OFFICERS OF WICOMICO COUNTY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION NAMED

Enthusiastic And Successful Meeting Of County Educators
Here Friday.

WELL-KNOWN OFFICIALS
ADDRESS THE ASSEMBLY

Delegates Are Chosen To Go To State Association Convention At Baltimore December 1st And 2nd—Attendance Averages In Elementary Schools Unusually High.

Wicomico teachers met last Friday in the assembly rooms of the local High School and the gathering was declared by many to be the most enthusiastic and successful ever held by the county association. Officers of the Wicomico County Teachers' Association were named for the ensuing year to be: President, Miss Ida Morris; Vice-President, Mr. George E. Bennett; Secretary and Treasurer, Miss Mamie Hastings.

The make-up of the various committees was also announced at the conclusion of the meeting as well as the officials of the associate departments, such as the Department of Secondary Education and Department of Rural Education. The names of these appointees are printed at the conclusion of this article.

At the morning session, Professor Thomas L. Gibson, State Supervisor of Music, addressed the assembly. He advocated a more thorough course in music in the various high schools and charged that this art was being neglected in many places. He also conducted two demonstration lessons which were taught by Miss Louise Hastings and Miss Francis Hopkins.
Superintendent Bennett spoke on "Administrative Problems." The latter contained some of the existing conditions in the High Schools of the county, particularly the use of the portable building. It was intimated that Salisbury needs a modern school building here prepared to take care of the great number of the higher grade students of Wicomico county.
The Teachers' Advisory Committee is a unique body not to be found in every county school system. Here it acts as a sort of cabinet to Superintendent Bennett who may call a meeting of its members at any time in order to go over any problem that might have arisen or to effect a satisfactory adjustment of them. Officers of the committee may take up at any time with Mr. Bennett any recommendations that might have come to their attention.

The annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association is to be held in Baltimore, December 1st and 2nd. Dr.
Norman Cameron, of the Baltimore City Training School, will preside as president of the Association. Delegates from this county will attend.

An enrollment of 3,866 white pupils and 1,378 colored in the elementary schools of Wicomico county is reported. Twenty-two schools show an average attendance in September of more than 90 per cent; 44 above 80 per cent and only six below 75 per cent. The percentage figures of the first ten follow:

Shad, 99.64; Allen, 95.96;
Mardela, 95.87; Siloam, 95.05; Freney,
94.34; Brick Kiln, 90.00; Williams,
93.91; East Salisbury, 93.06; Riverton,
93.91; Delmar Elem., 93.89.

Officers of the Wicomico County Teachers' Association for the coming year follow: Miss Ida Morris; vice-president, Mr. George E. Bennett; secretary-treasurer, Miss Mamie Hast-

SALISBURY ROTARY CLUB PLANS SPECIAL FEATURES FOR LADIES' NIGHT THURSDAY

Entertainment Committee Expects 100 Ladies To Be Present—At Last Meeting Chairman Of Boys Work Committee Gave A Most Favorable Report Of Activities.

Thursday night, November 2, has been set aside by the Salisbury Rotary Club as Ladies' Night and invitations have been sent to nearly one hundred Rotary ladies, the majority of whom, it is understood, have accepted and will be present. Special entertainment features have been planned for the evening, among which will be the presentation to each lady present of a gift from some member of the Club.
The gift, so far as possible, will represent the classification of the member presenting it.

At the last meeting of the Club, one of the most interesting reports of the year was rendered by Oscar L.
Morris, Chairman of the Boys' Work Committee. Mr. Morris outlined the work during the past year, during which the Rotary Club carried 205 people an average round-trip distance of 42 miles to ball games between Wicomico High and other schools.

The transportation section of the committee, which functioned 100 per cent, perfectly, also carried 42 boys to Camp Fairlee and brought them home at the end of their outing. The trip to camp and return covered 200 miles

ARMISTICE DAY IS NAMED FOR HOSPITAL DONATIONS

Armistice Day has been named by the Women's Auxiliary
Board of the Peninsula General Hospital as the day for receiving donations for the hospital and it is hoped that the gifts this time will greatly outnumber the lot received last year.

From all parts of the county word has come that the people were preparing to bring in large quantities of canned fruit and vegetables and other useful donations. This is evidence that the people in the various communities are recognizing the great work being carried on by this merciful Wicomico institution and are willing to do their share in maintaining it.

NEW DELMARVIA BOOK HAS BEEN PUBLISHED

Contains Interesting Information Of The Peninsula In Readable Form
Together With Attractive Views

Edward Noble Vallandigham, L.L.D., a son of the late Rev. James L. Vallandigham, who just before the Civil War Period was a much beloved Pastor of several of the ancient Presbyterian Churches on the lower Eastern Shore, and afterwards in upper Delaware, has just completed a book entitled "Delaware and the Eastern Shore," published by J. B. Lippincott Co., of Philadelphia, Pa. It is artistically bound and printed and filled with many attractive views of our Peninsula. It contains much interesting information in a most readable form and is different from any other book concerning Delmarvia heretofore published. The author is a native of the Peninsula and a graduate of the University of Delaware, where he was at one time Professor of Literature. His mother was a Miss Spence of Snow Hill, Md. He is a well known writer and newspaper correspondent and now resides in Boston, Mass.

A few years ago the Philadelphia Record published a popular series of illustrated articles by this author concerning our Peninsula.

We welcome this latest addition to the literature of our Peninsula and are glad to note that it contains a full appreciation of the people and places on this Peninsula with a delightful
New England viewpoint appearing here and there in it.

JACK COOGAN APPEARS FRIDAY IN "TROUBLE"

Boy Screen Star Will Be Shown At Arcade—Phanto, The Psychic
Marvel, Heads Vaudeville

Jack Coogan in "Trouble" is the headline at the Arcade Theatre this week. This famous little boy actor has become a favorite with all large city audiences and in "Phanto" and "Boys" he scored a wonderful success.
How over this play that is coming to the Arcade for Friday and Saturday shows little Jackie at his best and Salisbury movie fans will be mightily pleased with the performance.

Along with the green attraction, comes "Phanto," billed on the vaudeville boards as the Hindoo Seer and presenting a most amazing mental telepathy demonstration. Audiences are forever being lured on by the psychic wonders of these marvels and Phanto is said to be able to compete with the best in the land. His act should be highly interesting and will round out an unusually strong program.

and required two trucks and 12 cars.
The boys of the high school, in token of appreciation, sent tickets for all games to each member of the Rotary Club.

In reference to the school work along other lines, Chairman Morris appointed the same visiting committees this year as worked last year and insisted that at least one of these committees be ready to report each week.
The members will visit the same schools again during the 1922-23 session and it is the hope of the committee that even better work will be done during the coming seven or eight months than was done last year.

Other speakers of the evening were Rotarian Ralph O. Dulany, who gave an excellent talk on work with boys, and Rotarian James M. Bennett who talked along the same general lines.

BIBLE CLASS SPEAKER

The speaker next Tuesday evening at the Business Men's Bible Class at the "Y" will be the Rev. Dr. J. B.
Peters. His subject will be "The Foolishness of Excuses." These class are attracting a great amount of interest. Over sixty men were present last week.

FARMERS WILL HAVE READY MILK MARKET

Organization Plans Of Peninsula Ice Cream Company Perfected And Important Announcement.

With the announcement of the perfecting of the plans of organization of the Peninsula Ice Cream Company, comes another that should mean a great deal to the farmers of this and surrounding territories in dollars and cents. The new company will buy all milk produced locally and in order to encourage this production will run milk routes throughout the county on the State roads.

Heretofore, the farmers have had little demand for milk and consequently have not secured large herds. With the Peninsula Ice Cream Company taking all milk offered locally, in fact going out of its way to obtain milk, the farmers can increase the size of their herds and benefit materially not only from the sale of milk and milk products but from saving thousands of dollars spent annually in buying manure in Philadelphia and New York.

It is estimated by those in position to know that the creamery in Federalsburg last year paid to the farmers about $25,000. In addition to this, the farmers obtained manure valued at close to $40,000, which brought their total revenue due to the creamery to $65,000. What the creamery has done for Federalsburg, the Peninsula Ice Cream Company can do for Wicomico.

The company is composed entirely of local men and although no manager has as yet been selected, it is understood that when the appointment is made, the man chosen will be a Salisburyman.

CHILD SUFFERS BROKEN LEG IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mr. Arthur Holloway And Family In Collision With Car Filled With Negroes—At Hearing Monday
Dwarfed Chauffeur Provokes Mirth
With Description Of Accident.

Trailing behind the machine of Mr.
Gerald Downing Sunday morning on Camden Avenue extended, a big touring car driven by Robert Johnson, colored, turned suddenly to pass the car ahead and crashed into Mr. Arthur Holloway and family, who were coming to Salisbury in their machine.
The latter car was badly damaged and the occupants considerably shaken up and bruised. Billy, the two-year-old son of Mr. Holloway, suffered a broken leg at the ankle, while Mrs. Holloway was cut in the face.

At the hearing on Monday morning,
Johnson was arraigned before Justice
Jones on four charges, namely: operating car without license, using license other than to whom issued, passing car when way ahead was not clear and failing to give right of way. Officer Raymond Echols of the state police force preferred the charges.
The colored chauffeur was fined $10 and costs on the first two charges, $5 and costs on the third and the fourth one was dropped. The total fine amounting to $27.95 was paid.

Johnson threw the courtroom into an uproar with his animated defensive arguments and description of the accident. Although a dwarf in size, he boasts of a very keen mind. The judge and spectators were very much amused at his recounting of the incidents that happened Sunday morning.
Judge and men of those three other fellows over there were on our way to Princess Anne about 11 o'clock Sunday morning when a Reo truck driven by that Mr. Downing passed us on Camden Avenue. I followed it for about six blocks and Judge when they stopped without signalling with their hands, I just had to turn out quickly to keep from hitting them. And then right in front of me was this other car which had stopped. I could have made it between them but Mr. Holloway started up and to keep from hitting him I turned up into the shell

Apples Are Featured In Various Displays

"Apple Week" Is Begun And Fruit Is Conspicuous In Eating Places
And On Street Stands

This is "Apple Week" sponsored by the International Apple Shipper's Association. It began Tuesday and will end November 6th. Governor Ritchie has issued a proclamation to this effect in keeping with proclamations by the Chief Executive of other States in which apples are cultivated, in order to make the week national in scope.

Hotels and restaurants in this city are including the fruit conspicuously on their menus while apples are being displayed advantageously by merchants and the curb vendors. Apples on every side, singly and in quantities appeal to innumerable palates. The bumper crop this year is said to be due to the excellent apple-growing weather this State has experienced this season.

THEIR GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Levin W. Dorman will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Monday evening, November, twentieth, at their home on N.
Division Street.

RED CROSS TO WAKE COUNTY BY ROLL CALL

Local Leaders Plan Drive For Membership During Week
Of November 20-25.

RED CROSS SERVICES
IN CHURCHES NOV. 19

Workers Of Local Chapter Will Canvass Homes In Salisbury And County Districts For New Members And Renewals—American Organization
Very Active—Disabled Veterans Benefit

Local Red Cross workers will make a house to house canvass in this county for new members and renewals on the days included by "Roll Call" week which has been named for November 20th to 25th. The 19th will be Red Cross Day in all Salisbury and county churches and special services will be held appropriate for the occasion.
The national "Roll Call" day is November 11th.

Wicomico Red Cross leaders are planning for a big drive during the above period that is calculated to interest everyone in the noble work being accomplished by this wonderful organization. Mrs. D. Laird Todd is the chairman of this county's roll-call committee and Mrs. George Cobb is publicity chairman. Mr. Fred Webb is the chairman of the Red Cross organization in this county; Mrs. Fred
P. Adkins is vice-chairman, and J. S.
Taylor is secretary. Miss Roxie Pusey treasurer and Miss Kell is the public health worker.

Miss Kell is doing a remarkable piece of work in this county and her efforts are resulting in many worthwhile accomplishments. A number of cases have been attended to by this nurse during the past month that otherwise would not have received any attention. Local Red Cross officials are hoping that the people of Wicomico County are recognizing the great work being done both in the community and throughout the nation and will therefore support the movement unselfishly when the time for "Roll Call" comes along.

Approximately $9,000,000 will be extended by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending next June for the relief of former service men disabled during the World War.
Care of the ex-service men and their families is regarded as a primary Red Cross responsibility, and that it should be a primary responsibility of the community. The Red Cross nurses are not niggardly regarding patient study of an intricate problem and continual readjustments to situations as they exist and develop.

"The function of the Red Cross," said John H. Payne, national chairman, in this year's annual report, "is not to usurp the government's responsibilities, but to supplement official activity; harmoniously co-operate with official plans and methods; and seek out the individual

THE NEWS WILL SHOW COMPLETE ELECTION VOTE

Returns From Wicomico County Districts And State Will Be Flashed
On Screen Tuesday Night—Special Western Union Wire Leased—Excellent Service Assured For Interested Parties

Election returns, both county and state will be received Tuesday night in the offices of the Wicomico News on Main Street and will be flashed across the street on a screen for the benefit of Salisbury people and those coming in from the counties. The News has concluded arrangements with representatives in each of the 16 election districts in the county that will insure an accurate reporting of the voting and which will give to the public the final count the moment it is completed.

Lease of a special Western Union wire has been secured from the telegraph company. A receiving apparatus will be set up in the office and an operator will there receive election returns from all over the state. The service rendered by the News to its friends will be on a par with that of city papers and no stone has been left unturned in preparing for an accurate and up-to-the-minute reporting of all voting returns.

A corps of workers will be in the News office early Tuesday evening and as stated will be attended to by the editorial staff and its assistants.
Both Republican and Democratic leaders are enthused over this plan of receiving the returns not only from Wicomico county but from every other county in the state. They have commended the management of the News for its interest in the election and means of distributing information.

Crowds are expected to congregate in front of the News office Tuesday night to watch the projection on the screen across the street of all returns as they come in over special telephone and telegraph wires. Those parties who are unable to get downtown may learn how things are going for Bruce and France by calling 910. This phone has been designated by the paper as the information line.

HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY BENEFITING STUDENTS

Reference Works Used To Advantage Classes Of Former Years Are Donating Additional Volumes.

Wicomico High School students are considering themselves very fortunate in having a school library operating for their benefit. A room has been fitted up for this purpose and every period in the day, as well as before and after school hours, students may be found studying additional references in their school work.

A very creditable showing has already been made in the number of volumes in the library but many more must be added before the library will be of the greatest service to the school.

Much help in building up this library is coming from former students of the high school. The Teachers' Training Class of 1917 bought and gave to the High School a Liberty Bible. The support each year since have been given to the best English student in the graduating class. The class donating this bond has decided that there is now an opportunity for this to be of greater service to the pupils of the Wicomico High School.
They have voted that the bond be sold and the proceeds used to purchase books for the high school library.

A commercial class of the same year also gave the school a bond. It has been decided to use this to buy reference works helpful in the work of this department.

The class of 1922 has given the proceeds from their class play to the school to be used for the benefit of the library.

COUNTRY CLUB AGAIN LOOMS UP PROMISING

Group Of Prominent Young Men In Salisbury Have Been Active On Venture For Some Time—Experts
Inspect Various Sites And Agree
On Tony Tank Location

The matter of a country club for Salisbury's society set has been again brought up and from present indications the prospects of a clubhouse and golf links are very bright. Like the hotel proposition, the country club idea is not a new one. But linked with its sister venture it has again forged to the front and this Fall finds concrete steps being taken for the consummation of such plans.

Last week the services of two experts were engaged by Messrs. Jack Gunby and William Jackson, Jr. These two men, one well versed in country club construction and the other in the laying out of a golf course, visited this city and together with interested parties looked over the field and desirability of certain locations. Both agreed on a spot that they considered was ideal for such a venture.

In their estimation, ground just beyond the Tony Tank dam on the Princeton Avenue near the estates of Colonel Humphrey and Dr. Waller would make a most desirable location for Salisbury's Country Club. Bounded on one side by the state road and on the other by the railroad, the site would be a distinct advantage to the city. The property would have to be purchased from Mr. John Rider and S. Franklin Woodcock.

It is the plan of the promoters, who are prominent young men here, to get 15 supporters to each put in $1,000 in the buying of the property. Then 100 members would be sought who would pay dues of $100, this fund to go towards the erection of a club house and golf course. However, a committee will view carefully all sites and offer their selection to the whole body for approval. Locations on the river are being favorably considered also. Much enthusiasm is being displayed in the project.

Is Awarded $20,000 For Husband's Death

Judgment In Favor Of Mrs. John W.
Davis Against American Oil Co.,
Rendered In Baltimore Court

Mrs. John W. Davis was rendered a verdict of $20,000 in the Baltimore Courts last week in her suit against the American Oil Co. Suit was instituted against the Company after the death of Mr. Davis in an accident on the Ocean City road.

Driving a truck loaded with gum logs, Davis was thrown to the ground and his skull crushed by one of the logs when his vehicle was side-swiped by a truck belonging to the Oil Company and in charge of Charles Vincent, with Borden Justice driving.

The widow, who has a son 14 years of age, charged negligence on the part of the driver as being responsible for the death of her husband. She was represented by Long & Johnson, Freney & Waller, of this city, and Mr.
Lindsay, of Baltimore.

AUTO STRIKES LITTLE GIRL

In trying to get across the street on her way back from lunch to school, Mary Esther Bell, 7 years old, and daughter of Mr. Alan Beauchamp, of the Snow Hill Road, was struck by a machine driven by Mr. George Roberts, of Vine street. The injured girl was rushed to the Hospital, but didn't regain consciousness for hours. Injuries are feared, but no bones were broken.

UNIQUE SENATE RACE NEARS END WITH ISSUE BEYOND PARTY LINES

WICOMICO NEWS TO GET FULL ELECTION RETURNS

Through special arrangements with the Western Union Telegraph Company and with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, The Wicomico
News will receive the full election returns on the night of November seventh. Returns will be made public as rapidly as they are received.

For those who are unable to be in the city on election night, a special trunk line has been engaged. Call phone number 910 and any information at hand about the election will be gladly furnished you. This is just another example of the service
The News renders the public.

BISHOP DAVENPORT TO LEAD MEETINGS HERE

Dr. Loaring Clark Will Be Principal Speaker At Number Of Conferences And Services.

Bishop Davenport has issued an urgent request for all the members of Salisbury Parish, as well as all those interested in the work of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Eastern, to be present at the services and conferences in St. Peter's Church, as listed here, to prepare for the "intensive work of the Fall campaign."

On Thursday, November 2nd, at 3:00 p. m., Dr. Loaring Clark will address a meeting of all the leaders and workers of Salisbury Parish and will help them organize their local campaign work. At 7:30 p. m. there will be a mass meeting in St. Peter's Church to which everyone will be welcome.

On Friday, November 3rd, there will be services at 11 a. m., 2:30 p. m., and 7:30 p. m., led by Dr. Clark. An Institute for training Diocesan leaders in conducting conferences on the church's missions, will be one of the features of the program. Representatives will be here from every parish in the Diocese. Bishop Davenport himself will be here also and hopes to form groups early on the work.

DELMAR IS THREATENED BY BARBER SHOP FIRE

New Apparatus Checks Blaze From Exploded Oil Stove That Menaces
First Street Block

Delmar's new fire apparatus answered its first alarm on Saturday morning about 10 o'clock when an oil stove exploded in the barber shop of W. H. Cannon on First St., and soon enveloped the building in flames. The fire was quickly extinguished by the apparatus. With their new truck the firefighters made a quick response to the alarm and found the building ablaze and the whole block threatened by the conflagration which was checked by chemicals. The barber shop adjoins Brown's Garage, a point where the street is very narrow and crowded on Maturday morning with machines.

Mr. Cannon was in Salisbury at the time of the blaze and knew nothing of his loss until he returned to Delmar in the afternoon. Large mirrors were destroyed and a lot of electrical equipment and one barber chair, the interior of the building was badly damaged and the loss will be about $2,000 which is partly covered by insurance. One barber chair was saved.

ORGANIZATION OF BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT ON EASTERN SHORE PROCEEDING RAPIDLY

Troops Are Being Established In Many Communities And Leaders Are Awaiting Arrival Of Competent Scout Executive Who Will Direct Scout Affairs From Salisbury.

Work of getting the Boy Scout movement well organized on the Eastern Shore is proceeding rapidly and satisfactorily. Troops have already been established in several communities, and with the perfection of the organization for this district, and the arrival of a competent Scout Executive, the movement is expected to take on a fresh impetus.

The members of the Executive Board are John W. Noble, Preston, President; Dr. A. A. Parker, Pocomoke, first vice-president; Charles F.
Brougham, Easton, second vice-president; L. Atwood Bennett, Salisbury, third vice-president; F. W. C. Webb, Salisbury, treasurer; Harry L. Harcum, Salisbury, chairman of the financial committee.

Graham Watson, Centerville, chairman of troop organization; Howard Hirst, Cambridge, chairman of camping; Calvert L. Estill, Salisbury, chairman of publicity; W. B. Cropper, Chesertown, chairman of civic activities; E. C. Fontaine, Pocomoke, chairman of scout training; Judge Robert F. Duer, Princess Anne, chairman of the committee on scout honor.

Bruce And France Contest One Of Conservatism Against Radicalism.

BOTH SIDES CLAIMING
VOTE IN SHO' COUNTIES

Jackson Forces May Cut Down Democratic Majority In Wicomico Although Republicans Are Said To Be Swinging Toward Bruce—Indications Point To Light Vote Tuesday

With election day but five days distant, the end of what veteran politicians describe as an unique campaign is near at hand. On next Tuesday the denouement will be here, and with it disaster for William Cabell Bruce or disillusionment for Joseph Irwin France.

The closing days of the campaign find the air full of whispering with each party having its supporters.
However when it comes to phophy-ing, political observers and judges are at a loss. There are those who think the indications point to Bruce and that according to the form sheet
he should be an easy winner.

Others believe there to be a large element of doubt in such a prediction and that the organization is going to be a bit hazy. There are those who think the indications point to Bruce
and that according to the form sheet
he should be an easy winner.

In these days it is customary to remark that party lines are being more and more disregarded, but in the present senatorial contest in Maryland party lines seem hardly to have figured at all. The issue, so far as it has been observed, is not that of a Democratic candidate against a Republican opponent, but conservatism against radicalism.

Here in Salisbury at the Democratic mass-meeting recently held, Mr.
Bruce sought to pillory Senator France by denouncing his communistic tendencies and bohemian ideas. Such has been the attack of the former Public Service Commission counsel as launched in all parts of the State.
He has said little against the Republican party or against the Harding Administration.

So it is clear that Mr. Bruce is playing strong for the Republican vote and it appears that he is going to get no small number of votes from this quarter and from the unaffiliated section. Members of the Bruce Republican Club have written a letter to Senator William F. Jackson re-belling against his stand that aims to put France back into the senatorial halls at Washington.

Meanwhile, Senator France has been "laying low" and his tactics, as a matter of fact, have been somewhat mystifying to the practical politicians of both parties. After a vigorous struggle against Garrett, he has ap-
further effort, with the exception of the vicarious effort supplied by the public printer and by the Postoffice Department.

However in his last speeches, Senator France has taken a stand against the passage of the Administration
Ship Subsidy bill at this time

PIGGY WIGGLY STORE IS ASSURED SALISBURY

Vice-President Hostler States If Company Cannot Secure Desirable Lease It Will Build

Representatives of the famous Piggy Wigglly system of stores were in the city last week, looking over the territory here, preparatory to placing two of their stores in Salisbury. Vice-President James G. Hostler, when interviewed by a News reporter, stated that plans had about been completed for the installation of one of the stores here within the next month or two.

Inability to find a desirable location, the official said was the only thing holding the company back at this time. In event of the Piggy Wigglly system not securing a lease in a favored section, it would buy and build, he added. However he made it clear that the building would be done with money belonging to individuals at the head of the organization and not with the local capital invested.

Both Mr. Hostler and Mr. Sears, the representative in this territory were enthusiastic over the proposition in this city and stated that but little stock was left to be disposed of and that they were endeavoring to sell it in small lots that the enterprise might become a community affair in which many were interested and not a cold business venture for a small number of financiers.

That the stores operated by the Piggy Wigglly company provide a market for the local trucking farmers is pointed out emphatically by their agents. And another important feature is that each store is in charge of a capable and experienced man who is authorized to make purchases of large lots of vegetables, fruits and the like in the community where he is located which are then distributed to the other stores. Thus the Piggy Wigglly system furnishes a ready market for home products and will pay good prices for them inasmuch as the middleman is dispensed with altogether.

MARY E. RICHARDSON

Funeral services of Miss Mary E. Richardson were held Thursday at the home of her sister, Mrs. George H. Jackson, near Pittsville. Miss Richardson died on Tuesday afternoon after having suffered a stroke of paralysis the evening before. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Richardson and was 81 years old.

The deceased was a member of the M. P. Church and a very devoted and respected Christian. Early in life, she became a member of the household of the late Edward White, of Whiton, and lived with members of this family for over 60 years. When she was buried her remains rested beside those of Mr. and Mrs. White in the Mt. Zion cemetery. She is survived by four sisters: Mrs. John H. Ellis, Mrs. Mary Ellen Sturgis, Mrs. T. C. P. Jones and Mrs. George H. Jackson. One brother, Mr. Zed Richardson also survives.

NEW LIGHT SHED ON HIGHWAY DISCUSSION

Well-Known Publicist Tells Of Use Of Vitriol In Building Modern Highways

New light has just been shed in the discussion concerning the origin and development of improved highways in the world. No less a personage than Edward W. Bok contributes the newest bit of information.

Edward Bok is one of the best known publicists in the United States. For thirty years he was editor of the Ladies Home Journal. More than a million readers felt they were almost personally acquainted with him while he was editorially active. Thousands more have come to know him through reading his famous autobiography, "The Americanization of Edward Bok."

He was born in Holland.

It is generally known that Appian Claudius, the Roman censor, built the first really durable highway in 311 B. C. This highway named the Appian Way, runs from Rome to Capua. It still exists and carries traffic. Although it involves many features applicable to present day construction, the cost of building such a highway today would be prohibitive.

The Appian way was built principally by slaves and was designed for a military highway. The labor cost was practically nil. It was constructed of stone and mortar, frequently to a depth of four feet and was surfaced with stone slabs or gravel.

The question, however, as to the origin of the modern type of highway surface has always been in dispute. Under "modern types" are included vitrified brick, asphalt and concrete.

Herein lies the interest in the following quotation taken from an article by Edward Bok and published in the October issue of the Atlantic Monthly.

"We captured half a load last night," said the police. "Will you put it on top of yours and take it over to town?"

"Sure!" said the chauffeur. And the police are still looking for the truck load of boze.—Everybody's Magazine.

"Where did you make the haul?" asked the police.

"Up the road a ways," said the chauffeur.

Europe Going Back to Farm

Dr. L. C. Gray, economist of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, after an extended survey in Europe says big estates are being cut into small tracts and the people are going back to the land, producing more for home than commercial uses.

ly. Under the title "Well, I Didn't Know That," Mr. Bok writes:

"I was watching a brick road being built in Pennsylvania, when the contractor said to me: 'Best kind of a road, this. We have brick roads in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Missouri, that are from twenty-nine to thirty-two years old, with the roads still in excellent condition. We Americans beat the world in road-building.'"

"I thought the Romans laid a road or two abroad which have stood up pretty well," I ventured.

"Yes, but not of brick. No century has ever tried brick roads. We lead the world," returned the contractor; and then he added, "Do you doubt that?"

"No," I answered, "I don't doubt it; I KNOW America never led the world in brick road-building."

"Where have they ever tried it and got away with it as we have?" he asked, with a delicious contempt in his voice.

"Well," I replied, "England, for one country, has a few brick roads that that have done their bit. There are brick roads in the Netherlands, where they are over one hundred years old, laid in Napoleon's time, and just as good as when they were laid, if not better."

"Of brick?" he asked.

"Of brick, vitrified brick; in fact, the vitrification of brick was brought to practical perfection by the Dutch," I replied.

"And then came the inevitable, 'Well I didn't know that!'"

A New Prohibition Tale.

An ex-soldier had turned bootlegger. Not far from the Canadian border some state police beheld a truck-load of boze. On the seat, handcuffed to the chauffeur, were two sad-faced-looking individuals. At once the state police conjectured the chauffeur was some prohibition officer who had captured the handcuffed gentlemen.

"Where did you make the haul?" asked the police.

"Up the road a ways," said the chauffeur.

MARDELA HIGH SCHOOL MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Maintains Excellent Play-Ground For 140 Pupils And Holds Special Entertainments.

The high school at Mardela Springs is making good progress along all lines of school work. To begin with, there is a fine well-kept building. It seems in some particular very boy-like and there is a concerted effort by both teachers and pupils to keep conditions attractive. The teachers have put up at their own expense a book-case in the upper hall with five departments, each with a door, lock and key. Every teacher knows where the books of her room are and knows also that they are safe and clean and neat and when a book is needed for any pupil in any room the teacher can locate it in a very short time.

The play-ground is well kept and is said to be the largest and finest play-ground adjoining the school building in the county. The boys are fine soccer players and becoming more thorough in the art. Base ball also has some attention and the boys play well. The girls are quite proficient in playing volleyball. In all these games much interest is shown and the playing is all done. There is also a kitchen and this too is very much like home, neat and well kept. Sandwiches are served hot and at a price slightly over the cost; this is for the convenience of many pupils.

Last year they held entertainments on every Wednesday morning and apart from the program furnished by the pupils some speaker from the town or elsewhere would address the meeting. This year the program has been slightly changed, having an entertainment by the school every Friday evening and a special public meeting once a month. On Wednesday of last week they held their first regular monthly meeting. The school had arranged a very interesting exercise: recitations, music and graphophone selections. Miss Lois Elliott presided at the piano. L. T. Cooper of Sharptown talked to the student body along the lines of obedience, the first law of school work, the necessity of an education and that the only way to secure it is by hard study.

The faculty is the same as last year. Prof. F. P. Blunt, principal; Prof. Geo. E. Bennett, near Mardela, Misses Blanch Owens, Maud Bennett and Lula Bounds also of Mardela. A strong teaching force is vitally interested in the school and the community. The order of the school is excellent and the very best feeling seems to exist throughout the entire system. The school is planning a trip to Washington and arranging methods of securing the funds by entertainments and otherwise.

There are one hundred and forty pupils registered in the building and 33 of them in the high school department, an increase over last year's record. The attendance is good, ranking very near the top in point of average. The teachers, pupils and patrons are looking forward for the 11th grade to be added and are working to that end.

Unique Senate Race Near End With Issue Beyond Party Lines

sive and will have something to say in rebuttal to Mr. Bruce's assailing phrases.

The Democrats claim they have the counties won for Bruce. The Republicans, on the other hand, are not so boastful; but predict liberal majorities in Cecil and Somerset and the Southern Maryland counties. They also feel satisfied about Allegany, Garrett and Washington. The recent registration in Baltimore is most encouraging to the Democrats and it is likely that Bruce will safely carry the big city.

Here in Wicomico count, the registration figures show the Democrats to have a majority of close to 2,500 and the consensus of opinion among dyed-in-the-wool followers of the political game points to a Bruce victory here despite the activities of the Jackson forces.

T. Alan Goldsborough does not appear to be worrying much over the likelihood of his defeat in re-election by the other candidate in the first district, Mr. Charles J. Butler. The latter is not very widely known and then again Representative Goldsborough has won for himself commendation not only from his friends on the Shore but throughout the State and Country. Indications are that the voting next Tuesday will be rather light. The contest this year has been regarded more or less apathetically by the electorate and it hardly seems probable that the usual amount of interest will be aroused when the polls open on November 7th.

There is one thing that will probably insure a certain degree of serious thinking on the part of the voters and that is the inclusion of the five proposed amendments upon the ballots. All of them are of vital interest. The county people may be expected to pass favorably upon the Fewer Election amendment and that regarding the office of Treasurer and State Comptroller. The Fifth Amendment which provides for the removing of all restrictions against women who desire to hold office in Maryland is being debated strongly on both sides. As regards greater representation for Baltimore City, the county citizens are bitterly opposed to such a move.

in the standardized mass and his peculiar needs.

On Armistice Day (November 11), when the American Red Cross opens its annual roll call for membership, there will be under treatment in government hospitals more than 25,000 veterans. In the opinion of the Surgeon General of the Army the peak of disabled men under reconstruction will not be reached until 1926.

During the fiscal year ending last June, 2679 Red Cross chapters in all sections of the country were recorded active in the soldier relief work. During that year they reported 1,655,079 individual instances of services to such men and their dependents at a cost estimated at more than $5,340,000. More than 1000 persons, paid and volunteer, were engaged in Red Cross work in Government hospitals and the Veterans Bureau district offices. More than 37,000 compensation and insurance claims were handled, 24,560 allowances and allotment cases and 9700 miscellaneous claims. Since February, 1919, when this service was established, it has disposed of 64,174 allotment checks payable to veterans which the postoffice reported undeliverable.

The basis of this stupendous work is the individual need, and the Red Cross is concentrated upon it to the end that the disabled ex-service man may obtain all his rights under the law and that his own and his family's situation may be rendered free from care and worry.

STOP DRAFTS, USE STORM DOORS, KEEP WARM AND CONSERVE COAL

With the prospect of a cold winter, aggravated by a slim coal supply, the Department of Commerce has announced precautions which every Wicomico household may use in conserving his coal. These recommendations are:

Stop all unregulated drafts through the house. Use storm doors and storm or double windows on the side of the house facing the prevailing cold wind.

Plug cracks around or in all windows and doors.

See that there are no cracks in window casings or between walls and casings, or between the sash. Tighten sash locks.

Inspect windows and walls of attic. Dead air in an attic keeps the lower stories warmer.

Cover furnace and steam and hot water heating pipes, if practicable.

Close openings between walls and use newspapers under the carpets, if there are drafts through the floor.

Study manufacturers' directions as to care of furnace. Replace cracked or broken grates. Examine dampers of fireplaces. When fireplaces and stoves are not in use dampers should be closed. Clean chimney and stove pipes periodically or whenever necessary.

Remember that thermometers are better gauges of heat than are the various members of a family. Sixty-eight to 70 degrees is a normal, healthful temperature for a room in which people live.

road on Mr. Allen's property and so did Mr. Holloway and we both came together, that's all."

When interrupted by State's Attorney Long and reminded that Mr. Downing and his companions in the parked car, Horace Downing and Robert Lowe, had testified that they they had given a stop signal and that he (Johnson) must have had eyesight, the negro replied, "Mr. Lawyer, I've not got bad eyesight, them fellows got bad memory." In the course of a heated discussion, the little ebony-hued chauffeur pointed to Officer Eicholtz and cried out, "Ask big boy there he knows 'bout the brakes on a car."

However, testimony in the case showed that Mr. Downing had stopped his machine when he was about to turn up into the Allen road in order to wait for Mr. Holloway to get by. The car with the colored occupants traveling close behind had to swerve out to avoid running into this car and as a result made a headlong collision with Mr. Holloway seemingly unavoidable. Both drivers turned up into the small intersecting road and there the accident occurred which resulted in the small child having his leg broken. Undoubtedly the car with the negroes in it was traveling at too great a speed to prevent the accident which happened.

Colonel Waters, of Princess Anne, represented Johnson at the hearing at the request of the latter's father who is a farmer near the Somerset county seat. Sheriff Farlowe attached the car at the instance of Mr. Holloway's attorney. The machine bore a Pennsylvania license and belongs to a friend of Johnson's who having borrowed money from him allows him the use of the car.

MRS. RIFFE GIVES PARTY.

Mrs. Herbert Riffe entertained a number of friends at her home on Camden Avenue Tuesday night. The interior decorations were very attractive and appropriate to the "spooky" atmosphere of Halloween. The guests were all masked and after taking part in many enjoyable games, including a visit to the corpse in the dark room in the attic, they were served refreshments.

A young school teacher had just arrived at the home of a country school director where she was to board. The director desired to make his importance known.

"You probably seed my picher in this here county's paper, ain't you?" he began.

"I believe I have," replied the young woman. "I think you were among the political candidates, weren't you?" "Now, I been taking 'Dr. Pain's Cure-all.'—Everybody's Magazine.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

THAT the average Editor lives a quiet life, mid peace and plenty.

THAT the more he labors to uplift his community, the more are his motives questioned.

THAT if he takes a hand in local politics, he is accused of being crooked.

THAT if he does not, he is accused of being a coward.

THAT if he advocates public improvements, he is condemned and his motives are under suspicion.

THAT if he stands for law and order, he is charged with truckling to the preachers.

THAT if he takes a stand for prohibition, he is denounced as a fanatic.

THAT if he advocates light wines and beer, he is branded as a drunkard.

THAT if he roasts the mail-order houses, he is told to mind his own business, that people have a right to buy where they please.

THAT if he prints mail-order advertisements, the merchants land on him with both feet.

THAT if he tries to discuss fairly, the merits of public utility corporations, he is accused of being owned by them.

THAT the life of the average Editor is indeed made exceedingly pleasant.

THAT if the people would only realize the truth, they would boost the editors.

THAT they are the greatest community leaders you have.

ELECT BRUCE AND GOLDSBOROUGH.

"We refuse to consider Dr. France a Republican, as we know and respect that term. The friend of America's enemies is no Republican; one who openly consorts with a communistic government, which avowedly seeks the overthrow of our most sacred institutions is no Republican; the man who repudiates the Republican party on the floor of the Senate is no Republican; the Senator who by a disgraceful abuse of his franking privilege turns public funds to private use is no Republican."—Baltimore Sun.

Thus speak the members of the Bruce Republican Club in a letter to Senator William P. Jackson in announcing their opposition to giving Senator France again the privilege of entering the Senatorial halls.

That they are right, will be emphatically conceded by the entire Democratic party of the State, by many of the most influential Republicans, and by a vast majority of the independent voters of Maryland. The opinion of these men and women will be unmistakably shown on November seventh when it is believed Mr. William Cabell Bruce will carry the State.

The election of United States Senator has passed far beyond the bounds of partisan politics. It is time now for the people of Maryland to revolt openly and determinedly against any party, person, or principle which might endanger the safety of this nation, perhaps of the whole world. We need not only average statesmanship, but superlative statesmanship if this nation is to weather the storms of the future and come out in peace, security, and prosperity. William Cabell Bruce is able to assume the duties of the high office to which he aspires, and he has the requisite statesmanship to bring honor to the name of his native State and material aid to solving the problems of national government.

Throughout his entire career, he has stood for the best principles of government. He has served with a single purpose his State and the people of his State, and we trust that the United States Senatorship from Maryland may be his just reward.

Mr. Bruce has back of him the best thought, the most influential people, and the strongest organizations in Maryland. So vast is the difference between bolshevism and true merit, that the fight for election has lost its partisan aspect, and the strongest leaders of both parties are behind the Democratic nominee and behind him to win.

As for Representative T. Alan Goldsborough, his election is practically conceded. The Republican nominee, Charles J. Butler, is certainly not widely known, whereas Mr. Goldsborough has for the past term been exceedingly active and has won commendation not only in his own State but throughout the nation as well. The First District would make a serious mistake in sending to Congress an inexperienced, untried Representative, to take the place of such a man as the present incumbent. And it is with this, as well as Mr. Goldsborough's excellent qualifications in mind, that we urge the voters of Wicomico County to support him at the polls on Tuesday, November seventh.

If the Democratic voters, the independent voters, and the Republican voters, who have the security of their nation at heart, will turn out in force on election day and cast their ballots for the men who are pre-eminently the leaders on the ticket, Bruce and Goldsborough, there is little doubt of their success, and with their success will come to Maryland again a right to raise her head in pride instead of hanging it in shame whenever her name is linked—though against her will—with the bolsheviks of Russia and the anarchists of America.

Elect William Cabell Bruce to the United States Senate and T. Alan Goldsborough to the House of Representatives next Tuesday.

THE COUNTIES WILL LOSE THEIR POWER IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY UNLESS YOU VOTE AGAINST THE AMENDMENTS GIVING BALTIMORE CITY INCREASED REPRESENTATION.

PASS THE FIRST AMENDMENT.

The first amendment on the ballot this year provides that the terms of office of the Treasurer and the Comptroller shall be increased from two to four years. This amendment should, by all means, be passed.

As these offices are at present administered, the officials are elected every two years. This means that just in the midst of a gubernatorial regime, the Board of Public Works automatically goes out of office and the State goes into the throes of another election, a condition which causes unrest, useless expense, and sometimes positive harm to the best interests of the State.

If the Fewer Elections amendment is passed, as we trust it will be, the amendment in reference to the Treasurer and Comptroller, should also be passed. But even if the Fewer Elections change is not accepted by the people, the first amendment referred to should be acted upon favorably by the voters.

There is a general movement on foot, and has been for a long time, to lessen the number of elections of every sort and thus to give the really capable men in office a chance to show what they can do. Under the terms of the State Constitution at present, public officials may serve one, two, four, or more years. From the fact that those who hold the most responsible positions are elected or appointed, in general, for the longer terms, it is reasonable to suppose that there is good reason for this.

In the handling of the finances of the State there is surely enough responsibility and detail to make desirable the election for four years of the men charged with this work. By the acceptance of the first amendment on the ballot, therefore, the State would save money in efficiency, and do away with the unrest caused by unnecessary election. Pass the amendment.

SOME AMERICANS ABROAD.

While it may be true that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country it is also true that many Americans are not without patriotism save when they are out of their own country. Recently the manager of an important hotel in New York gave us a striking example.

Talking to the Paris hotel men he told them in effect that they should learn more of the gentle art of looting Americans. Their prices were ridiculously low.

If Americans could get the best food and service for a normal price in the great hotels of the French capital how could they be expected to put up with the extortionate prices they have been trained to pay in New York?

The message to France was as plain as the message to Garcia—if you don't rob the American traveler you are missing a bet and crabbing the game.

Perhaps this friendly tip was to repay in part the great debt the New York hotels owe to the French. Were it not for the French language, Heaven knows what would happen to the New York hotel industry.

In one great American hostelry for example a dab of cold left-over mashed potatoes is put into a pat-a-cake form, warmed over in a frying pan, and when browned it becomes "pomme de terre Marquise," price 85 cents. The poor fish of a guest pays the piper without a whimper and then tips the waiter fifty cents for serving it with coffee at 35 cents a cup.

Evidently, whether it be through taxation, the juggling of a tariff schedule in the interests of some select set of industrial robbers or what not the American must pay through the nose for whatever he gets.

DON'T LET BALTIMORE CITY RULE THE STATE. DEFEAT THE AMENDMENTS GIVING THE CITY INCREASED REPRESENTATION.

ABOUT OUR NEW CROP, CULTURE.

In 1847 a play by an American author was produced in a New York theatre. It was the custom then, as long since, for Americans themselves to believe that that which represented purest culture must come from over seas.

Before the curtain rose on this new play, the leading actor stepped before the footlights and read a poem-prologue which scoffed at the idea that an American could write a drama, and then rebuked the sneer by emphatically declaring that an American can. The audience greeted the patriotic plea and the play with cheers.

Since that day many Americans have written many great plays. An American culture has expressed itself as well in the field of fiction, poetry and philosophy; in art, music and in science.

Culture is just as much a crop as corn. It is the refinement of the product of the cultivated field. Growing great crops, producing great bulk, we have refined our output into the best makes of food and clothes the world has ever known. From the earth we dig both gold and iron ore, and through the refining processes we produce the delicately intricate watch.

The genius that can dig out the hillside and convert it into a watch can find the melody of the brook in the string of the violin. An American pianist who had acquired international note went abroad to play. With the skill of 1922 she had the frail faith of 1847, and had to go abroad to discover America.

In her first performance only once, and then for an encore, did she play a composition penned by an American composer. The critics rebuked her.

"We know what European music is," they said. "We came to get your message. We came to rejoice over the harvest of your crop of culture. Give us not that which is ours; give us that which is yours."

America is developing an architecture as distinct and as secure as that of Ancient Greece or Rome. One of our greatest sculptors found his art on the parched plains of Utah. One of our greatest painters came from a little town hidden in the foothills of the Adirondacks. He has pictured for the future historian the romance of the opening West.

O. Henry, the master artist of short-story writing in the English language, found his fiction in the ranch life of Texas. When a $10,000 prize was recently offered for the best contributed movie scenario, it went to an unknown writer from Apalachicola, a small town with a big name. Brains are found on Main Street as well as on Broadway.

The phonograph, the radio and the moving picture screens are building, not only appreciation, but the creative genius to which appreciation responds.

We need no longer look east for the finer things. That east is looking westward for that which we have to give.

We are ripening a crop of culture just as surely as we are ripening a crop of corn.

STATE GAME WARDEN WANTS INFORMATION

Requests Hunters To Report Amount Of Each Species Of Game Killed During Season

The State Game Department is desirous of obtaining information relative to the amount of each and every species of Game killed in this State during the hunting season, and on and after January 1, a folder naming the different species of Game which inhabit this State, will be mailed to each person securing a hunting license, with the request they fill in the amount of each species of game killed by them during the season, and forward same to this office. It is very essential we have this information in order to determine the increase or decrease in our Game supply. We sincerely trust the sportsmen will comply with this request, and will give the desired information promptly.

The hunting season opened August 16, for Shore Birds, such as Yellow Legs and etc; Rail and Reed Birds, September 1, and Squirrels, September 1 to October 15 closed from that day and opens for the second time November 10. Wild fowl season, such as Ducks, Geese, Brant, and Jacksnipe opens November 1, and on November 10, the general upland game season opens, which includes Partridge, (Quail), Pheasant, Woodcock, Rabbit, Squirrel and Wild Turkey. There is a closed season on Wild Turkey in Garrett County. There is also a closed season on Deer throughout the State, and it is a violation to kill either sex of the Chinese Ringnecked or Mongolian Pheasant, under a penalty of not less than $25, nor more than $100.

Announcements were received this week of the wedding in Baltimore on Saturday evening of Miss Sally Waring Dorsey Shreve, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Lee Shreve and Mr. William Deal Warter, Jr. of that city.

Voters Do Your Duty! ELECT William Cabell Bruce To The United States Senate

Senator France's Record merits his defeat by good Americans

France Has Brought Shame Upon Maryland

Read what the New York Times, in an editorial published October 27, says about the necessity of defeating this patron of Bolshevism

FOR SENATOR FROM MARYLAND

Senator France, of Maryland, has won for himself and his State an unfortunate notoriety of which its thoughtful citizens, whatever their party, must be weary. Much is said by his apologists of his "courage." A courage shown only by opposition to his party when it is right deserves small praise. Dr. France has studied in several colleges and universities. His studies, on some subjects at least, don't seem to be accompanied or followed by thought. He is flighty, fantastic, full of whims. He was the sole Republican Senator to vote against the ratification of the Naval Treaty, one of four Republicans to vote against the Four-Power Treaty, one of three to vote against the treaty with Japan about the island of Yap. His passion for recognition of the Soviet Government, his Russian excursions, are only too well known. No doubt he has many excellent and engaging private qualities; but, in the present stage of his development, he is much better fitted to be a contributor to some of our "intellectual" weeklies than to be a Senator. It would be to the advantage of the Republican Party as well as of the country to give him leisure to continue his studies as a private citizen after March 4, 1923.

His Democratic opponent, Mr. William Cabell Bruce, is eminently fit to be a Senator. He is the leader of the Maryland bar, deeply grounded in legal and constitutional principles and precedents and in American history, to which as an author he has made notable contribution. He is a man of the highest character. He has never been an extreme partisan. He has been an active friend of reform and good government. He has a thorough knowledge of business. Above all, in complete contrast to Dr. France, he is a man of sound, stable and balanced judgment. His intellectual powers are of the first order and would make him an honor to a Senate which admittedly needs improvement. No doubt for some minds eccentricity has its charms, but when it is an eccentricity not of mere appearance or habit or demeanor, but of opinion, it greatly limits or destroys a public man's power for public usefulness; tends, indeed, to make him a nuisance. How can a party or a State be adequately represented by a man of unstable temperament and shifting political fantasies? To borrow from Dr. Johnson, Dr. France is at best a meteor, while Mr. Bruce is a fixed star.

In a contest between ordinary partisans the country at large would have small interest; but all Americans of good will will have a strong interest in the defeat of a patron of Bolshevism.

Elect Bruce and Restore Maryland's Prestige in the Senate.

Election Day, Tuesday, November 7.

NEEDLE WORK GUILD IN THIS CITY ACTIVE

Invites Public To Tea And Annual Garment Exhibition At Nurses Home Wednesday, November 8

The Officers and Directors of the Salisbury Branch of the Needle Work Guild of America have extended a cordial invitation to all men and women interested in this far reaching and most practical charity, to be present at the Tea and Annual Exhibition of garments to be held at the Nurses Home on Wednesday, November 8th from four to five o'clock.

The Salisbury Branch was formed in 1919 with a collection of five hundred garments; in 1920, 1013 garments and in 1921 it rose to 1220 and hopes for 1500 articles to distribute during the coming winter.

In its first year it kept the entire collection for home use but now has gradually extended its bounds and last year gave not only to our own hospital, but to Pine Bluff and Enderwood Sanatoriums, the Home for Crippled Children in Easton and the Shut-In Society in Baltimore. The remainder of the garments were put in charge of Miss Kell, who found them most valuable aid in her work.

The list of directors has also widened and the number now includes women from: Pittsville, Parsonsburg, Hebron, Fruitland, Deals Island, Wildards, Quantico, Allen Berlin and Delmar. This winter promises to be a hard one with coal prices prohibitive to those of small means and so knowing that the real spirit of Christ translates itself into immediate service, an earnest appeal has been made to all men and women not as yet members, to associate in this fight against disease and suffering. There are money members and garment members. Two new garments and any amount of money one chooses to give and that but once a year constitutes membership. It is only a question of "Give unto Others."

DESCRIBES LOVE FOR OLD EASTERN SHORE

Popular Member Of Baltimore Advertising Club Visits Section And Puts Feelings Into Poetry

Friend Joseph M. Mann, of Baltimore's Advertising Club, has been visiting the Eastern Shore a great deal here of late and the other day at one of the luncheons he recited a poem on this "Garden Spot" of Maryland. It follows:

I love it for its quiet,
I love it for its green,
I love it for its people,
They're real—just what they seem.
I love to see the hay stacks
When harvesting is over,
I love to see the great, great fields
Of corn and wheat and clover,
I love to see youths, bright fresh looks
And the smiles they greet you with,
And the willingness that's always yours
And the helping hand they give.
I love to see the cattle
Browsing peacefully at rest,
Which means so much to mankind
For they give their very best.
I love to drive its roads and roads
Midst the ever-changing scenes,
I love it all, and all and all
For there—peace reigns supreme
I love to watch the break of day
And the sun cast forth its rays,
For each and every living soul
Whom the rightful homage pays.
I love to watch the setting sun,
Slowly sinking out of sight,
And oh, what feeling one does have
When we think of God's great might
I love to wander through the lanes,
I love so very much more
About this great gift to man,
The beautiful Eastern Shore.

PRETTY FALL WEDDING EARLY TUESDAY MORNING

Miss Mildred Mae Disharoon Becomes Bride Of Mr. Avery W. Hall. Couple Very Popular Here.

Autumn provided a most acceptable setting for the wedding early Tuesday morning of Miss Mildred Mae Disharoon to Mr. Avery W. Hall at the home of the bride on Maryland avenue. The home was attractively decorated in the rich colors of the Fall season and beautiful flowers added splendor to the scene of the nuptial ceremony.

Promptly at seven o'clock Tuesday morning, Rev. J. Herson united the young couple. Both are very popular in Salisbury's younger set. Miss Disharoon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Disharoon and is a registered nurse, being a graduate of the Peninsula Hospital. The groom's home is in Whaleyville and he holds a responsible position with the Smith & Williams's Shipyard, having graduated from the Beacom Business College here several years ago.

Only a few intimate friends and members of the family were present for the ceremony which was most impressive. The wedding march was played by Miss Daisy Disharoon, a sister of the bride. Little Jean Disharoon, the bride's niece, was a charming little flower girl. Miss Alice Travers was maid of honor and Mr. Wilbur Rounds acted as best man. Many beautiful presents were received by the couple.

The bride appeared charming in a dark blue traveling suit with hat to match and she carried a beautiful bouquet of bride's roses. Immediately after the wedding the young couple left for northern cities on their honeymoon trip and upon returning will make their home in Benjamin's Apartments on Main street.

Mrs. John H. Hearnman, entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of Charity M. P. Church, Saturday, October 28th. Little Virginia Richardson, aged 10, led in prayer, following a recitation by Mildred Hastings, "Guilty or Not Guilty." Refreshments were served after the business meeting.

MRS. EDWARD T. BAILEY

Death came suddenly last Tuesday night to Mrs. Edward T. Bailey who lived on Grove St., Delmar. Apoplexy is given as the cause. Mrs. Bailey before her marriage was Miss Amelia Ellis, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Ellis, of Delmar, and she was 69 years of age.

MEXICAN RESTAURANT WITH AMERICAN IDEAS

Eating House With Corned Beef And Cabbage Daily Item On Bill Of Fare Is Popular

Down in the City of Mexico where chile con carne, and frijoles and tamales and other peppery substances form the chief of the native diet, there has recently been an epidemic of small restaurants designed to cater to the American trade. They are conducted by Americans, and feature such familiar and popular edibles as hot cakes and maple syrup, doughnuts and coffee, etc. They are said to be largely patronized, but the most successful one of all is a shop where the only item on the bill of fare is corned beef and cabbage. It is reported that in two weeks the place has had to be enlarged three times to accommodate the throngs that hunger for this fragrant delicacy.

Just corned beef and cabbage—about the easiest dinner to cook that could be imagined! But we are told that it is cooked well. Something more than a back-home appeal to strangers in a strange land must underlie such success. It would be well to our way of thinking, if some of the restaurants right here at home would take a tip from the success of these American eateries in Mexico; and instead of offering on their menus almost everything there is, specialize on one simple but generally liked dish, and see that it is the very best of its kind. —Ohio State Journal.

MOTH INFESTATION IN WHEAT CAUSES LOSSES

Reports From Mills Throughout State Say Grain Is In Bad Condition From Fly Weevil

An almost unprecedented infestation of the Angoumois grain moth, commonly known as the fly weevil, is reported by F. N. Cory, State Entomologist, in stored wheat in practically all sections of the State, causing heavy losses to farmers and greatly inconveniencing millers. According to reports received by Mr. Cory much of the grain being received by the mills throughout the State is in very bad condition as a result of damage by the moth. Some millers have resorted to regular fumigation to control the pest, says Mr. Cory, while others are contemplating the installation of heating plants or driers as a means of destroying the pest in the grain which they are milling or holding for that purpose.

The Angoumois moth has several generations a year," says Mr. Cory. "The first adults coming from hold-over grain about the middle of May. The females lay their eggs on the young green wheat heads. In a few days tiny white worms hatch from these eggs and eat into the growing wheat, consuming the tender contents of the grain. When they have completed their growth they cut a hole in the side of the grain, pupate, and later emerge as a second brood of moths. The females of this brood lay their eggs on the ripened grain and these eggs or the larvae later on, when they are carried into the barn with the grain or continue to develop in the shock or stack."

A gas attack, using Carbon Bisulphide, is recommended by Mr. Cory as the best means of controlling the weevil. Carbon Bisulphide is known for its disagreeable odor and produces a gas that is heavier than air. It should be used at the rate of a pound of the liquid for each hundred bushels of grain, says Mr. Cory, and may be exposed in shallow pans on top of the grain, poured into the grain through pipes or poured over pieces of burlap placed next to the grain. The gas should be confined in a closed room for from 24 to 36 hours. Where a closed room is not available, the grain may be covered with a tarpaulin and the Carbon Bisulphide exposed beneath it. The grain should be checked over after the fumigation. The fumes of Carbon Bisulphide are very inflammable and Mr. Cory cautions against carrying lighted lanterns, cigars or pipes into a barn where fumigation is in progress.

NUT TREES EXCELLENT CHOICE FOR PLANTING

Form Wonderful Combination Of All Necessary Attributes Including Beauty, Shade, and Food.

Why is it, that in choosing the trees for our new home grounds, we so often neglect to add a few varieties of nut trees to our order of Maples, Elms, fruit trees, etc.?

Or why, when our home grounds are already supplied with Maples, Elms, and fruit trees, do we not realize that they really still leave incomplete our trees, contain at least some varieties of nut trees?

To be sure, the maples, oaks, and elms contribute beauty and shade, and the fruit trees a useful food supply, but the nut trees form a wonderful combination of all these attributes, beauty, shade, and a useful food supply.

The black walnut tree, for instance, is a match for the oak in grandeur and lives for two centuries or more like the oak, and the strength and longevity of "old Hickory" has become proverbial.

During the past few years, the nut as an article of food has come into its own. Formerly it belonged to the confectionery class of food, and was looked upon as well enough to help pass away a jolly evening before the open fire. Lately, however, the dieticians tell us that the very best vitamins, oils and much talked of famous vitamins are contained in nut kernels—the food value of nuts being far greater even than that contained in grains and meats.

There is a widespread feeling that the "nut tree" takes years and years of growth before it bears nuts at all, and that in planting the nut tree we plant to delight our grandchildren. This, however, is merely an erroneous belief for some nut trees reach bearing age from the second to the fifth year after they are planted, taking about as long to arrive at bearing as the apple tree does. Of course, it depends largely upon the variety chosen, as some species come to bearing much sooner than others.

There are two kinds of nut trees that can be bought from nursery men,—the seedling tree or the budded or grafted tree. The seedling nut tree rarely comes "true to variety type" and must be grafted upon generally from some reliable tried stock. The budding or budding process may be experimented with at home, but the far safer and safer way is to purchase budded or already grafted trees from some thoroughly reliable nurseryman.

In planting, it is well to try to give the trees the kind of soil they naturally grow in when found in their wild state, but nut trees are extremely hardy, and with a little care in planting the tree they will thrive almost anywhere. Always plant the tree with a large ball of earth around the roots, and place it in a well dug, large hole. A little leaf wood added to the soil is all the fertilizer that should be given at the time of planting. The soil can be fertilized later when the trees begin to grow, just like any ordinary fruit tree is fertilized. If the soil in which the tree is to be planted is found to be acid, add a little lime at the time of planting, sprinkling it over the outturned earth and about the walls of the hole.

In covering, pack the soil firmly against the roots of the young tree in order to enable the roots to come into immediate contact with the earth to take up the moisture.

Timely Suggestions For a Book-keeper

Reverse Checking and Proof Posting.

This method may be used in connection with any set of books however small. To avoid the use of "check figures" any of the more or less complicated schemes and devices so frequently met with and if carried out as indicated will make errors in posting frequently impossible. The plan is as follows: Only one book is posted to the ledger at a time. As each item is posted to its ledger account a slip of paper (any two by six inches in size) is inserted at the account with the end of the slip protruding slightly at the top of the book.

When the posting from each book is completed, beginning with the first slip in the ledger, each unchecked item in the ledger is entered on a sheet of paper ruled in columns and known as a "check sheet." As each of these items is transferred to the check sheet, it is checked on the ledger account. When all the items posted have been entered on the check sheet, it is footed and the sum of the items on the check sheet must equal the sum of the items posted as shown by the footing of the column in the posting book. The lot of each succeeding day are added to the footing of the previous day on the check sheet so that at the end of the month the total footing of the check sheet must equal the total shown in the posting book.

Any omission in posting or transposition of figures are at once discovered by this method and if ordinary care is exercised, accounts posted to the wrong side of the ledger will be discovered. If more than one item is posted to the same account from the same book, a separate slip should be inserted for each item. Separate check sheets should be kept for each posting book. These sheets are known as "cash check sheets," "sales check sheets," etc.

The Use of a Working Sheet. Every bookkeeper should use a working sheet when compiling his work previous to the taking of financial statements. The following is a description of its form and use: A large sheet of paper should be ruled so as to provide for eight columns, allowing space at the left for the writing of the ledger account names. From left to right the double columns should be headed thusly: Nominal Accounts and Real Accounts. Under the first double column the left portion is headed Debits and the right Credits. The second adjustment is subdivided in the same manner. The third, Nominal Accounts, is headed with the words: Losses at the left and Gains at the right. The fourth is headed with Assets at the left and Liabilities at the right.

The Trial Balance, in its original form, is shown under the first heading. Then after the adjusting entries have been made, the items should be posted to the second heading. Adjustments, as well as to the ledger. The amounts in the Trial Balance headings, taking into consideration the (adjustment posting) are now extended to the columns headed Nominal Accounts.

You can now prepare your Profit and Loss Statement and from the columns Real Accounts, you can prepare your Balance Sheet. When you have finished, your Net Profit should be added to the first column under Nominal Accounts which will make the two columns equal. The same amount when added to the second column under "Real Accounts" will make these two columns equal. The advantage in using the working sheet is that you have your work before you in a condensed and systematic manner.

Suggestions for Finding Errors in Proof Trial Balance.

Since all the nominal accounts in the ledger close through journal entries into profit and Loss, only the Real Accounts (Assets and Liabilities) remain open. If the two sides of the Proof Trial Balance do not equal, a mistake has been made in the ruling of the ledger accounts.

To find the error, rule a sheet of paper into sections. Head one "Assets" and the other "Liabilities." Copy all of the outstanding balances on the sheet under the proper heading. Transpositions, omissions or the failure to bring down balances are easily found in this manner.

If Accounts Receivable and the Accounts Payable are used, the total of your customers and creditors accounts will be shown in the balance Balance Sheet in one item. It is therefore, necessary to add each of these groups separately and coming about as long to arrive at bearing as the apple tree does. Of course, it

Some Helpful Suggestions to Stenographers Who Aspire Promotion.

Many opportunities are offered to stenographers for the practical use of their Shorthand outside the dictation of the regular work. Employers are very often inconvenienced by telephone messages improperly remembered by the stenographer. A few notes in Shorthand at the time the message comes over the wire eliminates the chances of error and has the merit of being more complete than if written from memory. Messages left by callers, oral reports of various members of the office staff and a variety of other matters written down in Shorthand at the time moves the wheels of business more rapidly and without friction.

The stenographer who comes in contact with the selling forces of the organization should keep her ears open for good selling points. In casual conversation, salesmen frequently utter perfect gems of selling arguments; often times these are in epigrammatic form and depend for their telling effect almost as much upon the exact wording as upon the thought expressed. The opportunities for the use of Shorthand in a valuable way are almost unlimited. Direct dictation is only one phase of it. Learning to turn your Shorthand into new business uses develops initiative.

Memory an Invaluable Asset.

In business, a memory is an invaluable asset. It makes little difference whether you are an executive or a clerk. You must be able to recall facts, names and faces readily. A good memory for names and faces is a business asset because it is one item in the modern business policy of "the customer be pleased," which is a characteristic of progressive firms. The customer is pleased because he feels that his identity has not been lost in the mass of other customers and it gives him an impression that his business is large enough and important enough to warrant the dealer in taking the trouble to remember him.

In a stenographer, a good memory is most important. We remember those things in which we take the greatest interest and to which we pay the closest attention. As a general rule, the one who is interested in her job has little difficulty in remembering things that concern her or the employer. If you wish to measure your interest in your employment, do so by the ability you have developed to recall things concerning the business.

There are many peculiar notions concerning the memory. Some people look upon the learning of names of people and the recalling of such things as telephone numbers as a waste of time and an actual abuse of the memory. They claim that the memory should be used only for the things in life that count; that it should be used for holding information about history, poetry, etc. These persons forget that memory is not a storehouse which becomes over crowded.

The capacity of the human memory seems to be unlimited. There is no such thing as filling the mind with facts so that it becomes so full that it cannot hold any more. Memory develops upon association. We remember by the association of similar things, thus, one person remembers another and when we see the first we remember the second. We remember by the association of differences. Thus, when we experience a cold day, it may make us think of a warm one.

Ascertaining How He Stood.—One morning a negro sauntered in to the office of a white friend. "Good morning," Mr. Withrow. "Kin I use yo' phone a minute?" he asked.

"Why certainly, Sam." Sam called his number, and after a few minutes' wait said: "Is dis Mrs. Whiteside? Well I seen in de paper where youall wanted a good cullud man. Is you still wantin' one? Then the man youse got is pucteflyly satisfactory, and you doesn't contemplate makin' no change soon. All right ma'am. Good bye." Mr. Withrow called to Sam as he left the phone. "Now that's too bad that the place is filled."

"Oh, dat's all right, Mr. Withrow, Ise the niggah what's got the job, but Ise jest wantin' to check up."

Didn't Sound Safe.—A missionary was sent South to a very Godless region of chicken thieves and boomers, and finding that there was no church, he got permission to use an old henhouse.

He said to an old colored man who was always loafing around the hotel. "Washington, you go down bright and early tomorrow morning and clean out that henhouse block of Sin-nickson's barn."

The old man frowned. "But shorly," he said "yo' don't clean out a henhouse in de daytime?"

SHARPTOWN

J. P. Cooper heard over his radio-phonograph, on Sunday night an eloquent sermon, preached by Dr. C. H. Parker, Point Breeze Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, Pa., from the text, "Show piety at home." First Timothy, 5th Chapter and 4th Verse. Hymns were sung appropriate to the text and sermon.

Newton Hastings, the boy preacher, son of Paul Hastings, Salisbury, was an interesting figure in the M. E. church on Sunday night. He sang, prayed and talked on Bible topics. He is a very remarkable boy of six years and if he continues to develop along lines of service he is destined to become a useful man some day.

The Methodist Protestant Church has just been thoroughly painted by Travers Moore, John T. Nelson and Wm. R. Elzey and looks very pretty. The parsonage and premises were painted some time ago and others improved and now the entire church property is looking fine.

Good Intent, No. 99, I. O. O. F., had guests on Saturday night from Salisbury, Delmar, Georgetown and Mardela. Several interesting addresses were made and a very pleasant evening spent.

John H. Bennett of Laurel is spending a few days at his home here. On Saturday he cut down a large maple standing in the yard as an old land mark of many years' growth.

Walter Sheppard, of Salisbury, who addressed the Sunday School at Columbia on Sunday afternoon, had a large attendance and his address was well received and he will likely be invited again soon.

One of our young men operating a shirt factory at Secretary was visited a few nights ago by three young men and asked that they be admitted inside, but were denied the privilege, but in a few minutes four doors were torn from their hinges and the young men walked in. After a few unpleasant remarks were made they departed without repairing damages. No one was hurt.

George Bailey who has a position in Wilmington spent Sunday with his family here.

Mrs. George E. Owens and Mrs. James H. Moore are spending the week in Baltimore, the guests of relatives and friends.

On Wednesday evening of last week Rev. Henry S. Phillips, pastor in Grace Church, Wilmington, a former charge.

The revival services going on at the M. E. church are largely attended and there is much demonstration at the meetings.

Thomas E. Phillips and family, of Oxford, Pa., were the guests Saturday and Sunday of their guests, Capt. and Mrs. Eljah R. Bennett.

Captain and Mrs. E. G. Bennett gave their daughter, Miss Iris Louise, a Halloween party on Friday evening of last week. The dining room and table were tastefully decorated and in the center of the table a large pumpkin placed on end and on this rested a beautiful basket made in Bermuda. Baskets of sea shells. These shells were strung on small threads of gold and were made into a well shaped basket, shells of different sizes and beautiful to see, not only were the shells pretty, but the artistic work of the maker was wonderful. The shells were strung on candy and were very attractive. At the end of the table was a large birthday cake with seven candles in it representing her birthday. Miss Iris was tastefully dressed as a kewpie doll and the guest of honor was real pretty and attractive, moving around in her usual graceful manner. The guests were masked and were very interesting. It was a real live company of interesting girls. Miss Iris received many beautiful and useful presents and a very interesting feature of the evening was the exhortation of the guests. Her parents have given her for six consecutive birthdays each a silver spoon, with her name, date and age engraved on them. The set being now complete on this occasion the parents gave her a silver knife and fork, with her name, date and age carved on each. Ice cream, cake and candies were served and every guest seemed happy. Those present were her brothers, Messrs. Clement and Charles, Messrs. Elzey, Naomi Lowe, Virginia Lankford, Mr. Phoenix, Sallie Ellis Grave, Ida Riggin, Elizabeth Bradley, Elnora Lowe, Ruth Bailey, Iva Ellis, Virginia Phillips, Eleanor Corray, Grace Martino, Gladys Robinson, Blanch Robinson, Messrs. Craven, Victor Bennett, Avery Owens, Lynn Lankford, Howard Robinson, Kenneth Walker, John Spalding, Jr., Howard Griffith, Randal Phillips, George Martino, James Nittall and Wallace Gillis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Parker of Philadelphia, and Miss Addie Cooper, of near Laurel, were the guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Bennett. They were recently married. The groom is a Philadelphia banker and the bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cooper near Laurel, Del.

Miss Lillian Hughes, of Hebron, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wright, of Camden, are spending a few days with her brother, Charles R. Twilley, and with Mr. Wright's mother, Mrs. I. K. Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harris and son, of Green Hill, were Sunday guests of her mother, Mrs. Alice Bradley.

L. B. Bradley and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Phillips, Severn C. Bradley and family spent Sunday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Woodland C. Bradley, Hebron.

Mrs. Walter Walker spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Herbert Wright.

Mr. Robert Windsor, of Denton, a Civil War veteran, who left here sixty-five years ago a young man, and Joseph Windsor and family of East New Market, Garland Marine and family, of Vienna, were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Robinson, of Baltimore, motored here on Saturday and returned on Sunday taking his mother, Mrs. Louise Higgins with him to spend the winter at his home in Baltimore.

Captain O. N. Bennett and family spent Sunday with his brother, James Bennett, Vienna.

Rev. Henry S. Dulaney made an effort on Sunday to raise additional Centenary fund and received one hundred and sixteen dollars.

Capt. E. J. Jones is making some extensions and improvements in his residence on Railway street. Oscar Russell is doing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartzel Walker, of Seaford, were the guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Walker on Sunday.

Wilson Bounds and family spent Sunday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Phillips, Columbia.

Miss Ruth Taylor spent the week-end with Miss Ethel Jones, of Tyaskin.

EDUCATION AND THE BALLOT

In the Revolutionary War the American people fought and won the struggle for independence and the principle of self-government. They waged war for the freedom of the sons in 1812. They battled for the emancipation of the slaves in 1861. They shed their blood for the freedom of Cuba and other Spanish colonies from oppression in 1898. A few years ago they fought the thousands of young lives in order that autocracy might be crushed and the principle of democracy and self-government preserved and established throughout the world.

In every crisis, therefore, the American people have proved that they are willing to lay down their lives if necessary in order that they may preserve a democratic government for themselves and extend its blessings to those less fortunate than ourselves. There can therefore be no question as to the stability and permanency of democracy in this country against foreign aggression. Would it not be well therefore, to inquire whether our Government is as safe from internal aggression as it is from foreign foes?

In their zeal for the democratic form of government the American people have at various times extended the suffrage to an increasing proportion of the population. The property limitations on suffrage in the early part of the nineteenth century

Rivals Helen Keller

Willie Huggins, 17 years old, of Wicomico, although blind and deaf, can tell colors by smell and hear by touch. Her remarkable ability was discovered while sewing, when she told colors of materials by smelling them. She listens to concerts by touching her fingers to an audiphone.

were removed; no limitations on suffrage may be made "by reason of race color, or previous condition of servitude"; only a few States require an educational qualification; and finally by constitutional amendment women are enfranchised on the same basis as men. In form, therefore, our Government has steadily become more and more democratic.

How does such a mass of people actually perform the governing function? In two ways, (1) by a constant expression through the press and the forum of public opinion and its influence on the actions and discussions of public officials, and (2) through the election of officials at certain stated intervals.

In order that the people may perform this function effectively it is necessary that it be done intelligently. There can be no public opinion and the ballot box may be worse than useless unless the American people are acquainted with the problems of the locality, the State and the Nation, which problems, it may be noted, seem always to increase in complexity. Popular education, therefore, is absolutely essential to the success of a democratic government. Without it the people lose their ability to protect themselves and to promote most effectively the common interests.

Granted, however, the ability of the American people to govern themselves and to solve their common economic and social problems, the American democracy and the principle of self-government may yet be endangered at any time through the plain neglect of the people. As in war, so in peace, there must be eternal vigilance. Therefore every man and woman should perform his or her full duty in the peace-time struggle against government with the same zeal and devotion that have so often been exhibited on the field of battle. No general would expect to win a victory with an army of camp slackers. It is the plain duty of every voter to "fall in line" on election day and through honest intelligent voting to help the country solve its problems.

ELKS ARE SLAUGHTERED FOR TEETH ORNAMENTS

Wanton Destruction of America's Noblest and Most Valuable Game Animals Taking Place.

Thousands of magnificent bull elk have been killed in the Yellowstone Park region by hunters who illegally shoot them down at all seasons, merely for the two teeth that may be obtained from each and sold at a high price to be worn as ornaments. The fashion of wearing these bits of bone as watch charms, cuff links, stickpins and hatpins has been steadily growing as the once vast herds of elk dwindle and are threatened with extinction.

A few years ago the wearing of hairgripes for hat trimming threatened the destruction of one of our most beautiful birds, but through aroused public sentiment a halt was called in time to conserve the birds. Unless the market for elk teeth is curbed before it is too late it will mean the extermination of our elk, the most magnificent of all deer.

Indian graves decorated themselves with necklaces made of claws taken from the most ferocious animals in America, the grizzly bear. Only the squaws wore elk teeth as decorations and they used only those from the animals killed for food and clothing. Now the white men are following the fashion of the squaws, but are paying a price that tempts the lowest characters to slaughter and waste the elk for these really worthless trinkets. A fuller understanding of the history and significance of the custom of wearing elk teeth should have an influence in depreciating the market for them and thus removing the incentive for this wanton destruction of our noblest and most valuable game animal.

DRIVE MADE ON JACK RABBITS IN FAR WEST

Extensive Operations Carried On In Various States Result in 683,880 Rabbits Killed.

A total of 683,880 Jack rabbits killed is reported as a result of Jack-rabbit campaigns this spring in Utah, Oregon, and Washington. The figures are based on very close counts by farmers and other interested persons and are considered conservative. Probably a great many more rabbits were killed than were actually reported. In the Goose Lake Valley, Ore., while the actual kills of rabbits were not large, the importance of future crops was very important. This is an irrigated district that is coming into heavy production, and the rabbits do a great deal of damage. More than 278,300 rabbits have been destroyed during the Oregon campaigns.

Boxelder county, Utah, extensive operations were carried on in its communities, and practically every community that undertook the work in a systematic way obtained very satisfactory results. More than 250,000 rabbits were killed in this county alone. In checking up the Central Washington district a total of 155,500 rabbits were reported in six counties as having been killed between November and February. This is the most successful campaign ever conducted in the State.

The Best Better.

At a Western post, a lieutenant, transferred from Texas, reported for duty. Upon his arrival, the commanding officer said:

"Well, Bush, I have a letter from your former colonel. He tells me that you have one weakness, and that is for betting. You must cut that out in this regiment. I won't stand for it. Look at me, you couldn't hire me to make a wager now. What do you bet about?"

"I will bet you anything," said the youngest. "For example, Colonel, I'll bet you twenty-five dollars you have a wart on your left shoulder."

"What?" said the Colonel. "I'll just take that bet." He pulled off his blouse and top shirt and displayed a shoulder without a wart.

"There is no wart there," he said. "You lose; give me the money. I hope this will be a lesson for you."

Then he put on his shirt, buttoned up his blouse and dismissed the young officer. Whereupon he sat down and wrote a letter to the colonel in Texas.

"Just as you wrote me, this youngster wasn't in my office two minutes before he bet me twenty-five dollars that I had a wart on my left shoulder. Of course he lost. I hope it will be a lesson to him."

In a course of weeks a reply came from San Antonio.

"The youngster wins. Before he left, he bet me one hundred dollars he would have your shirt off in five minutes after he met you."—Everybody's Magazine.

LEGAL NOTICES

Important Notice

All hunters please read.

In addition to general notices heretofore conspicuously posted, we desire at this time to call the following provisions of law to the attention of all hunters in Wicomico County and the other Counties of this State.

OPEN SEASON on upland game, including rabbits, quail and quail begins November 10th, 1922, and ends January 1st, 1923. Pheasants cannot be killed at any time.

LICENSES. Don't hunt beyond the land you own or cultivate until you have first secured a license from the Clerk of the Court, which we strongly advise you to do before the season opens in order to avoid the rush. Wear your license tags at all times when hunting securely fastened on the back on your coat between your shoulders.

SELLING, BUYING OR TRANSPORTING QUAIL is strictly prohibited, and in view of our experience in Wicomico County during the past season we now issue an advance warning to all those who would violate this provision of the law. It is not unlawful for the person who kills rabbits to sell them directly to the consumer.

VETERAN PA. R. R. MAN PRAISES IT

Wm. Livingston Gains 10 Pounds and Feels Fit As A Fiddle Since Taking Tanlac

William Livingston, of 4 Harris Ave., Baltimore, Md., for more than forty years with the Pennsylvania railroad, returns to health and strength by the Tanlac route.

"Indigestion carried me so far down hill in two months time that it alarmed me. What I would eat seemed to lump up in the pit of my stomach like lead, followed by fermentation, gas, nausea, severe pains and shortness of breath. I would have headache so bad I could hardly see and was intensely nervous. Some nights I could not sleep at all, had no appetite for breakfast, and felt all tired out to begin with. In fact, I was almost a physical wreck and just dragging myself around.

"I heard some of the boys at the dock talking about Tanlac. That put me in the notion to try it and the first bottle showed me it was what I needed. I have gained ten pounds now and am feeling as fit as a fiddle. I wouldn't think of being without Tanlac at my house, for I consider it an indispensable family medicine. Nobody can go wrong by taking Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. Adv.

RESOLUTIONS

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

The following Resolutions of Respect were passed by Wicomico Lodge, No. 81, K. of P., at the last meeting.

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God in his wise providence to take from our midst our beloved Brother W. R. Jester and whereas Brother Jester was faithful to his duties to his Lodge and to his fellow men.

Therefore be it resolved that Wicomico Lodge will forever have a vacant chair in the Pythian castle. But while the Brother is not with us as a united Brotherhood will cherish his memories and shape our creed in his likeness and look to meet in the great Pythian castle beyond.

Our dear brother was faithful to his order, loyal to his church and fraternal to his fellow man.

Therefore be it resolved there be a copy of this resolution go to the press, one to the family and one to be retained in the Lodge.

CITY POLICE TO BENEFIT FROM SHOWING OF "IN THE NAME OF THE LAW" AT ULMANS

Stupendous Heart Drama On Opera House Screen November 7th And 8th—Part Of Box Office Receipts To Go As Initial Contribution To Police Sick Fund.

Ulmans Opera House is bringing to Salisbury next week a photo-play that is one of the most stupendous heart dramas ever screened. "In the Name of the Law" has been characterized as the film "That at last gives the policeman a square deal." Because it is the kind that sheds the light of truth upon the life of the nation's guardians of the peace, this picture has been heralded throughout the country with much praise.

Salisbury people, besides having the opportunity to see this big production, will also have the chance of doing something worth while for the police force of this town. Miss Ulman of the Opera House has announced that tickets will be sold by Chief Diharoon's subordinates for the two performances on the nights of November 7th and 8th, and that half of the sum realized from the sale of these tickets will go as an initial contribution to a "Sick Fund" for policemen of this city.

This is indeed a worthy cause for at present the policemen of Salisbury are assured of no definite means of up-keep in event of disability. It is hoped that quite a substantial amount will be received from the sale of tickets to this great show and that in the future additional contributions will help swell the fund so that it can be helpfully used in case of necessity.

"In the Name of the Law" shows the average cop as a splendid, home-loving, God-fearing citizen and not an awkward buffoon as has oftentimes been depicted. It shows the policeman of today as a stout-hearted guardian of law and order who supports his family with all the devoted diligence of the best American traditions.

Moreover, "In the Name of the Law" unfolds a stirring tale of the war that besets the family of Pat O'Hara, a policeman of the San Francisco force. They have two grown sons, Harry and Johnny and an adopted daughter, Mary. All the children encounter troubles of various degrees of seriousness. But in the end Pat and Ma O'Hara fight their way through the barrier of despair and attain the heights of happiness.

There are any number of powerful situations, from the thrilling robbery of the bank to the court room scene in which brother defends brother. In the cast are such well known players as Ralph Lewis, of "Birth of a Nation" fame, who portrays the role of Pat O'Hara, the policeman; Claire McDowell as Mother O'Hara; Emory Johnson and Johnnie Walker as the O'Hara brothers while Ella Hall is the adopted wife who becomes Mary O'Hara. Emory Johnson was also the director. The picture is presented by Mr. Patrick A. Powers and distributed through the Film Booking Offices of America, of which he is managing director.

The Economist

Recently Harry Brooks overstayed his last car at a lodge meeting. As he came out of the building, he took up a position in front of the house of the local doctor and gazed upward at the darkened windows. Next he pulled himself together and then pulled at the doctor's door bell, nearly tearing it out by the roots.

"Doctor, doctor, come quickly!" he cried. "It's a bad case over at Shillington. Don't delay."

The doctor came bustling downstairs and hustled his car out of the garage. In three minutes they were off, Harry sitting by the doctor.

"That's the house—that one," said the passenger at last, at the end of a spanking drive of at least five miles. "But what's your fee, doctor?"

"Oh, five dollars, for an ordinary night visit," was the reply.

"Then here you are. There wasn't anyone in the place who would bring me for less than seventy-five." Store Booster.

MASQUERADERS AMUSE CROWDS ON HALLOWE'EN

Main Street Had All Aspects Of A Mardi Gras Carnival Tuesday Eve.
—Best Celebration In Years City
Officials Say—Many Private Parties

Halloween Night in Salisbury was observed with much merriment and entertainment by both young and old. It seemed like the whole populace entered into the spirit of the occasion. Nature furnished an ideal stage setting with a beautiful harvest moon shining down through the crisp atmosphere of a quiet and still October night.

Main Street, roped off from Division to Dock St., was converted into a veritable parade ground with all the appearance of a famous Mardi Gras carnival in progress. All of the children in Salisbury must have been there and a sprinkling of old folks too. Mayor Kennerly and other city officials declared that this year's Halloween celebration far eclipsed that of former years. And the thing they commented on was the absence of any event or happening that bordered on disorder.

The fun-making began ere the sun fully disappeared beneath the western hills and continued until the town clock sounded midnight. However by eleven o'clock the streets were nearly cleared, and but a few stragglers were in evidence. The sandman had come and diffused his powders in all corners of the downtown section except the Armory where the Piccadilly Serenaders were jazzing up the latest dance hits for one of the largest crowds that has been in the Armory

this season.

The dancers were there with and without—costumes. The music continued until one o'clock and even then there were those who wanted the orchestra to keep on. On Main Street around nine o'clock, one could scarcely make his way down the side walk, while to attempt passage-way in the street was well-nigh impossible.

All sorts of characters and grotesque figures strutted up and down the thoroughfare. Old witches, negro mummies, Irish cops, ballet dancers, shufflin' country rubes and what not were among the promenaders. Crowds of spectators lined both sides of the street and applauded the original and pretty costumes that passed. Everybody made a "night of it".

In other parts of the city, private entertainments and parties were being enjoyed by those who were fortunate enough to get invitations to such functions. At the "Y" the Business Women's Class entertained a number of friends in grand style. The auditorium was beautifully decorated, the games and sports enjoyable and the refreshments delicious.

The Odd Fellows held their monthly "Ladies Night" in the Temple on E. Main Street and members of the lodge and their wives and friends were present with all kinds of enthusiasm. The Seidenburgs, Plant of the American Tobacco Company played the part of host to its large number of girl employees.

The second and third floors of the building on Lake St., were attractively decorated and after dancing, refreshments were served to the guests that numbered between 300 and 400. This company presents excellent quarters for its female employees and the spirit among the various groups is of the best type, which means that the morale of the plant is very high. Among private families that entertained guests in true Halloween style were: Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Griener, Mrs. J. R. Laws, Miss Julia Humphrey and Mrs. Herbert Riffe.

MRS. CORA WAILES TUBBS.

Death came Monday night to Mrs. Cora Wailes Tubbs, wife of Mr. Samuel Tubbs, at their home on the River Road. Mrs. Tubbs has been sick for about three years and the last two she has spent in Roxborough, Pa. Three weeks ago she came back to Salisbury but was unable to stand the hold Dowsy had secured on her.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at the home and interment will take place in Parson's Cemetery. Floral tributes signifying the esteem of friends were plentiful. She is survived by her husband and three children: Myrtle, Thomas and Robert. One brother, Harry Parker, of Delmar, also mourns her loss.

SALISBURY MACHINE WORKS HAVE ALL FACILITIES OF CITY SHOPS

Small Plant Started In 1888 By Grier Brothers Now Foremost On Shore—Is Equipped With New Model Machinery—Electric Welding Outfit Attracts Marine Trade.

Thirty-four years ago in a little frame building on Williams St. at Railroad Ave., Robert D. Grier and his brother, Fred, opened up what was then known as the Grier Bros. Machine Shop. It was there that the Wicomico people came to have their repair and foundry work done and the small force of five mechanics were kept busy at their lathes and at their molding devices.

So satisfactory were the productions of the little plant that business increased in leaps and additional facilities were added from time to time in order to meet the demands of the growing trade. Whenever possible, an increment of new equipment would be installed so that all sorts of repair work could be attended to with the same degree of efficiency as provided in the large city shops.

In 1904, Robert D. Grier bought out the interests of his brother and continued to operate under private ownership until 1917 when the business was incorporated. The personnel of the present organization is: Ralph H. Grier, president and manager; Alexander T. Grier, vice-president and treasurer; Robert D. Grier, Jr., secretary; Mary Florence Riley, assistant treasurer. On the Board of Directors are: Mrs. Robert D. Grier, John C. Lank, James W. Lank, Robert D. Grier, Jr., Alexander T. Grier and Ralph H. Grier.

From the little repair shop in the frame building there has developed a modern machine works that today stands as well equipped as any city plant and the peer of any on the Delmarva Peninsula. Known as The R. D. Grier & Sons Co., it has succeeded in establishing a reputation all over the Shore and the most difficult jobs are entrusted to its force for construction and restoration.

New model machinery has enabled these machinists to take the lead among all competitors. Here was the first hydraulic tire press on the Shore installed, which has been a great convenience to truck owners in this territory, saving them the expense and time lost in sending rims to the city for re-tiring.

The firm's truck tire business has grown to be the second in the State. Goodyear products are carried in stock and hundreds of solid rubber tires are sold and put on each year. The retiring apparatus is able to put out any size wanted and the process of forcing off the old rubber and pressing on the new is most interesting to watch.

Indeed, a trip out to Railroad Ave., and a tour through this plant is well worth while and very instructive. Not one, but several buildings complete the outlay and a visitor could spend hours in each, watching the work being done and examining all the accoutrements. In the main brick structure, on the corner of E. Church St., and the south side of Railroad Ave., are the offices, neat and well arranged. One receives every courtesy and consideration in these quarters.

On the first floor of the main building is the machine shop and no job is too small or too large for these men who daily grind out on their machines finished products of steel and other alloys. In the corner stands the big lathe that will swing 33 inches and over in another are the "portable boring bars" that go anywhere, thus eliminating the tearing down of heavy machinery that needs mending and the costly conveying of it to the shop. But just now the foremost apparatus on hand is the newly purchased electric welding outfit, the only one on the whole Eastern Shore. Great things are expected of this modern-day invention. It enables repairs to be made on boilers and engines that heretofore were considered impractical to attempt. The electric welder concentrates its heat and therefore restricts the surface of operation thus minimizing the dangers of the metal expanding and cracking when the job is completed and cooling begins.

The acquisition of this outfit means that the Salisbury Machine Works is going to go in for a whole lot of new work and several S.O.S. calls have already been answered with it. But, officers of the company are contemplating a number of orders this winter on vessels and ships that will be coming up the Wicomico river, now that it has been dredged, and will be utilizing the immense marine railway under construction at the Smith & Williams Shipyards.

14 or 16 ocean-going fishing boats are expected to lay in at the dry-docks for repairs during the inactive period of cold weather and instead of having to send their boilers and other parts to the cities for repair work of the welding variety, they will have R. D. Grier & Sons attend to their wants. Last year the latter did a lot of marine work at Seaford but with the opening of the channels of the Wicomico to deeper navigation, Salisbury will get a major portion of the business.

The services of a certified welder have been engaged by the Grier plant and the shop is prepared to handle any job that might come in. With the expansion of the Smith & Williams Shipyards and the extension of the facilities of the Salisbury Machine Works to include marine repair work, this city should not be long in forging to the front as a port for disabled ships.

Leaving the machine shop proper and going over to the foundry, one becomes immediately engrossed in the molding and casting processes. In the yard there is a huge pile of scrap iron collected by junk dealers from all corners of the county. In it one finds everything from an old country stove around which the village cheerer sharks used to sit, to the discarded iron paperweight of some prosperous real estate agent who now has an up-to-date office desk with glass inkwells and everything.

The above pieces of scrap are put into the cupola together with a specific amount of pig iron for casting purposes. The molten metal is then poured into the forms which have been modeled out of regular molding clay. When cooled the iron casting is removed from the form and is ready for delivery. In the last two years the foundry has more than doubled its output in all kinds of casting, both iron and brass.

Upstairs in the "attic" is an array of patterns of all descriptions, the accumulation of years and years. Were their reproduction attempted today the expense would be well-nigh prohibitive, entailing an estimated outlay of $25,000. Patterns of large hawser pipes for vessels are there, along side of the step form for "George's Tobacco House." One day not long ago a miller from upper Delaware came into the office and said, "Mr. Grier about thirty years ago your father

History Made When Camera Clicked This Picture.

Thomas A. Edison made a pilgrimage to Schenectady, N. Y., last week, the first in 25 years. He was met there by Dr. Chas. P. Steinmetz, the only man in the world his equal in electrical knowledge. Photo shows Edison examining parts of tree and porcelain insulators shattered by Steinmetz a few moments before with his newest invention—a lightning making machine. It is the first picture of the two great inventors together. It is to be preserved. Edison is now 75 years old and Steinmetz is 57.

made me a casting for my heavy mill rollers and the other day it broke. I wonder if we can replace it." Together they went over to the "pattern museum" and after a diligent search found what they wanted under a pile of miscellaneous parts.

In connection with this foundry the firm maintains a woodwork shop where the original patterns are carved out. There is also carried in stock a complete line of milling supplies and new outfits are made for these customers. Contracts have recently been closed for the delivery of a number of coal conveyors. Conveying machinery of all kinds is handled, as well as electric motors and the latest models of oil engines. These engines burn kerosene and crude oils but on account of their bulk and weight have not yet supplanted the gasoline type in automobiles and launches. There is also on hand in another building the largest stock of belting carried by any small city company. In fact, there is nothing lacking in the way of machinery supplies and equipment.

It should be pleasing to Salisbury people to know that they possess a mechanical organization of such proportions, at the head of which is a man, who not only is a dynamic power in the industry life of the town but a potent force in the welfare of the community. Ralph H. Grier, as president of the Salisbury Machine Works, and of the Salisbury Rotary Club justly belongs to that class of citizens known as, "The Successful Business Men of Today." A glimpse into the soul of his organization rewards one with the gleaming that here is an industry where labor is contented and loyal. The morale of these grim toilers in iron and steel is undeniably high and worthy. Foreman John Lank has been a faithful employee ever since the shop was in its infancy. Those under him zealously carry out his orders because they recognize his ability and judgment and respect his qualities as a real man.

And so as time goes on, greater strides in the mechanical field may be expected from the firm of R. D. Grier & Sons. It is linked with other associate industries in one great movement and dominated by one unselfish purpose, namely, to make Salisbury the undisputed metropolis of the Delmarva Peninsula.

The Telephone Company's Obligations

The object and the obligation of a public utility is to furnish service. This obligation, as it applies to the telephone company, means that it shall furnish at all times good, dependable service—service that is good not only from a technical standpoint, but that is satisfactory from the standpoint of the patrons.

Telephone service embraces a variety of operations; the installation of telephones and changes in location; telephone operating; maintenance of the central office equipment, outside plant and telephone apparatus; accurate and up-to-date directory listings; billing; collecting and numerous other things that must be done to give service that will be complete and satisfactory.

It is the aim of the management to keep in mind at all times these obligations. To fulfill them satisfactorily, it is necessary that the revenues received for its service will be sufficient to pay the expenses of operation and yield a fair return on the value of the property used in the service. This return is the money paid to investors upon whom the Company must depend for capital to build and expand its system.

Notwithstanding our aim to give the highest possible standard of service, we realize that at times difficulties will arise. Usually they are quickly remedied. But defects at times occur which, in spite of our watchfulness, are not immediately detected.

Our patrons will confer a favor upon us if they will advise us immediately of such occurrences. Or, if they may have at any time suggestions or criticism which they think may lead to better telephone service, we will be grateful if these are made known to us.

HAM ACTOR TYPE NO LONGER CONSPICUOUS

Curtain Has Been Rung Down On Famous Shakespearean Tragedian Who Frequently Feared Lunch Joint

He was of proud and dignified mien, with a nose and a pair of eyes that seemed to stare at the world. He was, in fact, a man of the old school, a man of the old school, a man of the old school. He was, in fact, a man of the old school, a man of the old school, a man of the old school.

Hands on hips, head thrown back, one foot and leg advanced, he glowered at "Pop" like a hungry ogre deprived of a snack. He wore a full-skirted, bulging, white shirt with a green necktie and a pair of blue trousers. He was, in fact, a man of the old school, a man of the old school, a man of the old school.

Rising from the collar was a lean, stony neck and a face of tight-drawn skin, old and wrinkled. But the eyes were full of fire, and the nose was a straight, aristocratic nose.

"Pop" left him there and went to William Collier's dressing room. "There's a ham outside for you, Mr. Collier," he said.

"Boil it and bring it in," replied Collier.

"It's already pickled," returned "Pop." "Take a look."

Collier decided a few steps and looked around a corner.

"Pop" that's a nifty," he whispered. "Send it to Solly Ward. Here give him this and shoot him off."

He slipped a bill into "Pop's" hand. "Must be one of the last of the breed of 'ham actors' or 'hamfatters,'" explained "Pop."

"Pop" explained that the number of expostulating voices floated up the stairs, mingled with "Pop's" staccato "Nuthin' more doin' g'long."

"Ten years ago this time of year they were thicker on Broadway than taxicabs are now. Origin of the term 'ham actor' or 'hamfatter' I've heard several versions. The most likely is that it was those who ascribed the birth of the title to the fact that actors of the type meant always played, or were trying to play Hamlet, and when too low in funds to get cold cream with which to remove their make-up used essence of cooked pig."

"When the Rialto was the Rialto, when every corner was a listening post for a group of actors attendant on the triumphant recital of some just-in-from-the-road trouper, the 'hamfatter' was in his glory. He was always strutting and striding and straddling. If he always wore his laurels conspicuously you couldn't blame him, for they frequently covered the lack of a clean shirt. He gave a continuous performance along Broadway from Weber and Field's Music Hall at Twenty-ninth street to Hammerstein's furthest north Victoria at Forty-second."

"Broadway was his summer resort—and his were long summers, from June to September. New York had no summer theatre season in his heyday. He came back from touring from all the points of the compass, with nothing saved except the clothes he stood in and unbreakable faith—his seeming conceit, I believe, at bottom, was faith—in his own abilities and the big engagement that was coming in the fall."

"He sweated beneath winter clothes in the July sun and held his conclave on the theater and plays of the future beneath the shade of store awnings until the proprietors not looking on him as a trade-pulling attraction, drove him away. He discarded, long ago, that the stage and actors were degenerating and his forebodings were just as gloomy as those of our young intellectuals of criticism are today. Summer furs were not fashionable then, but many a leading lady wore them if she could afford to keep them in her own hands. His wardrobe was the 'hamfatter's' bank account, his liquid asset, and the pawnbroker kept it beyond reach of moths for him. All through the summer months the royal robes of kings and queens and the costly costumes of dynasties lay in dark recesses waiting for the fall when the fortune actor got advance on the first week's salary of an engagement."

"Now, I don't know much about clothing, and it seems that I shall have to learn a little more about the niceties of window dressing and store display in your line, but my training has been in the line of the actor, and I am not yet forty years old, it is sure, but this is an age of young men in business—you, yourself, are not much over forty. Furthermore, I have acquired a broad foundation of business knowledge both through my own actual experience and through study of the experience of other men, and I am now ready to rear my specialty on the broad foundation. I am ready to make your business my specialty."

"Isn't that, after all, the kind of man you want, Mr. President?" Again the president had to admit that his visitor was right.

"Well, continued the young man, 'I'm just going out on a trip and shall be gone about two weeks. That will give you an opportunity to look into my references and assure yourself as to my experience. May I have your word that if upon investigation you find me to be as good as I look to you now, I may expect to tie up?'"

"You have my word," the president replied.

This talk is not egotistical—it merely demonstrates that the talker has confidence in his ability to hold that position.

Chamberlain's Tablets—ve Done Her a World of Good

"Chamberlain's Tablets have done me a world of good," writes Mrs. Ella L. Button, Kirkville, N. Y. "I have recommended them to a number of my friends and all who have used them praise them highly. When troubled with indigestion or constipation, give them a trial and realize for yourself what an excellent medicine it is—Ad."

"Yes, dear."

"S'poin' I died because a big bear swallowed me, would he have to go too?"—Punch (London.)

Trees for Homes from State Forest Nursery

Landowners May Purchase All Varieties at Mail Nominal Cost for Setting Out This Fall.

A recent inventory of the State Forest Nursery, near College Park, Maryland, shows that the stock there has profited from the abundant summer rains and is in splendid shape for setting out this fall.

There are small pine, spruce, and larch seedlings for setting out in the forest, some costing less than a cent apiece; and there are well developed elm, oak, ash, plane, and maple for roadside planting, costing less than a dollar a piece.

Last spring some landowners started little forests of their own with trees from the State Nursery, and several towns turned their main highway approaches into "Roads of Remembrance" by the excellent expedient of planting shade trees, also from the State Nursery.

Helpful Office Hints

A STORY SUGGESTION OF HOW TO SELL ONES SELF

A large number of young men and women who have ability to hold good positions and who would like very much to do so are handicapped because they do not know how to sell their services. There is always a demand for trained man or woman, and probably this story will help someone toward making the proper approach to a prospective employer.

Recently the president of a big wholesale clothing house conceived the idea that the solution of the problem of increasing his volume of sales lay in improving the merchandising and advertising problems. His idea was to employ for this work a man of at least forty, who knew not only about the clothing business, but also the problem of retail selling, and who had successful experience as a retailer; a man who knew how to discuss the retailer's accounting and financial problems, who could make suggestions for the displaying of goods and the dressing of windows, and who also had a broad, general business knowledge of such subjects as real estate, insurance, and investment.

He estimated that the salary that he would have to pay such a man was $5,000 a year.

One day, shortly after talking this problem over with some business men of his acquaintance, he was called upon by a half-cut young fellow of about thirty.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

THE DESIRE TO PLEASE

By Minerva Hunter

The telephone gave a sharp ring. Mrs. Kent lifted the receiver and her old schoolmate heard this one-sided conversation: "Yes, this is Mrs. Kent." "All right, Mrs. Kent, did I?" "We'll have it replaced, Mrs. Kent. I cannot tell you how sorry I am that it happened." "Have you sent him home?"

As if in answer to her question the side door opened and Hilman went to his room.

Half an hour later when he had departed for his father's office, Mrs. Kent sat down beside her guest. "I suppose you have a pretty good idea what has happened," she remarked with a rueful smile.

"I should say that Hilman broke a window."

"Exactly!" exclaimed his mother. "That is the second he has broken this vacation. We made him pay for the first out of his savings and though that lesson would be enough, but he has done it again. Why do boys enjoy destroying things? Tell me, Susan."

"I hardly think Hilman enjoyed it. I heard his explanation and it seemed to me he disliked every minute of the rock throwing because his first experience told him he was likely to break a window."

"Yes, I gathered that from what he said," the mother agreed, "but he went on playing just the same. Sometimes I lose all patience with Hilman. If you can think of some explanation that will give me sympathy for him, Susan, please tell me what it is."

"Even if it brings you up for criticism?" Susan's eyes twinkled.

"Yes, Mrs. Kent consented. "It may be if I can criticize myself I can understand Hilman better."

"I remember that when you were much older than Hilman you were destructive in a far more serious way than he."

"When I knew you at boarding school we attended many mid-night feasts together. Salmon salad—"

"Uh!" shuddered Mrs. Kent.

"As I was saying salmon salad was the chief dish at all these revels. You knew it would make you sick, but still you never refused to eat it."

"Pray, wise friend, what has salmon salad to do with broken windows?"

"Salmon salad injured your digestion; a broken window injures a house. I had rather break a window than ruin my digestion."

"It is more sensible," Mrs. Kent agreed, "but you see I almost had to eat salmon salad. The girls never would have understood if I hadn't. Why I believe they would have hated me."

"I gathered from what Hilman said that was the trouble in his case."

"What?"

"A desire to please and be understood."

"Yes?" questioned the Mother.

"When all the other boys threw rocks at the tin sign on Mrs. Drake's garage, Hilman could not endure being different and risking being misunderstood. He wanted to be pleasant and friendly and agreeable."

"You are right," Mrs. Kent nodded "and now that you have discovered the cause, can you prescribe a cure?"

"Of course Hilman should not break windows. Make him pay for every destructive act just as you are now doing, but remember he is a human being and dislikes being different and for that reason he is likely to follow the crowd even when he knows better. He is going through a trying time in his effort to adjust himself to the way of the world. The desire to please is commendable; not for anything would you have him rude or unpleasant. Grown people cannot always tell where the line is drawn between politeness and destructiveness. Deal firmly with Hilman, but always remember that this sin is really an overworked virtue."

WHAT BECOMES OF SONNY'S WORK

By Mabel R. Young

Sonny now goes school, and almost every day brings home some little article he has made. He comes home full of enthusiasm over his work, telling just how it was done, how long it took him, and above all, how carefully he did it. There is pride in his voice as he tells you about it—pride in his bearing as he shows his prize; for his work has meant thought, effort and painstaking care.

What becomes of his handiwork? Probably it is praised, then laid aside, to be lost or even thrown away. At first Sonny is surprised and just a little disappointed when his work is thus disregarded. Then he reaches the "don't care" stage, where he often throws his pictures or cardboard toys in the street on the way home. Finally his schoolwork is done in a careless, haphazard manner; for it has become a mere task to be done. There is no longer an incentive to much effort.

What can be done about it? Here is one mother's idea. Make a sufficiently large book of heavy brown wrapping paper, either sewing it together or fastening it with small clips in order that additional pages can be added as desired. Have sections for drawing, cutting, folded articles and pictures. Let Sonny take full charge of his book, and paste in each day's work after it has had due admiration, to keep it clean and safe. He will take great care of his book, indeed he will be prouder of it than of the most expensive volume you could buy him; for this is his own, his very own work, and proves to him what his young hands can do.

Then not only will Sonny himself enjoy the book. It will be a delight to younger brothers or sisters. Many an otherwise dull hour will be made bright and happy, as together they inspect its contents, and big brother renounces their favorite articles for them, just as he learned to do "in school."

A FAUX PAS

At Southern railway stations it is the custom of darkies to sell chicken pies and other delicacies to passengers. A passenger who had enjoyed a patty and was leaning out of the window to buy another asked of the dusky salesman:

"Where do you get your chicken?"

The darky rolled his eyes. "You-all 'om de Noth, ain't you, sah?" he quired.

"Yes," was the reply. "But why do you ask that?"

"Case, sah! No gem'n 'om de South-ber asks a nigger whar he gets his chickens."

EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS OF CHILDREN

Under the common law it was the duty of the father to educate the child, but there was no compulsion on him to provide any form of schooling. Otherwise expressed, the child had no school rights which the parent was bound under the law to respect. But with the passing of time, and particularly with the founding and growth of our American Republic, a new conception arose. The noncompulsory school system gave place to a compulsory system and now required school attendance is universal among English-speaking peoples.

The compulsory system was a long time spreading over the United States, but in 1918, when Mississippi passed its first law on the subject, the system became universal in this country. Every State now requires that children attend school for some period of their lives and for all or a considerable part of the school term; and the tendency is to extend attendance requirements until all children between 7 and 16 years of age are in school throughout the term, or until the work of the elementary grades is completed.

Compulsory education has two fundamental purposes: First, to insure the best possible citizenship in order that the State may thereby preserve itself; and second, to enforce the educational rights of the child. That the first of these is fundamental is a democracy is obvious. The second is fundamental because the right kind of opportunity is essential. The latter purpose is probably even more important than the former. Children have a right to the best possible opportunity in life, and this is to be gained in large measure through education they have an indefeasible right to education.

This principle is not so much recognized in child-welfare laws as it should be. The compulsory attendance law of California has for its caption, "An act to enforce the educational rights of children providing penalties for violation of the act"; in their conception of school attendance and child labor some other States might learn a lesson from the Golden State.

Child-labor laws were originally conceived for the protection of child life, but now we see that they also have a function in the enforcement of child rights. They formerly "winked at" some occupations, such as work on the farm, probably because these were thought harmless but now these occupations are coming under regulation, as are those in stores and factories. The reason for this newer conception is plain: Child labor on the farm is child labor nevertheless; it interferes with the educational rights of the child. Presently we shall clearly see that it is no man's prerogative to exploit a child, even though it be his own and that the right to education is inalienable—along with the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

ANOTHER SALISBURY CASE

It Proves That There's a Way Out for Many Suffering Salisbury Folks.

Just another report of a case in Salisbury. Another typical case. Kidney ailments relieved in Salisbury with Doan's Kidney Pills.

I W. Ennis, 123 Fooks Street, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for many years and consider them a household remedy. At times I had attacks of kidney trouble and I was lame and tired and at times I could hardly straighten. Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at White & Leonard's Drug Store never failed to help me when I was troubled in this way. They soon relieved the backaches and put my kidneys in good shape. I have great faith in Doan's Kidney Pills."

THE CHURCH IS VITAL

It is more vitally necessary than the city or state government. Supporting it does not mean doling out gifts as to a profitless institution. It starts your children on the right path and so insures their steadfast happiness. It sets the moral standard of the community. It furnishes comfort when sorrow and death comes.

BUT It cannot exist unless you wish it to. How much support do you give it? How often do you come to church? It's just a question of whether the church is necessary enough to you to be continued in the community or whether you want it to shut up shop.

Go To Church SUNDAY

THIS WOULD BE A SORRY TOWN

—to live in, if it had no churches. Yet how much time do you give to your church? How much is your time worth? Take a look at the table below, then a look at your weekly offering and see how much time each week you are giving to the moral rejuvenation of man.

Day	Hour	Half-Hour	Quarter-Hour
$8.00	$8.00	$4.00	$2.00
4.00	.40	.20	.10
3.00	.30	.15	.08
2.00	.20	.10	.05

If you feel after such a comparison that you are not doing your share in winning the world for your master get right with your conscience.

REEDVILLE

Dr. L. E. Cochrell, of this place, was in Baltimore last week, going up with a patient from Fairport. The trip was a long one, and full of suspense, owing to the plankton having to lay over all night at Mila on account of furious winds.

Mr. Clyde Parsons is having his house painted this week. Mr. Parks doing the work which is improving the appearance of the place so much.

After several months visiting with her sister, Mrs. Cannady, in Oxford, N. C., and several weeks in Baltimore, Mrs. Charles Lofland, is at home in Reedville again. She says Oxford is a beautiful town, pretty homes and beautiful well-kept yards. A flourishing little city, rich in community spirit, as well as other things.

Mrs. H. C. Evans, with Nannie Rudd, and Hilton Jr., is visiting her parents, Capt. and Mrs. C. L. Haynie, in the upper part of town this week while Mr. Evans is in Richmond. We are missing them, especially their bright and cheerfully lighted windows which make so attractive a spot at night. Mrs. Evans was also called to Richmond by the Blundon trial, but was finally excused from attending.

Mr. Lee S. Morrison, of Reedville, made an emergency run to Fredericksburg Friday afternoon, carrying a man who wished to reach New York in less time than the beautiful yacht which brought him in the creek here, would take him to that city. According to the man, while down the bay he went in to Plankton, inquiring the distance to the nearest railroad station. Upon being told that it was twenty or more miles away, he sailed off, seeking a nearer point, making Reedville, and repeating his inquiry, the answer was "one hundred miles to the nearest station." "My kingdom for a taxi" was the cry of the home-bound bound, and Mr. Lee Morrison's trusty Ford swept him into Fredericksburg in three hours time.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Moore, were in Baltimore last week, little Mary Wells, and Emily Flynn, of the Moore household, spent the time at Heathsville with their grand-parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Rice.

The "Old Rose" Tea rooms here in town last Friday and Saturday, in afternoon and evening were well patronized and proved a most attractive and successful way of raising money. Mrs. O. W. Douglas, and her team of Aid Society workers held the "Tea". The dainty tables, with flowers and candles, the delightful sandwiches and hot drinks, served in most finished manner by a number of young girls from the High School, the beautiful reception room, with mellowing radiance from overhead lights, mingling with the soft pink glow of candles, made a very charming picture.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. West, and little son, are here from Onancock, visiting Mrs. Katherine McFarland.

Some of the young people in town, chaperoned by Mrs. Pearson, enjoyed a social evening at the Reedville Motor Service Co. recently.

Mr. Charles W. Neal, of Baltimore, is here at this time looking after his home and little farm near Fleeton. They have bought a nice home in Baltimore, facing beautiful Harlem Park and are comfortably settled down to real city life.

Mr. Dodson, carpenter, from Fleeton, with assistants, is working at Mr. Nobel Davis' this week, repairing and doing inside work.

Invitations have been received to attend the marriage of Miss Esther Foote Brookings, of Fleeton, and Mr. Josiah Richard Ellis, Jr., the marriage is to take place at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, November 15th.

Mrs. J. C. Fisher, of "The Gables", Reedville, spent several days in Wicomico last week, visiting Mrs. Bettie Harding, at Holly Dell.

Mrs. L. T. Smith, of "Sunnyside", Heathsville, is a very pleasant visitor in our town at this writing. She is helping in the business of keeping an eye on Master Raymond Lee Haynie, while his mother is in Richmond, attending the Blundon trial, with the rest of our town.

Mr. and Mrs. Slater Rice, of Fleeton are moving in their apartment at the Northumberland Hotel, at that place.

DOES LAUNDRY WORK AND HOUSEWORK TOO

Surprised to Find Herself Feeling So Well

Taunton, Mass. — "I used to have pains in my back and legs so badly, with other troubles that women sometimes have, that my doctor ordered me to stay in bed a week in every month. It didn't do me much good, so one day after talking with a friend who told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about the same troubles I had, I thought I would try it also. I found that I can work in the laundry all through the time and do my housework, too. Last month I was so surprised at myself to be up and around and feeling so good while before I used to feel completely lifeless. I have told some of the girls who work with me and have such troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I tell them how it has helped me. You can use my testimonial for the good of others." — Mrs. BLANCHES SILVER, 69 Grant St., Taunton, Mass.

It's the same story — one friend telling another of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

GARLIC ERADICATION SOUGHT BY EXPERTS

University of Maryland Undertakes Campaign to Arouse Farmers Against Planting Potentially Harmful To Wheat

A campaign to arouse the interest of farmers throughout Maryland in the eradication of garlic is being undertaken this fall by the University of Maryland Extension Service, according to Dr. Thomas B. Symons, Director, who points to the economic waste now resulting from the prevalence of this weed.

"It has long been recognized," says Dr. Symons, "that wheat growers have been sustaining annual losses as the result of a discrimination in price against garlicy wheat. From five to ten cents per bushel has been the usual discount on wheat containing garlic although immediately following the war this discount ran as high as twenty cents. Garlic in pasture lands has also been a source of annoyance and loss to dairymen of the state."

"Garlic eradication is not a new project. The Extension Service and the county agents have been advocating the elimination of garlic from farm lands for a good many years. This fall, however, an effort will be made to get concerted action against garlic. Information as to the methods by which garlic is spread and how it may be eradicated will be sent broadcast throughout the state in an effort to organize a campaign against it. Special exhibits, dealing with methods of garlic eradication, will be made at all the county fairs."

"It would seem that the best method of obtaining results would be to interest all farmers in a campaign in the work. This would not only have the advantage of preventing the possible spread of garlic from one farm to another, but would give the farmers of a community the opportunity to secure a better price for garlic free wheat."

"Methods of eradication are simple but entail some additional work and a slight change of crop rotations. The first step is late plowing of garlic infested land. Usually this may be done in November when the garlic plant has attained a height of about a foot. The land is permitted to lie bare over winter and the following spring is planted to corn. The next fall late plowing is again recommended and the land planted the following spring to soybeans, cow peas, potatoes or any other spring crop. Wheat may then be sown in the fall together with the customary grass and clover. The use of seed wheat absolutely free of garlic must be emphasized."

CHIEF INVESTIGATES ALASKAN AGRICULTURE

Five Experiment Stations in Territory Aid Survey of Land Development There.

In 1897 the present chief of the division of insular stations, States Relations Bureau, made a survey of Alaska for the United States Department of Agriculture to determine the agricultural and horticultural possibilities of the Territory. An experiment station was established shortly afterwards at Sitka. The visit of the chief was recently repeated, to learn at first hand the development that has taken place in the intervening 25 years.

It has been fully demonstrated that Alaskan agriculture can be self-sustaining. There are now five Alaskan experiment stations—at Sitka, Rampart, Kodiak, Fairbanks, and Manzanaska—which have introduced a number of improved varieties of hardy grains, including wheat, oats, rye and barley, all of which are being successfully grown on Alaskan farms, as well as vegetables, fruits and ornamentals of various kinds. These have added settlers materially in increasing their local food supply and in improving their home surroundings. Whereas only two satisfactory gardens were growing in southeastern Alaska in 1897, excellent crops of radishes, lettuce, onions, potatoes, peas, beans, cabbage, cauliflower, turnip, and other vegetables are now growing almost everywhere. In many places strawberries, raspberries, currants and gooseberries are produced abundantly.

FOXES HEAD LIST OF IMPORTED PUREBREDS

Since The War Fewer Farm Animals
Of All Kinds Have Come Into
This Country

In the list of importations of purebred animals for which the United States Department of Agriculture issued certificates of pure breeding during the last fiscal year foxes stood at the top in numbers, dairy cattle were next, with dogs a close third. Beef cattle, horses, and sheep, formerly imported in large numbers, were almost in the same class with cats. Very few horses have been brought in during recent years, and the number of beef cattle and sheep has decreased, partly on account of foot-and-mouth disease, which existed in England a part of the year. However, since the war fewer farm animals of all kinds have been coming into this country.

The total number of all kinds brought in during the year was 2,639. There were 967 foxes, all from Canada; 761 dairy cattle, mostly from the Channel Islands and Canada; 591 dogs, a large part of them from England, Germany and Canada; 151 horses; 87 beef cattle; 62 sheep; and 20 cats.

"I Want a Natural Girl"

Here are the words to Dale Winbrow's latest song offering which has been accepted by a metropolitan music house. The melody is a synopsis of the old favorite song that Dad used to sing, "I Want a Girl."

VERSE

I'm sick of girls with the marcelle curls,
I'm sick of vamps with their smiles,
And the wave in their hair that never was there,
And their arts and their crafts and their wiles;
I'm sick of the girls with their powder and paint,
Afraid to go out when it rains.
With their debutante's pout and their eye-brows pulled out
Oh Lord, but I am sick of those Janes.

CHORUS

I want a girl just a natural girl
Like the kind you used to see,
And in my eyes what a pleasant surprise
Such a girl as this would be.
I don't care if she is fat or small Don't care just so she is nat—ur—al
All days—always.
When they are on the streets
They are always looking sweet.
I'm sick as sin of the girls with a grin.
I'm weary,
Of Gertie or Liza that ain't what she is,
I'm leary;
No matter how she walks, if it's a natural limp,
No matter how she talks, if she's a natural snip,
I want a girl, just a natural girl,
Like the good Lord meant her to be.

HATRED CAUSES TURK'S MASSACRE IN SMYRNA

Recent Atrocities Are Turk's Expression Of Bitterness Over Centuries Of Defeat Suffered

The massacre in Smyrna was the Turk applying his century-old method of warfare down in the water's edge of the Mediterranean, in public view. What went on back in the hinterland of Asia Minor as an aftermath of the Greek retreat before the onslaught of Mustafa Kemal's Army is not known, may never be known. The press dispatches have had references to still greater massacres there. The Greek's themselves are not free from the charges of brutality and ruthlessness in the degradation of their retreat.

Mr. Tolstoy Williams, who was born in Asia Minor and brought up there, gives in his book, "Turkey—a World Problem of To-Day" (Doubleday, Page & Co.), a most interesting analysis of the causes that lie back of the massacre by the Turks. The slaughter and brutalities to which the Armenians have been subjected are usually attributed to religious influences and they have been called "Christian massacres." This is but a phase of the underlying causes for these atrocities," says Mr. Williams. Instead, massacre is the Turk's expression of "bitterness over the centuries of defeat that has been his lot," his anger over "the loss of the unity of his once great empire"—for at the end of the seventeenth century "the Ottoman Empire was holding the territory of two million square miles in full control of the Mediterranean, occupying three-quarters of its coastline. Successive defeat and impending doom have brought increasing bitterness."

"No race has wholly free from massacres," Mr. Williams contends, "but the crimes of the Turks come close to our own day." "Greece and Rome furnished resounding examples, and massacre was a weapon that even the North American Indian used against his enemy." "The Turk of the hills and plains of Asia had the cruelty of the Sioux, and he had too, a religion that sanctified murder. But," Mr. Williams points out, once the "Islamic form" of Christianity sanctified burning alive in the name of religion.

"In the house in which I lived in my boyhood in Asia Minor," writes Mr. Williams, "five languages were familiarly spoken. There were English at the table of the family of an American missionary, of which I was a member; the man who waited upon the table spoke Armenian; the other servant who had the stable or courtyard spoke Turkish; a family living in the house spoke Arabic; the goat-herd spoke Kurdish. This is 'babel' and bedlam of tongues, representing different races" who, the living side by side, "have from immemorial times looked upon one another as enemies." This has kept Asiatic Turkey in "a constant state of turmoil," for any one of these races was "liable at any time when in power to turn to massacre, and when weak to be massacred themselves."

This is the radical distinction, best visualized, writes Mr. Williams, by imagining all of the different nationalities who ever set conquering foot upon English soil, Roman, Goth, and all, still living upon the island holding to their traditions and their speech. It is in such an atmosphere that the Turks in Asia Minor have lived and still live.

The Turks' hatred for the Armenians is, in Mr. Williams' opinion, deeper than the difference of religion. "The atmosphere of Islam is full of daily, hourly reference to reverence, praise and trust in Allah, but Allah's commandments, from 'Thou shalt not kill' to 'Thou shalt not covet' are not regarded by the Turk to apply to his enemies the Armenians. The Armenians had prospered. 'Cut off any race,' says Mr. Williams, 'from political positions and civil rights, and its members will devote themselves to exchange, to banking, to trade, and to transportation as did these down-trodden people. They waxed rich, pursued all of the four paths I have mentioned, and their wealth and prosperity grew. The Armenians became the natural channels of European trade, and the Turkish middle class became poorer and more hostile and fanatic, culminating in the desire of the Turks to entirely wipe out the Armenians,' a feeling similar to that which causes the Jewish pogroms in Russia and in the southeastern part of Europe."

"The history of the world shows that radical bitterness turns to massacre when as a nation victories fall away and prosperity disappears." To the mind of the simple, unlettered Turk the Armenian "has the prosperity which he has lost—a prosperity rightly belonging to a Turk or to a believer in Allah."—The Literary Digest.

RARE PRESENCE OF MIND

I find myself hoping in each scene that a temporary derangement of the property man will have loaded the revolver with something worse than blanks and that an actor or so will be moved down before my eyes.

This uncalculated thrill has not yet happened, but I suppose we all keep on going to the theatre in the hope that some day it will.

Failing that sweet revenge, we can do some comfort when the couple go wrong in less sensational ways. I wish I had been there on that great occasion they tell about when the gun fired at Simon Legree did not go off. "Click, click," and not a sound. Legree with fine presence of mind, pressed a hand to his breast, cast his eyes upward, cried out weakly: "Curse! That old heart trouble come back again," and fell dead.

And then one night there was the gleam of a silver lining in the cloud that overhung the mad English melodrama, "Bulldog Drummond." The exceptional heavy villain was supposed to gain gratified possession of the revolver and to fire point blank at the dauntless bosom of A. E. Matthews as Drummond. There was to be no report. Matthews was to smile and say contemptuously, "My good man, I would scarcely have let you amuse yourself with that toy had I not known it was unloaded. (Business of looking thwarted on the part of the heavy.)"

Only on this one night the aforesaid heavy, murmured "You're a damned bad shot, my good man," and sauntered off amid the audience.

Afterward the heavy actor challenged him in the wings. "If that unfortunate contretemps should occur again," he said, "I trust you will not indulge yourself in that wretched jest. It seems, if I may say so, in questionable taste. It made me look such a fool."—Century Magazine.

$1,000,000 ADDITION TO AMERICAN OIL CO.

New Tankage System In Curtis Bay Group Of Baltimore Plant Is Planned By Company

The oil-handling business in Baltimore is to have a $1,000,000 addition through the purchase by the American Oil Company of Smith's shipyard, adjacent to the company's present Curtis Bay group, and its development by a great tankage unit, it became known this week.

The new tankage system, it is reported, ultimately will have 10,000,000 gallons capacity. Louis Blaustein, an official of the company, said last week that the deal for the shipyard had gone through, but stated that the capacity to be added for the present will not be as great as reported.

The company bought 10 acres of the shipyard through Julius Metz, real estate dealer, and is prepared to spend $500,000 within the next few months in tanks and other equipment for storing and handling oil.

The investment for the real estate was several hundred thousand dollars. Officials would not give the precise figures until the transaction becomes a matter of record. It was made known on reliable authority, however, that the total to be spent by the company on property and facilities in the near future is in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

One of the needs of the company in its plants for development is good pier facilities, and the purchase has made these possible. The shipyard is equipped with a pier, which will be remodeled at considerable expense.

Extensive dredging operations to give the company a deep channel capable of accommodating the largest vessels in the oil trade, are to be undertaken. A reach of channel slightly more than 3000 feet long will be dredged to a depth of from 30 to 35 feet and to a width ample to accommodate the fleet of tankers to be operated in the interest of the company.

Details of the transaction are expected to be made public in the near future.

The Ready Witness

An eye-witness to a crime, testifying at the trial, on being asked how far he stood from where the deed was done, answered promptly: "Sixty-three feet, seven inches."

"But how," gasped the astonished attorney, "how can you pretend to any such accuracy?"

"Why," replied the unperturbed witness, "I thought some darn fool would ask me that question, so I measured it."—Everybody's Magazine.

ADVANCES ARE MADE IN THE PERFECTION OF DEVICES FOR NEW "TALKING MOVIES"

Future Of Motion Picture Seems Inseparable From Synchronization Of Voice And Action—Players Now Trained As Pantomimists Opposed To Methods Demanding Speech.

Much is being said and written these days concerning the possibilities of synchronizing the voice with motion pictures. Several advances are reported to have been made recently toward the perfection of these so-called "talking movies," with the result that there has been much speculation as to the ultimate effects of attaining this new brand of films.

The advent of a highly developed device for blending speech or dialogue with the animated movements of screen actors would no doubt revolutionize the movies both as an art and as an industry. But until such a device is a certainty and a test can be made of its operation it is obviously merely a matter of personal opinion as to whether the change would be for better or for worse.

Meanwhile it is interesting to note how the various elements of the movie people are viewing the prospects of talking movies. Quite naturally a large number of players are up in arms over the idea. After one has heard the "typical" movie actor or actress make a speech following a "personal appearance" in connection with one of his film successes it is at once obvious that an attempt to read lines would have a most jarring effect.

Movie players have been developed for their prowess at the art of pantomime—whether they speak with grace that becomes the queen's English is a minor consideration.

Of course, this statement would not apply to every case, yet its application is probably wide enough to "stiffen" it as a generalization. First, then, the effect would be to create an entirely new kind of actor one who would not only have to "scream" well (not every great artist in the legitimate drama makes a good subject for the photographer) but he would have to speak as well as he "acts."

The introduction of the voice would also revolutionize the art of the continuity writer—the man who plans the succession of individual scenes and works out their relationship. It is fair to assume that the many short scenes, jumping hither and yon, with "flashbacks" and "made-ins," would give way to fewer and longer scenes. In this respect the movies would approach more the effect of the legitimate stage. The introduction of voice, of course, would eliminate the subtitles, but at the same time require the construction of complete dialogue, just as in stage play.

Incidentally, the introduction of lengthy scenes would demand the ability for more sustained acting than is requisite under the present scheme of brief scenes.

The end of the silent drama would of necessity mean the end of the musical accompaniment which we now have. Doubtless the special orchestras which we have in our larger movie houses would give way to groups of the conventional size which supply the intricate music of the regular theatres.

An interesting sample of the talking movie was observed at Ford's Theater last week in connection with the entertainment of Thurston, the magician. One of his numbers was the showing of a film in which the magician himself appeared in the same costume he wore on the stage during the regular performance. A certain type of "illusion" was obtained by combining his actual presence on the semi-darkened stage with his appearance in the movie. Whenever he walked off the screen, so to speak, he would appear immediately on the stage beside the screen.

Throughout the film Mr. Thurston talked. When he was not shown in the film he talked to the characters therein, and as soon as he strode into focus of the camera one heard his voice synchronized with his motions in the picture. The effect was weird, due partly, no doubt, to the alternate bobbing in and out "in person" and to the absence of speech from the other players shown. Even making these allowances, there was room for skepticism as to the advantage of pictures that "talk."

A New York motion-picture editor, in commenting on talking movies, reports that he finds those for and against "about equally divided."

"The cinema," he says, "is essentially a panoptic art, and one of the principal drawbacks in its progress in America has been the fact that we have so few—very few—portrayers with a talent for pantomime. It seems to be a form of expression much more suited to Latins and Russians than to Anglo-Saxons. But the vocalizing of photoplays hardly seems a step toward their betterment. Let us first perfect them as a silent art. Little enough is left to the imagination of the picturegoer now. Talking pictures would leave nothing."

"From a dramatic standpoint, certainly the screen would have nothing to gain and everything to lose by the introduction of the voice. It doesn't belong! What we really want in the cinema is pictorial beauty—something that will be an appeal not only to the eye but to the sentiments and feelings of the onlooker as well. It seems difficult for producers to learn this. The opportunities for eloquent and imaginative expressiveness are by no means utilized to their fullest advantage."—Baltimore Sun.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.—Advt.

Very True

Miss A—There's a man who makes little thing count.
Miss B—Who is he?
Miss A—He teaches arithmetic in a primary school.

How Not To Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming overheated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Advt.

CLUB GIRLS CANNING VARIOUS COMBINATIONS

Extension Agents Encourage Packing Of Home-Grown Products According To Standard Recipes

In order to use materials that grow in their own vicinity, club women and girls in the South have been encouraged to develop unusual packs of meat and vegetables or fish and vegetable combinations, in which they can incorporate home-grown garden products according to standard recipes available from the United States Department of Agriculture. Particular attention has been given to the development of dishes characteristic of certain districts or States and popular locally, which would at the same time permit the use of surplus meats and vegetables. By using recipes calling for veal or in which veal could take the place of other meats, surplus dairy calves, too expensive to feed, could be profitably disposed of. The same has been the case with cull chickens and surplus garden vegetables. Some of the canned "one-piece-meals" taught to the club girls by extension agents are "Dixie Burgoo," originating in Kentucky; "Pine Barf Fish Stew" from South Carolina; "Brunswick Stew" coming from Virginia; chicken, crab and shrimp "gumbo" of Louisiana, also "shrimp jambalaya," and several combinations of vegetables with chicken, used in Oklahoma. They are put up wherever the necessary ingredients can be obtained locally. In many cases the club girls must maintain gardens to grow the vegetables they expect to can.

The home demonstration club of Pinellas county, Fla., recently reported that in one day's "canning bee" the club members had prepared 12 different fish products not one of which competed with the ordinary cannery output. A South Carolina woman reported that during 9 months following the first meat canning demonstration in her district she had put up 1,600 cans of meat and vegetable combinations, and had orders for 1,000 more.

To Tell A Patella

The little daughter of a Chicago public school principal is now a pupil at the experimental school at the University, where she learns some things not taught in the regular city schools. One day her father found her crying. "What's the matter, Noreen?" he asked.

"I fell and bumped my patella," she replied. (Remember this was in Chicago, and not in Boston.) Father was sympathetic. "Poor little girl," he said, and proceeded, with best intentions, to examine her elbow. Noreen broke away.

"Huh!" she snorted. "I said my patella! That isn't my elbow. My elbow is my great sesamoid." Father went for a dictionary.—The Christian Register.

BRUCE AND GOLDSBOROUGH SCORE SWEEPING VICTORY

EASTERN SHORE STRONGHOLDS FAIL FRANCE WHO YIELDS 20,000 IN STATE

Bruce Carries Every County On Shore With Goldsbrough An Able Running Mate. Wicomico Gives Bruce For Senate Majority Of 909.

ALL COUNTIES REGISTER AGAINST FIVE AMENDMENTS SUPPORTED BY BALTO.

Voting In 16 Districts Of Wicomico County Reported Light—Tyaskin, Salisbury, Nanticoke And Willards Alone Give Republicans Lead Over Democrats—Election Marked By Unusual Quiet—Crowds Watch Local, State And National Returns Flashed On Screen At The News Office.

William Cabell Bruce and T. Alan Goldsbrough carried the colors of the Democratic party to a sweeping success in the election held Tuesday for United States Senator and Congressman from Maryland respectively. Bruce's victory over France was assured when Baltimore City returns gave him a majority of over 8,000. T. Alan Goldsbrough had things all his own way in the first congressional district and yielded a majority to his opponent, Charles J. Butler, only in the latter's own county, Talbot. When the word was flashed over the wires late Tuesday night that Bruce had carried every county on the Shore, including Somerset recognized as France's stronghold, Republicans began to concede the contest to the former Public Service Commission's counsel. Wicomico county, the seat of maneuvers of Senator Jackson and his factions gave Bruce a lead of 909 votes and returned Goldsbrough a favorite over Butler by over a 1,000. The only districts that gave the Republicans a majority, were: Tyaskin, Salisbury, Nanticoke and Willards. Attendance of the voters of both parties at the polls was considered light which was in a large measure anticipated in view of the apathetic treatment accorded the campaigns by the people. The hot fights indulged in during the primary election is thought to have been responsible for the lack of interest in the finals. Final counts have not been received in the state on the question of the five amendments. Baltimore City gave an overwhelming vote in favor of the constitutional changes and supporters of these amendments believe that this heavy vote will overshadow the 3-1 estimated negative count provided by the counties.

Marked by an inclination on the part of the voters to view the contest for United States Senator from Maryland with less interest than ever before, the election on Tuesday throughout the state was quiet and devoid of any unusual excitement. Throughout the state, the campaigns had been waged not on party principles but on personalities and Bruce, the democratic candidate vigorously attacked the bolshevik ideas of Senator France. Democrats backed him strongly at the polls on Tuesday with the added strength of a certain Republican group. France depended on a big majority in Baltimore city to tide him over the wave of county opposition. When the Baltimore precincts began to show a balance in favor of Bruce that gradually mounted to the figures of 8,000 France began to realize that defeat was imminent. And in losing Somerset, his stronghold on the Shore, he relinquished the only hope he entertained of again taking his seat in the nation's capital.

Despite the backing of the G. O. P. organization, France lost out because unquestionably the facts that his communistic tendencies were resented by the electorate of Maryland. On the Eastern Shore, T. Alan Goldsbrough proved that he held the confidence of the voters in the first congressional district by sweeping aside the forces of Talbot county's representative, Charles J. Butler. Goldsbrough's emphatic attack on the Fordney Tariff won for him the support of the agricultural classes. In Wicomico county, as elsewhere, the vote was light but the expected majority for Bruce was garnered. Salisbury voters and those of other districts were strong in their denial of increased representation for Baltimore city and other changes provided by the constitutional amendments.

It was nearly nine o'clock when the returns began to trickle into The News' office and as soon as they could be prepared on slides they were displayed on a screen across Main Street. Hundreds of people viewed from vantage points the results as they were thus displayed. Political leaders were indoors getting the state and national returns as they came in over a special leased Western Union wire. County results were phoned in by representatives in the different sections.

Miss Lella Hamblin, of Quantico, entertained the following on Sunday: Mr. Paul Evans, of Nanticoke, Mr. Clifford Ryall, of Tyaskin, Mr. Barton Freeman, Miss Arvie Mills and two brothers all of near Hebron, Mr. Dewey Evans, of Nanticoke, Miss Lillian Hurley, of Wicomico.

EXCELLENT DUCKING MARSH PROVIDED BY SHARPTOWN SPORTSMAN FOR HIS GUESTS

Favorite Feeding Places Of Water Fowl Lured On By Live Decoys Make Quarters Of Atley Lankford At Sharptown Popular With Salisbury Gunners.

On the opening day for ducking Atley Lankford of Sharptown took the following sportsmen on a ducking trip: Dr. Dick, Walter Williams, of Salisbury, G. C. Bounds and William Phillips from Hebron, Harry Jones and M. C. Acworth of Quantico. They made the trip on Mr. Bounds' hand-some yacht, the Chicote, and entered the ducking marsh leased by Mr. Lankford from the Nanticoke River side. The law allows one person to kill only 25 ducks in a day's shoot and the seven hunters killed 87 ducks, black and mallards.

Mr. Lankford has 1200 acres leased of as fine ducking marsh as found in Dorchester. The marsh has many lakes and ponds with duck grass where the water depth is only about 12 to 18 inches. Around this there are several blinds made of the long duck grass and not easily detected by the ducks. Each blind holds two men and is four feet high, four by six in size. Mr. Lankford has always kept a trained dog to bring the ducks to the shore but this year he has one in training not yet to be trusted to hunt for the lame ducks, this Mr. Lankford does himself after getting the dead ones ashore.

Mr. Lankford used live decoys. The decoys are hatched from the eggs of wild ducks and are taken from the nest during laying season and hatched by tame ducks and have become thoroughly domesticated. Five to 10 of these decoy ducks are anchored in the ponds where the ducks come to feed. A small line is used with a small piece of iron to the end. The ducks are tied out every morning and taken home at night and kept in coops until the next day when they are used again in another pond.

Mr. George Richardson of Vienna hatched one hundred and three decoy ducks and raised them. They became thoroughly domesticated. Mr. Lankford began feeding the ducks on October 15th and this brings them to the feeding grounds. The feeding not only attracts the ducks but brings them in large numbers to the most desirable places for shooting. They are fed with corn only, of which they are very fond and soon learn where to find the baiting ground. Mr. Lankford has given the habits of ducks a study for many years and is thoroughly familiar not only with the maneuvers of the ducks but knows where they stay and how to decoy them to the shooting grounds.

Mr. Lankford, who lives at Sharptown, spends the entire week near the lakes and has his tenting ground on "Langol's Island" where he remains during the ducking season. He keeps his flock of decoy ducks well sheltered and protected and gives them the very best attention. He goes to the feeding grounds of all the lakes in his territory and puts out a supply of corn. He has comfortable rooms and additional tents to take

BRUCE GRATEFUL TO VOTERS

In a statement to the press late Tuesday night, William Cabell Bruce with a sweeping majority over France certain, expressed his heartfelt thanks to the Democratic supporters and also to those Republicans who overstepped partisan lines and upheld the cause of Americanism against Bolshevism. The newly elected United States Senator sees in his victory a triumph of American ideals and is therefore exceedingly grateful to the people of Maryland. He says, "I am elected under such circumstances as to make me more clearly the representative of all the people."

CITY WINS OVER COUNTIES

The constitutional amendments providing for Baltimore's increased representation in the Annapolis Assembly were given an overwhelming majority in the Monumental City. Voters in the counties were not able to cut into this lead materially and as a result with but seven counties yet unheard from, the figures stand on these two amendments as follows:

For more Senators:	101,122
Against:	63,990
For more delegates:	95,406
Against:	62,590

SHORE LEAGUE MOGULS READY FOR CONCLAVE

8 Club Circuit With 84 Game Schedule And $2000 Salary Limit Favored.

BASEBALL OFFICIALS MEET HERE ON 17TH

Walter B. Miller Announces That He Will Be Unable To Again Guide Destiny Of Organized Ball On Delmarva Peninsula—Dover And Milford Seek Berths

Baseball doings will again forge to the front in the eyes of the public, when moguls of the Eastern Shore League gather here in Salisbury, Friday, November 17th, for the purpose of naming a President of the league and of settling several very important questions. Among the latter will be the matter of a lower playing season, the increasing of the salary limit and the expanding of the league into an eight club circuit.

One of the league officials intimated yesterday that it is very likely that 84 games will constitute the playing schedule next year, that the salary limit would be raised from $1750 to $2000, that Milford and Dover would be the new faces in the baby minor. A new executive will have to be appointed inasmuch as Mr. Walter B. Miller has announced that he could not consider the acceptance of the position again this year.

That the fans throughout the Shore will be pleased with the above changes is a foregone conclusion. A circuit composed of eight clubs has been found to be more substantial than that with six and approaches closer to the big league conception of baseball competition. Milford and Dover, both "red-hot" baseball towns, have already filed their applications for franchises with the secretary of the league. By including these two clubs next season, Delaware would be represented by three berths, Virginia by one and Maryland by four.

Hygiene Class Visits Places In Salisbury

Mardela Pupils Are Shown Through Local Institutions And Industrial Plants By Teacher.

Points of interest in Salisbury were visited last Friday afternoon by the Class in Hygiene of the Mardela School. These pupils of the sixth grade were led by their teacher, Miss Lulu Bounds, and made the trip as a part of their class work.

Among the places which they toured and were shown every courtesy were: Peninsula Hospital, Salisbury Plant, Swift's Cold Storage Plant, Salisbury Baking Company, Pme Bluff Sanatorium, City Hall and Fire Department and Court House. The children took notes on what they saw and will later write themes on the various subjects. In the evening they were the dinner guests at the Blue Bird Tea-Room of Miss Cora Gillis who met them earlier in the day.

COUNTY SUFFERS LOSS OF FOREMOST CITIZEN

Samuel E. Gordy Dies Early Tuesday Morning—Was Active In Business And Sport Circles

In the death of Samuel E. Gordy, in his sixty-seventh year, on Tuesday morning about six o'clock at his home on Walnut street, Salisbury and Wicomico county have suffered the loss of one of their foremost citizens.

The son of Samuel and Leah Humphreys Gordy, Samuel E. Gordy was born in this city on June 28, 1856. He attended the public schools of Wicomico County and afterwards took a business course in Philadelphia. Through his long life he was known all over the Shore as a business man of high caliber and he gained a legion of friends through his strong and attractive character and through his own kind of charity which accomplished untold good among the needy of the County.

For more than forty years Mr. Gordy was associated with R. E. Powell & Company and at the time of his retirement from active business about the first of this year he was president of the firm. He served ably as a director of the Salisbury National Bank for more than twenty years and was responsible for much of its progress and advancement.

Always interested in athletics, whether school or professional, Mr. Gordy had much to do with making it possible for Salisbury to have a league baseball team. It is after him that Gordy Park is named. He was a member of the original White Clouds and long after he had given up playing the game was deeply interested in it as when he appeared in the new faces in the baby minor. #### COMMUNITY SCHOCKED BY HERBERT RIFFE'S DEATH

One Of The Most Prominent Masons On The Eastern Shore Succumbs To Pneumonia In Raleigh, N.C.

Coming as a totally unexpected shock, the death in Raleigh, North Carolina, on Sunday morning of Herbert Riffe startled the community and brought sorrow to his multitudes of friends. He had been ill with grippe for a day or two and pneumonia developed suddenly according to word received here Sunday afternoon. Mr. Newton Jackson, of Fayetteville, rushed to the hospital at Raleigh but was too late to see him.

Leaving here about six weeks ago, Mr. Riffe was making his regular sales trip through the South and from all reports received was in average health, although he has suffered more or less from malaria since he left home. The first intimation that he was seriously ill came Sunday. The body was accompanied home by Mr. W. T. Phoebe.

Funeral services were held at the home on Camden avenue at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon with Dr. Joseph T. Heron in charge assisted by Dr. John Brandon Peters and Dr. Robert A. Boyle who read passages of scripture and by Dr. V. L. Edmunds who led in prayer. Mr. Riffe's favorite hymns were sung by the choir of Asbury Church: "O Love that will not let me go"; "Art thou weary, art thou languid"; and "God's way is the best way."

DRIVE COMING FOR FUNDS TO AID SCOUTING

Future Of Shore Scout Movement Depends Upon Business Men's Contributions.

LEADERS TO LOCALIZE CAMPAIGN IN COUNTIES

Regard Coming Drive As Being Of Vast Interest To Various Communities Whose "Boys Of Today Will Be The Citizens Of Tomorrow." May Place Troop In Every Town.

During the coming few days, there will be staged in every county on the Eastern Shore a financial drive for funds to get the Boy Scout movement well established in this section. Those who are directing the campaign believe that the business men, recognizing the boy as a business asset that should be preserved, will be the largest and most willing contributors to the movement.

In each county plans have been made for localizing the campaign in such a way as to convince each community that it is raising money for itself alone. Such, in fact, is the truth, because every dollar contributed to the scout movement finds its way back into the community from which it came in some form or other. The money may be returned to those who contribute it through the purchase by the scouts and scout troops of equipment and supplies. It may be returned in service by the scout executive. Or it may be returned in service of inestimable kinds by the national organization. The really important thing is that it does come back to be a distinct benefit to the community.

This financial return is, of course, over and aside from the real returns that accrue from the scouting movement. These returns are measured only in terms of better health, broader visions, and bigger lives of usefulness among the future citizens of the country. It is measured in terms of initiative, of ambition, of resourcefulness, of manliness, of truth and honor and loyalty.

Mardela Sportsman Is First Gunning Victim

Party Was After Ducks On Marsh When Gun In Boat Suddenly Exploded.

The first casualty of the gunning season just opened is reported from Mardela Springs. A party of sportsmen of that town went down to Calumny's Marsh last Wednesday after ducks.

While the gunners were crouched in their boat waiting for the winged fowl to be attracted by the decoys, in some mysterious manner a gun was exploded suddenly. Although most of the charge passed through the bottom, seven shot pierced the leg of Mr. Darcy Bennett and several entered the arm of Mr. John Bennett. The former is unable to walk without the aid of crutches and Mr. Walter Darby is clerking in the store.

CHURCH MEMBERS TO GIVE PLAY AT ARCADE NOV. 27

A play called "A Bunch of Fun" will be given at the Arcade Theatre on the evening of November 27th, by members of the Standard Bearers and Young Men's Service Class of the Asbury M. E. Church. The local artists are rehearsing their parts diligently and the performance may be expected to be a very creditable one. Tickets will be on sale November 15th at White & Leonard's and George's Tobacco Shop.

Wicomico Booters To Play Hurlock Friday

Many High School Rooters Will Accompany Soccer Team To Sharptown For Important Contest

Wicomico High School's soccer aggregation will line up against the booters of Hurlock next Friday in a game that will eliminate one of the two teams from the race for the State championship. The local boys had little difficulty in annexing the soccer title in this county from their rival eleven and incidentally by winning it this year chalked up a record of five consecutive seasons of victorious maneuvers.

On the other hand, Hurlock experienced much difficulty in capturing the Dorchester championship. The game Friday, because of its important bearing on the state title, will be played on the field at Sharptown. Wicomico rooters are planning to invade the neutral field en masse on Friday and will be there with bells on when it comes to rooting. Captain Dave Dallas reports his charges in fine fettle and confident of victory.

LOCAL WOMEN'S CLUB FAVORS CLUB HOUSE

Members Interested In Mrs. Springer's Talk On That Subject At Meeting Tuesday Afternoon

Disagreeable weather kept many members away from the regular meeting of the local women's club on Tuesday afternoon. However a very interesting session was held during which plans for a club house were again broached and discussed.

Mrs. W. S. Springer, recently appointed on that committee, gave a very enthusiastic talk on the subject of a club house and cited several instances where similar conditions as now confronting local members had been met in Delaware communities.

Miss Elizabeth Johnson, chairman of the club house committee, was expected to deliver her report on the situation, but was unable to attend the meeting. Two new club members were added to the present roster. They were: Mrs. Charles F. Disharoon and Mr. Lee Englar.

Mrs. Fred Adams made the important announcement that the "Court House" had been secured for Dr. Fulton's address on the 24th and that the meeting would be an open one to which every Salisbury interested in the health of the community was invited. Much interest in the afternoon's program was aroused when Mrs. J. S. Taylor, at the conclusion of the business session, gave her associates a drill in parliamentary rules.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT PUT ON BY ROTARY CLUB AT FANCIFUL LADIES' NIGHT AFFAIR.

President Grier Presents Gavel At Outset To Mrs. Walter Sheppard Who Leads "Her Cohorts" In Their Conception And Fulfillment Of Typical Rotary Program.

Several unique features of entertainment marked the annual Ladies' Night at the Salisbury Rotary Club on last Thursday evening. The Auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. was fancifully decorated in Halloween spirit and caps of fantastic design were given each guest present.

After a delicious turkey dinner President Ralph H. Grier stated that he believed the occasion auspicious for learning from the ladies present their ideas of carrying out a Rotary program. He then presented to Mrs. Walter S. Sheppard the president's gavel and requested her to assume charge of the meeting.

Mr. Sheppard in taking charge stated that anyone who failed to do as he or she might be told would be fined. She then called out the telephone numbers of the members and as each number was called, the Rotarian's guest was compelled to stand up and tell the gathering her full name and his classification. The responses—and in some cases the lack of them—kept the assembly in a roar of laughter.

As soon as the ladies present had been introduced, the president called on several Rotarians and guests for speeches, assigning in each case a subject. Charles M. Freeman was asked to speak on what a great benefit it would be to the Chamber of Commerce to have women members. The speaker, taking the opposite point of view, kept his hearers laugh-

Local Legion Post Arranging Featured Program Appropriate For Occasion.

VAUDEVILLE PROMISED FOR REGULAR MEETING

Supper For Ex-Service Men Saturday Night Prepared By Ladies Who Will Probably Form Nucleus For Auxiliary Post—Uniformed Unit To Attend Church Sunday.

Plans for the celebration of Armistice Day by the members of Wicomico Post of the American Legion are rapidly assuming final shape. The local organization is preparing for what will be perhaps the largest celebration ever undertaken by local veterans on any occasion and officials of the post are confident that the various meetings will be attended by almost the entire personnel of the legion.

Among other features, the plans include the regular meeting on Friday night, November 10, at which every member is being urged to be present. After the routine business meeting there will be a vaudeville entertainment of more than usual merit and this fact in itself should account for a substantial increase in attendance.

On Saturday night in the Legion rooms, the ladies of the Legion will give a delicious supper to which all members of the local post, and all prospective members in the community have been cordially invited by letter. The menu includes such good things as Smithfield ham, chicken salad, candied sweet potatoes, hot rolls, Maryland biscuit, coffee, and dessert.

From the committee of ladies who are giving the supper will be formed the nucleus for the Auxiliary Post which it is hoped to establish in the County. The Auxiliary is open to the wives, mothers and daughters of men who were in service and it is expected that a large enrollment will eventually be evolved. In other communities, the Auxiliary forms a large part of the life of the Legion and post officers here feel that such an organization would be of great value to Salisbury.

On Sunday morning, the legionnaires have been requested to meet in Legion Headquarters at 10:15. Each member is urged to be in uniform. The local post will march as a unit to the Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church for special services at 11:00 o'clock and for this service all ex-service men in the County are invited to attend with the Legion.

Celebration of Armistice Day has not been fully understood heretofore and the Salisbury post is planning a program this year that will more fully carry out the ideas of the service men than they have done in the past. Legion officials desire the public to know that they are cordially invited to take part in many phases of the celebration here are expected to attend divine services on Sunday, November 12, which is "Go to Church Sunday" here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. G. Figs, of Philadelphia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte, to Mr. C. Ercell Wimbrow, of this city. The wedding will take place Thanksgiving Day.

ing heartily all the time he had the floor. Among other speakers, the president called on William M. Morton, manager of the Coca Cola Bottling Company to describe what the Volstead Act has done to his business. Mr. Morton failed to mention how the act has affected the soft drink branch of his company but he did tell in detail how his jug, keg and barrel business has increased by leaps and bounds.

At this stage of the proceedings, Old Nick, impersonated exceptionally well by Rotarian David Dallas made his appearance. President Grier attempted to interview him but finding him too hot to handle turned him over to Dr. Boyle, who, the president stated, "had had more experience in dealing with the uninvited visitor."

Dr. Boyle and His Satanic Majesty kept up a running cross fire which brought out many salient facts about several of the Rotarians, to the great amusement of everyone. The dinner was served by the chorus from the Modern Gypsy, all of whom were in costume. This added touch of festivity and color alone would have sufficed to change the atmosphere from one of ordinary entertainments to one entirely out of the usual and commonplace, but the other features were also so unusual that the meeting established a record as the "most successful gathering of its kind ever held in Salisbury."

PREDICTS AIR SERVICE HERE TO BALTIMORE

Col. Woodcock Makes "Jump" in 50 Minutes For Important Bank Meeting.

SEES COMMERCIAL AND MAIL SERVICE COMING

U. S. District Attorney Demonstrates Possibilities Of Air Route Across Chesapeake By Leaving Baltimore Office 1.30 Friday Afternoon And Landing in Salisbury At 2.30.

In Baltimore at 1.30 o'clock Friday afternoon and 50 minutes later entering his office in Salisbury is what Colonel A. W. W. Woodcock achieved last week. And he didn't rub Aladdin's lamp in order to make the transition. Here is how the swift journey was effected.

Called to Salisbury to attend a meeting of the directors of the Salisbury National bank, Colonel Woodcock was unable to devote practically the whole part of a day to the customary mode of traveling from Baltimore to the Eastern Shore. So instead he "hopped off" from Logan Field at 1.30 sharp with Lieut. Bourne in one of the Curtiss biplanes belonging to the 10th Observation Squadron of the National Guard.

Flying at an altitude of from 1500 to 2,000 feet the birdmen came down the Western Shore as far as Sandy Point and then shot across to Clarksburg. From there they flew to Salisbury by way of Cambridge. Landing was easily made at 2.30 on Jackson's farm on the Rockwalk road although the pilot, Lieutenant Bourne, had never hovered over the site before but was able to distinguish the landing field from the description given him by his passenger.

The plane in which the "quick jump" was made is of the double control variety and Colonel Woodcock took the "stick" for a part of the trip. He laughingly told a reporter of The News that this action probably accounted for the plane losing its direction at one stage of the trip for he was more concerned in keeping it on an even keel than anything else. The new U. S. District Attorney declared the air route to be most appealing to the individual and a wonderful sensation. Having made the trip once last Fall, he is an ardent enthusiast of this mode of transportation now and predicts that it will not be long before Baltimore and the Eastern Shore cities are brought nearer to each other by the commercial use of airplanes.

While he does not think that they will transplant train service he does believe that the day is fast approaching when business men will utilize this swift method of reaching their destination, thus saving hours of valuable time. He is of the opinion that fast passenger and mail service will soon be inaugurated between Maryland's two shores. Salisbury, in that event, would become the central station on this side of the Chesapeake because of its location on the hub of the Peninsula. Jackson Field was designated by Lieutenant Bourne as being an ideal field for such purpose.

an enviable name for themselves by reason of the very things that make for a better national life. The individual scout, without a doubt, does receive from the scout movement training and experience, things the value of which cannot be estimated, but in the final analysis it is the nation at large that receives the greatest benefit and value from the scouting movement.

So great in value are the things gained from scouting, that many schools throughout the country are offering scouting as an elective course in which the students are credited just as they are in the time-honored studies. It is believed by many that this is the ideal way to teach American citizenship and it is predicted that some day these courses in scouting may be compulsory rather than elective.

These, according to scout officials, are some of the reasons why the movement should have the fullest support of the people on the Eastern Shore. They are confident that when the chairmen of the various counties make public their plans for the financial campaign, the public will come forward without urging and will pledge enough to insure the future of scouting on the Eastern Shore.

Shore League Moguls Ready For Conclave

Officials and fans alike will rejoice in the lengthening of the season so as to enable each team to play 84 games. The schedule last year was entirely too short. Parkley benefited by it because Poke Whalen stole a march on his rival managers during the training period and consequently had his charges well out in front of the other nine when the season began.

The various club officials will be making a wise move when they agree to the raising of the present salary limit. The class of diamond sport as demanded by Eastern Shore fans can not be obtained under present salary conditions. Players of the caliber needed to promote the game will not come on the inducements offered in the past.

Therefore the $250 monthly increase is going to be a big step towards the providing of first-class exhibitions of the national pastime and will be an opening wedge in the fight against "slush funds" and street corner managements of the various teams.

Although the re-appointment of Walter B. Miller loomed up as the logical procedure of the magnates in their selection of a league executive, it is understood that Mr. Miller himself has absolutely declined to even consider filling the next year.

The heavy tax upon the incumbent's energies and health and the strain on the nervous system are reasons advanced by Mr. Miller in refusing the honor.

No little credit is due the man who last year assumed the responsibility of handling the reins of the Class D organization and piloted it through what was acknowledged to be a most successful season and one that assured Organized Ball of continued support in its initial venture on the sandlots of the Shore. Although inexperienced, he directed the affairs of the league with remarkable aptitude and exacted discipline with firm but just measures.

care of his many visitors, who usually visit him by dates. He has boats, blinds, and decoy ducks always ready and can go out in a moment's notice. When his visiting shooters are with him he lets them do the shooting, while he looks up the crippled ducks, and locates the large flocks.

Since the law was passed a few years ago forbidding the sale of ducks, Mr. Lankford shoots but a few and instead gives his time to preparing things for other marksmen. He is busy most of the season entertaining his guests or getting ready for them. He has two ways of entering his vast hunting grounds. He sometimes goes by way of the Nanticoke River, touching the southern boundary of his marsh and also drives over on the Elliott's Island road and goes over on the island with his auto. He has a great many city guests who are interested in the sport and for whom he makes arrangements not only to shoot but a place of ease and comfort where they rest after the day's work is done.

Social Season Opens For Beacom College

Opening Event Held Friday Night—Five States Represented In Total Enrollment Of 44 Students

Last Friday night marked the beginning of the College social season. Former students from all over the shore came to meet with the present attendance. The early part of the evening was devoted to the playing of interesting games, led by Miss Weaver and Mr. Evans. A recitation was given by Mrs. Randolph Watson. Refreshments were served after which the evening was devoted to dancing.

The present enrollment of the school is forty-four students. Five states are represented: Delaware, Virginia, Pennsylvania, California and Maryland. Those who entered on last Monday were as follows: Wilson Cordrey, Willard Tondvine, Alton Parnell, Norman Windsor and Marjorie Brown, Salisbury, Md.; Esther White, Upper Fairmount, Md.

WOOLF-WILLIAMS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Williams have announced the marriage of their daughter, Addie Belle, to Mr. John A. Woolf. The wedding took place at noon Saturday at St. Michael and All Angels Church in Baltimore. The bride is popular in Salisbury circles and her many friends have already sent the couple sincere congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Woolf will reside in Washington, where the groom has a very responsible position.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON

"When I went to college 25 years ago, I played the mandolin and spent 300 a year; now I have a son who spends 3,000 and only plays the ukulele. When I took a girl to a dance I hired a hack for 50 cents; now my boy writes that he thinks he will leave school because he can't find a garage for his car near enough to the fraternity house."

"We used to carry a keg seven miles into the country to have a party. Jim says one of the fellows can carry enough for the crowd without wrinkling the tail of his coat."

"I expected to go to work after I was through and pay back the money my father had lent me. My boy says he's going to look around for a year or two. He doesn't want to be rushed into anything not worthy of his talents."

QUICK RELIEF FROM COLDS

Bear's Emulsion Has Been Found a Sure Remedy by Hundreds

Colds are dangerous because very often they develop into more serious sickness. The system becomes weakened and the patient is much more liable to be the prey of consumption. For that reason it is highly important to stop a cold as soon as possible and to run no chances of graver consequences.

There is no remedy known that is more effective in breaking up coughs and colds than Bear's Emulsion. It has been known to break up colds of long duration, in cases where the patient had despaired of relief.

Not only does Bear's Emulsion stop disagreeable colds but it is a great aid in building up strength. People who have become weak, run-down and nervous find that it tones up the entire body and helps them to put on weight and to gain renewed health.

Bear's Emulsion is made of natural products and is pleasant and easy to take. It can be secured from any of the leading druggists or can be ordered direct from the manufacturer at $1.25 a bottle.

EARRINGS FOR MILADY RULES DAME FASHION

Pendants Must Dangle From Dainty Ears And Should Match Beads About Slender Necks—This Particular Type Of Adornment Perhaps Oldest Known To Human Race

Women may have been given the vote, she may have taken men's jobs and decided to go Dutch with the gentlemen to whom she desires to grant a date, but she remains as mysterious as ever.

Today with an earring craze in the offing, ready to spring upon femininity from Paris and Greenwich Village, man looks on helplessly, with no comment to make. For poor trusting soul, he believed that with the vote and all that has gone with it woman would abjure her allegiance to fancy fixings and that she would begin to strip herself of adornments and get ready for a humdrum existence similar to his own.

But, alas, how his expectations were foiled! When the short skirt came into style it was possible for him, to believe that the style had come into being out of a desire for hygienic comfort and was right, in the advanced woman tradition. Then when it went out of style again at a word from the Paris dressmakers he was puzzled and now when the carrying vogue comes sweeping through the land, he is willing to admit that he will never again risk guesses as to what the dear ladies may do.

Earrings have been "correct," according to Paris, for some time past and no chic woman of fashion would think of going on the boulevards without a pair of the adornments fastened on conspicuously. But Paris has just thought up a new refinement. To make this fashion consort with the well-established custom of wearing beads, the earrings are to match the beads.

The earring fashion, however, is merely a revival. In one of the pictures painted by a medieval Italian artist representing Adam and Eve, Eve's first woman is shown wearing earrings. There is a reference to earrings in the Bible. Archaeologists, also digging in the remains of lost civilization are always certain to find hoards of jewelry and prominent among them are earrings.

But even among the people who in comparison with the advanced people of antiquity had no civilization, the presence of earrings is certain to be discovered; for instance, in the mounds of the stone-age man. It seems that the development of humanity is inevitably accompanied by the wearing of ornaments and the man looked for something on which to hang the ornament, the ear was the first to suggest itself.

Among the hidden tribes of Indians in the inaccessible parts of South America, among the bushmen of Australia and the Indians of the islands, and especially in Africa, the gentlemen as well as the ladies of all ages wouldn't think of entering social life without ear pendants.

And in the countries where civilization is oldest, among the races of the Orient, the use of earrings today is practically universal. Among the savage people the use of earrings is not only the adornment, but corresponds with the various peculiar practices of mutilation of parts of the body, which have always characterized savage life. For that reason in many cases there is no interest in the earrings themselves, but in the effects that they produce; so among barbaric races plain plugs of wood or of stone are used instead of elaborately carved jewels.

It is to lengthen the ear lobe rather than to coquettishly adorn the face that earrings are worn among them and the earrings used are sometimes monstrous in size and weight.

Some of the more practical of the savage races soon discovered that these ornaments could be put to use. Thus among the Papuans and in the New Hebrides Island, where clothing styles do not include pockets, the holes in the ears are used to carry things.

But they are also made to serve as adornments. Among the tribes where the earrings are used as ornaments and not solely to bore and enlarge holes in the earlobes, some very queer ideas as to what constitute such ornaments are current. In New Zealand, for instance, strings of human teeth are considered just the thing to fasten on the ear lobes with in the South Sea Islands a somewhat more agreeable custom prevails; earrings there are flowers, which are stuck there in bunches and have a beautiful effect.

In India where the mysterious system of castes exists and many millions are practically outlaws within the state in addition to the nature of the clothing which indicates rank, such as color and drape of garment, manner of winding the turbans and width of the girdle, earrings are extensively used as caste identifications.

Scientists believe that this was the origin of earrings. There had to be some convenient means of identification and this was the method used. It was later that earrings were used solely as adornments.

PSYCHOLOGY OF SELLING

The psychology of selling was probably never applied better than in the disposal of the Weismann Mining Company during the copper boom of 1906 and 1907. Mr. Weismann, who owned all stock, gave a lawn party in the Western city where he lived at the time. To this affair he invited all the men in the town who had any money worth his while, as well as their wives.

Taking aside the ladies one at a time, he confided to them over a glass of lemonade the following: "I would like to see you make a little pin money without any risk if I could trust you not to betray my confidence by taking your husband into my plans. I don't mind you buying 100 shares of Weismann mining stock on which you will make 1,000 per cent, but if you should divulge this to your husband he might buy several thousand shares and interfere with my plans in the market."

Of course, every lady gave her sacred promise and broke it before she

NEGLIGEEES ARE CHARMING IN MANY NOVEL STYLES

FROM everywhere and from nowhere but the brain of the designer, come the full styles in negligees. There is no uniformity in them, except that they may be classed as either graceful or piquant, for their sources of inspiration are found anywhere and everywhere. With fancies untrammelled, the creators of negligees, it seems, allow their thoughts to wander in all quarters of the world, lingering where they are most attracted. Worth has given us interpretations of the kimono from fair Japan, Molyneux has found Persian jacket (to be worn with a wrapped turban) among other of his lovely negligees.

The vogue for drapery in outer apparel has influenced the designers of tea gowns and therefore there are many draped models among them. Every display reveals that attention has been given to tronsered styles in negligees, to be worn as lounging garments and pajamas, for both sleeping and lounging, grow in popularity; but these are intended for wear in the privacy of one's own quarters. All negligees for usual wear are roomy, graceful and comfortable.

An unusual and lovely negligee, shown in the illustration, is of crepe satin, with deep fringes (that carry with them a hint of Spain) used for decoration. It fastens at one side, under a little nosegay of ribbon flowers, and is at once dignified and pretty. Lively color has always been the prerogative of the negligee and it appears in all the long list of fabrics used this season. They include velvet, satin, faille, tulle, chiffon, canton and georgette crepe, crepe de chine and novel weaves in silks, and in other mediums, corduroy, albatross, silk and cotton mixtures are in the lead.

KISSING TRACED BACK TO EARLY ROMAN DAYS

Smelling Virgins' Breath To Trace Stolen Wine Led To Spontaneous and Artistic Human Habit.

It comes as a shock to learn that kissing is a modern art; it is only within recent years (speaking geologically) that it has been practiced. There were no kissing games in the days of the Queen of Sheba, it is said; perhaps even Cleopatra knew nothing of the art. When it did come into existence as an all too human habit, it seems that it came not as a spontaneous artistic expression but as a part of a system of snooping and spying, something like a part of a dry enforcement act.

In the early days of Rome wine was offered as a sacrifice. It was improper for the vestal virgins or any of the matrons to appropriate any of the libation. To ascertain where guilt lay when some of the wine was missing it became the custom for men to smell their kinwomen's breaths. One thing leads to another and before they knew it the Romans had invented one of the most popular of human institutions. There has never been a gate fixed for the origin of this custom, but it is first mentioned in the memories of Pompeii; who presented his lips to be kissed by the deserving nobles, his hands to the less deserving and his feet to the least deserving and least noble.

Even today, with all the modern methods of distributing knowledge—radio, steamships and overland mail—missionaries—the practice of kissing is unknown in Africa among the darkest Africans. In fact, among all remote, barbaric races the pleasures of kissing are little understood, perhaps because missionaries have hesi-tated at introducing the customary kiss as a prophylactic against disease, inhaling each other's breath. This is another reason why one dislikes kissing Eskimos.

Of course, after its inception, one understands why kissing should become so popular. Erasmus notes that on his visit to England it was used everywhere as a form of greeting. When a visitor entered a house he kissed the father and mother, the sons and daughters, the dog, the cat and anything else that was kissable. This was repeated when departing. With kissing so promiscuous the value of each kiss was bound to decrease.

In France Montaigne remarks "any Jack with three lackeys" was privileged to kiss almost any woman. And at every fashionable fete each dance figure ended with a kiss. It is reported that Louis XII, was supposed to have kissed every woman in Normandy.

In 1850 or so, kissing invaded Russia, where it soon reached the proportions of a national epidemic. Kisses were bestowed at every conceivable opportunity. And the czar was compelled to kiss as a form of official recognition. We may infer from this that with the Slavic reputation for disliking emotional display, the nation took to growing long beards as a deterrent.

It is not known positively whether the first kiss came to America with the Mayflower; the chances are it did not, as that famous ship was already overburdened, as we well know. Nevertheless, it came over, and like most things in American hands it was developed to its present-day high standard of efficiency—New York Sun.

A VICTORY FOR AMERICANISM.

By electing William Cabell Bruce to the Senate of the United States, the people of Maryland have not only won a sweeping Democratic victory but have vindicated the ideals of Americanism. They have emphatically denied the right of admission to the halls of Congress to a man known to be in sympathy with many movements and policies absolutely foreign to the principles of our government and one who has been described as a national and international menace.

The success of Mr. Bruce in the campaign is even more remarkable in the face of the fact that his opponents put up one of the strongest fights for his defeat ever witnessed in the State. He was opposed by all the influence and power of an organization, which, though more or less disrupted, was still powerful enough to have been successful in a bitter primary contest, the first of its kind in the history of Republicanism in Maryland. The organization was in even better condition after the primary election than before; yet it suffered decisive defeat.

Right in that section of the State which many conceded would go to France on account of the power of party leaders supporting him, the set-back was particularly evident. Every county on the Eastern Shore, according to unofficial reports from Baltimore early Wednesday morning, sailed into the Bruce column with good majorities, not even excepting that so-called France stronghold, Somerset County.

The results of the election show clearly that in vital issues the people of this nation are willing and able, in spite of bitter opposition from party leadership, to leap over partisan lines and vote for the best interests of their country. That those interests were at stake in this election there can be no doubt. We have already had too much demagogism, too much bolshevism, too much playing with dangerous fires, in the United States Senate. What we need there now are statesmen of the highest calibre.

William Cabell Bruce will bring honor to himself and to his State. To the councils of the nation he is qualified to bring the wisdom of long years of public service, untouched by bolshevism, by obstructionism, and by a dozen and one other erratic theories and policies that would necessarily mar the ability of any man, no matter how capable.

The election of Mr. Bruce is a vindication of American ideals and of Maryland honor.

PERSONALLY WET, POLITICALLY DRY.

Self-respecting Americans now have further opportunity to view the further activities of the office-holding hypocrites that infest the Congress, and the line stretches from one end of the House corridor to the other end of the Senate offices, a line composed of that grand army of political cowards who are personally wet but politically dry.

We can feel respect for the politician whether he be for or against prohibition if he be honest in his conviction, even though we may have no respect whatever for his opinion or for the things he stands for, but the politician who puts the birthright of his manhood on the auction block and sells his common decency for a mess of political pottage should be booted out of public life.

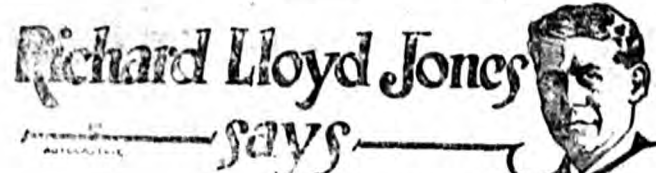

America never has and never will gain anything from the service of the hypocrite and trimmer whether in the legislative, the judicial or the executive department of our government. Truly the type of which we love to think, the type of men who stood at Valley Forge, has changed when we keep hypocrites in office and depend upon such men to protect and shape the destiny of the nation.

It is common knowledge that our Congress is infested with this hybrid mob of trucklers for "popular endorsement." Dozens if not hundreds of them daily violate the law, taking their "hips" like the most experienced of booze fighters. They raise the glass with one hand and with the other write philippics against "those who would undermine our constitution."

One need think only of the Shipping Board with the holy Lasker at the helm to realize how far hypocrisy can go unless it be lashed into decency by exposure in the public press.

The House and the Senate even yet need just this same kind of house cleaning. Indeed, the dignity of the bench may safely be termed a mockery that might justify the recall.

This is not a denunciation of the wets, it is not an exhortation of the moderates, it is not a plea for the prohibitionists. It is the expression of disgust at the cant that is besmirching our public life and that renders America the object of derision and contempt throughout the world.

ABOUT FUTURE SUPPLIES.

A schoolboy whose awakened conscience and interest in the world as it is, mixed with his arithmetic and geographic knowledge into a long list of interrogations that perplexed him.

"What are we going to do for shingles and boards when the trees are all cut down?"

"What are we going to do when the coal is all burned up?"

"Where are they going to go when the land is all owned and used?"

It is a wise boy that puts such questions to himself. He is thinking in terms of conservation. That young chap is going to be a useful citizen. He is not going to be a waster. He is to help solve our conservation problems.

Thank goodness, the world is full of just such boys who do not wish to live a Nero life, to spend what there is now and let those who follow suffer the Deluge. Such boys are going to save the needs of life from devastation, and long before a need is exhausted they will find its substitute.

We thatched our roofs with straw before the shingles came. When the trees are all gone we will make a better shingle from the straw.

Geologists tell us that there is coal enough to last through several centuries of time. Already we are toying with great condensers that gather many sun-beams into one strong ray of heat.

Another Year.

We have found it possible not only to get heat from the sun, but to store it. Its only impracticability is the cost of operation. The same genius that found the process will cheapen it. We have found that radio waves carries the sound. Physicists tell us that same wave will carry heat.

Long before the coal is gone we will cease to mine it. A cheaper and better process of heating our furnaces will come direct to us from the sun whose flames rise above its molten mass surface to the height of the circumference of this earth! That old ball has been burning a long time, and mathematics haven't ciphered enough to calculate the endurance of its flames.

And what will we do when the land is all owned and used? Look upon so rich a state as Oklahoma. Only one-thirteenth of its tillable land is now under the plow. There is Florida, a tangled mass of verdure. A peninsula warmed by the sun and cooled by the seas, moist and temperate where everything will grow. Yet only one-third of its tillable land is under the plow. Ninety-seven per cent of its acres have not yet felt the harrow. It will take several centuries before even our good country will be crowded.

As our great interior desert has been brought to bloom, so will the mammoth isle of Australia flower. Africa will be gardenized. The lowlands of the Amazon and the highlands of the Himalayas will be farmed. And as we close in, we will learn how to grow more in less space.

This is a good old world we are in. It meets our needs as our needs appear. It meets them because we always have boys who grow to manhood with the inquiring mind that wonders how they can help the good old world to make all things better for man.

Uncle John's Poem

DANGERS PAST AND PRESENT.

I used to mourn about the trials of my ancestral pioneers,—I've filled a million two-quart vials with briny, sympathetic tears. I've wept, because of tribulations through which our early settlers went, when I would hear the moist orations, about the old log-cabin gent. I've sobbed at how he slew the weasels, and skinned his thumb an' cut his toe—an' suffered forty kinds of measles from wadin' miles of heartless snow. O, each installment made me rivel, and each recital fetched the brine, and I would set around an' snivel, about them old kinsfolks of mine.

But—times has changed, and I'm reflectin' along the lines of present dread. I've saw some things I weren't expectin'—that any hour could knock me—dead! We've got the crazy benzine liver—We've got the bull-necked road-hog, too,—We've got the germs that eat our liver—we've got the bug that starts the flu! My days an' nights is spent in terror,—I'll never reach a hundred years—I'll swaller down my bald-faced error, about them happy pioneers! I've studied it from every angle—I've turned the sub-duck inside out, and I have learnt, beyond a wrangle, that I'm the one to weep about!

HOW TO BUY WORLD PEACE.

The Japs and the Germans glory in war. They teach their sons that the noblest deed in life is to die in battle. Every American mother believes, however, that service is greater than sacrifice. She believes in sacrifice when sacrifice is the last service her son can render. But she would have him so serve that he would not be called upon to make the supreme sacrifice.

By falsifying a telegram the German Bismarck forced a wholly unwarranted war of conquest upon France. Ever since that crusade of conquest Germany busily prepared for "Der Tag," when she would rule the world. Austria, Russia and Italy were to be her quick assets. She would conquer France. Then England. With that accumulated power she planned to work out her already plotted scheme through the help of Mexico to invade our country across the Rio Grande. Thank God, all this was prevented.

Germany now says she cannot pay her indemnity. Germany whines.

France is fearful of Germany, as she has reason to be. The German mark is practically worthless; but Germany is not bankrupt. Far from it. Germany is rich. The Germans are getting rich fast.

Gold is an arbitrary standard of exchange. The Germans are an ingenious people. They find it to their advantage to establish another form of exchange among themselves. They appraise commodities and exchange commodities direct.

Robert Brewer, the head of the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, Okla., who has just returned from Europe, says: "You can't legislate paper money into power, but you can establish a commodity appraisal exchange for the whole world as Germany has done. Then we can make Germany pay her debts, not with marks but with products."

This done, America should follow the Borah plan of trading in our war claims for tight riveted assurances of peace.

If by this process we buy the peace of the world, we would get world peace at a bargain counter price, and our sons would be saved.

DISCUSS FINAL PLANS FOR TRAFFIC EXPERT

Shippers Of Community Meet Monday Night And Determine Method Of Underwriting Project

Members of the Chamber of Commerce especially interested in shipping problems met in the Chamber rooms on Monday night to discuss final plans for securing the services here of a traffic expert who would audit all freight and express bills, and handle all claims against the common carriers, thereby saving the shippers of this territory thousands of dollars a year.

It was definitely decided that an effort would be made to have the heaviest shippers of the community underwrite the project for the first year. As compensation for their part in bearing the burden first, those who help underwrite the proposition will be given preferred rates on all claims handled during the first year by the traffic man. The money raised in this way would be devoted to the salary of the expert and to the employment of clerical help and office expenses.

One of the traffic expert's first duties would be to make a freight "picture" of the shipping conditions throughout the territory. With the facts thus ascertained at his command, the traffic man would be able to approach the railroad and express companies and the Inter-state Commerce Commission with requests for adjustments where it was evident the shippers of the Eastern Shore are being discriminated against.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Address By Baltimore Speaker Thursday Night—Committees To Report On Farm And Traffic Plans

Secretary Freeman of the Salisbury Wicomico Chamber of Commerce has announced that on Thursday night, November 9th, there will be a meeting of great interest to every member and a capacity attendance is expected.

The star event of the occasion will be an address by Mr. H. H. Bond, of Baltimore, a famous speaker who will talk on the subject, "The business outlook for the next twelve months as I see it."

At the business session of Wicomico's Commerce Chamber which will precede the address, several very important reports will be made. The Transportation Committee will report their findings in the matter of engaging a traffic expert to handle the cases of the local shipping interests.

A further exposition on Senator Harrison's "one-man farm" idea will be given by a group of men from the county, who are members of the Transportation Committee who were appointed on a committee with the instructions to carefully study the proposed plan and after surveying the situation to make their recommendations to the main body.

It is understood that a large number of visitors will be present at the regular Thursday night meeting this week and a worth-while program of interesting topics has been provided.

Original Six Orchestra To Play Thanksgiving

Will Attract Dancers To Armory For Opening Dance Of Cotillion Club—Lists Close November 15

With Thanksgiving Day but three weeks distant, the Salisbury Cotillion Club is making final arrangements for the big holiday dance it is planning to give in the Armory that night. Already a number of subscriptions have been received in response to the invitations of the committee.

The Snappy Six orchestra, of Wilmington will provide the symphonic melodies for the dancers "Turkey night" and this announcement is certain to meet with the approval of all the terpsichorean enthusiasts who will gather for this opening event of the winter social season. It is understood that the invitation lists will close on November 15th so that tickets had better be purchased now from members of the committee.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS START POST HERE

27 Applications On Charter List—Officers For Coming Year Are Elected And Installed

Just recently, department commander, Herbert C. Blake and his personal aide, Lieut. J. H. Mittendorf, installed a post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Salisbury. This post started with a charter application list of 27 members.

The department commander obligated 23 of these new members and acted as post commander during the post election. The following officers were elected: W. Grosscup, Jr., commander; W. W. Gavin, senior commander; Frank A. Coppock, Jr., vice-commander; Lloyd W. Ennis, quartermaster; Joseph W. Rawson, adjutant; Roland Johnson, officer of the day; George W. Lowe, inner guard. After the election was completed the post officers were installed by the department commander.

Under new business the members agreed that the charter fee should be $2 so long as the charter is held open. They have decided that no member will be received for a quarter after the last meeting night in December. The monthly dues were fixed at 35 cents so long as the charter is open. After the first of the year initiation fee and dues will be fixed for the ensuing year.

The post will meet on the first and third Fridays of each month in the Pythian Hall until arrangements can be made for a permanent meeting hall or post rooms of their own.

TRIBULATIONS

The average man—if, indeed, there is an average man—and the average woman—through chivalry insists that all the dear creatures are above the average—enjoy talking about their aches and pains. What other quiet joy compares with that of holding the center of the stage and being long and tenderly of the pain that arrives in one's back at 9.15 every morning, there to abide until late evening, or the unique behavior of a back tooth that is unlike any other back tooth in the known world, or the headache that settles at the base of the skull and is doubtless the result of overtaxed nerves, all the family being high-strung and possessed of nervous dispositions?

It is a pleasant business, but it has its dark sides. For when a sufferer has said much concerning his own aches and pains, for potential sake, lend an attentive ear while the car of the second part talks long and earnestly concerning pains of his own.

And very probably this danger of starting something, and the dread of it, cause members of the family to suffer in silence. At any rate, these cause Friend Wife to speak but rarely of pains and aches that would persuade Friend Husband to lie flat on his back and howl so ardently as to arouse the neighbors. And because she talks but little concerning her sufferings Friend Husband takes it for granted, in to speak but rarely of pains and aches that would persuade Friend Husband to lie flat on his back and howl so ardently as to arouse the neighbors. And because she talks but little concerning her sufferings Friend Husband takes it for granted, in to speak but rarely of pains and aches that would persuade Friend Husband to lie flat on his back and howl so ardently as to arouse the neighbors.

Man is little impressed by a pain he does not feel. And so thousands of wives go through their days with little sympathy, and when they can bear no more and lie down to die the husband says: "It was all so terribly sudden. She seemed to be so sound and healthy."

Very likely all wives sympathize with that one who said: "I wish sometimes I really could die, just so John would believe me when I tell him I am hurting."—Evening Sun.

RUARK-BACON

At the home of the bride in the presence of many friends, Miss Elizabeth Bacon was united in marriage to Mr. William Ruark, of Salisbury, by the Rev. V. L. Edmunds, pastor of the Division St. Baptist Church, at six o'clock on the evening of October 31. The couple will make their home in Philadelphia for the winter.

PROMISING OUTLOOK ON COUNTRY CLUB PROJECT

Meeting Of Enthusiasts Held Wednesday Night—Backers Of Enterprise Have High Hopes

Country Club prospects for Salisbury were never brighter, is this week's gleaming from local society news. Enthusiasm marks every discussion of the enterprise and the fact that experts have already been down here to give their advice and opinion on the various angles of the project has served to create a genuine desire on the part of many individuals to lend their aid and support, not orally but with the convincing display of "long green."

This Wednesday night there will be a meeting of those parties who are responsible for the present agitation of the country club question. Business men in town who have been approached for funds and have signified their willingness to underwrite the purchasing of the property for the club are to be present at this gathering. It is understood that after the buying of the grounds, that 100 members will be sought whose initiation fee of $100 will provide for the erection of a club-house and lay-out of a golf course. No definite action has been taken yet in the selection of a site.

ATTEND "Y" CONVENTION

Secretary Hammerslough and Ralph H. Grier are to attend the International Convention of Young Men's Christian Association at Atlantic City, November 14-19. These conventions are held every three years and Salisbury representatives will doubtless gain many valuable ideas from the general sessions.

DOUBLE WEDDING TAKES PLACE AT FRUITLAND

A double wedding was solemnized in the Christian Church parsonage at Fruitland, Md., on Saturday evening, October 28th by the Rev. R. P. Browell, pastor, when Laura MacDonald, of Bishop, Md., and Marie Ellen Bodley, of near Showell, Md., also Clarence E. Bodley, of near Showell, Md., and Opal K. Burge, of near Eden, Md., were united in marriage. The two couples received many congratulations.

"HARVEST HOME" WILL FEATURE INDOOR FAIR

Exhibition At Armory To Have Booth Where Donations For Institution Will Be Received

One of the special features of the Community Fair which will be held in the Armory on the 15th, 16th and 17th will be the "Harvest Home". This booth will be given over to donations of farm products, canned goods and like contributions for Salisbury institutions.

All the county granges have promised to give something to this worthy cause and officials of the fair are laying special stress on this particular part of the program. Mrs. H. L. Van Horn, of Salisbury and Rev. G. W. Mardela, are on the committee and are very optimistic about the quantity of things expected to be donated.

SAYS PROPER KISSING WILL HOLD HUSBANDS

Irene Bordoni Would Establish Kiss Clinics To Solve Divorce Problem

Establishment of kiss clinics for marriageable girls, to solve America's divorce problem, was urged by Irene Bordoni, Parisian stage beauty.

Miss Bordoni declared marriage in this country has become a farce through failure of young wives to kiss properly.

"They kiss with their lips—not with their soul," she declared.

"A woman's whole heart should be put into every kiss she gives her husband."

And the petite Irene, whose kissing has won the plaudits of continents, puckered her own luscious lips in a most seductive manner.

"A kissable woman will keep any normal man anchored at home," she declared, and all who heard and saw, believed.

"Too many wives think they can hold their husbands through their stomachs," she continued.

MRS. ETTA CAROLINE REDDISH

Although under medical treatment for some time, death came unexpectedly last Sunday to Mrs. Etta Caroline Reddish at her home near Salisbury on the Snow Hill Road. Doctors had diagnosed the trouble as Bright's Disease.

Before her marriage to Mr. Alfred Reddish in 1892, Mrs. Reddish was Miss Etta Dennis, the daughter of George W. and Laura Wimbrow Dennis. A sad incident in her life happened in July 1920, when her son, George William, was drowned at Annapolis.

Mrs. Reddish was held in high esteem by all who came in contact with her and her devoted and careful dedication to the duties of motherhood won for her the respect and admiration of the community in which she lived.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the home with Elder J. C. Mellett in attendance. Interment was made in the family burial ground. The deceased is survived by two grand-children and five children: May, Louise, John and Alfred Reddish and Mrs. Horace Mitchell. Her loss is also mourned by two sisters and five brothers who are as follows: Mrs. Willard Hearn and Mrs. Herbert Lowe of Salisbury; Mr. David P. Dennis, of Waverly, Va., and Mr. Oscar B. Dennis and Mr. Berry Dennis, of Salisbury.

County Suffers Loss Of Foremost Citizen

on the diamond.

Mr. Gordy never sought nor held public office but was always a most ardent Democrat. In religious faith he was a Presbyterian. He was intensely interested in the advancement of this county and was always identified with every forward movement looking to the progress or prosperity of his community. A successful farmer, he owned a farm nearly all his life and to it he devoted the same enthusiasm and business acumen that characterized his attitude toward all other things.

For the past week Mr. Gordy had been in poor health and death was not entirely unexpected. Pneumonia developed on Monday and death came early Tuesday morning. Mr. Gordy is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Z. Lee Powell and Mrs. E. Powell, of this city, and by several nieces and nephews: Miss Nancy M. Gordy, Mr. William S. Gordy, Jr., Mrs. Daniel B. Cannon, of Salisbury, and Mr. Harry Powell, of Pennsylvania.

Among his grand-nephews are Graham Gandy, Jr., and Robert Cannon. Funeral services will be held from the home on Walnut street at three o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. Robert Alexander Boyle will officiate. The pallbearers will be the four remaining members of the original White Clouds, Messrs. L. W. Gandy, Henry S. Todd, Samuel Smith and Judge E. Stanley Toddvin, and Mr. Walter B. Miller, and Mr. Levin W. Dorman.

Community Shocked By Herbert Riffe's Death

Culver, John K. Valiant, Walter C. Powell and Dr. J. McFadden Dick, all close personal friends of Mr. Riffe.

Dr. Herson in speaking of him said: "I regard his going away as a great personal loss and Asbury Church has been greatly bereaved. He was one of our most active and thoughtful officials."

Mr. Riffe was a member of all the Masonic bodies including the Scottish Rite and the Shrine, and Masons from many parts of the peninsula were present at the funeral. He was known and recognized as one of the ablest speakers of this entire section, and during the World War was never too busy to go on the platform for the Liberty Loan drive, for the Loans, or for the other similar campaigns, and he was one of the most universally successful speakers that toured the Shore.

Exceptionally active in church work, he was called on time after time, most frequently by request of the congregation, to speak in the churches of the Eastern Shore. In Sunday School work he was always a devoted worker and for a long time taught the Young Women's Bible Class of Asbury Church.

In the Rotary Club, as in all gatherings where he was called upon to speak, he chattered with a golden tongue and thrilled with an eloquence that delighted but at the same time taught.

For the past 15 years he has been connected with the Jackson & Gutman Company of this city and at the time of his death at the age of 42, was superintendent of the factory.

He is survived by his widow and by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Riffe. A host of friends mourn his loss and testify for his sorrow to the love this community felt for him.

TO HONOR MARCEL WAVE

"Long may it wave!" will be the rallying cry of the next national celebration in France.

This time it will not be a great poet dramatist, sculptor or statesman who will be honored. No one quite so commonplace. The paens will be sung and the obsequies will be made to the great "Le Pere Marcel" known to all women kind as the inventor of the celebrated "wave."

The hairdressers of France have decided that with this coiffeur master's invention approaching its fiftieth year of popularity it is time to do honor to its creator. Marcel is now 70 years old, a millionaire, and lives in the famous Chateau du Theil, East Shore Churchman, Cal. 20

It was in the early days of the Third Republic when the obscure hairdresser hit upon the idea of using curling irons upside down. His "wave" became the rage in the world of fashion and within less than time it brought him wealth and fame.

DESIRE TO SMASH THINGS

What makes the cook smash dishes, even when she is not angry, and what causes a factory hand to damage production unintentionally, has been puzzled out by experts of the National Institute of Industrial Psychology of Great Britain.

Pieces of mental grit get into human machinery and play havoc. A large amount of breakage is due to mental irritation which is largely a result of fatigue. The worker who is not tired has sufficient energy to use in checking his irritability; the worker who has been performing mechanical motions all day shows his boredom by crashing something to the floor.

Breakage becomes epidemic at times the British experts have found. Where groups of workers are engaged in handling the same material, excitement, fluster, hurry or irritation in one section quickly spreads to another. Where there is a regular flow of material with rush periods, it is found that both the excitement of the rush and the reaction of the slack time damage efficiency and incidentally damage the things that are being handled. By introducing a steady flow of material there is a noticeable rise in efficiency.

War Hero To Attend Convention

Sergeant Samuel Woodfill, chosen by General Pershing as the greatest hero of the world war, will attend the American Legion Convention at New Orleans despite the fact that financial difficulties have forced him to obtain a furlough from the army and go to work as a carpenter.

"We are coming unless sickness prevents," the wife of the world war hero wrote T. Semmes Walmsley, convention chairman. At first my husband said he could not afford to lose seven days at $6 a day, but after your telegram arrived we decided we had better try to make the trip and possibly we could make up for what he lost in some other way."

Sergeant Woodfill is now working on the government dam at Silver Springs, Ky., to make enough money to meet expenses on his home, coming due soon.

Best Bib and Tucker

New Orleans will wear her best bib and tucker for the American Legion national convention in October, if Superintendent of Police Guy R. Molony and the clean-up committee of the city council can bring it about.

Superintendent Molony has promised that the police force will make every effort to keep people from throwing paper and other trash on the streets.

An all-station order will be issued, the superintendent promised, "charging each patrolman to be on his guard

Accurate Timing of Races

Using an electrical device and phonograph record starters at the American Legion national athletic championships to be held, October 16 to 20, hope to time runners in the various track events with an accuracy never before achieved.

Across the mouth of the starter's pistol which will make a connection, when discharged, with a needle which in turn will drop on a phonograph record divided into 100 parts and revolving at the rate of 60 revolutions a minute. The connection will be broken and the needle automatically picked up when the winner breaks the tape in crossing the finishing line. The time will be recorded to the one hundredth part of a second. Officials of the A. A. U., will watch the operation of the device with a view of adopting it at their meets.

Another innovation at the meet will be a magna vox to be installed at close intervals in the grandstand to "tell" spectators about the races as they are watching them. The confusion and doubt in regard to relative positions of runners will not happen at the Legion meet since men stationed at all intervals along the track will report to the grandstands through the magna vox the position of contestants as they pass.

MRS. REBECCA M. MORRIS

Mrs. Rebecca M. Morris, aged 90 years, and 11 months, died Friday morning at her home near the six mile house on the old Snow Hill Road. She was buried Saturday afternoon in the old family burying grounds. Many friends were at the services held at the home. The deceased had been twice married. There is a son, James W. Livingston.

RED MEN DISTRICT RALLY

A big rally of the district Red Men will be held in the local hall on the evening of November 13th. The national leader will speak to the assembly.

FIRE ON CHURCH STREET

Fire early Wednesday morning in the pressing establishment of the Wells Bros. on Church street found the Salisbury Fire Department quick in answering the alarm and consequently but little damage was done. Mr. C. E. King was loud in his praise of the haste with which the local apparatus responded to the call. He is the owner of the building.

Mother's Cook Book

Here's a world that suffers sorrow,
Here are bitterness and pain,
And the joy we plan tomorrow
May be ruined by the rain.

—Edward Guest.

FOODS A CHILD MAY HAVE

THE foods in the following list are those a child may have, though they should not all be served in one meal, and the mother selects the foods most appropriate.

Solid foods are introduced gradually after one year of age in the diet of a normal baby.

The first meal should have as a beginning a dish of cereal, gruel, properly salted and served with milk; a piece of zwieback or crumbs of bread made soft with milk, or an egg occasionally, cooked for two minutes and thickened with bread crumbs. This is the time to form the habit of slow eating and perfect mastication. It is so important that other things should be slighted rather than neglect this, as it means a lifelong habit for health or indigestion with its illa.

Fresh bread, hot breads and rich biscuit should never be given. Always serve bread stale enough to crumble. A good way to serve it is to cut in small squares and brown in the oven.

For the child from the twelfth to the eighteenth month, fruits such as orange, pineapple, strained apple sauce, prune juice and mashed pulp, is especially good, as they contain valuable mineral salts, vitamins and acids. One ounce of the juice or fruit pulp, given one-half hour before or half-hour after their milk.

Broths.—Mutton, chicken, veal or beef broth, with rice or stale bread crumbs, five ounces; beef juice, three ounces.

Cereals.—Gruel, or cereal jelly made of oatmeal, barley, farina, rice or wheat, four ounces.

Breads.—Zwieback, dry toast, stale bread and butter, graham cracker.

Eggs.—Soft cooked in shell, coddled, or soft poached.

Meats.—Scraped rare beef, one tablespoonful.

Milk.—One to one and one-half quarts in 24 hours. This amount includes all milk used in the cooking and preparation of the foods.

Feedings for child from twelve months to eighteen, are five in 24 hours.

Cereals are given once a day, always well cooked. Vegetables are necessary for a healthy baby past a year and a half. Potato well baked and served with butter, spinach, asparagus tips, carrots and cauliflower well cooked and mashed, one vegetable daily until two years of age, then green vegetables may be given occasionally with the potato.

Meats are given sparingly at first up to the third year, and should be finely chopped or cut. Desserts should be given sparingly up to ten years, and candy never until two years old, and then but one piece daily, always after a meal.

WHY?

ARE HAT BANDS

FROM the inscriptions discovered on the walls of ancient temples it is apparent that, as far back as 3500 B. C., the Egyptian women used a band with streamers to fasten their hair, tying this in a bow at the back or side. This style was retained by many people, through many centuries, and in the fourteenth century it was used as a "fillet"—merely a straight band without streamers, which held the hair away from the forehead and the eyes.

It was this fillet, itself an echo of the fashions of thousands of years ago, which gave rise to the streamer-headedresses which were so much in vogue during the reign of James I., when, we are told, "Endymion Porter wore his wife's diamond necklace on his hat during a tour in Spain, but it appeared like paste beside the gorgeousness of the duke of Buckingham, who wore the 'Mirror of France' (the finest diamond in England) with a 'little black feather on the side of his hat.' This passion for expensive headgear passed with the waning of the styles of bright colors in men's clothing—but the hatband was retained because of its decorative quality and because men have become accustomed, through thousands of years, to seeing it worn in one form or another.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky food

ANNA

THOUGH coming originally from the same source, Anna and Anne are very different names. To call a girl bearing the pretty appellation derived from the Hebrew Channah, Anna or Anne indiscriminately is a gross error. They are separate names and should not be used interchangeably.

Anna was first known as the Roman goddess of the circling year. She was confused later with Anne, the companion sister of Dido, whose tragic end is recorded by Virgil in the "Aeneid." According to Roman tradition, Anne pursued the faithless Agassus to Italy, after the suicide of Dido, and there drowned herself in the river Numicus, where she became a presiding deity.

The Irish have a similar legend to account for their Anna; the daughter of the chief of the Firbolg race drowned herself in the river Liffey, and since the Irish word for river is Anna, the two words became, on English tongues, Anna Liffey, and were supposed to form the unfortunate lady's name.

There was also a St. Anna in Byzantium for whom the Emperor Justinian built a church in 530. Thus Anna became a popular name among Greek damsels, and a daughter of Emperor Basil married Vladimir, grand prince of Moscow. Another famous bearer of the name was Anna d'Este of Italy, who brought her title to the House of Guise.

Like Anne, the tall, slender gem of Anna is the pearl. It promises her good fortune, many friends, and extreme affability. Wednesday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

KIDDIES SIX

By Will M. Maupin

TODAY

I CARE not what the future holds
For me alone. I only know
In summer heats and winter colds
I'll do the best as I can go.
I'll face the future with a smile,
Content to meet whatever may be;
And say to all I meet the while,
Today is good enough for me.

I may not win a golden store,
Nor ever achieve undying fame;
But I, at least, can strive the more
To squarely play life's little game.
I may not build a future great
Nor win renown upon the way;
But I, at least, can scoff at fate,
For I am master of today.

Not time, nor fate, nor circumstance
Can crush the hopes that in me lie;
The storms that rage, the lightning's glance,
But clear the atmosphere and sky.

I fear no future, for I know
Whatever befalls along life's way,
For me the flowers bloom and blow,
And I am master of today.

Come good, come ill, I will not yield
To sudden frown nor adverse grasp;
With utmost strength I'll stand and wield
The weapons that my hands may clasp.

I'll waste no time in idle thought
Of what the future hides away;
As given me, so have I wrought,
And I am master of today.

ONCE IS ENOUGH

A. R. A. Food Remittance Warehouse

Now Busiest Spot in Moscow Since Curtailment of Huge Feeding Program

The busiest spot in Moscow is now the Boyna Food Remittance warehouse of the American Relief Administration. With the curtailment of its huge mass feeding program and the consequent removal of the heavy burden imposed on Russian railways, the A. R. A. is now giving more attention to the matter of food package deliveries with the result that the big warehouse is seething with activity. According to Colonel William N. Haskell, director of the A. R. A. in Russia, more than 95 per cent of the packages purchased in America are reaching their Russian destinations. The others are held in warehouses because the consignees can not be located, and the purchase price is being refunded to the original purchasers.

When the purchaser makes application here in America for a ten-dollar food package to be delivered to his friend or relative in Moscow, Petrograd, or any of the other hundred cities and towns reached by the A. R. A., he has but a vague idea of the manner whereby his package eventually reaches that friend or relative. Pictured above is a scene from the interior of the Boyna warehouse showing containers being packed and crated for shipment to one of the districts. Nearly 200 Russians are employed in the warehouse, where all foodstuffs are received in bulk. Below is the food package spread out on a table. The American Relief Administration has announced that applications for the purchase of ten-dollar food packages will be received throughout the coming winter at New York headquarters, 42 Broadway. Although the famine that last year threatened the entire region of the Volga and later the Ukraine has been virtually stamped out, there is still need of relief work in these districts, especially among those whose weakened after-famine condition makes them in need of physical rebuilding. Many farmers were hardly able to work or harvest their crops. The A. R. A. is hoping that the American people will contribute to these needy through the food remittance system. Money so received will be applied to general relief, or sent in the form of food to specified beneficiaries.

WINTERS SAID TO BE BECOMING MORE MILD

Old-Timer's Opinion Is That Snows Were Deeper And Weather More Severe 50 Years Ago.

There are those who maintain we are having harder winters nowadays than we had 50 years ago. And there are those who maintain that we are having lighter ones. It looks as if lighter ones have it. One's thoughts are turned to the subject by the weather which smiled upon the first three games of the world series. The temperature at the Polo Grounds on October 5 was 85. At the opening game of the series last year the temperature seemed about zero.

It is mostly the older folks who say winters are getting slowly but surely milder, folks who can remember 30 or 40 years back. The younger fry, whose memories don't register more than 10 to 20 years, are the ones who talk about the great snows of 1919, when drifts blew up against the windows of New York's Fifth avenue shops and there wasn't a woman looking in one of them for five miles.

Of course, the snows of 1919 were good, competent snows, and there was a winter a year or so before that when it got so cold that men's ears were frozen on the way to work, but you can't tell the older folks that those snows or those cold snaps hold a candle to ones they experienced 20 times over back in the earlier days. The older people say that the snows and cold snaps of their youth make the present day efforts seem like a kind of early coming maple sugar weather.

Now when people make remarks on memorable cold snaps they have been through the chances are pretty long in favor of their doing some exaggerating. Temperature once it has become a matter of history, is something that can be enlarged upon without taking much risk. When a certain low temperature is 20 years back history it is a safe thing to talk about.

But if we cannot greatly value the testimony of the older folks as far as temperature is concerned, we can value their testimony on the depth of snow, for that is an affair which does not so readily lend itself to exaggeration.

Grandfathers and grandmothers used to be great hands at cutting notches in trees to show how high the snow went. In the smaller towns and in the country there is overwhelming evidence of this enduring kind to prove that the snow used to drift far higher half a hundred years ago than it does today. In those days it used to pile to the fence tops every year; now it seldom goes so high. Nor comes as early in the season, nor stays as late, if you want to credit the added claims of the folks who show you those notches.—New York Sun.

Stung.—The candors of the brethren are illuminating. An American evangelist was engaged by a church for a week's special mission. On his arrival he went to see the minister. "What sort of church have you here?" he inquired. "Well," replied the pastor, "I am afraid things are pretty bad. The people are worldly and careless, the congregations are small, there is no interest in missions, no one comes to a prayer-meeting, dances and card parties go on all through the week, and the people are indifferent to the claims of religion."

"Well," sneered the evangelist, "if I had a church with members like that, I'd go out and hire a yellow dog to bite 'em."

"Yes," said the minister, "that's what we've done."—The Christian Register (Boston).

Her Food Would Act Like Poison

Baltimore Woman Couldn't Even Drink A Cup Of Tea Without Suffering

"My digestion was so bad before I took Tanlac that food seemed like poison to my system. In fact, there was nothing I could eat without suffering afterwards. I could not even drink a cup of tea without bad results," declared Mrs. Kate Kesler, 1731 North Patterson Park Ave., Baltimore.

"I was troubled with gas on my stomach, heartburn, indigestion, frequent dizziness and was dreadfully nervous. I also suffered agony from neuralgic pains in my head and was unable to sleep until almost day. The pains in my back were hard to bear and my arms were so stiff and sore with rheumatism that I could scarcely use them."

"Tanlac certainly had a good chance in my case to show what it can do, but it didn't take long for it to make me feel like a new woman. I have just finished my second bottle now and my appetite is simply ravenous. I eat and sleep fine and feel as well as if I had never had a trouble in the world. After all Tanlac has done for me I could not help recommending it."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. —Advt. 987.

LEGAL NOTICES

Important Notice

All hunters please read.

In addition to general notices heretofore conspicuously posted, we desire at this time to call the attention of all hunters in Wicomico County and the other Counties of this State.

OPEN SEASON. For upland game, including rabbits, squirrels and quail begins November 10th, 1922, and ends January 1st, 1923. Pheasants cannot be killed at any time.

LICENSES. Don't hunt beyond the land you own or cultivate until you have first secured a license from the Clerk of the Court, which we strongly advise you to do before the season opens in order to avoid the rush. Wear your license tags at all times when hunting securely fastened on the back of your coat between your shoulders.

SELLING, BUYING OR TRANSPORTING QUAIL is strictly prohibited, and in view of our experience in Wicomico County during the past season we now have an advance warning to all those who would violate this provision of the law. It is not unlawful for the person who kills rabbits to sell them directly to the consumer.

ALL THE ABOVE PROVISIONS OF LAW will be rigidly enforced by the undersigned and their legally constituted deputies and agents.

NEW POLICIES FOR BOY CLUB WORK PLANNED

State Leader Jenkins And County Agent Cobb Survey Local Situation.

WILL SEPARATE CLUBS FROM SCHOOL SYSTEM

Adult Committees Formed In Each Community—They Will Organize Groups Of Boys Both In And Out Of Schools—Each Club To Concentrate On Special Feature.

Boys' Club work in Wicomico county is to be conducted on a new basis from now on if the plans of County Agent Cobb and his assistants materialize. Heretofore the youthful organization has been closely allied with the educational system. Its members comprised solely boys in the class rooms and all over the state the work was carried on as outlined in the various school programs.

However it is now the intention of the leaders of the Boys' Clubs to break away from the more or less restricted confines of the schools and to launch out into a community realm. That boys will be enabled to become club members who are not in school and the age limit will probably be from 14 to 20 years.

Mr. E. G. Jenkins, State Leader of Boys' Clubs, came down from the University of Maryland last week and went over the local proposition with County Agent Cobb. The field was carefully gone over by them and this survey was productive of the new policy which has for its purpose a community boy's club rather than a school boy's club.

In each section a club will be organized that will concern itself with one feature. For instance at Mardela Springs, there will be established a "Calf Club." These boys will each be given a pure-bred calf and instruction will be given in the raising of the livestock. Their goal will be to produce such stock as will receive the awards at all the state fairs and the big Timonium Judging Contest.

Adult committees have been formed and at Mardela the committee is composed of Messrs. Glen Elliott, John P. Wright, and Edgar L. Venables. The duties of these groups will be to select 12 or 15 boys in their respective communities who will constitute the Boys' Club there.

At Pittsville a Poultry Club will be formed just as soon as the committee, Messrs. Maurice Truitt, Paul Wimbrow and Walter Farlow, call their boys together. These youths will be given flocks of chickens to raise with an objective to be reached of $1,000 clear money at the conclusion of the first year. It should be an excellent demonstration of profitable poultry business.

At Shad Point it is the intention of Mr. Cobb to establish a Pig Club and on Wednesday night a meeting will be held for the purpose of inaugurating this work in that community. In each community there will be appointed an adult leader who will act as adviser to the boys and who will be the medium between the County Agent and the Boys' Club.

Although as stated above the plans call for a separation from the educational system, they do not imply a discrimination against class work of this nature and any group of school boys can start a club and will be aided if they communicate with the County Agent. The same thing is true for any town that has been left out of the scheme of organization.

Conference Of Red Cross Nurses Held

Miss Kell Meets And Entertains Public Health Workers In Neighboring Counties

A conference of Red Cross nurses on duty in nearby counties was held Saturday in the offices of Miss Kell, Wicomico's Public Health Nurse. This meeting was called in an effort to acquaint each nurse with the work being accomplished in nearby territory. One of the outstanding remarks of the visiting nurses was that they were receiving the co-operation of the doctors in their respective sections.

After the discussion had ended, Miss Kell was hostess at an informal supper in the Blue Bird Tea Room. Those present were: Miss Katherine Lee, Talbot county nurse; Miss J. Alice Wilson of Somerset; Miss Pauline Stock, of Queen Anne; Miss Wise, Superintendent of Peninsula General Hospital; Miss Blades, Superintendent Pine Bluff Sanatorium; Mrs. F. P. Adkins, Vice Chairman Wicomico Chapter Red Cross; Mrs. George R. Cobb, Chairman of the local nursing committee; and Miss Kell.

FLAMES FROM EXPLODED LAMP ACT SINGULARLY

Fire In Sharptown Home Is Confined Solely To One Room Due To Absence Of Draught.

On Saturday night last, Mrs. Major A. Elzey, of Sharptown, blew the lamp out which was burning on the table in the dining room, closed the door and went into her bed room. Perhaps an hour later Captain Elzey who had been down town returned home and before entering the dining room, the door of which was left unlocked, he noticed fire on the table, seeing it through the window. He rushed into the room to find it filled with smoke. He put out the fire and as soon as the smoke cleared away he observed that the whole room had been on fire without serious damage. The table cloth was burned, the glassware all broken to pieces, the pictures on the wall, the carpet on the floor and in fact the entire room had been swept by the fire. More than 20 window panes were cracked but none had fallen out to admit the air. The panes were small but had they been large the heat would evidently have broken them so that they would have fallen out and admitted air to the room and perhaps the entire building and contents, together with Mrs. Elzey would have been destroyed. Mrs. Elzey knew nothing of the fire until she was called by Captain Elzey. The lamp evidently exploded as it was found in pieces, the metal base still on the table and the other parts scattered on the table and floor. The smoke had penetrated every part of the room. The loss is covered by insurance.

MEMBER COOPER FAMILY HOST ON HIS BIRTHDAY

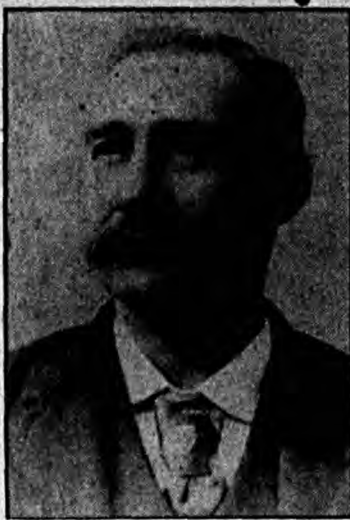

Mr. Samuel J. Cooper, Prominent Sharptown Citizen, Entertains Friends On 80th Birthday.

Samuel J. Cooper, of Sharptown, was 80 years old on Monday and invited a number of relatives to dine with him. Mr. Cooper recently made some changes and improvements in his beautiful residence on Main street and on Monday he threw open the doors to his guests and with his family gave a splendid entertainment of a few hours and then served a sumptuous dinner.

Mr. Cooper was born in the town, or near its limits, and with the exception of about 12 years has spent his entire life in the town; has witnessed its growth and expansion; has aided and assisted in many of its enterprises and has spent the best years of his life in the mercantile business, this alone covering more than forty years. From young manhood up to the present he has been a leading force in the Methodist Protestant church, being president of the Sharptown Bank for many years. Today he is full of enterprise and as interested in civic improvement as ever. Within a few months changes and improvements have been made in his town properties and since the World war his tenants have been notified of a reduction in rentals, commensurate with the reduction in earnings.

He is a veteran of the Civil War having volunteered in the First E. S. M. Volunteers under Capt. John R. Keene and remained in the service until the close of the war covering a period of service of more than three years. He came out at the close of the conflict without a wound or scar. He was in the battle of Gettysburg and in many skirmishes. He has been a member of Good Intent Lodge, No. 99, I. O. O. F. for 57 years. He has been a subscriber to the Baltimore Daily American for 60 years and to the "Methodist Protestant" about the same time.

Those present at the dinner were his daughters: Misses Lena and Mary, his son, Joseph P. Cooper, Mrs. Cooper and two sons, Lawrence and Samuel, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Phillips, (Mrs. Phillips his sister), Purcell T. White, cashier of the Sharptown Bank, Edward H. Cooper and Charles L. Windsor, assistant cashiers, Walter C. Mann, his close personal friend for many years; Edward R. Howard, John S. Cooper, his brother and a director in the Sharptown Bank, B. H. Phillips and Rowe Howard and L. T. Cooper. Mr. Cooper is the oldest member of the Cooper family and is hale and cheerful, and indications point to many more birthdays for him yet to enjoy. He is very active for a man of his age and does a little work nearly every day, if weather conditions are favorable. The guests departed expressing themselves as having had a very enjoyable occasion and left with their host their best wishes that he might live to see many more happy cheerful birthdays.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

FIRE UNDER ASHES

A GREAT many uncharitable, critical people run down the unfortunate man or woman, standing on the brink of discouragement and failure, without looking for the real cause. It may be ill health, it may be shock from the loss of a loved one, it may be misfortune, which in spite of utmost vigilance comes to all of us; or it may be inaptitude or inability, but whatever the cause, let us be patient and considerate before we launch our stinging criticism and throw our hands in condemnation.

If our hearts are right, and if it is assumed they are, let us in a humane spirit seek to remove the ashes from the live coals beneath, and fan them into a hopeful blaze.

Whatever may be the prevailing opinion for or against such a procedure, this is the noble way, almost certain to give encouragement to the disheartened and lift them up in a new world where Hope lives eternally and Truth and Mercy smile kindly, even when the storms beat hardest and the days are darkest.

If we will look deeply into despairing hearts we will find that under the ashes of sorrow there are always coals of living fire, which kindness, sympathy and unselfish helpfulness can fan into a glorious flame. Even in the souls of the most disreputable and hardened sinners there is ever burning an immortal spark of the heavenly fire hidden somewhere beneath the slumbering gray ashes, waiting to be rescued.

And in spite of the frowns of the world, in spite of courts and prisons, in spite of bereavement, of poverty, of riches, or pomp, pride or envy, this spark survives all through our earthly existence, down to the final moment when life itself despairingly flares up and goes out, done with its temporal house of clay.

The question may then come to us as to whether we have played our part as becomes true men and women, and likewise whether the spark in our own souls has not been hidden by the ashes which we, through neglect of others, have permitted to cover and smother it.

It is so easy for sympathies and love to go blind from disease, that unless we keep them ever burning in our own hearts they will never blaze sufficiently to warm and cheer the hearts of others, lost on the way and too proud or weak to call for help.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

GLOOM IS CATCHING

EVERY one of us is reasonably sure that the sun is still in the sky, a cloudy day depresses us. Most of us suffer from a feeling of foreboding even on a clear day, when a cloud comes between us and the distant fire that lights and warms the world.

We are similarly sensitive to all the little troubles of our lives—to anything that disturbs our regularly ordered existence.

A temporary illness—a suspicion that there are some kind of business breakers ahead—these things plunge us in to gloom.

And we, in our turn, pass the gloom along. For our friends seeing the black and foreboding faces that we wear, grow gloomy, too.

One sullen-faced man in an office will sometimes spoil the day for the entire working force.

One croaker on board a ship in a storm may send the whole passenger list into something very like a panic.

Nobody loves a gloomy man, but everybody listens to him, and looks at him.

The prophet of evil is never without an audience.

Poe, in his remarkable poem shows how the raven, by croaking the word "Nevermore" was able to drive a luckless poet almost to the verge of insanity.

Continual gloom is not good for the soul, any more than continual shadow would be good for the green and blossoming things upon the surface of the earth.

We all need sunshine, and a great deal of it.

It is not necessary to go about continually telling people how happy we are, like Pollyanna, but we can at least keep our troubles to ourselves, and not look as if we were limping along toward the grave or the gallows.

The gloomy man or woman in a home destroys the happiness of an entire family, and usually drives the children out on the streets, where at least there is air and sunshine, and maybe now and then a hurdy gurdy.

The reason the jazz is popular, that the comic supplement sells by the million copies, and that the comedian gets a thousand dollars a week, is because we will do anything to get rid of gloom.

It is a burden on life, a menace to human happiness. If you are a gloom addict, change your mode of thought. You are as much of a menace to the community in which you move as was "Typhoid Mary" to hers.

RICH AND POOR

PITY the poor millionaires! Some of their shoes are out at the toes. They are finding much difficulty in making ends meet. Those who are out of jobs or have had their wages reduced are not the only ones suffering financial distress during these readjustment days.

There are some who go around the country preaching discontent, claiming that most of the people are kept poor in order that a few men may be made rich or kept rich. Not an inconsiderable number are willingly led to believe this doctrine and, in consequence, make their own lives unhappy and disturb the peace of their fellows.

In contradiction of this sentiment reports from the bureau of internal revenue in Washington, show that the so-called poor are having less trouble than those accustomed to enjoying fat incomes.

In 1914 there were only 60 individuals in the United States who reported incomes of a million dollars or more per year. For 1916 the incomes of more than a million dollars totaled 200; but since that year—the howling of street-corner orators notwithstanding—there has been a marked decline. Wealthy men's income returns for 1919—the last year for which statements have been compiled—included only 65 of a million dollars or more. During 1920, due to the dropping and passing of dividends resultant from the period of depression, indications point to a drop in the number having million-dollar incomes even below that for 1914. And the end is not yet, for corporate incomes, from which most of the big individual incomes are derived, have been shrinking so much that many wealthy men find themselves in a quandary as to their ultimate outcome.

It's a mistake to smile over others' misfortunes. Not one should find a cause for rejoicing because quickly-made millionaires and wealthy persons are made miserable through falling incomes. But the information at hand regarding the difficulties the rich are encountering is a reason for the average class and the poor to consider their misfortunes less serious and to recognize that there is nothing in the radical discussions of the rich getting richer and the poor poorer.

The law of justice usually works out okeh.

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE SUFFERS DEPRESSION

$6,379,000,000 In 1922 As Compared With $10,170,000,000 In 1921
—Trade Balance Reduced

American foreign trade for the fiscal year which ended June 30 suffered in common with the general world depression, according to a bulletin issued this week by the Commerce Department.

The country's total foreign trade for the fiscal year 1922 was $6,379,000,000, of which $2,608,000,000 was in imports and $3,771,000,000 exports compared with $10,170,000,000 the previous year, divided between $5,654,000,000 of imports and $4,516,000,000 of exports. The nation's favorable trade balance for 1922 was only slightly over $1,000,000,000, as against nearly $3,000,000,000 the previous year.

"For the year 1921-22," the department said, "the excess of exports over imports of $1,163,000,000 was liquidated in part by $446,000,000 net imports of precious metals, and this, together with the additional estimated balance against us of $1,500,000,000 of invisible exchange, exceeds the amount necessary to square accounts by some $750,000,000. No doubt this was at least partly absorbed in repayment of private loans, because even a smaller amount of private export financing existed in July, 1922, than in July, 1921. Generally, this change indicates a much sounder and firmer basis of trade."

A steady increase in the ratio of imports to exports which if continued would reach a balance in the movement of goods in another few months was noted by the department, which declared that, with the end of the gold import stage of the war readjustment approaching and considering the invisible exchange situation, continued trend in the general direction now evident soon would produce gold exports even in the face of payments on account of Allied debts.

Several important shifts in the country's foreign trade, due to the war, were observed by the department.

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CAR

The evenness of performance so often remarked in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars is due, in no small part, to the thoroughness with which each unit is inspected during the process of manufacture and assembly.

A trained staff of 800 experts is employed in this work alone, and approximately 5285 individual inspections are made on each car.

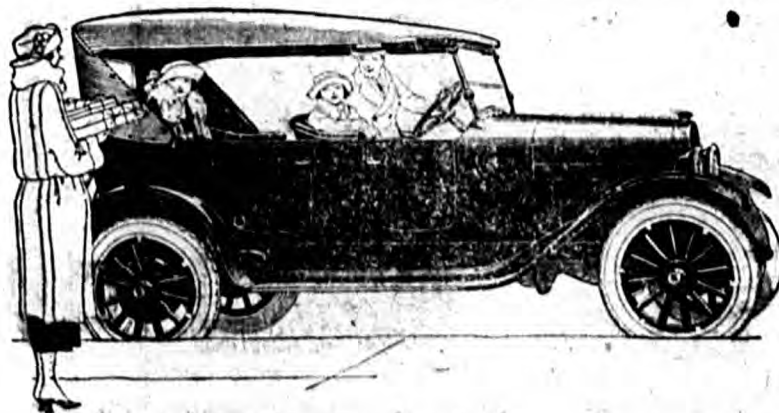

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation either in workmanship or material is instantly discovered and rejected.

Dodge Brothers are almost over-scrupulous in their constant aim to make each car as sound and perfect as is humanly possible.

A Service Message

It is the solemn duty of every financial institution to use every means possible to protect the funds and securities entrusted to its care. To offer that feeling of absolute security is positively due the patron to justify his confidence. The bank must actually protect or it betrays. Being a firm believer that the patrons are entitled to the best, this institution has just recently installed one of the most modern Electric Burglar Alarm Systems in existence. It is acknowledged as being absolutely Burglar Proof. A most convincing argument in favor of this system is the fact that the premium on our Burglar Insurance was reduced 60 per cent immediately. With the knowledge of having a perfect equipment and a Service that has always met with popular approval, this bank continues to be in a favorable position to convince you that you should patronize it.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

THE CHILD WHO POUTS

By Marion Brownfield

The child who pouts is a problem, as the tendency to remain sullen and disagreeable may easily become a life time habit known as a "bad disposition."

There is the little fellow who pouts when he takes a notion that he does not want oatmeal for breakfast, and the young miss who purses up her lips when her mother decides it is not best for her to wear a certain frock she fancies. While one knows the direct cause of a pout, it is comparatively easy to deal with. But with children, the bad humor may really go farther back than what appears to be the whim of the moment.

It is because children are made more sullen, bitter, or deceitful by unjust punishment that one must be careful to understand the real cause of a pout. With children there is such a difference in personalities, just as much as with grown-ups, that one must study this also, if one is to cure the pouting habit successfully. And some children have fancies and moods that are much more difficult to adjust than the safety pin that caused baby's pout.

Some children, indeed, of changeable disposition, pout often at trivial things, plainly the displeasure of the immediate moment. While children of deep nature, sensitive to unexpected spots, will be "down in the mouth" for some hurt or disappointment, quite unperceived by those who did not happen to be present when the stab came. Boys, especially, begin slow to confess their little rebuffs to anyone through sheer masculine pride, will be out of humor at seemingly ridiculous or unreasonable things, when something underneath, that they are ashamed to confess, rankles.

Young children, too, of sensitive natures will pout in company out of pure diffidence. The writer knows a boy of three, who invariably pouts and hangs his little head in company until his older brothers and sisters have ceased to notice him, when he becomes less self-conscious and the pout disappears. Another boy, the most sensitive of three brothers, developed a pout through self-defense. As he was less aggressive naturally than his two other brothers, they took advantage of it and gave him the worst of it at every opportunity. The consequence was that not being a fighter he developed a chronic pout that the family for a long period termed a "grouch." It kept everyone from teasing him. The sullen looks made them leave him alone. It was only when a disquieting grandma visited the family that she suggested the real cause of the pouts to the family. And sure enough when the other brothers were carefully prevented from annoying the child, he mellowed up!

So to cure the pout effectively, one must consider the cause before applying a remedy.

A boy of most any age can understand the appeal "to be a good sport" and "not to whimper, when you're a loser." It can be urged on almost any occasion to prevent pouts that come from disappointment, a thwarted appetite or failure to win in a game.

Ignoring the pout is a tactful method with a certain type of child. The kind that has "temperament" loves to have his emotions noticed and catered to. So utterly ignoring these pouts is the best way to discourage the child from trying them again.

WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, headaches, dizziness and distressing urinary ills? Salisbury people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Could you ask for stronger proof of merit? Ask your neighbors.

Mrs. Jennie Collins, 312 Williams Street, Salisbury, says: "My experience with Doan's Kidney Pills leads me to recommend them highly. I do not know of anything to equal them. I suffered with my back a great deal and many times it became so I could not sit down in a chair without pillows to rest against. Dizzy spells came over me suddenly and black spots floated before my eyes. My limbs were lame and stiff, and my kidneys acted irregularly. I used Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at White & Leonard's Drug Store and they brought me relief from all the aches and pains, benefiting me in every way."

REEDVILLE

Recollections of by-gone days, were quickened in the minds of many people here last week, when news came of the death of Rev. W. D. Litsinger, a beloved former pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church in Northumberland. The end came while Mr. Litsinger was visiting his son, Dr. Vernon Litsinger, at Farnham. The remains were conveyed to Frederickburg by the Butler Automobile Hearse from Lillian Motor Co., and on to the Litsinger home at Roland Park, Md., where the funeral was held, followed by burial in beautiful Loudoun Park, Baltimore. Rev. W. D. Litsinger was a gentleman of the old time type, gentle indeed in heart and speech, dignified and courtly in manner, and was dearly loved here.

Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Wallace, were week-end and welcome guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McAloney, in town here, attending service at Bethany twice Sunday. They are at White Stone for the next year. To know Mr. Wallace is to love him. "As good as they are made" was the remark of a member of Bethany, when his name was spoken last week. Glad they will be neighboring so near Reedville again.

Capt. E. W. Edwards, of Fleeton, was sick a day or two last week, but is out again, we gladly report.

Mrs. J. C. Fisher, of "The Gables," motored over to the Fair at Kilmarnock, Wednesday, stopping at "Holly Dell" (in Wicomico), for Mrs. Bettie Harding. We appreciated an invitation to be in the party also, but found it impossible to accept. Among those attending from Reedville were: Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Moore, Mrs. R. L. Haynie, Mrs. L. T. Smith, Mrs. L. B. Howells, Mr. Howard Marsh, Mr. L. B. Hubbard, of White Stone, Mrs. R. H. Chilton, of Kilmarnock, and their children, were here Sunday for the day at Mr. Raymond L. Haynie's, with their mother, Mrs. L. T. Smith.

Friday night is League night at Reedville High School. All members and interested friends are cordially invited to be present. Washington and Tanager Literary Societies of R. H. S., each held high carnival in the building last week. Black cats, witches, pumpkins, etc., all played important parts in the Halloween features. Prizes were awarded for masquerades, riddles, as well as fancy, but a list of winners is not convenient.

Mr. S. Clyde Haynie and little daughter, Lillian Lee, Miss Flora Haynie and Mr. B. B. Haynie spent Sunday in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Blackwell, Sunnybank.

We are having ideal autumn weather, cool, clear and probably too dry for any belated farm work, but full of beauty, and rich in color. The golden glow of the maples and hickories, the royal purple of the gum, with the brown and crimsons of our native woodland, all flanked by the vivid green of the sturdy and fragrant pines make the call of the wild an almost irresistible appeal. Very little frost has been seen here. Many summer flowers are still blooming. Only yesterday we picked and ate figs as large and sweet as any we have seen this year, and last week we gathered sprays of dainty pink and white blossoms from the crab-apple tree, fragrant with the breath of spring memories. And some writer has called November the grayest, gloomiest month of the year.

Mrs. T. H. Jett, returned last week from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Jett, Jr., at Mt. Airy, Md. They were joined there by Mr. T. H. Jett, from Chincoteague, and all spent sometime at Braddock Heights, seeing Gettysburg and other points of interest in that fine section of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Warren Edwards and Mrs. W. A. Edwards, of Fleeton, spent part of last week in Richmond, taking in the Blundon trial.

Mr. J. M. Rowland, of Richmond, made the trip up with her husband on the Florence A. Miss Janie Marsh and little brother, are spending the time with their sister, Mrs. Nobel Davis, on our corner.

Friends were sorry to hear that Capt. T. H. Haynie, of the East Hampton, was sick last week, and not able to stay out with the steamer. We are hoping he may soon be much better.

Mrs. C. W. Haynie, of this town, was sick last week. Is better now we are glad to say.

Wallace Haynie, of this town, a graduate of the R. H. S., last spring, has entered a Business College in Richmond, for the winter.

Mr. Lee S. Morrison left for Richmond Monday morning at an early hour, taking Rev. J. M. Rowland, Dr. T. S. D. Covington and Mr. Beverly Robinson. They will all spend several days in that city. Mr. Morrison went to Richmond last Saturday, making a hurried trip to carry Mr. John A. Palmer, Jr., of Fleeton, who had motored home Friday with Mr. Reed and Capt. R. E. Edwards, only to be called back that night.

Mrs. B. H. Hubbard, of White Stone, Mrs. R. H. Chilton, of Kilmarnock, and their children, were here Sunday for the day at Mr. Raymond L. Haynie's, with their mother, Mrs. L. T. Smith.

Friday night is League night at Reedville High School. All members and interested friends are cordially invited to be present. Washington and Tanager Literary Societies of R. H. S., each held high carnival in the building last week. Black cats, witches, pumpkins, etc., all played important parts in the Halloween features. Prizes were awarded for masquerades, riddles, as well as fancy, but a list of winners is not convenient.

Mr. S. Clyde Haynie and little daughter, Lillian Lee, Miss Flora Haynie and Mr. B. B. Haynie spent Sunday in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Blackwell, Sunnybank.

We are having ideal autumn weather, cool, clear and probably too dry for any belated farm work, but full of beauty, and rich in color. The golden glow of the maples and hickories, the royal purple of the gum, with the brown and crimsons of our native woodland, all flanked by the vivid green of the sturdy and fragrant pines make the call of the wild an almost irresistible appeal. Very little frost has been seen here. Many summer flowers are still blooming. Only yesterday we picked and ate figs as large and sweet as any we have seen this year, and last week we gathered sprays of dainty pink and white blossoms from the crab-apple tree, fragrant with the breath of spring memories. And some writer has called November the grayest, gloomiest month of the year.

editor of the Richmond Christian Advocate, spent Sunday night with Rev. W. E. Evans and family at the parsonage here, and preached to a large congregation at the evening service. It was his first visit to Reedville and the people were wonderfully pleased with him and interested in the fine sermon he gave them. Full to the brim, it was of paths, humor and pep. A canvass of the audience in the interest of the Advocate, was made after the sermon, and we imagine, the subscription list materially increased thereby.

Rev. Starke Jett, and Mrs. Jett, with little Miss Florence Leigh, and Starke 4th, motored up from Newport News, Thursday, for a week or two with their mother, Mrs. T. A. Jett and other loved ones near Tibbiths. This latter place embraces the old home neighborhood of Rev. Starke Jett and his people for generations back, but the friends and those who love him are legion in all sections of Northumberland. We are sorry to know that they all had something like grip before leaving the parsonage at Newport News. Hope they may recuperate here in our good healthy air, and be in fine form before leaving for their new work at Rocky Mt., in the Virginia hills.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. English had as their guest Sunday last, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bailey, Mr. T. W. ### WISDOM IS FORESIGHT

The one who so moulds his life as to have no regrets at old age is using the highest human gift—Foresight. Through it he is not a creature of the caprice of destiny, but a master of himself. Education in any form is good; if technical, better, and if commercial, best of all, because the world is in greatest need of it, and the field of business pays the largest rewards for the trained mind. It is wise to train for business.

DAUGHTER HAD TO HELP MOTHER

Now Can Do All Her Housework Alone Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Jasper, Minn. — "I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it because I was having such pain in my stomach and through my back that I could not do my work. I had tried other medicines, but none did me the good that your Vegetable Compound did. Now I am able to do all my work alone while before I had my daughter staying at home to do it. I have told a number of friends what it has done for me and give you permission to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. JESSE PETERSEN, Route 1, Jasper, Minn.

There is no better reason for your trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than this—it has helped other women. So if you suffer from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or are passing through the Change of Life remember this splendid medicine. What it did for Mrs. Petersen it may do for you.

The Vegetable Compound stands upon a foundation of nearly fifty years of service.

LARGE FARM AGENCY COMES TO SALISBURY

Mr. Francis B. Swift Of This City To Represent A. A. Strout Organization In Wicomico County

Mr. Francis B. Swift of this city has just received announcement of his appointment as local manager of the A. A. Strout Farm Agency, Inc., which has established a selling office in Salisbury. The effect of this step will be to give Salisbury representation in the largest farm selling organization in the world.

The appointment as representative of the Strout Agency carries with it unusual opportunities for the development of a profitable farm brokerage business and the man receiving such an appointment must usually have shown qualifications in that line which justify his selection for that post. Mr. Swift therefore is to be congratulated upon his appointment.

The establishment here of a Strout Agency should be of distinct advantage to this community. That agency has general offices in the principal cities of the United States and Canada to reach farm buyers, conducts an extensive advertising campaign, and has more than six hundred selling representatives in the leading farming districts. This new move should result in bringing to this section numerous farm purchasers with money to invest in farms which have been abandoned or should bring new owners, new blood and new capital to farms which are now in operation. The community will profit from this evidence of enterprise.

One method by which the Strout Agency has attracted new families to farm in sections where they have established agencies is by the publication of an attractive sectional catalogue describing farm properties in that section and distributing them to thousands of farm seekers and home seekers in the United States, Canada and foreign countries.

Wherever a man is seeking a farm, this catalogue telling of the advantages of that section is placed before him. This has often resulted in bringing new life into that territory. It should so operate here.

A New Kind of Friction

The insurance adjuster who had been investigating the fire turned to the owner.

"I came down here to find the cause of this fire, and I have done so," he remarked.

"That's what I want to know. What caused it?" demanded the house-owner.

"It's a plain case of friction."

"What—mean—friction?"

"The fire was undoubtedly caused by rubbing a three-thousand-dollar insurance policy on a two-thousand-dollar house."—Everybody's Magazine

LOCAL AGRICULTURAL UNITS TO BE FORMED

Work Of Main Board Of Agriculture In Wicomico County To Be Supplemented By Small Groups

Shad Point will be the first unit organized in the present outlay of the Wicomico County Board of Agriculture. This Board has just recently been formed and now has 35 members. Each section of the county is represented by one delegate on this body.

According to the plans and purposes of the organization, the various localities in the county will select men to interest themselves in certain problems of their community. Thus one individual will concern himself with the transportation question, another with the live stock affairs and so forth.

Then from time to time these groups will be called together to discuss their particular topics. Experts will be invited by the county agent to come down and render assistance in the way of valuable advice and practical solutions for the existing problems. Meetings of the Board of Agriculture are held on the third Saturday of every month and these will be supplemented by the gatherings in the different sections of the county. That at Shad Point on Wednesday night will be the first assembly of agriculturists in order to form a local board. This body will first review the local conditions and then report them to the main board.

HAY CROP PRICES ARE LOWER THAN LAST YEAR

1922 Production Heavier—Marketing Costs Slightly Lower But Too High For Reasonable Profit

The 1922 hay crop is moving at prices slightly below last year's level according to a national survey of the hay market situation just completed by the United States Department of Agriculture.

October 1, last year the average price of No. 1 timothy at the principal markets was $22.50 per ton, while at the present time the average price at the same market is about $21. Prairie hay is about 50 cents per ton lower on an average of about $14 per ton for No. 1 upland at the principal prairie markets. Alfalfa, however, is selling at above last year's level. No. 1 alfalfa on an average of $21.50 at the principal alfalfa markets.

According to the September estimate of the same hay crop, the 1922 crop was a little over 11,000,000 tons greater than the 1921 crop. Of timothy hay, dealers estimate about 25 to 30 per cent. more to be marketed this year than last, with about the same increase in the percentage of clover to be marketed. Of the prairie and alfalfa hay, however, a smaller surplus is indicated.

The movement of hay, the department reports shows, apparently has been delayed somewhat by the scarcity of cars. The quality of all hays is reported good.

Marketing costs are reported slightly lower than last year, due principally to lower hauling costs, but marketing costs are still so high that in many instances the freight and selling charges are more than the f.o.b. shipping point price of the hay.

Reports from consuming territories indicate a good supply of local forage. The smallest supply seems to be in North Carolina, where dealers estimate local forage will not be sufficient for more than two or three months. Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia rank among States having a four to six months supply and Alabama and Mississippi for the entire season.

ENGLISH IS MURDERED BY OHIO COLLEGIANS

"Inductive Reasoning" Writes One Student, "Is Going From The Perpendicular To The General"

Some mirth-provoking instances of incorrect spelling, grammatical error and other forms of poor English were found by the English instructor of Ohio University while reading essays and compositions submitted by a number of advanced college students in English composition.

Here are a few of the instances: "Johnny John papa" (incorrectly used for Johnny jump-ups), "grape harbor," "pedals of a rose," "tracks of land," "breakface," "hair-sheep" (for "shipshape"), "wig" (of a candle) and "wreckford" for (record).

One student defined sorority as a "group of girls bonded together on planks and platforms carefully laid and bound together by ties that bind."

Another student said that inductive reasoning is "going from the perpendicular to the general." Tennyson was a "poet lariat," according to one student. A student confessed that all the English she had "is almost negligible." A rule of grammar was given as follows: "A comma is a bad blunder."

The English instructor attributed most of the blunders to carelessness and "just plain ignorance." Other university professors laid the blame at the doors of those responsible for "lack of emphasis in high schools and grammar grades on reading and spelling."

MARYLAND TAXPAYERS ARE SAVED BIG SUM

Reduction in Federal Taxes To Cut $20,555,370 Out Of District's Collections This Year

Taxpayers in Maryland together with their neighbors in the District of Columbia are going to save in the neighborhood of $20,555,370 in their tax bill for the current year according to an announcement by Owen L. Tait, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Maryland District. This condition has been brought about by a reduction in Federal taxes based on cancellations and decreases in the tax rates provided by the revenue act of 1921.

The reduction in taxes for 1922 is approximately as follows:

Income $4,800,000.00
Transportation 14,261,660.69
Insurance 602,975.85
Luxury and sales 890,734.88

While the transportation, insurance, sales and luxury tax cancellations became effective January 1 of this year, the income tax reduction covers 1921 as well as 1922 and thereafter.

The transportation tax of $14,261,660.69:

Freight $8,674,151.74
Passenger 5,586,555.80
Express 2,017.88
Sales and berths 41,998.23
Pipe line transportation 4,937.04

Means that from July 1, 1920, until June 30, 1921, $359,083,111 was collected in transportation charges alone by the railroads whose headquarters are in Maryland district. The two largest systems in question are the Southern Railway, with headquarters at Washington, and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, with headquarters in Baltimore.

Of the $4,800,000 income tax reductions, $4,200,000 is distributed among 150,000 taxpayers filing returns with incomes less than $5,000, and $600,000 applies to taxpayers with incomes exceeding $5,000.

The new exemptions allowed heads of families and dependents is now $2500 and $400, which means an increased exemption for a married couple with one dependent of $700, or a tax saving of $28.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

President Harding in his Thanksgiving proclamation issued last week calls upon the American people to observe Thursday, November 30, "as a day of thanksgiving, supplication and devotion." The President declared that the estate of the nation "presents very much to justify a nationwide and most sincere testimony of gratitude for the bounty which has been bestowed upon us."

The text of the proclamation follows:

By the President of the United States of America A Proclamation

In the beginning of our country the custom was established by the devout fathers of observing annually a day of thanksgiving for the bounties and protection which Divine Providence had extended throughout the year. It has come to be perhaps the most characteristic of our national observances, and as the season approaches for its annual recurrence, it is fitting formally to direct attention to this ancient institution of our people and call upon them again to unite in its appropriate celebration. As we survey the experience of the passing 12-months we shall find that our estate presents very much to justify a nationwide and most sincere testimony of gratitude for the bounty which has been bestowed upon us. Though we have lived in the shadow of the hard consequences of great conflict, our country has been at peace and has been able to contribute toward the maintenance and perpetuation of peace in the world. We have seen the race of mankind make gratifying progress on the way to permanent peace, toward order and restored confidence in its highest destiny.

For the divine guidance which has enabled us, in growing fraternity with other peoples, to attain so much progress; for the bounteous yield which has come to us from the resources of our soil and our industry, we owe our tribute of gratitude, and give devout assurance of unselfish purpose to play a helpful and ennobling part in human advancement.

Now, therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, President of the United States of America, do designate Thursday, the thirtieth day of November, as a day of thanksgiving, supplication and devotion. I recommend that the people gather at their family altars and in their houses of worship to render thanks to God for the bounties they have enjoyed and to petition that these may be continued in the year before us.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this second day of November, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, and in the Independence of the United States of America one hundred and forty-seventh.

WARREN G. HARDING.

WHAT ABOUT PRICES?

That the NASH MOTORS COMPANY really does give to buyers a greater value for their dollar than most manufacturers of automobiles is borne out by the comparative figures given below.

Of fifteen cars which may be considered to some extent competitive with the NASH because of their price range, these are the conditions:

COMPETITIVE MAKE	LIST PRICE 1917	LIST PRICE 1922
"	$1070.00 NOW	$1195.00	$125.00 ABOVE OLD PRICE.
"	1050.00 NOW	1185.00	135.00 " " "
"	1395.00 NOW	1495.00	100.00 " " "
"	1095.00 NOW	1395.00	300.00 " " "
"	1185.00 NOW	1695.00	510.00 " " "
"	1150.00 NOW	1490.00	340.00 " " "
"	1295.00 NOW	1330.00	35.00 " " "

American Oil Company, American Bldg., Baltimore, Md.

Gentlemen:

In reply to your inquiry of even date in regard to the experience we have had with Amoco Gas, and as to whether it has ever caused any motor trouble from the effects of its use, wish to advise that you of course are well aware that we have used this product for several years with the greatest satisfaction.

In regard to the effect that it has on motors, we can frankly say that we feel that it is the easiest fuel on motors that we have ever used, for the reason that it is absolutely free from spark knocks, thereby saving the bearings and at the same time it develops more power and we believe that it gives us more miles per dollar than any gas we have ever used. Also we find that the motors will not carbon near as quickly as with other gasolines.

Our Service Manager has often remedied motor troubles by simply advising the customer to use Amoco Gas rather than to tear down a motor which trouble has developed from using other makes of Gas. Now we are willing to go on record on this statement should the occasion ever arise.

Trusting the above answers your inquiry, we are,

Very truly yours,
THE SEITZ AUTO CO.

2,000,000 WOMEN ENROLLED IN VARIOUS KINDS OF CLUB WORK IN UNITED STATES

Official Directory Just Issued Lists More Than 13,000 Such Organizations Whose Activities Cover Wide Field Of Work And Many Subjects—New York Leads Membership.

The official Directory of Women's Clubs in America just issued for 1922-1923, lists more than 13,000 such organizations, with a membership of more than a million women, and states that there are many more, possibly another million, outside the official ranks.

New York State which has 500 clubs leads in membership—300,000. Outside organizations enrolled in this directory are as many again of social and civic purpose, most of them in New York city, which seems literally honey-combed with large and small clubs.

Iowa leads in the number of clubs, with 806, while Alaska has nine women's clubs. The Philippine Islands and the Canal Zone each have two, while American women's clubs are going strong in Hawaii, Japan, Sweden, West Australia and the West Indies.

Those listed by the directory come under the heading of "culture clubs," as a rule. Civics, poetry, home economics, current events and groups with descriptive or allegorical names, such as "Clio," "Outlook," "Ruskin," "Audubon," "Staltheis" or "Joy Crafters" are here. So are countless "Woman's Clubs," "Mothers' Clubs" and "Fortnightly Clubs," many large in membership and extremely active in their programs. These are the clubs which keep the lecturers on Japan, fireless cookers, psycho-analysis and the home life of the Eskimo flying from coast to coast on profitable tours.

There is still another sort, unclassified by the directory, but a strong factor in a city like New York, and that is the club which avowedly includes in its activities practically every sort of feminine interest. It is in itself, in fact, all the social life the most strenuous woman could want. It owes its growth and progress to one individual, who furnishes the motive power over her membership lists and plans the busy season which must be forthcoming if the club is to be a success.

Such an organization, in New York for instance, is the New York Mozart Society, which has a membership of a thousand, and is conducted on an annually increasing scale by the founder and continuous president, Mrs. Noble McConnell who lives at the Hotel Astor, where society functions are held. She has an office, files, private telephone, secretary and all business appurtenances. She plans concert programs, selects soloists, supervises decorations, menues, ushering arrangements, music and all other details of management.

In addition to the concerts, which represent the musical aspect with which the group originally started, there are dances, card parties, golf tournaments, members' teas, theatre parties, moving pictures and tennis circles, which keep the thousand members, many of whom come from Long Island, New Jersey and Westchester, busy all twelve months of the year.

"The president of a modern woman's club must be primarily an executive," says Mrs. McConnell. "She ought to be a good mixer, tactful and able to preside well at meetings. But the nubbin of the whole matter is this: A club is strictly a business proposition, run on a business basis. If you give value received for the membership dues and keep the ladies happy and interested, you have succeeded. If you can't run it smoothly and have something doing every minute you might as well shut up shop."

More Clubs have been wrecked by letting personal friendship interfere with strict financing than in any other way. If you give notice that there will be two months' grace every member will put off paying till that date is reached. It's nature. But it isn't good business.

"We give our members an outlet for other interests besides the purely social, too. We have an annual church service at West End Presbyterian Church, and it is crowded. We also support the East Side Clinic for Children, the only one, so far as I know, maintained by such a society. Every year we have several hundred children and their mothers at the Astor Hotel for Christmas dinner.—The Sun.

NEWEST AUTO SLOGAN IS "BE A ROAD SMILER"

Suggested As Means Of Inducing Greater Courtesy Among Motorists In City And Country

Are we becoming a nation of motorist grouches? Why is it that a perfectly healthy man, normal in every way, kindly at home, popular among many friends, genial and cordial to meet socially and professionally, immediately becomes an overbearing, sneering grouch behind the wheel of his automobile or truck?

What is there about driving to accomplish such a metamorphosis? Should the milk of human kindness get all curdled up because we have "speeded up" traffic? Is an extra minute or two—a slight delay, caused by a neighbor motorist—sufficient for intolerable selfishness in an otherwise normal individual? The answer is obvious.

We rush along on our heedless thoughtless way, thinking that because we don't know the name of our neighbor on the highway we are entitled to curse, cavil or even curse him for having the nerve to get in our way or cause us a slight inconvenience.

If our selfishness ended with words however, there would be little harm done. But selfishness and thoughtless ness cause most of the accidents. It is time we became neighborly, affable, genial and kindly on the highway.

I would like to launch a society or group or club—call it what you will—"Road Smilers." Various automobile clubs around the country have started organizations called "Safe Drivers Club" or "Accident Prevention Societies" or the like, and I would like to offer this suggestion to these organizations. The desire for safe streets, fewer accidents, reduction of congestion and a fairer deal for every user of the highways—must come from the minds of those every day folks you meet and pass continually on the streets. Why not ask them to sign a pledge to be a "Road Smiler."

Tolerance and understanding, sympathy and brotherliness will accomplish what rules and laws will not touch. A smile will placate wrath and soften selfishness. A smile is the father of courtesy, the breeder of brotherly love, the foe of all grouches. A smile or every fellow motorist is like the rainbow after a shower. A smile will smooth the road and open the traffic. Be a "Road Smiler" yourself and convert all your highway neighbors into "Road Smilers." Road smiling is contagious. Try it.—The Sun.

MINISTERS OF CITY PLEASED LAST SUNDAY

"Go To Church" Appeal Elicits Whole-Hearted Response From City's People.

MANY ATTEND MORNING AND EVENING SERVICES

People Awaken To Call Of Worship And Large Congregations Delight Pastors Who Are Striving To Make The Church The Biggest Institution In The Community.

"Go to Church Sunday" observed in the Salisbury churches last Sunday was a wonderful success and demonstrated that the people of this city are not at all unmindful of their obligations to their Master but that a stimulating force is necessary at times to stir them from a state of apparent lethargy.

The response of the local populace to the appeal of all the ministers of the city that everybody go to church on November 12 was whole-hearted and sincere. Those individuals who had allowed their Sabbath worship to drift away from their mode of living once again listened to the call and answered it. There were many joyful hearts on last Sunday in the Churches of Salisbury.

Congregations at both the morning and evening services were larger than usual and every pastor reported a marked increase in Sunday School attendance. The spirit of universal worship was everywhere in evidence and all over the city on Sunday morning there was a steady stream of churchgoers wending their way cheerfully to their respective congregational centers.

American legion men formed at headquarters early in the forenoon and marched to church in uniform. There were about 200 of these veterans and their presence in the pews of the Bethesda M. P. Church was an added inspiration both to the pastor and to those attending the services.

All of the ministers of the city were highly elated over the result of their director for increased attendance on Sunday and Dr. Heron, of the Asbury Church, probably gives a consensus of the remarks of his associates, when he said: "Yes, last Sunday was a great success. It was a perfectly wonderful thing to find all the churches so full and the people so actually at one program, and our brethren of the colored churches proved to us that they were awake."

The heart of Salisbury is just fine and can be trusted to prove true and do the right thing when any real issue is involved. The place of the Church of Christ in this community is a great big one—and the ministers have a right to be proud of their people. It was a joy to preach last Sunday though I missed quite a number of our most faithful folks. I am ready to try it all over again."

PEOPLE INTERESTED IN LOCAL AUCTION SALES

S. Franklyn Woodcock Offering Unusual Values In Big Sales On November 22nd and 23rd

Salisbury people and those from other districts too, are deeply interested in real estate buying these days. This is evidenced by the large throngs attracted by the auction sales which for the past two weeks have been conducted by Wicomico county's reliable real estate agent, S. Franklyn Woodcock.

In order to meet this increasing proclivity on the part of individual bargain seekers to snap up desirable lots at reasonable prices, Mr. W. C. Water auction sale on Wednesday, November 22nd, followed by another one on Thursday, 23rd.

On the 22nd at 7:30 in the evening, the hammer will be set going on a couple of valuable truck farms in South Division St., which are in the property of the L. S. Short property and is in a good state of cultivation, each farm containing 12½ acres.

At 8:00 o'clock that evening, "The Jackson Triangle Lots" on South Division St., will be auctioned off, thus giving the people a chance to take these lots at their own prices. On Thursday evening, 23, at 8 o'clock will start the sale of warehouse property on Mill street and fine residential lots on Camden Ave.

Interest in the buying public in these lots has been keen, inasmuch as the property is recognized as being very desirable because of its admirable location. That on Mill St., was formerly occupied by R. G. Evans & Son, Inc., and the warehouse building is in splendid condition, with attractive office quarters. It is understood that several out-of-town parties are interested in the purchase of the building and land extending down to the waterfront.

A very catchy little pamphlet is being distributed by Mr. Franklyn Woodcock that sets off in neat style the main points about the warehouse property and the residential lots just beyond the Camden St. bridge. The pamphlet contains some excellent views of the above auction offers.

Mrs. William B. Tighman, Jr., entertained Monday evening two tables of Bridge in honor of her house guest Mrs. George A. Abbott, of Jersey City.

Peninsula Hospital Receives Donations

Large Quantities Of Canned Goods And Vegetables Received From County Districts Saturday.

Donations received at the Peninsula General Hospital on Armistice Day were abundant and the hospital authorities were very grateful for the great quantities of canned fruits, jellies, preserves, and vegetables received. Enough potatoes were contributed to last during the winter months. Last week approximately 300 pieces of linen were received from the Salisbury Branch of the American Needlework Guild. Chairmen in each district were appointed to look after the donations which were received from: Parsonsbury, Pittsville, Delmar, Hebron and Allen. The New Century Club sent over a most bountiful supply of things.

LEGIONNAIRES IN ARMISTICE CELEBRATION

Have Enthusiastic Meeting Friday Night And Big Banquet Saturday Evening.

DR. SHIPLEY ADDRESSES VETERANS SUNDAY MORN

Pastor Of Bethesda Church Delivers Eloquent Appeal For Continued Service To 50 Ex-Service Men Who Had Marched From Headquarters In Uniform.

Armistice Day this year was celebrated in a way entirely unprecedented. Three distinct occasions marked the celebration, each of a different kind and yet each delightful. On Friday night, the Legion met in regular session and transacted the usual routine business. The meeting was very well attended.

On Saturday night, the ladies served a delicious supper which was attended by nearly one hundred legionnaires and their friends. Three long tables, decorated and laden with good things to eat, lined the sides and front of the big meeting room and when the "come and get it" call was sounded not a seat was vacant.

During the early stage of the supper, two of the entertainers from the Theatre were present and kept their hearers in a roar of laughter from the beginning of their skit until the end. This form of entertainment was a novelty hitherto untried at Legion gatherings, but is likely to be repeated often in the future.

Legionnaire Clarence W. Wheaton ably filled the position of toastmaster. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Rev. John Brandon Peters of Trinity M. E. Church who told of the great conflict as he experienced it. Colonel A. W. W. Woodcock was the next speaker and gave an unusually inspiring talk.

Post Commander William B. Covington gave in slight detail the purposes and methods of organization of Auxiliary posts and after the supper about twenty-five of the ladies gathered in the club room, selected Mrs. R. D. Grier as temporary chairman and applied for a charter as an auxiliary post.

On Sunday morning about fifty veterans, most of them in uniform, met at the Legion headquarters at 10:30 and marched to Bethesda M. P. Church where an excellent sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. Richard L. Shipley. The minister chose for his text "There is no discharge in the war," and after pointing out that the front lines extended from the fire trenches in Belgium to the California coast and that every man who worked either at home or in the army during those awful days helped win the war, stated that the days of service are not yet over and that the veterans owe as much in the service of their country today as they did in 1917-18.

Dr. Shipley's address was eloquently rendered and struck a deeply responsive note in the hearts of his hearers. He clearly pointed out to the Legionnaires present the way in which they can serve their country today just as they did when they were called to the colors, and he urged them to throw themselves into the service of Christ and against the forces of evil.

CATHEDRAL DEAN AT ST. PETER'S NEXT SUNDAY

At St. Peter's P. E. Church next Sunday night at 7:30 the congregation will be addressed by Dr. E. J. Bohanan, Dean of Trinity Cathedral, Easton. St. Peter's is attractive large numbers of its members to Sunday services by their special programs in the evening. Regular morning services will be conducted by Rev. Samuel Borden Smith.

ELLIOTT-GUTHRIE

Mr. G. M. Elliott, of Washington, and Miss Lulu Guthrie, of Delmar were quietly married in Washington last Saturday. Miss Guthrie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Guthrie, of Delmar and is a graduate of Delmar High and Western Maryland College. Miss Guthrie met her husband while employed in a government office at Washington. They will make their home in Washington.

CHAIRMEN FOR DRIVE OF RED CROSS NAMED

Solicitations For Various Kinds Of Membership Will Begin On 20th.

RED CROSS DAY NEXT SUNDAY IN CHURCHES

County Has Been Divided Into Districts And Each Chairman Assisted By Corps Of Assistants Will Seek To Turn In Greatest Number Of New Members And Renewals

Roll Call Chairmen for Wicomico county in the Red Cross drive just commenced have been named by officials of the local chapter. The sixth annual national roll call of the organization, which began Armistice Day, will continue until Thanksgiving Day. Special solicitations for membership in this great national body will be made during the next two weeks. The local campaign will get under way on November 20th and close on the 25th. November 19th will be Red Cross Day in the churches.

There are several kinds of membership in the organization. The annual membership is $1, while $5 entitles the subscriber to contributing membership. Sustaining membership requires a fee of $10 and the cost of a life membership is $50. In each instance fifty cents of the amount collected is forwarded to national headquarters in Washington.

Incidentally it was stated in the News last week that Red Cross workers in this county were soliciting the subscriptions from merchants and urging them to buy a membership in the local chapter rather than to wait until Christmas and buy Red Cross Tubercular stamps. These bodies are now separate and distinct and officers of the Red Cross society in this county are not attempting anything that has the tendency of conflict with the work of the tubercular society.

Rotarians have been asked by President Grier to actively get behind the membership movement. Each Rotarian will strive to make his place of business 100 per cent Red Cross. That is every employee under him must be a regular member of the local chapter.

The chairmen of the Red Cross drive in this county are as follows: General Chairman, Mrs. D. Laird Todd; Publicity Chairman, Mrs. George R. Cobb; County Chairman, Parsonsbury, Miss Jackson; Pittsville, Mrs. Ralph Parsons; Willard, Mrs. Powell; St. Michaels, Mrs. H. Truitt; Merton, Miss A. M. Parsons; Fruitland, Mrs. Ralph Dulaney; Allen, Mrs. Harry Messick; Hebron and Rockawalkin, Miss Winifred Adkins; Nanticoke, Mrs. George Zimmermann; Mardela, Mrs. A. A. Truitt; Quantico, Mrs. A. H. Phillips; Sharptown, Miss M. A. Wheatley.

City Chairmen: Camden Ave., extended, Mrs. Albert Allen; North Salisbury, Miss Wilkie Adkins; Mrs. John Adkins; East Salisbury, Miss Elizabeth Johnson; Dorothy Wilcox; South Salisbury, Miss Helen Woad; Post Office, Mrs. F. W. C. Webb; White & Leonard's, Mrs. I. W. Mapp; Main Street, Miss Mamie Woodcock; Camden, Mrs. A. H. Silverman; South Division, Miss Laura Wailes; North Division, Mrs. Ralph Grier; East Church and Bridge, Mrs. H. H. Buush; Mrs. W. S. Gordy; Park St., Mrs. J. W. Downing; Walnut, William, Poplar Hill, Gay and Parsons, Miss Frances Price; Elizabeth and Isabella, Mrs. Robert Leatherbury; Disharner's Mill, Miss Nettie Smith.

These chairmen will be assisted by an able corps of workers and there is sure to be a friendly rivalry for the honor of turning in the most subscriptions.

Arcade Theatre Again Will Show "The Sheik"

Screen Picturization Of Famous Book Is Returned To Salisbury At Request Of Movie Fans.

By popular request, "The Sheik" will come back to the Arcade Theatre's screen on next Tuesday and Wednesday. This play of the Egyptian desert drew hundreds and hundreds of movie fans to the popular picture house the last time it was presented in Salisbury.

The first part of next week, it will be presented at popular prices and it is expected to attract not only those who missed it last time but those who want to see the play over again. Rudolph Valentino stars in this wonderful picturization of the famous book.

CULVER-HASTINGS

A quiet wedding was solemnized Saturday evening, November 11th, when Miss Helene E. Hastings of this city became the bride of Mr. William J. Culver, of Delmar. Rev. Whitmore performing the ceremony after which the happy couple left for points North. Mr. and Mrs. Culver will reside in Delmar and will be at home after December 1st.

FIRE IN PARSONSBURG

Fire destroyed the cannery factory of Mr. L. J. Powell in Parsonsbury early Monday morning. The origin of the blaze still remains unknown. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

IS CRUSHED TO DEATH IN PACKAGE FACTORY

Kenneth Wheatley Of Sharptown Is Caught By Belt And Thrown Against Ceiling Breaking Neck.

Kenneth Wheatley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wheatley of Sharptown was accidentally killed in the basket making department of the plant of the Marvel Package Company of that town. Mr. Wheatley was operating a machine making stretchers or top hoops for baskets and in some way not known by any one he was caught by a belt and thrown against the ceiling of the room and held by the belt until cut down. It was found that his neck was dislocated and his head was crushed together with other bruised places on his body. He died in a few moments after being taken down. Dr. Kuhlman was hastily called and was at his side when he expired. The boards of the ceiling were broken by the impact of the man's body.

Mr. Wheatley was at work in the same room in which his son was killed and was the first to reach him. A jury of inquest was held the following men being selected: L. T. Cooper, foreman, L. E. Bradley, O. W. Owens, H. E. H. Cooper, E. A. Brody, C. J. Mooney, Edward Nuttall, S. J. Lowe and Wesley T. Selby. A verdict of accidental death was given by the jury. The date of burial was not set at this writing.

Great sympathy is being expressed for the bereaved parents. The faithful boy and just merging into young manhood having entered his 17th year. This is the only fatal accident that has ever occurred in the factory during 50 years. Every protection and safeguard are placed around the machinery and only a few days previous the inspector made a thorough survey of the plant and approved the protection.

LOAN & TRUST COMPANY FOR FARM FINANCE

Chamber Of Commerce Committee Studying Small Farm Idea Makes Report.

CHARTER OF COMPANY WOULD BE VERY BROAD

Would Include Purchase and Sale Of Real Estate, Bonds And Securities—Capital To Start With At Least $250,000—Small Investors And Purchasers Aided.

Speaking before the Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last Thursday night, Mr. T. Travers Ruark presented a preliminary report on the practicability of carrying out Senator Orlando Harrison's "one man farm" scheme in the Ocean City Road and the methods of financing same. Mr. Ruark is chairman of the committee appointed by the president to investigate these conditions and his report covered a consensus of opinion of his associates. However, further time with which to study the situation was requested by the committee.

The Loan and Trust Company, a company capitalized at $250,000 was the main feature of the report. The charter of this organization would more than likely be of such a character as to permit it to buy and sell real estate, bonds, securities, etc., and to carry on the general principle of a trust company. Stock would be sold on the weekly or monthly basis, thus giving those who desired to start a saving fund by weekly payment to have a safe investment.

To the purchaser of these small farms, money would be advanced and the mortgage taken up after the manner of the building and loan companies. Members of the "small farm" committee were heartily in support of any proposition that would enable the young man to buy a farm on the installment plan and at the same time enable the man in the city to get profitable interest on their savings.

Warnings issued by the Chamber of Commerce to citizens of Wicomico county against the purchasing of "wildcat" stocks and bonds has not totally sufficed to deter the unscrupulous agents from following out rather successfully their "sucker lists" in this territory. The plan to innovate the small farm idea by the additional creation of a trust company would naturally be met with the idea of saving its money. It is estimated that thousands of dollars that have been heretofore directed into foreign financial fields will in the future be used for home and community development.

DR. FULTON TO SPEAK BEFORE WOMEN'S CLUB

The next regular meeting of the Women's Club will be an open meeting held next Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the Court House. Dr. John H. Fulton, of the State Board of Health, will address the members and the public is urged to attend. His subject will probably deal with the malarial situation in Salisbury and he will probably evolve in the course of his speech some policy for the Women's Club to pursue in its public health work.

FINE EXHIBITS AT COMMUNITY FAIR DISPLAY

Armory Will Be Point Of Interest This Week For Wicomico People.

SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE PRAISED FOR EXHIBITS

More Canned Goods Entered For Prizes Than Ever Before—Quality Of Vegetables Exceedingly High—Harvest Home And Pine Bluff Booths Attractive.

Community Fair this week at the Armory is going to prove an attraction together with a number of other things. The Fair is held under the auspices of the Wicomico Pomona Grange on three days, November 15, 16 and 17. The exhibits are varied and on a whole more numerous than last year's.

With several decorated booths to add to the attractiveness of the interior, the Armory presents a colorful picture to the eye. Especially interesting is the booth arranged by the officials of the Pine Bluff Sanatorium. Fine trees furnish a background for a typical gracie porch scene. At the institution with its white hospital bed and other apparatus. Pamphlets are distributed that tell how to keep well and avoid the dreaded disease and how, if stricken, to combat its deadly ravages.

The Harvest Home booth is also an attraction. Here will various articles be gathered that are to be given to the different institutions in the community. A special effort has been made to secure donations of all kinds for this booth. Anything will be accepted on the condition that the particular institution which he is anxious to have receive his contribution.

The canned fruit exhibit this year eclipses all previous ones. The vegetables, while lacking in quality, balance this handicap with an indication of superior quality. An abundance of flowers and plants are on display. There is also a fine exhibition of fancy work. The pieces are of dainty design and the products of tedious work.

Those connected with the Fair seem to be most enthusiastic over the display provided by the one room school children of the county. These youngsters have taken a big interest in the preparation of their exhibits and their work signifies careful and diligent application. Pupils of the Shad Point school have been particularly successful in their display of gingerbread and organic dresses made at home. These children are all under 14 years of age and their work is remarkable. A varied exhibit has been sent in from the Williams School which also deserves special mention.

Mr. Harmon's exhibit comprises a variety of products, canned goods, cooked dishes and woodwork from the manual training department. There is also a lot of vegetables grown in the children's school garden. Not enough praise can be given to the Mr. Harmon school for the display. The students at the East Salisbury school, Miss Mamie Hastings, principal, have a unique and fascinating exhibit. It is a miniature presentation of a rural community with its village scenes and other characteristics. The roads which are smooth and included in the outline, the buildings being constructed of pasteboard and thin wood.

The prizes that will be awarded this year are bountiful and the names of the judges who will make the selections are: Miss Verna Kellar, College Park, Md.; Miss Adice Jones, College Park, Md.; Mrs. Marian C. Belle, College Park, Md.; Mr. W. B. Pitts, Eastern Shore Produce Exchange of Virginia, Onley, Va.; Mr. E. I. Oswald, Snow Hill, Md.; Forester County, Mr. C. Kellar, Princess Anne, Md.; Somerset County, Mr. B. B. Waite, Poulter, College Park, Md.

Well-Known Cast Will Be Seen In New Play

Local Actors Of "Just Plain Mary" Fame To Present "A Bunch Of Fun"

The "Just Plain Mary" cast of 1921 fame, composed of members of the Standard Bearers and the Young Men's Service Classes of Asbury Church, is preparing another entertainment for Salisbury audiences. And if the play given last year may be taken as a criterion of this year's performance, a capacity house is going to greet these amateur artists when the curtain goes up on the night of November 27th. "A Bunch of Fun" is the title of this season's production and it is a laughable farce in three acts that is calculated to amuse the audience to the nth degree. The members of the cast have been rehearsing their parts faithfully and promise to give a smooth portrayal of the parts assigned to each one. All seats will be reserved and tickets are now on sale which can be redeemed at the Arcade Box Office either on November 25th or 27th.

NO ROTARY MEETING

There will be no meeting of the Rotary Club this Thursday because of the Bankers' Convention in this city on that day. President Ralph Grier states that the weekly supper will be resumed next Thursday night.

Familiar Old Figure On Main Street Gone

Boylah Pranks Said To Have Caused Death Of Old Isaiah Reed Whose Antics Amused Crowds

People of Salisbury are going to miss the familiar figure of Isaiah Reed on the main streets of the city. This eccentric old darkey died last Thursday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. A. Reed, the victim of boyish pranks. Corn whiskey and snuff said to have been tampered with caused the old negro's death.

Reed for many years has amused crowds on Main Street with his ramblings up and down the thoroughfare, singing and dancing. While many considered him mentally unbalanced the old fellow at times would show a marked tendency to rational deeds and thoughts. He is going to be missed by the community.

WILL DREDGE NORTH PRONG WICOMICO TOO

Further Funds Secured Just When Project Reached End Of Appropriation.

$4,500 IS AVAILABLE IN "MAINTENANCE FUND"

Mr. Charles E. Harper Is Instrumental In Obtaining From War Department New Concession For Local Waterway. People Warned Against Using River For Dumping Ground.

Several weeks ago when it became apparent that the money appropriated by Congress for the Wicomico River dredging project was running short and would not cover the work in the north prong of the river, those interested in the proposition began to be very much discouraged. Shipping interests especially were hard hit, for a lot of loading and unloading is done at the wharves along Lake and Mill streets.

However last week came the announcement from the U. S. District Engineer from his offices in the Customs House at Baltimore that 10,000 more yards of dredging would be provided for and that funds for doing the work were to be secured under the authority of the old Maintenance Law which provided for the development and upkeep of Eastern Shore waterways and which has not included in its expenditures for several years the Wicomico River.

Mr. Charles E. Harper, who has always worked unselfishly for the development of Salisbury's waterways, refused to have his hopes dimmed 2 weeks ago when it became evident that unless further funds were available dredging had to cease. Accordingly he set about to find a way that would make for the continuation of the dredging scheme.

The following facts helped in the solution of the problem. Years ago, the waterways were being kept up by a fund called the "Maintenance Fund" provided by Congress. Dredging and other work was accomplished under this order. However, in the year 1916, when the war broke out, the work has been done on the Wicomico, although other streams and harbors have had allowances spent on them.

Mr. Harper immediately took the matter up with the War Department to find out whether or not a part of this fund which should have gone to the Wicomico for upkeep purposes could not be diverted to the project now. Representative T. Alan Goldsborough was also made acquainted with the circumstances and his aid solicited.

Last week a government inspector was down to make a survey and upon his return to Baltimore made a report. The latter part of last week, word was received here that 10,000 more yards of digging out the channel would be taken care of and that money for same would come out of the Maintenance Fund.

Captain Calkins who has been doing the dredging under contract went up to Baltimore and held a conference with the District Engineer who advised him that a sum of about $4,500 would be available. This will provide, according to the present plans of the officials, for about 4,500 yards of dredging in the north prong and for about 5,500 yards around Ship Harbor.

Captain Calkins estimates that he will be finished in the south prong by the middle of next week and that the new work should be completed by December 15th. Before he leaves these waters, he will also complete the work for the Smith & Williams shipyards.

The dredging machine has been greatly troubled by striking all kinds of rubbish that has been thrown into the river. Work naturally is slowed counteracted and the expense of dredging increased. The War Department has made it plain to the local people in a letter to the Mayor and Chief of Police that the practice of using the river bottom for a dumping ground must be abolished and that hereafter anyone caught violating the navigation laws pertaining to this subject will be prosecuted in Federal Courts.

The co-operation of all citizens in the community in being enlisted by the local authorities on this score in order that nothing might be done that will hinder in any way the commercial development of Salisbury's water route.

ROTARY CLUB CONTRIBUTES TO HOSPITAL

Local Members Are Raising $250 For Children's Hospital Near Baltimore.

PEOPLE OF COMMUNITY ASKED TO CONTRIBUTE

Maryland's Wonder-Working "Repair Shop For Broken Children" Is Conducting State-Wide Campaign For $300,000 In Which Rotary Is Interested.

"A Repair Shop For Broken Children" needs funds and needs them badly is the cry emanating from Rotary Headquarters in Baltimore and the aid of the local club has been enlisted in the state-wide drive for $300,000 which when secured will be turned over to Maryland's famous Children's Hospital.

The Salisbury Rotary Club has been requested to raise $250 through subscriptions and has named its President, Ralph H. Grier, and Secretary, Treasurer, Carl M. Payton, as a committee to receive these donations which should be in by Thursday night of this week.

People throughout the community are being asked to help swell this fund which is being sent unselfishly sponsored by the Rotarians of this city. It was Dr. Baer, Medical Director of the Children's Hospital, who gave his whole-hearted services in the interests of the Orthopedic Clinic conducted last summer by the Salisbury Rotary Club and for these reasons the people of Wicomico county are being urged upon to support his institution where a number of free ailments diagnosed by the Baltimore specialist during the clinic hours.

The $300,000 is being raised for the purpose of providing additional buildings, equipment and income for the Hospital and Phillip L. Goldsborough is chairman of the campaign officers who have their headquarters at 809 North Charles St., Baltimore. Facts as presented in a booklet got out by the authorities of the hospital show that four out of five crippled children can be cured by treatment in a hospital and that there are 8,000 of them in Maryland, with only one in every 20 securing entrance into a hospital. Eighty per cent of the children are taken care of free and the doctors give their services free of charge. Outside the state are admitted at the mere cost of board. Children come there crippled and twisted and maimed, helpless and in misery and pain, and out of these broken, warped children all askew, they make whole children—children who can run and jump and play, children who can grow up to support themselves.

DIES FROM SICKNESS CONTRACTED IN NAVY

Government Takes Excellent Care Of Sharptown Youth Ravaged By Dreaded Disease

Earl Neal died near Sharptown on Wednesday of last week after a long illness of lung trouble contracted while in the service of the World War. He enlisted in the Navy and while in New York, painting a ship he fell overboard and did not change his clothing until night. The next day he felt the effects of getting wet. He soon sailed south and there the disease developed until he was honorably discharged with permission to enter a sanatorium, but nothing seemed to check the disease. His father, Cyrus Neal died when a young man and his mother married again. The boy lived with W. F. Collison until he enlisted in the service. It was to this home he was given a welcome when his health failed him.

The Government continued his salary, sent a physician from Wilmington to investigate his home. The physician ordered certain sanitary conditions to be observed and the government, not only took care of all expenses but paid Mr. Collison, wife of Walton Collison, with whom W. F. now resides, twenty dollars per month for her attention. It was here that young Neal fought as hard a battle as many fought on the fields of France, to bring himself back to health that he might live in the land of peace.

This is one soldier the government looked after and paid compensation. Not long ago the government sent him five hundred dollars. His life was insured and before he died he had the policy made payable at his death to Mrs. Walton Collison for her attention during his sickness, covering a period of many months, during which she not only had the care of him but took the responsibility of jeopardizing her own life and that of her children.

On Friday of last week the remains were taken to Brookview and after the funeral by Rev. H. S. Dulaney his remains were interred in the cemetery nearby. He was twenty-two years old.

CLARA MARIE PRYOR

Miss Clara Marie Pryor, who died at the hospital here last Wednesday, was buried in Parson's Cemetery at 2:30 o'clock, Friday afternoon. Rev. V. L. Edmunds conducted the services. Mr. and Mrs. Marion Pryor of near Salisbury are the parents of the deceased.

TO PREVENT GRAY HAIR WOMEN APPLY LOTIONS

Premature Grayness Many Times Can Be Traced To Absence Of Oils In The Scalp

Instead of resorting to dyes when their hair becomes gray and loses the first color of youth, why will not women adopt a course of treatment that will be improving and not injurious? As far as is known, there is no harmless dye, because to "hold" a color the hair must be entirely freed of natural oils. The absence of these immediately takes away nourishment, and falling and breaking of the locks is a matter of short time.

Premature grayness, unless caused by illness may almost always be traced to an absence of oils in the scalp. Therefore, when a woman too young to lose the natural color finds that her tresses are changing, she should use a lotion that is easier to apply, because there is less likelihood of the hair becoming greasy, is made from 1/4 dram each of terebene, borax and sulphur and 3 ounces of lavender water. It is put on in the same way as the first.

Decidedly more stimulating than either of the foregoing and for that reason better when the hair is in a dead condition, is a tonic made from 1/4 ounce of violet ammonia, a gill of rectified spirits, 1/4 ounce of sublimated sulphur, 1/4 ounce of tincture of cantharides, 1 ounce of glycerine and 1 ounce of phosphate of lime and 1/4 ounce of tincture of cinchona. The sulphur should be put into the spirits adding the lime and the tinctures, followed by the glycerine, and the ammonia last. It must be well shaken.

"AL" SMITH STARTED LIFE AT FISH STALL

Governor-Elect Of The Empire State Is Example Of Rise Of Ambitious Youth

Alfred E. Smith was born in 1873 on Oliver street, in the "lower East Side" of New York, and there he has made his home ever since. In boyhood he attended the parochial school of St. James' Roman Catholic Church, and then, early in his teens, went to work in Fulton Market.

It was while he was employed at one of the big fish stalls in that institution that "Big Tom" Foley, one of the chieftains of Tammany Hall, "discovered" him.

Met, and being favorably impressed by his intelligence and affability, he persuaded him to join the "organization" and become one of its active workers in his part of the city.

His first public employment was as a clerk in one of the municipal offices, a job which he obtained through Foley's influence. Then in 1903, he was elected to the State Assembly from his home district, of course, on the Tammany ticket. Year after year he was re-elected until he had served continuously for 12 years.

Usually he voted with the "organization," but not on a few occasions refused to "stand for" Tammany or other measures of doubtful propriety; though now and then he followed his colleagues in supporting indefensible measures. He was prominent in securing legislation for public service and for betterment of the conditions of working people. In 1903 he was Speaker of the Assembly when that body impeached Governor Sulzer.

After 12 years in the Assembly Mr. Smith was put forward as a candidate for Sheriff of New York County to succeed his old friend and patron, Foley. This candidacy was not pleasing to Charles F. Murphy, the "Boss" of Tammany Hall, but he was compelled to acquiesce in it and Mr. Smith was elected by a majority of 47,000.

The following year he was elected Governor of New York State, and his administration was marked with open and bitter warfare between him and William Randolph Hearst. At the end of his term, having been defeated for re-election by Nathan L. Miller, Mr. Smith retired to private life and became the head of a large trucking and transportation concern in this city.—New York World.

33 ANNUAL ASSEMBLY OF EPWORTH LEAGUE

Salisbury District Delegates Meet At Cape Charles—Miss Annie Howie Named Secretary

Recently forty-one delegates representing the Leagues of Salisbury District met at Cape Charles for the thirty-third annual Convention, and were most delightfully entertained by the kind folk of Bethany Church.

The ideal of this Convention was to promote the spiritual life of our young people and the program which was planned with this thought in view was very successfully carried out under the leadership of the District President, Rev. J. R. Bickling of Pocomoke City. The life service conducted by Rev. P. P. Truitt, of Phoenix, was especially helpful.

The Junior League work was presented by Mrs. C. H. Davis of Cape Charles. An exceptional treat was given the delegates by the members and friends of Bethany League in the form of an Oyster Roast at Hiram's Landing.

Resolutions were passed by the Convention to the effect that our churches petition Delaware, Maryland and Virginia Legislatures to pass a strict censorship law relating to the immoral, exaggerated motion pictures which are exhibited throughout these States and that we seek by all means

Clara Kimball Young

Clara Kimball Young, the "movie" star, is a native of Chicago, where at St. Xavier's academy she received her education. At the age of three she began her stage career, which has since taken her to vaudeville, stock and the "legitimate." Her motion picture work has included many notable screen productions. Miss Young is five feet six inches high, weighs 135 pounds and has dark hair and dark eyes.

to cultivate a spirit of loyalty among our people for law and order as against the bootleg traffic that is flourishing almost unmolested on the Peninsula and that we insist that our courts use the maximum and not the minimum punishment for crime.

The Convention was invited to Pocomoke City next year and the date of October 9 to 11 was named as the time of the Convention.

The following officers were elected for the year: President, Harry Bradford, Fairmount Md.; 1st V. President, C. E. Wood, Cape Charles, Va.; 2nd V. President, William Dix, Crisfield, Md.; 3rd V. President, Mrs. W. E. Hastings, Sharptown, Md.; 4th V. President, Mrs. J. B. Hudson, Stockton, Md.; Secretary, Miss Annie Howie, Salisbury, Md.; Treasurer, Arthur T. P. Hudson, Girdlestone, Md.; Junior League Superintendent, Mrs. C. H. Davis, Cape Charles, Va.

The Convention voted fifty dollars from the District Treasury to the "I Will Maintain Fund" of the District, which amount was presented to Bethany Church as a token of appreciation for their hospitality in entertaining the Convention and was later given by the kind members of Bethany to the people of the church at Onancock to help on their pledge.

The Apologist

The mistress, showing the new cook round the kitchen, excused the absence of silver entree dishes with the remark that burglars had recently ransacked the place.

"Oh, well, mum," said the cook, "burglars must live, mustn't they?"

SCHOOL TO SAVE HUMAN LIFE.

Flat dwellers in New York are now to be blessed in the erection of a bacteriology building in which the public will be shown how to prevent disease.

A museum with models will demonstrate how to eradicate rats and flies, how to ditch to do away with malarial mosquitoes, and how to indulge in home pasteurizing of milk. Also the sanitary handling of food and the proper kind of plumbing that should be installed in the public safety will be shown.

Truly New York is a wonder city. Medically there is nothing like it in the world. Your millionaire pays $10,000 for an operation from skilled hands that perform the same operation on the needy free of charge. For the poor the city is a medical and surgical paradise.

Forward looking men of course have now come to see that prevention is becoming more and more necessary in the practice of medicine. In the old days doctors were taught how to cure disease. Now they are being taught how to prevent it.

It is high time the national and state governments recognized the necessity of following New York's lead.

The elections are over. Our new government officials soon will be in harness. What a relief it would be if they would spend some of the public money for the preservation of the public health. New York has the advantage of a great concentration of medical skill that does not exist in the country, but the principles of health conservation apply alike in all districts.

Why cannot the national and state health departments educate the people to health preservation through officially advertised instructions and talks to the people signed by the proper authorities.

The newspaper is the vehicle to spread this knowledge. We have said this before, but sometimes it takes a surgical operation to get an idea into the head of the government.

THE VICIOUS CIRCLE.

Argument after argument has been advanced why people should buy at home. Example after example has been described to show in actual dollars and cents how much can be saved by patronizing home-town firms. Merchants spend annually thousands of dollars to convince the people they serve that such service is the equal of that of the city stores and that the prices are, almost invariably, much lower. Now comes another striking example that proves the truth of the buy-at-home arguments in an emphatic way.

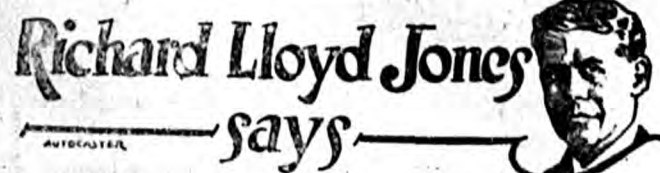

A certain retail grocer had been buying lettuce from a local wholesale house and had been paying $1.50 a crate for it. Believing that he was not getting the right kind of price and that the product—which was home grown—was not all that it should be, he placed an order for lettuce with a Baltimore firm.

The lettuce came to Salisbury in the original package in which it had been shipped from Salisbury, yet two important things had greatly affected the product. In the first place, the price was materially higher than the price the grocer had been paying for exactly the same lettuce before. In the second place, the lettuce was anything but fresh after its long trip from here to Baltimore and back.

A pertinent question might be: Who paid for the increased cost of the lettuce? Another is: Who suffered most on account of the lettuce not being fresh? There is one answer to both questions: "Not the grocer."

Here is an excellent example of the vicious circle. The lettuce is merely symbolical of what is happening in many lines. People go from here to Philadelphia and other large cities to buy furniture only to find upon their return that they could have bought the same things right in Salisbury at the same prices and could have saved the railroad fare and other expenses incident to the trip.

Surely it is time to stop a practice so foolish, a practice that results inevitably in increased costs all along the line. Before you buy make a tour of the stores in your home town. You will be the saver in the long run.

ABOUT THE ECONOMIC GRAB GAME.

Compare the finest Oregon apple with a wild crab and you have a simple parallel of the unfolding refinements of political and economic institutions.

We found the apple wild and we tamed it. We took the seed of the best fruit and planted again. By replanting only the best, protecting the trees from the insect foes, giving battle to the wrecking worm, we have through a generation of trees produced marvelous fruit.

This is not an illogical picture to present in the consideration of railroads. A lot of people think that we are going to the dogs. Ex-Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota, one of our brightest but most pessimistic public men, has recently written a book to tell us how topsy-turvy everything is and that we are headed for the bow-wows.

We are not going to the bow-wows. The good Senator is wrong. He points to the danger of combinations in business. The very danger that he fears is bringing into life the perfected fruit of government control with ultimate government ownership of the common carriers of the country. When we reach that good goal we are going to create out of these common carriers a revenue which will greatly reduce our tax burden.

It is a pruning process, a program of selection and development of that which brings promise of the better until we get the best.

We used to be afraid of railroad mergers. We used to pass laws to prevent them. We thought it a terrible system for small railroads to get together and organize one large system. Now we think it fine. We're encouraging it. The trouble is, a lot of fellows who were progressives in 1889 haven't yet got the progressive view of 1922.

Four big railroads, the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul are today talking merger. This is not a terrible contemplation. We should hope for its consummation. It is just making one fine, big apple out of four smaller ones. It's improving the fruit on our national economic and industrial tree.

If you want to see a line of old railroad crabs just look at any passing freight train. It's a kaleidoscopic picture of a monumental mix-up, a moving panorama of the inefficiency and waste of a lot of little crab roads.

On that passing freight train you will see cars marked New York Central, Southern Pacific, Boston and Maine, Denver & Rio Grande, Southern, Great Northern, Lackawanna, Illinois Central, Wabash, Florida East Coast, Soo Line, Texas and Pacific and so on to the caboose.

Every one of those cars has to be distributed back to the four corners of the continent until they get on their own little siding. Petty, little sour crabs, belonging to an ancient transportation tree.

The United States mail pouch is a mail pouch anywhere from Maine to Arizona. Any railroad car should be the same.

The more they merge the better and when we get one big merger of all railroads, the next step will be for the government to take them over, run them, acquire the profit and spend it in running the business of the government, thereby reducing the tax burden upon the tax payer.

Railroads, like apples, get better as they get bigger. It's a great and grand grafting game just like pruning up the trees for the finer product. We are going ahead, each day nearer to a more perfect product.

LOCAL ENGINEERS ARE HOSTS AT BIG DINNER

D. A. Hannaman And P. E. Burroughs Tender Reception At Lantern Tea Room To Roads Men.

State Roads Engineers from Baltimore were entertained Monday afternoon at dinner by local engineers D. A. Hannaman and P. E. Burroughs. Thirty-one visitors were in the party which had come down on the Shore to inspect several new road projects and to go over plans with local officials.

A sumptuous Sho' dinner greeted the guests at the Lantern Tea Room which was attractively decorated in true autumn style. Roast turkey and black duck proved to be the tempting dishes which were served with other tasty dressings. The engineers departed for Pocomoke late that afternoon lauding the fine reception tendered them by Engineers Hannaman and Burroughs.

Colored Artists At Arcade This Monday

"Go Get It" Is Musical Comedy Of 50 People Featuring John Mason And "Slim" Henderson

"Go Get It" with John H. Mason and Slim Henderson comes to the Arcade Theatre, for one night only, Monday, November 20th. This is an exceptionally clever and fascinating musical comedy of fifty people carrying their own orchestra of seven pieces. It is constructed upon new and novel ideas to satisfy lovers of musical comedy.

"Go Get It" possesses a brilliant and interesting narrative which abounds in sparkling comedy of the better class and a score which comprises more beautiful popular musical hits than most musical comedies of recent years.

The costuming of this musical comedy is a revelation in originality as every gown worn by principal and chorus is of the latest creation.

TRI-COUNTY RED MEN AT SUCCESSFUL RALLY

Inter-Fraternal Meeting In Afternoon Followed By Big Supper And Grand Assembly Monday Night

Members of the Improved Order of Red Men comprising 13 tribes in Worcester, Somerset and Wicomico counties held a large and enthusiastic rally on last Tuesday evening. In the afternoon at three o'clock, representatives from various other fraternal organizations of a similar character met with some of the above leaders in the Modoc Wigwam, Tribe No. 104, for a friendly and informal discussion and conference in reference to plans looking to the upbuilding and improvement in the work of each organization.

There were several short talks by members and a short address by Hon. J. E. Sedwick, of Indiana, who is the Great Inchoonee of U. S. Tribe. After the afternoon meeting, the ladies of Pocahontas Council, 32, entertained all the visitors with a delicious and elaborate supper, a fore-runner of the successful evening assembly which was held in the Odd Fellows' Temple on Main St., and the entire auditorium space was filled with over 300 members of the 13 tribes in the tri-county district. Past Great Sachem, Marion E. Tyndall presided over the gathering.

Forty-two new candidates were adopted and they came from the various tribes as follows: Tony Tank, 10; Nanticoke, 8; Wawa, 6; Mohegan, 1; Modoc, 17. After the degrees had been administered, the ladies of Modoc Council were admitted and addresses were made by: Great Sachem Robert L. Rinker, Great Chief of Record, Dr. James C. Littleton, Past Great Sachem: A. T. Abernathy and b" Great Inchoonee Sedwick.

The last named speech was "Upon the General Principles of Fraternity," which was complete with excellent counsel that was given for the purpose of aiding in the improvement of the Order. A feature of the evening session was the presentation of gold pencils to Great Sachem Rinker and Great Inchoonee Sedwick. These gifts were testimonials from the Modoc Tribe to these leaders and the presentation was made by Past Great Sachem Elisha E. Twilley.

The rally was considered a big success and Past Great Sachem Marion E. Tyndall made an excellent presidential address in the chair. The executive committee for the occasion was composed of: Past Great Sachem, M. E. Tyndall and W. A. MaAllen, of Snow Hill; James Brown and John Hayman of Fruitland; and B. W. Turner and S. J. R. Holloway, of Salisbury. The committee on arrangements for the hall was as follows: E. M. Nichols, W. C. Smith, John Colona and George R. Turner.

Get Something Out of that Old Watch

Have you an aged and indigent watch somewhere around the house, with broken-down works, or a bulky old-fashioned case, or both? Or a cheap watch that used to be "good enough" but isn't any more?

S. & N. Katz of Baltimore are running a kind of Home for Aged Watches. No matter how decrepit or out of style your old time-piece may be, they will take it on a new watch and allow you a liberal sum for it. Bring it in; it may be worth more than you had imagined.

Your Old Watch and ONLY 50c Weekly will buy a new one.

Either watch illustrated may be purchased by paying 50c a week. And even if you want the best and most expensive you can get it from an S. & N. Katz representative for $1 a week.

Bring in your old watch and take home a beautiful new one.

PEOPLE COMPOSE MUSIC BY PLAYING ON PIANO

"Practical Electric" Describes Instrument Which Records Musician's Improvising On Keyboard

A few fortunate people have the faculty of sitting at the piano and improvising music. To certain extent the performance takes the guise of a species of inspiration, and the performer may do some wonderfully good work, which disappears as fast as the notes are struck, there being no record kept of it whatever.

There is a great deal of dispute about inspiration; whether there is such a thing or whether genius is not the faculty of taking pains. But it is perfectly definite that if a person sits at a piano and improvises he will produce better work on some days than others, and on some days the work may be so good that it will be a pity for it to disappear as fast as the keys are struck.

The idea of an instrument described in "Practical Electric" is to record upon a roll of paper music as produced. In front of the performer a roll of record paper is fed by two rollers; at the base of the sheet of paper are a number of keys. Upon this roll of paper as each note is struck, its record is impressed by a blow from one of the keys. The roll of paper has to be fed with perfect evenness and to insure this an electric motor is installed by the side of the frame carrying the paper roll. In this way the production of the moment, good, bad or indifferent, is permanently recorded and if the result is poor it at least lets the musician know the true value of his improvisation.

If the musician possesses the faculty of improvising on a silent keyboard this instrument can be attached thereto, although it would seem that little inspiration could be derived from the click of the keys without accompanying music.

Wicomico High School Has New Association

Parents And Teachers Organize For The Purpose Of Harmonizing Interests Of Parties Concerned

At a meeting of teachers, parents and patrons of the Wicomico High School last Tuesday evening, a Parent-Teachers Association was formed and officers were elected as follows: S. King White, president; Miss Ruth Powell, vice-president; Mr. Kent Cooper, secretary; and Miss Ida Morris, treasurer.

A committee composed of Miss Ruth Powell, who was authorized to select her own associates, was appointed to draft constitutions and by-laws and to arrange a program for the next meeting which will be held on the first Monday on December the 4th, in the Assembly room of the High School. Mr. L. W. Gunby made an offer to furnish all the needed material to decorate the walls of this room, if the Board of Education would pay for the work. As the walls are badly in need of something, this suggestion was favorably received.

And Now For Reasons

First the reason why these Coats are at these low prices, is because our buyer was "on-the-job" in New York and got special concessions from reputable houses, due to the fact of heavy purchases that we have made throughout the season.

Second, the reason why, (if you have not already purchased a coat) you should share in this event, is because even in the face of advancing costs of wool materials we are putting on a Coat Sale that eclipses anything that has been done this season.

WICOMICO HIGH DRAWS NEARER SOCCER TITLE

Local Booters Subdue Hurlock
In Fiercely Contested Game
At Sharptown.

FOUR EXTRA PERIODS NEEDED FOR DECISION

Dorchester Champions Are Kept On The Defensive Most Of The Time.
Winners Tally Only Goal Of Game With Set One Minute Left To Finish The Game.

Wicomico High's aggregation of soccer stars climbed a peg nearer the state championship on last Friday when the pigskin chasers representing Hurlock High School were subdued in a fiercely contested struggle that required four extra periods of play in order to return a victor.

Just as the shades of night were drawing their darkened shadows over the Sharptown field and Referee Lynch of the Public Athletic League was ready to blow for the last time his whistle and announce a tie game that would have to be played over again, Salisbury's chance to score showed up and quick advantage was taken of the opportunity.

Whether or not Fate took a part in this chance of victory is not known, but one thing is certain, and that is, the local boys were on their toes and when one of the Hurlock backs missed a kick from in front of his goal, two Wicomico forwards rushed the ball and after a sharp scrimmage succeeded in getting the sphere over to Ed Davis who made a neat placement shot past the opposing goal-keeper. A minute later the game had ended and the loyal legion of rooters that had traveled down to Sharptown from Salisbury gave vent to their feelings and bedlam broke loose.

Hurlock's soccerers were crestfallen when they realized what a jolt their ambitions for a championship had received. Confident of winning, they had entered the game with lots of pep. Wicomico's booters, on the other hand, were imbued with an old characteristic fighting spirit of "do or die." Keeping the ball in hostile territory most of the time, they lost several golden opportunities to score by their inability to get off well-directed shots at goal. Several times, upon receiving a kick from the backfield, the Salisbury forwards would succeed in getting the leather past the opposing defense and work it to a position in front of the goal only to lose a tally because of a misplaced kick.

For Wicomico High every boy put up a hard game, but especially bright at times was the work of Price and Towers on the defense. Fields saved his teammates a handicap of having goals chalked up against them by vigorously taking care of the sacred territory between his goal posts. A number of Salisbury supporter were taken over to witness the contest by local Rotarians. The lineup and summary follow:

Hurlock (0)	Position (1)	Wicomico
M. Milligan	GF	Fields
Saunders	RF	Townsend
Frazier	LF	Price

L. Milligan	LH	Livingston

Substitutions—Dallas for Livingston, Overton for Inaley. Goal—Davis. Referee—Lynch, Public Athletic League. Linemen—Windsor and Dallas. Time of halves—30 minutes. Extra periods—Four of 5 minutes each.

FOREST FIRES DRIVE AWAY AND KILL GAME

State Board Of Forestry Prepare Rules For Preservation Of Game Reserve Throughout State

Mr. Hunter did you ever stop to think how much game there was in a burned over forest? You will probably not see any, or only a very small portion of what should be there. Did you ever connect the effect with the cause? If you haven't do so now. In the first place, the fire drives away the game, or kills it. In the second place it destroys their shelter; and in the third place, the available food. Because of the last two the game does not return, but what has not been killed, will seek other grounds.

Remember what it says on the back of your hunting license, and follow these rules that have been prepared by the State Board of Forestry.

Never throw away a match, cigarette, cigar, or pipe heel until you are sure it is O. U. T.

Never build a large fire, a small one will answer your purpose if you must make one.

Never start a fire without taking away the leaves from around it.

Never build a fire against a stump or log.

Never leave a fire until it is O. U. T. If you follow these rules, will have shelter and food for game, and be assured of sport during this and future seasons.

WICOMICO ODD FELLOWS TO COMMEMORATE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF NEWTON LODGE NO. 56

Exercises Will Begin With Church Services On Sunday Night, December 3, Followed By Fraternal Reception, Class Initiation Of 75 And Banquet On Succeeding Nights.

Newton Lodge, No. 56, I.O.O.F., of Salisbury, is planning a gala anniversary week in December that will commemorate the organization of the lodge 75 years ago. Inasmuch as the Order of Odd Fellows itself is but 103 years old, Newton Lodge is recognized as one of the oldest bodies of the parent unit.

Beginning with December 3rd, the anniversary exercises of Newton Lodge will be in the limelight. On that Sunday evening members of the lodge will assemble and proceed to the M. P. Church where they will be addressed by the Rev. Shipley who is a member of the lodge.

On December 4th, in the evening, the Odd Fellows will play hosts to every fraternal organization in Salisbury in their beautiful temple on Main St. Prominent speakers will deliver addresses on fraternal subjects. Governor Ritchie will be the principal one on the evening's program. Senator Disharoon and Mr. L. Atwood Bennett are also scheduled to speak. On Tuesday night, December 5th, will come the class initiation. Degrees will be conferred upon 75 candidates, one for each year the lodge has been in existence. Grand officers of the Grand Lodge will be present that night.

On Wednesday night there is featured a sumptuous banquet which will be prepared by the ladies of the Rebekah Lodge. This will be served in the Temple. Thursday night will witness a continuation of the above program in the exercises of the Entente Encampment, No. 39. This body will be celebrating its 10th anniversary and will have a class initiation of 10, one for each year since inception.

Newton Lodge has now 600 members and stands fifth in the list of 165 lodges scattered throughout the state. With its new roster after the class initiation, it will rank third in size. The present officers are: W. W. Jones, Noble Grand; L. S. Short, Vice-Grand; Reese Wimbrow, Chaplain; L. Ingersoll, Warden; John G. Brittingham, recording secretary; E. J. S. Parsons, financial secretary.

Newton Lodge was instituted in December of 1847 by the Grand Master, James H. Downs. The Grand Secretary at that time was John M. Jones, father of the present Grand Secretary. The charter members of the lodge when it was instituted were: Handy Folske, Robert S. Todd, J. Hopkins Tarr, Harry Brewington and A. G. Greve. Much of the early history was lost when all of the records and property of the lodge were destroyed by the fire in 1886.

At the time of the fire, considerable property was owned by the lodge located at the junction of Mill, Church and Main Streets. Other property was owned in Camden, part of which is now the bed of Newton Street, from whence Newton Street takes its name.

For about 15 years after the fire Newton Lodge was dormant, having only a few members who stood by the lodge thru the darkest days of its existence, one of whom was Augustus White.

In 1908, with the old members of the lodge and several who had reinstated their membership and some outside help from other lodges, Newton Lodge took on new life and gradually crept up until there were 35 members on the roll.

Shortly after this Liberty Lodge, No. 10, of Baltimore City, paid a visit to Salisbury and conferred the degrees upon a class of 35 in Red Men's Hall as Newton Lodge had no suitable quarters. After this class was initiated the lodge rented the entire third floor of the Graham Building, putting the same in repair for their needs and keeping it in repair until vacated last year.

Five years ago, Newton Lodge deemed it wise to have a temple of its own and purchased the lot upon which the Temple now stands, and which is a Monument to Odd Fellowship in Salisbury.

The growth of Newton Lodge thru the years since 1908 has been steady and healthy, the percentage of dismissions being very low; the increase being steady every year.

MEETING AT CRISFIELD FOR AIDING BOAT LINE

Salisbury Delegation At Gathering Of Virginia And Maryland Shippers To Increase Patronage

Accompanied by the secretary and several members, Fred P. Adkins, president of the Chamber of Commerce, drove to Crisfield on Tuesday afternoon to meet a delegation from that city and also from a number of communities on the Western Shore of Virginia to discuss plans whereby the patronage of the Western Shore boat line may be materially increased.

The gathering held their meeting on the boat, where later supper was served. Discussions of ways and means were general, although one of the most definite suggestions brought forward was the appointing by the railroad company of a traffic man who would tour the Northern Neck and solicit trade for the boat line.

It has been pointed out that, despite all publicity, many shippers across the Bay are unfamiliar with the rates and routes offered by this new connection with the Eastern Shore and are still shipping to Baltimore although at more or less disadvantageous prices. Many of the shippers have credit connections of long standing and have proved loth to break them.

Railroad officials are still co-operating to the fullest extent of their ability to make the boat line pay and they are making another drive for business in the new territory. In this respect the Chambers of Commerce of Salisbury and of Crisfield have done wonders and have not ceased in their efforts to get the folks across the Bay as deeply interested in the boat line as are the people on the Eastern Shore.

WAVE OF ECONOMIC PROGRESS NOW SWEEPING COUNTRY SAYS SPEAKER

Sales Manager Of McCormick & Company In Eloquent And Forceful Address Before Chamber Of Commerce Also Deplores Certain Existing Conditions And Points Out Duties.

When President Fred P. Adkins called to order last Thursday night the meeting of the Wicomico-Salisbury Chamber of Commerce, every seat in the main assembly room was occupied and members were forced to find places in the adjoining room. The officers were highly pleased at the attendance which, they believe, will be maintained provided the meetings can be made of vital interest to every business man in the community and that is the reason why it has been announced that well-known speakers will be engaged from time to time during the winter months to talk to the Chamber on "live up-to-date subjects."

The speaker at this meeting was Mr. R. H. Bond, Sales Manager of the McCormick Company in Baltimore. He was introduced by Mr. Walter Sheppard and fully lived up to his reputation as an orator of the first rank and of being essentially a practical and keen-minded business man. For one hour and twenty minutes he held his hearers enthralled as he ranged from a rich repertoire of wit and humor to a frank and bold disclosure of present day conditions which he declared were threatening the very soul of this great democracy.

Mr. Bond asserted that the general depression which followed the great World War was a natural consequence, inasmuch as such days of Reconstruction attended every struggle this country has been involved in, but that this last aftermath had been accentuated by the complexities of modern industry and commercial life. However, the tide is now coming in, he said, and economic progress is to be seen, with an upward trend of business.

"But," he added, "these affairs will soon adjust themselves. What I am gravely concerned with today is the lack of obedience to the laws of this country. I am no prohibitionist and I fought against the Volstead Act, but I do believe that while the 18th Amendment is on the statute books of the Constitution, its provisions should be obeyed and that it is the lack of respect for the law that is leading the opposite classes to disregard all laws and carry on their present wave of vicious crime and dastardly murder."

Here Mr. Bond paused for a moment to describe in most forcible fashion the recent bandit murder in Baltimore city, the consequent capture of the five gangsters and their incarceration in the Penitentiary just for life. He emphatically exclaimed that he was ashamed of his county, Baltimore, where the machinery of law was so hampered that a murderer who snuffed out the life of an innocent respectable business man should merely be sentenced to prison for life. "I know what would have been done with these murderers twenty years ago," he shouted, "They would have been taken out to the courthouse square and hung to the lamp posts." Applause greeted this scathing denunciation of lawlessness.

The speaker then launched into a vigorous discussion of the duties of the citizenship of the country and stated that no man had a right to criticize those holding public office who did not go to the polls and cast his vote for representatives of the people who were men of ability and integrity. "You can not have protection in the home if you lack the right kind of government and it is the duty of every citizen to be a politician. The right to vote is a priceless heritage bought with the blood of our forefathers," he concluded.

And he predicted that out of the native born generations of the Southland below the Mason and Dixon line, where only six per cent. of the population is foreign-born, will come the forces making for an adjustment against those conditions that are a repudiation of true Americanism and the doctrines of Washington and Jefferson. It was plain that the speaker was denouncing all tendencies toward socialism and communism. He launched into a vigorous attack upon "labor agitators" and the various unions that were beginning to infect every class of work and whose members were guided by the slogan "Not to do as much as you can, but to do as little as you can and get all that you can." "The basic economic principle is founded upon the fact that the wealth of the world is produced by work and work alone," he added.

Mr. Bond was strong in his advocacy of strict immigration laws and declared that it was the duty of the native-born citizen to see that the incoming foreign element was not allowed to herd together but that it be disseminated so that molding it to conform with American ideals would be an easy process. Raising his voice to a high pitch, he emphatically pleaded for the English language in our school houses where the children should receive their education in one language that is not clothed in the garb of Bolshevism and anarchy.

In closing his eloquent address, the speaker praised the good roads in this state and opined the wonderful possibilities laying in wait for this Eastern Shore with its excellent means of transportation. And he urged his hearers to stand by every proposal for bettering the educational system, on the ground that every child should be properly educated so that when it emerged into manhood and womanhood it would be able to pass upon everyday propositions and community problems with clear intellect and sound judgment.

The applause that spontaneously arose the moment Mr. Bond concluded his remarks was hearty and prolonged and indicative of the distinct impression his speech had made upon the members of the Chamber of Commerce. Several were heard to express themselves in a way that augurs well for future meetings as far as attendance is concerned, if such

MARDELA HIGH ATTENDANCE IS MOST REGULAR

Leads Other High Schools Of County In Percentage Figures For October.

INCREASE OVER SEPT. AVERAGE IS SECURED

Williams School Reports Highest Rate Of Attendance In Elementary List—October's Record For This Class Is 90.36 As Compared To 88.69 For Preceding Month.

Mardela High School leads the other high schools in the county in the percentage of attendance during the month of October. Figures just compiled by Attendance Officer Tilghman show that a greater number of students answer to the morning roll-call in the class rooms at Mardela than at any other place. Delmar High School with a percentage of 95.17 is a close second to the leader's high water mark of 95.55—while Wicomico High stands fourth on the list with an average of 93.35 for the past month. Pittsville, with a report of 78.07 per cent, occupies the cellar position.

In the elementary schools, the figures for October show an attendance average of 90.36 as compared to September's record of 88.69 which was considered very satisfactory for the opening month of the school year.

The regularity of class-room response may be expected to gradually increase from now until the bleak winter months set in with their disrupting elements of cold and snow. October's average of 90.36 falls just a little short of last year's percentage for the same month, which was 90.49.

The percentage of attendance in the Wicomico county schools follows:

How Not To Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Adv.

IMMEDIATE ELECTION CUT NOT TO BE MADE

Governor, Comptroller And Attorney General Will Be Chosen Next Fall For Three Year Terms

No immediate result will be affected by the quadrennial elections amendment to the State Constitution, which was adopted by the voters last Tuesday. In the State-at-large there will be two elections next year—the primary contest in September and the regular election in November. Baltimore city will have two more of the municipal primary in April and the municipal election in May.

Philip B. Perlman, Secretary of State, who drafted the quadrennial elections amendment and the authorizing women to hold constitutional offices, as well as those created by the Legislature, explained both measures this week.

"There will be no change in 1923," said Mr. Perlman, "except that the Governor, Attorney-General and Comptroller, who must be chosen next fall, all will be elected for terms of three years, instead of four-year and two-year terms as heretofore. This is to arrange the system so that their successors will be elected at the Congressional election of 1926."

"In 1926 the plan will have been developed so that all State and county officers, except judges of the circuit courts, the Supreme Bench of Baltimore city and the Court of Appeals, will be elected for uniform terms of four years. The term of none of these judges is affected by the amendment and the only way it may touch them is under appointments by the Governor. As all judges are elected for terms of 15 years, it always has been necessary for the Governor to appoint a judge to fill the year intervening between the expiration of the term and the next general election. Hereafter the Governor still will make the appointments, but because general elections, at which members of the Legislature are chosen, will be held only once in four years, there may be times when the appointment may be for a period of upward of four years."

"State Senators and members of the House of Delegates who are elected next fall will be chosen for a term of three years. The General Assembly will meet as usual in January, 1924. The Governor will be elected next fall must prepare and submit to the Legislature three budgets for the three fiscal years which will intervene before another meeting of that body. The Legislature will, of course, fix the State tax rate for three years."

"All county officers whose terms have been two or four years will be elected next fall for three-year terms, in conformity with the general plan. Beginning in 1926 Sheriffs who have had two-year terms, County Commissioners in many counties, County Surveyors and probably most County Treasurers will be elected for four-year terms.

"Registers of Wills and Clerks of Courts and other county officials, to be elected in 1923 for terms which have been six years, will hold for three years. Those elected in 1926 and thereafter will serve for four years."

"Terms of all State and county officers already elected and whose successors, under the old law would not be elected until November, 1925, are increased one year by the adoption of the amendment, so that their successors may be elected in 1926. All six-year terms of those elected in 1919 and for four-year terms of those

SATISFACTORY Telephone Service

By "satisfactory" service we mean that the individual user shall be satisfied.

Telephone service embraces a variety of operations; the installation of telephones and changes in location; telephone operating; maintenance of the central office equipment; outside plant and telephone apparatus; accurate and up-to-date directory listings; billing; collecting and numerous other things that must be done to give service that will be complete and satisfactory.

Notwithstanding our aim to give the highest possible standard of service, we realize that at times difficulties will arise. Usually they are quickly remedied. But defects at times occur, which, in spite of our watchfulness, are not immediately detected.

Our patrons will confer a favor upon us if they will advise us immediately of such occurrences.

BRADSTREET'S REPORT FOR OCTOBER IS OUT

October General Trade Satisfactory—Outstanding Features, Industrial Activity And Residential Building

General trade was quite satisfactory during October. It was in fact the best month of any so far this year and compared favorably with October of 1921. The two outstanding features are industrial activity and residential building. The former is steadily on the increase, while the latter has lessened the little notwithstanding the season.

Wholesale and jobbing trade continue to show a gradual improvement especially in cotton piece goods, woollens, notions and shoes. Trade at retail has been hampered to some extent by unreasonable weather but business continues fair. The larger stores are making preparations for holiday business which they anticipate will be good.

Bituminous coal requirements are large with supply ample and prices reduced. The demand for anthracite continues very strong with prices very high and distribution much improved. Machine tools are quite active so is hardware. A good business is being done in paints and oils. Quite satisfactory profits. Manufacturers of portable electric tools report a material increase in volume of business over last year with present demand steady.

The clothing industry is in better than fair shape. Manufacturers say the outlook is good for 1923 providing a good quality of merchandise can be produced at moderate prices. Manufacturers of men's dress shirts claim the volume of business done during the last three months to have been greater than that of any similar period in the history of the industry. Prices have advanced about ten percent while collections are good. Automobile dealers report less activity in the "New Car" market, while trading in "Used Cars" continues dull.

Accessory sales are good, prices are firm and collections have improved. In automobile stores distributors report spring dating orders well up to expectations. Prices so it is claimed are the lowest in the history of the business. The local butter market is firm with demand good. The mounting cost of fresh eggs has forced the retail price up to a point where consumption is falling off. Live poultry prices are off and the market is weak. Present arrivals of wheat are limited this feature preventing a more active trading.

Domestic inquiry for flour leaves much room for improvement but prices on well known brands hold firm. There is an improved demand for the better grades of corn. Oats, rye, hay and straw attract but little attention. Collections on the whole are about fair.

How to File and Find Catalogues

Stenographers and Secretaries can utilize their spare time to an advantage by devising a system for the filing of catalogues. It is my purpose to outline a system which can be adapted to most any business involving purchases from a large number of firms.

In many offices, the catalogues are carelessly put away in somebody's desk or piled indiscriminately on the top of filing cabinets. When the need of consulting a particular catalogue arises, there is a feverish scurrying of clerks, rummaging about for the right one among dozens of catalogues of all sizes and descriptions. Frequently work has to be suspended during this aggravating process. Time is lost and the parties concerned are annoyed. Perhaps a customer is waiting, or an official of the company is losing time and patience.

The keynote of any practical system for filing catalogues is simplicity. The business man must know exactly where the catalogue is filed so that it may be produced without any unnecessary delay. But the problem has been—how to keep them where they will be readily available. The catalogues must be filed and indexed in a practical manner.

The first problem comes from the varying sizes of catalogues. They are of many different sizes. On that account it is impracticable to file all catalogues pertaining to a single subject in the same cabinet. For economy in space they must be filed together by sizes. This necessitates a stack of filing drawers of various sizes. The maximum size is 11 1/2 by 9 1/2 inches and this will accommodate the largest catalogues used in business. Then there may be sizes of catalogues, 9 by 7 1/2 inches, 8 1/2 by 5 1/2 inches, 7 1/2 by 5 inches, and 5 1/2 by 4 inches. The smaller stacks contain the two first sizes named but the stack may be built up to suit any special requirements.

Each different size of drawer should be designated by a letter—"A," "B," "C," etc. A number should be assigned to each catalogue, when it comes in a different series of numbers should be used for each size, and these numbers should be recorded on a card register using horizontally ruled cards. Each catalogue should be indexed by the name of the concern issuing it. Then each article or item that is likely to be wanted at any time should be indexed by its catalogue number; if necessary, by its page number also. In filling out the cards in the index one line should be devoted to each number. Card registers for all the different series can be accommodated in the same drawer, but the different registers should be separated by guides. For easy reference, the cards should be placed in front of the respective guides. Each catalogue should be labeled to show the drawer in which it is to be filed, and to show its consecutive number in that drawer. It is also well to enter the date a catalogue on the same label. For example, suppose you are ready to file one of Blank & Company's catalogues called "Sectional Filing Cabinets." First, determine which drawer is of the proper size. Next, turn to your register of "C" numbers. The last number used is say 61. The combination that you will assign to this catalogue is "C-62." Make an entry on the register to show that 62 is now in use. A convenient way of handling these catalogues is to paste a white gummed label on the right-hand corner of the catalogue, showing the drawer number, the catalogue number and date. Labels of this kind are always carried in stock by stationers handling filing devices. The date, by the way, is often an important matter. The catalogue is now ready for indexing.

The first step here is to make out a card to go in the card index of "Manufacturers and Dealers." One card should be allotted to each firm and the cards filed alphabetically by name. Appropriate card sizes are always carried in stock or this purpose. Make out a card for Blank & Company, noting on the card the name of the article sold by this firm. If there are several such articles, enter them all on cards, each on a separate line, with the proper key. After entering the drawer number and the catalogue number on this card, in the spaces left for this purpose, the card is filed alphabetically by firm name in the card index drawer referred to before. Thus far, the catalogue has been numbered and indexed by the name of the firm issuing it.

The next step is to index the catalogue by the article or articles listed in it. This enables one to find the names of the firms handling these goods, on which quotations may be desired. In the case of Blank & Co., for instance, cards should be made out for "Sectional Filing Cabinets," "Vertical Transfer Cases," "Shannon Files" and the like. Below the general heading showing the name of the article on each card the names of the firms handling the particular article should be listed, with the numbers of their respective catalogues. These article cards should be filed alphabetically, by subject, in an index drawer labeled "Articles." For this ordinary alphabetical guides, or special printed guides, in this index drawer.

The catalogue is now ready to be filed in the proper sized drawer, on edge. There are many special filing cabinets of flexible nature, cabinets that can be adjusted to specific and special needs. It is never possible to know just how many drawers of a special size will be required. It is better to have some drawers will be filled up much faster than the others. One or more sections will be needed at the start, depending upon the number and size of drawers required to take care of the catalogues on hand. When all drawers of a certain size are full, others of the same size can be added. Under the modern systems, the new drawers can be made a part of the same stack or cabinet. Many combinations of drawers may be had, to suit the needs of every business, from the simplest to the most complex.

For filing catalogues under the system just outlined, sectional cabinets will be needed for the catalogues, card drawers for the indexes numbered guides for catalogue drawers, index cards with alphabetical guides or the dealer and article indexes, and gummed labels or numbering the catalogues. Twenty numbered guides will be required for each drawer in order to make reference quick and easy. These guides should be numbered 10, 20, 30, etc. The number of index cards needed will depend upon the number of catalogues kept on file. There should be one "dealers" card for each firm and "article" card for each article or commodity. Two sets of alphabetical indexes are also necessary for use with these cards—one set for the dealer cards and one for the article cards. For the register of catalogue numbers, a number of cards will be required on which to enter the numbers of the catalogues and the names of the firms issuing them. One gummed label will be required for each catalogue.

With this system the business man will be able to locate every catalogue on file in a minimum of time and effort. He will, moreover, be able to find the names of dealers handling any special article he may desire quotations on. He can find out where to buy any commodity in which he is interested and which is included in any catalogue in his file.

1918 SAVINGS STAMPS PAYABLE ON JANUARY 1

Treasury Department Offers Holders Continued Safe Investment in Treasury Saving Certificates

War Savings Stamps of the series of 1918 become due and payable on January 1, 1923. The people who bought these stamps will receive their full face value upon redemption and will find that the money they saved five years ago has earned every year about four per cent compound interest.

In order to afford holders of war savings stamps an opportunity to continue their investment in a safe government security the Treasury Department is offering an exchange of War Savings Stamps for Treasury Saving Certificates. The certificates are issued in denominations of $25, $100 and $1,000, maturity value, and sold for $20.50, $82 and $820, respectively. Holders of War Savings Stamps can get them at these prices upon application through their own banks or their postoffice.

Exchanges will be made as of January 1, 1923, upon applications presented between November 15, 1922, and January 15, 1923. Immediate payment will be made in cash of any difference due the holder of War Savings Stamps if he takes the largest possible amount of Treasury Saving Certificates on the exchange.

The growing inclination of the people to save and their desire to find a safe reinvestment for their money leads Treasury officials to believe that a large part of the six hundred million dollars in War Savings Stamps soon to become due will be exchanged for Treasury Certificates.

DODGE BROTHERS SEDAN

Many who could well afford more expensive cars are showing a marked preference for Dodge Brothers Sedan.

They find it easy to drive, economical to run, and comparable in beauty and elegance with cars much higher in price.

In the vast amplitude of Dodge Brothers closed body plant, this sedan is constructed with all the studios precision that marks the work of the finest custom builders.

Eighteen days are devoted alone to the 18 rubbing and varnishing operations which are responsible for the unusual brilliancy of its lustre.

Months of seasoning precede the use of the fine, critically selected ash which gives the body its rugged firmness.

The interior fittings, too, are chosen with thoughtfulness and rare good taste. The upholstery is covered with genuine mohair velvet of a singularly rich and beautiful pattern. The seats are roomy and luxurious.

Steel disc wheels (with cord tires) harmonize in a most effective way with the new grace and smartness which Dodge Brothers have recently brought to the lines of the body.

It is the solemn duty of every financial institution to use every means possible to protect the funds and securities entrusted to its care. To offer that feeling of absolute security is positively due the patron to justify his confidence. The bank must actually protect or it betrays. Being a firm believer that the patrons are entitled to the best, this institution has just recently installed one of the most modern Electric Burglar Alarm Systems in existence. It is acknowledged as being absolutely burglar proof. A most convincing argument in favor of this system is the fact that the premium on our Burglar Insurance was reduced 60 per cent immediately. ### REEDVILLE

The Salisbury Chamber of Commerce has invited the farmers and business men of this section to meet them at Crisfield, November 14, for a conference regarding the continuation of the steamer line between the Eastern and Western shores. The trip over the Chesapeake will be made on the steamer Potomac. Supper will be served on the Potomac and the party will return on her that night. Of course the steamer has been operated at a loss all the past year, and cannot be expected to continue doing so, unless some promise of support from our people, and this section is assured the company for another year. It is said that "opportunity knocks but once." Let our people seriously consider this thing. If the boat is withdrawn there will, in all probability, never be another service made to connect the two sections, which are so near, and yet so far apart.

Mr. David Hay, of Wilmington, Del., was at Reedville, Tuesday and Wednesday, looking after the spring supplies of net, twine, ropes and other wants of the fishermen of this section, as he has done for many years. He is a faithful, friendly and welcome visitor in many homes up and down this tidewater country. Mr. Hay had attended the Fair at Kilmarnock, meeting Governor E. Lee Frinkle and others.

Dr. F. D. Brent has given up his rooms in the Reedville building, and will go to Richmond this week, locating again in that city. Dr. Brent was thought to be a fine dentist and was getting a good deal of work. Many were sorry to see him leave.

Rev. Mr. Robinson has succeeded Mr. Whitbeck, as pastor of the Church of God, at Tibitha and has moved his family here. Rev. Mr. Whitbeck has one in the Evangelistic work, it is said. He has secured as a home for himself and family the old Brown place up beyond Liberty.

Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Cockrell, had two of their sons with them for a brief visit last week. Eugene was down from Fredericksburg with an Oldsmobile to demonstrate at the Chesapeake Fair, at Kilmarnock. Thomas was at home for a few hours. Having accepted a position in Richmond, which was waiting for him, he went over to Kilmarnock and on to Fredericksburg with Eugene that afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morgan, of Warsaw, spent the past week-end here. They attended the Bazaar at St. Mary's (held in the Fleeton School) Saturday evening, spending the night with the Omohundros at Llan.

We have been asked by a prominent member of Fairfield's Baptist Church to make an appeal in this week's letter in behalf of Mrs. Eliza Doulin, of Burgess Store. We remember Mrs. Doulin, (or Miss Eliza, as she was best known) as she was years ago, a faithful, honored member of old Fairfield's Methodist Protestant Church. She was lady-like, dignified, well-dressed; coming out of her beloved Church in the family carriage of Mr. Wm. H. Blundon, deceased. Her pastors were entertained in his home where she filled the capacity of house-keeper for about forty years, quite as royally as were his own from Fairfield's Baptist Church. Mrs. Doulin has been helpless for a number of years. More than a year ago it became necessary for her to be given a home. Rev. Mr. Dobson, of the M. P. Church, her pastor, but an entire stranger in the community, opened heart and the parsonage doors to the sufferer. Since that time Mr. and Mrs. Dobson have been doing all in their power to make her happy and comfortable. Her condition requires a nurse. The Baptist Aid Society has just sent in a contribution, but still funds are necessary. Just why Mrs. Doulin should be penniless and homeless at the eve of an honored, useful life of service, is not our privilege to know. Surely the ways of Providence are beyond our understanding, but the sad fact remains. Contributions however small they may be, will be received with gratitude and appreciation and may be sent in care of Rev. Mr. Dobson, Burgess Store, Va. "Inasmuch as they have done it unto one of the least of these."

Miss Katherine Maher, of Reedville High School spent Friday and the following week-end visiting a friend at Williamsburg.

The Societies of Bethany Church Reedville, observed the usual week of prayer last week.

Rev. Mr. Dobson, of Burgess Store, is enjoying a visit from his father at this time.

Miss Flora Haynie, one of our popular resident nurses has been out several times recently assisting Dr. Cockrell in performing minor operations. The doctor who is particularly fond of surgical work, and good at it finds Miss Haynie a valuable assistant.

"A Spelling Match" by the grown-up folks and for the benefit of the Woman's Missionary Society of Bethany Church, promises a live and laughable evening for all who attend. It will be held at Reedville High School, Friday night, November 10th. An admission of 10c will be charged and refreshments will be served. Come and see what fine spellers we "be".

Mr. T. H. Jett, was here from Chincoteague for Sunday, leaving that night on the Blandon with Capt. Lewis Powell, for the beach again. Capt. Frank Haynie, from the Sandy Island factory, Capt. Leslie Haynie and others of the fishing fraternity were here Sunday. A number of steamers from Delaware were at the wharf also. The factories there have "cut out." Very few fish are being caught anywhere it is said, and the season will probably soon close. Miss Constance Lemoine Coles, of

"Cloverdale," Wicomico, is visiting

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright, at Montross, for a week or two.

Mr. S. Clyde Haynie, is with the Palmer & Moore Co., Reedville, demonstrating and selling the new Superior Chevrolet, which they are now handling.

Mr. G. N. Reed was out of town last week.

Mrs. Mittie Overton, closing her popular hat shop for a week, has been spending the time in Baltimore, visiting relatives.

Miss Lydia Bristow, of R. H. S., faculty spent the past week-end with her people in lower Middlesex.

The Societies of Bethany M. E. Church, are busy planning for their Annual Bazaar which will be on the 7th and 8th of December, in the beautiful and convenient rooms of the Reedville Building, Inc. Just across from Reed and Rice's. Contributions of money, turkeys, oysters, cakes and sundry articles for the Country Store are coming in to the different committees in a very encouraging way.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Morris Jett, of Reedville, spent last week in Baltimore and at Mt. Airy, Md., visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Jett, Jr.

Mrs. T. W. Haynie, Mrs. Howard Rice and others, have been "doing unto others" this week, visiting and carrying food and clothing to "Aunt Joe" at the Almshouse, who is sick at this time.

Mrs. Sarah K. Bowles, of Tibitha, has recently returned from a most delightful visit to her brother, Rev. Dr. John M. Gill, pastor of the West Baltimore M. P. Church. Among her many pleasant incidents of her sojourn in Baltimore were trips to Washington and Westminster, meeting at the latter place Dr. A. N. Ward, President, Western Maryland College and Mrs. Ward. Another enjoyable event was the 20th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Ford, which she attended.

Prof. Wornack of Reedville High School, was sick one day last week, we were sorry to hear. Miss Maher, first assistant, took charge until his return.

Mrs. Hie Lewis and two little daughters, spent most of last week in Baltimore, visiting Mrs. Lewis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Douglas, of Pleeton, were in Baltimore last week. Mrs. Bettie Harding, of Wicomico, has been spending some time in the Douglas home recently.

Mrs. Clyde Parsons, of the Palmer & Moore Co., this place, has been away the past week to Baltimore and elsewhere.

WORKS FOR CHILD MUST KEEP WELL

Mothers in a Like Situation Should Read This Letter from Mrs. Enrico

Chicago, Illinois.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a serious trouble. I had tried doctors and all said the same—an operation. At first I only felt the pain on my left side, but later it seemed to feel it on both sides. I am a power sewing-machine operator and have a little girl to support. I work in a tailor shop and that line of work has been very slack this year and I am home part of the time. I do not like to take any chances, so I consulted my friends, and one lady said, 'Take Lydia Pinkham's medicine,' so I did. I have felt better right along and am in good enough health to go to work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash to all."—Mrs. MARY ENRICO, 469 N. Carpenter St., Chicago, Illinois.

Timber! Timber! Timber!

One million feet mostly Pine Timber standing on 75 acres of Land

As the administrator of my father, the late Thos. W. Waller, and the agent for his heirs at law, I will offer at Public Auction at the Court House Door in Salisbury, Maryland, on

Saturday, Nov. 18th, 1922

at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, a Productive Farm of about 140 ACRES, about 65 acres of which is improved farming land on which are farm buildings. The remainder of the land is set in timber, mostly pine suitable for saw mill, mine props and piling. This timber has been estimated to cut 1,000,000 feet.

The property is located in Delmar District about 5½ miles north-west of Salisbury; 4 miles east of Hebron and 3½ miles south-west of Delmar. The land is well-drained and work can be done at all seasons of the year.

This property will be shown to prospective buyers on application to the undersigned. The terms of sale will be made known on day of sale. Address

SHARPTOWN

Quite a family reunion took place at the Ellis Homestead in this town Sunday and Monday. Mrs. Julia A. Ellis came from Norfolk to spend a few months at her home in this town and about the time she was arranging to spend the fall and winter with her daughter at Norfolk, she was notified by her son, Ernest W. Ellis, that he would be home for a ten-day vacation.

When the gathering was complete she had as her guests: Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Beauford and daughter, Jean, of Norfolk, Miss Bessie Ellis, of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Ellis, of Atlantic City.

It was a very happy surprise of the family when they learned by the receipt of previous announcements, arriving just ahead of the guests that Ernest W. Ellis and Miss Harriett Linderman, of Philadelphia, were married in September 1921. The occasion was one of real pleasure and the separation was made with the understanding that some day they all hoped to meet again on similar mission, that of a family gathering. Many friends and neighbors of the family of other years called to pay their regards and renew their friendship.

George Bailey arrived home on Saturday to spend Sunday with his family here and the first thing he told was his narrow escape from death as he left the Sun Shipbuilding Company's yards at Chester, Pa. He was working a night shift and left the yard at five minutes of five o'clock on Saturday morning and before he was thirty feet from the work he left, a Sun Oil tank ship exploded, killing two men, injuring several others and doing much damage to the yards and nearby buildings. Elmer Marine, whose parents live here, had a ticket to work on Friday night but felt it necessary for him to stop again. His next point was Laurel where he took in a supply of gasoline.

Charles Griffith, Jr., of Camden, spent several days last week with his brother, Ira Griffith.

Mrs. Emma Ellis left on Saturday for Camden to remain until next Spring. Her husband, S. C. Ellis has a position there.

Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips and son, George Jr., of Bacon, Del., spent Sunday as the guests of Virgil Davis.

Miss Maggie Wheatley has returned from Raleigh where she spent several days with her brother, Roy Wheatley who is engaged in business in that city.

Arthur C. English has a position in Wilmington, Del.

Herbert H. Rider is improving his home near here.

Charles Drum who lives near town was engaged to ride in the Halloween parade at Seaford. He has a horse trained to step to the march of a band of music and he headed the parade. Mr. Drum put eighteen electric bulbs on his horse which were lit from dry batteries. By this attraction he won a prize of fifteen dollars.

Mrs. John B. Phillips has returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Emma Otto, Camden.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clash and son, Fred Jr., of Philadelphia, were the guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. P. T. White and on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cooper, of Riverton, returning to Philadelphia on Sunday afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Irving S. Owens, of Powellville, were the guests on Sunday of last of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hastings.

Mrs. Noah Owens and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hastings attended the Tall Cedars' Rally at Milford on Monday.

Inactive Liver

"I have had trouble with an inactive liver," wrote Mrs. S. Nichols, of 4412 Spencer St., Houston, Texas. "When I would get constipated, I would feel a light, dizzy feeling in my head. To get up in the morning with a lightness in the head and a tremble feeling is often a sign that the stomach is out of order. For this I took Thedford's Black-Draught, and without a doubt can say I have never found its equal in any liver medicine. It not only cleans the liver, but leaves you in such a good condition. I have used it a long time, when food does not seem to set well, or the stomach is a little sour."

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

PICTURES FOR CHILDREN

By Edith Billard Cross

Let us give our children special training in the early years of their lives, in the knowledge of beautiful pictures. Help them to enjoy the pictures in the home.

When our children were babies, we often talked to them about our pictures. As a result, they could point out such pictures as Rembrandt's "Boy and the Rabbit," Sargent's "Fishes of the Prophet," pictures of the Boy John, the Aurora, Hofmann's "Head of Christ," several of the Madonnas and St. John.

It always gave them great pleasure when they could find these pictures in other homes. It also gave them an appreciation of art, and stimulated their interest and observation.

One day, my oldest boy, age five, pointed to the picture of Rembrandt's "Golden Stairway" and said, "Mother did they take that picture with a kodak, or did someone paint it?" Then and there we talked together of how prints were made from great pictures and of the galleries where the originals are kept.

While teaching kindergarten, I had brought a large plain oak picture-frame with a hinged back so that pictures could easily be changed during the year. As I recalled this, I decided that it would be a good thing to have one in the home. So I had two such frames made. The first I had pictures of their very own framed pictures hanging by their little white beads.

And it has been interesting to see the enjoyment they take in changing the pictures, and in making their own selections.

It has resulted in a good collection of pictures which the children add to as they find those that interest them. To this I have added many of the Perry and Brown prints which I had used in my kindergarten work, and we have framed the pictures which depict child life and activities.

I have noticed that the children prefer colors to the black and white studies. They care for pictures of people or animals rather than for those of inanimate objects. Boys like pictures showing strength, like knights and soldiers; like those showing portraiture, like portraits of famous men, and ideal surroundings. Both boys and girls like pictures of activities and sports and once in a while they fancy a beautiful landscape.

Of course, to be honest, a mother must add that the pictures sometimes found in their frames are not always the most aesthetic. For I have often noticed prints of the football heroes, in their season, the attractive advertisements for Campbell's soup, and posters for a coming circus. Yet it is best to let it be the children's choice.

I was happy to note that when I returned from the hospital with a new baby boy, the pictures in their frames were "Jesus Blessing Little Children" and Jesse Wilcox Smith's "Mother and Baby" picture, the cover of the January Good Housekeeping.

Another suggestion which I have found helpful in the home is to have the pictures in the children's bedroom or play room hung on a level with their eyes. It is surprising to see how much keener is their observation when this is done. Let the children climb up or be lifted up to see these pictures which are hung higher so that they can really study them. Always take time to help them understand pictures, for you thus begin their appreciation of art.

These suggestions could be carried out in any home, for with the present wealth of good magazines, such a collection could be easily made, and at little cost, while a very inexpensive frame would suffice.

PLAN TO TRAIN WOMEN IN CITIZENSHIP WORK

Women Voter's League Urges Members To Study And Concentrate On Desider Legislation

Plans were made for increasing the efficiency and extending the scope of the work of the National League of Women Voters, in training women to meet the responsibilities of citizenship, at a conference of the league's leaders held recently in the capital. This meeting, called by Miss Belle Sherwin of Cleveland, second vice-president and chairman of the citizenship training division, was attended by the chairmen of the committees on child welfare, education, living costs, women in industry and international cooperation to prevent war.

The citizenship training work of the league actually constitutes the main purpose of the organization, and includes within its scope the work of the various subcommittees. While the league intends to keep a watchful eye upon Federal legislation, it is planning to concentrate its efforts upon the organization of citizenship schools and classes, where women voters may be afforded an opportunity to discuss local, State and national politics. Courses of this kind have been given in a more or less experimental way, but it has been decided to make them an increasingly important part of the league program.

League workers in each State will be asked to concentrate upon not more than three legislative measures, said Miss Sherwin. "In this way we hope to obtain quicker results than by spreading our energies over a broader ground. One of the greatest problems facing us is to make women see the necessity of hard, continuous study of political and economic problems. It is easy enough to stir up interest in some big question just before an election, but this is not sufficient. Efficient citizenship requires a real process of education, and we are trying by various means to make the facilities for it available to all."

Some of the State Universities are co-operating with the league in offering citizenship courses, said Miss Sherwin. In other States the league has trained experts to organize courses in various districts. One of the most important phases of the work is the "normal schools," which are held usually at some large college or university, and which are attended by local officers and their assistants. Economic experts and statisticians are in charge of these schools and an attempt is made to outline the most advisable lines to be followed by local citizenship classes.—Christian Science Monitor.

ANNOUNCES BUNDLE DAY FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF

State Headquarters Name—November 22 As Maryland Day For Receiving Donations

Near East Relief Bundle Day, for the donation of clothing for the sufferers from the Smyrna disaster and for the regular work of the relief organization in caring for hundreds of thousands of orphans in the Caucasus, has been set for November 22nd, in Maryland, announces state headquarters.

Some idea of the tremendous need this year for clothing for these helpless people may be imagined by the people of Maryland if they could conceive the residents of a city twice the size of Baltimore, which now is computed to have about 800,000 residents, suddenly poverty stricken, without clothing, without food, without heat and without shelter of any kind. That is the condition at present in the Near East and it has not yet reached the maximum for within a few weeks 1,250,000 residents of Anatolia have been ordered by the Turks to leave their homes and get out. This means that this number of people, men, women and children, will be cast out, most without warning and must trek, they know not where, in the midst of winter, for snow already has fallen in that section. It means that thousands of these people will die, of starvation or by freezing to death, that thousands of them will fall dead by the wayside as they tramp hopelessly away from their centuries-old homes.

All this great host of refugees must be fed and clothed and it is for clothing for them that Bundle Day, November 22, has been set, on which thousands of them will fall dead by the wayside as they tramp hopelessly away from their centuries-old homes.

All this great host of refugees must be fed and clothed and it is for clothing for them that Bundle Day, November 22, has been set, on which thousands of them will fall dead by the wayside as they tramp hopelessly away from their centuries-old homes.

Schools in Baltimore City have started knitting sweaters and other warm things for these people and the State Director would like to see classes formed all over the state. Remember, Near East Relief Bundle Day, November 22.

GAS NEAR HEART IS VERY DANGEROUS

Gas around the heart is not only painful and distressing it often is the warning of conditions, which if not corrected may become dangerous. Many times the gas is caused by derangement of the digestive tract. Food is not digested properly. Gas forms and presses around the heart, interfering with its action. In acute indigestion this often results seriously. One or two Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules give quick relief. They assist in the proper assimilation of food.

FEW MEN IDLE LABOR EXPERTS SAY IN REPORT

Improvement in Employment Conditions of Major Industrial Groups 12 Show Gains—Survey For Month Of October Shows Steady Gain In Building Trade.

Employment conditions throughout the country improved greatly during October, the United States Employment Service of the Department of Labor says, in a report made public this week. Out of 14 major industrial groups, increases in employment were noted in 12 and decreases in but two.

Fifty-six out of the 65 cities studied showed gains. Baltimore is listed nineteenth among those where employment improved.

The report, the department announces, is the result of a canvass of conditions in 355 industrial centers, plus the telegraphic reports of 95 special agents. These latter supplied information from the actual payrolls of some 1,428 large firms commonly employing more than 500 persons.

These 1,428 concerns, the report says, had on October 31, 52,867 more employees on their payrolls than September 30. Railroad repair shops revealed the most marked improvement, adding 8,700 workers. Stone, clay and glass products showed an increase of 19,848. Chemicals and allied products increased 2,940 while wages for land transportation, which showed a decrease last month of 16,232, showed an increase, this month of 8,297.

Lumber and its manufacture continued to increase, having added 752. Metal and metal products, other than iron and steel, though still suffering from inadequate transportation, in some sections of the country, showed an increase of 2,444.

Miscellaneous industries increased employment by 4,728; paper and printing added 912. Leather and its finished products continued to increase this month, adding 899. Textiles and their products reveal an increase of 4,223, while food and kindred products show an increase of 1,370. Tobacco manufactures showed a decrease, having released 1,255 employees, while liquors and beverages dropped six from their payrolls.

"Employment," the report says, "has picked up in all sections of the country and shows a healthy and encouraging condition existing today. One of the features of the month's survey is the continued steady employment offered to the building trade throughout the entire country. Huge highway construction programs are still under way, taking care of a tremendous amount of common labor, while large municipal programs are on foot with every indication of their continuance throughout the winter months, weather conditions permitting."

In the separate reports for each State the employment situation for Maryland is summarized as follows:

"Marked increases in employment shown in railroad repair shops and miscellaneous industries, with slight augmentations in textiles, leather and its finished products, paper and printing, stone, clay and glass, tobacco manufacturers and vehicles for land transportation. Slight reductions apparent in food and kindred products, iron and steel, lumber and metal and metal products other than iron and steel."—The Sun.

NEW GRAIN TRADING ACT BECOMES A LAW

Provides For Supervision Of Trading By Secretary Of Agriculture In Grain Futures On Exchanges

The President has signed the Grain Futures Act, which provides for the supervision by the Secretary of Agriculture of the trading in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade and other grain exchanges in the United States. Concerning this Act, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace says:

"The new law takes the place of the regulatory provisions of The Future Trading Act of August 24, 1921, which are declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States last May. In substance the new law is the same as the old, but the new law is based on the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce, while the former statute was based on the taxing power of Congress. The new law becomes operative November 1. As all of the exchanges with the requirements of the former law, there should be no difficulty or delay in complying with the new law. The exchanges affected are those at Chicago, Minneapolis, Duluth, St. Louis, Kansas City, Toledo, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Baltimore."

bedding transactions on the books of trade. Neither does it interfere with ordinary speculation in the buying or selling of contracts for future delivery. If, however, there should be evidence of undue manipulation, or attempts to corner the market, or of the dissemination of false or misleading information about crop or market conditions by members of the exchange, such conduct would be inquired into and promptly dealt with as required by the law. In addition it prohibits the exchanges from discriminating against cooperative associations of grain producers who may desire membership in order to obtain the use of the facilities of the grain exchanges. The Secretary of Agriculture also is given the requisite authority to examine the books and records of the members of the exchanges and to require such reports as may be necessary to carry out its provisions.

"The reports that this law will put the grain exchanges out of business or interfere with their legitimate functions are without foundation. It will not interfere with the proper operation of such exchanges. No one will be persecuted. No proper business will be harassed. The law gives us an opportunity to observe and inquire into the operations on grain exchanges and to put a stop to improper practices, if such exist. It gives opportunity to study this whole system of registering prices of grains. In a year or so we should be able to speak with authority concerning grain exchange dealings. Nobody can do that now."

"In the administration of this law I am confidently expecting hearty cooperation from legitimate dealers in grain and from all others who favor free, open and competitive markets."

PREPARING TODAY FOR TOMORROW

In a recent issue of the New England Farmer appears a statement regarding some investigations which Dr. Paul S. Burgess, of the Rhode Island Experiment Station, has been making. They include studies of the cumulative effect of the long continued use of fertilizers and cover crops, which are steadily replacing organic manures in the maintenance of soil fertility on soils under practical crop rotations.

Through careful analysis of the records of experiments which have been made in this connection during the last quarter century, Dr. Burgess has been able to determine with reasonable accuracy what results would follow, within a generation or two, the uninterrupted practice of any system of fertilization at present advocated to replace manure. His studies also emphasize the fact that it is possible and easy to so arrange our system of fertilization as to avoid the difficulties which apparently result eventually from the unintelligent use of any fertilizers.

As a result of the studies, which cover about 27 years, are given in Bulletin 184, in which it is stated that the experiment plots are "favorably located on a uniform plain of Miami silt loam soil." In order to obtain full and definite information, a number of plots have been devoted to varying quantities of the same material, all other conditions remaining constant, while on other plots different carriers of the same material have been the only varying factors.

In summarizing the results, Dr. Burgess says, "There is no foundation for the statement that soils will become more acid from the continuous use of acid phosphate." All of the phosphorus carriers used showed a tendency to reduce soil acidity as compared with no phosphorus.

There is considerable diversity in the effect of the various nitrogen carriers. Nitrate of soda and finely ground starfish markedly reduce soil acidity, while horn meal, dried blood, acid fish, hoof meal, tankage and hen manure have consistently, though slightly, increased it. "Sulphate of ammonia, wherever compared with other carriers of nitrogen has always greatly increased soil acidity." This fact is the basis of the Rhode Island Station's method of eliminating weeds from lawn; of course, the addition of lime under ordinary conditions, corrects this effect.

Among the potassium carriers, kainit showed the greatest tendency to reduce soil acidity, followed by the double manure salt, the muriate and the sulphate, although in no case was this tendency very great.

The carbonates of sodium and potassium greatly reduced soil acidity compared with the chloride of those elements and were about twice as effective as the carriers of calcium oxide.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.—Advt.

BOAT LINE TO WESTERN SHORE IS TO CONTINUE

Assurance From R. R. Officials Of That Fact Received By Local Chamber.

IMPORTANT MEETING HELD AT CRISFIELD

Decision Was Reached Notwithstanding The Fact That Route Showed Deficit Of Around $10,000 For First Six Months—Those Benefited To Cooperate.

Especially pleasing to the people of the Peninsula and to those living down on the Northern Neck of Virginia is the announcement by officials of the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Companies, that the boat line between the Eastern Shore and Maryland at Crisfield and the Northern Neck of Virginia would be continued for another year if the close co-operation of those deriving its benefits can be assured in an effort to establish the line on a paying basis.

This line, which has now been in operation for more than six months, like most any other new line of endeavor naturally has faced a deficit at its inception. The decision of the railway officials, however, to continue the route obviously shows that there are strong possibilities in the line of proving a paying proposition if given a fair trial.

After receiving a report to the effect that the route had caused the railway company to face a loss in operating expenses of around $10,000, a meeting was held last week aboard the steamer Potomac in Crisfield harbor at the instance of the Salisbury Wicomico Chamber of Commerce which was attended by a number of its members, members of the Crisfield chamber and representative citizens of the Northern Neck section.

The consensus of the meeting was a desire for the continuance of the line. Through freight rates from the North was pointed out as one way of increasing the haul over the new route as the charges are deemed at present not to be equitable.

Improvement in produce marketing arrangements for the formation of a Produce Association, the organizing of the tomato growers and other moves of similar characters were pointed out as coming as a result of the boat line.

The delegates attending the meeting were:

From Salisbury, F. P. Adkins, W. F. Allen, Branch Phillips, M. C. Bounds, E. Dale Adkins, George R. Cobb, John Morris, C. M. Freeman, Crisfield, R. L. Tawes, T. E. Webb, William M. Woodley, James B. Tawes, L. O. Quinn, Jr., Fred Thornton, Wm. J. Peyton, A. W. Tawes, E. L. Quinn, J. Millard Tawes, Elliott Richardson, Northern Neck: Wm. Currell, Joseph Pierce, R. L. Perciful, R. F. Brockland, W. E. Stevens, T. G. Lankford, Wm. Haynes, C. E. Lewis, T. J. Foster, Mr. Cowart.

TO ADD NEW EQUIPMENT

The present equipment of the Salisbury Fire Department will soon be supplemented by the addition of 1000 feet of new fire hose, the Mayor and City Council having contracted with the Fabric Fire Hose Company, of New York City for the furnishing of same.

OVERHEAD AWNINGS ARE FAST DISAPPEARING FROM STORE FRONTS ON NORTH SIDE MAIN STREET

Old Sheet Iron Roofing In Front Of Big Powell Department Store Is Torn Down And Replaced By Modern Roll Awning Of Canvas.

The old sheet iron overhead awning is slowly but surely disappearing from Salisbury's Main Street and its place is being taken by a more modern, up-to-the-minute covering for the protection of the store fronts and show windows from the destructive effect of the elements.

Following the tearing down of the awning in front of the large department store of R. E. Powell & Co., there has been erected in its place during the past week a modern roll awning of canvas with worm gear crank and regulation drop frame.

The new covering is the largest of its kind on the Eastern Shore and, in fact, in Maryland, outside of Baltimore where there are said to be only three of greater dimensions, the longest of which is said to measure 110 feet in length. The Powell Company awning is 81 feet in length and contains 350 square feet of canvas, all of which is of a single color.

This store is the third in the commercial section to adopt this sort of protection for its store front. Kennerly and Mitchell and Benjamin's stores having previously made the change. Other merchants on the North side of Main Street seem to be contemplating making similar moves.

No move of greater import, save perhaps the elimination of old iron posts which formerly supported the awnings and which were commonly known as "hitching posts," has been made in the past decade which has so tended to improve and beautify the street.

DR. JOHN S. FULTON, STATE HEALTH OFFICER, DELIVERS AN INSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS BEFORE WOMAN'S CLUB

Traces Growth Of Organization For Betterment Of Public Health In State Of Maryland, Much Credit For Which He Attributes To The Interest Displayed By Women.

The regular meeting of the Wicomico Woman's Club was held in the Court Room on Tuesday afternoon, in anticipation of a large gathering to hear Dr. J. S. Fulton, State Health Officer, the announcement of the change of meeting place had been announced at the previous meeting.

Their expectations were fully realized for the large Court Room was comfortably filled with ladies, it being an open meeting to which the public was invited. The session was called to order by Mrs. T. E. Martindale and the minutes of the previous meeting read by Mrs. Douglas Weatherhead and approved.

Two applications for membership in the organization, those of Mesdames G. Roland Taylor and Ernest A. Tondine, were favorably passed upon and their names added to the roll.

Dr. Fulton, who was a pioneer in the early movements for better health conditions, not only in this state but nationally as well, stated at the outset of his remarks which were very highly instructive that the impetus which had contributed to health betterment in this state had come largely from the women.

"Maryland," stated the speaker, "I am proud to say was the fifth or sixth state in the Union to have a State Board of Health while even yet there are three or four states which do not have an organization of this character."

He stated for the information of those present that every set of County Commissioners in the State form a Board of Health for its particular county, and that town councils have the power of legislating on Public Health.

Dr. Fulton told of the days when neither birth nor deaths were reported and even such diseases as diphtheria were not even sometimes reported for two weeks or more. "Although," he went on smilingly, "smallpox was always reported promptly."

He explained the enabling act passed by the last legislature in Maryland which gave to all counties in Maryland to employ a full time paid health officer and authorizing their Board of County Commissioners to employ such a person.

The official pointed out Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties on the Western Shore as having splendid health bodies maintained in different ways. No instance of this character are to be yet found on the Eastern Shore stated Dr. Fulton.

He lauded the ladies of the state for their systematic and determined efforts which resulted in the passage of the Maternity and Child Hygiene Bill by the last legislature of Maryland.

WICOMICO HIGH SHOWS UP STRONG IN SOCCER

Hurlock Is Scene Of Important Battle Between St. Michael's And Locals Wednesday Afternoon

With a record unblemished by defeat this season, the Wicomico High School soccer team journeyed to Hurlock on Wednesday afternoon to do battle with the St. Michael's boys, champions of Talbot County in a contest sure to have a decided bearing on the winning of the Eastern Shore championship.

The lads from Professor Cordery's institution realizing the importance of the contest presented their strongest lineup which was exactly the same as that which faced Hurlock a short while back and which proved to be an aggressive, determined, never-say-die combination.

Realizing as they did that a victory for their favorites over the Talbot County team would carry them within a single game of 'Sho laurels, a large delegation of students accompanied the team to lend their support from the sidelines. The Rotarians of Salisbury again furnished cars for both the team and rooters. A number of the team's also motored to Hurlock to witness the contest.

Coach Unger announced the lineup to start as follows: Goal, Field: J. Townsend; I. Price; R. Guthrie; G. Dallas (capt.); I. Inley; E. Benson or Livingston; I. Moore; C. Davis; R. Agnew; R. Chatham.

Bishop George W. Davenport, of the Diocese of Eastern, will conduct services and preach at St. Peter's Church here on next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The regular morning service will be conducted by Rev. Samuel Borden Smith.

BISHOP TO PREACH SUNDAY

The present equipment of the Salisbury Fire Department will soon be supplemented by the addition of 1000 feet of new fire hose, the Mayor and City Council having contracted with the Fabric Fire Hose Company, of New York City for the furnishing of same.

The old sheet iron overhead awning is slowly but surely disappearing from Salisbury's Main Street and its place is being taken by a more modern, up-to-the-minute covering for the protection of the store fronts and show windows from the destructive effect of the elements.

OFFICIALS OF SHORE LEAGUE HOLD MEETING

Millford And Dover Complete 8 Club Circuit With 84 Game Schedule.

CRISFIELD DIRECTOR NAMED AS PRESIDENT

M. B. Thawley Succeeds Walter B. Miller Who Resigned From Executive Chair—Player's Salary Limit Now $2,000—Salisbury Club Is Host At Banquet.

More than 400 baseball moguls of the Eastern Shore League gathered here on Friday for the meeting called to order by President Walter B. Miller. The assembly was held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce and the first business of the afternoon was the election of officers.

Mr. Miller tendered his resignation to the body stating that the duties involved during the playing season proved to be too great a strain upon him. By a unanimous vote M. B. Thawley, of Crisfield, was named to the post of league president for the 1923 season.

Mr. Miller was elected vice-president and C. Victor Matthews, of Cambridge, re-elected treasurer. The secretary will be chosen later. Applause greeted the report that there was in the league's coffers a balance of $1,750.00. A dividend of $150 was then given to each of the six clubs.

Among the principal changes effected at this meeting was the granting of franchises in the league to Millford and Dover. These two clubs have been clearing for berths for a long time and the fact that they have been admitted into the circuit is calculated to make the "baby minor" a stronger organization. That the eight club wheel is always to be preferred over the six club one, seemed to be the consensus of opinion of the majority of officials present at the gathering.

The playing schedule beginning next spring and ending Labor Day will be drawn up after Christmas and will include 84 games, an increase of 14 games. The schedule committee is composed of Messrs. Wm. B. Tawes, Salisbury, chairman; Harry Row, of Parkley and Dr. Walter Grier, of Millford.

One change that was made in the rules of the league that will probably meet with an unfavorable comment in the minds of the players is that the players on an club from $1,750 to $2,000. This sum will include the manager's salary too, if he is a playing manager instead of a leader directing his charges from the dug-out bench.

$75 is the guarantee that the visiting club will receive from the home team's treasury. In addition it will get a division of the general admission (Continued on Page 3.)

MOOSE MINSTREL SHOW CALCULATED TO AMUSE

Everything Points To A Repetition Of Last Season's Success By This Troupe

Salisbury is to have another home talent minstrel show and under the same auspices as the Moose Epileptic Minstrels which was presented last February. This announcement will doubtless be hailed with delight by those enjoying a well produced, clean, entertaining and amusing show as they still remember with what success the former presentation met.

Announcement was made this week that the Second Semi-Annual Minstrel Show under the auspices of Salisbury Lodge No. 715 Loyal Order of Moose will be held in the Arcade Theatre on Monday, December 11th. There will be an afternoon matinee and an evening performance.

All preliminaries have been arranged and details completed to put on "big" show. A fund raising of talent is hard at work rehearsing and all indications point to this production excelling the Moose Epileptic Minstrels presented last February which was greeted by a crowded house at both performances and which proved so highly enjoyable and entertaining to those who witnessed it.

The program arranged consists of the latest song hits and catchy melodies. Fun, mirth and merriment in abundance are promised those who attend this show, which will be a scream from start to finish.

ANNUAL BAZAAR OF AID SOCIETY AT JONES' HALL

The Church Aid Society of Quantico M. E. Church will hold their annual bazaar and supper on Thanksgiving evening, November 30th, at Jones' Hall, Quantico, Md. The fancy work will be on exhibition from 3 o'clock in the afternoon but no articles will be sold or reserved until 6:30 P. M.

The supper will consist of chicken salad, Maryland biscuits, pickles and coffee. November 30th, and chicken sandwiches, pickles, coffee or cocoa. Ice cream and cakes also for sale. We have understood that it is said that Jones' Hall is not safe but the owners and those who have investigated report that these rumors are false and everybody come and help make this affair a success.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY AT DORMAN HOME ON MONDAY EVENING BRILLIANT SOCIAL AFFAIR

Guests, Numbering Upward Of 400, Felicitate Happy Couple Who Are Among City's Oldest And Most Highly Respected Citizens—Dance Follows Reception.

Surrounded by more than 400 friends and relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Levin Whittingham Dorman celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their North Division street home here Monday evening.

While the huge chimes in the tower of the Methodist Episcopal church rang out the glory of the occasion, the "bride and groom of half a century" stood just inside the portals of their residence and welcomed the many friends who came to felicitate the happy, smiling couple. Standing side by side, as through the long years of joys and sorrows they have stood and headed the main reception committee, they shook the hand of every well-wisher who entered.

The Golden Jubilee of Mr. and Mrs. Dorman marked the premier social function of the city this season. Unusual in its very nature, the artistic decoration of the spacious residence and the brilliant and well-planned assemblage gathered there made the spectacle one long to be remembered in Salisbury society. About 800 invitations were issued and many out of town guests were present.

When the guests of the evening entered the home, it was a dazzling spectacle that met their gaze. The general color scheme was gold and white, and hundreds of golden chrysanthemums filled every corner with a brilliance that dazzled the eye and gladdened the heart. Many dozen Columbia roses were intermingled to add color to the scene. A number of soft lights gave a rich tone to the house, while soft strains of orchestral music from the hall floated through the front rooms and tempered the hundreds of voices engaged in social converse.

After passing along the several reception committees, the callers entered the dining-room, done in blue velvet and set off with gold chrysanthemums, where refreshments were served by a committee of Salisbury's fair young daughters. Following the formal reception, which ended at 11 o'clock, there was dancing by the younger guests.

Those in the receiving line were: Mrs. and Levin Whittingham Dorman; Col. and Mrs. Charles T. LeVine, Jr.; Charles T. LeVine, 3rd; Richard Dorman LeVine; Judge E. Stanley Tondine, who acted as best man at the original wedding 50 years ago; Mrs. Charles M. Moore, of Philadelphia, maid of honor at the original wedding.

Out of town guests who assisted in the drawing room were: Mrs. George P. Sullivan, of New York City; Mrs. R. Eugene Denney, Elkins Park, Pa.; Mrs. Margaret Collins, of Bangor, Me.; Dr. Clyde Mathews, of Baltimore; Mr. Shibley, of Philadelphia; Mr. Walter B. Shibley, Jr., of J. H. Silver, of Philadelphia; Mr. S. Leon Utman, of Washington, D. C. Also in the drawing room were old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Dorman and their family.

High School Seniors Give Enjoyable Play

Members Of The Two Upper Classes Present "A Pretty Piece Of Business" Friday Morning

Last Friday morning the Senior Class gave a play entitled "A Pretty Piece Of Business". The cast of characters were: Miss Charlotte Shee, Elizabeth Williams, Mrs. Fanny Grantly, Katherine Hagan; Dobson, Maid, Catherine Livingston; Capt. Felix Merryweather, Harry Dallas; Dr. Laurence Shee, Wilson Lowe.

The play was presented by Tracy Holland, the President of the class. A few visitors were present and the play was a great success and thoroughly enjoyed by the two upper classes as the Soph's and Freshies were not able to get into the Assembly hall and enjoy it.

NEW DEPUTY HEALTH OFFICER COMES HERE

Dr. De Komiskol Succeeds Mr. L. O. Tayntor As Health Officer In This Section

Dr. De Komiskol, who succeeded Mr. L. O. Tayntor as Deputy Health Officer for Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset Counties will hereafter reside in this city, arrived here on Tuesday to assume his duties.

Dr. De Komiskol has spent the past five years in Europe studying the health problems on the other side which he stated at the meeting of the Wicomico Women's Club on Tuesday were similar in many respects to those confronting the American people.

The new health representative prior to his going abroad was for two years coach of the University of Virginia football team and is well known in the Eastern section of the county.

"GO GET IT" BACK AT ARCADE THURSDAY EVE

Snappy Musical Comedy Booked To Return At Local Theatre—A Clean Entertaining Show.

"Go Get It," that snappy musical comedy which proved so entertaining to a Salisbury audience on Monday night, will play a return engagement here this Thursday night. Theatregoers who were a trifle skeptical as to the character of the performance here, have probably had their skepticism allayed by now.

The cast, though colored, is a creditable one and contains some very clever artists. Above all the most commendable thing about the show is the fact that it is clean throughout and sponsors no lines that are suggestive. Demon-like dancing coupled with a chorus of excellent voices go towards making the affair a spicy entertainment.

The comedy is well taken care of by John Mason and Slim Henderson. These two comedians keep the audience in an uproar whenever they appear on the stage and "Slim" Henderson is a second "Butt" Williams. The principals in the cast are well selected and their songs are put across in a fashion that is above the ordinary.

Considered from every angle, "Go Get It" is an entertainment that is worth the money and in bringing it back to Salisbury for a second performance Manager Inley is giving those who missed the show on Monday a chance to see some clever dancing, to hear several harmonious melodies and to listen to some funny comedy lines.

Mr. D. Q. Adkins spent several days in Philadelphia last week.

BANKERS HOLD FALL MEETING IN SALISBURY

Representatives From Financial Institutions In Three Counties Assembled Thursday.

CASHIER CENTRAL BANK IS ELECTED PRESIDENT

Instructive Advertising Campaign Counted Upon To Safeguard People Against Purchasing Of "Wild-Cat" Stocks—Big Banquet In Peninsula Dining Hall.

Thursday was Bankers' Day in Salisbury and the city was filled with groups of that financial class. The occasion that attracted over 200 representatives from more than 30 banking institutions was the annual fall meeting of the Associated Banks of Somerset, Worcester, and Wicomico counties.

Early in the afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, the business session was held and the members were called upon to discuss and act upon the various problems that the banks are called upon to face in the community in which they exist.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: president, Henry W. Ruark, cashier Central Bank, Salisbury; vice president, C. B. Taylor, president Calvin B. Taylor Banking Company, Berlin; secretary, Arthur B. West, assistant cashier Farmers & Merchants Bank, Salisbury. The executive board is composed of James A. Davis, Wicomico; W. D. Coffey, Worcester; O. Crowell, Somerset.

One of the chief questions that came up before the assembly was that of the purchasing of undesirable and unprofitable securities by individuals in the various communities. It was asserted that the banks could play no small part in the eradication of the activities of "wild-cat" stock agents and the substituting of worthwhile investment securities. Plans were outlined in this matter that included the opening up of a campaign against such schemes by means of newspaper advertising.

Calver E. Byrd, Warren F. Sterling and William S. Gordon Jr., were appointed by President Robert L. Quinn to take charge of this campaign.

Although discussion was raised on the "one man credit" of Orlando Harrison and the financing of same by means of a Loan and Trust Company, no definite action was taken on the proposition. It was pointed out, however, that such an institution would not be restricted in its scope of business activities as such as the county banks and therefore able to handle the financing of the plan more aptly.

A sumptuous banquet greeted the bankers at the dinner hour in the Peninsula Dining Hall and music was rendered by a six piece orchestra. Mr. Hooper S. Miles extended a hearty welcome to all the visitors. Toastmaster Wilbur F. Turner of Nanticoke, presented to the guests at the banquet, Mr. James J. Raymond, of Detroit and Philadelphia, who entertained his hearers with a delightful repertoire of humorous stories and puns. At the close of the banquet, the burly banks, the Association will meet in this city next Spring.

JUDGE DUE TO ADDRESS BUSINESS MEN'S CLASS

Dr. V. L. Edmunds, pastor of the Division Street Baptist Church was the speaker at the Business Men's Bible Class on Tuesday evening and his subject was "The Lost Coin."

Next Tuesday evening, Judge Robert F. Duer, of Princess Anne will address the gathering and his subject will be "The Cause and Cure of Mistakes." Good crowds are attending these meetings each week.

EVERY EMPLOYEE OF 35 LOCAL BUSINESS HOUSES ENROLLED AS MEMBERS RED CROSS

Contributions For First Two Days Not Quite Up To Expectations Of Committee Having Drive In Charge—Around $500 Raised Up To Present Time.

The annual Red Cross drive in Wicomico County is on in earnest and although the response to the appeal during the week since it started Monday morning has not been quite as hearty as the local committee hoped for nevertheless to date around $500 has been reported contributed in this city.

An endeavor is being made to obtain as many 100 per cent contributors as possible and offices as can be secured. Up to going to press the following had been reported: The "Honor roll" that is every employee has been secured as a member of the Red Cross this time: T. L. Ruark Co., W. J. Collins Jewelry Store, Watsons Smoke House, Eastern Shore Music Company, Toulsons Drug Store, Harpers Jewelry Store, Candy Kitchen, Salisbury Artistic, Hitch's Store, Harris' Store, Electric Shoe Shop, Farmers and Planters Company, Peninsula Restaurant, W. B. Tilghman Company, Central Bank, Smart Shop, S. P. Woodcock and Company, Farmers and Merchants Bank, Arcade Shoe Shop, Dorman and Smyth, Leads and Twiley, Judge Bailey's office, D. J. Ward's office, Eastern Shore

Gas and Electric Company, Elligood, Freeny and Wallis, County Agent Cobb's office, W. M. Cooper and Company office, Hill and Johnson; Universal Tire Company, E. T. Jones and Company, School Board office, Dr. Heathwell's office and T. Rodney Jones.

Mr. I. L. Benjamin has given over an entire show window of his large double store on Main Street for a display in order to assist in the Red Cross drive. The window is artistically and skillfully decorated showing the figure of a Red Cross Nurse in full regalia with a background of three Red Cross flags and several huge posters depicting scenes of the organization's activities.

Booths are in operation in the Post-office and White and Leonard's Drug Store. Miss Lucille Guilleotte is in charge of the enrollment in several of the classes in Wicomico High School.

No reports have been received thus far as to the progress in the county outside of Salisbury but the various chairmen are busy with their task and a goodly sum is expected to be realized.

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS PAYABLE ON JANUARY 1

Holders Of Series Of 1918 Should Make Arrangements Prior To First Of Year Says Postoffice

Postmaster Phillips has received word from the Government that the War Savings Stamps of the series of 1918 become due and are payable to the amount of $625,000,000 on January 1, 1922.

Holders of these stamps desiring prompt payment or exchange at maturity may make arrangements through banks and post offices prior to January 1st and save themselves possible delay and confusion.

On and after November 15, 1922, owners may apply to exchange the whole or part of their 1918 War Savings Certificates at maturity value for Treasury Savings Certificates to be dated January 1, 1923, with the difference either way to be paid in cash, or they may arrange for full cash payment to be made at maturity. Immediate payment will be made in cash of any difference due the holder if he takes the largest possible amount of Treasury Savings Certificates in the exchange.

An opportunity is offered for the renewal of the investment on a most attractive basis. Holders of $25 in War Savings Stamps can now obtain a $25 Treasury Savings Certificate and $4.50 in cash. $100 in War Savings Stamps will be exchanged for a $100 Treasury Savings Certificate and $10 in cash. An owner of $1,000 in War Savings Stamps can get a $1,000 Treasury Savings Certificate and two $100 Treasury Savings Certificates and $10 in cash.

Banks will co-operate with the post offices in effecting the cash redemptions or exchange of War Savings Certificates. It is important that all holders see their banker or postmaster as soon as possible if they desire prompt settlement.

PARALYSIS CLAIMS A FORMER SALISBURIAN

Jacob C. Phillips Dies In Brooklyn.
N. Y.—Body Brought Here For Burial Monday

Mr. Jacob C. Phillips, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a native of this county where he resided until about three years ago, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Nettie P. Blount, in Brooklyn, on Saturday evening last, about six o'clock after having been in poor health for several months. Death resulted from a stroke of paralysis which he suffered recently, it being the second affliction of this character which he had suffered.

The deceased was 82 years of age and was born on the old Phillips Homestead, between this city and Delmar, he being a son of the late Major and Mrs. Phillips. His wife before her marriage was Miss Katherine Jackson, a sister of the late Governor Elihu E. Jackson and also of the late Congressman William H. Jackson. Mrs. Phillips died a number of years ago.

Mr. Phillips was a resident of this city practically all his life until he moved to his daughter's home. While here he resided part of the time on the old Homestead and in later years made his home at Miss Laura White's in this city.

He was a retired farmer and nurseryman. Mr. Phillips was a faithful and devoted member of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, this city, of which at the time of his death he was one of the trustees. Mr. Phillips is survived by a brother, Mr. Lemuel Phillips, Cherry street, one daughter, Mrs. Blount of Brooklyn and three sons, M. Paul Phillips, Birmingham, Ala. and Hugh J. and Carroll of Washington, D. C. He was an uncle of G. William Phillips, of this city.

Funeral services, largely attended, were held from Trinity Church on Monday afternoon at three o'clock, the Rev. John Brandon Peters officiating, assisted by the Rev. H. F. Clark, Presiding Elder of the Eastern Shore District. Interment was in Parsons Cemetery.

HOG RAISERS SHOULD HAVE GOOD PASTURES

Rye Is Best Crop To Use For Fall
Winter and Spring Pasture For Hogs.

Hog raisers may accomplish two desirable results by plowing up the barn lots at least once a year, says the United States Department of Agriculture. In the first place, hogs need good succulent pasture as much of the time as possible, and in the second place they need protection against internal parasites, such as roundworms, the eggs of which remain in the soil. Turning over the soil in the lots helps to get rid of the pests and the crop of forage makes it a profitable operation. In addition to providing cheap protein feed, pasture crops aid as a laxative and require the hogs to take a certain amount of exercise, which is necessary to breeding animals and growing pigs.

Rye is probably the best crop to use for fall, winter, and spring pasture for hogs. Throughout the corn belt it may be sown from August 20 to about October 1, depending on the latitude. In warmer climates the crop may be put in at various times up to as late as December. By putting in successive plantings from 2 to 4 weeks apart it is possible to have fresh pasture all the time. Seeding for pasture should be much heavier than for a grain crop, from 3 to 4 bushels per acre on a good soil. Pasturing can probably begin 6 weeks after seeding, and may continue, if the rye is not covered with snow, until the following April.

Driven To It

Judge—How could you be so conscienceless as to steal the watch of the doctor that prescribed for you?
Prisoner—Well, yer honor, I was in a bloomin' fix. Yer see, his prescription read "a spoonful every hour" and I had no timepiece.

WHAT THE FARMER SHOULD DO

Join the Farm Bureau and get your Neighbor to Join.
Give whole-hearted support to your county organization.
Take good use of your county agent's services.
Attend the community meetings and take the whole family with you.
Strive to be more efficient in production.
Arrange to sell your products rather than having them bought from you.
Endeavor to be more thorough in business.
Exemplify the true spirit of cooperation in your business and in your community.
Respect your business.
Make the world respect it.

GEORGE A. HARRISON

George A. Harrison, of Berlin, Worcester County, Maryland, member of the firm of Harrison's Nurseries, died at the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa., at 5 o'clock P. M., Saturday, November 18th. Mr. Harrison had been at his post for many months past, but bravely contended against a complication of physical disorders until the end came. His condition was regarded as serious but not hopeless until the past week. His passing takes from the community and from the business interest in which he was concerned, one who was not only highly esteemed by all who knew him as a patriotic and loyal citizen, but one whose place will be hard to fill in the chosen occupation of his life.

A large host of intimate friends, as well as business associates keenly mourn their loss. Mr. Harrison was born at Roxana, Delaware, December 9th, 1870, and was the second son of the late Joseph G. Harrison, the founder of the Harrison's Nurseries. Mr. Harrison has, for more than 35 years, been associated with his brother, Senator Orlando Harrison, in the conduct of the business of the Harrison's Nurseries, which is one of the largest, if not the largest, nursery interests in the United States.

In addition to the local nursery business, Mr. Harrison was director and a stockholder in several other companies. He was a man who thoroughly loved his life-work; and took an unusual pride in the condition of his orchards above the financial considerations. It is confidently affirmed that he had supervision of more tree-growing than any other man living.

As a citizen his marked business and executive ability was recognized and honored by his fellow citizens in being their choice as a member of the City Council of Berlin several times, which position he filled with characteristic earnestness and individuality; and, also, as sheriff of Worcester county, in which capacity he unflinchingly was a strict enforcer of law and order. Generally known as "Al" Harrison, he was popular with all who knew him; especially among the many men under his employ. Prompt, efficient, energetic, yet kind and considerate to all.

Mr. Harrison was a member of the Stevenson Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church of Berlin, Md., with which he united under the pastorate of the Rev. W. Ernest Greenfield. Surviving Mr. Harrison, in the immediate family, are his wife, Mrs. Olivia H. Harrison; two daughters, Mrs. Lee W. Davis and Miss Eunice; two sons, Joseph G. and Burdage. One brother and two sisters survive him: Senator Orlando Harrison; Mrs. W. B. Powell, of Ocean City, Md.; and Mrs. Achash E. Furness, Berlin, Md. The funeral service was held in the church of which he was a member, Tuesday, November 21st, at 2:30 P. M.

Legionnaires are filled with pride, now that Moosemen of Jacksonville, Florida, the home of its aged members and their wives has been charged to their account. Their slogan is "Watch us grow."

BENEFIT PICTURE FOR RAILROAD WOMEN'S AID

The Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania System, Norfolk Division, has arranged for a picture benefit at the Radium Theatre, Cape Charles, Va., on Tuesday, December 5th. "Bachelor Daddy" with Thomas Meighan as the leading star will be the picture. It is one of his latest and said to be the best picture by this well known movie actor. There will be a matinee and two performances in the evening. Immediately following the matinee a business meeting of the Women's Aid will be held at the Theatre. All railroad ladies are earnestly requested to be present.

SCHOOL BIG ASSET IN AIDING OF DEMOCRACY

A democracy renews and perpetuates itself through its schools. Every man, woman and child worthy of the name American should give, therefore, willing and substantial support to the schools of their native or adopted land; confident in the belief that the privileges they enjoy are due largely to the teachers of this land; to whom no sacrifice has been, nor is too great, that men and women shall be taught to carry on the ideals of the founders of the Nation and the social practices that have progressively developed in harmony with these ideals. There is no greater blessing to democracy than an educated people; no greater menace than an uneducated scheme of education or failure of the latter to offer free and unlimited opportunity for the training and education of the masses into the possession and enjoyment of the privileges which an enlightened democracy assures its people. Outstanding among these privileges is adequate preparation for the business of living. That means the possession of a strong body and a clear mind, of technical skill and method, of information needful for the conduct of one's job or oneself in association with his fellows, of judgment and directiveness in the use of our bodies; nor should be the effort of the Nation to give through its schools. It is this, then, education now and in the future must command a more solid and dependable support than it has in the past. For such a program of education will be costly. It will mean more and better built schoolhouses; ample and useful equipment in shop, laboratory and library; for playgrounds, assemblies, and recreation rooms; and above all it will mean a teaching staff with better understanding of the motives that move men and women in the conduct of modern affairs.

GETTING BACK TO NORMAL

Industry is on the wing, mounting steadily. A recent report of the United States Employment Service shows that of sixty-five cities reporting, fifty-six show a decided upward trend in employments by comparison with October a year ago. Last autumn the problem of the unemployed was serious, insidious in every way to progress prosperity. Now the bugaboo is removed, destroyed. Not by any Governmental interference either, nor by Congressional panaceas; old Doctor Supply and Demand deserves all the credit for this case. To put it simply and clearly, the operation of the natural forces of production and the restoration of something approximating normalcy in the demand for products of mines and mills and farms and factories has served to remove the menace of a great body of unemployed. Only "transients and casuals" are without work now; and everyone knows why.—Baltimore News.

MRS. CLARA W. JACKSON

Mrs. Clara W. Jackson, widow of the late John S. Jackson, who died ten years ago and daughter of the late Capt. J. W. Brown, passed away at the home of her brother, Perry J. WHEREAS the catastrophe at Smyrna has made hundreds of thousands homeless and dependent on the outside world, and WHEREAS survivors are scattered along the coast in the Grecian Islands, cold, hungry, needing medical attention and in appalling misery, and

WHEREAS the Near East Relief has emptied the warehouses of its orphanage to relieve the situation, and WHEREAS this organization has been designated as the channel for relief distribution.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ALBERT C. RICHIE, GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND, do urgently call upon the people of Maryland to give heed to these sufferings and to aid in the work of succor and life saving among these unfortunate people. Such aid can be given by forwarding contributions to the Near East Relief, 14 W. Franklin Street, Baltimore, John E. Boisseau, Treasurer.

(THE GREAT SEAL OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND)

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland.

Done at the city of Annapolis, this 24th day of October, in the Year of Our Lord, One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Twenty-two.

Secretary of State.

Officials Of Shore League Hold Meeting

Tickets after 10% has been deducted for the league's expenses. In case of rain, the home manager will give the visiting club a rain check for $400. While there was a little opposition to practically all of the changes consummated, it is not expected that there will be any disagreement over the application of the effected changes to the program of the Eastern Shore League for next season and officials are looking forward to a very successful year.

After the meeting at the Chamber of Commerce, the delegates feasted on an enthusiastic banquet held in the dining hall at the Peninsula Hotel. The Salisbury Baseball Club proved to be an excellent host at this occasion.

WELL ATTENDED EXHIBIT AT DOUBLE MILLS SCHOOL

A well attended exhibit was held at Double Mills School on Monday of last week. The display consisted of Girls Club work, drawings and agricultural products.

A very interesting programme was put on by the pupils of the school and addresses were delivered by County Agent George E. Cobb and Miss Bertha Knight, of the Extension Department, University of Maryland. Mrs. Mary Bennett and Miss India English.

WOODCOCK TELLS REPORTER KNOWS "NOTHING OF WOMEN"

Among the persons interviewed by "Inquiring Reporter" of the Baltimore News on Tuesday of this week was United States District Attorney Amos W. Woodcock and the interrogation of the news gatherer was: "Do you think a woman has a right to ask for a divorce because her husband kisses her too much?" To which the official replied promptly and with a smile "I know nothing about women."

COUNTRY CLUB PROGRESSES

Plans for a Country Club are shaping up nicely. A number of prominent business men of the city have underwritten the project with a sum said to be in the neighborhood of $10,000.

The list of 100 subscribers has been gone over and approximately that many have signed their intentions of joining the club. There will be a meeting Monday night to incorporate the club after which action the next step will be the selection of a site.

OPPORTUNITY TO PURCHASE GIFTS AT BETHESDA BAZAAR

A splendid opportunity will be afforded those who desire to purchase some of their Christmas gifts early at the Bethesda M. P. Church bazaar fancy booth which will be one of the features of that affair which takes place tonight (Thursday) and tomorrow night in the basement of the new building on Division St.

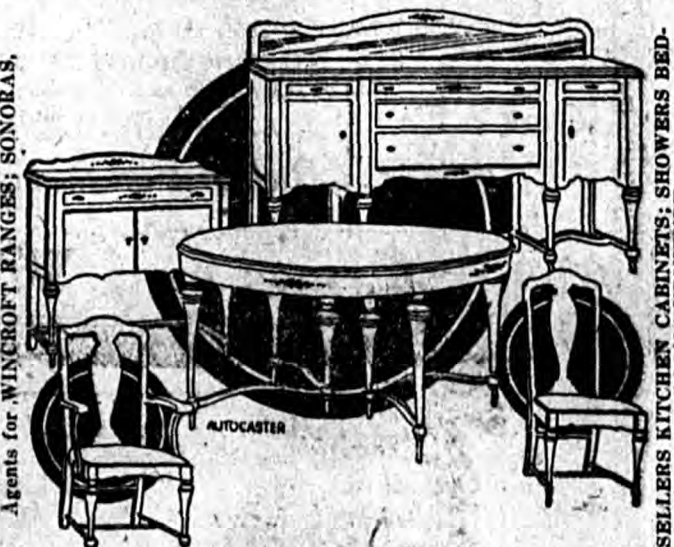

Supper will be served each evening commencing at five o'clock. A grocery booth and other stands will also go to making up the bazaar in its entirety.

HOUSEWORK IS A BURDEN

Woman's lot is a weary one at best. But with backache and other distressing kidney ills life indeed becomes a burden. Doan's Kidney Pills made life brighter for many Salisbury women.

Mrs. William E. Wells, 410 Martin Street, Salisbury says: "I was feeling badly for some time before using Doan's Kidney Pills. I was in a weak condition and everything I did was a burden to me. Rheumatic pains shot through my shoulders causing me a great deal of pain. My head ached nearly all the time and I had constant dizzy spells. I tried different remedies but got no relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. After using one box of Doan's I was much better and they entirely relieved the trouble. I have had no return of it and gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

CHANGE IN STAFF.

This week's issue of The News finds a complete change in the staff. Mr. Calvert Lewis Estill, who for three years has been connected with the personnel of the paper and for the past two has successfully managed it, has resigned to take over a similar position with a daily journal in one of the southern cities. He is succeeded by Mr. Harry K. Smith Jr., who has been the editor of the paper under Mr. Estill's management since last May. Mr. Sheldon Jones, former editor of The Wicomico Countian has been assigned to fill the chair left vacant by Mr. Smith. Mr. Jones is well-known in this community and The News considers itself fortunate to be able to secure a man of his ability and character. Under Mr. Estill's direction, The Wicomico News has progressed remarkably and today it enjoys the distinction of being classed as the sixth leading weekly in the United States. And in a recent editorial in the columns of The Baltimore Sun, on Maryland journals, The News was referred to as being one of the best printed and most energetic news gatherers in the field of Eastern Shore journalism. In a great measure Mr. Estill was responsible for this recognition for he has vigorously and capably directed the editorial, news and advertising policies of the paper. Foremost in his mind at all times was the advancement of the city of Salisbury and he has ever opposed all forces not making for the best interests not only of this community, but county and state as well. It is hoped to retain just such principles in the conducting of the paper under the new regime. It will be the policy of this paper to give its readers all the news available that is fit to print, to give accurate information on all interesting and important subjects. Its editorial policy will be constructive and educational, always aiming to bring the people together in the support of all issues that are essential to the city's proper development; to encourage a desire for higher standards of living, for a better administration of public affairs, local, state and national and for everything morally, socially and educationally that is needed in the upbuilding of a Greater and Better Salisbury.

MAKE WAY.

A modern city is not made over night. It advances as the result of a gradual evolution and process of development. Within the past decade many changes have been effected in Salisbury that have been most modern in aspect and although some of them possibly required a long period of "watchful waiting" yet once consummated they were appreciated not only by enthusiastic individuals who had sponsored them but by the cynics and skeptics as well who believed that radical changes were unwise unless careful consideration was given them. As a result of this attitude the questions in particular pass through many stages of apathetic treatment. Years back, hitching posts were familiar sights on Salisbury's main thoroughfare. Some of these were iron posts used to hold up awnings in front of stores. The coming of the automobile sounded their swan song. After that the coverings in front of the stores were supported by iron rods extending from above. But these tin roofs were ungainly in sight and but a short time ago, one progressive merchant did away with his "tin roof" and innovated a canvas awning. Then another followed and last week witnessed the third canvas awning go up on the north side of Main street. What a difference it makes in the appearance of not only the buildings but of the street. The latter appears to be 20 feet wider. Certainly there is no argument that can be forcefully employed in the defense of the unsightly tin roofing. The modern awning covering is much to be preferred. Every merchant on the north side of Main street should awaken to the vast improvement to be noted after the transition from the antiquated type of front covering to the new and modern style. And when Main street is able to boast of just such things then let the city step in and pave the way for a brilliantly illuminated downtown section. Salisbury needs a "White Way."

US TO SPEED UP SAFETY.

Ever since the advent of the steam engine we have been speeding up, and while that speed has come with inestimable benefit, it has not come without its measure of attendant harm. When the legislature of New York was first asked to grant a franchise for eighteen miles of steam railroad, the right to build this first railroad was not granted without a bitter opposition which contended that it would be unsafe because the engine would scare so many horses that an unwarranted toll of death would result.

The railroad came and those who opposed it were right in their death roll predictions. The engines did scare the horses. There were runaways, and what is worse, there were wrecks on the rails and an ever-increasing list of accidents have been recorded as the iron ribbed mileage multiplied.

But for all this we would not erase the railroads from our maps; we would not go back to the days when even a king would cry "My kingdom for a horse."

The thrashing machine has cost many a thrasher an arm. But we would not go back to the days when we flayed grain on the floor.

Mill machinery and foundry furnaces take their human toll. But we cannot do without them.

We fly sky-high and all too often we read of a fallen flyer. It is the price we pay to learn how with safety to use the swifter way.

The auto brings its price in limb and life. We pay it and speed away.

We have been impatiently seeking speed. With the same impatience we must seek safety. The cost of speed has reached such alarming proportions that the "Safety First" slogan was born.

Observe, we did not cry "Cut it out," nor did we even plead to "Slow down." We did not want to slacken, much less to stop. On the contrary, we want to speed up. That is progress. But we must speed up safety.

"The Kick-Off"

The National Safety Council reports that the compiled figures of preventable accidents in 1920 show a death toll of as many people as live in the State of Nevada. In other words, in one year we wiped out by accident one whole State. That means that it is time to STOP something. It is not speed we should stop. We must stop recklessness.

The man-eating thrashing machine has gone out of fashion. But the fool at the auto wheel is busy. Fatalities from reckless auto driving average thirty deaths a day. We have speed laws, but they are defiantly disobeyed and the violators when arrested are too often dismissed with a modified reprimand or a petty fine.

To endanger the life of an other is not a light or laughing matter.

We must adjust ourselves to the auto as the horse did to the train. We make the train run on schedule, limit its speed on curves, slow down at the sign of caution and come to a full stop at the STOP signal. So must we make every auto driver do. There is but one way to do it, and that is for every community to impose drastic penalty for every offender and for every community to promptly get rid of any officer that fails to arrest the offenders and every judge and magistrate that will not impose the full penalty of the crime.

If it is a crime to take life, it is a crime to endanger life. Speed up safety. It is the duty of every town and county government to get indignantly busy on this all important job. We cannot spare our people in whole state-full lots.

THE FARMER WINS THE ELECTION.

Perhaps the most significant phase of the recent election is summed up in a public statement issued by Mr. Gray Silver, Washington representative of The American Farm Bureau Federation, as follows:

"The entire membership of the senate and house agricultural blocs was returned to congress by a safe majority. We consider this a full vindication of The American Farm Bureau's legislative programme, as well as that of the blocs, and proof that the legislation was in line with public sentiment."

Mr. Silver's analysis is obvious, but it tells only part of the lesson.

The result evidently heralds an awakening of the public mind to the fact that the real party in which Americans are interested as a unit is the American party whose backbone and sole platform is the prosperity of the man who tills the soil and keeps the world alive.

Twenty years ago no one could conceive a Democratic farmer rejoicing at the election of a Republican to Congress, but likewise twenty years ago we could not conceive Illinois listening to the opera in New York as per radio today.

The world moves. Blind partisanship is giving way to common sense, and we are coming to see that such matters as the national budget and the tariff are not properly placed in the sphere of politics. The farm is in this category of national factors that must be safeguarded and developed regardless of party if the nation is to progress, and fortunately the farmer has sensed this fact for himself.

While the great cities have poked a great deal of fun at the farmer and smiled at his ingenuous simplicity, seemingly he is the only force in American life that has displayed enough common sense to organize along intelligent lines and sufficient acumen to make good.

The legislative success of the farm may be traced more than anything else to the fact that it has been based on justice, and is for the common good.

Uncle John's Poem~

IF!

If I was a woman—as sweet as a rose—attractin' admirers wherever she goes,—I'd exercise judgment and never would fret to carry the fust man I thought I could get. . . . It's powerful risky to marry too fast, an' fetch up in heart-breakin' tatters at last!

If I was a woman—I'd shorly object to masculine drivin' that's short of respect. I'd gather a brick-bat, and throw it to hurt—at the two-legged varmint that called me a "skirt," and I'd knock the face off'n the perverted swain, that chucked all politeness, to call me a "Jane."

If I was a woman that pined for a mate, I wouldn't step sideways to monkey with "fate." . . . I wouldn't trust nothin' that couldn't be proved—till I fished up a jay that was fit to be loved.—An' I'd practice all virtues, an' live in restraint—if I was a woman,—but, golly, I ain't!

The man who doesn't know where he is going isn't getting anywhere.

A soft answer turneth away wrath, but a soft head draws it.

NO GRUMPY GREETINGS

Have you ever realized what a difference the home greetings make to the children, make, in fact, to every member of the family? When they come home from school, when they run in from their play, when they arrive home from a day's outing or a short visit, how do we greet them?

Do you ever say sharply: "Mary, when will you ever remember to wipe your feet?" or "Dick, why will you persist in dashing in like a wild Indian when I've told you so often about coming in quietly?" or "Billy, you've ripped a button off. Come here quickly and let me fix it!" Do we quench their enthusiasm, their joy at getting home by such remarks? Will the children greeted so look forward to their home-coming, look forward to meeting mother? Will they have a picture in later years of a loving, smiling mother, always glad to welcome them back to the home nest, or a sharp, scolding, criticizing mother, ready to find fault?

Surely it is worth while to control our manner, our speech and never let anything prevent us from giving the warm, hearty, loving welcome home we would wish to give our children, our loved ones, making them glad to be home, making them love the home-coming. If faults must be reported, advice given, save it for other times than the moment of arrival. Let the greeting be hearty and loving, one which will warm the children's hearts at the time and which they will remember with joy in the after years. —November Designer.

THAT REVEALING PROFILE

We have always thought the best way to tell a person's character was by examining them full faced, so it was a surprise to hear a noted physiognomist say recently that when he wants to be sure of getting the best results he examines the profile. The full face is what we present to people when looking at them and expecting their criticism; eyes are alert, mouth arranged in a becoming line and facial expression at its best.

The profile, however, is the aspect of the face that the rest of the world most sees and it generally sees it in off moments when we are unconscious of any critical glances. A person whose full face may be bright and alluring may have a profile which in repose is dull and repulsive, mouth drooping and facial muscles relaxed. The muscles of a woman's face are softer than those of a man's and so they are particularly susceptible to unsightly sagging and becoming changes from every mood.—November Designer.

MARION DAVIES AT ARCADE

Marion Davies is featured at the Arcade Theatre on Friday and Saturday nights. She will appear in her latest screen success "The Young Diana". In conjunction with the photo-play, three classy acts have been booked for the vaudeville part of the performance.

MAKING RAINY DAYS HAPPY FOR THE CHILDREN

A certain mother we know usually arranges to do a little baking on rainy mornings so that the children can have a treat of cookies or something like that. They tell us the mother and sometimes, under mother's direction, mix the dough and roll and cut out the cookies. Each child is given a piece of dough for himself to do what he likes with, and each gives the others to see what he can do.

If the mother has other work that keeps her, she allows the children to make candy, provided they clear up afterward. There is always a little treat in the afternoon of a rainy day, set out on the table in the nursery, with the cookies or small turnovers or other things baked in the morning, with grape-juice or lemonade, or cocoa, the children look forward to these rainy-day treats and make a little party of it.

While the mother goes about her other work, she has a list of rainy-day occupations for the children. She keeps a special rainy-day box, where she puts suggestions for occupations, as well as special games and amusements.

These boxes are never taken out except on stormy days or in cases of illness, when the children must stay in the house, so they have the charm of novelty. As mother is constantly adding little things to the boxes unknown to the children, there is always some small surprise to look forward to when the rainy-day boxes are opened.

Cut-outs from magazines are saved and kept in the boxes—paper dolls, circuses, little plays (the text for these cut out, too, so the children can act them themselves or with paper characters, and make little theaters). Sheets of paper soldiers for the boys and paper dolls and furniture for the girls, with blunt scissors and paste, are found in these rainy-day boxes, also painting books, crayons and paints, pencils and drawing paper.

There are puzzles cut from post-cards. The children cut these as well as make them afterward. Any post-card is used, those with pictures of children are specially good. Cut into small, irregular pieces, these are just like bought picture-puzzles, each card or puzzle out in an envelope by itself and labeled. When the children become tired of them or know how to make them easily, they can be passed on to the hospital.—From the November Designer.

JORDAN-HITCH

The marriage of Miss Hannah Elizabeth Hitch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hitch of this city to Mr. Lumsford McKinney Jordan, of Norfolk, Va., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Jordan, of Isle of Wight County, took place on Saturday, October 21st, at the home of the bride's parents, "Wynnewood Farm", Salisbury, Md. The house was attractively decorated with Autumn leaves and potted plants. The wedding march was played by Miss Virginia L. Truitt of Norfolk, Va., and Miss Catherine Price, also of Norfolk, sang several selections. The ceremony was performed under an arch, by Dr. Joseph T. Herson. The bride wore a dress and hat of brown satin, and her flowers were a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Dorothy L. White, formerly of Salisbury. Miss White wore a dress of champagne colored georgette with brown trimmings, and carried lavender chrysanthemums. The flower girl was Miss Pattie Alston Bounds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll C. Bounds, of Norfolk, Va. She wore a frock of orange colored crepe de chine and carried sun burst roses. Mr. John R. Parker of Norfolk, acted as best man. Only members of the immediate families and a few friends were present. An informal reception followed the marriage.

The bride and groom left for New York and other northern points. They will make their home in Norfolk, Va. The out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Carroll C. Bounds and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Truitt and Miss Virginia Truitt.

Mr. John Parker and Miss Catherine Price all of Norfolk.

Preston Wise Burbage, also of Salisbury by Dr. Joseph T. Herson.

Miss Mary Layfield, sister of the bride, and Mr. George Conner, were the only witnesses to the ceremony. The bride up to the time of her marriage was associated with the Salisbury Motor Company while Mr. Burbage is engaged in the jewelry business in Cambridge.

After returning from their honeymoon which they are spending in Northern cities, the couple will make their home in Cambridge.

We're satisfied with skin-deep beauty, and we're not particular about it being thick skin at that.

APPLES LIKE FLAPPERS IS NEW ANALOGY

Grower Says It Is Easy To Identify Different Kinds—Ben Davis Is Pretty And Painted, Ben Sky On Quality—Gravenstein Best In Ten-derness And Flavor.

"And like living coals the apples," says Longfellow, "burned among the withering leaves." But he didn't think of mentioning whether these apples were Northern Spies, Baldwins, Delicousses, Ben Davises or what. A red apple is a red apple to a city person. It's only a countryman as a rule that blazes into an apple with the keen look of a connoisseur and calls it by its pet name.

However, there are many city folks who would like to acquire enough rudimentary pomology to distinguish one breed of apple from another and for their guidance a few plain directions from an expert apple grower are set down here. He said: "Apples have certain identifying marks that help those who know them to avoid disappointment. The Jonathan, for instance, is one of the best and one of the most common varieties in season during the fall, and is especially well adapted for eating and cooking. It is a pale yellow apple of medium size, nearly covered with brilliant red stripes. The flesh is white, juicy and fine grained.

"The Grimes Golden is another fall apple that has a season extending about to January. It is commonly used as an eating apple because of its especially fine flavor and other desirable qualities. It is a medium-sized golden yellow apple and should not be held much later than the holidays because if held too long it is likely to develop the apple scald, a storage trouble.

"A very high quality apple is the Delicious, a good keeper. It is large dark red in color, flesh fine grained and melting. The Delicious is among the fruit stand man's best sellers. It comes, however, somewhat higher than the average housewife cares to go in buying in quantity.

"McIntosh Red is a bright red apple grown extensively in the North, where headiness is required. The flesh is white, tender and juicy. This is a widely popular variety and it well deserves the praise it receives. It looks well and tastes well.

"From the standpoint of quality the most important apple to be found on the market is the Ben Davis. It is of good size and very attractive in appearance, being so heavily striped with red well grown specimens as to make it nearly a solid red color on the sunny side.

"One should not be deceived however, by this beautiful apple. It is notoriously lacking in eating qualities although it has some merit for cooking purposes.

"The Northern Spy is one of the apple varieties grown in the North. It is large and possesses a crisp texture and spicy flavor. For baking, as sauce and for pies it has no superior and few equals, but like the Jonathan and the Grimes and some other choice varieties, it is valuable primarily for dessert purposes. It is highly colored, being heavily striped with red, and on the exposed side it develops into a nearly a solid color.

"Many connoisseurs maintain that the Spy is the finest eating apple produced in the United States, but I put the Gravenstein at the head of the list in flavor and juicy tenderness. In saying this, I am well aware that the champions of the McIntosh, Delicious, Albemarle Pippin and Wealthy will rush forward with claims for their respective favorites.

"Another old standby is the Baldwin. It is the most important commercial winter variety grown in the Northern section of the country. It is a solid red apple and is one of the best long-keeping general purpose varieties. One will never go wrong in buying Baldwin in quantity for winter use.

"So is Rhode Island Greening an old favorite. It is greenish yellow in color and runs fairly large. It is commonly classed as a cooking apple, but it is also a good eating apple. The Albemarle Pippin is a highly prized winter dessert apple of yellowish green color. It also possesses good cooking qualities, but no better than some others not so expensive. The Winesap and the Stayman Winesap are important varieties grown in various parts of the country. The Banana or Winter Banana is in season in the late fall and winter.

"An apple more frequently boxed than barreled and grown largely in the Northwest is the Arkansas Black. It is often seen on fruit stands, but one who eats this apple uncooked probably will be disappointed. There are many other varieties of apples, but most of them have a more local distribution than those I have mentioned.—New York Sun.

GOOD SADDLE HORSES FOUND IN ALL BREDS

Endurance Tests Show That No One Class Is Entitled To Special Recognition

The three main qualities of the ideal American saddle or cavalry horse were largely determined as a result of the fourth annual endurance race, which was held recently on roads radiating out from Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, declared Wayne Dinwiddie, secretary of the Horse Association of America, who with the judges and official observers, followed the contestants.

Mr. Dinwiddie, in an interview summarizing the important results of the race, stated that the contest was a history-making affair, and that it proved that no one breed can claim that it alone is entitled to recognition as picking saddle or cavalry horses, for all of the breeds entered demonstrated that they can produce horses which can go out and carry the load and finish the distance in the allotted time.

Three salient points stood out during the race, said Mr. Dinwiddie. First, that the important quality in a good cavalry horse is straight action and soundness. Straight going horses are those whose feet and legs move directly forward parallel to a line drawn through the center of the horse in the direction of travel.

Second, that a powerful heart and lungs are always of the utmost importance, together with a gameness or disposition to go which will keep a horse traveling down the road as long as his physical powers permit. Horses that lack this courage or gameness become lazy as soon as they grow tired and will not keep going at a sufficiently rapid pace to permit of their finishing within a reasonable time.

Third, good feeding qualities are essential if a horse is to stand up under such hard work.

The first prize animal in the test was Vendetta, owned by Capt. J. Watson Webb, of Sherburne, Vt., the second, a Morgan, the third, a great American saddle-bred horse, the fourth, a cross between a thoroughbred stallion and a standardbred mare; the fifth, a thoroughbred, and the sixth, an Irish hunter, predominantly of the thoroughbred blood.

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.—Advt.

Very Modest

"What a modest little girl, your daughter Rebecca is—she always walks along looking on the ground." "Yes; you see her sister found a purse on the pavement the other day."

Leave it to Lewis

YOU've got something the matter with your pedals if you fail to rise to Ted Lewis and His Band playing Irving Berlin's "Homesick"! Why—it's like a breath of perfume from Grandmother's old-fashioned garden—a garden brimful of old and familiar melodies! Yes, they're all here—"Home, Sweet Home," "My Old Kentucky Home," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," and "Listen to the Mocking Bird"—with Ted's own private whistle out-mocking the original bird!

Listen to Ted's say-so about "To-morrow," his number on the other side. "I'm going to play you a fox-trot, 'To-morrow,' I'll play 'To-morrow' to-day and hope you'll remember it to-morrow." We say, if you play "To-morrow" to-day, you will also play "To-morrow" to-morrow, too. It's a whizz! Both these splashes on Columbia 10-inch Record A-3709, selling for 75c.

But these are just samples picked from the new Columbia program that's out-to-day. They're all equally good. And they're all made by the new three-plate, laminated process—an exclusive Columbia feature, which gives Columbia Records a playing surface of velvet-smoothness that does away with discomforting surface sounds.

Cut out the list and take it to your Columbia Dealer and have him play any or all numbers. Then you'll realize the superiority of Columbia's New Process Records.

YOUNG BRIDAL COUPLE GIVEN DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. William Green Are Welcomed Back To Salisbury By Friends At Hotel Ross

The Hotel Ross was the scene of a joyful occasion last Wednesday evening. Mr. William Green, of Wildwood, N. J., journeyed to his former home last Saturday and on Monday evening was united in marriage to Miss Irene Kelly, Mr. Green, who is a trusted employee of L. F. Morgan of this city and who has been boarding at the Ross Hotel for some months was extended together with his bride a true Southern welcome.

Dinner was announced at 6.15, the table was decorated for the occasion and contained an elaborate menu. Dinner being served some mysterious looking packages appeared on the table. They were presents for the young married couple donated by the genial proprietor, his wife and boarders, at the Hotel. A few words were spoken by one of the boarders in presenting them followed by a response from the groom.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Ross, the place of hostess was charmingly filled by a niece, Mrs. Mary Slocum, of Cristobal, Canal Zone, who is visiting in this city. Mr. Green will reside permanently in Salisbury.

Motion For New Trial In Damage Case Denied

Verdict In Case Of Mrs. John W. Davis Vs. American Oil Co. To Stand.

On Saturday last in the Supreme Court for Baltimore City, Judge Henry Duffy, motion for a new trial by the defendant, in the case of Mrs. John Davis of this city against the American Oil Company was denied.

Mrs. Davis was formerly awarded damages against the corporation to the amount of $20,000 in the suit which grew out of the death of her husband who was killed on the Ocean City Road by being thrown from a truck which was struck by another truck belonging to the defendant company. Attorney Curtis W. Long, of this city, represented the plaintiff at Saturday's hearing.

His Ability in Newspaper Work Recognized

Calvert Lewis Estill, who for the past two years has successfully managed The Wicomico News, has resigned his position with this weekly and accepted an offer to associate himself with the Perry-Jones Papers. Mr. Estill has gone to Charleston, S. C., where he is to be the Managing Editor of The Charleston American, the leading daily of that city with a circulation of about 20,000. Mr. Estill's work in Salisbury has merited attention and the responsible position which has been delegated him by an official of the American Press Association is not only a tribute to his ability as a newspaper man but is a distinct recognition of the high standard of Eastern Shore journalism.

ILLITERACY IS SLOWLY BUT SURELY GOING

Well Enforced Compulsory School Attendance Laws A Large Contributing Factor Especially In The Urban Districts Is The Claim Backed Up By Figures.

Illiteracy is slowly disappearing in the United States. The census of 1910 indicated there were 5,618,163 illiterates in the United States above 10 years of age; the figures for 1920 show a total of 4,931,905 illiterates in the United States above 10 years of age. The following table shows how this illiteracy is divided:

	1910	1920
Per cent of total population illiterate above 10 years of age.....	7.7	6.4
Per cent of native whites of native parentage.....	3.7	2.1
Per cent of native whites of foreign or mixed parentage.....	1.1	0.5
Per cent of foreign-born Whites.....	12.7	13.1
Per cent of Negroes.....	30.4	22.9

The above census figures are based upon inquiry merely. Persons who can write their names or a few words of ten consider themselves literate. Many authorities have long thought that a test of ability to use the language in a practical way would reveal a much larger number of illiterates in this country. The late Secretary Lane estimated that perhaps 20 per cent of the citizenship were illiterate. A practical test administered to a million and a half soldiers in the war revealed to the amazement of many, that 25 per cent of them could make no practical use of written English. All thoughtful persons seem agreed that this appalling situation is a menace to the Nation's highest interests. The total urban population is now slightly in excess of the rural, but the number of illiterates in rural exceeds those in urban communities by one million.

Compulsory school attendance laws well enforced in urban districts, evidently have been a beneficial influence in reducing the number of illiterates 10 to 15 years of age to 0.5 per cent.

In rural districts the percentage is 3.8, almost eight times the number found in urban districts. There are four illiterates aged 10 to 20 in our rural districts to one in our urban districts; and of voting age, 21 years and over, the number of illiterates in rural districts is twice the number in city or urban districts. Of those whose parents are "native" there are more than four illiterates in rural communities to one in urban communities.

Now is the time to fight illiteracy by every available means. The fight can be waged in two directions. First by a more rigid enforcement of our compulsory school attendance laws. Less than three-fourths of our children of school age are actually attending school. The laws should be made stringent in some instances, and all laws now on the statute books should have rigid enforcement. This will cut off the crop of illiterates as they grow up. The second direction of effort in all communities should be toward the eradication of adult illiterates, who have passed beyond school age. Many organizations are cooperating in this work. Wilson, a writer, estimated illiteracy in one of the most remote counties of the mountains of Kentucky by getting the adults to go to night schools. This has since been done in many places. Materials are now available whereby adults can teach themselves. The time is ripe for all patriotic citizens to stimulate adult illiterates in every possible way to learn to read and write.

Family Burying Grounds Characterized The Early Settlements On The Shore

Most Imposing Plot Near Wye Mills In Talbot County—Strange Stories Told Of These Grave-Yards—Dead Woman Regains Life When Ghouls Open Coffin.

One of the marked features of every farm in the early settlements of the Eastern Shore was a family burying ground. These places were not hidden away in some remote corner of the field, but usually within the full view of the front door as if to be put where the living could keep vigil over the dead. Sometimes it was located in the garden and the well beaten path leading to it gave evidence that the dead were not forgotten. Often in the days of the early settlers there were no slabs or tombs to mark the place, but that little mound as unlike all other things of earth, would often be covered with ivy, violets, forget-me-nots, roses, geraniums and other flowers.

Some claim that the reason for having family graveyards close to the dwelling house was a desire to have the graves of their loved ones near, while others claim that in the early settlements it was necessary to have the graves near to protect them from the Indians or from being unearthed by wild animals. Whatever may be the reason, such was the selection of a site for a burial ground, not only in this section but nearly every farm and plantation having its graveyard throughout the South. In New England and the Middle States, this was not the custom as the early settlers lived close together, the farms were small and the community had one burying place.

On the Shore however the custom is not now in favor, owing to the almost constant changes in the ownership of farms and these changes mean neglect of these sacred plots on the farms; for very few new owners, not connected by kindred ties with the dead care little if anything to keep the grounds in good condition. But it should be remembered that death is sacred and human ashes sanctify the earth if anything does. We must not omit the grave yards about the churches and in most of the deeds given for the location of a country church due allowance was made for a cemetery and in the early settlements provision was also made for a school building.

Perhaps the most imposing and the most remarkable family burying ground on the Shore, if not in the United States, is near Wye Mills, Talbot county. This graveyard is in an old but beautiful Eastern Shore garden, located near the rear of the ancient home now known as the Wye House. The cemetery is filled with the beautiful box-wood, trees and flowers, arbors and many paths and walks that are really picturesque in appearance. It is said by those who know that this graveyard is very much more imposing than the English cemeteries and it is enclosed by a high brick wall, large, and in a good state of preservation.

The fine tombs erected indicate wealth, and their designs indicate a loving remembrance for the dead and those who were buried there more than two hundred years ago. Seven of these remarkable tombs bear the name of Edward Lloyd, noting the fact that seven generations of that name are buried there. Counting the Lloyds now living, descendants of that same family, near this spot, we find seven generations of one name. A very remarkable family record. The Lloyds are among the most prominent families of the Shore. Men of the U. S. Navy and of the U. S. Army are buried there. Side by side, connected in life by the ties of kindred, rest those who wore the blue and those who wore the gray.

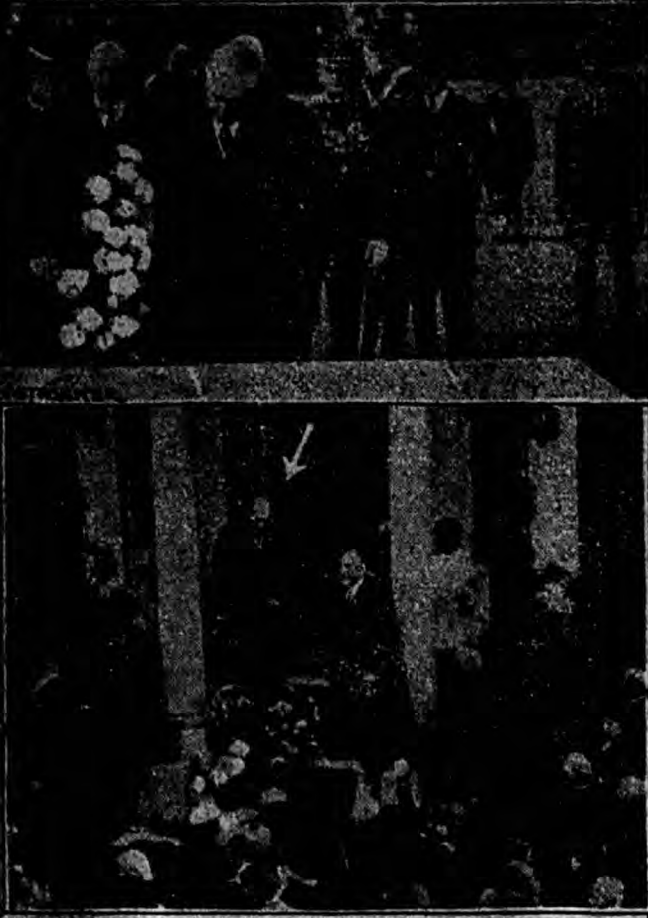

There are tombs on the Shore marking the graves of men and women who have been dead 227 years. These old family graveyards are dotted here and there over the entire Eastern Shore, but few of them are in a state of preservation and well kept. Most of them are crumbling into decay, tombs and monuments effaced by the fingers of time, broken down, moss covered and many of the dates and inscriptions obliterated by the raging elements of many years.

Strange and weird stories have been told, and are now often repeated, of noises heard and sights seen at and near old graveyards and many strange ideas of the methods of burial have been carried out by the requests of the deceased made while living. Some have made their own coffins and got ready other preparations. A man living in one of the Eastern Shore counties was very fond of his whiskey and besides chewing and smoking tobacco. He requested that his coffin should be long and open at each end and that a jug of best spirits should be placed at one end and smoking and chewing tobacco at the other and that both ends of the coffin should be left open. He was buried just as requested. His grave was marked by two holly trees which are still standing, one at the head and one at the foot.

A story is told of the wife of the rector of White Marsh Church, who died and was laid to rest and as it was the custom then to bury the body without removing the jewelry, a very costly family ring, by her request, was left on her finger. Two strangers who attended the funeral observed this valuable ring and decided to make an effort to obtain it.

The church and graveyard were a mile from the rectory, an old brick mansion on a farm. That night after the burial the two vandals went to the old church yard to get the ring. They opened the grave, removed the coffin, broke it open and attempted to remove the ring from the woman's finger. It would not come off, and a knife was used to cut the finger at the joint, and this was the means, together with the fresh air let into the coffin, that revived the woman, who, not being dead, suddenly began to speak and sat up in

AMERICAN RELIEF FOR RUSSIA NEEDED BADLY

With No Fuel and Ragged Clothing Millions Will Be Faced With Death This Winter

Unless the American Relief Administration and Allied organizations which feed millions of Russian adults and children last winter are to see their work undone and a large percentage of those saved from famine die of exposure, clothing must be furnished at once. Colonel William N. Haskell, chief of the Russian unit of the A. R. A., has reported to Herbert Hoover, head of the organization. With fuel almost unobtainable, and clothing consisting of rags which beggar description, states Colonel Haskell, literally millions will be faced with death in a new form.

Even the children in orphanages and other institutions, who are fed by the A. R. A., are menaced. In nearly all of these places, declare the reports, the children have but one garment—often made of flour sacks, and lack of shoes, stockings, underclothing or outer clothes. In the children's homes they have recently been supplied with blankets for their beds but cannot go out doors because of the lack of shoes. Those children who live with their parents, say the reports, will be unable to go to the child-feeding kitchens to get the food which the A. R. A., and allied organizations provide.

Colonel Haskell's cablegram to Mr. Hoover stated that one million children are in extreme need of shoes, sweaters, stockings and bloomers and urges that this minimum figure be increased as much as possible.

Not only is there almost no clothing for sale, but the prices are so far out of reach that it would take a year's work to earn the cost of an overcoat,—if one were able to go without eating or spending wages for anything else.

As a result of the report, the American Relief Administration has initiated a plan for the sending of clothing packages into Russia in the same manner as food packages have been handled for some months. Like the food remittance system, individuals and organizations in America may send clothing packages to designated individuals or groups in Russia, the A. R. A. handling the packages and securing receipts from the consignees or refunding the price of the package to the sender. Each package will cost $20 and will include materials which cost actually more than that sum in some of the great New York or San Francisco department stores. The package to be delivered to the Secretary for each $20 clothing remittance will contain approximately the following clothing materials: 4 1/2 yards of all wool cloth in dark colors, sufficient to make one suit of clothes for either man or woman, or for two children's outer garments; 4 yards of lining; 16 yards of muslin sufficient for two men's shirts or two women's shirt waists and buttons and threads sufficient to make this material up.

The A. R. A. has arranged with the Soviet government to provide warehouse facilities and transportation from the port of entry as well as to make concessions in the matter of duties.

In the case of food remittances which to date total more than $9,000,000 in value, with but $30,000 returned to the applicants, because it was impossible to find the persons designated, several thousand banks, business organizations and individuals in the states agreed to receive the remittance and forward them to the American Relief Administration headquarters, 42 Broadway, New York City, have been asked to perform a similar service in connection with clothing remittances. They are:

WHEN WINTER COMES

Are You Preparing To Pay Rent To Yourself?

One-fifth of sixty-five billion dollars—the total yearly earnings of the United States—is spent to provide dwellings for ourselves. The tendency—and it's bad—is to pay more and more of this to others, to pay RENT.

What is your feeling? Wouldn't you rather spend one-fifth of your income on YOUR OWN HOME? You can not only have the things the way you want them, you are not only making the best kind of an INVESTMENT, but, above all, you have a home of YOUR OWN. In the Winter that home means the most to your family.

WHEAT IN MARYLAND IN PAST SEASON

Crop Will Total 25,000,000 Bushels An Increase Of About 3,000,000 Over Last Year—Double Amount Of Sweet Potatoes Are Produced Over Previous Harvest.

Maryland's corn crop for 1921 will total 25,000,000 bushels, according to a statement issued recently by John St. Dennis, federal crop statistician at Baltimore, for the United States Department of Agriculture, co-operating with the Extension Service of the University of Maryland. Last year's crop was 22,155,000 bushels, while the average for the five previous years was 25,010,000. Average yield per acre is estimated this year at 40 bushels. Delaware's corn crop is estimated at 5,210,000 bushels against 6,545,000 bushels last year and 6,742,000, the average for the five previous years. Yields in Delaware averaged 30 bushels per acre—4 bushels below the 10-year average yield. Estimates of production include all corn that was gathered with the grain for the deer, acropes hogged or grazed, and that which was put into silos. In both States about 9 per cent of the crop was hulled, 7 per cent ensilage, 2 per cent cut for forage and 1 per cent hogged or grazed. Reserves of old corn on farms on November 1st, computed on the total 1921 estimate, are 755,000 bushels (3 per cent) in Maryland and 196,000 bushels (3 per cent) in Delaware. 82 per cent of Maryland's corn this year is reported as merchantable, and 80 per cent of Delaware's crop.

Black wheat production is estimated for Maryland this year at 162,000 bushels against 171,000 last year, and 222,000 for the five-year period 1916-1920. Delaware 137,000 bushels this year year against 98,000 last and 94,800 the average for the five previous years. Quality good to very good in both States.

Irish potatoes yielded 98 bushels per acre on the average in Maryland, suggesting a crop of 4,998,000 bushels last year, 3,185,000 while the average for the five previous years was 4,307,000 bushels. Delaware averaged 95 bushels per acre; and on basis of the estimated average a crop of 960,000 bushels is forecast for that State against 500,000 in 1921, and 1,030,000 the average for the five previous years. About 90 per cent of the Maryland crop is reported grown for market, and 64 per cent of the Delaware crop.

A crop of 1,500,000 bushels of sweet potatoes is reported for Maryland this year, comparable with 900,000 last year, and 1,256,000 bushels, the average for the five previous years. Yields averaged 150 bushels to the acre. In Delaware yields averaged 171 bushels to the acre this year, forecasting a crop of 1,700,000 bushels against 900,000 in 1921 and 887,000, the average for the five previous years. Quality of the sweets in both States 94 per cent. About 75 per cent of the Maryland crop is for market and about 87 per cent of the Delaware crop.

Maryland tobacco averaged high yields this year—290 pounds per acre, suggesting a total production of 27,550,000 pounds on the estimated acreage. Last year's production was only 18,550,000, while the average for the five previous years is 23,795,000 lbs. Clover seed yielded in Maryland on the average 1.8 bushels per acre, and in Delaware 2.5 bushels. The average harvested in Maryland is estimated at 120 percent of the usual acreage harvested; while Delaware estimates 95 per cent.

Field peas: Percent of normal yield of grain per acre this year in Maryland 87. In Delaware 85. Percent of normal yield of forage per acre this year in Maryland 93. Delaware 97.

Apples: Maryland produced 60 per cent of a full crop, or 1,800,000 bushels, against 225,000 last year and 2,301,000 bushels, the average for the five previous years. Commercial production estimated at 300,000 barrels. Quality 78 per cent of a high medium grade. Delaware produced 98 per cent of a full crop, or 980,000 bushels, against 69,000 bushels last year, while the average for the five previous years is 597,000. Delaware's commercial crop is estimated this year at 213,000 barrels. And quality is reported at 80 per cent.

Peas: Maryland had 257,000 bushels this year, against 35,000 last year and 440,000 bushels, the average of the five previous years. Quality 83 per cent. Delaware's crop amounted to 108,000 bushels, against 9,000 last year, and 207,000 bushels, average of the five previous years. Quality 78 per cent.

Grapes: Maryland's crop was 1,000,000 pounds—about a full crop; quality 78 per cent. Delaware about 500,000 pounds, against 1,678,000 pounds in 1921. Quality 93 per cent.

Fall plowing: Few spring crops fall plowing done this fall is behind that usually done in the fall. According to our farmer correspondents only 53 per cent of the average was accomplished in Maryland down to November 1st; and about 50 per cent in Delaware.

Helpful Office Hints

By HOWARD L. EVANS

How To Use "Shall" and "Will"
Shall and will are called verbal auxiliaries because they are used with regular verbs as helping verbs. There are three factors which have a certain influence on the choice of the auxiliary to be used: 1. Whether or not future action is implied. 2. Whether or not it is desired to express determination, command, promise. 3. The person.

Before going farther, it will be well to remember that the three persons in grammar are as follows: First person, the speaker—i. e., I or we; second person, the person spoken to—i. e., you (singular and plural); third person, the person spoken of—i. e., he, she, it or they.

Grammarians, as well as foreigners learning our language, often say that the English language is the most inconsistent of all languages, and this is nowhere more apparent than in the case of shall or will.

For instance, we say shall in the first person (the speaker), singular and plural, when we desire to state that something is going to happen, a simple statement as to a future event. For example, we say, "I shall leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow."

Assuming that there may be some objection to such a course, and wishing to express our determination to carry out this intention, we say, "I (or we) will leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow."

As further supporting the claims of grammarians, we find another apparent inconsistency in the use of these auxiliaries with the second and third persons. The rule here is exactly the reverse of the rule in their use with the first person. We say shall in the second and third persons (the person spoken to and spoken of, respectively) singular and plural, when we want to express determination, promise and command on our part—and we use will in making a simple statement as to a future happening. For example, if we desire to express a determination, or command, on our part that certain others (persons spoken to or spoken of) are going to leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow, we say, "You shall leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow."

If we wish merely to announce or foretell that the persons spoken to or spoken of are going to leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow, we say, "You will leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow."

Occasionally, also, we use will with all persons, singular and plural, to express something that happens frequently or is habitual on the person's part. Future action, or determination, has nothing to do with such a case. So we say, "They will leave the office at 4 o'clock every afternoon, and yet you say they are working overtime."

These statements relate merely to matters of habit or custom and pertain to the present time.

with the first person, singular and plural, "Shall I leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow?" There is but one exception to this rule—where the speaker repeats "Will" as a question that has been asked him, thus: "Will I leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow? Certainly I will." Under other circumstances the speaker would not be apt to ask himself a question like the above because his own mind tells him what his determination is in regard to any matter. Of course, in other questions like the first one quoted in this paragraph, the speaker is asking about a future happening, asking for orders implying that the decision or determination rests with the other person, as it does. The answer expected would be, "You shall," etc., or "You shall not," etc.—in either case a command on the part of the other person.

In question with the second and third persons, singular and plural, we use shall and will, according to the answer that we expect from our question. Thus: "Shall you leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow?" Here the answer we expect is "I shall" or "I shall not"—in either case shall being anticipated in the answer—it relating to a future action merely. Further, we say, "Will you leave the office at 4 o'clock tomorrow?" (Answer expected: "They will" or "They will not"—future action). In other words, the auxiliary used in the question is the same as is required in the answer to the question, depending, of course, upon whether it is a matter of volition (determination, willingness, promise, etc.) or a simple matter of future happening.

As has been well said, a person who has not been trained to observe the proper distinction between will and shall can never be sure of using them correctly; but he will make few mistakes if he fixes firmly in his mind that "I (or we) shall" imply volition or determination—command or promise.

WINDOW DEMONSTRATORS FASCINATE PASSERS-BY

Fine Art Exemplified By Pantomime Artists In Convincing Public Of Bargains

If you think that all the pantomime artists are on the stage or posing before motion picture cameras, stop the next time you see a crowd gathered in front of a store window. The probability is that you will find a demonstrator at work trying to convince the populace that it will be to their interest to step inside and buy the article whose merits he is boasting.

Perhaps he is demonstrating a patent collar button. Watch him as he shows how difficult it is to put on a collar with the old-fashioned button. He pulls and tugs and yanks until he is red in the face and beads of perspiration are on his brow, but still the perverse buttonhole will not slip over the obstinate button.

The man stops to rest. You see him mutter an inaudible prayer or something, then he goes at it again. His struggles are pitiful to see. You think he will choke to death before he ever makes it. But he is determined, oh—very determined. He perseveres until at last with one superhuman effort he forces the button through.

But look at that collar. It is so rumpled that he cannot possibly wear it. He will have to put on a fresh one and go through all that agony again. You do not like to see a fellow human being suffer, but you are unable to tear yourself away. You are fascinated. Perhaps, after all, it will be easier next time.

You are right. It is easier. He takes the offending collar button out and demonstrates it continuously on the floor. Then he picks up a new button and holds it aloft for all to see. It is quite different from the old one, constructed as you plainly see, on scientific principles.

The demonstrator slips it into the buttonhole of the shirt. He picks up a collar. One, two, three and it is on before you can say Jack Robinson, or even a short one like Jack Spratt.

A stuffy cold?

ASSERTS WOMEN LACK TRAINING FOR POLITICS

Wife of U. S. Senator Declares They Are Not Fitted For A Politician's Office

"Women are not fitted for positions in the higher bodies of government, and it will take generations to fit them for these offices."

When I heard it I gasped, for it was a woman speaking, a suffragist, a party chairman, a senator's daughter, a Senator's wife—Mrs. Modell McCormick, in fact, the wife of the Senator from Illinois, says Marianne Graham, in Woman's Weekly.

There was no question of the sincerity of her utterance and the cold reasoning back of it. It was the conclusion of a brilliant analysis of the political status of women, present and future.

"I have been actively interested in politics since my father ran the McKinley campaign in 1896," said Mrs. McCormick, who was Ruth Hannan, daughter of Mark Hannan, ex-chairman of the Republican National Committee and Senator from Ohio. "I was then 17 years old, and from that time on I have studied politics and have had perhaps even a greater opportunity to view the inside of politics."

I had called seeking an interview at Mrs. McCormick's Chicago office from which she transmits her business as chairman of the Cook County Republican Women's Committee. No woman in America has had more experience than she in the practical workings of national politics and government.

"What women are interested in now is the discussion of national issues, not what she will do when she gets the vote, not what she can contribute that has been discussed and now that she has the vote there is no need for further discussion," Mrs. McCormick said.

"The one big thing that we must combat is the stress that is laid on sex. When we bring forth the question of the effect of women upon government we antagonize the sex instinct in all human beings."

"The effect of women upon government is obvious, instead of discussing politics from the sex point of view it would be of greater advantage to all women to forget that they are women and be influenced by any thought of sex when voting, but to vote as a member of a political party."

"Women of today do not understand what a party is and what the various parties stand for. They cannot discuss politics because they are not versed in the fundamentals of politics."

"Woman has not been a politician and is therefore not fitted to hold a politician's position."

"Were I elected to a public office, if my baby took ill of course I would not assume the duties of my office. I would stay with my baby. Such is the case with all women, and it is ridiculous for them to say they are free."

PREACHER ASSAILS THE "SOFTNESS" OF CLERGY

Rev. D. H. E. Kirk, Of Baltimore, Says Fear Of Hurting Hearers Is Weakness

That the weakness of the American churches lies in the softness with which preachers in this country talk to their congregations and their seeming avoidance of anything that might hurt the feelings of church members was the opinion expressed recently by Rev. Dr. H. E. Kirk, pastor of the Franklin Street Presbyterian Church, after his return from a four-months tour of France, England and Scotland.

Dr. Kirk declared that before the war it was noticeable in this country that preachers dealt with their congregations as the latter wished. The members went to church as to a gay affair and the pastors elected soft words that had no sting, he said. He further said that he noticed the same condition in the churches of England and Scotland.

The remedy for that he pointed out, is for the preachers to speak the commandments and word of God without compromise, no matter how much these commandments and words may sting the listener. He appealed for a serious consideration of religion, and deplored the "happy-go-lucky" manner in which so many people go to church and act in everyday affairs.

It is necessary that the course should be followed, he said, if the good we can do will be done.

THE KINDERGARTEN AS AN AMERICANIZATION AGENCY

The kindergarten is the connecting link between the home and the school, it partakes of the nature of both. The kindergarten is the right beginning of school for all children, whether they come from the homes of English-speaking parents or whether their parents speak a foreign language. The child's relationship to the kindergarten teacher, who is wise and loving like a good mother, but who is more impersonal in her attitude, brings him into sympathy with the institutional life of the school. When a child is forced to go directly from the natural atmosphere of the home to the repressive atmosphere of the formal schoolroom, too often he begins his school life with a sense of discouragement that may affect his whole later development.

But the transition from home to school should be made in a more natural way for all little children, how much more is it true of the little children who can not speak a word of English. When the shy foreign child enters the first grade he steps over the threshold of a strange place and encounters strange children who speak a strange language, and who are being initiated into strange schoolroom practices by a lady who is a stranger. This beginning in the process of being Americanized is a trying experience. The simplicity and naturalness of the kindergarten activities, the use of toys and games that are common to children of all nationalities, makes the foreign child feel at home.

The kindergarten teacher visits his own mother in his own home and in

WOMEN TAKE OFFICE AND SAVE TOWNSHIP

Small Railway Headquarters With Administration Virtually Bankrupt Is Made Prosperous

While Des Lacs, N. D., has been greatly exploited as the first town to elect a woman administration, in reality Umatilla, Ore., holds this record.

In 1915, this town, a railway division headquarters with a population of 400, was virtually bankrupt. Among its debts was $3,000 in outstanding water warrants, $1,500 for fire apparatus and the interest on $20,000 borrowed for the installation of a water plant. The city charter was absent to revert to the State.

In this crisis the administration, headed by Mayor Starcher, conceived the idea of turning its job over to women. Their wives had been good managers in their homes. Why not pioneers in the community and thrifty in town affairs?

Each office holder wrote his wife's name on the ticket and elected her. From Mayor Laura Starcher down a complete woman's administration was elected. Everybody in town except the newly elected officials accepted the situation as a joke. The town was bankrupt anyhow, why worry about what the women did in office?

The women looking over the situation, realized that they had a man's sized job to handle, but they were undismayed and determined. First they decided that there were too many men and two many guests in the city jail.

When the jail burned down the "administration" collected the insurance and hired a room in the hotel, where convivial citizens were locked up until they were sober enough to pay their bills. If they were out-of-town men, all the better. The fines went into the treasury.

Bit by bit, fines and thrift began to liquidate the town's debts. The women were charged with being stingy, but when the next election came around the group of women headed by Mrs. Stella Paul, was elected. Eventually, the city's indebtedness was wiped out, $2,000 was in the treasury, a new Main street was surveyed and everything was in readiness to improve it.

Then the men decided the women had vindicated their faith in them, and proceeded to elect an all-man administration.

The women, Oh, they said they had had enough of town management and were glad to go back to their church and club work, their homes and their teas!—New York Herald.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When you are baking bread and doing other work, set your alarm at the time the bread is ready to come out of the oven. There will then be no danger of your bread getting too brown or burning.

In freezing weather wash clothes-line and pins with strong salt and water to prevent the clothes from freezing to the line.

To remove gum from wool fabrics rub with a hot cloth saturated with kerosene and it will crumble away without either injuring the color or the texture of the article.

If the drain pipe of the sink is stopped with grease, try pouring down kerosene before sending for the plumber.

To preserve the rope in window-cords, rub them twice a year with a well-oiled cloth. This not only increases the life of your cords, but allows the window to slip up and down more easily.

If vaseline is heated a little and rubbed on doors, chairs, beds or hinges that squeak, they will at once become noiseless.

If you are storing away silver for some time, pack it in dry flour and it will not become tarnished.

When painting floors that have the old-fashioned wide boards, draw a line through the center of each board with a lead pencil before putting on the varnish and you'll have a floor which looks just like the narrow boards.

When you find a small hole in your aluminum pan, hammer the outside of the pan directly under the hole. It will immediately close and make the pan ready for use again.

To clean brass faucets or any brassware, dampen a soft cloth with olive oil and rub over the surface. This not only cleans but polishes.

To remove paint from any fabric no matter how long it has stood, take equal parts of turpentine and ammonia.

Heiress True to Boy Sweetheart

And after everything was said and done it happened just as it always does in the story book, and Dellora is going to marry Lester in the spring and be happy ever after.

When Mrs. John G. Gates died she left the enormous Gates fortune of $38,000,000 to Dellora Angell, who was just a sweet little girl in St. Charles, Ill. Dellora's father, R. F. Angell, was made administrator.

While Dellora was in school at St. Charles she had a sweetheart whose name was Lester Norris. Money or no money, Lester was wild about her, but Papa Angell said Dellora must have her chance. So he took her away and she saw many wonderful people, and several times it was said she had become engaged to some notable or other.

But Lester knew the girl behind the gold and Dellora knew and when she had met everybody and learned a lot about men she was certain she was right in the first place and there never could be anybody but Lester whose father is the village undertaker. Now Dellora is 20 and her engagement to Lester is announced. Photo shows Miss Dellora and her fiancé, Lester Norris, 21, budding artist.

Mrs. Linton Tells How Helpful Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is at This Period

Denver, Colorado.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for seven years and I cannot tell you the good it has done me. It is good for young and old and I always keep a bottle of it in the house, for I am at that time of life when it calls for Lydia E. Pinkham's help. My husband saw your ad. in the papers and said 'You have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound! So I let him get it, and I soon felt better and he told me 'I want you to take about six bottles.' So I did and I keep house and do all my own work and work out by the day and feel fine now. I tell every one about the Vegetable Compound, for so many of my friends thought I would not get well."—Mrs. R. J. Larson, 1860 West 33rd Avenue, Denver, Colorado.

After reading letters like the above, and we are constantly publishing them, why should any woman hesitate to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound if she is in need of help? It brings relief where other medicines fail.

REEDVILLE

The marriage of Miss Esther Foster, of Reedville, to Mr. Joseph H. Ellis, of Washington, took place at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Reedville, Wednesday afternoon, November 15th, of great interest throughout this and other sections of Virginia. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and other handsome plants, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Upshur, rector of St. Mary's and father of the bride; assisted by Rev. Mr. Ellis, of Annapolis, father of the groom. The wedding march was played by Miss Jennie Smith, of "Sunshine", the bride, in brown silk, carrying pink roses and maiden hair fern, was her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses of the valley, with brides' roses and lily of the valley, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William Brooking, of Washington, the bridegroom's best man. The ushers were Mr. Donald Neff, of Gloucester, Mr. Kenneth McNeal, of Fairport, Mr. W. A. Edwards, and Mr. E. Warren Edwards, both of Reedville. Just after the wedding a reception was given at the home of Mr. Brooking, where chicken salad, olives, pickles, coffee, rolls, ice cream, cake, mince and nuts were served. Out of town guests included Rev. and Mrs. Ellis, from Annapolis, Mr. Bear, of Washington, Mrs. Bowley, of Baltimore, Miss Elleanor Brooking, of West Virginia, Mr. Neff, of Gloucester. Many beautiful presents were received. The prayer book from which they were married was the one the bride's mother used when she was married. The first signature for Mrs. Robert Upshur Brooking was Mr. Ellis, father of the groom. Wednesday's marriage and one of her ushers. The guests at the marriage all signed in the same book, the ushers, Mr. Douglas Neff, signing first. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Ellis, Jr., will make their future home in Washington, D. C. The entire wedding party left Reedville on the Chesapeake and Potomac River Ferry on Wednesday night, amid a shower of rice, rain and good wishes for a safe and happy voyage through life.

Mrs. R. W. Brooking is leaving Reedville on Wednesday, C. E. to spend the week with her daughter, Mrs. Sampson.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Davis and Mrs. L. B. Rawlings, of this place, spent the past week-end at Urbanna, the former at the home of Mr. C. S. Burton, the latter with Mrs. Alice Jones, at Newick.

Miss Genevieve Smith, of Heathsville, spent some time here last week with her sister, Mrs. R. L. Haynie.

Mr. and Mrs. Moss, Mr. Thrift, Mrs. Unruh and Miss Mary Courtney, of Kinsale, Sunday School workers, were at Bethany last Sunday for the morning service. They all had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Luther Rice.

We wish to thank most heartily those in authority at the fish factories on Cockrell's Creek, for co-operating so willingly and with such telling effect, on November 11th in a last minute attempt to remove a dangerous public that it was Armistice Day. They were not asked to lead a vote until almost 1 o'clock, but promptly at 11, Arlington time by the wireless at Davis Packing Co., their siren song was heard. Not so alluring, nor yet so enticing, but so far-reaching that after about fifteen minutes everyone who had ears to hear, for miles and miles around knew that something had happened sometime, somewhere. The mellowing chime of Church and school bells were also detected. Right many laughable things were noted, as rather crude and unexpected observance of what in years to come will be a great National Day. Since 1912 when the combined and confused blowing of whistles on the creek here, announcing the burning of the splendid Morris-Fisher factory at Point Pleasant, any repetition of that sound seems to denote fire. Shortly after the whistles began on Saturday, a quickly-flowing stream of boys and other town-folk, moved down our street in search of suspected flames. Busy housewives forsook their kitchens for front porches and sidewalks. Over around Tibbitha observation towers were hastily established upon roof-trees, upper porches and all available high points, while anxious eyes surveyed the landscape over for signs of conflagration. "Uncle Jarvis" was calmly picking along the road to Sunnyside when the sound smote his unsuspecting ear. Back he came, post haste, but moments seemed hours and rods seemed weary miles, ere he reached the outskirts of town and was informed at Crowder's store that all immediate danger was past. At the Peoples Bank, the doors were closed and curtains drawn for five minutes. On the inside a busy officer of the law was imprisoned by the sturdy bolt. "Let me out!" he cried, "business demands it," while wide-opened cloak displayed his official badge. "Nothing doing," was the response. "We are observing Armistice." And the law observed it too. Lastly, a Reedville ex-service man in a laudable attempt to help the good work along, boarded his little roadster, rushed thru town up to Roseland and back, with throat open, and driven on. He was made followed by a car load of friends upon rescue bent—Armistice does not mean so much to us how and here, as it meant to the thousands and tens of thousands of boys on the battle-fields of Europe in 1918. Let us not forget them, "They who were faithful unto death."

Mrs. J. C. Fisher, of "The Cobles", is visiting relatives and friends at Atlantic City, for several weeks, going via Baltimore, Wednesday. Mrs. Fisher recently been made a life member of the Kentomere Association and is much interested in preserving the old home in Frederickburg, of Mrs.

Bettie Washington Lewis, sister of George Washington.

Mrs. M. E. Haynie, of Fairport, spent last week at Fleeton with her mother, Mr. E. P. Waller and family.

Miss Dillie Inley, of Reed and Rice has recently acquired a trim little Ford motorcar, which she finds very convenient and useful in covering the distance from her home at Fleeton, to this place each day.

Little Albert Blundon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis, of Reedville, celebrated his fifth birthday on Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. A large number of his little girl and boy friends were present and a number of mothers also. The little folks were delightfully entertained, especially when the real "party" part began to appear in the dining room. The birthday cake with its five little candles, the pink and white decorations and the chrysanthemum centerpiece all made an attractive showing which was enjoyed and admired by the small party-goers. Cakes, ice cream, salted nuts and mince were served. The little guests presented their best with little gifts of love and friendship and took home with them a few fancy whistles.

Mr. L. E. Megill and daughter, Mary, have come home from Wildwood, N. J., where they went to attend the funeral of Mr. Megill's sister. They also stopped in Philadelphia and Baltimore for awhile.

Mrs. Charles Lofland has been substituting in the Central office the past week, in the absence of the regular operator.

Mr. Perciful, of Perciful & Russell Mercantile Co., near here, attended the meeting of railroad and business men at Crisfield last Tuesday. We are all glad to hear that the steamer line would be continued for another year.

Just as the factories were on the eve of "cutting out" last week the steamers began coming in from around Hatteras and other Southern points, with fine jags of fish. Some had 500,000 on board.

INCREASED CROP VALUES FOR 1922 BRING REAL THANKSGIVING SPIRIT

Though Full Prosperity Has Not Yet Been Regained, Farmers Of Country Can Well Rejoice Over Betterment Of Their Conditions And Business In General.

With an increase of $1,500,000,000 in crop values this year compared with last, the farmers of the country can now have a real Thanksgiving, for though they have not yet fully regained prosperity this increased increase adds enormously to the betterment of their conditions and to all business interests. The country at large can also well rejoice with the farmers, for the increase in the value of agricultural products means increased activity in every line of industry. Nowhere is this better illustrated than in the increased activity and buying in the Southern States. This section, with a gain in the value of its cotton crop this year of nearly half a billion dollars based on November 1st prices and about the same increase in the value of its other crops, is the first to emerge from the depression deflation.

The estimated value of twenty principal crops this year, based on November 1st production and prices, will run above $5,000,000,000, compared with $3,500,000,000, the value of similar crops in 1921, an increase of $1,500,000,000 or over 43 per cent. The advance in price since November 1st will make it at least $1,500,000,000. The tendency is still upward.

The estimated value of twenty principal crops listed in the accompanying table is over $230,000,000 more than the estimated value of all crops last year. The encouraging increase in crop prices indicates that the country is once more getting back on a sounder financial basis, as the wrecking process of forced deflation had about ruined the business interests of the country, with the farmers standing the brunt of the blow. As the deflation campaign decreased and credit became more normal, prices of farm products rose and farmers saw millions added to their income.

The total grain production of the country this year is estimated at 5,358,450,000 bushels, valued at $3,411,556,000. This is an increase in production over 1921 of 39,000,000 bushels, and in value of $778,000,000.

How Not To Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Advt.

"NIGHT MAIL" DREAM NOW NEARLY REALITY

Kipling's Once Amazing Story Of Air Service Almost Accomplished In United States

Year's ago Rudyard Kipling wrote an amazing story about the trip of an aerial mail packet rising out of the dark of London in early evening and straightening out for the flight across the Atlantic.

The transatlantic mail packet is still in the future, but today aerial mail is a commonplace matter in Europe, and across the United States between New York and San Francisco.

Letters that now require five days by train from Los Angeles or San Francisco to New York and Philadelphia may be carried in little more than 24 hours.

Our postal air service has been making some remarkable records. For 10 weeks it has been 100 per cent efficient. For 15 months it has been without a fatal flying accident in its more than 2,000,000 miles of flying. Good weather or bad weather, its six-day-a-week schedules have been maintained almost to the tick of the clock.

The air mail service has been crippled by Congressional indifference. Some of the air mail routes were forced into discontinuance. The transcontinental service has been maintained, however, and it has shown results and efficiency equal to or better than any other and similar service in the world.

The air mail service has demonstrated its right to go to Congress and get adequate appropriations. The country needs it and its scope should be gradually extended. At the present time it is the stepchild of the mail service. The planes come from the War Department.

It is time to give the air mail service the help that it merits on its record. There will be no better way to stimulate aviation and the science of aeronautics in America than this, for it will be of very great benefit to the nation in time of peace and will build up a great body of trained fliers to be drawn upon for the air service in time of war.

THANKSGIVING CHEER COMES WITH RISE IN PRICE OF SWEET POTATOES

32 Cars From Main Street Station Shipped Out During The Past Week.

FIRST KILN-DRIED TO MOVE FROM COUNTY

Prices Have Risen From 13 To 55 Cents Per Hamper—Only About 1/4 Of Crop Has Been Shipped Thus Far In Estimate—Many Did Not Dig Their Crop At All.

Especially cheering to the farmers of Wicomico County, gratifying to the business interests and pleasing to the people in general, because of the long delay in getting the sweet potato crop to market, the price of sweet potatoes has risen greatly in recent months and is now being paid for this particular crop.

During last week 32 carloads of "sweets" were shipped out from West Main Street station according to figures furnished a reporter of The News by the agent at that point. It has been conservatively estimated that 90 per cent of the potatoes shipped go from West Main Street as many of the large storage houses are located in territory contiguous thereto. Basing estimates on those figures around 35 carloads were shipped out. Prices on the outgoing potatoes last week ranged from 45 to 55 cents per hamper f.o.b. Salisbury, while several weeks ago none of these kiln-dried ones were being shipped at all due to poor markets. Indeed prices have remained so low that those who had potatoes on hand were in a quandary as to what course to pursue, the storage houses were full and with winter approaching things commenced to take a gloomy aspect. Many were even fed to stock, being considered really worthless. The low level reached this fall was the almost unbelievable price of around 13 cents per hamper.

One reason advanced for the conditions was the Virginia crop which was unusually large and to some extent glutted the Northern markets there being at some points on the Eastern Shore of Virginia on the tracks in one day as many as 700 cars. This crop is now clearing.

Another reason is that this year consumers are buying from "hand to mouth," that is, only enough for their immediate needs. There are no places for storage and there is also said to be a dearth of ready money.

"People in the North," says County Agent Cobb, "buy more by the pound the sweet potato. They do not realize its value as a food." In this respect he asserts it is his belief that an advertising campaign setting forth the true value of the sweet potato would help. "The sweet potato is a higher caloric value as a food than has the Irish or white potato," says the County Agent and figures from authentic sources support his contention.

Prices this fall are lower than for years and carloads have retained the take the vegetables in some instances at any price. The acreage has been large—about 4,000 in round numbers—and naturally the rise in price is gratifying. It is estimated that only about 1/4 of this year's crop has been shipped. Last year there was a surplus of 40,000 bushels. Because of low prices many have not dug their crop this year.

FRUIT GROWERS ELECT ALLEN TO HEAD SOCIETY

Horticulturists Of Peninsula At Dover Elect Officers On Closing Day.

At the last day's of the Peninsula Horticultural Society which covers the State of Delaware, the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Virginia, held in Dover, Delaware, last week, W. Lee Allen, of this city was honored by being chosen president of the organization and a member of the Executive Committee, while the gathering chose W. F. Allen as the vice-president for Wicomico County. Both are very prominent in horticultural circles in this state being officers of the W. F. Allen Company here and need no introduction to many of the readers of this paper.

A talk of the different varieties of strawberry plants, their producing and selling qualities, by W. F. Allen, of Salisbury was one of the features of the closing day's session. Dr. T. C. Johnson, of the Virginia Truck Experiment Station gave a practical talk illustrated with charts on fertilizer for truck crops, including kale, cabbage, white and sweet potatoes.

A. M. Snyder of Dover spoke of co-operative canning of tomatoes, giving his experience of three years' practical operation of a co-operative plant in Dover. M. E. Culver of Laurel, the so-called "sweet potato king," gave a detailed account of the raising, cultivating, digging, storing and shipping of sweet potatoes.

Mr. Stein, representing I. B. Sinclair, superintendent of the Delaware Railroad, spoke on what the railroad does for the farmer, giving in detail just what the railroad company is doing in many ways to aid the producer in getting his produce to market.

The following officers were elected: President, W. Lee Allen, Salisbury; first vice-president, C. Walton Smith, Bridgeville, Del.; secretary and treasurer, Wesley Webb, Dover, Del.; executive committee, W. Lee Allen, Salisbury, Md.; A. F. Walker, Woodside, Del.; H. H. Harrison, Berlin, Md.; Dr. H. B. McDowell, Middletown; W. B. Harris, Worton, Md.; C. Walter Smith, Bridgeville, Del.; vice-presidents, Delaware, New Castle county, J. T. Shallcross, Middletown; Kent county, Frank W. Richardson, Wyoming; Sussex county, H. C. Baker, Bridgeville; Maryland, Cecil county, Levi Z. Balderston, Colons; B. Murill, Galena; Queen Anne, Irving Walker; Caroline county, Col. A. W. Sisk, Preston; Talbot county, J. G. Cover, Cordova; Dorchester, J. F. Hirst, Cambridge; Worcester, Fred Dukes, Girdle; Wicomico, W. F. Allen, Salisbury; Somerset, T. W. Twining, Princess Anne; Virginia, Accomac, A. J. McMath, Onley; Northampton—W. J. Elzey, Exmore.

PRETTY WEDDING TAKES PLACE AT ROCKAWALKIN

Miss Elsie Marie Hughes Becomes The Bride Of Delaware Mon On Saturday Last

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Capt. C. V. Hughes, Rockawalkin, early last Saturday morning when their daughter, Miss Elsie Marie, became the bride of Mr. James S. Hughes, of Laurel, Del. The ceremony being performed by the Rev. J. M. S. Van Blunk, of Quantico.

Mr. Charles J. Hughes, of Baltimore, brother of the groom, acted as best man and Miss Margaret Pussey rendered a solo. "Oh, Promise Me," Mrs. Ralph, is a graduate of Wicomico High School of this city and also of the State Normal School, Baltimore, while Mr. Ralph is a prominent farmer residing near Laurel, Del.

The couple left on the early morning train for a several weeks trip to Atlantic City and New York, after which they will be at home near Laurel.

FIRE AT PERDUE HOME

An alarm of fire about nine o'clock Saturday morning carried the department to the home of D. W. Perdue, North Division Street. The blaze proved to be a chimney one and was quickly extinguished.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO SEE MOOSE MINSTRELS

Tickets For Both Afternoon And Evening Performances To Go On Sale December 8th.

In carrying out the spirit of the very foundation upon which was founded the Loyal Order of Moose—that of administering to the children of the country—and having in mind the happy children and the school that trains for life, the management of the minstrel show has planned a matinee at 3:30 o'clock on the afternoon of December 11th for the school children of Salisbury at a low price of admission and will arrange to have schools dismissed in time for the start of the performance.

Plans for the show are coming along nicely and Director Pilchard and the members of the caste are working night and day rehearsing and completing the details. The program consists of 40 human "minstrel" pieces which are expected to produce a stupendous success, spouting first part which will embrace new jokes, new songs and new dances.

A feature always, therefore, needing no introduction, is the Moose Quartet and soloists which will prove highly entertaining. A bangup "Olio" including the "Song Shop" an original Dale Wimbrow production rendered by Mr. Wimbrow and his company and a Finale Extraordinary, "A Womanless Wedding," a scream from start to finish, make up the rest of the show.

Tickets for every seat in the house will go on sale at the Arcade box office on Friday, December 8th, at 10 A. M. A full detailed program will be published in this paper next issue.

CITY OFFICIALS SEEK TO REGULATE DANCES

Ordinance Is Being Drawn Up That Will Require Permits To Be Secured For Such Events.

City officials are planning to regulate the dances that will be held during the coming winter months. The question of closer supervision over this class of amusement was discussed at length on last Monday night by the Mayor and members of the City Council and it was decided to draw up an ordinance requiring parties desiring to stage these affairs to first secure permits from the city officials.

Accordingly an ordinance covering all phases of the dance is being planned by City Solicitor and it will be presented to the City Council on next Monday night for its first reading. It is understood that the municipal authorities are not at all satisfied with the manner in which certain dances in the past have been conducted and that they are determined to raise the standards.

Although a permit will be required to hold dances, it is not expected that parties desiring to put on such amusements will meet with any difficulty in securing permits unless they have sponsored events in the past that met with criticism. But a regulation of dances is conceded by all reputable citizens to be well-nigh a necessity and in extending their supervision to such a degree, the city officials seem to be well supported.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY

Officer S. O. Furniss was called to the home of Mrs. Rose Hearn in South Salisbury about eight o'clock on Friday night to quell a disturbance and arrested Alton Nelson, of Delmar, for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. The prisoner was arraigned on Tuesday morning before Police Justice Jones and fined $10 and costs.

Salisbury Shriners Will Be Host Of All Children In City At Big Xmas Celebration

Event Will Be Held At "Y" On Saturday Afternoon Preceding Christmas Day And A Bag Of Candy Will Be Presented To Each Child—"Y" Officials Will Again Erect Two Mammoth Christmas Trees With "Wonderful" Garden. Something Going On Each Night During Week—Crippled And Sick Children To Be Remembered.

Another of those rare "treats" so thoroughly enjoyed by the "kiddies" of Salisbury last Christmas is in store for the youngsters of this city again this year. The announcement comes from no other personage than Secretary R. W. Hamerslough of the "Y" and he is acting under orders of the Shriners of Salisbury who have instructed him to give to every child in Salisbury—both white and colored—between the ages of 6 and 12 years one of those "sweet times" which the Shriners so generously know how to give.

A treat for 1200 children is being planned and in due time each child between the above mentioned ages will receive a ticket through their school which will entitle him or her to take part in the big Christmas celebration one of those coveted bags of candy.

The big event for the white children will take place in the auditorium of the "Y" on Saturday afternoon, December 23rd from 4 to 5:30 o'clock. The auditorium last year appeared to be the last word in holiday decorating but the secretary assured a representative of The News this week that last year's affair would be a "side show" as compared with what he and Physical Director Boggs plan for the kiddies this year.

Two immense Christmas trees with their burden of beautiful ornaments, dazzling tinsel and brilliant electric bulbs will stand as immediate reminders of the holiday season as one enters the door and the garden with its myriads of toys is again to be arranged.

The decorations at the "Y" last year formed a spectacle long to be remembered alike by grown up and child and people from all parts of the county came here to view it. Assurance has been received by Secretary Hamerslough by radio from Santa Claus' broadcasting station to the effect that he will be here in person for the Saturday afternoon affair to pass out the bags of candy and greet the children. Not only will Santa visit the Y.M.C.A. Building but he will make in Salisbury gladly call at any home where there is an invalid or sick child and carry them their treat so that their handicap may not prevent them joining in the festivities of the season. The management is especially desirous that the names of any unfortunate be transmitted to them.

On Saturday night a Christmas eve community tree celebration will take place with special features to be arranged later and on Sunday afternoon—Christmas eve—a musical festival will be held and all singers in the city will be asked to participate. This event will again be under the supervision of Miss Mildred Matthews, who so efficiently conducted it last Christmas.

COUNTRY CLUB PLANS FINALLY CONSUMMATED

Jack Gunby Heads List Of Officers And Directors Named Monday Night.

SITE COMMITTEE WILL SELECT THE LOCATION

More Than 100 Charter Members Already Secured For Organization Known As Wicomico Country Club. Golf Course And Tennis Courts Planned With Club House.

Visions of a Country Club for Salisbury seemed clear and distinct to members of this city's sporting and social set last Monday night when an enthusiastic meeting of the new charter members of the proposed club was held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce with about thirty men who had sponsored the movement present.

Officers and directors were elected. They are: President, Jack Gunby; Vice-President, C. O. Culver; Recording Secretary, M. W. Bounds; Treasurer, Henry W. Ruark. These officers were authorized to apply for articles of incorporation. The Board of Directors will comprise this group and the following five men: E. Riall White, E. E. Tull, E. Dale Adkins, D. A. Hamman, and W. H. Jackson. Three of this board will be named for three years, three for two years and three for one year.

The name of the organization is to be The Wicomico Country Club and already about 107 charter members have been accepted. The initial financing of the project is to be done by a group of 12 business men in the city who have subscribed $16,000 for the purchasing of the property which will be held by mortgage. The dues of the club-members will be used to defray the expenses of erecting an adequate but not elaborate club-house and the making of a golf course and tennis courts.

A committee will shortly be appointed to thoroughly inspect all suggested sites and to make a selection of one that is deemed most desirable. It is possible that a river-front property will be seriously considered in view of the fact that water sports might be added to the list of other activities. There is to be no time lost in arranging the final details and it is hoped to have the club-house and golf course ready by early summer.

Rotarian L. W. Gunby Addresses Local Club

"Employer And Employee", Subject Of Discourse Under Program Arranged By Committee

The Business Methods Committee, E. Dale Adkins, chairman, had charge of the regular meeting of the Rotary Club last Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A.

L. W. Gunby, head of the firm of L. W. Gunby and Co., was the speaker of the evening and his subject was "Employer And Employee." Mr. Gunby gave a splendid talk which was thoroughly enjoyed by the Rotarians.

Talks of this character with a member of the club doing the speaking will be on the program for several weeks to come.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL ENDED LAST SATURDAY

With Reports Yet Incomplete Indications Are That County Will Surpass Last Year's Efforts.

The following places have been reported since last week's issue as having 100 per cent of their office employees enrolled as members of the Red Cross: White and Leonard, faculty of Mrs. Herold's school, E. D. Grier and Sons Company (office and plant), Dallas and Nock, Salisbury National Bank, Peninsula Grocery, Turner Brothers and Davis Candy Company.

Contributions amounting to $40.64 were secured on Saturday by Girl Scouts to be used entirely for local work and an additional $49.74 was contributed for the local work during the drive.

Available reports from the county districts indicate that most of them will surpass last year's record. Although the drive officially closed on Saturday last, anyone overlooked or still wishing to contribute may do so by getting in touch with Mrs. D. Laird Todd, County Chairman.

Wicomico Chapter, wishes to thank all who in any way contributed to the success of the roll call, especially Miss Helen Ulman and Mr. Lee Insley for the publicity given at their respective theatres; The Wicomico News and the Salisbury Advertiser for the generous space allowed for Red Cross News; Miss Rosella Todd and the Girl Scouts for their work on the streets Saturday; Mr. I. L. Benjamin for the attractive window display; the ministers for their talks in the churches; and all workers who solicited memberships.

VISITING SOCCER TEAMS CLASH AT GORDY PARK

Federalburg Wins Game 1-0 Altogether Somerset Countians Put Up Game Fight To Finish

Federalburg High and Crisfield High soccer teams clashed at Gordy Park on Friday afternoon of last week to determine the winner in the inter-county elimination series on the Eastern Shore being conducted by the Public Athletic League of Maryland. The game was fast and well played. Neither side scored during the first half, the lone tally of the afternoon being registered by Federalburg about ten minutes after the start of the final period when Gilmes made a neat pass to Louie of Maryland who booted the ball between the posts.

Both the Somerset countians and the Caroline boys were backed by large contingents of rooters who accompanied the teams. The lineup and summary:

Crisfield	Position	Federalburg
R. Riggan	Goal	L. B. Taylor
Tyler	L. B.	C. B. Collins
Cullin	R. B.	D. Dean
Ward	L. H. B.	R. H. B. Wheatley
Trader	C. R. F.	L. L. Lissick
Holland	O. F.	Noble
Quinn	C. F.	Messinger
Stierling	L. F.	Bowdle
Ward	C. F.	Glosson
Johnson	O. L. F.	Gilmes
Riggan	I. L. F.	Penalty

Goal kicked by Noble. Penalty missed Federalburg (Bowdle). Time of periods 30 minutes. Referee Ammon (P. A. L.) Baltimore.

HOWARD STREET FIRE

An alarm of fire about 4:20 o'clock Saturday morning from the home of John P. Cull, Howard Street, carried the department quickly to the scene. The fire was of the chimney variety and was immediately distinguished.

DORCHESTER MAN KILLED IN A CONTROVERSY OVER OYSTER BEDS

Government Craft Leaves Shipyard

U. S. S. "Psyche V" Had Undergone Thorough Overhauling At Local Shipyard

The U.S.S. "Psyche V" which for the past two months has been undergoing repairs at the Shipyard of Smith & Williams here, left on Wednesday for Southern waters. The craft, under command of Capt. John Blizard, is operated under the Department of Commerce and is used to carry inspecting officers who ascertain if the smaller boats which navigate the bays and waters are properly licensed, carry proper life rafts, and otherwise are sailing under the government requirements.

W. H. S. BUT A SINGLE GAME FROM LAURELS

Annexing Of Soccer Contest With Federalburg Would Mean Shore Championship.

Flushed with their victories over St. Michaels and Rock Hall Schools last week, the Wicomico High School soccer booters left for Hurlock on Wednesday afternoon to battle with Federalburg warriors the only aggressive siding between the Salisbury lads and the Eastern Shore crown in the tournament being conducted by the Public Athletic League.

A victory over the Caroline boys means not only the honor of having the championship of the Shore but it means a trip to Baltimore for the sons of Salisbury and the opportunity of meeting the victors of the Western Shore tournament at Patterson Park, in a contest about December 15th. The winners of that engagement become state champions of Maryland.

In the two games last week not only was scored against the locals, St. Michaels going down to defeat 2-0 on Wednesday at Hurlock and Rock Hall taking the count 4-0 on Friday at Greensboro. The former game was hotly contested and Wicomico's goals threatened many times but the halfback and center, keeper Fulton Fields were equal to the emergency and frustrated the advances.

There were animated scenes around the telegraph office Friday night as groups of high school boys gathered to watch the results of the result of the Rock Hall game. District Manager Carty of the telephone company came to the rescue, called Greensboro for them and obtained the score. The team arrived home later in the evening and were given a rousing cheer and on every lip were: "We'll get Federalburg next."

Many townspeople accompanied the team to Hurlock on Wednesday and Captain Dallas and Coach Unger sent their strongest lineup into the fray.

SOMERSET-WICOMICO TAX DITCH PROTESTED

Many Land Owners Along Passerdyke Creek Cannot See Sufficient Benefit For Expense Involved.

A large delegation was before the Board of County Commissioners on Tuesday at its regular meeting protesting against the establishing of a Tax Ditch in Trappe District between Wicomico and Somerset Counties up Passerdyke Creek the stream which divides the two territories.

Due to the size of the delegation interested in the proposition both pro and con the meeting was held in the Court Room. Attorney L. Claude Bailey appeared for those opposing the proposition while Williams and Williams represented the Tax Ditch Commissioners appointed some time ago by the Commissioners: Lee Porter, Somerset County and Messrs. Benj. P. Livingston and Robert J. Chatham, Wicomico County.

Attorney Bailey argued that the benefits which would accrue were not commensurate with the expense involved while Mr. Williams contended that from the standpoint of sanitation and reclaimed land it would be a splendid investment.

The County Commissioners held the matter over for deliberation and will report at their meeting next Tuesday week the decision.

"BUNCH OF FUN" COMPANY SCORES TRIUMPH IN PLAY

Artists of the Standard Bearer's and Young Men's Service Class of the Asbury Church scored a merited stage triumph in their play, "Bunch of Fun" at the Arcade Theatre on Monday night. A crowded house thoroughly enjoyed the show for it was a creditable performance. Each member of the cast played his or her part in successful fashion and the movement of the plot was skillfully and smoothly carried out.

Three Prominent Nanticoke Resident Arrested Saturday Charged With Crime.

MEN NOW AT LIBERTY UNDER A $5,000 BOND

Wicomico Men Claim That Grounds In Question Were Privately Owned While Dorchester Tongers Allege That No Land Had Been Taken Up In Deep Creek By Them.

Emerson Pritchett, aged 34, of Blishops Head, Dorchester County, an oysterman, died in the Cambridge Hospital Saturday last. His death having been caused by a bullet wound in the head, the charge alleged to have been fired by Wicomico oystermen while the victim, together with his brother, E. Gordy Pritchett and Ivy Bramble were aboard a canoe tonging for bivalves in Deep Creek, a tributary of the Nanticoke River Thursday morning last about 11 A.M.

Three prominent citizens of Nanticoke Point, this county, were taken into custody last Saturday morning by Sheriff John H. Farlow who was accompanied to Nanticoke by Sheriff Ira V. Wheatley of Dorchester and Detective Harbours of the Baltimore Police Dept. who was called into the case by State Attorney A. Stengel Marine of Dorchester. Those arrested were: Capt. John W. Collier, William Travers and Frank Travers. The two first mentioned men were taken to Cambridge and carried before Magistrate E. P. Vinton, who, upon the advice of Judge John R. Patterson released the prisoners under $5,000 bond. They were charged with "assault with intent to kill." Frank Travers was too ill to make the trip to Cambridge and was allowed to remain at his home.

About three weeks ago, according to the story told by a reporter of The News by Gordy Pritchett, brother of the slain man, several of the Dorchester tongers went over seeking oysters in Deep Creek and were warned by William Travers to keep off as they were his planted oysters and the party withdrew. The same week, Gordy Pritchett stated his father wrote to the Conservation Commission of Maryland asking about the waters in question, and received later a reply from it to the effect that no land had been taken up in Deep Creek and that this bottom they were contending to hold was in Dorchester county.

Last Monday when the Dorchester men again went over to the creek, he alleges that William Travers came aboard his craft and again claimed they were his (Travers) oysters and that he had gotten them from some Turners whose family had owned them for 60 years. Pritchett then says he read him the letter from the Conservation Commission after which Travers remarked about "seeing that you keep off."

Thursday the party came back and resumed tonging operations when about 11 o'clock a fusillade of shots shattered the oyster canoe and the three men, according to the story, fell to the deck. Then a groan of agony was heard in the bow of the boat and Gordy, rushing forward, found his brother with blood streaming from a bullet wound, lying on the deck. He then shouted to the men in the boat to cease firing that his brother had been hit. A few other shots, he said, were fired from ambush about 50 yards away, one striking him on the heel of his foot.

The wounded man was at once carried to shore by his companions and rushed to the Cambridge Hospital where he hovered between life and death with a bullet wound near the right temple which passed through his head and lodged in the left jawbone and which, in its course, passed through a portion of the brain making death practically a matter of a short time. A preliminary hearing will be held in Cambridge on Friday and it is said to be likely that the Dorchester County grand jury will probably be called back to Cambridge December 6th, to consider this case.

YOUNG SALISBURY MAN WEDS WORCESTER GIRL

Wedding Of Mr. Richardson And Miss Cropper Solemnized At Berlin Yesterday—To Reside Here

FACTORY OF 50,000 CIGARS LOCAL FACTORY LACKS HELP

Century & Company Plant On Lake St. Now Employs 200 Girls
And Needs 100 More—Favorable Working Conditions Exist.
Watching Smokes Made Interesting And Instructive.

Among the leading industrial plants of this city must be classed the cigar factory of Century & Company, a factory of the American Cigar Company. And just the average layman in the city is unaware of the extensive operations carried on in this plant in the structure on Lake St.

Between 25,000 and 30,000 cigars are turned out every working day in the week. At a first glance these figures seem impossible for they mean that this company alone could give a smoke to every resident in Wilcom County every day in the week and on Saturday have several cool thousands left over.

But just when the reader is ready to assimilate these facts the following statement from Manager F. C. Kirchner is calculated to again upset his processes of mental analysis. The plant has a capacity of 50,000 cigars a day and could readily turn out the wrapped tobacco leaf in such quantities if—well, here's the rub.

100 more girls are needed at the machines. Already over 200 girls are busy fitting the tobacco leaves in the molds and fashioning the stock into a "nice-looking smoke". The present payroll runs up to a weekly disbursement of about $3,500. Were the working forces increased, Century & Company would be paying out on Saturday afternoon at the office window between $7,500 and $10,000. This would be a payroll equal to if not greater than any other plant in the city.

But help seems scarce and the management is at a loss what to do. The working quarters provided are clean and bright and the environment seems to be good. There is on the second floor a dining room for the female employees where they gather at noon-day and eat their lunches. A first-aid room is kept in an up-to-date and sanitary condition in case of an accident. Everything is provided by the management for the best interests of the girls who work in the place. And favorable hopes are now being entertained that with the winter months coming on, girls who are anxious to earn a weekly pay envelope will try their hands at cigar-making.

Century & Company came to Salisbury in 1919 and the employees at that time numbered about twenty. Gradually the force has been increased and the volume of business done has been commensurate with the increased equipment. On the first floor is the stemming and shipping department. Here the tobacco is first received and mixed, then washed and made ready for the manufacturing department on the second floor. The process of taking a mixture of tobacco cuts, wrapping a leaf about them and molding them into a finished product is interesting and visitors will be courteously shown about the place by Manager Kirchner.

A veritable bank vault is a little store-room on the first floor that contains bales of Smeto tobacco which is used solely for wrappers. One of these bales weighs 200 lbs. and is valued at $1,000. A heavy padlock and bolt guard the ten or twelve priceless bundles carried away in this vault at the present time. Altogether 20,000 lbs. of tobacco is received every month and the grades are chiefly Porto Rico, Havana and Domestic varieties.

On the third floor is the packing department and finished cigars are sorted out by shades, graded and packed in boxes and foil. Pouch packing is the latest method of preparing the cigars for the smoker's use. It is interesting to note that there are seven different colors of tobacco and 21 shades. In this plant only four colors are noticed. The principal brands of cigars made in the Lake St. factory are the F.A.D., CUBAN-OLA and ORIOLE. Every box of cigars is thoroughly examined by an expert before it leaves the factory. In a huge humidor on the third floor are kept over 600,000 cigars for future sales.

One of the most important reasons why the factory is unable to expand as rapidly as desired is the trouble experienced in securing satisfactory housing conditions for the employees. Families complain of the absence of suitable homes and the high rents. Manager Kirchner stated to a News reporter that he has on file the names of about 15 families who want to move here and enter his employ but the lack of housing accommodations keeps them away. It is possible that sometime in the near future a study will be made of these conditions in Salisbury and an effort made to secure remedial measures.

JUST GOT OVER A COLD?

Look out for kidney troubles and backache. Colds overtax the kidneys and often leave them weak. For weak kidneys—well, read what a Salisbury woman says:

Mrs. Gordon Hurley, 414 E. Isabella Street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy I ever used for kidney complaint and I never miss an opportunity to recommend them. My kidneys were weak and if I over-worked or took cold it settled on them, causing such severe backache I could hardly keep going. Mornings, especially, I felt dull and languid and when I stooped or went up or down stairs I had blinding dizzy spells and almost toppled over. The action of my kidneys was irregular and my night was affected. Doan's Kidney Pills from White & Leonard's Drug Store soon rid me of all this trouble. The backache left and I felt fine."

Receipts Will Go Toward Helping Pay For The Community Xmas
Trees Planned

"The Stream of Life," a sacred religious photo-drama, a picture having for its main theme the consolation of faith depicting realistic bits of child life and otherwise educational in its setting has been booked by Secretary Hammerlough for tonight (Thanksgiving evening) at the "Y". The proceeds to be used to help defray the expense of the Community Christmas trees. Two showings of the reel will take place, the first at 7:15 and the other at 8:45 o'clock. This picture is one of the premier features of its kind on the screen today.

BAZAAR NETS BETHESDA N. P. CHURCH $1,000

Proceeds Are Applied On Building Fund Of New Edifice Which Was Used For First Time

The new Bethesda Church edifice on North Division Street was used for the first time on Thursday and Friday when a bazaar and supper was held in the social hall of the basement under the auspices of the members.

The immense room which is fitted up with every convenience for the putting on of affairs of this nature was crowded on both evenings and hundreds of people took advantage of the opportunity of partaking of the delicious food served by the ladies as well as to get in some shopping before the Christmas rush.

Several booths, with artistic arrays of fancy work, dolls, merchandise and other offerings, with their beautiful decorations of red and green were especially alluring. The Bethesda Sunday School Orchestra enlivened the occasion with strains of music during each evening.

The affair was highly gratifying to those having it in charge, about $1,000 being realized toward the fund for paying for the new church.

The Department of Secondary Education of Wilcom County and Somerset Counties, which embraces the high school teachers of these counties, met in the Wilcom County High School building on Friday last.

The main topic discussed at the meeting was "The Rational Marking System," and the speakers were: W. N. Willis, principal of the Delmar High School; Mrs. Rosena C. Jones, Pottsville; Miss Ida Morenc, Salisbury; and E. Clarke Fontaine, District Supervisor of High Schools.

C. Ercell Wimbrow Marries Phila. Girl

Ceremony Taken Place At Home Of Bride's Parents At High Noon
Thanksgiving Day

On Thanksgiving Day at high noon Miss Charlotte B. Figue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Figue, Philadelphia, became the bride of Mr. C. Ercell Wimbrow. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ashton, of Mellican Hill, N. J., at the home of the bride's parents. Only the immediate families of the bride and groom were present. The wedding march was played by Miss Florence Simpson, of Collingswood, N. J. The bride wore a dark blue traveling suit and carried bride's roses. She was attended by her cousin Miss Helen Neck, of this city, as maid of honor, who wore dark blue and carried pink roses. Mr. Donald Bayliffe of this city was the groom's attendant. The bride's bridesmaids and namesake, Miss Charlotte Figue, of Philadelphia, and the groom's niece Miss Vida G. Wimbrow, of Salisbury, were the flower girls. They wore dresses of pink crepe de chene and carried baskets of pink roses. After a wedding breakfast the happy couple left for a honeymoon in the south. The groom holds a very responsible position with Jackson Bros. Company, and upon the return of the couple from their wedding tour they will occupy their new home on E. Church St.

How Not To Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.—Adv.

WINDSOR-JACKSON A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday morning, November 22nd at the Mariela M. P. parsonage by the Rev. A. H. ## SALISBURY IS HOST TO TWO CONVENTIONS

City Was Mecca For Gatherings Of Peninsula Men On Tuesday.

ONE MEETING OF VITAL INTEREST TO FARMERS

Officers Of Federal Farm Loan Association Assemble While Ford Dealers Of Lower Peninsula Discuss Sales Campaign For Next Year—Both Dine At Peninsula Restaurant.

Salisbury further demonstrated her ever-growing popularity as the convention city of the Delmarva Peninsula on Tuesday of this week when representatives of two organizations gathered here for meeting purposes.

An all day meeting of the Salisbury-Treasurers and Presidents of the Federal Farm Loan Associations in this district which includes the Eastern Shore of Maryland and the State of Delaware, was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. The purpose of this meeting was to acquaint the officials in the district with the working plans of the organization so that their respective local associations might be of greater service to the farmers. About 35 members representing 14 local associations were in attendance.

The visiting officers were addressed by C. E. Tittow, Secretary of the Federal Farm Loan Association, District Number 2, and also by President Jones of the same bank and other speakers.

The other delegation here represented the Ford dealers of Worcester, Somerset and Wicomico Counties, Maryland, and Accra and Northampton counties, Virginia. The business session of these representatives was at the Y.M.C.A. Building at 2:30 o'clock, and the whole affair was in charge of the Ford Motor Company, W. J. McLurg, General Sales Agent of the Philadelphia Branch and several other prominent representatives were present and spoke.

The purpose of the meeting was to map out a sales campaign for the year 1923. About 25 dealers were present.

Both organizations had luncheon at the Peninsula Restaurant at noon.

SOUP! ALL KINDS OF SOUP

Always have the soup pot boiling. Never throw out the bone from a steak or a ham, or the head of a fowl, or the end of a beef that is tough or left over chop. Put them into the soup pot and add the water from boiled potatoes, cabbage, boiled onions and from about every vegetable that you use except spinach and beet-tops.

Put the backs of chicken or any kind of game should go into the soup pot. Add plenty of pepper to the pot when you have game in it, and another bay-leaf and a little more onion than usual. Let your pot simmer, but don't boil, as boiling destroys the flavor of your soup foundation.

About once in three days empty the soup pot. To keep it simmering for longer than three days will make it sour. Don't hesitate to put the smallest bit of stuff in it when you start it again. A spoon of gravy will help; a few peas will add their flavor; a small bone will give strength.

To your soup foundation add a handful of rice and thicken with flour and milk; or chop up some watercress or spinach, cook for thirty minutes and slightly thicken with flour and milk; or use rice and the green and the thickening.

In one cup of your stock and four cups of water cook four good-sized potatoes. When they are done, mash them through a colander and return them to the soup pot. Add six peeled and shredded leeks, and cook for fifteen minutes. A lump of butter the size of a walnut and half a cup of milk completes an appetizing and nourishing soup.

A variation of this soup is made by substituting a pinch of garlic for the leeks and serving with crotons.

White navy beans soaked overnight and cooked with a ham-bone or with a quarter of a pound of bacon make a good plain soup. Half an onion, added in thin rings half an hour before the meal, or the onion and a couple of carrots, or a sprinkle of chili pepper, or shredded lamb or pork, add an interest to this soup.

Nourishing barley soup can be made from any "bone" stock. Add two chopped onions, a sprig of parsley one stalk of celery and a carrot. Cook one cup of barley to two cups of liquid.

For tomato soup use the juice and the pulp of a can of tomatoes and stewed. On a foundation of a bone or two, an onion and a bay-leaf, you can make a vegetable soup with one carrot, one celery stalk, a little tomato left from dinner and a sprig of parsley.

Onions, cut and simmered in a stock for half an hour can be thickened with flour and water or milk. Or add to the stocks a small dish or left-over peas, a few fried potatoes, mashed, a little baked macaroni, mashed, and a shredded chop. This makes a very good soup.

Have the butcher cut off a Shank from your roast lamb, simmer it for an hour and then add a pound of dried Lima beans soaked overnight. Cook all day, mashing the beans through a colander when you are almost ready for dinner.

Russian beet soup is made on a foundation of any kind of bones. Add a pinch of garlic and three beets to the liquid. Boil until tender and put through a colander. Serve with toast.

For fish soup, to two cupsfuls from your pot add a quart of water, three green peas, a few slices of onion. Cook with one bay-leaf and one whole clove. Mash the potatoes back into the pot, then add your fish. (A slice of salted, a few slices of dill, a bit of dillseed—anything will do.) Cream-of-Salmon soup can be made by adding half a can of salmon and a cup of milk to the stock. Half a dozen oysters, chopped, put into stock

Scantly-Clad Russians Facing Death in New Form-- Hoover Has Plan to Check Newest Menace

Through the American Relief Administration, the people of America are being offered an opportunity to help offset an aftermath of the famine in Russia which has almost as grave a toll as the famine itself and the epidemics which followed. The newest form of aid is a "Clothing Remittance", clothing being as urgently needed as were American food and medicine to save millions of Russian children and adults.

Following the method used in the now-famous Hoover Food Remittance, anyone in America or Canada may buy a Clothing Remittance for $20 which the American Relief Administration will deliver to any designated beneficiary in Russia. Each such package will contain wool cloth sufficient for one suit of clothes for an adult or for two children, also muslin enough for four suits of undergarments, flannel for two men's shirts, or two women's waists and blouses and with a cup of milk will make a better soup than if you used the ordinary quart of milk and a pint of oysters whole.—Designer.

THE RIGHT WAY TO BREATHE

The fundamental of health—also of beauty is proper breathing. Most people don't bring the remote cells of the lungs into use. Reducing the respirations to ten per minute for five consecutive minutes three times a day will insure full breathing. For instance, as you are walking, instead of breathing as you ordinarily do, make ten complete respirations per minute (ten inhalations and ten exhalations.) In other words, you breathe in for three seconds and out for three seconds making a complete respiration every six seconds, at which rate your respiration will be at the rate of ten per minute. To simplify, make fifty complete respirations last you for five minutes. At the end of five minutes you will find that you will be breathing deeply and filling your lungs to capacity. This is simply an exercise, and three or four times a day will be found sufficient.—Delineator.

DO YOU STAND PROPERLY?

There is probably no more important exercise or training than that of assuming a correct posture over and over again, many times a day, all through life, until it becomes a fixed and constant habit. Correct posture has to do not only with external appearance (which, remember, makes for success in life), but it serves to keep all the organs within the body in their proper position and enables them all to function easily and efficiently. Stand with back against the wall, touching it with heels, legs, shoulders and head, feet together, arms at sides, little fingers touching thighs, palms facing outward. Take a deep breath, lifting the chest high. (This throws back and lifts all of the vital organs into their natural and healthful position.) Holding the body in this position, take two steps forward, bring feet together, throw weight slightly forward on the balls of the feet, and go through the circling movement as follows: Arms fully extended straight at sides, then describe circles with the hands, keeping the arms stiff and the palms upward so that they would hold water. Eight circles starting forward and eight starting backward. Arms at sides again, step back two paces, and by touching the wall, see if you have retained the correct posture. Repeat until the correct posture is learned and small becomes a fixed habit. Be careful not to strut.—Delineator.

THE BRIDE'S THANK YOU

At weddings there are often a few presents which you hardly know how best to acknowledge. Suppose, for instance, all a man's office friends—fellow employees—send something rather nice. How is the bride to say thank you graciously?

A good plan is to select her husband's best friend there and write in his care to all the rest. If there are a very large number, she cannot write to each individually, which she should do if there are a fairly small number. She may, however, say to this one selected something on this order: "Dear Mr. Brown—Won't you convey to all the staff at Hughes's, Harvey's warmest gratitude and my own for the beautiful davenport?" She may on the theme as much as she likes—the letter will probably be passed from hand to hand of Hughes's staff.—November Designer.

TO REMOVE STAINS

To remove perspiration stains, first dampen the spot with water, then sprinkle a thick layer of borax on it. Roll up light for fifteen or twenty minutes. Rinse in cold water and the stain will be gone.

To clean table oilcloth, sprinkle it with common salt and rub lightly with a cloth. All spots and stains will be quickly removed.

When you find fruit stains on the best table-linen, moisten with camphor. If this is done before the stain has been put in water, it will disappear.

A simple and easy way to clean high colored velvet or remove stains from high-colored silks is to apply corn-starch with a small brush and rub until material is as bright as new. Iron-rust spots will disappear if soaked in rice-water—November Designer.

A THANKSGIVING VISION.

Throughout this great land of ours, on Thursday, November 30th, the American people will pause in their progress along the year's calendar of events for a day of Thanksgiving. And because of the bounteous yield which has come from the resources of soil and industry, they will give thanks to the Almighty Father for the blessings He has bestowed upon them. It is the call of the Festival of the Harvest that assembles God's children at family altars and houses of worship on this day for the purpose of expressions of gratitude and appreciation. To the American people, Thanksgiving is an institution worthy of celebration, and the observance of which has become a national custom.

In 1621, our Pilgrim forefathers, after conquering the hardships of winter on strange shores and after reaping the summer's crops of barley and Indian corn, gathered together in the Fall and spent a week in feasting and rendering thanks. Governor Bradford described the first Harvest Festival so:

"Being thus arrived in a good harbor and brought safe to land, they fell upon their knees and blessed ye God of heaven Who had brought them over ye vast and furious ocean. I cannot but stay and make a pause and stand half amazed at this poor people's present condition. Being thus passed ye vast ocean, and a sea of troubles before in their preparation, they had now no friends to welcome them nor inns to entertain or refresh their weatherbeaten bodys, no houses or much less townes to repair to, no seek for succour. And ye season it was winter and they that know ye winters of ye country know them to be sharp and violent. Besides what could they see but a hideous and desolate wilderness, full of wild beasts and wild men? Ought not the children of these fathers . . . therefore praise ye Lord because he is good."

Years later, George Washington, newly hailed as chief of the independent states, issued the first Presidential Thanksgiving proclamation:

"Whereas. It is the duty of all Nations to acknowledge the Providence of Almighty God, to obey his Will, to be grateful for his Benefits, and humbly to implore his Protection and Favour; . . . Now therefore, I do recommend Thursday, the Twenty-Sixth Day of November next, to be devoted by the People of these States, to the Service of that great and glorious Being, who is the beneficent Author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be."

Today, President Harding in his Thanksgiving proclamation calls upon the American people to observe Thursday, November 30th, "as a day of thanksgiving, supplication and devotion," and adds:

"As we survey the experience of the passing 12 months we shall find that our estate presents very much to justify a nationwide and most sincere testimony of gratitude for the bounty which has been bestowed upon us. Though we have lived in the shadow of the hard consequences of great conflict, our country has been at peace and has been able to contribute toward the maintenance and perpetuation of peace in the world. We have seen the race of mankind make gratifying progress on the way to permanent peace, toward order and restored confidence in its highest destiny."

And so we see the birth of a new spirit in conjunction with the observance of this day of Thanksgiving. Out of the words of prayer offered up by that little band of Pilgrims in the early part of the 17th century and elaborated upon by the Makers of American Independence, there has been created a broader message of universal supplication strikingly exemplified in the utterances of our present President whose appeal is international in scope. One that bears to the front again the teachings of the Christ Jesus, "Peace on earth, goodwill towards man." For can we be happy in our festival and celebration of Thanksgiving, when the cries and distracted sufferings of unfortunate ones across the seas and in foreign lands are haunted before us. No! Therefore, today there goes out along with the words of appreciation for blessings received, assurances of America's unselfish purpose to play a helpful and ennobling part in human advancement. May the Day of Thanksgiving, kindled in the hearts of the New England Pilgrims, be the guiding parent of a newborn spirit of peace and gratitude that will soon be found in the breasts of all Christian people.

EDUCATE YOUR CHILDREN!

Under the joint direction of the American Legion, the National Education Association and the United States Bureau of Education, the week of December 8-9, inclusive, will be specially observed over the entire country, as American Education Week. Slogans that will be held up before the eyes of the public during that short period will be: "A sound mind in a sound body" and "Equality in education for all." Perhaps never before in the history of this nation has the educational situation become a question of such paramount importance and of such vital interest. Notwithstanding the fact that nearly every State has injected into its constitution the fundamental principle of the Commonwealth's duty in public education, there is not a State in the Union which has yet complied with these plain provisions and given to the boys and girls an equality of opportunity in education. It is a lamentable truth that children who live in the country districts have not been provided facilities for obtaining an education in any respect equal to that obtainable in all populous centers.

In Wicomico county, appeal after appeal from the School Board for increased equipment and added facilities has either been disapproved or has met with apathetic treatment. As a consequence for the past few years, conditions have been most regrettable. Congested classes, part-time students and other vicissitudes have been existent in local educational realms. The people themselves voted down a bond issue that would have provided adequate facilities for the great number of Wicomico boys and girls seeking further knowledge in educational halls. Education should not be regarded as the privilege of a favored few; it is a necessity for all. The demands of the present day civilization upon the individual have increased tenfold and the training required to fit one for a worthy place in the professions or in industrial or commercial life has mounted correspondingly. Every consideration demands complete education and no barrier should be allowed to stand in the way. And the citizen who does not do all he can to enable the children of today to obtain all the schooling their mental capacity permits them to acquire falls ignobly and inexorably in his highest duty.

President Harding says: "I wish it were possible for us to drive home to the whole American people the conviction of needed concern for our educational necessities. Our hopes for the evolution of a constantly improving system of human organization will find their justification in the widening, the deepening, the universalization of that intelligence, that moral consciousness which furnish inspiration for every human advance."

There can be no denying the statement that the strength and security of the nation rests in the intelligent body of its people. Education should implant conceptions of public duty and should give the individual the capacity to see with clear eye and to contemplate with open, unprejudiced mind the issues of the times. Education Week is calculated to arouse state and local authorities, civic organizations and religious bodies, citizens and parents to a close co-operation and enlistment in promoting a closer understanding between the school and the home.

Among the changes that are being requested are: better elementary schools, supervision of rural teachers, increase in teachers' salaries, more parent-teachers' associations, greater libraries and the development of the rural schools. Along with these movements, goes the plea for intensified and well-supervised recreational activities. Physical development is a potent factor in the training of the mental phase of a child. Healthy playground sports are much to be desired in every school. Here in this county, Superintendent of Education Bennett and his corps of associates and assistants have progressed remarkably well along modern educational lines. But the accusation is justified that they are sorely handicapped in attaining what might be termed a satisfactory state of affairs. Their objective is far enough ahead but the needed reserves are sadly lacking. May the coming week instill into every organization, official and individual in this county the burning desire to co-operate in promoting wise and judicious modes of education, patronized and supported by the different communities. The issue instantly resolves itself into the question, "Shall we save money or shall we save children?" Let the community of Salisbury and those of nearby sections seriously dedicate themselves to the task ahead.

THE COUNTRY CLUB.

Leaders in the movement for a Wicomico Country Club are to be congratulated for their successful promotion recently of a project which heretofore has been repeatedly agitated and yet allowed to fall through because the needed unity and harmony of action and co-operation has been lacking. The institution of a country club into any community has always been found to be a difficult accomplishment for the simple reason that it is considered more of a sporty proposition than a business one and substantial backers have always been found wanting. But the sponsors of the local organization went about their campaign in a vigorous and sensible manner. First, interest in the club was aroused and a certain group of young men in the city invited to become actively engaged in the promulgation of the idea; secondly, the aid and support of older financial heads was sought and acquired which assured the purchase of the property, an important item; lastly, a more or less exclusive list of desired charter members was prepared which when completed constituted a fairly tangible body of enthusiasts to work with in the incorporating of the club. The addition of a Country Club to this community will unquestionably be of material value to the city itself as an advertising agent. To the residents the acquisition of these recreational advantages will prove a source of much pleasure and great comfort. Such a club is distinctly an asset to the social life of the younger set while the benefits to be derived from golfing and other sports are quite numerous. A well-regulated Country Club means physical development and social contentment to both Junior and Senior members of society. Its advantages are recognized by every wide-awake community. May success attend the efforts of the officers and members of the Wicomico Country Club to a full realization of their present plans!

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922.

Here's the housing problem. Nothin' but high rents, high taxes an' cares, but why kick? Let's get back to the ways of our sturdy ancestors and live in the caves. Still, we've got to face all this marital discontent. Everybody gettin' married, gettin' divorced, gettin' married again, gettin' divorced again, an' the whole trouble could be stopped by nobody gettin' married at all. Then we've got the trouble with children—nothin' but care an' sacrifice—well, let the people decide not to have any children. Really, there isn't a confounded thing right with the whole world, so why not stop it? Can't be done? Boy, we're in a fix. Maybe we'd better not waste time grouching. Then we'd have time to fix things up.

Knowing thyself isn't much use unless you can convince others.

Poor boys often become great and great boys often become poor.

BENEFIT TO SHO' SEEN BY INNOVATION

Traffic Dept. Of C. Of C. To Start Operations On First Of January.

SERVICES OF EXPERT ENGAGED LAST WEEK

Among His Duties Will Be The Auditing Of Freight Bills, The Securing Of Equitable Freight Rates And Other Services For Both Members And Non-Members Of Chamber.

Following the decision sometime back to establish a Traffic Department in conjunction with the Salisbury-Wicomico Chamber of Commerce a meeting of the committee having the project in hand was held in the rooms of the Chamber on Wednesday. Present at the meeting was the traffic expert with whom the committee had been negotiating.

The proposition was gone into thoroughly and the gentlemen interviewed, who is probably the best in that line of work south of Philadelphia, came to terms and will assume his new post on January 1, 1923 at which time the department will commence functioning.

One of the first endeavors, probably, which the new officials will undertake, will be the securing for the shippers of the Eastern Shore what are deemed equitable freight rates for both incoming and outgoing commodities. In this respect his activities will not be confined to Salisbury, alone but Easton, Chestertown, Cambridge, Federalsburg, Cambridge, Hurlock, Princess Anne, Pocomoke City, Crisfield, Berlin and other towns will share any benefits which may accrue.

His services will always be at the disposal of not only the members of the Chamber of Commerce but of the general public as well. One of the most important tasks to perform will be the auditing of freight bills. Many thousands of dollars it is said by those who have studied the situation, will probably be saved shippers by this feature of the new service.

Any inquiries as to rates of any character, or as to the most advantageous routing of merchandise either of slow or perishable nature, will be given prompt and efficient attention by the department. Claims against carriers, both rail and water for damages to shipments in transit or for refunds due shippers will be handled also.

The engagement of a man of this type and the establishment of a department of this character are but natural outgrowths of an organization which for the past two years has served the general public of this Peninsula in so many ways and with such marked efficiency.

With the new traffic man working hand in hand with Secretary Freeman, who has been no small factor in the prestige which the local Chamber to-day enjoys, business interests in general should look forward to 1923 with an air of optimism knowing that their interests will be protected in every conceivable manner.

NEGLECT RESPONSIBLE FOR CHOLERA IN HOGS

Such Is Statement Of Dr. I. K. Atherton, Inspector In Charge For State Of Maryland

The wide spread belief that garbage is a suitable feed for hogs and neglect on the part of farmers in infected territory to use the serum treatment as a preventative measure, were responsible for 123 outbreaks of hog cholera in Maryland during the month of October, according to a statement of Dr. I. K. Atherton, inspector in charge of hog cholera control work in Maryland.

The number of cases reported during October is thirty more than for the same period last year. Investigation of the 123 cases, according to Dr. Atherton, discloses the fact that 58 occurred in territory where the disease had not formerly appeared and that 65 occurred in infected localities and were due to the spread of the disease.

The source of the disease could be traced in 33 of the 58 cases which occurred in uninfected localities, says Dr. Atherton, and in 31 instances was found to be due to garbage feeding and in only two cases to the importation of new animals.

Fifty-five of the 65 cases, due to the spread of the disease in infected territory, could have been prevented, says Dr. Atherton, as the owners of the herds had been warned of the presence of hog cholera nearby but refused to use the serum treatment as a preventative until too late.

OLDEST RESIDENT IS NOW PAST 98TH YEAR

Mrs. Hopkins, At Home For Aged, Saturday For First Time Had To Spend Anniversary In Bed

Mrs. Melissa Hopkins, whose 98th birthday took place last Saturday and who is perhaps Salisbury's oldest citizen, for the first time since entering the Home For The Aged, was confined to her bed on account of illness on her birthday. Consequently the celebration was a quiet one. However, a number of the members of the Baptist Church called upon her to wish the estimable old lady a quick return to health and many more happy birthdays.

A birthday cake with candles, fruit candy and other presents were brought. Mrs. Hopkins also received many telegrams, post cards and other tokens of good wishes. Although as stated above confined to her bed, she nevertheless enjoyed the coming of the Baptist folks and other visitors.

She has been a member of Division Street Baptist Church since 1863 and has exerted great influence for good in this community although confined to her room for several years. Mrs. Hopkins was born in Tyaskin District and her husband, while town balld of Salisbury, lighted the town lamps out on the streets of the town. Mrs. Hopkins recalls vividly much of this city's early history and attributes her longevity to a great extent to the fact that she has been very careful in her eating. She is also very active and cheerful and is looking forward with joyful anticipation to celebrating the century anniversary of her birth if she is permitted by Providence to remain here on earth until that time.

LOCAL PERFORMERS IN ARCADE VAUDEVILLE

Supplementing the regular vaudeville acts at the Arcade last week was a home talent amateur sketch on Friday night by Messrs. H. Fulton Brewington, Dewey Morris and Wilson Cordey which evoked much laughter and applause from the audiences.

Mr. Morris as the dark face comedian; Mr. Brewington as the young millionaire and Mr. Cordey as the ghost, played their parts well and skillfully.

ABOUT MONEY.

A young man who recently inherited a mammoth fortune speaking of what his friends called his "good fortune," said:

"It is not all the 'good fortune' it seems to be. With it has come a sense of responsibility that weighs and worries."

Moreover, I no longer hold the place among my former friends that I used to hold and want to retain. They envy me, and envy isolates. I cannot associate in the same old way. If I entertain my friends moderately I learn that I am accused of being miserly. If I entertain them lavishly I know they must feel that I put them beyond the hope of reciprocating courtesies. I find my money is putting my friends to the test quite as much as me. I am anxious to use my money for the good of others, not alone for my good.

"Those who can share that thought with me and help me in that desire are few. My 'good fortune' has built a wall about me."

Money is the insignia of labor. It represents the investment of brawn and brain. He who wastes it wastes. He who squanders it upon his own pleasures and pastimes is forced to feel the waste even though his resources be so inexhaustible that he may never feel the pinch.

Man's worth is measured by his earnest eagerness to help others.

The closest personal advisor of one of the richest men in America recently told us that his friend, whose income was over half a million dollars a day, needed no counsel in the game of getting, but he eagerly sought help in the game of giving. To help men without hurting them was the problem which perplexed him.

"Do I live for myself or for others,—am I altruistic or egoistic,—am I merely my own keeper or am I my brother's keeper?"—these are the problems which money forces you to face; and you face them just as squarely with four hundred a month as four millions a month.

It is good to feed bread to the hungry, but it is better to find out why they are without bread, to help them get their own bread than give them your bread.

The highest philanthropy is more than charity. The curse of the world is poverty. The great war of the twentieth century is going to be the war against poverty.

So long as money represents the product of labor, the getters and givers of money will find their opportunity for happiness only through the privilege of enlarging the markets of labor, rightly regarding labor and giving just returns to them who invest their brawn and brain for the good of their brothers as well as for the good of themselves.

THANKSGIVING.

It seems to me, Thanks-givin' Day is good for people every way.—I wouldn't want to doubt it. I'm certain that our blessed Lord forgives our sins an' keeps His word—we couldn't live without it! I've noticed that the thankful man, who does the very best he can to show the Lord he's grateful—is happier a thousand-fold, than one whose gratitude is cold, an' thrives by bein' hateful. I'd rather bless a crust of bread with benedictions sweetly said, than gloat o'er ingrate's splendor. I'd thank the Hand that allers feeds, an' suits the blessin' to our needs—an' keeps our conscience tender.

If I must dine on rabbit roast, bekase I can't dig up the cost of gobbler, stuffed with dressin'—I'll down any hare-hop with a smile—in firm belief that, after while, we'll reap a richer blessin'. I ain't ashamed to kiss the rod that chastens by the hand of God, yet spares my daily livin' and mebbe that is why I'm here, to celebrate another year—in praises and Thanksgivin'!

CRITICS.

I wonder if the man's alive, that's got a perfect score, in plesin' all the critics that his life is flashed before? It's true our dear Redeemer lived a short, though perfect span. But critics pierced his lovin' heart, as brutal humans can.

This land or our'n has shed its blood, that peoples might be free. We seized our swords an' bayonets, an' said, "It's got to be!" We sent our dashing boys abroad, an' crushed the monster's might, and now, we hear the critics howl, "They never done it right!"

Facts is—a lot of Dervishes, in editorial guise, that spends their time promotin' all the politician's lies. They occupy a velvet seat, an' shake their loaded dice—they'd criticize the angels, if the devil had the price!

WILDA SPORTSMEN SHOULD BE AFFORDED PLenty OF FUN DUE TO REPORTED ABUNDANCE OF SLY REYNARDS IN SEVERAL OF COUNTIES

Game Of This Species Said To Be Plentiful In Dorchester County, Maryland And Sussex County, Delaware—Rabbits Have Been Practically Exterminated.

From upper Dorchester county to the adjacent Sussex County, Delaware, swamps report the rendezvous of foxes. For many years foxes near the Red Banks, on the Northwest Fork river, just above its mouth, have been very numerous and a few years ago their dens were found and they invaded the homes of many foxes, but were driven from two to three thousand acres of land and not a residence near. Last season competitive races between the Eldorado hunters and those from Seaford and near by drove the foxes from their hiding place, which was on the side of a high hill in a very secluded place, where they had numerous dens and where they had reared their young for many years. This is near the Red Banks where a large Indian burying ground was located and in this uninhabited section are still to be seen evidence of many homes of the early white settlers and outlines of large farms and evidence of vast apple orchards on the elevated sections and a few very old people in upper Dorchester recall the names of many people who lived there a century or more ago, but succeeding generations have moved from the river, Nanticoke and North-West Fork, north to a much more fertile section of Dorchester, formerly Somerset county.

It now appears that these foxes have moved from these regions to a vast swamp near the Haynes Creek, above Galetown, and occupy a very secluded section of Sussex county. When hunters began to hunt for rabbits in this section where hundreds had been killed annually for years, they found no rabbits and an investigation revealed the fact that numerous tracks could be seen on the hills and sandy places in the wooded land. Two years ago Alfred Brinsfield caught a red fox in a steel trap near the Red Banks, cut its tail off and turned it loose, with half of its foot cut off in the trap. This fox has been seen several times this fall. First its peculiar footprint was observed, and later the fox without a tail was seen and hunters feel sure this is the same family of foxes which have migrated from the Red Banks.

Two other foxes of special features have recently been seen in this swamp, one with a white tip on its tail and a very large fox. Another has a black spot on its hip, very noticeable. No fox hunting has been done in this section for many years as there has not been any evidence of their living here. Hunters are now preparing to give chase to these swift creatures of the forest and if possible drive them to some other section.

WIFE WORSE THAN LIONS

Life ain't all a jolly whoops for a lion tamer's bride. While the crowd that he amuses Views with scorn, or points with pride.

Now it ain't so much his dyin' Rather sudden that I dread, But a bloomin' hungry lion Is expensive to be fed.

And with fear I'm always fryin' That the lion should expire And to tame a lion lyin'.

Dead's a trick folks don't admire. When the cats are all a leaping And would kill him at a sneeze, I'm a-prayin' while I'm weeping.

That they won't have heart disease. Until he was married Jacques Lalain, the foremost lion tamer in Lyons, France had nothing to worry him. He was one of the most highly paid performers in a one large ring and two small clown's circus. And the duties for which he received 100 francs a week were varied and pleasant.

Each night he would crawl into the den of hay-fed Nubian lions and give them their setting-up exercises while an admiring crowd held its breath. Then he would crawl out of the cage one leap ahead of the affectionate lion and would enter the band wagon, where he would play a second fiddle in the local interpretation of a circus band. After the overture, which is so important a part of a French circus program, he would pass through the crowd, selling tickets for the "after-show."

Then he met Mlle. Helen Patin. And they were married.

The new Mme. Lalain did not take kindly to the circus life. She was constantly worrying about the hazards of Jacques' occupation—the charge that he might catch pneumonia in the draughty band wagon, the possibility that he might break his neck by falling through the seats while selling tickets. But for all that they were happy until she was elected president of the "Lyons Be Kind to Animals" society.

After that she paid closer attention to her husband's methods. Jacques bounded into the lion's cage as usual one evening, a striking picture in his costume of an American cowboy, plus the rubber boots and feathered sombrero so common to the Western plains. As Lalain dropped into the den, Lizette, the largest of the five, leaped at him playfully in an attempt to eat his hand.

M. Lalain ordered Lizette to her corner and Lizette refused. M. Lalain cracked his whip, Lizette snarled. Then Lalain picked up a two-by-four and smashed it on Lizette's head. At that juncture time, Lalain rushed to the edge of the ring.

"Stop that, you big brute!" she called. "You're hurting that lion. Try kindness."

While M. Lalain's attention was distracted, Lizette took off a large portion of his shirt. The four other lions mobilized to show him attention. The five leaped simultaneously and the gasping crowd stood up while M. Lalain swung his two-by-four.

When the dust cleared away it was evident that he had won.

A picture of exhausted patience she took his two-by-four away from him and struck him on the head.

"I told you not to strike those animals!" she told him. M. Lalain did not wait to listen. He dodged back to the lion's cage and slammed the door.

MAKING FLOWERS LAST

When flowers are scarce they can be made to last a long time. As soon as the blossoms begin to droop, cut about an inch from the stems, plunge the stems in very hot water for a moment, then place them in a vase of cold water. In a few hours the flowers will often resume the freshness of newly cut blossoms. This is particularly successful with peonies, chrysanthemums, carnations and some varieties of roses.—Delineator.

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.—Advt.

Unanswerable

It was a court-martial, the prisoner being a rookie who was believed to have committed what was, from a military point of view, a serious offense, although from his angle merely a perfectly natural act.

"Private Smith," began the presiding officer, "you are charged with having been asleep on guard. Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Scuse me air," objected Smith mildly, "but how am I to know—I if I was asleep?"—The Forecaster.

A WIRELESS TYPEWRITER

A new apparatus for use in wireless telegraphy is at present on trial at the postoffice. It is an invention called the teletype, referred to by our New York correspondent the other day as having been adopted by the United States Navy Department for use in airplanes. It may be termed a wireless typewriter or a wireless "tape" machine, for messages are sent out on an ordinary typewriter keyboard without any preliminary "punching" of a paper tape and emerge automatically at their destination on long typewritten slips. Forty-five words a minute can be sent and received.

The principal feature of the invention is the displacement of the dot and dash of the Morse code by ordinary alphabetical signals. By this means "wireless" can be made as nearly as possible secret, for it is impossible for ordinary receiving stations to pick up teletype messages. By an ingenious arrangement of five bars underneath the keyboard the operator has 120 different codes at his disposal, and a similar arrangement at the receiving station the coded messages are automatically decoded as they come in.

Wireless telegraphic printing has already been done in this country, but hitherto the Morse code has been used. The teletype is an American invention but demonstrations of it are being given by the Murry Printing Telegraph Systems, 55 Goswell road, E. C. For broadcasting instructions or information, for example, from a head office to its various branches, or from the Admiralty to the fleet, the teletype seems especially fitted. It is said to be already in use in some of the large American hotels.—London Times

When the dust cleared away it was evident that he had won.

A picture of exhausted patience she took his two-by-four away from him and struck him on the head.

"I told you not to strike those animals!" she told him. M. Lalain did not wait to listen. He dodged back to the lion's cage and slammed the door.

Old Division Street Landmark Disappearing

One of North Division Street's familiar old landmarks is disappearing this week with the tearing down of the old Benjamin H. Parker house which was recently purchased by Thomas Cinn.

On the site, Mr. Cinn will erect an up-to-date three story brick building, the first floor of which will contain two stores while the second and third floors will be fitted up for living quarters.

Forstalled

"Now what shall we name the baby?" asked the professor's wife.

"Why," ejaculated the learned man in astonishment, "this species has been named for centuries. This is a primate mammal—homo sapiens."—The Forecaster.

A Snowdrift of Handkerchiefs

Every member of the family expects a handkerchief. Have a snowdrift of handkerchiefs on the tree—some for the kiddies, who go to school, big fine handkerchiefs for the men-folks and dainty fancy lace things for the ladies.

We have them in boxes of three, four or six at 25c to $2.00.

For the children in boxes of two or three at 25c-50c.

For the Men folks at 10c to $1.00.

Work Baskets for Christmas Gifts

Beautiful basket woven affairs handsomely lined—some fitted with scissors, thread, etc. All are useful, all are pretty, anyone would be enjoyed by the woman in the house.

Priced at $3.50-$6.50.

For Pep—5c everywhere

Little red boxes for 5c everywhere you go—full of luscious little raisins.

75% fruit sugar—1560 calories at energizing nutrient per pound in practically predigested form so it goes to work almost immediately.

Also rich in food-iron—taste good when you're hungry—prevent "clock fatigue"—provides real pep. Try and see.

New County Legion Begins

The national executive committee of the American Legion has authorized the emblem design at national headquarters to procure and offer for sale an official county banner of the legion. The upper half of this new banner will be white and the lower half blue. Otherwise it will be identical with the standard post and department banner. This new type of banner will all a long felt need for official colors that will instantly identify county organizations from that of posts. The price of the new banner will be $40 and $45.

To Appoint District Chairmen

Instructions have been sent to all state commanders of the American Legion to confer with and make selection of district chairmen. The district chairmen will be members of the national executive committee. This follows an announcement by the national commander that the constitution of the national executive committee is receiving his personal attention.

Mr. Owsley has appointed Joe Sparks, of Columbia, South Carolina, as chairman of the district chairmen and he desires Mr. Sparks to have the most complete cooperation of every element in the legion in order that the great work of rehabilitation, with its many associated charities, go forward without delay.

Correspondence with Mr. Sparks should be addressed to national headquarters, Indianapolis, Ind.

Compliments Norfolk Post

E. E. Goodwyn, department commander of Virginia, has written a letter of congratulation and appreciation to Robert E. Tunstall, the commander of Post No. 36, Norfolk, Va., for the showing the post made in statistics at the national convention in New Orleans, an add: "You also have the largest membership of any post in the state." Three events were won by members of the post at New Orleans. They are Charles E. Dwyer, mott, heavyweight boxing; F. H. Spivey, individual track trophy; J. M. Hodges, membership contest. Besides reflecting honor to yourselves, the department commander tells the post commander, "You have been a great credit to the state."

ELECT BASEBALL OFFICERS

The stockholders of the Parkville Baseball Association, at their annual meeting last week, elected for the year 1923 the same board of directors who served for 1922, three being J. M. Chandler, Edward Collins, Howard Watts, H. J. Barnes, and J. T. Howell. J. T. Howell, J. B. Johnson, and E. L. Parks. Also the same officers were re-elected: J. M. Chandler, president; W. K. Dever, secretary; and G. W. Gillespie, treasurer.

J. H. Harkley was again chosen as the board's representative to attend the association at all league meetings.

The report of the treasurer, Geo. W. Gillespie, showed the financial affairs of the Club to be in the condition, finishing the season with a balance in the treasury of $1,000. In addition to this an expenditure of several hundred dollars was also made in improvements at the baseball park.

PRAISES AID OF MOTHER IN LAW

"I Am Feeling Like A New Woman Already," Declares Edna, more women

"I am so grateful for what Tanlac has done for me I just wish I could tell everybody about it," said Mrs. Edna M. Gentile, highly esteemed resident of 447 N. Robinson St., Baltimore, Md.

"I suffered from stomach trouble and a terribly run-down, nervous condition for about a year. I lost my appetite and fell off several pounds. The little food I managed to eat would upset my stomach so bad the pains were almost more than I could stand, and I was so weak I could do no housework. I never got a good night's sleep, just tossed about all night and so nervous that in the morning I was even more tired out than ever. Fearful pains in my back and limbs added to my agonies, and I got so bad off I had to take to my bed for two weeks."

"My mother-in-law finally got me to take Tanlac for it had been so helpful to her. My pain have about all gone now and I have picked up wonderfully. My appetite has come back my nerves are steady, I get plenty of restful sleep and I am feeling like a different person. Tanlac is worth its weight in gold."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists—447.

IN MEMORIAM.

CANTWELL—In sad and loving memory of our dear son and brother, Joseph Clyde Cantwell, who died December 1, 1922.

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled.

Heaven retaineth now our treasure, Earth the lonely candle keeps; And the sunbeam love to linger, Where our darling Clyde sleeps.

When we leave this world of change, When we leave this world of care, We shall find our missing loved one, In our Father's mansion fair.

Parents and Sister.

Roosevelt Policies Menaced Declare Conservation Leaders

Exemption of Muscle Shoals Violates Principles of Federal Act, and Threatens Grave Danger, They Say.

DECLARING that the Roosevelt policies embodied in the Federal Water Power Act are menaced by Henry Ford's proposal to take over the Muscle Shoals, friends of Conservation have formed a special committee for the defense of the law.

The members of this committee include the leaders in the 15 years' struggle to secure the enactment of Federal statutes to protect the public's interest in water power development.

Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, Secretary of the Interior during the Taft administration, is Chairman of the special committee. Other members are Clifford Pinchot, Governor-elect of Pennsylvania; Henry L. Stimson of New York; Lindley M. Garrison of New York and Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, former Secretary of War; David Houston of New York and Edwin T. Meredith of Des Moines, former Secretaries of Agriculture; Governors Joseph M. Dixon of Montana and John M. Parker of Louisiana; Henry C. Graves, head of the Yale Forestry School, until recently Chief of the U. S. Forest Service; Herbert Knox Smith of California, former Congressman, and other prominent conservationists. Philip P. Wells, formerly Chief Law Officer of the United States Forest Service, is the Secretary of the committee.

If the Ford proposal were to be accepted by Congress, says the Committee, every corporation which desires a water power privilege will demand a lease on the Ford terms. The acceptance of these terms, the Committee adds, would be a death blow to the application of the principles of conservation to the use of water power. The Committee says:

"The Water Power Act of 1920 embodies well defined conservation principles and thereby protects the public interest in securing full development without having to pay monopoly profits. It does this by requiring:

1. That every water power lease shall be limited to a maximum of 50 years. (Ford asks for a 100 years' lease.)

2. That the lessee shall pay the government a small rental for the power privilege when he builds his own dam and other works and a larger and fairer rental when he leases works constructed by the government, without having to pay monopoly profits. It does this by requiring:

1. That every water power lease shall be limited to a maximum of 50 years. (Ford asks for a 100 years' lease.)

2. That the lessee shall pay the government a small rental for the power privilege when he builds his own dam and other works and a larger and fairer rental when he leases works constructed by the government, without having to pay monopoly profits. It does this by requiring:

Governor John M. Parker of Louisiana

THE Ford offer, says Clifford Pinchot, is seven parts water power to one part fertilizer, even if the fertilizer part should work out. For the waterpower itself Mr. Ford would pay nothing, and he would be free from all taxes on the property. Other lessees of waterpower rights from the Government not only bear the total cost of building their own dams and powerhouses and pay taxes on them, but they also pay for the waterpower in addition. The Ford offer is like offering a man a per cent on the cost of his factory as rent, and then asking him to throw in a coal mine to supply fuel for the engines for nothing.

The lessee must submit to day. It was framed with great care and embodies, perhaps beyond any other law on the statute books, the conclusions of experts in engineering, economics, legislative drafting, and constitutional law.

Therefore Roosevelt, under whose administration the fight for the law began, went to his grave before it was enacted, but he was for it heart and soul and it should stand as one of his best and most enduring monuments. The effort to get the law was continued under President Taft and achieved success under President Wilson. High minded and practical men of all parties united to pass it. And it was passed in time. For once the public got in on the ground floor.

Other speakers on that occasion will be: Senator Charles E. Dishaaron and ex-senator L. Atwood Bennett.

Starting on Sunday night at Bethesda M. P. Church with a special sermon by the Rev. R. L. Shipley, the 75th Anniversary Week of Newton Lodge will get under way. On Tuesday night, December 5th, the class initiation will take place and degrees will be conferred upon 75 candidates—one for each year the lodge has been in existence. On that night Grand Officers of the Grand Lodge will be present.

On Wednesday night comes the big banquet with tables of Eastern Shore delicacies and the occasion bids fair to be one long remembered as it will be in charge of the ladies of Rebekah Lodge. On Thursday evening, exercises will take place commemorating the 10th Anniversary of Enterprise Encampment Number 39, when a class of ten—one for each year—will be initiated.

Newton Lodge is but 28 years the junior of its parent lodge, Washington, No. 1, of Baltimore City, the year of inception of which was 1818.

SON OF SALISBURIAN IS SIGNALLY HONORED

At the third annual meeting of the Philadelphia, Pa., Chapter of the Alumni Association of Washington College held in Philadelphia recently William Coulbourne Brown, son of I. T. J. Brown, of Salisbury, was honored by being chosen president of the body.

BANNER YEAR FOR AUTO INDUSTRY FORECASTED ON ACCOUNT STABILIZED BUSINESS

The Farmer Making Great Strides In Regaining His Place In The March Of Prosperity Asserted To Be One Of The Reasons.

With a balanced prosperity, which includes all classes and is based on economical production, safely entrenched for the winter and all indications pointing to an even greater revival in early spring, the automobile business, according to reports from all over the country, is looking forward to one of the best seasons in its history.

The usual lull in automobile manufacturing that occurs at the approach of cold months, has been conspicuous for its absence this year and especially in this regard has the demand increased for closed cars. Every winter sees communities better prepared to resist the tie-up of traffic due to heavy snowfall. Every year sees more roads paved and greater precautions to keep the highways open for year-around traffic. Chicago boasts that it maintains 500 miles of boulevards free from snow. And so the automobile owner who used to park his automobile in the family garage, now drives his machine the year around. And today more motorists are turning to the closed car in order that they can travel comfortably no matter what the temperature.

The farmer is making greater strides in regaining his place in the march of prosperity. While his returns from the wheat crop have not been as great as expected, the price on corn has stiffened. Eggs especially have rallied and afford a very satisfactory price for corn. Dairy products and eggs have gained in price. The Southern states are also prosperous, their income from cotton being fairly well up to the level of the things they want to buy. The farmer, in other words, is ready to buy automobiles. In the first place he does not strike. His stake in this country outweighs his grievances. He works. And his confidence reflects and lends encouragement to the restoration of stabilized business conditions. At the same time, the farmer, too, is more dependent than ever on the automobile, especially when in front of his farm well-paved roads lead to the city and town. Business from the farmer alone is expected to keep the wheels in the automobile industry turning for many weeks without regard to the increasing demand from other fields.

The menace of strikes has been removed and wages are maintaining their high standard. This means that thousands of workers—workers who a few years ago were content with bread, clothes and a home—will be in the market for automobiles. And the business man, who is also riding the wave of prosperity, is expected to increase the growing demand for automobiles.

With two of the greatest automobile shows in the industry's history scheduled at New York and Chicago the first of the year, factories all over the country are making plans to take care of the impetus received from this source.

"CAPT. TOM" WHITE PASSES 91ST MILESTONE

Spends Day Quietly At Home Of His Birth And Greets Host
Of Callers

Capt. Thomas W. H. White, one of Wicomico's "Grand Old Men," passed the 91st milestone of his life quietly at his home on the Wicomico River on Tuesday of last week. "Capt. Tom," as he is familiarly called by the hundreds who know and love him, spent the day quietly and received many callers who came to wish him happy returns of the day, among whom were all of his children living anywhere near the old homestead.

Many of his friends who could not come in person sent postcards or telegrams of which he received a large number. Mr. White has resided on his present farm since birth, November 21, 1831, and one of his ancestors, Abner White, was the builder of the old Green Hill Church, one of the oldest houses of worship in the United States, the bricks for which were brought from the old country. Capt. White is very keen, intellectually for a man of his years and

IS NOW 91 YEARS OLD

CAPT. T. W. H. WHITE

very active as well when his age is considered. The family connections of the White family are among the largest in the county. Mr. White himself being the father of ten children, eight of whom reside in Wicomico County: P. T. White, cashier of the Bank of Sharptown; Medames, G. G. Banks, Nettie Richardson, Pauline Insley, and Messrs. George S. White, T. W. H. White, Jr., Stanford White and W. H. J. White, all of Salisbury.

Voice Wins Him A Place On Platform

Secretary Hammerslough One Of Sixteen Thus Honored At International "Y" Convention

Secretary R. W. Hammerslough, of the local Y. M. C. A., was accorded the honor of being chosen one of the sixteen men from various parts of the country to make up the chorus of voices at the 41st International Convention of the Y. M. C. A., at Atlantic City, N. J., last week. More than 15,000 persons were in attendance at the convention which meets but once every three years. Mr. Hammerslough occupied a seat on the platform at the sessions.

CHURCHES TO UNITE IN THANKSGIVING SERVICES

The Churches of Salisbury will unite in the annual Thanksgiving service on Thursday in the Presbyterian Church, Broad Street.

Rev. J. B. Peters will preach the sermon. The subject will be "Forward Not Backward."

A united choir under the leadership of Miss Mildred Matthews will sing "Praise the Lord O Jerusalem"—Mauder.

Miss Matthews will sing Kipling's "Recessional." The ministers of the various Churches will take part in the service and an earnest invitation is extended by the Ministerial Union.

The offering will go to the local work of Miss Kell.

County Teachers To State Convention

Wicomico Teachers Will Attend
Annual Session In Baltimore
Today and Tomorrow

A number of Wicomico school teachers will attend the annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association at Western High School, Baltimore, tomorrow and Saturday, and consequently the schools of the county will be closed Friday.

"The Little Red School-House" an Anachronism" is the subject of an address which will be made by Dr. Henry S. West, Superintendent of the Baltimore Public Schools.

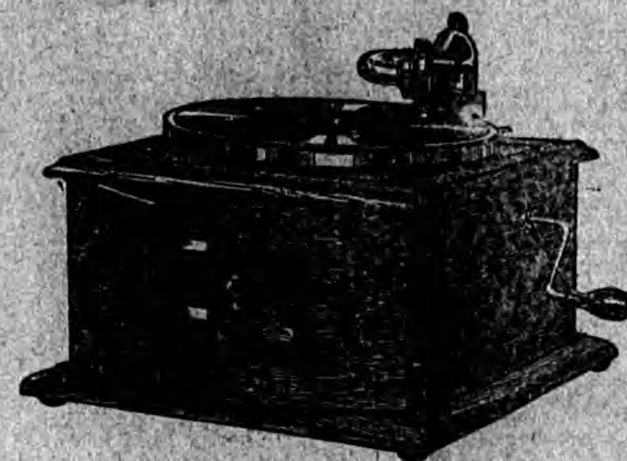

There will be three general meetings, one to be held Friday, December 1, at 10 A. M., one on Saturday at 9:15 A. M., and one Friday night. Speakers include Dr. Ernest Burnham, director of rural education at Western State Normal College; State Superintendent Albert S. Cook, and Frank W. Wright, director of elementary and secondary education and normal schools in Boston, Mass. Dr. Wright will speak on "Education in a Democracy."

Dr. Norman W. Cameron, director of the Teachers' Training School and president of the Maryland State Teachers' Association, will preside at these meetings.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Asbury Church will give a supper on Friday evening, December 8th, in the social hall of the church. Everybody invited.

Tiger of France is With Us

George Clemenceau, the Tiger of France and the great War Premier, is now on a triumphant tour of the United States, carrying a message of national friendship. The grizzled old warrior is now 73 years old. Above his first look by the famous Woolworth Hotel in New York. Below his reception at City Hall Park, N. Y.

Red society for several years and read all their literature very faithfully. Sidney Horn still upholds his record as a White Wyandotte man par excellence and Ernest Townsend, Jr., heads the list of White Orpington breeders.

The question of vaccinating poultry against disease, has been asked us many times lately and our answer has been that as yet no one knows a great deal about the efficiency of this treatment. Many poultrymen are thus treating their birds with varying success. The Experiment Stations are not ready to say that this method of preventing poultry diseases is perfect for are they recommending it very highly—and will not until more work and more definite results are secured. Reports of vaccination tend to show that it will prevent roup, pox and other diseases but thus far we have not been able to get any reliable expert to recommend vaccine for all diseases as they say that each disease must have its separate vaccine and they cannot all be combined into one.

Will Allen tells us that he has a field of strawberry plants that are as fine as any he has ever seen and that they are up and after clover. This contradicts statements that we have heard before and we are going to try and study this subject more thoroughly to see, if possible, why some growers have success after clover while others do not seem able to get good results.

FARM WOMEN LEARN MARKETING METHODS

South Carolinians, Especially Fast Grasping Importance of Standardization of Farm Products. Acting upon the advice of extension workers, South Carolina women have made steady advances in standardizing the products they offer for sale and in increasing their output. For example, in Charleston County, starting with 1 woman two years ago, there are now over 70 women shipping in weekly their graded and guaranteed eggs. Two years ago no one thought of fattening poultry before sending to market. To-day no one thinks of sending poultry to market without first fattening it. The women realize as never before that a standard-bred fowl produces higher-priced eggs and market poultry than a mongrel. The improvement in preserving is also marked. Two years ago only one woman produced really standard preserves and jelly. Now there are nine who can for market and many others who put up a few dozen to sell. The original woman who sold preserves has now developed her business that she has built a factory and has planned for an output of 10,000 containers. The members of the local home demonstration club assist her and in this way not only make pocket money for themselves but improve their own work, and in a few years the entire community bids fair to be well known for its specialized products. The number of dozen eggs sold, as reported to the extension agent, is 8,142, and the pounds of poultry, 19,987. The value of canned goods actually sold is $512, and the total amount of all products is $8,504.94.

In the State last year approximately 5,000 containers of such standard products as Dixie burgoo, pink bark fish stew, Brunswick stew, soup mixture, blackberry jam, fig preserves, plum jelly, grape juice, artichoke relish and butter were put on the market through the South Carolina Home Producers Association. This year contracts have been signed for about 200,000 containers.

EXTEND STOUT WOMEN ALL MORAL SUPPORT

Miss Comstock, Nutrition Sharp, Would Shoo Pessimists Away—Encourage Her Efforts

Give the fat woman who is trying to reduce, feeble though her efforts may be, your moral support and encouragement, is the plea made by Miss Laura Comstock, nutrition expert, at the session of the American Dietetic Association.

When the meaty potato makes its vampish appeal to the woman threatened with obesity, diet in the name of all that is likable, urge her to take even a tiny one.

Above all, don't laugh or sneer when she heroically eschews the toothsome sweets, the ice-cream soda the mouth-watering pie and cakes. Instead, hurry her past the sweetie alluring candy shop window from whence the dusky chocolate drop issues its siren call.

"Women who are trying to reduce are, as a rule, easily discouraged," explained Miss Comstock, who is a nationally known expert of Rochester, N. Y.

In her daily work she prescribes for dozens of girls and has had as much success in building up the thin ones as she has had in reducing the fat from those who are overweight. Detailed individual records are kept by her, with the result that some of the results obtained have been described at meetings.

"The habit some girls have of dispensing with breakfast when they are in a hurry to get to the office is bad," said Miss Comstock, "especially when they are underweight. All sorts of factors enter into the maintenance of health in a girl and among them are the distasteful social relationship which keeps them in a worried and run-down condition."

"Girls who have been as much as 30 pounds underweight have been brought up to their normal weight, while their sisters far more than that much, overweight, have been reduced in every instance, increasing their general efficiency."

Too rapid reduction is dangerous, Miss Comstock says. "From one to one and one-half pounds a week is sufficient," she says and often the elimination of one or two articles from the diet will accomplish this.

A Service Message

It is the solemn duty of every financial institution to use every means possible to protect the funds and securities entrusted to its care. To offer that feeling of absolute security is positively due the patron to justify his confidence. The bank must actually protect or it betrays. Being a firm believer that the patron is entitled to the best, this institution has just recently installed one of the most modern Electric Burglar Alarm Systems in existence. It is acknowledged as being absolutely burglar proof. A most convincing argument in favor of this system is the fact that the premium on our Burglar Insurance was reduced by the sum immediately. With the knowledge of having a perfect equipment and a Service that has always met with popular approval, this bank continues to be in a favorable position to convince you that you should patronize it.

The Rural Child Deficient In The Elementary School Subjects.

Does the child in the one-teacher rural schools have opportunities equal to the child in the city in learning to read, spell, manipulate figures, and to know the facts in American history?

The answer in this question is, "No," according to comparisons made in the State of Kentucky, New York, North Carolina and Virginia.

This answer is based on results found in recent surveys made in these States. The achievements of the children were measured by the same or similar standardized tests. Due to the fact that the elementary course in North Carolina and Virginia is seven years instead of eight.

The reading tests point out that in Kentucky, New York and North Carolina the small rural schools are getting results which are a full year behind those of the city schools. The comparison in New York further shows that the four-teacher rural schools make a better showing than the one-teacher rural schools. In Virginia seventh-grade rural pupils show a deficiency of one-half a year when compared with corresponding grades in the cities.

Just as in reading the results of the spelling tests in Kentucky show that the small rural schools are one year behind those of the cities. The reports for New York and Virginia say in general that the rural schools give additional evidence of the inferior schooling to be found in the one-teacher schools. The report for North Carolina states that as a rule city schools spell correctly less than eight words in a century.

The additional scores taken in connection with the ages of the pupils in Kentucky indicate that the work of these grades in the one-room schools is about two and three-quarter years behind that of the same city grades; addition and multiplication scores show them to be a year behind in New York. The report from North Carolina says that seventh-grade rural children have little more than fourth-grade ability in addition when measured by the achievements of children in good schools; that of Virginia states that seventh-grade children in one-teacher schools are two years behind those in the cities.

The Virginia survey does not record examinations in history. The tests given in the three remaining States were of two types—information questions and thought questions. The comparisons follow:

On the basis of results obtained in other States eighth-grade pupils in one-teacher schools in Kentucky answered fewer fact questions than sixth-grade children elsewhere, and they were almost a complete failure in questions requiring interpretation of the passage to be read. In New York eighth-grade children in the larger rural schools stand about midway between New York City seventh and eighth grades; those in the smaller rural schools are a year short of those in the larger rural schools. Seventh-grade rural children in North Carolina did only half as well as sixth-grade children are expected to do.

Each one of the surveys analyzes the causes of the difference between the achievements of rural and city school children. In each instance they are practically the same. Briefly stated, the outstanding causes of poor work in the small rural schools are due to short school terms, irregular attendance, the lack of well-trained teachers, the absence of uniform standards of achievement in elementary grades, the dearth of special classes for unusual children, the inadequacy of supervision and poor financial support.

All of the surveys recommended the condition be greatly remedied by the consolidation of one-room schools. This does not mean that the mere size of a school is in itself accountable for the difference in the scores. It means that the larger school unit is superior because of the advantages that go with it, such as increased revenue, better buildings, better teachers, better equipment, better classification, better instruction and better supervision.

never failed in any attempt to rob the mind of its stored truths. The anesthesia does not produce a volatile condition, he said, but at its most potent stage questions can be propounded, and "without failure as yet, answers have been forthcoming." "If the twilight anesthesia were properly recognized and used for the purposes suggested," Dr. House continues in his address, "many injustices would become impossible." Soon after reading his paper on the subject he was elected one of the vice-presidents of the Association.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME SAYS NATION WILL STAND OR FALL WITH EDUCATION

DON'T BE WITHOUT A LIBRARY IN YOUR TOWN

By Mary Collins Terry

"It can't be done." "How would you do it?" "Nobody reads around this place." These were some of the discouraging responses met with when the interested Mother suggested starting a public library in the tiny western town in which she lived. But there were others who were eager to help it.

"Will it won't hurt to try," was the determined and cheery response which answered the objections.

There were several things to be considered. Granted she could gain the general co-operation of the town, there were books to be secured, a suitable library station found, and librarians located to take charge. It was decided to divide the town up into districts, and to have these districts canvassed by some of the town people. A meeting was called of all of those who were willing to help, and the enthusiastic response was gratifying.

Prior to the actual canvass for donations of books and magazines, several attractive posters announcing the project were displayed in the churches and village postoffice. One of these read:

"Lend the books you like to your neighbor. Help start a library for Woodville." One hundred and eighty-seven books rewarded the solicitors. And these were collected by generous automobile owners, and taken to the home of the interested Mother who through previous knowledge of library work was able to catalogue them simply and get them ready for circulation.

Meanwhile plans were being made to secure an empty store in a building of central location. A warm little cottage appealing to the owner's civic spirit secured the use of the place, rent free, for a month while the project was being started. After that a very nominal rental was to be charged which could be easily raised by an occasional entertainment.

It was a great day when the little band of workers opened the library. The shelves once used for dry goods displayed the one hundred and eighty-seven cherished books. One large table did for a librarian's desk. A few chairs and several shelves of magazines, all in good condition, comprised the furnishings. The enthusiastic book canvassers became librarians, giving an afternoon a week of their time, and enabling a neat little sign on the door to say:

"Woodville Public Library. Open Mon., Wed., Fri., and Sat., 2 P. M. to 5 P. M."

At present the children of the community are the most frequent borrowers and it is a source of pleasure to those in charge to place good juvenile reading in their hands.

Plans are on foot for a picnic and similar affairs the library board, composed of other interested Mothers and some of the town's business men expect to add new books and defray the very nominal expense of running the library.

The Policeman's New Ally

Intoxication seemed to be a lost art, but this was partly due, according to Inspector Zander, to the fact that a man who drinks nowadays does not go out and about, but usually falls where he drinks or what is sold near Times Square and does not fight it. It is said to be a coward, but those who take two usually take the third, which causes complete amnesia.

"New whiskey is the greatest ally the Police Department has," said Policeman Gallagher, at Forty-sixth Street and Broadway. "It does most of our work for us. We used to have to subdue the boisterous ones, but the new stuff subdues them automatically before they start getting boisterous."

U. S. Commissioner Co-operating With Legion Toward Improvement Of Public School System

With American Education Week being initiated by the American Legion in a few days, December 3 to 9, John J. Tigert, U. S. Commissioner of Education, in an article written especially for the legion's News Service, declares our nation will stand or fall with its school system. Then he declares, as a solemn warning:

"No patriotic American, with the sense of a 'square deal' and with faith in the doctrine that 'all men are created equal,' can look with equanimity upon educational discrimination such as exists in our country today."

The U. S. Commissioner is co-operating with the American Legion, as is the National Education Association, to bring to the attention of the entire nation the need of better schools, better teachers, the elimination of illiteracy, the duties of citizenship and the value of physical training. The article by Dr. Tigert follows, in part:

"The American Republic will stand or fall with its school system, James Madison asserted this in effect when he said: 'A popular government without popular information or means of acquiring it is but a prologue to a farce or a tragedy, or, perhaps both. Knowledge will forever govern ignorance, and a people who mean to be their own governors must arm themselves with the power which knowledge gives.'"

"We are justly proud of our universal free-school system, no other nation has anything like it. While no boy or girl is denied education at public expense in America yet it must be confessed that the opportunities offered vary within the widest extremes. Some of our public schools cannot be excelled, others are so deplorably lacking as to be almost useless. It is our purpose to show briefly what some of these inequalities are."

"Whether we consider the sums expended upon public education, the training of teachers, the building and term or other vital factors which determine the efficiency of schools, we are immediately struck with the startling diversity which now exists in the United States.

"This diversity in educational opportunity is apparent whether we are comparing equality of educational opportunity for children among the different States or of those living in different countries within the same State, or even in the districts within the same county. Indeed, it often happens that the most obvious differences exist between children living in different districts in the same State and between those living in rural districts and those living in nearby, or even adjoining city territory."

TRUTH BARED BY MEANS OF TWILIGHT SLEEP

Criminals Are Forced To Reveal Their Offenses By This Means, Says Texas Physician

Criminals can be forced to tell the truth regarding their offenses while under the influence of scopolamine anesthesia, or as it is better known, during "twilight sleep," according to Dr. E. B. House, Ferris, Texas, physician, who has asked the endorsement of the Medical Association of the Southwest for a proposed experiment on a thousand prisoners in the Leavenworth (Kansas) Penitentiary, to demonstrate the theory.

Dr. House has been experimenting with the anesthesia for five years, he told members of the Association, and declared in that period, during which he had tried the "twilight sleep" method of securing evidence on a number of alleged criminals and others in his own State, he "had

GOOD PEOPLE ARE NOW HELPING RED CROSS

Reasons why you should join or renew your membership in the American Red Cross.

If you deeply loved child should be stricken with disease, would you not welcome help and advice from the County Nurse?

Should everything you have be wiped out by fire, flood or other disaster, would you not appreciate being helped by the Red Cross?

If someone you know is in desperate need, would you not consider it a privilege to be able to report it to the Red Cross?

Can we benefit by this organization and yet refuse to give one dollar to help in its good work?

REEDVILLE

Some of the factories here had right many fish last week, which were caught in waters "any down south." A rough hunt was experienced by some of the fishermen in bringing their catch home. Wednesday night was very stormy and Thursday was not much better. One steamer had a boiler washed away, and other things swept off her deck. Others could not be washed by water, and anxiety was felt for them for awhile. However, at last they came steaming safely home bringing good jags.

The Morris-Flaherty Co., and Reedville Oil and Gas Co., are the ones here who are doing the best business. The Morris-Flaherty Co. is today in quite a storm, with a sweeping down wind. The Reedville factory closed last week. Capt. C. W. Haynie, Capt. Frank Haynie and others from there are now in our town. The Reedville factory is now being moved to the new site. Capt. J. Murray, Capt. W. J. Sunday and his family, leaving at night for Salisbury with the "Gifford." It is a little while our summer vacationers will have found winter quarters elsewhere. Already we note Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hughes, of Matthews, Co., among those who have left.

Capt. A. W. McNeal, of Fairport, has recently bought a beautiful Chalmers Sedan, from Mr. F. L. Jett, agent for the Chalmers and Maxwell cars here.

Mr. C. S. Burton and daughter, Miss Mary Burton, motored to Reedville Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Perry Davis, for a short visit. They left on the Plankton Wednesday for their home at Urbana.

Mr. Leonard Cryer, has resold his property on the corner of Tibbels, (the old Delta place), to Mr. Blaker, of Fairport, who will take possession some time soon. Mr. Cryer has owned the place several years, but never lived there. In Mrs. Mary Dill's time it was quite a neat and attractive little home, with fruit and flowers which were cared for into existence by her ever-busy hands.

We are sorry to know that Mrs. Will Adams, who has spent the past summer in Mrs. C. L. Tallent's cozy little cottage here, was quite ill the past week. She is now much improved and will soon be returning with her husband, who is of the fishing fleet here, to their home across the Chesapeake.

Bishop Brown will preach at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Fleeton, at 7:30 Wednesday evening, November 29th. It will be a Thanksgiving service. The Bishop is a splendid preacher, well-known and loved here. A large attendance is desired for this interesting and special service. There will be music and flowers.

There will be a Thanksgiving service at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Fleeton, at 10:30 o'clock. Thanksgiving morning. Everybody cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Crowther, near Tibbels, had Miss Mattie Bland, and Mrs. Gill, relatives of Mrs. Crowther, as guests the past week-end.

Mrs. Ruth Page, a high school John Franklin, have been in Baltimore for several days. Mrs. Page was having her throat treated again.

Miss Louise Corra, who is teaching at Litwalton, was at Fleeton last week to attend the marriage of Miss Esther Brookings. Mrs. Corra came over with her, also for the wedding.

Mr. Ross Covington has been spending sometime with Dr. and Mrs. T. S. D. Covington, at Lillian recently. He has given up his position on the State Mall Farm, in New Kent, it is said.

Waring Jett, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jett, of Reedville left Friday, traveling with Mr. W. D. Evans, acting receiver of the cratville Commonwealth National Bank, of Reedville, for Essex Co., where he will spend a day or two with Mrs. John Waring and other relatives of his mother. He will then go on to Richmond and enter Smithfield College for their commercial course. Waring graduated at Reedville High School last spring, making the course in three years, and worked at the Morris-Flaherty factory that time until last Tuesday. Several Reedville boys are in Richmond, some in business, others attending school. We are wishing all of them success, and a safe, happy and well-spent winter.

Mrs. Francis Slaughter, of Fleeton, spent last week with relatives at Mr. Zim. Coming home she was accompanied by Mrs. Slaughter, and Mr. Taylor Slaughter.

Mr. Mosby Saunders, of Fleeton, has been in Baltimore, under medical treatment for some time. Friends are hoping he may soon be much improved.

Mrs. Leslie Edwards, of Fleeton, has been sick recently, but is better, we are glad to know. Also Mrs. C. Slaughter, has had a sick child this week.

Mr. Randolph Waller is at home at Fleeton after a season at bookkeeper at the Sandy Island factory.

Capt. I. M. Russell, of Fleeton, who has been fishing at the Taylor Fisheries, near Ditchley is at home since the cutting out of the boats. Capt. Russell had the unusual experience about two weeks ago, of bringing in a load of fish which were caught at night, leaving the fishing grounds about 11 o'clock we are told. Other captains wished to make the fishing by starlight attempt while the fish, which have been so scarce all summer, were known to be near at hand, but could not induce their crews to work at the unusual hour.

Mr. George Hinton of the Seaboard Co., is here from Chincoteague, looking after several of their steamers which have come down for winter quarters. Probably all of the fishing on the bay and up the beach, will have suspended operations before this appears in print.

Capt. Treasle, of the Menick, and family, will spend the winter at the Northumberland Hotel, Fleeton. Many are hoping that they will build here in the spring and become permanent neighbors.

Many of us have been enjoying wild duck this week, fat and fine, a gift from the gunner on the creek here. Quite a number of duck blinds have been prepared and the game is abundant the hunters report. A box was found at our door this morning, containing one-half dozen beautiful partridges. The dear little speckled beauties were thoroughly appreciated and will be delicious eating.

Capt. R. E. Edwards, of Fleeton, was struck on the head by something at the Taylor-Reed factory here last week, and for a while was showing a damaged head, which had been taken to Dr. Cockrell for inspection. Many friends were glad to know that the injury was not serious.

Mr. J. E. Edwards, of Fleeton, was still having beautiful weather, though last week brought quite a cold wave with plenty of frost and a little ice. It is very dry and unusually windy. Great clouds of dust are sweeping up the streets following autos and carriages. Stoves and furnaces are going. Those who have coal are congratulating themselves upon their good fortune, while those who burn pine and oak and the sweet scented woods of our native forests, are quite as comfortable and snugly immune.

SPENT HALF HER TIME IN BED

Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carter's Creek, Tenn. — "Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help other women as I have been so well and happy since I have been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. — Mrs. E. L. Galloway, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some female ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain.

If you find it hard to keep up, if you are nervous and irritable, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. We believe it will help you greatly, for it has helped others.

Mrs. Mabel Cross and Master Eugene Cross spent the week-end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Richards, in Salisbury.

Mr. Levin Wilson spent several days last week in Baltimore.

Misses Mary Belle and Helen Hearn spent Tuesday and Wednesday as the guests of Miss Mary Bennett.

Miss Annie E. Bonds spent a few days recently with relatives in Pocomoke.

Mrs. G. Roland Taylor, of Salisbury spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Waller.

Mr. Gilbert Robertson spent the week-end in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilson and children, Virginia and Paul, were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Larmore, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Robertson and Master Clarence E. Robertson, of Pocomoke, spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Robertson.

DELMAR

Mrs. Dallas Ellis entertained the Friday Afternoon Club.

Mrs. Alonso Parker was hostess at the New Century Club, Tuesday afternoon. On Tuesday, December 5th, the day will be devoted to Arts and Crafts and Mrs. F. L. Barker, who has charge of the arrangements of the program for that day has planned a Bazaar and Food Sale.

Martin Hearn, a farmer, who lives near town, met with a serious accident while hunting Saturday. The gun of his hunting partner accidentally exploded and struck Hearn in the face, putting out one eye and knocking off his nose. He was rushed to the Peninsula General Hospital where he is still remaining for treatment.

At a recent meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Delaware School, Arthur W. Ellis was elected, present to fill in the place of Mrs. Addie Culver, who resigned. Mrs. Culver is at present a student at the University of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Amelia White died at her home on Elizabeth Street, Monday from a prolonged illness caused by paralysis, leaving her six last husband, G. E. White and five children, Mrs. Elwood Lowe, Mrs. Nellie Stevens and Paul, Oscar and Floyd White. Funeral services were held at the M. E. Church, Rev. J. W. Jones officiating.

Union services of the Baptist, M. E. and M. P. Churches will be held at the M. E. Church Thanksgiving morning with sermon by the Rev. E. H. Jones.

Mrs. Gravel, of Philadelphia, is the guest of Mrs. Harry Gibson.

C. H. Trull attended the Tom-Gilman game at Fort Deposit, Saturday.

"JIMMY" IS AN INTERESTING YOUNG CHAP YET TO BE VAMPED BY A LOCAL FLAPPER

Members Of Salisbury's Fair Sex Have Overlooked This Congenial Occupant Of Room 5 Peninsula Hospital—Has Two Wonderful Brown Eyes And Is Sentimental.

Jimmy Is An interesting young 2189. He is a simply handsome. And the cutest little fellow you might want to vamp. What a shame it is not long ago so that the conventional bonds might be overstepped and a proposal made to him for one of those wonderful palships that sprang into existence during the war times and have ever since been used by boys and girls in designating their own particular kind of friendship.

His name is Jimmy and he is the modest possessor of the most beautiful pair of big brown eyes that ever were. The kind that sort of hold you suspended in the etherial with no hopes of ever letting you put your feet on old Mother Earth again. Those of Rudolph Valentino would fade into insignificance besides his. Indeed he is such an attractive little chap that it is a huge wonder that one of Salisbury's charming girls has not already fastened her tentacles around him and claimed him all for herself. A "Douglas Fairbanks" smile always greets his admirers.

Besides falling heir to all the physical attributes that go to make up a worthy young fellow, Jimmy also exhibits those qualities that naturally hold all women enthralled. He is sympathetic, understanding and sentimental. Deeply interested in human beings, he has the artistic things of life. He has no use for toys. He would rather lay back in his little bed at the Peninsula Hospital and gaze into the eyes of some kind person who is fond of playing with children.

But there is a sad part to Jimmy's life that touches the heart of one who comes to know him. His parents are of the poor lowly class. He has many brothers and sisters. So many that he is not even missed by the folks at home. Jimmy first saw light in the maternity ward at the Peninsula Hospital. He weighed just 8 lbs. when he first caught a breath of this great wide world. Doctors and nurses despaired of his life but they didn't give up hope.

When his mother went back home to the farm near Whaleyville, Jimmy remained in the hospital. He was a child. Miss Wise gave orders that he should be given every possible care and attention. These were obeyed and with seemingly deep feeling of gratitude, the little, frail baby boy began to take on a new lease on life. He fought a winning battle against what seemed overwhelming odds and so today stands out as a remarkable youngster.

In room 5 day and night out, he lays quite contented with what life has to offer him. 8 months of living have meant much to him. The nurses sneak in to see him whenever they get a moment's relaxation from duty. The doctors all include him in their regular routine visits. Dr. Dick essays the role of idolizing grandfather. Does Jimmy cry like most babies when they are left alone. Not by a long shot. Instead of wailing his fears in cry-baby fashion Jimmy plays with his feet. And he is quite athletic. His favorite sport is raising himself up from a reclining position to a swinging position by tightly clutching somebody's arm.

Girls he's a great kid and he is fond of company. Some sunny day when you're all alone and have nothing to do, stroll out to the hospital and ask for Mr. Jimmy. The nurses will be glad to show you his private room and there alone in its cheerful atmosphere you can help prove to the "little man" that this old world is not such a lonesome place after all and that there are a lot of understanding people in it who fashion their mode of living after the principles of the "Golden Rule." And Jimmy will appreciate the visit because he likes real people and prefers them to mere toys and puppets.

PLANNING TO MAIL AUTO LICENSE TAGS

Applications May Be Filed Any Time Now Is Announcement—Distribution Begins Tomorrow

Under plans announced by E. Austin Baughman, Automobile Commissioner, applications for license tags, for 1923 will be mailed to the auto owners of the State from now on until every owner has been reached. Immediately after the replies come in they will be handled, and it is expected that many owners will have their tags many days ahead of January 1, when they first go into use.

Commissioner Baughman has asked that the owners fill out the information blanks, which deal with the type of anti-glare headlights, the chauffeur or operator's card number and other necessary information usually required.

As soon as the applications have been filled out they must be mailed back to the office, accompanied by a check or cash for the amount based on the prescribed fee. Then it is planned to dispose of each day's request on the same day as received. This will do away, to some extent, with the last-minute rush which has heretofore prevailed and which works a hardship both on the owner and the office force.

After the blanks have been mailed out and the answers come in, Commissioner Baughman intends to begin distribution December 1, but he said this week that only the cards which have been filled out accurately will receive prompt attention, as the others will have to be gone over again. The stub marked "Registration Certificate" must not be detached, he said, and if care is not exercised to see that the required information is not properly filled in the entire application blank will be returned and delays will occur and confusion result.

As an aid to the smooth working of the plans which have been laid in the Automobile Commissioner's office it has been requested that all owners of motor vehicles who have changed their address since last receiving re-

LOCAL GIRL RUNNING WELL FOR $3,400 PRIZE

Miss Ethel Loomis, High School Sophomore At Cambridge Railroad Man Lead In Automobile Contest

An article appearing in a Cambridge paper of last week a part of which is published below is self-explanatory and shows that a friendly rivalry exists between Dorchester County and Wicomico in a contest of which many of the people of this county, perhaps, are unaware but in which victory will mean quite a little to one of Salisbury's fair young daughters, who is the only contestant in this county. The article in part follows:

"Dorchester County is running nip and tuck with Wicomico county in a race to land a big prize, a Marmon automobile, worth $3,400."

"The car is one of 22 being offered by the Baltimore American (which by the way is one of the oldest newspapers in the United States, having had its inception before the Federal Government) in the $30,000 Automobile prize contest now in progress."

"If every one will help, Dorchester County will stand a splendid chance of seeing one of its best known residents returned a winner."

"According to late reports Mr. A. Clayton Hayden, of Cambridge is running a little behind Miss Ethel Loomis, of Salisbury, for the honors in the 10th District of the contest, which includes both Dorchester and Wicomico counties."

"December 22nd, the contest ends and we are sure Mr. Hayden can count on the necessary support to land the prize and at the same time to once again make Dorchester County stand out as a Prize Winner."

Miss Loomis is but 15 years of age and a member of the Sophomore Class at Wicomico High School. That she should run such a splendid race against Mr. Hayden, who is one of Cambridge's leading citizens and a prominent Mason, that place and at the same time pursue satisfactorily her studies is indeed commendable.

If Wicomico people will get behind Miss Loomis—as Dorchester folks apparently are doing with Mr. Hayden—doubtless she will be returned the victor. She is offering a beautiful hand made pillow top worth several dollars—a sample of which will soon be put on exhibition in one of the store windows—to anyone securing for her during the contest eight new subscriptions; either quarterly, semi-annually or for a year.

The Public's Interest In Telephone Earnings

The public is directly interested in the quality of service furnished by this Company and what it pays for such service.

It follows then that the public is concerned in the Company's earnings, because if the earnings are inadequate, the service cannot be maintained at a high standard. On the other hand, if earnings are excessive, the public is entitled to lower rates.

The aim of this Company has always been to charge rates that will yield a fair but not excessive return on the investment. This is necessary to attract the new capital required to keep step with the growth and progress of the community.

When we were forced finally to seek relief through increased rates, we did not ask the Public Service Commission to approve rates high enough to yield a fair return. We hoped that the future would bring reductions in costs and that increased efficiency would be obtained. This, together with moderate increases in rates, we hoped would result within a reasonable time in providing sufficient revenues to yield a fair return.

The Commission, in authorizing our rate increases, stated that the new rates would yield a return of about 5.3% on the value of our property.

During the two years that have passed since these rates were established, we have directed every energy toward furnishing the best possible service and toward the effecting of economies so that our investors might be afforded the return to which they are entitled.

In the first nine months of this year, our earnings have been at the rate of 5.7% a year on our investment in Maryland.

The return is still inadequate, being less than the legal interest rate. But we have made progress and this gives us confidence that with our present rates we can, by constantly increasing efficiency and persistent economy, earn a return sufficient to attract the new capital necessary to permit us to expand our system.
