

SALISBURY ADVERTISER.

ISSUED EVERY SATURDAY MORNING.
TUES. PERRY, Publisher.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and it allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nerve, obtain a bottle of Beech's German Syrup. It will give you an immediate relief.

Wife's Business.

"No girl under 30 can be a true woman, 'has any business to think of marriage.' Bless you, no. We know that. At that age no girls think of marriage as a 'business.' She just tumbles head over heels in love and marries the dear fellow just because she would cry her eyes out without him. It is when she is no longer what you would exactly call a 'girl,' when she is rising 30 and is cutting her last new teeth, that she begins to make a 'business' of it.—Buffalo Express.

Don't Experiment.

You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always begins, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any dealer to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you that he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr. King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottles free. L. H. Collier's Drug Store. Large bottles $1.

Paid For Their Beer With a Knife.

Samuel Stewart of No. 446 Third Avenue and Herbert Thurston of No. 813 Eighth Avenue drank beer in John Seltenreich's saloon at No. 2221 Eighth Avenue on Saturday night and refused to pay for it. There was a row, and Seltenreich's son Charles attempted to eject the unprofitable customers. They both attacked him, and Stewart cut Charles on the left hand and in the right arm with a father's knife, inflicting painful but not dangerous wounds. Stewart and Thurston were arrested, and Justice White held them in $1,000 bail each in the Harlem Court yesterday for trial.

Popular Education.

We sympathize with the feeling which often leads citizens to boast that no child born on this country need grow up in ignorance, and yet it is a fact that many people who have learned to read and write have never taught themselves to think. A man who suffered from catarrh, consumption, bronchitis, scrofula, or "liver complaint," might read, till his eyes dropped out, how these many other diseases have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, but if he did not take the lesson to himself and test the virtues of this great medicine, his time would be thrown away.

Syrup of Figs.

Is Nature's own true laxative. It is the most easily taken, and the most effective remedy known to cleanse the system when Bilious or Costive; to dispel Headaches, Colds, and Fevers; to Cure Habitual Constipation, Indigestion, Piles, etc. Manufactured only by the California Fig Syrup Company, San Francisco, Cal. Dr. L. H. Collier, Agt.

W. A. Hoblitzel, son of Rev. S. A. Hoblitzel, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Belair, was recently appointed by the school board of Dorchester county first assistant in the male department of the academy at Cambridge.

That Harvest of Combinations.

True efficacy of flavor with true efficacy of action has been attained in the famous California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs. Its pleasant taste and beneficial effects have rendered it immensely popular. It cleanses the system, cures Constiveness, etc. Dr. L. H. Collier, Agt.

The Cumberland city council last night passed an ordinance providing for the paving of Baltimore street with firebrick, and a contract for the work was awarded to W. J. Farrell, operations to commence as soon as the property-owners have paid their portion of the cost as agreed upon. Part of Baltimore street is already fire-bricked.

What is Going on in the Peach Crisped.

Address to Mothers. Mrs. Winkler's SCOTCH STRAP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The work of surveying the proposed route of and condemning land and assessing damages on such for the Deer Creek and Susquehanna Railroad goes steadily on, and sanguine hopes are entertained for the ultimate consummation of the enterprise. Several routes are being surveyed for bringing the road into or near Belair.

Ducklin's Arnica Salve.

The best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Gills, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by L. H. Collier.

The entries have closed for races to be held on the grounds of the Cecil County Agricultural Society on Saturday afternoon next. There are four entries in the race for colts four years and under, seven in the 240 class, eight in the three minute class and two in the 234 class for geldings and fillies.

Log Cabs were, in the Harrison-Tappan campaign of 1890 erected in the large cities and villages, and used for holding political meetings. Barrels of hand cinder were placed in front of the cabs, and the Log Cabin hard-cider campaign of '90 has passed into history as the most enthusiastic of our political contests. Log Cabs have for this reason a permanent place in American history. Warner's Log Cabin Hope and Buchi Remedies are "Tippecanoe" tonic bitters because of their popularity.

A Sound Legal Opinion.

E. Bainbridge Mundav, Esq., County Atty., Clay Co., Tex., says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with Malaria fever and jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. An satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life." Mr. D. I. Wilson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: "He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters. This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malaria Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stand unequalled. Price 50c. and $1. at L. D. Collier's."

Prof. John Mason Duncan, principal of Allegheny County Academy, has resigned that position to accept the presidency of Coates College, Terre Haute, Ind.

An Explanation.

What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem now to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word Malaria was comparatively unknown,—today it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Biliousness, etc. You who are suffering from this disease will appreciate a cure. We commend Green's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous.

OF TALBOT COUNTY.

—According to previous announcement the Baltimore Morning Herald issued last Monday a 12 page paper, three fourths of which was devoted to a detailed description of the City of Cumberland, in Western Md. This part of the edition contains an exhaustive array of resources and attractions of the "Queen City of the Alleghenies," which is of interest to every one who feels concerned in the development of Western Maryland.

—In a leading editorial last Saturday the Baltimore Morning Herald had the following "encouraging" words for the friends and promoters of the new Eastern Shore Railroad:

"Books of subscription to the capital stock of the road have been opened at Bay Hundred, St. Michaels, Royal Oak, Easton, Preston, Vienna, Barren Creek Springs, and Salisbury and others of the points in the six counties which are upon the proposed line of the road, and assurances are being received that there is some movement toward popularizing the scheme in this manner. The terms of subscription carry the impress of an honest intention upon the part of the managers of the road to do something with the money secured. One-fifth of the total subscription is to be paid upon the completion of ten miles of the road, the same rule to be observed until, the fifty miles necessary are finished. The level character of the country which is to be traversed, and the spirit of economy shown by the promoters are guarantees of the minimum amount of both fixed and operating expenses. Another factor in the probable cost is the present and unparalleled cheapness of constructive material, the price of rails being very low, and the necessary timber being comparatively upon the spot.

The Eastern Shoremen have asked aid from Baltimore, but will, by their own liberal subscriptions, show that they have faith in the venture, opening books in Baltimore only after a liberal amount had been secured elsewhere. This sensible idea will doubtless result in a generous contribution to the plan, upon Baltimoreans are asked for monetary aid, and we look to see the new railroad go through with a rush. By means of an eleven-mile ferry cut-off from Broad Cove to Thomas Point a material reduction in distance from Baltimore, Washington and Annapolis to average points upon the new line will be effected. Not the least ultimate benefit will be by the completion of the road will be the establishment of a state seaside resort at Ocean City which may, in time, come to be the "Atlantic City" of Baltimore and Washington, and could certainly become the state camping ground.

The benefits to be conferred upon Baltimore will prove a by no means inconspicuous feature of the new order of things. Perishable freight will be marketed here, passengers will flow in and out, and our trade will be benefited by the railroad proximity to be attained by the Eastern Shore inhabitants. Baltimore will watch with much interest the progress of the new enterprise."

Gov. Harrison and party left Toledo, Ohio Tuesday, for Indianapolis. They stopped at Fort Wayne, Ind., where a reception was given. Gen. Harrison made a speech, dealing largely on protection. At various places along the route from Toledo and Indianapolis there were crowds at the depots to see the party. At some places Gen. Harrison spoke, but at others he contented himself with shaking hands. At a little village eighteen miles from Toledo, named White House, the General shook hands with a number of people, and some one handed him a note saying, "You are now at White House, Ohio; may you soon become the occupant of White House, R. C."

Brave Baltimore Firemen Die Under a Fallen Wall.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2.—The most disastrous fire, both to life and property, that has occurred in this city for many years broke out at 4:30 o'clock this morning at No. 109 South Sharp street.

Spreading with great rapidity on either side it soon destroyed seven fine four-story iron and brick front buildings on Sharp street, and the back buildings of the north wall of houses on Pratt street, between Sharp and Hanover.

The north wall of building No. 109 Sharp street collapsed about 6:30 a. m. and buried nine of the firemen.

Two of them—A. L. Eck and John Kelly—were taken out alive, but very badly injured. Seven were killed. The names of the dead are: George Bowers, Thomas Wagner, Perry Ryan and John Acomb of No. 2 Truck Company; Henry Walker, colored, and James McFee and Geo. Kerian of No. 7 Engine Company.

The losses will aggregate about $1,500,000. The heaviest losses fall upon John King, president of the Erie Railway Company, Edward Prior &amp; Co., J. H. Winkelman &amp; Co., S. L. Levy &amp; Sons, Dobbs, Mudge &amp; Co., Tabb Bros. &amp; Dimmock, Henry S. King &amp; Sons.

The fire continued until about 11 o'clock when it was gotten under control. The engines are still throwing streams on the smoldering heaps of ruins, however. The buildings on Sharp street from No. 105 to No. 117 were swept clean, nothing being left standing except the fronts.

The rear building of the Maternity on Lombard street, was torn down to prevent the fire from spreading further. The inmates of the institution were all removed quietly.

The firms of Tabb Bros. &amp; Dimmock and Prior &amp; Co. had large supplies of gun and revolver cartridges in stock. About 5:30 a. m. the cartridges began to explode, and for a quarter of an hour kept up a fusillade, the bullets going through the windows on all sides. Fortunately nobody was shot, with the exception of one man, who was slightly wounded near the left eye.

Shortly before 6 o'clock the members of No. 7 engine company and No. 2 truck entered Tabb Bros' building, intending to cut holes through to building No. 106. People in the street saw that the side wall of No. 109 was beginning to sway, and called to the men to come out.

All of them were hastening out when the rear wall fell all over, and crashed through the floors of No. 107, buried the unfortunate firemen under its great weight.

Then all efforts were concentrated upon the pile of ruins under which nine human beings were writhing in torture. The groans of the men could be heard from within this living volcanic tomb, for it had now taken fire, and was belching forth jets of flame. Half a dozen strong streams were turned on the pile, and the flames within were in a short time subdued.

In a few minutes John Kelly was rescued. His left eye was burnt out of its socket and his head badly mangled, but the surgeons hope he will recover. Then A. L. Eck was dragged from the ruins. His right arm was broken and his ribs badly injured.

The others, however, were beyond hope, and their dead bodies were taken out, one by one, all mangled, torn and burned. The last body was recovered late to-night. All of the seven dead firemen, whose names are given above, leave families to mourn their untimely end, except Harry Walker, who was a single man.

It is impossible to get anything like a correct list of the losses and insurance to-night, but the following estimates are made: Wylie, Bruster &amp; Co., No. 103 Sharp street, dry goods, loss, $80,000; insurance, $60,000. Steppacher &amp; Stern, No. 103, shirt manufacturers, loss, $20,000; insurance, $20,000. Coffin, Altman &amp; Co., No. 103, loss, $20,000; insurance, $20,000. J. H. Winkelman &amp; Co., No. 105, wholesale dry goods, loss, $75,000; insurance, $85,000. Tabb Bros. &amp; Dimmock, No. 107, hardware, loss,

CORRESPONDENCE.

Items Gathered from the Various Sections of the County.

SHARPTOWN, 8, 1888.

Eugene A. Robinson left Monday for Cambridge, where he will attend school.

Willie B. Robinson near here grew the best melon, weighing 61 pounds.

John Robinson, of the firm of John Robinson & Co., has been down in Virginia this week.

The heavy rain Tuesday morning drove in around the fire of the new school building, dampening the plastering and causing much of it to fall off.

The town commissioners have published their ordinances which will go into effect on and after Monday the 10th inst. They are very commendable and will if carried out greatly improve our town. This incorporation promises to make an important era in the history of this progressive town. OVERSEA.

POWELLVILLE, Sept. 5, 1888.

Mr. FORTUNE—Not seeing anything from Powellville since "Observer's" last, I thought I would write a few lines.

The drought has been brought to an end by a very nice rain, which will have a tendency to keep off from pushing our farmers.

K. V. White & Son's store is nearly completed, and will be quite an improvement to the shire town of Dennis District.

There is considerable sickness through our section, and there has been several deaths, among which were John H. Brown, of Powellville, and a child of Mr. James Adams, which was buried yesterday. Among the sick are Mr. Wm. C. Dennis, and Miss Amanda E. Dennis, who is suffering from a relapse, after having seemed to be recovering from a severe attack of intermittent fever. She is quite ill again.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Janvier Carroll and little daughter, of Baltimore, have been visiting Mrs. C's grandmother, Mrs. J. L. Dennis, and other relatives near Powellville. They returned to Baltimore to-day.

GLANKER.

DELMAR, Sept. 6, 1888.

Miss Annie Holman of Smyrna, Del., is visiting her sister Mrs. T. L. Sulliff.

Rev. Thos. Traylor will occupy the pulpit of the Missionary Baptist church Sunday morning.

Elder W. W. Meredith, formerly of Brooklyn, has come to reside here.

Mrs. Eliza Hastings died suddenly Saturday morning after a short illness at the house of her son Jos. W. Hastings in this town. She was about 82 years of age. Funeral services were held at the residence of her son, Sunday afternoon in the presence of a large congregation.

W. S. Hitchens will soon remove with family to Philadelphia to engage in the grocery business. Mr. Hitchens has been prominent in the business circles of Delmar for number of years and has contributed much to its advancement and prosperity.

A collision occurred a short distance from the depot Wednesday morning between freight train, resulting in considerable damage to locomotives Nos. 5 and 7 of the N. Y. & P. & N. railroad. It was caused by engine on side track being pushed out by train behind it and not leaving room for the approach of train on main track to pass. No one was injured. A wreck train was soon at the scene and the wreck cleared. Both engines were almost totally demolished. The Flag Flyer had been in town and their open air carriages attracted a crowd in the evening.

We understand that we are to have a school building erected in Delmar. It will be built this fall.

Sharptown's New Government.

Next Monday, Sept. 10th, Sharptown will enter upon a new system of municipal government. Heretofore only the ordinary forms of law which govern county villages and hamlets have been resorted to for the punishment of misdemeanors, but the growth of Sharptown for the past 10 years has been so rapid that its population is now so varied as to make it necessary for the town to adopt a set of ordinances for the maintenance of peace and order, as well as to enforce and preserve a healthy sanitary condition. Sharptown has only taken a step to which all progressive towns are obliged to resort in order to establish an ideal system of home government.

—Mr. Frank Hitch, a former resident of this county and son of Ezekiel Hitch, Esq., arrived at Salisbury last Thursday in his steamer. Mr. Hitch is actively engaged in the lumber business of the South.

—The State Steamer, Governor McLane, which has been in our harbor for about two weeks receiving a thorough cleaning and a fresh coat of paint, left Thursday looking very much improved in appearance.

Persons desiring to send their children to school during the coming school terms can get board, and music taught, and use of piano, and all the engine and tender, and all the pieces, and causing some damage to the cars. The cause of the accident was a misplaced switch. After putting on the air-brakes and reversing the engine the engineer, Edward Shumaker, a colored man, Mack Hamilton, of Oxford, jumped from the train. The engineer was only slightly bruised, but the fireman, falling on the track, was quite seriously injured. The passengers escaped serious injury.

A Farmer's Swindle.

CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 5.—The lay fork swindler has visited Dorchester county and has victimized one of our farmers to the tune probably of $2,500. Last March a man by the name of Edgar Vanderpool went to the residence of W. W. Hackett, near Galeswood, and induced him to take the local agency for a certain kind of hay fork, alleging himself to be at the head of a large manufacturing concern. The whole price of the fork, he said, was $10, and they readily retailed for $30. The profit of $20 on each fork he agreed to divide equally with Mr. Hackett, and to send a sample fork and take back all that remained unsold. The sample fork was sent Mr. Hackett, but none was ever sold. In July last Vanderpool obtained a note of $500 from Hackett by misrepresentation, and in a few days after another for a like sum. These two notes were registered, D. M. Henry, Jr., a lawyer of Cambridge, taking one and Sheriff Ward the other, each at $450.

A Failure.

The Wheeling Register states that the Laith process for breaking down old steel rails for nail plate has failed at the Laith mill near that city, after a thorough trial of about six weeks. About eleven weeks since the Laith Company began putting in heavy machinery, and five weeks were occupied in completing the work. It was the intention to use the plate made from old rails for the manufacture of the same sized nails as by the process not enough plate could be turned out to supply the entire factory, and as the plate thus produced would cost less than if rolled from slabs it could be utilized to the best advantage by being turned into nails. However, after a thorough test, extending over a period of six weeks, during which many breakages occurred and much trouble was experienced, the company at last decided to give it up, and some time last week the work of removing the ponderous machinery was commenced.

Judge Thurman.

New York, Sept. 6.—It was late last night or rather very early this morning when Hon. Allen G. Thurman went to bed. The result was that it was after 10 o'clock this morning when he laid aside his morning gown and slipped on and donned his business dress. Before noon Mr. Thurman accompanied by his son emerged from the hotel and strolled along the avenue. He looks remarkably well after his journey east.

SALISBURY ADVERTISER.

ISSUED EVERY SATURDAY MORNING.
THOS. PERRY, PUBLISHER.

A WARNING.
The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than from any other.

It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system, and where these germs fall upon suitable soil, they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and it allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose your attention. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you a permanent relief.

The Acme of Meanness.
First Architect and Builder—What's wrong, James?
Second Architect—Meanest swindle ever heard of. You know old Skinskin? Well, I put a $25,000 house for him, and when the bills came in for $40,000 he got mad.
"Well, well!"
"But that isn't all. The old swindler immediately put all his other property in his wife's name, and now he says if I want my money I've got to take the house for my pay."

Thief Arrested.
The news was received with the utmost satisfaction by the community that he had been arrested; but the arrest of a thief is an achievement that should inspire heart-felt gratitude. Chalmers, cold, extremely depressed spirit, and extremely miserable sensations, with pale, wan features, are the results of diseased kidneys and liver. Arrest the cause at once by taking Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery. It is a purely vegetable medicine, that will purify the blood and capture the most subtle taint of blood disorder. Druggists.

Could Get Her Some.
"Sir," said a lady, out at Sunday's baseball game, as she lifted up the skirts of her dress, preparatory to sitting down, "do you chew tobacco?"
"No, Madam," he answered politely.
"I don't. But I can get you a chew from Daddy Reeves. Fine cut or plug?"
And he smiled sweetly as an angel, and wondered why she swept away and took a seat where she couldn't tell a foul ball from one that went to center field.

New Methods.
When the Mills Tariff bill was under consideration in the Committee on Ways and Means the organs set up a dismal howl over the manner in which the Republican members of the committee had been treated. What do the organs think of the secret and furtive methods of manipulation to which the Tariff bill is subjected by the Sub-Committee of Finance in the Senate?—Philadelphia Record.

That Rarest of Combinations.
True delicacy of flavor with true efficacy of action has been attained in the famous California liquid remedy Syrup of Figs. Its pleasant taste and beneficial effects have rendered it immensely popular. It cleanses the System, cures Constipation, etc. Dr. L. D. Collier, Agt.

A Pathetic Appeal.
Spinster.—(to bird fancier)—Have you a nice parrot, sir, whose life has been quiet and uneventful, and whose choice of English is somewhat above the average?
Dealer.—Yes, madam; I have just the bird you're looking for.
Parrot (impatiently)—For Gawd's sake, boss, don't let me go—From Life.

Buckley's Arnica Salve.
"The best salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fester Sores, Itches, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by L. D. Collier."

A Mournful Story.
He—You are Maud Muller, I see.
She (puzzled)—Indeed, no, sir.
He—Then I am no judge.
And then the heavens opened and rained gently upon him, and he so held his umbrella as to conceal his face from the eyes of men.—From Life.

What is Going on in the Peach Crismonnet.
Active to Mothers.
Mrs. Winslow's Sore Throat Syrup should always be used for children's teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Made That Himself.
"Where did young Browne get his money, papa?"
"From his uncle old Sam Brown. He inherited everything he had in the world, except that final 'e' to his name."—From Life.

More War Talk.
A war with England, in one respect at least, would be an excellent thing. The moment war was declared the fighting generals of the G. A. R. would all stop fighting.—Chicago Herald.

A Good Shot.
"Conservation" is the only word that expresses the situation in the Republican camp when President Cleveland fired his famous message into the Senate.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Revival.
The Republicans are beginning to have a suspicion that the days of Jeffersonian-Jacksonian Democracy have returned. It is truly the revival season.—Atlanta Constitution.

Levi and Labor.
Before Levi P. Morton was a candidate a laboring man couldn't get near enough to him to hand him a real apple.—Atlanta Constitution.

Loe Cabins can hardly be considered handsome or elegant, but they were fit habitations for the rugged pioneers of America. Our ancestors were rugged specimens of noble manhood, courage and endurance. Their wholesome remedies are reproduced in this latter age in Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla and Warner's Tonic.

A Young Wife's Suicide.

RIDGELY, Md., Sept. 11.—The quiet town of Ridgely, near Annapolis, was startled last night when it was known that Mrs. Annie Anstett, the beautiful and attractive young wife of Zachariah Anstett, had committed suicide yesterday evening by shooting at her home, about two miles from Annapolis, on the road from that place to Ridgely. Conflicting reports of the tragedy reached Annapolis, and early this morning, on the advice of State's Attorney Henry L. Lewis, Justice Huston directed Sheriff Williams to summon a jury of inquest. The officers and jury, accompanied by The Sun correspondent, drove to Mr. Anstett's through disagreeable rain, and at 10:30 an inquest was held. The body was found lying on the bed in Mrs. Anstett's room to which she was removed after the shooting. Mr. Anstett is a well-to-do young farmer and has this year been engaged in fruit in addition to cultivating his farm, having erected a canning factory about three hundred yards from his home. He was running a good horse and was quite busy yesterday. He testified that his wife was in an ill-humor yesterday he had to go to his work without breakfast. At her request he came up about 6 o'clock and got the horse and buggy for her and she went driving. At noon he sent a colored woman from the factory up to get dinner. His wife came home just before noon and began to get dinner, assisted by the woman. Late in the afternoon she sent for him and asked him to put the horse in the big carriage. He said, "You are not going away to-night in this rain, are you?" She said, "Yes," and told him to get her trunk. "I told her," said the witness, "that she should not do that; I would do anything else for her, but I could never assist my wife to leave my home. She asked to send some one from the canning-house to do it. I told her I would send a colored man, but did not think any one would come. I then went to get the horse. When I had geared him she called to me to hitch him as she was not ready to then. I was standing a few steps from the door of the house. When I was nearly to her she pointed a pistol at me and said, 'Kneel down.' I had not before noticed the pistol. I turned and ran, and looking back, saw her with the pistol in both hands pointing to her breast. She was then kneeling. She fired and I ran back and carried her to her room. She did not speak afterwards." Mr. Anstett then ran over towards Henry Cade's, who lives only a few hundred yards away. Mr. Cade came back with him. His wife lived only about 15 minutes.

Mr. Anstett is 33 years old and his wife was 28. She was a virginal and enterprising, of graceful figure, with tawny brunette, of graceful figure, with wavy hair and bright eyes. Anstett came to Caroline county from Pennsylvania 8 years ago with his father. He shortly afterwards married Miss Annie Palmer, of Eastern, Pa., the unhappy victim of the shooting.—Baltimore Sun.

Mrs. Mary Anne Waller died at the residence of her son, James D. Waller, in Mt. Vernon district, on Wednesday last, aged 85 years, 9 months and 28 days. She had been a member of church for nearly 70 years. Her remains were interred in Grace Protestant Episcopal Churchyard, Mt. Vernon district, on Friday last.—Savannah Herald.

CLEVELAND'S LETTER.

He Formally Accepts the St. Louis Nomination.

President Cleveland has issued his letter of acceptance. It is an able document from an able statesman. Below are extracts bearing upon subjects of most interest. We would have been glad if we could have been able to give the letter in full, but our space would not permit.

WASHINGTON, September 8, 1888.—Hon. Patrick A. Collins and others, committee, &c.—Gentlemen: In addressing to you my formal acceptance of the nomination to the presidency of the United States, my thoughts persistently dwell upon the impressive relation of such to the American people, whose confidence is thus invited, and to the political party to which I belong, just entering upon a contest for continued supremacy.

The world does not afford a spectacle more sublime than is furnished when the nations of free and intelligent American citizens select their Chief Magistrate, and bid one of their number to stand the highest earthly honor and the full measure of public duty in ready submission to their will.

It follows that a candidate for this high office can never forget that when the tumult and the strife which attend the selection of its incumbent shall be heard no more, there must be in the quiet calm which follows a complete and solemn self-examination by the people's chosen President of every faculty and endeavor to the service of a confiding and generous nation of freemen.

These thoughts are intensified by the light of my experience in the presidential office, which has soberly impressed me with the severe responsibilities which it imposes, while it has quickened my love for American institutions, and taught me the priceless value of the trust of my countrymen.

It is of the highest importance that those who administer our government should jealously protect and maintain the rights of American citizens at home and abroad, and should strive to achieve for our country her proper place among the nations of the earth; but there is no people whose home interests are so great, and whose numerous objects of domestic concern deserve so much watchfulness and care.

HOME INTERESTS THAT DEMAND CARE.

Among these are the regulation of a sound financial system suited to our needs, thus securing an efficient agency of national wealth and general prosperity; the construction and equipment of means of defense to insure our national safety and maintain the honor beneath which such national safety reposes; the protection of our national domain, still stretching beyond the needs of a century's expansion, and its preservation for the settler and the pioneer of our marvelous growth; a sensible and sincere recognition of the value of American labor, leading to the scrupulous care and just appreciation of the interests of our workmen; the limitation and checking of such monopolistic tendencies and schemes as interfere with the advantages and benefits which the people may rightly claim; a generous regard and care for our surviving soldiers and sailors and for the widows and orphans of such as have died; to the end that while the appreciation of their services and sacrifices is quickened, the application of their services fund to national needs may be prevented; protection against, and the removal of, every element of corruption; the limitation and checking of such monopolistic tendencies and schemes as interfere with the advantages and benefits which the people may rightly claim; a generous regard and care for our surviving soldiers and sailors and for the widows and orphans of such as have died; to the end that while the appreciation of their services and sacrifices is quickened, the application of their services fund to national needs may be prevented; protection against, and the removal of, every element of corruption.

THE SAFEST PLAN.

Of course in a country as great as ours, with such a wonderful variety of interests, often leading in entirely different directions, it is difficult if not impossible to settle upon a perfect tariff plan. But in accomplishing the reform we have entered upon, the necessity of which is so obvious, I believe we should not be content with a reduction of revenue involving the prohibition of importations and the removal of the internal tax upon whisky. It can be better and more safely done within the limits of granting actual relief to the people in their means of living, and at the same time giving an impetus to our domestic enterprises and furthering our national welfare.

If misrepresentations of our purposes and motives are to gain credence and defeat our present effort in this direction, there seems to be no reason why every endeavor in the future to accomplish revenue reform should not be likewise attacked and with like result.

DISTRESS AND DISASTER FORESEEN.

And yet no thoughtful man can fail to see in the continuance of the present burdens of the people and the abstraction of the country from the emergency of the country inevitable distress and disaster. All danger will be averted by timely action. The difficulty of applying the remedy will never be less, and the blame should not be laid at the door of the democratic party if it is applied too late.

FIFTH IN THE PEOPLE'S INTELLIGENCE.

With firm faith in the intelligence and patriotism of our countrymen, and relying upon the conviction that misrepresentation will not influence them, prejudices will not cloud their understanding, and that the masses will not be misled by the few, we urge the people's interest and public duty for the vindication of our attempt to inaugurate a righteous and beneficent reform.

Harrison's Letter of Acceptance.

General Harrison has also issued his manifesto. It is short, concise, and touches upon most of the subjects at issue in the campaign. At first sight it seems to bear upon the face of it, marks of sincerity, but when it is examined more closely, much of it will be found incompatible with Mr. Harrison's record in the United States Senate. For instance, he says of the Chinese question: "The objections to Chinese immigration are distinctive and conclusive, and are now so generally accepted as such that the question has passed entirely beyond the stage of argument. The laws relating to this subject, which I should be charged with their enforcement, are faithfully executed. Such amendments or further legislation as may be necessary and proper to prevent evasions of the laws and to stop further Chinese immigration would also meet my approval. The expression of the contention upon this subject is in entire harmony with my views."

PROMISE FAITHFULLY TO EXECUTE A LAW WHICH HE OPPOSED WHEN IN THE SENATE, ON THE PRETEXT OF UNCONSTITUTIONALITY.

On the tariff question he says any step at reduction is in the wrong direction. That is, we are to continue these taxes forever. If it don't mean this it means that any reduction means free trade, no matter by whom instituted. That is, if a man walks towards a river it is conclusive evidence that he will continue in that direction till he falls overboard and drowns himself, or if a man decides to take a dose of medicine, the probability is he will continue to gulp it down as long as he can swallow, if it's a pound of arsenic. The absurdity of the proposition anyone can see.

THIS IS THE WAY HE PUTS IT:

Protection is asserted as unconstitutional in law or as vicious in principle, and those who hold such views sincerely cannot stop short of an absolute elimination from our tariff laws of the principle of protection.

The Mills bill is only a step, but it is toward the object that the leaders of Democratic thought and legislation have clearly in mind.

NOTICE TO TRAVELERS.—I hereby forwarn all persons from crossing my property with dog or gun or otherwise trespassing, by hunting or carrying away anything of value.

WM. B. BRATTAN, Sept. 15-17

THE IMPORTANT QUESTION IS NOT SO MUCH THE LENGTH OF THE STEP AS THE DIRECTION OF IT.

The important question is not so much the length of the step as the direction of it. Judged by the executive message of December last by the Mills bill, by the debates in Congress and by the St. Louis platform, the Democratic party will, if supported by the country, place the tariff laws upon a purely revenue basis. This is practical free trade—free trade in the English sense. The legend upon the banner may not be "Free Trade," it may be the more obscure motto "Tariff Reform," but neither the banner nor the inscription is conclusive, or, indeed, very important. The assault itself, it is the important fact.

These are the points that the import duty upon foreign goods sold in our market is paid by the consumer, and that the price of the domestic competing article is enhanced to the amount of the duty on imported articles—every million of dollars collected for customs duties represents many millions more which do not reach the treasury, but are paid by our citizens as the increased cost of domestic productions resulting from the tariff laws.

THE PEOPLE DEMAND A REMEDY.

We do not propose to deal with these conditions by merely attempting to satisfy the people of the truth of abstract theories, nor by alone urging their assent to political doctrine. We present to them the propositions that they are unjustly treated in the extent of foreign federal taxation, that as a result a condition of extreme danger exists, and that it is for them to demand a remedy and that defense and safety promised in the guarantee of their free government.

We believe that the same means which are adopted to relieve the treasury of its present surplus and prevent its recurrence should be applied to our people the cost of supplying their daily wants. Both of these objects we seek to put in gain by reducing the present tariff rates upon the necessities of life.

PROFITING DOMESTIC ENTERPRISES.

We fully appreciate the importance to the country of our domestic industrial enterprises. In the rectification of existing wrongs their maintenance and prosperity should be carefully and in a friendly spirit considered. Even such reliance upon present revenue arrangements as have been invited or encouraged should be fairly and justly regarded. Abrupt and radical changes, which might endanger such enterprises and injuriously affect the interests of labor dependent upon their success and continuance, are not contemplated or intended.

NO CRUSADE OF FREE TRADE.

While we cannot avoid partisan misrepresentation, our position upon the question of revenue reform should be so plainly stated as to admit of no misunderstanding. We have entered upon no crusade of free trade. The reform we seek to inaugurate is predicated upon the utmost care for established industries and enterprises, a jealous regard for the interests of American labor and a sincere desire to relieve the country from the injustice and danger of a condition which threatens evil to all the people of the land.

WE ARE DEALING WITH NO IMAGINARY DANGER.

Its existence has been repeatedly confessed by all political parties, and pledges of a remedy have been made on all sides.

THE SAFEST PLAN.

Of course in a country as great as ours, with such a wonderful variety of interests, often leading in entirely different directions, it is difficult if not impossible to settle upon a perfect tariff plan. But in accomplishing the reform we have entered upon, the necessity of which is so obvious, I believe we should not be content with a reduction of revenue involving the prohibition of importations and the removal of the internal tax upon whisky. ## An Unnecessary Nuisance.

Many of our citizens are complaining bitterly of the filth and stench arising from the carcasses of the deceased hogs which have been hauled out and dropped in the streets and alleys of the town. These putrefying bodies should be either buried or burned. A pile on the ground to be destroyed by vultures and dogs they are a real nuisance and a source of danger to the community. There is danger in leaving the carcasses of animals which have died of a contagious disease exposed to the atmosphere and to be devoured by carnivorous beasts and birds; for the disease, the suppression of which every prudent shewman is liable to spread from community to community and attack and carry off whole herds. The proper authorities should see to it that they are buried. Those who live out in that part of town (over the railroad) let the vultures will not eat these carcasses.

Death of Mrs. Hooper.

The funeral services of Mrs. Eleanor Hooper were held in the Presbyterian Church, last Sabbath afternoon, at four o'clock; and despite the storm which was raging at the time, a large number of people attended.

In the course of his funeral discourse, the Rev. Mr. Eekels remarked that the occasion was an exceptional one: (1) Because of the age of the deceased; (2) Because she was born May 29th, 1808, her death thus occurring in her eighty-first year; (3) Because of her long connection with the church; she was received into the communion of the church April 7th, 1830, on the occasion of the first communion services of the Salisbury Presbyterian Church. She was present at the last communion services. Thus for more than fifty-eight years she had witnessed a good profession; (4) Because of the type of life illustrated in the life of the deceased; she enjoyed and spent much time in communion with God, in reading devotional books and in religious conversation.

Few members of this community have lived so long in it and been so esteemed and beloved as Mrs. Hooper.

Her life was full of the beauty of holiness; her end was peace.

County Commissioners.

The county commissioners were in session last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Eliza Wainwright and Wm. H. Hower, both colored, were each granted a pension of $1.50 per month, orders to J. Masser Roberts and L. M. Dashiell, respectively.

Treasurer was ordered to pay C. H. Ward $6.50 for new jury box. Also to pay for team to road machine, two days, $3.00. The remainder of the two days was occupied in the settlement of the road case from Pittsburg district.

The road was petitioned for by E. S. S. and others last April, and was objected to by the Messrs. Brittingham. Last Tuesday had been previously set apart by the commissioners to hear the case. The petitioners, however, failed to appear, and the road was ordered to be constructed. Mr. Brittingham, who objected, will get $50 damages. R. P. Graham and T. F. J. Rider appeared for the petitioners and Jas. E. Ellegood, Esq., represented the objectors. The road was ordered to be constructed. Board adjourned on Wednesday last, Sept. 13.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Items Gathered from the Various Sections of the County.

THE B. & E. S. RAILROAD.

BARRETT CREEK, Sept. 13, 1888.

Considerable damage has been done to the stock of the B. & E. S. Railroad by the rain. Not only that which was taken down by the rain, but that which was standing on the stock is said by the farmers to have all the grain washed from it.

The first of the new schooners built by Train A. Bonds for the State oyster navy was launched last Saturday morning, and the second on the following Monday morning. Both boats will be taken from here to Sharptown, where they will be met by the B. & E. S. Railroad, and will be completed and ready for service by October 15.

A delegation consisting of Messrs. Thos. B. Taylor, Train A. Bonds, John T. Wilson and Saml. J. Bonds drove over to Eleton Tuesday to attend a meeting of the directors of the Eastern Shore railroad. An interesting meeting was held in the afternoon of the same day.

The Board had under consideration the question of the proposed road between Salisbury and Sharptown. The other parties of the line have been already fixed. After hearing the statements of the delegations, each of whom presented their views in a forcible manner and further pledged their respective communities to substantial subscriptions to the stock of the company, the board determined to postpone final action for ten days, and in the meantime have their chief engineer, Mr. James M. Thorp, look over the two roads. His report and the financial aid proffered will determine them in their final decision. The president presented a proposition from responsible contractors to build the road from Bay Shore to Salisbury on terms acceptable to the board, and a contract will be made as soon as the requisite amount of stock shall have been subscribed for.

Among those present besides the Barrett Creek delegation were Messrs. Houson, Ewell, Macdonald, Messrs. J. W. Webb, Thos. Hackett, Watson Thompson and Wm. Percy of Vienna, Dorchester county, and John Robinson of E. Sharptown.

SHARPTOWN, Sept. 12, 1888.

An article under the heading "Maryland Home" referring to the recent survey of the Baltimore & Eastern Shore Railroad, by Sharptown. As it gave the arrival of the surveyors in Salisbury, it is reasonable to infer that the item went from Salisbury to this county; and for fear some may be led astray by its contents, we publish the article in full. It is in the construction of the road if run via Sharptown, we beg leave to say she will do it, and ought to do it in preference to the road crossing at Vienna. The county will aid in the enterprise, because the majority of the votes cast for it showed the desire of the people for it, and there were over thirteen hundred votes cast in other parts of the county, outside of Sharptown and Barrett Creek districts, for the endorsement of the bonds by persons who are not personally interested in the road passing Barrett Creek either from Sharptown or Vienna; therefore, a superior advantage of the road, if chosen, would be sufficient reason for the commissioners endorsing the bonds.

If the road crosses here, and is curved by Barrett Creek, both places will be built up and the county would get the benefit of the increased improvement. The road by here would build up more of the county and thereby lessen the taxation in all parts of the county. Whenever the road crosses the Nanticoke river a large trade would be built up in the oyster trade, in raising fruits and vegetables, and in manufacturing in its various forms. If the road crosses here this county profits materially from all these, but if it crosses at Vienna she loses the advantage of the road. These are logical reasons sustained by facts. Why Wisconsin county "should pay the amount promised last fall," if this route is selected, and should inspire her loyal and home-loving citizens to set aside all personal prejudices and vote earnestly for the "greatest good to the greatest number."

OBSEQUIES.

PITTSVILLE, Sept. 13, 1888.

The recent rains have injured food which had been taken off very much; but fortunately the bulk of the crop is still on the stalks and even if farmers are in a little trouble for the next few weeks in saving it.

Rev. Mr. Stone and wife returned last Friday from a visit to friends in Virginia. Mrs. Stone leaves today on a visit to her parents in Baltimore.

A few people here are wrangling over school teachers, and some over the proposed new county road, but in politics everything is very quiet; all the democratic votes are for the people's favorite candidates, Cleveland and Gibson.

Mr. Henry Fooks with his family left here a few days ago for Heathsville, in the Northern Neck county, Virginia, where they will reside for the future. Mr. Fooks is a cultivated and very agreeable gentleman, as well as a scholar, and the community certainly sustains quite a loss by his removal from us. He and his brother J. J. Fooks were conducting an extensive lumber business in that part of Virginia, the latter having moved down there some time last year, there is not a single representative of the Fooks name in this district where they were once so numerous.

Rev. James H. Daugherty of Kent Island paid us a visit recently returning to his charge last Friday, he looks as if the climate of the island, or the oysters, or both agree with him splendidly.

There is considerable sickness in the surrounding community, chiefly fevers of a malarial type, with but very few fatal cases.

The scarcity of news of interest almost excites levity.

THE CENTREVILLE (MD.) OBSERVER.

On Sunday last week the organ in the Tilghman's Neck Sunday school, for a reason at that time unknown, refused to give forth music when the organist, Mrs. A. G. Harley, Jr., attempted to perform on it, and the services were conducted for that day without music. During the week Mr. A. G. Harley, Jr., made an examination of the instrument, and upon removing the key-board, he found a tremendous black snake snugly coiled in the organ. He killed his snake, and upon measuring the reptile, found him to be three feet six inches in length. The organ gave forth its usual melody last Sunday.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATIC.

The New York Democratic State Convention met at Buffalo last Wednesday.

The committee on resolutions reported a platform heartily approving of the platform adopted by the Democratic convention at St. Louis, and recognizing in Cleveland and Thurman trial and true exponents of the principles therein expressed, declaring that the Democratic platform had truly interpreted the Democratic platform and clearly presented the vital issues pending before the American people. Daniel L. Lockwood of Erie moved the nomination of David B. Hill for Governor of New York. All the preceding resolutions of applause and enthusiasm during the evening were surpassed by that which took place when the nomination of Governor Hill was declared: "In all parts of the house men sprang to their feet and cheered and waved their hands and hats, while the ladies who filled the eight boxes on either side of the stage joined in the enthusiasm and waved their handkerchiefs, the band meanwhile playing, though the strains were hardly audible. Edward J. Jones was nominated for lieutenant-governor and John Clinton Gray was nominated for associate justice of the court of appeals, in both cases by acclamation.

Reflections.

A person of miserly mien is apt to be a miserly person.
The railroad with the narrowest gauge most frequently has the largest mortgage.
The most popular books of the present day seem to be made up of chapters of accidents.

A jest loses strength by being too often repeated. Most modern sars are so old they have lost their teeth.
It is an unfortunate fact that the heir of respectability too infrequently inherits the respectability of his parents.

There are thousands of people who devour the continued stories in the magazines who invariably decline cereals for breakfast.

Farming is one of the best of occupations for a young man. Even cabbage culture will enable a struggling youth to get a head.

The struggling poet notes.
With much of mental pain,
Unless in pain himself,
His work is all in vain.

The waltz has entered upon its one hundred and first season. It would seem if the waltz ought to be old enough to be less giddy.—Harper's Bazar.

It was Montaigne who said that few men are admired by their servants, and he might have added with equal truth the most men return the compliment.

Barton thoroughly understood the personality of woman when he wrote:
"He that will not when he may,
When he will he shall have may."

The wise man keeps a diary. There is no telling when the most obscure person may become suddenly famous, and such a one will find his reminiscences worth their weight in silver certificates.

The bookbinder who has been left a fortune and rises thereby in the social scale seems somewhat ashamed of his former walk in life. We have never known a bookbinder to shine in polite society.

Do not let your overconcealing modesty—perchance your modesty does over-—prevent you from recording your own good deeds. A real estate man lost a fortune once through an unrecorded deed.

It has been said that death ends all things. This is a mistake. It does not end the volume of practical quotations, and will not until the sequence of letters in the alphabet is so materially changed as to place D where Z now stands.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that every year, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat, after which you must continue their ravages they extend to the lungs, producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the outset you must act with promptness, allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you an immediate relief.

Maid to Love.

The girl of the period is often very comical-looking.
When a maid makes a youth an offer of her hand, can't it be said that she is trying to palm herself off on him.

We often hear it said that girls will be girls, but we apprehend that a majority of them are willing to be married women.

Miss Kittie C. Wilkins, of Idaho, is the possessor of between 700 and 800 horses, and is still single. She ought to know how to say neigh by this time.

A Magazine writer says that "a girl is always a girl."

Nevertheless, she is sometimes a tom-boy; and if she lives long enough she is certain to become an old woman.

Matrimonial Misfits.

The marriage ceremony always alters a man's views of life.
A woman's life is made up of little things including a husband.

An Eastern publisher announces for the Fall, "How to Get a Husband." We respectfully suggest that the safest place to get him is by the ear.

A West Side citizen who has been a widower for a number of years has gone away to be married again, and has placed on the closed door of his house "Closed for re-marriage."

"It is about time for wives to strike," exclaimed a strong-minded representative of her sex. "Pray, mind have they been doing better since the broomstick was invented?"

The Supply of Terrapin.

Whatever may be the condition of the Delaware peach crop, the harvest of terrapin is more abundant than ever recorded. Picking time has begun, and the jails are all filled, good measure, but as yet there is no indication of the supply giving out. Indeed, so great is the abundance that it is becoming a pest as bad as that of the rabbits in Australia. Dwellers on the peninsula are in a dilemma. Therefore the suggestion will not be impertinent that the crop be canned and six months hence be disposed of to the New York market as terrapins.

Human Nature.

"You want a position in my store, do you, miss?" said the kind-hearted merchant. "You don't look as if you had much experience in selling goods. I have only one place vacant now. It's in the soap department, in the basement, and the salary is only $1.75 a week. But my wife informed me this morning she needed another girl in her kitchen. If you would like that place she will give you $4 a week and a good home. Which would you prefer?"

"I'll take the soap position, sir," was the haughty reply.

"Yes, I shall break the engagement," she said, folding her arms and looking defiant. "It is really too much trouble to converse with him as he is as good as a post, and talks as if he had a mouthful of mud. Besides, the way he hawks and sniffs is disgusting." "Don't break the engagement for that," tell him to take Dr. Sagar's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely. "Well, I'll tell him. I do hate to break it off, for in all other respects he's quite too charming." Of course, it cured his catarrh.

We try to make you welcome whether you care to buy or not.

Nothing Extraordinary.

"This, ladies and gents," vociferated a monosyllabic orator in a small town in Kentucky, "is the great Arabian dromedary, with two humps upon his back instead of one, but the extra hump will cost you nothing. He is the Arab's best of friends. He fetches and carries, while the Arab sits idly in the sand, and (impressively) he can go eight days without water!"

"Only eight days?" was the general exclamation, and then the crowd moved on in search of something startling.

A Jolly Girl.

She (flaring up)—What do you mean by kissing me, William Henry Smith? W. H. S. (humbly)—I—I meant no disrespect, I assure you.

She (angrily)—Well, I should like to see you do it again, that's all. W. H. S.—Here goes, then. She (smoothing her ruffled plumage)—You're just awful.—Boston Courier.

Tempering the Wind.

Wife—As a rule, my dear, aren't bow-legged men conceited about their personal appearance? Husband—As a general thing they are, and I look upon it in the light of a most difficult dispensation of Providence. The Lord, you know, tempests the wind to the storm land.

A Special Favor.

Bereaved Widow (to country editor)—Do you charge for obituary notices, Mr. Shivers? Country Editor—As a general thing, we do, Mrs. Bentley; but your husband and I were good friends, and I will only be too glad to publish his obituary for nothing.—Life.

Base Ball Items.

Admirer of the Game—What sort of an umpire had you yesterday, Shortstop? Shortstop—A blacksmith, an ignorant one, knew nothing of the rules of the game.

A. O. T. G.—Is that so?

S. Fact. All his decisions were in favor of the other club.—Boston Courier.

That Harvest of Combinations.

True efficacy of flavor with true efficacy of action has been attained in the famous California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs. Its pleasant taste and beneficial effects have rendered it immensely popular. It cleanses the System, cures Constipation, etc. Dr. L. D. Collier, Agent.

A Veteran.

"Yes, boys," said old Belows, proudly beating his breast, "I've been a soldier in my time, and I do say to myself, like the warhorse of Scripture, I could ever scent the battle from afar."

"I suppose," ventured young Paperate, "that on very many occasions that saved your life?"—Life.

Careful of His English.

"Now, Waldo," said a Boston lady, "the minister is to dine with us to-day, and I want you to be a good little boy."

"Yes, Mamma."

"And if the subject of prize-fighting is introduced at the table, you must be sure and say slogger, not slugger."—Life.

The Brice-Barcraze.

Friend—Is your daughter Sennie as fond of brice-barcraze as ever? Mother—Fonder.

Jack—Yes, she has just married a huge bull pitcher.—Boston Courier.

Too Careful.

Miss Crash—This sun is just burning me up. Dreadful, isn't it? Miss Rapture—Yes, but why don't you lift your sun shade?

Miss Crash—I'm afraid the sun would take the color out of it.—The Idler.

Returning From the Honeymoon.

Mr. Young—Won't you put away your paper now, and talk for awhile, Jack?

Mr. Young—Yes, my love. Just wait till we get to the tunnel.

Beryl's Photography.

BY GERALDINE FLEMING.

"She is a veritable fairy—too dainty and ethereal for earth! Any Arleigh

would be there; there is nothing he would not do for her. Wherever he may be, whatever the business or the pleasure

of the hour, he makes it a point to visit her

every week at Avonhurst, where she resides permanently."

The speakers were moving leisurely

through the long "lounge" room of a summer hotel.

It was the close of the season, and

most of the guests had flocked away like

the flying swallows.

The few remaining, loath to leave the

woods and hills already gilded by the

touch of the earlier frost, had resolved

to memorize the eve of their departure

by a brilliant little ball.

That Guy Arleigh—the leader of all

their pastimes, the animating spirit of all

their games—was not present had been

the subject of comment.

That comment had elicited the explanation just uttered—an explanation

for a second checked the heart-

beats of a girl who was screened by an

evergreen-decked column the speaker

had just passed.

Wherever he was, whatever the pleasure or business of the hour, Guy Ar-

leigh held himself always ready to follow the beck of a dainty hand, and to

obey the whims of some fairy creature

who he worshipped.

The words seemed scorching through

himself in letters of fire upon the heart

and brain of Beryl St. Omer.

Her dark eyes dilated and started

open; her lovely face whitened pitifully;

she put her hands forth as if she felt

herself fainting.

While she had been dreaming that

Guy Arleigh's love was all her own, he loved another! In her vanity she had

misinterpreted what he had meant only

as gentle courtesy. In the blind confidence of her own foolish love she had

magnified the significance of his little attentions.

Or, perhaps she had allowed him to

look too deeply into her heart, to see the

longings there, and his loving glance

was mingled with a tender pity for the

affection he could not return.

It was pity which had lent strange

cares to his glance whenever his

glance fell upon her, and it was pity

which was expressive only of a manly sorrow for a love he could not recipi-

tate.

He had set her apart, not as his chosen beloved one, but as an unfortunate being

who he had unintentionally inspired

with a fatal passion for himself, and who was therefore entitled to his kindest

manifestation of esteem.

The thought was maddening.

Beryl clasped her hands over her burning eyes as if she could shut from her physical sight the awful truth which

which sent the blood in a hot rush to

neck and brow, and wrung an agonized

groan from her quivering lips.

"As she stood there, her proud, dark hair drooping, her beautiful face leaning with a pitiful tremor against the flower wreath of curls, the gentleman

who had explained the absence of Mr.

Arleigh snatched toward her.

most of the guests had flocked away like

the flying swallows.

The few remaining, loath to leave the

woods and hills already gilded by the

touch of the earlier frost, had resolved

to memorize the eve of their departure

by a brilliant little ball.

That Guy Arleigh—the leader of all

their pastimes, the animating spirit of all

their games—was not present had been

the subject of comment.

That comment had elicited the explanation just uttered—an explanation

for a second checked the heart-

beats of a girl who was screened by an

evergreen-decked column the speaker

had just passed.

Wherever he was, whatever the plea-

sure or business of the hour, Guy Ar-

leigh held himself always ready to fol-

low the beck of a dainty hand, and to

obey the whims of some fairy creature

who he worshipped.

The words seemed scorching through

himself in letters of fire upon the heart

and brain of Beryl St. Omer.

Her dark eyes dilated and started

open; her lovely face whitened pitifully;

she put her hands forth as if she felt

herself fainting.

While she had been dreaming that

Guy Arleigh's love was all her own, he

loved another! In her vanity she had

misinterpreted what he had meant only

as gentle courtesy. In the blind confidence of her own foolish love she had

magnified the significance of his little at-

tentions.

Or, perhaps she had allowed him to

look too deeply into her heart, to see the

longings there, and his loving glance

was mingled with a tender pity for the

affection he could not return.

It was pity which had lent strange

cares to his glance whenever his

glance fell upon her, and it was pity

Personal.

Amelia Rivers Chanler is a sufferer from insomnia.

It has been discovered that nearly every Colorado statesman has red hair.

Prince Henri d'Orleans sailed for home yesterday on the steamer La Normandie.

Charles Dudley Warner is getting gray, and shows the results of hard literary work.

The original draft of Burns' "Auld Lang Syne" is in possession of Mrs. John V. L. Pray, of Albany.

Among the passengers who sailed for Europe yesterday on the Steamer "Tromp" were Mark M. ("Big") Pomeroy.

Few people are aware that Samuel J. Randall is not a lawyer by profession, but started out as an iron merchant, at which he failed.

Dr. Mary Walker bases her claim to be allowed to go South to nurse the fever patients on the ground that she was a surgeon during the war.

Mrs. Ruth Hall, of Wallingford, Conn., is 74 years old and can live a few days only. It has been her desire to be buried in the cradle in which she was rocked as a baby.

A patient at Graveland has made the necessary alteration in the cradle. The work was finished a few days ago.

Prof. Crowell, of Amherst College, is blind that his wife has led him through the streets of Boston. She reads to him the lessons of the day before he goes to the classroom, and he has such a remarkable memory that his affliction is of little consequence. He is very popular with the students.

The Verdict Enamelled.

W. D. Selt, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing."

Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at L. D. Collier's Drug Store.

It is a woman who suggests, putting the photograph to a novel use. Clara Morris, convinced that no speaker ever hears his own voice as others hear it, argues that by the use of the photograph she could, in effect, hear herself talk. Her experiments have not been without some success, the instrument reflecting exactly the color, quality and inflection of her voice, though without its original volume.

A French woman of Contance, M. Leblouin, won a Montyon prize of $500 from the French academy. Her services in the academy have been highly prized, and in addition to the reward mentioned, she is to receive a medal at a public session to be held next November, and M. Lockroy, minister of public instruction, will confer upon her the cross of the Legion of Honor.

"I Don't Want Relief, But Cure," is the exclamation of thousands suffering from catarrh. To all such we say: Catarrh can be cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It has been done in thousands of cases, why not in yours? Your danger is in delay. Enclose a stamp to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., for pamphlet on this disease.

Thomas Wentworth Higginson, scholar and essayist, encourages women who wish to enter upon a career to adopt the profession of letters. In his lecture before the girl graduates at Smith college he told them that the literary profession was the grandest, noblest, and most sublime of any, and that in no other condition could women make such handsome profits.

Log Carriers have become a thing of the past. From them have come great generals, statesmen, lawyers and divines, equals in every way of those who were born in the log cabin. No better remedy for purifying the blood was ever made than Warner's Log Cabin Syrup. Try Warner's "Tippecanoe" to-day.

It is said that the Greeks are showing great solicitude for the improvement of their priests. Their eyes have been opened and they see that the religious indifference manifested by the people is due to the fact that the priesthood occupies such a low place intellectually, morally and religiously.

Wanamaker's.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Sept. 17, 1888.

There is no question about the "Wanamaker" Brussels. It is made to our order, backed with our name. We knew every kink and turn of all the famous brands of Brussels before the "Wanamaker" was christened. It takes a back-seat to none of them. $1.25 a yard.

We have made an extra push this season for good quality Carpets at the least possible price. In Brussels there are three sorts besides the Wanamaker that will make a stir. Prices to per cent less than such goods are offered at anywhere else.

1—A $1.25 Brussels for $1.10

2—a 1.15 Brussels for 1.00

3—a 1.15 Brussels for 90c

Only a trifle more than usual Tapestry prices!

Miscellaneous Cards.

We mean to meet every want in Brussels Carpets so perfectly that no buyer will feel like hesitating.

The price dip runs into other sorts. We have a new quality Wilton Velvet smooth, even surface, well printed, at $1.

An unexampled price for the grade.

Tapestry too. A Brussels look; good share of Brussels goodness. A new line at 45c.

The like hasn't been heard of.

Just a nudge from some of the medium priced Carpets.

There are stacks and stacks of the most luxurious floor covering as well.

A 36 inch good weight mixed Tricot at 25c! We sold one but a trifle better at 50c last season. These are new goods, without fault.

Black mixed, two styles, dark and medium grey mixed dark and medium brown mixed.

They will be one of the sensations of the season.

Another. 50 inch Plaid Habit Cloth, 50c! A quality we never sold before under 75c.

A good, substantial well wearing stuff. Think of it! Material for a stylish dress for $3!

Among the colorings:

stone and black, navy and black, two shades brown, two shades grey.

Yardsticks will be galloping here sure enough.

Plenty more of the new dress things are coming in with prices ground to a point.

By odds the best bargain in Blankets now is the 6-pound All-Wool at $4 a pair. You'll hear of other $4 blankets about town, maybe. Carry them in your mind's eye when you come here. Coarser, thinner, meaner in every way. We doubt if there is a $6 blanket elsewhere within your reach that is better than ours for $4.

We couldn't go into the market to-day and buy these Blankets to sell at $4. They were got so that $4 is a fair price. That settles it. There they shall stay for the little time they'll last, no matter how much Blanket prices go up.

72x84 inches, $5 last season, and a marvel of cheapness then.

What we have done with the $4 Blanket we are trying to do with all, commonest to finest.

No thrifty housekeeper can afford to skip the corner where Blankets are.

We are in shape to promptly fit up Campaign Clubs of any faith or any size and at moderate cost. Caps, Hats, Helmets, Torches, Capes, Leggings, and all the little trifles and fol-de-rols. Come or ask by letter for estimates.

The seventh volume of Book News begins with the September number. Its prospects were never brighter; encouragement from all quarters. Better, still better, is its motto winning the golden grain from the chaff of all that is new in the book world. 50 cents a year. Send for sample copy.

Send your address for "Housekeeping Art."

COMMONPLACE PEOPLE.

A WRITER'S SIGH FOR THE DAYS
OF HIS ANCESTORS.

Time Was When We Nodded Our Heads
Neighing to Everybody. The Present and the Future—A Foreboding in America—Averaging Upward.

The commonplace person is something to us, I think, as a commonplace landscape.
Travel is often more delightful when the scenery is very dull, and the land flat and smooth. This is contrary to what the tourists tell us, but I assure you that if you are a nervous person you should not go to the Alps,
but to Holland. What can be less exciting than a Holland landscape? The gardens are all alike, and the people, and the houses consider that there is no sin so great as originality. You may take up your abode in a Greichen and change her for another five miles away, and she will still be exactly the same. It is difficult to understand how these people can possibly know themselves without a label to look at. There is not an original in ten thousand. It is deliciously restful in such a land; but if you travel in any part of our own land, you are sure to get constantly interested in some one or something. There are points to every change. They are not only flash lightning, but draw lightning, and it is destructive to all pleasure in traveling in the long run, but I assure you you will travel in Holland for one month with your eyes only on the quarter, and there you will not be a star or a given you all that time. It is a country of delicious commonness.

I am fond of my ancestors and of the last century because people lived averaged lives.
I do not remember that any one was so unlike his neighbor. Among 200 people, where any one was likely to be selected for justice of the peace another. I can remember when every one grew marigolds, beeches,
blossoms, and saffron, and curcuma; and every one not only went to church, but to the same church; and there was a quiet uniformity of faith and deed, if it did not merit heaven hereafter, it made a sense of heaven here.

I think I should like to get back to the days when I ran about barefooted and bareheaded, and every other boy did just the same. I can not imagine any one in those days who did not do something, and there was not one boy who did not drive cows to pasture and for them and milk. I cannot think of a single startling event for whole years at a time. There was a smelly kind of common folks, and average
good things. No one was very poor and no one was very rich. Our houses were open to the poor, and to the stranger; and our lives averaged up as far as possible.

What a fellowship was that, when we nowadays grates and lowliness.
I do not know how to waste. Everything had its value, and during the winter
great notions; our small ones were useful.
Spectacles had only been heard of at a great distance. We all believed in work.
Not to work seemed impossible. It is very restful for me to go backward into those days. I am less anxious to anticipate the future. There is this comfort in those days,
that we were not together to know each other. Nowdays there are folk who can neither give nor get sympathy. No one was out of speaking range, and we did not need our heads together to all the world.

I have been looking backward, but I will not do so too long. I have been looking upon the high mountains of old royalty.
The declaration that "All men are equal" is only a very old ideal. There is no doubt but the day of equality is rather ahead than behind us. By and by everybody will have his own private balloon, which never yells out of horses and carriages,
and we will all be up to the top of the phone, and telegraph, and know what where, as we have all got averaged up to the postoffice and railway station.

I do not wish to advocate averaging people downward on any occasion, but averaging them upward. A person who has not been down as thoroughly commonplace now, 100
years ago would have passed for a scholar,
if not a genius. If it were possible, we what reason have we for supposing it will not? The genius of today will be but an ordinary person in another day. When George Washington tells us that immigration is "watering the life blood of the nation," it is not a very high eulogy, for it seems to be true.

Have been over here three years. He has learned to write and to speak English
with a twang and a twist, but he has learned
something else, and he did not learn it all over here. He has learned to abhor being lost in the crowd. He must be individual.
He wants to be a marked man. He does not have much moral force, but a good deal of physical grit; he certainly does
know. He naturally turns to physical force as his lever. When he looks around,
with his passion to be free, he kicks
and storms. He has been under a good deal of repression abroad, but here he enjoys
what he calls being free—that is free to be
himself, all over and over, and everywhere.
He does not see that he cannot be quite himself without preventing others from being
quite themselves, and if they are quite themselves, it will encroach on him. The passion of individuality is abroad. It is the spirit of the air we breathe. He reveals in it.

I said we shall, by and by, average up, and
to a level, really, better than that of today, where our present genius will be very
commonplace, and where our present miseries will be every day affairs, and our present
luxuries will be common comforts. This will surely come about, for we shall be wise
enough to let it come about, and we shall
need to, to make it to come about. We are too far gone to go back, and
give up our love for being distinguished.
We must all do something
all be measured by achievement.
Right right if we can keep the average
ambition for what is intelligent and moral,
and not let it point for the brute force distinction.—"R. P. P." in Globe-Democrat.

Vegetable Wax in Japan
Japan wax is obtained from a tree, *Rhus
sacculata*, which is found in Japan, China
and throughout the East. The Japanese
call it Shin, and the Chinese call it Shin.
The tree comes to bear fruit when five or
six years old, and the wax is produced every
year, it is at fifty years a single
tree will produce 500 pounds of wax from
which seventy pounds of wax can be obtained. The wax is found in the middle of the berry, between the seed and the skin, like
the pulp of a grape. It is collected by boiling
the berries in water, and allowing it to
cool, when the wax separates out in a solid
mass. The specific gravity of the wax is 0.970, and its melting point 131 deg. Fahr.
It is largely used, either alone or mixed
with oil, by the Chinese in the manufacture
of candles. The principal port of export is
the city of Osaka, where, in 1896, nearly 5,000
pounds of the wax was shipped to London.—Scientific American.

TRANSPORTATION OF PASSENGERS.
Progress Made in Railway Travel—Modern
Improvements—The Climax.
Gen. Horace Porter, in Scribner's Magazine,
has an interesting article on the progress
made in railway passenger travel. There are some facts in it which will be interesting to those who now and then have occasion
to use the railway.

Sixty years ago the first locomotive engine
was used upon a railway built for passenger
transportation. At the beginning the locomotive was not given the monopoly in pulling trains, as now. It divided the honors
with the horse, the two forces being used inchangably. The original passenger car was a good deal, if not like the old stage coach.
But it was not long before American
progress discarded this old and inconvenient
model and adopted the long car, which is
the model on which all passenger cars are constructed. The public were not at first inclined to look with favor upon the new style
of locomotive transportation. The legislature of Pennsylvania refused to pass a law
authorizing it, and, finally, opposed the
idea refused to grant any aid, and the charters for several years subsequently. The railway traveler at a distance of a journey was
required to get out on his own feet, and the locomotive almost put out of the eyes of the traveler.

The cars were lighted at night by tallow
candles and heated in winter by box
coaches which transformed a car into a veritable oven. There were no hand brakes, and
the passenger was in a very awkward and inconvenient position. In 1851 an improved and efficient hand brake was adopted. In 1860 the air brake, operated and controlled by the engineer and conductor or any passenger, was brought into use. Improvements in the arrangement of the seats, the use of the telegraph
in the dispatching trains, and in other details of railway travel, have since been made.

A broad and water pipe is made by
dipping a piece of broad, flat iron in
molten lead, and then dipping it in water.
The lead is removed, and the pipe is left
at once and apply hot.

road, and added to the safety as well as to the comfort of the passenger.
The next object to be gained was luxury.
In 1850 berth cars were put upon the railway
from Harrisburg to Philadelphia. This private sleeping car was very comfortable. The stoutest companies had not the example.
They fitted up sleeping apartments for their passengers. In 1855 there was a further improvement in this direction. Finally, in due time and in a natural way, the present luxurious sleeping car grew out of the old berth
car. But the sleeping car was not the climax of railway travel. The hotel car is nearly at the top. A man nowadays on one of these cars can eat leisurely and with perfect comfort. The very apex of railway improvement is seen in the vestibuled train where one can walk from end to end without going out doors, and where the electric lights turn right into day.—Detroit Free Press.

Jim Keene Looking Up Again.
James R. Keene is looking up again as one of the leaders in Wall Street. Jim Keene has been a very big man in Wall Street in his time, and if he reports that he has slipped
under the shadows of the city hall he is true,
he will cut a much wider swath in the Wall Street market than for any time in his career. Keene is one of those uneasy, restless fellows who cannot sit still even under the administration of the chloroform of distress which often comes to people who get into the Wall Street market.

The paper immigration question will be investigated in Pittsburg. The Congressional committee will meet there, after the election, to take testimony. They may visit Connellville.

An Explanation.
What is this "nervous trouble" with
which so many seem now to be afflicted?
If you will remember a few years ago

Mr. Keene looked at him a second, and

For the Nervous, The Debilitated,

The mages of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other.
It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly
and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and it allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs, producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness, allowing
a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong, with you Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give an immediate relief.

Have been over here three years. He
has learned to write and to speak English
with a twang and a twist, but he has learned
something else, and he did not learn it all
over here. He has learned to abhor being
lost in the crowd. He must be individual.
He wants to be a marked man. He does
not have much moral force, but a good
deal of physical grit; he certainly does
know. He naturally turns to physical force as his lever. When he looks around,
with his passion to be free, he kicks
and storms. He has been under a good deal of repression abroad, but here he enjoys
what he calls being free—that is free to be
himself, all over and over, and everywhere.
He does not see that he cannot be quite himself without preventing others from being
quite themselves, and if they are quite themselves, it will encroach on him. The passion of individuality is abroad. It is the spirit of the air we breathe. He reveals in it.

I said we shall, by and by, average up, and
to a level, really, better than that of to-
day, where our present genius will be very
commonplace, and where our present mis-
eries will be every day affairs, and our present
luxuries will be common comforts. This
will surely come about, for we shall be wise
enough to let it come about, and we shall
need to, to make it to come about. We
are too far gone to go back, and
give up our love for being distinguished.
We must all do something
all be measured by achievement.
Right right if we can keep the average
ambition for what is intelligent and moral,
and not let it point for the brute force distinc-
tion.—"R. P. P." in Globe-Democrat.

Vegetable Wax in Japan
Japan wax is obtained from a tree, *Rhus
sacculata*, which is found in Japan, China
and throughout the East. The Japanese
call it Shin, and the Chinese call it Shin.
The tree comes to bear fruit when five or
six years old, and the wax is produced every
year, it is at fifty years a single
tree will produce 500 pounds of wax from
which seventy pounds of wax can be obtained. The wax is found in the middle of
the berry, between the seed and the skin, like
the pulp of a grape. It is collected by boiling
the berries in water, and allowing it to
cool, when the wax separates out in a solid
mass. The specific gravity of the wax is 0.970, and its melting point 131 deg. Fahr.
It is largely used, either alone or mixed
with oil, by the Chinese in the manufacture
of candles. The principal port of export is
the city of Osaka, where, in 1896, nearly 5,000
pounds of the wax was shipped to London.—Scientific American.

TRANSPORTATION OF PASSENGERS.
Progress Made in Railway Travel—Modern
Improvements—The Climax.
Gen. Horace Porter, in Scribner's Magazine,
has an interesting article on the progress
made in railway passenger travel. There
are some facts in it which will be interesting to those who now and then have occasion
to use the railway.

Sixty years ago the first locomotive engine
was used upon a railway built for passenger
transportation. At the beginning the loco-
motive was not given the monopoly in pull-
ing trains, as now. It divided the honors
with the horse, the two forces being used inchangably. The original passenger car was
a good deal, if not like the old stage coach.
But it was not long before American
progress discarded this old and inconvenient
model and adopted the long car, which is
the model on which all passenger cars are
constructed. The public were not at first inclined to look with favor upon the new style
of locomotive transportation. The legislature of Pennsylvania refused to pass a law
authorizing it, and, finally, opposed the
idea refused to grant any aid, and the
charters for several years subsequently. The
railway traveler at a distance of a journey was
required to get out on his own feet, and the
locomotive almost put out of the eyes of the
traveler.

The cars were lighted at night by tallow
candles and heated in winter by box
coaches which transformed a car into a veritable oven. There were no hand brakes, and
the passenger was in a very awkward and
inconvenient position. In 1851 an improved and efficient hand brake was adopted. In 1860 the
air brake, operated and controlled by the engineer and conductor or any passenger, was
brought into use. Improvements in the
arrangement of the seats, the use of the telegraph
in the dispatching trains, and in other details of railway travel, have since been made.

A broad and water pipe is made by
dipping a piece of broad, flat iron in
molten lead, and then dipping it in water.
The lead is removed, and the pipe is left
at once and apply hot.
