Kent county, is seven years old this Spring,

upwards of fifteen hands high, was got by
Gen. Ridgely's Moreau upon Col. Spencer's mare Virginia, whose sire was the full bred
horse Sky-Scraper, out of Polly Ready Money,
a mare well known in this county for her high breeding and distinguished performance on the turf.
ISAAC SPENCER.
March 1, 1824.

I publish the above certificate of Isaac
Spencer, Esq. and have made arrangements
to procure the pedigree of Moreau, Sky-Scraper
and Cincinnati, who I understand was the sire of Polly Ready Money the grand dam
of Moreau, which certificates I purpose publishing in hand bills, as soon as procured.
EDWARD N. HAMBLETON.
Easton, March 27th

Since publishing the above I have received a letter from Gen. Ridgely, from which I give the following extract.

Extract of a letter from Gen. Ridgely,
dated BALTIMORE, 24th March, 1824.

"The full bred horse Moreau was bred by me and foaled about the year 1808—He was g t by the imported horse Bedford, of high pedigree out of a mare which I also bred, called Miranda. she was out of a Cub mare and got by Medley; both these dams were perfectly full bred—At 4 years old Moreau won the colts purse at Annapolis, and the following year he won at Lancaster the four mile heats, after which he was taken from the turf and put to covering. He was a bay of fine bone and figure with good action."

CHARLES RIDGELY, of Hampton.

leap—but if paid within the season $4 will be received in full for a Spring's chance—and two dollars and a half for a single leap if paid
in the course of the season, and eight dollars
to insure a foal, but to avoid disputes no insurance will be made or put to by the single leap

said mare is put to the horse, and twenty five cents to the Groom in each case.

YOUNG TOM

Was got by Old Tom, (whose progeny are universally admired on the Western Shore of

a half blooded Canadian Mare—It is deemed activity and invincible spirit. He will be at will attend every Tuesday during the season.

the following diseases; scrofula or king's evil,
ulcerated or putrid sore throat, long standing
rheumatic affections, cutaneous diseases,
white swelling, and diseases of the bones, and
all cases generally of an ulcerous character
and chronic diseases, generally arising in de-

from syphilis, or affections arising therefrom;
ulcers in the larynx, nodes, &c. And that dreadful disease occasioned by a long and excessive use of mercury, &c. It is also useful in diseases of the liver.

CERTIFICATES.

I have within the last two years had an opportunity of seeing several cases of very inveterate ulcers, which having resisted previously the regular modes of treatment, were healed by the use of Mr. Swaim's Panacea, and I do believe, from what I have seen that it will prove an important remedy in scrofulous,
venereal and mercurial diseases.

Professor of the Institutes and Practice of Physic in the University of Pennsylvania.
I have employed the Panacea of Mr. Swaim
in numerous instances, within the last three years and have always found it extremely
efficacious, especially in secondary syphilis,
and mercurial disease. I have no hesitation
in pronouncing it a medicine of inestimable value.

From the United States Gazette.

The Devil whipt round the stump.

In the county of Northampton, state of Pennsylvania, there is a little retailer of grog (spirited liquors) who has been fined
by the proper authority, for selling by the gill, or half pint, without license.

Now, in order to evade the law, he applies to a tin merchant who happened to be there, for advice to help him out of the scrape.

The tin-Merchant for the price of a week's board, soon taught our retailer what to do.—Indeed, what is it that a tin trader
can't do?

They put their heads together, and made
a tin tube, exactly one yard in length and
of the thickness, to hold one pint of rum.
This they marked off 1-2 yard, 1-4 yard,
and half 1-4—just as the pedlars of tape &
calico have their yard sticks marked off.
Now, when a traveller steps in to "wet
his whistle"—he civilly says, "Mister Edward I'd thank ye for about 1-2 a yard, or 1-4—just according to the length of the "Red Lane" of throat. No sooner said,
than done, the landlord, with solemn step,
moves on, and reaches down, from behind
his bottles, the tin yard tube and measures
out 1-2 a yard, or 1-4 as the case may be,
of the wet stuff of the "O, be joyful." The traveller sends it down the red lane, vul-
garly called; drinks it—pays down the cash,
and travels his way.

Friend Printer, "if this is not "whipping
the Devil round a stump "I don't know what is.

N.B. The New England folks, have a saying, that three Philadelphia Lawyers are a match for the very Devil himself, and that they are able to unravel any knotty point, let it be ever so hard. Now, I would just civilly ask such three Lawyers, whether
this man, who sells rum by the yard,
instead of by the gill, or half pint as the law
says, can be fined or not fined? A $1000
fee will be given.

In conclusion, we will inform that this business has become so profitable the tin
merchant and the tavern keeper, have entered into a co-partnership. Indeed, their custom increases so fast that the firm begin already to hold up their heads and talk big
—talk very strongly of taking out a patent
so that I would advise our wise ones in Congress, to keep a good look out when these sellers of rum, by the yard, come to the City of Washington, for their patent.
Easton, Northampton co. Pa. Feb. 25.

It is a source of amusement to look over the last census of the United States. The curious inequalities of number in sex produced by the irregular tide of emigration,
and by a partiality for particular localities,
while it tends to convert the desert into a
garden seems to thwart the politic commands of Holy Writ, increase and multi-
ply. The state of Ohio has 24,642 more males than females. The males are more
in number than the amount of females, above that of males in the states of Vermont
Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut.—There is no doubt that all the surplus marriageable females of these last four states, could find ready husbands in Ohio, if they will look at the following estimate:—The surplus of females in Vermont, is 226—in Massachusetts, 12,111
in Rhode Island, 2,429—in Connecticut, 5,585, amounting in all to 20,331; being about 4000 less than the number of the surplus male population of the state of Ohio,

FOREIGN.

From the Federal Gazette.

From Paris, by the Ship Elizabeth. Since the publication of the decree of Ferdinand which pretends to regulate the commerce with South America, on the system of requiring from foreign vessels duties similar to those demanded by their respective governments from Spanish vessels trading in their province, there has been some anxiety expressed by the French, lest that singular document should have involved them in a very unfortunate dilemma. If they are bound to wait until Spanish Custom Houses are established in those countries, they are likely to share very little of the commerce; but they hope to secure an escape under a doubtful clause of the decree, from so mortifying a situation.

The Journal du Commerce of the 20th February, mentions the speech of Mr. Webster on the Greek question, as one remarkable for its energy and eloquence, and gives one or two short extracts. It also contains the motion made in Congress to invite the Marquis La Fayette to visit the United States.

Letters from Constantinople to the 13th of January, mention that Lord Stratford has been authorized to continue his mediation between Russia and the Porte. The Greeks are said to have abandoned their projects against Smyrna.

A mummy recently arrived in France from Egypt, which appears to be that of a Princess of the race of the Pharaohs, who had been buried 3700 years. In the same box was an embalmed Cat, to indicate the person was of high rank.

Spain was far from being tranquil. The Journal de Toulouse states that the first regiment of light infantry had received orders to enter Spain. The 4th regiment is to march to Figueras. The Monks continue to disturb the public tranquility in Catalonia. They commanded fetes and thanksgivings for the restoration of absolute power.

An insurrection is said to have shown itself in Estremadura; and great agitation was apparent in Andalusia.

The conduct of the Spanish troops in the environs of Barcelona creates great apprehensions. The French general commanding has ordered Baron d'Esclapart to withdraw his troops to the distance of 8 leagues.

On the 20th of February Mr. Huskisson presented a petition from the Manufacturers of Liverpool, praying for a reduction of the duties on Tobacco. A petition was also presented from the Merchants, Traders, Factories, &c. of London, against the duty on Imported Wool.

The house then went into a committee of supply, when Lord Palmerston moved that a force not exceeding 73,341 regular troops and 3,354 men in Veteran Battalions in Ireland, should be granted, exclusive of forces in India, for the service of the succeeding year. Mr. Home attempted to obtain a reduction, but his amendment was lost, 102 to 10—Neg. 92.

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

By the packet ship Cortes, Capt. De Cost arrived on Monday morning at New York, from Liverpool, bringing files of London papers to the 23d of February and Liverpool to the 24th, inclusive; they contain nothing of importance.

WAR WITH ALGIERS.

The following notification of hostilities having commenced against the Regency of Algiers appeared in the Gazette of Saturday night.

Admiralty-office, Feb. 21, 1824.

"Despatches," dated the 31st of last month and 1st inst. have this morning been received at this office from the Hon. Capt. Spencer, of his Majesty's ship Naiad, (who had been directed to proceed to Algiers, to make in conjunction with his Majesty's Consul at that Regency a remonstrance against some late proceeding of the Dey,) stating that his negotiation had ended unsatisfactorily, and that the Consul was obliged to strike the British flag, and embark on board his Majesty's ship.

Captain Spencer further reports, that having met an Algerine corvette, he felt it under his instructions, his duty to attack her, and that she was laid on board, and captured in the most handsome manner, by his Majesty's brig Chameleon, when Capt. Spencer had the satisfaction to find, that he had rescued 17 Spaniards, whom the Algerine was carrying into slavery.

Admiralty office, Feb. 21, 1824.

"This is to give notice, that the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty will immediately appoint convoys to afford protection to the trade through the Straits of Gibraltar, and within the Mediterranean, until the differences with the Regency of Algiers shall be arranged.

"J. W. CROCKER."

The cause of this warlike declaration, on our part, are, it appears, two-fold—one, the refusal on the part of the Dey, to make reparation for an insult offered to the British Consular flag, of what nature does not appear, the other, a declaration, that he was resolved no longer to observe the terms of a treaty made with him, not to retain any Christian captives, of any nation, in a state of slavery. Captain Spencer's exploit, recorded above, was the immediate consequence of the latter determination.

We subjoin, from the royal Cornwall Gazette, some further particulars of the occurrences that preceded and followed the commencement of hostilities with Algiers:

On Thursday evening (the 19th inst.) the Chameleon brig of war, Lieut. Burton arrived at Falmouth from Gibraltar, with despatches for Government, which were forwarded express to London, by Lieut.

Church of his Majesty's ship Astrea, the Chameleon having been put under quarantine. The Chameleon left Portsmouth with secret orders, a short time since, and joined the Naiad frigate, Hon. Capt. Spencer, at Gibraltar.—They proceeded in company to Algiers where they arrived on the 24th ult. to demand restitution of some Christian captives.

The Dey refused to admit Capt. Spencer to a private conference, unless he would consent to come without his sword, a condition to which that gallant officer would not submit. Having made his propositions, he gave the Dey to the 31st to consider them, and in the mean time embarked the British Consul, with his family, and the merchants on board his ship. When the time expired, and no favorable answer having been returned, the men of war stood out to sea, and at 3 P. M. (in sight of the town, fell in with an Algerine corvette, of 18 guns and 100 men, standing in for the bay. She was ordered to, but having refused compliance, a fire was immediately opened upon her, which she returned, and in a short time the Chameleon ran her on board, and carried her in a gallant style. On board her were found 17 Spaniards, (prisoners,) who with the Algerine Captain, were taken out of her. Captain Spencer then suffered the prize to drift on shore, she being too much damaged to bring away. The Chameleon had some men wounded in the action, but the particulars had not yet transpired. The Naiad parted company for Malta on the 1st inst. and the Chameleon, after calling at Gibraltar, sailed from hence on the 6th.

Two days later from France.

By the arrival of the brig Arctic, captain Low, at this port, in 25 days from Havre, we have intelligence from Paris to the 22d February.

Spain has acknowledged herself indebted to France in the sum of 34 millions. This acknowledgement, however, is unaccompanied, says the Etoile, with any pledge of the revenues of Spain or any other property, as security for its payment, and no means by which it will be eventually paid, have yet been mentioned.

The Journal de Commerce of Feb. 18th says, if we are correctly informed, M. de Marsellus has been directed essentially to demand three things of the Spanish Government, viz: The law of amnesty, a recognition of the Independence of South America on conditions such as Spain ought to agree to; and certain financial arrangements by Spain in behalf of France.

A memoir was reported in Paris on the 21st of February to be circulated in Germany, addressed by Mr. Canning to the cabinets of the Great Powers, which stated, that the English government would not refuse its assistance in again subjugating South America on condition that the old system of colonial policy should not be re-established.

The Madrid papers continue to preserve a profound silence upon what passes in the provinces of Spain, where tranquility is far from being re-established, if private letters can be believed. It is said that hostile bands overrun Andalusia and La Mancha, that Galicia is still disturbed and that at Valencia some tumults have taken place.

FROM KEY WEST.

By the sloop Ocean, at Norfolk in 16 days from Key West, the Norfolk Beacon has received intelligence from the Naval Station to the 10th inst. The Ocean has brought home forty six sick and convalescent seamen and marines, belonging to the squadron, in charge of Midshipman Peyton Henley, and attended by Surgeon's Mate Van Brunt. These were the only men unfit for duty at the time the Ocean sailed. Corporal Rodgers, of the marines, died on the passage, the 14th inst. of excessive debility.

Dr. Jas. R. Boyce has returned home in the Ocean, in consequence of bad health. He has been very ill, and although much improved since he left the Island, he is still very feeble.

Capt. Jesse Wilkinson still continued in command of the Naval forces on that station. Commodore PORTER not having arrived there. We are gratified to learn, that Capt. W. with the officers and men of the squadron and on the Island, were all in the enjoyment of good health, when the Ocean sailed. Dr. Dubarry was the only medical officer remaining at Key West.

From the Washington City Gazette.

On the 16th inst. Mr. Monroe, at the President's House, gave to Mr. Jackson the gold medal heretofore voted to him for the defence of New Orleans; and at the same time presented to Judge Todd, of the Supreme Court, the medal voted to Governor Shelby of Kentucky, for his gallant conduct in the battle of the Thames, in Canada. There were addresses by Mr. Monroe, and replies by Mr. Jackson and Judge Todd, acting as the representative of Gov. Shelby.

For ourselves, we do not approve of this method of presenting medals, which was first introduced we believe, by Mr. Monroe. And we think the reader will concur with us in opinion, on perusing the following passages from the address to Mr. Jackson and his reply.

Mr. Monroe said to Mr. Jackson, "The basis with which you repaired to that station, and organized the force collected there; the firmness with which you received the attack, and the success with which you repelled it, with a much inferior force, a great part of which consisted of volunteers and militia; are distinguished proofs of your patriotism and gallantry, as well as of your judgment in action."

Mr. Jackson replied, saying— "Receiving this emblem of the approbation of my country from you, who were an efficient and active agent of our government in those scenes of difficulty and danger to which it refers, gives me peculiar pleasure."

Now, what is this but reciprocal flattery? And the more so, as we are to presume the address and reply were seen by each party previously to the public ceremony. Mr. Jackson merits the praise bestowed—but is such an interchange of compliments marked by delicacy?

We are more pleased with the reply of Judge Todd—because Mr. Monroe having omitted, in his address, to notice the fact which rendered the military services of Governor Shelby on the Thames particularly patriotic, to wit: his advanced age; and that other memorable fact, of his having been a conspicuous officer of the revolution, Judge Todd introduced them in his reply, by addressing to the governor as "a venerable patriot," as "a brave veteran soldier," and as being "distinguished by his services in two wars."

For the rest, the addresses and replies are in the usual vein of just panegyric on the alacrity and courage of the militia.

We are rather apprehensive, however, that this mania of puffing ourselves, now it has got to head quarters, will induce foreign nations to regard us as braggadocios. We must also be permitted to doubt the sincerity of those plaudits for martial achievements, when we see the claims of such a man as Harrison postponed by the Executive, and an individual preferred who is remarkable for political subtlety.

Another settlement of the Presidential question.

The Grand Jury of Baltimore County, summoned from different parts of it, and selected for intelligence, respectability of character, and interest in society—most of them natives of the county with all their property located in it, and therefore as likely to know and fairly represent the sentiments of the people as almost any editor of a paper, even those in pay of the Government—this well qualified body on finishing their business last week, as we learn, agreed to ballot for a President of the U. States, whereupon it appeared that ANDREW JACKSON was duly elected, without going into the House of Representatives, having received a majority over all the other candidates united. The votes stood thus:

The Colonization Society of Talbot County.

As the time approaches for the meeting of the members of this society to choose their Officers and Managers, it has been thought advisable to bring the subject to their minds.—The more the humane objects of this association are considered, both with respect to ourselves and the unhappy people whom it materially concerns, the more strenuous ought we to be in our endeavours to promote them. To give a more general understanding of the Nature of the Association and of the Ends proposed to be attained, we have requested a publication of the Constitution:—By this it will be seen that the principal Aid to be afforded by us consists in contributions of money to be subscribed according to our means and pleasure. The subscriptions will range from five dollars to twenty five cents; and it is reasonable to believe that such moderate payments will induce the main body of our Citizens to become Members and take a part in the management of the Society. The members are to meet at the Court house in Easton on Tuesday the 6th day of April next; and the Committee and others, who hold the subscription papers, are invited to assemble together at an early hour to ascertain the persons who shall have acquired membership by their subscriptions.

FOR THE EASTON GAZETTE.

The substance of Mr. Lloyd's and Mr. Hayward's letters compared with that of the Congressional Caucus in Washington.

Where men act without prejudice or passion, and exert their understanding alone, they are capable of reasoning, they must frequently are consistent. It often happens, and fortunately too, that age and experience correct the errors that were formed in youth, and we see these changes down to the progress of wisdom.—But when we see men of mature age running into irreconcilable inconsistencies almost at the same time, it produces an impression so much to their disadvantage, that they not only lose all confidence themselves, but the pursuit they aim at, in which they betray such inconsistency, is apt to meet with the public reprobation.

These reflections have arisen from a late review of the famous letters of Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Hayward to the Executive of Maryland in reply to the request of the General Assembly in relation to the Caucus, and the address of the Congressional Caucus signed by Mr. Ruggles.—These letters were written on the 31st December 1823 and 8th January 1824.—The Caucus address bears date (it is supposed) immediately after the 14th February 1824.—The intervening time between the letters and the address may be fixed at about six weeks.

The whole intention and drift of the letters go to prove, that the legislature of Maryland had no right to interfere as to the Congressional Caucus, and that the opinion of the legislature thus expressed, was no indication of the existing sentiment of the people, and therefore ought to have no influence. The great defence made by the Caucus is, that the expressed opinions of state legislatures are the most perfect criterion of the sentiment of the people—that no mode could have been adopted better devised to ascertain the state of public sentiment—that without it, the caucus would be held upon presumed opinions of the people only.

It is utterly impossible that two opinions so diametrically opposite can be both correct. If Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Hayward are right in their epistolary opinions, they together with their friends in caucus must be wrong in their defence of themselves—and on the contrary, if Mr. Lloyd & Mr. Hayward with their friends in caucus are right in the ground taken for the defence of themselves, they are wrong in their epistolary opinion. This inconsistency must be left to the gentlemen to reconcile. If it is said that the last opinion, being contrary, is to be received as an abandonment of the first this concession ought to be known for the credit of our Legislature.—But if it is said, that the repugnant opinion of the Caucus may not be the opinion of every member, and that therefore Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Hayward may perhaps not have agreed to it—it is replied, that it would be truly unfortunate for those gentlemen not to have concurred in opinion with their worthy coadjutors in the only ground taken for their justification before the people.

Mr. Lloyd's letter says "They (the legislature) know too well I am sure their own powers, and respect too highly the rights of others, to usurp the authority of depriving me of the privilege secured to every citizen of the state, viz: the privilege of taking an open and an honest part in the election of the Chief Magistrate of the Republic."

Mr. Hayward's letter says "he was unwilling to believe, nay, even to suffer himself for one moment to think, that so enlightened a body as the Legislature of Maryland could so far forget all the obligations of duty, and so disregard the solemn injunctions of the constitution, as to attempt to place itself between the people and the servants of the people or to usurp from the constituent the right of directing the Representative by an assumption of the right to participate in the exercise of that power"—again he says "he will give to the resolution of the legislature that construction by which they can alone be justified or excused to the people, viz: as the simple expression of the opinions and feelings of certain individuals of the Legislature of Maryland"—(it will be remembered this resolution passed the Senate by a majority of 7, and the House of Delegates by a majority of 25)

"On the fitness of a caucus, the proceedings of the last twelve months have strongly impressed our minds.—Heretofore democratic caucuses to nominate a President and Vice-President have been held upon the presumed approbation of their constituents only.—The question now stands upon a very different footing.—Resolutions expressive of their dissent to Congressional Caucuses, have, during their last session, been passed by the legislature of the state of Tennessee and transmitted to the Executives of the other states, for the purpose of being laid before their Legislatures for concurrence. No mode could have been adopted better devised to ascertain the state of public sentiment. It is known that those resolutions have been acted upon by the Legislatures of Maine, N. York, Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Indiana; which states are entitled to 146 out of 261 votes to be given in the United States. By the Republican members of the legislatures of the four states first named, and entitled to 78 votes, resolutions have been passed, with great unanimity, approving in the warmest terms a Congressional Caucus. In the remaining states mentioned, the resolutions of Tennessee have been postponed, in some instances, indefinitely, and in others disposed of in a manner evincive of a determination not to act upon them. In no state except Maryland, entitled to eleven votes, has there been an expression of concurrence, by the Legislature in the views of the Legislature of Tennessee. In South Carolina, entitled to the same number of votes, one branch of the Legislature in opposition to the opinion of the other, has expressed such concurrence. Nor have the members of the Legislature of any State, in their individual capacity, expressed similar views. From reference to these facts we feel authorized in the belief that a large majority of the republicans of the Union have desired and expected the adoption of the course, which, under the influence of these impressions, we have felt it our duty to pursue.

I shall say no more for the present, but close these reflections and views by recommending to every man to compare the letters and the caucus address together, and he will find them all pregnant with glaring and hostile inconsistencies with each other.

Easton Gazette.

EASTON, Md.
SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 3.

The Foreign Intelligence, selected from the Federal Gazette, represents Spain in a very critical state. It was to be expected—Spain can be tranquil in her present condition. Harassed by the misrule of such a King—goaded by an unrelenting, persecuting priesthood aided by their blind followers—their country held by the military occupation of France, and all the world regarding her with pity and contempt, it is impossible she can remain quiet. She must rebel, she must fight, she must bleed. The tyrants must be put down, and then, and then only can she be tranquil.

George Winchester, Esq. is announced as a candidate for elector of President and Vice President of the U. States, for the district composed of the cities of Baltimore and Annapolis, Anne Arundel county and a part of Montgomery county, and if elected, will vote for Andrew Jackson as president of the United States.

Gen. William Goldsborough, of Washington county, is announced as a candidate for an Elector of President and Vice President, for the District composed of Frederick, Washington, and Allegany counties, and pledges himself, if elected, to vote for Henry Clay for President. Col. David Shneely, is also a candidate for the same district and will vote for John Q. Adams, if elected.

A hint to federal editors from the Harboursburg Intelligencer.

"The nomination of President and Vice President seems generally to be approved of by the democratic editors. As to the federal editors, we care little about what course they take. We would prefer that they should be opposed to the democratic ticket; but if they are willing to 'strike their colours,' as Mr. Otis said, in the late war, why let them walk in the rear of the procession."

The editor who wrote the foregoing paragraph is one of the eleventh hour men—he actually struck his colours as a partisan of Mr. Calhoun, only a week or two before the 'nomination.'—Natl. Gaz.

A letter from New Orleans, of Feb. 26th, states, that they have advices from England to the 4th January, and that the balance of the stock of cotton then on hand, (261,000 bales) had struck the holders with horror.

Mr. De Grand of Boston, in his last Commercial Report, furnishes the following extract of a private letter from Paris, dated 22d Feb. and stated to be from a high source.

"The cause of liberty was never in greater danger.—The Allies are determined to put it down in the United States as well as in Europe and South America, cost what it may.—England is treacherous to the cause of freedom; Russia is powerful; France and Austria subservient. Prepare yourselves to see a most formidable attack on the United States within a few years. Spies will soon swarm all over your land."

PRESIDENTIAL VESTS.

We understand that Messrs. J & P. Hone & Company sold yesterday by auction a large quantity of black silk vestings, lately imported from France, stamped with pretty correct likenesses of several of the candidates for the presidency, with their names printed beneath their busts. The quality of the goods was very nearly the same; and the difference in price may therefore be taken as a political thermometer, indicating the degree of zeal felt by the partisans of the several competitors. Washington was struck off at $1 75 the yard; Clay at $1 62½; Jackson at $1 87½; and Adams at $3 25. The bids became in some measure local. Jackson went to Philadelphia and Baltimore; Adams to the east, and Clay to the west; but as N. York has not yet fully made up her mind on the Presidential question, none but the Washington pattern remained in the city, although some of the others might doubtless have found a ready market.

N. Y. Statesman.

The following letter of General CALVIN JONES, of North Carolina, is well worth the attention of our State Legislators.—The experience and deliberate opinion of so distinguished a man ought to be received with respect and reflected on with care—all the points he touches upon the subject of militia drills are thoughtfully and sensibly treated on, and much attention is due to his remarks in relation to the destructive loss of time and the consequent demoralizing of the people. Situated as all the Southern States are, a few corps of active and well trained militia are indispensable for service at a minutes warning, and the general tranquility and safety absolutely require these—but in relation to the great mass of the population of each state his observations are very pertinent and sensible.

ON MILITIA MUSTERS.

To the Hon. the General Assembly of the state of North Carolina.

GENTLEMEN: I hereby tender you my resignation of the office of Major General in the militia of North Carolina.

On this occasion I beg leave to offer to your view some considerations in regard to the Militia, which I deem of much importance to the best interests of the community.

Exercises to discipline the Militia have been perseveringly made for thirty years.—Instructions have been given and penalties inflicted. Laws and regulations have been multiplied without end. Every where men of zeal and talent, impelled by the powerful motives of public interest and individual distinction, have afforded their aid—and what has been the result? The Militia are now, in point of efficiency, exactly as they were when these efforts commenced, and thirty years more of experience would only go to prove that the proud spirit of freemen is not to be broken down into the machinery which constitutes the efficiency of a regular army. Nor is it, in my opinion, in any point of view desirable that it should be. Bunker's Hill, King's Mountain, and New Orleans, will forever attest the ardour of patriotism, and the regard for individual character, that is so dear to honorable minds, will give an impetus to a Militia force that will overwhelm the frigid order of regular troops. If warfare is protracted, discipline will in due time supply the place of this restless but transient ardor. And I hazard nothing by the assertion, that one week in actual service will do more for discipline than the whole life of a man who is dragged from his family half a dozen times in the year to expose his health to the elements, his awkwardness to the public gaze, and his morals to the contamination of electioneering treats.

If no real good is affected, are no positive evils produced? Fifty thousand men drawn away from their homes and occupations, six times in the year, deduct from the useful business of life, labor that is worth at a moderate estimate, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars! In other words the industry of North Carolina is annually taxed one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, for an unattainable object. No substantial benefits are obtained, and the injury inflicted upon property and morals is incalculable.

I would therefore take the liberty respectfully to recommend, a measure eminently calculated to promote the public weal—that the militia be restricted to muster but once in the year, and then merely to continue their organization and bring officers and men to a knowledge of each other.

These observations are the result of a deliberate judgment, formed with all the lights afforded with twenty four years of experience in different offices in the militia—on muster grounds in the balcyon days of peace, and in the tented field in the stormy season of war. None will consider them as intended to apologise for any former deficiency of zeal in myself. I entered the Militia service with the most sanguine expectations of introducing reform, and when in the Legislature, my most strenuous exertions to promote the same object were sustained by the confidence of success. But the sober lessons of experience have taught me the futility of all such hopes and attempts not only here but in every state where I have a knowledge of the militia.

"In peace to prepare for war," is a good maxim, but, at "all times to inculcate the principles and promote the arts of peace," is a better. The expense of means misapplied to promote the first object, would, if properly directed, do much to advance both; and from the enlightened and liberal principles which are prevailing; and from better estimates being now made than heretofore, of all the objects of human ambition, I look forward with pleasing anticipations to the more improved condition of human society in all its relations—to the lessened frequency and mitigated horrors of war and to the multiplied embellishments, and increased enjoyments of peace.

In tendering this resignation, which will probably be the last official act of my life, I cannot withhold an expression, of the deep sense of gratitude I feel for the honors the Legislature and the constituted authorities of the state have bestowed upon me, especially for the office I now abandon, and for giving me, in virtue of it, the command of the military force of the state, when called into service at an interesting period of the late war, affording me thereby an opportunity of demonstrating my zeal for the public welfare.

NOTICE.

Mrs. HIGGINS tenders her thanks to the citizens of Talbot and the adjacent counties,
for the liberal encouragement she has received during the six years she has superin-
tended the Female Academy in this place.—
The belief that her best efforts have been given to better the intellectual and moral condition of those entrusted to her care, and
that those efforts have not been altogether
ineffectual, or without the approbation of her patrons, is, and ever will be, a rich source of consolation.

Her intended removal from this place, in the early part of the ensuing month, renders it necessary that all unsettled accounts with her should be speedily adjusted. She therefore respectfully solicits all who are in arrearage for Tuition, to call without delay, and make payment to her, or in her absence to Mr. Tristram Needles, who is authorized to receive any money that may be due her and
to give receipts.

MAGISTRATES' BLANKS

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

For Sale, THE BEAUTIFUL FARM 'HAYLANDS'

Situated upon the head waters of St. Michaels River, in Talbot county, within three miles of Easton, and contains about 350 acres, all of which is very fine land. The farm is divided into four fields averaging rather more than 50
acres each—a large Orchard of fine fruit—an excellent Garden—a good Homestead—and well improved, productive Meadows.—The

DWELLING HOUSE

is good and convenient, and there are all the necessary out buildings for comfort and convenience. Timber sufficient with care to supply the farm—a never-failing stream of fine water flows through
the middle of the farm—no farm can be more
finely watered—and it abounds in good Marl,
the benefit of which, in the increase of all
crops, is very great and well known—more than half of each field has been already mar-
led, which has doubled their product.—The marl is easily got at.

This farm is equally well adapted for grazing
as for the growth of grain—A liberal and accommodating credit will be given to suit a good purchaser—a more advantageous investment of money in lands has never been offered
in Maryland, and few places afford a more delightful residence than the "Haylands."

account to this office for collection.

VALUABLE LAND FOR SALE.

The subscriber offers for sale the Farm called

"WARD'S GIFT,"

beautifully situated within two miles
of Centreville, and immediately on the Post Road and adjoining two Grist Mills; it contains
about four hundred and ninety four acres of
land, with a plenty of timber and firewood.
This farm offers many advantages rarely to be
met with, viz.—there runs quite through the
farm a large meadow, which with little labour
might be made to produce a large quantity of Timothy and Herd Grass; and through which
there runs an inexhaustible stream of water.
The soil is well adapted to the growth of corn,
wheat, clover and tobacco; it is elevated, yet
level, and requires but very little ditching.
The improvements are a two story Brick
DWELLING HOUSE, near which there is a
brick well of excellent water, Kitchen, Quarter, Corn House, a tolerable good Stable, and
the frame of a large Barn, out of which might
be made a very commodious farm house. Also
a very fine apple and peach orchard, with well
selected fruit.

It is unnecessary to say any thing further,
as I presume those that are disposed to purchase will view the premises, which will be shown by Mr. H. Hardcastle, Jr. living on the farm. For terms, which will be made very accommodating, apply to the subscriber, near Easton,

BY THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES,

FEBRUARY 14, 1824.

Whereas, it appears on the Pension List, furnished by the Treasurer, that there is a considerable sum of money lying in the Treasury appropriated to the payment of Invalid Pensioners, which has not been demanded as far back as eight or ten years. And Whereas, it is presumed that many or all the individuals interested in said appropriations, not demanded
within the last two years, are dead, and it appearing desirable that some period should be prescribed for all future demands on the Treasury of a similar nature, and that the surplus
now remaining in the Treasury should be disposed of for the advantage of the state:—Therefore,
Resolved, That all monies heretofore appropriated for the payment of the Pensioners and
not demanded within the last two years, shall revert to the state, subject to the disposition of the legislature, and that all appropriations hereafter to be made for a similar object, shall be demanded within eighteen months thereafter under the penalty of a forfeiture of said
pension; provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to debar
any pensioner, or his heirs from the payment of any pension heretofore granted, if said pensioner or his heirs shall demand the same legally authenticated within twelve months after the passage of this resolution; and provided also, that it shall be the duty of the Treasurer
to have this preamble and resolution published in such newspapers as the Executive shall deem expedient for the information of those concerned, and the names of all persons affected
by this resolution.

Easton, March 27th

Since publishing the above I have received a letter from Gen. Ridgely, from which I give the following extract.

Extract of a letter from Gen. Ridgely, dated Baltimore, 24th March, 1824.

"The full bred horse Moreau was bred by me and foaled about the year 1808—He was got by the imported horse Bedford, of high pedigree out of a mare which I also bred, called Miranda, she was out of a Cub mare and got by Medley; both these dams were perfectly full bred—At 4 years old Moreau won the colts purse at Annapolis, and the following year he won at Lancaster the four mile heats, after which he was taken from the turf and put to covering. He was a bay of fine bone and figure with good action."

CHARLES RIDGELY, of Hampton.

YOUNG TOM

Was got by Old Tom, (whose progeny are universally admired on the Western Shore of this State as first rate Saddle Horses) out of a half blooded Canadian Mare—It is deemed unnecessary to give a further description of him as the slightest examination cannot fail to convince a judge of horses that he possesses in an eminent degree the three grand requisites for either saddle or harness, strength, activity and invincible spirit. He will be at Easton on Tuesday the 30th March, where he will attend every Tuesday during the season. At Wye Mills, and in that neighbourhood, on Thursday and Friday following, (1st and 2d of April) and the Saturday week following, he will be at St. Michaels and will continue to attend those places or the above mentioned days, once a fortnight during the season. Mrs. Higgins, tenders her thanks to the citizens of Talbot and the adjacent counties for the liberal encouragement she has received during the six years she has superintended the FEMALE ACADEMY in this place. The belief that her best efforts have been given to better the intellectual and moral condition of those entrusted to her care, and that those efforts have not been altogether ineffectual, or without the approbation of her patrons, is, and ever will be, a rich source of consolation. Her intended removal from this place, in the early part of the ensuing month, renders it necessary that all unsettled accounts with her should be speedily adjusted. She therefore respectfully solicits all who are in arrears for tuition to call without delay, and make payment to her, or in her absence to Mr. Tristram Needles, who is authorized to receive any money that may be due her and to give receipts.

Measrs. Caucus Gentlemen, read the following and lay all your losses down to your premeditated and unprovoked calumny of Federalists, who had retired from the political struggle—your illiberality—your scandalous device, to promote your own ends by an appeal to ancient party feelings,—your high-handed attempt to force others to hew wood and draw water for yourselves.

PROSPECTS OF MR. CRAWFORD.

But one sentiment prevails in the Western States, in relation to the late caucus at Washington. In Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, Illinois, Missouri, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Kentucky, the efforts of the partisans of Mr. Crawford are viewed as they ought to be; and whatever may have been his prospects heretofore, we feel warranted, at this time, in making the assertion, that any one of the candidates now before the people will be supported, in the states we have just enumerated, in preference to Mr. Crawford. The people of the west, though sincerely attached to republican principles, are unwilling to be governed in the choice of a Chief Magistrate, by the mandates of less than one fourth of the members of Congress. It is the general opinion here, (and we do not believe that this opinion will be changed,) that the whole strength of Mr. Crawford was displayed in the Caucus in Washington, on the 14th ult. and consequently, he can neither succeed with the people, nor in the event of the election devolving on Congress. The address of the caucus committee, is so manifestly at war with genuine republican principles; so factious in its temper, and so disingenuous in the assertions it contains, that it has been universally deprecated.

The people of the west are not prepared to give in their adhesion to Mr. Crawford, for the professed object of sustaining the republicanism party, because they know the conduct of the cabal at Washington is despised by three-fourths of the republicans in the Union. The panders of the Secretary of the Treasury, by proclaiming all their opponents federalists and Tories, have excited the indignation and contempt of every liberal and intelligent republican in the nation.—Louisville Adv.

[FABLES FOR CHILDREN.

As a certain honorable gentleman has for some years past kept up a constant crowing about his neighbours affairs, both public and private, and saddled the nation with many thousands of dollars in answering his "calls," I presume he can have no objection to a few queries relative to his mode of transacting business—more especially as he has magnanimously devoted so much of his time to prying into the minutest concerns of other public officers, and edified the people with a detail of their movements, from the messenger or clerk who has falsely and maliciously neglected his duty to attend a cock-fight, to the captain or commodore who has wasted his precious time at a New York horse race.

In the first place, therefore, did not this modern Cato apply for the pension of a certain poor widow residing in the state of Tennessee; and did he not receive an official letter, under the date of January 11th, 1820, stating, that her pension had been granted, and that it could "either be reported for payment to the agent at Nashville, on the 4th of March next, or be paid here, (Washington) on the production of a power of attorney to receive it?"

Did he not, for reasons which will appear in the sequel, obtain the power of attorney, accompanied with a letter from her friend, or agent, under the date of Feb. 23d, 1820?

Did he not, on the 1st of May thereafter, receive, and receipt for the money, although he knew she might have received it, through the regular channel, on the 4th of the preceding March?—And

Has he not iniquitously withheld it from her to this very day.

Did he not, when accused of the fact, at first find it convenient to 'disremember' the whole affair; but, on second thought, did he not state that the woman had applied to him a few days before he left home, (in November last) and that he had sent his son to her, offering to pay the money, on certain conditions, in order to have no noise about the business? And yet—

Did not her friend, or agent, in a letter of as late a date as the 18th of February last, and nearly 4 years after this honorable gentleman had received the money, state that she had heard nothing of either her pension certificate, or her pension?

Did he not also, say, or insinuate as an apology for his want of recollection, that he had not been in the habit of meddling with these 'troublesome cases,' (videlicet, receiving other people's money, and forgetting to pay it,) and that this was the only one in which he had been engaged? And yet—

Shall I not, in my second set of queries, be able to jog his memory in relation to another of these "troublesome cases," in which he was not only concerned, but where he has also forgotten to pay over the money to this very day?

And lastly, cannot any one, having the proper authority to call for official documents from the offices of the 2d and 3d Auditors of the Treasury Department, obtain a satisfactory answer, to many of my queries?

The heartless and insulting manner in which this honorable gentleman is said repeatedly and unnecessarily to have attacked the character and conduct, and to have wounded the feelings of others, about whom the falsehood, slander, malice, or revenge, of his midnight informers could furnish the slightest breath of suspicion, must be my apology, to the public, for submitting my queries in so plain a form. To him none can be due, and none will be offered.

ONE OF THE PEOPLE.
Wash. Rep.

We ask the attention of our readers to the following remarks of Lord Nugent, as something extremely novel.

From the Nat. Intelligencer, March 26.

United States and Great Britain.
In the House of Commons, the 17th ult. a long speech was delivered by Lord Nugent, on the conduct of his Majesty's Ministers towards Spain, and condemning, in the strongest terms, their calm submission to the French blockade of Cadiz, and the rude and provoking manner of some of the French boarding officers. He also condemned the withdrawal of Sir William A'Court from his post, and pointed out, in glowing colors, the degradation to which the English government had been lowered. He then broke out in the following language.

"Let the House hear the fact, and judge. Mr. Appleton, the American charge d'affaires at Cadiz, was preparing a protest to the Duke d'Angoulême, in the matter of certain American vessels detained at Cadiz. Two English captains of merchant ships, who had entered Cadiz and taken in their cargoes prior to the French blockade being declared—who were lying in the harbor to the ruin of their owners, and saw no means of application, nor British authorities to apply to—these captains went to Mr. Appleton, the American minister, and intreated, as a favor, that he would have the goodness to include their names in the protest. Here then, was the British flag asking protection from the Americans against the French. As for the Americans, they were our brothers in origin and in feeling. He trusted that he would always think of them as he thought of them now—with the warmest interest and admiration. He hoped, at some period, to see England and America linked in the bonds of the closest interest and amity forming a rallying point for the rights and liberties of the world; and he trusted that the time at which he should behold this, was not very far distant; but he might be allowed to feel some jealousy, some slight humiliation, at seeing the interest of the British flag abandoned by the British minister, and seeking, though protection from America, yet still, protection from a foreign power. For the effect of this inglorious policy, as regarded England, we need now look only at the Spanish ports, and see all the commerce of the country under the control and in the hands of France. French vessels, he was informed, were admitted duty free into every port of Spain, while heavy duties were still levied upon the ships of Great Britain."

American Colonization Society.
We are informed that a vessel will probably sail, in the course of a few days, for the African Colony; and that efforts are making to obtain supplies for that infant settlement. The Colonists cannot live without aid, for some time to come, from this country. The funds of the Colonization Society have been exhausted, in a recent effort to increase the number of emigrants: and it is hoped that the friends of this Institution will not leave those who have confided in their liberality, to perish by hunger, or be compelled to abandon a spot the most advantageous, fairly obtained and nobly defended. It is certain, that the great enterprise in which the Colonization Society is enlisted, can never be prosecuted so as to effect any very important results, until its claims are more deeply and extensively felt: until means are furnished for more vigorous operation. The several Auxiliary Societies, especially those in this District, are earnestly requested to consider the demands of the present crisis. A few articles of clothing or provisions, would, at this time, prove of incalculable value to the colony. They should be immediately collected, for the opportunity by which they may be sent, will soon be past. What greater inhumanity in the universe, than to transport men, women and children, to an uncultivated land of barbarians, and leave them without the means of subsistence? Oh, that some voice, loud as Heaven's thunder, would plead the cause of an institution criminally and shamefully neglected—penetrate with a sense of its negligence and inattention to a matter of infinite concern, the heart of this nation, and obtain for the object which the Colonization Society proposes to accomplish, that generous and universal patronage which is demanded by its unequalled importance! The Church—the State Legislatures—Congress—all—are dead on a subject, which if seen and regarded in all its characters of interest and greatness, would excite, to trembling, every patriotic and Christian mind. Let the friends of the Colonization Society remember, that their kindly expressed approbation is not what is just now wanted, but their money, not long speeches, and good wishes but money. The Colonization Society is accused of imbecility—it has no money. You must give the philosopher a place to stand on, and a lever, if you wish him to move the world.

CONGRESSIONAL.

The following observations were made in the senate of the United States, by Mr. KING, of New York, on Thursday last, on the question of inserting, in the General appropriation Bill, an item of 2,000 dollars, for compensation to an Agent to arrange the testimony, &c. in support of the claims of our citizens, under the first article of the Treaty of Ghent:

Mr. KING, of New York, observed, that the gentleman from Delaware having inquired by what authority the proposed Agent was appointed, and what is the nature of the appointment, he would state the opinion which he entertained on the subject. The Agency in question having no connexion with the legislature, or the judiciary, he conceived it to be wholly of an executive character, proceeding from, and having relation to the executive power, which, by the constitution, is vested in the President of the United States. The President is authorized to nominate, and, by the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint ambassadors, judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not, by the constitution, otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. The enumerated officers are created by the constitution; various other officers of the United States are provided for by law. Executive services which, from time to time, may be requisite, and concerning which no law has made provision, from the beginning, have been performed by agents, appointed by the President alone. Should such appointments be made unnecessarily, and in making them, it should be believed by the Congress that the executive power is employed corruptly, or improvidently, they will check such appointments by refusing to appropriate money to defray the expenses of them. Congress, in exercising such check, will act with the discretion and caution that the occasion calls for, manifesting the consideration and confidence which harmony between the co-ordinate departments of the government requires.

Thus, soon after General Washington became President, Baron Steuben was sent to General Haldern, the Governor and Commander in Chief of Canada, to ascertain whether he was authorized and prepared to deliver the northern posts, pursuant to the treaty of peace; and upon General Haldern's declining to deliver them, Mr. Gouverneur Morris, then in Europe, on his private business, was authorized by the President, Gen. Washington, to proceed from France to England, to inquire of the English ministry whether orders had been, or would be sent to the Commander in Chief in Canada to evacuate the American posts, according to treaty.—The Baron Steuben and Mr. G. Morris were executive agents on these occasions. Soon after the commencement of the war between France and Great Britain, the November Order of Council was issued in England, by which their armed vessels were instructed to detain, and send into port for adjudication, all American vessels employed in a trade which they were not permitted to carry on in peace; and the British ships of war detained American ships, and impressed their seamen, in the West India seas. These proceedings induced President Washington to send Mr. Higginson, of Boston, to the West Indies as an Agent, to visit the British islands, and to obtain from the Courts of Admiralty copies of the decrees of condemnation of American vessels and cargoes, and to send these to the United States or to London. About the same time, Captain Talbot, of the Navy of the United States, was sent by General Washington an Agent to the West Indies, to assist and recover the American seamen impressed into the British service. Capt. Talbot proceeded to Jamaica, and other English islands, and afforded great assistance and protection to impressed American seamen.

Mr. Samuel Bayard was contemporaneously sent by General Washington as an Agent to England, to enter, in the High Court of Admiralty, appeals from the colonial Admiralty Courts, to engage proctors to assist him, and to place in their hands the colonial decrees of condemnation of American vessels and cargoes. All of these agencies were derived from mere executive appointments; they were faithfully executed, and contributed much to protect the rights, and to secure the property, of our countrymen.

After the treaty with Great Britain, of 1794, two sets of Commissioners met in America. One, concerning the River St. Croix, assembled at Halifax; another, concerning debts convened at Philadelphia. A third set of Commissioners met at London. Concerning the debts, an Agent was authorized by law to be appointed by the President and Senate, to be employed before the Philadelphia commission. Concerning the River St. Croix, an Agent was appointed either by the President of the United States, or by the state of Massachusetts, that state being concerned in the settlement of this boundary. In respect to the London commission, three successive Agents were appointed by the President—the first, Mr. Bayard, by President Washington; the second, Mr. Samuel Cabot by General Washington, or by his successor, Mr. Adams; the third, Mr. Erving, who superseded Mr. Cabot, by President Jefferson. These appointments, except the Agent before the Philadelphia commission, were not made in pursuance of any law, but considered as Executive Agencies, appointed and employed by the Executive alone.

Under Mr. Jefferson, or his successors, Mr. Poinsett, in South America, Mr. B. Provost in Peru, Messrs. Rodney, Bland, and Brackenridge, at Buenos Ayres, Mr.

Baptiste Irvine at Caracas, Mr. Tod in Columbia, and Mr. Robinson in Mexico, have been employed as Executive Agents, all being appointed by the Executive alone, no law, creating their respective employment, having been made. Each and all these Agents have been paid out of the Treasury of the United States; appropriations for which, must, from time to time have been made.

Whether these Agencies have been carried further than they ought to have been, Mr. K. could give no information; but no opposition is recollected to have been made to them. Within suitable limits, the power of the Executive to employ agents to obtain information, with which his office requires he should be furnished, will hardly be doubted; and the practice is the usage of all other nations, and has been that of the United States from the beginning, and under all the Presidents. The present agency is thought to be important, and useful to the states whose citizens lost their slaves; and, according to former precedents, this agency is well justified; it is deemed requisite by the Secretary of State, to whose Department the subject belongs; it has received the approbation of the American Commissioner and Arbitrator; and as the average value of the lost slaves, the most important preliminary point, yet remains to be determined, the assistance of the Agent continues to be useful, if not absolutely necessary. Should the Agent be discontinued the session of the Commissioners will be prolonged, and its expense thereby enlarged; so that the continuance of the Agency will not only be of general utility, but a measure of positive economy.

A bill was on the 30th inst. reported to reorganize and fix the Naval Peace establishment of the United States. The first section of the bill provides as follows:

"That the Naval Establishment of the United States shall consist of one Vice Admiral, two Rear Admirals, twenty-eight Captains, twenty-five Masters Commandant, one hundred and forty-nine Lieutenants, fifty-one Sub-Lieutenants, ten Chaplains, forty Surgeons, fifty-six Surgeons' Mates, forty Purser, nineteen Sailing Masters, six Second Masters four hundred Masters Mates & Midshipmen, twenty-six Boatswains, twenty-six Gunners, sixteen Carpenters, sixteen Sailmakers together with such numbers of petty officers, seamen, ordinary seamen, and boys, as the public exigencies, may require, to be determined and assigned to the different navy yards, stations, and vessels in the Navy, under the direction of the President of the United States—Provided, however, that the President may increase the number of officers in all the grades, except the two first before enumerated, not exceeding one-third of the number annexed to each grade."

Having this occasion to mention the Navy, brings to mind that the officers of the Navy, and their friends, are sometimes its worst enemies. We refer to the proneness to make public the particulars of those collisions which arise in the course of service, which there is a prescribed mode of adjusting by means of regularly constituted tribunals.—Appeals from those decisions to the tribunal of the public, can only have the effect to excite prejudice against the navy; and where the decision is favorable to an officer who has been tried, there seems to be a peculiar impropriety in bringing the whole matter before the public, to be tried over again. A CARD.—GENTLEMEN: As various, and in some instances contradictory reports are circulated in the public prints, relative to an extraordinary cure, effected in the person of one of the members of my congregation, calculated to make an erroneous impression on the minds of persons at a distance, I have considered it a deference due to the public from me; as Pastor of the congregation, to give a brief and correct statement of the occurrence.

The simple fact is this—Mrs. Ann Mattingly who has been, for the six years last past, afflicted with a most painful internal disease, which resisted the power of medicine, and baffled the skill of the physician, was, at an early hour on Wednesday morning, the 10th instant, after receiving holy communion, instantaneously healed, and restored to perfect health, which she has continued to enjoy since, to this date. She resides with her brother, Capt. Carberry, the Mayor of this city. A circumstantial narration of this extraordinary occurrence, properly authenticated, will be published shortly.

MR. BAPTIST IRVINE.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Laguya to his friend in Baltimore, dated 3d March, received by the Abarilla.

"B. IRVINE arrived here four days ago from Curacao after a confinement of sixteen months. He was liberated by a direct order from the king of Holland, without trial, inasmuch as he had not directly nor indirectly violated any laws of Holland, consequently his confinement has been illegal on the part of the governor & officers of the island of Curacao; and the several petitions he made during his captivity have been unjustly detained by the government of the island from personal fear of exposing themselves to the displeasure of the sovereign and the dread of penalties which must eventually accrue to the benefit of Mr. I. who I presume will seek redress for his grievances from the Dutch government through the government of the United States."

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

Mr. GRAHAM,
The subjoined elegant extract taken from a review of a metaphysical production which appeared to be not a little tinctured with atheistical sentiments, though dictated by a mind stored with proud science, is so appropriate to the past, present and future as regards the unhappy state of Europe generally in which we may possibly be involved at some distant period of time, that you will gratify at least one of your readers by gracing the columns of your paper with it.

"We have selected for our motto, the memorable words of the poet—'presume not God to scan!' It is not beyond the range of possibility, nay, of probability, that a licentious indulgence in the fruit of that tree of knowledge, which once before—brought death into the world, & all our woe, May yet again precipitate man from his Eden of civilization and science into the gulph of barbarism and ignorance! All extremes, like great and heavy bodies, are ended with potent principles of approximation. Tyranny, under our own eyes, has risen, phoenix like, and clapped its gloomy wings over the ashes of Liberty consumed by her own excessive fires. Where is the bright and too often impious intellect of Greece? A crescent only of her former orb of light remains; the badge of degradation and emblem of her mental night! Where is the thunder of the Roman senate? Changed to a mummery over heads and crosses!—Even in this country, the Press, that pride of art, that palladium of freedom, that universal organ of thought, whose voice is heard wherever earth extends, may yet prove the engine of its own destruction! Good and evil are its products; and should the latter come to predominate, the event may readily be imagined.

In the mean time, we conceive it to be the duty of the — profession and particularly its writers not only to stand aloof from the ranks of impiety but to raise their voice in support of religion and virtue.

FOR THE EASTON GAZETTE.

Mr. GRAHAM,
I recollect seeing several valuable publications in the American Farmer a few weeks past, relative to that noble and useful animal, the horse, describing the best and most approved forms for saddle, harness, the turf, &c. in one of the publications alluded to above is inserted Virgil's beautiful description of the War Horse, and 'The fiery courser, when he hears from far, The sprightly trumpets and the shouts of war.'

I was led to reflect with astonishment that this celebrated poet who lived and wrote his Georgicks more than 1800 years ago, should have acquired such ample knowledge of this noble animal.

Walsb in his life of Virgil, relates that he gained the acquaintance of the master of the horse to Octavius, and cured a great many diseases of horses by methods they had never heard of, &c. he also examined a very fine colt that promised great strength and speed which had been presented to Octavius, and assured them that he came of a faulty mare and would prove a jade: Upon trial it was found as he had predicted.

I was thinking that some of our Dandies will suppose that this great poet and astronomer, who had the ear and friendship of Octavius and all the great Generals and Statesmen of Rome, at whose entrance into the theatre upwards of 3,000 persons have rose to do him honour, was degrading himself by administering to the necessities and studying the properties of this useful and noble animal—These gentry, I dare say, consider it much more honourable to ride some half dozen of them to death, destroy their constitution, inflict lameness, broken-wind, &c. and then turn them over to ignorant brutal grooms to torture and destroy; but I hope since some of the most respectable and useful citizens of our state are turning their attention to the rearing and breeding of fine horses, it will become a little more fashionable than it has heretofore been and do not despair seeing in a few years, even our Country Dandies (for I believe the City Dandies commonly walk) condescend to examine the form, qualities, pedigree and performance of a horse before they purchase, and after paying their money for him will be induced by fashion, if not humanity, to treat him at least, with that tenderness to which his noble, useful and generous qualities entitle him.

I think most of your readers will be pleased with the description which Virgil gives of the kind of horse we should breed from, and it is a little remarkable that in two or three different places he cautions his countrymen against breeding from old horses exhausted by labour and years, had the breeders of horses generally attended to this caution, we should not have among us so many young horses with hollow eyes, weak and tottering knees, delicate constitutions and all the marks of premature old age.

"The colt, that for a station is designed, By sure presages shows his generous kind, Of able body, sound of limb and wind, Upright he walks on pasterns firm & straight, His motions easy, prancing in his gait, The first to lead the way, to tempt the flood, To pass the bridge unknown nor fear the trembling wood;

Dauntless at empty noises: lofty necked, Sharp headed, barrel-bellied, broadly backed, Brawny his chest and deep his colour grey, For beauty dappled or the brightest bay; Faint white & dun will scarce the rearing pay."

Again,
"But worn with years, when dire diseases come, Then hide his not ignoble age at home; In peace 't enjoy his former palms and pains; And gratefully be kind to his remains. For when his blood no youthful spirits move, He languishes and labours in his love," &c.

Again,
"To choose a youthful steed with courage fired, To breed him, break him, back him; are required

Experienced masters; and in sundry ways, Their labours equal, and alike their praise. But once again the battered horse beware, The weak old stallion will deceive thy care, Though famous in his youth for force and speed
Or was of Argos or Eperian breed, Or did from Neptune's race: or from himself proceed."

EASTON, Md.

SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 10.

The sketch of the Speech of the Hon. Rufus King, which we give to-day, is one of those specimens of accurate knowledge of events, and irresistible statements, which that profound and accomplished statesman often presents to sustain his opinions and views on subjects brought for deliberation before the Senate. It is not wonderful that it should have carried a great majority with him—He is a fountain of much wisdom, at which the politicians of the day might refresh themselves, if they could condescend to lay aside the pride of party and learn from the experience of one of the wisest and most venerated of the fathers of the Federal Constitution.

AMERICAN FARMER.

The Editors of newspapers in the State of Delaware, and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, would probably render to their agricultural readers, an acceptable service, by copying the first article in this paper on MARL. We embrace this opportunity to put another question to their consideration, and leave the decision cheerfully to their justice and liberality. Almost every paper in this state copies, without loss of time, our account of the current prices of country produce—by thus giving the very item most acceptable to their country readers, they of course diminish the demand for the Farmer, and the number of its subscribers. These prices are collected each week with great care, labour, and consumption of time. If, then, they appropriate to their own use, that very portion of our labours, which, while it is most laborious, most emphatically falls within the range of an Agricultural Journal, is it unreasonable to ask that they should copy the next square only, giving our table of contents—that their readers may see that there is something useful in our journal, besides what they invariably cull out of it? We submit it to their good feelings and sense of what is fair and right.—Amer. Farmer of April 2.

So far as the above suggestions relate to this paper, we frankly state that we have often, though not always, copied the prices current of country produce from the American Farmer, and we did this without the least suspicion that we were at all acting injuriously towards the contents of that valuable and interesting paper, which we have again and again recommended to all our readers, not with the specious earnestness of courtesy, but from the sober and honest conviction, that the careful reading of the American Farmer for one year, is worth four dollars in intellectual gratification to any man who has understanding enough to comprehend it, and it is worth ten times as much in instruction to every agricultural man who will read attentively the information it contains.

What are commonly called prices current are not much confided in, because most persons put little credit in their exactness—we have no doubt from the zeal and industry of the editor of the American Farmer, blended with the prompt co-operation which we should suppose and hope every man would yield him in any branch of his laudable undertaking, that there would be as great accuracy in the American Farmer's Price Current as any price current can possess. As for ourselves we print most commonly from reports of actual sales brought by arrivals directly to this Town from Baltimore, at least three times a week, and sometimes oftener, all leaving Baltimore on different days; and we have therefore considered our own price current about as worthy of reliance as that of any paper in Maryland.

We will with pleasure insert the table of contents of the American Farmer and shall be happy if we can give it aid in any way which we think it richly deserves.

"The Grave Debate, the tart reply."

As it is impossible for weekly country papers to give all of a great debate in Congress, we must endeavour to supply that deficiency, on important occasions, by a good synopsis as we can, aided by our own remarks. The late debate in the Senate of the United States, on a motion to postpone indefinitely all the projects to alter the constitution in relation to the election of President and Vice-President, will attract the attention of every man, as it gives us the best evidence of the state of feeling, from which we argue the nature of designs, among those who have been prominent men in bringing about the late Congressional Caucus, which has been so much, and so deservedly, the theme of general discussion.

It seems that Mr. King from New York (whose speech is not at all reported, but to whom some few remarks are ascribed) is stated to have introduced into his speech the topic of the late Congressional Caucus, as demonstrative of a party's having adopted that course of proceeding, with a view of rendering it a permanent and established mode of electing, or at least designating the President of the United States; and if such is to be the case, and from appearances it seemed to be determined on, none of the proposed alterations of the constitution, then before the Senate, would be of any service, and he therefore thought it expedient to postpone them, both to save time and to wait for another occasion when Congress, being less excited, would be better qualified to act upon the subject with more good temper and discretion.

Mr. King also expressed himself strongly against the nature of a Congressional Caucus, and said, he feared he saw in it a power, neither actually nor constructively given by the constitution, which was calculated to set at defiance both the constitution and the people.—This is the substance of what is attributed to Mr. King, and in these observations he was fully sustained by Mr. Hayne of South Carolina. This introduction of the Caucus into view, produced great warmth of feeling and acerbity of reply in which honourable Senators clearly shewed that they were more excited by a reference to what they had done in Caucus, than by any bearings of the proposed constitutional amendments.

The great point in contest was, whether Mr. King was right in speaking of the Caucus at all.—Now for our part, if all men will view this question as calmly as we do, we can see the smallest objection to the introduction of the Congressional Caucus and its proceedings into a debate upon the subject of constitutional amendments in relation to the election of a President and Vice-President of the United States. The Caucus is a proceeding defended by its friends upon the ground of long established usage and great utility in promoting party union—if then the Caucus, is to be considered as an established proceeding in the election of a Chief Magistrate as its friends claim for it, is it not right, is it not absolutely necessary to take it into view when about considering amendments to the constitution upon that very matter? As an established usage it has all the effect of law, and what would amendments avail in opposition to consecrated usage? In commencing the use of a system, however objectionable, the feeling of opposition to it is not so strong at first as it becomes at last, when it is found to have acquired the force and to have produced the habit of a law—nor was it worthy of the same grave notice; for being considered of an ephemeral character at first, it was reasonable, at least it was kind, to believe, that it would pass off with the excitement that gave it birth, and that all would return to the direction of the written constitution. But when the excitement has passed away, and the practice is pursued, defended and of right claimed as a means of doing that which the constitution of the country has prescribed the mode of doing, does it not assume the ground and force of constitution, and does it not anticipate and pre-arrange that which the constitution intended to have arranged in another way? All that is done by the constitutional arrangement, after the determination of the Caucus, is merely formal, nothing substantial—it is a mere ratification of the decrees of the Caucus.—If then the Caucus substitutes itself in the place of the constitution, how is it possible to entertain deliberations upon amendments to the constitution touching this very point, without taking into view the effect and proceedings of the Congressional Caucus? If too the power and the influence of the caucus must inevitably force themselves into notice, can it be wrong to utter that which you are thus obliged to think of?

The friends of the Caucus say it is a thing right in itself and commendable—can it be wrong to introduce a thing of such fair character into debate? One of its friends called it a fire-brand when thrown into the Senate—who forged and heated the material? Others of them said, it was mortifying and humiliating to introduce the name of the caucus into the Senate—mortifying and humiliating to whom? to the Senate? certainly not—it might have been so to those of the senate who were of the caucus, for it was a severe tribunal to be arraigned before.—But if the Caucus is that justifiable and excellent measure that its friends represent it to be, we should have thought that they would rather have thanked Mr. King for bringing it before them, that they might make its virtues and its usefulness, its propriety and even its legality apparent to all; but instead of that, they are fretted to madness, they complain, they almost abuse the aged and venerable father for his warning voice against a political monster that will one day, if not checked, devour the constitution of the country. General Smith of Maryland, who seems to be now standing upon a scanty isthmus of former fame, undertakes to speak of his mortification and to defend the Caucus even in the very teeth of the expressed wishes of the people of Maryland against it, conveyed through a channel as immediately connected with, and more intimate, emanating from the People than himself; and with a pert magnanimity unfolds his reasons for devotion to the Caucus and attempts to pry into the motives of the objections of others.—He erects himself into a conservator of the dignity of the Senate, & avows his admiration for the Caucus because it will keep his party in power. A general credence has not always accompanied the statements of the General upon the Senate floor, but in this last declaration it may be safely, and no doubt will be universally accorded. As the General seems to be thus growing in candour, we may anticipate a most luminous and frank exposition upon the subject of the report of the state and condition of the United States Bank which has been some time since laid before Congress. The angry character of this debate need not then be ascribed to Mr. King who had certainly most justifiable grounds for his allusions to the Caucus; it depended upon others with what temper they would undertake to discuss their own acts. The extreme sensibility manifested, we rather ascribe to the deserted condition in which the friends of the caucus found themselves placed by their former party coadjutors, and the unwillingness they felt to have the subject discussed before the world by such able expounders and champions of the constitution as Mr. King and others.—The mortification was at the alarm produced lest the caucus should not succeed, when the caucus gentlemen would awake from their dream of ambition and find themselves in a discarded minority. Such a condition was calculated to inspire desperation, and desperation always vents itself in assumed bravadoing or groundless crimination.

THOMAS H. WILKINSON, has been appointed an associate Judge of the third Judicial District, vice R. Ridgely, deceased.

The Trustees of the Maryland Agricultural Society for the Eastern Shore met on Thursday the 8th inst. at Plimhimmon.—They formed a quorum at an early hour, though the members had to assemble from distances of ten to eighteen miles.—They spent a good day; a real business day.

The Cattle Show was fixed to be held at Easton on the first Thursday, Friday and Saturday of November next.—The objects for competition and reward, were selected and settled,—and referred to a committee to graduate the scale of premiums, fill the detail and report at the next meeting. We have the pleasure to inform the ladies that among the variety of articles chosen for the display of their ingenuity, skill and taste there will be six premiums for Butter, and four for Hearth-Rugs.—Among the prominent transactions of the day, Robert Banning, Esq. was unanimously elected a Member of the Board to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Dr. Robert Moore.—At a late hour the Trustees closed their sitting, and adjourned, to re-assemble at an early day in May, at the seat of his Excellency, Samuel Stevens, Jr.

Another Jury Ballot for President.
We stated the other day the vote of the Grand Jury of Baltimore county on the Presidential question, which, we believe, has gone the rounds of the newspapers. This morning the Petit Jury of the county, now in session at the court house, followed the example, and went into an election for President of the United States.—On counting the votes the result was as follows:—

For JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, 15
ANDREW JACKSON, 7
WM. H. CRAWFORD, 1
One member declined voting.

STATE OF PRESSES IN VIRGINIA.
In Virginia there are 35 newspapers. Of these, Mr. Crawford has 3—Mr. Adams 6—Mr. Clay 2—Gen Jackson 1.

The rest are equivocal, save one; the editor of which says his press is in favor of Mr. Crawford, but that he himself is in favor of Mr. Adams.

ERROR CORRECTED.

A very important mistake occurred in the Citizen of last week, of which the reader will please to take notice. Instead of General Wm. Goldsborough, as stated in our last, General Samuel Ringgold of Washington county is the candidate for Elector in this district, favorable to the pretensions of Mr. Clay as President of the United States.

glecting or refusing to attend any of said meet-

BY THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES,

FEBRUARY 14, 1824.

Whereas, it appears on the Pension List, furnished by the Treasurer, that there is a considerable sum of money lying in the Treasury appropriated to the payment of Invalid Pensioners, which has not been demanded as far back as eight or ten years. And Whereas, it is presumed that many or all the individuals interested in said appropriations, not demanded
within the last two years, are dead, and it appearing desirable that some period should be prescribed for all future demands on the Treasury of a similar nature, and that the surplus
now remaining in the Treasury should be disposed of for the advantage of the state—Therefore Resolved, That all monies heretofore appropriated for the payment of the Pensioners and
not demanded within the last two years, shall revert to the state, subject to the disposition of the legislature, and that all appropriations hereafter to be made for a similar object, shall be demanded within eighteen months thereafter under the penalty of a forfeiture of said pension; provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to debar
any pensioner, or his heirs from the payment of any pension heretofore granted, if said pen-
sioner or his heirs shall demand the same legally authenticated within twelve months after
the passage of this resolution; and provided also, that it shall be the duty of the Treasurer
to have this preamble and resolution published in such newspapers as the Executive shall
deem expedient for the information of those concerned, and the names of all persons affected
by this resolution.

The subscriber offers for sale the Farm called

"WARD'S GIFT"

beautifully situated within two miles
of Centreville, and immediately on the road and adjoining two Grist Mills; it contains
about four hundred and ninety four acres of
land, with a plenty of timber and fire wood.
This farm offers many advantages rarely to be
met with, viz.—there runs quite through the
farm a large meadow, which with little labour
might be made to produce a large quantity of
Timothy and Herd Grass; and through which
there runs an inexhaustible stream of water.
The soil is well adapted to the growth of corn,
wheat, clover and tobacco; it is elevated, yet
level, and requires but very little ditching.
The improvements are a two story BRICK
DWELLING HOUSE, near which there is a
brick well of excellent water, Kitchen, Quar-
ter, Corn House, a tolerable good Stable, and
the frame of a large Barn, out of which might
be made a very commodious farm house, also
a very fine apple and peach orchard, with well
selected fruit.

It is unnecessary to say any thing further,
as I presume those that are disposed to purchase will view the premises, which will be
shown by Mr. H. Hardcastle, Jr. living on the farm. For terms, which will be made very accommodating, apply to the subscriber, near Easton,

ments on it are good—I consider it unnecessary to enter into a detail of particulars, as I presume those who wish to purchase will view
it; for terms apply to the subscriber.

MR. SKINNER,

I find marl is becoming to be a subject of great inquiry, and is very generally growing upon the attention of the agricultural world. There is nothing which merits its attention more, for in every instance where it has been applied it has been considered the most successful of all manures. There was a writer in your paper (Mr. Ruffin) who gave us one of the most correct accounts of the operation of marl on lands that I have ever seen and further views from the same pen would still lay the agricultural interest under greater obligations to him. What Mr. Ruffin there asserts of marl correcting the acid quality in lands has been found to be true by all who have used it; and besides, he might add, that it is a great cleanser of lands, which manures are generally not—it certainly destroys all the noxious growth which puts up in acid land, oftentimes to the great injury of the crop; and to the sheep sorrell it is certain destruction.

All the marl I have seen in Maryland is shell marl, which lies in large beds or strata, and has been generally found near the margin of the banks of rivers and creeks—this, I presume, is because it has cost less labour to find it there than elsewhere; but I have no doubt that the same strata can be found in the interior, if it was diligently searched for. They are generally from three to six feet under the surface, and present considerable variety in appearance. Some are composed of common oyster shells alone, which are very different from what are called shell banks—others are composed of what are commonly called clam shells—others of clam shells, mussel shells, and a great variety of scolloped shells—others of shells so decomposed that it is difficult to class them, and these last are often intermixed and discoloured with a sort of ferruginous substance—others again present you shells completely broken down to lime intermixed with sand, which of itself makes a pretty strong cement; and indeed the varieties are not only numerous and singular, but often very beautiful. The comparative effects of these different kinds of marl have not been ascertained, as they are generally different on different farms but all agree who have used them that the first year's product in wheat is increased to more than half as much more, but that the second crop, from one marling, is often more than double than less than double—this is easily accounted for upon the supposition that the marl does not become so well incorporated with the earth upon the first as upon the second tillage—but if the marl was strewed on fallow land, and two extra harrowings were given it after strewing, there can be little doubt but the incorporation would take place, and the product be improved. I find my marl acts better upon wheat succeeding my corn, than upon naked fallow, where the marl was spread on both the same year; and I account for this result, so different from what is experienced from all other manures, from the frequent harrowings I gave my corn during its cultivation; for I cultivate corn principally with the harrow, as being the cheapest, most expeditious, and best implement, and my lands are stiff soil.

None but those who have been eye witnesses to the effects of marl can believe them—they are truly wonderful—old worn out clay soils, that were literally good for nothing, have been regenerated by marl alone, and present the appearance of our best and native rich lands—and there seems to be no end to the improvement—under one marling the product increases at each cultivation and a second marling is followed by results proportionable to the first. Such is the conviction here as to the effects of marl, and the conviction arises from practical experience, that the discovery of a marl bank is supposed to double the value of the farm.

My principal object in making you this communication, is to endeavour to elicit Mr. Ruffin's opinion upon this subject, whose experience, observation, and reasoning are far more satisfactory and useful than any thing I have ever met with. AGRESTIS

VIRGINIA.

We have heretofore published the proceedings of a meeting of the citizens of Fredericksburg, Va. nominating JOHN QUINCY ADAMS for the Presidency. We are now enabled to lay before our readers the address and circular of the committee appointed by that meeting, and we recommend an attentive perusal of them.—Pat.

ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE OF VIRGINIA.

In discharging the duties enjoined upon them by the meeting held in Fredericksburg on the 13th March, the undersigned committee feel themselves called on to explain to their fellow citizens, the motives and views which actuate them in the measures resolved on by that meeting. This explanation seems to be the more necessary, as their object is in direct opposition to the nominations recently made by a large portion of the members of our State Legislature, and the subsequent measures taken, to give effect to those nominations. We are aware that the practice of legislative caucus nomination is odious, the filling of which of right belongs to the people has the sanction of custom in Virginia; and the supine acquiescence of the people has given it a weight and influence, that in its real character it by no means merits. We disclaim, distinctly, any intention of impeaching the motives of those of our fellow citizens who advocate or submit to this practice; but, by whatever specious pretexts of expediency or necessity, it may have been originally resorted to, or whatever weight it may have obtained by the long suffering and tame submission of those on whom it operates, we cannot but view its continuance as fraught with the most serious evils. It is not the least of these evils, that in making those nominations our representatives go beyond the pale of their duty—neglect the legitimate objects for which they were elected—and take upon themselves a power, that you have not delegated to them, and which the constitution never intended they should exercise. Let it not be said that in making those nominations, they act not as legislators, but as private citizens. The sophism is too flimsy to require exposure and refutation and has no weight with any thinking man who is not willing to be deceived.—

Its influence upon the political character of a people, cannot be otherwise than deleterious. Its obvious effect is to forestall all public opinion—to prevent free discussion and investigation—to embarrass the exercise of the elective franchise—to beget an indifference and contempt for the most valuable political rights and privileges;—and it may be made the means of elevating to the highest offices, individuals of inferior worth; who would not be the choice of the people if left to their free unbiased will.

The considerations of party ascendancy and state influence, by which the friends of the late caucus nomination endeavour to enforce them upon our acceptance, we consider as no less objectionable than the nominations themselves. We are instructed, in the parting admonition of our political father, the truth of which is confirmed by our own experience, to view with distrust not only those who use such arguments, but the cause in which they are used.

Deeply impressed with the importance of the above considerations, we feel ourselves not only warranted, but imperiously called upon by duty to ourselves, our countrymen, and our posterity, to spread before the world our solemn protest against the caucus system, and to use all honorable and practicable means within our power, to prevent its continuance.

We readily admit that the reasons on which we rely for rejecting and denouncing the caucus system, will not bear us out in rejecting the late caucus nomination. For that, however, we will also endeavor to assign good and sufficient reasons.

We have not been careless observers of the events of our time. We have contemplated with a proper national pride the rising greatness of the several distinguished individuals who now stand before the nation as candidates, for the highest office in our government. They are men whose high honor, patriotism, moral worth and splendid talents, would shed lustre on any age or country. They are men whose public services entitle them to their country's gratitude, and whom she delights to honor. But the office of President requires qualifications which cannot be possessed by all in an equal degree, and which indeed will seldom be found united in the same individual. It calls for talents of the first order, united to long experience in the affairs of nations. Of all the candidates, although each is in many respects highly meritorious, JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, in our opinion, possesses more of the requisite qualifications for that exalted station, than any other; and is by longer probation in the various subordinate posts in the government, best entitled to claim this honorable reward. He was born and educated among a people who stood foremost in the work of the revolution, and who have always been, except on one dark and mysterious day of their history, distinguished for their patriotism and attachment to our free institutions. Nearly thirty years of his life have been devoted, with short intervals, to the service of his country, either in employments abroad, in the most difficult and delicate trusts, which he has discharged with the utmost fidelity, or at home in the high councils of the nation, where his wisdom and efficiency have been acknowledged by all his coadjutors. He early received the most flattering and satisfactory testimonials of his merit, in the patronage and confidence of that profound judge of character, Washington. It is well known that he was held in high estimation by both Jefferson and Madison, the latter of whom charged him with some of our most important foreign negotiations where he rendered essential service to his country, and added much to his own already great reputation. So high was his standing at that time, as a diplomatist and statesman, that Mr. Monroe, when about to form his cabinet, the judicious selection of which has so greatly added to his own and his country's glory, called him from an honorable station abroad to fill the office which he now holds. That office is justly considered in point of importance, the second in the government.—Its close connexion with the first, as it regards foreign relations, is such as almost to identify them; and an experience of eight years in the subordinate office, is the best possible preparation for assuming the more responsible, but not more arduous duties of the higher one. How Mr. Adams has acquitted himself in his present station, the whole nation is ready to answer with an approving voice. It is sufficient to say, that the office of Secretary of State has been filled by a Jefferson, a Madison, and a Monroe; and that in Mr. Adams' hands, its dignity has not been diminished.

When we contemplate the political state of Europe, and consider the doctrines advanced by that league of crowned heads, blasphemously styled the Holy Alliance, and witness the detestable means by which those doctrines are enforced—we cannot look forward without serious concern to the part this country may be called upon to take for the preservation of its liberty and independence.—And in the crisis which the insidious aspect of European wars us to apprehend, it becomes doubly necessary that our destinies should be entrusted to a man well skilled in political relations and practices of foreign states, as well as devotedly attached to our free government. And in looking for these qualifications, we find them in none so eminently united as in John Quincy Adams.

It is admitted that Mr. Adams' literary attainments, and his talents as an orator and a writer, are of the highest order. His speeches and reports in the Senate—his diplomatic correspondence with our own government and with foreign Ministers—and his reports as Secretary of state, are before the world; and are universally admired as specimens of profound and accurate investigation, logical reasoning and fine style.

But it is not only for the qualities that constitute him an accomplished scholar, orator and statesman, that Mr. Adams claims our regard. In all the relations of domestic life his conduct is most exemplary. His worst enemies have never even attempted to fix a stigma upon his private character.

But it is urged by the opponents of Mr. A. that he was once a Federalist, and ought not therefore, to receive the confidence of republicans. That he is from a Northern State, and ought not therefore to receive the support of the Southern people. We view these arguments as altogether unworthy of consideration, and as reflecting discredit on the cause that employs them. If the objection to Mr. A. be true that he was once a Federalist, the objection applies with equal if not stronger force, to one at least of his prominent competitors. But the federal party has ceased to exist, as a party. The partition walls have been removed—and it may now be said with much more truth than when first spoken by Mr. Jefferson, 'we are all federalists, we are all republicans.' We view Mr. Adams only as an AMERICAN. In all his prominent political acts, we have seen him relying firmly on the broad basis of the constitution, and this we take to be the truest test of Republicanism. From a statesman whose principles are thus well founded, and whose adherence to those principles, is tested by thirty years of public service, the people of the south have no good reason to fear danger to their rights or interests. The selection of a chief Magistrate of the Union is altogether a national affair, in which we ought to know no party but the AMERICAN PEOPLE, no state but the UNITED STATES.

Thus, whether we regard the mature age, the long and faithful services, the tried patriotism, distinguished talents, inflexible integrity, and great political experience of John Q. Adams; or, whether we contemplate him in the less imposing but more endearing character of son, husband, father and neighbour, we have been irresistibly drawn to the conclusion that he has 'the first and strongest claim to the confidence and support of his fellow-citizens, as the next president of the U. States.'

It can scarcely be necessary to offer to our fellow-citizens, many reasons for supporting for the office of Vice-President, a man who is already so prominently before the nation for the higher office, as General Jackson.

He is perhaps better known to the American people, than any other one of the candidates. The character of a gallant soldier and victorious commander, has in all ages been the most captivating to the popular mind. Thus while the silent and ceaseless labours of John Q. Adams, and his associates in the cabinet, are little known in the remote parts of the union, and no where duly appreciated, the name of Jackson and the victory of New Orleans, warms every heart and dwells on every tongue.

But the exclusively military character, is not that which should be preferred in their rulers, by a people whose essential interests consist in cultivating the arts of peace. And while we do not hesitate to prefer Mr. A. as possessing more fitting qualifications for the office of President, yet General Jackson's acknowledged talents, his high minded integrity and stern republicanism, entitle him to our confidence, and his distinguished military services command our gratitude. We would not that our beloved country should, by overlooking the merits and services of Gen. Jackson, perpetuate in his person the reproach, which history has cast on republics, of ingratitude to those who risk in their service 'life, fortune and sacred honor.' Gen. J. is fast descending in the vale of years.—Yet a little while and the ability further to serve his country, and the capacity of enjoying her honours, will alike have gone from him. While therefore, we cannot support him for the highest office in the Government, to the exclusion of a man better qualified to fill it, and by longer service better entitled to receive it, we will cheerfully support him for that which is only second in dignity.

Thus, fellow-citizens, we have endeavored to set before you as plainly and succinctly as possible, our reasons for being opposed to the Caucus system generally, and for coming before the public in support of our favourite Candidates in open opposition to the late Caucus nominations. Whether in doing so we shall stand justified before you, it is for you to judge. We are actuated by no sinister designs. Our object in the measures we have taken, is to enable ourselves, and those of our fellow citizens who think with us on this important subject, as Virginians, as citizens of the U. States, as freemen to enjoy the exercise of a valued franchise, guaranteed to us by the constitution and laws of our country, but of which we feel ourselves virtually deprived by the pervading and paralyzing influence of a political monster, unknown to, and at enmity with, the free principles of the constitution. We were aware that we should labour under great disadvantages—that we should encounter all the embarrassments and obstructions naturally growing out of the caucus system; and that we should have to contend with all the opposition from the friends of the other candidates, which their zeal or ingenuity could suggest. But we felt impelled to proceed by the dictates of duty, and did not hesitate to take the part therein exhibited to you, reckless of what might be felt, surmised or said by others. We come before you in the simple, unassuming character of plain citizens, unaccustomed to act in great political movements, but free from party prejudices, and uncontaminated by party intrigues. We bring to the aid of our cause no name of political notoriety. We possess not the pen of a ready writer to inflame your feelings and stir you up to an assertion of your rights—we speak merely 'the word of truth and soberness,' relying upon the goodness of the cause, and the good sense of our fellow citizens, for its final success.

CIRULAR.

Fredericksburg, March 1824.

Sir:—Believing you to be friendly to the election of John Quincy Adams, to the next Presidency, we deem no other apology necessary for addressing to you a copy of the proceedings of a meeting of his friends, held in this place on the 13th inst. and the exposition of our motives and views, in resolving on the steps we have taken, as contained in the accompanying address.

The extensive and well concerted measures taken by the late Legislative Caucus at Richmond, to ensure the success of the Crawford ticket, lay the friends of Mr. Adams, under the necessity, as it is certainly their duty, of taking prompt and effectual measures to ascertain their strength, and produce concert in the measures they may finally resolve on, to give effect to their votes at the approaching election. With these ends in view we invite your co-operation, and request you to use your influence in promoting public meetings of Mr. Adams' friends, and the appointment of corresponding committees. Until such committees are appointed we shall be glad to hear from you individually, and will thank you to communicate to us the names of such gentlemen in your county and district, as you know are friendly to Mr. Adams' election, and such other information as you may conceive will aid the cause.

We respectfully suggest to the meetings that may be held, the nomination of some respectable and influential citizen in their respective districts, to be placed upon the electoral ticket.

By order of the committee,
Yours respectfully,
PHILIP HARRISON, Chairman.
W. F. GRAY, Secretary.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.
The Middlesex Gazette of yesterday, printed at Middletown, Connecticut, contains the copy of a letter from a clerk of the Treasury Department, found on the public walk in that city on Friday last, addressed to the Collector of that port, on the importance of making a certain newspaper 'do its duty in taking an active and very decided stand in support of Mr. Crawford and Democracy,' and on another 'point of great importance, viz: to get a Senator of decided Democracy.' As this letter was accidentally found, lying upon the ground, it was thought proper to call a meeting of several gentlemen to advise what course to pursue. Accordingly a meeting was held on Saturday, and a committee appointed to report at another meeting on Monday. The following is the report of that committee, which was accepted and the resolution unanimously passed. The facts it discloses must, and will, attract universal attention in the United States.

'The committee, to whom was referred the expediency of retaining and publishing a certain letter found on the public walk, in this city, on the 26th inst.

Respectfully Report.—That the committee have been shown a copy of the letter referred to, which is as follows—

New London, Conn. Oct. 9, 1823.

Dear Sir—As you may have perceived, the Republican Advocate, of this place, has for some time, taken an active and very decided stand in support of Mr. Crawford and democracy. The republicans here appear all united in the same cause. The Advocate, in conjunction with the Times, of Hartford, will certainly have a just influence in the state and out of it. Cannot the Sentinel of your place be made to do its duty, in an immediate support of the interests of the country? Its co-operation at this time is very desirable.

I understand, on good authority, that the Mercury of Hartford, would also do its duty in this cause, if they were not fearful of losing the printing of the U. States laws. In the discharge of their duty, they certainly ought to be protected against a sacrifice of their interests, and I should think there would be republicans sufficiently patriotic to guard them from any loss for their fidelity to the party. The New Haven Register, it is to be feared, will be for amalgamation &c.

It is undoubtedly a point of great importance to get a senator of decided democracy.

With the highest respect and esteem,
I am your faithful servant,
GEORGE H. RICHARDS.

Alexander Wolcott, esq. Middletown.
This letter is directed to 'Alexander Wolcott, esq. Collector of the Port, Middletown, and was lying on the ground open when found. It is superscribed in a different hand writing from the body of the letter, and is post-marked at New London, 'Oct. 10.' The nature of its contents, being of so extraordinary a cast, it was thought to be of sufficient public interest to justify the detention of the letter, until the public mind with regard to it, could in some measure be ascertained.

The present is a very interesting period with our country; we are about to exercise our highest, and most important privileges as Freemen and citizens of the only free Government on earth! The time has arrived when the United States has taken a stand among the nations of the world, which, while it is peaceful and calm at home, is powerful and commanding abroad by the influence of its example; its relations are daily assuming new importance, and the happiness and liberty of the United States, are to be vitally affected by the man who shall be elected President of the United States, for the four years next ensuing. It is of course a matter of high interest, that he should be a man chosen by the people! a man who shall be the President of the United States, ruling and governing them, as a great and powerful nation, and not the mere head of a faction who shall obtain the office to gratify an insensible thirst for power, and rule with a view to reward favourites and such as have sold themselves to advance him to the office which he seeks.—Every thing therefore, which indicates the use of base and improper means, in order to increase, or create, an influence upon the public mind in favour of a particular candidate for that dignified and responsible office, ought to be and will, by a free and virtuous community be watched with a jealous eye.

Some of the circumstances relating to the letter under consideration, which have presented themselves to the committee as of some moment, are the writer of the letter is said to be a clerk in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States—that it is directed to a man who enjoys his office under the patronage of the same officer, and that officer is William H. Crawford, a candidate for the Presidency of the United States—that the letter discloses a set purpose to engage several of the publishers of newspapers in this state, to support the claims of Mr. Crawford! The fact is announced, that two have already engaged in the cause—and it is requested that a third should be made to do its duty immediately.—The fears of one, lest they should lose the printing of the laws of the United States, are to be quieted. Who does not understand this?—The most detestable crimes are often gilded with fair names!

Another circumstance which is within the recollection of most of you, has occurred to your committee, as evidencing a degree of efficiency in this letter, which marks it as being not altogether of a harmless cast. You will recollect that the writer requests, that the Sentinel, a paper published in this city may be made to do its duty; now mark the change; from being the avowed supporter of Mr. Adams, until that time, on the 29th day of October, the Sentinel commences in support of Mr. Crawford! The immediate support of the Sentinel is requested to be secured in a letter dated the 9th of October, and the support is afforded on the 29th of the same month—surely this is a promissory which should excite our admiration; and in the next number of the Sentinel, Mentor, the champion of Mr. Crawford appears, and the praises of Mr. Crawford have been rung in that paper from that time to the present to almost the entire exclusion of all the other candidates. Now who is Mentor? If he should be ascertained to be the same gentleman on whom public opinion has long since fixed, he is not a stranger to him to whom this letter is addressed; what then is the language which it speaks?

When your committee review the means which have been publicly resorted to by the

of Mr. Crawford—at the seat of ment, in their caucus—in the State
New York, with reference to the choice
electors; and the exclusive claims set up
for patriotism and republicanism
the denunciations which are made
such as differ from them in opinion,
cannot but regard the detection and
practices of this kind as a duty
on every citizen who would not
the cause of freedom and self government on the unhallowed shrine of par-
telling and personal aggrandizement.
The Committee therefore recommend
the following Resolution:
Resolved, As the sense of this meeting
the letter referred to, in the above re-
ought to be retained and preserved as best, and only proper mode of furnishcorrect evidence of its contents and plicity.

THE FREEDOM OF DEBATE

invaded by the Vice-President of the ited States.—When Mr. Kelly, a Sen-
from Alabama was discussing the ques-
of postponement of the various amendments of the Constitution in relation to
tion of the President and Vice-Presi-
ent, he turned his attention to that branch
the debate, which had been freely indul-
ed in for two days by a number of other members, upon the subject of the Congressional Caucus.—Here he was told by the ice President that he could not be permitted to treat on that topic.—Mr. Kelly reged the extended remark that had been allowed to and exercised by others, and
aimed the ordinary privilege of reply.—
The Vice President said a reply to arguments on the Caucus question was out of order—and that he was not in the chair
when they were made or he would not have allowed it.—Upon this Mr. Kelly very coolly took his seat.—The Vice-President,
after a pause, invited him to proceed on the merits of the question, leaving the arguments about the Caucus out of view.—This
Mr. Kelly very properly declined, and sat
mute as he was compelled to do.

This is what we did not expect from Vice-President Tompkins, we thought he had more liberality, more fair-mindedness
—Suppose Vice-President Tompkins is an advocate for the Caucus, and that under the present aspect of things, he feels a little sensitive, like others, upon that point
—shall he therefore stop a gentleman on the Senate floor who is against the Caucus
and who is answering arguments in favour
of it that had been offered during two days
debate before? Such suppression is unmanly, it is worse. The presiding officer of the senate is absolute, from him there is no appeal of any sort at any time.—This absolute power was accorded through courtesy and confidence by a Council of Ancient to what the constitution always intended should be the second greatest man
of the nation—a man of wisdom and of virtue would be scrupulous in the exercise
of such absolute power; he would not use
it too freely at any time—he would not use it to silence a member on the floor if duty and decorum to all did not demand it
—The case before us was very different
—We think the Vice President has behaved very ill.

Chesapeake and Delaware Canal.

The editor of the National Gazette says
—that all the contracts offered last week
for this important work were immediately
taken, on the most favorable terms for the company. The applicants were nearly all persons of great respectability who had been engaged in similar operations, in this state and the state of New York: their number too, greatly exceeded that which
the work required.

Under these favourable circumstances,
and under the superintendence of the distinguished engineer, whom the directors
have selected we have no doubt that this work will proceed with a rapidity and be executed in a manner which will increase alike the reputation and resources of our city.

MAJOR DANIEL MARTIN will be supported as a Candidate for Elector of President and Vice President of the U.
States, for the Electoral District composed

ter and Talbot counties. We are authorized to state that Major Martin if elected,
will vote for JOHN QUINCY ADAMS as President, and some distinguished Republican
as Vice President. MANY REPUBLICANS.

Mr. LUKE TIERNAN of the city of Baltimore, is announced as an elector of President and Vice-President of the U. States,
for the district composed of the City of Baltimore, the City of Annapolis, Anne Arundel County and part of Montgomery county; and that if elected, Mr. Tiernan will vote for William H. Crawford for President and Albert Gallatin for Vice President.

Meeting of the friends of Andrew Jackson,
in the middle district of Kent county, Md.
At a meeting of the friends of General
Andrew Jackson, convened by public notice, on Saturday, April 10, at Mr. Thomas Peacock's tavern, in Chester Town,
for the purpose of taking measures to promote the General's election to the Presidency, Capt. Solomon Scott, was called to the chair, and Dr. P. Wroth, chosen secretary.

The following resolutions were proposed
and unanimously adopted.
1st. Resolved, That it is the opinion of this meeting, that a perfect union between the friends of General Jackson, in Kent
and Queen Ann's county, will ensure the success of his electoral candidate in the district composed of those two counties.

2d. Resolved, That disunion will paralyze
our efforts, and ensure his defeat.
3d. Resolved, That it is the unanimous opinion of this meeting that the only sure way to prevent disunion is to support with our votes and interest, the elector who shall be chosen by a concurrent vote of Committees regularly appointed by the several election districts of the two counties.

4th. Resolved, That Captain S. Scott be appointed a committee for the above object,
and that Church-hill, Queen Ann's county,
be recommended as the place for the meeting of the general committee.

5th. Resolved, That we will discourage all persons who have announced, or shall announce themselves as electoral candidates, without the consent of the people
signified by their committee's.

6. Resolved, That Doct. F. H. Worrell, Solomon Scott, Jr. and James E. Bar-
roll, Esq. be appointed a central committee
of correspondence, and that all other portions of this electoral district be, and they are hereby respectfully invited to appoint
similar committees, and that said committees give notice of their appointment to the chairman of the central committee.

7. Resolved, That the proceedings be signed by the Chairman and Secretary, and
published in the Easton Star, and Gazette,
the Elkton Press, and the Morning Chronicle, Baltimore.

SOL. SCOTT, Jr. Chairman.
P. WROTH, Secretary.

On Sunday evening 4th inst. an address was delivered in St. George's Church, New York, by the Rev. Mr. SCHROEDER, after which five hundred dollars and three cents
were collected for the benefit of the New York Dispensary.

The Norfolk Herald likens John Randolph's mouth to a Hornet's nest: he cannot open it but out pops a Sting. His remark on the motion to appoint a day for the adjournment of Congress, was at once original, sarcastic and apt. He thought it was time that every member who did not intend to rely on the public crib, but feed
out of his own corn house, should go home
and plant his corn.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Albany to his friend in Washington, dated Albany, April 2, 1824.

"I have this moment returned from the Legislative caucus, and feel gratified that the people have triumphed, and that Yates
and Crawford are prostrate in the State of New York. The Crawfordites rallied all their forces, made long speeches for their favorite candidate, (Yates,) denounced Col.
Young as his personal enemy, and declared it unjust and shameful to abandon Yates

because he was identified with Crawford;
and because he opposed the electoral law.
All would not do. They mustered but 45
strong, whereas Young got 60, and therefore about 50 absent. All the absent ones were against both Yates and Crawford.

It is admitted that this result is decisive of Crawford's fate in New York. Indeed
there is an opposition to him and his radical Junto, in our Legislature, much more powerful than I was aware of. Young is decidedly anti-Crawford, and no opposition will exist to his election, except such as may grow
out of the manner of his nomination."

EASTON, April 9th, 1824.

WILLIAM K. LAMBDIN is appointed Aid-de-Camp, vice Alexander
C. Bullitt, moved from the District, who is to be obeyed and respected as such.

On the evening of the 3d inst. at Mount Prospect, Accomack county, Virginia, by the Rev. Samuel C. Stratton, the Rev. Moses B.
CHASE, Rector of St. George's Parish, Accomack, to Miss SARAH C. JOYNE, youngest

OBITUARY.

Departed this life on Thursday evening the 15th inst. at Mr. Thomas Banning's, Talbot county, Md. Henry M. Campbell, Esq. of York, Pennsylvania, in the 28th year of his age; his death was occasioned by the accidental discharge of a pistol from his own hand. Mr.
Campbell, after dinner on Saturday the 10th
inst. requested the loan of a pistol to exercise
with, (being an expert marksman,) he shot
twice: the third time he cocked his pistol
to shoot a bird which flew away, he then advanced a few yards to a fence, in the act of stooping down he supposed (no person being with him) his arm struck the fence, the contents of the pistol was immediately lodged in his left leg, a little below the calf, the ball
was in a very short time extracted, and notwithstanding the aid of three eminent Physicians, a mortification took place so rapid as not to be resisted by medical aid.—Thus he has been snatched away in the bloom of youth,
leaving a widowed mother and two sisters with
numerous acquaintances, to lament his loss.
Died on Monday the 5th inst. Mr. James Es-gate, after a lingering illness, of this county.
On the seventh inst. James E. second son of the late Allen Bowie, aged 12 years.
On Sunday, 28th ult. after a lingering illness of six months which he bore with Christian fortitude, Robert Dennis, Esq. of Dorchester county, in the 73d year of his age.

offered to the highest bidder at Mr. Lowe's Tavern, in the town of Easton, between 10

the subscriber, living near the farm.

bond with approved security, interest from
the day of sale, and possession given on the

P. S. It is the desire of Mr. Hemsley that the above negroes, none of whom have committed any offence and who have always
sustained excellent characters, should get homes
if possible and find purchasers in the county or State.—I will co-operate most cheerfully in furtherance of his wishes and any thing I can do consistent with my duty as an officer and the rights of creditors, in their favour shall be done.—I have never met with so numerous a body of slaves in whose favor I feel so strongly interested, instead of keeping out of my way
or attempting to conceal themselves, they came forward to meet me and seemed hurt
at the bare suspicion that they might act
otherwise, in fact their whole conduct has been such as to exalt in my estimation the character of the African race, and on this trying occasion I was at a loss which most to admire, the weeping master or his weeping slaves.

BY THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES,

Whereas, it appears on the Pension List, furnished by the Treasurer, that there is a considerable sum of money lying in the Treasury appropriated to the payment of Invalid Pensioners, which has not been demanded as far back as eight or ten years. And Whereas, it is presumed that many or all the individuals interested in said appropriations, not demanded
within the last two years, are dead, and it appearing desirable that some period should be prescribed for all future demands on the Treasury of a similar nature, and that the surplus
now remaining in the Treasury should be disposed of for the advantage of the state—Therefore Resolved, That all monies heretofore appropriated for the payment of the Pensioners and
not demanded within the last two years, shall revert to the state, subject to the disposition of the legislature, and that all appropriations hereafter to be made for a similar object, shall be
demanded within eighteen months thereafter under the penalty of a forfeiture of said
pension; provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to debar
any pensioner, or his heirs from the payment of any pension heretofore granted, if said pen-
sioner or his heirs shall demand the same legally authenticated within twelve months after the passage of this resolution; and provided also, that it shall be the duty of the Treasurer
to have this preamble and resolution published in such newspapers as the Executive shall
deem expedient for the information of those concerned, and the names of all persons affected
by this resolution.

VALUABLE LAND FOR

The subscriber offers for sale
Farm called

"WARD'S GIFT"
beautifully situated within two miles
of Centerville, and immediately on the Road and adjoining two Grist Mills; it comprises about four hundred and ninety four acres
of land, with a plenty of timber and firewood.
This farm offers many advantages rarely to be
met with, viz.—there runs quite through
the farm a large meadow, which with little labour might be made to produce a large quantity of Timothy and Herd Grass; and through
there runs an inexhaustible stream of water.
The soil is well adapted to the growth of corn,
wheat, clover and tobacco; it is elevated, and
level, and requires but very little ditching.
The improvements are a two story BRICK
DWELLING HOUSE, near which there is a thrill well of excellent water, Kitchen, Quarter, Corn House, a tolerable good Stable, and
the frame of a large Barn, out of which might
be made a very commodious farm house. Also
a very fine apple and peach orchard, with well
selected fruit.

It is unnecessary to say any thing further
as I presume those that are disposed to purchase will view the premises, which will be
shown by Mr. H. Hardcastle, Jr. living on the farm. For terms, which will be made very accommodating, apply to the subscriber, near Easton,

AGRICULTURE

AND DOMESTIC ECONOMY.

From the American Farmer.

NEW WHEAT.

Extract of a letter from JONAS SERLY, Esq. a member of the Legislature to an agricultural gentleman in this county.
ALBANY, 6th Feb. 1824.

"SIR—In answer to your request on the subject of a new kind of wheat, lately cultivated in Seneca county, I really consider it a great acquisition to our country. It resembles in colour the bearded thorn wheat, the berry rather smaller than the white or red chaffed wheat, and weighs from 62 to 64 lbs. a bushel. I have made experiments, and have given it a fair trial on different soils, from clay loam to a black rich soil. It possesses two very important properties which our common wheat does not. It resists frost much better, and is absolutely invulnerable to the attack of the Hessian fly; this was abundantly proved the last season. On this account alone it is invaluable, as I had fields of common wheat nearly destroyed by the fly, while this new wheat side by side was untouched. The common wheat when not injured by fly or frost will produce some more per acre. The new wheat grows thick on the ground, the colour of the straw is lighter and softer and does not grow as tall as common wheat, the heads are shorter, but fill well, the chaff is light. The flour is equal to the common red berried wheat. I sold 70 bushels of it to Col. Mynderse, at the Seneca Falls, last December, his miller pronounced it the finest lot of wheat he had purchased since harvest, it was sowed the 17th Sept. 1822. It was first introduced into Seneca county 5 or 6 years ago, and is called beaver dam wheat, under an idea it was first brought from a beaver dam near Utica, whereas, Col. Mynderse informed me that it was imported from Spain by Elkanah Watson, Esq. of Albany, and was one of the various samples of wheat he distributed over the country 6 or 7 years ago."

It is hoped the printers of newspapers throughout the state, will for a moment, take a breathing spell from the busy strife of politics, and occasionally turn an eye to the best interests of our country, viz: agriculture and domestic manufactures. A general communication of the above important information cannot fail to promote the general good.

EFFECTUAL CURE FOR THE BOTTS.

To the Editor of the American Farmer.

SIR,—In the American Farmer I have read with interest several remedies for the botts. It is certainly desirable, if possible, to obtain some specific, which may be relied on to expel those terrible insects when actually formed in the stomach, as well as to prevent their formation. As one of your correspondents observes, there is no doubt that salt exhibited weekly in the food of horses, would assist as a preventive; and so will salt-petre and assafetida occasionally administered. Curying and cleaning the hair of the horse is necessary not only for the good appearance, but also for the general health of our favourite animal.

Of all the remedies I have used and seen used to expel the botts, fish brine is decidedly the most efficacious and sure. I have saved several valuable horses, after they were actually stretched on the ground, and apparently in the last agonies.

Let a quart of strong fish brine be administered at once; and the dose repeated in an hour afterwards, unless previously there be symptoms of relief. The medicine will show its effects in copious discharges from the relieved animal, which will be accompanied by quantities of dead botts. He will not only be relieved, but will be improved in his health and condition. It is to be observed, by the by, that all owners of horses would do well to give them occasionally in their food, and sometimes in draught, small quantities of fish brine.
E. H. CUMMINS.

MAGISTRATES' BLANKS

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE.

FOREIGN.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

By the arrival of the packet ship, William Byrnes at New-York and the brig Duxbury, at Boston, London dates to the 6th March, have been received.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The London Courier, of the 26th Feb. contradicts a report, which had appeared in some of the other papers, that it was the intention of ministers to fit out another expedition to Algiers under the command of Lord Exmouth. From this it may be inferred that the Dey had complied with the terms proposed by the British government. Great outrages continued to be committed in Ireland. In Limerick and Westmeath serious insurrections were known to exist. Men armed with muskets, belted, and supplied with cartouch boxes, attacked the house of an unoffending farmer at the latter place, and wounded several of the inmates.—There had been another convention at Limerick at the funeral of a Roman Catholic in a Protestant burying ground; but ultimately the service was permitted to be performed by a Roman Catholic Clergyman. At a meeting of the Catholic Association held in Dublin on the 20th Feb. the following extraordinary language is said (in the London Courier) to have been used by Mr. O'Connell: "He (Mr. O'C.) would ask, had not the Duke of York publicly avowed himself their enemy? Had he not voted against them, and made speeches against them? Was he not, a short time ago, at the head of the Orangemen of England? To be sure, some friend about him had lately advised him to shew a little more policy, and he was to preside at a meeting of the society of St. Patrick; but the people of Ireland were not to be deluded by such shallow artifices. The Duke of York was heir to the greatest empire in the world: he had before him all the enjoyments which man could desire; but he ought to remember that one Duke of York lost Ireland by endeavouring to force the consciences of the English nation, and another Duke of York might lose it by attempting to force their consciences. It became them to speak as freemen, and to tell the heir apparent, that one Duke of York, by his bigotry, lost the throne of England, and that another Duke of York might experience the same fate."

In the House of Lords on the 23d of February, the Marquis of Lansdown moved for an account of the exports from the United Kingdom to North and South America, from 1763 to 1813.

In the House of Commons on the 23d, the Chancellor of the Exchequer presented the statement of the financial affairs and project for the year. He gave a very flattering account of the situation of the country. The amount of the surplus for the year is stated at 1,900,000L. The Chancellor stated his intention of abolishing the system of Bounties; so far, and so soon as possible. He proposed to discontinue at once those on the whale fishery and in the curing of herring, and that on the exports of Irish linens by degrees. He also spoke of the reduction of the four per cents, which would be secured to such as wished the change, by three and a half per cent bonds from the 1st of October next. Upwards of eight millions of taxes have been remitted in three years, and it was in the power of government to remit another million the present year. The Chancellor remarked, "It must be highly satisfactory to know, that the country is at this moment in such a state of cheerful prosperity, with an increasing revenue, decreasing taxation, and a debt in a course of gradual and certain reduction. We behold our country daily growing in wealth, augmenting in power and increasing in influence—in wealth, the result of sound policy and considerate legislation; in power, not to be abused for the purposes of tyranny or aggrandizement; in influence not to be employed in blustering dictation and empty boasting, but to produce a firm conviction among surrounding nations of the sincerity of our professions, and of the honesty of our conduct."

SPAIN.

It is confirmed that the Algerines had declared war against Spain, which had occasioned much alarm along the Spanish line of coast on the Mediterranean; preparations were, in consequence, making in various places to prevent the corsairs from landing to surprise the villages and carry their inhabitants into slavery. The Algerine squadron, consisting of five vessels of war, had put to sea and had captured eight Spanish vessels. The cause of these hostilities appears to have been the poverty of Ferdinand, which had rendered him unable to pay the tribute formerly agreed to by the monarchs of Spain. In addition to the squadron already afloat and cruising in the straits of Gibraltar, it was understood that two other frigates of a large class, were fitting out by the Algerines to cruise against the Spanish commerce. A telegraphic despatch, was received at Paris, announcing that the Convention for regulating the military occupation of Spain by France, was signed on the 9th February. A letter dated Madrid the 12th of that month, says that the treaty was for three years, and that contracts for the supply of the Army of Occupation, for one year, had been entered into with several Spaniards. It is again said that the decree of amnesty was certainly signed, and that the government merely delayed the publication of it till French troops had been stationed in some towns where it was feared it might excite certain troubles. A letter from Madrid of the 13th speaks of much dissatisfaction appearing there in consequence of the delay of the act of amnesty, which had led some of the royalists to declare that a wider scope ought to be given to it than was at first contemplated by the government. Several canons had received orders to return to their canopies, and the famous Trappist had also been commanded to leave Madrid. Spain is stated to have lost, by the independence of her South American colonies, 15 millions of subjects, 350,000 square leagues of territory, and 400 millions reals a year in specie and produce.

Baron d'Eroles, Captain General of Catalonia, entered Barcelona on the 14th inst. accompanied only by an escort of fifteen cavalry.

"The Directors of Police, at Seville, has issued an Ordinance to the following effect: During the day, more than four persons are forbidden to be seen together, and during the night more than two, to render them suspected; it is enough that the persons are known to be the partisans of the Constitution, and proceedings will be commenced against them."

ITALY.

Accounts from Frankfort of the 17th Feb. say that the present state of public opinion in Italy displeased the house of Austria; in consequence of which instructions had been given to the police of the Milanese and Venetian territory, to increase their vigilance respecting all members of societies, even without excepting such as had been recognised by the king of Lombardy and Venice. Cardinal Gonsalvi, who had governed Rome for nearly 23 years, had fallen a victim to the disease with which he had been long afflicted.

Paris papers of the 5th March were received in London by express. Out of 246 Deputies returned by the Electoral Colleges for districts, there are only about 16 Liberals. The Departmental Colleges have yet to elect 172 Deputies; but in these opposition candidates have less chance than in the other districts.

Letters from Rome of the 6th inst. state that great mortality prevails there in consequence of the intense cold. The mountains in the neighbourhood are covered with snow, and the Argentinian theatre had been closed for several days, owing to the illness of the principal singers, caused by cold taken at the theatre. The accounts from Switzerland speak of the winter there as one of the most severe that has been known for several years; at a short distance from Berne, an avalanche had carried away a building and animals to a distance of nearly one thousand yards.

FRANCE.

Marshal Victor having formally declined the post of ambassador to Vienna, it was said that the Marquis Caraman was to be reappointed to that situation. A telegraphic dispatch received at Paris, announced the death of Prince Eugene Beauharnois at Munich, on the 21st Feb. Six wagons loaded with gold and silver pieces, to the amount of twenty five millions of francs, had arrived at the Bank of France in Paris, from the south, and was said to have been deposited by BARON ROTHSCHILD.

A gentleman of this neighbourhood, who has two sons at school at Caen, in Normandy, has recently been advised, that by a government order, all children, without reference to nation or religious opinions, educated at the French schools, must attend the celebration of mass; in other words, be initiated into the principles and practices of the Catholic Creed. We promulgate this for the information of parents who have children in France, under the care of French tutors. Hampshire Telegraph.

LONDON MARKET, Feb. 24.

CORN.

The Wheat trade was extremely dull yesterday, and though the supplies were not very large, a considerable quantity remained unsold at the close of the market, though offered at rather lower prices. A few prime dry runs obtained as high as last week; but generally speaking, the bulk of the supply was in worse condition than for some weeks past, and this in great measure occasioned the prevailing dullness.

The following are the Quarterly Aggregate Average Prices, regulating the opening of the Ports, for the ensuing three months, which have not attained such a standard as to admit the entering, for home consumption, of such wheat, rye, barley, and on s, wheat flour and meal, the produce of the British Colonies and Plantations in North America, as were landed under bond previous to the 13th of May, 1822, at the duty of 17s per quarter on wheat, 11s 6d on rye, 5s on barley, 4s on oat, 4 10d per cwt. on flour, and 4s 4d per boll on oatmeal. The Ports continue shut against the admission of all other bonded grain or flour, and we do not believe any holders of Canadian wheat or flour will under present prospects, be induced to pay these duties.

Wheat, 61s 11d; barley, 38s 6d; oats, 23s 7d; rye, 42s 3d; beans, 38s 11d; peas, 38s 4d.

WOOL.

As the reduction of the duty will not immediately take place, it is not expected that there will be any immediate alteration of the price as the present stock of foreign wool, under the King's Lock, in London, Bristol, Liverpool, and Hull, is only about 5,500,000 lbs. or 16 weeks consumption, according to the quantity which paid duty in 1823, and which was in excess beyond 1822 by about 2,000,000 lbs; although the price of all foreign wools, except the finest Saxons, continued to decline in price during last year, the activity of the manufacture was never greater; not a loom being unemployed both in the North and West of England, and the demand for Cloth good, but at low prices.

FROM HAVANA.

By a ship from the office of the New York Gazette, under date of Sunday 18th inst. we learn that the sloop David arrived at New York in 8 days from Havana, bringing information that the Spanish sloop of war Ceres, had been taken by two Columbian corvettes, which induced the government of that place to lay an embargo for one week, and at the same time dispatched a Spanish frigate, sloop of war, and several other armed vessels, in pursuit of the above corvettes; which had also captured eleven sail of Spanish vessels, three ships and 8 drogers, and went off with them.

The David had been embargoed at Havana seven days in consequence of the above engagement. The Ceres, above mentioned, mounted 28 guns, and was built in New York by Mr. Eckford. The action took place off the Bar of Matanzas about 14 days since, and the Captain of the Ceres was killed the first broadside. Between thirty and forty were killed and wounded on board the Ceres, and it was supposed the enemy would stop at Key West to repair. Several jumped overboard, and swam to the shore, who were taken up and confined in the Moro Castle for leaving the Ceres.—Pat.

TREASURY AND BANK MATTERS.

Mr. EDWARDS, who was recently appointed Minister to Mexico, has forwarded to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, which was laid before Congress, a long and able vindication of himself against an intimation contained in a report made to the House by the Secretary of the Treasury, of his having made false statements, on his examination before the second committee of investigation, at the last session of Congress, on the subject of the suppressed documents. From the rapid manner in which we have been obliged to cast our eyes over this important document, we are only able to give an imperfect summary of its contents. Mr. Edwards complains that this report, although called for at the first session of the last Congress, has been delayed until the present session, and that, too, until after it was understood that he had left the city, on his way home, preparatory to his embarkation for Mexico. He goes into a train of reasoning, supported by extracts from a correspondence between him and the Secretary of the Treasury, and other documentary evidence, to show that what he stated before the committee, the truth of which he considers Mr. Crawford as questioning, is true. He particularly refers to letters which passed between them more than a year before he gave his testimony to the committee, in which he expressly stated the same facts; and the receipt of which Mr. Crawford acknowledges, without, in any degree, denying the truth of the statements so made.

After completely, as it appears to us, sustaining the truth of what he understands to be questioned by Mr. Crawford, in his report to the house, he proceeds to an investigation of the correctness and legality of much of Mr. Crawford's official conduct; and offers what he deems conclusive evidence, to support the six allegations against Mr. Crawford, which we have copied from his communication.

This communication, which embraces some 50 or 60 pages of manuscript, and which we shall present at large to our readers, concludes in the following words:

"I regret to have it to say to your honorable body, that, both the state of my health, and the want of time, absolutely compel me most reluctantly, to close this investigation of Mr. Crawford's well timed statement against me. In this situation, I beg leave to refer you, for further facts, of which I might, under more favorable circumstances fairly and successfully avail myself, to a few of the publications with the signature of 'A. B.' herewith transmitted."

Avowing myself the author of these publications, and (with the exception of a few unimportant typographical errors, and a mere verbal inaccuracy in regard to the time of a certain report being made,) reasserting before your honorable body and the nation that the facts they allege, are substantially true, I do most respectfully solicit, that, they may be taken as a part of, and be printed with this communication.

In order to strengthen my claim to this indulgence, combining all the rights of defence, of accusation, and of asking for investigation, which can entitle me, as a citizen of the United States, or an officer of their government, to appear before your honorable body, I do expressly state—

1st. That the hon. William H. Crawford Secretary of the Treasury, has mismanaged the National Funds:

2d. That he has received a large amount of uncurren notes, from certain banks in part discharge of their debts to the United States, contrary to the resolution of Congress of 1816.

3d. That being called on by a resolution of the House of Representatives, to state the amount of uncurren notes, which he received from those banks, he has misstated it, by making it less than it really was:

4th. That he has, in his report to the House, misrepresented the obligations of those banks, or some one of them, at least and predicated thereon an indefensible excuse for his conduct, in receiving those uncurren notes:

5th. That he has acted illegally, in a variety of instances, by making, and continuing, deposits of public money in certain local banks, without making report thereof to Congress, according to law.

6th. That he has, in several instances withheld information and letters, called for by the house, and which it was his duty to have communicated.

HIS OATH—let it speak for itself.

For specifications of these statements, I offer the publications with the signature 'A. B.' above mentioned and this communica-

And for proof I offer that which they respectfully refer to. All this I do defensively; for, if the facts stated be true, no rational man can doubt that they must weaken, at least, the force of Mr. Crawford's statement against me. I will not charge him with bad intentions in any of those acts. It is more properly the duty of others to inquire into and judge of that matter. I do not ask for an investigation of his conduct. Such a request ought, more naturally, to be looked for from himself. But I will say that, if, being an officer of the same government under which he holds his office, I have wilfully and maliciously misrepresented him in the six foregoing allegations, it is a misdemeanor that would prove me unworthy of the office I hold. I invite him, or any of his friends, to make this charge against me, pledging myself, to waive all notice, and with all the disadvantages of absence, to submit to an investigation thereof, by either, or by both Houses of Congress: and to abide by the decision thereupon. If this proposition is declined, I trust we shall have no more canting about an 'A. B. plot.' As to myself, I fear not the consequences of any fair investigation, for I know I shall be able, whatever may be the result, to justify myself to the nation.

And never having obtained any office by the slightest sacrifice of independence; I never will owe the holding of one, to reluctant forbearance, or the courtesy of my enemies. I will only add, that if any attempt should, hereafter, be made, meanly to take advantage of my absence, by those who have forborne to attack me, when I could have had an opportunity of defending myself, I must beg of your honorable body and the nation, to suspend your opinions, and to be assured that there shall be no unavoidable delay in vindicating myself. I have, in reserve, much matter of defensive accusation, and should most certainly have invited your attention to the report concerning the Receiver of Public Moneys at Huntsville, and other matters of not less importance, had time permitted."

What will be the ultimate effect upon the American people, of this bold and manly investigation into the conduct of Mr. Crawford? We will not venture to predict; but in order that the whole case may be fairly understood, we invite their serious attention to it, and hope it will be read with that candour which ought to be exerted in deciding on a controversy so serious in its character, both as regards the individuals concerned, and the people themselves.

At a meeting of the Board of the New York Colonization Society, April 1st instant.

Resolved, That as the late favourable information from the Colony confirms our belief, that means only are wanting to realize the wishes of the society, this board will use still further efforts to increase its funds and for this purpose.

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to obtain members and donations, and that the following persons be this committee.

James Palmer, 19 Suffolk st.
Joseph D. Fay, 206 William st.
Wm Hilton, 63 Fulton st.
Nicholas Schureman, 250 Cherry st.
Peter R. Rouch, 430 Pearl st.
Abraham Halsey, 274 Pearl st.
Marcus Wilber, 141 Pearl st.
George Sergeant, 111 Pearl st.
Wm. Thornburn, 21 Nassau st.
John Gray, 247 Pearl st.
Nathaniel W. Sanford, 51 Fulton st.
D. H. Barnes, 18 Leavenworth st.
L. D. Dewey, 139 Fly market
Dr. J. B. Beck, 14 Franklin st.
Gold S. Silliman, Brooklyn
Thomas I. Chew, Brooklyn.

The parent society lately fitted out an expedition of 120 Colonists, and is now loading a vessel at Baltimore, to sail in three or four weeks, with supplies necessary for the Colony. All kinds of utensils, provisions and clothing are wanted. The board respectfully solicit donations to be made to the committee, or be sent to J. M. Lowry & Co. south side of Coffee-House slip, corner of South street. Flour, salt and dried meat, fish, biscuit, shoes, hose, cloth, old or new clothing, remnants, hardware, and all kinds of groceries, will be gratefully received, and faithfully forwarded.

It is proper to state, that the funds of the society are exclusively appropriated to the single work of colonizing, with their consent, the coloured people of the United States. It is not a society to civilize Africa or suppress the slave trade; nor a missionary or abolition society. Although without colonization, abolition of slavery can never be effected in our country, nor the coloured man enjoy his rights; and although by the lights of science, civilization, and christianity are carried to benighted and injured Africa, and the horrors of the slave trade banished from her shores; yet it is colonization, that engages the efforts of the society; so that every man of every religion, that wishes the honor and prosperity of our nation, or the welfare of an injured, degraded and wretched race, whose despised condition is the consequence of the injustice of our ancestors, can unite in this work. And where is the citizen or Christian upon whom it has no claim? Not in a Republic, whose boast is "liberty and equality."

By order of the Board,
JOHN B. BECK, M. D. Rec. Sec'y.

EASTON, Md.
SATURDAY EVENING, APRIL 24.

CURIOUS AFFAIR.

There is a curious matter now going on between Mr. Senator Lowrie of Pennsylvania, President Monroe, Mr. Senator Findlay of Pennsylvania, Mr. Creemer of Pennsylvania, in the House of Representatives in Congress and General Jackson. All of which is got up and designed to gull the poor, wise, independent, foolish, credulous voters of the country in regard to the election of next President.—The fact is, the question of next President is now o'days so mixed up in every thing, that we were quite surprised not to find it in the Easter Eggs and Tansy Pudding of the past Holidays.

Mr. Senator Lowrie says, he and Mr. Senator Findlay called on President Monroe to remonstrate about a certain nomination for appointment made by the President—and the President took occasion to tell them all about the policy he had pursued in relation to appointments. That the President then read to them the said Lowrie and Findlay a letter from Gen. Jackson, in which he (Gen. Jackson) recommended it to the President to appoint his cabinet out of the two great parties (meaning thereby out of Federalists and Democrats).—This story Mr. Lowrie said was told by them (meaning Lowrie and Findlay) when Mr. Creemer of the House of Representatives took the liberty to call on the President (and a pretty considerable liberty it was) to know if what Mr. Lowrie said was true.—The President denied it.—Mr. Findlay denies it—and some of the newspapers say General Jackson denies it.—How is this Mr. Lowrie? Straightway Mr. Lowrie, he writes a letter to the President grievously complaining of these contradictions, and asks the President if what he (Mr. Lowrie) said about Gen. Jackson's letter was not true? We are told the President declines answering Mr. Lowrie's letter (it is a pity he had not declined all the communications on the subject of his nomination that led to it) and so Mr. Senator Lowrie is very wrath.—He speaks loud they say in private about it, but is afraid to say much in public, lest his loud talking against the President should be taken for leaving the party, and thereby render him of no use in electioneering. So we wait to see what Mr. Lowrie and others will do, after taking a hearty laugh at their pestiferous condition.

This is another farce got up.—Mr. Lowrie is for Mr. Crawford—Pennsylvania has declared for General Jackson—President Monroe and Mr. Crawford have not been good friends for some time it is said, and report is that President Monroe, although very friendly disposed towards Mr. Adams and Mr. Calhoun, is yet rather more inclined to Old Hickory, as he sustained Old Hickory in some of his high handed doings some time ago rather to the loss of credit, and if he could get the old Soldier elected no, it would heal all that affair and shew clearly that the people of the country thought with Mr. Monroe.

Mr. Lowrie then tries to turn the state of Pennsylvania from Jackson, by setting forth General Jackson's disposition to see federalists taken by the hand and he thinks that the State of Pennsylvania like the members of the Caucus, of blessed memory, would do any thing to persecute federalists and to indulge malignant vindictiveness against them. Amiable fellow! Now Mr. Lowrie do you expect to turn the state of Pennsylvania by telling them that Gen. Jackson wishes to see honor & power given to federal men who may deserve it—if you do Mr. Lowrie, this is another strong argument to prove that you are unfit for the place you hold.—But you are assured, that Gen. Jackson will appoint the best men he knows without any regard to politics, and if you mean to make that an objection to him you have no time to lose—so be up and stirring; but I can tell you, your labour will be in vain.

ANTIGUA.

Further evidences of the sins and follies of embargoes, non-importation, non-intercourse and high excluding Tariffs.

From the N. Y. Evening Post.

The schr. Ann, arrived at Norfolk, from Antigua, brings letters which state, that "The condition of the British Islands is such, for the want of a market for their staples hitherto, that the inhabitants are now turning their attention to the cultivation of bread stuffs and other productions, for the support of themselves and their black population."

Formerly we supplied the West Indies with bread-stuffs, lumber, &c. &c. and took their sugar, their rum, their molasses and fruits at moderate duties—then we had a high price for our produce and a steady market, and every body was growing in comfort, for money was plenty and all trades could live.—But the wise democratic statesmen who rule the land, although they professed to hate and despise Great Britain and all she did, were forever copying after her worst practices.—They thought too that America could be nothing while she imported a button mould, a gallon of spirit, a yard of calico, or an iron pot from England, and that to be completely independent, as they thought, she must make every thing for herself.—So to work they went—they cracked up merino sheep, spinning jennys, and manufactures of all sorts, with a high tariff and prohibitory duties—and exclaimed against commerce and the drawback system as likely to involve us in disputes and set out with embargoes, non-importation and non-intercourse as the cure-alls.—We see what this has brought us to—we having wantonly withdrawn our trade from them to suit our caprice, they were obliged to turn their attention elsewhere to get that which we used to supply them with, and for which they paid us well.—They are now making the articles themselves which we formerly furnished and our surplus produce is either rotting on our hands or selling at a third of its value—our property is daily under execution, and it sells for one fourth or one eighth of what it is worth—our farmers with renewed industry and improved systems are striving to get on with their incomes more than one half reduced—our mechanics are out of employment, because the farmers can't get enough for their produce to pay their own way, and all classes are suffering, because of the calamities that have been brought down upon us by embargoes, non-importations, non-intercourse, high tariffs and prohibitory duties—and we bear all this like asses submissive to the burden.—This looks somewhat like playing the game of submissive obedience to our cost.

COL. THOMAS EMORY, of Queen Ann's County, will be supported as a Candidate for Congress at the next election, in the district composed of Queen Ann's, Caroline and Talbot counties. VOTERS.

The National Gazette states that the royal government of Spain has appointed the Duke de Alceda Ambassador to the United States of America. This nobleman is, we believe, the Duke of San Fernando, who has been prime minister of Spain and a moderate Constitutionalist.

The New York Commercial Advertiser mentions that "just at the last moment of the late session of the New York Legislature," a resolution was received by the House of Assembly from the Senate, removing De Witt Clinton, Esq. from the office of Canal Commissioner, in which resolution the House of Assembly concurred.

The acting Canal Commissioners appointed Stephen Van Rensselaer, Esq. to fill the vacancy.

GENTLEMEN—Statements have appeared in your paper in relation to the result of the Presidential Election, which are so wild and extravagant, that I feel surprised the respectable names of DEXTER and JEFFERSON should be made to sanction them. CORRECTOR.

The Tariff Bill passed the house of Representatives on Friday the 16th inst. by a majority of five votes, after having been under discussion in that body for ten weeks. The bill is now before the Senate.

In announcing the passage of the bill the National Intelligencer of Saturday says:—"The first circumstance which strikes every one is, the fullness of the House on this occasion, indicating the profound interest which the subject has excited. More than one Member, who was indisposed, rose from his bed to vote on the occasion; and, but for the situation of these two or three gentlemen, it is probable the friends of the bill would not, yesterday, have forced a decision upon it, as they did. Out of the two hundred & thirteen Members, two only were yesterday absent, one of them absent from the city, and the other too much indisposed to reach the House. So full an attendance has never been known during the time that we have been acquainted with the House of Representatives."

The second circumstance, worthy of remark, is, that with one or two exceptions the discussion of this bill has been conducted with great forbearance and mutual deference on the part of the members. We could not but remark, in the closing speech yesterday, that, though the argument against the bill was pressed with great force, there was not a word uttered disrespectful to the persons, or derogatory from the motives of its supporters."

"The bill is now in the hands of the Senate, as the clay in the hands of the potter."

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT!

It is with much regret that we stop the press to announce the occurrence of a distressing accident yesterday afternoon on board the Steam Boat Eagle, while off North Point. The Eagle, captain Weems was on her first trip this season from Annapolis to Baltimore, and about six o'clock yesterday afternoon, when entering the mouth of the river, she burst her boiler—by which one of the passengers, name unknown, a soldier recently discharged from Fort Severn, was killed, and four others much scalded!—among the latter is HENRY M. MURRAY, Esq. of this city, who was but slightly injured.—The whole crew of the Eagle, including captain Weems, are more or less injured. Three of the passengers fortunately escaped without hurt. The explosion set the Eagle on fire, but by the exertions and presence of mind of those on board it was happily extinguished. The son of captain Weems, a youth of 12 or 13 years was literally blown through the sky-light from the cabin, & yet without any very serious injury.

The steam boat Constitution, on her evening route to Philadelphia, spoke the Eagle in the situation we have just described—and to the praise of the commander, captain Robinson, and his passengers, be it spoken every assistance and kindness in their power was administered to the sufferers—and in the same humane spirit, the Constitution was turned about and towed the disabled boat to the city, where they both arrived about eleven o'clock last night. In an hour after, the Constitution proceeded again for Frenchtown.

The machinery and hull of the Eagle are greatly injured by the explosion.

MENRS. L. C. PASCAULT, F. PASCAULT, M. CONWAY, and R. D. HEWITT, passengers on board the Eagle, have addressed a card of thanks to captain Robinson and the passengers on board the Constitution for the kindness evinced towards them in their perilous situation.—Amer.

TOBACCO.

On our table this morning, we found a sample of tobacco equalling in colour and texture, any specimen of that article we have ever seen; and when the quality and the quantity in proportion to the whole crop is considered, the planter and his manager, certainly deserve a handsome premium at the hands of the Maryland Agricultural Society.

The tobacco of this quality heretofore inspected has been very light, and although in a few instances a higher price has been obtained, we suppose this hoghead, the growth of the estate of T. B. Dorsey, Esq. attorney general of this state, brought more money than any hoghead ever sold in Maryland. It weighed 707 pounds, and sold for $45 per hundred, amounting to $319 13—and was purchased by N. Pearce, Esq.

The famous hoghead made and sold last year by George Cook, Esq. on Elkridge brought within a fraction of fifty dollars; but it weighed less than 300 pounds.—We shall be glad to shew the sample before us to any one curious to see an article so exceedingly fine of its kind.—The fibres branching from the main stem through the leaf, are as attenuated as possible, and as yellow as the leaf itself.—Though much depends on firing, and after management, much also arises in the production of such tobacco from the nature of the soil, whereof we should be glad to have a particular description, with an account of its previous natural growth and the manure applied if any; though we suppose it was the product of new and unmanured land. We understand Mr. Dorsey has two other hogheads as beautiful as this, and that the three will probably command One Thousand Dollars!!!

Another fine hoghead has been inspected and sold at Calhoun's warehouse this week, price $30 property of Mr. Reuben Hays—and the following general quotations will be found as nearly correct as can be:—

Extra fine yellow,	30 to 45
Fine yellow,	20 to 30
Fine spangled,	15 to 20
Fine red & cinnamon,	15 to 20
Good red,	8 to 12
Good brown,	8 to 10
Inferior,	3 to 5
Seconds,	1 1/2 to 8

Comparing the prices, as ascertained by particular enquiries, of other articles, with our quotations last week, we find nothing worthy of note, except the above memoranda relative to tobacco.

such neglect, unless he can give a reasonable
excuse; and any company or staff officer ne-

can give a reasonable excuse; and all officers,
who by this section are required to attend
said meetings, shall appear in uniform and with

BY THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES,

FEBRUARY 14, 1824.

Whereas, it appears on the Pension List, furnished by the Treasurer, that there is a considerable sum of money lying in the Treasury appropriated to the payment of Invalid Pensioners, which has not been demanded as far back as eight or ten years. And Whereas, it is presumed that many or all the individuals interested in said appropriations, not demanded
within the last two years, are dead, and it appearing desirable that some period should be prescribed for all future demands on the Treasury of a similar nature, and that the surplus
now remaining in the Treasury should be disposed of for the advantage of the state—Therefore,
Resolved, That all monies heretofore appropriated for the payment of the Pensioners and
not demanded within the last two years, shall revert to the state, subject to the disposition of the legislature, and that all appropriations hereafter to be made for a similar object, shall be
demanded within eighteen months thereafter under the penalty of a forfeiture of said
pension; provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to debar
any pensioner, or his heirs from the payment of any pension heretofore granted, if said pen-
sioner or his heirs shall demand the same legally authenticated within twelve months after the passage of this resolution; and provided also, that it shall be the duty of the Treasurer
to have this preamble and resolution published in such newspapers as the Executive shall
deem expedient for the information of those concerned, and the names of all persons affected
by this resolution.
