SENATOR PRICE ON OYSTERS

His Speech Before The Senate Favoring Campbell-Price Bill

Thinks That His Attitude Will Be Understood And Commended After The Bill Has Been Given A Fair Trial—Points Out The Defects In Old Law And Says This Bill Will Bring About Desired Results.

Senator Jesse D. Price made a strong speech before the Senate a few days ago in defense of his stand on the oyster question. He spoke in favor of the passage of the Campbell-Price Oyster Bill, and his speech was in part as follows:

Mr. President, I am glad to see this Bill and referred to during the debate, I feel that it is incumbent upon me to make some remarks on this occasion. In considering a great economic measure, such as the Oyster Planting Bill now under discussion, to those who are disinterested in a way by reason of their geographical position, will say that it should be considered as a matter of State Wide importance and not as a local question and while generally speaking I agree with that proposition, I must confess that my first consideration in connection with this Bill is from the viewpoint of the oystermen of the State. I mean real oystermen—the oystermen who make their living upon the oyster rocks of the State as did their forefathers by taking the oysters from the waters in all sorts of weather and under all sorts of adverse conditions; so that my interest in this Bill and my first consideration in connection with it, was from their standpoint rather than from a standpoint of oyster culture. My past record on this subject speaks for itself. I firmly believe that my present attitude, though I come from what is known as a tide-water county, will be vindicated in the future, if it is finally judged on its merits as to its ultimate effect on the welfare of the oystermen. As stated before, the highest interest of these people is my first consideration and it is my desire to help the oystermen, knowing as I do the hardships that they suffer and the poor compensation they receive. It was this knowledge that the oystermen of the State, (I do not mean professional oystermen, but the oystermen who as I said awhile ago, make their living on the oyster rocks) are not now receiving a fair return for their labor and hardships, which they have to endure to support themselves and those dependent upon them. I may say that was the consideration that led me at this Session of the Legislature to consider if there was not some way that I could actually help the oystermen of my Country and State.

In the past I have been emphatically told and led to believe that all oyster planting laws presented to the Maryland Legislature were put forward with evil motives. In fact we have heard something of that intimation today and while these motives have not actually been discovered they were nevertheless supposed to be concealed in these Bills and these Bills were supposed to tend toward monopoly, and these laws were only monopolistic laws. As time has gone on however nothing has happened to show that these supposed evil motives exist and I have gradually come to the belief that the State of Maryland, after embarking in 1906 upon the project of oyster planting and after spending a vast sum of money in inaugurating and establishing a system of oyster planting such as is in force in our sister States that there should be some sensible and business like way in which to amend this law, so that oyster planting would prove profitable to the planter and to the State and at the same time the rights of the oystermen be preserved and protected. In fact as I look back in the light of recent developments and disclosures for the possible reasons for the present disastrous oyster conditions as compared with other states, I wonder, when some of the friends of the oystermen cry out to look out for the "snakes" in the oyster planting bill of the past if it would not have been wiser if we had turned our eyes of scrutiny upon and searched for hidden method in these so-called friends of the oystermen. In saying this, I do not wish to appear as reflecting upon or alluding to any of the members of this body, either of the past or present, as to that class of individuals referred to.

What I have said explains some of the reasons for my present attitude upon this question and those of my colleagues who follow up my argument, will I believe, admit that I have been consistent in saying that the interest of the oystermen of Wicomico county and the other tide-water counties of this State is my first and chief consideration in connection with this measure. Having therefore partly eliminated some of the present elements in the problem under consideration I will take up the merits of the Bill now before us as I see them, and hope to make you see them.

The Bill which has been reported from this Committee has three essential features, to which I will call your attention. The first feature that I will discuss is so far as the most important and relates to the 215,000 acres of natural oyster bars which have been surveyed and then defined by a most accurate system of measurements and bonds, and then reserved for the sole use of the oystermen of the State. That this great oyster survey, which has just been completed, has been fair and exhaustive no one seems to question. Oystermen themselves, who did at first feel that the natural rocks and bars would be encroached upon, (with remarkably few exceptions) accept the survey as having been for their best interests and it was universally declared at the time the law passed in 1906, that their ancient rights to the natural bars of the State were about to be taken away from them; in fact it has been pointed out to them, and they have conceded the truth of the statement, that the Shell Fish Commission has laid out for their use 90,000 acres more than was ever before claimed as belonging to the natural oyster rocks of this State. That one fact alone should convince any fair minded person that the State administration had no thought of sacrificing the interests of the oystermen for the benefit either of the State or the oyster planters.

In making this survey, the State and Federal Government have spent over $200,000 I understand, and six years of time. They have made, so I have been informed, over 180,000 soundings and general readings on the bar of the oyster, covering a total distance of over 5,000 miles in their work. They have examined the oyster on the bottom at 11,000 oyster investigation stations; they have permanently secured all of this information by establishing 190,000 triangular land marks that are permanently marked by monuments with sufficient weight to be permanent; they have published and filed with the courts of Maryland nearly 2,000 technical records and 44 oyster charts showing the boundaries of the bars of this State. All this time, money and labor has been expended for the sole purpose of defining and securing for the oystermen of Maryland all their ancient rights of free fishery of over 200,000 acres of public oyster bars. Could more have been done in this respect to protect and secure the rights of our oystermen and even the opponents of oyster planting must surely admit that this survey has been fair and valuable. When the officials and experts of the State and of the Federal Government who have made this great survey say to the Legislature, "Now that the rights of the oystermen have been preserved for all time to come and we have set aside for the sole use of the oystermen more acreage than ever claimed, why not give us chance to demonstrate to the people whether or not we can cultivate oysters in Maryland?"

I think, gentlemen, that when we consider this question we should be inclined to listen to the proposal which seems to be fair and reasonable—I ask you now as a business proposition, Mr. President and Gentlemen, submitted to business men, why not say to these people, you have made a fair and honest survey, protecting the right of our oyster constituents; we believe you have the knowledge of the business in hand and we will pass such amendments to this law as will give oyster planting a fair trial. That appears like a common sense proposition and that is one of the reasons why I am supporting this Bill and also is one of the reasons why I believe we should all support it. In this connection I unhesitatingly say, in the light of what I have recently learned on this subject, that I do not believe oyster planting has had a fair chance in this State under the present law, or that it can have a fair trial in the future unless the pending law or something substantially like it, is passed by this Legislature.

This brings me to another matter which has been brought up in connection with the discussion of this question, and which will bear emphasizing and in my opinion is a question involving the good faith of our State with the government of the United States. The Maryland Legislature passed a law which contained a provision directing the Governor of the State to ask the United States Government to co-operate with the State of Maryland in making an oyster survey that would be a foundation for the development of an oyster planting industry. The Government being interested as an interstate proposition, in increasing the food supply of the country responded by detailing two officials to do this work, one from the Coast and Geodetic Survey and one from the Bureau of Fisheries and in addition to this the representatives of Maryland in the Congress of the United States succeeded in having passed a special act which resulted in appropriations being made by the Government for the purpose of Maryland oyster survey, which amounts, up to this time, to nearly $100,000 and no return for this money and time expended by the experts at the request of our State Government in laying the foundation for the development of the oyster industry of our State. The representatives of the Federal Government who have in good faith made themselves personally responsible for the proper use of the time and money so expended, ask only one thing and that is that the State of Maryland carry out her promise to the Government by giving oyster planting a fair trial in Maryland thus increasing the supply of oyster food in the United States, which was the original idea and sole reason for the Government setting us in making the Maryland Oyster Survey. To my mind, this one aspect alone, that of keeping good faith with the Government, should weigh very heavily with our favoring the amendments to the oyster planting law. That these experts who have last six years, any are absolutely necessary if there is to be any real permanent development of the oyster industry of our State. Of course if you do not pay any attention to expert opinion and expert testimony, and see fit to ignore it, that is another matter. The Government naturally assumed, and has a right to assume, that after we have requested assistance in this work, and after they have expended time and money to help us, that we would be glad to do what all other progressive oyster producing states have done long ago.

The next feature of this pending Oyster Bill is the provision which is designed to make oyster culture profitable to the State in the form of a revenue. In Section 98 there is a provision for the increase in acreage that may be leased by any one oyster planter. The reason for this provision is self evident, and can be covered by one assertion based on experience in other states. If an oyster planter cannot control as large an area as is proposed in this Bill, he will not be warranted by possible provisions in purchasing and building up the equipment that is necessary for practical oyster planting. The only argument against the provision for increase of acreage is that it would mean a monopoly for the oyster planter, about which the distinguished Senator from Talbot has told you so much, but this argument utterly collapses when it is stated, with all truth, that if the individual controls a maximum of thirty acres allowed in the tributaries, he would only possess an area which is less than one seven thousandths part of the natural oyster area of the State. Now just think what one even thousandths part of a thing amounts to, and even the Senator from Garrett County, with his large family, could not take up enough of the oyster bars to create a monopoly of the oyster industry of Maryland. And if one individual controlling a maximum of thirty acres would only control one seven thousandths, or if it should be a maximum of five hundred acres which he might control in the open waters of the bay, he would only possess an area equal to one four hundredths part of the natural oyster bars of the State. Now, Gentlemen, a man with five hundred acres in the open waters of the Chesapeake Bay and this is all he could get, would only have one four hundredths part of the product of the natural oyster bars of Maryland and there would be three hundred and ninety nine other parts equal to his. The idea of talking about monopoly is ridiculous. If this same man had five hundred acres in the open water of the bay, he could only control one four thousandths part of the total production of the United States—one four thousandths part would not be a drop in the bucket—talk about creating an oyster monopoly in this State with such a law as this. I cannot believe that these business gentlemen believe any such thing could happen in Maryland. And I believe it is absolutely impossible for any man to become a monopolist in the State of Maryland if the Bill is passed. If I thought so, Mr. President, I would be one of the first to stand up here and fight it with all my might.

The next point under discussion has to do with the permitting under certain very rigid restrictions as to time of taking oysters by the planters from his own leased oyster ground in a manner which is most practical and economical. This provision is covered by Section 113 as to the manner of taking oyster in planted areas, is the very keynote of the pending bill.

My Lady of the North

THE LOVE STORY OF A GRAY JACKET
By RANDALL PARISH
AUTHOR OF
"WHEN WILDERNESS WAS KING"
Illustrations by Arthur T. Williamson

CHAPTER XXXVI.

The Last Good-bye.

She exhibited no outward sign of agitation as she left her position and slowly advanced toward us. Delicately lifting her skirts to keep them from contact with the weeds under foot,
her head poised proudly, her eyes a bit disdainful of it all, she paused before Canton.

"Lieutenant," she questioned in a clear tone which seemed to command
an answer, "I have always found you an impartial friend. Will you kindly inform me as to the true meaning of all this?"

He hesitated, hardly knowing what to reply, but her imperious eyes were upon him—they insisted, and he stammered lamely:

"Two of the gentlemen, madam,
were about to settle a slight disagreement by means of the code."

"Were about?" she echoed, scornful of all deceit. "Surely I heard shots as I came through the orchard?"

"One fire has been exchanged," he reluctantly admitted.

"And Captain Wayne has been wounded?"

"I was not aware until that moment
that she had even so much as noticed my presence."

"Very slightly, madam."

"His opponent escaped uninjured?"

Canton bowed, glanced uneasily toward me, and then blurted forth impulsively: "Captain Wayne fired in the air, madam."

"A most delightful situation, surely,"
she said clearly and sarcastically.

"One would almost suppose we had wholly reverted to barbarism, and that our boasted civilization was but mockery."

"Think of it!" she said, her proud disdain in her face held us dumb. "Not six hours ago that house yonder was the scene of a desperate battle. Within its blood-stained rooms men fought and died, cheering in their agony like heroes of romance. I saw there two men battling shoulder to shoulder
against a host of infuriated ruffians,
seeking to protect helpless women.
They wore different uniforms, they followed different flags, by the fortune
of war they were enemies, yet they could fight and die in defense of the weak. I thanked God upon my knees that I had been privileged to know
such men and could call them friends.
No nobler, truer, manlier deed of arms
was ever done! Yet, mark you, no sooner is that duty over—scarcely are their dead comrades buried—when they forget every natural instinct of gratitude, of true manliness, and spring at each other's throat like two maddened beasts. I care not what the case may be—the act is shameful,
and an insult to every woman of this household. Even as I came upon the field voices were clamoring for another shot, in spite of the fact that one man stood already wounded. War
may be excusable, but this is not war.
Gentlemen, you have fired your last shot on this field, unless you choose to make me your target."

She stood there as a queen might,
and commanded an obedience no man
among us dared refuse. Brennan's flushed face paled, and his lips trembled as he sought to make excuse.

"Edith," he protested, "you do not know, you do not understand. There are wrongs which can be righted in no other way."

"I do not care to know," she answered coldly, "nor do I ever expect to learn that murder can right a wrong."

"Murder! You use strong terms."

"The code has been recognized for centuries as the last resort of gentlemen."

"The code! Has it, indeed? What gentlemen? Those of the south exclusively of late. That might possibly pardon your opponent, but not you,
for you know very well that in the north no man of any standing would ever venture to resort to it. Moreover,
even the code presupposes that men shall stand equal at its bar—I am informed that Captain Wayne fired in the air."

He hesitated, feeling doubtless the uselessness of further protest, yet she permitted him small opportunity for consideration. "Major," she said quietly but firmly, "I should be pleased to have you escort me to the house."

These words, gently as they were spoken, still constituted a command. Her eyes were upon his face, and I doubt not he read within them
that she would forfeit all her respect if he failed to obey. Yet he yielded with exceeding poor grace.

"As it seems impossible to continue," he admitted bitterly, "I suppose I may as well go." He turned and fronted me, his eyes glowing.
"But understand, sir, this is merely a cessation, not an ending."

I bowed gravely, not daring to trust
my voice in speech, lest I should yield to the temptation of my own temper.

"Captain Wayne," she said, glancing back across his broad blue shoulder,
and I thought there was a new quality in her voice, the sting had somewhat gone out of it, "I shall esteem
it a kindness if you will call upon me before you depart."

"With pleasure," I hastened to reply, my surprise at the request almost robbing me of speech, "but I shall be compelled to leave at once,
as my troop is already under orders."

"I shall detain you for only a moment, but after what you have passed through on our behalf I am unwilling you should depart without realizing our gratitude. You will find me in the library. Come, Frank, I am ready now."

We remained motionless, watching them until they disappeared around the corner of the shed. Brennan walked with stern face, his step heavy, she with averted eyes, a slight smile of triumph curling her lip. Then Moorehouse stooped and picked up the derringer the Major had thrown away.

"By thunder, but she's right!" he exclaimed emphatically. "I tell you that's a mighty fine woman. Blame me, if she didn't face us like a queen."

No answer, and without exchanging another word we walked together to the house. There I found the remnant of my troop standing beside their horses, chaffing with a dozen idle Yankee cavalrymen who were lounging on the wide steps.

The time had come when I must say a final farewell and depart. Not the slightest excuse remained for further delay. I dreaded the ordeal, but no escape was possible, and I entered the house for what I well knew was to be the last time. My mind was gravely troubled; I knew not what to expect, how far I might venture to hope. Why had she desired to see me again? Surely the public reason she offered could not be, I real one. Had she only been true,
a maid whose hand remained her own to surrender as she pleased, I should never have hesitated, never have doubted her purpose; but now that could not be.

As I knocked almost timidly at the closed library door a gentle voice
said, "Come," and I entered, my heart throbbing like a frightened girl's.

She stood waiting me nearly in the center of that spacious apartment, dressed in the same light raiment she had worn without, and her greeting was calm and friendly, yet tinged by a proud dignity, I cannot describe. I believed for an instant that we were alone, and my blood raced through my veins in sudden expectancy; then my eyes fell upon Mrs. Minor comfortably seated in an armchair before the fire, and I realized that she was present to restrain me from forgetfulness. But in very truth my lady hardly needed such protection—
her speech, her manner, her proud constraint told me at once most plainly that no existing tie between us had caused our meeting.

"Captain Wayne," she said softly,
her high color alone giving evidence of any memory of the past, "I scarcely thought that we should meet again,
yet was not willing to part with you under any misunderstanding. I have learned from Lieutenant Canton the full particulars of your action in connection with Major Brennan. I wish you to realize that I appreciate your efforts to escape a hostile meeting and esteem you most highly for your forbearance on the field. It was indeed a noble proof of true courage.
May I ask why did you fire in the air?"

Had she not held me so away from her by her manner I should have then and there told her all the truth. As it was I dared not.

"I felt convinced that if my bullet reached Major Brennan it would injure you. I preferred not to do that."

"I believed it was for my sake you made the sacrifice," she paused; then asked in yet lower tones: "Was my name mentioned during your contention—I mean publicly?"

"It was not; Canton alone is aware
I remained because of the reason I have already given you."

"Your wound is not serious?"

"Too insignificant to be worthy of mention."

She was silent, her eyes upon the carpet, her bosom rising and falling with the emotion she sought in vain to suppress.

"I thank you for coming to me,"
she said frankly. "I shall understand it all better, comprehend your motive better, for this brief talk. Whatever you may think of me in the future,
and she held out her hand with something of the old frankness in the gesture."

ture, "do not hold me as ungrateful
for a single kindness you have shown me. I have not fully understood you, Captain Wayne; indeed, I doubt if I do even now, yet I am under great obligations which I hope some day to be able to requite, at least in part."

"A thousand times they are already paid," I exclaimed, eagerly, forgetting for the moment the presence of her third chapter. "You have given me that which is more than life."

"Do not, Captain Wayne," she interrupted, her cheeks aflame. "I would rather forget. Please do not;
I did not send to you for that, only
to tell you I knew and understood.
We must part now. Will you say good-bye?"

"If you bid me, yes, I will say good-bye," I answered, my own self-control brought back instantly by her words and manner. "But I retain that which I do not mean to forget—your gracious words of invitation to the North."

She stood with parted lips, as though she struggled to force back that which should not be uttered.
Then she whispered swiftly:

"It is not my wish that you should."

Was there ever such another paradox of woman? I knew not how to read her aright, for I scarce ever found her twice the same. Which represented the truth of her character—her cool dignity, her impetuous pride, or that gentle tenderness which bathed her so well? Which was the armor, which the heart of this fair lady of the North?

As we rode down the path to the eastward, a snowy handkerchief fluttered for an instant at the library window. I raised my hat in silent greeting, and we were gone.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

The Furling of the Flag.

The close of the long and bitter struggle had come; to those who had cast their fortunes with the South it seemed almost as the end of the world. I had thought to write of those last days, to picture them
in all their contrasting light and shadow, but now I cannot. There are thoughts too deep for human utterance, memories too sacred for the pen. I rejoice that I was a part of it; that to the lowering of the last tattered battle-flag I remained constant to the best traditions of my house. I cannot sit here now, beneath the protecting shadow of a flag for which my son fought and died, and write that I regret the ending, for years of peace have taught us of the South lessons no less valuable than did the war; yet do I rejoice today
that, having once donned the gray,
I wore it until the last shot that voiced its grim message to the North.

It is hardly more than a dream now,
sometimes vague and shadowy, again distinct with living figures and historic scenes. I require but to close my eyes to behold once more those slender lines of ragged, weary, hungry men, to whom fighting had become synonymous with life. I pass again through the fiery rain of those last fierce battles, when in desperation we sought to check the unnumbered blue legions that fairly crushed us beneath their weight.

I saw it all; I held a part in it all.
Upon that April day which witnessed the turning of the last sad page in this tragedy, I stood without the Mc-Lean house, ankle deep in the trampled mud of the yard, surrounded by a group of Federal officers. Within was my commander, the old gray hero of Virginia, together with the great silent soldier of the North.

Few about me spoke as we waited in restless agony. No one addressed me, and I think there must have been a look in my face which held them dumb.

I knew not how long I waited,
standing beside my horse, with head half bowed upon his neck, seeing the figures about me as in a dream. At last the door was flung open, and those within came forth. He was in advance of them all. In that pale, stern, kindly face, and within the depths of those sorrowful gray eyes,
I read instantly the truth—the Army
of Northern Virginia was no more.

Yet with calm dignity did this defeated chieftain pass down that blue lane, his head erect, his eyes undimmed—as dauntless in that awful hour of surrender as when he rode before his cheering legions of fighting men. Only as he came to where I stood, and caught the look of suffering upon my face, did he once falter,
and then I noted no more than the slight twitching of his lips beneath
the short gray beard.

"Captain Wayne," he said, with all his old-time courtesy, "I shall have to trouble you to ride to General Hill's division and request him to cease firing at once."

I turned reluctantly away from him, knowing full well in my heart I was bearing my last order, and rode at a hard trot down the road between long lines of waiting Federal infantry. I scarcely so much as saw them, for my head was bent low over the saddle
pomel, and my eyes were blurred
with tears.

The sun lay hot and golden over
the dusty roads and fenceless fields.
The air was vocal with blare of trumpets and roll of drums, while everywhere the eyes rested upon blue lines
and long columns of marching troops.
I formed one of a little gray squad moving slowly southward—a mere fragment of the fighting men of the Confederacy, making their way home.

THE PAST LEGISLATURE.

It is a little too early to judge of the acts of the past legislature, but it is apparent that many good and meritorious measures were enacted by law. Wicomico County is also to be congratulated upon the many really good measures which have been passed to the affairs here.

A glance at the bills carried through and the appropriations secured will be sufficient to bear this out. Senator Price has been very successful in getting the measures through which he advocated and many of the most important State bills as well as those applicable to this County bear the impress of his work.

The Oyster legislation is one of the great bills which he was successful in passing, and one for which he received unmistaken praise throughout the State.

The ADVERTISER regrets that the Local Option bill was not passed both on the grounds of its merits as a measure designed to give to each community the right of voting whether or not they wanted certain conditions to exist in their community and also on the grounds that we believe the democratic party in the State would be much better off with this question taken out of State politics.

The Legislature however on the whole appears to have made a very redoubtable record, and Senator Price its President was unquestionably a strong factor in passing most of the really meritorious bills of the session.

YOUR CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT.

For the first time in the history of this State the voters will have a chance to go to the Primaries this year and put in a vote for the man who they would prefer seeing nominated for their party candidate for President.

The passage of the Harper Primary Bill and the signing of same by Governor Goldsborough assures the voters of this opportunity and it is now up to them to get a line on the various men spoken of in this connection and then exercise their best judgment in the matter.

Direct voting in principle is the chance of the people to select their own nominees and if they are to become the recognized system of this country the voters must show they are able to make good selections as were made by the old convention plan. To do this the voters in this county should stop voting as some man or as some set of men dictate.

It is an insult to their manhood to have various District leaders walking the streets of Salisbury boasting that they vote "THEIR" people as they please. And acting upon this theory actually deal this vote out among themselves before primary day. One leader trading with another and promising his support for some candidate
if the other give him support for the man in whom he is interested. Many a district voter would manfully resent
the imputation that he is the political slave of any one yet when the election day comes around he votes as some one tell him to vote, and thus completes the trade made by this leader sometimes weeks before the primary. It is this subversion on the part of some of our voters which gives our leaders the confidence they show when they talk about what MY district is going to do. This is the thing which our voters must shake off if they wish to make the direct plan of making nominations a success. They must be men and men of judgement, with backbone enough to do their own thinking, and independence enough
to go to the polls and cast their ballot
for the man of their choice regardless of the wishes of this man or that man,
of this faction or that faction. It is to be hoped that the voters of this County will commence and work on this principle this and every other year. Let us have a true and un-hampered expression of the people and not the manufactured sentiment of a few. Let every voter refuse to be used and in this manner he will show the place and responsibility of his vote as determined to govern
the people and not be governed by the convention plan of making nominations.

way for the people to keep the political reins in their own hand. Wi-comico has a fine set of men who have but little touch of the slavish dependence necessary to make them tools and machines in other people's hands, and it is only because they have not looked at the matter in the right light
that they allow some one or more men
to come to Salisbury and promise their votes for some man without first consulting the wishes of the men they pretend to represent.

Make Direct primaries a success
and refuse to submit to the dictation
of any man, big or little, high or low on any nomination hereafter to be held in this County, should be the platform of every man who is worthy of the name.

Government Approval Of The Buick Car.

Last week a model 28 Buick motor car was delivered to Colonel Spencer Cochy, of the Department of War at Washington, to be used by the Inspector of public buildings and grounds on his daily trip.

The government invited all the leading manufacturers of cars priced from $600 to $2000 to submit a car in competition to a committee of mechanical experts. The cars were driven on to the designated place and the drivers dismissed. The examination was then made with no representative of any of the cars present. Motor for motor, shaft for shaft, bolt for bolt,
the cars were compared, tested and appraised by the government experts.
One by one cars were eliminated until but one remained. It was the Buick.
Of the seventeen or eighteen cars
submitted the Buick alone stood the rigid tests of quality and construction upon which the examination was based. This car was at once turned over to the government for immediate service.

This is not the first time the Buick
has been selected for government use.
Last fall when an appropriation of $250,000 was made for experiment on road construction the Buick was the car used to drive over the various road surfaces that were laid and tested. Philadelphia Inquirer, January 14, 1912. Write for Buick catalogue.

ward as best they might. As the roads forked I left them, for here our paths diverged, and it chanced I was the only one whose hope lay westward.

Silently, thoughtfully I trudged on for an hour through the thick red dust. My horse, sorely wounded in our last skirmish, limped painfully behind me, his bridle-rein flung carelessly over my arm. Out yonder,

"I Felt Convinced That If My Bullet Reached Major Brennan It Would Injure You."

where the sun pointed the way with streams of fire, I was to take up life anew. Life! What was there left to me in that word? A deserted, despoiled farm alone awaited my coming; hardly a remembered face, scarcely a future hope. The glimmer of a passing troop of cavalry drew my mind for an instant to Edith Brennan, but I crushed the thought. Even were she free, what had I now to place at her proud feet?—I, a penniless, defeated, homeless man? At a cross-roads a Federal picket halted me, and I aroused sufficiently to hand him the paper which entitled me to safe passage through the lines. He handed me back the paper and motioned me to pass on. I had gone a hundred yards or more when I became aware that he was calling after me.

"Hey, there, you gray-back!" he shouted, "hold on a bit!"

As I came to a pause and glanced back, wondering if there could be anything wrong with my parole, he swung his cap and pointed.

"That officer coming yonder wants to speak with you."

Across the open field at my right, hidden until then by a slight rise of ground, a mounted cavalryman was riding rapidly toward me. For the moment his lowered head prevented recognition, but as he cleared the ditch and came up smiling, I saw it was Caton.

"By Jove, Wayne, but this is lucky!" he exclaimed, springing to the ground beside me. "I've actually been praying for a week past that I might see you. Holmes, of your service, told me you had pulled through, but everything is in such confusion that to hunt for you would have been the proverbial quest after a needle in a haystack. You have been paroled then?"

"Yes, I'm completely out of it at last," I answered, feeling to the full the deep sympathy expressed by his face. "It was a bitter pill, but one which had to be taken."

"I know it, old fellow," and his hand-grasp on mine tightened warmly. "If you have been beaten there is no disgrace in it, for no other nation in this world could ever have accomplished it. But this was a case of Greek meeting Greek, and we had the money, the resources, and the men. But, Wayne, I tell you, I do not believe there is today a spark of bitterness in the heart of a fighting Federal soldier."

"I know, Caton," I said—and the words came hard—"your fighting men respect us, even as we do them. It has been a sheer game of which could stand the most punishment, and the weaker had to go down. I know all that, but nevertheless, it is a terrible ending to so much of hope, suffering, and sacrifice."

"Yes," he admitted soberly, "you have given your all. But those who survive have a wonderful work before them. They must lay anew the foundations; they are to be the rebuilders of states. You were going home?"

"I smiled bitterly at this designation of my journey's end. "Yes, if you can so name a few weed-grown fields and a vacant negro cabin. I certainly shall have to lay the foundation anew most literally."

"Will you not let me aid you?" he questioned eagerly. "I possess some means, and surely our friendship is sufficiently established to warrant me in making the offer. You will not refuse?"

"I must," I answered firmly. "Yet I do not value the offer the less. Sometime I may even remind you of it, but now I prefer to dig, as the others must. I shall be the stronger for it, and shall thus sooner forget the total wreck."

Almost a Miracle.

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any land, according to W. B. Hootsow, Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother.

"He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, and he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 215 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for Coughs and Colds with excellent results. It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all drug stores."

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. The result was lasting."—Hon. John M. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

For a few moments we walked on together in silence, each leading his horse.

"Wayne," he asked at length, glancing furtively at me, as if to mark the effect of his words, "did you know that Mrs. Brennan was again with us?"

"I was not even aware she had been away."

"Oh, yes; she returned North immediately after your last parting, and came back only last week. So many wives and relatives of the officers have come down of late, knowing the war to be practically at an end, that our camp has become like a huge picnic pavilion. It is quite the fashionable place just now to visit the front."

Mrs. Brennan accompanied the wife of one of the division commanders from her state—Connecticut, you know."

There was much I longed to ask regarding her, but I would not venture to fan his suspicions. In hope that I might turn his thought I asked, "And you, are you yet married?"

He laughed good-humoredly. "No, that happy day will not occur until after we are mustered out. Miss Minor is far too loyal a Virginian ever to become my wife, while I continue to wear this uniform. By the way, Mrs. Brennan was asking Celia only yesterday if she had heard anything of you since the surrender."

"She is at Appomattox, then?"

"No, at the headquarters of the Sixth Corps, only a few miles north from here."

"And the Major?"

Caton glanced at me, a peculiar look in his face, but answered simply: "Naturally I have had small intimacies with him after what occurred at Mountain View, but he is still retained upon General Sheridan's staff. At Mrs. Brennan's request we breakfasted together yesterday morning, but I believe he is at the other end of the lines today."

We sat down upon a bank, and for the time I forgot disaster while listening to his story of love and his plans for the future. His one thought of Celia and the Northern home so soon now to be made ready for her coming. The sun sank lower into the western sky, causing Caton to draw down his fatigue cap until its gleaming visor almost completely hid his eyes. With buoyant enthusiasm he talked on, each word drawing me closer to him in bonds of friendship. But the time of parting came, and after we had promised to correspond with each other, I had stood and watched while he rode rapidly back down the road we had traversed together. At the summit of the hill he turned and waved his cap, then disappeared, leaving me alone, with Edith's face more clearly than ever a torture to my memory of defeat—her face, fair, smiling, alighting, yet the face of another man's wife.

FARMER GAYNOR UPSETS THINGS

Copyright by Brown Brothers.

The Old Order in New York Undergoes a Great Change—People Regain Their Rights—Some of the Methods by Which William J. Gaynor Has Ended the Rule of "the System" and Established Honest Government. The People Have Come to Love Him and Speak of Him as a Second Lincoln—A Mayor Who is Doing Big Things in a Quiet Way.

NEW YORKERS used to smile at farmers with an air of indulgent superiority, but they are not doing nearly so much of it now since they have become well acquainted with Mayor William J. Gaynor. He is the first farmer chief executive the city has ever had, or at least the only one it has had for a hundred years or more, and he has given the people a new view of the possibilities of city life and of the capabilities of the man from the country.

Before him the city hall was occupied in turn by merchants, lawyers and politicians, who differed from each other only in name. They were either born in the city or had lived there so long that they had lost all of their individuality and become typical "New Yorkers." They talked in the same way, wore the same fashionable clothes and could be counted on to say the right thing on all occasions. And that was all.

Mr. Gaynor, on the other hand, is the most unconventional man with whom New York has been intimately associated for generations. He brought with him the fresh air of the wide out of doors, along with a distinctive and decided personality. He was born and brought up on a farm, has always lived on a farm, for most of the year at least, and is proud of the fact that he is a good farmer. He believes that a spade is a spade and a thief a thief, no matter what his name or position.

He does big things in a quiet way without fuss or foolishness, and what is even more novel, he does them without any thought of future reward because, he has brought the city's government back to Jeffersonian simplicity.

In former days the door to the mayor's office was a portal through which only the mighty might pass. Now it is open to every citizen. The weak and the poor and the oppressed are as welcome as the rich. Mr. Gaynor sees three or four times as many people at his office every day as were received by his predecessor. No one who has a reasonable excuse for seeing him is denied admittance, and no one goes away unsatisfied. To those with complaints of injustice and there were many of them at first, but their number is constantly decreasing under the general correction of abuses—the mayor inclines a sympathetic ear, and such action as is needed is taken in the vigorous Gaynor fashion.

The complaint of two peaceable citizens who had been roughly handled by special officers without any reason led to an investigation which developed the fact that there were 4,000 special policemen in New York who, though armed with full police powers, were employed by firms and corporations. They naturally took orders from those who paid them their wages without regard to the rights of the people with whom they interfered. Frequently they went beyond the law. The result of this discovery was that by the mayor's order all of these special officers were immediately stripped of their authority.

Early one morning as a merchant was walking downtown to open his store he said something that annoyed yond the satisfaction which comes from a work well done. His judgments are based on what he believes to be right, and only that. He is such an unusual mayor that New Yorkers didn't quite know what to think of him at first, but since they have had an opportunity to watch and study him they have come to love him. In much the same way that Lincoln was loved. He is often spoken of, in fact, as a second emancipator, and not without reason, for to a much greater extent than even the most optimistic citizen dared hope for up to a year or two ago, he has freed New York from the fet

Women—Their Statements Worth Reading.

Asheville, N.C.—"I suffered for years with female trouble while going through the Change of Life. I tried a local physician for a couple of years without any substantial benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I quit my physician and commenced using it with the happiest results. I am today practically a well woman and anxious to contribute my mite towards inducing others to try your great medicine, as I am fully persuaded that it will cure the ailments from which I suffered if given a fair chance."

"If you think this letter will contribute anything towards further introducing your medicines to afflicted women who are passing through this trying period, it is with great pleasure I consent to its publication."—Mrs. JULIA A. MOORE, 17 East St., Asheville, N.C.

The Case of Mrs. Kirlin.
Circleville, Ohio.—"I can truthfully say that I never had anything do me so much good during Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. 'Before I had taken one half a bottle of it I began to feel better, and I have continued taking it. My health is better than it has been for several years. If all women would take it they would escape untold pain and misery at this time of life.'—Mrs. ALICE KIRLIN, 368 W. Mill St., Circleville, Ohio.

The Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. At such times women may rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Practical Blouse

Photographed by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

No pins, no buttons, no hooks and eyes are needed to adjust this little silk waist. You merely slip the arms into the sleeves, cross the fronts, bring ties around to side, and "there you are." The great popularity of this blouse has grown from its easy adjustment and from the fact that it requires so little packing for the week-end trip.

APPROPRIATE FOR THE NECK BEST COLOR FOR CURTAINS

Pretty Things That Have Been Given
the Sanction of Best-Dressed Parisian Women.

The jabots, plagues and rabats are more important than ever in the decoration of separate blouses and bodies of one-piece frocks. Here are some notes taken at a showing in one of the well-known lingerie shops not far from Paquin's.

The larger the better. This seems to be the rule for fashioning frills of either lace or linen.

One-sided effects predominate. A central strip of lace, tucked material or embroidery is flanked on one side by an immense frill. Beading, eyelet embroidery, lace, heavy and fine, may be used at the line of junction, and ball fringe has made its appearance on some novelties.

Flattings of net are edged with lace motifs in heavy Oriental weaves or fine valenciennes. Sometimes, the pleated frill will be edged with two or three other frills of pleated lace. The possibilities of variety are unlimited.

Jabots or plagues are extremely wide and long. In the majority of cases they extend to the waistline and over as far as the shoulder. The shape is generally broader at the top than at the bottom.

Black buttons of satin or velvet are introduced on lace.

FOR MANY GOWNS.

Black and white is the color combination of this becoming tulle with a touch of gilt to enliven it. The hat is covered with black velvet draped on the left side and knotted in irregular loops and one long end. Around the crown a scarf of white satin is draped, the ends of this also knotted and mingling with knotted velvet on the left. Along the bottom edge of the scarf is sewed a narrow white silk fringe and around the top a narrow strip of gilt lace. This is a hat which could be worn with many costumes and be equally pretty with all, owing to its neutrality of color.

To Mothers and Others.

You can use Bucklen's Arnica Salve to cure children of eczema, rashes, teething, chafes, sores and crusts, as well as their accidental injuries—cuts, burns, bruises, etc., with perfect safety. Nothing else heals so quickly. For boils, ulcers, old running or fever sores or piles it has no equal. 25 cts at all druggists.

Strange That Gray, So Eminently Appropriate, Has Not Been More Largely Made Use Of.

In one of the popular plays of the day the woman who is artistic will get an idea well worth following as to house decoration. In one of the scenes a room is decorated with gray curtains.

Why, says the artistic woman, has she not thought of gray curtains, before? Why adhere to blue and brown, rose and white, when gray makes a frame for the outside world that is inimitable? It softens the garish brightness of an azure sky, and drapes the sad day with sympathetic harmony. Moreover, a gray tone with any room is never obtrusive, does not weary the senses, is dignified, charming and picturesque. It is, in short, a perfect choice.

Flattings made of chintz, China silk and sheeting, or the sumptuous brocade and satin, are the ideal accompaniment of the house where every color scheme is kept in low tones. The result is a habitation very soothing to the eyes and nerves and one of which nobody wears quickly.

White walls go well with gray curtains and they should be hung with engravings. Steel fenders and fire irons complete the picture. The electric light fittings match. The mahogany furniture shines and the damask and silver that deck the table at meal times are at once simple and splendid in design. Solid comfort is the motto of the home, and curtains of gray will carry out this motto.

For the Silver Mesh Bag.

On account of its durability the silver mesh bag will not go out of existence for some time to come. In fact, as there is a wide sale of them still being made, it is wise to keep them in the highest luster of which you are capable. Where there is nothing but silver in the make-up of your bag the best cleaner is a rather strong solution of ammonia and water, in which the bag can be boiled for the short space of a minute, and then shook about in it so as to dislodge every little particle of dust. You will be surprised how much dust this process will show up.

Juvenile Hairdressing

Is noticeably softer for some time back.

One of the latest ideas in children's hairdressing is the transformation of the Dutch style into a Louis XVI period.

It consists of having the cropped hair curled and falling in long ringlets, completely surrounding the head, from ear to ear, instead of being combed down straight.

The arrangement is decidedly quaint and pretty. It will be becoming to even a greater number of children than was the harsher Dutch style.

Unbecoming Earrings.

Never indulge in silver earrings—unless closely studied with colored stones, as the effect of silver against the face is unbecoming.

Don't use harsh physics. The reaction weakens the bowels, leads to chronic constipation. Get Doan's Regulax. They operate easily, tone the stomach, cure constipation.

Hives, eczema, itch or salt rheum sets you crazy. Can't bear the touch of your clothing. Doan's Ointment cures the most obstinate cases. Why suffer. All druggists sell it.

NATIONAL POLITICS

Getting Hotter—Roosevelt And Clark Win Illinois—The Situation in Maryland.

National politics are now occupying the mind of the public from the Pacific to the Atlantic, for seldom if ever, has such a campaign ever been waged by either party as is now being waged by both the Republican and Democratic parties for the nomination of President.

In the Republican ranks it looked last week as if all was over, but the shooting, for Taft seemed to be an easy winner, but the result in Illinois has changed the situation, and it now looks as though there is some life in "Teddy" yet. The sweeping victory won by Mr. Roosevelt in this State has put new life in his followers and has for the moment damped the assurance of the Taft supporters. This was evidenced by the action of the New York Convention which had been heralded far and wide as sure to send an instructed delegation for Taft to the Convention, whether or not the news from Illinois had any effect, at least the delegation was sent without positive instructions. Maine has fallen on in the Roosevelt columns and it looks as though he would get his share of the New England delegates. The great battle in Pennsylvania today may be the deciding one in the Republican fight for if Roosevelt wins there as he did in Illinois he will come pretty close to getting the nomination. If on the other hand he loses by an overwhelming vote it will come close to finishing him up. Taft has the support of the solid Republican organization in this State led by United States Senator Boies Penrose, and on this support his followers are basing their prediction of his success. It looks however as though Mr. Taft will not have everything his way in this State however, and Roosevelt will get a fair proportion of the delegates even if he does not sweep the State in a landslide as he did in Illinois.

CONFESSED KILLING MAN

Who Is Alive—Preacher in Prison Three Years As Murderer.

The fallibility of court, the unreliability of circumstantial evidence and the depravity of perjured witnesses all figure with peculiar force in a court drama which had its denouement at Suffolk, Va., the first day of this month.

A man for whom murder another man already had served three years in prison on an eighteen year sentence suddenly appeared and had his identity clearly established by reliable witnesses. Both principals are preachers and both are negroes.

Rev. Ernest Lyons confessed to the murder of Rev. James Larry Smith, the man who apparently sprang from the tomb to face those who had sent Lyons to prison. The reason for the confession was disclosed by the County Clerk George E. Bunting, who was a neighbor of Lyons at Reid's Ferry, and knew him well. Lyons did not confess until after his conviction. He told Mr. Bunting before being taken to prison that his confession was a fabrication, but that he made it in a spirit of revenge, falsely acknowledging that he had killed Smith but implicating others whom he accused of trying to swear away his life.

where he won against the regular organization.

Clark's victory in Illinois was a great disappointment to the friends of Mr. Wilson, although it was recognized that the Keats-Harrison alliance in that State which was supporting Clark had control of the situation. As it stands at present the Democratic situation is nearly as badly mixed as the Republican without however the bitter feeling existing between the supporters of the various candidates as appears to exist between the followers of President Taft and Mr. Roosevelt. Wilson is in the lead with Clark probably a close second, while Mr. Harmon's boom seems to have the life taken out of it. Mr. Underwood is making an aggressive fight and may have to be reckoned with before the fight is over.

Maryland!

While the supporters of Mr. Roosevelt seem to be very optimistic in this State, yet it looks as though Mr. Taft will have an easy victory here. Mr. Roosevelt, however, is given credit for much strength in Western Maryland, and is supposed to be fairly strong in Baltimore City. Mr. Taft has the support of the regular Republican organization both in the State and in this County. Wicomico County can safely be put down in the Taft column, and probably most if not all of the Eastern Shore will be found in the same place.

While as far as the public knows the Democratic organization of Maryland has not taken sides it begins to look as though the fight here will be between Wilson and Clark, with the with the organization for the most part supporting Mr. Clark. The declaration of Mr. Marbury, Governor Crothers and others who were with Senator Lee in the last primary fight for Governor for Mr. Wilson makes it look as though the same fight as took place last year in this State may be repeated if the regular organization finally decides to support Mr. Clark. The alignments in a number of instances may be different, as Governor Wilson has a number of admirers in the ranks of those who last year threw their support to Senator Gorman. It will be very interesting to watch developments in this County if this division on the Presidency should occur in the State.

At present it is not believed that the Wicomico leaders have actively given their support to anyone at present although there are plenty of indications that some of them are trying to find out how Mr. Clark stands with the people. This feeling is at present found only among those who usually attempt to influence the voters of the various districts and has not been disseminated very widely among the voters themselves. It is strange to see some men who a few weeks ago were strongly urging Mr. Wilson, apparently lukewarm today and some even talking Mr. Clark as their choice.

Of course the decision of the leaders in this County will be of great influence in deciding Wicomico's vote and if all together they may succeed in carrying this County for the man of their choice over Mr. Wilson although it is generally believed that if left to decide the matter themselves Mr. Wilson would win here in a walk. If the organization should split on this question, as they have on others, those starting behind Mr. Wilson will probably win. Developments may be expected pretty soon here and it will be very interesting to watch the line up.

DR. BOWERS PRESIDENT

Not Election in Methodist Protestant Conference At Laurel—Four Ballots Necessary—Rev. Dr. Graham Ran Strong.

Four ballots were required to elect Rev. Dr. John S. Bowers, the pastor of All Saints Church, Baltimore, president of the Maryland Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church which held its first meeting of the eighty-fourth session at Laurel, Del., on Wednesday.

It was declared by some of the oldest conference members to be the hottest contest in their memory, and it was not until the third ballot that the insurgent forces, led by Rev. Dr. T. H. Lewis, were broken. Rev. W. R. Graham, pastor of the Salisbury, Maryland, Church, was their candidate. Once it was seen that he was losing ground, many of the members who had only been kept in line by the forceful campaign waged by Dr. Lewis swung to Dr. Bowers, and on the fourth ballot he led Dr. Graham by seventeen votes, having then, however, only two more than were necessary to election.

Insurgents Divide Regulars.

In a determined effort to put their ticket through, the insurgent forces managed to keep the regular forces split among several candidates. Even the announcement by Dr. Phillips that he was not a candidate failed to change them, only one vote being lost by him on the fourth ballot.

Dr. Bowers, who looks much like President Taft, was then escorted to the rostrum.

For the last time, Rev. Dr. John M. Sheridan presided. For five years he has been president of the Conference, but he retires this year, by the time limit. The secretary's report and the announcement of standing committees were listened to in a perfunctory manner. Everybody was on edge for the announcement of the balloting for president. The crack of the president's gavel at the conclusion of the reports brought an instant silence over the auditorium.

As To Time Limit.

"Are you ready to ballot for president?" asked Dr. Sheridan. Immediately the question was asked whether the three year limit that a previous conference suggested should be placed on the time a president could serve would go into effect with this election.

The parliamentarians of the conference, Rev. Dr. Thomas H. Lewis and Rev. Dr. F. T. Little, took issue with the ruling of President Sheridan, contending the previous action was merely an expression of opinion and not binding. It was finally decided that the conference could choose whatever limit under five years it saw fit. Due to the keenness of the contest, it was moved that the roll be called and the men come to the altar and deposit their ballots.

As the ballots were read it was seen that the clever engineering of Dr. Lewis, who was backing Dr. Graham against Dr. Bowers had succeeded in splitting the opposition ticket. It was freely contended by some of the supporters of Dr. Bowers that Dr. Phillips and Dr. Haddaway had been brought into the contest merely for the purpose of splitting the Bowers contingent.

Eastern Shore For Graham.

The Eastern shoremen were almost solidly for Dr. Graham, and the clever management of Dr. Lewis in splitting the ticket caused the first ballot to be ineffective. There were seven candidates on the first ballot, but even with this lead Dr. Graham ran three behind Dr. Bowers who received 108 of the 227 votes cast.

On the second ballot there were but three candidates. Dr. Bowers pulled up eight votes, there being 237 ballots cast with 114 necessary to elect. Dr. Bowers got 111, Dr. Graham 104 and Dr. Phillips 12.

The third ballot showed that the tide had begun to turn. Dr. Bowers held his own and gathered an additional vote. Dr. Graham fell back two. The Phillips contingent stood put. It looked like a deadlock, when, at the suggestion of a delegate Dr. Phillips reiterated his announcement, that he was not a candidate. This had but little effect as only one man changed from Dr. Phillips on the fourth ballot, in which 223 votes were cast. Dr. Bowers received 114, Dr. Graham falling back to 97.

Then Dr. Bowers Won.

Dr. Bowers was declared elected by Dr. Sheridan, who in stepping from the chair paid a final tribute to the support given him by the conference and brought the same support for Dr. Bowers.

As the retiring president turned to Dr. Bowers with the gavel Dr. Bowers was given a rousing welcome by the conference. "I come to you not as a stranger," said he, "for 31 years ago I presented myself to you, trusting to the great Head of the Church for that wisdom which comes from Him. I promise to do my best."

No less than three hundred men were being taken away from the road. No less than three hundred men were being taken away from the road.

All this is now swept away. Prospects of starting again resulted in a stagnation of the road and its effect is being felt by the business places of the town. General duPont was driven to stop work on his road account of the trouble given by land owners along the route. Lawyers who put in all kinds of suits against him and gave him no rest. As a result he has quit the road. Delaware will likely lose this piece of public improvement. A further result Worcester county likely to lose the $75,000 appropriation by the last Legislature to build a road from Berlin to connect with the road from Salisbury to the Potomac. The road line, as there will be no road build this road now if the road is abandoned.

Resolutions of Respect

Pawnee Tribe No. 104, Improvement of Red Men, Hebron, Md., 11th St., Plant Moos, G. E. D. 421.

Whereas, It has pleased the Great Spirit to remove from our midst our beloved Brother W. Dow Mills to the Happy Hunting Grounds above.

Whereas, He was one of our beloved Brothers, always faithful to his Tribe, and we had learned to love him, we, as a tribe, extend to his parents and friends our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement. We hope that their loss may be his gain. While we mourn his loss, we bow in submission to the will of the Great Spirit.

Resolved, That these resolutions be printed in each of our county papers and one be given to the parents and also written upon the minutes of our Tribe.

resting president that he be exempted to attend the funeral of his brother in law. This was granted.

Following the heated contest for president, Rev. Dr. W. S. Phillips, of Newark, N. J., who for eleven years has acted as secretary of the conference was unanimously re-elected.

J. S. Strangh Assistant.

To shut off any further election the conference adjourned. Immediately upon his election Dr. Phillips named Rev. J. S. Strangh, pastor of Broadway Church, Baltimore, as his first assistant. Mr. Strangh has served in that capacity ever since Dr. Phillips was first elected.

In no gentle terms, Dr. Sheridan referred to the assassination of the Local Option bill by the Maryland Legislature in his report as the morning service. He declared that the alliance of the liquor interests with the politicians of Baltimore had deprived the Maryland people of their rights.

The report showed that 30 charges had increased their business salaries in the last year. Rev. L. F. Warner, Washington, Md., preached the convention sermon. A public meeting in the evening of the Men and Religion was held at the Washington Hotel.

LOCAL OPTION BILL KILLED

Senate Amends To Exempt Wet Territory—
Anderson-Price Controversy.

The Local Option Bill was killed during the last day of the session in the Senate by a vote of 13 in favor of an amendment exempting Baltimore City and all wet Counties from the provisions of the bill to a vote of 19 in favor of passing the bill was amended in the House. As this amendment made the bill applicable to only those Counties already dry, it meant the defeat of the measure. The House refused to concur in the Amendment and the bill was finally put to sleep without any conference on the matter. Senator Price of this County, who voted in favor of the amendment in the Senate exempting Baltimore City and the other wet territory was slugged out by Superintendent Anderson as one of the "shining lights" who were later to feel the weight of the Anti-Saloon people's vengeance. Senator Price made a very hot rejoinder to Mr. Anderson from the floor of Senate, and said something in mighty plain language. Mr. Anderson in reply to this issued at once the following challenge:

Hon. Jesse D. Price, President of the Senate, Salisbury, Md.; Annapolis, Md.; the Rennett, Baltimore, Md.
Dear Sir—Twice from the shelter of protection of the floor of the Senate where you could not be answered, you have raised the issue of my veracity and have sought to escape responsibility for your share in the defeat of the local option bill by putting the blame on me. You seem to have construed my refusal to get excited as fear or inability to back up my statements. It may interest you to learn that I have simply waited with patience, encouraging you meantime, for you to get in deep enough so you could not get out gracefully.

According to the Baltimore Sun of this morning, you said yesterday: "I am willing to measure swords with him in the political arena and let the people be the final judges between us." I now, therefore, challenge you to a joint discussion at Salisbury, in your own County of Wicomico, to be held in the open air if the weather permits; if not, then to be in the largest auditorium in the city.

At such time I will undertake to establish to the satisfaction of your constituents:

1. That your people were justified in expecting you to support the local option bill.

2. That your individual vote amended the life out of a meritorious State wide local option bill and that your attempt to escape responsibility by blaming me for the House amendment is a flimsy subterfuge.

3. That this bill would have become law if you had used the legislative power of your social position in its behalf.

4. That you appointed a hostile temperance committee in the Senate and for weeks retarded our effort to get action on the original bill.

5. That you were supported for election as President of the Senate by the Senators controlled by the Preston-Mahon city liquor ring, and that you have repaid them by your actions.

6. That your action in lining up with the liquor interests shows such flagrant disregard of the good opinion of the temperance people of your County as to prove your unfitness to further represent them.

While I am not responsible for some man's recollection of part of a conversation, I will also undertake to make good on and reconcile every statement for which I am responsible, will read all instead of scraps of some letters and let in some light on some other things including the question as to your influence upon efforts to keep the bill from passing the House.

As I shall be absent during the month of May and the latter part of April in attendance upon the Methodist Episcopal General Conference and will be busy prior to that time in preparing to leave my work and as I assume that you are in no special hurry, I propose that this discussion be held at some time satisfactory to yourself—except Sunday—between June 15 and July 15 of this year.

I propose further that we shall each take an hour's time and that in accordance with ordinary rules governing discussion, I shall be privileged, having the burden of proof, to use 20 minutes of my time in rebuttal.

If you do not accept this challenge I shall come into your County anyhow at my convenience and undertake to establish these things.

Yours respectfully,
WILLIAM H. ANDERSON,
Superintendent Anti-Saloon League of Maryland.

Senator Price has not made any reply as yet to this, but his friends hardly think he will accept this offer.

ADVERTISED FOR MAN

To Thrash Husband—Wife's $10 Reward
Attracted Husky Youth Who Punished Her Violent Spouse.

Seattle, Wash., March 30.—"Wanted—A man to thrash wife-beater. Ten dollars reward. Easy work."

Mrs. R. B. Gillies, 116 Rob Hill Avenue.

In answer to this advertisement eight men applied. One, a husky youth, said it would be a pleasure to do the work for $5. Mrs. Gillies engaged him.

When Robert Bent Gillies, aged 35, formerly a water front broker, returned home late in the afternoon, Mrs. Gillies and the youth were waiting. Mrs. Gillies, in telling of the affair, said the young man's work was so excellent that she compelled him to take the full $10 fee.

The couple have been married 10 years. Mrs. Gillies had complained to the Mayor Chief of Police Prosecuting Attorney without satisfactory results she said.

Mrs. Martha A. Warren.

Mrs. Martha Adaline Warren, widow of the late John S. Warren, passed in to the Great Beyond March 23, 1913.

Deceased was born October 17, 1831, married January 30, 1855. Thus passed from earth a fine gentlewoman of the olden times. A noble Christian, a devoted wife and mother, kindly, courteous to all with whom she came in contact, and possessed of a large and generous hospitality that never faltered or failed even unto the last. Blind for thirteen years none of us will forget the patient, pathetic figure and pale face that always turned so eagerly toward whoever might be speaking.

She delighted in having the Bible read to her, never tiring of the 33rd Psalm and 61st Chapter of Isaiah. And now she has found the "green pastures," "beauty for ashes," and the "garment of praise for the Spirit of heaviness."

Three sons survive and the one devoted daughter, whose life is left so lonely and whose hands have had their most beloved work taken from them. To her especially, our hearts go out in fullest sympathy and love and above and over all is the loving care and comfort of the dear Father of us all.

Funeral services were conducted at her late home March 27th by her pastor, Elder Poulton and interment was at Evergreen Cemetery. Her remains were followed to the grave by many relatives and friends and acquaintances.

The public is invited to all of these services. One of the purposes of the meetings is to let the people know what the Baptists believe.

Rev. B. G. Parker is now on a trip to Philadelphia and New Jersey, where he will visit his son and his brother, to see if the change for a few days will not help him to regain his strength after his annoying sickness for the last few weeks. His pulpit will be filled on Sunday.

Mr. W. Branch Wainwright.

Mr. W. Branch Wainwright, son of Mrs. Nellie Wainwright, of Seaford, died suddenly in Mifflinsburg, Pa., Thursday. His remains were taken to Seaford, Del., and interred Sunday. Mr. Wainwright was to have been married on April 15, invitations having already been sent out. Deceased was well known in Salisbury where he was for a time connected with the Diamond State Telephone Company as District Manager. He had a host of friends here who regret his untimely death.

THE SANATORIUM BILL

Passes—Will Establish A Tuberculosis Sanatorium in Wicomico.

Senator Price's bill to appropriate the sum of $50,000.00 to establish a State Sanatorium for advanced cases of tuberculosis in Wicomico County passed both houses and is now ready for the signature of the Governor.

The bill carries an appropriation of $15,000.00 for the purchase of the Pine Bluff Sanatorium $5,000. for additional buildings and $5,000.00 a year for two years for maintenance of the institution.

This is to be an experimental House of Detention for the Eastern Shore or advanced cases of consumption, and if it proves to be satisfactory, as is expected it will, then it is certain that there will be several more established on the Shore.

The Commission having in charge the purchase of the property and the erection of the buildings is named in the bill, consisting of Dr. William H. Welch of Johns Hopkins University, Hon. James E. Hillebrand, Rev. T. E. Martindale, Hon. John Walter Smith, Dr. Brice W. Goldsborough, Dr. McFadden Dick, Hon. H. L. D. Stanford, William M. Cooper and Joseph L. Bailey. If the Governor signs the bill the act will become a law at once.

Manokin Church Improved.

For several weeks past Manokin Presbyterian Church, Princess Anne, has been undergoing extensive repairs and improvements. These improvements, including a new carpet, will amount to about $1,000. The walls of the church have been made weather-proof and refrescoed, the old ornamental work in gilt and color disappearing and being replaced with a single color which harmonizes well with the dark furniture and wood trimmings. All wood work has been retouched and made to resemble walnut.

The decorative work was under the direction of Elwood Sauder, of Wilmington, Del.

Manokin church of Princess Anne is one of the oldest Presbyterian Church organizations in the country. According to reliable tradition, it shares with the Rehoboth, Snow Hill, Pitts Creek and Wicomico churches the honor of having been organized about 1683 by the Rev. Francis Makemie, the recognized founder of organized Presbyterianism in America.

Religious services appear to have been held "in the Manokin" as early as 1673 and that a meeting-house has been in use as early as 1680.

Cape Charles Railroad.

The Cape Charles Railroad, a portion of the N. Y., P. and N. system, has been extended from Townsend to Kiptopeke, a distance of three and one half miles. Work was begun on this extension about the first of the year. Part of the work was done by J. McManus, who built the new part of the yard at Cape Charles, and the remainder was done by the company's men. The extended part of the road was open for business on Monday of last week. A new passenger and freight station was built at Kiptopeke, which is only a short distance from the point at Cape Charles. Three new freight sidings were put in to take care of the potatoes and other business for the coming season. The Cape Charles railroad runs through the best farming and trucking region on the peninsula, land easily bringing $150 and $200 an acre, and section is well developed and thickly settled. Immense crops of Irish potatoes, 20 to 40 carloads a day being shipped last year from a little road only a fraction over a mile long.

BALTIMORE'S BEST STORE
Hochschild, Kohn & Co.
HOWARD AND LEXINGTON

THE STORE WHERE EVERY PURCHASE Must BE SATISFACTORY

One of the foundation principles of the Hochschild, Kohn & Co. Store, laid down nearly fifteen years ago, was this: "Every article sold in this store must give satisfaction; if it does not, the purchaser is to receive a new article, or the purchase money."

This principle has been practised every business day since November 15, 1897—and it has helped to make this business grow as no retail business in Baltimore ever grew.

Added to this security, every purchaser has the knowledge, born of experience, that Hochschild, Kohn & Co. merchandise is the best possible value for the money.

And added to this, is the knowledge that Hochschild, Kohn & Co. stocks offer wider variety, and are selected with the best of taste and judgment.

When you come to Baltimore for your spring shopping, there's just one logical place to visit—the Hochschild, Kohn & Co. Store.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because of its deceptive nature. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure, or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust, or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Kidney troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and seething pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

IN erecting a monument, one should remember that it is not

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

My Lady of the North.
I walked the next mile thoughtfully, pondering over those vague hopes and plans with which Captain optimism had inspired me. Suddenly these sounded behind me the thud of hoofs, while I heard a merry peal of laughter, accompanied by gay exchange of words. I drew aside, leading my horse into a small thicket beside the road to permit the cavaliers
to pass. It was a group of perhaps a dozen—three or four Federal officers,
the remainder ladies, whose bright dresses and smiling faces made a most winsome sight. They glanced curiously aside at me as they galloped past. But none paused, and I merely glanced at them with vague interest,
my thoughts elsewhere. Suddenly a horse seemed to draw back from out of the center of the fast disappearing party.

I had led my limping horse out into the road once more to resume my journey, paying scarcely the slightest attention to what was taking place,
for my head was again throbbing to the hot pulse of the sun. The party of strangers rode away into the enveloping dust cloud, and I had forgotten them, when, a low, sweet voice spoke close beside me: "Captain Wayne, I know you cannot have forgotten me."

She was leaning down from the saddle, and as I glanced eagerly up into her dear eyes they were swimming with tears.

"Forgotten! Never for one moment," I exclaimed; "yet I failed to perceive your presence until you spoke."

"You appeared deeply buried in thought as we rode by, but I could not leave you without a word when I knew you must feel so bad. Oh, but you, Captain Wayne, you have youth

"Hey, There, You Gray-Back!" He shouted.

and love to inspire you—for your mother yet lives. Truly it makes my heart throbs to think of the upbuilding
which awaits you men of the South.
It is through such as you—soldiers trained by stern duty—that these desolated states are destined to rise above the ashes of war into a greatness never before equaled. I feel that now, in this supreme hour of sacrifice, the men and women of the South are to exhibit before the world
a courage greater than that of the battleground. It is to be the marvel of the nation, and the thought and pride
of it should make you strong."

"It may indeed be so; I can but believe it, as the prospect of your life. I might even find courage to do my part in this redemption were you ever at hand to inspire me."

She laughed gently. "I am not a Virginia, Captain Wayne, but a most loyal daughter of the North; yet if I
so inspire you by my mere words,
surely it is not so far to my home
but you might journey there to listen to my further words of wisdom."

"I have not forgotten the permission already granted me, and it is a temptation not easily cast aside. You return North soon?"

"Within a week."

I hardly knew what prompted me
to voice my next question—Fate, perhaps, weary of being so long mocked
—for I felt small interest in her probable answer.

"Do you expect your husband's release from that time?"

She gave a quick start of surprise,
drawing in her breath as though suddenly choked. Then the rich color overspread her face. "My husband?"
she ejaculated in voice barely audible, "my husband? Surely you cannot mean Major Brennan?"

"But I certainly do," I said, wondering what might be wrong. "Whom else could I mean?"

"And you thought that?" she asked incredulously. "Why, how could you?"

"How should I have thought otherwise?" I exclaimed, my eyes eagerly searching her downcast face. "Why, Caton told me it was so the night I was before Sheridan; he confirmed it again in conversation less than an hour ago. Colgate, my Lieutenant,
who met you in a Baltimore hospital,
referred to him the same way. If I have been deceived through all these months, surely everything and everybody conspired to that end—you bore
the same name; you told me plainly
you were married; you wore a wedding-ring; you resided while at camp
in his quarters; you called each other Frank and Edith. From first to last not one word, never has been spoken
by any one to cause me to doubt that you were his wife."

"I recall starting to explain all this
to you once," she said, striving vainly to appear at ease. "It was when we were interrupted by the sudden coming upon us of Mr. and Mrs. Bungay.
Yet I supposed you knew that you would have learned the facts from others. The last time we were together I told you I did not wholly understand you. It is no wonder, when you thought that of me."

"I am going to tell you my story,
Captain Wayne. It is not a pleasant task under these circumstances, yet one I owe you as well as myself. This may prove our last meeting, and we must not part under the shadow of a mistake, however innocently it may have originated. I am the only child of Edwin Adams, a manufacturer, of Stonington, Connecticut. My father was for several terms a member of Congress from that State. As the death of my mother occurred when I was but five years old, all my father's love was lavished upon me, and I grew up surrounded by every advantage which abundant means and high social position could supply. During all those earlier years my playmate
and most intimate companion was Charles Brennan, a younger brother of the Major, and the son of Judge David Brennan of the State Supreme Court.
As we grew older his friendship for me ripened into love, a feeling which I found it impossible to return. I liked him greatly, valued him most highly,
yet experienced no desire for closer relationship. My position was rendered the more difficult as it had long been the dream of the heads of both houses that our two families, with their contingent estates, should be thus united, and constant urging tried my decision severely. Nor would Charles Brennan give up hope. When he was twenty and I barely seventeen,
a most serious accident occurred—a runaway—in which Charles heroically preserved my life, but himself received injuries, from which death in a short time was inevitable. In those last lingering days of suffering, but one hope, one ambition, seemed to possess his mind—the desire to make me his wife, and leave me the fortune which was his through the will of his mother. I cannot explain to you, Captain Wayne, the struggle I passed through, seeking to do what was right and best; but finally, moved by his sympathy, eager to soothe his final hours of suffering, and urged by my father, I consented to gratify his wish,
and we were united in marriage while he was on his deathbed. Two days later he passed away."

She paused, her voice faltering, her eyes moist with unshed tears. Scarce knowing it, my hand, against hers,
where it rested against the saddle.
"His brother," she paused slowly,
"now Major Brennan, but at that time
a prosperous banker in Hartford, a man nearly double the age of Charles,
was named as administrator of the estate, to retain its management until
I should attain the age of twenty-one.
Less than a year later my father also died. The final settlement of his estate was likewise entrusted to Frank Brennan, and he was made my guardian.
Charles naturally became a resident of the Brennan household, upon the same standing as a daughter, being legally a ward of my husband's brother. Major Brennan's age, and his thoughtful kindness to me, won my respect, and I gradually came to look upon him almost as an elder brother, turning to him in every time of trouble for encouragement and help. It was the necessity of our business relation which first compelled me to come South and join Major Brennan in camp; as he was unable to obtain leave of absence, I was obliged to make the trip. Not until that time, Captain Wayne—indeed, not until after our experience
at Mountain View—did I fully realize that Major Brennan looked upon me otherwise than as a guardian upon his ward. The awakening period passed me greatly, especially as I was unable to carry out any obligations
made by his firm."

obliged to disappoint him deeply; yet I seek to retain his friendship, for my memory of his long kindness must ever abide. I am sure you will understand, and not consider me unwomanly in thus making you a confidant."

"I can never be sufficiently grateful that you have thus trusted me," I said with an earnestness that caused her to lower her questioning eyes. "It has been a strange misunderstanding between us, Mrs. Brennan, but your words have brought a new hope to one disheartened Confederate soldier.
I must be content with hope, yet I am rich compared with thousands of others; infinitely rich in comparison with what I dreamed myself an hour ago."

I held out my hand. "There will come a day when I shall answer your invitation to the North."

"You are on your way home?"

"Yes; to take a fresh hold upon life, trusting that sometime in the early future I may feel worthy to come to you."

"Worthy?" she echoed the word, a touch of scorn in her voice, her eyes dark with feeling. "Worthy? Captain Wayne, I sometimes think you the most unselfish man I ever knew.
Must the sacrifices, then, always be made by you? Can you not conceive it possible that I also might like to yield up something? Is it possible you deem me a woman to whom money is a god?"

"No," I said, my heart bounding to the scarce hidden meaning of her impulsive words, "nor have the sacrifices always been mine; you were once my prisoner."

She bent down, her very soul in her eyes, and rested one white hand upon my shoulder. For an instant we read each other's heart in silence, then, shyly she said, "I am still your prisoner."

THE END.

Mr. Wise—Sounds fishy.

Deep Mourning.
Before a house where a colored man had died a small darky was standing erect at one side of the door.
It was about time for the services to begin, and the parson appeared from within and said to the darky: "De services am about to begin. Ain't you a swine in?"

"Is would if I could, parson," answered the little negro, "but y's see I's de crappe."—Everybody's.

Freedom.
"How well Mrs. Burlison is looking since her return from Reno."

"Yes, she says she finds it a splendid relief to be free."

"But she is going to be married again next month."

"Oh, well, I suppose she agrees with those students who insist that too much freedom leads to disaster."

When the Horse Has Gone.
They were reviving Shakespeare in 1900.

The play was "Richard III."
"A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse!" bellowed the tragedian.
And just then a small boy in the audience near the stage offered a clear-voiced interruption.

"Pa," he shrilly asked, "what's a horse?"

Maybe.

The Trip To The Moon A Large Success.

The Trip to the Moon, given in the Opera House this week under the auspices of the Lady Board of Managers of the Peninsula General Hospital, was an unqualified success from the standpoint of pleasing the audience and was largely attended each of the three nights staged. The scene was laid on the Planet Mars, but as far as the plot was concerned (if a real one could be found) it was entirely forgotten or covered by the other features of the play. The parts were all well taken and the many fantastic details well carried out.

This play was given in order to help the Hospital and should have given a fair sum to this deserving institution, but it is rumored, that the Committee was caught in signing a contract that by its terms gave most, if not all the proceeds, to the promoters and trainers of the play. Many of the people of the town who worked to make this play a success are very indignant over it as they were giving their time and work in order to help the Hospital, and naturally feel that a fair deal has not been given the Board of Lady Managers in this matter.

All other plays given here were on the basis of half and half and dealing with those who had charge has been eminently satisfactory—this being the first time a misunderstanding has arisen. Those who stage and promote plays and entertainments of this character should remember that the purpose for which the money is to be used has a great deal to do with the financial success of the undertaking, and that contracts and settlements should be made on as liberal a basis as possible.

DR. DRYSDUST AND DR. UPTODATE

WE all remember the preacher of the good old days who went up to twenty-fifth and who seldom got nearer to the present day than Moses. That type of minister is passing out.

OF RECENT YEARS THE PASTOR IS TALKING OF PRESENT DAY PROBLEMS AND HELPING HIS FLOCK SOLVE THE QUESTIONS THAT CONFRONT THE WORLD NOW.

HE READS THE PAPERS. He knows what is going on. He sees the finger of the divine writing history in our own time. He finds inspiration in world movements.

HE DOES NOT READ HIS BIBLE LESS, BUT HIS NEWSPAPER MORE, THAN DID THE PREACHER OF THE OLD SCHOOL.

The press can help the pulpit; the pulpit in turn can help the press, and both can help you. TAKE THE HOME PAPER.

MARRIAGE.

Like blude, like gude, like age. Mak' the happy marriage. —Scottish Proverb.

To wed unequally is to suffer equally. —Anonymous.

Let me not to the marriage of true minds Admit impediments. —Shakespeare.

Marriage and hanging go by destiny. Matches are made in heaven. —Robert Burton.

WASHINGTON.

Soldier and statesman, rarest union. High poised example of great duties done. Simply as breathing, a world's honors worn. As life's indifferent gifts to all men born: / Dumb for himself, unless it were to God, Or for his barefoot soldiers eloquent. Trampling the snow to coral where they trod, Held by his awe in hollow eyed content; Modest, yet firm as nature's self: unblamed. Saved by the men his nobler temper shamed; Not honored then or now because he wooed The popular voice, but that he still withheld; Broad minded, higher souled, there is but one Who was all this and ours and all men's—Washington. —Lowell.

APOTHEGMS OF A MILLIONAIRE.

Men must work out their own industrial salvation instead of trusting to politicians to do it for them.

The conduct of business in the long run is not a mere scramble for the best place at the trough. Whenever this country has faltered or stood still it has been through reliance upon politicians.

When they tell you that prosperity may be created and maintained by tariffs and other artificial means.

We need honesty enough to live within our means.

We need to understand that the future of men and commonwealths is created out of character and intelligent effort and not by anything which any political agency can accomplish. —James J. Hill.

MORMONISM.

The people of the east are all wrong in supposing that the Mormon polygamy was a concession to the lust of mankind. It was a sacred tenet of a religious faith, so practiced and so believed in. The problem in Utah is in consequence one to be dealt with in sympathy and through the sharing of light and knowledge and not through bitter assaults. The charges that young girls are now or have ever been imported from England to become plural wives is a cruel slander. It has been fully investigated, and all investigators agree that those young women who have become plural wives since the Mormon agreement to cease polygamous marriages are themselves the daughters of plural wives, and they are but living their mothers' religion. Each one knew fully what she was doing. —Right Rev. F. S. Spalding, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Utah.

HAPPINESS A DUTY.

There is no duty we so much underrate as that of being happy. By being happy we sow anonymous benefits upon the world which remain unknown even to ourselves or when they are disclosed surprise nobody so much as the benefactor. A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted. We need not care whether they could prove the forty-seventh proposition. They do a better thing than that—they practically demonstrate the great theorem of the livableness of life. —Robert Louis Stevenson.

AMBITION.

The substance of the ambitious is merely the shadow of a dream. —Shakespeare.

Ambition and love are the wings to great deeds. —Goethe.

Thrice happy, life that's from ambition free! —Allan Ramsay.

Let us not strive to rise too high, that we may not fall too low. —Schiller.

Almost A Miracle.

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any land, according to W. B. Hootsclaw, Okemond, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for Coughs and Colds with excellent results. It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at All Drugists."

"Suffered day and night the tortments of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. The result was lasting." —Hon. John H. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

RECALL OF JUDGES.

A sovereign people which declares that all men have certain inalienable rights and imposes upon itself the great impersonal rules of conduct deemed necessary for the preservation of those rights and at the same time declares that it will disregard those rules whenever, in any particular case, it is the wish of a majority of its voters to do so establishes as complete a contradiction to the fundamental principles of our government as it is possible to conceive. It abandons absolutely the conception of a justice which is above majorities, of a right in the weak which the strong are bound to respect. It denies the vital truth taught by religion and realized in the hard experience of mankind and which has inspired every constitution America has produced and every great declaration for human freedom since Magna Charta—the truth that human nature needs to distrust its own impulses and passions and to establish for its own control the restraining and guiding influence of declared principles of action. —Ellhu Root.

TRUTH.

Use the commentary of a severe friend rather than the gloss of a sweet lipped flatterer. There is more profit in a distasteful truth than deceitful sweetness. —Quarles.

Whoever is a genuine follower of truth keeps his eye steady upon his guide, indifferent whether he is led, provided that she is the leader. —Burke.

Whoever may discern true ends will grow pure enough To love them, brave enough to strive for them And strong enough to reach them, though the road be rough. —E. B. Browning.

WORK.

The time is never lost that is devoted to work. —Simerson.

The result tests the work. —Washington.

A work well begun is half ended. —Plato.

Work first and then rest. —Ruskin.

At the workman's house hunger looks in, but does not enter. —Franklin.

A skillful mechanic is a good pilgrim. —Addison.

Labor, if it were not necessary to the existence, would be indispensable to the happiness of man. —Johnson.

All work, even cotton spinning, is noble. Work alone is noble. —Carlyle.

Labor conquers all things. —Vergil.

To labor is the lot of man below. —Homer.

The three things most difficult are to keep a secret, to forget an injury and to make good use of labor. —Chilo.

Labor is preferable to idleness, as brightness is to rust. —Plato.

Time mispent is not lived, but lost. —Fuller.

FUTURE OUTLOOK GOOD

On Mardela Circuit—Rev. Mr. Hardesty Encouraged At The Start.

Mardela Circuit consists of three beautiful churches, one at Spring Grove one at Mardela and one at Mills Chapel, with a membership of about 100. These churches are now free from debt and though small, are model churches. We now have three well organized Sunday Schools with an enrollment of scholars and teachers of 130. All of the officers and most of the teachers in the schools are young, progressive men and women, and I am glad to say they are Christians which means very much to the church and to Methodism on this charge. The pastor being moved at the last session of the Conference from the people he had served for six years does not feel that he has been afflicted by the removal, for a more cordial reception we have never received. We feel that we are back home for we served these same people a short time six years ago.

The attendance at the public services at all of these churches has been unusually large. There were some present at Mills Chapel on last Sunday who had not been in the church for a year and others who had dropped out. Not only has the attendance been large but unusual interest has been manifested. We have also reorganized our prayer and class meeting, which had almost dropped out. We hope soon to have all of the departments of the church organized and at work and with our faithful band of Christian men and women and friends we are hoping and praying with God's help that this year we shall be able to lift Mardela Charge reports out of the wilderness and set her upon the top of the mountain.

Services at all of the churches on next Sunday as announced.
Rev. J. W. Hardesty.

1595 GO DOWN IN

One Of The Worst Sea Disasters Ever Known—740 Saved—Fearful And Appalling Scenes.

The Carpathia, with the 740 survivors of the Titanic, docked in New York at 9:35 o'clock Thursday night 1595 are reported lost.

The total number of persons taken off the giant liner was 745 but two died just after getting into a boat, and four others expired later, the bodies being consigned to the waves.

Eyewitnesses say that when the Titanic struck the iceberg the night was clear and starlit, without a moon and that the lookout reported the fatal berg, but not in time to avoid it.

First stories of the survivors pieced together, though told in disjointed hysterical fashion, paints a picture of the awful Titanic calamity full of horror, fear, panic and confusion. Hundreds were asleep in their beds, scores were sitting at the tables in the card rooms, smoking rooms and saloons when the Titanic hit the iceberg with a terrific shock that sent them hurling across their cabins.

Stunned by the terrific impact the dazed passengers, many of them half clad, rushed from their staterooms into the main saloon amid the crash of upstairing steel reading of plates and shattering of glasses while the boom of falling pinnacles, of ice upon the broken deck of the great vessel added to the horror.

In the utmost confusion, men, women and children, rushed about the saloon and cabins of the great steamship as though driven out of their senses. No one knew what had happened and everyone feared that the vessel would sink before they could reach the boats.

Witnessed Appalling Sight.

In a wild, apparently unmanageable mob they poured out of the saloons to witness one of the most appalling scenes possible to conceive. Towering high above the shattered bow of the great steamship were the glittering pinnacles of the monster iceberg against which the Titanic had hurled with the force of half a hundred express trains.

For a hundred feet the bow was in a shapeless mass of bent, broken and splintered steel and iron. Cries of the injured added to the panic. A fear crazed mob of steerage passengers broke loose from the lower cabins and poured upon the deck with cries of fright.

200 Of Crew Crushed To Death.

Women and children were hurled aside in the first mad rush for the boats. Two hundred of the crew lay crushed to death in the bow of the great steamship where they had been killed as they slept.

Above all the din of the panic were the hoarse orders of the captain, repeated by the second, third and fourth officers down the list. The remnants of the crew rallied about the lifeboats and while some beat back the panic stricken passengers crowded about them others prepared to lower the boats.

Kept Back With Revolvers.

"Everybody to the boats," was the startling cry that was repeated from end to end of the Titanic. "Women and children first," was the hoarse order that went along the line of the lifeboats. "Shoot the first man who attempts to get into a boat."

Without food, without clothing and with only the clothes in which they stood when the horrible shock came the women were tossed over the rails of the lifeboats.

The band on board the Titanic went down with its mighty craft playing "Nearer, My God To Thee." Colonel John Jacob Astor refused to accept a life belt, helped a dozen women and children into lifeboats, refused to get into one himself and was seen to die.

Three men were shot to death by men who prevented them from pushing women and children out of the way to save themselves. The men who did the shooting died.

More than one hundred of the Titanic's passengers were blown up atoms by the force of the explosion of her boilers. A hundred others were maimed and tossed into the water.

Thirty Miles For Five Cents

Street car service has been started by the Chicago City Railway Company over the recently acquired lines of the Southern Traction Company, and incidentally there will be furnished what is said to be the longest street car ride in the world for 5 cents.

Cars will start at One Hundred and Nineteenth Street and Vincennes road, the southern limit of the city, and run to Howard Avenue, the northern limit, 28 miles.

If this is not long enough one may transfer at Irving Boulevard, on the north side, and ride to Danning, several miles west.

MR. W. B. MILLER FOR

State Road Commissioner—County Commissioners Ask Him To Accept—Highly Qualified.

Mr. Walter B. Miller was paid the high compliment of being waited upon by the County Commissioners of this County and asked to accept a place on the Board of State Road Commissioners. The delegation of commissioners who waited upon Mr. Miller was composed of W. M. Cooper, President, W. P. Ward and T. W. E. White, Jr.

Mr. Cooper who acted as spokesman, told Mr. Miller of the personal wishes of the members of the Board and also stated that it was their official wish as well, for him to accept at the hands of Governor Goldsborough this appointment, and based their appeal upon his well known interest in Good Roads and their confidence that if he would accept the office that politics would not be allowed to play any part in our Road building and management.

Mr. Miller, in reply thanked the Commissioners for their action and stated that he highly appreciated it because of the confidence it showed in him. That he was much interested in the Good Road movement in this State, and would be willing to do all in his power to help the cause along. He stated that he had not been tendered the place by Governor Goldsborough and was not therefore in a position to accept or reject the appointment until such a tender should be made. He however intimated that his interest in the work was so strong, that he might feel it this duty to serve if the Governor so desired, and assured the Commissioners that if he ever was a member of the Board politics would have no influence whatever in the policy of the commissioners. The action of the commissioners in this matter receives the general approval of the public and the hope is generally expressed that he will accept the appointment.

It is well known that Mr. Miller could only accept this position at a considerable sacrifice, and would only do so because of the interest he takes in seeing this work completed in a proper and efficient manner. His business training and success is a guarantee that if he accepts the affairs of Commission will be administered in an efficient business way. The Governor could not find a man in the State of Maryland better qualified to fill this position, nor one who would give it more time and attention than would Mr. Miller and it is hoped for the sake of our road system that Mr. Miller will take the appointment.

Capt. Edward Brewington.

In the death of Capt. Edward A. Brewington, of Salisbury, this community loses one of its most liked and respected citizens. About five weeks ago Capt. Brewington suffered a severe paralytic stroke and practically no hope has been felt by his family or friends since then, as it was recognized that it was only a question of how long.

Capt. Brewington was 82 years of age, and had followed the water for the greater part of his life. His long service on the Wicomico River and bay made him a familiar and well known figure in all the points touched by our ship trade. At the time of his death he was in charge of the Eaton.

Capt. Brewington was a man most everybody liked and spoke well of. He was a member of the Red Men, and also belonged to a fraternal organization in Baltimore in which he carried a $1000 insurance policy. His remains were interred in the Cemetery at Allen, Friday afternoon. He is survived by a widow, who was a Miss Georgia Clayville, before her marriage, four boys, Walter J., Roy, Paul and Glen, all of this city, three girls, Mrs. Harry T. Messick, of Allen, Md., and Misses Nina and Virginia, of this city.

A Coming Wedding.

Mrs. Josias Ringgold has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Julia Ethelinde to Mr. J. Cleveland White to take place on Thursday evening, April 25th at nine o'clock in St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, Salisbury. No cards have been issued in this city. Miss Ringgold is well known member of Salisbury's social set and one of the city's most attractive girls. She is a niece of Judge Alfred Pearce, of Chestertown. Mr. White is one of our most prominent business men and is head of the insurance firm of White & Taitt and a large canoeing operator in this county. A reception will follow the wedding at the home of Mrs. Ringgold on East Isabella Street after which Mr. and Mrs. White will leave for an extended wedding trip. They will reside in this city on their return.

Primaries Will Be Held Monday, May 6th.

Monday, May the 6th, will be the day on which the primaries will be held in Wicomico County for both the Democratic and Republican parties. Both parties will vote at the same place, but there will be different colored ballots and envelopes for each party, the Democrats using a white ballot and the Republicans a blue one. Under the law there can be no electioneering within one hundred feet of the polls and no one is allowed to hand a ballot to a voter within that distance. The envelope will be the official part of the election, the ballots being allowed outside of the booths.

The ballots will contain names of the Presidential candidates, the candidate for Congress and the names of four delegates to the State Convention which meets in Baltimore in May to select the sixteen delegates to the National Convention.

As only four delegates to the State Convention have filed their papers with the Supervisors of Elections, it will not be necessary to print their names on the official ballot and there will be no necessity of printing the name of Hon. J. Harry Ovington, candidate for Congress, as he is the only candidate of the Democratic party. The Republican tickets will contain the names of their candidates the same as the Democratic ticket.

The following names have been filed as candidates for the State Convention by the Democrats:

Hon. Jesse D. Price, Charles R. Disharoon, S. King White and S. S. Disharoon.

Conference Appointments.

The Maryland Annual Conference in session at Laurel, Del., adjourned after the appointments had been read. Those for this county are as follows:

AFTER MANY YEARS

Never Can Tell When Advertising Brings Results.

The man is not a grouchy; far from it.

He is a successful merchant on Canal street. He pays his bills, and does the right thing in other than financial matters.

But he does not know much about advertising. He advertises in nearly all the cheap dailies that are presented to him. With him advertising is an expense, and not an investment.

If he should, some day when he gets a little more money, ever go back to the old, it is doubtful if he wouldn't kick on planting any seeds that would not come up the very next day and bring a large profit.

When a solicitor for the "Fair Book" went to him to talk about the advantages to be derived from bringing several hundred thousand dollars to the city during fair week, he looked thoughtful for a moment and then said he would think it over.

Nothing would change that attitude. He wanted to think it over. The missionary for the fair went away and returned the next day, hoping that the merchant's thoughts had been steered in the right direction.

"Nothing doing," said the merchant, when the hopeful solicitor showed him the book. "I have been looking over my books, and I fail to see where the fair does me any good. My sales are never larger that week than at any other time in the fall."

"Well," observed the solicitor, "you can't expect every man who brings money here during fair week to walk straight to your store with it and shove it under the door if you chance to be out. You've got to wait for some man who wants something in your line to get hold of this new money and bring it to you."

"Nothing doing," insisted the merchant.

Now, the solicitor was prepared to demonstrate—with a fountain pen and a pad of copy paper—that a certain per cent of all the actual currency handled in his city is every year invested in the sort of goods this merchant exposed for sale. Have you ever figured that out?

But that merchant would not listen. He would not even give the solicitor a couple of hours in which to make himself understood on the law of averages. If the money that came to town in the pockets of fair visitors during the fair didn't reach him the first day the visitors struck the city, that settled it.

He was willing to admit that the fair would be likely to bring a heap of money to the city, but he expressed the further conviction that if his fellow merchants got hold of it first that would be the end of it for him. He knew he had to pass his own cash receipts out to Tom, Dick, Harry and the good Lord only knows who else, but he seemed to think that his contemporaries kept theirs.

Well, while the merchant and the solicitor argued over the matter Uncle Ike came into the store and sat down by the radiator near the desk. Uncle Ike is a favored character there. He sat listening to the war of words for a time, and then hunched closer to the speakers.

"Nothing doing," he heard the merchant saying. "What I wouldn't get during the fair I wouldn't get at all."

"That's funny, too," said Uncle Ike. "What's funny?" demanded the merchant.

Uncle Ike grinned at the fair man. "Ever heard about Aunt Sarah's new silk dress?" he asked, pretending to ignore the merchant and all the same, watching him out of the corner of a shrewd eye. "It was funny about the new silk dress."

"Come on, Uncle Ike," the merchant said. "You've got a story secreted about your person somewhere. Out with it."

The merchant wasn't overly anxious to hear the story just then, but he was anxious to have the stream of eloquence pouring out of the solicitor shut off. Even the stories of a leazy old man were preferable to the long-winded arguments of the fair book man.

"Aunt Sarah would go to the World's Fair," Uncle Ike began, "and the worst of it was that she had no one to go with her but me, her long-suffering brother. Someway, we always called Sarah 'Auntie.' I got into the notion by hearin' others call her that, and just dropped into the habit, although I am her brother."

"So Sarah and me started off to the World's Fair. Sarah gave me the money she had saved up for the trip, and I put it with mine. Altogether, we had somethin' over $100 in cash, besides the return tickets, an' I felt like we could buy about everything there was in Chicago if we wanted to. I kept the money in an inside pocket of my vest, an' kept the vest buttoned up mighty tight, at that."

"The reason Sarah did not want to carry it was that she had a brand new silk dress, made by Almira Talmadge out of the best silk to be bought at

Simon's new store. She was proud as a peacock of that new silk dress. She used to keep lookin' behind her on the fair grounds to see was effect its magnificence was acertain'. She thought it was about the sweetest thing that ever took a year's savings up to get.

"You know how it was in Chicago World's Fair year—hot and close and crowded—with a lot of hotels just knocked up out of pine boards and furnished with stuff from the installment stores. We got into one of them hotels down near the fair grounds."

"Sarah's room was right next to mine, an' there was a transom over each door. We had been there a week, and was most ready for a square meal back on the old homestead when the old humbug happened. About 1 o'clock in the mornin' I heard Sarah a-pounidin' on the inch pine wall between the rooms an' shoutin' like she was crossing of the dark river an' no boat in sight."

"I hit the floor mighty quick, thinkin' of all I had heard about thieves an' murderers in Chicago, an' prances into Sarah's room. I finds Sarah in a panic, a-rockin' back an' forth on the side of her wrenchin' an' screechin' bed, an' a-liftin' up her voice like a go-burnin'."

"Oh, Ikey," she says to me, 'I've been robbed. I folded up my new silk dress in a neat package and hung it on the wall there, an' now it's gone. Some man reached right through the transom an' took it. I saw his hand.'"

"There ain't no use tryin' to console a woman for a new silk dress when it's been stole from her, so I didn't try. I just stood there and expressed my opinion of Chicago, from Kensington to High Ridge avenue."

"Now, Ikey," says she to me, when I stopped on account of havin' nothin' more to say that was original, 'I'm never goin' back without that new silk dress. I'd be the laughin' stock of everybody. You've got to take enough of our money an' buy me a new silk dress. I'll save up eggs and butter money until I've paid you back.'"

"It might be a mistake," said I. "You lie quiet for a day or two an' maybe the party what took the dress will bring it back. In the meantime, I'll advertise it in the newspapers."

"So I went back to my room to put on my new suit, an' the vest wasn't under my pillow where I had put it. It was tucked away in a corner under the bed. When I looked in the inside pocket there wasn't any more money there than a robin could carry in his left eye. An' us with the hotel bill only half paid and the tickets back home gone. I could see the finish for the new silk dress."

"I ain't a-gooin' to tell you what I said to Sarah for losin' of her dress, nor yet what she said to me for losin' of our money. She wouldn't go out of her room until I got money from home, an' I was mighty hungry before I thought of pledgin' my new gold watch. But I put the advertisements in as soon as I could, and offered a reward for the return of the dress."

"So we went back home an' waited eight days for that new silk dress to be brought back. Every letter Sarah's got in all that time looked to her like it had a hint about that dress in it, until she got it open."

"Don't be impatient. I used to say to her. 'Give the advertisement a chance to percolate.' So she waited, and I waited, and the other day it come."

"What's that?" demanded the merchant. "You never got that silk dress back again, did you? Where was it all that time? Who stole it?"

"It wasn't stole," replied Uncle Ike. "A man who was leavin' the hotel reached through the wrong transom an' got it. It was three weeks before he found out his mistake, and then there was no tracin' the occupant of that room. Well, sir, not long ago, he bought some seed onions of a farmer, and the farmer's wife went to the market and brought out an old, old newspaper to wrap them up in. On the way home he noticed the paper was dated World's Fair year, and as he read it, kind of to bring that time back to his mind, I guess. And there he saw the advertisement for Sarah's new black silk dress. After more than eighteen years that advertisement brought results! I heard you two talking about advertising, and I thought I'd tell you about Aunt Sarah's new silk dress."

"Is that right?" asked the merchant.

"Sure! The dress came back good as new. Hadn't never been taken out of the package, so it was wrinkled some, but Sarah's wearin' of it today. Made over? Why, yes, a little, but it's a pretty good dress yet. Wasn't that funny? After eighteen years."

"And if you don't get returns the same day," laughed the agent, turning to the merchant, "you think you have been defrauded."

"It begins to look to me," said the merchant, "as if you brought Uncle Ike in here to tell that story. Anyway, I'll take that advertisement. If it doesn't bring results for eighteen years I may be dead, but my son will be right here in business, and he'll get the benefit of it."

You never can tell when a properly written advertisement will bring results. A mail order man told a friend, the other day, that it was the advertising he did last year that was selling goods for him now—Alfred B. Tozer, in "The Michigan Tradesman."

A Nightmare.

"Oh, hubby, I had a dreadful dream last night."

"What did you dream about?"

"I dreamed that in all the world there were no shop windows."

THE BEST PROOF

Given By A Salisbury Citizen.

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they brought benefit.

The story was told to Salisbury residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the results lasting. The testimony is a home testimony—The proof convincing.

It can be investigated by Salisbury residents.

Mrs. S. E. Fooks, B. F. D. No. 4, Salisbury, Md., says: "I willingly give Doan's Kidney Pills my highest endorsement since I used them some years ago and received a cure for kidney complaint. I cheerfully verify all I formerly said in praise of this remedy. Doctors said that I had a very bad case of kidney complaint and that it would turn into Bright's Disease. My back pained me constantly and I could not sleep well. My limbs were swollen. I was also tired and worn out. Nothing did me any good until I happened to hear about Doan's Kidney Pills. I began taking them and the cure they made was prompt and lasting."

REAL RACE SUICIDE.

Which do we need the most, more babies or more humane treatment of those we have? Do we really need an increase in the annual supply of our children in the annual sacrifice? If there is danger of race suicide it lies not so much in the decreasing birth rate as it does in our needlessly high death rate. If our rapidly advancing civilization has reduced the native birth rate it has also provided us with life saving knowledge wherewith to offset it. Moreover, is it not true that a small family of children will stand a better chance to be properly nurtured and educated than a large family of children? Which is the better for our race, a large number of small families or a small number of large families? Which do you want, quality or quantity?—E. E. Rittenhouse, Conservation Commissioner, Equitable Life Assurance Society.

A PROPHECY.

In a very short time there will be only three countries in the world, and they will be the United States of Asia (including Europe), the United States of Africa and the United States of America. Look at the world's progress in the last 150 years. See what Japan has done in fifty years! That country has stored energy, and it is like a century plant now blooming with its progress. What little blood has been spilled in the making of a Chinese republic where 400,000,000 people have won their freedom!—Hudson Maxim.

THE STORE WHERE YOUR MONEY BUYS THE BEST VALUES

There are two ways in which merchants attempt to increase the purchasing power of their customers' money. One is the "catchpenny" method of clipping a cent or two from the price of a more or less standard article. The other—the Hochschild, Kohn & Co. way—is to pay the very top price for each article to be sold at a given price, thereby insuring the utmost value in that article.

In other words, the Hochschild, Kohn & Co. policy is to sell the best 25c stockings, the best 25c handkerchiefs, the best $1.00 gowns, the best $10.00 trimmed hats, the best $25.00 tailored suits that can be sold at these prices.

So, while on individual purchases, our prices may seem a penny or two higher, the woman with $1.00 or $5.00 or $10.00 or $25.00 or $100.00 to spend will get more real value for the amount expended than she can possibly get in any other store.

Spring is here—and the Hochschild, Kohn & Co. stocks of merchandise for spring are wonderfully attractive. See them when you come to Baltimore.

FREE DELIVERY of Purchases of $5.00 or over

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest test of being a reliable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root if you do you will be disappointed.

CHAPTER I.

A Perilous Mission.

Several of us had remained rather late that evening about the cheerful fire in front of my hut—for the nights were still chilly, although it was May, and the dreadful winter passed—discussing the improved condition of our troops, the rigid discipline of Baron de Stueben, and speculating on what would probably be attempted now that Sir Henry Clinton had succeeded to the command of the forces opposing us. I remember Maxwell joined us, together with Knox of the artillery, each man with a different theory of campaign, but alike agreeing that, in spite of all we had endured during those months of suffering and privation at Valley Forge, the time to strike once again was near at hand, although our numbers were barely half that of the enemy.

It must have been midnight when I crept into a bunk, and even then found sleep absent, my eyes gazing out through the open door to where the embers of the fire glowed red, and a sentinel paced back and forth in regular monotony. Suddenly he halted, and challenged hoarsely, singing forward his gun. There was an indistinguishable answer, and as I straightened up the figure of a man blotted out the doorway.

"Major Lawrence?"
"Yes. What is it?" I swung to the door, unable to recognize the voice. The man's hand rose to salute.
"I am Colonel Gibbs' orderly. General Hamilton wishes you to report at once at headquarters."

"The Potts house?"

"Yes, sir."

I dressed hastily, my pulses throbbing with eagerness. Whatever the message meant, there was certainly some purpose of vital importance in sending for me at this unusual hour, and I was too young still to welcome any form of active service. No duty of the war had so tried me as the long winter of waiting. Yet, rapidly as I moved, the orderly had disappeared before I could get outside, and I picked my way as best I could alone through the darkness, along the rear of McIntosh's huts, until I reached the low fence surrounding the Potts house. Here a sentinel challenged, calling the corporal of the guard, and in his company I trudged up the path to the front door. There was a light showing through the window to the left, although the shade was closely drawn, and a guard stood within the hall. At the first sound of our approach, however, a side door was flung open, letting forth a gleam of illumination, and I perceived the short, slight figure of Hamilton, as he peered forward to get a better glimpse of my face.

"All right, corporal," he said tersely, gripping my hand. "Come in, major; your promptness would seem to indicate a readiness to get into service once more."

"I had not yet fallen asleep," I explained, "but we are all eager enough for action of any description."

"You will soon be busy, never fear." He closed the door behind us, and with a glance, I viewed the room and its occupants. It was a small, low-ceilinged apartment, containing a table, a few chairs and a high commode. A few coals glowed in the wide fireplace, and the walls were dingy with smoke. Three candles, already burning low, gave fitful illumination, revealing four occupants, all known to me. At an open door to the right stood a sweet-faced woman, glancing back curiously at my entrance, and I whipped off my hat bowing low. Once before I had seen her, Mistress Washington, and welcomed the gracious recognition in her eyes. Colonel Gibbs stood before the fireplace, motionless, but my glance swept past him to the calm, uplifted face above the pile of papers littering the table. He was not looking at me, but his eyes were turned toward his wife.

"It is not necessary for you to retire," he said quietly. "We shall not detain this gentleman except for a few moments."

"It is not because of the major's coming I withdraw," she replied pleasantly. "But the hour is late, and I am very tired. Good night, all."

Washington's eyes were upon the door until it closed; then he turned slightly, facing me. Before he spoke again, Hamilton broke in:
"This is the officer, sir, recommended by General Maxwell—Major Lawrence of the Maryland line."

I bowed slightly, and the command rose to his feet, extending his hand. "No doubt we have met before," he said slowly. "You have been with us for some time."

"My first action was at Harlem, sir."

"You could not have been at Valley Forge during the past winter, however?"

"I was with the Marquis de la Fayette at Albany."

"Ah, yes," his face clouding at the recollection. "A young officer, Hamilton, but capable, no doubt. You have used him before, you said?"

"Yes, in Long Island, and he entered New York once at my request."

Washington's gray eyes were still on my face.

"Lawrence is a Massachusetts name."

"Not exclusively," I returned, "as our branch are Virginians."

The stern lines about the mouth relaxed into a smile.

"Indeed, from the eastern shore, then. I recall now having once met a Judge John Lawrence, whose wife was a Lee."

"My father, sir."

His hand rested firm on my shoulder, as his glance turned to Hamilton.

"I require no further commendation, colonel. You will find the papers in the second drawer. Please explain all the details carefully to Major Lawrence."

"This is a simple duty, major," said Hamilton, "but may prove a dangerous one. You have been selected because of previous successful efforts of a similar nature, but the commander-in-chief does not order your going; we seek a volunteer."

"Without asking the nature of the service," I answered sincerely, "I rejoice at the privilege."

"I knew that, Lawrence," he said. "That answer accords with your well-earned reputation throughout the army. I will explain briefly the situation. Early this evening our pickets—" or rather some partisan scouts near Newtown—captured a British officer, in field uniform, on his way from New York to Sir William Howe in Philadelphia. The prisoner was brought here, and on examination proved to be Lieut. Edgar Fortesque of the Forty-second regiment of foot. These troops came over with the last detachment, and arrived in New York less than a month ago. On searching Fortesque's clothing we found this dispatch," holding out a sealed paper, "which we opened. It is not of any great military importance, being merely an order for Howe to proceed at once to New York, taking with him certain officers of his staff, and placing a naval vessel at his disposal."

He paused, turning the paper over in his hands.
"However," he went on slowly, "it affords us the opportunity we have long been seeking of getting a competent military observer into Philadelphia. Now that Sir Henry Clinton is in command of the British forces directly opposing us, it is necessary that we know accurately their number, state of discipline, guns and any point of weakness in the defenses of the city. We require also information regarding the division of troops under Sir Henry's command—the proportion of British, Hessian and Tories, together with some inkling as to Clinton's immediate plans. There is a rumor abroad that Philadelphia is to be evacuated, and that the British forces contemplate a retreat overland to New York. Civilian fugitives drift into our camp constantly, bearing all manner of wild reports, but these accounts are so varied as to be practically valueless. We must possess accurate details, and to gain these a man would need to be in the city several days, free to move about, observe, and converse with the officers of the garrison. Do I make myself clear?"

"Yes, sir; you propose forwarding the dispatch by an officer who shall impersonate this captured lieutenant."

"Exactly. Fortesque is a young fellow of about your age and build. He is now this."

has been in the army only eight months and in this country less than thirty days. It is scarcely probable he is known personally to any of the present Philadelphia garrison. There is a risk, of course, but in this case it would seem to be small." He picked up a paper from off the table. "Here is an officer's roster of the forty-second regiment. It might be well for you to familiarize yourself with a few of the names."

I studied the list a moment, bending down closer to the nearest candle, while the other two in the room own mind the duty required. I had no thought of refusal, yet appreciated to the full the possible danger of the venture, and felt anxious to make no serious mistake. I had achieved a reputation for reckless daring, yet this kind of service was hardly to my liking. To wear British uniform meant my condemnation as a spy, if discovered, and a death of disgrace. I had been within the lines of the enemy often before, but always as a scout, wearing the homespun of the Maryland line, but this was to be a masquerade, a juggling with chance. I was not greatly afraid of being unmasked by the officers of the garrison, but there were those then in Philadelphia who knew me—loyalists, secret sympathizers with our cause, and not a few deserters from the army—whom I might encounter at any turn in the road. The prospect was not alluring, yet a glance aside at the profile of Washington, now bending low over a mass of papers, instantly stifled my resolve. It was work I had no excuse to shrink—indeed no inclination—so I returned Hamilton's glance of inquiry frankly.

"You wish me to go at once?"

"The earlier the better. I will furnish passports through our lines, and hard riding will put you across the neutral ground by daylight."

CHAPTER II.

Within the Enemy's Lines.

A long cavalry cape concealing the British uniform I wore, my horse and myself were ferried across the Schuylkill, just below the mouth of Valley creek, and there, amid the silence and darkness of the eastern shore, I parted with Hamilton, who had accompanied me thus far, whispering final words of instruction. My horse was a fresh one, chosen from the stables of the Life Guard, but the trappings were of the British service. Within five minutes I was out of sight of the picket fire on the river bank, riding steadily southeast through the night, every nerve alert. An hour's riding found me well beyond our outermost pickets, yet, in fear that I might encounter some body of irregulars, scouting the neutral ground, I held on to my passport until I perceived the first flush of dawn in the east. Then, convinced of close proximity to the British guard lines, I tore the paper into fragments, avoiding all roads, and seeking every bit of concealment possible, it was already sunrise before I plunged suddenly into a Hessian picket post, the distant smoke of the Philadelphia chimneys darkening the sky ahead. Unable to speak German, my uniform won sufficient courtesy, so that I was escorted back under guard to an outpost of the Queen's Rangers, where I explained my presence and rank to a red-faced captain in Tory gear, so insolent in manner as to be insulting, until I exhibited the sealed dispatch, and demanded to be escorted at once to Sir William Howe. This brought results, and I entered the city under escort of a dozen horsemen, their green coats faced with dingy white, cocked hats flapping as they rode.

It was thus we came to Callowhill, and the encampment of British grenadiers, an officer of the Fifty-fifth regiment volunteering to guide me to Howe's quarters in High street. He was a genial fellow, and pointed out various places of interest, as we rode more slowly through the streets close along the river side, questioning me often upon affairs in New York, to which I returned such vague answers as pleased me, paying small heed to the truth. All along the river were redoubts, well garrisoned, with black gun muzzles pointing out across the water. Many houses had been razed, and their debris, together with the fire ruin of the past winter, gave to everything a look of desolation. Much artillery was parked in the state house yard, and several vessels of war were lying at anchor in the stream, while the entire shore line was filled with barges, decorated as for a fête, a large force of men laboring about them. My companion, observing my interest attracted in that direction, reined up his horse to explain.

"These are the galleys being made ready for the Michiana, Fortesque," he said, waving his hand. "You came to us at a lucky hour."

"The Michiana?" I asked, puzzled by the strange term. "Some festival, you mean?—some gala day?"

"'Tis an Italian word, they tell me, signifying medley. The officers give it in farewell to Sir William, who will sail tomorrow. A pretty penny it costs. See, there is Major O'Hara now, one of the managers; there are three others, Sir John Wrottesley, Major Gardiner, and the chief engineer, Montresor. Do you know them? No? Oh, I had forgotten you have only just arrived. You will know them ere long, however, for they are the leaders in such affairs. That is Captain Andre there with O'Hara." He waved his hand, and the younger officer lifted his cocked hat in acknowledgment. "Let us spur over there, lieutenant, until I get you a ticket of invitation."

FAIR PLAY.

Some sympathizer and supporters of Mr. Clark, for the Presidency have circulated a circular in this community containing unfair and unwarranted attack on Mr. Woodrow Wilson, who they evidently think is the man
chiefly in the way of the nomination of their favorite. Some of these statements have just enough of truth
as a foundation for fooling and deceiving many who have not had the time or opportunity to investigate the facts for themselves, and are therefore more dangerous than out and out falsehoods. But any fair minded man will not give credence to the conclusions drawn from these actions by the enemies of Mr. Wilson.

Because, forsooth, Mr. Wilson has been the President of one of the greatest universities of this country, he is therefore put down as a man whose sympathies are not with the common people.

Any man who has followed the public career of Mr. Wilson will know that his whole course has been governed by the desire to give back to the people their rights which large corporations and vested interests have succeeded in taking from them.

It is also stated that he has been running all over the country seeking the nomination for President neglecting his duties as Governor of New Jersey. These people would have Mr.
Wilson stay at home and thus make his defeat for the nomination certain, for they know as well as the rest of the people that his only chance for nomination is in letting the people know him and what he stands for.

Neither have trips through different sections of this country interfered with his duties, for it is generally acknowledged that he has made one of the best executives the State of New Jersey has ever had, and further that during his administration the people have had more say in the government of that State than ever before. Many good laws looking towards the interests of the people as against corporation rule have been passed chiefly through his effort and influence.

Fair play is demanded for Mr. Wilson as well as all the other candidates in the field for Democratic honors and an attack on any of the good men in the field is entirely uncalled for and unjustifiable. Democrats will differ as to the best man to nominate but this difference will chiefly be based upon the opinion of the voters as to which man is best qualified and will make the best run in the general election.

An attack of the character of the one circulated in this community last week will not tend to promote the cause of the man in whose interest it is presumably sent out and we are very much mistaken in the character of Mr. Clark if he would not be the first to repudiate a campaign of this nature.
Let the Democrats talk men, talk issues and discuss the best policy in order to meet success at the polls next fall, but drop all arguments which are unfair and unjust as well as those which are based in part or in whole upon falsehood and misrepresentation.

GOVERNOR GOLDBOROUGH SHOWS RIGHT SPIRIT.

When it was known that the appointments for this County had been turned down it was freely prophesied that Governor Goldborough would retaliate by vetoing all measures pertaining to this County. The Army Bill and Sanatorium were thought to be sure of a veto, but it seems that the Governor is a much broader minded man than these people gave him the

An Excellent Idea

For Churches, Sunday Schools
and Societies

One hundred members of a congregation in this city could join our CHRISTMAS SAVINGS CLUB and contribute the checks they receive two weeks before Christmas to reduce the debt on their church, or use the funds for charity, missions or other benevolent purposes.

This plan may be adopted by churches, societies and organizations with splendid results. The small amounts, payable weekly into the club, can be spared by each person without inconvenience, and when a number associate together for a specific purpose, the combined result of their efforts will be a large sum which may be applied as a Christmas offering or used in other ways for any good cause.

You can join from April 29th to May 16th. We are answering hundreds of inquiries every day. Let us tell you about it.

READ HISTORY IN THE MAKING

HISTORY IS BEING MADE DAY BY DAY, EXACTLY SUCH HISTORY AS TELLS THE ADVANCEMENT OF THE HUMAN RACE, AND THIS NEWSPAPER CHRONICLES IT DAY BY DAY AS IT HAPPENS.

Could anything be more interesting or more important? Can any living man afford to let events pass without knowing about them?

Every man, woman and child who can read should read one paper at least and should read it regularly and carefully. Justice to himself, to his neighbors, to his country and to future generations demands this. Every man should know what is going on. He should read THIS NEWSPAPER.

POLITICS.

There is no gambling like politics—nothing in which the power of circumstance is more evident.—Disraeli.

I hate bungling as I do sin, but particularly bungling in politics, which leads to the misery and ruin of many thousands and millions of people.—Goethe.

In politics, as in life, we must, above all things, wish only for the attainable.—Helm.

In politics merit is rewarded by the possessor being raised like a target to a position to be fired at.—Bovee.

I followed, careless of the loss of time so I could both see and hear.

"And, this is Lieutenant Fortesque just in from New York with dispatches for Howe. I have promised him a ticket for tonight."

The young officer laughingly extended a hand.

"The more the merrier, Craig. With the Forty-second I see, sir; knew your colonel well. You'll find America isn't so bad, after you get used to it. We've had a gay time here, eh, O'Hara? The best of liquor, and the prettiest of girls, and now we'll show the town something it won't forget in a hurry." He held out a card to me. "Rather ornate, considering the printers in these colonies; designed it myself. It was certainly a handsome souvenir, perhaps six inches by four in size, engraved as in a shield, yielding a view of the sea, with the setting sun, and on a wreath the words, 'Lococo descendens, aucto splendore resurgam,' while at the top was the general's crest, bearing the words, 'Vive vale.'"

"A fine conceit, indeed," I confessed, "and if the pageant be equal to its promise 'twill be well worth the seeing. What is the purpose, gentlemen?"

"To give Sir William St. farewell," returned Andre, pleased at my unstinted praise. "And now that the Lord has sent us a fine day, I can promise a festival worthy the herald. But, Fortesque, if you would have audience with Howe, I advise you to get on, for he will have few spare moments between now and day-dawn tomorrow."

We parted with much bowing, Craig and I guiding our horses through the crowded streets, being kept too busy avoiding accidents to exchange conversation. Howe's headquarters on High street were not pretentious, and, except for a single sentinal posted at the door, were unguarded. I was admitted without delay. An aide took my name, and within a very few moments Sir William himself entered through a rear door, attired in field uniform. He greeted me with much affability, glancing hastily over the papers handed him, and then into my face.

"These do not greatly change my former plans," he said, "but I am glad

I explained my presence to a Red-Faced Captain in Tory Green so insolent as to be insulting.

to know I can retain my present staff. There was no special news in New York, Lieutenant?"

"None of particular importance, I believe, sir. We landed only a short time ago."

"Yes, I understand. You were fortunate to get through here so easily—the Jerseys are a hotbed of rebellion. Do you return with me by water?"

"I should be glad of a day or two in Philadelphia."

"Easily arranged. While I shall leave the city tomorrow so as to give Clinton a fair field, I shall remain on Lord Howe's flagship for some little time previous to final departure for New York. You had better mess here with my staff, Mabry," turning to the aide, "see that Lieutenant Fortesque has breakfast, and procure him a pass good indefinitely within our lines. You will pardon my withdrawal, as the officers of the garrison promise me an exceedingly busy day. We will meet again, no doubt."

He clasped my hand warmly, and withdrew, leaving me alone with the aide, half-ashamed, I confess, of having been compelled to deceive. Yet the very ease of it all stimulated endeavor, and I conversed lightly with Mabry over the mess table, and, when the orderly returned with the necessary pass, I was keen to start upon my round of inspection, utterly forgetful of having been up and in saddle all night. Mabry could not leave his duties to accompany me, but courteously furnished a fresh horse, and assigned a private of dragoons to guide me about the city. By ten o'clock we were off, my only fear being the possible meeting with some acquaintance.

In this, however, I was happily disappointed, as there were few civilians on the streets, the ranks of soldiers, off duty for a holiday, with all discipline relaxed, being boisterous, and considerably under the influence of

Almost A Miracle.

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any land, according to W. B. Hooleclaw, Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 175 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for Coughs and Colds with excellent results. It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all Druggists."

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. The result was lasting."—Hon. John K. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

liquor. The uniform worn, together with my dragoon guard, saved me from trouble, and I found the fellow sufficiently intelligent to be of value. I dare not make notes, and yet recall clearly even now the stations of the troops, together with a clear mental outline of the main defenses of the city. I made no attempt to pass beyond the limits, but, from statements of the dragoon, and various officers with whom I conversed, mapped in my mind the entire scheme of defense. I visited a number of these encampments, finding in each merely a small guard retained for the day, the majority of the troops being off on liberty. Soon after noon these began to throng the water front, eager to view the coming spectacle. I was, myself, in the Yeager's camp, finishing a late lunch, with a few officers, when the announcement came that the water procession had started.

TO DEVELOP THE MIND.

To look at things as well as we can, to inscribe them in our memory, to be observant and let no day pass without gathering something, then to apply oneself to those branches of knowledge which give the mind a sure direction, to apporportion everything its value—this is what we have now to do.—Goethe.

WORK.

There must be work done by the arms or none of us would live, and work done by the brains or the life would not be worth having. And the same men cannot do both.—Ruskin.

No man is born into this world whose work is not born with him, for there is always work and tools to work withal for those who will, and blessed are the horny hands of toil.—Lowell.

No working world any more than a fighting world can be led on without a noble chivalry of work and laws and fixed rules which follow out of that far nobler than any chivalry of fighting war.—Carlyle.

DANCING RECOMMENDED.

Dancing is a natural and proper outlet for the play impulse. If the opportunity for young people to dance is not properly afforded under proper management the city should concern itself with such provision. The dance hall problem may be helped greatly by using the public school houses for dances under proper supervision. Young men and women should have greater opportunity to mingle in wholesome surroundings, and there is much good in any plan that will bring them together more frequently. Much of the evil that besets the young in the cities could be avoided in this way.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson.

CHEERFULNESS.

Ye men of gloom and austerity who paint the face of existence with a gloom, with an eternal frown read in the everlasting book, wide open to your view, the lesson it would teach. Its pictures are not in black and somber hues, but bright and glowing tints. Its music, save when ye drown it, is not in sighs and groans, but songs and cheerful sounds. Listen to the million voices in the summer air and find one dismal as your own.—Dickens.

A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES"

What is known as the "Blues" is seldom occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disordered LIVER.

THIS IS A FACT which may be demonstrated by trying a course of

They control and regulate the LIVER. They bring hope and buoyancy to the mind. They bring health and elasticity to the body.

Anty Drudge Sympathizes with the Husband.

Mother—"What makes your husband get his dinner in town every Monday evening? Is he so busy he can't come home?"

Daughter—"No. But he says he cannot eat with the smell of hot steam stids all through the house."

Anty Drudge—"You needn't drive your husband from home, with such disagreeable smells. Buy Fels-Naptha soap, do away with scalding water, and boiling clothes, and soapy smells, and—enjoy your husband's company."

Too many household cares to give over a whole day to the week's wash!

Why should all dry Monday be wash-day? Why shouldn't just Monday MORN-ING be "wash morning?"

And it CAN BE if you use Fels-Naptha soap. Because Fels-Naptha is made to do the work FOR you. A soap that DIS-SOLVES the dirt. You soap the clothes and place them in cool or lukewarm water for thirty minutes. And you then find that only light rubbing is needed to make the wash ready for the line.

Whether white goods, flannels, woollens or colored goods, you have got the very best washday results possible, and with the least effort. And because you have used cool or lukewarm water, your hands are smooth and soft.

CATCH BURGLAR AT A SINGLE SITTING

Whole Schmidt Family Holds Negro Prowler Down Until the Police Come.

Chicago.—A patrol wagon loaded with policemen rushed to 1822 Wells street early the other morning in response to an urgent summons. They found George A. Schmidt, George A. Schmidt, Jr., Mrs. George A. Schmidt, and Miss Rose Schmidt sitting on a large negro who lay prostrate on the floor of the parlor. "Trouble here!" asked a sergeant in charge of the police squad. A mournful grunt of assent from the negro testified there was. He indicated he would like to be released. Then the members of the Schmidt family arose gingerly from the long form and policemen kicked the negro into a perpendicular position. George A. Schmidt began making motions to his wife and daughter. They watched him a moment, then fled for their sleeping rooms for more clothing. George A. Schmidt, Jr., the son, told the police the story of the negro vs. the Schmidt family. Young Schmidt came home from a dance at three o'clock in the morning. He saw a window leading on the porch was open. He switched on the lights suddenly, after entering quietly, and saw a negro dodge behind a davenport in the parlor. The youth grappled with the negro, but the burglar was of great proportions. The negro was gradually gaining ground toward the open window and Schmidt called for help. The entire family responded and pulled and tugged at the negro until he was exhausted.

The Entire Family Responded.

GAS BLOWS BOY FROM ROOM

Youth Lights Cigarette and Wrecks House by Explosion—Falls on Neighbor's Roof.

Dayton, O.—Emilio Campus, aged twenty, and a native Filipino, who reached Dayton only a few days ago, caused an explosion of gas which wrecked a house when he arose to light his cigarette at a gas stove here the other morning.

Seven people were in the house at the time, but with the exception of the Filipino, who was blown from his

HORTICULTURE

INSECT ENEMIES OF TOBACCO

Damage Done by Pests Growing Larger Each Year Throughout the Country—Easy to Control.

The United States produces approximately 1,000,000,000 pounds of tobacco every year, but the farmers who grow this enormous crop pay each year a large dividend to insect pests. The number of serious tobacco pests is not large, and most of them are subject to easy methods of control. Yet, regardless of these facts, the damage to tobacco by insects is growing heavier year by year. True, not all of this loss is preventable, but a large amount of loss may be avoided by proper methods of sowing the seeds, cultivation, rotation and various other indirect as well as direct remedies which affect the insects themselves.

The tobacco Leaf Miner is an insect which is considered easy to control. The injury made by this insect is manifested by large irregular blotches appearing on the leaves. These are at first whitish, but later become very dry and parchment-like. Leaves injured in this way are unfit for wrapper purposes, as they tear very easily.

There are two generations of the Leaf Miner each year, the winter being passed in the adult stage, the adults hiding away in trash found about the tobacco barns.

The horse or bull seems to be the original food plant of this insect, hence all weeds of this type should be kept out of the tobacco.

Frequent cultivation of the tobacco, stirring the soil up quite close to the plants will bury the pupae so deeply that the adult moths will be unable to reach the surface.

The larvae may be destroyed in the leaves by pinching them, and if a close watch is kept they may be destroyed in this way before they have done much damage. The leaves seem to be able to recover from slight injury, whereas if the larvae is allowed to continue its work, the leaves never recover.

POLITICIAN AND PHILOSOPHER.

The object of the politician is expediency, and his duty is to adapt his measures to the often crude, undeveloped and vacillating conception of the nation. The object, on the other hand, of the philosopher is truth, and his duty is to push every principle which he believes to be true to its legitimate consequences regardless of the results that may follow.—Lecky.

LITTLENES OF MAN.

To the minnow every cranny and pebble and quality and accident of its little native creek may become familiar, but does the minnow understand the ocean tides and periodic currents, the trade winds, monsoons and moon's eclipses, by all of which the condition of its little creek is regulated and may from time to time, unmercifully enough, be quite overcast and reversed? Such a minnow is man—his creek this planet earth, his ocean the immeasurable all, his monsoons and periodic currents the mysterious course of providence through eons of eons.—Carlyle.

NATIONAL ECONOMY.
I believe the reform most sorely needed now is better results at less expense. It ought not to cost a billion dollars a year, or over $11 for each man, woman and child in the country, to maintain the federal government with its limited functions. Those of the state, county and city which are much more numerous and expensive cost together but little more per head, and that is far too much. True, these are times of private extravagance, but that is no excuse for public extravagance. Everybody may spend his own money as he pleases, but public officials spend other people's money, much of it contributed under hardship and all of it for purposes which make it sacred for every patriot.
—Judson Harmon.

PHYSICIAN FOUND IN FIELD EATING CORN

Emaciated and With Memory Gone, Doctor Is Rescued After Four Days' Wandering.

Trouton, Mo.,—Emaciated, half frozen and a physical and mental wreck, Dr. D. W. Belshie, who disappeared a few nights ago while on his way to make a professional call, was found in a field near Tindall, Mo., six miles from Trouton. When discovered the physician was in a corn field, eating corn out of one of the shocks.

Found Devouring Corn From Shock. The physician was in a corn field, eating corn out of one of the shocks. He was brought here and taken to his home. In the few lucid intervals which he has had since being found, he was unable to remember anything that had transpired during the past few days. Doctor Belshie refused to recognize his uncle or to admit his own identity for several hours. Both hands and feet bear marks which in their swollen condition to the harrowing experience which the physician must have undergone during his four days' wandering in the bitterly cold weather. After he had been taken to his home here Doctor Belshie managed to say that he did not know what had happened to him, except that he had spent one night in a haystack.

NUNS HIDE FROM RESCUERS
Barboursville, W. Va.,—A convent to observe Rule No. 10. Enter Premises.

Paris,—"Word" comes from Le Figaro, the picturesque capital of central France, describing an incident that happened there recently, when a terrible tragedy was averted only by the resourceful action of the police and several civilians, who succeeded in saving aged nuns from death by fire in spite of their determination to die. Fire broke out at the old convent of the order of St. Claire, and a brisk wind caused the flames to spread so rapidly that soon the whole building was in grave danger. The only occupants were seven aged nuns, who had been given leave to end their days in the convent in spite of the ministerial decree which dissolved their order. The order is one of the most closely cloistered, and one of the first rules forbids the admission of a man within the precincts of the convent. Consequently, when the police came up they found that the sisters had withdrawn to a dormitory and had there barricaded themselves against the entry of their would-be rescuers. All the appeals of the police for the door to be opened were fruitless, and in the end an entrance had to be effected by force, when the nuns were saved in spite of themselves.

KENNEDY'S LAXATIVE HONEY-TAR

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

Just as He Said.
At the good roads convention in Emporia recently Mitt Wilhoit was introducing some of Emporia's prominent citizens to the delegates. He told the delegates what each one of the prominent citizens represented in a business way until he introduced the last one. "He represents nothing," Mr. Wilhoit said. "Except myself—I represent myself," said the prominent citizen. "Well, that is what I said," replied Mr. Wilhoit.

Her Help.
"Hilton says he is willing to give his wife credit for having been a great help to him in business."
"I understand she was his stenographer for several years."
"Yes. He insists that he has never had anyone in the office who could equal her in the delicate business of persuading creditors to be patient."

In Desperate Mood.
"That prima donna has a voice like an angel."
"You think so," responded the impresario, resentfully. "Well, I don't know how an angel talks when things don't go to suit her. But if I thought they all sounded like this prima donna I'd think twice before wanting to go to heaven."

Fittipalis of Language.
"I'm going to ride to the country," said a Frenchman, whose English was not very perfect, to a friend.
"You should say ride in the country," remarked the friend.
"Ah, yes—very good," responded the Frenchman, "and when I come back I will knock in your door."

MEAN.

The Artist (showing new picture).
This is the best thing I ever did.
The Critic—Oh! yes, master's art, that discourages you.

Alas!
Oh, heart! The postman's whistle. This life's all burn and smoke. A merchant from my pittance. Dearly a quick, resistance.

Danger in Liberty.
"A drop of ink makes millions think," remarked the ready-made philosopher.
"Yes," replied Senator Borah, "but you want to limit your use of ink to drops. As soon as you go to spreading it around in quarts they're liable to get too tired to think."

A Good Record for Both.
"I've driven my car for over a year now," said Billings, "and I've never run down anybody."
"That's nothing," said Mrs. Billings, "I've attended the meetings of our sewing circle for five years and have never run down anybody."—Harper's Weekly.

Advance in Art.
"So you think our national artistic sense is improving."
"Yes," replied the cruel critic. "Our statuary is far from what it should be, but we have at least taken the wooden Indians from in front of the cigar stores."

The Nervous Patient.
"You should take an ice cold plunge every morning," said the physician.
"But, doctor, I have insomnia."
"The ice cold plunge will help to cure it."
"No, it won't. I'll be awake all night dreaming it."

No Place for Them.
"I see what President Taft has been asked to appoint a woman to the Supreme court vacancy."
"Nonsense! Do you suppose any normal woman is going to take a place where she has to sit still and let other people do all the arguing?"

JOURNEY'S END.
Here's the end of roaming, stop at love's mine;
Here's the place to settle while the world goes by;
Here the fire is burning; here the lamp's shining;
Here's the place to cling to till the day we die!
Toss aside your bundle; throw your staff away;
Struggle to the finish in the warm, soft gloom.
Here's the end of roving; here's the place to stay;
Here in quiet shelter; here's the port of home!

Here's the end of dreamland; here's the place of rest;
Here's our little cottage where the roses blow!
What to us are breezes singing of the west?
What to us are voices that we used to know?
Yet the road was merry, yet the life was sweet!
How the freight flickers on the cottage floor!
Here's the end of travel for our weary feet;
Here's the end of roaming—till we roam no more!

THE ARMY CANTEN.
There is no question whatever as to the importance of the army canteen in the minds of the great majority of officers of experience in the service that the abolition of the army canteen has done much to increase immorality and to relax the bonds of discipline in the army. The intentions of those who were active in its abolition were undoubtedly good, but their ignorance of the actual situation prevailing was profound. It is difficult for any one who was familiar with the conditions which existed in the army under the canteen to discuss with patience the question of its abolition. The abolition of the canteen has been one of the strongest influences against discipline which have had to combat, and it earnestly urges its restoration, being convinced that such restoration is in the interests of the morality and discipline of the army.—General Leonard Wood.

BEAUTY.
A thing of beauty is a joy forever.—Keats.

Beauty is a fragile good.—Ovid.

Beauty and folly often go together.—French Proverb.

Beauty can afford to laugh at distinctions. It is itself the greatest distinction.—Bovee.

Beauty doth varnish age as if newborn. And gives the crutch the cradle's infancy.

Oh, 'tis the sun that maketh all things shine! —Shakespeare.

Beauty draws us with a single hair.—Pope.

BREAKING UP HOMES.
We break up homes because of lack of income, though the home be otherwise fitted for preservation. The state has the right to break up homes as a matter of principle, but not on the ground of poverty alone. If it be wrong to take a child out of its home because its mother is poor it is not less wrong to leave a child in a home merely because its parents are rich. There are homes on Fifth Avenue which the state ought to break up. Children should be rescued from homes which are blighted by moral poverty and spiritual destitution, and not only from homes of insufficient income.—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

WHAT IS DUTY?
Philosophers have seemed to assume that we knew what duty was. They have discussed the question whence came the idea of duty, and so on, which is very interesting in its way, but they have overlooked the main point, which is, What is duty? Now, that is just what we don't understand today. We don't know what our duty is. If we did more of us would try to do it. I believe—not all of us and not always, but in general we would try to do right if we knew what right was. It was Guizot, I think, who said, "It is harder for a man to know what his duty is than to do it." All the modern philosophers have built up incomplete systems of ethics because they have overlooked this fundamental point. We have to go back to the ancient Greeks before we find problems of ethics attacked in their entirety. The Greeks did have in their way a complete system of ethics, but this is of no advantage to us, because their social world and their outlook on life were entirely different from ours. Their civilization did not present the problems we have to consider. They had no conception of a duty toward other nations, for one thing. Their own state was all they recognized, and even within that their view was limited.—Henri Bergson, Famous Modern French Philosopher.

DAINTY HOLDER FOR SPILLS

Ornamental Receptacle of Use in Households Where Economical Ways Are Practiced.

There is, perhaps, no better way of utilizing old letters or half sheets of paper than tearing them up and folding them into spills, which are a great saving of matches; it is necessary to make some kind of holder for them, and in our sketch may be seen a dainty little article of this description.

For making it, a piece of stiff cardboard is cut out in the shape shown in the diagram on the right hand side.

and about 4 inches in width and 7 1/2 inches in height will be found a good size in which to carry it out. The cardboard is smoothly covered with silk sewn securely together at the edges, and then the piece of material which forms the pocket may next be sewn in its place; it should be lined with soft silk. But prior to doing this, however, the floral design must be embroidered upon it, and this may easily be worked from our illustration or some pretty design might be painted.

The holder is entirely outlined with a silk cord of a fancy pattern carried into three little loops at the top and bottom and again on either side.

The holder can be suspended from a nail in the wall by the center loop of the silk cord at the top.

Madge—Didn't you think the show ended rather abruptly?

Mabel—Yes, indeed. We had barely time to take up our things, put on our hats and coats and get outside the theater before the curtain went down.

THE INDISPENSABLE NEWSPAPER

A READER congratulating a metropolitan newspaper upon its anniversary wrote as follows:

I owe it much, not only in matters of information, but also from the point of view of the English language, which I have in large part learned through the daily reading and digesting of its attractive and interesting pages.

A woman sent the publisher this letter:

Your clean paper, with its educational side, I consider fine in all columns. When out of town I always read it, for it tends to keep one like myself sixty years young. It is indispensable to those who would keep in daily touch with current life, thought and judgments.

DRESSER WITHIN HER RIGHTS

Queen's Attendant Recognized the Importance of Perfect Dressing of the Hair.

"I hear from an Indian friend that on one of the journeys of the king-emperor in his eastern empire the train was stopped," said a woman the other day. "As no stop was expected, there was great perturbation and no little excitement among fussy and over-anxious officials. Some thought there was danger down the line; others thought the train might be attacked; the word 'bomb' began to be whispered here and there. Finally all agitation was calmed by the announcement that the queen-empress' dresser had found it quite impossible to do her imperial majesty's hair with the shaking of the train in motion! The difficulties of that functionary may be easily understood by most of us who have had maids wrestling with our hair in unaccustomed circumstances. They had only to make their mistresses decently passable, but the queen-empress had to be turned out the cynosure of all eyes; therefore, the dresser was but performing a loyal duty in having the train stopped. Her majesty's hair is worth dressing, too, on a head set just right for a queen."

MADAME and her TOILET

The use of perfumes is always permissible, providing one uses a good quality and just enough to be noticeable. It then gives a dainty finishing touch to the feminine toilet.

A good recipe for making violet water is as follows: Essence of violet, four ounces; essence of cassia, one and one-half ounces; essence of roses, one and one-half ounces; deodorized alcohol, two pints.

Salt in some cases will stop the hair from falling and promote the growth. Shake the salt through the hair with a salt shaker and allow to remain on for five minutes. Do not rub the hair, but gently brush the salt out. It is cleansing and will give luster to the hair.

Fragrant Sachet.

Six ounces of gum benzoin, four ounces of cinnamon and the same of cloves, sandalwood, saffron, wood of Rhodes,orris root, cascarilla, rose leaves, lavender flowers, pimento and lemon peel. Twenty-four grains of musk. All the ingredients must be mixed thoroughly together, having been first reduced to powder. Put into little silk bags for use. A small quantity laid upon a five cent will perfume a room. The odor arising from it is as sweet and pervasive as that from the finest French pastilles.

WALE-SMYTH

Wedding At Presbyterian Church Wednesday At Noon—Wm Reside in Norfolk.

Wicomico Presbyterian Church, Broad St., was the scene of a beautiful wedding Wednesday at high noon, when Miss Rebecca Smyth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Smyth, of Isabella St., this city was united in marriage to Mr. John Edgar Wales, Jr., of Norfolk, Va. A large and fashionable crowd of society people of Salisbury, Cambridge and Norfolk witnessed the ceremony admission to the church being by card only. The ceremony was performed by the groom's father, Rev. J. E. Wales, assisted by Rev. Mr. Beale.

The bride was given away by her father, Mr. S. B. Smyth, and was attended by Miss Jean Leonard as maid of honor, an Miss Ora Disharoon and Miss Anna Rose Oohn as bridesmaids. Mr. Lawrence Wales, of Norfolk, brother of the groom, was best man.

The ushers were Dr. O. B. Gifford, Mr. Walter Whithard and Mr. John Munce, of Norfolk, and Mr. S. B. Smyth, Jr., brother of the bride of this city. The bride was handsomely gowned in white satin, with touches of old rose and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and orchids. The maid of honor and bridesmaids were attractively gowned in white broad cloth. The maid of honor wore a lavender hat and carried lavender sweet peas and the bridesmaids wore pink hats and carried pink sweet peas. It was distinctively a "Sweet Pea" wedding as the decorations at the Smyth home for the wedding breakfast were sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Wales left on the afternoon express for a tour North. They will be at home in Norfolk after May 15. The wedding gifts were among the handsomest ever seen in this city and numbered several hundred, among them being cases of rare silver, hand painted china, pearl and diamond jewelry and beautiful linens and lace. The bride's parents presented a handsome mahogany table which has been in the Smyth family for more than a hundred years.

BENEFIT FOR WIDOWS

At Opera House—Husbands Killed By Explosions—Proceeds All Go To Them.

The benefit that is to be given at the Opera House here on Monday night, April the 29th—next Monday—is to help Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Savage, whose husbands were killed in the terrible boiler explosions at the saw mill near Spring Hill and the Iron Plant in Salisbury. These ladies were left with five and seven children, respectively, the eldest of these not being more than thirteen years of age. These children are for the most part, little girls. This is a very worthy cause and the people here should feel it a privilege to help the widows in the hard struggle before them to feed and bring up their fatherless children.

In connection with the entertainment to be given on Monday night at the Opera House it should be under stood that every penny taken in will go to these widows. Everything, Opera House, work, printing, etc., being given. There are and will be no expenses or division of the proceeds in any manner whatsoever. A person can therefore feel that he is not giving a dollar for a good cause and only fifty cents be applied for the purpose intended.

Come out and enjoy a fine entertainment and at the same time help the unfortunate ones deprived of a husband, father and provider, by two of the most fearful accidents which ever occurred in this County.

WILSON CLUB NEXT

Saturday—Big Meeting Arranged At Opera House—Prominent Speakers To Be Present.

The Woodrow Wilson Club of this County which was organized in the Armory on Friday night, has made arrangements for a big meeting at Ullman's Opera House next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. A band has been engaged for the occasion, and arrangements are being made to have addresses made by prominent Democrats of State and National reputation. Several addresses will be made by Wicomico Counts.

It is impossible at this time to give the names of the speakers as the Committee has not had time to receive replies to their invitation. It is certain that speakers worth listening to will be present and address the audience.

WHITE—RINGGOLD

Marriage At St. Peter's Church A Very Pretty One Attracted Large And Fashionable Gathering.

St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding at nine o'clock Thursday evening when Miss Ethelinde Ringgold, youngest daughter of Mrs. Jostas Ringgold, formerly of Chester town, Md., became the bride of Hon. J. Cleveland White.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle Judge James Alfred Pearce, of Chester town, who gave her in marriage and was met at the chancel rail by the bridegroom, attended by his brother, Mr. G. Vickers White as best man.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. David Howard, rector of the church and the wedding march was played by Miss Annie Causton. The church was attractively decorated with palms, ferns and spring flowers.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin trimmed with real lace and pearls. She wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms and a diamond tiara, a family heirloom and carried a showy bouquet of bride's roses and lily of the valley.

Mrs. John M. Toulson was her sister's matron of honor, wearing white satin veiled in pink, bordered marquisette and trimmed in pearls. She wore a white lace picture hat trimmed with pink roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Kathryn Nicola. She wore blue satin veiled in pink marquisette with opal trimmings and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary A. Hines, Miss Louisa Urie, of Chester town, Miss Martha Toadvine, Miss Mary Lee White, of Salisbury, Miss Edith Moore, of Baltimore, Miss Alice Roberts, of Washington. They wore pink satin veiled in flowered pink chiffon and trimmed with Spanish lace and carried bouquets of Killarney roses. Miss Maude Toulson, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Toulson, where the color scheme of pink and green in the decorations was carried out by the lavish use of pink roses and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. White left on the midnight express for a northern tour. Upon their return they will reside on Isabella St.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Ringgold, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Nicola and family, Mrs. Joshua Cummings and Mr. Walter Ruth, of Baltimore, Judge and Mrs. James Alfred Pearce, Mrs. Allan Harris and the Misses Aldridge of Chester town, Mr. C. Waller and Miss Marian Stanford of Princeton, N. J.

Joseph H. Cooper.

The many friends of Joseph H. Cooper, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of our city, were shocked to learn of his death on Wednesday evening of this week. Mr. Cooper was 72 years of age, a member of the Methodist Protestant Church. He also belonged to the order of Odd Fellows. He leaves a widow and one son, Mr. Oscar B. Cooper. DEMOCRATIC CITY

Ticket Nominated—An Ordinary Primary Held—Good Feeling Result Of No Wire-Pulling.

The wirepulling and manipulation seen around our polls on primary elections as they have been held in this County at the past few primaries was not in evidence on Monday. On the contrary the wirepullers while out in some force seemed to have some consideration for the voters themselves and for the most part a man was allowed to go up and mark his ballot for the man he preferred. The results of this kind of a primary is very evident for all sides seem to be satisfied with the results. This is a very pleasing change and it is to be hoped will mark the beginning of a new era in the method of conducting future primaries. The contest between the candidates themselves was very friendly and not marked by the ill feeling which is so often seen in a contest of this kind. Each of the candidates bound themselves not to run in the City election if defeated at the primaries.

In order to give every one who wanted to vote a chance the primaries were kept open from one o'clock until eight. The results of the primaries is as follows:

Wm. F. Bonds, 316.
B. Frank Kennerly, 356.
For Councilmen:
Herbert H. Hittob, 363.
L. Thomas Parker, 478.
Sanford A. Toadvin, 486.
Wilmer L. Tilghman, 457.

Mr. Tilghman is a present member of the City Council. The two hold-over members being Messrs. I. E. Jones and Elmer E. Bradley. Mayor Bonds has served a term of two years. He defeated the present nominee, Mr. B. Frank Kennerly, two years ago at the general election. The city election will be held Tuesday, May the 7th. The primaries were conducted to the satisfaction of all the candidates and unless the Republicans place a ticket in the field it is not likely there will be any fight at the election in May.

The City Executive Committee was re-elected at the primaries consisting of Messrs J. Cleveland White, E. E. Twilley, Charles E. Harper, Thomas Perry and G. E. Mitchell.

WOODROW WILSON

Sentiment Growing—Club Organized In Armory Friday—Better People Should Vote Sentiments.

Wicomico County has commenced to discuss candidates for the Presidency—or at least the Democrats are discussing the various aspirants for the Democratic nomination pretty lively, and it is generally believed that the question will be a pretty lively one from now on to primary day. So far the advocates of Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, have shown the most activity, although various underground rumblings have been heard showing the sympathizers of Mr. Clark are not nearly as sound asleep as they would have it appear on the surface.

As the situation now stands it looks as though Mr. Wilson, has the people with him and unless strenuous efforts are made to check this sentiment he will carry Wicomico County by an overwhelming majority. So far it looks as though Mr. Clark's strength will have to be developed by the organization or some part of it, if it becomes very formidable here. And in case a part of the regular organization takes up the cause of any one man, it is much more than probable another part will espouse the cause of the other. Mr. Harmon has a number of influential Democrats who are believing that he will make the strongest run after the nomination.

The espousal of Clark by the organization of Baltimore City is another reason for the recent growth in Wilson sentiment, as a great many Democrats are opposed to the domination of the State by the present Baltimore City crowd, believing that if they are successful in carrying the State for their candidate, they will use this victory as an excuse for capturing the Democratic machinery of the State. That their control of the Democratic party would be hurtful is generally believed by those who have closely watched their stand on public matters and their endorsements of men for office.

On Friday evening a large number of the sympathizers of Mr. Wilson in his contest for the Presidential nomination met in the Armory and organized a Woodrow Wilson Club. The meeting was well attended and much enthusiasm was shown. A complete organization was perfected and resolutions endorsing Mr. Wilson's candidacy were adopted. It was determined to make a thorough canvass of the County and organize Wilson Clubs in every District of the County. It was very evident that those present were in hearty accord with the movement and determined to make a fight for this County's Democracy in the State Convention. Those attending reported a strong Wilson sentiment wherever they had been, and expressed a belief that he would win by an overwhelming vote in the contest with which they were familiar.

NEW YORK FROCKS AND COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Frocks—Furbelows On Fussy Dresses Yet Skirts Remain Narrow—Folds Popular—Three Tier Skirts.
Macreme Lace.

Fussy taffeta frocks and suits of this and other silks are a feature notable wherever the well dressed assemble. Changeables are a veritable craze and are used not only for frocks and hats and their trimmings but for bags, linings, scarfs and coats.

The New "Quaker Bag."
The new Quaker bag in long saddle bag style with rings in the center to close it is out not only in silks but in English Morocco. This bag opens at both ends where gilt frames and secure fastenings hold it for the coins hang downward in carrying. One end holds the purse and the other the vanity flings; between the two, in the center, are the rings and chain for carrying. In leather this style costs $10, in maille, less while in white pigskin trimmed with lace and fringe it can be had at a very moderate figure.

Neck and Sleeve Fixings.
Hand embroidered Quaker collars and cuffs edged with Irish or Cluny lace are fashionably worn and frills of hemstitched lawn or fine net finish most of the three quarter sleeves that are popular for both tailored frocks and coats. These ruffles can be bought with rubber ribbon fitting them to the arm which saves sewing in. Macreme lace for waist trimmings in bands and collars and cuff shapes in well endowed and is most often used with decidedly contrasting textures. A waist of fine Brussels net will be dressed up with the heavy lace or it will relieve the flat look of tulle or satin. Girdles of velvet ribbon that tie once and have the ends weighted with fringe or other dangles, and similar contraptions of silk or satin are universally worn. Very fancy belts of leather in two colors or of creasable styles are also desirable additions now that the shirt waist season is upon us.

New Waists.
Severely tailored shirt waists in washable silk are in excellent vogue. These have soft, close fitting collars of the material closed with links to match those in the turned back cuff or similar shape which finishes the sleeve. White satin shirt waists made after the same fashion are quite practical also since these wash perfectly in lukewarm soapy water and are ironed on the wrong side when nearly dry after the same method as the regulation "wash silks."

Neat and Trim.
Neat and trim and comfortable also is the woman even of very full figure, who wears above the top of her corset a well designed brassiere. This, while light and flexible, holds the upper waist gracefully erect securing a flat straight back by means of a patent strap across the shoulder just at the top of the corset. Another clever feature in this "La Reine" brassiere is a little hook that catches in the corset and thus prevents it from slipping out of place.

Whip Cords and Serges.
Whip cords and serges are the materials most employed for wool tailor made attire and every woman who can compass it is having as many white serge costumes as her purse or needs permit. These are so useful and becoming if well selected that their popularity is easily understood. Wool fringe is used considerably as a trimming but discreetly. It follows the overcast lines that run in the fashionable diagonal on the skirt the lapels and sleeve cuffs are apt to want it and be finished in broad cloth or ribbed failings of silk wool or cotton cordery or terry cloth. Figured pongees printed in dull tones of red or blue makes effective waists and sleeve failings.

White Skirts and Colored Coats.
A white skirt worn with a colored coat is one of the present fads and coat of this sort are apt to be built either on Blazer or Norfolk lines. Blue coats are first favorites, but black and other tones are permissible if preferred. The dark coat usually has white rappings and buttons and is often outlined with the heavy cording which is one of the late wrinkles.

Second Spray For Fruit Trees.

Now that the season is past for dormant spraying, fruit growers should prepare for the treatments that improve the fruit. Apple trees should be sprayed just as the blossoms fall with concentrated lime-sulfur mixture, diluted one gallon to forty of water to which should be added two pounds of arsenate of lead to fifty gallons of spray, to prevent injury from Codling Moth and various diseases.

Peach and plum trees should be sprayed just as the calyxes or stamens are falling, with a solution made by using two pounds of arsenate of lead and two pounds of lime to fifty gallons of water.

Tomato plants should be sprayed in the bed when they have their third leaf, with Bordeaux mixture 45 to 50 parts, and two pounds lead to prevent leaf blight and lessen attack from flea beetle, etc.

All persons interested in these treatments should write at once to the Maryland Experiment Station, College Park, Md., for Bulletin No. 164, now ready for distribution.

Business Of Importance Transacted At Tuesday's Meeting.

Mr. D. H. Winslow, United States Superintendent of Road Construction with offices in Washington made a very interesting talk before the Commissioners on Tuesday on the subject of roads. He stated that during the past few days he had traversed all the improved roads in this county and that he had found the roads far above the average country roads throughout the country. He paid a high tribute to Road Engineer Clark and the Commissioners on their progress in road building. The Board decided to build one half mile of road under U. S. Government supervision.

The Board appointed Eugene Elliott, assistant for Barnes Creek District, vice Allison Elliott, whose health will not permit him to serve.

A delegation was before the Board asking for a new road in Pittsburg District beginning near Robert Smith's and running to the Parsonsburg-Pittsville road. Referred to Engineer Clark. A committee from Williams also asked for a new county road. Same reference.

Wheat Selection For Improving Both Yield and Quality

Let any farmer walk through his field of wheat and he will find that all the heads are not alike, even if sown from the best standard varieties of seed wheat. He will find that some heads are longer than others, some broader, some with more grains to the head and some tighter in the chaff and so on. It has recently become fully known that most of these variations, unless they are directly induced by a patch of richer soil are strictly and fully inheritable and are transmitted to their progeny in full vigor and perfection. If farmers who are specially interested in improving the yields and quality of their wheat will go through their fields at harvest time, and pick out the best heads from their fields, and thresh and save them for seed, they will find that it will result in a considerable improvement in the yield, quality and uniformity of the crop produced another season. Even if the farmer only picks out enough heads to make a bushel to a bushel and a half of select seed, this will give him enough to sow an acre of wheat for the next season, and that will produce a superior grade of seed. The product of this should give him sufficient seed to give him a good start towards his full seedling for the following year.

We are following out this method of selection on our own farms and we hope by this means to eventually increase the yield of different varieties of wheat which we offer, materially; but farmers can accomplish very generally the same results for themselves if they will follow out the practice as above indicated and increased yields per acre of all wheat sown can very soon come to be realized, provided this method is generally practiced in the saving and selection of seed wheat. —Wood's Crop Special published by T. W. Wood & Sons, Seedmen, Richmond, Va.

FROM SHARPTOWN TO JOBY'S HOUSE.

The distance it was not so great. 'Twas only half a mile, Yet travelling on the road was such. We ne'er thought once to smile, The Auto sank into the mud. Our headway 'twas "Nix Coor House."

For travelling, like a snail you know To Joby Twiford's house.

Yes Joby lives on the stone road All right in sight of town. But from his home up to Main St. It's almost soft as the ground.

For the big Auto gets stuck right fast And's not quiet like a mouse, While nothing and nothing does always last.

Now the Sharpstown Mardela Transit Makes two round trips each day, With Salisbury the terminus. And seventy five cents you pay. But most of trouble is the first half mile. While the car with Chauffer, Rouse. Does move so slowly and untrue Till it reaches Joby's house.

Why can't the State Road builders, Give us highways that will stand, The weight of a large new Auto That's the fastest in the land So as we travel at full speed And whirr by like a house.

We won't get buried in the sand E'er we reach Job Twiford's house. —A Resident of Sharpstown.

My back pained me constantly and I could not sleep well. My limbs were swollen. I was also tired and worn out. Nothing did me any good until I happened to hear about Doan's Kidney Pills. began taking them and the cure they made was prompt and lasting."

BALTIMORE'S BEST STORE

Hochschild, Kohn & Co.

THE STORE WHERE EVERY PURCHASE Must BE SATISFACTORY

One of the foundation principles of the Hochschild, Kohn & Co. Store, laid down nearly fifteen years ago, was this: "Every article sold in this store must give satisfaction; if it does not, the purchaser is to receive a new article, or the purchase money." This principle has been practised every business day since November 15, 1897—and it has helped to make this business grow as no retail business in Baltimore ever grew. Added to this security, every purchaser has the knowledge, born of experience, that Hochschild, Kohn & Co. merchandise is the best possible value for the money. And added to this, is the knowledge that Hochschild, Kohn & Co. stocks offer wider variety, and are selected with the best of taste and judgment. When you come to Baltimore for your spring shopping, there's just one logical place to visit—the Hochschild, Kohn & Co. Store.

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it,
or had effects following use of liquor, wine
or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention
reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to
Dr. Kilmer & Co.,
Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake
but remember the name, Swamp-Root,

dress, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

CHAPTER III.

The Fate and Misadventure.
I confess that up to this time I had experienced little interest in the attention of the British. After Valley Forge it was hard for an American soldier to admire such boys' play, or to enter into the spirit of British fun making. Besides the danger of my position, the fear
of some slip of tongue betraying me,
the knowledge that I was in the very heart of the enemy's camp, with grim stern duties to perform and a return journey to accomplish, kept me bowed to a point where I thought of little else than my task. But now I dared not remain indifferent, and indeed, the enthusiasm of my companions became contagious, and I joined with them eagerly, as they hurried forth to the best point of view. Once there the sight revealed aroused me to an enthusiasm scarcely less than that of those crowding about. Few indeed have ever witnessed so gorgeous a spectacle as that river presented.

Well out in the stream lay the vessels of war—the Fanny, Roebuck and Vigilant—together with a long line of transports, stretching as far as the eye could see, flags flying, and decks crowded with spectators. The pageant came down with the tide, moving in three divisions to the inspiring music
of several bands, the oars of galleys
and barges keeping exact intervals.
As they passed the officers beside me named the various occupants. In the leading galley were Sir William, Lord Howe, Sir Henry Clinton, the officers of their suites and some ladies.
In the last of the boats stood General
Knyphausen, the Hessian commander.
Between these were flat-boats, covered with green cloth, loaded with ladies and gentlemen, or else containing barges, barges, dashing here and there, kept open space amid the swarms of small boats. Everywhere
the eye swept over a riot of color, and the ear caught a babel of sound. As the last barge glided by the man next
me growled in disgust:

"Those are lucky dogs off duty today." His eye caught mine. "Why don't you go after them, Fortesque?
There'll be plenty of fun about yonder where they land."
"Where is that?"
"At the old fort; follow the crowd,
and you'll not go astray. Have you a ticket?"
"Captain Andre honored me with one this morning."

"Then you are good for the first row. Don't miss it, man," he enthusiastically said. "I'll be the first man to witness such the Field of the Cloth of Gold."

"A passage at arms, you mean?"
"Ay! as gorgeous as those of the old-time knights; a fair conceit as I read the program. I'd be there now but for the damned orders that hold me here. If you ride hard you can make the spot before they come ashore."

There was no reason I should not go, and much in the glittering prospect appealed to me. Five minutes later
I was trotting out of the Yager camp,
pressing passage through the crowds,
already headed southward, the dragon riding silently at my heels.
Mounted men that day were few, and doubtless believing we were connected with the pageant, the jam suddenly parted, and gave us opening, so we reached the site of the old fort, the barges began discharging their occupants. A glance about, however,
convinced me as to where the lists
were to be run, and I headed my horse
in that direction and gained a point of vantage before the throng poured in.

I was somewhat to the right of the big stand, the restive heels of my horse keeping the crowd away, and with a clear view as far as the river bank. It was a fine old fort, with a gentle slope to the water's edge,
where the line was forming. This passage-way was lined with onlookers, held back by numerous guards, while
to my left extended a square lawn,
perhaps 150 yards each way, surrounded by a double rank of grenadiers, the bayonets gleaming on their guns. This open space was equipped with everything needed for the coming tourney,
and on three sides were tiers of raised seats; I had barely observed all this when the guns of the Roebuck, echoed by those of the Vigilant, began to boom a salute, and the head of the column of marchers began slowly mounting the slope. The costumes worn were as varied as those of a masquerade, representing all the changes since the days of chivalry.
The whole line glowed with color, and gleamed with steel.

Like some great serpent, glittering
in the sun, this procession passed under the triumphal arches and disappeared as its members took prescribed positions on the stands, or in the pavillions bordering the field of contest.

As thus arranged the grouping of colors was most brilliant. In the front of each division were seven young ladies, attired in rich, Turkish costume, wearing in their turbans
those favors with which they meant to reward the knights contending in their honor. Behind these, and occupying all the upper seats, were the maidens representing the two divisions of the day's sports—ladies of the Blended Rose and ladies of the Burning Mountain. From the crowd surrounding the field, a name was mentioned, as famous Philadelphia
belles were pointed out, not a few familiar to me. Even as I gazed upon that galaxy of beauty, half angry that Americans should take part in such a spectacle of British triumph, the field was cleared for the lists, and a sound of trumpets came to us from a distance.

Out into the opening rode the contending knights, preceded by a white on foot, dressed in ancient habits of white and red silk, and mounted on gray horses. From the other direction appeared their opponents, in black and orange, riding black steeds, while to the center advanced the herald loudly proclaiming the challenge. I knew not who they all were, but they made a gallant show, and I overheard
a name spoken of more than once.
In battle—Lord Cathcart, Captain Andre, Major Tarleton, Captain Scott, Ay!
and they fought well that day, those White and Black knights on the mimic field. At last the two chiefs—Lord Cathcart for the Whites, and Captain
Watson of the Guards, for the Blacks
—were alone contending furiously,
when the marshal of the field rushed
in between, and struck up their weapons, declaring the contest done, the honor of each side proven. As the company broke up, flowing forward to the great house beyond, the vast crowd of onlookers burst through the guard lines, and, like a mighty torrent, swept over the field. It was a wild, jubilant, yelling mass, so dense as to be irresistible, even those of us on horseback being pressed forward,
helpless chips on the stream.

I endeavored to press back, but my restive animal, startled by the dig of the spur, the yells, the waving of arms, refused to face the tumult, and whirled madly about. For a moment
I all but lost control, yet even as he plunged rearing into the air, I saw before me the appealing face of a woman. How she changed to be there alone, in the path of that mob, I know not; whether her escort had disappeared, and how she had become separated from her party, has never been made clear. But this I saw, even as I struggled with the hard-mouthed brute under me—a slender, girlish figure attired as a lady of the Blended
Rose, a white, frightened face, arms outstretched, and dark blue eyes be-seaching help. Already the front of the mob was upon her, unable to swerve aside because of the thousands pushing behind. In another moment
she would be underfoot, or hurled into the air. Reckless of all else, I dug in my spurs, yelling to the Light Dragon beside me, even as my horse leaped. I scarcely know what happened, or how it was accomplished—
only I had the reins gripped in my hand, and my hands were on the animal caught her; the next she was on my arm, swung safely to the saddle, held to me with a grip of steel, the animal dashing forward beneath his double burden into the open field.

Then the dragon, riding madly, gripped the bit, and the affair was over, although we must have galloped
a hundred yards before the trembling horse was brought to a standstill. Leaving him to the control of the soldier, I sprang to the ground, bearing the lady with me. We were behind one of the pavilions, facing the house, and she reeled as her feet touched the earth, so that I held her from falling. Then her lashes lifted, and the dark blue eyes looked into my face.

"You must pardon my roughness," I apologized, "but there was no time
for ceremony."
She smiled, a flood of color coming back into the clear cheeks, as she drew slightly away.

"I appreciate that, sir," frankly,
shaking out her ruffled skirts, "and you have made knightly real."
"Then," I ventured, "may I hope to receive the reward, fair lady?"
She laughed at the notion of her youthfulness in the sound, but her eyes
full of challenge.

"And what is that?"
"Your name; the hope of better acquaintance."
Her eyes swept my uniform questioningly.

"No; a courier just arrived from

"Yet an officer; surely then you will be present tonight?"

"The privilege is mine; if sufficiently tempted I may attend."

"Tempted! How, sir?"
"By your pledging me a dance."

She laughed again, one hand grasping the long silken skirt.

"You ask much—my name, a better acquaintance, a dance—all this for merely saving me from a mob. You are not a modest knight, I fear. Suppose I refuse."

"Then am I soldier enough to come unasked, and win my welcome?"

"I thought as much," the long lashes opening up to me the depths of the blue eyes. "I promise nothing

then, nor forbid. But there is Captain Grant seeking me. If I do not speak of gratitude, it is nevertheless in my heart, sir," she swept me a courtesy,
to which I bowed hat in hand, "and now
au revoir."

I stood as she left me, staring while she crossed the lawn and joined a dark-faced officer of Rangers. Once she glanced back over her shoulder,
and then disappeared in the crowd
of revelers.

I had not intended to remain in Philadelphia through the night. Already I had secured the information sought, and now must consider the safest and quickest method of escape.
It seemed to me this night, given up to revelry, afforded the best possible opportunity for my safely passing the British guard lines. Tomorrow discipline would be resumed, the soldiers would return to their posts and the citizens of the city would again appear on the streets. This would greatly intensify my danger, for, at any moment, I might encounter some one who knew me, who might denounce me to the authorities.

That this was the exact truth of the situation could not be denied, yet, now, every reckless impulse of my disposition urged me to remain; the invitation of those laughing blue eyes,
the challenge I read in the lady's fair
face, the unsolved mystery of her identity, all combined in a temptation I found it impossible to resist. For a dance with her, a possible understanding, I was willing to venture life itself.

It must have been nearly nine o'clock when, in company with a young cornet, I rode up to the house
given up to festivity, and, turning over our horses to the care of cavalry grooms, climbed the wide steps to the door leading into the hall.

All was a riot of color, rich, bewildering, with smiling faces, and laughing lips everywhere. In such a spot, amid such surroundings, war seemed
a dream, a far-off delirium.

My companion disappeared, and,
to escape the pressure of those running back and forth through the wide doorway, I found passage close to the wall, and half circled the room, finally discovering a halting place in the recesses of a window, where, partially concealed myself by flowing curtains,
I could gaze out over the brilliant assemblage. Half ashamed of the plainness of my own attire, and feeling a stranger and an alien, I was yet constantly seeking the one face which had lured me there.

"Enough conversation reached me to disclose a promised display of fireworks on the lawn, and almost immediately a magnificent bouquet of rockets shot up into the black sky, illuminating everything with a glare of fire.
This was followed by the lighting up of the triumphal arch, and the burning of balloons high over the head. Attracted by the spectacle, I was starting out at the dashing scene, when a voice spoke at my shoulder.

"'Tis a relief to see even one soldier present ready for duty."

I turned to look into a pair of steady
blue eyes, with a bit of mocking laughter in their depths, the face revealed
clearly in the glare of the rockets.

"Necessity only," I managed to reply. "I can be as gorgeous as these others had I brought a head with me."
"No doubt; every British regiment tries to outdo the others in ribbons and gold lace. Really they become tiresome with such foppery in war times. See how they play tonight,
like children, the city practically unguarded from attack," she waved an ungloved hand toward the dark without. "I venture there are men out yonder, sir, who are not dancing and laughing away these hours."

My cheeks burned.
"You mean Washington's troops?"
"Ay! I saw them here in Philadelphia before Sir William came," her voice lowered, yet earnest, "and they are not playing at war; grim, silent,

BALTIMORE CITY REACHES FOR STATE.

Those who have the best interests of the Democratic Party at heart look with disapproval and suspicion upon their attempt to carry this State in the coming primaries for their choice for Presidential nomination—Hon. Champ Clark. The Counties have always been jealous of their prestige in State matters and even in the day of the powerful I. Freeman Hain, kept a close grip upon the State organization.

It has been thought for some time that the present city leaders were not satisfied with holding the City of Baltimore but were much more ambitious and were casting longing eyes upon the State. It is not at all surprising that the crowd now in should have their mouths watering at the sight of the plums which the State has to give out and which they are always crying about going to the Counties.

The endorsement of Mr. Clark is regarded by many as an attempt on the part of Baltimore to get in its hand the Democratic machinery of the State. It is very unfortunate for Mr. Clark to have his name associated with an attempt of this kind for we do not believe that the rest of the State will stand for such a proposition, and in their attempt to prevent it many who think highly of the Speaker will be compelled to support some other candidate.

It is believed that Mr. Wilson will be the man who will receive the greatest benefit from this move, for it is generally acknowledged that it will be much easier to win with him than with Mr. Harman or Mr. Underwood, and the supporters of these two gentlemen will be as much opposed to the State domination of Baltimore City as the others and will fear to split the opposition forces thus giving the Baltimore people a better chance to carry through their program.

TAFT AND TEDDY.

The fight for the Republican nomination for President grows warmer and warmer all the time and unless a big change comes it will certainly be hot. "Teddy" has been using his big stick on the present administration in a masterful way, and for a time it looked as though President Taft was going to sit still and take it but "Teddy" has at the primaries has at last forced him to take a different position, so he has thrown personal consideration to the wind and in Massachusetts has laid it on his predecessor thick. In doing this he must be aware that if he secures the nomination, his chances for election are much lessened, and it looks as though the party leaders have come to the decision that "Teddy" must be back even if the entire Republican party has to be sacrificed to accomplish it.

Mr. Roosevelt is expected to come at Mr. Taft just a little harder than he has been hit himself—in fact as hard as he is able to hit, and those who have crossed the path of the strenuous Ex President know how hard he can hit when he is fully aroused. The developments of the next few days will be eagerly watched by the people of this country, and if the future is to be judged by the past it will be well worth watching to see just what will happen.

Both forces are now concentrating all their effort to carry the State of Massachusetts and it seems to be tacitly agreed that as it goes so will the nomination.

In the meanwhile democrats are looking on with the smile on their faces which is growing bigger and broader all the time, for with the breach between the two factions growing more and more each day, the chance for a Democratic President grows brighter and brighter. Taft may beat Roosevelt in the nomination but in doing it he has beaten himself as the polls. And this is equally applicable to Mr. Roosevelt for his reply to Mr. Taft will probably be couched in such terms that he will forever alienate the friends and supporters of the administration. Go it boys. Good luck to both. May the end be like that of the famous Killarney case, is the hope and belief of the Democrats.

Delaware's State Fair.

Once more Delaware is to have a State fair and from present indications it will be not only the biggest event of the kind ever held in this State, but one of the really great fairs of the East. It is to be held September 10th to 13th, on the same grounds as heretofore, but the grounds will undergo marked alterations and improvements, and will be practically a new park long before the fair opens in September.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

sober-faced men, dressed in odds and ends, not pretty to look at; some tattered and hungry, but they fight hard. Mr. Conway was telling us yesterday of how they suffered all winter long, while we danced and feasted here, Washington himself sleeping with the snow drifting over him. You do not know the Americans, for you are not long across the water, but they are not the kind to be conquered by such child's play as this.

"You are an American, then?"
"By birth, yes," unhesitatingly. "We are of those loyal to the king, but—I admire men."

It was with an effort I restrained my words, eager to proclaim my service, yet comprehending instantly that I dare not even trust this plain-spoken girl with the truth. She respected the men, sympathized with the sacrifices of Washington's little army, contracted all they endured with the proficiency of the English and Hessian troops, and yet remained loyal to the king's cause. Even as I hesitated she spoke again.

"What is your regiment?"
"The Forty-second Foot."

"You have not yet been in action in America?"

"No, but I have just crossed the Jerseys with dispatches."

She shook her head, her cheeks glowing.

"My home was there when the war began," she explained simply. "Now it is hate, pillage and plunder everywhere. We fled to Philadelphia for our lives, and have almost forgotten we ever had a home. We loyalists are paying a price almost equal to those men with Washington. 'Tis this memory which makes me so bitter toward those who play amid the ruins."

"Yet you have seemed to enter into the gay spirit of the occasion," and my eyes swept over her costume.

"Oh, I am girl enough to enjoy the glitter, even while the woman in me condemns it all. You are a soldier—a fighting soldier, I hope—and still you are here also seeking pleasure."

"True; I yielded to temptation, but for which I should never have come."

"What?"
"The dare in your eyes this afternoon," I said boldly. "But for what I read there I should be out yonder riding through the night."

She laughed, yet not wholly at ease, the long lashes drooping over her eyes.

"Always the woman; what would you do without my sex to bear your mistakes?"

"But was this a mistake? Did I read altogether wrong?"

"Don't expect a confession from me, sir," demurely. "I have no memory of any promise."

"No, the barest suggestion was all your lips gave; it was the eyes that challenged."

"You must have dreamed; perhaps you recall the suggestion?"

"I took it to mean that you would not be altogether averse to meeting me again through the kindness of some mutual friend."

"No doubt you have found such a friend?"

"I have scarcely seen a face I know tonight," I pleaded. "I cannot even guess from what place of mystery you appeared so suddenly. So now I throw myself upon your mercy."

"I wonder it is quite safe!" hesitatingly. "But, perhaps, the risk is equally great on your part. Ah! the lights go on again."

"And the band plays a Hungarian waltz; how better could we cement friendship than to that measure?"

"You think so? I am not so sure, and there are many names already on my card."

"Do not look," I interrupted swiftly, "for I claim first choice since this afternoon."

"You do?" and her eyes laughed into mine provokingly. "And I had forgotten it all; did I indeed promise you?"

"Only with your eyes."

"Oh, my eyes! always my eyes! Well, for once, at least, I will redeem even that visionary pledge," and her glance swept the room hastily. "But I advise that you accept my surrender quickly, sir—I am not sure but this was Captain Grant's dance, and he is coming now."

Rich Hall by Rogers.

The Bank of Naples (Southern Italy) has recently been the victim of fraud to the extent of $150,000, by means of game checks, the figures of which, however, had been cleverly altered and augmented with the aid of chemicals and a perforating machine. The trickster, of whom there is no trace, had checks cashed simultaneously at the branch offices in Turin, Florence and Rome.

Responsibilities of Citizenship.

The duties of citizens are not fulfilled so long as there is a single hovel in a city; a man, woman, or child sweated, or a hungry, uncared-for child in their midst.—Exchange.

Puzzled.

"What's the matter, John?" "Why, ma'am, here's a note from the master in which he tells me that he's off on a little holiday and he wants me to send his drawing materials along."

"Well, and isn't that plain enough?" "Hardly, ma'am. I don't know whether to send his paint brushes or a cork-screw."

Almost A Miracle.

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any land, according to W. B. Hootsclaw, Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had a 'dreadful cough,'" he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he never too use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for Coughs and Colds with excellent results. It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at All Drug Stores."

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. The result was healing."—Hon. John L. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

SOCIETY ARRAIGNED.

The great mistake being made on both sides of the Atlantic is that smart society is so engrossed with castle building that it loses sight of the fact that at any moment the master builder may call to them to drop their toys or tools and give an account of their stewardship. The reason we have so many divorces is that men and women become repellent to each other from the lives they lead. There is work enough for all women to do if only they address themselves to do it. Than doing nothing at all it would be better to take in a little washing.—Father Bernard Vaughan.

THE CHURCH AND PUBLIC HEALTH.

We are accustomed to estimate the state of Christianity by the number of church members and not by the figures of the bureau of vital statistics. Can it be that a community where the death rate is suspiciously high is at the same time one in which Christianity languishes? The afflictions of humanity, which are largely preventable, make it unnecessarily difficult for Christianity to fulfill its spiritual responsibilities to the world. A single handed, even with all its abundant resources, the church could not adequately sweep these obstacles from its path, but government, clothed with authority of the whole people, if supported by the co-operation of the church, can wrestle successfully with the problem. Thus, although Christianity has established its hospitals, its asylums, homes and dispensaries and its children minister to the sick and suffering, there remains a multitude of accidents and diseases with which she is as yet little acquainted and over which she is not sufficiently exercising herself. The church must now learn to discern the missionary in the doctor, the sanitary engineer, and the health official, and these in turn will learn to appreciate the spiritual function of an organization that interprets Christianity by concern for the health of its community.—R. Fulton Cutting, New York Philanthropist.

ATTACKING PROFESSORS.

Our colleges are full of educators whose heads are laden with all sorts of myths and fallacious theories, which they are constantly instilling into the minds of young men who are sent to them to be educated. We are working to counteract this condition by disseminating literature which will operate as an antidote for such teaching, which will remove the weeds that have grown up in the heads of some college professors and students and set them thinking along broad lines. It is a tedious and expensive undertaking, but it must be done if future generations are to be made clear thinking, broad men.—John Kirby, President National Association of Manufacturers.

WORTHY OF HONOR.

Two men I honor and no third—first the toll worn craftsman that with earth made implement laboriously conquers the earth and makes her man's; a second man I honor and still more highly—him who is seen toiling for the spiritually indispensable, not daily bread, but the bread of life. These two in all their degrees of honor. All else is chaff and dust, which let the wind blow whither it listeth.—Caryle.

The Three Spears

By Maud J. Perkins

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

A girl was riding toward Holcomb, riding like the wind on a wiry pinto. Behind her was an escort of four Yaqui maidens, who did not display the grace and abandon of their leader. She brought her horse up standing within a few feet of Holcomb's own, and the adventurer saw that she was not Indian at all, but pure Spanish. Her creamy, oval face, full scarlet lips and eyes like pools of black water made her very attractive.

The black eyes appraised Holcomb swiftly. He sat his horse like a cowboy, but the pack animal behind was laden with the outfit of the prospector. He was bronzed by hot suns, and his handsome face carried an expression of bold fearlessness that just escaped recklessness.

"Senor," she said, abruptly in Spanish, "don't go to the Three Spears."

"Why?" demanded Holcomb abruptly. For an instant his eyes sought the shimmering southwest, where three slender peaks arose from the gray of the desert into the hard blue of the sky.

"Danger!" With the single word the girl wheeled her horse abruptly and set off at a gallop toward the river with her cavalade. Their goal was a herd of cattle which was straying from the vicinity of the settlement.

Holcomb, pondering, rode on to the Yaqui town. It was situated near the only water within forty miles, a stream sunk deep in a cleft of the rocks. It was far below the level of the half desert prairie that stretched away to the mountains. The huts and tents of the town were grouped on a shelf just above high water.

Twoscore yards below the town, near where the women were washing clothes, the river dived into a deep orifice in the mountainside. Running at right angles with the stream was a range of mountains to the west, terminating in the distance with the "Three Spears."

Picking his way down to the river, along a trail steep and dangerous, Holcomb replenished his water supply, bought meat of the gullen Indians, and get out on his way to the west again. As he climbed to the plateau a chief halted him with upraised hand—a tall man with stern brown face and narrow eyes.

"The stranger must not go to the Three Spears," he grunted.

Holcomb returned the hostile gaze with calmness. He rolled a husk cigarette, lighted it and shook the reins. "I heard you, chief," he answered. The Indian stepped ungraciously aside.

An hour later Holcomb noted four dots on the northern horizon—two mounted Yaquis with pack horses, swinging out and ahead of him in a wide half-circle.

Holcomb was up next morning at the earliest break of dawn, for the "Three Spears" were less than a day's journey away and he was anxious to reach them. At noon, when he stopped for a hasty lunch, he was within the mouth of the defile which led to the higher fastnesses.

He was tightening the cinch of his horse, for the trail ahead was steep and narrow, when a sound caused him to wheel. The Spanish girl of the day before was coming toward him.

Her thin dress was torn and her moccasins were cut to shreds. There were angry bruises on her bare arms and she limped as she walked.

"You must go back!" she cried urgently in Spanish; "the Three Spears mean death."

His mouth set in an obstinate line. "I've traveled for six weeks to see the Three Spears. They say there's gold there; that's why the Indians guard them so closely."

The girl laid an imploring hand on his arm. "No, no!" Her earnestness could not be mistaken. "There is no gold there. But in the valley of the Three Spears is the burial place of the tribes. The Great Father comes there. And the white man must not see."

"If he profanes the valley with his footsteps, he dies. Even now the guards are waiting. They will kill you if you go on."

Holcomb's face fell. "I don't care much about graveyards," he muttered. "If there's no gold, I'm not curious. But," he asked abruptly, "what are you doing with this tribe?"

"My father had a ranch—there." She pointed to the southwest. "He died three months ago, and the Yaquis seized our cattle and horses. I am a prisoner, though they treat me kindly."

They are afraid I would bring the horses if they freed me."

"How did you get here?"

"The señor saw where the water flows into the mountain. At sundown when they were not watching, I let myself into the river, and was carried through to the other side. I had seen the boys do it in play."

"It was very dark, and the current is swift. Sometimes I struck upon the rocks, but the dear Virgin protected me, and I came into the blessed air again. After one passes through the mountain there is a secret path, much shorter than the horse must take, to the 'Three Spears.' So I was in time to warn the señor."

Holcomb seized the girl's hands impulsively in his own. "You did that for me?" he asked wonderingly. "But you were hurt—you must have been injured on the cruel rocks."

"No," she replied; "a few bruises. They are nothing. And I did it for myself, too, señor. I wanted to be free again."

The cowboy-prospecter burst into English: "You're sure a plucky little kid. I'll get you back to civilization, or bust a leg!" Texas Holcomb may have been a pretty tough citizen, but he ain't an ungrateful one. How do we get out of here? Them Indians may come surging down any time. An' I ain't goin' to take chances—with you along."

The girl smiled and colored at the look in his brown eyes. "The four horses are hidden just below," she replied, also in English and without accent. "We must take them and go north. If you do not come soon into their valley, they will creep back and find our footprints. If we leave the horses they will follow."

"Good; we'll take the horses then. Lead on; I'll follow. What may I call you, ma'am?"

"My name is Isabella de la Barbo, but father called me 'Chiquita.'"

"Chiquita—that means 'little one.' Chiquita it is!"

They found the hidden animals without trouble. The pack animals were laden with food, and with water in skins. This, explained Chiquita, was because the two Yaquis were going on a search for poorly-guarded cattle after Holcomb had been disposed of and his belongings appropriated.

The girl swung into the saddle of one of the horses, and they were off. By sundown they had put several miles between themselves and the dangerous "Three Spears." Chiquita cooked supper on the fire which Holcomb built, and never had the prospector tasted a meal more delicious.

Holcomb treated her as he would have his sister treated under similar circumstances. At night she slept the sleep of innocence and honest fatigue in his one blanket, while he shivered and dozed, since it grew chill when the sun went down.

By day they plodded northward at a good pace, Holcomb, "with his head on his shoulder," for there was danger of pursuit. But the Yaquis, evidently discouraged because of the start which the fugitives had obtained, and the number of fresh horses at their command, did not follow them.

Chiquita was an ideal traveling companion. She was always bright and gay, delighted with what the moment brought, and taking no thought of the morrow. She was quick to see the changing beauties of the vast country and point them out to Holcomb. Sometimes, with childish impulsiveness, she tugged at his sleeve or clasped his browned wrist, and he thrilled at her touch as the strings of the harp respond to the hand of the player.

After two weeks they came at last to the sight of a town nestling in a hollow below the ridge of hills on which they stood. It was mid forenoon. The clear air etched the hamlet with wonderful distinctness. They could see the toy men and women in the streets.

"There's Ascension, Chiquita," said Holcomb; "ain't you glad?"

"Yes," replied the girl, listlessly. The adorable sparkle had died out of her piquant face.

"So am I," went on the prospector. "Do you know why, little one?"

"She turned grave eyes upon him. "Why, my friend?"

"Because there's a priest there. Unless—" he added humbly, after a pause, "you don't want me. I know I ain't good enough."

The girl, rosy with happiness, flung herself into his arms. "Why, dearest one," she said, in her liquid Spanish, "I have loved thee always!"

Rising to the Occasion.

"Fifty dollars!" cried Watkins, after the judge had named the fine. "Why, Judge, that's an outrage. I admit I was going too fast, but $50—"

"Them's the figgers," said the judge, coldly. "All right, I'll pay," said Watkins, "but I'll tell you right now I'll never come through this town again."

"That's so," said the judge. "Wasn't by sorry, I'm sorry. You've been a mighty good customer, Bill," he added, turning to the sheriff, "hang crape on the courthouse, will ye? This here gentleman's about to pass on forever."—Harper's Weekly.

The English as Klaw Sees Them.

Mr. Marc Klaw, the American theatrical manager, who was quoted as saying that the English "are just about as emotional as a Limburger cheese," writes that what he really said was: "The English are a warm-hearted people, but are usually about as demonstrative as fromage de Brie (a large flat cheese)."

Deaf From Melon Seeds.

Williamsport, Pa.—Treating thirteen-year-old Carolina Garrison for deafness, Dr. G. D. Nutt found two watermelon seeds in the girl's right ear and one in the left. They had evidently been there since she was a child, and likely stuffed there by herself, unnoticed by her parents. Her hearing now is normal.
