THE WHIG

EASTON, MD.

TUESDAY MORNING, March 9, 1830.

For some months past we have had it in contemplation, and have now resolved to establish, during the next month, a CIRCULATING LIBRARY in this town. According to the arrangements which we have made, the Library will consist of from fifteen hundred to two thousand volumes. These will be composed of the most popular and standard works, in all the various departments of literature and science. And in addition to these, according to the arrangements made, all the new novels and other interesting European publications shall be forwarded to us immediately after their arrival in this country. Should our undertaking be successful, and, from the encouragement which we have already received, we have sanguine expectations of its success, we shall probably add some of the most popular journals of the United States for the perusal of our patrons. The advantages resulting to the community from such an establishment must be manifest to all; and as the subscription will be only five dollars per annum, we earnestly solicit the patronage of the public, in order to sustain us in this important undertaking.

See how plain truth puts falsehood to shame.

In the Easton Gazette of the 27th of February, there is an article under the head of "the present and the past" comparing the present administration of the General Government with that of Mr. Adams. In this comparison the writer goes on to say that not an office has been abolished, not a salary reduced, nor any other expense of the Government retrenched, but that a large increase of officers has been recommended, and large appropriations called for, in addition to the present officers and the usual appropriations. That no reduction of the expenses of the Government need be expected, but if any change, there will be a large increase.

What is the fact? The present administration has expended during the year 1829, the first and only year it has been in power, the sum of $12,687,116.83 exclusive of payments on the public debt. The administration of Mr. Adams in the year 1828, exclusive of the payments made on the public debt, expended the sum of $13,321,875.93. Thus it is seen by an inspection of the Public Documents, that notwithstanding all that has been said against the present administration on account of the expense incurred in the recall of our Foreign Ministers, not in the confidence of our Chief Magistrate, notwithstanding the increase of population, and the growing wants of the country, notwithstanding the party opposed to the administration have constantly and unceasingly kept up the hue and cry against every effort at Retrenchment and Reform which has been recommended & attempted to be put in operation, yet the present administration have saved to the people, the immense sum of $634,659.01 in the first and only year it has been in power; besides paying more of the public debt by upwards of $200,000 than was paid in the same time by the late administration.

The publication in the Gazette is without a name, we must therefore say it is the act of the Editor. What now shall we say of the Editor of a public journal, who will thus (with the Documents before him) attempt to lead the people into error? Let him show this statement to be false, let him show that we have ever (with the truth before us) published a falsehood to the people, and we will say such conduct deserves public execration; until then we will only ask the people to hear both sides before they believe either. Does not this publication remind us of the slanders published against Gen. Jackson, and his family? Does it not recall to mind the coffin hand-bills, the monumental inscriptions, with all the other falsehoods published in the dying struggle of the fallen Coalition. Farmers beware! Mechanics beware! all is not gold that glitters. The wolf sometimes appears in sheep's clothing. Your present Chief Magistrate has never deceived you. The old farmer of Tennessee has never yet sought to promote his own good at the expense of his country:—Always willing to decline office, he has never accepted it but to preserve his country's liberties or rights; with such a man at the head of our government we need fear neither extravagance nor wrong.

MR. FOOT'S RESOLUTION.

This measure has been debated in the Senate, with much talent, and no small degree of acrimony. The friends of the Coalition, as usual claim the victory. Mr. Webster and Mr. Barton have been the Hector & the Sarpedon of the battle. "The great Daniel" and "the bold" "nervous" sarcastic "pungent" exhorting "sound" and "profound." Mr. Barton, have given Col. Hayne, and Mr. Benton cause to rue the hour, they roused this debate. We are always disposed to accord praise where praise is due. Mr. Webster is certainly a man of great talents. We wish we could say more in his favour. We have always regretted that he blasted his prospects, and blighted his fame in participating, in the corrupt contract, by which Mr. Adams was imposed on the people, as the President of the United States; on this point Mr. Webster felt indefensible, and in his last speech passed the subject with the cunning of a Rhetorician as a matter scarcely worth notice. Of Mr. Barton we know nothing further than what he says of himself, and what his Speech indicates "a Bastard son of the west." So says Mr. Barton. Perhaps he is the unfeeling offspring of a Yankee Trader and a Choctaw Squaw. In this debate he exhibited the character and feelings of a drunken Indian, and though his ruffian eloquence has received the plaudits of the Baltimore Chronicle, the New York Journal of Commerce, the Delaware Journal and the Easton Gazette, we strongly suspect it has greatly shocked the refined sensibilities and the classic taste of the Grove.

We have become quite accustomed to the exaggerated praise which some men bestow upon their friends and the unqualified reprobation of their opponents. The same pen which proclaimed John Q. Adams an enlightened statesman, an able civilian, and an honest man, denounced General Jackson, a bully, a murderer, and a traitor. When Senator Chambers and his second, took the field at the late Presidential contest, the power of the Senator was said to be irresistible, and all his adversaries fled as Ulysses and his companions, did before Polephemus of old. We also heard that the mellow tones, and persuasive eloquence of the modern Cicero captivated all hearts, and turned back the tide of opposition? but where now are these mighty men, the one at the bottom of the ladder, and the other fast descending to him.

Mr. Benton is a man of powerful mind, his exposure of the childish folly of the Panama Mission, will long be remembered; he is an able and efficient Senator and when he quits the councils of the nation, he will be a public loss. Col. Hayne is a gentleman of exalted character, distinguished alike for his talents, and modesty. We recommend him as a patron, to some of our acquaintance, whose ungratified pretensions, and corroding ambition, destroy the rank they would hold in society; which tho' very moderate would be of some value to themselves.

We strongly suspect, that the little tattle from Washington, comes from the same hand, which circulated some two years ago, the false and spurious pamphlets, against Gen. Jackson. If we be right in this conjecture, we think it but small work for a Senator. We do not see that he has this season taken any prominent part in any important matter, except advocating a gratuity of $50,000.00 to Gales and Senton. Instead of relating the incident of a Presidents dinner, and the party opinions of the comparative merits of Col. Hayne, and Mr. Webster, we think he had better show some merits of his own. Let him select some grand and important subject, and make a great speech; perhaps he might get himself GAZETTED. It would be a very pleasant thing to open the Easton Gazette, and to find the great Mr.

Webster, the great Mr. Barton, and the great Mr. Chambers all in a row.

In looking over the appointments made by our State Executive, we find the man of the Times, has no warrant to add Esquire to his name; if therefore he should have occasion to put "the screws, upon his delinquent subscribers he will have to use his "odd shillings" still. After his public solicitation, we fear he is sadly disappointed. We cannot offer him condoleance. Truth and justice forbid us. Though not regularly bred to the types, we feel much concerned for the honour of the Fraternity; and should he be deeply mortified to see one of the Craft acting the part of justice shallow. We are sorry to see from some of his last numbers, that he has rejected the kind advice, we gave him for the improvement of his paper.

[For the Eastern Shore Whig.]

Queen-Ann's county, March 1st, 1830.

MR. GREEN.

A letter writer from Annapolis informs his correspondent at Easton, that Mr. Grason introduced a bill into the House of Delegates to withdraw the funds from the Centerville Academy, and distribute them through the county, and adds that it will be no bad affair for the Easton Academy. I take the writer of this letter to be one of the Talbot Delegates of the real old Adams stamp. I am quite content that any error committed by our Delegation; but I think Mr. Grason understands the interests, of his county as well, as this letter writer, and perhaps a little better. The donation to the Centerville Academy at present is $800.00 per annum, and as I have been informed there are ten pupils in the Classical Department. The State therefore at present pays $80.00 per annum for the tuition of each of those young gentlemen. Boys who are taught Latin and Greek, are generally gentlemen's sons who are able to pay for their Education; I am friendly to Education generally, but I think the munificence of the State ought first to be extended to the destitute and the forlorn, though it is probable that this discipline of the Adams school will not agree with me. It would have been well, for the letter writer, to have informed his correspondent that Mr. Grason's Bill, by means of the donation, and by other funds belonging to the county, contemplates the establishment of schools, in every neighbourhood in the county, and by this means to instruct the poor and indigent free of expense.

It is much to be lamented, that all public national establishments, are too often made engines of political practice. The West Point Academy during the administration of Mr. Adams was freely used to this end instead of selecting Cadets, from that rank of society who have no means of liberal education. We find the sons of men of fortune and high families appointed, and I rejoice to find that this among other abuses is attracting the attention of Congress.

CLASSICAL ACADEMY FOR YOUNG LADIES.

MR. HART and Miss FENNELL respectfully inform the public that they have opened a school at the old Bank in Easton, where Young Ladies will be faithfully instructed in all the branches of a Classical English education taught in the most respectable Academies of our large cities—together with the Latin and French languages, every department of useful and ornamental needle work, &c. &c. They bring with them satisfactory testimonials of their moral and literary qualifications, which they have placed in the hands of some of the most respectable gentlemen of the town, to whom they will refer all concerned. Every attention will be paid to the manners and moral culture of their pupils—while the most interesting industry will be exerted in imparting an education which will render them useful and happy. The government of the school will be kind parental and strict. A board of visitors chosen by the patrons of the school, will attend to a faithful examination of the young ladies, on the last Friday of every month, & report to the public. At the end of every quarter there will be an examination of the school to which all will be invited. A faithful journal of the conduct of each young lady will be kept, always open to the inspection of the visitors of the school, and to the parents and guardians of the children, and to no others.

POET'S CORNER.

(From the Mauch Chunk Courier).
JOE BUNKER'S VISIT TO MAUCH CHUNK.

Did you ever go up to Mauch Chunk?
By jings—how the water does roar;
I went 'tother day with my trunk—
The path was too narrow for more.

As I got just up into the Gap
A thinkin' of overshot mills,
A rock tumblin' down hit me slap,
And dispers'd me clean into the rills.

By gaully—I holler'd right out,
'Oh, give a poor devil a hint,
And not when he's walkin' about
'The river; to knock him clean in't.'

Well, onward I started full swig,
And gave me a touch of the cramp,
If I seed not a ditch full as big
As the ditch through father's spruce swamp.

Oh—thunder and smoke, then I cried,
Them troughs dragg'd by horses beat me,
They're longer and sartin as wide
As Scudder's great Buttonwood tree!

And full of sich rotten black stuff
Dug out, as they said, of the ground,
That I guess'd they had went low enough
For the sinders within Satan's bound!

Excuse that are line if you please—
But by hoky! my hair 'gan to raise
When I saw sich big mountains as these,
And they talk'd of their patent railways.

You are pretty cute fellers I thought
'To ride all your coal upon rails,
When they'd been so much easier bought
By three or four dozen milk-pails!

But give it all up as moon shine,
When I'd got on the top of the hill,
And the mules haul'd me up to the mine,
'The long string of wagons to fill.

Now says I 'let us have a good ride,'
But oh—Jehul! I went like a bolt,
Or thunder and lightning beside,
Or Eclipse or a wild Arab colt!

'Keep still my good hearty,' said Jim,
'Tie looby who guided the pole;
But I wish'd that old Cootie had him,
With his mules and his cargo of coal.

Just think of a mile in a minute,
Or two—if you will, my dear friend,
And a car, and yourself box'd within it,
And no 'whoa' to the fool at the end.

Would you yell, would you sneeze, or keep cool?
I merely laid flat as a strap—
Expecting to land in that pool
'The Leligh, or fly through the Gap!

But they stopp'd!—and half dead I crept out;
Din'd at Kimball's and read the Courier,
And agreed on this terrible route,
You could ride to the moon thrice a year.

ANECDOTES OF THE BATTLE OF NAVARIN.

LIFE ON BOARD A MAN OF WAR.—From a book under this title published in London, and confined principally to the events preceding, pending and following the battle of Navarino, we find in the London Literary Gazette the following extracts.

The following scene on board the Genoa, after the fight, is very forcible!

"I found some of the men engaged in burying Rooney, the only man killed who had a wife aboard. Mrs. Rooney sat on the truck of a gun, her face hid in her hands. As they proceeded to put him overboard, she started up, and told them to stop a few minutes; she then went down upon her knees, and, stroking back his curly hair, patted his cheek exclaiming, 'Poor Jim! poor Jim!' Then clasping her hands together, she rose, but immediately dropped down senseless upon the deck. Four of the men carried her to her berth, while I bent my way to my own mess. The deck was quite dark, save the glimmering light of a candle here and there, stuck in a purse's lantern suspended from the battens. When I came to my berth I was welcomed by the whole of the mess more like a brother than a shipmate; but this day made us all brothers; feuds and animosities were buried in forgetfulness; and many who had entertained bitter hatred at one another would be seen shaking the hand of friendship together. I took my seat, and commenced looking about to see if any of the old familiar faces were missing; but it was difficult to recognize my mess-mates in the curious group of ferocious-looking banditti that surrounded me. They were all dressed in shirt and trousers, with handkerchiefs round their heads, and pistols and cutlasses at their belts. Their faces were black with smoke and gunpowder, and several who had been wounded with splinters had large plasters about their cheeks.—To heighten the effect, gleams from the blazing Moslem vessels cast every now and then a red glare into the berth. I found, on inquiry, that two of my messmates besides Moritt were killed. We talked of the behaviour of the ship's company, and the probable consequences of the battle. Tom Elliot came down with a monkey of wine, and said, 'D'ye see, shipmates, the purser's steward has filled the monkey up to the brim! now, come, we shan't be sogers. Hand us the tot from the inside there, and let us all drink round.' We drank to the memory of our good old captain, and all who fell on this glorious day. I found the wine revive me greatly, and soon went on deck to have a view of the scene of battle, by the light of the Turkish fleet, that was blazing in all quarters."

The following is also characteristic:—

"The Turkish vessels still continued to burn, and the discharge of their heated guns, at intervals, sounded like minute guns lamenting the devastation of the day; while the gentle breeze that began to blow at night, as it whistled through the tattered remains of our rigging, seemed to mourn for the brave men who had fallen, and who now lay 'full many a fathom deep' in the blue waters. About ten o'clock I heard a melancholy voice right under our stern, crying, 'Ali! Mahomet!' Jack Mitchell and I rose, and, looking under the stars, we saw two Turks clinging to the rudder and sending forth their ejaculations for God and Mahomet to save them. We could offer them no assistance, for strict orders had been given not to allow any of the enemy to come aboard. The poor fellows seemed as if they could not hold on long. In about five minutes one let go, and soon after the other, both sinking in the water with the half-articulated cry of 'Ali! Ali!' Mitchell returned and stretched himself on the deck, saying, with an affected air of indifference, that he 'would be blessed if he would be again disturbed in his snooze for all the b—y Hometans in Christendom.'

Another affecting extract, and we have done.

"The morning before we reached the island of Sicily, Captain Moore, of the marines, who had been wounded in the action of the 20th, died; his wound, which I believe was in the thigh, having mortified. He was an old man, and as much beloved by his own men as the commodore had been by us. A coffin was made, perforated with holes, and the body deposited in it along with shot and bags of wet sand, to make it sink. It was laid, covered by a union jack, on a grating, fixed against the ship's side, the outer edge of which was raised to a level by two ship ropes held fast by two men, so that at the word being given, by letting go the slips, the grating dropped like a hinged door against the side, and the coffin would fall into the sea. The order was given to toll the bell, and the ship's company and officers, in full uniform, mustered, all hats off, on the upper deck, as near as they could to the gangway; the fore and main chains were crowded, and all stood in respectful silence to see the coffin consigned to the deep. A file of marines was ranged on the gangway, to fire three volleys over their commander. The chaplain commenced the funeral service for a person buried at sea. 'Not a sound was heard,' but the breaking of the water on the weather-bow; while the solemn voice of the chaplain rose at intervals, and seemed to be borne along on the winds.—When he came to the passage, 'We commit his body to the deep,' the slips were let go, and the coffin sunk into the white-topped wave that ran under the lee of the ship. The marines fired three rounds over him; and this concluded the funeral of Captain Moore, who was buried nearly opposite the cloud-capt top of Mount Etna."

DEAF AND DUMB.
The schools for educating this unfortunate class of human beings, now in operation, amount to nearly a hundred. There are in Spain, one; in Italy, five; Portugal, one; Switzerland, four; Württemberg, three; Bavaria, one; Prussia eight; rest of Germany, nine; Denmark, two; Sweden, one; Russia, one; Great Britain, sixteen; United States, six; France, twenty-six; Holland, four. The king of Denmark has decreed, that 'every deaf and dumb infant born in his kingdom shall receive the education necessary to render him a useful member of society.'

Everlasting Candles.—Abraham Newlight, lately from Greece, informs the public that he has invented a new article in the tallow chandlery line which he flatters himself will be patronized by all who wish to economize light, in this gloomy state of the manufacturing and commercial world it is called the everlasting candle, and if properly used, the subscriber warrants it never to burn out. Information concerning the manner of using it may be had of S. N. at the office of Gas Company or of the candle snuffer at the Theatre.

N. B.—Those who have already purchased these candles, will be careful not to light them.

The Portsmouth (Ohio) Times of the 21st ult. says: We expect in 1836, if we should live so long, to see gentlemen and ladies who had breakfasted in Baltimore, on the same day, at evening, snugly sipping their tea in the cabin of a steamboat on the Ohio river.

DR. CHAPMAN'S

ANTI DYSPEPTIC OR SOUR

STOMACH PILLS.

INDIGESTION or Sour Stomach is acknowledge by Medical Writers to be a complaint of stubborn kind, at all times very difficult of cure. This is sufficiently illustrated in the disappointment of those who unfortunately suffer under it, as they for the most part find that, after having tried many things to little or no purpose, they are at last obliged to use, for perhaps the remainder of life, such articles as can at best but palliate the disease.—Under such circumstances any medicine capable of removing the complaint must surely be an article highly deserving the attention of all those who are afflicted with it. The propriety of these Pills is therefore happy in offering to the afflicted an invaluable medicine, the success of which has never yet been equalled for the cure of Dyspepsia in its most complicated forms, such as loss of appetite, nausea or sickness at the stomach, and sometimes vomiting, belching up of water which is sometimes tasteless, but most commonly sour, gnawing pain in the stomach, heartburn, or what is called sour stomach, costiveness, pulseness of the countenance, languor, low-ness of spirits, palpitation of the heart, vertigo or giddiness, and disturbed sleep, &c.

Whoever applies these Pills in the above diseases according to the directions, will never be disappointed, as they have never once been known to fail in producing a radical and permanent cure. The use of a single box will convince the most unbelieving remove all sourness of the stomach, not merely by neutralizing the acid, but by correcting that morbid state of the secretions which give rise to it, and at the same time will restore to the debilitated

DE LA MONTERAT'S

Columbian Vegetable Specific.

FOR the cure of Consumptions, Asthma, Pleurisy, Spitting of Blood, and Pulmonary affections of every kind.—The most valuable remedy ever discovered for the cure of Consumptions and all diseases of the breast and lungs leading to Consumptions.

To all afflicted with these troublesome affections an immediate use of this highly celebrated specific is only necessary to convince the most incredulous of its possessing qualities superior to any other medical preparation yet discovered.—Since the discovery of this invaluable medicine, numbers have experienced its salutary and happy effects. Its mild and gentle operations are much extolled by those who have used it. In all cases of coughs, colds, Asthma, and other consumptive affections by the use of this article they have been enabled to defeat an enemy whose attacks would otherwise have been followed by the most alarming consequences. This Specific has relieved and cured the most violent cases in which other medicines have failed to give any relief. It operates by gentle expectorations, and may be given to infants and children with the greatest safety.

De La Monterat's Columbian Vegetable Specific has stood the test of experience and proved itself the most valuable remedy ever discovered for the cure of Consumption and Pulmonary affections of every kind.

The following certificates just received from highly respectable gentlemen will show its value.

Baltimore County, February, 14th, 1829.

GENTLEMEN—I feel it my duty to acknowledge the great benefit I have derived from the use of De La Monterat's Columbian Vegetable Specific. I do not like to speak of the Medicine in the exalted terms in which I estimate it, I will therefore as briefly as possible, give a history of my own situation, with the effects produced by this valuable medicine. I have been for the last five or six years labouring under a pulmonary Consumption, pronounced to be such by the attending Physician, during which time I have consulted many Physicians. Taken much medicine, but all to little purpose. The 12th of March, 1825, I puked blood for the first time, and continued so to do for several days in succession, and on the 14th of the same month, was confined to my bed, where I lay for two months until I was reduced to such a state of debility, that my friends began to despair of my recovery. I had made use also of all the popular remedies without benefit, and having accidentally heard of this Specific I determined to give it a trial, anticipating from the use of it, no better result than had attended the use of all the remedies I had taken; but in this I was happily disappointed. At my very lowest state I commenced the use of this specific, I took the first dose at night in a little herb-tea sweetened, which threw me in a gentle perspiration and procured for me a good night's rest. I continued to take the medicine, as directed, and in about five days my cough was completely stopped and have not had any return since. I am now perfectly satisfied of the superior quality of this specific over every other medicine offered for the cure of the above disease. You are at liberty to use this letter in any way you may think proper. Yours respectfully,

Signed JOHN R. ELLICOTT,
Lancaster County, Pa. March 5th, 1829.

Messrs. Boyd & Higgins,
Gentlemen.—It is with no small degree of thankfulness that I now address you for the public good, and to inform you of the works of divine Providence, through the agency of your valuable medicine, called De La Monterat's Vegetable Specific, I have been for the last six months confined to the house, and the latter part to my room attended by two of the ablest Physicians in the county, who finding my complaint a consumption abandoned me to the will of Providence, I heard of your medicine and purchased 1 two bottles, which I imagined done me good, I there fore purchased two more, which to the satisfaction of my friends and doctors, have formed a perfect cure.

With due respect, I am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant,

JACOB RANDSKOM.

It is offered for sale by
BOYD & HIGGINS,
No. 221 Market Street, and
JOHN M. LAROCQUE,
Corner of Baltimore and Harrison streets.

THE JOURNAL OF HEALTH.

Conducted by an Association of Physicians.

"Health—the poor man's riches, the rich man's bliss."

THE primary object with the conductors of the Journal of Health, is to point out the means of preserving health and preventing disease. To attain this, all classes of both sexes shall be addressed, in a style familiar and friendly, and with an avoidance of such professional terms and allusions as would in any way obscure the subject or alarm the most fastidious. The fruits of much reading, study, and careful observation, shall be placed before them, so arranged and applied as to conduce most efficaciously to their bodily comfort and mental tranquility.

To whatever profession or calling they may belong, the readers of this Journal will find precepts susceptible of valuable application. Air, food, exercise, the reciprocal operation of mind and body, climate and localities, clothing and the physical education of children, are topics of permanent & pervading interest, with the discussion and elucidation of which the pages of the work will be mainly filled.

Recommendation of the work.

We approve of the plan on which the publication, entitled the 'Journal of Health' is conducted, and believe, that it is calculated to be useful, by enlightening public opinion on a subject of high importance to the welfare of society. The numbers which have appeared, evince talent, and may be viewed as a pledge of the continued usefulness of the publication, while conducted by its present editors. We, therefore, feel no hesitation in recommending it to public patronage.

FULLER'S NEW LINE.

Washington, Georgetown and Baltimore

ACCOMMODATION

STEEL-SPRING COACHES.

THE public are informed that owing to the many objections that have been thrown in the way, and among them, for the present moment, insurmountable one of being refused accommodations for the terms on the road, except at one place, (Mr. Drummond's, at Annapolis) Mr. Fuller, the Agent for the above line, has not been able to redeem his promise as given in an advertisement published in the papers of this city, November 5th, to establish one additional line to run at a different hour from the one now in operation. He, however, is happy in having it in his power to say that arrangements are making for building Stables, and that in the course of all next week, the other line will most certainly commence its operation.

Mr. F. avails himself of the present occasion to return his thanks to the citizens of Baltimore, Washington, and Georgetown, for the unexpected, but most kind, unexampled warmth of expression of opinion by them, in favor, as well of the designs of his undertakings, as of his Coaches, Horses, and Drivers, and the very liberal patronage they have extended to him—and he pledges himself that no exertions on his part or that of either of his Drivers, shall be spared, to entitle his life to merit a continuance of their approbation, and that of the public generally.

He would now also assure the public that, notwithstanding a distinct, the 'Despatch Line' is advertised to commence running on the 10th inst, with great expedition and at a reduced price, his course will be unchanged and uniform. Though this Line belongs, as seems to be the prevailing opinion, to the same 'concern' to which all the other Lines belong, and has been established undoubtedly, for the express and sole purpose of opposing his Line, he is resolved, and so assures the public, that he will not be led aside by this, from his fixed purpose of so conducting the New Line, as to ensure a safe and comfortable passage to those who may favor it with their patronage. He is determined, in no instance, to hazard injuring either person or property, and at the same time pledges himself to conduct his passengers through as expeditiously as shall be deemed compatible with this determination—'about five hours,' will probably, as a general rule be the time occupied on the road.

The fare in the New Line is reduced to $2 50; this being, as its proprietors consider, a fair and just compensation for the conveyance of passengers over this route. It was the intention of the Agent to be the first to reduce the fare; but when the designs of the 'Despatch Line,' became apparent, it was thought advisable to come down at once to the price at which the New line have ever been willing to convey its passengers.

N. B.—Books for the reception of passengers' names for this Line kept at Lyford's Fountain Inn, Light Street, (the General Stage House) and at the office No. 2, South Calvert St. Baltimore, and at Barnard's Mansion Hotel, Pennsylvania Avenue, near the President's House and Public Offices, (the General Stage House) and at Letourno's Refectory and Tavern, Washington, and at Mr. Semmes's Tavern, Georgetown.

AN ACT
To promote the preservation, improvement and increase of Shell-Fish, in this State.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall be law ful for any citizen of this State, to locate and appropriate in any of the bays, sounds, rivers, creeks or coves, any area, not exceeding one acre in extent, for the purpose of depositing, bedding, or sowing any Oysters, or other Shell-Fish, either for domestic use, or ex portation; and all Oysters, or other Shell-Fish so deposited, bedded or sowed, or con tained therein, or upon the bottom of such area, or superficies, shall be deemed and held in law as the proper estate and right property of the person who caused the same to be so located, or appropriated, and deposited, bedded or sowed therein, as afo resaid; Provided however, that the same lo cation, or appropriation, shall be indicated and distinctly defined by stakes, bushes, or other proper marks, or metes and bounds; which indication and definition, shall be described in writing, under the oath or affir mation, and recorded, at the cost of the party applying, in the office of the clerk of the proper county; and provided also, That the said location, and appropriation, shall not injure, obstruct, or impede the free naviga tion of any estuary or navigable stream in this State.

SECTION 2. And be it enacted, That the proprietor of the adjacent shore, shall have a right of pre-emption for one acre of su perficies, extending along the shore from the ordinary low water mark, in the direction of the main channel, to be equilateral, or as nearly square as the situation and circum stances may admit of, subject, however, to the limitation herein before contained; And provided
