DEVIL PUTS A BOY

Naughty Lad Disobeys His Mother and Gets Into Many Kinds of Trouble.

STEPS ON THIRD RAIL

Said Afterward That He Thought He "Blew Up," and That His Saok and Legs Felt Like Something Was Going Through Them.

New York.-A very persistent deviwhispered into the ear of nine-year-old Charles Mofit as he left his home at No. 85 Catherine street to play in the street the other afternoon.

"Remember," his mother had said,
"the devil gets boys who are bad. You mustn't go out of the neighbor

For Charles's principal income and candy fund came from the money the newsdealer on the corner gave him for trips to a news company. Though Charles had promised neith er to leave the street nor go for pa-pers the devil suggested that the day was Saturday and that the boy wouldn't be pald for his week's work inless he finished it, and that it would be too bad to lose a whole week's pay just because of failure to work one

Charles, tempted, fell. He trotted quickly to a news depot in Chamber street and started to go home. But that devil whispered again. It would be nice to go out on Brooklyn bridge and see how the motormen ran their trains to Coney Island. Again Charles fell. He got by the policemen on the northern vehicle roadway of the bridge, and with his package of "59 cents' worth of papers" stood close to the Manhattan bound track of the "L"

A train went by. The devil jogged Charles's arm and the package fell to the tracks a few feet below. The small transgressor decided he would have to rescue the papers or he wouldn't get his pay.

"I hung on wid me hands," said Charles afterward, "and then I put down me for, I touches a turng down there. When I let go I blew up.

If Charles didn't blow up, he curtainly did so up. his foot came in contact with the third rall and sparing flow from his school shous, of which his mother had told him to be care.

"Me back and me legs falt like something was going trough 'am," says Charles. He went into the air shricking with pain. But he only rest two Test; then he came down sitting between the rails. A moment afterward he was standing up in the centure of the track, rubbing himself, while a crowd of homeward bound Brooklynites was standing od the promessade shouting advice. Two practical men shoved forward and stretched their hands down to Charles. First he passed up his bundle of papers, then he consented to be litted out.

Patroiman Schmitzler of the bridge squad came up and took the mean devil's victim to the police room at the Manhattan tower. Dr. Orr arrived in an ambulance from the Hudson street hospital and the boy was stripped. Not one burn was on him. Dr. Orr and the police thought it was amasing that Charles had not been hilled outright. They told the boy he could go home.

Charles delivered the papers intact to the newsman at Catherine and south streets and asked for his 15 sents. He had resolved to end forthwith all connection with the devil, He was told he would be paid later. Then he slipped into his home.

He said nothing, but eventually the panel of his news penetrated the circle of his brothers, themos reached eleven-year-old Mary, his sister, and then, of source, got to his mother.

HIDEROUND COLLEGE MEN. The resent why the undergrad-The reason why the undergraduate is so amazingty incapable of receiving criticism, why he regards it as an attack and why the critic must be to him either a "sorehead" or a "crank is that the undergraduate has never himself been taught to criticise. Wherever he goes today he finds not a spontaneous coming together of all elements of the country, but some hard and fast expressions of social organization to which he must conform or against which he must rebel. Everything is laid out for him. There is a Harvard type, a Yale type, a Princeton type. The way to success is a beaten path before him. In the college halls he does not hear teachers with opposing doctrines to lay before his mind for a critical choice, as is the case with the universities of Europe. THIS GOVERNMENT NOT UN-SINKABLE.

The man whom we elect president, whoever he may be, will need a cool head as well as a strong hand. He will have to face issues more pretentious than any which have confronted this country at any period of its history sive only in the ad-ministrations of Washington and Lincoln. And we have neither a Washington nor a Lincoln to meet them. This government is not indestructible any more than the Titanic was unsinkable. Its very size and strength may be turned against it and become the agents of its destruction. We agents of its destruction. We must keep the searchlight sweeping the seas. We dare not sacrifice security to speed, and above all, we must keep to the longer but safer course.—Dr. C. A. Richmond, President of Union University.

PAN-AMERICAN MISUNDER-STANDINGS.

In a number of the Latin-American republics, especially those less advanced and less for-tunate in their internal affairs, it is the regular custom in some quarters to insult the fair name of the United States of America by making it the plaything of in-triguing politicians. The machi-nations of such selfish schemers, ment of the local press, strive to conjure up false stories of American policy and so to impose upon local public epinion. What a painful speciacle this is to all honorable and patriotic citizens of the American republics! How long shall such sinister propaganda, obviously for ulterior and unworthy motives, be able to exert its baleful indusance upon pan-American feeling? Such bodies as are used to frights children should not be imposed upon grown men. Here in the United States, too, at littles we do nuch harm with thoughtless writings, in which the self hypnosis of a britished poundation lulis to sleep the nobler and more essential qualities of truth and patriotism. At little, too, we safer more than we should from the effects of loose and uninformed talk of our fureign relations by patient whose names give to their lock of official responsibility.—Secretary Knox.

PAN-AMERICAN SENTIMENT.

The sentiment of pan-Americanism has ceased to be a mere state of mind and has begun to reveal itself in deeds, in practical efforts and in results. The movement you have set on foot and which we Latin Americans so warmly uspouse gives us the right to reclaim for us all the title of Americans, which you North Americans have appropriated to yourselves, for the name of America should not, as you would often have if, be confined to this portion, great, wealthy and populous, but nevertheless only a portion of this American continent. Mexico stands shoulder to shoulder with you, doubt it not. We Mexicans love, perchance, with fanatical ardor, what is truly ours-our language, our history, with its tears and its joys; our liberties so dearly won, our independence. Yet we possess a mind ready to receive and welcome great ideals. And what I say of Mexico I feel authorised to add of Guatamaja, as well as Salvador, of Hopdarsa and of Nicaragus, too; of Costa Rica, of Franza, to Ouba, of Santo Domingo and of Hatti. The Latin spirit is everywhere the same, ready to scale the lottiest heights of human sentiment—Manuel Cabero, Mexican Ambassador. PAN-AMERICAN SENTIMENT

"Yes; what is it?"
"Compliments of General Lee, sir, and you will retire your troops toward the Freehold Meeting House, forming connection there with General Scott."
"Retreat! Good God, man! we haven't fired a shot."

"Those were the orders, sir. It that scott, over yonder?" Maxwell nodded, too angered for

Then a courier from Dickinson dashed along our rear seeking Lee, scattering broadcast the welcome news that Knyphausen and his Hessians, the van of the British movement, were approaching. With a cheer of anticipation, the solders fung aside every article possible to discard, and pressed recklessly forward. Before we moved a mile my horse became so lame, I was obliged to dismount, and proceed on foot. Never have I experienced a hotter sun, or a more sultry smoke of their guns, and hear distant crackle of musketry. I sat up, star-ing through the heat waves toward the eminence on the left where Wayne's men remained, showing dimly against the trees. A group of horse-men were riding down the slope heading toward our line. As they came into the sandy plain below and skirted the morass, I recognized Lee in advance, mounted on a black horse flecked with foam. Twice he paused, gazing across the hills through leveled air. Rapid marching was impossible, yet by nine o'clock we had passed the Freehold meeting house, and were halted in the protection of a considerfield glasses, and then rode up the steep ascent to our rear. Maxwell met him not twenty feet from where

Are you unaware, sir, that we are in the presence of the enemy?"

Maxwell's face fairly blased, as he are in the presence of the enemy?

"That you, Lawrence? Can't tell anybody in this shirtsleeve brigade. What's become of your horse?"

Every man of us had a gun, officers, all. Coatless as though we came from the having field, the perspiration streaming down our faces, we waited. The rifle barrels glowed brown in the sun, as the been eyes took careful sight. We were but a handful, a single thin line; if the reserves failed we would be driven back by mere force of numbers, yet before we went that slope should be strewn with dead. Crashing up from the rear came Oswald with two suns, wheeling total Crashing up from the rear came Oswald with two guns, wheeling into position, the depressed muscles spouting destruction. Yet those red and blue lines came on; great openings were ploughed through them, but the living mass closed up. They were at the fallen tree, beyond, when we poured our volleys into their very faces. We saw them waver as that storm of lead struck; the canter seemed to give way, leaving behind a ridge of motionless bodies; then it surged forward again, led by a waving flag, urged on by gesticulating officers. ing up from the rear came Os

Maxwell rallied us beyond the causeway, swearing manfully as he drove us into position behind a low stone wall. Again and again they charged us, the artillery fire shattering the wall into fragments. Twice we came to bayonets and clubbed guns, battling hand to hand, and the left, that we were driven into the edge of the wood for protection. But there we held, out front a blaze of fire. It seemed to me the horror of that struggle would never end. Such heat, such thirst, the black powder smoke in our nostrils, the dead under foot, the cries of the wounded, the incessant roar of the guns. Again and again it was hand to hand; I could carcely tell who faced us, so flerce the melee, so suffocating the smoke; I caught glimpees of British Grens-diers, of Hessians, of Queen's Rangers, Once I thought I heard Grant's nasal voice amid the infernal uproar. Stewart and Ramsey came to our sup-port; Oswald got his guns upon an eminence, opening a deadly fire; Liv-ingston's regiment charged, and, with a cheer, we leaped forward also, mad with the battle fever, and flung them back, back down that deadly slope. It was not in flesh and blood to stand; we cut the center like a wedge, and droye them pell-mell to where Lee had been in the morning. Here they rallied, flanked by thick woods and

The Road to Philadelphia. It must have been 10 o'clock, and, if I had slept at all, I was scarcely conscious of it. All about me the men lay outstretched upon the ground, still in their shirt-sleeves, as they had

night was clear and hot, scarcely breath of air moving. Here and there against the sky-line passed the dark allhouette of a sentinel. There was no sound of firing only an occasional footfall to break the silence of the night. The wounded had been taken to the field hospitals at the rear; down in our front lay the bodies of the dead, and among these shone the searching parties were yet busy at their grewsome task. I was weary enough to sleep, every muscle of my body aching with fatigue, but the excitement of the day, the possibility of "They are, sir."

"Hold this line at any cost, the reserves will be up presently."

As he drew his horse about he again came face to face with Lee, who sat his saddle sullenly, his gaze on the ground. Washington looked at him a moment evidently and the containing now that a force outnumber.

The victory was ours—the army realized this truth clearly enough; we had repulsed the red-coats, driven them back with terrible losses; we had seen their lines shrived up under our fire, officers and men falling, and the remains taken anywhere. Call us up at any time. The victory was ours—the army real ing us yet remained intact, and in strong position. Flushed with victory, knowing now we could meet the best of them, we longed for the morrow t dawn so we might complete the task.

with shouts of inquiry. We took to the fields, but, as there seemed no end to the procession, I his predicament fast enough. Then turned my horse's head eastward, con-fident we were already beyond the British rear-guard, and struck out across country for another north and south road. We advanced now at a swift trot, the sound of our horses' oots on the soft turf almost the only noise, and, within an hour, came again to parallel fences, and a well travelled This was the road running a mile, or so, to the west of Elmhurst. It led as straight as any, toward Philadelphia, but whatever stragglers the British army had left behind would be found along here. However, they would probably be scattered fugitives, unwilling to interfere with as strong an armed party as this of mine. If I was alone it would be safer to turn aside. Then, it was a strong temptation to me to pass thus close to Elm-hurst. It would be after daylight when we reached there; I might even get a glimpse across the apple orchard of the great white house. Would Claire be there? It seemed to me quite prob able, as Eric was taking the wounded colonel home for nursing. The girl's face rose before me against the black night, and my heart beat fast. When I came back, I would ride to Elm-hurst—surely she would be there then. The sergeant touched my arm.

Pardon me, sir, but there are horse men ahead."
"Indeed! I was lost in thought

MARGIN OF PROFIT AND LOSS

Sales Will Determine Whether Hens Are Paying.

A flock of hens should be made to pay a good dividend on the invest-ment. If they do not do this there is something radically wrong some where along the line. If you have kept a record of the cost of production and the sales you will be able to tell whether or not your hens are paying. Hens that are laying an average of 50 or 60 per cent. are doing well and will make a good showing on the right side of the cash book. Any averages above that will be so much more gain and will more than justify keeping the birds.

If they fall way below this mark you better investigate and find out the cause of the trouble. It may be that you have a poor strain of birds, that you are not feeding the right kinds of foods or in sufficient quantities, or that you are not giving them the proper attention that they must have in order to be great producers.

Studying Needs of One Breed.

Studying Needs of One Breed.

It is poor believ for a beginner to endeavor to keep saveral breeds of poultry. The probabilities are that he will give them all like attention and frod when they need to be treated according to their natural dispositions and possible grants.

The results are then he well have a result are then he well favor a result in the position of the position o order. I have told Arnold our victory is practically complete. Clinton may allp away in the night, for he is a willy old for, but he has lost his power to injure us in the Jerseys. I hope to bottle him up before morning, so that any retreat will be impossible army to the transports at Eandy Hook, he has lost prestine, and the victory is ours. Good-bye, major, and the Lord guard you on your journey."

Ten minutes later, mounted on a rangy sorral, my dragoon escort troiting behind, I rode south on the Plainsboro road, as swiftly as its traile condition would warrant.

The evidences of war, the wrecks age of battle, were everywhere. Several times we were compelled to leap the stone walls to permit the passage of marching troops being hurried to some new position; several batteries passed us, rumbling grimly through the night, and a squadron of horse galloped by, the troopers greeting us with shouts of inquiry.

We passed hask alowly secuch to ward the rear of the traops, through the sale hospitals, and along the edge of a wood, where a pattery of artillary was encamped. We rode hoot, and Himilton spoke carnestly.

"The battle is practically won Lawrons, in give of Charins Lawrons, but we insall have the redecate well be fathling behind, I rode south on the plainsboro road, as swiftly as the redecate well penned in before daybeach, and lave already captured as many behind, I rode south on the plainsboro road, as swiftly as the redecate well penned in before daybeach, and lave already captured as many behind, I rode south on the plainsboro road, as swiftly as the redecate well be deplied solved. "Pshaw! I doubt if we there will be nothing left to do, but guard prisoners." "Very well, colonel; I am ready to serve wherever needed." "Of course you are, man. Ther should not be much danger connected with this trip, although there will be stragglers in plenty. I'm told that Clinton lost more than three hundred leserters crossing Camden."

Headquarters were in a single-roomed cabin at the edge of a ravine. A squad of cavalrymen were in front, their horses tied to a rail fence, but within Washington was alone, except for a single aide, writing at a rude

"A moment, gentlemen."
He wrote slowly, as though framing his sentences with care, occasionally questioning the aide. Once he paused and glanced across at Hamilton. "Colonel, do you know a dragoon named Mortimer!"

"I have no recollection of ever hav-ing met the man, sir. I have written him orders, however; he is a scout at-tached to General Lee's headquar-

Fels-Naptha Soap is more than a help-it's a right arm in your fight against dirt.

While you rest, it works.

When you've soaped your clothes with Fels-Naptha and put them to soak in cool or lukewarm water, you can turn to something else or fold your hands and rest.

The Fels-Naptha works on.

It attacks the dirt in your clothes and dissolves it; loosens every tiny particle.

At the end of a half hour it has dissolved all the dirt.

All that remains for you to do is to rub lightly, rinse and hang out to dry.

Clothes are whiter, cleaner, sweeter than ever before.

And all this in cool or lukewarm water, mind you.

No boiling, no hot suds to stew over. No back-breaking, knuckle-wearing hard rubbing on the washboard.

More than a million women employ Fels-Naptha Soap as an ally every washday.

BIG SUM FOR ADVERTISING

the advertising of which may prove profitable to the nation.

Bo Brazil has decided to spend $5,000,000 in order that the world may know something of her resources. She is going to advertise just as an individual or a company would do so —go into the magazines and newspapers with paid matter and set forth in display type and otherwise the re-pers with paid matter and set forth in display type and otherwise the rea-sons for seeking population and trade. Brazil will get a great more than five million dollars' worth of advertis-ing for her money, says the Dayton (O.) News. She is already getting fa-vorable publicity—which is advertis-ing—and the very fact that the coun-try is no progressive that she protry is so progressive that she pro-poses making an advertising appro-priation, is worth much to her, as it is being exploited.

That is one feature of advertising which many advertisers do not under which many saveturers to not not accept the paychology of accepting which they do not and can not figure upon. It is worth something to a concern to be known as a large advertiser, something over and above the value which comes from the ad-vertising matter itself. It makes an impression upon the mind, some way, and that impression is valuable. You may never read one of Brazil's advertisements, for instance. Yet by knowing that the country is advertising, you are bound to have a higher regard for it than if it had never advertised. You will notice all the more readily any article pertaining to the country; you will think of Brazil more quickly, when thinking of South America, than you will of any other country down there. It will be the first country to attract your attention when you glance at a map, and when you go into a store and are shown a dity grown in Brazil, you will be more likely to purchase it. And what pertains to this advertising of Brasil pertains to the firms here the United States that advertise.

A NEW PARTY SUGBESTED. The time has already come when the sober minded people of the United States should unite the United States should units in one political party whose chief purpose should be the preservation of the government that has served us so well for more than a century and a quarter. A house divided against itself cannot stand; neither can our republican form of government withstand attacks that are constantly being made upon it in the stand attacks that are constantly being made upon it in the name of reform, in congress and out, if its supporters are divided among two or more parties. Therefore, if neither of the present political parties will rise to the emergency with a platform free from all semblance of demanders and declara itself abform free from all semblance of demagogy and declare itself ab-solutely in defense of the consti-tution, a platform free from all attempts to catch its share of the unstable and visionary vote of the people by promises of class legislation and class privileges, of whatsoever kind, thereby entilting it to the solid support of the conservative, patriotic vote of the people, then I repeat a new party will be forced upon the country whose platform will be the preservation of the constitu-tion as it stands and the principles which Lincoln gave up his life to preserve.—John Kirby, Jr., President National Association of Manufacturers.

Miserable creatures that we are, we earn our bread in sin. Till we are seven years old we do nothing but eat and drink and sleep and play. From seven to twenty-one we study four hours a day; the rest of it we run about and amuse ourselves; then we work till fifty, and then we grow again to be children. We sleep half our lives. We give God a tenth of our time, and yet we think that with our good works we can merit heaven. What have I been doing today? I have talked for two hours; I have been at meals three hours; I have been idle four hours—ah, enter not into judgment with thy servant, O Lord Luther.

Hundreds of MONEY-SAVING

THE REASON why we can present unusual Money-Saving Specials, and the reason why our business has grown year after year and continues to, is because our buyers go direct to the manufacturers and importers and buy in such quantities we cut outwaste; that's all. We cut out needless expense in buying as well as selling, and the saving goes to the consumer; that's the reason why we can compete and undersell the large city retail store or the Western and Northern catalogue houses. Bring your catalogue and compare values and prices. We will save you the freight and give you better values for the same money. Our Free Mail and Freight System: We deliver Free of charge, or mail if mailable, by freight to your nearest railroad station, any mail order amounting to $3 or more. Furniture bought in person amounting to $3 or more will be delivered Free.

LOOT WAS QUICKLY RETURNED

Recently General Ro-and-So gays out an interview to the afternoon pages these which said that, unless the people who had been working at celeptonic loot changed their ways he would cut their heads oil. There had been a pretty fairist battle or two in Parral streets and while the soldiers were engaged in combat others, not so busy, swiped nearly everything that was loose. So the general said that in homes where loot was found it would make it necessary for him to amputate the heads of the guilty perpetrators. The paper printed it, and, from the time of the appearance of the first copy on the streets there was a stampede to be the first to return stoles property.

By the break of dawn the naxe

By the break of dawn the next morning the streets in front of the city building were a mass of drays; wagons of all descriptions and parsons in carriages, on horseback, with many feitisens on foot," with loot to a fare-you-well. A quarter of a million dellars' worth of plunder was taken tack and deposited with the best wishes of the plunderers in front of the maristrate and thus one of the higgest advertising campaigns was proven afficient.

SCALDING A FOWL PROPERL

ing the fowl improperly that in some localities show an in to demand dry plucked fowl-means of overcoming this in some localities show an inclination to demand dry plucked fowls. As a means of overcoming this difficulty, C. K. Graham of Consectiont, who has spent a good deal of time in attacying the subject, offers these suggestions. Any aged bird may be scalded without seriously injuring its quality if it is properly handled; but owing to the large number of poorly dressed scalded fowls, the marketmen place a premium of from 1 to 2 cents a pound on dry plucked stock.

Boiling water may be used, but care must be taken not to leave young birds in the water too long, or the akin will cook, while with old fowls a little more time may not de any harm. The head and shanks should be kept out of the water, as the scalding will discolor them and make them un nightly. Immediately after the bird is taken from the scalding water it should be dipped into cold water to stop the cook, and, as poultrymen say, to "plump the bird."

The bird should then be hung as for dry plucking, as no bird plucked on the lap or the table will have so good an appearance. If a scalded bird is exposed to a framely when hains.

on the lap or the table will have good an appearance. If a scalded hird is exuceed to a draught when being plucked or when cooling, the skin is likely to harden and become rough. It is because of these possibilities that dry plucking is recommended, as the condition of the skin to a great extent accounts for the high or low returns received.

MOVABLE ROOSTS AND NESTS

Nothing More Convenient in Cleaning Than Long Saw-Horse in Fight Against Little Parasites.

After trying all sorts and types of roosts and roost-poles, I am convinced that nothing is better than a long that nothing is better than a long saw-horse, says a writer in the Farm, Mail and Breeze. A roost of this type, set on a smooth floor, and with removable nest boxes, makes it possible to keep the henhouse perfectly clean at all times. The main difficulty experienced in cleaning the house is the obstructions, these being usually the roosts and nests. If they can be taken out quickly and handlily, and nothing left but a bare room with a smooth board floor, the work of cleanooth board floor, the work of clear ing becomes an easy task.

The sawhorse roosts undergo the same cleaning process, being taken out, brushed and whitewashed. The henhouse floor is then swept clean and the whole interior given a new sprinkle of whitewash. Should lice or mites be manifest, an additional treatment of chloride of lime is given, but this is seldom necessary.

Many Idle Men in Frisco. San Francisco, Cal.-After an inion of places where unemployed congregate, Gov. Hiram W. Johnson instructed the state labor commissioner today to make a thorough investigation with a view to acnting for the number of unemployed skilled laborers in San Francisco. Governor Johnson said there are many skilled mechanics out of employment here who came to San Francis-co in the belief that work had com-menced on the Panama-Pacific international exposition.

The governor said he would authorise the hastening of work on public enterprises as a means of relieving the distress.

She paused a moment gathering the threads of thought more closely. I did not speak, preferring she should tell the story in her own way.

"The two did not meet after that for many months. The Queen's Rangers, in which regiment my father secured Grant a commission.

Rangers, in which regiment my fa-ther secured Grant a commission, were in New York, while Eric was sta-tioned up the river with Morgan's riflemen. When New Jersey was in-vaded, both commands came south, and, because of Eric's knowledge of this country, he was detailed as scout. This reckies life was greatly to his liking; I saw him occasionally by appointment, usually at Elmhurst, and became aware that his old quarrel with Captain Grant was seemingly forsotten. There appeared to be some understanding, some special connec-tion between them. They met once, at least, and I delivered one note be-what I had to tell." I had forgotten the passage of time, the men riding steadily in advance, constantly increasing their distance. even the possible importance of the dispatch within my jacket pocket. The evident distress of the girl riding be side me, whose tale, I felt sure, would fully justify her strange masquerade in male garments, her risk of life and exposure to diagrace in midst of fighting armies, held me neglectful of all else. I realised that, whatever the cause, I had unconsciously become a part of its development, and that I was destined now to be even more deeply involved. Whatever the mystery, I must solve it for her sake. My hand again sought hers, holding it in firm clasp. There was a sound of hoofs on the dusty road behind us. "It is Peter," she whispered. "What

She sat a moment in silence, her head howed: then looked across into

"This arrival must end our confer ence, Major," she said soberly. "Captain Grant must not know that you are with me-that would mean fighting. "Surely you do not wish me to run

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

WOODROW WILSON, of New Jersey.

THORAS R. MARSHALL,

J. HARRY COVINGTON,

of Talbot County.

1000 IN WICOMICO,

The Democratic State Central Com nittee of this County has issued a call to the democrats of this County to form Wilson Clube in all districts. While everything looks promising for the certain election of a Democratic ent this year, this fact should not lull the people to sleep on the hypothesis that everything is alright. No effort should be neglected to make certain the present promises of victory, but everything which can be done to get out the vote and hold fast the democratic ranks ought to be seen to. There is no reason why Wicomtoo should not give to Mr. Wilson a majority of not less than 1000 strong, and we have set this out for a motto for the Democrate to adopt, work for and show on election day. Mr. Wilson is a popular man and will receive the support of practically every demcerat in this County and many Repub-

Let the Democrats get to work and form working, effective Wilson Clubs in every District of this County. Nothing can be done without a strong os early and keep it up, should be the slogan in this County.

We have an ideal candidate to rally behind and the best chance to elect him we have had since the Civil War, and it will be the fault of ourselves if we fail this year. Too much comfidence is always dangerous and may lead to so much indifference that viotory may be wrested from us by a alert and aggressive foe.

WILSON DEMOCRATIC CLUBS

In issuing this call we appeal capeo YOUNG MEN of the county—those who are ra in its history. Escrythi CRATIC SWEEP ALL OVER THE UNITED STATES this year and we want EVERY YOUNG MAN IN WI-COMICO COUNTY TO HAVE A PART IN THIS GREAT VICTORY. NOW IS THE TIME TO START Bondage of Tariff oppression and "Special Privileges" as promulgated by the Republican Bosses, The cratic party has always stood for rights of the le as against the "Special Privilege" which has been the foundation of the Republican Organization and under which the young men of this country cannot have an opportunity unless they belong to the "Special Interest" class. For this reason Democratic party is naturally the party of the young man and we appeal to all young men to get registered, join a Wilson Democratic Club and take part in this campaign which will be the decisive battle in the interest of the people against High Tariff, Graft, Corruption and Boss Rule of Republicanism.

We call on the Democrats of every District in to issue the call for the meeting-issue it yourself and get the Democrats of your District together and start the movement. The Democratic State Central Committee stands ready to aid you in every pos-

Tom and I plunged down the steep slope, feeling our way through the darkness, but moving to the right, toward where the scouts had indicated the horses were being herded. We shirted these, creeping along the opposite bank behind a fringe of bushes, certain that the darkness concealed our movements from the two men on guard. We crossed fifty feet above, gained the top of the bank, and crawled sheltered from observation, until we were directly above the two guards. Peering cautiously over, we fines on the hillside below.

My first glance across the ravine revealed the outlines of the house

All appeared peaceable enough, and I felt a sudden relief. There were lights burning on the lower floor, streaming through several windows, while up stairs one window was ablaze. Late as it was, this illumination was not surprising, however, as the care of the wounded man would necessitate night watchers, while, no doubt, Claire would anticipate by reaching there before morning. All this flashed over me, as my eyes hastily surveyed the familiar surroundings. Then I became aware that the older scout was reporting.

Then I gave the restive animal a sharp touch of the spur, sending him swiftly forward. My escort would have a mile or two the start, yet that was nothing. My thoughts were not with them, or with my military duty, but reverted to the little company around the wounded man. The bearing of the dispatch to Arnold was mere rou-tine, involving only steady riding but the relations existing between Claire, Grant, and Eric Mortimer were full of mystery. There were connecting links I could not understand; no doubt and the girl been permitted to con clude her story I might fit it together, but as it was I was left groping in the darkness. Yet my mind tenaciously held to its original theory as to Eric's strange disappearance—he had been betrayed by Grant, and was being hald proper in the control of the cont had been betrayed by Grant, and was being held prisoner. But where? By whom? And for what purpose? I pondered on this problem as my horse ploughed forward through the squad of soldiers with him. Then what?

The probability was that he was either riding to Elmhurst, or to some resdeavous with Fagin. Some plan had been interrupted by Clinton's sudden march, by the British defeat at Monmouth, and Grant was risking his commission, braving the charge of desertich, for some private purpose. This might be love of Claire, revenge upon Eric, or possibly both combined. The latter would seem most probable. He would use Eric in some way to threaten the sister, to compel her to sacrifice herself. She was of a nature to do this, as was already abundantly "Wasn't what you saw a cattle herd?"
"No, sir," positively. "They're horses, picketed in line like a cavalry troop, and they've got their saddles on."

What this all meant could not be guessed at, but there must be some scheme of derlitry under way.

He let a piece fall on his waist and said "What a careless boy am I, But I needn't worry about this stain, Fels-Naptha'll make it all clean again."

Did you ever think of the difference between washing and cleaning?

You can wash with any kind of soap in any kind of water, hot or cold.

You can boil clothes and rub them on a washboard until your back aches.

> All that is washing. But it isn't always cleaning.

Most soaps are just washing soaps.

They furnish a little lather and let you do the work.

Fels-Naptha is a cleaning soap.

It works all by itself in cool or lukewarm water, saving all the trouble and discomfort of boiling and hot suds.

Fels-Naptha Soap cleans your clothes. It really reaches the dirt and dissolves

It does this while the soaped clothes are soaking in cool or lukewarm water, while you are thinking of something else or resting.

Had to Agree With Gladstone.

In his "Recollections of a Court Pointer," Mr. Thaddeus relates that when Mr. Gladstone sat to him as Florence he was accompanied by Mrs. Gladstone, who "whispered to me as she entered, 'Above all 'things, my dear, agree with him in everything he saye.'" This true story might be capped by the remark of one of Lord Beaconsfields' characters in "Endymion" that "an agreeable person is a person who agrees with you." But one would like to see what Thaddeus thought of Gladstone disagreeing.

The "One-Time" Ad.

The "one-time" advertiser abandons he field right after the sowing, and he weeds of public forgetfulness grow over his immature plant. To be sure, here are exceptions to this rule. "He went to Mrs. Stringer. Mebbe he was going to talk string beans to her!"

Miss Hetty received a box on the ear for her impudence, and for the next three days the mother flattered herself that her market was made. Then the widow Davis called, and after paying several compliments she remarked:

Why, is Mr. Davenport going Two Widows and Another

Moses Davenport owned the sawmill in the village of Dort. He was also half-owner of a grocer? store. He also owned the vacant lots opposite the Methodist church. It can thus be seen at a glance that Moses was a man of importance. Added to the facts above given, he was forty years old and a widower, and it had been repeatedly announced that he would never marry again, having promised his wife on her dving hed that he would not do so the contraction.

or dying bed that he would not do so.
One spring day the village of Dort bursed with excitement. Nobody had allen downstairs, and the doctors had not discovered a case of messles. The place had not been turned into a summer resort, and none of the hogs roaming the streets had come down with the cholers. All the excitement had been created by the report that Mosea Davenport had quarreled with his sis-ter, who kept house for him, and that she was going away and he had been heard to say:

Those were the exact words of Moses, as overheard by neighbors, and as they were repeated from mouth to mouth the excitement was intensified. There were widows in and around Dort, and everybody decided offhand that in case of marriage it would be a widow. There were Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Stringer, Mrs. White, Mrs. Elkins, Mrs. Bacon and others, and who would draw the lucky number? They were each and severally notified of what had happened, and what might hap pen, and though more or less flustrated each one tried to assume an air Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 1.00 tained for a week. Then an agent for a new liver pad came along, and peo-ple rushed to buy, and other things were forgotten. Then Moses Davenwere forgotten. Then Moses Davenport went courting. His first call was on Mrs. Davis. No girl would have called it by that name. He talked about the weather, predicted a thunder storm and said it was his opinion that potatoes would be high in the fall. The widow agreed with him.

She smiled and laughed as she agreed.
She congratulated him on the way he She congratulated him on the way he looked, and when he advised her to set out her tomato plants early she said she would take the advice of a wise man and do so. No talk of admiration, love or matrimony, but a yery pleasant call—so pleasant, in fact, that after Moses had departed the widow said to her old maid sister: "Sarah, that man will ask me with-around. I hadn't seen him for six conths, and he wanted to see if I had lost any of my good looks. I haven't, and he'll be back again."

"And if he asks you to marry him?" "I shall say yes, of course, but not be in too big a hurry to do so. Didn't you notice his looks of admiration?" The old-maid sister hadn't noticed any such looks, but she had no other home to go to and therefore answered that she had.

On leaving the house of Mrs. Davis Moses called at that of Mrs. Elkins. His call was friendly. There was more talk about the weather and thun-derstorms, and on rising to depart he

Salisbury's Great Fair!

AEROPLANE, HIPPODROME, SENSATIONAL AERIAL ACTS, TROTTING, PACING AND RUNNING EVENTS

Aug. 13, 14, 15, 16, 1912

ADMISSION PRICES Last year we inaugurated a plan of charging 50 cents on Wednesday and Thursday. This was done in order that we might be able to give to the people amusements which would be impossible at the old-admission prices. Believing that those attending were satisfied with the program given, we have decided to continue this plan, and have arranged a program this year which in every respect we believe to be equal, if not superior, to the one given last year. We are spending a large amount of money for free attractions, and believe that all will be satisfied with the entertainment offered.

SEASON TICKETS In order that those who attend the Pair every day may do so without too great an expense, the Association has arranged for Beason Tickets. These will be sold for $1.00 each and will be good for one admission each day of the Fair. Same can be had by applying to the Secretary, Salisbury, Md.

GRANDSTAND Grandstand tickets will be sold at 25 cents each day of the Pair.

Aeroplane Flights

A great many saw the Aeroplane Flights at our Fair last year. They know that they were a success. For those who have never seen them, as well as for those who wish again to see this great exhibition, we have arranged with the Cartiss Company for flights on the ground each day of the Fair. REMEMBER, WE DELIVER THE GOODS—NO FAKES HERE—THE FLIGHTS WILL TAKE PLACE.

Hippodrome Races

Arrangements have been made for the Hutton's Hippodrome to give daily exhibits on the track during the Fair. This is one of the best Hippodrome Races obtainable. It carries from 12 to 15 spirited horses and able riders and drivers. CHARIOT RACES, RUNNING RACES, HIGH JUMPING WITH THE HORSES, AND OTHER EXCITING EVENTS GIVEN DAILY.

Acrial Feature

The famous Marion Family, consisting of four gentlemen and three ladies, have been engaged to give daily exhibits. This act is claimed to be the biggest aerial state in America. Wonderful Gymnastic features are performed by the actors on a rigging suspended thirty feet in the air. This is the first real big aerial performance ever given by any Fair in this section of the country, and should prove interesting and amusing to all. Consists of Single, Twisting, One and A-Half, and a Double Somersault to Catch and Return, Aerial Casting, Dives and a Triple Somersault to Net. A REAL THRILLER.

Trotting and Pacing

The usual good sport in our Trotting and Pacing events will be found on the track this year.

Good horses are expected and fine racing assured.

Music A good Band will be on the Grounds and furnish music during the day and night. Other Attractions

We have not the time nor space to outline the mainy interesting and amazing attracts which will be found on our Grounds this year, but the people can rest assured that everythe that goes to make a fair will be found here. A GOOD SHOW, WELL WORTH A DOLLAR.

Notice to Exhibitors The Saliebury Pair is looking for a good line of exhibits in every surface to Exhibits in every surface to Exhibit to us. WRITE POR SUTEY BLANKS AND BE SURE TO MAKE YOUR ENTRIES HABLY.

The Charming Woman The woman who will charm must develop in herself a power of self-control that is strong enough to rise to self-effacement when necessary, and having done so she can start to play her part of a charming woman with fair prospects of success. If she can do this and at the same time refrain trees obtending her point of view and do this and at the same time refrain from obtruding her point of view and more especially her own claims to be understood, flattered and liked, she not only wins a reward of popularity, but adds to the substantial worth of her character, her reputation for elev-erness will not suffer, and her reputa-tion will not be that of a colorises, silent woman.

Power of High Resolve.

If young people only knew the power of affirmation of the habit of holding in the mind persistently and affirming that they are what they wish to be, that they can do what they have attempted, it would revolutionise their whole lives, it would exempt them from most of their ills and troubles, and carry them to heights of which they scarcely dream.—Orison Swett Marden. cents.

The front, or top, was first taken off the case, and a section of one side extending its full width, was hinged so that easy access to the interior could be secured. Then the case was mounted on legs so that its bottom was about a foot and a half from the ground. Then boards were placed snugly around the rear and sides of the legs, from the bottom of the case to the ground.

The roost was next constructed, and for this amail lengths of boards may be used. For the roost and legs I used what is termed "scantling," or sufficient space to slide it in (or out) through the end hinged door. When placed in the coop, it laid directly on the floor so that the chickens roosted rough strips of one by three inch stuff.

piece.

It was made so that there would be about three inches from the floor of the elevated coop. This arrangement would not do for the lighter breeds, which prefer higher roosting places.

The next step was to close in the front of the coop, which I did by using the pieces which had been removed from it.

About two-thirds of the front is boarded up, the remainder being covered with a double thickness of common burlap. The door is left off during the greater part of the year, but the necessary seclusion.

When the coop was completed I raised the end door and laid an old newspaper on the floor, covering it very thickly with sand. On this I placed the roost, and the coop was ready for eccupancy. To clean, it is simply necessary to take out and throw away the newspaper, and put in a fresh one, with more sand.

In summer, with one of these coops, it would be well to open a side door to amore samcient ventilation, and it would be well to keep fewer birds in each pen. During the winter, in one of the "bird-cage" arrangements, we keep from five to seven large White Rock hens, with good results.

Bearing in mind that about six hens could ordinarily be kept in each coop, any one may tell, from the num-coop, any one may tell, from the num-ber of chickens he intends to keep, how the system can be extended to his needs.

Layers for Next Winter.

One great advantage of having early chicks is that you may have pullets ready to lay in the fall or early winter and thus have eggs when they are high in price. Eggs are dear now, and one could appreciate pullets that were abelling out eggs.

Object of Scrubs.

Scrub poultry may serve a good purpose in the pot, but they should not be permitted to propagate their kind. Scrub hens should be mated to pure-bred males so that the breeding has an upward rather than a downward tendency.

Itching piles provoke profanty, but profanty wont remove them. Donn's Olatment is recommended for itch-ing, bleeding or protrading piles. 500 at any drug store.

Reason No. 5

This we believe to be one of the strongest reasons that we should have your-order for "IDEAL PIOCES FEEL." The sales on "IDEAL Horse Feed" have advanced about 400 per cent. over a year ago, showing conclusively that your neighbors are pleased with the results. A tele-phone call or postal to T. M. Dinamore & Co. will bring your order the very day it is received.
