ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT.

Laurel-Seaford Bought By Salisbury Parties. One Of The Best Properties On The Peninsula.

The negotiations for the purchase of the Laurel-Seaford Electric Light Plant, which have been conducted by prominent Salisbury business men were concluded at Laurel last Tuesday and formal transfer of the property, stock franchise and etc., was made to the new owners, who immediately, perfected their organization under the laws of Delaware.

This is a valuable property and with the lighting already on the books, contracts on hand and in actual sight, easily places this plant a leader of the lighting interests of the Peninsula. The pole line will be extended immediately to Bridgeville and in the early spring to Greenwood. The Company have a ten year contract with Bacon Bros' for fuel of sawdust and shavings, blown directly into the storage and boiler rooms, quantity sufficient to supply the Electric Plant and an Ice Plant which they intend to build. The Company also controls all of the privileges, rights and easements of the old Forge water power, located in sight of Laurel, rich in local history, tradition saying that here were cast cannon balls for Washington's Army, bog iron ore being used. The stream in addition supporting a large Grist and Saw Mill. It is confidently believed by experienced persons in hydraulics, who have thoroughly examined the property, that this stream with its large flow of water and fifteen foot head and fall, entirely free from back water pressure or tidal flows will develop more power than any stream, south of the Brandywine. Middleford on the Nanticoke above Seaford has a large flow of water, but has a much lower head and is hampered by the tidal movements. The plant is in charge of a very competent manager, and the business will be fully developed as rapidly as possible.

The directors of the Company are as follows: Wm. M. Cooper, President; J. D. Price, Vice President; Wm. T. Johnson, Secretary and Treasurer; F. Leonard Wailes, Granville Bacon.

A GOOD CONGRESSMAN.

Hon. Thos. A. Smith, Comparatively Poor in Purse But Worthily in Ability. Deserves Your Vote.

"On the Eastern Shore, in the First Congressional district, the Democratic candidate, Thomas A. Smith, has 'made good' as a Representative in Congress. He is a poor man, but one of the highest characters; a lawyer by profession; experienced in legislative work, having served his country in the Senate of Maryland with intelligence and ability, and in the present Congress he has demonstrated his special qualifications as a Representative. He knows how to get in touch with public affairs in Washington, and no member of Congress has in such a short time accomplished more for his constituents than Thomas A. Smith has done for his.

"In his contest for election he has a man of great wealth opposing him. The Republicans of this State seem to make a point of selecting rich men as their candidates for Congress. Is this to be taken as an indication that they do so because they approve of the use of money in elections? I stand firmly opposed to the buying of votes and the debauching of the voter with money.

"I believe it has done more to corrupt the morals and the politics of our State than any other agency. If I had the power I would compel every candidate to make a public statement of every cent he uses in elections, for what purpose it is used and the parties to whom paid. The corrupting influence of money has permeated the politics, not only of the Eastern Shore, but has reached out into this city. I am told that today Eastern Shore methods are being used in the Third Congressional district.

"My friends, if we want to preserve the Republic, if we want to see Democratic institutions maintained in their purity, if we want to see a higher and a better class of men in public life, we should set our faces firmly against the use of money in elections and determine that we will aid in bringing to justice and punishment the man who will use his wealth for the purchase of political honors.

"I do hope that the people of the Eastern Shore will show by the re-election of Thomas A. Smith that they have gone back to the customs of the old days, when they sent men like Crisfield, and Samuel Hambleton, and Philip Frank Thomas, and Henry Page and other poor, but able, men to represent them in Congress.

REPUBLICAN TARIFF.

A Special Privilege Issue And A Trust Breeder. Should Be Supplanted By Democratic Doctrines Of Equal Rights Represented By Mr. Smith.

At Tuesday's large Democratic Mass Meeting in Baltimore, Senator Wm. Pinkney Whyte, in an eloquent address, said:—

"As has been clearly stated by another the issue is not between protection and free trade, but it is between the perpetration of the present exaggerated protection, which produces and fosters monopoly on the one hand and on the other hand a fair and just revision of the tariff schedules in the interest of the general welfare. The former is the Republican program and the latter the Democratic."

"It was not always so with the dominant party today. For the platform of 1860 of the Republican party contained this declaration:

"That while providing revenue for the support of the general Government by duties upon imports, sound policy requires such an adjustment of these imports as to encourage the development of industrial interests of the whole country."

"No sane man can suppose that taxation upon imports can be entirely abandoned, but the duties can and should be revised by the coming Congress in such manner as to produce fair revenue to the Government, with due regard to the laborer, who produces the manufactured article, as well as the manufacturer for whom it is produced. This is the true policy of the Government, and you may call it by what name you please, it is a policy of equal and exact justice to all and to special favoritism to any. (Applause.)

Increased Cost of Living.

"High protective tariff laws are said to advance wages, but they forget that they also increase the cost of living. Never was there a fairer opportunity for bona fide tariff reform without disturbing the business interests of the country.

"The pretense that the business may be disturbed by tariff revision is a shame and absurd. In the 45 years from 1861, while the Republicans have from time to time had legislative power, they have changed or revised the tariff 48 times, not in the interest of the consumer, but largely in behalf of corporations which now constitute the trusts.

Favors To The Few.

The Democratic national platform of 1900 condemned the 'Dingley Tariff' as a trust binding measure, skillfully devised to give to the few favors which they do not deserve and to place upon the many burdens which they should bear. Who can question the position of the Democracy upon the trusts and the tariff, by which they fatten.

"That the Republicans are being driven to the wall on the question of tariff revision is clear, for Secretary Taft in Ohio is repeating his admissions that the revision of the tariff system is necessary, owing to the changed condition of affairs since the Dingley act was passed. Indeed, there is a large section of the Republican party who are not 'standpatters' and are ready for revision, but insist it should be done by its friends.

"Vultures" Were Afraid.

"Who are its friends? The same vultures who flattered over the Arlington Hotel when the Dingley act was conceived.

That they were afraid of their 'friends' last summer is clear. "The colossal fund collected for use by the republicans from the trusts and insurance and other corporations stands as a monument of shame to the corrupters of the elective franchise. Its extent has never been ascertained, and Mr. Hughes, the Republican candidate for Governor of New York, should tell why he did not call, in his investigation of the Equitable and other companies, Secretary Cortelyou and extract from him the magnitude of those contributions, so that the people may understand the danger of their liberty by the use of such means in a Presidential election.

Senator Tillman's Move.

"Senator Tillman introduced at the last session of the Senate an act to prohibit corporations from making money contributions in connection with political campaigns, and although it passed the Senate by unanimous consent it was smothered in the House.

DISHONOR AND DISGRACE

Shames The Man Who Buys Or Sells Human Votes. Greenback Attachment The Worst Kind Of A Trick Ballot.

The Sun, of Baltimore in a strong editorial yesterday forebly denounces bribery. It says:—

"We have been hearing during the last few years a good deal in the campaigns on the Eastern Shore about 'trick ballots.' The worst kind of a trick ballot is a ballot with a greenback attachment. Of that we are not hearing so much from the people who are scandalized by trickery and fraud. Bribery is a more deadly, because a more insidious disease of the body politic than either. As long as elections are controlled by the corrupt use of money, it will be useless to attempt to dislodge the trusts and combines and monopolies from their intrenchments.

The Sun in calling attention to the anti-bribery agreement in Wisconsin county, asked why the same agreement cannot be extended to other counties of that district by an honest arrangement between the two candidates not to permit the corrupt use of money and not to accept the office if it can be shown that corruption was used to elect. Mr. Smith, the Democratic candidate, made a prompt response, declaring his readiness to enter into such an agreement and to keep it. It is to be hoped that Mr. Jackson, who was prevented by his engagements from making a prompt response, will make no further delay in assuming such an obligation as will insure a decent election on the Eastern Shore.

As we have already shown the framers of the Constitution of our State regarded, and justly so, election corruption as one of the most infamous crimes, deeming the man who has sold or bought a vote forever thereafter unworthy to vote or to hold office.

Mr. Jackson and the other candidates still have time to make the pledge to suppress corruption in their districts. Let them now speak or else hereafter forever hold their peace.

Hallowe'en.

Wednesday evening of this week the Masonic Hall was the scene of one of the prettiest Hallowe'en dances ever given in Salisbury, when Mrs. Frank M. Dick, of "Delight" Farm, entertained about sixty friends.

The hall was appropriately decorated with pumpkins, lanterns and potted plants, giving a distinctive Hallowe'en appearance.

The music was particularly fine, being furnished by Weber, of Baltimore, with the assistance of Prof. W. A. Kennerly, of Salisbury. A program of twenty numbers was started at nine o'clock. During the intermission, a sumptuous supper was served on the Hall stage, by Caterer R. Harry Phillips, of the Peninsula Hotel, who also served superb during the evening.

This dance proved to be one of the most enjoyable occasions of the season.

Among the out of town guests present, were:
Mrs. Robt. Mayer, Mr. Canby Mayor, of Baltimore; Mrs. Selover, of Cambridge; Miss Catherine Dingle, of Easton; Miss Hemming, of Philadelphia; Miss Nellie Waller, of Princess Anne.

Thomas—Burbage.

The marriage of Miss Lula Burbage to Mr. John Taylor Thomas was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock at "Robbin's Roost" the beautiful home of her father, Col. W. E. Burbage.

Only the near relatives were present but the details of the wedding were elaborate.

Mr. Thomas is especially to be congratulated on winning the heart and hand of such a brilliant and cultured young lady and such a charming reader. Her many friends are genuinely sorry that her golden personality will be lost to Johnson City social circles.

—The Staff, Johnson City, Tenn.

Miss Burbage is a native of Worcester County and is well known here. She is a cousin of Miss Ora Disharoon and has been entertained in this city.

—At the 17th Annual Convention of Salisbury District Epworth League held in Laurel, Wednesday these officers were elected:—President, Rev. George O. Williams, Berlin; Vice Presidents, Mrs. J. W. Calons, Princess Anne; Rev. J. W. Fogle, Girdlewood; Mrs. O. I. Martin, Parkley; Miss Maria Ellegood, Salisbury; Secretary, Rev. T. R. Van Dyke, Deal's Island; Treasurer, W. T. Townsend, Cape Charles; Junior Superintendent, Mrs. Adam Stangle, Salisbury.

—The Ladies of St. Peter's Guild will give a Musical Tea at the home of Mrs. M. V. Brington, on Isabella Street, Saturday, Nov. 3rd, from 3 to 5 p. m. Admission 25 cents, including refreshments.

ANOTHER GANG HERE.

Bold Attempt At Robbery Near First Bridge On Thursday Morning. Three Buildings Broken Into.

The offices of L. E. Williams & Co. and T. H. Mitchell and the store of Turner Bros., were broken into by a gang of thieves Wednesday night. At L. E. Williams & Co.'s they broke open the shutters and broke through the glass of one the windows to gain an entrance to the office. All the drawers in the office were pulled out and ransacked. The two cash drawers were forced open and about $3 of old coins and minor silver taken. The coins were chiefly old coins that they were using as keepsakes, a trade dollar and an old silver dollar.

At T. H. Mitchell's they made an entrance by cutting off the screen on the side door and breaking through the door which was glass, and reaching through the opening thus made, turned the key that was on the inside. Here, as at L. E. Williams & Co.'s, all drawers were pulled out and ransacked. They attempted to break into the cash drawer in the desk by cutting, as though with a penknife, the desk being badly mutilated. Failing to open the drawer by this method they turned the desk over and broke open the drawer from underneath and obtained about $5 in money.

At Turner Bros., wholesale grocers, they broke in through one of the rear windows using about the same methods as at the other places. Messrs. Turner Bros. state that it is impossible to say how much or how little they took. All that they could definitely locate as being gone was a box of 100 cigars and some stamps out of the office. It is believed that they intended to blow up the safe here, but were deterred by one of the curtains which are so arranged as to pull down instead of up; getting out of shape. As this was a curtain in the front of the store where anyone passing along the street might see them at their work it is supposed that they were afraid to make the attempt.

It is presumed that all of these operations were done by the same parties, and in all probability were the ones that Mr. Turner, the night watchman at the Masonic Temple heard talking in the alley between the Advertiser building and the Masonic Temple that evening. Mr. Turner says "It was about half past three in the morning, and as I had been around a good bit all day, and had been busy all the evening waiting on the dancers, I stepped over to the room where we had kept the cream, and raised the window to get some fresh air. As I did so I noticed three men standing directly beneath the window. As it was pretty late for them to be loafing around the building, I stepped back in the shadow of the curtain to hear what they were saying. There were two white and one colored man. I heard the colored man say "SE—there is a light up there above; somebody might be listening." Then they went on to say how easy it would be to break into the building, and get away before anybody could hear them, then suddenly the colored man said "Well boys, look here we can't finish this job tonight, because it is getting on towards morning and we have got to catch this freight, so we will have to come back and finish this job. Then they walked off and that was the last I saw of them. I ran to the phone and tried to get central, so that I could call "Jim Crouch" but the phone was either out of order or central was asleep, 'cause I couldn't get them to answer me at all. I sat up the whole night, and watched for them to come back, but didn't see any signs of them."

TWO DANCES GIVEN

This Week, One By The Ladies of Town Monday, And The Other By Mrs. F. M. Dick, Wednesday.

The young ladies of Salisbury outvied themselves to all appearances Monday evening when they most delightfully entertained the young men of the town at a phantom dance, with the Leap Year attributes.

The room was fantastically decorated with "pumpkins" suspended from the ceiling with lights inside and the pillars of the room were decorated with bunting and autumn leaves. Cozy corners were distributed around the room. Everyone was in phantom costume and after several dances in costumes, everybody unmasked and the ladies filled the gentlemen's programs. During the intermission refreshments were served and the favors distributed.

The guests included:—

Misses Nellie Waller, Dymphel, Gladys Moore, Louise Perry, Mamie Adkins, Carrie Adkins, Annie Dabshill, Ora Disharoon, Beadie Trader, Winnie Trader, Ada Scott, Van Cleve, Miss Richards, Julia Waller, Clara Tilghman, Loh Smith, Blanche Moore, Mamie Gilje, Lucille Trussell, Margaret Todd, Roseann Smith, Flo Grier, Little Leatherbury, Mrs. Falton. ## Mr. Bonaparte A Peculiarly Inconsistent Reformer.

The Hon. Chas. J. Bonaparte, the former reformer, has in the estimation of many people, fallen from grace as a political pariah.

Mr. Roger W. Cull, a well known lawyer of Baltimore, an associate of Mr. Bonaparte in civil service reform pays his respects to Mr. Bonaparte in the following caustic way.

"Lastly he has been under the awful strain which attaches to a disciple of political pariah who is compelled to go stumping the Eastern Shore in the interests of Hon. William H. Jackson. It has not been many years since Mr. Bonaparte was emphatically expressing his disapproval of Mr. Wachter's nomination as Mayor, for the reason, he contended, that the latter is a spoilsman. It is an exceedingly far cry from that standpoint to one from which he can blandly recommend the election of a gentleman who is popularly credited with being not only a spoilsman but everything else that Mr. Bonaparte has been opposed to politically.

Mr. Cull hits the nail square on the head when he says that Mr. Bonaparte in his present course has shut the eyes of the Democratic Party without opening those of the Republican."

Favors Jamestown Exhibit.

Wilmington.—Members of the Board of Trade favor the representation of Delaware at the Jamestown Exposition, and every effort to have the Diamond State make a creditable showing will be made.

The Board of Trade committee held a meeting at which it was thought that some historical building of Delaware should be represented, and the Old Swedes' Church was suggested. The coming Legislature will be asked to mean appropriation for the exhibit.

RUNNING SORES COVERED LIMBS

Little Girl's Obstinate Case of Eczema—Instantaneous Relief By Cuticura—Little Boy's Hands and Arms Also Were a Mass of Torturing Sores—Grateful Mother Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES A HOUSEHOLD STANDBY"

"In reply to your letter I write you my experience, and you are privileged to use it as you see fit. Last year, after having my little girl treated by a very prominent physician for an obstinate case of eczema, I resorted to the Cuticura Remedies, and was so well pleased with the almost instantaneous relief afforded that we discarded the physician's prescription and relied entirely on the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills. When we commenced with the Cuticura Remedies her feet and limbs were covered with running sores. In about six weeks we had her completely well, and there has been no recurrence of the trouble. "In July of this year a little boy in our family poisoned his hands and arms with poison oak, and in twenty-four hours his hands and arms were a mass of torturing sores. We used only the Cuticura Remedies, washing his hands and arms with the Cuticura Soap, and anointed them with the Cuticura Ointment, and then gave him the Cuticura Remedies. In about three weeks he was completely well, and we do not expect to see him again with such a case. It costs from twenty to twenty-five dollars to come up to the mountain. Respectfully, Mrs. Lizzie Vincent Thomas, Fairmount, Walden's Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 13, 1905."

Lessons in Social Economy.

Norfolk, Va.—Social economy will comprise one of the interesting and instructive exhibits at the Jamestown Exposition to be held on the shores of the Hampton Roads, near Norfolk, Va., next year. The celebration commemorates the founding of the first English speaking settlement in America at Jamestown, Va., in 1607, and is the most important historical event in the history of the United States.

This exhibit will show the development attained during three hundred years along these lines and will be complete and comprehensive in character. Interest in the display is further enhanced by a series of daily lectures to be given in a hall provided for that purpose. The lectures will be illustrated with stereopticon views and moving pictures, showing the various places of progress from the inception to the present development of this branch of work. This feature will be under the auspices of the National Civic Federation of New York, and the American Civic Association.

The exhibit will show the development in municipal and rural improvements of cities and towns; the treatment of streets and parks, and the methods of sanitation and drainage. It will also include organized or individual efforts made by employers for the benefit of employees; the establishment of sanitary work places, the means employed for education, recreation and housing of the working classes, social settlements, children playgrounds, public baths, etc.

The section devoted to charities and corrections will include an exhibit from state and municipal institutions for the care of defectives, dependants and delinquents, showing the most efficient methods employed for the protection of life and property against crime, pauperism and disease.

An exhibit of the regulations governing labor and industry will consist largely of charts, photographs, printed matter, maps, models and apparatus. By means of a series of statistical charts will be shown the average rate of wages and the relative cost of living; the effect of strikes and lockouts, and the extent of the employment of women and children. Material relating to special movements and investigations and their results will be set forth in graphic form.

A feature of especial human interest will be the exhibit showing the devices for safe guarding the lives and limbs of working men and women, and for preventing accidents under ordinary conditions of life and labor, to which the general public is exposed. This part of the display will be classified as follows: Photographs, models and drawings of safe folding; protective devices for boilers, water gauges, signal apparatus; boiler and pipe valves; also protective devices for electrical machinery and acetylene apparatus motor and power transmitters, turning on and shutting off power, belt connections, couplings etc; fire protection and preventive measures against premature explosions; first aid to the injured; mining and quarrying; devices in use on stone crushing machinery, methods of storing explosives; safety devices for looms, carding, paper cutting, stamping and moulding machinery; appliances for elevators, joists, etc., workmen's dwellings, dressing and living rooms together with models, plans and photographs of work ingmens industrial betterment institutions of all kinds.

Another feature which cannot fail to prove interesting will be the exhibit of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum showing the development of the Commerce of the United States from its beginning to the present period.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment.

Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars to any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO, Toledo, O. Sold by druggists 75 cents. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

Harsh physics react, weaken the bowels, cause chronic constipation. Doan's Regulate operate easily, tone the stomach, cure constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist for them.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

The Life Saving Service.

It is about time for the Life Saving Service of the United States to be put on its winter footing, in anticipation of the autumn gales. There may be some difficulty about it this year, for at the annual meeting of the Life Saving Board, recently held in Boston, General Superintendent Kimball lamented the crippled condition of the service and the difficulty in finding good men to fill its ranks.

This service was inaugurated in 1870, and since that time it has snored 18,980 shipwrecked persons and saved more than $27,000,000 worth of property. Its existence, therefore, is justified by its results; while the story of its successful work might be greatly increased but for its enforced idleness during the summer months, when Congress, in its wisdom, declines to believe that storms are possible, and therefore suspend the service.

The reason why Superintendent Kimball anticipates trouble in filling his crews this year is that the wage offered is entirely too little for the risk of death or injury that the surfmen must run and for the hard work they must do. Besides, if killed or disabled while on duty, they are cast upon the world without support, for they are allowed no pensions of any kind.

In a word, the treatment of these faithful workers by Congress is disgraceful, and could only be accounted for heretofore by considering it as a political job. Under the present era of non-political reform perhaps the Life Savers will fare better and be able to make the service more efficient.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

—London.—Bernard Shaw, in a lecture at Manchester, said the ten commandments were dangerous and undesirable. For example, he took the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," and remarked:

"My own opinion is we don't kill people enough. We confine our killing too much to foreigners. There are large classes of people in the community who ought to be killed. Every citizen ought every few years to be brought before a public board and asked if he could justify his existence. If he could not make it clear that he did as much for the community as the community did for him he ought to be sent to the lethal chamber."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Woman's Trials.

The bitter truth is a woman's life is to be childless. Who can tell how hard the struggle may have been and how hard to resign herself to her lonely lot? The absence of this link to bind marital life together, the absence of this pledge of mutual affection is a common disappointment. Many unfortunate couples become estranged thereby. Even if they do not drift apart, one may read the whole extent of their disappointment in the eyes of such a childless couple when they rest on the children of others. To them the largest family does not seem too numerous. In many cases of barrenness or childlessness the obstacle to childbearing is easily removed by the cure of weakness on the part of the woman. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been the means of restoring health and fruitfulness to many a barren woman, to the great joy of the household. Labor, heat, race, cause the obstruction to the bearing of children has been found to be of a surgical character, but easily removable by painless operative treatment at the Leavelle Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., over which Dr. Pierce of the "Favorite Prescription" fame presides. In fact, where children are desired and are absent, an effort should be made to find out the real cause, since it is generally so easily removed by proper treatment.

In all the various weaknesses, displacements, prolapses, inflammation and debility, catarrhs, and in all cases of nervousness and debility, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the most efficient remedy that can possibly be used. It has to its credit the curing of thousands of cases—more in fact than any other remedy put up for sale through druggists, especially for woman's troubles. The ingredients of which the "Favorite Prescription" is composed have received the most positive endorsement from the leading medical writers on Modern Medicine of all the several schools of practice. All the ingredients are printed in plain English on the wrapper enclosing the bottle, so that any woman making use of this famous medicine may know exactly what she is taking. Dr. Pierce takes his patients into his full confidence, which he can afford to do as the formula after which the "Favorite Prescription" is made will stand the most careful examination.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best and safest laxative for women.

CHAS. W. ELY, Principal,
FREDERICK, MD.

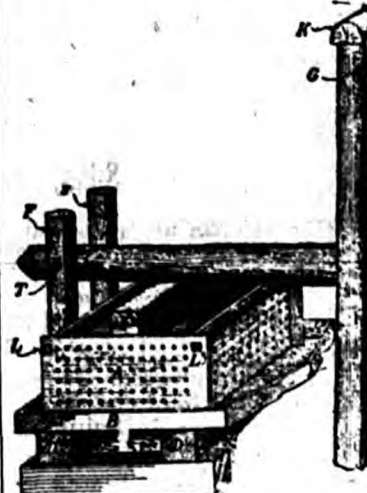

FOOD VALUE OF GRAPE JUICE.

Claimed Secondary to Milk in Its Nutritive Principles.

It is quite generally claimed that using a reasonable large amount of unfermented grape juice with an otherwise suitable mixed diet is beneficial and that digestion is improved, intestinal fermentation disturbances, and that gains in body weight result. It should not be forgotten that the abundant diet and hygienic methods of living practiced at the grape cures play an important part, but even taking all this into account it seems fair to conclude that some of the good results can be directly attributed to the unfermented grape juice.

Grape juice contains the same
kinds of nutrients as other foods.
The percentage of water is high, and thus it resembles liquid foods more closely than solid foods. It is sometimes compared with milk, the most common liquid food. It contains less water than milk, more carbohydrates, and less protein, fat, and ash.

In the illustration is shown a home made press for preparing un-
fermented grape juice.
Two upright posts (F) set deep and firmly the ground side and about 12 inches apart. (It is a good idea to attach some deadmen
to them in the ground to prevent them pulling out too easily.) Between these posts the lever (E) is hung by means of a bolt (T), or the lever may be hung to the side of a building, or a hole notched into a tree large enough to admit the end of the lever and a bolt run through that. At the other end of the lever are two posts, so set that the lever can be raised up between them by means of block and tackle. The press itself consists of two timbers (D), on which the press bottom (B) rests,
and on this bottom is the press barket, consisting of the two sides and two ends, and so constructed that it can be easily taken apart and set up again, being held together at the ends by means of rods (L). The sides and ends should be bored full of small holes from three-eighths to one-half an inch in diameter to allow exit for the juice.

After the press is filled, the top (which is made to fit in the inside of the basket) and cross blocks (I) are put on and the lever is then allowed to press down on it. A press like this has the advantage that it can be filled in the evening and left to press
until morning while the farmer sleeps. The precaution, of course, must be taken to set a tub large enough to hold the juice under the press.

Effect of Crossing Apples.

If a very sweet apple is grafted on exceedingly sour stock, the sweetness of the resulting fruit is not reduced. The acidity and other qualities of an apple are largely affected by the health of the tree and its location, some varieties varying much more than others. The Northern Spy and Bellflower vary from the best to the most worthless fruit. On one tree apples may be tender, juicy and of pleasant acid flavor while on another they are tough, corky and acid,
without any suggestion of sweetness.

Cultivating the Orchard.

There is nothing that adds to the value of a farm like a well cared for apple orchard. Such farms are not in the market. A young, thrifty, orchard, not old enough to bear, adds to the value of the farm twice as much as the orchard cost. You can't drive a boy off a farm where there is a good orchard and he will take care of it. The "harrier," the hoe, the hand saw and the jackknife, will give new life to an old, half-starved orchard.—Indiana Farmer.

In Shipping Fruit.

It has been demonstrated that the carrying qualities of deciduous fruits can be wonderfully improved
by cooling before loading in the cars
and it is claimed that fruit entirely ripe, but not soft, can be delivered in eastern cities in excellent condition
if cooled until placed in the car.

Selecting Apple Trees.

Remember this in selecting your trees for the apple orchard: the best fruit sometimes is grown on the crooked trees. Therefore, do not sacrifice quality for appearance.

Improving the Soil.

On heavy clay soil lawns made with white clover, which grows readily, improves the soil and prepares it for grasses. An ounce will plant about ten square feet.

Nothing To Fear.

Mothers need have no hesitancy in continuing to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to their little ones, as it contains absolutely nothing injurious. This remedy is not only perfectly safe to give small children, but it is a medicine of great worth and merit.
It has a world-wide reputation for its cures of coughs, colds and croup and can always be relied upon.
For sale by C. L. Dickerson and G.
Hearns.

THE EUROPEAN PEASANT.

America never had the peasant,
the small farmer living in villages and cultivating a few acres beyond their limits, as a noticeable element in its population. The mark of the peasant has been always filled, the armies of Europe. He is beginning to write its history.

The European peasant is simply the European common man, living under conditions that make him the reserve force of the future. Speculative writers have sometimes voiced a regret that there were no more "northern barbarians" to replace with their fresh blood the civilizations of today when their hour of exhaustion approaches. Yet
the plodding, "dusty-footed" slow-thinking, little-reading peasant who is wrestling a living from the soil constitutes just such a reservoir of vital and uncorrupted force as the tribes
that issued out of the German forest
in the days of the Roman decadence.

THE GAME OF HOUSEWORK.

It will be interesting to observe the reception accorded the views of a speaker at a club convention in St.
Paul by the women of America. The speaker, in the course of some remarks on the subject of physical culture for women, declared: "There is really no better exercise than housework. It brings into play a wider range of muscle and brain, when properly done, than any other form of work. It is a magnificent training for mind and body."

These beautiful, theoretical sermons on the blessedness of drudgery
make good reading, but housework,
in reality, is the hardest kind of work
and no philosophizing can make play out of it. Housework is exercise, and so is digging ditches, but neither can be called first rate fun. Exercise of any kind, to be beneficial, must be enjoyable. It is not likely the game of housework will ever become as much of a fad as bridge whist.

FEMININISM IN FRANCE.

Since the Revolution in France
many things have changed. For one thing, the waste of men in war has familiarized women with varied industry and with the management of estates and business establishments as in perhaps no other country. The French "family council" system retains for a woman not only the respect of her grown son but even a considerable measure of legal control over him long after English and American law would emancipate him.
He cannot even marry without his parents' consent.

The growth of "feminism" in France of recent years has been rapid.
It compelled the institution of a divorce law. Woman suffrage is a cardinal tenet in socialism, which has nowhere more power as actual government than it has attained in France. In Russia, which is largely dominated by French thought, the Duma has declared for the woman's vote.

MARRIAGE UP-TO-DATE.

The "up-to-dateness" of this country was never better illustrated than by a telephonic marriage down at Pearlington, Mississippi. The minister secured to tie the knot last himself and did not show up. When he found his way home about 11 p. m.
he telephoned the waiting couple,
and was finally prevailed upon to conduct the service by telephone.
They were married through twenty odd miles of copper wire, neither of the principals having seen the minister. Whether in case of an investigation such a marriage would prove binding is an interesting legal point.

MARRIAGE FAILURES.

Professional humorists who
for years have been turning out jokes about the business rating of fashionable brides and bridegrooms should try a new turn, says the New York World. Nowadays divorce proceedings get mixed up with the financial news and stockmarket reports. Dun and Bradstreet may soon have to issue lists of marriage failures with the terms, how much on the dollar, the husband expects to pay the first wife before resuming business with a new partner.

CAUSE OF THE SOCIALIST.

Those Socialists and Anarchists who proclaim "the willingness of true lovers of liberty to spill blood"
—these and others, of course—should emigrate to Russia instead of emigrating from it. The best chance in the world to-day for internal phlebotomy seems to offer there.—
New York Sun.

The Cause of Many

Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia,
heart failure or apoplexy are often
the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance
the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves
break down and waste away cell by cell.
Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.
It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized.
It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a small bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from female trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation, she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for just such operations.
It is quite true that these troubles
may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed,
because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations.

Margie Ryan, Treasurer of St.
Andrew's Society, Indianapolis, Ind.,
writes of her cure as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I cannot find words to express my thanks for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me. The doctor said I could not get well unless I had an operation. I tried the trouble from which I suffered. I knew I could not stand the strain of an operation and made up my mind I would be as loved for my life. Hearing how Lydia E. Pinkham's

Democratic Ticket.

FOR CONGRESS:
HON. THOMAS A. SMITH,
Of Caroline County.

VOTE FOR DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES AND MR. SMITH.

It is a matter of great satisfaction to the citizens of Wicomico County that the Democratic and Republican parties have got together on the question of the use of money in Wicomico County. It is believed that the agreement entered into insures a clean election in this county. While the idea of any body or bodies of men getting together and agreeing to obey the law is an insult to the majesty and power of the law, and to those whose duty it is to see the law obeyed, yet it is a great deal in view of the past customs in politics in this county, for them to agree to do away with the corruption fund. It is an acknowledgement of the power of public sentiment, which in this county has undergone such a decided change that it is not only unpopular to use money for bribery but dangerous.

There was a time when it was openly boasted that a conviction for bribery could not be obtained in the county no matter how conclusive the proof. This time has gone, and he that puts any faith in such a belief will find an unpleasant awakening when he faces a Wicomico Jury on charge of bribery. It will not be amiss for all political workers to take warning and if in the heat of the fight next Tuesday they are tempted to drop back on old time methods, to think a good while before they act. No matter what may have been condoned or excused in the past, they will hereafter be held to a strict observance of the anti-bribery law. Also will it be well for our State's Attorney and sheriff as well as all of those, whose duty it is to see the laws are obeyed, to be wide-awake, and understand that public sentiment will demand a conviction, if in any part of this county bribery is attempted.

Votes and work hard for Hon. Thos. A. Smith, who stands on the Democratic ticket for an honest election and a square deal.

CHANCE FOR POOR—BUT HONEST AND CAPABLE MEN.

Concerning the non-buile election in Wicomico county, the Baltimore American ask editorially and pointedly, "If a clean election is assured in Mr. Jackson's county, why can not clean elections be had in the other counties of Maryland?"

This Republican organ like other good citizens is asking pertinent questions. For answer as to the other eight counties on the Eastern Shore ask Hon. W. H. Jackson, republican candidate for Congress. He knows that Hon. Thos. A. Smith and the democratic convention made the tender of a clean election. To him and his convention we say without fear of contradiction that Mr. Jackson could have done more than a score of other men in the Republican Party to purify it. And we believe that fair minded republicans will admit that his defeat will do much towards clean elections in the future on the Eastern Shore, and will make it possible for educated honest poor men in both the Republican and Democratic parties to have ambition and to be elected to office by honest methods.

SMITH OR JACKSON WHICH?

Secretary of War Taft admitted in his Baltimore speech, the oft repeated claim made by Democrats, that the tariff is the "Father of Trusts". Now, who will the opponents of the oppressive and tyrannical trusts choose to help revise the iniquitous tariff, a "Stand-Patter" like Mr. Jackson or a tariff reformer like Mr. Smith.

This tariff revision is not so much a question of party as it is of fair play to competitors in business, and justice to farmers and laboring men.

THE GREAT ISSUE.

All over the country is the question, "Shall the trusts rule the government or shall the government control the trusts?"

THAT GIANTIC BLUNDER.

Every fair minded Republican admits that Mr. Jackson's contest before Congress for the seat of Mr. Smith was a monumental specimen of blunder and political cowardice. That the man who uses the methods he does to win ought never to succeed. He gets no credit for it from members of his own party. The man who refuses to give a "square deal" to an opponent, as he did in 1902 to Mr. Ellegood and as he does to Mr. Smith has no right to ask for a "square deal" from anyone. But what makes his blunder more emphatic, is that the Republican Election Committee failed to find one of his dozen specific charges of fraud and unfairness sustained by the evidence of about 250 witnesses, or by rummaging among his barrels of so called "Trick Ballots," and told him he must take more proof. He has not done so, yet he plays the "Baby" act. Is this mainly conduct?

READ AND SHOW YOUR NEIGHBORS.

Any person who has, or shall from now to the election, offer or promise any reward or inducement of any kind to a person to vote or not to vote shall suffer the following punishment:

First: He shall be forever disqualified to hold office.

Second: He shall be forever deprived of his right to vote.

Third: He shall be sent to the jail or penitentiary.

Fourth: He shall be liable to a fine of $500, one half to go to the informer.

What a combination of dishonor, disgrace and shame!

TRUSTS OR NO TRUSTS WHICH?

Voters of Wicomico County remember that the congressman from this district will have an important part in revising the tariff that feeds the trusts which have been corrupting the people and controlling legislation; and remember that your vote will have an important part in deciding whether Mr. Smith who opposes "Trusts" or Mr. Jackson who stands in with them, shall go to Congress. Mr. Smith To Revise The Tariff, or Mr. Jackson "To Stand Pat."

CONGRESS MUST DECIDE THIS QUESTION.

A vote for Mr. Smith is a vote against Trusts; a vote for Mr. Jackson is a vote for the trusts.

Why, Mr. Jackson has made a trust of the Republican Party on the Eastern Shore, for the last eight years, and used it for himself exclusively since the defeat of his brother, Wilbur, in 1898.

The people are down on Corrupt Rule, Boss Rule, and Trust Rule.

CAMPAIGN SPEECH FOR MR. JACKSON.

The only campaign speech in this country for Mr. Jackson was the Circus Man who proclaimed from his wagon, I am going to vote for Mr. Jackson. Some one said he looked dirty enough to do it. "Tommy" Kelley asked him how much he got for that speech. We can tell "Tommy" he offered to make the same oration for Mr. Smith for $3 and was turned down.

THREE DAYS AND THEN THE ELECTION.

Democrat, work and talk in season and out of season for Congressmen Smith, and against Trusts. Vote yourself and get your neighbor to vote. Plead with him, beg him, for his own sake, his children's sake, his country's sake to vote for Mr. Smith. Tell him that he will be ashamed to have his neighbors and friends say, "He did not think enough of his manhood to vote."

WHAT IS THE VALUE OF A VOTE?

Ask the men who run the Trusts. They know that it is the Peoples votes, most of whom are working men, that must kill the Trusts or keep them going. Abraham Lincoln said, "The Lord must love the poor people as he made so many of them." It is this class of citizens who decide elections.

JOHN H. DULANY,
of Wicomico County.

Discouraged Prohibitionists Listen to Bonforts Wine and Spirit Circular.

"A wave of Prohibition is sweeping over this country, from one end to the other, that threatens to engulf and carry to destruction the entire whiskey enterprise. It is growing stronger each day, and each day towns, cities, counties and even states are added to that class in which the whiskey business cannot be carried on legitimately." And The Brewers' Journal, New York, October 1, 1906, announces that "The brewers and liquor men of Pennsylvania are hustling to keep down the vote of Castle, the Prohibition candidate for governor."

The capital invested in alcoholic liquors in 1870 was less than sixty seven million dollars while in 1900 it was over four hundred and fifty millions. Here are the names of the five most effective National organizations:

- a. The United States Brewers' Association.
- b. The National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association.
- c. The National Retail Liquor Dealers' Association.
- d. The National Protective Bureau.
- e. The German American Alliance.

Reader what will your vote and influence register next Tuesday about this business? Are you satisfied with the jug trade? Do you want the Prohibition law enforced? Does your old party candidate tell you what he will do?

Dr. Silas C. Swallow, late Prohibition candidate for President of the U. S. has brought suit against former P. M., Gen'l Chas. Emory Smith of the Philadelphia Press and a score of other Pennsylvania papers for libel to the amount report says of $300,000.

Jan. H. Dulany in his canvas goes to Snow Hill and Pocomoke today Friday and Orisfield Monday night. He is to take with him to latter place the Messick Prohibition singers, who are returning from their West Virginia singing tour of several months.

Messrs. J. Bolgiano & Son, Gentlemen:—The Hyacinth bulbs you sold me last fall are certainly handsome. To-day they are in full bloom, and the variety of the colors make them so attractive and beautiful. I must thank you for your choice and selection. It seems impossible for them to have been better.

BEFORE YOU START OUT TO BUY

Steady your judgment before your money goes over a merchant's counter. Lacy Thoroughgood has gone to such lengths to put good clothes in his store that he wants as many men as possible to know about them. That's why we caution men to think twice before they spend a penny on clothes. If Thoroughgood can make you feel that it's simply impossible for any other store to equal our values in Suits and Overcoats, then we're driving home the truth and turning into our store the trade that we deserve, by rights, of clean, far-sighted merchandising. We want you to see the beautiful Overcoats—hundreds and hundreds of them, and just as many Rain Coats, all hand-tailored. Our Rain Coats are just as good for dry weather as for wet. In dry weather they make a handsome light overcoat; in wet weather they keep a man dry and well dressed at the same time. We have Rain Coats for boys from eight to eighteen years old.

What Does It Mean
to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years,
and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give.
Dividends are declared every year in the Mutual Benefit, and the policyholders use them either to help pay premiums or to buy increased insurance. The policies of the Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co.
contain special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before placing your insurance. You owe it to your family to have the best.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS
By F. R. Davidson, Rutland, Vt.
LARTI'S HIGHEST MONUMENT.
Nov. 4, '06—(Matt 26:17-30.)
To build commemorative monuments has been the universal ambition. Wherever men have gone
they have erected memorial pillars,
pyramids, obelisks, columns,
statues to mark the spot where great discoveries were made, or battles fought or heroes were entombed.
The traveler in his journey around the world visits these giant memorials, and hears again the story of their creation. So it is with the Pyramids of Egypt, those mighty mountains of stone, overlooking the fat valley of the Nile, the famous tomb of the Egyptian kings which the eyes of Moses saw when he was a school boy in Goshen.
So it is with the mighty pile upon the battlefield of Waterloo, which marks the spot where the ambition
of the great Napoleon was crushed, and the death blow to his career was given.
So it is with Bunker Hill monument, a modest shaft as to altitude, testifying to a seeming defeat, but in reality to the birth of a nation.
These are but samples of a desire on the part of all men to perpetuate the memory of great deeds or of great men to the generations yet unborn.
It is a natural craving, and men are not to be criticised for it. For even the Son of Man erected a monument higher than all others, more enduring than all others, more significant than all others, when he instituted the Eucharist—the feast of love.
How did he do it? He did not put his disciples to quarrying rock
with which to rear an imperishable memorial. He gathered them around him in an upper room, and partook of a plain supper with them, and then said, "Do this in remembrance of Me."
And that monument stands for the utter breaking down and destruction of the spirit of cast among men. At that table when the feast was inaugurated there were "many men of many minds." It would be difficult to find a company of men more unlike in temperament and disposition. Yet they were held together as with bands of steel by their allegiance to their Master.
They were all equal at that board.
Every man, in all time, finds himself represented among the apostles.
The doubter finds himself in Thomas; the fiery, hot-headed,
quick-tempered man finds himself
in John, the Son of Thunder;
the opinionated, impulsive man in Peter; the hard-headed, practical man, desiring the first place in the kingdom, in James; the dreamer in Nathaniel Bartholomew; the business man in Matthew; the cautious,
far-seeing, careful, full of the sense of difficulty man, Andrew; the slow-witted, but solid and substantial man, Philip the practical; together with the business economist Judas, and Simon, the Canaanite, a man of zeal, enthusiasm, independence and patriotism. We are all there.
One would think to hear some people talk that the Lord's Supper was only for members of a particular church, or particular members of any one church, the cream, as it were, of devout people, the men and women who have reached the calm and holy heights of perfection. But a glance at the lives of the men who were present at the inauguration of the Eucharist, the men who are the foundation stones upon which the church is built, will forever dispel that idea. One of them was a debater, one was a devil. One of them broke out into profanity and blasphemy and denied his Lord before the morning light, and one of them
sold him to his enemies for the price of a dog. True, all but one of them were sincere, honest, intended to do right, and they overcame in time their defects of character, with the exception of one. But it ought to be a comfort to men of this age who are tempted and tried, and sometimes fall even though they are church members, to realize that they do not necessarily forfeit their right and title to partake of His supper
because they have slipped and stumbled.
The church glorifies the men who gathered around that first Paschal feast; let it not too readily condemn modern disciples who show by their lives that they belong to the same human brotherhood and are tempted like as they were.
And so it is ever! Whether in great cathedral or in barren chapel,
whether with ornate or with simple services, whether in golden chalice or with plain cup, the emblems are received, we are all entitled to them,
and proclaim our loyalty and allegiance to the mighty founder when we participate in His ordinance. The rich and poor, the high and low, stand on the same plane when we "remember Him."
And we must never forget that this monument means victory and not defeat. "Till I come" is the thrilling watchword with which the foundation and the capstone were laid. It does not mark the grave of a slain hero; it is the stepping stone to the throne of universal dominion. It is not a place to drop a tear over a conquered warrior; it is a place to shout a hallelujah chorus with a victorious chieftain. It is not funeral banquet. It is a constant testimony to a redeemed earth and a prepared heaven.

Back from a trip.
he uses the severest of good judgment concerning his own clothes. If he sat up nights planning how to do absolutely his worst the dear man couldn't succeed better.
There was the time I was indiscreet enough to mention I'd like a white crepe de chine waist to wear
with my Nile green taffeta skirt.
Back from a three days' trip came James Malcolm exceedingly pleased with himself.
"I saw it in a window," he began,
and said to myself that it was an exact match to your green taffeta
skirt and it would be so much better than a white waist because it would make a whole dress of one color. And then he produces five yards of a splendid quality of crepe
de chine of regular apple green.
It set my teeth on edge to think of its coming within a mile of that Nile green skirt, but I smiled herol-ically told him he was a dear boy and laid it away with my collection.
"My collection! Why, it's immense. It's a museum of misfits. I wear a 6 1/2 glove and there are innumerable pairs of 5s and 7s. There are tablecloths big enough for twenty people—and I never gave a dinner to more than eight at one time in my life! There are two expensive pairs of portieres that I have no place to hang and there are two patterned squares of shades that make me look either crazy or ghastly. At first I tried to educate him but he was so penitent and disappointed in himself
when the error of his ways was pointed out to him that I gave it up.
Some time I'm going to ship the whole lot of stuff to the heathen, because I know they would be delighted with the atrocities! And Jim means so well—bless his heart!"
That is the worst of it—it is so exasperating to see such a quantity of good intentions going to waste.
Yet even James Malcolm Fairweather's wife realizes that she is a lucky woman to have a husband who remembers to bring her presents, the wrong things though they be; for where there is one man like that there are dozens who never waste a thought over such lover like attentions.

Then there is the man to whom Helen is engaged. He is entirely admirable and perfectly devoted, but he, too, has a talent for doing the wrong thing. If it is a fine day for a drive he asks her to go sailing and they get boomed and correspondingly seasick. If she secretly wishes
he would invite her to see a musical comedy he trustingly appears with tickets for the circus. He breaks his neck to be nice to people whom she dislikes, though he is under the mistaken impression that they are Helen's dearest friends. Thus he is laying up all sorts of future trouble for her on her "at home" days. He insanely persists in talking about cats to her Aunt Mary when Aunt Mary loathes cats and has a bad dog instead. He nearly caused Helen's grandfather to cut her out of his will entirely by passing three hours at the old gentleman's side painstakingly expressing his admiration for all the political doctrines which grandfather gave purple in the face raving against.
"Of course, he will do it again,"
she says, resignedly. "And the surprising thing is that I keep right on liking him!"

It takes such a long time properly to educate a man! And some of them
—poor, well intentioned things—
are quite hopeless.
Take James Malcolm Fairweather
for example. Now, with a name like that one would naturally suppose its owner would know without being told that it was foolish of him to expect his wife to be pleased with a bright, blue parasol—when there is not a blue frock, hat or stock in her wardrobe this summer, or anything of any color which would have made a blue parasol in the least forgivable.
"It is such a strain," wailed his pretty wife as she exhibited the fatal
sunshade, "to be apparently raptur-ously pleased over Jimmie's goodness in getting me something I just hate! When he comes home from a short out of town trip with jubiliant satisfaction plastered all over him I take warning and prepare to have my heart broken. He has a fatal genius for picking out things just enough off color to clash, or too big or too small for me, and he is so happy over his brilliance in buying me exactly what he thinks I want that I wouldn't undeceive him for a million dollars!"
"It's a perfect mystery why he abandons every vestige of his common sense when he tries to add to the adornments of my wardrobe, for

WOMAN
"Woman" is the name of a new magazine for women.
The first number is just issued. Your newsdealer has it.
You can get it from him, and it is worth your while getting
it. There is nothing startling about this magazine. There should be nothing startling about a decent magazine for women and the home. But this particular magazine is unique among all the so-called publications for women.
You might not like it a little bit, and then, again, it might hit your fancy good and hard.
If you like fiction—good, wide-awake, snappy stories—
both serials and short stories—you will like "Woman."
In fact, fiction is the big feature of the magazine.
All the other magazines for women are cast on the same model—a little bit of fiction, a few articles, more or less chit chat, some wise advice, a fashion department and a smattering of general miscellany. "WOMAN" doesn't look any more like this conventional model than a yellow dog looks like a race horse. It is built on new lines for a strictly woman's publication. To know what it is like you will have to get a copy of it. It would cost too much to tell you all about it in this advertisement.
The price of "WOMAN" is TEN CENTS A COPY,
and the magazine is a very big one—192 pages.
By the way, two rattling good serial stories begin in this first number and it contains a big lot of other good things. You would

Meetings Of Democrats in Salisbury Saturday.

Yesterday was a busy one for Democrats, who assembled in Salisbury, Wednesday and evening from all parts of the county to hear able speeches on the national issues that confront every voter at next Tuesday's election.

Both meetings were held at Ulm's Opera House. Strong interest was manifested and an unusual reform sentiment pervaded each gathering. Mr. George W. Bell presided in the afternoon and Hon. Charles R. Dismore in the evening. Ex-Gov. Jackson was present throughout and was heartily applauded in a short talk to the Democrats.

The speakers were Congressman Thos. A. Smith, A. L. Goldsborough and L. Irving Handy.

They gave strong, clear and convincing reasons why the people should vote the Democratic ticket Tuesday and send Hon. Mr. Smith back to Congress.

WILLARDS.

The Democratic meeting held here last Tuesday was a great success, notwithstanding the inclement weather. The speakers arrived and discussed the issues of the contest. Speaker Mayman made an eloquent address, plainly illustrating the present details of the national policy headed by the Republican Party. The difference between the "classes" and "masses" was discussed and stirred the audience to their sensibility, both Democrats and Republicans. Speaker Douglas, of Salisbury gave an address on pure elections and the condemnation that befalls vote buyers. Speaker Bell, of Salisbury gave a brief history of the Republican leadership since the Civil War, discussing the "turn coats" for greedy office holding and rank. Heart applause for the speakers followed.

Hallow'een passed with no undisturbed results. The weather was just suitable for ghost seeing. Our little village was invaded with negroes of comical appearance from six to nine with their many calls to their friends, sprinkling salt and sifting flour in love to Hallow'een.

Only a few witnessed the show at the fair last Wednesday.

Funeral services are being held at New Hope M. P. Church this week in charge of Pastor G. A. Morris.

Services Sunday as follows: Eden M. E. Church, Sunday School, 9 a. m.; Preaching, 3 p. m.; New Hope M. P. Church, Sunday School, 9.30 a. m.; Preaching, 10.30 a. m.; Freeling Church, 7 p. m.

HEBRON.

Miss Ben Orlie of Jerusalem will give her Grand Oriental Entertainment in Hebron M. P. Church on Saturday evening, November 3rd, at 7.30 o'clock. Admission 25 cents; children 15 cents.

FIFTY CENTS

IN some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid. For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children. In other conditions the gain is slower—health cannot be built up in a day. In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment; a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.

Deaths.

The remains of Mr. J. A. D. Holloway, whose death occurred in St. Mary's Hospital, Quincy, Ill. Sunday night, were interred in the cemetery here Thursday afternoon. The Odd Fellows here had charge of the funeral services. Mr. Holloway was formerly a member of the lodge.

Mr. Holloway was a son of the late Elisha Holloway, of this county. He went West about ten years ago, settling in Stuttgart, Arkansas. About two months ago he started back to Maryland, but on reaching the city of Quincy was compelled to stop off and seek a hospital. There it was found that he had tuberculosis of the knee, and a portion of the bone was removed in the hope of staying the progress of the disease but it was later found to be necessary to amputate the leg. From this operation he failed to rally. Deceased was 56 years of age, and is survived by his mother, two brothers and two sisters, viz: Messrs. S. J. B. Holloway, Wm. A. Holloway, Mrs. J. G. Holloway and Mrs. Benjamin Hastings.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary E. Marvill took place Friday afternoon at one o'clock. Mrs. Marvill was 78 years old and leaves a husband, Mr. James B. Marvill and several children.

The remains of John R. Jester, the son of George W. Jester, were carried to Harrington where the interment will take place today. He was nine years old and died of heart trouble believed to have resulted from an attack of scarlatina he had some time back.

Mrs. Ella H. Townsend died at her home near Salisbury of tuberculosis Wednesday. The funeral services were held at her home at 3 p. m. Friday. Rev. Dr. Potts conducted the ceremonies. Mrs. Townsend was 21 years old and the wife of William Townsend who survives her.

Col. E. V. White, a prominent elder of the U. S. Baptist church died at his home in Leesburg, Va. Elder White was well and favorably known in Wicomico County. Elder Durand conducted the funeral services on Sunday.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon over the remains of Miss Alice Rounds. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Martin. Miss Rounds was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parnell Rounds. She was 18 years old, and had been sick some time with typhoid fever. Deceased was a member of Asbury M. E. Church.

The funeral of Mr. Wm. Goslee took place Monday afternoon from Siloam Church conducted by Rev. W. W. White. Deceased was 37 years old, and a merchant near Whyanland.

Lizzie Amanda, the infant daughter of Jno. B. and Carrie M. Taylor died September 2, 1906, aged 16 months. Twice have these young parents been called upon to give up their sweet babes. William, the first born was taken two years ago, now little Lizzie has been called to join her little brother in a better land.

She had been sick for several months, everything that loving parents, relatives and skilled physicians could do, was done to stay the hand of death, but God needed one more little Angel in his happy band, so he took this beautiful little child and left her earthly home desolate and sad, as there are no childish prattle and pattering footsteps heard there now.

MARYLAND FARMS.

Fifteen farms at a sacrifice. Buildings on all. Plenty of wood and timber to sup. them. Good water, fine oil, masts, two railroads, good schools and churches. Near the ocean, abundance of water products. Ideal for horticulture. Harrison's trees are a sample of what they will produce. Climate modified by ocean and bay. Come and look. In all we ask. Farms of 150 to 1,000 acres. Six thousand acres at an average of $10 to $25 per acre. The Eastern Shore of Maryland, because of its position, is becoming the garden of the Northern and Eastern cities; so these prices are only temporary.

Why go to the wilds and spend your life making a farm and a home, when for less money, in a better climate and nearer the markets, you can immediately have what you want? Yours truly,

LOSES VALUABLE DRESS

Wear. Mrs. M. F. Dick Estimates The Apparel At Nearly $2,000 Says Philadelphia Paper.

"When Mrs. M. F. Dick, wife of one of the members of Dick Brothers, bankers and brokers, arrived in Philadelphia Saturday evening she feared that she had not only lost on a Pullman car two suit cases filled with Paris waists and other wearing apparel valued at nearly $2,000," says the Philadelphia Inquirer, "but she also thought that she had lost a small satchel filled with jewelry valued at about $50,000."

One interesting feature of the case is the fact that if suit is brought against the Pullman Company to recover the value of the suit cases, the suit will be based upon the recent declaration of the Pullman Company that it is not a common carrier, but is a hotel company on wheels. Great discussion has been caused in legal circles by this claim of the Pullman Company, the suit being the first of its kind, would be certain to attract wide spread attention.

She had been visiting friends in Maryland while Mr. Dick was in Texas visiting his son, who recently declared that he was tired of simply being the son of a rich man and that he was going to leave Princeton and go out in the world and make his own fortune.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick arranged to meet here last evening. She took a train at Delmar, Maryland, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and Mr. Dick who had gone to New York by train, came over in his automobile.

According to Mrs. Dick she handed her luggage to a Pullman car porter as she entered the car, and has never seen it since. This baggage consisted of two large suit cases and one small hand satchel containing her jewelry. Her maid kept an eye upon the small satchel and took it from the porter after entering the car, but upon Mrs. Dick's arrival in Philadelphia neither of the suit cases could be found.

WAISTS WERE VALUABLE.

Mrs. Dick at once notified the Pullman Company of her loss and the circumstances, and the police of Philadelphia, New York and Washington were notified. She had only recently returned from abroad, and the cases were filled with French waists, which she feels that mere money cannot replace.

If you spill ink on the carpet do not try to wipe it up with a rag. If you do you will surely spoil your carpet. Do not touch the ink, but as quickly as possible get some salt and cover the spot thickly with it. The salt will absorb the ink and you can not tell where you have spilled it. Be sure and leave the salt on for twenty-four hours, or until it is thoroughly dry. If you scrape it off before it is thoroughly dry, it will do no good. Be sure it is dry then sweep up the salt in a dustpan and you cannot see where the ink was spilled.

HOPE FOR THE SICK.

MRS. HENRIETTA MARSH
A VICTIM OF LA GRIPPE.

Mrs. Henrietta A. S. Marsh, 780 W. 16th St., Los Angeles, Cal., President Woman's Benevolent Ass'n, writes: "I suffered with La Grippe for seven weeks, and nothing I could do or take helped me until I tried Peruna."

"I felt at once that I had at last secured the right medicine and I kept steadily improving. Within three weeks I was fully restored, and I am glad that I gave that truly great remedy a trial. I will never be without it again."

In a letter dated August 31, 1904, Mrs. Marsh says: "I have never yet heard the efficacy of Peruna questioned. We still use it. I traveled through Kentucky and Tennessee three years ago, where I found Peruna doing its good work. Much of it is being used here also."

MARYLAND CONGRESSMEN

Evenly Divided. Democrats Elect Three And Republicans Three. Official Returns.

The winners of the Congressional election in Maryland Tuesday were as follows according to the official returns.

First District—William H. Jackson, Rep., by 2538 plurality.

Second—J. F. C. Talbot, Dem., by 1932 plurality.

Third—Harry R. Wolf, Dem., by 884 plurality.

Fourth—John Gill, Jr., Dem., by 1,714 plurality.

Fifth—Sydney E. Mudd, Rep., by 2615 plurality.

Sixth—George A. Pearre, Rep., by 883 plurality.

The delegation will therefore be evenly divided, as it is in the present Congress, the Democratic gain in the Third district being offset by the Republican gain in the First.

Elliott, for judge, carried Baltimore city by 593 plurality.

The most spectacular victory is that in Baltimore of Mr. Wolf in the Third district. To him has fallen the honor of rescuing the district from Republican control. In 1898 Dr. William D. Boose was elected to Congress there in the general Republican landslide, and then Mr. Wachter came along, not in the field and appeared to have a hold upon the district as long as he wanted. Official returns of the counties in the First district are as follows:

COURT DECISIONS

Of The First Judicial District Affirmed Two Important Wicomico Cases.

In the Court of Appeals last Thursday decisions were handed down in two important cases appealed from Wicomico county.

Chief Judge McSherry delivered an opinion affirming the Circuit Court for Wicomico County in the case of the Spring Garden Insurance Company against Mary L. Whayland. The payment of a policy of fire insurance on the loss of some personal property was resisted by the company. The court held that the duplicate list was admissible, the copy being in possession of the company. The court also held that the fact that the company accepted the list offered by the appellee and made no objection to it would act as a waiver of a condition requiring such facts in a different form.

Judge Briscoe delivered an opinion affirming the judgment of the Circuit Court for Wicomico county in the case of Anne L. Waller and others against Mary V. Pollitt and others. The suit is one for the possession of land and turned on the construction of a deed from Robert Jones and wife to Anthony Pollitt and wife, dated August 2, 1862. The appellees claim title through the Pollitts, who, the appellants hold, took only a life estate under the deed. The Court of Appeals holds consideration of the whole deed that it is within the rule in Shelley's case, which holds that a conveyance to a party and heirs is the conveyance of a fee simple estate. This rule has been abrogated by statute in many states, but is still in force in Maryland.

THE PLEDGE OF HONOR BETWEEN THE PARTIES

Ruthlessly Violated By Republican Workers In Wicomico County. Vigorous Prosecution And Quick Justice Demanded By An Outraged People. Men Of All Parties Should Join In Forfeiting Offenders And Mete Out Prompt Punishment!

The undersigned solemnly pledge their honor, each to the other, personally and as members of the Democratic and Republican Central Committees, respectively.

First: That they will not contribute nor permit it to be done so far as they are able, any money or other things, for illegal purposes during the campaign or election to be held in Wicomico County, Maryland.

Second: To use their best efforts to prevent and discourage the illegal use of money for such purposes.

Third: To aid in the prosecution of any person who may offer or promise any reward whatever to any one to vote or not to vote at the said Election, or to stay therefrom.

Signed in duplicate November 3, 1906.

E. E. JACKSON,
L. J. GALE,
JAMES T. TRUITT,
Democratic State Central Committee.
W. H. JACKSON,
J. H. TOMLINSON,
Republican State Central Committee.

Our readers will see from this that the Heads of the Democratic and Republican parties both "solemnly pledge their honor" personally and as representatives of their respective parties to prevent Bribery and also "to aid in the prosecution of any persons" who should violate the law against Bribery. It is currently and publicly charged and generally believed that certain "workers" in the Republican party did violate the law; therefore these gentlemen regardless of party association owe it to themselves and the community to give the promised assistance. Their vindication requires that they demand an earnest investigation of these charges regardless of the results. It will be seen that it was not signed until Saturday, the 3rd, and was not presented to the Committee of the Prohibition party, but we have the assurance of Mr. Jno. H. Dulany, its chairman and candidate, of his co-operation.

The election is now a past event and there is no question of candidates, or party, or votes involved and the next election is a year off. The man elected is not only the representative of a party, but the representative of the people. The vindication of the majesty of the law is now the great question to be considered and next to that comes the vindication of the persons charged, if innocent, and their punishment if guilty. Justice, good government, and honest elections know no party lines. Democrats, Republicans, Prohibitionists and Independents are equally interested in the earnest investigation and prosecution of the charges made and no man can afford to make himself an object of suspicion by holding aloof.

The Advertiser, while thoroughly democratic, pledges itself to as diligent a prosecution and exposure of Democrats as to members of any other party. It has devoted itself to the condemnation of democratic corruption and does not now propose to make any excuses for democratic wrong doing. And we know there are a multitude of Republicans who are as earnest in their condemnation of republican wrong doing; gentlemen who agree with us, that there is neither republicanism or democracy in Bribery. Those gentlemen will go as far as any of us in the prosecution of these charges.

We must all "hew to the lines, let the chips fall where they may." The people demand that Bribery must and shall be stopped in Wicomico County. Some arrests have already been made and others are in contemplation. IT IS THE GENERAL IMPRESSION, IN WHICH THE ADVERTISER CONCURS, THAT IF THE FACTS WARRANT, THE COURT SHOULD CALL A SPECIAL SESSION OF THE GRAND JURY AND "LET NO GUILTY MAN ESCAPE."

We repeat that the condition has gone beyond the littleness of party politics and has become one of the people.

THE ELECTION ELSEWHERE

How Other States Went Tuesday. Some Unexpected Returns.

Charles E. Hughes' plurality for Governor of New York is estimated at from 52,000 to 60,000, but the rest of the ticket is mostly Democratic.

In Rhode Island James H. Higgins, Democrat, was elected Governor, but the Legislature is Republican, and the Republicans claim the election of the rest of their ticket.

In Pennsylvania the estimated plurality of Governor-elect Stuart, Republican, is still placed at 100,000. Democrats made gains in Minnesota, Governor Johnson, Democrat, being re-elected by increased pluralities, the solid Republican Congressional delegation being broken and the Legislative majority out down.

Congressman Babcock was defeated in Wisconsin, being cut by the La-Follette faction.

One Alabama county went Republican, an almost unprecedented thing. Joint Statehood with New Mexico was defeated by Arizona's vote.

Missouri resumed her old place in the Democratic column, electing the State ticket and 12 of 16 Congressmen. The Democrats swept Nevada.

The New Jersey Legislature is close, and Senator Dryden may have trouble in being re-elected.

Gov. J. C. W. Beckham defeated Senator McCreey in the Kentucky Senatorial primary.

Latest Election Returns.

In all probability, the Legislature of New Hampshire will have to elect a Governor, the Republican candidate, according to unofficial returns, being 10 votes short of the majority necessary under the law.

North Dakota is probably Democratic, unofficial returns showing a plurality for Burke of 3,185.

Both parties are claiming the Governorship in Kansas, but the Republicans admittedly carried everything else.

Nevada has probably gone Democratic.

A Democrat may have been elected in Arizona, the vote being very close.

TO STOP BRIBERY.

Guilt Should Feel Justice As Well As Withering Indignation And Contempt Of Fellow Citizens.

"Cardinal Gibbons did a great public service last Sunday," says Thursday's Baltimore Sun, "when he declared in his sermon that the man who bought his way into office is virtually a thief. If he and other prominent churchmen of all denominations, as well as representative citizens of all parties, will unite in a league to fight this evil relentlessly, they can secure legislation which will frighten vote buyers into good behavior, and which will save the State from the shameful scandal and dead blight and menace of a political disease which, if unchecked, will eat out the very vitals of popular and honest government. Let the irresistible power of the pulpit be brought to bear. Let anti bribery leagues be formed in all parts of the State and pledges be exacted from candidates to the Legislature next year to break up bribery by the passage of legislation which will put behind the bars of the penitentiary any man, high or low, who attempts to buy votes and debauch the electorate of the State. The man who betrays his country in time of war is justly held up to universal scorn, and is made the object of swift and condign punishment. But the man who betrays his country by undermining the foundations of liberty and popular government is no less a traitor and should be made to feel the heavy hand of justice as well as the withering indignation and contempt of his fellow citizens.

The State Constitution should be so amended that the present severe penalty of disfranchisement and disqualification for office shall apply to the bribe giver alone, and thus leave the lesser offender, namely, the bribe taker, free to inform upon the man who has tempted and debauched him. A law might be enacted requiring each grand juror to make oath in specific terms to present all persons engaged in this crime of which he may have information: to require State Attorneys to make oath especially to prosecute them; to require the courts to call the special attention of the grand jury to the subject after each election: to change the oath of office, so that every official when he qualifies shall be required to swear that he has not bought votes or used money corruptly and has no knowledge of such corruption. Then a corrupt practices law should be enacted, prohibiting among other things, all corporations upon pain of a forfeiture of their charters, from making campaign contributions, and in case of foreign corporations the penalty should be a prohibition to do business in the State.

The candidates for the Legislature next year should be pledged to all these things. And in order to force the issue ministers of the Gospel and all other good citizens should join in a common purpose and a common effort to arouse public sentiment against a crime that is seriously threatening popular government and year by year exalting the dollar higher and higher above the man."

B. & W. railroad, who lost his right leg above the knee through an accident, some time ago, and who was in the Chester Hospital for six months, went to Sharptown yesterday and will go to Sharptown, Md., for some time. He will be measured for an artificial leg next week and will fit himself for clerical work.—Every Evening.

WICOMICO WINS TAX SUIT

Against B. C. & A. Railroad Company. Supreme Court of United States Gives Decision.

The case of the County Commissioners of Wicomico county, Md., vs. Samuel Bancroft, Jr. involving the right of the Commissioners to levy taxes on the property of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway, which is mortgaged to secure the company's bonds, was Monday decided by the Supreme Court of the United States favorably to the contentions of the Commissioners.

The company claimed immunity from taxation under its charter and fought the case on the ground that the effort at taxation was a violation of contract and therefore, in conflict with the Federal Constitution.

The contention of the County Commissioners was that there was no contract of exemption, and also if there had been it was repealed by the General Assessment Law of 1896. Upon the latter point Justice Holmes said:

"We are of opinion that the Court of Appeals of Maryland was right in holding that the legislation of 1896, directing a new assessment of the property of the State and expressly declaring that the property of every railroad in the State should be valued and assessed for county and municipal purposes, had the effect to withdraw the prior exemption from taxation if a proper construction of the legislation of the State would extend it to the property of their reorganized company. The act contains no significant proviso that nothing therein contained shall be held to discharge, release, impair or affect any irrevocable contract or obligation of any kind whatsoever existing at the date of the passage of the act. This proviso evinces the legislative interest to repeal exemptions from taxation which were not protected by binding the contract beyond legislative control, if any such existed, and to bring all property within the taxing power of the State."

The decision of the Supreme Court will mean about $5,000 each year to Wicomico. The transportation company owes for six years, and the total sum coming to this county for back taxes and interest is, therefore, in the neighborhood of $40,000. The railway company was not assessed until 1899, as it had before that time been considered exempt.

Jan. E. Ellegood, of Salisbury argued the case in the Supreme Court for the County Commissioners, while Nicholas P. Bod, Ralph Robinson and Edward Duffy were counsel for Mr. Bancroft.

The Meal Family Laxative.

is one that can be used by the entire family, young and old, weak and strong, without any danger of harmful effects. It should have properties which insure the same dose, always having the same effect, otherwise the quantity will have to be increased and finally lose its effect altogether. These properties can be found in that old family remedy, Brandreth's Pills, because its ingredients are of the purest herbal extracts, and every pill is kept for three years before being sold, which allows them to mellow. We do not believe there is a laxative on the market that is so carefully made.

Brandreth's Pills are the same fine laxative tonic pill your grandparents used. They have been in use for over a century and are sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated. Adv.

A life of patient industry is sure to be blessed with a competence, if it is not crowned with an abundant remuneration.

The world's most gigantic gamble, the Ceylon pearl fishery, is unquestionably the Ceylon pearl fishery; compared with it, any State lottery pales to insignificance.

From the taking of the first oyster to the draining of the last vatful of "matter" lever step is attended by fickle fortune; and never is the interest of the people of Portugal or of Mexico keener over a drawing of a lottery the tickets of which may have been sold at the very threshold of the cathedrals, than is that of the natives of Ceylon over the daily results of a Manar fishery.

Each bivalve is a lottery ticket: it may contain a gem worthy of place in a monarch's crown, or be a seed pearl with a mercantile value of only a few rupees. Perhaps one oyster in a hundred contains a pearl, and not more than one pearl in a hundred, be it known, has a value of importance.

Nature furnishes the sea, pearly banks, oysters, and all therein contained: the Ceylon administration conducts the undertaking and for its trouble and trifling outlay exacts a "rake off" of two thirds of all that may be won from the deep.

And mere man, the brown or black diver, receives for his daring and enterprise one oyster in every three that he brings from the ocean's depths—and earnings must be shared with boat owners, sailors, attendants and assistants almost without number.

For size of "rake off" there is no name of hazard in the world offering a parallel. The Ceylon government takes to exact three out of every four oysters brought in, the current tribute of two out of three having become operative only a few years since. From Frederic C. Penfield's "The Lure of the Pearl," in the Century.

NATIONAL CIVIC FEDERATION.

Organization To Hold A Welfare Convention At The Jamestown Exposition.

Norfolk, Va.—The National Civic Federation is expected to hold a Welfare Convention at the Jamestown Exposition next year. A movement with this end in view has been started by some of the prominent members of the Federation and it has been taken up by the department of congresses and special events of the exposition.

Invitations have been sent to the officers and most influential committeemen of the organization and the replies received from many indicate that the effort will be successful.

Bishop Henry C. Potter, of New York city says that he regards the Welfare Convention at the Jamestown Exposition the proper thing and that he will be glad to lend his efforts to make such an event a success.

James O'Connell, president of the International Association of Machinists, John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, W. S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and scores of others have endorsed the movement and promised their aid in making the convention a success.

Among the more prominent members are former President Grover Cleveland, Andrew Carnegie, Archbishop Ireland, August Belmont, Cornelius N. Bliss, Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, Hon. Seth Low, Hon. Charles J. Bonaparte, Secretary of the Navy, Hon. David R. Francis, former Secretary of the Interior, Clarence H. Mackay, President Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., and Frederick D. Underwood, President Erie Railroad.

The purpose of the National Civic Federation is to bring about an educational movement toward the solution of some of the great problems related to social and industrial progress; to provide for study and discussion of questions of national import; to aid in this way in the crystallization of the most enlightened public opinion, and when desirable, to promote legislation that will accord.

The membership of the Federation is drawn from practical men of affairs, whose acknowledged leadership in thought and action makes them typical representatives of the various elements that voluntarily work together for the general good of mankind. Its executive committee is constituted of three factors: the general public, represented by the church, the bar, the press, statecraft and finance; employers, represented by large manufacturers and the heads of great corporations and employers' organizations and labor represented by the principal officials of national and international organizations of wage-earners in every important industry.

There are useful organizations of farmers, manufacturers, wage-earners, bankers, merchants, lawyers, economists and other distinct but interesting elements of society, which hold meetings for the discussion of affairs peculiar to their own pursuits and callings. The Federation, in addition to its departments for the accomplishment of specific purposes, provides a forum where representatives of all these elements of society may meet to discuss national problems in which they have common interest.

Six national conferences have been held in this way upon Primary Election and Ballot Reform, Foreign Policy, Trusts, Conciliation and Arbitration, Taxation and Immigration. These conferences have usually been attended by delegates appointed by Governors of the States, representatives selected by various commercial, industrial and educational bodies.

The present activities of the Federation are exercised through the following agencies: Public Ownership Commission, Immigration Department, Industrial Conciliation Department, Welfare Department and Taxation Department. These questions include such subjects as Wages and Cost of Living. The shorter Day Work, The Open and Closed Shop, etc.

The Welfare Department is devoted entirely to efforts to interest employers in giving special attention and consideration to improving the conditions under which employees in all industries work and live. In extending the practice of Welfare Work, the department has found of especial value, conferences of employers, held under its auspices in different parts of the country, for the interchange of experiences.

It is believed that the meeting of the Federation will be one of the most important gatherings held at the Exposition and will be attended by men of national repute and prominence.

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John B. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

Harsh physics react, weaken the bowels, cause chronic constipation. Doan's Ointment operates easily, tones the stomach, cures constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist for them.

—An order has been placed with the Altoona shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad for twenty five freight engines. The engine will be the largest ever built by the company and will be known as class H-6. The locomotives will have ten wheels and the boiler will be ten inches larger in diameter than those of Class H-5 now in use by the company. The larger boiler will give greater steam capacity and also an increase in the tractive power.

A Wish.

Do you wish the world were better? Let me tell you what to do. Set a watch upon your actions, keep them always straight and true: Bid your mind of selfish motives, let your thoughts be clean and high. You can make a little Eden of the sphere you occupy.

Do you wish the world were wiser? Well, suppose you make a start. By accumulating wisdom in the scrap-book of your heart.

Do not waste one page on folly: live to learn and learn to live. If you want to give men knowledge, you must get it ere you give.

Do you wish the world were happy? Then remember day by day Just to scatter seeds of kindness as you pass along the way:

For the pleasure of the many oft-times be traced to one. As the hand that plants the acorn shelters armies from the sun.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A Fisher Of Men.

One of the most enthusiastic converts of the 39th Regiment, Hebrich's Own, was General J. P. Carnegie who later on was in command of the troops in Cannanore. At mess one day the General related how he met the prompt German for the first time and how he won him for Jesus. The General said: "When I was going by boat on the back waters to Cannanore, just after sunset, I suddenly heard some one call out: Stop! Stop!"

"I ordered my boatman to see what was the matter. We had hardly come to a halt when a queer looking man came aboard my boat, saying: 'Good evening, where are you going?'"

"To Cannanore."

"Are you sure?"

"Smiling at this blunt question, I replied: 'Yes, I am sure of going there!'"

"Are you as sure of going to heaven as you are of going to Cannanore? Think about it. Good night!"

"With these words Mr. Hebrich left me, for he was my strange visitor. I did think and pray about this question, until I had the assurance of salvation!"

How the wise fisher of men bided his time, and then acted with decision he himself tells us shortly after his return to Rurich, in 1860:

"Some years ago," he said, "the officers of one of our regiments in India gave a dinner, and I was present as chaplain. A very young officer, after his tongue had been well oiled with wine, began to talk rather wildly, and he singled me out as the one to make fun of it. He was very wise in his own conceit, and saying: 'Parson, you know yourself that what you preach isn't true! There is no God. There is no soul. There is no hereafter. All is matter, and matter is all, so, whether we stand or whether we fall, it doesn't matter at all.'"

"I let the young man talk and paid no attention to him, but he wanted to discuss and argue and grow very loud. At last, in order to prove the foolishness of such talk, without saying a word, I got up from the table, took my chair, lifted it up, laid it on the floor, and then set it up again."

"After this I walked over to the officer and, without a word, I took him up in my arms, laid him on his back and then set him on his feet again."

"This of course greatly enraged him. Drawing his sword, he tried to aim a blow at me, to avenge this public insult. The other officers prevented bloodshed. When all had quieted down I said:

"Gentlemen, the young officer wanted to argue with me, and I have not answered him. He says, man is only matter like a stick or a stone. If that is true how can he say that I have hurt his honor by my act? I lifted the chair and put it on its legs again. If never protested, and did not get angry, but just let me do with it what I pleased. If this young man has no spirit, and is only matter, why should he protest and grow angry when I treat him as I did the chair? I think he will have to say that he has a spirit after all, or else why was he so indignant? Matter can not be indignant and resent an insult!"

The young officer could make no reply to this palpable argument. He went home thinking about this timely object lesson the old teacher had given him of the fallacy of materialism, and soon began to reason: "I have a soul, how can I save that soul? It is immortal! Where shall I spend eternity?" Going to Mr. Hebrich, he sought and found light in Jesus and became a humble follower of his Lord.

There is more Catharism in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catharism to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment.

Hall's Cathartic Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars to any one who fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists 75 cents.

Take Hall's Family Pill for constipation.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It soothes the pain and heals the hurt.

Bad Stomach Makes Bad Blood.

You can not make sweet butter in a foul, unclean churn. The stomach serves as a churn in which to agitate, work up and disintegrate our food as it is being digested. If it be weak, sluggish and out the result will be corrupt, sluggish liver and bad, impure blood.

The ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are just such as best serve to correct and cure all such derangements. It is made up without a drop of alcohol in its composition; chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol. Now this glycerine is of itself a valuable medicine, instead of a deleterious agent like alcohol, especially in the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia and the various forms of indigestion. Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says of it:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. It is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon unclean, disordered stomachs; especially if there is ulceration of the stomach (gastritis) or inflammation of stomach, it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric acidity. It is useful in chronic constipation, stimulating the secretory and excretory functions of the intestinal tract."

When combined, in just the right proportions, with Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Queen's root, Blood-root and Mandrake root, or the extracts of these, as in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, there can be no doubt of its great efficacy in the cure of all stomach, liver and intestinal disorders and derangements. These several ingredients have the strongest endorsement in all such cases of such eminent medical leaders as Prof. E. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Robert A. Hare, M. D., of the University of Pennsylvania; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., of the University of New York; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of the University of Chicago; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of the University of Michigan; and Prof. John King, M. D., of the University of the Pacific.

These are the leading medical men of our land, who can doubt the curative virtues of a medicine the ingredients of which have such a professional endorsement?

WOMEN AND IDLENESS

WORK MAKES THEM SWEET
TEMPERED AND GRACIOUS

Human Nature Apt to Sour Without a Broadening Outside Influence—Leisure Class Bored by Social Duties and Pleasures.

Work keeps women sweet.

Depend upon it, catty women are nearly always idle. For idleness breeds feminine jealousies, tempers and meanness even more often than love—as the poets tell us in its function, says Mrs. Clarence Burris, an active club worker. "Give me the girls that work." I can say that with the ardor of that chap setting out in his quest of the ideal girl.

For when you come down to it, it is the woman who "does things,"
the woman who succeeds, that is the most womanly—in the better sense. One who has had all the miserable little "ego" in her "cosmos"
rubbed off from contact with a larger world accepts every friend, new and old, at an honest valuation. She takes pleasure in the society of women who have made something out of life. And she can appreciate their success without depreciating it to others. And the mere realization of another's attainments does not inspire gossip and calumny.

The leaders in any sort of enterprise are never "cats." You see it takes breath and clearness of intellect and largeness of heart to get one anywhere. Men or women who have not these qualities find it hard to rise. So the women with the yellow streak in their make-up seldom reach the top of the ladder. I have seen some of this sort go up like rockets; but they come down just as rapidly—like sticks.

But the women who are known to do the valuable work of the community, and keep their places through thick and thin, are never feline in the slightest degree. And, by the way, they aren't always those who are most talked about and the often-est in the public eye. They may be the church-workers who are getting wonderful results we never hear of.
Add they may be first-class workers
in business or art.

From this type the catty woman is a thing apart. As soon as her temperament is discovered she is a marked woman. She suffers the social ostracism of her kind. There may be very little said about her. A shrug of the shoulders at the mention of her name is enough to gauge
her unpopularity.

So the cat is happy only in the society of men—and then only so long as she can conceal her felinity or make a feat at being generous and sincere. For even men won't tolerate the cat's treachery, once it is revealed to them.

All women who have not home duties to keep them strenuously employed ought to have some considerable outside interest. We have a great leisure class of women in America. They have none but social calls upon them. They are bored by toll-free rounds of dinners and dances, their tours from country homes to town houses and back and forth from Europe. To save themselves from the depths of ennui they play at scandal and they talk scandal. They keep the divorce courts busy and provide topics for the scandal-monger's tongue.

Look at the club meetings and luncheons where the feline languish for want of some one to listen to their insinuating scandal; where enlightened women are wise enough to enjoy the companionship and conversation of members of their own sex.

Why? Because each individual has an aim in life.

Effect of Room Furnishings.

It is a strange but true fact that it is impossible for a person to live and retain his health in a circular room filled with furniture fitted to the bend of the wall. This has recently been demonstrated in the Minor Lodge Lighthouse in England, where for the sake of economizing space
the furniture was made on lines to fit the curves of the wall. Several cases of mental trouble have developed in succession among the men employed at the lighthouse, and specialists assert that this is the result of there being no angles on which the eyes may rest, so that it consequently roves around the room until the effect is exhausting.

Red wall paper, too, has a most injurious effect upon the nervous system, the first symptom of which is headache. One reason why new houses are so often papered in red is that it does not show traces of wall dampness as soon as does paper of other colors, and therefore one reason why new houses are so often considered unhealthy is the effect of the wall coloring, which produces
the most violent headaches.

The Cure for Scandal.

It is told of Hannah More that she had a good way of managing tale bearers. It is said that whenever she was told anything derogatory of an other her invariable reply was:
"Come, we will go and ask if this be true." The effect was sometimes ludicrously painful. The talebearer was taken back, stammered out a qualification or else begged that no notice might be taken of the statement. But the good lady was inexorable. Off she took the scandalmonger to the scandalized to make inquiry and compare accounts. It is not likely that anybody ever a second time ventured to repeat a gos-sipy story to Hannah More, says Modern Women. One would think her method a cure for scandal.

Bilious Attack Quickly Cured.

A few weeks ago I had a bilious attack that was so severe I was not able to go to the office for two days. I Failing to get relief from my family physician's treatment, I took three bottles of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and the next day I felt like a new man.—B. O. Bailey, Editor of the News, Chapel, S. C. These

TAUGHT HER A LESSON.

The Questions Were More Than the Little Lady Could Stand.

It was visiting day at the kindergarten, and the young teacher was proud of her little pupils as they went through their drills and exercises, and beamed with pleasure at the appreciation shown by the visitors, who applauded generously. Then came the lesson, and the teacher announced the subject.

"Children," she said, "to-day we are going to learn about the cat, and I want you to tell me what you know about it. Tommy, how many legs has the cat?"

"Four," replied Tommy, proudly conscious of rectitude.

"Yes, and Daisy, what else has the cat?"

"Claws an' tail," murmured Daisy,
shyly.

Various other portions of feline anatomy were ascertained, and finally the instructress turned to one of the latest acquisitions of the kindergarten and said sweetly:

"Now, Mary, can you tell me
whether the cat has fur or feathers?"

With scorn and contempt, mingled with a vast surprise, Mary said:

"Gee, teacher, ain't you never seen a cat?"

And the lesson came to an abrupt end.—Buffalo Evening News.

Evading a Calamity.

The new clergyman had a stock
phrase which he used unreluctantly
on the sinners of his new pastorate.

"My dear man," he would say, as he approached a brother who was deliberately breaking the moral code, "I fear the devil has a mortgage on your soul, and unless you mend your ways he'll surely foreclose."

After service one Sabbath an elder called the pastor aside and expressed himself as being grateful that he had the courage to rebuke the wicked men of the city.

"But, doctor," continued the elder meekly, "when you encounter old man Wilson will you kindly refrain from saying anything about the devil
having a mortgage on his soul? You know, Wilson holds a mortgage against this church, and such a remark might arouse the devil in him and encourage the reprobate to foreclose."

Used an Equivalent.

An old woman living in Gardiner,
Me., had occasion to call a doctor,
according to the Boston Herald. He found her only slightly indisposed,
and left a powder for her to take,
with the following directions: "Take what you can get on a 10 cent piece
every three hours."

Next day the doctor found his patient alarmingly ill.

"Did you take the powder as directed?" he asked.

"No, not exactly. I did not have a 10 cent piece, so I took what I could get on two fives."

Quite True.

Miss Boston—They say she's extremely haughty.

Miss Tours—I should say so! The last time I saw her she went sailing down the street in—

Miss Boston—Pardon me; why do
you use that senseless expression?
How could she go "sailing" down the street?

Miss Tours—Easy enough. I saw her last in Venice.—Times.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys,
but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases
have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter
and purify the blood—
that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr.
Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon
as your kidneys are well they will help
all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys.
The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures
of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent
and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle
by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake,
but remember the name, Swamp-Root,
Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Gain of Prohibition in Maryland and Outside.

The Prohibition vote had a send up this year. Wisconsin gained over 60 per cent over last Congressional vote, Jno H. Dulany polling 310 votes as compared with N. E. Clark 138. He also polled 40 per cent more in the whole congressional district than Clark did. Below find Prohibition vote of this district for this year also 1904.

	Dulany	Clark
Cecil	99	59
Kent	68	47
Queen Anne	177	128
Talbot	91	108
Caroline	143	67
Dorchester	188	98
Wicomico	210	128
Somerset	280	190
Worcester	170	128

Totals 1336 935

Better news from other places:—

Illinois cast 85,000 votes for the Prohibition State Treas., elected six members of the legislature and carried over a dozen counties. They worked a plan that Maryland Prohibitionists, especially this first District ought to grasp this year. "In Massachusetts the Prohibitionists are credited with 30,000 votes for Moran for governor who carried 38 cities." Francis E. Yates was elected State Senator in New York by Prohibition and independent votes. The total vote in the United States this year is 835,000 according to National Chairman Jones.

The Prohibitionists held the balance of power this year, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois, Iowa and Kansas. When will they harness their strength? While our gain is handsome, how much more would it have been in this Congressional district, but for the corrupt use of money. When the bargain was made last year and lived up to, we went to the polls this year confident that Wisconsin would be clean that far, but No.—Even the vote buyers have the effrontery to name the men they claim to have bought. Our duty is clear to continue our fight equally against bribery as the licensing of the liquor traffic: for when can we win, if bought votes are as numerous as now reported.

CASTORIA. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Early Severe Winter.

Woe for the Ice Trust.

Joy for the plumber.

Joy for the coal dealer.

Blister, blister news for the poor.

Winter will fall upon us earlier and with greater fierceness than has been its wont. This is the prediction of Thomas Martindale, written for The North American, from observations made by the public spirited merchant of this city in his Maine hunting camp.

One year ago, thanks to Mr. Martindale's study of wild animals and their winter preparations, The North American was enabled to predict a late and unusually mild winter. How it was justified, everyone who has had dealings with the Ice Trust knows.

Now Mr. Martindale gives to us this prediction, and, unlike other weather prophets, states his reasons in detail. Following is his interesting letter:

Camp Martindale, Northern Maine, October 18th.—About November 1, 1905, The North American printed some observations which I had made during my annual hunting trip up here. I then ventured the prediction that we would have a late and a very mild winter. I need not advert to the fact that the winter was really the mildest for very many years back.

"It may be interesting to note the differences which I perceive between the conditions existing now and those of one year ago this very day."

"We have a colony of beavers on our lake that work as industriously as these busy animals can do anywhere under the most favorable environment, and the work they are now doing, and have done already this fall, in preparation for the coming winter is amazing."

"Last year they had not started with the building of their house, nor had they commenced to build their dam. They had cut down some alders, but no large pieces of wood, from the bark of which they obtain their winter's sustenance."

"Now a splendid dam is very nearly completed, having a fall of nearly three feet, and several cedar trees are all but cut through at their base by the sharp teeth of these wonderful engineers. With these cedars they are apparently going to raise the dam still higher by anchoring the trees on the crest of the present structure. They are now busily at work building their house as well."

"The muskrats last year were building a house upon a little wharf which we use for a canoe landing and which is only some eight inches above the water showing that they did not anticipate any great rise in the water during the coming winter. Some of the houses they are now building are over two feet above the water, and yet they are still working upon them."

"The wild ducks, snipe, loons, divers as well as the birds of the woods, were still here when we left in 1905. On the 11th of this month the wild ducks were massed together in great flocks, pruning their feathers for their coming southern flight, and the very next day, shortly after sunrise with mighty rush of swift wings, they disappeared high in the air and left the lake heading due south."

"Last year the swamps were dry and it's an old saying that; winter never really comes until the swamps are filled with water, but lo and behold! the swamps are even now full and running over."

"Out of hundreds of deer which we saw twelve months ago, perhaps not over a half dozen were in their dark winter suits. This year over deer that we have seen is sleek, glossy and fat, and wearing its beautifully gray winter coat. Perhaps the question of food has more to do with the deer's condition than the future state of the weather, but I am only stating the facts as I now see them."

"From all that nature is doing up here, and from the preparations being made for the coming great climatic change on the part of Nature's children of the wild, I again modestly essay to put on the mantle of prophecy and do now prophecy and do now predict an early winter and a severe one."

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in semi-annual session here, today, assigned Bishop Joseph E. Barry of Buffalo, N. Y., to preside over the 39th annual session of the Wilmington Conference and selected Wednesday, March 20th, 1907 as the time for the convening of the conference. Asbury Church, Smyrna, Del., will be the seat of the conference.

The Wilmington Conference, at its last session, adopted a resolution requesting the Board of Bishops to change the meeting time of the Wilmington Conference from March to April, but the board seems to have ignored the request. The change was suggested on the ground that the weather in March is generally supposed to be the best for the conference sessions.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALKS

By F. E. Davison Rutland Vt.
HOW CHARACTER IS TRIED.

Nov. 11, '05—(Matt. 26:38-50.)

There is a Gethsemane in the pathway of every man. He may be conscious of it, or ignorant of it; he may try to prepare for it, or put it out of his mind; he may meet it early, or he may meet it late, but sooner or later he will walk down into its shadow of death, and sweat blood. All mankind is divided into these two classes, those that have been in Gethsemane, and those who are going there. There is no escape from this experience. Jesus Christ the world's redeemer, could not avoid it. The brightest and the best as well as the dullest and the worst march through those grim portals, solitary and alone. Death is only a circumstance compared with that; when one has drunk the cup of the garden, the quinquessence of bitterness has been drained. Henceforth they are marked men. Whether one drinks that cup for his own sins, or for the sins of others, the effect is always the same.

That is a superficial view of life which looks upon greatness as exempted from suffering, and which regards tears as an evidence of weakness. The greatest men the world has ever known have been the most tender-hearted and human. Greatness does not consist in stoical indifference to suffering. Was Washington weak when he knelt in the snows of Valley Forge and prayed for the assistance of the God of Battles? Was Lincoln weak when he fell on his face in the White House and wrestled for victory for the Boys in Blue? Was William E. Gladstone, Prime Minister of England, weak when he knelt by the side of a crossing sweeper to commend his soul to God? Was Jesus Christ weak when the weight of the world's woes crushed Him to the earth and He "sweat as it were great drops of blood"? If they were, then weakness is the most magnificent characteristic of the human race, the thing which above all others differentiates man from the brute creation, and allies him to the angels.

Gethsemane may be bitter, but it is the crowning development of character. It is the wine press. It is the crucible. It is the threshing-floor. The "Rocky Pilgrim" gives an illustration of the utility of Gethsemane in human life. Nature came to the prairie and demanded flowers of her. And the next year, crocuses and roses and wild sunflowers grew, but nature looked in vain for the columbine, the clematis, and the sweet violets, and when she inquired the reason, she was told that the wind was too rough, and the sun was too hot for such delicate blossoms. Then nature commanded, and the lightning cleft the rock with one swift stroke, and into the deep, jagged wound a river flowed, bearing rich black mold. Then the birds dropped the seeds, and in the canyon there sprang up mosses and ferns, and lo, the columbine, the clematis and the sweet violets, the favorites of nature.

Many a life is like that. There is broad expanse of character, but few flowers. Ruggedness there is, but no fragrance. Then, suddenly lightning flashes, jagged canyons appear, cataclysms of upheaval take place, and when the storm has spent its fury and is passed, instead of a dead level experience, however grand, the deep valleys are filled with richer soil, and the fragrance of flowers fills the air.

People who have had things their own way are not the most agreeable people. In many cases they are proud, conceited, haughty. No one goes to them for sympathy and condolence in the hour of trial, they have no knowledge of the balm for wounds. But not so, those who have passed through the portals of Gethsemane. They know how to "minister to a man in distress." They have a look in their eyes that begets confidence. They have a grasp of the hand that puts inspiration into the discouraged. For them to say, "I know just how you feel, I have been there myself," puts hope into the hopeless. "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

When Christian, in Pilgrim's Progress, was passing through the Valley of the Shadow of Death, overpowered with the darkness, frightened by the hobgoblins which leered and chattered around him, almost ready to sink down into despair, he heard the voice of Hope sounding in the pathway on before him, and cheered by the ringing assurance of that fellow-traveler he plucked up heart of courage, and soon was walking in the light. Thus it is in life, that those who have passed through deep and agonizing experiences of suffering are by that very fact ordained to the high priesthood of hope.

Let not the dread of Gethsemane garden shadow the life with gloom. Troubles always have alleviation. Though the Son of Man drank there a cup of trembling such as was never pressed to human lips, before or since, it should not be forgotten that the heavenly visitants flew to his relief in the midnight, and He was sustained by a full chalice of the water of life, brought by an angel's hand. Were it not for crucial moments in life we should never know the refreshing sweetness of angel ministrations.

WHEN CAVIARE COMES FROM THE STURGEON OF SOUTHERN RUSIA Supplies the Best.

Caviare—that is, so-called caviare—comes from several countries and from many varieties of fish. But real caviare comes only from Russia, from the great sturgeon of its southeastern district.

The mere word caviare has come to be a synonym with us for the extreme of luxury. It is rather a surprise therefore to discover that it is pretty nearly the staff of life among the Cossack tribes, who make the catching of sturgeon their winter occupation.

The most generally eaten caviare, according to the Wide World magazine, is made from the roe of the great sturgeon, fish which runs up to twenty-five feet in length. The sterlet, a smaller kind, which reaches a length of five feet, has a naturally smaller supply of roe.

It is highly prized, however, because it is from this fish that liquid caviare is made, a delicacy that is never met with far out of Russia. Since it is very lightly salted and will not keep, a little finds its way to Persia and the table of the Khedive, but even in Russia it is rarely to be seen, except at the Czar's table or in court circles.

To make caviare you must first catch your sturgeon, and though this may be done in summer caviare making is a winter industry, and the principal part of the fishing takes place in severe weather. The country through which the sturgeon yields rivers flows consists of large plains, covered many months deep in snow, and swept by bitter winds. Here, in dreary wastes, live thousands of Russians who subsist almost entirely on the fish they catch.

The traveler will find a wide and frozen river, dotted with crowds of men. But they are fishing in a way that is distinctly novel to most travelers, for their lines are passed through holes in the ice on which they stand.

When there is a catch—and the sturgeon are very plentiful—the capture is dragged bodily through the hole and despatched with sticks, which each man carries. Great carts are in waiting to transport the spoil to the sheds, where the fish are either relieved of their valuable cargo of eggs forthwith or are despatched to the markets for sale to caviare makers.

Liquid caviare is prepared with finest salt, in the proportion of from 4 to 5 per cent., and fetches a very high price. This kind is known as Ikra.

The pressed variety is made with brine, the roe being rubbed with a wooden spoon through sieves, so as to secure the removal of all ligaments from the fish eggs. Liquid caviare is packed in bottles with ice in tin boxes, but the pressed is canned in cans. Skin sacks of it are submitted to the terrible persuasions of a powerful press so that all the brine shall be extracted.

This kind is then packed in oaken barrels lined with cloths, and is known as serviette caviare, while that which is sold in canvas bags is known in the trade as sack caviare. Packed in either way it will stand any amount of transport. Warsaw has become the principal market for this commodity with western Europe.

These Russian fisheries produce annually more than 8,000,000 pounds of caviare. Only 1,000,000 pounds of this is in liquid form.

The nutritive quality of caviare is not generally appreciated. It is rich in nitrogen and fat, besides including sea salt and mineral components. It has a stimulating and energizing effect on the stomach. Russians value it greatly, and it is said never to be absent from the Czar's table.

That which is supplied to the Imperial family is the enforced tribute of the Cossacks, who before they may reap the profit of their own industry must supply the little father with eleven tons of the best. To provide this amount of caviare 5,000 sturgeons must be caught.

A certain amount of caviare comes to England, France and Germany, but not much. A good deal of that which we eat is "made in Germany" from the common sturgeon, and hence off the "fish market" as it is called.

Another kind of caviare is made from the roe of pike and carp; it is colored red, and is known as "the Jew's caviare."

Italy also makes a caviare of her own, which is very palatable, being more delicate than the Russian. For this the bream, the pike, the perch and countless other fish contribute their eggs. Norway, too, makes a mock caviare, which has only a local interest.

Amidst anxious to be self-supporting, is making caviare also, but for many reasons Russian caviare commands the market.

Formerly the sturgeon fishers added to their profit by the sale of the air bladder of the sturgeons for making isinglass, and Russia was for a long time the only country supplying this commodity. Modern necessities, however, have led to this breathing apparatus being appropriated from other fish than the sturgeon, so the trade has declined.

European Postal Customs. In Holland potatoes are not received in the parcel post, Denmark will not receive almanacs, and Egypt will not permit sausages to be posted. Germany refuses anything of American origin. In some cases directed against Japan; while alkruns, maps, wax matches, rosaries, relics and jewelry are the miscellaneous lot barred by Spain.

BUILT UP HER HEALTH SPEEDY CURE OF MISS GOODE

She is Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Writes Gratefully to Mrs. Pinkham.

For the wonderful help that she has found Miss Cora Goode, 255 E. Chicago Avenue, Chicago, Ill., believes it her duty to write the following letter for publication, in order that other women afflicted in the same way may be benefited as she was.

Miss Cora Goode

benefited as she was. Miss Goode is president of the Bryn Mawr Lawn Tennis Club of Chicago. She writes: "I tried many different remedies to build up my system, which had become run down from loss of proper rest and unreasonable hours, but nothing seemed to help me. Mother is a great advocate of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles, having used it herself some years ago with great success. So I began to take it, and in less than a month I was able to be out of bed and out of doors, and in three months I was entirely well. Really I have never felt so strong and well as I have since."

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), displacement of organs, inflammation or ulceration, can be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Her experience is very great, and she gives the benefit of it to all who stand in need of wise counsel. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

White embroidered gloves in delicate colors to match the gowns with which they are worn, are expensive. The joint between the top and short glove is concealed in the modish wrinkle or covered by the bracelet that everyone is wearing over the glove.

THE PHENOMENA OF SLEEP.

Curious Observations of Conditions Under Its Influence.

Of all natural phenomena there is none so mysterious as the nightly lapse of consciousness we call sleep, says a writer in Harper's. It is a condition we are born with and into, for as infants we sleep from eighteen to twenty hours in the twenty-four. No appetite is more imperative; for while we may live for forty days without food, man's limit of endurance without sleep is only half that time. In the lower animals it is even more necessary to life, for they die in from four to five days when deprived of sleep.

There are various theories respecting sleep, the chief of which are known as the physiological, the chemical, and the histological.

The old theory postulated contraction of the brain, while the present and generally accepted theory implies the opposite, namely, a reduced supply of blood to the brain as compared with the amount in the waking state.

Among the chemical theories of sleep is the theory of autointoxication resulting from acid-waste products (chiefly phosphoric acid) produced by the activity of the brain, and which are thought to induce a suspended action of the brain cells until more or less elimination of these effluvia takes place.

The histological theory accounts for sleep by the partial retraction of the treelike branches of the cortical brain cells, so that the nerve currents are broken or rendered ineffective for the production of consciousness. It is claimed that such a condition of the brain cells has been found in animals which were suddenly destroyed while asleep.

Such are the principal theories of sleep; while it has yet to be admitted, as Dr. Weir Mitchell observed, that "we are simply driven to believe that it is a state of the nervous system, and why that the nervous system in which they became functionally active in a variable degree. Whether this is true also of the other cell structures of the body we do not know; and sleep may be a universal function, as would seem reasonable to those who believe that sleep is sleep. It is sure that the sleeping brain contains less blood, or it circulates less, than the brain awake and this is the limit of what we know."

Natural sleep has been defined as mental rest produced by an appetite resulting from fatigue. But the idea that mental rest means mental inaction is hardly tenable, inasmuch as it quite frequently happens that the solution of unsolved problems is the first thing to appear in the consciousness on awakening, and thus the mind must have been operative while asleep.

It is commonly supposed that the greatest depth of sleep occurs about the end of the first hour. This, however, is not invariably the rule, according to my own observations in the Cook County (Chicago) Insane Asylum, made some years ago, when I spent two successive nights hourly testing the depth of sleep by light, sound and touch. A majority of the ten cases I had under observation showed the greatest depth to be at about 3 a. m. More recently Dr. Santo de Sanctis and N. Noyes, of the University of Rome, tested the depth of sleep in four normal persons by pressure upon the temple. One of these showed the greatest depth of sleep in the second and fifth hours, while the others showed the greatest depth between the first and second hours.

Cuban Funerals.

A funeral in Cuba, is an interesting spectacle. The hearse, which is as large and gaily decorated as a circus van, leads the procession. Behind it comes the carriage with no one in it. Then follow the mourners on foot. These mourners are always men, as women are never allowed to attend burials.

The body is interred in a grave usually occupied by two or three or even four other bodies and then the cabs carry the mourners back to their homes.

Often times the coffin is rented simply to carry the corpse to the grave, where protected only by a shroud, the remains are buried. The graves are gorgeously decorated with flowers made of porcelain. This ornamentation is overdone and gives the entire cemetery a tawdry appearance. Graves are leased and as soon as the surviving relatives fail to pay the exorbitant rents the bones are dug up and unceremoniously thrown in one corner of the graveyard, where they may be seen piled high.

Effects of Heat on Milk.

Dr. Jensen, chief of the Swiss bureau of superintendence over the milk industry, says that it is a common error to suppose that milk submitted for a considerable time to the temperature of 120 degrees Fahrenheit is better for nourishment than that boiled for a short time. When the heating is prolonged the alteration in the valuable properties of the milk begins as low as 100 degrees, but with quick heating it does not begin below 110 degrees. Tubercle bacilli are destroyed by heating to 105 degrees for five minutes, and such heating does not alter the properties of the milk. Dr. Jensen advises that the pasteurization of milk to be done in the home, and but shortly before the milk is used, care being taken not to go above the temperature necessary to kill the pathogenic germs.—Exchange.

Austria, remarkable for its large eaters, has the highest death rate.

Bilious Attack Quickly Cured.

A few weeks ago I had a bilious attack that was as severe as I was able to go to the office for two days. Failing to get relief from my family physician's treatment, I took three bottles of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and the next day I felt like a new man.—H. C. Bailey, Editor of the News, Chapin, S. C. These tablets are for sale by O. L. Dickerson and G. Hearn.

BEE KEEPING

PLANTS TO RAISE FOR HONEY.

Each of Which Furnish Bees With Food During Entire Summer.

Parasols, when left to seed, blossom freely from June to August, inclusive, and are much frequented by honey bees.

Peppermint, raised for its foliage, from which oil is distilled, is most frequently cut before the bees derive much benefit from it, but when ever allowed to blossom it is eagerly sought after by them, and yields honey freely during July and August.

Bokhara, or sweet clover, is in some sections of the country considered a valuable forage crop. Animals can be taught to like it, and it is very valuable as a restorer of exhausted lime soils, while in regions lacking in bee pasturage during the summer months it is a very important addition. It withstands drought remarkably well and yields a large quantity of fine honey.

Cucumber, squash, pumpkin, and melon blossoms furnish honey and some pollen to the bees in July and August.

Eucalypti, valuable for their timber and as ornaments to lawns and roadsides, are quick-growing trees adapted to the southern portions of the United States. They yield much honey between July and October.

The carob tree, whose cultivation has been commenced in the Southwest, is an excellent honey yelder in late summer. It is an ornamental tree and gives, in addition to honey, another valuable product—the carob bean of commerce.

Scalelins, a forage and ornamental plant of recent introduction, is a great favorite with bees. It blossoms profusely during August, is a hardy perennial, and thrives in wet and also fairly in dry situations, withstanding the ordinary summer drought of the Eastern States, because of its deeply penetrating roots.

Buckwheat is an important honey and pollen producer. Its blossoms appear about four weeks after the seed is sown, hence it may be made to fill in a summer dearth of honey plants.

Alley System of Cell Starting.

Mr. Henry Alley, in the Bulletin of Entomology, recommends that a strip of comb, with young larva from the breeding queen, be cut wide enough for one row of complete cells to remain intact. The outer portions of the cells on one side are cut away and every second larva is killed or removed. This strip is then fastened to the bottom of a comb with the open ends pointing downward, and the whole put in any colony used for cell building. The queen cells are built very regularly and a large proportion are accepted. In the apiary of the Bureau it has been found easier to use partly drawn out foundation in which are young larva, thus avoiding the cutting away of the ends of cells. This method is very simple, since it does away with the necessity for transferring, and gives good results; but the cells must be cut apart to be put in nurseries, and in this manipulation they lack the firmness of cells with wooden bases. It has also been recommended that drone comb be used in the same way, and that a larva be transferred into every other cell. This plan, however, does not possess the one really good feature of the Alley method, and has therefore nothing to commend it.

Value of Birds and Bees.

The time is coming when the birds will be protected the same as the chickens and turkeys are. By the destruction of quails and other birds which destroy insects, the wheat crop for the past few years has been a partial failure. The quails were intended to destroy the Hessian fly, which is one cause of the failure of our wheat crops.

It is just as easy for a farmer to raise five bushels of clover seed to the acre as it is to raise one, but it cannot be done so long as the humble bees are destroyed by the farmers. They are the agents which distribute pollen to the red clover blossoms, and if they are not present to do it, the clover seed crop is bound to be a failure. Each farmer should see that a place is prepared for the bees to make their home, and they should be protected.

Thousands Have Kidney

Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or scale, indicating an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Poughkeepsie, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

PROMPT PROSECUTION, THE UNEQUIVOCAL DUTY OF STATE'S ATTORNEYS.

During the week much light has been thrown on the methods of the politicians in the First Congressional District, with the result that the fairest portion of Maryland has gained a reputation for bribery and political corruption that equals, if it does not surpass, that long endured by our sister state of Delaware.

Delaware has always had enough good citizens to keep the man who attempted to buy it from reaping the fruit of his wrong doings. Here it seems that such is not the case, but a man can actually buy enough votes to carry the district, and after it is done openly acknowledge the act. Shall the good citizens of this district hang their face in shame and let it be said this district is for sale. Let all the good men of all parties unite and wipe out forever this stain on our good name, and the corrupt politicians from the political map of the First District. The best method to stamp out this evil is to punish those guilty of bribery regardless of who they are or to what party they belong.

As Wicomico was the first county in the district to openly condemn this practice and raise a strong sentiment against it, let her also be the first to take effectual steps to stop the practice, no matter what the cost.

Here in our home County the charge has been openly made of the use of money in the last election. Several arrests have been made of men who are charged with using money for corrupt purposes. If such is the case shall such practices be allowed to go unpunished?

If our State's Attorney has been correctly reported in an interview given to a Baltimore paper, he himself has charged that money was used in nearly every district of this county.

It is undoubtedly his duty to probe this charge of political corruption deeply and fearlessly. It is up to him to show that during his term of office crime can not go unpunished, and that decency in the public morals can not be disregarded and go unpunished. It is the duty of every man who has the good of our community at heart to render him every assistance he can, both by his moral support and activity in aiding him in gathering evidence of wrong-doing. But what is a duty of every individual citizen is doubly the duty of the parties signing the agreement to prosecute all those guilty of bribery.

The Democratic and Republican State Central Committees are solemnly pledged on their sacred word of honor to aid and assist in the prosecution of those guilty of bribery. And this is the bounden obligation of each one of them regardless of the attitude of the other, as there is no clause in the signed agreement that lets out one if the other refuses to do his duty. Neither will the public justify the one that fails to live up to his pledged word. The Democrats have accused the Republicans of breaking the agreement to use money, and we believe that the general public will accuse them of a like insincerity if they do not push both individually, and collectively as a Party, the prosecution of those guilty. We are glad to see that Ex-Gov. E. E. Jackson in an interview in the Balto. Sun, reaffirms his written pledge and states his position on the prosecution of the men engaged in the dirty work of buying votes even stronger if possible than before.

As far as we are able to learn the other gentlemen of the State Central Committee who joined in the written pledge have not as yet made any public statement of their position. Let the Democrats get to work and do, and then the people will believe that they are sincere.

It is generally believed that the party leaders if they are in earnest can be of great assistance to the State's Attorney in gathering evidence. Regardless of the Parties' active cooperation or any organized body, however, it is the duty of the State's Attorney to do everything in his power to bring to trial the guilty. Let him show his mettle and he will have the support of the best citizens. Truth and right form an impregnable armor.

—No one will ever succeed at anything he has to push himself to, and when a man's performing work that he has to fight to keep up an interest in, he had better change it as quickly as possible. Luck in most things is largely a matter of care and precaution. If a man has the enthusiastic determination to win he will not stop to worry about what he has to do to "get there," but will take up the first thing at hand and do it as well as he can till something better comes along.

The profits of a gold mine depends, not on the amount of rock crushed under the stamps but upon the amount of gold which can be extracted from the rock. In a similar way the value of the food which is eaten does not depend on the quantity which is taken into the stomach but upon the amount of nourishment extracted from it by the organs of nutrition and digestion. When these organs are diseased they fail to extract the nourishment in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of the several organs of the body, and these organs cannot work without nourishment. The result is heart trouble, liver trouble, and many another ailment. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, acting on every organ of the digestive and nutritive system, restores it to health and vigor. It cures diseases remote from the stomach through the stomach in which they originated. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

Suppose Two Men

Suppose two men, each with a $10 and $5 bill, started down the street together to buy new clothes. One of them comes to Lacy Thoroughgood and the other goes to some other clothing store. The man that comes to Thoroughgood will get a splendid suit for $15; the other man finds that $15 only pays for the poorest you ever saw for $15, not actually worth over $10. Now, there is absolutely no comparison between the suits. The man who came to Thoroughgood has the best of it by at least $5 actual money value in material and tailoring, and what is more, his clothes have more style; come see if it isn't true. The overcoat you bought last winter is out of style, no matter how good it is. I have five hundred brand new Overcoats and Raincoats, and am going to sell them in the next 60 days at very low prices. If you want an overcoat now is your chance; come and look!

Get All You Can For Your Money

It's your duty to do that, and it is a principle that we will always uphold. BUT—Spend that money as near your own home as you can; that is when there is nothing to be gained by going farther. We don't know how it may be in other goods, but when it comes to Jewelry we are right up alongside the best that is shown in this country. To ignore our stock in favor of some other, maybe hundreds of miles away, is to do us an injustice, and it does not give yourself the advantage of the right sort of an examination before you buy. In Jewelry you can make your money go farther than by leaving it with us. Respectfully,

MARION HATTON.

The celebrated authoress, so highly esteemed by the women of America, says on pages 108 and 445 of her popular work, "Eve's Daughters, or Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother."

"For the aching back—should it be allowed in recovering its normal strength—an Allcock's Plaster is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong woman's hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases for perhaps a fortnight."

"For pain in the back wear an Allcock's Plaster constantly, renewing it as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant."

The Hole in the Wall

One warm summer's afternoon Sir Giles was being drawn in his bath chair across the lawn, thence along a narrow pathway until the wall was reached. Under the tree there was a comfortable lounge chair, in which, with the help of his footman, Sir Giles took his seat.

His fingers groped around, and he gave a sign of deep satisfaction.

"No letter. They will come, then."

"That's the boy," he muttered as there came a soft rustling of dried leaves.

A glad cry was heard, the sound of a kiss, then another kiss.

"The girl now," the old man said softly.

Not always had he been the recluse and misanthrope. There was no provender and happier man than Sir Giles had been some twenty years ago. His life and hopes were centered in his son Jack, a fine, manly young fellow, such as would gladden any father's heart.

The quarrel was a sudden one. The reason—a woman. Hard words were exchanged, for they were both possessors of the Travis temper. A parting in anger and two months afterward news came of Jack's death. Not a line or message had been left for his father.

The blow was a terrible one to Sir Giles. He closed his heart to all human sympathy and retired to the seclusion of Travis Towers.

Sits on the porch.

A few months afterward he was stricken with paralysis, and the long years had been wearisome with suffering and ennui.

For the last two or three months a new interest had come into his life. The whole pretty love comedy seemed to have been played within earshot.

When first they met there was the difference of youth. Their voices at first were louder, but as their love increased their seats on the fallen tree without the wall grew closer together, and their voices were lowered when they began to exchange sweet loving nothings.

Only twice since that day had they met, and a cloud had appeared on love's horizon.

"What did he say?" she asked, eagerly.

"He refused absolutely," he answered, mournfully.

"What reason did he give, Jack?" she demanded, indignantly.

"Your guardian told me that I was a penniless adventurer, and that it was your money I was after," he replied, moodily.

"Let us marry at once," she cried, impulsively. "I don't mind being poor."

There was silence and Sir Giles looked irritably at the hole.

"I have made up my mind, dear," he said.

"I am going away at once—to-morrow. You must forget me. It is not fair to you."

There was a sound of sobbing.

"Don't cry, darling," he said, pleadingly.

"The fool!" the baronet muttered. "I can't let you go!" she cried miserably. "Don't go to-morrow. Stay till Saturday. It is only four days," she asked, pleadingly.

There was the sound of a passionate farewell, the rustle of leaves, and all was silence.

Saturday afternoon came, and Sir Giles looked anxiously at the hole in the wall. He took a large envelope and placed it in the hole.

They came at last. Their words were few and their voices tremulous.

"The last time, Jack, that we shall meet here," she said, brokenly.

She leaned down as she spoke.

"Jack, there is a letter here," she cried, excitedly.

"To Jack and Joan, with a lonely old man's love," she read in wonder.

"Open it at once."

From the other side of the wall there came a hoarse but gleeful chuckle.

"Good Heavens!" he cried at last. "Am I mad?"

"Old Doctor Rutherford has sold his practice to me."

"To you?"

"Yes, and the money has been paid—£2,000."

"Jack, what does it mean?"

Again they heard the hoarse chuckle. There was even more glee in it.

Two years have passed.

Jack's most valuable patient is Sir Giles Travis, and once or twice a week the old man sits in his chair but now on the porch, while a fair and happy girl plays with her baby on the lawn.—E. Platt.

WHY SHOULD PROSECUTION RESULT "IN TOTAL MISCARriage OF JUSTICE?"

That the "Courier" in its editorial of last week should rush to the defense of Mr. Jackson was to be expected, but that it would stoop to make a personal attack on Mr. Ellegood was a surprise to every one. As far as Mr. Ellegood is concerned he needs no defense from us or from any man. Here, where he has spent his long and useful life, his sincerity of heart and honesty of purpose will not be questioned by anyone.

Moreover Mr. Ellegood is not the question before, the public, and his motives have nothing at all to do with the subject of whether or not money was used in the last campaign. An attack on the personality and motives of a man is not argument but a begging of the question, and is usually considered not only in bad taste but a confession of weakness as well.

And what is it that the "Courier" is complaining about and accusing Mr. Ellegood as being the mainpring of? Local agitation of bribery. Does it mean by this that the sentiment that has been aroused against this evil in this county is to be deplored? Does it mean to say that it is not in favor of this agitation? Is the object to be accomplished if so little value that a public spirited man can not advocate and work for it without having his character and unworthy motives ascribed to him? We think the man, who brings an end to this despicable trade in votes, and thanks of his fellow citizens are due, and that reward and honor should be showered on his head and not condemnation. And Altho no one wishes to detract one mite from the credit that Mr. Ellegood gets and deserves for his long and brave fight against the corruption of voters, yet in our humble opinion the local agitation has had another force as strong as the efforts of Mr. Ellegood's and that was in the breaking of the agreement not to use money in this county.

The Democrats have openly charged the Republicans with breach of faith, and open disregard for their pledged word of honor, and as far as we have heard no denial has been made. We want to ask our brother if he does not think a part of the local agitation might not with reason be ascribed to this? We say no reply has been made to the charges made by the democrats of the use of money in this county unless the remarkable plea for mercy and leniency that is found in another part of the same Courier editorial is to be construed as a confession of guilt. The portion of the editorial referred to is as follows:

"The attempt to secure prosecutions for the past week, we believe, result in a haphazard, unjust and unfair discrimination, with the almost certain result of a total miscarriage of justice."

Miscarriage of justice—"a total miscarriage of justice!" How a miscarriage of justice? Prosecution of those who are guilty of breaking the laws of the state? Or, does the "Courier" mean to say that in its opinion there is danger of convicting some one innocent, of bribery? Or does it mean to say that the prosecution of criminals can possibly result in a greater miscarriage of justice than would result in letting them go scot-free?

It seems to us that this clause needs further light thrown on it. Prosecution of criminals or alleged criminals will result in the "almost certain result of a total miscarriage of justice." How can this be?

We confess we are unable to see how a miscarriage of justice can result in the prosecution of those who break the law, unless indeed the guilty escape their just punishment. To let the offenders go free is only a bid for future crimes, a total miscarriage of justice, a precedent for the defiance and contempt of all law, and a menace to the stability of any government.

Holomon Dashiell, colored, aged 18 years, is languishing in jail, charged with stealing a turkey from the premises of Mr. Alex. Jackson, last Friday night. The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff Frank Waller.

The same night John Wesley Long, another negro boy, was paddling chickens along Maryland Ave. These, it is alleged, were stolen from parties in Camden, and officer Waller soon got on the trail of Long. The negro was arrested Monday night and now occupies a cell in the county jail.

Mr. Jackson's Denial.

Our Republican contemporary in its editorial of last Saturday touched the question of veracity between Mr. Jackson on the one side and the Baltimore Sun and News on the other. As both these papers reassert the correctness of these interviews, one, saying that nothing was put in the interview that he did not say and the other that his precise words were as quoted, there appears to be two witnesses against his rather indirect denial to say nothing of the interviewers having a wonderful ability as imitators of his characteristic style and language. But the real issue now is not what he said, but what he did during the last campaign and election. Did he keep his agreement as Chairman of the Republican Central Committee and as a candidate, with the Democratic Central Committee in this county, not to give money for illegal purposes in this county and to do all he could to discourage it? Is he now willing to aid in the prosecution of violators of the law.

Did he or not send $6000, or any like sum to Worcester county to be used on the election day and if so for what purpose was it to be used if not for inducing voters to vote for him, or not to vote at all? Did he or not send money into other counties of the District expecting and intending the same to be used for like purpose? These questions ought to be answered by him directly and specifically for his own "vindication" if he did not do as is charged against him. He says "the utter injustice of the interviews is apparent, when the impression is given out to the public that I attributed my success solely and entirely to the use of money." Neither of the interviews or any one else attribute his success solely and entirely to the use of money. There are too many honest Republicans in this District for any one to be so foolish as to try to make out any such "impression". But would he have been elected without the illegal use of money is still to be settled. As Mr. Jackson claims a seat in the next Congress as a Representative of the people, he cannot at his choice "consider the incidents closed." He may well wish they had never been opened, and his apologists condemn him much more earnestly for his candor and indiscretion than for anything he stands accused of. His organ, says, "we believe the remedy is not by attempting prosecution for alleged offenses in the past." What offenses shall be prosecuted if not those of the "past" and why did he promise to prosecute them? His plea for mercy sounds like a confession when it states "the attempt to secure prosecutions for the past would be a haphazard, unjust and unfair discrimination with the almost certain total miscarriage of justice."

We can't tell how far this confession will appeal to the State's Attorney and Grand Jury, but if parties charged are innocent they ought to have "vindication," and if not, then the miscarriage of justice is with the Courts and law officers.

If Mr. Jackson wants a true vindication let him ask Congress for a full investigation of the charges attacking his claim to the seat in the House of Representatives. If he then comes out exonerated the Advertiser will gladly congratulate him and the people.

For Baltimore Fire Memorial.

Another impetus was given to the Baltimore fire memorial project, which has not been particularly active of late because of the general interest in the raising of the fund for the Young Men's Christian Association, by the receipt of a subscription Thursday of $600 from ex-Gov. Elihu E. Jackson.

Members of the committee expressed themselves as highly gratified at the gift, which was accompanied by a strong letter, in which the donor warmly commended the scheme to give a permanent record in the form of a memorial to the city's rise from the devastating conflagration.

Ex-Governor Jackson said that posterity would have the same appreciation of a fire memorial that the present generation has of the Battle Monument, which commemorates the successful defense of the city in time of peril.

ANTI-BRIBERY LEAGUE

Formed At Easton. Maryland Aroused Over Corrupt Use of Money.

Following the example which had been set at Denton, a number of estimable and public spirited citizens gathered in Easton Saturday and formed an anti-bribery league. It was entirely nonpartisan, and Republicans as well as Democrats signed the pledge. Among the signers were several ministers of the Gospel, several Independents and one Prohibitionist. The paper signed by these gentlemen pledges them on their honor as gentlemen:

First.—Not to give or to use, either directly or indirectly, any money to corrupt or to be used by others to corrupt or influence the vote of any person in any primary or general election to be held in Talbot county.

Second.—That we will use all means in our power to bring to punishment by the laws of this State any and every person so using money to corruptly influence a voter or voters at any election to be held in Talbot county, or anyone that offers his vote for sale at any such election.

Third.—That we will use every and all means to secure the nomination of such proper and sincere men to the next Legislature from Talbot county who will pledge themselves to use their power to pass some law to prevent bribery at primary and general elections in Talbot county, as well as to aid with their vote other counties in this State which are pledged to this end.

Fourth.—We further pledge ourselves to vote for any man who is pledged against bribery, as against any man who favors it.

Not one person whose name is signed to this pledge "stultified" himself by signing, as Chairman Hanna, of the Republican State Central Committee, fears he would do if he signed such an agreement. In fact, this is the practical common sense way to begin the work of removing an abuse which has long brought discredit on the State of Maryland, and more especially upon the counties of the Eastern Shore, which stand upon a bad eminence of political corruption. It is useless to talk about trying to get the Legislature to enact a corrupt practices law after a great number of its members have been elected by means of corrupt practices. The time to begin is now, and the way to begin is the way the leaders in Caroline and Talbot counties have begun.

Col. Henry Holliday stated the object of the Easton meeting to be to promote the use of all means to elect to the next Legislature men who will pledge themselves in favor of such laws as will tend to eradicate the bribery evil.

The statement by Mr. W. R. Hearst that he had used over a quarter of a million dollars in his campaign for Governor of New York has shocked the whole United States. And yet that sum is far less in proportion to the respective number of voters and to the amount for which there could be a legitimate use than the sum said to have been put out in some of the Eastern Shore counties. A statement which comes from Worcester county and which was published in The Sun on Sunday is to the effect that one candidate for Congress had put out $6,000 in that county on the Sunday before election. That was after the registration expenses were over, and the statement is that this sum was intended for use on election day during the whole campaign, there could be no legitimate use. Six thousand dollars is equal to nearly $4 for every Republican vote cast in Worcester county on November 7, and more than $3 for every Democratic vote cast. Mr. Preston B. Spring, at the Easton meeting, declared that the essence of a corrupt practices act must be publicity. Even if the law did not limit the amount a candidate may spend, as it should, no candidate would "put out" $6,000 for use in one small county, if he had to publish a sworn statement of his expenditures.

To break up vote-buying Col. J. O. Mullikin declared in the Easton meeting the force of public sentiment is needed and the Anti Bribery League with the aid of the press can arouse that sentiment. Then Mr. Mullikin made the astonishing statement that "he had seen the grand jury composed in part of seven vote-buyers and two vote sellers."

It is about time that political virtue should come out of hiding in the First Congressional district of Maryland. Caroline county began this movement for political regeneration and purity which has now been followed up by Talbot, Baltimore city and every county in Maryland should be quick to follow this good example. What is needed to enforce the law and to compel the enactment of whatever new laws may be necessary is a strong public sentiment and an insistent popular demand. If the people demand the enactment of a corrupt practices act it will be enacted.

The action of leading and reputable citizens in Caroline and Talbot is the kind of action which will be effective with the Legislature. No candidate for the General Assembly in any county could or would venture to defy and disregard the class of men who composed the Denton and the Easton meetings. It is none too soon to begin the good work in this city and in every county. On the Eastern Shore the sure on the body politic has reached a stage of gangrene, and it must be excised. It is well known there that if a rich man, who will use money, desires an office, no poor man can stand against him with any hope of success.

Hope In Young Men.

At the Denton meeting on November 9 Mr. Harvey L. Cooper, president of the Denton Bank said: As a young man, I can sincerely say that the tendency of the times politically on the Eastern Shore of Maryland is either to degrade morally the young man who participates in politics or drive him from active participation in politics.

What a lamentable statement! The hope of the country is in the young men. Those who stand as gray must soon pass away from these scenes and leave their country's affairs in the hands of those who are younger. If the hope of the country is to rest upon young men who are debauched to corrupt, or who have fled from the patronage of politics and will have neither part nor parcel in public affairs, then shall the public hope be likened unto the foolish man who built his house on the sand and the rain descended and the floods came and the winds blew and beat upon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.—Baltimore Sun.

The Overcoat

You Bought Last Winter Is Out Of Style.

When fashions change so frequently don't you see the wisdom of wearing the Thoroughgood Overcoats at moderate prices, you can afford to change oftener and look better all the time. A man buys Thoroughgood's clothes to save money and finds himself better dressed in better clothes—himself than ever before in his life. A man can wear a Thoroughgood overcoat and always feel right about it. It is distinctly good form and good fashion. You know the ordinary overcoat tires you out if you wear it all day, it is not balanced right. The weight doesn't swing from the right points. A coat should hang easy and free. Put on your right size in Thoroughgood's overcoats and you'll see the difference at once. It shows the science of good overcoat building. Add to this good style and fine materials and you have an overcoat that any man can be proud to own. Thoroughgood has several hundred overcoats to select one from. Drop in.

When fashions change so frequently don't you see the wisdom of wearing the Thoroughgood Overcoats at moderate prices, you can afford to change oftener and look better all the time. A man buys Thoroughgood's clothes to save money and finds himself better dressed in better clothes—himself than ever before in his life. A man can wear a Thoroughgood overcoat and always feel right about it. It is distinctly good form and good fashion. You know the ordinary overcoat tires you out if you wear it all day, it is not balanced right. The weight doesn't swing from the right points. A coat should hang easy and free. ## AN OPEN LETTER

On The Matter Of Jackson's Interviews And Later Statement—Indignant At Unwarranted Attack On Mr. Ellegood.

Mr. Elmer H. Walton, Editor of the Courier; I have read with some feelings of regret mixed with pity your editorial of Nov. 17th., on the subject of the letter of Hon. W. H. Jackson denying the interviews in the Sun and the Baltimore News.

I read both interviews there referred to as well as the denial of Mr. Jackson, and will leave the question of whether Mr. Jackson said the things he was quoted as saying to be determined by every one for himself. For my own part, in spite of Mr. Jackson's saying it was such a misrepresentation as to amount to almost an absolute fabrication, it appears that Mr. Jackson said what he was quoted as saying. It can not be true that he contributed no money to buy votes, for the evidence exists that he did contribute money for that purpose in Worcester County, and even after the agreement had been signed by the parties in that County, Mr. Jackson insisted that it should be used for that purpose, and it was returned to him after the election. We will not call his conduct by any harsh names, but I thought Mr. Jackson's word could be taken for what he said and relied upon. I am sorry to find it different.

But that part of your editorial which attracted my attention and started me most was your unwarranted attack on the Hon. James E. Ellegood in these words: "And we may add that not a small part of the local agitation has been brought about by a disappointed office seeker in a spirit of innate revenge, against the Congressman-elect, because of the stinging defeat administered to him four years ago. That election embittered his very life and changed the whole current of his career, and his recent public tirade against Mr. Jackson is but the culmination of an intense and unreasoned bitterness which has become a dominant factor in the man's very existence."

Now, Mr. Walton, it seems that you have gone a long distance out of your way, in your defence of Mr. Jackson's methods in elections, to speak of Mr. Ellegood in such words. It is quite true that a large part of this local agitation has been caused by Mr. Ellegood in his condemnation of bribery and by Mr. Jackson in his persistence in bribery. They both have contributed very much toward it.

It cannot be said with truth that Mr. Ellegood is a disappointed office seeker in even a remote sense. In the first place, since 1891, he has been a candidate for office only once until 1902, and in that single instance, he refused to have his name considered when it became evident that it was to be a "boodle campaign." In 1902, before the Democratic Convention, Mr. Ellegood said in an interview published, here that he was not a candidate and could be induced to accept the nomination only upon the condition that it was to be a campaign free from the corrupt use of money, and was nominated on that platform. Mr. Jackson also told a friend that he too would go into an anti-bribery campaign at that election. How well Mr. Jackson and Mr. Ellegood kept their respective promises, is well known, and you probably have some personal knowledge of how Mr. Jackson conducted his campaign. That Mr. Ellegood was sincere and has been consistent in his position in condemning bribery must be admitted by yourself.

That Mr. Jackson has come in for a good share of the condemnation in the movement against bribery is because he is generally held largely responsible for its continuance. It may be that your own position and past conduct in politics would have come in for a large part of it also, if it were not generally considered that you have been led on by others. It is the evil of bribery that Mr. Ellegood has been condemning, whether among Democrats, Republicans, Mr. Jackson, or yourself, and he with Secretary Bonaparte thinks bribery ought to be punished, whoever they are, from a small politician to the occupant of a seat in Congress.

There can be no defense for bribery, by any one, and I am sorry to see you take the position toward Mr. Ellegood for his condemnation that you do in that editorial. You are only a young man, and have started in one of the leading professions. To make any success it is necessary that you have the respect of the public. You cannot have this when you take the stand in defense of such methods as have been used in elections of recent years, and the reputation which you have made for yourself in such matters is to be deplored by all men who are interested in the advancement of young men.

Let me suggest that you copy the virtues of Mr. Ellegood, and it will be a help to you in your profession. I am glad to see that you are in favor of stopping it in the future.

Marion Hartland.

The celebrated authoress, so highly esteemed by the women of America, says on pages 108 and 445 of her popular work, "Eve's Daughters, or Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother."

"For the aching back—should it be slow in recovering its normal strength—an Allcock's Plaster is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases for perhaps a fortnight."

"For pain in the back wear an Allcock's Plaster constantly, renewing as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant."

—The postal authorities at Washington recognising the liability of postmasters to make mistakes in getting letters in the wrong boxes, have fixed a penalty of 200 dollars on persons taking mail out of the office other than their own and not returning it at once. This law also includes newspapers. The excuses that it is the postmaster's fault "cuts no ice." If you have been getting other people's mail you had better take warning or you may get yourself into trouble.
