

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS SEEK PUBLIC OPINION ON MAKING POOR FARM A DEMONSTRATION PLACE

Proposal Advanced To Turn Institution Over To County Agent To Run As Model Farm. Does Not Now Make Expenses By Two Thousand Dollars A Year.

Whether the County should continue to run the Almshouse and poor farm, he says, and pensioned the inmates, but after trying this method for a year or two it found the system so expensive that it has a project now on foot to buy another farm. The farm near Quantico, in the opinion of the president of the County Commissioners, could be placed in the County Agent's hands with excellent prospects of its becoming a paying proposition. It would be invaluable as a demonstration institution and would mean a great deal to the farming interests of the County as a whole. Beyond this, however, is the fact that such a farm could be made to pay a profit by which the County would be greatly benefited. The County Agent would have something with which he could work without being dependent upon the whims and fancies of others and so would be able to do much more valuable work. If profits from the farm did nothing more than make it self-supporting, the project would be well worth while. Two thousand dollars being paid out by the County each year for the support of paupers is infinitely worse than having a farm which would pay for itself and do much more for the County. The Commissioners are anxious for the public to express an opinion on this matter, to have without such an opinion it is hardly likely they will take any radical steps. Those who are interested in the welfare of the County are urged to write the Commissioners and tell them what they think of the plan.

FIRE TOTALLY RUINS A STORE AT RIVERTON

James Believed To Have Been Of Incendiary Origin—Loss About Five Thousand Dollars.

Early on Wednesday morning, fire totally destroyed the store of Webster T. English, a member of the English family. The store was discovered about 4 o'clock but had then gained such headway that nothing could be saved, in fact the whole building inside and out was on fire. Indications point to robbery, after which the store was set on fire. Next morning a sack of flour was found on the shell road leading from the store to the State road. A burned pistol was also found among the debris, not the property of Mr. English. A lady who lived on the north side of the building on the day previous to the fire was awakened by the fire and fled. Other minor details also indicate robbery and the fire the work of an incendiary.

The stock of merchandise belonged to Webster T. English, a member of the present Board of County Commissioners, and he had between five and ten thousand dollars worth of stock in an insurance of fifteen hundred dollars. The building belonged to Benjamin N. Bennett of Sharpton and was worth from eight hundred to one thousand dollars, with an insurance of four hundred dollars.

Edward S. Phillips, aged sixty, of 101 West Main street, died at his home on Wednesday. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Edward Booth and Raymond Booth, of Salisbury, and two sons, Zedekiah of this city and William Hampton, Virginia.

BADEN TENDERS HIS RESIGNATION ORALLY

Board Has Not Yet Acted Officially Upon It. No Move Being Made To Find Another Official.

Acting in an ordinance with the wish of the delegations which appeared before the Board of County Commissioners last week, County Engineer J. T. Baden presented his resignation orally to the Board at the meeting which was closed to the public. The resignation is understood, but there is no doubt it will be accepted.

No charges were brought against the Engineer and no special reasons were given for asking for his resignation. A great deal of opposition was given to the resignation, but it was accepted by the Board.

The Board believed they will have little trouble in finding a man qualified for the job when they get ready to place him.

The W. C. T. U. will hold its regular meeting at the Elk's Home, Main street, on Monday, March 13, at 4 P. M. A cordial invitation is extended to all members.

CITY AID IS SOUGHT FOR MUNICIPAL BAND

Business Men To Request Help From City Council To Establish Municipal Band And Park.

Believing that Salisbury greatly needs a municipal band, several influential business men have started a movement to induce the City Council to contribute to the support of such an organization. A delegation will probably wait on the City Fathers next Monday and lay their plans and pleas before them. It is understood that similar appeals will also be made to the County Commissioners when they next meet.

For the past three years, the local bandmen have given free concerts during the summer months which have drawn hundreds of listeners. If this public entertainment is to be continued, the band must be placed on a firm foundation. As a business investment, the business men back of the movement believe it would be worth while, and it would certainly add to the pleasure of the city population.

With the movement for a municipal band goes another, the establishment of a municipal park. The site for such a park has been suggested as that grove between the pond and the cemetery which belongs to the Episcopal Church. It is believed the church authorities would be willing to allow the city to fix up the place and use it this summer.

The vacant lot back of the hospital could not be used for a city park, as it is hoped in time there will be other forms of entertainment beside the band, which might disturb the patients. A merry-go-round could be put up, swings and slides erected, ice cream parlors built, and the whole place made a community center during the summer.

There is plenty of musical talent in Salisbury for a good band, and it is believed that all that is needed is a little cooperation. It is this cooperation which the business men are seeking to obtain. Upon the success of their efforts will depend the success of a band.

Dr. S. A. Graham Slightly Paralyzed

Condition Reported Encouraging—Stroke Came Friday Morning—Left Side Of Face Affected.

Dr. Samuel A. Graham, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Bank is confined to his home on account of a slight stroke of paralysis which affected the left side of his face. His condition is encouraging and he is likely to go about the house at pleasure.

On Friday morning, Dr. Graham was preparing to take his daughter to the early train when he was stricken. Those who were in the car waiting for him became alarmed when he did not appear and went into the house where they found him paralyzed. Dr. Luck was immediately called and has the patient in charge.

Mr. Milton Cannon, assistant cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Bank is taking over Dr. Graham's duties during the latter's absence.

PLAY AT SHARPTOWN

The Community Play, entitled "Dan Weatherly's Prize" given by the local talent at Columbia on Friday night of last week, made 132 cents.

The City Council adopted a favorable report of the committee sent to investigate the matter of a water supply for California and authorized the same committee to have the necessary work done. It is understood that the first stream beyond the town limits will be concreted so that a supply of water will be always available in case of fire.

"Y" BAZAAR DRAWS A BIG ATTENDANCE

MADE POSSIBLE BY WORK OF CHURCHES

Churches Of Salisbury Take Charge Of Booths, Hundreds Of Donations From Public, Beautiful Hand-made Articles Prove Temptation To Purchasers, Conference Friday Night.

With a good crowd in attendance, the Y. M. C. A. Bazaar, made possible by the co-operation of the united churches of Salisbury, opened on Tuesday afternoon. This is the opening shot in the "Y" campaign for funds to carry on the work next year. The auditorium was attractively fitted up and the church booths were full of assorted articles at bargain prices that drew many buyers. The ladies of Asbury M. E. Church had a big assortment of women's and children's clothing, hand made for the most part, while those from St. Peter's Episcopal church dispensed the sweets.

Pies and cakes were the especial charge of the Presbyterian Church and the country store, with all its ramifications, was successfully conducted by the ladies of Bethesda M. P. Church. Trinity M. E. Church sold fancy work and Division Street Baptist Church sold handkerchiefs. The supper on both evenings was given by all the churches.

The public was most generous with gifts for the booths and the Y. M. C. A. authorities sincerely thank them. Many of the gifts deserved special mention and among them the donation from Mrs. Hemmingsworth, the secretary's mother, who sent a whole suitcase of beautiful hand-made articles.

On Friday night the Citizens Dinner Conference in the interest of the Association will be held at 6:30 o'clock in the "Y" auditorium. The affair will be informal and the secretary states there will be no solicitation of funds. The whole purpose of the gathering is to discuss "Y" work for the coming year and map out plans in such a way that they can be carried out successfully. Special invitations have been sent out for the dinner, and those who are going to attend have been asked to notify the chairman of the executive committee, Colonel A. W. Woodcock.

Mr. Hammonds announced that there will be no motion picture at the "Y" on Saturday night. The "Y" will have a supper in the auditorium that night. On Tuesday, the Standard Buzzer will give a play at the "Y" entitled "Just Plain Mary". Tickets for the entertainment are selling well and a full house is expected.

The latter part of the month will bring the Bunge Bros. circus to town in the interests of the Y. M. C. A., and everything possible is being done to make that occasion a joyful one for old and young alike. Bunge, the physical director, will have charge of the show and he promises that it will be a good one.

The work done by the Young Men's Christian Association since it became a part of the Y. M. C. A. has been excellent. It has filled in a very satisfactory manner a long felt need of the city, and its work has been truly appreciated by the public. The manner in which the citizens of Salisbury are responding to the appeals for such instructions as the "Y" speaks highly of a highly esteemed community.

CITY NEEDS A DENTAL CLINIC FOR CHILDREN

Examination Conducted By The Red Cross Nurse Shows That 180 Children Need Dental Service.

Examinations of 200 school children in the first and second grades, through the efforts of the Red Cross, revealed the fact that 180 of the children needed dental service. In many cases, the parents of the children were unable to have the necessary work done, and plans are now on foot to form a free dental clinic.

Local dentists, it is understood, are willing to cooperate fully with the Red Cross workers and give their services free. Since there are no funds with which to procure supplies, the Nursing Activities Committee of the local Red Cross Chapter is trying to find some way of raising enough money to buy requisite supplies.

No money for things of this sort is appropriated by either the County Commissioners or the City Council, and the need for it is great as evidenced by the results of the recent examination.

During the month of February, the Public Health Nurse made 132 visits including bed-ridden infants and child welfare, school nursing, and social service visits. The nurse also placed 127 articles of clothing from the closet of the Needlework Guild in the hands of needy persons.

Nearly a score of children out of school have applied to the Red Cross for assistance. The Associated Charities, Salvation Army, Chapter of Commerce, and American Legion have tried to find positions for them.

YOUNG PEOPLE WILL GATHER ON SATURDAY

Arrangements Completed For The Big Conference Of Sunday School Workers on March 11.

Regardless of weather conditions, the Young People's Conference scheduled for Saturday, March 11, will be held. A large attendance is expected as there are more than sixty Sunday Schools in the county and practically every one of them will be represented at the gathering.

Superintendents of the various schools have sent in the names of the delegates who will represent them at the meeting and the list is large. Those who have not yet notified the secretary of the quota that may be expected, are urged to do so at once, in order to facilitate the work of getting things under way.

The program, which starts with registration at one o'clock at the Asbury M. E. Church, where the meeting will be held, is comprehensive and is given in full:

BOXING MATCHES FOR BENEFIT COMPANY "I"

Several Bouts Staged At First Regiment Armory—Large Crowds Witness Fights.

Highland Town Jack was defeated in a three round bout here Tuesday night at the Armory by Young Ward of Salisbury in the opening match of the evening. The second affair was a battle royal in which five colored men were the entrants. Key the fifth and had things his own way. West, of Salisbury, was awarded the decision.

In the third bout, Cyclone Wicks of Onslow won over Young Winder of Salisbury. Both colored. Wicks knocked Winder down in the second and battled him through the ropes in the third round. Winder came back in the fourth and fought out the round. The final match was between Wynne of New York and Joe Smith of Baltimore. No decision was given, but spectators said that Smith rushed the fight and had things his own way.

The bouts were staged for the benefit of Company "I" of the Maryland National Guard, by Archie Rich and son. No decision was given, but spectators said that Smith rushed the fight and had things his own way.

Aged Salisbury Dies At Son's Home

Mrs. Maggie T. Davis, Widow Of The Late Joseph H. Davis, Passed Away In Wilmington.

Mrs. Maggie T. Davis, age 76, widow of the late Joseph H. Davis, and one of Salisbury's highly respected citizens, died in Wilmington, Tuesday, February 28th, after a stroke of paralysis from the effects of which she never rallied.

Mrs. Davis was born in Salisbury and spent the greater portion of her life in this city. She had been in failing health for some months, and last October, decided to make her home with her son, Mr. Oscar Davis, in Wilmington, where she was at the time of her death.

Funeral services were held on Friday, March 3rd, at the home of her son, Mr. John S. Davis, in this city, where her remains had been brought, and spent the greater portion of her life in this city. She had been in failing health for some months, and last October, decided to make her home with her son, Mr. Oscar Davis, in Wilmington, where she was at the time of her death.

The deceased is survived by one brother, Mr. G. L. Schuman, this city, and one sister, Mrs. John Johnson, of Plover, N. J. Also, the following children: Mr. Oscar Davis, Wilmington, Del.; Mr. Charles Davis, San Francisco, Calif.; Mr. John S. Davis, Salisbury; Mrs. Maude D. Appleby, New York City, and Miss Minnie M. Davis, this city.

A St. Patrick's Social will be held at Allen School House, Thursday evening, March 16th, for the benefit of Allen Sunday School. An interesting program has been arranged. Refreshments will be served.

NEARLY FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE ATTEND FOURTH ANNUAL AUTOMOBILE SHOW HERE

Armory Thronged Each Night Despite Inclement Weather Dealers Sell Nineteen Cars During Show And Get Many Good Prospects. Receipts For Firemen Slightly Less.

Between four and five thousand people saw the exhibits at the Fourth Annual Automobile Show which was held under the auspices of the Salisbury Fire Department and which closed on Saturday night. This figure, while estimated, is thought to be fairly accurate. No definite number can be given because so many people would use the same season ticket. Attendance fell a little below that of last year, although the Firemen will get a right nice sum.

Dealers who were lucky enough to get floor space for the exhibition of their models are to be congratulated. From authoritative sources, it is learned that 19 cars were sold averaging in price about $1500. This will surely act as a decided stimulus to business in this vicinity and will also pay, just as it did last year, that it may have a show.

Visitors came to the show from all over the Eastern Shore, from Baltimore and from Philadelphia. All conceded it to be one of the most attractive displays of the year, and except for size, placed it in a class with the shows of the larger centers. The models were well selected, the Armory was beautifully decorated, the music was good, and the crowds kept things moving.

Local salaried men and garages also were attractively decorated and contained additional displays. Chief among these was the E. W. Gunby Company store on the corner of Division and Camden streets where several Dodge models were on exhibition. In the show window of the Delmar-Va. Nash Motors Company a novel exhibit attracted a great deal of attention. The exhibit consisted of a crankshaft taken from a Nash car and mounted on a cradle. The wind from an electric fan was sufficient to keep the shaft turning and show its perfect balance.

Rotarians To Elect Officers Next Week

Pictures Of Lincoln's Boyhood Shown At Last Meeting. Birthday Greetings From Officers Were Read.

Members of the Rotary Club were entertained at their last regular meeting at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday by a two-reel motion picture depicting the early boyhood of Abraham Lincoln. The production was excellent and was thoroughly enjoyed.

President Allen had Rotarians Ralph O. Dulany, A. M. Walls, and A. Everett Williams to read messages from several of the international officers conveying birthday greetings to the club. Secretary Carl M. Payton announced that at the next meeting, club officers for the current year will be nominated. Under the rules of the club, officers are not voted upon until the month following their nomination.

Ten Nights In A Bar Room To Be Shown

Picture That Has Caused Such A Sensation Elsewhere Will Be Presented At The Arcade.

Old songs, old faces, and old scenes always attract interest. Famous movies have not been on the market long enough, however, to be considered exactly old. But next week at the Arcade Salisbury will find an old friend in a new form, because it is nearly a safe bet that most grown ups in the city have seen "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

Before prohibition, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" was not thought nearly so marvelous as ten bar rooms in a night, but the master picture producer prepared for the screen a more vicious in many respects. The Boston Telegram considers it a "finely acted dramatic production" and it played to crowded houses in all the larger cities.

Ten leading theatres in one of the large cities in the country will open with this photo play this week, and Mr. Insley has been fortunate in securing screen rights. A special orchestra will be on hand to add to the enjoyment of the play Monday and Tuesday.

BUNGLE BROS. CIRCUS PLANS ARE FORMULATED

Big Show Put On By "Y" Latter Part Of Month Will Be Entertaining Event.

"Everything any other circus has but the small" is the way Physical Director Bunge of the Young Men's Christian Association, Chara Terzo of the "Y" circus that will be given in the First Regiment Armory on the afternoon and night of March 21 "Bungle Bros. Circus" has lions and tigers, fat men and bearded ladies, monkey athletes, jugglers, every thing ever seen under a circus.

The entertainment will begin at eleven o'clock in the morning with a big street parade for which special music has been engaged. The afternoon performance at the Armory will start at 7 o'clock and the night show at eight. Full details will be made public within the next two weeks, and the public will have a good opportunity to help the "Y" and have a good time doing it.

In sporting lines, active boys and girls will play at the Millville, Delaware, basketball team defeated the Salisbury quartet by 26-11. On the 11th, the "Y" team will have an opportunity to revenge the game being played at Millville. The team plays Saturday, Thursday at Seaford and Sunday at Salisbury. It is proposed to have a real league.

LEGION TO MEET

The regular meeting of Wicomico Post, American Legion, will be held in Legion headquarters on Friday evening, March 10. Many things of importance will come before the organization and the Post Commander has requested a full attendance.

MINISTER MAKES GOOD REPORT AT CONFERENCE

Rev. W. P. Taylor, Pastor Of Grace And Stangle Churches, Tells Of His Four Year's Work.

At the Fourth Quarterly Conference of Grace and Stangle M. E. Churches held Friday night in Grace Church, the Pastor, Rev. Wm. P. Taylor presented an excellent report. Taylor has been the Pastor of these Churches for the past four years. Each year has been a successful year, but the past year has been the most successful of the four years.

During his first year's pastorate a debt of two thousand dollars resting on the Grace Church and Parsonage was installed in the Parsonage at a cost of $464. The Pastor assumed the responsibility of raising $274 of this amount and promised to assist the trustees in raising their share of this expense and other bills amounting to $225. During this second year there were sixty-six conversions.

The third year's effort resulted in sixty-seven conversions. During this year a new roof was built on the Stangle church. A new floor was laid in this church during the second year's pastorate. The gift of the Stangle church during the past year there have been one hundred and one conversions. This was the largest number of conversions in the history of the Church in one year except the year when the great revival was held under the pastorate of the Rev. J. W. Hardest, the first pastor of the Church in 1908. Mr. Taylor's pastorate of four years in the city has been characterized by Revivals and debt paying. The Church is now engaged in a campaign of paying a $600 debt incurred in the purchase of a lot adjoining the Church, thus enhancing the value of the Church property.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A delightful birthday party was tendered Mr. William P. Brown by a few of his many friends at the home of his parents, "The Brown Homestead Place" Thursday evening, March 2, it being Mr. Brown's twenty-first birthday. He was the recipient of many useful presents.

Various games were indulged in and refreshments consisting of ice cream, cakes and candies were served at a table very tastefully decorated for the occasion.

COURT DOCKET

For the March term of Court there are 22 trials, 24 recognizances, 20 judgments, 2 criminal appeals, 35 appearances, 4 civil appeals, 3 criminal continuances, 3 criminal continuances, and 12 removed cases. There are two cases of larceny and one of wife desertion.

GOOD ATTENDANCE

The following pupils in the Third Grade in Bell street school made a perfect attendance record during the month of February: Louise Hamby, Margaret Leonard, Frances Aehrich, Arthur Nichols, Sarah Anderson, Arthur Brittingham, Clarence Morris, Abe Seidel, Joseph Tubbs.

DEATH OF SALISBURIAN

Mr. Ralph W. Jones, a former resident of Salisbury, died at Jacksonville, Florida, on Wednesday morning after a short illness. He is survived by his wife, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mills of this city; by one son six years of age; by one sister and two brothers.

LEGION TO MEET

The regular meeting of Wicomico Post, American Legion, will be held in Legion headquarters on Friday evening, March 10. Many things of importance will come before the organization and the Post Commander has requested a full attendance.

MARYLAND LIVESTOCK SURVEY INTERESTING

Cattle And Hogs Have Declined Twenty Per Cent—Horses Fall Below 1914 Level.

On January 1, 1922 there were on the farms of Maryland about 4,000 less head of livestock than a year preceding, according to a statement issued today by John S. Dennee, agricultural statistician for the United States Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, cooperating with the Extension Service of the University of Maryland. Horses decreased 1900 head; mules remained the same; milk cows increased 4000; other cattle increased 3000; sheep decreased 4000; and swine decreased 6000.

The total numbers on farms January 1 are estimated as follows: horses, 137,000; mules, 3,500; milk cows, 192,000; other cattle, 38,000; sheep, 89,000; and swine, 285,000. The total value of livestock has declined $6,505,000, or 15.7 per cent, during the year; that is—from a total of $41,985,000 on January 1, 1921 to $35,480,000 on January 1, 1922. This decrease is due partly to a slight reduction in numbers, but more to the lower value per head.

Horses, with a value of $87 per head as compared with $98 a year ago, are lower than they have been at any time in over twenty years. The total value of horses is estimated at $11,919,000, which is $1,605,000, or 11.8 per cent, less than a year ago. Mules have declined in price $10 per head, the January 1 price being $115. The total value of mules is $3,795,000, a reduction of $330,000, or 8 per cent, as compared with a year ago.

Horses and mules are the only classes of livestock that have a present value below that of 1914. The average values per head on January 1, 1914, were: horses $119; mules $143. Milk cows have declined 20 per cent in value per head, from $79 to $63, and in total value have declined $2,750,000, or 18.6 per cent, from $14,852,000, to $12,099,000. According to farmers' reports, cows kept for dairy purposes were milked last year an average of 305 days.

Other cattle have declined 28 per cent in value per head, from $46 to $33.20, and in total value have declined $1,116,400, or 25.5 per cent, from $4,370,000 to $3,253,600.

All cattle have thus declined $3,872,400, or 20.2 per cent, from $19,222,000 to $15,349,600.

Swine have declined in value per head 11.5 per cent, from $12 to $11.50, and in total value have declined $505,500, or 13.4 per cent, from $3,783,000 to $3,277,500. Sheep have declined in value per head 22.5 per cent, from $8 to $6.20, and in total value have declined $192,200, or 25.8 per cent, from $744,000 to $551,800.

The numbers of the different classes of livestock on the farms of Maryland, expressed in percentages of the numbers on January 1, 1921, are: horses 99 per cent; mules 100 per cent; milk cows 102 per cent; other cattle 103 per cent; swine 99 per cent; sheep 96 per cent. Comparing present average values with January 1, 1914, average values, it is found that the value of horses on January 1, 1922, is 27 per cent less; mules 20 per cent less; milk cows 17 per cent more; other cattle 13 per cent more; sheep 24 per cent more; swine 10 per cent more. The estimated numbers of livestock and the average value per head are revised to the basis of the 1920 Census.

PRICES ARE UNDER PRE-WAR FIGURE

Dodge Brothers Dealer Shows That Improvements More Than Offset Difference.

Considering the large number of important improvements that have been made, the latest sharp reductions in the prices of Dodge Brothers Motor Cars actually bring them down below the pre-war level, according to John K. Gunby of the L. W. Gunby Co. To substantiate his contention he pointed first to the car and then to three closely typewritten pages, on which some of these improvements were listed.

"The automotive industry deserves a lot of credit for the way it is going after the price question," said Mr. Gunby. "I am not referring to Dodge Brothers alone, even though I believe they have done more than their share but to the industry as a whole. If manufacturers and retailers in all other lines had taken a similar attitude the public would have been debased of the profiteering idea long ago and buying would have been back on a normal basis much sooner. I know the public appreciates this, from the way automobiles are selling."

"I ran across an editorial the other day which expressed my opinion exactly. It was in the Denver Times. I am quite sure that your readers will agree with what it says if you publish it."

Following is the portion of the editorial to which Mr. Gunby referred: "The automotive industry has adopted heroic methods of restoring business and has cut prices until they are little short of irresistible. In justice to one of the half dozen leading industries of the nation it should receive credit for this policy. In many instances it is said to have brought the cost of the 1922 car down to the price level of 1914, which is more than can be said for the vast majority of industries."

"The fact is particularly upsetting to the average man already owning a car because, every chop in the price of a new model of the make he drives means a straight, proportionate, inescapable reduction in the value of his used car. And there, naturally, is the rub. It is a strange thing that the car owner is willing for the factory to cut the daylight out of its price schedule, but still cherishes an idea that the value of the car he owns is unaffected when he wants to dispose of it or trade it in. Another instance of 'Let George do it.' "We believe the retail automobile business would be greatly speeded up if the car-owning public, which talks about the high cost of living and the 'profiteering' of merchants, could disabuse its mind of its own unwarranted notions regarding the value of used cars, accept its loss, trade in the old buses at their actual value today and start with a clean slate and not even a regret for the past. There is no known method of sustaining the price of used cars while the prices of new ones are being slashed and the owner the car owner realizes it the quicker business will pick up."

Household Hints

There are several ways of using baked ham. One of the best is to eat spaghetti should not be cooked too long, about ten inches is right. A cold bath will be found more pleasant if made with hot water.—Milwaukee Journal.

Found A Cure For Indigestion.
"I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and flatulency and they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different medicines. I am nearly fifty-one years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want to now," writes George W. Emory, Rock Mills, Ala. The tablets contain no poison but strengthen the stomach and enable it to digest the food naturally. Advt.

Personal Liberty: An Interpretation

Personal Liberty! How that phrase is mouthed and spluttered and ranted! It isn't hiccoughed as frequently as it was thought. In the days of prohibition propaganda and the early enforcement of the Volstead amendment it was whiskey-whispered and berry-breathed by every free-luncher and Bohemian throughout this fair land of ours.

Chronic kickers and the chip-on-the-shoulder variety of the genus homo swelled the volume of outcry against prohibition, "this damnable encroachment on the 'personal liberty' of the American sovereign!"

And home brew became the vogue. A couple of "mashes"—or "messes"—was about the limit for these amateur brewers; and the demand for patent stoppers and stopperers slumped. It was a game that soon lost its glamor. The stuff was poor—not even palatable and there was no health in it.

Then came the bootlegger with his moonshine and faked "imported goods." The growing list of casualties and the prohibitive price charged for the vile concoctions made thousands of converts to prohibition.

Of course, there is still much drinking and bootlegging but I believe the signs of the times are toward effective enforcement of the law and eventual total abstinence.

All history shows that any new law which interferes with so-called personal liberty of the community must pass through the stages of open violation, secret violation, passive enforcement, and then universal observance.

I look upon this gentleman bootlegging, this society bed-room and bath nipping—as just a passing fad, a custom that is, and will, wane and eventually pass altogether. It simply isn't worth the trouble—or the cost. For strong drink never increased any man's efficiency. It may, however, rob him of his friends, his money, his manhood; and cause his children to remember him with loathing.

That price is too big to pay for a shot of poison.

Rocheft, February 1922.

Officers On Equal Basis

The Harsum bill, which would restore emergency officers of the World War on an equal footing with regular officers, has passed the Senate. In the face of the combined opposition of the War Department and the chairman of the Military Affairs committee, the bill, sponsored by the American Legion, went through by a vote of 50 to 14.

The Legion has been fighting for the passage of the measure ever since its endorsement of it in principle at the first caucus in St. Louis, in May, 1919. Similar retirement privileges already had been granted disabled emergency officers of the Navy and the Marine corps.

The bill provides that all persons, other than regular officers, who served as officers of the United States army during the World War and who incurred physical disability in line of duty of not less than 30 per cent, shall be retired with three-fourths of the pay of their grade at the time of retirement. If the disability rating is between 10 and 30 per cent, regular compensation as provided in the War Risk act shall be paid in lieu of retirement pay. They receive other benefits, such as hospitalization.

The bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Harsum (New Mexico) and is designed to benefit some 6,000 disabled emergency officers. It has not yet passed the House.

MacNider A Protester

An article entitled "Rome Headed the American Legion," published in "The Protester," at Washington, D. C., has brought a quick reply from Hanford MacNider, commander of the Legion. In his letter to the editor, Mr. MacNider declared that his religious affiliations are no consideration in the Legion.

"This country was formed by men who sought religious tolerance and it is that spirit which has made it free, fine, and worth living in," the Legion commander wrote. "I happen to be a Protestant, and I attend a Protestant church, but as a member of many masonic bodies, in which I have taken a more or less active part, I have greater admiration for that institution, the Roman Catholic Church. Its stand and teachings for the preservation of the integrity of our lawful governments are well exemplified in the heroic deaths of the men who served in my command. And might I add that the chaplains of that faith gave a human touch to their splendid service that made them beloved by all."

"The American Legion is an organization of returned service men and women holding together in an endeavor to continue their service to their country in peace as well as in war as constructive citizens. Being non in Legion membership is no more a question that it is in American citizenship, nor can it be brought into Legion affairs. It was not a question when a man stepped out to join the colors and to defend his country. It will never be a question in our service as Legion men."

"Such propaganda as you are spreading is a menace to America and America's institutions. How a man worships his God is his own business and not yours."

Memorial Forest

A "memorial forest" will be seen and nurtured by the American Legion in Herkimer county. Five thousand acres of land in the northwestern part of the state will be reforested to serve as a living testimonial to the men who served in the war. An order for 200,000 trees has already been placed with the State Reforestation Commission and the Legion plans to set out 200 acres this spring.

Unique in the lists of war memorials, the reforestation project has been hailed as one of the most constructive means thus far devised to commemorate the heroes of war days. Its main object will be to make available, at a time most needed, a permanent source of revenue for the relief of sick, disabled, and aged service men and their families. A special plan will be set aside, revenue from which will be diverted to aid tubercular cases among ex-soldiers.

Honored By French

The order of "commander of the Legion of Honor," conferred on him by the French government, has been declined as a personal decoration by Hanford MacNider, commander of the American Legion. He called Marshall Foch that he wished to accept the award only "as a tribute to all members of the Legion."

Record Wolf Hunt

With stores closed, the countryside out en masse, and a plane wheeling overhead to direct the attack, the American Legion at Beaver City, Neb., staged a record wolf and coyote hunt for the benefit of farmers. The money for the pelts went to needy ex-soldiers.

No Poll Tax

Ex-service men in Alabama will vote without paying a poll tax. A state amendment, backed by the American Legion, grants them the exemption.

Doughnuts and Coffee

One thousand "doughnuts and coffees" a day to feed the jobless and homeless ex-soldiers in the growing bread-line at St. Marks-in-the-Bowery, New York, are being supplied by a single post of the American Legion, during each day and night. The unfortunate men sleep in the church.

Gives Back Bonus

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, America's premier ace, was the first Ohio war veteran to turn back his state bonus check of $185 to a fund to establish a hospital for Ohio's disabled soldiers. The American Legion has asked all other veterans who do not have imperative need of cash to follow Rickenbacker's lead.

Beggar Uses Medals

A string of world war medals (bought at a sale) across his chest, the world's fastest-working beggar took $60 an hour from New York's theater crowds until the American Legion got the police on his trail.

Endorses Legion View

The Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, Pa., home of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, has voted for the American Legion's adjusted compensation bill. Almost at the same time the Chamber at Los Angeles, Cal., with 3,000 members and called the largest in the United States, endorsed the bonus. Calling the U. S. Chamber's tactics unfair, the local commerce boards at El Dorado, Kan., denied its membership and then voted for the compensation measure.

Legionnaires Get Square Meals
Every sick and wounded ex-service man in New York state hospitals will be assigned an able-bodied member of the American Legion, who will see that his charge gets a square deal.

Legionnaires Guard Town

To prevent the spread of a small pox epidemic, American Legion men by day and night guarded all roads into Mansfield, Ark., for two weeks.

UTILITIES AS UPLIFTERS.

"The great utility companies are not one-man concerns, but are more and more able to say that they are owned by their customers," says an editorial in Collier's.

"Not only does the man with money in the bank or in life insurance understand that he is burning his own gas and riding on his own trolley, but he is coming to that knowledge, and will come to it all the sooner as the public service companies put their cards on the table and invite him to look at them.

"Meanwhile, there are distinct signs of increasing fairness in the attitude of the American people toward these companies. For instance, there is a growing sentiment through the country that the traction lines should be allowed to charge a carrying fare sufficient not only to take care of their fixed charges, but with something left over to provide betterments and extensions.

"It is a hopeful sign when a review of the past year shows the public utility question as a whole receiving sane and business-like treatment at the hands of the regulatory bodies in the different states.

"No one factor, except the human factor, is contributing more to get this great nation back on its financial and economic legs than is the factor of electricity. Electric energy is everlastingly on the job to reduce costs, to cut overhead, to shorten distance, to eliminate loss of time, to make one machine (whatever that machine produces) do the work of many hands, to increase the comforts and lighten the burdens of the nation.

"House building lags. Whatever increase in homes we make is more than kept pace with by the increase in population. The need must be met and it will be; but we should remember that every home that is built is a "prospector" for electric energy. It will need a telephone, or electric lights, or gas or all three—and it will need transportation close by it, the closer the better.

"The public utility companies, to meet this great demand, must develop and must finance the development. The financing is done either by selling securities directly to the holders or to the same holders indirectly through the insurance companies and banks.

"The spirit of fair play, already mentioned, will make this financing possible on a basis that is fair and just to the companies and the public. The cheaper we can make shafts and wheels turn; the more we can cut down transportation costs; the more we can use the great natural forces now dormant in rivers and waterfalls, the better will we be able to keep, not only abreast but ahead of the competition of the world in the making of those articles that other countries can produce as well as we.

"Hand in hand with the development of transportation will go this giant, electricity, to cut down the cost of railroad operation, to give better street car service, to turn more wheels, to carry more messages over telephone and telegraph lines; in plain words to lift this country up and on."

COMMERCIALIZING MUSIC.

"Music has charms to soothe a savage breast" as well as to draw crowds to the place from which it is dispensed. It is the commercial capitalization of this idea which has started a movement to have the City Council help bear the expenses of a municipal band.

Open air concerts have been in vogue in the larger cities for a number of years and have proved not only a source of pleasure to visitors and inhabitants but have as well actually paid dividends from a business standpoint. When free band concerts were given in Salisbury during the summer months, people from all over the County came in to enjoy them and the townspeople flocked to them.

To make possible a repetition of this summer entertainment, funds are necessary. Part of the requisite amount could very well come from the City Fathers and part from the County Commissioners, for the latter would thereby be contributing greatly to the pleasure of those who live outside the city limits.

No great sum is needed, but what is needed is needed badly. Unless material is forthcoming, the hope for a city band is slim. Salisbury needs a band for recreation purposes, for parade purposes, for entertainment purposes, for business purposes. It is hoped that the City Council and the County Commissioners will listen sympathetically to the proposals for a municipal band that will be made to them in the near future.

A municipal police station is naturally charged with the safety and well-being of the citizens. It provides police and health protection, it paves and lights streets, it safeguards legitimate business, and for all this it expends public moneys. Is it unnatural to charge that same administration with providing, as well as it may, for the happiness and entertainment of the citizens?

If it can possibly be done, let us have the municipal band.

CONVERTING EXPENSES INTO PROFITS.

Is there a man in Wicomico who should be an executor of a will? If so, he should be the County Agent. He should be a man who, by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business.

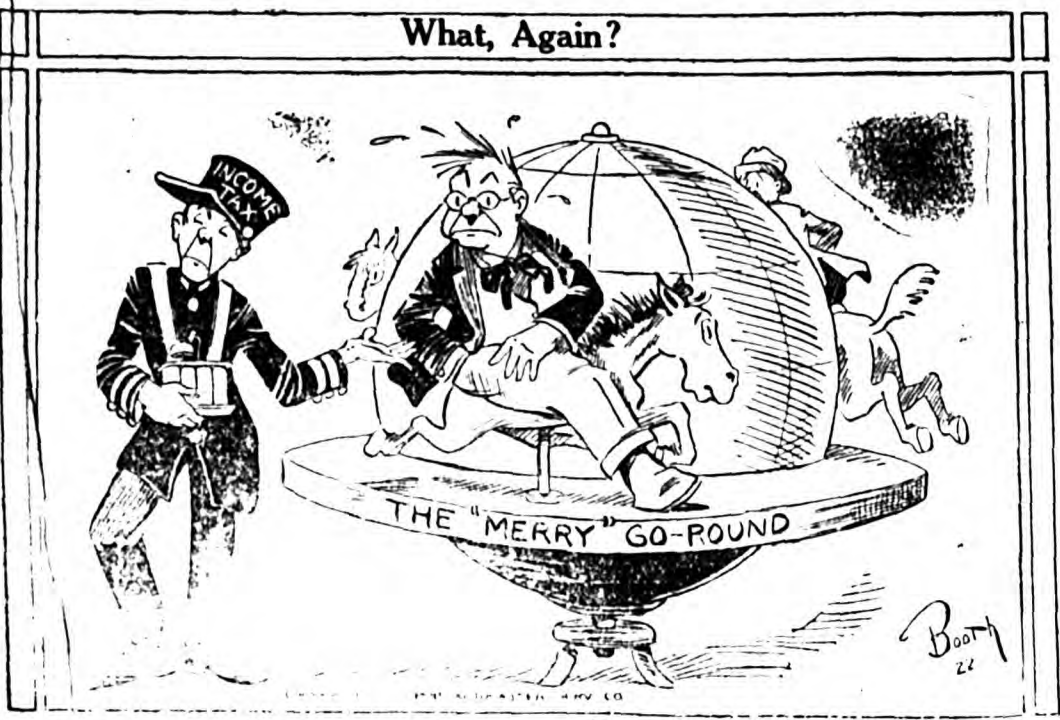

This is a question to which some of the most influential members of the Board of County Commissioners have given a great deal of consideration. Before they have agreed on any definite action, however, they want the opinion of the taxpayers of the County. All those who are willing to express their views on the subject are urged to do so, and to do so as soon as possible. It is hoped that these views will be published in the News, and that they will be of great value to the Board of County Commissioners.

The problem of the County Agent is a simple one as it may appear on the surface. It has been proposed that the County Agent should be a man who, by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business.

A number of people have expressed the opinion that the County Agent should be a man who, by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business.

To make the County Agent a man who, by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, is the plan of the Board of County Commissioners. They want the opinion of the taxpayers of the County. All those who are willing to express their views on the subject are urged to do so, and to do so as soon as possible.

The County Agent should be a man who, by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business, and by proper supervision, can turn the County into a great business.

contribute to the revenue of the County.

Any inmates of the Alms House who were able would be required to do some work on the farm, while the others would be maintained there just as they are now. A place would also be provided for the present overseer whose work has been quite satisfactory.

The plan appears to be practicable. One reason the farm has never paid expenses is because the overseer is required to do too many other things. He is at the call of the County Commissioners and must repair roads or do any other task the Board may instruct him to do. A man cannot manage a farm successfully under such conditions.

County Agent Cobb could make of the farm a highly scientific, well managed institution that we believe would pay real dividends. Only two obstacles stand in the way of carrying out the plan as proposed. The first is to obtain the consent of the proper officials so that the County Agent may be free to start the work. The second is to have the public express its opinion to the Board of County Commissioners. Let your advice flow freely. Your representatives want it and they need it.

WICOMICALITIES.

Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania may be the big sneeze in Congress but he had better keep out of the public eye.

Taxable incomes for individuals for 1919 showed an increase of nearly four billions as compared with 1918. Wonder where all that money is now?

THE OLD CIDER-MILL.

On a certain day, like this, as I sit in the gloaming, my memory goes back to the old cider-mill. I give it full swing in its erratic groove, and it finds plump at the old cider-mill the mill of my life. In the old apple orchard, the only machinery the old man possessed, it ground up the "cider" and it squeezed out the "juice" of my life. In this minute, down under my vest, that old cider-mill was the pride of my boyhood, though in my yellow jacketed contest, my right, and sometimes I landed an angry ball-bat, that fought me too well now as it did then. I've sat on the green, upturned wooden platform, and scratched my brown leg, as a boy I did, and longed for a bumper of liquid cider that would cheer me, from that old mill-hill still. That old apple-grinder, that faithful old stem-winder, that dealt out the juice, like an old moon-hill still.

BOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922.

There is a philosophy, such a sacred attitude of mind, a difficult to attain, it seems strange when we get into the present atmosphere, we should waste time begging for what we have right at our feet. Why should we pray to be an old man when all we have to do is to be an old man, why pray for guidance, down a proper pathway when we know just how to travel in it? We can all be what we want to be if we really want to be that way. The good hand has given us that power without the asking. So let us be the only kind of a man that is in order is a word for the people, let that don't want to be and a determination on our own part to measure up to the job of living.

PROSPERITY PRODUCED BY PUREBREDS, FARMERS SAY

Five hundred replies to a series of questions on the utility value of purebred live stock have been received by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture. The questions were sent to progressive farmers in all parts of the country, and they are almost unanimous in praising the purebred as the fount from which the stream of prosperity flows. The writers of these letters, all of whom have taken the pledge in the "Better Stock—Better Stock" campaign, place varying values on the purebred as compared with the grade and the scrub, but nearly all of them agree in spirit with the Nebraska farmer who wrote as follows:

"I desire to thank the originator of this questionnaire for he has struck the keynote of better live stock. A purebred is either better for utility purposes or not, and since it always costs more than one of mixed breeding it should return more in compensation. 'The boss' of this farm is not blessed with a large family nor an overplus of muscular force, therefore everything must pay its way. We first saw the light with purebred Wyandotte chickens—found we had more uniform birds, more eggs, and a better market. Then we began to keep books on our grade cows, and I discovered that I had been cheated. So we bought a few purebred hofers, and always had purebred males, and started without any idea of ever selling breeding stock, just to have good milkers and sell the calves as baby beef. Well, the neighbors liked the purebreds better, and the calves were bought the surplus, still doing it."

"Notice we stress utility. If the pedigree is fancy, all well good; but the individual must make good on the utility basis. Foundation stock has gone to four adjoining States and to most of the country lying close with our expensive advertising or public sale. Common stock and culls are never priced as breeding stock."

Another farmer from the same part of the country writes an inspiring story in a few simple words. He says:

"I am much pleased to add my little to your work, but it appears it is hard to get some farmers to realize the advantage of purebred stock and modern equipment. I will just say that my wife and I started 26 years ago on a rented farm with a very little property and some debt. We now have one of the finest flocks of Leghorns, the best herd of Jerseys in the part of the State, and 240 acres of valley land with modern improvements. We never felt heir to any money, but lay our success to the keeping of purebred stock and giving it the right care. People in our town buy our milk at 10 cents a quart and our eggs at 10 cents a dozen. We now have 1,000 Leghorns, and 100 Duroc hogs, all purebreds. I am your friend."

Almost without exception farmers who raise purebred animals make statements of this nature. They are through with the scrub forever.

NEW MEANS FOUND TO REMOVE STAINS FROM LEATHER GOODS

Leather goods that have been made unsightly by grease spots and that cannot be cleaned by ordinary cleaning solvents, can now be restored to their original condition by the use of a new method developed by the Bureau of Chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture. When shoes, traveling bags, and similar articles come in contact with butter, lard, tallow, or other greasy substances, they are ruined. A solution of anhydrous calcium chloride, when applied to the stained surface, immediately removes the grease, leaving the leather clean and dry. This method is especially useful for the removal of grease spots from leather goods, and it is a great improvement over the old method of using kerosene or other flammable solvents.

The method recommended by the department consists in coating the stained surface with a thick solution of rubber in a solvent that evaporates readily and leaving the coating when it is dry. In some cases, it may be necessary to repeat the operation several times. A solution of anhydrous calcium chloride is then applied to the stained surface, and it immediately removes the grease, leaving the leather clean and dry. This method is especially useful for the removal of grease spots from leather goods, and it is a great improvement over the old method of using kerosene or other flammable solvents.

It is important that the cement be very thick and quick drying, and that pure calcium chloride be used. Since the fumes of carbon tetrachloride are very inflammable and poisonous, it is necessary to work away from flames, and where there is no fire. To keep the rubber from adhering too tightly to the leather, immediately after the spot has been removed, apply a thin coat of the rubber solution.

Make provision to use leathers on a coat of the fat it contains. In addition, it often leaves a white residue, and sometimes a dark stain. The white residue may be removed with soap and water, but no way is known for taking out the brown stain. The only way to remove the appearance of leather so damaged is to dye darker than the original color.

Any oil or grease spot should be removed as soon as possible. It is especially important that spots caused by tallow and other animal oils be removed before the leather is dyed, since the animal oils are but slightly soluble in the liquids ordinarily used.

PRACTICE OF PASTEURIZING GROWING IN AMERICAN CITIES

The practice of pasteurizing milk is now a common feature in the cities of this country, and it is a great improvement over the old method of selling raw milk. The practice of pasteurizing milk is now a common feature in the cities of this country, and it is a great improvement over the old method of selling raw milk.

every city in this class had a milk supply more than 50 per cent of which was pasteurized. In 1915 more than 10 per cent of the cities of 75,000 to 100,000 people had no pasteurized milk, but during the past year all of them had some part of the supply pasteurized.

The increase in pasteurization in small cities is particularly striking. Take, for example, those from 10,000 to 25,000 population. In 1915 about 40 per cent had pasteurized milk, but in 1921 nearly 61 per cent had it. Even in cities below 10,000 population pasteurization is becoming more common.

POTATO CLUBS DEMONSTRATE VALUE OF DISEASE-FREE SEED

Because 225 boys in Butler County, Pa., showed that the use of disease-free seed potatoes last year resulted in increasing the yield one-third, Butler County farmers have ordered 10 bushels of disease-free seed potatoes from the New York State College of Agriculture, which was planted beside home-grown seed for comparison and to demonstrate the value of disease-free seed. Field meetings were conducted in August to show diseases and differences in appearance under growing conditions.

In October the potatoes were dug and club demonstration meetings were held. It was found that the disease-free seed was responsible for about one-third of the increase in yield over home-grown seed. Each boy was given a bushel of disease-free seed.

SIX HUNDRED MILLIONS SPENT ON ROADS DURING PAST YEAR

The Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture estimates the total expenditure for construction and maintenance of roads in the country in 1921 to be $600,000,000. The sources of this money are approximately as follows: Motor-vehicle revenue, 13 per cent; State road bonds, 7 per cent; local road bonds, 31 per cent; State taxes and appropriations, 12 per cent; Federal aid, 14 per cent; county, township, and district taxes and assessments, 14 per cent; and miscellaneous, 1 per cent.

SIGNIFICANCE OF EDUCATION

By Ellen Creelman.

There is no question in the minds of intelligent persons regarding the deep significance of education during the first six years of life. To be fully appreciated, however, this period must be considered in the light of its relation to the sum total of all education.

In the first place, as life is a continuous process, so education should be a continuous guiding of life to its highest fulfillment.

The various stages of life, infancy, childhood, youth and manhood, should merge naturally into one another. The goal of the entire process of education is good character, realized through the acquisition of good habits, and it may readily be seen that this fact should be kept in mind by every educator. The educator must also bear in mind the fact that the foundation of education is laid in infancy and childhood.

Physiologists and psychologists agree that many of the physical weaknesses and hereditary defects of later years may be traced to faulty guidance in childhood.

During childhood a fund of resistance, physical and mental, should be acquired through observation of the laws governing development. In order, however, that these laws be observed in the nursery, they must be understood by the parent, and that they be understood, they must be systematically taught as other subjects of education.

An educator recently made the following statement: "My brother and his wife are both University graduates. When the first baby came to their home, neither of them knew anything about the care of the baby, either mentally or physically. The speaker went on to say: 'It is incredible that students should be permitted to graduate from our higher institutions of learning without any knowledge of the most important subject of education, the care of the child.'"

Observation of young mothers and their task reveals the fact that many of them do not realize that their work calls for special preparation, and frequently the growing joy of parenthood, true satisfaction is missing. The speaker still is the fate of the school pupil, who, commencing life with an impulse to realize his unborn possibilities, is handicapped not only by the lack of special education, but also by the faulty guidance of one who loves him but does not understand him; one who cannot discriminate between the natural impulses that should be cherished and strengthened and those that should be eliminated. The fact is recognized that the first six years of life comprise the most important period of all education, a heavy handicap will continue to be placed upon the efforts of the pupil both in the home and in the school.

Every High School, College and University should offer a thorough course in child education, physical and mental, and this study should be required to be made on the required list of subjects for graduation. In this way parents could be prepared for their special work as educators, and the child permitted to realize his possibilities.

Sorry to report little Phyllis Larnage all with a cold.

Mr. John Larnage of Cape Charles, Va., spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Farlow.

A very sad death occurred Saturday evening at 6:30 P. M. when Pauline White, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter White, departed this life. For several years Pauline had been almost an invalid, and suffering at times was very great in spite of a devoted mother who did everything possible to alleviate her suffering. The deceased was nearing her 14th birthday. Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at the M. E. Church, by the pastor, Rev. C. V. Stoenager. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

Six of her girl friends, Ruth Owens, Doris Truitt, Laura Parker, Anne Brittingham, Bertha Stoenager, and Martha Parsons acted as pallbearers, while Lela Perdue, John Terry, Margaret Brown and Nettie Bryan assisted with the flowers. The floral gifts were many and beautiful. Much sympathy is extended by Mr. and Mrs. White in their sad bereavement.

SHARPTOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Oland Phillips of Salisbury and George Hearn of Salisbury were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Hearn on Sunday.

George M. Messick of Baltimore is visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Willing. He is a commission merchant and is traveling in this section to get farmers and merchants to ship produce to the Baltimore markets. He offers much encouragement to the farmers for the coming season.

People living in and near town are giving much attention to the poultry business. As soon as the old hen clucks, she is picked and boxed up on about fifteen eggs; if she fails to sit she is removed and another bird is put in its place. A successful sifter is found. J. M. Gordy near here has put in an incubator holding 3200 eggs. He has a flock of 400 chickens from which he gets 250 to 300 eggs daily. He will set his incubator in motion every few days and have the hatch come off in lots from 800 to 1600 chicks.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Gordy and son Albert returned home on Monday from Baltimore after spending a few days with relatives and friends.

Miss Maggie Bell, who many years ago set apart her life for the work of deaconess and who has been suffering in her labors, has had a few weeks respite. She was called home on account of the serious illness of her brother, Albert Bell, who recently died at Laurel, spent Saturday and Sunday with the family of her brother, Capt. Way Bell, who has been in the army since the war.

On Sunday Rev. Henry S. Dulaney, who has been in the Methodist Episcopal hospital, Philadelphia, twice within the last six weeks was able to fill his pulpit both morning and evening. During the day he made the long drive of the year for his seventy-first birthday and succeeded in getting more than $200. One of the special duties of the day was the election of delegates to the Young Peoples' Conference to be held in Salisbury on Saturday afternoon and evening. Last week Mrs. Ralph Dilley of Frontland made a special request that delegates be sent to the conference. The following delegates were elected: Misses Clara Lowe, Daisy Wadsworth, Clem Bennett, Eugene Sattall and N. W. Owens. The Methodist Protestant Sunday School elected Misses Elsie Howard, Lydia Wright, May Owens, Katharine Phillips and Lawrence Cooper.

On March 2, about 100 of Rev. John T. Bailey's friends, in Georgetown, Del., gave him a birthday surprise party on the occasion of his 50th birthday. Numerous handsome and useful presents were given to Rev. Bailey and a purse of thirty dollars. Rev. Bailey is one of the Sharptown boys who left the country for the ministry and he has been extremely successful, having had some very excellent appointments. He is a member of the Maryland Annual Conference and is partly a self-made man and has many friends here who appreciate his achievements. He is a brother of Mrs. W. B. Robinson of this town and of Mr. Herman Howard of Hebron. Before being sent to Georgetown he was stationed at Dover, Del., where he greatly built up the church as he has at all done in Georgetown.

Woodward Bradley and family of Hebron were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Bradley.

Capt. John W. Hart, who has been an employee of the B. & O. Railway Company since its organization and who has been traveling the Lake Pontchartrain route this winter is home for a few days.

The hat factories are running on full time and the latest and latest factory is spending up to extra work of night and to early morning. The town now needs another mill to employ the women who are not working. The mills are not being started here to take up the women and give employment to the women of the town and country. There is a very serious shortage of hats here and to get a good supply of hats to make the start.

Mr. A. Hartman who recently bought the farm at the end of the highway on the 12th section, is now having a house and barn erected. He has a poultry house and has purchased a flock of chickens and will develop the place into a poultry farm. He is a retired ship carpenter but knows how to manage chickens and has the seed to grow a good crop.

One of the most interesting fox hunts ever staged in this section was arranged to have taken place near Red Banks on Saturday of last week, but the inclement weather prevented the new Fox Farm from being able to bring 25 dogs and 100 hunters were to put 25 of the best judges were to be on hand and they were to decide which of the dogs came off best. The fox was to be plentiful in that section. Numerous dogs have been discovered in an isolated place at the end of the highway. The fox was not to be started until the fox was in the trap. The fox was to be started until the fox was in the trap. The fox was to be started until the fox was in the trap.

Mr. George Moore had as his guest Friday evening Mrs. Omar Reading of Mr. Vernon and Miss Grace Simmons of Norfolk.

Logical

Two friends returning home from a late evening gathering noticed through the window a Chinaman in the dimly lighted rear shop. "I wonder what that Chinaman is doing up so late?" said one. "Shirts, I suppose," came the answer.—Harper's Magazine.

Tired

"I was weak and run down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—"

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"... I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you. At all druggists.

FREEMAN GIVES TALK

About fifty persons assembled in the New Century Club, Milford, on last Friday evening at the invitation of Mr. C. M. Freeman, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Salisbury, Md. The talk given by Mr. Freeman was to the point, and enlightened the audience upon the subject of such an organization. He told of what had been accomplished in the Maryland city, and gave his views as to what he thought could be gained by Milford from such a civic organization. Many valuable pointers were given by those who are working hard for the success of Milford's new Chamber of Commerce, and these have been already put to good advantage.

Following the talk of Mr. Freeman, an invitation was given to any person present who desired to become members of the Chamber of Commerce. Twenty-eight men signed up for membership. Charles E. Varney, Vice President, who acted as chairman of the meeting in the absence of Mr. Louder N. Hearn, the president, appointed a soliciting committee, of which Mr. C. D. Donnan, Holzmueller is chairman to visit the business men of the town and ask their support and membership in the new organization. Another meeting will be held in the near future, at which time other matters looking to the smooth working of the Chamber will be discussed.

I. O. O. F. BANQUET

The members of Nantuxo Lodge No. 101, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, held their annual banquet Wednesday evening, February 22nd, at Higgins Hall, Vienna, and a general good time was had by all.

Mayor Lloyd S. LeCompte, acted as toastmaster, while Hon. Reuben H. Baumgartner had charge of the musical program and was assisted by Miss Madeline Cook, soloist, Miss Alma Phillips, pianist, Mr. Arnold Meredith, vocalist of Cambridge and Miss Eliza Beth Baumgartner, who sang several selections. The entire musical program was greatly enjoyed by all.

After the guests had partaken of the beautiful supply of good things to eat, Mr. John Spence of Baltimore was introduced and gave a splendid talk on Old Fellowship after which numerous speakers made short and witty addresses. In the small hours of the morning the guests departed declaring that they not only had enjoyed the occasion but that they were already looking forward to the one to be held next year.

The guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. LeCompte, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Noble, Dr. and Mrs. F. V. Hunt, the reception committee. The committee in charge of the tables did splendid work; the tables being decorated with flowers, potted plants, ferns, etc., and upon being seated each guest found a decorated head piece to be worn during the banquet. Some were ladies, some clowns, some clowns and all were comical.

COWS CONDEMNED

State veterinary examiners last week condemned 20 head of dairy cows from the herd of Thomas Lattimus, in New Castle county, a local farmer, which were subject to tuberculosis.

The fact that Mr. Lattimus was forced to sell these cows for the sum of $20 per head to a local dealer, he is reported, when he had bought many of this lot for prices ranging from $75 to $100 each, not only has caused him quite a financial loss, but has caused great concern among the local dairy men whose herds are being tested.

WORKS FOR CHILD MUST KEEP WELL

Mothers in a Like Situation Should Read This Letter from Mrs. Enrico

Chicago, Illinois.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a serious trouble. I had tried doctors and all said the same - an operation. At first I only felt the pain on my left side but later I seemed to feel it on both sides. I am a power sewing-machine operator and have a little girl to support. I work in a tailor shop and that kind of work has been very sick this year and I am home part of the time. I do not like to take any chances, so I consulted my friends, and one lady said, 'Take Lydia Pinkham's Compound,' so I did. I have felt better, feeling and am in good enough health to go to work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound and Sensitive Wash to all mothers. Mrs. MARY ENRICO, 459 N. Carroll St., Chicago, Illinois.

Often the mother is obliged to support her children and good health is necessary. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is just the medicine for women's ailments and the relief it brought Mrs. Enrico it may bring to you. Keep well by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Biggest Thing in Our Business is Service

When we say we're here to serve you we mean more than just looking at your battery, putting in a little water and saying goodbye.

Service, the way we say it, means doing everything we possibly can to see that you get every last mile and fraction of a mile out of that battery. That's our business!

Never mind if your battery isn't a Willard. We'll look after it just as faithfully as if it were. We want you to know what service at Battery Headquarters is like!

POULTRY NOTES

BY H. W. RICKEY

CARING FOR THE HOME FLOCK

At the present time with so many types of brooders on the market, it is a problem to decide which to use. Without question the one selected should be the one best adapted to the needs of the individual and to the conditions under which he is working. The number of chicks to be raised and the amount of capital available must be considered.

The outdoor box brooder and the portable hover, which can be seen at most poultry supply houses, are best adapted to the needs of the man who raises from 100 to 200 chickens annually, their chick capacity is from fifty to sixty. Do not attempt to crowd in more. There may be room in the incubator or under the hover for 100 or more day-old chicks, but they grow rapidly and as they increase in size they require proportionately more room.

The coal or oil burning brooder stoves have come into general use on the larger poultry farms. Their brooding capacity is from 300 to 1,000 chicks, depending upon the size of the stove, but according to the best available information, which is in line with my own experience, best average results are obtained when the number is limited to between 300 to 400. This method of brooding usually requires the construction of an especially designed house, though excellent results may be had with the stoves in spare rooms of old dwellings or outbuildings having a floor space of not less than eighty square feet.

Before chickens are put into the brooder or under the hover, every precaution should be taken to see that it is in perfect working order and properly regulated, leaving nothing to the imagination. If the brooder has been used it should be thoroughly disinfected with one of the commercial coal tar preparations; if operated indoors the room should be sprayed and the material forced into all cracks and crevices in order to destroy all germs of disease and any red mites that may be hiding. It is important that this work be done at least ten days before the chicks are ready to be taken from the incubator and during that time the incubator and room should be exposed as much as possible to fresh air and sunlight. They must be perfectly dry when the chicks are put in.

As with the incubator, the heating devices should be carefully gone over, the lamps and burners cleaned and furnished with new hard wicks. If hot water brooders are used, all pipes and tanks should be tested for possible leaks and the smoke pipes of the brooder stove be freed from accumulations of soot. In fact, these pipes should be taken down, cleaned and stored away with the stove at the end of the brooding season.

The temperature under the hover in the box brooder or under the portable brooder at the beginning should range from 98 to 102 degrees, depending somewhat upon the conditions and temperature on the outside. If the brooder is exposed to cold winds or the hover is placed in a room where there is considerable circulation of cold air, a higher temperature would be required than if the environment were more favorable. Under a well protected hover a temperature of 98 degrees is about right to start with. These temperatures are recommended with the understanding that the bulb of the thermometer is near the floor, about on the level with the chick's back when it is at rest. If the thermometer bulb is placed farther away from the floor and up closer to the overhead heating pan or radiator with which the hovers are fitted a higher registered temperature would be required.

The hover floor should be first covered with a layer of fine dry sand and this in turn with a bedding of finely cut hay, straw or oats chaff. Sweepings from the haymow should not be used unless thoroughly sifted and free from dust. Unless this is done chicks will be found with sore eyes, a condition resembling somewhat that resulting from conjunctivitis and croup. As cleanliness is one of the first laws of successful brooding both the sand and the bedding should be removed and replaced with fresh material at least once during the first week and from two to three times each week thereafter, or as often as required to maintain a cleanly condition under the hover.

In determining the amount of heat required after the first two or three days of brooding we depend not so much upon the thermometer as upon the actions of the chicks themselves. Since most of our troubles with the brooders come between sunset and sunrise we should be careful to see that the conditions under the hover are right before abandoning it for the night. The temperature may be right when the chicks go under the hover at dusk, but an entirely different condition may develop a few hours later; therefore, the sensible poultry keeper should visit the brooder at least twice during the evening, walking very quietly and listening for any sounds of unrest. He should then lift the curtain and by the light from a pocket flashlight watch for a moment the position of the chicks; if they are all nicely spread around over the floor, ing out from under the curtain the conditions are right, but if the chicks are restless and show signs of crowding, which condition is usually accompanied by a complaining kind of peeping, which can be heard at a distance, the temperature is too low and there is danger of chilling. When some perhaps with their heads sticking are found outside of the hover curtain they are too warm, unless, as sometimes happens, one part of the hover is too cold or drafty and the chicks in attempting to get away crowd each other to the outside.

If the temperature is too low under the hover more heat must be supplied, of course, and is the same way if it is too warm the heat must be reduced, but more care will have to be exercised in the reduction of the heat, as allowance must be made for a possible drop in the temperature outside during the night, which would have an influence upon the temperature inside the brooder and under the hover.

Chicks should not be taken from the incubator until they are twenty-four to forty-eight hours old or until twenty-four hours after the hatch is completed and the transfer should be made in a warmly lined basket or box, to prevent chilling, when too often occurs when chicks are carelessly handled at this time.

The transfer to the brooder should be made late in the afternoon and after a night spent under the hover the chicks become more or less familiar with it, and this makes their training easier. For several days it is usually necessary to watch them from time to time and put them back under the hover if they seem to be uncomfortable. It is advisable when using the portable hover to place around the hover a low fence of fine mesh wire or cardboard about eight inches from the curtain, in order to bring the chicks in closer contact with the heat, and this contact should be maintained for a day or two and then the enclosure should be enlarged from day to day until within a short time the fence may be taken away.

As the chicks grow they require less and less heat, and the temperature under the hover should be reduced gradually, until none is required. One of the serious mistakes made in the brooding of chicks often occur when the heat is being taken away. The poultryman decides that the chicks are all old enough and feathered out enough to get along without heat under the hover, then he takes it away, and from that time on no matter what the changes in the weather or temperature, no more heat is supplied the lamps are never lighted nor the coal fires started. If the weather comes off damp and cold, or if the chicks run out in the rain, they are in no way protected from the effects of these changes. There is no warmth or comfort in the brooder or brooder house and the chicks, chilled to the marrow, stand huddled together or crowd in corners in a vain attempt to keep warm, and good results cannot come from this kind of treatment. After the heat is shut off, it should be furnished again whenever in the judgment of the operator unfavorable conditions may warrant it. If outdoor brooders are used they should be sheltered from prevailing winds and protected from the hot suns.

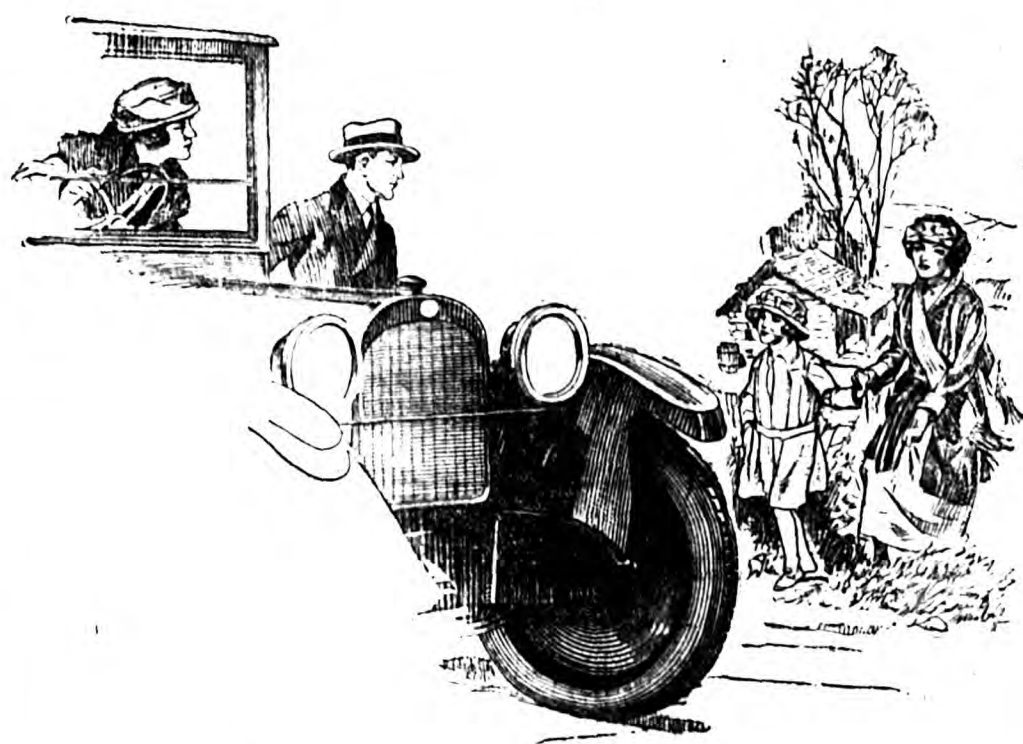

When chicks are first allowed to run out on the ground, they should be confined close to the runway by small mesh poultry wire until they learn to go back and forth of their own accord, and the enclosure should be covered with the same material, in order to prevent the depredations of stray cats and rats which too often infest the back lots and alleys of the towns and villages. From time to time the enclosure should be enlarged and eventually entirely removed, thus giving the chicks free range.

Chicks grown on free range are usually stronger and more vigorous than those grown in confinement.

Don't Envy The Birds In The Spring Build Your Own Nest

CONDITIONS for building were never more favorable than now. Labor is plentiful and needs employment. Materials are just as cheap as they are likely to be for a long, long time. Real Estate bargains are being offered daily.

Then, too, Spring is the right time for home-building. The days are growing longer. The weather is mild. You will have an opportunity to inspect the progress of the carpenters every day, and by the time your home is built you will feel that it is an old friend whom you know.

If Salisbury is to grow, to progress, to develop as it should, scores of homes must be built in the near future. Dozens of families are looking for comfortable shelter. It is easy to find tenants at good rentals for every house that can be built.

Those who build will show faith in the future, in their city, in their county, in their State, in their Nation. This is the kind of tangible faith that is needed for an example. Build now. Make an investment in lasting happiness. Let's have "A GOOD HOME FOR EVERY FAMILY IN SALISBURY."

If you don't want to build, think over the remodeling proposition. Perhaps you can add materially to your comfort and convenience by a small alteration, by laying new oak floors, by converting waste space into a play room or sewing room. Come in today and talk it over.

Fifth Night

THE SIMPLE-MINDED MORTGAGE

The Real Estate First Mortgage Gnome.

In manner and in face,
Was quite the opposite of her
Who one night ruled the place.

A model of simplicity,
Free from the taint of guile,
But with a countenance that bore
A frank though lifeless smile.

For plainness and transparency
For form, without disguise,
You could not fail to all agree
That she would win a prize.

"My friends, I aim to fill the bill
For those who hate to think,
Or will not take the time to learn
From teams of printers' ink.

I cater to those timid souls
Who never far will roam,
But always want investments that
Are safe and near at home.

I also gratify the whim
Of skeptics, who are prone Themselves to view the building and
The land behind each loan.

Such egoistic doubters may,
While on their Sunday strolls,
Behold the concrete evidence
Which satisfies their souls.

For these imagined benefits,
It's up to them to see
That taxes and insurances
Are kept in properly.

And, also, they must take good care,
I scarcely need to state,
The properties are well maintained
And interest paid to date.

At last the man who owns the die
The common fate of all—
Without personal thought of what Mighty possibly befall.

His widow and his orphans then Unwittingly fall heir
To these anxious and cares
Which they are forced to bear.

Still farther, the poor mortgagor,
If evil day be due,
May fail to meet his interest, or
His principal, when due.

Then I must steel my heart against Compassion, and foreclose
Upon his property, or lose
My income, as he knows.

I must admit such painful scenes
You don't encounter when
You own good corporation bonds—
Not private debt of men.

WHY

HOME TRADE FALLS OFF

It Always Slumps When Business Is Unbusinesslike.

Most business men have this failing—they are swept off their feet when business booms.

We hit prosperity. Then starts the trouble. Everybody buys everything in sight and the merchants are caught in their own trap. They start advertising to beat the band. A riot of selling follows, the merchants OVER ADVERTISE and OVERSELL THE MARKET. Demand for goods keeps up and then comes the trip to the bank to borrow for expansion.

Then what? shortage and rising prices—a riot of buying before prices tilt to the top and a wild spree of advertising to keep the game going.

Suddenly there comes a halt. Buying slows up, and timid unbusinesslike merchants curtail advertising and the buying halt continues. Then advertising is stopped and business becomes stagnant.

When trade needs no stimulus the merchants buy space freely, but when trade needs a strong push, they cut down on advertising.

If business spent one-third the money in advertising when trade is booming and three times the money when trade is poor, business would find stability.

Now is the Time to Advertise Extensively.

Don't throw chips on a blazing fire. The wood is needed when the fire is low. Advertising now means a real service to the buying public. The people want to know where and what they can buy economically.

Merchants Get Busy. Make Your Drive Now.

DR. MOTT TELLS OF PEKING WORLD MEET

Leaves Shortly For The Far East To Attend Various Important Meetings Of Christians.

As chairman of the World's Student Christian Federation, and Chairman of the International Missionary Council, as well as General Secretary of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Association, Dr. Mott will sail from San Francisco, Feb. 21, to attend the conference of the Federation at Peking, April 4-9, and National Christian conferences during May at Shanghai and Tokyo.

The World's Student Christian Federation represents the Christian student movements of the world, embracing nearly 200,000 students and professors in Christian associations or unions in more than 2,500 universities, colleges and higher schools. Delegates from various nations will attend the Peking conference, through which it is sought to exert a greater influence in promoting the Christian solution of international and inter-racial problems.

"It would be difficult to overstate the extreme importance," says Dr. Mott, "of having such a conference meet at this fateful moment in Far Eastern affairs and in the relations between Orient and Occident."

The Federation decided to meet in China before it was known that the Washington Conference on Limitation of Armaments and on Far Eastern Questions was to be held. The cause of that conference the coming gathering at Peking, Dr. Mott suggests, will assume larger meaning, and associations of nations or the world, "unless their work be prompted by the world-wide and intensive spiritual efforts of such Christian movements as the Federation. The Federation and all the national Christian Student Movements of which it is composed are striking at the heart of the international problem in pressing their program, which seeks to influence a right by power human and superhuman the ideals and outlook, the attitude and motives, the ambitions and spirit of those who tomorrow are to become the leaders of the nations."

Reasons for a greatly enlarged opportunity before the Federation are pointed out in its annual call for observance of a universal day of prayer for students on Feb. 20. These reasons include the unparalleled increase in the number of students in colleges and universities; the prevailing spirit of religious inquiry and notable evangelistic results in many student fields; the generous support of students all over the world of the Federation's relief work among students of Europe and Western Asia; and the evidence of the far-reaching influence of the Student Movements in the past as seen in the standing and influence of former members in the political life of nations, notably among the national delegations in the Washington Conference.

In discussing the international elements which give the Peking meeting greater significance in some respects than any of its ten predecessors, Dr. Mott points out that "students of the New China, as of no other country, are today streaming out over the world, and are most responsive to the voices of the demands of the modern age. Contrary to popular impression, Chinese students at home, not simply those who are studying abroad or who have studied abroad, are keenly interested and concerned in international questions and international relations. Dr. Mott calls attention to the Renaissance Movement now sweeping among the studying youth of China. In a message to members of the Federation, David Z. T. Yui, General Secretary of the National Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of China, describes that movement as representing a philosophic scientific spirit in modern education and expresses the hope that it will lead the people into a long period of enlightenment and progress as did the Renaissance in Europe several centuries ago. But his plea, and that numerous other leaders, as that through the Peking Conference and its results the students of China need to be a positive, convincing Christian message from their fellow students of other lands or be lost in the materialism which other Western leaders have been presenting to them."

While virtually every nation of Europe, North America and Australasia, and parts of South America and Africa, will be represented at the conference, it will be predominantly Asiatic. "The flower of the men and women Christian students of China, Japan, including Korea, India, Ceylon, Siam and the Philippines will be present," says Dr. Mott. "It is believed that the effect on the Federation itself will be profound and far-reaching. Without doubt the Federation is today too largely Occidental. It needs that which will come from the message, experience and leadership of the prophetic and Christlike leaders and members of the Student Movement of the East."

During the weeks following the Federation Conference the various student centers of China will be visited by international deputations of Conference delegates for the purpose of conveying to the students of China the Christian message of the Federation.

CHAMPAION RIVETER SETS A NEW RECORD

Pennsylvania Railroad Worker Drives Average Of 1,544 A Day At Altoona Car Shops.

A new record for riveting has been established by L. M. McNeil, a Pennsylvania Railroad mechanic, employed in the railroad car shops at Altoona, Pa. It is believed that McNeil's record has never been equalled by anyone on the railroad and that it rivals any of the records of shipyard riveters during the war.

During the month of December, 1921, McNeil, with the two other members of his riveting gang, drove at average of 1,544 rivets a day of eight hours. The maximum number driven in any one day was 1,981, (two hours).

The gang, which consisted of the Riveter, L. M. McNeil, Car Builder, a Holder on, (R. W. Ray, Helper) and a Heater, (R. C. Yingling, Helper) averaged on the day of maximum output practically four rivets per minute throughout the day. They averaged three and two-tenths rivets for every minute they worked during the month of December, 1921.

INDIAN WEDS WHITE WOMAN

An inter-racial marriage of a full blooded Indian to a white American woman took place in Snow Hill last Saturday night at the parsonage of James Memorial M. P. Church, the Rev. C. R. Strassburg being the officiating clergyman.

The groom was Dr. Albert L. Redwing, of near Georgetown, Ind., a member of a well known tribe of Indians living on the Indian Mission settlement on Indian River, near Georgetown.

The bride was Miss Elberta Hitchers, the twenty-two year old daughter of Isaac Hitchers, a prosperous farmer living near Georgetown, New Jersey, and boarded on Spruce Street, Philadelphia, where Dr. Redwing was also a boarder.

EVERY STREET IN SALISBURY.

Has Its Share of the Proof That Kidney Sufferers Seek.

Backache? Kidneys weak? Distressed with urinary ailments? Want a reliable kidney remedy? Don't have to look far. Use what Salisbury people recommend. Every street in Salisbury has its cases.

Here's one Salisbury man's experience. Let L. W. Ennis, 123 Fooks St., tell it. He says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for many years and consider them a household remedy. At times I have had attacks of kidney trouble and I would suffer severely from backaches. There would be a dull constant ache in the small of my back especially mornings. I was lame and tire foot and at times I could hardly straighten up. Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at White & Leonard's Drug Store never fail to help me when I am troubled in this way. MEN'S EQUAL RIGHTS IS NEWEST PROPOSAL

Bill Introduced Amending State Constitution To Place Men On Equality With Women.

Not satisfied with the proposed reforms that the women lobbyists are insisting upon for the State at this session of the General Assembly, Senator L. W. Fox of Baltimore, has submitted a "bill of rights" for the action of the Senate which provide that both men and women shall be treated as absolute equals in Maryland.

"Equal rights" it would be and with vengeance. The wife is made responsible for one half the support of the family, and could no longer go a-roaming through his pockets at night lest she be convicted of larceny. Senator Fox has not made any statement regarding his measure, from which the venerable senators get much amusement. The statement of "rights" follows:

Article 46—That males and females are born free and equal, and that neither shall be granted any privileges that are not enjoyed by the other.

Article 47—that the duty of jury service heretofore imposed upon males shall be equally imposed upon members of the opposite sex; if one is exempt, the other shall be also.

Article 48—that it shall be the duty of a wife to contribute at least one-half to the expenses of the home and the support of the family.

Article 49—that all property of married persons shall, when held as tenants by the entirety, be protected against the individual debts of either husband or wife.

Article 50—that in all cases of separation or divorce, the plaintiff shall be required to furnish funds to the defendant sufficient to meet the expenses of trial and to compensate the counsel appearing for the said defendant.

Article 51—that in divorce actions, where it is shown that the husband is dependent upon the wife for support, the wife shall be required to furnish money, by way of alimony for the maintenance of husband and children during pendency of the suit.

Article 52—that in cases of desertion by wife or husband, either party found guilty may be sentenced to imprisonment for not more than one year and the earnings of one held in prison shall be paid.

Article 53—that any wife who appropriates to her own use private funds of her husband may be tried and convicted of embezzlement or larceny, as the case may be, and sentenced under the laws regarding larceny. The same to apply to husbands.

Article 54—that married people shall be equally responsible for the support and maintenance of each other.

Article 55—that a husband shall not be required to obtain the consent of his wife in order to dispose of any of his property when the same may be advantageous to the family welfare.

Article 56—that any wife who commits bigamy, in addition to being subject to lawful punishment for the same, shall, upon conviction, forfeit all rights in the estate, real or personal or both, of her husband and the husband shall forthwith be endowed with one-half of her real and personal estate. The same rights being assured the wife in similar cases.

Article 57—that in cases of illegitimate children the obligations of support and maintenance of the child or children shall rest with equal force upon both father and mother, and this obligation may be enforced by way of imprisonment or requiring the convicted person to give bond for the assurance that the money will be paid.

Article 58—that the laws concerning assault may be enforced equally against husband and wife, and any wife or husband convicted of such charge may be whipped by not more than 40 lashes or be imprisoned, in the discretion of the court.

Article 59—that no laws shall be passed giving any rights, benefits or preferences to women that are not granted to members of the opposite sex.

Article 60—that in all places in the foregoing articles of the Constitution of Maryland where the words "man or male" is used or appears the same is to be taken to mean also "woman or female."

Leaves Estate To Sister At Laurel

Man Who Worked Hard All His Life Piles Up Savings Account Of Several Thousand Dollars.

James Kennerley, who died near Laurel, Del., on Monday week and whose remains were interred there on Wednesday was a native of Riverton where most of his life was spent. He was fifty-six years old and was married. He leaves one brother John Kennerley of Maryland Springs, four sisters, Mrs. Mary Massey, Mrs. Nancy Massey, Mrs. Jennie O'Neil and Mrs. Laurel O'Neil, all living near Laurel. Captain George Kennerley of Riverton, Andrew Kennerley of Sharptown, Ernest Kennerley of Hebron are half brothers. Mrs. William Shockley near Hebron and Mrs. Elizabeth Jones at Sharptown are half sisters.

He began work in early life without any education, trade or profession, having to get work wherever he could, but always rendering a good, honest day's work. He left an estate between six and seven thousand dollars, most of which was in bank, to his sister, Mrs. Nancy Massey, the will having been read on the day of burial.

DINNER CONFERENCE QUITE SUCCESSFUL

Large Attendance And Enthusiasm Of Discussion Of "Y" Work Are Hopeful Auspices.

At the Citizens Dinner Conference at the "Y" on Friday evening, plans for the coming year were discussed and the accomplishments of the Association were shown. The meeting was successful in every respect and much good is expected to be derived from it.

Introduced by Mr. Walter S. Shepard, the following speakers made excellent talks on pertinent phases of "Y" work: Dr. Charles T. Fisher, Mr. Milton Cannon, Rev. E. L. Shipley, Rev. Mr. Robert A. Boyle, and Rev. Mr. J. T. Heron. At the close of the meeting there was an open discussion in which many present took part. The Secretary's annual report follows:

SURVEY OF MARYLAND CROPS SHOWS DECLINE

Reserves Of Grain Are At Lowest Ebb In Past Two Years, Says Bureau Of Markets.

Reserves of grain on Maryland farms on March 1 this year were somewhat less than on same date during the past two years, says John S. Dennee, agricultural statistician for the United States Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, cooperating in crop statistics with the University of Maryland. The survey is the first of its kind since 1919, and is based on reports of correspondents and agents of the Bureau, and is issued with the approval of the Crop Reporting Board of the Department of Agriculture, Washington.

According to the statistic, the supply of last year's corn remaining in the hands of Maryland farmers on March 1 was estimated at 12,226,000 bushels, against 13,764,000 a year ago, and 13,222,000 bushels two years ago. It is believed that about 6,792,000 bushels of last year's crop were moved from the county where grown, as compared with 7,007,000 of the 1920 crop, and 6,611,000 bushels of the 1919 crop. About 86 per cent of the 1921 corn crop was of merchantable quality. The average of farm prices on March 1, as reported by farmers, is 59 cents per bushel, against 84 cents a year ago and 132 cents two years ago.

Of the 7,552,000 bushels of wheat produced last year, only 1,193,000 bushels, about 15 per cent, remained in farmer's hands on March 1, 1922, against 3,054,000 bushels one year ago and 1,445,000 bushels two years ago. It is estimated that about 50 per cent, say 1,692,000 bushels of last year's crop was shipped out of the county where produced, somewhat less than in two years. When the crop of 1921 was considerably less than that of 1920 and 1919, and producers have shown more disposition to hold their wheat on a declining market. Average price reported received by Maryland farmers for wheat on March 1 was 128 cents per bushel, as compared with 130 cents last year, and 240 cents year before last.

Less oats remained on the farms, 180,000 bushels, against 262,000 a year ago, and about 178,000 bushels are estimated to have been shipped as grain out of the county where produced, which figure compares with 160,000 bushels of the 1920 crop, and 107,000 bushels of the 1919 crop. It is estimated to have been 1,029,000 bushels.

About 18,000 of the 120,000 bushels of barley grown in 1921 remained on the farms on March 1, this year; and about 6,000 bushels were fixed as the amount shipped out of county where produced.

Farm land values in Maryland continue their downward trend and are rapidly approaching the levels of 1917. The most part of the depreciation is attributed to the low prices farm produce is now commanding, rather than to any real depreciation of the intrinsic worth of the land itself. The average value of plow lands now and two years ago are as follows: Plow lands—$31.00 and $40.00 per acre; good plow lands—$67.00 and $87.00; all plow lands—$43.00 and $60.00. The average price per acre of farm lands with improvements is $27.00 against $30.00 two years ago, and farm lands without improvements $17.00 against $30.00.

Low farms in Maryland rent on a cash basis, the custom being to rent shares. When cash rates prevail, the State farmers' returns indicate that the average cash rent paid for farms is $8.00 and the average value per acre of such farms is $30.00. The average cash rent paid for plow land is $9.00, and the average value per acre of such land is $30.00. The time or grazing lands command an average cash rent of $2.00 and the average value per acre of such land is given as $11.00.

Nations which adopt to any great extent the staple diet of another nation, begin gradually to adopt the characteristics of that nation.

20c FOR TOMATOES

Announcement was made yesterday that the prevailing price for tomatoes throughout the county this year would be twenty cents a basket. J. Langrall & Bro., Inc., Centerville, are accepting contracts at this rate, and it is understood that other county packers will make similar offers. For some time it has been apparent that the price for tomatoes would be about $12.00 a ton, and while the majority of farmers had hoped that the offer this year might reach $15, many have signified their intention to grow at this price.

GALA NIGHT FOR CEDARS

The Evergreen Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, a branch of the Masonic order with headquarters at Milford, are making preparations to give an entertainment in the near future that will excel anything along this line that the order has ever undertaken in the past. YOUTH OF 12 TAKES LIFE

Clifford Brown, young boy of only 12 years was found in a barn at his home on last Saturday afternoon after he had taken his own life by hanging. No reason can be given for the sudden incident, which greatly startled the people of Onley vicinity when it was learned that the irresponsible youth had come to such a sudden and tragic death. He had played around Onley and Onley Creek and was apparently a typical American boy, happy at play and enjoying the things that others of the same age delighted in. It was not until the family became alarmed at his continued absence that two of his small brothers found him and carried a report of the tragedy to the mother, who was heart-broken.

FARMS IN DEMAND

Farming in Delaware must be profitable despite the talk of which one hears much nowadays that the farmer must have Government aid, for the demand for Delaware farms continues strong and active, says the Philadelphia Record.

This is indicated by a report just made public this week by the E. A. Stout Farm Agency, Inc., which last year sold 1,400 Delaware farms and a total throughout the country of 514, at an aggregate value of $20,000,000. This activity in agricultural land of Delaware at a time when the cry of calamity is receiving wide circulation is attributed by the Stout Agency to the fact that Delaware's diversified farms are a much more attractive investment than the big one-crop farms of the Middle West and South, which have been severely affected by deflation in prices of their crops.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

Plans which were previously outlined for the establishment of the Dorchester County Public Library have been quietly but effectively carried out in the last four weeks. The 1000 books donated by the Cambridge Woman's Club, as a nucleus, have been moved to the New Library Building on High street. Repairs and additions to the building are under way. Lights will be installed, shelves put up and it is confidently expected that by March 1st, the library will be ready to serve the Public. Earnest attention has been given the details, looking to the future growth and development of the project. The Library Committee have been fortunate in having as their Secretary, a former State Librarian, Miss Nettie V. Mace, whose experience in all branches of Library work has been of great assistance.

HAVE FAST BASEBALL CLUB

Manager Whalen feels that he has materially strengthened the pitching department of the Parkley Club by landing three good pitchers to assist Guy and Sheple in the slab work. They are Guy, Healy and Klinge, hoffer, two of these men Whalen knows personally. Guy is not a resident of Baltimore, but comes so highly recommended by a former well known Chicago White Sox player, that Whalen did not hesitate to secure his signature to a contract.

NEW SCHOOL DEDICATED

The new brick High School building at Onancock was dedicated with appropriate exercises Friday evening, March 10, 1922. In spite of the inclement weather the large auditorium which seats about 600 people, was filled. The welcome address of the occasion was delivered by the Principal, Major A. E. Tanner. Mr. R. V. Lang, State Supervisor of School Buildings, made a short address. The dedicatory address was to have been delivered by State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Harris Hart, but he was unable to attend. In his place, Supt. G. G. Joyce made some remarks showing the growth of the public school system in this country. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Onancock Concert Band. The school has a faculty of nine teachers, with 250 scholars on roll, including music department.

"TRUTH RALLY" NEXT WEEK IN BALTIMORE

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Plan Great Fraternal Gathering in Monumental City.

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Maryland are planning to hold one of the greatest fraternal gatherings ever staged in the State, when members of the Order will gather at the Lyric Theater, Baltimore, on Thursday, March 23.

The event will be known as the "Rally of Truth," and is being arranged by a special committee of the District Deputy Grand Masters' Association of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, headed by Grand Secretary William A. Jones, and Judge Frank I. Duncan, Grand Warden and president of the Association. This committee is preparing an elaborate program for the celebration, which will begin at 4:30 in the afternoon at the Odd Fellows Temple, Baltimore, with a luncheon prepared and served by the Rebekahs, enrolling of 500 new candidates for membership, and a parade, headed by the Patriarchs Militant and several bands of music, to the Lyric where the degrees are to be conferred by three specially selected staffs at 7 P. M. A public entertainment will follow.

The date selected is the 99th anniversary of the birth of Schuyler Colfax, author and founder of the beautiful Rebekah Degree of Odd Fellowship, and a prominent and honored statesman of his day and generation, having served as Vice-President of the United States in 1868. Thus the celebration will be of a dual nature, and will enlist not only the fullest co-operation of every Odd Fellow, but the Rebekahs as well.

BENNETT-SHOCKLEY

Mr. Raymond G. Bennett of Cambridge and Miss Lelia May Shockley of this county were quietly married by Dr. Joseph T. Herson at the Asbury Parsonage on Saturday evening at seven o'clock. Mr. Bennett is a printer employed in one of the city plants.

FOR A SAFE FOURTH

Senator Fox, who introduced the new "bill of rights" measure proposes to give freedom on the one hand and withhold it on the other. His latest bill would prohibit, under penalty of $500 fine, the shooting of fire crackers greater than six inches in length and three and a half inches in diameter, or containing a high explosive. The $500 fine is for dealers; while a $25 is provided for small boys who do the shooting.

LADIES AID MEETS

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrews met at the home of Mrs. J. H. Parsons, South Division street, Tuesday night, March 7th. The attendance was small due to the rain, and the regular program was not rendered, but those who were present enjoyed the meeting more than usual because it was informal and we were most delightfully entertained by Mrs. Parsons.

CORTLEY JUNIOR

Boys' clothes with snap and wear

with invisible patches

SLEEVES strained and "out" at the elbows—trousers worn by sliding on banisters and cellar doors. No single thickness of the finest all-wool material can stand that sort of wear.

That is why Cortley Jr. Clothes have double thicknesses at the "danger points"—elbows, knees, the trousers' seat.

Made throughout of the sturdiest goods, and with these extra layers at the five points of greatest wear, Cortley Jr. Clothes are made to give consistently long service. It is never necessary to throw a Cortley suit away because one or two spots have broken through. Every part of each garment is adjusted in wear to every other.

The whole suit not only has the snap and style that the boy appreciates, but also the manly, up-standing appearance that mothers look for.

CHIROPRACTIC

Keeps You Well Every Day

IN these twentieth century days of hustle and bustle and hurry and worry, it is absolutely necessary that you keep yourself fit all the time. If you do not enjoy health you are in no condition to cope with the world. The present day man and woman must be healthy. The boys and girls of today must be healthy, for they will be the men and women of tomorrow.

Chiropractic Is Your Safeguard

When given a fair chance it will make you healthy and keep you healthy. This seems a large order, but try it and find out for yourself.

NOTED SPEAKER IS BOOKED FOR TALKS

Rotary Club Secures Dr. Charles S. Barker For Three Splendid Addresses In April.

Through the public spirited action of the Rotary Club the eminent speaker, Dr. Charles S. Barker, is to be brought to Salisbury on Wednesday, April 11, to deliver three great addresses. The Doctor is so unique and unusual that any attempt to describe him is sure to omit much that should be said. He is a man of wide experience on the public platform, and his addresses are of such an amazing and inspiring character that all who have the opportunity to do so should hear him.

Dr. Barker is not an orator and admits it, but he is a wonderfully interesting and electric speaker. He puts the "punch of a pile driver" into his words, and drives home with thrilling illustrations the truths he upholds. He quickly "gets" an audience and holds it straight through a talk of an hour.

Dr. Barker took care of Mr. Taft's health during his four years in the White House and thereafter for several years engaged in lecturing to the general public on health and other subjects. In 1919 he so attracted the attention of the Rotary Clubs at their annual convention with his famous address on "A Father's Responsibility to His Son" that requests came to him from all quarters of Rotary to speak. Since then the Doctor has been devoting more and more of his time to the Rotary clubs until now all of it is given to them.

Dr. Barker has delivered a total of more than four thousand addresses before audiences aggregating more than 2,000,000 persons. His justly famous address on "How To Make The Most Out Of Life," specially designed to help high school boys and girls meet and solve their problems, has been delivered before more than 800,000 boys and girls in the high schools of the United States and Canada, probably more high school students by far than have been addressed by any other speaker.

Besides delivering the above mentioned address, to the high school students, Dr. Barker will deliver an address to women on "A Mother's Responsibility to Her Daughter" and one to men on "A Father's Responsibility to His Son." All mothers and fathers who desire to be of the highest service in helping their boys and girls in their progress along life's pathway should make a determined effort, respectively, to hear these addresses.

The places of meeting will be announced later.

Beacom Student Wins First Place In Test

Miss Elizabeth Cannon Takes Prize In Typewriting Contest Staged In Philadelphia.

Miss Elizabeth Cannon, a Beacom Business College student, won first prize in a typewriting contest held on March 6 in the Commercial Museum at Philadelphia under the auspices of the International Business Show. More than seventy students representing four states took part. Miss Cannon wrote at the rate of twenty words per minute net. Miss Evangeline Tharte of Harrington won second place in the contest and Miss Mary Evans of Wilmington won fourth place. All three girls are Beacom students.

A similar contest was held two years ago. Beacom College won first, second and fourth prizes at that time. The winner was presented with a large loving cup. This was retained for another two years by winning in the last contest. In addition to this the winner of first place received a gold medal and the winner of second place won a silver medal. This is considered a very good showing since students who commenced their courses earlier than September 1, were not eligible. This means that the participants were in training at the Beacom College about six months.

AILING WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Mrs. Linton Tells How Helpful Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is at This Period

Denver, Colorado.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for seven years and I cannot tell you the good it has done me. It is good for young and old and I always keep a bottle of it in the house, for I am at that time of life when it calls for Lydia E. Pinkham's help. My husband saw your ad. in the papers and said, 'You have taken it. So I let him get it. I soon felt better and he told me, 'I want you to take about six bottles. So I did and I keep house and do all my work and work out by the day and feel fine now. I tell every one about the Vegetable Compound, for so many of my friends thought I would not get well.'—Mrs. R. J. LINTON, 1850 West 40 Avenue, Denver, Colorado.

After reading letters like the above, we are constantly publishing them, so should any woman hesitate to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound if she is in need of help? It brings back where other medicines fail.

"PEACE"

Do you ever think how many people to day are running hither and thither from one thing to another, thinking to find peace or a peaceful atmosphere, something that will still the ever increasing restlessness? Weary in body, soul and mind; traveling the world over only to return to the starting point with the quest still to be won.

Of course they have not found it, because they are looking where it is not. They are looking for it without, when it is to be found within. Peace is to be found only within and unless one finds it there he may travel from one country to another through all the different avenues of the world's most famous palaces of pleasure in pursuit of it, in fact we may seek thru all channels of the external, but if we do not realize it lies within our own soul, it will always be elusive, just beyond, as it were, ever beckoning us on, from one place of unrest to another, seeking that for which the soul hungers and longs to possess, "Spirit of Peace."

When we realize that peace lies not in the things of the world, but within one's own soul, we will then know that the chase for peace was like unto the hunt for the rainbow's end—fruitless. For have we not been told,—"The things that are seen are temporal, but the things that are not seen are eternal."

Within, he's the attainment of the "Peace that passeth all understanding."

Education Measure Passed Unanimously

Act Provides For Equalization Fund That Will Materially Affect County—Increased Salaries.

Providing for an enlarged supervisory force in public schools, for increased salaries for many teachers and principals, a sliding scale of salaries, designating qualifications for teaching in the several grades, and effecting the operation of the State equalization fund, the General Educational Bill was passed by the lower chamber on Wednesday without a single dissenting vote.

That portion of the bill which will most materially affect Wicomico county is that which provides for a certain sum from the State equalization fund for the use of schools. It is about equal to an eight cent tax rate. In other words, the County could possibly lower its present rate without changing the money available for school use.

TUBERCULOSIS ASSN. MEETS IN BALTIMORE

All Meetings Open To Public. Interesting And Instructive Program Has Been Arranged.

The Maryland Tuberculosis Association, located at 704 N. Howard St., Baltimore, will hold its annual meeting at Osler Hall, 1211 Cathedral St., Baltimore, on Thursday, March 16th. Dr. Henry Barton Jacobs, the president of the association, anticipates a very large attendance, as the program indicates an exceptional opportunity for those interested in the problem of Tuberculosis and its relation to public health in general.

All meetings will be open to the public. The opening session will be especially for physicians and will be in the form of a Clinical Session, to be held at the Johns Hopkins Hospital. This invitation has been extended by Dr. G. Canby Robinson, Professor of Medicine at this institution. The session will begin at 9 o'clock, in the office of Dr. Robinson, in the Surgical Building, and will consist of a short address, an X-ray conference, Ward rounds, and an attendance of the Clinic in amphitheatre.

The second session will begin at Osler Hall, at 2 o'clock, and will be a Round Table Conference, featuring county work. Subjects: County Organization; Financing Local Work and the Seal Sale; County programs and budgets; Publicity and Education; Modern Health Crusades.

In the afternoon, there will be another special meeting for Physicians, to be held at the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, 312 W. Monument Street, Baltimore. This will take place at 3 o'clock. Address by Allen W. Freeman, M. D.

There will be another meeting for Physicians and Nurses at 4:30 P. M. in the same building. Miss Lydia R. Martin, R. N., Chief of Division of Public Health Nurses, will talk on the "Physician and the Public Health Nurse."

Dinner will be served at the St. George Hotel, Cathedral and Read streets, at 6:30 P. M., after which the evening session will convene at 8 o'clock. Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, will talk on the "Solidarity of the Tuberculosis Movement."

After this address, Motion Pictures will be shown, and the meeting will be concluded by an address by Dr. James Alexander Miller, President of the National Tuberculosis Association. The last event will be an open discussion, which will be opened by the noted physician, Dr. William H. Welch, of the Johns Hopkins.

ATLAS PORTLAND CEMENT

BOTH farmer and manufacturer have learned that the highest grade products are valueless till they reach market. Roads have a direct bearing on community wealth. And, by actual proof, the poorest roads are the most expensive—a luxury even the richest community cannot afford.

The value of concrete roads is indicated by the fact that concrete roads sufficient to reach from New York to San Francisco and back again, more than twice the mileage of any previous year, were built in 1921.

The contractor and building material dealer are good judges of types of construction. They know the advantages of permanence and economy. They also know materials, and recommend Atlas Portland Cement, "The Standard by which all other makes are measured."

SHAD POINT CONFERENCE

The second Quarterly meeting of Salisbury Circuit was held at Shad Point Monday night March 6th. The meeting was fairly well attended and the Presiding Elder, Rev. F. B. McSparran was in good form. The following men made reports on the work. Rev. E. R. Burnette gave a written report of the general state of the Church. Mr. George Kersey reported on the Sunday School at St. Andrews. Mr. A. L. Brewington read the report of the Sunday school at Washington. Mr. Sherman Waller reported on the finances from St. Andrews and Mr. Howard Jenkins reported on finances from Washington. As a whole their reports were good. The following delegates were elected to the District Conference which is to be held at Cheriton, Va., April 18, 19, 20. Principals: Mr. L. L. Jones, Mr. Marshall Mitchell, and Mrs. Harold Hawkins. Alternates: Mrs. W. L. Brewington, Mrs. W. L. Livingston, Mr. John Fields, and Mrs. Edna Hudson.

BRACE UP!

Do you feel old before your time? Is your back bent and stiff? Do you suffer urinary disorders? Don't Despair—profit by Salisbury experiences. Salisbury people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor. Here's a Salisbury resident's statement.

Mrs. Alice Virginia Lohner, 318 William St., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of a very severe case of rheumatic pains. I suffered for three years, and although I doctored and used different remedies I failed to get any relief. I was almost an invalid and every joint in my body ached and pained. My knees and limbs were swollen awfully and I could scarcely bend. I had dizzy, nervous spells and would be blinded at times. The least work tired me all out. My kidneys were also disordered and caused annoyance. I was very nervous and couldn't sleep nights. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and I tried them. I used in all fourteen boxes and was cured of the trouble."

Eastern Shore Electric Service

A DAY OF REST

Most of us welcome a Sunday or a holiday as a day of rest. 'Tis then that some of us don the old clothes, putting 'round the house, working on the car or doing odds and ends of things which have been put off until just such a holiday should come. Many of us go to church. The rest of us celebrate the hours of leisure at the theatre, on a drive into the country, or at something more or less eventful. They come in mighty useful—do these holidays and Sundays. But there is one place in your community where the calendar shows no holiday printed in a welcome red figure. This place with its giant generators and turbines—with its endless wires, countless switches and busy men, never closes up, looking forward to 24 hours of nothing-to-do. Electric service means uninterrupted service—seven days in a week—fifty-two weeks in a year. Thus do we aim to serve you during your days of work or play.

"BRINGING UP FATHER IN WALL STREET"

the famous McMANUS musical comedy, is the attraction announced at the ARCADE THEATRE, One Day Only, MONDAY, MARCH 20.

This grand concoction of song, melody, smart ensembles, beautiful girls and cast of well-known musical comedy players, will come direct from the Manhattan Opera House, New York, and the Metropolitan Opera House, Philadelphia, the Homes of Grand Opera. "BRINGING UP FATHER IN WALL STREET" was greeted with tremendous crowds in New York and Philadelphia and kept the patrons of those two huge play-houses in throes of laughter for many weeks. "There is not only wit and humor, but a great deal of human nature in 'BRINGING UP FATHER,'" said David Belasco, the famous theatrical manager. It is declared to be the most pretentious and the most amusing of the "BRINGING UP FATHER" series offered so far. A capable and well-known cast of musical comedy favorites has been provided with the result that a performance unusual and diverting may be expected.

FAMOUS COMEDIAN DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Bert Williams' One Of World's Foremost Minstrels, Leaves Lasting Record Of His Art.

Bert Williams' world-famous comedian, has taken his final curtain call. To everyone here and abroad the news that Bert Williams is gone will be received with the shock of a man who has lost a friend.

Bert Williams, a universally popular star, and the unusual ability to put into his songs and stories the humorous quality and philosophy of the negro race.

A short time ago Williams summed up his secret of making people laugh in these words: "You know there is nothing so funny as seeing other people in trouble. Of course the emphasis must be placed on the fact that the trouble belongs to somebody else. A real sense of humor is to put yourself in another's place and laugh at your own misfortune."

Williams was born at New Providence, Nassau, in the British Bahama Islands. His grandfather, who was white, was born in the British Bahama Islands, and married a quadroon. When he was two years old Frederick Williams, father of the comedian, was brought to New York. Here he learned the trade of paper mache making, which brought him into contact with theatrical people. It was through this association that Bert as a boy made his first acquaintance among New York stage folk.

From New York, Frederick Williams was invited to attend a law where Bert was educated and graduated from the Riverside High School. His aim had been to become a civil engineer. His interest in the theater always had been keen, however, and unable to resist the urge he started as a member of a little company of minstrels. From that moment he progressed steadily, winning the good will of his public and the respect of his associates.

In 1905, at the Williams, Rose and Walker company, placed at the Shaftesbury Theatre, in London, Williams was invited to attend a luncheon party at Blackman Palace to entertain guests at a birthday celebration of the Prince of Wales. His dramatic and delightful comedy, that he composed until his death a favorite with his friends.

At the time of Walker, his partner, he was a permanent feature of the Williams company. He was the man who had the reputation of being the "comic" of the company. He was the man who had the reputation of being the "comic" of the company.

AN APPEAL TO REASON

Maryland has on its statute books a so-called "Full Crew Law," which requires railroads to man all freight trains of thirty (30) cars or more with crews of six (6) men, viz.: 1 Engineer, 1 Fireman, 1 Conductor, 2 Brakemen and 1 Flagman (3 Brake-men).

The movement for the enactment of "Full Crew Laws" had its origin during the period of operation under the old link and pin coupling, and hand brake systems, which preceded the installation of the automatic coupler and automatic air brake.

Brakemen were formerly required to brake by hand on the tops of freight cars, and to go between cars to couple or uncouple.

With the installation of the automatic coupler it is no longer necessary to go between cars to couple or uncouple, and by the use of the automatic air brake the train is controlled by the engineer, eliminating the necessity for braking by hand.

Formerly brakemen spent most of their time riding out on top of cars, regardless of the weather conditions, whereas now they spend nearly all of their time riding on the locomotive or in the caboose.

Therefore, there is no longer a necessity, if such ever existed, for the "third," or "additional brakeman," as required by the Maryland "Full Crew Law."

A careful analysis of the reports covering investigations of accidents made by the Maryland Public Service Commission and Interstate Commerce Commission disclosed no instance of the jeopardizing of the safety of either the public or employees, and that not one accident has been attributable to an insufficiency in the number of men comprising the crew of the train involved.

The repeal of this law will not mean more unemployment. It will mean the transfer of men from unnecessary and unproductive employment to useful and productive occupations in other departments.

PUBLIC OPINION as reflected through the PRESS of Maryland is practically unanimous for the repeal of a law which has caused the railroads to expend unnecessarily, in Maryland, in ten years in which the law has been in active effect, a total of about $2,500,000; money which is after all the public's, for the public must in the last analysis pay the bill.

The paramount interest of a railroad is "Safety First." That fact alone insures the maintenance of efficient crews; and the repealer, also, provides an additional safeguard, if such is needed, in that it leaves the Public Service Commission of Maryland in a position to order on duty the "extra man" if it is shown that safety demands such a course.

Safety, efficiency, common sense and justice all call for the repeal of the Maryland "Full Crew Law."

SPRING MILLINERY BLOOMS THIS WEEK

Local Shops And Stores Are Gaily Decked With Newest Weaves And Patterns In Hats.

Spring Millinery. Never before was there a wider choice of spring millinery than now. Every individual taste may be satisfied in shape, size, color and material.

The leading shades are Periwinkle Blue, Bobolink Tan, Corn, Sand, Jade Green, Tomato Red, Tangerine, Lipstick Red, Cape, and Oriental Blue. The combination of black and white, red and sand, also Jade and sand are extensively used this season.

Miss Marie T. Heckroth is featuring Phipp, Gage and Mac Smith, and New York dress and sport hats.

The shapes mostly used this season are from the latest picture hat to the small turned off the face hat, while the mushroom and the poke are still very good.

Some are trimmed with sweeping Rib feathers and brand trimming others with new ribbons and gaily colored flowers as usual in Spring time.

The Johnson and Penn mode hats are the attractive lines carried by Leed's and Twilley's. The shapes and colors are more beautiful than usual and the sweeping Rib feathers, brilliant flowers and ornaments warrant the demand which always exists.

Benjamin's is featuring the lines so popular with all good dressers. The Page, Oscar and Johnson hats. The materials are of fine texture, satin and straw being beautifully combined in many of the styles. All colors and trimmings are to be found in the store.

The Brian's Hats are noted for their distinctive individuality and are Thedford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficacy of Thedford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Thedford's. E. G.

23,000,000 People Ready to Buy Your Fruit!

The great markets of New York supply nearly one-quarter of the entire population of the United States with their fruits. Greater New York alone has a population of over 6,000,000, and an average of 432,000 visitors come to New York daily.

Within a radius of 50 miles from New York there are 10,000,000 people, while there are 22,901,873 people within 200 miles of the City. New York not only supplies this great army of people with their fruits, but through these markets the people of the entire United States and Canada must get their supplies of certain fruits. Great quantities of fruits are also exported.

New Yorkers spend an average of $1,200,000 in restaurants for dinner every night. The people of this great city consume every day an average of 100 cars of fruits and vegetables.

In one week, in 1920 there were 1125 carloads of California fruits sold at auction. In addition, the auction sold cargoes of bananas, Spanish onions, Porto Rico citrus fruits, Italian lemons, Cuban fruits and Florida citrus fruits.

Think what a great market this is for your fruit! And think, too, what it would mean in better prices to have an average of 1200 buyers a week bidding for your fruit, as is done when it is sold at auction!

Through our auctions we can quickly dispose of your entire crop at the best market prices. And the cost of selling by this method is less than by other methods, leaving a bigger profit for you. Another thing, you can see that we return to you every cent's fruit brings by comparing the check we send you within 24 hours after sale with the prices printed in the New York Daily Fruit Reporter. No other method gives this publicity.

Our large financial resources and twenty-six years' experience is your guarantee that all shipments sent to us will be handled fairly and expertly.

Investigate our proposition before signing up for your season's output. There is no obligation. Write today.

The greatest danger to my life,
Is when the real estate,
By which my loans have been secured,
Starts to depreciate.

For ebbing tides of commerce may
My equity erase.
Resulting in a heavy loss,
As often is the case.

Now, changes in a neighborhood,
My values aid or mar,
Yet, though the trend may upward be,
I am still worth but par.

That is, I stand a risk to lose,
But have no chance to gain—
While bonds, above their purchase price,
A profit may obtain.

To property that's "unimproved"
My answer should be "nay."
Though but a third I'm asked to loan
On values of the day.

For if possession I must take,
Good rentals help to earn
The cost of carrying until
The title I can turn.

The mortgages which I can class
'Conservative and sound'
Are good investments, but with them
The same old fault is found.

As with some of the other Gnomes:
Demand is ever great,
So that the income always tends
To yield a lower rate.

Because the applications for Such funds are quickly met,
Good mortgages for small amounts
Are difficult to get.

Once agents and attorneys were
The market for my loan.
In recent years, my choicest ones
Have found a cheaper plan.

Estates and Companies of Trust,
To which I'm largely sold,
Now skim the cream and leave my small
Investors in the cold.

So in the scramble which ensues,
Unwary buyers find,
They're saddled off with loans that are
Of quite another kind—

On "building operations" and
In sections of the town
Where properties, though looking good,
Are frequently "run down."

Then to their sorrow they learn that Confronted with the test,
Weak mortgages are slender reeds
To lean upon at best.

There are some other troubles which May most annoy me;
The names of all my "mortgagees"
Are public property.

Such private matters are indeed
Things that are hardly meet
To be the common topic for
The gossip of the street.

The transfer of my ownership
Much trouble does entail.

And when I wish to borrow, or
At bank to raise some cash,
For quick negotiability
Since title does not pass by hand—
In case of death or sale,
I might as well be trash.

The Second and Third Mortgages
Are way beyond the pale;
So I have simply chosen to Omit them from this tale.

There's little romance in my life;
Simplicity I've sought
Avoiding complications, that I might with ease be bought.

I'm just a fair investment, with
No chance of further gain.
But speaking in a general way
I'm rated "safe and sane."

Now I will yield the speaker's place
To those more versatile,
And who can in their narrative,
More interest instill.

That you've displayed the courtesy
Tonight, on me to call,
I ever shall remember, and
I thank you, one and all."

PROTECTS AUTO MEN

Senator Biggs has introduced a bill which would give garage owners a lien on automobiles left with them for storage for the cost of oil, repairs, gasoline, and accessories. It also provides a fine of $100 for any person who removes a car from a garage against which there is such a lien.

WANTS HANGINGS PRIVATE

Under the provisions of a bill introduced last week by Senator Mcintosh, all executions after January 1, 1922, would be in private and would take place at the House of Correction. None but the jury and officials would be allowed to witness the execution.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers, rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Fine for cuts, burns, bruises. Should be kept in every house. 30c and 60c. Advt.

A Safe and Profitable Investment

In making investments great care should be exercised to see that they are safe and profitable.

The stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company offers an opportunity for such an investment.

It is a safe investment because it is a nation-wide industry, economically managed, and its financial policy is sound. Each share has back of it a property value of more than $185—almost twice its par value, $100.

It is a profitable investment because the stock can be purchased on the market for about $119 the share and pays $9 each year in dividends. The dividends are paid quarterly.

We are interested in having you become a shareholder because you will make a safe and profitable investment and take a greater interest in our problems and assist us in giving the public better telephone service.

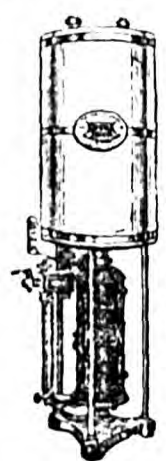

Further information will be furnished upon request.

POULTRY NOTES

BY H. W. RICKEY

CARING FOR THE HOME FLOCK

If the following suggestions are observed, little or no trouble need be experienced in the course of brooding by the natural method:

Do not move the hen with her chicks from the nest as soon as the chicks are hatched.

Do not put too many chicks with one hen.

Do not give the hen with chicks unlimited freedom of range.

Do not put two or more hens with chicks together in one room.

Do not set coops in the same ground year after year.

Do not set coops on low, damp ground.

Do not set the coops in the sun during hot weather.

Do not attempt to raise chickens in the laying house.

Keep water fountains and feed troughs clean, scald them occasionally.

Have the coops or brooder house thoroughly cleaned and disinfected with one of the liquid disinfectants and opened to sunlight at least a week or ten days before they are to be used, in order to destroy the germs of disease and any mites that may be hidden away in the cracks.

Boiling water poured into the cracks will help to rid the coops of mites.

There are several satisfactory types of coops, such as the A shaped and shell-roofed types, though a plain wooden box with sides and top covered with roofing paper will provide suitable shelter. However, during hot weather this covering makes the coop rather too warm, and for this reason, it is necessary, in warm weather, that it be set in the shade and in as cool a place as possible.

All coops, whether covered with roofing paper or not, should be well ventilated, as the young chicks need lots of fresh air. A part of the front at least should be open, with the opening covered with fine mesh wire or slats, and the top should be hinged or made separate so that it may be opened for ventilation or removed for other purposes. The coop with the hinged or moveable top has advantage over the coop with the top nailed fast; it permits the necessary handling of the chicks and the cleaning of the coops with greater ease and rapidly, and thus helps to lighten the labor and dredge of the poultry work.

While on the great majority of farms the hens with their brood are allowed the range of the fields unhampered or unfettered, better results may be had if the mother hen is confined at least during the early period of brooding to a small wire covered pen at least as wide as the coop and from three to four feet long, placed directly in front of the coop. The sides of this pen are made of 100s or narrow strips of wood nailed upright and set far enough apart to allow the chicks to run back and forth between them.

The work of feeding and caring for the chicks is made easier and the dangers from sudden storms are appreciably lessened, as the chicks are seldom caught out in the rain, but run straight for the mother hen in the coop. Thousands of growing chicks are lost each year with the hens running at large on range, but with the hen confined there need be no danger to worry about the safety of the chicks, when away from the coop during a heavy rainstorm. If one drinks from brooding the hen constantly, so that the treatment may not be humane or not best for the hen, it may be allowed to run free later in the afternoon on clear days. When a few chicks are raised in yards or in other limited areas, there would be little or no advantage in keeping the hen shut in the pen.

On farms should not be raised in the laying house as they are at times annoyed by the hens and by the lice and mites that so often infest the houses which are occupied by the laying hens. Chickens kept under such unfavorable conditions soon lose their energy.

Occasionally several hens with their broods are put together in one room and this sometimes works satisfactorily, but because of the fact that in too many instances all hens crowd into one corner at night and all chicks crowd under one and the same hen this method of brooding is not good practice, and the chicks raised in this way show the effects of these unfavorable conditions in their growth.

Many years ago I had under my supervision thirty elderly houses, each eight feet long by eight feet deep, in which were housed hens with their chicks; each house contained four hens with about twenty chicks in each house, and the circumstances mentioned above occurred. So the poultry man it was possible for us to raise to weaning time not more than 100 per cent of all chicks put in. However, three or four hens with their broods may be kept in the same room with a view to satisfaction of safety, but only when separated by wire or solid partitions or when individual coops are furnished for each hen, and these should not be set close together.

It is advisable, when using the latter plan, to keep the hens confined to their coops for a day or two, or until they know their own coops; and if the front is of wire or slats, the surroundings are in full view of the hen and she quickly gets her bearings, which would not be the case if the fronts were entirely closed. Whatever system of brooding is practiced, each hen may be expected to care for not more than from eighteen to twenty chicks at a time, though weather conditions may cause this estimate to vary somewhat; for instance during the hot weather of June or July, with a hen in a large roomy, well ventilated coop, it might be advisable to give her from twenty to twenty-five chicks, while in cold weather fifteen in one brood might be sufficient.

Weather conditions also have much to do with the location of the brood coop. The usual ill effects of the cold winds of February and March and of the summer's hot suns may be tempered by setting the coop in a sheltered place on the south side of a building, where, with its occupants, it will get the full benefit of all the sunshine possible, or by placing them on high ground and under trees, where they will be well shaded during the greater part of the warm days of late spring and summer.

A detachable board floor should be fitted inside, so that the body of the coop may be thrown back during the day, thus exposing the floor and interior to the full effects of the purifying action of the sunlight. To prevent dampness raise the coop an inch or two from the ground. The principles of cleanliness must be constantly observed. Allow no droppings to accumulate on the floor of the coop which should be kept covered with an eight of an inch of dry sand. See to it that the floors are scraped and cleaned at least twice a week. The ground immediately in front of the coop should be kept reasonably clean in order to prevent possible contamination of the soil, and then move the coops occasionally to fresh soil and sprinkle air slacked lime about the former sites.

The feeding of chicks with hens is very like the feeding of brooder chicks, a description of which was given in last Sunday's Star. At the beginning, when the chicks are taken from the nest about twenty-four hours after the hatch is completed, skim milk, whole milk or buttermilk is set before them in drinking form.

If milk is not available water may be substituted.

Twenty-four hours later the first solid food is given in the form of rolled oats. The second feeding consists of rolled oats, mixed with egg soaked hard; the third, rolled oats and the fourth, rolled oats and egg.

If eggs are not to be had, milk may be mixed with the oats. On the third day commercial chick feed or a mixture of equal parts by weight of finely cracked corn, wheat and pinhead oatmeal is fed in place of the two feedings of rolled oats.

At the end of five days a mash composed of one pound of wheat bran, one of middlings, one-quarter pound of corn meal, one-quarter pound of sifted beef scrap and about three ounces of bone meal, moistened with skim milk is used in the place of one feeding of the oats and egg and by the end of the second week the oats and egg mixture is entirely omitted. From that time on three feedings, one of mash and two of chick grain are sufficient. The grain should be well scattered and not always in the same place.

The mash should be fed in shallow troughs and about as much at each feeding as the chick will clean up in not more than fifteen minutes. Do not leave feed in the troughs for any great length of time. Furthermore, never feed sloppy feed. When feed is given to the chicks, throw a handful of whole corn to the hen; and allow her to eat all she wants of the mash. If she is confined to the coop give her a handful of tender grass or other succulent green food every day and furnish a constant supply of limestone grit. It is also a good plan to scatter chick grit around on the ground near the coop during the first few days of brooding. Fresh drinking water should also be kept before the hen and chicks at all times, and milk when it is available.

St. Lawrence Canal Proposition Meets With Disapproval of Motor Manufacturer.

All cities in Maryland and other Southern States which hope to see government aid for river and harbor improvements will be interested in the character of the big scheme which certain parties are trying to put over up North to spend hundreds of millions of our people's money in a foreign country. The daring nerve of the backers of this scheme is unequalled, and the public in general is not aware of the powerful propaganda and wirepulling which have been going on for months to force this thing through.

Mr. Ransom E. Olds of Michigan, pioneer automobile manufacturer, has had an opportunity to become familiar with some of the details of this great attempt to spend public money unwisely. His Northern business interests and the fact that his companies are enormous shippers of manufactured goods have enabled him to weigh the arguments fairly, and he has expressed strong opposition to the St. Lawrence canal project. He says:

"In these very trying times, it does not seem wise to spend several hundred millions of public money on an unwarranted or unproved scheme. The trend of the times is very well summed up in a recent magazine editorial which states that one of the horrors of the recent war is our loss of perspective in viewing public expenditures. The innocent bystander who merely pays taxes does nothing but sputter a bit, and the powerful organizations behind ill-advised projects sometimes put them over because the public opposition is not properly expressed."

"There are many points against this new project that have not been given to the general public. The difficulties of navigation below Montreal due to the heavy fogs, the seven mile current and the twenty-three foot tides at Quebec, and the fact that at best the proposed St. Lawrence Canal could not be operated practically more than three months in a year—these are strong negative arguments which the promoters would prefer to have omitted."

"I am strongly in favor of water transportation especially connection between the Great Lakes and the sea coast. A much smaller expenditure of money, say half the amount, and spent in our country, would give a route to our Eastern ports by improving and using our existing New York State Barge Canal. This Barge Canal has never carried more than one-tenth of its capacity. G. W. Maytham, of the Maytham Towing Company, stated that in his opinion ocean craft can compete with the Barge Canal service. Portions of its locks can be enlarged so that our lake steamers could go through to some point on the Hudson River below Poughkeepsie. A point that is overlooked by those behind the St. Lawrence project is the fact that ocean liners would never waste time coming fifteen hundred miles inland, as the loss in time would be too great. In fact, the whole project seems so ridiculous from an economic standpoint it scarcely seems possible enough money could be procured to put across the propaganda that has been published without the public seeing through the whole proposition."

"There is no place in the world that is blessed with such wonderful ports for transfer houses and purposes as the Hudson River, because there is a deep waterway for about seventy miles, in fact, from New York City harbor as far North as Poughkeepsie. It would be a wonderful thing if we could load our automobiles and merchandise from the Middle West on lake boats and have them delivered to any of our Eastern ports. If our lake boats could connect with transfer docks at Eastern ports and transfer their loads to ocean steamers, it would be one of the greatest benefits that could happen for our industries in the Middle West."

"At probably one-half the cost of the St. Lawrence proposition, the locks of the Barge Canal in New York state could be lengthened and the water deepened enough for our lake boats. I had a talk with one of the secretaries connected with this St. Lawrence project and he said engineers claimed it is not practical to go by way of the Barge Canal. This I consider nonsense, and only a point of the scheme to put the St. Lawrence project over, because with the waters of the Great Lakes to work with, there is practically no limit to what can be done along the New York State Barge route."

Mr. Olds quoted Governor Miller who at the Atlantic Deep Water ways meeting at Savannah, Georgia recently, denounced the proposed St. Lawrence ship canal project, involving an unwarranted expenditure of $200,000,000 or more, as "termina-

Pull The Blind For a Shine in New York

Short skirts in New York resulted in a falling-off of business for shoe shining stands catering to women trade until an inventive "Knight" of the "Brush" equipped his stand with a common window shade as is shown here. Now milady has her shoes shined with a mind quite at ease.

"foolishness" in wasting millions sadly needed for other improvements and as an attempt to realize an impossible dream, adding that our tax burden would be increased in order to promote what is only an experiment, and asserted that we should improve our own ports and waterways instead of promoting a project in a foreign country. The governor is further quoted as saying that the cost of the scheme was heralded over the country as only $250,000,000 and that this would include the development of 4,000,000 horsepower, which he said "is held out as an alluring bait to the New England States." It would be reasonable in the governor's opinion, to add at least twenty-five percent as unexpected cost, which would bring the United States' half up to more than $150,000,000 for a canal 25 feet deep. He estimated that it would cost $50,000,000 to deepen the channels and harbors of the Great Lakes to a depth of 25 feet so that the share to be borne by the United States would amount to $200,000,000, which sum is one-fifth of the total amount expended to date in improving all our rivers and harbors."

On the economic phase, Mr. Olds quoted State Senator Gibbs of New York, who said: "It is outrageous at this period of the financial crisis confronting the nations that anyone should have the audacity to ask the Government to spend a quarter of a billion dollars so that private interests can profit from a venture for which they themselves should pay. Further, Senator Gibbs is quoted as saying that 'heretofore we have taken the position that if water power is all that is desired—and there is no denying evidence accumulating to show that this is the real stake—those who desire it should apply for it on the same terms as all other applicants for licenses and, like them, should bear the cost of development.'"

Mr. Olds realizes that the advocates of the St. Lawrence route make claims as to the great relief this would give our trunk line railroads at the season of the year when wheat is moving to the seaboard, but in his opinion this is not to be counted on, because it is now canal for by present canal and railroads, and before the St. Lawrence Canal could be completed it is only reasonable to expect our railroads will have made up their deficiencies in equipment and terminal facilities. The Barge Canal can be provided with facilities sufficient to make it a double bottom in service to shippers, as there are already in operation privately owned facilities along the Atlantic coast."

In summary, Mr. Olds said that a canal of the St. Lawrence route would be a waste of money and a burden on the people. He said that the St. Lawrence project is a "pull the blind for a shine" and that it is a "foolishness" to waste millions of dollars on a project that will never be completed. He said that the St. Lawrence project is a "pull the blind for a shine" and that it is a "foolishness" to waste millions of dollars on a project that will never be completed. He said that the St. Lawrence project is a "pull the blind for a shine" and that it is a "foolishness" to waste millions of dollars on a project that will never be completed.

1. The government's expenditure of millions of public money in a foreign country at this critical time is an improvement and expenditure of money.

SENATE AMENDS BILL AFFECTING THE GUARD

Provides For Senior Line Officer To Command The Militia—Will Designate Reckord.

Two individual offices in lieu of the post of Adjutant-General of the State are created in the Senate amendment to the Militia bill, which makes the senior line officer the head of the National Guard and leaves the appointment of the Adjutant-General with each Governor, the latter officer to be more or less simply the Governor's aid without much power except in emergencies.

The amendment was prepared by Major E. Brooke Lee and Colonel A. W. W. Woodcock so that the bill might be passed in such a way as to be constitutional and at the same time meet the requirements of the Federal National Defense Act. The State Constitution provides that the Governor may appoint the Adjutant-General. The National Defense Act specifies that the Adjutant-General of the Guard must be appointed to hold office until age 64, unless removed for cause.

TOMATO CONTRACTS FOR STABILIZATION

Representative Growers and Packers Meet In Baltimore To Discuss Future Of Industry.

Stabilization of the tomato growing and canning industry in Maryland was the object of a meeting held last week at the Rennett Hotel in Baltimore at which gathered representative growers and packers from all parts of the State. No definite action was taken because the representatives at the meeting stated they wanted public opinion from the whole State.

One factor by which uncertainty might be eliminated, it is thought, would be the operation of contracts between associations of growers and packers. Under such a system, canners could sell futures to jobbers, and jobbers sell futures to retailers, without risk, and the packer would then be able to finance his business. As for the farmer, the price would be agreed upon before planting and he could dispose of all his crop at a price that would yield a profit. It was also pointed out that possibly the farmer has failed to get the profits he should because he does not get the largest yield per acre. Information regarding the best methods of growing tomatoes will, it is probable, be broadly disseminated as a result of the meeting.

The most objectionable feature of the contract feature is that in years when crops are not heavy, farmers who do not make contracts are able to go on the open market and sell their product at a far greater profit than the man who is bound by agreement to sell for a specified price. A contract binding the canner not to take any tomatoes except those contracted for before the season, might be mutually beneficial toward eliminating this feature.

8. The operating cost of ocean steamers through such canal under the most favorable circumstances would be far greater than the cost of transporting grain through elevators to ocean ships at a real ocean port.

9. Insurance rates on the St. Lawrence River are much higher than for Atlantic ports, especially in the fall and spring, when dangers of fog and ice are most pronounced.

10. That as a power proposition, even if it could be justified on economic grounds, it is not one for which the government of the United States would be justified in pledging its credit, or spending the money of its people, raised by taxation.

11. Since private capital has not displayed any willingness to furnish capital for the canal, it is apparent

$10,000.00 CASH BIRMINGHAM CHALLENGE

This sum will be placed in the hands of any local Bank by Birmingham Motors, of Falconer, N. Y., against a like amount to back up this challenge.

"That the BIRMINGHAM is the easiest riding car in the United States. That it will go over rough roads faster with safety than any other car, regardless of price or make. Contestants must follow the Birmingham at the same rate of speed over a road constructed by us and designed to test the strength and riding qualities of a car under exceptionally rough conditions. Open to any and all makes of cars."

BIRMINGHAM cars have arrived in Salisbury for demonstration and will meet all comers.

Many of the World's famous cars are expected to contest the claims of The BIRMINGHAM Challenger.

It will be the greatest demonstration of fierce fighting for supremacy in automobile history. Don't fail to see it. Likely never again to be repeated. See Automobile History made, and remember, there is $10,000.00 cash that the BIRMINGHAM is the easiest riding car ever built.

Birmingham Motors expressly states that it will not be responsible for damages on account of death or injury to any one connected with those who contest our challenge.

These cars are beautiful of line and finish, 30% to 50% lighter than any car of the same wheel base. Be sure to see them put through sensational performance tests that would wreck other cars.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help other women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past."—Mrs. E. I. GALLOWAY, Carter's Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are up and about, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. We believe it will help you greatly, for it has helped others.

Kiddies' Colds Can Be Eased Quickly

Dr. King's New Discovery will do that very thing, easily and quickly. Don't say, "Poor little kiddie, I wish I knew what to do for you." When the cough first comes, give a little Dr. King's New Discovery as directed, and it will soon be eased.

It's a good family cough and cold remedy, too. Loosens up the phlegm, clears up the cough, relieves the congestion. No harmful drugs. For fifty years a standard remedy for colds, coughs, croup, etc. At your druggists, 50c a bottle.

Dr. King's New Discovery For Colds and Coughs

Constipated? Here's Relief! Cleanse the system with Dr. King's Pills. They prompt free bowels, stir up the lazy liver and get at the root of the trouble. All druggists, 25c.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Phillips and son Jennings of Oxford are spending a few days with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. E. R. Bennett.

Captain Phillip Covington, for many years a resident of Tyaskin, died at Cambridge on Thursday of last week at the age of 84 years. He is survived by three children, Phillip Covington, Jr., and Mrs. William Denton, both of Baltimore and Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes of Cambridge, at whose home the funeral was held on Friday afternoon and interment made at Cambridge.

Miss Ruth Beach of Columbia spent several days last week as the guest of Miss Lena Cooper.

Captain Roland C. Lowe has just graduated from the Baltimore Nautical school and is now a licensed navigator with authority to navigate vessels of all tonnage on all seas.

Captain Clarence Robinson is home from Philadelphia for a few days.

Captain and Mrs. Luther Lankford, Atley Lankford, Mrs. Rob. Russell, Mrs. Beulah Wilkinson, Capt. and Edward Lowe and daughter, Miss Marie, attended the burial on Wednesday of last week of James Hurley, Golden Hill, Dorchester county.

Paul English in working a force of men cutting gum timber on the Spencer Walter tract, found a singular freak of nature. A cypress, about six inches in diameter, standing about ten feet high had a cluster of well-formed roots growing from the top, the roots being as perfect as if dug from the earth. The cypress was alive, but was bare of limbs.

John Smith and family and B. H. Phillips and family of Salisbury, spent Sunday with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. Mary Banks of Salisbury is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Edith Robinson.

Miss Olive Caulk returned to the State Normal School on Monday.

Mrs. Belva Brenderville and son of New York are the guests of her sister, Mrs. Oland Gravenor.

Mrs. E. A. Brody is displaying a large stock of Spring millinery.

Thomas E. Phillips has purchased a Chevrolet sedan.

Misses Blanch Bennett and Daisy Windsor, delegates to the Young People's Conference at Salisbury, made their report to the M. E. Sunday school on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Blanch in the main room and Miss Daisy in the primary department. The reports covered the entire program and the delegates were highly complimented for the splendid reports brought back to the school.

Paul Robinson and family of Laurel, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Muddox of Pocomoke City, were the guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gordy.

Mrs. Wilson Wright of Mardela was the Sunday guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Twilley.

Miss Florence Covington left Tuesday for Berlin to fill one week's engagement at the Globe theatre. Miss Covington is an excellent pianist and has filled very acceptably some important engagements to play and to sing. She has a sweet voice and is indeed a fine entertainer in vocal as well as instrumental music. Added to this is a splendid character and she is one of our very popular girls.

Phosphate is now coming in and farmers are getting ready for spring planting. Only a few peas will be planted and the usual small acreage of Irish potatoes, but all farmers are getting their potato bed ready and if nothing prevents the growth of sprouts the sweet potato acreage will be very large. Farm labor has come down and the fertilizer has been reduced very much and the salesmen are busy every day and have made a pretty thorough canvass of the entire community. A greater variety of crops will be cultivated this year than for several years and it is quite likely that some of them will yield good profits, if not all.

Numbers of busy ladies have taken time off this week to visit the large department store of J. P. Cooper & Co. and witness the cooking stove demonstration.

When C. H. Cooper, who lives on the stone road near here, went out one morning last week he found an automobile in his barn yard and it is still there at this writing and the name of the owner not yet known. Mr. Cooper stated if he had mules enough to pull the car he would take a ride.

Excellent Remedy for Constipation. It would be hard to find a better remedy for constipation than Chamberlain's Tablets. They are easy to take and mild and gentle in effect. Give them a trial when you have need.

ROYAL QUALITY SERVICE

In Salisbury and Vicinity

The Royal, with its attachments, is a complete housecleaning plan that cleans everything. Its use means a thoroughly clean bright home, free from the menace of germ-laden dirt.

The Royal cleans by air alone; instead of wearing out your floor coverings, as brooms and carpet sweepers do with their constantly grinding friction, the Royal, by gently drawing out the dust and dirt by air actually prevents wear and keeps carpets, rugs and all other fabrics in prime condition.

There Are No Brushes in The ROYAL—Only Air Is Used in Cleaning

The Royal sells at this store for $55.00 on the club plan and $50.00 for cash—this price does not include attachments.

RENEWED TESTIMONY.

No one in Salisbury who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Salisbury man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Salisbury resident can doubt.

John H. Connelly, 305 E. Isabella St., Salisbury, says: "Some years ago I had kidney trouble and began to suffer from a very annoying kidney irregularity. My back was weak, too. I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave lasting relief. I always keep Doan's on hand and would certainly use them should I have any return of kidney trouble."

The above statement was given January 5, 1909, and on January 8, 1921, Mr. Connelly said: "Doan's Kidney Pills is an old standard remedy with me. If my kidneys get out of order the first thing I think of is Doan's for they never fail to do the work."

CITIZENSHIP: AN INTERPRETATION.

Some people live in Salisbury; other people vote here and take an active and intelligent interest in municipal problems. The first are sojourners in the city; the second are citizens of Salisbury.

At the coming primary election, on April 11, there will be nominated for office four men in whose hand will lie the fortunes of the city, to greater or less degree, for the next two years. Who these representatives may be, how well they may represent the majority of citizens, depends absolutely upon the citizens themselves.

It is the privilege of every citizen to vote for candidates for public office. It is more than a privilege; it is a duty, for a right implies a duty just as a duty implies a right.

The registration books of the city show that very few women are qualified to vote in the approaching election. That more of them are not registered is, perhaps, due to a misunderstanding. The majority of the newly franchised voters registered for the last general election and they no doubt believe that they will be allowed to vote in the April primaries under that registration.

The law, however, specifies otherwise. To vote in the city election, the voter must be registered on the municipal registration books. The days set for registration are Monday, March 27, and Monday, April 3. The citizens of Salisbury should, on these days, protect their privilege by having their names properly inscribed on the books so that on April 11 they can make a personal choice of the candidates in the field. Only by so doing can the city be assured of successful government.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SPEAKS.

In spite of reiterated assertions that the business men of this country are unalterably opposed to any form of adjusted compensation for ex-service men, that is for the so-called "bonus," the recent referendum on the question conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce shows that the business people of the United States are overwhelmingly in favor of such compensation. The highest number of votes cast on any one phase of the matter was 1701.

The American Legion is authority for the statement that: "By votes of three to one, three of the five options in the Adjusted Compensation Bill were unequivocally indorsed. The chambers went on record in favor of giving aid to veterans in acquiring farm or city homes, vocational education or settling on reclaimed lands."

"More than one-third—almost one-half—of all the affiliated commerce bodies voted flatly in favor of the cash and insurance options of the Legion's bill in spite of the fact that the primary purpose of the referendum apparently was to secure an overwhelming expression against the cash and insurance options."

"A large number of local bodies refused to vote in the referendum on the ground that the questions were unfairly framed, and many of these dissenting bodies expressed their true sentiments by passing resolutions indorsing the Adjusted Compensation Bill as a whole."

"Settlement on reclaimed lands. For, 1,249. Against, 452. Home and farm aid. For, 1,022. Against, 316. Vocational training. For, 1,378. Against, 316. Cash or insurance. For, 467. Against, 1,221."

These results, it is believed, are the index to the nation's real attitude on the compensation question and they are results that speak for themselves. The pernicious propaganda of Wall Street has availed nothing. The ballot on the referendum of the Chamber of Commerce shows once for all time that the business people of this country are with the veteran.

A SERVICE FOR THE COUNTY.

The fire at Hebron on Tuesday afternoon demonstrated one thing conclusively: if the Salisbury Fire Department is to answer calls from out-of-town, the County Commissioners should make some provision in their budget for carrying part of the expenses incidental to such service.

The chemical truck, which has been in operation about three years, has answered fifteen calls outside the city limits, entailing on the municipal taxpayers an expense which is not rightfully theirs. If such service is to be continued, the County should help maintain the Department.

In order to make such service 100% efficient, the chemical engine should be equipped with pneumatic tires. The solid tires on it at present are admirably adapted for use in the city, but for long runs along the country roads, they are positively harmful. On the trip Tuesday, several rods were bent and a number of bolts were loosened, necessitating minor repairs that would have been unnecessary had the truck used inflated tires.

It is understood that the firemen will send a delegation before the County Commissioners shortly to ask for some aid on their part. We most respectfully urge that this delegation be given the fullest consideration.

FROM A BY-PRODUCT TO AN INDUSTRY.

Time was when every house had its yard full of scratching chickens. As a food supply for the family, they helped.

With the passing of time and the subsequent development of the country, cities grew where communities had existed. Quite naturally, neither time nor room could be spared for tending chickens.

On the other hand, the farmers, in their efforts to appease the ravenous appetite of the busy cities, turned their attention and labor to producing profitable provisions. Poultry raising as a paying business was unthought of or carried on on a small scale.

With the advent of the poultry farmer—generally a rich man with a hobby and some knowledge of chickens—came the first step in the recognition of the farmyard fowl as a possible source of profit.

As the farmer took to breeding and cross breeding, gradually he produced stronger and better chickens, better layers, better flesh, better feathers, better broilers.

Close on his heels came the business man, eye wide open for a paying proposition. His shrewd intellect saw a great future in poultry, and he stepped in.

The breeder and the business man combined. The former donated his knowledge of breeding and raising; the latter applied his commercial instincts to the marketing. The result was inevitable.

Interest has grown to the extent where national and state farm organizations have begun to cooperate with the breeders. Colleges have established poultry farms, where science is applied to the culture of chickens.

Poultry raising has come into its own.

Speaking of the Taylor murder, the New York American says detectives have found "Clue in Cocktail Glasses." "Nothing strange there. You can find most anything in a cocktail these days."

Senator C. R. Disharoon Eulogizes Former Senator M. V. Brewington.

Mr. President:

In the midst of our busy times here we pause today to pay tribute to the memory of those who once occupied seats in this Senate Chamber, and whose kindly pilgrimage has come to a close. Although they have been removed from the scene of active life by the immutable and unrelenting laws of nature, they have left behind them something which is indestructible, which lives on and on as the fleeting years go by. By their lives of service to the Common weal, by their devotion to duty, by their exemplary manner of living, they have endeared themselves to us, their memory still endures, and we can truly say, "they are gone, but not forgotten."

Mr. President, since the adjourning of the last General Assembly, there has been removed from our midst one who in former years was a very familiar figure in the halls of legislation of the State of Maryland. I refer, Mr. President, to ex-Senator Marion V. Brewington, of Salisbury, Wicomico County. Born in that county in the year 1866, we find him at fourteen years of age entering as an apprentice one of the printing offices of Salisbury. Here he prepared himself for his life work. In the year 1891, he with his brother established "The Wicomico News," a weekly paper, to the splendid success of which his energy, perseverance and ability was a large contributing factor. He was a true example of the self-made man. In 1899, he was elected a seat in this august body. In 1903, he was returned by his constituents by a flattering majority, thus serving his state as a Senator from his native county for eight years. He was an able debater and served on many important committees. He was esteemed very highly in the Councils of his party, and his advice was frequently sought. A Democrat by faith, he was always in the front rank contending for the principles he believed right and advocating the passage of measures which he deemed would advance the best interests of his County and State.

It was not, however, Mr. President, in his public life alone that we knew and respected him. We were fortunate in being his next-door neighbor, and it is often from the personal viewpoint that we are best able to judge the real worth of a man. In his home life, he was a model husband and father. Unless permitted as I was to see him in his home, one would likely fail to appreciate the charming domestic side of his nature. He had a generous heart, and was conspicuously helpful and charitable to the unfortunate. Prominent in all his affairs, he took a deep interest in the growth and progress of his native town and county, and his wise counsel was constantly sought. In July, 1920, the Call came to him, and we can truly cherish the hope that his good record may be our inheritance.

Today we deeply feel and mourn his loss, and we extend to his family and friends the loving hand of sympathy.

Mr. President, I move the Senate resolution to the memory of Hon. Marion V. Brewington be adopted.

W. J. BREWINGTON BUYS MARYLANDER & HERALD

Walter J. Brewington, owner of the Wicomico News, has purchased the Marylander and Herald, a weekly paper, from the estate of the late William H. Brewington. The paper was founded in 1896 and was published by Mr. Brewington until his death in 1920. It has since been published by Mr. Brewington's son, Harry Brewington, and a member of the late Senator Brewington's family.

The Marylander and Herald is the only county newspaper published at Princess Anne. It is one of the oldest county papers in the State. As the life of the paper has been associated with its present proprietor, it is a sad loss to the community. The Wicomico News, which was established in 1891, and the Marylander and Herald, which was established in 1896, are the only two papers published in Wicomico County.

JONES DENIES RUMOR.

Being a candidate for Mayor of Salisbury, as announced thru the town papers, I feel the proper time has arrived to make a statement as to my attitude if elected to serve the people of Salisbury as Mayor. I believe the service rendered the City during my former connection with its affairs is sufficient guarantee to its citizens that if elected I will give it an economic, business-like administration.

I desire to bring to your attention a few of the things, the credit for which does not belong to me although they were accomplished during the time of my connection with the City's affairs. Paved and sewerd South Division, East Main, Mill and Camden Streets and Railroad Avenue. Hundreds of yards of curb and gutter laid, opened Main Street, treated all soiled streets with tarvin, giving to them a hard surface, getting rid of the shell dust nuisance. Motor and the Fire Department, making it second to none in the state, and etc.

A number of rumors have reached my ears, the origin of which I am uncertain, to the effect that I am against the Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce and Order of Masons and that if elected I will turn all freight to Mill St. Station. I deny this and want to say most emphatically to the citizens of Salisbury that I stand shoulder to shoulder, and will work with any individual, organization or association that has the interest of Salisbury at heart and you may depend on that regardless of whether I act in the capacity of Mayor or as a private citizen.

Another rumor which is persistently being spread is that I was brought in this contest by a certain element of the party or by a group of individuals. Thus I most emphatically deny this. I came out as a candidate for Mayor without consulting any individual, after urgent requests from citizens from all parts of the town and do not represent any faction or individual, and if elected I shall administer the affairs that come under my jurisdiction for the benefit of all the citizens of Salisbury. This was my policy when in the City's affairs before and will be my policy if elected Mayor this time.

pass two or three years or more of service to the county and the State. A MEMBER OF COMPANY "I."

I. E. JONES.

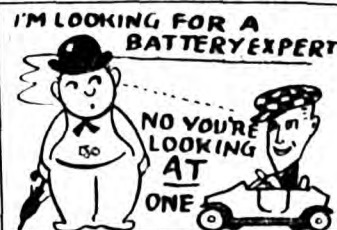

ANSWERS W. C. T. U.

Editor Wicomico News:

In reading a recent issue of The Wicomico News, I noticed that a delegation representing the W. C. T. U. of this city had called on the commanding officer of Company "I" to protest against the boxing matches being held under the auspices of the Company, giving as their reason the fact that they wish to make Salisbury a clean city.

I, for one, and I believe that there are quite a number of others, judging from the crowded audiences we have made up of people from this community, cannot see any harm in the matches that Company "I" is having in the Armory. Everything is carried on in a clean, quiet, sportsmanlike manner, and I believe that every one going to these matches thoroughly enjoys himself and leaves none the worse for the evening's entertainment.

The money taken in on these occasions goes into the Company Fund to be spent for the benefit of the Company. I do not believe that the W. C. T. U. or any one else would try to deprive the boys of Company "I" of any means that they have of making a little money to make the Armory a more attractive place in which to Large Attendance At Court Fills Rooms And Overflows Into Corridors.

Crowds thronged the Court House this week to hear the trial of criminal cases, in all of which, with one exception, the verdict was guilty. The exception was the case of A. Vernon Taylor who was charged with wife desertion. He was dismissed.

Charged with sodomy, Edward Ryall, of Fruitland, was tried without jury before the court. Only members of bar were present as the evidence offered, it is understood, was too revolting to be made public. The verdict in the Ryall case has not yet been announced.

In a collision case, Robinson versus Parker, Parker was awarded a judgment of $325. It is reported that a motion has been made for a new trial and that the case will probably go to the Court of Appeals.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear son, John Wimer Davis Jr., who fell asleep in Jesus, Easter Sunday, March 27, 1921. Just one year ago today. God took my darling boy away. It will not be long, my son, to wait. Before mother will meet you at the Golden Gates. Some time, some day, my eyes shall see. The face I love so well; Some day his hands shall clasp in mine. Never to say farewell. He left me sad and lonely. Without saying good-bye. But I hope and wait to meet him. In his home beyond the sky. I do not know the pain he bore, I did not see him die. Only know he passed away. And could not say good-bye. Gone in the best of his days. Bright in the heart of his home. Gone from the heart that loved him so.

To stand in a silent tomb. Your picture I look at each day. And looking in your dear, blue eyes, they seem to say. Don't grieve so hard for me dear mother. For we will meet again, some day. By his loving Mother. One year ago the sun was shining. And the sky a heavenly blue. And then my heart was light and cheerful. Because dear brother, I then had you. 419 By Brother Howard.

COOPER William H. H., age seven, five, died on February 23, 1922, at his home near Allen, after a long and useful life. He was buried on February 25 in the Allen church yard. Dr. R. A. Boyle of Salisbury and Rev. Herman of Allen officiating the services. He was a member of the Allen church.

He leaves to mourn a widow, who was Miss Isabel Harcum before her marriage, and ten children: Mrs. B. J. Phillips of Hebron; Mrs. P. E. Smith and Mrs. Clarence Haines of Baltimore; Miss John Davis of Tommy, Md.; Miss Mary Davis of Tommy, Md.; Miss Daisy Cooper Haines of Russellville, Ark.; Miss Marian Mosick of Quantico; Miss Jack Stout of Philadelphia; Mr. Clifford Cooper of Allen; Mr. Grover Cooper of Pittsburgh; and Miss Blossom Cooper who made her home with her parents.

Surviving not also are two sisters: Mrs. Letta Phillips of Hebron and Mrs. Ellen Taylor; one brother, Mr. Frank Cooper of Virginia; and twenty-three grandchildren.

About thirty-five years ago, he saved one of the most notable characters during which he ably represented his constituents. He had a last acquaintance and many friends who, with his family, mourn him.

HEATWOLE Again the hand of the death angel has opened the door for the passing of a brave, beautiful spirit into that larger room of our Father's House. The many friends of Mrs. Mollie Heatwole were deeply grieved to learn that on Friday evening at seven o'clock, March 17th, she was finally forced to yield in that great contest in which she had fought so long, so cheerfully and so courageously. Funeral services were conducted at her late home on Poplar Hill avenue, Monday afternoon, March 20th, at 2:00 P. M. by Dr. J. T. Heron. Burial was in Parsons cemetery.

Mrs. Heatwole was born in Gum-boro, Del., in 1878 and was the daughter of the late Mr. James E. Betts and Mrs. Lenora A. Betts. She was graduated from the Wicomico High School in 1899 and spent one year at the Bowling Green Female Seminary of Va. She taught for thirteen years in Wicomico county, six years at Rydall and seven years in Salisbury. During Christmas week of 1912, Miss Betts was stricken with a well known osteopathic physician, Dr. W. S. Heatwole. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Betts, her husband, Dr. Heatwole and two children, Edwina and Robert Martindale.

Mrs. Heatwole was of a genial and sympathetic disposition and always a kindly generous interest in all that concerned her friends. Her distinguished trait, however, was her deep devotion to all claims of duty and of affection. She was a devoted daughter and sister. For the past fourteen years she was a faithful Christian and a devoted member of a busy M. E. Church. As a teacher her interest in her pupils did not cease with the closing of her school room door, but she felt an abiding concern for their welfare and advancement. She was a devoted mother. Her absorbed and beautiful devotion to her home and her family will be to them a memory of priceless value in future years. Her leaving us is a loss to all, and the entire community extends to Dr. Heatwole, her mother and the children, a sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

As a teacher her interest in her pupils did not cease with the closing of her school room door, but she felt an abiding concern for their welfare and advancement. She was a devoted mother. Her absorbed and beautiful devotion to her home and her family will be to them a memory of priceless value in future years. Her leaving us is a loss to all, and the entire community extends to Dr. Heatwole, her mother and the children, a sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

HEATWOLE Again the hand of the death angel has opened the door for the passing of a brave, beautiful spirit into that larger room of our Father's House. The many friends of Mrs. Mollie Heatwole were deeply grieved to learn that on Friday evening at seven o'clock, March 17th, she was finally forced to yield in that great contest in which she had fought so long, so cheerfully and so courageously. Funeral services were conducted at her late home on Poplar Hill avenue, Monday afternoon, March 20th, at 2:00 P. M. by Dr. J. T. Heron. Burial was in Parsons cemetery.

Mrs. Heatwole was born in Gum-boro, Del., in 1878 and was the daughter of the late Mr. James E. Betts and Mrs. Lenora A. Betts. She was graduated from the Wicomico High School in 1899 and spent one year at the Bowling Green Female Seminary of Va. She taught for thirteen years in Wicomico county, six years at Rydall and seven years in Salisbury. During Christmas week of 1912, Miss Betts was stricken with a well known osteopathic physician, Dr. W. S. Heatwole. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Betts, her husband, Dr. Heatwole and two children, Edwina and Robert Martindale.

Mrs. Heatwole was of a genial and sympathetic disposition and always a kindly generous interest in all that concerned her friends. Her distinguished trait, however, was her deep devotion to all claims of duty and of affection. She was a devoted daughter and sister. For the past fourteen years she was a faithful Christian and a devoted member of a busy M. E. Church. As a teacher her interest in her pupils did not cease with the closing of her school room door, but she felt an abiding concern for their welfare and advancement. She was a devoted mother. Her absorbed and beautiful devotion to her home and her family will be to them a memory of priceless value in future years. A Convincing Warning for Auto Speeders

At a railroad crossing in Texas has been erected a unique "Stop—Look—Listen" warning, as shown above. Perched high on its specially constructed pedestal, the wreck of an auto, with which some foolish driver once tried to beat a train to a crossing, presents a convincing argument for care and caution.

Business Improvement Was Seen In January

Figures received up to February 20 by the Department of Commerce for the "Survey of Current Business" show clearly that commerce and industry as a whole made further gains during January.

The consumption of cotton by mills increased from 511,800 bales in December to 526,552 bales, while a year ago the January consumption was only 366,270 bales.

Reports in lumber production so far available indicate an increase over December and a very large increase over a year ago. Prices of building and building material remained relatively stationary.

There was an increase in the price of most farm products, which have been low in comparison with other commodities. Wool, all live stock and all grains, except rye, shared in this advance. Stocks and market movement of wheat declined as is usual at this time of year, but receipts and shipments of corn were the largest recorded for any month in recent years. Receipts and slaughter of all live stock were larger than in December, but, with the exception of cattle, were smaller than a year ago.

Bank clearings and chain-store sales record the expected drop after the December holiday trade. Bills discounted by Federal Reserve Banks dropped from $1,180,000,000 to only $850,000,000 indicating that such increases as are taking place in business are not calling heavily on the banks for loans. Federal Reserve Bank reserve increased nearly $70,000,000, bringing the total well above the $3,000,000,000 mark for the first time.

CAMPAIGN STARTED TO BOOST BUILDING

Local Firms Join National Housing Movement; Intensive Construction Planned.

A lively activity this spring in building in Salisbury is indicated by the interest which is being taken locally in a movement for more and better houses, sponsored by a number of local business men. For several years building has been below normal, but the low price to which most building material has dropped and the abundance of labor available for construction purposes, makes it probable that with the added stimulus of this "Build with the Bird" campaign, which is now being started, there will be a building boom such as this community has not experienced in years.

It is really to the interest of the entire community that as many new houses be built this spring as are needed and that they be as attractive and well designed as it is possible to make them. There is nothing which so marks a city as a desirable place to live and rear a family as to be known as a city of attractive homes.

A healthy revival of building at this time would aid materially to the prosperity of almost every line of business in this city. Whenever people build homes they immediately begin to need all the other things that go with it, and to make up the comforts of home life, and there is scarcely a commercial enterprise in the community that is not called into service.

The campaign here in Salisbury is simply a part of a very general movement all over the country to promote building with a view to relieving the house shortage, which has seriously affected living conditions in many localities. Many people who have been expecting to build and were financially able to do so have been holding off until prices of material and labor became more reasonable. Men who are familiar with conditions believe that most of the adjustments have been completed and that prices have reached a stage where there can be no objection in longer delaying.

The local dealers in building and home furnishing materials are lending their hearty support to this campaign and will be glad to assist with suggestions or advise with anyone who is considering building this spring. The logan "Build with the Birds" has been adopted and it is urged that wherever possible people make their plans early for their building or repairing this spring.

Two Thousand Visit Arcade Cigar Store

George's Opened Saturday As A Full-Fledged Branch Of The United Cigar Stores Company.

Nearly two thousand visitors called Saturday when the store opened as an official branch of the United Cigar Stores Company. Each visitor received an attractive souvenir in the nature of a brass ash tray or nest of ash trays.

The store is being remodeled and re-arranged in such a way that the large crowds a customer to congregate there can be handled with some degree of facility. The large display window is being given a background that will add much to its attractiveness. Coupons given now with purchases will be redeemable at the store.

MEMORIAL TO MAKEMIE AND TABLET UNVEILED

A worthy tribute was paid to Francis Makemie, founder of the Presbyterian church in America, when on Sunday last, March 12th, special services were held at Manokin Presbyterian church, Princess Anne, to commemorate the 250th anniversary of the church. At the same time a memorial to Makemie and a tablet bearing interesting church history were unveiled.

The church was organized by Makemie in 1683, but on the spot where the old church stands, Robert Mad-dox preached in 1672 from that time until the present the spot became designated as the place of worship and it was there that the church was built. The church derived its name from the Manokin river, beside which it is located.

At the service last Sunday the memorial sermon was preached by Rev. Jesse Penney Martin, Ph. D. D. D. and the services were very appropriate. A beautiful stained glass window on the east end of the church, a memorial to Makemie, was unveiled, as well as a bronze tablet under the window. —Crisfield Times.

A DAY OF REST

Most of us welcome a Sunday or a holiday as a day of rest. 'Tis then that some of us don the old clothes, putting round the house, working on the car or doing odds and ends of things which have been put off until just such a holiday should come. Many of us go to church. The rest of us celebrate the hours of leisure at the theatre, on a drive into the country, or at something more or less eventful. They come in mighty useful—do these holidays and Sunday's. But there is one place in your community where the calendar shows no holiday printed in a wicker red figure. This place with its giant generators and turbines—with its endless wires, countless switches and busy men, never closes up, looking forward to 24 hours of nothing-to-do. Electric service means uninterrupted service—seven days in a week—fifty-two weeks in a year. Thus do we aim to serve you during your days of work or play.

POULTRY NOTES

BY H. W. RICKEY

Poultry Specialist, Maryland State College, College Park, Md.

After fifteen years of active work with poultry under many different conditions and in various sections of this country and Canada, I frankly state that I am undecided as to just what effect lice in moderate numbers have upon matured fowls, but I have a definite and positive opinion as to their effects upon young chicks. I have seen hens, with these parasites crawling about over their bodies, apparently strong and vigorous and laying consistently. But, as to the young stock, we have sufficient evidence to prove conclusively that the effect of lice upon them is most harmful and often fatal, and the younger the chicks the more easily and seriously they are affected. In view of these facts we should look with suspicion upon the presence of lice on poultry of all kinds.

Death and disease are often attributed to lice infestation when, in reality, the presence of the parasites is due primarily to the weakened condition of the fowls, brought about by lice which in a measure prevents them from properly protecting themselves against vermin.

Like the mites, lice multiply rapidly in warm weather, but, unlike the mites, they live constantly on their host, and do not feed on the blood of the fowl. The food of the lice is the dead skin (the waste material of the body) and parts of the plumage. Many different species of lice are found on domestic fowls and about a dozen on chickens alone, most of which confine their activities to restricted areas. All of these parasites belong to that group of insects called "Mallophaga," others known as bird lice or biting lice. Their bodies are more or less elongated and flattened and covered with a hard protective skin covering.

The most common of all the chicken lice, according to Lamson and Munter, is the large body louse, which lives and feeds entirely upon the skin of the body of the host, and without doubt, when badly infested, the skin is sometimes irritated; it becomes inflamed and sore and the surface, but as to whether this condition is in every case caused by the biting of the lice or by the picking and scratching of the fowls themselves, induced by the attacks of the lice, I am unable to say. The color of the body louse is yellow or straw color, often with dark spots in the center; these dark spots are due to the food in the abdomen. The small body louse, or the shaft louse, so named by Bishop and Wood because of the fact that it lives for the most part on the shafts of the feathers, is very like the large body louse except that it is smaller and lighter in color, and is found particularly on the breast and back feathers of well feathered chickens and adult fowls. Another species of lice living primarily on the large wing feathers, but also found on the back, huckle and tail feathers, is the wing louse. It can be rather easily distinguished by its gray color and slender body. Another very common species and one which doubtless rivals the large body louse in its attack upon both young chicks and older birds, and which is especially injurious to the former, is the very small, slender, dark gray louse known as the head louse. This louse, while it apparently feeds on the scales of the skin, lives on the feathers on the top and back of the head, although it is sometimes found in other regions. The parasite, which migrates from the hen to her chicks, does not breed or multiply quite so rapidly as some of the other species, but rapidly enough to injure the young chick soon after infestation begins, and every experienced poultryman knows that if the affected chicks are to be saved from death these little insects must be quickly gotten rid of.

Besides the lice described above, which makes chickens their hosts, there are several other so-called "chicken lice" and also certain lice which infest turkeys, ducks and guineas. Those which live on turkeys alone are the large turkey louse and the slender turkey louse, both of which for the most part remain on the plumage, and, while usually harmful to well grown fowls, often seriously affect young stock; in fact, poult seem to succumb more quickly than do young chickens. Strong, vigorous fowls of all kinds, under favorable conditions, seem to protect themselves largely by taking advantage of the dust bath. The effect of the dust is to clog the breathing pores in the body covering of the lice, destroying them by suffocation. The common practice in controlling lice on fowls in small flocks is to powder both the young and the stock with a good commercial louse powder such as can be had from any reputable dealer in poultry supplies. With large flocks and on the commercial farms reliance is placed upon cleanliness, combined with the use of the dust bath within the laying houses and on the range, and with the spraying of insecticides as previously described, and as most chicks on such farms are brooded artificially and away from the laying houses and the adult fowls it does away, to a great extent, with lice infestations. But with chicks with hens the danger of such infestation is always present, and a close watch should be kept upon them for signs of the lice, which lay their eggs on the feathers, to which they become firmly fixed, and which are usually found near the base of the feathers and often in bunches or clusters especially around the vent.

The eggs of the louse hatch under favorable conditions, within from four to seven days, and the lice reach maturity within from fifteen to seventeen days, the time varying somewhat with the different species.

In 1916 Prof. Lamson, at Storrs, recommended the poisoning of lice on poultry by the use of mercurial ointment or blue ointment. The former substance contains about 60 per cent of mercury, the active poison; blue ointment is mercurial ointment diluted with vasoline. This can be cheaply made by purchasing the mercurial ointment and mixing it thoroughly with vasoline in the proportions of one part of the former to one or two of the latter. Either mixture will be found effective. This material is applied in small quantities to the skin, under the vent of the larger growing chickens and under the wings of the younger chickens. It was found in the course of one of the official tests that shortly after the application of the blue ointment no lice remained, and, according to Prof. Lamson, the lice hatched from eggs laid before the application of the ointment will also be destroyed or driven off.

The United States Department of Agriculture is encouraging the use of a powder known as sodium fluorid, which, in comparative tests with other powders, conducted by H. C. Bishop and H. P. Wood of the department, has been shown to be the most effective louse exterminator known. The tests in the laboratory demonstrated the lasting qualities of the fluorid, which remains on the fowls, for some time, or long enough to kill all lice as they are hatched from the eggs. It is recommended that the powder be rubbed into the feathers well down to the skin, on the back of the head, on the back, neck, thighs, under the wings and around the vent. The commercial sodium fluorid may be dissolved in water, in the proportions of one ounce of the powder to one gallon of water, and then used as a dip. If the commercial fluorid is not available the chemically pure, a crystallized form, may be used instead, with two-thirds of an ounce of the crystals to one gallon of water. The infested fowls are dipped into the liquid several times, the operator holding on to the wings near the body. The head is then put under, but only for a very short time. The objections made to dipping, in the past, are overcome with the use of sodium fluorid mixture; the fowls are not soiled or harmed in any way, and colds can be avoided by dipping only on clear, warm days when the plumage can dry out quickly.

THE TEMPERAMENTAL INDUSTRIAL

SIXTH NIGHT

It was a strange appearing Gnome Who now the rostrum filled,
And caused the delegates to stare At his peculiar build.

One side was prosperous and fat,
His other very lean,
While only fair to middling was The part that came between.

That it was to his hanging luck,
Which came from year to year,
He owed the address of his form,
Was very soon made clear.

"I am the Gnome Industrial,
And not unknown to fame,
For Temperamental is in truth
My real and middle name.

My class includes an endless list
Among commercial lines,
Embracing industries of all
Designations, types and kinds.

To call each one by name would soon
Your patience over-reach;
So I shall mention just a few
To illustrate my speech.

First, Steel Mills, which Carnegie says
From chance to pauper go;
And then Soft Coal Mines which produce.

At times an overflow,
And Old Wells—not of Mazy's kind
Of oil-sheering brood,
But those which, rich or poor, depend
Upon the price of "crude."

The Turkish—that in "tariffs" have
A lasting bug-a-boo,
With Russia, which so fast has grown
Contractions must ensue.

And Many Companies, always
Be coming in these tales,
With few of us, who in fall in Behind the railroad strides.

All sorts of food from pork and beans
To soup and sa-charme,
While, too, we must not overlook
The Cans to put them in.

Then Mining Companies—the ones
On real foundations laid,
Depending on their "life" and what
Is for their profits paid.

And last, Machinery Builders who,
From farm to factory,
Supply the wheels within the wheels
Of our whole industry.

Now I, at random from the list,
Have named just half a score,
But you will realize that there
Are many, many more.

I am composite of all these
Is one are called all
But, two agencies, and I
Reckon their use and fall.

While fortunes I have made and lost,
My branches all are bound
By action and factors which Rule them wherever found.

Good management I name as first
Of requisites, my prime;
But then I am a slave
To changes all the time.

For if conditions be adverse,
The business world upturned,
The best of management may fail
To show a surplus earned.

Good periods and bad I have;
Each follows in a ring,
As surely as the pendulum
Does back and forward swing.

My earnings thus are subject to
Most violent ebb and flow,
One year I may a deficit,
The next a surplus show.

So at abnormal gains from war,
Or other transient cause,
Good common sense always demands
That wise investors pause.

Omitting such unusual years,
When profits spread and soar,
Compute the average income earned
Both after and before.

And several times the interest
The net should always be,
If with these fluctuations, you
Want good security.

For this protective margin must
Of course much greater be,
Than with non-speculative Rail
Or good Unity.

Then on my bonds you must assume
That patents and good will,
And often, too, machinery
Are worth evaluating.

While making sure the business is Both permanent and sound—
May ascertain the value of
The buildings and the ground.

For if the water would come to pass,
A matter to regret—
The proceeds from foreclosure sale
Should liquidate the debt.

See many companies call bonds,
When they should issue stocks,
And thus unwary buyers are Off landed on the rocks.

Because, though their securities
Are bonds in form and dress,
They carry all the weaknesses
That shares of stock possess.

And these investments really should
A higher rate return,
Than that from good first mortgage
Bonds.

Which give one no concern,
For when a money risk's assumed,
It's only right and fair
The profit be proportionate
Unto the risk that's there.

Industrials are like a bog
In which the turf that's sound,
Is bounded by deep holes and stones
With marshes all around.

So stick to straight and narrow paths
In this specific field—

No matter what the yield,

Hence take this last advice of mine,
Which each I trust accepts,
And just recall these parting words—
"Be sure to watch your steps."

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

This is No. 67 of the fourth series of articles issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th St., New York, City. They are appearing weekly in these columns.

CALL OF THE CLOCK

By Nella Gardner White.

Dear Mother:
"Have your children ever said—"I can't come just now, Mother—I'm busy with my blocks?" No doubt the building of blocks was at that moment very important—more important than we can realize. But more important still should be the response to the demands of time. Some of us are more times—always insisting on the accomplishment of a given task at a given time, till our children come to look upon time as a relentless, hateful giant. I think a great deal of the slothfulness of this world comes from time—who refused to get their rounds done on time. The things hated in childhood are gladly cast aside as soon as maturity comes.

But isn't there some way to make punctuality and a well-ordered life a beautiful and desired part of a beautiful time? For a beautiful time is not hard and relentless if it is used rightly, life becomes smooth, peaceful and happy; if used wrongly life is a tangled mass of fretting and discord. You've seen folk who all ways had to rush to get to places on time—who rushed to get their rounds ready—who rushed about their cleaning and their sewing. It is an unlovely quality. It is nearly always when you come down to the fact the result of previously not having done things on time. Their clothes weren't in order for calling, the dishes needed washing, their materials had not all been purchased for the proper sewing, there wasn't any scouring powder on hand, for scrubbing. No one of us wants a child to grow up to be that kind of a person, who neither gives nor gets happiness.

However, that state is only a natural one, arising from a failure to appreciate the importance of time. It is not the "rush" who has the most leisure time. It is the one who does each task as it comes, does it thoroughly, leaves nothing to do another time. Of course, we're all busy human and we all have lapses, but it's just as far as we meet duty unafraid and willingly that our work becomes a pleasure instead of a dread.

But how can we get our children to see the importance of this? First, I think, emphasis should be placed on the pleasure that accompanies that instant response to the call of the clock. The "Come this instant or you won't get a bite of supper" is only too common. It seems to me it's only fair, while the child is young, at least, that he should be told that supper time is near at hand, that shortly he'll be called in from play. Perhaps you can let him know of something he likes that's going to be for supper. You'll find that he comes much more readily when a time comes. And soon promptness becomes a habit. Pleasant habits cling to us. Why not work to make into pleasant habits all necessary duties that have to be observed through life? Wonderful results come from the expenditure of a little patience and time.

You can have a game of going to bed time, exploring trip of Mr. Soap of wash-up time and an independent grow-up event of dressing time. Punctuality really isn't hard if we can only remember that the accomplishment of things at a certain time is what we desire, not the accomplishment of things because we order them done at a certain time.

Let us keep this lesson in our mother's consciousness if we want our children to become men and women whose lives are smoothly peaceful, ordered so that they may find time for things that make for culture and soul-growth.

"The average citizen must be a good citizen, if our republics are to succeed. The stream will not permanently rise higher than the main source; and the main source of national power and national greatness is found in the average citizenship of the nation. Therefore, it behooves us to do our best to see that the standard of the average citizen is kept high."

—Theodore Roosevelt

"Three-fourths of the
Never

MEN who know, say that more than three-fourths of the people in the United States do not make proper use of their money. They earn and spend but seldom invest, though nearly every one can conveniently lay aside a few dollars now and then to provide for the proverbial "rainy day."

Who, then, comprise the remaining one-fourth? Not the immensely wealthy. They only form a very small percentage. The remaining fourth are the people who have cultivated the thrift habit—who live within their means—who save money regularly and invest it in a safe, sound security. These people have fore-sight and a determination to better their financial position.

Here in this community the men and women who have subscribed for Preferred Stock in the Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company are not all millionaires. No indeed. They are merely the "better class," as you might say.

Most of these shareholders work for a living. They read the newspapers, keep posted on financial conditions of the country—and they invest carefully. Some own their own homes; some do not. But all are respected and respectable citizens—builders of the community in which they live.

They know that the Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company is a necessary institution—rendering essential service to the people. They know that the company's business is permanent and therefore that its securities are primarily sound.

What is more, they know that 8% interest—now offered on the Company's securities—will be paid to them year after year—long after interest rates have declined to a normal level. Already this decline is on the way. Money is now easier to obtain and as it becomes more plentiful there will be no need to offer high interest for the use of it.

Classify yourself. Are you among the three-fourths or the one-fourth? The difference between success and failure usually lies in your ability to make proper and profitable use of the money you earn.

Write for information concerning the Preferred Shares which pay 8% interest—the easy monthly payment plan—etc. Do it today.

ATLAS PORTLAND CEMENT

BOTH farmer and manufacturer have learned that the highest grade products are valueless till they reach market. Roads have a direct bearing on community wealth. And, by actual proof, the poorest roads are the most expensive—a luxury even the richest community cannot afford.

The value of concrete roads is indicated by the fact that concrete roads sufficient to reach from New York to San Francisco and back again, more than twice the mileage of any previous year, were built in 1921.

The contractor and building material dealer are good judges of types of construction. They know the advantages of permanence and economy. They also know materials, and recommend Atlas Portland Cement, "the Standard by which all other makes are measured."

Found A Cure For Indigestion.

"I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different medicines. I am nearly fifty one years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want to, now," writes George W. Enory, Rock Mills, Ala.

These tablets contain no poison but strengthen the stomach and enable it to digest the food naturally. Adv.

Rent Receipts May Build A Home— But For Somebody Else—Not You—

How much money do you spend annually in rent? What becomes of the money you spend for rent? How far toward building your own home would that same amount of money go if you could apply it on the purchase of a house? Do you realize that the money spent for rent has gone beyond recall—at least so far as you are concerned? And do you know that the same amount, or possibly less, properly disposed of would see you in full possession of your own home within a few short years?

The answers to these questions vitally affect every man and woman in this county today who rents a home. Those who consider these questions carefully and act in the light of what they show, will be far happier and more fortunate ten years from now than will those who let pass an opportunity to build now.

If you can build, build now. We will gladly help you. Our Architectural Department is at your service. An inquiry about building will cost you nothing and may open the way to happiness and prosperity for you. Call on us now.

NINE CASES OF SCARLET FEVER REPORTED LAST WEEK IN SALISBURY, SEVEN IN COUNTY

Number Of Cases In City And County Since Middle Of January
Totals 127. School Board Authorities Are Doing All They Can To Cope With Situation Without Closing Schools.

Reports from the State Board of Health for the past week show nine cases of scarlet fever in the city and seven in the county, making the total number of cases since the middle of January 89 in Salisbury and 38 in the county. School authorities are watching the situation as closely as they can and every teacher has been instructed to send home at once any child that seems to be unwell.

Authorities of Wicomico County Chapter of the Red Cross have allowed the Red Cross nurse to devote four hours a week to the schools, but this, even in ordinary times, is badly inadequate. At a public meeting recently, Mr. Charles M. Freeman, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce called attention to the great need for a school nurse and requested that the Board of Education employ one. So far, no action on this request has been taken.

The Red Cross nurse has been busy making calls and endeavoring to instruct the teachers in all the public schools of the county on the matter of controlling communicable diseases. Copies of the State Regulations have also been distributed. These provide in part that:

Every child absent from school for five consecutive days or longer, must on returning to school present to the teacher a signed certificate of a Health Officer or a practicing physician that such child has not been affected with any infectious or contagious disease.

When any child has been affected with, or is a "carrier" of a communicable disease, or has been excluded from school because of having been in contact with a communicable disease, it shall be the duty of the parent or guardian of such child to obtain a permit to re-enter school from a health officer or practicing physician. This certificate shall be issued only when the incubation period of the disease has passed, or when the organism producing the disease can no longer be demonstrated by laboratory examination.

Children living in the same house, who are not sick, may return to school when such children have been removed by the attending physician or health officer gives a certificate that, to his knowledge, they have had the disease. When scarlet fever is present the other children must remain at home until the sick one is well, except when such children have been removed by permission of the attending physician and the health officer to another house.

ROTARY CLUB GATHERS FOR REGULAR MEETING

Time Given For Discussion Of Plans
For Dr. Charles E. Barker's
Course Of Lectures.

Discussion of plans for the lectures to be given here in April by Dr. Charles E. Barker was one of the features of the Rotary meeting at the "Y" on Thursday. Dr. Barker is a noted speaker whose talks deal with the fundamentals of character and right living and every citizen of Salisbury will be urged by the Rotary Club to attend his lectures here.

Rotarian Fred P. Adkins was asked by president Allen to tell of his experiences with the Rotary clubs of Florida and he gave a very interesting talk in which he brought out several good ideas, some of which may be adopted by the local organization.

Rotarian Henry W. Ruark, secretary of the Eastern Shore Base Ball League, told quite frankly of the need of selling stock in the local club and he asked those present to support the organization. When the subscription cards were passed around, a number of them were signed up.

Secretary Charles M. Freeman of the Chamber of Commerce stated that the need for a nurse in the public schools is a pressing matter and he urged the Board of Education not to have employed one. Mr. Bennett replied that the Red Cross nurse is giving four hours a week to the schools and unless the public demands it, the Board cannot employ a school nurse.

Cape Charles Forms Chamber Of Commerce

F. P. Adkins And Charles M. Freeman
Among The Speakers At Big Mass Meeting Tuesday.

President F. P. Adkins and secretary Charles M. Freeman of the Chamber of Commerce were the out-of-town speakers at a mass meeting of business men in Cape Charles on Tuesday night. The purpose of the meeting was to organize a Chamber of Commerce. A big crowd was in attendance and the meeting was enjoyed by the local band, an orchestra of 17 pieces.

After speeches by a number of prominent business men, the meeting adjourned and the Chamber of Commerce of Cape Charles became a reality. The president appointed a committee to draft a constitution and by-laws for the organization.

Cape Charles is to be congratulated on its progressiveness.

PREVALENT EPIDEMIC IS NOT SPANISH FLU

Russian Grippe Has Gotten Hold On The Community Is Opinion Of Prominent Physician.

Much alarm seems to be manifest in Salisbury on account of the so-called "flu" situation. There are nearly as many cases of this kind as there are of scarlet fever and it is probable that all the cases have not been reported. Yet, according to one prominent physician, there is absolutely no cause for a panic.

The disease is not the Spanish influenza, says this authority, which during the late years of the war played such havoc. It is more nearly similar to an epidemic of Russian Grippe which was prevalent in this country about 1894. While it is extremely disagreeable and is sometimes followed by bad after effects, it is not necessarily lethal.

Quarantine and other proper methods of preventing its spread will do much to stop the epidemic and the public is urged to use every precaution in this respect.

EIGHTY DOLLARS FOR RED CROSS IN MARCH

Fund For Local Work Coming In Slowly—Several Workers Have Sent In Their Full Quota.

Receipts from Red Cross workers for local Red Cross work for this month have totaled about $80, according to the Chairman, Mrs. Travers L. Ruark, who urges that all those connected with the plan to finance the local work speed up to the fullest of their ability.

The benefit picture given at the Ulman Opera House netted $35 and Mrs. William Tilghman turned in $10 more. Other contributions in varying sizes came from a number of other workers. Among the future events is a rummage sale scheduled for Saturday, April 1, to be held in the Thoroughgood store recently purchased by Mr. L. Benjamin.

Mrs. F. W. C. Webb and Mrs. Laird Todd will be in charge of the sale and everyone is requested to send them anything that might be sold. Articles will be called for as the donors desire. Mrs. Fred Smith will give a card party on April 20th, details of which will be published later. Mrs. George R. Cobb is selling soap flakes and Mrs. C. L. Estill is taking orders for handy household articles. Other workers are carrying on individually but in such a way that the final result is no longer in doubt.

Another benefit picture is carded for Monday night, April 3, when the Arcade theatre will present Bert Lytell in "The Idle Mch."

LAUNCHED AT DINNER

William H. Morris, General Secretary
Of Baltimore Y. M. C. A. For Years, Principal Speaker At Banquet—Compliments Secretary
Hammerslough.

Nearly one hundred guests heard William H. Morris, for forty years general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Baltimore, explain the value of the "Y" to the community and to the individual at the All-members banquet on Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. Mr. Morris also highly complimented the local secretary, Mr. Hammerslough, on his excellent work and he congratulated the Association on its adaptation of the building to a progressive program.

Proceeding the address, the nominating committee through its chairman, Mr. Henry W. Ruark, presented the names of the following men, recommending that they be elected as directors of the Association to serve for three years: Messrs William M. Cooper, Samuel M. Quillen, Jr., Ralph Hall, Oscar L. Morris, and Dr. E. Riall White, the latter being nominated to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of L. Claude Bailey. The gentlemen were elected as nominated.

Following the banquet, the several committees of workers called to take charge of the work of raising $7000 for expenses during the next year and mapped out their plans of campaign. The drive actually started on Tuesday morning when the solicitation teams started out to sign up all old members and secure new ones. Two days only was allotted for this work which closed on Wednesday night.

Proceeds from the circus last week totaled nearly $100 according to the secretary. The show was put on, not with the purpose of making money, but as a demonstration of what the Association can do. It was attended by more than 1200 spectators who thoroughly enjoyed every act.

The Tall Cedar band from Delmar and the Salisbury Band added to the enjoyment of the occasion. Those taking part were: Walter and Dr. E. Riall White, the latter being nominated to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of L. Claude Bailey. The gentlemen were elected as nominated.

WESTERN MARYLAND TO SEND GLEE CLUB HERE

Soprano Soloist, Miss Emily Richmond, Was A Gold Medalist In 1919. Unusual Features.

The Jesters, the musical club of Western Maryland College, who will appear at the Arcade Theater on April 4th, have an attractive program this year. They carry with them a chorus of thirty men, three soloists—vocal, piano, and violin; a mandolin quartet, and several sketches—comedies and impersonations. Classical music, popular music and fun, make up the evening's entertainment.

Captain E. G. Smith, Commandant of the College, who is directing the club, has had much experience in this work as an avocation. He was affiliated with the musical clubs while in college in Michigan, and was assistant director of the Dramatic Club at the same time.

Miss Emily Richmond, of Bridgeport, Conn., the soprano soloist, is a graduate of Western Maryland, and holds the gold medal in music for the year 1919. She has a remarkable range and clarity of tone which always delight her audiences.

The "Jesters" have departed from the conventional glee club program understanding that a full evening of music is apt to become dull even to devoted music lovers. Audiences so far have shown great appreciation over the club in style, and the humorous sketches have been heartily received.

The club is appearing in the following cities on the present tour: Baltimore (twice), Belair, Sykesville, Westminster, Salisbury, Berlin, Pocomoke City, Crisfield, and Chestertown.

RYALL GETS 30 DAYS IN COUNTY JAIL

Fruitland Man Charged With Sodomy Sentenced by Court
At The March Term.

SEVERAL SENTENCED TO THE MD. PENITENTIARY

Court Pronounces Sentences In Criminal Cases. Wardell Jenkins, Convicted Of Burglary, Larceny, And Receiving Stolen Goods, Is Given Eight Years. Vincent Gets 30 Days.

The March term of Court came to an end last week after heavy dockets had been disposed of. Unusual interest was displayed at this term, particularly in the criminal cases which brought out large crowds of both men and women. Nearly every day during the session the Court House was packed and visitors from all over the county thronged the streets.

Elwood Ryall, charged with sodomy, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail. Elvin Campbell and Charles Matthews, charged with larceny, were given three years in the State penitentiary, and Luther Wright was given six years penal sentence for robbery.

Charles Vincent who was tried on a charge of assault and battery was sentenced to thirty days in jail. Vincent, it will be remembered was accused of inviting a Salisbury girl to ride with him and when a secluded spot was reached he attempted, it is alleged, to assault her.

Other sentences imposed by the Court varied in severity. Wardell Jenkins on a charge of burglary, larceny, and receiving stolen goods, was allotted eight years in the penitentiary. Lucy Roach was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail for larceny and receiving stolen goods, and Ralph Lillie, found guilty of larceny, was given thirty days in jail.

Arthur and Larry Leates were sent to the penitentiary for 18 months for larceny and William Wright was awarded 10 days in jail for the same crime. Douglas Jackson, convicted of forgery, was given three years in the penitentiary. Roy Quinton, on a similar charge, was sentenced to thirty days in jail, and Willie Wright, convicted of receiving stolen goods, was given 18 months in the Maryland House of Correction.

HOW WILL YOU ENFORCE THE VOLSTEAD ACT? WOMAN'S CLUB ASKS MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES

Aspirants For Mayoralty And City Council Asked To Address The Wicomico Woman's Club On Their Definition Of A Clean
Administration. Talks Limited To 10 Minutes.

In order that they may gain a better understanding of the issues before the people in the coming city election, the members of the Wicomico Woman's Club have written each candidate for office asking what his stand will be on several matters of importance to the city. The questions deal almost entirely with health and moral conditions, although the speakers will be given a chance to declare their platforms.

The first question is: "My candidacy platform, present and future plans." The second deals with a plank that each aspirant for the office of mayor has given great emphasis to: "My definition of a clean administration" in which definition specific things are wanted and not generalities.

"My plans for supporting the Federal officers in their enforcement of the Volstead Act" is the third query. The W. C. T. U., it is understood, has already gone before the City Council with this request that something be done about the amount of intoxicants sold in this vicinity, and the office seekers are of the belief that their stand on this question will have a very great effect either for their advantage or disadvantage.

The meeting at which the candidates have been asked to express their views is to be held in the Court House on Friday afternoon at two o'clock and the entire public, both men and women, are invited to be present. In their letter to the candidates, the Woman's Club asked if the speakers would object to answering questions asked by the hearers. In an interview with a News reporter, several aspirants stated that they would have no objection to answering questions put to them at the meeting. The time allotted to each speaker is not to exceed fifteen minutes. The candidates have been invited to make their addresses in the following order: Mayor W. Arthur W. Kennerly, Dickerson, Mr. Ernest L. White, Mr. John W. Serman, Mr. Ernest B. Hitch, Capt. Gordon G. Banks, Mr. Ernest T. Lucas, and Mr. James C. White. Mayor Kennerly will open the program promptly at two o'clock. Mrs. Will Slemmons will act as chairman and will introduce the speakers.

The meeting will offer an excellent opportunity for the public to learn to ascertain where the candidates stand on the various issues mentioned by the Woman's Club, because the political aspirants, while no doubt working hard in private, have not yet been given an opportunity to address a public gathering.

Interest in the coming election will also be stimulated because all three candidates have promised more or less the same thing: a clean administration. In the interpretation of the words "clean administration" may lie the power that will make or break any aspirant. For this reason it is fully expected that every one of the office seekers will appear at the Court House on Friday.

The Woman's Club is to be congratulated on the stand it has taken with regard to the municipal election and the interest the members have displayed in civic and political questions.

HUGH W. JACKSON WEDS HIS NURSE IN HOSPITAL

Son Of Former Governor E. E. Jackson Becomes Benedict To Family's Surprise.

Hugh W. Jackson, son of late Governor Elihu E. and Mrs. Jackson, was married on Monday to Miss Helen Schulze, a nurse of the Homewood Hospital where Mr. Jackson has been undergoing treatment. The ceremony, performed by Rev. Dr. L. M. Zimmerman of Christ English Lutheran Church, took place in the library of Dr. L. L. Fetterhof in the presence of Dr. and Mrs. Fetterhof, the bride's mother, Mrs. Carrie Schulze, Miss Julia R. Hagenbuck, Mrs. L. F. Taft, Dr. William Sandrock and several nurses.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left for a honeymoon trip to New York after which they will make their home in the Cambridge Apartments in Baltimore.

Mr. Jackson had been a patient of the hospital for the past ten days and Miss Schulze was his nurse. He was suffering from nervous disorders and neither his mother nor his brothers, Everett E. and Richard N. Jackson, it is said, had the slightest inkling of his intention of being married.

Mr. Jackson was divorced some time ago from Miss Anna Dudley Hart. In 1913, as the result of a breakdown after a narrow escape from drowning, he was treated in the Johns Hopkins Hospital. Miss Schulze had nursed him several times since his trying experience.

Grangers To Initiate Members Saturday

Degree Teams Have Been Working Steadily For The Past Several Weeks Preparing For Occasion.

Initiation of new members into the Grange will be the main attraction of the meeting to be held on April 1st. The new members will be given the first and second degrees of the order. Officers of the Grange urge all members to be present in order to welcome the initiates and make the meeting a success.

Several weeks ago the degree teams were organized and have been assiduously practicing ever since under the most competent supervision. A real treat is promised the Grangers and a double treat is in store for those who on that occasion will become members of the organization.

RE-NAME BUILDING

The New News Building on Main street, home of The Wicomico News, has been re-named The Adkins Building. The change was made to avoid the confusion from the present and old homes of The News having similar names.

THE GRANGE MEETS

At the last regular meeting of the Grange, many interesting things came up for discussion among them the arrangement of the ideal farm home and labor saving devices. Many Grangers took part in the discussion.

Mr. F. P. Adkins, president of the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Charles M. Freeman, secretary, were in Cape Charles on Wednesday to address a large gathering of business men relative to the institution of a Chamber of Commerce there. On Thursday, they will go to Chestertown to address the Board of Trade along the same line.

BIRTH OF A NATION IS TO BE SEEN HERE

D. W. Griffith's mighty spectacle "The Birth of a Nation" will be seen at the Arcade Theater next Wednesday, as given recently in New York and several other cities where it made record-breaking runs.
This force in the art of stage entertainment is perhaps the most widely discussed production ever made in America. It is above all else the greatest thing that has been achieved by one producer. It is history revived and shown in its making. Some of the greatest names that are written large upon the scroll of our country's fame appear upon the program. The players who enact the roles have studied the minute descriptions of these men both from photographs and intimate life studies and with this frame work they make these wonderful characters live again.
They pass in a panorama of achievement. The accomplishment is startling. The entire action ranges over three centuries. It begins with the importation of the African slave and it ends with the settlement of that question in the freedom of the enslaved. But before this end is reached the mightiest nation in the world passed through the heroes of internecine strife and the high lights of those struggles are vividly brought out. Great battles are fought. Cities are destroyed by fire. Thousands of horsemen dash in wild rides across blood-stained plains. The human note weaves in and through the entire thread and lends itself to the mightiest story ever unfolded.

TAYLOR—ANDERSON

Mr. Isaac Anderson, of near Salisbury, and Miss Bernice Taylor, daughter of ex-county Commissioner, O. W. Taylor, of Quantico, were united in marriage Tuesday, March 21, 1922, at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Baltimore, by Rev. Chas. E. Perkins.

The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Conaway and little daughter Margaret, of Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. Byrd Taylor of Quantico, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Crawford and Miss Pauline Taylor of Philadelphia and Mr. Chas. Hughes, of Baltimore. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Byrd Taylor. She was becomingly attired in a traveling suit of gray with gloves and hat to match and carried a large bouquet of sweet peas.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Conaway, near Lake Montebello, Baltimore. The bride and groom are spending their honeymoon in Baltimore and Washington. After April 1, they will receive their friends at their beautiful home on the Wicomico River, where the groom is engaged in extensive farming.

Their many friends extend their congratulations and wish them all the happiness of Matrimony.
Plenty In Prospect
"I shall love to share all your trials and troubles, Jack, darling."
"But, Daphne, dear, I have none."
"No, not now, darling; I mean when we're married."—The Passing Show.

Dr. W. T. Truitt Says:

"Every woman wants health and happiness. Chiropractic is the safe, sure road."

Happiness is impossible without health. Automobiles, jewelry, fine clothes and all the worldly treasures combined cannot bring happiness unless there is health. EVERYWOMAN as well as everyman wants health, and chiropractic adjustments are the natural and sure way to obtain and retain it.

No drugs or operations with their train of pain and unhappiness if you give CHIROPRACTIC a trial.

For the sake of your children, EVERYWOMAN wants sturdy children who will develop into healthy men and women. EVERYWOMAN owes her children this plain duty. Your child may have some slight spinal defect which can only be detected by the chiropractor. The defect may later in life cause great pain and unhappiness. For your children's sake, let them have a spinal analysis. Such defects can easily be detected and corrected.

CONFIDENCE AS A CURE.

One of the most hopeful notes struck at the Chamber of Commerce banquet recently was a statement by one of the speakers that the basic commodities seem to have reached rock bottom and that from now on every change will be for the better.

During the past two or three years, we have faced a buyer's strike that at times has all but paralyzed business. This condition is clearing up. People are buying more liberally and more confidently. Goods are beginning to move with comparative rapidity. In connection with the resumption of normal trade, one of the outstanding characteristics is that people are no longer seeking bargains at bargain prices exclusively. Today they are willing and able to buy what they want at prices that will afford a fair margin of profit to the business houses.

The world grows in proportion as it trades. If the ultimate consumer refuses to buy, the merchant and manufacturer must follow suit, and the farmer soon fall into line and refuse to plant his crops. Stagnation is followed by ruin; stimulation by prosperity.

We have suffered the evils of over-production and know what they are. We may yet suffer the greater evils of under-production unless we start now to ward them off. Confidence in our nation and its manifest destiny is essential.

This confidence is everywhere in evidence. One of our great Southern States has just passed a fifty million dollar bond issue to build roads. The people who have sponsored and voted for it, know that the future will justify the expenditure of so vast a fund. They have confidence in their State.

Coming closer to home, the State Legislature has approved several bond issue bills that will aggregate millions of dollars. Baltimore alone wants fifteen millions for schools. The expenditure of that money would be a bet on the future of Baltimore; and the people of that city have confidence in their city and in themselves.

Building operations planned in Baltimore for 1922 by vast amounts exceed similar operations for last year, and this is true of other cities all over the country. Manufacturers everywhere are making plans for one of the biggest years in the history of business. Indeed, it is chiefly among the ultimate consumers that the note of pessimism is found. The others have confidence in themselves, in their communities, in their nation, in their future.

The most tangible way to show your confidence is to build something. The work stands as a monument to your courage and faith. Build something. Build trade; build good-will; build service; build a home; build a standard of increased crops; build a better day's work. Build anything, for building denotes progress. And buy, not carelessly or over-zealously, but what you need when you need it.

Buckle right into the harness. Spring is coming. Nature is taking on new life. Follow her example. Seed-time is here and harvest is not far distant. Those who reap later will be those who sow now. Through all history it has been the Go-getters who won the reward. The year 1922 will not materially differ from those which have preceded it. Be a Go-getter.

THE STREET BREAKERS.

Within the past few months it seems that every street in Salisbury has been broken open to allow the laying of a water or sewer pipe. This has, of course, been necessary. Leaving a hole loosely filled with gravel, however, is not necessary and the City Council should see that those who break the streets properly repair the damage done.

One reason the Mayor of Salisbury recently objected to the proposed plan to allow the State Roads Commission to take over the main thoroughfares in the city was that it would be impossible without a certain amount of red tape to tear up the streets in order to lay pipes.

With the holes that are in evidence on nearly every street in the city, it would seem preferable to have a little more red tape and not quite so much damage.

ANOTHER PARK IDEA.

One of the most attractive features of a public park has just been broached. It is suggested that in case the city takes up the idea, the recreation features to a large extent be put in charge of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The "Y" movies could be shown in the open air as well as in a building, for the machine is portable and could be taken anywhere. Slides and swings for the children could be improvised and placed under the supervision of the Y. M. C. A. physical director, who could also see that the children especially got the most out of their open air life.

There is little doubt that such a park would pay big dividends in public health and contentment. And there is as little doubt that it would pay dividends in money as well because many people would soon begin to form the habit of coming to Salisbury on summer evenings instead of going to other places where amusements and recreations are more generously supplied.

The city already has the nucleus of a splendid band. Given the proper aid and encouragement, the musicians will soon be able to pay their own way. The pleasures that weekly band concerts would mean to the citizens of Salisbury cannot be estimated.

Salisbury needs a park. The people of Salisbury want a park. The thing now to do is for some progressive citizens to start the ball rolling by obtaining one. Once the site is selected, we believe the people will do the rest.

WICOMICALITIES.

The "Y" parade the other day reminds us that while an elephant may sometimes lose his nerve he seldom loses his—but did you see the show?

We are getting nearer the horseless age—even the sawhorse is going out of style.

Young lovers have stopped mooning and gone to moon-shining.

You can make a much bigger mark in the world if you use more printer's ink.

Even the children favor the open door—to the pantry.

A recent speaker here stated that we have most of the world's supply of corn. Quarts or bushels?

The man who lies down on the job certainly does not pick a bed of roses.

Health Turns the Clock Backward

She Walked With a Cane

Weekly Health Talk No. 1
By Dr. J. Harry Biron, Ph. C.

Just how a child comes by displacements of the spinal vertebrae is not hard to appreciate if you watch them at play. They get some hard falls and jolts, and unless the spine is given attention every now and then some chronic ailment is apt to develop. It was thus with Violet Watson. Something threw the proper vertebrae out of alignment and Rheumatism resulted. For years she walked with a cane.

Rheumatism is due to pinching of spinal nerves to the kidneys and liver. This results in sluggish activity of these two eliminating organs. As the waste poisons accumulate in the system the symptoms develop that warrant the physician in calling it rheumatism. The chiropractor brings the patient back to health by eliminating the cause—spinal nerve pressure—and when this pressure is gone, Nature gradually clears the system of waste poisons and the sufferer becomes well.

BEDFAST FOR SEVEN MONTHS—NOW WELL

"My daughter, Violet Watson, was ill ten years with rheumatism. In her last attack she was bedfast seven months. Her case was pronounced hopeless and we turned to chiropractic. After a time she threw away a cane she had used for years. Today she is in perfect health. I can sympathize with all such sufferers and recommend chiropractic." William R. Watson, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1223AM.

THRILLING SERIAL TO BE SHOWN AT ULMAN'S

Adventures Of Tarzan The Terrible
With Elmo Lincoln And Louise Lorraine As Stars Is Carded.

During the making of the twelve episodes of "Adventures of Tarzan," the latest chapter of the thrilling wild animal serial which will be shown at Ulman's, a serious accident occurred. During the shooting of scenes laid in Opar, The City of Gold, three female lions attacked several players working as Arabians, badly tearing and clawing all of them. It was found necessary to rush five of the injured actors to the Hollywood hospital.

Fortunately Elmo Lincoln, the star of the serial and Louise Lorraine, his leading lady, escaped unscathed, although they were both on the scene when the lionesses broke loose. Director Hill, Cameraman Ash and May-er and trainer Charles Gay were standing at the cameras and barely escaped immediate death. Two costly Bell and Howell motion picture cameras were completely demolished.

A battery of Graflex still cameras was also destroyed. Trainer Charles Gay found it necessary to severely wound two of the wild animals to stop their rush and to prevent a stampede which threatened to become general among the other beasts. At the time of the accident there were twelve lions and two leopards on the scene and only the fastest kind of thinking on the part of Gay and Hill saved Lincoln and Miss Lorraine from being torn to pieces.

MARYLAND TO HAVE OWN CROP REPORTS

A crop reporting service similar to that now in effect in many other States has been established for Maryland through a recent agreement between the United States Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates and the University of Maryland Extension Service.

John S. Dennee, formerly located at Atlanta as agricultural statistician for Georgia and the United States Department of Agriculture, has been assigned to head the new department and will have his office at College Park. Mr. Dennee has had wide experience in all phases of crop reporting work. Before going to Atlanta he was in charge of similar work at New Orleans for a period of six years.

The new department will give Maryland the advantages of a cooperative service for the collection and publication of crop and livestock statistics without the confusion of duplicate sets of reports which are unavoidable when State and Federal agencies work independently. Mr. Dennee's reports of crops will cover acreage, yield, condition, and forecasts of production based on growing condition. Livestock reports will be issued several times during the year and once a year a summary of the number of head and the estimated value of the various types will be prepared.

The new service will be particularly valuable to the farmer and will fill a long-felt want in the State.

BO-NO DEMONSTRATION

There will be a demonstration of BO-NO during the week of April 3-6. BO-NO is a new cleanser as well as a disinfectant and an insecticide and deodorizer. Bo-No will clean windows, hardwood floors, kill and drive away mosquitoes, moths, bed bugs, roaches, fleas and other insects. It will prevent bad odors from your chicken houses, dog kennels and is not harmful to animals or plants. This demonstration will be held at R. E. Powell & Co. where BO-NO is on sale.—Adv.

C. Layfield,
vs.
Jacob E. Taylor, Hannah A. Ross,
No. 2900 Chancery.
In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County and State of Maryland.
March Term, 1882.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree requiring Jacob E. Taylor on the one hand to deliver to the plaintiffs on the other to interpret and adjust their several claims and demands, relative to the purchase price of the timber standing on the land in dispute, and to compel the defendants to pay to the plaintiffs the amount of the purchase price of the timber should be paid to such of the defendants as may be entitled to it. The plaintiffs also mean to restrain the said Jacob E. Taylor and Hannah A. Ross, their counsel, and all persons claiming under them, from instituting any action or actions at law or in equity, or from instituting any other legal proceedings in any court of law or equity, in relation to the several matters in said bill alleged.

The plaintiffs entered into a written agreement with Jacob E. Taylor to purchase a certain tract of land, bounded as follows, to wit: Beginning at a point in the north line of the lot described in the plat of the said land, and running thence north 15° east 100 rods, and thence north 15° west 100 rods, and thence south 15° west 100 rods, and thence south 15° east 100 rods, to the point of beginning, containing 40 acres, more or less, and the balance being paid for by the plaintiffs to the said Jacob E. Taylor in cash and the balance being paid by the note of the plaintiffs to the said Jacob E. Taylor.

months, and that the said note has not been paid nor have any credits been paid thereon. The amount represented by said note to be that of the said land upon which the said Taylor claims, that the land upon which the said Taylor claims, is the same as that of his mother, Isabella Taylor, by her will in 1856 (October 26, 1856) and duly probated and recorded in the county of Wicomico, in the State of Maryland for Wicomico County; that the said Hannah A. Bow claims that one half of the purchase money said Isabella Taylor received from the heirs and assigns of her mother, Isabella Taylor, claiming that as to the land upon which the said Taylor grows, the said Isabella Taylor was a tenant in common with her mother, Isabella Taylor, intestate, and that upon her death intestate the said land descended to the defendants, Isabella Taylor and Jacob E. Taylor, and that the said Jacob E. Taylor has demanded of the said Isabella Taylor the amount due as the balance of the purchase money of the said land to him, and on December 31, 1887,

EASTERN SHORE, THE GARDEN SPOT, AND SOME OF ITS TOWNS

Detailed Story Of The Coming Of Some Of The First Settlers To The Eastern Shore And Of The Records That They Have Left. Mother of James Whitcomb Riley A Descendant Of An Eastern Shore Family.

Just above "Rehobeth" on the west side of the North-West Fork River is Ennals' Wharf, made historic by the large camp meetings held near there for a period of 75 years. The road leading from the wharf was cut through a deep embankment and the excavations were used to fill in the wharf. This place takes its name from Bartholomew Ennals who came to Dorchester county in 1669 from York County, Va. the land being a part of a large tract of land conveyed to him for transporting his wife, children and servants into the county.

Just south of this, bordering on both the Nanticoke and North-West Fork, was "Nanticoke Manor," containing 4,775 and acres laid out in 1670. Thomas Ennals, son of Bartholomew, made a treaty with the Nanticoke Indians in 1705, a provision of the treaty being that Emperor Ashiquash and his Indian should fence in the cornfields, which were planted by them, seven or eight logs high. This is the first record of any fencing in fields on this section of the Shore.

The Indians of this section remained with the whites for more than 100 years before they began to locate in larger forests where they had better hunting grounds and where the white did not invade their reservations. They became extinct about 1840.

Ennals' Wharf was a place of vessel building and consequently an important shipping place for tobacco, grain and timber. The word Springs was attached to the word Ennals by reason of the numerous springs flowing from the earth there. Several of these were dug out and well crabs were put in and the flow of the crystal streams was made to serve the purpose of man. The camp meetings were a later institution, but were begun by the Ennals family.

The homes of the Ennals families were favorite places for the Methodist traveling ministers to visit while in the community. The first Methodist societies were organized in Dorchester county in 1780 and the Ennals were among the early Methodists in this section.

The pioneer settlers, who were, no doubt, directed by that unseen power or influence that shapes the destiny of man, came from Virginia and located in that part of the Eastern Shore between the Choptank and Nanticoke rivers as early as 1645 and those in search of lands to build upon followed the waterways. Of the few settlers in this part of the Eastern Shore who came directly across the ocean into the Bay up the Nanticoke river and up the North-West Fork were a family of Marines. They were among the very first settlers on the Eastern Shore. They built their cabins among the Indians and had few neighbors except the Red men.

The name Marine appears on the record of the land office at Annapolis as early as 1655, which was about the date of the arrival of the family. The line of descent seems to have been broken for many years, but is taken up in a brief history of Zoroaster Marine who was born in 1738 and died in 1823. He owned a saw mill which he inherited from his father, William Marine, who built the first saw and grist mills on the streams flowing into the North-West Fork, located near Federalsburg, several miles above Rehobeth.

From an old memorandum book, dated 1765, used by Zoroaster Marine, a list of his neighbors is taken. They were John Wilson, Solomon Corkran, Benjamin Harris, William Wheatley, John Stokes, John Smoot who then lived at Rehobeth mansion, Levin Wright, James Jackson and James Fletcher. Later William, Zoroaster's son, who lived on the "Fisher Farm" near Crofton, married Mary Fletcher, daughter of Daniel Webster, belonging to William's son Matthew, was born on the "Fisher Farm" August 17, 1797. He married Mary Rollins, April 9, 1818. After the marriage they resided near Walnut Landing, but he turned to farming and moved to Sharptown. Sharptown was then a small village, a house here and there, a large field extending to the south and woodland to the north. He cut timber, built homes, wharves, vessels, and conducted a large mercantile business. Later he had quite a fleet of vessels running to and from Baltimore from the Nanticoke and North-West Fork rivers. He died in 1854.

Matthew left the following children: Polly, Fletcher, Vashie, Nancy, Matthew, William, Margaret and Sarah Jane. Sarah Jane is the survivor of the late Thomas J. Twiley, prominent in Wicomico county, forty years ago; she is the mother of Prof. Irving L. Twiley for many years occupying a chair in the Polytechnic Institute, Baltimore, and of Mrs. Ida Robinson, wife of Albert W. Robinson, once prominent in the business and political life of Wicomico county.

Fletcher married Hester Eleazer Knowles, a member of a prominent Delaware family, and returned to Dorchester county, and located at Vienna where he became an important business man and a prominent minister in the Methodist Episcopal society. Later he moved to Baltimore where he became a successful business man, minister, and at one time edited a newspaper. He was the father of the Hon. William M. Marine, prominent in political affairs of the nation, an orator of international distinction, a poet and a lawyer.

There are branches of this family still living near their original home on both sides of the North-West Fork river. Zoroaster Marine of Federalsburg and James F. Marine, Jonathan Marine, Charles Marine, and Mrs. George Wright of Sharptown, are direct descendants of the family. In 1890 a few members of the family were West and located in Indiana, where their descendants are still living. The mother of the late James Whitcomb Riley, was Elizabeth Marine, a descendant of this distinguished family and from her Riley claimed to have received his poetical talent.

Like other early settlers, the religion of this family was affected by the various changes of religious sentiment that spread over the Peninsula from time to time. When George Fox visited the Shore quite a number of this family became converts to his faith, but when Bishop Francis Asbury planted Methodism in the same locality, many of them were gathered into his fold where their descendants still remain. The records of the Parish of Vienna Episcopal Church contain the names of some of them.

The historic Methodist Episcopal Church known now as Mt. Pleasant Church, formerly Moore's chapel, instituted by Mr. Asbury and the second Methodist church on the Peninsula, had as one of the trustees, Charles Marine. Several of the families were in the Revolutionary War and during the Civil War several of

From this section were in the Federal Army while those in the south and west were in the Confederate Army.

Later we hope to visit other places in historic Dorchester and mention some towns and names of men and families prominent on the Peninsula many years ago, but in our next story we expect to give some interesting facts in connection with the sites on the upper Nanticoke river, having branched off from the main channel to visit the North-West branch.

SCHEDULE OUTLINED FOR NEW BOAT LINE

Tentative Plans Made For Connecting The Eastern And Western Shores—To Make Trial Trip.

According to the Crisfield Times, officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad contemplate outlining the schedules for the proposed boat line to the Western Shore in the very near future. The Times says:

Tentative plans for the inauguration of the new steamboat line between Crisfield and the Western Shore, are being made by officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad and subsidiary lines, according to a statement issued by Turnbull Murdock, President and General Manager of the B. C. & A.

"It is the present purpose of the railroad officials to take a steamer and go over the proposed route to see just exactly what steps can be made on the Western Shore. This may demonstrate that more points on the Western Shore can be touched than at first seemed possible, and until this trip has been taken, the officials state that it is impossible for them to state definitely just what wharves across the bay will be made.

"The present prospect is, according to M. Murdock, that the new line will touch Millenbeck, White Stone, Irvington and North End on the Rappahannock river Mill Creek, Redville and Mila, and perhaps some one or two points to reach every important point on the western side of the bay that can possibly be touched. And at the beginning it is proposed to give service from those points to Crisfield every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. It is expected that daily service will be placed in operation a little later.

"Steamers to be used in the new service will undergo the usual spring overhauling, the service between Crisfield and the Western Shore will be inaugurated between May 15th and June 1st."

Batteries Wear Out for Two Good Reasons

Every battery has two kinds of wear—the natural slow wear due to use, and the more rapid wear that comes from abuse.

Keep the proper amount of water in your battery by putting in a little every two weeks. Test with the hydrometer to make sure there's enough charge. Come in to Battery Headquarters at the first faint sign of trouble.

Then your battery will wear out slowly and gradually, giving you uninterrupted service at lowest cost per month and per mile.

IN GLOSSYVILLE

In Shabbytown they do not care if things look seedy everywhere. They have no pep, they've lost their grip, they simply sit around and yip, in envy's tones, of Glossyville, the shining village on the hill. Oh, Shabbytown is punk and gray, and it shows symptoms of decay, and strangers passing through remark, "It surely dates back to the Ark." "Clean Up and Paint Up" makes men frown along the streets of Shabbytown. A can of paint makes no appeal to this bum village, down at heel; the people think there is no sense in going to so much expense; so things are always going down, and getting worse in Shabbytown.

It always gives my soul a thrill when I arrive in Glossyville. The town looks like a blooming bride; the people take a hearty pride in making things look clean and bright, and in their labors take delight. They're lavish with the helpful paint, selecting colors chaste or quaint, and decorating every shack; thus warding off decay's attack, and making all the buildings look like buildings read of in a book. And strangers, when they see the town, say, "Here we'll come and settle down, and raise us nineteen kids apiece, and live and die as slick as grease." This happy burg goes right ahead, while Shabbytown is prone and dead.

POULTRY NOTES

BY H. W. RICKEY

CARING FOR THE HOME FLOCK

Although the diseases of young chicks, such as described in last week's article, and other ailments like the rickets and leg weakness, may be practically eliminated if proper precautions are taken, we must keep constantly on the watch for signs of their appearance.

Experienced poultrymen with innate powers of observation can apparently scent the approach of disease before it actually makes its appearance to others, and this power of observation should be developed as much as possible so that unfavorable conditions which usually accompany and are responsible for these troubles may be remedied before the ailments become so firmly fixed that it is almost impossible to combat them successfully. An ailment may be merely a weakened condition of the chicks brought about by improper brooding or by the ravages of vermin, or it may be one of the more serious diseases, such as the white diarrhea, brooder pneumonia, or contagious catarrh of "roup," which often attacks growing chickens.

Leg weakness, a disease of rather an alluring name, sometimes develops rapidly before it is discovered, it is not a contagious disease, in fact it is doubtful as to whether it should be classified as a disease. It is apparently merely a condition of weakness brought about by unfavorable treatment. The affected chick is weak-legged, particularly in the leg joints; it does not have the proper use of its legs and in the more advanced stages it is unable to walk at all, falling over at most every attempt and at the last is unable to stand in such a condition it is unable to get food and practically starves to death. Forced feeding, resulting in a rapid growth, develops a body too heavy for the legs to support, but in all probability this weakness is influenced by insufficient bone-making material in the food and by the lack of exercise to strengthen the leg muscles.

However, the ailment seems to be confined to chicks kept in brooders or on brooder house floors of wood or concrete, or on dry sand covering floors. It usually begins its attack after the chicks are four weeks old and continues as long thereafter as they are confined. Changing from indoor to outdoor conditions will in most cases check the spread of the ailment and cure most of the affected chicks. Some time ago I took from the brooder house some that were unable to walk without falling, and forced them to stay outside on moist earth, and they recovered. Usually the opening of the brooder house permitting the chicks to run in and out, is all that is required, unless the trouble has gone too far. The contact with the moist soil, with unlimited fresh air, seems to strengthen the legs and muscles, so that they can support the body, without the necessity for any change in the feed, particularly when the feed mixtures have been well balanced.

For years in New England we had been growing water chicks, which were raised indoors on a concrete floor covered with dry sand, the chicks were well fed with a properly mixed ration, including milk and bone meal for bone building. The long brooder house, containing individual lamp-heated portable hovers, was well ventilated, but after five or six weeks of confinement leg weakness would begin to develop regularly every year.

At last I divided each brood pen into two compartments, using six-inch board partitions. In the rear was the hover, with cut straw or chaff litter covering a layer of dry sand, in which the grain was scattered. The front compartment contained no litter, but the floor was covered with not less than one inch of sand, and every morning this was sprinkled thoroughly with water, and from that time on we had very little trouble with leg weakness. The drinking fountain and shell hoppers were kept in the front compartment and occasionally a little feed and crushed oyster shell would be thrown around on the moist sand.

Of all the chick ailments known to the poultrykeeper, the one that is most annoying is rickets. This trouble we have always with us, and unless more attention is given to preventive measures it will bother us for many years to come.

The trouble is due to the little threadlike worms called gap worms which get into the trachea (windpipe) and attach themselves in such numbers to the inner lining or mucous membrane, that severe inflammation is caused, which unduly stimulates the secretion of mucus. The effect of this, with the presence of the worms in the trachea, obstructs the breathing and the chick usually dies of suffocation, though it may also die from loss of blood, which the worms suck from the chick's body.

The worms are found in pairs, the male and female are so intimately joined together that the bodies must be torn in order to separate them. The male is only one-fifth of an inch long, while the female measures about one-half an inch in length and contains thousands of eggs. These eggs are deposited only upon the rupture or decay of the body of the worm. Sometimes this occurs within the windpipe and as warmth and moisture are present, which is all that is required to hatch the eggs and grow the worms, the eggs hatch and the worms develop. Sometimes the chicks in their effort to rid themselves of the obstruction within the air passages cough out the forms, which are then available food and are picked up as fast as discovered. When the worms are swallowed some of them are torn in the digestive tract, the eggs hatch there, and it is supposed that the young worms work their way through to the air passages and thence to the windpipe, or it may be that some of the worms and eggs pass on through the body of the chick and are voided with the feces, and are in turn eaten by other of the same chicks.

We also have reason to believe—in fact, we know—that the eggs of the gap worm are found in the earth, and they may possibly be in down in the windpipe and manipulated in the same way as the feather. These methods are very tedious and require too much time and labor. A plan sometimes used with success is to place the sick chicks together in a box, cover the top with burlap and sift through this air-slacked lime. The dust causes the chicks to sneeze or cough violently, thereby forcing out the worms.

Swift's Premium Ham and Swift's Premium Bacon are produced from only the best hogs. Many of the animals we buy do not furnish meat of Premium quality.

Since these are the choice cuts from the best hogs, cured and smoked in the best way, with scientific care and precision, they are naturally in great demand; but these cuts, with the loin from which pork chops come, represent only about 34 per cent of the live animal.

The remaining 66 per cent consists of the cheaper cuts, such as spare ribs, shoulders, trimmings, pigs' feet, lard, etc., and shrinkage in dressing and curing. Shrinkage is equal to one pound in each five, and has no value whatever.

That is why the prices of "Premium" Ham and Bacon and pork loins are higher than the price of the live animal.

Everybody wants them—and yet they are only about one-third of the entire weight. "Premium" Bacon alone is only about 8 per cent.

The great demand for the choicer cuts, and the smaller demand for the cheaper cuts, constitute the reason for the comparatively higher price of the one-third, and the lower price of the other two-thirds. (Some of the lower priced cuts sell at less than the per-pound price of the live animal.)

It is only by utilizing all possible by-products and exercising the utmost skill and efficiency that we are able to average a profit of a fraction of a cent a pound on all our business.

N. B. Some very delicious dishes can be prepared from the cheaper cuts.

90% of All the Fruit we Sell at Auction Comes from Old Customers

Isn't that mighty strong evidence that we satisfy the people that we do business with? The fact that we have been in business over a quarter of a century is still further evidence of our reliability.

Whether you are a large or small shipper, we can assure you of better prices, quicker return of your money and farrier treatment than by other methods.

We can give you the biggest returns because selling fruit at auction cuts down sales expense and because you benefit by the best offer we are able to get from up to an average of 1,000 daily buyers instead of from a few buyers as is customary at private sale.

You know positively that we return to you the full price paid for your fruits (less our small selling commission) because you can verify the prices paid by consulting such independent publications as the New York Daily Fruit Reporter. No other method turns on its light.

And you are assured against loss of your money due to bad credits as our resources are ample. It is our unwavering rule to send check for proceeds of sale within 24 hours.

For other important advantages in selling your fruits through us, write for further particulars.

MARDELA SPRINGS

On Sunday, March 19th, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Watson were given a surprise birthday dinner by their children. While at church everything was arranged. The table was bountifully supplied with good things, a large birthday cake decorated with candles, holding the place of prominence. Lemon and cake were served after the dinner. The guests departed at a late hour wishing Mr. and Mrs. Watson many more anniversaries. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Carroll Watson and son, Hunter; Mr. and Mrs. Marion Wilkinson; Mr. Ralph C. Jones and son Ralph Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Mack Bradley and daughter, Betty Marie.

Mrs. Reese Lowe received a message Monday that her brother-in-law, Mr. Rodney Phillips, of Arizona, was dead.

Mrs. Annie Graham spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. A. B. Coulbourn of Salisbury.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Krauss, of Ridgeley, were business visitors in town on Saturday.

Mr. Ernest Bennett has been confined to the house for a week suffering with tonsillitis.

Mrs. Hugh Johnson and little son Leonard, of Rockawalkin, spent a few days recently with her mother, Mrs. Lizzie Wilson.

Mrs. Bacon Bailey has been ill with the grippe for the past week.

Rev. Vaughn Moore and family were callers in town one day this week.

Let's Virginia Bennett is able to be out after her recent illness.

It is reported that Mr. Glenn Catlin has purchased a new Dodge touring car. It is hoped that he will not meet with the same experience in learning to drive, as one of our neighbors thought. It is said that when he was learning to drive, the first thing he did was to run over two mail boxes and then through the door of his garage. This man has not given up in despair but is living in hope of learning some day. We wish him success.

Master Preston Good is slowly recovering from his recent attack of scarlet fever.

Rev. W. N. Cunnaway and wife of New York spent a few days in town visiting relatives on their way to conference.

On Thursday afternoon Mr. I. N. Cooper, Mr. R. G. Robertson, Mrs. Lizzie Brink, and Mrs. Bessie Brink, moved to Farmville to call on Mr. Windsor Daniels who has been quite ill.

Mr. Norde Wilkerson has been home two days this week on sick leave.

Several of the young folks of Mardeja and vicinity attended the birthday party of Mr. Ward Dombor, of Athol, on March 18th.

Miss Vera Gille, supervisor of elementary schools visited our school on Wednesday morning.

Mr. G. W. Bonds, Mrs. Annie D. Bonds, and son William, spent Friday afternoon visiting relatives in Potomac.

Cent Alexander, Virginia and Mary, Wright, little Ralph Bennett and little Betty Marie Bradley are all ill with the measles.

Columbia Dry Batteries work better and last longer

- for bells and buzzers
- for thermometers
- for gas engines
- for dry battery lighting in closets, cellars, garages, barns, etc.
- for ignition on the Ford while starting

The world's most famous dry battery. Used where group of individual cells is needed. Fabulous Spring Up Branding Puts at no extra charge

How many uses you have for Columbia!

For doorbells, buzzers, thermostats, and alarms, use one Columbia "Bell Ringer" or two Columbia "No. 6" Batteries.

For ignition on gas engines and tractors, use Columbia "Hot Shot" Ignition Battery No. 1461. Full power when you need it most, while starting. For quick starting ignition on Fords, use the same size Columbia "Hot Shot" Ignition Battery No. 1461. Saves your back, temper, and time. Fits under the front seat.

Sold by electricians, auto supply shops and garages, hardware and general stores, and implement dealers. Insist upon Columbia.

Let Them Hear Your Voice

In cities and towns not far away you have friends whom you seldom see. You have little time for writing, or perhaps don't like to write letters. Why not let them hear your voice?

When you have business or social affairs to discuss with out-of-town friends, use the telephone. You can have an enjoyable chat and have matters settled in a few minutes. There's none of the delay sometimes experienced in getting letters off and delivered on time.

You can send your voice a good many miles for a dollar. Why not do it?

CORTLEY JUNIOR

Boys' clothes with snap and wear

Invisible patches at every point of hardest wear

WE recommend Cortley Jr. Clothes for boys for very simple practical reasons. We know that they mean satisfied customers.

The points that make wear out in a boy's suit—knees, elbows and the seat of the trousers—are backed up in these suits with invisible patches. These extra layers of wear prevent trouble before it can develop. Not only are hours of mending made unnecessary, but the suit retains its shape and smart appearance almost twice as long.

Cortley Jr. Clothes are also made with the greatest attention to the details that mothers appreciate—reinforced pockets, taping of seams, right down to quality of thread used to sew on the buttons.

Designed by the makers of the famous Cortley Clothes for young men, every suit not only has the snap and style that the boy appreciates, but also the manly, upstanding appearance that mothers look for.

The printed guarantee in the pocket of every Cortley Jr. suit is your assurance of satisfaction.

Rent Receipts May Build A Home— But For Somebody Else—Not You—

How much money do you spend annually in rent? What becomes of the money you spend for rent? How far toward building your own home would that same amount of money go if you could apply it on the purchase of a house? Do you realize that the money spent for rent has gone beyond recall—at least so far as you are concerned? And do you know that the same amount, or possibly less, properly disposed of would see you in full possession of your own home within a few short years?

The answers to these questions vitally affect every man and woman in this county today who rents a home. Those who consider these questions carefully and act in the light of what they show, will be far happier and more fortunate ten years from now than will those who let pass an opportunity to build now.

If you can build, build now. We will gladly help you. Our Architectural Department is at your service. An inquiry about building will cost you nothing and may open the way to happiness and prosperity for you. Call on us now.

BILLION PENNIES IS AIM FOR MOOSEHEART

Loyal Moose Are Collecting Coppers For Their Great Home At Mooseheart, Indiana.

(Illinois News Bureau)

Mooseheart, Ill., Feb. 28.—Mooseheart, Ill., for which an endowment fund of one billion pennies, $10,000,000, is being raised by means of a penny collection, is the greatest insurance and the greatest of all human engineering projects.

Mooseheart is in response to the needs of the day, and the result of applied intelligence of understanding and service. It is the temple of childhood, the haven of opportunity, the essence of human service. Among the three or four million cradles now rocking in the land are some who will have an unhappy childhood. The members of Loyal Order of Moose in giving aid to the Moose program for progress of human happiness are planning to have 1,700 dances, and the proceeds will go to the ten million dollar penny collection, with the understanding that only the interest from the ten million dollars can be used, unless a catastrophe should happen. Although the penny collections have been taken for only 18 months, 9,500,000 pennies—$95,000—have been collected.

Members of the Loyal Order of Moose open their hearts for a happy humanity, when they gave their vote for starting and also maintaining Mooseheart, the city, home and vocational school. They are part owners of the City of Childhood, where ignorance and poverty are crushed, never to break the hearts of women or blight the hopes of childhood.

At Mooseheart you see children as far as the eye can reach. Surging waves of happy children mandate you. You never saw so much loveliness together. There are babies in swaddling clothes, and there are boys of the hobblede boy age, and groups of six and ten year olds, and enhancing apple-cheeked two, three and four year olds. It is their eagerness that breaks one's heart. They have a flaming responsiveness, a quickness that makes you feel as if the sea of life was washing about you. The rippling, happy ocean, composed of faces of Mooseheart children and their mothers will always be stamped upon your mind life. They are a company of happy, dancing flames.

The business of the Loyal Order of Moose, through Mooseheart, is—making children happy—and then good citizens, instead of the selfishness of making financial profits, so that their creative beauty of spirit will remain unquenched through the years.

HELPING 19,000,000 PEOPLE

About 19,000,000 people are insured in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The weekly calls of Agents at the policyholders' homes provide a wonderful opportunity for health and welfare work.

The Company has accepted the opportunity and to-day is at the forefront of public health work in America.

11,000,000 VISITS BY TRAINED NURSES

Free nursing service is given to industrial policyholders in 2,800 cities and towns. Trained nurses not only heal the sick but teach right living. About 11,000,000 visits have been made. 2,116,875 in 1921 alone. Numerous letters tell of lives saved.

DISCOVERING DISEASE IN TIME

Free medical examinations often disclosing incipient disease in time to cure it, are granted to Ordinary and Industrial policyholders, subject to reasonable conditions.

HELPING THE EMPLOYER TO HELP

Employers insuring their employees under Group policies are advised regarding health conditions and accident prevention, while the employees receive the benefits of nursing service and welfare literature.

238,000,000 PHASES OF LITERATURE

A vast free booklets and pamphlets in great variety, dealing with the important phases of health and disease, and prepared by leading experts, are distributed by mail. So far, 238,000,000 copies have been distributed.

In addition, 1,000,000 copies of "The Metropolitan," a health magazine, are issued annually.

A CITY THAT IS WATCHED

In Enonoching, Mass., the Metropolitan is led on the way in a great excitement, watched by health and then to the health of the country. To demonstrate what proper municipal health regulation can do. Deaths from tuberculosis have dropped from 121 per 100,000 to 10 per annum.

HOW WAS IT DONE?

Records kept by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show an extraordinary decrease in the death rate among its Industrial or weekly premium policyholders. Comparing 1921 with 1911, for example, there were 55,000 less deaths in 1921 than there would have been if the 1911 death rate had prevailed.

What brought about the great saving of life?

The general public health movement—progress in medical science and sanitation—other causes, perhaps. But a very great factor has been the tremendous health campaign carried on by the Metropolitan itself. This page tells a part of the story.
