First Annual Statement

WICOMICO BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

SALISBURY, MARYLAND,

for fiscal year ending April 30, 1895.

PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT.

Herewith is submitted the first annual statement of the Wicomico Building and Loan Association. To use many words relative to the success of the institution would be superfluous. Please show for themselves.

And these figures are incontrovertible facts.

The public will pardon our pride when, after reading the financial statement of the association, it considers the fact that this

twelve months' vigilance, earnest and conscientious labor of the Board of Directors.

In closing this brief statement, I wish to say to those who may desire more particular information that they will be cheerfully served by applying in person or by letter at the office.

Respectfully,

JAS. CANNON, President.

MARY D. ELLISON, Postmistress.

SATURDAY, JUNE 1, 1895.

—Thursday last week Mr. Isador Rayner announced his withdrawal from the field as a candidate for governor.

The announcement was a great surprise to the people of the state generally. After the speech delivered in Baltimore three weeks ago it was generally believed that Mr. Rayner felt quite sure of the support of a very large and enthusiastic element of the democracy.

Mr. Rayner has either discovered that he was mistaken about the strength of his support, or that, after all, he really doesn't want to be governor.

It was given out by Mr. Rayner himself that he was making a fight for reform against the regulars and regardless of the machine. He declared that the time had come when the people demanded a change and that he was at the people's command. Almost in the next breath Mr. Rayner tells his reform friends that the edict has gone forth from the bosses that Mr. Rayner must be defeated, and that he is not willing to go on with the fight.

—The action of the republican state convention of Ohio held last Tuesday, at Zanesville, may be considered an indication of the republican program for 1895, having been decided upon as it was by one of the recognized leaders of the party Senator John Sherman.

The convention nominated for governor Asa Bushnell, the agricultural implement manufacturer. Ex-Governor Foraker seems to have had control of the convention in opposition to Governor McKinley who was defeated in his purpose to nominate Geo. C. Nash. The great tariff protectionist seems to have lost control of his own state. In view of the fact that Senator Sherman presided over the convention the action of the republicans of the Buckeye state may be a measure indicative to the country in intention on the part of the party to abandon the tariff protection represented by Mr. McKinley.

Senator Sherman's speech on the currency question will prove interesting reading as a splendid sample of an ingenious "straddle." Here it is.

"We are in favor of sound national currency always redeemable in coin. As forms of money should be of equal purchasing power. For 4 years after the resumption of specie payments, while the republican party was in power, we had such a currency.

"We had gold and silver and paper money all bearing the stamp and sanction of the United States of unquestioned credit and of equal value, passing current not only within the United States, but in all parts of the commercial world.

Both gold and silver are indispensable for use in the varied wants of mankind. Gold is now, and has been for ages, the chief measure of value in international commerce and the larger transactions of domestic exchange. Silver from its bulk and weight is not available for large payments either at home or abroad, but it is indispensable in the minor wants of mankind. Gold from its great superior value, cannot be utilized for such purposes. Therefore it is that both metals have been coined into money at a fixed ratio.

"The enormous increase of the production of silver in the United States, Mexico and Australia has disturbed this ratio and has lowered the market value of silver precisely as a like increase of other commodities. It is a universal law that price or value is measured by quantity. Under these conditions the rational and proper course would be to change the ratio, but this can only be effective as to these two metals by a concert of action among commercial nations.

"Until this can be accomplished the only logical way is for each nation to coin both metals and maintain the coinage of the cheaper metal at par by the limitation of the amount and redemption when in excess of the demand for it. Such is now the policy of the United States, and of every great commercial nation, including every country in Europe.

"Other nations adopt the silver standard alone, not from choice, but from poverty. I believe that the policy of the United States adopted in 1893 of coining fractional silver coin in limited quantities from silver bullion purchased at the market price and making them legal tender for small sums, is the only way to preserve the parity of gold and silver coins at a fixed ratio. This is properly called bimetallic money. I hope and believe that the common interests of commercial nations will lead them through an international commission to either adopt a new ratio based on market value of the metals, or to coin them and maintain them, as we do, at their present ratio.

"The policy now urged by the producers of silver and by men who wish to pay their debts in cheaper money than they are entitled to pay is the free coinage of silver. This means the single standard of silver and the demonetization of gold. This is the only monometallic system. It is the degradation of our dollar to fifty cents. If applied to our national bonds it is a repudiation of one-half of the public debt.

"It is the repudiation of one-half of all debts. It confers no favor on producers of any kind, whether of the farm, the workshop or the mine, for if they get nominally more dollars for their products, their additional dollars would have only one-half the purchasing power of the gold dollars. The great hardship of this policy would fall upon working men, skilled or unskilled, whose daily wage, measured by the present standard, is higher than in any country of the world.

"Their wages will purchase more of the necessities of life than the wages paid for similar labor anywhere outside of the United States. It is a false pretense that the cheapening of money will be beneficial to them. The republican party is the national platform of 1892 demanded good money of equal purchasing power whether coined of silver or gold or composed of United States notes and National bank notes, based upon the credit of the United States, maintained at par with coin. This is the bimetallic policy. There we stand today. I hope and trust there we shall stand forever. We shall seek the co-operation of all nations and of all parties in maintaining the parity of gold and silver coins.

DEATH OF SECRETARY GRESHAM.

Mr. Cleveland's Premier died at the Arlington Hotel, Washington, Last Tuesday morning. His remains will be interred at Chicago.

Walter Quinton Gresham, Secretary of State, died at his rooms in the Arlington Hotel, Washington, at 1.15 o'clock Tuesday morning. Death was due to pleurisy, complicated by acute pneumonia and heart failure.

At the bedside when the statesman passed away, were Mrs. Gresham, his daughter Mrs. E. F. Andrews of Chicago; his son-in-law, Mr. Andrews; the nurses and three physicians.

Mr. Otto Gresham, son of the secretary, arrived at 6.30 o'clock Tuesday morning by special train from Harrisburg. He was met at the station by Assistant Postmaster General Jones, who is a near personal friend of the family, who informed him that the end had come. He was prepared for the news, as a telegram from Mr. Gresham reached him at Altoona, saying that he must be prepared for the worst. He understood the meaning of the dispatch, and although the confirmation of his fears was an added shock, he received the information calmly. Mr. Gresham joined his mother at the Arlington Hotel and the two were given such privacy as was possible.

THE END WAS NOT EXPECTED.

While Secretary Gresham's physicians and family had throughout Monday realized that his condition was very serious, it was not till Tuesday morning, when they abandoned hope of his recovery. About 5 o'clock such a sudden collapse overcame him that his physician, Dr. Johnston, who had been constantly in attendance throughout the night and day, became very much alarmed, and as almost a last resort, began immediately to administer hypodermic doses of nitro glycerine and digitalis, the most powerful heart stimulants known to medical science.

The sufferer recovered slightly, but after two severe rigors shortly before 11 o'clock he began to fail rapidly and his vitality began to ebb. The three physicians who had been near him, and at 12 o'clock withdrew to the ante room leaving the sick chamber only the members of his family.

Secretary Lamont, First Assistant Postmaster-General Jones, Assistant Secretary of State Uhl, Chief Justice Fuller, Colonel Corbin and Captain Fuller of the army remained in parlor A, connected with Secretary Gresham's suite, receiving such persons as they admitted and answering inquiries.

Among those who called were the Chinese minister and his secretary, Senor Romero, the Mexican minister, the Japanese minister, Assistant Secretary Hamilton and Mr. Caidin, controller of the Treasury, Justice Harlan of the Supreme Court, Senator Gorman of Maryland and Dr. Guzman, the Nicaraguan minister.

CONSCIOUS ALMOST TO THE LAST.

The Secretary was conscious all day, and almost to the time of his death. He spoke at intervals to Mrs. Gresham, who sat by his bedside, and was devotedly attended in her last hours during his distinguished husband's illness. The patient fully appreciated his condition, but at times his mind wandered slightly. He spoke of his absent son and his private secretary, Mr. Landon, whom he loved as a son, and who like his son, was speeding to his bedside, all too late.

Just before the physicians retired he ceased speaking though he appeared to be conscious. Mrs. Gresham occasionally read to him from the bible passages which he loved, but as the end approached his pulse became hardly perceptible. Gradually his eyes glazed and closed. At 1.15 o'clock his breathing ceased, a peaceful shadow passed over his pale countenance, his eye flickered and the sorrowing family were in the presence of death.

The President was immediately notified of Mr. Gresham's death. He had sent frequent inquiries from his summer home at Woodley and would have called in person had his physicians not forbidden his going out on account of a bilious attack.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE FUNERAL.

The remains of the Secretary were embalmed. They lay in state at the executive mansion Wednesday by the limitation of the amount and redemption when in excess of the demand for it. Such is now the policy of the United States, and of every great commercial nation, including every country in Europe.

"Other nations adopt the silver standard alone, not from choice, but from poverty. I believe that the policy of the United States adopted in 1893 of coining fractional silver coin in limited quantities from silver bullion purchased at the market price and making them legal tender for small sums, is the only way to preserve the parity of gold and silver coins at a fixed ratio. This is properly called bimetallic money. I hope and believe that the common interests of commercial nations will lead them through an international commission to either adopt a new ratio based on market value of the metals, or to coin them and maintain them, as we do, at their present ratio.

This means the single standard of silver and the demonetization of gold. This is the only monometallic system. It is the degradation of our dollar to fifty cents. If applied to our national bonds it is a repudiation of one-half of the public debt.

"It is the repudiation of one-half of all debts. It confers no favor on producers of any kind, whether of the farm, the workshop or the mine, for if they get nominally more dollars for their products, their additional dollars would have only one-half the purchasing power of the gold dollars. The great hardship of this policy would fall upon working men, skilled or unskilled, whose daily wage, measured by the present standard, is higher than in any country of the world.

"Their wages will purchase more of the necessities of life than the wages paid for similar labor anywhere outside of the United States. It is a false pretense that the cheapening of money will be beneficial to them. This is the bimetallic policy. There we stand today. I hope and trust there we shall stand forever. We shall seek the co-operation of all nations and of all parties in maintaining the parity of gold and silver coins.

Young Gresham was educated at the county schools, and then at the State University in Bloomington, but did not remain long enough there to be graduated. He read law in Corydon, a village which enjoys the distinction of having been the first capital of the state for a time, until Indianapolis was located. Mr. Gresham practiced law there uninterruptedly until 1869, when he was elected a member of the Legislature, and as chairman of one of the military committees took a prominent part in war legislation.

Near the beginning of the war he enlisted and went to the front as lieutenant colonel of the Fifty-third Indiana regiment. He was afterward promoted to be colonel of the Fifty-third Indiana and he served in the siege of Vicksburg in charge of a brigade. After the siege he was, on Grant's recommendation, appointed a brigadier general. He was with Sherman before Atlanta, commanding a division of Blair's corps. It was at this time (1864) that he was wounded. He was in the place below the knee. He stopped at New Albany, Ind., on his way home, so severely was his wound, and it was a year before he entirely recovered, the recovery leaving him with a limp in his stride, a little noticeable in his walk throughout his life. He was brevetted as a major general in 1865.

WORK AS A LAWYER.

He remained in New Albany, where he began the practice of the law and kept it up till 1869, when he was appointed State agent, his duties being to say the interest on the State debt in New York City. In the same year and two years later he contested that debt for Congress with the late Michael O. Kerr and was beaten both times.

In the army General Gresham was the regard of Grant, who as President in 1869, tendered Mr. Gresham the collectorship of the Port of New Orleans. This was not Walter Q. Gresham. He, indeed at the time was busy getting signatures for a petition for the appointment of his law partner, Judge Slaughter.

It is related that when President Grant was looking over the list of applicants and hearing their virtues eloquently set forth by the late Secretary of War, he was suddenly seized with "Rawlins, doesn't Walter Gresham live in that district?"

"Yes," Rawlins said. "If there is anything for which Gresham is available I will go to him," and to Mr. Gresham's surprise notice of his appointment came in due time. He at first said he wouldn't take it, because he had been urging his resignation to the President, but when he was told that the President had accepted that which had not honorably come to him. He did so and served in the place, but later, when he was in a manner equally unbecomingly, tendered the position of Postmaster-General.

He was strongly urged for a place in the Cabinet of President Garfield and there is reason to believe the representations of his friends in his behalf were regarded with much favor, but he was not nominated because his party in the West failed to agree on him.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

He was promoted from the Postmaster Generalship to the Secretaryship of the Treasury in 1884 after the death of Secretary Folger. In October of that year President Arthur tendered him the place of United States Circuit Court Judge in Chicago, to succeed Judge Drummond resigned, and it was accepted.

During his career on the bench Judge Gresham heard and decided many noteworthy cases. As a jurist Judge Gresham was distinguished for the directness and accuracy of his perceptions, the absolute fairness of his rulings and his utter unconsciousness of the standing character or wealth of parties or counsel.

This characteristic was illustrated in what is known as the "Vahala" case, where sixty-eight different railroads, running through Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota, were involved in what is known as the Jay Gould system. Though the decision was adverse to Jay Gould, the latter paid unwilling tribute to the acknowledgment of Judge Gresham's ability, fairness and sense of justice.

Judge Gresham shared President Arthur's views with respect to a revision of the tariff and a reduction of the surplus revenue. One of his last acts as a member of the Arthur administration was a speech delivered in Wall street to the business men of New York, in which although the republican candidate for President was daily turning every protectionist argument to account in the canvass, he maintained that there was no legitimate excuse for the heavy burdens of popular taxation. In this he showed that he could be independent of party.

He never took any party position as a civil service reformer. He prided himself on being a close student of human nature. He never peeped talk about his observations upon it. With a good cigar between his lips—he loved a good cigar and smoked almost constantly when at work in his library, at home—he liked to lie upon the sofa and chat about the characters of men.

As a public speaker it was difficult to estimate Secretary Gresham for his long service on the bench had afforded him opportunity for so little of it; but it is said by those who remember his Congressional candidacies that he had much sledge hammer force and impetuosity. He could not as Judge fittingly take active part in politics and did not but the independence of his character enabled one to find where he was if he was sought.

TASTE FOR LITERATURE.

Secretary Gresham was a man of culture. He had a taste for classics, but general literature was his main delight as a recreation. His college life was short—one year at the Bloomington (Ind.) University. He did not make much progress in classical lore, but he took advantage of the opportunities given him and did the best he could. He possessed a thorough and minute knowledge of the history of the country and the government, the measures of the various administrations, the great debates and the men who shaped and influenced the legislation of their day, many of whom are now forgotten.

In other fields of literature he was classed as a well informed man, without being what may be termed profoundly versed in books. Like many other brain workers his favorite method of relaxation was the reading of a novel. Absorbed in the creation of the novelist's genius, he had been known to read a novel of great length through a single sitting, even if it took all night. More than once daylight peeped through his library windows before he had laid down the fascinating volume.

He was a candidate for the republican nomination for President in 1884, and again in 1888. He received 111 votes on the first ballot in the convention in 1888. His vote rose to 123 on the third ballot, and then dwindled down to 39 on the eighth and last. He refused the nomination by the people's party in 1892.

BECAME A DEMOCRAT.

He left the republican party the next October, and in a letter to Mr. Brewster Wilson announced his intention of voting for Grover Cleveland, concluding his letter with the words: "How I shall vote in the future will depend upon the questions at issue."

Mr. Cleveland offered him the first place in the Cabinet, and he became Secretary of State. Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Gresham were old friends, having met in the White House in 1885. Judge Gresham married Miss Martha McGraw, who was then only eighteen years of age, in 1858. A son and daughter were born of this union. The former is practicing law; the latter is married and is Mrs. W. H. Andrews.

Mr. Gresham was a man of great force of character, much aggressiveness and push.

Good Health.

And a good appetite go in hand. With the loss of appetite, the system cannot long sustain itself. Thus the fortifications of good health are broken down and the system is liable to attacks of disease. It is in such cases that the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are clearly shown. Thousands who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla testify to its great merits as a purifier of the blood, its powers to restore and sharpen the appetite and promote a healthy action of the digestive organs. Thus it is, not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story and constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine. Why not take Hood's Sarsaparilla now?

—I have a good cigar and smoked almost constantly when at work in his library, at home—he liked to lie upon the sofa and chat about the characters of men.

As a public speaker it was difficult to estimate Secretary Gresham for his long service on the bench had afforded him opportunity for so little of it; but it is said by those who remember his Congressional candidacies that he had much sledge hammer force and impetuosity. He could not as Judge fittingly take active part in politics and did not but the independence of his character enabled one to find where he was if he was sought.

TASTE FOR LITERATURE. Secretary Gresham was a man of culture. He had a taste for classics, but general literature was his main delight as a recreation. His college life was short—one year at the Bloomington (Ind.) University. He did not make much progress in classical lore, but he took advantage of the opportunities given him and did the best he could. He possessed a thorough and minute knowledge of the history of the country and the government, the measures of the various administrations, the great debates and the men who shaped and influenced the legislation of their day, many of whom are now forgotten.

In other fields of literature he was classed as a well informed man, without being what may be termed profoundly versed in books. Like many other brain workers his favorite method of relaxation was the reading of a novel. Absorbed in the creation of the novelist's genius, he had been known to read a novel of great length through a single sitting, even if it took all night. More than once daylight peeped through his library windows before he had laid down the fascinating volume.

He was a candidate for the republican nomination for President in 1884, and again in 1888. He received 111 votes on the first ballot in the convention in 1888. His vote rose to 123 on the third ballot, and then dwindled down to 39 on the eighth and last. He refused the nomination by the people's party in 1892.

BECAME A DEMOCRAT. He left the republican party the next October, and in a letter to Mr. Brewster Wilson announced his intention of voting for Grover Cleveland, concluding his letter with the words: "How I shall vote in the future will depend upon the questions at issue."

Mr. Cleveland offered him the first place in the Cabinet, and he became Secretary of State. Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Gresham were old friends, having met in the White House in 1885. Judge Gresham married Miss Martha McGraw, who was then only eighteen years of age, in 1858. A son and daughter

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Perfect Health—Look 10 Years Younger.

Williamburg, Md.

"I cannot praise Hood's Sarsaparilla enough for what it has done for me. About three years ago I had the grip, which left me weak and nervous with dreadful pains in my side and all over my body. I could sleep but little and it did not seem to do me any good. I felt as tired in the morning as when I went to bed. I grew worse all the time. The doctor said my case was hopeless. He termed my trouble consumption, and said I would not live six months. He claimed the right lung was nearly gone and my left one badly affected. I had frequent hemorrhages and short breath. I suffered in this way for two years, taking medicine all the time. I became so weak and poor in flesh that life was misery to me. I was about 37 years old but owing to my weakness my eyelids had become dim so that I could not see to read without glasses. I was hardly able to walk across the room or talk much louder than a whisper. To please mother, I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before the first bottle was gone my appetite improved so that I became hungry for the first time in two years. I did not have hemorrhages so frequently. In fact I have only had two since I commenced taking the medicine. I have taken nearly ten bottles and I feel as well as I ever did. We live on a farm and I have a large family. I am able to do all my household work.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, always reliable and beneficial.

WANT A MAN OF THE PEOPLE.

The Baltimore Morning Herald of last Wednesday says that, while in Baltimore Tuesday Senator Gorman was visited by a number of prominent politicians. Among them were Mr. Rasin.

The conference with Mr. Rasin was protracted, and it is understood the Governor's nomination was again talked over generally. The city politicians, it is said, reiterated their arguments in favor of renominating Governor Brown.

But the Senator, it is stated, was of a different opinion, and murmured something which sounded like "Nin no more."

It is asserted that Mr. Gorman has positively expressed himself to the effect that to renominating Governor Brown would be an extremely unwise thing for the party to do. His opposition to such a scheme, his friends say, may be counted upon from this time on.

It was also reported that Senator Gorman is of the opinion that the nominee for Governor must be a man in whom the masses, both of city and state, will have confidence; that the failure of the party to redeem its pledge by the passage of a reassessment bill renders it necessary to lead the ticket with one who represents that issue. This, friends of State Senator Hayes say, could only mean him, for none other has so thoroughly championed reassessment.

The name of John Walter Smith is being talked of again also in the connection with the Governorship, and it is claimed by many that he would make a good, safe candidate.

Though he is a business man of extensive enterprises and a banker, he is devoted to rural interests and their development, so that he has a great many admirers all over the state. He is a great friend of education, and was the author of the free school book bill which was vetoed during the last Legislature by Governor Brown. He has also been not a little talked of in connection with the United States Senatorship.

Eastern Shore politics as well as the Governorship occupied the attention of Senator Gorman because the Legislature which is to be elected this year must choose a successor to Senator Gibson. The factional fight in Queen Anne is especially hot this week, for the primaries to be held Saturday.

Among those who saw Mr. Gorman beside State Senator Smith, were Col. William Henry Legg, of Queen Anne; William B. Claggett, of Prince George's; and Spencer Watkins, of Montgomery county.

The "Official Bulletin" published by the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway Company, has made its bow to the public. The first number appeared last Monday. It is for gratuitous distribution, and "The aim and object of the Bulletin is to bring our many patrons in close touch with the great system of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company. Its contents will include time tables corrected up to date, news and information about the different lines of the Company, and bright illustrations and other matters of general interest. It is the intention of the publisher to steadily improve the Bulletin, so that it will always be kept hand and not only as a traveler's guide, but also for its own worth."

The county seat contest, which has been the most stubborn and bitter campaign ever fought in Charles county so far as the memory of the oldest inhabitant can recall, ended last Tuesday night in a victory for La Plata over Chapel Point. The total vote cast was 3,105, of which La Plata received 1,702 and Chapel Point 1,403—majority for La Plata 301.

Wilmington went democratic this week. This must be regarded as an approval of the Cleveland administration.

Senator-elect Stephen B. Elkins has announced his preference of Ex-President Harrison for the next nomination of the republican party for president.

Mr. Chancely Dewey confesses to a similar predilection.

Good Health. And a good appetite go hand in hand. With the loss of appetite, the system cannot long sustain itself. Thus the fortifications of good health are broken down and the system is liable to attacks of disease. It is in such cases that the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are clearly shown. Thousands who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla testify to its great merits as a purifier of the blood, its power to restore and sharpen the appetite and promote a healthy action of the digestive organs. Thus it is not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story and constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine. Why not take Hood's Sarsaparilla now?

There were fought 2,261 engagements during the civil war in the United States.

Hygiene of the Eye.

Dr. Louise F. Byron in The Outlook: A few simple rules carefully obeyed will do much to preserve the eyes in health. Light and color in rooms are important. The walls are best finished in a single tint. Windows should open directly upon the outer air, and light is better when they are close together, not separated by much wall space; not distributed. Light should be abundant, but not dazzling. It should never come from in front, nor should sunlight fall upon work or on the printed page. Never read or sew in the twilight, after an exhausting fever, or before breakfast. Look up frequently when at work and fix the eyes upon some distant object. Break up the stretch of wall by pictures that have a good prospect. These rest the eye as does looking out of a window.

When at work on minute objects, rise occasionally, take deep inspirations with the mouth closed, stretch the body erect, throw the arms backward and forward, and step to an open window or out into the open air for a moment. Two desks of different height are valuable for a student or a writer, one to stand by and the other to sit by. Plenty of open air exercise is essential to good eyesight.

The general tone of the nervous system has much to do with eyesight. Prolonged or excessive study frequently has pain or poor vision as a symptom. The use of tobacco may bring about defective vision, and alcohol sometimes destroys it utterly, owing to the nerve inflammation that it excites.

City life, with its shutters and narrow outlook, favors the production of errors in vision. When looking at distant objects the normal eye is at rest. To see nearby "muscular effort" is required. This effort, when constant, changes the shape of the eyeball. After the 18th, or 20th, year of life, the eyes that earlier showed signs of bulging or becoming nearsighted may acquire new strength, and those who escape myopia up to this time are usually free from it after that. The children of nearsighted parents are in special danger. They require constant care. It is best to have all children's eyes examined for defects when they are ten years old.

Near sight or color blindness are barriers to the army and navy, to certain fine and mechanic arts, and to many industrial pursuits. Their early recognition saves time and money, and often prevents the discouragement of defeat. Once of prevention are better than tons of cure. There are few forms of partial or total blindness that were not at one time the reverse of hopeless. In view of this fact the duty of parents and guardians is clearly manifest. Ignorance must be replaced by knowledge, carelessness by enlightened forethought. Precautions in the way of eye light, color and rest and exercise, together with occasional calls upon the oculist, will probably secure fair eyesight for life.

Death of Senator Hayes' Mother.

Mrs. Julian A. Hayes, mother of State Senator Thomas G. Hayes, died Sunday at her home, No. 925 North Stricker street, Baltimore, aged 82 years, one month. She was born on May 3, 1813, at Fort Hill, New Hampshire. She was married to her uncle, Commodore Thomas Cateby Jones, at his residence, Prospect Hill, near Washington, D. C., where she married Rev. Thomas C. Hayes, a member of the Baltimore Conference M. E. Church. She had lived a life of widowhood for nearly 40 years. During the war in the South, at Richmond, Va., and devoted her whole time to nursing the Confederates in the hospitals at that place, while her sons were in the army. She was a devoted Southern Methodist, and had her membership at Trinity M. E. Church South, Madison avenue and Preston street. She was the leading spirit in organizing the Women's Southern Missionary Society, of which she was the first president, and remained so until sickness forced her to give up the work she loved so well. When the ladies of the Southern Church were forced to accept her resignation, they made her honorary president for life. As president of the Women's Missionary Society and its delegate, she went to London, in 1888, and was present at the session of the missionary delegates from all parts of the world. Her last sickness was protracted, and was the breaking down of the whole system, having been ushered in by a partial paralysis some ten years ago.

$50,000 in Mutil.

Under was sales used to mean a clasp assortment of poor mutil and poorer workmanship, and the wary buyer stayed away from the most widely advertised offering of this character. In those days parents were hurriedly put together, just for the sale, and if they did not rip apart on the first wearing it was owing entirely to the good luck of the purchaser. A sale such as now in progress at Wannamaker's is a very different affair from one of this flimsy character. The great stock, instead of being specially prepared for a quick clearance is the combined buying from two of the foremost under-car makers in this country, one having sold $50,000 worth, and the other half that amount, making in all a grand total of $50,000 worth of mutil garments. Then there is $58,000 worth of infants' wear—from a maker who for thirty years has stood foremost in the fashioning of garments for the wee folk. A catalogue will be mailed on request, but a visit to this greatest American store is so delightful that every lady within reach should give herself that pleasure as frequently as she can.

Visitors to Ocean City.

A party of capitalists of Wilmington, Philadelphia and New York left Baltimore last Tuesday for the steamer Pocomoke on a pleasure trip down the bay and to Ocean City. They were joined on the way by another party from New York. Those in the first party, which was in charge of Mr. N. P. Bond, vice-president and general counsel, Mr. W. L. Scott, of the executive committee, and Captain Willard Thomson, general manager of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company, were from Wilmington, Del., United States Senator George Gray, Thomas B. Smith, and Thomas Jackson, of the Equitable guarantee and Trust Company, Samuel Bancroft, Jr., and Wm. P. Bancroft, of the Joseph Bancroft Sons Company, Preston Lea, of the Union Bank, Levi C. Bird, lawyer, and James P. Winchester, of the First National Bank, from Philadelphia, H. A. Dehring, from Baltimore, Captain F. M. Colston and Jesse Hilke. The party returned Thursday.

ONLY A BUNCH OF VIOLETS.

Seated in the corner of a Broadway car was a frail, little, crippled boy, evidently an inmate of a hospital. His body was encased in a network of steel and leather, and an iron brace was tightly strapped to the side of one of his legs. Poverty, too, seemed to be his misfortune. His clothing was of cheap material and bore the stamp of homeliness, and in his hand he held a black cotton glove worn by his 15-year-old sister, who accompanied him, there was a hole. Her dress was patched in several places, and her hat was a thin straw affair, trimmed with a band of faded red ribbon, but withal she was wondrous neat and clean.

At Thirty-third street a handsomely dressed young woman leaped the car and dropped into a seat directly opposite the pair. Tucked in the folds of her coat was a big bunch of fresh, delicate violets, tied with a long purple ribbon, and a fragrant odor at once pervaded the car. The little boy caught the scent, and at once his great brown eyes were thrown upon the flowers. They in response to something in his sister, who blushed and told him to wait awhile. Turning his attention again to the violets, the lad gazed at them until his eyes grew bright and round, and every few moments he would draw an extra long breath, as if to take in all of the sweet perfume he could.

From the look of admiration that gleamed in his eyes, it was evident that it made the heart thrill with sympathy.

The young woman, with changing emotions, glanced anxiously at the boy at intervals, and when the power of those eyes and the soul they revealed overcame her. With a quick tap she drew the violets from her coat, and with a tear springing to her eye handed them to the boy, purple ribbon and all. Before the child recovered from his great joy she sought the platform and was gone.

Nearly all the men sitting near by suddenly resumed interest in their newspapers, and some of them coughed. The women looked straight ahead through the glass, beyond the sidewalk and much further than the obstructing show windows and displays. It was as if an earthly veil that pictured itself to them; their vision was turned toward the fondles of all hopes and sweet dreams and memories were treasured.

The boy? Well, do I need to tell you of his happiness? And sister? Poor sister, she felt so ashamed. But what could she do?—New York Herald.

LETTER WRITING.

The Art of Letter Writing to the Present Day. A collection of Essays.

Every one knows, of course, that the actual number of letters passing through the mails of every civilized country is greater, rather than less, year by year. But every one also knows that the number of letters is not the measure of the quality of the letters. It is the quality of the letters that counts.

IN THE HEAT OF YOUTH.

A Novellet's Recollections of Days When Women Were All Queens.

Why is it, I wonder, that we come into the world so ill equipped for its exigencies? It seems to me, as I look back upon my youth, that, in a certain way, my senses were fresher and keener than they are now. And yet they were continually—particularly in the matter of girls—playing the most unvarnished pranks on me. Some alien field, of an intense and fiery kind, got mixed with them and made them subject to all sorts of unaccountable aberrations.

It is a notorious fact that an electric current will make the most excellent compass behave in an abnormal fashion. And yet, though the disturbing fluid which made my compass worthless was nearly always there, it has guided me somehow with tolerable safety a long distance across the trackless main. And I am not by any means sure that I would exchange it for a truer instrument.

The dull, dead, stupid sanity which became a strain, and how noble and gleam of potential madness is no doubt a stance and reliable ruler, but I cannot forbear questioning whether to the soul, theering the same sentiment, registers no aberrations in the presence of a beautiful woman, in my opinion, "It is for treason, stratagems and spoils."

—H. H. Boyesen in Lippincott's.

THE UNSEEN WORLD.

Had as it is pictured in the books of the Apocrypha.

The book of Daniel, dating from the Maccabean era, is perhaps the earliest work in which our modern differentiation as regards the unseen world is manifest. "Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to everlasting contempt. And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that be righteous shall be as stars forever and ever."

To find a more detailed account of the unseen world, the reader is referred to the books of the Apocrypha, written in Greek, which are not included in the canon of the Bible, but which are of great value in the study of the unseen world.

In particular, the book of Enoch, which deals largely in eschatology and the work in which our modern differentiation as regards the unseen world is manifest. "Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to everlasting contempt. And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that be righteous shall be as stars forever and ever."

—Col. Philip W. Downes died at his home in Denton Saturday, aged 58 years. Col. Downes had long been a leader of Eastern Shore politics. He was appointed the first Fish Commissioner of the State by Governor Groome and continued in office under Governor Carroll. In 1880 President Cleveland appointed him General Appraiser of Merchandise for the Port of Baltimore, and he held that position during the first Cleveland Administration.

—Miss Lillie R. Smoot of Baltimore, was married to Mr. Elmer T. Dishaaron of Wisconsin county, on Tuesday, at the home of the bride, 902 North Mount St. The bride wore a gown of tan novelty cloth, trimmed with brown satin. She was attended by Miss Helene Spillman. Mr. Robert Smoot was best man. Rev. Peter Ainslie, pastor of Calhoun street church of the disciples, performed the ceremony, which was followed by a reception. Mr. and Mrs. Dishaaron will make their home at Quantico, Wisconsin county.

—All drivers and others who have the management or care of horses should now be very careful not to overdrive or overwork them. Much needless trouble and carelessness on the part of their keepers. Water in small quantities very often, light loads and moderate driving, should be the rule of each driver. And when a team is stopped merely to dictate that it be left to stand in the shade protected from the fierce rays of the summer's sun.

—Mr. W. P. Allen Jr., left us a sample quart of his new strawberry "The Enormous," last Monday. Mr. Allen has great expectations of this berry, and he will make a specialty of the plants. These are now being gathered from beds which yielded at the rate of 1000 quarts per acre for the single picking. As its name implies the Enormous is a very large berry. It ripens all over and through and through. The flavor is quite good. In fact the berry is probably the best ever introduced.

—A school of very fine German carp was seen in the Wisconsin river about Camden street bridge last Saturday. One that was speared near the tale of Locust Grove weighed 14 pounds. Several others were almost as large. In 1876 Mr. Thos. Humphreys placed in Lake Humphreys the first German carp ever seen in this State. They were very small and after wards escaped into the river. Those of Saturday most likely are the same fish, although the fish commissioners have since liberated small carp into the river.

—Messrs. S. Q. Johnson & Co., jobbers and retail dealers in confectionery and bottles of soft drinks, have out their present quarters in the Williams Building on Main street, and in casting about for more elbow room they have settled upon the "Trade Palace," the central store in the Brewington block on the south side of Main street. This is one of the largest buildings being erected in the city. An elevator will be put in the building, and a packing house built in the rear. A number of other improvements will be made. The firm will put in all the latest and best machinery for bottling. Early in the fall the new quarters will be occupied.

—The wife of Capt. Usher Bennett who so lately lived at Sharpton, this county, but now in Baltimore, died Wednesday night.

—A concrete pavement 170ft., long has just been completed around the residence of Mr. S. S. Smyth, corner Isabel and Park streets.

—Mr. T. Dennis and wife of account called for Scotland last night and will travel abroad for some time.

—The wife of a Methodist minister of Rockaway, has been connected with Salisbury by private wire.

BASE-BALL.

Salisbury's Promising Young Nine Vanquishes A Team From Delaware.

Base-ball, like the famous ghost will not down. The noble, patriotic game, like the grass in the springtime, comes creeping, creeping every where.

Salisbury has split in its hands and taken a fresh hold on the ball this season. Away back yonder in the 70s there was a ball team—The White Clouds—composed of Salisbury men which achieved fame for itself and enveloped the town in a halo of glory.

More material employment began to demand the attention of the sturdy boys who made the "White Clouds" famous. It was then that local lovers of the game were filled with lamentation. They saw that the glory of the "White Clouds," which had reached the clouds, was like them, inevitably passing away. These base ball lovers said that Salisbury would not see their like again for many a day.

More than a score of base-ballers years elapsed in respectful deference to this prediction. Finally genius could respect prophecy no longer and a new "White Cloud" nine blossomed forth upon the field. Though but one game has been played—last Tuesday—the "White Clouds" of 1885 promise to be worthy of their predecessors of 1873. Below is a tabulated statement of the game.

This Friday our team will play the Laurel nine on the home grounds.

The berry crop of the county was cleaned up this week with results not altogether satisfactory, but rather more so than last season's crop. The crop was much smaller than last year, due to two causes, one a diminished acreage and the other damage from late frosts and cold drenching rains. The early berries were very inferior in quality; midseason berries were up to standard. Berries sold at fair prices throughout the entire season when delivered in fair condition. The difficulties that the berry growers are now experiencing is the expense attending the marketing of the crop which is more now than it was twenty five years ago. This may be seen in a little startling. In dollars and cents it is more, because the picking is the same, two to three cents, freight the same, two to three cents, commission and cartage the same while the item of crates is considerably more. Crates are no longer returned so the shipper must either pay one half cent per quart for use of crate or pay a cent a quart for crates that he will never see again after the first shipment. So it will be seen that in actual gold dollars the expense of shipping a crate of berries is now twenty five cents more than it was twenty five years ago. Measured by the relative values of farm products of to day and twenty five years ago the cost is fully doubled.

This is the reason the berry crop is no longer a paying crop. Berries sold at twenty five cents, and the grower nothing, he scarcely gets out whereas he should make one and a half cent net. This is what they pay growers in many sections that we must compete with.

For the last three or four years large quantities of berries have been shipped from this county by express to points not reached by freight, this was summarily cut off this year by a sharp advance in the rate of twenty five to fifty percent by the Adams Co. The United States has done considerable business and at rates we understand satisfactory to the shipper. Just what the shippers have obtained is not yet known.

Another report has proved rather more satisfactory than it did last season.

Convention of the Diocese of Eastern. The annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the diocese of Eastern met in Berlin at St. Paul's Church of Worcester parish. Bishop Adams of the diocese, and a quorum of both laymen and clergymen being present. Rev. Joseph L. Bryan, the secretary of the last convention, declined re-election and Rev. Edw. R. Rich was nominated and elected secretary of the convention. Reports of committees were presented and accepted, and after the transaction of other routine business, the convention adjourned till evening. On re-assembling the Bishop read his address. Among the lay delegates present, well-known to the State politically, were Edw. H. Brown, of Queen Anne's; John S. Wirt, of Cecil; Wm. H. Collins, of Talbot and Jas. Alfred Pearce, of Kent.

At the second day's session of the convention the only matter of special importance was consideration of the proposed amendment to the vestry act of Maryland which had been referred to a special committee. The proposed changes were fully discussed and after amendments were disposed of, they were referred to the chancellor with instructions to prepare them for passage by the next Legislature.

THE FOUNDRY.

Its Early History and Its Present Decayed Condition—Samson Hat and His Life.

R. C. J. writing from Perkinsville, Ind., to the Peninsula Methodist says: "What a delightful place is the Peninsula, that Peninsula of Peninsulas, the 'Eastern Shore' Over and over again he wandered in reverie, on the shores of the Chesapeake, watching the ships as they sailed away, and listening to the sighing of the pine trees as they 'moaned the sad requiem of the sea' and now though far away, I still love that beautiful sunny land."

"My first year in the Wilmington conference was spent at what is now Fruitland, Md., at which time I became familiar with the country lying between Salisbury and Snow Hill, a country in which pines and sand abounded and a noble and frugal people dwelt."

"I remember visiting, in the summer of 1872, 'The Furnace,' where in the brilliant days prosperity and romance abounded. A recent letter from a friend has brought up the whole history and scenes before me, and as some of the facts are of intense local interest, and may be read with relish, by some, who like myself, may be far from these scenes on other days, I send them for publication in the Peninsula Methodist. My correspondent says:—

"Friday afternoon we had the pleasure of visiting 'The Furnace.' Perhaps you are familiar with the country and its history. George Alfred Townsend makes use of this locality in the scene and incidents of 'The Entailed Hat.'" for fiscal year ending April 30, 1895.

PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT.

Loan Association. To many words relative to the success of the institution would be superfluous. Figures show for themselves.

And these figures are incontrovertible facts.

The public will pardon our pride when, after reading the financial statement of the

twelve month's vigilance, earnest and conscientious labor of the Board of Directors.

In closing this brief statement, with a reference to the fact that the association

SALISBURY THE BEST TOWN.

Mr. Williams of the Baltimore Sun, writing to his paper a descriptive article of the peninsula, treating especially of the physical and social conditions of the territory from Centerville to Salisbury, says:

"Wicomico, which is one of the poorest counties on the shore, has the finest town. Salisbury is about as large as Easton—some 3,500 people—but it is a much handsomer town, better kept and has the appearance of greater wealth and more business. It has one of the largest hardware stores in Maryland and several dry good stores as large as a first class one in a big city, besides wholesale groceries which enjoy a trade over an extended territory. The principal industry is the Jackson lumber mill which give employment to some 500 people.

One of them has a contract with the Standard Oil company to supply six million boxes a year. The town has electric lighting, water works and a telephone exchange. The rental for telephone is $1 a month for residences and $1.50 for business houses. The government has deepened the Wicomico river all the way to Salisbury, and one of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic lines plies between Salisbury and Baltimore.

"The peninsula has been more or less isolated from the eastern times. The descendants of the original settlers who were exclusively English, still own the land, and nowhere, not even in England itself, is there a country where there is so little mixture of blood by intermar-riages with different nationalities. It may not be for this reason, but for some reason the Eastern Shoremen are about

If Mr. Williams meant, when he said that "Wicomico is one of the poorest counties" that nature was not so liberal in bestowing a rich soil here as she was in some of the other counties, his statement cannot be successfully combated.

But if he thinks that our lands are underdeveloped he is in error. Our land workers are fast learning to make the most of their advantages and opportunities, and, indeed, there is not much question that even now our lands pay a handsome percentage on their market value than do the lands of any of the rich soil counties.

In a few more years, with no great

and enterprise which have made our town a marvel of success may be con-

EX-GOVERNOR JACKSON'S OPINION

OF PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

In a recent talk, at his home in Salisbury, with a representative of the Baltimore Sun, Ex-Gov. Jackson said he believed that President Cleveland is greatest man in the United States, and that the policy of his administration is the true democratic p reticence, he said a democratic senator should array themselves against the democratic policy, and the country has suffered in the mutilation of the Wilson bill by the senate. "In my judgment, it should be the policy of Congress whenever one corporation combines with another to extort higher prices from the people, to take away every particle of protective tariff and let the world come in competition. This is what I have al-

THE WEALTH OF THE UNITED STATES.

Writing of this country more than a century ago, Talleyrand said that it was impossible to move a step without feeling convinced that the irresistible progressive march of nature requires an immense population to cultivate some day this large extent of ground lying idle now, indeed, but which only wants the hand of man to produce everything in abundance. The fugitive from the French Republic saw clearly that the new American republic was to be one of the great and fruitful countries of the world. Probably he foresaw that it was to be the richest country in the world.

He evidently feared to give utterance to all that his imagination pictured, for he added, "I leave to others the satisfaction of foretelling the prospects of those countries."

Clear as Talleyrand's vision was, and whatever his imagination may have pictured, he could not have begun to realize the truth as it is now presented by the British statistician Mulhall in the current number of the North American review. Mr. Mulhall begins by saying that "if we take a survey of mankind in ancient or modern times as regards the physical, mechanical and intellectual forces of nations, we find nothing to compare with the United States in this present year of 1890." It is flattering to our pride that this foreign economist should tell us the news of our successful strategy. The demands of nature in what Talley and calls her "irresistible progressive march" have been more than met.

The great population is here; but more than that, the genius of the race that inhabits the country has vastly multiplied the productive powers of the individual. Since 1840 the working power of the individual in this country has been almost doubled through useful inventions. The working power measured in foot-tons is 1940 tons daily, while the working power of an individual in Great Britain is 470 tons. The working power of a single person in this country is twice that of a German or a Frenchman, more than three times that of an Australian and five times that of an Italian.

In 1890 we produced 350 bushels of grain and 1230 pounds of meat per hand employed, while each hand employed in similar tasks in the United Kingdom produced only 119 bushels of grain and 1000 pounds of meat. In France the accumulation amounted to only 98 bushels of grain and 350 pounds of meat, while Germany, Australia and Italy it was still less. As Mr. Mulhall puts it, "an ordinary farm hand in the United States raises as much grain as three in England, four in France, five in Germany or six in Australia, which shows what an enormous waste of labor occurs in Europe where farmers are not possessed of the same mechanical appliances as in the United States."

Speaking of our educational statistics in the census of 1890, Mr. Mulhall says:

It may not be for this reason, but for some

THE TURTLE CRAWLS OUT OF HIS SHELL ONCE MORE.

There are several gentlemen in Wi-comico county, who, in lieu of an ancestral coat of arms, have decided to adopt as the badge of their brotherhood, a turtle rampant in a field of argent. The secular appropriateness of the emblem lies in the fact that the turtle is a mysterious, solitary and secretive sort of an animal that comes out of its shell only when persuaded by the prospect of a good dinner; so it is with this brotherhood of politicians who yearly are entered out of their mysterious ways by Pro-prietor Bailey's bounteous repast of turtle and all other delicacies in and out of season. So it happened that on Wednesday last Quantic put on the same party clothes she donned for the first time in '77 and her political bow and arrow, in stead of the political land, everybody had his theory as to what was best for the party, or that failing, asserting their steadfast adherence to democracy—

"Democracy, right or wrong," as it was put by our honorable congressman.

It is said that some definite understanding was reached in regard to the county nominations. Such may be the case, but it is difficult for one not initiated into the mysteries of the craft to understand how anything so important and fraught with such serious consequences could have been settled in a scene of so much hilarity and jovial good fellowship.

Among the candidates present were

Hon. E. Stanley Toadvin, who is evident not adverse to another term in the Senate. Others who would like to serve their state at Annapolis were

Messrs. Asbury Q. Hamblin, Isaac

S. Bennett and E. L. Austin. Mr. T.

F. J. Rider was working in his quiet way on his State's Attorney canvass, and was an aggressive opponent in Mr.

Walter Cathel Humphreys. Messrs.

Allison Elliott and James M. Jones were prepared to contest the sheriffship.

There seemed to be but few aspirants to the County Commissioners' and Judges of the Orphans Court offices.

Among those who were on hand with no purpose in particular were Congressman Joshua Miles, of Princess Anne, Dr.

Geo. W. Truitt of Baltimore, Mr. Frank

L. Compton of Cambridge, Messrs. Levi

Sawyer, John F. Jester and Levin J. Gale.

From Salisbury were Clerk of Court

Truitt, Messrs. Alan P. Benjamin, Thos.

Perry, Elmer Bradley and John H. Walter.

It was remarked by one of the older heads that the number of Wicomico's young democracy that attend these dinners is increasing. It is taken as a sign of healthy interest in the democratic principles that have brought so many of Wicomico's young men to the front,

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

—A new M. E. Church will be erected at Nanticoke soon.

—Kent will have about one fourth of a crop of peaches.

—A Kent farmer found 306 cut worms in three hills of corn.

—Rose bugs are doing great damage to fruit generally in the vicinity of East New Market.

—The Orphans court was in session last Tuesday. Routine work occupied the time of the court.

—The Frederick canning factories are running night and day packing the pea crop, which is very heavy.

—Captain Jas. A. Turner ran the State Steamer McLane into our harbor this week and will remain here a few days.

—The Warfield Manufacturing Company of Baltimore, have the contract for lighting by electricity, this season, Ocean

Lacy Thoroughgood has added working force in his clothing shop.

—Mr. E. H. Robertson of White Marble Springs, is one of St. Johns College, An-

—Messrs. J. J. Redden & Co., formerly of Parkley, Va., have opened a fish, oyster, crab and clam market at the N. Y. P.
& N. Railroad station.

—Mr. Greenleaf J. Hearn of the firm of Willey & Hearn, Baltimore, has gone to Ocean City to run the lobster shop in the Atlantic hotel this season.

—A little daughter of Mr. R. J. Adkins who resides in Spring Hill neighborhood, fell and broke her arm last Sunday while visiting a neighbor.

—Wheat harvest will begin next week.
There is a very rank growth of straw in this county, but some observant people believe the head will be short and light.

—Mr. Robert P. Graham was chosen by the Maryland League of Republican Clubs a delegate to the National Convention of the Republican clubs which meets at Cleveland, Ohio, June 17th.

—Mr. W. J. Holloway is arranging to open a summer school in a room of the High School Building, and to give special instruction in any branch of the High School course to those desiring it.
His "ad" appears in another column.

—Considerable activity is manifest across the river on the vacant lot of Mr.
M. A. Parsons, opposite the saloop of Mr. Henry Byrd. A man has pitched his tent there, and erected a merry-go-round. He also has on exhibition
"The Wild Rose of Yucatan."

—A new stone abutment is being made for the west end of the pivot bridge. The cost will be from $300 to $400. Capt. A. F. Parsons is working the pile driver and the men. The work is under the direct supervision of Mr.
J. J. Morris, president of the brand of county commissioners.

—The dedication of Siloam church, announced for last Sunday was postponed until tomorrow (Sunday) when it will take place. There will be dedicatory services morning, afternoon, and evening. Rev. Chas. A. Hill will preach in the afternoon, Rev. Pritchard at night.
Rev. Jas. Connor is the pastor.

—Wednesday evening while Messrs.
Dyson Humphreys and James Mitchell were driving on Mill street their horse sank right, disengaged the driver and ran down the river. The road cut to which the horse was attached was an impediment and he went to the bottom in ten minutes. When the horse rose to the surface again, Mr. Humphreys seized his head, and with the assistance of Mr.
Mitchell and Mr. E. A. Hearn, succeeded in getting him ashore safe and sound.

—Mr. O. J. Schneek's nine, composed of Messrs. Walter B. Miller, R. P. Graham, Geo. Wharton, Hugh Jackson, G. V.
White, Dr. W. G. Todd, Carroll Brewington, W. C. Humphreys, Mack Maddox, played the regular nine Thursday afternoon. The Editor being a router on Mr.
Schneek's side, has no comment to make on the score. On Tuesday the Salisbury nine went to Cambridge and were defeated in a score of 14 to 13.

—The Salisbury Cornet Band held a festival on the lawn of Dr. Humphreys yesterday. A stand erected for the public. You will find there were many on short notice, prepared to celebrate the occasion.

—The distinguishing characteristic of the Wicomico Steam Bottling Works is its superior quality of beer, which is bottled especially for home use and is of superior quality. Creamy head, mellow flavor, sparkling brilliancy,
and a refreshing tonic.

—Our celebrated Vienna Export Lager Beer, bottled especially for home use has no superior. It is absolutely pure and its quality never varies. Creamy head, mellow flavor, sparkling brilliancy,
and a refreshing tonic.

Thieves and Burglars.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Miller Have Stolen from Them Their Bicycles, But Recover Them.

LARGE DRY GOODS STORE of Messrs. Birkhead & Carey Entered and Robbed.

Theft is not an unusual thing in Salisbury—so common an occurrence, indeed, in these latter days, as to be regarded as merely incidental. Until last Monday, however, no bicycles had ever been stolen. No charge of this particular offense had even been made on the criminal records of our town. This is not so now, and the stolen property of Mr. Walter B.
Miller are the first.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Miller are enthusiastic riders and each has an excellent wheel of the latest and most approved pattern. Before last Monday morning their wheels were taken from the back porch of their Camden street residence, where they had been left the night before. Their absence was discovered Monday morning by Mr. Miller, who went to the porch to get his for a ride. Inquiry was made, and, fortunately, information was taken from a man coming in on the Snow Hill road observed two young men in Mr. Johnson's berry patch gathering their early morning meal. He also noticed that they had two bicycles, and from the tracks they had made on the highway, that they were poor riders. Acting upon this clue Mr. Miller, Mr. O. J. Schneek and some other men started out, in pursuit. They followed the tracks out toward Play Grove, where the pursued doubled back toward Salisbury. The chase became so hot at this point that the recreators obliged to abandon the wheels and conceal themselves in the wood. In the gallery of a Methodist meeting house the wheels were found, but slightly damaged.
Near the church was found a coat which belonged to Mr. E. L. Holloway, book keeper for the Salisbury Oil & Coal Co.
The thieves had entered the office of that company, and, besides taking away the coat, had ripped open a grip sack which had been used by the traveling salesman. That was about the extent of the damage done. The men have not yet been apprehended.

THE QUESTION OF A SUITABLE BUILDING for our firemen and the fire department now confronts the council.

The fire alarm bell on Water street which the engine and hose are now kept is a cant tenement itself to the valuable property it is alleged to shelter and protect. Of highly inflammable material, the least chance spark from the pipe of any passery or nearby chimney is liable to ignite and burn it to the ground any day. It looks, it is too small, it has no accommodation for the firemen; it is absolutely unfit and should give place, as early as possible to a modern fire proof building designed especially for the protection of the fire department and the corps of the firemen.

REPRESENTING THE COUNCIL is a "Citizens' Committee" composed of Messrs. W. B.

Miller, A. A. Gills, N. H. Rider, E. S.
Toadvin, L. W. Gandy and Jas. T. Truitt, themselves large tax-payers and liberal-minded, public spirited citizens, who have in hand the question of new quarters for the department. They have been before the council. They occupy the high, logical position that the city, having spent considerable money for a first class fire-fighting equipment, and having the services of a capable, enthusiastic and responsible corps of volunteer firemen, who heretofore risk health and even life for the common weal, can do nothing less than to supply adequate protection for its equipment and men.

THE COMMITTEE IS AT WORK

selecting a site for a fire proof building. Mr. Jackson's lot on Division street, Mr. Waller's lot on Water street, Mr. Waller's lot on Division street, and Mr. Uman's lot on Division street, Mr. Tracy's lot on W. Church street, and Mr. Fok's lot on East Camden street, have been examined and the merits of each discussed. No selection has as yet been made, however.

TO RAISE THE MONEY TO BUILD A PROPER structure city bonds would have to be issued for which authority from the Legislature would have to be procured.

SOMERSET NEWS.

On Friday last a jury was summoned to inquire into the mental condition of Mrs. Sarah E. Ward, wife of John Smith Ward, whose home is about 2 1/2 miles from Marion this county. The jury heard the testimony in the Court House and the unfortunate woman was adjudged insane.

Mr. Ward asked that he might take his wife home and keep her until Monday (yesterday), when he would deliver her to the sheriff to be taken to the insane asylum at Frederick. As Mr. Ward assured the State's Attorney that the woman was not violent, his request was granted, and he took her home. He and his friends kept an eye on her. Every Sunday morning as Mr. Ward was weary with watching, he fell asleep, when his insane wife secured a hatchet while he slept and inflicted 27 wounds on his head, and then jumped out of the window and fled to the woods. A man and a boy upstairs heard groans and going to the lower floor of the house found Mr.
Ward unconscious and horribly butchered.
Dr. Gunby was sent for and went to work on the unfortunate man, but said at the time there was scarcely any hopes of his recovery. His skull was fractured in several places. The latest accounts obtained say that Ward was still alive.

Mrs. Ward was found in the woods about 10 o'clock Sunday morning and taken to Crisfield and delivered to Sheriff Sterling. She was brought here yesterday morning and lodged in jail and in the afternoon the Sheriff started with her for Frederick to place her in the asylum.

Mr. F. H. Dryden, real estate broker, has sold for C. O. Wetherill, what is known as the "Schoolfield farm," situated near Rehoboth, in Somerset county to Harry L. Miller, of Meyersdale, Pa., for $4,000. This farm is directly opposite that valuable farm recently sold by Mr. Dryden to Wm. S. George, of Ohio.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN D. JOHNSON.

The remains of the late John D. Johnson were brought to Salisbury Thursday afternoon from his brother's home in Nutter's district where he died, and, after funeral services in the Presbyterian church, they were interred in the churchyard with Masonic honors.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Simon Uman, G. W. White, J. J. Wilson, Geo.
W. Rider, Wm. M. Day and Irving Todd, and there was a Masonic escort.

One week ago Mr. Johnson was stricken with an attack of paralysis while breakfasting at the Hotel Orient. He was at once removed to the residence of his brother Mr. George Johnson where he grew rapidly worse till early Wednesday morning when he died.

Mr. Johnson was born fifty nine years ago in the same home in which he died.
His father was the late Purcell Johnson.
Mr. Johnson came to Salisbury when a young man and entered the mercantile business, which he prosecuted several years.

In November 1869 he was elected sheriff of Wicomico county serving through 1871. He was the second sheriff elected after the formation of the county. In 1884 Mr. Johnson was appointed a deputy warden in the Maryland Penitentiary and filled the position four to five years. After the death of his wife, Mr. Johnson moved back to Salisbury and for the past year has managed the wholesale liquor business of the firm of A. F. Parsons & Co.

Mr. Johnson leaves two children, Alice and Roy. Two brothers and a sister survive him, viz. Joshua, George and Miss Mary Johnson.

CHILDREN'S DAY

EXERCISES.

Interesting Observance at Several of the Churches Last Sunday.

The Assembly Methodist Episcopal Church held its usual Children's Day services last Sunday. In the morning Rev. C. A. Hill, pastor, delivered an entertaining and instructive address upon the rise and progress of the Methodist Episcopal church, and its educational institutions. He showed its origin to have been with the organization of what was ironically called "The Holy Club" by the other students of Oxford University; John and Charles Wesley, together with a few students, being the organizers of this association in the University about one hundred and fifty years ago. Since which time the Methodist Episcopal Church has grown to a membership of over two and one-half millions, while with kindred branches, Methodism has a membership of over four millions in the United States alone.
His educational institutions are over 200, of which 50 are colleges and universities, 57 academies and seminaries, 17 theological schools, and 76 foreign mission schools, with an attendance of 43,000 students and school property valued at over $25,000,000. He also showed that in addition to training the mind, its great mission has been to spread scriptural holiness.

At night the Sunday-school rendered a delightful and instructive programme prepared by Rev. C. H. Payne, D. D., Secretary of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church, entitled "The Golden Gate," to a very large congregation. The pulpit was decorated with an arch gateway, with folding gates standing open, with the words "Golden Gate" over the arch. The pillars of the gate were decorated with wreaths and six golden keys, and the platform was tastefully decorated with flowers. An introductory address, explaining the objects of Children's Day, its origin and growth, was delivered by Miss Alice Catlin. The gate was presided over by Miss Clara Gills, as guardian, who was the custodian of the six golden keys named respectively, "Obedience," "Sincerity," "Humility," "Love," "En-davor," and "Self-Surrender." These keys she delivered to three young men and three young women with an instructive address to each as to the necessary qualifications for entrance through this golden gate into a life of virtue, peace and happiness, both here and hereafter.
These six pilgrims were Mr. Willie Richardson, who represented "Duty"; Miss Mary Nettles, representing "Truth"; Mr.
Milton R. Titlow, "Wisdom"; Miss Katie Bonds, "Service"; Mr. Frank Evans, "Culture"; Miss Minnie Hran, "Love"; each of them seeking and receiving profitable instruction. The primary class also took a prominent part upon the platform in short recitations and singing, and was one of the most entertaining features of the programme.
All collections from the Children's Day exercises are given to the Board of Education for the purpose of helping to educate needy young men and women in the higher education. The collection for the day amounted to $75. The children were drilled by Mrs. Harnburg assisted by others of the church.

AT THE OTHER CHURCHES.

Special services were delivered in the morning by the pastors of Trinity M. E.
Church South, and of Wicomico Presbyterian church, followed in the evening by instructive and interesting Children's Day services. Ex-Governor and Mrs.
Jackson were among those who witnessed the exercises at Trinity church.

Children's Day services were held at the Methodist Protestant church two weeks ago.

—On Saturday, the 29th inst., Mr. L.
E. Williams, surviving trustee of the late Gordon H. Towley, will sell at the Court House door some valuable wharf property, consisting of seven lots fronting on the North branch of the Wicomico river, also on Mill street, branch of the B. & C. & A. Ry.

fied with the price.

—The public will be interested to know that Mrs. E. A. Williams, last week, was the first woman to be elected to the office of City Clerk.

FROM THE BITE OF A FLORIDA RATTLESNAKE.

George W. Bishop died last Sunday morning at Bailey's Hotel in Quantico after fifteen hours' agony caused by the deadly bite of a rattlesnake.

Two weeks before Mr. Bishop, accompanied by his wife and a cage containing some dozens of more or less loathsome and more or less poisonous reptiles, arrived in town and made headquarters at the Snake Hotel.

Shortly after his arrival the snake charmer appeared on the street wearing an ornament about his neck a couple of inches six feet in length, about his waist were gracefully entwined other equally interesting specimens of the snake family, and as a special adornment there was twisted around his walking stick one more of the collection of uncanny pets. He announced a free exhibition of snakes on the lot in front of the hotel. The purpose was to introduce a new map and a new show. The free exhibition was repeated regularly evenings until last Saturday when Mr. and Mrs. Bishop took the cage over to Quantico to exhibit there. Before leaving Salisbury Mr. Bishop announced on the street that he would return that evening and exhibit as usual. He also remarked, it is stated, that after that night he should discontinue the practice of snake charming.

While exhibiting a Florida rattler at Quantico Saturday afternoon to a crowd of people the reptile drove its deadly fangs twice into the left hand of Mr.
Bishop. He treated one of the bites at once, but the other escaped his notice until it was too late. Shortly after the bite the victim went to bed and Dr. Dashiell of Quantico was summoned. He and Mrs. Bishop administered antidotes but the circulating blood had carried the death dealing virus through the system and was surely doing its work. The man struggled in excruciating agony till 7 o'clock Sunday morning when death came as a welcome relief. Poor Mr.
Bishop, crushed and heart-broken by the awful fate of her husband, was driven to Salisbury where she found true and sympathizing friends to listen to her sorrowful story.

A characteristic generosity Mr.
Schneck of the Peninsula hotel at once assumed all responsibility and expense of a burial of the dead man, who had very little money and no marketable effects.
Undertaker Hill went to Quantico and brought the corpse to Salisbury. Sunday afternoon Dr. Beigart of Wicomico Presbyterian church read the burial service and made a touching address over the body in the corridor of the Peninsula hotel, many citizens of Salisbury being present. After the services the remains were taken to Parsons cemetery and deposited. Messrs. Wm. T. Johnson, Bo-lie Moore, M. Lee Toadine, Somers Gandy, Fred Smith and Leonard Wailes were the pall-bearers.

The tragic death of her husband almost prostrated Mrs. Bishop, who since the sad event has been tenderly cared for by Mrs. Schneck.

Monday our citizens made up a purse of nearly $100 with which Mr. Schneck was partially reimbursed. The remainder was given to the helpless widow.

The snake that caused the tragedy died last Tuesday night.

SHARPTOWN LETTER.

Telephone for the Town Which Will Also Give Telephone Facilities—Other Items of Interest.

A telephone company to put our progressive town in closer touch with the world, has recently been formed. The incorporators are Geo. K. Phillips, Thos.
Moore, and Representative Moore, of Bethel. A. J. Horsey and J. D. Marvill of Laurel, Del.; A. W. Robinson, W. H.
Knowles and Thos. J. Sauerhoff of this town. The officers are J. D. Marvill, president; J. M. Moore, secretary, and A. W. Robinson, treasurer. The line will connect the town with Laurel, Del. by Bethel, a distance of about ten miles.
The company is open for bids for its construction and proposes to get it in operation as soon as possible. By this arrangement our business interests are put in direct connection with the telegraph facilities, which will add materially to our town and advantages as a business place and especially to the railway, berry crate and basket factory.

Another steamboat change has been made in connection with the Laurel route that gives us many advantages in shipping facilities besides adding very largely to the interests of the B. C. & A.
Ry. Capt. F. C. Robinson, with the large tug Neel now meets steamer Chovan on her arrival here Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays and takes freight and passengers to Laurel thus making a direct connection, going to Laurel and returning here while the Chowan makes the trip to Seaford. This is the best connection the route has ever enjoyed. For several years connection has been made, but the boats have run from Laurel down here and taken freight back with considerable inconvenience to the traveling public. By this new arrangement which went into effect on Tuesday of this week a much better service is given to all patrons interested, directly or indirectly, in the line. The tug is controlled entirely here and makes this place headquarters.

The young people and friends of the M. E. Church will hold a social in R. B.
Hodson's grove near this town on Saturday evening, July 29th, and will exhibit Mrs.
Jarley's famous wax works. Ice cream and confectionery will be served and in this particular it will have the features of a festival.

The Minor's fraternity held a festival here on Saturday last, in which the girls had aprons and the boys ties corresponding, and by this means some special associations were made that were not just as they might have been, but all passed off very pleasantly.

Nuptials.

A very pretty marriage took place at the Green Hill M. P. Church on last Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the celebrating parties being Mr. Levin R.
Twilley, residing near Quantico, and Miss Lizzie Darby, daughter of the late R. J.
Darby, of Green Hill. Rev. W. F.
White of Quantico was the officiating clergyman. The bride was attired in cream colored lace and never looked more charming. The groom made a handsome appearance and the many smiles which lit up his face indicated that it was the happiest day of his life.

Miss Esther B. Darby was bridesmaid and Mr. Robert G. Twilley, groomsmen.
A representation "The Fountain of Life," was presented. It consisted of an ivy covered rock surmounted by a floral crown, upon the stage, explained in a dialogue participated in by Miss Jennie Williamson, Sophia Shriver, Emily Wal-son, Nellie Waite, Maude Watson and Alice Williamson. At the close of the children's services the Rev. F. A. Clarke read a short address on the subject

PROMINENT EASTERN

... SHOREMEN DEAD.

Two Well Known and Active Business Men Die Suddenly.

Collected Hampden P. Dashiell of the Grifield custom house died Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock. He had reached his office a short time before and was beginning work at his desk when he suddenly fell to the floor. A physician was summoned, and he said that the collector had expired instantly.

Mr. Dashiell was one of the best known men on the Eastern Shore. His paternal ancestors, who were of Huguenot origin, settled in Somerset county in the Seventeenth century, and from them the numerous branches of the noted Dashiell family in the United States have descended. He was born in Somerset county and lived all his life in Princecess Anne, the county seat. He was one of the most active and energetic men in the community. For many years he conducted the largest mercantile business in the town, was a large land holder and owned considerable other property.

Mr. Dashiell was married three times.
His first wife was a daughter of the late Henry Kennerly of Quantico, by whom he had one son, Cassius M. Dashiell of Baltimore. His second wife was a daughter of the late Calhoun Kennerly, by whom he had one son, H. H. Dashiell.
His third wife was a daughter of the late Col. Wm. T. Polk, his partner in business, by whom he had three sons.

Mr. Dashiell was very courteous and amiable in manner and his friendly and obliging nature made him universally liked. He will be greatly missed in the community.

Mr. Dashiell had long been prominent in democratic politics. He was personally known to many politicians in Baltimore, and seldom failed to attend party gatherings at Barnum's and the Carrollton Hotel. For two terms he was register of Wills of Somerset, and last year was appointed Collector of the Port of Crisfield, one of the three customs offices in Maryland. More vessels clear from Crisfield than from any other port in the United States, but they are most identified with the fishing interests of the Chesapeake bay and its tributaries.
These offices were the only ones that Mr. Dashiell ever held. He was a close friend of Senator Gibson. The appointment of the collector at Crisfield created a flurry in Eastern Shore politics. Senator Gibson supported Mr. Dashiell, and Congressman Bratton wished to bestow the office on Dr. Rufus W. Dashiell, son of Princess Anne. Senator Gibson secured the appointment of his candidate after the death of Mr. Bratton.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon from St. Andrews church, the five sons acting as pall bearers.

Senator Gibson has telegraphed to Mr. H. P. Dashiell, promising his indorsement of the latter's application for the vacant Collectorship of the Port of Crisfield, caused by the death of his father, Mr. H. H. Dashiell.

MR. JOSEPH T. TUNIS DEAD.

Mr. Joseph T. Tunis died about midnight last Saturday night on board the steamer Georgia of the Norfolk and Baltimore Steamboat Company while on the way from Norfolk to Baltimore. He was coming to Baltimore to go to his summer home at Clayborne. His death was due to asthma and liver trouble, from which he had been suffering for some time. His body was removed to Clayborne on the steamer Cambridge.

Mr. Tunis was born in Talbot county in 1845. He was the son of the late John H. Tunis. He was at the time of his death a director of the Tunis Lumber Company, receiver of the H. H. Tunis Lumber Company, and was engaged in the wholesale lumber business in Norfolk, Va., in which city he made his home. Mr. Tunis was a man who enjoyed the fullest confidence of his business friends. He was an enterprising man and a public spirited citizen and did much toward the development of the Eastern Shore and Northeastern Virginia. He promoted the construction of the Baltimore and Eastern Shore road and was also one of the incorporators of the Norfolk and Carolina road, over which the Southern Railway Company expects to reach tidewater at Norfolk.

Mr. Tunis married a daughter of the late John W. Kemp and his widow and six children survive him. The interment took place at Clayborne on Monday.

Mardi Gras.

Base-ball has struck our town, and struck it hard. We have organized a nine composed of our enthusiastic lovers of the sport.

With concessions practice the town hopes soon to have a team worthy the name. One capable of playing a creditable game against the average nine.

Last Saturday our nine played the Salem boys. The score stood 13 to 4 in favor of the Marietta team. Marietta made 13 hits; Salem, 8. Batting, H. H. Tunis, C. Venables and N. Lord, Salem, Higgins, Harding and Bassett.

The Marietta boys played a very good game. Three errors only were made, these being wild throws by fielders.

Mill Property Burned.

The steam saw mill of Cohn & Beck, located near the southern limits of Princecess Anne, was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon. A frame granary near the mill, which had formerly been used as a grist mill, was also destroyed, together with 700 bushels of corn. The total loss is estimated at $6,000, and is partially covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark on the roof.

has no superior. It is a beautiful SILHAM M. E. CHURCH.

Liberal Contributions by Our Citizens to a Church on the Occasion of its Dedication.

Silham Methodist Episcopal church was dedicated last Sunday.

Rev. Charles A. Hill of Ashbury of this city, Rev. S. N. Philbrick of Laurel and Rev. C. L. Stangle of Dover, assisted the pastor, Rev. James Conner. Services were held morning, afternoon and evening.

During the day the congregation raised $144.00 on the church debt, $50.00 of which was donated by Capt. T. W. H.
White. This left a debt of $150.00 which was generously contributed by Mr. Wm.
H. Jackson of Salisbury, who also presented the church with the handsome chancel rail and pulpit. The church which is a modern structure, has a seating capacity of about 300 people.

A BALL AND BAT

is given away by Lacy Thoroughgood with every child's suit.
Do you know what three balls hanging over the entrance to a door means? It means that when a man fails to MAKE A HIT in life he'd better STRIKE OUT for his uncle's (a pawn shop) and get his SECOND WIND. He can then make A RUN for the home plate and may possibly SCORE. There are a good many men who call on a store with three balls hanging (a pawn shop) who have nobody to blame but themselves. How? By being foolish, by going to a tony tailor's shop and paying twice what a suit is worth. Some of the best dressed men in Salisbury are dressed in Suits, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Neck Ties, Under-wear, Hosiery, Suspenders, that come from Lacy

be superfluous. Figures speak for themselves.

And these figures are incontrovertible facts.

reading the financial statement of the association, it considers the fact that this achievement and our ability to pay six per cent. dividend are embraced within the compass of a twelve month's vigilance, earnest, and consistent labor of the Board of Directors. In closing this brief statement, let us say to those who desire more particular infor-

THE HOME OF WASHINGTON.

(The following lines were written on the back of a picture at Mount Vernon by William Bay.)

There dwelt the Man, the flower of human kind,

Whose visage mild bespoke his nobler mind.

There dwelt the Soldier, who his sword ne'er drawn

But in a righteous cause, to freedom true.

There dwelt the Hero, who ne'er killed for name.

Yet gave more glory than a Caesar's name.

There dwelt the Statesman, whose device of peace

Gave wisdom counsel from an upright heart.

And, O Columbia, by thy sons revered,

Who ne'er wish'd to make his night a pain,

Like other chiefs, the nation himself to lead.

But there retiring, leashed in pure reason,

And felt of danger that belated a crown.

"Famous Lights of Patriotism."

Three centuries ago our old Latin city slept on the border of a great blue gulf over which the scattering sails floated like tiny birds, and in the clear depths were mirrored the green hills crowned with half ruined temples glowing marble. The inscriptions of the conquering Caesars were yet clear upon the massive walls, although the peace of the centuries had smoothed the darkness and the dawn. There were great aqueducts traversing the landscape like giant's arms, and the towers of the city, rising like sentinels, looked through the foliage of venerable trees, telling of the faroff time when the gods reigned yet on Olympus and the city was in Apollo's keeping. Surrounded by olives and almond groves, clinging to the summit of a granite cliff high up where the eagles spread their mighty wings, the city had known no other chance of peril than the attack of the

But the place was said since the day when its lord departed to wage war, his son's name had been given to his son in a valiant but losing fight.

He left to mourn him a maiden who was his widow without having been his wife, who had known no other
