Victims of the War.
A man in Stark county, Ohio, who was one of the survivors of Napoleon's army, Joseph Akins, is dead at Alliance, Ohio. He was born in Belford, France, on September 5, 1792. The first important event to make an impression on his mind was the battle of Austerlitz. Young Akins, then 16, was so elated with the victories of Napoleon that he succeeded in enlisting in the French army. He participated in a number of engagements, and his division was ordered to Moscow, but fortunately the order was countermanded, and he was saved from that fatal campaign. When the clash of arms came at the battle of Waterloo Akins's division was only thirty miles distant, but arrived on the scene of action too late to be of service. At the close of his military service Akins was married to Miss Mary Mullen, and about five years later came to America. They first settled in Canton, where they lived for fifteen years. His wife died about twenty-one years ago. Akins seldom referred of late to his army experience, but in earlier years gave interesting accounts of his experience as a fighter under Napoleon. During his last hours, while unconscious, he talked of old army experiences, going through the motions of drawing his sabre and calling to his comrades in arms to sustain the valor of France and the leadership of their brave commander.

Surplus Needed for Pensions.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Secretary Windom is authority for the statement that the growing treasury surplus cannot now be used in the purchase of four per cent. bonds for the reason that it will be needed to meet pension payments due next month, aggregating $25,000,000. The available cash surplus is now $18,000,000, but, by continued excess of receipts over expenditures, will probably reach the required amount by the time indicated. Secretary Windom is of opinion that the business of the country would be improved by making these pension payments monthly instead of quarterly, as at present, and he has made a recommendation to that effect to the proper congressional committees.
If this is done, he says, it will do away with the present necessity of keeping a large sum of money in the treasury vaults for three months when it might just as well be in the hands of the people entitled to it.
Later in the day Secretary Windom explained that the changing from quarterly to monthly payments he meant merely to alter the system as to provide that in the future all the payments shall be made throughout the country in different months, and in that way make payments every month instead of only every quarter, as at present.

Delaware Legislature.
DOVER, DEL., Jan. 12.—Notice was given in each house of the legislature this afternoon of bills to provide for resubmission to the people of the question of calling a constitutional convention, a measure to which both political parties stand pledged. In the House, notice was given of a bill to divide Cedar Creek hundred, Sussex county. This would make the county government more safely democratic. William T. Parvis, of Milford, was appointed reading clerk in the House. Among prospective measures is an application for a charter for a railroad from Laurel, Del., to Tyaskin, Md., a distance of about twenty miles, to connect at Tyaskin with the contemplated Eastern Shore Railroad. This project will come with substantial backing by men who mean business. In the Senate, notice was given of a New Castle county commissioner bill to supersede the existing levy Court system.
No child can sleep soundly, while suffering with colic or from teething. Remove the cause by using Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. Only 25 cents.

Commander Seth and the Oystermen.

At their request, Commander Seth, of the State fishery force, met a number of the oyster packers from the Canton Exchange at the Carrollton Hotel, Baltimore Tuesday, to discuss the existing oyster culling law. The packers thought the law was being violated, and urged the commander to use vigorous efforts to have it enforced, as the destruction of small oysters now works a great injury to the future growth of the beds. Commander Seth explained to the meeting what had been done since he assumed control of the force. He said he had worked hard to familiarize himself with the needs of the oyster industry in the State, and had given particular attention to the culling feature of the law. Within the next sixty days, he said, the oyster planters from the North will be coming into the Maryland waters, purchasing stock to replant. As the small oysters are especially desirable for the purpose, extra precautions will have to be taken to prevent even greater violations of this feature of the law. It is his intention, he said, to use vigorous measures to guard the beds during the period in which these purchases are made. The present police force, he says, is too small as it frequently happens that one police boat has as many as 600 or 800 dredgers to watch. No suggestions were offered by the packers, but they promised their cooperation in the enforcement of the present law.

Nanticoke Items.

Business in this section is not quite so active as it was before the holidays. The merchants are feeling the effects of the scarcity of oysters.

The bivalve is one of the chief commodities of our community and our prosperity depends, in great measure, upon the annual harvest of this product of the waters.

WICOMICO BAR ASSOCIATION.

The Legal Fraternity of Salisbury Organizing for the Mutual Protection of Lawyer and Litigant.

A meeting of the legal fraternity of Wicomico county was held at the office of Mr. W. I. Todd Thursday night, in accordance with announcement made at a preliminary meeting held last week.

The purpose of the meeting was to form a bar association for the mutual protection of our lawyers and the people.

Those present Thursday night were Judge Holland, Jas. E. Ellegood, W. I. Todd, Robt. P. Graham, H. L. D. Stanford, Thos. Perry, Jay Williams, Geo. W. Bell, Col. Malone and Geo. W. D. Waller.

Hons. Thos. Humphreys and E. Stanley Towdvin were unavoidably absent, and State's Attorney Rider was out of town.

Judge Holland was elected president of the association; Jas. E. Ellegood, vice-president; Harry L. D. Stanford, secretary; and Jay Williams, treasurer. The officers are chosen for a term of twelve months.

The committee on a constitution and by-laws, consisting of Messrs. Jas. E. Ellegood, Robt. P. Graham, and Woodland I. Todd, submitted their documents to the association and they were adopted, after a slight revision.

By the by-laws and constitution, any lawyer of good standing in the state may become a member of the association. It also requires that one meeting each month shall be held. The first Monday night of each month has been selected as the time of the regular sessions. At each meeting a thesis will be read by some member of the association who has been previously selected by the president for that purpose.

A moot-court will be a feature of the new organization, and fictitious cases, involving nice points of law, will be argued.

Messrs. Humphreys, Ellegood and Towdvin were appointed a committee to draft a "fee bill," which will provide a scale of charges by which the whole association will be governed.

Messrs. Graham and Todd constitute a committee to inquire into the advisability of incorporating the organization under the general laws of the state.

Much interest is manifested by the lawyers, who believe that their clients as well as themselves will derive benefit by the association.

The next meeting will be held in Mr. Todd's office the first Monday night in February.

Since Mother Died.

Since Mother died, the world seems changed—Fairest of flowers seem not so fair As they were when I culled, and softly ranged The fairest a-near her cushioned chair.

And waited her soft, slow words of praise: Sweetest of music seems not so sweet As when she hearkened the wild-bird's lay—And the singing winds, and soft, cool beat Of rain—felt through a thirsty day Charm not (as in the olden days) Since Mother died!

The world seems bleak, since Mother died! Life's happy hills, and valleys cool and green Seem settled to a desert, weary, arid—No palm-grove's shade—no fountain's sheen Beckon me near, when burns the zenith sun.

And yet, it seems the way I must go—The old impassioned questionings are dumb; The old impulsiveness beats low; Duty and will scarce overcome The dull, dead-level of tasks to be done—Since Mother died!

The world is lone, since Mother died! At the family board, her vacant place, Her vacant chair by the ingle-side—Ah! who shall fill—or, what efface The loneliness that fills the room?

Kind friends seem kinder than before—Full well I prize their tender rub—But, life's not what it was of yore, Save but its golden-hearted truth, Its deathless faith's undimmed bloom—Since Mother died!

Since Mother died—Since Mother died! The roses seem some pathetic lay Sung by some singer, tearful-eyed, Keep with me through the sunlit day, The saintly, solemn, starlit night.

Ah! yet, they bring not grief's quick rain Of tears that cool, and cleanse, and cure! I'm glad for her eternal gain—But, great the loss and grief I dure—The hungry waiting for the light—Since Mother died!

The world seems changed since Mother died—But Heaven seems not so far away! The ripple of waves on the silver side Comes with the hush of a falling day.

When I sit alone, in her cushioned chair, And the stars she loved seem beck'ning me, Beck'ning—beck'ning, ever and aye—How oft I wake, in the night, and see Some golden star's long gleaming ray Fall fully athwart that hallowed chair—Since Mother died!

Raiding the Country.

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—A special from Chino, Montana, says that four families from Snake creek have come in. These report that a band of about 250 Sioux Indians were raiding the country, killing cattle, stealing horses and committing other depredations. The town is all prepared for defence against an Indian attack. The citizens have decided to make a requisition on Governor Toole for 500 stands of arms with ammunition.

For burns and wounds we would recommend Salvation Oil. All druggists sell it at 25 cents.

Many cases have come under our notice where a single bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup relieved a sufferer from a severe cough, which had been treated for months by competent physicians. 25c.

Wanmaker's.

The January announcements intended only for our guests and customers, have brought sellers—importers and manufacturers—in large numbers. The crowds of eager buyers told a convincing story that here and now goods could be moved at popular prices.

Our new trade notions have been admitted and admired on both sides. Big operations have been made. Shelves and counters have been filled and re-filled, and the public has made money.

To-day the Stationery Store offers eight bargains in Note Paper and Envelopes. The Art Pottery gets 100 new bargain pieces, the Muslin Underwear is filled up, and so all through the house.

The great Carpet sale has money for you at present prices. The chance won't come again.

Women's Wrap Material—Some of the richest and most unique of this season's Long Wrap Materials go this morning to the prices of ordinary stuffs—or below. They are the sorts many women of the exactest taste have been choosing from for months past. Extra fine in quality, striking in design, and made expressly for the purpose. Some are short pieces, some have been a little slow. The quickerer has touched in good earnest.

Wonderful Popularity.—The fact that the sale of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purge Pellets exceeds that of any other pill in the market, be it great or small, is on account of the fact that they are tiny, little sugar-coated granules, and that in most cases one little "Pellet" is sufficient for a dose, that they are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless; and for constipation, biliousness, sick headache, and all diseases arising from derangement of the liver, stomach or bowels, they are absolutely specific. A gentle laxative or active cathartic, according to size of dose.

The Owners of the Country.—A year ago Mr. Thomas G. Shearman showed in the Forum that one half of the national wealth was owned by 40,000 families, that three sevenths of it was owned by 250 families, and that there were 70 American estates, averaging $35,000,000 each. The statement was contradicted. But he shows in the January Forum, in his prophecy of "The Coming Billionaire," not only that his figures have not been discredited, but that they could not be, for in the large majority of instances they are.

A few words in reply to the questions constantly asked about Chellis.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Jan. 12, 1890.

The January announcements intended only for our guests and customers, have brought sellers—importers and manufacturers—in large numbers. The crowds of eager buyers told a convincing story that here and now goods could be moved at popular prices.

Our new trade notions have been admitted and admired on both sides. Big operations have been made. Shelves and counters have been filled and re-filled, and the public has made money.

HUMAN CARNAGE.

Slaughter of 2,350,000 Lives in Wars of the Last Thirty Years.

In time of peace the statisticians count the cost of war in men and money, which does not seem, however, to have any effect whatsoever in the way of prevention. The fact is neither governments nor peoples want war in the abstract, though there always exist latent jealousies and hatreds and the desire for advantages which war alone brings that render it possible at any moment. You cannot make governments count their dead beforehand, though it is easy enough to count them afterward; while as for the prospective debt, a nation assumes it in advance as coolly as a farmer places a mortgage on his farm.

According to the estimates of French and German statisticians there have perished in the wars of the last thirty years 2,350,000 men, while there has been expended to carry them on no less than the inconceivable sum of $19,000,000,000. Of this amount France has paid nearly $3,500,000,000 as the cost of the war with Prussia, while her loss in men is placed at 155,000. Of these 89,000 were killed on the field of battle, 36,000 died of sickness, accidents or suicide and 30,000 in German prisons, while there died from other causes enough to bring the number up to the given aggregate. The sick and wounded amounted to 477,421, the lives of many thousands of whom were doubtless shortened by their illness or injuries.

According to Dr. Roth, a German authority, the Germans lost during the war 60,000 men killed or rendered invalid and $600,000,000 in money, this being the excess of expenditure or of material losses over the $1,200,000,000 paid by France by way of indemnity.

Dr. Engel, another distinguished German statistician, gives the following as the approximate cost of the principal wars of the last thirty years: Crimean war, $2,000,000,000; Italian war of 1859, $300,000,000; Prusso-Danish war of 1864, $35,000,000; war of the rebellion, north $5,100,000,000, south $2,300,000,000; Prusso-Austrian war of 1866, $330,000,000; Russo-Turkish war, $125,000,000; South African wars, $3,770,000; Afghan war, $19,200,000; Servo-Bulgarian war, $178,000,000.

All these wars were murderous in the extreme. The Crimean war, in which few battles were fought, cost 750,000 lives, only 50,000 less than were killed or died of their wounds, north and south, during the war of the rebellion. The figures, it must be remembered, are German, and might not agree precisely with American estimates. The Mexican and Chinese expeditions cost $200,000,000 and 65,000 lives.

There were 250,000 killed and mortally wounded during the Russo-Turkish war, and 45,000 each in the Italian war of 1859 and the war between Prussia and Austria. In the other wars the loss of life was relatively less, which did not make either the men or money easier to part with in the more limited areas where they occurred.

And this is but a part of the accounting, since it does not include the millions expended during the last twenty years in maintaining the vast armaments of the European powers, the losses caused by the stoppage of commerce and manufactures, and the continual derangement of industries by the abstracting of persons held in captivity.

President Lincoln's Habits.

The president rose early, as his sleep was light and capricious. In the summer, when he lived at the Soldiers' home, he would take his frugal breakfast and ride into town in time to be at his desk at 8 o'clock. He began to receive visits nominally at 10 o'clock, but long before that hour struck the doors were besieged by anxious crowds, through whom the people of importance, senators and members of congress, elbowed their way after the fashion which still survives. On days when the cabinet met, Tuesdays and Fridays, the hour of noon closed the interviews of the morning. On other days it was the president's custom at about that hour to order the doors to be opened and all who were waiting to be admitted.

At luncheon time he had literally to run the gauntlet through the crowds who filled the corridors between his office and the rooms at the west end of the house occupied by the family. The afternoon were away in much the same manner as the morning; late in the day he usually drove out for an hour's airing; at 6 o'clock he dined.

He was one of the most abstemious of men; the pleasures of the table had few attractions for him. His breakfast was an egg and a cup of coffee; at luncheon he rarely took more than a biscuit and a glass of milk, a plate of fruit in his season; at dinner he ate sparingly of one or two courses. He drank little or no wine; not that he remained always on principle a total abstainer, as he was a part of his early life in the fervor of the "Washingtonian" reform, but he never cared for wine or liquors of any sort and never used tobacco.—Col. John Hay in Century.

Chicago's Feminine Billiard Experts.—The largest number of women players at any one place may now be found at the aristocratic Standard club on the south side. The young women here do not hesitate to play an even game with the men, and hold their own too.

The Misses Goodman are recognized as the best two players on the south side. On the north side Miss Cool ranks above all other female players. She can play too strong a game for most amateurs, making runs of fifty and sixty with three balls. Two years ago such a feat was considered next to impossible for any woman. Hampered by her skirts and corsets, there were any number of shots that she could not make. These have been overcome, however, by learning to handle the cue with the left hand. Nothing now seems to stand in the way of a woman learning to play the game as well as the average man.

Potter Palmer has a table of unique design which is a combination cabinet. The scheme was devised by Mrs. Palmer, who, with many of her north side friends, delights in the game. The table was built after an original design which she furnished the factory. George M. Pullman is the possessor of another handsome table, and the Misses Pullman are credited with being able to play a fair amateur game with four balls. Charles Schwartz has a table that cost nearly $1,000, and Mrs. H. H. Porter personally looks after both a billiard and a pool table in her elegant home.—Chicago News.

Requiting His Own Mother.

The recent death in Canada of Mrs. Sterling, mother of Charles M. Sterling, who was executed at Youngstown, O., for the murder of Lizzie Grombacher, has unveiled the facts concerning an incident that occurred shortly before his execution. His mother came from Maxwell, Can., and though he had left home when but a lad with maternal intuition she recognized him. When brought to his cell Sterling without the quiver of a muscle said:

"You are mistaken, madam; I am not your son."

She implored him to recognize her, but he refused, and she returned home half convinced that she was mistaken. To his counsel Sterling said:

"She is my mother, but I could not break her heart by telling her that her son would be hung. Keep it secret until she dies."

Her death caused his attorney, W. S. Anderson, to break the seal of silence. "It was the most dramatic scene I ever witnessed," said Mr. Anderson. "I have seen all the tragedies of the past quarter of a century, but none that compared to the scene on that occasion. The mother, every line in her face showing the most intense suffering, and her heart nearly broken, while the son, knowing that the truth would kill her, stood like a statue, his face showing the pallor of death, assuring her that she was mistaken. Such intensity of action was never produced on any stage. It could not be."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

From Slavery to Affluence.—The will of the late Roswell J. Jeffries has been admitted to probate by Surrogate Addington. The deceased was a slave before the war, and often related in the prayer meetings which he attended some of his experiences and the incidents of his conversion to Christianity in his early life.

His early life. Upon obtaining his freedom he came to this city and bought a small farm upon which he has since been built up into the fine residence section now bounded by Park avenue, Brighton avenue, Meigs and Rowley streets. Although real estate speculators reaped some of the benefit of the tremendous increase in the value of this property, Mr. Jeffries was at his death a rich man. He lived to the advanced age of 90 years. His wife and four children survive him. The exact value of his estate is not known, but it is certainly over $60,000.—Rochester Post-Express.

Buried in Perfume.—Passing throngs gazed curiously at a strange plant that sprang up in the windows of the Chinese laundries. People without poetry in their souls darkly hinted that the almond-eyed Mongolians were raising onions. The emperor's subjects were innocent of the base charge. The essence of human emotions was clustered in the white and yellow petals of the flower.

The plant is called a Chimonanthus, and Chinamen at this season of the year import it from their native land. They place it in a vessel filled with pebbles and water and the flower is in full bloom till Christmas, when it imparts a beautiful odor that fills a room with perfume. The grateful foreigners have presented their friends in this city with pretty specimens as a token of their gratitude for kindness shown them.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Small Bonnets for the Theatre.—The men in town are looking forward to a delightful winter for playgoing. It is all on account of the ladies' bonnets. A year ago they were only comparable to cart wheels and steeples, but now they are the most beautiful things in little hats.

For the bonnets, at the opening night of a new play at the Bijou two well known bankers and the president of a trunk line railroad escorted their wives to front seats, and all the men in the house felt like breaking out with applause. This was because these wealthy men's wives wore bonnets that just covered the tops of their heads—little confections of lace that looked pretty and stole no one's view of the stage.—New York Sun.

Electricity in the French Navy.—The French minister of marine has decided that every military port shall send to Paris two foremen and two working electricians to study the various systems of electric lighting. A further evidence of the extent to which the government of France is recognizing the importance of providing its navy with the fullest possible instruction in electrical matters is afforded by the fact that lectures on the theory and use of electricity and its employment for naval purposes are being given at the Brest observatory, and they will be continued for four months.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

The German postoffice officials have been experimenting with the North sea cable, seventy-five kilometers long, between Heligoland and Guxhaven, to the possibility of using submarine cables of this length for telegraphic purposes.

George Bancroft Dead.

George Bancroft, the venerable historian, died at his residence in Washington, Sunday. It had been realized that Mr. Bancroft would hardly survive the winter, but the increasing infirmities incident to his advanced age, and his apparently better health this year, since his return from Europe, when he had a severe attack of pneumonia, and after a period of unconsciousness lasting about twenty-four hours.

"I was trained to look upon life here as a season for labor."

Being more than four-score years old, I know the time for my release will soon come. Conscious of the approaching end, I have not waited, without impatience and without dread, the beckoning of the hand which will summon me to rest.

As well as it is generally known that the large surplus in the National Treasury at the beginning of the present administration has already been squandered, and there will at once be a great deficit, unless money is borrowed and new taxes contracted which will require more than the exact situation in little known outside official circles. Senator Carlisle has prepared a statement of the squandering of the surplus, which he will publish in the February Forum. In brief it is this:

At the beginning of the Harrison administration, March 4, 1889, the cash balance in the treasury, which was a surplus, amounted to $150,000,000. At the end of this fiscal year, June 30, 1891, there will be a deficit of $14,000,000; and at the end of the next fiscal year, June 30, 1892, a deficit of $84,000,000.

This is the inevitable record of this Republican administration, because the legislation that has already been enacted prevents the decrease of expenditures. There can now be no turning back.

The increase of the expenditures of the National Government has been very much more rapid than the increase of population. The following paragraph tells the story of Republican extravagance in spite of Republican promise and prediction:

PROMISE AND PREDICTION.

Mr. Garfield, in 1872, when he was Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriation as speaking for his party, and apologizing even then, long before the time of the heaviest expenditure, for the cost of the Government, said: "It is manifest that the necessity of expenditures does not keep pace with the mere increase of numbers; and, while the total sum of money expended must necessarily be greater from year to year, the well-regulated government in time of peace, to grow gradually less."

THE PERFORMANCE.

Senator Carlisle shows that while the population in 1890 was only 16 times as great as in 1790, yet expenditures were more than 130 times as great. In 1810 the expenditures per capita were 75 cents; in 1890 they were $4.18. While the population was nine times as great, the per capita expenses of the Government were 48 times as great. And the rate of increase is constantly becoming larger, although this is a time of peace. The expenditures for the fiscal year 1891 are greater by 12 per cent. than for the preceding year, although the population has increased only 24 per cent.

PROMISE AND PREDICTION AGAIN.

Gen. Garfield said in 1872 in the same speech: "We may reasonably expect that the expenditures for pensions will hereafter steadily decrease, unless our legislation should be unwarrantably extravagant."

THE FACTS NEVERTHELESS.

In 1872 pensions consumed only $28,500,000. But in 1890 this was increased to $106,000,000. This year it will be $135,000,000; and the country, says Senator Carlisle, "will be unexpectedly fortunate if the expenditures for this purpose stop short of $300,000,000 per annum."

Senator Carlisle's conclusion is this: "It is the confirmed and ineradicable habit of the party now in power to dispose of the public money in a wasteful and extravagant manner, and there is no reason to suppose that it will cease to pursue this course until the treasury is exhausted. We are two years ago the richest nation in the world will be bankrupt long before the term of our present administration expires."
