Fifteen Seniors Make Who's Who

Who's Who nominees were selected by a committee of thirteen people who were elected by the Student Senate. The committee consisted of three juniors; Claudette Walton, Van Gardner, Steve Printz; three sophomores: Bob Sobus, Hazel Hermann, Al Nathewitch; six faculty members: Mr. Richard Sloop, Mrs. Eileen Steele, Dr. Robert Grooms, Mr. James Cotton, Dr. Harold Cordts, Dr. William Carroll; and one administrative member: Mr. John Allison. The faculty members represented various departments and have been at Frostburg State College for at least two years.

There were 147 seniors who qualified for Who's Who on the basis of academic standing. The scholastic qualification required an overall accumulative average of no less than 2.5 and an average per semester of no less than 2.0.

The three main criteria upon which the committee decided to base its selection of nominees for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges were: academic standing, leadership and service to the college.

In order for the committee to justly evaluate each candidate according to the main criteria, a letter was sent to each candidate asking him to send the committee a letter indicating his service and leadership rendered to the college since he has been enrolled here.

Each of these Who's Who candidates will receive a certificate of recognition from the Who's Who organization which will be presented to him at the Honors Convocation. He will also receive recognition in the 1966-1967 publication of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges and will receive the benefits of the Student Placement Service provided by Who's Who.

Editorial Comment

On Who's Who

The Editorial staff of this paper would like to comment on one facet of the selection of students for the WHO'S WHO. The sense of responsibility of some members of the Who's Who Committee is very questionable as far as this newspaper is concerned. According to tradition, the winners of the Who's Who Awards have been announced in the paper prior to any other publication of these names. However, this year the staff of this newspaper gravely considered eliminating any coverage of the Who's Who due to the serious leak of the winners' names. A portion of the student body, namely Greeks and Student Government members, was aware of at least some of the winners prior to this publication. Some of these students were aware of some of the winners as far back as two weeks ago. This leak, which could only come from one or more members of the committee is certainly a poor reflection upon the trust and confidence of the committee. The leaking of information of this type is far more serious than one may normally realize.

The fact that names of winners were divulged to members of the student body prior to today degrades the entire process of picking winners for this award. Students who thought they might win this award can justifiably cast doubt on the whole process of picking winners when the names of the winners could be learned with such ease. We would suggest that future committees be picked with greater care. We also suggest that the Senate of the Student Association seriously consider not appointing to next year's committee anyone who was a member of this year's committee. This would insure that the person or persons who leaked this information to the students this year would not have a chance to do the same again next year.

Senior Finals May Be Optional, All Terms Of Uniform Duration

THE DREXEL TRIANGLE,
Drexel Institute of Technology,
Philadelphia, Pa.

At a recent Student Senate meeting, Mr. John W. Neal, registrar, announced that Drexel's tentative future plans include optional Spring finals for seniors and a shorter calendar year.

Seniors who are doing well in a course will not have to take the final. Those who feel that they would like an opportunity to pull up a grade will be able to take the final.

Mr. Neal also told of plans for a shorter calendar year with four even terms which will allow teachers to plan their courses in the same way for any term of the year. Under the present circumstances a teacher must either delete his notes to fit the shorter terms or plan a new outline. Fall term will start one week earlier and end one week earlier. This means that Christmas vacation will be a full week longer.

There will be no change in Winter term. Spring term will start the same time and will end a week earlier. Commencement will be pushed up a week. This earlier commencement will allow the Drexel graduates to begin work at the same time as other graduates. Most job training courses and summer schools begin while Drexel's future graduates are still in school. Graduates are either out of a job or forced to wait until the next training period.

Under the present system, graduates and undergraduates alike are forced to either take their extra courses at Drexel or not at all, since most courses start before the end of Drexel's term. Summer term will begin

A Greek Pledge Makes A Plea To Dr. Morey

Dear Dr. Morey,

I am a pledge for a fraternity on the campus of Frostburg State College. I would like to tell you a little about fraternities on this campus that possibly you don't know and I'd also like to ask you a few questions.

Why must I eat obnoxious concoctions of various foods and spices to make myself ill? I wouldn't have started to pledge a fraternity if I didn't wish to be a member, but why now must I prove my loyalty by vomiting? Is this good for me? Does this build my character? Do I have to be masochistic to be a Greek?

I get little enough study time and sleep with all of the activities I am required to participate in without being kidnapped. Were you ever dropped off many miles from your college only to return to take a test after two hours of sleep and little or no studying? It does wonders for a point score. The members enjoyed it immensely, a lot of them missed their point scores when they pledged so now they figure we should also miss ours.

Why, Dr. Morey, do some fraternities on this campus still use the paddle? Does sadism have to manifest itself through the use of a paddle to "punish" pledges? Does being the whipping boy of Greeks entitle me also to be a sadist when I get initiated? I can't wait to beat people raw because I was beaten raw myself. If I have to take it, next semester's one week earlier and end one week earlier. Finals will be held before Labor Day Weekend.

pledges also have to take it. Is this the reasoning used by Greeks? YES!

Tell me Dr. Morey, why are such activities overlooked by the administration? Each Greek organization has faculty advisors and they DO know what is going on when they are not present. What are they doing about it?

Why am I looked down upon if I don't want to get drunk? I'm under 21 and I drive, so getting drunk is both illegal and highly dangerous, yet I'm considered a bad pledge if I don't get sickeningly drunk at every party. I refuse to!

Is it right for me to make obscene remarks to girls because a member wants me to get slapped or shunned from then on? And is it right for me to get punished for disobeying such an order? Is vandalism and theft a constructive part of pledging? Does stealing develop a man's character or test his courage?

Please Dr. Morey, look into these questions and give me an answer! Tell me what you are going to do about this deplorable situation!

Signed: A lowly Greek Pledge
Disenchanted after many weeks of "Mr.'s", sleepless nights, failed tests, sore muscles and sick stomachs, long, cold walks in early morning hours, and really seeing what a Greek organization really does for a student: outside of a jacket, a pin, and a reason to drink, NOT A DAMN THING !!!

ual murder and is imprisoned for three years awaiting trial.

Tinkerbelle by Robert Maury. The amazing story of the smallest boat ever to cross the Atlantic non-stop is told by the man who sailed her singlehanded.

The Emperor of Ice-Cream by Brian Moore. A young Irish lad is brought back from the edge of a life of failure during the German bombing of Belfast.

Thomas by Shelley Mydans. The life and death of Thomas Becket are faithfully re-created in this imposing novel.

All in the Family by Edwin O'Connor. Some readers have seen a resemblance to the Kennedy family in this intensely interesting novel of present-day politics by the author of "The Last Hurrah".

The Glory of Their Times by Lawrence S. Ritter. In taped interviews with oldtime ballplayers like Ty Cobb, Lou Gehrig, and Babe Ruth, we learn what it felt like to be a ballplayer in the early 1900's.

In My Father's Court by Isaac Bashevis Singer. A great Yiddish novelist and story teller writes a sensitive and charming memoir of his boyhood in Warsaw.

Mrs. Beebe Speaks To Chemistry Dept.

Mrs. Palmer Beebe will address the Chemistry Seminar at 4:10 p.m. Wednesday, November 16, in Garrett Hall 202. Her topic will be "Chemical Microscopy", and will include demonstrations. Coffee and cookies will be served. All chemistry students and other interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

Nothing Ever Breaks Except

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir,

IT OCCURS TO US:

—That Carter Clews' controversial statement concerning "the hogs of Frostburg State" is ambiguous — the boys here are no 'Blue-Ribbon Winners' themselves. It is common knowledge that dating odds are in favor of the male (?) population. In fact to us girls, dating "odds" seems to be the only way to pass time up here. Most boys, realizing the favorable statistics, chose Frostburg in hopes of procuring a 'first date.' We feel some of them will obtain their master's degree before this desire is fulfilled. It appears to us that some boys here have faces only mothers could love — undoubtedly the reason they were cast away to State.

In conclusion,
IT OCCURS TO US:

—That the farmers send their donkeys to market and their 'Asses' to State!

Dear Sir,

Judging by the erratic and confused behavior they have demonstrated in the past week, I am convinced that the clocks on this campus are centrally controlled from Lowndes Hall. Although I am painfully aware that the student body will not take full advantage of their opportunity to exert a motivating force in more important, I think we should take a radical stand on the immediate chronological problem.

I suggest that another appropriation be made from our already thoroughly abused Student Activities Fund for the purchase of a large second hand wind-up clock to be placed in a well-traveled area, where confused and bewildered students may gaze upon its truthful face and gain some consolation at least some small part of our school is not racing ahead at breakneck speed and getting nowhere. I further suggest that this sage old antique be declared off-limits to the maintenance staff, who I suspect of having a lot to do with the affliction of the present centrally controlled marvels of modern technology.
