

Selected Poetry.
Little Gray.
Take care of Gray, Grandpa, Little Gray, Who is leaving us all day,
For his home in the city beyond The beautiful, quiet Bay.
Grandma and Auntie will miss him so,
The house will seem so still and lone;
The golden days will be quite enough When his smile and "Gray-Bird" is gone.
We'll miss the pat-pat of his tiny feet On the old-fashioned samite floor;
The wee, clinging hands, and sweet baby voice,
And winning, gray eyes at the door.
Poor Little Gray will miss his old nurse, too—How his canine heart must thrill with joy!
As he sits in the corner snug and warm, Undisturbed by the mischievous boy.
But Auntie will miss him the most I ween When the long days wander away Through the golden days that ebb and flow Naught but shadows of mournful gray. [ed She'll miss the happy, peaceful days of yore, When over the whistling land
The starry light of the twilight First reached forth her mystic hand.
And the empty, old walnut cradle, We'll carry up stairs out of sight,
For the heavy, old-fashioned neckers Will not soothe our baby to-night.
His little "tag chair" in the kitchen Seems terribly vacant to-day While here lie the rude little play-things He scattered last night in his play.
Oh! the old house will be very lonely Through the long, long, lonesome days, We'll miss the brown eyes of our "Baby"
And his cunningly winsome ways.
But Auntie will still love her darling His beautiful, bonny-eyed pet, Others may cease to remember But Auntie will never forget.
March, 1871.

The Perfect Day.
When the first faint streaks of the coming dawn tremble along the Eastern horizon, a little bird begins his matin song; from tree to tree, from grove the chorus spreads, until the whole land is vocal with sweet songs of instinctive gratitude and praise to Him without whose knowledge not even a sparrow can fall to the ground.
The bright flowers raise their drooping heads and lift their dainty lids beneath the fiery Sun's impassioned ray, while the grassy meadows and green trees, in the beautiful morning light, seem newly clad in verdure.
But, soon, "the fervid Noon uplifts, his gleaming shield," and the dull, drowsy hours more languidly go on toward the shadowy hills where dusky twilight, with finger on her lip, "pushes the beating pulse of nature into dreamless slumber, and spreads her soft gray mantle under the approaching feet of her sable Queen." Nothing is perfect here below. Our brightest day, even though no tempest cloud should mar its beauty, must eventually put on the shroud of night and disappear forever from the shores of Time. So is it with the inner world of ours, where our spirits wander like restless phantoms, seeking some satisfying pleasure, some permanent good, in vain. Just as we begin to thank God for the glorious morn-break of divine love and mercy, our sin-tossed souls are thrown anew into the fiery furnace of temptation. Just as our glad eyes hail with joy the first, precious beams of the "Sun of Righteousness," a cloud shuts in the glory and, our spiritual sky seems darker than before. Day after day, our weary souls long for perfect bliss. Year after year passes, and still the coveted prize eludes our eager grasp. The further on we go, the darker grows the way. Thins cover the roses, shadows hide the sunshine, and the "lough of Despond" is at the end of every road.
Where shall we find that blessed perfection which earthly life fails to yield? Soon our glorious sun shall set to rise no more, and the lurid glare of falling stars light up a scene of awful desolation, then shall you and I, dear reader, and every Christian, hyperite, would-be-atheist—all up-ol-ders of every doctrine, true or false, stand in the presence of the awful Judge. My spirit turns with awe from such solemn contemplations, but dwells with rapture upon the sweet hope of standing by-and-by on the shining hills of glory:
"At and think of the fair dawn that comes To carnion souls, fadeless and fresh for aye;
And all the tender calm, and peace and rest Of the long noontide of eternal day.
Smiling, I cross my palms upon my breast,
And pain and sadness fade like mist away; Beyond these shadowed forms and changeful noons
Dawns the sweet splendor of a Perfect Day." Epstein.

THE MAIDEN.—This instrument with which they formerly beheaded criminals in Scotland was carried from the forest of Hardwick, in England, where it was used in the days of Elizabeth, by the Regent Morton who caused a model to be made of it—but he himself perished by it. It was very similar to the guillotine of France.
BELLS.—St Paulinus, who was made bishop of Nola, in Campania, was the first who used bells in church. By the command of Moses the lower part of the blue-robe used by the high priest in religious ceremonies was adorned with pomegranates and gold bells, intermixed at equal distances.
The blowing of bells is more ancient than A. D. 785.
ALPHABET.—This term was invented by a Frenchman, a Frenchman of the name of Alph. was born A. D. 1658.
The old Saxons styled the moon Alf—quite of their descendants.

SEASON OF 1870-71.
MASON & HAMLIN CABINET
ORGANS.
Important Improvements.
Patented June 21st, and August 23, 1870.
Reduction of Prices.
The Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., have the pleasure of announcing important improvements in their Cabinet Organs, for which Patents were granted them in June and August last. These are not merely superficial adjustments, but enhance the substantial excellence of the instruments.
They are also enabled by increased facilities for manufacture, to make, from this date, a further reduction of prices on several leading styles.
Having completed and added to their former facilities a large new manufactory, they hope hereafter to supply all orders promptly.
The Cabinet Organ made by this Company are of such universal reputation, not only throughout America, but also in Europe, that few will need assurance of their superiority.
They now offer FOUR OCTAVE CABINET ORGANS, in quite plain cases, but equal according to their capacity to anything they make, for $50 each. The same, Double Reed, $65. Five Stops, with Knee swell and Trem-ulant, in elegant case, with several of the Mason & Hamlin Improvements, $125. The same, with new Vox Humana, Automatic Swell, &c., $180. Five Octaves, Treble Solo Reed, Seven Stops with Epiphany; a splendid instrument, $225.
A new illustrated catalogue with full information and reduced prices, is now ready, and will be sent free, with a testimonial circular, presenting a great mass of evidence as to the superiority of these instruments, to any one sending his address to the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., 161 Tremont St., Boston, or Will be given for any case of this disease that occurs to any one that uses the Bitters or Tonic as a preventive.

H
Those who have the Fever and Ague will find, after the chills have stopped, that by using a few bottles of the Bitters or Tonic, that the disease will not return.
These remedies will rebuild their Constitution faster than any other known remedy.
The remedies were placed before the public thirty years ago, with a like prejudice of so-called "patent medicine" operating against them, but gradually their virtues became known, and now, to-day, they stand at the head of all preparations of this class, with indisputable evidence of eminent judges, lawyers, clergymen and physicians.
Read the following symptoms, and if you find that your system is affected by any of them you may rest assured that disease has commenced its attack on the most important organs of your body, and unless soon checked by the use of powerful remedies, a miserable life, soon terminating in death, will be the result.

HOOFLAND'S
German Bitters,
Is entirely vegetable and contains no liquor.
It is a compound of Fluid Extracts. The Roots Herbs and Barks from which these extracts are made, are gathered in Germany, all the medicinal virtues are extracted from them by a scientific process. These extracts are then forwarded to this country to be used expressly for the manufacture of this Bitter. There is no alcoholic substance of any kind used in compounding the Bitters, hence it is free from all the objections incident to the use of a liquor preparation.

TESTIMONY
Like the following was never before offered in behalf of any medicinal preparation:
HON. G. W. WOODWARD, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, writes:
Philadelphia, March 10th, 1867
I find "Hoofland's German Bitters," a good Tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility and want of nervous action on the system.
Yours, truly,
Geo. W. Woodward.
HON. JAMES THOMPSON,
Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, April 22d, 1866.
I consider "Hoofland's Bitters," a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion of Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it.
Yours, with respect,
JAMES THOMPSON.
HON. GEO. BARSWOOD,
Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, June
I have found by experience that "Hoofland's German Bitters," is a very good tonic, allaying dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE BARSWOOD
JOHN EUTERMARKS, Esq.,

Helmhold's Fluid Extract Buchu.
Is the great specific for Universal Lassitude;
The Constitution once affected with organic Weakness, requires the aid of Medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which Helmhold's Extract Buchu invariably does.
If no treatment is submitted to, Consumption or insanity ensues.
Helmhold's Fluid Extract Buchu.
In affections peculiar to Females, is unequalled by any other preparation as in Chlorosis, or retention of Menstruation, or suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Scirrhous State of the Uterus, and all complaints incident to the sex, or the decline or change of life.
Helmhold's Fluid Extract Buchu and Improved Rose Wash
Will radically exterminate from the system diseases arising from habits of dissipation, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience or exposure, completely super-ceding those dangerous remedies, Copava and Mercury, in all these diseases.
Use Helmhold's Fluid Extract Buchu
In all diseases of these organs, whether existing in male or female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter how long standing.
It is pleasant in taste and odor, "immediate" in action, and more strengthening than any of the preparations of Bark or Iron.
Those suffering from broken-down or delicate constitutions; procure the remedy a once.
The reader must be aware that, however slight may be the attack of the above disease it is certain to affect the bodily health and men-

Scientifically Developed.
As mankind, from indiscretion or other causes, has been doomed to suffer from disease, so also has recently for disease been provided. Our hills and valleys abound with roots and herbs, which if scientifically prepared and compounded, will restore health and vigor to the invalid. To find such a remedy we should seek one that has stood the test of age.

Those who have the Fever and Ague will
find, after the chills have stopped, that by us-
the disease will not return.
These remedies will rebuild their Constitution faster than any other known remedy.
The remedies were placed before the public
thirty years ago, with a like prejudice of so-
called "patent medicine" operating against
them, but gradually their virtues became
known, and now, to-day, they stand at the head of all preparations of this class, with indisputable evidence of eminent judges, lawyers, clergy-
men and physicians.
Read the following symptoms, and if you
find that your system is affected by any of them
you may rest assured that disease has com-
of your body, and unless soon checked by the use of powerful remedies, a miserable life, soon
terminating in death, will be the result.

no alcoholic substance of any kind used in
compounding the Bitters, hence it is free from

FARMER'S COLUMN.

Applying Manure on the Furrow.

I have long been thinking of sending you an account of my success in applying manure on the furrow, after the seed is turned under. And here let me say that I have done so, and for the last four years I have put the manure on the furrow and harrowed thoroughly; and have never had a poor crop of corn, wheat, or oats; only in that time I ridged the ground and the corn was a failure. No more ridging on my farm.

I do not think fall plowing the best as a general thing. I usually have a large pile of stable manure, which gets in the way by the middle of winter, and I manage to have enough plowed in the fall to use up what manure we draw in winter; the rest remains until the frost is out in spring; then plow and spread over the rest of the field, and harrow all together. One year ago we plowed our whole field—manured half of it in winter and the rest in May. After the drought here in, it was so dry that the manure drew up in front of the harrow so much that I had to stop the horses once in ten rods to unload. I concluded then that I should have one fallow with manure on the top, unless it rained soon, but no rain came, and when we hauled the first time, the manure drew up in front of the cultivator; second and third times we used a plow, the last being very little manure to be seen; but such a crop of corn and pumpkins has not been raised in my neighborhood for years. One corner of the lot, a three cornered piece, was sowed with common Yankee corn, for the cows, and it grew so thick and stout that a man could hardly get through it; good part of it measured over ten feet high. I manured on the top in such a dry season as the past will not fail, when will it?

And let me say here: First, land is good corn land. Second, I manure about forty cars to the acre, with clear manure—the horse manure put in the bottom of the drop-back of the cow, daily, which absorbs the liquid, and the whole is thrown out under the barn. No straw is used here for litter, only in the yard, that remains until after haying, and is put on the meadows. Third, when the corn ground is thus fitted, I take the plaster sower and go over the piece, sowing enough to make the manure or soil white, three or four bushels to the acre; this holds the moisture to the manure. I then mark out the rows, and sow the corn, and put four cars in a hill. When this is all done early success is certain—Cor. Country Gentleman.

To Rejuvenate Peach Trees.

The following is the substance of a communication made by Dr. George B. Wood, to the American Philosophical Society, of which he is President:

"Peach trees, after producing a few crops, not only cease bearing, but perish in a short time; whereas their natural life is fifty or sixty years, or more. The cause of this defective power of growth to a deficiency of potash in the soil. And if this alkali be supplied to the tree, so that it shall reach the small roots and be absorbed the fruit-bearing power is restored and the fruit itself prematurely perishing, is recovered. Believing at first with most persons, that the cause of decay lay in worms at the root of the peach tree, Dr. Wood put in operation a plan which he had seen his father perform more than fifty years before, viz., of digging around the base of the stem, to the depth of four or five inches deep, scraping away all the worms that could be found burrowing at the junction of the stem and root, and filling the hole thus made with wood-ashes from the fire, which of course retains all their potash. This was done in the Autumn of 1868, and with a result in the following Spring at which he himself was astonished. The trees appeared to have been restored to all their early vigor and freshness; they put forth bright green leaves, blossoming copiously, and bore a crop of fruit such as they had never borne before, many of the branches breaking down under the load of peaches. Dr. Wood, in reflecting on these results, noticed that several of the peach trees had no worms, and came in the conclusion that we must look for an explanation to some other cause than the destruction of a few worms; and this cause he believed to be the ashes, the potash of which, being dissolved by the rain, had descended along the roots to the rootlets and presented to them the very food for the want of which they were dying. Decaying apple trees, bearing stunted and inedible fruit, have been revived by a similar process, and with like results."

Manuring Orchards.

By Wm. McCORMY.

About ten years ago I became owner of an orchard in this county, of which I had some knowledge from the time it was first planted. It was composed of the best varieties of apples of the kind the most cultivated. I was greatly surprised, however, to see the appearance of the trees as well as the quality of the fruit. The trees had for some time been entirely neglected, and exhibited a wild and scrubby appearance, very similar to the crab apple and their fruit, but little superior either in size or quality.

I resolved to try the effect of thorough pruning, cultivation and manuring. As a consequence, I plowed, limed and manured the orchard well and planted it in corn. This season I obtained but little fruit, but this was owing to a general failure of the best crop throughout the country, on account of a long continuance of rainy weather during the blossoming time. The trees exhibited, nevertheless, during the season, renewed vitality, there being a change in the foliage and growth of the trees, as well as in the size and quality of the fruit. Indeed, the trees seemed to have taken a new hold on life, and made more growth in one season than before they had done in two. Their foliage was of a rich, dark green color, and even the blossoms seemed to become more beautiful and attractive. The effect of the manuring and other attention became manifest to satisfaction in the following year, when I saw the several trees which I continued to care for, and which were neglected by my neighbors, who had been told that little or none—Zan.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S COMPOUND FLUID GRAPE PILLS.

Component Parts—Fluid Extract Rhubarb and Fluid Extract Cathartica Grape Juice.

For Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Bilious Affections, Sick or Nervous Headache, Constipation, Etc. Purely Vegetable. Containing no Mercury, Minerals or Deleterious Drugs.

These Pills are a pleasant purgative, super-saturating the system with cathartics. There is nothing more salutary to the stomach. They give tone and cause neither nausea nor griping pains. After a few days' use of them, such an invigoration of the entire system takes place as is due to the weak and enervated. H. T. Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract Cathartica Grape Pills are not sugar-coated; sugar-coated pills pass through the stomach without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desired effect. The Cathartica Grape Pills, being pleasant in taste and odor, do not necessitate their being sugar-coated, and are prepared according to rules of Pharmacy and Chemistry, and are not Patent Medicines.

THE LORD'S PRAYER.

BY C. M.

Our Father, Thou art all that live

And we know, how dare we claim

Like children, place within Thy heart?

Are Thy children? We reach

The highest of life that's given To glorify the Eternal Name.

Then be with those who are in Heaven.

Hallowed, oh Father, be Thy name.

So holy that no mortal tongue

May dare to breathe its reverend

In sacred speech or sacred song.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

As it is done in Heaven above.

Thy will be done, oh God, on earth,

SIMMONS'

The symptoms of Liver Complaint are unpleasant, and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is made more acute by the use of alcohol. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness.
In general, constitutional ailments, such as indigestion, nervous debility, and all other ailments, are the result of a diseased liver. The liver is generally the organ most injured by the use of alcohol.

Selected Poetry.

Beautiful Things.
BY MRS. M. A. RIDDER.

A gentle voice, a heartfelt sigh,
A modest blush, a speaking eye,
A manner unaffected, free;
These things are beautiful to me.

A ready hand, a loving heart,
A system that's free from art, A friend among the few;
These things are beautiful to me.

A mother's prayer, an answer mild, A sister's love, a jewel rare,
A happy home, a cheerful hearth;
These things are beautiful to me.

A joyful song, a chorus sweet,
A day of peace, a night of rest, These things are beautiful and blest.

A sister's love, a brother's care,
A spousal name, a jewel rare,
A cleanly tongue, that will not lie;
These things are beautiful to me.

Because they all are born of love,
And emanate from God above;
An earnest of the heavenly birth, These things are beautiful on earth.

A Life.

I came at noon; 'twas Spring—I smiled;
The fields with green were clad;
I walked abroad at noon—and lo!
'Twas Summer—I was glad.

I sat me down; 'twas Autumn eve,
And I with sadness wept;
I laid me down at night, and then 'Twas Winter—and I slept.

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

MY MARK TWAIN.

Two or three persons having different times indicated that if I would write an autobiography they would read it when they got leisure. I yielded at last to this friendly public demand, and herewith tender my history:

Ours is a noble old house, and stretches a long way back into antiquity. The earliest ancestor the Twains have any record of was a friend of the family by the name of Higgins. This was in the eleventh century, when our people were living in Aberdeen, county of Cork, England. Why it is that our long line has ever since borne the maternal name (except when one of them now and then took a playful refuge in an alias to avert foolishness,) instead of Higgins, is a mystery which none of us has ever felt much desire to stir. It is a kind of vague pretty romance, and we leave it alone. All the old families do that way.

Arthur Twain was a man of considerable note—a solicitor on the high ways in William Rufus' time. At about the age of thirty he went to one of those fine old English places of resort called Newgate, to see about something, and never returned again. While there he died suddenly.

Augustus Twain seems to have made something of a stir about the year 4150.
He was as full of fun as he could be, and used to take his old sabre and sharpen it up, and get in a convenient place on a dark night, and stick it through people as they went by, to see them jump. He was a born humorist. But he got to going too far with it; and the first time he was found stripping one of these parties the authorities removed one end of him, and put it up on a nice high place on Temple Bar, where it could contemplate the people and have a good time. He never liked any situation so much or stuck to it so long.

Then for the next two hundred years the family tree shows a succession of soldiers—noble, high-spirited fellows, who always went out a whooping right ahead of it.

This is a scathing rebuke to old dead Froissart's poor witicism that our family tree never had but one limb to it, and that one struck out at right angles, and bore fruit winter and summer.

Early in the fifteenth century we have Beau Twain, called the "The Scholar." He wrote a beautiful, beautiful hand. And he could imitate anybody's hand so closely that it was enough to make a person laugh his head off to see it. He had infinite sport with his talent. But by and by he took a contract to break stones for a road, and the roughness of work spoiled his hand.
Still he enjoyed life all the time he was in the stone business, which, with inconsiderate intervals, was some forty-two years.
In fact, he died in harness. During all these long years he gave such satisfaction that he never was through with one contract a week till the Government gave him another. He was a perfect pet. And he was always a favorite with his fellow artists, and was a conspicuous member of their benevolent secret society, called the Chain Gang. He always wore his hair short, had a preference for striped clothes, and died lamented by the Government.

He was a sure loss to his country, for he was so regular.

Some years later we have the illustrious John Morgan Twain. He came over to this country with Columbus in 1492, as a passenger. He appears to have been of a crusty, uncomfortable disposition. He complained of the food all the way over, and was always threatening to go ashore unless there was a change. He wanted fresh shad. Hardly a day passed over his head that he did not go idling about the ship with his nose in the air, sneering about the commander, and saying he did not believe Columbus knew where he was going to or had ever been there before. The memorable cry of "Land, ho!" thrilled every heart in the ship but his. He gazed awhile through a piece of smoked glass at the penciled line lying in the distant water, and then said: "Land be hanged, it's a raft!"

When this questionable passenger came on board the ship, he brought nothing with him but an old newspaper containing a handkerchief marked "B. G." one cotton sock marked "L. W. C." one woolen one marked "D. F." and a night-shirt marked "O. M. R." And yet during the voyage he worried more about his trunk and gave himself more airs about it than all the rest of the passengers put together.
If the ship was down by the head, and would not steer, he would go and move his trunk further aft, and then watch the effect. If the ship was by the stern he would suggest to Columbus to detail someone to shift that baggage. In storms he had to be gagged, because his wallings about his trunk made it impossible for the men to hear the orders. The man does not appear to have been openly charged with any gravenly unbecoming thing, but noted in the ship's log as a "curious circumstance" that albeit he brought his baggage on board the ship in a newspaper, he took it ashore in four trunks, a queens ware crate, and a couple of champagne baskets.

But when he came back insinuating in an insolent, swaggering way, that some of his things were missing, and was going to search the other passengers' baggage, it was too much, and they threw him overboard. They watched long and wonder-ingly for him to come up, but not even a bubble rose on the quietly ebbing tide.
But while every one was most absorbed in gazing over the side, and the interest was momentarily increasing, it was observed with consternation that the vessel was adrift and the anchor cable hanging limp from the bow. Then in the ship's dimmed and ancient log we find this quaint note:

"In time it was discovered at ye troublesome passenger hadde goune downe and got ye anchor, and toke ye same and solde it to ye saunders from ye interior, saying it he hadde founde it, ye sonne of a ghun!"

Yet this ancestor had noble instincts, and it is with pride that we call to mind the fact that he was the first white person who ever interested himself in the work of elevating and civilizing our Indians.
He built a commodious jail and put up a gallows and to his dying day he claimed with satisfaction that he had had a more restraining and elevating influence on the Indians than any other reformer that ever labored among them. At this point the chronicle becomes less frank and chatty, and closes abruptly by saying that the old voyager went to see his gallows perform on the first white man over hanged in America, and while there received injuries which terminated in his death.

The great grandson of the "Reform er" flourished in sixteen hundred and something and was known in our annals as "the old Admiral," though in history he had other titles. He was long in command of fleets of swift vessels, well-armed and manned, and did great service in hurrying up merchandise. Vessels which he followed and kept his eagle eye on always made good fair time across the ocean. But if a ship still loitered in spite of all he could do his indignation would grow till he could contain himself no longer—and then he would take that ship home where he lived and keep it there carefully expecting the owners to come for it, but they never did.
And he would try to get the idleness and aloofness of the sailors of that ship by compelling them to take invigorating exercise and a bath. He called it "walking a plank." All the pupils liked it. At any rate, they never found fault with it after trying it. When the owners were late coming for their ships the Admiral always burned them, so that the insurance money should not be lost. At last this fine old earl was cut down in the fullness of his years and honors. And to her dying day his poor heart-broken widow believed that if he had been cut down fifteen minutes sooner he might have been resuscitated.

Charles Henry Twain lived during the latter part of the seventeenth century, and was a zealous and distinguished missionary.
He converted 16,000 South Sea Islanders, and taught them that a dog-tooth necklace and a pair of spectacles was not enough clothing to come to divine service in. His poor book loved him very, very dearly, and when his funeral was over, they got up in a body (and came out of the restaurant) with tears in their eyes, and saying one to another, that he was a good tender missionary and they wished they had some more of him.

Pah-go-to-wah—wah—pohkokeewin (Mighty Hunter with a Hog-Eye) Twain adorned the middle of the eighteenth century, and aided General Braddock with all his heart to resist the oppressing Washington. It was this ancestor who fired seventeen times at our Washington from behind a tree. So far the beautiful romantic narrative in the moral story-books is correct but when that narrative goes on to say that at the seventeenth round the awestricken savage said solemnly that that man was being reserved by the Great Spirit for some mighty mission, and he dared not lift his sacriligious rifle against him again, the narrative seriously impairs the integrity of history. What he did say was:

"It ain't no (hic) no use. 'At man' so drunk he can't stan' still long enough for a man to hit him. I (hic) I can't 'ford to fool away any more am'nition on him!"

That was why he stopped at the seventeenth round, and it was in good, plain, matter-of-fact reason, too, and one that easily commends itself to us by the eloquent, persuasive flavor of probability there is about it.

I always enjoyed the story-book narrative, but I felt a marring mingling that every Indian at Braddock's defeat who fired at a soldier a couple of times (two easily grows to seventeen in a century), and missed him, jumped to the conclusion that the Great Spirit was reserving that soldier for some great mission; and so I somehow feared that the only reason why Washington's case is remembered and the others forgotten, is, that in his prophesy came true, and in that of others it did not.

There are not books enough on earth to contain the record of the prophecies Indians and other unauthorized parties have made; but one may carry in his overcoat pockets the record of all the prophecies that have been fulfilled.

I will remark here, in passing, that certain ancestors of mine are so thoroughly well known in history by their disasters that I never felt it to be worth while to mention them in the order of their birth.

Among those may be mentioned Richard Brinsley Twain alias Guy Pawkes, John Westworth Twain alias Sixteen String Jack, William Hogarth Twain alias Jack Sheppard, Ananias Twain alias Ba-on Muncheon, John George Twain alias Captain Kydd, and then there are George Francis Train, Tom Pepper, Nebuchadnezar and Balaam's Ass—they all belong to our family, but to a branch of it somewhat distinctly removed from the honorable direct line—in fact, a collateral branch, whose members chiefly differ from the ancient stock in that, in order to acquire the notoriety we have always yearned and hungered for, they have got into a low way of going to jail instead of getting hanged.

It is not well, when writing an autobiography to follow your ancestry down too close to your own time—it is safest to speak vaguely of your great grandfather, and then skip from him to yourself, which I now do.

I was born without teeth—and there Richard III. had the advantage of me, but I was born without a humpback, likewise, and there I had the advantage of him.
My parents were neither very poor nor conspicuous.

But now a thought occurs to me. My own history would really seem so tame, contrasted with that of my ancestors, that it is simply wisdom to leave it until I am hanged. If some other biographies I have read had stopped with the ancestry until a like event occurred, it would have been a felicitous thing for the reading public.
How does it strike you?

—Some men move through life as a band of music moves down the street, singing out pleasure on every side through the air to every one far and near, who can listen. Some men fill the air with their presence and sweetness, as orchards, in October days, fill the air with the perfume of ripe fruit. Some women cling to their own houses like the honeysuckle over the door, yet, like it, fill all the region with the subtle fragrance of their goodness. How great a bounty and a blessing is it so to hold the royal gifts of the soul that they be music to some
