The results of the democratic county convention appear at the head of our columns. There is not a name on the ticket which we cannot heartily and sincerely support. It appeals strongly to all classes of democrats. The young, progressive element, the strength and vitality of the party, will come with enthusiasm to the side of a ticket which exhibits so large a proportion of candidates from its own ranks. The farmers, who are more keenly alive to questions of taxation and county management, will be gratified with the commissioners being proposed almost exclusively of their neighbors and friends. The large number who talk at every convention about rotation in office and complain of voting for the same people too often will find that their views have been consulted. There are but one or two candidates who have ever been before the people. The old, faithful democrats will rally to the support of the ticket because several excellent men, whose claims have been advocating for years, are now candidates of the democratic party. Not only will each element of the party be thus drawn by personal feelings to the ticket that earnest and active support without which the campaign will be dull and spiritless, but all will be drawn to take an active interest in the important nature of the issues at stake. Divisions among democrats in Baltimore city and some counties make the task of democracy more difficult this year than in any other. We fear for an instant the success of the republicans in Maryland. They are doubly guilty of every fault its bitterest enemies can lay at the door of the democratic party, and the people will not suffer their return to power. But we must guard with vigilance against the reduction of our majority. The moral effect of a small majority may be serious in the next political contest. We do not want the republicans at Washington to have their attention turned to Maryland as a doubtful state, into which they can afford to pour a hundred thousand dollars. Money has bought states before and while we hope and believe no such disgrace may fall upon our mother commonwealth, the corrupting influences of republicanism are to be dreaded as a fearful plague. Then every good democrat will forswear any hanging back and even if he does object to one or two candidates, since he cannot even think they are not honest and sound he will do everything in his power to swell Wisconsin's majority to the twelve hundred we would like to reach.

The republican papers of this state think they play a shrewd game by designating as a "Ring" man every democrat prominently brought forward for state office. Mr. McLane is at present the victim of this sort of attack. He is the ablest and strongest of the candidates for the governorship and public sentiment seems to be crystallizing in favor of his nomination. Hence the organs of Creswell and the rest are claiming that he is a "Ring" candidate. Now, if the "Ring" are supporting Robert McLane, they are doing a good thing and ought to have credit for an act of public spirit. This paper was the first, as far as we have seen, to present Mr. McLane's name and certainly we had no suspicion that he was being coached by the "Ring" or any other combination, nor have we any reason to suspect it now, other than the assaults of republican agents. The "Ring" is too mythical. It used to be Whyte and Colton. They have lost prestige, though doing all they ever did. Now Senator Gorman is the "Ring." In republican and somewhat estimation anything is to be gained which keeps them out of office. Against them we would prefer the "Ring." Perhaps these people think there is no republican ring. They are mistaken. When Creswell and Holton pool their ideas, there is the worst kind we have heard of. The Fulton and Thomas ring is notorious. There is no lack of material at home for republican championships.

The Fall Trade.

A Promising Outlook for Solid Legitimate Business.

Advertisers would do well to note the following article from the Philadelphia Times. The value of advertising in papers of large circulation was never greater than now.

There has been some anxiety in business circles over the fall trade now about to open. Repeated failures in the channels of over-production have disturbed the sensitive currents of money and trade, but all now understand what can be reasonably expected this fall. There will be a large and healthy trade, and consumers will be abundantly able to pay for their purchases. There will be care and frugality on the part of consumers, but there will be no more caution or economy in consumption than there has been for a year past. There will be no speculative or profligate tendency in the legitimate channels of business, and there will be disturbed markets at times by the forced sales of prices which have been produced largely in excess of the demand; but the general current of trade will be healthy and safe, and it will be larger in volume than many of the more conservative merchants now anticipate.

True, there have been more active times in business, as the country is tempted to indulge in renewed speculation; but the consumers of the land, upon whom every legitimate business leans, were never more prosperous and never so free from debt as they are now. They will pay for the goods they need. They will pay for it, and that is the broad and sure foundation of business prosperity. It is reasonable, therefore, to anticipate a large and unusually healthy trade this fall season, and its exceptional safety will contribute materially to the profits of our merchants and dealers. We have been in gradual liquidation for some years, and when that process can go on without convulsion it is conclusive evidence that legitimate trade is certain to pay. Merchants can make gains in a month or a year, as they once imagined they could; but if they attempt an inventory of the fortunes of a month or a year, few of them will be found as survivors of the brief and fevered system that created them. The business of to-day is sound, sensible and safe, and those who understand and are content with legitimate profits, will close the year 1896 well rewarded for their labors.

Hamilton's Friends in Council.

Conference Monday Evening—The Resolutions Adopted.

A meeting attended by about twenty gentlemen was held at the residence of Mr. John S. Starnes, at Mount Vernon Place and St. Paul street, Monday evening in the interest of Governor Hamilton. Mr. James Hodge presided, and among others present were General Bradley T. Johnson, Stephen Bonsal, John F. Preston, Lewis N. Hopkins, Wm. F. McKewen, Wm. Platt, A. Gottchalk, J. B. Stafford, Thomas McCusker, John Gill and Wm. Seawright. A letter was read from Governor Hamilton, in which he defined his position in the contest and among other things: "I am in favor of the sentiment and not for the individual, and am in favor of continuing every inch of ground as we did in 1881 and have done since."

After a number of addresses had been made the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The continued control of the Democratic party in this State requires that boss rule and machine management be entirely excluded from the control of the party, and that it be hereafter limited to the control of the Democratic people; therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of ten be appointed by the chairman, with power to select such other committees as may be necessary, whose duty it shall be to appeal to the party in the city to elect delegates to the State convention entirely unpledged to any candidate, but fully in accord with the "anti-ring" and reform sentiment of the party, and with the reforms attempted and in part accomplished by Gov. Hamilton.

Resolved, That Gov. Hamilton is entitled to our fullest confidence for the faithful administration of the executive office, and we recognize him as a man whose official course is entitled to the highest praise, we hereby announce as the sentiment of this meeting that we are bound to individual in this contest, but that it will be our design to advance principles, not men.—The Day.

On Sunday morning Bob, King colored, who owns quite a nice horse and buggy, was driving the colored preacher of Wesley down to the Folk's roads camp. Before he got there, a white man driving a hack, loaded with passengers and drawn by four horses, coming from Salisbury, came up behind and ordered him out of the road. Bob did not hear him and did not get out of the road. So he drove into him and knocked Bob, buggy, horse and preacher, and over and end, into a deep ditch. The buggy was badly smashed, but Bob and the preacher escaped unhurt.

The colored camp meeting at Folk's Road, several miles from the city, was attended by an immense crowd on Sunday last. Everything was passing along pleasantly, when about one o'clock Burke Dashiell, colored, of this town, went to the tent of Perry Ellegood, also colored, and got into an altercation with him. Ellegood struck him over the head with a heavy stick and made him bleed that part of the ground. Ellegood's son John followed Burke to the suburbs of the camp and told him he could thrash him. The two went at it, and John soon had Burke down punishing him severely when some one knocked him off. John then went away about fifty yards and turned around, came running back with pistol in hand, and when within four or six feet of Burke opened fire on him, one ball making a flesh wound in the left side and another taking effect in the right fore-arm. After the shooting John took to his heels and has escaped arrest so far. Burke, who is in the employ of Dr. John Dole as a nurse, was brought to town, and examination of the wounds was made by said physician, who pronounced them not of a serious nature.

If Samuel F. Tilden is not coming to the front as the Democratic standard bearer next year, all quasi denials to the contrary notwithstanding, he had better better prepare for a great disappointment; and, in the meanwhile, people who care to study the eddies and side pools of the Democratic current will make a mistake if they do not watch the cuttings and polemical utterances on the subject of Henry Waterson and the Louisville Courier-Journal. It is well known here that no public man enjoys Mr. Tilden's confidence in so intimate a degree; none is a more frequent visitor to Greystone and Gramercy Park, and none, therefore, is qualified so well as he speak by authority, touching his future political expectations.—New York correspondence of Phila. The body of Mrs. Rose Ambler, the daughter of Capt. N. W. Clark, of Stratford, Conn., was found lying by the roadside Monday morning. Her head was turned partly to one side, her neck was scratched and deep blue marks were scratched on her face. The body showed where the muscular hand that choked out her life and left its imprint. Her lips were parted and bloody, one ear was badly cut and one earring was found near by with a piece of flesh attached. The indications pointed to the commission of a horrible crime, but by whom perpetrated is not known.

Why is it that so many suffer from rheumatism, aches, pains, kidney diseases, liver complaints, heart affections, etc.? It is simply because they will not come and be healed. All diseases begin from a want of iron in the blood. This want of iron makes the blood thin, watery and impure. Impure blood carries weakness and distress to every part of the body. Supply blood with iron by using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will soon find yourself enjoying perfect freedom from aches, pains and general ill-health.

By the concessions of the Western Union Telegraph Company made to the operators just before the strike and those made last Saturday, the hours of labor have been made to coincide with those demanded by the Brotherhood, while the extra pay for extra days and Sunday work has also been conceded. The operators say that these advantages have been gained as the result of the strike, while the company's side of the case is that the strike only delayed improvements in the time table pay roll which were to have been made any way. Probably neither claim is wholly correct. It is safe to say that neither side would care to repeat its experience of last month, and, as each has learned a good deal about the other, it is known that the public may feel safe against a repetition of the strike very soon.

Notes for the Farmer.

One acre is sufficient for one hundred head of cattle. It is a fact that a farm of one acre is a blessing and a source of profit.

Young or middle aged men suffering from nervous debility, loss of memory, premature old age, as the result of bad habits, should send three stamps for Part of Dime Series pamphlets. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Those who are not versed in the ways of market-gardening, are not aware that the seeds for the early crop of cabbages, cauliflower, and lettuce, are sown in autumn. The plants, protected through the winter in cold frames, are set out very early the following spring.

It is much better to plant onion sets in the fall than to wait until spring. Aside from the point of time by doing it in autumn, the risk of keeping them in good condition is avoided. They should not be planted until October, or until so late that the tops will not start into growth.

Concentrated fertilizers that are quick acting cannot be applied in the fall, except in very small quantities, without danger of injuring the vitality of the seed, unless particular pains be taken to prevent the seed from coming in direct contact with the fertilizer.

The milk from heifers is apt to be less in amount, though quite as rich in cream as it will be on the same food when the animal is older. Some growth continues up to four, and occasionally five years of age, and this growth utilizes some of the nutriment that would otherwise go to milk.

The very best thing to use in the hen-house under the roosts, or to mix with the contents of the roost, is a clear, sharp-cut sand, about such as masons would use to make their mortar. It absorbs all the valuable salts of both liquids and solids, and does not take or cake up, and when it is used it will readily yield the fertility from the hen-droppings and vaults to the plant roots, or to the surrounding soil where the roots will find them.

Sheep may do good service in clearing up fields from which crops have been removed. They are fond of the leaves and small roots left in the root field after harvest. Ewes which are to bear lambs should have good feed, as this does much to insure strong offspring. Pigs need space of free movement, an abundance of fresh air, and good wholesome food without stint. A coat of whitewash applied to every part of the sty is very cleansing; it may be quickly applied through a force pump. Make the same application to the poultry house.

Rhinophony is quite a common defect in horses, and often needlessly produced. A veterinary authority says of it: "The great majority of rhinophony in young horses come from the failure to shorten their toes. To this may be added that rhinophony is apt to be formed if colts are allowed to stand on a plank floor or anywhere else where the footing is hard, during the first eighteen months of their age. Whether in stable or yard during this period, let them have earth for standing or walking from stone or gravel."

A most useful crop of turnips has been raised by sowing the seed even as late as the middle of September. Land that has been well manured for early potatoes, sweet corn, or other crop, may often give a heavy yield of turnips. For late sowing, the red-top strap-belt is the best. There may be some in which it is advisable to sow broadcast, but, as a rule, it is vastly better to drill in the seed. Deep raters will find it profitable, even if they must sow broadcast and allow the sheep to harvest the crop themselves. Those who have a neat market can more profitably dispose of the crop.

An Illinois farmer gives the following advice: If you are obliged to use your clover pasture, do not use it while the clover is late, and before putting the cattle on the clover, give them some dry food so they will not attack the clover while they are very hungry; and do not take them out every fifteen minutes, because if that is done the animals will, during that time, eat with such haste and greed as will prevent a thorough mastication and mixing of the food with saliva, and as they will manage to get down quite a quantity of clover, beating it into the soil, so that the clover is sure to follow. So that to get the animals used to the clover that they are left in it all day; but it is important they should be allowed to eat an hour or so of good hay in the morning before they are put in the field.

An exchange tells of a man who plants two or three weeks after the crop is planted a new hill of corn every fifteen days. This is the reason: As the weather becomes dry after the planting time the silk and tassels both come dry in the conditions in which it should become seasonable, the silk revives and renews its growth, but the tassels do not recover. Then for want of pollen, the new silk is unable to fill the ooe for which it is designed. The pollen from the planted corn is then ready to supply silk, and the filling is completed. He says nearly all the abortive ears so common in all corn crops are caused by the want of pollen, and he has known ears to double in size in this filling.

An intelligent writer says "the longer acquaintance I have with orchard grass the more I value it. And I have grown it for 25 years. Twenty-five years ago I sowed down a field with it, and it is still in excellent condition, producing an early crop of hay and pasture in the fall. It is the earliest grass for fodder or pasture in the spring, and the first to cut for hay. The hay is excellent, excepting when it is grown too thickly in the ground on rich soil and is cut late, when the stalks are coarse. When cut early and cured without too much exposure to the sun it makes the very best of hay, for both horses and cows. It is easily sown on a grain stubble by plowing it well and thorough harrowing to get a fine surface and seeding it early in August with the grass alone, or with clover mixed. It grows well with clover, and makes for cutting, at that time. I now, if alone, two bushels to the acre, or with clover one and a half bushels, and six pounds of clover."

FRUIT AND PRODUCE COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

Peaches a Specialty.

The above named are old, active, responsible well known houses, and can handle advantageously all the produce shipped to them. They will send a DAILY account of sales to shippers, and will settle once a week, in CASH, through their agents.

Williams & Booth agents here, during shipping hours may always be found at the depot, adjacent to the Pennsylvania Station, never neglecting their consignments nor the interests of their consignors. No need of growers leaving their lots of shipping their produce, for any thing forwarded to them will be just as promptly and carefully attended to, as would their own individual fruit.

A fair trial and carefully attended to, as would their own individual fruit.

Trade received last year—but a much larger trade is hoped for, and respectfully solicited this season. The agents will furnish shippers with money, if needed, before the weekly remittances reach them.

—Pocomoke base ball men play a heap considering the quality of their playing.

—The Oriole was drenched by the Northeast this week. The poor bird hardly got its feathers dried.

—Can we have a lecture course established in Salisbury? We cannot afford to neglect the intellectual and social man in our political zeal during these two months of politics.

—The Wicomico republicans have misled a lot of young men by putting them on the ticket. Who will be responsible for the slaughter of the innocents in November?

—A party whose frauds and arrogant defiance of the rights of the people have signified its Federal administration, claims to be a reform party in Maryland. This might do, if its managers and owners in this state were not Federal office holders. The republicans must go from Washington and they can't come in Maryland.

—The republican party of this State seems to be using the same tactics they adopted in Delaware last year, and with a strong chance of the same success.

—They played a game of brag. They were to carry Sussex county and reduce the democratic majority in Kent to something quite inconsiderable. When the vote was counted, Sussex had about two thousand democratic majority, and the legislature was composed of nothing but democrats, except, we believe, one republican. So the history of brag campaigns is not encouraging.

—The movement for Governor Hamilton's renomination has been strangled so effectively that it appears doubtful whether his name will go before the democratic state convention next week. That much toward a good ticket having been accomplished, it remains now to select a candidate whose strength will be equal to that of the party. We contend, as at first, that such a man is Robert M. McLane. A vigorous, aggressive canvasser will follow his nomination. Holton's money will be uselessly expended against him and victory is as certain as the votes are counted.

—The unanimity with which the republicans of this county repudiated Cromwell last Tuesday is creditable to them and even democrats are pleased with the result. The ticket nominated is good enough to make our own feel that they have fair foes to meet, though weak ones. Democrats must now face the fall republican vote and the endeavor must be the stronger to bring out our full vote also. The state may need all its democrats this fall. There are a few, as after every convention, who are not altogether satisfied with its action. But we would say to such that it is an unworthy democrat who allows a personal disappointment to affect his party loyalty. There is no man with political ambitions who does not meet frequent checks. In the nature of things, especially in a democratic government, this must be so. Therefore, the man who is honestly a democrat, will cheerfully join with his party and do all in his power to insure the success of the nominated ticket, unless it is composed of incapable or dishonest men. No republican, even the bitterest radical stalwart, can claim that the ticket at the head of these columns is not capable and honest. The republicans have united in this county; can democrats hesitate to do likewise? The former are weak, and it is easy for a minority to unite, but there is not the slightest reason for any democrat holding back this year. We are not borrowing trouble and do not fear the loss of many votes to democracy. It is only they who with every democratic vote to be polled for the full ticket this fall. The few who feel a little disappointment ought to think how some others would have been disappointed, if they had succeeded, and act as they would have desired the others to act. Democratic's bolting McKee is a warning to Wicomico democrats not to let the republicans get close enough to make such bolts feasible.

State Politics.

Final Wind up of the Hamilton Boom.

The counties have all pronounced against Gov. Hamilton except his own, Washington, where he barely pulled through. His chief lieutenant, Gen. Bradley T. Johnson, said a few days ago "that he had been represented as being in favor of the renomination of Governor Hamilton. He wished to say that he was not in favor of his nomination. He considered that his nomination would be injudicious. If he (the speaker) had the power to appoint a Governor he would appoint Mr. Hamilton, who was honest and brave, and had accomplished a great deal of good. But he had no right to crowd a candidate upon the people when the great body of the party had declared against him. A man should be nominated who would suit the people." So the Hamilton movement is at a peaceful end. Out of the 17 votes in the convention, he can get but six as far as now known.

The Princess Anne Marylander has this to say of politics in Somerset: "We have the numbers, resident in the several districts in the county, great enough, if all are registered and polled, to give the victory to the democratic nominees—every one of them. And it is for the purpose of securing a full registration that the nominees of each party have been active. More depends upon the result of this fall's campaign than the mere election of our local ticket, although, it seems to us, that alone should be sufficient to inspire our people with the fullest desire to win. We can not understand how democrats can consent to be in default at an election when the result will be the defeat of such men as our convention has placed upon our ticket. But, outside of these considerations, Somerset county is looked to by the state to save the senate of Maryland from falling into the hands of the republicans. Just at this time, on the eve of a Presidential election, when the pretenses of the republican party and its manifest tendency to autocratic centralization, is wheeling her states solidly into the ranks of the democratic phalanx, it would be mortifying and disgraceful to see the staunch old democratic state of Maryland writing her senate down in the lists of republican acquisitions. And Somerset county is expected to send a democratic senator to the United States Congress, to the honor of the state and the honor of the county. We can never believe aught but that she will do it. But, unless every democratic voter in the county sees to it that he is properly registered and that his straight ticket goes into the box, on election day we may wake up to the inexpressible degrading fact that Somerset has given Maryland's senate to the republicans."

Caroline county sends to the democratic state convention Hon. Philip W. Downs, Mr. James W. Holt and Mr. A. Christian. The delegates are unopposed, but are anti-Hamilton.

The democratic county convention of Worcester met in Snow Hill Tuesday, and was called to order by the chairman of the central committee, Dr. Geo. W. Bishop. The following ticket was nominated: Sheriff, Chas. W. Clayville; State's attorney, Col. L. D. Derriekson; House of Delegates, R. Johnson, E. D. Martin, Frank Taylor; Orphans' Court, Theodore W. Williams, Major F. Hall, John B. Corbin; county commissioners, Elijah B. Casey, Irving Fooks, Geo. W. Dryden, H. J. King, A. D. Melvin; surveyor, Peter S. Shockley; wreck master, James Rock. The following were elected delegates to the State convention: Mr. S. S. McKee, Clayton J. Farnell, Wilmore J. Farnell, Levin J. Houston. The delegates are unopposed. The ticket is considered a very strong one, and the convention was very harmonious.

The democratic convention of Kent county assembled Tuesday and elected George W. Spencer, John Brice and Josiah Massey as delegates to represent the county in the State convention. The delegation was unopposed, but the result is favorable to McLane, though it is likely McKenney will receive a complimentary vote in the State convention.

The Queen Anne's democratic convention met Tuesday, and after a most harmonious session appointed as delegates to the State convention Messrs. John B. Brown, John France, P. B. Hopper and W. Scott Roberts, and assistants, Dr. A. E. Sudler, John C. Godwin, Thos. H. Dodd and Edward C. Legg. The delegation is unanimously in favor of William McKenney for Governor and unopposed as to other offices.

The question of changing the mode of making local nominations was taken up and discussed at length. A plan known here as the jury plan, by which the names of delegates to the nominating conventions are to be drawn from a box instead of being voted for at public elections, as at present, was proposed, and after a session of over two hours in the discussion of the system and the advisability of adopting it, the convention determined by a vote of twenty-eight to five to make the change and adopt the jury system in making future nominations for local offices. By this plan the central committee for the primary year is to appoint two men from each district, making fourteen in all, to be called an executive committee. These fourteen, with the three members of the central committee, composing a board of seventeen men, are to take from the poll list of each district twenty or thirty names to be put into a box, and no name is to be placed in the box unless at least twelve of the seventeen shall agree to place it there. Out of the names placed in the box a delegation of five is to be drawn by a man unaffiliated for the purpose. This delegation of five from each district, or thirty-five in all, are to constitute the nominating convention and nominate the ticket.

—The day has the following paragraph: "The case of Schmidt in this city was considered a remarkable one. Schmidt killed his wife and then shot himself. The question of the inheritance of the estate depended on which survived, and it was proven that the unfortunate wife lived a few minutes longer than her husband, and her brothers obtained the estate. This case has found a parallel in Italy. Among the victims at Casamicciola were Signor and Signora Bonavia, who left property worth 5,000,000 francs, to which there is no direct heir. Their relations, in order to determine the succession, have petitioned to have the bodies disinterred, and by an examination of the external injuries it may be ascertained which died first."

Bolton.

Leaves His Party Because Defeated by a Strong Man.

A Cambridge correspondent of the Wilmington (Del.) Evening writes as follows about the bolt of Mr. George J. McKee from the Democratic party, and his independent candidacy for county treasurer: "Mr. McKee has been treasurer for four terms, eight years, much longer than his predecessor held the office. He has made a good officer, but an act passed by the General Assembly in 1878 made him so, and any man with ordinary intelligence will conduct the business in a satisfactory manner as has Mr. McKee. He cannot, in his independent candidacy, be elected, because there are many republicans who will not support him, but who will support Mr. McKee's name. When Mr. McKee's name was placed before the convention for renomination the question was asked would he abide by the decision of the convention, and he said he certainly would."

The recent Republican convention did not nominate a candidate for treasurer, thus leaving a plank in Mr. McKee's favor, it being understood that the party would quietly support him as an independent. The action has greatly weakened the Republican chances for the election of any part of their incomplete ticket. Colonel James Wallace, a prominent Republican of this city, and a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, is understood to have a batch of damaging facts against Mr. McKee, and they will no doubt be brought to the surface ere long, and the files of the Cambridge Era, the Republican organ, it is said, contain enough to destroy Mr. McKee's chances for success, though that paper, under its present management, indorses him.

That there will be an official examination of the affairs of the treasury office is very certain, and the results are as yet in much uncertainty. Mr. McKee's friends in the treasury office are now deserting him, and by November, the politicians say, his following will be very small, though his latest move has unquestionably created a stir in political circles. The republicans, however, were as much divided two weeks ago as the democrats, and since the appointment of W. T. Foble as collector of internal revenue, and the doings of that officer since, the two factions are fighting each other vigorously.

They Can't Run.

The Women Base Ballists Play a game in Wilmington.

The blondes went to the field and the game of running the ball. The pitcher of the blondes was a tall, angular, girl, scarcely out of her thirties, and delivered the ball in a reckless style, which brought terror to the catcher and batter. Occasionally one of the batters would thump the ball, sending it out of the half-sized diamond, which would guarantee a home run. Strikes frequently took the runners around the bases safely. Their wild headlong pursuit of the receding ball was a sight for a painter. None had the hardihood to attempt to capture a fly and the feet did service to stop a grounder. The catcher did not mask and the blonde pitcher's support was careful lest the ball would come in contact with her hands. The running of the girls was laughable. The umpire, who was a man with an awkwardness usually attributed to a web-footed fowl. At the bat their attitudes and costume with the willow over their backs was rather picturesque.

For the blondes the pitcher and first baseman did all the growing. The pitcher kicked (figuratively) upon the slightest provocation, and the position of umpire became anything but enviable. In one instance Waitt sent a batter to first on strikes, when the angular blonde, shaking her fist under his nose, requested him to learn the difference between strikes and balls before attempting to fill the position again. At another time he informed the umpire that he was getting funny for not telling her if a batted ball was fair or foul, but she was not permitted to Waitt's decisions with a twitching smile, and believed him a gallant umpire.

The game continued until 6 o'clock, by which time the assemblage having seen sufficient of the kittens play had in the main left the ground. When game was called the score stood: blondes, 33; brunettes, 31. One side played with but eight girls, one having dropped, while the club stopped at Chester, with a young man from that city. Speaking of the difficulties he had to contend with the manager stated his 18 girls were more trouble to manage than a whole herd of prima donnas.—E. Evening.

—Mabel Smith and her niece, Roxie Wilson, rivals for the hand of a farmer worth $10,000 in real estate, attended a country party in Pierce county, Ga., Thursday night. The farmer was there and so attended to Miss Smith that her niece became infuriated with jealousy. Miss Wilson's brother, who was present, shared in his sister's anger and, while they were all dancing in the same set, suddenly raising the knife above her head the infuriated woman sprang upon her aunt, and at the first stroke almost disemboweled her. Before the horrified spectators could recover from their astonishment she raised the knife again and plunged it to the hilt in the young woman's breast, cutting a gash which laid open her dress and exposed a bleeding wound to the view of everybody around. Without waiting to see the effect of the wound the murderous sprang like a tigress toward the throat of her aunt's lover, but was seized and disarmed before she could accomplish her purpose. The young woman's brother made no attempt to interfere while the tragedy was being enacted, and after it was over calmly walked away, and has not been seen since.

—Capt. John E. Graham died at his residence in Church Creek on Tuesday last, after an illness of several months. Capt. Graham held the position of deputy collector of internal revenue since 1868, and resigned a week or two previous to his death. He raised a company of volunteers from the lower districts of the county during the war and, joined Col. Wallace's 21st Eastern Shore regiment as Company B, and served until the regiment was disbanded. He was well known throughout the counties of the shore, where his official duties brought him in contact with men of all classes.

—Mr. Miller of Kent county, sends the following statement to the Farming Worker: "I have just finished measuring the corn that grew this year on a lot of nine and a-half acres, and have measured 1051 barrels and one bushel of ears, making 105 bushels of corn per acre. The following is the manner in which I prepared the ground, etc. The soil is a stiff clay, and one and a-half the balance in wheat. I put 285 two-horse cart-loads of barn-yard manure on it. The manure was coarse, made out of straw, corn-tops and husks, hauled into the yard in January and February, and hauled out in March and April, consequently was very little rotted. I spread it regularly and plowed it down with a large concave plow, seven inches deep. I then harrowed it twice the same way it was plowed. I then had the rows marked out with a small plow, three feet ten inches wide and one and a-half inches deep. I planted my corn from eight to ten to the row, and covered it with horse manure, just drawing the furrows over the corn which covered it one and a-half inches below the surface. When the corn was four inches high I harrowed it, and thinned it to two stalks in the hill. In about two weeks after harrowing I cultivated it. About the 15th of June I cultivated it again, which was all the tillage I gave it. We farmers of the Eastern Shore count our corn by the thousand. I had 38,940 hills on my lot, and I think my corn would have been better had I planted better. I did not plant until the last of April. I think the plant of corn shallow and working it with the cultivator is much the best way, especially on clover lay."

Notes for the Farmer.

Never clean a horse in his stable. The dust fouls the crib and makes him loathe his food.

A bushel of corn fed to hogs in August and September will give better results than two later on.

Farmers who are careful to see that the collars their horses wear are a proper fit save the animals much unnecessary torture.

Weedy pastures make poor and bitter butter. When pasture is in a very poor condition it should be plowed and planted with some good crop.

More than one farmer claims that a little timothy or pure grass in the clover greatly assists it to cure quickly. Clover alone is too full of juice, and its thick stems dry out slowly.

The growing animal intended for beef requires a little exercise daily, to promote muscle and strength of constitution; when ripe, only so much as to be able to walk to the market.

Farmers should see to it that the collars which their horses wear fit them properly. Too often the farmer is ignorant on the subject and puts too large or too small a collar on his horse.

It is much better to feed young pigs often than to load them at one feeding. Variety adds much to the progress of the young animal, and at this season growth is more desirable than fat.

An experienced farmer says that oats should be soaked sufficiently to swell before feeding them to stock. When soaked the husk is partly torn away and facility of digestion increased. Poultry will carefully pick out the soaked grains from the dry when allowed a preference in the matter.

One of our Texas exchanges describes an $800 acre ranch in that state entirely devoted to the business of raising Shetland ponies. The breeding stock consists of seven Shetland stallions and forty-five mares, all thoroughbred, and two hundred small spotted pony mares. These little ponies range over the prairie like sheep, and are described as very gentle.

A writer on small fruits says: "An average of thirty minutes a day from the first of May till the first of November will give a family of six persons all the strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries and grapes that they will want for the season. This thirty minutes can be utilized in the morning while waiting for breakfast, or in the evening after the working hours of the day are past."

The Texas Wool Grower says that with all the talk about the decline of the sheep business, we see no indication of any weakening on the part of our large and more substantial sheepmen. On the other hand, the signs are encouraging that the business is about entering upon a grand boom. There seems to be more real interest taken in the improvement of flocks than ever before, and out sheepmen were never offered such fine opportunities to purchase first-class rams.

A milkster should learn to milk quickly. Slow milking will ruin any cow, and there is little doubt that many cows are made unprofitable by bad milking. As soon as the flow of milk begins it should be drawn as rapidly as possible. Stripping with the finger and thumb is a bad practice and should be unlearned at once. As the whole mass is used to allow it to milk very short teats, if the hand is moderately small. The best milkers have small hands; strength of wrists will come in time.

A horseman suggests that the still common practice of allowing the work to follow the day while the latter is at work to suit the farmer or on the roads seems to us inadvisable. I taken when young the colt can soon be accustomed to remaining quietly in a box stall or small lot where it can rest in comfort. It is better that it learn the risk of injury by fatiguing itself and by snickling when the mare is overly warm. If necessary to take the colt with the dam on the road, it is better to fasten it by the halter to the dam's neck, thus allowing it to follow, sometimes a nuisance to owner and others, from its determination to follow some other team. Left in stall or suitable grass lot, the foal will soon begin to eat grass and oats. Of all feeds, we know of none superior for a colt to good oats.

Trees that are not on cultivated land should receive special care until they have been set about two years. Trees that do well the first year often die the second, because, supposing them to be out of danger, they receive no special care. In our climate the sun is very hot and we often have long continued dry weather, sometimes so long as to dry the earth below the roots of trees that have been set but a few years. As a tree full of leaves exhales a large quantity of water every day, it is necessary to keep the tree full, exhaust the moisture from the soil so rapidly that when capillary action is checked by a hard baked crust on top there is not enough moisture drawn from below to supply water in sufficient quantities to keep life in a tree. To keep the soil in a good condition it should either be well cultivated or well shaded; the latter may be best done by mulching, if done before dry weather comes. The mulch should, if possible, be applied early in the spring. It is wonderful what a difference it makes in the moisture of the soil, whether it be well mulched or left exposed to bake in the sun.

In those northern localities where the season of autumn is brief, planting at that time is not advisable; but in a large part of the country, after the first few frosts, there is a long succession of the most delightful days, and winter approaches slowly. In such localities, fruit trees may be planted in the fall with decided benefit. A tree is not like a stake stuck in the ground, to remain unchanged. The tree, though at rest, is still alive. Its buds and bark keep up a certain activity. It is well known that if apparently dormant cuttings of the grape and currant be set out in the fall, they will form a callous at the lower end, and the current, especially, will even produce roots; all this takes place without the presence of a leaf or any apparent life in the cutting. When a tree is planted in the warm soil in autumn its roots begin to grow while they have been wounded, and new fibres push out and help to fix the roots in the soil. A certain amount of frost, which the roots are not so sensitive to in the spring, if planted at that time, is much better than no frost at all, and when the growing season begins, the tree is prepared for it.

We devote most of our editorial space this week to the proceedings of the state Convention. As the ADVERTISER's candidate for the governorship has been selected, the publication of the work of the Convention is the best editorial.

McLane, Roberts and Turner.

The work of the Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State Convention met Wednesday in the Masonic Temple, Baltimore.

The seats assigned to the various delegations were marked with most blue placards bearing the names of the several counties. A gas jet burned brightly on the chairman's desk, which stood in the center of the stage. As the delegates were taking their places there was much talking and handshaking. It was a good-natured crowd, and the gathering was composed almost wholly of the leading members of the State Democracy.

It was just 12:15 o'clock when Senator Gorman, looking cool and self-possessed, appeared on the stage and called the convention to order. He was greeted with applause, which lasted several minutes. The Senator said: "As chairman of the State central committee it is my duty to call this convention to order. The business of the convention is to nominate candidates for governor, comptroller and attorney general. You are undoubtedly able to perform the duties which devolve upon you in a fair and impartial manner. You were chosen by fair and impartial methods that no one can doubt reflected the sentiment of the Democratic party of the State." [Applause.]

Senator Gorman went on to say that there was no doubt that the action of the convention would be ratified by the people of the State and would meet with general satisfaction in the party. "We all agree," he said, "that the record of the Democratic party of the State since 1867, when it came into power, is one that the State itself has a right to be proud of. The people under it have been happy and prosperous and know that it is only through the Democratic party that they can have free government such as that which the State constitution contemplates. For the purpose of taking the preliminary steps in organizing, I will now request the secretary to call the roll."

The roll was called by Dr. W. H. Cole, of Baltimore, and of the 117 delegates 114 responded to their names.

Mr. J. W. S. Cochran nominated Hon. Philip Francis Thomas, of Talbot, for temporary chairman, and he was elected and escorted to the stage amid applause.

On the retirement of the committee on resolutions a recess was taken for half an hour.

Ex-Geo. John Lee Carroll, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, reported a platform, which was read. H. H. Ready of Washington county submitted a minority report, which was defeated, 74 yeas, 10 nays. The majority report was then adopted. It says:

"The national Republican party has during its tenure of power made the public lands the spoil of favored corporations. It has squandered the money of the country by maintaining a host of idle, profligate, and incapable placemen. It has not during its tenure of power in its tariff legislation given that just and equal protection to the industries of the country which it ought to have afforded; but, on the contrary, made the masses of the people pay from their hard-earned money to the favored monopolies. It has broken up the commerce of the United States in vessels carrying the national flag. It has permitted the unworthy men who planned and executed the frauds perpetrated in the Presidential election of 1876 and 1880, to deal with the patronage of the Government as with the public money in the Treasury as if these great trusts were the spoils of an enemy's camp."

The Democratic Conservative party of this State demand that national taxation, in all its forms, shall be limited to the necessities of the Government, and the administration of the Government, for the payment of interest upon the public debt, and for the redemption in each year of a fixed and reasonable proportion of that debt. It will maintain no corporation and no monopoly, and will not tolerate the shipping of goods to foreign ports for the purpose of evading the duties imposed by the tariff laws of the United States."

The Democratic Conservative party of this State, in fulfillment of its pledges made to the people, has lightened the burden of taxation, by abolishing offices not necessary for the public service, by reducing salaries subject to its control to the limit of the compensations of persons engaged in similar employments in private life, and it will continue its efforts to devise such further legislation as will give effect to a true and enlightened policy of governmental reform.

It will endeavor to remedy any unjust provisions of the State Constitution, and will prevent the unreasonable extension of the powers of such corporations by State or municipal legislation, and it will keep such corporations under strict supervision.

It will afford such protection as can be given by law to the health, permanent safety, and welfare of men, women, and children engaged in labor in this State. It declares that laboring men have an equal right with the owners of capital to make peaceable contributions for their own protection, and that such right ought to be recognized by statute, and that the collection of statistics and information concerning the needs of various branches of industry and the abuses which exist therein ought to be provided for by law.

Hon. Robert M. McLane was nominated for Governor, J. Frank Turner, Esq., of Talbot, for comptroller of the treasury, and Hon. Charles B. Roberts, of Carroll, for attorney-general. The convention was marked for the harmony of its proceedings, and the nomination of the general ticket of the party to be voted for in November. Mr. McLane is a representative citizen, for forty years identified with the democratic party, and enjoys a national reputation. Mr. Turner, though well known as a public officer in his county, is new to the wider field of State politics, in which he will now have an opportunity to show his mark. Mr. Roberts, who was the Representative of the second Maryland district for two terms in Congress, is a lawyer of ability, and was understood to prefer the line of his profession in which to further serve the State. As a Representative in Congress, however, it may be said that his zeal and integrity gained him the confidence of his constituents, and of his own immediate constituency, but from the business community of Baltimore. The platform upon which the candidates of the party are placed is a bold, clear enunciation of fundamental democratic principles and a vigorous arraignment of the party which has had the administration of the national government for more than twenty years. On the one hand it holds the republican party responsible for "making the public lands the spoil of favored corporations," and on the other hand pledges the democratic party of this State to "prevent the unreasonable extension of the powers of corporations by State or municipal legislation," and of "keeping such corporations under strict supervision."

Robert Milligan McLane, eldest son of the late Louis McLane, of Delaware, was born in Wilmington, June 23, 1815. He was first put to school in Wilmington, and afterward went to St. Mary's College, Baltimore. In 1839 his father took him to Europe and placed him under an instructor in Paris. In that city he attended the classes at the college Bourbon, and enjoyed the friendship of Gen. Lafayette who was a companion in arms of his grandfather, Col. Allen McLane.

In 1831 Robert M. McLane was appointed a cadet at West Point, by President Jackson. He graduated in 1835, and was assigned to the 11th Infantry, and was sent to the stage amid applause.

On the retirement of the committee on resolutions a recess was taken for half an hour.

Ex-Geo. John Lee Carroll, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, reported a platform, which was read. H. H. Ready of Washington county submitted a minority report, which was defeated, 74 yeas, 10 nays. The majority report was then adopted. It says:

He was first put to school in Wilmington, and afterward went to St. Mary's College, Baltimore. In 1839 his father took him to Europe and placed him under an instructor in Paris. In that city he attended the classes at the college Bourbon, and enjoyed the friendship of Gen. Lafayette who was a companion in arms of his grandfather, Col. Allen McLane.

In 1831 Robert M. McLane was appointed a cadet at West Point, by President Jackson. He graduated in 1835, and was assigned to the 11th Infantry, and was sent to the stage amid applause.

On the retirement of the committee on resolutions a recess was taken for half an hour.

Ex-Geo. John Lee Carroll, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, reported a platform, which was read. H. H. Ready of Washington county submitted a minority report, which was defeated, 74 yeas, 10 nays. The majority report was then adopted. It says:

"The national Republican party has during its tenure of power made the public lands the spoil of favored corporations. It has squandered the money of the country by maintaining a host of idle, profligate, and incapable placemen. It has not during its tenure of power in its tariff legislation given that just and equal protection to the industries of the country which it ought to have afforded; but, on the contrary, made the masses of the people pay from their hard-earned money to the favored monopolies. It has broken up the commerce of the United States in vessels carrying the national flag. It has permitted the unworthy men who planned and executed the frauds perpetrated in the Presidential election of 1876 and 1880, to deal with the patronage of the Government as with the public money in the Treasury as if these great trusts were the spoils of an enemy's camp."

The Democratic Conservative party of this State demand that national taxation, in all its forms, shall be limited to the necessities of the Government, and the administration of the Government, for the payment of interest upon the public debt, and for the redemption in each year of a fixed and reasonable proportion of that debt. It will maintain no corporation and no monopoly, and will not tolerate the shipping of goods to foreign ports for the purpose of evading the duties imposed by the tariff laws of the United States."

The Democratic Conservative party of this State, in fulfillment of its pledges made to the people, has lightened the burden of taxation, by abolishing offices not necessary for the public service, by reducing salaries subject to its control to the limit of the compensations of persons engaged in similar employments in private life, and it will continue its efforts to devise such further legislation as will give effect to a true and enlightened policy of governmental reform.

It will endeavor to remedy any unjust provisions of the State Constitution, and will prevent the unreasonable extension of the powers of such corporations by State or municipal legislation, and it will keep such corporations under strict supervision.

It will afford such protection as can be given by law to the health, permanent safety, and welfare of men, women, and children engaged in labor in this State. It declares that laboring men have an equal right with the owners of capital to make peaceable contributions for their own protection, and that such right ought to be recognized by statute, and that the collection of statistics and information concerning the needs of various branches of industry and the abuses which exist therein ought to be provided for by law.

Hon. Robert M. McLane was nominated for Governor, J. Frank Turner, Esq., of Talbot, for comptroller of the treasury, and Hon. Charles B. Roberts, of Carroll, for attorney-general. The convention was marked for the harmony of its proceedings, and the nomination of the general ticket of the party to be voted for in November. Mr. McLane is a representative citizen, for forty years identified with the democratic party, and enjoys a national reputation. Mr. Turner, though well known as a public officer in his county, is new to the wider field of State politics, in which he will now have an opportunity to show his mark. Mr. Roberts, who was the Representative of the second Maryland district for two terms in Congress, is a lawyer of ability, and was understood to prefer the line of his profession in which to further serve the State. As a Representative in Congress, however, it may be said that his zeal and integrity gained him the confidence of his constituents, and of his own immediate constituency, but from the business community of Baltimore. The platform upon which the candidates of the party are placed is a bold, clear enunciation of fundamental democratic principles and a vigorous arraignment of the party which has had the administration of the national government for more than twenty years. On the one hand it holds the republican party responsible for "making the public lands the spoil of favored corporations," and on the other hand pledges the democratic party of this State to "prevent the unreasonable extension of the powers of corporations by State or municipal legislation," and of "keeping such corporations under strict supervision."

The Champion.

He thinks Slade the Best Man He Has Ever Known.

The Philadelphia Times publishes the following interview with John L. Sullivan:

"Slade has released Slade from his contract to him," said the champion, "and Slade will start out with 'The John L. Sullivan Combination,' which will open in Baltimore on October 20. We shall go through the West to San Francisco and Oregon, returning over the Northern Pacific and taking in Buffalo and Rochester on our return. We will appear one night in Madison Square Garden. We shall be gone four months. During this tour every man who wants to meet me with gloves can have the chance, and those who esteem themselves will have a better show, for I will offer $500 to anybody who will stand up during four rounds. They won't need to leave home, for I am going around and will take them all in. Besides that, I shall put up medals and cups for the contestants between local boxers in each town. When the tour is over, I propose to go home, for my season business here is worth attending to. I have to keep two policemen constantly before the door to keep the way clear, and my poorest day's receipts have been $400. On the day I opened I took in more than $2,000, and on another single day I took in over $2,400. I may go to Europe by and by, but haven't made up my mind. This is the business of my going, except to see the country. I've met all their champions over here. The only one that has ever been of any account whom I haven't met is Greenfield and I understand he is getting old and stale and is not of much good. I have had a letter from Sheriff, the Russian, who wants to meet me for $1,000. That is too thin. He wants to meet me somewhere where he would get the benefit of my reputation and receive $4,000 or $5,000 for putting up his hands. If he wants to meet me in New York he must put up $5,000, and I will cover it."

"The fact is," continued the slugger, "I will never fight any more in the ring with naked fists. I have altogether retired from the prize ring, and I am now boxing-gloves. I can't afford to take any risks in the Penitentiary. The best man the man who will stand up the best of anybody I have met is Slade, and I like him. I consider him a decidedly better man than Mitchell, and Mitchell is a smart little man, but he don't care to meet Slade. Mitchell has one hand and Slade has two. Mitchell is a coward, and can't use his right to any extent worth mentioning. He has a cunning fellow behind him in Madden. You know I picked Madden up in the streets of Boston when he hadn't a cent and put him in the way of earning all he's ever got. In that Slade-Mitchell matter he saw he was going to lose his $2,000, and in my opinion put up the money to prevent the match. I consider Madden a hippodromer."

"It is on account of private enemies that he didn't want to go to New Orleans?"

"Well, how did he make so many private enemies? Let him answer that. He says: 'Sullivan is not popular in New Orleans.' I have just had an invitation and a very flattering offer to appear there."

"I will manage to let the people of St. Louis and Chicago see Sullivan, in spite of his laws," said Al Smith. "In St. Louis Sullivan will probably pitch a game of base ball. I have been offered fifty-five per cent. of the receipts, but am sticking for a better figure. In Chicago he has been invited by the Athletic Club and by the press generally to go on the stage and hit a swinging ball, such as pupils practice with, according to the Marquis of Queensbury rules."

Young Gunners.

Advice to Arkward Amateurs who Bow Shot in the Field.

The August Century talks to the youngshooters as follows:

"In shooting at an incoming bird, let him be out of sight and just below the rib of your gun at the moment of firing. At a bird going overhead, wait till he has passed well over, then shoot under him. At a straightaway shot hold a little high, so that you just catch a glimpse of the bird over your barrels."

"In shooting at cross shots, it should be understood that the velocity of an ounce of No. 8 shot, driven with three drams of powder, is not to 800 feet per second. In that second a Bob White, if under full headway, will go 80 feet. If we estimate the velocity of his flight so low as only a mile a minute, if he is flying directly across your line of sight and thirty yards off, the shot will take one-tenth of a second to reach that distance, and in one-tenth of a second the bird has gone over eight and eight-tenths feet. So, if we should fire a snap shot directly at cross-flying birds, thirty yards distant, the center of the cloud of shot would fall about nine feet behind him, and he would pass by unscathed. To hit him 'clean,' you must hold nine feet ahead of him. To some sportsmen, 'nine feet' may seem a great distance to 'hold ahead' on a cross-flying bird thirty yards away, but not so if you have noticed attentively the relations of the line of their aim to the position of the bird at the very moment they hear the report of their gun. Also estimations of distances in the air besides a small and quickly moving object are very unreliable, and often when the sportsman thinks he has fired only one foot ahead of a bird he has really held 'three feet.' Let some one suspend horizontally in the air an unfamiliar object that must be distant from fence rails and other things whose dimensions you know, and then guess its length. You will, after a few trials, be astonished that the estimation of actual length is thirty yards in error. Guess again."

Circumstances beyond their control will compel them to defer to some future time of which due notice will be given. I regret this, as preachers had been engaged, and the appointment quite extensively circulated. As you had the kindness to insert the notice of our anticipated meeting, allow me to ask you to insert this recall. Whenever a new arrangement is decided upon I will send you notice of it."

Humphreys & Tilghman are now occupying their new building. This is probably the most capacious business building on the shore. It has three floors, besides the basement. On the first floor are the grocery store, counting room and office. The second contains the east and door department and planing. The first two floors are finished in polished yellow pine, which is a fine finish and business effect. The elevator serves the east and door department, running from the basement to the third floor. The building is constructed in the most substantial manner, and at a heavy expense, but the great and growing business of the firm requires all the space.

Grand Lodge degrees were conferred on Dr. F. M. Siemens and W. L. Todd of Temple Lodge. The Grand officers present were G. M. W. W. A. Reynolds; G. F. Wm. M. Butz; G. O. Merritt; Homer; G. R. A. F. Colberg; G. T. Meyer; Herby; G. G. G. R. Underwood; G. W. Wm. Varulley and E. G. W. W. J. B. Askew. Besides these were Messrs Seal, of Wilmington, whose white hat and long hair made him look like Buffalo Bill (whom he often represents in private theatricals) and James and Smith of Philadelphia.

In the evening a meeting was held in the Court House to which the public had an invitation. A large audience availed itself of the opportunity and the members of the order were present in full force. Mr. Reynolds took the chair and after speaking of the charitable purposes of the order and the splendid thing it is to help each other in this way, introduced Wm. H. James, of Philadelphia, P. G. M. W. of that state. Mr. James belongs to a lodge which has about twelve hundred members. He said that the name of the order sounds plebeian but it was deliberately adopted by the earnest men who were the order's founders only 15 years of age but now has 125,000 members. The speaker described the government of the order and said that the requirements for membership were that the applicant should be a man of good repute who believed in a God. His religious or political views were not inquired into. Mr. Vermilye was then introduced. He is a born male and an eloquentist of fine powers. A life and soul shone in his earnest recitation of how Peck's Bad Boy initiated his father into the Royal Order of Bumpers. Mr. Smith, of Philadelphia, then spoke in a very interesting manner for a half-hour. He quoted Rev. Heber Newton's words before the New York Senate committee that what the workings of today most need is greater brain activity. He then showed how the order benefited them and raised them up higher. Gives them an opportunity to accumulate. Only 15 per cent of the men of this country leave $2000 each at their death. Savings banks and many other institutions devised to enable poor men to save but none so cheap and good as the beneficiary society. Surplus fund where it ought to be, in the pockets of its policy holders.

Mr. Vermilye then appeared and spoke very eloquently upon the good points of the order and recited a poetic poem. The audience applauded until he came out again and gave another recitation. Mr. Jehu B. Askew was the last speaker and his remarks were of the same character as the others except that his grammar and pronunciation were rather painful. The famous Jehu is not pretty and his language belongs to the same type as his face.

After the meeting the members of Temple Lodge regaled the visitors and other invited guests at a banquet served in the Peninsula Hotel dining room.

The Dover Fair.

A Great List of Attractions—Races, Fire-works and Race Ball.

The Dover Fair which occurs next week will be one of the best ever held, except perhaps the great year when Trunket made her wonderful mile. However Trunket does not always come at the first call and it must be acknowledged that the gentlemen in charge have provided a splendid list of attractions. Capt. Avery's famous mare Beryl will contest several races and such fast ones as Screwdriver, like Shultz and Stonewall are in the 2.25 class. Mr. M. de K. Smith, of Chesterdown, will have his young stallion sired by the renowned Southerner, in several trials. In the running and hurdle races, Kiss-Me-Quick, Wooster, Ingomar are entered with a number of others.

"The Our Boys" of Wilmington and Seaford base ball clubs will play match games Tuesday and Wednesday morning at 10:30. Wednesday evening will take place the grand display of fireworks under the superintendence of Prof. Jackson, of Philadelphia, consisting of rockets, stars, bombs, flowers, trees, ending with a cascade of Niagara and a Grand Finale which will consist of a beautiful allegorical figure designed expressly for the occasion. It will represent the scenery of Delaware surrounded by "Agricultural Society of Delaware." In silver letters, terminating in the uprising of a grand bonfire.

All trains will stop at the Fair Grounds. The track is in the finest condition and the general exhibits will be on a scale of unusual dimensions.

The following is a list of letters remaining in the Salisbury (Md.) Post-Office, Thursday, Sept. 20.

Ladies List—Miss Veane Hudson, Mrs. B. F. Helby, Laura Phillips, Mrs. Med Rouse, Miss Sarah A. Waller, Mrs. Mary A. Waller, Mrs. Margaret Waller, Miss Jennie Vincent.

Gent's List—Henry Byrd, S. Johnson (2), Jos. H. Nicholson.

Persons calling for them will please say they are advertised. J. P. Owens, P. M.

The new steamer for the State fishery force, to be known as the Thomas J. Keating, after the State comptroller will be finished by October 1. It is said there are a number of applicants for the command of the new steamer, among the more prominent being Captain C. J. B. Mitchell, present commander of the cutter steamer Lella, Lamont Mitchell, of Annapolis, and the cutter steamer Governor Hamilton.

All the pipes for the water-works have been laid in Westminster.

From the Tuesday Edition.

Sermon by the Presiding Elder—Death of a Former Marylander.

—Mrs. Larget and Prof. Brockett will be residents of Salisbury for some months to come. They will be at Prof. Larget's.

—The courting young man will soon be able to take his girl a walking without dodging an ice-cream saloon, as the season has nearly ended.

—Mr. James Toadvine near Salisbury has a half grown chicken which has no wing, never having had a trace of one. The peculiarity has the effect of making it unable to turn over if laid on its back.

—Rev. J. A. B. Wilson, Presiding Elder, preached in the M. E. Church Sunday evening upon the "Truth of God and the Mission." He said in his discourse that science, as it became better understood, proved the Word, instead of being against its revelations. Astronomy at first was expected to throw doubt over the minds of believers, but as its unfoldings they were seen to go side by side with the Scriptures. So with evolution; it was expected to set at naught the history of the Creation, but its atheistic tendencies are being overthrown by the attacks of better informed Christian scientists. As to the Mission of sending the truth to heathen people, the head of Main st., over the store of J. S. Adkins, where he is prepared to do all kinds of work on clocks and watches. Give him a call.

—For Sale: The house and lot in the Town of Salisbury, corner of Church and Lemon street, where Joseph Berghen is now living. For terms apply to E. Stanley Toadvine, Salisbury, Md.

—Notice to Teachers: This is to give notice that a Special Examination of teachers will be held in the High School Building on Wednesday, Sept. 26th, 1888, beginning at 8 o'clock A. M. Thomas Perry, Examiner.

—On last Friday Capt. St. Avery drove his beautiful sorrel mare, Beryl, up to town to get her shod by Mr. Robt. H. Wilson who is now working in the blacksmith shop of G. A. Dougherty's carriage factory. Beryl looked well and was closely observed, this being the first time she has been in town since her victorious race at Pungoteague with Mr. Geo. W. Powell's Lulu Bell, which she won in 2:20 and 2:25. Capt. St. has entered Beryl for the Dover races—Marylander.
