MARYLAND FARMS.

Fifteen farms at a sacrifice! Build, ing on all. Plenty of wood and timber to sup. art them. Good water, fine oil mato, two railroads, good schools and churches. Near the ocean, abundance of water products. Ideal for horticulture. Harrison's trees are a sample of what they will produce. Climate modified by ocean and bay. Come and look, is no mistake. Farms of 150 to 1,000 acres, some with 100 acres at an average $25 per acre. The Eastern Maryland, because of its position, is the garden of the Eastern States; so those who wish to spend their money in a better climate and have a farm and a home, when they can, you can have it. What do you want? Yours truly,
J. H. BOWELL.

NATURAL OYSTER BEDS

Defined By The Maryland Shell Fish Commission. A Conclusion Of Great Concern To The Oyster-Ing Interests.

Upon the question of a definition of a natural oyster bar or bed, which the Maryland Shell Fish Commission has had under consideration for a long time, the following statement has been given out by the Commission:

The members of the Maryland Shell Fish Commission have had the question of a definition of a "natural oyster bar or bed" under careful consideration from the date on which they took the oath of office.

On January 24 the board met to discuss the question and definitely adopted if possible, a definition of a natural bar or bed which, in its application to the oyster bottoms surveyed, will work no hardship to the oystermen and at the same time will give the encouragement to oyster planting which was designed to be given to it by the Legislature which passed the measure under which the survey is being made.

In any definition which might be formulated it was recognized that the following factors must enter vitally: First—The length of time during the dredging and tonging seasons when actual tonging or dredging operations can be carried on.

Second—The sum of money which represents the minimum livelihood, or living wage, of a tonger or dredger.

Third—The number of oysters per legal bushel as tonged or dredged from the oyster grounds and offered for sale.

Fourth—The price per bushel which represents a fair average of that received by the tonger and dredger.

Fifth—A number of bushels of oysters which sold at the above average price will yield the sums taken to represent the livelihood, or living wage, of a tonger or dredger.

Based For Determination.

To get a basis for determining the time available for tonging during a tonging season, records of the days actually spent by individual tongers during several seasons were requested, also the amount of oysters caught each day and the price received. Records were also received from Mr. C. F. von Herrmann of the Baltimore branch of the United States Weather Bureau, showing the weather conditions every day during five tonging seasons at several stations on the bay. From these records it was found that the number of days when tonging was actually done, or might have been done, during six tonging seasons were 65, 100, 101, 90, 90 and 98. The board therefore adopted 100 days of eight hours each for the purposes of effecting a basis for calculation upon which the status of oyster grounds may be hereafter determined.

8. The board, believing that an oysterman is not justified in working on a bar unless he could make at least 75 cents a day, over and above expenses, for every day of the tonging season, adopted $97.50 as the minimum livelihood of the tonger; this sum containing the following items: Net income at 75 cents a day, $117.25; pay of call boy for 100 days, $75; tonging license, $3.75; interest on invested capital and wear and tear on boat and tongs, $31.4 and 3—The above sum can be earned by selling 463 3-5 bushels of oysters at 60 cents a bushel. The board, therefore, adopted 463 3-5 bushels of oysters to represent the minimum livelihood of tongers.

Number In A Bushel.

9. The number of oysters to be counted as a legal bushel in the basis for calculation which was accepted by the board is 329, this being the number found from the counts and measurements made from the tonging operations during the survey. The factors which enter into decisions regarding dredging grounds have not been determined, but are now under consideration by the board.

Knowing the number of marketable oysters per square yard which may be taken by a tonger at certain spots on a bar; knowing from the chain record whether these spots represent an average condition of the bottom or not; knowing the depth of water over the bar, the amount of ground in these depths which can be covered by a tonger during a day and a season; knowing how many oysters which must be caught in order to sell for a portion of the livelihood, it is possible to arrive at a conclusion as to the condition of the bottom in question and decide whether it is to be set aside as a natural bar or declared to be a barren bottom.

From the table constructed from the factors adopted by the board for the purpose of effecting a basis for calculations upon which natural oyster bars may be hereafter determined, the following statements are taken since they give a more intelligible view of the action taken to solve a most difficult question.

What Is A Natural Bar?

A tonger working on a bar of water covers 100 square yards in

To Inspect State Militia.

Capt. William Baird, United States Army, retired, assigned to duty by the War Department with the Maryland Militia, and the arm inspecting officer of the National Guard, will soon begin his annual tour, during which all the military organizations of Maryland will be visited. The inspection is for the purpose of ascertaining to what degree the Maryland National Guard has complied with the conditions necessary for the state to avail itself of the appropriations under the Dick act for the improvement of the militia of the different states. The date for inspecting Co. I. of Salisbury is March 28.

ten minutes' work; 980 square yards a day, and about 9 acres a season. On bottoms located in this depth he can make the minimum livelihood, provided there are three oysters on every two square yards. Working in ten feet of water, he can cover 6.4 yards in ten minutes, 403 square yards a day, and 8-12 acres a season. He can make the minimum livelihood at this depth on bottoms which contain 16 oysters per four square yards. It is not necessary to quote further from the table in order for everyone to see its workings and its fairness to the oystermen's interests.

A NOVEL EVENT.

One Hundred Skaters Take Part In Spectacular Grand March At Auditorium Hall.

Another large crowd of spectators assembled at Showell's Auditorium Hall Thursday evening to witness the grand march which was the special feature as advertised. About 100 skaters formed in line for the march, and while the band played a splendid march tune, the skaters formed pretty designs, winding and unwinding themselves, until they finally came to the same position on the floor from which they had started. The march was led by Prof. and Mrs. Joseph Hall, of Easton, Md.

Prof. Hall made the announcement at the conclusion of the march that it was a better performance than had ever been given at the Easton skating rink.

The large audience seemed well pleased with the attraction and by special request the march was repeated led by Mrs. E. C. Fulton and Mr. Harvey Robson.

Another amusing feature was a potato race which was given earlier in the evening. A number of potatoes were placed in a barrel at the extreme end of the building, and several small tubs (one for each contestant) were placed at the other end. The contestant who has the greatest number of potatoes in his tub when the barrel is emptied wins the race provided he has placed only one potato in the tub at a time, making a trip to the barrel for each potato. The honor fell to Dallas Waller, the youngest contestant.

Mysterious Monday.

Mr. Showell announces that on Monday evening the funniest, most laughable entertainment will be the attraction. While the exact nature of the performance will not be known, as it is the object of the management to surprise the spectators, it is hinted that the little colored boys will play a prominent part in the evenings entertainment.

Polo With Easton, Thursday.

On Thursday evening a game of polo has been arranged with the Easton team. This promises to be an exciting event. Easton claims the champion of the state having beaten several Baltimore teams and the best teams of Wilmington. Salisbury expects a hard fight, but as the local team is in constant practice they will probably make it hot for the visitors.

TO PAVE PROPERTY.

N. Y. P. & N. R. R. Co., Will Make Improvements At The Station.

According to a letter from Superintendent G. A. Rodgers, of the N. Y. P. & N. R. R. Co., the company contemplates paving their property along the tracks at the station and also from the station to the junction of the B. O. and A. R. R.; or what is known as Railroad Street.

The company is making this great improvement because the city has paved E. Church Street as far as their property and are now at work on two big sewers, one on William and one on Isabella street, which will properly drain Railroad Avenue. The paving as contemplated will be a big improvement to this section of the city and will be much appreciated by those who find it necessary to drive in that section. It will also be an incentive to citizens of Salisbury to progress further with street improvement.

B. L. GILLIS & SON.

Plan Enlarged Improvements To Warehouse On Mill Street.

Plans have been prepared for the extensive improvements to be made to the warehouse of B. L. Gillis & Co., on Mill Street.

The plans for the enlargement of the warehouse call for the building of a 45 foot extension on the north end. This will be a story and a half addition, the same as the present warehouse.

On the east side of the building will be erected a two story extension 30x20 feet forming a "T." This extension is to be arranged so that one can be run under it for the loading and unloading of grain and merchandise. The upper story is to be used as a grain elevator, equipped with conveyors and other devices for handling grain. These improvements will add vastly to the present facilities for handling goods.

In addition to the above the firm contemplates erecting a brick stable 41x20 feet on the lot recently purchased from the Gottschalk estate, located on the alley running along the storehouse of B. L. Gillis & Son, from Dock street to the river. From this stable a hood will extend to the Gillis storehouse, so that the teams will be protected in all kinds of weather while loads are being loaded or unloaded.

These improvements will add to the present excellent facilities enjoyed by the firm of B. L. Gillis & Son, which ranks among the largest wholesale grocery houses on the Eastern Shore.

WITHDRAWAL FROM LARGE

Lumber Firm By C. R. Disharoon. Stock Bought By Other Members of E. S. Adkins & Co.

Hon. Chas. R. Disharoon has withdrawn from the lumber corporation of E. S. Adkins & Co. His stock has been bought by the other members of the firm, consisting of Messrs. E. S. Adkins, F. P. Adkins, E. Dale Adkins. This firm was organized by Mr. E. S. Adkins in 1898.

When the firm became a member in this firm has increased their operations until today they have one of the largest business plants of its kind, outside of The Jackson Bros. section of the county.

Besides their holdings in Salisbury and Wilcomico county they have mills and large quantities of standing timber in Virginia, Delaware, and other sections of the country. Their Salisbury plant alone employs over sixty men, and has a pay roll of over $30,000 a year. What this means to Salisbury is well appreciated by the business men. Mr. Disharoon's retirement is very much regretted by the other members of the firm between whom the closest personal regard and friendship has always existed. It is understood that his health and large business outside are the reasons for his withdrawal. Mr. Disharoon is president of The Salisbury Grange and Barrel Co., besides being connected with various other enterprises, which demand considerable time and attention.

Maryland Teachers May Meet At Jamestown.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Maryland State Teachers Association, held in Baltimore Saturday, it was voted to send to all members of the association notices asking their individual opinion as to whether the annual meeting of the association, usually held at Ocean City, Md., shall this year be held at Ocean City, or at Jamestown, Va. Answers will be requested, and the committee will meet again to decide the matter February 24, at the Young Men's Christian Association Building.

The dates of the annual meeting have been set for June 25, 26, 27 and 28 in order to allow teachers to attend the summer schools that open early in July.

C. J. DUNN COMPANY,

FOR HIS FRIEND.

By Chester Douglas.

It was a long time ago—four years—to the happy a short period, but to the miserable even as eternity. I was young then. I suppose I am young still. In years I am but twenty-four. I was twenty then, and young. Those four years have made a man of me.

I say made a man of me. I do not mean it. A man is strong, mentally and physically; his hair is not gray, unless he is an old man. I am not an old man, but my hair is gray, my strength has gone, my nerves are unstrung; I am a wreck.

I was twenty then, and was fond of life. I was not handsome—half-lank and black as night, irregular features, and dark skin. I was often told I was an "ugly dog." But being an "ugly dog" does not damp the spirit of a young man starting out fresh in life with a well-stored brain and sound body. But Cecil Manning did not think me ugly. To him I was "a solemn-looking chap, but decidedly clever—the dearest chap in the world." It is Cecil Manning I would tell of.

Cecil Manning! I will never forget that name. Cecil Manning! The devil strike it in my ears, every night, I cannot get away from it. Cecil Manning! I hear it in every wind. I see it written in the stars before my mind's eye. I dream of every night, and awake in the darkness to find myself crying it aloud, and my body bathed in sweat.

But I must tell you about him—about Cecil Manning. He was my friend.

I verily believe he loved me, even as Jonathan loved David; he never told me so, but I know he did, and you will know too, when you have heard how it happened. Cecil was a young artist, and like most artists, he was careless, say-going and extravagant. I often wondered how his "dabbe" could maintain him, and buy him bread and butter, not to consider his white duck tuxedo and supper. But the boy had talent, and some of his pictures fetched a lot—the majority were failures. Yes, the boy had talent, but lacked application. He was just my own age, though I looked on him as a "boy," and anyone looking at his thick golden curls, delicate Grecian features, and blue eyes, could not call him "man." It is more likely they would have contemptuously styled him "woman."

Cecil Manning was wonderfully handsome—far too handsome. It was said, for a young man, but he was unconscious of it, and never could be convinced on the subject. He was wont to fly into a passion when any person commented on his looks, and cry, "They'll curl my hair for me next." I have no doubt many a dame at that time was yearning for that honor, but Dame Nature had it all her own way, and too much for her own way. Cecil, I did not say, but I told it down with some evil-smelling pomade. But I digress. At that time I thought Cecil Manning a broody, careless boy, incapable of any depth of feeling. But I have not yet told you what happened. I will not delay longer. I was a bank-clerk then, and am still; but for Cecil Manning I could not now call myself that. I was gambling, of course. I wanted money. I did not think discovery would ever come. To falsify accounts for me was simple. I did so, and took $100. It was exactly the sum I needed. All went well for a time; I thought all safe, when suddenly I found out (it would not interest you to know by what means) that I would be discovered if I could not replace the money by next day. You may imagine what terror I was in. Ruin loomed ahead, a fearful monster, smirking and looking at me. To borrow money would have been to excite suspicion. I went to Cecil. I begged—I prayed him to get the money for me. He said, "No, I can't. I have had a few shillings myself. I sat down in his little studio and wept. Yes, I wept. I didn't think myself weak to shed those tears. I was weak. I was a knave, a gambler, a thief. I knew the boy was moved. I saw the sweat standing in big drops on his forehead. He threw his arms around me—it is true—and we embraced. "I will save you, Ted," he said.

I was saved. Cecil Manning stood as a self-sacrificing thief. He had fabricated some story about forging a check for $100, and drawing on the bank.

Cecil Manning had saved me. Cecil Manning, the pleasant, careless, breezy, good-for-nothing! But it was strange. I felt more miserable, and yet more miserable as I thought it all over. True, it would not hurt him much. The boy had no situation to lose, and people who bought pictures generally looked on their painter as a cipher. It didn't concern him whether he was a scoundrel or not. Still, I was uneasy, and anxiously awaited a letter from Cecil. I was afraid to call on him; I could not face him.

The letter came. It was curt, but affectionate. It was also puzzling. Next morning I understood it, when I saw by the paper that Cecil Manning had been found lying still and cold in the river. He had committed suicide!

The doctors say I am lucky. They describe my condition as "neurasthenia." They do not know what it means, but they are calling it, and for them I am grateful. I am grateful to Cecil Manning for his sacrifice. I am grateful to Cecil Manning for his sacrifice. I am grateful to Cecil Manning for his sacrifice.

They Stand Alone.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone, out of a commonplace example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, overworked, debilitated, nervous, run-down, pain-racked women; and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous remedy for weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness, all catarrhal affections, whether of the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, nasal passages, throat, bronchitis, or other mucous passages, also an effective remedy for all diseases arising from thin, watery or impure blood, as scrofulous and skin affections.

Each bottle of the above medicines bears upon its wrapper a badge of honor in the full list of ingredients composing it—printed in plain English. This frank and open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves, and is the best guaranty of their merits. They cannot be classed as patent medicines, for they are neither.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the medicine into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicines before the public, because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly praised by scores of the best eminent medical writers as cures for the diseases for which these medicines are recommended. Therefore, the afflicted do not have to rely alone upon Dr. Pierce's recommendation as to the curative value of his medicines for certain easily recognized diseases.

A glance at the printed formula on each bottle will show that no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines, they being wholly composed of pure extracts of the roots of native American forest plants. These are best and safest for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases. Dr. R. V. Pierce can be consulted, by addressing him at Buffalo, N. Y., and all communications are regarded as confidential.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

Old column Rules refaced and made as new at a small cost.

Please remember that we are not in any trade combination and are sure that we can make it greatly to your advantage to deal with us.

TWO MEETINGS.

A railway station—filled with a crowd of folk, some laughing, some crying, some pretending—some not. "Good-by, Jim, take care of yourself!" The tall girl gathered her worn cloak closer round her—the lady who held the door handle of the compartment, a first class, was robed in silks. "I wish I were coming too!"

"So do I, old lady." A handsome man bent forward on the seat of the third-class carriage, and his hand closed over her slim ungloved fingers with a tender pressure.

His blue eyes looked most suspiciously moist—but what of that? It is not every one who can afford to be cautious.

"It seems such a long time—three years, Jim!" the girl said again, and there was a break in her voice. "And it's such a chance, a mere—"

"A mere chance—yes," the man echoed; "but we must just trust to chance, Monica; it's the only thing to be done, dear. Keep up a good heart, because I shall be coming back in three years' time."

"Jim!" the tears so bravely withheld up till now overflowed at last, and fell on to the neat but worn cloak.

The lady in the fur turned at the sound of the pain-filled tones, and her own voice grew a little husky as the trains steamed off.

"Good-by, Monica, my darling!" A moment later, Monica Ward was standing on an empty platform, with an empty, aching heart.

A hand touched her shoulder. "Can I take you anywhere?" A pleasant, sympathetic voice said.

"Thank you," she said, "it is very good of you to trouble yourself about a stranger—"

"After all—we are sisters," the other said a little dryly. "Come!"

And for the next half hour Monica bowed along in the lady's carriage, behind a pair of prancing chestnuts.

She did not remember (till she stood once more in the little room, which looked so deserted now that Jim had gone, that she had never found out the name of her friend's maid).

"It's due now, miss, quite due, and I don't think it's more than a few minutes late."

Suddenly there was a noise—a puffing, panting sound, and the train was in.

Monica's heart beat fast, and she was so excited that she could hardly see anything in front of her. Jim was coming home—home!

Was this Jim?—this man coming toward her with Jim's face, and yet not his face—with a rolling gait and untidy eyes?

She shuddered; her color forsook her cheeks, her eyes looked frightened—her feet shook—so that she could hardly stand.

Involuntarily she took a step backward; the advancing man noticed it and her.

"My pretty dear!" he cried thickly—and Monica was just recoiling in horror when a man laid his arm on her.

"Monica!" a well known voice said.

She turned—Jim, the real Jim, was standing behind her smiling and holding out his hands.

"Monica!" he cried, "surely you haven't forgotten me?"

"Monica!" returned her husband reproachfully, "and that fellow was drunk! Never mind, darling; slipping her hand through his arm, 'some home—somebody has come to claim him—somebody—some poor devil of a somebody.'"

Monica looked half-fearfully across the platform. Not far away stood the man whom she had mistaken for Jim, standing surrounded by porters, and a small crowd of gapers—a footman was urging, imploring. By his side, bravely facing them all, stood some one whom she recollected as in a dream.

Ah! she remembered. It was her friend of that black day three years ago, whom she had not seen since, what chance—what irony of fate had brought them together again.

"Jim," she said, suddenly, "that man over there—he won't move—they can't do anything with him. Can't you, won't you, go over and see if you can get him away from these gaping crowds? That's his wife—she was kind to me—the day you left. Ah! Jim, if it had been you!"

Jim Ward needed no second bidding. With a few steady strides he reached the little group. The lady in furs was pleading, scolding, threatening, but all to no purpose.

What she could not accomplish, Jim's strong voice and steady authoritative manner did. In a few minutes he had escorted the traveler to the waiting carriage and left him there.

How could I have thought it was you, Jim?" she said in a softly happy voice. "I'm so glad—and yet—that day, that miserable day—I envied her!"

They were in the cab, and he took her in his arms and kissed her. "But you don't now!" he asked passionately.

"No, I don't, now," she answered in tones of deep content; "I almost think—it was worth letting you go—to have you back again, Jim!"

And for the moment he thought so too.—E. C. Gilday.

AGRICULTURAL PROGRESS IN THE COUNTY.

The Farmers' Institute held here this week was well attended, and by a representative class of agriculturists. The interest that our farmers take in this work proves that they are interested in their labors and are eager to get together to exchange ideas and learn valuable lessons from those who have made a success in this line of work. To those who know our farms several years ago there can not be any doubt of the great improvements made in the methods of farming. The land itself looks as though it were a different soil, and the well kept appearance of everything around a great number of our farms shows that the owners have a considerable pride in their work. That agriculture is the backbone of any country's prosperity has long been acknowledged, and that the farmers themselves form the bulwark of our country's liberties is equally true.

Here our growth in this County will keep pace with this great occupation. As it improves so will all its touches. Substantial results have already been attained in the increased output, and the corresponding increase in the value of the land. The valuation in some localities has about doubled in the past few years and as our farmers are continuing to improve their land it looks as though this increase will continue. All of our farmers should join this movement to improve and get more out of the soil each year. To do things the way our fathers did for the reason that it was good enough then, and must be now, is cutting off one's head. The science of farming has advanced mightily these past years and it behooves every man to keep in touch and take advantage of all that has been learned.

Penny To Plant Trees.

To secure a steady supply of wood for cross ties the Pennsylvania railroad has established a regular department of forestry. E. A. Stirling, formerly assistant forester in the Department of Agriculture in Washington, has been appointed forester. He will assume his new duties the 1st of March.

Regarding the new department the company has issued a statement in which it says:

"The action of the railroad follows experiments, which the company has been making in the last five years. During this time a million and a half acres have been planted on land owned by the company. Six hundred and eighty one acres of land near Altoona will in the spring of 1907 and 1908 be planted with chestnut and red oak seedlings.

"The railroads of the country are using about 110,000,000 cross ties every year, of which number the Pennsylvania uses about 5,000,000. This demand has doubled the forests of the country so rapidly that ties have reached the price of seventy cents. As no substitute has as yet been found for the wooden tie, the Pennsylvania railroad is going to maintain a department to take up the work of planting and caring for trees for cross ties."

Common Colds Are The Cause Of Many Serious Diseases.

Physicians who have gained a national reputation as analysts of the causes of various diseases, claim that if a common cold could be avoided a long list of dangerous ailments would never be heard of. Every one knows that colds and consumption originate in colds, and chronic catarrhs of the nose, throat and lungs are aggravated and rendered permanent by each fresh attack. Do you ever get a cold? Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will cure it before it develops. This remedy cures colds, croup, whooping cough, and has thirty years of successful record. For sale everywhere and O. Horn.

Some folks can't mind their business. The reason is, you'll find, they either have no business, or else they have no mind.

LABOR IN THE SOUTH.

In one of the southern papers recently there appeared this explanation: "I rejoice in the present scarcity of labor and the high prices which all classes of laborers are now securing." These words were said by one of the foremost manufacturers of the south who has been identified with the development of that section of the country. There is a distinct reason for this rejoicing, because it brings to the cotton fields and the factory a higher class of laborers than the south has been accustomed to.

The south is fast becoming the workshop of the country and needs the best product of brawn and brains. The northern laborer, the one who is expert in his line, attracted by better remuneration, will soon show the shiftless negro and the indifferent white that it is their interest, as a matter of self-preservation, to "get a hustle on" or they will soon be deprived of their means of livelihood. The southern manufacturer has always had a serious proposition on his hands with regard to the proper complement of labor.

EGGS, GOOD AND BAD.

In Farmers' Bulletin No. 262, issued from the government printing office at Washington, egg fashions are discussed at considerable length. In the first place, as to color Bostonians affect brown eggs, whereas the most popular tinted shell is white. English taste decidedly favors the brown. In many localities there is a popular belief that dark shelled eggs are "richer." It has, however, been demonstrated in the laboratory that no such chemical difference exists, says the Boston Post.

When it comes to the inside of the egg, obviously its most important part, the bulletin in question gives much other interesting information. The flavor of the meat can, it seems, be greatly influenced by the "chicken feed" employed. Not only this, but a natural Spanish omelet can actually be secured by feeding the unsuspecting hen on onions. We should recommend all egg eaters to send to Washington for a copy of this bulletin, which may be had, apparently, for the asking.

HOW TO STUDY ENGLISH.

Prof. William Lyon Phelps, who occupies a chair in English at Yale, suggests that the entrance examination in English for colleges should be simply from the Bible. Ignorance of the English language on the part of the average student is one of the serious problems in American colleges, and the suggestion of Prof. Phelps, despite its sweeping character, has much to commend it. Most of the great orators of England and America used the Bible as the basis of their style. Brougham, Macaulay, Webster and Garfield knew the Bible better than most ministers. Lincoln's literary style was formed largely by study of the King James version. When Macaulay, who began his literary career by learning to read at three years of age, wished to acquire a new language—and he learned most of the principal modern languages—he bought the Bible in that language and his familiarity with it made his study easy.

THE LABORIOUS RED MAN.

Commissioner Leupp says of the employment of Indians on the Zuni dam:

"The lesson taught by the experiment with Indian labor at this dam is unquestionably that if the Indians can be weaned from their habits of irregularity of days and hours, induced to postpone or rearrange his religious festivities so that they shall not interfere with the demands of his employment, and taught the white man's idea of laying something aside for to-morrow instead of spending all to-day, he can be made into a very valuable factor in our frontier country."

This is a formidable list of ifs, and taken by itself would give little encouragement for hope that the Indian would develop into a "valuable factor in our frontier country." But the prospects are better than one would suppose from this conditional conclusion. On two railroads that are running close to one of the great reservations and on the Zuni dam many Indians are learning to go to work when the whistle blows, and stay at work till it blows again, and to stick to this sort of thing for at least thirty days.

EXERCISING THEMSELVES.

Perhaps one reason why American battleships run aground, collide and explode their guns is to impress on the American nation the salutary lesson that they can destroy themselves and each other without entailing the additional cost in life and money of going to war.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Sacrificed to Affection.

He was a silver-haired youth, on his face a look of anxiety as he entered a hairdresser's shop in Bond Street. Earnestly he put the question to an assistant:

"You supply Miss Birdie Beano of the Gaiety Theater with powder, don't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is it quite harmless?"

"Absolutely. It is invaluable for the complexion."

He was not yet satisfied.

"But is it digestible?" he inquired.

"Digestible, sir?"

"Yes. Is it digestible if taken 'internally'?"

The assistant opened wide eyes of amazement.

"But Miss Birdie Beano doesn't take it internally!" he exclaimed.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root, pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N.Y., on every bottle.

What Does It Mean

to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give. Dividends are declared every year in the Mutual Benefit, and the policy-holders use them either to help pay premiums or to buy increased insurance. The policies of the contain special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before placing your insurance. You owe it to your family to have the best.

KEEP THEIR YOUTH

MODERN WOMEN WHO REFUSE TO GROW OLD.

Enjoying Life as the Best Means of Living It—Ignoring All Responsibilities—Cause and Remedy for Social Extravagances.

We live in an age when women are to the fore in everything after a long period of suppression. As a natural reaction from such suppression they have become the gay, giddy, brilliant things we see who refuse to grow older than a mid-thirty-five until they suddenly drop upon—four score; who are so frisky, so smart, so up to date that they keep the world spinning to a hundred varying fads and fancies and who insist that enjoying life is the best means of living it.

It is this class who are responsible for my phrase, "the youth of temperance." For temperance has a great deal to do with the way we live and the standards we commit. Some people are born young and some are born old. The one class never seem to achieve anything save a gay irresponsibility in all matters concerning existence. The other are staid and gloomy and despondent from childhood onward. What lacks the other emphasizes and by rule of contrast the light and joyous temperament lays a higher claim to popularity. Smiles are always more pleasing than frowns and to be approved even by those in the more agreeable than the blunt and wholesome truths whose ultimate results we know but refuse to anticipate.

The temperament of youth excuses even the follies of a grandmother and permits respectable "fifty" to garb itself as romantic sixteen would scarcely dream of doing. From tight lacing to henna dyeing the frisky matron is a study in successful artifice. She defies time and defies social opinion and turns herself out season after season with a brand new picturequeness that astonishes her friends and infuriates her enemies. That she should be tireless, gay, good humored is an effort to staid years and appropriated responsibilities; and hence its perennial youth. A woman learns from the beauty doctors and the confidential columns of the ladies' papers that to frown or to worry or to bother one's head about bills and families and housekeeping is ruinous to a youthful complexion and brings lines, wrinkles and gray hairs.

Twenty-five years ago it was almost impossible to find such a thing as an establishment for manicuring. Now there is not a fashionable street or a country town without a professor of that useful business. It is to America we owe its introduction, as well as that of its expensive fellow guest, the "toilet specialist." Such artists and their trade have added greatly to the joy of feminine existence, for women can frankly accept and frankly acknowledge their age, and no one thinks any the worse of them for doing so. Time was when to breathe of "make up" was to be pronounced disgraceful, when only one class of womanhood used it as an adjunct or advertisement. We have changed all that.

Handy Egg Rack.

The accompanying photograph shows an egg rack which I find of great convenience, as it enables the family to know just what day the eggs on hand were laid, says a writer in Suburban Life.

The idea was brought to my mind while getting a lot of eggs daily, as we occasionally had a spotted one on the table, due to the fact that all of the eggs, as fast as collected, were placed in an egg basket, there being no way of telling the oldest egg from those just laid.

The rack is very simple, and any man handy with tools can put it together in a few hours.

Cheese Colored to Order.

Different parts of the country have very strongly marked tastes as to the color of cheese. You could not sell at any price in Birmingham a cheese that is in great demand in Coventry, and if you sent some of the kind demanded in Norfolk to Manchester it would at once be returned. East Angles demand a cheese of bricked color, while Lancashire must have "Manchester white," and the other northern counties go in for a golden-tinted cheese. Nearly all cheese is prepared to the carefully worded order of the probable buyer.—Home Chat.

To Keep Violets.

The very best way to keep violets fresh is not to put them in water, but to throw over them a handkerchief thoroughly wet, and set them in a draught.

Waking Piles.

If you are acquainted with anyone who is troubled with this distressing ailment you can do him no greater favor than to tell him to try Chamberlain's Salve. It gives instant relief. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by G. L. Dickinson and Co. Boston.

A GREAT MORAL WASH DAY.

Feb. 2, '07—(Gen. 2:1-15.)

The question has often been debated why the wicked are allowed to live. Wouldn't it be a good thing for the world if all the evil people in it could suddenly be got rid of. Suppose we could get together all the drunkards, thieves, liars, libertines, blasphemers, murderers, and big and little rascals of every description, in and out of prison, and could take them out in a leaky boat onto the Pacific Ocean where the water is five miles deep, and sink them to the bottom of the sea, should we not at once have a regenerated earth, and a world equal to paradise?

But we forget that that sort of a scheme has been tried once, and it didn't work. There was a great wash was scrubbed, and soaked and disinfected, to get rid of evil, and the ground had not become thoroughly dry before sin broke out again in a most unexpected quarter. The fact is there is so much depravity in the best of us that not a human being would be left if sin was to be eliminated by drowning those who practiced it.

The tree of humanity has been cut down to the root, but when it sprouted again, it bore the same fruit. It has been settled that water cannot drown iniquity. Fire cannot burn it out. Floods cannot trample it out. Hammers cannot pound it out. Prisons cannot punish it out. Education cannot grow it out. The millennium never will be introduced by these methods. Still, if the experiment of the flood had not been tried, there are a lot of little reformers who have taken credit for the idea, and would have been prolific of argument to show the feasibility of it.

And there's good many people now who don't believe such a thing ever happened. And they ask speculative questions about the size of the Ark, and the extent of the flood, and the cargo, and the supplies, and who the ship carpenters were, and how Noah came to be acquainted with marine architecture, and how he embarked all his miscellaneous cargo, and where they landed, and why no portions of that Great Eastern of antediluvian days have never been found, and a thousand and one queries that may or may not have any bearing on the case. And weak-kneed disciples get frightened because they cannot answer these fool questions, and begin to talk about a flood of limited area, and limited depth, and end by admitting that the whole thing may have been an allegory. Nonsense!

Noah faced these same questions in his day. He was the butt of ridicule for a century. He lived in a horrible nest of abuse and derision. But he never spent any time advising the critics as to how he was going to do it. His only answer to their libels and jeers was the resolute whack of his hammer against the cypress sides of his ship, growing by inches before their eyes. There were people up to the day the flood started, who expressed the opinion that "it wasn't going to be much of a shower." But they changed their tune soon afterwards.

This is not the main question. The main question is: How is this old world to be made a decent place to live in? That was the question then; that is the question now. There are some people who look upon sin as a wart on the hand that may be eaten off with a sharp said. They say it is only a knot in life's string that a child may untie. They regard it as a little spit on the smooth wheel, which doesn't prevent it from running. On the contrary, it is a cancer, and the flesh must be amputated to save the body from complete destruction. In Noah's day it was a cancer, and because the world was to be destroyed by a flood of sin, it was necessary that

"THERE'S A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM!"

Not the mere temporary relief that the old "remedies" gave, not the little help that the doctor's prescriptions give; but ABSOLUTE AND COMPLETE CURE. That is what Rheumacide does. Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood. It is an internal disease and requires a strong and vigorous internal remedy that will cleanse the blood of all its germs and yet act through such natural methods that it builds up the entire system.

CURED AFTER 16 YEARS.

Baltimore, Dec. 10th.
For 16 years I have suffered terribly with Rheumatism. I was treated by leading physicians but got no relief. Long since I despaired of ever being well again. But hearing of RHEUMACIDE, I decided to give it a trial. I have taken two bottles, and thanks to this wonderful medicine, I now feel that I have gotten a "new lease on life." Every vestige of the disease has been driven from my system.

rolling on fathoms deep to extermination, or cleansing and purifying it by water. It was God's flood against man's flood.

Still it is a comforting thing to know that it will never happen again. Mere destruction has been proved a failure. Destruction may be necessary, but it is never an instrument of regeneration. Many a man has been punished, only to come out of prison a hardened criminal. Scores of men are in prison for doing the very things they saw other men punished for. When judgment overlook that forget, the bank cashiers who know him said, "What an awful thing this is!" And then they deliberately went to their desks and did the same thing. Men go with wide open eyes into the path of old punishments and into the pit of old punishments. Within the very shadow of the gallows men hatch the most detestable and alarming crimes.

Noah and his sons looking out of the window of the ark saw glorious rainbow of a heavenly bridge forming in the sky. As they looked the mystic fingers of light swung it across the heavens, the seven prismatic colors, violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange, and red. And under that magnificent arch of the rainbow they floated up to the beach of a new world. No more flood. Beautiful thought. We have something to look at to steady our faith. It is beyond our touch. We cannot spoil it with our finger prints. It follows the storm and is a sign of peace.

More Water Sold Than Liqueurs.

Despite the formidable statistics that temperance reformers are continually presenting, there is more money paid for water in a single day than is paid for liquors in a week.

"Few people," says Tit Bit, "are aware of the water they pay for."

"A ten pound turkey, for instance, is but three pounds of water and seven pounds of water, and there is six pounds of water in ten pounds of pork while the percentage of water in beef or mutton is about the same."

"Salmon and mackerel are half water, though other fish contain a greater proportion of fluids."

"Sixty five per cent of an egg is water, and there are about two ounces of water to one pound of butter."

"Vegetables run from forty to eighty per cent of water, and even dried peas contain a small percentage of liquid matter."

"Taken at an average, fifty five per cent of all expenditure for food is paid for water."—Selected.

POWELLVILLE.

Dr. Walter Graham, of Boston, preached in the M. P. Church, White's Chapel this town, last Sabbath evening to the "Salisbury" and profit of all. His text was John, third chapter and third verse, "Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God." It was a wonderful sermon, theological, dogmatic and poetic. The speaker seemed at his best and if the writer is any judge, it was the greatest exposition of the scriptures he has been the privilege of this community to hear for many years. Bro. Graham please come again, and give us some premonition of your coming.

The old debt on the Zion church of more than $400 was all paid or provided for last Sabbath and our highly esteemed and aggressive brother, G. B. Stokdale is wearing a broad smile this week. He is very happy and so are his people.

We are glad to report the wife of Mr. Seaborn Smith, who has been quite ill much improved in health.

Our old friend, E. V. White is as busy as a bee, but always has time to smile graciously in the face of the writer and give him the warm grip of brotherhood. He is a potent factor in business circles here.

We all regret that Mr. Lambert Powell will leave us soon for a position in Salisbury. Mr. Powell is one among our best citizens, also his estimable wife has endeared herself to many friends and their departure is greatly lamented.

The last Quarterly Conference of the M. E. Church for this Conference year will be held at Willards, February 5, 7 p. m. It is hoped there will be a good attendance and fine reports.

The services for this Sabbath M. E. Church as follows: St. John's 10:30. Subject, That unruly member, the tongue. Friendship, a lecture on Methodist Discipline, 3 p. m.: Waco, 7:30 p. m. The general rules of the church read and explained. All are invited especially to St. John's for the Tongue Sermon.

Thoroughly Reliable.

If ever there was a reliable and safe remedy it is that old and famous porous plaster—Allocock's. It has been in use for sixty years, and is as popular today as ever, and we doubt if there is a civilized community on the face of the globe where this wonderful pain reliever cannot be found. In the selection of the ingredients and in their manufacture the greatest care is taken to keep each plaster up to the highest standard of excellence, and so pure and simple are the ingredients that even a child can use them.

Allocock's are the original and genuine porous plasters and are sold by Druggists in every part of the civilized world.

DANGERS OF BEER.

Statement Made That There is No Drink That So Stupifies The Brain Or Deadens Moral Sensibilities.

The advocates of beer speak of it as a mild, and in moderation, an intoxicating drink. The fact is, there is no drink that so stupifies the brain, deadens the moral sensibilities, and is the more prolific source for every form of disorder, violence and crime. Even in beer loving Germany, it is said that the Kaiser, in recognition of this fact, prohibits its use by all his drivers, engineers and chauffeurs, and requires them to give a written pledge to abstain from it, in connection with all alcoholic drinks. His imperial majesty is unwilling to trust his sacred person to the care of any one who stupifies his brain with beer, or inflames it with stronger drink. At least this was the statement of Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens before a recent meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, over which she presided. We suppose she spoke in full knowledge of the fact.

A circular lately issued by the officers of the Home Life Insurance Company of New York, setting forth the conditions of risk in that organization confirms all that we have said above in regard to the effects of beer drinking as indicated in the following extract from the circular.

"Of all intoxicating drinks, it is the most animalizing. It dulls the intellectual and moral, and feeds the sensual and beastly nature. Beyond all other drinks, it qualifies for deliberate and unprovoked crime. In this respect it is much worse than distilled liquors. A whiskey drinker will commit murder only under the direct effect of excitement of liquor; a beer drinker is capable of doing it in cold blood."

This is strong testimony as to the deleterious effects of this popular but dangerous drink. If all this be true, the sale of beer should be put under the same restrictions as that of other intoxicants. Any ordinary observer must have noticed how many of the cases of crime and disorder reported by the daily press originate in the beer saloon. It should come under the same surveillance of the law as the whiskey saloon and the low grogery. In no wise does it differ from them as to its evil effects. (Rev. D. S. K. Cox, in Baltimore and Richmond Christian Advocate.)

ANNUAL INSTITUTE.

Teachers of Three Counties To Meet At Ocean City in September.

County Superintendent Bounds of Wicomico visited Princess Anne Wednesday where he met County Superintendents McMaster, of Worcester, and Dandrell of Somerset, to discuss plans for next summer's Tri-County Institute.

As the results of the discussion it was decided to hold the annual institute for the three counties at Ocean City from August 26 to Sept. 6, inclusive. It was voted that Superintendent H. Crawford Bounds, of Wicomico assume charge of the arrangements and secure speakers for the occasion. This will be the third annual institute of the three counties under the state laws governing education the teachers of each county are compelled to meet in a five day institute each year, but it is permissible for two or more counties to hold a joint institute at a place designated by the county superintendents. It has been deemed beneficial to hold a joint institute and with this object in view the teachers of Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset will continue to conduct the joint convention.

Co. I Will Improve Marksmanship By Use Of Sub-Target Gun.

Sergeant J. E. Olivers of the Maryland State Militia was in Salisbury Thursday evening instructing members of Co. I in the use of a sub-target gun machine.

This is a device by which, with the aid of electricity the shooter aims at a target at the regular distance and pulls the trigger in the usual way. No ammunition is used and the exact aim of the shooter is recorded on a paste board facsimile of the target which shows the exact mark that would have been made on the target had a bullet been discharged. The contrivance is used in practice only and it is expected that the marksmanship of Co. I will be greatly improved in a short time.

A CAROLINA LEGISLATOR.

Hon. Wm. G. Hunter Uses Pe-ru-na As a Family Medicine.

WHEN a man of undoubted reputation comes out squarely in public print, giving unqualified endorsement to a household remedy, there must be something genuine to account for it.

Hon. W. G. Hunter, of North Carolina, well-known in Washington and throughout the Southern States, says of Peruna that he regards it as the greatest family medicine ever discovered.

He does not hesitate to say that Peruna invigorates and gives fresh strength to mind and body.

Such testimonials as this ought to make Peruna popular.

No advertising known to the arts of man, no commercial management could ever raise Peruna to such a high standard of appreciation as the frank and unqualified statements of such men.

Peruna is an ideal household remedy. It wards off colds and relieves catarrh in all its forms and phases.

By ridding the system of catarrh, it cleanses the body of those conditions which invite chronic diseases.

Cold Affected Head, Throat and Lungs.

Mr. Matthew O'Hare, 145 William St., Fall River, Mass., writes:

"About four years ago I consulted a physician to get relief from a cold which had stopped up my head and also settled on my lungs, resulting in catarrh and also throat difficulties.

"He gave me some medicine, but four months faithful use of the same did me no good. I then tried other doctors, but it was just the same.

"So I decided to try Peruna and after using two bottles my lungs began to heal, I did not cough nearly so much and slept better.

"In six months the cough, catarrh and throat difficulties were all cured.

"I was pleased with the result and wish to write you of it. Several bottles of Peruna cured me."

A. L. Hewitt, J. F. West Berlin, Va., writes: "I am happy to be able to write you this letter in relation to what your Peruna has done for my family."

"When I brought the best bottle home, I found my wife and daughter both sick—my wife with indigestion and my daughter with a severe cold. They were both cured."

"I am willing to state that Peruna, taken in the two bottles, will cure the worst cold, cough or hoarseness."

DEATH OF MRS. HOUSTON.

An Estimable Resident Succumbs To Lingering Illness At Her Home On Camden Avenue, This City.

In the death of Mrs. Mary E. Houston at her home on Camden Avenue, Saturday morning last this community lost one of its oldest and most estimable ladies.

Mrs. Houston entered into rest early on the morning of February the second, 1907, at her home in Salisbury. In the seventy second year of her life, Mrs. Houston was the daughter of William H. Rider, a well known and highly esteemed citizen of Salisbury, and Mary, his wife, the sister of ex-Gov. Ross, of Delaware, and the widow of Dr. Isaac H. Houston, a member of the old and prominent Houston family of Delaware, and a leading physician and honored citizen of Dorchester County, Md.

She leaves surviving her Miss Letitia R. Houston and Miss Mary L. Houston, daughters, and Mrs. Annie E. Jackson, wife of ex-Gov. Elihu E. Jackson, sister, Granville E. Houston, John H. and William H. Rider, brothers.

Besides the family there are many to mourn the death and to remember the lovable traits of character and the excellent qualities of heart and mind of this estimable lady. Her life was devoted to the duties of daughter, wife and mother, mindful always of her obligations as a Christian. Her kindness and grace of manner made devoted friends of all who knew her.

The solemn funeral rites were conducted at her home February the fifth by Rev. Mr. Beale and Rev. Mr. Howard. Dr. Marion F. Stenora, John H. White, John Webb, Judge Charles F. Holland, Walter C. Humphreys and William Webb bore the body to the grave in Falmers cemetery. An abundance of magnificent flowers were contributed by many loving relatives and friends.

HON. WM. G. HUNTER.
Cough, Colds, Catarrh
Relieved By Pe-ru-na.

Hon. Wm. G. Hunter, ex-member North Carolina Legislature, writes from the Census Office Building, Washington, D. C., concerning Peruna:

"The greatest family medicine ever discovered, in my opinion, which comes from experience as well as observation, is Peruna. The most common affliction to human-kind is a bad cold. Peruna drives it out of doors, wards off catarrh, invigorates and gives fresh strength to mind and body. I give Peruna my unqualified endorsement."

Mr. G. W. Taylor, Clendun, W. Va., writes:

"I think that Peruna is the greatest tonic that was ever put on the market. For several years my eyes bothered me so much. The pain was so severe sometimes I would think they would surely burst out of my head."

"I tried Peruna and Kaffin and am today a well man. I am sure I should have had it not been for Dr. Hartman's wonderful medicine, Peruna."

Such testimony as the above has given Peruna a high standard in the estimation of the public.

MARYLAND EXHIBIT

Will Take A Conspicuous Part In Jamestown Exposition This Year. To Be Prepared In Time.

Enthusiasm marked the general meeting of the Maryland Commission to the Jamestown Exposition, held yesterday afternoon in the offices of the commission in the Fidelity Building. The last time the whole organization met was in September and since then the executive committee, which looks after the details has been busy.

The report from the architects Messrs. Parker and Thomas that the exterior and most of the interior of the building were nearly completed was received with gratification by the Commission. Everything is expected to be completed by April 18 just 11 days before the opening.

Twelve members of the commission were present. The chief business besides the report on the progress of building, was the arrangement for the opening day ceremonies. Governor Warfield and his staff were invited to attend and the further arrangements were left in the hands of two committees. They are the transportation committee—Messrs. Frederick M. Colston chairman of the commission; Reuben Foster, John K. Shaw, Jr. and Lynn B. Meekins, the secretary of the body—and the invitation committee—Messrs. Colton, T. Herbert Shriver, Allan Farquhar, Palmer Tennant, Hope H. Barrell, and Col. David G. McIntosh.

They are determined that Maryland shall play a conspicuous part in the opening ceremonies. Of particular interest is the report of the architects which follows: "We herewith submit the report on the Maryland State Building at Jamestown."

The total contract on the building to date is $23,297.00. Amount paid on account 15,519.50. Amount of insurance carried—20,000.00.

The Betts-Hayden Construction Company has practically completed its portion of the contract. The electric wiring is installed complete, with the exception of the switches, which cannot be put in until the plastering is completed. The Melahn Company which has the plastering and interior work, has started the plastering. All the ornamental plastering is cast and will be ready for shipment next week. All the millwork in the wings and the stairway has been completed and is ready for shipment to the building. All the woodwork in the Senate Chamber and reading room will be ready by the end of next week. The woodwork in the main hall has not yet been started. The Melahn Company advises that the building will be completed by April 15.

The total so far paid on the building, including payments on contracts as above shown and insurance and architect's fees, is $17,015.

The report of Mr. Meekins showed that the commission had drawn $45,430 of its appropriation of $65,000. Of this, besides the amount paid on building, $3,964.33 has been spent for other purposes. Provision has been made for $1,000 for the expenses of the business men's committee, $5,000 for the horticultural and floricultural exhibits, which are in charge of Prof. F. H. Smyth, and $500 for the expenses of the ladies' auxiliary committee.

Since the awarding of the contract the wings of the building have been turned into sleeping apartments, with three rooms and bath. This was done for economy, as it would make the building more valuable when it came to selling it after the Exposition was over. The building will have a length of 240 feet. The main building will be 70 by 64 feet, the reproduction of the Senate Chamber will be 40 by 36 feet and the entrance hall will be 25 by 28 feet. A dozen rooms are provided for the convenience of the visitors. The furnishings of the sleeping apartments will be arranged by the ladies' auxiliary, which has been allowed an appropriation of $500 for the purpose.—Baltimore Sun.

First Of A Series Of Polo Games Results In A Victory For Easton. Fast Play-Ing By The Visitors A Feature Of The Game.

In the first of a series of polo games which has been arranged between Salisbury and Easton, the local boys suffered defeat at the hands of the Talbot Countians at Auditorium Hall Thursday evening. The game was more or less one-sided from start to finish, but considering that this was the first game played by the home team, the boys did extremely well with the results that the visitors were held down to a final score of seven to two.

As this is a new feature in the athletic interests of Salisbury, being the first game ever played here, the hall was well filled with people and as the game proceeded, particularly when the ball was in the territory of the home team the interest was manifested by the encouraging shouts and cheers of the spectators.

Promptly at 9:30 the ball was put into play and a lively contest for twenty minutes followed during which Easton made four goals and Salisbury one.

Just before the time expired for the first half Ulman, of the local team, through an error, "put" the ball through the opponents' goal, making the score, at the end of the first half, 5 to 1 in favor of the visitors.

In the second half Easton piled up two more goals and Salisbury succeeded in adding another point to their score.

The features of the game were the fast playing of Dimpfel for Easton and Griener for the home team. The line up was as follows:

Salisbury	Easton
Williams, goal tender	Withgott
Holloway, half back	Ball
Towdine, center	Flynn
Ulman, first rush	Dimpfel
Griener, second rush	Easton

Goals were made for Salisbury by Towdine and Holloway, who substituted Towdine for a few minutes in the second half.

The game was refereed by Mr. Jump, of Easton, and Messrs. W. S. Gordy, Jr. and E. O. Fulton acted as time keepers.

As announced in the advertising columns of this issue, two great attractions, will be given at the skating rink during the coming week. On Monday evening an obstacle race will be the feature of the evening and on Thursday night a grand tournament for ladies and gentlemen will be given. Preparations are also being made for a big celebration on Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22. It is expected that Manager Showell will secure the services of an experienced skater to help out on the occasion.

COUNCIL BUSINESS.

Considerable Business Transacted At The Meeting On Monday.

At the regular meeting of the council held Monday evening Messrs. Thomas Perry, W. B. Miller, Wm. M. Cooper, S. K. White and W. S. Gordy, Jr., were appointed by Mayor Harper, a commission to assess the benefits and damages to accrue in widening, straightening, curbing and paving Division street, from Church Street to the crossing of the B. O. & A. Railway Company.

Messrs. M. A. Humphreys and W. S. Gordy, Jr., representing the Salisbury Gas Co., were before the Council to explain why they had not carried out the provisions of their franchise. The gentlemen reported that they had been unable to go ahead with the building of the gas works, but said that they thought they had interested Mr. Harry Richardson, of Dover in the project and that if the Council would wait for a short time they might be ready to report progress. Mayor Harper was requested by the Council to have the gentlemen in New York, who he says will build a gas plant here provided the franchise of the Salisbury Gas Company is annulled, make a proposition to the Council which the Mayor promised to do at once. Mayor Harper received a telegram from Mr. A. A. Unholtz of Washington, saying that they could have the pipe and other equipment here in thirty days notice to build the works. The Council will probably take some other action next Monday night.

City Collector Byrd was instructed to send out the bills against the property owners on Main, Dock and Division Streets for their portion of the street paving. The bills show that the cost of the paving, including the curbing and underdrains, as well as the manholes and wells, will average about $3.50 per running foot for the property owners, costing the city about $5.00 per running foot for the city's part.

A CUP OF GOOD COFFEE LIKE MOTHER USED TO MAKE

"Fresh Roasted Coffee?—bah! Mother didn't use fresh roasted coffee, she had Arbuckles."

The way to get a good cup of coffee that tastes like Coffee with all the delicious flavor and aroma intact, is to buy a package of the old original Arbuckles' ARIOSA Coffee, and grind it as you want to use it, first warming it a little to develop the flavor and make the grinding easy. Coffee loses its identity as Coffee after being ground or exposed to the air and is easily contaminated by handling.

Arbuckles' was the first roasted packaged coffee. The pores of each coffee berry are sealed after roasting with fresh eggs and granulated sugar to hold the goodness in and make the coffee taste clear and quick; in actual preparation by machinery of "Mother's" method as patented by the firm.

Sold only in packages, sealed for the consumer's protection, and in full weight. Sales for 27 years without the smallest complaint of any kind. The best coffee for you to drink, and every penny's worth. Same old time, same old coffee. If your dealer won't supply, write to ARBUCKLE BROS., New York City.

OPIMUM

Cruising Beneath The Waves.

Perth, Va.—There will be many craft in the historic waters of Hampton Roads during the coming summer and among them will be one of the most interesting which will attract attention as much from the scientific world as the ships of the air which are to have a prominent place in the attractions of the Jamestown Exposition. The odd vessel of the sea is a submarine cruiser and as many expedition visitors may wish to visit the bottom of the Roads in one of these vessels a description of the first trip made by a boat of this kind, may be interesting.

This unique performance was made possible by an invitation from Captain George M. Evans of the submarine cruiser Lake, the largest craft of the kind ever built, to take a cruise in the boat on its first submarine run. The run took place between the hours of ten and twelve and was successful but exciting. Submerged to a depth of about 35 feet, the Lake cruised along the bottom for about one mile at the rate of six miles an hour. The boat answered both the vertical and horizontal rudders perfectly. Standing in the conning tower with one eye glued to the conoscope, Captain Evans worked the wheel that sent the Lake up and down, starboard and port, as will. Only the limited depth of the water kept the lake from going deeper.

During the trial the temperature in the boat averaged about 5 degrees. In spite of the fact that all of the hatches were tightly battened down to prevent the admission of water, the use of the compressed air tanks was unnecessary. Captain Evans said that compressed air was only used after the boat had been down for two or three hours. He said that the Lake could stay down for two weeks if the crew were properly provisioned, without causing any illness among those inside.

The Lake left her dock at the Newport News shipyard, where she was built, about ten o'clock in the morning. After cruising about in the river for some time, Captain Evans gave orders to close down all the hatches and to open the forward and after tanks, which means that the Lake and her human cargo were about to pay a visit to the cybers. The boat quickly began to settle until her buoyancy amounted to but 600 pounds. At this stage, Captain Evans said the boat could be lifted by a man's hand.

The descent was so gradual that it was not noticeable. But for the great clock which registered the depth to which the boat had descended it would have been impossible to tell whether the Lake was on the bottom or on the surface. The boat was submerged by means of hydroplanes along the sides of the vessel and a horizontal rudder. When the depth clock registered thirty-five feet, Captain Evans, who was then steering by compass, the top of the projecting conoscope being then entirely submerged, decided that this was deep enough as the bottom must have been near. The Lake's nose was headed down the river and out of the path of shipping as Captain Evans had no desire to bring up under an ocean going steamer or seven masted schooner.

After the Lake had traveled about a mile under the surface the master had curiosity to see what was going on up above. He tilted the horizontal rudder upward and the vessel began to rise as she had sunk, on an even keel. With the top of the conoscope just clearing the surface, a small fishing smack was discovered anchored just ahead. The colored fishermen took one look at the queer looking monster of the deep moving swiftly toward him, hauled up anchor more quickly than he ever does before, and made a bee line for the shore.

After this test was ended the boat came to the surface and was headed for shore. This was the last trial trip as well as the first for the Lake left the next week under her own power for Bridgeport, Connecticut, the home of the inventor, Simon Lake, after whom the boat was named.

There was practically no danger in this submarine expedition, to the occupants of the craft, as the boat could not have failed to return to the surface after the tanks were emptied of water. In case of accident the Lake's five ton keel could have been dropped, and then the boat's buoyancy would have been certain to have floated her. In the run beneath the surface more power supplied by storage batteries was used. The gasoline engine was employed only to propel the boat while cruising above the surface.

—St. John, N. F.—The captain and mate of the American vessel, "Vigilant" which was carried away recently from Bay of Islands by the two, were saved by a passing party. The two men had spent thirty-six hours on a deserted island, without food and without shelter and suffering intensely from the cold, when their signal fire was seen by spectators.

—Whitist the stream kept raining it kept clear; but it is coming only to a standing water, then it breaks from the bank and all manner of dirt. The boys that men keep in their pockets and use every day, was brighter and brighter, but it they had said "hello" and "hello" by the mill they soon grow red. "Always standing in the work of the Lord" is the way to keep clear from the pollution of the world.—Salisbury.

RUNNING SORES COVERED LIMBS

Little Girl's Obstinate Case of Eczema—Instantaneous Relief By Cuticura—Little Boy's Hands and Arms Also Were a Mass of Torturing Sores—Grateful Mother Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES A HOUSEHOLD STANDBY"

In reply to your letter I write you my experience, and you are privileged to see it as you see it. I am now after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for an obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and was so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble. "In July of this year a little boy in our family poisoned his hands and arms with poison oak, and in twenty-four hours his hands and arms were a mass of torturing sores. We used only the Cuticura Remedies, washing his hands and arms with the Cuticura Soap, and anointed them with the Cuticura Ointment, and then gave him the Cuticura Remedies. In about three weeks his hands and arms healed up, and we have lots of cause for feeling grateful for the Cuticura Remedies. We find that the Cuticura Remedies are a valuable household standby, living as we do, partly miles from a doctor, and when it comes from twenty to twenty-five dollars to come up on the mountain. Respectfully, Mrs. Linda Vincent Thomas, Farmington, Windsor's Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 15, 1906.

THREE EPOCHS IN A WOMAN'S LIFE

MRS. ELVA BARBER EDWARDS

There are three critical stages in a woman's life which leave their mark in her career. The first of these stages is womanhood, or the change from a care-free girl to budding womanhood. The second is motherhood, and the third is Change of Life.

Perils surround each of these stages, and most of the misery that comes to women through ill health derives from one or another of these important crises.

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs has carried thousands of young girls over the critical period of puberty, has prepared mothers for childbirth, and in later years carried them safely through the change of life more successfully than any other remedy in the world. Thousands of testimonials from grateful persons, two of which are here published, substantiate this fact beyond contradiction.

Mrs. George Walters of Woodlawn, Ill. writes:—

"It is my duty to tell you of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me in preparing for childbirth. After suffering and losing my children a friend advised me to try your valuable medicine, and the result was that I had a very little inconvenience, a quick recovery and During its long record of more than thirty years its long list of actual cures, entitles Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to the respect and confidence of every fair minded person.

PARTY HARMONY.

The letter of Ex-Gov. E. E. Jackson, written to a friend in Baltimore, on the Democratic situation in Baltimore City and State, is full of good common sense and sound advice. The policy of some of the so called organization leaders have adopted of turning their guns upon those of their own party who happen to have differed with them in the past, either in the man to be nominated or the policy to be followed, is not only imprudent in itself, but if followed is suicidal for the party. The statement that the

Gov. makes that he knows no "organization" or "anti organization Democrats" neither does he know Independents or Regulars, but the name Democrat to him means all that belong to that great party, is the right way to feel about it, and if this way of looking at the matter is followed by other Democrats throughout the state we will once more have a united party, and instead of training our guns upon those in our own ranks will be able to use every one of them against the common foe. The rule or rule plan that some politicians follow is not one that should be adopted by any political party. Those who believe in this method and attempt to carry it into effect, are in the large majority of cases people who are in politics as a business, and are neither Democrats or Republicans for principles sake. They should not be classed in any one of the parties but should be put in the class of those who are Democrats or Republicans because it pays them to be one, and their great love of the party they claim to be a member of, and the hard work they claim to do for the love of their principles, should be put down to the yelling of the hypocrite who is only seeking self aggrandizement under the cover of party loyalty.

Another portion of the Ex. Governor's letter referring to the factions in the several counties of the state can not be too highly commended, and if adopted by the counties would be productive of a great deal of good to the party. The so called organizations of the several counties should remember that though it is impossible for them to slate the tickets as in the good old days gone by, yet after they are slated and nominated they are yet to elect. Would it not be better if the rank and file should have some say as to whom they wanted to represent them in the various public offices to be filled, than to have some one put them on the shoulders after the ticket is made out and say "Come, now you are a good democrat, we want you to take off your coat and help elect this ticket?" To the credit of the individual voters throughout the counties, as well as in the cities, more and more of them every year are claiming their rightful privilege of thinking in a degree for themselves. One of the effects of this has been the nominating of better men. Those who are democrats want to support the nominees of their party, but they do not want men, who morally or mentally are unfit for the positions to which they aspire, forced on them by a star chamber nomination. Let all democrats stop calling each other names, but let all give and take, and get to gether for the good of those principles they

THE TREND OF FASHION

In New York. Materials: Trimmings: Styles For Dressy Costumes: Tailor-Made Suits For Early Spring Wear: New Woods: Hats And Garnitures.

The shops are most alluring with their displays of new dress materials. All the silks, wools, mixtures, cloths, cottons and linens are now on the counters ready for the buyers.

The Demand For Cotton.

Cotton materials were never so pretty or shown in such variety of fabrics and pattern nor was the demand for them ever before so great. Already many of the prettiest patterns are sold out, and it is very doubtful if manufacturers will duplicate the orders, for the looms are busy getting out goods that will be shown in 1907. There is said to be a scarcity even in shirtings and sheetings of standard makes.

Mercerized Cottons And Mixtures.

The mercerized cottons, and silk and cotton mixtures, as well as the new wools that are all cotton but look like materials at several times their cost are eagerly seized by dressmakers and by women in private life, who are having them made up for immediate use, with further wear in view when warm weather comes. The woman who likes black should invest in a Bonnet silk this Spring, for she will have a gown that will be even more fashionable than now by the time the leaves are turning, and she can rely on the quality of the material that has that name on the selvage.

New Woods.

The most important showing in dress goods are the checked, plaided and striped wools, the latter are somewhat novel; the stripes being for the most part in contrast and light hues. The invisible plaids and checks of last season are again brought forward, with numerous changes, and it is difficult to imagine the thousands of combinations in these fabrics. Voles follow suit allowing for the difference in the material. Plain voles are also shown, and it is possible that later in the season, there may be a reaction in favor of plain stuffs. Similar checked, plaided and striped designs are paramount in silks, and here, the black and white "fad" seems to have taken on new life.

Linings And Trimmings.

Dark thin stuffs of wool, silk or cotton, are made over white silk linings of the most part, and contrasting colors in linings are the rule rather than the exception. Tucks in ladder styles cross tucks of narrow width cut into bands are still very much used by modish makers. These are edged with braid, or with narrow folds of the material. Braids of all sorts are very much in evidence, the narrow sashes being especially well endorsed. This is used in many different ways. One of the newest is to outline figures in the lace used for garnitures. Thus a cream linen costume with facets of heavy Cluny lace had narrow silk sashes in pale blue run in and out over the pattern of the lace defining the prominent figures and affording a pretty color contrast. The belt, collar and reverses of the little coat were of plain blue lines to match the color of the braid. Of course such costumes must go to the professional cleaner for renewal.

Hats, Shapes And Trimmings.

The fine smooth braids that are put together with machine stitching are to be most worn when the weather permits women to don their new straw headgear. Shapes are to be continuations of the styles that were most smartly worn during the late winter months. Mushroom brims and flat "Maude Miller" types with garlands of roses of many hues natural and otherwise but harmonizing in color through all their variations.

Lucy Carter.

INSANITY BY OCCUPATION.

Least any one should be inclined to make the figures of the Census Bureau in regard to insanity an excuse for desisting from mental effort, and find in them an excuse to fly from the worries of a strenuous life to the dull monotony of the life simple. It is well to call attention to the fact that the recent and much discussed report does not in its analysis bear out the inference drawn from it by the bureau officials. It would appear to be not the rush and tumult of modern life which drives people out of their senses, but the dreariness and monotony of a life spent in a round of duties generally preached up as being wholesome for the body and warranting sanity for the mind. It appears from the figures alluded to that of the admittedly insane in this country 41.6 per cent. have been employed as servants or laborers, 2.55 per cent. as farmers or in transportation and other "healthful" out-of-door work, and 16 per cent. in manufacturing and mechanical industries.

SEVERE TREATMENT.

An Indianapolis boy who was deemed incorrigible has been made good by cutting out his tonsils. If this practice continues we may yet be pointing out street urchins with the hope that they can be reformed by amputating their mouths.—New York Times.

NAME PURPOSE IN VIEW.

Sioux Falls is doubtful whether under the simplified spelling its name would be so attractive as now. But Sioux City is certain that its name by any other spelling will look just as well to people in search of steaks.—Chicago News.

FIVE MEN ARRESTED

Charged With Theft Of Brass And Copper. Given A Hearing Friday Afternoon. Property Recovered.

As the result of a warrant sworn out over a month ago, Homer Revel, James H. Parsons, Wilmer F. Jones and Isaac Thomas Mitchell were captured at their homes in this city and lodged in the county jail on the charge of an alleged theft of brass and other valuable metal, yesterday. Complaint had come to the local authorities and sometime ago a careful search of all the junk shops was made and many valuable fittings to mills and engines which had been stolen in Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester counties were found. Some of these parts were solid brass, such as injectors, lubricators, and costly steam fittings. The officers secured several of the parts as evidence.

At the hearing, before Justice Trader, Friday afternoon it was brought out that much of the brass and other material was stolen from the mill owned by Dan'l Adkins, near Eder, Somerset County. It was also testified that on about January 3rd, this same material was sold to Mr. B. W. B. Adkins, of this city. Shortly after having purchased the goods they were packed and shipped by boat to Baltimore. The officers learned of the shipment, however, and drove to Quantico wharf in time to head off the teamster and secure the stolen property.

According to the testimony Mr. Adkins purchased the stolen goods from James H. Parsons. One piece of brass was valued by the authorities at $35.00, which was purchased by Mr. Adkins for five cents a pound.

In the arrests made Friday the officers believe they have rounded up a gang of thieves who have been operating in this and the adjoining counties for a period covering about six months.

Try it as it doesn't cost much to make, and it is said to be absolutely harmless to the stomach.

Get the following harmless ingredients from any good pharmacy: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

This simple mixture is said to give prompt relief and there are very few cases of Rheumatism and Kidney troubles it will fail to cure permanently.

These are all harmless every day drugs and your druggist should keep them in the prescription department; if not have him order them from the wholesale drug houses for you rather than fail to use this if you are afflicted.

FOUR PERISH IN FIRE.

Home of Delaware Farmer Burned and Four Young Children Lost in the Flames.

A tenant house on the farm of Representative O. A. Newton, near Bridgeville, Del., was burned early Thursday morning and four children met a horrible death in the fire.

The house was occupied by Isaiah John Johnson, a farmer, and his family, who were sleeping on the second floor. When the fire was discovered it had made such headway that only Johnson and the eldest child managed to escape by jumping from the second story window. The father made an attempt to save his children, but the heat was so intense he was compelled to flee.

Just as he leaped the building fell with a crash and the children were roasted to death while he looked on powerless. His wife was away on a visit. The children's ages ranged from two to ten years.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

Observed in Various Surprising Ways. Plenty of Missives Afloat in Salisbury.

The Salisbury postoffice was a busy medium for Valentine distribution Thursday. The number of post cards sent was remarkable. Thousands of persons are sending these cards in place of the customary valentines. It is said that the United States and Germany each prints 30,000,000 of these cards every year, and most of the American product as well as a large percentage of the German cards, is sold in this country. The valentine postal is rather more convenient than the sentimental symbol of past years and also much cheaper.

The comic valentines display the humor of the same type as formerly—the pictures hideous and the rhymes execrable. The sentimental valentines do not seem to be in as great demand as in days gone by, as flowers and candy are gradually taking their place.

The fourteenth day of February each year is celebrated in honor of St. Valentine, who, according to the legend, suffered martyrdom in the reign of the Emperor Claudius. Why this Saint should be the special patron of young folks of both sexes and why they should exchange missives on his festival is a mystery, as he wrote no love songs, nor is it known that he cast sheep's eyes at any Roman maiden. He stood steadfast for the faith during the Claudian persecutions, and, being cast into jail, cured his keeper's daughter of blindness.

The impression is that as St. Valentine was born in February and as this month is the one in which birds in England choose their mates the young people naturally selected their loving friends on this day. Another explanation is that the holiday comes down from old Roman times, and corresponds with the Lupercalia, which were feasts held in Rome during the month of February. In honor of Pan and Juno, and one of the ceremonies was to place the names of young women in a box, from which they were drawn by young men as spouses directed.

Whatever be the fact, certain it is that the custom of sending valentines is a very old one. In Shakespeare's day when the people met in the morning it was the practice to pass the greeting "Good morning, 'tis St. Valentine's Day." If a young man met a young woman he was obliged to give her a present, and as he might not care about her, this was not always an agreeable penalty.

CAPT. JOHNSON IN JAIL.

Killing Of Negro Sailor On Schooner Ruled To Be Investigated. Expects To Show The Shooting Was Justifiable.

Capt. Iver Johnson of the schooner B. T. Rundlett was arraigned before United States Commissioner Rogers yesterday afternoon on the charge of shooting and killing Paul Jennings, a negro seaman, on the Rundlett on last Saturday morning while the vessel was off Cape Lookout. Captain Johnson, who spent last night in a cell at the Eastern Police station, was taken before the United States Commissioner this morning and after the date for the hearing was set he was removed to the City Jail. The entire crew of the Rundlett, comprising a white mate and four negro seamen, were also committed to jail as witnesses.

The shooting of the negro Jennings was a tragedy of the deep which savors of the old days of clipper ships, when mutiny was rampant and captains ruled with an iron hand. In the old days the captain shot down the mutineer or strung him up to the yardarm as an example to his fellows, but in recent years laws have been enacted which take from the captain some of the power which he once wielded, and gives the mail forward a chance to air his grievances before a tribunal on land.

The negro Jennings disputed the authority of Captain Johnson, and followed up the disobedience with an assault on the mate, who, to protect himself, shot down the negro.

According to the story of the affair told by Captain Johnson, and corroborated by First Mate Frank Bittner and other members of the crew who witnessed the tragedy, the schooner Rundlett, bound from Georgetown, S. C., to Baltimore, was off Cape Lookout on last Saturday morning when the Captain ordered the negro Jennings to saw some wood for the fire. The man grumbled at the order, and finally defied openly by refusing to do the work. According to the Captain and witnesses, the negro not only disobeyed the order, but violated all the rules of the seaman'ship by inviting the master of the vessel down on the deck to fight.

A few minutes later Captain Johnson, armed with a revolver, found Jennings in the forecastle, and again he ordered him on deck to cut the wood. When the negro sprang at him and struck him in the temple felling the officer to the deck. At the same time, it is alleged, the negro shouted "I'll kill you."

When Captain Johnson gained his feet the negro came at him again, and a lively struggle ensued, during which the two stumbled into the galley, where Jennings grabbed up a long knife, evidently with the intention of using it in carrying out his threat against the life of his superior. Before the man could do any harm with the weapon, however, Captain Johnson fired three times. Jennings released his hold on Captain Johnson at once, and staggered on deck, where he fell, mortally wounded. The man died an hour later.

The first news of the shooting reached Baltimore shortly after two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and was brought by the master of the tug Active, which towed the Rundlett from Cape Henry to this port. The master of the Active notified the police, and the police boat Lannan, in command of Lieutenant Carey, took off the entire crew of the Rundlett, as well as the body of the dead negro. The body was removed to the morgue while the Captain and the other members of the crew were taken to the Eastern Police Station.

According to those who are familiar with maritime law, the arrest of Captain Johnson is in the nature of a formality, as there is not the slightest doubt that his action in shooting down the mutinous negro will be deemed justifiable homicide. The dead negro lived in Baltimore.

Delaware College Students fought fire.

The main building of Delaware College, at Newark, containing the dormitories, dining hall and chemical departments, came near being destroyed by a fire late Wednesday night. The flames started from an overheated stove, in the kitchen and when discovered had made considerable headway. Fifty or more students formed a bucket brigade and fought the fire valiantly until the local fire company arrived and subdued the flames, with a loss of only a few hundred dollars.

HOME FOR NURSES.

Plans Adopted For Four Story Building. Work To Begin At Once.

Plans have been adopted and work will at once be started on the new home for the nurses of the Peninsula General Hospital. The plans were made by Mr. Thomas H. Mitchell, and were adopted at a recent meeting of the Board of Directors.

The plans show a four story building, with basement, 34x32 feet. The building will be erected on the elevation west of the present building, about twenty feet on the other side of the driveway and facing Lombard Street. It will be of mottled bricks like the main building and the elevations correspond in every respect to the present building. The arrangement of the house is very complete.

On the first floor will be a large parlor for the use of the nurses, three bedrooms, bath and a private parlor and bedroom connected for the use of the superintendent.

The second and third floor will contain seven bed rooms and a bath on each floor, and the fourth floor has four bed rooms. The interior finish will correspond with the main hospital building in every detail.

The building will be heated by steam and supplied with all modern conveniences. Two large twelve-foot deep porches run along the front of the building.

The building, complete with its furnishings, will cost in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars, and will be one of the handsomest nurses' homes in the State.

Cheating in Estates.

Now that the question of the enforcement of the law against the sale of adulterated estates has become a practical problem of great public interest, a good deal of significance attaches to a report from our Consul at Bordeaux concerning the extensive shipping to the United States of adulterated and falsely branded articles manufactured in France. Under the French law manufacturers are allowed to use misleading brands and labels, provided only that they duly register them at the various tribunals of commerce. Such registration, of course, is of no use to the consumer here. He has to depend upon the honesty of his grocer and upon the reputation of the firm whose names happen to be known to him. Particularly disquieting to the consumer, and especially discreditable to American firms making use of such devices, is Consul Murphy's charge is well founded in the statement that certain importers in the United States insist that the packers in France shall use upon the packages of goods sent here fictitious names bearing a suspicious resemblance to the names of some of the older and most reputable houses in France, whose actual product is always of high grade and never adulterated. Many American houses, it is alleged, order olive oil, for instance, from the French packers with particular directions concerning the labels to be put upon the packages, and it is a common thing for French manufacturers and exporters to label oil of secondary or inferior quality with fictitious names and trademarks reserving their own proper names for the highest grade of goods. Other food products besides olive oil are thus dealt with. This is of a piece with the efforts that dealers are said to be making to avoid in every way possible, the telling of the truth concerning their products as our new law requires it to be told. The man who can find no better way to make money than by cheating should be driven out of business.—Selected

Tomb Of Gold.

London.—Another sensational discovery has been made at Thebes, Egypt, by Theodore M. Davis, discoverer of the tomb of the parents of the Egyptian Queen Nefis. He has just found the tomb and mummy of Queen Nefis herself.
Nefis was the mother and inspirer of the famous "heretic king" of Egyptology. Her tomb is a plain, square sepulchre, cut out of rock, and adjoined that of Ramses IX. Unfortunately, the tomb lay in the bed of a water course, and owing to the percolation of water through the rock, such perishable objects as wood and the royal mummy itself have suffered severely.
Apart from this the tomb when entered was in the same condition in which it had been left by priests amid the throes of the religious revolution that had spent its force before Moses was born.
The tomb of Nefis bears witness to the blind rage of the victorious priesthood of Thebes and the intensity of their hatred toward the heretic King, whose name he carefully erased from every article in the tomb on which it had been inscribed.
The men, however, who thus violated the tomb, were no common thieves. The jewelry of the Queen and the sheets of solid gold with which the sepulchre was literally filled were left untouched. Whatever the excavators walked they trod upon fragments of gold plate and gold leaf.
The coffin is intact and is a superb example of jeweler's work. The wood of which it was composed is entirely covered with a frame of gold inlaid with lapis lazuli, cornelian and green glass.
The mummy itself was wrapped from head to foot in sheets of gold. The water which for so many ages has been draining through it has reduced it to little more than a pulp, and it fell to pieces when examined in the presence of several Egyptologists on January 26.
There were bracelets on the arm and a necklace of gold beads and ornaments of gold inlaid with precious stones around the neck, while the head was still encased by an oblong, golden and antique, the imperial crown of the Queens of ancient Egypt. It is simple and exquisitely fashioned, and represents a royal vulture holding a cluster of lotus flowers, while the wings encircle the head and are fastened at the back by a pin. The whole head and neck were encased in a golden mask.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Lenten Season At Hand.

Wednesday was Ash Wednesday and the first of Lent—a season of 40 days of fasting, abstinence, almsgiving and seclusion from the world—observed in many churches and by many sects, but especially by members of the Roman Catholic and Protestant Episcopal churches.
The 40 days are celebrated in commemoration of the final days of Christ upon earth prior to his crucifixion. Hence, during the next 40 days the majority of churches, especially those under the See of Rome, will, toward the end, wear an air of sorrow and despondency, the altars, statues and pictures in the edifices being draped in black. The season commemorating the 40 days is inaugurated in the Catholic Church on Ash Wednesday, when the foreheads of the parishioners are marked with the cross in ashes of burnt palms, whence its public day takes its name. The ceremony is symbolic of the solemnity and significance of succeeding weeks.
The penitential time extends from the first Sunday of Lent till Trinity Sunday, during which time all Catholics who have attained the proper age are bound to receive worthily the Holy Communion.
Holy Week, the final week in Lent, is one of the most solemn and important occasions in the ecclesiastical year. It is during that period that Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday are celebrated.
On Holy Saturday, the final day in Lent, newly made fire is consecrated, with which the paschal candles are lighted, symbolic of Christ, the newly risen Light of the World.
The day following Holy Saturday is Easter Sunday.

DISFIGURING SKIN HUMOR

Impossible to Get Employment, as Face and Body Were Covered With Itching Sores—Scratched Till Flesh Was Raw—Spent Hundreds of Dollars on Doctors and Hospitals and Grew Worse

CURED BY CUTICURA IN FIVE WEEKS

"Since the year 1894 I have been troubled with a very bad case of eczema which I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to cure, and I went to the hospital, but they failed to cure me and it was getting worse all the time. Five weeks ago my wife bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap, and I am pleased to say that I am now completely cured and well."

"It was impossible for me to get employment, as my face, head, and body were covered with it. The eczema first appeared on the top of my head, and it had worked all the way around down the back of my neck and around to my throat, down my body and around the hips. It itched so I would be obliged to scratch it, and the flesh was raw."

"I would first wash the affected parts with warm water and Cuticura Soap, and then apply Cuticura Ointment and let it remain on all night and in the morning I would use Cuticura Soap. I am now all well, which all my friends can testify to, and I will be pleased to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any and all persons who wish a speedy and permanent cure of skin diseases."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By F. E. Devision, Resident of the Church.

PITCHING TOWARD SODOM.

Feb. 17, '07 - (Gen. 13:1-13).

Abraham and Lot were the cutting edges of ancient history. It is said of them that they were "very rich"

and "had flocks and herds and tents."

Their herds and flocks and tents were the original cow boys, and they apparently had the same troubles that their successors experience. While Abraham seemed to be contented with the natural increase of his property, his nephew

Lot had been bitten by the get-rich-quick parasite, and his whole life seemed to have been a struggle to beat his old uncle in the stock raising business.

Lot's cow boys soon caught the spirit of their employer and began to crowd Abraham's herdsman off the earth. They picked quarrels with them on the slightest provocation.

They stole their calves and branded them with Lot's tag. They drove them off the fat pastures to the dear barren, and the count of the herds of Abraham never would come right. And then, one day when the old man could endure the noise no longer, he called Lot and said in effect, "We had better dissolve partnership. It is evident your ideas and mine no longer agree. So you select the range that will be satisfactory to you and take it and I will take what is left. If you choose the right, I will go to the left; if you take the valley I will go to the hills." A magnificent example of the Golden Rule in a heart and an age where we should least expect it.

But Lot was not built on that plan. The schemer laughed in his sleeve at what he thought the unbusiness-like principles of his uncle.

And with the straight face he could manage he said, "I will take the plain of Jordan," and then he said to himself, "It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good," and he went out from the interview feeling like a stock broker who has just cleaned up a million by a corner in cattle.

"And he pitched his tent toward Sodom." Abraham went back to the hills to continue a simple life, and

Lot set his face toward the cities of the plain. Cities of luxury! Cities of Abomination! Cities of iniquity!

They were such hot-beds of iniquity that such marks of depravity, such caricatures of licentiousness, that their names stand in history the synonyms for the very limit of evil-doing.

Yet for the sake of the Almighty

Dollar Lot deliberately pitched his tent toward Sodom. What difference did it make to him that he had a wife and children to look out for? Did he stop to consider that

Sodom meant Sodom, that Sodom meant Sodom, that Sodom meant

"MAKES YOU WELL ALL OVER."

RHEUMACIDE goes right to the seat of the disease, sweeps all the germs and poisons out of the blood, cleans up all the plague-spots in the body and sets all the organs to work again in Nature's way. Purely vegetable, non-alcoholic. It is yet the most powerful of cleansing medicines, and at the same time regulates the liver, tones up the stomach and builds up the entire system. RHEUMACIDE is the only remedy that cures rheumatism to stay cured.

MOST POWERFUL BLOOD PURIFIER IN THE WORLD.

Rheumacide

GETS AT THE JOINTS FROM THE INSIDE

CURES DISEASE BY REMOVING THE CAUSE.

RHEUMACIDE has cured thousands of cases after all other remedies and famous doctors had failed. Austin Perrelli, of Salem, Va., spent $200 in medicines and hundreds of dollars for physicians' fees, and at last he was cured by half a dozen bottles of Rheumacide. G. Dietrich, of 2120 Ramsay street, Baltimore, says it has "made him a new man." Mrs. S. A. Combes, 114 G. St., Baltimore, says it cleansed her blood, took away her pains, and made her "feel like a new woman." Your druggist sells and recommends Rheumacide.

"I was a total wreck, having had rheumatism for twenty years. I spent several weeks in the hospital, and was told I would never be able to walk again."

"I was told I would never be able to walk again. I was told I would never be able to walk again."

GOOD NEWS FOR SALISBURY.

Science At Last Discovers A Real Cure For Rheumatism.

After years of experiment a new scientific remedy has been found that not only relieves but absolutely cures Rheumatism, and kindred diseases, to stay cured. Rheumatism is caused by an excess of poisonous acids in the blood. The new discovery Rheumacide, though purely vegetable, and acting through nature's channels, neutralizes these acids and sweeps all poisons and harmful germs out of the blood. At the same time it tones up the stomach and regulates the liver and kidneys.

Rheumacide therefore cures the disease permanently, because it removes the cause. It has cured hundreds of cases after the most noted doctors and hospitals have failed. Rheumacide cured James Wilkes, of Dillon, S. C., after he had been held in bed by rheumatism for three years and his feet were drawn up almost to his back. This is only one of the many marvelous cures Rheumacide has already performed.

Because it has cured so many others we believe it will cure you. All the leading druggists in this place sell and recommend Rheumacide.

Don't.

—Don't look on the bright side of anything. Don't permit yourself to see good in anyone. Don't have any charity for your erring brother or sister if you have any of the milk of human kindness in your heart, control it in some way. Believe that all men, and women too, are liars, and the truth is not in them. Find fault with your fellowman. Say mean things about your neighbor; envy her; hate her; seek your own; wrap if you don't get it; think evil; rejoice in iniquity; endure nothing; believe nothing, and if you are not completely miserable and unhappy it is because you haven't yet quenched the last vital spark of love in your being.

Doing Their Duty.

Scores of Salisbury Readers Are Learning The Duty Of The Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidney ills follow. Urinary trouble, diabetes, etc., are the kidneys' duty.

Salisbury people endorse our claim. Wm. M. Gordy, carpenter, residing corner of Ann and E. Church streets, says: "I have had backache for several years, was sore in the kidneys and caused my back to ache severely. I have been so bad that I could scarcely step down from one step to another, and when I arose from a chair I could not straighten for some time. I was having considerable pain in my back at the time I noticed Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and I got a box at White & Leonard's drug store. They acted directly on my kidneys and soon stopped the trouble. My son also took some of the remedy and received good results."

Cataract Cannot Be Cured.

with local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Cataract is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Cataract Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucus surfaces. Hall's Cataract Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonic known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucus surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Cataract. Send for testimonials free.

—South Bethlehem, Pa.—Samuel D. Delp, of this place, while opening oysters found a large pear shaped pearl, for which he says he has been offered $50.

A pearl was also found by Counselman Kirkline of Bangor. He bit into it while eating raw oysters.

—Lancaster, Pa.—This ailment is usually caused by rheumatism of the muscles and can be cured by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm two or three times a day and rubbing the parts vigorously at each application. If this does not afford relief, bind on a piece of flannel slightly dampened with Pain Balm, and quick relief is almost sure to follow. For sale by C. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

—Mrs. "Stonewall" Jackson recently refused a pension of $100 per month offered her by the Government. This is unusual and commendable. There are a few others receiving a pension who might ponder on this.

A NOT UPON THE BEACH.

I sat a list upon the beach Of driftwood washed within my reach.

Building the home where I would be Of wreckage from the hungry sea.

Each crushed spar and withered plank Hath come from hapless banks that sank.

In waltzing waves of circling foam, Quashing the shore in sight of home.

The birds that flit above the tide, Are souls of seamen that have died; The breathless wind that whistles by Hath still a haunting human cry.

Here close beside the thunderous deep I sit and toll, I sup and sleep; And here I note in passive hours The process of eternal powers.

My feet are gathered from the shore: My soul is fed with alms of love. Here in my hat beneath the sea, Prophet and bard commune with me.

Vision and track I seek to find In things of matter and of mind, And here my lowlands I resign To bonedome of the steam divine.

So I, abiding rooted fast, On gift and influence of the past, Learn peace and humbleness and joy That death itself may not destroy.

Sometimes the flaming sunrise fires A sea of limitless desire; Sometimes a smoldering sundown sets On passioned longings and regrets.

On summer eyes my soul is won To sweet accord with wave and sun, But when tempestuous seas arise My thoughts beat striving to the skies.

—Arthur L. Salmon, In The London Speaker.

Home Made Catarrh Cure.

Any one can mix right at home the best remedy of its kind known. The name "Cycloose" is given to the following prescription, it is supposed, because of its promptness in driving from the blood and system every vestige of catarrhal poison, relieving this foul and dread disease, no matter where located. To prepare the mixture, Get from any good pharmacy one half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon and three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bed time.

This is a harmless, inexpensive mixture which has a peculiar action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, assisting them to filter and strain from the blood and system all catarrhal poisons, which, if not eradicated, are absorbed by the mucous membranes, and an open sore or catarrh is the result.

Prepare some and try it, as it is the prescription of an eminent catarrh specialist of national reputation.

Caution.

Imitations have been placed upon the market so closely resembling Alcock's Plasters in general appearance as to be well calculated to deceive. It is, however, in general appearance only that they compare with Alcock's for they are not only lacking in the best elements which have made Alcock's so efficient, but are often harmful in their effects. Remember that Alcock's are the original and only genuine porous plasters—the best external remedy known—and when purchasing plasters the only safe way is to always insist upon having Alcock's.

Jamestown Building.

The Delaware commissioners to the Jamestown Exposition have approved the plans for the proposed Delaware building at the fair and specifications are being prepared by William D. Brince, the architect, and as soon as they are in shape the commission will hold a meeting and go over them and invite proposals, by advertisement, for the construction of the building.

The plans call for a modest colonial structure, which, it is believed, will be appropriate. It will be roomy and have spacious two-story porches across the double front. It will be inviting in appearance and characteristic of some of the historic buildings in the State.

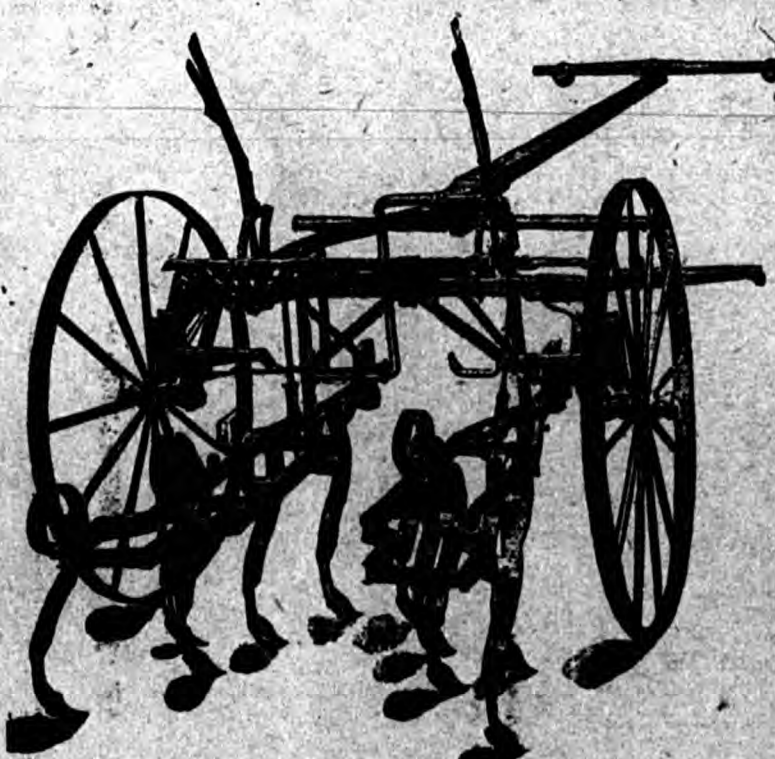

The site for the building, on the exposition grounds, has been selected and everything is in readiness to put up the building as soon as the preliminary details can be arranged. Governor Lea, on his visit to Jamestown, recently, saw the grounds and was pleased with the location, which he says, will answer the purpose very well. Notwithstanding the fact that Delaware was one of the last States to act in the matter, it was given a good position on the grounds.

The building will be the home for Delawareans visiting the exposition, and it is expected that there will be many visitors from this State, in view of the fact that Delaware is in the front rank of the States which contributed most to the early history of the country and also because Norfolk, where the fair will be held, is only a comparatively short distance away and can be reached by rail in a few hours.

The County Commissioners were in session Tuesday. R. P. Board agreed to do so as soon as Mr. Bailey had put down a permanent bridge at the mill.

The Board agreed to furnish the town of Sharptown 20,000 bushels of shells the county to pay 3 cents per bushel and the town all over 3 cents, put them on the road.

The Board agreed to pay John S. Hurley $50 to remove his canning house out of the line of the contemplated road to lead from Mt. Pleasant M. P. Church to the O. S. Baptist Church in Barren Creek District, and to pay said Hurley $25 to build the road.

The report of B. F. Messick, Jonathan Huntington and P. S. Shockey, commissioners on the road laid out in Trappe Election District was up. The report was ratified and Commissioner Johnson was authorized to sell the building of said road.

New Vessel Launched At Sharptown.

The schooner "Albert W. Robinson" was launched Monday morning at Sharptown in the presence of a large crowd of people. She is a four masted schooner and will be used in the Southern Lumber trade with E. G. Bennett, of Sharptown as captain. The vessel was built by the Railway Company, and is owned by Albert W. Robinson, after whom she was named and several others. The "Albert W. Robinson" was christened by wife of Captain Bennett.

VERDICT OF $500.00.

Rendered in Case Of Thos. H. Twilley Against B. C. & A. Railway Company. Case Tried in Baltimore.

A number of Salisburyans were called to Baltimore this week as witnesses in the case of Thomas H. Twilley vs. the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company, which was tried before Judge Harlan in the court of common pleas.

The trial was the culmination of an arrest made in this city last summer by the local police. Twilley, who was a passenger on a B. C. and A. train from Ocean City, caused the arrest of William Manning for drunkenness and boisterous conduct. When the train arrived at the station in this city, the local authorities were on hand to take charge of the prisoner.

Twilley objected to this, stating that he wanted Manning taken to Cambridge for a hearing. When the authorities insisted in taking Manning off here, Twilley became abusive and in consequence was placed under arrest and confined in the county jail. At the hearing the next day he paid his fine and immediately brought suit against the Railway Company for false arrest and imprisonment.

As the result of the testimony the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $500.00.

Those who were called to testify from Salisbury were William A. Trader, Frank Waller, J. O. Kelly, N. C. Turner, George Sharpley, Peter Mitchell and William S. Powell.

Drop by drop the offensive discharge caused by Nasal Catarrh falls from the back of the nose into the throat, setting up an inflammation that is likely to mean Chronic Bronchitis. The certain, rational cure for Catarrh is Ely's Cream Balm, and the relief that follows even the first application cannot be told in words. Don't suffer a day longer from the discomfort of Nasal Catarrh. Cream Balm is sold by all druggists for 50 cents, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 W. Warren Street, New York.

A conference of the County Superintendents of the State and Comptroller Atkinson was held yesterday in Annapolis relative to the June distribution of the State School tax. Wicomico County was represented by Mrs. Bonds.

CAPTAIN JOHNSON FREED.

Charge Against Him Dismissed After Hearing Last Friday.

After a hearing before United States Commissioner Rogers held last Friday afternoon, Capt. Iver Johnson, who was charged with the murder of Paul Jennings, a negro, who mutinied off Capt. Lookout, was set free and the charge against the captain was dismissed. It was shown at the hearing that Capt. Johnson shot the negro in self defense.

First Mate Frank Bittner, Steward Manuel Ferry and other members of the crew testified that while the schooner was bound from Georgetown S. C. for Baltimore the Captain ordered Jennings to cut wood with the other seamen. The negro, it was said, refused, and when the Captain again ordered him, struck his officer across the head, stunning him. They went to the galley, where Bittner said, Jennings grabbed the Captain by the throat. At the same time Johnson drew a pistol and fired three shots into the body of the mutineer.

Captain Johnson is 58 years of age and a native of Norway. He has been around Baltimore for the past 30 years. He is well known to all the seafaring men, who speak of him in the kindest terms.

The schooner R. T. Rundlett is a three masted vessel and was the property of Capt. R. B. White and Capt. W. K. Leatherbury of this city.

This is the Rundlett's first voyage under the command of Capt. Johnson, who was formerly master of the schooner, J. S. Hoskins.

New Sewer for South Salisbury.

A committee of the City Council, after a visit to South Salisbury decided to lay a 24 inch sewer from the dam on South Division Street to the N. Y. P. & N. Railroad, for the purpose of draining the surface water which is always noticeable after a rain.

The new sewer will have proper wells at the beginning and at convenient points along its route. It is estimated that when completed this improvement will cost in the neighborhood of $2,500.00. The present council have accomplished a great deal in draining Salisbury of surface water and when this work is completed every part of the city will have been provided for.

The questions of installation were put to the pastor and congregation by Rev. Dr. Henderson. The charge to the pastor was delivered by Rev. Thomas A. McCurdy, D. D., pastor of Central Church, Wilmington; the charge to the people by Rev. Samuel W. Reigart, D. D., pastor emeritus of Wicomico Presbyterian Church. The closing prayer, an eloquent and fervent appeal for the successful labors of the new pastor, was delivered by Dr. Reigart.

A fine musical program was rendered by the choir. In addition to the hymns, the following selections were rendered: "Jubilate Deo" from Haydn's Creation "Hallelujah Chorus," from Handel's Messiah; and "Sing Hallelujah Forth," by Dudley Buck.

Rev. Mr. Beale, the new pastor, was born in Baltimore. He was a son of Rev. David J. Beale, D. D., for many years pastor of Light Street Presbyterian Church, Baltimore.

Mr. Beale received his elementary education in the public schools of Frederick City and Blair Presbyterian Academy in New Jersey. He graduated from Princeton University in the class of 1890; received Master's degree in Philosophy and History from Princeton University in 1902; graduated from Princeton Seminary in class of 1902. He was ordained to the ministry by the Presbytery of Philadelphia in May, 1902, and installed over the Rock and Zion Presbyterian Church of Cecil county in June of that year. He was married to Miss Mary Harlan, of Martinsburg, W. Va., on May 2, 1906.

ELOPEMENT FAILED.

After A Hot Chase Miss Baker of Stevensville Returns To Home Of Parents.

An attempted elopement, an exciting chase in buggies, and the return of the would be bride to her home were the cause of much excitement at Stevensville, near Easton, last Sunday afternoon.

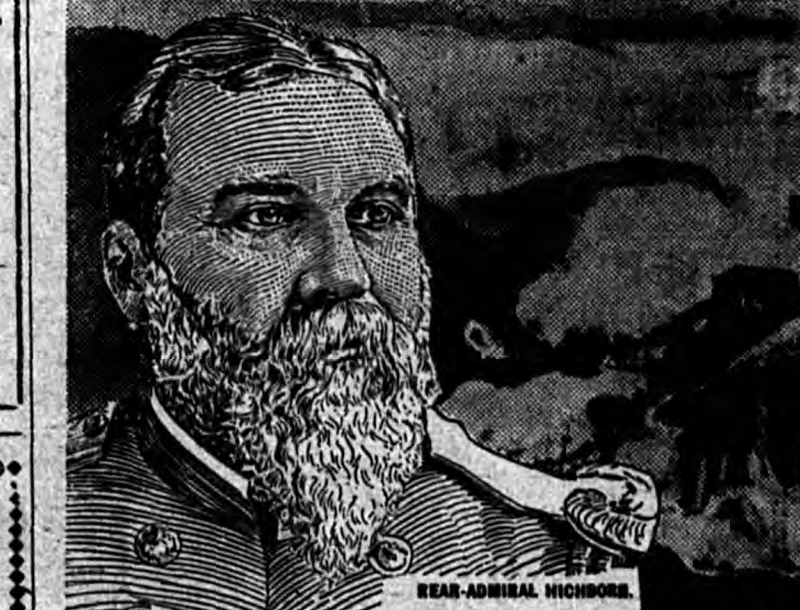

Miss Beatie D. Baker, daughter of Rev. Dr. Charles S. Baker, and E. W. Blizars, neither of whom have reached the marriageable age, decided to outwit conventionalities and with this end in view secured a team and started presumably for a drive.

The father was anxious however, and followed in hot pursuit, finally locating the young couple at Easton where they were in charge of Sheriff Gannon, who had been informed and was waiting for them when they arrived.

After considerable persuasion Miss Baker returned home to her father, a sadder but much wiser young girl.

REAR-ADMIRAL HICHBORN PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

Peruna Drug Co., Columbus, Ohio.
Gentlemen—After the use of Peruna for a short period, I can now cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy to any one who is in need of an invigorating tonic.
Very respectfully,
PHILIP HICHBORN.

IF ALL the men and women who have used Peruna and found it beneficial should write testimonials giving the plain facts, we would be overwhelmed with certificates.

But only now and then one who has been benefited by Peruna stops to give any public acknowledgment of a cure.

Various considerations prevent people from writing testimonials for publication. Inordinate modesty, oversensitiveness and business considerations forbid many people from writing testimonials who otherwise would be glad to do so.

All Classes Represented.
But in spite of all these considerations, thousands of people without any solicitation whatever do write testimonials for Peruna.

We receive these from men of high degree and low degree, from the army and the navy, from the hall of congress, from the colleges, from high officials in the church, from the society belle and the washerwoman, from the military man and the civilian.

We have never put into print but a small per cent. of these actually received.

Sincere Testimony.
In presenting the testimonial of Admiral Highborn we appreciate the high rank of our testifier.

We feel sure that his testimonial will appeal to others as it does to us, that nothing but a genuine wish to do others good would have impelled a man in such honorable rank to give public testimony to any remedy, however valuable.

The Admiral is altogether too busy a man to answer letters of inquiry, but the reader can rest assured that his testimony is given in his exact words, over his signature.

Pastor Uses Pe-ru-na.

Rev. P. E. Swanson, box 225, Grantsburg, Wis., writes:
"I feel that it is my duty as well as a pleasure to let you know that I am entirely cured. I have used Peruna according to your personal directions and I am very glad that I found a medicine which would cure me after three years of suffering."

Editor's Recommendation.
Fred M. Armstrong, city editor, of the Gazette, Delaware, Ohio, writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to recommend Peruna to everybody who is looking for a first-class tonic. Two bottles completely cured me and now I am enjoying the best of health."

Congressmen Endorse Pe-ru-na.
Hon. W. B. Andrews, Hastings, Neb., formerly vice-president of Hastings College and ex-member of the Fifty-fourth Congress, writes:

"I cheerfully recommend the preparation, Peruna, as a healthful tonic and a successful remedy for catarrh in its various forms."

Author Praises Pe-ru-na.
Mr. Robert E. Hanvey, well-known author and lecturer, writes from 11 S. Lincoln street, Chicago, Ill.:

"I was in good health until about four years ago when my back became lame and sore. The pains kept increasing with severe twitches and slow exhaustion. Having read of Peruna, I decided to try it. I found relief in ten days. Within three months I was well once more. I give all thanks to Peruna."

"For over thirty years," writes a gentleman in Los Angeles, "I have used Arbuckle's Coffee. Many times my family has tried other coffee only to come back to our old reliable, unchangeable Arbuckle's. No other coffee has this uniform never-fading aroma, I care not at what price. I have often wished I could tell you this." Many other people have the same opinion. Arbuckle's was the first roasted packaged coffee, and its sales exceed all the together. That it costs you less is due simply to our coffee business being so much greater than any competitors, in fact, it is larger than the next four largest firms in the world combined. We naturally can and actually do give better coffee in ARIOSA than anyone else can give for the price. Being the standard article it is sold at the narrowest margin of profit.

Some grocers will try to sell you instead loose coffee which the master is ashamed to sell in a package bearing his name. Don't take it, neither the looks nor the price indicate its cup quality. No matter where you buy Arbuckle's ARIOSA, or what you pay for it, it's the same old uniform Arbuckle's ARIOSA Coffee.

If your grocer will not supply, write to ARBUCKLE BROS., New York City.

OPIMUM

At A Chinese Cafe.

"When the earthquake and fire wiped out San Francisco one of the principal features of interest in the city, Chinatown, went too," said a reporter from the ill-fated city to another reporter in an uptown hotel.

"Aside from the other interesting features of this section of the city, its restaurants were one of the most marked. Many of these eating places were very elaborately fitted up in costly Oriental style and a visit to Chinatown without treating a Chinese dinner was like going to Rome and missing St. Peter's."

"The Occidental mind is sadly at a loss on the subject of Chinese cooking and its ingredients, or its supposed ingredients are viewed with skepticism, if not in stronger terms. But this is entirely through lack of familiarity and because the terms or names under which the dishes are served are not understood by us. As a matter of fact the Chinese are good cooks and are thus universally employed on the coast. And thus many of us still adhere to the impressions of childhood as regards the supposed Oriental craving for fat animals, which we esteem as pets, but you can take my word for it that the serving of these esteemed pets is largely mythical and the idea belongs where we all used to see it—in the school primers. Whatever may be the individual Chinese taste as regards food the edibles served in the restaurants are what we ourselves eat only under Chinese names."

"Thus the chop suey suggests to the average Occidental mind an admixture of chopped meat or fat and meat. On the contrary the chop suey is one of the most appetizing of dishes and is composed of spiced meats and vegetables. It is made of chopped celery mushrooms and ham with small green bean sprouts added. It is cooked over a red hot coal fire on a griddle or especially used stove lid and turned over and over during the process of cooking, with a thin cake turner, not unlike that used in the cooking of pancakes. It is served and eaten steaming hot and possesses a peculiar and agreeable flavor."

"Among the rank and file of those who patronize Chinese restaurants the kayoman is the most popular dish, mainly because it is the cheapest and the 'most filling' for the money. It is simply the Chinese way of serving wheat dough, which the Italians eat in the manufactured form of spaghetti. Germans in the shape of their beloved boiled dough dumplings and Americans in the form of noodles. The Chinese make their noodles in a slow and laborious manner by hand, and they do not buy the American noodles. After the lump of dough is made ready it is placed upon a large table and an athletic Chinese begins with a small regulation roller the operation of reducing the lump to the thickness of cardboard. It takes him hours to do this, and he finishes the rolling job with a long roller, for the dough sheet is then several square feet in extent. It is then itself rolled into a compact form like a rolled up window curtain and the ends are sliced off into shavings with a sharp knife. The shavings are made into little balls about as big as the flat, dried and are ready for use. When a kayoman is ordered a ball is dropped into a caldron of boiling water for a few seconds only, is removed with a little wire net and dropped into a bowl of hot, clear chicken broth and this flavor adds to the taste of the dish. Four little squares of Chinese smoked ham, which has a different but an agreeable flavor from American ham, are placed on top of the floating noodles, or two pieces of ham and two of chicken according to the individual taste of the customer. The yakoman is likewise served and eaten steaming hot. A pot of clear, unsweetened tea goes with the yakoman as it does with all Chinese dishes, without additional cost, the tea being shipped from diminutive cups."

"If you wish a regulation Chinese omelet, to be served with ham and herbs, which is the same as our own ham omelet, you ask for a foo yong dan. If you prefer a lobster omelet you vary it into a foo yong ha. If you prefer the good old American standby of ham and eggs, just ask the Chinese waiter for a fore rule dan. The chow main is made of noodles with pomeless chicken and bamboo shoots, and it is one of the more expensive Chinese dishes, costing $1 to see it if agree with your idea of bamboo shoots."

"The chow-gai-pen is made of boneless chicken and Chinese fruits and has an agreeable flavor. Beef does not find a very prominent place upon the Oriental bill of fare, as with us but if you want to try some boiled beef with green peppers you have only to ask for a lot-jau-gow-yok, and see if it reminds you of washday at home. They also prepare a palatable dish of chicken with green peppers, termed the lot-jau-kai. The chow-lang-fan is a fried rice with ham and vegetables, while the bark-charm-gai is just plain boiled chicken. The whole roast spring chicken or the low-che-gai, is one of the more expensive dishes as is the boneless fish porridge, usually cooked in fancy sauce and called the sui-wa goey. One of the higher priced dishes is the chow-gum-tom-son-goey and it is fish with a very sweet and pungent sauce."

"The Chinese soups are good, the principal of which are the sui-soo-main, with noodles and boneless chicken; the gai-yong-gan, a broth with chopped chicken and ham; the mor-yok-gan, a broth with ham and nuts, and the gal-chook, which is just rice soup with chicken. While the names given to these gastronomical creations of the Chinese may seem a little odd and difficult of pronunciation to the American tongue, you can call them anything you want and the waiter will understand you, even if you do not understand him."

Commander Robert E. Peary, at a dinner in Chicago, told of his exploration:

"It is false and absurd to say that I make my polar dashes with Eskimo guides. The Eskimos don't guide me; they have never been so far north before; I guide the Eskimos."

"Eskimos guide! The phrase is as false and ridiculous as some of those parrot stories that you hear."

"A man deluged me with parrot stories on the New York train the other day."

"Are you interested in parrot stories?" he began.

"No," said I.

"Well," said he, "I'll tell you about two brother parrots that escaped."

"A friend of his, he said, was pleasant shooting, and shot at one of these tame parrots by mistake. As he took it up and turned it over in his hand the dying parrot said feebly:

"You blockhead!" and expired."

"The other parrot after its escape stopped to rest on a countryman's roof. The countryman got wind that a strange and gorgeous bird was perched on the eaves, and getting a ladder climbed up cautiously."

"When his head peeped over the edge of the roof the parrot said:

"Well, what do you want?"

"The countryman touched his cap and answered respectfully, as he began to climb down again:

"I beg your pardon, sir; I thought 'twas a bird."

"A projecting door of a freight car on the sidings in South Delmar Yard, raked a passenger car on train No. 46 while passing on Saturday. Several broken windows was the result."

TORTURED BY ITCHING ECZEMA

Suffered Tremendous Itching Over Whole Body—Scratched Until Bled—Worse at Night, With Soreness and Excruciating Pains—A Western Lady's

WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Last year at this time I suffered with a tremendous itching on my back, which grew worse and worse, until it spread over the whole body, and only my face and hands were free. For four months or so I suffered the tortures of the damned, and I had to scratch, scratch, scratch until I bled. At night when I went to bed things got worse, and I had times to get up and scratch my body all over, until I was as sore as could be, and until I suffered excruciating pains. I did not know what it was, and resorted to a number of blood purifiers, using at times also Cuticura Soap. They told me then that I was suffering from eczema. Then I made up my mind that I would also use Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them according to instructions, and very soon, indeed I was greatly relieved. I continued until well, and now I am ready to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any one who suffers as did your obedient servant. Mrs. Mary Metzger, Sweetwater, Okla., June 28, 1906."

TORTURING, DISFIGURING Humors, Eczemas, and Itchings Cured by Cuticura

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of scalp, as in scalled head—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtue to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are such standbys proven beyond all doubt.

AILING WOMEN

How Many Perfectly Well Women Do You Know?

MISS GRACE E. MILLER MRS. W. S. FORD

"I am not feeling very well," "I am so nervous it seems as though I should fly," "My back aches as though it would break."

How often do you hear these significant expressions from women's friends. More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and there is a cause.

More than thirty years ago Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass. discovered the source of nearly all the suffering endured by her sex. "Woman's Ills," these two words are full of more misery to women than any other two words that can be found in the English language. Sudden fainting, depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere, backaches, headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness, bearing-down sensations, displacements and irregularities are the bane of woman's existence.

The same woman who discovered the cause of all this misery also discovered a remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs holds the record for a greater number of absolute cures of female ills than any other one remedy the world has ever known and it is the greatest blessing which ever came into the lives of suffering women.

Don't try to endure, but cure the cause of all your suffering. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, at once removes such troubles. The following letters prove this:

The Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Collars, Cuffs and Suspenders, Hosiery, Underwear, Neckwear, Umbrellas, Night Shirts and Pajamas that Lacy Thoroughgood sells in his two stores are genuine—no imitations. There's no sham about them. A merchant prospers only when he sells good goods. The makers of Lacy Thoroughgood's clothing rank among the largest manufacturers in the world. They claim that there is no better line of clothes made than theirs, and to substantiate this, into every garment of their make is sewn a guarantee label, which means that the purchaser may have his money refunded if he does not find any suit of their make all they claim it to be. The clothes that Lacy Thoroughgood sells are the best made and correct in style. If you have worn a suit that came from Lacy Thoroughgood's, you are one step ahead of the crowd. A slight-of-hand performance deceives the on looker by attracting the attention of what is being done by one hand while the deception is accomplished with the other. Some clothiers use the same methods. They say to the public "LOOK OUT" for this particular chest or that particular pair, with the expectation of having some greater failing to go unnoticed. Lacy Thoroughgood has never had to resort to such methods. He has been in business 20 years and nobody has been cheated yet. We sell no shams, we keep no imitations. Thoroughgood sells only the best goods made.

WASHINGTON.

Much has been said and much has been written about Washington, the man, Washington, the warrior, Washington, the statesman, and Washington, the patriot and benefactor of his country. Every year as his birthday rolls around the floodgates are opened wide, and his character and acts in all phases are re-discussed. There may not be anything new brought out in this way, yet it answers its purpose and keeps the Father of our country constantly before us, and the thoughts of his sacrifices for his country and his noble deeds makes us love more the liberty he fought to give us. It has been said that if the time ever comes when he is forgotten then the nation will have lost its best and most precious treasure—the love of liberty—and that such forgetfulness will be the sure sign of decay, both as to its principles and its power as a nation. It is well that a nation should have such a name to teach its people, what is due to the state from its citizens, and as long as we are a liberty loving race Washington will be the most overhauled and honored name in the annals of our history. Perhaps as time passes each year will see him idealized more and more, his frailties of the flesh will be forgotten, if such he had and being mortal he must have had—and each year will see him more and more as the ideal man, the model statesman, the true patriot and hero. Let it be the duty of every citizen to keep his memory fresh in the minds of the young and instill in them the same admiration, the same love that they, and their parents before them, held, for him. If some lover of "Human Weaknesses" seek to drag any of his faults from the grave of the past, let us forget them, and teach our children not only to honor him as a patriot and hero, but even to idealize him as a man, to honor his name, to cherish his memory, and to love him as a benefactor and father. Instill—or God—has implanted in every heart three great loves, and it is the duty of all to see these trained and strengthened until they grow up strong and healthy—"The love of God, the love of home and home ties, the love of Country—or liberty. As to the last, as himself furnishes the ideal, the parents must by the happiness or unhappiness existing in their own home make or mar the second, and the third a better ideal can not be found to help the growth of liberty and instill a love of our country than is found in the life of the one who was "First in War, First in Peace, and First in the Hearts of his Countrymen."

In every home in the land let these three loves be taught on the mother's knee, and by the precepts and example of the father, and strengthened and re-inforced by the teaching in our public schools.

This Is Worth Saving.

The following simple home-made mixture is said to relieve any form of Rheumatism or backache, also cleanse and strengthen the Kidneys and Bladder, overcoming all urinary disorders, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take two spoonful doses after meals and at bed.

A well-known authority states that some ingredients are mainly of vegetable extraction, and harmless to use, and can be obtained at small cost from any good prescription pharmacy. Those who think they have kidney trouble or suffer with lame back or rheumatism or Rheumatism, should give this prescription a trial, as no person can possibly follow its use, and it is said to do wonders for some people.

FORECASTS OF FASHIONS

The Continuance of the Short Sleeve: Suit Coats: Spring Millinery: Dress Materials: Stripes, Checks and Plaids: New Silks: Bordered Robes: Colors.

The shortsighted mortal who confidently predicted the downfall of the elbow sleeve is "put to confusion," as all except the tailor made suits, have sleeves reaching just below the angle of the elbow. In fancy waists the sleeves are as short as ever. Let us hope that long gloves will be manufactured in larger numbers and at prices within the means of all females. The dearth of novelties in all departments of fashions is remarkable. In suits, the same general styles prevail, the plaid skirt, the box coat, a tight-fitting coat, the long coat and the Eton, plaited, braided with or without a vest, and in fact any attractive fancy trimming is admissible.

Spring Millinery.

The sole difference yet apparent, is, that hats will set more closely to the head, and there will be less trimming under the brim. Last season's popular shapes re-appear, particularly the large flat trimmed with flower wreaths and a touch of black velvet ribbon. Flowers are once more in the ascendency, and quills or plumage abound in high grade millinery and to a still greater extent on the ready to wear hat. Crowns as a rule are somewhat higher, and folds of velvet, leather or colored silk passementerie around crowns lend a shade of novelty. The leghorn is very prominent and indications are that the closely woven straws will again be in the majority.

Dress Materials.

Spring "suitings" comprise stripes, checks or plaids in such varied blendings that one is amazed at human ingenuity. The two latter afford greater scope for individual taste than the former, and the handsome combinations now shown by Lord and Taylor, are marked by originality, beauty of coloring and softness of texture. The peculiar shade of tan and gray woven together, which appears in some of the high class wools imported by this well known house, is an attractive novelty. Voiles follow in the footsteps of wools, and of course some demand for plain goods will exist, but they will be in the minority.

New Silks.

Those of American manufacture claim first attention and they also set forth the beauties of plaids, checks or stripes—varied by dots of any size in groupings of the latter design. An imitation of the homespun weave appears in a second American silk, which is peculiarly acceptable from its shadowy surface—a relief from plaids or checks. Black and white silks are as much in favor as ever, and authorities state that all black silk is in growing demand, largely due to the "jumper waist", usually of lace, and requiring a contrast. Black, sufficiently lightened by lace and touches of color is universally becoming, and is less conspicuous than colors.

Bordered Robes.

Robe patterns of all sorts, both in bordered materials by the yard, and in the regulation boxed patterns are shown in endless variety at the best shops. Very effective ones of batiste, embroidered and inserted with lace, are to be had at $10.00 and from that up to any price that the purse will permit.

Colors.

Tan is supposed to be the leading color of the season, next gray, and thirdly black and white. This assumption is not borne out however by a glance at the color card of the leading houses. Plain voiles are in bright hues, and ribbons are fairly blazing with color. Facings in brilliant hues are used in collars, cuffs and front of checked or plaided suits, and plain roughwoven silks come in green, crimson, blue, "crushed strawberry," and of course every shade of brown. Soutache braid will be in great favor this spring and rather narrow ribbon will trim dresses of sheer material in ladder form, squares, diamonds or in straight around rows of varied widths. Verona Clarke.

Of Interest to Women.

Every woman naturally should be healthy and strong, but a great many, unfortunately are not, owing to the unnatural condition of the lives we lead. Headache, backache and a general tired condition are prevalent amongst the women of to-day, and to relieve these conditions women rush to the druggists for a bottle of some preparation supposed to be particularly good for them, and containing—no body knows what. If they would just get a box of Braudeth's Pills, and take them regularly every night for a time, all their trouble would disappear, as these pills regulate the organs of the feminine system. The same does always has the same effect, no matter how long they are used. Braudeth's Pills have been in use for over a century and are sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar-coated.

MORE ENTERTAINMENT.

Promised For Next Week At Auditorium Hall.

More entertainment is promised by Manager Showell of the skating rink for the coming week. By special request the grand tournament, which created so much comment several weeks ago will be repeated with the contestants in fancy dress. This is a most unique entertainment and promises to draw a large crowd. It is one of few contests in which the lady skaters take active part. Prizes will be awarded to the winner of the contest.

Mr. Showell announces that on Thursday evening the third of the series of polo games will be played with the Easton team. The local boys have been in almost constant practice and expect an easy victory.

It is stated that games have been secured with Wilmington and Baltimore teams and if there is sufficient interest manifested by Salisburyans these fast teams will come here to meet the local team.

Brakeman Killed By Accident.

While shifting cars at Pocomoke Wednesday morning Raymond Brown, of this town, in some unknown manner fell on the rails and was run over and killed. Just how the unfortunate man fell will probably remain unknown. The night was very dark and as no one saw him fall just how he did so, is a mystery. The first knowledge the engineer had of the accident was when he heard Brown's holler when under the engine. One leg and arm were cut off, otherwise the body was not disfigured. The remains were brought to Delmar on the 7.10 a. m. train, and were taken in charge Undertaker Marvel. At this writing the time of the funeral had not been decided upon, though it will probably be Saturday or Sunday. The deceased is survived by a wife and child. He was not a member of any organization nor did he carry any insurance of any character.

A New Order For National Banks.

What is claimed will ensure greater safety in the conduct of the affairs of national banks throughout the country is the recent action taken by the Comptroller of the Currency in issuing instructions to bank examiners to send notices to the depositors of all national banking institutions requesting a statement concerning the deposits at their respective banks. The action of the Comptroller of the Currency was favorably commented upon, the opinion being expressed that by this new method which has been adopted depositors of all national banks will be doubly assured of the true condition of the institution treated with their deposits.

The order which is to be sent out from the office of the respective national bank examiners to the depositors is as follows: Please send your deposit-book to your bank and request that it be balanced. Upon its return, please state hereon over your own signature as indicated the amount of the balance thereon, and whether the same is correct or not.

If the bank holds for you special deposits of any kind which do not appear on your deposit-book, please state their amount and of what they consist. The usual periodical examination of the bank has been made, and this information is requested solely for the purpose of verifying the correctness of the bank's accounts and is not intended to reflect in any way upon the bank's condition. This statement, when filled out by the depositor is to be mailed, signed to the office of the national bank examiner.

Arrangements are being made for the next session of the Wilmington M. E. Conference, which will be held in Smyrna, Del., in March. Rev. Robert Watt, a former presiding elder, who is now pastor of the church at Smyrna, is sending out letters, in an effort to get an idea of the number of members of conference and visitors who will attend the session, and he desires to secure accommodations for all who will attend.

—The Rev. Dr. J. V. Waller, met with a series of accidents last week. On Thursday while looking at some timber in the river swamp he broke the ice and fell into the bog, the water coming up to his neck. On Friday he was severely kicked by a horse and on Saturday he fell and broke his collar bone. Mr. White says he is a living exemplification of the fact that "misfortunes never come single." Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar bottles. You may have a sample bottle

SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By F. R. Davidson Rutland Vt.
DIVINE ASTROLOGY.

Feb. 24, '07—(Gen. 15:1-16.)

Night, which in all languages is the symbol of gloom and suffering, need not necessarily be somber. It is often the case that night is radiantly beautiful, all the pomp and magnificence of heaven turning out on dress parade, gloriously impressive in their mystic evolutions.

It was on some such night as this that the old patriarch Abraham went out on the hilltops of his Palestine home, and beheld the vision of the stars. There they hung, millions of silvery eyes, throng upon throng, over the hills, glittering in the East, throbbing in the West, scintillating, flashing, twinkling everywhere. The mighty Arcturus and his children, Venus and Mars, and the mighty hand of light—the Milky Way, they were all there, angels talking in light, servants watching the gates of the Capital of the Universe. And it was that hour Abraham knew that though he was childless his posterity should be as numerous as the flaming sons of light that marched and circled and swung before his raptured vision.

This was a vision to a man in the dumps. Abraham was nearing the century mark, and although he lived to greater age in those days than they do now, he had already begun to feel the effect of his years. He had met with many disappointments in life, and had not reached the goal of his ambition in coming to that land a quarter of a century before. He was rich in herds and flocks, and other worldly possessions, but he was childless, and his nephew, Lot, had forsaken him. The people of the land looked upon him as an infirm, and he felt like a pilgrim and a stranger on the earth. Just now he was having a bad case of the blues, and was overwhelmed with doubts and fears, wondering if life was worth living.

But the old patriarch was a philosopher, he had the Oriental habit of meditation largely developed, and instead of flinging himself down under a Juniper tree to sulk as Elijah did on a similar occasion, he went out under the dome of sky and look ed up. And there, above his head, calmly floating in their appointed places were the multitudinous hosts of heaven, calm, serene, undisturbed. The stars have no "nerves." They are not upset by difficulties, never get "rattled," never cease to shine because people criticize them, do not become disappointed. Nothing ever vexes the eternal calm of those vast spaces in which they have their being. Storms sweep over the earth, the ocean is lashed into fury, the atmosphere is heavy with clouds or ripped open by lightning, but the firmament is never affected by the uproar of this small planet. They have no cares and no perplexities, and they swing as serenely in their orbits as though there was no such thing in the universe as trouble. So they have done for countless ages, so they will do for countless ages to come.

When you feel a fit of the blues coming on, go out and look at the stars. Gaze at those myriad worlds of light until their unruffled serenity takes possession of your own soul, and fears and sorrows flee away. It would hold back many a man from becoming a misanthrope or a suicide to take a good long lesson in star gazing.

But Abraham saw more than this. He saw something in the stars that he had never seen before. He saw power. Here he was an old man, with not a child nor a child to come, yet those starry heavens were continents on the fields of which he saw countless thousands of descendants reckoning their spiritual genealogy back to him, as the father of the faithful. He was the first great believer, and according to his faith it was unto him, in a world of doubt and unbelief it is a great thing to be the progenitor of a race of men who walk by faith and not by sight.

There are many who maintain that man's destiny is written in the stars. They say that for every human soul there is a natal star so brilliant and luminous that no light can equal it. No language can describe its beauty, no mind can paint its loveliness. They assert that if a child is born under certain stellar influences he will be a warrior, under others he will be a philosopher, and so on. They say that man's destiny is written in the stars. TURN OVER A NEW LEAF and start the year right. The month just ended showed an increase in new business in the State of Maryland of more than 100 per cent. over the corresponding month last year, which is simply a result of having the right kind of goods and at the right prices, and fully justifies our motto of "Progress and Prosperity."

BY PURCHASING A POLICY IN

D'ARCY BRINSFIELD, Dist. Manager, ELDERADO, MD.

MARYLAND FARMS.

Fifteen farms at a sacrifice. Buildings on all. Plenty of wood and timber to suit them. Good water, fine climate, two railroads, good schools and churches. Near the ocean, abundance of water for irrigation. Ideal for horticulture. Harrison's trees are a sample of what they will produce. Climate modified by ocean and bay. Come and look, is all we ask. Farms of 100 to 1,000 acres. Six thousand acres at an average of $10 to $25 per acre. The Eastern Shore of Maryland, because of its position, is becoming the garden of the Northern and Eastern cities; so these prices are only temporary.

Why go to the wild and spend your life making a farm and a home, when for less money, in a better climate and nearer the markets, you can immediately have what you want? Yours truly,
