REMONSTRANCE TO WINTER.

BY J. MONTGOMERY.

AH! why, unfeeling Winter! why
Still flags thy torpid wing?
Fly, melancholy season, fly,
And yield the year to Spring.

Spring—the young cherubim of love,
An exile in disgrace,
Flits o'er the scene, like Noah's dove,
Nor finds a resting place.

When on the mountain's azure peak,
Alights her fairy form,
Cold blow the winds—and dark and bleak,
Around her rolls the storm.

If to the valley she repair
For shelter and defence,
Thy wrath pursues the mourner there,
And drives her weeping thence.

She seeks the brook—the faithless brook,
Of her unmindful grown,
Feels the chill magic of thy look,
And lingers into stone.

She woos her embryo flowers in vain,
To rear their infant heads;—
Deaf to her voice her flowers remain
Enchanted in their beds.

In vain the birds the trees expand
Their green luxuriant charms;—
Bare in the wilderness they stand,
And stretch their withering arms.

Her favourite birds, in feeble notes,
Lament thy long delay;
And strain their little flammering throats,
To charm thy blasts away.

Ah! Winter, calm thy cruel rage,
Release the struggling year;
Thy power is past, despicable!
Arise and disappear.

The stars that grac'd thy splendid night
Are lost in warmer rays;
The sun, rejoicing in his might Unrolls celestial days.

Then why, usurping Winter, why
Still flags thy frozen wing?
Fly, unrelenting tyrant, fly—
And yield the year to Spring.

A QUAKER WOMAN'S SERMON.

DEAR FRIENDS—There are three things I very much wonder at:—The first is, that children should be so foolish as to throw up stones, brick-bats and clubs into fruit trees to knock down the fruit; if they would let it alone; it would fall itself. The second is, that men should be so foolish and even wicked, as to go to war and kill one another; if they would only let one another alone, they would die of themselves. And the third and last thing, which I wonder most of all at is, that young Men should be so unwise as to go after the young Women; if they would only stay at home the young Women would come after them.

This is to give notice,

SAMUEL MACCUBBIN,
December 29, 1806.

IN COUNCIL, MARCH 20, 1807.

ORDERED, That the act, entitled, An act to prevent free negroes from selling any corn, wheat or tobacco, without having a licence for that purpose from a justice of the peace, and the Act to restrain the evil practices arising from negroes keeping dogs, and to prohibit them from carrying guns or offensive weapons, be published once in each week, until the first day of May next, in the Maryland Gazette, at Annapolis, the American and Federal Gazette, at Baltimore, the Republican Advocate, at Fredericktown, the Maryland Herald, at Hagerstown, and the Republican Star, at Easton.

By order, NINIAN PINKNEY,
Clerk of the council.

An ACT to prevent free negroes from selling any corn, wheat or tobacco, without having a licence for that purpose from a justice of the peace.

WHEREAS great inconvenience is felt in this state in consequence of free negroes receiving stolen corn, wheat and tobacco, from slaves, and selling the same as the production of their own labour; therefore,

Be it enacted, by the general assembly of Maryland, That from and after the first of May next, no free negro shall sell any corn, wheat or tobacco, unless, at the time of his or her so selling the said article or articles, he or she shall be possessed of a certificate, under the hand and seal of a justice of the peace of said county, that he or she is a peaceable and orderly person, and of good character, which certificate shall be of force for one year, and no longer.

And be it enacted, That if any free negro shall act contrary to the provisions of this act, the person so offending shall incur the penalty of five dollars for every such offence, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the use of the county, and to be recovered as other fines and forfeitures, before a justice of the peace in the county where such offence shall be committed.

And be it enacted, That any person who shall purchase or receive from any free negro any corn, wheat or tobacco, contrary to the provisions of this act, shall forfeit and pay, for every offence, the sum of ten dollars, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the use of the county in which such offence was committed, and to be recovered and applied in the same manner as other fines and forfeitures are by this law directed to be recovered and applied.

And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of every justice of the peace, sheriff and constable, to give information of every violation of this act that shall come to his knowledge.

An ACT to restrain the evil practices arising from negroes keeping dogs, and to prohibit them from carrying guns or offensive weapons.

BE it enacted, by the general assembly of Maryland, That after the first day of May next, it shall not be lawful for any negro or mulatto within this state to keep any dog, bitch or gun, except he be a free negro or mulatto, and in that case he may be permitted to keep one dog, provided such free negro or mulatto shall obtain a licence from a justice of the peace for that purpose, and that the said licence shall be in force for one year, and no longer; and if any dog or bitch owned by any negro, not possessed of such licence, shall be seen going at large, it shall and may be lawful for any person to kill the same, and in case of any suit instituted therefor, the person or persons killing the said dog or bitch may plead the general issue, and give this act in evidence.

And be it enacted, That after the said first day of May next, it shall not be lawful for any free negro or mulatto to go at large with any gun, or other offensive weapon; and in case any free negro or mulatto shall be seen going at large carrying a gun or other offensive weapon, he shall be liable to be carried before any magistrate, in virtue of a warrant to be issued by any justice of the peace, directed to a constable of the county, and on conviction of having violated the provisions of this section of the act, such offender shall thereupon forfeit, to the use of the informant, such gun, or other offensive weapon, which shall thus have been found in his or her possession, and be subject to the payment of the costs which shall have accrued in such prosecution; provided that nothing in this act shall extend to prevent any free negro or mulatto from carrying a gun, or other offensive weapon, who shall, at the time of his carrying the same, have a certificate from a justice of the peace, that he is an orderly and peaceable person, which certificate shall be in force for one year from the date thereof, and no longer.

And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the constable of every hundred to repair once a month, and oftener if information be given him of tumultuous meetings of mulattoes, negroes or slaves, to all suspected places within his hundred, and if he shall find any mulatto or negro not a slave, at any such meeting, it shall be the duty of the constable forthwith to carry such mulatto or negro, so offending, before some magistrate of the county, who shall thereupon commit such person to the common goal, unless he or she shall enter into a recognizance, with such security as said justice shall require, for his or her good behaviour, and also to appear before the next county court, to answer for such offence in such manner as is prescribed by law for the trial of crimes and misdemeanors within this state, and if such person shall be found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this act, he shall be fined, or imprisoned, for such offence, at the discretion of the court; and if such constable shall find at any such meeting as aforesaid, any slave besides those belonging to the owner of such place, not having permission in writing from his owner or overseer, it shall be lawful for the constable, and he is hereby authorized and required, to whip every such slave, at his discretion, not exceeding thirty-nine lashes.

And be it enacted, That before any constable shall be entitled to receive the allowance granted by the fourth section of the act, entitled, An act to prevent the tumultuous meetings and other irregularities of negroes and other slaves, he shall produce a certificate from at least two respectable citizens of his hundred, of his industry and fidelity in the discharge of his duty under this act and the act above recited.

And, for a further encouragement to take up runaways, Be it enacted, That in lieu of two hundred pounds of tobacco, allowed by the act, entitled, An act relating to servants and slaves, any person seizing and taking up such runaways, shall have and receive six dollars.

FARMERS BANK OF MARYLAND.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the books will be opened at Annapolis on Monday, the thirteenth day of April next, and continue open the next day, for the disposal of the number of shares remaining unsubscribed in the Farmers Bank, on the western shore, the subscriptions to be taken at the Bank between the hours of ten and five each day, the subscribers to pay ten dollars on each share, at the time of subscribing, and the residue as follows, to wit: ten dollars on the thirteenth day of June, ten dollars on the thirteenth day of August, ten dollars on the twelfth day of October, and ten dollars on the twelfth day of December next, but reserving to any subscriber the liberty of paying at any one of those days, the whole of his subscription then due. The shares which may be subscribed above the number limited to be reduced by a proportional deduction throughout the several counties on the western shore, or by lot, if necessary, and the monies that may be paid thereon to be immediately repaid at the Bank.

If any stockholder shall fail to make regular payment of any installment, (after the first payment) such stockholder's money in Bank shall remain free from interest, and not entitled to dividend, until such installment, or call, shall be made good, and the dividend thereafter to be paid to such stockholder (as well upon the money by him regularly paid as upon the money paid after default) shall be calculated only from the time when said last installment was made good.

The subscribed shares of the Farmers Bank having already risen above par, and being in great demand, the directors deemed it to be their duty to give every facility in their power to the citizens of every part of the western shore, to become proprietors of a stock, to which experience has already attached an high degree of confidence and an enhanced value, and which from every appearance, would rapidly appreciate, whenever the subscription of the surplus shares should remove the possibility of procuring the stock at a lower value, than the successful management of the institution, and the public opinion should have conferred on it. Notwithstanding, therefore, that the charter directed that the subscription books for this stock shall be opened at Annapolis, yet the directors held themselves at liberty, and have determined it to be their duty, to devise means to accommodate the citizens of the several counties, who might wish to subscribe, but who cannot attend at Annapolis; in conformity, therefore, to a determination that had already obtained at a joint meeting of the directors of the Bank and Branch Bank, on a similar occasion, the board have adopted the following resolution:

That the directors for the several counties on the western shore, be authorized and directed to receive, in their respective counties, from all persons who may offer to subscribe for stock in the Farmers Bank, on the day or days appointed for subscribing, powers of attorney, enabling some person to subscribe for them at Annapolis, and also to receive from persons disposed to subscribe, the sums which are made payable, on subscriptions personally made, and all subscriptions made under powers as aforesaid, shall be held and deemed as valid, as if made by the individuals themselves at Annapolis.

ILLNESS OF BUONAPARTE.

THE London Sunday Review of Jan. 25, says—
"Thro' an authentic channel, we have received advice that Buonaparte's health has been so much impaired by the fatigue and anxiety to which he has of late been exposed, as to impel his medical attendants with the most serious apprehensions for his safety. He has for sometime laboured under a dropical complaint; and contrary to the advice of his physicians, persists in a profuse use of opium. He also drinks excessive quantities of coffee, without either sugar or cream; a practice which is supposed to have contributed to that languor and debility which occasionally oppresses him in such a degree, as to render him incapable of any ordinary exertion."

The following paragraphs are extracted from London articles received by the Liverpool Packet.—[N. T. G.]

Still are we without any official advices from the continent.—Yet accounts continue to be received from various parts of success of the Russians after the 26th of December.—One letter from a house in Germany, dated the 23d ult. states, "that the French lost nine generals in the battles immediately subsequent to that of the 26th December, but not a word more to their mention of their loss. Davoust attacked the centre of the Russian army, on which this division engaged fighting; but they bro't both their wings to bear on Davoust's rear, and ultimately defeated him with great loss." Another letter says, that it was on the 18th December, "that the fortune of war changed in favour of the Russian army, and continued decided to till the 30th, the date of the last dispatches from the scene of action, which at that time had removed nearer Warsaw, to which city the French had retreated, after suffering repeated defeats."

General Menstein, the commander of Dantzic, has published a bulletin, announcing intelligence from Konigsberg, of another total defeat of the French by the Russians, after fighting from the 27th to the 30th December.—The editor of the French paper Altona, also received a letter containing the particulars of the above defeat; but the French minister lifted that the whole was a falsehood, and had it suppressed.—According to this letter, marshal Kaminsky, by a masterly manœuvre with the centre and wing of the Russian army is said to have turned and surrounded three corps of the French army, namely, those of Davoust, Ney, and Soult; to have killed upwards of 40,000, and taken 20,000 prisoners among the latter is said to be Davoust himself.

Dispatches were also received on Friday from Mr. Blair, which intimate that a victory had been gained by the Russians after the 26th. The Russian general is said to have been bought by the French, and to have been detected by the general in chief, Kaminsky, when on the point of leaving to the French the sole of the Russian magazines, by withdrawing the sword. Kaminsky, it is said, took his sword from him with his own hands, and sent him in irons to St. Petersburg, and the French, when they made their attack, experienced the most formidable resistance, which ended in a complete defeat. Great disorder is said to have prevailed in the French army, particularly amongst the emperor's guards, who insisted on winning quarters, and of five of the columns employed in attack, three were defeated, and one had refused advance.

By the mail from Hufum, which arrived on Friday, and brought letters from Hamburg to the 23d, accounts from Warsaw of the 8th, the fact, that the French have sustained a signal defeat in Poland, is farther confirmed. All the accounts published in the Hamburg papers are, as might be supposed, very silent as to any defeat of the French; but master of a Danish vessel which arrived on Friday in the river, has affirmed, that before he sailed on Elsinore on the 21st, he saw a printed official account of the particulars of the victory obtained by the Russians. It was shewn to him by the commandant of the place, and agrees with the substance of the reports which have already appeared. After arrival of the mail on Friday, a note, of which the following is a copy, was circulated among the officers:

January 30.—Various accounts received this morning confirm the defeat of the French at Ostrolenka, the official details are not yet arrived. Letters from Dantzick mention, that 40,000 French prisoners were marched into Konigsberg. Buonaparte was on the 8th of January; but the Russians crossed the Vistula, and an engagement took place on the 7th of January at Szakahow, on the 10th to Posen, which is said to have terminated to the disadvantage of the French."

PENNSYLVANIA AFFAIRS.

The committee of inquiry into the governor's conduct made report this morning—the charges are,

1. The use of the fac simile.
2. The appointment of Dr. Buchanan.
3. The removal of Dr. Reynolds.
4. The overtures made to Duane to withdraw a criminal prosecution against him, on condition that he would discontinue his suits against J. B. McKean and others.
5. Setting aside the election of Wolbert, for which the committee think the governor had not a shadow of cause.
6. Sending a blank commission to be filled up by J. B. McKean, to examine witnesses respecting the contested election of sheriff.
7. Issuing a warrant for the arrest of Cabrera, and afterwards dispensing with the rules of the prison with respect to him.

Silk Worms.

It is strongly recommended to the overseers, directors and managers, of the Poor-Houses in the United States, to plant the white Italian mulberry tree in abundance round their grounds. This tree affords the proper food of the silk-worm. The raising of silk-worms, and the production of silk, will afford an easy and profitable employment to the aged, the infirm, the sickly, the weak, the young and the lame. The tree will grow to the size of six inches in diameter, from the seed, in seven years, and the wood is one of the most valuable, for posts, ship-building, and other useful purposes. [Press.]

American Brewing.

It is established by fair and successful experiments, that a bright, pale and delightful ale, can be manufactured from the Indian corn, (or maize) of the U. States. These trials have been actually made by a capital brewing house of this city. Our ability to supply ourselves with a most agreeable and wholesome malt liquor, from a never-failing and cheap raw material, unlimited in quantity, will render it perfectly easy to do, when we please, with much less foreign distilled spirits. These destroy our morals and injure our agriculture; while our own malt liquors, nourish us in health, and support the farmers and planters. Manufacturers have become a mine of riches to this country; and they are a mean in our hands to check the invaders of our neutral rights.—If they should continue to be invaders. [Press.]

General Miranda.

By a gentleman just arrived in this city from Trinidad, and whose information is entitled to the fullest credit, from his personal and particular acquaintance with the officers and other principal persons attached to the late expedition of Miranda, we have the following information: That general Miranda was at Trinidad when our informant left there—and that he was in daily expectation of receiving a reinforcement of between 8 and 10,000 men from England, under the order of gen. Tucker, and which were said to have sailed, but had been detained by adverse winds; that on the arrival of these troops Miranda would immediately undertake a second expedition against the Spanish dominions of South America—and that it was the concurrent opinion, of those qualified to form a correct one, that with this respectable force the general would be able to crown his enterprise with complete and speedy success. Miranda had been appointed to the rank of major-general by the English government. The failure of his late attempt to liberate his countrymen from Spanish oppression in that part of the world, was attributed wholly to the smallness of the forces with which it was attempted, as they did not, altogether, amount to 500 men.—Great numbers of the natives, and those friendly to his project had frequently joined the standard of Miranda, but could not be induced to continue their fidelity, as they could feel no certainty of protection from such a handful of men, against the troops and threatened vengeance of the Spanish government. [N. T. pap.]

A bill for abolishing the slave trade has passed the English house of lords. Vessels employed in that iniquitous traffic (so contrary to justice, humanity, and sound policy) must clear out from British ports for Africa previous to the first of May next, and complete their lading in Africa and their voyage from thence to the W. Indies previous to the first of Jan. 1808, after which period the trade becomes contrary law. An exception, however, is made in favour of cases where, by capture, loss of the vessel, or other unavoidable accident, (the proof to lie on the party) the completion of the voyage to the West-Indies within the time limited may have been prevented.

DIED, on the 15th ult. at the house of capt. Levi Palmer, of East-Haddam, (Connecticut,) widow MARY SPARROW, relict of the late N. Sparrow, of that town. The circumstances attending the death of this woman are deemed so important as to merit the notice of the public; and it is not improbable they will excite to astonishment the medical faculty, and prompt to industrious researches with a view to a correct elucidation of this singular medical phenomenon. She was corpulent to a very unusual degree: in her person and house-wifery she was very neat and tidy. She never had any children; and, during the greatest part of her life, had lived in circumstances of competence. For about one year previous to her decease, she had been troubled with a difficulty, in the deglutition of swallowing; and when the swallowed, either solid or liquid substances, the effort was attended with an uneasy sensation. This difficulty of deglutition had increased for several of the last months of her life; and, during the same period, was often succeeded by retching, and a rejection of what she had swallowed. Medical aid, although faithfully administered, did not afford relief. On dissection, which was performed in the presence, and by the assistance, of Thomas Moseley, M. D. (late president of the Con. Med. Society) Doctors Augustus Mather, and his son, Ozias Mather; all of East-Haddam, and Robert Usher, of Chatham, the following was discovered:

Appearances after dissection.

On laying open the integuments, the stomach appeared considerably distended. On the left side, were several hydatides attached to the stomach on the outside, the contents of which were various. Of some they were thin and transparent; of others, oily and glutinous; and the matter contained in one was purulent. Some of these contents were foetid, whilst others were free from foetor. The largest hydatide contained a dark coloured water, about half a pint in quantity. A schirrus was formed upon and round the left orifice of the stomach, which extended to a considerable distance.—The stomach, on being laid open, was found to contain about a pint and an half of a yellowish, unctuous mucus, immersed in which were TWO BALLS OF HAIR—one about the size of a goose's, the other of a hen's egg. This hair, (some of which the writer of this article has seen) is of a brown colour, with rather a reddish cast resembling cattle's hair, is nearly of an equal length, (about two inches) and on being examined with a microscope, it evidently exhibits the radical, and the pointed end, common to hair of that description. In that portion of which the writer has seen, some few hairs were of a darker complexion than the generality of them. Whence it originated, or how it was conveyed into the stomach, in such a quantity, are questions which the writer will not attempt to answer. At first view, it may, perhaps, appear easy to the reader to solve these queries. But after maturely reflecting on the subject, difficulties will, probably, suggest themselves to his mind, which it will not be easy to obviate. It is, certainly, a very rare occurrence, and will, doubtless, give rise to different opinions among men of science.

Instances, something of a similar nature, are recorded by different writers. RUYSCU mentions a tumour which was taken from a man's stomach that contained hair and teeth; which tumour he had preserved in his collection. Tumours similar to the last mentioned, have been found in the ovaria—and BAILLIE mentions one (among others) which he had himself discovered, containing hair mixed with a fatty substance, and the body of a tooth covered with the enamel. I find no mention of any tumour of this description, which did not contain a bony substance also, whether it was lodged in the stomach or ovarium. But in the instance here recorded, there appears to have been nothing of the kind. In this respect, so far as I am informed, it stands alone.

The fluid contents of the stomach, in which these extraordinary balls were immersed, on being exposed to the air for a short time, in a vessel in which it had been temporarily deposited for convenience, became a congealed mass, of nearly the consistence of tallow. Unfortunately this hair was distributed in different parcels to individuals, and was not accurately weighed. It is supposed, however, from weighing, as was judged, about one third, that the whole, after it was dry, was six drachms.

The subject of this singular calamity, during her indisposition, I am informed, frequently mentioned that she distinctly perceived the motion of globular substances, or (as she expressed it) "balls," in her stomach; but never intimated any thing which gave rise to a belief that she had any suspicion of their nature. Her fears of dying, which were strong, seem to preclude all reasonable suspicion that she had designedly swallowed the hair which was found in her stomach after death. It is, indeed, hardly credible that she should. I have now communicated the case, faithfully, to the public, and shall leave it with them, without hazarding any conjectures of my own.

It is but justice to say, that during her continuance off this port, for upwards of 6 months, the crew, who occasionally came on shore, conducted themselves in the most peaceable and correct manner.

"We experienced much bad weather in the early part of the voyage, and several of the transports sustained some damage, in consequence of running foul of each other in the night, the weather being very foggy. The wind was so unfavourable, that the fleet did not arrive off Madeira until the 5th of December. The commodore sent off the Paulina sloop, and the two schooners, with two store transports, for the purpose of obtaining wine for the fleet, but these vessels were unfortunately blown off the island, and did not overtake the fleet until a considerable time after their arrival here. After suffering a severe gale off Madeira from the northward, the fleet reached the island of Palma early on the 7th. Here we fell in with the Nereide frigate, which had parted from the fleet very early in the voyage.—Off Madeira, she had fallen in with and taken a Spanish privateer, and a merchantman, the former of which, being dismantled by the captors, was given up to the prisoners, who were allowed to depart—the other has since been brought in here; she is laden with provisions.

"We are perfectly ignorant where we are yet detained. We are wearied with conjecture. The fleet is completely watered, and we are now only waiting for the arrival of admiral Murray, who is daily expected."

Miss Drew was in the bloom of life—lovely and beloved—a pattern for innocence—the pride of her relations, and the admiration of all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

Honourable to Humanity.
The fire at Detroit the 1st of June, 1805, consumed the houses on 25 streets, lanes and alleys. Sixteen human beings were burnt, and cows, horses, and sheep shared the same fate.—The wretched inhabitants escaped with only their linen on their backs. A tribe of the Delaware Indians, who lived within five miles of Detroit, held a council the next day, and came to a resolution to relieve the sufferers, and on the third day after the fire, sent 18 milch cows, twenty-five sheep, with turkeys, chickens, and other necessities, to their relief; major Campbell, the commandant at Fort Malden on the British side of the river, also contributed to their relief, and sent them five boat loads of cloaths, shoes, and other useful articles.

The schooner Concord, Warrell, arrived at Baltimore, in 36 days from Kingston, (Jam.) informs that the evening before he sailed, the Mediator and Bacchante frigates arrived at Port Royal from Sumana, which place they had attacked, demolished the forts, and spiked the guns; took four prizes, two French privateers and an American ship and schooner belonging to New-York, which they loaded with what coffee was in the place and brought them off.

This morning, the fourth day of APRIL, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seven, fifty cords of oak wood might have been sold for TWELVE DOLLARS per cord, had it been at market. Owing to the late stormy weather there was not one stick of wood to be purchased in Baltimore. Such however appeared the result of the most diligent search and earnest inquiry. More persons are suffering for want of wood this day than at any former one during the whole winter. It seems as if Old January was paying Miss April a visit.

The fate of this young man is much to be regretted: he had studied law, with Mr. Mafon, of George-town, and from his amiable manners and good talents, he bid fair becoming eminent in the line of his profession. [Alex. paper.]

We are happy to record an exploit, performed by the officers and crew of his majesty's ship Galatea, which for cool intrepidity, is not perhaps excelled by any to be found in the annals of naval history. On the 21st January, while cruising to the eastward of Cape Cadiro on the Spanish main, this ship fell in with and chafed the French national brig Lynx, but a calm coming on and the enemy using their sweeps, capt. Savers, of the Galatea, ordered the boats to be hoisted out and manned. At 2 P. M. five of these with 70 men under the command of lieutenant Combe, proceeded after the brig, and it was not until half past ten at night, and after having rowed near 40 miles, that they came up with her. A rowing party of 40 men, under the command of lieutenant Combe, proceeded after the brig, and it was not until half past ten at night, and after having rowed near 40 miles, that they came up with her. BOSTON, March 25.

The season, which has been so cold in this country, has been unusually mild in Europe, so that in England, in January, not only primroses, but wall flowers were in bloom; and at Orslington, there was a field of peas, partly in full bloom. In this part of America, we have not had a comfortable warm day for upwards of three months; and the earth was never more deeply frozen than at this moment.

The whole number of Literary insurgents have been dismissed from the walls of the College, until a board of trustees, to be immediately convened, shall give a decision on the subject. We sincerely regret that any thing should have occurred to tarnish the reputation, or interrupt the progress of so respectable and useful a seminary of learning.

Family Medicine.

Just received from RICHARD LEE and SON, and for Sale by

Gideon White, Church-street,

An Assortment of PATENT MEDICINE.—
For the prevention and cure of bilious and malignant fevers, is recommended

Lee's Anti-Bilious Pills.

Each article has on the outside wrapper, the signature of

RICHARD LEE and SON.

Without which, none are genuine.

Prepared by Richard Lee and Son, Baltimore.

PERSONS wishing to purchase this valuable medicine, are requested to be particular in inquiring for Lee's anti-bilious pills, put up in wooden boxes, having on the outside wrapper the signature Richard Lee and Son—this is necessary, as there are other pills of the same name.

THE operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—produce a free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds, which are often of fatal consequences—a dose never fails to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. They are celebrated for removing habitual coliciveness—sickness at the stomach and severe headache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Messrs. Richard Lee and Son.

The high opinion I have of your bilious pills, and a desire to make known their utility for the benefit of mankind, I wish you to publish the following:

For two months past, I have been afflicted with a violent sickness at the stomach, an inclination to vomit, and a loss of appetite—by taking two doses of your pills, I am restored to a perfect state of health—which induced my wife to try them also, which was attended with the same good effects, being now able to attend to her domestic concerns: in my opinion, this medicine is unequalled in stomach and bowel complaints, not being attended with that griping pain, common to other remedies.

the said act, a schedule of his property, and a list of his creditors, on oath, as far as he can ascertain them, as directed by the said act, being annexed to his petition, and the said county court being satisfied, the said court, that the said Levin Covington Wailes give notice to his creditors of his intention to apply to the next county court, to be held at Prince-Frederick-town, in the said county, on the second Monday in May next, for a discharge from his debts, and to warn his said creditors to appear before the judges of the said court, on the day and at the place aforesaid, to shew cause, if any they have, why the said

Levin Covington Wailes should not be discharged agreeable to his said petition, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in the Maryland Gazette, and the Telegraph in Baltimore, four successive weeks previous to the fitting of the said court, and also by putting copies of said order to be set up at past favours, and hopes, by strict attention to busi-

SONG.

TUNE—The Humours of Glen.

HOW sweet, on the mountains, when heath-bells are glowing,
To wander and lift to the busy wild bee.
Or stray through the grove where the wild flowers are blowing,
And catch the rich odours that float on the breeze!

Tho' sweet be the breeze from the bosom of roses,

Enchanting the hum of wild bees on the hill,

O MARY, my MARY, far sweeter than those is,

Far purer than dew gems that shine o'er the rill.

Not the glow of the pink nor the snow of the lily

Can match her soft cheek—or the glow of her eyes!

When she flies, on the wings of a Sylph, through the valley,

To glad the poor cottage where misery lies.

O daughter of beauty, compassion's fair blossom!

Can pity, soft pity alone thy heart move?

O come and repose thy young cares on my bosom;

I'll cherish them there till they bloom into love.

ANECDOTE.

WHEN Addison became secretary of state, his old school mistress, being far advanced in years, grew very deaf. A friend who one day called upon her, told her that her little favourite was now a great man, and a great writer. "Aye (said she) I always thought Jofey was born to be a great man, he was a mighty clever boy, and a deal of pains I took with him; do you know, that before he left me he read very near as well as I did—but pray what has he written?" "Why, The Spectators." "The Spectators."—"Speak a little louder pray."—"The eight volumes of the Spectators." "Dear me! Dear me! eight volumes about potatoes? what could he find to say! But I always said Jofey was a clever boy."

BARK.

THE subscriber wants, this Spring, eighty or one hundred cords of good Spanish, water, black or white oak bark, he will give from seven to nine dollars per cord, or at any rate he will give one dollar more than the Baltimore price, if brought to this city; any one having that article to dispose of,
within twenty miles of Annapolis, and find it inconvenient to peel or deliver it, he will get it himself, and give a good price in proportion.

IN COUNCIL, MARCH 20, 1807.
ORDERED, That the act, entitled, An act to prevent free negroes from selling any corn, wheat or tobacco, without having a licence for that purpose from a justice of the peace, and the Act to restrain the evil practices arising from negroes keeping dogs, and to prohibit them from carrying guns or offensive weapons, be published once in each week, until the first day of May next, in the Maryland Gazette, at Annapolis, the American and Federal Gazette, at Baltimore, the Republican Advocate, at Fredericktown, the Maryland Herald, at Hagerstown, and Republican Star, at Easton.
By order, NINIAN PINKNEY, Clerk of the council.

An ACT to prevent free negroes from selling any corn, wheat or tobacco, without having a licence for that purpose from a justice of the peace.

WHEREAS great inconvenience is felt in this State in consequence of free negroes receiving stolen corn, wheat and tobacco, from slaves, and selling the same as the production of their own labour; therefore,
Be it enacted, by the general assembly of Maryland, That from and after the first of May next, no free negro shall sell any corn, wheat or tobacco, unless, at the time of his or her so selling a certificate, under the hand and seal of a justice of the peace of said county, that he or she is a peaceable and orderly person, and of good character, which certificate shall be of force for one year, and no longer.

And be it enacted, That if any free negro shall act contrary to the provisions of this act, the person so offending shall incur the penalty of five dollars for every such offence, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the use of the county, and to be recovered as other fines and forfeitures, before a justice of the peace in the county where such offence shall be committed.

And be it enacted, That any person who shall purchase or receive from any free negro any corn, wheat or tobacco, contrary to the provisions of this act, shall forfeit and pay, for every offence, the sum of ten dollars, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the use of the county in which such offence was committed, and to be recovered and applied in the same manner as other fines and forfeitures are by this law directed to be recovered and applied.

And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of every justice of the peace, sheriff and constable, to give information of every violation of this act that shall come to his knowledge.

An ACT to restrain the evil practices arising from negroes keeping dogs, and to prohibit them from carrying guns or offensive weapons.

BE it enacted, by the general assembly of Maryland, That after the first day of May next, it shall not be lawful for any negro or mulatto within this State to keep any dog, bitch or gun, except he be a free negro or mulatto, and in that case he may be permitted to keep one dog, provided such free negro or mulatto shall obtain a licence from a justice of the peace for that purpose, and that the said licence shall be in force for one year, and no longer; and if any dog or bitch owned by any negro, not possessed of such licence, shall be seen going at large, it shall and may be lawful for any person to kill the same, and in case of any suit instituted therefor, the person or persons killing the said dog or bitch may plead the general issue, and give this act in evidence.

And be it enacted, That after the said first day of May next, it shall not be lawful for any free negro or mulatto to go at large with any gun, or other offensive weapon; and in case any free negro or mulatto shall be seen going at large carrying a gun or other offensive weapon, he shall be liable to be carried before any magistrate, in virtue of a warrant to be issued by any justice of the peace, directed to a constable of the county, and on conviction of having violated the provisions of this section of the act, such offender shall thereupon forfeit, to the use of the informant, such gun, or other offensive weapon, which shall thus have been found in his or her possession, and be subject to the payment of the costs which shall have accrued in such prosecution; provided that nothing in this act shall extend to prevent any free negro or mulatto from carrying a gun, or other offensive weapon, who shall, at the time of his carrying the same, have a certificate from a justice of the peace, that he is an orderly and peaceable person, which certificate shall be in force for one year from the date thereof, and no longer.

And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the constable of every hundred to repair once a month, and oftener if information be given him of tumultuous meetings of mulattoes, negroes or slaves, to all suspected places within his hundred, and if he shall find any mulatto or negro not a slave, at any such meeting, it shall be the duty of the constable forthwith to carry such mulatto or negro, so offending, before some magistrate of the county, who shall thereupon commit such person to the common gaol, unless he or she shall enter into a recognizance, with such security as said justice shall require, for his or her good behaviour, and also to appear before the next county court, to answer for such offence in such manner as is prescribed by law for the trial of crimes and misdemeanors within this State, and if such person shall be found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this act, he shall be fined, or imprisoned, for such offence, at the discretion of the court; and if such constable shall find at any such meeting as aforesaid, any slave besides those belonging to the owner of such place, not having permission in writing from his owner or overseer, it shall be lawful for the constable, and he is hereby authorized and required, to whip every such slave, at his discretion, not exceeding thirty-nine lashes.

And be it enacted, That before any constable shall be entitled to receive the allowance granted by the fourth section of the act, entitled, An act to prevent the tumultuous meetings and other irregularities of the negroes and other slaves, he shall produce a certificate from at least two respectable citizens of his hundred, of his industry and fidelity in the discharge of his duty under this act and the act above recited.

And, for a further encouragement to take up runaways, Be it enacted, That in lieu of two hundred pounds of tobacco, allowed by the act, entitled, An act relating to servants and slaves, any person seizing and taking up such runaways, shall have and receive six dollars.

FARMERS BANK OF MARYLAND.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the books will be opened at Annapolis on Monday, the thirteenth day of April next, and continue open the next day, for the disposal of the number of shares remaining unsubscribed in the Farmers Bank, on the western shore, the subscriptions to be taken at the Bank between the hours of ten and five each day, the subscribers to pay ten dollars on each share, at the time of subscribing, and the residue as follows, to wit: ten dollars on the thirteenth day of June, ten dollars on the thirteenth day of August, ten dollars on the thirteenth day of October, and ten dollars on the twelfth day of December next, but reserving to any subscriber the liberty of paying at any one of those days, the whole of his subscription then due. The shares which may be subscribed above the number limited to be reduced by a proportional deduction throughout the several counties on the western shore, or by lot, if necessary, and the monies that may be paid thereon to be immediately repaid at the Bank.

If any stockholder shall fail to make regular payment of any instalment, (after the first payment) such stockholder's money in Bank shall remain free from interest, and not entitled to dividend, until such instalment, or call, shall be made good, and the dividend thereafter to be paid to such stockholder (as well upon the money by him regularly paid as upon the money paid after default) shall be calculated only from the time when said last instalment was made good.

The subscribed shares of the Farmers Bank having already risen above par, and being in great demand, the directors deemed it to be their duty to give every facility in their power to the citizens of every part of the western shore, to become proprietors of a stock, to which experience has already attached an high degree of confidence and an enhanced value, and which from every appearance, would rapidly appreciate, whenever the subscription of the surplus shares should remove the possibility of procuring the stock at a lower value, than the successful management of the institution, and the public opinion should have conferred on it. Notwithstanding, therefore, that the charter directed that the subscription books for this stock shall be opened at Annapolis, yet the directors held themselves at liberty, and have determined it to be their duty, to devise means to accommodate the citizens of the several counties who might wish to subscribe, but who cannot attend at Annapolis; in conformity, therefore, to a determination that had already obtained at a joint meeting of the directors of the Bank and Branch Bank, on a similar occasion, the board have adopted the following resolution:

That the directors for the several counties on the western shore, be authorized and directed to receive, in their respective counties, from all persons who may offer to subscribe for stock in the Farmers Bank, on the day or days appointed for subscribing, powers of attorney, enabling some person to subscribe for them at Annapolis, and also to receive from persons so disposed to subscribe, the sums which are made payable, on subscriptions personally made, and all subscriptions made under powers as aforesaid, shall be held and deemed as valid, as if made by the individuals themselves at Annapolis.

The trustees of the University of Pennsylvania, with a liberality which does them great honour, have lately expended the sum of twenty thousand dollars, on an elegant, spacious, and commodious building for the accommodation of the Medical Professors and students of Physic, who this winter amounted to two hundred and sixty, an increase of fifty, since the last season.

Near one hundred thousand dollars are annually brought into our city by the medical gentlemen from various parts of the United States.

Louisiana Sugar.

The United States formerly apprehended that they should want the necessary supplies of brown sugars. It is therefore with pleasure that we learn, that the quantity of sugar made in Louisiana amounts to a full qr. part of our consumption. It is easy to see, that the production of our sugar will rapidly increase, to be equal to our demand. Already it is beginning to be a favour to foreign states to be allowed to import their sugars into this country. We hope to see white farmers raising crops of sugar.

[Press.]

Major Perkins, who resides within a few miles of Stoddert and of the Spanish line has represented us the temper of the people of the Mississippi territory. They conceive themselves oppressed by the public set of duties, which they pay for all the imports and exports that navigate the Mobile; but these complaints have always been restrained by a proper respect for their government. They desire a free navigation of the Mobile, undisturbed by Spanish impositions. They desire to see the Floridas delivered from their Spanish neighbours, and placed under their own government. This spirit waits only the proclamation of a war, to start into action and to fill our camp with bold and resolute Volunteers. But they are good citizens. They will not commit the prosperity of their country by attacking a nation with whom our government is at peace. So long as peace continues, they will obey the continued authorities of their country; but when that country shall let "slip the dogs of war," the Floridas must have a much abler and more numerous set of soldiers than at present to defend them to preserve them from an immediate conquest.

It is most likely that our negotiations with Spain have been suspended by Buonaparte's visit to Poland; and that the result will not be ascertained until two or three months after his return to Paris.

Remarkable Occurrences.

The tide for several days last week has been considerably lower than ever before recollected. Saturday we counted 129 men wading for oysters on the New-York oyster banks, and the shores lined with carts to receive them.

Common oak wood was felling on Saturday for five dollars a load, which is at the rate of 20 dollars a cord; and almost every house is now without this article.

We learn from Newburgh that on the 3d inst. the snow was left three feet deep—and that the sleighing was excellent. The roads were crowded with loads of produce coming to the different landings.

A few days since, 70 tons of streaked bafs were taken in one net, and at one haul, near Stonington, most of which were brought to our market, and sold very cheap. This "miraculous draught of fishes," was valued at 8000 dollars!—The net was made and is owned, by a respectable company of fishermen and is 300 fathoms in length, and 6 deep.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

House of Representatives.

Monday, April 6.

The resolution offered a few days ago by Boileau, prohibiting the reading in any court of this commonwealth of any precedents or cases of law except decisions in courts within the United States, was taken up for consideration and adopted—Yeas 51, nays 33.

The "act to extend the right of peremptory challenge to cases not hitherto not provided for," which had passed both houses and was returned by the governor with his objections, was re-considered in the senate where it originated, and lost for want of a constitutional majority.

The act declared that in prosecutions for felony not capital the accused shall have the right to challenge ten jurors peremptorily, and that in prosecutions below felony, the defendant shall have the right to challenge six jurors, and that in all civil cases the plaintiff and defendant each shall have the right to challenge four jurors peremptorily.

Wednesday, April 8.

Yesterday morning the house resolved itself into a committee of the whole upon the report of the committee of inquiry into the governor's conduct, and the resolution, viz. Resolved—that THOMAS M'KEAN, Governor of this commonwealth, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors.

The resolution was opposed by Messrs. Biddle, Ing-ham, C. Smith and Binney, and supported by Messrs. Leib and Lacock. The committee rose at 8 o'clock last evening and had leave to sit again this morning. After some further discussion to-day, when the question was about to be taken, Boileau, having expressed his opinion in favour of the resolution, moved that the committee rise for the purpose of referring the subject to the attention of the next legislature. This motion was lost, and on taking the question upon the resolution the roll was called and 44 voted in favour of the resolution and 40 against it. The committee then rose and reported their agreement to the resolution, when Boileau renewed his motion to refer it to the next legislature. A motion was then made to postpone the question until to-morrow, which was agreed to.

The resolution relative to the reading of precedents and law cases, in the courts of this state, was adopted in the senate.

From the New-Orleans Gazette of March 6, received at New-York by the brig Mary.

On Monday last, before the district court of the United States in this city, came on the trial of col. Lewis Kerr, on a charge of having "set on foot an expedition against the Spanish possessions in America." The trial lasted two days, and the jury, after a retirement of only a few minutes, returned with a verdict of not guilty. The cause had been tried about a fortnight ago, in the same court, and lasted five days. But the jury could not agree, and after having remained out four days more, were discharged by the court, and a new jury was called. The last trial did not occupy so much time as the former, on account of an agreement between the parties to submit the cause to the jury on the evidence, without any remarks of counsel on either side.

A letter from Natchez, received at Pittsburg, says, "The second in command at Baton Rouge, has been arrested by gov. Grandpre, as being concerned in Burr's conspiracy, and sent to Pensacola in irons.—A part of the army is hourly expected here, and a squadron of gun-boats, &c. under the command of capt. Shaw, is stationed in the river opposite this place."

We understand that H. M. frigate Resistance which sailed from here sometime since for Vera Cruz, has completely effected the object of her mission, and taken to England a considerable quantity of treasure. [Jan. P.]

Messrs. Editors.—As the successful potentate of France has excited to considerably the attention of the inhabitants of this country, as well as those of the trans-atlantic world, I beg leave to lay before your readers the wonderful co-incidence manifested in a comparison of his past prosperity and the following circumstances; the first of which is literally fulfilled, and the latter appears to be fast approximating toward completion.

The second is, the conclusion of his proclamation to the inhabitants of Cairo, dated the 26th of Feb. 1798, when he was but a French general in a distant country, from which it was more than probable he would never return. It is in these words:—“But the day will come, in which all the world shall clearly see, that I am conducted by a superior order of beings, and that every human effort cannot prevail against me. Happy those who shall sincerely be the first to range themselves on my side.”

On Tuesday, the 7th inst. col. Burr was examined at the capitol at Richmond, in the midst of an immense assembly of citizens.—As the proceedings in this important case, will be published in a pamphlet, we shall content ourselves with saying, that his counsel were, Messrs. Randolph and Wickham, who were opposed by Mr. Hay district attorney, and Mr. Rodney the attorney-general of the United States. After a very long and elaborate opinion delivered by chief justice Marshall, Mr. Burr was admitted on bail, which was fixed at 10,000 dollars. His securities were Messrs. Thomas Taylor, John G. Gamble, John Hopkins and Langhorn—commodore Truxton's deposition was not received sufficiently early, for exhibition at this examination.

The fine cattle exhibited at the coffee-house, on Thursday last, and sold at the Fly-market, the beginning of the present week, were bred and fattened by Mr. Robert Heaton, of Throgs Neck, West Chester. The celebrity of this breed of cattle is too well known throughout the United States, to need any eulogium. For the satisfaction of the curious, the following statement of their respective weight will amply suffice.

Boston, April 3.

FROM FRANCE.

Capt. Adamson, who arrived since our last, left Bourdeaux city about the 1st Feb. The reports there were, that the French had been very roughly handled by the Russians—it was said 50 officers had been killed. Conscripts were often seen in Bourdeaux: They did not appear covetous of glory. Bu-deaux: Four frigates were lying ready for sea. The Washington of Philadelphia, with the crew of the French Valeureuse on board, had been taken by a British frigate; but was afterwards forced into a French port in a gale of wind. Some neutral vessels, had been seized for an alleged breach of the Nov. decree.

NEW-YORK, April 10

By the ship New-York for Jamaica, we have received Kingston papers to the 15th of March. A postscript to the Royal Gazette of the 14th says—

By the Eagle Guineaman, arrived here from Trinidad, we learn that a vessel had arrived there on the 27th ult. with accounts of Cumana, on the Spanish Main, having been taken by general Crawford, who failed from England early in November last, in the Spencer of 74 guns, the hon. commodore Stopford, accompanied by the Thefus, Ganges, and Captain, of 74 guns each, and several other vessels of war.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.

By captain M'Dougal, of the ship London Packet, arrived in the Delaware from Cowes, which he left on the 16th February, a London paper of the 13th is received, but it contains nothing important.

The most interesting intelligence received by capt. M'Dougal relates to the treaty negotiated with Great-Britain by the ministers of the United States, Messrs. Monroe and Pinkney.—Those gentlemen had repeatedly expressed their satisfaction with the terms of the treaty, and had declared that they were more favourable to America than their best hopes had led them to expect.

A letter from Mr. Auldjo, American consul at Cowes, dated Feb. 16th, 1807, states that the restrictions on the intercourse between Great-Britain and the continent had been removed, and G. M'Dougal informs us that he had sent letters by a vessel, which was about to sail direct from London to Amsterdam. This relaxation is ascribed to the extreme inconvenience, and almost entire stoppage of commercial transactions on the continent.

Nothing later than we have already published, had reached England, when capt. M'Dougal failed, respecting the Russian and French operations.

April 11.

Extract of a letter from our correspondent dated New-Orleans, March 8.

“Turning our political situation, I have to congratulate my fellow-citizens on our emancipation from the most abject despotism, under which every man groaned. This day the battalion of volunteers is to be discharged from actual service. This corps has been retained in service at an unnecessary expence, for no earthly purpose but to keep down the press. Both the American printers are volunteers, and know full well, that if they dare to publish any thing not relished by the general, a trial by a court martial and military punishment, would be the inevitable consequence. It is more than probable that the system of terror would have been kept up yet longer, had we not have received the debate in the house of representatives in the United States, on the bill from the senate to suspend the habeas corpus. Randolph told so many truths, that it struck our general with terror, and he began to relax. You will doubtless be surprised to learn, that in all the illegal arrests that have been made, in all the odious measures adopted, Wilkinson has endeavoured to pull some one between himself and danger. He has compelled the volunteers to arrest their fellow-citizens; and has constantly deceived and made a cat's-paw of the governor. Folk (governor of East and West-Florida) has fixed his head-quarters at Baton Rouge, where he has between 5 and 600 men, and is actually employed in making preparations for defence, and the report of the day is, that he expects an attack from commodore Shaw, who is now at Natchez with his squadron. But no one can believe that he entertains any such expectations. It is also said, and I am inclined to believe with some truth, that Folk has ordered the dismantling of Pensacola, and is withdrawing all the troops from that place, with the artillery, to Baton Rouge. This conduct of Folk is as explicable, as the conduct of the general is mysterious.”

WASHINGTON, April 8.

The President of the United States yesterday left this city on a short visit to Monticello.

The following extract of a letter received from lieutenant Guines, dated Fort Stoddert, February 22, 1807, furnishes some interesting circumstances relative to the arrest of col. Burr.

“Early in the morning of the 19th of the present month I was advised by major Perkins, that a man, whom he supposed to be col. Burr, had passed through the upper end of this settlement the preceding evening; whereupon I immediately set out with a sergeant and three privates of my detachment; and after reconnoitering with major Perkins about 14 miles up the country, met with col. Burr, and escorted him to this place. My apprehensions relative to the Spaniards were strengthened by the arrival of a Spanish officer, who commands one of the armed vessels at Mobile (whose name I cannot recollect.) He dined with me yesterday, and made request through his interpreter, to be permitted to see col. Burr, who, he said, he understood was in the fort. I promised to see the col. and then give him an answer. I went to the colonel's room, and informed him that the Spanish officer wished to see him. He immediately shewed me a paper he had just written, in which he requested me to introduce him to the Spanish officer, adding that he was anxious to send to his friend Marrero for a few necessities. I observed that perhaps it was nothing more than idle curiosity that prompted the Spanish officer to wish to see him, and I could not, under present circumstances, admit an interview. I returned, and informed the Spanish officer, through his interpreter, that, as col. Burr was a citizen of the United States, and in confinement for an offence against the laws thereof, I could not permit an officer of a neighbouring government to see him, especially as I presumed they could have no sort of business with each other. The officer immediately set out in a small boat for Mobile. This circumstance, together with a communication, made by a Mr. Ashley, who accompanied col. Burr to this country, and one of our citizens, has induced me to adopt a measure, which had before strongly presented itself as indispensable, to send him direct to the seat of government.

[See Note 1.]

“I regret extremely that I should have been compelled to take any measure in relation to the disposal of the prisoner without instructions from my superiors; nor would I have hazarded this step, but from the fullest belief that I could not keep him secure in this place much longer; nor could I have sent him with safety to Natchez, from whence his officers are no doubt moving towards this place. But in addition to these causes, I have to combat an enemy that might prove more formidable, and much more unpleasant than either. I have learnt from a friend, whom I have usually found to be a man of truth, that the col. had made overtures to two centinels (who were at different times on duty at his door for his liberation, and had made offers of cash. An informant, John Brown, a tailor, had been doing some work for the colonel, who finding he could speak French, and after some conversation with him in that language, and founding him as he believed on the subject of a bribe, inquired whether the two centinels aforesaid could be depended on. Such a situation, that should any attempts be made to liberate him within or without the fort to rescue the prisoner before his departure, the measures which I feel bound to take will be of a much more serious nature than his removal to Washington.

“I have committed the prisoner to the care of major R. Perkins, to whose activity and patriotism the public are indebted for the seizure of this extraordinary man. The major has selected a party of active and respectable men, [See Note 2.] to accompany him on the route, and he will also be accompanied by sergeant Harris, and Cyrus Jones, who were with me when I took the prisoner, and who are among the most confidential men of my detachment.”

There was another circumstance, which probably operated strongly on the mind of lieutenant Guines, which is stated on the authority of major Perkins. Information was received in conversation with a Spanish officer, that col. Burr was generally expected at the town of Mobile by the officers there, where it was reported that Morales then was. This, together with the immediate departure of the col. from Fort Stoddert, on finding an interview with col. Burr unattainable, probably led lieutenant Guines to believe that a rescue might be attempted.

To these circumstances it is proper to add, that col. Burr was treated during the journey with the greatest attention and tenderness. From the beginning to the end of it he was supplied with tea, coffee, wine and brandy, of some of which articles he had even a portion left on his arrival at Richmond; although the party were for two or three days, destitute of a sufficient supply of provisions, Mr. Burr allotted to him the usual quantity. Until the attempt made by him to get out of the power of his escort, he was permitted to wear his pistols and a large knife. After this attempt he was deprived of the former.

Note 1. The communication here referred to, we understand to be this: While Ashley was in the company of the sheriff, he said he was well acquainted with the objects col. Burr had in view, and among other things stated, that it was his intention to go into the Floridas. On subsequent inquiry made of him by others, he professed total ignorance of the views of col. Burr, and said that he had recently fallen in with him. This Ashley is a character of some celebrity. He is reputed to be a man of talents, possesses considerable property, and was with Noland in the Spanish country when he fell.

Note 2. The effort was composed of the most respectable men in the country, some of them possessed of very considerable property, and others much distinguished in their districts.

Family Medicine. Received from RICHARD LEE and Son, and for Sale by Gideon White, Church-street, An Assortment of PATENT MEDICINE.

Lee's Worm Destroying Lozenges. THIS medicine, which is as innocent and mild as sugar, it is certain and efficacious in its operation, can injure the youngest infant, should no worms exist in the body; but will without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels of what ever is foul or obnoxious, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders.

From the many cases of cures that daily come to my knowledge, we have selected the following: Messrs. Richard Lee and Son. You are at liberty to publish the astonishing cure formed by your Lozenges on my son, 10 years old, who was afflicted with fevers, pain in his side, and a continual headache, which reduced him so low that he was unable to sit up. One of my neighbours advised me to use your Lozenges, which has had the happy effect of restoring him to a better state of health than he has enjoyed for several years, in the short space of seventeen days.

JOHN KELLEY, Pitt-street. Balt. Nov. 12, 1806! Messrs. Richard Lee and Son. My son, five years old, has for sometime past been very unhealthy, having fevers, headach and loss of appetite. Hearing of the many cures performed by your Worm Lozenges, I was induced to give them a trial. The effect was beyond my expectation, as a large quantity of small worms was expelled; hundreds of them were seen for sometime after.

Elixir is so perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Messrs. R. Lee and Son. For a long time I have been afflicted with a severe cold, attended with a distressing cough, sickness at the stomach, with a frequent inclination to vomit—having used a medicine which is said to have performed cures of this kind, but without receiving any benefit; hearing of Lee's Elixir, a bottle was procured at Messrs. Warner and Hanna's book store, which has effectually removed this distressing complaint—in fact it is not possible for one to say too much in favour of this invaluable medicine; being convinced those persons labouring under severe cold, by the use of Lee's Elixir would soon be restored to a perfect state of health.

REDMOND MINCHEN. At Peter's Brewery. Balt. Feb. 9, 1807.

Infallible Ague and Fever Drops. For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

Lee's Genuine Essence & Extract of Mustard. A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pains in the face and neck, &c.

Lee's Sovereign Ointment for the Itch. Which is warranted an infallible remedy at one application, and may be used with the most perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and is not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the use of other remedies.

Lee's Genuine Eye-Water. A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

BY A PILGRIM.

O'er deserts untrodden, o'er mountains cover'd hills I have wander'd forlorn and alone; My tears I have mingl'd with flow winding rills, And the rocks have repeated my groan. I have seen the wan moon from her silver veil peep, As the rose from her cloud dappled bed, I have hear'd the dread hurrican yell 'midst the deep, As the lightning play'd over my head. When the tempest subside I saw the faint dawn O'er the eastern cliff meekly appear— While each king-cup that droop'd on the dew spangl'd lawn From its golden lids dropp'd a soft tear. I have seen the bright day star illumine the earth, I have hail'd the proud sovereign of fire; I have mark'd the pale primrose scarce waken'd to birth, E'er I sigh'd to behold it expire. How oft have I pitied the plaint of the dove; How I've mull'd near the nightingale's nest! For ah! when the minstrel sung sweetly of love, 'Twas soft sympathy thrill'd through my breast. I have seen the tall forest o'ershadow the glade, And extend its broad branches on high; But how soon have I mark'd its rich canopy fade, And its yellow leaves whirl'd to the sky. I have sigh'd o'er the grave where some lover was laid; I have torn the rude weeds from his breast; I have deck'd it with flow'rets, and oft have I said, How I envy thy pallet of rest! I have trac'd the long shades of the wave's silken green, When the storm gather'd over the main! I have gaz'd with delight on the landscape serene, When the evening bell toll'd on the plain. Exulting and gay I have smil'd to behold Proud nature luxuriantly dress'd; I have wept, when I saw her uncover'd and cold, And the winter blast howl'd o'er her breast. Since such are the scenes of this valley of care; Since each pleasure is mingl'd with pain; Still let me the raptures of sympathy share, And my bosom shall scorn to complain. Tho' distant to wander o'er mountains of snow, VANCEZA, oh mansion divine! The Pilgrim shall smile at his journey of woe, And his heart, his warm heart shall be thine.

IN COUNCIL, MARCH 20, 1807.

ORDERED, That the act, entitled, An act to prevent free negroes from selling any corn, wheat or tobacco, without having a licence for that purpose from a justice of the peace, and the Act to restrain the evil practices arising from negroes keeping dogs, and to prohibit them from carrying guns or offensive weapons, be published once in each week, until the first day of May next, in the Maryland Gazette, at Annapolis, the American and Federal Gazette, at Baltimore, the Republican Advocate, at Fredericktown, the Maryland Herald, at Hagerstown, and the Republican Star, at Easton.

By order,
NINIAN PINKNEY,
Clerk of the council.

An ACT to prevent free negroes from selling any corn, wheat or tobacco, without having a licence for that purpose from a justice of the peace.

WHEREAS great inconvenience is felt in this state in consequence of free negroes receiving stolen corn, wheat and tobacco, from slaves, and selling the same as the production of their own labour; therefore, Be it enacted, by the general assembly of Maryland, That from and after the first of May next, no free negro shall sell any corn, wheat or tobacco, unless, at the time of his or her so selling the said article or articles, he or she shall be possessed of a certificate, under the hand and seal of a justice of the peace of said county; that he or she is a peaceable and orderly person, and of good character, which certificate shall be of force for one year, and no longer.

And be it enacted, That if any free negro shall act contrary to the provisions of this act, the person so offending shall incur the penalty of five dollars for every such offence, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the use of the county, and to be recovered as other fines and forfeitures, before a justice of the peace in the county where such offence shall be committed.

And be it enacted, That any person who shall purchase or receive from any free negro any corn, wheat or tobacco, contrary to the provisions of this act, shall forfeit and pay, for every offence, the sum of ten dollars, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the use of the county in which such offence was committed, and to be recovered and applied in the same manner as other fines and forfeitures are by this law directed to be recovered and applied.

And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of every justice of the peace, sheriff and constable, to give information of every violation of this act that shall come to his knowledge.

An ACT to restrain the evil practices arising from negroes keeping dogs, and to prohibit them from carrying guns or offensive weapons.

BE it enacted, by the general assembly of Maryland, That after the first day of May next, it shall not be lawful for any negro or mulatto within this state to keep any dog, bitch or gun, except he be a free negro or mulatto, and in that case he may be permitted to keep one dog, provided such free negro or mulatto shall obtain a licence from a justice of the peace for that purpose, and that the said licence shall be in force for one year, and no longer; and if any dog or bitch owned by any negro, not possessed of such licence, shall be seen going at large, it shall and may be lawful for any person to kill the same, and in case of any suit instituted therefor, the person or persons killing the said dog or bitch may plead the general issue, and give this act in evidence.

And be it enacted, That after the said first day of May next, it shall not be lawful for any free negro or mulatto to go at large with any gun, or other offensive weapon; and in case any free negro or mulatto shall be seen going at large carrying a gun or other offensive weapon, he shall be liable to be carried before any magistrate, in virtue of a warrant to be issued by any justice of the peace, directed to a constable of the county, and on conviction of having violated the provisions of this section of the act, such offender shall thereupon forfeit, to the use of the informant, such gun, or other offensive weapon, which shall thus have been found in his or her possession, and be subject to the payment of the costs which shall have accrued in such prosecution, provided that nothing in this act shall extend to prevent any free negro, or mulatto from carrying a gun, or other offensive weapon, who shall, at the time of his carrying the same, have a certificate from a justice of the peace, that he is an orderly and peaceable person, which certificate shall be in force for one year from the date thereof, and no longer.

And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the constable of every hundred to repair once a month, and oftener if information be given him of tumultuous meetings of negroes or slaves, to all suspected places within his hundred, and if he shall find any mulatto or negro not a slave, at any such meeting, it shall be the duty of the constable forthwith to carry such mulatto or negro, so offending, before some magistrate of the county, who shall thereupon commit such person to the common gaol, unless he or she shall enter into a recognizance, with such security as said justice shall require, for his or her good behaviour, and also to appear before the next county court, to answer for such offence in such manner as is prescribed by law for the trial of crimes and misdemeanors within this state, and if such person shall be found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this act, he shall be fined, or imprisoned, for such offence, at the discretion of the court; and if such constable shall find at any such meeting, as aforesaid, any slave besides those belonging to the owner of such place, not having permission in writing from his owner, or overseer, it shall be lawful for the constable and he is hereby authorized and required, to whip every such slave, at his discretion, not exceeding thirty-nine lashes.

And be it enacted, That before any constable shall be entitled to receive the allowance granted by the fourth section of the act, entitled, An act to prevent the tumultuous meetings and other irregularities of negroes and other slaves, he shall produce a certificate from at least two respectable citizens of his hundred, of his industry and fidelity in the discharge of his duty under this act and the act above recited.

And, for a further encouragement to take up runaways, Be it enacted, That in lieu of two hundred pounds of tobacco, allowed by the act, entitled, An act relating to servants and slaves, any person seizing and taking up such runaways, shall have and receive six dollars.

THE SNOW DROP.

By JAMES MONTGOMERY.

WINTER! retire,
Thy reign is past;
Hoary Sire!
Yield the sceptre of thy sway,
Sound thy trumpet in the blast,
And call thy storms away;
Winter! retire;
Wherefore do thy wheels delay!
Mount the chariot of thine ire,
And quit the realms of day;
On thy state
Whirlwinds wait;
And blood-shot meteors lend thee light;
Hence to dreary arctic regions;
Summon thy terrific legions;
Hence to caves of northern night
Speed thy flight.
From Hecyon seas
And purer skies,
O f-when breeze!
Awake, arise!
Breath of heaven! benignly blow,
Melt the snow;
Breath of Heaven! unchain the floods,
Warm the woods,
And make the mountains flow.
Auspicious to the Muse's prayer,
The freshening gale
Emulms the vale.
And breathes enchantment thro' the air
On its wing
Floats the spring.
With glowing eye, and golden hair:
Dark before her Angel form
She drives a demon of the storm,
Like gladness chasing care.
Winter's gloomy night withdrawn,
Lo! the young romantic hours
Search the hill, the dale, the lawn,
To behold the snow drop white
Start to light.
And shine in FLORA's desert bowers,
Beneath the vernal dawn,
The Morning Star of flowers!
O welcome to our life,
Thou Messenger of Peace!
At whose bewitching smile
The embattled tempests cease;
Emblem of innocence and truth!
First-born of nature's womb!
When strong in renovated youth,
She bursts from Winter's tomb;
Thy parent's eye hath shed
A precious dew-drop on thine head,
Faint as a mother's tear,
Upon her infant's face,
When ardent hope to tender fear,
And anxious love gives place.
But lo! the dew-drop falls away,
The sun flutes thee with a ray,
Upon her infant's cheek,
When the heart bounds with bliss,
Warm as a mother's kiss,
And joy that cannot speak!
—When I met thee by the way,
Like a pretty sportive child,
On the winter walked wild,
With thy darling breeze of play,
Opening to the radiant sky
All the sweetness of thine eye;
Or bright with sun-beams, fresh with showers.
O thou fairy queen of flowers!
Watch thee o'er the plain advance
At the head of FLORA's dance:
Simple snow drop! then in thee
All thy sister train I see:
Every brilliant bud that blows,
From the blue-bell to the rose!
All the beauties that appear
On the bosom of the year:
All that breathe the locks of Spring,
Summer's ardent breath perfume,
Or on the lap of autumn bloom,
—All to thee their tribute bring,
Exhale their incense at thy shrine,
—Their hues, their odours all are thine;
For while thy humble form I view,
The Muse's keen prophetic light
Brings fair futurity to light,
And fancy's magic makes the vision true.
—There is a winter in my soul—
The winter of despair;
O when shall spring its rage control?
When shall the snow-drop blossom there?
Cold gleams of comfort sometimes dart
A dawn of glory on my heart,
But quickly pass away:
Thus Northern-lights the gloom adorn,
And give the promise of a morn,
That never turns to day!
—But hark! methinks I hear
A small still whisper in mine ear:
"Rash youth! repent,
"Afflictions from above
"Are Angels, sent
"On embassies of love
"A fiery Legion, at thy birth,
"Of chastening woes were given,
"To pluck thy flowers of Hope from earth,
"And plant them high
"O'er yonder sky,
"Transform'd to stars—and fix'd in Heaven."

THE WELCH COTTAGE.

WE took shelter at a most miserable looking hut, at the side of the heath, and accepted the protection it afforded, with as entire good will as if it had been an eastern palace. My horse was obliged to crawl into a kind of out-house, where a swine-driver and his pigs had the instant before taken refuge; and while I was reconciling my steed to this society, a Jew pedler and his pack, and another traveller with his dog, crowded. Necessity, as Shakespeare says, brings one acquainted with strange company.

A being, scarcely human in appearance, invited me to enter the hut. I entered. Its inhabitants—how shall I describe them? Fancy something which assembles the extremes of filth, penury, health and felicity; personify these among men, women and children; give to each of them forms and features, which confer a sort of grace and beauty on the household of the barber of Barmouth, by comparison. Put all this filth, penury, health and felicity into motion; and having formed a groupe, imagine that you see it unshod, unstocked, uncapped, and nearly unpunctuated and unbreeched. Young and old were busied in counting the finest and freshest herrings I ever saw, that instant brought in from the fishing-boat. The father of the family, to whom the boat belonged, declared he never had so prosperous a voyage; and though he was almost blown away, he would hazard twice as much danger for such another drag. "Look! what a size they are of; and how they shine, my boys and girls! I faith, they seemed plagiarily afraid of the hurricane, and came in shoals to the nets, as if they took shelter in them; little thinking, poor fools! that this was a jump from the water to the fire! And, now I talk of that—here, put half a dozen of them into the pan, for I am deuced hungry; and mayhap, this gentleman may be so too; and if so be that he is, he shall be as welcome to a fresh herring and a brown biscuit as myself. What say you, my heart of oak," continued he, clapping me as familiarly on the shoulder as if I had been his messmate; and, indeed, treating me as hospitably as if I had been so, and we had both escaped from a wreck to his cabin. Perceiving my dripping situation, he said,—"Come, shipmate, doff your jacket; put on this rug; come to anchor in that corner; warm your shivering timbers with a drop of this dear creature, which will make a dead fish speak like an orator.—There, another swig!—Don't be afraid of it! One more. And now you will do, while your rigging and canvass are drying."

All this time, mine host of the hovel stood in his sea-drenched apparel! on my reminding him of which, he cried out, smilingly—"Ah! you are a fresh-water sailor, I perceive, and would take a deal of seasoning before you were good for anything; but, for me, all winds and weathers are alike to old Jack, while I can get good fish abroad, and good flesh at home—so fry away Molly, for the wet has made me as hungry as a shark; and, though I have drank like a whale, I shall now eat like a lion—and I hope you will do the same, messmate."

By this time, mine host's set before us our dish of herrings; which, with oatmeal cakes, potatoes and butter-milk, furnished one of the heartiest dinners I ever ate: after which the sailor made me partake of a can of slip; sing a song about the dangers and hardships of the sea-faring life; and made me take notice, that he was the happy father of a cabin full of children; and that, if it pleased God, to send him a dozen such pieces of good fortune every year, for a dozen of seasons, he should be able, as he was willing, to procure a snug birth for every one.—"And mean-time, Master, we will have another sip of grog, and drink success to the herring fishery."

Our regale was soon interrupted by the sudden exclamations from without doors, of—"She is lost! she is lost! she can't weather it!—she must go to the bottom! There is not water enough for her to come in, and the wind blows like the devil in her teeth!—She's sinking! the next sea will finish her!" All the cottagers ran to the beach, which was within a few paces. I followed instinctively. The hurricane was again renewed, the seas ran mountain-high, and a small coasting vessel was struggling with them. In a few minutes the strand was covered with spectators, but not idle ones. The whole of the villagers hurried to give assistance. Among the crowd, I discovered both the pig-driver and the pedler, whose situation I had begun to relate to my kind-hearted host: but the most assiduous of the whole multitude was a young woman, who, while the tears ran down her cheeks, was amidst the first to leap into a small boat, which had been anchored on the beach, and in which the master of our cottage, and three others, resolved to trust themselves, to offer such assistance as was in their power.

The wind did not abate of its fury, but shifted a few points more in shore; this, perhaps, in a vessel of greater burden, might have been fatal; but was, in some sort, favourable to the bark in distress. She had, by tacking, gained a station parallel to a part of the harbour, where she might run on shore; which she did, at length, without much damage; and the only thing now to be apprehended, was the loss of the boat that had gone out to her succour. The people on board the vessel were almost instantly on land; and one of them being shewn the boat, and told, at the same time, that she went out to the relief of the crew, was among the most active to throw out a rope, and try to return the favour intended him in kind. The same circumstance, however, which brought in the vessel, presently befriended the boat; who, venturing to set her sail, was, after a few desperate rolls, impelled over the billows, and driven, as it were, headlong on shore; but not before the sailor, who had been handing out a rope, perceived the female in the boat, on which he threw himself to the ground, in the eagerness of catching her in his arms. You already feel they were lovers. They were more. The bands of matrimony had united them the week before. The very fishing-boat which was driven on shore, was the mutual property of the two fathers, who had agreed to give up each his share, to their son and daughter, as their wedding portion; two of the men in the little skiff were the fathers: the profits of the herring season were to be the children's fortune. How thin are the bounds that separate the extremes of happiness from the excesses of misery! The former, however, were now realized: the vessel brought in a good freight, the fathers were saved, and the children were happy. They all resided, and were, indeed, natives of the village; but mine host, whose house was nearest to the place of landing, and had a heart sufficiently expanded to fill a palace with people that stood in need of hospitality, insisted, that as soon as the Little Sally and Jack, which it seems was the name of the fishing-boat, could be left for half an hour, they should pass it with him: this being agreed to, all hands went to work upon the Little Sally and Jack; and, if I had not been apprehensive that my ignorance in what was to be done would rather have confused than assisted, my poor aid should not have been withheld.

Matters being put to rights, and left mischief done than might have been expected, the company set off for the hut of my generous host, who took a hand of each of the married lovers, walking between them, and told them, he hoped, as they had so well escaped Davy's Locker this time, they would tumble in a hammock together these 50 years. A fresh supply of fish was immediately put into the pan; my landlord swearing a terrible oath on this occasion, for there was a strict friendship between him and the parties preserved, the old saying should be verified, as to their swimming thrice; accordingly for their second ocean, it was determined that the bowl, which, some years before, had commemorated an escape from a shipwreck in his own fortune, should now be filled to the brim, to celebrate the success of the Little Sally and Jack. I was pressed to stay and take my share, on pain of being deemed too proud to be happy among poor people; and on observing that my steed all this time was in a state which reproached me for faring so sumptuously, he started up, declaring, that, though he could not ride, he loved a horse next to a man, and that if mine would put up with a mess of bran, instead of hay, and a draught of good ale, instead of water, he should be as welcome as his own fool. I took him at his word, and staid to witness and join in the festivities, till there was just enough of the evening left to reach Abderest with. I would have offered a small token of acknowledgment for what I had received, but that I saw a tremendous frown gathering on the brow of my host, and an oath quivering on his lip, which frightened me from my design, and made me only take his hand, with an assurance, that I would never pass his house without stopping to see if all was well on board, and how the herring fishery succeeded. This so pleased him, that he made the bowl go round to my health, and wishing another gale of wind would blow me into his hovel, as often as I should come along side of it, then led out my horse, held my stirrup while I mounted, and huzza'd me in three hearty cheers, till I was out of sight.

EXTRACT.

WELL did an ingenious writer say of solitude, that in it "the mind gains strength and learns to lean upon herself; in the world it seeks or accepts a few treacherous supports;—the feigned compassion of one—the flattery of a second—the civilities of a third—the friendship of a fourth; they all deceive, and bring the mind back to retirement, reflection, and books!" But though they read so many excellent maxims of wisdom, and their judgments are so fully convinced of the lasting advantages of true philosophy; how frail, how forgetful, how much under the influence of the passions, are men of superior accomplishments found! But they are living monuments to teach us wisdom by their weakness!

MY MOTHER.

AH! who is she, whose pensive face,
The soft maternal smile adorning,
And mild blue eye, still bids me trace
The promise bright of life's gay morning?
When once a gem of beauty rare,
She shone unrival'd by another;
Meek, modest, wife, as she was fair,
In youth's sweet morn, such was MY MOTHER.
The beauteous daughter, faithful friend—
The tender wife—soft, mild, forbearing;
Still did her polish'd preference lend
A charm to life—ah! how endearing.
Still shrinking from the public view,
In all the pride of youthful beauty,
No childish thirst for fame she knew,
But strew'd with flowers the path of duty.
And oft when fate's unerring dart,
Death to a mother's hopes has given;
Still did she teach her breaking heart,
Submission to the will of Heaven.
O! thou Great Power, whom well I know,
Of every earthly good the donor:
Still shield her future life from woe,
And shed the choicest blessings on her.
O! grant a daughter's fervent prayer,
One only boon, I ask no other;
That still thro' life, each circling year,
With every joy may bless my mother!
And when these fragile mortal ties,
The awful word of fate shall sever,
O! may her children spotless rise,
To dwell with her in bliss for ever.

THE OSNABURGH TORTURE.

WHO can read the following narration without feeling his "blood freeze in his veins," or without execrating the government which countenances such worse than savage murder. Let the reader remember, that Hanover belonged to the king of England, and that the fact is stated by one of his own subjects, the benevolent HOWARD.

"Having heard much of the mode of torture practiced at Hanover, called the Osnaburgh Torture, and which is applied by executioners purposely sent for from that Bishopric, (the Duke of York was then Bishop of Osnaburgh) I applied to be admitted to the cellar in which the engines of torture are kept—as my introduction was by a high officer of the court, I had the honour of a seat near the judges. The person who was put to the torture that day, happened to be a female, of family and respectable connexions, whose husband stood charged with some crime, but who had escaped from his executioners—they seized his wife, to compel her by the torture of Osnaburgh, to criminate him and his connexions.

She was of the most exquisite beauty, and the judges feasted their eyes with a view of her person already disfigured, by repeated questions, as she lay extended on the rack, with only a loose garment thrown over part of her body. The Osnaburgh torture was applied in the manner related in Mr. Howard's narrative, in all its exquisite refinements. She persisted in her innocence. Her judges, the representatives of the elector of Hanover, celebrated for his domestic and social virtues, sat unmoved, either by her beauty, suffering or protestations. They ordered the executioners to vary her tortures—the cords were drawn to the shortest. She was a mother! From her beauteous and lovely, but agonizing breasts, forced by the extreme of torments, blood spouted, and covered the faces and cloaths of her judges. She still asserted her innocence—executioner, repeat the question, was again the exclamation of those fiends of Hell; with the most piteous lamentations she begged for mercy. It was in vain—the executioner obeyed the mandates of his superiors, they have once more at the rack—she shrieked, the name of her beloved babe and husband murmured on her trembling lips—nature was totally exhausted by shame and torture—the expired—Good God! never shall I forget the dreadful moment! And is this, exclaimed I to myself, flagging from this court of justice, is it my king, who governs with absolute sway in this city?"

Family Medicine.

Just received from Richard Lee and Son, and for Sale by

Gideon White, Church-street,
An Assortment of PATENT MEDICINE.

For the prevention and cure of bilious and malignant fevers, is recommended

Lee's Anti-Bilious Pills.

Each article has on the outside wrapper, the signature of

RICHARD LEE and SON.

Without which, none are genuine.

Prepared by Richard Lee and Son, Baltimore. PERSONS wishing to purchase this valuable medicine, are requested to be particular in inquiring for Lee's Anti-Bilious Pills, put up in wooden boxes, having on the outside wrapper the signature Richard Lee and Son, this is necessary, as there are other pills of the same name.

THE operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions, to relieve and amend the appetite—produce a free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds, which are often of fatal consequences—a dose never fails to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. They are celebrated for removing habitual constiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe headache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Messrs. Richard Lee and Son.

The high opinion I have of your bilious pills, and a desire to make known their utility for the benefit of mankind, I wish you to publish the following:

For two months past, I have been afflicted with a violent sickness at the stomach, an inclination to vomit, and a loss of appetite—by taking two doses of your pills, I am restored to a perfect state of health, which induced my wife to try them also, which was attended with the same good effects, being now able to attend to her domestic concerns. In my opinion, this medicine is unequalled in strength and honest complaints, not being attended with that griping pain common to other remedies.

IN COUNCIL, March 20, 1807.
ORDERED, That the act, entitled, An act to prevent free negroes from selling any corn, wheat or tobacco, without having a licence for that purpose from a justice of the peace, and the act to restrain the evil practices arising from negroes keeping dogs, and to prohibit them from carrying guns or offensive weapons, be published once in each week, until the first day of May next, in the Maryland Gazette, at Annapolis, the American and Federal Gazette, at Baltimore, the Republican Advocate, at Fredericktown, the Maryland Herald, at Hagerstown, and the Republican Star, at Baltimore.
By order, NINIAN PINNEY,
Clerk of the council.

ACT to prevent free negroes from selling any corn, wheat or tobacco, without having a licence for that purpose from a justice of the peace.

WHEREAS great inconvenience is felt in this state in consequence of free negroes receiving stolen corn, wheat and tobacco, from slaves, and selling the same as the produce of their own labour; therefore, Be it enacted, by the general assembly of Maryland, That from and after the first of May next, no free negro shall sell any corn, wheat or tobacco, unless, at the time of his or her so selling the said article or articles, he or she shall be possessed of a certificate, under the hand and seal of a justice of the peace of said county, that he or she is a peaceable and orderly person, and of good character, which certificate shall be of force for one year, and no longer.

And be it enacted, That if any free negro shall act contrary to the provisions of this act, the person so offending shall incur the penalty of five dollars for every such offence, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the use of the county, and to be recovered as other fines and forfeitures, before a justice of the peace in the county where such offence shall be committed.

And be it enacted, That any person who shall purchase or receive from any free negro any corn, wheat or tobacco, contrary to the provisions of this act, shall forfeit and pay, for every offence, the sum of ten dollars, one half to the informer, the other half to be applied to the use of the county in which such offence was committed, and to be recovered and applied in the same manner as other fines and forfeitures are by this law directed to be recovered and applied.

And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of every justice of the peace, sheriff and constable, to give information of every violation of this act, that shall come to his knowledge.

ACT to restrain the evil practices arising from negroes keeping dogs, and to prohibit them from carrying guns or offensive weapons.

Be it enacted, by the general assembly of Maryland, That after the first day of May next, it shall not be lawful for any negro or mulatto within this state to keep any dog, bitch or gun, except he be a free negro or mulatto, and in that case he may be permitted to keep one dog, provided such free negro or mulatto shall obtain a licence from a justice of the peace for that purpose, and that the said licence shall be in force for one year, and no longer; and if any dog or bitch owned by any negro or mulatto be found without such licence, shall be seized and taken to the pound, and the owner thereof shall be liable to be carried before any magistrate, in virtue of a warrant to be issued by any justice of the peace, directed to a constable of the county, and on conviction of having violated the provisions of this section of the act, such offender shall thereupon forfeit, to the use of the informer, such gun, or other offensive weapon, which shall thus have been found in his or her possession, and be subject to the payment of the costs which shall have accrued in such prosecution; provided that nothing in this act shall extend to prevent any free negro or mulatto from carrying a gun, or other offensive weapon, who shall, at the time of his carrying the same, have a certificate from a justice of the peace, that he is an orderly and peaceable person, which certificate shall be in force for one year from the date thereof, and no longer.

And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the constable of every hundred to repair once a month, and often if information be given him of tumultuous meetings of mulattoes, negroes or slaves, to all suspected places within his hundred, and if he shall find any mulatto or negro not a slave, at any such meeting, it shall be the duty of the constable forthwith to carry such mulatto or negro, so offending, before some magistrate of the county, who shall thereupon commit such person to the common gaol, unless he or she shall enter into a recognizance, with such security as said justice shall require, for his or her good behaviour, and also to appear before the next county court, to answer for such offence in such manner as is prescribed by law for the trial of crimes and misdemeanors within this state, and if such person shall be found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this act, he shall be fined, or imprisoned, for such offence, at the discretion of the court; and if such constable shall find at any such meeting, a slave, any slave besides those belonging to the owner of such place,

And be it enacted, That before any constable shall be entitled to receive the allowance granted by the fourth section of the act, entitled, An act to prevent the tumultuous meetings and other irregularities of negroes and other slaves, he shall produce a certificate from at least two respectable citizens of his hundred, of his industry and fidelity in the discharge of his duty under this act and the act above recited.
