ROBBERIES IN SALISBURY.

Post-master Humphreys' House the Last One Entered. The Thief Apprehended.

The theft of valuable jewelry and money from the residence of Post master M. A. Humphreys, in Camden, last Tuesday night has been kept so quiet that only a very few people had learned of it when the fact was announced here Thursday that the robber had been apprehended in Philadelphia and the property, except one ring valued at about $30.00, had been recovered.

The news of the robbery reached the authorities here by means of a telegram from Philadelphia police, stating that a Philadelphia pawn-broker had been offered jewelry, which from private marks it was seen had been purchased by Hon. Wm. H. Jackson from the well-known jeweler Bailey, Banks & Biddle.

Wednesday night Policeman Elliott, accompanied by Mr. Humphreys, went to Philadelphia and claimed the property. They also identified the robber who proved to be George Wallis, son of Noah Wallis a colored man of this city. Wallis is about 33 years old and left here about two years ago to escape the consequences of an attempted rape upon a girl of his own color. He has since lived in Wilmington, making frequent clandestine visits to Salisbury. It is believed that he has confederates here and that it was this gang who robbed Mr. Wm. B. Tilghman's house some months ago taking among other valuables, two gold watches and a pair of trousers. Pawn tickets from Wilmington pawn brokers were found in Wallis' pockets calling for a watch and a pair of trousers. It is likely that these goods will furnish an important clue to the robbery of Mr. Tilghman's house.

The property taken from Mr. Humphreys' house Tuesday night belonged to his aunt, Miss Alice Humphreys, and is worth about $200.00. $15.00 in cash was also taken.

Requisition papers will be forwarded to the Governor of Pennsylvania at an early date as possible, and Wallis brought here for trial.

Court Adjourned.

As foreshadowed in last week's issue, the September term of court adjourned last Saturday.

The Alms House report was made by E. W. Smith, E. P. Parsons, George W. Messick and E. M. Bethard, the committee appointed to visit that institution. The report reads: "We feel gratified to be able to report everything in such perfectly satisfactory condition. The inmates numbering 15 in all, 4 males and 2 females, white; 4 males and 5 females, colored, all seem well cared for having good, clean, comfortable, well-kept rooms and proper clothing provided for them. An air of cleanliness was everywhere in evidence. The stock, 3 horses, 2 mules, 9 hogs, 1 brood sow with eight pigs, 5 cows, 3 calves, 2 calves, and a beautiful flock of chickens, all denote thrift and good attention. The crops are also abundant, there being an unusually large crop of corn, 200 bushels of wheat, 75 bushels of white potatoes and about 500 heads of cabbage." This report is certainly very complimentary to the superintendent, Mr. Henry J. Seabree.

Report on condition of the Court House was made by R. McKinney Price, W. H. Beach and Harry K. Williams, who recommended several minor repairs to the roof and other parts which are leaking. Some necessary repairs to the lavatory were also pointed out.

The Grand Jury in a body visited the county jail and returned convinced that some important changes should be immediately made. Their report to the court recommends these improvements.

Messick-Brewingtons.

Mr. Harry T. Messick, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Messick of Allen, and Miss Mamie J. Brewington were married last Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Edward A. Brewington of Whayland. Rev. C. H. Williams officiated.

The wedding march was played by Miss Ethel Malone and Mr. Wade T. Porter was the groom's best man. Only the most intimate friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Messick drove to the home of the groom's parents in Allen where they will, for the present, reside. Later in the season they expect to take an extended trip to Florida and other points South.

SUCCESSORS TO PRESIDING ELDERS.

Speculation As To Who Will Be Appointed To Succeed Drs. Martindale And Corkran.

An exchange as follows: Methodists of the Peninsula are indulging in speculation as to who will succeed Presiding Elders Corkran and Martindale, of Easton and Salisbury districts, respectively. Rev. Vaughan S. Collins, of Smyrna, has been mentioned for an eldership, as have a dozen more prominent ministers. The opinion is almost general that Drs. Corkran and Martindale will not be reappointed. If two new presiding elders are to be named, it is argued, the assignment of these two gentlemen to desirable pastorate will figure considerably in the deal. Dr. Corkran is mentioned for the pastorate of the Easton Church, and Rev. C. A. Grise, the present pastor of that charge, is suggested as Dr. Corkran's successor as presiding elder. Dr. Corkran is also mentioned for the pastorate of Union Church, Wilmington, and Rev. R. H. Adams, D. D., its present pastor, is suggested for the Easton district presiding eldership. Union church, it is said, would have received Dr. Corkran gladly when Rev. John D. C. Hanna, D. D., vacated its pastorate, and it is hinted that Union would welcome him now if Dr. Adams should be appointed presiding elder. There are also whispers of Dr. Corkran being transferred to another conference. Dr. Martindale is mentioned for the pastorate of one of three churches—St. Paul's and Harrison Street, Wilmington, and Tome Memorial, Port Deposit; and the respective pastors of those churches, Revs. W. L. S. Murray, D. D., J. W. Easley and A. S. Mowbray, D. D., are suggested for the Salisbury district presiding eldership.

Death of a Young Man.

It is with pen dipped in the fountain of sorrow that the lines below are written, in memory of our departed friend, John L. Tilghman who died at New Bern, N. C. Friday, Sept. 26 of typhoid fever after only a few days illness, aged 28 years. Deceased was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason P. Tilghman of near Salisbury.

Funeral services were held at the home of the parents Sunday afternoon conducted by the Rev. Mr. Morris of Pittsville.

The subject of this sketch graduated from the Salisbury High School with the class of '98, having ranked among the highest of his class. After teaching three years successfully he took a business course at Goldey College, Wilmington, Del., graduating there the past spring with high honors. Immediately after graduation he accepted a position with the Evening Journal of that city and remained there until the 23 of July when he went to N. C. to take a position with the large lumber firm with which he was connected at the time of his death. His every undertaking was a grand success, and his life was a beautiful and ideal one. He had the happy faculty of making everybody his friend. As the preacher fittingly said in his sermon, "to know him was to love him." His life was such a pure, noble, conscientious Christian life that at its going out we can truthfully say that he left a mark but not one stain. A Friend.

One Ton, Price, $17.50.

New York, Oct. 1.—This advertisement appeared in the Brooklyn Eagle today:

FOR SALE—One TON OF COAL; price $17.50. House No. 641 St. Marks avenue, thrown in. Apply to CHARLES B. ROBES, 58 Pine Street New York City.

Of course, the advertisement is a joke but the coal crisis is far from a joke. From the best information obtainable the only sales of coal which are being made in Brooklyn are in small lots of less than 50 pounds. In such quantities as this coal is on the market, if one knows where to go. The price quoted is 3 cents a pound. The market reports quote fair refining sugar at 3 cents. One of the dealers derived grim humor from this situation. He said:

"If this strike holds on a week or two more, I'm going to get a set of pennyweight scales and some paper bags and set up a retail fuel shop. I have a few hundred pounds of coal and they say there is almost as much fuel weight in sugar as in coal. When coal gets to 3 or 4 cents a pound I'm going to buy a beet-sugar farm and sell sugar for fuel."

Cospiel Revised.

The saddest words of tongue or pen: "The price of coal has risen again!"

The Liquor Men's Fight.

A hard fight is going on between the Anti-Saloon League and the liquor men of Salisbury district. The Anti-Saloon League, under the provisions of the present liquor law, petitioned the Court for the privilege of voting on the question of closing the saloons. Immediately the liquor men were aroused and took steps to circumvent the Anti-Saloon people.

Judges Page and Holland sitting on the bench in Salisbury Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, heard the case, Attorneys Handy and Walton representing the League and Messrs. Mills and Stanford, the liquor men. Thursday afternoon the case was adjourned till Friday afternoon of next week.

The Court ruled that names could be, in the meantime, legally added to or taken off the list.

An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Scrofula—as ugly as ever since time immemorial. It causes bunches in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membrane, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into consumption.

"A bunch appeared on the left side of my neck. It caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore. I went into a general decline. I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken six bottles my neck was healed, and I have never had any trouble of the kind since." Mrs. K. T. Snyder, Troy, Ohio.

REPLY TO MR. ELLEGOOD.

The Republican Position on the Proposition to do Away With Bribery.

A meeting of the Republican Congressional campaign committee of the First District was held at Easton Thursday afternoon. All of the counties, with the exception of Caroline, were represented.

The proposition of Mr. Ellegood to use no money except for legitimate campaign purposes was taken up and thoroughly discussed, and the following reply was agreed upon:

HON. JAMES E. ELLEGOOD, Democratic Candidate for Congress, Salisbury, Md.

Dear Sir:— I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your communications and desire to express myself as being in hearty sympathy with you and all others who are interested in the suppression of bribery at elections in this State.

But, while I may have faith in your personal sincerity in this matter, I know that I am rather dealing with a party whose record for the last thirty-five years in this State has been one of bribery and corruption. Whatever of evil there is in this State along these lines is due to the Democratic party, whose every legislative act up to the present time, has been against every effort to purify the ballot.

When the Anti-bribery law was passed by your party, it provided for the punishment of both buyer and seller, which you, as a lawyer know, practically makes the law a nullity. An effort in 1896 to amend this law so as to be effective, was passed by a Republican House but was smothered by a Democratic Senate.

Those leaders of your party in this District, upon whom you will depend for election results, are the same who have been leaders not only in violating the Anti-bribery law, but still further preventing our efforts for pure elections by aiding and abetting the use of fraudulent and trick ballots, the foundation for the use of which was deliberately planned by your leaders in the calling of a special session of the Legislature and the passing of an election law which made these infamous frauds possible.

During last winter's session of the Legislature, your party leaders defeated the "Corrupt Practices" bill, which had for its purpose the suppression of bribery and all other offences against the purity of the ballot.

The Democratic Convention of Ocean City, which made you its Candidate for Congress, endorsed through its platform, the present State Administration and by so doing placed its seal of approval upon all its acts, and does this not mean that your party approved of the trick ballots and the other nefarious schemes engineered by Democratic officials in the year 1901?

If your party in the district is sincere in its efforts to prevent bribery in a Congressional election, it should be equally sincere in its efforts to prevent bribery at all elections in the years to come.

Let there be a gathering of your party leaders from all the counties of the district large enough in numbers to be thoroughly representative in its character, and unlike upon an agreement to do all in their power to prevent bribery in the future.

I feel assured my party will be found uniting with you as earnestly and sincerely as your representatives could possibly be.

If your party will not do this, I can not be expected to have confidence in the statements of those who would pose as an Anti-briber to-day, and at the same time planning bribery for tomorrow.

W. H. JACKSON.

Sawdust for Fuel.

Sawdust treated chemically and compressed into briquettes to be used for fuel, is the latest suggestion as a substitute for high priced coal. Philadelphia chemists believe that a process can be devised by which the waste product of a sawmill can be converted into a cheap and effective article for heating. It is proposed to treat the sawdust with crude oil and then mould the substance into cubical blocks or briquettes. It is said that the experiment has been made and that the result has been fairly successful.

A SERMON ON SAMSON.

How A Colored Brother Looks Upon The Life And Achievements Of A Famous Biblical Character.

Our Allen correspondent vouches for the substantial correctness of the following from his pen:

The colored folks of Friendship M. E. Church, near Allen are holding what they call a "church camp" this week. Local preachers are in demand and never fail to "show off" in the pulpit when called upon to do so.

The Rev. Geo. Bounds delivered an interesting sermon last Monday evening on "Samson." The "Rev. George" is the butcher at Allen and never fails to sell every pound of a fifteen year old heifer and a ten year old spring lamb when he starts out. The local clergyman is well liked and known throughout the county. As an expounder of the gospel he is of no mean ability. Messrs. Isaac L. Price, A. H. Murrell and Ashland Malone of Salisbury will testify to this. They know, too, that George did really nurse his twin babies, cut his hair, shave and eat his dinner all at the same time, and without the assistance of anyone. If there's a man that can beat this let him step forward at once as it's the last time this advertisement will appear.

Let us look at George for a moment. On the night that he delivered the sermon he was attired in a long black coat of uncertain vintage, a pair of dark blue overalls and his feet were encased in—well some said the box the shoes came in. He was well equipped with a forty horse power voice and in his gesticulations he reminded us of some one stacking fodder.

The preacher chose these words as the basis of his remarks: "And the woman bore a son and called his name Samson; and the child grew and the Lord blessed him."

The preacher has had some little difficulty in taking unto himself a second wife, and the proclamation was intended as a thrust at the women as well as a warning to the young men to flee from them if they expected to escape the wrath to come.

The discourse ran as follows: "Samson was a fast rate I'll say. He done ev'ning his pappy an' mammy to 'im an' consequences wuh he growed up to be a great man, de greater ob his day. He wuh a great wahyuh but nebah tuck any shine to de naby. He fit on lan' an' got de credit. His pos' off' dress wuh Gory."

When I wuh a l'il boy my pappy use to tell me 'bout Samson's great stren' an' Jones a swallin' a wale but I didn't believe it den. Since I hab growed up I fine it am true as gospel. Samson wuh de strong man an' Jones wuh de whoppin' big man. I hab read a good deal sence Jones swallered a wale but I hab nebah bin able to run 'cross a nuthan man dat could do dat. Dah has only bin one man libin' sence de days ob Jones dat could come anywhar nebah it, an' dat man am Grobah Clebanan'. Grobah stans nex' to Jones fuh libbin' fish.

Samson, brethering, got mahied, an' from dat day until he died he wuh de henpeckedest husband dat ebah libed. I hab ruther de town ob Salisbury fall on me an' break ebah rib in my chest dan hab sitch a wife as Samson had. De pooh fellah nebah had a minutes res'. Deller wuh wus'n a yellah jacket. I'll jes' show you how mean she treated Samson. De ol' man wuh a candid fuh de stait senit's, publican ob cose. De fillysteens am all Dimercrats. Deller bein' a fillysteen she natchully wuh a Dimercrat.

Mistah Samson would be out o' nights wid de boys a plannin' an' makin' speeches. Some nights he'd come in like a good many candits in dis day, an' go to bed with his boots on, an' Deller, knowin' his tempah an, stren' didn't bothah him den. De nex' mawnin' Samson 'ud be awake wid a dahk brown tase in his mouf. Deller seed huh chance den, an' gwine up to 'im wid a wicked twinkle in huh off eye, jes' like a Dimercrat, would throw huh arms 'roun' his nalk, an' wid huh nose well out ob de range ob his bref, ask, "Tubbest flow me, Samson? De pooh crishah, not knowin' what she 'us up to would ansah: "Ob cose I does. She'd then mix 'im up a big dose ob medisin' to make 'im eat his brekfus' an' befo' he knowed anything he had to' huh ebething he'd done an' what his m'jority would be. Deller would go rate 'cross de street to Dimercrat hadeqashahs an' tell de chah-man.

What wuh de consequences? Samson got licked by ova 400. He got so mad at his defeat dat he jes' went out nex' day an' findin' de jawbone ob a mewl dat wuh struck by littenin' de summah befo' sailed in an' Kilt obah a thousan' fillysteens. He vowed he'd make his m'jority shoah nex' time he run. Soon, howebah, he wuh 'plinted by de Guv'nah as Judge an' he ruled obah fer ul nigh onto twenty yeahs. He wuh a terrah to ebil doahs an' no man ebah 'escaped dat wuh fotch befo' 'im fuh beatin' his wife. Like a good many men he wuh weak an' wadillatin' an' soon he wuh bought off to tell wahh his stren' lay. Judge Samson soon wound up his careah by pullin' a shutehdown on hisel' dyin' wid de fillysteens, all on 'bout ob a 'oosan.

My young friends, ef you air thinkin' ob hitchin' to a 'ooman ob dis kin' go down yo'elves or commit suicide. Fuh my part, I'd ruther hab forty wild cats in my house dan a 'ooman ob dat kin'. Take wahhin' from Samson, gid your hearts to de Lawd and let de 'ooman kick fuh hereef. Bible don't say nuthin' bout huh goin' to glory, no way."

The sermon made a deep impression on the young men and a deeper one on the dusky damsels, who are looking for husbands. The women may make the very deepest kind of an impression on the Rev. George Bounds if they get him within their clutches. R. A.

The sneak thief who was arrested by Detective Weber of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Washington Junction on Tuesday was yesterday convicted at Frederick of several thefts and sentenced to 15 years in the Penitentiary by Chief Judge McSherry. His identity is unknown, but he has been traveling. It is said, under the aliases of Everett and Remington.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of any one. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Hanley, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns, wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits.

Joshua Olden, 80 years old, a fruit vender, has been convicted of trespassing upon the Baltimore and Ohio property at Weyerton, after having been warned to keep away. His counsel contended that anyone had a right about a railroad station, but it was decided that such right belongs only to those who are passengers or have business with the Company.

Broke Into His House.

S. LeQuinn of Cavendish, Vt., was robbed of his customary health by invasion of Chronic Constipation. When Dr. King's New Life Pills broke into his house, his trouble was arrested and now he's entirely cured. They're guaranteed to cure, 25c. at any Drug Store.

G. Donald Riley of Annapolis and Clinton R. Thompson of New Hampshire have been finally rejected at the Naval Academy on physical grounds. The physical defects of Stephen J. Garst of Annapolis were waived, and Kenneth C. Busch and Archibald G. Stirling, appointed at large by the President, were also admitted.

Look out for Fever.

Biliousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with DeWitt's Little Early Rider. Three famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tone and strength to the glands.

Reduced Rates to Cleveland Ohio.

On account of the General Missionary Convention of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at Cleveland, Ohio, October 21 to 24, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Cleveland, October 20 and 21, good to return, leaving Cleveland until October 27, inclusive, from all stations on its lines, at reduced rates. 10-20

A Cough

"I have made a most thorough trial of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and am prepared to say that for all diseases of the lungs it never disappoints."

J. Early Finley, Ironton, O.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral won't cure rheumatism; we never said it would. It won't cure dyspepsia; we never claimed it. But it will cure coughs and colds of all kinds. We first said this sixty years ago; we've been saying it ever since.

Three sizes, 25c. enough for an ordinary cold; 50c. just right for bronchitis, hoarseness, hard colds, etc.; 81c. most economical for chronic cases and to keep on hand.

THE MOSQUITO WAR.

Drainage and Fish the Best Methods For Checking the Pest.

The biological department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has been engaged the past winter, under the direction of Professor William T. Sedgwick, in a study of the conditions most favorable to breeding mosquitoes and of the best way to get rid of these conditions. Heretofore the use of kerosene oil sprayed on the surface of the breeding pools has been the remedy most commonly employed. The mosquito larvae, thrusting their long breathing tubes out of the water, take in oil instead of air and are speedily suffocated. It is suggested by Professor Sedgwick's department, however, that the use of oil, while excellent for the time being, is only a temporary expedient, after all, and that drainage of swamps in the neighborhood of towns and cities and the stocking of ponds with certain varieties of fish are the most efficient means of permanently eliminating a pest which, it is now known, is the cause of all human malaria.

The question of draining the marshes and stagnant pools, which are the breeding places of the mosquito, has been interestingly illustrated in the neighborhood of Boston, where the so-called fresh pond marshes were for a long time a source of malarial infection throughout the neighboring towns. Under a Massachusetts law which gives boards of health authority to abate such nuisances the boards of two of these towns, Belmont and Cambridge, co-operated in building a canal half a mile in length, which successfully drained a considerable area of the land. The cost was only $1,000, and not only was the improvement which resulted highly important from a sanitary point of view, decreasing the number of mosquitoes and greatly reducing the prevalence of malaria, but many acres of meadow and woodland were redeemed and made useful. It is believed at the Institute of Technology that a similar scheme of drainage may be found useful, from many points of view, in the case of a large number of cities and towns in other parts of the country.

Even with the best system of drainage, however, there must still be ponds and sluggish waterways. Here it is recommended that freedom from mosquitoes may often be secured by introducing certain varieties of fish which feed on mosquito larvae. Among those mentioned are the stickleback, the top minnow, the sunfish, or "pumpkin," and the goldfish. It has been maintained for some time that carp, of which the goldfish is one variety, did not eat mosquito larvae, but experiments undertaken by Mr. W. L. Underwood at the Institute have apparently proved the contrary, at least so far as the goldfish are concerned. Mr. Underwood put a goldfish in an aquarium together with a number of the larvae of the anopheles mosquito—the variety, that is, which carries the germ of malaria—and was able to show that under these conditions the goldfish ate the larvae without question and apparently with great relish. To convince the skeptical he took photographs of the operation, which are soon to be published in one of the magazines. Goldfish will thrive and multiply in shallow waters like those which are commonly frequented by mosquitoes even when ice forms nearly to the bottom of the ponds, and they seem to be particularly desirable in the waters of a park reservation, where, if anywhere, the mosquito is so distinctly out of place.

The Pingpong Craze.

Commenting on the craze for pingpong, the New York Tribune says: "All the clubs are putting in tables for this game. Manufacturers are working day and night to supply the demand for the balls and the tools of the sport. Brokers forget to look at the tape while they smile the little spheres in their offices. Women and men alike have fallen victims to this fascination by the thousands. Pingpong can be played at any hour of the day or night and in any weather and in any condition of mind or of nerves, as it is exclusively an indoor recreation and requires no extremely elaborate and expensive apparatus, as the game of billiards does. Moreover, no long and arduous training, no series of exacting and costly lessons, is indispensable. Of course the range of skill among the players is almost as wide and varied as it is among the holders of the cue who try to run up scores at caroms or at pool. But even the novices at this sport seem to get a great deal of fun out of it, and they are not obliged to trudge exhausting miles, as at the golf links."

His Self Denial.

A relative of Rear Admiral Evans tells the following characteristic story of the boyhood of the popular sailor: As a boy he had been talked to by the clergyman of the church which his family attended regarding the keeping of Lent, the clergyman trying to impress upon the youngster the idea that the right way of observing Lent was to deny himself that which he most enjoyed. When three weeks of this solemn season had passed without young Evans appearing in church, the clergyman called to see what was the trouble.

"Why," said Evans, "I am keeping Lent strictly, just as you told me to, by denying myself my greatest pleasure—that of hearing you preach."

The Severed Line.

When we turn away from some duty or some fellow creature, saying that our hearts are too sick and sore with some great yearning of our own, we may often sever the line on which a divine message was coming to us. We shut out the man and we shut out the angel who had sent him on to open the door.—Edward Garrett.

CAPTIVE BIRDS.

Their Diseases and the System by Which They Are Treated.

"Few of us have ever picked up a sick or diseased bird in the woods. Of course, birds fall ill, but there are many reasons why they are seldom seen. There is such a severe struggle for very existence—finding food, avoiding enemies—that when a bird for any reason becomes less active or weakened a very short time elapses before some hawk or other animal kills it. If by some rare chance it should die and drop to the ground, burying beetles, those insect undertakers of the nether world, set at work and in a day remove the carcass from view.

No matter how exactly natural conditions are copied, birds in confinement are bound to be attacked now and then by disease. When the collection of birds in the New York zoological park assumed an importance which warranted it, many books on avian diseases were purchased, and the majority were found to be almost worthless, especially those relating to the care of wild birds. So these were cast aside and experiments begun, which, though they cost more lives than one at first, soon yielded results which have proved invaluable. The bird's body is composed of flesh, blood and bones so like our own in composition that, it was argued a priori, why would not the same therapeutics apply? In many instances perfect confirmation of this has resulted.

Birds differ from human beings in few important respects. For instance, the normal temperature of most birds is about 110 degrees, which would kill a human being. The circulation is correspondingly rapid, and the effect of any medicine is apparent in a very short time. Out of thirty organic diseases which have caused deaths among the birds all but four or five have yielded to treatment, and most of those have certain definite premonitory symptoms, so that they can be treated before an advanced stage renders recovery uncertain. Most of the recent deaths among the hundred odd birds have been due to accidents or occasional colds.

Colds are very common ailments among the birds, and if these are not attended to often lead to roup and diphtheria. Sometimes the latter disease appears in a bird almost without warning. A very little thickening of the third eyelid in a hawk may be the only outward sign that its throat is in a very bad diphtheritic condition. Malaria has been detected several times, and, curiously enough, in herons and other wading birds whose ordinary mode of life, one would think, would long ago have eliminated all birds disposed toward such a disease. Flamingoes spend much of their time standing or walking in water, and yet they are extremely liable when confined in damp places to contract rheumatism. This and similar complaints often yield to a treatment of quinine alone. Corns are the bane of birds whose perches may be too large or where the floors of the cages are not softened by a layer of sand or dirt. A corn will kill a bird of the largest size if left untreated. It is easily cured, and when a bird's foot has once recovered from such a trouble it seems to be immune, as the hardest concrete has no further effect on it.

Canker is fortunately very rare, but the gapes, caused by tiny worms in the throat and trachea, is more common. Instead of ramming an oiled feather down the poor creature's throat, a much better way to effect a cure is to let the bird inhale the fumes of carbolic acid, and a very few sneezes will dislodge the troublesome worms. Parrots in two or three instances have had a peculiar disease, and by accident it was found that if the bird was kept continually in the glaring sunshine it recovered. Whether the heat is the curative agent is not yet known.—New York Post.

A Preacher on Preaching.

It is pleasant sometimes to hear a man "talk shop," especially if he is a distinguished man working in a great shop. Dean Hole in his book "Then and Now" has some humorous and wise things to say about his own profession, preaching.

We want more simplicity, he says—to speak in a tongue that is "understood of the people." Mollere used to read his comedies to an old, uneducated woman that he might judge by the manner in which she was affected how his wit and humor would be received by the people. I could name some poor old folks whose opinion I should rather have about a sermon of mine than that of men in high estate.

"Tell me the story simply, as to a little child," cries the heart that yearns for truth; but some preachers take pleasure in grandiloquence, mystery, metaphysics.

A famous classical scholar, preaching to a small congregation of rustics in the lake district, said to them, "In this beautiful country, my brethren, you have an apotheosis of nature and an apodicticness of theopneptic omnipotence!"

Only One Objection.

When the Rev. Thomas K. Beecher, pastor of the Park church, Elmira, died, the difficult problem of filling his place confronted the trustees of the church. The choice finally settled upon the Rev. Annie Ford Eastman, one of the few women who have made a success of the calling.

An enthusiastic admirer took a friend of his to hear Mrs. Eastman several Sundays ago. At the conclusion of the sermon the friend was asked how he liked it.

"The sermon was all right," was the reply, "but I hear a woman preach six days in the week, and on the seventh I prefer to hear a man."—New York Times.

BOGUS BEETLES:

Many Collectors Badly Duped by a Clever Form of Fraud.

Many an English and American collector with more money and enthusiasm than knowledge of natural history has in his cabinet specimens of beetles which are beyond anything that nature ever attempted. They are the victims of a "beetle faking" industry which turns out annually thousands of the fraudulent bugs and manages to sell them in this country and elsewhere to amateur naturalists at high prices, and the dupes show them proudly to their friends as extremely rare insects, as indeed they are, for they are like nothing else in the animal kingdom. The manufacturer of beetles does not confine himself to giving to his specimens rare and strange colorings, but he makes them up from fragments of other beetles in the manner which strikes his fancy, and this fancy is often very whimsical indeed. Nature, especially in the tropics, produces beetles of strange form, but never so strange as those which come out of the shop of man. Auction sales of damaged collections of specimens of beetles are attended and the collections bought for almost nothing.

These injured specimens are dismembered and their various parts put together again at the fancy of the faker. He takes a beetle's body, and from a collection of several parts of beetles before him, spread out on a white paper, he deftly affixes a head here, a wing there and a leg or two where he thinks they will look quaint. He works rapidly, using a clear liquid glue, the composition of which is a secret of the trade and which joins the various parts immediately so that they cannot easily be pulled apart and so closely that even with a magnifying glass it is difficult to see where the joining is done. The coloring and imitation markings are done with small brushes and other implements designed especially for the purpose and are made permanent by plunging the built up insect into a bath of some secret solution. When the work is completed, only an expert naturalist can detect the fraud, and sometimes even an expert is fooled at first and thinks he has stumbled upon a new specimen of coleoptera.—Chicago Chronicle.

Good Form to Be Kind.

Now a new fad has gone forth. Let all the world bow down and worship the new cult, the religion of kind words, for it is now considered distinctly bad form to say an ill word of any one, even one's dearest enemy. If you think Mrs. Vulgar positively shocking in her misuse of English, you must stifle your thinker before it allows the bad form to bubble to the surface in words—it's so very passe to have an evil thought of a soul in the world. Or at least you must not say it out in society. It's quite the proper thing to be delighted with everything and everybody under the sun—the social sun, that is to say. The old way of being superior to every kind of entertainment, house, picture, friend or pug dog, in a yawn which said very plainly, "Very nice, but not half what I've been accustomed to all my life," has gone out.

Now you must go about wretched with smiles of benign charity toward all the world—your world, anyway. What the ministers have been tolling upward in the night to bring about has sprung into being by a single bound at the call of the wizard fashion.—New York Herald.

Nationalities in Hawaii.

There is no place in the world where such various nationalities and such widely different races can be found in so small an area. It is true that on the mainland such races are to be found, but not all in one spot. Few people realize how many different nationalities are to be found in our schools and that few schools are confined to one nationality. The statistics of school children give us Hawaiians, part Hawaiians, American, British, German, Portuguese, Scandinavian, Japanese, Chinese, Porto Ricans and scattering, which are classed as "other foreigners." The tabulation of teachers gives Hawaiian, part Hawaiian, American, British, German, French, Belgian, Scandinavian, Portuguese, Japanese, Chinese and others. The Japanese and Chinese teachers are not employed in the public schools of the territory, but are engaged in private schools. The main body of the teachers in the public schools are American. Hawaiian, part Hawaiian and British.—Honolulu Star.

Maxim Gorki.

Maxim Gorki, the celebrated Russian novelist, was for years little better than a tramp, says American Tit-Bits. At fifteen he ran away from home, and up to the age of twenty-five he scarcely had sufficient food to keep him alive. He worked alternately as a day laborer, a sawyer, a cook and a lighterman. Then he heard that free instruction could be obtained at Kanan, and, having no money to pay for his journey, he walked there, a distance of over 600 miles. He there worked for a salary of 5 shillings a month, studying hard during the evenings. Then he became a clerk in a lawyer's office, where his literary talent was discovered, and he eventually made his mark.

Continuous Prayer.

For more than twenty months the "turret of prayer" that surrounds the Temple of Truth, near Lisbon Falls, Me., has never for an instant been without the sound of a human voice in supplication. It is the intention of the people who attend to this remarkable form of worship that prayer in the turret shall never cease so long as the building shall stand. Those who take part in the service compose the Holy Ghost and Us society.

MILLIONS FOR SPECULATORS, BUT NOTHING FOR THE PEOPLE.

When money is needed for speculative purposes in New York, and Wall street clamors for relief, our Government comes speedily to the rescue. The law may not, in the latest instance, seem to justify some of the measures which the Secretary of the Treasury adopts, but evidently he does not mind stretching the law, if thereby Wall street can be aided over a speculative crisis. Secretary Shaw has been very sympathetic and helpful. When money on call commanded a high rate of interest Mr. Shaw offered to pay bond interest due in October and to advance money to banks which could give "free bonds" as security for Government deposits. That did not relieve the stringency in the money market, and Mr. Shaw proposed to pay all bond interest falling due before the end of the fiscal year. Even this was not sufficient and New York clamored for more relief. Then the Secretary decided to adopt sweeping measures. As stated in The Sun yesterday, he will allow banks to cover Treasury deposits by securities not of the character which the law apparently contemplates. Savings banks securities which have "stood the test of the last two panics" are good enough for Secretary Shaw, although the law requires that public money deposited in banks must be secured by the deposit of "United States bonds and not otherwise." Secretary Shaw also rules that no reserve need be held by national banks against deposits of Government money. The law requires a cash reserve equal to 25 per cent of the aggregate amount of the deposit.

It may be that the financial situation in New York has reached a critical stage and that the "unprecedented" action of Secretary Shaw is necessary to restore confidence and to relieve the stringency of the money market. That the Secretary of the Treasury has this purpose mainly in view is not questioned, although financial experts are amazed at what ex Secretary Fairchild describes as "a radical departure from precedent." If the Government can stretch the law in a financial crisis for the benefit of Wall street, why should it be so helpless when other interests demand relief? If the Government can come to the relief of New York bankers in an emergency, through an elastic interpretation of the banking laws, why should it hesitate to impart a similar degree of elasticity to the laws relating to "combinations in restraint of trade"? Money stringency is not worse than a coal famine. For nearly five months conditions have existed in the Pennsylvania coal fields which seemingly warranted action by the Government. Yet not a step has been taken until the last day or two to relieve the necessities of the people, and to bring about an adjustment of one of the most disastrous industrial wars in the history of the nation. Attorney General Knox looked into the law and decided that it could not be invoked for the protection of the people. And so the coal strike dragged on week after week and the Government held aloof and apparently made no effort to end it although the country was threatened with a calamity far greater than the misfortunes which might have resulted from a scarcity of money for speculative purposes. For the relief of Wall street "a radical departure from precedent" was promptly undertaken. For the relief of many millions of people suffering for the lack of fuel the Government could devise no remedy. Is it possible that our laws are elastic only when Wall street's interests are imperiled? Can "radical departure from precedent" be authorized only when the financiers of New York need assistance? Must the people freeze because the laws enacted for their protection are without that benevolent elasticity which has proved the salvation of Wall street in a crisis? If the government can do things for the bankers which the law apparently never contemplated why should it not be able to find in the laws which were designed to protect the people from monopolies some warrant for a "radical departure from precedent" in the interest of the public?—Baltimore Sun of Thursday.

SECRETARY SHAW PROPERLY INDICTS THE DEMOCRACY.

"The opposition (meaning the Democratic party) has always legislated in the interest of the consumer."—Secretary Shaw in his recent speech at Chicago.

This is an indictment to which the Democratic party pleads guilty with pleasure, with the one qualification that it has done so under the broad principle of equal rights to all and special privileges to none. While legislating in the interests of consumers it has not lost sight of the interests of the producer. It has always sought the good of the whole people rather than the aggrandizement of the few. While it recognizes the fact that the great mass of people are consumers it has not forgotten the fact that the producer is also a consumer, and is entitled to the same consideration as well. In short the Democratic party is not willing to lend the government machine to any man or set of men. It legislates in the interest of all the people all the time.

On the other hand forgetting the interests of the consumer and ignoring them even as if they did not exist, the Republican party has gone on legislating in the interests of the classes at the expense of the masses; until today we find the classes inordinarily rich while the masses are poor. Any party which subverts the use of the government machinery to class interests, which creates a tariff that is the mother of the trusts, or, if you please "the parent of conditions which makes the combination of capital profitable," as the secretary will have it, is guilty of a gross breach of confidence at the polls.

In speaking of prosperity the President acknowledged the Democratic contention when he said:

"Doubtless there are some individuals who do not get enough of it, and there are others who get too much of it."

The democrats have claimed as much and there is no denying the fact that it is true. But what enables it to do so? Discriminating tariff laws; laws that compel the people to pay any price the Trusts may demand or fix; laws which force American consumers to pay more for American made goods than foreigners are charged. That is what makes such conditions. Tariff revision is the only remedy and the republican party refuses to enforce it. The alternative is plain. Vote for the candidates of the Democratic party for Congress. They are pledged to revise the tariff, to make a tariff for revenue rather than a tariff for the trusts.

Representative Lovering, Republican member of Congress from Massachusetts, comes over to the Democratic doctrine when he recently announced his position on the tariff in these words, "I believe in free coal, free iron, and reciprocity with Canada. I believe in free raw materials, so far as these are practicable, without breaking down entirely the American system of protection to our industries. I believe the time is ripening for a revision of our tariff along these lines and I think something can now be accomplished."

—Miss Etta H. Maddox, the first woman to become a lawyer in Maryland, was admitted to the bar in Baltimore last week. She has made a plucky fight, having gone to the Court of Appeals, where she was refused. Her next attempt was with the Legislature, which finally passed the bill giving the female sex the right to practice law.

—The musical talent of Salisbury is rehearsing for the corner stone laying of the Peninsula Hospital which will take place Monday October 13th, Hon. Wm. H. Jackson's birthday. Mr. Jackson is giving minute attention to every detail of the work of construction of the building which will cost upwards of $30,000, every dollar of which he has volunteered to furnish from his own private funds. The corner-stone laying will be attended with interesting ceremonies.

—The Cambridge Chronicle claims that about $100,000 worth of new buildings will probably be begun in that city between this time and the first of January next. This includes an estimate of $30,000 for the new hospital. The Chronicle adds that Cambridge has no reason to be ashamed of this year's building operations. It will be seen by these figures that Cambridge is pushing Salisbury hard in the matter of building operations.

—The Rev. L. D. Bransford of Danville, Va., will occupy the pulpit in Trinity Church next Sunday morning and evening. He has conducted revival services in many towns in Virginia and Maryland. At Cambridge winter before last there were more than one hundred conversions in the Southern Methodist Church under his preaching. Large congregations always wait upon his ministry. Preparatory services were commenced Wednesday, the Rev. Dr. C. A. Hill preaching the sermon. Thursday night, the Rev. Dr. Beigart preached, and on Friday night the Rev. Dr. Smith.

AT THE TOP.

It is a laudable ambition to reach the top of the ladder of success. But many a man who reaches the topmost rung finds his position a torment instead of a triumph. He has sacrificed his health to success.

A man can succeed and be strong if he heeds Nature's warnings. When there is indigestion, loss of appetite, ringing in the ears, dizziness, spots before the eyes or palpitation of the heart; any or all of these symptoms point to weakness and loss of nutrition. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. By perfect and abundant nourishment distributed to each vital organ it enables the co-operation of all the organs to preserve the perfect health of the body.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Second, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food in my stomach for a long time; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep nor follow my occupation. Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

TALMAGE SERMON

By Rev.
FRANK DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D.,
Pastor of Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church, Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 23.—In this discourse the preacher summons all good people to unite in a movement against the great and growing national evil of strong drink. The text is Proverbs xxiii, 32. "At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."

My father has now been dead about six months. Since his demise I have received scores of letters from many parts of this country asking me to define my position on the temperance question. Only yesterday a strong, earnest plea came from one of the New England states which went something like this: "Your father's voice always rang true in his hatred for the wine cup. Will you not come to our aid and help the thousands of mothers who have drunken sons and the wives who have drunken husbands fight this relentless enemy of God and the home?" It is in answer to these letters that I shall state my belief and position upon the temperance question. But I speak with a broader purpose than merely to gratify curiosity. I want every man, woman and child who hates the saloon and who is consecrated for a combined combat against this arch fiend of the centuries to look upon me as a brother and a comrade. I pledge myself as the colleague of every foe of the intoxicating cup. At every opportunity, with voice and pen, I will thrust at this serpentine monster. It shall be my aim, as it should be the aim of every one of God's ministers, to rally, with all the influences at his command, the enemies of this hitherto invincible and unconquered foe of the human race. May God grant us to live to see the day when the fangs of this mighty monster shall have been extracted and when its head shall have been crushed and its vile carcass dismembered under the advancing hoofs of the white chargers of the gospel army.

The evil of intoxication is a universal curse. Its long, slimy, twisting coils spread over every land and are visible in every walk of life. There is hardly a man or woman sitting before me who has not had at least one near relative who has been cursed by the fatal bite of this crawling, insidious enemy. Perhaps that near relative was a father, a mother, an uncle, an aunt, a brother, a sister, a wife, a husband or a child. Alas, many of us can say we have not only had one, but many near relatives and friends who have gone down into drunkards' graves after they have lived the hopeless and humanly helpless, degraded earthly existence of the drunkard. Even as I am preparing this sermon news is published that a man who has filled high places in the service of his country, who bore a name honored in our history, has lost his life in a brawl in which he had not indulged in intoxicating drink.

The Warning of Solomon.
Solomon compared the sin of intoxication to the writhings and twistings of a serpent and to the stinging of an adder because at that time poisonous serpents were everywhere. Every thicket was filled with a constellation of their gleaming eyes. Every desert was the home of the puff adder, lying half buried in the sand. Every swamp was the retreat of the water viper. Every hillside had for the traveler a warning hiss or rattle. Even unto this day many of the countries of the east are overrun with poisonous reptiles. In India alone over 50,000 inhabitants annually die from poisonous snake bites.

The deadly serpents can multiply almost indefinitely in the wild, undeveloped region of a virgin soil. Humboldt, the celebrated German scientist, gave this description of one of his travels: "In the savannas of Essequibo, in Guiana, I saw the most wonderful and terrible of spectacles. We were ten men on horseback, two of whom took the lead in order to sound the passages, while I preferred to skirt the green forest. One of the black men who formed my vanguard returned at full gallop and said to me, 'Come here, sir, and see serpents in a pile.' He pointed out to me something elevated in the middle of the savannas which appeared like a pile of arms. One of my companions said: 'This must be one of those assemblies of serpents which heap themselves on each other after a violent tempest. I have heard of such, but have never seen any. Let us be cautious and not go too near.' When we were within twenty paces of it, the terror of our horses prevented our nearer approach, to which, however, none of us was inclined. Suddenly the pyramidal mass became agitated. Frightful hissing issued from it. Thousands of serpents rolled spirally on each other. They shot their hideous heads out of the circle, presenting their fiery eyes at us. I then thought what could be the design of this monstrous assemblage. I concluded that this species of serpent dreaded some colossal enemy and they united themselves, in order to attack or resist it in the mass." So today the serpents of the wine cup attack singly or en masse. They are everywhere and find their prey in all ranks of society. The widespread curse of the wine cup was very strikingly compared to the fatal serpents of the Solomonian era, which were almost everywhere. But, unlike the serpents which have almost disappeared before our advancing civilization, the trails of the adders of intoxication are even more multitudinous now than ever before.

Serpents Everywhere.
The serpents of intoxication have increased so rapidly that they are now in almost every legislative hall. We see their eyes gleaming out of almost every palace. We find them lying under the orange blossoms of the marriage altar, as well as in the detention hospitals for the patients who have their rooms filled with the coiling serpents of delirium tremens. We find many of our statesmen paralyzed by the glance of this adder's eyes, as a poor, little frightened fellow might tremble and crouch until she falls into the open mouth of the blacksnake which has charmed her. We find that even a few of the ministers who fill the pulpits of the gospel of Jesus Christ are terrorized by the sight of the serpent of intoxication, because the rich brewer may be the president of the board of trustees or the wealthy distiller's family may be the largest contributors to the financial support of the church. The curse of sinful intoxicants is universal; therefore all Christian people—and that includes you and me—should band themselves together for its extinction. We should deal with the serpent of strong drink in the same way the travelers over the western prairies deal with the rattlesnakes. There it is a universally obeyed law that every man shall kill every rattlesnake he may see. It ought also to be a universally obeyed Christian law that every Christian should strike at the hideous head of the Satanic adder of intoxication whenever it reveals itself or lifts its fatal poisonous fangs to strike.

There are four distinct reasons for hating this serpentine evil of intoxicants, four distinct reasons to wage against it unsparring and relentless warfare. The first is because the serpent of intoxicants destroys a man's brain, dethroning his reason and utterly ruining his mental capacity for any kind of important work. As a merchant he will enter into wildcat speculations until often his whole fortune is swept away. As a physician he will unfit himself for the sickroom. As a lawyer he will ruin his practice, because he can no longer plead in the courtroom as he once could plead. And everywhere the cry will be raised about this poor, drunken mental wreck, no matter in what sphere of life he may live: "Make way! Make way! Leave him alone! He drinks! He drinks!"

When a man begins to drink intoxicants, his mental usefulness is inevitably weakened. The temperance lecturers sometimes neglect to press home this appalling fact when they dwell upon the vast amount of money which is annually spent in a national liquor bill. They tell us that one seventy-fifth of all the American race is every year engaged in the manufacture and the sale of intoxicants. They assert that $900,000,000 is spent annually for accursed drink. They affirm that a great army of over 50,000 men and women living in the city of Chicago devote their entire time to running the places of evil resorts which are chiefly kept open through the influence of strong drink. The amount spent every year upon a national liquor bill is appalling, but that is one of the least of the evils. Many a rich man could easily afford to spend $5,000 or $10,000 or even $20,000 annually for liquors if the evil ended there. But no man, not even John D. Rockefeller, rich as he is, can afford to drink intoxicating liquors. When a man is addicted to strong drink he is heading toward mental as well as physical depletion and annihilation.

Far-reaching Results of Drink.
The evil results of a man's mind long weakened by intoxicants are very far-reaching. We read with amazement how a boar constructor can swallow down a calf or kid or deer apparently five times wider than the natural size of the serpent's throat. But every country boy has seen the same phenomenon upon a small scale. A snake with a throat hardly larger than your little finger will give chase to a large, fat toad. It will then gather together the two hind legs of the toad and by suction slowly draw the whole body down its throat and into the stomach. Then, if the country boy will pick up the snake by the tail and snap him as he would a whiplow, the serpent's mouth will open and the toad will be ejected, alive and well, as was Jonah when thrown from the mouth of the big fish after he had been voyaging for three days in its internal cavity. But, though the student of serpents may wonder at the size of a big toad which a small snake is able to swallow, his wonderment ought to be as nothing compared to the utter astonishment with which he sees the huge meal which the serpent of intoxication can swallow after the brain of its victim has been wrecked by strong drink. Without any apparent effort it can swallow down the merchant's store, the minister's pulpit, the lawyer's office, the surgeon's operating table, the mechanic's bench, the engineer's engine, the sea captain's ship. And, mark you, in order that the Solomonian feast may accomplish this gastronomic feat its victim does not have to be intoxicated all the time. All that the minister has to do to lose his pulpit is to reel as a drunkard—just once. All that the engineer has to do to wreck this train is to be drunk—just once. All the physician has to do to make a wrong diagnosis and kill his patient is to be drunk—just once. On account, therefore, of the head-oncoming of a man's intellect and the unseating of the human reason through the influence of the wine cup, I hate the Solomonian adder, with an intense hatred. I hate it with unutterable loathing. I hate it as God hates every Christian to hate sin.

The serpent of intoxication can destroy a man's heart as well as his head. We read of a bridegroom who took his young bride to a cabin upon the hill-sides of the Rocky mountains. The young husband unknowingly built his home over a den of snakes. After the married couple had retired for the night the fire they had lighted on that cold winter night warmed the dormant serpents into life. They came forth into the room of the sleeping couple. They crawled up upon the bed. They buried their cruel fangs in the flesh of man and woman alike, and the nuptial couch became the bed of death. When a husband looks upon the wine when it is red, he always builds his home over a den of vipers. He lets the poisonous serpents crawl up into his bed and not only slay his body, but also poison his love for his wife and his children, for his parents and his brothers and sisters, for all who ought to be near and dear to him and whom he ought to love better than his own life.

The Heart of a Drunkard.

A drunkard's heart through the touch of the adder of intoxication not only becomes a poisoned heart, but the merciless heart of an inhuman monster. In order to drink a drunkard is willing practically to go to any extreme. He is ready to let wife and children starve. I have known two drunkards who were willing to sell their own flesh and blood into a life of crime in order that they might get liquor with which to satisfy their diabolical thirst. These two drunkards were not men of the lowest social rank. They were men who were born in as good families as yours or mine. But why continue in this strain? Is there any need of my longer describing how the serpent of intoxication can destroy a man's love for his wife and his children? No. In the rags of the factories we see it; in the scandals of the divorce courts we read it; in the horrors of the reformatory schools we can prove it. Let us pass on in our indictment of this coiling serpent of the wine cup.

The Solomonian serpentine evil destroys a man's soul as well as the temporal usefulness of his brain and the loving power of his heart. This is not a pleasant subject to touch. It is not pleasant because many of us have had friends, dear friends, who have met or are today on the way to meet a drunkard's doom. But, my brother, we must be true to the living as well as to the dead. If you had a loved one who was contemplating the commission of a heinous crime, what would you do? Why, you would go to that friend and say: "Brother, if you do this you will have to pass many years in jail. If you allow your angry passions to rise and commit murder, you will have to sit in the electric chair or stand under the hangman's noose. That is the law. That is the law which has been carried out in many instances in the past and will be carried out in many instances in the future."

Now, my friends, what is the divine punishment that will be meted out to all who have been slain by the sting of the Solomonian adder? Let me read part of just one verse from the divine criminal code. Shall the drunkard inherit heaven? What says the epistle of First Corinthians? "Be not deceived; neither idolaters, adulterers nor thieves nor drunkards shall inherit the kingdom of God." There is no need of reading further. That simple Pauline sentence covers the whole ground. It seems to harmonize with the Icelandic idea of hell, which is to be a great ice palace, the walls of which are covered with a huge mass of swaying, swinging serpents. Their forked tongues and hissing throats converge to a common center, where the condemned of God crouch and tremble and weep. Shall we not fight this serpent of intoxication, which may aptly be compared to the Icelandic Satanic serpents in the palace of the Inferno? Shall we not, one and all, fight the serpents of intoxication, which can and do destroy happiness the other side of the grave as well as that of the life which is on this side?

The Drunkard's Curse.

The Solomonian evil cannot only destroy a father's or a mother's temporal and eternal life, but it ruins their children also, because the drunkard's evil habit is inheritable. The drunkard's curse, which rests upon the parent's life, can be transmitted by the law of blood into the veins of the father's children and his children's children. Every physician is ready to testify that it is far easier for a drunkard's son to become a drunkard than for a child whose parents have never been cursed by the sting of the fatal adder of intoxication. So, my brother, as the Mohammedan mothers look upon the serpent as sacred and allow the venomous cobra to crawl into their cradles and sting their little ones to death, you, if you are addicted to the curse of drink, are not only destroying your own souls, but you are also destroying the immortal lives of the unborn generation. By looking upon the wine cup when it is red you are preparing the way to look into the bloodshot eyes and to listen to the blaspheming tongues of your children's children, who shall meet you at the judgment seat of Christ to arraign you as the cause of their evil inheritance and to curse you and to curse the day you were born.

But my subject is vast. I must forego much of what I would like to say in arraigning this serpentine monster and pass on to briefly discuss the means with which, by the grace of God, we can destroy it. And in this discussion I shall not touch on the power of the ballot box. That is a theme in itself.

The sure antidote for the poison of the adder of intoxication must be found for Christians, first and last and all the time, in the blood of Jesus Christ. It is right to use human agencies for the cure of inebriety, but I believe human agencies will always fail unless they are blessed by the divine power—the power of the Holy Ghost. As a pastor and preacher and temperance worker I have personally tried to aid in the rescue of many drunkards. I have helped send some to the reformatory institutions. I have taken them into my own home and bought them medicines from the drug-stores. I am free to confess that all these human agencies failed except when those victims of strong drink have thrown themselves into the arms of God and clung to Jesus Christ as their only Saviour.

Oh, ye victims of the wine cup! Oh, ye helpless men and women who have long struggled in the relentless coils of the Satanic serpent, which are stronger and more merciless than those of the great serpent, 120 feet long, of which Pliny once wrote! I beg and plead with you to seek rescue from your besetting sin in the blood of Jesus Christ. Divine re-enforcements saved John B. Gough. Divine re-enforcement saved Francis Murphy. Divine re-enforcement saved Captain Barbour of Pittsburg. Divine re-enforcement can save you if you will live so close to Christ that Christ can and will be close to you. Divine re-enforcement alone can save the drunkard who is heading toward a drunkard's grave.

The Only Sure Antidote.

This premise being true, that Jesus Christ alone is the only sure antidote for the suicidal thirst of strong drink, the next step in our temperance reformation should be to open all the churches in our Christian land for great temperance meetings. Every minister of the gospel should preach and continue to preach the gospel of teetotalism. Every pulpit of every church should be a broad, white desk before which the victims of strong drink could bow at the throne of grace for mercy and then arise and with trembling hand sign the temperance pledge and blot it then and there with their falling tears of penitence. The church of the Lord Jesus Christ must and shall lead in this successful temperance reform. The church of the Lord Jesus Christ can destroy the saloon if she does her full duty, as the prayer meetings of the country meeting destroyed the political candidacy of Robert G. Ingersoll for the governorship of Illinois. The temperance movement will fail, and surely fail, if it is carried on purely as a secular movement. It will win, and surely win, if it is carried on as a divine movement in which is enlisted the strong arm of a church inspired of the Holy Spirit. It is by you that the call for a gospel charge against the grog-shops must first be sounded.

Lastly, and most important of all, with the help of the church of God, we should try to kill the adder of strong drink by making our civil laws so stringent that the young should find it almost impossible to get at the wine cup even if they would. It is easier to keep 100 young men from acquiring the evil habit of strong drink than it is to reform one debauched drunkard. It is easier to prevent than to reform sin. I suppose the chronic drunkards who have been drinking for twenty or thirty years will find their poisonous serpent of the wine cup no matter where they may be. But it is possible by law to protect the young. It is possible by law to keep liquor away from the young men and the young women. It is possible to protect the rising generation so that they may not be able to find this adder's lair and to feel his foul breath or his poisonous fangs.

And not only by stringent laws should the destroying wine cup be kept from the young, but the young should also be taught why the debauching influence of strong drink is kept out of their reach. The evil results of indulgence in the wine cup should be taught in our public schools as well as in our Sabbath schools. They should be taught upon the public platforms as well as in the private home. The evils of strong drink should be presented so clearly and vehemently to the young that the rising generation should some day by the grace of God be able to stand up in their might and declare that America must and shall forever be free from the evils of strong drink. They shall be able to declare it with our help at the church altar; they shall be able to declare it in the nominating planks of our great political parties; they shall be able to declare it at the American ballot box; they shall be able to declare it by telegraphic communications before a sin cursed, alcohol poisoned world.

Christian men and women, north, east, south and west, let us one and all rally to the temperance cause. Let the ministers consecrate the pulpits to this work. Let the laymen consecrate the pews. May we one and all be ready to die for the temperance cause, but never to surrender; never to cease fighting the saloon and its entrenched power until we are summoned before the great white throne of heaven. Never, never, never let up in the struggle against this hemispheric evil until the home and the church and the kingdom of God shall forever be free. May God give us one and all supernatural strength for the struggle which is before the temperance cause of the church, of America and of the world. [Copyright, 1902, Louis Klopfisch, N. Y.]

The Divorce Laws.

The best cure for the present confusion would be a national law covering all questions of marriage and divorce. There is, however, little hope of the early enactment of any such measure. The remedy for a condition that endangers the best interests of society is in the hands of the people of the different states. There should be a popular demand in each community for legislation that will deepen the respect of the people for the sanctity and solemnity of the marriage contract. New York Mail and Express.

Prayed

To Be Released From Life.

Almost Insane From Nervousness.

Dr. Miles' Nervine My Salvation.

Do you enjoy life, or do you sleep so poorly that you are more tired when you get up than when you go to bed? Is your appetite failing, are you getting thin, does your head ache, back ache, eyes feel easily? These are symptoms of a nervous disorder, which should be promptly treated or it will spell mental and physical nervousness, morbid fears and loss of control, will lead to insanity or mental irresponsibility. Strengthen the nerves with Dr. Miles' Nervine. It quickly supplies nerve force and vitality to the weakened system, bringing sleep, appetite and health.

"I was almost insane with nervous trouble. Could not eat or sleep. Could see no pleasure in life; indeed, life was a burden to me, and I even prayed God to release me from it. Three doctors did all they could for me, all to no purpose. I was in despair of ever getting better when I saw the advertisement of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I got a bottle, commenced taking it and wrote you for advice. I followed it carefully, taking your Nervine, Restorative Tonic, and Nerve and Liver Pills. Those remedies were my salvation. It is now months since I stopped taking the Tonic but I keep the Nervine in the house all the time, as it is a friend that I do not feel safe without. If any sufferer should doubt the truth of this statement, let them write to me and I will do my best to drive all doubt from their mind."—MRS. MABEL REDDEN, La Jolla, Pa.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers; they filter out the waste and impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits.

The fifth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. A. B. Statton, of St. Paul's U. B. Church, Hagerstown, was celebrated Sunday.

One hundred and forty-six acres of the Ward farm, in Garrett county, this year yielded nearly 9,000 bushels of oats, an average of 60 bushels an acre.

The funeral of Miss Catherine Bright, whose death occurred in Annapolis on Saturday afternoon, took place Monday morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church.

The Howard county commissioners have awarded the contract to William H. Harding for grading a portion of the Old Washington road, near Elkridge, for $288.

Sixty tons and 380 pounds of sugar corn were raised this season on 18 acres of land on the farm along the Monocacy, owned by Kolb Bros., of Frederick, and tenanted by George W. Sparks.

The oyster planters of Rellville Neck are buying all the oysters they can and bedding them in the waters of Manokin River and Back Creek. These planters sold their stock at good figures last winter.

Get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets at any drug store. They are easier to take and more pleasant in effect than pills. Then their use is not followed by constipation as is often the case with pills. Regular size, 25c. per box.

Communication with foreign mine owners has been opened by Chester town citizens with a view to obtaining 1000 tons probably of Welsh coal for consumption during the coming winter.

Joseph T. Greenfield, a prominent democrat of Cumberland, and Miss Mary C. Bowen were married at the home of the bride's sister, Miss Anna Bowen, in Cumberland.

When you wake up with a bad taste in your mouth, go at once to any drug store and get a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. One or two doses will make you well. They also cure biliousness, sick headache and constipation.

The Commissioners of Cecil County last week inspected the old bridge over East Creek, at North East, with a view to arranging plans for a new iron structure in the near future. The new bridge will cost in the neighborhood of $7,000.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. A remedy for Nasal Catarrh which is drying or exciting to the diseased membrane should not be used. Cream Balm is recognized as a specific. Price 50 cents at druggists or by mail. A cold in the head immediately disappears when Cream Balm is used. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

A supposed mad dog recently appeared at Backleyville and bit a number of other dogs. The dog was shot by Mr. C. W. W. and its head sent to Baltimore for examination to ascertain whether or not the animal was suffering with hydrophobia.

When a boy turns his bulging pocket inside out we marvel at the quantity and variety of articles he has stowed away. Odd lengths of strings, marbles, a horse chestnut, a top, brass nails, hickory nuts, an apple, and many more articles are garnered by the "snapper up of unconsidered trifles."

We think the collection must be hard on a boy's pocket and it is. But do we ever think of the variety and miscellany of the substances we put into the pocket of our stomach? There's the apple and the nuts, and things besides quite as indigestible as brass nails and with no more food value than so many marbles. And yet we wonder that the stomach breaks down under the strain of careless eating and irregular meals it can be perfectly and permanently restored to health by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The action of this medicine on the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition is so marked, that relief from disease is at once experienced, and the headaches, liver troubles, and kidney disorders, skin eruptions and other symptoms of a diseased stomach are quickly cured. Whenever the use of a laxative medicine is indicated, use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They act in harmony with the "Discovery" and assist its action by purging the bowels of foul accumulations.

Chestnuts are a very small crop this year, in fact nuts of all kinds appear to be scarcer than usual. According to ancient belief, this is a sure sign of a mild winter to follow, which would be a fortunate thing for people short of fuel.

Letter to S. P. Woodcock & Co.

Dear Sir: It takes 3000 gallons of paint for the two big hotels at Coney Island—Manhattan and Oriental. They are painted once in three years with Devco lead and zinc.

Why so often? Three reasons: (1) sea air cuts paint; (2) sand in the wind cuts paint; (3) hotels, especially pleasure hotels, want freshness and color as much as protection. Once in three years is often enough and not too often to paint a hotel on a windy beach.

How long do you think lead and oil would last there? One year. Is there anything for you in this?

Yours truly,

F. W. Devco & Co.

P. S. L. W. Gunby sells our paint.

Do Good—It Pays.

A Chicago man has observed that, "Good deeds are better than real estate deeds—some of the latter are worthless. Act kindly and gently, show sympathy and love by it."

You cannot possibly lose by it. Most men appreciate a kind word and on encouragement more than a substantial help. There are persons in this community who might truthfully say: "My good friend, cheer up. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will rid you of your cold, and there is no danger whatever from pneumonia when you use that medicine. It always cures. I know it for it has helped me out many a time." Sold by all dealers.

George Roberts, a Baltimore and Ohio fireman, was killed on Saturday in the yards at Cumberland while he was catching drippings of hot water to make coffee. An engine backed over him, crushing his head and cutting off one of his feet. He was married and lived at Frederick Junction.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over.

Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat.

With no particular object in view save to create trouble, Thornton Cooper (colored) at a picnic at Rosburg, a colored settlement near Murkirk, began shooting a revolver and wound up by shooting and killing Harry Warner (colored) because he refused, when ordered to leave the hall hired by Queen's Chapel Church, under the auspices of which the picnic and festival were being given.

Only A Very Few Published.

It is not possible for the proprietors to publish more than a very few of the numerous letters received in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy and telling of its remarkable cures. They come from people in every walk in life and from every state in the Union. The following from Mr. T. W. Greathouse, of Fayetteville, Ga., speaks for itself: "I would have been dead now but for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me of chronic diarrhoea after seven years of suffering. I can never say too much in praise of that remedy." For sale by all dealers.

LOCAL Correspondence

NEWS FROM ALL SECTIONS OF WICOMICO SENT IN BY THE ADVERTISER'S REPRESENTATIVES.

QUANTICO.

Our Grammar School opened last week with a good attendance of scholars. The school has the same efficient teachers that it had last year. Prof. Geo. E. Bennett as principal and Miss Mabel Bailey Asst. Prof. Bennett has by his energy and great industry raised the course in the school so that nine grades are successfully taught.

Quantico is represented at various schools and colleges as follows: Salisbury High School by Miss Nellie Graham, Washington College by Miss Jessie Taylor, St. John's College by Mr. Hermon Hodgson. These have made excellent records in the past and we feel sure that their excellence in scholarship will continue to be noted.

Among our school teachers who are teaching away from Quantico are the following: Miss Jennie Bounds at Donoho Mills, Miss Florence Bounds at Hebron, Miss Rosie Riggan at Royal Oak, Miss Blanche Tainter at Delmar and Miss Marie Tainter at Tyaskin.

There has been considerable talk and it seems just now that it will avail much about straightening our principal street. The entry into Quantico from the South is by land and over one bridge which spans Quantico Creek. The project now is to abandon this entry and lengthen Main Street so that it will run by the rear of Mr. J. B. Gordy's house, directly across what formerly was a pond, but which now is only a fenney bog, overgrown with grass and bushes. This important improvement would make a straight route for two miles and would add much to the appearance of our town.

Miss Myrtle Gordy left this week to attend the Peabody Institute in Baltimore.

Mr. Harry Palmer of Virginia is spending sometime in Quantico.

The Misses Ella and Alice Brady are spending the week in Baltimore.

COLUMBIA.

Mr. J. S. Cooper was in Preston, Md., last Monday.

Most of our carpenters seem to be busy at the present, much building is under way in this community, and they are working on full time.

Cooper & Co., marketed a part of their canned goods last week and this. They are still canning a few but will not run much longer as tomatoes are getting scarce and poor quality.

Stacking fodder has been delayed considerably in this section on account of the recent cloudy and rainy weather. As a rule years before all fodder is stacked by the middle of September.

Our pastor, Rev. H. W. D. Johnson announced last Sunday that revival services would commence at Mt. Hermon church the second Sunday in October. All are cordially invited to attend.

The Columbia and Providence nines crossed bats again last Saturday at Columbia. The game was stopped when eight innings were finished. Score 6 to 18 in favor of Columbia.

Mr. E. J. Owens is improving the appearance of his home at Columbia by a new back building and other improvements, which when completed will add greatly to the looks of his residence.

Again do we hear the merry cry of the school boys and girls. School commenced last Monday a week ago and is under the directions of J. Frank Fleetwood of Delmar. He taught Columbia school last year and is very much liked by both scholars and parents.

The National Council of O. U. A. M., which met at Atlantic City last week was represented from Delaware by Mr. L. T. Cooper of Columbia Council.

It now seems evident that a full crop of tomatoes has not and will not be harvested this year in this vicinity. Many growers will not get near as many as their ideas prospected at planting time.

Staff-Lecturer of the Oxford University Extension Society; Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Princeton University; Edward Howard Criggs, M. A., Lecturer in Literature, Philosophy and Ethics; Thomas Whitney Surlette, Staff-Lecturer in Music of the American Society; Dr. Frederick H. Sykes, Staff-Lecturer in English Literature; Cecil F. Lavell, M. A., Staff-Lecturer in European History; Earl Barnes, B. A., M. S., Lecturer in History and Education; Wallace King, M. A., Lecturer in History; Clyde B. Furst, M. A., Columbia University; Albert H. Smyth, B. A., Prof. of English Literature and Language, Central High School, Philadelphia; Robert Ellis Thompson, S. T. D., President Central High School, Philadelphia; John Henry Wright, A. M., Prof. of Greek, Harvard University; John Quincy Adams, P. H. D., University of Pennsylvania.

The list of subjects on which these lecturers speak includes Literature, History, Music, Political Science, Art, Education, Philosophy and Ethics. The evening courses at the Association Local, Philadelphia are almost entirely devoted to the history and literature of Greece and Rome, beginning on Tuesday, October 28, with a lecture on Wordsworth in his relation to nature and humanity by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, the well known poet, and writer on literature, art and ethics.

Especially important is the announcement of the three months' work by Rev. W. Hudson Shaw, the ablest University Extension lecturer in Great Britain. He is a former Fellow of Balliol College, Oxford, and a former President of the Oxford Union. He is Staff-Lecturer in History and Literature in University Extension for the University of Oxford, and Rector of South Luffenham, Stamford.

This will be Mr. Shaw's fifth visit to America as Staff Lecturer for the American Society. He was in this country in 1894, 1896, 1897 and 1898, in each case for three months or more, and centers in all parts of the country reached by the American Society were aided and inspired by his lectures and personality. He has given in all sixty courses of lectures in America, on such subjects as England in the Eighteenth Century, English Social Reformers, Florentine History, and the Reformation and the Revolution. These lectures have been everywhere received with the enthusiasm to which Mr. Shaw is entitled by his high academic standing, his Oxford culture, his popular subjects, and his long and successful experience in University Extension work in England and America. He has lectured in every kind of centre; to an audience of one thousand lecture-goers in Association Local Centre, Philadelphia, to the workmen of Kensington and Altoona, to the leisure class attending the afternoon lectures, Philadelphia; to the University men of Baltimore, and all testify to his inspiring and helpful influence.

The Society now enters upon the thirteenth year of its work and expects an even larger measure of success than formerly. It sends its lecturers into six states, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, and Delaware, and the numbers of students increases year by year. These now number over 23,000 zealous workers and 150,000 lecture goers. The Society is at present contemplating measures which will widen its field of usefulness by enabling it to supply more lecture and study courses to organizations of every description in the cities and towns near Philadelphia. In addition to its regular "Centres," the Society already works in co-operation with upwards of thirty schools, Women's Clubs, Institutes, Teachers' Associations, and Free Libraries.

The Kent County Trolley Scheme.

Rock Hall, Md., Sept. 25.—Although the entire amount of $75,000 capital stock of the Baltimore and Choptank Trolley Line Company has been subscribed it now looks as though the incorporators must abandon the enterprise, thereby losing their forfeit of $2,500 to the county. Only four persons along the proposed route between Choptank and Rock Hall via Tolchester are willing to offer rights of way, while a number who had made such offers have withdrawn their tender of land. To condemn and pay for the right of way would cost $20,000, an amount which the backers of the enterprise refuse to pay.

ALL DOCTORS FAILED.

It is in the province of men to live in good health and fine spirits from youth all the way to old age. All they need is the system and blood cleansed occasionally. Very many aged people bear witness that Victor Liver Syrup not only preserves and prolongs life, but makes the old feel young. Also it has cured cases already given up by the best medical talent. Says T. I. Markin, Montpelier, Ind., "Your Victor Liver Syrup restored my son to health, when all Doctors failed." Call upon your Druggist for it.

President's Effort To End Strike.

President Roosevelt will make a personal appeal to the coal operators and the leader of the striking miners to settle the strike in the anthracite coal-fields of Pennsylvania.

Wednesday the President sent telegrams to the presidents of the coal railroads and to John Mitchell, the president of the United Mine Workers, inviting them to a conference with him in Washington on Friday morning. This action was taken by Mr. Roosevelt after consultation with members of the Cabinet.

It is believed that President Roosevelt may convene Congress in extra session if the parties to the strike do not settle their differences and resume mining at an early day. It is thought that an intimation to this effect has been conveyed to the coal operators and the strike leaders.

The conference, it is thought, is the outcome of Secretary Root's visit to New York. Mr. Root, it is said was told by representative of financial interests that the action which the President has decided to take might not be fruitless.

President Mitchell and all the coal corporation presidents will accept Mr. Roosevelt's invitation. Mr. Mitchell will take along the district presidents of the United Mine Workers—Messrs. Nicholls, Fahy and Duffy. President Baer, of the Reading, said that Mr. Roosevelt's request was a command. J. P. Morgan pronounced the plan "admirable."

8 Cents

Eight cents a pound is what a young woman paid for twelve pounds of flesh.

She was thin and weak and paid one dollar for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion, and by taking regular doses had gained twelve pounds in weight before the bottle was finished.

Eight cents a pound is cheap for such valuable material. Some pay more, some less, some get nothing for their money. You get your money's worth when you buy Scott's Emulsion.

MILLINERY DISPLAYS.

The Annual Fall Opening of Millinery and Dry Goods is a Success, Attracting Large Crowds.

All along Main Street, the business centre of our little city, can be seen the results of much preparation for the annual fall opening, which took place Thursday and Friday of this week.

Although the millinery establishments are the chief centres of attraction on these occasions, all the merchants take pride in making their places of business as pretty and attractive as possible, displaying to the very best advantage their newest and handsomest goods. Salisbury can justly feel proud of the thrift of its merchant. Nothing was left undone to make the occasion of the Fall Opening this year one of both pleasure and profit to the large crowds of inspectors and buyers that have visited their stores this week. They are carrying a large and select line of dress goods, trimmings of every description, wraps, furs etc. Among the others, Messrs. Birchhead and Shockey deserve special mention. Their store is up-to-date in every particular.

As to the millinery establishments, they have lost none of their justly acquired popularity. They have a large assortment of the newest and most attractive designs with trimmings to suit everyone. The prevailing shape is a decided flat effect, and streamers at the back continue to be very popular.

At Messrs. R. E. Powell & Co's store, the window decorations are worthy of special note. The millinery window is prettily arrayed in red and white the beauty of which is enhanced with mirrors, palms, hat trimmings and trimmed hats. The millinery department, on the second floor is roomy, and the pattern hats arranged on small tables showed off to good advantage. Here too were decoration of palms and plants, draperies and trimmings. Not least among it all, were the pleasant faces of the young ladies of that department moving among the visitors.

The patterns shown were much admired. Below is a brief description of only a few: A blue and green hat, which is a very popular combination, made of blue and green velvet, silk, and plush with handsome blue and green paradise aigrette hanging gracefully at side. Loops of the velvet, trimmed with white applique falls low in the back.

Ladies ping pong hat of lavender and royal purple velvet, trimmed with shaded autumn leaves at back and velvet streamers applied.

Young girl's hat of white, french felt, with trimmings of white plush and ostrich heads. Loops of white velvet and beaded trimming in the back.

Mrs. Geo. W. Taylor has a nice selection and her store is very pretty and attractive for the opening. The decorations are mainly in yellow and white, a coloring which sets off to advantage the more somber hues prevalent in autumn millinery. A few plants are also used with good effect.

Mrs. Taylor and her assistants were complimented on the result of their handiwork. Some of the hats to which we give special mention are described as follows: A child's hat of double brim castor felt, flat effect, tam crown, appliqued with cream medallions. The trimmings were ribbon in pastel shades, white, castor and blue.

Ladies hat of large turban shape, brim draped with black panne velvet, and ermine fur crown. Trimmings consisted of coffee colored lace and green grapes at the back.

Large hat of black moire velour; brim and crown edged with fur giving square effect. Trimmed with a lace barb which is caught in the back with a jet ornament. Black bird on left side of under brim.

At Lowenthal's decorations of green and white predominate, producing most pleasing effects. The show window is elaborately ornamented with trimmings and other fancy articles, while palms and other plants mingled with the splendid array of pattern hats, beautify the millinery department. Mrs. Lowenthal takes pride in showing the very newest styles at all times, and her many visitors were accorded a hearty welcome. Among the many designs displayed were:

Large black english turban beaver, felt crown and draped brim. Trimmed with two feather pom-poms at side and jet ornaments.

The white kid hat attracted attention. The trimmings were of black wings and black velvet ribbon, several loops of which hung low in the back.

THE NEW HOSPITAL.

Corner-stone to Be Laid Next Monday, October 13th, With Interesting Ceremonies.

The laying of the Corner stone of the new hospital next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock will be an event of unusual interest and importance.

The ceremony will be under the auspices of the Masonic order of Salisbury, who will be assisted by visiting Masons. Chief Judge Page has accepted the invitation to deliver the address. A prayer will be offered by Rev. Richard Humphries, of Philadelphia. Governor Smith and all the State officials have been invited to be present, and prominent people from all parts of the Peninsula are expected. Weber's Fifth regiment band has been engaged for the occasion and a local orchestra, led by Professor Dashiell will supply vocal music. The orchestra will be composed of Mrs. J. D. Williams, Mrs. J. D. Wallop, Mrs. T. E. Martindale, Mrs. H. L. Brewington, Mrs. Belle H. Fowler, Mrs. R. D. Grier, Mrs. Jay Williams, Mrs. W. S. Gordy, Mrs. E. W. Smith, Mrs. Gardiner Spring, Misses Grace Ellegood, Edna Owens, Nancy Gordy, Wilsie Woodcock, Ada Brewington, Messrs. E. W. Humphreys, Gardiner Spring, W. T. Dashiell, V. S. Gordy, J. H. Tomlinson, F. P. Adkins, H. L. Brewington, Rev. S. J. Smith, Rev. T. E. Martindale.

Rev. Dr. T. E. Martindale will be master of ceremonies.

Monday, the day chosen for the corner-stone laying, is the anniversary of the birth of the Hon. Wm. H. Jackson from whose private purse comes all the money to meet the cost of construction which will amount in itself to a tidy fortune. In doing this benevolent work Mr. Jackson is consummating a purpose which he has cherished many years. Indeed he had made a will more than ten years ago in which he provided for the establishment and maintenance of a "Home for the Aged," after his death. At that time the Peninsula General Hospital had not been thought of, but after its organization and successful management he changed his original plan of benevolence and decided to support the hospital. The old will was accordingly destroyed and another embodying his new plans, made.

The new hospital will be known as "The Jackson Memorial Hospital," and Mr. Jackson declares that it is his wish that it shall be non-political, non-denominational, non-racial, but an institution for the relief of all the people who may have occasion to seek it. Architecturally the building will be a pleasing and imposing structure. The walls will be of pressed brick with brown stone trimmings, granite steps and tile roof. The interior will be planned after the most modern and complete conception. In the basement will be the apparatus for steam heating and electric lighting. Here will also be the chapel, mortuary, laundry, and kitchen. On the three upper floors will be the official quarters and the wards. Excursion trains will be run Monday for the benefit of visitors.

The Convention at Hebron.

The constant down pour of rain on Saturday night and Sunday prevented many people from attending the Sunday School Convention at Hebron; but it was held nevertheless and the audiences were good considering the weather. The State Supt. was on hand and gave three addresses. The hospitable people of Hebron were much disappointed in not having the opportunity to entertain a large number of Sunday School workers.

On Sunday the Hebron M. E. Sunday School elected the following delegates to the State Sunday School Convention which will meet in Baltimore October 16 and 17, Messrs. Ebenezer White, Joseph Nelson and H. S. Phillips.

Evangelist Bransford At Trinity.

The special services conducted by Mr. Bransford are increasing daily in numbers and in interest. He preaches from manuscript, but with great freedom and directness. Fearless in denouncing the sins and shortcomings of mere nominal church members, he maintains a high standard of Christian living. He rivets attention. If the evening congregations continue to increase, it will soon be difficult to seat the people. Services daily at 11 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Next Sunday evening he will preach a sermon on the Christian Home.

Notice!

There will be services (D. V.), in Spring Hill Parish on Sunday next, October 13th, as follows: Quantic, 10.30 a. m.; Spring Hill, 8 p. m.; Mar-dela Springs, 7.30 p. m.

HER BLOOD CRIETH FROM THE GROUND.

A Community Overwhelmed With Fear And Wonder—Even The Weeds Are Gory.

The Easton Ledger of Thursday contained the following account of a mysterious Delaware tragedy:

"The trial of Elmer Collins for the murder of his wife was set for yesterday at Georgetown, Delaware. The remarkable and mysterious murder occurred several months ago in Sussex county, near the Maryland line, in a community noted for its religious strength and fervor.

THE ARREST OF THE HUSBAND.

Circumstances pointed towards the husband, who was arrested and released on bail. Since then the feelings of the community have been awfully wrought up; and the shadows of superstition have been darker than ever they were amongst these simple-minded and perfunctory Delawareans, so that all conditions and circumstances have been closely watched. Never before was there a murder among them.

SIGNS, SAYINGS AND APPEARANCES have all been considered, and a change wonderfully affecting their condition in life has come over the people, and no one can predict the future conduct of the people of that community. They believe the murder ought to be avenged and the guilty brought to justice.

ECHOES OF THE CRIME SOUNDED IN HEAVEN.

A recent discovery on the farm of the murder has greatly aroused sentiment and made some think the God of nature has touched the vegetable kingdom with his mighty hand and caused it to show forth in lines of human blood the fact that the echoes of this crime reached beyond the narrow confines of earth's bounds and has been by him who heard the cry of Abel's blood from the ground and marked wicked Cain for his crime.

HUMAN BLOOD IN THE HEN HOUSE.

In the investigation by the detectives, what was supposed to be human blood was found in the hen house and this divided the opinions as to where she was murdered, whether in the hen house, in the carriage house, or in the stable where she was lying when the neighbors went over in response to Collins' report of her death. Later on the manure in the hen house was put in the field for tomatoes, and the crop grew and was harvested, and it was left for the guiding hand of providence to reveal only a few days ago the fact that the murdered woman's blood was crying from the ground. The weeds growing in hills manured by the hen house manure contain veins and lines of red as near human blood as possible.

THE RED LINES IN THE WEEDS.

The red lines extended to all the weeds in the hills where this manure was used and in the others the weeds are green and bear no unusual marks. The red effect penetrates the stalk of the weed and in finger shaped lines goes out on the leaves, plainly and unmistakably observable to the naked eye. It not only goes up the stalk into the branches and leaves, but affects the seed of the weeds and they are as red as blood.

"HER BLOOD CRIETH FROM THE GROUND." The Sharptown Herald says: "Whether this is a freak of nature, a miraculous growth or a natural result of the fertilizing elements in soil penetrating the vegetable products, it remains a fact, and the weeds have been pulled up and taken home by the curious and interested and they bear witness to the condition. Whatever may be the causes, natural or otherwise, it is attracting much attention and many say 'verily, her blood crieth from the ground'."

ONE OYSTER FEEDS 75 MEN.

A most remarkable oyster has recently been taken from the Niagara river by two Buffalo fishermen.

The shell alone, without the meat, weighs 212 pounds, and is two feet eight inches across and 19 inches broad. It contained 50 genuine pearls, says a report from that city.

That it might be proven that this wonderful tale was no "fish story" the oyster was placed on exhibition for a week at a Buffalo saloon, where the public was bidden to come and see it.

The meat was cooked and made into a stew, which filled to the brim two eight-quart pails. Seventy-five men partook of the feast it furnished. The fishermen made the find when their net caught on a snag of some sort and was held fast. As the water was shallow, not more than waist deep, one of them jumped from the boat to investigate and found the net attached to what seemed a big rock.

It was covered with a white substance resembling lime, and its peculiar appearance induced the fishermen to take it ashore with them. There, when it was washed off, they discovered, to their amazement, that they had a mammoth oyster.—Ex.

Marriage of Rev. Mr. Walles.

Rev. George Handy Walles, son of Mrs. Anna T. Walles of this city, was married Wednesday evening at half after eight o'clock to Miss Lucretia Mott Franklin of Woodbury N. J. in the Presbyterian church of that city. Rev. Mr. Thompson, pastor of the church, officiated.

The groom's best man was Mr. F. Leonard Walles of this city, and the ushers were, Mr. W. E. Walles of Birmingham, Ala., Dr. H. S. Walles of Cumberland Md., Mr. Duncan Campbell, and Mr. Harry Reeves of Woodbury.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Johnson, as matron of honor, who carried a large bouquet of roses. The bride wore a handsome gown of white crepe-de-chine and carried a shower bouquet of lily of the valley. There were also six bridesmaids in attendance, who were, the Misses Johnson, Miss Bennett, and Miss Wilkins of Woodbury, and Misses Lizzie and Victoria Walles of Salisbury. They wore gowns of white organdie with white liberty silk sashes.

Immediately after the ceremony supper was served to the family and bridal party at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. Walles is pastor of Scotts Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, where he and Mrs. Walles will make their home.

Christian Endeavor Convention.

The Christian Endeavors in our County are preparing for their Annual Convention to be held in Baltimore, October 30 and 31, and they hope to show a larger registration from this County this year than they have ever had before.

Many interesting features have been prepared by the Convention Committee in the way of special conference for the general advancement of Christian Endeavor work in Maryland. At this conference the delegates may learn of many new and approved methods and plans of work that they may take home and apply in their own local societies. Then too the great mass meetings held in Music Hall, Baltimore's largest auditorium, are an inspiration in themselves having an attendance of quite 2500 and being addressed by the best speakers that can be secured in the United States. Special transportation rates are offered from this section that all who desire may have an opportunity to attend the Convention at little cost.

Pleasant Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. T. H. Williams. There were present twenty persons, and an interesting program on Missionary work was rendered.

Papers on the Deacons, Immigrant and Chinese work in this country were read. After discussing plans for the winter's efforts, refreshments were served by the hostess.

The meeting, which had been a delightful one then adjourned.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, and disagreeable belching. ANOTHER REASONABLE PROPOSITION.

Mr. Ellegood Submits A Second Anti-Bribery Proposition To The Republicans

Tuesday, last Hon. James E. Ellegood submitted to Congressman Jackson the following proposition:

Hon. W. H. Jackson, Candidate for Congress on Republican ticket, First District of Maryland.

Dear Sir:—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your "open letter" relating to bribery. Without answering in detail your reasons for not co-operating in a "bi partisan organization," I wish to submit another proposition. But I desire before doing so, to clear up some confusion of thought which you and your recognized organ, The Courier, seem to entertain. The "open letter" contained two propositions, the first relating solely to our personal conduct and contributions. To this you made no reply. The second is embraced in the resolution of the Democratic Campaign Committee and requests you and your committees to meet me and the Democratic committees for "the purpose of effecting an organization for the suppression of bribery in this Congressional District." It contains no intimation of a desire to manage each other's campaign, but looks only to the appointment of honest men from each party to see that the law shall not be violated. Nor will you find any limitation in the proposed "organization" to the present campaign and election. But it is hardly practicable for two nominees in one district of nine counties to make an effective agreement for nearly one hundred candidates in these counties when conducting an independent campaign next year; nor for the present committees to bind themselves for the future. But the moral effect of, and the public sentiment created by, such an organization for the present, would have great weight and have made it very embarrassing for either of the parties to have resorted to open bribery and corruption, which you say, has prevailed "for thirty years," and which by fair inference, you propose shall continue without let or hindrance, with a possible intimation to the practical politician that it may be aided and abetted at the coming election.

I will not indulge in any recrimination against the Republican party, which contains some bad members and many good citizens, whose convictions I respect, and whose good opinion I highly esteem, nor will I make any reference to the charges you made against the Democratic party. The public are quite competent to compare and decide upon the intelligent and moral quality of both parties in the matter of practical politics; but you will find nothing that I have said or written in justification of these offenses; nor do I see how you find any excuse in these offenses for like conduct in yourself and your party.

Now, I have at times indulged in much free hand criticism, (though never intentionally offensive), that I thought I had become a person non-grata with my party. Hence, when the nomination came to me so unexpectedly, I esteemed it a great honor and felt rewarded for all my humble efforts; and was especially gratified that the party had determined to take a higher plane in political methods and to offer a candidate (pardon my egotism) whose "personal sincerity" you concede, as a pledge of the party's sincerity. In view of this admission by you, I make the following proposition:

First. That as a matter of personal honor, we agree in an open letter what amount each has given, and will give, for legitimate purposes only, conceding to you the privilege of contributing 8 or even 4 times as much as I have or will give; or in lieu of this.

Second. That we make a "corrupt practice act" of our own, by making a sworn statement of our expenses during the campaign and for election purposes; this report to be made to the joint campaign committees of our respective parties. This is based on your criticism of the Democratic party's failure to pass such an act.

Third. You say you are in "heartly sympathy with you (me) and all others who are interested in the suppression of bribery." Now, since you decline a "bi partisan" organization, let us unite in a joint letter to the citizens of each of the counties, requesting all who are "interested" in this suppression, to assemble in their respective county towns, on some day not later than the 18th inst., and take steps for this purpose. This you see, is a direct appeal to the people (and you will surely trust them) and acquit us of blame.

This proposition may excite the ridicule of all the "low fellows of the baser sort" in your party, who sneer at the "Sunday School politics," but it is much better for the people than corrupt politics, and safer for the fellow that may be caught. At any rate a strong man can "bear the spurs that patient merit of the unworthy takes." You admit in your letter that there is a very corrupt condition in this District; and we both must admit that this is the time for apologists, or promoters of further corruption. Indeed I think the "suppression of bribery" is the controlling issue in this District and superior to trusts, tariff or any other of the party issues, and that an honorable defeat is preferable to an election by corrupt methods.

I note your Committee has placed the responsibility in this matter entirely upon you, and I assume a like responsibility in addressing you this letter, and kindly request a reply not later than the morning of Thursday, the ninth. Yours very respectfully,

JAMES E. ELLEGOOD.

It Takes the Day.

A good article of any kind of goods is soon discovered and finds ready sale. And good wares ought to take the place of the worthless trash on the market. Says Mrs. Sarah J. Eitter, Middletown, Ind.: "Victor Infants Relief takes the day wherever tried. Several weeks ago I handed some to a woman whose baby was reduced in size from 11 to 6 pounds. Now, the sickly infant looks like a healthy child and is growing fat and plump and cheerful." You make a noble investment when you purchase Victor Infants

A HOMILY.

Our Allen Correspondent Turns His Facile Pen to Sermonizing.

"My days are swifter than a courier, they fly away. They are as the swift ships, as the eagle." So said Job—he who had sat in quiet contemplation beneath his palm tree in the long summers of Edom, while four score years passed by, and who had still a hundred and forty years of happy and restful life ahead of him. And yet his days were as swift as the flying courier, as the ships careered before the wind, as the eagle swooping down upon its quarry, as the dry leaf in the storm, as the flying cloud. Job looked abroad for similitudes of evanescence of unreality, of celerity with which to compare his days. But his day, hour for hour, was longer than our own. Of the tremendous rush with which we pass the milestones of life, he knew nothing. At the period when our heads grow frosty, our brows show the furrows of care and sorrow and toil his was smooth with the flush of youth but we do not envy Job. Into our days, short as they are, are compressed more of knowledge, experience and perhaps of pleasure than Job could see in all his years. Even if it were otherwise, we do not look regretfully at the days as they speed backward from us. Let them fly. There is a whole eternity of them ahead of us, and all that are gone do not diminish the store. The eagle swooping from the cliff will quickly reach the valley. The courier will deliver his message. The ship will grate upon the sands of the far off shore. But the time of the soul's flight reaches through eternity. It will be speeding on in the increasing strength when the visible heavens are rolled together like a scroll, folded and laid aside. We hear much of mispent years. They are not wasted unless they are given to the service of Satan and to the neglect of self and God. Every hour of innocent joy with family or friends, books or travel, is well spent. Let them fly! We are homesick to see that Elder Brother whose bright majestic brow will beam upon us. Let them treble outstrip the steed, the leaf, the ship, the cloud. Freight them with love, with charity, with achievements, if we can, for they rush in a curve like planets, and will round in upon us, bearing their freight with them when we strike on the other side. If they are bright they are bright because they fly. If they are gloomy they were better gone than staying. We shall lift up no sad requiem over the disappearance of the days and years as they speed past us. R. A.

A Change of Business.

The evening Messenger of Fort Dodge Iowa, says: "W. U. Turpin after twenty years of faithful service as a railroad man, has resigned his position as agent of the Chicago, Rock Island Railroad Company in Fort Dodge, and has purchased the interest of W. G. Moore in the Fort Dodge Stoneware Company. Mr. Turpin succeeds to Mr. Moore's title of secretary and treasurer of the company and will enter upon his new duties as soon as his successor is appointed, which will probably be the first of next week.

Mr. Turpin stated today that a course of development was in sight for the Stoneware company, although at present he preferred not to state his plans more definitely.

Mr. Turpin leaves the Rock Island with the best feelings on both sides. His resignation was purely voluntary and was prompted by the belief that he had found a better business.

Mr. Turpin above spoken of is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. J. Turpin of this city, and after visiting his parents the past summer, was accompanied west by his father, who, after several weeks trip, returned very much improved in health.

What Success Is.

Success is to accomplish what most people think cannot be done. Anybody can fail. It requires neither grit, push nor perseverance to fail. But to succeed is not to wait for the crowd. It is to strike out for one's self. It demands nerve, courage, faith. It requires toil, persistence and conviction. When a man once firmly believes a thing can be done, and then is absolutely sure that he is the man to do it, he has about half accomplished already. That inspires others with confidence in him, and he can reasonably expect co-operation, and yet if others are slow to believe, it will not ultimately discourage him who has an absorbing idea with a determination to accomplish it—Methodist Protestant.

Crescent's Performances.

The champion trotting horse of the world, Crescent, owned and driven by George H. Ketcham, has the following performance record.

Crescent started, including exhibitions, sixty-one times, being first forty-two times; second, fourteen times; third, four times and fourth, once. Never, in six year's racing, behind the money. His total winnings for the six years he has raced were $102,851.50, being an average of $17,141.25 per year, the average for six years being a greater amount than was ever won by any stallion in any one year.

Fire-Horses.

The fire-horses—two for light engines, and three when the machines weigh more than four tons—are trained as finely as the men. They are the pets of the house and of the neighborhood. Some of them learn in a week to run to their places at the signal, others require a month's training. The lessons are simple enough. A raw horse is made to feel the whip as he hears the signal-bell. If he is an intelligent animal, the two so soon become synonymous that he starts for his place the instant the bell rings. Many horses seem to know quite as well as the men when the alarm is one that means business. They really seem to count the strokes. A story is told of one horse who, when changed from Harlem to a station near headquarters, was wild to run when his old numbersounded, and quite indifferent to the new one, which really meant business and to which he responded only under protest. The stories told in the Department about the horses are endless. Some time ago an old gray fire-horse that had been attached to an engine was transferred to the hose-truck in the same building. The two rooms were connected by an open door. One night there was an alarm. The hose-truck men were dismayed to find that their old gray had disappeared. They thought that he must have been stolen. The engine had left for the fire, and disgrace was imminent for the hose company. Suddenly, a horse was heard kicking in the engine stalls, next door, and although it was not the missing gray, it was quickly forced into hose-service, and the company got off in a minute late. At the fire there stood the old gray harnessed to the engine. After the excitement was all over the mystery was explained. Upon hearing the familiar alarm the gray had trotted in next door and finding a strange horse in his usual place, had pushed him out of the way back into his stall. The firemen, in their hurry, had not noticed the substitution, and had harnessed the horses as they stood and left. A good fire-horse will last about six years, and will stand heat and excitement when even men are driven back.—From "Fire-Fighting To-day—and To-morrow," by PHILLIP G. HUBERT, JR., in the October Scribner's.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of any one. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Hanley, Geneva, O. He says: "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns, wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits.

Dear Sirs: What is lumber worth? "Depends on the lumber," you say—"What sort do you want?"

"That's how some people talk about paint. They ask: 'What'll you paint my house for?'"

The Yankee answer is, "How do you want it painted? One coat? two coats? three coats? first class or cheap?"

The proper answer is: "I want the best paint put on as it ought to be."

That's Devco; but the usual answer is, "I want a good job; but I want it cheap." Which means I want you to paint it for nothing. I want to be fooled.

Lead and oil is the costliest paint there is; not the best; it used to be best. Devco is best, since zinc came in. Zinc toughens the lead and doubles its wear.

Zinc costs no more than lead; and we grind by machinery. We have no patent on zinc; but nobody else is treating it right. Devco is your paint.

Yours truly,

A meeting of citizens was held in Annapolis to protest against the alleged exorbitant water rates charged in the Capital. It is claimed that after all expenses and the regular 8 per cent. dividend had been paid, $15,000 remained in the Water Company's coffers for distribution. City Councilor Claude and other prominent men spoke, and a committee was named to inaugurate a movement for cheaper rates.

The Royal Mouth and the Royal Disease.

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive. The progress of scrofula during a normal October is commonly great. We never think of scrofula—its bunched cutaneous eruptions, and wasting of the bodily substance—without thinking of the great good many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose radical and permanent cures of this one disease are enough to make it the most famous medicine in the world. There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative, consumption.

THE TITLE "GENERAL."

It is Never Bestowed Except by Special Act of Congress.

There are many mistakes made in speaking of the rank of general in our army. We use that title in speaking of or in addressing a lieutenant general, a major general or a brigadier general, but the single word "general," as denoting rank, has a distinct application. It is the highest rank that an army officer can attain in this country and is never bestowed except by special act of congress.

Until recently the highest rank by regular promotion was major general, but the law has been changed, and now lieutenant general is the highest. General is purely an honorary rank conferred by congress for specially distinguished services, and it always expires with the death of the man holding it.

The only full generals that we have had are Grant, Sherman and Sheridan. Many persons believe that Washington held the rank, but that is an error. As commander of the Continental army he was major general, and as commander of the United States army in 1798, when war with France was threatened, he was made lieutenant general. Congress passed an act March 3, 1799, creating the rank of full general for him, but his commission was never issued.

The only lieutenant generals that we have had besides Washington are Scott, Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Schofield and Miles, the last named now holding the rank.

The active commanding officer of the army used to be the senior major general; now it is the lieutenant general, but he is not the commander in chief. That is an error into which most people fall. The commander in chief is the president, made so by the constitution—"commander in chief of the army and navy." No other person has or can use that title. Official orders issued by General Miles are signed, "The lieutenant general commanding," not "commander in chief."

In the navy the highest rank obtained by promotion is rear admiral, the rank of full admiral being within the gift of congress, like that of general in the army. Dewey is a full admiral, but that rank will expire when he dies and cannot be revived without a special act of congress.—New York Press.

Mannerisms of Some Men.

There are few men, gentle or simple, who have not some little trick of manner easily detected by one who observes them closely. Naturally prominent politicians, being so much in the public eye, are more likely than ordinary private citizens to have their mannerisms noticed and recorded. Who does not remember, for example, the striking personality of the late Lord Beaconsfield? Before rising to speak in the house of commons—or on the platform elsewhere, for that matter—he always ran his hand over his face, round his hair, eyebrows and whiskers, then down over his handkerchief, his waistcoat and his chain till his fingers touched his eyeglass. Abstractedly picking this up, he furtively viewed the house through it, scanned the galleries, tapped it on the left thumb nail and then paused. He had taken the measure of his audience, and it was time to rise. Mr. Chamberlain also makes great play with his monocle, but he manipulates it like a great actor to whom it is a valuable stage property and a fruitful source of much oratorical "business." He is one of the few orators who can speak successfully with his eyeglass in position.—London Tatler.

The Political Girl.

"Now that you bachelor girls are going into politics and are beginning to indulge in club quarrels," said a clever bachelor to a bachelor girl not long since, "I suppose you will feel a little less uplifted and superior when you contemplate the lot and character of your masculine acquaintances."

"Not at all," responded the bachelor girl addressed, cheerfully eluding the danger of being pushed into a conversational or argumentative corner; "not at all, my dear sir. Our new experience, our clearer insight into the dubious ways of certain workers and forces and our own occasional and consequent lapses from the condition of unimpeachable rectitude and courtesy, for which we have so long been distinguished but teach us deeper sympathy with and pity for our masculine associates. If it is so terrible for us to indulge in these lapses very occasionally, how much more terrible must be the situation of the unfortunate sex which knows them of daily occurrence and which has become so hardened that it has even ceased to regard them as terrible at all!—Pilgrim.

Bishop Kemper's Staff.

The pastoral staff used by Bishop Kemper in his missionary visitations forty years ago has been recovered and is now the central object of interest in the missionary collection of the diocese of Milwaukee. Bishop Tuttle's father-in-law, the late William H. Whitling, gave this lately carved emblem of the episcopal office to a mission at Bloomfield, some seven miles from Lake Geneva, of which he was for many years the mainstay. Mr. Whitling had some skill in woodcarving and himself wrought the staff which Bishop Kemper used after him; Bishop Kemper used to call it his "shepherd's crook." Time and the shifting of population led to the abandonment of the mission at Bloomfield, and the "crook" was for many years lost sight of, but the present bishop of Milwaukee, hearing of it, did not rest in his search till his efforts were crowned with success, and at an ordination at St. Alban's, Sussex, of two deacons to be missionaries he told the story.

A CONFESSION IN E MINOR.

Humble Avowal of One Who Found No Melody in Classical Music.

Not that I know in the least what it means, this E minor, but it has such a satisfactory sound. And the confession has to do with Music—music with a big M; no commonplace parlor music, thank you, but pretentious, professional, poster heralded, high art music; music made by an orchestra of forty pieces and by a trained chorus of 700 voices.

Oratorio they called it, and a fine, mouth filling word it is. When I admitted never having heard oratorio, they expressed sympathy. "You must go," they said. "It's grand, magnificent, inspiring."

"But I may not understand," I objected. "Classical music is beyond me."

"Oh, but every one can appreciate oratorio. It is simple and yet majestic, beautiful. Besides, the director devotes the evening before the performance to an explanatory lecture which tells you all about it."

So I went to hear the director. It was an entertaining talk. He sketched the dramatic story of Elijah forcefully. In the oratorio we should hear, so he said, how Mendelssohn had married his music to the story; we should hear how the strings wailed in anguish of the stricken people of Israel, how the brasses voiced Jehovah's thunder. I enthused; I hastened for tickets; I was early in my seat.

As a spectacle it was impressive, for we who listened were 12,000, seated in long human windrows, while those who sang were massed impressively, too, and uncomfortably also, I imagine, in rows that towered one above the other from platform to ceiling. In the center was the big orchestra, and in front were the professional soloists.

As one emerging from the sea the leader mounted his perch. As he looked calmly about the gaze of 1,400 alert eyes centered on the little stick he held in his hand. With the little stick he rapped on the rail of his perch. There fell a hush like that which comes before a storm. He raised his arm. The hand holding the baton made a quick movement. From the big orchestra burst a volume of music. The overture was begun. Grandly it swung along until, with a wavelike motion, the chorus rose. A whole arm sweep of the little stick and 700 voices were blended into one mighty volume of sound.

It was as much like the roar of surf as anything I had ever heard; but, at least to my ears, it was not music. In vain did I listen for harmony, for melody; in vain did I try to fit the sound to the sense. "Help, Lord! Wilt thou quite destroy us?" These were the words they were repeating, over and over again; not with any regard to their tragic meaning, so far as I could discover, but according to some arbitrary form fixed by the composer.

On and on they sang, the volume now diminishing, now increasing; violins wailing, cymbals ringing, drums throbbing, brasses braying—and poor me, with no music in me, straining every sense to grasp that which others heard. But no music could I hear. Humbly I make the confession—it was noise, just a big noise, and nothing more.

Baffled and depressed, I left the auditorium and walked down to the edge of the Atlantic, where the majestic orchestra of old ocean was in the full swing of its never ceasing chant of praise to the Director of all things. That, at least, I could understand.—Sewell Ford in Brandur Magazine.

Another Coronation Pageant.

A second coronation pageant, perhaps even more splendid as a spectacle than that in London, will signalize the proclamation of King Edward and Queen Alexandra as emperor and empress of India at the beginning of next year. The ceremony will take place at Delhi, and the viceroy's camp will be pitched upon the historic ridge where the decisive struggle of the great mutiny was fought. There will be a state entry into Delhi, with the viceroy and leading chiefs on elephants, under military escort, and the coronation durbars will be held in a great amphitheater which will accommodate 12,000 persons. Hundreds of chiefs and native noblemen will take part in the ceremony, 40,000 troops will pass in review, and the festivities will be continued for two weeks. An incident of the celebration will be the opening of an Indian arts exhibition.—Youth's Companion.

Mighty Laurier.

In the estimation of the French Canadians, Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the greatest, if not the only great, person living. Some time ago a "habitant," arriving at the city of Quebec, met an old friend and fell to talking politics. In the course of the conversation he happened to mention the name of Queen Victoria, and the friend informed him that the queen had been dead for more than a year. "Dead!" exclaimed the country man. "And who, then, rules in England?" When it was explained to him that the Prince of Wales had succeeded to the throne, he shook his head wisely. "Mon Dieu," he said, "but he must have a pull with Laurier!"

Pretty Kettle of Fish.

A peculiar state of things is pointed out by a Kingston correspondent in connection with the well known Surrey borough, says Pearson's Weekly. The borough arms consist of three fishes, naturally suggestive of the upper Thames. Last year's mayor bore the name of Salmon, the mayor of the current year is a Mr. Finny, while it is confidently expected that the mayor for next year will be Mr. Smelt. This is a pretty kettle of fish, and we may expect to see Kingston in its desire to keep the pot boiling angling for a Trout, a Roach and a Pike for successive years.

Miss Nettie Blackmore, Minneapolis, tells how any young woman may be permanently cured of monthly pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"YOUNG WOMEN:—I had frequent headaches of a severe nature, dark spots before my eyes, and at my menstrual periods I suffered untold agony. A member of the lodge advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I only scorned good advice and felt that my case was hopeless, but she kept at me until I bought a bottle and started taking it. I soon had the best reason in the world to change my opinion of the medicine, as each day my health improved, and finally I was entirely without pain at my menstruation periods. I am most grateful."—NETTIE BLACKMORE, 28 Central Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

Painful Periods

are quickly and permanently overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The above letter is only one of hundreds of thousands which prove this statement to be a fact. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality, if it is painful something is wrong. Don't take narcotics to deaden the pain, but remove the cause—perhaps it is caused by irregularity or womb displacements, or the development of a tumor. Whatever it is, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is guaranteed to cure it.

If there is anything about your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. No man will see your letter. She can surely help you, for no person in America has such a wide experience in treating female ills as she has had. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is free. You are very foolish if you do not accept her kind invitation.

Details of Another Case.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Ignorance and carelessness is the cause of most of the sufferings of women. I believe that if we properly understood the laws of health we would all be well, but if the sick women only knew the truth about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, they would be saved much suffering and would soon be cured."

"I used it for five months for a local difficulty which had troubled me for years, and for which I had spent hundreds of dollars in the vain endeavor to rectify. My life forces were being sapped, and I was daily losing my vitality."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me completely, and I am now enjoying the best of health, and am most grateful, and only too pleased to endorse such a great remedy."—MISS JENNIE L. EDWARDS, 604 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women.

FOR CONGRESS:

JAMES E. ELLEGOOD,
OF WICOMICO COUNTY.

GREETING.

In announcing to the public the recent transfer and change of ownership of the ADVERTISER plant we desire to state that in the management of this favorite paper of Wicomico county the policy of our predecessors, Messrs. White, Hearn & Cooper, under whom it has maintained its old high standards, and, with an ever increasing field, has even attained to a higher position in the good graces of the people, will be, in large part, our own. We shall endeavor to give the people in Saturday morning's issue all the live current news that's wholesome and reliable, and avoid all that tends to morbidism, sensationalism or yellowism.

Democrats ourselves, of an entirely Democratic family on all sides, and firm believers in the cardinal principles of the Democratic party, the ADVERTISER will be continued after our own political faith, conservatively, as the paper has long been Democratic in politics and an earnest advocate of the highest rights and privileges of the people.

In the fast growing city of Salisbury we recognize a busy, hustling present, full of broad-minded, progressive and enterprising citizens, and foresee a future of vast promise, with possibilities of far-reaching magnitude in its commercial and manufacturing development. In that progress and advancement and all that tends to the social welfare, business interests and expansion of Salisbury and Wicomico county, particularly, the ADVERTISER may be expected to occupy a front seat in the foremost row.

We recognize that we are now conducting one of the oldest, best established and most influential of the prosperous newspapers of the state, high in favor with the people and possessing a large subscription and advertising patronage. Therefore, it is with a feeling of confidence and pleasure that in soliciting a continuance of business relations with the ADVERTISER we are in a position to give value for value on a thoroughly mutual and reciprocal basis. We trust to deserve the hearty good will and co-operation of all the past, present and future well wishers and friends, and desire to say that it gives us genuine enjoyment to appreciate favors by reciprocating when in our power.

Politically, though unvaryingly democratic, our chart and compass will be of our own choosing. When we can serve you in business matters let us hear. The firm style will be White & White. Mr. J. R. White for more than five years publisher of the Berlin Herald will remove to Salisbury about October 20th and will have the management of the plant. The date of sale and transfer occurred on October 1st.

Very truly,

WHITE & WHITE,
S. King White,
J. R. White.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT.

On the first day of October the ADVERTISER passed from our ownership and control into the hands of Messrs. J. Roscoe White and S. King White.

When we assumed the management of the paper some three years ago it was our aim to maintain the high position it then held in the public estimation and, if possible, to increase its usefulness in the community. To this end we have labored and, from the cordial support rendered us by the public, we are led to believe have attained a goodly portion of success.

The new editors and proprietors are young men of ability and enterprise.

They will undoubtedly do much to advance the paper to a still greater success. We bespeak for them a hearty support by the public at large, knowing full well that their energies will be exerted for the advancement and welfare of our town and county.

For ourselves, we wish to acknowledge our sincere appreciation of the generous patronage and aid extended us since our advent into the newspaper world. We relinquish the management of the paper with many regrets and will always treasure the close relation into which it has brought us with the people of our county and State.

WHITE, HEARN & COOPER.

A GOOD THING ANYHOW.

The Baltimore Evening News in a recent issue, states the situation in the first district as follows:

Congressman William H. Jackson is well acquainted with the Democratic 'possum which inhabits the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Mr. Jackson has never yet seen the political leopard change his spots. Neither has he seen a 'possum which would not appear to be dead if he thought in that way to avoid danger.

One cannot, therefore, blame Mr. Jackson for doubting mildly the motives of Eastern Shore Democrats when they announce that they are going to conduct a Congressional campaign on the "noboodle" plan. They have talked that way before. Fair promises were made as to anti-bribery laws, but when the Democrats of Mr. Jackson's acquaintance got through with them they were harmless as a lemon soda.

But conditions this time are a trifle different. Mr. Ellegood, Mr. Jackson's opponent, is a real anti-bribery candidate, and even Mr. Jackson must admit that Mr. Ellegood is honest and sincere. Mr. Jackson also wants some evidences of the same sincerity from Mr. Ellegood's party. He wants the leaders from all over the district to meet and pledge themselves not only against bribery in the pending campaign, but against bribery in campaigns for all time to come. Then, Mr. Jackson says, the Republicans will meet the Democrats half way and there will be pure politics.

Mr. Jackson's request is not unreasonable. At the same time it would do him no harm to unite with Mr. Ellegood, whom he knows to be honest, in making this particular struggle and anti-bribery campaign. The possibility that the Democrats of his district may in the future, as in the past, use corrupt methods in elections is no excuse for Mr. Jackson's countenancing such methods now, especially when he knows that his opponent will not do so.

AGAINST CORRUPTION.

Without going into the argument of politicians—which, in fact, is the small boy's retort that "I'm just as good as you"—it must be admitted that the open letter of James E. Ellegood, the democratic candidate for Congress in the First district, is an open, conscientious and manly stand against the corruption which has so long made that section the Augean stable of politics in Maryland. He confesses his inability to bind his party to a declaration as to future campaigns, which he has forced it to adopt, but does pledge both himself and his party for the coming campaign against corruption at the polls. That Mr. Ellegood will enforce the pledge so far as he can possibly do so, even his opponents admit.

It is the merest quibbling, therefore, for his opponents to decline the gauge of honest elections which he has thrown down on the ground that future political organizations in the district may not see fit to follow his lead. He cannot promise that his organization will be in power at the next election any more than his opponents can promise that theirs will be dominant. He can only promise to commit himself at this election and at other elections in which he is concerned, and this he does in a straightforward manner, which his opponents must either meet or confess openly that a "noboodle" campaign is the only one possible for them in the district.—Baltimore Herald, (Rep.)

OUT OF THEIR OWN MOUTH.

The coal trust of Pennsylvania is perfectly protected by the tariff and its cruel rapacity is only one more factor in arousing all over this country a demand for a sensible revision of the tariff, which, as the American has ably pointed out in its editorial columns, the republican party will be unwise indeed to ignore.—Baltimore American. (Rep.)

And yet the president asserts that a revision of the tariff is no remedy for the Trusts. A tariff protects the coal trust and those who oppose a revision of that tariff stands for a continuation of the reign of coal trust prices.

The paper quoted above continues, saying:

"The coal trust maintains stoutly that anthracite is on the free list, and even President Roosevelt was misled into saying a few days ago that the Coal Trust could derive no benefit from the tariff, since there was no duty on coal. As a matter of fact there is practically a prohibitive duty on coal."

"The coal schedule artfully provides that on anthracite containing less than 92 per cent of carbon a duty of 67 cents per ton shall be levied. Anthracite containing more than 92 per cent of carbon is free. But no foreign coal contains more than 90 per cent of carbon. This was of course, perfectly well known to the gentlemen who framed the coal schedule of the Dingley law. It was accordingly a shrewd trick to play on the people of this country to make such an arbitrary standard of the percentage of carbon contained in anthracite as to keep out all coal that might ever be imported, and to grant free entry to such coal as it was well known did not exist anywhere outside of this country, and would never come through the custom house."

—For the first time in its life of ten years, the Record places at the head of this editorial column the name of a candidate as its choice. This distinction is accorded to the Hon. James E. Ellegood, of Wicomico county, the democratic candidate for Congress from the First Congressional District of Maryland.

Mr. Ellegood's candidacy commends itself to this paper, not because of any political affiliation with the Democratic party, but because of his zealous and uncompromising attitude on the most important question before the American people today—pure elections. There is nothing upon which the health of our republican form of government is so dependent, as purity in politics and there is nothing more calculated to destroy the whole fabric of popular rule than bribery and corruption in elections, and against these vices Mr. Ellegood stands as firm as a rock backed by a record during his whole public career entirely constant therewith.

On the political questions of the day he is safe and sound, but it is particularly upon his anti-bribery and anti-corruption platform that his candidacy should commend itself to every voter interested in the welfare of the State and Nation.—Peninsula Record.

—When the Republicans present themselves as friends of American labor ask them how it comes that the Republicans tried to pass an anti trust bill making labor organizations unlawful, and that when democrats offered an amendment stating that "Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to apply to trade unions or other labor organizations, organized for the purpose of regulating wages, hours of labor, or other conditions under which labor is to be performed," the republican leaders including Cannon and Littlefield, voted against the amendment.

—When the Republicans defend the Dingley tariff, when they assert that it shall not be revised, remind them that Mr. Dingley the author of that tariff bill said while he and his republican associates on the committee on Ways and Means were framing those schedules: "We are purposely making them too high, because we want them as a basis which will enable us to offer foreign countries material inducements to enter into reciprocity treaties with us."

"The government is a contemptible failure if it can only protect the lives and property and secure the comfort of the people by compromising with the violators of law and the instigators of violence and crime."—President George F. Baer of the Reading to President Roosevelt.

WEAR American Lady CORSETS

"Sh-h-h-h-h, Hush!"

Said he, as he quietly opened the door to a room where a dozen or so well known temperance men were at work trying to figure out whether the second act of the thrilling drama "The Rum Curse" would be more successful than the first. "Sh-h-h-h!" Have you heard the story of how the Salisbury police caught the liquor dealers pouring water into their liquor? "No," they all yelled. "It's no wonder, for it has't leaked out yet," said he, quietly, and a dozen men offered to buy a drink. Nobody often thinks to buy you anything to wear, and no matter whether Salisbury goes wet or dry, you've got to wear clothes. Thoroughgood offers the people at all times and under all circumstances the best clothes made at prices not to be matched by any other store in Salisbury. Won't it be touching after election to see a big robust man at one of those little round tables they have in our drug stores near the soda fountains? He sits there shame-facedly, with a glass of cherry ripe or pineapple before him, not hearing a word of his fair companion's chatter because of fear that some of his joshing men friends might come along and see him. The average man feels more at home with his foot on a brass rail, a glass of creamy buttermilk in one hand and a salted cracker in the other. Aside from "COMIN' THRO' THE RYE," let's all sing "BUY LOW TO-MORROW." Yes, you can buy Ready-made Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs, Hosiery and Suspenders from Lacy Thoroughgood low to-morrow, you can buy them low day after to-morrow; you can buy them low next week; you can buy them low next month or month after next; next year or year after next.

Salisbury Gentlemen Enjoy Good Fishing While There.

Among the visitors registered at the Atlantic Hotel this week were Judge Charles F. Holland, Col. O. J. Schneek, and R. D. Grier of Salisbury, Maryland. All of these were intimate friends of Harry Phillips the popular and genial proprietor and his charming wife who are ever solicitous for the comfort of their guests whom they entertain in a royal manner on fish, oysters, soft crabs, diamond back Terrapin and all the delicacies of the season that land and water afford and prepared in the choicest manner. Judge Holland and Col. Schneek the extensively known, popular and efficient proprietor of the Peninsula House at Salisbury, Maryland, came for a days sport at Ocean fishing, and were remarkably successful, having caught a barrel of large sea trout, drum etc. The Judge caught most of the trout, while Col. Schneek hooked and caught the largest drum fish seen here this season, even beating our own guides. Joe Snead and Dan Booth say they really love the two men. Joe and Dan are old and experienced guides, and sportsmen wishing a days or weeks outing of any kind can do no better than write to them; or Harry Phillips, proprietor of the Atlantic hotel here as to the best time to come for gunning or fishing. Of course the visitors beat the guides fishing this time, but it is an open question as to who can tell the biggest, no, the best fish story. Jay Smith also, the clerk of this hotel, is noted not only for his careful attention to its guests his genial manners, his popularity, with the traveling public and his fine practical good sense, but also for his courage and nerve in allowing no disorder of any kind. He is so thoroughly familiar with the duties of his position as was the celebrated jurist after whom he was named in dispensing justice in the highest judicial tribunal in the United States. We hope soon to see these visitors again, and will write more next week.

Death Of Mr. Thos. A. Jones.

Mr. Thos. A. Jones, a well-known citizen of Pittsburg district this county died very suddenly Wednesday morning of last week of consumption and other complications at the age of 61 years. Mr. Jones had been in failing health for the past six months, but his sudden death was very much unexpected by his immediate friends and family, who nursed him tenderly and rendered all possible service with the fond hope that life would be preserved much longer. Mr. Jones suffered intense agony at times but his ennobled character and Christian spirit caused him not to murmur or complain and he bore his suffering with Christian fortitude.

Mr. Jones was never actively engaged in politics, but he gave his influence to the Democratic party whose true principles he always cherished. He was always specially interested in agriculture and from that source principally had accumulated an estate of between $10,000 and $12,000.

At the age of twenty four Mr. Jones married Miss Mary E. Williams and is survived by her and four children namely, Mrs. Jas. S. Carey of Whiteville, Del., Mrs. J. T. A. Beauchamp of Philadelphia, Pa., and Messrs. S. Edward and John T. Jones who, with others, deeply mourn his loss. Funeral services were held at Mt. Pleasant M. E. Church on Thursday afternoon by Rev. Hugh B. Keleo in the presence of numerous relatives and friends, interment being in the churchyard. Mr. Jones was a highly respected citizen deeply beloved by all who knew him.

John Wanamaker, who knows some thing about business and advertising is credited with the following: There is only one way to hammer your name, your location, your business, so constantly so persistently into the people's heads that if they walked in their sleep they would constantly turn their faces toward your store. The newspaper is your best friend, in spite of your criticism. It helps build up the community that supports you. When the day comes that the newspapers are dead, the people are near the edge of the grave with no one to write their epitaph.

Under the title "With the Attacking Fleet, A Story of the Great War Game" Mr. James Barnes describes, in the October Magazine Number of the The Outlook, what happened on board ship during the recent manoeuvres near the entrance to Long Island Sound. Mr. Barnes, who has written more than one book relating to early American naval history, had the advantage of witnessing the great marine sight from the deck of the splendid new war ship, "Alabama". He was authorized by the War Department to sail on this ship as special representative of The Outlook. His article is full of brilliant and picturesque narrative passages, and is the first real attempt to treat this subject in what may be called a literary way.

Worth Its Weight in Gold.

It is a fact, whether confessed or not, that there is more tinsel and glitter and more show and boasting in this world than real merit or true worth. This is true in some cases but not in all. R. S. MEMORIAL HOSPITAL INITIATED.

Corner-stone Laid Monday Afternoon With Interesting Exercises And Impressive Ceremonies.

A day of finest weather, a large attendance and a well prepared program were factors of the corner stone laying of the "Jackson Memorial Hospital" on Monday.

Guests came from many counties and cities to witness the first step toward the erection of this humanitarian institution.

Wicomico Lodge, No. 91, A. F. and A. M. Worshipful Master E. E. Twilley officiating conducted the ceremonies. The full ceremony of the Masonic fraternity was used. Thos. J. Shryock, Commandery No. 11, Knights Templar of this city, acted as escort to the Lodge, Eminent Commander James L. Powell, assisted by many visiting Sir Knights from Baltimore, Eastern and Cambridge, and from points in Delaware.

The First Regiment band of Wilmington headed the procession from the Temple on Main Street to the N. Y. P. & N. Station where the Grand officers were met, thence to the new hospital site.

The following Grand Officers from Baltimore were present: Grand Eminent Commander Charles Clark, Deputy Grand Commander W. J. Cunningham, Grand Captain General E. C. Regier, Grand Senior Warden E. C. Staley, Grand Junior Warden Dr. John W. Linthicum, and Captain of the Guard, Col. Willard Howard.

The following distinguished guests were on the platform: Senator R. B. Dixon of Talbot, Senator McCullough of Cecil, Senator Rowe of Caroline, Senator Dennis of Somerset, ex-Congressman Barber of Talbot, Sub-Treasurer A. Lincoln Dryden, John D. Urie of Kent, Col. W. F. Jackson of Dorchester, Mr. J. C. Knipp of Baltimore, Judge Marvill, Mr. Josiah Marvill of Wilmington, and Judge Holland.

Just before the ceremony a procession of five hundred children from the public schools of the city, under command of Professor Wm J. Holloway, marched in a body to the grounds and took position to witness the ceremony.

The visiting masons and Sir Knights were entertained by Mr. Jackson at the Peninsula Hotel. The colored visitors, of which there was a large number, were taken care of at John Wesley M. E. Church.

Professor Dashiell had trained a special chorus of twenty five voices for the occasion, and the music was one of the features. The following composed the chorus and orchestra:

Sopranos—Mesdames J. D. Williams, J. D. Wallop, T. E. Martindale, E. W. Smith, H. L. Brewington, Misses Grace Ellegood, Edna Owens, Nancy Gordy, Willie Woodcock.

Altos—Mesdames W. S. Gordy, Gardner Springs, Belle H. Fowler, R. D. Grier, Jay Williams, Miss Ada Brewington.

Tenors—Dr. E. W. Humphreys, Dr. Gardner Springs, Mr. W. T. Dashiell. Basses—Messrs. V. S. Gordy, J. H. Tomlinson, F. P. Adkins, H. L. Brewington, Rev. S. J. Smith, Rev. T. E. Martindale.

Orchestra—Messrs. W. A. Kennicly, E. H. Walton, M. A. Walton, Herman Murrell, Miss Clara Walton.

The opening prayer was delivered by Rev. Richard W. Humphreys, an uncle of Mrs. William H. Jackson. Chief Judge Henry Page delivered the oration of the day.

Judge Page in his address paid a great tribute to Mr. Jackson's philanthropy and generosity, and said that the gift of such a splendid memorial was more than a shaft of granite or a marble column.

The contents of the box in the corner-stone were the last report of the Peninsula General Hospital, copies of THE SALISBURY ADVERTISER, The News, Courier, photograph of Mr. Jackson, program of the ceremonies, some old coins and the cards of several of the members of the Jackson and Humphreys families.

DESCRIPTION OF HOSPITAL.

The Jackson Memorial Hospital building will be one of the finest public buildings in the State, and will be erected at a cost of $25,000 by Hon. Wm. H. Jackson. The building will be of brick, stone and iron, after plans drawn by Architect Jackson Gott of Baltimore. The builder is Mr. Thomas H. Mitchell of Salisbury.

The plans call for a building four stories high, with basement and sub-basement. The front will be 35x46 feet, with two wings, each 26x38 feet, with porches in the angles. The facing brick will be mottled 2 1/2x12 inches, made expressly for this building by the

STATE GAME LAWS.

Seasons for Shooting Quail, Rabbit, etc., in the County.

The last Maryland Legislature appropriated $250 for the publication of the game laws of the State in condensed form, and as the hunting season is on there is a great demand for the pamphlet by sportsmen.

State Game Warden John W. Avirett recently published the laws in tabulated and compass form and in convenient shape for the pocket. On the subject of licenses for non-resident sportsmen the pamphlet reads:

LICENSES FOR NON-RESIDENTS.

"In all the counties of the State except Allegany non-residents are now compelled to secure a license before they can hunt. The license is issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court in all the counties except Wicomico, where the County Clerk is charged with this work. In all of the counties not specified below landowners or residents who invite non-residents to hunt on their own lands or with them, in which case no license is required. This does not apply to Kent, where even if invited by a resident the non-resident must take out a license, costing $5 (Acts 1894, Chapter 501), nor to Caroline, Dorchester (except relatives by blood or by marriage), Garrett, Kent (see above), Somerset (unless accompanied by resident), Talbot, Wicomico (unless accompanied by resident) and Worcester. Export of game is prohibited by State laws in the several counties:

Wicomico and Worcester—Quail or partridge from both counties considered as one territory; penalty, $5 to $35.

There are also restrictions on the sale of quail or partridge for export in Wicomico and Worcester counties. (Both counties considered as one territory.) The closed season for squirrel in Wicomico is from February 15th., to September 1st. For rabbit Wicomico and Worcester counties, January 15th. to November 15th. For quails, Ruffed Grouse, English and Mongolian Pheasants, Wild Turkey, Wicomico and Worcester, February 1st. to November 10th. Plover, Wicomico, January 15th. to November 15th.

DUCK, GOOSE, BRANT AND SWAN.

Wicomico (wood or summer duck)—January 1 to September 10. Summer Duck—January 1 to September 10.

Worcester (wood or summer duck)—March 1 to September 1.

The closed season for shooting doves is at all times in Wicomico county.

For Woodcock, the closed season in Wicomico county is from February 1 to June 14, and in Worcester from February 1 to November 10.

TURNER—SIRMAN.

Miss Lillian E. Sirman, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Edward Sirman, and Mr. Marion C. Turner were married at seven o'clock, Tuesday morning, at the home of the bride's parents on Park Avenue. Rev. Chas. A. Hill, pastor of Asbury M. E. Church, officiated.

The parlor, in which the ceremony took place was very prettily decorated with palms and plants. The blinds were closed and the house artificially lighted. The young couple were unattended and the wedding march was rendered on the piano by Miss May Sirman, the bride's sister.

The bride wore a becoming traveling suit of blue cloth, with hat to match and gray gloves, and carried a white prayer book. Members of the immediate families only were present.

After the ceremony and congratulations of those present, Mr. and Mrs. Turner left for a short trip to Baltimore and Washington. They are now housekeeping at their new home on Parsons Street.

Ellegood in Worcester.

Berlin, Md., Oct. 16.—Hon. James E. Ellegood, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the First district, made a speech in Berlin, Worcester county, Thursday, and had for audience a large number of persons who came to the races. He said he was favorably impressed with the situation here and elsewhere in Worcester county. Senator Moore was up from Snow Hill, and other Democratic leaders were present. Mr. Ellegood says he expects a handsome majority in Worcester, judging from the present prevailing harmony throughout the district. He continues his itinerary of 14 days' constant travel and speeches throughout the district.

—Invitations have been issued by Captain and Mrs. Laidor Becker of Baltimore, to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Cora Becker and Mr. Charles Long Ulman of this city. The marriage will take place Thursday, October 23rd in Baltimore.

RACES AT BERLIN.

Candidate Ellegood And Many Other Democratic Politicians Enjoyed The Sport.

Berlin, Md., October 16.—The annual Berlin horse races took place at Franklin's Driving Park here this afternoon. During the afternoon the First congressional district nominee of the Democratic party, Hon. James E. Ellegood, came over from Salisbury and announced that he was over to participate in one of the chief events—the race for Congress. Senator Moore was up from Snow Hill, and other Democratic leaders were present.

In the race events there were three classes—a three-minute, a two-minute and a free-for-all. In the free-for-all the time record of Franklin's track was broken. Harry Windsor's Free Silver made a half-mile heat in 1:06, beating any previous record here. In the three-minute class Morgan, Major and Rydie S. were entered, Morgan winning first money, best three out of five heats, Major second, Rydie S. third. Time, 2:41 1/2.

In the 2:40 class Raymond Bell and Maude Ewing were entered. Raymond Bell winning first money, beating best three heats out of five. Time, 2:35.

Free for all—Half-mile heat. Sweet Director, driven by John Ottell; Judge Case, driven by Wm. J. Hall, and Free Silver, by Harry Windsor, were entered. Free Silver won first money, Judge Case second and Sweet Director third. Time, 1:04 1/2.

The judge was Dr. James C. Dirickson. G. W. Henry and F. Bartlett were referees.

Another Petition Presented.

Nothing daunted by the adverse decision of the Court in relation to the vote on the license question in Salisbury District, owing to insufficient names, the temperance workers have been at work with renewed energy and Friday filed a petition containing the total number of names necessary to enable the court to grant the petition (being one-half of all the votes cast at the last election for Governor) which is 352. In filing their opinion Monday night regarding the first petitions for a vote, Judges Page and Holland added; The total number of registered and qualified voters, who have signed these several petitions is claimed by the petitioners to be 490. Of those it is admitted that the number who have withdrawn is 115. Total, 375. Of these we find from the evidence, that 1 is dead, one is not registered, and 23 are not identified: total 25; which being deducted from the 375, leaves 350, or less than enough.

Tuesday morning the Judges filed an opinion in the Nutter's District case, granting a vote on the question of license or no license at the next election.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Out Door Garments: Stylish Gowns: Garaltures: Evening Dresses: Pedestrian Skirts: Millinery.

In out door garments, jackets lead, from very short ones extending but little below the waist, to others twenty-seven inches long. All are loose in front and either single or double breasted and a proportion are loose at the back. Stylish examples are in Zibiline or other rough finished cloths, but fine, smooth cloth in black or tan, is shown at higher prices. Monte Carlo coats remain in favor: three quarter lengths are very noticeable and for carriage wear, elegant styles in silk elaborately trimmed with fur or lace are a choice of the wealthy. Utility coats reaching to the bottom of the pedestrian skirts, have a mannish appearance, but are hardly so practical after all, as a shorter garment, because the latter affords greater freedom in holding the skirt up on a tempestuous day, when even this latter day invention, may be found not impervious to pavement slush.

RECENT OPENINGS

of dressy gowns, reveal similarity as to outline, with what has gone before and for newness one must look to garniture. The great run on pendants or what is on the pendant order, becomes immediately apparent and even flat lying passementeries partake of shapes that might easily hang. Such fancy has undoubtedly induced the immense popularity accorded to grapes, whether in genuine flat shape or as in passementeries. In slightly rising simulations in velvet or silk. Colorings of course are according to fancy and in millinery are varied and beautiful. Cloth gowns in white or evening shades have unwonted prestige, but are almost always relieved by open embroidery or heavy white lace. As a result moreover, of the Dressmakers' Convention, woman's attire has received a notable impulse in the direction not only of the aesthetic, but in that of a right pose of the body, since no matter how beautiful the gown, it will count for little, if the wearer be wanting in grace of motion or a correct attitude in repose. To such end, the leaders in this unique assemblage, began at the foundation and no small interest has been aroused by the fact that choice in the exemplification of what would be most conducive to the aim in view, was made of the C. B. A la spirit corset.

EVENING DRESSES.

continue to show the prominence of light material and where silk is used, it is often draped by net or chiffon. Inexpensive party gowns, can in consequence be made at home if need be and for young girls nothing is so pretty as a net or some other sheer fabric. Necks are cut either round or square and most sleeves extend well to the elbow, in order to admit of the "angel" drapery that is so graceful. In marked contrast, are counters laden heavily with pedestrian skirts, that give no excuse for broom brigades on dusty streets or hampered effort in locomotion. Extremes are thus noticeable and more than all, adaptability to special occasions. It may be added too, that dressmakers without dissent, approve the new S. H. & M. velvet braid skirt protector, especially in respect to its use on drop skirts, that hitherto have been vexatious on account of an easy fraying. The new braid is the more liked also because requiring only one sewing to attach it to the skirt. In the prevalence of white or very light shades, especially the former is very noticeable. A broad white, rough finished felt, encircled by white or pale hued dahlias, roses, pond lilies or grapes has an air of style. Chiffon or tulle are again united with heavy material or may appear alone and the introduction of fur, is everywhere welcome, both as a garniture or in making the whole hat. A most striking innovation is the use of squirrel fur that promises to become quite a fad. At a very stylish milliner's a hat was composed of alternate rows of tulle and squirrel fur and entire hats are seen in the gray coating of one or more nimble denizens of our woods. Little innocents gambled no more because fair ones must be wrapped in their skins and 'emaline hands be protected by Nature's gift for the tiny animal's warmth. Squirrel fur neck pieces are also a complement in fashionable exhibitions. LUCY CARTER.

If The Baby Is Cutting Teeth.

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic. "I was afflicted with catarrh. I took medicines of different kinds, giving each a fair trial; but gradually grew worse until I could hardly bear, taste or smell. I then concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking five bottles I was cured and have not had any return of the disease since." EUGENE FORBES, Lebanon, Kan.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures catarrh—it soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane and builds up the whole system.

HYMNOLOGY AND TRUTH.

Exception Taken to a Stanza in a Popular Hymn.

The congregation has perhaps wondered why in singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers!" in our church we omit the third stanza. It is because this stanza says things that are not true. I do not think that we ought to utter untruths in church, especially when it is not necessary. Here is the stanza:

Like a mighty army
Moves the church of God.
Brethren, we are treading
Where the saints have trod.
We are not divided,
All one body we,
One in hope and doctrine,
One in charity.

Are the various statements here wherewith we exhort one another to march on true? The statements are: First, God's church is moving on like a great army; second, we are going over the ground once traversed by the saints; third, we are not divided; fourth, we are all one body; fifth, we are one in hope; sixth, and in doctrine; seventh, and in charity. Now, is all this true? No. 1 is not true. It is palpably false. Many portions of the church of God are not moving at all. The Eastern church has not moved for a thousand years. The South American and the Cuban and the Porto Rican and the Philippine and the French and Italian and Spanish and Coptic and Armenian churches are either not moving or are moving in the wrong direction, and if the parts are not moving the whole can hardly be said to be doing so. The only parts where motion is apparent are the German, Scandinavian and English speaking portions, and whether they are moving "like a mighty army" may well be questioned. Even if we hold that the church of God is extending its conquest over the world it requires a good deal more assurance than is becoming to say that the church of God is moving like a mighty army.

As to No. 2, it is either a truism or a piece of flashy rhetoric.

No. 3, "We are not divided." This will be news to Dr. Carroll. Christians are not divided! Church union at last! And so easily reached! This is delightful. This line cannot be regarded as the adverse of the next line, for it is not said here that the "body" is not divided, which may be true, but that "we" are not divided. Well, if "we" are not divided, what does division mean?

No. 4, "All one body." That is true in a mystical sense, the sense of the creed.

No. 5, "One in hope." True, we all hope to get to heaven.

No. 7, "One in doctrine." The poet's eye must have rolled in a fine frenzy when he wrote that. One in doctrine—Baptists and Roman Catholics and Quakers and Seventh Day Adventists. Why, even low church and high church Episcopalians are not one in doctrine.

No. 8, "One in charity." Since when? Neither as individuals nor as particular churches have we any charity—to boast of, as this poetry does.

No. 10, it cannot be said that this series of statements displays a rigorous regard for facts—Crown St. Stephen's Church, Newark.

Mormons in Denmark.

A good many Danes, men and women, have become Mormons in recent years, and Denmark is now regarded as a most promising field for mission work on behalf of the sect. A newspaper organ and a publishing house for the dissemination of tracts and books have been established in Copenhagen, and it is proposed also to found a temple there like the parent tabernacle in Salt Lake City. Money for this purpose is being collected in the United States, to which about 500 Mormon converts come annually. There is local opposition to the temple and the propaganda, but the work goes on secretly or openly without abatement, the site of the structure being bought and paid for, though the hostile Danish press asserts that it will never be allowed to be built.

A Matter of Excuses.

On one occasion when Ambassador Choate was defending a client charged with a serious offense the attorney for the plaintiff in his speech had recounted the alleged misconduct of the defendant and impressively said:

"There is no possible excuse for such action. No one could offer any excuse." "Why, just imagine the many excuses you could devise if you were counsel for the defendant," interrupted Mr. Choate.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL INITIATED.

Salisbury Brick Company. Red sand stone and granite will be the trimmings. The architecture is very imposing. The basement will contain a beautiful little chapel for services each Sunday; an embalming and autopsy morgue; staff dining room, general kitchen and laundry. In the sub-basement will be located the steam heating and electric light plants.

On the first floor will be a spacious waiting-room, physicians' room, nurses' rooms, two bath and toilet rooms and two additional toilet rooms. There will be on this floor two wards, each containing eight beds, and a large dispensary. Each ward and room will have special arrangements for ventilating.

The second floor will contain four private rooms, elegantly fitted up, with bath, etc., for private patients; two public wards of eight beds each; three bath and toilet rooms; linen rooms, clothes closets, diet kitchen and nurses' room.

On the third floor there will be four private rooms, operating room, diet kitchen, linen room, and toilet room. The fourth floor will have six rooms for private patients.

The building will be equipped with a swift passenger elevator, running from basement to fourth floor. The roof will be covered with fox colored red glazed Roman tile, with galvanized iron cornices. The inside finish will be yellow pine, hard oiled.

The chapel is to have handsome leaded glass windows and will be provided with an organ. In the vestibule and operating room tile will be used for the floor, as also in the toilet rooms. Tile wainscoting will be used in finishing the bath rooms and operating room. The finish of the corridors will be in Kerne's white cement.

The plans have been drawn and the building will be constructed along the lines of scientific sanitation, and will be as finely equipped as any hospital in the State of Maryland.

HISTORY OF PENINSULA GENERAL HOSPITAL.

The Peninsula General Hospital was organized in October, 1897, the incorporators being William F. Jackson, Henry L. D. Stanford, Dr. George W. Todd, Walter B. Miller, Marion V. Brewington, Calvin B. Taylor and William E. Sheppard. The first board of directors and officers elected were as follows:

Wm. F. Jackson, President; H. L. D. Stanford, of Princess Anne, Vice-President; M. V. Brewington, Secretary; Walter B. Miller, Treasurer; Calvin B. Taylor, of Worcester; Robert H. Nicholson, of Cape Charles; Phillips Lee Goldsborough, of Dorchester; Dr. Edw. Fowler, of Laurel, Del. The hospital was opened on the site it now occupies on Main Street extended, and was fitted out through the generosity of the citizens of Salisbury, urged on by the persistent efforts of the Board of Lady Managers, consisting of Mrs. E. Stanley Toadvin, Miss Nettie Phillips, Miss Ella Eggleston, Miss Hanna Ulman, Mrs. S. Somers Gunby, Miss Elizabeth Dorman, Miss Alice Humphreys, Miss Beulah White, Mrs. Walter B. Miller, Mrs. James T. Truitt, Mrs. E. Riall White and Miss Emma Powell.

The first State aid for the Hospital was secured through ex Gov. Elihu E. Jackson, who was then a member of the Finance Committee of the Senate in 1898, amounting to $1,200 a year. The County Commissioners of Wicomico have appropriated the sum of $800 each year towards its maintenance. In January, 1900, through the efforts of Senator Brewington, the State appropriation was increased to $2,500 per year, and at the last session of the Legislature the Senator was instrumental in having the appropriation increased to $5,000 per year.

The first year 88 patients were treated at the Hospital; the second year 111. The third year the number jumped to 135, and this year the number will reach at least 275. These figures include charity patients alone. Many pay patients have also been treated, but on account of the crowded condition of the present building, the whole accommodations had to be turned over to the charity patients. Since the establishment of the Hospital 295 operations have been performed, the larger portion being difficult operations, and not a single death resulted therefrom. In fact, not more than half a dozen deaths have occurred at the Hospital since its foundation.

This institution was started mainly through the efforts of Dr. Geo. W. Todd, assisted by Dr. J. McFadden Dick as surgeon, who made the institution take a foremost place among the hospitals of the State. The Hospital is equipped with the latest instruments, purchased by the ladies of Salisbury from the proceeds of fairs and bazaars. X-ray apparatus and the latest appliances for special work are also included in the equipment.

The geographical situation of Salisbury makes a hospital at this point of especial advantage to the entire Peninsula. The town is within easy reach of all the counties below the Choptank, and the railroad yards at Cape Charles and Norfolk, where accidents are frequent. The steamboats running into Salisbury give the people along the water courses easy access to the Hospital, and since its establishment many lives have been saved which, had the patients been carried to the cities, would have died en route.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas our Heavenly Father, "Whom we are and whom we serve" has seen fit in his wisdom to remove from our earthly fellowship our beloved co-worker and friend, Mrs. Louisa Graham, Miller, who after a brief illness died September, 11th, 1902,

Therefore be it resolved, that we her surviving companions of the King's Daughters her-by express over her untimely death the deep sense of loss we feel and place upon record in our minute our high estimate of her noble character: In Mrs. Miller we recognized a sincere and devout Daughter of the King; one whose intelligence, sympathy with human want and suffering, unobtrusive piety, gentleness and sweetness of spirit, not only commanded respect, but our admiration and love.

Resolved, That believing as we do that she has been called to the higher and heavenly circles of the King's daughters, we bow submissively to our Father's will, and feeling the deepest sympathy with her bereaved husband and family, we prayerfully commend them to the promised grace of our Lord reminding them "Earth has no sorrows Heaven cannot heal."

Resolved that a copy of this paper be furnished by our secretary to the husband and family of our dear friend.

Now, the sickly infant looks like a healthy child and is growing fat and plump, and cheerful." You make a noble investment when you purchase Victor Infants

IMPURITIES IN COAL.

Value of the Fuel When Converted Into Blast Furnace Coke.

The purpose of washing coal is to free it as nearly as practicable of all matter that reduces its heating capacity or has a detrimental effect upon the metal produced with such coal or with coke made from such coal.

The impurities in coal are of two kinds, such as are chemically passive, but which do not produce heat, but, on the contrary, absorb heat and clog the openings in the grates by forming ashes and clinkers. They must be repeatedly handled, shipped and freight paid for them, and are a burden all around.

The other kinds of impurities are chiefly iron pyrites, an ore compound of iron and sulphur, containing as much as 53 per cent of the latter element. There occurs also frequently some phosphorus, which remains in the ashes. The sulphur and phosphorus are both injurious to the quality of iron produced in a blast furnace, and for this reason it is very important that coal or coke for blast furnace use shall be as free from those two elements as possible. The phosphorus occurs in the ash producing matter and remains there unless it is given an opportunity to chemically combine with iron, lime or other matter for which it has an affinity.

The value of furnace coke is based, apart from general commercial reasons, upon its degree of purity from ashes, sulphur and phosphorus.

The ashes entering a blast furnace, with the coke, cannot be disposed of as under ordinary conditions, as, for instance, when fuel is burned upon grates, but it must be melted and thus converted into slag. But the heat in a blast furnace is not sufficiently intense to melt the ashes, except if some other element is added to the charge which melts readily and has the property of inducing the ashes to melt also. Such elements are in metallurgy called flux; one of the most efficient and cheapest is limestone, and this is used for converting not only ashes, but also all nonmetallic matter contained in the iron ore into a liquid slag. But apart from the quantity of flux required to liquify the earthy ingredients of ore, it takes two pounds of limestone for every pound of ashes brought into the furnace. If, in accord with this, we consider the amount of ashes charged into a furnace consuming say 800 tons of coke per day, and which coke contains say 10 per cent of ashes, then we find that the ashes charged amounts to thirty tons and the limestone consumed in melting the ashes is sixty tons. Now, assuming that the cost of this be $1 per ton, comprising quarrying, loading, shipping, unloading and charging into the furnace, there is a daily expenditure of $90, which is in round figures $22,000 per year, and represents 5 per cent interest on a capital of $440,000. For this and the other reasons the price paid for furnace coke is based upon its greater or lesser freedom from impurities, which is ascertained by chemical analysis. — Mines and Minerals.

Saved His Record.

"Big Steve" Rowan, a Chicago policeman about whom many amusing stories are told, is the hero of an anecdote in Lippincott's Magazine. On one occasion he found a weary individual sitting on the curbstone. "G'wan home!" ordered Rowan. "Can't," replied the weary one, and when he tried to get on his feet it was evident that he spoke the truth. He was too unsteady for the purposes of successful navigation. "Ha-ave ye th' money f'r a cab?" asked Rowan. "No," answered the man. "Ye can't stay here," asserted Rowan. "Can't get anywhere else," said the man.

For a moment it looked as if the policeman would have to spoil his record by making an arrest, but he was equal to the emergency. "Get up," he said. "I'll help ye." The man got on his feet, and the policeman held him up. "Come on across th' r-road," was the next order, and the weary one was assisted to the other side of the street, where Rowan gently put him down on the curb again and left him. "Tis better so," he said. "He's on Casey's beat now, an' Casey's that ambitious he likes to get up iv a mornin' to go to th' po-lis court."

Auto Climbs a Tower.

A curious performance has just been accomplished by an automobile in Denmark. Copenhagen possesses a circular tower 100 feet in height, which was formerly used for astronomical purposes. Its top is only reached by ascending a spiral passage twelve feet broad which winds between the outer wall of the tower and an inner circular wall. From the base to the top it is entirely without steps, and the gradient is seven inches per ell. An automobile of five horsepower, weighing 200 pounds and carrying three persons, ascended the tower the other day, taking one minute for the journey, and afterward making the much more dangerous descent with equal success. It is of interest to recall that the Czar Peter the Great on visiting Copenhagen in 1716 made the same ascent and descent in a carriage drawn by four horses.

Hard Drinkers Are Short Lived.

More interesting and remarkable perhaps than any other disclosures made by Dr. Dana are those relating to the capacity of men for drink and duration of life among habitual inebriates. On the latter point the conclusions reached are that in serious cases the duration of life is about fifteen years, the maximum being over forty years. In general it is said that hard drinking can rarely be carried on for more than twenty years, and it generally brings the victim to grief at about the age of forty. — Leslie's.

POVERTY AND RICHES.

Each Condition Has Its Advantages and Its Drawbacks.

Poverty has its good points. In the first place, it is an incentive to work. A man can read that "Labor, all labor, is noble and holy" without feeling any desire to leave his hammock. He can peruse all the volumes ever written about the blessing of work without being impelled to move from his easy chair before the library fire. It's the empty dinner pail and the yawning coal scuttle that incite to activity.

Poverty is not a crime; but, then, neither is it anything of which to be proud, although we hear it boasted of so often that we are in danger of forgetting that poverty is not the badge of honesty any more than wealth is the seal of corruption.

Poverty is sometimes a blessing, since it enables a man to tell who his friends are. It is also a blessing because it serves to make wealth endurable to those who possess it. Where would be the fun for rich people in making a splurge if they hadn't any poorer friends to watch the show? What should we do with our old ball gowns if we hadn't any poor relations who never go to balls? How else could we secure the ten dollar glow that comes as the result of five cents' worth of charity if we had not the poor always with us?

Poverty is never monotonous. The man who does not know where his next meal is to come from may suffer the pangs of hunger, but he will not be a victim to ennui. And of the two hungers is to be chosen.

Above all else poverty is interesting. There is a certain sameness about wealth, but poverty is never twice alike. One day you go without butter, the next you have butter on your bread, but no sugar in your tea or maybe you have the sugar and no tea to put it in.

Of course poverty has its drawbacks. The poor man hasn't as much time as the rich one in which to make love to his neighbor's wife, nor do the married couples among the poor find it easy to secure leisure in which to learn that their tempers are incompatible. It may occur to them sometimes that the domestic machinery doesn't run as smoothly as it might, but they are too busy to take it to pieces to see where the trouble lies, so they just pour on a little of the oil of forbearance and let it go at that; consequently their lives are apt to lack the éclat furnished by divorce.

The rich, on the other hand, have plenty of time to "watch the wheels go round," and the minute there's anything wrong with the mechanism of their domestic happiness they straightway set to work to get at the why and the wherefore. But, as every one who has experimented with clocks knows, it is easier to take a machine apart than it is to get it together again.

After all is said it remains that poverty is neither a crime nor a credit, neither a curse nor an unmitigated blessing, while wealth, on the other hand, is monotonous but convenient and enervating but pleasant. — Ina Brevoort Roberts in Brandur Magazine.

Ancient Bracelets Found.

Four magnificent bracelets belonging to the queen of King Zer, who reigned nearly 5000 B. C., were among the discoveries made by Professor Petrie while excavating at Abydos, Egypt, last year. The workmanship of these is most ingenious and delicate. The finest bracelet is formed of alternating plaques of gold and turquoise, each surmounted with the royal hawk and paneled to imitate the front of the tomb or palace. This bracelet consists of thirteen gold and fourteen turquoise plaques in the form of a facade, whereupon was inscribed the name of the queen. The gold was worked by chisel and burnishing. The second bracelet had a centerpiece of gold, with amethyst and turquoise beads and bands of braided gold wire. The fastening of the bracelet was by loops and button of a hollow ball of gold, with a shank of gold wire fastened in it. The third bracelet is of spiral beads of gold and lapis, in three groups. Making the fourth bracelet are four groups of hourglass beads, amethyst between gold, with connections of gold and turquoise.

Opium Curse in China.

The statement that a German firm has offered the Chinese government $15,000,000 annually for the exclusive rights to sell opium throughout the empire is significant for the evidence it affords of the hold which the opium curse has upon the Chinese people. It is quite as consistent for the Germans to secure a monopoly of this miserable stuff in the future as it was for England to force it upon China in the first place, but in neither case is the transaction creditable to a professedly Christian nation, says Leslie's Weekly. The use of $15,000,000 worth of opium per year will go far toward offsetting all the good that all the missionary forces of other nations can do in China, and the fact that a traffic in the drug of such dimensions can be carried on successfully is not a hopeful augury for the future of the Celestial empire.

Skyscrapers Doomed.

While the exigencies of our practical American life will still demand the erection of large office buildings, the rate of production is likely to decrease rather than increase. The mania for mere bigness is subsiding and is bound to give place to a better conception of corporate eminence, and the production of the skyscraper itself inevitably necessitates the development of a large amount of urban property along more modest lines. That is to say, the mere architect, in distinction from the construction engineer, will yet find in our great cities an opportunity to exercise his trade. — B. J. Hendrick in Atlantic.

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of woman-kind is not because it is a stimulant, — not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and restorer ever discovered to act directly upon the whole uterine system, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures, and physicians who have recognized the virtue in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

One of Many Women Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Without Submitting to an Operation, Writes:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was a great sufferer for three years, had some of the leading physicians, and they all said nothing but an operation would cure me, but to that I would not submit. I picked up a paper and saw your advertisement and made up my mind to try your medicine. I had falling and inflammation of the womb and a flow of whites all the time, pains across small of back, severe headache, did not know what it was to be without a pain or an ache until I used your medicine. After three months' use of it, I felt like a new woman. I still sound the praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. Wm. A. Cowan, 1804 Bainbridge St., Philadelphia, Pa.

A Graduate Nurse, Convinced by Cures, Endorses Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She Writes:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Ministering to the sick I have had numerous chances to compare Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with other medicines in cases of diseases of women, and the number of cures recorded where your medicine was used convinced me that it is the safest and surest medicine for a sick woman. Doctors certainly must know the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am convinced that you deserve the splendid record you have made. — Yours very truly, Mrs. CATHERINE JACKSON, 709 Beaubien St., Detroit, Mich." (Graduate Nurse and President Detroit Emergency Association.)

Many Physicians Admit that no Medicine Known to the Profession Equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound for the Cure of Woman's Ills, and We are Permitted to Publish the Following:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It gives me great pleasure to state that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious, and have often prescribed it for female difficulties.

"My oldest daughter found it very beneficial for uterine trouble some two years ago, and my youngest daughter is using it for female weakness, and as a tonic, and is slowly but surely gaining strength and health. I freely advocate it as a most reliable specific in all disorders which women are subject to, and give it honest endorsement. — Yours very truly, SARAH C. BRIGHAM, M.D., 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass."

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ill, as they know by experience that it can be relied upon to effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhoea, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. No living person has had such a vast and successful experience in treating female ill. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice.

Got Them In Free.

The English colony in Valparaiso, Chile, has a cricket club, the officers of which recently sent to England for a large consignment of bats and a few stumps. On arrival they were liable to a duty of 30 per cent, but it occurred to the captain, who had had a good deal of experience in custom house business, that it would be a good move to enter the goods as "utiles para agricultura" — i. e., agricultural implements, which were allowed to enter free of duty. This was done, and it was pointed out to the vista (the custom house official who examined the goods) that with the end of the stump a hole was made in the ground in which seed was placed till by the aid of the bat it was securely located therein. This explanation was considered satisfactory and the entry paper marked "libre" (free).

They All Took a Part.

The Congregationalist says that in a New England city recently a Universalist was to be inducted to the pastorate. At the last moment various emergencies prevented the appearance of the Universalist pastors who had consented to take the various parts of the service, and the local pastors were drafted in as substitutes. The sermon was by a Congregationalist, the prayer by a Methodist, the right hand of fellowship by a Baptist, while a Unitarian and a second Congregationalist pastor extended the greetings of the community. The Episcopal rector sent a letter of welcome. No Universalist pastor was present.

Democratic Congressional Ticket

FOR CONGRESS:

JAMES E. ELLEGOOD,
OF WICOMICO COUNTY.

A REPUBLICAN PAPER.

Commenting on the effect of the recent serious troubles in the coal fields, the Baltimore News, the afternoon Republican daily of Baltimore in a long editorial says:

"We are inclined to think that the November election will show Democratic gains on a grand scale. It will not be so much a matter of enthusiastic revolt, as it was in 1890, or of condemnation of specific acts of the Republicans, such as in that year fell upon the autocratic course of 'Czar' Reed and the ultra-protectionism of the McKinley tariff legislation. It will be rather the pervasive sentiment of dissatisfaction with the general trend of affairs, affecting that 'silent vote' which runs up into the millions and reflects the inner feelings of the representative American citizen. Ex-Secretary Olney—one of the extremely few prominent Democrats in the nation who are of true Presidential calibre—gave expression to that sentiment in his usual telling and impressive manner, in his speech to the Boston Democratic Club on Saturday night. Without any flummery or claptrap, and without any incendiary or revolutionary tinge to his remarks, he squarely identified the Republican party with the rise of that spirit which tends to subordinate the power of the Government of the Republic to the purposes and desires of special interests. The ascendancy which has been gained in public affairs by concentrated or organized wealth Mr. Olney ascribes to 'the National Government's forty years of partnership with the protected interests.' That such a partnership has practically existed, it would be idle for any Republican to deny, in face of the notorious methods which presided over the framing of the McKinley and Dingley tariffs.

The nature of this connection has received more recently an illustration of dramatic intensity in the struggle between Presidential effort and national sentiment on the one side and the beet-sugar interest on the other. The only reply that Republicans are in the habit of making is to point to the big figures of manufactures and the phenomenally growing wealth of the country, loudly claiming that these things are due to the tariff, and tacitly assuming that if this be so it is sufficient answer to any complaint as to the political and other evils attendant upon the securing of such a result. Mr. Olney points to the change in our political ideals, in the supremacy of law and respect for the majesty of the people's Government which have come with the ever closer and more absorbing connection between the dominant party and the colossal interests of wealth. And when he held up the conduct of the coal presidents toward the President of the Republic at the recent conference as a thing which for 'sheer audacity' could hardly be matched, he was but putting in trenchant and impressive form that which is being quietly and yet deeply pondered by millions of the plain people of this country.

In the magnificent speech with which William L. Wilson closed the great tariff debate of 1894, the climax of his oratory did not come in his expression of rejoicing that trade was to be more free, that the economic principles in which he so thoroughly believed were to be advanced by the legislation of this country, or that the people were to be relieved of taxes which were unnecessary and burdensome. The great cause for congratulations and rejoicing, he declared, was that the country had recovered the right to control its own taxation; that the partnership between the nation's Government and the protected interests had been broken. The disastrous period through which the country was then going proved too great a strain upon the people, and especially upon the Democratic party, to permit of a continuance of that emancipation. By its identification with the free silver crusade, that party lost its hold upon a mass of citizens indispensable to its ascendancy—citizens who are conservative but not tied down to commercialism as the first and last word of Governmental sanity. Once more, now, the country is awakening to a realization of the connection between the Republican party and the dominance of private interests in the affairs of the nation. The developments of the coal strike have brought this home to the people with sensational effectiveness. And it will be strange indeed if the consequence should not appear in the shape of a big Democratic majority in the coming House of Representatives."

Among this majority it does not require much foresight to see our own hustling, First Congressional District Candidate, the Hon. James E. Ellegood, of Wicomico county; and the Democracy of the whole nation, as well as all purely inspired citizens, will feel no greater pride in any one election than in the elevation to high office of this high principled gentleman, who has the strong moral courage to stand openly on a platform for the untrammelled rights of suffrage and the pure unthrottled ballot.

POWER OF GOVERNMENT VS. POWER OF TRUSTS.

When a condition arises in any form of government that tends to the overthrow of that government, it is the right of those who execute the functions of state to take cognizance of the fact and by virtue of the authority vested in them to take such steps as are necessary for the suppression of rebellion.

There exists somewhere in all governments to act under such circumstances. If it did not exist and could not be executed then that government ceases to be a government of authority but is in a chaotic condition of legal anarchy. Sovereignty carries with it absolute, unrestrained and uncontrolled authority. Its power cannot be bound or circumscribed; it is absolute in the domain where it acts. If this were not true governments would cease to exist.

It is manifest from the utterances of the Chief Executive of the State of Pennsylvania and the apparent helplessness of the President of the United States that this condition exists today. Both the State and Federal Government acknowledge that they are powerless in the hands of the coal barons and equally powerless in the hands of the Steel and all other Trusts.

The menace to the welfare of the people that presents itself during the present coal famine is as far reaching and as dangerous as any revolution ever inaugurated. This is not a partisan problem only in so far as it emphasizes the fact that the republican party which at the present time is executing, or is supposed to execute, the authority of the United States and that of the State of Pennsylvania is owned controlled and dominated by these capitalistic combinations who control the supply, monopolize the product and dictate the price of every necessity of life. They force out of legitimate employment thousands of our best wealth producers. They enhance prices, reduce wages and write the terms of their own contracts. They paralyze opportunity, assassinate labor, and hold both the producer and the consumer in their soulless and uncompromising grasp. They levy tribute on every man, woman and child in the land. They make a hovel of the poor man's home, and give to his prosperity the heritage of brutal ignorance and synthetic slavery. They control legislation, escape taxation and evade their share of the burdens of government while their agents construct tariffs in the halls of Congress to suit their selfish ends and greedy purposes. They regulate foreign and interstate commerce. They stagnate industry and imperil trade. And these are a sample of the men who say they own the coal mines by divine right and neither State nor National Government can control or curtail their power or purpose.

Is it not about time that the people should elect a party to power that is pledged to see that the majesty and sovereignty of our Nation is not trampled in the dust under our feet?

Hon. James E. Ellegood is the man of the hour and the future; an enemy to evil Trusts, Monopolies, over-Capitalization, and Suffrage Corruption. Elect him and other Congressmen of like principle and character, and see how quickly the national government declares in favor of the people and its good old customs, institutions and long stretched Constitution.

ADDICKS BOBS UP AGAIN.

The Baltimore Evening News speaks of Addicks, the Delaware gas man, as follows:

"J. Edward Addicks, the Delaware gas man with a 'barrel' seems to have a firm grip on the Republican machine in his state. In the recent primaries we are told that fifteen out of nineteen candidates nominated for the Legislature favored sending Addicks to the United States Senate. That looks as though a republican victory in Delaware this year will mean Addicks in the Senate. Such a result would be a disgrace not only to Delaware but also to the country. Addicks represents machine politics in its worst form. In Addicks' opinion the 'barrel' is king, for the sake of their party and their State the decent Republicans of Delaware should apply the heroic remedy of smashing the party to get rid of Addicks. It will mean a better and more victorious future for Republicanism in Delaware."

TAKE A FRESH HOLD.

From now on every democrat should be up and doing. The stay-at-home kind should be carefully looked after and brought to a thorough understanding of the issues now confronting our Congressional District.

The issue now is whether we are to have a free or a bought vote. Can you hesitate an instant in deciding to work for Ellegood and the cause he represents with all your might? Should not our officers of trust be men of high intellect, unflinching political integrity and principles which aggressively and steadily oppose the barter in human suffrage?

—The President has made his first effort to curtail the rapacity of the Trusts. From a constitutional amendment he jumped to the conclusion that 'moral suasion' was the remedy. He has tried the latter on the Coal Trust with as much effect as his constitutional amendment would have amounted to. The one remedy is impossible, the other impotent. Why does he not instruct his Attorney General to proceed against this greedy combination under the provisions of the Sherman anti-Trust act? Existing law, in cases of this kind, is far more effective than 'moral suasion.' The reason seems very plain. The administration is not in a position to take this step because it would destroy the foundation upon which the Republican party rests. The Trusts furnish the cash to keep the Republican party in power, and if this cash is taken from beneath the Republican-Trust-made tariff structure the whole political edifice must fall to the ground.

—No prosperity can be endured that does not spring up among the great industrial masses of the people. To add to the fortunes of the millionaires of the country cannot bring relief. It will only add to our distress.

—When the Republicans say that protection lowers the cost of living, ask them how it is that the cost of living was less in 1897 under the Wilson bill than it was in 1892 under the McKinley bill or in 1902 under the Dingley bill.

—A tariff for revenue with incidental protection, a tariff on life's luxuries while leaving the necessities which the poor must have, a tariff that will not violate the good old doctrine of equal rights to all and special privileges to none, that is the sort of tariff revision the Democrats stand for.

She is survived by a husband and two small children, the youngest a baby, eight weeks old. Rev. Chas. A. Hill conducted the funeral services Wednesday afternoon at the late home.

A Cheap Tour.

A tourist agent has just told me the following story, which, he says, acquires a peculiar interest by being true: A quiet looking American entered his office last week and asked him to "fix up a nice cheap tour" through Europe—Paris, Lucerne, Florence, Rome, Venice and Vienna he wished to be included. It was found that at the lowest rates the journey would cost about £25.

"Stop right there," said the tourist. "We'll have to drop a place or two. I had calculated to do the show on £10." Now, you cannot do a very extensive tour through Europe on £10, and the route was reduced at last to a trip to Lucerne.

"Well," said the American, "I can't say you're not disappointed me, but look here, you'll do this. Take a pound off the ticket and gimme guidebooks to the places I'm missing, and I think it will work out good."—Manchester Guardian.

Hats of Indian Make.

If the Indians of the northwest did not have panama hats, they had something just as good. Lewis and Clark testify that the Clatsops were adept weavers of hats. The following is from their journal:

"We gave a fishhook in exchange for one of their hats. These hats are made of cedar bark and bear grass, interwoven together in the form of a European hat, with a small brim of about two inches and a high crown, widening upward. They are light, ornamented with various colors and figures and, being nearly waterproof, are much more durable than either chip or straw hats. These hats form a small article of traffic with the whites, and their manufacture is one of the best exertions of Indian industry."

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it. In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

No one is ever quite satisfied. Always something lacking, something wanted. Thackeray expressed this human longing in this way: "When I was a boy," he said, "I wanted some taffy—it was a shilling—I hadn't one. When I was a man, I had a shilling but did not want any taffy."

—Miss Ella Hill and Mr. Walter W. Whayland were married at half after seven o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Hill, in Delmar. Rev. H. Webster, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of that place officiated. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Frank Lynch. A splendid reception followed the marriage ceremony, about a hundred guests being present.

—The Epworth League of the Salisbury district, in session at Snow Hill Tuesday and Wednesday, elected the following officers: President, Rev. H. G. Budd, of Berlin; vice presidents, Miss Minnie Vincent, of Snow Hill; Rev. H. B. Kelso, Powellville; Rev. J. W. Colona, Annapolis; Miss Sue Taylor, Stockton; secretary, Miss Annie Taylor, Berlin; treasurer, Charles W. King, Laurel, Del. About 75 delegates have been in attendance.

—The high price in meat is due, in part, to the extensive drought of a year ago. The public will watch with interest the attempt which is being made to utilize the waste lands of Florida for the pasturing of beef herds. There are neither droughts nor blizzards in that section.

—Republicans! Prohibitionists! Are you going to encourage and abet bribery in the First Congressional District of Maryland or frown it down. Your vote for a candidate this fall will record your sentiments. If you are for an untainted, unpurchasable ballot and want your man to win, a ballot for Mr. Ellegood will place you on the right road.

—Democrats! Too much importance cannot be attached to the apathetic vote. They need a tonic, and it is your party privilege to supply it. See all your neighbors and stimulate them by word and action to get a move on and prepare to exercise their right of franchise. No matter what majority the Democratic candidate of the First Congressional District may receive, Mr. Ellegood wants your own vote. You will long feel an excusable amount of pride that you helped elect so high principled a gentleman.

Now Let's Be Good.

The Judges have decided the liquor question. Each side has said all the mean things they could think of about somebody or other and got into dark corners and talked it over. Each side has discussed this man and cursed that one, and now that it's all over let's get together and work, and pull, and root for old Salisbury town. The streets must be kept cleaner, the pavements must be fixed, the telephone central must give us the right number, the fire department must put out fires and the police must arrest drunkards, and we must all pitch in to make Salisbury a good place to live in, and no office holder must go against these sentiments. If Hon. Wm. H. Jackson is elected to Congress, and there seems to be no doubt of it at all, Lacy Thoroughgood proposes to sell you what you wear, and sell you better things to wear for the money than you can buy of any other store anywhere. If Mr. James E. Ellegood is elected, and there seems to be no doubt of it at all, Lacy Thoroughgood proposes to sell you what you want to wear, and sell it to you cheap. Let's get together and forget politics and talk business. Every man who spends money for a new suit or overcoat this fall, wants the best his money will get for him or he isn't a capable buyer. Wants not only the best cloth and trimmings, but the best make and fit and most men want the best style. Lacy Thoroughgood has never seen in all his life such grand clothing for such little money as is put this season. At Lacy Thoroughgood's store these two things go together in everything—good goods and low prices. Thoroughgood hasn't any other kind of goods and hasn't any other kind of prices, and if you stay-at-homes would come to Thoroughgood's and get acquainted you'd find the best store in the whole town.

Old Age IS MADE Vigorous BY THE USE OF Dr. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

"I suffered for six years with constipation and indigestion, during which time I employed several physicians, but they could not reach my case," writes Mr. G. Popplewell, of Eureka Springs, Carroll Co., Ark. "I felt that there was no help for me, could not retain food on my stomach; had vertigo and would fall helpless to the floor. Two years ago I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and little 'Pelle's,' and improved from the start. After taking twelve bottles of the 'Discovery' I was able to do light work, and have been improving ever since. I am now in good health for one of my age—60 years. I owe it all to Doctor Pierce's medicines."

Mrs. Laura S. Webb.

Vice-President Woman's Democratic Club of Northern Ohio.

"I dreaded the change of life which was fast approaching. I noticed Wine of Cardui, and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax."

Female weakness, disordered menses, falling of the womb and ovarian troubles do not wear off. They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but take Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trouble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell $1 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

TALMAGE SERMON

By Rev.
FRANK DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D.,
Pastor of Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church, Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 12.—A vigorous protest against the prevalent habit of profanity is made by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage in this sermon on the text Exodus xx, 7, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain."

The blasphemer's condemnation is a mighty theme. Its curse indirectly affects the whole human race. Every man belongs to one of two classes—either he is a blasphemer and therefore, on account of his profanity, comes directly under the condemnation of God, or else he belongs to that large class whose ears are polluted by his profane utterances, in which class are some who listen with indifference or contempt, while others shudder with horror as they hear the blasphemous mention of the name of their Master and King.

No street car or factory or shop or camp is entirely free from this shocking plague. In our streets and public resorts there is daily and hourly evidence of the prevalence of this pernicious habit. Not only does the husband and father swear, but his example is sometimes followed by his wife and his son and even his little children. Motormen swear at the trucks. Engineers swear at their fires. Boys swear at their lessons in the schoolroom and at their baseball bats upon the playground. Merchants swear at their clerks. Employees, under their breath in the store and out loud when they are away from the counters, swear at their employers. Men swear when they are buying goods. Fishermen swear at their hooks and lines and at the fish they do not catch. Commercial travelers swear because the train or the hotel meal is late or because there is no water pitcher in the bedroom. Farmers swear at the cattle and the grain and the weather. Men swear at the gutter into which they tumble and at the wagon wheel which spatters them with mud. Blasphemers swear when they are happy; they swear when they are sad; they swear at everybody and everything. The peculiarity of this habit of profanity is that it so permeates the blasphemer's mind and conversation that he gets to swear unconsciously. He can swear automatically in the same way that the lungs can breathe automatically or a child's eyelids can open and shut automatically or as a speaker, when he is thinking and planning out an address, can walk up and down his study automatically. It is about time that Christian pulpits should utter their protest against the universal evil of sacrilegious imprecation.

Profanity is a cruel and a cowardly habit, because it shocks the holiest feelings and pierces the hearts of thousands and hundreds of thousands of Christians who are unable by law to stop this awful and blood curdling infamy. Only the other day a telephone girl had a Chicago merchant arrested and fined $20 and costs in the police justice court because the defendant swore at her over the wires. His defense before the justice was that he was hungry and wanted to order his dinner from a neighboring restaurant and that the girl in the central office of the telephone company would not give him the right connection. But when the justice heard the young girl's statement that she could not make the necessary connection because the lines were busy at that time he decided against the defense of the Chicago merchant. He said, "No man has a right to hurl profane words at any public servant when that man or woman is trying to do his or her full duty." But Christian people cannot as a class stop the profane remarks which they hear every day from the passerby upon the different public thoroughfares.

The blasphemer is a coward. He is cowardly because he inflicts suffering on persons who are powerless to resist or retaliate. It is a hard word, but I use the plain, unvarnished Anglo-Saxon word which describes the cowardly act. I want you swearers to realize the extent of the injuries which you are doing against some of your fellow men when you swear in public. I want you to fully realize how you are cutting and lacerating Christian hearts with your blood curdling oaths by trying to put yourself, if possible, in your Christian brother's place, who is compelled to listen every day to the public utterances of profanity. You can judge, perhaps, how your Christian neighbor feels by supposing that some one is speaking slightly and disrespectfully and slanderously of some one you very dearly love. You have a mother or a wife or, perhaps, to use a better illustration, a young daughter whom you fondly cherish. Suppose in some public place you should hear her name vilified. What would you do? Why need you answer? Even now I can see your cheek flush and your teeth become set and your hands clench together. You would immediately demand an apology from the villifier or, perhaps, if you are an impulsive man, you would raise your fist and knock that man down. You would do just what a friend of mine did some years ago in Waynesburg, W. Va. He was bringing home the dead body of his little girl, who was his idol. As a great, rough, brutal porter took the coffin out of the baggage car, the father, said to him: "Man, please be careful. Don't handle that box roughly." But when the porter in spite of that plea swore at the coffin and used a contemptuous epithet about the beloved form within it and roughly let the box tumble upon the platform, as an average expressman lets a trunk fall to the ground, my friend doubled up his fist and knocked that porter clear into the tracks. He hit him so hard that the policeman who ran up at first thought him dead. But, though the policeman was about to arrest the suffering father, he did not, for when he heard how the porter had sworn at the body of the dead child he turned and said, "Brother, if that brutal porter comes to, hit him again a little harder than you hit him before, and I will stand by and, if necessary, help you." That spirit which my friend showed toward the porter who swore at his little girl's body, O blasphemer, would show toward any one who would insult the fair name of a pure, noble daughter, whom you devotedly loved!

Now, my sinful brother, you who are addicted to the habit of swearing in public, did you ever stop to think that nearly always there are Christian men and women around you who love the name of Jesus Christ more than they love their father or mother or wife or daughter, or you love your child? Did you ever stop to think that by your profanity you are dishonoring the name of that Christ for whom those men and women, if necessary, would be willing to die? Have you a right to insult their Christ's name any more than they have a right to insult your child? Oh, my blaspheming brother, I called you a cruel coward. I take it all back. I take that statement back, because you may have sinned thoughtlessly. I cannot believe that you have deliberately intended to do this cruel thing. In the past you have not realized the enormity of the injustice which by the public habit of profanity you are doing against some of your fellow men. You are so kind hearted you would not hurt a dog or a cat. Surely after this you will cease to use blasphemous words in public and not further cut and lash into the bleeding hearts of your Christian brothers and sisters with the sharp, merciless imprecation which has heretofore proceeded from your profane lips.

A Cruel and Foolish Habit. Profanity is not only a cruel, but also a very foolish habit. My profane brother, can you cite me one instance in all your life when the indulgence in the habit of swearing helped you in the least? Did the stone over which you stumbled get out of your way and apologize to you because you cursed it? Did the winds ever abate when you were crossing the seas because you blasphemed them? Did your employees ever love you better or work for you harder because you lost your temper and hurled at them a whole tornado of oaths? Did your horse ever drive better because you swore at him until you were red in the face? Did the blood stop flowing when you cut your finger merely because you made the air sulphurous with your denunciatory imprecations? "No," you answer. "I cannot think of one good result that ever came from the evil habit of profanity. It is such a foolish habit that I sometimes wonder why God does not let the sticks and the stones and the dumb brutes have power of speech to rebuke me, as he once bade the long eared beast of burden open his mouth and speak to the quick tempered and unreasonable prophet of old. I ought to have better sense."

And yet this evil habit of profanity would be absolutely ridiculous and ludicrous if it were not so heinous in its results. We have read how one of the kings of old in order to prove that he was master of the seas as well as of the lands ordered his soldiers to come down to the seashore and with whips lash the waves as they tumbled upon the beach, and when we read of that royal order we have laughed at the king's actions as those of a madman and of an egotistic, cracked brained person. Wherever we have noted the imbecile act of an unbalanced mind we have compared it to the insane ambitions of the hero of the celebrated Spanish romance which Cervantes wrote. But were the picture of a king fighting the waves with whips and lashes or the escapades of a Don Quixote ever more ridiculous and imbecile than the act of a great, big, strong man cursing a stone merely because his toe stumbled against it or swearing at the axle merely because the grease ran dry or blaspheming the iron head of a hammer merely because he, as a carpenter, was clumsy fingered and hit the end of his thumb instead of the nail in the plank? Was ever a sight more ridiculous, if there was not eternal misery in its outcome, than a man standing at the gate of an elevated depot cursing the train and wishing that its platform wheels and glass windows and wooden seats might be consumed in the fires of an inferno merely because he was too lazy to get up in time for breakfast to catch that elevated express which would have landed him at his office in time to meet the important business appointment? I tell you there is something weak about a man's head who will continually swear at everybody and everything. There is something soft about his brain as well as something very sinful about his heart.

Profanity From Depraved Hearts. Profanity is a monstrous habit. It either comes from a totally depraved heart, because that heart wishes to condemn a fellow human being to the awful agonies of an eternal condemnation, or else it teaches the users of profane words to have an utter contempt for the name of God and for his commandments.

Blasphemer, have you ever stopped to consider what would be the effect of your profane words by which you condemn your fellow men if they were literally carried out? Have you ever stopped to consider that when you ask God to condemn your fellow men to the infernal regions you express a desire that through all the coming ages they will suffer greater torture than ever a human victim suffered upon the operating table, under a surgeon's knife, when anesthetics could not be administered? You express a desire that they shall be thrown into "the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet are and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever." You express a desire by your profane oaths to see human beings suffer as Mark Antony and Cleopatra commanded them to suffer, when, at the banquet table, this guilty, merciless twain ordered poison to be administered to their slaves and prisoners so that they might witness their convulsions in the throes of an awful death.

"But," answers some blasphemer, "you know just as well as I that there is not one man out of a thousand who ever means what he says when he blasphemes. His profane oaths are mere exclamations. They come from the lip and not from the heart." Then, my brother, there is only one other deduction which can come from the use of this evil habit. Either you as a profane man wish to condemn your brother to eternal misery or you are lacking in reverence to God, which is precisely the attitude condemned in this commandment. Either you despise your fellow men or else you despise the name of your Creator and your King. There is no other outcome to these two extremes. Either you are cursing your fellow man or else you are mocking your divine Maker.

The Beginnings of Profanity. The profane habit is to be dreaded because it is often the outgrowth of seemingly very harmless beginnings. The blood curdling oaths heard in the home of the rich man and among the so called respectable members of society are not, as a rule, born among the saloons and the outcasts. They were not once the inhabitants of the slums and the places of wassail and crime. In all probability their germs were fostered in the parlors of Christian homes and in the weekday schoolrooms and even in the Sunday school rooms attended by Christian children. These germs of the most horrible of profane oaths were once the exclamations and ejaculations and the slang expressions so commonly used by Indians and children upon our streets. They are the "By Georges," the "By Graciouses," the "By This" and "By That's" and the "By Other Things." They are the ejaculations which are used today by many people who consider themselves educated and polite and refined.

Profanity can grow from seemingly very harmless beginnings. Therefore it is the duty of all Christian parents not only to refrain from the use of such unnecessary and absurd exclamations as those just quoted, but they should instill into their children the right use of the English language. The Anglo-Saxon tongue is a noble tongue. It is especially rich in vehement, emphatic, expressive and, if I might use the expression, sledgehammer words, powerful enough to annihilate any foe. In its broad sweep of denunciatory words the English language is unexcelled by any language. Therefore, Christian parents, in the education of your children you should teach them never to use slang. You should teach them that slang is only the immature child which will grow up into the destroying monster called Profanity. You should teach them that God hurls his condemnations at slang as well as at the hideous monster called Profanity when Christ says: "Swear not at all; neither by heaven, for it is God's throne, nor by the earth, for it is his footstool; neither by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King. Neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black. But let your communication be, Yea, yes; nay, no; for whatsoever is more than these cometh of evil." Could any denunciation be more vehement against the use of slang common among our women and children and also among the men than those words of Jesus Christ?

A Suicidal Habit. Profanity is a suicidal habit because it runs directly counter to the expressed commands of God. Albert Barnes once wrote, "There is not in the universe more cause for amazement than God's forbearance in his dealings with the blasphemer." But that God will ultimately punish those who take his name in vain there is no doubt. The Bible distinctly asserts it. And that God sometimes instantly punishes the sin of blasphemy is also unquestioned. Incident upon incident can be cited to illustrate this fact.

Some years ago two English soldiers in the Chatham barracks gathered some of their comrades about them as judges. Then these two men made a wager. Then each started out to find out who could utter the greatest number and the most awful variety of blood curdling oaths so as to win that wager. After one of the soldiers had gone on for awhile in his blasphemous sin he suddenly stopped and said, "Now I shall utter one more oath, more horrible than all the rest of them, and then I am done." Instantly God's condemning wrath struck him dumb. For three long hours he suffered and struggled for breath. Then he died, a condemned blasphemer's death. After the heart of the blasphemer's body had ceased to beat his corpse, by the order of his officers, was made a public spectacle to teach the populace and the soldiers and the sailors alike that they might realize the awfulness of the warning in the third commandment, that "God will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain." God's condemning wrath in that instance came as suddenly as a stroke of lightning.

My father often mentioned an incident showing how sometimes the wrath of God can and does strike the blasphemer down; how it can strike the profane lips in the twinkling of an eye. The scene took place in a noted infidel club in Scotland. That night it was decided by the club members that the man who could make the most awful oath in defiance of God should be elected president of the club. In this competition of oaths one man uttered so vile an oath that his comrades were dumfounded. But no sooner was it unanimously decided that this blasphemer should take the president's chair than his tongue began to swell. It kept on swelling until it protruded from the mouth. The blasphemer's tongue kept on swelling until the blasphemer died. He died quickly, because God had once said, in the words of my text, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain, for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain."

But though Kaslitt Arvine gives incident after incident where the condemning wrath of God has instantly slain the blasphemer, none of them ever made such an impression upon my mind as that which happened some years ago practically under my own eyes. We were then stopping in Elizabethtown, among the Adirondack mountains. One afternoon a fearful thunderstorm came up. Before the tempest broke it was almost black as night. The air became so still that even the leaves ceased to rustle. Nature was silent, save here and there when we heard a frightened bird twitter as she flew away to her nest and young. Then the winds began to blow, and those great trees began to groan and bend like monstrous human Laocöons with their children in the fatal grip of a destroying serpent dragging them down. Then the heavens became at times like great rivers of fire. The lightning struck the earth again and again. The golden grain, like a wounded and dying deer, bent the knee and pillowed the head in the mud. Everywhere were the awful, terrific exhibitions of a supernatural power. Amid this battle scene of the elements a party of men were gathered in a barn but a short distance from the hotel piazza. In that company was an infidel, a blaspheming scoffer. When the conversation turned upon the power of God, he arose and said, "Even in this storm I am not afraid to defy God." He stepped to the open barn door and raised his arms as he cried: "Curse God! Strike if you dare!" Immediately there was a flash, and the blasphemer fell dead. The God who had uttered the words of my text had heard. God in one stroke of the unheavened sword of fire made that blasphemer answer for his crime. Oh, my profane brother and sister, as the doom of the blasphemer sooner or later is bound to come, dare you today curse God? Dare you longer defy his will?

To Save the Blasphemer. I have written this sermon upon the blasphemer's condemnation for two purposes. The first is, I want to make the blasphemer realize his awful danger and, by the grace of God, to rescue him if possible from the awful destruction toward which he is heading. I want to rescue him, by the grace of God, because, my brother, you will never be emancipated from this sinful habit of profanity unless you seek divine help. After you have been a profane man for many years your profanity becomes a part of yourself. You are bound to this evil habit by links stronger than steel. Elton Foster tells us that there was once a godly man who for thirty years had lived a consistent Christian life who was taken seriously ill. During his delirious sickness he swore all the time. He swore because the evil habit which he practiced in his youthful days was still lying dormant in his subconscious memory. So, my profane brother, if you wish to be emancipated from this sin of profanity you must pray to God for help. You must plead and pray for divine help to resist this evil habit to the day of your death. You must pray not only for the forgiveness of your past profanities, but you must also pray that God will keep your lips pure from ever uttering another blasphemous word.

The second reason why I preach this sermon is to rally all Christian people to the support of a new interdenominational society, which has just been formed to war against the sin of profanity. I believe this society has as great a mission as the Christian Endeavor society, the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip or any of the other interdenominational societies which are binding together the Christian people of the land. This society is called the Antiprofanity league. Rev. John L. Withrow, D. D., an ex-moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church and the present pastor of the famous Park Street church, Boston, has thrown the weight of his influence into it and accepted the presidency. The object of this society is to rally all Christian people together to oppose this universal evil. That society will furnish you tracts; it will teach you what to do and what to say in the unrelenting war which hereafter we must all pledge ourselves to wage. That society called the Antiprofanity league will arouse your holy enthusiasm if you will only let it. Oh, my brother, will you ask God for help and consecrate your life to overcome the worldwide sin of blasphemy as well as all the other kind of sins which are striving to destroy the throne of righteousness and are defying your Master and King? Lord God of the past, help us to make thy Son's name honored and worshiped all round this blaspheming, cursing and Holy Spirit defying world—around this world which more often hears the name of Jesus spoken in derision than in earnest, tender, heart pleading prayer!

Sciatic

Trouble From Sprain
of Back.

Dizzy, Dull, Nervous,
Constipated.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Completely Cured Me.

A frequent complication of rheumatism and sciatica is constipation. The use of Dr. Miles' Nervine and Liver Pills in conjunction with Restorative Nervine makes an ideal treatment for such cases. The Nervine and Liver Pills, by their tonic influence upon the nerves of the stomach, liver and bowels, cause them to act naturally. Thus the system is readily cleansed of the impurities which cause the trouble and the nourishing and soothing effect of Nervine is allowed to do its wonderful work of restoration without hindrance from the complication.

About ten months ago I sprained my back. This ran into sciatic trouble from which I have suffered more or less ever since. This was complicated by chronic indigestion. I had sick headache every day with a dizzy, dull feeling, also quite a little confusion. Was extremely nervous and suffered much from constipation. I was influenced to try Dr. Miles' Remedies and decided to give them a trial. I procured a bottle of the Restorative Nervine and a box of the Nervine and Liver Pills. I used them as per directions and received much relief. I continued the Nervine until I had used several bottles of the same and I am glad to state that it has cured me completely and permanently. I now enjoy good health, retain my meals and can eat any kind of food without fear. I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Miles' Remedies to the public.—Rev. A. B. Mowbray, Tanseytown, Md.

QUANTICO.

Work has been begun upon the M. P. Church in the way of repairs and general improvements. A belfry will be placed upon the front of the church and the whole edifice will undergo a thorough renovation. The pastor, Rev. F. J. Phillips, is an energetic, go ahead man and by his industry combined with the hearty co-operation of his congregation, the expense incurred will soon be met.

A stately and well finished tomb has just been placed in Dorman Cemetery to mark the grave of Robt. Mitchell, deceased in June 1901. The stone is a double one, space having been left for cutting his wife's name after her demise, and is surmounted by a cross.

The passage for street extension across the former pond has been surveyed by county surveyor P. S. Shockley. It is confidently expected that this long-needed improvement will soon take upon itself "definite shape."

Mr. Wm. Gillis recently purchased from Mr. Jno. Dorman thirty acres in his "Taylor Farm" adjoining town. Price paid was $1100.

"Tobe" Auston, Quantico's popular huxter has again opened up his "eaten" saloon in "Freeny Shop" where every Saturday he will dispense to his hungry patrons oysters, corn pone, etc., accompanying his service with a broad grin entirely characteristic of his good nature.

No one in this vicinity need go elsewhere to purchase goods of any kind this season, for our merchants have laid in supplies much greater than in any previous seasons for their customers. Wares of all kinds may be bought from them since Messrs. W. S. Disharoon, T. R. Jones & Bro., Gillis & Dashiell and E. T. Disharoon and Jno. Dorman, the proprietors of the five general stores carry a full line, including, dry goods, groceries, boots and shoes, clothing, etc., and E. T. Disharoon has recently opened a furniture store of no mean size in connection with his other business. Then there are the three millinery stores of Mrs. E. Collier, Miss Lillie Brady and Miss Fannie Gillis which will supply any goods in their line, and their lines are this year good ones to select from.

A marriage in high colored circles recently occurred in town. High is said on account of the prominence of the groom, Dr. (?) Handy Dashiell, a man highly respected by our town's folks, one who has been handling drugs and such like for many years but has never had a patient upon whom he could practice his knowledge of medicines. Be that as it is, Handy is married and no one would ever thought he had such ideas in his head, for long since he was considered a man favored because he should never marry—one who should ever enjoy the blessings of bachelorhood. But as he would marry he concluded he might as well be in the swim and drift along with the current. His bride is Bertie Gale, daughter of "Gace" Gale.

Mrs. James Jones, Sr. and her daughter, Mrs. Helaby, of East New Market, are visiting Mr. T. R. Jones, this town.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Taylor are spending the week in Baltimore. While absent they will visit their daughter, Miss Jessie, who is a student at Washington College, Chestertown.

There was the usual influx of foreign young men Sunday. Why they come upon that day in preference to all others is a conundrum.

Mrs. A. L. Jones with Miss Lala spent Sunday afternoon in Allen with Mrs. Harry Messick.

Mrs. Estelle Collier and Miss Fannie Gillis are in Baltimore this week replenishing their stock of millinery, dress goods and notions.

On account of the closing of Porter's Mill School a few miles from town, which could not be kept open on account of its few pupils our schools in Quantico are scholars to their full capacity. The teachers however are doing their best for the promotion and general welfare of the whole school.

Reveries are in progress at this place, a large attendance being present last Sunday night.

Mr. Fitz Inaley who has been sick for some time has returned to Salisbury to resume his studies for the coming season.

Mr. Walter Anderson and Miss Iva Norsemann were quietly married Wednesday evening at the parsonage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. E. Dryden, pastor at this place. We wish them much happiness. After the marriage the happy couple drove to Mr. Geo. A. Harrington's where they will reside permanently.

We are very glad to report Mrs. Caroline Larmore, who has been sick for some time, out again.

Triumph of Mechanical Skill.

A curious piece of mechanical luxury has been set up in Sir James Blyth's home in Portland place, London, by means of which the dining room can noiselessly double its size.

One saunters down to drink a cup of coffee (so a contemporary describes it) and finds a spacious and well proportioned room papered in warm crimson and hung with handsome pictures. There is a door of communication with the adjoining room, on either side of which hangs a large picture in a heavy gold frame. The floor is polished, and a thick carpet comes within a yard of the wall all around.

The coffee is excellent, but one doubts its potency when, on turning round, one is confronted by the partitioning wall, doors, pictures, and all half way through the floor! Silently it sinks below, and no flaw in the polished and even floor is perceptible! Only the crimson walls are twice as long, and there are bordered carpets. It is the most perfect triumph of mechanical skill.

The Widow's Mite.

"That story of the widow's mite does more harm than good, I believe," says a church worker who has seen the idiosyncrasies of many good people. "The inference that people draw from it is that there is virtue in mites, and they give mites from their own abundance, forgetting that the poor widow of the Bible story gave all that she had. I am inclined to believe that this must be one reason that church work of all kinds is so poorly supported. People give generously everywhere before they remember the church. They expect to pay for what they get everywhere outside, but in the church they want to get as much as they can for the least possible outlay."

A Story of J. Sterling Morton.

A touching incident illustrating J. Sterling Morton's devotion to his wife is told of him. They had three sons, one of whom died not many years ago, but all did well in life, one of them, Paul Morton, being vice president of the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad. In ordering a tombstone for his wife's grave Mr. Morton had carved upon it the usual inscription and added that she was the mother of three sons, whose names were written on the stone. In telling his sons of this he remarked, "If any one of you ever does anything to disgrace your mother, I will have his name erased from her tombstone."

Letter To L. W. Gunby.

Dear Sir: Postmaster Noyes, of Gardiner, Maine, says the Evans House there was painted with Devos in '82, and again in '94—twelve years—and the paint was sound, though of course the color had faded.

R. W. Haines, Hotel Coburn, Skowhegan, Maine, uses lead and oil, and has painted four times in eleven years. Both hotels have been well cared for; the costs are as five to one. We say generally the costs are as two to one—that's enough.

Yours truly,
F. W. Devos & Co.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has decided to replace the culvert at Principio, on the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Division, which was washed out by the recent storm, with a large stone arch bridge. It is said that the cost to repair the washout will probably not fall short of $300,000.

Worth Its Weight in Gold.

It is a fact, whether confessed or not, that there is more tinsel and glitter and more show and boasting in this world than real merit or true worth. This is true in some cases but not in all. R. S. McCrum, Ohio, Pa., says: "I have sold Victor Remedies under a guarantee and have never had a bottle returned. But every one speaks in the highest terms of them. The Victor Lung Syrup is a Great Remedy, but Victor Liver Syrup is worth its weight in gold. Any of the Victor Remedies will do marvels in restoring health." Sold everywhere.

TO VOTE ON LIQUOR.

Petition Of Temperance People Granted By Thursday's Court, Contained 440 Names. Further Developments.

The Circuit Court on last Thursday ordered a special election on the liquor question in Salisbury District, the order being the outcome of a hearing upon the new petition filed last Saturday.

The Court was in session all the forenoon and a portion of the afternoon, the larger part of the time being consumed in argument by counsel of a motion to dismiss the petition on a number of technical grounds, made by the attorneys for the objectors. The Court, Judges Lloyd and Holland on the bench, overruled the motion, and decided that the petition being entirely verified by affidavit, and containing the names of 440 registered qualified voters of Salisbury Election District, presented a prima facie case, and unless cause should immediately be shown to the contrary, the order must issue. This, the respondents were unable to do, whereupon the Court forthwith granted the order requiring the election to be held, as prayed for in the petition.

As in the former case, Messrs. Elmer H. Walton and John H. Handy appeared for the petitioners and Messrs. Samuel R. Douglass and Miles & Stanford for the objectors.

On Friday morning mandamus proceedings were resorted to, to compel the Supervisors of Election to prepare the official ballots so as to submit the question to voters of the District, the Court granting the order upon the Supervisors as prayed. The attorneys for the objectors immediately noted an appeal and will prosecute the case in the Appellate Court of Maryland.

It is the present intention of the objectors to bring the case before the higher Court between the present and the day of election.

Hospital News.

"Tom" Booth, about 24 years of age, who was found at the old depot in an unconscious condition and brought to the Peninsula General Hospital Wednesday afternoon, although still nervous, is much better. Booth in addition to being intoxicated had consumed an ounce phial of laudanum and Dr. Dick found it necessary to use the stomach pump with all expediency. His prompt action no doubt saved the man's life. Four men were required to keep Booth on the move and awake from 4.30 in the afternoon till midnight. Booth says he will be good hereafter.

Out of twenty cases of typhoid fever recently treated there are now three patients remaining in the Hospital. Only one case was lost.

The old quarters for nurses adjoining the Peninsula General Hospital has been made an annex owing to the increasing number of cases. Fourteen patients are now being treated there.

Scheiber—Phillips.

A very quiet but pretty marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents at seven o'clock Wednesday morning by Dr. S. W. Reigart, the contracting parties being Mr. Frank P. Scheiber and Miss Albertie H. Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Phillips of this city. Lohengrin wedding march was very gracefully rendered by Miss Carrie Adkins.

The bride wore a handsome traveling suit of navy blue broad cloth, hat and gloves to correspond, and carried brides roses. The groom wore a suit of black. The house was very prettily decorated with potted plants.

After the congratulations Mr. and Mrs. Scheiber were driven to the station where they took the train for Philadelphia. After a brief wedding trip they will make their home in Newark, Del. They were the recipients of a number of handsome presents.

Advance of Canned Goods.

There is an active demand for canned goods from all parts of the country, and in consequence the market is strong and some lines, such as corn and peaches, are higher. The shortage of the Maine and New York pack of corn is reflected in an enormous demand for the Maryland product, and prices have advanced from 5 to 10 cents a dozen during the past week.

Maryland corn, which recently brought 60 to 65 cents a dozen, is now selling at 65 to 70. Fancy grades are selling at 75 to 80 cents a dozen. Maine corn has advanced from 90 cents to $1 a dozen during the past week. Good peaches have advanced from 70 to 80 cents a dozen in the past few days, owing to the demand.

THE DEMOCRATS OF MARYLAND.

Instructions To Voters Of The Dominant Party From Democratic Headquarters.

Election day will be Tuesday, November 4th. The polls will be open at 8 o'clock A. M., in the counties, and close at 6 o'clock P. M.

In Baltimore City they open at 6 o'clock A. M., and close at 5 o'clock P. M.

It is our hope that every registered Democrat will go to the polls as early as he can and vote.

See that the ballot given you has endorsed upon it the initials of the Judge who gave it out.

"See that the Judge who gives you the ballot calls out your name and residence in a loud voice."

Vote the ticket by marking a cross (X) mark in the space provided therefor to the right of and opposite to the name of the Democratic candidate for Congress.

There is only one office to be filled at this election, therefore your ballot should be marked with only one cross (X) mark.

Make the cross (X) mark within the square provided for the purpose, namely, to the right of the name of the Democratic candidate for Congress.

Do not let the (X) mark extend beyond the square; make it entirely in side the square.

Do not make any other mark whatever on the ballot; if you do your ballot will not be counted.

Any mark whatever on the ballot except the cross (X) mark, whether in the square or out of it, will cause the ballot to be rejected.

Do not make a dot or a circle or any other mark but a cross (X) mark in the square.

If you mark any square on your ballot with any kind of a mark other than the cross (X) mark entirely within the square, your ballot will not be counted.

Be sure not to deface or tear your ballot in any way.

If you make a mistake in marking it, do not attempt to make a correction; return it to the Judge and get another. You are entitled to a third ballot if the first two have been spoiled and returned, but you must not consume more than seven minutes in marking it.

Mark your ballot with the indelible pencil which you will find in the election booth.

Do not use your own pencil; your ballot will not be counted if you do.

After marking your ballot, fold it exactly as it was folded when handed to you by the Judge; and give it to the ballot Judge without permitting any one to see how you have marked it.

See that the Judge tears off the coupon and deposits the ballot in the ballot box. MURRAY VANDIVER, Chairman State Central Committee.

Collins Indicted.

The grand jury of Sussex county, Del., last week indicted Elmer Collins for murder in the first degree. The indictment charges that "Elmer Collins did feloniously kill and murder his wife, Ilda D. Collins, on the twelfth day of April, 1902." Sheriff Hart took Collins into his custody and placed him into a cell at the county prison. The date for the trial was set for January 12, 1903.

It is stated that he refused to eat any supper at the jail and asked to be left alone. "For the first time since the crime was committed he appears to fully realize his position and his nerve seems to desert him."

Wicomico's "Colossal" Corn.

Whoever said Wicomico couldn't grow anything but berries and Congressional candidates, doesn't know.

Mr. William H. Merrick brought to The Times office on Monday, two ears of yellow corn, grown in Wicomico county, which measured 14 inches in length. It is known as "Colossal" and was grown by J. F. Jester, of Jester-ville, Wicomico county. Mr. Merrick saw the corn after it was husked and in the house, and says it was the prettiest lot of corn he ever saw. He measured the product of one acre and found he had 72 bushels, after being shelled. Mr. Merrick has named the corn "Ellegood's Special."—Talbot Times.

—Merritt Lynch, a farmer living in Jones' Neck, exhibited in Dover last week a freak of nature in the form of a two-headed calf. The calf not only had two perfectly formed heads with necks connected at the shoulders, but had two spines and tails. The calf lived only a few minutes after it was born. Mr. Lynch gave it to a cattle dealer who shipped it to Philadelphia.—Smyrna Times.

RACE DAY IN SALISBURY.

October 28th—Horses from Worcester, Somerset and Wicomico to Contest.

Preparations are being hurried for the approaching Salisbury races on Tuesday, October 28th, at the race track. Owners of speeders in the adjoining counties have been invited to enter them. The committee in charge are making arrangements to have some of the fastest horses on the peninsula present, and some close and exciting contests may be expected. The track is being put in the pink of condition. A large entrance is expected in each class, and a fine day's sport is guaranteed. Purses will be divided into two-thirds and one-third, between first and second horses. No entrance fee. The admission for spectators of 25 cents includes grand stand seats.

There will be three classes in the horse races: 3 minute class, purse $15; 2.45 class, purse $20; and a 2.35 class, purse $25.

Hooligan Is Coming!

Theatre-goers will be afforded the felicity of indulging in what may be termed, without much straining of language, the same of present-day comedy when they witness the production of Mark E. Swan and W. J. Mills' original farce, "Hooligan's Troubles," which will be presented by Manager U. D. Newell's clever company of farceurs. The plot, we are told, is ingenious and at the same time comprehensible and is spoken of as being as full of fun as an egg is of meat. It contains a plot of bewilderingly complicated cross purposes and is said to be extraordinary funny in its situations and startlingly ludicrous in its climaxes. A cast of well known players augmented by a score of pretty girls most handsomely gownned, it is said, will aid in the presentation and the scenic embellishments and environments will be exceptionally fine. At Ulman's Opera House November 1st. Reserved seats will be on sale at box office. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Her New Jacket.

A naval officer engaged in ordinance duty on a home station was given to talking in his sleep. One night he awakened his wife by starting up in bed and exclaiming in accents of pining distress:

"She must have a new jacket! I must manage to get one for her!"

The wife knowing her husband's slumbers had never before been disturbed by the requirements of her wardrobe, became vastly agitated and gripped him by the arm.

"William! William!" she breathed earnestly into his ear, hope meanwhile rising high in her breast. "Who is she?"

"My three inch gun!" sighed the overtaxed ordinance man.

Henry Pensel, a retired merchant of Chesapeake City, died at his home yesterday, aged about 80 years. Mr. Pensel was considered one of the wealthiest business men in the Second District of Cecil county. He formerly conducted stores in Baltimore county and Baltimore city.

"I take pleasure in recommending Victor Infants Relief, for it helped our baby very much—brought health and then kept her well. When only eleven months old she weighed 25 pounds. Victor Infants Relief alone, I think, has made her so hearty. It is a remedy that deserves much praise and is invaluable to the mother." 25 cents will buy this wonderful Baby Medicine from your Druggist.

Aching Joints

In the fingers, toes, arms, and other parts of the body, are joints that are inflamed and swollen by rheumatism—that acid condition of the blood which affects the muscles also.

Sufferers dread to move, especially after sitting or lying long, and their condition is commonly worse in wet weather.

"It has been a long time since we have been without Hood's Sarsaparilla. My father thinks he could not do without it. He has been troubled with rheumatism since he was a boy, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine he can take that will enable him to take his place in the field." Miss Ada Dorr, Sidney, Iowa.

JAMES T. TRUITT.

LETTER FROM CAPT. WHITE.

Wants An Open And Manly Campaign, Without Vain Saying.

Cartoon No. 1 you were terrible and Cartoon No. 2 both impeachable.

Is it not a sequence of unkindness, and truly disrespectful for any publisher of books, journals or handbills in any town where any such gentleman as Jas. E. Ellegood lives, to print upon the face of his paper, any such picture of his neighbor and friend as was seen in last week's and week before last's issue of the Courier? Every man that knows James E. Ellegood knows that he never appears in any such frightened condition. He is (and all know it that know him well) an earnest, bold and fearless advocate of whatever he feels or thinks is right, and never appears as that cartoon pictured him. Friends, be respectful. I have as high appreciation for his opponent as any other can have. He is a man, by George, and has been a faithful friend to me, and I honor him for not only being kind to me, but for many noble acts of kindness that I have heard and known of his doing, but considerate men cannot stand these terrible misrepresentations. A man that is a man wants to see fair and kindly actions in things generally, and especially in such a contest as he and Mr. Jackson are placed as the candidates for one of the highest positions. Among the should be greatest counselors of this our great nation, you might say that all is fair in love and war, but you see our highest authority teaches different. "Do unto others as you would have them do to you." Do you think you would feel pleasant in your family circle to see yourself painted in such frightful condition? Don't you think when being surrounded by a family of a loving wife and grown children that you would look with disgust upon the perpetrator of such a cartoon. I know you would. And all gentlemen and ladies whose hearts had in them any love and kindness would be with you in the disgust. Don't forget that both candidates are from your own town, and family, friends and neighbors, each well-knowing the other's sterling worth. There will be days, you know, after the election, or at least all hope so. Then do, so as to be able to meet your opponent after election without fear of unkind feeling. Let both sides go upon the hustings and represent their candidate and party's doing faithfully, honestly and truthfully, waiving all falsehood. Then let the people think for themselves who they want from the First Congressional District of Maryland to represent them in Congress. All know that vote-buying is unlawful, and terribly demoralizing, and Mr. Ellegood asks that all men co-operate with him in downing the practice; and not to spend one cent to elect him, only in campaign work. Now, if both sides spend money, and one is elected over the other, there is some showing of right to his election, that he is the strongest man and the majority a rightful one. But, where one buys votes over another contrary to the law and the compunction of conscience of his opponent then it would be unlawful, sure, and not right. And getting votes in an unlawful way, how could one be lawfully elected? And if not lawfully elected, how could he lawfully take or fill his office? Whatever is illegal in the beginning is still illegal in the end.

"Stop throwing mud" for you know that the spatters fly backward sometimes and soil the glistening white bosom of the finger.

Fight for your friend faithfully with brains, pen and tongue, but never use slander if you want his cause won.

For many good people with eyes and with mind,

Will watch scintillating, your doings and silent fault find.

THOS. W. H. WHITE.

AN OLD SOLDIER.

Every old soldier likes to review his career and tell his exploits, on land or sea. And young people sit for long hours, wide awake, in wondrous admiration of his former valor and distinction. The following is a true story told by Daniel Sturgis, Esq., Ill. He says: "I am an old soldier and being troubled with Constipation, I need some more of your Victor Liver Syrup. It is the best medicine I ever tried. It tones up the system and regulates the bowels." Multitudes bear like witness. Your Druggist has it.

The Keat Circuit Court began for the fall term yesterday at Chestertown.

Chief Judge James A. Pearce presided. The suit of Dr. James C. Mackenzie against the Tome Institute for $100,000 removed from Cecil, will be one of the most important cases. A most interesting suit to farmers is the tomato contract case of William Nansen vs. Rufus Parks. Parks contracted to grow tomatos for Nansen at 50 cents per ton, but when they were ready to be marketed he broke the contract and sold to other parties for a higher price.

Allen's Short Stories

"Curios'ty," said a prominent citizen of this town to the ADVERTISER man, who had called upon him for his views on one of the leading topics of the day, "is the curiousest and queerest toopick that I know of."

"I'll be dad-blamed, when a man gets to studyin' about curios'ty an' its phases, ef it 'on't stump 'im an' his whole fam'ly, then you may shoot me."

"Whar will curios'ty lead to, do you ask? Any dawggone place that it's got no bizness to do. It has been known to lead fokes to the gallus, though it most generlly leads some fokes to pry inter other fokees bizness." "Dawggone the thing, I hope the next Congress will pass a law to do away with it." "It is wusser'n all the other vices, includin' shootin' crap an' eatin' kokane. Come to think of it, Mister Reporter, its wusser'n bein' hung, fer when you're hung, you ain't hurtin' nobody but yourself, but curios'ty 'll hurt everybody. I'd rather be foun' guilty of eatin' a sheep than to be looked on by ev'rybody as a travellin' curios'ty shop."

"I have knowed curios'ty to make wimmen look cross-eyed an' set their tongues to work like they was hung in the middle. An' men, well, when they git curios'ty they're the curiousest things that's goin'. They'll eat or drink ev'rything jest to find out what it is. I knowed a man onct who tuck a drink out of a bottle to find out what 'ux in it. It happened to be brandy with a dash of croton oil an' the man found it out for a solid week arter."

"An' I want to say to you rite here, Mister Reporter that in the year 211 A. D. curios'ty kilt a large size tom cat an' ef fokes don't stop peepin' inter my 'vial,' that I hide under a bush to keep my wife from findin' it, to see whetker it contains White Rose Kolone or Squibs Mixer, I'll be dawggoned ef there 'ont be a Maltese cat go home some nite with a pain in his stummick."

"Yes, curios'ty's a great thing. Good-day!"

SQUIRREL NEWS.

Mr. William Samuel Williams holds the record for shooting squirrels. He has fired 17,481 times at squirrels this fall and brought home the same old squirrel's tail every time.

This is how it happened: Sammie wants sportsmen to think him a crack shot, but they all know he never killed anything but a 'bhole,' and that at night on account of his diminutive size. I believe he said that he boiled the water in a tea-pot to scald the porker. The said porker cost him nineteen dollars and seventy two cents to 'fatten'.

But to the squirrels. Sammie's grandfather willed him a squirrel's tail and a gun, the latter for length resembling a flag-pole. Sam's a good soul and it seems a pity to tell it, but he don't care. He would take his sky-scraper gun and squirrel's tail and start 'squirreling.' The woods would be befogged with the smoke from Sammie's gun for hours. He would, of course, return home minus squirrel's tail. With a pin that is mostly used by young ladies and infants Sammie would carefully pin the bow of the squirrel's tail to the suburbs of his coat pocket and start homeward, the after part of the tail fanning in the breeze and keeping time to Sammie's step. Meeting a fellow sportsman Sammie would exclaim, "Well I got him!" "Yes," the sportsman would reply, "I see you have, but I observe that his tail is fast becoming bald-headed from a constant beating and thrashing against your coat. I'll get you a new one some day this week."

Sammie rolled his eyes and sang in a low tone.

"Ain't it a meanie shame,

To keep your honey out in the rain."

There is a man in our town who never spent more than eleven hundred and twenty-four dollars in one day for a good time. He is a great fellow for 'squirreling' and never carries but one load of shot, and never fires the gun until he's sure of his game.

Coming upon him in the woods one day this fall, Jim Stewart noticed the man closely examining a squirrel that he had shot. Not being of an inquisitive turn of mind, Jim watched to see what he would do. A few moments patient watching revealed to Jim the fact that the man was picking shot from the squirrel to re-load his gun. R. A.

State Sunday School Conventions.

The Maryland State Sunday School Convention was held in Baltimore City Oct. 16 and 17 at Westminster Presbyterian Church. It was a record breaker in point of attendance and enthusiasm. The addresses were able and practical. Hon. Thomas G. Hayes, Mayor of Baltimore, welcomed the delegates. Response by Rev. Dr. Henry Branch.

One of the important results of the convention was the State Tour Plan, which will be put into operation within the next few weeks. It is proposed to have five of the most experienced and gifted Sunday-school workers to tour the State in the interest of organized work.

The exhibit of up-to-date Sunday-school appliances was pronounced the finest that any state has hitherto given. In fact the whole convention was educational and inspiring.

WILLIAMS S. WILSON CASE.

Arguments On The Demurrers Is The Suit Against Sureties.

In the Circuit Court for Somerset County at Princeess Anne argument was heard Saturday on the demurrers filed in the suit of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company of St. Louis against the bondsmen of the late William Sidney Wilson, one of the trustees of the estate of W. L. Ewing, of St. Louis. The defendants in the suit, who are the bondsmen, are Gov. John Walter Smith, Oliver D. Collins, John J. Collins and Marion T. Hargis, of Snow Hill, Md. The plaintiff demurred to some of the pleas of the defendants and the defendants demurred to the plaintiff's replication. At the argument the plaintiff was represented by Hon. John P. Poe, of Baltimore, and by Miles & Stanford, of Princeess Anne. The defendants were represented by Hon. Bernard Carter, Alonzo L. Miles and Geo. M. Upshur, of Baltimore. The court held its decision sub curia.

This suit was brought in the name of the State of Missouri, for the use and benefit of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company, plaintiff, against the above named as bondsmen for the late William Sidney Wilson, former trustee for Clara E. Wilson, his wife. Under the conditions of the will of the late William L. Ewing, who died in St. Louis, Mo., in the year 1878, the estate was held in trust by the late Wm. Sidney Wilson, and it is claimed by the plaintiff that the trustee did, from time to time, receive large sums of money, and for which he failed to account in any way or invest, as it was his duty to do, under instructions from the court. In consequence of this such proceedings were had that on the 24th day of June, 1898, the plaintiff in the case was by orders of the Circuit Court of St. Louis appointed sole trustee of the trust estate.

Among those present from Worcester county to hear the arguments in the above case, we name Gov. John Walter Smith and Messrs. Oliver D. Collins, Marion T. Hargis, John H. Handy, E. K. Wilson and John W. Staton.

SEN. GEORGE L. WELLINGTON.

Says Democrats Will Win In Western Maryland. Republican Party Needs Recasting.

United States Senator George L. Wellington, was in Baltimore Tuesday night and, when asked as to the political outlook in Western Maryland said: "Mr. Kennegew, the Democratic nominee for Congress, will, in my judgment, defeat Mr. Pearre. Pearre will receive a blast all along the line, and he won't know what struck him when the ballots are counted."

"I believe that Montgomery county will go Democratic by 1,000 and that Washington and Frederick counties will both be Democratic. Mr. Kennegew will carry Allegany county."

"The Republican party of the entire State is in a bad way. What it needs is recasting. The same conditions which existed when Kennegew was elected in Allegany county exist there today. Pearre won't be in it. I shall support Kennegew. I should rather say that I will give Mr. Pearre the same kind of support that he gave me, viz: by supporting the other fellow."

"However, I am out of politics temporarily, but expect to be on hand when Senator McComas comes up for election."

With this the Senator said good night. He is in town with Mrs. and Miss Wellington, who are here on a shopping expedition.

October Woods.

God has again stretched the canvas of autumn, and lifted His brush. Along that canvas are flowing mingled colors like those of the sunset. Riding through the woods on my wheel this October day, I was awed by the genius that everywhere met my vision. I seemed to be passing over holy ground. The presence of God could be felt. Michael Angelo never frescoed the dome of a cathedral with an art that could approach the majesty of an American woodland scene in the closing hours of the year. God's masterpieces throw human paint into the shade as easily as the dawn eclipses the stars. His autumnal drawings are the crown of His artistic work. Grand the varied flash of the sea. Grand the changing tints of the skies. Grand the waving hues of summer fields. But the canvas on which God spreads the splendor of autumn is like a glimpse of heaven.

To him who has keenness of spiritual sense the woods of October are as the mount on which Moses saw the burning bush that was not consumed. He must stop to view the sight. The tendency is to take one's shoes from the feet. Before God every man is a self-condemned sinner.

But not only are the bushes on fire with glory, the trees also are aflame, lifting their torches high in the air as signals to the surrounding fields. They telegraph their lustrous messages afar. Every branch and every twig has been touched by divine fingers. It is as if the woods were a great altar on which the departing summer is offering an annual sacrifice in Nature's Holy of Holies, the garniture of the trees being the vestments of the officiating priest, the leaves that fall to the ground, the blood that pours from the open veins of the victim, the morning mists the smoke that curls cloudward. The blaze of that sacrifice was kindled by God's own hands.

But many, alas! have no such spiritual sense. If they had seen the bush on Mt. Horeb that Moses saw, it would not have attracted their attention. They likewise fail to discern the signs of God's nearness to them in the marvelous beauty of the autumn. Never do they turn aside to behold so wonderful a sight. All that the changing leaves remind them of is sordid things, the rage and ashes of earth. The yellow leaves are but hints of the gold stored away in vaults. The brown leaves that rustle beneath their tread are only hints of banknotes. The crimson leaves that bleed on the boughs of the trees are nothing more than hints of ledgers ruled with red lines. It is not the atheism of the man that boldly declares that there is no God, but it is an atheism nevertheless that withers both the mind and the heart, for practically such persons deny God's existence. They do not want any God but self; therefore they cannot see the evidence of the fact that God walks the paths of the world. These evidences are on every hand. It was when the man Moses drew near to the burning bush that he heard God's voice. So when men pause awhile in their pursuit of earthly good to view the works of God, He reveals himself to the soul.

To a sanctified imagination the woods of October are an apocalypse. As when John was on Patmos the choirs of heaven broke through the sky and filled his ears with celestial hallelujahs, so now the gates of pearl opened again, and the air rustles with angel wings and trembles with myriad harmonies. God is walking among the golden candlesticks of the trees, and the iridescent leaves that flutter earthward beneath the play of the winds are the crowns that rain at His feet. Pity it is that the coronets of selfishness worn on human heads do not also yield to Him! Pity it is that so many of the voices of mankind are so faintly still!

Going back to the idea of sacrifice in another paragraph, that idea is not mere fancy. Autumn is the sundown of the year. As the light of the dawn spring bursts into the full day of June and the succeeding months, so follows the magnificence of the passing summer when autumn comes. That glory of garden and field and woodland is the conflagration of sunset. The hour has struck for the evening sacrifice. The meads and the orchards and the forests lay down their corn and fruit and nuts. These mean life for humanity. Life is the essential fact of sacrifice. Therefore do the woods of October in their fading pomp bring to mind the thought that God manifest in the flesh gave himself, in the gathering darkness of Golgotha, as a sacrifice for the sin of a guilty world, and died that many might live. It was life for life. As autumn's kindled altar is the prelude to another season of emerald foliage, so is Calvary's cross the harbinger of a glorified immortality. In the blessed state of the redeemed it is everlasting spring. There death never pencils a single leaf with frost, nor withers one blade of grass, nor blights any of the flowers that bloom in sweetness along the hillside.

EASTERN SHORE ATTRACTIONS.

Baltimore's Attention Turned This Way With Increasing Interest.

The Baltimore American says editorially of the development of the Eastern Shore:

It is confidently stated that land on the Eastern Shore has materially increased in value in the last five years. This is doubtless true, and for very obvious reasons. Developments during that period have been along the very line calculated to produce improved value. All of the modern facilities which tend to attach that section to the very heart of the most enterprising centers of the country are there in full operation. By virtue of their influence all of the old prejudices against the Shore have been supplanted by a general popularity, which promises to work out splendid results and in rapid and satisfactory order.

The Shore presents an abundance of attractions to any and to all kinds of enterprises. Its own population is keenly alive to its diversified possibilities and the old traditional sameness is being broken up in consequence. The fact that the furthest extremity of the Peninsula is within several hours' run of four big cities is of itself a marvelous advantage which few sections of the same degree of fertility enjoy. Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, and Wilmington are easily reached at almost any hour desired. The connections between the Shore and Baltimore are especially numerous and convenient.

The various transportation companies have made the Shore a delightful suburb of this city. A trip from there to here for a day's shopping, so that the visitor can finish and be back home again in time for supper, is an easy feat. On the other hand, a trip from here to there late in the evening, with the view of spending the night and returning early next morning, is equally as feasible. That makes the city convenient to the Peninsula and the Shore convenient to the city.

That is why Baltimoreans who are looking for country homes or who are looking for good, solid investments, are turning their attention in that direction. The land is capable of anything, and the lace work of rivers and creeks provides it with the comforts and luxuries of abundant water. These natural advantages are what make it so peculiarly adapted to the greatest diversity of uses. Grazing, trucking and canning, the raising of large and small fruits, the cultivation of wheat and corn, or recourse to fishing, oystering or gaming besides the exceptional facilities for successful manufacturing, are among some few of the natural advantages.

The capabilities of the soil make the investment of money in land certain of yielding a profitable return on the outlay; and, what is well, that profit is accompanied by safety and solidity for the principal.

In addition to all this should be added the more or less famed delightfulness of Eastern Shore culture and refinement of social life.

RURAL MAIL BOXES.

Ellis, of Sharptown, Fined $25. for First Offense. Warning.

James Ellis, of Sharptown, Wicomico county, was fined $25 last week by Judge Morris, in the United States District Court, for destroying rural free delivery boxes on route No. 1, in Dorchester county, between Vienna and Walnut Landing, August 23 last.

The case was investigated by Postoffice Inspector William J. Maxwell, who swore out the warrant for Ellis' arrest. In imposing the fine Judge Morris said:

"The offense of wantonly defacing and destroying rural free delivery boxes is reported to me (strange as it would seem to any ordinary mind) to be not uncommon in country districts. It is an offense which brings great annoyance to those depending on the rural free delivery for their letters, and is an outrageous abuse of property devoted to the convenience of the public. The penalty prescribed by the act of Congress may be a fine of $1000, or three years' imprisonment.

"In any case that comes before me after this warning I shall feel it my duty to deal severely with the culprit. As this is the first case brought before me, and the offender has pleaded guilty and expressed contrition, he will be let off with a fine of $25, but future cases will be dealt with severely."

A hearty appetite does not always indicate a healthy condition. It is not the quantity of food which is eaten but the quantity which is assimilated, which determines the actual value of the food consumed. If the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition cannot convert the food into nourishment, and into blood, then the food is an injury instead of a benefit. For all disorders of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition, there is a certain remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves, enriches the blood and builds up the body. It is a flesh-forming, muscle making preparation, making firm flesh instead of flabby fat. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or intoxicant of any kind, and is equally free from opium, cocaine and all narcotics.

LYDIA PINKHAM'S

School Girls

Young girls at this period of life, or their mothers, are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; all such letters are strictly confidential; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; and her advice is freely and cheerfully given.

School days are danger days for American girls. Often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to recover the lost vitality. Sometimes it is never recovered. Perhaps they are not over-careful about keeping their feet dry; through carelessness in this respect the monthly sickness is usually rendered very severe.

Then begin ailments which should be removed at once, or they will produce constant suffering. Headache, faintness, slight vertigo, pains in the back and loins, irregularity, loss of sleep and appetite, a tendency to avoid the society of others, are symptoms all indicating that woman's arch-enemy is at hand.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped many a young girl over this critical period. With it they have gone through their trials with courage and safety. With its proper use the young girl is safe from the peculiar dangers of school years and prepared for hearty womanhood.

A Young Chicago Girl "Studied Too Hard."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to thank you for the help and benefit I have received through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. When I was about seventeen years old I suddenly seemed to lose my usual good health and vitality. Father said I studied too hard, but the doctor thought different and prescribed tonics, which I took by the quart without relief. Reading one day in the paper of Mrs. Pinkham's great cures, and finding the symptoms described answered mine, I decided I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I did not say a word to the doctor; I bought it myself, and took it according to directions regularly for two months, and I found that I gradually improved, and that all pains left me, and I was my old self once more. — LILLIE E. SINCLAIR, 17 E. 22d St., Chicago, Ill."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all young women how much Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was completely run down, unable to attend school, and did not care for any kind of society, but now I feel like a new person, and have gained seven pounds of flesh in three months.

"I recommend it to all young women who suffer from female weakness." — MISS ALMA PRATT, Holly, Mich.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy to be relied upon at this important period in a young girl's life.

FOR CONGRESS:

JAMES E. ELLEGOOD,
OF WICOMICO COUNTY.

WHAT DEMOCRACY REPRESENTS AND OPPOSES.

With the Tariff and Trust questions as the issues of this campaign, and with a consistent record for honest opposition to a Trust-breeding, monopoly-sheltering tariff, and to the great Trust evil which is becoming such a serious menace to the welfare of this government and its people, the Democratic party is ready to rest its case and let it go before the great jury of American voters for their verdict. It only asks that that verdict be the result of a deliberate and unbiased judgment and it be in accordance with the facts and evidence which has been submitted through the press and from the hearings. It asks the jury to remember that Democracy is opposed to the Dingley tariff for the following reasons:

1. Because, according to indisputable testimony, it enables American manufacturers to compel American consumers to pay more for their products than they charge European and other foreign consumers for the same products.
2. Because it has been demonstrated that the tariff does foster Trusts, and that it protects them in their outrages upon the people.
3. Because the primary object of a protective tariff is to enable the manufacturer to charge the consumer more for his goods than that consumer would otherwise have to pay, which is an injustice.
4. Because it taxes the masses in order to enrich a favored few, making those few immoderately rich at the expense of the very people they afterwards oppress.
5. Because, while professing to be for the benefit of, and in the interest of, labor, in reality it does nothing but build up great fortunes which are afterward inimical to all the interests of labor, as the tyrannical Coal Trust, for instance.
6. Because it is discriminating, and lends the governmental machine to the rich and oppressing Trusts in order that they may be sheltered in their unholy purpose of stifling competition, and forcing the consumer to pay the prices they in their greed and avarice may see fit to name.
7. Because its author himself said that they had purposely made it too high.
8. Because when the Republican Textbook boasts that we are competing with the world in the open markets of the world, it leaves not a solitary sane reason why it should be continued.
9. Because it violates that great and just principle which would give every man an equal chance to earn a competence and an equal right to live.
10. Because it is unfair, unjust and undemocratic.

And it asks the jury to remember that Democracy's grounds for opposition to Trusts are:

1. Because they are dangerous to the welfare and well-being of the people and of the government.
2. Because they are arrogant and overbearing and crush out legitimate industry and competition, gobbling up everything in sight for themselves.
3. Because they combine and conspire to cheat labor out of its just earnings, and to defraud it out of its lawful rights. They are the beneficiaries of the tariff rather than the men who work for them.
4. Because they first throttle competition and then charge exorbitant prices for their products.
5. Because they add to the already almost intolerable burdens of the poor.
6. Because they corrupt legislatures, buy themselves or their creatures into power and carry out their unworthy ends at any cost.

7. Because they are against the people and against the right.

8. Because they are in close alliance with the leaders of the Republican party, which helps them on the "you-tickle-me-and-I'll-tickle-you" plan.

9. Because the Trusts are against the Democratic party.

In these premises Democracy is one with the people of this country, and upon them it confidently awaits their verdict.

The Democratic party stands solidly opposed to the Tariff and the Trusts. Hon. James E. Ellegood is the Democratic candidate in the First Congressional District of Maryland, and your vote for him means a ballot against the present Trust Creating Republican Protection system, and a patriotic effort to establish honest manhood suffrage.

WHAT REPUBLICANISM REPRESENTS AND SANCTIONS.

As this campaign is drawing to a close and the election day is ready to dawn it is wise that every thoughtful citizen determine what the two parties stand for and what they represent. In another article published in these columns we outlined what the Democracy was opposed to, and why it opposed the Tariff and the Trusts. The conclusion was that the Democratic party stands for the interests of the whole people rather than for the interests of a favored few. In this article we want to analyze the Republican position and see what it is.

The Republican party is the party which legislates, not openly it is true, but in effect, in the interest of the few against the many. It stands for a protective tariff, a tariff which is avowedly against the interests of the consumer; a tariff which holds prices up above what they would be under different conditions; a tariff which creates the Trusts that oppress the poor, and through which they do oppress the common people; a tariff that robs Peter to pay Paul; a tariff framed for the express purpose of keeping out competition, and which thereby makes it an easy matter to get a monopoly on any article; a tariff, which, in all its branches and bearings, is against the common people.

The Republican party is the party of the Trusts. Nearly every Trust in the country has been a contributor to a Republican campaign fund. The Trusts have controlled Republican legislation. They have furnished the corruption fund that has given the Republican party the lease on life that they have enjoyed. In return they have had a friend at court in the Republican party. They have bought schedules into the present infamous and notorious Trust sheltering Dingley tariff. They have dictated legislation all along, legislation which has been inimical to the general good.

The Republican party, while the professed friend of labor, is its worst enemy. It created a tariff which makes Trusts to oppress labor. It made a tariff which increases the cost of living 80 per cent while it gives no corresponding increase in the wages of labor. It would blot out the labor organizations of the country at one stroke if it did not fear the result. It would defend the right of capital to combine at any and all times, and yet would leave labor helpless and without the right to unite for its own protection. Its leaders actually voted against an amendment to the anti trust bill of 1900 which provided that nothing in the bill should be construed as preventing labor from organizing for its own protection. Professedly the friend of labor it will always be found on the other side, a proverbial snake in the grass.

The Republican party stands for extravagance in the affairs of the government. Each Congress it elects eclipses all previous records for the reckless expenditure of money.

The Republican party stands by the Trusts which violate the laws of the land 365 days out of every year and denounces the laborer who strikes for the right to live decently and to draw a salary that will enable him to do so.

The Republican party represents everything that is in the interests of the plutocrats of this country; and in fact its leaders are the plutocrats of the country.

These are the facts. Remembering them let the voters choose what they think is the good part in the approaching election and Democracy will abide by the result.

Hon. Wm. H. Jackson represents the party which fosters the tariff and its gigantic sequence, the relentless aggregations of capital in grasping Trusts and Corporations, in the First Congressional District. Unless you are a friend of the Trusts you cannot afford now to be losing time. Vote and work with your fullest strength for the candidate who is opposed to them, and who is making such an aggressive fight for the purity of the ballot. Hon. James E. Ellegood is that man, and he is a winner.

THE PENDING ELECTION: ITS VITAL IMPORTANCE.

As the day of election draws near the importance of the event and its far-reaching possibilities are dawning with tremendous effect upon the public conscience. Slowly but surely the signs of times point with unerring finger to the social and political change. No man can prophesy the form it may assume. Some who are alive to the vital force and natural laws that govern the destiny of men and nations understand the nature and spirit of the coming change so near at hand. They also know that the result of the election will be a great factor in giving shape and form to the future policies that will govern our affairs. They believe as well as a vast majority of the American people do, that the time has come when the people and not the Trusts shall govern the affairs of the nation.

They know that the power of these soulless combinations has been acquired by and through the policies of the Republican party, and now, having grown to such colossal proportions, defy the government and spurn the party and power that gave them birth. They also know that the machinery of the Republican party has been the instrument of giving us a government of the Trusts, for the Trusts and by the Trusts. The importance of a political change is manifest to all who think, and read, and understand. And the importance of this change is so appar-

that few will remain at home on election day. It is the solemn duty of every voter to register his disapproval at the ballot box on election day. A disapproval that will say to organized greed, "Mankind has created wealth and Humanity shall control it."

Hon. James E. Ellegood is the ideal candidate in every way. Vote for him and work for him.

State Sunday School Convention.

The Maryland State Sunday School Convention was held in Baltimore City Oct. 16 and 17 at Westminster Presbyterian Church. It was a record breaker in point of attendance and enthusiasm. The addresses were able and practical. Hon. Thomas G. Hayes, Mayor of Baltimore, welcomed the delegates. Response by Rev. Dr. Henry Branch.

One of the important results of the convention was the State Tour Plan, which will be put into operation within the next few weeks. It is proposed to have five of the most experienced and gifted Sunday-school workers to tour the State in the interest of organized work.

The exhibit of up-to-date Sunday-school appliances was pronounced the finest that any state has hitherto given. In fact the whole convention was educational and inspiring.

Lacy Thoroughgood Got in this Week One Hundred Dollars Worth of Goods that He will Give Away.

It is wrapping paper. Did it ever occur to you that paper is one of the greatest aids to modern civilization? Think of the uses that paper is put to. You've got to use paper when you write your best girl a note, your tailor puts your measure down on paper when he takes your order for a suit, you give your tailor a note on paper to pay for it, and the sheriff serves papers on your tailor to close him out if he gets more NOTES than his SCALE will hold. Lacy Thoroughgood uses paper to write his ads on, the paper you read the ads in are printed on paper, you've got to use paper to send a letter home for money or to telegraph that you're coming home broke. Some of the greatest schemes ever known exist on paper, and the greatest aid to civilization is the newspaper. Your bill at the store is made out on paper, but Lacy Thoroughgood don't have to use any for that purpose for he don't trust. Your goods are sent home wrapped in paper, or packed in a neat box if you buy them at Lacy Thoroughgood, and you certainly ought to buy your clothing and hats there this season sure for Thoroughgood never has had so many beautiful suits for men and boys to select from. Now just to make it warm for you Thoroughgood has several hundred grand overcoats and don't expect to sell them all this week even if he caught to at such low prices as $5.00, $6.50, $8.50, $10.00, $12.50, $15.00 to $18.00.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or a turbid, indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Do Good—It Pays.

A Chicago man has observed that "Good deeds are better than real estate deeds—some of the latter are worthless. Act kindly and gently, show sympathy and lend a helping hand. You cannot possibly lose by it." Most men appreciate a kind word and encouragement more than a substantial help. There are persons in this community who might truthfully say: "My good friend, cheer up. A few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will rid you of your cold, and there is no danger whatever from pneumonia when you use that medicine. It always cures. I know it for it has helped me out many a time." Sold by all dealers.

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat, by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich, red blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfill, of Troy, N. Y., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals. It digests what you eat.

Greenhouse, of Peachburg, Ga., speaks for itself: "I would have been dead now but for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me of chronic diarrhoea after seven years of suffering. I can never say too much in praise of that remedy." For sale by all dealers.

J. F. Hughes, was a candidate for county treasurer at Du Pont, Ga., but it was predicted that he could not live six months. Ran a Ten Penny Nail Through his Head.

While opening a box, J. C. Mount, of Three Mile Bay, N. Y., ran a ten penny nail through the fleshy part of his hand. SHYLOCK

Shylock was the man who wanted a pound of human flesh. There are many Shylocks now, the convalescent, the consumptive, the sickly child, the pale young woman, all want human flesh and they can get it—take Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion is flesh and blood, bone and muscle. It feeds the nerves, strengthens the digestive organs and they feed the whole body.

For nearly thirty years Scott's Emulsion has been the great giver of human flesh.
