Forensics Team Wins

This past weekend, Frostburg's Forensics team traveled to Kent State University for its third tournament of the semester. The team, coached by Miss Anne Williams and Dr. Mike Wallinger, came away with honors in the oral interpretation of prose and in varsity debating.

The debating team of Lee Loftus and Steve Banks posted an overall mark of 5 wins and 2 losses, on their way to taking a third place trophy. The victory marks the resurrection of Frostburg's debating squad which has now taken three awards this year.

In the individual events competition, Kevin Fitzgerald, making his third consecutive appearance in finals, took second place in the oral interpretation of prose. Kevin has now qualified twice for the national speech tournament, which will be held at Los Angeles, in April.

Also, distinguishing themselves at Kent State were: Jim Weber, who had the only perfect round in the tournament - a 1/100 in oral interpretation, Carolyn Dillion, John Rodriguez, Dave Kinsley, and Pat Glover.

The team is now looking ahead to the Rare Bird

Tournament, at California State, the Penn State Congress, and to the nationals.

All students interested in joining the team should contact Miss Ann Williams, in the Speech Dept.

Collective Bargaining for State College Faculties to be Discussed in House

The State Legislature is again approaching the question of collective bargaining for State College Faculties. Last year the question died with House Bills 990 and 992 which failed passage under veto threat from Governor Marvin Mandel.

Currently, hearings are scheduled for February 27 in the House Ways and Means Committee on two bills sponsored by Delegates Garrity and Hall. Both of these proposed bills are comprehensive in nature and thus affect all segments of the public employment sector. These bills could be the necessary enabling legislation for organization of Higher Education faculties into collective bargaining units. Another possible route that the legislature may take is the adoption of Senate Joint Resolution #31. This resolution, which has the backing of Governor Mandel, would refer the collective bargaining issue to an investigative task force. Such action could postpone a decision for several years.

Several organizations may contend for the position of collective bargaining agent at FSC, or among all of the State Colleges. Those organizations are the American Federation of Teachers, the Maryland State Teachers Association, and the American Association of University Professors. AFT is the only active bargaining agent for higher education currently in the state. They represent the faculty of the Community College of Baltimore under enabling legislation of the city. MSTA is the largest of the organizations with some 1.3 million members in the nationwide parent organization, NEA. The AAUP is an old professional organization which was very involved in the formulation and enforcement of academic liberty legislation and policies during the first half of the 20th Century.

Interviews with several faculty members in the last week have shown a wide spectrum of personal and professional viewpoints on the question of collective bargaining.

According to Dr. Elinor Burkett of the history department, a faculty union is necessary to handle such questions as tenure, retention and hiring, faculty/student ratios, and support system budgets. The last item of this list includes such things as library collections, A-V materials, and teaching equipments. Dr. Burkett feels that it is absolutely necessary that the faculty be able to bargain collectively with a responsible fiscal officer of the state. She further stated that provisions must be made for binding arbitration to be available for the solution of grievance problems. While admitting that the only real sanction at the disposal of a unionized faculty was strike, Dr. Burkett pointed out that the major area of possible conflict was the area of grievances, which could be adequately cared for by a written and well administered procedure which must include binding arbitration.

An interview with Dr. Arthur Greenberg of the chemistry department brought to light several questions which will need answers before collective bargaining is put into practice. Among these questions were, the possibility of polarization between the various population elements of the college, the seeming paradox of local autonomy versus statewide

State - Wide March on Annapolis Scheduled

A state-wide march on Annapolis is currently being planned for Monday, March 1 by students, faculty and administrative staff of state colleges and universities throughout Maryland, according to Dr. Elinor Burkett of the history department at FSC. The purpose of the march is to protest the lack of state support to higher education in Governor Mandel's budget for the next fiscal year.

The campuses participating in the demonstration include Frostburg State, University of Maryland at College Park, UMBC and UMES, in addition to several other state and community colleges. "The purpose of organizing on this scale is to keep any one college from sticking its neck out and risking punitive action," noted Dr. Burkett. "Also, we want this to serve as a living graphic example of how displeased people are throughout the (state college) system."

While it has been made clear that the state legislature cannot supplement the governor's budget, those involved in the march have hopes of influencing individual legislators, thereby influencing Mandel. This is possibly the best time to address ourselves to Mandel's War on Higher Education," Dr. Burkett continued, "because it's an election year."

Rallies on each of the individual campuses are to be held Wednesday, February 25, to inform students and college employees of the details of the demonstration as it is currently being planned. Additionally, these meetings will serve as an instrument with which to gauge interest in the action.

Part of the money for transportation of the participants in the march is being put up by state professional organizations concerned with higher education, but more money remains to be raised.

"This demonstration is quite unique, and we hope to get results in Annapolis," Dr. Burkett concluded.

European Travel Study Planned

The Geography and Physical Education departments here at Frostburg State College are planning a joint travel study in Europe from May 14 to June 6 at the end of the current spring semester.

This program is open to all interested students wishing to earn credit towards a major or minor in geography or physical education. The European Travel Study Program is a spin-off from earlier exchange programs. Under the organizational direction of Frostburg's Harold Cordts, the program was offered by joint cooperation between the geography, education and physical education departments here at Frostburg in the spring of 1974. The program in 1974 offered a trip to England, Belgium and Germany, and embodied individual research topics picked and studied by participating students. The travel study, since its conception in 1974, was considered to be of immeasurable success.

The 1976 travel study will again offer travel to England, Belgium and Germany. The travel itinerary will include an arrival in London where FSC students will be staying at St. Mary's College. After a short stay in the London metropolitan area, the group will embark on a short side trip to Loughboro University outside of Birmingham, England. From England, the group will travel north to Ireland where they will be residing at Limerick College located on the banks of the Shannon River. Upon their departure from Ireland, the group will travel across the English Channel to Belgium and then on to Cologne, West Germany. In Cologne, the group will be staying at the Sporthochschule, which is a German school for the study of physical education. From West Germany, the group will return to England, and finally home on June 6.

The program itself will follow its predecessor of 1974 by being organized around pre-planned side trips

The most crucial factor in shaping a college's growth and expectations of itself is its Admissions policy. In most colleges and universities, changes and adaptations in the policy of a school are shaped by its admissions policy. However at FSC, the situation is strangely reversed with the admissions policy at the mercy of changes or alterations in the academic policy. This creates a highly confusing and dangerous situation.

FSC's admissions policy is poorly defined and nebulous. It does not seem, at times, to have any guidelines or direction. Most of it is controlled by the Board of Trustees. There is a certain amount of leeway granted to us, but this seems to be used badly. This haphazard shaping of policy at Frostburg that was mentioned above limits us far too greatly and lacks the cohesion that a strong policy should have. There is a great concern about this issue throughout the college community. Below, is a proposal that may aid us in discovering what the policy is and thus examine its strengths and weaknesses.

1. What is FSC's admissions policy?
 - a. How is class size determined?
 - b. How are applications evaluated?
 - c. Is there a minimum standard?
2. What commitment does FSC make to a student it accepts? What commitment does the student make to the college?
3. What legal constraints exist with regard to the FSC admissions policy and what effects do they have on student recruitment and selection?
4. Has FSC's admissions policy affected the academic standards and programs of the college in the last few (5) years?
5. In light of the answers to questions 1-4, what possibilities and necessities exist for alteration or development of admissions policy, academic standards and academic programs.

This policy analysis is long overdue. If the physical layout of this campus were as nebulous as the admissions policy, the college would be spread out all over this county. There are some who see this policy as "radical", "presumptuous", and "arrogant" and some will see this as academic snobbery. The proposed asks some basic questions that are in need of answering and it also provides for some framework for the constituents of FSC to have this college to be what they want it to be.

Notes for Conversation

by Kevin Fitzgerald

It has come to our attention that in the past two issues of State-To-Date, there has been a proverbial war of words, between Roy S. Pfeiffer and seven football players, involving the quality of football at FSC. Their war has resulted in both sides attempting to degrade each other, with one side actually threatening violence. While, argument and discussion are essential, we believe, this matter has grown proportionally out of hand. In fact we have lost the true concept of what both sides are arguing. The issue at hand is: should the Student Association allocate two hundred dollars to the football team, so they can come back to school early. This issue in no way discusses the quality of the football at Frostburg, and in no way should quality be brought up. Whether the team is 9 and 1 or 1 and 9 is of no matter. What is important is that an athletic team, under the athletic budget of this school, has approached the student government for money.

To draw an analogy, imagine the New York Jets asking the City of New York for money. The reason being so they can spend more time in Florida, practicing. Well, everybody knows that the Jets need as much practice as they can get. Yet, New York is in a fiscal bind and is actually laying off workers. What is the city to do? Sure, New Yorkers love the Jets. There's not one New Yorker who doesn't remember the greatest Super Bowl ever--III. Yet there must be other priorities, it is not a government's place to support a football team, that has nothing to do with the government. Besides, New Yorkers pay for the improvement of the Jets whenever they buy an overpriced ticket. They do not need to support their team through city taxes. Especially, when the city is in the condition it is in. Therefore, the city government has no other alternative but to turn down the Jets.

So too in Frostburg. We all like to watch the football team play. We enjoy victory and suffer through defeat, as do the football players. I, personally know very few people who enjoy saying that their football team has lost another one, or had a losing record. Besides, we the students, have already paid for the improvement of the football team, through our athletic fee--$36. Of that about 15% goes to the foot-

To the Editor:

Having noticed an announcement in last week's issue of State-To-Date that a protest is planned in Annapolis for March 1 on the problem of budget cuts and fee increases, I can only offer a piece of advice to those who might find the idea attractive: Don't.

The problem of properly funding higher education and the related problems of fee increases are serious and continuing ones. But filling the streets of Annapolis, especially while the General Assembly is in session, is not the way to solve these problems.

There are two salient facts that are often overlooked when we feel the stimulus to march on Annapolis. First, Maryland has an executive budget, reflecting the priorities of the Governor. The General Assembly is constitutionally prohibited from increasing the funds in the Governor's operating budget requests. Even if every member of the General Assembly wanted to provide more money for higher education, they couldn't.

Second, experience has demonstrated pretty clearly to me that massive demonstrations in the State Capitol are more apt to be counterproductive than not. Deficient budgets are bad enough; punitive budgets are worse.

ball team. If one considers that amount small, multiply it by 3,000, and you will see that it is not a small sum at all. If the football players do not have the money they need, then I suggest that they lobby within their own department or approach the administration. They will definitely have my support. For, I cannot see the administration letting the football program go down the drain for two hundred dollars. All that I ask is that they do not burden the student association with supporting the team. For the student association has already complained that they do not have enough money to give the societies and clubs, that depend on them, the money they need.

As for the fans and the players who like to insult one another. Let me say, God created some people to play football and others to be fans. The two go hand in hand. Without the fan there would be no reason for football as a varsity sport, and without the game of football there would be no football fan. So I suggest that Saturday's heroes take all the criticism they get and worry only when the fans are quiet. For they are either sleeping or simply don't care.

If those who make budgeting decisions can be reached at all, the far preferable method is through an informed and intelligent expression of concern by students and parents who pay taxes, pay fees, and care about the quality of Maryland's colleges and universities. The proper mailing address is well known, it costs only 13 cents to reach it, and you don't have to blow a day of classes to do it.

Nelson P. Guild, President

Dear Editor:

As students of FSC and citizens of Frostburg, we are pleased to see the name of John Bambacus up for City Council this year. Mr. Bambacus is a professor in the Political Science department and Director of the Public Affairs Institute at FSC. He is an excellent teacher of Political Science, but those of us who have known him here can attest to the fact that he has never taught political science in the abstract. He urges everyone to become involved in government at all levels. As a staunch advocate of citizen participation and open government, he practices what he teaches: he is currently an active member of the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland; Allegany Task Force for Veterans; Allegany County Human Resources Development Commission; City of Frostburg Board of Zoning Appeals; Water Needs Commission; City Advisory Committee; Ministerial Association Task Force for the Elderly and a member of the National and Maryland Municipal Leagues.

This college is possessed of a vast amount of knowledge and expertise that could be of immense value to the community.

But what does this college do for the City of Frostburg (beyond producing a certain revenue base to the city), what practical application is made of the resources available on this campus? Very little. This is one reason that we are exceedingly glad to see Mr. Bambacus running for City Council. We feel that with his associations with politically important figures throughout the State of Maryland, his involvement with the Tri-County Council (which has $40 million available for economic development in the three county area that includes Frostburg), and his knowledge in the area of revenue sharing and grant-in-aid money should be utilized to the benefit of the City of Frostburg.

Anyone who would like to know more about Mr. Bambacus or is interested in working on his campaign should contact Alison McQuiston (689-9775) or Marty Neet (689-3001.)

Sincerely yours,
Alison McQuiston

Dear Editor,

In mulling over the pay for SA officers controversy, I came up with three possible courses of action.

First, Don Fry and the rest of the gang can choose to abide by the series of questionable decisions that led the passage of the proposal and continue being paid.

Second, they can decide to settle it, hopefully once and for all, by openly airing both sides of the issue and involving the students in the decision by calling for another student referendum that hopefully would be set up and conducted in such a manner as to avoid the many pitfalls of the last one.

Or, to my mind the most likely of the three, they can all spout a little rhetoric here and there as long as there seems to be any significant level of student interest in the issue, all the while waiting for the issue to pass as the students tire of it and go back into hiding "behind beer cans and clouds of smoke" as the SA get-out-the-vote ad put it so succinctly last fall. This course of action would undoubtedly be the easiest and has been proven to be successful here at FSC before, as a previous SA administration so deftly demonstrated in dealing with the Aerial Conjunction controversy after that monstrosity was first hung in our College Center.

One note to add to Lee Lofthus' S-T-D guest editorial of January 26: Sure enough, the students were informed that if a 20% voter turnout was not achieved the referendum would be declared null and void, but, interestingly enough, no mention was made in the lengthy referendum notices of the consequences of declaring the referendum void--namely, that the proposal would stand as approved. What a hoodwink!

OK, SA, what's your answer?

John S. Schantz II
Dear Editor,

As vice chairman of the college senate and executive director of SA, I am very concerned about an unwarranted infringement on the right of student participation in our tri-partite governance. I am referring to the decision of the college senate during their February 11 meeting not to allow students to participate fully in the decisions of the academic standard committee.

In order to better understand this question, let me fill you in on the background of this question. One of the governance structures of this college is the college forum. Most of the work of the college forum is done in committees; one of these is the academic standard committee. The student members are allowed to participate in all activities of this committee except for deciding on academic dismissals and re-admissions. When this part of the meeting comes up, the students are asked to leave and the faculty and administration then decide on these dismissals and re-admissions. There was an amendment proposed to allow students to fully participate in all committee functions. The academic standards committee sent this to the college senate last fall. The senate was afraid there was a question of legality involved and asked for a legal opinion on this question.

The question was referred to Mr. Walter Lohr, Assistant Attorney General of Maryland. Mr. Lohr rendered an opinion that, in essence, backed the stance for full student participation in the committee's work. When the motion was brought up again by the senate, the opinion was just brushed aside, the rationale was that it was not legally binding. Why was it asked for then? Was it a legitimate question or just a delaying tactic? The senate then questioned if there would be any protection afforded the students, in case of a lawsuit initiated by a student against another student. The main argument advanced was that students were not officials of the college and therefore, were not covered by such protection. It was stated that while acting in solidarity, and the possible conflict between contracted working conditions and the need for administrative as well as academic flexibility. Dr. Greenberg commented on the current market flood of qualified people in the teaching field, stating that the job security of unionization may be quite appropriate to the present economic conditions.

An issue which was given attention repeatedly in the interviews was that of the credibility of the current systems which handle such things as pay, grievances, academic standards, and facilities and planning.

Most of the faculty who stated favor for the unionization of teachers were somewhat leary of placing too great a confidence in present systems. A group of faculty members who are strongly in favor of organizing under MSTa leadership said that while they felt the governance system of this school to be one of the best in the field, that it must be recognized that the system exists at the pleasure of the college president. What they want is that this system be codified, made legally binding. It was stated that through codification, with the additional resource of binding arbitration, the system could be made to work better for all parties, faculty, administration, and students.

an official capacity (i.e. college senate or any other governance committee) the student became a de-facto administrator and thus are entitled to protection. There were two arguments against--students are not employees of the college and can't be considered as administrators and more importantly--students were thought not to be responsible enough to maintain the need for confidentiality and this is best handled by the faculty and administration. The debate ended when the senate voted down the proposal.

The action of the college senate create a dangerous precedent. The students were deemed too irresponsible to deal with the academic records. Students are also on the judicial board and their proceedings could lead to referring students to the criminal justice system and its consequences. The students, through participation in the senate decide school academic policy. It is possible that some time in the future that students may be deemed unfit to serve on these bodies. For tri-partite governance to work, it demands an equality of students, faculty and administrators. We, as students, have this right.

are opposed to the unionization of their ranks. It is the view of a portion of the faculty that collective action is possible without the disadvantages provided by a union contract. Dr. Alan Rose characterized unionization as the abdication of intellect to a cult of force, problem solving through coercion based on a right to strike. One of the most detracting factors of the unionization issue is seen as the adversary relationship which must be maintained by all of the parties to the contract. It is further recognized that contracts of the sort which are written through collective bargaining places job security before professional commitment, and thus redefines the student-teacher relationship.

Dr. Edward L. Root was quick to point out that any expenses created through the unionization of faculty would be borne by the students entirely. The fiscal problems which might be created would no longer be subject to the control of Dr. Guild but instead would be dictated by a contract between the state and the union. As a result, fee increases would probably come from downstate and no longer be subject to the moderating influence of the college president. He stated that under a union contract issues would be handled by obligatory language instead of rational consideration.

Snyder Appointed President of CCB

At the general meeting held on February 18, Steve Snyder was officially appointed president of CCB. The spot was left vacant by the resignation of George Richardson.

Upon assuming the role of president, Snyder appointed Rita Porter as vice president.

The first act of the new administration will be to attend the National Entertainment Convention in Washington, D.C. from February 25 to 29. Also planned for the month of February is the Shawn Phillips concert on February 28th.

The CCB is still interested in increasing its membership. CCB meetings are open for all members of the campus community.

There will be a meeting for all students interested in Federal Work-Study jobs for the summer. The meeting will concern on-campus jobs as well as off-campus jobs across the State of Maryland. The meeting will be held Tuesday, March 2, 1976, at 7:30 p.m. in 201 Lane College Center. Please be prompt. A REMINDER: In order to be considered for these positions, you must meet the following requirements. 1.) You must be enrolled as at least a half-time student at FSC next fall (1976.) 2.) You must complete a Parents' Confidential Statement (PSC) or Student Financial Statement (SFC) to prove a financial need. NOTE: If you have not completed one of the above forms, then please stop by the financial Aids Office to obtain one.

viewing foreign educational counterparts, and accompanying travel days. For example, in 1974, Frostburg geography majors accompanied St. Mary's field classes in geography to London. Arrangements are made to stay in college dormitories and youth hostels. Costs are kept to a minimum as efforts are made to travel as little as possible. The rationale behind this is to allow students to grasp the uniqueness, contrasts, and subtleties of their surroundings. Stayovers seem to be more encouraging and as Dr. Cotton, head coordinator from the geography department, has stated, "We try to avoid the 'Tuesday, this must be Belgium' type of situation." Another unique characteristic of the trip is the great deal of interaction between Frostburg and European students, who help host the group.

Further information about this unique opportunity can be obtained by contacting either Dr. Cotton, head of the geography department, or Dr. Cordts in the physical education department.

Career Development

If you are concerned about your career choice, haven't decided on one, or would just like to talk about it, the Office of Placement and Career Development can help. Stop by our office in Gunter Hall or call 4403 to make an appointment. The office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. In addition to the Director, Wayne Carlisle, a graduate assistant, Kathy Truxon, is available Mondays and Fridays from 12 to 3:30 p.m. and all day Tuesday. Find out now what the job prospects are in your field and what other career options are available. Take the first step now to make your college experience relate to the world of work.

Summer Jobs

The Maryland Department of Transportation applications for summer jobs will arrive at the Placement and Career Development Office by February 23. The deadline for applications is March 15. Each application must be certified by Mr. Carlisle. You must meet one of three criteria for approval of your application. They are: previous work for the D.O.T., financial need, or a college major that relates to the work required.

Summer job information is available for other possibilities from the Placement and Career Development Office, the Financial Aid Office, and the Counseling Center.

Red Cross Bloodmobile

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be on the Allegany Community College campus Tuesday, February 24 from 12 noon until 6 p.m. in the Physical Education Building.

Sponsored by the Student Government Association, the 1976 quota has been set at 125 pints. The bloodmobile visit is open to students, faculty and staff of the college as well as the general public.

Chuck Mangione Quartet: Charisma and a Flugelhorn

Listening to the Chuck Mangione Quartet perform is a remarkable experience. The group's stage charisma lends a special intimacy to the haunting melodies of Mangione's flugelhorn, and it is no wonder their personal appearances are so often sold out, for what one experiences while the Quartet is on stage cannot be captured on record.

In person Mangione is soft spoken and carefully weighs his notes as they fill the stage. He is a conservative musician, never adding frills or useless runs, and yet what comes out of his silver horn is magic, pure and simple.

On electric keyboards he is subdued but intense; his playing is a sensual odyssey of almost spiritual reverberations. From his beginnings with Art Blakey and the jazz Messengers, Mangione has produced an easy, suggestive style of playing that invites the listener to join in a musical excursion of satin-smooth harmonics.

Mangione's music does not lend itself to improvisation, and as a result sounds much as it does on record, although the Quartet's mood is an important factor in how far they stray. Nonetheless, the effect of the quartet on stage is an experience of the legends and should not be missed.

Mangione's appearance will be at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, March 2, Compton Auditorium, sponsored by Student Artist & Lecture Series. Admission is free.

Dinner Theater to be Presented

The Lane College Center of Frostburg State College will present the wisdom and gentle humor of Mark Twain in the dinner-theatre production of "The Diary of Adam and Eve," to be performed by the nationally acclaimed Repertory Theatre of America, Alpha-Omega Players, on March 3, with the dinner beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Music, humor, and nostalgia combine to provide a new perspective on the lives of the first man and the first woman. Adapted from a short story by Mark Twain, with music by the composers of "Fiddler on the Roof," this is the story of the beginnings of the age-old struggle between man and woman, as relevant today as it was in the Garden of Eden.

America's beloved humorist and storyteller, Mark Twain, writes compassionately and with great understanding of the sensitivity and gentleness of Eve and of the strength and often hidden sensitivity of Adam. Written in memory of his wife, "The Diary of Adam and Eve" is a poignant, humorous, and thoroughly entertaining evening.

Ticket inquiries should be directed to the Lane College Center at 689-4151.

"Blazing Saddles" and "Play It Again Sam" Cancelled

C.C.B. has received notices from Films Incorporated and Warner Brothers that their films Play It Again Sam and Blazing Saddles are being recalled to the companies and are being re-released to theatres. Therefore, they will not be shown in the Lane Center as previously scheduled. No other Woody Allen movies are available for replacement so Take the Money and Run will be shown alone.

The Film and Video Workshop is in the process of trying to select a film to replace Blazing Saddles. There will be a meeting of the workshop for that purpose in the C.C.B. office Thursday, February 26 at 3:00 p.m. All interested persons are invited. If you are interested and cannot attend, contact the C.C.B. office and leave your idea, or drop a line in the Film and Video Workshop suggestion box. Your input will be a major factor in the final decision.

Guest Conductor to Conduct FSC Band Concert

The Frostburg State College Symphonic Band will present a concert of varied wind band music for the public on Sunday, February 29, 1976 at 3:15 p.m. in Compton Auditorium on the FSC campus.

Dr. Robert S. Bianco, Director of Bands and Associate Professor of Music has announced that Dr. R. Robert Hornyak, Head, Performance Studies Division of the College Conservatory of Music of the University of Cincinnati will serve as guest conductor for three selections on the concert program.

Dr. R. Robert Hornyak, a graduate of Indiana University was Director of Bands at the University of Cincinnati from 1954-1970. During his seventeen years of leadership, the U.C. bands received national acclaim for their marching and concert performances throughout the country. From 1970-74 he served as Associate Dean, Head of the Undergraduate Studies program at CCM. At the present time he is very active as a guest conductor, band clinician, and music adjudicator in states from Missouri to Virginia. In addition to his administrative duties at CCM he is also the conductor of the Cincinnati Wind Ensemble, a group he will conduct in concert at the Music Educators National Conference convention in Atlantic City, N.J. on March 14. The Cincinnati Wind Ensemble will also appear at Frostburg State College in a free concert for the public on Wednesday, March 17 at 8:15 p.m. in Compton Auditorium.

The band will also feature a work unique in the wind band literature; "Concerto for Two Pianos, Brass, Percussion," written by the contemporary composer Rayner Brown. Guest piano soloists for this performance will be Ms. Susan Beehler, Instructor of Music at FSC and Robert Allen, a member of the FSC music faculty.

Ms. Beehler is Director of the FSC Concert Choir and the Collegium Musicum and teaches class piano and vocal music education. She is an active performer on duo-piano recitals in Texas, Arizona, and Maryland. Robert Allen, a native of Virginia has had past experience in conducting choirs and piano performance at Pikesville, Ky. College and the University of Alabama at Huntsville. He teaches humanities and applied voice at Frostburg State College.

The public is invited to attend this concert and there is no admission charge.

Counseling Center:

"Locked In Blues"

Do you have the "locked in blues"? If you've never heard of it, you can't be sure if you've got a case of it or not.

Here's a simple test to find out if you've got this dreaded disease:

1. Is your dorm room or apartment looking more and more like a prison cell every day?

2. Are your cats, dogs, pet crows, or potted plants the only meaningful relationships in your life?

3. Do you find yourself dreaming that you'd like to be anywhere in the world except Frostburg?

4. Do you get your kicks for the day walking to dinner, reading the Yellow Pages, or counting the grains of sugar in your sugar bowl?

If the answer to any of the above questions is yes, then YOU'VE GOT IT! If you've answered no, then maybe you have it, and don't know about it.

To find out more about the "locked in blues," join Dom and Neal this Monday night at 8 o'clock in Frost Hall. Dom and Neal are from the Counseling Center, and they're getting people together to talk about enjoying relationships more.

So come on up Monday and please bring a friend. The "locked in blues" are not CONTAGIOUS.

Wrestling Trio Dominates with Outstanding Play

Throughout the course of Frostburg's wrestling history, the Frostburg wrestling squad has turned loose, in competition, many talented, hardworking athletes. Many of these matmen have the tough, competitive experience of wrestling in State and National tournaments. Included in this long line of wrestlers, are three men who have provided an exciting display of wrestling skills on the Frostburg squad. During the 1976 wrestling season, three men in particular, Joe Wallace, Ron Ginsburg, and Joe Corbin, have dominated the team with an outstanding display of wrestling skills.

Wrestling coach Mike Davis has commented on Joe Wallace's performance as he proclaims Joe is "the most skilled wrestler on the team." At 118 lbs, the Frostburg junior is the smallest member of the team, and in some respects he is also the most successful. Last season, he compiled a 16-9 record while setting weight-class records for wins, wins by fault, and team points.

In high school, as a 98-pounder at Laurel High, Joe finished his senior year undefeated (20-0) as the state champion. Along the way, Joe won the Northwestern Invitational, the District, and Regional titles. In Joe's first two seasons at Frostburg, he compiled a record of 2-15-1 while earning the respect of his teammates with his hard work. Perhaps his best performance as a Frostburg matman came in the tough West Liberty Tournament in which he finished second last year. Currently, Joe's 1976 seasonal record stands 7-5-1.

In his first two years at Frostburg State, Ron Ginsburg won four letters and was last year's Most Valuable Wrestler, while wrestling in the 126-pound weight class. This year, Ron, is out to repeat the Most Valuable Wrestler of Coach Mike Davis' Frostburg matmen, and better his performance of last season when he became only the third Wrestler to qualify for the NAIA National tournament. Ron's 1975 record set wrestling team records with 13 record wins, 7 wins by fault, and 81 total team points. While at Wheaton High School, Ron lettered three times in wrestling, and in his senior year finished fourth in both county and regional competition. Ron's present record stands at 9 and 9.

Described by Coach Davis as a "tough Competitor", Joe Corbin wrestles in the 167 pound weight-class where he has a record of 0-5 against a series of very tough opponents. At Frostburg, as well as Allegany High School, Joe established himself as an all around athlete in football, baseball, and wrestling and earned eight varsity letters while at ALCO. Although his present 1-8 record may not reflect it, the Frostburg junior has improved greatly since he started his career as a Frostburg matman. With his competitive attitude characterized by conscious improvement in his wrestling performance, it is safe to say that Joe has yet to reach a peak in his career as a Frostburg matman.

These three men, while they do not constitute the entire potential and performance of the wrestling squad, have demonstrated the quality and excellence of the wrestling sport.

'Kittens Beat Morgan State

By Franny Flott and Kathy Watson

Recently, the Bobkitten basketball team matched their skills with Frederick Community College and Morgan State University.

Against Morgan, the Kittens played a poor first half, but put it all together in the second half to win, 61 to 38.

Debby Alongi lead all scorers with 18 points while Sylvia Lee grabbed 14 rebounds. The team played a good defensive game and showed quick hands as they stole 19 balls.

After getting back into the winning spirit, the Bobkittens dropped a game to F.C.C. Mary Ann York and Deb Alongi lead the scorers with 9 and 10 points respectively. Their efforts, however, were futile as the Kittens lost 38 to 69.

Now, 12 games into their season, the Kittens boast a winning 7 and 5 record. Sylvia Lee leads the team with 132 points and 140 rebounds for the season.

The Bobkittens close their season with two home games, Wednesday against Fairmont, and Saturday against UMBC. Both games will be at 6:00 p.m.

Maddox Tackles Drug Problem

NOTE: The following article, by Al Janssen, is reprinted from the National Courier (February 20, 1976).

On March 12, Bob Maddox's football career appeared to have come to an abrupt end. At 7:30 p.m. the 6'5", 245-pound defensive lineman for the Cincinnati Bengals was arrested in his apartment for possession of a pound and a half of hashish.

For his offense, Maddox was informed that he faced an almost certain prison sentence. After that, he figured there would be no way he could play football again, and it would be difficult to obtain a teaching job.

He was also concerned about his grandmother, feeling that he had let her down after she had raised him in the absence of his divorced parents.

But Maddox is not in prison. He pleaded guilty to charges in Hamilton County (Ohio) Common Pleas Court and was given five years probation. He is now playing football again with the Kansas City Chiefs.

During the three and a half months spent awaiting trial, Maddox passed most of the time alone in his apartment. "I had a hard time facing people," he recalls. "I felt everything was blown right there, like I had failed everyone."

During this time, Wendell Deyo visited him. Maddox knew Deyo from his work as the Bengals' spiritual advisor.

"He said that he wanted to get together, that he was very lonely," said Deyo.

"The only thing anybody would talk to him about was his drug problem. There was little concern for him as an individual. I knew that if he trusted the Lord, the Lord would work a miracle in his life."

Maddox admitted that he "wanted something solid," when Deyo visited. "I never gave things too much thought," he said. "I never planned for the future. After everything happened, I didn't know who to turn to; it really put a scare to me. Wendell talked to me about receiving Christ, and when I did, He really gave me a solid foundation."

After he was placed on probation, there was still the problem of playing again in the NFL, known for its strong public stand against drug usage. Maddox met with Bengal coach Paul Brown and worked out a written agreement, stating that the team could have him medically checked at any time if he was suspected of drug use.

Coach Brown was then quoted as saying, "My impression is that this young man is truly sorry for what he did."

At Maddox's request, Deyo spent time teaching him about the Christian life.

Bob said several times that he was looking forward to the chapel services held before each Bengal game, but he did not remain with Cincinnati. With a shot at the divisional title, the team bolstered its defensive line by trading for some seasoned veterans. So shortly before the opening regular season game, Maddox was released.

Deyo says that Maddox was upset, "not by the fact that he'd been cut, but by the fact that he hadn't been told. He learned about it on the radio." Wendell told him the best thing he could do was "share his heart with the Lord, and then thank him for it."

Maddox found it hard to believe that God might have something better in mind: "I was really upset. I was ready to just disregard Christ. But I told Him I would go His way. Since then things have worked out perfectly."

By perfectly, he means that one week later, he was called by Kansas City. He started his first game against the Oakland Raiders, after the Chiefs had lost their opening three games. He made five tackles to help the defense as the team routed the perenn-

Bobcat Gymnasts Qualify for Nationals

by Karla Keller

The Bobcat gymnasts put it all together at Madison College on February 6. The team set a new record by scoring 141.50 against Madison's 63.50. This score qualifies the team to compete in the N.A.I.A. Gymnastic Championships in LaCrosse, Wisconsin, March 4-6. Coach Surgent was happy with the performances of his gymnasts, but wants to see his team hit this peak performance once more before entering them in such a competition as the Nationals. Surgents musclemen were not expected to provide such an exciting season, however, due to dedication and hard work the team has provided Surgent with what he terms as "the best team I've ever had the pleasure of coaching." He also feels that the meet against Madison was the best in the history of the school.

In addition, senior co-captain Ralph Ransone qualified for National competition for the second week in a row in the still rings. Ransone racked up an 8.15 total. Co-captain Wes McCloskey also set a school record in the parallel bar (7.10) and in the all-around competition (39.9).

The whole team will not attend Nationals. According to the coach, "We just barely qualified for the Nationals, but we're definitely not ready as a team to enter that caliber of competition. I think we're only about two years away from competition like this so we won't all be going to the Nationals. But I think Ralph and Wes can give us a very representative showing." About the two representatives Surgent says, "Ralph is exceptionally strong, the strongest gymnast I've seen here in Frostburg in nine years, and he is really deserving of this chance to represent us in the Nationals." About Wes McCloskey, Surgent continues, "Wes is the best all-around gymnast I've seen here at FSC."

Overall in the Madison meet, the team scores for floor exercise were, Tony Brown, 5.15; Jeff Mallery, 4.9; Ralph Ransone, 7.1; Dave Gelman, 7.05 and Wes McCloskey, 7.1. In the long horse event, Matt Stevenson scored a 3.15, Ralph Ransone, 3.65, Wayne Miller, 6.75; and Wes McCloskey, 7.35. On the still rings, John Newman scored 3.95; Jeff Mallery, 6.95; Wes McCloskey 6.7; Wayne Miller, 6.75 and Ralph Ransone, 8.15. Greg Bonadies scored 6.5 on the pommel horse. Jeff Mallery scored 6.0 and Wes McCloskey 5.55. On the parallel bars, Wayne Miller scored 5.05; Jeff Mallery, 4.6; Dwight Mackel, 5.2; Ralph Ransone, 5.4 and Wes McCloskey 7.1. In the horizontal bar event, Tony Osingo scored 2.7; Ralph Ransone, 3.5; Jeff Mallery, 4.85; Wes McCloskey, 5.85 and Dave Gelman 4.55.

The Bobcat gymnasts will make their final home appearance of the season Saturday, February 21, when Frostburg entertains Montgomery College in a 11:00 a.m. meet in Compton Gym.

Cats Record Streak Continues

A week ago last Thursday, a representative contingent of the Frostburg State track team extended its record breaking streak with some excellent performances at the Shippensburg State Open Meet. Matt Cline kept the streak alive by taking the mile in an FSC indoor record 4:19.6. In addition, many Shippensburg Fieldhouse records were broken by Bobcat performers. Included among them was an extremely fast 9:23.2 two-mile by Mike Harper. Teammate George Lucas was right behind him with a second place 9:24.6. Both runners might well have broken the FSC record of 9:22, had they not met with congestion on about the fifteenth lap. Another fieldhouse record was established by Derrick Pinkney when he took the 300 yard dash in 33.5. Derrick also finished second in the 50 yard dash with a time of 5.6. Steve Smith won the shot put, and Mike Savoy tied the Frostburg indoor high jump record for the third time in a row with a jump of six feet, four inches.
