Students Leave Campus

On Thursday, September 26, Frostburg State College Students were notified of an unexpected four day holiday. The Frostburg City Water Department announced that while renovating the water purification system, the city's five million gallon reservoir was partially drained. Resident students were requested Thursday morning to leave the dormitories by 12:00 noon, and all buildings on campus were closed by that time. Many off-campus students arrived on campus to attend classes, unaware of the crisis.

Resident students were faced unexpectedly with the task of either finding off-campus temporary housing or returning to their homes. Bus service was provided, however, many students found themselves in an end-of-the-month lack of funds situation.

By early Thursday afternoon State-to-Date found the FSC campus totally deserted. Off-campus students who remained were advised, along with the entire Frostburg community, to boil all water used for drinking and food preparation for the next forty-eight hours, and limit water use to an absolute minimum.

City water Superintendent George Wright, in an interview by television station WJZ in Baltimore, stated that complete renovation of the water purification system would take three to four weeks. Although residents were cautioned to boil water, any accidental consumption was not considered dangerous as the city's water supply comes from pure mountain springs.

A spokesman for the College announced that dormitories and other campus buildings would be reopened by 2:00 Sunday afternoon, September 29th.

What's Happened To The New GI Bill?

Last year, the Office of Veteran Affairs initiated a Job Program for veterans and their dependents. The purpose of this program is to secure jobs, part time and full time, for the veterans/dependents who have a need for a job. The program was highly successful in placing veterans in jobs last year. Any veteran/dependent seeking employment should come to the Office of Veteran Affairs.

In addition, any veteran who would like to work for the OVA as a part of the Job Program should stop by the OVA. You will go to businesses and sell the program—a car is necessary.

What's happened to the new GI Bill?

Bowing to White House pressure the House of Representatives did an about face and destroyed much needed improvements in the GI Bill agreed upon in Joint Conference.

The compromise bill passed the Senate August 21st, but was shot down in the House a day later. It was a unanimous vote (not one representative supported the agreed upon Conference Report). Agreed on percentage increases were reduced, the 36 to 45 month extension was removed along with guaranteed loans of $1000 per year. Instead, a watered-down bill was substituted agreeable to the President.

Because the substitute veterans package was voted on the same day Congress went into recess it will be the latter part of September before veterans will know if or what kind of GI Bill they will receive.

Memorial Services Held For Dr. Briggs

A memorial service for Dr. Howard L. Biggs, late retired professor of history at Frostburg State College was conducted on Tuesday, September 24 in the College's Lane Center.

Eulogies were delivered by Rev. Clarence A. Kaylor, pastor of the Frostburg United Methodist Church; Dr. Gordon E. Kershaw, head of the College's department of history; Mr. Larry E. Hopcraft, representing the College alumni; Mr. H. Reford Aldridge, in behalf of the community of Frostburg; and Dr. Nelson P. Guild, president of the College.

Professor Briggs had been a member of the faculty at Frostburg State College for 25 years and retired in February 1972. He died on July 23, 1974.

Senator Mason Speaks On Campaign

Senator Ed Mason, representative in Annapolis of Maryland district 1B, was a guest speaker for Dr. Walter Lackey's Political Parties class on Thursday, September 19th. Senator Mason spoke to an open session of the class in Lane Center on campaign tactics which he used in the recent primary elections. He is running for re-election on the Republican ticket.

The major part of Senator Mason's speech dealt with the way in which volunteers, time, money, and materials were used to lead him to a successful campaign against William Wilson for State Senator. He noted that approximately ten thousand man hours and eight thousand dollars were expended during the campaign. Volunteers began their work with telephone calls to perspective voters to ask if they would give their support to the Senator. Those who gave an affirmative answer were then sent a letter asking for support and reminding them to go to the polls on election day. Those giving a negative answer were not contacted so as not to encourage them to go to the polls and possibly vote for Mason's opponent. On the day of elections, supporters were provided with transportation to the polls if it was not otherwise available. In Garrett County the Senator used the man-on-the-street method of introducing himself to voters. This method proved effective in securing approximately sixty percent of the votes in that County.

In a question and answer period following his speech, the Senator was asked his opinion on several state and national issues. Responding to a question about limiting campaign spending Mason commented that he felt that there should be some kind of limit. He pointed out that the area in which a candidate is campaigning should also be taken into account. He gave the example of the difference in the cost of television and radio time in Baltimore City and more rural areas of the state.

When asked if he was in favor of having campaigns financed through public funding, the Senator stated that public funding may be feasible for general elections, but not for primary elections. "I don't see why everyone who pays taxes should support everyone running in a primary."

He commented that "if you can't run your own primary with everything open and above the table," public funding would not help to make private campaign financing any more honest. In response to whether campaign donations were a form of buying votes, Senator Mason felt that it was up to the candidates to thwart any opportunity to accept contributions in return for voting favors.

When asked whether he thought the Watergate incident was reflected upon the campaigns of Republican candidates, Senator Mason noted that the voters seemed responsible enough not to let the incident take precedent over issues involved in individual campaigns. "I don't think you can blame Watergate any more on the Republican Party than you can on the Democratic Party," he said. He stated that he hoped "Americans are broad-minded enough to not blame the Republican Party. He pointed out that the candidates must stand on their individual performance aiding that "Ford today is probably in hot water for a lot of steps he's taken."

Referring to Democratic gubernatorial candidate Marvin Mandell, Mason noted "Some top officials are nervous (about the upcoming election) who aren't Republicans." He commented also on the fact that Mandell will be running against a female candidate, Louise Gore, on the Democratic ticket. With a female in the gubernatorial race for the first time Mason stated: "It's a whole new ballgame, now."

Senator Mason has already begun his campaign for the general elections to be held in November.

"Substate Regionalism: Promise For Appalachian Maryland"

On Wednesday, October 2, the Symposium of the Alleghenies will sponsor a panel discussion on "Substitute Regionalism: Promise for Appalachian Maryland." The discussion intends to enrich the perspectives of both participants and observers through a thoughtful interchange between practicing regional administrators and experienced educators.

John N. Banbacus, Executive Director of Frostburg State's Public Affairs Institute will preside over the panel discussion. Discussants will include George Allen, Executive Director of the Regional Education Service Agency; Harry Bunch, Associate Professor in Frostburg's Department of Sociology; Charles J. Farmer, Assistant Professor in the Department of Geography; Edward I. Heath, Executive Director of the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland; Michael C. Lemay, Professor and head of the Department of Political Science; James Nelson, Regional Planner of the Department of State Planning; John Park, Professor and Head of the Department of Economics and Business Administration; and Carl V. Strayhorn, Jr., Executive Director of the Health Planning Council of Appalachia, Maryland.

The format of the discussion will be informal with each discussant speaking for approximately five minutes on his agency's/department's role concerning areawide delivery of public services. Following these brief explanations, the moderator will pose a series of questions to the panel and also request feedback and comments from the audience.

For purposes of this discussion Continued on page 6

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I feel that last week's letter to the editor, concerning the campus security carrying guns, is totally irrelevant.

First, the three concerned students, as the article was signed, fail to understand that the Frostburg City Police do have authority on campus. The college, if you haven't already noticed, is in the city of Frostburg. I called the Frostburg City Police and asked if they patrolled the campus. Their reply was yes. Personally, I feel the city police can handle any serious crime on campus and so do they. In researching this further, I called the State Police and asked if they could handle any major crime on the campus. The answer again was yes. In addition, I asked them how long it would take for the State Police to have men here at any given time. Their reply was that a patrol car is always no further than five minutes away from the campus. This situation makes me feel safe. I'm sure at the rate the security officers move on campus that the State Police would arrive shortly after, if not before, campus security.

I honestly don't feel safe with security officers carrying guns. I feel that an 8-week course on law enforcement isn't sufficient justification to give guns to a security force that mainly gives parking tickets and guards the doors at registration. Furthermore, I feel sure that if any major crime should occur, the State and City Police are more than qualified to handle it.

The Modern Foreign Language Clubs want everyone to know that they are not giving away the prize mentioned in the last issue of State-to-Date. Actually, there will be two separate prizes. One winner will receive a gift certificate for a dinner for two at Au Petit Paris. Another winner will be awarded a dinner for two at Warner's, with transportation provided. All proceeds will go to support the MFL plays on Oct. 25 and 26.

A Public Service of The Newspaper & The Advertising Council

"Dollars and Sense"

by Ron Fautz, Director of Financial Aids and Placement

These are generalized questions and answers which are an attempt to respond to comments from students, faculty, and administrative staff via the recent Student Personnel survey.

Q. How do I apply for a State or a Senatorial Scholarship?

A. Applications will be available in our office within the near future. The deadline this year will be on December 15. (Note: these applications are for next year's awards, that is, academic year 1975-76.)

Q. Can you help me get my GI Bill check?

A. All veterans having a problem with the VA concerning checks should see Ken Braitman in the Veterans Affairs Office located in the Admissions Office building.

Q. How does a student establish himself as an independent student? I am over 18 years old and my parents do not give me any help.

A. There are three criteria which must be met before we are permitted to give a student federal aid to a student without considering parental resources.

1) The student cannot live at home during one complete calendar year—before aid is received, nor can he live at home during the year aid is received.

2) The student cannot receive more than $600 in either year.

3) The student must not be claimed as a dependent for income tax purposes in either year.

The above facts must be signed and notarized by the parents.

Q. I got a deferred payment at the start of the semester. When must it be paid off?

A. Your second payment is due thirty days after registration and your final payment is due thirty days after that. This means payment in full is due about October 28.

(Note: If you have questions, complaints, or observations concerning financial aid—please bring them to our attention or let the editor of State-to-Date know of your concern.)

Don't Run Home To Mother

There is so much talk at school, but so little of it is about school, plenty of talk about the past but none of the future. When I transferred here to FSC I had high hopes of new horizons and all that, you've heard the story before...

To really start the controversy going, I'll start by saying that I've found the majority of students at FSC to be unintellectual. By intellectual I don't mean walking around talking about deep philosophical ideals and quadratic equations, but rather, integrating previous knowledge with new incoming data and then comparing and collaborating it with other students. This is what I expected to see at a college, but instead I encountered the old high school conversations of: the weather, the cafeteria, last year's parties, and the chicks outside all—reminiscent of an Oklahoma truck stop.

I'm not saying that one must always be collecting and exchanging ideas. The mind does need the rest found in television and idle conversation, but if one is going to college, shouldn't he exercise his mind a bit more than is required in the classroom? Instead of becoming a stereotyped student taught by Freud, Pathagorus and Shaw; shouldn't the student look inside to see how these men relate to the self as well as to the upcoming test?

Instead of going through the motions, shouldn't the student hold an interest in his major, so that when questioned about his major the reply will be one consisting of ideals, interest, desires, and future considerations instead of the standard reply of "I don't know."

The purpose of college is (if you'll excuse the old cliché) to help the student find himself, be proud of himself and then express it effectively to others. The school offers plenty of stimulation to accomplish these goals, so theoretically we should have a campus of very together people. But again, all I find is dorms and dorms of people all drinking the same beer and saying the same redundant things about the weather, food, and Richard Nixon; talking the same, sounding the same, and not thinking at all, soon to be punched out of their casts to fit comfortably into a mindless middle class society.

Shouldn't the student, the achiever of new and fresh knowledge be the vanguard of the country? Shouldn't he use his newly acquired skills to create controversy and then resolve the problems and traditional hangups of the city, state and nation? This may sound a bit idealistic, but why should we be afraid of ideals? When we students leave school and become the new establishment, shouldn't our intelligence be used for things other than parties and mowing the lawn?

When the people are apathetic, the government walks all over them, but when the people become intelligently involved, the government must listen to their needs. What the country needs is not politicians but thinkers, new and alive. But people would rather watch television with their B.A.'s, B.S.'s, and Ph.D.'s.

Dramatis Personae Commemorates Bicentennial

In commemoration of America's approaching Bi-centennial, FSC through Dramatis Personae and its department of speech and theatre will offer a two-year playbill of outstanding American theatre productions.

Plays scheduled this year are Clifford Odet's depression era play, Awake and Sing; George S. Kaufman's and Morris Ryskind's musical drama, Of Thee I Sing; William Gillette's Civil War drama, Secret Service; and America's first comedy, The Contrast, written by Royall Tyler.

Awake and Sing, under the direction of Dr. David R. Press, will be performed October 10, 11, and 12. The play centers on a Jewish family living in the Bronx during the depression and was written in 1932.

Of Thee I Sing, also written in 1932, was the first American musical to win the Pulitzer Prize for drama and is concerned with the relevant topic of political buffoonery in Washington, D.C. The music and lyrics are by George and Ira Gershwin. The play is under the direction of Ms. Betsy Ross Rankin and will be performed November 21, 22 and 23.

Secret Service, written in 1896, will be the first spring production. The play tells the story of brothers ordered to seize control of a telegraph office in order to send false directions to the Confederate Army so that Union forces will be able to capture Richmond. Dr. David R. Press directs the play which is scheduled for February 20, 21 and 22.

The Contrast, is the first comedy in American history written by an American and presented by a company of professional actors. Written in 1787, the play delighted audiences by deflating the social pretensions of people who imitated British manners of the period. Under the direction of Dr. Jack W. Vrieze, the play is scheduled to be performed on April 17, 18, and 19.

All of the performances will be given in Compton Auditorium beginning at 8:15 p.m. Ticket information may be obtained by calling 689-4145 or 689-4146.

Mrs. Elaine P. Wonsavage, editor-in-chief of periodicals of Xerox Education Publications, will speak on "Balancing a Full Reading Diet in the Classroom" at Lane Center on Wednesday, October 9 at 7:30 p.m.

Sponsoring the event, which is open to interested teachers and students, is the Western Maryland Council of the International Reading Association. A nominal donation is requested to help defray expenses, according to Mrs. John Robinson, president.

Mrs. Wonsavage has an extensive background as a reading teacher. At her present position she is responsible for all periodicals at the elementary, secondary, and special education levels, all elementary and secondary books and programs, including

CCB is at it again! That is, trying to get together a super program for this year's "HOMECOMING '74", including once again the successful Window Mural Contest. After last year's good showing the CCB program board has decided to award a $5.00 increase to last year's prize allotments. So, this year's 1st place finish will be awarded $20.00, 2nd place--$15, and 3rd place--$10, that the club can put in its treasury or use as it wishes. Basically, the rules are the same as last year: bring your own supplies--newspaper, tape, cellophane tissue, paints (water-based only please!) etc; try to get it up as soon as possible and leave it neat and ready for judging; then last and certainly not least is the clean-up to be done by the organization--so that maintenance will have no complaints and the Lane Center people will have us back next year. As usual the contest is open to all clubs, Greeks, dorms, special interest groups, and other campus organizations. Now becoming somewhat of a tradition at FSC, the window display is held in the Lane Center Snack Shop, where previously it had been paraded in various store windows downtown. The previous pattern had met with some annoyance, due to problems in finding cooperative stores, many with restrictions and their own ideas on how things should be done and what was deemed suitable. The new location involves our campus, alumni and welcome visitors, as only it should, and creates intimacy, is easily seen and easily accessible, plus allows for more divergent ideas and themes.

This year's theme is Fantasia, a topic that lends itself to numerous interpretations. Details of the contest have been sent out to all heretofore acknowledged campus organizations and to the prospective judges already chosen. Any person feeling slighted and wishing to apply for judgment contact Rich Kohler (729-8174)-chairman. Interested organizations should send a note to the CCB office in Lane Center, stating: group name, person in charge, and phone number, and a tentative sketch of your idea by Thursday, October 3rd. That night at 7:00 p.m. in Lane 202 there will be a meeting of the Window Committee to meet with those clubs that have/or haven't notified us to show the display area, clarify points and examine theme ideas. Work times (once OK'd by the CCB Chairman) are from Saturday, Oct. 5 to Thursday, Oct. 10, with showing from Friday, Oct. 11 to Sunday, Oct. 13. Judging will be on Saturday, Oct. 12 with the results announced at halftime in the football game. The winning redeemable forms will be hand-delivered to the contact-person of the sponsoring group during that weekend, and can be "cashed in" Monday morning at the business office in Lowndes. Also, Monday, Oct. 14 thru Friday, Oct. 18 groups can get to their clean-up. Judging will be based on: neatness, cohesion, originality and theme adherence. Let's get some good competition going! CCB challenges the normally apathetic campus to be creative and show your stuff.

Let Them Persuade You

When The Persuasions first started singing together they did not fit into the category of an established group. Their stage was usually some basketball court or street-corner. The purpose for their meetings was often to relieve a case of the "uptights." Their's was no professional rehearsal, just a little down to earth jammin' with voices. The result was a good vibration.

The Persuasions are an "a capella" group--no strings, no brass, just a harmonic blend of tenors and basses and a dedication to a worthy cause. What's the cause? To produce good sounds and feelings, The Persuasions combine talent with a genuine interest in people and good times. As a result they entertain and unite audiences with a combination Southern sound Motown talent--all at the same time.

Sound like a bargain? What more could you ask for--good time, good vibrations, good company, and a great way to spend a Friday evening. Don't miss The Persuasions in concert. Homecoming Weekend, Friday, October 11, 8:00 p.m. in the Lane Multi-use room. Tickets are $2.50 for students and $3.50 for non-students, available at the Lane Information Desk beginning October 4.

Spanish Club Festivities

The house of Dr. Patricia C. Redick was the scene of the Second Annual Dinner of the Spanish Club, Wednesday, September 18. The members of the club, numbering about thirty-five, arrived at 5:00 to begin preparing for the meal. They learned how to prepare and cook tortilla de patata (Spanish potato omelet), gazpacho from Andalucia (cold soup), sangria (red wine with fresh fruit), churros (pastry), and platanos fritos (fried bananas).

Also, a meeting was held before the dinner, during which time new officers for this year, 1974-1975, were elected: President--D. Henri Landis, Vice-President--Janine Smith, Treasurer--Dino Volta, and Secretary--Laura Lang.

Also discussed were the bake sale of Spanish desserts offered by the club during Frostburg Day Festival, September 14, the Language Club Raffle, a trip to Baltimore for a conference on Careers in Language, a trip to the University of Pittsburgh to view a Spanish play, and the Mesa Espanola. The Mesa Espanola is located in the central dining area in the cafeteria. It is open to anyone who wants to listen to Spanish or to speak Spanish, Monday--Friday, 5:00-6:30 p.m. Meetings are held once a month with prior notification.

Awake And Sing !

"Don't let the pressures of the world get you down: Awake and sing for life is beautiful!" Such is the theme of the play to be presented during Homecoming. The Director is Dr. David Press who is working with Dramatis Personae and Alpha Psi Omega.

The story is set in the mid-nineteen thirties. However, the message of the play is very applicable to life today.

A Jewish family by the name of the Bergers is in the middle of a depression and has it rough enough but seems to be in worse shape than anyone else. In spite of their money troubles, however, they strive to keep up the hope of better times to come.

Bessie Berger, the mother of the family, is in the midst of everyone else's affairs, whether they require or want her assistance or not. The results of her endeavors are sometimes tragic, but mainly humorous. Bessie Berger is played by Nanette Savard; her husband is Myron Berger who is played by Mike Switalski. Their children, Hennie and Ralph, are personified by Lisa Lucinski and Steve Vaushaw, respectively. Some of the other characters are: Bessie's father, Jacob, played by Artie Smelkinson; Uncle Morty (Bessie's brother) performed by Tim Rose; Moe Axelrod (a friend of the family) enacted by Dana Young; Schloss-ser played by Roger Smith, and Sam Feinochreiber played by Steve Tolman.

The very important people backstage are: Patty Brett, stage manager; Dee Lick, assistant stage manager; Linda Roberts, business manager; and Randy Tusing, business manager and publicity. The box office will be handled by Linda Richards. Cindy Thompson is in charge of costumes. Make-up is by Ellen LaCaprial. The properties are the responsibility of Ellen Wallace and Steve Tolman. Scene construction and lighting credit goes to Patty Cowder and Bob Bands. Scene design is by Edward J. Thompson of the faculty.

The play is to be presented in Compton Auditorium on October 10, 11, and 12. All are invited to attend what promises to be both a humorous and realistic presentation.

HOW TO PROTECT YOUR VACATION HOME FROM FIRE.

Everyone dreams of building a home away from home. But if your vacation home is in or near a forest you have to be extra careful with fire. So here are just a few simple rules to remember.

WATCH OUT FOR TREES. Always be sure to remove any part of tree that comes within 10 feet of the opening of a chimney or stovepipe. And be sure that any tree near or overhanging your home is cleared of dead or dying wood.

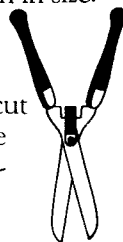

LOOK OUT FOR WIRES. The wires carrying the electricity to your home can cause a fire if not properly maintained. So be sure to call your local power company if there are wires rubbing against tree branches or the roof of your home.

SCREEN YOUR CHIMNEY. It wouldn't be a vacation without a roaring fire in the fireplace. But sparks from your chimney can wander into nearby brush if they're not controlled. So always attach a non-flammable screen to the top of your chimney or stovepipe. And be sure the openings in the screen are no more than 1/2 inch in size.

CUT BACK THE BRUSH. Dry grass, brush, weeds and branches lying around your home are dangerous. So pick the dry branches. And cut back the dry weeds and brush. So in case a fire does start near your home, you'll have a ready-made fire break.

Please. Follow these simple rules the next time you visit your vacation home. So you'll have a forest and home to visit again next year.

sion, a region will be defined "as a group of neighboring local communities whose residents are joined as a unit economically, socially, and geographically, but lack governmental unity." (National Association of Regional Councils)
The US Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations envisions a sub-state district as a multijurisdictional organization composed mostly of local general officials, with some state representation. This organization would have policy control over all areawide planning, programming, and policy development programs in its region, along with comparable authority over the action of multijurisdictional special districts. Such a body also would have the capacity to resolve conflicts between certain state agency and local governmental actions having an areawide impact. Its fundamental legal status would be determined by state legislation or a federal-state compact establishing the organization as an agency of local governments. The body would be composed of state and local general government representatives with the latter having at least three-fifths of the membership. Local governments would be requested to become members under this proposal.

In its first set of recommendations on this subject, adopted in June 1972, the ACIR called on the States to take the initiative by providing a statutory framework for the creation of umbrella multijurisdictional organizations (UMJOs) on a statewide basis. It called on the Federal Government to support the State initiatives.
As you can see, many of these recommendations would necessitate a fundamental change in our already dynamic federal system of government.

Rugby Team Begins Second Season

Frostburg State's Rugby Team is now in its second season of play. Organized in the spring of last semester by John Brant and Terry Gaston, two members of FSC's faculty, the club is now in the process of obtaining a charter and becoming recognized as a school club.

Rugby is relatively unknown to many in the college community. But to those of you who do know the game, and have seen Frostburg's team play, you know that it is just as exciting as football or lacrosse. The object in rugby, as in any other sport, is to score points. One can do this by running or kicking the ball across a goal line and touching it down or by field goals.

Fifteen men play on a side. There are seven backs and eight forwards. The forwards are similar to linemen in football because both are involved in the close quarters play. However, that is the only similarity. It is conceivable for anyone to score but it is more likely for a back to score since he can dazzle the opposition with his open field running.

Terry Gaston and Greg Slick are responsible for coaching the forwards.

Veteran forwards include Robert Glushakow, Jeff Cassels, Rick Schmitt, Dave Brewbaker, and Kevin Kraft. Kraft, a giant from New Jersey, is the team's leading scorer with four tries and two field goals. Many newcomers are putting a lot of pressure on these vets. Some of the more impressive forwards are Kelly Vantz, Craig Metz, Jeff Kandle, Dave Allen, John Jordan, Jim Harrell, Kevan Faugander, and Dave Shannon.

Tom Harper and Mike Crouse coordinate the effort of the backs. The team's seasoned runners include George Carrass, Bob Haines, Howard Cohen, Eric Kramer, and Cowboy Hay. Several new members have turned out to be outstanding ground gainers. Some of the new team runners are Bill McKenna, Wayne Smith, Steve Sprankle, Joey Odaiss, Steve Spickler, Nick Nikiforou, Sandy Myers, Rick Wilson, John Harsch, Mike Russell, and Doug Sessions. Joe Purcell and Bill Kopatjic, who have only played one week, both scored in our last game against Pitt Law.

After losing their season opener to a very tough Catholic University team Frostburg came back to win one and lose one in a tri-tournament in Pittsburg on the 14th. This week FSC's Ruggers will travel to West Virginia to play in an exhibition match before the WVU-Kentucky Football game. This is part of Mountaineer Week. Frostburg opens its home season on October 5th against Wheeling College. Keep this date in mind and talk to a rugby player. He'll help you understand the rules. Remember, rugby needs you! Give your support!!!!

Towson Trips Bobcats 26 - 10

by Debbi Maloid

The Parent's Weekend game between the Bobcats and arch-rival Towson State was a definite disappointment to all those in attendance. The 'Cats played well during the first half, but the second half was quite another story. The 'Cats fell behind 3-0 early in the first quarter, but came back on a Mike Randolph touchdown pass to Ron Sterling. In the second quarter, Pat Weaver booted a 22-yard field goal to give the Bobcats a temporary 10-9 lead. At the end of the half the 'Cats were behind 12-10.

In the season opener, the FSC hockey team defeated Fairmont State College, 4-1. Leading the team to victory were senior right inner, Cindy Lynn with two goals; and junior left inner Ellie Wilke scoring two. The defense players, holding Fairmont to only one goal scored in the beginning of the second half, were goalkeeper M J Conlisk, fullbacks Debbie Henkel and Franni Flott, and halfbacks Linda Haden, Nancy Hanlin, and Diane Diferdinando.

Rounding out the starting eleven who traveled to Fairmont for the opening match were forward line players Kathy Marron, center forward; Sandy Mitchell, wing; and Renda Sellers, wing. With seven returning Varsity players, the Bobkittens are looking forward to a winning season.

The powerful Junior Varsity added to a successful season opener by defeating Fairmont's inexperienced second team by a romping score of 6-0. Leading 2-0 at the end of the first half with both goals being scored by left inner Mary Pat Veihmeyer, the JV squad dominated play with FSC goalie Chris Hawk, touching the ball only once, which proved to be her only action for the entire game. Second half goals were scored by Cindy Kinsler and Jennifer Fauley and halfbacks Tanya McCaw and Mary Alice Flynn, whose goal was the result of a penalty stroke. Other players who saw action were forward line players Lisa Feese and Cathy Sixx; and defense players Kathy Kelly, Melody Johnson, Cindy Welsh, Lynn Grammer, Cynthia Changuris, Alice Yeakel and Rita Vandevander.

Co-captains for the '74 season are senior center forward Kathy Marron and junior fullback Debbie Henkel.

The Bobkittens hosted Bridgewater on Saturday, September 28th.
