SATURDAY, DEC. 12, 1885.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The President has sent his annual message to Congress. For the first time in twenty-four years, this message has been written by a Democrat, and if we may judge of Democratic principles by the document under consideration, then that party has come into power none too soon. All his recommendations bear the stamp of a wise statesmanship, and show that the President recognizes the needs of the country. He advises a revision, and reduction of the tariff, but, at the same time, he recognizes the wisdom of making any changes that would give a shock to the interests of the country, or interfere with those industries which have been fostered by the present system. To reduce the tariff gradually, without undue disregard of investments already made, is what the President recommends, and to this every conservative person will agree. He gives very strong reasons why the tariff should be revised, and two million silver dollars a month should be repaid. There are still 165,000,000 of these dollars in the treasury, to provide for the safe keeping of which the government has been to considerable expense in building vaults. With this amount of surplus silver on hand, there seems no reason why its coinage is so great an extent should be longer continued. He congratulates the Nation that we continue at peace with all the world, and urges a continuation of that foreign policy which dictates a non-interference in the affairs of other countries. A reorganization of the navy is strongly urged, and Congress is urged to provide, if possible, some means by which this blot on the country's fair fame may be removed. He advises a considerate treatment of the Nation's wards, the Indians, and thinks better provision should be made for ascertaining their needs and ameliorating their condition. The over-crowded dockets of the Federal courts come in for their share of notice, and the pecuniations of United States Marshals and the occasion of citizens' suits, and a change in the law regulating their pay is asked for. Taken altogether the message seems to be the result of mature consideration of the condition of the country and the best means of improving it. It so seems with thoughtful suggestions that any student of its contents must fail to do justice to its author. Congress could do the country no better service than to pay heed to what the President has said to them and legislate accordingly.

—Though there are still some weak points in our National banking system, it is undoubtedly the best our country has ever had. When the currency of every National bank in the country is received at par in every state in the Union, no matter what the condition of the bank that issued it, it would seem that in this regard our banks are all that could be desired. This condition of things is effected, of course, by the plan of requiring the banks to deposit government bonds with the Treasurer of the United States, to the amount of their circulation, and by the government assuming the responsibility of payment of the bank notes. There have been several plans proposed, by which the individual deposits in these banks may be made as secure as the bank circulation. The plan which seems most feasible is that proposed by Mr. W. W. Flannagan, cashier of the Commercial National Bank of New York. It is proposed that the tax of one per cent on bank circulation, which is the only direct tax collected by the federal government, be used as a mutual insurance fund. This tax amounts to very much more than the losses sustained by depositors in National banks, and by the application of it to pay all such losses, the depositor would feel as safe, as the holder of the bank's currency now does. The plan is feasible and practicable, and it is to be hoped that Congress will see the wisdom of making the plan a law. It would be a big step forward in the development of our banking system.

Wm. H. Vanderbilt Dead.

William H. Vanderbilt was stricken with apoplexy a few minutes after 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and died almost instantly. He was in the library of his residence, on Fifth avenue, at the time and was sitting in his easy chair and conversing with Mr. Robert Garrett, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and up to the very moment of the attack was apparently in his usual health and spirits. Not a hint or a moment's warning did either he or his family have of his being in any danger. He was stricken down on the floor at his guest's feet almost as suddenly as a shock of paralysis, not long after the sale of 200,000 shares of New York Central, his health had been a matter of almost constant solicitude with his family, but for several months recently he had been better and brighter. He frequently spoke of the improvement himself and was often congratulated upon his hearty appearance. He clung tenaciously to life and often said of late that by the time he was sixty-five he would be as vigorous and set out on another long life. He was sixty-four when he died.

Vanderbilt was worth $200,000,000, though his fortune shrank last year materially through a big decline in stocks and through business depression, but the fall movement of the past few months brought it up again. His income was calculated as follows: $2,377,000 a year from government bonds; $7,394,000 from railroad stocks; $576,693 from miscellaneous securities; total, over $10,000,000 a year, or $28,000 a day, or $1,200 an hour or $19.75 a minute.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrhs, and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, he has decided to give his remedy, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. Noves, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Another accident is added to the long list that have already occurred at the works of the new Croton Aqueduct. The latest occurred early Monday morning at shaft No. 3, Merriett's Corners, N. Y., and resulted in the death of four men and the probable fatal injury of a fifth. The men were descending to work in one of the buckets used for lowering them down the shaft. The start was made all right, but before the bucket had descended many feet the cross-bar or "billy," as it was called by the miners, began to steady the bucket caught in the shaft and almost reached the bottom of the shaft when it shook loose and came crashing down, a distance of over 100 feet to the heads of the unfortunate men.

What a Sworn of Bess Did.

A man in Minnesota who had rheumatism, undertook the bee remedy. He got into bed with swarm of young bees and the remedy began to work. It took four men to bring him back to the house, and forty could not have put him into bed again. He then did what he should have done at first, used St. Jacobs Oil and is now well. A cough which he had caught from exposure was removed by Red Star Cough Cure, which he says is a wonderful discovery. It costs only twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by druggists.

Owing to inadequate piage the supply of natural gas at Pittsburg and Allegheny City gave out Monday. Hundreds of families had to resort to laundry stoves for cooking purposes, several factories suspended work, clerks wore their overcoats and the schools in the public schools were dismissed. A similar annoyance was experienced from 1 to 10 o'clock p. m. on Sunday in the towns of Beaver Falls and New Brighton. These towns were cut off from their supply of natural gas in order that connections might be made with the Rochester main. As the cold was intense, many families went to bed to keep warm, or visited the houses of the neighbors who still use the old-fashioned fuel coal. No suppers could be cooked, and the restaurants using coal did a very large business. The hotel guests abandoned the hotels and no evening services were held in the churches. Factories which run all night had to shut down, and it is thought that considerable loss will be incurred by the glass houses and pottery from the cooling of the pots and kilns. When the gas was turned on, at 10 o'clock, many persons got out of their beds to cook supper.

This is a vertical, high-contrast black and white image. The left side of the image features a textured, light-colored surface that appears to be made of stone or wood, with visible cracks and irregular edges. This textured area is set against a solid, dark black background that occupies the right side of the image. The overall composition is minimalist and abstract, focusing on the contrast between the rough texture and the smooth, dark void.

CHRISTMAS.

For the past three or four years the people living on the west side of this county have talked, dreamed of and hoped for a rail road. There is a square mile west of the Delaware R. R. that has not, in their imagination, been crossed by a road that would reach their territory. At last one of their schemes has been carried out. The Pennsylvania R. R. official favorably, John Robinson, Esq., of the firm of John Robinson & Bro., of Sharpton, has made several trips to Philadelphia lately, and it is reported that he has gotten the ear of one of the Vice Presidents of the Pennsylvania R. R. Rough maps of the line have been prepared and submitted.

The proposed route leaves the Dorchester and Delaware R. R. at Oak Grove; thence to Sharpton, (crossing the Nanticoke river) thence southward by Riverton, Barren Creek and Quantico, and terminating somewhere near the shore, probably at White Haven. This would certainly be an inestimable benefit to the country through which it is to run. Lands that are now sold with difficulty for eight or ten dollars an acre would bring twenty-five. Much of this land is well adapted to the growth of small fruits, but the distance to haul the products is so great at present that the profits are nearly gone when the fruit is delivered at the depot. To these difficulties may be added the miserable condition of our roads at the season of the year when the hauling must be done—dry and exceedingly heavy. These most wheat crops have long since ceased to pay on light land; not that grain is proportionally more than it has always been, but labor is higher—much higher, besides, our wants have increased. Along the southern portion of the route, grain and stock raising will pay if properly conducted, but the yield at present is small.

The promise of building up an oyster trade such as is now conducted at Crisfield is the principal consideration with the company. There can be but little doubt that a line will pay if properly operated, and it will certainly be done if managed by the Pennsylvania R. R. We shall continue to agitate the matter. Those who are directly interested should not wait for their Pennsylvania friends to do all. Let us do something at home. Let us show them that we are interested.

Mr. Robinson returned last Thursday from Philadelphia, but we have not had an opportunity yet to learn the results of his last visit. Let us have the road by all means.

Service as usual to-morrow in the M. P. Church, at 10:30 a. m., and 7 p. m. Preaching by Rev. J. W. Balderson. Evening subject, "The Healing of Impure Literature."

—Mr. H. Lee Powell has purchased from R. E. Powell his fourteen acre lot on the Middlebrook road for $2200. It is Mr. Powell's intention to go in the business of fruit and berry plant raising.

—The Maryland Steamboat Co. will hereafter carry regularly the mail between Baltimore and Salisbury and Wicomico river landings. The first mail coach by the new route was sent last Wednesday.

—Theyster packing house lately built by the Maryland Steamboat Co. at Roanoke Point and refitted by Wm. H. Stevens & Co. was burned down Thursday morning. The fire originated from the chimney. Many oysters were burned up.
