New Procedure Set In Elections

That all students desiring candidacy for the 1961-62 Student Congress or class offices must submit application blanks and petitions is the new elections procedure adopted by the Student Congress Elections and Nominations Committee, under the chairmanship of Louise Downton.

The slate of officers to be voted upon in the All-College Election on Tuesday, April 18, from 8:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. in Allegany Hall gymnasium will include two candidates for each of the six Student Congress offices and for the four executive offices of each class. There will also be four candidates for each Student Congress representative; two will be elected from each class.

Marvin Vann, Student Congress president, has announced that application blanks for candidacy may be obtained from Louise Downton, himself, or from the office of the Dean of Students and must be submitted to the same by Friday, March 24.

Qualifications To Be Stated

The questionnaire requests the student to submit three preferences for offices, qualifications and plans for leadership. Students running for Student Congress offices must submit a petition bearing 100 names, whereas those running for class office must have 50 names on the petition. The Elections Committee feels that this procedure will spur more interest and inspire more qualified leaders to run for office.

A nominations committee, composed of the seniors of Student Congress and faculty consultants, will select the slate of officers based upon the qualifications, interests, and plans of the candidates as shown in the application blanks. This slate of nominees will be announced prior to the Easter vacation.

Campaigning for the election will begin with an all-college assembly on Wednesday, April 12, at 2:00 p. m. in Compton Auditorium. Each nominated candidate

Nigerian Will Speak On Newest Nations

"One of the Newest Nations Speaks for Itself" is the theme of the annual Community Banquet to be held Saturday, March 25, at 7:00 p. m. in Gunter Hall, according to Donald Unger, president of IRC. The banquet will be co-sponsored by IRC and the International Relations Committee of the Georges Creek Branch of A. A. U. W.

Representing the Nigerian Embassy will be Mr. H. B. Musa who will speak about his native country. He will discuss the role of Nigeria in the U. N., the historical background of his country, its development toward independence, and its economic and social conditions today.

The program is in sequence with last year's theme of "Emerging Africa" in which a member of the State Department gave a report on the overall progress of Africa and the relationship of the United States to the countries of the continent.

Students Admitted

Students will be admitted to the banquet with their meal tickets plus a twenty-five cent admission fee. Faculty and townspeople will be admitted for a fee of $1.25.

One of the annual spring projects of the IRC is the campus World University Service Drive. This year's drive was opened with an address from Miss Valerie Tippet from the IRC regional headquarters.

Miss Tippet reported that the funds collected in the WUS drive will be distributed to students in foreign countries for medicine, dormitories, books, clothing, and food.

Cross Is Symbol Of God's Love

Once there were three shadows in the valley cast by three crosses on the hill. Two of the shadows left the valley at close of day, but one shadow has remained with us down through the ages. It has become etched in the valley, engraved across the earth, and carved in the hearts of all mankind. It has become a symbol of man's rebirth.

Although the rains and winds of time beat down upon the cross, it lived on. Men could not forget it—it became the symbol of God's love. The sign appeared upon the walls of the catacombs. Men spilled their blood in the Roman arenas in defense of the sign. The sign survived when the Roman world fell apart and darkness brooded over the souls of men. The crusaders took up the sign and carried it everywhere. And today the sign is still being carried to all the nations, to all the people of the world.

And if the sign—the cross—could speak, it would say, "I, the cross of Christ, am not the symbol of defeat, but I am the symbol of victory. I will forever engrave the hearts of men."

And so the cross lives on to remind us of God's great love for all mankind.

"One shadow in the Valley
One cross atop the hill—
Timeless, ageless, deathless
Destiny to fulfill."

Peace Corps Spreads Goodwill

Today, as never before in recorded time, the advanced nations of the world have become increasingly interdependent through modern means of travel and communications. With this interdependence has come an awareness that poverty and illiteracy still abound in a world of riches. Thus, one of the greatest challenges facing the advanced nations today is to begin closing the gap between poverty and wealth, especially in the new nations of Africa, South East Asia, and Latin America.

President Kennedy has proposed an answer to this challenge. As of March 1, he has set up a Peace Corps on a "temporary pilot basis" for the purpose of pooling "trained American men and women" to be sent overseas to help foreign countries. These Americans' main job will be to teach and train people in undeveloped areas to do for themselves the necessary jobs for the development of their countries.

The Peace Corps program calls for young people just out of college to work directly with the people, not officials. Its members will go into small villages, not cluster in capital cities. Instead of building dams or roads, they will show people how to do things for themselves.

Initial emphasis is to be placed on teaching. The Peace Corps needs primary and secondary teachers to cope with the growing teacher shortages in these newly developing nations. English teachers are greatly sought. Also, men and women are needed to teach child care, motor repair, electric wiring, welding, irrigation, improvement of livestock and crop yields, bookkeeping, weaving, how to cook, and how to run a community government.

Life in the Peace Corps will not be easy. "There is to be no salary and allowances will be at a level sufficient only to maintain health and meet basic needs." The "living allowances" will depend upon the cost of living in the country in which a member of the Peace Corps works. This is to avoid a feeling of resentment by local nationals against "high living" Americans. However, it is expected that the living allowance will approximate the pay of American military recruits.

The Peace Corps can add a new dimension to America's world policy and help close the gap between poverty and wealth.

Trip To Frozen Falls Fails To Dampen Spirits

By Laurel Bachetti

Once upon a morning dreary, while we struggled cold and weary up to Lowndes Hall—the Geography of Maryland Class prepared for a day long field trip. Why, oh heavens, did you choose, after days of balmy sunshine, to deliver to us a million snowflakes served ice cold?

New York Fascinates Staff; Journey Proves Enlightening

As the train slowly fades into the west, the State-to-Date staff bids a reluctant farewell to the towering skyline of New York City, only to wave an even more reluctant "hello" to the Cumberland Station, FSTC, and the grind again.

We traveled by train to the grand and glorious city, leaving bright (rather dark) Wednesday morning, March 8.

Having slept all the way to New York, we disembarked, and taking a taxi, arrived at the Taft Hotel. Two minutes later we dashed for the United Nations and toured this fabulous building on international territory.

We crashed a Broadway Theatre Wednesday evening to view the "Music Man" which set our hearts thumping and feet tapping. (We spent the next two days singing "76 Trombones.")

Crazy, Man, Crazy

Thursday morning we crawled out of the hotel and were astounded by the Guggenheim Art Museum. It certainly would be fun to rollerskate down those crazy ramps. We found the modern art quite unusual, but incomprehensible.

Following this, we ate lunch at the International House and

Practice Teaching Produces Delirium

Wordsworth's "Ode on the Immortality" is a mere limmerick compared to the profuse thoughts that tumble into one's mind as he views nine weeks of student teaching. Unfortunately, I am no Willy Wordsworth, so I'll put this in prose.

After the first tidal wave of panic subsides, and your roommate persuades you to climb out of the closet, you realize that work has to be done. You have to do some real sleuthing to find the students who have just returned from practice.

"I don't want to be unethical, but I was just thinking that you might be so gracious, and generous, as to rent me your log." (In student teacher language the word is "log," and refers to everything you manage to collect, buy, or accumulate.)

If this fails, and it probably will, you are faced with a hideous alternative: you will have to do your own work. Being no one to blissfully walk into a battle unprepared, you will decide to make an appointment with the all-knowing critic teacher. After finally tracking said critic teacher, you set the date.

The noises and atmosphere of "ye olde school" will be unfamiliar at first as you approach that classroom. You must remain undaunted by jibes from freckled, ferocious fourth graders!

stopped for a quick peek at Riverside Church.

Columbia University—here we come for our meetings—via subway. Later that evening we saw the movie "Cimarron" at Radio City Music Hall. The fellows did so enjoy the Rockettes.

Our journey to Chinatown was quite an experience, especially after we walked miles and miles in high heels.

Meetings At Columbia

Friday morning, bright and early, we traveled to Columbia for more meetings. That afternoon we were feted at the John Jay luncheon. That evening we attended "The Miracle Worker" at the Playhouse theatre, and even if we were in the third balcony, we loved every minute of the performance.

Saturday morning we walked to the Waldorf Astoria to attend another meeting in the Louis XVI Suite. The crystal chandelier and plush carpets provided a unique atmosphere for business proceedings. From there, we adjourned to the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf for our banquet.

The setting sun in Cumberland Sunday afternoon saw the train pulling into the station with its exhausted, but jubilant, cargo—the staff of State-to-Date, and a first place rating for our paper!

Mr. Cotton, even at eight o'clock, was cheerful as he handed out road maps of the trip through Garrett County. As we stood there wrapped and muzzled in woolen scarves and coats, and clutching our "pocket warmers," we thought secretly that Mr. Cotton, with his knowledge of meteorology, had purposely scheduled the trip on this icy day so we could see the rocky steeps of Western Maryland in their natural dress.

They're Off!

The class happily crawled in the cars and we were off.

After having a few of the group mysteriously disappear for a short time, we were reunited at Gay Stanton's maple sugar farm outside of Grantsville. We all asked questions about the conversion of the sap to syrup—with hopes of being rewarded with some left-over maple sugar candy.

The next stop was at the Bear Creek Fish Hatchery which the ranger informed us was not a hatchery at all, but a rearing station. The little trout were brought there a fingerling size and placed in various ponds. (The sleet was sleeting, and most of our group were retreating to the autos.)

Snowfall Lessens Vision

On the road again, we proceeded to Swallow Falls State Forest accompanied by a gentle snowfall which obstructed vision beyond ten feet. No one stumbled over Muddy Creek Falls, over 70 feet high, and we marched along the rocky ledge to the confluence of Muddy Creek at the Youghiogheny river and to Tolliver Falls. There was a discussion about renaming the falls, "Cotton Falls," but it was vetoed by said instructor.

Cold and quoting such sage comments as "and here we see an excellent example of stratified rock," the tour was directed back to the vehicle.

Route 50 was the pathway home and we arrived wary, but definitely well-traveled!

Goony Rules Insure Lowest Point Score

Say friends, are your petrified by participles, confused by commas, and utterly lacking in "sentence sense?"

For you, who are trying to learn all those rules, and especially those exceptional exceptions, here are some guaranteed rules from the "Grammarians' Grab-bag":

1. Each pronoun agrees with their antecedent.
2. Just between you and I, case is important.
3. Verbs has to agree with their subjects in number.
4. Watch out for irregular verbs which has crope into our language.
5. Don't use no double negatives.
6. A writer must not shift your point of view.
7. When dangling, don't use participles.
8. Join clauses good, like a conjunction should.
9. Don't write a run-on sentence you got to punctuate it.
10. About sentence fragments.
11. In letter themes reports articles and stuff like that we use commas to keep a string of items apart.
12. Don't use commas, which are unnecessary.
13. Its important to use apposrophe's right.
14. Don't abbrev.
15. Check to see if you any words out.
16. In my opinion I think that an author when he is writing should not get into the habit of making use of too many unnecessary words that he does not really need in order to put his message across.
17. As far as incomplete constructions, they are wrong.
18. Last but not least, lay off cliches.

I'd like to personally guarantee all these, but I just received a note to see the Dean about something called "accumulative point score." If you have any questions, please hesitate.

March 20, 1961

TO THE CITIZENS OF MARYLAND:

It is appalling to alumni, patrons and other citizens of Maryland that Dean Louis L. Kaplan, Dean of Baltimore Hebrew College and Teachers' Training School, and member of the University of Maryland Board of Regents, is willing to put into print erroneous statements concerning the prestige of Frostburg State Teachers College.

Dean Kaplan has never participated in a survey of this College in order to determine through careful research the quality of work done here. In fact, he has never visited the office of Dr. Hardesty nor the office of his predecessor, Dr. Lillian C. Compton, during her tenure—1945 to 1954.

To correct Dean Kaplan and set the record straight: Frostburg has 6 instructors in education, 9 in English, 3 in mathematics, 2 in foreign languages, 9 in science. On the faculty of Frostburg are 31.4% doctorates, 29.4% with at least a year of work beyond a master's degree, 37.2% with a master's degree and 2% with less than a master's degree.

When the arts and sciences background of the instructors is considered, one will find that many of them have been employed from faculties of liberal arts colleges and universities. In accepting faculty resignations, it is noted that liberal arts colleges and universities are anxious for the services of these instructors. Many of Frostburg's faculty members receive invitations annually for summer school teaching in liberal arts colleges and universities. This attests to the fact that their degrees are all in liberal arts courses or largely in liberal arts courses. In instruction, the Frostburg faculty is dedicated to reaching the individual student.

As to the quality of education at Frostburg: the College accepts high school graduates ranking in the upper three-fifths of their graduating classes and recommended by the superintendents of schools. To remain in college, the students must perform at a high scholastic achievement level. In the pre-professional program, the students have no difficulty in transferring to the University of Maryland and elsewhere. The students graduating next year in the four-year arts and sciences program with Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degrees plan to go on to graduate schools.

Relative to Dean Kaplan's attack on teacher education in the College: a study of the selection of courses by the students indicate that the graduates in teacher education have 68% course work in arts and sciences. The demand throughout Maryland for the graduates far exceeds the facilities to supply them. The College's accreditation has never been questioned by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools nor by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

In Dean Kaplan's stating that the problem at Frostburg is "the result of thirty years of misdirection in teacher education," he is attacking not only the administration of Dr. Hardesty, but also that of Dr. Lillian C. Compton and Dr. John L. Dunkle, both of whom are former presidents living in this area today. Such a statement by Dean Kaplan is unfounded and ridiculous.

There has been nothing to date in print or spoken word to guarantee a first-rate branch of the University of Maryland at Frostburg; for example, no mention has been made of four-year programs in mathematics, chemistry, and physics, nor to full ranking professors for the proposed University of Maryland, Frostburg. High quality of work at Frostburg today is self-evident in the success of the graduates over a long period of years.

The enrollment for September will be 1,200; the enrollment has more than doubled during the present administration. To date, 600 applications for the freshman class have reached the office; sixty of these are for four-year arts and sciences program. Due to lack of dormitory space, many students will have to be placed on a waiting list.

There is one dormitory under construction which is to be completed in December. The College has recently purchased houses on Maple Street, beginning at our athletic field and extending northward as far as Park Avenue. This will be the location of another dormitory. Eight buildings on the campus are less than seven years old.

This has been written for the two purposes of refuting the erroneous statements made by Dean Kaplan and of serving as an historical record of the development of Frostburg State Teachers College.

Outdoor Club Plans Trip To Great Falls

Sixteen members of the Outdoor Club will take an overnight camping trip to Great Falls on the Potomac River on the weekend of April 15 and 16. This will be the club's first opportunity to utilize the new camping equipment purchased last year. Advisors Dr. Waldron Skinner and Dr. Franklin Lane will accompany the group.

President Ona Kile has appointed Colleen Nies responsible for making all preparations for the trip. Traveling in the school cars, they will leave the college about 7:00 a. m. Saturday morning and return late Sunday evening.

The heavily wooded area near Great Falls offers a complete field trip for the study of plants, birds, reptiles, and other wildlife. The club will also study the C. and O. Canal.

Equipment purchased by Outdoor Club last year includes all necessary camping supplies for sixteen people. There are two large tents, several pup tents, down sleeping bags, canteens, hatchets, cooking utensils, binoculars, and wildlife guides.

Creek Boys Annex Men's Crown

Globetrotters Lose Championship Bid

Paced by the scoring of Bill Garlitz and Bob Grove, the Creek Boys of the Monday League defeated the Globetrotters by the score of 53-44 in the championship game of the Men's Intramural Basketball League.

Garlitz tallied 14 markers and Grove 10 to lead the victors. Jim Getty, husky pivot man, and Bobby Brown, speedy guard, also chipped in with nine and eight points respectively to aid the cause.

Ronnie Mann was a seemingly one-man offense for the Globetrotters by tallying 14 points. Tom Swauger although playing with a painful back injury, helped his team by scoring eight points.

Second Quarter Spurt

After battling to a 9-9 first period deadlock, the Creek Boys jumped out to a 22-13 halftime lead which they never relinquished.

Sharp second half shooting and ball-hawking by Brown, Getty, and Grove proved to be the big difference in the ball game.

The Globetrotters were visibly handicapped by Swauger's ailment and the loss of high scoring Bob Wilson.

These same two teams finished one-two in the Monday League and advanced to the finals by virtue of wins over Thursday League opponents.

Globetrotters defeated the Faculty 59-46 to gain the rights to the championship game.

Make Finals

In one of the most closely contested games all year, the Creek Boys defeated the Rimrammers 55-52 and advanced to the final game.

Made up mainly of players from the Valley-Bruce High School area, the winning team included Bob Grove, Bill Garlitz, Jim Getty, Harlan Carlson, Jim Moffit, Jim Stakem, Wayne Foote, Jerry Llewellyn, and Bob Weimer.

Golf, Tennis, Track Squads Open Seasons With Home Appearances

This golf match will be the first of four opening dates to be staged by the golf, tennis, baseball and track teams.

Intramural League Ends Seasonal Play; Two Lead Scorers

Scoring throughout the season and in the play-offs in the Men's Intramural League was widely and evenly distributed. This can be attributed to the unusually high number of top notch basketball players participating in the league.

The Monday League, showing such strong, well-balanced teams as Creek Boys, Globetrotters, and Eckhart Miners, was paced in scoring by Bill Garlitz of the Creek Boys.

In the eight games played Garlitz hit for a total of 25.5 per game thus totalling 204 points for the year. He was closely followed by Bill McLuckie of the Mau Maus who scored 160 points or 20 per game.

New Records

McLuckie set a new single game mark for the Monday League by tallying 50 points against the Cougars.

Mike Parsons and Paul Flynn, from the Sigma Tau Gamma entry, paced the Thursday League scoring.

Parsons led the league, amassing a total of 166 points in eight games. He also set a new single game mark by registering 53 points against the Monsters.

Paul Flynn, scoring champ last year, finished second to his teammate in total points and average. He scored an average of 14.7 tallies a game for a total of 147.

With the ending of the championship game another successful season was concluded.

Harold's Herald

By Harold Schriver

With the ending of the just completed basketball season, one of the most colorful and outstanding careers came to an end.

After completing four highly successful seasons as a member of the varsity cage team, "Butch" Young can look back on his court accomplishments with pride and admiration of a job well done.

"Butch's" four year totals are indicative of the type of play he is capable of and also of his desire to do better.

As a freshman on a star-studded five that recorded an 18-3 mark, "Butch" saw limited action but made his presence felt once he was on the floor. It was also during this year that he was on the receiving end of an unfortunate accident that all but brought an abrupt end to his career.

Playing in his second year, which possibly could have been his best in point production, "Butch" met with scholastic difficulties and played only half the season.

His last two years, as witnessed by most of you, were the best in team play and individual performances by "Butch."

As a fitting climax to a truly amazing career, "Butch" tallied 25 points against a rough Indiana State team, the highest against a four-year school.

This past year he scored on 104-256 attempts, leading the team with a .406 accuracy mark.

Terry Rizer and Bill Bruchey are the returning outfielders. Rounding out the fly-chasing unit will be fleet-of-foot Bob Wiles and Jack Schroder.

'Iron Mike' Helps

With addition of the automatic pitching machine "Iron Mike" the Bobcats camp will be emphasizing hitting in their early spring drills.

Plenty of hustle and determination are evident in early practice sessions. With these two factors and a good attitude by the players the diamond squad should be able to give the fans some well played and interesting games.
