TILDEN'S LOVE STORY.

ROMANCE IN THE LIFE OF THE DEAD SAGE OF GRAYSTONE.

Pascinated by Miss Celeste Stauffer, th Rich Southern Beauty-Courtly Messengers Carry Missives.

Away down near the end of the legacies n Mr. Tilden's will is one of the interest on $100,000 to Miss Celeste Stauffer of New Orleans. There are a good many society people in New York who know Miss Stauffer, but few known or can understand why Mr. Tilden should remember her in his will. The story is a romantic one, and tells of the love of the aged statesman for a young, handsome and brilliant woman. An intimate friend of the Stauffer family who is now in New York expresses himself as confident that Mr. Tilden at one time seriously contemplated matrimony, and was a suitor for Miss Stauffer's hand. It was soon after the explosion of the story that the Sage of Graystone was engaged to be married to Miss Nellie Hazeltine of St. Louis that he met that charming young lady from New Orleans. Miss Hazeltine was a blonde, with rich red-golden hair. Miss Stauffer is between a brunette and a blonde, of that type styled in New Orleans chataigne. Miss Hazeltine, who reigned as the belle of St. Louis until she married young Mr. Parranore, is now dead. Miss Stauffer is with her family in Europe. In 1880 or 1881 Mr. Tilden met Miss Mary Celeste Stauffer, and immediately fell in love with her. Mr. Isaac Stauffer, her father, is the senior partner of the firm of Stauffer, Macready & Co., the largest hardware establishment in New Orleans and perhaps in the South. He comes of an old Pennsylvania Dutch family, and still owns a farm near York, Pa. His eldest daughter, allow the vines to fall on the ground. summer the family leave New Orleans for a trip East or to Europe, and they are usually the first of that hegira of southern society which annually seeks comfort and social ntercourse away from the baking brick pavaments of the Crescent City. Most of the time they spend at Richfield Springs, occasionally visiting Saratoga or Long Branch. Last summer they spent a short time at Lenox. Mass. For three years they risited at Graystone, on Mr. Tilden's invitation. In the summer of 1882 the Stauffers remained at Long Branch for a time.

Considering that they were not under promise. of marriage, this correspondence, whatever its theme might have been, was sufficiently remarkable without Mr. Tilden's making it almost historical by the eccentricity of its SASH, DOORS, &c.

statesman received from his own hands the missive, with the injunction to surrender it only to the fair consignee personally. At the cottage of the Stauffers this aristocratic Mercury was received with that formality his courtly bearing seemed to demand, and shered into the reception room. If Miss Stauffer was not at home, he would call again when she was. Not infrequently, on returning to Gramercy park or Graystone. he carried to the Democratic sage a mysterious reply to his letter of friendship. No better illustration of the influence that the southern beauty exerted over Mr. Tilden can be given than an episode which occurred during her visit at Graystone three years ago. Incidentally, perhaps, she reated to Mr. Tilden the melancholy history of one of her school-mates, whose father lost his fortune by the war, and with it vanished the social prestige of his daughter. The brave girl made every effort to gain a livelihood in the limited sphere of occupation afforded in New Orleans to respectable young women. For a time she succeeded and then her health broke down and she suffered poverly rather than seek assistance from her wealthy friends of the past. Mr. Tilden was isterested in the character of Miss Stauffer's early classmate, and at no solicitation from that lady sent to the heroic maiden a certified check for $20,000. Miss Stauffer's character is that of an ambitious, highly intellectual woman, who saw in a marriage with Mr. Tilden all the possibilities of being the first lady in the to have the somber chateau beautified with the presence of young womanhood. Her nanners, conversation and insouciant grace and airs, acquired from the native Creoles of New Orleans, fascinated the old man, She seemed to be very fond of Mr. Tilden. and anticipated his every wish, even in the By eating when dew is on the grass they tion. She is an intrepid and accome equestrienne. Miss Stauffer's greatest art for the enchantment of men, both young and old, lay in her conversational powers.

It is gossip in New Orleans that Miss Stauffer discarded the best match in all the South to hazard a marriage with Mr. Tilden. Young Kruttenitch, the nephew of Judah P. Benjamin, is to-day the pride of the Louisiana bar and a bachelor.

house. It was moonlight, and Mr. Kruttsnitch made a rejoinder. fitting the occasion. "Well, you are very kind," she said. "but I am going to the North to find it," and the next day she left for Graystone. Miss Stauffer is well received by the best society in New York city, and is queen of the southern people who reside here. Her conquest over the heart of Dr. William M. Polk, the well-known physician, and the son of the man who is both a general and a bishop, is no secret from the friends of that gentleman, one of whom has betrayed it. She is now about 28 years of age.

It is said that the prospective marriage did not take place because Mr. Tilden felt plaints, after having tested its wor ugh, and left a gage d'amour when he cipe, in German, French or English

They discard all religions save their own, the essential dogma of which is faith in Jehovih, as he is called in their Bible, and to become a covenant member a person must abjure all other gods, lords or saviors. According to their Bible, Jehovih is the spirit that created all things, is omniscient, omnipresent and omnipotent, and has his kingdom on earth, of which the Faithists are the sole members up to date. Dr. J. B. Newbrough, a dentist of New York City, is the originator of this sect. THROUGH THE WHIRLPOOL. A Bostonian Dares the Niagara in a Corl

Vest and Survives.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 22 .- William J. Kendall of Boston, to-day swam successfully in a cork vest the whirlpool rapids of the Niagara river. The trial was to settle a wager of $10,000 made by Boston parties, he to receive $1,000 of the stakes. There were few spectators of the affair, it having been kept quiet. Kendall relates his experience when he reached the spot where Captain Webb is supposed to have lost his life. The water seemed to go from under him, and a hure wave struck him on the head and shoulders, knocking him unconscious for a few moments. He found his swimming abilities of no use whatever, and never expected to come out alive. When entering the whirlpool he was so benumbed and partly unconscious that he could not use a limb and did not know what he was doing. The current took him right into the main eddy and sucked him down like a flash, keeping him under fully 15 seconds.

Upon reaching the undercurrent, he was shot out of the pool fully 50 feet from its centre. When he reached the surface of the water, he had partly regained consci- for the republican candidate. ousness, and knowing there was no time to spare before he would be dashed down the lower rapids he swam to the shore. While landing, he was so overcome that he again became unconscious, and his assistants were fully half an hour occupied in reviving him with the aid of stimulants and by rubbing When asked if he would ever make another trip he said, most emphatically: "No there is not enough money in the world to induce me to repeat this afternoon's experience. A child would have the same chance to go through the rapids and come out all right as an expert swimmer." It took him three minutes to go from the railroad bridge to the whirlpool. Kendall is 24 years of age, six feet and two inche in height, weighs 195 pounds and is well proportioned. He was born in New York. but spent most of his life in Boston. The cork vest consisted of five pieces of cork, 16 inches long, four inches wide and two inches thick, which were sewn in white canvas similar to a life preserver.

A New Colored Academy.

We stated some weeks ago that the Rev. J. A. B. Wilson had purchased "Onley," which is located a-quarter of a mile east of this town. We now learn that he made the purchase for the Delaware Conference. and that said Conference will convert the property into an institution of learning for the education of colored children of both past eleven in apparently good health, and of the Centinary Biblical Institute, of Balbehalf of the Conference named above.

The school, it is expected, will be opened this fall, with Mr. Byrd, a colored man, as principal. The principal is now a professor in the Biblical Institute of Baltimore, and will be succeeded by the Rev. John H. Nutter, colored, who is a native of Somerset county, and new stationed at Royal Oak, Talbot county, Md.

There are sixteen acres of land connected with the large brick mansion on the premises, and the purpose of the promoters of the enterprise is to make an industrial school one of the features of the institution. Another feature of the institution is to prepare young colored men to enter the Baltimore Biblical Institute, with a view to become ministers. It will also prepare the female portion of its students for Leachers .- Som-

HE FOLLOWING TABLE of actual cost of Longman & Martinez's Pure Prepared Paints when ready for applying, shows the decided advantage of their use to every property owner. Linseed Oil, one-half gallon, when added to one-half gallon of our Pure Prepared Faints produces one gallon of Paint that is warranted to cover as well and as much surface as can be done with one gallon of any other brand of Paint direct from the maker and in original package; but to obtain the best results we advise its use as follows:

For Three Coat Work Over New Wood. For First or Priming Coat.—Mix one gail, of oil at 65c. per gail, with one gall, of paint at $1.60 per gail, thus making two galls of paint at a cost of $1,12½ per gall. For Second Coat.—Mix one gall, of paint at $1.60 per gall, with a pint of oil at 65c, per gallon, making cost of a gallon of paint $1.50. For Third and Last Coat.—Mix one gallon of oil at 65c, per gall, with one gall, of paint at $1.60, making cost of one gall, of paint $1,12½. On her arrival she found the store closed and no signs of life. Having a duplicate key she H. Brown, Esq., and Gen. She made further investigation and found, to her great stomach, with his face in a bowl of water, hands folded under him and feet crossed He was terribly beaten and mutilated about

THEORY OF THE MURDER. Those who knew Mr. Eversman's habits and have examined the premises entertain this theory of the affair: That the party or parties well-known to the unfortunate man went to the store after he had retired and asked admission under the pretext of purchasing goods. To carry the pretext further, after admission they purchased some goods, as was shown by the fact that several pieces of fabric were on the counter. They gave him in payment money which needed change. When he turned to the money-drawer, which was under the shelves his country as a member of the Forty Ninth and not under the counter, as many such depositories are placed, they struck him with a scale weight back of the headcrushing in his skull. The now no longer a matter of doubt as to the best and most economical tertilizer on this market. The success that has attended the use of OUR MIXTURES, the flattering reports (unsolicited) that we are constantly receiving, as well as our largely increased sales, are convincing proof of their superiority. We have given the subject of fertilizing materials a great deal of hard the large experimented and observed closely, and think we have arrived at a formula, a combination of fertilizing incredients from the best known sources, and in proportions to yield a ly, and think we have arrived at a formula, a combination of fertilizing ingredients from the best known sources, and in proportions to yield a complete plant food for all crops and suitable to all soils.

Buying our Bone, Potash and Ammoniates from first hands and in large quantities, under guaranteed analysis, mixing them under our own, supervision, we know what our goods are; and realizing the fact that the supervision, we know what our goods are; and realizing the fact that the time for hig profits is past, and that upon merit and intrinsic worth alone we must expect to build us and keep our trade, policy if nothing else, would demand that we conclude our motto, "The best possible fertilizer for the least possible most."

As to testimonials, we could furnish scores of the most flattering; but often like patent medicines, the most worthless articles are the most high-

y praised; and knowing how easy it is to get a high sounding testimonial or an inferior article, we content ourselves by referring any one intenduse and wanting a first-class and high-grade manure to any one of hundred who have used and given OUR MIXTURE "B." a fair Experience and observation have taught us that a Spring fertilizer should be more active than for Fall, and therefore we shall use in our

and sow clover or grass. An eminent agricultural writer has well said: "Grass is the foundation of the productive farm and the successful farmer." Our great aim should be, in effecting a permanent improvement, to secure a sod of grass or clover, and this, as every one knows, requires liberal manuring at first. We respectfully refer to such gentlemen as Jonathan Waller, Geo. J. Porter, A. J. Allen, B. F. Messick, R. F. Brattan, R. J. Waller, J. M. Parker, Byard Perdue, W. F. Veasey, J. W. Walter Morris, Esq., cashier of the Dover branch of the Farmers' Bank, shipped this week to a Cincinnati commission firm his crop of Bartlett pears. He raised 3500 baskets on less than ten acres, 2500 baskets growing on five acres. The freight to Cincinnati was $196 a car. Mr. Morris says he intends to set out more trees and in few years he "will grow a crop of pears."-Sussex Journal.

-Miss Emma Sheppard, a young lady of Stockton, Worcester county, was burned from the explosion of a coal-oil can Saturday, and received, it is believed, fatal in juries. Thr can was on a stove in which a fire was burning while Miss Sheppard was eugaged on work nearby which required the use of the oil. The bursting of the can threw the burning fluid over her head and shoulders, and it spread rapidly to her clothing. She ran from the house enveloped in flames, and her screams attracted the attention of Mr. Joshua B. Waters, who with the aid of bed quilts succeeded in smothering the flames. She is frightfully

On Wednesday last Misses Emma and Mamie Stone, Miss Broadbelt, of Baltimore, Mr. G. C. Callahan, of Philadelphia, Miss and Mrs. West and John Chandler, of Craddockville, went on an excursion to Taylor's fish pond, near Nandua creek, after spending a very enjoyable day in sailing and mch 13-6m. fishing started for home about 5 p. m., when they were struck by a squall, the wind blowing at a terrible rate and rain descending in torrents. Their boats came near being capsized, and the party were in a very perlious position. The masts and sails of their boats were broken and the party received a thorough drenching .- Eastern

On Monday morning the large barn or the farm of R. B. Roberts, Esq., near Ingleside, tenanted by Saml. Blessley, was destroyed by fire, together with all its contents, consisting of 300 bushels of wheat, 1500 bushels of oats, 60 tons of timothy hay and a lot of farming implements. The fire was discovered about 10 o'clock, but burned so rapidly that all efforts to save the building or contents were fruitless. The building was an immense one, on the Pennsylvania plan, with granary, stable and shedding under one roof. The total loss will reach $5,000, covered by insurance for $3,100. Nothing is known of the origin of the fire. Centreville Record.

A perilous sight was witnessed at Miller's Church, in the Leitersburg district, this county, a few days ago. Mr. George Snotterly and family, of Funkstown, this county, on their way to Rock Forge stopped at the residence of Mr. Jacob Miller to water their horse. Mr. Miller was holding the HAY FEVER bucket, and Mr. Snotterly took off the bridle to let the horse drink, when it frightened and made a plunge, running over both men. Mr. Miller is reported seriously hurt. The horse continued its flight without a bridle, with Mrs. Snotterly and three small children in the buggy, a distance of about three miles, with men in pursuit. Persons on the route mounted horses and passed the runaway, but failed to stop it. Finally a man in advance of the frightened animal, hearing the screams of the women and children, ran out and threw his arms around Peach Trees the horse's neck and succeeded in checking its speed till others could go to his assistance. Strange to say the occupants were unharmed, but never, it may well be imagined, more badly frightened. - Hagerstown

Cost of National Wars. Some time ago the Registrar of the Treasury was called upon by a member of Conprincipal wars in which this country has been engaged since the formation of the Government. His response was of the most interesting character. Though we have as a nation conduced nearly twenty wars since ing within the scope of the inquiry addressed to him. The first of these was the Bevcomes the war of 1812, $115,000,000; the Mexican war $185,000,000; and finally the war of the rebellion, $6,189,000,000. The amount has reference to as the cost of the Revolutionary war-six millions-has no reference to the expenditures of the several colonies, but only to the sums paid by the United States. As the United States at that time had no paying power to speak of, the colonies bore among themselves al-most the entire burden of the war, and its total cost is estimated to have been over $125,000,000. These minor sums howeversink into insignificance beside the stupen-dous outlay of more than six thousand mil, lious of dollars occasioned by the civil war. This vast amount, of course, was not spent in four years, during which the war was in progress, but includes the whole increase of expenditure from that time to this, for interest, pension, etc., and has therefore been spread over a period of twenty-five years. So successfully has the nation grappled with this burden that the debt incurred, which at one (imp resolud about $2,800,000,000, has already been cut down to $1,7800,000,000, a reduction of one thousand
