Fare Forth WITH A KODAK

Nature never was prettier than now. The clear blue of the sky and the bright green of the trees and fields form a picture that would stir the soul of an artist.

Get out in the spring sunshine and "map" your favorite "bounty spot" with a Kodak or a Brownie. It is yours then "to have and to hold"—a "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

AH! THEY'RE THE OXFORDS

So has said many a man after he has put on a pair of our OXFORDS that are so comfortable and such smart appearance.

What is better, though is the fact, that these oxfords will hold their shape and wear long and satisfactory.

The best things in Spring Footwear.

BENEFITS GREAT SUCCESS

Good Round Sum Realized For Families Of The Better Explores.

The benefit given at the Auditorium Friday night last by Green and Brewington, was a great success. Large crowds of people visited the play house during the evening and bought tickets for the benefit. The proceeds amounted to $71.30 and Messrs. Green & Brewington donated the full sum for the benefit of the two families, it being equally divided between them.

The benefit given by the management of the Ulman's Opera House Monday evening, for the benefit of the families of the recent boiler explosion victims was liberally patronized, the net proceeds being about $40.00. In addition to the moving pictures, local talent presented a pleasing vaudeville program. The money will be equally divided between the families of Mr. Kennerly and Mr. Savage.

A Card of Thanks.

I take this opportunity of thanking the many friends who so kindly rendered me assistance during the burning of my Hotel. Had it not been for them I would have been a greater loser than I am now. I hardly know how to express my sincere gratitude. One who befriended another in time of need is a friend indeed. This loss was so unexpected that it simply overwhelmed me. The sympathy of the people at large has been an inspiration to me and has given me courage to venture in larger things. I am more and more convinced that there is need of a first class Hotel at Maryland Springs. Again I thank you one and all.

Yours Respectfully,
Nathaniel O. Austin.

PLEDGED TO SUPPORT

Woodrow Wilson—Club Organized Friday Grows—Partial List of Members.

The meeting held in the Armory to organize a club to promote the candidacy of Governor Woodrow Wilson as the Democratic candidate for President produced another meeting on Tuesday of this week. As with the initial meeting this was well attended and much enthusiasm shown. A report was made on membership which showed Mr. Wilson to be a very popular man with the voters of this County. The Club list now embraces a membership of over 500.

A large meeting is booked for the Opera House at two o'clock this afternoon which will be addressed by either United States Senator Gore or John Sharp Williams and one other speaker of National reputation. Several speakers from various sections of the State will also be present and make addresses.

It is impossible to give a full list of the members of the Woodrow Wilson Club, so we confine ourselves to the list of original members—some two hundred strong—who were among the first to join the movement:

Frank J. Adams, William F. Allen, Elmer Adams, Wm. H. Adkins, Geo. W. Bell, L. Atwood Bennett, W. F. Bonds, Charles W. Baker, W. E. Bonnell, M. E. Brewington, Ollie Bailey, Henry Bowman, L. O. ## ROOSEVELT IN SALISBURY WOODROW WILSON GAIN

A Large Crowd Hears Him—People To Rule Themselves—Great Day All Around.

"Teddy is Coming," "Teddy is Coming." The crowd shouted it, the people shouted it, the shrill small boys whooped it, and the still air thrilled to the ascending excitement. A tremulous suspense filled the crowd till pent up voices broke loose as the band played the Ex-President through.

The day has come and gone when the great "Teddy" honored the City of Salisbury and the Eastern Shore of Maryland by his presence.

On Friday morning the special train carrying Mr. Roosevelt put in its appearance and as soon as the time would permit, hundreds anxious to catch a glimpse of the most talked of man in America if not in the World, surrounded his special car.

He was met by Messrs. Wm. M. Day, R. D. Grier, John H. Tomlinson and a number of other enthusiastic admirers and supporters.

He was escorted to the vacant lot on the Salisbury Realty Company by his reception committee, amid the shouts and cheers of the thousands who lined the Streets waiting for his appearance. Two bands were present one of which led the parade to the speaking grounds, while the other greeted his entrance to the plot with "Maryland My Maryland."

The attendance at the meeting was not as large as was generally expected, which was explained by those in charge of his campaign here, by the lack of adequate railroad facilities there being no special train service and the regular train schedule not suiting the early hour of the meeting which was held at 9.30 in the morning. Mr. Roosevelt looked like his picture and showed the well known Roosevelt teeth and smile. While not a quick talker he was distinct in his utterances and emphatic in his statements.

He was able to throw his voice far enough to be heard by even those who were some distance away. The crowd at first surged up to the raised platform eager to see and shake hands with the distinguished visitor and it kept the special police and officers busy to keep them down. Mr. Roosevelt had to take a hand in this himself and time and time again urged the crowd to stand back and not crowd, and especially not to climb on the platform as a number of enthusiastic supporters were striving to do. A way had to be forced to the waiting automobiles, both when he entered his car and when he left to address the crowd.

Many of the merchants and business houses decorated their buildings in honor of Mr. Roosevelt and stars and stripes hung from several private dwellings.

Banners were also strung across the Streets in favor of Mr. Taft and the Woodrow Wilson Club. Mr. Roosevelt opened his speech with a request to those in front to get down, so as to give those in the rear "a square deal."

His speech here did not vary much from those delivered in other places, he spoke of his faith in the people and his belief that every man should have the right to say who the candidates should be without the dictation or coercion of any man. He urged the voters to deliver their own votes and not allow anyone else to deliver them. He touched upon the charges that he was fighting the organization by saying that he was not opposed to organizations as organizations but was opposed to organization which attempted to misrepresent instead of representing the voice of the people. He said he had rather trust the impulsive judgement of the people than the deliberate judgement of the politicians, although he preferred the deliberate judgement to their impulsive one. In speaking of the charges that he was attempting to stir up class hatred in the country he said that the hatred he was trying to stir up was hatred against crookedness, whether found in politicians or big corporations; and that the only class he was fighting were crooks and that as long as he lived he expected to continue fighting crookedness and crooks wherever he might find them.

Mr. Roosevelt made a very good impression by his speech and showed that he knew where to hit the popular chord, and his manner was such as to please the thousands who heard him. The crowd while not bubbling over with enthusiasm gave him a hearing and many of his remarks brought forth enthusiastic applause.

ing—President Democrats Come Out. Salisbury in Wisconsin.

The day of the Maryland primaries is now but three days off and as the end draws nearer the fight waxed warmer and warmer. While all the candidates and their supporters have been very busy, it begins to look as though Woodrow Wilson has made most of the week's gain. Among the prominent State leaders who have declared in his favor are Senator Blair Lee of Montgomery, Ex-Governor Outhouse of Cecil, Senator Carville D. Benson of Baltimore County, Ex-Governor Edwin E. Warfield, Ex-Mayor Mahool of Baltimore City, Congressman J. Harry Covington of Talbot County, Ex-Senator Wells of Anne Arundel, together with all the leaders in Kent County both organization and anti-organization having endorsed him.

Senator Benson's declaration for Wilson is considered to be very significant as it carries with it the belief that Congressman Talbot will line up the same way. Senator Benson gives the following reasons for his support:

"I believe that Governor Wilson is the most available candidate in the Democratic Party. He has the best chance of being nominated and if nominated will sweep the country. Governor Harmon, Speaker Clark and Mr. Underwood are all good men and nothing can be said against them. As we are to have a primary, it is up to us to make our own selection, and I have taken Governor Wilson."

"In my judgement the Republicans will nominate Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Wilson is the ablest man in our party to cope with him and meet the kind of campaign that Colonel Roosevelt will make. He can beat any Republican named."

The Baltimore Sun is speaking of Mr. Wilson's chances as the following to say about the Eastern Shore:

"State Politicians concede Baltimore County to Governor Wilson. Those who are opposing his candidacy believe that he will sweep the Eastern Shore carrying every county and getting the thirty five votes the State has in the State Convention. A number of Eastern Shore politicians were in Baltimore recently and while they refused to state their personal choice, they readily stated that in their judgement Governor Wilson would carry their counties."

"The only county in doubt, they say is Worcester, in which United States Senator John Walter Smith is the organization leader. It is generally believed that as Senator Smith goes so will go the county and as yet Senator Smith has not declared in favor of any candidate. Wilson supporters say they will carry by big majorities every county on the Shore that Senator Lee carried in the State primaries last summer. It will be remembered that Lee carried all except Kent, Worcester, Wicomico and Dorchester."

Wicomico County.

Here in this County the fight is mainly between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Clark with chances favoring Mr. Wilson. The Clark people however are making a hard fight to overcome the start of the Wilson supporters and are using every means in their power to win the County to Mr. Clark. A meeting was held at the Opera House on Friday afternoon. A new feature in working campaigns—at least in this section—has been inaugurated by the Clark people. Two strangers, some say from Baltimore, others New York, have practically taken charge of the work in the County and are going from District to District in the interest of Mr. Clark. Some hold that this will prove a boomerang as our people believe in home rule and will resent the attempt of strangers to carry the County.

The Woodrow Wilson people are busy and claim that they have the County well in hand and the result will show an overwhelming sentiment in favor of their choice. At present the claim seems to be based on pretty solid foundations, whether or not the vote can be swung between this and Monday is the question.

Mr. Harmon's supporters though fewer in number than the others are enthusiastic over their candidate and many of our best citizens speak favorably of Mr. Harmon. There is no organization, however, among the Harmon people and it looks as though a great number now supporting his candidacy will support either Mr. Wilson or Mr. Clark in the primaries.

Mr. Charles Marshall.

Tuesday morning of last week shortly after going to his work in Salisbury Mr. Charles Marshall was taken violently ill and died shortly after being carried to his boarding house of Bright's Disease. He had been a railroad man for many years, and was at the time of his death employed by the B. O. and A. Railway Company. The funeral was held at his home in Berlin Thursday afternoon at which his remains were interred in the Green Cemetery. Deceased was a brother of Mrs. William Benson of this city.

Incidental Attempt.

An unsuccessful attempt was made Thursday night to burn the home of Dallas Marvill in Laurel, formerly home of Gov. Marvill, in Laurel and the Marvill Package Co's plant adjoining. A large quantity of oil soaked trash had been piled on the windward side of the building and fired, out it did not ignite the building. Papers supposed to have dropped from the pocket of some of the thousands will probably establish their identity.

Death of Mrs. Porter.

Mrs. Amanda Porter, wife of Mr. Robert Porter, formerly a resident of Wicomico County, died last Thursday at her home in Baltimore, aged 68 years. She is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. Doris Porter and R. Thomas Porter, of Baltimore; O. Lee Porter and J. B. Porter, of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Belle Huntington, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Emma Barkley, of Prince Anne. Eight grandchildren also survive. The remains were interred at Allen last Sunday afternoon after funeral services conducted by Rev. Mr. Aquilino.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.
Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-
Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it,
or bad effects following use of liquor, wine
or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many
times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver
or bladder trouble, it will be found just
the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle
sent free by mail, also a book telling
more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention

all druggists. Don't make any mistake
but remember the name, Swamp-Root,
Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the ad-

CHAPTER IV.

The Beginning of Trouble.
Her hand was in mine, my arm already around her waist, when the officer bowed before us. He had been

"He at least assumes the power, and generally with fair success. I must ask to be excused from discussing this matter further now, but—but,"
her voice trembled to a whisper, "I—I am sure your safety depends upon your leaving me."

"Astounded by these words, suddenly wondering if she suspected me, scarcely comprehending what she meant, I stared into her face, as we drove the room. Grant stood stiffly against the wall where we left him, his eyes fastened moodily on the crowd; I realized his presence, yet my whole thought was concentrated on the girl, the strands of her hair brushing my lips, her steps lightly following the music, her eye downcast.
Into the cheeks there came a flush of pink, and she glanced up to read the surprise in my face."

"Do I need to say more?"
"Yes, you must," I insisted, "you can never believe I would leave you because of personal fear."
"I did not know—at first. Now I realize it will require a higher motive to influence you; not love of life, but love of country."

I felt the closer clasp of her fingers on my guiding hand, and I knew I took a deep breath of surprise.
"Lean your head just a little closer," she whispered, "I—I know you, Major Lawrence, and—and I wish you well."

How I kept to the measure I cannot imagine, for, in an instant, all my house of cards crumbled into nothingness. She knew me, this blue-eyed girl, and I thought to aid my mission, this daughter of a loyalist, this lady of the Blended Rose. It was inconceivable, and yet a fact—my name had been whispered by her lips.

Suddenly she looked up laughing, as though to make others feel that we conversed lightly. We passed Grant, even as I held my breath, almost afraid to venture with words. Yet they were not to be restrained.
"You certainly startled me; how do you know this? Surely we have never met before?"

"I refuse to be questioned, sir; it means nothing how I know—the fact that I do should be sufficient."
"Must Mistress Claire—"
"Rather Mistress Mortimer."
"And we were children together—you can scarcely claim such familiarity."

"I warrant you can name me."
"Allen, is it not, sir?"
What was it the witch did not know!
This was no guess work, surely, and yet how could her strange knowledge be accounted for? Sweet as the face was, greatly as it had attracted me, there was nothing to awaken a thrill of memory. Surely I could never have seen her before, and forgotten; that would have been impossible. The music ceased, leaving us at the farther extremity of the hall.

"And now you will go?" she questioned eagerly.
"You mean, leave here?"
"Yes; you said once tonight, that but for me you would be riding your horse. I realized all you meant, and you must not remain. The guard lines are slack tonight, and you can get through, but if you wait until tomorrow it may be too late. Believe me, I am your friend, a friend of your cause."

"I do believe you; I could not connect you with deceit, but I am bewildered at this sudden exposure. Does Captain Grant also suspect my identity?"

"I think not—not yet, at least, for he did you would be under arrest. But there are others here who would recognize you just as I have. There is no mystery about it. I was in Philadelphia when the Continental troops were here, and you were pointed out to me then. We have never met, yet I was sure I recognized you this afternoon."

"I was pointed out to you by whom?"
"My brother—my twin brother on the staff of General Lee."
"Did you not inform me your family were loyalists?"

"Not in this case," earnestly, her foot tapping the floor, as though annoyed at such persistent questioning, "I have a father and brother in the king's service—but one is a renegade, and I—I—"
"You are what?"

"I am merely a woman, sir, unable to determine whether to finally become loyalist or rebel."
"You are a woman?" she asked, until they felt, veiling their revelation of truth behind long lashes.

"Mistress Mortimer," I murmured, bending so close to her pink ear, I felt the soft touch of her hair on my lips,
"you dissemble so charmingly as to even puzzle me. But if I leave you now, as you request, I must have promise of return—am I not a prisoner? I am always merciful to the suffering."

"No; we are coming back to Philadelphia victors, and soon. I am not afraid to tell you. I have learned much today, and go back to report to Washington that the exchange of British commanders means the daily evac-

My Lady OF DOUBT

BY RANDALL
PARRISH

Fire," "My Lady of the North Sea"

Blended Rose, nor will I be wearing this uniform."

Her eyes sparkled brightly into mine, then dropped demurely.

"I rather like the colors you are wearing now, and am sure this dress is most becoming. I—I have a passion for masquerade."

"I recognize that, but have already discovered where I can read the truth beyond the masquerade—what is occurring now?"

She turned to look, attracted as I had been by the change and bustle about us. A few feet from where we stood conversing, large folding doors, previously concealed by draperies, were suddenly flung wide open, revealing a magnificent dining hall.
Dazzled by the magnificent spectacle,
I turned to my companion, unable to resist temptation. She must have instantly read the purpose in my face, for she grasped my sleeve.

"No; you must not think of remaining a moment longer. There will be a seat reserved for me, and Captain Grant is coming this way now. Something is wrong, I am sure; I have no time to explain, but promise me you will leave here at once—at once."

Her eyes, her words, were so insistent I could not refuse, although as I glanced about I felt convinced there was no danger in this masquerade, not a familiar face, meeting mine. At the instant Grant came up, elbowing his way through the press,
and staring insolently into my eyes, even as he bowed politely to the lady beside me.

"At least this is my privilege," he insisted, "unless there be another previous engagement of which I am ignorant."

"Oh, no," and she rested her hands on the green alcove, smiling from his face into mine. "We were waiting for you to come. Goodnight, Lieutenant Fortesque."

They had taken a step or two, when Grant halted, holding her arm tightly as he glanced back to where I stood.

"Would Lieutenant Fortesque spare me a moment after I have found the lady a seat?" he questioned politely.

"Gladly, if you do not keep me waiting too long."

"Then there will be no delay. Shall we say the parlor below?"

I moved, conscious of the mute appeal in the lady's face, yet with no excuse for refusal.

"As well there as anywhere, sir."

Once again we bowed with all the punctilious ceremony of mutual dislike, and he whispered something into her ear as they disappeared in the stream of people. My cheeks burned with indignation at his cold insolence.
What could it mean? Was he merely seeking a quarrel? Or was there something else concealed behind this resistance? In either case I knew not how to act, and yet felt no inclination to avoid the meeting. Studying over the situation I pushed my way through the crowd across the floor of the ballroom. There were a few people still lingering on the stairs, but, except for the servants, the parlor below were deserted. I walked the length of one of the great galleries, and halted in front of a doorway to await Grant's coming. I was eager to have this affair settled, and be off. I comprehended now the risk I had assumed by remaining so long, and began to feel the cords of entanglement drawing about me. There was a door opposite where I stood, and, starting toward it, I saw it open slightly, and,
back in the darkness, the beckoning of a hand. Startled, yet realizing that it must mean me, I stepped closer, gripping the hilt of my sword, half suspecting treachery.

"Quick," and I recognized the deep contralto of the voice. "Don't stop to question; there is not a moment to lose."

CHAPTER V.

The Threat of Swords.

Stepping from the glare of those gleaming parlor lights into the gloom of that narrow passage, blinded me for the instant, yet a moment later, I became aware of the distant glimmer of a candle, the faint reflection revealing the girl's face.

"Please do not talk; do not ask anything—yet," she urged hurriedly, noiselessly closing the door at my back, and as instantly gripping my sleeve. Her breath came quickly; her voice trembled from suppressed excitement. "Come with me, beyond the light yonder."

I followed her guidance, bewildered, yet having every confidence the reason for this mysterious occurrence must be fully justified. The passage curved slightly, terminating at a closed door. Scarcely a reflection of the candle reached us here, yet my eyes were by now sufficiently accustomed to the gloom so that I could trace the outlines of her face. A vague doubt took possession of me.

"You are coming me to run away from Grant?" I protested blindly. "You are making me appear afraid to meet him."

"No, it is not that," she swiftly. "He was not coming to you personally at all—you were to be arrested!"

"What! He knew me then?"

"I am not sure—some one did, and mentioned his suspicions. Captain Grant was glad enough of an excuse, no doubt, but he," the soft voice faltering, "he made a mistake in twitting me for being friendly toward you."

"And you came to warn, to save me!" I exclaimed, pressing her hand.

"That was nothing; I could do no less. I am only glad I knew the way."

"You mean how you might reach me first?"

"Yes; it came to me in a flash when he first left me alone, only I was not certain in which parlor you would be."

NEW WAY IN WICOMICO.

Wicomico while a young County, as compared with some of the others in the State is pretty old in the game of politics where it has been played by masters of the science for years, and it was generally thought all the tricks of the trade had been tested out here. This year however it is to be taught something new in this line. For the first time in the history of the County, strangers have been introduced to canvass the County and get the people to endorse a candidate of their choice.

It is impossible to say what effect a move of this nature will have on the results of the election.

As a general rule the people of a community resent the interference of outsiders and for this reason the effect of this method of conducting a campaign will be closely watched. If successful it may mean a new regime in political battles in this County.

"TEDDY" OR TAFT.

Who will carry Maryland, "Teddy" or Taft? That is the question now being asked all over this Nation. All eyes have turned from Massachusetts to this State.

A week ago both factions of the Republican party conceded that who was in Massachusetts would win in the Convention, but the result in the latter State was not decisive enough to settle the question and so the same story has gone out about Maryland. It is hard to prophesy about any fight that "Teddy" is taking part in, so we will not try. The fight, however, is as interesting to the Democrats as it is to the Republicans and both sides will eagerly await the return.

Baltimore and the Western Shore will be the big fighting points from now on to the primaries, although the Eastern Shore will have a stiff fight of its own to take care of.

FOR PRESIDENT.

The Salisbury ADVERTISER greatly deprecates the fight which is now in progress in this State and County over who shall lead the contest for the Democratic party in the next Presidential election—not that it does not believe the people ought to take part in nominating a man for President but that local issues should have been thrust into a campaign which by all rights ought to have nothing at all to do with local conditions.

We believe in organizations but we do not believe that organizations should jump into a primary fight such as this and attempt to carry a County or State over the wishes of the people. This paper has none but the best wishes for Mr. Clark, Mr. Harmon or Mr. Underwood and believes that either of these gentlemen would be a credit to the party if nominated and elected President. Mr. Woodrow Wilson is our choice because we believe, first, that he will make one of the best Presidents this Country has ever had if elected; that he stands closer to the people than do either of the other candidates mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination; that if nominated he stands a better chance of winning than does either of the others.

This is said without any feeling against either of the other gentlemen, who we hold in the highest respect and who we can support if nominated wholeheartedly and with enthusiasm. We submit that it is the duty of the Democratic party to find a man who can beat either Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Taft or any other man put up by the Republican party, and that this and this alone should be the standard adopted by every man when he goes to the polls next Monday to to cast his vote.

OUT FOR WILSON.

State's Attorney Bell Gives Strong Reasons For Supporting Jersey Governor.

Editors of ADVERTISER:

I am for Woodrow Wilson and advise others to vote for him at the Presidential primaries May 6th because Wilson is of southern birth, southern education and has a southern lady for a wife—and because he is a true exponent of the principles of Democracy.

I am for him because he is a fighter for the rights of the people, and wears no man's collar. This is shown by his great fight for the position of Governor of New Jersey, in which he led the advance guard of a forlorn hope, overcame a large Republican majority and has held the State in the ranks of the Democracy since.

As Governor he has, against the opposition of the great corporations and the bosses of both parties, secured such legislation in behalf of the common people and reform as to bring New Jersey from the rear of the procession of progress to the front of the progressive States.

Obedience to the mandate of the people expressed in the primaries, he forced the nomination of the people's choice, Martine, against the wishes of the corporations and the bosses, including his friend, Smith, who had aided in his selection as Governor. Surely a man who would do this is a true believer in the doctrine that a public officer is the trustee and servant of the people. This being so what man could be more suited for the Presidency?

Honest, honorable, moral and upright, a student of political economy and government from the days of his early manhood I believe him to be the man who is to lead the Democracy of the country out of the wilderness. That he is the strongest candidate that we could place before the people at this time is shown by the opposition to him of the Republican press, who are boasting the Hon. Champ Clark, believing they would have a better chance of beating him than of defeating Wilson.

That he will not be subservient to the bosses is shown by the fact that the bosses who are close to the corporation are all fighting him. In our own State the bosses who control Baltimore City are reaching out and trying to take control of the State—these bosses, whom I am sorry to say, I helped to lead the Democracy of Maryland to defeat last year against my better judgement are opposed to Wilson. Why, because they know he will not listen to them, against the wishes of the people.

The other Democratic candidates are all good men, but none of them in my judgement, measure up to the standard of Wilson—Wilson who will bring back to the White House the sturdy integrity, simplicity and faithfulness to the people as was shown by Washington, Jefferson and other Presidents in the early days. A vote for Wilson is a vote for the people, and your vote may decide. Go to the primaries; do your duty as you see it, and if you see it as I do your vote will be for Wilson.

Geo. W. Bell.

Proceedings of County Commissioners

At the meeting of the County Commissioners on Tuesday the commission on the road in Pittsburg District, petitioned for by W. T. Parsons and others, reported favorably.

Commissioner Ward and Engineer Clark reported on the condition of Division Street Bridge and were authorized to make necessary repairs. The committee on the road in Pittsburg District petitioned for by L. E. Richardson and others, reported favorably.

A petition for a tax ditch in Pittsburg District was presented to the Board. The following commissioners on the same were appointed: J. J. Atkins, E. P. Morris and E. L. Powell. A petition was presented to the Board to put down a crossing at the intersection of Railroad Avenue and the B. O. and A. Railway Tracks, near the Station in Maryland. The Board ordered Engineer Clark to take the matter up with the Railroad Co.

ANYTHING TO DEFEAT WILSON

No More Too Unscrupulous For His Opponents.

PLOT TO PARCEL STATES.

Supporters of Underwood, Clark and Harmon Divide the Union to Suit Themselves in a Desperate Effort to Turn Back Tide Setting in Favor of New Jersey Governor.

[Newark (N. J.) Evening News.]

The charge made by friends of Woodrow Wilson that there is a combination on the part of the supporters of Clark, Underwood and Harmon to defeat the New Jersey governor at the Baltimore convention has substantial evidence to confirm it.

It is charged that the states have been apportioned among the three candidates. Clark is to make the fight in Iowa, Wisconsin, Arkansas, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Kansas, California, New Jersey and Illinois; Underwood in Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana; and Harmon in Texas, New York, Delaware, the New England states, Pennsylvania, Ohio and adjacent states.

Harmon instead of Clark would have been chosen to lead the fight in New Jersey had he not refused to run in the home state of any other candidate. The primaries in Kansas and Oklahoma have already been held, and in both the contestants were Clark and Wilson. In Illinois only Clark petitions have been filed in opposition to Wilson. In Florida the name of Harmon has been withdrawn and newspapers that were supporting him have substituted Underwood as their candidate. In Wisconsin, where Harmon was supposed to be strong, his name has been withdrawn in favor of Clark.

This may not be a completely conclusive evidence of an understanding among the three candidates named, but it is pretty strong evidence.

While such a combination of forces can hardly be considered fair play, it is characteristic of the influences that are opposed to the nomination of Governor Wilson. They care little who the candidate is so that it is not Wilson, and they are ready to adopt any methods that will assist in bringing about his defeat.

It is not necessary to assume that Messrs. Clark, Harmon and Underwood are parties to what looks so much like a deliberate conspiracy. In this fight for the presidential nomination, they are little more than lay figures manipulated by powerful, but unseen, forces. Their putative managers are merely dummy directors, so to speak, who probably do not realize themselves that they are being used as catspaws for interests that see in the election of Woodrow Wilson a menace to their selfish and undemocratic purposes.

That it should be necessary to make such a combine as is alleged is a confession of Governor Wilson's strength. If he shall be nominated it will be the greatest victory over the allied forces of machine politics and privileged business ever achieved by a presidential candidate, for even William J. Bryan has always had the party machine with him, except in 1896, when his nomination was brought about by accident.

MUSIC.

When I hear music I fear no danger. I am invulnerable. I see no foe. I am related to the earliest times and to the latest.
—Thoreau.

Just as gymnastic exercise is necessary to keep the body healthy, so is musical exercise necessary to keep the soul healthy. The proper nourishment of the intellect and passions can no more take place without music than the proper functions of the stomach and the blood without exercise.—Plato.

City Council Meeting Monday Night.

A large delegation of merchants on Main Street was before the Council Monday night to protest against the ordinance removing awning posts from the sidewalk. The delegation asked that the ordinance be repealed. The Council promised to give the matter due consideration.

The City Solicitor was instructed to prepare an ordinance regulating the hitching of teams and stopping automobiles on Main Street, Division and Dock Streets. It is understood that this ordinance will prevent the hitching of teams and standing of automobiles on these streets.

The committee appointed to examine the Post Street reported favorably on opening a street from Race Street to East Locust Street.

City Engineer Shookley was instructed to lay out and establish the width of West Railroad Avenue to thirty feet from Isabella Street to the Railroad Junction.

The ordinance providing for the widening and straightening of Fawcett Street was passed by the Council and approved by the Mayor. The Mayor appointed U. W. Dickson, Fred L. Smith and Wm. E. Booth commission on condemnation.

THE LARGER AMERICA.

A commonwealth founded on freedom of conscience and security of individual rights is not an exclusive heritage of States America, but one shared by all the peoples of the hemisphere who, like ourselves, have passed through the severe trials that attend the founding of communities in a new land. However diverse our physical environments, however great the contrast between the natural obstacles to be surmounted, whether amid the snows and pine forests of the north or in the sierras of the equator and the pampas of the south, the aim of our respective enterprises, expressed in the undying words of Lincoln, has been the same—to bring forth on this continent new nations conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.—Secretary Knox.

When Well Known Salisbury People Tell It So Plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Salisbury the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every man, woman or child with kidney trouble will do well to read the following:

Mrs. Samuel E. Brittingham, 308 Elizabeth St., Salisbury, Md., says: "What I said in the public statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills in 1909 still holds good and I am pleased to make the fact known that I have had no further trouble from my kidneys. I was annoyed off and on for over a year by a sharp pain across my back and it always became worse when I caught cold or did much stooping. The use of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

waiting. I ran through the kitchen and down the back stairs; I helped the officers plan their decorations, and in that way learned of this private passage beneath the stairs. It was easy, but—oh, listen! they are in there now!"

We could hear voices through the interstices of the wall, and even distinguish words, as the speaker uttered little restraint. I felt the girl's slender figure press against me in the narrow space where we stood, and I clung to her hand, both remaining motionless and silent.

"That fellow has run, Grant," boomed some one hoarsely, "either afraid, or else what you say he is. See here, boy, did you see anyone in here lately in scarlet jacket?" "I don't just 'member," said I, answered a negro, hesitatingly. "I was busy over dar' cleanin' de sideboard."

"Well, he's not here now, that's certain," broke in Grant impatiently, "and we've been in all the parlors? What next, MacHugh?"

"Try to head him off before he can get out of the city, of course. That's his game, probably. Coburn, have Carter come here at once. Why didn't you nab the fellow upstairs, Captain? Pool play that, sending him down here."

"I didn't wish to create a row in the ball-room; he was with Claire Mortimer."

"Oh, I see," laughing coarsely. "Something besides military duty involved, eh?"

"I'll trouble you to be a trifle more careful, MacHugh," Grant said stiffly. "The fellow did her a small service in the afternoon, and she couldn't refuse dancing with him, as he was in uniform, and apparently all right. I advise you to drop that part of the affair. Here's Carter now."

I could hear the click of the newcomer's spurs as he crossed the room. MacHugh chuckled.

"Touchy about it just the same, I see; however we'll pass up the lady. Carter, there has been a spy in here tonight, calling himself Lieutenant Fortescue, of the 112th Regiment. He came through the lines this morning with despatches for Howe, I understand. Did you meet him?"

"No, sir, but one of my men was riding about with him all day—Watts; I heard him telling about it an hour ago."

"Is that so? Where'd they go?" "Covered everything, I judge, from Cambridge to the Lower Barracks. Watts said he asked questions of everybody they met, but he didn't take any notes. He liked the fellow, but thought he was mighty inquisitive. Where is he now, sir?"

"The devil knows, I don't, and you'll have to find out. He'll head north-west likely; he'll never try to cross the river here. How many men have you?"

"Twenty."

"Scatter them to every north post. The fellow had no horse, and your troopers can easily get ahead of him. Hurry up now." Carter departed with click of steel, and MacHugh evidently turned to his companion.

"We'll catch the lad all right, Grant. Some of those outposts will nab him before daylight. No use our waiting around here; let's go back upstairs."

The girl's nervous grasp on my arm tightened, her lips pressed close to my ear.

"I must get back to my place at the table," she whispered. "Surely you know what to do; this is a rear door; there are stables a hundred feet away; you must get a horse, and ride fast—you will do this!"

"Yes, of course—but how can I thank you?"

"Don't try; don't ever even think of it again. I hardly know what mad impulse sent me here. Now I have but one thought—to hurry you away, and get safely back myself—you will go?"

"Yes—but—"

"Not now! there is no time for explanation, promise anything. You heard what they said; every avenue of escape will be blocked within an hour. If you go at once you can outstride them—please, please go!"

She held out her hand, and I grasped it warmly, unable longer to war against the pitiful appeal in her voice.

"Yes, I'll go at once. But I take away with me a memory which will never permit me to be satisfied until we meet again. We have been together so short a time—"

"Had it been longer," she interrupted, "you would know me better, and care less, perhaps. I am a sham—a cheat," a trifle of bitterness in the tone. "You will learn all that some day, and laugh at yourself. Oh, I know you will; so not another word, sir. I am going; then, perhaps, you will."

There was a slight pressure of her fingers, and she had vanished so quickly I could only stare blindly along the deserted passage. Yet, an instant later, the peep of my predicament flashed back upon my mind, and I faced the immediate necessity for action. What her strange words might mean could not be interpreted; I made no attempt to comprehend. Now I must find means of escape, and learn the truth later. I opened the door cautiously, and stepped without, every nerve taut, every muscle braced for action. It was a starlit night, and the summers rear windows of the mansion cast a glare of light for some distance. The dark shadow of a high fence alone promised concealment, and, holding my sword tightly, I crept in that direction, breathing again more freely as I reached its protection unobserved. There was a guard stationed before the stable door—a Grenadier, from the outline of his hat—and others, a little group, were sitting on the grass a dozen feet away. If they had not been already warned I might gain a horse by boldness, but the probability was that here was where Carter had mounted his squad, and I would merely walk forward into a trap. I had better chance the possibility that some visitor had left a horse tied in front, or to one of the stables. With this possibility in mind I turned, and skirted the house, making myself as inconspicuous as possible. There were soldiers on the outside steps; I heard their voices without seeing them, and was thus driven to run swiftly across an open space, memory guiding me toward the opposite pavilion. Breathless, with heart beating fast, I crouched low in the shadow, endeavoring to make out my more immediate surroundings. There were no horses there, but I could clearly distinguish the stamping of restless hoofs somewhere to the right. As I straightened up, determined upon discovering an empty saddle if possible, the figure of a man suddenly loomed directly in front, advancing toward me. In startled surprise I took one step backward, but was too late. Already the eyes of the newcomer had perceived my presence, and he sprang forward, tugging at his sword.

"Hold on there! hold on!" he commanded shortly. "Who are you? What the devil are you skulking about out here for?"

It was Grant beyond a doubt; I would recognize the peculiar snarl of that voice in a thousand. He had not gone upstairs then; had not rejoined the lady in the dining-room. What would she think of his absence? What would she do when she realized its probable meaning? Someway I was not frightened, at this meeting him, but glad—if those others would only keep away, and let us settle the affair between us. Here was his test—would he cry out an alarm, summon the guard to his assistance, or, if the fellow's nerve only held, or if he hated me badly enough, he'd fight it out alone. All this came to me in a flash, and the words of challenge spoken before he even grasped the thought of who I was.

"So I have discovered you, have I? Why did you fail to keep our appointment within?"

He drew up sharply with an oath, peering at me in the dark, bewildered by my speech.

"The spy! Ye gods, what luck! Do you mean to intimate I ran away, sir?"

"How else could I interpret it?" I questioned coolly, determined to taunt him to action. "I waited where you told me till I was tired. Perhaps you will oblige me by explaining your purpose."

He muttered something, but without comprehending its purport I went on threateningly.

"And I think you made use of the word spy just now. Did you mistake me for another?"

"Mistake you? No; I'd know you in hell," he burst forth, anger making his voice tremble. "I called you a spy, and you are one, you sneaking night rat. You never waited for me in the parlor; if you had you'd now be under arrest."

"Oh, so that was the plan?" "Yes, that was it, Mister Lieutenant Fortescue."

"Well, Grant, I stand sternly! 'I've got just one answer to make you. You can call your guard, or you can fight it out with me here. Whichever you choose will depend upon whether you are a man, or a cur.' I took a step nearer, watching him as best I could in the dark. 'You are an unmitigated liar, sir,' and with sudden sweep of the arm I struck him with open hand. 'Probably you will realize what that means.'"

For an instant he remained so still I doubted him, even held his breath; then the breath surged through his clinched teeth in a mad oath. He surged toward me, but my sword was out, the steel blocking his advance.

"You—you actually mean fight?" "Why not? Isn't that cause enough if I'll throw more?"

"I do not fight spies!"

"Stop! That silly charge is merely an excuse. You do not believe it yourself. You wanted a quarrel yonder in the ball-room. The expression of your eyes was an insult. Don't evade now. I am here, wearing the uniform of the British army. I have every right of a gentleman, and you will cross swords, or I'll brand you coward wherever there is an English garrison."

I saw the sudden flash of his drawn blade, and lunged up my own in guard. "Wait; not here, Captain," I insisted quickly. "We're far too near your watchful friends yonder; besides the light is poor. Let's try our fortunes beyond the pavilion, where it can be simply man to man."

He turned without a word, and I followed, eager enough to have done with the business. The stars gleamed on the naked weapons held in our hands, but we exchanged no words until we had rounded the corner and come forth into the open space beyond.

"Stains? They're Easily Taken Out," says Anty Drudge.

Mrs. Fidget—"Do you know, Anty, I am getting to be a regular crank. I watch every egg-mark or stain that the children make on the napkins and table cloth, and I get so nervous I can't enjoy my meals."

Anty Drudge—"Don't mind the stains and above all don't get nervous. Just rub Fels-Naptha soap on the spots, soak in cool or lukewarm water and rub lightly, and your napkins and table-cloths will be spotless."

The housewife is quite likely to be judged by the appearance of the wash as it hangs on the line. It is the one part of the household work that is all out of doors; all in the eye of your neighbors.

"How nice that wash looks" is a coveted washday saying. If you knew—it was either Fels-Naptha soap or too much work that gave the nice look. Drudgery may give it; Fels-Naptha soap will give it without drudgery.

Fels-Naptha makes the clothes clean and pure, because it DISSOLVES every particle of dirt.

You first soap the clothes, roll and place them in cool or lukewarm water for half an hour. You then find that only light rubbing is needed to make them pure as driven snow.

And it's as good for every other part of the household work as for the wash. A trial will convince you. Follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

FARM AND ROAD IMPROVEMENT

BIG STONE BOAT AND WAGON

Excellent and Convenient Arrangement of Montana Man for Clearing His Farm Land.

There are a good many stones on my farm, and it is often necessary in clearing the land to haul these stones a considerable distance, writes Geo. Parks of Montana in the Farm and Home. I have a large stone boat that is good for hauling stones a short distance, but it is rather clumsy and hard to get around when I take it from the buildings to the other side of the farm.

Roller on the Rear Bolster.

In order to save the dragging of this boat long distances I arranged my low-wheeled wagon so that I could put the stone boat on in place of the wagon box. This makes it convenient to transport the boat from one part of the farm to the other, and it also makes a good wagon for hauling stones long distances.

I am often required to load this boat alone, so I arranged a roller on the back bolster, so that when I lift the front end of the boat onto this it is easily pushed toward the front. This roller was made by setting a piece of gas pipe into two small pieces of 2x4. These pieces are supported in the drawing by a roller. The roller is set into these pieces in such a way that part of it projects up over the pieces as a. By keeping the rollers of this roller greased it works easily.

The boat may be kept in place after it is loaded by two small cleats shown at b in the drawing. Slide boards, c, may be easily made for the stone boat, and this makes it possible to haul other material besides stones.

TONGS TO HOLD PLOWSHARE

Tools Required When Sharpening That Will Stick and at Same Time Be Light and Short.

When holding a plowshare for sharpening, some kind of tongs that will stick and at the same time be light and short so that one will have the weight of the share close to the hand are necessary. To get a good grip with ordinary tongs they must have long handles and then the smith must take hold out near the end. This places the weight of the share so far from the hand that it is difficult to manage, and then the share will slip and turn where it is not wanted, says a writer in the Blacksmith and Wheelwright.

Benefits of Good Roads.

There is one side to the good road question which is a good thing and one which few farmers seem to think of and that is the market side. Why does the price of farm butter and eggs climb skyward in the towns every spring? Because of the short supply. These things pile up in the homes of farmers because they cannot get them to town. Good roads would make an even market all the year around and would add very largely to farm profits.

Two Plowings a Benefit.

Plow the garden as early as possible, then replow. The extra stirring destroys injurious weeds, eggs and insects, and renders the soil more pliable and productive. Seeds of tomatoes and celery, cabbage and eggplant should be started in the house or in cold-frames. Onion, reddish, lettuce and the harder seeds may be sown early in the open.

Improved Roads.

It is estimated that something in the neighborhood of $400,000,000 a year could be saved throughout the country by improving 80 per cent. of the roads in this country.

Good Roads.

There are 2,000,000 miles of unimproved roads in this country, and it costs an average of about two cents per bushel more to haul wheat nine miles to a station than it does to ship the same bushel from New York to Liverpool, 5,500 miles away.

Helps A Judge in Bad Fit.

Justice Eli Cherry, of Gillis Mills, Tenn., was plainly worried. A bad sore on his leg had baffled several doctors and long resisted all remedies. "I thought it was a cancer," he wrote. "At last I used Bucklen's Arnica Ointment, and was completely cured." Cures burns, boils, ulcers, cuts, bruises and piles. 25c at all druggists.

CURRENT WIT and HUMOR

Incontestable. One evening a golfer sat in his grandfather's old armchair, eagerly scanning the stop-press news, when his little son came to him and proudly exhibited a brand new "colonel," which he said he had found over at the links. "Are you sure it was a lost ball, David?" cautiously inquired the golfing sire. "Lost?" said David. "Of course it was lost. I saw the man looking for it."—World of Golf.

Those Cold Storage Eggs. Bill—Had a funny thing happen up to our house this morning. Jill—What was it? "Why, my wife put some eggs in the wireless cooker, so we could have 'em for breakfast, and the eggs must have took the thing for an incubator, for we got young chickens out of the eggs."

Not a Forebode Illustration. "Do you know," asked the abstainer, "that the money which the American people spend for drink in a single year would be sufficient to build a stone tower forty feet in diameter and a mile high?" "Would it?" asked the man with the spongy nose, "but who wants a silly old stone tower like that?"

Natural Curiosity. "A man who was rescued from drowning at a seacoast resort last summer, as soon as he recovered his senses, turned round and stared hard at the ocean." "What he do that for?" "He had swallowed so much of it he wanted to see if there was any left."

OO BAD.

First Tramp—"You've got a cold. Second Tramp—"Yes! I went to sleep under a wagon last evening, and during the night some one removed the wagon."

Any Day. The girl who shoots And shoots to kill, Can be a star In Vanderville.

Well Divided. Two brothers, each of whom is nearly six feet and a half tall, were one day introduced by an acquaintance to a young lady. As she sat gazing up at the pair of giants in wonder and awe, she exclaimed: "Great heavens! Suppose there had been only one of you!"

Not Enough Fanfare, Maybe. "I thought it was reported that Mr. Bluffery, the millionaire philanthropist, would give away a large sum to charity on the first of the month." "It was announced that he would do so, but it seems that he couldn't get the act of donation properly staged."

The Other Fellow. "Why do you always frown when I say 'we must economize?'" asked one statesman. "Your grammar is at fault," replied the other. "You shouldn't use the first person plural. You should say, 'they must economize.'"

Ignorant Lot. "And so you found the western cowboys disappointing," remarked the stay-at-home. "Terribly so," replied the girl who reads all the magazine stories. "They don't even know enough to speak their own dialect."

Reason Enough. Figg—"Don't you wish you could live your life over again?" Fogg—"Well, I should say not. I've got a 20-year endowment policy maturing this month."

What Texans Admire. Is hearty, vigorous life, according to Hugh Tallman, of San Antonio. "We find," he writes, "that Dr. King's New Life Pills early put new life and energy into a person. Wife and I believe they are the best made." Excellent for stomach, liver or kid, day troubles. 25c at a druggist.

For any itching skin trouble piles, hemorrhoids, salt rheum, hives, itch, scald head, herpes, scabies, Deane's Ointment is highly recommended. 50c a box at all stores.

QUESTIONS THEY ASK

When You Seek Job in Several of The Large Cities.

Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone, formerly of Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church of Baltimore, now of Chicago, Ill., talked to the young men of his parish recently on the questions asked by employers in different cities in investigating a man's personality.

"What man is worth?" said Dr. Stone, "should be transposed to 'What is man.'"

"In Boston one is asked: 'What does he know?'"

"In New York it is: 'What does he get?'"

"In Philadelphia: 'Who was his grandfather?'"

"In Baltimore he is asked out to dinner."

"In Chicago it is asked: 'What can he do?'"

"There are three kinds of man: The man of yesterday, the man of today, and the man of tomorrow. The first is not effective, while the last is a rainbow chaser. The man of today—right now—is the man for progress of country and government, right and truth."

Miss Letta Bamsley.

Mrs. Letta Bamsley, daughter of J. Hicks and Caroline Bennett, of Haverhill, died April 22nd, 1912, and on Wednesday her body was laid away to await the Resurrection Morn. The funeral services, conducted by Rev. J. W. Hartsely, of Maryland, were held in the M. F. Church at Haverhill.

In November last the deceased was united in marriage to Mr. Walter Bamsley, of Baltimore, an upright Christian gentleman whom she met while in college. They made their home in Baltimore, where she won many friends by her kind and gentle disposition, and above all by her noble Christian character. The high esteem in which she was held by her many friends was shown by the beautiful floral tributes which were sent to her home.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a father, mother, one sister and the young husband; yes they mourn not as those who have no hope. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the family in their bereavement.

THE TRI-COUNTY BANKERS

Semi-Annual Meeting Held in Pocomoke Wednesday.

The second semi-annual meeting of the Associated Banks of Somerset, Worcester and Wicomico Counties was held at Pocomoke City, on Wednesday of last week. Representatives were present from twenty-seven of the thirty banks in this territory. The Salisbury Banks were represented as follows: Salisbury National, W. S. Gordy, Jr., cashier; Farmers and Merchants, L. E. Williams, President, and S. A. Graham, cashier; Salisbury Building, Loan and Banking Association, T. H. Williams, cashier; F. L. Wallis and H. L. Brewington, directors; Peninsula Trust Company, H. H. Hawk.

A business meeting was held from four to six o'clock, followed by a splendid banquet. The Crisfield representatives extended an invitation to the bankers to hold their next meeting in that town.

The Metropolitan Players At New Academy.

With its lobby and auditorium decked with flags and flowers to celebrate the occasion, the New Academy of Music, Baltimore, was the scene of a gala occasion last Monday night when the Metropolitan Players made their initial bow to a Baltimore audience in Bronson Howard's splendid military drama, "Shenandoah." The stage of the Academy affording opportunity for spectacular effects of great beauty the scenic adornment of "Shenandoah" was such as to call forth approval and admiration. The battle scene rivaling the exciting chariot race in "Ben Hur," disclosed over one hundred persons on the stage at one time, the adequate military atmosphere for the picture being supplied by members of the Fifth Regiment.

—Mr. Aubrey Dennis and Miss Gustie B. Burdage, both of Powellville, were married Wednesday afternoon, May 1st, at the Salisbury M. F. Parsonage by Rev. L. F. Warner.

The Anti-Saloon League, The City. The Presidency.

The Anti Saloon League will take no part officially in the Presidential contest. However, the League recognizes that if the city liquor ring can pick a Presidential nominee and carry the state for him it will tighten the grip on state affairs which the counties are trying to throw off.

Thousands of temperance Democrats will vote at the election, even in favor of a Republican, against any Democrat supported by the ring, for they don't know any better way to discredit this ring than to prove, as a reparation for next fall's legislative election that it is impossible to elect any candidate who has its support. This was clearly proved in the defeat of Mr. Goran last fall by temperance Democrats as individuals after the League declared its official neutrality. And this sentiment is far more intense since the outrageous defeat of the local option bill by the Democratic organization in the recent legislative session.

Therefore, we advise those Democrats who want to carry Maryland for a Democratic candidate next fall to see that the State indorses somebody else than the ring candidate. The amazing effort of the ring to rehabilitate Speaker Tripp and overcome the odium growing out of his connection with the defeat of local option by naming him Chairman of the Clark Committee is an indication of how the ring is selfishly using the Presidential campaign in an effort to serve its special local interests.

At the recent annual meeting, the State Board of Directors of the Anti Saloon League decided, as a matter of policy, wherever it would not interfere with the direct local option fight, to oppose those responsible for the defeat of the local option bill, or their candidates, no matter how high the office to which they aspire.

This also means that if Mayor Preston should be nominated for Vice President, the Maryland League, whose Superintendent is a member of the National Headquarters Committee of the Anti Saloon League of America will carry the fight to the whole country.

J. P. MORGAN IS AGAINST WILSON

Moneyed Interests Behind Fight to Prevent His Nomination.

STATEMENT BY COL. A. S. BACON

Cham Clark's Connection With the Financial Powers is Traced Through Ex-Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota—Why They Hate the Governor of New Jersey.

In a booklet written by Colonel Alexander S. Bacon of New York and issued by the Woodrow Wilson Management J. P. Morgan & Co., with other money interests, are specifically charged with being behind the fight against Governor Wilson.

Colonel Bacon traces the connection through ex-Senator Richard Francis Pettigrew of South Dakota, one of the leading managers of the Cham Clark cause. Pettigrew has written many letters for circulation through the middle west, saying things which the Wilson people declare are untrue.

Senator Pettigrew, Colonel Bacon says, has always been a servant to James J. Hill and the Hill railroad and has boasted that Hill enabled him to make half a million dollars. Now, says Colonel Bacon:

"The bankers for the Hill lines and the interests for years identified with the Hill properties are J. P. Morgan & Co. The fact that Pettigrew is taking the lead in this crusade against Wilson lends considerable weight to an impression that is pretty general as to the real forces fighting Wilson. Wilson is the one man, above all, whom the special interests are determined to defeat.

The financial powers hate him not only because they regard Wilson as a "dangerous man" but because they regard him as "a traitor to his class." They hate him for his attempts to democratize Princeton; for his refusal to let their representative, ex-Senator James Smith, return to the United States senate; for the popular measures he has placed upon the statute books in New Jersey; for his refusal to take their money for campaign purposes. They hoped for better things than this from Woodrow Wilson; at first they regarded him as one of themselves—taking the popular side, Wilson has unclassified himself.

Above all, these forces know that once Wilson is elected they will lose control of the government. Senator Pettigrew is precisely the type of man these forces would select to serve their ends.

The plan of campaign engineered against Wilson is no secret. Pettigrew is loudly campaigning for Speaker Clark. Pettigrew and his fellow campaigners, however, care nothing for Clark. Wall street cares nothing for Clark. Had Pettigrew all the electoral votes in his hands at this moment he would not cast them for Clark. What Wall street wants to do is to defeat Wilson. It has collected a large campaign fund, not to nominate Clark, but to destroy the New Jersey man.

Likewise politicians of the moneyed interests are pushing the candidates of several men against Wilson. As the sugar trust years ago testified that it contributed to the campaign of both parties, so the Wall street financiers are now supplying money to the backers of Underwood, Harmon and Clark. They realize that there is only one national candidate—Wilson. Clark, Underwood and Harmon have followings only in certain localities, while Wilson is strong in every state. They have therefore determined as a fixed policy to use the favorite sons in states where they are especially strong merely as tools to keep the delegates from Wilson. Underwood is strong in Alabama, and as a southern man naturally finds favor in other southern states.

Mr. Harmon is presumably popular in Ohio and perhaps in the several eastern stand pat states, so Wall street pushes Harmon ahead in these quarters, keeping Underwood and Clark out of the struggle. Similarly Clark is being pushed forward in the west, and so the anti-Wilson managers push his candidacy in these sections. It is in a campaign of this kind that men like Pettigrew, in spite of his record, have a certain usefulness.

The first part of Colonel Bacon's letter answers the charges so freely made by Pettigrew, Hearst and George Fred Williams of Massachusetts. According to William Randolph Hearst, the chief backer of Cham Clark, Wilson is "a federalist." According to George Fred Williams, he is "a horrible tory." One of Pettigrew's accusations is that Wilson was brought up in an atmosphere of great wealth; he was "president of an aristocratic college, located in New Jersey, in an atmosphere of trusts and political corruption."

Colonel Bacon points out that Wilson's father was a poor Presbyterian preacher and that the boy's bringing up was simple and democratic. He quotes from Wilson's books and magazine articles to show that politically he is the exact opposite of a "federalist" and "a horrible tory."

After saying that Governor Wilson at Princeton fought for Democracy Colonel Bacon goes on to tell how the moneyed interests, "which control the institution," proved too much for Wilson, and in October, 1910, Wilson resigned and "transferred his battle for Democracy to another field."

THE RECALL OF DECISIONS.

Reversal of decisions of our courts by popular vote is the most monstrous proposal ever presented to the American people. Of course I know there have been some unfortunate elections of judges in all parts of the country, especially on the Pacific coast and in the mountain states. But the idea that on that account assemblies of people who have never considered fully and indeed are not competent to consider judicial questions should reverse the careful decision of courts is foreign not only to all precedent in good government, but to the simplest ideas of common sense. If once that course is fairly begun all that we most prize ourselves upon is gone. The one thing which the various peoples of the world envy us about all other institutions is the possession of the supreme court. The most eminent authorities in all parts of the world speak of it with reverence as the greatest court ever created and the only one of its kind that has ever existed. If really the decisions of any of the courts can be reversed in obedience to popular whim it logically follows that all may be.

FATAL FACILITY OF DIVORCE.

What will the United States be 100 or 200 years from now if the present divorce rate continues to increase? All history shows us that monogamy is an attribute of the highest civilizations and that the real marriage must be held to last "till death do us part." It seems to me that the modern attitude of society toward the practice of securing a divorce is incredibly brutal and barbarous. Summed up, it is simply, "We have got into an awful mess, and let's get out of it as soon as we can." There is no slightest attempt, no pretense, even, toward loyalty, self sacrifice, the duty of service to a weaker brother or sister. There is only the base, selfish desire for individual happiness at the expense of a race ideal. The ideal society is that where divorce is perfectly possible in law, but where no one ever asks for it.—Dr. Stanton Coit, English Social Worker.

BE MERCIFUL.

Never hurt any one's self respect. Never trample on any soul, though it may be lying in the veriest mire, for that last spark of self respect is its only hope. Its only chance, the last seed of a new and better life, the voice of God which still whispers to it: "You are not what you ought to be, and you are not what you can be. You are still God's child, still an immortal soul. You may rise and conquer in this matter, and the railroad are more prosperous than ever before. It will be the same with the great industrial corporations when the government has finally worked out its ends. You will never get any self regulation from the corporations any more than you got it from the railroad. The government must act, and when it has acted you will find that the corporations will accept regulation and find that there is still a profit in doing business lawfully.—Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard.

GOVERNMENT REGULATION.

At first what a tremor ran through the business world when it was proposed to regulate the railroad! Before 1887 the interference of the government with private business was thought wildly radical. Today there is not a voice raised against the right of the government to do such matters, and the railroad are more prosperous than ever before. It will be the same with the great industrial corporations when the government has finally worked out its ends. You will never get any self regulation from the corporations any more than you got it from the railroad. The government must act, and when it has acted you will find that the corporations will accept regulation and find that there is still a profit in doing business lawfully.—Professor Albert Bushnell Hart of Harvard.

OVERWORKED AMERICAN HUSBANDS.

The poor, overworked American husband—how much his wife might relieve him of his burden and recall him from his money getting madness if she'd give up the money she spends on her bejeweled, bedecked butterfly self and the time she spends on bridge, for instance, and aim at some individual career of her own! How much more husband and wife would soon be getting out of each other in real comradeship as teammates and helpmates! Men would surely find it more enjoyable if women would become human beings instead of being content, as they are now, to be Adam's fifth rib.—Beatrice Forbes Robertson Hale.

POWER OF PUBLIC OPINION.

The price as actual ruler is always limited by public opinion, but what is there to limit public opinion if it holds sovereign sway?—Stahl.

Men will face powder and steel because they cannot face public opinion.—Chapin.

Wilson Offers Real Remedies

He Has Laid Bare Source of Nation's Troubles.

RESENTS SLUR AT TEACHERS.

President of the University of North Carolina Calls Attention to Services Other Educators Have Rendered to the Republic—Opposition to Governor Wilson Comes From the Privileged Interests.

By Dr. FRANCIS P. VENABLE,
President of the University of North Carolina.

Some of the politicians have contemptuously dismissed Woodrow Wilson's claims as a statesman and a candidate for the highest office in the gift of his party by speaking of him as "only a schoolteacher."

There are several hundred thousands of teachers in the country, and many of us are proud of the name. We resent the sneering use of it with the implication that because we are teachers we are unfit for other service. I do not feel called upon to debate this point nor think that it is at all necessary. The fling is an altogether unworthy one and shows a regrettable ignorance of the service rendered by teachers in the building of the nation and the part they have played as leaders.

Can we forget the part played by John Witherspoon, another president of Princeton, in securing the independence of our country and in safely launching the young republic, as well as a college president, James A. Garfield, was later on president of this republic when it had become the mightiest nation on earth, and that Robert E. Lee thought it no lowering of his dignity nor lesser service to end his life as a college president?

Has Not Lost Hope.

Now, I am not writing as a teacher or college president, but as a citizen, one who has for years thought over the problems which confront us in this great democratic experiment among the nations; one who has seen perils and fearful disaster, seeing slight hope in the various expedients which the years have brought forth and finding small comfort in the leaders produced, yet not losing hope. It has been the passion of my life to labor for the uplift of my people.

In Woodrow Wilson I find a man who has analyzed the situation and only a master mind could do. He has placed to the very center of things as with a surgeon's knife and laid bare the source of the trouble. I know of no other man who has done this or shown the capacity to do it. I know that this is the first and absolutely essential step in the eradication of disease.

Furthermore, he is a resourceful man and not without a remedy. If this is a government by the people then in some way the people must be got to exercise this right of ruling. Knowing that many are ignorant, many weak, many vicious, I realize that this does not mean the immediate ushering in of the millennium, but there is no other hope for Democracy.

I know Governor Wilson to be an honest and fearless man, who, seeing the right, will strive straightly to it without fear or swerving; that he is a foe to all wrong and untruth and injustice and under no bond to any man nor group of men.

I know him as a strong man, who has won decisive victories for the right, relying on himself, the justice of his cause and direct appeal to the people.

I know him as one whose whole life has been searched by those who would do him harm and no fault found that would stamp him as untrue or unworthy.

Reasons For Opposition.

I know him as one bitterly opposed by the seekers for office, the nonprogressives, the privileged interests. These are opposed to him because they believe him to be the man I have described and hold him dangerous where I see in him the hope of the coming of a better day.

Of course I do not class with them others who for different reasons find they cannot favor him.

That it is said that he cannot carry this state or that state because of the overwhelming opposition of the privileged interests is no reason for turning from him. We dare not bow to such dictation. The people must arise in their might and enforce their will or there is no hope anywhere of relief.

These are the reasons why I favor Woodrow Wilson for president of the United States.

Wilson Can Carry New York.

[Houston (Tex.) Chronicle.]

Senator O'Gorman of New York, the first genuinely Democratic senator the Empire State has had in a lifetime, says: "I have said to persons who asked my opinion that Governor Wilson would certainly carry New York state in the event of his nomination at Baltimore." The Texas organs of the special interests are telling their readers Wilson won't do because he can't carry New York. Of course they know better than the Democratic senator from New York.

To Mothers and Others.

You can use Bucklen's Arnica Salve to cure children of eczema, rashes, better, chafes, sores and crusts, humors, as well as their accidental injuries—cuts, burns, bruises, etc., with perfect safety. Nothing else heals so quickly. For boils, ulcers, old running or fever sores or piles it has no equal. 25 cts at all druggists.

Check a Cold.

At the very first symptoms of a cold it is well to commence treatment, for by doing so serious developments may be prevented. Let camphor be inhaled, give the feet a hot bath in mustard and water, after which the patient should get into a warm bed with a hot-water bottle to the feet, and drink a large tumblerful of hot lemonade made thus: The juice of a lemon, a large teaspoonful of glycerine, a little sugar; fill up with boiling water.

ADVERTISING FOOD PRODUCTS

Statement of Prices and Description of Goods More Apt to Get Business Than Generalities.

Merchants handling provisions should understand better than any one else the value of advertising. Food is the most vital need of all. No other advertising gets such interested reading as a well-written notice describing food offerings.

Manufacturers of food products on a national scale learned this some time ago. Money is poured out like water to advertise food products in magazines. It must pay, or it would not be spent.

Yet, in the local newspapers, the grocers, butchers, and other provision men do not advertise with the freedom shown in the dry goods, furnishings, furniture and other trades. Probably the reason for this is that many merchants of this type never studied advertising enough to realize its possibilities. Here is a sample ad, clipped from an article in the Publishers' Guide:

Brandon's Corner Grocery. Remember when in the city to make this your trading place. Highest market prices paid for country produce, and always a square deal. We always carry a full line of staple and fancy groceries. Canned goods a specialty. Brandon's Corner Grocery. Phone 281.

This is an excellent illustration of how not to do it, says the Moline (Ill.) Dispatch. There is no selling power in that ad. It tells the public that Brandon is alive and wants their trade, which has value as far as it goes. But it might go a great deal further.

The provision man who will mention prices of some of his best lines, describe them a bit so as to stir the appetite of the reader, will find his store crowded. Here are a few items from a well written ad, showing how the trick is turned:

Celery, Presley's white plume, crisp and tender, extra good flavor, large plant for 10 cents.

Sweet cider, made from the choicest apples, per gallon, 25 cents.

Oysters. Our oysters come in sanitary sealed packages. The ice never touches. Remember our price. Solid meats, quart, 40 cents.

How to Advertise.

Advertise to beat the band and get rich. How long do you suppose Steers Hawbuck or Montgomery Ward would do business if they didn't send out catalogs every month and the oceans of big fellows they send out must cost them at least $1 a piece in large quantities. The same with Mother Mulligan's Honkory Sooling Syrup, Dr. Beadon's Pink Pills for Pale People and Brown River Toasted Corn Cobs. Why, if advertising did not make people call for these varieties they might go home with "something just as good" and ruin their digestion with H. H. Binkum's Baled Hay or Skinkum Poodle's Sawdust Jimjammer. The man that doesn't advertise, as Bryan said, is like the fellow that throws kisses at his sweetheart in the dark. He may know what he is doing, but she doesn't and that is where the rub comes.—E.R.

At both ends are large crosses and on one end the words "Religion for Men" and on the other end "Men for Religion." At the bottom is "Men and Religion Forward Movement." ## DELAWARE BOULEVARD

Discussed—Endorsed By Wilmington Board Of Trade—Mr. W. B. Miller Makes Strong Address Before It.

The proposition of building the Delaware Boulevard through Delaware which has met with so many snags was the main topic at the Wilmington Board of Trade meeting held in that City this week.

The Boulevard was enthusiastically endorsed by the speakers and those present. Among those who addressed the meeting was Mr. Walter B. Miller, of this city, who spoke about the project and pointed out the advantages resulting from Good roads. The Evening Journal in commenting upon Mr. Miller's speech says Mr. Miller, of Salisbury, Md., unleashed a tide of eloquence that brought waves of applause back from his hearers. Mr. Miller is a wealthy resident of Salisbury, a republican who stood with Gov. Crothers, of Maryland, a democrat, to whom he paid a befitting tribute in the Governor's effort to obtain an appropriation of $5,000,000 for road improvements of Maryland. Mr. Miller, too, fought in the good roads cause with Governor Goldsborough of Maryland.

His story of how good roads in Wisconsin have brought about wonderful benefits, have increased land values, are causing a splitting up of farms into smaller farms, thus bringing in more farmers, all carried its appeal as did his story of how the property owners contributed their own money to help build roads.

He told of his offer to buy all the farms between Delmar and Seaford a distance of twelve miles.

"Gentlemen, that proposition stands yet, thundered Mr. Miller, as his audience of 250 persons burst into applause. I will be a richer man than I ever dreamed of if I can get the people to do it."

WILSON CARRIES COUNTY

The Eastern Shore And The Popular Majority Vote Outside Of Baltimore City.

Wicomico witnessed a very warm primary fight on Monday when the democrats and the republicans joined in the presidential contest of their respective parties.

On the democratic side Woodrow Wilson made a clean sweep carrying nine of the fourteen districts and carrying the county over Clark by 198 votes.

Supporting Mr. Wilson in this contest was the Woodrow Wilson Club and many admirers throughout the County, while the organization or at least a part of it placed their strength behind Mr. Clark. Mr. Harmon was not backed by any active workers which together with the fact that many who believed in him were convinced he had no chance in this State swung their votes to either Wilson or Clark which accounts for his small vote in this County.

The result of the friendly contest demonstrated what the followers of the New Jersey Governor had claimed all along—that the natural sentiment in this County was in favor of Mr. Wilson.

The main effect of the organization of the followers of Mr. Wilson was to hold together his followers and show those who while believing in him might have deserted his column if they had seen no organized effort in his behalf.

The Eastern section of the County was solid behind the winner, Pittsburg, Willards and Dennis District giving him their support although opposed in all these Districts by seasoned party workers. Parsons was the banner Wilson District giving him a majority of 195 while Camden and Delmar were not far behind. Salisbury also went into his column, as did Sharpstown and Nutters. Nantux gave Clark his largest majority in the County with 119, while Trappe, Harren Creek and Quantico were also in his favor. The biggest surprise in the vote was given to the Clark supporters in Delmar which they confidently counted on carrying, but Wilson led there by 74 votes.

Harren Creek, Quantico and Tyaskin were also a surprise owing to the very small majorities brought up for Clark in these districts.

The majorities by districts in this County follows:

	Wilson	Clark
Harren Creek.....	10	10
Quantico.....	36	37
Tyaskin.....	35	35
Pittsburg.....	125	125
Parsons.....	22	22
Dennis.....	38	38

Sharpstown.....	74	74
Delmar.....	119	119
Nantux.....	92	92
Camden.....	26	26
Willards.....	498	240

Wilson's majority 198.

The Eastern Shore of Maryland was also carried by Wilson. Cecil, Kent, Talbot, Caroline, Somerset and Wicomico giving him their votes. Dorchester and Queen Anne went for Clark while Worcester went for Mr. Harmon. Baltimore City went solid for Clark which gives him a majority in the Convention and the 16 votes of Maryland.

Outside of Baltimore City, Wilson carried the State both by delegates and popular vote. He carried twelve counties, Harmon one and Clark carries ten counties and the four Districts in Baltimore City.

The fact of the Baltimore City's organization support of Mr. Clark cost him thousands of votes in the State and was a strong factor in determining the result in Wicomico County.

The vote in the Convention will be as follows:

	Delegates	O. H. W.

B. FRANK KENNERLY

Mayor—Warm Fight Tuesday—Democratic Nominees Easy Victors.

Hardly had the tired democrats gone to their rest after the strenuous primary fight on Monday and eager waiting for returns that night when they were called upon to face another warm contest in the City Election.

The friends F. A. Grier sprang his candidacy for Mayor against the regular democratic Mayor, Mr. B. Frank Kennerly at the last moment and strained every nerve to put him over. Despite the fact that almost every democrat in the City limits was out the day before to support his choice for the Presidential nomination, they turned out in full force to elect the regular ticket.

Automobiles were pressed in service by Mr. Grier and his friends and were busy all day hauling load after load of voters to the polls, yet with all the efforts made by these Mr. Kennerly carried the city by a very comfortable majority. Over 1100 votes were cast in this election one of the biggest votes ever cast here in a City election. There was no opposition to the Councilman ticket.

The vote follows:
B. Frank Kennerly 707
F. A. Grier 484
L. Thomas Parker 728
Sanford A. Townsine 729
Wilmor L. Tilghman 730
E. H. Hitch 3

B. FRANK KENNERLY.

Mr. Kennerly, the successful candidate for Mayor is one of the best known business men in this City and will make one of the best Mayors this City has ever had. He is well versed in City affairs and is a level headed progressive business man.

DEATH OF MISS FISH

Aged Lady Dies At Her Home On Isabella Street After Long Illness.

Miss Frelia Fish died at her home on West Isabella Street, this city, on Friday night last, about ten o'clock, after a long illness. Miss Fish was one of three surviving sisters and one surviving brother, children of the late Bennett and Mary Fish. She was born in this city, on November the 17th, 1833, and spent her whole life in Salisbury, except a few years in the South with her brothers during the war.

The deceased lady was one of our best known residents. She has been connected with the social life of Salisbury for more than sixty years and numbered her friends by the hundreds. She was one of the most prominent members of the Episcopal Church of this city and gave her life to work among her people and was a great favorite with the members of all denominations of Salisbury. Miss Fish was a woman of lovely disposition, a great lover of children and one of the kindest and sweetest ladies of this city. She will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends.

Miss Fish leaves two sisters, Misses Lottie and Eliza Fish, of this city; a niece, Miss Carrie Fish, of this city; one brother, Mr. William Fish, of Shreveport, La., and three nieces of the same place, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Gray and Miss Nellie Fish. Funeral services were held at the Fish home Tuesday morning of this week. Interment was in the family plot in Parsons Cemetery.

A Notable Lady Dead.

Miss Margaret Hoffman Polk, a cousin of former President Polk and of Bishop Polk, died on April 26th, shortly before midnight at the home of her nephew, Joe Bannister Hall, in Walbrook, Baltimore. She was 88 years old. She was a daughter of Capt. William Winder Polk and Alma Townsend Polk and was a member of the famous Polk family in Maryland. The family owned a plantation which still bears the name of Polk's Ferry. It is on the north side of the Manokin river in Dame's Quarter, Somerset county, and was one of the two tracts first taken up nearly 200 years ago by St. Mary's, who, with his wife and eight children, had just emigrated from the north of Ireland.

WHO ARE JUSTICES OF

The Peace? Two Sets Now Acting In Wicomico—Bad Mix-ups May Result.

The Governor has appointed new men to fill the offices of Justice of the Peace in this County taking the ground that the term of the old set expired by constitutional limitation on May the 6th. This point of view is not accepted by the present incumbents who holds that in order for a successor to their office to be legally appointed he must be first confirmed by the Senate.

As a result we have here in this city two distinct and separate sets of Justices. Mr. Chas. Covington and Mr. Edward Mills, two of the appointees, have received their commission, taken the oath of office and are now engaged in administering the office.

In the meantime the old Justices, acting under legal advice, are still at their old stands transacting whatever legal business may come their way. It is getting to be a very serious matter and the question should be settled and that speedily, for it is certain that one or the other is wrong, and the business now being done may all have to be done over.

People with deeds, mortgages and other legal papers which require signing before a magistrate are at a loss what to do. If they make a mistake and go to the wrong one the paper is so good. The same condition exists in the criminal and civil suits.

The mixup came about by the failure of the Senate to confirm the appointments made by Governor Goldsborough.

It is also said that the old appointees believe that they are legal Justices because the Governor has named the same men that were named to the Senate but failed of confirmation. The Constitution forbids the appointment of those rejected by the Senate after the Legislature adjourns. On the other hand it is pointed out that the Senate neither confirmed nor rejected these men but simply ignored all the Governor's appointments for this County. Whoever contention is the correct one this matter should be tested out with as little delay as possible in order to avoid any bad mixing in our business transactions as well as for the good of law and order.

Amos W. Woodcock Resigns From the Staff of St. John's College.

Dr. Thomas Fell, President of St. John's College, has received the resignation of Prof. Amos W. Woodcock, instructor in Mathematics, to take effect at the close of the present school term next month.

With Professor Woodcock five of the faculty have decided to quit the other four having tendered their resignations about two weeks ago. Differences existing among the faculty which caused the other four to resign is said to be the reason that prompted Professor Woodcock to follow suit. It is asserted by those who have quit that certain members of the faculty have been inclined to give athletics too important a place in the curriculum at the College, so as to produce a material effect upon the scholastic training of the students.

Professor Woodcock is a graduate of St. John's Class of 1905. His home is in Salisbury, Maryland. For several years he has been a member of the faculty. The others who have resigned are: C. W. Stryker, history and political economy; Edward S. Armstrong, English; and Barrie McLane, biology and botany.

Order of Exercises At Catholic Church Sunday.

The Right Rev. J. J. Monaghan, Bishop of Wilmington, will administer Sacrament of Confirmation in the Catholic Church next Sunday. The Order of exercises will be as follows: at 8 a. m. Mass will be said by the Rt. Rev. Bishop and first Communion conferred on some children; at 10:30 High Mass and sermon. After Mass a class of 15 candidates will be confirmed. Sermon by Rt. Rev. Bishop Monaghan. The ceremony will close with the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The musical program for the Confirmation Day in the Catholic Church will be Mass in D Major, Offertory, Veni Creator—Ammen. To God High Enthroned—Gonad. In the evening at Vespers: Harmonized Psalms. O Salutaris—Tosar. Tantumergo—Bethoven. Praise Ye the Lord—Gonad.

Will Move to Salisbury.

Mr. Clayton O. Parker, one of the most prominent citizens of Parsons District, and a large land owner, has purchased two lots of the Davis tract on East Church St., 100 feet front, and will build the erection of a modern residence, and will occupy it with his family when completed. Mr. Parker paid $1,400 for the land.

Pianos and Organs!

The Lyric Bell Pianos
The R. S. Howard Co.

THESE PIANOS are made by Italians, the greatest musicians of the world. Mr. Chris. Sterling, of Crisfield, Professor of Music, in speaking of these pianos, said that they had the finest tone of any pianos he had ever used.

I pay cash and can therefore sell at the lowest price. I have sold Stieff's, Chase & Hackley, and other makes, and I consider these pianos to be greatly superior to any I have handled during an experience of over twenty years. Organs taken in exchange. New pianos as low as $150.

I also buy and sell Lumber, Cord Wood, Farms, Dwellings and Lots.

WORKERS AND EATERS.

Whereas God Almighty has given to every man one mouth to be fed and one pair of hands adapted to furnish food for that mouth, if anything can be proved to be the will of heaven it is proved by this fact—that that mouth is to be fed by those hands without being interfered with by any other man who has also his mouth to feed and his hands to labor with. I hold if the Almighty had ever made a set of men that should do all the eating and none of the work he would have made them with mouths only and no hands, and if he had made another class that he intended should do all the work and none of the eating he would have made them without mouths and with all hands.—Abraham Lincoln.

THE PILGRIM SPIRIT.

The pilgrim spirit has not fled; It walks in noon's broad light, And it watches the bed of the glorious dead. With the holy stars by night; It watches the bed of the brave who have bled And still guard this icebound shore. Till the waves of the bay where the Mayflower lay Shall foam and freeze no more. —John Pierpont.

PRAYERS.

Make us of quick and tender conscience. O Lord, that discerning we may follow every suggestion of thine indwelling spirit.—Christina G. Rossetti.

Grant unto us, Almighty God, of thy good spirit, which if we have the storms of life can hurt us but little and the cares of life vex us not at all.—George Dawson.

Grant unto us that the fire of thy love may burn up in us all the things that displease thee.—Roman Breviary.

Lift my soul above the weary round of harassing thoughts to thy eternal presence.—Pusey.

As thou hast given to us a life of high vocation, so may thine own breathing in our hearts interpret for us its sacred opportunities.—James Martineau.

TOO MANY LAWS.

There are too many laws, too many courts, too many appeals, too many technicalities. Nobody knows the law. Nobody can know the law. In these days a law library would fill a barn. The human mind cannot comprehend such a mass of stuff, and its bulk is increasing at an appalling rate. Judges, governors and legislators are working at a feverish pace among lawbooks. Thousands of thick volumes constitute the written law. Five appellate courts may be in session at the same time rendering decisions and writing opinions necessarily and, in fact, in conflict with each other. One legislature makes a law for the guidance of the people; the next legislature repeals it. A governor advocates the passage of a law, and then in a few months urges its repeal. Under such conditions who can know the law? The law should be firm and positive. It has come to be like quicksand and slips faster than you can place your feet. This uncertainty of the law propagates litigation. It breeds lawsuits. Its havoc upon the taxpayer is frightful. A large percentage of cases it costs the public more to foot the bills of the litigation than it would to pay the claim in dispute.—W. O. Howard of New York Supreme Court.

RACE SUICIDE.

The people who are maintaining the human race today are the barbarians, the half civilized and the ignorant and brutalized people, not the people that have inherited the wealth, the knowledge and the advantages of civilization. The human race of the future will not be the descendants of the people that we now regard as superior. A great many persons have an idea that if every family has two children that will maintain the race. It won't. Every family must have an average of four plus two, because you have to allow for the children that die in infancy; those who do not marry and those who do, but have no children. Those who have a family of less than that number are not maintaining the race. It is perfectly plain the American race of the future is not to consist of the posterity of the people that are doing things today. Their days are about over.—Professor Franklin H. Giddings of Columbia University.

The Demons of the Swamp. are mosquitoes. As they sting they put deadly malarial germs in the blood. Then follow the chills and the fever of fever. The appetite flies and the strength falls; also malaria often paves the way for deadly typhoid. But Electric Busters kill and cast out the malarial germs from the blood; give you a fine appetite and renew your strength. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Brewster, of Louisiana, N. O., "three bottles drove all the malaria from my system, and I've had good health ever since." Best for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. 50c at all druggists.

OLD AGE.

If you would insure a peaceful old age be careful of the acts of each day of your youth, for with youth the deeds thereof are not to be left behind.—Isaac Disraeli.

When a noble life has prepared old age it is not the decline that it recalls, but the first days of immortality.—Mme. de Staël.

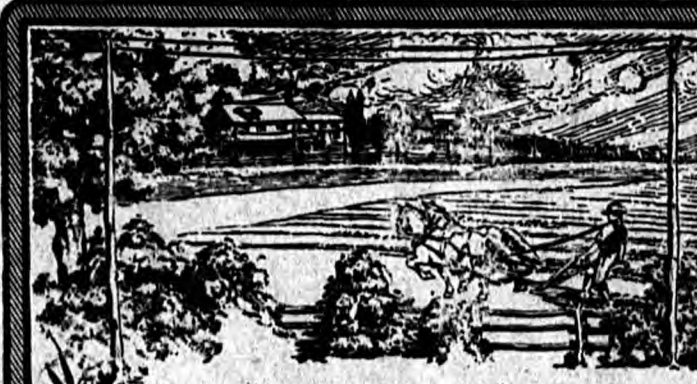

Before old age it was my chief care to live well; in old age it is to die well.—Seneca.

DANCES IN SCHOOLS.

The advantages from a moral standpoint of including instruction in dancing in some part of our public school work are many. In the first place, if the teaching of dances were in the hands of the physical training instructors or other experts the dances themselves could be made more artistic, more beautiful and more valuable. When responsible teachers of dancing set the styles and the ballroom manners of our young people the "turkey trot" and the "bunny hug" will be considered bad form. Every dancer knows that in the open, lively, rollicking figure or movement there is no opportunity for immodest behavior, and the more difficult the dance is the more pride the young people take in performing it.—Clarence A. Perry of Russell Sage Foundation.

COMPETITION WILL ENDURE.

No matter how strong corporations may be in certain lines of trade, the emulative spirit in man, with his desires and ambition, will ever tend to a course of action independent of them. There will always be minds alert enough to circumvent the designs of the most powerful combinations and spirit bold enough to wage battle against them. In almost every line of endeavor there are natural conditions which cannot be overcome by any concentration of wealth. In the railroad business, for instance, no combination, however strong, can ever hope absolutely to dictate rates while the rivers, lakes and oceans exist. These natural waterways fix maximum rates today beyond which the railways cannot go. The conditions which would curb a combination of the railroads exist in other forms in the various lines of trade, and while the human race exists and possesses the same instincts and feelings that now inspire and urge people to action I think the day will never come when competition will be eliminated.—E. F. Bush, President Missouri Pacific Railroad.

The Telephone in Planting Time

In the early Spring, when the plowing, the cultivating and the sowing are going on, telephone on the farm will work wonders for you.

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.
Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in over-
coming rheumatism,
pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder
and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to
hold water and scalding pain in passing it,
or bad effects following use of liquor, wine
or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant
necessity of being compelled to go often
through the day, and to get up many
times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for
everything but if you have kidney, liver
or bladder trouble, it will be found just
the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has
proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all
readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle
sent free by mail, also a book telling
more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention
reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Newburgh, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent
and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake
but remember the name, Swamp-Root,
Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Newburgh, N. Y., on every bottle.

MONUMENTS

IN erecting a monument, one should remember that it is not
a mere mass of stone, but a memorial of honor that is to perpetuate the memory of the departed. Therefore, select the best material, look to its beauty of design, and the quality of material.
Many years in the monument
business has taught us that good monuments cannot be made at cut prices, but it has also taught us
how to make the best monument
at the lowest possible price.

We have on hand a complete as-

place at your disposal. We use nothing but the best stones. Come in

CHAPTER VI.

The One Hope.

As he stopped and faced about, I astantly halted.

"Perhaps this spot may satisfy your requirements," he said sarcastically.

"This far enough away at least, and the light is not so bad."

"It will do," I replied, and threw my scarlet jacket on the grass. "Strip to the white, sir, and then we can see fairly well where to strike. That's better. On guard!"

He came at me fiercely enough, confident of his mastery of the weapon, and, no doubt, expecting me to prove an easy victim of his skill. His first onslaught, a trick thrust under my guard, caused me to give back a step or two, and this small success yielded him the over-confidence I always prefer that an opponent have. I was young, agile, cool-headed, instructed since early boyhood by my father, a rather famous swordsman, in the mysteries of the game, yet I preferred that Grant should deem me a novice. With this in mind, and in order that I might better study the man's style, I remained strictly on defense, giving way slightly before the confident play of his steel, content with barely turning aside the gleaming point before it pricked me. At first he mistook this for weakness, sneering at my parries, as he bore in with increasing recklessness.

"A club would be more in your line,
I take it, Mr. Lieutenant Fortesque," he commented sarcastically, "but I'll play with you, while for practice—ah! that was a lucky turn of the wrist!
So you do know a trick or two? Perhaps you have a parry for that thrust as well! Ah! an inch more and I'd have pricked you—your defense is not bad for a boy! By all the gods, I tasted blood then—now I'll give you a harder nut to crack!"

I was fighting silently, with lips closed, biding my breath, scarcely hearing his comments. Every stroke, every thrust gave me insight of his school, and instinctively my blade leaped forth to turn aside his point. He was a swordsman, stronger than I, and of longer reach, yet his tricks were old, and he relied more on strength than subtlety of fence. He countered with skill, laughing and taunting me, until his jeers made me fight grimly, with fresh determination to end the affair.

"By God! you have a right pretty thrust from the shoulder," he exclaimed. "Been out before, I take it.
But I'll show you something you never learned. Odds, I'll call your boy's play!"

"Better hold your breath, for you'll need it now," I replied shortly. "The boy's play is over with."

Step by step I began sternly to force the fighting, driving my point against him so relentlessly as to hush his speech. Twice he circled, striking, countering, fighting, our blades glittering ominously in the starlight, our breathing labored with the fierceness of the fighting. Both our swords tasted blood, he silencing my forearm, I piercing his shoulder, yet neither wound sufficed to bring any cessation of effort. We were mad now with the fever of it, and struggling to kill, panting fiercely, our faces flushed, the perspiration dripping from our bodies, our words darting swiftly back and forth. He was my match, and more, and had we been permitted to go on to the end, would have worn me down by sheer strength. Suddenly, above the clash of steel, came the sound of voices; our blades were struck up, and the dark forms of men pressed in between us.

"Stop it, you bores!" some one commanded gruffly. "Hold your man, Tolston, until I get at the reason for this fighting. Who are you? Oh, Grant! What's the trouble now? The old thing, eh?"

I had no desire to wait his answer, confident that Grant was sufficiently still, yet quick to seize the one and only chance left, I grabbed up my jacket from the grass, and sprang into the darkness. I had gained a hundred feet before those behind grasped the meaning of my unexpected flight, and then the tumult of voices only sent me flying faster, realizing the pursuit.

The only open passage led directly toward the river, and I raced through the black night down the slope as though all the fiends of hell were after me. I heard shouts, oaths, but there was no firing, and was far enough ahead to be invisible by the time I attained the bank. An open barge lay there, a mere black smudge, and I stumbled blindly across this,
dropping silently over its side into the water. It was not thought, but breathless inability to attempt more, which kept me there, clinging to a slat on the side of the barge, so completely merged in the river, as to be invisible from above. Sweating ferociously, my pursuers stormed over the barge, springing their swords along the edges to be sure I was not there.
One blade pricked me slightly, but I held on, sinking yet deeper into the stream. I could see the dim outline of heads peering over, but was not discovered. The same gruff voice which had interrupted the duel broke through the noise.

"I tell you he turned to the left, I saw him plainly enough. What did you say the fellow's name was, Grant?"

"How do I know? He called himself Fortesque."

"Sure; the same one Carter was sent out hunting after. Well, he dodged down there among those coal punks. This is the only way he could have disappeared so suddenly. Come on, all of you, except Moore and Car-taret, and we'll beat the shore."

I heard them scramble across to the bank, but there were sounds also proving the guards left behind were still on the deck above me. Then one of the fellows sat down on the edge of the barge, his feet dangling within a few inches of my head.

"Might as well take it easy, Bill," he said lazily. "They're like to be an hour layin' hands on the lad, an' all we got to do is see he don't fox back thisaway. Got any tobacco, mate?"

The other must have produced the necessary weed, for there was a scraping of flint and steel, a gleam of fire glimping on the water, and then the pleasant odor wafted to me in puffs of smoke. With one hand, I unbuckled my sword belt, letting it, sword and all, sink silently into the river. I must cross to the opposite bank somehow, and would have to dispense with the weapon. Inch by inch, my fingers gripping the narrow slat to which I clung, I worked slowly toward the stern of the barge, making not so much as a ripple in the water, and keeping well hidden below the bulge of the side. The voices above droned along in conversation, of which I caught a few words.

"Who was he? You mean the lad they're after down yonder? Oh, I mind now, you came up later after we'd started the chase. Holy Mother, I don't know much myself, now I come to think of it. He looked like a Britisher, what I saw of him, an' he was fightin' with a Captain of Rangers—Grant was the name; maybe you know the man—behind one of the stanks."

"They'll never get him," returned the other solemnly.

"Because it's my notion he swum for it. I was closest down the bank, an' somethin' hit the water."

"But there's the Jerseys over yonder; if he was a spy he'd be headin' the other way."

"It's little he'd think of the way with the gang of us yelpin' at his heels. Besides, there's plenty of his kind over in those Jerseys who'd take good care of the likes of him."

"But there's a guard stationed across yonder."

"Fish, a corporal's squad, just about opposite the ferry landin', an' a company of Yagers down at Gloucester.
There's plenty room between for a bold lad to find free passage."

The two fell silent, staring out over the water. They had set me thinking, however, and this knowledge of where the British pickets were stationed was exactly the information I most required. I had no desire to cross the Delaware, yet apparently in that direction lay the only remaining avenue of escape.

At the lower end of the float I managed to silently remove my boots, and then waited, listening to the movements of the men above. I must have clung there ten minutes, expecting every moment the party scouring the shore would return, yet not daring to make the venture with those fellows sitting there, and silently gazing out across the water. At last I heard them get to their feet, and tramp about on the flat deck of the barge, the low murmur of their voices reaching me, although words were indistinguishable.
I could hope for no better time. Filling my lungs with air, I sank below the surface of the river, and then, rising, struck boldly out into the full sweep of the current.

CHAPTER VII.

The Blacksmith.

I had come up gasping for breath, yell out in the stream, either above a whirlpool or the water.

There darker shadow showing above the water. How far I had been swept below the barge could not be guessed, as I could distinguish no outlines clearly, excepting the bare spars of a vessel, tied up to the west shore. As this ship had not been in sight previously I concluded the drift had been greater than anticipated, and I struck out quickly toward the opposite bank, fearful lest I be borne down as far as Gloucester before I could finally make land. It was a hard swim across the swift current, and I was nearly exhausted when I finally crept up the low bank, and lay dripping and panting in the shelter of some low bushes.
Except for the bark of a distant dog
there was no sound more disturbing than the rustle of leaves, and the lap-ping of water. As my breath came back I sat up, wrung out my clothes as best I could, and, with difficulty, drew on the boots I had borne across,
slung to my shoulder.

I possessed but a dim conception of where I was, yet knew I must make a wide detour to the east so as to escape
British foraging parties.

I must have plodded doggedly along through the darkness for fully five miles, without perceiving the first sign of habitation, or even a wood into which I could crawl for concealment, when I suddenly came upon a long, one-story stone building standing at the left of the road, a grim, silent, apparently deserted structure, one end of the roof caved in, and several of the windows smashed. I tried the doors, but they appeared firmly fastened. Far in the east there was a faint lightning of the sky promising the approach of dawn, and thus aroused to a knowledge that I must immediately attain shelter, I clambered through one of the broken windows, and dropped to the earthen floor within. I could see nothing, not even a hand held before my eyes, yet carefully felt my way forward through a tangle of rubbish, wheels, scraps of iron, some casks, a number of plough handles, and a ruffian of stuff I could not make out. The place had evidently been used as a repair shop, but must have been closed for months, as I could feel the grit of dust everywhere, and cobwebs brushed against my face as I moved about. Finally I felt the outlines of a large box half filled with paper, and, for want of something better, crept in and snug-gled down, intending to rest there until daylight should reveal my surroundings.

I was warm enough now, my clothing practically dry, but thoroughly tired from the long tramp over the dark road, and exhausted by the excitement through which I had passed.

Even my mind seemed dulled, and it appeared useless to think or plan. I had not intended to sleep, yet drowsiness came, and I lost consciousness.

I know not what aroused me, but it was already daylight, a gleam of sun through the windows turning the festooned cobwebs into golden tapestry. One side of the box in which I lay had been broken out, and I could see the full length of the shop, which appeared littered from end to end with all manner of implements of husbandry, and woodworking and blacksmith's tools. All this I perceived with my first glance, but it was the distant sound of a voice which as instantly held my attention. At first I could not locate the speaker, nor comprehend the peculiar singsong of the utterance. But as I lifted my head, listening intently, I knew the man to be beyond the wooden partition at my right, and that he was praying fervently. Somehow heartened by this discovery I crept out from the bed of papers, and stole silently forward to the narrow door which apparently led into this second apartment. The voice never ceased in its monotonous appeal, and I ventured to lift the latch, and take cautious glance through the slight opening.

It was a blacksmith shop of fair size, fully equipped with all the tools of the trade. The man was facing me, but with eyes closed, and uplifted, as his lips poured forth the fervent words of prayer. I was not a religious man in those days, yet the faith of my mother was not forgotten, and there was something of sincerity about that solitary kneeling figure I could not but respect. The words uttered, the deep resonant voice, and above all, the expression of that upturned face, held me silent, motionless. He was a man of short, sturdy limb, but great bulk, massive chest, and immense shoulders evidencing remarkable strength. What was this man, this praying blacksmith? A patriot surely, from his words of petition; one who had suffered much, but was willing to suffer more.

"TEDDY" MARCHING ON.
"Maryland, My Maryland." Yes
the unexpected happened in this State as it always seems to happen when "Teddy" is in the game and Maryland joins the ranks of other states supporting Mr. Roosevelt. It is hard to say just what is going to happen at Chicago. From the figures given out it would look like Roosevelt is fighting a cause which was lost long ago but other things have been known to happen when they got in the Ex President's way and why not?

THE NEW CITY OFFICIALS.
In the heat of the hot primary contest waged in both the Republican and Democratic parties the City election did not receive the same attention it would have done at some other time.

The result, however, is a matter of congratulation to our growing City and under the management of these new officials we should make greater strides than ever before.

Mr. Kennedy, the new Mayor, is a man of progressive ideas, yet careful and conservative in his actions. Every proposition which may be brought before him in his capacity of Mayor will receive careful consideration and will be handled in a way tending to promote the best interests of the City.
The new Council is composed of able men who will render every service in their power to help along the progress and prosperity of Salisbury.

The ADVERTISER extends to the Mayor and Council its congratulations and best wishes for their success in their great work. Large problems will come up for solution and care will have to be taken in order to avoid the mistakes so often made by a Town which is fast becoming a small City.
Our advice to them is to consult before taking action with as many citizens as possible and see what they think of the proposition but remember that the full responsibility lies upon their own shoulders and that after getting these views (which, of course, will vary) then use their own best judgment.

MONDAY'S PRIMARIES.

The result of the primaries in this County was not a surprise to those who were aware of the strong sentiment here in favor of Mr. Wilson.
Much has been said and more inferred as to the motives actuating many who were supporting both sides and most of this has not been anywhere near the truth. There are many, of course and always will be, who are anxious to cause dissatisfaction in the party ranks in order that some selfish end of their own may be furthered.

The true fact of the case is that those who were supporting Mr. Wilson were doing so because they believed he was the best man to win in this hard election fight of this fall and it is only fair to give the supporters of Mr. Clark the same motive for their support.

As to the various organizations behind the respective candidates it is proper to notice the difference between a body of Democrats organizing and supporting their choice and a regular party organization supporting a candidate with the powerful machinery of the party. The first have no inducements to offer to those who support their choice and cannot expect to win votes in any other way than by the force of conviction. An organized support of this kind should not be objected to by any one and can be indulged in with propriety by the supporters of any man or principle.

The people of this County on last Monday voted their sentiment and that is what we want if we are going to have nominations made by the direct vote of the people.

There is unquestionably a growing independence on the part of the voters in this County and we sincerely congratulate them upon this spirit. The day is not far distant when such a thing as a vest pocket District cannot be found in the County and when this reaches us we will then have primaries of the right kind and nominations which will truly express the will of the community.

It is to be hoped that every man in this County will adopt the slogan and his vote hereafter will be delivered by himself and not by some one else. The vote on last Monday can also be accounted for in any other way than that the sentiment was in favor of the national man.

Mysterious Disappearance.

Lee Whayland, a youth about 18 years of age, son of Marion J. Whayland, a farmer residing near Delmar, disappeared from his home a few days ago and no trace of him can be found.
Recently he was in the employ of the Home Gas Co., working in Delmar, and had saved a small sum of money which he drew from the bank shortly before his disappearance. Efforts have been made to locate him in some of the cities, but so far without success.
His mother is terribly distressed about him.

Had Narrow Escape.

Thomas McLaughlin, 22 years old a brakeman on the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad, had a narrow escape from death Thursday.
In trying to board his train at Bloxom his foot was caught by a switch lamp and he was thrown to the ground twice as he struggled to regain his footing. Each time he was struck by the train, the wheels barely missing him. He was rendered unconscious.
He sustained a bad wrench of the back and is suffering from the shock.
He was brought to Salisbury Hospital.

Parsonburg Church News.

Jerusalem Methodist Episcopal Church, Parsonburg, Md., is arranging for a great day next Sunday, May 19th. Mothers' Day will be observed in the morning at 10.30 using the order of service arranged by Margaret G. Songsters, which will be supplemented by several recitations appropriate for the occasion. A souvenir button containing a white carnation will be given those who attend. Let all mothers try and be present and while we come together to honor the mothers let us not overlook the debt we owe the fathers.

At the Evening service the Epworth League will observe its 23rd Anniversary using the regular programme entitled "The Modern Crusade." The church will be trimmed in the League colors, red and white. Don't fail to be present at both of these services.
The Sunday School is growing in interest all the time. Last Sunday was missionary day and the school gave over ten dollars for missions. Few country schools, if any will surpass it according to numbers. The committee on church improvements are pushing the work as rapidly as they can. They hope to have the improvements completed for reopening some time in July.

The Business and Social Meeting of the Epworth League met at the home of Miss Ella Hayman on Wednesday evening. The following officers were elected for the next twelve months.
President, Miss Ella Parsons; First Vice President, Mrs. L. M. Parsons; Second Vice President, Miss Edith Shockey; Third Vice President, Miss Clara Parlow; Fourth Vice President, Miss Clara Oliver; Secretary, Miss Katie Parsons; Assistant Secretary, John Parlow; Treasurer, Mr.
Louis Parsons; Organist, Mrs. Clara Oliver. Three new members joined the society. After the business meeting the League enjoyed a social from nine to ten o'clock and everybody expressed themselves as having a good time. The June meeting will be held at the home of Mr. John Jackson.
Don't fail to come.

W. A. Parsons.

W. A. Parsons, a well known farmer of East Princess Anne district, died at his home about four miles from town Sunday aged 78 years.
Mr. Parsons had been in ill health for several years, but had only been confined to his home for four weeks.
He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Lankford, and two sisters.
Mrs. James Johnson of Wisconsin county and Mrs. Isaac Gibbons of Somerset county. Mr. Parsons is a brother of the late George Parsons at one time sheriff of Somerset county and the late Pratt Parsons of Dublin District.

"JUDGE MADE LAW."

The just feeling pervading the community is that a bench of judges is no more competent than the legislature to decide as to the wisdom or necessity of laws for the health, safety and progress and the material and moral welfare of the community.
That is a matter of enlightened opinion which the courts have no right to arrogate unto themselves. The courts of Maryland do not do it, nor do the courts of any other country except ours.
And ours base the right to do so on fundamental or constitutional provisions for the safety of liberty and property, which are not peculiar to this country at all, but are to be found in all systems of government and jurisprudence. No such meaning was ever given to these safeguards of property and liberty until by the judges in this country. It is judge made law, pure and simple. It were well if the constitution of the United States were amended by the addition of a provision requiring it to be reconsidered by a constitutional convention every twenty years, the same as in this state, and in many if not most of our states.
A constitution must grow and change, like everything else, but the more gradual the better. As Macaulay says of the British constitution. "Although the changes have been great, there never was an instant of time in which the major part of it was not old." That is the way to amend constitutions and laws—gradually and prudently. But the class of decisions which I have mentioned never had any justification under the constitution, and it is annoying to have to keep on amending the constitution to nullify them.—Mayor Gaynor of New York.

TO DEVELOP THE MIND.

To look at things as well as we can, to inscribe them in our memory, to be observant and let no day pass without gathering something, then to apply oneself to those branches of knowledge which give the mind a sure direction, to apportion everything its value—this is what we have now to do.—Goethe.

MATRIMONY.

By taking a second wife a man pays the highest compliment to the first by showing that she made him so happy as a married man that he wishes to be so a second time.—Samuel Johnson.

However dull a woman may be, she will understand all there is in conjugal love; however intelligent a man may be, he will never know but half of it.—Mme.
Dea.

Is not marriage an open question when it is alleged from the beginning of the world that such as are in the institution wish to get out and such as are out wish to get in?—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

I know not which live more unnatural lives.
Obeying husbands or commanding wives.

fort come to see us and we will help

SCHOOL BOARD

Proceedings.—Mr. W. J. Holloway Re-Elected County Superintendent, Mr. Brownington Re-Elected President.

In compliance with the law, the School Board met Tuesday for re-election. On motion of Commissioner Isaac L. Pries, the minority member, seconded by Commissioner Jones, Commissioner H. L. Brownington was unanimously re-elected President of the Board. Mr. Pries also moved the re-election of Prof. W. J. Holloway as secretary, treasurer and county superintendent which was seconded by Mr. Brownington and Mr. Holloway was unanimously re-elected. Both president and secretary were re-elected for a term of two years.

In selecting Prof. Holloway to continue the work of supervision of our public schools, the three members of the Board paid grateful tribute to his efficient work in the cause of education in this county and the pleasure it afforded them to continue him in the work.

The next business taken up was the appointment of School Trustees for the ensuing year. Several changes were made by reason of resignations and deaths.

A committee representing the colored teachers of the county came before the Board and presented a petition asking for an increase in salaries the coming year.

The Board ordered that the regular examination for teachers certificates be held at the Wicomico High School on June the 11th, 12th and 13th.

The estimate prepared by the president and the treasurer of the amount needed to maintain the various High Schools of the County showing the total to be $8,365 and submitted to the County Commissioners under date of April the 30th was approved and ordered filed.

At Academy of Music.

Next week's offering by the Metropolitan players at the New Academy of Music will be the brilliant racing comedy, "Wildfire" by George Broadhurst and George V. Hobart. With the earmarks of the Broadhurst humor and the witty dialogue of the well known Hobart brand, this pretty bit of comedy goes sparkling through three acts with action and vim.

The play is an entertaining story about a widow finding herself, at her husband's death, the owner of a racing stable, much to her astonishment for her husband had lived a most austere life. Being without other funds she overcomes her innate prejudice against participation in such things as race horses, and with her trainer, brings to the track a mare of wonderful speed called "Wildfire."

Little plots of love, intrigue, racing gossip and track vernacular are interwoven to keep interest going until the last act when the pretty widow finds a millionaire suitor who has incidentally bought Wildfire and the widow's racing stable.

Sweeping with Ease

This has been made possible by the BISSELL Sweeper. It weighs but 5 1-2 pounds, operates by a mere touch, cleans thoroughly without injury to carpets or rugs, raises no dust, always ready, no burden to carry from room to room, is the only efficient cleaning apparatus that is offered at a price within the purchasing power of everyone.

BISSELL'S
"CYCLO" ROLL BEARING
Carpet Sweeper

exceeds all other cleaning devices in the work it does in the sewing room, dining room, or wherever there is a miscellaneous lot of litter to gather up. The "BISSELL" picks up without effort what other cleaners cannot gather, such as lint, large crumbs, matches, threads, ravelings, scraps of paper and cloth, etc. The "BISSELL" gives the Maximum Sweeping Efficiency at the Minimum Cost.

I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills in 1909 still holds good and I am pleased to make the fact known that I have had no further trouble from my kidneys. I was annoyed off and on for over a year by a sharp pain across my back and it always became worse when I caught cold or did much stopping. The use of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me."

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Ointment is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment.
Hall's Catarrh Ointment is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

more. The strength dissipated in that upturned face, those deeply marked features, revealed no common mental equipment. Here was a real man, with convictions, one with would die
for an ideal; without doubt a radical, ready to go to any extreme where conscience blazed the way.

As he finally paused, his head bowed low, I stepped forward into the light, confident of welcome, utterly forgetful of the uniform I wore. At the first faint sound of my approach on the floor he turned upon his feet, fronting me, the shortness of my stride making him a certain grotesque appearance, his deep-set eyes regarding me suspiciously. Before I could realize the man's intent he sprang between me and the outer door, his hand gripping an iron bar.

"A son of Basil!" came the roar from his lips. "How came you here in that uniform? Are you alone?"
"Alone, yes," I replied, the scarlet jacket into the dirt with a gesture of disgust. "I had even forgotten I wore it. Wait a moment. I heard your prayer, and know you must be with us. I am Major Lawrence of the Maryland Line."

He stared at me motionless.

"Then how come ye here?"

"I was sent into Philadelphia by

Washington himself, but my identity

was discovered, and there was no way to escape except across the Delaware.

I reached here during the night, and crept into your shop to hide. The sound of your voice awoke me from sleep, and I knew from your words that it was safe for me to come forth."

"You may know it, young man, but I don't," he replied gruffly. "We're a bit suspicious of strangers here in the Jerseys these days. The minions of Satan encompass us about. What have ye to show to prove your story?"

I shook my head, extending my hands.

"Only my word of honor. I had a pass from Hamilton, but destroyed

that before entering the British lines.

If I tell the whole story, perhaps you will understand its truth."

The expression of his face did not change, yet I thought the deep-set eyes were not altogether unkind.

"Being human, yes."

"You are hungry, no doubt?"

"Then we'll eat and talk at the same time. You're only one man, an' I'm not afraid of you, an' if ye are a Britisher I wouldn't starve you to death.

There's little enough, the good Lord knows, but ye're welcome to the half of it. Make yourself comfortable

there on the bench."

He threw open a cupboard in one corner, and brought forth a variety of food, placing this upon a wide shelf near at hand. Occasionally our eyes met, and I knew he was slowly making up his mind regarding me. This silent scrutiny could not have been altogether unsatisfactory, for, when he finally drew up an empty box and sat down, he was prepared to talk.

"Help yourself," he began gravely.

"It is rough camp here, but doubtless you are used to that. Do you know me?"

I scanned his face again intently, surprised by the question, yet recognized no familiar features.

"No," I replied, with some hesitation. "Have we ever met before?"

"Not to my remembrance," and the man's language and accent evidenced education above his apparent station.

"But I have some recollection of this part of the Jerseys, an' thought my name might be known to you. You would recognize the signature of George Washington?"

"I have seen it often."

He drew a flat leather case from a pocket inside his shirt, extracting therefrom a folded paper, which he opened, and extended to me across the table. With a glance I mentioned the few lines written thereon, recognizing its genuineness.

"Hamilton penned that," I said in quick surprise, "and it is signed by Washington's own hand."

"Right," he said shortly, "that bit of paper may save me from hang-

TEMPERANCE NOTES

ALCOHOL CAUSE OF DISEASE

Does More Than Anything Else to Render People Incapable of Withstanding Many Ills.

One of the many prominent physicians and chemists who are now wont to take opportunity to frequently pronounce against the use of alcoholic drink is Dr. G. Sims Woodhead, professor of pathology at Cambridge University, England. Dr. Woodhead's latest summing up is clear and striking, and is set forth as follows:

"Alcohol is perhaps the most important factor in the production of disease. It does more than anything else to render people incapable of withstanding disease. Alcohol prepares the human body for the attacks of disease, just as it did the extreme heat of the past season, the straw for the engine spark to set on fire. It can be proved that alcohol taken in comparatively small quantities interferes with the blood. It alters the fluid very slightly indeed, but certain substances become less active and are unable to do their work so well as usual. The fight between disease and the substance becomes unfair, the germs make use of their opportunities, invade the body and set up disease."

Take, for instance, the scourge of tuberculosis. During the last ten years the death rate from consumption has been declining. In London the decline was 19 per cent; in Paris 8 per cent. It is significant in regard to these figures that in this country (Great Britain) the death bill has during the same period dropped from $38.50 per head of the population to $18.55 per head, whereas in France it is very different. In this country with the decline of the consumption of alcohol has come a lower death rate from tuberculosis. We do not say this was the sole cause, but we do remark that the two things have gone on together. Better housing, clothing, education, feeding, and conditions of life generally have had a great deal to do with the fall in the death rate. At the bottom of all, however, we have the gradual diminution in the amount of money spent on drink. This is a tremendous gain to the nation.

"We, as medical men, have to do all we can to point out to the people that there is a very direct connection between tuberculosis and the amount of alcohol consumed. To get rid of tuberculosis, we must, of course, get rid of the tubercle bacillus. The bacillus can only do its work when placed in favorable conditions, and alcohol has the faculty of tilting and preparing the ground for its growth.
Were no alcohol in the soil, the bacillus would fall on very stony ground.
By taking alcohol the human being renders himself more open to attack by diseases of various kinds, and impairs his faculties often to a slight degree, but sufficient to interfere with his powers of doing good work. Alcohol we are satisfied is the doctor's worst friend because the doctor wants to get his patients well. The total abstinence will get well more quickly than if he takes alcohol, and a great many doctors believe it now. More are coming to believe it every day."

GREATEST CORSE OF THE AGE

Rev. Father McCarty Makes Strong

Arrangement of Rum Traffic—

Stands With Majority.

"I arraign the rum traffic as the greatest curse the age has known. Its pallor is on our nation and its blight is everywhere."

"You may ask where do I stand.

You have a right to know."

"Creep up close to the heart of God, who hates every evil thing. Ask him where he stands, and put me down on that side."

"Or if that is too much trouble, go to the poor, pale-faced woman, the wretched and half-starved children, the innocent victims of the accursed traffic. Ask them where they stand, and put me down there."

"Or if that is too much trouble, go out to your cemetery, and, creeping in among the graves of the victims of the demon drink, ask yourself as you contemplate their ruin, where in the name of all that is holy, a man should stand. When you have your answer,

put me down there."

"I stand here tonight giving no quarter and asking none, conscious that I am sustained by Heaven, endorsed by every good woman and every honest man. But if I should stand alone here, I shall stand, conscious that only with God is a majority."

Rev. Father McCarty.

Scientific Conclusions.

Prof. Sims Woodhead, in "Scientific

Conclusions," speaks of alcohol's

"power of repelling the leucocytes, the white cells of the blood, the policemen and scavengers of the blood, and so helping to drive them away from poison-forming organisms that may make their way into the body;" and moreover, tells us that "the child of an alcoholic mother must come into the world with an enormously diminished immunity to disease."

(To Be Continued.)

Her Responsibilities.

It is a woman's privilege to change her mind, is a time-old saying. All privileges carry great responsibilities.

If she has power to change her mind,

she has absolute control over her thoughts. And if they be impure, or mean, or shallow, or false, or un-genuine, she alone is to blame.

THE BIRD OF SPRING.

They'll come again to the apple tree—

Robin and all the rest—

When the orchard branches are fair to see

In the snow of the blossoms dressed,

And the prettiest thing in the world will be

The building of the nest.

—Margaret Bangster.

Each morning, when my waking eyes first see

Through the wreathed lattice golden day appear,

There sits a robin on the old elm tree,

And with such stirring music fills my ear

I might forget that life had pain or fear

And feel again as I was wont to do

When hope was young and life itself was new.

OBLIGATIONS OF FRIENDSHIP.

Don't flatter yourself that friendship authorizes you to say disagreeable things to your intimates. The nearer you come into relation with a person the more necessary do tact and courtesy become. Except in cases of necessity, which are rare, leave your friend to learn unpleasant things from his enemies. They are ready enough to tell them.—Holmes.

BOOKS.

God be thanked for books. They are the voices of the distant and the dead and make us heirs of the spiritual life of past ages. Books are the true levelers. They give to all who will faithfully use them the society, the spiritual presence of the best and greatest of our race. No matter how poor I am, no matter how the prosperous of my own time will not enter my obscure dwelling, if the sacred writers will enter and take up their abode under my roof, if Milton will cross my threshold to sing to me of paradise, and Shakespeare to open to me the worlds of imagination and the workings of the human heart, and Franklin to enrich me with his practical wisdom, I shall not pine for want of intellectual companionship, and I may become a cultivated man, though excluded from what is called the best society in the place where I live.—Channing.

AYRSHIRES GOOD DAIRY COWS

Almost Ideal Animal for Consumer on Account of Uniform Composition of Her Milk.

The Ayrshires are distinguished more as good average dairy cows than for heavy production either of milk or butterfat. In both these regards they occupy a position midway between Jerseys or Guernseys and Holsteins. An average herd of Ayrshires would probably produce more milk and butterfat than an average herd of other dairy breeds, but a selected herd of Ayrshires would fall much behind the production of a selected herd of the other breeds. For advanced registry, an Ayrshire cow must produce 6,000 pounds of milk and 214 pounds of butterfat as a two-year-old. The requirements gradually increase until the cow is five years old, when she must produce 8,500 pounds of milk and 322 pounds of butterfat. The milk tests somewhat less than 4 per cent. of butterfat and about 12½ per cent. total solids. From the standpoint of the milk consumer the Ayrshire is almost ideal, because of the uniform composition of the milk, but the heavy flow which many producers want for profitable production is lacking.

Twenty-four head of Ayrshire cows owned by different experiment stations in America produced an average of 6,533 pounds of milk per year and an average test of 3.85 per cent. of butterfat, or 253 pounds per year. The test of the milk 17 cows gave an average of 12.98 per cent. total solids. In this the fat represented 29.6 per cent. of the total solids, as compared with 34.5 per cent. for the Jerseys and 28 per cent. for the Holsteins. For veal production the Ayrshire ranks next to Holsteins. The calves weigh from 60 to 75 pounds at birth and are strong, vigorous and active. Doubtless no dairy breed produces as good beef as the Ayrshire. They fatten readily when dry and are said to dress out a good proportion of meat.

INCREASED YIELDS OF MILK

Pennsylvania State Experiment Station Makes Comparative Study of Sowing Crops.

The Pennsylvania state experiment station has made a comparative study of sowing crops for dairy cows. It was found that the chief influence upon quantity of milk produced during the experiments seemed to be closely related to the palatability of feeds. That is to say, those feeds eaten by the cows with the greatest relish, and consequently of which the largest quantity of green forage was consumed generally gave the largest yields of milk. This seemed to be true regardless of the amount of dry matter or percentage of protein contained in the feed. Briefly, the milk produced bore a much closer relationship to total green forage than to dry matter or protein consumed. The effect upon quality of milk was shown only in an indirect manner. In no case was a flavor imparted sufficiently marked to be detected after the milk was aerated and cooled. The percentage of butterfat seemed to vary inversely as the live weight of the cows. In other words, those feeds which produced a gain in live weight seemed to produce a milk containing a lower per cent. of butterfat than was secreted when the cows were losing weight. This was true regardless of the quantity of milk produced. The indications are that some feeds tend to fatten the animals themselves, while others tend to produce fat in the milk.

DAIRY NOTES

Observe with care and note as a first point that the cow should have a large and ample-sized body.

Cold rains are much harder on cows than dry cold. Damp cold penetrates to the bones. Provide dry shelter.

Turn separator with a steady and uniform speed and flush down with skim milk or water at end of separation.

One man says the first year of milking is the proper time in which to make the foundation for a persistent milker.

In dairying there is no excuse for the man who goes at it blindly and blames luck and the weather for his failure.

Dairying is not necessarily a complicated line of work but at the same time it takes care in order to make a success.

It is quite customary among dairymen to quit feeding calves skim milk when they attain the age of eight to nine months.

If you don't believe in keeping cows comfortable visit the stables of the men who get large milk checks. That ought to convince you.

If the cream does not ripen rapidly as is often the case in the winter time the addition of a small amount of buttermilk will help the ripening process.

WARNING AGAINST GREED.

Greed of Americans in their wild desire to pile up gold is a present day parallel of the dragon of disloyalty and jealousy that refused supplies to the army of George Washington at Valley Forge, the same that called Lincoln a clown and a canker and Grover Cleveland a wife beater. The Union stands strong against outside assault since it received its baptism of blood under Lincoln. Unless we ourselves surrender our right to be the only arbiters of its fortunes it is safe against foreign foes. No one will attack us. But from within there has come a peril against which it behooves us to make a solid and united front. Wealth has piled up. Poverty, in our cities, especially, seems more grievous by the contrast. This is a real peril, for the very soul of a democracy is this—a fair opportunity for every one. But with the piling up of great fortunes the human greed and selfishness which no political system can ever cure as long as men are what they are have grown like a deadly vine tree, and there has come a gap in our ranks in which we hear the old dragon of disloyalty hiss.—Jacob Rills.

FRENCH PROVERBS.

The man is best served who has no occasion to put the hands of others at the ends of his arms. He who devours the substance of the poor will find at length a bone to choke him. He must needs swim that's held up by the chin. What makes many persons discontented with their own condition is the absurd idea which they form of the happiness of others. What orators want in depth they give you in length.

SIX SENTENCE SERMONS.

Resolve to perform what you ought. Perform without fail what you resolve.—Franklin.
If there is a harvest ahead, even a distant one, it is poor thrift to be stingy of your seed corn.—Carlyle.
Not in the clamor of the crowded street. But in ourselves, are triumph and defeat.—Longfellow.

The new man takes the old circumstances and, bringing God to them, makes of them the new life.—Phillips Brooks.

Though the past is irrevocable, it is not irreparable.—F. B. Meyer.

Do all the good you can, by all the means you can, in all the ways you can, in all the places you can, at all the times you can, to all the people you can, as long as ever you can.—John Wesley.

QUEENS ON WOMAN'S SPHERE.

Being gentle and good seems to me the loftiest ambition a woman should possess. No reward of wealth or state can equal the satisfaction felt in performing a kindly act. It is a tendency of woman's nature to be too harsh in judgment, too imperious in commands. The exchange for this of kindness and gentleness surely ought to make the world better.—Margherita, Queen Dowager of Italy.

Secure a home and be able to manage it. Be to the home what her husband is to his business affairs, a director and an authority. I believe a woman ought to bear children. A home without children is not complete.—Alexandra, Queen Dowager of England.

NATURE AND THE CHILD.

For many blessings I to God upraise
A thankful heart. The life he gives is fair
And sweet and good, since he is everywhere
Still with me even in the darkest ways.
But most I thank him for my earliest days.
Passed in the fields and in the open air,
With flocks and birds and flowers, free from all care
And glad as brook that through a meadow strays.
O balmy air, O orchards white with bloom,
O waving fields of ever varying green,
O deep, mysterious woods, whose leafy gloom
Invites to pensive dreams of worlds unseen.
To thoughts as solemn as the silent tomb,
No power from you my heart can ever wane!
—Bishop John L. Spalding.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

Never desire to appear clever and make a show of your talents before men. Be honest, loving, kindly and sympathetic in all you say and do. Cleverness will flow from you naturally if you have it, and applause will come to you unsought from those who know what to applaud, but the applause of fools is to be shunned.—Professor Blackie.

BACKACHE NOT A DISEASE

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. OLLIE WOODALL, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

TRINITY MISSION SOCIETY

Reading And Vocal Numbers Given At Home Of Mrs. Potts.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, South, entertained at the home of Mrs. Thomas N. Potts last Friday evening. The large reception hall was decorated with spring flowers, green and white being the color scheme. Receiving with Mrs. Potts were the officers of the Society—Mrs. J. F. Carey, president; Mrs. G. Williams Phillips, vice president; Miss Louise Tullman, recording secretary; Miss Emma Powell, treasurer, and Mrs. J. L. Price, voice agent.

Receiving in the library were Mrs. W. F. Messick, Mrs. W. B. Tullman and Mrs. McKinney Price. Guests entering the room were immediately confronted with many mottoes, maps, pictures, flags, etc., everywhere on the walls. Everyone was given a missionary souvenir.

The entertainment program was as follows:

Instrumental solo, Mrs. Carey. Reading, Junia Hayman. Solo, Mr. Benjamin Woolston. Reading, Mrs. Gus Hayman. Quintette, Messrs. Ben Woolston, Ray Carver, R. F. Starr, W. F. Messick and George Williams.

Reading, Miss Emma Powell. Solo, Mr. Oden Brothen. Serving in the dining room were Mrs. M. F. Barr, Mrs. Ben Woolston, Misses Lola and Elsie Smith, Miss Sara Phillips, Miss Frances Price, Misses Mary and Minnie Potts and Miss Mary Gony.

NEW KIND OF ROAD

Or, Rather, An Old Form—Sod Mixture—Advocated By Washington Expert.

The County Commissioners after going thoroughly into the subject of road building in Wicomico County have decided to try out the experiment of building a mile or so of sand clay road leading from Salisbury to Shoemaker Mills. Mr. Winslow, Government Expert Engineer from the Department of Roads in Washington, spent several days in Salisbury last week and was taken over the roads by Engineer Clark and shown the different soils in the several sections of the County and he at once told the County Commissioners that he could construct the sand-clay roads the kind which the Government has built in many sections of the United States and that we have the materials right here to construct these roads at a very limited cost.

Speaking of the subject Mr. Winslow said: "In the first place I want to say that I was never more surprised in the condition of the roads than I was on coming here. I did not suppose for a moment that you had advanced so far in the matter of road building. You have more good roads in this County by a few hundred percent than I expected to find and your shell and stone roads are well constructed, showing very clearly that your Engineer is a man of experience and capacity and knows his business. The cost of constructing these roads has been low when freight on material, etc., are taken into consideration and you have advanced to such a degree that it is not necessary for you to have a Government Engineer here to build roads as you are perfectly capable of building them yourselves."

"As to the construction of the sand-clay roads I wish to say that you have the necessary materials on most of your roads for their construction. These roads can be built from $400 to $600 per mile according to how far you have to haul the materials, and I should judge that you will average about $600 per mile in this County. These roads when properly built will last from fifteen to twenty years and can be maintained at 50¢ per mile per year. The proper proportions are two parts of sand and one part clay mixed dry and put together with water. The frost does not affect these roads in winter and some of these roads which were constructed by the Government in Northern States twenty years ago are good today. With mixing machines these roads can be constructed correctly the whole scheme being in getting the proper proportions of sand and clay and the proper mixing. A drag and harrow is all that is necessary to keep them in repair. I would be glad to come down here and assist in making a mile or so of this road just to show what can be done."

"You have an abundance of the proper material in all sections of the County where I have been. It is not a serious matter to assemble these materials although sometimes you might have to haul them a distance of five or six miles to get them together. Even then the cost of building the roads will not exceed the amount mentioned."

If these roads can be constructed in this County it will be a great blessing to the people. The cost of shell roads and the maintenance after they are built preclude the use of this material in Wicomico County. The expense is too great both for building and maintenance and we must find some other material from which to construct our highways. The Commissioners are on the right track and we hope their experiments will prove satisfactory.

$1,000 Raised For Korea At Banquet On Monday Night.

On Monday night the Official Board of Trinity M. E. Church, South, gave a luncheon to the men of the church. Interesting addresses which aroused much enthusiasm were delivered by the following persons:

Mr. I. L. Price, chairman of the Board; Mr. G. Williams Phillips, Lay Leader of Trinity; Mr. I. E. Jones, president, and Mr. R. F. Starr, teacher of the E. E. Jackson Barren Class; Rev. J. Franklin Carey, pastor; and Dr. Thomas N. Potts, presiding elder. The needs of Korea were presented by the pastor and presiding elder and one thousand dollars were pledged as a special contribution towards evangelizing that country.

The First Methodist Protestant Church, of Milford, Del., will be dedicated Sunday, May 26th. Rev. L. A. Bennett began this work in Milford, on September 25th, 1910, and only had eight persons to preach to. Since that time there has been 300 conversions; a Sunday School of 400 scholars and a large congregation. They have built a church costing $23,000. It is one of the largest churches in Delaware. Also a very beautiful building with a seating capacity of nine hundred or more. All this has been done in the last eighteen months. A most remarkable growth.

CHAUTAUQUA COURSE

Here?—Much Interest Being Shown—Meeting At City Hall Wednesday.

Salisbury is to be given a chance for a great treat if she sees fit to accept a proposition which has been made by the Chautauqua Association. This association offers to spend a week here and offers a bill of entertainment of such a character as few ever expected to be offered to a city of this size. In addition to the exceptional literary programme, forms of amusement are offered which would be well worth a trip to some distance to see and hear. An Italian band of the first class is to give concerts. This feature alone would cost probably more than $500 per day if hired by itself. Carl Germain, the greatest living wizard of today will demonstrate tricks of magic and sleight of hand performance. Mr. Germain is considered next to the great Kellar and is fresh from a two year contract at the St. George Theatre, London. Opera and other noted musical forms of entertainment will be furnished by artists with National reputation.

It must be borne in mind that this is not a money making enterprise but like all the other Chautauqua educational, and is intended to fill a much needed place in the education of this County.

A meeting is to be held at the City Hall, eight o'clock Wednesday evening to go further into details about getting it here. This meeting should be well attended by the people of this City, so that they can hear the details of this movement and see if it is not possible to give the people of this City a chance to get it here.

The Chautauqua will be held in tents furnished by the Association and fixed up so as to best accommodate the various forms of entertainment.

EARLY MORNING WEDDING

Miss Johnson And Mr. Hubbard Married Here.

Miss Alice G. Johnson, of this city, and Mr. M. M. Hubbard, of Philadelphia, were quietly married at six o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Harper, on Walnut Street by Rev. W. T. M. Heale. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate relatives of the bride.

The bride was attired in a traveling suit of blue broadcloth, with hat to match. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harper, Misses Margaret and Sarah Johnson, sisters of the bride, motored to Delmar, where the bride and groom took the 6.57 train for a tour to Washington, Ashville, N. C. and other southern points. On their return they will occupy apartments in the Shelbourne, Philadelphia.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allison Johnson, of near Salisbury for several years, where she is popular in social circles. The groom holds a very responsible position with the great Northern Railroad Company, being District Passenger Agent in Philadelphia, and is a nephew of Mr. U. E. Harper, of this city.

SENATOR SMITH WINS

Fight—Counties Control Convention—City Bosses Lose Hot Contest.

As was prophesied in this paper during the recent primary fight, Baltimore City made an attempt to seize the State organization of the Democratic party at the Convention which met in Baltimore on Thursday.

County men were dumbfounded on Wednesday to learn that "Sonny" Mahon, Mayor Preston and the rest of the Baltimore City leaders, had made a complete list of the men whom they intended to send to the National Convention as delegates from this State. It was presumed that the various counties and Congressional Districts would have the naming of the men who were to go from their counties and District. As soon as it was first rumored that a complete slate had been made up by Baltimore City, the report was discounted and received with a smile of disbelief, but when it was ascertained that the report was true the delegates and County leaders were first dumbfounded and then highly indignant.

Senator John Waller Smith took the helm at once and rallied all the County leaders and delegates to his support to defeat the plans of "Sonny" Mahon and his cohorts. From the time Senator Smith got into the fight to save the State from the greedy grasp of Baltimore City, things commenced to happen thick and fast and kept on happening clear up to the meeting of the Convention. The Baltimore City people were just as busy and made a strenuous effort to hold their forces in line and to win enough of the County votes to force through their program, but without avail.

Senator Smith with the assistance of Congressman Covington, Mr. Miles, Comptroller Harrington and other leaders on the Eastern Shore soon had that section solidly behind him in the fight, against the city domination. Congressman Talbot, Peters, of Montgomery, Frank Furst, of Baltimore City, and other leaders in Southern and Western Maryland, rallied to the side of the State against the City and it was all over. Each Congressional District in the State held their meeting and agreed upon the personnel of the men who were to represent the District in the National Convention.

The City people, seeing they were defeated, gave up the fight and accepted what the State people offered—the naming of the delegates from the Congressional Districts lying wholly inside the City. It was very evident that if they refused this proposition that the State people had the vote to name every delegate and organize the Convention.

By many this was looked upon as the first gun in the fight outlined by the City people and Senator Gorman, of Howard County, for the leadership of the State, and that they were after Senator Smith and the State organization. It is true they made a very serious blunder in the way they went about it as it would seem that any body of men would have more political judgment than to attempt to dictate to the various Counties and Districts of this State, whom they should name as delegates.

So that as it may they have strengthened the position of Senator Smith in this State very materially and made the County men all over the State see the necessity of having a man as a leader who has the nerve and ability of making a fight when the interest of the State demands one to be made, and it has also shown the County people that if they turn over the organization to the City crowd they would have to submit to the same treatment which is now handed out to the City people. In other words they would be told what they had to do and be forced to accede to the slates made out by Mayor Preston and "Sonny" Mahon.

The following is the list of delegates at large selected by the Convention:

John Walter Smith, of Worcester; Lector Haynor, of Baltimore City; J. Harry Preston, of Baltimore City; Arthur P. Gorman, of Howard County; John J. Mahon, of Baltimore City; Jasper N. Willison, of Allegany County; J. F. C. Talbot, of Baltimore County; Joshua W. Miles, of Somerset County.

And those from the First District: J. Harry Covington, of Talbot County; Emerson O. Harrington, of Dorchester County; Emerson Orobars, of Cecil County; Thomas J. Keating, of Queen Anne's County.

Hon. Jas. T. Treitt, of this County, was selected as the Elector at large for the entire State.

Grover C. Collins, a flagman, and Roland R. Phillips, conductor, were seriously injured while riding in the door way of a box car in Jackson Brothers Company's yard Monday afternoon. The door of the car was struck by a chute which projected from the mill and both men were caught. Collins' head was badly lacerated and his jawbone broken. Phillips' left leg was badly crushed. Both were taken to the Peninsula General Hospital, this city. They are residents of Delmar, Del.

GOV. WILSON AND LAWS FOR LABOR

Real Service He Rendered to New Jersey Workers.

FOUGHT BY INSURANCE MEN

They Threatened to Raise All Their Rates if Employers' Liability Law Were Passed, but Became Quiet at Hint of State Offering Indemnity.

[Sacramento (Cal.) Union.] When Woodrow Wilson became governor of New Jersey he found that wealthy employers had been given the laws they desired regardless of the welfare of the thousands of men, women and children on their payrolls. He found that in the factories of this state scores had been killed or maimed for life and that there was absolutely no provision for the protection of the families of those workmen engaged in hazardous occupations. He found that the bosses had been carrying out the wishes of the interests from which they had obtained campaign contributions.

That was the situation in corrupt New Jersey where the conditions of labor had been notoriously oppressive and seemingly hopeless for a generation. But Governor Wilson determined to change it and with his customary vigor tackled the problem.

Employers' Liability Law. One of the reforms he effected was the enactment of a strong employers' liability law. But for this he had to fight with the same grim and unswerving purpose that had obtained the German primary election law. After the bill had been introduced in the legislature and became known as one of the governor's measures the insurance companies sent representatives to the capitol and through them threatened reprisal. "If you enact such a law we'll raise the rates on all insurance throughout the state. We'll pile them up on everybody," they said. But the bluff didn't work.

"Very well, gentlemen, as you please," replied Governor Wilson, "but remember that if you try anything of this kind it may be necessary for us to establish a system of state insurance." After that the insurance companies decided that silence was the better part of wisdom.

The employers' liability law was passed, and an apparently fair statute it is, essentially fair to the employee as well as to the employer, for Woodrow Wilson is not a demagogue who plays for labor's support. He merely believes in justice to the whole people within the authority of his office.

Prevents Long Litigation.

The law prescribes the liability of an employer to make compensation for injuries sustained by an employee in the course of employment. It establishes an elective schedule of payment and strictly regulates the procedure for determining the liability and compensation. It relieves an employee who is injured of the necessity of instituting suit to obtain damages by providing a definite schedule covering the different classes of injuries and fixing the employer's liability for each.

Employers now regard the law as fair because under it they can calculate with reasonable certainty what their maximum liability for any one year will be instead of leaving this to be determined by jurors. Employees are greatly benefited by it because in case of accident it secures to them without delay a fixed income at a time when money is most needed and because it avoids long drawn out litigation, with its attendant expense and suffering.

Real Service to Labor.

Governor Wilson meant it for both. He supplemented it shortly with a law compelling the erection of fire escapes on all factories and buildings housing a number of employees—not one or two spider ladders, but equipment sufficient to prevent a recurrence in New Jersey of the horrors that had shocked the people of the New England manufacturing cities.

Such laws are worth something to labor. They reflect the opinion of a man who believes in the honesty of labor's purpose to the extent that he holds labor above seeking selfish or undue advantage. As they were enacted they represented steps in Wilson's restoration of New Jersey's government to the people. They were genuine reforms into the statute books.

Lakewood (N. M.) Progress: "It is a significant fact that about three-fourths of the small Democratic and progressive newspapers of the country are for Woodrow Wilson, and all of the Republican papers are doing everything in their power to defeat his nomination for the presidency. This goes to show who the Democrats want whom the Republicans fear."

Huntsville (Ala.) Times: "Woodrow Wilson can beat any man the Republicans choose to nominate against him. Present indications point favorably to the nomination of Mr. Taft by the Republicans, in which event Mr. Wilson will have a walkover."

New Brunswick (N. J.) News: "Senator O'Gorman of New York named Governor Wilson first in his list of available candidates. Coming from the ablest of Tammany men, this is somewhat significant."

The Demons of the Swamp. are mosquitoes. As they sting they put deadly malarial germs in the blood. Then follow the fever, the chills and the strength falls; also malarial often paves the way for deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters kill and cast out the malarial germs from the blood; give you a fine appetite and renew your strength. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Louisiana, N. O., "three bottles drove all the malarial from my system, and I've had good health ever since. I feel for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. 60c at all druggists."

CHURCHES AND POVERTY.

Churches ought to be like a searchlight turned on all slums to expose to shame those in authority who are doing something. What does poverty mean? It means that men have enough to purchase the barest necessities of life for themselves and children. One-fourth of the population of this country, even in times of prosperity, are living under conditions of poverty thus defined. The great lesson of Christianity is this: You cannot redeem those who are below except by the sacrifice of those who are above. The task is a great and colossal one. It is a task our Master came here for, to lift the needy from the mire and the poor from the dunghill, and it is the Christian churches alone that can accomplish it.—Lloyd-George, Chancellor of British Exchequer.

TRAINING OF CHILDREN.

I do not know of one influence in the bringing up of children which is not included in the education of self. What is the best way to dress children, to feed them, to put them to bed, to teach them? Precisely as one self. If the father and mother dress and sleep moderately, as well as labor and learn so, the children should do the same. I would give two rules for education—that one should not only live well, but labor over oneself, continually improving, and conceal nothing in his life from his children. It is better that the children should know the weak side of their parents than that they should feel that their parents have one life concealed from them and one that is open. All difficulties of education come from the fact that parents not only do not correct their own faults, but do not even acknowledge them to be faults, justifying them in themselves and condemning them in their children. In this consists the whole difficulty with children.—Tolstoy.

SCIENTIFIC FARMING.

If agriculture is to be conducted profitably, instruction must be given because new methods must be used, and these are not generally practiced. Many farmers think they know that, but if they really did know them they would practice them better. If what is well known along practical lines to the few could be made generally known and practiced throughout the state, it is safe to say that the use of this knowledge would bring about an increased production from our farms, representing a net advance in value annually of $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. The people in the cities would be gainers because by reason of the increased production prices could be kept down.—Raymond A. Pearson, New York State Commissioner of Agriculture.

THE FLIGHT OF YOUTH.

There are gains for all our losses. There are gains for all our pains. But when youth, the dream, departs It takes something from our hearts And never comes again.

We are stronger and are better Under manhood's sterner reign. Still we feel that something sweet Followed youth with flying feet And will never come again.

Something beautiful is vanished. And we sigh for it in vain. We behold it everywhere. On the earth and in the air. But it never comes again.

—Richard Henry Stoddard.

PRAISE OF ATHLETICS.

While sometimes excessive, sometimes gustical, sometimes ill directed, sometimes professional, sometimes tending to serious evil, yet athletics are good for men and for women, for young and for old. Competitive athletics in all forms and in all places are good in spite of some bad elements and some bad complaints, exactly as summer is good in spite of its electric storms and cyclones and winter is good in spite of its excessive freezing and thawings. Athletics are therefore to be accepted as we accept the seasons, seeking to overcome and remedy harmful defects, just as we seek to provide against excessive heat and cold, against droughts and storms and flood in the physical world. The physical exercise which belongs to the play side of human nature is a fundamental necessity in the production of the kind of manhood which is to dominate the earth.—Samuel B. McCormick, Chancellor University of Pittsburgh.

CONTENTMENT.

If one door should be shut God will open another. If the pens do not yield well the beans may. If one hen leaves her eggs another will bring out all her brood. There's a bright side to all things and a good God everywhere. Somewhere or other in the worst food of trouble there always is a dry spot for contentment to get its foot on, and if there were not it would learn to swim.—C. H. Spurgeon.

Escapes An Awful Fate.

A thousand tongues could not express the gratitude of Mrs. J. E. Oos, of Joliet, Ill., for her wonderful deliverance from an awful fate. "Typhoid pneumonia had left me with a dreadful cough," she writes, "Sometimes I had such awful coughing spells I thought I would die. I could get no help from doctor's treatment or other medicines till I used Dr. King's New Discovery. But I owe my life to this wonderful remedy for I scarcely cough at all now." Quick and safe, it is the most reliable of all throat and lung medicines. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists.

The Lyric Bell Pianos
The R. S. Howard Co.

THESE PIANOS are made by Italians, the greatest musicians of the world. Mr. Chris. Sterling, of Orisfield, Professor of Music, in speaking of these pianos, said that they had the finest tone of any pianos he had ever used.

I pay cash and can therefore sell at the lowest price. I have sold Stieff's, Chase & Hackley, and other makes, and I consider these pianos to be greatly superior to any I have handled during an experience of over twenty years. Organs taken in exchange. New pianos as low as $150.

I also buy and sell Lumber, Cord Wood, Farms, Dwellings and Lots.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.
Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and
bladder remedy, because of its remarkable
health restoring properties. Swamp-
Root fulfills almost every wish in over-
coming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it,
or bad effects following use of liquor, wine
or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant
necessity of being compelled to go often
through the day, and to get up many
times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for
everything but if you have kidney, liver
or bladder trouble, it will be found just
the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has
proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all
readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle
sent free by mail, also a book telling
more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.
When writing mention
reading this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., New Albany, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent
and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake
but remember the name, Swamp-Root,
Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

MONUMENTS

In erecting a monument, one
should remember that it is not
a mere mass of stone, but a memorial of honor that is to perpetuate the memory of the departed. Therefore, select the best to be had. Look to its beauty of design, and the quality of material.
Many years in the monument
business has taught us that good
monuments cannot be made at cut
prices, but it has also taught us
how to make the best monument
at the lowest possible price.

We have on hand a complete as-

MY LADY OF DOUBT

PARRISH
Author of "Love Under Fire," "My Lady of the North Sea"

Illustrated by J. H. H. H.

CHAPTER VIII.

Tangling Threads.
My surprise at this unexpected reference to the Lady of the Blended Rose, almost prevented utterance.
What could this partisan ranger know of the girl? How could he even have identified her from my vague reference?

"Why do you say that?" I asked suddenly. "Did not mention the lady's name."
"There was no cause for you to do so," and the grim mouth smiled. "No one else in Philadelphia would have turned the trick so neatly; besides the fact that your opponent was Grant would have revealed the identity of the girl."

"You know them both then?"
"Fairly well; he was a boy in these parts; and I have shot his riding horse many a time. A headstrong, domineering, spoiled lad he was, and quarrelsome."

"But Mistress Mortimer," I interrupted, "is her family also from this neighborhood?"

"To the northeast of here, near Locust Grove; the properties of the two families adjoin each other, and I have heard there is distant kinship between them, although if that be true all that was good in the strain must have descended to the one branch, and all the evil to the other. They and might could be no different. Colonel Mortimer is a gentle, pleasant gentleman, and a loyal friend, although we are in arms against each other. To tell the truth I half believe his heart is with the Colonies, although he cast his fortunes with the King. He even has a son in the Continental Army."

"On Lee's staff," I interrupted. "The daughter told me he was a twin brother."

"Yes, and as great a rogue as the girl, with the same laughing blue eyes."

"And Mistress Claire," I questioned,
"on which side is she?"

"Can you ask that after having met her as a Lady of the Blended Rose?
Pshaw, man, I could almost give you a list of the loyalists who make up support for the British garrison, and Mistress Claire is not least in rank or beauty among them. What else could you expect of a young girl when her father wears the green and white, while her lover has made a reputation hereabout with his hiring riders?"

"You mean Grant?"
"Certainly; they have been engaged from childhood, though God pity the poor girl if they ever marry. His work in the Jerseys has been almost as merciless as that of 'Red' Fagin, and
't is even whispered about they ride together at times. I doubt if she knows the whole truth about him, though she can scarcely deem him an angel even at that. Surely you never supposed her on our side?"

"She helped me," I insisted, "knowing who I was, and even said she wished my cause well."

"The inconsistency of a woman;
perhaps the two had some misunderstanding, and she was glad enough to outwit the fellow."

"No, 't was not that, I am sure; I could read truth in her eyes."

"In Claire's eyes!" he laughed outright. "Oh, I know the innocent blue of them, and warn you not to trust such blindly. Other men have thought the same, and found out they read wrongly when the end came—ay! my self of them. When she was but a slip of a lass I found out her eyes played merry tricks, and yet I love her as though she were my own daughter."

"And she's a good girl in spite of all the mischief in her."

"And she is truly a loyalist?"
"If not, I know no better. The rebel blood is all in the boy so far as I can learn, yet I will not answer for what Mistress Claire might do."

We fell silent, my memory with the girl, endeavoring to recall her exact words, the expression of her face. It was not in my heart to believe she had deceived me.

I had almost forgotten where I was,
as well as the presence of my companion, when he suddenly arose to his feet, and, pushing aside the wooden window shutter, looked out. A glance of his keen eyes was sufficient.

"Get back into your box, Major," he exclaimed quickly. "Full the papers over you."

I was upon my feet, conscious of the distant sound of horses' hoofs.

"What is it? The enemy?"
"Rangers; fifty of them, I judge, and they'll never pass here without running around. Quick now, under cover."

"But what about yourself?"
"Don't worry about me; those fellows haven't any evidence against me
—yet. They're after you."

I was through the intervening door with a bound and an instant later had burrowed under the crumpled papers.
The shifting of the sun had left this corner of the repair shop in shadow, but I was scarcely outstretched in my hastily improvised hiding place, when I heard the blacksmith calmly open his outer door, where he stood smoking, clad in leathern apparel, waiting the approaching horsemen. They swept about the corner of the smithy and disappeared.

"Dr. Thomas Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. It has been used with success in our family for eight years."

you, Lawrence, in 10 his quiet here today, and go along with us tonight. It will be in the same direction you'll have to travel, and you might have trouble by daylight. No objections to a fight, have you?"

"None whatever."
"I judged so from your face. Better get what rest you can; we will have twenty miles to ride before dark. I'll go over into the timber there and feed the horses."

I watched him cross the open land, impressed by the man's immense shoulders and short limbs. I could

The Blacksmith Was Not Only a Man of Action, but a Man of Thought, Also.

scarcely analyze the influence he already exerted over me, but I felt him to be a natural leader of men, an intellectual as well as physical giant. I picked up a book lying open on the bench—it was an English translation of a famous French treatise on the Rights of Man, its paper margins covered with written comments. This blacksmith was not only a man of action, but a man of thought also. I lay down on the bench, pillow my head on one arm, thinking of him as I first saw him kneeling alone in prayer, and the simple words of his petition came back to me with new power. Then my mind drifted to the strange com-mingling of human elements in this adventure—to Mistress Claire, and the connection with Grant, and the in-imate knowledge Farrell apparently possessed of them both. Somehow I was becoming more and more deeply involved in these lives, and I began to wonder how it was all destined to end. Was the coming night to add a new chapter? If so, would it be the last? Reviewing it all, hushed by the silence, I fell asleep.

I heard the sound of their boots on the floor, and burrowed lower in my
box. Two or three entered the old shop, and began to probe about among the debris. One kicked the box in which I lay, and thrust a bayonet down through the loose papers, barely missing my shoulder. With teeth clenched I remained breathless, but the fellow seemed satisfied, and moved on, after searching the dark corner beyond. At last I heard them all go on mumbling to each other, and ventured to sit up again, and draw a fresh breath. They had left the door ajar, and I had a glimpse through the crack.
Farrell was leaning carelessly in the outer doorway, smoking, his short legs wide apart, his expression one of total indifference. A big fellow stepped past him, and saluted some one just out of sight.

"Nobody in there, sir," he reported.
"All right, Mason," and Grant came into view on a rangy sorrel. "Get your men back into saddle; we'll move on."

"Think he went this way?" asked the blacksmith carelessly.

"How the hell do I know?" savagely.
"He must have started this way,
but likely he took the north road.
We'll get the chap before night, unless he runs into Delavan's fellows out yonder. See here, Farrell," holding in his horse, "we'll be back here about dark, and will want something to eat."

"You will be welcome to all you find."

"You impudent rebel, you see that you are here when we come. I know you night rider, and will bring you to book yet. Forward men—trot!
Close up the rank there, sergeant;
we'll take the road to the left."

I watched them go past, the dust-covered green uniforms slipping by the crack of the door, as the men urged their horses faster. Farrell never moved, the blue tobacco smoke curling about his head, and I stole across the littered room to a col-webbed window, from which I could watch the little column of riders go down the hill. They finally disappeared in the edge of a grove, and I turned around to find the blacksmith leaning against his anvil waiting for me.

"Gentle young fellow, Grant," he said. "Always promising to hang me, but never quite ready to tackle the job. Afraid I shall have to disappoint him again tonight."

"You will not wait for him?"
"Hardly. You heard what he said about Delavan? That was the very news I wanted to learn. Now I think those two lads will meet me much sooner than they expect."

He stepped forward into the open doorway, and blew the shrill blast on a silver whistle. The echo had scarcely died away, when, out from a thick clump of trees perhaps half a mile distant, a horse shot forth, racing toward us. As the reckless rider drew up suddenly, I saw him to be a barefooted, freckle-faced boy of perhaps sixteen, his eyes bright with excitement.

"So 't is you on duty, Ben," said Farrell quietly, glancing from the boy to his horse. "Well, you're in for a ride.
Have the men at Lone Tree by sundown; all of them. See Duval first, and tell him for me this is a big thing.
Now off with you!"

The boy, grinning happily, swung his horse around, and jabbing his side with bare heels, rode madly away directly sharp across the vacant land.
Within five minutes he had vanished down a sharp incline. Farrell was still staring after him, when I asked:

"What is it?"
"A little bit of private war," he said grimly. "If you'll go with me tonight, Major, I'll show you some guerrilla fighting. You heard what Grant said about Delavan. We've been waiting five days for him to head back toward Philadelphia. He has twenty wagons, and a foraging party of less than fifty men somewhere out Medford way, with sweep of hand to the northeast. If he and Grant get together the two commands will outnumber us, but we'll have the advantage of surprise, of a swift attack in the dark. In my judgment that is what Grant was sent out for—to guard Delavan's wagons. His spy hunting was a personal affair. My advice to you is to get ready."

MARYLAND

Daffy Down Dilly has come up to town,
In a fine petticoat and a green gown;
Starched is the petticoat, spick and span white,
'Twas done up with Fels-Naptha, that's why it's so bright."

Did you ever look at a piece of linen under the magnifying glass?

Or any other kind of cloth?

You'd see a multitude of small threads woven together with tiny open spaces between.

When soiled clothes are boiled, the dirt is just softened, not loosened.

When you rub them on the wash-board, the soft dirt is partly rubbed into the tiny spaces between the threads and you might rub till Doomsday without getting it all out.

That's why clothes washed in the boiling, hard-rubbing way are so often muddy or dull-looking.

They're not wholly clean.

Fels-Naptha cleanses clothes perfectly because it attacks the dirt and dissolves it.

Breaks it up into particles which are easily rinsed out of the cloth meshes.

Fels-Naptha Soap does this in cool or lukewarm water.

No boiling; no hard-rubbing; takes less than half the time of the old way.

Saves the clothes; saves fuel.

When you've once tried the Fels-Naptha way of washing in the Winter or Summer you'll never go back to the wash-boiler and hard rubbing.

Try it next washday.

Follow the easy directions printed on the red and green wrapper.

to extricate themselves; the advance guard came spurting back, pushing blindly into the ranks, the hoarse voice of their young lieutenant sounding above the uproar. But our men were between the two, a compact body, each borderman fighting independently, but knowing the game. I heard no word of command, no shout of direction from either Farrell or Duval, yet we ripped them asunder with sweeping rifle butts, and almost before I could catch a second breath, the few who remained on their feet were helplessly trapped. Farrell saw it was all over, and his whistle sounded again, stilling the uproar. Up to that moment he was beside me; with the echoing of the shrill blast he had disappeared.

It was Duval who emerged from the wreck of the train, demanding surrender.

"Who commands here?" he shouted.
"Speak up quick."

There was hesitancy, and then out of the black mass huddled against the bank I recognized Grant's voice.

"I suppose I do; has any one seen Captain Delavan?"

"He fell at the first fire, sir," answered some one huskily.

Grant stepped forth into the moonlight, bareheaded, his sword in hand.

"Then I am the senior officer," he announced, his voice shaking slightly.

"Who are you?"

"Camden minute men. Do you surrender?"

He took a long breath, glancing about at the dark shadows. Some one held a lighted torch, the red flame casting a sudden gleam over the surrounding faces. It was clear that further resistance was useless, yet Grant temporized.

"Are you in command?"

"No," said Duval; "but I represent the commander."

"I deal with the one responsible in this affair and demand terms. Who is your leader?"

Duval smiled, turning his head inquiringly.

"I don't think you have much choice," he commented dryly. "However, perhaps you are not too proud to talk to a regular who outranks you—I represent Major Lawrence, of the Continental Line."

Surprised as I was by being thus suddenly thrust forward into supreme authority, I at instantly understood the purpose, and stepped to the front.

Grant stared at my face in the gleam of the smoking torch, almost as though he looked upon a ghost.

"You!"

"Certainly, Captain. It is a pleasure to meet with you again, especially under such happy circumstances. But my men are becoming impatient. Do you surrender?"

"Under what terms?" he parleyed.

"None, but we are not savages. You will be treated as prisoners of war."

His hatred of me made him obstinate, but the utter helplessness of their position was too apparent to be ignored. A Hessian muttered something in German, and Grant dropped the point of his sword with an oath.

"Good," I said promptly. "Lieutenant, have your men disarm the prisoners."

There was no resistance, and the militiamen herded them against the bank, encircled by a heavy guard.

Duval singled out the officers from among the others, and brought them forward to where I stood. There were but three—Grant and two Hessians.

I looked at them keenly, recalling the slight figure of the young lieutenant with the boy's voice. Could the lad have been shot, or what had become of him?

"Are you three all that are left?" I questioned bluntly. "Who commanded the vanguard?"

The two Hessians looked at each other stupidly, and I asked the question again before Grant saw fit to reply. His manner was excessively insistent.

"There is more than I know. We joined after dark, and I did not meet Delavan's officers."

"He was not your call maybe a volunteer lieutenant," added one of the Germans brokenly. "At Mount Holly we met, and from there he joined."

"Not one of Delavan's men then?"
I inquired.

"I don't know; he was Light Dragon."
I had the vaguest notion—the first name—of him. He was a tall, thin man, with a long, straight nose, and a keen, alert expression.

"The lad got away, with three others, and broke in a new voice at my back. They wheeled and rode through us, across the water. We thought the horse guard would get them over there, but I guess they didn't; anyway, there was no firing.
The fellows must have turned in under the bank, and rode like hell."

Satisfied as to this incident, and not altogether regretful that the boy had thus escaped, I held a short consultation with Duval, seeking explanation as to why the command had been so unreasonably thrust upon me. A few words only were required to make the situation clear. Farrell's ability to injure and annoy the enemy largely depended on his leadership not being known. While taking part in every engagement, he always required his lieutenants to represent him in negotiations, so that up to this time, whatever the British might suspect, they had no positive proof that he was openly in arms against them. Duval, in turn, taking advantage of my presence, had shifted the responsibility to my shoulders.

"But what do you people do with your prisoners?" I asked.

"Send 'em to the Continental lines when we can," he explained, "and if we can't then turn 'em loose. No use paroling 'em, as they consider us guerrillas. If I was you I'd run 'em back to the farm house across the creek, and hold 'em there till we get rid of this stuff. Maybe it'll take twenty-four hours to hide it all, and burn the wagons. Then the boys can turn 'em loose, and there's no harm done. I'd like to take that fellow Grant into our lines—he's a mean planning devil—but it's too big a risk; Bristol is about the nearest picket post, and the redcoats have got cavalry patrols all along in back of the river."

"But I cannot wait here," I answered, impatiently. "Farrell understood that. I have important information for Washington, and only came with you tonight because you were following along my route. I've got to go on."

"That's all right; just give your orders, and we'll attend to the rest.
What we want is for these lads to go back to Philadelphia saying they were attacked by a force of militia under command of an officer of the Continental line. That will give Clinton a scare, and turn suspicion away from us. Grant knows you, I understand, so he'll report the affair that way.
You can be off within thirty minutes."

It was easy to grasp the point of view, and I saw no reason for refusing assistance. I gave the necessary orders, standing under the torchlight in full view, and waited while a squad of partisans rounded up the disarmed prisoners, and guarded them down the slope to the edge of the stream.

Teams were doubled up, and several of the heavy wagons rumbled away into the darkness. Two, too badly injured to be repaired, were fired where they lay, the bright flames lighting up the high banks on either side the road. I found a big black horse, with British arms on the bridle, and a pair of loaded pistols in the holsters, a fine-looking animal, and came back into the fire glow, determined to lose no more time. Duval had disappeared, but as I stood there looking about for him to say good-bye, a young country fellow came up hurriedly from out the darkness.

"You're wanted down there," he said, with the jerk of a thumb over his shoulder. "The Tory officer wants to see you."

"What officer? Captain Grant?"

"I reckon that's the one," indifferently; "anyhow I was told to fetch ye down there. Bannister as it is."

"What do you wish to say?"

"This is a matter strictly between us," evasively. "I prefer not to discuss it publicly here."

I had a suspicion of treachery, yet was not willing to exhibit any reluctance.

"Very good. Bannister," to the partisan in charge, "I want a word with Captain Grant, and will be responsible for his safe return."

The man looked after us doubtfully, yet permitted us to pass beyond the guard lines. There was a stump beside the ford, barely within the flicker of the distant fire, and there I stopped, leaning against my horse, and turned so as to look into the man's face.

"Well, Grant," I said, rather sternly.
"We are alone now; what is it?"

"He cleared his throat, evidently uncertain how best to express himself.
"Why did you ask so many questions about Delavan's lieutenant?" he began sullenly. "What were you trying to find out?"

TRUSTEE'S SALE
OF Valuable Land NEAR DELMAR

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Wicomico County and State of Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee will sell at public auction at the front door of the Old Hotel Building, in Delmar, Maryland, on

SATURDAY, MAY 18, 1912

at 8 o'clock P. M. all those pieces or parcels of ground together with the improvements thereon, situated and lying in Delmar Election District, of Wicomico County, and State of Maryland, located about half a mile Westerly of the said town of Delmar, on the Southern side of and binding up on the Maryland and Delaware State Line. Bounded on the East by the land of the heirs of Elijah Freedy, on the South by the said land of the said heirs and the land of William L.
Sirman and on the West by the said land of the said Sirman and the land of William Waller, containing thirty eight and sixty six one hundredth acres of land, more or less.

The above described land is well set in growing timber, and has been surveyed and divided into five lots,
No. 1, containing 4.80 acres; No. 2, containing 5.34 acres; No. 3, containing 7.68 acres; No. 4 containing 11.25 acres; and No. 5 containing 9.35 acres.
All of said lot of land will first be offered separately and then as a whole with the understanding that if the bid as a whole shall be equal to or exceed the sum of the bids received separately for said lot, the bid for said lot as a whole will be accepted, but if the aggregate of the bids for the separate lots shall exceed the bid for the whole, then the separate bids will be accepted.

A plot of this land may be seen at the store of Walter W. Whayland in the said Old Hotel Building at the office of Joseph L. Bailly, or with said Trustee.

purchaser.

WILLIAM C. MITCHELL, Trustee.

RECEIVER'S NOTICE

Whereas, it having been reported to us that the Houston Savings Bank, of Salisbury, Md., has failed to honor checks duly presented for payment by its depositors, and

Whereas, upon an examination of said institution I find that it is subject to the provision of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of the Sessions 1910, Chapter 219, and 1913, Chapter 194, and that the said institution is conducting its business in an unsafe and unauthorized manner, and

Whereas, The above fact having been communicated to Governor and Attorney General of the State, and the written consent of the Governor and Attorney General obtained prior hereto—

Now, therefore, I, J. Dukes Downes, Bank Commissioner for the State of Maryland by virtue of the power vested in us by the Act of the General Assembly of Maryland in such cases made and provided do hereby take possession of the property and business of the Houston Savings Bank as receiver, subject to the future order or orders of the Circuit Court for Wicomico County.

LAND WARRANT NOTICE

Salisbury, Md., April 26th, 1912.

Notice is hereby given that John D.
Dolby of Wicomico county, State of Maryland, has placed in my hands for execution a Special Warrant of re-survey, by possession and holding, for land situated in Wicomico Election District, Wicomico county, Maryland, bounded and described as follows:

On the north by the lands of Geo. W. and Samuel Williams, on the west by a private road running through or by the lands of the said John D. Dolby; it is also bounded on the north by the Wicomi-co river, and on the east by a stream of water called Oulvers Creek.

This warrant will be executed after the expiration of one month from this date.

P. S. SHOOKLEY, S. W. O.

TAKE NOTICE!

All delinquent Taxpayers who have not paid their Corporation Taxes for the years of 1910 and 1911, are hereby notified that unless the same for both years is paid, with interest to date, on or before

JUNE 1st, 1912

I shall forthwith proceed to advertise for sale said property for Taxes, Interest and Costs, irrespective of anyone. This is in accordance with the law, and I am compelled to act accordingly.

SUBSTANTIAL GATES ON FARM

No Excuse for Tolerating Barriers That Suggest and Have to Be Opened by Using Main Strength.

(By A. J. WILDER.)

Often when a man is tired with a day's work on the farm it seems the last straw to open a gate that sags on its hinges, drags over the ground, and has to be carried by main strength.

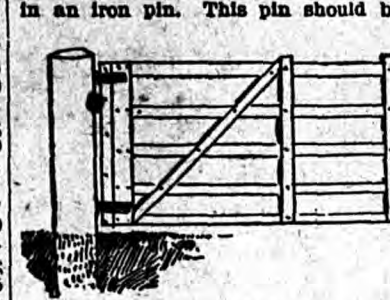

There is no need of having a gate of this description. It is very little trouble to make a gate that carries its own weight, moves easily, and never gets out of order.

Get a good post, at least ten inches square and eight feet long, and set in the ground three feet. At the very bottom of the post on the opposite side from the gate, place a large rock, and tamp the ground firmly around it and the posts.

On the side that the gate is to hang on, put a flat rock about eight inches thick. This rock should be set in the ground four inches and tight against the post to keep the post from leaning.

Drill a three-quarter-inch hole one inch deep in the rock, four inches from the post. At the top of the post spike a half hoop of iron with a loop in front made of old wagon tire. Take a piece of hardwood three inches square and five feet long, and make the top round to fit in the iron loop at the top of the post.

Bore a hole from the bottom of this piece about three inches up and drive in an iron pin. This pin should be long enough to drive in firmly and reach about two inches below. Use this three-by-three with the iron pin for the back end of the gate.

The gate itself is made of five lengthwise pieces of one-by-four, twelve feet long, and five pieces of one-by-two, five feet long.

Nail a one-by-two at each side of the ends of the lengthwise pieces to form the front end of the gate and two more pieces to form the back end of the gate, and two more pieces the same way four feet from the front end, then one piece of one-by-two, four feet from the back end of the gate.

Now place the gate in position by putting the rounded end of the three-by-three through the loop in the iron spike to the top of the post, and set the iron pin in the bottom of this three-by-three piece into the hole in the rock in front of the post.

Raise or lower the front end of the gate so that it will swing clear, and then nail a brace from the top of the three-by-three, cornerwise across the gate to the bottom of the front end.

The latch is a piece of three-fourths-by-three inches five feet long. Slip it between the cross pieces at the front of the gate and resting on the top of the third lengthwise strip. Fit it so it will slide easily and make a hole in the post in front of the gate for the latch to slip into.

Fertilizing Buckwheat.

In fertilizing buckwheat heavy applications of barnyard manure or other nitrogenous fertilizers should be avoided. Potash and lime are the elements most in demand by the plant and these can be best supplied in the form of unleached wood ashes. They should be applied at the time the seed is prepared, at the rate of 20 to 50 bushels per acre, depending on poorness of the land. Moderate amounts of well-rotted barnyard manure may be profitably applied on soils deficient in humus. Buckwheat does well after grass.

Good Roads &amp; Farm Notes

Don't forget to brace the end post of any fence or trellis.

Seed grain of all kinds is scarce and high priced again this spring.

The three important elements of plant food are nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium.

Clover and grass seed will nearly always do best when they can be started to early growth.

There is no germ slayer better than an ounce of carbolic acid added to a peck of wheat.

Teach the children to respect the dragon-fly. This friend of ours kills flies and many other obnoxious insects.

Five or six of the twelve or thirteen species of beetles attacking stored grains are found usually in farmers' bins.

Farmers who know say that a hog fattened on milk and alfalfa brings just as much money when sold as a corn-fed porker.

To supply the demand it is estimated that the United States should grow from 340,000,000 to 350,000,000 bushels of potatoes annually.

It will pay to stop, sometimes, and get a realising sense of the fact that our common birds are nearly all working hard for us during the whole season.

When it comes to growing pigs, calves, poultry or cream, any farmer with a few acres of alfalfa on his farm, has a great advantage over his neighbor without it.

LABOR UNIONS.

American workmen are naturally as high minded as any in the world. . . . They have been robbed of their birthright in not having received at the hands of the state in youth and early manhood this education that would arm them for most successful accomplishment. . . . We must have . . . unions, with most laborers in, not out, and a membership of 6,000,000, or, better, 10,000,000. Instead of the present 1,750,000. No force could resist, for whatever is to the interest of our countless millions of working people is to the interest of the nation.—H. E. Miles, Chairman National Manufacturers' Association.

THE AMERICAN ARMY.

The theory of the army generally held is old and obsolete. We think of the soldier in the regular army as a specialist and a professional man. That is the idea that goes back to the army of Frederick the Great and his professional fighters. Such a conception is inconsistent now with our other ideas of government. We should take an example from the country of Switzerland. There the army is held as a school of patriotism. It is believed that men should go into it long enough to learn their duty and then go back to civil life. We should look forward to such a system here. It would raise the personnel of the army and give us a certain number of trained men who could be relied upon in case of war.—Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War.

COURTS AND REFORM.

During the last twenty-five years the courts here in New York helped, I am sorry to say, once or twice by the supreme court of the nation, have thrown what at times have proved well nigh or altogether insurmountable obstacles in the path of needed social reforms. I have already alluded to the decision of the New York court which forbade the people of New York through their legislature to interfere with certain kinds of tenement house factories. At most without exception, every intelligent social worker whom I have ever met, every man really interested in the betterment of social and industrial conditions among our working people, in giving better hopes to the working people in great cities, and in giving better conditions of labor to them when they are at labor—almost without exception, every one qualified to judge on these matters has agreed that this decision was a blow to decent citizenship, a blow to the effort to achieve genuine reform, genuine betterment of social conditions, of so severe a nature that its mischievous effects can hardly be overestimated. I have no doubt that the men making the decision were upright men of high character; but they did as much damage as the worst legislative body actuated by the worst motives could possibly have done. It is, I believe, an advantage to have fixed in the court the power to state that a legislative act is unconstitutional, but only provided that the power is exercised with the greatest wisdom and self-restraint. If the courts continue to use it with the recklessness that has too often been shown in the past, it is almost inevitable that efforts will be made to amend or abolish it.—Theodore Roosevelt.

DANGERS OF THE CITY.

I personally feel strongly that there are great temptations for all men and all women in big cities in the chances for secrecy that they provide. In smaller communities everything that every one does is known, and if there is a gossip or two then the supervision is uncommonly good. In the big cities there are armies of girls with no supervision, and when it comes to a question of amusement there is plenty of time between work and home that they can take off with no one being the wiser. It gives chances for all sorts of adventures, and they mostly are taken in the spirit of adventure, and the girls are exploited by people who have a keen appreciation of this.—Jane Addams.

SNOWFLAKES.

Out of the bosom of the air,
Out of the cloud folds of her garments shaken,
Over the woodlands brown and bare,
Over the harvest fields forsaken,
Silent and soft and slow
Descends the snow.

Even as our cloudy fancies take —Suddenly shape in some divine expression,
Even as the troubled heart doth murmur
In the white countenance confession
The troubled sky reveals
The grief it feels.

This is the poem of the air,
—Slowly in silent syllables recorded:
This is the secret of despair,
—Long in its cloudy bosom hoarded,
Now whispered and revealed
To wood and field.

—Longfellow.

THERE NEVER WAS A WORSE CASE.

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of women's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."

—Mrs. MARGARET MERRITT, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., CONFIDENTIAL LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

SEN. COZINE, TROTTER

by DON COZINE, Record 2.10
Register 27058

First dam of Senator Cozine, the Princess Red; second dam of Senator Cozine Ivy, by Kentucky Prince, 24th third dam Amanda, by Hamiltonian the 10th.

Senator Cozine is a handsome bay stallion, 14.2 hands high, weight 1010 pounds.

Individually he is a horse of grand finish and plenty of substance, with a fine disposition, deep, strong shoulders, stout back, very strong legs and stifles, strong bone, with good feet and legs.

His blood lines are of the best, as will be seen by his tabulated pedigree. That he will breed speed and grand round quality there is no doubt, as he not only inherits but possesses these qualities in a marked degree.

Even common mares bred to a horse of this class cannot fail to produce foals that will find a ready market as carriage horses or harnessers, as well as general all-purpose horses.

This horse will make the season of 1912 at the Polo Grounds in Salisbury, Md. For terms or further information or particulars, address

HOLDING COMPANIES.

These Rip Van Winkles of finance must not be allowed to use the great corporations, the insurance companies and the banks for their private speculations. There is no country in the world where corporations are conducted in such a dishonest and lax manner as here. This condition came about because the states were bidding against one another. If New York passed a law permitting it. Our laws have hurt our securities in the markets of the world and, worst of all, afford the minority stockholder no protection. This brings us to the ingenious device, the holding corporation. It was never intended that one corporation should own another. I remember five or six years ago that these things were not considered abuses, but now there has come a great awakening. More injustice has been perpetrated upon the small investing public and upon the stability and credit of our securities abroad by the device of the holding company than by the hundreds of millions of dollars that have been fairly stolen out of the treasuries of our great corporations.—Samuel Untermyer.

WORK.

Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do that day which must be done, whether you like it or not. Being forced to work and forced to do your best will breed in you temperance and self control, diligence and strength of will, cheerfulness and content and a hundred virtues which the idle never know.—Charles Kingsley.

WEALTH.

Excess of wealth is ease of covetousness.—Marlowe.

What riches give us let us then inquire:
Meat, fire and clothes. What more? Meat, clothes and fire. Is this too little? —Pope.

Wealth is a weak anchor, and glory cannot support a man. This is the law of God—that virtue only is firm and cannot be shaken by a tempest.—Pythagoras.

Lack of desire is the greatest riches.—Seneca.

Oh, what a world of vile, ill favored faults
Looks handsome in three hundred pounds a year! —Shakespeare.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

Remember that all pleasure and all happiness depend upon the normal exercise of faculty and that by consequence happiness is a function of the trusted and active body and mind.

Never look for something for nothing. Make up your mind to earn everything, and remember that opportunity is the only thing that any one can donate you without demoralizing you and doing you an injury.

Remember that work, always work, for the acquirement of knowledge, possessions and power is to yield you all your happiness and that there will never come a time to quit.

Remember that just as the steam engine derives its power from its boiler, so must you have a powerful physique to support sustained effort on any line, and you must therefore exercise to strengthen and keep strong body and mind, for as Herbert Spencer said, "The first requisite is to be a good animal."—Hudson Maxim.

LYING.

Children and fools cannot lie.—Heywood.

A lie never lives to be old.—Sophocles.

Dare to be true. Nothing can need a lie.

A fault which needs it most grows two thereby.—Herbert.

That a lie which is half a truth is over the blackest of lies; That a lie which is all a lie may be met and fought with outright.

But a lie which is part a truth is a harder matter to fight.—Tennyson.

And he that does one fault at first And lies to hide it makes it two.—Watts.

Aristotle was once asked what those who tell lies gain by it. Said he, "That when they speak truth they are not believed."—Dionysius Laertius.

To Mothers And Others.

You can use Backlen's Arnica Salve to cure children of eczema, rashes, teething, chafings, scalds and crusted humors, as well as their accidental injuries—cuts, burns, bruises, etc., with perfect safety. Nothing else heals so quickly. For boils, ulcers, old running or fever sores or piles it has no equal. 25c at all druggists.

CHATAQUA TO BE HELD

Here—Committee Makes Arrangements—Week Entertainment September.

The Committee which met the Representative of the Chataqua Association at the City Hall on Wednesday of this week, made arrangements for the holding of a week's chataqua here during the month of September. This will give the citizens of the town an opportunity for enjoying a form of entertainment which could never be hoped to be seen in a city of this size under any other conditions. Music as good as can be heard in the largest cities, scientists of national reputation, educators lecturing on various subjects, the leading wizard and magician of the world. This in brief is what the people here will have the chance of seeing and hearing, with the assurance that there is no fake in the proposition, and that they are not helping to swell anyone's purse, for the entire scheme is an educational one and not a money-making venture. The scientists, among other things, will run a steam engine with ice and light a cigar with an icicle. The committee is to be highly commended for the stand it has taken, and the confidence it has placed in the people of this town to see them out in the financial end of the undertaking should be appreciated and backed up by our people.

Mr. Allison Elliott.

Mr. Allison Elliott, a well known resident of Athol, died at his home Monday and was buried at Mardela Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Elliott was sick for several months prior to his death. He was about 65 years old and for many years was a Constable for his section of the County. He was a Democrat of the old school and was always prominent in the battles for his party. He was known all over the West side of the county and had a large number of friends and acquaintances.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

Much Business Transacted—New Council Organized.

Monday night last was a busy night at the city hall. The old Council was meeting for the last time and before retiring transacted the following business: Building permits were granted to Fulton Milling Company, Geo. F. Sharpley, L. T. Sharpley, Sarah A. Culver, and J. S. Duffy.

President Harry Dennis reported that he had contracted with Mr. Wm. A. Crew to curb and gutter Poplar Hill Avenue its entire length, Smith St. from Newton to Hazel Street and North Division Street from the tracks of the B. O. and A. Ry. to the city limits, at 50 cents per lineal foot, the work to be done as soon as possible. The City Clerk was instructed to pay Mayor Wm. F. Bonds the sum of $54.00 for putting in manholes and other expenses, and the Council agreed to give one hundred dollars toward the work of guttering, curbing and cementing the roadway back of the property from Mill street to the river, the city to have the privilege of draining Mill street surface water to the river through the gutters. The clerk was instructed to notify the Salisbury Light, Heat and Power Company, and the Diamond State Telephone Company to remove the poles on the east side of Smith street and locate them at places to be designated by Surveyor Shockey.

Mayor Bonds was given the order to lay sewer from Baptist street and from the Wallis property to the east branch of the Wicomico river, across the property of the Salisbury Realty Co. The old Council having no further business adjourned and the new Council organized as follows:

The New Council.

President, Mr. I. Ernest Jones; Long term Councilmen, L. Thomas Parker and Sanford A. Toadvin; Short term, Wilmer L. Tilghman. On taking the oath as President, Mr. Jones made a very strong speech of what he considered the duties of a City Councilman and said that as long as he was in the Council he would give his best work to the interests of the City without regard to who was affected. He said he was opposed to the old plan of members of the Council ordering certain work done or changes made on the street. He believed all the business of the City no matter how small, should be transacted in the Council Chamber and with the knowledge and consent of the Mayor and Council. Mr. Jones will make a splendid man for the place as he has a wide experience in business matters and is posted on many subjects which will come up for settlement before the Council.

The newly elected Mayor Mr. B. Frank Kennerly will swear in on Monday night, June 3rd and will probably have his batch of city appointments made out by that time.

Odd Fellows at Ocean City

Tuesday last was a big day in Salisbury for the Order of Odd Fellows. Several of the State officers were present making arrangements for the annual Summer meeting at Ocean City, when the Lodges of the whole state will attend for a big day together at the seashore. Tuesday night a large class of candidates were initiated by some of the best degree teams on the Shore. On account of the big crowd the Red Men tendered the Odd Fellows their Hall which was used Tuesday night.

Among the State officers present were Grand Master, F. A. Groon; Grand Secretary Wm. A. Jones; Grand Representative F. H. Foxwell and District Grand Master, Walter C. Mann, of Sharptown.

Representatives were present from the following Lodges: Federalburg, Sharptown, Mardela Springs, Pocomoke City, Bivalve, Snow Hill, Stockton, Berlin, Bishopville, Orisfield and Easton. After the initiation a banquet was served to the Lodge.

MR. MILLER APPOINTED

Road Commissioner—Messrs. Goslin and Ramsey Other Appointees—Wicomico Pleased With New Board.

Governor Goldsborough handed down his new members of the Road Commission this week. Wicomico citizens were very glad to learn that Mr. Walter B. Miller was in the list and that he had decided to accept the place. Mr. Miller's interest in the good road movement is too well known here to need any comment. That his appointment is pleasing to the democrats as well as to members of his own party was evidenced by the fact that the Board of County Commissioners, composed entirely of democrats, waited upon him some time back and asked that he accept the appointment if it should be tendered. Governor Goldsborough has the following to say about Mr. Miller in announcing his selection:

"Mr. Walter B. Miller, of Salisbury, Md., is well known as one of the most enterprising and prosperous business men of Eastern Maryland, a man of high business attainments and keen commercial insight, who has built up an extensive business—the manufacture of kindling wood—having mills at Salisbury, Snow Hill, and at other points in Maryland and Virginia, and from which he supplies the New York Philadelphia, Baltimore and Eastern markets.

"He, like Mr. Ramsey, is a man of independent means, and the salary of the office to which he has been appointed was in no sense a reason which induced him to accept it. On the contrary, he takes up the duties of this responsible office with an eye single to the determination to give to the people of the State the benefit of his business training, experience and excellent judgment, which those of us who know him well admit he possesses in a high degree. He has given much thought and study to the subject of road building, quickly recognizing that modern roads not only greatly enhance real estate values but add to the comfort and happiness, as well as lighten the labors of those living in rural communities. Mr. Miller is a Republican.

Of the other appointees one, Sen. Goslin is a democrat, who is at the present time secretary of the Commission, and is well known in the State. Mr. Ramsey the other member is a Republican of Allegany County and is a road enthusiast. Gov. Goldsborough in the same interview stated: "All three of these gentlemen have given us assurance that their time will be fully given to the office they have assumed; that it will not be enough for them to attend board meetings and occasionally make hurried inspections of roads, but that they will carefully look into all matters touching a complete and conscientious performance of their work; that they will personally inspect and supervise all roads in course of construction, endeavoring by close attention to duty to economically but with such economy as will not sacrifice efficiency, discharge the trust placed in their keeping.

In reviewing the Roads and the work before the new Commission the Governor plainly states his position in the matter and makes it clear that all that can be done to further this work along economical and progressive lines will be done. We give some extracts from his statement.

"The people of the State have too much at stake to push this great undertaking recklessly and without regard to what the bill will cost. The time is here to put on the brakes, and we must make haste slowly.

Promise To The People.

"I promised the people that the road building would be conducted under my administration with the sole aim of securing for the taxpayers the best possible results for the money expended, and I expect to see that this is done. I am hopeful that it will be possible for me to make an intelligent statement of the affairs of the commission in the near future, so that it may be understood just where we stand. In the meantime we shall make a physical examination of the roads, the local conditions will be carefully studied, and after determining just how much money will be available in the State in the next two years a broad and business like plan of operations will be adopted and carried out.

"I am satisfied that in going into this matter thoroughly before taking on new construction I am acting for the best interests of the people and that results will show it.

"There is a policy for which I stand, and it is my purpose to see its execution, viz—

First—That more miles of road shall be built throughout the State.

Second—That they shall be built at less cost per mile than in the past.

Third—That they shall be more quickly built.

The Governor says that as a result of the old commission overreaching its annual appropriations the expected sums for road improvements are not available. The Governor states that it will be the policy of the new com-

ANNUAL MEETING OF Directors Wicomico Building and Loan Association—Last Year Prosperous.

The 18th annual meeting of the Wicomico Building and Loan Association was held Monday evening when statements showing the operations of the association for the fiscal year ending April 30 1912 was presented. The report showed a prosperous year's business enabling the directors to declare a dividend of 6 per cent. clear of taxes amounting to $6,534.00 and carry forward a balance to the undivided profits account swelling this account to $5,024.33. This was a very gratifying report to the stockholders and the directors were congratulated on their successful management of the Association's affairs.

The statement presented by Auditor Price and Disbaron showed that the association has loaned on mortgages the sum of $138,474.17 and on temporary loans $3,100.00. A gratifying part of the report to the stockholders was the real estate item which showed that the association has only $500.00 in real estate. The common stock of the association is $108,900.00 and the preferred stock $63,500.00.

After the reading of the Auditors and the Secretary's reports, dividend checks were handed out to the stockholders present. Then followed the election of a board of directors for the ensuing year. The old board was re-elected by an anxious vote as follows: Thos. Perry, J. Cleveland White, Charles E. Disbaron, James D. Fries, A. A. Gillis, H. B. Freney and Wm. M. Cooper. This closed the stockholders meeting and the meeting adjourned.

The newly elected officer organized at once by re-electing the old officers; President, Thos. Perry; secretary, Wm. M. Cooper; treasurer, J. Cleveland White; Auditor, Chas. E. Disbaron and J. D. Fries; examiners, A. A. Gillis and H. B. Freney. Mr. Jay Williams was re-elected counsel to the board. Miss Mary Hearn was re-elected Asst. Secretary of the association.

Death of Mrs. Brewington.

A large number of people gathered at St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church on May 20th., at 4 p. m., to attend the funeral services of Mrs. Charlotte V. Brewington, who died at her home on E. Isabella St., May 18. The services were conducted by the rector, Rev. David Howard. The remains were interred in Farnon Cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. Chas. and Ernest Williams, Harry Dennis, Wilson Mattox, Vaughn Gordy and Wm. M. Cooper. Mrs. Brewington was sixty four years old and the widow of the late Wm. L. Brewington. She was the daughter of the late James and Adeline White and was married in 1878. She was a devoted member of the Protestant Episcopal Church and ever ready to serve her friends. She is survived by five children and five grandchildren. Her children are: Mr. Carroll Brewington and Mrs. Walter Doughty, of Salisbury, and Mr. Henry Brewington and Mr. Randolph Brewington, and Mrs. Raymond Ackley, of New York. She is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: Mr. G. W. White, Miss Laura A. White, Mrs. Jan. Kennerly and Mr. Wm. J. White of Salisbury; Mr. Frederick White, of Deloth, Minn., and Mrs. John S. Fulton, of Baltimore.

Mrs. Mary E. Laws.

Mrs. Mary Edna Laws, born on November 1, 1873, married November 24, 1890 to Wm. R. Laws, whose home is near Wango died on Saturday, May 11th, after a lingering illness of Bright's disease. The funeral services were held at the house conducted by Elder T. M. Poulson. A husband, two daughters, Agnes and Edna, and three sons, Virgil, Albert and William survive.

mission to build roads more expeditiously and cheaply, and that as soon as the finances of the commission are straightened out the work will be rushed. The last Legislature appropriated $3,475,000 for road construction.

The resignation of Chief Engineer W. W. Crosby was formally submitted to the commission at its meeting, and it will be accepted. Mr. Henry G. Shirley, Roads Engineer of Baltimore county, will be elected as his successor, although he might not assume the duties for several weeks.

Mr. Andrew Ramsey, of Allegany county, who succeeds Mr. Samuel M. Shoemaker.

Mr. Walter B. Miller, of Wicomico county, who succeeds Mr. Francis N. Heston.

Senator E. E. Goslin, of Caroline county, who succeeds Mr. Edward B. Lloyd.

Chairman O. E. Waller, who was appointed several months ago by the Governor in place of Mr. John M. Tucker.

Drs. Ira Remsen and William Bullock Clark, of the Geological Survey Commission.

THE OUTLOOK PRAISES WILSON

Upholds His Course Concerning Colonel George Harvey.

"BEST LEADER SINCE TILDEN"

Magazine on Which Colonel Roosevelt is Contributing Editor Calls New Jersey Governor "A Progressive in Achievement" — "Apparently the Strongest Democratic Candidate." "Appeals to Voters Independent of Party."

By GILBERT T. STEPHENSON.
(Written for the Winston-Salem (N. C.) Sentinel.)

In view of the fact that Theodore Roosevelt is a contributing editor of the Outlook, it must be interesting to see what that magazine thinks of Woodrow Wilson and his candidacy. The following are some of the striking statements about Wilson made during the past fourteen months:

Speaking of the Smith-Martine senatorship fight in New Jersey and Governor Wilson's part in it, the Outlook says editorially under the title "A Victory For Popular Rule" (Feb. 4, 1911): "The election of James E. Martine as the United States senator from New Jersey is a double triumph for Governor Wilson. He has won a victory for the principle of popular rule, and he has given a convincing demonstration of the service which the governor of a state can render as a leader of his party. By the success of his campaign for the election of Mr. Martine Governor Wilson has strengthened the movement for the direct election of United States senators, has done much to establish himself as the real leader of New Jersey's Democracy and has made himself one of the most prominent figures in the field of national political life."

Contrasting the administration of Governor Dix of New York and Governor Wilson of New Jersey, the Outlook (March 25, 1911) says: "Governor Wilson is the proverbial 'Scholar in Politics,' a ready, witty and forceful speaker, equipped with knowledge in a wide range of historical and political topics, and accustomed to draw upon that knowledge for the purpose of instruction—emphatically a student, a man whose administrative capacity has been tested principally in an academic capacity. What is most interesting and significant is that the scholar avows his belief that a governor should be a leader, and is showing his faith by his works, while the practical man (Dix) is basing his acts on theory, on doctrines of non-interference and non-relief by his passiveness. Dr. Wilson, the student, the scholar, the thinker, is the really 'practical man,' the real executive."

In its issue of April 20, 1911, the Outlook speaks of the Geran direct election law of New Jersey as "a clear instance of the way in which the broader and more intelligent view is finding expression in statutory law," and says: "The Geran act is one of the notable achievements of Governor Wilson, for its passage is due to his leadership. It is a wholesome sign that the people are not content with merely the name of self government, but are determined to use means to secure to themselves the substance."

Speaking of Governor Wilson's western tour, the Outlook (June 10, 1911) says: "The program of legislation secured under his leadership in a single session of the legislature is far paralleled in American political history. The people of the United States value a man of deeds as well as words, and without regard to section or party, have done honor to Governor Wilson because he is a progressive not only in principle, but also in achievement."

The Outlook of Aug. 26, 1911, said: "If he (Wilson) is nominated for the presidency, it will be because of a popular demand, not because of skillful political manipulation. As president of Princeton university he has shown a resolve that the door of opportunity should be opened to the sons of the plain people with the resolve that the sons of the rich and poor alike should be tested by a high standard of scholarship. His democratic spirit has been well proved; he believes in the people. It is inconceivable that he should ever be found consciously supporting the special interest against the popular welfare."

Commenting upon the Harvey episode, the Outlook of Jan. 27, 1912, has the following to say: "On the published statements of facts, there is nothing in Governor Wilson's course that is incompatible with a sense of gratitude to a friend and appreciation of his services. If Colonel Harvey did not want his question answered he should not have asked it, and since he did ask it it is scarcely fair to him (Wilson) to give the impression that Governor Wilson 'made a statement' rather than answered a question. The delight with which certain Democrats, as well as Republicans, have welcomed this incident as an injury to Governor Wilson's prospects, is a measure of the impression which Governor Wilson has made on the American people as a progressive leader."

After the letters between Colonel Harvey and Governor Wilson were

are mosquitoes. As they sting they put deadly malaria germs in the blood. Then follow the chills and the fever. The appetite flies and the strength falls; also malaria often takes the way for deadly typhoid. But Electric Busters kill and cast out the malaria germs from the blood; give you a fine appetite and renew your strength. After long suffering," wrote Wm. Brewster of Locust, N. C., "three bottles drove all the malaria from my system, and I've had good health ever since." Best for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. 50c at all druggists.

published the Outlook (Feb. 10, 1912) had the following to say: "There are two interpretations of this correspondence. One is that in this instance Governor Wilson permitted himself to be governed by reasons of political expediency to break friendship with a man which he himself was called to deal with a man for whom, since the event, he has expressed personal regard and friendship in the strongest terms. If this interpretation prevails the publication of these letters will have an important political effect, because we believe the American people do not care to see in their representatives any lack of courage in dealing with any evil, such as the evil of personal gossip, and do not want their high public officials to let mere political expediency govern matters of honor and conscience. But there is another interpretation that does more credit to Governor Wilson. It is that when he made his reply to Colonel Harvey he had, as he later explained in one of his letters, no desire that the Weekly should cease to support him, but that he failed to realize what effect a blunt answer to a question of fact would have upon a sensitive and admiring friend. This, it seems to us, is the more charitable interpretation, as it more clearly accords with the statements in the correspondence. It is possible that he will place Mr. Wilson in public estimation in the category of public men, like former Governor Hughes, who are so earnest in the statement of facts and the discussion of public questions that they tend to minimize the importance of personal relationship in political affairs."

In an article of the same date of Governor Wilson's candidacy the Outlook says: "The most talked about and apparently the strongest Democratic candidate is Governor Wilson of New Jersey. Intellectually Dr. Wilson is called the best equipped Democratic leader since Tilden's day. A man like Woodrow Wilson appeals to voters independent of party, and we may remember that the independent voter is growing in quantity and quality."

Why They Support Clark.
(Whispering Intelligence.)
Several months ago the Intelligence made the prediction that the Democratic bosses in this state would desert Governor Harmon and throw their support to Champ Clark, not because they love Champ Clark, but because they agree upon him as the most available man with whom to defeat Woodrow Wilson. During the past few days events have moved rapidly in West Virginia politics. The Fairmount Times and the Charleston Gazette, papers representing the "gold dust twins," have been featuring the Clark boom, and now comes the Hampshire Review, owned by John J. Cornwell, whose surrender to the senatorial combine was one of the noteworthy events of the legislative session of 1911.

HEARST'S HUMOR.

(From the Pittsburgh Dispatch.)
Almost as humorous as Colonel Roosevelt's stern reproach of Messrs. McKinley and Campbell for talking about "the rule of the game," which he'd himself last year, is William Randolph Hearst's crushing denunciation of Woodrow Wilson "because he is not a Democrat and does not know how to be a Democrat." It is inferred that Mr. Hearst knows how. Certainly a man who in a few years demonstrates his capacity to start as a Democrat, then to start an independence league as a proprietary party, to make fusion deals with one party at one time and at another time to get a Democratic nomination for governor and get beaten, to run as an independent for mayor and get beaten there and finally to slump back to the standard of a regular Democrat again can be assigned rank as an expert in getting in and out of almost any old party.

WHY HE FAVORS WILSON.

Statement by S. M. Inman, First Citizen of Atlanta, Ga.

The following is from the Atlanta Journal:

Samuel M. Inman, by general consent accorded distinction as Atlanta's first citizen, favors the nomination of Woodrow Wilson as Democracy's champion for the presidency.

In the following unflinching statement of his position the gentleman who has done at least as much as any other man in the city's history for Atlanta's advancement and betterment comes out clearly and strongly and emphatically for Mr. Wilson's candidacy: Editor Atlanta Journal: Dear Sir—I am very earnestly in favor of Hon. Woodrow Wilson as the Democratic candidate for the presidency. As a Princeton man I am somewhat familiar with his career as president of the university, in which he displayed such qualities of administration and exercised such a splendid influence on the lives of the young men.

As governor of New Jersey he has shown superb statesmanship in reforming the state from bozism and political corruption.

If elected he would give the country the strongest and purest administration we have had for many years.

I have known Governor Wilson for many years. I knew his father before him, and when Governor Wilson was a boy his father was my pastor at one time. I know and admire the wife of the Governor Wilson, who was raised in Rome, Ga. She is eminently fitted to grace the White House.

As to clean, high character and conscientious integrity Governor Wilson's life is an open book. He has been charged with being a foe to business. To legitimate business he is a permanent foe, to legitimate business a staunch friend.

If the national and state governments could break away from the rule of professional politicians and place in power men of the Wilson type we would have a great era of prosperity and upright government. Yours very truly, S. M. INMAN.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.
Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and
bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in over-
coming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it,
or bad effects following use of liquor, wine
or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant
necessity of being compelled to go often
through the day, and to get up many
times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for
everything but if you have kidney, liver
or bladder trouble, it will be found just
the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has
proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all
readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle
sent free by mail, also a book telling
more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.
When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to

MONUMENTS

IN erecting a monument, one
should remember that it is not
a mere mass of stone, but a memorial of honor that is to perpetuate the memory of the departed. Therefore, select the best
to be had. Look to its beauty of design, and the quality of material.
Many years in the monument
business has taught us that good monuments cannot be made at pri-

CHAPTER XI

Introducing Peter.
It was a new country to me that was traversed, a rolling country, but not thickly settled, although the road appeared to be a well-beaten track. The gloom, coupled with the rapidity of our movements, prevented me from seeing anything other than those dim objects close at hand, yet we were evidently traveling almost straight east. I endeavored to enter into conversation with the two fellows riding on either side of me, but neither one so much as turned his head in response to my voice, and I soon tired of the attempt. The night told me little of who they might be, although they were both in the uniform of the Queen's Rangers, the one called Peter on my right a round, squat figure, and bald-headed, his bare scalp shining oddly when once he removed his cocked hat; the other was an older man, with gray chin beard, and glittering display of teeth.

The movements of my horse caused the ropes to lacerate my wrists and ankles, the pain increasing so that once or twice I cried out. The fellows guarding me did not even turn their heads, but the Lieutenant drew up his horse so as to block us.

"What is the trouble? Are you hurt?"
"These ropes are tearing into the flesh," I groaned. "I'd be just as safe
if they were looped a bit."

"I saw him lean forward, shading his face with one hand, as he stared toward me through the darkness. I thought he drew a quick breath as from surprise, and there was a moment's hesitancy.

"Let out the ropes a trifle, Peter,"
came the final order.

The little bald-headed man went at it without a word, the Lieutenant relaxing back his horse slightly, and drawing his hat lower over his eyes. In the silence one of the horses neighed, and the boy seemed to straighten in his saddle, glancing suspiciously about.

"Ride ahead slowly, Tonopah," he ordered. "I'll catch up with you." He turned back toward me. "Who are you, anyway?"

Surprised at the unexpected question, my first thought was to conceal my identity. These were King's men, and I was in "ordinary" clothes—the rough homespun furnished by Farrell.
If, by any chance, I was not the party they had expected to waylay, I might be released without search.

"Who am I?" I echoed. "Do you mean you have gone to all this trouble without knowing whom you hold prisoner?"

"It seems so," coolly. "We know who we thought you were, but I am beginning to doubt your being the right man. Peter, take his hat off."

I straightened up bareheaded, the faint star-gleam on my face. The Lieutenant remained quiet, but Peter broke his sphinx-like silence.

"It ain't him, is it?"
"No; he must have taken the other road after all. With a slight laugh we've been on a wild-goose chase.
However, it's too late now to catch the fellow on this trip."

Peter rubbed his bald pate, his eyes on me.

"An' what'll we do with this lad?" he answered drawlingly. "Turn him loose?"

"Bring him along. We'll find out tomorrow who he is, and what his business may be. Men are not riding these roads at midnight without some purpose."

He wheeled his horse, and, with a touch of the spur, disappeared in the darkness ahead. Peter clambered back into the saddle, and gripped my rein.

"Come on," he said disgustedly, kicking the black in the side. "It's a ways yet afore yer lie down."

We rode steadily, and at a good pace. Occasionally the older man swore solemnly, but Peter never uttered a sound, not even turning his head at my attempts to draw him into conversation. The situation mystified me, but it became more and more evident that I should have to wait until morning before learning the truth.

Neither Peter nor the Indian seemed to belong to the class with which the army was recruited, but Peter appeared more like a well-trained servant, and his riding was atrocious. And the Lieutenant! There came back to me the haunting memory that he had joined Delavan as a volunteer—the Dragon uniform sufficient proof that he was neither of the original foraging party of Hessians, nor of Grant's detachment of Rangers. Yet these three men were green and white, and must, therefore, have been in Grant's command.
How did the four manage to escape from our attack, evidently animated by one purpose? Why was Grant so anxious to learn if I had seen the Lieutenant, and whether we had a party out seeking him? Not one of these questions could I answer; not one could I even guess at with any degree of satisfaction.

We were coming out of the low, swamp lands into a more thickly settled, and cultivated region. Rail and stone fences could be seen on either side the road, and we passed swiftly by a number of farmhouses, some simple log structures, although one or two were more pretentious.

It may have been two miles further along, when the Lieutenant, and his Indian companion, wheeled suddenly to the right, and, without slackening speed, rode through an open gate, and up a gravelled roadway, circling through a grove of trees to the front door of a great square mansion. It was dark and silent, a wide porch in front supported by huge pillars, a broad flight of steps leading from the

THE CITY OFFICIALS.

The serving of the people as an official in the City Government is at best a thankless job, and in our criticism of their acts we should remember the many obstacles with which they have to contend, and also remember that the remuneration attached to the position of Mayor and City Council men is so small that it cannot be considered as any incentive to a man capable of holding the job down.

This week a new Council has gone into office, and it is but fitting that the people express to the retiring members, Mr. Harry Dennis and Mr. C. E. Bennett, their appreciation of the good service which they have rendered to the City during their term of office. That they have made no mistakes is too much to say about anyone who has had the many problems to solve, which have come before them during their tenure, but that they have at all times done what in their judgment was for the best is the general opinion of all who have closely watched their course while councilmen. Mayor Bonds, whose term expires this week, has also made an excellent record.

The new Mayor and City Councilmen, some of whom have already rendered good services, will have many more problems to solve and will need the support of the people interested in the City's progress in their efforts to help the town. All should work together to make this City a better and healthier place to live in; to do all we can to promote its growth; to assist in its commercial progress and to induce more manufacturers to locate in our midst.

THE NEW COMMISSION.

Governor Goldsborough is to be congratulated upon the character of the men whom he has appointed to serve as members of the Road Commission of this State. In the appointment of Mr. Walter B. Miller, of this county, he has made a selection which will be pleasing to all who are interested in this important movement. The interest of Mr. Miller in the Good Road Movement is well known, while his business ability is such as to give ample assurance that the building of our roads will be conducted along business lines. Nor need the dread or fear of political domination be thought of for all who know him will feel confident that the proper building and maintaining of the roads will be the only object which he will have in mind in all his acts.

The other members of the Board have the reputation of being able business men and men who have the success of the State Roads at heart. Most of the appointees, if not all, are men of ample means to whom the salary attached to the position will mean but little, and the people can rest assured that the only reason for their acceptance of the hard position of Road Commissioner is the desire to assist in the good work.

Governor Goldsborough is fortunate indeed in getting men of this character to serve on the Commission, and the people of the State are to be congratulated upon their selection and appointment.

LIMIT THE PRESIDENTIAL TERM.

The disgraceful spectacle of the President of this country engaging in a mudslinging campaign with an ex-President has caused the advocates of limiting the Presidency to a single term to renew the agitation. That our President should not be compelled to play politics the whole of his first term in order to succeed himself goes without saying, and it would probably work more good than harm to increase to six or eight years the tenure of office and make the man who serves one term ineligible to ever serve in that capacity again. One of the benefits from this, outside of stopping the playing of politics by our Nation's head, would be to have our elections farther apart than at present. Business is now thrown in a turmoil every fourth year by the election of the new man. It has hardly time to get settled along one course before along comes another election with new ideas and new issues, the adoption of which would mean a new adjustment by our business people and the effect of which they are afraid to risk. This always means a drawing in of capital and a consequent business depression. Let us fight it out and settle these questions and then let them stay settled even if not quite as they should be settled for a longer time than at the present.

CONTRACT FOR DREDGING

East Prong Wicomico River—Work Commences At Once.

The War Department awarded the contract for dredging the north fork of the Wicomico River from the pivot bridge to the head of the stream to the River and Harbor Improvement Company, of Philadelphia, last week. This company has thirty days to get ready for the work and the dredging must be completed as rapidly as possible after the work has begun. It is estimated that it will take about two months to complete the contract.

The stipulations for the dredging call for a suction dredge which will suck the dirt from the river and distribute it over the properties on both sides of the river. It is estimated that there will be sufficient dirt dredged from the river to fill the properties on both sides of the river to the top of the new wharves. The dredging is to be done so as to give nine feet of water at low tide and as the river bed is now very shallow and as there are several lands to be dredged out it is thought there will be more than enough dirt to fill the properties.

The Government will spend about $25,000 in dredging the river and the property owners along both sides have spent about the same amount for building new wharves. When completed the improvement will increase the value of real estate in that part of Salisbury.

JUST THINK.

First somebody told it,
Then the room wouldn't hold it,
So the busy tongues rolled it
Till they got it outside.
Then the crowd came across it,
And never once lost it—
Till it grew, far and wide.
This lie brought others—
Dark sisters and brothers,
And fathers and mothers—
A terrible crew.
While heading they hurried,
The people they hurried,
And trouble and worry—
As lies always do.

CHANGES IN CHARTER

New Council Monday—Provides For City Registration.

The amended Charter has been received here and makes some changes in the time of entering upon duties by the Councilmen and Mayor. The new council will take its seat the 2nd Monday in May and the Mayor on the twentieth. The regular meeting nights are made every Monday instead of the first Monday each month. By this the new Mayor's first message will be sent in on the twenty-seventh instead of the first Monday in June. The new Charter also provides for a City registration and regulates the elections. Many of the original features relating to the power to establish Board of Health, Inspector of Public Building, etc., were out of the bill before its passage.

Park Street Property Sold

Miss Cora Stover of Washington, D. C., has sold her property on Park Street to Mr. Wm J Downing, of Salisbury. The price paid is said to be in the neighborhood of $4,800.00. This is the property formerly occupied by Miss Fannie Hearn. The lot fronts 75 feet on the West side of Park street, the lot running back to the railroad 304 feet. Mr. Downing will rebuild the house, enlarging it and putting new porches, new plumbing and heating. The property will be thoroughly renovated and made into a handsome house.

DRINKING AMONG THE WOMEN

Not Only Ignorant and Criminal Who Give Way to Appetite, but Many of Superior Intelligence.

This is, of course, a very important subject. I have worked a good deal among women; and you have only to work among women to feel what this subject means. When the wife is a drunkard, the home is truly miserable for the husband, the children, and the woman herself. The woman will do anything to get money for drink.

writes Mrs. Guy Saint in Temperance. But it is not only women in that class. It is not only the ignorant and the criminal who give way to this; it is often the most intelligent who have fallen the victims to it. Now, how is it that this takes place? What is the reason of this extraordinary power that drink has over people? If we are going to work among women, we must realize what this extraordinary power of alcohol is. Alcohol has a great effect upon the liver and other organs of the body, but I want to speak especially of the effect on the controlling part of the mind. When any thought comes into your mind, that thought tries to express itself in action, and it does not do so because you have the controlling power, which says, "No, that is not a thing for me to do." Your power of saying "No!" your power of expression or remaining silent, your power to make you speak when speaking is a great effort—all that is the controlling power of your mind; and it is extremely important, because it helps to make or mar your character. And all our character is the thing that we are making in this world—the one thing that we are carrying beyond it. Therefore our character is extremely important; and alcohol has an influence over that character; it can injure it, and therefore it is an extremely dangerous thing. How is it that alcohol has this power over people? How is it that they can so easily take it to excess? Now, I think there are three points we might take up. The first is that alcohol is always so handy. It is so handy, too, in large houses, for the servants can easily get it in many cases. Then, people can now order it from their grocers, and ladies can get it at railway refreshment rooms, and so on; you have no less of the temptation is always there. Then, secondly, there are so many occasions for taking it. People are so ready to suggest, "Have a little wine, or spirit." You know, it is the wish of today. We allow no time for anything; and among the poor people, too, there is a continuous rush. A large city of the women in our large cities have to be up early to go and clean offices, and they go back again in the evening. It is always a rush to and fro, and during these rushes they think they will have just a little of this and that, instead of taking food, which is what they want. All these women want teaching, and that is what we have to do—try to educate the women. We do want these women to realize that alcohol is not a thing to fall back upon. They use it for an emergency, and once you begin to make emergencies, they come one after another. Alcohol is not the best thing to nurse upon. You want plenty of food, that is true; only a good nursing mother wants to be as placid and as calm as possible, and alcohol is not conducive to placidity and calmness. Nursing mothers are much better by taking plenty of milk, even weak tea, or pure water. The third reason is: How do we know in taking alcohol when we have had enough? "Oh," you say, "any one with a little common sense knows that." Now, this is a very important point. You say you know. It is your judgment or discretion that teaches you when you have had enough. We find that alcohol, even in small doses, influences your judgment; your judgment is not so good after you have taken a drink as it was before you did so. It is in this judgment on which you are depending as to whether you have had enough. Your judgment that you were going by has been altered. I think that, if you consider these points you will partly understand the reason why so many take to drink to excess. Lastly, alcohol is absolutely unnecessary health. It is safe to deal with a beverage which has such very real potential dangers?

Poverty by Alcohol. General Booth, in his book, "Dark-ness England and the Way Out," in speaking of the drink traffic, says: "Nine-tenths of our poverty, squalor, vice and crime spring from this poisonous tap-root. Society, by its habits, customs and laws, has created the slope down which these poor creatures slide to perdition. 'No one fact, other than the hard fact of poverty itself, confronts social workers, in whatever field they may be engaged, so constantly as alcoholism.'"

Scotland's Drink Bill. When we compare Scotland's drink bill for 1902 with 1910 we are surprised at the enormous reduction within the period. In 1902 Scotland was spending on liquor $3 1/2 per head, but in 1910 it had fallen to $2 1/2 per head—16 per cent less than in 1902. That is to say, Glasgow saved over $500,000, and Edinburgh over $200,000. None of that money went into the drink trade—everybody's mouth.

AN EMPEROR'S PHILOSOPHY.

To be strong in sorrow, not wishing for that which is unattainable or worthless; content with each day as it comes, seeking for the good in everything and enjoying nature and mankind as it is, finding solace in one happy hour for a thousand bitter ones and always giving the best that is in one, even though no thanks are received—who learneth that lesson is happy, free and proud, and his life will be a beautiful one. But he who mistrusts only wrongs others and harms himself. It is our duty to consider every one good until the contrary is proved. The world is so large, and we are so small. Everything cannot possibly revolve around ourselves. If something injures us or causes us pain, who knows but what it is necessary for the good of the whole creation? The great, wise will of the almighty and omnipotent Creator manifests itself in everything, animate or inanimate, in this world. We petty human beings lack only the wisdom to comprehend it. As everything is, so should it be in this world, and no matter how it is, it is always good in the eyes of the Creator. —From a Scroll Hanging in Emperor William's Workroom.

LAWLESSNESS.

The spirit of lawlessness is now in the air. It might almost be called the disease of democracy, and it breaks out suddenly and violently in unexpected places. It is our spirit, and a sinister and dangerous spirit, whether it breaks out suddenly in a public meeting that was called in the interest of peace or blows up a public building and brings a score of innocent people to tragic death. It is one and the same spirit, whether used by men to get their rights or by women to get the ballot. We seem deluded by the thought today that the riot is akin to righteousness and that victory can only come by violence. I believe in labor as much as I believe in capital—yes, and even more, if possible, than I believe in capital. But I do not believe that the lawless spirit of the present day is the road to power any more than the great part of our laboring men believe it. So, too, I believe women will get the ballot when a majority of them really want it, but I do not believe that noisy violence is the thing through which the kingdom will be captured. —Paul Revere Frothingham.

TRUST DECISIONS.

It may be held that the principles laid down by the supreme court in the great trust decisions rest on a sound economic basis as well as on good legal grounds and wise public policy. If stock speculation and special privileges are the real causes of our monopolistic trusts the sooner they are dissolved the better. In my belief only a comparatively small number of such monopolistic trusts will be found in the multitude of combinations which now so largely conduct the business of this country. And the disappearance of these mammoth consolidations which are able to defy the laws of competition will put American business once more on a sound footing. Still will be true, of course, that the bulk of our business will be done by concerns which produce on a large scale. But these concerns will be under different and competing owners, and the advantages of large scale production consequently will inure to the benefit of the consumer. This will relieve one of the deepest grounds of dissatisfaction with economic conditions in the United States.—Jacob Gould Schurman, President of Cornell University.

OPPORTUNITY.

There is a popular saying to the effect that opportunity knocks at a man's door once and, receiving no response, departs and returns no more. The saying is good poetry, but poor sense. Opportunity knocks at a man's door every hour of his life. If it neglects him while asleep it knocks twice every hour he is awake. A dozen times an hour in every man's life there is opportunity to perform an act that will advance him a little in the esteem of his associates and at the same time advance his own best interests. Most men hope to make a fortune by some big stroke of luck, whereas it is well known that fortunes are made by saving a little every day. Likewise most men are waiting for opportunity to appear and knock down their doors, whereas opportunity is always hammering away at your door as persistently as a woodpecker knocks on a telephone pole.—Ed Howe.

APOTHEOSIS OF A STATESMAN.

Man is not the creature of circumstances. Circumstances are the creatures of men. Patience is a necessary ingredient of genius. To be conscious that you are ignorant is a great step to knowledge. Property has its duties as well as its rights. It is much easier to be critical than to be correct. Apologies only excuse what they do not alter.—Dumas.

ROUGH ON THE RABBIT.

The conjurer in the village school room had invited any gentleman from the audience to step up on the platform, and a rustic in a velvet coat responded.

"Now, sir," said the professor, "I suppose you consider it a matter of impossibility for me to make that rabbit in the box on the table pass into your coat-pocket?"

"I dunno about impossibility," came the reply, "but I wouldn't do it if I was you, sir."

"Oh, you'll be in no danger, I can assure you," smiled the sleight-of-hand man, airily.

"I won't thinkin' about myself," the rustic answered. "I was studyin' the rabbit. I've got a couple of ferrets in that there pocket."

Domestic Troubles. Husband—What's the matter, dear? Why do you look so worried?

Wife—Oh, I've just got everything all ready for Mrs. Mestle's visit. I've done up all the curtains and pillow shams and bureau covers and centerpieces, and they're all spick and span.

Husband—Well, if everything is in such apple pie order, why look so disconsolate about it?

Wife (bursting into tears)—Oh, I just know, as soon as she sees them, she'll know I cleaned everything all up because she was coming.—Judge.

A CASE IN POINT.

De Quis—Do you believe in palmistry?

De Whis—Yes; to some extent.

De Quis—Do you think the hands can indicate that a man is about to acquire wealth?

De Whis—I do in the case of pickpockets.

Transposed. When Tommy had the tummyache and the doctor came, said he, "Are you in pain?" and Tommy sobbed, "No, sir; the pain's in me."

Leap Year. A local youth is having trouble with his girl.

"Why won't you marry me?" he demanded the other day.

"I'll marry you, but not until next year."

"Why the delay?"

"I'm not going to have it said that I did the proposing."

Poor Proof. "It's astonishing how much more important women are than men."

"But are they?"

"Of course. My wife wouldn't wait a half minute to let me speak to some girls I once knew."

"But she'd stand up for three mortal hours while a dressmaker fitted her."

Their Worth. The girl had demanded her letters back and he was shipping them by express.

"Valuation?" said the clerk.

"What's that?"

"Valuation. What are the contents of this package worth?"

"Put it at 30 cents," answered the young fellow with a scowl.

SERIOUS OBJECTION.

Mrs. Wilson—Ain't you proud since your daughter's engaged to that French nobleman?

Mrs. Blison—No; I can't pronounce his name.

A Flustered Bird. The dove of peace? Men like to boast, But won't give her a place to roost.

Where Algernon Lost. "No," said the disconsolate girl. "I am sure Algernon does not love me. His mind is not on me as it should be."

"How do you know?"

"I played bridge at the same table with him and he could remember what the trump was all the time."

Bright Conundrum. The following conundrum in a German paper is worth repeating, for, though depending on a play of words, it is good in other languages. Why is a slate the prettiest? Because young girls run on both.

Sign of a Weak Mind. In matter of great, convincing truth must be demonstrated by argument of a weak mind that strong opinion.—Whitman.

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo.:—"I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eleven doctors. I had dragging down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse all the time. I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I might die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women."

—Mrs. BERTHA MUFF, 503 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

THE CITY OFFICIALS.

The serving of the people as an official in the City Government is at best a thankless job, and in our criticism of their acts we should remember the many obstacles with which they have to contend, and also remember that the remuneration attached to the position of Mayor and City Councilman is so small that it cannot be considered as any incentive to a man capable of holding the job down.

This week a new Council has gone into office, and it is but fitting that the people express to the retiring members, Mr. Harry Dennis and Mr. C. E. Bennett, their appreciation of the good service which they have rendered to the City during their term of office. That they have made no mistakes is too much to say about anyone who has had the many problems to solve, which have come before them during their tenure, but that they have at all times done what in their judgment was for the best is the general opinion of all who have closely watched their course while councilmen. Mayor Bonds, whose term expires this week, has also made an excellent record.

The new Mayor and City Councilmen, some of whom have already rendered good services, will have many noisy problems to solve and will need the support of the people interested in the City's progress in their efforts to help the town. All should work together to make this City a better and healthier place to live in; to do all we can to promote its growth; to assist in its commercial progress and to induce more manufacturers to locate in our midst.

THE NEW COMMISSION.

Governor Goldsborough is to be congratulated upon the character of the men whom he has appointed to serve as members of the Road Commission of this State. In the appointment of Mr. Walter B. Miller, of this county, he has made a selection which will be pleasing to all who are interested in this important movement. The interest of Mr. Miller in the Good Road Movement is well known, while his business ability is such as to give ample assurance that the building of our roads will be conducted along business lines. Nor need the dread or fear of political domination be thought of for all who know him will feel confident that the proper building and maintaining of the roads will be the only object which he will have in mind in all his acts.

The other members of the Board have the reputation of being able business men and men who have the respect of the State Roads at heart. Most of the appointees, if not all, are men of ample means to whom the salary attached to the position will mean but little, and the people can rest assured that the only reason for their acceptance of the hard position of Road Commissioner is the desire to assist in the good work.

Governor Goldsborough is fortunate indeed in getting men of this character to serve on the Commission, and the people of the State are to be congratulated upon their selection and appointment.

LIMIT THE PRESIDENTIAL TERM.

The disgraceful spectacle of the President of this country engaging in a mudslinging campaign with an ex-President has caused the advocates of limiting the Presidency to a single term to renew the agitation. That our President should not be compelled to play politics the whole of his first term in order to succeed himself goes without saying, and it would probably work more good than harm to increase to six or eight years the tenure of office and make the man who serves one term ineligible to ever serve in that capacity again. One of the benefits from this, outside of stopping the playing of politics by our Nation's head, would be to have our elections farther apart than at present. Business is now thrown in a turmoil every fourth year by the election of the new man. It has hardly time to get settled along one course before along comes another election with new ideas and new issues, the adoption of which would mean a new adjustment by our business people and the effect of which they are afraid to risk. This always means a drawing in of capital and a consequent business depression. Let us fight it out and settle these questions and then let them stay settled even if not quite as they should be settled for a longer time than at the present.

CONTRACT FOR DREDGING

East Prong Wicomico River—Work Commences At Once.

The War Department awarded the contract for dredging the north Fork of the Wicomico River from the pivot bridge to the head of the stream to the River and Harbor Improvement Company, of Philadelphia, last week. This company has thirty days to get ready for the work and the dredging must be completed as rapidly as possible after the work has begun. It is estimated that it will take about two months to complete the contract.

The stipulations for the dredging calls for a suction dredge which will suck the dirt from the river and distribute it over the properties on both sides of the river. It is estimated that there will be sufficient dirt dredged from the river to fill the properties on both sides of the river to the top of the new wharves. The dredging is to be done so as to give nine feet of water at low tide and as the river bed is now very shallow and as there are several lands to be dredged out it is thought there will be more than enough dirt to fill the properties.

The Government will spend about $35,000 on dredging the river and the property owners along both sides have spent about the same amount for building new wharves. When completed the improvement will increase the value of real estate in that part of Salisbury.

JUST THINK.

First somebody told it,
Then the room wouldn't hold it,
So the busy tongues rolled it
Till they got it outside.
Then the crowd came across it,
And never once lost it—
Till it grew far and wide.
This lie brought others—
Dark sisters and brothers,
And fathers and mothers—
A terrible crew.
While banding they hurried,
The people they hurried,
And trouble and worry—
As lies always do.
—Haycinth Lount.

CHANGES IN CHARTER

New Council Monday—Provides For City Registration.

The amended Charter has been received here and makes some changes in the time of entering upon duties by the Councilmen and Mayor. The new council will take its seat the 2nd Monday in May and the Mayor on the twentieth. The regular meeting nights are made every Monday instead of the first Monday each month. By this the new Mayor's first message will be sent in on the twenty seventh instead of the first Monday in June. The new Charter also provides for a City registration and regulates the elections. Many of the original features relating to the power to establish Board of Health, Inspector of Public Buildings, etc., were out of the bill before its passage.

—Ladies if you want children's wash suits you can find a great selection of the better kind at Kennedy and Mitchell's.

Park Street Property Sold

Miss Cora Stover of Washington, D. C., has sold her property on Park Street to Mr. Wm J. Downing, of Salisbury. The price paid is said to be in the neighborhood of $4,800.00. This is the property formerly occupied by Miss Fannie Hearn. The lot fronts 75 feet on the West side of Park street, the lot running back to the railroad 304 feet. Mr. Downing will rebuild the house, enlarging it and putting new porches, new plumbing and heating. The property will be thoroughly renovated and made into a handsome home.

Local insurance men place the insurance at possibly $25,000.

Pine Bluff Sanatorium Taken Over By Commission

The Commission named in the Bill passed at the last Session of the Legislature to take over and manage the Pine Bluff Sanatorium as a State institution, met last week and organized by electing Dr. Martindale President and William M. Cooper, secretary and treasurer. The first business taken up was the question of the purchase of the Pine Bluff property for the state. The bill provides that this property should be taken over at the price of $15,000.00. The commission made a proposition to the Board of Directors of the Pine Bluff Company to take the property over at $14,000.00 leaving a item of one thousand dollars for the furnishing of the building.

The Committee on the part of the Pine Bluff Company, consisting of Messrs. David Ward and Joseph L. Bailey have the matter under advisement and will report to the Commission within a few days. The Commission as soon as the property is acquired, will begin to furnish same and provide all the necessary furnishings and fixtures to take care of patient. Besides the money for the purchase of the property the Commission has an item of $5,000.00 for the erection of sheds and $5,000.00 per year for maintenance of the Hospital. The object of the appropriation was to provide a Hospital for advanced stages of tuberculosis so as to segregate the advanced cases from the homes of the invalids. The Hospital will be open to the indigent poor of the Eastern Shore.

—A stand opposed to woman's suffrage was taken by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church at Louisville, Ky., when that body refused to open the way to Presbyterian pulpits for women candidates for the ministry.

Failed To Get License—S. R. Bloxom Arrested.

S. R. Bloxom, who runs a general mercantile business on the edge of Salisbury, was arrested this week charged with selling goods without a license, and with the sale of cigarettes and tobacco without a special license. He was carried before Justice of the Peace, T. Rodney Jones, who fined him $20 and costs on the first charge and $100 and cost on the second. The fines in both cases being the minimum allowed by law. Mr. Bloxom paid the fines and cost.

DAINTY COLLALETTE IS ALMOST A NECESSITY.

May Be Simple and Effective, and Yet Not Costly—Description of Some of the Designs Most in Vogue.

The most simple frock of linen, lawn or gingham will appear decidedly modish and attractive if adorned by a collalette of sheer embroidered linen, net or lace.

These dainty accessories to the summer frock may be extremely elaborate and cost a fabulous sum, or they may be simple and effective, yet be "purchased for a song."

Collalettes are a practical addition to the wardrobe. They may be worn with a number of plain dresses to constitute their only trimming.

Oddly and ends of lace, embroidery and fine materials may be utilized in fashioning these pretty bits of neckwear by the clever woman.

The collalette following the sloping shoulder line is of sheer white linen. Braids of striped linen of dark and light blue were used as trimming.

Two rows of small crocheted buttons adorned the front and back of the collalette.

One of the prettiest designs for this season was of heavy linen. The collar was cut double, the top being of white and the lower dark blue.

An attractive crevasse of cerise silk, embroidered with dark blue and white, made this a wonderfully fetching piece of neckwear.

The pointed "Quaker" collalette is of finest white linen. A "Lord Byron" collar finishes the neck line.

Both collars have a scalloped edge, buttonholed with linen thread. An elaborate embroidery design done in white makes this "dressed" enough for the thinnest frock of blue or pink lawn.

A small flat bow of black satin is worn at the neck.

White linen of the finest weave formed the square collalette. A fine open, without a word, and I was led down into the basement. The flickering candle yielded but glimpses of great rooms, beautifully decorated, and, almost before I realized what was occurring, I had been thrust into a square apartment, the door behind me closed and locked. The two guards left the sputtering candle, perhaps a third burned, behind, and I heard them stumbling back through the darkness to the foot of the stairs. I glanced curiously, shaking the loosened rope from my wrist, my mind instantly reverting to the chance of escape. Whoever these fellows might be, whatever their purpose, I had no intention of remaining in their hands a moment longer than necessary. Somehow their silence, their mysterious movements, had impressed me with a strange feeling of fear which I could not analyze. I could not believe myself a mere prisoner of war, but rather as being held for some private purpose yet to be revealed. The room offered little promise. It was a nearly square, the walls of stone solidly imbedded in mortar, the door of oak, thickly studded with nails, and the two small windows protected by thick iron bars. It was a cell so strong that a single glance about convinced me of the hopelessness of any attempt at breaking out.

driveway. The Indian ran up these leaving the lieutenant holding his horse, while we drew up some yards to the rear. I heard the boom of the iron knocker, followed by a gleam of light through a lower window. Then a negro's voice spoke, and the front door opened, disclosing two figures, one with sputtering candle in hand. The two exchanged a dozen words before the lieutenant asked impatiently: "Is it all right, Tenebosh?"

The taciturn Indian made no attempt at speech, but gave an expressive gesture, and the young officer turned in his saddle.

"Take the prisoner to the lower room, Peter," he ordered curtly. "I'll decide tomorrow if he can be of any use to us."

The two fellows loosened the rope about my ankles, and Peter waddling ahead, the graybeard gripping my arm, we climbed the steps, and entered the hall. A tall, slim negro, evidently a house-servant, from his sleek appearance, ayeing me curiously, handed the little fellow a second lighted candle, and the three of us went tramping along the wide hall, past the dressing stairs, until we came to a door at the rear. This the black fang

He cocked one eye up at me. "It would seem so, sir."

"The fellow with the gray chin beard was Irish, was it?"

"He might be, sir."

"A Swede, an Irishman, and an Indian," I said musingly. "That makes a nice combination for the Queen's Rangers. Come now, Peter, give me the straight of all this."

He stopped with his fork in a bit of meat, favoring me with another stare. "I think I fail to comprehend, sir."

"No, you don't, you rascal," a bit of anger in my voice. "Did you bring this supper yourself, or were you sent here?"

"Under orders, sir."

"The lieutenant?"

He bowed solemnly, and asked: "Would you object if I smoked, sir?"

"Certainly not; only answer my questions, Good heavens, man! do you think I am a lot of wood? Act like a human being. Who is the lieutenant?"

"A Dragon, sir."

"Peter," I broke out, irritated beyond patience, "I have some reason to believe you a liar. But I'm going to get the truth from you if I have to choke it out."

"Yes, sir; very good, indeed, sir. However, there would seem to be no need of your resorting to such extreme measures, sir."

"Then you will tell me what I wish to know?"

"It will afford me pleasure, sir."

Somehow I could not rid myself of the suspicion that the fellow was secretly laughing at me, yet his round face was innocent and placid, his eyes discreetly lowered.

"Then kindly inform me, first of all, who this young lieutenant is."

"I fear, sir," solemnly, "that I may have misinformed you when I said he was a Dragon."

"Yes!" eagerly.

"I would correct my statement somewhat—he is a Light Dragon, sir."

In spite of my effort at self-control, I swore, tempted to batter that stolid face, yet realizing the utter uselessness of such violence.

"Now, see here!" I broke forth fiercely. "Have done with your play. You are a soldier; I doubt if you were ever on a horse's back until to-night. And those fellows with you are not Queen's Rangers, I'll swear."

"How do you know, sir?" he interrupted gently. "Are you in the army, sir?"

"Of course I am," I cried, answering without consideration.

"I thought so, sir; although your clothes do not proclaim the fact. May I ask which army?"

He had turned the tables most neatly, and I glanced down over my rough garments, awakening suddenly to the knowledge that I was also in a misquade. To be sure I had one advantage—I knew these men had been part of Delavan's foragers, and hence at heart must be loyalists.

"That is not a question I intend answering to every ruffian who stops me on the highway," I returned shortly. "I wish to know what this outrage means? I will know, you wooden-headed imbecile! I was about my business when the four of you attacked me. I wasn't the man you were after at all, and yet I am held prisoner, shut up here behind iron bars. What is this place, anyhow?"

"It is called 'Blindhurst,' sir."

"Blindhurst? A country estate?"

"Yes, sir, one of the old plantations."

"It's a name I never heard. Where is that precious lieutenant?"

"I presume he is in bed, sir," and Peter rose quietly to his feet, and began replacing the dishes on his tray. Apparently there was not a nervous throb to his pulse, and he remained blissfully indifferent to my presence. I stared helplessly at him, even words failing me.

"You refuse to inform me as to the truth of this affair?" I flattered at last, as he lifted his burden on one arm. He turned a stolid face my way.

"I would seem so, sir. I have to thank you for a most delightful evening, sir. Your conversation has been both instructive and entertaining. However, sir, the hour is now late, and I should advise your retiring."

He bowed solemnly, backing toward the door, and I sprang to my feet, overtaken by a sudden determination to make a break for freedom. There was a slight glitter in Peter's gray eyes, as he rapped sharply with his heel on the door.

"I hardly think that would be advisable, sir," he warned softly. "The man

CHAPTER XII

I Interview Peter.

I accepted the wine gratefully, and sat in silence while he served the meal, wondering at the odd character of the man, and striving to determine how best to win his confidence. I was hungry, and not knowing what to say, fell to work with some meat, insisting on his doing likewise. Yet even as I disposed of the food that stolid face opposite fascinated me, and held my gaze. The fellow was not so big a fool as he looked, for while the features remained expressionless and vacant, there was a sly glimmer to the eye, betraying an active, observant mind behind the mask. I began to suspect some purpose in his play acting.

"What is your name, man?" I asked finally, made nervous by his silence.

"Peter Swanson, sir," humbly.

"Oh, a Swede?"

"By ancestry only, sir," he explained, wiping his mouth with a corner of the napkin, but not lifting his eyes from the plate. "T is a hundred years since we crossed the sea."

"And you've been good King's men ever since?"

He cocked one eye up at me.

"It would seem so, sir."

"The fellow with the gray chin beard was Irish, was it?"

"He might be, sir."

"A Swede, an Irishman, and an Indian," I said musingly. "That makes a nice combination for the Queen's Rangers. Come now, Peter, give me the straight of all this."

When a man's married his trouble begins,
Unless his wife is the up-to-date kind,
Who saves her time, temper, fuel, body and mind,
By doing her washing the Fels-Naptha way,
And gets it all done in a fourth of a day.

Hard rubbing will wear away iron in time.

Ever notice a washboard that had been used a good while in the old-fashioned way of washing?

Zinc worn thin and wooden edges all worn round?

Clothes are much softer than zinc or wood.

Then just think how much your clothes must have worn away while the washboard was wearing out.

Clothes last twice as long when washed the Fels-Naptha way because there's no boiling to weaken them and no hard rubbing to wear them into holes.

The Fels-Naptha dissolves the dirt so it seems it just rinses out.

You don't need to hard rub it out.

Using Fels-Naptha soap saves fuel, time and health, too, but perhaps you don't care for these things.

outside is armed, and in the excitement might hurt you."

There was a click of the lock, and the heavy door swung open. I stood motionless, tempted to spring, yet not daring the venture. Peter backed majestically out, and I caught a glimpse of the graybeard, and the black outline of a pistol. Then the door closed, leaving me alone. The little scrap of candle left sputtered feebly, and, after walking across the floor a half-dozen times, striving to gain control of my temper, I blew it out, and crawled into the bunk. There was nothing I could do, but wait for morning; not a sound reached me from without, and, before I realized the possibility, I was fast asleep.

I must have slept long and soundly, for when I finally awoke a gleam of sun lay the full length of the room, and food was upon the table. Some one—Peter, no doubt—had entered and departed without arousing me. Sleep had left me in a pleasant frame of mind, and I ate heartily, wondering vaguely what the day would disclose. I determined one thing, that when Peter returned for the dishes, I would back him into a corner and choke at least a portion of the truth out of his unwilling throat. I had hardly reached this decision when the door opened, and he stood there gazing at me with sphinx-like stupidity. I arose to my feet, gripping the back of a chair, but the utter vacancy in that face seemed to numb action.

There was no positive expression, no dim glimmer of interest in his features; the shining head head alone gave him a grotesque appearance, restraining me from violence. I could as easily have warred with a baby.

"I trust, sir, you slept well," he said soothingly, "and that the service is satisfactory."

I choked back my indignation, the quiet deference of his manner causing me to feel like a brute.

"Nothing could be added to my happiness," I answered, "unless it might be a little information which you seem disinclined to furnish."

He waved one hand, as though brushing calmly aside some imagined insect.

"Disinclined? Oh, no, sir; there is nothing to conceal, sir, I assure you."

"Then, for God's sake, let it out of your system, man!" I burst forth impatiently. "Whom am I a prisoner to? What am I held for? What sort of treatment is this I am receiving?"

Peter bowed, without the tremor of an eyelash.

"Do not mention it, sir," he murmured smoothly; "we are only too proud to have you as our guest at Elmhurst. It has been very quiet here now for some weeks, sir, and your coming was welcome to us all."

I could only stare at the fellow with open mouth, so dumbfounded as to be speechless. Of all the idiots I had ever met he was the worst, or else his acting was magnificent. To save me I was not certain which might be the correct view. He continued in stately solemnity:

"I trust there remains nothing more you desire to learn sir? If not, I am requested to conduct you to the library. Ah, thank you, sir—this way, please."

He stood aside, statue-like, his eyes looking directly past me, and pointed with dignity to the open door. I obeyed the calm movement of that hand as though it had been a military order, but as I stepped into the twilight of the outer basement, I suddenly perceived the presence there of the attendant graybeard. He moved in advance, and I followed, aware that Peter was closely at my heels. A glance told me here was a library, not only in name, but in fact, a large square room, well lighted, the furniture mahogany, shining like glass, three of the walls lined with books, mostly in sombre bindings. A green-

you will repose sufficient confidence in me not to object. The sole requirements are that you remain in this room until sent for."

"That will not be long?"
"I think not, sir."
"And who will send for me?"

Peter's eyes surveyed me, but without expression.

"I am quite unable to answer that, sir."

He was enough to provoke a saint, but I had already butted my head against that stone wall sufficiently to learn the uselessness of any further attempt. Peter was Peter, and I crushed back my first impatient exclamation to say humbly:

"All right, my man, I'll wait here."

I sank back into the upholstered chair, and for a moment after he had closed the door I did not move. Then, scarcely knowing whether to laugh or swear over the situation, I crossed the room, and gazed out through the window. Far down the winding driveway, half concealed behind the trees, a body of British troops was tramping toward the house.

Mardela Circuit.

Milla Chapel is located seven miles northwest of Salisbury and is one mile from the stone road leading to Sharptown. This Chapel is a very beautiful structure and indeed a great credit to the good people of that community. During the pastorate of my predecessor, Rev. J.B. Hosman, the Chapel was freed from a debt of about $300. The membership is largely composed of young people. Bro. Geo. Hearn, one of the leading men of the community is the class leader and Bro. Oscar Holloway, a young man was elected Supt. of the Sunday School. Miss Ruth Hearn, daughter of Geo. Hearn was elected organist. The choir consists of about twelve people, and we believe will compare well with most of the choirs of the country. No better community can be found on this peninsula than Milla. Near the Chapel is the beautiful residence of Mrs. Dick, who contributed so largely toward the building of this Chapel. Though a Catholic, by name, she loved to visit the old Methodist Church of which her parents and friends were members.

Spring Grove Church is situated two miles north of Mardela and two miles from Vienna and not far from the Nanticoke River. This Church is located in a splendid neighborhood of progressive farmers. They have a beautiful Church of modern structure which has recently been repaired and is free from debt. Bro. Thos. English, a local preacher and now class leader is always at his place and at his work to cheer and help the pastor. Bro. Crawford Bennett, a young man of promise was elected Supt. of the Sunday School, and he is well fitted for the place. Mrs. Jennie Bennett, a noble Christian lady was elected organist. This choir also is composed mostly of young people. The Ladies Aid Society was re-organized and the officers elected.

Mardela Springs, better known as Barren Creek is a beautiful little inlet town of about 400 inhabitants. It is situated about twelve miles from Salisbury. We have three churches, one Presbyterian, one Protestant and one Methodist. There is one cruet factory, two canning houses and several smaller industries. Mardela has advantages above many inlet towns. First the stone road, running from Salisbury to Sharptown, with an automobile line daily; Second, the B. O. & A. Ry., Road running through the northern part of the town, and on the south, Barren Creek, which empties into the Nanticoke River a few miles below the town. This Creek is navigable for sail boats and the gas-line boats which run daily, all of which makes it a very inviting place for men of capital. Now is regard to our own Methodist Episcopal Church in Mardela, we have a very fair Church, free from debt and a beautiful parsonage. The Church has a membership of 58. Bro. Jno. Graham, one of the old members of the Church is class leader. He is a man who is faithful to his Church and his pastor, Raymond Seabrook was elected Sunday School Supt. He is a young man well fitted for the place, and the Sunday School is growing in interest as well as in numbers and doing much to help the Church. The Ladies Aid Society is doing well its part in meeting the needs of the Church. We also have a well organized choir, mostly young people, with Miss Inez Watson as organist. So with our faithful band of workers we are hoping and praying for a year of success.

The Civil War Through The Camera.

The famous Brady War Pictures and Prof. Elson's History of the Civil War constitute the most interesting story of the conflict between the States that has yet been given to the country. Every Evening, Delaware's leading newspaper, has arranged to distribute the two, known as "The Civil War Through The Camera", for the entire State of Delaware.

Mathew Brady the photographer, who went to the front in 61, by permission of Lincoln, secured hundreds of pictures that make up a priceless collection at this time. With Prof. Elson's History of the War, they furnish a word and pen picture that should be in the hands of every person in the State, young or old. Every Evening is sold by every newsdealer in Delaware. All that is necessary to secure the War Portfolio is to buy the paper from your nearest dealer and save the coupons printed daily. Six coupons and ten cents to cover cost of handling, with an additional three cents for mailing, secures one part of these handsome War Portfolios. One is issued each week - 10 in all.

President Wood Gives Out Program For June 25, 26, 27, 29.

Prof. Earl B. Wood, president of the Maryland State Teachers Association, has announced the program, as arranged by the executive committee of the association, for the 85th annual meeting of the State Teachers Association at Braddock Heights, Md., June 25, 26, 27 and 29.

Governor Goldsborough, Hon. P. F. Olanton, U. S. Commissioner of Education; Prof. William M. Davidson, superintendent of schools of the District of Columbia; Judge Hammond Orner, Prof. H. J. Peterson and Prof. W. T. L. Talliaferro are among those who will address the gathering. On Tuesday evening, June 25, the address of welcome will be made by Chief Judge Hammond Orner, of Frederick, and Prof. Woodland O. Phillips, superintendent of schools for Howard County will respond. Prof. Earl B. Wood, of Rockville, will make the president's address.

There will be an illustrated talk on rural schools by a representative of the United States Department of Agriculture. Thursday will be a symposium on rural schools by ten teachers. Friday's work will consist of reports of the Maryland Teachers Reading Circle, by Miss M. W. Tarr, secretary; the report of committee on resolutions and the election of officers. Wicomico county will, as usual, be well represented at the meeting, not only by teachers, but by the county superintendent and members of the school board.

Renovating Hospital.

Miss Shiel, Superintendent of the Peninsula General Hospital is having the building completely renovated preparatory to taking care of the summer rush of patients. The wards are all being newly painted and the hospital building painted outside. The porches will be screened so as to provide a more pleasant place for the patients this summer. A new disinfection plant has been placed in the laundry building so that the linen of the fever patients can be more thoroughly disinfected. The Hospital is generally taxed with fever cases in the summer and Miss Shiel is getting everything in readiness to handle the cases promptly and effectively.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF VALUABLE FARM AND TOWN PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Wicomico County, Maryland, the undersigned as Trustee will sell at public auction at the Court House Door in Salisbury, Maryland, on

SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1912

at two o'clock P. M., all the real estate of Joseph Waller, late of Wicomico County, deceased, consisting of a farm of 100 acres, more or less, lying in Delmar Election District, Wicomico County, Maryland, about four miles west of the town of Delmar, situated on, and lying upon both sides of the County Road leading from Delmar to Hebron by way of G. Harvey Bradley's; also one house and lot situated on East Elizabeth Street in the town of Delmar.

The farm will first be offered in two lots: First, all that part of the said farm lying on the north side of and binding upon the said County Road leading from Delmar to Hebron, containing 70 acres, more or less; 50 acres of cleared land, the remainder well set in thrifty pine and oak timber; bounded on the North by the Maryland and Delaware line; on the east by the lands of Isaac Adkins; on the south by the aforesaid County Road; on the West by the lands of R. Jasper Miller; and is improved by a six room two story dwelling, barn and stables, and other outbuildings.

Second: All that part of the said farm lying on the south side of, and binding upon the said County Road leading from Delmar to Hebron, and lying on both sides of and binding upon the County Road leading from the Old Hickory Mill to Salisbury, containing 60 acres, more or less; 25 acres cleared land; the remainder consists of both pine and oak timber; bounded on the North by the said County Road from Delmar to Hebron, on the east by the lands of Isaac Adkins and others; on the South by the lands of Geo. W. Hearn and others; on the West by the lands of Geo. W. Hearn, R. Jasper Miller and others, and the said County Road leading from Old Hickory Mill to Salisbury.

All the said farm will be first offered separately and then as a whole, with the understanding that if the bid for the whole shall be equal to or exceed the sum of the bids received separately for the farm, the bid for the said farm as a whole will be accepted, but if the sum of the bids for the separate lots shall exceed the bid for the whole, then the separate bids will be accepted.

Third: All that lot of ground, with the improvements thereon, situated in the town of Delmar, Delmar Election District, Wicomico County, Maryland, on the Northern side of and binding upon East Elizabeth Street, and on the Eastern side of and binding upon Third Street: Bounded on the north by the land of William L. Sirman; on the east by the land of Oscar Brown, having a frontage on said Elizabeth Street of about fifty six feet and extending back therefrom in a uniform width about 150 feet. This lot is improved by a two story dwelling and by barn and stables.

GARBAGE SYSTEM NEEDED

Committee Makes Investigations—Results of Correspondence.

The Committee from the Men and Religion Forward Movement, known as the Committee on Sanitation, which was appointed at a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Movement, consisting of Messrs. J. D. Williams, W. B. Miller, E. Frank Kennerly, P. S. Sheppard, Chas. W. Bennett, P. S. Sheppard, G. William Phillips, U. W. Dickerson, Glen Perdue and Upshur Morris, met last Friday night at the City Hall and took up the question of establishing a garbage system for Salisbury.

Mr. Walter S. Sheppard had corresponded with twenty cities about the size of Salisbury. He received answers from sixteen cities, about two-thirds of which have garbage systems and the rest of which are now working on a plan to establish systems in their cities. Mr. Sheppard made his report to the committee and explained to them the system in vogue in many of the cities and the cost of operating the same. It was found that a city about the size of Salisbury can be maintained for about $2,000 per annum. "This would provide for the gathering of the garbage every other day. The plan would be to divide the city into two districts and gather the garbage from one district each day. By this method more than two days' garbage would accumulate in any section of the city. The plan in Frederick where this system is in vogue and where all kinds of garbage is taken care of, is to contract for the system with some reliable contractor who gives bond for the faithful performance of his contract. In Frederick the work costs $2,700, but Frederick is a city of 12,000 inhabitants and it is estimated that this work can be done in Salisbury for at least $2,000 a year. In Frederick the garbage is dumped about one mile from the city limits into holes from which clay has been taken for brick yards. Almost everything is put out in cans or boxes. The city is divided into two sections and they collect in alternate sections each day, using about four carts and two wagons, covered with canvas when carts are loaded.

This Sanitary Committee will continue to get data for the benefit of the Mayor and Council and will aid the authorities in every possible way to formulate a plan to give Salisbury this much needed improvement. When the matter is up with the Mayor and Council it is proposed to have the project backed by a committee of the largest tax payers in the city.

ABOUT THE MAGISTRATES

Test Case Held Here Before Judge Stanford—The Decision.

The much mooted question as to whether the old magistrates appointed by Governor Outhers or the new ones appointed by Governor Goldsborough are legally qualified to perform the duties of their offices was decided today, so far as the Circuit Court for this County is concerned, by an opinion rendered by Judge H. L. D. Stanford Thursday afternoon. The question was presented to the Court in a test case to determine the authority of Justice T. Rodney Jones to issue a commitment, and was argued by States Attorney George W. Bell, in favor of the old magistrates holding over, and by Attorney George W. Lilly, who upheld the opposite view.

Judge Stanford said he realized the importance of the matter from the standpoint of the public, and while he felt sure of the conclusion reached by him in the opinion, he wished the case taken to the Court of Appeals in order that the matter might be definitely settled.

After reviewing the decisions of the Court of Appeals on the subject, the Judge said he had reached the conclusion that the magistrates appointed by former Governor Outhers were the ones legally qualified. He quoted the provision of the Constitution which provides that all civil officers shall be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate, and said that in the absence of any other clause in the Constitution, the old officers held over, until their successors were appointed; that there could not be a vacancy in these offices except by resignation or death, and was only in case of a vacancy that the Governor could appoint during the recess of the legislature.

By the terms of the decision, should it prevail, Justice T. Rodney Jones will continue to act as magistrate. With the case of Justice Neaman P. Turner, it is different. Justice Turner was appointed by Governor Outhers to fill the unexpired term of the late Justice William A. Traylor, and it is generally agreed by all that his term expired at the expiration of the last legislature.

Professors Taught Free of Charge. There is just one country in the world where the highest education is free and that country, surprising as it may seem to those who read this, is Chile. ## AS ORDERED.

A country tailor recently found himself in an awkward fix. He wanted to order two "tailor's gooses," but he looked at the order he had written and shook his head. "Two tailor's gooses," he muttered; "that don't look right. Two tailor's geese—no, I'm sure that can't be correct."

He pondered the question until he became quite worried, but finally hit on the brilliant idea of writing his order: "Messrs. Please send one tailor's goose. P. S.—You can send two instead of one."—London Weekly Telegraph.

The Bitter End. "Do you think," asked the girl's mother, "you have succeeded at last in convincing Mr. Youngblood that he can never have our daughter?" "I'm afraid not. Somehow, I can't help feeling that he may get her yet."

"But you told him this morning when he asked you for the seventh time that you would not give your consent."

"Yes. The trouble is that he has not threatened to carry on his campaign to the bitter end. As long as a chap refrains from referring to the bitter end there is a chance that he may win out."

INCONSISTENT.

The Preacher—Then you don't think I practice what I preach, eh? Deacon Hayrick—No, sir, I don't. You're been preaching on your subject of resignation for two years, and yet you ain't resigned yet.

Excuse These Tears. "I chose a pet word yesterday and now I'm feeling lonely."

"Was 'only,' but as sure's you're born, The printer made it 'only.'"

A Mode of Concealment. "I want to keep the real facts concerning this transaction a secret," said the enterprising man.

"Then," replied the sage counselor, "I should immediately start a controversy concerning it. Then so many theories will be advanced that the facts will never become public."

Looking Ahead.

A popular local belle is very romantic. "I think I had better get a job before we marry," said her fiancé. "The girl protested."

"Don't be so unromantic," she said. "I won't need any clothes for a long time."

"But you may want to eat almost immediately, my dear."

Oriental Politics.

"Hi Lee, Hi Lo," he declared as he read the evening paper. "And here this 'Hi Lo' song," asked his wife, trying to get a sniff of his breath.

"I am not singing," he replied. "I am merely trying to memorize the names of the Chinese cabinet officers."

Danger Above All Others. There is only one real national danger—ignorance.

OFFICE OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Salisbury, Md. The following communication from the School Commissioners is published by law: Salisbury, Md., April 30th, 1912 To the Hon. County Commissioners Gentlemen:

As required by the Acts of 1910, chapter 286, we submit herewith a list of the high schools of this county with a statement of the estimated cost of maintaining same, and ask that you make a separate levy for high schools. The estimate of maintaining all the high schools of the county, to be submitted later, will include the amounts stated below.

Wicomico High School, Salisbury, will require a principal, four assistants in the academic department, and two in the department of household economy, manual training and drawing. Their salaries will aggregate $2,250. The State Appropriation on account of salaries of teachers of this school is $2,400; leaving a deficit to be provided for of $150.

Sharpsburg High School, principal and two assistants with a special teacher, spending a half year in this school, $2,445. State Appropriation, $1,400; deficit, $1,045.

Delmar High School, principal and one assistant, with a special teacher, one half year, $1,855. State Appropriation, $500; deficit, $1,355.

Besides these high schools there are schools at Pittsville, Hebron, Mardela and Brandywine, of the high school department including the tenth year grade. The salaries of the four principals of these schools aggregate $2,160, with a state appropriation of $2,400 for the maintenance of the school year 1912-13.

FIGHTING FOR PEACE.

What would not Peace, the patriot bear for thee? What painful patience? What incessant care? What mixed anxiety? What sleepless toll? Even from the rash protected, what reproach? For he thy value knows, thy friendship he To human nature, but the better than. The richer of delight, sometimes the more Inevitable war, when ruffian force Awakes the fury of an injured state: Even the good patient man whom reason rules. Roused by bold insult and injurious rage. With sharp and sudden check the astonished sons Of violence confound, then as his cause His bolder heart, in awful justice clad, His eyes exulting a peculiar fire, And as he charges through the prostrate war His keen arm teaches faithless men no more. To dare the sacred vengeance of the just.

—Thomson.

WHY WOMEN FAIL.

The designing of wall paper, of furniture, of colored glass shades for lamps, the fashioning of all things that go in the home, the building of artistic homes, the fabrication of exquisite jewelry—why do not women take first rank among the workers in these crafts? Not because the manufacturers would be unwilling to make use of them—simply because they are not competent to do the work—in your phrase, they have not "made good." And why are they not competent? Because they will not sacrifice themselves to the hard grind of study, to the strict years of application to technique which men, breadwinners from the beginning, take as a matter of course.—Sir Gilbert Parker.

WOMAN'S FUTURE.

The woman of the future as I see her will devote herself to the part time job for which there is no pecuniary reward. She will marry and fulfill all her home duties toward husband and children. She will have perhaps three or four hours of leisure daily. She will devote this time neither to private work nor private pleasures, but to the interests of the community. She will work for the school board and the health department. She will study the milk supply of her town and investigate the sources for the care of neglected, destitute and delinquent children will naturally fall into her hands. Just as she first taught house-keeping to the man of the cave she will now teach it to the man of the world. One of the inborn characteristics of women, a characteristic not possessed by men, is the ability to make life livable and therefore happy. This ability may be applied just as successfully to the life of the community as to the life of the individual.—William Hard in "The Women of Tomorrow."

MENACE OF THE FEEBLE MINDED.

Our government spends hundreds of thousands of dollars examining immigrants to see that none who is feeble minded is admitted, but there is a group already in our country which is breeding a race of feeble minded people more dangerous than many barred by the immigration inspectors. We spend thousands of dollars to determine whether Harry Thaw is criminal or crazy that we may know whether to send him to a hospital, but here is an army of lawbreakers as to whom it is a serious question whether the punishment of sixty days in jail or permanent care where they will be happy and harmless. Yet little is done to determine their responsibility, and we make mistakes without blushing. Five hundred thousand people in the United States have not sufficient intelligence to manage their affairs with ordinary prudence, are unable to compete with their fellows on equal terms and thereby to earn livelihoods.—Dr. Henry Stoddard, New York Sociologist.

TO DEVELOP THE MIND.

To look at things as well as we can, to inscribe them in our memory, to be observant and let no day pass without gathering something, then to apply oneself to those branches of knowledge which give the mind a sure direction, to appropriate everything its value—this is what we have how to do.—Goethe.

Books of Youth.

The books that charmed us in youth recall the delight ever afterwards; we are hardly persuaded there are any like them, any deserving equally our affections. Fortunately if the best fall in our way during this susceptible and forming periods of our lives.—Alcott.

Thoroughness Means Success.

Success, generally speaking, is the science of leaving just as little as possible to chance.—Pack.

MUST BELIEVE IT.

When Well Known Salisbury People Tell It So Plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Salisbury the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every sufferer of kidney backache, every man, woman or child with kidney trouble will do well to read the following:

Mrs. Samuel E. Brittingham, 203 Elizabeth St., Salisbury, Md., says "What I said in the public statement I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills in 1909 still holds good and I am pleased to make the fact known that I have had no further trouble from my kidneys. I was annoyed off and on for over a year by a sharp pain across my back and it always became worse when I caught cold or did much stooping. The use of one box of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me. ## $100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

JUST A LITTLE SMILE

Always a Way.
"I am beginning to fear," said Rev.
Mr. Goodman, "that I may be injecting too much humor into my sermons.
The people may fall into the habit of neglecting to take me seriously."

"Oh, don't worry about that, dear," his wife replied. "Whenever you begin to notice that they are not taking you seriously just ask them to raise your salary."

A Character Test.
"When I was a young man I was very fond of music," remarked Mr.
Cumrox. "My singing laid the foundation of my fortune."

"You sang so well?"
"No, the captain of industry who started me in life said that anybody who would get up before folks and sing as I did had marvelous nerve and indomitable will power."

Facilities to Economize.
"Our forefathers lived much more simply than we did," said the man who takes everything seriously. "They did not hesitate to economize."
"Yes, but look at the room they had to economize in. You couldn't expect us to churn in a flat or keep chickens and a garden on the fire escape, could you?"

Wish Realized.
While the mercury was smuggling close to the zero mark the charter member came into the Gurbstone club headquarters.
"Where's the Ancient Carpenter?" he asked.
"Oh, he hasn't been here," replied the Prominent Plumber, "since that evening when he was wishing for another good old-fashioned winter."

congress.
"Of course you did," replied the veteran. "After you have been here a while you'll learn to put less work on your original speech and save yourself for the explanations."

Changing Doctors.
"What you need, madam, is oxygen.

I needed was plain fresh air."

REFLECTIONS OF AN IRON- MASTER.

I was in business to make money.
I don't think any profits unfair.

The man who owns his own ground is a man.
The man who provides for his own day and generation is wise.
I don't believe any corporation can manage a business like a partnership. You take twenty-five young men, give them an interest in the business, and each one will be looking around for the leaks.

Socialism has no terrors for me—I have such faith in human nature. Everything is getting better.—Andrew Carnegie.

NO PANAMA TOLLS.

A free canal, in addition to increasing the commerce of the United States in ten years to fifty times the cost of operation, maintenance and interest, will accomplish other results. It will absolutely destroy all possibility, in any shape or manner of monopoly in interoceanic traffic.
It will encourage every ship owning, operating or chartering company or individual in the world to build, operate or charter vessels to use the canal. It will keep rates between the two coasts of the United States at a minimum and develop an immense traffic between the Atlantic and Gulf ports and those of California, Oregon and Washington. It will improve to the largest degree the possibilities of trade between the United States and the west or Pacific coast of the twelve Latin American countries reaching with vast potential resources for 8,000 miles from Mexico to Chile. It will bring to the ports of the United States and Latin America vessels of every flag, providing them with abundant shipping facilities and adding greatly to their prosperity. It will inaugurate a new commerce between the Atlantic and gulf coasts of the United States and the ports of Asia and Australia, which otherwise would use the Suez canal or not exist at all.—John Barrett.

THE AIM OF LIFE.

We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;
In feelings, not in figures on a dial.

We should count time by heart throbs. He most lives Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.

And he whose heart beats quickest lives the longest;
Lives in one hour more than in years do some Whose fat blood sleeps as it slips along their veins.

Life is but a means unto an end;
that end,
Beginning, mean and end to all things—God.

The dead have all the glory of the world.

—Philip James Bailey.

NOT A NERVOUS AGE.

Society today, and especially the social body of America, imagines itself to be the pitiable victim of a miserable disease, general nervousness. It is a dogma of our generation that our whole nervous makeup has become worse, that nervous troubles are on the increase, that our entire social life has become neurotic and that we must do our utmost to protect our nervous energies against the tiredness and exhaustion which have become the habitual fate. Nevertheless I do not hesitate to claim that this story is imagination from beginning to end. It is an illusion that our time is more nervous than earlier periods. It is an illusion that the material and social conditions under which we live are favorable to nervous diseases. It is an illusion that the highly praised remedies would really serve their purpose if the disease existed. And if the prejudices are allowed to spread as in recent years the belief in this self made disease may indeed become a serious handicap.—Dr.
Hugo Muensterberg.

Or Very Tough.
Who slips upon
An icy pave
And doesn't wear,
Is very brave.

Distribution of Effort.
"I put a lot of work on that speech of mine," said the new member of congress.
"Of course you did," replied the veteran. "After you have been here a while you'll learn to put less work on
your original speech and save yourself for the explanations."

Changing Doctors.
"What you need, madam, is oxygen.
Come every afternoon for your inalations. They'll cost you $4 each."
"I know that the other doctor didn't understand my case," declared the fashionable patient. "He told me all I needed was plain fresh air."

She Was Forgiveness.
Author—Good gracious, what a state this place is in! You have been reading instead of doing your work.
Servant—I have been reading your last poem, mum, and it so enthralled me I forgot everything else.—Fitzgen-de Blasette.

Sympathy for the Parrot.
Talkative and Abusive Old Lady (complaining of a recently bought parrot).—And when I talk to that parrot
he says some dreadful swear words.
Dealer—I don't blame, 'im, ma'am, the poor bird is only human.—Smy-body's Weekly.

Excelsior.
She—I'm afraid I cannot marry you.
I want a man who possesses a noble ambition, one whose heart is set on attaining some high and worthy object.
He—Well, don't I want you?
She—Oh, George, darling, I am young.

Feed and Fetter.
"This is a woman with a pet," said the Suspicious Neighbor, with sur-pressed horror. "Well," said the Old Neighbor, "she's better off than the rest of us, is that all. I'm afraid most of us have something coming to us." And it was so. You unhappy your pet, but what's coming you may escape.

Man He Bunk Around.
The world comes every man a day,
but it doesn't suit one day.

RAIMENT FOR THE TOT

NO EASY MATTER PROPERLY TO DRESS SMALL BOY.

That Distinctive Touch Which All Mothers Desire Is Not Easy to Give—Some Pretty Tub Suits
In Colors.

That little tot whose trousers are only about as long as your hand is an important personage when it comes to fitting him out with raiment.
There is all the difference in the world in the appearance he makes when he is just cut down and sewed up and when he is suitably and picturesquely dressed.

Not only are his little clothes carefully finished, but they often have some magic touch of handwork which quite places them in the out-of-the-usual class. Every mother wants her boy or girl to take a prominent place in this class.

Johnny Smith may look all right in his made-by-the-dog suit, and so long as he is clean maybe there is no criticism due him—but the mother with alert taste just can't bear her own child to look like any nice boy you see in the streets. He simply must bear that extra touch, which is so hard to give to a boy, where as
with a little girl it can be done easily.

Just now the more small children look like quaint little men the better.
They are perfect pictures in summer with their pretty little tub suits in colors.

The little man illustrated has boyish trousers, open at the knees, with sailor collar and tie, big broad belt and pings in a different material.
Sometimes the suit is made in striped or corded white with collar and trimmings of solid color. Sometimes the order is reversed. The belt gives the style to the suit.

A Russian blouse effect is obtained in another suit. The kimono yoke is cross stitched in a design out on the Widely Belted Suit.

shoulder. A tiny bit of cross stitching runs down the front of the yoke and the yoke is buttoned on with crochet buttons and loops.

This suit in pink and white, blue and white and brown and white is most individual and attractive.

FALSE HAIR REQUIRES CARE

Mistake to Neglect This Ornamentation Which Just Now Is Considered Indispensable.

False hair, as well as the real, needs care. The psyche switch, and transformation, should be brushed as carefully as the real hair and as often. The best way to do it is to place a towel on the lap or table and spreading the "pieces" on it, brush with a rubber-backed comb, brush, first one side and then the other. This removes all tangles and does not tear the hair as does a comb. Without natural oils "brushed" hair soon grows lusterless.

It should be brushed frequently with brilliantine. Put a few drops in the palm of the hand, then rub the brush over it. Be sure to get a brilliantine that is not greasy. There are several makes that give luster, yet do not leave the hair sticky. Also hair can be washed in thick soap suds made from pure white soap. Only the latter should be used, and then rinse in several waters. Dry between chamol-cloths or press almost dry in the hands. Then hang in a current of air, and when dry shake and brush until fluffy. Occasional washing with gasoline is considered good for false hair.
Do not use ammonia or borax on false hair, as this will discolor it.

True Nobleness.
To love the unlovely, to sympathize with the contrary-minded, to give to the uncharitable, to forgive such as never pity, to be just to men who make iniquity a law, to repay their ceaseless hate with never-ceasing love, is one of the noblest attainments of man, and in this he becomes most divine.—Theodore Parker.

The Right to Smoke.
"Do you think it looks well for women to smoke as they do in some Spanish-speaking countries?" "Well," replied the worried Londoner, "it's this way: If they smoke they're likely either to be quiet and comfortable, or if they're not used to it just the opposite. And either way a good chance of keeping 'em out of the suffragette parade."

Begin at Home.

Temperance

DRINKING AMONG THE WOMEN

Not Only Ignorant and Criminal Who Give Way to Appetite, but Many of Superior Intelligence.

This is, of course, a very important subject. I have worked a good deal among women; and you have only to work among women to feel what this subject means. When the wife is a drunkard, the home is truly miserable for the husband, the children, and the woman herself. The woman will do anything to get money for drink, writes Mrs. Guy Saint in Temperance. But it is not only women in that class. It is not only the ignorant and the criminal who give way to this; it is often the most intelligent who have fallen the victims to it. Now, how is it that this takes place? What is the reason of this extraordinary power that drink has over people? If we are going to work among women, we must realize what this extraordinary power of alcohol is. Alcohol has a great effect upon the liver and other organs of the body, but I want to speak especially of the effect on the controlling part of the mind. When any thought comes into your mind, that thought tries to express itself in action, and it does not do so because you have the controlling power, which says, "No, that is not a thing for me to do." Your power of expression or remaining silent, your power to make you speak when speaking is a great effort—all that is the controlling power of your mind; and it is extremely important, because it helps to make or mar your character. After all, our character is the thing that we are making in this world—the one thing that we are carrying beyond it. Therefore our character is extremely important; and alcohol has an influence over that character; it can injure it, and therefore it is an extremely dangerous thing. How is it that alcohol has this power over people? How is it that they can so easily take it to excess? Now, I think there are three points we might take up. The first is that alcohol is always so handy. It is so handy, too, in large houses, for the servants can easily get it in many places. Then, people can now order it from their grocers, and ladies can get it at railway refreshment rooms, and so on; you have no idea of the harm it does. It is so handy that the temptation is always there. Then, secondly, there are so many occasions for taking it. People are so ready to suggest, "Have a little wine, or a little beer, or pure water. The third reason is: How do we know in taking alcohol when we have had sufficient? "Oh," you say, "any one with a little common sense knows that." Now, this is a very important point. You say you know. It is your judgment or discretion that teaches you when you have had enough. We find that alcohol, even in small doses, influences your judgment; your judgment is not so good after you have taken alcohol as it was before you did so. It is this judgment on which you are depending as to whether you have had enough. Your judgment that you were going by has been altered. I think, if you consider these points you will partly understand the reason why so many take to drink to excess. Lastly, alcohol is absolutely unnecessary to health. Is it safe to deal with a beverage which has such very real potential dangers?

Poverty by Alcohol. General Booth, in his book, "Dark-est England and the Way Out," in speaking of the drink traffic, says: "The cause of our poverty, squandering and crime spring from this poisonous tap-root. Society, by its habits, customs and laws, has greased the slope down which these poor creatures slide to perdition."

"No one fact, other than the hard fact of poverty itself, confronts social workers. In whatever field they may be engaged, so constantly as alcoholism."

Scotland's Drink Bill. When we compare Scotland's drink bill for 1902 with 1910 we are surprised at the enormous reduction within the period. In 1902 Scotland was spending on liquor $8,136,383 per head, but in 1910 it had fallen to $2,136,383 per head less than in 1902. That is to say, Glasgow saved over $800,000, and Edinburgh over $200,000. None of that money went into the drink trade—Everybody's Mouth.

APOTHEGMS OF A STATESMAN. Man is not the creature of circumstances. Circumstances are the creatures of men. Patience is a necessary ingredient of genius. To be conscious that you are ignorant is a great step to knowledge. Property has its duties as well as its rights. To be much greater to be critical than to be correct. Apologies only account for what they do not explain.—Dana.

BIG FAILURE—TREMENDOUS DROP IN PRICES!

Owing to local conditions we could not pay our bills as they came due. Some of our creditors pushed us to the wall. We were forced into bankruptcy by the U. S. Court of Baltimore. Receivers advertised our stock at public sale. Buyers of high-grade merchandise from the large cities flocked to Salisbury. One man offered near ten thousand dollars spot cash for the stock. He could well afford to and still make big money on our misfortune. A friend came to our rescue and personally guaranteed the Court that Nock Bros. are honest and will pay every dollar in full if given a square deal. On his endorsement the law granted us the privilege to continue business a short period.

Men, here is where 'Down go the Prices, Out with the Goods'

We have never yet taken advantage of any man, living or dead, and will not break faith with him who had the sagacity, nerve and infallible judgment to honor us with his confidence in time of trouble. We do not believe in sensational advertising. We place before you a list of prices not quoted by any other store anywhere, solid or bankrupt—no matter whether in this city or any other in the United States. We place this advertisement before you with the knowledge and belief that no such sale as this has ever been equalled or even approached. This great sale begins Thursday, lasts 30 days. This store open day and night during sale, as it is not possible to sell in 30 days this immense stock except we keep open nights to give would-be purchasers living in the country a good chance to pick up bargains.
