CRISP RUST

In the making of a pie. The making of a crisp crust depends largely upon the shortening. Use COTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening, instead of lard, and you will produce the most desirable results. The saving in a year represents a considerable item. There are many imitations of COTOLENE; you should therefore be careful to get the genuine.

Get everywhere in tin, with trade-mark—Cotolene—and see the head in red and white wrapper on every tin. Made only by

THE H. J. FAIRBANK COMPANY, CHICAGO AND 114 Commerce St., BALTIMORE.

PLEASANTS' FERTILIZERS

Are the Best and Cheapest

Pleasants' High grade Wheat Fertilizer for $21 a ton is the equal of any $35 Fertilizer in the market today.

Pleasants' "Wheat Food" at $15 a ton is every bit as good as the regular $23 fertilizer of the Credit Merchants.

Pleasants' best 14 to 16 per cent. "S.C. Rock" at $9.50. Pleasants' Tankage as low as $12 a ton is a saying to look at. Chemicals equally cheap.

I will put up your mixture (in any quantity) for less money than you can have it done by anyone else in the fertilizer business.

For further particulars, write to

WM. A. PLEASANTS, 606 East Lombard Street, BALTIMORE, MD.

CORNER'S Pure Animal Bone Fertilizers, for All Crops and Permanent Grass.

WARRANTED IN THE FULL PRICE OF THE GOODS. Higher in Essential Qualities than any other Goods on the Market. WE WILL REFUSE BY ANALYSIS, OR WEIGHT. PREFERABLE THE FORMER WAY. SEND FOR CIRCULAR.

CONTRASTS OF SEWING WOMEN.

Advantages of the Factory Girl in the Country Over Her Sister in the City.

You may see in any one of perhaps a hundred shops in this city, colored, and eyed, dimly clad women bending over sewing machines, and quivering, round-shouldered, with no outlook save through a window opening upon a soiled street. You may see in at least a score of country villages 50 miles from any great city a crowd of neatly clad, happy-looking girls and women busied with like tasks, and amid clean and pleasant surroundings, with glimpses of a smiling landscape through every window.

The New York woman, released from their toil, hasten home to gloomy tenement lodgings and unwelcome care. The village girl, released from her toil, hasten home to a modest but clean and pleasant home, where food is fresh and abundant. The New York sewing machine woman is an insignificant unit in a great community. She feels daily the pressure of her fellows that are ready to take her place and her earnings. She hears from unlettered men and women talk of the rights of labor and the greed of wealth. She knows that her earnings would not keep her or her rich sisters in cotton flower. The Advertiser publishes to day a list of the election officers, make out by the supervisors of election at a meeting held last Tuesday. We are glad to be able to commend the list, from top to bottom. It is exceptionally good, especially the ballot clerks where competent and trustworthy men are needed. The action of the supervisors will be highly commended by the intelligent voters of all parties, democrats, republicans, prohibition and populist parties. All will be interested in giving the majority an opportunity to rule. We commend the action of the supervisors, both for their intelligence and for their patriotism.

We may add that there has never been any reason for complaint in this county of the actions of the supervisors. Their appointments have always been good. They are especially so this year.

Use Rock Salt.

We are surprised to find, when passing through the country, so few farmers who use rock salt for their stock. Whenever we find a man who uses it, he always speaks of it in the highest terms. The writer in the Farmers' Advocate says from experience that there is no other way of salting stock nearly so satisfactory in every way as by the use of the rock.

It is a settled fact that stock salted once a week take too much when given to them, which has the effect of wasting much nutriment in the animal which the system requires, and before the next salting day comes around ill effects are caused in the system by the loss of nutriment. This being the case, the farmer who depends upon weekly salting, be he ever so prudent, cannot fail to lose milk from his cows and flesh from his steers and other fattening stock. Some resort to the plan of putting a little salt in the food every day or two. Now, this is all chance work and cannot give the best results, as the animal itself is the only proper judge of how much to take, and will never take too much or too little when given free access to it. Now when stables have been fitted up by the Napoleonic wars, the supply can be kept constantly before them by using either barrel or rock salt, the former having to be supplied every few days, while a four or five pound lump will last for weeks. Another advantage in using rock salt is that it can be thrown into any ordinary manger, and not interfere with the food. The animal can lick it as desired, and no evil results or waste in food or salt can follow. Then again, for field salting in the summer a lump can be thrown on the ground, exposed to the sun and rain, without loss or other objection, while, when barrel salt is used, the box will be half the time empty, and irregular salting results.

Origin of the Monroe Doctrine.

The Chicago Times Herald says Spain exhausted by the Napoleonic wars, had distracted by internal dissensions, had called upon the other European governments to assist her in regaining possession of her colonies. Canning, the British foreign secretary, did not wish her to regain them, but at the same time he did not wish to openly antagonize her. He consequently simply mentioned the British minister at Washington to Mr. Adams that it ought to be the policy of the American government to keep the European governments away from the South American States and compel them to keep hands off. Adams and Monroe seized the idea with alacrity, and it was embodied in Monroe's presidential message of that year. In consequence of our attitude Spain lost her hold permanently upon the South American States, for no European power would assist her demand.

THE NEW CHURCH.

It is a beautiful little church, first and foremost.

"A fine old article," remarked a child the other day to her mother, who was helping her with her school lesson. "Fancy, year not knowing that it's a distinguishing feature!" We asked a small schoolgirl the other day if she learned astronomy. "Astronomy? Of course not! That's an infant's subject," she answered, with great contempt. "Have you read Pope's 'Essay on Man'?" We inquired lately of a girl of 13. "Pope? Why, nobody thinks anything of him nowadays," she replied. "Do you know Milton's 'Paradise Lost'?" "Oh, we go beyond that long ago."

The worst of a childish diet of this sort is that you feel yourself absolutely quench. There is no getting any further in the argument, for no pigheadedness equals the pigheadedness of the many of the country people who are coming into town. A country girl of the region came cantering up on a bareback horse and alid off on what now that the Star man's attention was called to it, he noticed was a queer sort of horse block.

It was nothing more or less than an old rusty safe of considerable age. It had apparently lain there for years and when examined disclosed a suspicious looking hole in one side, clearly the work of explosives. At this point the attention of the investigator from the east was called to two other safes, similarly exploded and also lying on their sides in the street and doing duty as horse blocks.

"How about these safes?" asked The Star man of the Parkville merchant. "What story goes with them?"

"Nothing much of a story," remarked the Parkville merchant, helping himself to a thoughtful chew of tobacco. "These safes have laid their where you all see since '73. They were dragged out there and busted by Quantrell and Jess and Frank James and the younger brothers, along with the rest of Quantrell's gang. They come charging down the street one day in June and took the town in about a minute and a half and then went for them safes. Money was mighty popular with Quantrell and the James boys, and they usually went after all they heard of."

"How much did they get from the safes?"

"I dunno how much they got from them on 'other side of the street," said the Parkville man. "They hauled $3,000 out of mine," and here he pointed sadly at the safe nearest to him, the one on which the younger rustic had just alighted.

"Was that safe yours?" was asked.

"Yes," he answered. "I kept store then right where I do now and just as I do now."

"Why haven't you removed the safes?"

"What's the use?" observed the Parkville man. "They ain't in nobody's way, and they do first and last for horse blocks. They ain't got no cars nor tackle strong enough to move 'em now. So we just let 'em go as they lay as they say in '73."—Washington Star.

PICTURES AND EYES.

How to Adjust the Lenses to Property Objects.

The observer, in order to see a picture to the best advantage, must adjust his vision to that of the artist who produced it. Most of us do this instinctively. Not only do we select the best point of view from which to observe a picture, but we recede from the painting until the lights and colors blend in just the right degree. In addition to that many instinctively pinch the eyes together, producing thus a momentary astigmatism, such as the artist had produced in his own eye, and find the picture thus apparently improved.

A most useful appliance for viewing pictures is the so-called stenoscopic slit. This is merely a slit one or two inches in width in a card or thin plate of brass. Simple as this device is, but few persons are aware of how much it adds to the effect in viewing pictures, as it allows the rays of light in only one meridian to pass through the corner of the observer. If he wishes to look at a painting done by an artist, whose vision is normal, or nearly so, the observer turns the slit around to correspond with the meridian of his own best vision. If, however, he looks at a picture in which it is desirable to have overlapping of the retinal images—at one where the colors must be mixed in the eye, for example—it is necessary to rotate the slit to another position, usually at right angles to the first, and with this a canvas which before showed too clearly the blotches of color now becomes blended into a much more perfect whole.

I would recommend this simple device to any one who has not already experimented with it. Thus, by adjusting our own personal equation of eyesight to that of the artist, we literally obtain his point of view. The colors are heightened, the details blend and new beauties appear. Instead of seeking light, as a friend mentioned at first, for "the handiest way to get out of this 'ere place," we are glad to stay longer to study and enjoy. Here, an every-where, it is art and science together that yield the richest result. If science is allowed to be the interpreter, we may gain a heightened enjoyment of art and the artist's comforting increase of appreciation.—Lucien Howe, M. D., in Popular Science Monthly.

Ex-Senator Henry L. Davies, the chairman of the Indian commission, says that the town site question in the Indian Territory has become one of great importance. There are now about 300,000 white people in the Indian Territory. They have built up towns, but are mere tenants at sufferance, without a particle of title to the lands on which they build. The Indian courts are closed against them, as are the Indian schools to their children, 30,000 of whom have no other opportunity for schooling, excepting those whose parents are able to hire private teachers. They have no voice in the governments of these five nations, nor a police officer to protect them, nor a property against violence. It will be the object of the commission, first, to obtain such a solution of the town site question that those who have built up these towns and invested large sums in costly buildings and expensive stores and trading places may have some title to the ground upon which the structures stand and some voice in their government, and, secondly, to see that the vast and valuable territory shall be held in accordance with the original title, for all Indians equally, or shall be allotted in severalty to those of them who may wish their own share in fee.

Lock Money.

Lock money in Great Britain is the gratuitous return of £1000 per head on all cattle sold at auction, minus 3 shillings per score upon sheep, oxen or pigs per head over 30 shillings in value, two pence per head over 30 shillings and up to 60 shillings and three pence per head over 60 shillings. A taxpayer to pigs also applies to calves.

The Atchafalaya river, in Louisiana, was named by the Choctaws. The word means "long live."

Gathering of Democracy

The Democracy of Wilcox County Congregate in Union's Opera House to hear the issues discussed.

Last Wednesday was democracy's day in Wilcox. The people of the county gathered in the opera house at the meetings held to hear the issues of the campaign discussed.

The campaign reached Salisbury at 2:30 and were met by a committee consisting of Mayor Humphreys, Ernest A. Toadvin, Samuel H. Carey, John D. Williams, L. W. Dorman and James L. Powell, who took them to the Peninsula Hotel.

At the afternoon meeting the three candidates on the state ticket, Messrs. Hurst, Smith and Crothers, addressed the people.

The meeting was called to order by ex-Governor Jackson, who said:

"As chairman of the Democratic Central Committee I am happy to call this meeting to order, and in doing so, I wish to be understood as an earnest advocate of the election of the Democratic state ticket."

It has been attempted by the enemies of the ticket to mislead the people into the belief that John E. Hurst was nominated by the command of Senator Gorman and Mr. Rasin, and for that reason solely he ought to be defeated. I had the honor, with the other Wilcox delegates, to represent Wilcox county in the state convention, and I declare here in the presence of my fellow citizens, and of the distinguished nominees of that convention, that after a conference in our room at the Carrollton Hotel, we determined to vote as a unit for John E. Hurst for Governor, Marion D. Smith for Comptroller, and Mr. Crothers for Attorney-General, and neither Mr. Gorman nor Mr. Rasin had anything whatever to do with our determination, neither of them either requested or directed us to vote for any one.

I had extensive business relations with Mr. Hurst from 1885 to 1890, and the estimate I formed of him then is the same today, and that is that he is a gentleman of the strictest integrity of character, and honorable and painstaking in his business matters. My opinion is that his nomination was the best that could have been made, and he will give to the people of Maryland the best administration that Maryland has ever had.

We voted for Mr. Smith for Comptroller, believing that the state of Maryland never had a more competent, faithful and honest officer, for under his administration the finances of the state have been wisely managed, and the credit of the state is the best. Although we did not vote for Mr. Crothers for Attorney-General, Wilcox Democrats will give to him the same majority they will give to Mr. Hurst and Mr. Smith, for they believe that the best administration is the best managed, and the credit of the state is the best.

Mr. Hurst, Mr. Smith and Mr. Crothers stand for Democratic principles and good government, and it is the duty of every citizen to support their triumphant election by their votes.

The state of Maryland has been wisely and economically governed for 30 years by the Democratic party, and no good reason can be given by any Democrat for the transfer of the state to the Republican party. If the Democracy of Wilcox cannot prevent it, it will never be done.

Jas. E. Ellegood, Esq., was made chairman of the meeting. Mr. Ellegood made a short address in which he discussed the state ticket and met the objections raised against the manner of its nomination. He said every nomination should have good men and good methods, good men and a good platform. All conceded we had two of the elements, good men and a good platform. We might consider ourselves fortunate if we got two best in three. After declaring the meeting formally open the following vice presidents were chosen:

BARON CREEK DISTRICT. Lambert H. Cooper, Allison Elliott, Samuel Phillips, Isaac S. Bennett, John J. Parsons, Jr., Albert E. Acworth, Jas. Ellegood.

WANAMAKER'S

Wherever this paper goes please receive it the same as a letter or a personal call bearing a most cordial invitation to visit the store at this time while we are so proudly showing off the new Paris Gowns and wraps.

There are so many fine things to present that we must be excused for not having room enough to display them at their best. In old times it was not easy to get up enough courage to import a dozen foreign dresses, but in these times, with so large expectations from our customers, more than 100 entirely new Pattern Dresses must be here to make a proper start of the season; while the contents of ninety-five great foreign cases all told is on view at once.

Not to know the new fashions is to live too far away from Thirteenth and Chestnut streets.

SILK WAISTS AND SKIRTS

Paris dainties are shown in such variety as we never before dreamed of.

A word of the American productions—garments stylish and handsome, appealing to the thousands who appreciate dainty dressing without extravagance.

Silk Waists.
At $4.00—In various pretty colors of figured silk; plain black, lace front; striped; light-fitting black; lace front.
At $5.00—Good quality French Waists. Plain black and lace front, finished with box plaits and twelve pearl buttons.

Silk Skirts.
At $7.50 to $12.00—Skirts made of colored Tulle, silk, with lace front, some with Spanish ruffles and dust ruffles; some with umbrellas shape.
At $14.00 to $20.00—Umbrella Skirts with 16-inch corded ruffle.

Satin Skirts are ready, too, $7.50 to $15. Umbrella shape. Some of these are imported.

MEN'S SHOES.
We do not do the only good shoe selling in Philadelphia. We do the best. For instance, our "Patent" shoes are equal to the very best $5 shoe you can find in any other store in town.

They are made in every one of the popular shapes of the season, in Calfskin, Patent leather, Winter russet leather.

Our faith in them is shown by the thousands of pairs we order in. Seventy-two cases came yesterday. $3.90.

FUR CAPES.
Fur and kindred goods are ready; so ready that the display is unapproachable in America, and fur selling has been revolutionized to general advantage by our methods. Fresh proofs of it now.

Wool seal has advanced seventy per cent in price, 'tis said. Our stocks are great and new and right—the prices a trifle less than last year's.

Electric seal skin gets the same careful making here that distinguishes the work on our Alaska seal garments. Electric Seal Capes, $22.50 to $75.

Collarettes and boas are here in almost endless variety, including all the Paris novelties.

Or, at $10—Covert Coat, thirty-five inches long. All the asked for shades.

$15—not the next price, but a stopping place for hundreds of careful dressers. Covert Coat; strap seams; all-silk lining.

More sorts to see than we have time to tell of. Enough to hint of Philadelphia's overcoat readiness—best exemplified here. Thank you for keeping this clothing business growing—it makes more, and more things possible.

CANTON FLANNEL.
Last winter we learned how to sell a good unbleached Canton Flannel for 6 1/2¢ a yard—16 yards for a dollar! It was a feat in dry goods trading. Harder yet to do it this year with prices on the jump, but the goods are here—thousands of yards.

Bleached, too, but that costs 8¢ or 12 1/2¢ yards for $1.

JOHN WANAMAKER.
Can it be true, as so constantly affirmed, that there is no sex in socks? I think it exceedingly—Coleridge.

THE PRIMULA LADY.
I entirely forgot the name of the opera, what it was about and who sang in it, but I know it was the first I ever saw—If indeed I can be said to have seen it! At all events, I was present at the performance, and the evening and its occurrences are indelibly stamped on my memory. I was 17, thoroughly un-musical, but possessed of a keen sense of enjoyment, and the scene, looked upon by the first time in my life, delighted me. The fair face, the gorgeous toilet, the hum of voices, the light, the movement, all combined to quicken the heart and make me feel giddy and light-headed.

The curtain went up, and after the first few minutes I began to be bored. It was a heavy opera, as I was told, with no "air" in it, and full of loud, deafening choruses. It seemed to me there were nothing but choruses—choruses of men and soldiers and choruses of women and choruses of the world. I did not understand the plot, and I turned to the spectators for amusement. Opposite to me, in a box immediately facing ours, sat a couple whose appearance arrested my attention. I could not see the lady's face, for she was turned away from me toward the stage, but in her hair I saw a diamond comb of quaint design that took my fancy. Against the smooth dark tresses the stones sparkled and glittered as in a setting of opals. It was, I was told, the most beautiful diamond comb ever seen, and she kept her brooch close to her head with gold wrapped closely round her.

She had no bouquet, but in front of her, on the edge of the box, was an enormous black feather fan mounted in tortoise shell. Her companion—a slight man with a pale olive complexion and dark curly hair—sat next to her, and he, too, had a fan. He was looking at the lady with a look of intense interest, and she, too, was looking at him. I was struck by the contrast between the two. The lady was a beauty, and the man was a beauty, too. They were both looking at each other, and I was struck by the contrast between the two. The lady was a beauty, and the man was a beauty, too. They were both looking at each other, and I was struck by the contrast between the two.

It was my turn to feel distressed—distressed, but at the same time vividly interested. I was just going to ask Lord, like the woman, but he had no time to answer me. He was looking at the lady with a look of intense interest, and she, too, was looking at him. I was struck by the contrast between the two. The lady was a beauty, and the man was a beauty, too. They were both looking at each other, and I was struck by the contrast between the two.

It was my turn to feel distressed—distressed, but at the same time vividly interested. I was just going to ask Lord, like the woman, but he had no time to answer me. He was looking at the lady with a look of intense interest, and she, too, was looking at him. I was struck by the contrast between the two. The lady was a beauty, and the man was a beauty, too. They were both looking at each other, and I was struck by the contrast between the two.

A DOWBOY RACE.

A gathering took place on the river bank when the storm king's wild courses are on. A long roll of boats and the earth is a drum. The surfers! Feet over the planks they come!

Burned in the face of the storm the gamblers sit and the race is begun!

THE PRIMULA LADY.

I entirely forgot the name of the opera, what it was about and who sang in it, but I know it was the first I ever saw—If indeed I can be said to have seen it! At all events, I was present at the performance, and the evening and its occurrences are indelibly stamped on my memory. I was 17, thoroughly un-musical, but possessed of a keen sense of enjoyment, and the scene, looked upon by the first time in my life, delighted me. The fair face, the gorgeous toilet, the hum of voices, the light, the movement, all combined to quicken the heart and make me feel giddy and light-headed.

The curtain went up, and after the first few minutes I began to be bored. It was a heavy opera, as I was told, with no "air" in it, and full of loud, deafening choruses. It seemed to me there were nothing but choruses—choruses of men and soldiers and choruses of women and choruses of the world. I did not understand the plot, and I turned to the spectators for amusement. Opposite to me, in a box immediately facing ours, sat a couple whose appearance arrested my attention. I could not see the lady's face, for she was turned away from me toward the stage, but in her hair I saw a diamond comb of quaint design that took my fancy. Against the smooth dark tresses the stones sparkled and glittered as in a setting of opals. It was, I was told, the most beautiful diamond comb ever seen, and she kept her brooch close to her head with gold wrapped closely round her.

She had no bouquet, but in front of her, on the edge of the box, was an enormous black feather fan mounted in tortoise shell. Her companion—a slight man with a pale olive complexion and dark curly hair—sat next to her, and he, too, had a fan. He was looking at the lady with a look of intense interest, and she, too, was looking at him. I was struck by the contrast between the two. The lady was a beauty, and the man was a beauty, too. They were both looking at each other, and I was struck by the contrast between the two.

Mr. Lowndes In Salisbury.

He and Mr. Clabaugh, Republican Candidates for Governor and Attorney General, Respectively, Speak in the Opera House Wednesday Afternoon.

COL. GEORGE R. GAITHER, JR., ADDRESSES A MEETING AT NIGHT.

The republicans held their last Wednesday in Salisbury. When the afternoon train arrived at Salisbury, Hon. Lloyd Lowndes, Mr. Harry M. Clabaugh, republican candidates respectively for governor and attorney general, and Col. George R. Gaither, Jr., alighted. They were met by a committee of republicans consisting of Messrs. A. J. Benjamin, Thomas H. Williams, Walter B. Miller, W. M. Day, R. D. Grier, and Dr. E. W. Smith, and escorted to the Peninsula Hotel, where arrangements had been made for their entertainment. Later the Salisbury cornet band drove the assembly to the opera house where Mr. Lowndes called the meeting to order. Mr. Lowndes introduced and spoke about a half hour. In his speech he took occasion to say that he stood squarely on the platform adopted in the Cambridge convention, and that should be the basis of the error of the state he might be counted upon to live up to the pledges made in the party platform.

Mr. Lowndes was followed by Mr. Harry M. Clabaugh, candidate for attorney general. Mr. Clabaugh spoke for more than an hour and his speech was well received by the audience. He was followed by W. A. Tall, of Somerset county, who made a few remarks. The afternoon meeting was then adjourned and Messrs. Lowndes, Clabaugh and Gaither boarded a special train which took them to Oxford, where a mass-meeting was held that night.

In the evening Mr. Walter B. Miller presided over a meeting held in the opera house, at which Col. George R. Gaither, Jr., of Baltimore spoke. At both the afternoon and evening meetings large and enthusiastic crowds of republicans were present. Half of the audience at the evening meeting consisted of colored people. At each meeting a party of ladies attended. The Salisbury Brass Band furnished music on each occasion. The names of these gentlemen were read out in the afternoon oration as vice presidents of the meeting.

MR. HASTINGS SPEAKS.

What One of the Participants Says Regarding the Hastings-Watson Assault on Delmar.

In a letter to the Advertiser from Mr. Levin Hastings, one of the participants in the recent assault at Delmar which was briefly chronicled in last week's issue, he says: "I saw in your issue of the 12th inst. an article in which I was represented as making an assault on Isaac Watson of this town. As the said article is a gross misrepresentation of the facts I request you to publish the following statement. Mr. Watson and myself never had any difficulty or even a cross word previous to Tuesday the 18th inst. During the afternoon of that day Watson called at my store twice and, finding me out asked my son and myself whereabout. He did not state his business however, but called again that evening about 7 o'clock when he called me to one side and addressed to me several questions which I answered in a civil manner.

Suddenly Watson raised his fist and struck violently at me, I warded off the blow with my arm. He then caught at my throat and it dawned upon me that he was intent upon personal injury to me. I then met my wife at the store and we both landed on the sidewalk. Justice Culver was present and commended me to get off of Watson. I replied that I would and asked the bystanders to break Watson's hold on me, that I did not wish to hurt him. When we were again on our feet Watson rushed at me swearing and cursing and striking the air with his fists. The crowd kept him back and I went into my store. Watson dared me to come out into the street again, but I declined as I wanted no fuss with him. Finding that I would not go to him he started into the street where I was. I warned him that I should hurt him if he came inside. In spite of my warning Watson rushed upon me, I seized an axe handle and struck him a light blow, Watson continued his assault and I struck him once more. The Justice of the Peace then came up and took Watson to his office.

Although Watson's physician reported that his skull was fractured, he has not stopped a single day and on the 11th inst. two days after the difficulty, drove in a buggy to Georgetown and back—a distance of forty-eight miles—where he swore out a writ of assault with intent to kill. The case came up before Justice Elliott at Laurel on the 16th and the justice declared that Watson's fall, and consequently dismissed the case.

Sharptown Items. Quiet now reigns supreme. The railway and basket factory, the chief industries, are closed and but one building in course of erection. Both of the above institutions will perhaps resume work soon.

The steamer Enoch Pratt has been on the Nantuxet route this week in place of the Chowan. We now have excellent mail facilities. The mail from Riverton to Seaford goes daily and steamer carries to three times a week. Capt. Wm. G. Ellis of this town who has been sick in the German Hospital at Philadelphia is reported to be slightly better.

The residence where Geo. S. Marine lived, just below town, known as the "Twiford Property" was totally destroyed by fire on Wednesday morning about ten o'clock. His wife built a fire in the cook stove and while out of the house a few moments later discovered the roof on fire. She managed to get most of the furniture on the lower floor out, but nearly all the clothing of the husband, wife and four children except what they had on was burned. The property belonged to Capt. John W. Hart, and was not insured. A meeting of the patrons of the school here and citizens generally was held in Twiford's Hall on Wednesday evening to take in consideration the necessity of more school room. The board of trustees was present and showed special interest in the matter. Capt. F. C. Polson was made chairman and Prof. Lee Gurdy secretary. A large delegation was appointed to wait on the school commissioners at their next meeting and ask for additional room. A petition will also be circulated to procure signatures, endorsing and recommending the move. The local board of trustees, backed by the delegation and petitioners will present their claims.

New Buildings Going Up. Work is progressing very nicely on Mr. J. D. Price's new residence, corner of Division and West Church streets. When finished this new residence will be an ornament to Division street, and a recommendation to the architectural talent of contractor Thos. H. Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell is building a house on Newton street for Mr. W. W. Mitchell. It is a two story dwelling and will be another very comfortable home on that rapidly improving residence street. On the same street Mr. Geo. W. Byrd is erecting a grocery and a meat shop. Mr. Chas. Nettles is pushing away on a new home for Mr. Wm. L. Brewington on Isabella street. This is a commodious structure, and when completed will be occupied by Mr. Brewington and family. On the same street Mr. A. J. Benjamin is having erected a two story dwelling which he intends for a tenement house. On East Church street near the base-ball grounds Mr. Clayton H. Menick is erecting a house of houses for Mr. E. S. Trutt. The houses will be occupied by tenants and are already rented.

Marriage of Mr. F. R. Delany. Mr. Joseph B. Delany, of New York, son of Mr. F. H. A. Delany of Fruitland, this county, was married at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening to Miss Lucy Tull of Pocomoke city. The ceremony was performed in the P. O. Church, that city, which was prettily decorated. The groom's best man was Mr. W. P. Delany of Philadelphia, brother of the groom. Messrs. G. Sellman Williams, E. C. Polson and F. Leonard Wallis of Salisbury and Mr. Joseph Jones of Baltimore were the bridesmaids.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was given at the residence of Mr. Robert Dryden. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Wallace Reard of this city. Their future residence will be in New York.

Maid Sub Curia. The mandamus case of Miss Linkford and Sadler was argued last Monday before the Somerset Court, Judges Holland and Lloyd were present. Congressmen Joshua W. Miles and Sadler and Linkford and Sadler for Linkford. The argument was upon the construction of the acts of 1890, chapter 535, section 132, and 1892, chapter 701. The matter was held sub curia and no opinion was expressed by the court. The action was brought to compel the majority applicants to select one out of three names presented as candidates for the office of Condition of the Crops.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Reports to the Agricultural Department show a decline in the conditions of all the principal crops except oats, rye and barley. The detailed summary made public today shows a widespread reduction in the condition of potatoes, due largely to the drought. Complaints of potato rot come from the Northern and more Southern of the New England States, New York, several of the states adjoining the great lakes, and Missouri and Kansas. The losses from leaf blight and insects appear to have been exceptionally light. The most serious complaint of the potato grower this year is the low price of the product, particularly in the Northwest. The report from the department's agent for Wisconsin and Minnesota represents that in the latter States the tubers "do not pay for digging." He states that the yield is everywhere low.

Sweet potatoes have suffered seriously from lack of rain and their condition has been materially reduced in many of the States. In some it has fallen from ten to twenty-two points. Tobacco.—The condition of tobacco declined over the entire country. The condition is the lowest, something over a half a crop is expected, and the same may be said of Maryland and Virginia. The crops of Massachusetts and Connecticut are excellent. Conditions in New York, Pennsylvania and Kentucky approximate the average for the country. Droughts and frosts of the last of Sept. are causes of lower condition. Sorghum.—This crop seems to have suffered little, but in Virginia low conditions east of the Blue Ridge reduce the general average to 80. Apples.—The continued drought, hot weather and high winds of September, causing premature ripening and dropping, have resulted in a loss of over two points in the average condition of apples. The greatest losses occurred in the central district, where the crop was abundant. It is thought both the eating and keeping quality of the fruit has been much impaired and in many sections a tendency to rot is already noted. The average condition now stands at 7.06.

The Mount Lebanon Shakers.

They performed a great deal of charity, though it was not done as a charity, being nothing more or less than an advertising scheme. It however resulted in great good just the same. They gave away 1,000 bottles of their Digestive Cordial to those suffering from stomach derangements. It was an effective in curing those who used the remedy that they were loud in their praises of it and in consequence a large demand for the cordial was at once created. The druggists of this town have little books that tell all about it. Digestive Cordial creates an appetite, aids digestion and brings about a rapid increase in flesh and strength. Laxol is the name of palatable Castor Oil. Just the thing for children.

The first photograph made in America was a view taken on a sheet of polished metal from one of the upper windows of the United States Mint by Joseph Saxton, October 16, 1839—the day after the definite account of Daguerre's process was published in Philadelphia.

Joseph Saxton

A salted paper box with a few flakes of iodine answered for a coating box, while a cigar box and burning glass were improvised for a camera. An iron spoon served to heat the mercury to develop the plate. The result was a picture showing a portion of the State Arsenal and Philadelphia High School, which then stood on the ground now occupied by Wanamaker's.

WOMEN'S COATS

Depends on the stuffs whether or not the coat is lined. These cold-resistant double-faced cloths would be half spoiled were the stylish plaid back hidden by a lining. The cloths that have all their beauty on the one side, are backed up with satin rhabdam. Wonderfully stylish Coats, pick where you may, $15 to $20.

Most of the Coats we show are imported and neither the apes style or the sea voyage seem to add much to the cost, for here are Imported Cheviot Coats, reefer front, seams all bound; half satin lined, at $8.50. Made in Berlin.

There is a story of Coats at $5—but no room for it today. The Coats are of Diagonal Cheviot, half silk lined; velvet collar.

DRESS STUFFS

Twenty-five cents today buys such qualities as were fifty cents two or three years ago. It is needed to keep this in mind, or you would count as today. They are right, pretty, for instance—

36 in. all-wool French Serge. Eleven colorings. 25c.

Much the same effects in American goods. They, too, are 25c.

And, skipping to the 37 1/2 range, the selection is vastly greater than ever. Beauty and serviceableness are combined in every one.

There are—

8 styles of Imported Melange Suiting. 19 styles of Imported Mixed Suiting. 8 styles of Domestic Bourne Novelty. 8 styles of Domestic Figure Novelty.

Storm Serges in navy, black and brown, maintain their prestige. 38 in., 37 1/2.

SHOES

The wizard of the Shoe store keeps right on with the surprises that have set the whole town wondering. Such shoe selling is altogether too interesting to miss. Those who have depended on us longest for footwear are the store's staunchest friends—for, somehow, shoes from Wanamaker's wear better than those to be had anywhere else. It is this Shoe wizard's know-how that keeps them in the high standard.

For Men

All hand-sewed French Calfskin Shoes, $8. In Patent Leather, if you wish. Men's best American tanned Calfskin or Imported Patent Leather Shoes, $8.50.

Men's Patent Leather Shoes of Imported stock; welted and stitched soles, $8.

For Women

Best Chrome Kidskin Shoes, button and lace, are best judged by comparative prices—$8.50 for $5 and $7.50 Shoes. $8.50 for $4 Shoes. $1.00 for $2.50 and $3 Shoes.

CARRIAGE ROBES

Part of this eye-opening harness business is to sell Robes. Pick at random and see how we are doing it. These fine Mohair Plush Robes at $9 are in the very best designs—about what you would pay $12 for.

There are Plush Robes at $4, at $3.50—at almost any price between.

Cloth Robes, domestic and English; green and blue, $5 to $3.50—and something about each to make it worth the price marked on it.

Horse-Blankets, too. Some fine ones of California wool, lawn color, 50x96 inches, $6. Others for less—and more.

JOHN WANAMAKER.

At the store of Philadelphia by Tilly in 1839 this noted authority on the art of war laid down the general maxim that after a successful assault the soldiers ought to have three hours of pillage.
