurants, where, after a meal, the tout enlarged on the burdens of Russian military service, and the possibility of the soldiers losing life in battle, or of his being drafted to some distant military district where he would be liable to the severest punishment for the slightest offence at the hands of arbitrary non-commissioned officers. When at last the agent was satisfied that business was assured with one soldier, he communicated with the head of the society without delay and set to work to inveigle another. Kreek, the "head," would arrange an interview with the latest acquisition, settle with him what operation to perform upon him in order to incapacitate him for military purposes, and fix the amount of money he should pay. The soldier might if he liked choose to become deaf. If so, the "doctor" of the society would bore his ear and irretrievably damage the tympanum. If he wanted a disease inoculated into his system the means were at the disposal of Kreek's "medical" specialist. In short, if he wanted any organ of his body tampered with, Kreek had a "surgical" specialist in his employment to whom nothing was impossible.

The evidence adduced during the protracted hearing of the case against Kreek and others, and several soldiers who, in spite of their confession, were tried before the same court-martial, has proved that sums of $40 even were received by Kreek for the "liberation" of some of the Russian rank and file. The details of some of the operations performed by the "doctors" and "surgeons" of the band are too nauseous for publication. The guilt of Kreek and two others has been fully established. Kreek has accordingly been sentenced to deprivation of all personal, civil, and property rights, and to two and a half years' servitude in a correctional corps. Two members of his society, one a touting agent, the other a "doctor," have been sentenced to deprivation of all rights and to two years' servitude in a correctional corps, while, among others, two of the soldiers who submitted to operations have been sentenced to partial deprivation of rights and to servitude in a military disciplinary battalion for a term of one year.—Tribune Correspondence London Times.

Napoleon's Bed for Sale.
The bed on which Napoleon died at St. Helena is being offered for sale in Paris. The bedstead is made of brass, and was given by the emperor to Comte de Montholon, who was with him at St. Helena. It is now the property of the Comtesse de Montholon, who is the last representative of the family, and she is very old and has no one to leave it to, she is now willing to sell it. The comtesse also has in her possession a dinner service which belonged to Napoleon. The price asked for the bedstead is £50,000, and it will most probably be secured by one of the American collectors of Napoleon relics.—Tit-Bits.

STORIES OF TS'IAN.

Caused Many Heads to Roll in the Dust During Her Journey.

A dispatch from China says that the Dowager Empress has left Peking for Kailang-fu in the province of Honan. This city of over 200,000 inhabitants is the capital of Honan Province, and the railroad between Peking and Hankow will pass through it. The northern part of the road is now far advanced, and the Empress Dowager has probably utilized it, as she did the completed portion when she fled to Sian during the Boxer troubles.

Kailang is a large trading place and has the only distinctively Jewish colony in China. These Jews are engaged entirely in gold and silver working and in money lending. The city is on the right bank of the Hoang River, and has suffered terribly from the inundations of that treacherous stream. In 1541 most of the inhabitants signed their own death warrant by tearing down the embankments in the attempt to drown a rebel army that was besieging them. The rebels, however, escaped, while nearly all the people of the town were drowned.

We are not informed as to the reasons given to the Chinese public for the departure of the Empress from the capital. When she and the Emperor took refuge in Sian the people were not told that she had fled to Peking, because it was about to be occupied by the allied forces. The journey was due, it was said, to the fact that the Emperor desired to travel through his dominions, study the condition of the people and worship in the temples. The American Nichols, who travelled to Sian, said that no one intimated to him that the royal party had fled from Peking. The revered rulers created the impression everywhere that it was only their good pleasure to travel to Sian, and to this day the farmers speak of the imperial wanderers as if they had conveyed lasting honor on the old land by travelling through it.

If the Empress Dowager is making her present progress by rail there will be no opportunity for exciting incidents similar to those that marked the land journey to Sian. At that time she had made up her mind that the Boxer movement was a sad failure; and when, on the journey, a man in Boxer regalia rushed into the road, knelt beside her chair and began a eulogistic address on her efforts to exterminate the "foreign devils," she merely motioned to one of her bodyguards, who quietly walked up behind the Boxer, and with one stroke of his sword cut off his oration and his head at the same time, and she degraded the mandarin who had permitted the man to make this demonstration under the mistaken impression that it would be pleasing to the Empress.

When the lady was informed that a Manchurian high rank in her party was making a handsome squeeze in hiring carts to carry the luggage, she at once caused his head to roll in the dust of the road. A considerable number of decapitations, in fact, relieved the journey of monotony; and these incidents did not tend to make the Empress Dowager less popular with her subjects. For eigners who have spent much time among the common people of China say that her almost worshipful her, and that her faults and cruelties are virtues in their eyes, and the more intelligent classes have a great admiration and respect for her character and unbounded confidence in her ability.

How to Set Barbed-Wire Fence.
A correspondent sends us the accompanying sketch of an end post of his wire fence with the following notes about the timber and setting the fence. He writes: "The timber, for posts should be cut when the sap is dormant. Midwinter or August is a good time to cut post-timber. They should be split, and the bark taken off as soon as possible after cutting the timber. For end posts, I select some of the best trees, about sixteen inches in diameter, from which I take cuts eight and a half feet in length, splitting them in quarters for brace posts. They should be set four feet in the ground, which is easily done with a post-hole digger. When setting the brace post, I take a stone eighteen inches to two feet in length, as much as twelve inches wide, and six inches or more in thickness, which I put down against the post, edgewise, on the opposite side to the brace, putting it down about even with the surface of the ground. This holds the post solid against the brace. A heart rail ten feet in length makes a good brace. I put one of the long posts every sixteen or twenty rods along the line of fence, as they help to strengthen it, and set lighter and shorter posts along the line about sixteen feet apart. After the posts are set there should be two or three furrows turned against them on each side, as it helps to keep stock from the wire. Such a fence should be built of a good height. It is better to buy an extra wire than have stock injured. I have made a good deal of fence in the way described, and it stands well. There is no pulling over of end post or a giving wire.

Refreshing And "Delicious"

are words that we often hear after people have tried Orange Phosphate at our fountain. Orange Phosphate is so common that it takes something extra to call forth such remarks. The secret of ours is that we are careful to have fresh syrup made from the best material we can find. Fresh syrup means syrup made not longer than the day before you taste it. Our Orange Phosphate is delicious because it hasn't that flat "cellary" pine wood taste. It has that tart acid taste that pleases.

Why not stop this falling of your hair? At this rate you will soon be without any hair! Just remember that Hall's Hair Renewer stops falling hair, and makes hair grow.

It will Never Be Known

just how many BELLES and their guests went on the delightful trip down the river last Sunday to Bivalve Camp; there was no way to get at the "BOTTOM" facts as to how many there were, as a good many who tried to count'em got "JESSIE" from some of the BELLES who would't stand still long enough to be counted. The Belles have covered themselves with glory by returning every compliment ten-fold. A peculiar incident marked the trip toward home. Just as the searchlight was thrown on the bank of the river a very quiet young lady began to sing something about chicken feathers, when a wild scramble took place on shore and hundreds of chickens were seen to be making for the woods. When a song can be sung with so much feeling as to arouse the motion of a lot of chickens it has to be pretty well sung. But then everything that is done in Salisbury is well done, except on rare occasions a STEAK is not. It's the get there ways of the town that makes her what she is. I'll give you a demonstration of it. Lacy Thoroughgood is selling Men's Suits worth $18.00 for $15.00; $15.00 Suits for $12.50; $12.50 Suits for $10.00; $10.00 Suits for $7.50. Isn't that enough to arouse the motion of a lot of men. People used to think there was something "QUEER" about the way Lacy Thoroughgood sold clothing and stuff so good and so cheap, but they've found out that his prices come from long practice in selling cheap. Lacy Thoroughgood's great July sale will continue until August 1st. Thoroughgood wants to apologize for not announcing this sale long ago, but the truth of the matter is that he was so busy that he forgot it. However Thoroughgood proposes to get in the game. If you think my brother keeps better goods than I do buy from him.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine is scanty, if the urine reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

WHAT A BLESSING.

Many people in Salisbury Are Learning to Appreciate.

What a blessing it is! Sough after by thousands, Salisbury is finding it out. Many a miserable man is happy now. Nights of unrest, day of trouble, itching skin disease means this, itching Piles mean it.

Excema just as bad and just as hard to cure.

But Doan's Ointment relieves at once and cures all itchings of the skin.

A blessing to a suffering public. Here's a Salisbury proof to back our statement.

H. T. Parsons, tailor, residing at 108 Water Street says:

"I had excema or some skin trouble on my left leg which annoyed me off and on for the past three or four years. It would come on from no apparent cause and just as mysteriously disappear only to reappear again about a week or two later, or sometimes a month or two. In warm weather, or if I over-heated myself I was worse, and I happened to see an advertisement about Doan's Ointment which influenced me to go to White & Leonard's Drug Store for a box. A few applications stopped the itching for I used nothing else and it disappeared. What is of much more importance to me, at the present time, there is no symptom of recurrence."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

Beware Of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from regular reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

This crowds the heart and shortens the breath. Rapid heart beats and heart disease is the final result. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, takes the strain off the heart, cures indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. ### TO MAKE CHEESE AT HOME.

Only Simple and Most Common Utensils Needed.

Only the simplest and most common utensils need be employed in the first efforts. A peck measure with the bottom knocked out will answer for the hoop. If the necessary amount of milk cannot be obtained at one milking add the next milking to it. When the milk is drawn, at once pour it from one vessel to another for a few times to aerate it. Place it in any vessel large enough—a wash boiler will answer—and add a rennet tablet, which can be had at a drug store, with directions accompanying, telling how to use it. Stir well, heat up to about 84 degrees, or until the curd seems thick enough; then remove from the fire and let stand until it sets or coagulates, after which the curd is to be cut from top to bottom in two-inch squares to allow the whey to escape. Have ready a square of cheesecloth previously scalded and rinsed, and spread it in a clean basket. Place this over a tub to catch the whey. Dip out the curd, place it in the cheesecloth to drain.

Then with the hands break up the curd into granules about the size of the kernels of corn. Salt to taste, then gather the corners of the cloth together, lift up and shake until settled in the center of the cloth. Lift out and place in the hoop, which should be on the press.

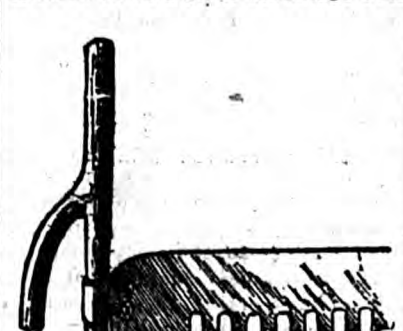

A clean, square board is first placed under the hoop for convenience in handling. The press bench should be a little inclined and a groove cut in it to guide the drainage to some vessel. Fold the cheesecloth evenly over the curd so as not to wrinkle it, and place the follower, a round board fitting the hoop, over it.

Place a small weight on the follower at first, and later a heavy one. Let the curd remain in the press twenty-four hours, turning it once meantime. A wet cloth is used to turn it over. When first taken from the press, set away until dry, after which rub with melted butter. Turn every day for a week, and each time repeat the process of rubbing with butter.

When first taken out of the hoop, take off the old cloth and put on a new cut as a bandage to go around the edge of the cheese, and cut a circular piece for each side. The grease holds the cloth in place; out some return the cheese to the hoop and press for a few minutes. The cheese is then placed in a room kept at a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees to cure.

A ten-pound cheese will cure in five or six weeks. A longer time insures a better and stronger flavor, which some prefer. Never keep cheese of any kind in a damp place. It will mold.—St. Louis, Republie.

A Not-Patented Double Saw Handle. In cross-cutting or sawing timber in the woods or at the farmer's woodpile, it is the exception to find on the Pacific Coast two men, one at each end, operating the saw, as is the common practice in the Eastern States. Here the saws are made somewhat heavier and stiffer in the blade, fitted with a handle at but one end, and it is found that one man will do nearly or quite as much work as two in the old way of having an extra man riding on the other end of the saw. In practice, the use of a double handle is found to be a great advantage over the single handle ordinarily used on cross-cut saws. Such a handle is shown in the illustration, drawn from a sketch sent us by J. F. Cass, Whatcom Co., Wash. Ter. It may be cut from a forked branch or sapling, and fitted to the socket on the end of the saw. In use, the operator holds the main handle with his left hand, while his right grasps the lower and forked part of handle, and he will be astonished with the increased command he has over the working of the implement. There are several patent double handles in use in the Territory, but the above one, patented, answers the purpose very well.

EASTERN SHORE.

Excursion Steamer Commissioned To Fly

Col. Oswald Tilghman, Secretary of State and president of the Eastern Shore Transport Company was in Baltimore Monday and chartered for five weeks Mr. E. D. Side excursions will be run to Annapolis. The Dumont left Baltimore on Friday to take on board the stockholders of the Transport Company for an inspection trip, and on Saturday she will take the first excursion of Washingtonians from Chesapeake Beach to Ocean City, a special train conveying them from Claiborne and returning by the same route on Tuesday. Colonel Tilghman speaks encouragingly of the enterprise, the plan being a most inviting one, Washington being only 32 miles by rail and 16 miles by boat from the most fertile sections of the Eastern Shore. ### Fishing Nets Obstruct The Ocean.

Nine fishermen who were arrested at Ocean City last week have been released by United States Commissioner, Rogers until August 2, 1904, when they will be given a hearing on the charge of obstructing the navigation of the Atlantic Ocean by their pound nets.

The cases are the result of a raid made by the Government along the Atlantic coast against fishermen who have their nets spread in the ocean. Fish pounds are only allowed in the ocean, it is said, with the consent of the Secretary of War, and his consent would not be granted for such pounds as the Ocean City fishermen operated. Many complaints are said to have been made by the captains of coasting vessels of the obstruction to navigation by the fishing nets. The fish pounds at Ocean City, Md., have been a source of much revenue to the fishermen, and the source of a large supply of fish.

W. J. Arkell, formerly publisher Judge and Leslie's Weekly, tells story apropos of Mr. Joseph Pulitzer gift to Columbia University:

"When Joseph Pulitzer came to New York to take the World out of the hands of William Hurlbert and Mar Marble he was a notable company dinner on the evening after his paper was issued under his management. The party included, as nearly as I can remember, John A. Cockrell, afterward died in Alexandria, Egypt while in the service of the New York Herald; Ballard Smith, who was managing editor of the New York Times; Charles Brooks, the criminal lawyer, and others whose names I cannot now recall. Instead of taking them to Delmonico's, where they expected to go, Mr. Pulitzer conducted them to Hitchcock's famous banquets then occupying a building on the corner of the Pulitzer building now at Delmonico's and ends up at Hitchcock's. We will begin, with your mission, at Hitchcock's, and we will end at Delmonico's."

He Wouldn't Disturb Prayer.
On a recent Sunday morning, services were going on, little Conant, aged six years, saw a flame issuing from the roof of Methodist Episcopal church at Ocean City. He ran to the church to give alarm. When he entered, the pews were praying. Being too reverent to interrupt a prayer, the little man went outside the door and waited until he heard the minister say "Amen." Then he ran in and yelled "Fire!"

The grownup people were not deliberate or reverent as little Conant. They leaped from their knees, forgetting all about the solemnity of the occasion, and ran for their lives.

By hard work the church was saved, but if the person's prayer had been little longer it would have burned the ground.—Kansas City Journal.

Deal For The Road Said To Be In Progress.
It is probable that the Queen Anne's railroad will soon be sold to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Negotiations have been in progress for several months, it is said, and it is admitted that an investigation of the property has been made. It is understood that Mr. Nichols P. Bond, of Baltimore, held an option on the road. If it expired it may have been renewed, as Mr. Bond has been very active in trying to consummate a deal. It will be remembered that Mr. Bond headed a syndicate that purchased the Baltimore Chesapeake and Atlantic railroad, also an Eastern Shore line, a few years ago and then sold it to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Relative to the matter the Philadelphia Ledger contained the following Wednesday:

"It was reported yesterday that the Pennsylvania Railroad is about to purchase the Queen Anne's railroad, a line operating on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, and at present in the hands of a receiver. The Wabash is said to have made a bid for the property hoping to use it in connection with its Western Maryland, and to compete with the New York and Norfolk road, a Pennsylvania subsidiary line.

When officers of the Pennsylvania road were asked yesterday as to the probable purchase of the Queen Anne road they declined to answer. They conceded that an investigation of the property had been made, and that the road could be operated to advantage as a portion of their Eastern Shore division. Developments are expected within a few weeks."

The Queen Anne's Railroad is now in the hands of a receiver. It runs from Queenstown to Lewes and Rehoboth, Del., 60 miles and has a six-mile branch to Centerville Md. It connects with Baltimore through a line of steamers from Queenstown. A new pier has been built at Cape May, and Friday the Queen Anne's Railroad will resume service to that place by steam.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

The Present Partiality For Linen: Buttons And Braids As Trimmings: Poings Or Linen Hats: Linen And Silk Mull Waists: Goggles: Hosiery.

Each season has its own peculiar fad, and this Summer, linen is the rage. Linen dresses, especially those in colors, are certainly fascinating, so cool-looking and withal so serviceable; free from flounces and furbelows of every kind. Flat trimmings such as braided stitches of contrasting hue, are important factors, and what may be accomplished by the skillful disposition of large or small pearl or gilt buttons, is surprising. Wide linen lace on a white linen suit, pattern in hip-yoke style; two rows up the front and around the hips, and three additional bands at the sides and back, with a box-plaited front, presents a handsome appearance.

Cross Stitch.
In black or in black and crimson, on a white linen panel front, is a new and conspicuous garment. Tucked linen waists without a suspicion of the blouse, and worn with a colored leather belt, are a change from the well-worn Eton, the half tight jacket or the true blouse. Linen or pongee hats for really young ladies give the finishing touch to the linen suit, and come with stitched brims, and trimmed by soft silk folds around the crowns, or large, flat silk bows a little to one side, resting on both crown and brim. A large white cock feather pompon gives a stylish finish. The crown of a peculiar hat, was draped with ivory white, dotted linen net, which was also wound gracefully around a white bird, nestling on the brim at one side.

Accordion Plated.
grass linen edged by lace also forms brims and crowns, rows of gilt braid on the plaits, being an optional matter. Colored satin bands around crowns, impart contrast, and are often dotted with gilt, or gilt rosettes at the sides, hold satin loops in position. Linen waists with hand embroidery of roses, leaves, daisies or foliage, are held in high esteem, and in the days of waists being drawn down to a point, and skirts made secure at the back, a strong reliable safety pin is invaluable, and it is for this reason that the Cap-Sheaf is so desirable. On account of its being coilless it has the special advantage of lying perfectly flat, and does not have tendency to twist like the old style, made with a coil, while the shield is so long and the wire is so stiff that it is impossible for the pin to pull out or become unfastened.

Silk Mull Waists. are exquisite, in some cases with a yoke of Valenciennes lace edging, and embroidered flowers below, or fan-shaped designs, formed entirely of lace edging compose the yoke. Valenciennes lace is another favorite of the season, and it is inserted (in metal form) in sheer hand-embroidered linen robes for evening wear.

Silk Goggles.
the "Formosa" loads, as its durability has been fully tested, and next comes the open-mesh silk glove with a Lisle thread palm. Black or white lace mitts are of all lengths and all prices.

The Leading Novelty.
in hosiery for ladies, is mixtures of blue, gray or green, precisely similar in appearance to those worn by men. Plain black silk or black open work cannot be dislodged, and equal popularity may be claimed for small colored embroidered designs on black. Plain-colored silk to match the costume is in great demand, not more so however than white, both plain or in open work. Blue open work, embroidered in white figures are stylish with tan shoes.

EASTERN SHORE B. B. LEAGUE.

Arranging Program Of Games For Season. Salisbury, Easton And Cambridge Included. First Game Of Series Next Week.

A schedule has been arranged for the Eastern Shore Baseball League which has been formed by Easton, Cambridge, and Salisbury. The schedule begins on Monday next and is as follows:

Salisbury at Easton on Tuesdays. Cambridge at Easton on Saturdays. Easton at Salisbury on Thursdays. Easton at Cambridge on Fridays. Salisbury at Cambridge on Mondays. Cambridge at Salisbury on Wednesdays.

The league will secure the services of an official umpire, who will probably be located at Hurluck, which is the most central point for the towns and will visit each town on the day there are games between the clubs and return to Hurluck every night. This has been decided upon by the managers of the different clubs so that nothing be said about one town tampering with the umpire to the detriment of another; as he will not make his headquarters in either of them.

Salisbury plays in Easton on Saturday next, prior to the opening of the series on the following Monday.

CHAPTER IV.

"H. father, it must be the raiders!" That was Blodgett's voice! cried Katharine, looking very pale and clasp- ing her hands.

"Let me go and investigate, colonel," said Seymour, leaping to his feet and seizing his sword.

"Do so, Seymour!" cried the colonel as the sailor hastily left the room. "Phadun," to the butler, "go tell Captain to call the slaves to the house. You, Scipio," to one of the footmen, "go open the arm chest. Katharine, reach me my sword. See that the doors are closed. Billy," said the colonel to the other servant rapidly and with perfect coolness. "I think, Katharine, that perhaps you would better retire to your room." But even as he spoke the sound of hurried footsteps and excited voices outside was heard. After a few moments one of the footmen, followed by Seymour, burst panting into the room, his mouth working with excitement and his eyes almost starting from his head.

"Well, sir, what is it?" said the colonel.

"Foh de Lawd's sake, sub, dey's a-comin', sub; dey's a-comin'! Dey's right behin' me! Dey'll be heah in a minute, sub!"

"Who is coming, you idiot?" exclaimed the colonel.

"De raiders, de British soldiers, sub. Dey's forty boat loads of 'em. Dey's come off fum de ill' sloop out in de harbor, and dey's gwine kill we all, and bu'n de house down. Dey done shot Mrs. Blodgett, and dey's comin' heah special to get you, sub, Mars' Kunnel, kase I heahd dem say when I was lyin' down on de wharf dat de man dey want was dat Kunnel Wilton."

"It is quite true, sir. They seem to be a party of raiders of some sort," said Seymour coolly. "I fear that Blodgett has been killed, as I heard nothing of him. I saw them from the brow of the hill. Perhaps you may escape by the back way, though there is little time for that. Do you take Miss Wilton and try it, sir. Leave me to hold these men in play."

"Yes, yes, father," urged Katharine. "I know it must be Lord Dunmore's men and Johnson. They know that you have come back from France, and now the man wants to take you prisoner. You remember what the govern- or told you at Williamsburg—that he would make you rue the day you cast your lot with the colonists and re- fused to assist him in the prosecution of his measures. And you know we have been warned at least a dozen times about it. Oh, what shall we do? Do fly, and let me stay here and re- ceive these men."

"What! My daughter, do you think a Wilton has ever left his house to be defended by his guest and by a woman! Seymour, I believe, however, as an officer in the service of our country, your best course is to leave while there is yet time."

"I will never leave you, sir. I will stay here with you and Miss Katharine and share whatever fate may have in store for you."

But even as he spoke the crowding footsteps of many men were heard at both entrances to the wide hallway which ran through the house. At the same moment the door was violently thrown open and the dining room was filled with an irregular mass of motley, ragged, red coated men, whose reckless demeanor and hardened faces indicated that they had been recruited from the lowest and most depraved classes of the inhabitants of the colony. They were led by a middle aged man of dissipated appearance, whose rough and brutal aspect was not concealed by the captain's uniform he wore, nor was the malicious triumph in his bearing and in his voice veiled by the mock courtesy with which he advanced, pistol in hand.

"What means this intrusion, sir?" shouted Colonel Wilton in a voice of thunder.

"This is Colonel Wilton, I believe, is it not?" said the leader of the band, taking off his hat.

"Yes, sir, it is; you, Mr. Johnson, should be the last to forget it, and I desire to know at once the meaning of this outrageous descent upon a peaceful dwelling."

The man bowed low with mock courtesy. "I shall have to ask your pardon, my dear sir, for appearing before the great Colonel Wilton so unceremoniously. But my orders, I re- ceived."

"The hit of his blade crushed against the man's throat, gret to say, allow me no discretion whatever; they are imperative. You are my prisoner. I have been sent here by my Lord Dunmore, the govern- or of this colony of Virginia, to secure breast. "Oh, honey, I let dem kill me fust!" "Well done, Kate! It's the true Wilton blood. Oh, if I had a free arm, you villains!" cried the still struggling colonel.

"Seize the girl!" Johnson commanded promptly, "and let us get out of this!" The men made a rush toward the table where Katharine stood undaunted, her face flushed with excitement, her mouth tense with resolution. She cried:

"Have a care, men! Have a care!" One life she could still command with her loaded pistol. Her hands did not tremble. She waited to strike once more for love and country, but it would be all over in a moment.

The colonel groaned in agony, "Kate, Kate!" but they were almost upon her when a new voice rose above the uproar:

"Hold! Are you men? Do you war with old men and women? Back with you! Get back, you dogs! Back, I say!"

Instead of taking them to Delmonico's, where they all expected to go, Mr. Pulitzer conducted them to Hitchcock's famous banyan, then occupying a cellar on the spot where the Pulitzer building now stands. Said he as he ordered beef and beans and 'slinkers' and coffee for the whole party:

"Gentlemen, when the Princeton or Harvard graduate comes to New York to enter journalism he dines first at Delmonico's and ends up at Hitchcock's. We will begin, with your permission, at Hitchcock's, and we hope to end at Delmonico's."

What Becomes of It

If a man eats two pounds daily, near two pounds daily must in some way pass from his body, or disease and a premature death is a speedy and inevitable result. The food that is eaten must contain the elements necessary to supply nutriment to the system and free from all substances that bind the bowels.

DR. PRICE'S WHEAT FLAKE CEREAL FOOD

if eaten daily there will be a daily action of the bowels; waste removed, nutriment retained. It's Nature's food for man. Served hot or cold.

FOR AN ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

The Wicomico Electric Power Company is the name of the new organization recently formed with the object of inaugurating electrical construction in Wicomico county, it being the plan of the promoters to have a line built from Nantux to Willards, a distance of nearly 40 miles. The incorporators who include some of Wicomico's most prominent business men are:

Messrs. Charles R. Disharoon, Thomas Perry, H. L. Brewington, Ernest A. Toadvine, Jesse D. Price, Samuel A. Graham, Marion A. Humphreys, Wm. Jeff Staton, Wm. S. Gordy, Jr., and James T. Truitt, all of Salisbury; John W. P. Insley, of Blythe; Isaac S. Bennett, of River-ton; and Robert F. Walter of Nantux.

The officers: President, Thomas Perry; Vice-President, Charles R. Disharoon; Treasurer, H. L. Brewington; Secretary, Wm. S. Gordy, Jr.; Executive Committee, Thos. Perry, Samuel A. Graham, Marion A. Humphreys, W. Jeff Staton and W. S. Gordy Jr.

The first necessary step toward the successful fruition of this project, is the possession of a desirable right of way along property bordering the county roads. The land owners will no doubt, feel disposed to deal liberally in this matter, in the interest of progress, convenience and appreciation of their own property.

Mr. N. Price Turner Appointed Vice-Principal Of Salisbury High School.

The Board of Wicomico School Commissioners this week appointed Mr. N. Price Turner, who recently resigned the Marion High School, of Somerset county, to succeed Prof. Virgil F. Ward who goes to Marion, as vice-principal of the Salisbury High School. Mr. Turner occupies a high position in educational circles all over the State and the Board is fortunate in securing his services. Mr. Turner graduated as valedictorian in the class of '88 of the Salisbury High School, and after teaching a year in the public schools of this town, he entered the Sophomore Class of Western Maryland College and graduated as valedictorian in the class of '92, receiving the degree of A. B. In '92 he taught at St. Michaels also at Oxford. The degree of A. M. was conferred on him by Western Maryland College, his "alma mater" in June, 1896. Later a position was offered him as one of the faculty of Chamberlain Hunt Academy at Port Gibson Miss., which he accepted. After teaching three years he traveled through the West visiting the National Educational Association in Los Angeles, California. In 1891 he accepted the principalship of the Marion High School.

Fire broke out Sunday night, in the stable of Mr. Frederick Baldt's stock farm at Westover destroying the entire structure together with stock and valuable horses and mules, 23 in number. Seventy tons of hay and one thousand bushels of wheat and oats were also burned. Among the valuable horses that perished was the noted stallion Rosedale, the stallion Majestic, the mare Venetia, cousin to Maud S. and the mare Rebecca, owned by a Baltimorean. The stallion Rosedale was recently driven a half mile in 1:04, and was valued at ten thousand dollars. The total loss is estimated by Mr. Baldt at $30,000. Mr. O. J. Schneek's valuable mare was out in the pasture and missed the fatal flames.

Resolutions Of Sorrow from Prof. Meyer's Salisbury Class.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from us our beloved teacher and friend, Barthold Meyer, therefore be it.

Resolved, That we, the Salisbury pupils of Professor Meyer at our first meeting assembled, express our deep sorrow in the great loss we have sustained. We have lost a great friend and an instructor whose ability was of the highest. Born and raised in a musical atmosphere and being a close friend and playmate of Dr. Leopold Damrosch, a dear companion of Campanaro, the great Italian tenor, a familiar associate of Patrick Gilmore, Theodore Thomas and other great masters, he came to us a thorough musician of great experience. Only those who were familiar with him know the full extent and grandeur of his nobleness and character. Our hearts are saddened, but we bow in submission to the will of Him who does all things for the good of those who love Him.

Resolved, That those resolutions be kept among the records of our class, that they be published in the local papers and that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

C. Edgar Laws,
Herman W. Murrell,
Committee.

Make a Bride
A woman would make a beautiful bride but she is deterred from entering the married state because of ill-health.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN
WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Protrusion, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"If women would study the laws of health and use a little more common sense there would not be such a large number of women suffering with the ill effects of their sex," writes Mrs. W. L. Martin (President, National Science Club), of the South Haled Street, Chicago, Ill. "Then when medicine is needed it they would take the 'Favorite Prescription' they would have a chance to get well. I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription three years ago and cured me of female weakness of several years' standing. I know what I am talking about when I praise it and always know what the result will be where it is used."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

INDIGESTION

"I was troubled with stomach trouble. The food I ate did me no good in one week than all the doctor's medicine I took in a year."—MRS. SARAH E. SHIRFIELD, Elmville, Ind.

Thedford's Black Draught quickly invigorates the action of the stomach and cures even chronic cases of indigestion. If you will take a small dose of Thedford's Black Draught occasionally you will keep your stomach and liver in perfect condition.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

More sickness is caused by constipation than by any other disease. Thedford's Black-Draught not only relieves constipation but cures diarrhea and dysentery and keeps the bowels regular.

All druggists sell 25-cent packages. "Thedford's Black-Draught is the best medicine to regulate the bowels I have ever used."—MRS. A. M. GRANT, Sneads Ferry, N. C.

CONSTIPATION

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not only are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

But in this Thedford's Black-Draught, after the olive and the fig and the vine had refused the scepter, the most powerful element got control of the convention hall. Then these bad elements said to each other: "Let us nominate a king after our own spirit. Let us make the olive of the field our king. Hail, bramble! King of the field! Hail, bramble! Our future ruler!"

Talmage Sermon

By Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage, D. D.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 24.—With the national conventions as a theme and an oriental fable as a text the preacher makes some timely reflections on certain evils that afflict our politics and threaten the well being of government and people. The text is Judges 12, 14, "Then said all the trees unto the bramble, Come, thou, and reign over us."

This is the year of great national conventions. The Republican party sent its representatives last June to Chicago to nominate their candidate for the presidency of the United States. The Democratic party this month met in St. Louis to nominate their candidate for the same office. The Prohibition party, the Populist party, the Labor party, all have had their conventions and nominated their leaders.

Thus the first great political battle for national office in America is not fought over the ballot box at the November polls, but in convention hall. There the different political parties agree among themselves on which of their members shall be chosen as the standard bearer of their party's principles. We, as intelligent men and women, are the different political parties made in late convention halls. It is not inappropriate, therefore, for us to take our sermon theme today the vision which Jotham had when all the trees of the forest came together in convention in the valley of Shechem, with the blue dome of the heavens for a roof, and selected the useless, destroying bramble as their king.

This famous parable or fable of Jotham was truly realistic in more ways than one. For a convention of trees it had a perfect topographic setting. On the southern side of this famous valley is mighty Mount Gerizim. On the northern side hoary headed Mount Ebal lifts its scarred and wrinkled face. These two mountains as sounding boards tossed the echoing voices of the cheering delegates backward and forward. Here the gurgling waters of many fountains sounded a musical accompaniment to the murmurings of many voices trying to win votes for their favorite sons. Isaiah, in prophetic vision, saw "all the trees of the field clap their hands." Jotham, in vision, saw the trees, as convention delegates, with moving hands, moving feet, moving lips and sparkling eyes. Their rustle was to him articulate speech. Their branches were outstretched arms. Their names were symbols to him of honor and truth or of dishonor and disgrace.

Hardly had this great convention of trees assembled in the valley of Shechem to select a king than it became self-evident that the great majority of the delegates were ready to be stung by one tree. "Come," the majority cried, "come, let us make the olive tree our king." To Jotham the olive was the symbol of strength and wealth and power as well as of healing. But the olive tree would not become king. It declined the scepter of kingship over the trees. Then this great convention wanted to elect the fig tree king. The delegates next offered the nomination for rulership to the vine, whose rich blood had made the vineyards of Shechem famous. But the fig tree and the vine both refused the scepter of the forest, even as William T. Sherman, when his friends wanted to nominate him for the presidency, replied: "I will not accept your offer. If I am spoken of in your convention hall, tell my friends I am not a candidate. If I am nominated, I will not accept the nomination and will not run. If I am elected, I will not serve. I am a soldier, not a statesman; a warrior, not a politician."

The bad elements got control. But in this Thedford's Black-Draught, after the olive and the fig and the vine had refused the scepter, the most powerful element got control of the convention hall. Then these bad elements said to each other: "Let us nominate a king after our own spirit. Let us make the olive of the field our king. Hail, bramble! King of the field! Hail, bramble! Our future ruler!"

My friends, an intelligent American, have you not recognized the fact that the infidels, the agnostics, the atheists, the deists, and all those who would deny public recognition of God are trying to drive out the Almighty from the control of our public life? What is the meaning of the movement that has accomplished this one fact? There is hardly a state college in all this land where the Bible is now studied as a text book. In all those private schools the faculty makes provision for the teaching of English belles lettres. They are willing to teach Grecian and Roman and Scythian and Alexandrian and Asiatic mythologies. They are willing to teach Buddhism, Confucianism, Brahmanism and all other isms, but they are not willing to teach who Jesus Christ was and is and for what the gospel of Jesus Christ stands.

Now, for my part, will I hold that denationalism ought never to be taught in a state institution, I contend that no young man is properly educated who has not been made familiar with the Bible and its religious and moral principles. I claim that as an educated man and woman it is just as important to know who were Moses and Joshua and David as who were Shakespeare and Burns and Walter Scott and Goethe and Victor Hugo. I claim that it is more important educationally to know who Jesus Christ is than to know who Napoleon was and what was the cause of the broken war and many parts of this land you will make the word "patriotism," written in letters of gold, turn as black as the heart of selfishness and deceit. One of the great dangers threatening the welfare of our land is the power of the great money combinations. It is a rapidly developing power, and it is ever aiming to seat in the presidential chair of this free nation its bramble king, gold.

When the supreme ruler of this great people, when the great railroad trusts and the oil trusts and the tin mine trusts and the beef trusts and the sugar trusts and the steel trusts can dictate who is to be president of the United States let us beware! Take thy cloven foot, O yellow and would be King Bramble, from off the front doorstep of the White House. Thou didst destroy the Roman and the Grecian governments when their national power passed into the hands of the few capitalists. Thy foot breath is now hot upon our cheeks, but by God's help thou shalt not be allowed to destroy us.

King Alcohol as Bramble.

But again we find the destroying bramble canvassing for supremacy in American politics in another way. He now appeals to the diseased and inflamed appetite of man for strong drink. But, though, if a man may look at this bramble long enough, he can see him changed into the writhing coil of a snake; yet, like Melchisedec, the most famous of all the French fairies, when first he appears he looks like a beautiful god, instead of like a devil. His hair is a cluster of luscious grapes, rich as those of Eshcol, which the spies carried back from the promised land to the Hebrew encampment. His cheek has not upon it the pale look of a corpse, but it is flushed with what looks like the redness of health. He comes to us not as a pauper. In his pocket he jingles the coin of his taxes as he says: "You cannot, you dare not, do without me. I am King Alcohol. There is not a political convention in all this land except one that has dared hurl a defiance at my scepter. My denials seem to be the saloon, but my throne will yet be built under the great arch of the rotunda of our national capitol. I shall yet be publicly recognized as king in American politics as I am everywhere in secret recognized as King Alcohol now."

Is not the defiant assertion true? What political convention, with the exception of the Prohibition convention, dared double up its fist and smite this bramble alcohol a staggering blow? Some years ago the head of the infamous Mormon church spoke thus for the encouragement of his followers: "Do not anticipate that there will come a day in the near future when we shall elect a follower of Brigham Young to the presidency of the United States, but I do look forward to the time in the near future when our church will grow so large that as a political institution one of the great political parties will be compelled to bid for our vote. Then we can have in American politics what we would." Thank God, the dream of the Mormon hierarchy is shattered even as the dream of the Prohibition convention was shattered. The dream of the Mormon hierarchy is shattered even as the dream of the Prohibition convention was shattered.

But though the dream of a Mormon president has faded that of the would be King Alcohol is a sad, realistic fact. Not one alone, but all of the great political parties, with but one exception, are bidding for the alcoholic vote today. There may be silver planks, antitrust planks, anti-imperialist planks, woman suffrage planks, high tariff planks and low tariff planks found in the different political parties, but all of them are bidding for the alcoholic vote today. There may be silver planks, antitrust planks, anti-imperialist planks, woman suffrage planks, high tariff planks and low tariff planks found in the different political parties, but all of them are bidding for the alcoholic vote today.

The case of Miss Frankie Orser, of Boston, Mass., is interesting to all women.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered miserably for several years. I had backache and bearing-down pains, and frequent headaches. I would often wake from a restless sleep in such pain and misery that it would be hours before I could close my eyes again. I dreaded the long nights and weary days. I could do no work. I consulted different physicians hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicines did not cure me, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and as it was highly recommended to me, I was glad that I did so, for I soon found that it was the medicine for my case. Very soon I was rid of every ache and pain and restored to perfect health. I feel splendid, have a fine appetite, and have gained in weight a lot. Miss FRANKIE ORSER, 14 Warren Street, Boston, Mass.—$5.00 for a full trial of this letter proving genuineness cannot be forged."

tion was first learned, there was an outbreak of approval of his daring course. But the next day there was a fall in the price of stocks in Wall street, the money markets of the world were convulsed, and the millionaires joined with ministers of the gospel and wise patriots throughout the land in urging the president at all cost to avoid war with Great Britain. What was the cause of the sudden change? Why was the policy appraised on one day deprecated on the next? Were the principles of the Monroe doctrine, which the president was praised for championing, discovered to be fallacious? Was Venezuela any less worthy of our protection on one day than on the other? Was it not rather that the money power of the country realized that war would involve ruin to some and loss to all? So the good money and wise patriots who had denounced the prospect of war at the beginning on righteous principles were unexpectedly re-enforced by men who know no god but the golden calf.

Do you profess to believe that gold—yellow gold—as would be bramble king is not trying to get possession of this government? Do you for one moment profess to believe that the United States would be as quick to declare war against England or Russia or Germany or France as it was against a money and wise patriots who had denounced the prospect of war at the beginning on righteous principles were unexpectedly re-enforced by men who know no god but the golden calf.

vice, merely because the voters at the polls had upon dishonest officials their willingness to allow those evil resorts to exist. I have spoken only the sober truth when I have warned you that bramble atheism, bramble gold, bramble alcoholism and bramble licentiousness, the four great evil forms of the would be bramble king, are trying to take possession of our American liberties and throttle our life.

"Well," says some one, "how, then, are we to keep the bramble—the hateful, worthless bramble—from becoming ruler in American politics?" All my friends, the direct teaching of this Jotham's fable tells the whole story. When did those delegates of trees down in the valley of Shechem do this? They first offered the rulership to the olive tree, then to the fig tree, then to the vine. But these three practically refused the rulership. We would stay off here alone in dignity and quiet and ease." That is the whole story. The reason the bramble became king in Jotham's fable was because the olive, the fig and the vine refused the rulership for which they were so eminently fitted. And today the reason the bad element predominates in so many of our city and county and state elections is because so many of the good element refuse to go to the primary and caucus and to vote for the humblest offices, refuse to see that public money is administered as honestly as private funds. It is said that when Michael Angelo was painting his most famous picture in the Sistine chapel of the Vatican there was a member of the pope's household who himself would do nothing to right the wrongs of the Vatican. All that this member of the household would do was to stand around and find fault. Thus when Michael Angelo painted the archbishop in his great canvas of "The Last Judgment," he painted the face of this fault finder, this critic, who was also a do nothing. So today, if we would draw a verbal picture of one of the greatest evils of American politics, we would not describe the dishonest official who for years is a chronic candidate and holder of public office; we would describe the so called Christian man who is the "stay at home," who would picture the Christian olive tree, and the Christian vine, like those in Jotham's fable, refused the scepter and lazily and indifferently allowed the destructive bramble to be elected king.

Thus Jotham's fable or parable teaches us that a man has a responsibility to his government—as well as to his home; a responsibility to those who shall rule over him as well as to those under him. By this statement I am here to tell you for whom to vote? Oh, no! I would speak to you just as that great and good man Andrew Jackson said to the great future statesman, Richard Thompson of Indiana when a young boy he went with his father to call upon the president. After a short conversation Richard Thompson's father turned and said: "Mr. President, my son Dick is not of my political faith. I fear he is going to vote against you in the next election." Instead of upbraiding the son, "Old Hickory" turned and said: "Young man, I have no advice to give you except this: Always think for yourself and let your conscience be your guide." So in the coming election I say to you, "As a Christian man think for yourself and let your conscience be your guide." But hereafter, in the home or on the street and in church, always make your public business your Christian business. Always make your duty to your country, to your state, to your nation, your Christian duty. Then the great dangers which threaten this our native land from the rulership of the worthless bramble and its kind will be done away with, for the olive and the vine will be bending the knee in national worship at the foot of the cross.

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak, sick and discouraged, and exhausted with each day's work. Some derangement of the feminine organs is responsible for this exhaustion, following any kind of work or effort. Lydia E.
