POINTERS ON THE ELECTION.

Talbot County Against The Amendment—A New Ballot in Worcester—Chances Bright Both in Dorchester and Somerset.

Talbot county is against the Poe amendment says a dispatch to a Baltimore city paper, and opposition to the measure in that county is more open among the Democrats than in any other county on the Eastern Shore. The opposition also seems to be stronger there, being confined to no one section of the county and no one class of men. It is so widespread that practically all political observers with the exception of those tied up with the existing organization, admit that the county is going against the amendment by anywhere from 200 to 500.

Much of the widespread opposition to the amendment in the county is due to the activity of two independent Democrats—
William H. Adkins and Preston B. Spring.
These two men, who occupy high places socially and otherwise in the county, have fought against the amendment in season and out of season. Mr. Spring was one of the first opponents of Senator Gorman's pet measure to call the attention of the public to its nefarious provisions and begin a crusade against it.

Owing evidently to fear of the legality of the ballot that had been prepared, the Election Supervisors of Worcester county will reprint a new ballot. They left out the word "Constitutional" where the words "For the Amendment" and "Against the Amendment" were printed. The famous black line will be used, it is thought, on the new ballot as well as on the old.

The Supervisors of Somerset county prepared a ballot which Attorney General Bryan says is illegal. The Democratic officials of Somerset however, decided to brave it out and win if possible, no matter if the methods they used were declared to be foul. The Attorney General has warned them that whoever is guilty of misdemeanor at the election stands in peril of going to jail as he will prosecute to the limit any offender against the law. The prospect for Republican success in Somerset is bright.

Dorchester county people are in a fever heat over election affairs and the outlook is for success for at least a part of the Republican ticket, and the defeat of Senator Appleberry and the Poe Amendment. It is estimated that there will be a very small majority, if any, for the amendment from the four lower counties on the shore.

GOV. WARFIELD'S STATEMENT.

Gives Reasons Why He Is Against Poe Amendment, And Emphasizes His Objections Previously Expressed

Governor Edwin Warfield came out in Friday's Baltimore Sun in a strong interview expressing his unaltered opposition to the Poe amendment and giving his reasons for occupying this position, though the recognized organization of his party is endeavoring to force its adoption by the people. Governor Warfield's objection to the Poe Amendment measure has been well known, but it was denied by organization Democrats that he would add anything to what he had already said upon the subject. Contrary to this statement however, he has made, in the interview above mentioned, one of the strongest expressions against the proposed law that has appeared during the campaign.

The interview covers practically one entire page of the Sun and goes into the matter of disfranchisement of the negro, and of the practical application of the Poe Amendment, should it be adopted, exhaustively. The most important feature of his comment was upon his belief of what would be done, should the law pass, in regard to white voters. The Governor stated in the strongest possible terms, that the Poe amendment, if all other objections could be answered, could be made and would be made to operate not only against white voters in general, but even in a political emergency against Democratic voters as well.

In this connection Governor Warfield said that it is not the negro whose alleged rights he is interested in protecting. It is what he considers the undoubted and unquestioned rights of the white man; not the foreign-born white man only, but the native white man; not merely the foreign born citizens of Baltimore, but the native white citizens of Southern Maryland and the Eastern Shore, who under the Poe amendment, he thinks, might be subjected to a political despotism more galling and merciless than they have ever experienced.

Republican Mass Meetings.

The Republicans have held several mass meetings in the county this week and are whooping up things at the close of the campaign, against the Poe Amendment.
Last night, Friday, a meeting was held in Coulbourn's Hall, near the N. Y. P. & N.
R. R. depot, Salisbury. Today Saturday, meetings will be held at Powellville at 8 p. m., at Hebron at 7 p. m. and at White Haven, 7 p. m.

HALLOWEEN PARTIES.

A Number of Interesting And Pleasant Affairs Were Given Tuesday Evening In Celebration Of The Event.

Halloween, last Tuesday evening, was more generally observed in Salisbury than ever before and a number of pleasant affairs were given in celebration of the event, resulting in a vast amount of fun and frolic. The streets were crowded early in the evening with maskers, mostly children, and they did a whole lot of the usual "stunts" on such an occasion, causing plenty of amusement both for themselves, the onlookers and their victims.
Most of these masqueraders went to the new school house later, where an entertainment, gotten up by the teachers, was given for the benefit of the school. The building was crowded with scholars and their parents, and the affair was most successful. There was plenty to amuse the gathering, including an extraordinary number of ways of finding out one's fortune and future prospects, at so much per. Refreshments, such as pumpkin pie, fruits, nuts, ice cream and so on, were sold, and vanished like the mist before a breeze.
The total receipts were more than $80 and everybody was pleased. Miss Sadie Ul-man won the only prize offered, which was a box of candy for the nearest guess at the number of grains of corn in a jar.

About 30 of Miss Mame Parsons, lady friends gave her their annual surprise party on this evening, and from all accounts it was the event of the year. As was anticipated at these parties is a strict secret all that an outsider could find out about it was that refreshments were served.
A number of games, mostly invented on the spur of the moment, were played and everybody had a grand time. The party went to Miss Mame's home dressed as phantoms and did not unmask until just before refreshments. The party broke up just at twelve o'clock. The masques were resumed and each "spook" carried a lighted candle with which to "light" their way home. A belated citizen who met them reported to his wife that he had met a "whole graveyard."

The home of Miss Emma Disharoon last Tuesday evening was truly a picture of Halloween. Not a light to be seen anywhere except that given by pumpkins out to form the faces of hideous creatures. In the hall and everywhere these ghost-like objects could be seen, giving one that creeping fear of goblins and witches.
Several games were played, for which prizes were awarded. Miss Smith, of Seaford, won first prize. Mr. Brown won second prize, for telling the best ghost story, and Miss Mary Ball won third prize. This was a ring, which denotes her marriage before the year is out.

About eleven thirty the guests were led to the dining room where pumpkin pie and nuts of every kind were served. Hats of various shapes were placed on the heads of every one, which presented a more ghost like scene than before.

Among those present were Miss Smith, of Seaford, Miss Willis, of Baltimore,
Miss Cora Turner, the Misses Disharoon,
Miss Alice Kenly, Miss Lucy Collins, Miss
Mary Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Coston Goslee,
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Goslee, Messrs. Paul Brown, John Humphreys, J. Walter Brewington and C. Fox.

In Memoriam.

In loving remembrance of Edward Townsend, who departed this life September 23rd, 1905, aged 9 years and 23 days.

Gone Edward, to rest from all your cares To a Heavenly home above,
Where many have gone in by-gone years Departed from those they love.

Our home is so sad and dreary now
With your bright face gone on before;
May God in His infinite blessing
Take you on that Heavenly shore.

Our hearts are sad and lonely now,
Our grief too sad to tell;
But time will come to us soon
That we may with you dwell.

It was hard to part with one we love,
But God alone knew best;
And the thought that fills our aching heart
Is to know you are at rest.

Oh! may our grief be turned to joy,
When our Master's will is done,
And our souls prepared for a Heavenly home
With the Holy Father's Son.

—BY MOTHER.

Letter to A. J. Benjamin, Salisbury, Md.

Dear Sir! Have you found out you can paint a job with fewer gallons Devco than of anything else. Lead-and-oil or anything else?

Mr. Floyd Almy, House and Sign Painter, Greenwich, N. Y., found it out three years ago; he writes: "I have used Devco lead-and-zinc for the past three years, and cannot say too much in its favor. I am using it now on a big job that I took by contract, and it has saved me at least $25 in the cost of material."

Devco is the strongest paint we know of; goes furthest; takes less of it to do your job.

Lead-and-oil is pure; lead-and-zinc is stronger; covers more; goes further. Have you found out you can paint a gallon Devco in less time than a gallon of anything else? That means less time for the job. Less time; less money.

Less paint; less money for that; less time, less money for that. Devco lasts longer; do you mind the less money for that? You are sure of it.

Yours truly,

F. W. DIXON & CO.

"A Thoroughbred Tramp."

Elmer Walters, "A Thoroughbred Tramp", which appears at the Opera house Monday night carries a thorough equipment for the presentation of the play. Much pains have been taken to make the new third act, (The Hospital Ward for the Feeble Minded) natural and picturesque. "A Thoroughbred Tramp" unquestionably excels all other dramas of its class and certain it is that the comedy element is more hilarious.

T. Rush Tompkins is one of the most humorous character parts ever conceived, and though but a vagabond, the character carries prestige with the refined theatre-goer.

At Montreal the advertising manager of the Canadian Pacific is a man named Ham, and the city ticket office is in charge of a man named Egg, says an exchange. The two are fast friends, and if both happen to be out of town at once inquiries for Ham and Eggs are frequent. By a coincidence both report to an official whose name is Bacon, whose chief clerk is named Brown. Recently Ham and Egg were both in Bacon's office. The telephone rang and Brown answered. He caught an inquiry for the Canadian Pacific office, and said: "This is it." "Who's this talking?" asked the voice. "This is Brown. Do you want Bacon?" "No I don't want Bacon, brown or any other way. I want one of the Canadian Pacific officials." "Well, will Ham and Egg do? They are both here." "I don't want any of them! Central, switch that cheap hash-house off this wire!"

We would like to ask, through the columns of your paper, if there is any person who has used Green's August Flower for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Liver Troubles that has not been cured—and we also mean their results, such as sour stomach, fermentation of food, habitual constiveness, nervous dyspepsia, headaches, despondent feelings, sleeplessness—in fact, any trouble connected with the stomach or liver? This medicine has been sold for many years in all civilized countries and we wish to correspond with you and send you one of our books free of cost. If you never tried August Flower, try a 25 cent bottle first. We have never known of its failing. If so, something more serious is the matter with you. The papers filed by the different parties claiming the reward for the apprehension and conviction of Simpers who was hanged at Elkton for the murder of Albert Constable, were taken in hand by the Governor Thursday. He decided to go over the different claims for the reward at his leisure and then give his decision. The police of Wilmington, Del., claim that by arresting Simpers for horse stealing and finding the pawn ticket on him, which eventually led to his conviction, they are entitled to the reward or a part of it. On the other hand, Deputy Keeper Riggis, of the penitentiary, who obtained the information from Simpers of his connection with the crime for which he was ultimately convicted and hanged, is the other applicant. The Baltimore detectives who worked up the case are not applicants for the reward.

A Last Word.

All of our readers know the attitude of this paper upon the Poe Amendment, and of its opinion upon the desirability of electing the Republican ticket. We do not expect everybody to agree with us, or to see things the same that we do. At the same time we wish to say a last word against the disfranchisement act the Democrats are attempting to force upon the State as a part of the Constitution, and to beg every voter to give the matter the most careful consideration before casting his ballot next Tuesday. If he does not understand the law to his entire satisfaction, a man would do a hundred times better not to touch it, than to vote for such a measure and run the chances of it being right.

It is not right; it is all wrong. A great many of the leading Democrats in the State oppose it as well as the Republicans. These men are independent, consequently they express their honest opinion and vote accordingly.

It is the organization Democrat, the professional politician, who favors this law. He favors it because it gives him control and therefore the benefit of office-holding. The non-office holding citizen should vote against it, if he desires to preserve his independence untrammelled.

Fatal Objections to The Poe Amendment.

We exploded last week, by comparison with the Worthington amendment, the claim that the Poe Amendment is the only form a law could take with the object in view of disfranchising the negroes. By these comparisons, the scheme of the Democratic organization ringsters to secure for themselves absolute control of the State, through their power to keep off or put voters on the registration books, was unfolded. We wish to emphasize this. It is the solemn truth and not campaign argument nor clap-trap. Voters are warned, that if they make the Poe measure part of the organic law of the State, they are binding themselves, body and soul to the Democratic organization. And their children after them. It is too high a price to pay for anything. The most precious right man possesses, the right that everything, even life itself, is sacrificed for, is liberty—the right to vote. This is surrendered under the Poe Amendment.

Another argument of Democratic advocates in favor of the Poe Amendment is that it will get rid of the negro question as a factor in our politics. This also is false. It would be true if the Worthington law had been passed by the Legislature. But it was not. The Democratic leaders did not propose to give up an issue that has carried election after election for them. So they took care of that in the Poe Amendment, too.

We are glad to see that the Baltimore News sees this aspect of the matter, which we have pointed out several times before, in the same light. Of this, the News says editorially:

The proposed amendment gives the registrars power not only to disfranchise any applicant, however how well he can read and write, if the registrars declare that he has not given a "reasonable explanation" of some section of the Constitution; it also gives the registrars the power to enfranchise any applicant, however illiterate and ignorant, provided they declare that he has given a reasonable explanation of some section of the Constitution. Under this arrangement, Democratic registrars are expected to disfranchise nearly the whole negro population, but how about the Republican registrars if the Republican party ever got in power? Will it not be said in every campaign that to put the Republicans in would mean to give votes to tens of thousands of negroes who, under Democratic administrations, are kept out? Instead of getting rid of the negro bugaboo, we should have it upon us in a worse form than ever.

Under the present Constitution, the most that can be made of the bugaboo is to say that when you put in the Republicans you put in a "black man's party," under the Poe amendment, the cry would always be that to put in the Republicans is to give voting power to tens of thousands of negroes from whom it had been taken away. Instead of settling the negro question, it would really create a negro question where there had been none. Every time the Republican party showed any chance of winning, the Democratic politicians would raise the cry of danger of restoring the negro vote. The arbitrary power of the registrars, which Governor Warfield so strongly condemned as liable to gross abuse, is thus open to an objection even more fatal as bringing the negro question into our politics in a form more real and serious than it has ever assumed in this State.

What The Haman Bill Means.

Here is what the Cambridge Record says about the Haman Oyster Bill:

The oystermen and business men of this county have not thought as much about the Haman bill as they should. We will ask them just one question to put them to thinking. How will the catching of oysters be carried on when the monopolists and rich oysters packers of Baltimore get charge of the beds?

This question is nicely and forcibly answered in the Philadelphia Bulletin of August 29, where a description of oystering in Delaware bay is given as follows:

"Most of the large oyster merchants of this city own their own boats along the shores of Delaware bay, and have their own boats at work. One oyster dealer on Dock street has no less than twelve boats, each manned by a captain and eight men. The law provides that the captains of all boats dredging for oysters in the waters of the Delaware bay should be residents of the State of New Jersey."

Now this is not so much of a puzzle but that it can be understood by all of our oystermen, business men and laboring people. The aforementioned monopolists and oyster packers of Baltimore, having gotten charge of the beds would send down their own boats, manned by the cheapest Bohemian, negro, or tramp laborers to catch the oysters and take them up to the city.

It must be noted that the oysters would not come to Cambridge to be shucked and shipped, and we fail to see how any revenues from them whatever would reach the pockets of Dorchester oystermen.

The Record is a Democratic paper and the Democrats of Dorchester are making a strong fight against the Haman Bill.

The Democrats in Wicomico are silent on the oyster question. Why?

The only safe thing to do is to vote against the Democratic Legislative nominees and vote for S. A. Langrall, Elmer H. Walton and Lemuel B. Duncan, on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Langrall's Letter.

The Wicomico News challenges the genuineness of the letter we printed last week bearing the signature of Mr. S. A. Langrall, stating his position in opposition to the Haman Oyster Bill. In reply we will state that the letter was printed by authority of Mr. Langrall's brother, Mr. W. F. Langrall, of Tyaskin, and his partner, Mr. E. H. Insley, of Bivalve.

Putting aside the responsibility of the authorship of this letter, which is of small importance, the fact remains that Mr. S. A. Langrall's name is signed to it, and he is back of it. THE COURIER assumes all necessary responsibility for the genuineness of Mr. Langrall's sentiment, as expressed in the letter, and that it expresses his attitude toward the oyster business and the Haman Bill or a similar measure.

Poe Amendment Places Negroes And Whites On Equality.

Every white boy that comes of age after next year, 1906, is placed on a par with negroes by the Poe Amendment. This is the clear reading of the Second and Third Clauses, which read:

Second—A person who on the first day of January, 1869, or prior thereto, was entitled to vote under the laws of this State or of any other State of the United States wherein he then resided; or Third—Any male lineal descendant of such last-mentioned person who may be twenty-one (21) years of age or over in the year 1906.

The above should convince every fair minded man that the object of the framers of this law was not to disfranchise the negro alone, but to control the voters through the registration books.

If Lacy Thoroughgood's Up-Town Store and Down-Town Store Were Together Up Town or Down Town, You'd See About As Big a Store As There Is In Salisbury.

If Lacy Thoroughgood had all his down-town store up town with his up-town store, or if he had all his up-town store down with his down-town store, you'd see twice as much as you'd see if you see what he's got either up town or down. If you can't figure it out that way come to Thoroughgood and see him work it. Lacy Thoroughgood's up-town is the only exclusive Hat and Gent's Furnishing Goods Store on this Peninsula—I mean from Wilmington, Del., to Norfolk, Va. This up-town store carries the largest and best line of Hats in Salisbury. It handles the J. B. Stetson Hat, of Philadelphia; Young Bros., of New York; and a dozen other makes that are good. This store is run by Jas. Thoroughgood, Cland Dayton and Edgar Laws. There's no such a line of Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Suspenders, Hosiery, Neck wear and Underwear anywhere. Lacy Thoroughgood's down town store is a clothing store in every sense of the word. The real reason why this store is growing so fast is that it sells only reliable clothing and guarantees every piece to be as represented, or money refunded. If he didn't buy in enormous quantities for cash he couldn't buy cheap, and if he didn't sell in enormous quantities he couldn't sell cheap. Remember, Thoroughgood has twenty thousand dollars worth of Clothing and Hats (all brand new) and is fully determined to sell the bulk of these goods before January 1906.

BETWEEN TRAINS

By FANNIE HEASLIP LEA

The 8:30 express stopped at Race-land, and two solitary passengers alighted. A man, tall, lean and dark, left the third coach; a woman, small, plump and fair, descended from the second. Midway in their listless course to a somewhat ancient carryall they met.

"Oh-h! I might have known it!" she cried furiously.

The man said nothing at all.

"I suppose," said the woman, with ostentatious self control, "you are going to the Raistons?"

"I am."

"And have I got to go up in that trap with you?"

"You have not, I shall walk," he said calmly.

"You will do nothing of the kind," she stormed. "And have them wondering and questioning? You will go up in the trap with me."

He led the way to the aged vehicle and she followed. When they were seated and a series of noisy jerks announced their triumphant progress, he looked at her with quiet amusement.

"They will think we have come together," he said. "Do they know you are coming?"

"No," she snapped. "And I suppose you are surprising them too?"

"Quite a surprise party," he agreed. She clinched her little hands furiously.

"They will understand that it was an accident that I met you at the depot."

"They will think you have at last consented to be sensible," he mused, "and will be delighted. You know how long and ardently they have tried to throw us together."

"You have been fairly thrown at my head," he drawled.

She flung him a scorching glance, and he subsided into silence.

When the white pillars of the Raistons' splendid old plantation house came into view, she turned on him fiercely.

"For the next two days—I suppose I must stay so long—you will be given any number of chances to talk to me."

"I'm not going to propose again," he said indifferently. "Don't be so worried."

"Don't talk to me," she ordered. "Don't come near me unless you have to."

"I never do," he protested, climbing over the dusty wheel of their carryall.

Five minutes later he climbed in again after a frenzied recalling of the chariot and seated himself beside a well-nigh speechless companion. The carryall jolted an unhappy yard or two.

"You all gwine tek de 7:30 train back?" inquired the ancient driver. "He-he-he—it sho' am too bad. Nobody home, an' you all cum cum all de way up fum New Leans."

"Whip up that beast of yours, uncle," cut in the man sharply. "There's a train at 7:30, isn't there?"

"Yes, sah."

"That's all right then. Now hurry up." He turned to the tense little figure beside him, snapping open his watch.

"It's now ten minutes to 7," he announced. "It won't be long to wait, I dare say."

She surveyed him intently and without favor. "That train is never on time," she said.

He shrugged his shoulders in silence, and they jolted on till the ugly station came into view.

All around the southern twilight was deepening. A star or two winked out in the purple dusk of the sky, and down the long dusty road the katydids disputed noisily.

No one was in sight on the station platform, and only the sudden rattle of a telegraph instrument from the station itself gave any sign of habitation.

"You had better get out and wait on the platform, Mrs. Leonard," said the man.

"Thank you, Mr. Stanley," said the woman, and followed him stiffly when he had helped her from the carryall.

Stanley sat down upon a truck and whistled softly to himself. Mrs. Leonard paced the farthest end of the platform in superb silence. After a little he joined her with a laugh.

"Apparently," he said, "we're the only human beings in this solitude. I see the station agent making off down the road to get a drink before train time. There's a bit of a store a few hundred yards off. I suppose you noticed it."

"I did not," she said frigidly. "Interesting things, these plantation stores," he began again.

"I have never found them so." She smoothed an imaginary wrinkle from her glove.

"Now, see here," said Stanley, "would you mind telling me just why I'm being snubbed and cut and frozen this way? I've said I wasn't going to propose to you again. What are you afraid of?"

"Afraid!" she mocked. "I'm not afraid. I'm tired that's all, of being persecuted. Every one thinks I ought to marry you."

"Tired?" she cried hotly, "without being forced into a lonesome tete-a-tete with you. I'm tired of having chances made for you to see me, tired of having people get out of the way for us." She broke off with an unwilling little laugh. "Even fate sends the Raistons to town and throws us together here, with no blaisful possibility of an interruption."

"The station agent has come back," drawled Stanley, "so we're not quite alone. I think, if you don't mind"—he grinned cheerfully over the absurdity—"I'll go in and ask him if the train's on time. I saw him come up the road and in through the back door of the station a minute ago. You don't mind?"

"No," she said sweetly, "I don't mind."

She sat down on the edge of the platform when he had left her and swung her feet in idle discontent.

It was very lonely. She always had had a horror of katydids, and the tribe in the trees about her exhaled in strength. She began to be faintly sorry that she had let Stanley go. At least she could quarrel with him, and anything was better than this awesome silence.

to marry you." Her voice began to tremble. "You think so, too, and the fact that I don't agree with them now you makes no difference at all. You simply go on waiting in that maddeningly certain way, as if you had only to bide your time and I'd give in. Well, why should I? I'm happy as I am; I have my friends and my amusements. Who are you that I should give them up for you?"

"Nobody," said the man meekly. "Nobody at all."

"I can't even go out of town for a day or two," she cried hotly, "without being forced into a lonesome tete-a-tete with you. I'm tired of having chances made for you to see me, tired of having people get out of the way for us."

She broke off with an unwilling little laugh. "Even fate sends the Raistons to town and throws us together here, with no blaisful possibility of an interruption."

"The station agent has come back," drawled Stanley, "so we're not quite alone. I think, if you don't mind"—he grinned cheerfully over the absurdity—"I'll go in and ask him if the train's on time. I saw him come up the road and in through the back door of the station a minute ago. You don't mind?"

"No," she said sweetly, "I don't mind."

She sat down on the edge of the platform when he had left her and swung her feet in idle discontent.

It was very lonely. She always had had a horror of katydids, and the tribe in the trees about her exhaled in strength. She began to be faintly sorry that she had let Stanley go. At least she could quarrel with him, and anything was better than this awesome silence.

Suddenly there was a noise from the little station, a hoarse cry, and then the sound of a heavy fall. Mrs. Leonard sprang to her feet, every nerve strung tight.

"Aleck!" she screamed. "Where are you, Aleck?" She fled across the platform and into the little station house. There was no one in the first room and only the murky light of a kerosene lamp.

She crossed, trembling with fright, her breath coming in gasps, to the second room and stumbled over a dark body by the door. It groaned and muttered her name.

Mrs. Leonard crept back to the lamp, lifted it from the wall with shaking fingers and carried it to the door. Its light fell dimly upon a man, who, drawing himself erect, leaned against the wall and smiled weakly at her.

"I'm afraid I frightened you," he said, "but it's all right. There was a tramp—we clinked."

"Oh, don't talk—please don't talk!" she begged tearfully, setting the lamp down on a convenient chair. "Are you hurt—much?"

"And he got away," Stanley finished, his voice growing stronger. "Knocked me silly for a minute. I'll be all right now."

"Oh, are you sure you're not hurt?" Mrs. Leonard cried brokenly. She laid her hand on his arm and stared up at him with wet eyes.

"Don't do that," he warned her. "You'll make me propose again."

Mrs. Leonard wept softly against his coat sleeves. "I wish you would," she sobbed.

"Now, heaven bless that tramp!" Stanley murmured to himself, with a wicked smile. "It was a heaven sent inspiration!"

Led a Double Life.

Officer Martin, who had been on the "force" for six months or more, was different in some respects from many of his fellow policemen. He never went into a saloon except in the performance of his regular duty; never swore, never lied away any time, and never shirked.

Because of these differences and because he was uncommunicative and was not in the usual sense of the term a "good fellow," a suspicion that all was not right and that he had something to conceal became aroused, and at last reached the chief of police, who determined to interrogate him.

Accordingly the chief called him into his private office one morning.

"Officer Martin," he said, "so far as I know, you are one of the best men on the payroll, but there are rumors that you are not altogether what you seem to be, and that there is a chapter in your life that none of us knows anything about."

"I can't deny it, sir," responded the policeman, somewhat surprised, but not at all abashed.

"You confess it then?"

"Yes, sir."

"Would you mind telling me what it is in confidence?"

"Not at all, sir," said Officer Martin. "I sit in a suburban church choir on Sunday."—Youth's Companion.

Waste and Poverty.

With regard to waste, which lies at the foundation of nearly all poverty, the working classes have exalted it into a principle of action. An English servant, as a rule, wastes as much of her employer's substance as possible. When she marries and has children she continues to be wasteful in her own home.—London Hospital.

Physical Evidence.

"Do you know," said a Sunday school teacher, addressing a new pupil in the infant class, "that you have a soul?"

"Course I do," replied the little fellow, placing his hand over his heart. "I can feel it tick."—Moberly (Nev.) Monitor.

THE BLOOD OF HIS SIRE

By G. B. LEWIS

Copyright, 1905, by R. B. McChesney

There was hunger in the house of the wolf.

When night had come down there had come with it from the crest of the mountains, from the black mouths of the passes, from the depths of the dismal canyons, a wind that cut like a knife and shivered like fire, and now and then a gust had brought hail to sting like bird shot. The wolf had gone back to his lair and given up the hunt for the night. There would be no game at foot for him in such weather.

When morning came the weather had softened a bit, and there were snowflakes flying about in wild confusion. The wolf sat up at the mouth of his lair and whined and complained. As he felt the pangs of hunger he howled dementally. No beast of prey can find his game blundered. Back in the cave was a mother wolf, with her two young, softly growling to herself as she heard the howls of the father.

By and by the wind ceased for a moment, as if smothered by the falling flakes, and then it came with noisy complaint up the narrow valley and around the rocky cliffs and big boulders. The wolf ceased howling. The wind brought him a faint scent. He stood on his hind legs and pawed the air and sniffed and showed his fangs. A moment later he signaled for the mother wolf to join him. She also reared up and sniffed at the air.

It surely was the scent of game. It was feeble and came from afar, but it was worth investigation. With a half angry growl at each other, born of hunger and greed, the wolves bounded away down the wind. The falling curtain of snow limited their vision to yards, but a wolf's nose guides him after he becomes blind of old age.

"We will go out this morning," said the leader of the park patrol to his men. "We will go north, east, south and west. The buffaloes will be lying up in the thickets in such a storm as this, and the wolves will be hungry to find them."

They went in pairs, the strong and hardy men who brave the seasons to protect life in the great park set aside for the nation away up where the waters of the muddy Missouri are as cold as the Arctic ocean and as clear as glass.

The buffaloes would have only one enemy on such a day—the big timber wolf. The bear would wait for better weather to search for his food. The men turned their backs on each other, leaned forward on their snowshoes and in thirty seconds were hidden from each other's sight. They knew the groves, the thickets, the spots which the buffalo would seek for shelter, and they skirted or passed through such places with the stealthy tread of ghosts.

"Hark! It is the snarl of a wolf!" The two men who had gone to the north halted in their tracks with hand to ear and listened. As the wind had brought the scent to the wolf at the door of his lair so it also brought the menacing snarl of a beast of prey to the expectant parkers.

"Wolves, for sure!"

"And after buffalo! Straight ahead!"

The wolves had followed the scent to its source. A buffalo bull and three or four cows, scattered some distance from the main herd, were sheltered up in a small grove on the bank of a creek. The bull had come to his prime in the wild and rugged park. He was not a stranger to the grunts of the bear and the snarl of the wolf. They had menaced him many times, and many times he had defied them, though it had never come to open attack. Both wolf and bear appeared to have an intuition that the buffalo was under man's protection and that it would not do to go too far.

With the scent coming stronger at every jump, the wolves at length broke through the dead vines and stunted cedars to find themselves upon their prey. In front of the thicket was an open glade. They paused here for a moment to plan the attack, and as they planned they whined and snarled and growled. They did not want to have anything to do with the bull. The cows were not fighters, and their flesh was more tender. If they became frightened at the growling they would make a bolt for it and separate.

The bull had caught sight of his enemies as they broke cover. He never had seen a timber wolf at such close quarters. Something told him that they were hungry and desperate and that they would attack. He gave a shiver of apprehension and almost started to flee. Then the blood of his sires came surging through him. They had fought the wolves of the prairie, the wolves of the timber, the lions of the foothills. Many had been pulled down after a long, hard battle, but not one had ever turned tail and run away. With a call to stand their ground and with head and tail up and eyes beginning to burn, he dashed out of his covert to begin the battle. He had bulk, and he must have freedom of movement. The wolves, surprised by his sudden attack, gave way, but they did not go far.

"Now we shall see a fight worth talking of," said one of the parkers as both took positions of vantage. "The wolves are big and hungry and cunning, but if this bull is not the son of his father we will kill him for a coward. Now the battle begins!"

The wolves separated to make the attack. They were done with snarls and growls. They needed all their breath for sterner work. While one dashed at the muzzle of the bull the other sought to gain his rear and hamstring him. A long leap and a savage bite would do the trick. The bull bore no scars of former conflicts, but instinct told him what to do. His wheelings were so swift that every spring of the wolf was disappointed, and twice within ten minutes a pair of cloven hoofs caught the shaggy beast in the ribs and rolled him over and over in the snow. Then the pair gathered in front to make an attack on the throat. It was only a faint intended to force the bull back into the thicket, where his movements would be hampered. He had scarcely given ground when he saw through the game and blocked it.

"Did you see? Did you see?" gleefully exclaimed the elder parker as he softly clapped his mittened hands together. "I was not mistaken in the bull. He is the son of his father."

"But the timber wolf is cunning and tireless," replied the other, with doubt in his tones.

"Wait and you will see."

The wolves sought to attack on both flanks at once. The bull needed agility here and he put it forth. There was a foot of snow on the open, but that was in his favor. For a quarter of an hour the wolves pursued their plan and two or three times the teeth of one or the other inflicted scratches on the clean loins, but they were not serious, and they circled and leaped in vain. Then they lay panting in the snow, their red tongues seeming half the length of their bodies. It was another faint. It was to lead the bull to believe that he had gained the victory and send him moving off. He would not have taken ten steps before they would have been upon him. He stood his ground and uttered a low bellow. It was a command to the cows to stand their ground also.

"But the bull has not made an attack up to this time. Will he stand on the defensive and let them wear him out?"

"You wait. You see how his tail is beginning to twitch? See the new fire in his eyes? Watch his neck stiffen! I tell you there's a thunderbolt in that bull. He had sires that were game."

Of a sudden there was a bellow of anger and defiance, a rush on the part of the bull, and through the whirling, blowing snow the parkers saw the body of one of the wolves tossed high in air. They moved nearer, but the rushes of the bull scattered the snow as a whirlwind would and only at intervals could they catch sight of assailed and assailants moving about.

"Have they downed him?" was asked as the noises finally died away.

"Let the snow settle. There do you see? That wolf lying there has a broken back; the other is limping away on three legs. See the bull draw himself up and shake his head and lash his tail. Why, man, if there had been six of them instead of two he'd have fought and won. He has the blood of his sires, and blood will always tell."

The last English duel.

The last duel—the last fatal one, at least—was fought in a field in Malden lane in a solitary part of Holloway in 1843. The district acquired considerable notoriety from the event. It was the duel fought between Colonel Fawcett and Lieutenant Munro. The former was killed. The duelists were not only brother officers; they were also brothers-in-law, having married two sisters.

The coroner's jury on the inquest returned a verdict of willful murder not only against Lieutenant Munro, but against the seconds also. The latter, however, were acquitted. Munro evaded the hands of justice by seeking refuge abroad. Four years later he surrendered to take his trial at the Old Bailey. He was found guilty and sentenced to death. He was, however, strongly recommended to mercy, and the sentence was eventually commuted to twelve months' imprisonment.

The neighborhood in which this duel was fought is no longer solitary. A wide thoroughfare, known as the Brecknock road, runs through it, and a ride ground beside the Brecknock Arms appropriately indicates the place where the final shot was fired.—Chambers' Journal.

Wanted—A Servant.

Good servants are much in demand in Washington as well as in other cities. Mrs. R. had searched long and vainly for a fairly good general servant, a colored one, and at last in despair she stopped an elderly colored woman who looked as if she might have been one of the antebellum house servants, and therefore a reliable one, and made known her wants.

"I want a girl who is trustworthy and a good cook. I am willing to put out most of our laundry work and to give fair wages, but so far I haven't been able to engage one," said Mrs. R. "Don't you know of some one whom I can get?"

"Deed, no, lady, I don't," was the answer.

"Oh, dear," sighed Mrs. R., "what shall I do?"

"I dunno, fuh shaw, lady, less'n you does as I has to—hire a white woman."—Lippincott's.

Artistic Originality in Dress

The best-dressed woman is she into whose costume enters a touch of individuality—of originality if you choose.

A woman instinctively knows this but shrinks from the effort to model her own gowns because of the trouble it involves.

The Singer Automatic reduces effort to a minimum.

It is a mechanism that makes a single thread chain-stitch and its Simplicity, Ease of operation and Excellence of Work commend it to all who wish to express their artistic sense in the nature of a beautiful wardrobe.

WHEN you're going home at dead of night an' ever' thing is still an' sorter her'ed an' solemn, an' ye feel a kinder chill A-creepin' up yer backbone an' a-shinin' ye with fear.

Say, don't ye stop right lively when th' graveyard's near? Th' trees they look so ghostlike as th' branches round them fline. An' th' monuments seem waitin' fer somebody or somethin'.

An' th' air is damp an' cold-like, an' ye hear a mournful cry—I'll bet ye hustle lively when th' graveyard's nigh. Ye kinder look across to see if ever' thing's all right.

An' over there beyond th' fence gleams somepin' ghostly white; Ye swaller hard—a awful lump—an' gasp fer breath an' sigh. An' I guess ye sorter hustle till th' graveyard's by.

Ye take a back'ard look, right quick, to see what's comin' there; Ye thought ye heard th' rustle of a step behind somewhere.

An' when ye see it's nothin' an' ye're well beyond at last Ye sigh with glad relief becuz th' graveyard's passed.

An Umpire Who Stood All Kinds of Abuse

"I WAS out in the country the other day," said the talkative man, "and, having nothing else to do, I attended a ball game. It was a real hot game, if not scientific, and excitement ran high. The only thing, however, that I was interested in was the umpire, who never uttered a word during the whole game. A strike was indicated by raising the right hand with one finger held up. When he wished to call a ball he held up his left hand. There were other signals as well, and it was not necessary for him to open his mouth."

"What interested me more than anything else was the way that the players and spectators took his decisions. The game was a final one, and the bitter feeling that had existed during the whole season had come to a point where there was danger of blood being shed. Yet when the umpire made a final decision, which was pretty often, not a man said a word. Even the rosters seemed awed into silence."

"At last the umpire made a particularly rank decision against the club that I had picked out for a winner and I couldn't resist yelling 'Rotten!'"

"'Tain't no use yellin' at that fellow," said a party who was sitting near me. "He's dead and dumb."

"It was so. The rivalry that had existed between the clubs had been so fierce that no one else could be found to umpire the game and stand the abuse. It might be well to adopt the idea generally, at least until the fans learn to talk with their fingers."—Detroit Free Press.

What the Lost Diary Revealed to Her Friend

"KATE," cried a distressed looking woman rushing up to a girl friend on an Ashbury Park hotel piazza, "don't breathe a word about it, but I've lost that wretched little diary; dropped it somewhere, and the plaguy thing contains my dearest secrets. I wrote just what I thought too. There it is in black and white that Beatrice dyes her hair and looks like a fright, that Helen is turning green with jealousy, that Howard hasn't the courage to propose when he has the chance and that Jack is just too lovely for anything."

"Why don't you post a notice and offer a reward?"

"Indeed, I won't. I never want to see the thing again. If any one returns it I shall declare it's a forgery from beginning to end. I'll never own up the longest day I live."

"What did you say about me, Maud?"

"Oh, I don't quite remember, but something pleasant, you can depend upon that."

"Let me help your memory a little. You wrote that I am the most inequitable little mix you've ever known, and that I think it my special business to look after other people's affairs. Here's your diary. You left it on that chair."

Then they glared at each other haughtily, but a little later began to cry, fell into each other's arms, and in five minutes were criticizing a mutual friend.—New York Press.

How to Detect Arsenic.

One of the familiar tests by which a chemist recognizes the presence of arsenic is the odor of garlic given off when one of its compounds is heated in the blowpipe flame. The same smell of garlic is produced when certain fungi grow on substances containing arsenic. And it is interesting to note that one species of fungus is found to accomplish this feat of chemical analysis more effectively when it is grown in connection with yellow algal cells—other words, when it forms the plant association known as lichen. The above method of detecting arsenic seems specially applicable to cases of poisoning where the substance is mixed with organic matter which would form a suitable medium for the culture of the fungus.

According to the latest returns—Dorchester and Prince George's being the only counties where they are incomplete—the Democrats will only be able to organize the House of Delegates if they are able to secure the votes of the Independent (Wells) Democrats of Anne Arundel county. The Independent Democrats of Queen Anne's will act with the Republicans and the likelihood is that the Wells people will do likewise on a division of the patronage. If this is done, as the Republicans expect, the Republican majority in the House will be 3 and the Democratic majority on joint ballot will only be 6.

The out-and-out Democrats elected to the House only number 49. The Republicans elected 47. The 5 Independent Democrats will therefore hold the balance of power. It is stated on good authority that the differences that caused the split between the 5 Independent Democrats and the Organization Democrats will influence the Independents to line up with the Republicans.

In addition to the Independents from Anne Arundel and Queen Anne, Messrs. John V. L. Murphy and Martin Lehman, of Baltimore city, owe neither their nominations nor election to the party managers and are of pronounced independent tendencies.

It is strongly intimated that the Wells delegates from Anne Arundel and certain Republican leaders have reached an understanding, and that these will vote with the Republicans. By Democrats who know the condition a repetition of the Legislature of 1902 is looked for, and the leaders are uneasy as to the situation. It will be remembered that in 1902 Mr. Isaac Lobe Straus, with the Anne Arundel delegates, all four of whom at the time were friends of Dr. Wells, who is credited with controlling the two elected this time, effected a combination with the Republicans of the House, which completely took away from the Democrats the control of that body and ran things to suit itself throughout the session. There is no doubt that another effort to effect a similar combination is on foot with considerable hope of success.

The majority against the Poe Amendment figured up to 32,968. Slight changes in the official count are expected to bring this up to about 33,000. Senator Robinson, of Harford, Gorman's lieutenant, is defeated by a big majority. Cecil elects Dr. France, Republican Senator and two Republican members of the House to one Democrat; the Independents and Fusionists won by big margins in both Anne Arundel and Queen Anne's, and the rout of the Gormanites is complete.

In Dorchester Senator Applegarth is elected, under and the indications are that one Republican, at least, is elected to the House. One ballot box, in Elliott Island precinct of Straits district, was not counted owing to a disagreement of the judges. The Democratic pluralities, as above indicated, do not range above 10 to 50. A recount will be against the Democrats. In Talbot, Gen. Joseph B. Seth defeated Senator Dixon by a plurality around 100. The three Democratic members of the House were elected, though the Poe Amendment was largely defeated. These Democrats from Talbot are friends of ex-Governor E. E. Jackson and will not be controlled by the Gorman organization. In Worcester Senator Moore pulled through by a comparatively small majority. He was compelled to make concessions to the temperance people before election day, which, it is said, is all that saved him. He promised that a bill should be passed at the session of the Legislature granting a vote in the county on liquor. The Democratic ticket was elected, and the majority for the Poe Amendment was 538, the largest of any county in the State.

Only five counties in the State gave majorities for the Amendment, as follows: Howard, 371; Kent, 30; Somerset, 275; Wicomico, 407; Worcester, 538. Baltimore city's majority against it was 20,729. McCullough carried 7 counties; Atkinson 15 counties and Baltimore city.

Somerset county went Democratic, but the members of the House may be unsettled, on account of the ballot, which Attorney General Bryan, before the election, declared to be illegal.

In Caroline the Democratic Senator was elected and two Republican members of the House. Kent went Democratic by very small pluralities.

In summing up the situation, the Baltimore papers state that wherever the Gorman organization Democrats made their fight on the Poe Amendment, they were defeated all down the line, with but few exceptions. Where the Amendment was ignored to a large extent, the organization won, but there was a majority against the Amendment. The Sun demands a reorganization of the Democratic party and that trick ballots should be done away with. The Herald says it is glad that the Amendment was defeated and hints at new leaders. The American and the News are jubilant, as is natural. They demand that Gorman and Rasin step down and out. The probabilities are that there will be great changes, when the Legislature meets, and the Democratic party recovers sufficiently from the shock of the defeat of its bosses to take an account of stock and prepare for another campaign.

Wheat is growing rapidly and the fields are beginning to look fine.

A frying pan should never be scraped. Instead, fill it with cold water, to which a little soda has been added, and let it stand for several hours.

A Virginia preacher has been suspended for six months for kissing a pretty girl. And yet church people wonder why more young men do not enter the ministry.

While 7-year-old Edmund Brown, of Kenton, was leading a colt to water on the farm of Representative Gamaliel Garrison, Wednesday, the halter became entangled about the little fellow's legs and he was dragged to death.

Passengers on a train from Clayton were terrorized a few nights ago by Frederick Shockey, a heavily armed negro, who refused to sit down when asked to do so by Conductor Leates. When two officers attempted to arrest him on the arrival of the train at Smyrna, Shockey drew two revolvers, but was felled by a blow from a club and was sent to jail.

Goat is a humming bird with eagle wings and a voice like a fog horn. It can be heard from Dan to Beersheba and has caused more trouble than all the ticks, fleas, mosquitoes, coyotes, grasshoppers, chinch bugs, rattlesnakes, sharks, sore toes, cyclones, earthquakes, blizzards, smallpox, yellow fever, quack and indigestion that this United States has known or will know when the universe shuts up shop and begins the final invoices.

Mr. David Cannon, while returning from Masses to Chestertown Wednesday, stopped his team on the Morgue road, near Mrs. M. E. Bryan's farm, in order to let his horses rest. While kicking about in the grass on the roadside in search of a rabbit he spied a nest bundle. Upon opening it a white infant was found therein! The babe was wrapped in book leaves and had evidently been there a week. Mr. Cannon reported the case to the proper authorities.

The Snow Hill Messenger says: "About a year ago Hon. George W. Covington removed the brass knocker that had hung for many generations on the front door of the house on Cedar Grove farm, about two miles from Snow Hill, and had it placed on the front door of his residence in this town. While Mr. Covington and his family were out of town last week the knocker was stolen, and Mr. Covington is now guarding his front door to keep the thief from returning and stealing his key-hole."

A tenant house on the farm of Mr. Albert Sudler, near Westover, occupied by colored people, was burned, with its contents, last Wednesday about 2 o'clock p. m. and a little boy about 3 years old was burned to death. Three children were locked in the house but two of them succeeded in attracting the attention of some one passing and were taken out through a window. The boy who met his death in the flames was upstairs where the fire originated. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Five American missionaries at the Presbyterian station at Lienchow, China, were murdered by Chinese last Saturday. A cablegram received at New York by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions gives the names of those massacred as Dr. Eleanor Cheant, Mrs. F. C. Macle and child and Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers Peale. Mrs. Peale was a Miss Gillespie, of Port Deposit, who was married to Mr. Peale last summer, just prior to their sailing for the mission field.

Two men who have country homes near the city were lurching together recently. Each of them has a daughter about seventeen years old. "Tom," said one of the men, "I've worried about my little girl. She has begun to pay so much attention to young men. There's one young fellow who hangs around her with whom I believe she is falling in love. I don't want her to marry until she's at least twenty-one. How do you manage your girl, or do you find you can manage her. "You bet I do," replied the other. "Here's a little scheme I work on her. Whenever I find my daughter is becoming too fond of a young man I simply have her invite him out to spend two or three days with us—for instance, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. When he leaves she is cured. Let a seventeen-year-old girl see a young man at breakfast, lunch and dinner two or three days in succession and you won't have to worry about her falling in love with him."—Kansas City Times.

Mr. Charles Brosius, of near Barnesville, and Mr. Hicks, a liverman of Boyds, are looking for a man claiming the name of Raymond and alleging to be employed as a tuner for a prominent Baltimore piano firm. He "tuned" Mr. Brosius' piano so that some of the keys won't strike, charging $5 for the service, and secured the use of a team from Mr. Hicks, which he left at Dickerson's. Mr. Brosius' piano, a valuable one, is seriously damaged. He was accompanied by a small boy, probably 10 years old, and was himself about 42, had black hair and a red mustache, was well dressed, tall and engaging.

Mr. Michael Sherling, of Churchville, last Saturday, went to the home of Mr. C. E. Brown, at Aberdeen, where Mrs. Sherling was employed as a housekeeper. His knock at the kitchen door was answered by Mrs. Brown. He asked if Mrs. Sherling was in the house, at the same time pushing his way into the kitchen. Finding Mrs. Sherling in the dining room, a tussle ensued in which she fell. He carried a revolver, and as she fell he shot, the bullet grazing her right ear, and breaking a pane of glass in one of the windows. She besought her husband not to shoot her. Neighbors hearing the pistol shot notified Officer Hughes, who placed Sherling under arrest. Magistrate Osborn fined him $10 and costs for carrying concealed weapons. Mrs. Sherling swore out a peace warrant, and bail was fixed at $500, which was furnished by Mr. William A. Bodd, of Churchville. Mrs. Sherling left Aberdeen the same day, going to Baltimore.

After a narrow escape from death aboard his schooner, which went to pieces off the mouth of the Magothy river early Sunday morning, and a perilous passage to shore in a small skiff, Captain J. W. Townsend and his mate, John H. Quiller, both of Dorchester, arrived in Baltimore Monday, hungry, cold and penniless. Part of the trip was made on foot and the remainder by train. Captain Townsend commanded the two-master Maggie Crosswell and was bringing her to Baltimore with a cargo of cord-wood on board. The schooner was beating up the bay in the teeth of a northwest wind, when the jib-boom mis-stayed. The vessel fell away and was speedily at the mercy of the wind and the heavy sea then running. Only a few seconds elapsed when the boat with a sickening thud, went fast aground on a sandbar at the mouth of the Magothy. Captain Townsend and his mate labored manfully to get her off from her perilous position. Cord after cord of wood was thrown overboard, but the vessel would not free herself and began to go to pieces. She was then abandoned. Though the inky blackness of the hour preceding dawn the two men pulled for shore in a tiny skiff, over which the waves constantly broke. They reached it safely and then started for Baltimore.

STORMS WILL BE FREQUENT.

Hicks Predicts A Very Blasty Time During November.

Rev. I. Hicks has made the following predictions for the month of November:

The last storm period of October will not have wholly subsided until the 1st and 2d of November. After two or four days of cool, fair and frosty weather, about the 5th change to cloudy and warmer and autumnal rains, probably ending in snow, will pass eastwardly over the country during the 6th, 7th and 8th.

The second storm period is central on the 11th and 12th and the results will be southerly winds, growing cloudiness and more autumnal rains. Watch for the threatening conditions; also for the change to colder and clearing, freezing weather at night sure to follow.

The third storm period is central on the 17th. About the time of this period it will be wise to expect some storm and gales. A November cold wave will follow this period.

The fourth storm period is central on the 22d and 23d. On about the 22d and 23d general storms will be in progress from west to east with very stormy weather for the balance of the month. It may be set down as almost an absolute certainty that wide and violent disturbances will appear during the last two periods.

The fourth storm period will begin as early as the 25th to 26th. The mercury period is central on the 26th, the date of the new perigee. A marked change to the warmer will be advancing autumnal rains will quickly follow. Rains will turn to snow and sleet, and almost a general November blizzard will come high barometer, sure to press close behind the last stages of the storms.

"Woman Against Woman."

"Woman Against Woman," which is a stirring romance of love and hate in five acts, telling a pure heart story in a very interesting manner by a capable company of dramatic actors. The play is highly dramatic, some of the situations being quite sensational, yet the comedy is such as to cause convulsions of laughter. Bright catchy music together with a number of clever specialties, add much to the production, and with the scenic and electrical effects will make one of the best dramatic treats of the season.

ONE CERTAINTY.

Some Salisbury People Fully Realize It Now.

When the back aches from kidney ills, When urinary troubles annoy you, There's a certain way to find relief: A sure way to be cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do it.

Salisbury people endorse this claim.

J. C. Coulbourn, farmer, living two miles South of Salisbury, says: "My first attack of kidney trouble was felt about four years ago. At that time I was laid up for three weeks. I recovered from it but later on had two more similar attacks and since then there has been no times when I could say that I was wholly free from the distressing pain across the back. I doctored a great deal and I believe tried every known remedy on the market which was recommended to me which came to my notice from reading but all failed to cure me. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I concluded to try them and procured a box at White & Leonard's drug store. I have used several boxes and can say that they have given me the greatest benefit."

Caution

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boech's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. At all druggists.

LANDSLIDE FOR BERRY IN PENNSYLVANIA

Democratic Candidate Elected
Treasurer by Over 80,000.

REFORM FOR PHILADELPHIA

Latest Returns Show Tremendous Democratic Gains All Over the State. Reformers in Philadelphia Swept the City By Over 43,000 Plurality and Elected Their Entire Ticket.

The following is the result of the election in Pennsylvania:

State Treasurer.

William H. Berry, Democrat-Fusion, Supreme Court.

John Stewart, Rep., Chambersburg, Superior Court.

Charles E. Rice, Rep., Wilkes-Barre, James A. Beaver, Rep., Bellefonte, George B. Orsady, Rep., Huntingdon, John B. Head, Dem., Greensburg, County Judges.

Allegheny—James S. Young, Rep. Beaver—Richard S. Holt, Fusion, Berks—James N. Brimentrout, Dem. Franklin—W. Rush Gillan, Dem. Greene—James Ingham, Dem.

Jefferson—John W. Reed, Rep. Philadelphia—Craig Biddle, Rep. Tioga—David Cameron, Rep. Venango—George S. Criswell, Rep.

Washington—James F. Taylor, Rep. Westmoreland—A. D. McConnell, R. York—Richard E. Cochran, Rep.

Orphans' Court. Philadelphia—Morris Dallett, Rep. Schuylkill—P. M. Dunn, Dem.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Complete returns from 60 of the 67 counties in Pennsylvania give Berry, Dem., for state treasurer, a plurality over Plummer, Rep., of 80,202 votes. The counties yet to be heard from are Armstrong, Berks, Bradford, Bucks, Cambria, Carbon, Chester, Columbia, Dauphin, Delaware, Elberton, Franklin, Fulton, Luzerne, Lycoming, Mifflin, Monroe, Montgomery, Northampton, Northumberland, Perry, Potter, Schuylkill, Snyder, Sullivan, Union, Warren, and Wyoming counties.

Associate judges were elected in Clinton, Elk, Forest, Fulton, Mifflin, Monroe, Montour, Sullivan, Union, Warren and Wyoming counties.

REFORM SWEPT PHILADELPHIA With Majority of 43,333, Rout of Organization is Complete.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Philadelphia has been swept by the reform movement, the City Party ticket winning by a surprisingly large plurality.

The result has every appearance of a landslide for reform, not only in Philadelphia, but throughout the entire state.

The City Party, although only receiving a majority of about 43,333, which is about 32,000 less than what they were claiming, did some extraordinary work in the wards which were believed to be invincible strongholds of the organization.

For instance, in wards like the Eighth, where United States Senator Penrose is the real leader, the Republican candidate for sheriff lost by 50 votes, although Plummer carried the ward by 52. The 20th ward, the stronghold of David H. Lane, gave Wilson H. Brown, City Party candidate for sheriff, 33 more votes than Dr. Neff, the Republican, received. David Martin, for the first time since he has been the leader of the ward, failed to carry it for any of the organization candidates. He lost by an average of 1000 votes.

Berry, for state treasurer, has a majority of 36,037 in the county.

Homer L. Castle, Prohibition candidate for superior court, failed to poll the vote that was expected in this city. He did not run anywhere near Berry. He had only 12,498 votes, while Berry had a total of 134,797. John B. Head, the minority candidate on the Democratic ticket, polled 26,194 votes, which is the true indication of the Democratic strength in the city.

A staff of attorneys employed by the reform leaders is at work preparing to bring about 200 prosecutions for offenses against the ballot laws. Judge Biddle, in common pleas court, ordered the arrest of the entire election board of 11 divisions for neglecting to make returns to the prothonotary's office.

Chairman Franklin Edmunds, of the City Party city committee, said that the cost of running the reform campaign was approximately $110,000.

Sent Message to the President. City Party Chairman Edmunds sent the following telegram to President Roosevelt:

"Philadelphia has risen to its opportunity and stands redeemed. The principle of honesty in government so effectively espoused by you has won an overwhelming triumph. Our majority approximates 75,000."

To Secretary Root the following was telegraphed:

"The masquerade is over. The criminal and corrupt combination has been driven from power by the righteous indignation of a great Republican city. We have only begun. Our thanks to you for your splendid aid."

One year ago President Roosevelt carried the city by 180,834 plurality.

None of the Republican leaders had much to say on the result. Sheriff James L. Miles, chairman of the Republican city committee, when asked for a statement, said: "I have nothing to say; what's the use?"

State treasurer was the only state office for which there was a contest at the election in Pennsylvania. Judge John Stewart, an appointee of Governor Pennypacker, was re-elected associate judge of the supreme court for the full term of 21 years. President Judge Charles E. Rice and Judges George B. Orsady and James A. Beaver, of the superior court, were re-elected for a term of 10 years. John B. Head, Democrat, was also elected a superior court judge to succeed Judge Peter P. Smith, the minority member of that body, who failed of renomination.

Under the law no elector is entitled to vote for more than three candidates for judge of the superior court when four are to be elected, as was the case this year. Mr. Head was the only Democratic nominee for this office, which practically made his nomination equivalent to an election. Homer L. Castle, who was brought into prominence by his attacks on the state treasury management, following the developments in the Enterprise National Bank affair, was the Prohibition nominee for state treasurer.

Public interest centered in the contest for state treasurer, for which the principal candidates were J. Lee Plummer, nominee of the Republican and Citizens' parties, and William H. Berry, the candidate of the Democratic, Prohibition, Lincoln and Independent parties. Berry was also the choice of the City Party leaders of Philadelphia, although his nomination was never formally endorsed by that party, on the ground that it was purely a local organization.

There was practically no opposition to the re-election of Judge James S. Young in Allegheny county. Judge John W. Reed, Rep., was re-elected in Jefferson county. There was no opposition to the venerable Judge Craig Biddle in Philadelphia and to Judge David Cameron in Tioga county. Judge Alexander B. McConnell was re-elected in Westmoreland county.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Contrary to general expectation, there was no great or very serious disturbance in the city. There were, however, many small scurrilous acts of police violence, especially in the more thickly settled wards where the Republican organization is very strong and where the City Party put up a most determined fight. The police department was at all times the master of the situation, and wherever trouble was started it was quickly stopped. Some of these disturbances blossomed into small riots, but after the smoke had cleared away it was found that no one was fatally wounded.

The patrolmen assigned to the polls carried lists of names of illegal voters. These lists were handed to the election officers, who were warned not to permit any one to vote on the names. The policemen were also held responsible if an illegal vote was cast. Every ballot box had to be opened for the policeman's inspection before voting began.

The number of arrests for election frauds was upwards of about 500. Police magistrates were on duty in all parts of the city giving the prisoners hearings. The scene at the central police station at the city hall was without precedent. More than 200 prisoners were given hearings there for alleged fraud against the ballot. All day several hundred persons were gathered in the courtyard watching the prisoners arrive in wagon loads. Every batch of prisoners were hauled or hooted as they were led into the city hall. The hearing room was crowded all day with party workers, lawyers, bondsmen and others. As quickly as a prisoner was brought in he would be given an immediate hearing, held in hall for a further hearing, and promptly released by a waiting bondsman. The released men were then ordered back to their respective election divisions.

Among the more prominent men arrested were Senator William H. Keyser, floor leader of the state senate, who was charged with interfering with a voter, and John S. Hammond, deputy coroner, who was accused of vouching for an illegal voter. A deputy sheriff was arrested on the charge of stuffing a ballot box while the election officers were not looking. More than 80 per cent. of those arrested were men claiming to be workers of the Republican organization.

COLONEL GUFFEY'S STATEMENT Says Berry's Election Means End of Republican Machine.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 8.—Col. James M. Guffey, Democratic national committeeman and leader of the party in the state, makes the following statement:

"The election of William H. Berry, a Democrat, as treasurer of Pennsylvania by such a splendid majority, does honor and credit to her good citizens in every walk of life.

"The lesson means the beginning of the end of the greatest and most corrupt machine ever conceived in American politics. It means that the debauchery of the people's money in the state treasury, the days of ballot box stuffing, the enacting of venal legislation and the election of corrupt men to places of honor and trust is over. It means that common honesty and civic decency are now to have a hearing.

"It means that Pennsylvania, the greatest of them all, will re-establish her honor and integrity and again assume her former honored place in the union of states."

The Vote in Kentucky. Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8.—One hundred and forty-two precincts out of 184 in the city of Louisville gave Paul G. Barth, Democratic nominee for mayor, 15,337, and O'Neal, Fusion, 12,973. Barth's plurality is 2364. On account of disorders the exact figures will not be known until late today.

Elections were held in the state for 100 seats in the legislature, but returns have thus far been received from only 33 districts, including the city of Louisville. The Democrats elected 23 legislators, the Republicans three and one race is doubtful. The complexion of the legislature will be practically unchanged, and the Democrats will have a good working majority with which to choose a successor to Senator J. C. S. Blackburn.

Virginia Elects Democratic Governor. Richmond, Va., Nov. 8.—Claude A. Swanson, Dem., was elected governor of Virginia by 35,000 plurality over Judge L. L. Lewis, the Republican candidate. The vote everywhere was exceedingly light, but Democratic apathy was offset by unfavorable conditions on the other side. The negroes throughout the state abstained from voting almost entirely. The Republicans gain a few members of the legislature.

Labor Candidate in Frisco Wins. San Francisco, Nov. 8.—For the third consecutive time Eugene E. Schmitt, the Union Labor candidate, was re-elected mayor by a majority of 15,000 over John S. Partridge, the joint nominee of the Republican and Democratic parties. Voting machines were used for the first time in all the precincts. Very little scratching was done. A proposition to increase the liquor license was probably defeated.

Police Quickly Put Down Disturbances at the Polls.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Contrary to general expectation, there was no great or very serious disturbance in the city. There were, however, many small scurrilous acts of police violence, especially in the more thickly settled wards where the Republican organization is very strong and where the City Party put up a most determined fight. SATURDAY, NOV. 11, 1905.

Wicomico The Pioneer Anti-Bribery County.

One of the most gratifying features of this election in Wicomico county was its absolute cleanliness and the absence of bribery, in any form. An agreement was entered into between the Democratic and Republican Committees and it was lived up to, so far as we can learn, by both, without the slightest attempt to do otherwise.

Possibly there was not another county in the State where bribery was not resorted to, in one form or another. It marks a new era for Wicomico, and we believe one that will stand. Expressions from all sides are unanimous in favor of its continuance and we hope that never again will bribery be resorted to in this county.

The belief of all the practical politicians we have seen, is that $10,000, if used by both sides, would not have changed 10 votes in Wicomico county last Tuesday. It is worse than an useless expenditure and its debauchery of the voters has long been deplored.

It was tried as an experiment, entered into with fear by many. It was a complete success; the bar against violation of the law has been put up, now let it never be taken down. Every citizen of Wicomico can then point with pride to his home as a model for uprightness, as they now can, with justice, do so for the manner in which the vote was cast this week.

The Defeat Of The Amendment.

The big fight of the Republican Party in this election—that against the Poe Amendment—has been won. It has been so decisively won, that we do not believe it will be possible for a similar measure to ever come before the people again. There may be attempts to disfranchise the negro, but even the Democrats must see that the people of Maryland will never submit to any plan to surrender the voting power to any set of men, under any circumstances. They believe in "manhood suffrage" and will never change from that, at least so far as the white people are concerned.

We trust and hope, that the Wilson amendment to the election law will be repealed by the Legislature when in session this winter. It is the open door to trickery and fraud. It is a blot on the commonwealth that should be removed.

Any restrictions or qualifications for registration that may be desirable can be and probably will be made at a Constitutional convention that is provided for to take place in 1907. These can be thrashed out and decided upon, to a large extent, in the meantime. If undertaken in a spirit of fairness and justice to all, very little opposition will be found, we have every reason to believe, to such a law as will preserve and uplift the suffrage in this state.

A Wonderful Pagoda.
The great Buddhist shrine, the Shway Dagon at Rangoon, is no temple, but a great pagoda, rising from its platform to a height of 368 feet and all completely covered with gold leaf. This platform, with a perimeter of nearly 1,400 feet, is the place of worship. The pagoda itself has no interior. It is a solid stupa of brick raised over a relic chamber. A cutting made into its center has revealed the fact that the original pagoda had seven casings added to it before it attained its present proportions. The shape of the pagoda is that of an elongated cone. It is divided by Burmese convention into twelve parts: First, the base surrounded by a great number of small pagodas; then the three terraces, called Pichayas; next the Bell; the Inverted Thabeik, or begging bowl; the Baumgyit or twisted turban; the Kyalan or ornamental lotus flower; the Plantain Bud; the brass plate for the Hti or umbrella; the Hti; the Sein bwin or artificial flowers; the vane, and, last of all, the Seinbu or bud of diamonds.—"The Silken East," by V. C. Scott O'Connor.

Prices For Butterflies.
Butterfly collectors are seldom able to estimate with any confidence the value of their collections, since the prices for specimens so constantly vary. A case in point is that of the blue butterfly of Brazil, specimens of which were originally sold for from $50 to $75. Afterward some collectors who supplied the London market ran into a perfect swarm of these butterflies and shipped to England such quantities that better specimens than the original insects sold for $1 each. It not infrequently happens that two or three specimens of a certain family are discovered by collectors, who, encouraged by the high prices received for their finds, are tempted to prosecute their search for this particular variety without result for several years. Suddenly they or some other collector finds the insects grown plentiful, and the cherished varieties of the cabinet become among the commonest specimens.—Chicago Post.

Sociable Spiders.
Spiders have been observed in Madras which live in a sponge-like nest of branching network, penetrated internally by canals of communication and furnished with a number of external apertures. The nests, which may be attached either to the tips of branches or to leaves of the prickly pear, are ashy gray in color and constructed of leaves, with an external covering of the usual sticky threads. The spiders are similar in color to their nests. Their inconspicuous, sheet-like webs radiate in all directions, and as many as five or six nests, connected by intermediate webs, may be found on a single plant. The connecting webs, which are very strong, often form tubular bridges between the nests. From forty to a hundred spiders may be found in a single nest, and males and females inhabit the same nest in the proportion of about seven to one.

How the Bulldog Was Evolved.
In the north hall of the British Natural History museum skulls of domesticated dogs are arranged which illustrate the evolution of the modern bulldog from a breed which, according to old pictures, was more of the mastiff type. Bull baiting was a common sport in the thirteenth century, and there is a later record which draws a distinction between bulldogs and mastiffs. Low, in his "Domesticated Animals of the British Islands," points out that it is essential that a dog which makes a frontal attack on a bull should be both underhung and short legged, that it may get a firm grip of its antagonist and avoid its horns. We may therefore be sure that, as the bulldog was gradually evolved from the mastiff, these points were held to be of prime importance.

Doomed the Colonel.
Emperor William I. of Germany was a strict disciplinarian. One day during the maneuvers of the army a cavalry regiment charged at a strongly entrenched and embattled village, of which the garden walls were lined with marksmen. "Look, look!" exclaimed the Russian representative. "That regiment is lost." "No," was the emperor's calm reply, "this regiment isn't, but the colonel certainly is." And, sure enough, at the close of the maneuvers he was placed on the retired list.

Two Kinds of Boys.
"My son got brain fever from studying too hard," said one mother to another, trying to repress a thrill of intellectual pride.
"That's bad, but my boy broke his leg and two ribs in his first game of football," replied the other, with motherly gratification.—Baltimore American.

Thinking of the Cook.
Jones—What makes you think Snubbs is absentminded? Freyer—We went into an auction store yesterday. The auctioneer was shouting, "Going, going!" and Snubbs shouts: "Please don't go! I will give you $5 a month more and have a girl to help you with the washing!"

Advice to Young Men.
If the average young man would read the want ads, as closely as the baseball news he would find that he had as many "chances" as a first baseman.—Erie (Pa.) Times.

The Bayonet Woman.
The train had pulled out of the terminal, and the conductor was on his fare collecting tour. In one car there sat alone a woman dressed in deep mourning, her heavy veil having been lifted to allow a breath of air. When the conductor approached her the woman burst into tears.
As she cried as if her heart would burst the conductor asked her what was the matter. She sobbed this reply: "Ten years ago I took my first husband over this road to be cremated, five years ago I took my second husband on the same trip to the crematory, and now I am taking my third husband to be condemned to ashes."
Just then there were loud sobs heard coming from a seat on the opposite side of the car. The conductor turned and saw another woman crying. Approaching softly, he asked the weeping one, "What is the matter, madam?" Taking her handkerchief from her eyes, the second in tears answered, "That woman has husbands to burn, while I can't get even one."—Philadelphia Record.

The Senses of the Word.
"She is a lady in every sense of the word," exclaimed Blifkins.
"Then she is the most remarkable woman that ever lived," replied Johnson.
"What do you mean? Aren't there plenty of ladies in the world?"
"Yes, but not in every sense of the word. For instance, if the woman is what you say, she is not only a woman of good family or of good breeding and refinement, but she is also, according to the Century Dictionary, 'a sweetheart (local United States); a slate measuring about sixteen inches broad by ten long; the calcareous apparatus in the cardiac part of the stomach of the lobster, the function of which is the trituration of food.' And if she is all that her fortune is made in the museum line."

After that it was noted that Blifkins usually pruned down the remark to "she is a lady" simply.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Solan Geese.
Richard Bell in his book, "My Strange Pets," tells of the solan geese, which in Great Britain in bygone days used to be salted and dried for human food: "Many years ago these dried geese found their way to the lowlands of Scotland and, were used as an appetizer. A small portion when eaten before meals was supposed to tickle the appetite. In this connection I have heard a good story: A worthy farmer in the neighborhood gave a dinner party, and when the dinner was in progress he asked one of his guests if he would have 'another portion,' upon which the guest remarked, 'I think I will, as I eat a bit o' solan geese afore I left home and it has made me very hungry,' upon which his neighbor said, 'I dinna believe in these solan geese, for I eat a ball yin afore I cam' awa' and I dinna feel a bit the hungrier.'"

The Books of Ancient Persia.
We knew that the Moslems when they conquered Persia found in that country an innumerable quantity of books and scientific treatises and that their general, Saad Ibn Abi Oueccas, asked Caliph Omar by letter if he would allow him to distribute those books among the true believers with the rest of the booty. Omar answered him in these terms: "Throw them into the water. If they contain anything which can guide men to the truth we have received from God what will guide us much better. If they contain errors we shall be well rid of them, thank God!" In consequence of this order the books were thrown into the water and the fire, and the literature and science of the Persians disappeared.—Notices et Extraits.

The Atmosphere.
The earth's sensible atmosphere is generally supposed to extend some forty miles in height, probably farther, but becoming at only a few miles from the surface of too great a tenuity to support life. The condition and motions of this aerial ocean play a most important part in the determination of climate, modifying by absorbing the otherwise intense heat of the sun and when laden with clouds hindering the earth from radiating its acquired heat into space.—St. Louis Republic.

"Oh Lord, Oh Lord!"

cried the manufacturer's association, how shall we advertise our business so that we can all get rich like Carnegie and give away libraries? And the Lord came from Chicago to answer them (many people will be surprised to know that he was ever in that wicked city) Mr. D. O. Lord, of the advertising firm of Lord & Lord, who have made many men so rich that they have to stay up nights to count money, addressed the manufacturers association of Philadelphia last week upon advertising as a means to add to wealth. Mr. Lord, who is a millionaire several times over and who looks the part, told the manufacturers to advertise—mostly in newspapers—to make their brands or names well-known, and then to advertise some more. Mr. Lord claimed that the manufacturers of today who were successful had to advertise their goods before they sold them, in order to create a demand among the consumers and then the consumers would compel the merchant to buy and that would keep the merchant busy buying and the manufacturer busy making. If one man spends one thousand dollars a week advertising, all you have to do to knock him out is to spend two thousand advertising still more. That's all right as far as it goes but it don't go far enough in most things. It don't go to the root of the matter, it don't go down for quality, it won't go down for clothes or hats or collars or shirts or anything you wear unless you back the good ad. with good goods. Lacy Thoroughgood does sell some advertised lines of goods but they are the best in the world, for instance John B. Stetson's Hats, Kuppenheimer Clothes, Alfred Benjamins Clothes, Hart, Shaffner & Mark Clothes and a half dozen other good makes. Today Lacy Thoroughgood calls your attention to men's Suits and Overcoats, very different suits and overcoats from what you have been used to seeing. One does not have to be a Solomon to see that Lacy Thoroughgood's goods are much better than any sold in Salisbury. If Mr. Lord could see 'em he'd say so. Come see what you think of 'em

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON VII, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, NOV. 12.

Text of the Lesson, Exh. viii, 31-33. Memory Verses, 21-23—Golden Text, Exh. viii, 22—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1905, by American Press Association.]

We have before us today the record of a journey which occupied about four months (vii, 9) and was participated in by about 1,800 people, carrying with them two talents of silver and 100 talents of gold (about $3,500,000), in addition to vessels of gold and silver and brass, and, although the dangers of the journey were many, they were delivered from all their enemies and reached their destination in safety without any human protection whatever.

This is something worth inquiring into, for in these days of "fear on every side" if we can learn to "serve Him without fear in holiness and righteousness before Him all the days of our life, being delivered out of the hand of our enemies" (Jer. xx, 3; Luke i, 74, 75), it would greatly glorify God. All these things were written for our benefit (Rom. xv, 4) that we may learn how to have the hand of our God upon us for good (verse 22; vii, 4, 9, 28), in the face of our enemies. Many years had passed since Zerubbabel and his company of 49,000 had gone up from Babylon to Jerusalem by the decree of Cyrus (chapter ii, 1, 6, 65)—the temple had been rebuilt (vi, 14, 28)—but as time sped on the tendency to wander away from God, which is common to all, became very much mixed up with the people of the land (ix, 1, 2). It is the purpose of God that His people should be specially His own, a people for Himself, in whom He can live and through whom He can make Himself known to others (Exh. xix, 4, 6; Isa. xlii, 21; Ps. lv, 3; Tit. ii, 14; R. V.), and all conformity to the ways of those who are not of God grieves the Spirit of God and hinders Him in His loving purpose. If this rebellion against God is persisted in He will chasten His people, for "whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth" (Heb. xii, 6; Rev. iii, 19; Amos iii, 2). He had just chastened Israel for seventy years in Babylon and had restored them, according to His promise by Jeremiah, but they were already proving themselves the same rebellious, stiff-necked Israel (Deut. ix, 6, 24). So it is always, and the men like Abel, Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Elijah, Elisha, Ezra, Nehemiah, are few indeed. When such men are found, the way that God can turn things in their favor is seen in chapter vii, 1-23, supplying them with abundance, to be freely used for the work and according to the will of God. The whole heartedness of Ezra toward God is seen in the first verse of our lesson and in vii, 10.

When Ezra might have had soldiers and horsemen for the asking to protect them on their journey it must have seemed to human wisdom great folly not to ask for them, for many would say, "Does not God use such instrumentality?" But Ezra had become acquainted with Him who was to Israel a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night, to guide and protect Israel in all their wilderness journeying. He knew of the hosts which Elishah's servant saw when his eyes were opened (ii Kings, vi, 17). A real Christian is a supernatural kind of person who walks by faith, not by sight, and to whom things unseen are more real than all things seen by our natural eyes. There is no spiritual benefit in fasting for its own sake, but when we desire God and know Him more than we desire food for the body, when we honestly humble ourselves before Him and desire above all things His will, His way, His glory, then He will not fail to show Himself strong in our behalf.

We are always passing through an enemy's country, and the prince of this world as a roaring lion is ever seeking whom he may devour, for we wrestle not against flesh and blood (visible things and people), but against the powers of darkness and wicked spirits in the heavens (i Pet. v, 8; Eph. vi, 12); so we must never cease to watch and pray, and we need have no fears, for He that is with us is stronger than our adversary, and "if God be for us who can be against us?" As truly as Ezra and his company reached Jerusalem in safety so shall all the redeemed of the Lord be delivered out of the month of the lion and from every evil work and be preserved until His heavenly kingdom (ii Tim. iv, 17, 18). Not our faithfulness, but the faithfulness of our God and Saviour, is our comfort as we journey on through life.

The silver and the gold and the vessels delivered to the priests to be watched over and kept safely and handed over to the proper persons at Jerusalem suggest to the believer that he also has certain things delivered to him for which he must give an account, as it is written, "So, then, every one of us shall give account of himself to God" (Rom. xiv, 12). The analogy is, however, not a very good one, for these priests delivered up at their journey's end only what they had received in Babylon, whereas the believer, having received at his conversion, or at the beginning of his life journey (for no one has life till he receives Christ, i John v, 10; John i, 12), his pound or talent or talents, is expected to use on the way that which he has received that he can gladly testify to his increase at the judgment.

seal of Christ (Matt. xxv, 27). The salvation we freely receive is to be worked out, and we are debtors to all who have not received the gospel to give it to them speedily (Phil. ii, 13; Rom. i, 14-16). Kempt by the power of God, safe in the hand of our Redeemer, we are to let Him use us in any way He pleases for His glory.

Not Quite the Same.
A country clergyman vouches for the truth of this story. Having arrived at that point in the baptismal service where the infant's name is conferred, he said:

"Name this child."
"Original Story," said the sponsor-nurse.

"What do you say?" he asked in surprise.

"Original Story," she repeated in clear, deliberate tones.

"It's a very odd name, isn't it? Are you sure you want him called by the name of Original Story?"

"Original Story—that's right," she declared.

"Is it a family name?" the minister persisted.

"Named after his uncle, sir," explained the nurse, getting red in the face.

And so as Original Story the unforgotten little fellow was christened. It was some weeks after this event that the minister made the acquaintance of the said uncle—a farm laborer in another village—whose name was Reginald Story.—Liverpool Mercury.

Crusade to Animals.
Colonel Martin, resident near the city of Galway, on the southern border of Connemara, Ireland, was probably the first to start the worthy humanitarian crusade against cruelty to animals.

The surprised British house of lords abouted insult and derision at Lord Erskine when in 1811 he ventured to gently plead the cause of dumb brutes. The British house of commons would have treated Martin in the same manner when he introduced his bill for the prevention of cruelty to animals but for wholesome regard for his dueling reputation.

"Dick Martin's act," as the humanitarian statute was known, was passed in 1822, "a memorable date in the history of humane legislation." On June 24, 1824, Colonel Martin and a few other benevolent individuals met in London and formed the first society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

Forty years later the movement spread to America. In 1866 Henry Bergh formed the New York society.

Words In Use.
Ordinary well educated people use from 3,000 to 4,000 words in conversation. Accurate thinkers and reasoners, who avoid vague and general expressions and wait till they find a word that exactly fits their meaning, employ of course a larger stock; eloquent speakers may even rise to a command of 10,000. Shakespeare, who had a greater wealth of expression than any other writer, produced all his plays with about 15,000 words. Milton's works are built up with 8,000 and the Old Testament contains 5,642.

Our language therefore is not, after all, so formidable as it seems when we hear of a dictionary of 250,000 words. Skeets' Etymological Dictionary, which is limited to primary words (that is to say, it would explain luck, but not lucky or unlucky or luckless), deals with no more than 13,000 and among them are some really antiquated ones which were used some centuries ago, but are now to be found in the dictionary only.—Blackwood's.

Anthony Trollope as a Schoolboy.

Sir William Gregory gave a picture of Anthony Trollope at Harrow school that makes it evident why he was so unhappy while there. "He was a big boy," says Sir William, "older than the rest of the form and without exception the most slovenly and dirty boy I ever met. He was not only slovenly in person and in dress, but his work was equally dirty. His exercises were a mass of blots and smudges. These peculiarities created a great prejudice against him, and the poor fellow was generally avoided. It is pitiable to read his autobiography, how bitter were his feelings at that time, and how he longed for the friendship and companionship of his comrades, but in vain. I had plenty of opportunities of judging of Anthony, and I am bound to say, though my heart smites me sorely for my unkindness, that I did not dislike him. I avoided him, for he was rude and uncouth, but I thought him an honest, brave fellow. He was no sneak. His faults were external. All the rest of him was right enough. He might have been a thoroughly bad young fellow and yet have had plenty of associates. He gave no sign of promise whatsoever, was always in the lowest part of the form and was regarded by masters and boys as an incorrigible dunce."

"Do you think I will have any difficulty in learning to float, George?" she asked.

"No, indeed," he replied enthusiastically. "With a little practice, I'm sure you could fly."—Philadelphia Press.

DEMOCRATS SWEEP OHIO

Elect Governor By Over 40,000 and Have Majority in Legislature.
Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—That John M. Pattison, Democrat, has been elected governor of Ohio for three years by a plurality running above 40,000; over Governor Myron T. Herrick, of Cleveland, Republican, is settled, as also is the Democratic working majority in both houses of the state legislature, but there is still some uncertainty as to the rest of the state ticket.

Earlier returns were apparently from sections favorable to Governor Herrick, for he held a lead over the remainder of the Republican ticket until yesterday, when fuller returns from country regions, cut in to Herrick's vote severely, and by evening Herrick seemed to be 40,000 votes behind the rest of the Republican ticket. If that difference stands, the victory for offices other than governor will depend on the size of Pattison's plurality, with the chances in favor of the choice of the entire Democratic roster.

Chairman Garber, of the Democratic committee, figured pluralities for Pattison that aggregate close to 55,000. If these figures hold true, the entire Democratic ticket is elected. The Republicans have given out no later estimates than those of Chairman Dick, conceding the election of Pattison by 25,000 plurality.

Republican estimates give the Democrats from two to five majority in the next senate and from 10 to 15 in the house. The Democratic claim is a majority of five in the senate and of 27 in the house.

SUFFRAGE ISSUE DEFEATED

The Negro Amendment in Maryland Snowed Under.

Baltimore, Nov. 9.—Late returns dispate much of the doubt as to the result of Tuesday's election in this city and state. With a few precincts of one of the usually Democratic counties yet to be heard from, the defeat of the proposed suffrage restriction amendment to the state constitution by 25,000 to 29,000 is indicated. Atkinson, Dem., is conceded the state comptroller ship, and his majority will probably run over 6500. That the lower house of the state legislature will be Democratic is conceded by Republican sources of information. It will probably be made up of 53 Democrats, 3 Independent Democrats and 48 Republicans. The state senate stands 18 Democrats and 8 Republicans. The Democrats will therefore elect the state treasurer, and the board of public works will be Democratic. The election of Padgett, Rep., at sheriff of this city, about which there had been doubt, is now conceded.

BOSS COX RETIRES

Republican Leader, Who Ruled Cincinnati, Quits Politics.

Cincinnati, Nov. 8.—George B. Cox, the well-known Republican leader, gave out the following statement, withdrawing from active service in the Republican party:

"Now that the election is over and the people have signified their preference to city, county and state officials, and I sincerely trust they have selected wisely, I wish to announce to the public that from this day, after 25 years of active service in the ranks of the Republican party, my personal activity in politics shall cease. I will continue to vote the Republican ticket, but others must bear the burden of future campaigns. To the local Republican organization and the many friends that have stood with us in the past I tender most grateful thanks for their unwavering loyalty and support. I hope for their future good will. Respectfully yours, G. B. COX."

MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICAN Elected Governor and Lieutenant Governor By Large Plurality.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Lieutenant Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston, the Republican candidate, was elected governor of Massachusetts in the state election by a plurality of 29,435 over General Charles W. Bartlett, of Boston, the Democratic candidate.

For the second place on the ticket for which there was an unusually warm contest, Eben S. Draper, of Hopkinton, the Republican candidate, won over Henry M. Whitney, of Brookline, his Democrat opponent, and the leading advocate for reciprocity, by a plurality of 3342.

The total vote for the two leading candidates was: Governor—Guild, Rep. 203,834; Bartlett, Dem. 174,399. Lieutenant governor—Draper, Rep. 184,534; Whitney, Dem. 180,592.

Walter's Composition.

Little Walter was told to write a composition containing the word "seldom." This is what he handed up to the teacher:

"My father owned some horses, but last week he seldom."

M'CLELLAN WINS IN NEW YORK

Re-elected Mayor Over W. R. Hearst by 3485 Plurality.

WM. T. JEROME RE-ELECTED

William R. Hearst, Charging Wholesale Frauds Against Tammany, Will Contest McClellan's Election and Carry the Case to Supreme Court.

New York, Nov. 8.—George B. McClellan, Dem., is re-elected mayor of New York by 3485 plurality over W. R. Hearst, Municipal Ownership, and GEORGE B. McCLELLAN.

Re-Elected Mayor of New York City. William T. Jerome, Independent, is re-elected district attorney by 11,450 plurality over J. W. Osborne, Dem.

The vote for mayor of New York by boroughs was as follows: McClellan—Manhattan and Bronx, 140,682; Brooklyn, 68,655; Queens, 18,193; Richmond, 6,121. Total, 228,651. Hearst—Manhattan and Bronx, 128,920; Brooklyn, 84,608; Queens, 13,677; Richmond, 2966. Total, 225,166. Ivins—Manhattan and Bronx, 64,088; Brooklyn, 61,095; Queens, 7365; Richmond, 4501. Total, 137,049.

The Tammany candidates for president of the board of aldermen and for presidents of Manhattan and the Bronx are all elected.

Mr. Hearst announced his intention to take an immediate appeal to the supreme court, his managers having declared that they had secured evidence of illegal acts against 1000 inspectors of election and that 30,000 Hearst men who went to the polls to vote for Mr. Hearst had found that their names had already been voted.

Most of this fraudulent voting is said to have been done in East Side assembly districts, especially in the 18th, Charles F. Murphy's home district, and in the sixth, of which Timothy D. Sullivan is the leader.

Mr. Hearst's proposed action met with warm approval in many quarters, even among those who opposed his election, and he received many assurances of support. District Attorney Jerome expressed himself in terms of strong approval of Mr. Hearst's program and declared that he would immediately institute a searching investigation of the alleged Democratic frauds. He also ordered the returns from the 18th and sixth districts to be carefully guarded.

Mr. Hearst made the following statement: "We are going to fight today, tomorrow, next month and next year to make it possible for a man to cast an honest vote and to prevent in the future conditions being as disgraceful as they were Tuesday, especially in Sullivan's and Murphy's districts, and we will invoke every legal means to have every ballot honestly counted. We are receiving voluntary offers of money from business men to aid us in this appeal."

Ira G. Darrin, the newly-elected district attorney of Queens county on the Republican ticket, made a similar statement. William M. Ivins, the defeated Republican candidate for mayor, also commended Mr. Hearst's action and expressed the belief that a recount would show that Mr. Hearst had been elected.

Some of the Tammany leaders, after the meeting, expressed the opinion that the returns showed censure of Mr. Murphy's leadership, and that he should as a result step down and out and make room for a man against whom nothing could be charged.

NEW JERSEY ASSEMBLY

The Republicans Make Gains in Both Branches.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 8.—The election in New Jersey increased the Republican hold upon the state legislature and makes it impossible that a Democratic should succeed United States Senator John P. Dryden in 1907. Only four of the 21 state senators will be Democrats.

Colby, the Independent Republican in Essex county, whose fight against the machine of his party attracted wide interest, was swept into office by a majority which approached that which his county gave a year ago when the local ticket had the help of the national ticket to carry it along. Mr. Colby won by 19,847. He carried his ticket through with him. The Republican wave swept into Jersey City again, and Mayor Fagan, who is an Independent Republican of the Colby stripe, was again elected, and carried his ticket through with him.

Contest in Camden.

Camden, N. J., Nov. 8.—Claims were made that Somers had won the shrievalty of Camden county by a majority of 538 over Nowrey, although returns are not yet complete from all parts of the county, and the result is so close that there may still be a basis for Nowrey's assertion that he has won by 500 to 800. The election will be contested. The Legal Voters' League and Democrats have placed watchers to guard the ballot boxes in the city hall until the official count is made. Arrangements are being made by the Nowrey supporters to contest the election of Somers. They assert that they have proof that thousands of votes were cast illegally and that they will produce the evidence at the proper time.

Republicans Sweep Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—The Republicans made a clean sweep of the election in Chicago and Cook county, electing all of their candidates with the exception of one man. The sole Democrat to reach the promised land was Webb, a candidate for trustee of the sanitary district. The Republicans elected four judges of the superior court by pluralities ranging from 20,000 to 25,000, one judge to fill a vacancy on the bench of the superior court by a plurality of about 10,000, a judge of the circuit court by 1000, and eight out of nine members of the board of sanitary trustees by pluralities ranging from 1000 to 5000.

Reclaiming The Desert.

The history of irrigation is one of steady growth and development, as statistics of the past thirteen years show that a crop producing area larger than the combined area of Massachusetts and Connecticut has been developed in a region once the most forbidding on our continent. The remotest and most unsettled parts of our great country, except in Oregon, are being connected by railroads carrying the commerce of the world. The experienced irrigators of today evince far greater practicability and a readier adaptability to the conditions of their environment than did the pioneers. Their labors are less severe and their achievements greater than those of their predecessors, because they have learned how to subdue and apply the forces of nature through innumerable inventions. Great problems of water storage and diversion have been worked out to solution. Every available stream is now a potent force for good. The dams, which impounded the floods, also furnish abundant electric power for all purposes, and even the flow of the canals turn wheels which lift large quantities of water to fields above the line of gravity supply. With the development of irrigation the range supports larger herds and flocks, while in more than one district the irrigation ditches have made possible the development of great mines; cities, populous and prosperous, have risen in the desert and have attained commercial and mercantile greatness.—E. T. Perkins in Sunset Magazine for November.

Death of Mr. W. S. Moore.

This was a sad election to the family and hosts of friends of Mr. William S. Moore, of Trappe District, affectionately known as "Uncle Billy." Mr. Moore was stricken with paralysis at the polling place in his district about 4 o'clock and died about 8 o'clock that night. At the time he was seized with the stroke, Mr. Moore was talking to Capt. James A. Turner. Capt. Turner had noticed him beckoning but thought nothing of it. When he went to him Mr. Moore asked that Dr. Long be sent for at once. He sank to the ground and was taken to the nearby home of a Mr. Bounds, where he remained until his death. His remains were brought that night to Salisbury, to the home of his son, Mr. J. Ernest Moore, from whence the funeral took place Friday morning, at 10 o'clock. The services were held at Fruitland Church, at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Moore, wife of Mr. Moore, has been an invalid about a year and has been at Mr. James T. Truitt's, in Salisbury, since last spring. For this reason, Mr. Moore's body was brought to Salisbury.

Mr. Moore was 66 years of age and leaves two sons, Mr. J. Ernest Moore and Mr. W. S. Moore Jr. He was one of the most popular men in Wicomico county. Though always a staunch, organization Democrat, even dying in harness as it were, his kind heart and friendly readiness to do a neighborly act for everybody, white or black, rich or poor, made him beloved of all men. Whenever he ran for office he always received large support from the Republicans and could have commanded the votes of Wicomico's people at anytime. He was elected to the Legislature three times, as sheriff twice and served the people in other offices, and was representative of his party to numerous conventions.

As a tribute to "Uncle Billy," we can but echo the words of our contemporary, the Wicomico News:

"Peace to his ashes! There was never a truer friend, a better man or a more honorable gentleman born in Maryland."

Brown-Sudler.

In St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Princess Anne, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock William Coulbourn Brown, of Philadelphia, was married to Miss Nancy Sudler, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stewart Sudler, of that town.

The bride was given away by her brother, Samuel H. Sudler. The best man was Edward Herman Cohn, of Princess Anne. Miss Fannie Stone Sudler, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Anne Page, daughter of Judge Henry Page, and Miss Eliza Worthington Waters, both of Princess Anne. Rev. Francis Van Rensselaer Moore, rector of the church, officiated. Miss Bessie Woolford presided at the organ. B. Louis Lankford and Charles C. Sudler, of Princess Anne; Norman Bell, Jr., of Norfolk, Va., and Harry V. Holway, of Newcastle, Del., were the ushers.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Waters tendered a reception to the bridal party at their home, on Main street. After the reception the couple left for the North. They will reside at 2006 Tioga street, Philadelphia.

Morris-Sudler.

Mr. Harvey B. Morris, of Salisbury, and Miss Annie Belle Sudler, of Upper Fairmount, Somerset county, were married Wednesday at noon, at the home of the bride's parents. Following the ceremony a breakfast was served to a number of relatives and friends. The couple left on the north-bound express for a short tour. Mrs. Morris is a sister of Mrs. J. M. Diek, of Salisbury. The groom is the only son of Mrs. Annie T. Morris and is employed at the Salisbury National Bank. The young couple will, for the present, make their home with the groom's mother.

In Memoriam.

Mr. Harvey J. Lloyd, a prosperous farmer living near Rewastico Mills, this county, was accidentally drowned in Rewastico Creek last Monday, November 6, 1905, about noon. The incident occurred while in a boat on his way to the mill to purchase some corn meal. Being a strong wind at that time the boat was capsized and he being unable to swim, went to the bottom and wasn't found until about night of the same day.

He was about 33 years old, leaves no children, but a widow to mourn his loss. He was buried in the Protestant Episcopal church yard, Quantico, Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Franklin B. Adkins had charge of the funeral.

It was hard to part with you so sudden But God ordered that way for you to go. What is home without you no one to cherish me now.

Oh! darling you have left me alone.

His wife,
ALICE V. LLOYD.

THE PRESIDING OFFICERS.

Much Speculation As To Who Will Wield The Gavel In The House And Senate This Winter.

There is a great deal of speculation at this time as to who will be chosen to preside over the House of Delegates and the Senate when the Legislature assembles, and the politicians are all at sea at present as to the outcome. Governor Warfield will undoubtedly exert a strong influence in both bodies and numerous members are already offering to be guided by his opinions. This is especially true of the independent Democrats.

Dr. Richard S. Hall of Prince George's county is now said by those in a position to know to be the choice of the Governor as Speaker of the House. This impression has grown since Dr. Hall had a conference with the Governor at his office, in Baltimore a few days ago. Several of Governor Warfield's friends who have discussed the question with him have carried away the same impression, although nothing was said to commit the Governor irrevocably to the candidacy of Dr. Hall. Mr. Carville D. Benson, who has also solicited the votes of members, is generally believed to be practically out of the race. Mr. Smith, one of the independents elected in Queen Anne, is also being spoken of.

For President of the Senate the two most prominently mentioned at this time are Senator John P. Moore, of Worcester and Senator M. V. Brewington, of Wicomico. Of Mr. Brewington, the Baltimore Herald on Monday said: Senator Marion V. Brewington's friends in Salisbury have started a boom for him as president of the Senate, and are urging him to become a candidate. They think he is the logical man for the place in view of the defeat of Senator Robinson and other organization candidates.

He is a hold-over member, and in point of service one of the oldest men in the body, this being the latter portion of his second term. His friends say that he is more entitled to consideration than either. Gen Joseph B. Seth, of Talbot, or Senator Moore, of Worcester.

Though a strict organization democrat and friendly to the old state crowd, including United States Senator Gorman, Senator Brewington is a close friend of former Gov. E. E. Jackson and voted at the last session for Isidor Rayner.

A friend said of Senator Brewington today: "He is independent, yet the old organization could not but feel sure of fair play under his rulings were he presiding officer."

WOULD UNITE FACTIONS.

"He is regarded as conservative and well posted, through his experience, on all important legislation that will come up this session. The Haman oyster bill measure was ignored in Wicomico as an issue this year and Senator Brewington is therefore not bound up in any way for or against it. It is true that he voted against the bill at the last session, but it was at the instance of his constituents."

Senator Brewington would have the endorsement of Ex-Governor Jackson, and he would not be opposed by Mr. Gorman's influence. He would be persona grata also to former Governor Smith, and as he voted for Senator Rayner, he could not be opposed by that gentleman's friends. He would fit into the position like a round peg into a hole."

His admirers in Wicomico are enthusiastic in their support for him should he decide to become a candidate.

Inspection of B. C. & A. Ry. And M. D. & V. Ry.

The officials of the B. C. and A. Ry. Co. and the M. D. and V. Ry. Co. made their annual inspection of the properties this week in a handsomely appointed special train. Mr. Harry Phillips, of the Peninsula Hotel, Salisbury, was caterer and served elaborate menus at each meal in the dining car.

The party left Baltimore Monday night on the steamer Cambridge and spent the night at Claiborne. They were met at this point by the special train and the Railway Division officials. Tuesday was spent on the B. C. and A. Ry. and Wednesday on the M. D. and V. Ry.

The party was headed by Capt. Willard Thomson, vice-president and general manager, and included:

W. L. Rothstein, auditor; T. A. Joynes, superintendent of steam lines; T. Murdoch, general passenger and freight agent; A. J. Benjamin, superintendent of railway division; M. O. Benjamin; A. H. Seth; J. H. C. Williams; R. H. Soulsby; W. H. Brown; E. P. Saxton; W. L. Little; J. M. Thomson; D. W. Downey; J. B. Thomas; W. W. Thomson; Thomas Benson; W. U. Polk; George F. Sharpley; F. Stratner; I. E. Jones.

Opening Of The Gunning Season.

The gunning season in Wicomico opened on Wednesday, the 15th, and a number of sports went out for a try at partridges. They reported birds very scarce, but rabbits plentiful.

Dr. E. Riall White and Mr. Mark Cooper went to Mardela. They got 4 partridges after tramping all day. Dr. "Ned." Smith and Kirwin Hayman went to Parsonsburg and had about the same luck.

A unique condition existed in Salisbury on Thursday, not a single bird being offered for sale at the numerous down town stores where game is handled. There may have been a few on the market, but if so they were very scarce and hard to obtain.

Mr. Duncan's Vote.

In reporting the official vote of Wicomico county last week, we made an error in stating the number of votes received by Mr. Lemuel B. Duncan, Republican nominee for the House of Delegates. Mr. Duncan received 1765 votes instead of 1725. Mr. Duncan received more votes than any other candidate on the Republican ticket with the exception of Mr. McCullough, the nominee for State Comptroller.

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

This Is The Season Of The Year When Farm Land Sales Are Most Active. Demand Is Good.

This is the season of the year when local land sales are most active, purchasers desiring to buy at a time when they can get farms practically free from growing crops, and move in and get ready to begin their spring work without delay or hindrance. The demand for Eastern Shore farms was never better and the general tendency of values is upward. A factor that is entering into this very largely is the expectation that "good roads" will be a reality in Wicomico, practically as soon as they can be built. The large purchase of shells—50,000 bushels—that has already been contracted for, will be augmented by more elaborate road building as soon after the new County Commissioners get into office as it can be brought about.

The most important piece of real estate dealt in during the past ten days was the "Motherton" farm, 800 odd acres, in Trappe district, which Mr. S. P. Woodcock bought from Mr. James E. Lowe. This property has changed hands several times during the past few years and generally at an advanced price. The amount Mr. Woodcock paid for it has not been disclosed. It is probable that the farm will be cut up into smaller properties, if Mr. Woodcock does not sell it in its entirety during the winter. It is a fine property as it stands, one of the most valuable on the Peninsula. It only needs capital to pay large returns on the investment.

Mr. Lowe took in part payment for the "Motherton" farm 76 acres on the shell road adjoining Mr. J. E. Betts' farm. This is part of the land owned several years ago by the late S. P. Toadvine and afterward by Mr. Thomas Perry. It is near town and will bring large prices in the near future. Small blocks have already been sold from the "Fairfield" tract, just across the road, for $100 per acre and that fronting on the shell road is held higher.

Messrs. Frank Williams and Bailey & Jones have disposed of several parcels during the past two weeks and there are numerous customers here from abroad who are looking at farms through these agencies, as well as the agency of S. P. Woodcock & Co. So far as reported, the sales that have been made were as follows:

By Bailey & Jones, 15 acres on Spring Hill shell road; 2 farms below Allen; 2 farms on Quantico road; 2 farms near Hebron. The average price of these was about $3,000 and $25 per acre.

R. Frank Williams sold to W. S. Powell house and lot and 2 vacant lots on Madison st., $800; house and lot on Howard st., "Oak Hill," to David Shepardson, $850; two houses and lots on Delaware st., belonging to B. Frank Bennett to J. Walter Williams, $700.

One of the highest priced pieces of real estate sold in Salisbury for some time was that purchased this week by Mr. Lloyd Watson from Mr. Harvey Elzey. Mr. Watson paid $2,300 (it is reported) for the cranberry bog in "California" and one lot at the corner of Blake and Lake streets. The property contains about 20 acres, but is practically all marsh. The sale was made through Mr. R. Frank Williams.

Last Saturday, three parcels of land were sold at auction at the Court House, two owned by the late Robert Twilley in Quantico district and one in Nanticoke district owned by Louis M. Horaman. The latter was sold at mortgagee's sale by Jay Williams Esq. Of the first two, 97 acres brought $1,500, and was bought by Irving R. Twilley; the second, 50 acres of woodland, was bought by W. H. Gale for $225.

The Horsman property was bought in by Mr. Williams for $250. Henry B. Freeny, trustee for E. A. Denison, also sold a small house and lot near Collins' wharf for $50. Mr. Jay Williams being the purchaser.

The deeds recorded at the Clerk of Court's office during the past ten days were as follows:

Fannie and Lizzie Dorman to Samuel B. Wilson, 150 acres of land in Tysackin district, $650.

Joseph L. Bailey, trustee, to Leyn Thomas Gale, 5 acres in Quantico district, $175.

E. J. Stewart and wife to Robert L. Jones, 12 acres in Tysackin district, $275.

Samuel E. White to John F. Phillips, land in Nanticoke district, $1.

J. M. Roberts and wife to Jerome Elzey, 5 acres in Nanticoke district, $85.

MR. GRAHAM WON THE CUP.

Exciting Contest For Dupont Trophy At Salisbury Gun Club Grounds Thursday.

There was an exciting finish in the contest for the Dupont Trophy, a silver loving cup, gold lined, at the Salisbury Gun Club grounds Thursday afternoon. The conditions of the shoot was for each contestant to shoot at 100 targets. Thursday afternoon, Dr. E. W. Smith, Mr. Donald Graham and Mr. W. B. Miller met to finish the score. Dr. Smith had 67 to his credit out of a possible 75 and Mr. Graham 63. Mr. Miller broke 62 out of 75. Dr. Smith looked like a sure winner and everybody was confident the cup was his. He got nervous under the excitement however, and only broke 20 out of his last 25, making his final score 87. Mr. Graham broke his last 25 straight and finished with 88, winning the cup. As Mr. Miller could only make a total of 87 had he broken all of his last 25, and would therefore finish one behind Mr. Graham, he withdrew.

Mr. Graham was warmly congratulated for his fine shooting and the coolness he exhibited in the windup, which was the most exciting of any event ever held by the club. A large crowd witnessed the shooting.

One of the most remarkable cats in Sussex county Del., is owned by Mr. Benj. M. Hazell, of Millington. The other qualities of this cat are just as remarkable.

The store of Horatio Jones, located on Main street, Princess Anne, was broken into by burglars Saturday night and robbed of goods amounting to $30. Sydney M. Burk, of Atkinson's district, Worcester county, was before Justice H. W. Lankford last Saturday, charged with shipping partridges from Costen Station to New York City. Game Warden H. L. Brittingham had been to Costen Station and brought back the box of game in which were three partridges and some other birds. Burk pleaded guilty and was fined $25.00 and costs—amounting to $28.50—and took an appeal to the Circuit Court of Somerset County, giving a bond of $50.

This little story comes from the south: The first aloe of goose had been cut, and the minister of the Zion church looked at it with as keen anticipation as was displayed in the faces around him. "Dat's as fine a goose as I ever saw, Bradder Williams," he said to his host. "Where did you get such a fine one?" Well, now, Mistah Rawley, said the carrier of the goose, with a sudden access of dignity, "when you preach a special good sermon I never axes you where you got it. Seems to me dat's a triv' matter, anyway."

General Officer Louis Riggins of the Maryland Penitentiary has received the $1000 reward offered by the State for the detection and conviction of John M. Simpers, the murderer of Mr. Albert Constable, the Cecil county lawyer. Detectives Joseph Dougherty and Chas. Weaver, who took a prominent part in the case, made no claim for the reward, and stated to Governor Warfield that in their opinion, Mr. Riggins was entitled to it.

An accident which occurred at Stockton, Worcester county Tuesday, resulted in the death of Howard Douglas, colored. Several boys were fooling with their guns, thinking them unloaded; but the one that was in the hands of Harry Jester had a cartridge in it, and went off, killing the Douglas boy immediately. The boys were fast friends, and the affair was purely accidental.

A young minister at Columbia, Missouri, who had been given a horse by a rich farmer parishioner, rode the animal home to exhibit him to his father. The old man studied the horse over carefully and observed that he seemed very aged and infirm. "Well, father," said the young son, "I don't think you ought to complain of him even if he is old and feeble. It is a good deal better animal than our Saviour rode into Jerusalem nineteen hundred years ago." "I don't know John," replied his father. "I think it's the same animal."

As a rule the children's progress at school is regulated by the home attitude toward school. If parents are indifferent children also are indifferent; if parents are interested in school work, a new impulse is given to the children's interest. Parents should strive to understand the teacher and to hold her or him at the highest standard. No teacher can do justice to himself and pupils if he is made an object of constant and severe criticism; expressions of disapproval should never be made in the presence of children; antagonism between the home and school destroys the value of the school to children.

From Heaven

By RUTH MORRIS

Copyright, 1905, by K. A. Whitehead

"An angel from heaven?" repeated Jack Elder. "Well, mother, I guess when an angel from heaven drops down this way I'll think of getting married. Until then I am very well content as I am."

He snatched up his hat and, whistling to his dog, strode across the fields while his mother stood in the doorway and watched him until the woods swallowed him up.

Then she turned with a sigh and entered the house. An inveterate match-maker, it was one of the sorrows of Mrs. Elder's life that her handsome young son had withstood the persuasions of all the girls of his acquaintance. He had even assisted her in the plans whereby she deputized for Cupid, but, perhaps, it was this familiarity with her methods which enabled him to escape so easily from the snares she set for him.

Had he shown an interest in any one she would have felt some hope, but not one of the girls she knew had been able to arouse other than his friendly interest, and she was in despair.

Had she seen his face as he strode through the brush she would have been surprised, for it was white and drawn and his teeth were clenched.

It was hard for him to face his mother's persuasions with a jest when all the while his whole soul was bound up in a woman to whom he could not offer his love.

It happened on one of his trips to the shore. He had formed one of a yachting party, and there he had met Clara Ripley. For a time it had seemed to him that there was the woman for whom he had been destined, and through the long summer evenings he had sat by her side and wondered how it was that to some men it was permitted to have a foretaste of heaven.

Then Tom Ripley had joined the party, and for the first time he had learned that she was married. The blow had been too much for him, and, feigning illness, he had left the yacht and come home heartbroken.

That had been a year ago, but the wound was still fresh, and on those long strolls through the woods he could still feel her presence, could smell the salt air above the fragrance of the pines. And his mother had declared that he was a confirmed bachelor who would not marry an angel from heaven were she suddenly to appear and make declaration of her love.

He thought bitterly of his mother's hopes, and tears dimmed his eyes as he realized how impossible it was to grant her her heart's desire.

He made his way down to the lake where there was a little clearing. He loved to lie on the soft grass and look up at the white clouds traversing the summer sky, while he pictured to himself how different life would be with Clara by his side to face the world.

So full of his thoughts was he that he did not notice his dog's agitation until with a sharp bark he dashed toward the water's edge.

With a cry he sprang to his feet. Over the surface of the water came bounding a huge bulk from which depended a swaying mass of black and white. Now it struck the water; now it rose in the air only to fall back again like some wounded bird.

In a flash Jack remembered that there was to have been a balloon ascension across the lake that afternoon, and he knew that this must be it, though he was at a loss to understand why a feminine figure should be clinging to the ropes.

Just as he neared the shore the car dipped again, and as it rose a rope brushed past Jack's shoulder. Instinctively he grasped it, and with a wrench that very nearly tore his hold loose he was jerked into the air. For a moment he clung, dizzy with excitement and the shock, and then with a rending sound the balloon swept downward, and Elder was dragged through the branches of the trees, the twigs cutting his face and hands, though they did not loosen their grip upon the rope.

There was another upward bound, and as they rose Jack, regarding his wits, began to climb the rope, drawing himself up hand over hand as they rose in the air. He had almost reached the car when they struck the trees again, and now he had to endure the weight of the car as it crashed him against the branches and left him well nigh breathless. Still he clung to the rope with grim persistence, and as the car rose once more clutched the wicker work of the edge and felt a hand under his shoulder assisting him over the side.

For a moment he lay breathless while the balloon made another dive, and then with a start he realized that his companion was Clara Ripley.

One glance into her face as she bent anxiously over him assured him of her love, and the knowledge of this fact stimulated his faculties. The balloon was diving again, but at each rise the recovery was less buoyant, and now they scarcely cleared the tops of the trees. Just beyond was the clearing, and as they sank the balloon with a lurch settled to earth, covering them beneath its huge bulk. In some way the valve rope had become entangled with Jack's arm as he fell into the car, and the gas was rushing out of the neck of the tube and adding to their discomfort.

With a desperate energy, he worked his way over the side of the car, dragging his companion after him. Just as it seemed he must give up, a puff of fresh air struck his nostrils, and with one last effort he dragged Clara from beneath the infolding cloth.

When consciousness came again she was clutching his hand in hers while the tears streamed down her face. As he opened his eyes she gave a little cry and, leaning forward lightly, brushed his cheek.

"I was afraid," she said, a tremulous catch in her voice, "that you had inhaled too much gas. I—I was about to leave you to seek assistance."

"I am all right now," he answered feebly. Then, after a minute, "How did you happen to be in that car?"

"There were three of us," she answered—"Tom, the professor and myself. I had always longed to take a balloon trip, and this seemed such a splendid chance."

"The professor was just helping Tom into the car when somehow the rope parted, and I was carried up alone. Then the gas began to give out, and I thought I should fall into the lake. But it's all right now, isn't it?"

"Yes," he answered, with a wan smile. "We'll telegraph Mr. Ripley and send you home in the morning. Our home is just beyond here, and my mother will be most happy to welcome you."

"You did not go to the shore this summer," she said quickly.

"No," he answered, "I could not go with the memory of last year."

"Was it so unpleasant, then?" she asked gently. "Mr. Elder, I've always wondered why you left us so suddenly. Could it be that anything I said gave offense?"

Her face burned red as she asked the question, but she met his gaze undimly.

"No," was the quiet answer, "it was nothing—that you said. Somehow, I gained an idea that you were Tom Ripley's sister and that he was bringing his wife aboard with him. When we landed to take him on, George Somers told me that Mrs. Ripley was already on board and that Tom was with his sister."

She broke into a merry peal of laughter. "That was my sister Grace," she explained. "Tom's wife came aboard while you were at the postoffice."

"Then you are his sister, after all?" he cried, suddenly sitting up.

"And that was your reason?" she asked softly. The question was commonplace, but the man read all he wanted to know in the tone in which it was asked.

Mrs. Elder, watching the sun set across the fields, saw them coming toward her.

"Mother," cried Jack jubilantly, "this is the angel direct from heaven, and we are going to be married just as soon as we can arrange matters."

Punishing a Proud Maine Judge.
In the early days of Augusta, Me., when the people rode about the country on horseback, a certain aristocratic judge, riding into town one day on his smart horse, was overtaken by a neighbor, a poorly dressed Irishman, riding a rather rough looking animal.

In the outskirts of the city the two jogged along side by side, discussing the topics of the day, but as they neared the town the proud judge, thinking it beneath his dignity to be seen in company with Patrick, requested the Irishman to fall back a little.

The quick witted son of Erin, grasping the situation, fell back a few paces and awaited his opportunity for revenge.

As they were entering the principal street the Irishman called out from behind: "Judge —, am I far enough behind yer honor?"

The discomfited judge, sitting very erect, paid no heed to the Irishman.

A little further on Patrick again called out, to the intense amusement of the bystanders, "Judge —, am I far enough behind yer honor now, sir?"

So, all along the way, Patrick punished the proud judge.—Boston Herald.

A Smart Man.
"Fourteen cents for each of these," he said, handing the saleswoman two cravats he had selected. "That's 28; 18 for this and 14 for this. That's just 50 cents in all." And he placed a half dollar on the counter.

The girl took the cravats he had selected, entered the purchase on a slip, which she footed up at 50 cents, and sent them away. Soon they came back wrapped ready for the purchaser. He took them, but did not go away.

"I knew I could do it," he said. "Just count it up again—three for 14 cents each and one for 18."

The girl counted and found the total was 60 cents instead of 50. Then he wanted to give her 10 cents more and go off with the goods, but it took more than 10 cents' worth of his time as well as of everybody else's concerned before the matter could be straightened out.

"The lesson was quite as expensive for me as for you," he said to the girl when he finally left with his cravats.—Philadelphia Record.

Some Salisbury People Fully Realize It Now.

When the back aches from kidney ills, When urinary troubles annoy you, There's a certain way to find relief, A sure way to be cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do it.

Salisbury people endorse this claim. J. C. Coulbourn, farmer, living two miles South of Salisbury, says: "My first attack of kidney trouble was felt about four years ago. At that time I was laid up for three weeks. I recovered from it but later on had two more similar attacks and since then there has been no times when I could say that I was wholly free from the distressing pain across the back. I doctored a great deal and I believe tried every known remedy on the market which was recommended to me which came to my notice from reading but all failed to cure me. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I concluded to try them and procured a box at White & Leonard's drug store. I have used several boxes and can say that they have given me the greatest benefit."

SATURDAY, NOV. 18, 1905.

For A Simpler Ballot.

The Democrats of Baltimore, headed by Rasin, McMahon and other extreme organization members of the party, have already begin to agitate for a return to the old system of "emblem" voting. They want the ballot so arranged that one mark will vote a straight ticket. So do the Democratic politicians in Baltimore county. And Attorney General Bryan expects to introduce a bill at the next Legislature providing that a voters intentions shall be ascertained, if possible, and the vote counted, and the method now in force of throwing out an improperly marked ticket be done away with.

About 100,000 were disfranchised in the State, according to reliable estimates, at the election last week and the people are tired of it. The law as it stands hurts the white voters worse than it does the colored. The law does not prevent bribery and is a nuisance for every man. The Democrats themselves are sick of it and want it changed back to the old law of 1896, in the respects above mentioned, if in no other.

If such a law is introduced at Annapolis this winter, Wicomico county should by all means share in its advantages. There has never been a trick ballot in this county, and the ticket to an intelligent man, is easy enough to mark. But many a man, through carelessness, loses his vote. The voter's intention should be recognized by the election judges, where it is possible to do so, and no ticket should be thrown out unless it is clear that it was marked for identification or for fraudulent purposes. As a matter of fact the law has never been rigidly enforced in this county, but nevertheless hundreds lose their votes through lack of care.

Many candidates, too, do not receive the votes they should, because they are overlooked. It has almost come to the point where candidates are chosen because their names begin with a certain letter that will give them an advantageous position on the ticket.

It is a foolish law, without reason or excuse so far as Wicomico is concerned, and it should be repealed.

Inconsistent Comments.

We hope that the readers of the Wicomico News will pay especial note to the inconsistencies in its editorial comment this week on the recent election. It says that Maryland is a Democratic State on purely party questions, yet the Poe Amendment, a strictly party measure, treated by the organization as being paramount above even the success of the candidates, was defeated by the WHITE voters.

It is surely a curious commentary on the intelligence of the voters of Maryland, for The News to say that "with the negro, questions of intelligent moment are always defeated." Only five counties in the State gave a majority for the Poe Amendment and the best element of the Democratic party fought the measure. Evidently the Wicomico News' standard of intelligence is one of blind obedience to boss rule. It failed to work, however, this year, except in a few counties on the Eastern Shore and one in Western Maryland.

The voters of Maryland must have concluded that the misrepresentation at this election was by the Democrats. At all events, that is the way they voted.

Our esteemed contemporary writes exultingly of the relegation of Boddiers and Grafters to the rear, but it fails to mention their beloved United States Senator Arthur Pue Gorman. What do they think of his downfall? And of Vandiver's? And all the rest of that gang who fell in their attempt to legalize their control of State politics.

In reference to the "Good Roads" amendment. The News knows that the Republicans in Wicomico are in favor of the movement. A great many voted for Wm. M. Cooper on this issue. The "Good Roads" Amendment was declared unnecessary by the Court of Appeals. It was therefore voted against, by Democrats and Republicans alike. In fact, it was only carried in Wicomico by 37 majority, while the disfranchisement amendment had a majority of 407.

The Battle Against Bribery And Graft.

A movement has been started in Delaware by the Democrats to abolish the use of money at elections in that State and it is likely that formal action, in the shape of an organization, will take place shortly. Mr. Josiah Marvel, son-in-law of Hon. William H. Jackson, is prominent in the movement and made a speech in Wilmington a week ago to the Democratic League that has been widely commented upon. His remarks created a sensation at the meeting, but have since been heartily endorsed. Mr. Marvel said, in introducing his plan:

"To be sure our party has preached this (anti-bribery) for years but it is time and high time that we should practice what we preach. If you and I, making up the great body of our party, become convinced earnestly enough of the correctness of this principle, we can so constitute the machinery of our party in county and State that it may be that when the next fight is on, with one or two factions of the Republican party in the field, as the case may be, we can say to them: 'We will not use one dollar to influence a man's vote, and you shall not do it.' We must recognize the fact that such a declaration would be received with the same doubt or misgiving that it has been received in the past, but if we go through one election true to this principle, we can go before the bar of public opinion and justify ourselves by our acts, and then get before the bar of the General Sessions Court and justify the court by sufficient evidence in sending these debauchers of our franchises to our county lists."

Wicomico pointed out the way at the late election, now our neighboring State bids fair to follow our example. We trust other counties in Maryland will do likewise.

A great awakening has and is taking place all over the country against bribery and graft. Upon this subject the New York Sun comments editorially as follows:

The universal rout of the Bosses Tuesday was caused primarily by the universal disgust with dishonesty. The American people are careless enough and too good natured. They stand a good deal but some things they will not stand. The Boss is an old character, and sporadic or periodical risings against him are common. This was a revolt against the whole Boss system, and it was prepared and greatly helped by what is known of the methods of business of the great insurance companies.

The country saw how politics and political corruption combined with the insurance Grafters. Was business as rotten as politics? Was Graft the real ruler of the United States? The revelation of insurance philanthropies had a profound stimulating effect upon the national thought and consciousness. The United States stood disgraced before themselves and the world. Pillars of the Church and ornaments of the Senate were seen to be rotten wood. The moral sense and the patriotism of the American people were stung with anger and shame. It was time for them to resume their rights, to exercise their power.

Wherever a Boss could be attacked he was attacked. New ardor was infused into the war with the Philadelphia and Pennsylvania system of corruption, the most time honored example of the union of politics and business to pillage the people. Boss Cox of Cincinnati, the cunningest survivor of the old generation of political traffic managers and tax eaters, was put out of business at last. Odell and Murphy, combining to destroy an honest man who would make no pact with them, were beaten signally. Odell is still intrenched at Albany, but his last ditch cannot be far off. The remains of Murphy are awaiting cleaning day in Tammany Hall.

Boss Gorman, gray old Maryland rat, was yanked out of the cellars and killed. Bosslet Lodge received a handsome testimonial kick in Massachusetts. Even in New Jersey, where the people have not usually been allowed to injure their health by having too much influence in politics, Fagan and Colby point the way to the restoration of popular self-government.

These new triumphs of the people over the bosses are added to those gained last year. A political map of the United States today would show mighty little territory from which the boss has not been driven. And everywhere in the country, outside of the Southern States—and there, too, the new forces are discernable—partisanship is sickly; honesty and independence are the salient qualities of the leaders. President Roosevelt is the President of the whole country, the national representative of these qualities.

Infinitely more important than gigantic material growth or success in war is this great awakening of the American people, this reconquest of self-government, this bitter, nation wide hatred of graft and grafters.

Wicomico County Sunday School Convention.

The Wicomico County Sunday School Convention will be held at Hebron on Saturday and Sunday, Nov 25th and 26th. An excellent program is being prepared, and will be circulated among the schools this week.

Among the topics to be discussed are the following: "What we have reason to expect from this convention." "Does Sunday School work pay?" "How to reach and hold young men in the Sunday School." "Sunday School Problems." "Sunday School Evangelism." "What the pastor expects from the Superintendent." "What the Superintendent expects from the pastor." "Jubilant Voices" will be used by the choir. Every Sunday School in the county is invited to send two delegates each, who will be entertained in the hospitable homes of Hebron. Pastors and Superintendents are delegates by virtue of their office.

"Oh Lord, Oh Lord!"

cried the manufacturer's association, how shall we advertise our business so that we can all get rich like Carnegie and give away libraries? And the Lord came from Chicago to answer them (many people will be surprised to know that he was ever in that wicked city). Mr. D. O. Lord, of the advertising firm of Lord & Lord, who have made many men so rich that they have to stay up nights to count money, addressed the manufacturers association of Philadelphia last week upon advertising as a means to add to wealth. Mr. Lord, who is a millionaire several times over and who looks the part, told the manufacturers to advertise—mostly in newspapers—to make their brands or names well-known, and then to advertise some more. Mr. Lord claimed that the manufacturers of today who were successful had to advertise their goods before they sold them, in order to create a demand among the consumers and then the consumers would compel the merchant to buy and that would keep the merchant busy buying and the manufacturer busy making. If one man spends one thousand dollars a week advertising, all you have to do to knock him out is to spend two thousand advertising still more. That's all right as far as it goes but it don't go far enough in most things. It don't go to the root of the matter, it don't go down for quality, it won't go down for clothes or hats or collars or shirts or anything you wear unless you back the good ad. with good goods. Lacy Thoroughgood does sell some advertised lines of goods but they are the best in the world, for instance John B. Stetson's Hats, Kuppenheimer Clothes, Alfred Benjamins Clothes, Hart, Shaffner & Mark Clothes and a half dozen other good makes. Today Lacy Thoroughgood calls your attention to men's Suits and Overcoats, very different suits and overcoats from what you have been used to seeing. One does not have to be a Solomon to see that Lacy Thoroughgood's goods are much better than any sold in Salisbury. If Mr. Lord could see 'em he'd say so. Come see what you think of 'em

Mr. Bowser's "Mad Dog"

If He Ever Meets One He Will Do the Eminently Fit and Proper Thing.

WILL HYPNOTIZE IT

But He Behaves Very Different When Harmless Canine Strolls Into His Front Yard.

[Copyright, 1905, by R. B. McClure.]
Mr. and Mrs. Bowser sat on the front steps at sundown of a hot evening, and while Bowser smoked his cigar he carelessly glanced over the evening paper. He had been reading for fifteen minutes when he suddenly exclaimed:

"By George, but that man ought to be clubbed for a fool!"
"What is it?" was asked.
"Why, a man in St. Louis was going along the street when a cry of 'Mad dog' was raised. He looked up the street and saw the brute coming, and what did he do but run into a yard where several children were playing, and of course he escaped while they were being bitten. There ought to be a law to take hold of such cases. Ten years in prison would be too little for him."

"I suppose he was rattled by the suddenness of the thing."
"But he had no business to get rattled. If a man hasn't his nerve with

"I shall throw up my hands—so!"
him he should keep off the street. I haven't gone outside the gate in fifteen years without being prepared for the cry of 'Mad dog!' and knowing just what I would do."

"Would you climb a shade tree?"
"What! Do you mean to insult me?"
"I had forgotten how fat you were."
"Another insult! Mrs. Bowser, if you have lost what little sense you had when you were born you'd better hunt up an asylum."
"But it seems to me," she protested, "that most any man would climb a shade tree to get away from a mad dog."

"Probably most any man would, but Lemuel Bowser is not one of the sort. I am glad this subject came up. Now, then, let us suppose a case."

"Yes."
"You read in the papers that on a certain day Pinchom & Stickem are going to put on sale 5,000 pairs of women's stockings at 20 cents a pair—former price 60."

"Well!"
"You sneak out of bed in the night and steal two or three dollars out of my pocket that you may attend this sale."
"I don't do anything of the kind, Mr. Bowser! I never took as much as a penny out of your pocket, and you know it. You talk about my insulting you, but what do you call it when you charge me with being a thief?"

"I was simply making an illustration, though sums of money have disappeared from my pocket in very mysterious ways. We will discuss that part of it later on, however."

"No, we won't! We'll discuss it right here and now! Do you say I ever took money from your pockets?"
"I make no specific charge, Mrs. Bowser. I simply say that I have missed small sums from my pockets at various times. It may be that the rats took it. We will agree that the rats took it. We are now ready to take up the mad dog case again. You get money somehow and start to go down to the sale. You are bound to have at least five pairs of those stockings if you break your legs in the crush around the bargain counter. Providence steps in to prevent you from making a donkey of yourself. In other words, between this house and the corner you hear the shout of 'Mad dog!' What I want to ask you is, 'What course of action would you adopt?'"

"I can't tell."
"You must be able to tell. You must have a course thought out and ready to be acted on."

"Well, I should first scream."
"I don't doubt it."
"Then I should rush into the nearest house."

"And the dog would follow you and perhaps bite half a dozen persons. That would be cowardly selfish."
"Should I climb a tree?"
"You couldn't climb a ladder. You would only show your big feet for nothing."
"If there was a man selling vegetables perhaps I might jump into his wagon," said Mrs. Bowser after mature thought.

"Humph!"
"Well, then, what should I do? What could I do?"
"You should and could make a heroine of yourself. It would be a grand opportunity."

"Oh, I see. Then if you ever meet a mad dog you are going to play the hero?"
"There will be no playing. I shall do a natural and perhaps a brave act, and if the public insists on calling me a hero I shall have to submit to it."

"Well, what is it?"
"On hearing that dreaded cry, Mrs. Bowser—on hearing a cry that has more than once appalled the stoutest heart—I shall come to a halt. I shall locate the animal. If he is coming my way I shall get ready for him. When he is within thirty feet of me, frothing at the mouth and rearing for my destruction, I shall throw up my hands—so. That will attract his attention in an instant. As soon as he begins wondering what he is up against I will fasten my eyes on him. He will stop dead in his tracks. If he don't shy off into the roadway and pass me he will sit down and whine."

"That is, you think he will."
"That is, I know he will. If he sits down I will slowly and gradually approach him, never for the fraction of a second allowing my eyes to wander from him. As I draw nearer he will shiver and shake. When I am within three feet of him he will howl in a lugubrious manner and fully realize that his doom is sealed. I will then take my cane in both hands, like a soldier charging bayonets, and with a mighty jab I shall reach his brain by piercing his eye. It will only remain for the reporters to interview me and for the Humane society to forward its medal and a complimentary letter."

"Mr. Bowser, if you weren't my husband—"
"Look out, now! No further insults!"
"If you heard any other man talking that way you'd call him a conceited ass."

"What! What! What!" he shouted as he jumped up. "Mrs. Bowser, I allow no living person, man or woman, to talk to me in that way. I have told you what I should do in a certain emergency. By what right do you call me names and dispute that I would do it?"

"Because nobody ever heard of a man going through all that performance with a mad dog. You might hold up forty hands and he wouldn't stop. You might look at him with ten eyes, and it would do no good. I should say the proper thing for you to do would be to crawl under a wagon or climb a tree. Shan't we go over to Brady's and get some ice cream?"

"Brady's! Ice cream!" he gasped as he flustered red and white. "You talk to me of Brady's and ice cream after insulting me fifty times over! By the seven bottled cures that gave milk to the children of Moses!"

"Then his feelings overcame him, and he descended the steps and went out to the gate to wonder what he should do. He was standing there in an undecided frame of mind when a big, lubberly dog that was trotting along on the opposite side of the street espied the Bowser cat on the lower step. He was out for game, and he spotted her. He came rushing across the street, and in his impetuous haste he struck Mr. Bowser's legs and brought him down, and at the same instant a hoodlum yelled out 'Mad dog!' The cat went racing around the yard, with the dog a good second, and they had both jumped over Mr. Bowser twice before he could get up. When he did reach his feet he made a rush for the house, taking the steps two for one. Mrs. Bowser sat there, but he saw her not. As soon as he could get inside he shut and locked the door and got to the second story."

The cat climbed a tree, the dog passed on, and ten minutes later the door was unlocked, and Mr. Bowser came down.

"I didn't see you raise your hand to attract his attention nor yet look him in the eye," remarked Mrs. Bowser as demurely as she could.

"Mr. Bowser didn't reply. He didn't notice her. After a brief look around for other mad dogs he marched down the steps, out of the gate and up the street. He wanted her to think that he was going to the nearest saloon to fill up to the chin and then commit four or five cold blooded murders."

Some Auto Maxims For the Wise Ones

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a Pretty Bertha Effect Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4706

Here is a gown for a small girl which is quite as modish and charming as any Dame Fashion has yet created for older people. It consists of a full blouse tucked in yoke effect, a full gathered skirt finished with several broad tucks and a unique bertha effect. The entire dress may be made of one material, depending upon the plaiting of silk edging the bertha to offer contrast, or the blouse may be finished separately and made of any washing fabric or challis. If the latter idea is followed, the model would be excellent for school or general wear developed in a serge having a fine check and with the blouse of a plain color or white, while a nice dress may be made from the same pattern joining the parts in one garment. A soft challis, henrietta or silk may serve as material and prove very fetching. The pattern is not difficult to make and requires four and one-half yards of thirty-six inch material in the medium size. Six sizes, 5 to 12 years.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 4706, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

Patterns For Lady's Surplice Corset Cover and Petticoat by Martha Dean—Nos. 6351 and 6352

Dainty lingerie is always a woman's delight, for in its construction she can realize her utmost love of the beautiful. Underwear nowadays must follow fashion's dictates quite as much as gowns, for so smoothly do skirts fit over the hips and so excellently does the waist follow the lines of the figure that no bulkiness or badly fitting corset cover and petticoat can be permitted. Here is shown a new model for a corset cover. It is one very much liked by well dressed women and quite different from any other. The neck is in V outline and edged with a narrow lace or embroidery. The petticoat is a five-gored one, finished with a flounce, and may be as elaborately adorned as desired. Nainsook, lawn and muslin are suitable materials, and no difficulties will be found in the patterns. The medium size demands five and a quarter yards of thirty-six inch material for the petticoat and one and a quarter yards for the corset cover. Two patterns—No. 6351, six sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust; No. 6352, 22 to 30 inches waist.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 20 cents to this office, give numbers of these patterns, No. 6351 and 6352, and state sizes desired. They will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Or either of the patterns will be sent for 10 cents. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a Small Russian Blouse Suit Designed by Martha Dean—No. 4707

Suits for the little lad are unusually fetching, and here is a suit in brown serge which will please the most particular son of America. The broad sailor collar and front edges are closely stitched, and the narrow cuff is finished in the same manner. A jaunty little pocket appears on the upper left hand side, in which a watch or handkerchief may be carried. A belt of leather or the material girdles the blouse in long waisted effect. The shield may be omitted when desired. The bloomers are full at the waist line and at the lower edge to allow plenty of room for the boy's activities. Serge, cheviot and butcher's linen are suitable fabrics, and two and a half yards of thirty-six inch material are needed for the medium size. Five sizes, 2 to 6 years.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 4707, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

Pattern For a Smart Stitched Blouse Designed by Martha Dean—No. 6363

The latest whim of Mistress Fashion is for stitchery and trimming straps, and both are found here in pleasing combination. This shirt blouse is not only smart, but individual and practical. Broadcloth or silk would fashion it ideally. Buttons appear on all of the new imported models, and they are here serving both use and adornment. The cuff is novel and completes a very graceful sleeve. The tucks of the back afford becoming lines, while those of the front are turned to resemble box plaits. This pattern is easily adaptable to home construction, and the least experienced dressmaker may fashion it with success. Challis in Alice blue would make this blouse one of service, while a burgundy red would also be fetching. The medium size calls for three and three-quarter yards of twenty-seven inch material. Five sizes, 32 to 40 inches bust.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 6363, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON VIII, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, NOV. 19.

Text of the Lesson, Neh. 1, 1-11—Memory Verses, 8, 9—Golden Text, Jer. 17, 16—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1905, by American Press Association.]

In all these Old Testament studies Israel is the center, as she is the center of all God's purposes concerning the whole earth. When He divided the earth among the nations after the deluge He did it with reference to the children of Israel (Gen. x, 25; Deut. xxxii, 8), and some day we shall look back from the gloryland and be surprised to see, as we cannot now, how all God's dealings with the nations in all ages have had some reference to His people Israel, for it is His purpose that Israel shall blossom and bud and all the face of the earth with fruit and that all nations shall go up from year to year to worship the King, the Lord of Hosts, at Jerusalem (Isa. xlvii, 6; Jer. iii, 17, 18; Zech. xiv, 16). All national disputes shall be settled there, and the work of righteousness shall be peace on all the earth, for "the kingdom shall be the Lord's" (Obad. 21).

The time of our lesson is the twentieth year of Artaxerxes (1, 1; 11, 1), or thirteen years after Ezra went up to Jerusalem with his company (Ezra vii, 7). Nehemiah is the king's cupbearer, a Jew at a gentile court, like Joseph, Moses, Daniel or Mordecai, but his heart is with his people at Jerusalem. From certain Jews who had returned from Jerusalem he learned the sad condition of affairs there—that the people were in great affliction and reproach and the wall of the city had never been rebuilt (verse 3). He took it greatly to heart and wept and mourned and fasted before the God of heaven (verse 4), and the burden of our lesson today is his prayer at this time. Another great prayer at another time is recorded in chapter ix, and these and other prayers recorded in Scripture, notably our Lord's prayer in John xvii, are the most helpful of studies if we would learn how to pray.

By comparing 1, 1, and 11, 1, we see that Nehemiah had been praying full three months before his opportunity came to speak to the king. He had the ear of the King of Kings for three months before his time came to make request of Artaxerxes. Doubtless he was always watching for the time to speak and to be ready when it should come. This should be the attitude of every prayerful one—expectant, but patient, not trying to make occasions or opportunities, but trusting God to do that, and then, obedient to I Sam. x, 7, "Do as occasion serve thee, for God is with thee." When the time had fully come he stated the matter frankly and in one breath prayed to God and spoke to the king (11, 4, 5, 8, 1, c.), and his petition was granted according to the good hand of his God upon him. It is beautiful to behold his walk with God, his trust in God, and therefore his fearlessness. "Neither told I man what my God had put in my heart to do," "The God of Heaven, He will prosper us" (11, 12, 13, 20).

The opening verses of our lesson show his oneness of heart with his people at Jerusalem, and when we are in some measure like him and have on our hearts, as he had, the interests and welfare of the people of God we, too, shall see some answers to our prayers.

In verse 5 see his reverent adoration of God and compare Jer. x, 8, 7, 10; xxxii, 17; Ex. xxxiv, 8, 7; Acts iv, 24, and be encouraged to trust more fully the God of heaven and earth, the Living God who giveth us richly all things to enjoy (1 Tim. vi, 17). See how Nehemiah says again and again "My God" and "Our God" (11, 8, 12, 18; iv, 9, 20; vi, 16), reminding us of David's "Our own God" (Ps. lxxvii, 6) and of Thomas' "My Lord and my God" (John xx, 28). Day and night he continued to confess before God the sins of his people, taking his place with them as one of them, excusing nothing, palliating nothing. This is the only way of blessing (Prov. xviii, 13; 1 John i, 9). Turn to Him who actually took our place and suffered our sins to be laid upon Him, who was made sin for us (11 Cor. v, 21; 1 Pet. ii, 24), and, as we see Him doing this in love to our souls, if our whole being does not go out to Him in glad surrender either we do not believe the record and receive Him as our personal Saviour or we only see man as mere walking.

Then in verses 8 and 9 he pleads with God His promises to Moses, he rests on the word of God and pleads God's faithfulness. This also did David in Ps. cxix, 48, "Remember the word unto thy servant, upon which thou hast caused me to hope." God loves to have us remind Him of His word and even calls us His remembrancers (Isa. xliii, 26; xlii, 6, margin). How few in these days seem to remember or to care that He has chosen Jerusalem to put His name there.

Nehemiah is very bold in his pleading and says notwithstanding their sinfulness, "These are Thy servants, Thy people, whom Thou hast redeemed." So pleaded Moses and Daniel (Deut. ix, 29; Dan. ix, 19), and Jeremiah prayed, "O Lord, though our iniquities testify against us, do Thou let Thy name's sake. . . . Thou, O Lord, art in the midst of us, and we are called by Thy name" (Jer. xiv, 7, 9).

Having poured out his soul on behalf of his people, in verse 11 Nehemiah asks a special favor on his own behalf, and yet it was for their sakes as their benefactor. For this special personal favor he patiently waited month after month, though the distress at Jerusalem made it seem as if he needed an immediate answer. Blessed are those who have learned to rest in the Lord and wait patiently for Him (Ps. xxxvii, 7).

All Against the Preacher.
Sydney Smith loved to tell a good story, and one that haunted his brain and tickled his sides for weeks was that of a tame magpie in a church that suddenly descended on the reading desk, and strove to fly off with the sermon and of the desperate struggle that ensued between the bird and the preacher, the congregation all in favor of the bird.

Naturally.
Patient—Well, doctor, do you think I'm getting well all right? Doctor—Oh, yes. You still have a good deal of fever, but that doesn't trouble me. Patient—Of course not. If you had a fever it wouldn't trouble me.—Tales.

The Lost.
When a fellow has discovered that all his loose change has filtered through a hole in his trousers pocket it is nearly impossible to get him to accept the scientific proposition that nothing is ever lost.

Always in Evidence.
"I notice," observed Tufford Faint, "that people don't pay no taxes on the costliest things they's got."
"How's that?" granted Rufus Watts.
"Well, for instance, if you was worth even a million you wouldn't have to pay nothin' on that peach of a nose you've got."—Chicago Tribune.

Interested.

District Meeting of K. of P.

A very interesting district meeting of Pythian District No. 8, was held Thursday afternoon, December 16th, delegates discussing many questions of interest. It seems to be the opinion of the committee of this district that Wednesday, December 27th will be the date best suited for the Grand District meeting. The question of the number of meetings to be held was also under discussion, and probabilities are that two meetings will be held on that date, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. The Grand Chancellor of Maryland, accompanied by the Grand Lodge Officers, will be in attendance.

No. 56, of Salisbury, conferred the rank of Knight of Knights Thursday evening on several candidates; following this refreshments were served.

SEN. BREWINGTON'S VIEWS.

Agrees in The Main With General Seth's Ideas As To Oyster Legislation.

Senator Marion V. Brewington, of Wisconsin, expressed his views on the Haman Oyster law on Wednesday in the following dispatch to the Baltimore News.

Salisbury, Nov. 25. I agree in the main with the views of Gen. Joseph E. Seth—on the Haman oyster bill. Like the General I am in favor of some carefully prepared planting law, one which will not put the bay and its tributaries into the possession of a few corporations. Mr. Haman's rather extreme knowledge as to corporate influences in this bill does not for a moment shut the eyes of the people who are familiar with the conditions.

It is a well known fact that in Virginia it has been almost impossible to protect the State's property against the encroachments of the private planters, and by this method thousands of acres of the very best oyster beds of Virginia have fallen into the hands of the planters who have taken up land adjacent to them. The method is to remove the oysters from the natural beds and plant them on the private property. As a consequence, year by year the natural oyster beds of Virginia are being gobbled up by the large planting companies and the Bay survey widened and widened until it is only a question of a very short time when the grabbers will have the whole industry.

The General makes another good point when he calls attention to the fact that this will be a very expensive experiment from a monetary standpoint to the State, and Mr. Haman acknowledges himself before the packers' association of Baltimore that the returns to the State for road building will be necessarily very small. It is the opinion of people who ought to know that the expenses of the Haman bill will more than eat up the revenue for many years to come.

I am opposed to the bill in its present form, and shall bend every energy at Annapolis this winter to help defeat it. I am, however, willing to take up the question in an honest effort to get the oystermen and the would-be planters together on a compromise measure which will give the State a revenue from planting, provided it is surrounded by the proper safeguards.

M. V. BREWINGTON.

The Bay survey still stands as originally made, although it is claimed that it includes areas which are not natural beds. Mids for resurveys have been offered in the Legislature, but have never been passed.

Charges Against Teacher Dismissed.

The charges recently filed with the Board of School Commissioners against Miss Rebecca Shockley, first assistant teacher in the Pittsville graded school, were dismissed by the Board at their last meeting, after hearing the complainants, represented by attorney Elmer H. Walton, and the defendant, represented by ex-Senator E. Stanley Townsend. In its written opinion the Board said in part: "While we believe the accused has made some errors in an honest discharge of the duties, as first assistant in the Pittsville school, yet from the testimony produced before this Board we also believe the protesting patrons of that particular room, at least those who gave testimony, have fallen into greater error when they not only withhold their support of the accused but, as was shown by the evidence, antagonize her in every possible way calculated to undermine her influence and authority over those committed to her care."

The charges were filed by J. H. Collins, D. H. Parsons, D. W. Hudson, R. S. Wimbrow, E. H. Warren and others, together with the trustees.

A Double Wedding.

A wedding of unusual interest took place at Vienna Tuesday evening of this week, the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Webb being married at the same hour in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church. The ceremony was performed by Right Rev. William Forbes Adams, Bishop of the Diocese, assisted by Rev. Alvin J. Vanderbogart, rector of the church. The wedding music was played by Mrs. E. F. Webb.

The brides were Miss Nancy Alberta Webb, who married Dr. Robert Lawrence Corbell, of Norfolk, Va., and Miss Frances Webb, who married Mr. Don Nelson Higgins, of Vienna.

Miss Nancy Webb's maid of honor was Miss Sarah Corbell, of Norfolk, sister of the groom, Miss Frances Webb's maid of honor was Miss Lydia Belle Houston, of Millboro, Del.

The bridal party entered the church in the following order: Mr. Walter Webb, of Dallas, Texas, and Mr. Clayton Webb, of Vienna, brothers of the bride; Dr. Frederick F. Hicks, of Cambridge, and Mr. James Richard Phillips, of Preston; Miss Sarah Corbell, Miss Nancy Webb, on the arm of her father; Miss Lydia Houston, Miss Frances Webb, with her mother. They were met at the church by the bridegrooms, with their best men—Mr. Sydney Ellis, of Norfolk, Va., and Mr. Fred Grier, of Salisbury.

The church was artistically decorated with evergreens, chrysanthemums and roses, the color scheme being yellow and white. After the wedding a largely attended reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents.

Both brides and grooms came to Salisbury on the 10 o'clock train. They left early the next morning for wedding tours.

Commissioner Brittingham reported the completion and acceptance of the M. E. Hastings new road.

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

A Fine Farm in Worcester Sold This Week—Number of "Lookers" Does Not Diminish.

Mr. G. Ernest Hearn sold this week to Mr. Kitch C. Shockley his two farms about two miles from Snow Hill for $18,150. The farms are those which were devised to Mr. Hearn by the will of his father, Isaac H. Hearn, who died last winter. Mr. Shockley is a prosperous farmer of Indian-town neighborhood, just across the Pocomoke river, from Snow Hill. The farms contain in the neighborhood of 500 acres and are considered among the finest in this section. J. A. Jones, real estate dealer, of Salisbury, conducted the negotiation.

Another piece of Worcester real estate dealt in this week was the E. Clay Conaway farm, near Berlin, bought by Messrs. Oscar M. Purnell and Charles W. Shockley. J. A. Jones & Co. sold to Read Espey, of Pittsburg, Pa., on Wednesday, a house and lot on Jackson street, South Salisbury, and the latter part of last week sold to a Mr. Johnson, from the State of California, 85 acres three miles from Princess Anne for $2,500.

It is difficult to secure reports of land sales hereabouts as competition between the agents is very keen. The number of "lookers" does not diminish however and the market is brisk, with prices good.

A gentleman was in town the early part of the week looking for a large tract upon which he expects to plant peach trees exclusively, and it is thought a sale will be made to him in the vicinity of Salisbury. This man expects to put out from 500 to 1000 acres in peaches, it was understood. Another large sale in prospect is to a colony of Westerners, who are looking for 1000 to 2000 acres.

The deeds recorded at the Clerk of Court's office during the past week were as follows:

Geo. A. Bounds and wife to David H. Baker, lot in Hebron, $500.
R. Ella White and husband to Samuel J. West, ten and one half acres in Pittsburg district, $175.
Horace B. James and wife to Albert H. Hearn lot in Delmar, $675.
Annie K. Revell and others to Lemuel M. Cannon, lot in Camden district, $5.
Merrill Morris and wife to Mary D. Powell, two lots in South Salisbury, $300.
Ebenezer Carey and wife to Alice J. Wood, 182 acres in Nutters district, $2,300.
Agnes K. Taylor and husband to Ava R. Hastings, 8 acres in Fruitland, $1500.
Jonathan A. Bethards and others to King W. Bethards, 90 acres in Barren Creek district, $600.
Daniel B. Cannon and wife to Olevia C. Oliphant, lot in Camden, Salisbury, $5.
John H. Farlow to Mary Jane Jones, 19 acres in Pittsburg district, $500.
William H. Darby to A. Knox Salloway, 17 acres in Barren Creek district, $190.
Alice J. Wood to Annie D. Graves, 132 acres in Nutters district, $2,300.
Harvey P. Elzey and wife to Lloyd U. Watson and Floy T. Watson, 2 parcels in "Cranberry Hog" property, Salisbury, $500.

Truitt—Brittingham.

The wedding of Miss Bertha Brittingham and Mr. Harry Truitt, of Pittsville, was solemnized last Wednesday evening at seven o'clock in the Line M. E. Church. The church was beautifully decorated in honor of the occasion. The bridesmaids were Misses Etha Truitt, Mae Bowden, Rosa Truitt and Romie Riggins. The groomsmen were Messrs. Willie Brittingham, Southey Truitt, Lloyd Melson, and Arthur White.

The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white silk and carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations. The groom wore the conventional black. They marched to the altar to the strains of Lohengrin, rendered by Miss Marian Davis. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Hardesty, of Whitesville. A reception followed immediately at the home of the grooms parents. The young couple received many useful and handsome presents.

Insurance Commissioner Not Elected.

When the Board of Public Works met at Annapolis Thursday afternoon Governor Warfield and State Comptroller Gordon T. Atkinson split over the selection of a State Insurance Commissioner to succeed Judge Frank I. Duncan. By declining either to make a nomination of his own or to vote for either of the persons nominated by his colleagues, State Treasurer Murray Vandiver succeeded in securing the postponement of the whole matter. The name presented by the Governor was that of Mr. Joseph M. Streett, of Harford county, while Dr. Atkinson named Mr. B. Frank Crouse, of Carroll county. Each nominee received the vote of his backer, and the board, being thus deadlocked by the noncommittal attitude of Mr. Vandiver was forced to adjourn without action.

It is the evident purpose of Mr. Vandiver to avoid, if possible, voting on the Insurance Commissionership until after his expected re-election as State Treasurer in the belief that to do so before that time might injure his chances.

White Woman Assaulted By Colored Man.

John Henry, colored, aged 37 years, is in jail at Snow Hill, charged with attempted felonious assaults on Mrs. Fred. Selby, of Berlin.

Mrs. Selby says that Tuesday evening, between 7 and 8 o'clock, she was returning to her home after making some purchases at one of the stores in Berlin, and as she was passing a dark corner near the edge of the town she was seized by the shoulders and thrown to the ground and then dragged across the street and choked, all the time making a desperate struggle and screaming loudly.

Some children heard the cries and gave the alarm. Thomas Jarvis responded, but at that time Mrs. Selby's assailant had been frightened away. Henry was arrested upon Mrs. Selby's description and was identified by her. He claims an alibi. There is intense indignation throughout the county and lynching is threatened.

The November report from the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Agriculture fixes with practical certainty that the corn crop of this year will break all previous records both in the largeness of yield and in the general average quality of the grain.

There are so many shade trees in Ridgely that the falling of the leaves makes a great difference in the appearance of the town. The second and third stories of most of the houses are now visible for the first time since the spring and the streets seem entirely changed.

The Commissioners of Eastern have placed in the business section of the town a number of garbage receivers, into which all paper and garbage must be deposited, instead of throwing it promiscuously upon the streets. The Commissioners are determined to make Eastern a cleaner, and more healthy town.

The Cambridge Manufacturing Co has received from the Commissioners of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition a handsome diploma issued to set forth the fact that the company was awarded a gold medal for its flour, meal and hominy. A beautiful registered gold medal will be sent to them later.

A fire which was discovered about three o'clock Thursday morning destroyed the interior of the hotel of M. W. Landing on Willow Street, Pocomoke City. The fire, which at one time threatened to be a serious conflagration was confined to the building, the interior of which was gutted by the flames. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The opinion is freely expressed by prominent grain buyers in the large cities that corn and wheat will soon be selling at much higher prices. Mr. G. E. Marcy, of Chicago, a representative of Armour & Co., was on the floor of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce Friday. He met a number of the members who were interested in his views on the cereal market. In his conversation with the different members Mr. Marcy said that he thought wheat this season would reach $1 a bushel and corn 60 cents a bushel.

Master Dewey Kirby accidentally shot himself on Wednesday at the home of Mr. Jack Jester, in Queen Anne's, near Chestertown. The boy was about seven years of age and had been left in a room by himself for a short time. Hearing the report of a gun the older persons hastened in the room and to their horror saw young Kirby lying on the floor dead. The load had entered his head just between the eyes and had killed him instantly. The gun had been left loaded in the room sitting in a corner, and how the little fellow shot himself is not known.

At Crisfield A. B. Riggins has a farm containing over 30,000 diamond-back terrapins. They are fed on mashed hard crab meat at low tide, and the scene is highly interesting. The sluggish reptile suddenly awakes to activity and does surprising stunts in the way of fighting for food, which it devours with great rapidity. The pond is a small bay of Tangier Sound, and is enclosed in a stout board fence, with wire screens to let the tide flow in and out. The propagation of the diamond-back terrapin is not very rapid. The females lay from 10 to 20 eggs in a season, but as it is the hen terrapin which is the favorite of epicures, it does not have a fair chance to breed.

A massive monument of granite 41 feet high, has been erected to the memory of the late Governor Lloyd Lowndes in Rose Hill Cemetery, Cumberland. Thirteen horses were needed to transport this base for the shaft.

Hon. W. Laird Henry, of Cambridge, was taken ill Saturday evening by what developed into a sudden and dangerous attack of appendicitis. He was at once carried to the Cambridge hospital by Dr. Brice Goldsborough, his attending physician. Dr. Cullen, of Baltimore, was summoned by telegraph and immediately upon arrival performed the surgical operation he deemed necessary. The operation is pronounced to have been entirely successful and Mr. Henry is doing well, with every hope of final recovery.

"The old-time drummer who worked all day and caroused with his customers at night, making his firm foot the bills is rapidly disappearing from the ranks of commercial travelers," said a veteran road salesman at one of the hotels Monday night. "Business houses no longer employ men whose habits are known to be unsteady. The old man has a way of scrutinizing expense accounts that sends a chill along the spine of a giddy salesman. No longer will 'sundries' cover up a drinking bee. On the contrary, the travelling men of the country have begun a reform work of their own. Four years ago two Christian drummers organized the Gideon Band. To-day 5,000 Gideons are traveling all over the country and doing missionary work among their customers. They attend religious services and participate in religious movements wherever they go.

Governor Warfield has issued a pardon for John Tharp, who was convicted in the Circuit Court for Queen Anne's county on the charge of arson and sentenced to the penitentiary for twelve years. This case has been before Governor Warfield for more than a year, and in order to ascertain the facts in the matter he referred it to a committee of citizens of Queen Anne's county for investigation. This committee—Messrs. W. Scott Roberts, John E. George, J. H. C. Lege and Philomath B. Hopper—indorsed the application for clemency, as did also Jas. E. Thompson, who was the prosecuting witness in the case. Tharp was convicted on purely circumstantial evidence and has also protested his innocence. The pardon for Tharp was handed to his son, who left immediately for Baltimore to take his father home. The prisoner is about sixty years old.

To Stop Taxation Of B. C. & A.

Samuel Bancroft, Jr., of Delaware, instituted suit in the United States Circuit Court, Baltimore, on Tuesday, to restrain the County Commissioners of Talbot county from taxing any of the property, rights or franchises of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company in that county and which are embraced in a deed of trust dated September 1, 1894, from the railway company to the Atlantic Trust Company, trustee, to secure an issue of bonds. The bill of complaint, filed by Nicholas P. Bond, attorney, states that Mr. Bancroft holds 20 of the 1,250 bonds of $1,000 each, secured by the mortgage. It is claimed the property of the railway company is exempt from taxation, and that this act is a contract which may not be impaired.

No attempt was made to tax the property of the railway. It is stated in the bill, until February 14, 1898, when the Mayor and City Council of Ocean City, Md., instituted suit to collect from 1892 to 1899. This suit was decided against the railway company by the lower court and by the Court of Appeals. It was taken by the railway company to the Supreme Court of the United States, which dismissed the appeal in December, 1900, on technical grounds.

A bill of complaint also states that in 1904, in a similar suit of Mr. Bancroft against the County Commissioners of Wicomico county, Judge Morris decided that the railway company is exempt from taxation in Wicomico county. This decision of Judge Morris was upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit—Baltimore Sun.

"Dora Thorne".

One of the most important announcements of the current season in the dramatic field of popular priced amusements is the dramatization of "Dora Thorne," Bertha M. Clay's novel of international fame. "Dora Thorne" is one of the most successful novels of its kind that was ever written. Time only increases its value, and enhances its popularity proving more than all else its useful work in the literary world. Messrs Rowland and Clifford, the well known and popular amusement caterers, will place this play before the public with a remarkable cast of players and beautiful scenic equipment; every care and attention will be given to make this production prize-worthy in all respects. All who read the novel and those who have not cannot help but feel refreshed and benefitted by this wholesome play.

What's In McClure's.

One function of the up-to-date magazine is to reflect the moving spirits of the time, and this is the striking thing about the December McClure's. As befits a holiday number, it is filled with good, strong fiction; there is a Jack London story, one of his best, and six other short stories; but first in importance are the contributions of William Allen White, Ray Stannard Baker and the Rev. Charles D. Williams. William Allen White who, as a judge of public men has become almost the national oracle, cool, incisive, unerring, fixes the place of folk in national affairs. He tells of his great accomplishments in Missouri, measures the man, and finally shows that he's not big enough yet for Presidential timber.

"Railroad Rebates" is Ray Stannard Baker's second paper on the Railroad Question. He explains what rebates are, how they are paid, who pays them and how they affect industry; illustrating the whole process by specific instances, little human stories picked up from railroad men and shippers, the gainers and the sufferers by the system.

Jack London's "Love of Life" is a harrowing tale of human endurance, pitting against nature and against each other a starving man and a starving wolf. Blumenschein has illustrated it wonderfully, in color. In contrast to this tale of primitive strength is a delicate, fanciful Irish folk tale full of the nimble wit of the race in which Herminie Templeton introduces again DARBY O'GILL, and the King of the Fairies. Then there is the "Courtship of the Bog," the heart-history of a rugged, an amusing and true story; "The Deepwater Debate," a wholesome little tale of the excitement and the love-making of an old home town and stories by Jean Webster and Adeline Knapp.

Editorially appears a character sketch of Charles Evans Hughes who has been lifting the lid from insurance in New York, and a critical estimate of Christianity in practice. "The Final Test of Christianity," by the Rev. Charles D. Williams.

In Memoriam.

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear father, Minos E. Brown, who fell dead in his yard on November 23d, 1904.

Farewell, dear father; vas farewell, How we miss thee our tongues cannot tell.

What a sad, bitter day we shall long remember, When we found you dead on the twenty-third of November.

Dear father thou hast left us And the days seem long and sad, Since you were taken from us.

Although twelve months have passed, If you could have only called us; If we could have seen you fall, It would not have been so hard For you to leave us all.

Dearest father he has left us And our loss we deeply feel, But 'tis God who has bereft us, He can all our sorrows heal.

Yet again we hope to meet thee, When the day of life has fled, When in Heaven with joy to greet thee Where no farewell tear is shed.

He is gone, but not forgotten And no more we'll hear his call Till we meet him in Heaven above, In that far sweet land where all is love.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON IX, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, NOV. 25.

Text of the Lesson, I Cor. x, 22-25. Memory Verses, 31-32—Golden Text, I Cor. x, 12—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1905, by American Press Association.]

We must not allow any topic, however important, to take our thoughts from the topic of the whole epistle and of the whole Bible, the salvation of Jehovah, and the Lord Jesus Christ Himself, that salvation. It is always most important and helpful to notice the beginning and the ending of the whole book or any portion of it, and that again is suggestive of Him who says, "I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord" (Rev. i, 8). The epistles generally begin and end with "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ," a definition of which is found in II Cor. viii, 9, but it brings before us the beginning, continuance and consummation of our salvation (Rom. iii, 24; v, 2; I Pet. i, 13). The return of Christ to complete our personal salvation, the redemption of the body, and to bring salvation to all Israel and all nations is seen in chapters i, 7, 8; xvi, 22, and all through the epistle, and nothing will deliver from the drunken or any other form of the self life like this blessed purifying hope.

A book or epistle is often divided into sections, and the divisions of this epistle are easily recognized by the words "Now concerning" or "Now as touching" (vii, 1; viii, 1; xii, 1; xvi, 1). Our lesson is in the section concerning things offered unto idols, and suggests the devil and demons and not God (verses 19-21; Deut. xxiii, 17; Ps. civ, 36, 37). Chapter viii, 6, is a very helpful word covering the whole life of the believer—one God, the Father, and one Lord, Jesus Christ, of whom and by whom are all things. Then in our lesson (x, 31), "Whether therefore ye eat or drink or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God," acts before us all that is required of us. But, oh, it means so much, this whole hearted denial of self and living unto God! Discipleship is very costly, and therefore among all Christians there are few who are willing to be always delivered unto death for Jesus' sake that the life of Jesus may be made manifest in our bodies (II Cor. iv, 11).

There are many things lawful, not sinful, to the believer which are neither expedient nor edifying. A redeemed person has been purchased by the precious blood of Christ that he may be the Lord's own possession, set apart for Himself, henceforth living unto Him who died for him and rose again (Tit. ii, 14, R. V.; Ps. iv, 3; II Cor. v, 15), and the great question is not, Can I do this or that without harm to my spiritual life? but rather, Will it please the Lord, and will it magnify Him in the sight of others? In chapter ix, 12, the writer says, "We suffer all things lest we should hinder the gospel of Christ," his aim being "by all means to save some," and so to deny himself that his own life and service should not be disapproved (ix, 22-27). The Israelites who conformed to the ways of the ungodly about them and were cut off for their sins are referred to as examples of God's hatred of sin, and we are warned not to live selfishly, as they did, assured that, while all are tempted, God, who is faithful, will never suffer His own to be tried too much or too long, but will invariably deliver. It is not for us to be ever inquiring of others, Is this unto God or the devil? Nor are we to judge others, for even the Son of Man came not to judge, but with clean hands and a pure heart walk before and with God, and let the King of Glory fill the house, "For the earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof" (Ps. xxiv). We can mingle with people, eat in their homes, seek their welfare, conform in a measure to their ways without criticism or fault finding, provided we are not seeking profit for ourselves, but the profit of many, that they may be saved, and in all things that God may be glorified (verses 31, 33). When our hearts are right with God, we will ever remember the Lord Jesus and consider Him, and He, dwelling in our hearts, by faith will live His life in us to the glory of God and the good of all men.

Oh, how little of Christ there is in many who bear His name! He never pleased Himself, He never sought His own will nor His own glory. He did always those things that pleased the Father. He gave Himself to suffer in our stead what no tongue can tell that we might be saved. The only salvation for sinners is in Christ, and when He is truly received, and the life surrendered to Him, then we will not live to please ourselves nor think of ever judging others, but judge this rather that no man put a stumbling block or an occasion to fall in his brother's way, for every one of us shall give account of himself to God (Rom. xiv, 12, 13). On the line of offenses we must seek two things—never be an offense to others, and never be offended with our blessed Lord because of anything He does or permits to be done (John xvi, 1; Luke vii, 23).

There is in verse 32 a threefold division of people recognized throughout the New Testament, and the one must not be confounded with the other. The church is never called Israel, for Israel is a nation with a land, while the church is an elect company gathered out of all nations, having no special portion of earth, but destined to reign with Christ over the whole earth (Rev. v, 9, 10), when all nations shall be blessed through Israel. If we take the marginal or revised version, Greeks instead of gentiles, then we are called back to chapter i, 22-24.

Nearly all surnames originally had a meaning. They were descriptive of their owners. In a word, they were nicknames, like "Skinny" or "Short" or "Pud." Peel is a surname that shows the original Peel to have been bald. Grace means fat, from the French "gras." Grant, from "grand," means big. An Oliphant should be a clumsy and unwieldy person. This surname was "elephant" originally. The Parkers were keepers of noble men's parks. The Warners were warreners, or rabbit tenders. The Barkers prepared bark for tanning. The Lebochers were butchers. Bell meant handsome. Cameron meant crook nosed. Curtis meant polite. And Forster meant a forerunner. Napier a servant in charge of the table. Palmer a pilgrim. Walwright a wagon builder. Walter a wall builder. Webster a weaver. Wright a carpenter. —Philadelphia Bulletin.

Substitutes For Tobacco.

Sailors on long cruises sometimes exhaust their tobacco. Thence untold misery and many ingenious efforts to create a tobacco substitute. Tea and coffee make the best tobacco substitutes. They smoke freely in pipe or cigarette, and their taste and aroma are not unpleasant. But they burn the mouth and rack the nerves. Rope yarn—the untwisted parts of rope and oakum—is smoked by sailors as a last resort. Bark, peeled from the hoops of salt beef and pork barrels, is also smoked when the limit is reached. These things smoke abominably, and the black fumes that they give forth from the sailors' mouths are always accompanied by oaths and imprecations. Yet many a desperate sailor has smoked them in the hope of appeasing his tobacco hunger.

St. Maurice.

St. Maurice, in Switzerland, is the name of a little station on the railway that leads up the Rhens valley from the lake of Geneva. The place gets its name as follows: Maurice was the officer second in command of the Thebale legion, which the Emperor Maximian marched over the Alps in A. D. 302 to quell a rising in Gaul. At Octodurum (Martigny) the legion, every man of which was a Christian, was ordered to sacrifice to the Roman gods for the success of the expedition. Headed by Maurice, they refused, marched off to Agaunum (St. Maurice) and there were twice decimated to enforce submission. But they still refused, and finally the remainder were surrounded and cut down by the rest of the army.

Automatic Cooking Boxes.

Automatic cooking boxes were in general use among the Hebrews nearly 2,000 years ago. The Greek and Roman writers frequently refer to them. In his edition of "Juvenile," for example, Friedlander cites a commentator, who refers to "the Jews who a day before the Sabbath put their vials hot into the cooking boxes, the pots being covered with napkins and wrapped about with hay, so that they may have warm food on the Sabbath."

"Why he doth still make love to me; I always tell him 'No!'"

To whom a cynic friend replied
"Or was she merely wise?"
"You tell him 'No!'" Therein, perhaps, the explanation lies!

"He likes the little game, no doubt. But likes to play it when there is no danger. Try a 'Yes!'"
"He'd be discouraged then!"

A Life of Passion.

In Lord Byron's letters he tells how he once had a visit from "a Mr. Coolidge of Boston, a very pretty lad, only somewhat too full of poetry and 'enthusiasm.'" Byron says: "I was very civil to him during his few hours' stay and talked with him much of Irving, whose writings are my delight. But I suspect he did not take quite so much to me, from his having expected to meet a misanthropical gentleman in wolfskin breeches and answering in fierce monosyllables instead of a man of this world. I can never get people to understand that poetry is the expression of excited passion and that there is no such thing as a life of passion any more than a continuous earthquake or an eternal fever. Besides, who would ever shave themselves in such a state?"

ONE CERTAINTY.

Some Salisbury People Fully Believe It Now.

When the back aches from kidney life. When urinary troubles annoy you. There's a certain way to find relief. A sure way to be cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do it.

Salisbury people endorse this claim. J. C. Coulbourn, farmer, living two miles South of Salisbury, says: "My first attack of kidney trouble was felt about four years ago. At that time I was laid up for three weeks. I recovered from it but later on had two more similar attacks and since then there has been no time when I could say that I was wholly free from the distressing pain across the back. I doctored a great deal and I believe tried every known remedy on the market which was recommended to me which came to my notice from reading but all failed to cure me. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I concluded to try them and procured a box at White & Leonard's drug store. I have used several boxes and can say that they have given me the greatest benefit."

Caution

This is not a ventile word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boecher's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. At all druggists.

Copies of the book can be obtained from Chas. L. Hopkins, District Passenger Agent, Southern Railway, 828 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Workmen have completed the interior decoration of the First National Bank of Snow Hill. The walls have been tastefully painted and decorated to harmonize with the delicate tints of the metal ceiling.

The November report from the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Agriculture, gives with practical certainty that the corn crop of this year will break all previous records both in the largeness of yield and in the general average quality of the grain.

There are so many shade trees in Ridgely that the falling of the leaves makes a great difference in the appearance of the town. The second and third stories of most of the houses are now visible for the first time since the spring and the streets seem entirely changed.

The Commissioners of Eastern have placed in the business section of the town a number of garbage receivers, into which all paper and garbage must be deposited, instead of throwing it promiscuously upon the streets. The Commissioners are determined to make Eastern a cleaner and more healthy town.

The Cambridge Manufacturing Co. has received from the Commissioners of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition a handsome diploma issued to set forth the fact that the company was awarded a gold medal for its flour, meal and hominy. A beautiful registered gold medal will be sent to them later.

A fire which was discovered about three o'clock Thursday morning destroyed the interior of the hotel of M. W. Landing on Willow Street, Pocomoke City. The fire, which at one time threatened to be a serious conflagration, was confined to the building, the interior of which was gutted by the flames. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The opinion is freely expressed by prominent grain buyers in the large cities that corn and wheat will soon be selling at much higher prices. Mr. G. E. Marcy, of Chicago, a representative of Armour & Co., was on the floor of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce Friday. He met a number of the members who were interested in his views on the cereal market. In his conversation with the different members Mr. Marcy said that he thought wheat this season would reach $1 a bushel and corn 60 cents a bushel.

Master Dewey Kirby accidentally shot himself on Wednesday at the home of Mr. Jack Jester, in Queen Anne's, near Centertown. The boy was about seven years of age and had been left in a room by himself for a short time. Hearing the report of a gun the older persons hastened in the room and to their horror saw young Kirby lying on the floor dead. The load had entered his head just between the eyes and had killed him instantly. The gun had been left loaded in the room sitting in a corner, and how the little fellow shot himself is not known.

At Crisfield A. B. Riggins has a farm containing over 30,000 diamond-back terrapins. They are fed on mashed hard crab meat at low tide, and the scene is highly interesting. The sluggish reptile suddenly awakes to activity and does surprising stunts in the way of fighting for food, which it devours with great rapidity. The pond is a small bay of Tangier Sound, and is enclosed in a stout board fence, with wire screens to let the tide flow in and out. The propagation of the diamond-back terrapin is not very rapid. The females lay from 10 to 20 eggs in a season, but as it is the hen terrapin which is the favorite of epicures, it does not have a fair chance to breed.

He was at once carried to the Cambridge hospital by Dr. Bruce Goldsborough, his attending physician. Dr. Cullen, of Baltimore, was summoned by telegraph and immediately upon arrival performed the surgical operation he deemed necessary. The operation is pronounced to have been entirely successful and Mr. Henry is doing well, with every hope of final recovery.

"The old-time drummer who worked all day and caroused with his customers at night, making his firm foot the bills is rapidly disappearing from the ranks of commercial travelers," said a veteran road salesman at one of the hotels Monday night. "Business houses no longer employ men whose habits are known to be unsteady. The 'old man' has a way of scrutinizing expense accounts that sends a chill along the spine of a giddy salesman. No longer will 'sundries' cover up a drinking bee. On the contrary, the travelling men of the country have begun a reform work of their own. Four years ago two Christian drummers organized the Gideon Band. To-day 5,000 Gideons are traveling all over the country and doing missionary work among their customers. They attend religious services and participate in religious movements wherever they go."

Governor Warfield has issued a pardon for John Sharp, who was convicted in the Circuit Court for Queen Anne's county on the charge of arson and sentenced to the penitentiary for twelve years. This case has been before Governor Warfield for more than a year, and in order to ascertain the facts in the matter he referred it to a committee of citizens of Queen Anne's county for investigation. This committee—Messrs. W. Scott Roberts, John E. George, J. H. C. Legg and Philemon B. Hopper—indorsed the application for clemency, as did also Jas. E. Thompson, who was the prosecuting witness in the case. Sharp was convicted on purely circumstantial evidence and has also protested his innocence. The pardon for Sharp was handed to his son, who left immediately for Baltimore to take his father home. The prisoner is about sixty years old.

To Stop Taxation of B. C. & A.

Samuel Bancroft, Jr., of Delaware, instituted suit in the United States Circuit Court, Baltimore, on Tuesday, to restrain the County Commissioners of Talbot county from taxing any of the property, rights or franchises of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company in that county and which are embraced in a deed of trust dated September 1, 1894, from the railway company to the Atlantic Trust Company, trustee, to secure an issue of bonds. The bill of complaint, filed by Nicholas P. Bond, attorney, states that Mr. Bancroft holds 20 of the 1,250 bonds of $1,000 each, secured by the mortgage. It is claimed the property of the railway company is exempt from taxation, and that this act is a contract which may not be impaired.

No attempt was made to tax the property of the railway, it is stated in the bill, until February 14, 1898, when the Mayor and City Council of Ocean City, Md., instituted suit to collect from 1892 to 1899. This suit was decided against the railway company by the lower court and by the Court of Appeals. It was taken by the railway company to the Supreme Court of the United States, which dismissed the appeal in December, 1900, on technical grounds.

A bill of complaint also states that in 1904, in a similar suit of Mr. Bancroft against the County Commissioners of Wicomico county, Judge Morris decided that the railway company is exempt from taxation in Wicomico county. This decision of Judge Morris was upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit—Baltimore Sun.

What's in McClure's.

One function of the up-to-date magazine is to reflect the moving spirit of the time, and this is the striking thing about the December McClure's. As befits a holiday number, it is filled with good, strong fiction; there is a Jack London story, one of his best, and six other short stories; but first in importance are the contributions of William Allen White, Ray Stannard Baker and the Rev. Charles D. Williams. William Allen White who, as a judge of public men has become almost the national oracle, cool, incisive, unerring, fixes the place of folk in national affairs. He tells of his great accomplishments in Missouri, measures the man, and finally shows that he's not big enough yet for Presidential timber. "Railroad Rebates" is Ray Stannard Baker's second paper on the Railroad Question. He explains what rebates are, how they are paid, who pays them and how they affect industry; illustrating the whole process by specific instances, little human stories picked up from railroad men and shippers, the gainers and the sufferers by the system.

Jack London's "Love of Life" is a harrowing tale of human endurance, pitting against nature and against each other a starving man and a starving wolf. Blumenschein has illustrated it wonderfully, in color. In contrast to this tale of primitive strength is a delicate, fanciful Irish folk tale full of the nimble wit of the race in which Herminie Templeton introduces again DARBY O'GILL, and the King of the Faries. Then there is the "Courtship of the Bona," the heart-history of a singer, an amusing and true story; "The Deepwater Debate," a wholesome little tale of the excitements and the love-making of an old home town and stories by Jean Webster and Adeline Knapp.

Editorially appears a character sketch of Charles Evans Hughes who has been lifting the lid from insurance in New York, and a critical estimate of Christianity in practice. "The Final Test of Christianity," by the Rev. Charles D. Williams.

In Memoriam.

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear father, Mimos B. Brown, who fell dead in his yard on November 23d, 1904.

Farwell, dear father; yes farwell, How we miss thee our tongues cannot tell.

What a sad, bitter day we shall long remember, When we found you dead on the twenty-third of November.

Dear father thou hast left us, And the days seem long and sad, Since you were taken from us.

Although twelve months have passed, If you could have only called us; If we could have seen you fall, It would not have been so hard.

For you to leave us all, Dearest father he has left us, And our loss we deeply feel, But 'tis God who has bereft us, He can all our sorrows heal.

Yet again we hope to meet thee, When the day of life has fled, When in Heaven with joy to greet thee Where no farewell tear is shed.

He is gone, but not forgotten, And no more we'll hear his call, Till we meet him in Heaven above, In that far sweet land where all is love.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON IX, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, NOV. 26.

Text of the Lesson, I Cor. x, 23-25. Memory Verses, 31-33—Golden Text, I Cor. x, 13—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

(Copyright, 1905, by American Free Association.) We must not allow any topic, however important, to take our thoughts from the topic of the whole epistle and of the whole Bible, the salvation of Jehovah, and the Lord Jesus Christ Himself, that salvation. It is always most important and helpful to notice the beginning and the ending of the whole book or any portion of it, and that again is suggestive of Him who says, "I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord" (Rev. i, 8). The epistles generally begin and end with "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ," a definition of which is found in II Cor. viii, 9, but it brings before us the beginning, continuance and consummation of our salvation (Rom. iii, 24; v, 2; I Pet. i, 13). The return of Christ to complete our personal salvation, the redemption of the body, and to bring salvation to all Israel and all nations is seen in chapters i, 7, 8; xvi, 22, and all through the epistle, and nothing will deliver from the drunken or any other form of the self life like this blessed purifying hope.

A book or epistle is often divided into sections, and the divisions of this epistle are easily recognized by the words "Now concerning" or "Now as touching" (vii, 1; viii, 1; xii, 1; xvi, 1). Our lesson is in the section concerning things offered unto idols, and idols suggest the devil and demons and not God (verses 19-21; Deut. xxxii, 17; Ps. cv, 26, 37). Chapter viii, 8, is a very helpful word covering the whole life of the believer—Jesus God, the Father, and one Lord, Jesus Christ, of whom and by whom are all things. Then in our lesson (x, 31), "Whether therefore ye eat or drink or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God," acts before us all that is required of us. But, oh, it means so much, this whole hearted denial of self and living unto God! Discipleship is very costly, and therefore among all Christians there are few who are willing to be always delivered unto death for Jesus' sake that the life of Jesus may be made manifest in our bodies (II Cor. iv, 11).

There are many things lawful, not sinful, to the believer which are neither expedient nor edifying. A redeemed person has been purchased by the precious blood of Christ that he may be the Lord's own possession, set apart for Himself, henceforth living unto Him who died for him and rose again (Tit. ii, 14; R. V.; Ps. iv, 8; II Cor. v, 15), and the great question is not, Can I do this or that without harm to my spiritual life? but rather, Will it please the Lord, and will it magnify Him in the sight of others? In chapter ix, 12, the writer says, "We suffer all things lest we should hinder the gospel of Christ," his aim being "by all means to save some," and so to deny himself that his own life and service should not be disapproved (ix, 22-27). The Israelites who conformed to the ways of the ungodly about them and were cut off for their sins are referred to as examples of God's hatred of sin, and we are warned not to live selfishly, as they did, assured that, while all are tempted, God, who is faithful, will never suffer His own to be tried too much or too long, but will invariably deliver. It is not for us to be ever inquiring of others, Is this unto God or the devil? Nor are we to judge others, for even the Son of Man came not to judge, but with clean hands and a pure heart walk before and with God, and let the King of Glory fill the house. "For the earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof" (Ps. xxiv). We can mingle with people, eat in their homes, seek their welfare, conform in a measure to their ways without criticism or fault finding, provided we are not seeking profit for ourselves, but the profit of many, that they may be saved, and in all things that God may be glorified (verses 31, 33). When our hearts are right with God, we will ever remember the Lord Jesus and consider Him, and He, dwelling in our hearts, by faith will live His life in us to the glory of God and the good of all men.

Oh, how little of Christ there is in many who bear His name! He never pleased Himself. He never sought His own will nor His own glory. He did always those things that pleased the Father. He gave Himself to suffer in our stead what no tongue can tell that we might be saved. The only salvation for sinners is in Christ, and when He is truly received, and the life surrendered to Him, then we will not live to please ourselves nor think of ever judging others, but judge this rather that no man put a stumbling block or an occasion to fall in his brother's way, for every one of us shall give account of himself to God (Rom. xiv, 12, 13). On the line of offenses we must seek two things—never be an offense to others, and never be offended with our blessed Lord because of anything He does or permits to be done (John xvi, 1; Luke vii, 23).

There is in verse 32 a threefold division of people recognized throughout the New Testament, and the one must not be confounded with the other. The church is never called Israel, for Israel is a nation with a land, while the church is an elect company gathered out of all nations, having no special portion of earth, but destined to reign with Christ over the whole earth (Rev. v, 9, 10), when all nations shall be blessed through Israel. If we take the marginal or revised version, Greeks instead of gentiles, then we are carried back to chapter i, 22-24.

Meaning of Surnames.
Nearly all surnames originally had a meaning. They were descriptive of their owners. In a word, they were nicknames, like "Skinny" or "Shorty" or "Pud."

Peel is a surname that shows the original Peel to have been bald. Grace means fat, from the French "gras." Grant, from "grand," means big. An Oliphant should be a clumsy and unwieldy person. This surname was "elephant" originally.

The Parkers were keepers of nobleman's parks. The Warners were warreners, or rabbit tenders. The Barkers prepared bark for tanning. The Laboucheres were butchers.

Bell meant handsome. Cameton meant crook nosed. Curtis meant polite. And Forster meant a forester, Napier a servant in charge of the table linen. Palmer a pilgrim, Walwright a wagon builder, Walter a wall builder, Webster a weaver, Wright a carpenter. —Philadelphia Bulletin.

Substitutes For Tobacco.
Sailors on long cruises sometimes exhaust their tobacco. Thence untold misery and many ingenious efforts to create a tobacco substitute. Tea and coffee make the best tobacco substitutes. They smoke freely in pipe or cigarettes, and their taste and aroma are not unpleasant. But they burn the mouth and rack the nerves. Rope yarn—the untwisted parts of rope and oakum—is smoked by sailors as a last resort. Bark, peeled from the hoops of salt beef and pork barrels, is also smoked when the limit is reached. These things smoke abominably, and the black fumes that they give forth from the sailors' mouths are always accompanied by oaths and imprecations. Yet many a desperate sailor has smoked them in the hope of appeasing his tobacco hunger.

St. Maurice.
St. Maurice, in Switzerland, is the name of a little station on the railway that leads up the Rhone valley from the lake of Geneva. The place gets its name as follows: Maurice was the officer second in command of the Theban legion, which the Emperor Maximian marched over the Alps in A. D. 302 to quell a rising in Gaul. At Octodurum (Martigny) the legion, every man of which was a Christian, was ordered to sacrifice to the Roman gods for the success of the expedition. Headed by Maurice, they refused, marched off to Agaunum (St. Maurice) and there were twice determined to enforce submission. But they still refused, and finally the remainder were surrounded and cut down by the rest of the army.

Automatic Cooking Boxes.
Automatic cooking boxes were in general use among the Hebrews nearly 3,000 years ago. The Greek and Roman writers frequently refer to them. In his edition of "Juvenile," for example, Friedlander cites a commentator, who refers to "the Jews who a day before the Sabbath put their vessels hot into the cooking boxes, the pots being covered with napkins and wrapped about with hay, so that they may have warm food on the Sabbath."

Checking the Barber.
"Your hair is coming out on top, sir," said the barber.

"Good!" exclaimed Pepprey. "I knew it was in me. Now, for goodness' sake don't talk to it or it will crawl back again." —Baltimore News.

A Friendly Suggestion.
"I do not understand at all," said Phyllis of her beau.
"Why he doth still make love to me; I always tell him 'No!'"
To whom a cynic friend replied
(Or was she merely wise?)
"You tell him 'No?' therein, perhaps, The explanation lies!"
"He likes the little game, no doubt, But likes to play it when There is no danger. Try a 'Yes.' He'd be discouraged then!" —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Life of Passion.
In Lord Byron's letters he tells how he once had a visit from "a Mr. Coolidge of Boston, a very pretty lad, only somewhat too full of poetry and 'enthusiasm.'" Byron says: "I was very civil to him during his few hours' stay and talked with him much of Irving, whose writings are my delight. But I suspect he did not take quite so much to me, from his having expected to meet a misanthropical gentleman in wolfskin breeches and answering in fierce monosyllables instead of a man of this world. I can never get people to understand that poetry is the expression of excited passion and that there is no such thing as a life of passion any more than a continuous earthquake or an eternal fever. Besides, who would ever shave themselves in such a state?"

The Only Safe Place.
"Can you lay this carpet so the children won't wear it out?"
"Where shall I put it, madam—on the roof?" —Harper's Bazar.

Oats were not known to the Hebrews or the Egyptians.

Some Salisbury People Fully Endorse It Now.

When the back aches from kidney trouble, there's a certain way to find relief. A sure way to be cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do it. Salisbury people endorse this claim.

J. C. Coulbourn, farmer, living four miles South of Salisbury, says: "My first attack of kidney trouble was felt about four years ago. At that time I was laid up for three weeks. I recovered from it but later on had two more similar attacks and since then there has been no time when I could say that I was wholly free from the distressing pain across the back. I doctored a great deal and I believe tried every known remedy on the market which was recommended to me which came to my notice from reading but all failed to cure me. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I concluded to try them and procured a box at White & Leonard's drug store. I have used several boxes and can say that they have given me the greatest benefit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Caution

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1869 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Roehrs' German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cent size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. At all druggists.

The Haman Oyster Law.

Discussion of the Haman Oyster Bill is daily growing in volume throughout the State and it seems almost assured that a law in some shape, designed to encourage oyster planting, will be passed by the Legislature. Just what form this law will take, is now occupying a large amount of space in all the papers, but especially in the papers of Baltimore, which seem to be unanimous in favor of the Haman measure. This bill will be introduced practically in its original form.

The tidewater counties are practically a unit against the Haman law as it is drawn. A large portion of the people, however, both on the Eastern and Western shores think that oyster planting should be encouraged. This sentiment will have to be listened to. The problem before the delegates from counties owning oyster grounds, therefore, will be to secure such legislation as will fully protect the oystermen, in addition to aiding the cultivation of what are now barren bottoms. This will be difficult to do, but unless protection of the rights of the poorer class of people now engaged in the industry is made a prominent feature of the law, greater hardship and injustice will be done than to allow the bottoms to remain barren.

One of the most important utterances that has been made on the subject of the Haman bill since the campaign opened, was printed Tuesday in the Baltimore News in the shape of an interview with General Joseph B. Seth. State Senator-elect from Talbot county, General Seth is opposed to the Haman bill and states his objections with unusual clearness and understanding. He says that the opposition to the Haman bill is not as to the purpose, but as to the means provided by the bill, and that the bill as a whole shows a misconception of actual conditions. He said that, in his opinion, the department of the shellfish commissioner would be a costly one, cumbersome and with powers that could better be delegated elsewhere. He also thought that the expectation that there is to be a tumultuous rush of settlers as fast as a reservation is chartered off is chimerical, if the experience of other states is worth anything.

A most significant suggestion by General Seth is that concerning the means taken in the Haman law to protect oystermen. When asked if the Haman bill did not protect the interests of the oystermen by giving them the first chance, General Seth said:

"Yes, at a price to be fixed by the Shell Fish Commissioner, at not less than $3 or more than $5 an acre, and upon giving security for the first three years' rent, to be approved by the Commissioner. If the rent gets in arrears for 60 days, then the lease becomes void and the land reverts to the State to be leased again. To those who know the conditions of the average oysterman who works at tonging or dredging, the provisions of the bill giving him priority over the general public seems a mockery. Often men have to be permitted to work without a license in order to earn money to pay the license fees. It will require an investment of money to stock and run an oyster farm, and it is not to be expected that men who are now earning from $300 to $600 a year oystering will be able to lease lands to any extent under the terms of the bill. But meanwhile the bill does not in a satisfactory manner protect their existing livelihood. It is true that Section 2 provides that all natural beds or bars shall be excluded from the operation of the act, and gives a rule of interpretation as to what shall constitute a natural bed or bar; but in practice the matter is to be left to the decision of the Shell Fish Commissioner."

Furthermore, General Seth shows that the Haman bill offers no permanent security that the oyster-bottoms of the State will not be controlled by corporations. Upon this feature, he stated, as his opinion the following:

"Limitation of individual holdings and prohibition of corporate ownership is an incidental feature of the bill which any subsequent Legislature may remove, and it takes but little consideration to show that this is not an imaginary peril, but is a very probable event. We will suppose the Haman bill is passed and the office of Shell Fish Commissioner is created, with its chief clerk, 10 assistants and a hydrographic engineer, as Section 4 provides. The salary roll alone may amount to $21,000 a year. Then will come office expenses, cost of surveys, advertising, etc., all to be paid out of the general treasury. Then suppose that after districts have been declared open to oyster culture and the proposed auctions have been held, it is found that the new State department is costing a great deal more to run than it is taking in—the next movement will be to stimulate the revenue by offering more liberal terms. It will be claimed and with good reason, that oyster farming cannot be carried on profitably except upon large areas, justifying investments of capital and the cost of protecting the grounds. That is the way matters have been going in Virginia. Even with rents of from 25 cents to $1 an acre, it was found that there were no applications for the greater part of the State lands, and so the law was changed so as to authorize any one firm or corporation to take up as much as 5,000 acres."

Taking it altogether, as the provisions of the Haman bill become better understood, the more objectionable they appear.

Best Game Of Football Ever Seen In Salisbury.

The Salisbury Athletic Club is making big preparations for the coming game with Seaford on Thanksgiving day. The team, which is the best ever seen in this section, is practicing every night. All the players are in good form and anxious for the game. Some of the players have not played for some time but they are rounding into shape. Although coach Jackson realizes that the Seaford team will put a strong fight yet he is confident of victory for the home team. A glance at the line-up shows that the team is exceptionally strong. It will be as follows:

L. End.....	Glover
R. End.....	Richardson
L. Tackle.....	Bethke
R. Tackle.....	Cooper
L. Guard.....	Waller
R. Guard.....	Taylor

All the proceeds of the game will be used to equip the new gymnasium of the Salisbury Athletic Club. The boys expect to occupy their rooms in a few days.

Asking For State Aid.

Mr. Walter B. Miller of the Board of Directors of the Peninsula General Hospital, and Mrs. Levin D. Collier of the Board of the Home for the Aged, were in Baltimore this week before the Board of State Aid and Charities, asking for a favorable recommendation for the two institutions for State aid at the Legislature this winter. The Peninsula General Hospital Board are asking the State for the sum of $7,500 per year and the Home for the Aged, $750.00 per year.

Misrepresentation Regarding Maryland Road Law.

In an interview with Mr. W. W. Crosby, Chief Engineer of the Maryland Geological Survey Commission, Mr. Crosby says:

"Several articles have appeared recently in various papers in Caroline County, which were devoted to various comments and criticisms of the State Aid Road Law, popularly known as the 'Shoemaker Law.' While these articles were evidently inspired for political purposes during the closing part of the last campaign, they contained so many misstatements and misrepresentations of what are the actual facts, that all who are interested in our State's progress toward a better road-system should become acquainted with the true state of affairs."

The first erroneous statement is that the act prescribes that the roads improved shall 'invariably be surfaced with crushed stone,' or in other words that they shall be macadamized. The Maryland Geological Survey Commission has not prescribed that the roads improved under the 'Shoemaker Act' shall 'invariably be surfaced with crushed stone.' It has offered to assist St. Mary's county in building gravel roads, and is assisting Caroline, Dorchester and Talbot counties to build shell roads. The law under which it is operating provides that the plans of the Commission shall call for the improvement of the road 'petitioned for' 'by stone, gravel, or other good material in such a manner that the same will be, with reasonable repairs thereto, at all seasons of the year, firm, smooth, and convenient for travel.' The past action of the Commission shows that it is willing to use shells, and probably it would use marl where the saving in use over stone would be justified by local conditions. It is true that the plans and specifications have generally, when first submitted in response to the petitions, called for the use of stone. This has been done because the difference in cost between the use of stone and oyster shells, for instance, was relatively small when considered in connection with the much longer life of the stone road. Then, too, the Law providing that the subsequent repair of these roads shall be borne entirely by the counties, the Commission deemed it advisable, and more economical for the county, to spend the larger amount for the stone road, in view of the fact that half of the difference between the shell or gravel and stone road was borne by the State."

Since the 'Shoemaker Good Roads Law' became operative last March, the Highway Division of the Maryland Geological Survey Commission has made surveys on over 100 miles and furnished estimates for seventy-three miles of road. The total estimated cost for these seventy-three miles was $457,299.37, or an average estimated cost of $6256.67 per mile. The total amount under construction at the present time is thirty-nine miles. On this the contracted cost is $208,118.90, or an average of $5348.72 per mile, a reduction of something over nine hundred dollars per mile on the estimated cost.

Now, as to the question whether the counties can afford roads at above cost. Is a good road a paying investment? Experience has shown that it is. Five or six thousand dollars or even more may not be a bad investment for a mile of road when all the circumstances are considered. While the present records of expenditures on particular sections of road by the counties are very incomplete, where such records are available they fully substantiate this statement. As an example, in Queen Anne's county plans and estimates were made for improving in a permanent manner three miles of road running out of the county seat. In this case, owing to a desire to reduce the grades on a bad hill and to replace several rickety wooden bridges, the estimated cost ran up to $7000.00 per mile. This seemed at first thought to be rather high rate per mile to consider a good investment. Upon looking up the records of the expenditures on these three miles of road for the past ten years, it was found that the average yearly expenditure was over $500.00, not including bridge repairs. Now, the cost to the county of the improvement would have been only $3500.00 per mile, or a total of $10,500.00 under the Shoemaker Act. It would readily be seen that it would be far cheaper for the county to borrow the money at 4 per cent, build the new road and enjoy the improvement, than to continue to spend more than this interest yearly, and continue to suffer from the old road with its heavy grades and nearly impassable condition during part of the year. This is only one of many similar instances that might be cited.

—R. E. Powell & Co., will close their store all day on Thanksgiving Day.

—Rev. J. H. Moore, of Pocomoke, will preach in Wicomico Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning and evening.

—Commencing Sunday night at 12.59 o'clock, the new block signal system of the Delaware Railroad will go into effect.

—Mr. N. R. Groves, of Pennsylvania, who recently purchased the Ebenezer Carey farm, in Nutter's district, moved his family here this week.

—The supper held by the ladies of St. Peter's P. R. Church Tuesday afternoon and evening realized net proceeds of about $65.00 for the church.

—The Smith Studio will be open on Thanksgiving Day from 9 to 4, which would be an excellent time to order your Christmas photographs.

—Rural free-delivery Route No. 1 has been ordered established on February 1 at Stockton Worcester county, Md., serving 468 people and 117 houses.

—Wednesday Nov. 29th will be donation day at the Home For The Aged. Vegetables, fruits, canned goods, or food of any sort your kind hearts will prompt you to give will be thankfully received. "Freely ye have received; freely give."

—The Salisbury Machine Works, R. D. Grier proprietor, is installing new machinery each week and ultimately the shop will be largely refitted. This week a new radial drill, one of the largest south of Wilmington, was bought. It will be put in in about 10 days.

—Messrs. W. B. Miller, Joseph A. Graham, Donald Graham and M. A. Humphreys went to the light house Wednesday in Mr. Miller's yacht shooting ducks. They killed nine. But for unfavorable weather conditions they would have killed a much larger number as the birds were very plentiful.

—A coca-cola famine was threatened for Friday in Salisbury, the soda fountains on Thursday having but a very small quantity on hand. The "famine" feared of the shortage and a "panic" was forestalled by telegraphing Princess Anne for a supply. It is hard to estimate the result if none had been forthcoming Friday morning.

—The pigeonry that this paper reported last week had been built by Mr. O. J. Schneek on the portion of the Humphreys farm he recently purchased was an error. The aforesaid pigeonry was built by Mrs. Nancy Humphreys, daughter of Miss Lou Humphreys. They will engage in squab raising, starting with 300 pairs of homers.

—Mr. R. D. Grier was in Baltimore this week, attending the Masonic Grand Lodge. On Wednesday Mr. Grier took part in the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the Maryland Institute, as Right Worshipful Senior Grand Warden. Mr. Fred P. Adkins also took part in these ceremonies, joining one of the Baltimore Commanderies for the event.

—The commissions for the newly elected Sheriff and County Surveyor have arrived and the balance are expected today. The new officers will swear in about December 1st. It is stated that Sheriff Bradley will live in the jail and not leave this portion of his duties to his deputy. The deputy sheriff has not yet been appointed, though it is understood that the present deputy, Mr. J. Frank Waller, has the refusal of the office.

—The maddest man in Salisbury last Saturday night was a certain prominent Republican politician in Salisbury district, who as a side line makes cigars on Dock street. A friend had made him a present of a fine, wild black duck, for his Sunday dinner. He hung it on a nail outside his upstairs window to keep cool and, with his mouth watering in anticipation, waited impatiently all the afternoon for time to go home. When he went to take his ducklet down, lo! the bird had flown! Somebody had fished it off its perch with a pole. Somebody else around Paul Watson's said the duck was mysteriously returned Saturday night, but nobody has had the courage to ask whether this part of the story was true or not, as "he" said it was a democrat plot and swore he would lick the whole Democratic party to get even.

—Dr. H. O. Reik, of Baltimore, and Dr. Louis Morris, of this city, performed a delicate operation on Mr. William H. Coulbourn this week at the Peninsula General Hospital, removing a very painful abscess from the back of the ear. Mr. Coulbourn is improving rapidly.

—Mr. F. Leonard Wailes was an usher at the marriage of Mr. Milton Veasey to Miss May Morris Young, at Pocomoke, on Wednesday. Rev. G. M. Clayton performed the ceremony. The groom is one of Worcester county's rising young attorneys.

—Miss Blanche Moore has secured a position at the general office of the B. C. & A. Ry., this city, during the absence of Miss Nellie Fish, stenographer to Mr. A. J. Benjamin, superintendent. Miss Fish's place is being filled by Mrs. Nock and Miss Moore takes Mrs. Nock's position.

—At the annual election of officers of the Grand Lodge of Masons for Maryland in Baltimore Wednesday evening all the former officers were re-elected with the exception of Henry G. Griffin, grand senior warden, who was succeeded by Mr. R. D. Grier, of Salisbury, and David M. Fisher, grand junior warden, who was succeeded by Mr. John L. Sanford.

—Mr. Charles M. Mitchell killed 43 ducks and 1 goose on his recent shooting trip to Ocean City and gave a supper with part of the game at Bennett & White's restaurant Tuesday evening. Mr. Mitchell's guests were: Messrs. M. A. Humphreys, Alan F. Benjamin, G. Vickers White, Donald Graham, Carl Dougherty, Raymond K. Truitt and Ira Smith.

—Miss Rosa Dennis, daughter of Mr. George Dennis, of Spring Hill, and Mr. Herbert W. Lowe were married Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock at the home of the bride, Elder Francis, of Delmar, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hearn, of Berlin, were best man and matron of honor, respectively. A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony.

—The stores in town are getting ready for Christmas and tremendous stocks of Christmas goods are coming in. White & Leonard are putting in several handsome floor showcases and Harper & Taylor are having mirrors placed in their windows. Other improvements of a similar character are noted along Main street. The Salisbury stores expect to make a larger and handsomer display this year than ever before.

—Messrs. Rowland and Clifford offer their new production, "Dora Thorne" at Ulman's Grand Opera House on November 30th. It is said to be a melodrama of high degree, and one that is a little out of the ordinary. The play is a dramatization of Bertha M. Clay's famous novel of the same name. It is a clean wholesome play which bids fair to live as long as "East Lynne." Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

—Recent political gossip is to the effect that Mr. John P. Moore's candidacy for President of the State Senate has aroused intense opposition among the friends of United States Senator Arthur Pue Gorman and former Governor R. E. Jackson on account of his closeness to former Governor John Walter Smith. Well-authenticated reports have been circulated to the effect that they intended to defeat Mr. Moore by combining their strength upon one of the holdover State Senators who would be agreeable to Messrs. Gorman and Jackson.

—Rowland & Clifford's production of "Dora Thorne," Lem. B. Parker's dramatization of Bertha M. Clay's famous novel, is the type of play that is perhaps the very best seen on the road. It is a love story pure and simple; and, at the same time amusing and interesting. It teaches a wholesome lesson; it leaves no bad impression, but rather an abiding pleasure that benefits and inspires and rests those who see and hear it. Few better plays will be seen at the opera house during the present season. They will appear at Ulman's Grand Opera House on November 30. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents. Get your tickets at box office.

—Partridges are so scarce this fall that there is a movement in all parts of Maryland toward restocking by importing and releasing live birds. This was successfully done in Wicomico several years ago and local sportsmen will likely put out a quantity of birds on preserved lands next spring. Several Salisburyans are interested in an attempt to raise partridges in captivity. Mr. Charles M. Mitchell and Mr. Marion A. Humphreys will both experiment in this direction and hope to make a success of it. Mr. Mitchell had one pair of birds last spring that hatched out 15 chicks, but the hen and her brood got away and he released the cock bird. He is anxious to secure a few pairs of wing-clipped partridges and will pay liberally for them, delivered at his pool room on Dock street.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a Fetching Dressing Sack Designed by Martha Dean—No. 6356

What a world of satisfaction is found within a loose, pretty dressing sack! It is not only a becoming garment to wear, but is easily slipped into and full of comfort. A new design is shown which is very charming developed in a soft silk, French flannel or dimity. The front is finely tucked to resemble a yoke, while the broad, fanciful collar is vastly becoming. This may be edged with a full ruffle of the material or lace to render it more fancy. The neck is finished with a narrow edging of lace, which is quite as becoming to most wearers and a deal more comfortable than the standing collar. The sleeve is very graceful, having its fullness restrained below the elbow by a narrow band and thence flowing full in a deep ruffle. The pattern is simple to reproduce and requires three yards of thirty-six inch material. Seven sizes, 32 to 44 inches bust measure.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 6356, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

Patterns For Child's Underwear Designed by Martha Dean—Nos. 4700 and 4701

Many mothers prefer to make their children's underwear, for they are not only assured of a better fit, but there is quite a saving. The material costs very little, and the garment is so easily made that no one will have any difficulty. Here are shown an undershirt and drawers in the latest mode for small folks. The waist may have high, round or square neck and be made as elaborate or simple as desired. The pattern may be used also for a foundation upon which aprons and dresses may be built and includes the long sleeves. The drawers are like the new garter drawers, being shaped up on the sides. The pattern calls for two and one-quarter yards of thirty-six inch material. Two patterns—No. 4700, sizes 3 to 12 years; No. 4701, sizes 2 to 16 years.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 20 cents to this office, give numbers of these patterns, Nos. 4700 and 4701, and state sizes desired. They will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Or either of the patterns will be sent for 10 cents. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Pattern For a Graceful Morning Gown Designed by Martha Dean—No. 6365

There is nothing more graceful in the feminine wardrobe than the pretty morning gown and surely no garment in which a lady takes more true delight. There are so many attractive silks, challis and lawns to be had for a very small price that no woman should be without a garment so dear to the feminine heart. Here is a suggestion which is delightfully simple in design, yet elaborate enough to appear quite charming. The back hangs free, with only a deep box plait in the center to provide fullness, while the front falls in folds from the neck or yoke edge, where the fullness is held in plaits and stitched a short distance to hold them in place. The sleeve is abundantly full and finished with a frill of lace or the material. A broad collar of fanciful shape is a very becoming feature and one offering a wide field for trimming. As shown it is finished with a ruffle of lace, but ribbon or a plaited silk might serve as well. The gown may be skirted at the waist if desired. A pretty challis, soft silk or lawn might fashion this. For the medium size six and three-quarter yards of thirty-six inch material are needed. Six sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 6365, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

Pattern For Some Modish Neckwear Designed by Martha Dean—No. 6348

One of the disadvantages of shirt waists to many women is the necessity of separate collars. Unless one exerts more than ordinary care the neck covering will look anything but neat, and this is of first importance in one's appearance. Separate collars must not only be trim and appropriate, but expressive of some dash and style. One needs a generous supply of these accessories, for the neck is the first part of a light shirt waist to show soil. These numerous collars become a large item in the expense list if they must be all purchased, while they require but little time to make, utilize odd bits of linen, silk and lace and may be made very attractive and individual. Three styles of shirt waist collars are shown, designed for linen or silk. The first has a four-hand tie drawn through two broad eyelets in the front end of the stock, the second shows the scarf tie as a portion of the stock, and the third has shaped tabs in front joined by tiny straps and may be elaborated in eyelet embroidery. Sizes, small, medium and large.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 10 cents to this office, give number of this pattern, No. 6348, and state size desired. It will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. Be sure to write plainly and always give full address. Several days must be allowed for delivery of pattern.

Death of J. Roy Collins.

News of the death of J. Roy Collins, of Norfolk, by accidental shooting, was received in Salisbury Tuesday by telegram. Mr. Collins has many relatives in Salisbury and was otherwise well known here.

The Virginian Pilot, of Norfolk, on Tuesday contained the following account of the shooting:

J. Roy Collins, one of the most prominent young business men of this city, was found lying dead in front of the dresser in his room at his home, 87 Bate Street, shortly after 8 o'clock last night. Blood flowed freely from a wound in the head and nearby lay a revolver with one of the chambers empty. The family give out the statement that the shooting was accidental.

Dr. Charles R. Grandy, who lives a short distance away, was immediately summoned, but before he arrived Mr. Collins was dead. Coroner Kight afterwards visited the house. He said later that he was investigating the case and was undecided about holding an inquest. Neither Dr. Kight or Dr. Grandy would tell where the bullet entered Mr. Collins' head or the possible direction it took. Dr. Grandy said that he did not make an examination. Dr. Kight stated that he visited the house; that he was engaged in investigating the case, would continue the investigation today and was yet undecided whether he would hold an inquest.

Mr. Collins was about to start for Georgia, where he was to have acted as best man at the wedding of J. D. Hank, Jr., a Norfolk attorney. Young Collins had bade some of his relatives goodbye in the afternoon, after which he went up to his room to pack his suit case. That was the last seen of him alive. It was not long after he had gone upstairs that the report of a revolver was heard, which startled the family. Those first in the room found Mr. Collins lying on the floor and the revolver was some distance away. Blood flowed from a wound in the head. Mr. Collins was then dead. The statement made by a member of the family was that Mr. Collins was in the act of loading his revolver, which went off accidentally and the one shot which was fired killed him.

The family of Mr. Collins is prostrated and his death came as a shock to his many friends. He appeared in the best of spirits before going to his room.

Mr. Collins was 29 years old and unmarried. He was identified with several local enterprises; was an ardent sportsman and prominent among the younger social set. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Q. Collins and his sister, Mrs. A. R. Kries.

For sometime Mr. Collins was connected with the insurance department of the real estate firm of W. H. H. Trice and Sons, but he had recently been appointed district agent for an insurance company. He was secretary of the municipal league, an officer of the Virginia Automobile Company, member of the Hampton Roads Yacht Club and Virginia East Coast Automobile Association, and also a member of the local herd of Buffaloes.

The arrangements for the funeral had not been completed last night and will probably not take place until the coroner has concluded his investigation.
