HARDING'S INAUGURATION

His Induction Into Office Will Be Quiet And Simple

President-elect Harding has determined upon the details of the inauguration at Washington on March 4th. The customary ride of the President and President-elect will be dispensed with. Mr. Harding will go to the Capitol just in time to be sworn in at noon. President Wilson will have gone there some time earlier in the day to sign the bills of the dying Congress and thus to make them into law.

It would seem from present indications that the out-going President of the United States will cut less of a figure in the inauguration of his successor than ever before in the history of the United States. This is not due to any design on the part of Senator Harding, but inasmuch as virtually all of the inaugural customs are to go by the boards this year, it would seem that President Wilson, after he signs bills in the marble room of the Senate, will fade completely out of the picture.

Senator Harding declares that the more he contemplates the simple inaugural ceremony which is in store for him the more he likes the idea. At first it was designed that the inauguration of March 4 should be the most memorable in the history of the present generation, but Senator Harding put an end to this idea when he declared he did not think it becoming at a time when so many people were out of employment.

Mr. Harding will arrive in Washington the forenoon of March 3, just about 24 hours before he is to be sworn in. He will make his headquarters at the New Willard Hotel and it will be from that hotel just before noon on March 4 he will make his way to the Capitol to take the oath of office.

Washington High School Notes

The sum of $3.75 which was sufficient to finish paying for the piano was raised by the Freshman class. Cakes, sandwiches and hot chocolate were served.

The following named subjects were debated by the Junior class at the Literary Society on Tuesday, February 23d: Resolved—"Free text books should not be furnished by the State." Affirmative, Weldon Barnes, Lenora Brown and Austin Culver; negative, Allie Fleming, Helen Goodman and Howeth Barnes.

Decision for affirmative. "That there should be a commercial course in Washington High School." Affirmative, Mildred Dryden and Louise Hopkins; negative, Hope Holden and Lois Jackson. Decision for negative.

Upon the occasion of the anniversary of Washington's birth, Rev. Dr. Walter Archibald made an interesting patriotic address before the High School.

Farmers To Receive Seed Potatoes
Two cars of Maine grown Candler seed potatoes are expected to arrive the first of this week for members of the County Agricultural Association.

The association is receiving orders at this time for an additional car of Maine grown seed potatoes at $4.00 a bag delivered. These potatoes are guaranteed to be 98% straight Cobblers and contain less than 1% of disease.

Farmers interested in obtaining Maine seed potatoes in time for spring planting should place their order at once with the association.

Circulating Library Started
A circulating library of eleven books and five magazines has been started for the benefit of the Somerset County Junior Home-makers' Clubs. They have been selected with care and were purchased with the money left from giving prizes to the girls for good work done at the county fair last November.

Both were made possible by the splendid gift of $100 by Dr. Edward E. Toll. Poetry and garden clubs are now being organized to be ready for work in the near future.

HARDING COMPLETES CABINET

President-Elect Springs Surprises In Making Selections

President-elect Harding completed his Cabinet slate last Tuesday at St. Augustine, Florida, by a virtual selection of Edwin Denby, of Detroit, as Secretary of the Navy.

The choice was the first big surprise among the Cabinet selections. Denby's name having never appeared in newspaper speculation about the Navy post. He is an attorney and a former member of Congress and has served as an enlisted man in war time in both the navy and Marine Corps.

It is understood a formal tender and acceptance are yet to be exchanged, but Denby is regarded by those close to Harding as practically certain to take the place.

The new Cabinet, as selected by President-elect Harding, will be:

Secretary of State—Charles Evans Hughes, New York.

Secretary of the Treasury—Andrew W. Mellon, Pennsylvania.

Secretary of War—John W. Weeks, of Massachusetts.

Attorney General—Harry M. Daugherty, of Ohio.

Postmaster General—Will H. Hays, of Indiana.

Secretary of the Navy—Edwin Denby, of Michigan.

Secretary of Agriculture—Henry Wallace, of Iowa.

Secretary of Labor—James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania.

A tentative offer of the portfolio of Commerce is understood to have been made to Mr. Hoover, and the general expectation is that the former food administrator will accept.

A Birthday Party

Last Tuesday evening Miss Eddie M. Larmore entertained in honor of her 20th birthday.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Messick, Mr. and Mrs. Riddon Jones, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Larmore, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo W. Jones, Mrs. Susie M. Larmore, Misses Esther Davis, Elva Larson, Lillian McIntyre, Ina McIntyre, Sarah Renshaw, Edna Hambrey, Louise Hopkins, Lois Jackson, Lela Hambrey, Pauline Harrington, Margie, Mava and Dorothy Larmore, Grace Jones, Messrs. Edwin, Benjamin, Willie and Dewey Harrington, Andrew Smullen, Emil Robertson, George Bailey, Levin Bailey, Lloyd Barbon, Olen Rounds, Allen Barnes, Floyd McIntyre, Hoyt Bloodworth, Edward Smith, Paul Evans, Jennings Somers, Paul Renshaw, Joe Bonada, Stranghn McIntyre, Irving Larson, Wayne Davis, Will Williams, Charlie Larmore, James Kirwin, Will Larmore, Clinton Larmore, Wilson Jones and Marion Larmore.

Miss Larmore received many useful presents. The evening was delightfully spent in games and music and refreshments were served. At a late hour all departed for their homes wishing the hostess many happy returns of the day.

Farmers Receive Fertilizer

The first cars of fertilizer were received by members of the County Agricultural Association during last week at Loretto and Kingston. Shipments will be made to Princess Anne, King's Creek, Costen and Marion this week.

The members of the association are receiving 7-6-5 at $57.50, 5-8-5 at $51.25, 16% acid phosphate at $20.00 a ton delivered.

The association has sold over two hundred tons of mixed goods and materials. Inquiries have been made by farmers in the adjoining counties for carlot shipments of fertilizer through the association.

Shipments are being made promptly and all members ordering through the association will receive their fertilizer in time for early potatoes.

Fairmount School Entertainment
A George Washington entertainment was given by the pupils and teachers of Fairmount Central School last Wednesday evening. The following program was rendered:

Cornet and piano solo, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Branford; play, entitled, "Marsa Ganga de lubines man in de world"; recitation, Elizabeth Maddox; solo, "The Fairy Airship," Mary Ruth Beauchamp; motion song, by four girls; recitation, Rodman Sterling; recitation, Landon Walton; drill, by five girls; playlet, "When February was Crowned," cornet and piano solo, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Branford.

After the exercises were over, cream and cake was sold and a good sociable time was enjoyed by all. The sum of $26.25 was realized.

There is now strong sentiment in the State for reducing the number of elections in Maryland.

MILES FOR FEWER ELECTIONS

Declares Next Legislature Should Act To Save Cost For Taxpayers

Indorsement of the movement to have the next Legislature take the first step toward reducing the number of elections in Maryland has been given by Collector of Internal Revenue Joshua W. Miles.

"The most unjust and unnecessary burden placed on Maryland taxpayers now," said Mr. Miles, "is the cost of our many elections. For years I have been advocating steps to reduce the number. There is no sound reason at all against electing the Comptroller and Legislature with the Governor every four years. It is only common sense to take such a step, and it certainly should not be delayed.

"The argument for fewer elections, or for such consolidation, was heard before there were any primary elections. With the added expense and trouble of primary elections, surely the argument for consolidations is stronger now."

Mr. Miles believes that no delay should stop operation of the proposed new plan. He thinks, however, with former Governor Goldsborough, that the work of changing the Constitution should be done at a constitutional convention.

The necessary changes in the terms of court clerks, etc., he declared, would have to be done by constitutional amendments and he believes that other necessary changes in the State government, including greater representation for Baltimore, should be made at the same time. A constitutional convention, composed of men familiar with their task, is, he believes, the best method of accomplishing all these ends at once.

Election of members of the Legislature and Comptroller with the Governor every four years is favored by many leaders in Wisconsin county, including State Senator C. R. Disharoon, former Representative Jesse D. Price and former State Senator L. Atwood Bennett.

Wilson To Keep Up Work For Peace

President Wilson, in an address last Tuesday to a delegation from the Woodrow Wilson Club of Harvard University, declared he would devote his efforts to the last in supporting the cause of world peace.

To the group of six undergraduates, whom he received in the company of Mrs. Wilson in his study, the President said that he would leave to historians the task of interpreting the events of the Paris Peace Conference.

Declaring if he ever devoted himself again to writing, it would be along impersonal lines, the President said he most preferred to spend the remainder of his days in advancing the cause of world peace and to that he would give his whole strength and time.

Robert C. Stuart, Jr., who headed the delegation, told the President the Harvard Woodrow Wilson Club desired, upon the anniversary of the birth of Washington, to extend its greetings to him as "the great American of our generation," and, inspired by Wilsonian ideals, the club proposed to perpetuate the ideals to which the President had given concrete expression.

Snow Not To Block Roads

Every heavily traversed thoroughfare in the State will be kept open to traffic through the snow period, as the result of an experiment made during the last snowstorm on 500 miles of State highway, according to the State Roads Commission.

Details of the experiment of the State Roads Commission were given out last Wednesday afternoon by Governor Ritchie. The sections selected were from Oakland, Keyser, Cumberland, Hagerstown, Frederick, Baltimore, Bel-air and Elkton to the Pennsylvania line; the Annapolis boulevard from Baltimore to Annapolis; the Baltimore-Washington boulevard, and the main roads in Southern Maryland.

The entire sections were kept open to traffic at all times during the snowstorm and within half a day after the storm ended these roads were free from snow for the full width, according to the announcement. The feat was accomplished by a fleet of motor trucks, to which were attached specially constructed snow-plows. The expense is said to be relatively small.

Size Of Army Set At 175,000

The Army appropriation bill, as amended by a Senate military subcommittee to provide for an average regular Army of 175,000 men next year, was approved last Wednesday by the full committee and ordered reported to the Senate.

The measure carries a total of $862,214,800, an increase of more than $31,000,000 over the House total. Increases in appropriations included $4,765,000 for the National Guard, $2,800,000 for the air service and $1,500,000 for vocational training.

The only considerable decrease in any House item was $1,250,000 for the Ordnance Bureau.

RUSH FOR POSTMASTERS' PLUMS

Harding Will Revoke Order For Appointments on Competitive Basis

One of Warren G. Harding's first acts as President of the United States will be to rescind the order of President Wilson placing all postmasters under the protection of the civil service. Mr. Harding will insist that merit should control in the appointment of postmasters, but he does not believe the Democrats who have been placed in the postmasterships during the last eight years should be perpetuated in office.

Mr. Harding contends that only one class of postmasters are classified by law under the civil service. These are of the fourth class and are of minor importance. President Wilson came to the conclusion after several years in office that in the interest of efficient service all postmasters should be made permanent government officials, subject to dismissal only for cause.

Executive orders are subject to repeal at any moment. President Harding has indicated to a number of Senators and Representatives that he will declare the Wilson order null and void and will open the principal postmasterships of the country once more to political patronage.

From present indications, all Democrats whose names have been sent to the Senate after examination for postmasterships of the so-called Presidential classes will be excluded from further consideration and their places will be taken by workers in the political ranks. The terms of all the incumbent postmasters will be considered at an end four years from the date of their appointment.

The Postoffice Department is to be presided over by the directing genius of the Republican political organization, Will H. Hays. While postmasterships generally are conceded to the Representatives and Senators, Mr. Hays will have virtually the last say as to all who are recommended. Mr. Harding will make the formal appointment but Mr. Hays will give the O. K.

Maryland Paid $81,276.17 In Taxes

The report of receipts and disbursements, balances, etc., of the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, just issued, shows that in Maryland the customs receipts were $1,583,129.35 and the income and profits tax totaled $49,905,750.90, and the miscellaneous taxes collected in the State netted $31,870,420.55, a total of $81,276,171.45.

During the year the Government received $12,500 from the sale of the old immigration site in Baltimore.

Under the head of disbursements, it is shown that on July 1, 1919, there was a balance of $96,052.92 available for the immigration station in Baltimore, and that during 1920 only $335 was expended, leaving a balance of $95,717.32. For the Marine Hospital, Baltimore, there was a balance of $207,768.95 on July 1, 1919, and there was expended during 1920 $1,115.93, leaving a balance of $204,782.41 after providing $1,870.61 carried to the surplus fund.

For the postoffice at Cambridge, Md., there was an appropriation of $13,115.54 available July 31, 1919. Of that sum $327.25 was expended, leaving a balance of $12,788.29 as the balance on January 30, 1920.

The report on the appropriations for rivers and harbors shows that for Baltimore there was a balance July 1, 1919, of $833,513.76, and that the total disbursements for 1920 were $224,547.12, leaving a balance of $428,972.64 on June 30, 1920.

Extension Specialist To Visit County

County Agent C. Z. Keller has arranged to have Dr. Jehle, extension pathologist, visit the county this week and outline plans for spraying demonstrations to be conducted this year on control of diseases of potatoes and fruit.

Dr. Jehle will also inspect the cars of Maine grown Candler seed potatoes ordered by the County Agricultural Association.

Mr. G. E. Wolcott, dairy specialist, will also be in the county this week and visit the farmers who are interested in dairy cattle. Farmers who are interested in dairying and plant disease work can arrange for a visit of these specialists by getting in touch with County Agent C. Z. Keller.

Blankets and Auto Robes Received

The shipment of 44 blankets and 10 auto robes was received last Friday. Those who ordered blankets can get them at the office of County Agent C. Z. Keller.

These blankets were made from the wool shipped by the farmers of the county the latter part of December. The farmers will ship additional lots of wool if orders are obtained for blankets and auto robes.

WOMEN BARRED FROM OFFICES

Armstrong Says Nineteenth Amendment Applies Only To Vote

Women are barred from every public office in Maryland where the statute indicates the office should be held only by a male, according to an opinion delivered by Attorney-General Alexander Armstrong, Jr.

The use of the masculine pronoun in laws which create offices is accepted by the Attorney-General as indicative of the intention of the law that the office should be filled only by a male. As practically every office in the State, from Governor down to town clerks in the smallest townships, is created in statutes which use the masculine pronoun, the opinion is held to be all-inclusive.

If the opinion stands it will bar women from running for the Legislature or any other office this year. The common law of Maryland, on which the opinion is based, provides that women may hold office "by special legislative statute," but such special legislation cannot be enacted until after the elections this year.

"It is perhaps needless to add," the opinion concludes, "that the Nineteenth Amendment relates only to the right of suffrage and not to the right to hold office."

The opinion is the first given by Mr. Armstrong on the question of women in public office since the adoption of the Nineteenth Amendment. Previously he had ruled on the eligibility of women as election judges, but such eligibility was established by special legislation enacted at the special session of the Legislature to amend the election laws.

There is a question in the minds of some lawyers as to the steps it will be necessary for women to take to hold office if the Armstrong opinion stands.

Some contend that it will be necessary at the next session of the Legislature to comp every public general law and every public local law on the statute books and amend every one creating offices where the masculine pronoun is used. Others contend that the same end might be accomplished by a single general law, covering all offices. Still others held that, as the masculine pronoun is used in offices created by the Constitution, several constitutional amendments will be necessary to open the way to women for these offices.

Another theory advanced is that the provision in the Declaration of Rights, or common law, as embodied in the State Constitution, which provides that women can hold only the offices of Queen or overseer of the poor, except by special legislative statute, might have to be amended to clear up the whole matter. This would require a constitutional amendment which would have to be voted on and which could not be made operative before 1924. If this course should be found necessary, women would be barred from office until then.

State Police Force At Luncheon

Maryland capital and labor, business and agricultural, really saw the men of the new Maryland State police force face to face for the first time last Wednesday at a luncheon for 400 at the Southern Hotel, Baltimore, and seemed to decide that they were something to be proud of. When the guests were seated and the Rev. Albert E. Smith, Cardinal Gibbons' secretary, had asked the blessing Governor Ritchie called upon the State policemen to stand up.

They arose and stood at attention at their places at the center table in their uniforms of khaki with Sam Browne belts and brass buttons. The 400 or more Marylanders assembled to look them over broke into applause, then cheers, and finally stood up in tribute to them. Ten members of the Pennsylvania State police in uniform sat at the table with the Maryland men, and they, too, got warm applause when they arose at the Governor's request.

E. Austin Baughman, Automobile Commissioner of Maryland, who conceived the State police idea and probably did more than any other to make it a reality, spoke feelingly of his affection for the men growing out of his selection of them and his comradeship with them when they were learning their jobs. As their leader he pledged their loyalty and their utmost in service to the State.

Besides the Governor and the Mayor there were at the luncheon tables in the Southern Hotel the judges of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore city, the judges of the circuit courts of the counties, State's Attorneys from all parts of Maryland, sheriffs, chiefs of police, railroad officials, Masons, Knights of Columbus, Odd Fellows, members of the Junior Order of American Mechanics and officials of trade and civic improvement bodies.

G. O. P. LEADERS AGREE ON SLATE

Federal Appointments Settled At An All-Day Session

After an all-day session the Maryland Republican leaders established last Wednesday an amazing precedent in practical politics by walking out of Senator France's office in Washington with a written slate of Federal appointments to be made in Maryland under the Harding administration.

No one ever heard of such forehand-ed and prompt agreement on Federal patronage before, and the action was in direct contrast to the course followed by the Democrats eight years ago. The slate agreed upon, to be referred to Mr. Harding, follows:

District Attorney—Amos W. W. Woodcock, of Salisbury, now Assistant Attorney-General of Maryland.

Surveyor of Customs—John H. Cunningham, of Westminster, candidate for Comptroller on the Goldsborough ticket in 1911.

Appraiser—John A. Janetzke, Jr., of Baltimore.

Naval Officer—Clinton A. Richardson, president of the Fire Board of Baltimore.

Collector of Customs—Charles H. Holtzman, of Cumberland.

Collector of Internal Revenue—Galen L. Tait, of Montgomery county, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

Places for which selections are yet to be made are United States Marshal, to be named by Representative-elect Hill, of the Third district, and Commissioner of Immigration and Inspector of Explosives, to be named by Representative Mudd, of the Fifth district. The postmastership of Baltimore and other first-class postmasterships are to be taken up, if and when President Harding determined whether they are to remain under the civil service. The Prohibition Commission also is to be taken up later.

In framing the slate the leaders first decided to apportion the places to the six Congressional districts, except the one given Chairman Tait, who was deemed worthy of reward from the party as a whole. The new Representative, if a Republican, was given the responsibility for the selection in his district. If the district was represented by a Democrat the selection was left to the party official of most prominence in that district.

Thus, Mr. Woodcock, coming from the First with a Democratic member of Congress, was selected by William P. Jackson, as National Committeeman. Mr. Cunningham, from the Second, was charged to Representative-elect Blakeney. Mr. Janetzke, from the Third, to Representative-elect Hill, who also will be charged with the Marshal. Mr. Richardson, coming from the Fourth, with a Democratic member of Congress, was charged to Representative-elect Hill in the latter's capacity of chairman of the City Committee. Mr. Mudd has two places to fill from the Fifth, and Mr. Zihlman is charged with Mr. Holtzman, slated for the big plum, the Customs Collectors.

In the prolonged conference, in which the slate was agreed upon, National Committeeman Jackson acted as chairman and Mr. Tait as secretary. Others present were the Republican members of the next Congress—Senators France and Weller and Representatives Blakeney, Hill, Mudd and Zihlman. The conference is said to have been entirely amicable.

It developed last Thursday that, as a result of the conferences that, indorsement of Representative William N. Andrews, of the First district, is now given for a place on the United States Shipping Board.

Mr. Andrews is the lame duck in the present Republican delegation, having been defeated by T. Alan Goldsborough, and he made known some time ago his desire for one of the Shipping Board places which President Harding will fill. The Senate refused to confirm President Wilson's appointments. The job pays $12,000 each. Other recommendations are:

Reno S. Harp, of Frederick county, for United States Fish Commissioner.

Thomas E. Robertson, of Montgomery county, for United States Commissioner of Patents.

Alexander R. Hagner, of Washington county, for member of the United States Court of Customs Appeals.

Charles L. Wiegand, of Baltimore, for United States Supervising Inspector of Steam Vessels, for the Third district, which embraces the Baltimore harbor and the Atlantic coast to the south.

Deaths And Births

County Health Officer Dr. C. C. Ward, of Crisfield, gives the following information of the births and deaths in Somerset county for the month of January:

Deaths..... 27

Births..... 70

It does not follow because a young lady is bewitching that she looks like a witch.

PEGGY'S DAY

By ANNE S. HOGAN.

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

When Peggy's uncle sent the invitation to her to visit his family in the city, he was moved by a very common-sense consideration. The sister whom he had neglected for years. When he had learned, accidentally, that his sister had long since departed this life, James Weldon felt that his duty lay with her child, Mrs. Weldon was averse to the arrangement.

"The girl has had no advantages," she said, "and will humiliate us. It is a foolish whim."

But for once her husband was determined, and a cordial missive went on its way. Peggy, when she received the letter from the village post mistress, hurried home—almost in dancing steps—to read its contents to her father. But Bruce MacDonald was not as pleased as his daughter.

"I'd refuse the invitation with thanks," he said. "Late in the day for Mr. Weldon to pick us up, after going away with the family savings to college, and leaving me to care for his old folks."

But a glance at his daughter's disappointed countenance changed the father's words.

"Ah, well," he amended, "if your heart's set on the trip, dearie—"

So Peggy went upon her first visit to a great city.

Peggy did not intend to be disappointed; she was away on a joyous quest of adventure.

"If only," bemoaned Cousin Patricia, "the queer little creature were not so inordinately proud! She could be made presentable in one of my dresses, if she might be persuaded to wear it. But Peggy would not be persuaded, and obligingly absented herself therefore, from all social affairs. Her uncle was her staunch friend, which may have happened because Peggy adopted him as such."

"They," she told her uncle one morning, "are going to have a reception today for some noted person. It will last all afternoon. Aunt Gertrude says that my pink muslin is out of the question. Uncle, dear, do you think that you could drop me off at the gallery of Arts, on your drive to the office? There's a lunch room in the gallery, and I could spend such a glorious day."

James Weldon blinked. "Glorious? Looking at mummies and old script?" he asked.

Peggy nodded.

"And painting," she said. Her cousins were delighted at the idea; they had entered several paintings, that Peggy might be moved by curiosity to stay and see the "notable." Half the morning had fled before the girl ascended the marble steps to the art gallery. She became engrossed with one picture, and was wishing—Oh! so eagerly, that Daddy might be there to enjoy it with her, when a big man suddenly uncovered, and set up before the painting, a copy of the original; then with frowning brows, stood comparing the two. She had not known that she was going to speak, but the words started so she continued bravely.

"I like your copy best," Peggy said.

The artist turned abruptly.

"But the expression is not true," he complained, "the eyes of the original show wistfulness. I cannot seem to catch—"

"I wouldn't try to catch the wistfulness," Peggy told him cheerfully, "the girl would look utterly happy, when her lover returned. In that moment, war, everything would be forgotten."

The man smiled.

"Oh! it would?" he asked amusedly.

"And you advise me to leave my picture, so?" His tone changed to seriousness.

"It is refreshing to meet sincere enthusiasm," he said, "and I think—" he spoke thoughtfully, "that it would also be a pleasure to show you some of the great paintings. Would you care to walk around the gallery? I am Daniel Ware."

The name was added quietly, but Peggy caught her breath.

"Not—the real Daniel Ware?" she asked unbelievably.

It was more unbelievable still, to sit opposite the great man in the gallery luncheon room, to find him so kindly interested, so simply human. The noted artist, strange to say, appeared to be as regretful at saying goodbye as was Peggy.

"I have to go," he explained, or I would not. "May I know your name Miss Inspiration?"

"I am afraid not," Peggy answered him meekly, "my adventure is over."

She slipped in through the side entrance on her return, in order to escape observation. Lines of waiting automobiles told her that her aunt's reception was still in order. But as Peggy reached the side hall, a man in for coat came hurrying toward the door.

The man was the artist—her artist;—he stopped before her, staring; then he smiled.

"You?" he asked. "How do you come here?"

"I am trying to get past my aunt's reception," Peggy told him, "without being observed."

"Oh! Mr. Ware," came suddenly Cousin Patricia's voice. "Can you not be persuaded to remain with us tonight?"

The notable guest looked delighted.

"I am," he promptly responded.

THE WAITRESS

By MILDRED WHITE.

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Perry Raynor, heralded by his father's millions, passed through life like a prince, his every want attended. And as Perry possessed no airs of nobility or superiority, he made friends everywhere, and was genuinely welcomed for himself as well. So, when he strolled into the dining hall of the Grandison one day, and an eager attendant drew forth his chair, the young man gazed in good humored indulgence about the beautifully appointed room, choosing the waitress who might happen to please his fancy.

Upon this certain day Perry's choice was prompt and enthusiastic. A new waitress stood beneath the quaint carved clock under the balcony. Perry was charmed; the girl, with an obedient nod to the dining room attendant, moved in his direction. With direct impersonal gaze she waited Perry's order, nodding at its conclusion, to his cheerfully sarcastic:

"That's all, your majesty."

The girl passed out unheeding.

He chuckled at first, then flushed in unaccustomed pique. "What right had she to adopt that rebuking manner?" He had called waitresses "Blue Eyes" before, without chilling the atmosphere. But this waitress was apparently different. She had motioned disdainfully at the end of his meal, toward the generous "tip" laid before her on the table.

"I do not accept fees," this unusual waitress said.

And Perry, humiliated as he had never before been humiliated, pocketed the refused money and made his hasty exit.

Impatient with himself and his musings, Perry went back, and it happened to be at night. The great room was packed now with the after-theater throng, and in its center was placed a round draped stage. Perry, growing weary of cabaret dancing, was about to make his departure, when a new number was introduced. A small, gray clad girl figure ascended the dais; the gray kerchief frock was of a fashion long gone, and so was the arrangement of the girl's jetty curls. It was his haunting waitress who stood there, and sang odd, sweet, old-fashioned songs, in a voice of odd, tender sweetness. Perry, listening, caught his breath.

His gold made way for him past forbidding rules to the dressing room door; but when the girl came out she was dressed in the waitress' uniform, with its white collar and ridiculous apron. Her matter-of-fact coolness calmed his reckless admiration.

"Why did you wish to see me?" she asked.

"You sing like that, act like that," Perry blurted, "and then you come back to wait upon people—serve them. I don't understand it."

"Is there any reason," the girl asked evenly, "why you should understand?"

"Yes," Perry's calmness matched her own; "just this reason, that I love you; that I have loved you from the moment I first looked into your eyes."

The waitress regarded him gravely, the pink deepened in her cheeks, but she did not smile or seem to doubt his words.

"Then," she replied, "that being the case, I must tell you my story. My old father and mother live in a country town where he has for years been minister. He is respected and loved, but his people are poor. So poor that when there was not enough money to support three of us, I came to the city under pretense of giving music lessons. At least it was not wholly pretense, for I did try to form a class, but could not make it pay. While I hoped to study and become capable in other lines, I took up this position as waitress. The people from our home town do not patronize the Hotel Grandison. When father's letter, telling of mother's serious illness, came, I did not at first know what to do. Her lungs, it seems, had not healed after the pneumonia. The doctor ordered her to go away at once. It had to be Colorado or Arizona—if she would live. Poor mother, frail and always timid; father had been her crutch through life. She, away among strangers, alone, it was inconceivable. Father must go with her to cheer and comfort her; father, too old to find work in new fields. So I—sent them. It was quite easy when the hotel management agreed to let me sing at their cabaret."

The blue eyes were pleading.

"But my people must not know," she said. "They are so dear and queer, and old-fashioned." She smiled up at Raynor, wistfully.

"So Cabaret Helen supports mother and father in far-away Colorado," she explained, "while waitress Nell supports me."

The young man of millions reached diffidently for the waitress' hand.

"Won't you let me do all that for my wife?" he begged awkwardly.

Perry Raynor has been married a year now, but his family have not forgiven his misalliance.

"A cabaret waitress," wails his mother, "from the Grandison hotel!" But Perry happily refers to his wife as "Her Majesty."

"You see, she is truly a queen among women," he tells me. "And I, knowing little Nell's story, can never dispute the name."

HOUSED IN OLD BUILDINGS

Financial Institutions of Yorktown, Virginia, Do Business Among Historic Surroundings.

Within 20 miles of where the first English settlement in America was made at Jamestown is the scene where Capt. John Smith records the story of his rescue by Pocahontas, the daughter of the Indian chief, Powhatan. Within a circle of 20 miles is to be found the oldest Protestant church in America; the kitchen where Martha Washington cooked in good colonial style; the college which has graduated three presidents; Bruton church, in which more men of historical importance have worshipped than in any other church in America—and Yorktown, where Cornwallis surrendered to Washington.

Although Yorktown has a population of less than two hundred, it has two banks, both of which are working in what are probably the two oldest buildings used for banks in America. One of these banks, operating under state and trust company laws, is housed in the historic oldest customhouse built in America—erected in 1715. Here the ships for Philadelphia were once compelled to enter and clear. Here at one time was the gathering place of the financiers of the early colonists. Wall street has taken away the financiers, but has left the same old building with its same old walls of English brick, some 24 by 40 feet square and two stories high.

Panama Canal Locks.

There are few things more interesting to the average traveler than to pass through the great locks of the Panama canal. The vessel enters very slowly and as she does lines are taken aboard leading to electric motors or "mules," which keep her in the center of the lock. Then the great gates at the rear swing together and the water is turned into the enclosure thus formed. Looking over the side of the steamer one sees a great bubble of water rise from the bottom, then a second and third appear until finally the whole surface of the lock is boiling. The pressure is so great that often fish sucked into the drains that lead from the Gatun lake, are drawn in and thrown several feet into the air. When the proper level is finally reached the gate ahead of the vessel opens and the "mules" start forward, dragging the vessel free from the lock before she moves ahead under her own power.

Carnival Festivities.

Carnival festivities originated in the Roman Catholic countries of Europe, where they were celebrated, especially in Rome and Naples, with great mirth and freedom during the week before the beginning of Lent. Mardi Gras (literally "Fat Tuesday," so called for the French practice of parading a fat ox, "bœuf gras," during the celebration of the day), or Shrove Tuesday, is the last day of the carnival. The festivities were first introduced into New Orleans in 1833, by one of its French citizens, Mr. Marigny, and for many years they consisted of promiscuous maskers roaming through the streets of the city, indulging in various kinds of amusements, fun and folly.

Oldest Crown Jewel a Sapphire.

Only a few of the early British royal jewels survive in the present regalia. The oldest of these is the sapphire of Edward the Confessor, which was originally set in his coronation ring. It was buried with him in his shrine in Westminster Abbey, but in 1101 the shrine was broken open and this and other jewels removed. The sapphire is in the cross on the top of the king's state crown. Legend has it that St. John once appeared before the Confessor as a pilgrim, and that the monarch gave him the ring, which was returned later. The stone is reputed to have the power of curing sciatica and rheumatism, but has not been used for this purpose recently.

Nests of Cedar Bark.

A new idea for hem's nests, to keep insects out of them, is to make them of cedar bark. Bugs, as every housewife knows, strongly object to cedar. For this purpose the bark is shredded and the buds of the tree may be included with it.

The Beauty of Lichens.

The famous "Crimson Cliffs" of Greenland, which extend for miles, derive their splendid color from red lichens. They rise 2,000 feet from the water's edge. The Golden Gate in the Yellowstone owes its name to the yellow lichen of its lofty walls.

MARY ELLEN

By NETTIE R. MILLER.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mary Ellen was a little girl in an old New England parsonage. They had to move once in two years in those days, and this was moving year.

Mary Ellen hated to move again and leave her chum, Elizabeth. They had the loveliest playhouse—a big, flat rock down by the woods. There was not much time for play, as little girls had to work—to do patch work and knit, but the playtimes were all the more enjoyable when they did come.

Mary Ellen was not happy. The larder had gotten low, and it being so near moving time, it had not been replenished. She was so tired of Johnny cake and mush that she wished all the cornmeal in the world might be dumped into the sea. Not since the last donation, when there had been two barrels of doughnuts, which had to be frozen up and eaten, had her soul loathed anything as it did Johnny cake and mush.

It was this that led to the undoing of Mary Ellen. She was usually an obedient little girl, and when allowed to go and spend an hour with Elizabeth, she promised faithfully to come home at the end of the hour.

She was invited to stay to tea, and the tempter whispered in her ear "mush and molasses." She succumbed to temptation and stayed. Somehow the remainder of the afternoon lost its flavor for Mary Ellen, and not even the company of her beloved Elizabeth could dispel the shadow, but thoughts of supper buoyed her up.

When, after an interminably long afternoon, they were called to tea, Mary Ellen saw in the center of the table an immense bowl of mush.

It was an unhappy Mary Ellen who timidly approached her home that night. Mother, looking very grave, told her that she had been invited with her older sisters to take tea at Judge Ramsdell's.

Of all places in the world that she loved best to go was Judge Ramsdell's. They had a delightful old house with the most wonderful old attic, and there were always the most delicious things to eat.

Surely the way of the transgressor is hard!

The next afternoon Mrs. Marsh was going to spend with an old lady. With thoughts of mush in her mind Mary Ellen begged to accompany her mother.

"Yes, you may go," said Mrs. Marsh in surprise, "but it won't be very interesting for you. You must take your knitting."

All through the afternoon, as she knitted industriously, thoughts of pound cake, plum preserves and such luxuries floated through the mind of Mary Ellen. Possibly there might even be fried chicken!

As the afternoon waned and no preparation for tea was made, Mary Ellen grew more uneasy. She kept growing hungrier and hungrier. At length Mrs. Rogers said:

"Sister Marsh, I'm going to have for tea just what I had planned before you came. I knew you would rather visit than have me spend the time preparing tea. I'm going to have mush and milk."

WILLING VICTIM OF ERROR

Man Naturally Was Not Quick to Deny Authorship of Novels in Popular Favor.

When George Eliot's "Scenes of Clerical Life" was first run in Blackwood's Magazine, there was considerable speculation as to the identity of the author concealed behind the pseudonym. The people of George Eliot's old home town, Nuneaton, were especially wrought up, as they recognized in the characters of "Amos Barton," "Mr. Pilgrim" and others depicted in the papers unmistakable portraits of well-known people of the neighborhood.

Various local celebrities, with a literary bent, were under suspicion, and a delegation of the visitors finally concluded to consult a table-tipper said to be making some remarkable revelations. Under the manipulations of the "spirit raper," the table spelled out the name of the unknown author as "Liggers." There was no Liggers in the town, but there was a "Liggins," a broken-down gentleman who had been known to write pieces for the papers. He was charged with the authorship of the much-talked-of essays and did not reject the honors thrust upon him.

When "Adam Bede" appeared and took the critics by storm, Liggins' fame waxed greater than ever. He was lionized by the townspeople, feted at parties, and a public subscription was started for him. Then the real George Eliot deemed it was time to interfere, and wrote a letter to the London Times denying Liggins' authorship.

The Perfect Part.

"So you think that our entire system is rotten?" inquired the telephone manager of the wrathful client. "No, I wouldn't say that," temporized the other. "You have one department which functions perfectly. It is a marvel of promptness and speed. If the others were like it you would be all right." And which is that? smiled the manager. The critic paused at the door. "The department that sends out the bills," he said, and vanished—Columbia State.

ROBS OTHER BIRDS OF PREY

"Frigate Pelican" Secures Its Food Chiefly by Forcing Its Weaker Brethren to Disgorge.

The frigate bird, also called the man-of-war hawk and the "frigate pelican," is a sea bird, so called from its attacks on other birds. This bird, very large and with black plumage, is capable of very powerful and rapid flight. It sometimes measures ten feet from tip to tip of its extended wings. On account of its immense extent of wing and its dashing habits, it has been called the swiftest bird that sweeps the seas.

The frigate bird is a tropical sea bird of two species. The larger ranges all round the world within the tropics; the smaller is found only near the eastern seas from Madagascar to Moluccas and southward to Australia. Both species breed in large colonies, building their nests on rocks, high cliffs or lofty trees on uninhabited islands. The birds often fly far out to sea, but most of the time they remain near shore.

The frigate bird's aerial evolutions are extremely graceful and it soars to great heights. It is said never to dive for its prey, but to seize fishes only when they appear at the surface or above it. Flying fishes form a great part of its food. This bird of prey also pursues gulls and terns and eats the fish it forces them to disgorge. The male acquires under its bill a bright scarlet pouch which is capable of inflation.

Islands in Great Salt Lake.

There are several islands in Great Salt Lake. On these islands, which, like the lake's shores, are whitened by salt, immense flocks of gulls, ducks, geese and pelicans breed each year. On Antelope island, the largest, alfalfa is cultivated and cattle are raised. Antelope island, also known as Church island, is about eighteen miles long.

Whale Meat Resembles Beef.

The meat of the whale extends in great boneless masses, in uniform quality, from the base of the skull to the tail fin. In appearance it is similar to beef, but is somewhat coarser in texture. Its flavor is said to suggest venison. One of the best "cuts" of the whale is the heart, which weighs 3,000 pounds.

Bad Luck to Owe Money.

The halibut fishermen of the Pacific have a reputation for honesty. They invariably pay all their bills before starting on a fishing expedition. They regard it as bad luck to leave any unpaid accounts behind. These men do not work for wages. They pay all expenses for their equipment and then share the proceeds of the trip.

For Entertainment.

The groceryman was "kidding" little Marie one day and asked her whose girl she was, to which she replied: "Papa's." "Well, then, whose little girl is Maybelle?" "She belongs to mamma." "What about brother James, then?" he said. She was nonplussed for a minute, then said: "Oh, he's just for entertainment."

MOTORS

By GRACE IRMA ELWELL.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Sput, sput, cough, cough, hesitate, sput—silence.

"D-a-r-r."

This one word expressed more disgust, anger and hopelessness than a member of the masculine sex could have expressed in twenty. As you have guessed, she was a fair lady, but the fair lady's motor was not so fair.

Yes, truly, it looked as if it was one of the cars driven on the ark. And now the engine had died, never to go again, so it seemed to Phyllis. She knew nothing about engines except that they propelled the automobile which she drove. Anyway, she had never driven this one—no one had—except the gardener.

"Disgusting—with seven cars in the family, that I should have to take this old thing, and what will I do when mother comes home—she'll scold me for skipping when I was supposed to be resting with a headache."

However, Phyllis was not the girl to sit down and sigh. She had heard, why yes, her brother Bob had told her, that once when his car got stalled he had started it again by jiggling wires. Well, she could jiggle wires. She jiggled wires and cranked the old thing, but to no avail.

It looked serious to her; here she was on this lonely country road, at least ten miles from civilization, whence she came, and no one knowing how far ahead. She was still contemplating, when a long, yellow roadster, with a single occupant, peered over the hill ahead. The car stopped in front of her and the occupant got out. Yes, it was he, tall, handsome and a little haughty.

"My poor child," he smiled pityingly, and superiorly.

He seemed hugely amused about something, and at once Phyllis became conscious that she did not look quite dapper. Her face was smudged from her greasy hands and her hat was askew. Besides, there was a streak of grease on her skirt.

"Having some trouble?"

"Oh, no!" she retorted, "just playing. Don't you want to play, too?"

The sarcasm went over his head, as it often does with a self-satisfied person.

"What a piece of old junk!" he exploded next. "It ought to be in the junk heap, then it wouldn't stall way out here." Phyllis had a wee bit of temper as well as pride, and she thought savagely: "You'll pay for that, young man!"

Her tone was quite meek and wistful as she said: "I suppose so, but it usually has gone. It must look frightful to you—I am used to it, you see."

"Well, where were you going to, child, when this thing happened? Anyway, you'd better let me take you home. I'll not get messed up and dirty because this thing is dead," with emphasis.

"Very well, just as you say, sir," with just the proper amount of respect from a person so inferior. Phyllis settled down luxuriously in the deep roadster and sighed.

"Like it, kid?" he asked her after they had slid along for a few seconds.

"Gee—it must be w-o-n-d-e-r-f-u-l to be rich, isn't it?"

"Why, yes, quite; we have another motor—we call them motors—besides this one."

"Honest? You must be a relative of Rockefeller?" Thus the conversation proceeded; all the while Phyllis was racking her brain to solve the problem as to where to be left. Suddenly she struck on it—she'd have him leave her at the laundress' house. She would see about that blouse that had tailed to return with the rest of her fine laundry.

"Say, do you live here?" he asked.

"Ugh—Isn't it hot and unpleasant here, though?"

"Oh, of course not as nice as your mansion, for it must be a mansion you live in; but it's better than nothing. Oh, here we are. How can I ever thank you, kind sir? You've been a real fairy prince to me except, of course, they always marry the poor girl and make her happy."

"Well, you see, father would cut me off without a cent. They did not do that in princely days. Perhaps, though, I will come to see you some day, poor kid."

In a moment more the slick yellow roadster slid out of sight. Phyllis stood for a moment with a smile of triumph on her begrimed face. She had fooled him, and some time he would meet her in her own environment and then perhaps his head would diminish in size a wee bit.

A week later Phyllis, radiant and charming, stood greeting the guests at her coming-out party. Soon he stood before her. He opened his mouth, closed it, opened it again, but emitted no sound.

"Good evening, Mr. Brentwine, I believe we have met before."

"Why—er—why yes, but how different."

"Y-es, I have moved since then, and besides, we have seven motors!"—with emphasis.

Persons wishing to hunt or trap muskrats are required to procure a license of the clerk of the Circuit Court, unless they confine their hunting or trapping to their own or leased property. Owners or lessees of property are not required to take out a license to kill, hunt or take on their own or leased property. These instructions were recently issued by State Game Warden LeCompte, who was asked for a ruling on this particular phase of the game law.

Mr. James F. Loreman, aged 65 years, died at his home in Crisfield last Wednesday night after a long illness of heart trouble. Mr. Loreman was prominent in business circles and was one of the pioneer business men of Crisfield, going there from Salisbury as a railroad man and establishing a manufacturing plant. Irving Johnson Killed
Last Saturday night Irving Johnson and Edward Gale, both colored, got into an altercation over the occupancy of a house on "Bowland's Hill" in which Ambrose Johnson (Irving's father) lived.

It seems that Gale and his wife had been notified to move off the premises. That night Johnson went to the house between 11 and 12 o'clock and a fracas began. After Johnson had beaten Gale and returned to him the second time with a pistol in his hand, Gale reached for a shotgun near by and shot Johnson in the breast, killing him instantly.

A jury of inquest was held on Sunday morning and the verdict was "that Irving Johnson came to his death by a gun shot wound being fired by Edward Gale." Gale has left the county.

WHY GIRLS GO INTO OFFICES

The question has been raised why girls are more anxious to go into offices than attempt other lines of work, which may pay better. The placement secretary of the Minneapolis school says one reason is that the girl office workers appear more attractive and the girls may feel that in that kind of work it is "easier to catch a man." Unfortunately many men office workers are having a hard time under present wage conditions and have all they can do to support themselves.

Marriage is a girl's normal career and naturally she thinks of entering it and wishes to meet the most desirable men. But her best chance is to do high grade work of her own that shall win the interest of capable men and stamp her as having talent and originality. Mere coming into contact with men does not win them unless a girl demonstrates that she is something more than a "rag" and a bone and a hank of hair," as Kipling put it.

Appeal Crisfield Taxes

The State Tax Commission last Wednesday received an appeal from approximately 300 residents of the town of Crisfield protesting the recent action of the Town Council of Crisfield in increasing assessments against the real and personal property of the town residents. It is alleged in the appeal that the whole assessment was beyond the market value of the property and in excess of the State and county assessments, thus practically amounting to confiscation.

The appeal will follow in the regular order before the Commission and a lively tilt is expected between the town authorities and the applicants.

It is admitted by everyone that many thousand superfluous federal employees should be discharged, but each individual one can demonstrate that the federal business would almost stop if he were allowed to go.

An Ideal Remedy For Constipation

It would be hard to find a better remedy for constipation than Chamberlain's Tablets. For the best effect they should be taken immediately after supper. They are easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.

Keep House Plants Moist.

A piece of sponge, quite wet, and kept in each house plant has been found to result in greenness and freshness instead of the withering which so often overtakes house plants. Their failure to do well is due not so much to the heat of the house as to the dryness of the atmosphere. The saturated sponge should be pressed in among the leaves and stalks as near to the center of the plant as possible.

True.
There's one thing that everybody knows and but few remember, and that is that the other fellow isn't offering to bet on his game just for the fun of it. There's only one way to beat the other fellow's game, and that's not to play it.

BUSY CORNER

Chickens, Eggs, Etc., Exchanged for Goods

It may be said without fear of contradiction that a given man's ideal of a woman, and that same woman's ideal of herself, are two absolutely different things. For as regards themselves the sexes vision differently. So, general masculine ideals of femininity, and feminine ideals of itself, are most unlike. We have John's John, and Mary's Mary; and this square is far more difficult even to apprehend, much less resolve, than is the squaring of the circle, or any mental juggling of the fourth dimension of space. Yet if the eternal two ever did really understand each other, interest would immediately cease; for what you understand you appropriate, in a sense you become that thing. In creating them male and female, therefore, so like yet unlike, Providence constituted a distinction and difference; that should prove a perennial source of interest and joy; with incidental exasperations, it may be, and perpetual wonder.

"Just like a man," "just like a woman," are the commonest of phrases—but what it is to be "just like a man," or "just like a woman," who can truly say? Does man understand woman any better today than he did in the Stone Age, or woman understand man? Between the two is forever fixed the enchanting bridge—not chasm—of a perpetual why. The "central core of identity" in each may be trusted to keep its secret—the secret of a delight and God-given attraction. —Serfless Magazine.

JUST THREW OUT SUGGESTION
Traveling Man's Interpellation Not Really Made With Any Genuine Desire to Help.
A Hoosier traveling man had a hotel room next to one occupied by the two teachers during the recent teachers' convention. He was very tired and turned in early. But hardly had he closed his eyes when the two teachers came in from the evening session. They discussed it, one of them particularly being endowed with a voice commonly termed strident.

Finally they finished with the subject and he, thinking they were through with conversation for the night, turned over again and once more began to think of slumbering. But after a little pause the loud talker began on another theme, namely, the hard life of a teacher. After she had discussed it from all angles, she said: "If I only knew where I could succeed I would leave the teaching profession. Now, what could I really do as well as I can teach school?"

Before the second teacher could answer her the long-suffering man rose to the occasion: "Madam," he shouted through the wall, "you could be an auctioneer." —Indianapolis News.

Duties of Queen Ant.
When the queen ant lays her eggs the workers gather about and pick up each egg as it is laid and carry it away to the underground nurseries, where it is watched and cared for by other workers. Sometimes the queen will escape her attendants. Away she hurries, evidently bent on playing a bit, but the moment her disappearance is noted the workers scurry out in every direction to find her, and once she is located she is dragged back to the home by force and gets many a sharp nip on the way as punishment. The queen is three or four times as large as the worker ant. Her first brood finds her busy cleaning up her house, digging a new room for a nursery, washing and cleaning her babies with her tongue, and feeding them from her store. After the first brood, however, this work is done by the working ants, and the queen has nothing to do but attend to the functions of motherhood.

Reading Man's Mind.
By watching a man's actions one can tell as plainly what is going on in his mind as a person can read a page of print, according to Dr. Henry Gurnea Bawa, who is conducting a course of lectures at the chamber of commerce on the Kansas side. "Tell me the boyhood ambition of a man and I can tell you much of his character and desires," he said. "He may never have realized that ambition, may have spent his life in a far different business and met with success there, but his boyhood ambition tells the way his tastes run and he still likes the same things he admired then. Go into a courtroom and watch the two lawyers opposing each other and you can soon tell by the way they are questioning which fears for the safety of the case and which thinks himself on solid ground." —Kansas City Star.

Roger Ascham.
Roger Ascham was a famous English scholar and author, born at Kirby Wake, near Northampton, in 1515. He graduated at Cambridge, and struggled with poverty until patrons came to his relief. He was famous for his general knowledge and acquirements in Greek and Latin, and is classed among older literary men, with Erasmus, Sir Thomas More and Sir Philip Sidney. His death, in London, on December 30, 1568, is said to have been occasioned by his too close application to the composition of a book, which he intended to present to the queen as the anniversary of her coronation.

BLOOD IS FUEL TO THE BODY

Pumped Through The System By The Heart It Sustains The

PEPTO-MANGAN HELPS BLOOD

Keep The Quality of Your Blood At Its Best—It Means Vigorous Health
And Ability To Accomplish

Blood acts like a fuel. Pumped through the body by the heart, it sustains the muscles and tissues. It renews them. It feeds the brain—the tissues of the eye and face. That is why people look so pale and lifeless when blood is impoverished. The body tissues are being supplied with weak fuel. The blood has not enough red corpuscles. You would not eat poor food with no nourishment in it; no more should you let the fuel that supplies sustenance to your entire body be inferior. Have good blood. Improve the quality and keep it at its best.

If you look pale and feel weak, if you have lost your enthusiasm and energy, if your blood is clogged with poisons, your system is being fed with a poor grade of blood. That is no way to go around. If you are not at your best, get at the source of the trouble right away. Put an end to half-living. Take that ideal tonic, Pepto-Mangan. To tone up your blood and purify it. Get the full enjoyment out of living. Breathe fresh air, take exercise.

Be sure to ask for "Gude's Pepto-Mangan." It comes in convenient tablet form and in liquid. One has the same medicinal value as the other. There is only one genuine Pepto-Mangan, and the name "Gude's" is on the package. —Advertisement.

LYDIANS HAD FIRST COINAGE

Treasure Deposited in the Temples
Was Impressed With Badge or Symbol of Divinity.

So far as is known, the Lydians, says Herodotus, first introduced gold and silver coin. The invention was not far to seek. Treasure came to be deposited for safety in the temples, where it was consecrated to the care of the divinity by being impressed with a badge or symbol. The sacred symbol being accepted as guarantee of value, the pieces of metal so impressed found easy circulation. The earliest Lydian coins extant, deriving probably from the reign of Gyges (about 700 B. C.), are bean-shaped lumps of native Lydian gold, bleached with silver. Each coin bears on its obverse the figure of a lion and on its reverse the impress of the nail-head serving to keep the metal in place, while being struck. From Lydia the one-sided coin spread throughout the coasts and islands of the Aegean sea, each city issuing coins bearing the symbol of its divinity. In Greece the earliest coins of silver, with the figure of the tortoise on the obverse, are said to have been struck by Phaulon of Argos. To Solon, about 590 B. C., is ascribed the introduction into Athens of the tetradrachm, on its obverse the head of Athens, on its reverse an owl. Sparta enjoyed all to itself the luxury of a purely iron coinage. The Greek coins from 480 to 300 B. C. marked a great advancement in the way of art, and Athenian money was the chief medium of exchange during this period. Other nations later adopted their own coinage, which has continued to improve with the advance of civilization.

A Come-Back.

"That's the only sensible thing you've said during this discussion. If you were I you certainly wouldn't be a fool."

HAVE BEER ALWAYS ON "TAP"

Beverage Free to All Members of African Tribe, but Little Drunkenness Is Reported.

Among the Madi or Moru tribes of the White Nile in Africa, there exists a form of municipal brewery that would make a great hit among the thirsty in America. A special house is set aside for it, and all the women of the tribe spend part of their time in making beer from millet seed. White men who have tasted it declare it to be a first-rate drink of fine flavor and heady results. The beer is kept in enormous jars, and to each jar is attached a number of gourd dippers. The beer is free to anyone or everyone, the only restriction being that it be drunk in the brewery and not with meals. In spite of this freedom the tribe members seldom get drunk.

To make sure their women will stay on as brew-masters and not go running off with other men from nearby tribes, the girls are taken when ten or twelve years old and laid on the ground while a sharp stone is used to pry and knock out the four upper and lower incisors. The resulting effect is anything but beautiful—as the intention was. The clothing of the women consists of a string worn around the waist, and changed only when it gets so dirty that it cannot be seen against the dark skin. —Detroit News.

What's a Toxin?

The ptomaines must not be confused with the toxins. The toxins are poisonous substances derived from germs in the course of their life and growth. They are the active principles of the germs, to which the germs owe their characteristic effects upon the human system. It is the toxin of the diphtheria germs, for example, which causes most of the mischief when infection has taken place.

Beating the Bachelor.

In Sicily the fir tree is unknown as a Christmas adjunct, but the very ludicrous custom of "beating the bachelor" is observed by the women. All of the unmarried men in the village are driven into the church after mass by the outnumbering women and run about the sacred edifice and beaten until they declare (often falsely) that they will wed ere another Christmas come around.

Venetian Glass.

Venetian glass is distinguished by its exquisite thinness and fineness of quality—Tiffany glass being its only rival. Compared with Bohemian glass, which is also prized for bric-a-brac, its quality is much superior, although Bohemian glass sometimes rivals it in coloring and decorations which are more gorgeous but not as refined.

How Lamprays Lay Eggs.

Lamprays are eel-like residents in the ocean that run into the fresh water at the mouth of rivers in the spring and build the nest in which their eggs are deposited. They pick out the pebbles in the bottom of the river, using the suction power of their large mouths to dislodge the stone, and deposit eggs in the spot selected.

Pagan Creed Concerning Fire.

That fire and water are the habitations of spirits is perhaps a universal article of the pagan creed. The sacred ever-burning hearth fire was, in primitive days reckoned the special abode of the household gods; it was, therefore, considered dangerous to give a stranger a burning brand.

Machine Scrapes Off Paint.

In the renovation of an automobile the greatest labor is in removing the old paint, which was formerly done by hand at a considerable expense of time and labor. This is now performed by a machine which does the work in a very effective manner and very quickly.

QUEER CUSTOMS OF AFGHANS

People Eat Only With the Right Hand—Animal Life of Every Description Held Sacred.

The average Afghan has no particular fondness for wine or spirits. Tobacco raised in the land is of inferior quality; the better sorts are imported from Persia, Russia, India and Egypt. Amir Habbibullah Khan always had a good private stock of Havana cigars. Both young and old people take snuff.

Tea, sweetened and unsweetened, is the favorite drink and is consumed in prodigious quantities. When you go to see an Afghan, you can hardly escape before swallowing four or five cups of tea; it is, therefore, no trifling gastronomic feat to pay several visits in one afternoon, the more so if he polio host (with a view of honoring the European guests) has the tea served in big Russian glasses.

The right hand is always used in eating and drinking, the left hand being considered unclean.

Dogs, though numerous and useful, are looked upon as unclean, and pious people never touch them.

Animals that go badly lame on the march or camels that get snowbound in the mountain passes are abandoned to their fate. Afghans never kill such animals, as we might do, to put them out of their misery. They believe that the lives of all living things are in the hands of Allah, and that man sins if he presumes to interfere with the Supreme Will. Afghans will not even kill fleas or other vermin; they merely pick them off and throw them away! —Frederick Simplich and "Haji Mirza Husein" in the National Geographic Magazine.

POCAHONTAS NOT REAL NAME

Literally Means "Tomboy" and Was Given to Indian Child as a Term of Ridicule.

The story of John Smith and Pocahontas is known to everyone who has attended school in the United States, but few know that the name Pocahontas was only a nickname, and meant so unpoetical a thing as "tomboy." Her real name was Ma-ta-ota. When she was about ten or eleven years old she was engaged in turning a series of handspindles at the door of her father's hut. He was the chief of the tribe, and was known as Pow-ha-tan, although his real name was A-bun-sa-ne-cook. Ra-bun-ta, an Indian runner, came leaping through the forest with a message for the chief. He turned the corner of the hut just as the little daughter of the chief made one of her most vigorous wheels. Her flying feet struck him in the chest and knocked him down.

Indians dearly love a rough joke, and a great shout of laughter went up, although the chief was anything but pleased, and called his daughter sharply to him. "This is not maiden's play," he said. "Will you never cease to be a po-ca-hun-tas?" The children caught up the name, and it clung to the little girl ever afterward. The English changed the spelling a bit, but the name has come down in history almost as it was given away back in 1607.

Chang Smoked Pipe.

Li Hung Chang was the first to pay me a visit in my capacity of minister of finance, Count Sergius Witte late Russian diplomat, writes in the World's Work. When we had taken our tea, I inquired of Li Hung Chang whether he did not want to smoke. He emitted a sound not unlike the neighing of a horse. Immediately two Chinamen came running from the adjacent room, one carrying a narghile and the other tobacco. Then began the ceremony of smoking. Li Hung Chang sat quietly inhaling and exhaling the smoke, while his attendants with great awe lighted the narghile, held the pipe, took it from his mouth, and put it back. It was apparent that Li Hung Chang wanted to impress me with all these ceremonies. On my part, I made believe that I did not pay the slightest attention to the proceedings.

Silks Caught Feminine Fancy.

Silk and fashion are closely linked throughout the centuries. Modes changed to conform to the new fabric as it was brought into each country. There were the ladies of Greece who first discovered that the heavy oriental fabrics could be unraveled and rewoven, like their linen garments, into filmy, translucent materials of wondrous beauty.

Ornamental silks were not introduced into Europe until 500 A. D., and with them came the influence of Byzantium on the styles of the day. It was through the wars waged by the Crusaders that silk weavers were brought into Italy, and the fame of Venetian and Florentine fashions spread abroad.

Profit in Perfume Hunting.

There seems to be no good reason why in this country the gathering of sweet-smelling herbs and flowers for the perfumery trade might not be found profitable. It has recently become a considerable industry in rural parts of England, a great many women and children having taken it up. In April the picking of cowslips begins; these flowers being in demand as a cure for sleeplessness, and also for "potpourri" and sachets. Broom and elder flowers follow. Mullein and mallows, hergamot, peony petals, rose petals and red poppy petals bring good prices; likewise raspberry leaves, sage, mint, balm and thyme.

"King of The Circus"

Life is just one succession of thrills for Eddie Polo, Universal serial star, who recently filmed "King of the Circus," an autobiographical melodrama in eighteen chapters, under the direction of J. P. McGowan.

On a Sunday morning not long ago, while staging a thrilling escape in downtown Los Angeles, Polo had a very close call. Crossing hand over hand from one skyscraper to another, on a wire cable stretched 150 feet above the street, his hands were so badly cut and burned that it seemed almost impossible for him to finish the last fifteen feet of the journey. By superhuman effort, however, he was enabled to reach the opposite building in safety.

Polo's new serial, which film experts say is the best serial ever produced, will be shown at the Auditorium, Princess Anne, Saturday night, March 19th, and each Saturday night thereafter for 18 nights. Eddie Polo is supported in the cast by Corinne Porter, Kittoria Beveridge, Harry Maddison, Charles Fortune and others.

Alexander H. Green Dead

Mr. Alexander Hamilton Green, of Manokin, Somerset county, died at his home Monday morning of last week of paralysis, aged 84 years.

Mr. Green is survived by the following children: Messrs. John R. Green and Otis B. Green, of Manokin; Mrs. J. Franklin Locates, of Princess Anne; Mrs. Mary Whyland, of Salisbury; Messrs. James F. Green, of Venton; Walter F. Green, of Statesville, N. C., and Edgar F. Green, of Melfa, Va.

In politics Mr. Green was a staunch Democrat. He was also a life-long member of the Protestant Episcopal Church and served for many years as vestryman of Grace Church, Mt. Vernon, where, in the family lot of the adjoining graveyard, he was laid to rest on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. Wm. G. Woolford, a former rector of Wicomico Parish. The pallbearers were four of his sons, John, Otis, James and Edgar, and two grandsons, Howard and Samuel Green.

Farm Loan Act Valid

The Farm Loan Act, designed to assist the agricultural development of the United States by providing readily accessible credits to farmers through Federal land banks was declared valid Monday of last week by the Supreme Court.

In an opinion which Commissioner Charles E. Lobdell of the Farm Loan Board declared "clears away every legal question and removes every shadow of question as to the legality of the banks or their bonds," the court held that Congress had full authority to establish the land banks and the corporate authority to exempt their bonds from State taxation.

The farmers of Somerset county will be particularly interested in this decision as these loans were stopped about a year ago. With the law now being declared valid it is expected to see great activity in the further extension of loans under its provisions.

Marriage Licenses

The following is a list of marriage licenses issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Somerset county:

White—Harry W. Payne, 40, of Kingstown, and Alma W. Pascoe, 20, of Somerset county. Irving L. Hargis, 23, of Taylor, Va., and May Johnson, 19, of Kingstown, Va.

Colored—Ernest Durham, 31, and Ocie White, 22, both of Pocomoke City.

HARDING NATION'S EXECUTIVE

Takes Up Reins of Presidential Authority—Ceremony Simple

The reins of Presidential authority passed from Woodrow Wilson to Warren G. Harding last Friday in an inaugural ceremony at once the simplest and most dramatic of a generation. The President-elect took the oath at 1.18 p. m. and the vice-President, Calvin Coolidge, took the oath at 12.21 p. m.

Before Mr. Harding had been President an hour he had revived a precedent set by George Washington by conferring with the Senate in executive session, submitting in person the nominations of his 10 Cabinet officers, all of which immediately were confirmed, as follows:

Secretary of State—Charles Evans Hughes, New York.

Secretary of the Treasury—Andrew W. Mellon, Pennsylvania.

Secretary of War—John W. Weeks, Massachusetts.

Secretary of the Navy—Edwin Denby, Michigan.

Secretary of the Interior—Albert B. Fall, New Mexico.

Secretary of Agriculture—Henry C. Wallace, Iowa.

Secretary of Commerce—Herbert Hoover, California.

Attorney General—Harry M. Daugherty, Ohio.

Postmaster General—Will H. Hays, Indiana.

Secretary of Labor—James J. Davis, Pennsylvania.

Within another hour he had gone to the White House "to hang up his hat and go to work," as he himself often had said, and unlocked the White House gates which for four years had been closed to the public. The public celebrated the event by actually over-running the grounds and peeping through the windows to see the new President in conference with Cabinet officers.

Harding took the oath of office at 1.18 p. m., exactly eight years to the minute from the time the same words of obligation were spoken by Wilson at his first inauguration. The inaugural ceremonies, conforming to Harding's wishes, were kept free from almost every show of the pomp and circumstance that usually surround the inauguration of a chief executive. Thousands witnessed the oath and cheered the old and new Presidents along Pennsylvania avenue, but the crowd was only a fraction of the customary inauguration throng.

Pressing his lips to an historic Bible used at the inauguration of George Washington, the new President took the oath administered by Chief Justice White. He had chosen the eighth verse from the sixth chapter of Micah, saying:

"What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God?"

In his inaugural address the President said:

"We seek no part in directing the destinies of the Old World. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment in each instance may determine."

"America can be a party to no permanent military alliance. It can enter no permanent military alliance. It can enter into no political commitments nor assume economic obligations or subject our decisions to any other than our own authority."

Death of Mrs. Bloodworth

Mrs. Isadora Bloodworth, wife of Mr. B. Plummer Bloodworth, superintendent of the county almshouse, died at her home last Tuesday, aged 54 years. Mrs. Bloodworth had been ill at her home since the first of the year. She is survived by her husband and three sons, Wade, Hoyt and Kenneth Bloodworth. Her father, Capt. Lybrand Horner, and two brothers, Messrs. Elmer and Olin Horner, also survive her.

Funeral services were held in Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Mt. Vernon, last Thursday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. J. D. Moore, assisted by the Rev. W. F. Dawson, pastor of Antioch M. E. Church, Princess Anne. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Goodell announce the marriage of their daughter, Martha Louise, to Mr. William Philip Koenig. The wedding took place on February 28th, at Concord, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Koenig will reside in Boston, Mass. Several years ago Mr. and Mrs. Goodell resided on the "Cottman farm," on the Wicomico river and, if we are not mistaken, they were former residents of Princess Anne.

Edward P. Tyler Dies Suddenly

Edward P. Tyler, a prominent Democrat of Somerset county and a resident of Smith's Island, died suddenly at his home while at breakfast Monday morning of last week.

Mr. Tyler was 62 years old and had been in failing health for several months. He was former commander of the oyster police boat Helen Baughman before the present Conservation Commission existed. He retired from public life seven years ago.

Mr. Tyler is survived by his widow, two daughters and six sons—Mrs. Ira P. Smith, of Smith's Island, and Miss Sarah Tyler, of Crisfield; Edward P. Tyler, Jr., of Smith's Island; Herman Tyler, of Baltimore; Archie and Newman Tyler, of Chester, Pa.; Miles and Stanford Tyler, both of Crisfield.

CHAMP CLARK'S LIFE WORK ENDED

Former Speaker Succumbs At Age Of 71 In Shadow Of Capitol

Death closed last Wednesday the career of Champ Clark, of Missouri, for more than a quarter century a towering figure in national politics, a stalwart of stalwarts in the Democratic party.

He died in the very shadow of the Capitol. Just over the way from the hotel where he has lived many years House and Senate seethed in the closing hours of the Congress of which he was an honored member and leader.

The stir of legislative battle was with him to the end. He lived again in memory, as his pulses flagged, days of the eight years he wielded the speaker's gavel in the House. Those sorrowing at his bedside heard the old chiefstain mutter in his last delirium:

"The question is on adoption of the conference report."

Mrs. Clark, the former Speaker's son, Bennett, and his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Thompson, of New Orleans, were at his bedside through all his last hours.

Champ Clark's life told in chronology:

Born March 7, 1850, in Anderson county, Ky.

Attended University of Kentucky and graduated from Bethany College in West Virginia.

Studied law at Cincinnati Law School. Moved to Bowling Green, Mo., in 1875.

Elected to Congress first time in 1892.

Elected Speaker of House in 1911.

Defeated for nomination for Presidency at Baltimore Convention in 1912.

Defeated for Congress in 1920.

Died March 2, 1921.

It is thought that Mr. Clark died as he wished to die, in the harness of his life work. He had planned retirement to his home in Bowling Green, Mo., after March 4, but the end found him still serving his country and his State in the House. That made it possible for the House to vote his widow a year of her husband's salary as its first business when the memorial adjournment was over.

Arrangements for the funeral provided for services at 10.30 a. m. Saturday in the Chamber of the House of Representatives. Immediately after the services in the House Chamber a special funeral train left for St. Louis, arriving there about 4 p. m. Sunday. The body of the former Speaker laid in state in that city until early yesterday (Monday) morning, when the funeral train moved on to Bowling Green, Mr. Clark's home, where final services were held and interment took place.

In the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore in 1912 Champ Clark led on 27 ballots for the nomination as candidate for President and had a clear majority on nine ballots prior to the final naming of Woodrow Wilson. The two-thirds rule of the convention alone prevented Mr. Clark's nomination. The honor which his party thus paid him was the most notable of his public life. In American political history Martin Van Buren was the only other man who failed of the Democratic nomination for the Presidency after having received a majority of the votes in the national convention, but he enjoyed the unique distinction of being elected subsequently.

Wilson Will Practice Law

President Wilson formally announced last Thursday that he would "resume the practice of law" in a partnership with Bainbridge Colby, the retiring Secretary of State. The firm will have offices in New York and Washington.

The President's announcement, wholly unexpected, will recall to the public mind one of his least known attainments—that of being a lawyer. He was graduated in law from the University of Virginia in 1881 and practiced in Atlanta in 1882 and 1883. In the latter year he went to Baltimore to take up post-graduate work at Johns Hopkins University and practiced some in the local courts in that city.

Mr. Wilson did not remain long at the practice of law, however, for in 1885 he began his career as a college professor, taking up the chair of history and political economy at Bryn Mawr. From that time onward until he left the field of collegiate work and became Governor of New Jersey Mr. Wilson did not figure in the practice of law.

Mr. Henry W. Sterling spent last week-end with his mother, Mrs. A. P. Mills. Mr. Sterling is first assistant engineer on the U. S. S. "St. Michael." He left Saturday night to join his ship, which is moored in New York harbor, from which port he expects to sail on the 10th instant for Porto Rico and Panama. Mr. Sterling took an examination some time ago for a chief engineer's license, which examination he passed with a high mark. This puts him in line of promotion as "chief" when a vacancy should occur.

TEN MILLION FOR CAMPAIGN

About $108,476 Spent In Maryland By Democrats And Republicans

The Republican State Committee of Maryland had a campaign fund of $50,577 and the Democratic State Committee a fund of $57,899.63 in the campaign last fall, according to figures embodied in a general report to the Senate last Wednesday by its special committee named to investigate campaign expenditures.

The same report shows that the Republican Senatorial Committee sent $8,000 to Maryland to be expended in behalf of Senator-elect Weller.

Figures covering the receipts of the State committees are reported as exclusive of any aid which may have been extended by the national committees. The Senate committee shows the total disbursements of the national committees, but does not give the distribution of funds by States.

The report reveals that more than ten million dollars were expended in the Presidential campaign of 1920. This sum, including expenditures of national and State committees, represents expenditures of more than eight million dollars by the Republican party and more than two million dollars by the Democratic party.

The report of the committee embodies the previously published figures showing the cost of the pre-convention campaigns of various candidates. General Leonard Wood, Republican candidate for the nomination, heads the list with an outlay of $1,773,393 contributed largely by his friend, Col. William C. Proctor, the Cincinnati soap manufacturer.

The nomination campaign of Senator Warren G. Harding, now president-elect, cost only $113,019; that of Governor Frank O. Lowden, $414,984 and that of Senator Hiram Johnson and Herbert Hoover $194,394 and $173,542, respectively.

Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, is listed as a Republican candidate for the nomination and his expenses are given as "none."

Expenditures by the Republicans four times in excess of those of the Democratic party in the general election are shown. The committees give the disbursements as follows, saying that both parties wound up with a deficit.

"Republican National Committee, $5,819,729.32, which does not include a loan of approximately $300,000 to the Republican Congressional committee or a loan of $100,000 to the Republican Senatorial committee, which are understood to have been practically repaid."

"Democratic National Committee, $1,818,274.02."

"Republican Congressional Committee, $376,969.05."

"Democratic Congressional Committee, $24,498.05."

"Republican Senatorial Committee, $326,980.29."

"Bureau of Senatorial elections of the Democratic Committee, $6,675."

The whole is totaled at $7,372,125.73, but the investigators subsequently explain that there were additional expenditures by State committees and other organizations running the cost of the Presidential campaign to more than $10,000,000. On this point the report says:

"From the figures gathered it appears that the two great political parties, through their various national organizations, including expenditures of State committees, spent in the Presidential campaign of 1920 $10,338,509.92. Of this amount the expenditures of the Republican party were $5,100,739.21 and the expenditures of the Democratic party were $5,237,770.71."

Senate Honors Marshall

A tall silver loving cup was presented to Vice-President Marshall Monday of last week by the Senate as a "going away" gift. The Republican and Democratic leaders, Senators Lodge, Massachusetts, and Underwood, Alabama, expressed the esteem and good wishes of the membership.

A gold eyeglass case, a cigar holder and a box of cigars also were presented to Mr. Marshall, who left Washington last Saturday for a six weeks' lecture trip traveling from coast to coast.

After a visit with Mrs. Marshall's mother in Arizona, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will sail for Europe May 14th, going first to Switzerland, in company with others representing the northern jurisdiction of the Scottish Rite Masons at a world conference at Lausanne.

The Vice-President, responding to the leaders, said he had come to the Senate as a "tumultuous Indiana politician," and added:

"But this has been a great school to me, a school of my old age. It has taught me that there isn't a man in this body who isn't a double man, a man of brain and a man of heart."

Mr. Marshall said he would take the big loving cup "home to Indiana," and wondered if the home folks might not believe it "a memorial to the Eighteenth Amendment."

The AMERICAN LEGION

Fighting Men of Three Wars Identified With Home Erected in Hoquiam, Washington.

With the recent completion of the American Veterans' building, a war memorial to fighting men of all American wars, the city of Hoquiam, Wash., has added to its architectural attractions a well-constructed and artistic edifice. The erection of the home was made possible by the activities of members of the American Legion, United Spanish War Veterans and Grand Army of the Republic.

The building is a three-story structure, in the downtown district. The ground floor will be occupied by a Veterans' Building at Hoquiam, Wash. bank, and on the other floors are a large rest room, a lounge and ball-room and a ladies' rest room.

Among the speakers at the formal dedication of the memorial was Robert A. LeRoux, field organizer of national headquarters of the Legion.

LEGION MEMBERS AID POLICE

Former Service Men in Various Cities Lend Assistance in Combating Crime Wave.

In conformity with the stand for law and order which the American Legion takes, thousands of Legionnaires are assisting the police in combating the crime wave, which has menaced life and property in larger cities all over the country, according to reports received at Legion national headquarters.

New York department headquarters promptly offered to put 5,000 veterans on the streets to assist the police when the orgy of murder and robbery was at its height, while during the Christmas season a number of Legion members aided in eliminating holdups in the shopping district by serving as guards in large retail stores and wholesale houses.

Five hundred St. Louis Legionnaires assisted the police in patrolling the city and rounding up suspicious characters. At St. Paul, Minn., the services of Legion members were volunteered in the formation of a series of network patrols.

Legion leaders explained that their organization in volunteering the services of its members for maintaining law and order did not imply that the police were inefficient, but that there was recognition that an abnormal situation existed under which the Legion was pledged to act if it wished to live up to the principles of its constitution.

IS LEADER IN AMERICANISM

Philip R. Bangs of Grand Forks, N. D., Also Vice Commander of His State Department.

One of the leaders in Americanism in the Northwest is Philip R. Bangs of Grand Forks, N. D., who was elected vice commander of the North Dakota department of the American Legion.

As a doughboy and a scout in the intelligence section of the Thirty-fifth division, Mr. Bangs served overseas. He was wounded by shell fire in the right shoulder during the Argonne-Meuse offensive.

Mr. Bangs was adjutant of the Legion post at Grand Forks, state chairman of the Americanism committee, and a member of the national Americanism commission of the Legion. A graduate of the law department of the University of North Dakota, Mr. Bangs is now a judge in the practice of law in Grand Forks.

Proposed Oregon Law

Polar Bear Can Swim

The Polar bear is as sure a swimmer as a seal, and behaves, in the ice-cold seas of the north, with as much unconcern as though it had been born in that element, writes Dr. H. W. Stradford in the American Forestry Magazine. It has been known to drift for miles upon a floating iceberg, and this evidently for pleasure and convenience, rather than from necessity, as a number of Arctic explorers have reported having seen Polar bears, hale and hearty, swimming in the open ocean all the way from 40 to 80 miles from land.

"I'LL TALK WITH 'ANYONE'"

DO YOU know how to make a long distance telephone call?

If you have business to transact with the John Smith Company in Washington, for instance, there is more than one kind of a call you can make.

If anyone at that place will do, make a station-to-station call. Give the long distance operator the telephone number, or the name and address and be sure to tell her you will talk with "anyone."

If it is essential that you talk with Mr. Smith or some other particular person, make a person-to-person call. In addition to the number, tell the operator who you want to talk to. A person-to-person call means extra operating work and it costs about one-fourth more than a station-to-station call.

Read the general information pages of your telephone directory for full explanation of all the various kinds of long distance calls and how to make them.

KANSAS MEN CHOOSE FLOYD

Arkansas City Men Selected as Chairman of State Americanization Committee.

Kansas members of the American Legion have selected as chairman of their state Americanization committee John R. Floyd of Arkansas City, a prominent insurance man and third vice president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Floyd was commissioned a first lieutenant at the second officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan. He served at Camp Grant, Ill., Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and Camp Dodge, Ia., with the Eighty-sixth division and at various times as insurance, signal, ordnance and athletic officer and as judge advocate.

In 1918, Mr. Floyd was appointed district manager for a well known insurance company with headquarters at Arkansas City and in the year following his discharge from the service wrote the largest number of applications ever written in his state in one year for his company, and ranked fifth in the United States. He has served in various offices in Arkansas City post and as a member at large of the Legion state executive committee.

WHEN TO WEAR THE UNIFORM

Former Service Men Inclined to Be Too Modest in Appearing in Army Toga.

Former service men are too modest to appear in uniform on special occasions, according to a letter from a member of the American Legion.

The letter follows: "Armistice day brought with it some new revelations of viewpoint on the wearing of the uniform at ceremonies and celebrations, and, inasmuch as in the future we must confront the problem time after time, I believe the question should be settled now, one way or the other. I am neutral on the subject and am willing to do as the 'bunch' does."

"Since their discharge the majority of both officers and enlisted men have shown more than a little hesitancy in putting the uniform back on for special occasions. The true spirit of the Legion is not manifest in any parade when the majority of the men appear in civilian clothes and a handful march in uniform. On such occasions the uniformed man is in an embarrassing position, and he vows: 'Never again!' I think modesty is responsible for most men's preference for 'civvies' on formal occasions, but I know that some argue that they do not want to be in uniform with a bunch of men wearing officers' uniforms and insignia."

"I am sure there is not an ex-officer in the Legion who would not willingly discard his insignia if it operated as a barrier to harmony. But let's have a standard rule—either civvies or uniforms."

PUT ON PAYING POST SHOW

Fred W. Dralle, Casper, Wyo., Successfully Served as General Manager of "Stampede."

Fred W. Dralle of Casper, Wyo., chairman of the state executive committee of the American Legion, gained national recognition for his home-town post of the Legion, as general manager of "Stampede" which cost $20,000 to stage and which added $3,000 to the post treasury.

Mr. Dralle taught school at Butte, Mont., and later was superintendent of schools at Roundup, Mont. He served for a term as clerk and recorder of Musselshell county, Mont., and is now an officer in the Standard Refinery of Casper.

Although he was 36 years old when the United States entered the war, Mr. Dralle enlisted in the Central Machine Gun Officers' Training school and was stationed at Camp Hancock, Ga.

VERY FEW WILL BE DROPPED

Legionnaires Are Rushing to Pay 1921 Post Dues; Many New Members Being Added.

The 10,000 post adjutants of the American Legion, according to reports reaching national headquarters from all over the country, are finding themselves now in the busiest weeks of the year as regards work.

The rush of Legionnaires to get in their 1921 post dues within the time limit set, with the penalty of being dropped from membership, if delinquent after that date, piled necessary clerical and other detail work onto the shoulders of post adjutants in an unprecedented manner.

To judge by the returns thus far available, the list of men to be dropped from membership for non-payment of their 1921 post dues within the specified time will be only a small fraction of the Legion and will be more than offset by the thousands of new members already obtained in the membership drives of various departments.

Secret of Prison Pigs' Eternal Youth Found

Boston.—Acceptance of the apothegm that pigs is pigs has cost the city many pounds of pork, and those in charge of the municipal piggery on Deer Island have a new watchword, "Swine-herds, know thine pigs."

Penal Institutions Commissioner O'Brien announced the discovery of a scheme by which young pigs were brought down the harbor in boats, landed surreptitiously at Deer Island and substituted for full grown, meat carrying porkers, which were taken away to market.

The guards in counting the noses of their porcine charges daily checked pigs as pigs without distinction. The number of noses tallied, but the poundage of the porkers fell off tremendously. Young pigs succeeded old pigs, and officials thought the inmates of the piggery had found the secret of eternal youth until the pig-running plan was discovered and the substitutions stopped.

YOUTH GETS 85-YEAR TERM

Nineteen-Year-Old Boy Pleads Guilty of Thirteen Arson Charges.

Uniontown, Pa.—Albert Smith, the nineteen-year-old son of a wealthy real estate owner of Fairhope, Pa., pleaded guilty in criminal court here to 13 charges of arson and was sentenced to serve not less than 42 or more than 85 years in the Western penitentiary at Pittsburgh.

Smith was arrested several weeks ago after the entire countryside had been aroused by a series of incendiary fires which caused damage estimated at no less than three-quarters of a million dollars. It was stated by the authorities that he had made a complete confession, and soon afterward that the confession had been repudiated.

The incendiary fires, which continued over a period of three months, not only destroyed farm property and houses in a number of villages, but also valuable school buildings. Not all of the fires were credited to Smith.

TO FLY WITH 50 PASSENGERS

Airship Will Be Experimented With for Service Between Great Britain and Egypt.

London, England.—British aviation authorities have announced that the R-36, one of the four airships to be used for experiments in commercial work, will have a passenger saloon, with capacity for 50 persons. This will be the first British airship to be fully equipped for passenger service. The R-36 is now nearing completion at Glasgow.

Four airships will be used in the experiments. The others are the British R-37 and the German L-71 and L-64.

The first tests are expected to take place on the route to Malta and Egypt and back. If the experiments prove the practicability of using airships for the carriage of goods and passengers the service may be started fairly early this year.

SMALL GIRL STAYED PANIC

Her insistence That Pet Parrot Should Be Saved Gave Fellow Passengers Time to Reason.

Kitty Barrett, eight years old, shared heroic honors with a pet parrot in a tale of fire at sea told by passengers landing from the steamship Cartago at Havana, Cuba.

The little golden-haired girl, who is a daughter of Edward Ware Barrett, a newspaper publisher of Birmingham, Ala., refused to enter a lifeboat until she had brought her parrot from her stateroom, and her insistent demand that the bird be rescued calmed something approaching a panic among the passengers and gave the ship's crew a chance to extinguish the flames and save the steamer.

While steaming along the coast of Panama one night, the Cartago was set on fire by an overheated motor. The blaze seemed to threaten the safety of those on board, and an alarm was sounded. The passengers gathered on deck and were ready to enter the boats, when Miss Kitty discovered she had left her parrot behind in her stateroom.

She refused to enter the boat until Capt. George A. McBride sent for the bird. Frightened men and women paused to laugh at the calmness of the child and her concern over the safety of her pet, and when the steward brought the parrot to the deck, he also announced the fire had been brought under control by the chief engineer.

CAMERA SHOWS UP DEFECTS

Why It Is Generally Necessary That Photographs of the Human Face Be Retouched.

Why does a photographer have to retouch his negatives before his customer is satisfied with the picture? The eye of the camera sees things differently from the human eye, although there are some lenses that so diffuse the image that the harsh detail is eliminated. These are the so-called "soft-focus" lenses, and photographs made with them generally need no extensive retouching.

It is the difference in "seeing color" between the lens and the eye that is largely responsible for retouching. The ruddy complexion, so suggestive of good health, under the relentless eye of the camera may turn into dark blotches, for red photographs dark.

The penetrating blue-violet rays are those chiefly used in photography, and these rays furnish the delicate "modeling" of form. The surface of the skin reflects these rays into the camera, and all the irregularities of the skin, such as wrinkles, become more noticeable than when looked at with the human eye, which sees mostly by the red and orange. Instead of the blue-violet rays caught by the eye of the camera.—Popular Science Monthly.

Big Irrigation Project

In the state of Washington there is under way a gigantic irrigation project which is unprecedented. It is designed to serve 1,763,000 acres with 20,000 second-feet of water at an outlay of $30,000,000. That is what has been done by the Columbia basin survey commission with a state appropriation of $100,000. In fact, the project is unprecedented as a whole as also are some of its elements compared with irrigation works heretofore executed, while in point of cost and general magnitude it is second to but few public work projects either carried out or planned. The daily capacity of the main canal and other trunk-line conduits is 1,728,000,000 cubic feet, or 12,275,000,000 gallons, which is twenty-five times the carrying capacity of the Catskill aqueduct.

Woman Has Done Good Work

Miss Gertrude Bell, the compiler of the Inner history of Mesopotamia, which has been issued by the British government in the form of a white paper, is regarded as one of the greatest authorities on the East. She has an unusual knowledge of the people, customs, language and political history of Syria, Asia Minor and Arabia, and during the war was attached to the British secret service. At times she vanished for months into the desert, and became known as the "Mystery Woman of the War."

Gloves From Interior of Whales

Soft, pliable "kid," that is as strong and durable as its genuine prototype, from the intestines of the whale; thick sole leather of excellent quality from the lining of the whale's mouth; five or more huge split sides of tough leather from the skin of the beluga, the common dolphin of the north Pacific—these are only a few of the many revolutionary products obtained from which has become one of the new important industries of the Pacific Northwest, says Popular Mechanics.

TUESDAY MORNING, MAR. 8, 1921

The report that women are learning to shoot will cause alarm among the innocent bystanders.

When the politicians get to calling each other liars it frequently happens they are all telling the truth.

The modern business girl may not know the spelling book but she can pass an examination on beauty hints.

The first job in the planting season should be to plant a lot of these burglers and hold-up men under ground.

Some of the gay boys from the farm who traveled to the cities last spring by Pullman car are now walking back over the road.

The ambition of women for larger business success is favorably viewed by men who are looking for some one to support them.

Naturally many politicians are not favorable to educational appropriations as they might lose their jobs if the people knew more.

The number of government employees is wholly superfluous, but it takes half of them to see that the other half do not go to sleep.

All elements in industrial conflicts say they want only what is fair but they all claim the right to make the decision as to what is right.

The formation of all these parent-teachers associations would seem to indicate that neither element is able alone to cope with the kid element.

When a fellow has to borrow money to pay his income taxes he begins to wonder whether his property belongs to himself or to the government.

It is claimed that domestic servants can now be secured, provided they don't have to do any laundry work, sweeping, cooking, cleaning or looking after the children.

What some of these fly girls need is to be thoroughly spanked, which applied on the small amount of clothes that some of them wear would be rather painful.

The Harding inauguration did not provide as much high jinks as that of some predecessors, but more people were able to report for work promptly the next morning.

The year 1920 was a record year for motor cars—factories turning out 1,000,000 cars and 840,000 trucks during the year. It is estimated there are 200,000 cars in storage.

It is agreed that Germany must pay $50,000,000 in damages and must pay it in merchandise, but no nation is willing to take any of the merchandise because it would throw its own people out of employment.

INAUGURATING A PRESIDENT

It is significant of changes of sentiment that the idea of a simple inauguration for President Harding should have met with universal approval. The custom of an elaborate ceremony and accompanying social events seems more suited to a monarchical country. In such a community big popular festivals have always been considered to win the favor of the people for the reigning house and to dignify the established order and lend weight to its authority.

Even in this democratic country many people have felt in the past that an impressive demonstration would give the people faith in the new administration and help it start in an atmosphere of public confidence.

This idea has elements of sham. A weak administration would be no stronger merely because 100,000 men with waving flags and gold lace marched up Pennsylvania avenue. Jefferson made no less a figure as president, if, as tradition asserts, he rode to the capitol on his horse and tied him to the capitol fence and ascended the capitol steps unattended.

A great event can be made impressive and dignified without being elaborate. Fine thoughts and noble words add more weight than any military display. If a president utters words of high purpose and resolution, showing his appreciation of his lofty position and a determination to do his full duty, it has more effect than the blaring of band instruments or the tramp of armed men.

The country runs its affairs on a more simple basis than formerly. Business men used to go to their work in tall hats and tail coats, now they favor loose and informal clothes. Furs and feathers are being cut out in all directions. The beginnings of new administrations in the federal and state governments will not in future be treated as magnificent events, but they will be dignified more by fine thoughts than by pompous and gaudy social glitter.

OFFICE SEEKERS

When a new president is inaugurated his first duty has usually been to attend to the rush of office seekers who desire a "government berth." The phrase in quotation marks is significant, suggesting that many people think a federal position is something to lie down in.

The number of people who desire public office is surprising; considering that the consideration is not usually liberal. It has often been urged that these positions should be better paid so that they should attract the most able class of people. Yet when higher rates of pay are granted, sometimes the only result is to increase the political scramble for them. Meanwhile first-class business men would not enter the service owing to the uncertainty of tenure and lack of system for promotion of exceptionally deserving officials.

Government service ought to offer the same chance for advancement as in a private business. But until appointments are made strictly on merit the taxpayers will not reward this work more liberally.

MAIN LINES OF HIGHWAYS

The question is debated among engineers whether in laying out and improving the main lines of highway that are to be constructed in the near future, these through routes should be taken through the center of cities or towns or should go around by the outskirts.

It is argued that dense traffic would be avoided by taking such lines through the outskirts of cities. Also the pedestrians and local traffic in such centers would not be annoyed by a stream of motor vehicles tearing through at high rates of speed, sometimes causing accidents.

On the other hand the business men in most places would like to have the main lines go through the civic centers. In that way visitors get a better idea of the communities through which they pass. Many of them stop off and buy goods. Merchants feel that their taxes contribute largely to the new modern roads and that the same should be applied in a way to help the business of the communities through which they pass.

Probably the motoring public would prefer the latter plan of running the main lines through city centers. When they approach a town they want to know what its best part looks like. They do not care to see the lumber yards, coal sheds and congested tenement districts that you commonly traverse in going through by rail.

When a long distance line reaches a very large city there should be some alternative route by which travellers can go around without getting tangled up in dense traffic. But in a community like Princess Anne there should be room enough for visitors to traverse the main streets. Our people want those who go through to see the full development of the town's business and civic life. If visitors and home folks only use consideration, a much larger traffic can be handled than is now seen.

She States It Mildly

While suffering with a severe attack of the grip and threatened with pneumonia, Mrs. Annie H. Cooley, of Middlefield, Conn., began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was very much benefited by its use. The pains in the chest disappeared, the cough became loose expectation easy and in a short time she was as well as ever. Mrs. Cooley says she cannot speak too highly in praise of this remedy.

Ends 30 Years Of Public Service

With the passing of the Sixty-sixth Congress at noon last Friday, Senator John Walter Smith, of Maryland, the recognized leader of his party in the State for more than a generation and a potential force in the United States Senate for a decade, passed into the retirement of private life.

Defeated in the last campaign for reelection, he surrendered his seat to O. E. Weller, but while he will no longer sit in the highest legislative council of the nation, he renounced his intention to remain in politics and to serve the friends who have helped him so long, as they may need his help.

Whether the Senator ever again will be a candidate for office is a matter for the future to determine. Many Republican leaders seem convinced that he will stand again for the Senate, against Senator France, two years hence. On this point Senator Smith has no comment to make but will allow matters to take their course.

Mrs. Jennie J. Briddell extends thanks to her many friends and neighbors for kind wishes during her recent bereavement.

Mrs. H. Lee Powell, of Salisbury, spent the week-end at the home of her nephew, Mr. Thomas Barnette, near Princess Anne.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. Mills and two children, Edward and Orville, of near Salisbury, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence M. Pusey.

Mr. W. A. Brown, of the Internal Revenue office, Baltimore, after a visit of a few days at the home of his father, Mr. George W. Brown, returned to that city last Thursday afternoon.

Mr. James T. Marriner, was a visitor to Princess Anne last Wednesday for the first time since the first of last January. Mr. Marriner has been confined to his home by a severe attack of pneumonia.

Former Judge J. Harry Covington, who is a patient at the Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, has practically recovered from his illness, but will be under dietetic treatment for two or three weeks longer.

On our 8th page will be found the advertisement of Miss R. Belle Wilson, of Pocomoke City. She invites the ladies of Somerset county to attend her Easter opening of millinery novelties on Wednesday and Thursday, March 9th and 10th.

Traditions surrounding March 1st and the groundhog got their signals crossed this year. If the line about "March coming in like a lamb and going out like a lion" proves true, the old groundhog, which already got a severe bump in the "baby blizzard" recently, is likely to get another at the end of the month, as last Tuesday was a mild entry for March 1st.

Mr. O. Straughn Lloyd, of Salisbury, was operated on Tuesday of last week at the Peninsula General Hospital for gall-stones. Immediate effects of the operation, which was a serious one, were not encouraging but since last Wednesday Mr. Lloyd has been steadily improving and his prompt recovery and restoration to good health is now expected. His many friends in Princess Anne wish for him a speedy recovery.

Horace Sterling A Suicide

Mr. Horace Sterling, for many years agent for the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway Company at Crisfield, committed suicide at his home in that town last Saturday night by inhaling gas. Mr. Sterling, who was at home alone, his wife being in New York visiting friends, went home Saturday night and made preparation for the deed by attaching a small rubber hose to a gas range and running it to his bedroom adjoining. He then turned on the gas, closed his room tight and went to bed. His body was found about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon by Mr. Frazier Moore, who occupies a part of the same building.

Mr. Sterling was 47 years old and a son of Mr. John Sterling, of E., president of the Bank of Crisfield.

A Hornet's Nest

By MARTHA M. WILLIAMS

Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"You surely are a goose—a green goose at that!" Mrs. Barney said suddenly to her niece, Susanah. Susanah giggled wickedly and went on with the matter in hand—that of putting her hair in papers all over her head. Ash-blond hair, silk-line, abundant, it had been cut short the night before while she was staying with Mary Peters.

Hence, Aunt Barney's indictment after the strictest cross-examination had not shown her a reason for the change. "I just wanted to see myself—hair grows again, you know," was all that Susanah had said audibly. Her eyes, however, twinkling like mad, held quite another story.

"Humph! Your head looks exactly like a nigger's all wrapped for the week," Mrs. Barney sniffed as Susanah swathed the biggest silk bandanna Grandfather Main had left behind, dainty into a perfect turban. Again the girl giggled—but this time with a bow, and murmured: "Glad you think so," as she ran away upstairs. A little later she called from the front steps:

"Miss Betty, I'm going visiting for—maybe a week. Don't you worry—it's a missionary effort." Then she ran down to where the Peters silver waited, carrying a plump handbag and stung "Roll Jordan!"

That afternoon Mrs. Clarice Dent explained carefully to Em-Smith, the maid she had just hired: "Don't you mind anything I may say. I'm a—all ragged out. You heard about the robbery? No! I declare! Where do you come from? Down beyond? I thought everybody knew. Burglars took all my jewelry before last—and my husband is so cruel—instead of offering a reward worth while and getting back my pearls and diamonds without any fuss, he would have in detectives—that's how I need you—they took away my good Felice—said it was inside work—when I'm certain she knows no more about the—the loss than I myself do."

"Aunt dat dee too bad!" Em-Smith murmured, casting up her eyes, and shaking her head. It was a very well turned head with reassuring "naps" breaking up the turban lines. Mighty trim in blue cotton frock, folded kerchief, and low-heeled shoes, with a walnut-brown complexion and horn-rimmed spectacles, she seemed to the distraught employer a special providence. "I sholy am sorry for you, Ma'am," she went on. "I got two strings o' coral Old Miss give Mammy when I was a baby, and a jet necklace from the ten-cent sto—I wear 'em Sundays, turn about—so I know how you must feel. Did you keep your things 'twent your mattress, or jes' under your head?"

Mrs. Dent smiled hysterically—such naïveté was refreshing. "I have a jewel-box," she explained—and a wall-safe to keep it in. "Here, let me show you," touching the frame of a mirror close to her seat. "See! It opens with a spring—we thought nobody knew of it but Mr. Dent and myself. We—we must have been spied on—for the thieves took everything but my baby pins. They left the box open on my dressing-table—my husband found it there when he came to wake me—he had been away—and I slept till all hours—so soundly I must have been drugged—"

"You right sho' that Fille woman didn't know?" Em-Smith interrupted, peering toward the mirror-door. "Perfectly sure," Mrs. Dent answered eagerly. "Besides—she wasn't here—I let her spend the evening with a friend in the village—she never disturbs me until I ring for her."

"Well, well, all dat beets de Dutch, an' de granny water say," Em-Smith murmured. "You must-a-been mighty smart, stayin' all night by yourself in dat big house."

"The cook and butler were here—besides we had visitors—Captain Lowry and his sister, Madame Je-vonne." Most distinguished both—that is the hardest part of it—of course, they left after insisting on being searched, trunks and everything. As if they could be suspected—but Arthur—my husband, said it was only right and proper."

"Well, Ma'am—I like the place—but I can't stay on wid you, less'n you lemme sleep out—I got a friend lives jes' a little piece off," Em-Smith said after a ruminant ten seconds. "Som'n else mought happen—you got so much fine wealthy plunder—my cracker is the mos' I've got—so I don't mean ter git any amears on hit."

Mrs. Dent objected violently—but, spent and nerve-wrecked, gave in at last. Two hours later she was glad—Em-Smith almost magically had brought order out of chaos—had ministered to her personal needs in the most soothing fashion, withal left. Then she had counseled: "You better sleep—a long, nice nap," and vanished after tucking fluffs of elderdown about the tremulous figure on the couch by the window.

A butler, several shades lighter than herself, bade her tidy up the guest chambers, still in wild confusion. At the door he volunteered: "Ef them 'tective had a-asked me I could a-told 'em som'n."

"What som'n?" Em-Smith asked. He wagged his head solemnly. "It'd a cut short thar job," he said oracularly. "So I'd a-got no thanks from no-body—madame hates her stepson like pizen—but she'd hate worse ter see him in stripes—and the Master! Lordy, he'd a-kill me ef I hadn't run."

"So you think that boy—" Em-Smith began looking away. "I know—he was down in town the day before—never come fer nothin' but money—and his papa was gone—Madame wouldn't talk to him, even over the phone—"

"Better run along—I got no time fer talk," Em-Smith said brusquely, setting to work like a whirlwind. But in spite of speed she took note of small things and great. And when she left the house around 11 o'clock she was smiling over things well done.

"Go straight to Dad, Curtis—you owe it to the name," she said a little later to a tall fellow who waited for her at the side gate. "Tell him his wife is only foolish, not wicked—yet. She let Lowrie take her jewels to make him pay a reward that would cover her bridge debts to him and his sister—and leave something over for debts of his own. No—this isn't just a hunch. His bed has been lain on, but not slept in—you can tell by the different feel of the linen. Then I found up the chimney throat a roll of burnt paper—with the inside one half legible—a note signed with her name. There was a long-distance call while she slept—I wouldn't let the butler wake her—answered it myself. It wasn't Lowry—his valet instead. My nigger talk so reassured him he gave a message—it was 'Good news! Felice returns tomorrow, in triumph.'"

"Not if I can help it—she must have known," Curtis Dent interrupted. "Of course—but you'll be foolish to interrupt—don't you see, she is coming to reclaim the treasure—it's hidden somewhere about—they never dared take it away. Let her come—call off the detectives—I'm to stay on, a week, maybe—Madame likes my touch. And so I'll have a chance to be in at the death—"

"You shan't—I can't stand it—having you there amongst servants," Curtis broke in, slipping his arms around her. "You'll have to—goosey," she whispered back. "Unless we can turn surreptitious to proof actual they will end by putting the robbery on you."

"That is why you—" Curtis began, holding her tighter. Trembling a little, she freed herself and ran from him, happy and miserable in the same breath.

Three nights later she waited patiently outside the back gate until moondown and chicken crow marked the small hours. Curtis kept her company—low-crouched they saw Felice slip out, run down the patch, dart into the woods, reappear clapping to her a huge hornet's nest. She whistled shrill but low, an auto answered her, and she began running to the highway; but Curtis and Em-Smith were at her heels. A headlight flashed intermittently. Lowry himself was in wait. Before the woman reached him Curtis caught her fast. Em-Smith snatched away the hornet's nest, and down upon the earth tumbled diamonds, pearls and rubies.

Prisoners Who Receive Alms. Whatever may be the fate of political prisoners in Portugal, ordinary offenders have a pretty easy time of it. The windows of the lowest tiers of prison cells are often quite close to the ground, and they are frequently situated near some public highway. Prisoners are permitted to ask alms of passers by. Where the windows of the cells are high above the ground the occupants let down bags or small tins by means of long pieces of string or cord, and there is one prison in Oporto, close to a church, where such a receptacle is continually dangling before the eyes of folks going to and from the church.

The Exception. Patience—Do you believe a woman ever lived who did not repeat something told her in confidence by some other woman?

Patience—Oh, yes.

Well, I'm glad to hear you say that.

Who was the woman?

Why, Eve.

IN THE SPRING YOUR BLOOD NEEDS A TONIC

Winter Weakens Blood, Makes Faces Pale. Takes Gude's Pepto-Mangan

THE BEST KNOWN BLOOD TONIC

Drowsy Spring-Fever Feeling That Comes From Sluggish Blood Will Soon Leave You

As all growing things on earth shoot into new life on Springtime, so do the billions of cells that make up each part of the body renew their vigor. As you open the windows, breathe the Spring air, and let in the sunshine, the red corpuscles in your blood should carry more oxygen to the tiny cells.

The red corpuscles are tiny disc-shaped particles, swimming in enormous numbers in the blood. They carry oxygen to cells in all parts of the body, and they carry away worn-out waste matter. Sometimes, especially in the Spring, after the winter indoors and more or less sickness, the red corpuscles themselves need rebuilding. Gude's Pepto-Mangan contains just the ingredients to give them greater power to absorb oxygen and to distribute it throughout the body.

That is why it is such a good Spring tonic. It helps so much to bring back color to cheeks made pale and wan by the necessary indoor winter life. It adds to the number of red corpuscles. With fine Spring days and Gude's Pepto-Mangan you gain in vigor and attain good health.

Don't go around drowsy this Spring. Take that good tonic, Gude's Pepto-Mangan. You can get it in tablet form or in liquid form at your druggist's. Both forms have the same medicinal value. Insist upon genuine Gude's Pepto-Mangan. Advertisment.

Good Humor Comes First. Honest good humor is the oil and wine of a merry meeting, and there is no jovial companionship equal to that where the jokes are rather snail and the laughter abundant.—Washington Irving.

Ideal Lighting. According to an illuminating engineer, what is wanted today in home illumination is the sort of good lighting that is found on the shady side of a tree on a sunny afternoon. Substitute for the sun a new 100-watt lamp, for the sky the creamy ceiling of a living room and for the tree an opalescent disk or bowl from the ceiling you now get a soft radiance which floods the entire room as though it were opened to the sky; from the diffusing disk you get a generous addition of light directly beneath having the quality of filtered sunlight. You have approximated the charming effect of mellow radiance that was apparent under the tree.

Tree's Peculiar Growth. Trees that grow with a spiral twist, concealing a ropelike fiber under a straight bark, are not unknown, but are generally regarded as arboreal curiosities. A recent instance in which a pine tree of this curious formation, discovered through the agency of a lightning stroke, is reported by W. M. Kern, of New York city. The bolt, in its downward course, circled the trunk seven times, leaving a spiral channel in which a man's arm could be laid, and disclosing the fact that the grain of the wood followed the same helical lines, though the bark and limbs appeared normal.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SOOR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Theodor's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficiency of Theodor's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Theodor's Black-Draught Liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Theodor's.

NOT MANY FEEBLE-MINDED

Authority Shows That Only Two Per Cent of the Population Can Be So Classed.

The idea that we are menaced as a nation by illiterates and feeble-minded is all wrong. We have illiterates and feeble-minded in our midst, but they are a relatively negligible force numerically. The reverse idea, or idea in the reverse, that we are short on genius, also is wrong, according to Dr. George G. Chambers, director of admissions at the University of Pennsylvania, and the educators who co-operate with him. Doctor Chambers says genius as a national crop is statistically as strong as the more discussed feeble-minded and that each represents a mere 2 per cent of the population.

But genius, says Dr. Chambers, is not the mere possession of a talent swollen to phenomenal degree, perhaps so hypertrophied that it is useless. He denies genius to the man, however great his talents, who cannot and does not exercise them. Genius in his definition is high intelligence followed by actual use of that intelligence in life. And intelligence is the ability to adapt one's self to new circumstances, to one's surroundings—in a word, to be able to know something and make use of one's knowledge. Under this definition it is surprising that the adaptable Yankee should not hold a higher record for genius than 2 per cent.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

BROUGHT ALL HE COULD FIND

Evidently George Had Had Quite a Serious Spill From Bicycle He Had Rented.

Bill Spokes, a second-hand bicycle man, was a just man and usually slept the sleep of the just, but one night his saintly slumbers were disturbed by a voice hailing him below his window. "What's wrong?" he called out, drowsily.

"D'you remember lending George Smith a machine this afternoon?" piped the voice.

"That's right," said the bicycle man; "but I ain't going to take it in at this time of night. George will have to keep the machine till mornin', and pay by the hour."

"Yes, of course," agreed the voice from below; "that's fair. But George had a bit of a spill through running into a motorcar, and he don't want to pay for the hire of more'n he can help. I've brought round all we can find of the machine so far."

At that the second-hand bicycle man jumped from his bed and rushed angrily to the window.

"And what have you found?" he shouted.

"It's coming up!" piped the voice, and an oil can sailed into the room.—Boston Globe.

Temptation Windows.

In a small Indiana town the Methodist church has stained glass windows on the bottom panels of which are printed verses of Scripture. One that six-year-old Willie has been able to decipher, and from the effort remembers well, goes: "And lead us not into temptation."

Not long after, his mother took him to visit an old friend who had built an expensive new home. Now, in the hall there were two high windows and both of them were made of orange-colored glass. When they entered that room Willie stared and stared but said nothing. But that night when he told his father all about the new house he remembered the orange windows and said: "And oh, dad, they're awfully religious. They've got those windows that keep out temptation."

Back to Medicine of Mayas. Prof. William Gates, president of the Maya society, states that in Central America there have recently been discovered the evidences of an ancient race of people, with a civilization as old and as cultured as that of the ancient Egyptians. They were of a lofty mental attitude and of high metaphysical qualities.

Among the most important discoveries expected to be made there are the unearthing of native medical works, some of which are already in the hands of the Maya society, that will add valuable specific pharmacopoeia and medicinal knowledge to that science in this country.

Plenty of Hair.

After stumbling in a dark theater for a few minutes I fell into an aisle seat behind a young woman, writes a correspondent, I could not see the screen well, as the girl in front hid most of it from my vision. I could see only the outline of her head against the screen and I thought she had her hat on, so I politely asked her to remove it.

She turned half way around and said: "You flatter me."

As I got a better look at her I realized that she had her hair bobbed and fluffed out so far it made it appear that she wore a hat.

New Fuel Gas.

A Swiss engineer has produced a rich new gas, suitable for use in internal-combustion engines, by first packing sheet-metal drums with alternate layers of common calcium carbide and sawdust, saturated by crude oil, then adding water. The carbide in combining with the water liberates acetylene gas and also generates a high degree of heat which cracks and volatilizes the crude oil, liberating its gases. The two gases then combine to form the new one.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

WELL KNOWN IN HOME STATE

James T. Duane, Commander of Massachusetts Department, Known to Many of His Buddies.

James T. Duane, commander of the Massachusetts department of the American Legion, is perhaps better known to the Legionnaires in his state than any other Legion official. He is said to have met more than 50,000 former service men and women during the time he was head of the military division of the Massachusetts state treasury department, which had charge of the distribution of the state bonus.

When Mr. Duane sailed for France with the Twenty-sixth division, he was a private; when he returned to America after participation in almost every major offensive of the war, he was the captain in command of the company with which he went overseas as a private. He had also served as a battalion commander for a time during the Argonne-Meuse drive.

Mr. Duane has been a retail salesman in Massachusetts and New York, a member of the theatrical profession and assistant manager for an electric and gas company. During his career as a state official, he was in charge of the disbursement of $20,000,000 in gratuities to veterans of the war.

As a member of the state welfare and post activities and state executive committees of the Massachusetts department of the Legion, Mr. Duane was instrumental in blocking the proposed transfer of ex-service mental patients to the old State insane asylum at Worcester, Mass., and in the establishment of a permanent staff of teachers in the various Public Health Service hospitals.

RULES IN SOUTH CAROLINA

G. Howard Mahon, Jr., Elevated to Department Commander of Legion in Home State.

Although G. Howard Mahon, Jr., of Greenville, S. C., commander of the South Carolina department of the American Legion, was severely wounded in action, spent long months in French, English and American hospitals and was discharged with disability, he has taken a prominent part in the organization of the Legion and in civic affairs of his state.

Mr. Mahon is now president of the Young Men's Business League of Greenville. Following his discharge from the hospital, which did not occur until April 3, 1920, he was elected commander of his home-town post and later department commander of the Legion.

Having attended the "Citadel" military school, Mr. Mahon developed an interest in military affairs at an early age. He was in command of the First battalion, 118th Infantry from the time it was organized until he was wounded when the Thirtieth division routed the Boches at Bellecourt.

TO HOLD CORDIAL RELATIONS

Legion Representatives in Attendance at Recent Formation of Inter-Alleied Veterans' Association.

American Legion representatives took an active part in the formation of the Inter-Alleied Veterans' Association in Paris recently. The association is composed of delegates from the Union Nationale des Combattants of France, the Comrades of the Great War of Great Britain, the Federation Nationale des Combattants of Belgium, the Associazione Nazionale Combattenti of Italy, Druzina of Czechoslovakia and the American Legion.

The primary purpose of the organization is to preserve the cordial relations between the nations associated in the war on the allied side. As one means of accomplishing this it is proposed that the membership card of each society shall be recognized by the societies in all the nations represented in the association.

The delegates who attended the Paris conference have been instructed to report back to their respective organizations the details of the amalgamation. Paris was merely the starting point from which veterans of the World war may form their own League of Nations.

The committee which represented the American Legion at the Paris conference included Cabot Ward and Arthur W. Kipling of Paris Post No. 1; Norman C. Coster, department adjutant of France; E. Sadler and W. H. A. Coleman of London post; Edward L. Ows, George A. Dunagan and E. J. Seligman.

SEEMED FUNNY TO PERUVIAN

South American Unable to Understand Why Republicans Did Not Seize the White House.

One day a Peruvian friend came to me in great excitement, waving a newspaper. "Senor," he cried, "there is a revolution in the United States."

"What do you mean?" He showed me the paper. It contained a brief account of the Republican convention in Chicago, in which Senator Lodge said several uncompromising things about President Wilson.

"You see," explained the Peruvian, "the President's enemies openly attack him. Is the army disloyal? Why do they not suppress the demonstration?"

I explained to him that in the United States it is any citizen's privilege to abuse the Chief Executive to his heart's content, that no effort is made either by the army or by the President himself to check such demonstrations, and that the Republican party would wait patiently until March 4 instead of descending in a body upon the White House and forcibly ejecting Mr. Wilson.

He smiled in polite incredulity. "What funny people!" he laughed.

His own President had gained office by the more simple expedient of first winning the good-will of the army, then walking into the official palace to hand the former incumbent a ticket on the first steamer out of town.—Lealle's.

AIR GLIDERS IN COMPETITION

Remarkable Speed Attained at Recent Meeting in the Rhine District of Germany.

A German gliding and soaring competition was recently held in the Rhine district by the League of German Model Aircraft and Gliding Clubs. The meeting was marred by an unfortunate accident, resulting in the death of the well-known pilot, Von Loessel. This was due to breaking in the air at the elevator of his glider. A number of monoplanes and biplanes were entered, reports the Scientific American, some of very novel design. Many of the entries had comfortable seats and landing gear as distinguished from the old-time gliders in which the operator's legs swung from below the planes, ready to take up the strain of hard landing, often at the price of serious injuries. The longest distance covered by the gliders was 1,830 meters, with a duration of 142.5 seconds. That record was made by Klemperer, with a height of 330 meters. The apparent gliding angle of Klemperer's flight was one in thirty-one.

Curious Compromise.

When South Africa became federated, ten years ago, a controversy as to the capital city was settled by one of the most curious compromises in history. Pretoria became the administrative and Cape Town the legislative center. So United South Africa has two capitals, which are almost exactly 1,000 miles apart.—Brooklyn Eagle.

First Use of Music Notes.

It is not known exactly. In the first half of the Thirteenth century notes of definite length were introduced. The first real school of composition was in Flanders, William Du Fay being the first of the composers of this school. He was born shortly before 1400 and died in 1474.

Festival of the Quail.

In the Mediterranean, so bird is better known than the quail. Twice a year he passes over the great inland sea. His coming is quite a festival, and many an outstanding bill and many a peasant's overdue rent is paid at his expense.

Skin Thick on Palms.

Among other interesting facts that have been determined by the tireless investigating scientists is this: That the skin on the palm of the hand is normally 20 times as thick as the skin on the eyelids. The palms of the workman are even thicker.

SMOKE CANDLE VAPOR DEADLY

Fearful Weapon Said to Have Been Brought to Perfection by the War Department.

One of the many ingenious contrivances developed during the recent war was the "smoke candle." Such candles were little cylindrical boxes containing smoke-producing chemicals, which could be ignited at a moment's notice by a sort of friction device. They were used to conceal the movements of small groups of men. When touched off they were simply placed on the ground, to make a smoke screen.

The Americans thought it would be a good idea to use smoke candles that would give off a poisonous smoke. These improved candles did not come into use during the war, but since then the chemists of our War department have perfected them. The poison stuff used is a coal-tar product which, a solid at ordinary temperatures, vaporizes in the heat of the burning candle. The vapor will penetrate most gas masks. The military authorities think that such poison smokes will find very extensive use in future warfare.

The smoke of a smoke-candle is usually white. To be effective for concealment, it must, of course, be as opaque as possible; and it must also be heavy, so as to be not easily blown away by a light breeze. Candles that produce a smoke of zinc chloride meet these requirements admirably, but the addition of "diphenylchlorarsine" makes them poisonous as well.

SCORED ON COUNTRY COUSIN

City Lad Had Endured Much, but Opportunity Came and He Surely Improved It.

The country visitor had been regaling his young Glendale cousin with tales of the farm. Some of his stories seemed a little far-fetched to the city lad, who at last became somewhat wearied with the rural youth's boasts of the superiority of things "on the farm."

They were walking along the street when two young men sporting the small skull caps of U. S. O. were seen approaching.

The country boy was a little mystified. "What's this?" he questioned, "a new city style, these little caps?"

The Glendale lad saw his chance to get square. "Oh, those," he said with assumed carelessness, "no, you see these fellows are students at the university. All the boys who enter have to wear those caps because under the system of education they receive their brains develop so rapidly that their heads grow in circumference, and if they wore ordinary hats, new ones would be necessary almost every month."—Los Angeles Times.

Paths in the Snow.

"Even the beaten paths in the snow possess a joy all of their own which, to our mind, excels that of the so-called enchantment of the open road, which had been sung by many writers long before Stevenson wrote of it with such compelling charm," writes Dan Beard in Boys' Life. "To a barefooted boy swinging on the front gate of the white picket fence, the road is both a challenge and an invitation as he gazes wistfully down the dusty reaches and long perspectives where the fences on each side seem to converge until they meet in the unexplored distance or where the road climbs up the hills and dips into the swales to lose itself at last in the mysterious shade of overhanging branches of the wood or grove. That vagabond joy in the open road, that yearning to fare forth and solve the mystery of what lies beyond, comes with almost irresistible force to all of us."

Cave Warned by Volcano.

A naturally heated cave has been discovered at Horse Butte, near Bend, Ore., which apparently draws its warmth from a subterranean volcanic source. The discovery was made by C. A. Yarnell and H. D. Elde, Bend fuel dealers. The cave is located near the top of the Butte and first attracted attention when a wave of heat was felt issuing from the mouth. The slender bottom and rock walls of the tunnel are unbearably hot to the touch, the heating increasing as far back as could be explored. That the phenomenon is a recent manifestation was indicated by the smoldering of grass and twigs near the opening. To test the natural oven, Yarnell cooked a light breakfast by introducing raw articles of food into the aperture and closing the orifice for a few moments.

Keeping Down Mine Dust.

The presence of dust in mines is disagreeable from many standpoints, besides being a positive menace from its explosive qualities. Efforts are being made more than ever to keep the mine dust down, and it has been discovered in the case of one mine in Kentucky that excellent results were obtained by sprinkling the empty coal cars. The operation is performed automatically as the cars are moved along after being dumped, and the difference in the atmosphere of the mine was apparent to all.

Age of Petroleum.

The age of petroleum is here. From a humble beginning in 1859 it has now reached a point where it is consumed in ever increasing quantities until the problem of its production has become one of the most absorbing of international questions—to that country which controls the output belongs the power of the world.

DEVICE INSTALLED WHICH THREW

ON MARCH 4.

HUNDRED THOUSAND HEARD

Tremendous Energy Developed by Hidden Amplifiers and Motors
—Telephone Principles Involved.

Washington, D. C.—For the first time in the history of the United States an inaugural address was heard by everyone of the hundreds of thousands of men and women who crowded the broad open space which stretched for fifteen hundred feet in every direction around the inaugural stand in front of the Capitol Building. The reason for this was found in the loud speaking device which was installed for the benefit of the public, and which was the only feature of the entire simple inaugural ceremony outside of the taking of the oath. By means of this device, which is hidden from the eye, the human voice is made to carry half a mile under perfect conditions.

It was a system of motors, generators, wires, transmitters, amplifiers and other electrical machinery designed by the experts of the Bell Telephone System, which contributed the speaker to the inaugural ceremonies for the benefit of the public. It is not a commercial device, it is not patented, nor is it for sale or for rent. To the experts, the system is the exposition of the development of everything scientific in the telephone world, for the principles involved are those of the telephone and the engineers and research men of The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, simply brought into play some of the marvelous discoveries and developments of The Bell laboratories.

All Apparatus Hidden.

Although there were three rooms full of machinery and electrical devices in connection with the loud speaker, none of it was in evidence, and the huge horns through which the speech was heard were camouflaged by being made a part of the roof of the speaker's stand. So far as the speaker himself is concerned he saw nothing of the apparatus except small transmitter boxes which were set somewhere in front and to the sides of his speaking desk, so that his voice was caught in the workings of the loud speaker no matter which way he turned.

When the President-elect spoke, his voice generated energy by means of the transmitters. This energy was transferred by wires to the complex apparatus installed under the Capitol steps. The energy is led into a little glass bulb, which the experts call a "vacuum tube amplifier," the function of which is to receive energy, multiply it and send it on to other amplifiers until it reaches a stage sufficient to turn it loose in voice form through the hidden horns out to the distant crowds.

While the speaking was in progress, a dozen experts were watching each bit of apparatus. There were men at certain points on the capital plaza connected with the machinery rooms by telephone, to report to the men at the amplifiers. The working loud speaker requires a crew as large as a small vessel.

Amplifies Millions Of Times

The voice, when it emerges from the horns, is almost an exact duplication of the original, but greatly increased in power. It is possible for the loud speaking system to obtain an amplification of several millions times without great distortion of the original wave form.

The mouths of the hidden horns are depressed just enough so that the audience near at hand within range of the speaker's voice direct, hear very little from the horn, those further away hear both the speaker and the loud speaking system, so farthest away hearing the horn only.

It might seem that this additional source of sound, might create a double effect or an unnatural effect, but it does not. The sound from the horn is exactly in phase with the speech, and almost exactly the same quality. At any point where the sound from the horns is heard, it is practically impossible to tell that one is not listening to the speaker himself.

Why Colds Are Dangerous

It is the serious diseases that colds lead to that make them dangerous. They prepare the system for the reception and development of the germs of influenza, pneumonia, tuberculosis, diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough and measles. You are much more likely to contract these diseases when you have a cold. For that reason you should get rid of every cold as quickly as possible. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will help you. It is widely known as a cure for bad colds.

Confers On Shore Bus Line

Col. Joseph L. Wickes, chief of the Bureau of Transportation, held a conference last Thursday with Harry Allyn, general manager of the Tidewater Transportation Company, which is working out a plan for the inauguration of a trunk line motor passenger and freight transportation system for the Eastern Shore.

Mr. Allyn told Colonel Wickes that since he had visited the territory to be covered the officials of his company had become convinced that it would require an investment of from three-quarters to a million dollars to put in effect and maintain a service that would meet with the requirements of the territory.

The new company, it is expected, will make a formal application to the Public Service Commission for a permit covering the entire route from Salisbury to Elkton, Md.

BRACE UP!

Do you feel old before your time? Is your back bent and stiff? Do you suffer from urinary disorders? Don't despair—profit by Princess Anne experiences. Princess Anne people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor! Here's a Princess Anne resident's statement.

Mrs. Carroll Hastings, Antioch avenue, gave the following statement October 14, 1907: "For nearly seven years I was afflicted with kidney disorder. I was very miserable and weak and could just about drag around. My back hurt terribly. At times I was taken with sick headaches and dreadful pains through my pelvis. My kidneys didn't act right and I was annoyed with gravel. My kidneys were getting weaker every day when I read about Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured a box and they cured me of backache and it has never returned. I have been relieved of all the old afflictions. It's a pleasure to speak well of Doan's."

On January 6, 1921, Mrs. Hastings added: "I am glad to repeat all I said in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. I have never found anything to equal them for attacks of backache and kidney complaint."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Hastings had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Auto Show At Cambridge

One of the biggest events of the season at Cambridge will be the Automobile Show at the Armory from March 15th to 19th, inclusive. This is the first auto show that Cambridge has attempted, but from the wholehearted manner in which the committees are tackling the proposition, it promises to be highly successful.

All cars on display will be of the latest model, and it is expected that the exhibits will be numerous. Other features of the show are the excellent musical program that has been arranged and the wonderful decorations of the show place. A large crowd of visitors during the afternoons and evenings of show week is anticipated.

Who Determines Credit?

A man's credit is the measure of his worth in the opinion of his associates—upon this credit rests in a large measure his business success.

Association with a bank of recognized standing is invaluable to a business man. To it he turns for counsel and credit.

A commercial account with this bank means much more than the amount represented in your pass book.

The Farmer Today Is a Business Man

HE does not run his farm in the haphazard fashion he did ten years ago. It's his business. He figures his costs and profits.

He knows, of course, what he gets out of the productive acres of his farm—and how much he is paying out in taxes on the idle, unproductive stump and swamp land that brings in nothing.

That Is Why He Is Clearing More Land Every Year

It's just good business. Every acre cleared and planted means more profit every year. The clearing cost is usually more than covered by the first crop.

More land is being cleared, too, because of the manufacture of dynamite made for this purpose, which makes the work easier, quicker and more economical.

Take an Inventory of Your Land

How much is productive? How much idle? Then see our local dealer and plan how much dynamite you need for this season. He will help you—and will furnish you with reliable, efficient and economical explosives, now in greatest demand throughout this section.

Mr. William J. Phillips died at his home in Princess Anne last Friday night, about 9 o'clock, of Bright's disease, in the 63rd year of his age.

Mr. Phillips had been an invalid for about 8 months and had been confined to his home for four weeks. He was well known throughout Somerset county and during his life owned considerable property in this town upon which he erected many houses. He also had a number of dwellings built on his lots on "Somerset Heights" before he died of the property some two years ago. He was elected sheriff of Somerset county on the Democratic ticket in November, 1909, which office he held until November, 1911. The deceased was a member of the Junior Order United American Mechanics, Improved Order Red Men and the Daughters of America.

Weldon Phillips, of Chester, Pa.) and three daughters (Misses Ada A., Margaret E. and Annie H. Phillips, all of Chester, Pa.).

Funeral services were held last Sunday afternoon in Manokin Presbyterian Church, conducted by the Rev. Walter Archbold, rector of Somerset parish. Interment was in the church cemetery. The pallbearers were, Messrs. Gordon Tall, Wm. F. Todd, Howard Anderson, S. Upshur Long, George W. Brown and Harry C. Dashiell.

Public School Notes

Dr. Burdick, of the Public Athletic League of Maryland, has announced Thursday, April 21st as the date for Field Day in Somerset county. Friday, April 22nd is the date set for the colored schools. The exercises in both cases will be held in Princess Anne.

Two debates, under the direction of Prof. Charles S. Richardson, of the Maryland University, College Park, Md., will be held in this county on the evening of April 8th. The subject for debate will be compulsory military training, as to whether or not it is beneficial—physically, mentally and morally. Each school will provide two teams, and the debate will be conducted at both Crisfield and Princess Anne on the same evening. Crisfield will argue the negative side in both places. The judges, selected by the county superintendent, have been named as follows:

Princess Anne—George W. Maslin, of Princess Anne; L. A. Chamberlin, of Kingston; Senator John B. Robins, of Crisfield.

Crisfield—Dr. C. E. Collins, of Crisfield; S. Frank Miles, of Marion, Col. Henry J. Waters, of Princess Anne.

Hi Henry Minstrels Coming

The ever popular Hi Henry Minstrels will appear at the Auditorium, Princess Anne, Wednesday, March 23rd. This old-time minstrel company is now on its forty-fifth annual tour and has always had a reputation second to none.

This season the featured comedians are: Bill Conkling, Fred Salmon, Bill Sears and Whitney Ward. They also have the strongest olio in the history of the company, numbering nine of the very best vaudeville acts obtainable, featuring "The Great Morales Bros.," Roman ring artists; Eddie Bolton, novelty wire artist; "Renzo, the Frog Man," BoRoy Williams, athletic marvel; "The Great Weber," the double-voiced vocalist, and four other big acts.

The band and orchestra are still up to the Hi Henry standard. This is the only real minstrel coming this season. Don't miss it.

The Guild of Grace Protestant Episcopal Church, Mt. Vernon, will hold a dance in the Guild Hall on Tuesday night, March 29th. Hebron orchestra will furnish music for the occasion. If Tuesday night should be stormy the dance will be held on Wednesday night.

Mr. Miles Will Resign Collectorship

The Baltimore American last Friday said:

"Collector of Internal Revenue Joshua W. Miles plans, it is understood, to resign that position the latter part of June, according to reports among his friends. Should Mr. Miles tender his resignation to President Harding so early as this, as he is understood to have determined upon doing, Republican State Chairman Galen L. Tait, who is slated to succeed him, would precede the other Maryland recipients of Federal patronage under the new administration into office by many months.

"The office of Collector of Internal Revenue is one which has no specified term.

"When Mr. Miles goes out his chief deputy, former Senator Louis M. Milbourne, will go with him. So will several other chiefs of departments. This being the case, it is said that Mr. Miles does not want to drop the work at once and leave a somewhat disorganized office force to his successor at the busiest season of the year."

Rev. Dr. Martin Dead

Rev. Dr. Henry B. Martin, who, about 30 years ago, was rector of Somerset parish, and resided in Princess Anne for a number of years, died at his home in Chestertown, Md., last Tuesday night in his 85th year of age.

Dr. Martin left here to become rector of Emmanuel Protestant Episcopal Church, Chestertown. He retired last year, when the Rev. C. L. Walker succeeded him. He had served as assistant rector at Ascension Church, Baltimore; Old Swede's Church, Wilmington, Del., and other places. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. A. L. Physick and Miss Lucille Martin, both of whom are well known to many of our citizens.

Dr. Martin was buried at Greenmount Cemetery, Baltimore, last Friday. The pallbearers were Judge Lewis W. Wickes, Wilbur W. Hubbard, Hope H. Barrall, Dr. F. B. Hines, Dr. J. R. Micon, Dr. Charles W. Walland, Curtis E. Crane and Jefferson D. Bacebus, all of Chestertown.

Washington High School Notes

A joint meeting of the Washington and Crisfield High School teachers was held Friday afternoon, March 4th, in Princess Anne, for the purpose of discussing high school work in general. Plans for making Field Day (April 21st) the greatest Somerset county has ever known, were also suggested.

Make no engagements for March 28th. Special attraction at the Auditorium on that date.

The champion debaters of Somerset county will participate in a public debate on April 8th, at the Auditorium, Princess Anne. Everyone who is interested in seeing Washington High School show Crisfield High School how to debate will please occupy a chair in the Auditorium on the above mentioned date.

MARTIN-LANKFORD WEDDING

Ceremony Performed At The Bride's Home In Crisfield

Last Wednesday Miss Priscilla Lankford, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Lankford, was married to Mr. Jay S. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Martin, of Bonheur-on-the-Severn.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride, in Crisfield, at 11 o'clock a. m., the Rev. John L. Johnson, pastor of Immanuel Church, officiating, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The rooms were beautifully decorated with pink roses, pussy-willows and amaranth.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. C. P. Lankford. She wore a petal frock of white georgette over silver cloth and carried a shower bouquet of orchids, sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. Her veil was caught with orange blossoms. Mr. Samuel Norman Wilson, of Swarthmore, was best man. Mrs. Howard Bassett played the wedding march.

Among those who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel S. Martin, Miss Edith Martin, Mrs. Thomas Bower, and Misses Edith and Dorothy Bower, of the Severn; Mrs. Fred Sines, of Sparrows Point; Mr. and Mrs. H. Fillmore Lankford, Mr. Joseph G. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin T. Barnes and Mr. Joseph G. Scott, Jr., of Princess Anne; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fenberthy Martin, of Westfield, N. J.; and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lindsay, of Baltimore.

The bride is a graduate of the Friends School at Swarthmore, and of Goucher College, Baltimore. The groom is also a graduate of Swarthmore and attended Lehigh University.

After a motor trip to the Eastern cities, Mr. and Mrs. Martin will reside in Youngstown, Ohio, where Mr. Martin is connected with the U. S. Steel Company.

Big Crab Season Predicted

Unless a severe cold spell of a week or more should occur between now and spring the Maryland Conservation Commission looks for one of the biggest crab seasons in the history of the State.

These expectations are based on a report made to the commission last week by Capt. G. W. Creighton, of the State steamer McLane. Captain Creighton reported that in the work of sounding oyster beds, placing seed oysters, etc., he found every evidence of an unusually good crab season in the prospect.

This is said to be due principally to the mild winter. When the winter is severe the crabs in the Maryland part of the Chesapeake migrate to Virginia waters and there spawn, it is explained. Virginia laws permit dredging during or immediately after the spawning season and, as a result, a large part of the Maryland crabs are caught before full development.

This practice has decreased crab propagation in Maryland waters steadily for several years and efforts to overcome it are now being made. A joint commission of Maryland and Virginia has been suggested by Representative J. Charles Linthicum, who is trying to remedy the trouble through a Federal migratory fish bill which he plans to push through Congress.

With the mild winter here this year, the crabs, in the main, are said to have used Maryland bottoms for spawning and, early though it is now, they are already picking their way through the mud and giving evidence of their great numbers.

Miss Todd Honored

A design submitted by Miss Charlotte E. Todd, who is a second year student at the Maryland Institute, was chosen for the cover of the program for the Chicago Opera Company during its stay at the Lyric, in Baltimore, last week. Miss Todd's design was selected from about one hundred submitted by the students of the Institute.

Miss Todd is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Todd, of Princess Anne. We understand the prize was tickets for the grand opera. We congratulate Miss Todd for being the successful competitor.

Farmers Receive Fertilizer

The members of the County Agricultural Association received five cars of fertilizer during last week. The cars were shipped to Princess Anne, King's Creek, Kingston and Marion. Shipments this week will be made to Princess Anne, Costen and Marion.

The association also received their second car of Maine grown seed potatoes. The members of the association are now placing their orders for corn fertilizer.

Justice is represented as being blind folded, which is as it should be. There must be times when she is ashamed to look herself in the face.

METHODISTS TO MEET IN CRISFIELD

Fifty-Third Session Of Wilmington Conference March 30th

The fifty-third annual session of the Wilmington Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church will convene at Immanuel Church, Crisfield, March 30th, lasting one week. The conference will be presided over by Bishop William Frazier McDowell, resident bishop of the Washington area.

This is the third time the Wilmington Conference has been entertained by Immanuel Church, once in 1886 and again in 1918. The ministers of the conference are manifesting keen interest in the approaching session, as considerable important work is to be accomplished. The Lay Conference, which has been called to meet during the week, will probably hold only a one-day session.

The preliminary session of the conference will be held at night, Tuesday, March 29, in charge of Rev. Dr. John W. R. Sumwalt, and will be addressed by Rev. Dr. Luther E. Lovejoy, of Chicago. On March 30th the organization of the conference will be effected after the sacrament is administered. The business sessions will be held each morning. On Wednesday the anniversary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be observed, with Mrs. William H. Carson presiding. Mrs. Florence Hooper, of Baltimore, will be the speaker. The anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society will be held Thursday, Mrs. Emma L. Weldon presiding and Mrs. D. B. Street, of Washington, making the address. The Veterans recognition services will be held Friday afternoon, continuing at the evening session, in charge of Rev. Dr. E. H. Dashiell, and addresses will be delivered by Rev. Dr. J. B. Hingley, of New York, and Rev. Dr. Watson F. Hannan, professor of exegetical theology, Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J. Dr. Hannan will also speak at several other sessions of the conference. The memorial service will be held Sunday afternoon, with Rev. Dr. T. E. Terry as chairman.

Other branches of church work having special recognition include the Centenary Movement, the Epworth League, the Sunday School and the Anti-Saloon League. Among the speakers will be: Rev. Dr. W. J. Wade and Charles E. Guthrie, of Chicago; Clarence True Wilson, of Washington, D. C.; G. W. Crabbe, of the Anti-Saloon League; Joseph C. Nate, of Chicago; W. S. Rowe, a returned missionary from Africa; W. G. Harris, Milton McCann, W. S. Bovard, E. C. Beboch, E. C. Prettyman, R. K. Stephenson. Music will be furnished by the conference choir, under the direction of former Representative Walter O. Hofferke, of Delaware, and by the choir of Immanuel Church. The entertainment of ministers and delegates is furnished free by the members of Immanuel Church.

Will Plant 100,000 Bushels Of Shells

In line with its recently announced policy to devote the major part of its energies to conserving food, rather than to polluting water food areas, the Conservation Commission has made arrangements for the planting of 100,000 bushels of oyster shells on the western shore of the bay, the spots for the planting to be definitely selected later. This will be the first planting of oyster shells by any conservation commission. Previous commissions have planted small quantities of seed oysters, but at no time in previous years has the commission found itself able to establish good oyster bottoms with the planting of shells.

It is the plan of the present commission to make "reserved areas" of the bottoms in which the planting will be done. These areas will be policed until the oysters have been given a chance to develop, so as to prevent premature dredging or tonging. When the oysters have been declared developed, dredging will be permitted, the dredgers to pay an additional tax of ten cents a bushel for the privilege of gathering oysters from the reserved areas. This additional tax, it is believed, will cover the cost of the planting.

Contractors Meet In Salisbury

"Home Building" was the topic of a gathering in Salisbury last Tuesday of the building contractors of the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, who were the guests of E. S. Adkins & Co., lumber dealers of Salisbury. Dinner was served to the 150 guests at noon on the second floor of the Adkins factory, after which the gathering was addressed by Fred P. Adkins, president of the Adkins company; H. M. Hobart, general sales manager of the Curtis Company, Inc., Clinton, Iowa, and W. E. Miller, of Salisbury. Mr. Adkins went into the history of the lumber industry on the Peninsula.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH REOPENING

Services On Palm Sunday—Many Memorial Gifts Presented

St. Andrew's Church, which has been closed since January 10th last for extensive repairs and re-decoration, will be re-opened again on Sunday, March 20th, when special services will be held both morning and evening. The rector, Rev. Walter Archbold, D. D., will preach at the morning service and conduct the benediction for the memorials. The Rev. Edmund Burke, Ph. D., rector of Ocean City, Md., will preach at the evening service.

The Parish Aid Association have, for a few years past, been collecting funds for a tile flooring. Since Dr. Archbold became rector it was decided to change the original plan and put down a hardwood floor over the entire nave, together with other improvements. And now these faithful workers are to be rewarded by seeing the fruition of their hard work in a completely renovated church. In preparing for the new floor nearly fifty loads of earth have been excavated, new sub-walls built on both sides of the church, new sleepers have replaced those decayed, the furnace pipes changed and an entirely new sub-floor laid. These improvements took several weeks of steady work. Very handsome panel wainscoting has been installed around the nave and baptistry and in the window frames, which gives it a rich appearance, and the new cromatic hardwood floor has been laid. The last two items are memorials to all past members of the Parish by the Parish Aid Association, who have worked nobly for these objects.

The members of St. Andrew's Guild undertook to raise funds to redecorate the church with the result that the walls have been painted a new ivory color and all the woodwork, including the pews, has been repainted to harmonize with the other church furniture. This result has proved most gratifying. The rector's vestry has been refurnished, a new closet put in for the altar linens and hangings, a wash basin and radiator installed and a new ceiling. The furnace chimney has been raised several feet, a panel transom placed over the Guild room doors and the inside lower door has been done away with. Several memorial gifts have also been given in addition to the floor and wainscoting, as follows:

North side aisle door by Mr. W. P. Todd, to his mother, Ann Rebecca Todd.

North center aisle doors by Mrs. R. W. Dashiell and Miss Maria Dennis, to James U. and James T. Dennis.

South side aisle door by Mrs. Rufus W. Dashiell, to Rufus W. Dashiell, M. D.

South center aisle doors by Mrs. R. F. Brattan, to her children, Eleanor D. and Robert F. Brattan.

A brass cross in the baptistry by Mrs. Wm. H. Jesse, Mrs. R. F. Brattan, Mrs. R. W. Dashiell and Miss Maria Dennis, to past members of the family.

The Guild room doors by Mrs. W. S. McMaster, Mrs. R. F. Duer and Mrs. Charles T. Fisher, to the late W. S. McMaster.

Very rich panels, of large dimensions, have been placed on the chancel walls facing the west by Judge R. F. Duer, to his father and mother.

A beautiful cloth of gold dossal for the sanctuary, purchased by the Sunday School, which had to be imported, has not arrived yet, and a new electric light has been placed over the entrance to the church.

Commission Gets Bus Line Plans

Application to operate a motorbus service from Elkton to Salisbury has been filed with the Public Service Commission by Harry Allen, acting for the Tidewater Lines, Inc., which already operates a similar service from the Capital to Southern Maryland.

The application is now in the hands of J. L. Wickes, traffic expert of the Commission. The chances are that Mr. Wickes will recommend the granting of the application.

The busses to be put into service would be of the 30-passenger type, like those operated by the company in its Southern Maryland service. Later a freight service is contemplated.

It is said that the new line will require a capital of some $750,000. The line would run from Elkton to Church Hill and then would split, one branch proceeding via Centerville, Easton and Bethlehem, and the other via Ingleside, Goldsborough, Denton and Federalburg to Hurlock, where the two branches would unite, thence going to Salisbury.

Colonel Wickes believes that the proposed service would be an important step in intercounty communication on the Eastern Shore. Besides that, he wishes to see the experiment tried by responsible interests.

HOG CHOLERA LOSS STILL SERIOUS

Every Effort Is Necessary To Prevent Spread—Average Reduced

While the annual average losses to farmers and hog raisers in the State have been reduced from 81 to 45 hogs per thousand in the past nine years, the annual loss is still sufficiently serious to require every effort to check the costly mortality, according to Dr. J. K. Atherton, inspector in charge of hog cholera work in the State.

In his annual report, dealing with the methods of handling hog cholera under the Maryland plan for its control and eradication and the results obtained during the past year, Dr. Atherton suggests that the time has come when the term "hog cholera control" should be disposed of and "hog cholera prevention" substituted. As the disease cannot occur without the presence of the living organism responsible for it, and as the organism does not originate spontaneously, Dr. Atherton says that care in preventing the introduction of the infection into susceptible herds and the proper methods of freeing premises of the causative agent, will ultimately make the eradication of the disease an accomplished fact.

While hog cholera control work has been in force in the State only since 1917, Dr. Atherton gives figures to show the annual average losses sustained by farmers and hog raisers during the past nine years. For the three-year period ending April 30, 1914, the annual loss amounted to 81 hogs in every thousand, or a total annual mortality of 34,668 hogs valued $646,904. During the next three years the losses dropped to 70 hogs per thousand, and during the three years ending April 30, 1920, the yearly losses had been reduced to 45 hogs per thousand, a total of but 19,260 hogs, valued at $359,361. While the figures show losses from all causes and not from hog cholera alone, the notable reduction in losses points to the decided value of the methods employed in controlling the most dangerous of the hog diseases.

The number of outbreaks reported last year amounted to 614, as against 640 in 1919, and while these figures do not show a very marked reduction in the number of cases, Dr. Atherton attributes this to the fact that very much better results were obtained last year in having outbreaks reported. Of the 640 cases reported, 175 are classed as "back yard" outbreaks and occurred among hogs kept in cities or towns.

Of the total number of cases reported, 303 are classed as primary outbreaks and 311 as secondary outbreaks. The causes which have been proven largely responsible for primary outbreaks of the disease in free localities are feeding unsterilized garbage or table refuse and the introduction of new stock. Those which were found responsible for the spread of the infection to other herds in the locality were the failure to report the outbreak of the disease and to dispose properly of carcasses of hogs that died of the malady.

Where it was possible to gain information relative to the source of the infection in primary outbreaks, it was determined that approximately 80 per cent. were caused by feeding unsterilized garbage and approximately 12 per cent. by the introduction of new stock.

In connection with the feeding of garbage to hogs, Dr. Atherton says: "As in past years, the feeding of uncooked garbage appears to be largely responsible for starting new outbreaks of hog cholera. The numerous abandoned feeding plants over the State are mute testimony to the futility of trying to make this method of feeding hogs a paying proposition. In view of the fact that garbage feeding has proved a paying proposition in only a few instances, that the uncooked product is the most fertile source of hog cholera infection and thus incompatible with sanitation, it would appear that some other method of disposal would be to the best interest of the community."

Making Of Beer Lawful

Beer and wines are given the same status as whiskey under an opinion by former Attorney-General Palmer, made public last Wednesday by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The ruling, one of the most important since the advent of national prohibition, makes it possible for all alcoholic liquors to be used for medicinal and other non-beverage purposes, and for all to be manufactured and sold for these purposes, subject only to the limitations of the Volstead act on nonbeverage intoxicants.

The opinion was written by Palmer the day before he retired from office and was in reply to a series of questions from Internal Revenue and prohibition officials bearing on construction of half a dozen mooted points in the law.

PASSENGER AIR LINERS PROMISE TO LINK WORLD

Plan to Fly Giant Dirigibles From London to America, Australia and Africa.

SPEED 60 MILES AN HOUR

Craft, With 100 Passengers Aboard,
Expected to Fly From England to California in Four Days—Commercial Airship Is Already a Success.

London.—Plans are now under discussion here for linking up all parts of the world by passenger air routes, on which giant dirigibles, flying two miles above the surface at 60 miles an hour, will join London with North America, Australia, India and South Africa. If these plans are carried out air liners 800 feet long, equipped with berths, dining rooms, smoking rooms, libraries and observation platforms, will speed from England to San Francisco in four days, stopping to discharge passengers and mails at New York and Chicago. Each ship will carry 100 passengers, and the fare will be only 50 per cent more than present steamship rates. Ships capable of this service are now in commission, and a trial passenger flight will be made to Egypt by a British government airship to determine the feasibility of opening such passenger routes.

"The commercial airship already has proved its success," said Sir Trevor Dawson of Vickers, Limited, when asked whether he thought the plan practicable. Vickers, Limited, is now building airships for the British government, and Sir Trevor is an expert on the lighter-than-air craft.

"Day of Passenger Liner Here."

"The success of the R-34 showed the possibilities of a transatlantic service," he continued. "It is now only a question of building more and larger ships and equipping suitable landing fields, sheds and mooring stations on both sides of the Atlantic. The airships are speedy, safe and reliable. They can carry large cargoes, have a wide cruising range, and can ride out almost any weather."

"The day of the passenger air liner is here, and if the task of organizing air routes is undertaken by big financial interests it should be possible to begin a regular passenger service over Europe within six months with the ships and bases already in existence. The American service would require somewhat larger ships and landing stations in North America. But it could be in operation in less than three years. We need such a service, and I believe that it will come."

The R-34 is the type of craft suggested for the proposed service, but the contemplated ships, although built on the R-34 lines, would be much larger and have a far greater cruising radius. It is said that a rigid airship could be built that would be 1,100 feet long, carrying 130 tons of freight or passengers, and having a maximum range of 12,250 miles, cruising radius.

Maitland Supports Project.

Brig. Gen. E. M. Maitland, who commanded the R-34 in the transatlantic flight, is a believer in the plan for world air routes. "Even the existing airship of today can be regarded as a reasonably safe public conveyance," he says. "They already have proved themselves capable of flying through practically any type of weather, and the larger airships of the future, fitted with more powerful machinery, necessarily will be even safer. Fog does not prove a real menace to airships, as with the present methods of navigation it is not necessary to see the ground in flying between bases. It is true that at present the most violent forms of electric storms are an undoubted danger to all forms of aircraft, but at the most this danger appears to be less than the danger of rocky coasts and shallows to the seagoing ship."

"Airships of this type of the R-38, which is now being built at Bedford, or the German T-11, would be capable of flying from England to Egypt, a distance of 2,200 miles, without a stop in two and one-half days. These ships would carry about 80 passengers, with 100 pounds of baggage for each passenger, and about two tons of mail and merchandise. To put it another way, 15 tons would be available for passengers, mails or merchandise."

"Comfort in aerial travel is essential if it is to have any extended future. The advantage of speed is thrown away if the passenger is physically or nervously exhausted on landing. But ample accommodations can be provided for day and night travel."

Sleepers Are Provided.

A proposed car has been designed by Beardmore, at Dalmuir, in which special attention has been given to the importance of giving each passenger a good view. The windows are so arranged that passengers can see both outward and vertically downward should they wish to do so. The passenger is facing each other with a table between them, rather like a large Pullman car. If they wish, they can arrange the tables and chairs for bridge, and the tables are provided in the shape of bunks which fold down and allow the passengers to sleep stowaway.

The whole of the car will be heated by steam generated from the engines, and air will be admitted at the forward end of the car, where it will be warmed over radiators.

"One is struck by the absence of noise or vibration in a large airship, and the absence of smoke or dirt is a great asset. The complete absence of seasickness is also an important consideration."

Craft of the type described by Brigadier General Maitland already have been used in Germany on short passenger routes. The German Air Travel company, formed in 1910 and financed and managed by the Hamburg-Amerika Steamship line, ran regular passenger excursions and town to town services from 1910 to 1914. During this period these airships made 800 flights, carrying 18,000 passengers without a single mishap involving personal injury. One of the airships, the Wittoria Louise, made 200 trips in 250 consecutive days.

The company was able to make a profit, although the passenger rates were reasonable. Since the armistice, despite the unsettled conditions in Germany, airships have been built for a special mail and passenger service between Berlin, Munich and Switzerland. The first of these ships, the Bodensee, ran regularly from June to October last year, carrying 30 passengers a trip. It is said that the Zeppelin company is now negotiating with American interests for the organization of an air service from Spain to the United States and South America, and is designing giant ships with a speed of 80 miles an hour for this run. The ships will carry 100 passengers and their baggage, as well as six or seven tons of mail.

Valuable War Reserve Force.

The knowledge of handling the lighter-than-air craft greatly increased during the war. The ships were used under all weather and atmospheric conditions and did valuable service as escort and convoy craft and also in combat against submarines. Small dirigibles were used to locate and pursue the submarines and were able to detect a U-boat far below the surface. The new ships, in addition to their duties as passenger vessels, can easily be converted to purposes of war and will thus form a valuable air reserve force.

One of the developments recently made in airship landing stations is the mooring mast, which enables the airship to come to the ground and be moored even during bad weather. The mast is a tall structure, with a swivel mooring device at the top, from which the airship swings.

Plans are now being prepared for a mooring tower especially arranged for use with passenger-carrying airships. The revolving head of the mast will be provided with a powerful winch for hauling in and a shock absorbing buffer will enable the ship to be coupled up without difficulty even in winds up to 80 miles an hour. Within the mast there will be a passenger elevator by which the passengers will ascend to an upper platform, where they will cross a gangway and enter the ship.

Pipe lines to carry hydrogen, gasoline and water to the ship also will be run up the mast, and the vessel can thus refuel at her moorings.

Inventions Increase Safety.

Many war discoveries aid in increasing the safety of airship travel. The wireless direction finder makes it possible for the ship to find her location at all times and so navigate successfully in fog. The increasing range and sources of information of the meteorological service aids in giving weather forecasts that will warn aircraft of approaching storms, which can be avoided by a change of course.

Laboratory investigations are now being made of the nature of the particles of moisture that forms fogs, and it is hoped that some way will be found of dispersing fog, so that a local clear area may be maintained about the landing places. All landing places are marked with brilliant electric beacons and lighthouses are being erected to guide night flying ships along aerial routes.

Airships are even now a safe form of travel. When rain, high winds or electric storms approach they can seek the higher air levels and so avoid danger. The risks from fire have been reduced to a minimum, and the danger of engine trouble, ever present in the airplane, is nullified by the fact that repairs always can be made without descending. Rigid airships never have less than four engines, and it is improbable that all engines will break down at one time. Even if half the engines broke down the ship could travel at four-fifths of her normal speed.

Public Demands Speed.

The airship has the advantage over both the airplane and the steamship as a passenger craft. The airplane can only travel 300 miles without stopping at a base for fuel and is thus impracticable for long distance routes. It is, furthermore, of limited carrying capacity, and the disagreeable features of noise and vibration cannot be done away with. The great rigid, moving steadily day and night and having a cruising radius of 2,000 to 2,000 miles, makes a far better passenger ship. It has been suggested that airplane routes could be used as feeders to the airship lines, small airplanes carrying passengers to a central point, whence they could embark on the airships of transoceanic and transcontinental lines.

When the lines are established the steamships also will find them serious competitors. The airship is infinitely quicker and does not have the pitch and toss that makes steamer travel unpleasant. The demand for great liners that cut down the time spent in transatlantic travel shows that there is a large class of travelers who want and will pay for speed. These people will be the clientele of the transatlantic airship.

The shipment of valuables, bonds, stocks and bullion on the speedy air liners will save the money lost in interest, and urgent mails should be shipped in this way. Even at an advanced postage rate a letter of thousands of words could be speedily transmitted in this way at the cost of one word of a cable message.

Advantages Over Steamship.

The advantages of the airship over the steamship and also the relative cost of travel are shown in the following table compiled by Brigadier General Maitland:

	Airship	Steamship
England to India	10 days	45 days
Cost of passage	£100	£100
Cost of food	£10	£10
Cost of baggage	£10	£10
Cost of porter	£10	£10
Cost of laundry	£10	£10
Cost of medicine	£10	£10
Cost of other expenses	£10	£10
Total	£140	£140

Speed, safety, and a new and thrilling form of travel will be thus combined at a cost that, in view of the saving of time, is relatively little greater than the present steamship rate.

"The continental air routes will come first," says Sir Trevor Dawson, "but the most important part of air travel will be that between Europe and North America. They are the two great continents, the continents that have between them a steady flow of passenger travel. Air travel must come, cutting down the time distance between countries, and thus strengthening the ties of business, trade and international understanding. I am looking forward to the time when air liners will bring London within two days of America."—Otis Peabody Swift in New York Tribune.

Remember to look at the pink label on your paper and see if you owe us $1.50.

England is credited with being the foremost nation in aviation. In 15 months, the record shows, 82,000 passengers and 200,000 pounds of freight traveled 1,000,000 miles in 49,000 flights. The transoceanic passenger schedule, which was so confidently predicted as almost ready several years ago, is still remote, but it is a fact that a round-trip from London to Paris (574 miles) can be made in six hours instead of twenty-four, at a cost of about $90 for plane, against $40 by rail. The aero company which is operating a passenger service between Key West and Havana, charges $150 for one passenger one way from New York to Boston (280 miles).

Rabbit Leather.

Samples of rabbit leather recently sent to this country from Australia have been examined and tested by the United States bureau of standards, with a view to determining the utility of such skins for shoe uppers or other purposes.

The leather was found to have only about one-fourth the strength of calf-skin and to tear rather easily. It has a great advantage in point of cheapness and might perhaps serve for uppers of fancy shoes that are not expected to stand much wear. The experts are of the opinion that it could be used to advantage for linings and novelties.

Preparing Soil for Tobacco.

For the purpose of tobacco growing the soil must be thoroughly cleared of weeds, seeds and insect larva before the plants are set out. Old practice was to build fires over the surface, but the operation is now accomplished by means of a canvas cover under which live steam from a road roller is projected. A high temperature is maintained for two hours.

FIND-INDIAN CHIEF'S GRAVE

He Was Buried Long Ago in Kansas
With All His Worldly Possessions.

Liberal, Kan.—The last resting place of an Indian chieftain and his horse have been unearthed by O. E. Hinds, a farmer near Floris, in the sandhills along the Beaver.

He had been sent off to the "happy hunting grounds," with apparently all his worldly possessions. The skeleton was wrapped in a blanket of heavy texture, apparently once of brightest colors. Beneath the human skeleton was that of a horse, which had been interred with full accoutrements—saddle, bridle and numerous trinkets, with which Indians were accustomed to decorate their favorite mounts.

On the wrist of the man's skeleton was a large bracelet made of many coils of metal, about three inches wide and quite heavy. A ring of the same material encompassed one finger. Another bracelet, of more elaborate design, was found among the ornaments, made of metal, rawhide, and many beads, highly ornamented, and shell ornaments also were found. The only weapon was what apparently had once been a sword or spear.

SHOW TEXAS AS LAND GRABBER

Maps Give It 1,875 Miles That Don't Belong to It, Says
Geologist.

NO PROPER STATE MAP MADE

Texas System of Land Survey Inherited From Mexico and Spain—
Current Maps Made by Many Individuals.

Austin, Tex.—According to Dr. Robert T. Hill, former state geologist, who has just finished a study of the topographical features of Texas and is making a report on the subject for the United States geological survey, until recently all existing maps give an inaccurate idea as to the geography of the state, particularly with reference to the courses of the Rio Grande on the South and the Red River on the north. Mr. Hill says that all current maps of Texas locate the Rio Grande, which has always been accepted as the boundary between this country and Mexico, inaccurately. The maps include in Texas a strip of territory averaging 25 miles in width and 75 miles in length (about 1,875 square miles), which does not belong to it. Until the World war, when special surveys of the border were made by the War department, nothing was known of the Rio Grande district. These maps, since published by the department, revealed the mistake in current maps.

No Proper State Map.

There is no map published showing even approximately the physical features of the trans-Pecos section, the mountainous portion of the state. Many of the ranges and peaks are entirely omitted and others are located inaccurately. Doctor Hill has made a special study of these sections of the state and will make known many inaccuracies through the maps he is preparing for the government.

The Davis mountains, well known to Texas residents, are not included on any map. They form one of the principal range districts in the state. To the west of these mountains is a long, narrow strip of desert country, low-lying valley plains about 200 miles in length, running along the Rio Grande, northwest into New Mexico. These valleys are not defined on any map published.

The Diablo country consists of undulating plains, with peaks of various sizes and kinds, extending into the Sacramento mountains of New Mexico. The railroad follows a valley scoured out of the vast plain, extending northwest into New Mexico and southwest into Mexico. The traveler from El Paso to the New Mexico line is always either upon or in sight of this plain for about 250 miles. The surface is so smooth, except where it is broken rarely by peaks, that it seems as level as a floor. The plain is inclosed on all sides by a wall of higher mountain ranges. But none of these features has been placed on a map.

Based on Settlers' Notes.

The county and state maps of Texas are inferior to those of other states, Doctor Hill said, because of the different systems of land survey used in Texas. In other states the land has been accurately surveyed and divided into townships and sections. The surveying was done and field notes made under United States supervision, as maps of the country were always necessary to acquire land. The Texas systems were inherited from Mexico and Spain. Scripts or warrants were issued to individuals, who went out, took some natural object for a corner, measured off a block of acres called for in the shape and direction chosen, and sent the notes to the land office. Current maps were compiled from these notes, made by many individuals, and the topographic information supplied was nearly always meager.

Up to 1880, when the geological survey began in Texas, there was only one point in Texas with its exact location on the earth's surface known. This was a monument to David Crockett, near the old land office, on the capitol grounds at Austin. It was located by the United States geodetic survey. About 1880 some women were giving a bazaar for patriotic purposes in Austin. They desired some souvenirs to sell at the bazaar, and at their request the old monument was broken into pieces and taken to the bazaar. Thus perished the only point in Texas definitely located on the earth's surface.

DR. L. R. SCARBOROUGH,
Baptist 75-Million Campaign.

Dr. L. R. Scarborough, who was general director of the Baptist 75-Million Campaign, and who was later elected chairman of the Conservation Commission that is seeking to conserve all the interests of that campaign, has issued a report from the Nashville headquarters showing the various interests that have profited from the $18,851,100.68 collected on campaign pledges up to Dec. 1, 1920.

With its receipts of $2,958,808.07, the Foreign Mission Board has added to its territory five new provinces in China and made the beginning for opening up work in the new fields of Spain, Hungary, Roumania, Yugoslavia, and the Ukraine in Russia; strengthened its work in Syria and Palestine, made a beginning in Eastern Siberia, added 100 new workers to its force of American missionaries in foreign lands, provided new houses of worship, hospitals, schools, publishing plants and other institutions needed in the prosecution of missionary work. What is of even more importance, in the estimation of Secretary Love, is the completion of many institutions and undertakings that had been held up for lack of funds.

Home Missions Doubles Budget.
By reason of the larger receipts from the campaign, the Home Mission Board has been enabled to practically double its annual budget for the work of evangelism, church building, work among the foreigners, Indians and negroes, mountain mission schools, enlistment, and general mission work in Cuba and Panama. The appropriations to evangelism have been practically doubled, those to church building increased between 500 and 600 per cent, those to the mountain schools, forty in number, 100 per cent, and those to the work of enlisting undeveloped churches, 300 per cent.

In the realm of state missions, which embodies such work as providing missionaries and other special workers for needy fields within the states and aiding weak congregations in the building of houses of worship, the advance made possible by the campaign ranges from 25 to 100 per cent in the eighteen states of the convention territory.

Returns to the Conservation Commission. By forty-five of the Baptist institutions of learning which are sharing in the returns from the campaign, show that they have received $2,713,756 so far. Of this sum, $1,640,000 has been expended on improvements, $400,000 has gone to endowment, several hundred thousand dollars in old debts have been wiped out and other improvements are under way.

Ten New Hospitals Provided. Southern Baptists were operating fourteen hospitals when the campaign began, and as a result of the new interest in this work aroused by the campaign ten additional hospitals have been launched. These hospitals have received $1,111,439.45 from the campaign so far, while local communities in which the hospitals are located have subscribed approximately $1,000,000 additional. The hospitals have practically $1,000,000 in improvements under way. The seventeen Baptist orphanages have likewise come in for much larger support as a result of the campaign, their receipts from this source being $1,018,798.67. As a result of this income the orphanages have been enabled to make improvements valued at $225,000.

The work of adding aged preachers is a new one among Southern Baptists as a whole, but as a result of the campaign the Relief and Annuity Board has received $408,144.22 from that source and $200,000 from Mr. Bookout.

After Working for Hours on Bank

Mr. Clemens, Mich.—Mustard gas saved the Merchants and Savings bank at Utica a considerable sum of money. After having worked for some hours to reach the interior of the bank vault, three yeggs were forced away from their quarry by mustard gas hidden in the recesses of the vault.

An investigation of the interior of the bank found it filled with the fumes of mustard gas. The first door of the vault had been blown away. The mustard gas tubes had been installed ten days ago as a precaution against robbers.

Lieut. Charles Carmody, fingerprint expert of the Detroit police department, was summoned by Sheriff Spalter to make photographs of fingerprints on the vault door. Lieutenant Carmody is of the opinion that the men are expert cracksmen.

Officers of the sheriff's staff are combing neighborhood towns for traces of the bandits, but no arrests have been made.

AID BREEDING OF REINDEERS

United States Plans to Make Animal Important Factor in

TRY TO DOUBLE HIS WEIGHT

Alaska Has 200,000 Reindeer With Range for Several Millions—Multiply From Original Importation of 1,280 in 28 Years.

Washington.—Santa Claus' reindeer have promise of becoming a factor in the meat supply of this country as they are in Scandinavia, where reindeer meat last year sold at a higher price than beef or mutton. The government is going to aid in putting the infant industry of Alaska on its feet by experiments in increasing the reindeer's weight to about double the present average by scientifically breeding them, locating ranges and studying the animal's diseases, parasites and grazing problems. Provision is made in the agricultural appropriation bill of this year for that purpose.

Alaska Has 200,000 Reindeer.
Dr. E. W. Nelson, chief of the biological survey, in urging the appropriation, told congress there are about 200,000 reindeer in Alaska, of which about three-fourths belong to the natives and one-fourth to the government and to white owners who have started a commercial industry in growing reindeer for meat. These reindeer multiplied from an original importation of 1,280 animals made 28 years ago for the benefit of the Eskimos.

"People have asked me what the future of the industry is likely to be," said Dr. Nelson. "I have replied by asking them the question: If 1,280 reindeer in 28 years produced the present 200,000 animals, what is likely to be the increase from 200,000 animals in the next 28 years? The increase is almost unbelievable. In other words, the industry, properly handled, should have a great future."

"The Alaskan firm which has started the industry exported 1,000 head to Seattle last year. The firm has established four small cold storage plants at points on the Alaskan coast where the reindeer can readily be driven down for slaughter to be refrigerated and loaded for shipment."

"I believe Alaska contains available range to maintain from four to five million of reindeer. The estimate has been made that it would take care of 10,000,000, but I think that is too high."

"Five million reindeer would give an average output of about 1,250,000 reindeer a year. Dressed for market an animal now averages 150 pounds. Taking this weight and the present value of reindeer meat, the fully developed reindeer industry in Alaska should yield approximately $43,000,000 a year. Reindeer have been in Alaska 28 years and their increase under crude methods of handling has been almost startling. Under proper scientific supervision and modern methods the industry should develop very rapidly."

May Use Caribou for Breeding.
"There are big herds of wild caribou about the Mount McKinley region, some bulls of which dress up to about 400 pounds. We plan to capture some bulls of this stock and use them with an experimental herd of reindeer cows for the purpose of building up a higher grade of reindeer, having greater weight and increased hardness. I believe it will be practicable in less than ten years to have the reindeer of Alaska running from 250 to 300 pounds to the carcass, instead of 150 pounds as at present."

"The increased weight would increase the value of the fully developed Alaska reindeer industry enough to bring the potential output around $60,000,000 at present value. That is more than the fisheries of Alaska produce."

"Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, was here recently. He is interested in the lease granted by the Canadian government for a great area for reindeer grazing in Baffin's bay region. He informed me that in the Scandinavian countries of Europe about 200,000 reindeer are killed for meat each year."

"We are talking about helping to build up Alaska, and here is one thing that is right in sight today, a fine, big industry, and I do not know of any other like it in the immediate future. The future looks so promising that the expenditure which we contemplate is trifling compared with what the outcome is likely to be."

His Purse Returned.
New Albany, Ind.—Dr. John F. Weathers of this city has recovered a purse containing $21 in money and his Southern Railway pass as surgeon for the company, which he lost in a store Thanksgiving evening. When he went to his garage the next morning he found the purse, with the contents intact, on a post near the door, where it evidently had been left by some conscience-stricken person.

Finda Pearl in Oyster.
Omaha, Neb.—A pearl, said by Omaha gem experts to be worth a large sum, was found in an oyster by Sam Wickline, while opening oysters and clams at his oyster bar. Wickline has been opening oysters and clams there for the last three years and estimates his labors at more than 100,000 of the bivalves.

STATE POLICE BEGIN THEIR WORK

COLONEL BAUGHMAN TELLS
NOW THE ARM OF THE LAW
WILL BE STRENGTHENED.

MAKE FAVORABLE IMPRESSION

Wave of Crime Will Be Decreased
By These Gallant And Efficient Young Troopers.

By RAYMOND S. TOMPKINS.

The first thing the average man thought of when he saw the new Maryland State police force last week exhibiting first its military and physical skill and next its swiftness in uniform and drill was—"Well, here's a new, peaceful thing to be doing after the war; sending a force of trained, brass-battioned gunmen out on the Maryland roads to pry into everybody's business! What will the farmers and the labor unions think about this?"

The writer heard pretty quickly what the labor unions thought about it, and he heard a former member of the House of Delegates say, after looking the State policemen over: "Well, they're all right as long as they don't come around bothering our Carroll county farmers." So he suspected what the farmers thought.

The big question was, "What have the leaders of the State police force got to say about it?" And that brought about the interview with E. Austin Baughman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for the State of Maryland.

Colonel Baughman is the real leader of the Maryland State Police. Their "big boss" is, of course, Governor Ritchie, and their immediate commanding officer is Captain Roger Williams. But whenever the Maryland State police force swoops down upon lawlessness, drags sneaking criminals into the light, shields women and children, or deals the black cap to the plain citizen who is trying to be decent, you may know that the motive power behind it all is furnished by Austin Baughman. The writer happens to know that the Maryland State police force is Colonel Baughman's idea, and that its personnel is hand-picked by himself; and anybody else can learn in 10 minutes' talk with him, that its spirit and its principles are the ones he breathed into it.

By the same token, if it makes mistakes, Colonel Baughman will take the blame. Charitable people may say, "Well, there have got to be some bad ones in every barrel, so it isn't his fault." But if a single man on the Maryland State police force goes wrong, Colonel Baughman will be as hurt and as remorseful as though he had gone wrong himself. The whole thing is that close to him.

To Colonel Baughman, therefore, the writer went to learn the meaning of this epochal addition to the governmental machinery of the State of Maryland.

"Just what is the big idea behind the formation of this force of swift riders, hard fighters and straight shooters?" the writer asked Colonel Baughman. He replied slowly and with much emphasis:

"The idea is to extend and strengthen the arm of the law in Maryland. Nothing more and nothing less than that. It is as much of a move in the direction of improvement as building up a broken-down jail wall would be, or extending electric or telephone wires out to new territories. When you want to improve and use a room in your house that you have been neglecting one of the first things you do is to string wires to it and get some light in there. The new State police force is going to do somewhat the same thing for the State of Maryland. If there is a single dark place for a crook to hide in after these men get on the job in Maryland I'll be mighty disappointed."

"How does the State of Maryland resemble a room that has been neglected, Colonel Baughman?" the writer asked. "In this way," he replied, "that a great part of it has been neglected in measures to protect the people against professional bandits and desperate criminals. I do not mean to suggest that the county and town authorities throughout the State haven't been on the job. They have done as much as any men could do. But what chance is there in the world for them against bands of professional bank robbers who dash in, shoot, rob and dash away again in high-powered automobiles almost before anybody can count them?"

"I want you to understand that I don't take any particular credit to my self for the creation of this force," Colonel Baughman added. "It so happened that, as Automobile Commissioner, I was in a better position than almost anybody else to see the trend at the time in my own line of work. And the trend of the times, as I saw it, was toward the use of automobiles in speeding up crime."

"Professional criminals had lopped minutes off of safe-blowing jobs, hold-ups and killings, just as runners lopped seconds off of sprinting and long-distance records. But at the business of catching them we hadn't speeded up at all."

"On the other hand, the State was making and shooting them in a way, it was punishing them bread, smooth roads to ride on—highways that while improving the good citizen's health and business, also sped the bandit on his way to freedom. It occurred to me that having, in the necessary course of State development smoothed the criminal's 'getaway,' the State owed it to the people to quicken, lengthen and straighten the arm of the law."

"Why, do you suppose automobile bandits will be able to roam up and down, robbing whom they please in Howard county or Carroll county, or any other county, when this bunch gets out on the road on those motor-cycles?" exclaimed Colonel Baughman. He sat up straight and whacked the desk. "I want to see 'em try it, that's all. Why, in Howard county last summer it wasn't safe for women and children to venture out on the roads at night. For that matter, it wasn't safe for men, either, unless they were armed. But it's going to be safe from now on."

"The labor unions fear the State police force is going to be used to break up strikes," suggested the writer. "They understand the Maryland force has been modeled after the Pennsylvania mounted force, which has a bad reputation with them."

"The labor unions have no more to fear from the Maryland State police force than the Young Men's Christian Association has," replied Colonel Baughman. "Governor Ritchie has answered that question so many times and so clearly that it ought not to be necessary for me to say anything more about it. But I'll say this to you, that more of the friends of these men belong to labor unions than to boards of bank directors. And I'll add this, that they would track down and capture a law-breaking friend just as quickly as they would a law-breaking bank director. They know that 'capital' and 'labor' are good English words because they've heard the Governor use them in so many speeches. But that's all they care about it. And they know that's all I care about it."

"They know, furthermore, that the thing I care most of all about is that they be gentlemen. I'd rather have one of them let a bad man escape than be rightfully accused of unfairness or discourtesy toward anybody, whether criminal or law-abiding. I want to see this force become one of the crack forces of State mounted police in the country, but first of all I want it to get a nationwide reputation as a force of fearless Maryland gentlemen."

Start Across U. S. In Ox-Drawn House

Greenwich, Conn.—With his home and virtually all of his belongings destroyed by fire, J. O. Berrang, a farmer of Worcester, Conn., built a house on wheels and started for California, where he has relatives. The novel wagon is drawn by a pair of oxen which Mr. Berrang raised.

It contains almost every convenience to be found in a house, having drop beds, an oil range, a refrigerator and cooking devices inside. A trailer in the rear, which carries supplies for the oxen, is drawn by a third ox, which is led by the farmer's wife. The couple average about ten miles a day, and expect to reach California in a year and a half. They are about sixty years old.

"FOOL TO GIVE WIFE ALL PAY"

Judge Calls Generous Husband Brainless and Reduces Amount of Alimony.

Detroit, Mich.—"A man is a fool who turns over all his earnings to his wife." This statement was made from the bench by Judge Harry Dingeman, when Joseph Lenkiewicz was pleading to be relieved of the payment of alimony.

"What did you do with all the money you made when working?" Judge Dingeman asked.

"I always gave every cent to my wife when I lived with her, and have nothing left," Joseph replied.

"I can't protect a man who has no brains," Judge Dingeman said, after which he reduced the payments from $10 to $6 per week until Joseph gets a job.

WOMEN TURN TO BURGLARY

Fair Robbers Increasing in France; Widow Leads Gang of House-breakers.

Paris, France.—Woman robbers are becoming nearly as numerous as their male counterparts in France and a number of them have already been arrested.

The police have just seized a gang of burglars who have long been wanted by the authorities for housebreaking in the suburbs and discovered that the band was led by a widow, aged 54, and her three sons. Another of the burglars was aided by his sister, and two other women were connected with the gang.

Burned Wife to Get $25,000, Is Charge. Aberdeen, Miss.—William A. Thwaitt, a planter of this place, has been arrested on a charge of murder in connection with the death of his wife, who was burned to death in a fire that destroyed their home. A coroner's jury found that Mrs. Thwaitt was insured for $25,000, payable to her husband.

GOOD BLOOD NEEDED IN SPRINGTIME

People With Poor Appetite, Bad Complexions and "Spring Fever"

GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN IS BEST

Makes Rich Red Blood—Renews Vitality and Increases Body's Resistance To Disease

Spring is the time when good blood is so vital to health. If you do not feel the thrill of Spring in your blood, if you take no pleasure in living, if your appetite is poor, your complexion pallid or muddy, and you tire easily, you can be pretty sure your blood is not up to the mark. So many feel that way in the Spring. Especially housewives who have so much work to do. They get over-tired and run-down—their blood becomes weak and thin.

Build up your health now by taking that splendid Spring blood tonic, Gude's Pepto-Mangan. It will give vital power to the red corpuscles in your blood. They will go racing through your blood, carrying fresh supplies of oxygen to all the tiny cells. It will help improve your color and your appetite. You'll take more interest in things and enjoy life more. You will stop going around with that tired, all-gone feeling.

Physicians have prescribed Gude's Pepto-Mangan for thirty years. You can get it at your druggist's in either tablet or liquid form. Take whichever you prefer. They have the same medicinal value. Get the genuine.—Advertisement.

Color Blindness.

No fewer than 55 persons in every thousand are more or less color-blind. The commonest form is not, as many suppose, inability to distinguish red and green—that affects one person in 55. The most usual symptom is uncertainty between blue and green. This is experienced by one out of every 40 persons, but only one in 60 is unable to distinguish between brown and green. Color blindness is more common among educated than uneducated people, and an odd fact is that musicians are more liable to this affliction than are any other class or profession.

From the Saxon.

Wife and woman spring from the same source, both being derived from the Saxon "wifan." Danish "voeve" to weave, one who works at the distaff. Dryden referred to Queen Anne as "a distaff on the throne." From the same idea springs our word spinster applied to an unmarried woman. While a woman was still spinning her wedding clothes she was simply a spinster; when she had finished and was married she became a wife who had already woven her allotted task.

To Bore a Conical Hole Through Wood.

When you have a conical hole to bore, such as for a handle hole in a wooden maul or other similar place, leave the cutter of an expensive auger bit a trifle loose and begin boring at the side where the smaller end of the hole is wanted. The inner edge of the cutter lip being angular, the cutter will gradually draw itself out from the body of the bit, making the hole larger as the bit goes into the wood.—Popular Science Monthly.

Prodigies of the Past.
Long before the war it was stated that a man was too old at forty. But now it looks likely that soon the cry will be "too old at fifteen!"

A small boy of eight summers recently tackled twenty or thirty of the best chess players in the world, setting them all problems they could not tackle; another child appears on the scene, who, at the age of seven or eight, pens a diary, which the greatest literary lights describe as wonderful; while we'll soon have quite a small library of juvenile novels.

It was regarded as a phenomenon when Chatterton wrote immortal poems at twelve, when Mozart composed in his fifth year a concerto so difficult that only the most practical artists could play it, when the infant son of Evelyn, the diarist, could read Latin and Greek at three and one-half, when Macaulay had written a poem as long as "The Lady of the Lake" at eight and when Millais carried off a gold medal for painting at nine! But now it's becoming quite the usual thing.

Containers Expensive.

It is computed that from a tenth to a quarter of the cost of foodstuffs in the United States goes to pay for crates and other containers that are thrown away instead of being used a second time.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Executive Ears.

During the World War the following was one of the qualifications required of men: "Candidates for the listeners' school must be able to hear a snake sliding into a bottle of castor oil."—Idaho Yarn.

SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Thedford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee
Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficiency of Thedford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Thedford's. Z.M.

BLOOD PROOF OF PARENTAGE

Test Ordered by San Francisco Judge for First Time in History of American Courts.

San Francisco.—For the first time in American courts parentage has been determined by a blood test.

On the strength of a formal report made by Dr. Albert Abrams, who, by blood tests, found that Virginia Vittori was the daughter of Paul Vittori, Judge Thomas F. Graham ordered Vittori to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court for failure to pay alimony for the support of the child. Mrs. Vittori is suing for a divorce. Vittori declared that the child was not his, and the court ordered a blood test by Doctor Abrams.

Doctor Abrams in his report said: "The examination proved conclusively that the blood of the daughter corresponded racially to that of the father and mother, viz., Italian on the father's side and Spanish and French on the mother's side, in proportion approximately to three of the former to one of the latter, French. Furthermore, the vibratory rate of the child corresponded to that of the father."

The vibratory test is one of the most delicate known to medical science.

DEMAND SUFFRAGE IN JAVA

Upper Class Native Women Reported to Be Making Rapid Strides Toward Emancipation.

Amsterdam.—Woman's suffrage movements have reached the Dutch East Indies, the colonies whose history and ancient savagery were chiefly known to credulous Americans through the agency of circus side-shows, wherein the "Wild Man of Borneo" and "The Terrible Dyaks, Feroocious Head Hunting Cannibals," drew many times while the crowds waited for the "big tent" to open.

Head hunting and kindred savage pastimes still continue, to some extent, within the jungles of these Dutch islands, but, according to the Dutch press, most of the natives are rapidly adopting modern theories.

In Java, the upper class native women, under leadership of Raden Adjeng Kartini, a woman of high birth, are reported to be making rapid strides toward emancipation, although the Mohammedan custom of polygamy still prevails. In all the "Kartini schools" the girls of the upper classes are being taught Occidental theories of equality with the men. Dutch correspondents say the progress of the movement is necessarily slow, but appears to be certain of ultimate success.

One Little Pig Is Cause of Furore

Cincinnati.—"This little pig went to market, and this little pig stayed at home," and this is a story about a little pig that didn't want to do either, and in its efforts to get out of staying home and going to market caused a Cincinnati fire department to go clanking away on a fruitless trip.

The pig was in a pen in the Meyer packing house. It got out, and soon had a throng of employees chasing it madly around. The pig rebounded here and there in the factory, finally coming full tilt against an automatic fire alarm. An engine company, hook and ladder and the district fire marshal responded. Also a great number of citizens, who for the time being were disengaged.

The pig eventually was corralled, with the aid of the citizens.

KITTEN BETRAYS "BURGLAR"

Californians Find Little Intruder Under Bed When Pet Utters "Me-ow."

San Francisco.—The littlest burglar was caught in the act at San Mateo. The act that the burglar was caught in was sleeping, and it was a kitten—the burglar's own—that led to the discovery.

The burglar was Adeline Sanchez, seven years old.

Mrs. W. E. Tolley of San Mateo awoke at an early hour in a burglar fright. She called her husband. They switched on the lights, armed, searched, and gave it up. Returning to their bedroom, they heard a me-ow. It came from under the bed. They looked and found Adeline sound asleep on the floor, with her kitten in her arms.

They turned her over to Probation Officer Francis T. Rapp, who found that Adeline lives with her grandmother at San Mateo and has run away nearly every night for a month.

Wants to Pay Old Bills.

Nortonville, Kan.—After being absent from Nortonville for 20 years, John J. Sheeran writes from California that he wishes to atone for his wrongs by paying all his unpaid bills in Nortonville. Sheeran says in his letter that he realizes now that "nothing spotted or unclear can gain heaven," and that he had made scandal and desires forgiveness of those he has wronged. He indicates that if he does not get the bills in a certain length of time he will give the amount or more to charity.

MAKING THEM AMERICANS

How few of us realize the importance of making over the foreigner—of implanting American ideals, ideas and common sense in place of socialistic and maybe anarchistic theories. It means a lot to every American citizen. This work and many other interesting activities of the Department of Labor are discussed in the twelfth issue of the series of beautifully illustrated booklets on Our Government which we have been distributing to representative citizens of this community.

GEN. LEONARD WOOD MAKES APPEAL FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF

Says Two and a Half Million
Starving Armenians Need Help at Once.

Pt. Sheridan, Ill.—Major General Leonard Wood, commanding the Sixth Corps Area, has issued a Lenten sacrifice appeal for funds to save the Armenians from annihilation by starvation and disease. "I feel that however many and however worthy the other appeals which are being made to the great heart of America these days may be," he says, "this cry from the little children cannot remain unanswered."

The Near East Relief, 1 Madison avenue, New York City, which has been charged by Congress with the American relief work in the whole Near East, has formed a special "Lenten Sacrifice Appeal Committee," of which Major General Wood is chairman. Charles V. Vickery secretary and Cleveland H. Dodge treasurer, to put before the American people the desperate need of the Christian populations of the Near East, who have suffered and are still suffering the horrors of war.

MAJ. GEN. LEONARD WOOD

Among the prominent members of General Wood's Committee are Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, sister of the late President Roosevelt; ex-President W. H. Taft, Mary Garden, President John G. Hibben of Princeton University, Bishop-elect William T. Manning of New York, Dr. Henry van Dyke, David Belasco, Samuel Gompers, Frank A. Munsey, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, John G. Milburn of the American Bar Association, Miss Elizabeth Marbury and Mrs. McGill McCormick of Chicago.

General Wood's Appeal

As Chairman of a Special Committee of representative men and women of the country, charged with placing before the American people the desperate need of two and a half million Armenians, the remnant of the oldest Christian nation, whose sufferings through sixteen centuries seem to have brought them no nearer peace, liberty or security, I beg your personal co-operation and influence to forward an appeal for a Lenten Sacrifice Offering to enable the Near East Relief to go on with its work of mercy.

Over one hundred thousand little children who have been kept alive by American generosity for the past three years are absolutely dependent upon the support which America gives them through the Near East Relief.

I feel that however many and however worthy the other appeals which are being made to the great heart of America these days may be, this cry from the little children of the land where Christ gave his life for mankind cannot remain unanswered.

Will you help to save this martyred people?

Leonard Wood
Major General,
U.S. Army.

PRESIDENT ENDORSES THE NEAR EAST RELIEF APPEAL

Washington.—President Harding has given his hearty endorsement to the appeal being made by Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood on behalf of the Near East Relief, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City, for a nation-wide Lenten Sacrifice Offering to save the starving Christians of the Near East.

The President's letter reads: "There ought to be no cessation or relaxation of our sympathetic American efforts to be of service to these stricken people. One can well believe that they will not survive if we withdraw the relief which has heretofore been so generous from the private American purse. It has seemed to me that all we have done has borne dividends tenfold in the consciousness that we have done an humane thing for a people well deserving our generous sympathy."

"I wish you the very greatest success in furthering the great relief movement to which you are now giving your attention."

HE WOULD NEVER PAY TWICE

Wash White Gave His Note in Payment for Mule—Thought That Was Sufficient.

Kansas City, Kan.—A United States district attorney, who has rounded up many of the country's oil stock swindlers, said in a speech here the other day:

"It's pitiful to see how foolish a great many people are when it comes to a question of finance."

"Old Wash White is a good example of financial foolishness. When Wash's boss got back to the delta from the North one day, he found the old man driving a fine young mule hitched to a handsome wagon. Now Wash was a notoriously shiftless customer, and so his boss said to him: 'Where did you get that splendid turnout, Washington?'"

"Ah done boughten it at Magnolia, sah," said Wash.

"How much did it cost you?"

"Ah done give ma note for $200 for it, sah."

"Good gracious," said the boss, "where do you expect to get $200 to meet your note when it falls due?"

"Wash looked astonished and offended."

"'Fo' de Lawd's sake, boss man,' he said, 'you sho'ly don't expect me ter give mah note an' pay, too?'"

HOG HAS NERVOUS COLLAPSE

Bird-Hunting Porker Had Been Left Near Fowl for Three Days.

Natchez, Miss.—The famous bird-hunting hog owned by Tucker Gibson, widely known Louisiana huntsman, has suffered "nervous prostration" and is in a serious condition, according to its owner, who recently brought the hog here from Louisiana to train for the Springfield trials.

According to Mr. Gibson, after the field trials in which he felt assured his porcine phenomena would make good in competition with the dogs entered, he had intended exhibiting the hog in vaudeville, and with this end in view had secured a number of birds to be employed in the act. Mr. Gibson left home for several days, leaving the birds in a cage. On his return he found the porker had located the birds and had been "pointing" them continuously for three days and nights. The intense mental strain, together with the fact that the hog had not eaten during that time, he said, brought on a "general collapse."

"ARMENIAN NATION LOOKS TO U. S. FOR SUCCOR FROM DEATH"

Edwin M. Bulkley, Financier and Philanthropist, Defines Near East Relief Work.

New York.—"There is no spot on the globe today where there is more desperate and hopeless suffering than in Armenia," Edwin M. Bulkley, the well known New York banker, who has just been elected chairman of the board of trustees of Near East Relief, declared today. Mr. Bulkley succeeds the late Alexander J. Hemphill as head of the American relief work in Armenia, Turkey, Palestine, Syria, Mesopotamia and Persia. He has long been connected with the banking house of Spencer Trask & Co., and is thoroughly conversant with the Near Eastern situation.

"Elsewhere," Mr. Bulkley continued, "there is famine that tears at our heart-strings and evokes our pity and our help. But in Armenia it is not starvation alone that the people face—but starvation coming after six years' destruction, wrought by a war that has never ended and that today is not even ended. It is starvation following pestilence, and stalking hand in hand with death from exposure, from violence or from disease.

"In the mountains between Kara and Alexandropol there are 268,000 human beings without clothing, food or shelter in the bitter winter, who are wandering from place to place like people in a nightmare. Unless they are succored before the end of another month, they will all be dead. In southern Persia, the remnant of the ancient family of Chaldean Christians have been forced to renounce forever all hope of ever returning to the homeland where they have dwelt and flourished for 1,900 years, and to become pitiful fugitives, dependent upon the generosity of strangers for life itself. In Cilicia, 15,000 Armenian refugees have crowded into the coast regions seeking safety from the anarchy which reigns in the interior, in terror for their lives. They live from day to day on the food which is given them in the soup kitchens established by the Near East Relief. Scattered throughout the Near East, there are some 7,790,490 Armenians, the remainder of a nation of 4,000,000, who have neither government, country, homeland, shelter or hope of regeneration, save that which lies in the great heart of America.

"It is a tragedy so stupendous that it is difficult for us to grasp its meaning. A whole nation, a living, Christian people, face to face with extermination today, unless we help. We shall see an entire nation disappear from the face of the earth before our eyes if we withhold our hand now, when the call comes to us to save by giving, or by inaction to condemn to death."

Save the Children!

"Perhaps we cannot save all the grown people of this oldest Christian nation in the world. But at least we can save the little children who hold the future in their hands. They have wronged no one. They have harmed no one. And they have suffered through the precious years of childhood a calvary of agony and wretchedness. For three years the Near East Relief, an American organization, incorporated by Congress, has built up the nucleus of a new generation in the Near East, with the little children that it has taken in from the roadside and barren places, and nursed back to health, fed, clothed, housed and educated, in the name of the American people who have furnished the funds for this great work."

"This has been our signal contribution to the world's future peace—that tens of thousands of these little ones shall all their lives look to us with gratitude and faith. It is a seed of world brotherhood that we have sown. Shall we let it die now?"

"The Near East Relief is appealing to the American people for the money, to go on with this work—to keep these little ones alive and to save this martyred Christian people. Sixty dollars per year—$10 per month—feeds a child. We have taken this great responsibility upon us. A whole nation looks to us in faith and trust."

"We cannot betray them now." Contributions may be sent to Cleveland H. Dodge, Treasurer, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City.

Mrs. Carroll Hastings, Antioch avenue, gave the following statement October 14, 1907: "For nearly seven years I was afflicted with kidney disorder. I was very miserable and weak and could just about drag around. My back hurt terribly. At times I was taken with sick headaches and dreadful pains through my pelvis. My kidneys didn't act right and I was annoyed with gravel. My kidneys were getting weaker every day when I read about Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured a box and they cured me of backache and it has never returned. I have been relieved of all the old afflictions. It's a pleasure to speak well of Doan's."

On January 6, 1921, Mrs. Hastings added: "I am glad to repeat all I said in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. I have never found anything to equal them for attacks of backache and kidney complaint."

Why Colds Are Dangerous

It is the serious diseases that colds lead to that make them dangerous. They prepare the system for the reception and development of the germs of influenza, pneumonia, tuberculosis, diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough and measles. You are much more likely to contract these diseases when you have a cold. For that reason you should get rid of every cold as quickly as possible. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will help you. It is widely known as a cure for bad colds.

Under the new schedule two passenger trains are withdrawn. They are trains Nos. 453 south and 460 north.

No. 453, one of the trains withdrawn, left Philadelphia at 7.25 a. m., arriving at Cape Charles, Va., at 5.20 p. m. No. 460, also withdrawn, left Cape Charles, Va., at 8 a. m., arriving at Philadelphia at 5.09 p. m.

The schedule also makes a change in train No. 458, known as the Crisfield train. This train, under the new schedule, leaves Crisfield at 5.15 a. m., which is three-quarters of an hour earlier in the morning. In removing the 8 a. m. train and substituting the 5.15, the railroad officials have inaugurated a unique mode of travel in that persons leaving Crisfield for points north of King's Creek are transported to Pocomoke and back again to King's Creek, then on to their destinations north.

Boy Scout Notes

The following officers were nominated and elected for the base ball season this year by the Scout Athletic Club at a recent meeting: Manager, Harry Wieritt; captain, Austin Culver; treasurer, Gerald Walker; score keeper, Edward Fitzgerald; mascot (most high), John Holland. Games for this season will be scheduled with Berlin, Snow Hill, Pocomoke City and Cambridge. A proposed Tri-County League of Scout athletes is being considered.

Owing to the dancing lessons lately given by Miss Irene Taylor the troop has not been able to meet on Friday nights. Hereafter, as unanimously agreed, Friday night will be observed as regular meeting night.

Soil Testing Campaign

An opportunity is offered by the Soil Department of the University of Maryland Experiment Station to the farmers of the State to have their soil tested for lime requirement the week of April 4th to 9th. Last year a single day was allotted to the taking of soil samples. The campaign this year will cover an entire week, and it is desired that every farmer in the State will take advantage of this opportunity to have his soil tested. Over one hundred soil samples were tested last year for the farmers of Somerset county.

Shoreland Club Entertained

Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. George W. Maslin entertained the Shoreland Club at her home on South Main street. Those present were: Mrs. W. A. N. Bowland, Mrs. Frank M. Clipse, Mrs. H. C. Robertson, Mrs. J. T. Taylor, Jr., Mrs. H. Fillmore Lankford, Mrs. Earle B. Polk, Mrs. J. Arthur Powell, Mrs. Joseph G. Scott, Mrs. T. J. Smith and Mrs. Charles Fitzgerald. The Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Earle B. Polk on Thursday afternoon, March 31st.

Lime Demonstrations

A number of lime demonstrations are being arranged by County Agent C. Z. Keller. These demonstrations are being conducted to show the value of lime on the various soil types in the county. These tests will be conducted over a period of several years. Lime will be furnished free to a small number of farmers who are interested in conducting these demonstrations.

We acknowledge a handsome calendar recently put out by the Maryland Fair and Agricultural Society of Baltimore county. Among the attractions shown that should make an impression are the dates of the "New Timonium Fair," September 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th, 1921.

BOYS' FARM CLUBS GOOD RECORD

Crops And Live Stock Raised By Youths Valued At $126,000

Some idea of the value of the farmer boys' clubs in Maryland may be gathered from the fact that more than 1750 boys were enrolled in this work last year, producing crops and raising and caring for live stock with a total value of nearly $126,000. Data bearing on this work has just been made public by Dr. E. J. Jenkins, State Boys' Club agent. The work is being carried on under the direction of the University of Maryland Extension Service.

According to Dr. Jenkins, the farmer boys of Maryland, following the improved methods recommended by the various county agents or specialists of the extension service, succeeded in producing an average of 76.65 bushels of corn to the acre and at an average cost of 41 cents per bushel. They raised on an average of 193.76 bushels of potatoes per acre at an average cost of 56 cents per bushel. Their average cost of fattening pigs amounted to 12.3 cents per pound and their average cost of growing pigs was reported as 16.9 cents per pound. The cost of growing dairy calves was 26 cents per pound, and poultry was raised at an average cost of 14 cents per pound.

Chief interest during the year centered about the results which the boys obtained with their pure-bred pigs and the skill which they showed in several dairy cattle judging contests. In Harford county, where the pure-bred pig club was a feature, 130 porkers were in charge of the farm boys. Many of these were introduced into the county from well-bred herds in other States and they added very materially to the quality and number of livestock in that county. Much of the pure-bred livestock work of the boy club members was conducted in co-operation with local State banks which advanced money for the purchase of the pure-bred animals. In every case the money was secured by the boy's promissory note and it is said that every one of these notes has been met. The work was further aided by the Maryland State Bankers' Association, which appointed a special committee and raised $2000 in Baltimore banks, most of which was spent in paying the expenses of the boys and girls for a week's instruction and recreation last summer at the University of Maryland.

Millinery Display At Goodman's

Never was there a wider range from which the ladies could choose their spring millinery than now. By examining the display at Goodman's millinery department every individual taste may be satisfied in shape, size, color and material. The spring shades are pheasant, Harding blue, tangerine, rust, flame, orange, tomato, jade green, black and grey, each in its turn embellished by a bit of dull trimming, or enlivened by gay ribbons, flowers or fruits. There is much that glitters in this season's productions, shining straws, flowers, ribbons—most of which have the shiny crepe finish. The shapes range from the large picture hats each with a touch of individuality all its own, through to the smaller tricornes, those turned back from the face and the poke and mushroom effects, while the sailor, the starchy, is displayed in black and all the spring colors, both tailor trimmed and flower and fruit bedecked. Their variety will give even the most fastidious a chance to be pleased.

Boy Drowns in Mill Pond

In attempting to recover his hat which had blown into the mill pond located just behind the First Regiment Armory at Salisbury, Herman Livingston, 11 years old, son of Mrs. Annie Livingston, 609 South Division street, lost his balance and fell into the water, and before assistance could be rendered he was drowned.

The accident occurred last Wednesday afternoon during the lunch hour of the Camden school, and the boy was playing with several schoolmates at the time. Workmen on the opposite side of the river heard the boy's cries and made efforts to rescue him. The pond in which the accident occurred is about 75 feet wide at the spot of the drowning and 20 feet in depth. The body remained in the water about 36 minutes; when recovered life was extinct.

Extra Session Of Congress

April 11th has been selected as the date for the special session of the Sixty-seventh Congress, the first to be held under President Harding's administration. The announcement was received with general satisfaction by Senate leaders, most of whom said they preferred that date to April 4th, because of the additional week it gave them to arrange plans for the coming session.

BONDED LIQUOR IN MARYLAND

Tax Commission Surprised By Depletion In The Warehouses

Fewer than 55,000 barrels of whisky remain in the bonded warehouses of Maryland, according to figures disclosed in a survey of distilled spirits completed last Wednesday by the State Tax Commission.

This great depletion of the bonded stocks surprised even the members of the Tax Commission. Reports that, despite withdrawals since prohibition, the stocks in the bonded warehouses were still high were generally believed and the commission counted on collecting a tax almost as large as last year from the liquor.

Back in 1915, when the Tax Commission was first organized, it collected taxes on 410,628 barrels of the "good old stuff" in the bonded warehouses. The decline has been steady since then, making the big drop to 55,000 on the first of January this year from 264,900 barrels in 1918 when prohibition began to appear on the national horizon.

Incidentally the Tax Commission's old assessment of $20 a barrel still holds, despite the fact that many bootleggers are getting as much a quart, and there are 200 quarts in the average barrel. But it is on the $20 basis that the liquor is still being taxed.

The survey disclosed some interesting facts besides the near depletion of the bonded stocks. Among the most interesting was the fact that, during 1920, more than 38,000 barrels were withdrawn "for medicinal and sacramental purposes only."

Figured down to the average size drink in the "good old days," when the bartenders of average liberality got about 20 drinks from a quart bottle, these 38,000 barrels contained 152,000,000 drinks. This means that, if the liquor withdrawn for "medicinal and sacramental purposes only" remained in Maryland, there was enough distributed during the year to give each man, woman and child in the State 105 average size drinks for such purposes.

The decline in stocks from last year means that the State will lose approximately $2,800, the whisky being taxed at 35 cents on each $100 of value—that is, of "value" as represented by the $20-a-barrel assessment.

But there is still some cheer for the thirsty in these figures. It comes with figuring the present stocks in drinks instead of barrels. Such figuring presents the 55,000 barrels in the much more impressive manner of 220,000,000 drinks.

Major Carl Ward Honored

Major Carl Ward is the first Crisfield veteran to be honored by a foreign government. He received notice last week that he will be presented with the medal of the Order of Leopold by the Belgian Government, and the Croix de Guerre by the French Government. The citation in part reads:

For extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty during the Meuse-Argonne offensive in September of 1918, His Majesty, the King of the Belgians, awards unto Major Carl Ward (then captain), the Cross of the Order of Leopold. Further, the Republic of France awards him the Croix de Guerre for his noble service to the world and humanity.

Major Ward also received a citation in general orders from his own division. The presentations will take place in Washington on May 30th.

The ever popular Hi Henry Minstrels will appear at the Auditorium, Princess Anne, Wednesday, March 23rd. This old-time minstrel company is now on its forty-fifth annual tour and has always had a reputation second to none. The band and orchestra are still up to the Hi Henry standard. This is the only real minstrel coming this season. Don't miss it.

EDUCATORS TO MEET NEXT FRIDAY

Department of Education To Appear For $150,000 Increase

A new program for education throughout the State has been completed by the State Board of Education and will be discussed in detail at a conference of representatives of teachers' organizations, county superintendents' associations and county supervisors' associations to be held at the Normal School, near Towson, next Friday, March 25th. Governor Ritchie has been invited to make an address.

Steadily increasing demands for high school education together with phenomenal growth of this branch of public education is so rapidly distancing the provisions of State financial aid that the Department of Education will be compelled to ask larger appropriations in the next budget. This increase will total not less than $150,000 for 1922-23 and 1924-25.

In a statement issued last week Superintendent Cook said that in the last seven years the high-school enrollment has increased 100 per cent., the enrollment for 1918 and 1919 each showing an increase of more than 1200 over the enrollment of the year preceding. Because of the increasing pressure brought to bear by the people upon their county educational authorities for high schools, the number of high schools has increased 75 per cent., with a corresponding increase of 125 per cent. in the number of teachers.

"The high school situation has been carefully studied, and estimates, carefully itemized by schools, show that $150,000 is the minimum upon which the work can be carried for a normal increase above the 10,785 pupils now in the high schools," says Superintendent Cook.

At the conference it is planned to have a full discussion of the financial program relative to teachers' salaries.

The program also calls for an equalization fund by which the more wealthy counties will assist the weaker counties. A great deal of emphasis is laid on this in the program, and the principle is laid down that any county which cannot, with a school tax rate of 65 cents, carry the proposed schedule of salaries and allow a reasonable amount for other current expenses shall have an allotment from the equalization fund to enable it carry the new program with a 65-cent school tax. It also is provided that if a poor county is willing to tax itself in excess of 65 cents for current school expenses it may use this additional money to pay higher salaries than are required by the minimum schedule and can compete on more nearly equal terms with the wealthier counties.

Wilson Memorial Movement Launched

A movement was launched in New York last Tuesday to establish a perpetual memorial in honor of Woodrow Wilson—"The man who projected into the world the idea of the League of Nations."

After listening to a eulogy of the former President by John Drinkwater, English playwright, some 500 men and women voted unanimously to appoint a temporary committee to work out details of the memorial. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate in the last election, who presided at the gathering, was appointed chairman of the committee, with Henry Morganthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, treasurer.

Although the form the memorial is to take was not definitely decided upon, it was suggested that a minimum sum of $500,000 be raised as a trust fund, the proceeds from which shall be awarded each year to the person who, during the year, has made the greatest contribution toward international amity.

$30,000 Suit Against B. C. & A.

Suit has been docketed in the Circuit Court for Wicomico county against the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway Company, for $30,000, through attorneys John E. Majors, of Baltimore, and Ellegood, Freney and Wailes, on behalf of Mrs. Verta Parker, widow, and Irene Elizabeth and Marion Wesley Parker, infant children of the late J. Clarence Parker.

The suit grew out of the accidental killing of Parker at a crossing near Whaleyville, Md., during the early part of September, 1920. He was employed as a traveling salesman for Turner Bros. Company, of Salisbury, and while on business for his firm his automobile was struck by a special train of the B. C. & A. Railway Company. He was instantly killed.

Negligence and carelessness on the part of the railroad company in failing to take proper precautions are alleged in the bringing of the suit.

FEWER ELECTIONS ENDORSED

Plan Would Eliminate Much Politics And Promote Efficiency

The proposed plan to elect the State House of Delegates and Comptroller every four years instead of every two years, is strongly endorsed by leading politicians of both parties in Somerset county. It is regarded as a move not only in the interest of economy but for other reasons, that voters would be glad for an opportunity to sanction. It is pointed out that with the advent of woman's suffrage the number of polling places has had to be greatly increased, and that this, with the present increased payment to election officials, will probably mean an annual expense to the taxpayers of this county of from $6,000 to $7,000. Formerly the taxpayers had to pay about $3,000 an election. Inquiries made here brought forth indorsement of the plan.

Mr. Edward B. Lankford, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee for Somerset county, said: "I have never been able to understand why the State Comptroller was not elected for the same term as the Governor. I have always been opposed to the present plan and think this proposed change should be adopted as soon as the next Legislature can act. I believe, too, that the election of all members of the General Assembly for the same term of four years would be wise and promote greater efficiency in State government."

Col. Henry J. Waters, a Democratic leader, said: "For economic and other good reasons it would be most desirable, and I believe it would be a wise policy for the Democratic party in Maryland to indorse such a movement."

State's Attorney L. Creston Beauchamp, a Republican, favored the movement, saying: "I am in favor of electing the Governor, Comptroller and Legislature at the same time and for the same term. The service of the members of the House would be much better because of the improved caliber of the members and the experience gained at the first term."

Former State's Attorney Gordon Tull said: "Excessive politics is the direct result of political agitation and excitement, which in turn is caused by elections," he said. "Let us get rid of some of these elections and we will have less political excitement and consequently more time and energy to devote to our business and commercial interests."

W. Page Jackson, road supervisor for Somerset county and a Republican leader, expressed the opinion that the reduction of the number of elections would be a good move. He believes, he says, that better men would be induced to become candidates for office and that the experience which they gained during the first term would be "very beneficial from the standpoint of public service during the second term."

Road Construction Resumed

With the awarding of contracts for five sections of road by the Roads Commission the State last Thursday resumed road construction, which was suspended early last fall on account of the excessive prices asked by contractors. At that time the cost of labor and cement and all other materials were so high that bids for road construction ran from $45,000 to more than $50,000 a mile.

The average cost per mile of the roads contracted for on Thursday will be $34,800, or a saving of from $10,000 to $15,000 a mile. In the opinion of Governor Ritchie and of Chairman Mackall, of the State Roads Commission, this saving to the State was well worth the delay. The contracts awarded were as follows:

Caroline county, 2.54 miles, to A. B. Sandridge & Co., for $78,496, or $31,000 a mile.

Wicomico county, 1.5 miles, to D. A. Hannaman Construction Company at $49,116, or $32,744 a mile.

Worcester county, 3.62 miles, to Piel Construction Company at $133,312, or $36,800 a mile.

Talbot county, three miles, to the Piel Construction Company at $96,954, or $32,318 a mile.

Harford county, 2.25 miles, to William H. Hohn at $76,450, or $33,978 a mile.

April First Arbor Day

Friday, April 1st, has been designated by Governor Ritchie as Arbor and Bird Day, and he has issued his proclamation, formally calling upon the people of the State, and particularly the school children and teachers, to fittingly observe the day.

The day picked by the Governor this year is somewhat earlier in the season than is usual. This is due, the Governor pointed out, to the indications of an unusually early and open spring. The suggestion that the date be brought forward in view of these climatic conditions was made to the Governor by State Forester F. W. Besley. A similar plan is being followed in the mid-western states.

NEW FIRE ENGINE PURCHASED

Equipment To Cost $8500 For Princess Anne Fire Company

At a meeting of the Volunteer Fire Company, the fire engine committee and a number of business men last Tuesday night, definite action was taken on purchasing better fire protection for our town. The assembly met with Mr. W. W. Withers, a special representative of the American LaFrance Fire Engine Company, who gave a discussion on fire protection apparatus and demonstrated the need of same.

A committee of five was appointed by those present to purchase the proper fire engine for our needs, as follows: Messrs. John B. Roberts, chairman; H. Fillmore Lankford, Charles H. Hayman, S. Frank Dasbiell and Omar J. Crowell. Contracts were signed for an American LaFrance Brockway combination pumping engine, chemical engine and hose motor car, at a cost of $7,000, together with 1000 feet of 2½ inch standard fire hose and other necessary equipment at a total cost of $8,500, of which nearly two-thirds has been raised.

The pumper has a maximum capacity of 300 to 350 gallons of water a minute and 210 pounds pressure. The outfit has a forty gallon chemical tank and carries two extra charges of chemicals, thus giving 120 gallons of chemical fire extinguishing fluid. The truck has a hose-carrying capacity of 1200 feet of 2½ inch standard fire hose. The other equipment on the machine consists of two 3-gallon knapsack fire extinguishers with ladders, axes, picks, pike poles and other pieces of equipment usually found on a machine of this type.

Princess Anne is to be congratulated upon having men of such splendid faith and spirit for their home town to take upon themselves the great labor necessary to raise the funds for the purchase of an equipment such as this, and in congratulating these men the people should also congratulate themselves for the splendid way they have responded with their donations thus far to make this achievement possible.

The engine will be delivered the latter part of June and that brings up the question of finances. The several committees have collected donations to date around $5,500.00 on all this equipment, which leaves a balance of around $3,000 yet to be raised. Now, let the citizens of Princess Anne get together and raise this amount by the time the engine arrives. They can do it if every one will help. Those who have promised subscriptions will be waited upon in the near future and it is expected that all will be ready to meet their obligations. Those of our citizens who have the time and money should get behind this movement to secure a better fire-fighting unit for our town. The Fire Company and the fire engine committees have shown that they mean business and now is the time for our people to show these men that they, too, mean business.

By giving to this cause you are making your property investments safer, making a better town, decreasing insurance rates and keeping up with the times.

Since the last names were published the following have contributed to the fire engine fund:

Dawson, Rev. W. F. Pitts, Mrs. Mary E.
Dryden, E. C. Pusey, G. Norman
Hyland, Miss Annie Wa Wa Tribe Red Men
Rish, Thomas H. Richardson, H. H.
McDowell, Walter Stacy, Roland L.
Maddox, Lazarus Standard Oil Company
Mills, A. F. Wilson, W. A.
Gibbons, W. R. Sunday school class.

Hog Pastures

Farmers can obtain good results in feeding hogs by supplementing the grain feed with forage crops. The livestock specialist of the State Extension Service recommends the following forage crop rotation on an area of one acre:

Field No. 1—½ acre—Canada field peas, one bushel per acre; oats, two bushels per acre; dwarf Essex rape, six to eight pounds per acre. Field No. 2—½ acre—rape, six to eight pounds per acre; seed to rye and vetch for fall and winter pasture. Field No. 3—½ acre—corn and soybeans, alternated in rows; seeded the following spring in oats and peas.

An acre of good land will produce crops enough to carry 10 or 15 shoats weighing 100 pounds each, and make enough feed to produce from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds of pork when supplemented with concentrated feeds.

On Field No. 2, where rape alone is seeded, if this is not grazed too closely, allowing it to have a rest from time to time, will furnish pasture all summer. It might be a good idea to seed a few pounds of rape with the oats and peas and also with the corn and soybeans at the last cultivation.

Hog pastures are of considerable value in the economical production of pork. Additional information on hog houses, self-feeders and other phases of hog production can be obtained from the County Agent.

The Engagement of John Henry

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Every youth in town, except John Henry, had a girl. Some, like his fascinating cousin, George Baker, had more than one. Yet John Henry was no woman hater. He was merely afflicted with so bad a case of bashfulness that the very thought of asking a girl if he might call was sufficient to cause him to palpitate inwardly and outwardly to mop his brow.

His only acquaintance with lovely woman was through the medium of books. In fact, so omnivorous a reader was John Henry that he had exhausted the resources of his home town of Hamden and had taken to spending his evenings in Milford, the neighboring community, which boasted a young library of several thousand volumes.

It was on his return from such an expedition that John Henry was met by his cousin George, who had been calling on a Milford girl. Now, George was not above twitting John Henry on his guileless condition, and it was with such an amiable intent in mind that he slipped into the seat beside his cousin on the Interurban trolley.

"Bet you been sparking a girl, J. H.," he began. Then, as John Henry maintained a silence meant to be dignified: "And I'll wager she can't hold a candle to the peach I've been to see! Some girl, J. H.," he continued, and proceeded along this line until their destination was reached.

And here the matter might have ended except for George's parting shot as their ways separated. "When you going to see your girl again?"

That question was overheard by John Henry's mother, approaching down a side street on her way home from her Wednesday Evening Sewing circle. Not for worlds would she have let her son know that she had learned the real reason for his journeying to Milford. But in her heart she was indignantly pleased. Her John Henry being like other boys and actually calling on a girl! Well, her nephew George would have to look out once her boy got started! A sentiment very maternal and proper.

Oddly enough there was the very thinnest grain of truth in George's accusation. John Henry was not exactly going to see a girl, but there was a girl whom he was taking great pleasure in seeing. Not every night—not, for instance, the night that he had met George—but very frequently John Henry found on his arrival in the one small reading room of the library an occupant at the table—a slim, dusky-haired girl bent over a pile of books, pads and newly sharpened pencils.

Never a word passed between them, but sometimes one caught the glance of the other. There would be a little blush on the girl's part, a bit of self-consciousness on his, a quick dropping of two pairs of eyes, and intense absorption. She was very pretty.

Then one evening after she had left, John Henry found a notebook she had dropped. Across it was written "Ruth Kent," and as he held it, debating whether to turn it over to the librarian, a picture fluttered out from the leaves. It was of her, and on the back he saw that she had inscribed, "Longingly yours."

Quite absurdly, a wave of jealousy swept over him. He decided to take the picture home with him, rather than have it given to the person for whom it was intended, and that night, after studying it fondly, he tucked it away between his collars and handkerchiefs in his bureau drawer.

Of the 12 parish churches of the Isle of Jersey each possessed costly bells. One of these churches sold its bells to defray the expenses of the troops in a long-drawn-out civil war. The ship on which the alienated bells were being sent to France foundered and all were lost. Ever since then, the faithful declare, the bells ring from the depths of the sea, the fishermen at St. Ouen's bay always approaching the water's edge to listen for the sound which, if heard, prevents them trusting themselves to set sail. Similar traditions are connected with Turnstall in Norfolk, Blackpool and Echingham, Sussex.

Now, if it had not been for George Baker, his aunt might have discovered her mistake. John Henry might have come to his senses and returned the picture, and George himself been spared a blow. As it was, George, worming out of his mother the cause of his aunt's mysterious visit, let out the information by degrees. John Henry suddenly became an object of romantic interest for the first time in his life, liked the sensation, and began to wish his position was genuine.

It was Ruth Kent, herself, unwittingly, who brought things to a head. One sunny afternoon, in the pursuit of subscriptions for a magazine, the proceeds of which were to assist her through college, she rang the bell of the house of John Henry, unaware that she was performing an act of destiny.

For John Henry's mother, suddenly confronting the original of the photograph in her son's bureau drawer, was seized with a wish to be nice to her future daughter-in-law, while not disclosing to her, without her son's permission, that she shared their secret.

"Come in, my dear," she invited cordially. "Such a hot afternoon! And I was just going to make myself some lemonade. So much nicer to have company to share it!"

Over the cold glasses Ruth told how she wanted to earn a little money (for her trousseau, of course, divined her listener), and how she was starting in a place where she knew so few people. At that point John Henry's step was heard on the porch outside. His mother excused herself and went to meet him.

With loving hand on his arm, she indicated the room she had just left. "Your—your fiancée is in there, dear," she told him and thrust him through the doorway.

The veil may well be drawn over what followed—John Henry's confusion, his explanations, his apologies. Enough to say that, ultimately, he was forgiven—just in time, in fact, for John Henry's mother to come in with an invitation to supper.

When much later Ruth went home it was in the company of John Henry, who still had considerable to say to her. Part of it ran as follows: "Don't you think you had better wait a little about going to college? You see you are really the first girl I have ever given a moment's thought to, and I assure you I am very serious in believing you are to be the only one. In fact, from now on, I hope to devote my entire life to you." For a bashful amateur he was doing himself proud.

And the girl on his arm was no doubt much impressed, for she raised her eyes to his with a look that said: "I believe every word you utter, John Henry!"

Perhaps George Baker, standing on the corner waiting for the trolley home, caught that look as they passed him, too interested in each other to observe him. At any rate he started suddenly. "So that is why she wasn't at home," he said to himself bitterly.

REGION OF. SUDDEN FLOODS

In Australia Meteorologist Has Little Time to Warn of Impending Cloudbursts.

In this country—one speaks of it in a general way, for distances are reckoned by hundreds of miles—the information gathered by the meteorologist does not circulate. Floods come there out of a clear sky. It is no uncommon thing for a flood to be tearing down the bed of what looks like an ancient river, where there is no sign of rain and it is known that no rain has fallen in the area for years. The man with a highly-tuned imagination would be scared to find the bed of the river moving. From above, the debris of timber, grass and other accumulations is to be seen steadily approaching.

There is no apparent reason for the movement, no sign of water pressure at the back of the traveling waste. But the pressure is there. It may be miles behind and pushing miles of debris before it. Rain has fallen in the far north, and the water is flooding the country south.

A few hundred miles from Lake Eyre there were to be seen, after one of these sudden floodings of the area, cattle hung up in the forks of trees, horses dead in the fallen timber, and here and there portions of the gear of drovers or packhorse travelers that had been swept away before the men had time to get it to safe ground.

One of the mysteries of the country was the total disappearance of a wagon team with the wagon and its load of goods traveling north. The teamster had camped in the bed of the creek, as was demonstrated by the tracks of his wagon, which went in, but did not go out. It was accepted that he was caught by the flood, perhaps while asleep at night, and the whole outfit was washed away. At any rate it was never seen again. —Sydney (Australia) Times.

One of these churches sold its bells to defray the expenses of the troops in a long-drawn-out civil war. The ship on which the alienated bells were being sent to France foundered and all were lost. Ever since then, the faithful declare, the bells ring from the depths of the sea, the fishermen at St. Ouen's bay always approaching the water's edge to listen for the sound which, if heard, prevents them trusting themselves to set sail. Similar traditions are connected with Turnstall in Norfolk, Blackpool and Echingham, Sussex.

To test water—almost fill a clean pint bottle with it and add half a teaspoonful of granulated sugar to it. Cork tightly and keep in warm place for two days. If at the end of that time the water has become cloudy or milky, it is unfit for domestic use.

Pearl Fishers in Sea All Year.

The women pearl fishers of Japan commence their work at the age of fourteen and are in the water almost all the year round, except in the coldest season, from the end of December to the beginning of February.

Chinese Deeds and Leases.

It is reported that Chinese property deeds or leases often have 100 signatures. The reason is that land is often owned by syndicates and agreements must be signed by every member of an organization.

It has been said that it would take two years to climb Mount Everest, in the Himalayas, the world's highest peak. So far no white man has won the honor of scaling this snowclad peak.

HINT FOR OWNERS OF PETS

Mystery of How Spitz Was Kept White Is Solved—Secret Learned From Washwoman.

Another secret process was unwittingly betrayed at a street discussion between two women recently. The women, elaborately dressed and seemingly of the "sheltered life" type stood, pets in leash, as they gossiped. The one with the Japanese spaniel spoke first:

"I have an awful time with Togo; he is such a little aristocrat," and she jerked at the chain as her substitute for a child showed a desire to greet a passing mongrel. "He detests castle soap and I always use facial for his bath, but he just adores lilac-scented talcum powder afterward and I have a spray with lilac water that he both of us use. How's little Snowball now?" (referring to the other woman's Spitz). "We heard he was ill. You must have been worried sick. I often wonder how you keep him so white."

The other woman's turn, as pampered pets milled about: "It was terrible; Snowy had colic; ate too much squash—we have to get them especially for him, the little darling—but we got the best doctor we could find and he was all right in two days. Oh, yes, how do I keep him so white? Bluing. Always after his bath I put him through bluing; learned it from watching a washwoman once. She put her fine white clothes into bluing and it works just as well with Snowy." —Portland Oregonian.

How Peanuts Grow.

The common peanut grows in a peculiar way that is distinctly original. The little plant sends up its shoots with the fruit on the end of a somewhat stiff stalk, and then before it ripens the stem bends over and carefully pushes the fruit underground. As pigs are said to be especially fond of these it has been humorously suggested that the plant does this to hide its nuts from the porker's too inquisitive investigations.

Tottering for 600 Years.

The famous Leaning tower of Pisa is of pure white Carrara marble in the Gothic style. Its departure from the perpendicular has been variously interpreted, but there is little doubt that it rises from the softness of the soil on which it stands and which has given way. Notwithstanding its threatening appearance, it has now stood for more than six hundred years without rent or decay.

Playing the Game.

The New York cop had just overhauled the bandit who was speeding away from the jewelry store, his hands full of gems. "No fair!" protested the burglar coyly. "You didn't count a hundred before you started after me." (Profuse and embarrassed apologies from the cop, who calls off the chase.) —New York Sun.

Flexible Stone.

The Engineering Gazette states that a slab of sandstone, cut from a small ledge in a creek bottom, now in the possession of J. T. Miller, Oregon, has the quality of flexibility, and can be bent and twisted by slight pressure from the hands. It is added that geologists are unable to explain the singular property of the stone.

Human Gambling Tools.

TIMELY HINTS BY SETLIFFE

Illinois State Adjutant Offers Eleven Commandments Which He Has Found Useful.

Eleven commandments in "reverse English" have been found useful by William Q. Setliffe, state adjutant of the American Legion in Illinois, in building up the Legion's program for that state. They are as follows:

1. Don't attend meetings if it rains. You might get your feet wet, and you are not in the physical condition you were at the cantonments, or at Brest.
2. Don't think of going if it is a warm, moonlight night. There are lots of other things you could do that sort of a night. For instance—Oh, roll your own idea.
3. If you should attend a meeting, find fault with everything that's going on. If your officers are showing pep, demand to know in open meeting what political offices they intend running for.
4. Never accept an office in the post. Most offices have duties connected with them, and it is much easier to criticize the way the other fellow is trying to handle the job.
5. Get sore at the organization if you are not appointed on a committee.
6. If you are appointed, don't bother about attending the committee meetings. They often are a bore.
7. During discussion of a motion keep still. After it has passed, tell some one why they should have voted it down.
8. Forget to pay your dues. The post can get along awhile longer without your contribution.
9. Don't try to get new members. George will do it.
10. Don't do any work on post affairs, or any more than is absolutely necessary. When other members roll up their sleeves and give unselfishly of their time and ability to help things along, get up on your hind legs and howl that the post is being run by a clique.
11. Remember, you owe no duty or obligation to a sick or disabled buddy—your own personal comfort comes first.

DOCTOR IS DEPT. COMMANDER

Ira L. Parsons, M. D., is Leader of the Mississippi Department of the American Legion.

Dr. Ira L. Parsons, commander of the Mississippi department of the American Legion, was one of the thousands of physicians who left lucrative practices to enter the military service during the World war. However, his case is exceptional in that he was 41 years old at the outbreak of the war.

Born in Lincoln county, Miss., Dr. Parsons was educated in the public and high schools of his native state, Mississippi college and Tulane university. Since graduation he has been engaged in the practice of medicine at Brookhaven, Miss.

During the border troubles, Dr. Parsons served as first lieutenant and captain, respectively, in the Mississippi National Guard. Later he was promoted to major and placed in charge of Field Hospital 153. He went overseas in command of the Seventh corps field hospital and served with that unit until December, 1918, when he was placed in command of Collecting hospital, Seventh corps at Wittich, Germany. Dr. Parsons was a member of the executive committee and was elected state commander of the Mississippi department of the Legion in 1920.

HEROISM SHOWN BY AMERICAN WORKERS OF NEAR EAST RELIEF

Cables Reveal Appalling Armenian Need—Hundreds of Thousands Starving.

By CHARLES V. VICKREY
General Secretary, Near East Relief

Approximately 500 American men and women are standing loyally and heroically at their posts in Armenia, Turkey and the Near East. Many of them during the long winter of isolation are undergoing what we in America call "hardship." But these, Charles V. Vickrey, our fellow citizens in the Near East, are volunteers serving with a high purpose, and they do not recognize hardship when they meet it.

They have had their opportunity to withdraw with honor from the field of famine and desolation. They have refused to leave, because they know that their departure would mean death for tens of thousands of women and children whom their efforts have kept alive and whom they are determined to save for a better future.

A dozen cables are on my desk from various centers in Armenia, Anatolia, Cilicia and Syria pleading piteously for the lives of hundreds of thousands who are homeless: "Sixty-five thousand refugees (Constantinople alone);" "Refugees flocking into Aleppo;" "Twenty thousand refugees at Ismid;" "One hundred thousand people at Alexandropol will starve unless relief is provided;" "Refugees arriving from Caucasus, escaping persecution, naked, destitute! Urgent need to save most of them from death;" "Two hundred thousand starving between Kars and Alexandropol! Severe winter adding to distress."

Above all towers the mute appeal of the more than 100,000 little children, orphaned, homeless, whom these American relief workers have saved and whom we here at home must sustain not only through the winter and spring, but through the summer and autumn as well. If we do not provide, they perish! And with them dies the hope of a New Near East.

The Easter season is here—the season that commemorates the Great Sacrifice for mankind. America is known as a Christian nation. She is also the wealthiest nation that history has ever known.

Can we really enjoy our wealth and claim the name of Christian if we turn a deaf ear to the appeal which General Leonard Wood, in behalf of the Near East Relief, has sent forth broadcast for a Lenten Sacrifice Offering to save these little children in Bible Lands?

The Kiss in Religion.
The religious significance of the kiss began in the early Christmas church ritual and still is imparted in the Greek church on Easter Sunday. In the middle ages it was the custom to kiss children thrice in the name of the Trinity. Gradually the custom spread beyond the walls of the church and eventually people sealed reconciliation and peace with a kiss.

Forenoon Marriages.
Why is noon the traditional and fashionable hour for wedding ceremonies? Because the hour became the customary one in England many years since, when the rule of partaking of the holy communion as the first act together of the married pair was universally obeyed. It was not permissible to celebrate that sacrament after mid-day.

BEWILDERING TO THE MIND

Everyday Measurements of Science That Are Almost Beyond Comprehension of the Layman.

One great difficulty in the study of astronomy is to comprehend the immensity of the distances and sizes involved. For instance, we can form no conception of the size or distance of the sun.

Suppose there was a spherical shell of the diameter of the sun. Suppose a great genie should drop into this shell, every second, night and day, a ball the size of the earth. How long would it take to fill the shell? Would it take an hour, a day, or a week? In fact, it would take two weeks, and when full the shell would contain more than 1,000,000 earths.

The distance to the sun is 93,000,000 miles. How long would it take a cannon ball to reach the sun, if shot from the earth, and continued on its course at a uniform velocity? In order not to underestimate the distance some might say a year. In fact it would take 1,000,000 earths.

Astronomically speaking, the above distance is very short. The sun is our nearest star. Strain the imagination by trying to comprehend the velocity of light which would pass seven times around the earth in one second of time. Now stagger the brain by trying to think of stars, so remote from us that a million years are required for their light to cross the enormous abyss that separates them from us. Think of it! When that ray of light, which now enters the eye, started on its course, perhaps there was no life on this earth.—John Candee Dean in the Indianapolis News.

REFUSED HAND OF SULTAN

Offer of Marriage by Ruler of Sulu Was Turned Down by Alice Roosevelt.

The Moro is not all bad. He has his good points. There has never been a case where a Moro has murdered an American woman, and there are many American women in Moroland. This abstinence, however, is not due to Moro chivalry, but to the fact that in the Moro thought women have no souls.

Not that the believed soullessness of the sex keeps the Moro from being a ladies' man. In fact, he is inclined to be very gallant. The famous visit of the Taft party, accompanied by the then, Miss Alice Roosevelt, some years ago (and long to be remembered in the Philippines), was attended by a characteristic exhibition of Moro gallantry. When this party visited Jolo—no trip to the islands would be complete without visiting this picturesque island—his royal highness, the sultan of Sulu, immediately offered his hand in marriage to the daughter of the President. He addressed her as the American princess, and the name of Princess Alice still clings to her in the Philippines. The fact that his highness already had a couple of dozen wives scattered around the town was no deterrent in case of a Mohammedan monarch.

Encouraging the Hen.

The modern method of increasing the quantity of eggs that may be obtained from hens is turning on electric lights in their pens in the middle of the night, thereby awakening them, to the end that they eat an extra meal and thus approach closer than ever before the ideal of laying an egg a day, week after week. One cannot but think that this lengthening of the working day for hens is a device of the same genius who discovered that there was no need of arising at dawn to feed the poultry. He simply waited until after the henyard denizens had gone to roost, and then scattered their morning meal. The hens found their breakfast waiting for them in the morning, while the ingenious one arose and went about the affairs of the day only when he felt so inclined. No chancier called him to work.

"Automobile" Street Car.

Mechanical arrangement similar in many respects to that of an automobile is the distinguishing feature of a new form of gasoline-driven interurban car described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. Though the body, seating 35 passengers, is like that of a standard modern street car, there is a long hood extending in front, in which the 50-horsepower engine is mounted. An auto-type gear shift is provided, and a shaft transmits the power to the rear wheels. Air brakes, electric lights, and a hot water heating plant are other details of the equipment. The car makes a round trip of 40 miles in a little more than two and one-half hours, consuming about five and one-half gallons of gasoline, or one gallon to seven miles.

Too Late.

"Ah!" exclaimed the fallen baseball star as he wiped away a tear. "If I had only thought about that song the young people were singing when I was a bush league player!"
"What was it?" asked a sympathetic friend.

TUESDAY MORNING, MAR. 22, 1921

What is wanted now from Germany is more marks and fewer remarks.

There are reported to be 2,500,000 unemployed people and a lot more than that are idle.

After Mr. Harding solemnly promised to have a simple inauguration yet he went and wore a plug hat.

It is said to be a good thing for folks to "rub elbows," but if they rub faces in these times it does not always taste good.

In spite of all the promises of economy it is credibly reported that they are going to have a hired girl at the White House.

The Congressional Record had only one page the other day. That won't go far toward lining the bureau drawers of the nation.

The Secretary of Labor is getting to work at Washington at the unholly hour of 7.30 a. m. Isn't this contrary to union regulations?

The island of Yap must be American territory from the number of politicians and orators who show signs of having originated there.

Aliens are said to be returning to the old country, dissatisfied with America. Perhaps they got the idea that the melting pot was a pot of money.

Some of these girls who have started out in pursuit of a husband seem to think they need the assistance of the chemical warfare service.

In spite of the spread of the movement for self determination, the women of Princess Anne have not demanded that privilege in the matter of fashions.

After struggling several weeks with his income tax blank the ordinary citizen reached the conclusion that internal revenue should be called infernal revenue.

A $33,000,000 GIFT

When Herbert Hoover set out four months ago to raise $33,000,000 to relieve the immediate needs of 8,500,000 starving children in Europe, many observers said it couldn't be done. They felt the American people were not sympathetic with human suffering unless it was found in their own country and that no such amount would ever be sent elsewhere.

That vast amount has now been raised and these pathetic little waifs of tragedy are carried through until another harvest when their need may be greatly relieved.

The peoples of Europe feel embittered toward this country for making money out of their misery. But several millions of young folks saved by this gift will say, "No, it is not true that America cares only for dollars. They gave me my life when they had nothing to gain by it."

The Bible says: "Cast thy bread upon the waters and it shall return unto thee after many days." The people in this State who have contributed toward this noble cause will never regret the sacrifice.

THE EASTER THOUGHT

While man has made amazing material, social and intellectual progress in the past 2000 years, yet people are today asking the same old fateful question put by Job, "if a man die shall he live again?" Are all our efforts on this earth useful merely in creating results that exist in this life only, but which are absolutely to perish when we go the way of all the earth? Or do we build some imperishable product of human character?

Philosophy makes a clear answer to this question. It holds it inconceivable that the power that has shown such marvelous skill in creating the human body would be so bungling as to throw away all the achievements of mind and personality at the time when these begin to be most serviceable.

The most satisfactory answer ever made to this fateful question was offered by Jesus Christ. His matchless life and His lofty conceptions of conduct go far beyond all other human beings as to indicate that His unique personality was the divinely inspired messenger of God. When He tells us with positive affirmation, that "in My Father's house there are many mansions" we must believe Him. We can not set up our shallow ideas against His infinite wisdom.

Let us remember that after the fact of His physical death had been accepted by abundant witnesses, He was recognized in some form, physical or spiritual, by a great company of people who were not looking for his reappearance and whose doubts had to be dispelled before His resurrection was accepted as a fact. What convinced them should convince us. So let us today in response to the affirmation of philosophy, to the words spoken by Jesus and to the fact of his survival after death, cast aside gloomy fears. Let us try to build characters that shall be worth preserving for some future form of existence.

FIRE PROTECTION NEEDED

The American people are the most careless in the world in the destruction of property by fire. And as a partial offset to this appalling loss they have provided the most efficient fire protection in the world. No fire departments elsewhere can compare in skill, daring, resourcefulness and mechanical equipment, with a well organized fire protection service in this country.

A great deal of this work has been put in from public spirit and much free service has been given. Young men enjoy running to fires and are glad to take hold and help, and they enjoy the bit of adventure and struggle required in putting out a blaze.

The town that has a poor fire department like Princess Anne suffers some heavy losses and it stands a chance of being wiped out if a blaze started out under windy conditions. Most towns have plenty of lightly constructed buildings that could feed the path of a big conflagration. It pays for a community to provide itself liberally with modern equipment, as a serious fire might set it back for many years in a single night.

Business men dislike to move into a place with poor fire protection. If a man had his choice, other things being equal, between a town with a modern motorized department and sufficient equipment to cover the whole area and an old one with out-of-date protection, he would go to considerable expense to choose the former. The lower insurance rates would be an important item.

Wherefore our people in Princess Anne should regard a well developed fire department as one of the essentials of modern progress. Every community should carefully study what others are doing and be sure that its fire protection is equal to other towns of its class. If it is a little better, it is mighty fine advertising.

While suffering with a severe attack of the grip and threatened with pneumonia, Mrs. Annie H. Cooley, of Middlefield, Conn., began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was very much benefited by its use. The pains in the chest soon disappeared, the cough became loose, expectoration easy and in a short time she was as well as ever. Mrs. Cooley says she cannot speak too highly in praise of this remedy.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate in the County of Princess Anne, Maryland, of which Lazarus Maddox, late of said county, died seized.

The bill states that at the time of his death the said Lazarus Maddox was seized of a parcel of land in said town, bounded on the north by Antioch avenue, on the east by Church street, on the south by the land of John W. Bridwell and on the west by the land of Lottie Justice; that the said Lazarus Maddox died, intestate, many years ago, leaving as his only heirs-at-law the said Lazarus Maddox, a son, who intermarried with Emma Maddox; Lottie Justice, a daughter, who intermarried with John Justice, her husband, and Lazarus Maddox, the son, conveyed to the plaintiff all their interest in the said parcel of land; that by deed dated the 19th day of March, 1906, the said Lazarus Maddox and one-fourth in the said parcel of land, and the said Ethel Maddox, Addie Maddox, Carolina Maddox and Edith Maddox are infants under the age of twenty-one years; that the said Lazarus Maddox, Addie Maddox, Carolina Maddox, Edith Maddox and Emma Maddox are non-residents of the State of Maryland; that said parcel of land is not susceptible of partition among the persons entitled to interests therein without material loss and injury to them, and that order to make division of said interests it will be necessary that said real estate be sold and the proceeds divided among the persons interested therein in proportion to their respective interests.

NOT ALLOWED TO BE PESTS

City of Boston Has Strict Regulations Governing Construction and Maintenance of Billboards.

The following regulations are in effect in the city of Boston, governing the use of billboards:

No outdoor advertising sign shall exceed an area of ten square feet if within 500 feet of any public highway.

No outdoor advertising sign, wherever located, shall exceed an area of 100 square feet, and all such signs shall be rectangular in form.

No outdoor advertising shall be permitted upon any rock, tree or natural object of beauty.

All fields and backgrounds of outdoor advertising shall be of neutral colors, and the fields, backgrounds and letters thereon shall not be discordant with surroundings, and nothing shall be placed thereon except letters of the alphabet and numerals.

No outdoor advertising shall be allowed within the area between intersecting streets and within a radius of 350 feet from the point where the center lines of the streets intersect.

The structure and the materials of all outdoor advertising signs shall meet the approval of the department of public safety of the state as regards all questions of fire hazard.

No waste or other rubbish resulting from any billboard or outdoor advertising sign shall be allowed to accumulate on or in the vicinity of the premises where the same is located.

Bottoms of all signs shall be at least three feet from the ground.

No outdoor advertising shall be permitted or allowed to be maintained without an annual state license.

SEE VALUE OF PLAYGROUNDS

Cities Spending Much Money Now for Recreational Centers, Which Might Have Been Saved.

Memphis, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Akron and Hartford have in the course of the last year doubled their appropriations for playgrounds, while Dayton trebled its appropriation the year before. Detroit has issued $10,000,000 in bonds for parks and playgrounds; Portland, Ore., has issued $300,000 for the purchase of playgrounds, and Pittsburgh $981,000 for the same purpose. With the increase of congestion in the streets of American cities the business of being a child becomes more and more hazardous. In this connection the American City states that 23 children a month, on an average, were killed in the streets of New York city during 1920. Few blocks in the city have provision for play space. Of the 15 play centers planned by the Playground association all but six remained closed because of lack of funds. It is pointed out that the policy of providing accommodations for play should be adopted in connection with rebuilding and the construction of new buildings.

The time to lay out playgrounds and recreational centers is before the town has grown to an extent that makes it necessary to condemn property for such purposes. Let there be a properly understood, comprehensive plan followed in the development of the town from its start.

Trees Public Property.

The pioneers planted forest or shade trees when there was scarcely an argument for their planting—when they were hemmed in and surrounded by virgin forest, writes C. F. Bley in the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. Today we are enjoying the fruits of their devotion, wisdom and forethought. Shall we do less—when there is so much more need—for the rising generations and for those yet unborn? Not every husbandman has appreciated the value of shade trees, witness the ruthless cutting down and making into cordwood of whole lines of noble, stalwart sugar maples! A legal enactment in every state providing that every tree now or hereafter standing within the legal road boundary shall be considered public property is suggested.

Appropriate Symbols.

Symbols are curious things. Our language is full of them and so is religious ritual, the ceremonies of secret societies, and at times it is very picturesque. When we wish to imply that a man's head is full of absurd, chaotic ideas we say in slang that there are "bats in his belfry." Do you not see how in a dream a belfry could symbolize a head, and bats, morbid, sinister and absurd ideas?

Friday Was Columbus' Fate.

It was on a Friday that Columbus set out from Spain to seek a new world; on Friday that he first caught sight of land; on Friday that he started on his return voyage; on Friday that he safely arrived back in Spain; on Friday that he first sighted the American mainland on his next voyage; on Friday that he first set his foot upon it, and again on Friday that he landed in his native land.

HAD TOUCH OF COMIC OPERA

Chinese Armies Stopped Fighting to Let United States Vessel Pass Down the River.

Ensign William H. Galbraith, navigating officer of the United States destroyer Hart, attached to the United States Asiatic squadron in Chinese waters, in a letter tells of the intensified work placed on the hands of the vessels of the squadron in the Far East by the operations of the Chinese civil war now in progress between the Pekingese and the Cantonese sections of the nation. When armies representing these hostile sections approach cities in which American citizens are in business there is much excitement on the part of the Americans and they call urgently for the protection of the fleet, says the Columbus Dispatch.

Recently the Hart received a radio-gram call from an officer of a United States merchant vessel, stating that his vessel 50 miles up one of the Chinese rivers was being detained. The captain was anxious to put to sea, and would the Hart see that it was permitted to depart? The Hart got on the job at once and found when the scene was reached that there was no governmental authority holding the United States ship up, but the Cantonese army was drawn up on one side of the river and the Pekingese on the other and a battle was in progress, with the river, through which the United States ship must pass, between them. Naturally the captain did not fancy risking the shots that were passing across the channel. The respective commanders kindly suspended the fighting until the merchant vessel had passed.

SUCCESS SLOW IN COMING

Discoverer of Vulcanized Rubber Was at One Time Compelled to Beg Money for Bread.

Charles Goodyear, who became a millionaire and was the inventor of vulcanized rubber as well as many other forms of the tree sap products, at one time was forced to beg for $5 to keep him from starving. In 1834 he discovered that rubber could be vulcanized. It was an accident. He attempted to remove some bronze dust from a bit of rubber cloth, and after trying several chemicals tried aqua fortis, a chemical largely composed of sulphuric acid. It failed also, and he threw the cloth away. A few days later he picked it up by chance, and noted the spot rubbed by the aqua fortis had hardened and would stand a degree of heat that would have melted it in its former state.

He applied his discovery, and soon was wearing rubber shoes, coats, hats and other garments, and had a small fortune by the right of his discovery. But a year passed, and his goods were discredited and returned, rotting and broken. He was ruined. He started in again to discover a method that would vulcanize the rubber, and for ten years he kept at it, his life a long misery of hunger and cold and crushing poverty. His success came suddenly and soon he was rich beyond his wildest dreams.

Wonderful Poison Gases.

Canned, solidified, poison gas, which is claimed to be absolutely foolproof and mobile, has been perfected for use by the American soldier, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. That two studies—defensive and offensive gas research—go hand in hand already has been demonstrated, for, in addition to the development of new forms of gas, army experts at the Edgewood (Md.) arsenal, have had to improve the gas masks to make them effective against some of the new gases brought into existence there. In technical military progress, every new weapon means a call upon the armorer for a new defense. As a result, this country today has not only gases which surpass anything used during the World war, but a mask which, in recent tests was worn 24 hours a day for a week, except at mealtime, without any discomfort whatever. Breathing was normal, speaking was simple, and it kept out all the gases thus far known.

Women Smokers "Under Cover."

The mystery of where women cigarette smokers obtain their supply is solved, in part at least, by an up-town druggist, who was asked why nearly all such stores keep their tobacco stands in inconspicuous places, says the New York Sun. He said the reason for doing so is because the druggists cater to women smokers, and this class is rather timid about purchasing in the open. The women, it seems prefer to glide back to some out-of-the-way corner, where nobody will see them. Of course, there are exceptions.

Not Much of a Party.

Seven-year-old Jean and her mother were invited to an informal party. They went. There the guests talked and talked, and finally the hostess passed for refreshments some wonderful fruit and candy. Little Jean ate with the others but looked expectantly for something else. But nothing came.

On the way home she voiced her disappointment to mother. "I don't see why they call a thing like that a party," she complained, "I don't think much of a party you don't have a drop to drink."—Indianapolis News.

It Was Suggestion.

"So she refused you?"
"That's the impression I received."
"Didn't she actually say no?"
"No, she didn't. All she said was 'Ha-ha-ha!'"—San Francisco Chronicle.

IN THE SPRING TAKE GUDE'S PEPTO-MANGAN

Restores The Quality of Blood. Drives Out Impurities. Builds Up The Red Corpuscles

IMPROVES THE COMPLEXION

A Standing Among Physicians For 30 Years. In Tablet as Well as Liquid Form

You notice complexions in the Spring. People who have plenty of rich red blood have lips a deep, rosy red, eyes bright and clear. Good complexions are based on the solid foundation of good blood, with plenty of red corpuscles. When blood becomes clogged with impurities, when the red corpuscles are not absorbing enough oxygen from the lungs and distributing it to the cells throughout the body, good complexions fade. Not only that, but you feel tired and exhausted all the time. Your shoulders droop and you lounge around and lean against anything handy. You lack energy because your blood is weak and thin—not enough red corpuscles.

People call it "Spring Fever." Call it what you will, it is bad blood. It weakens powers of resistance. If you feel that way you should take that exceptionally good blood tonic, Gude's Pepto-Mangan, for a while. It will make rich red blood. For thirty years it has been a stand-by among physicians. It will help you to build up this Spring. All that comes from having good blood with plenty of red corpuscles will come to you.

When you go to your druggist's be sure to get the genuine Gude's Pepto-Mangan with the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package. It is sold in both liquid and tablet form. Both have the same medicinal value.—Advertisement.

DISPUTE ACCURACY OF CLOCK

Heirs of Danish Nobleman Stand to Win or Lose Large Amount of Money by Decision.

What time was it when the castle clock struck twelve?

Ten thousand pounds, normally about $50,000, hangs on the answer to this question, explains the London Express correspondent in Denmark, which has been the subject of lively argument in the eastern civil court, Copenhagen.

The clock in question is in the tower of Lystrup castle, the seat of one of Denmark's greatest landlords, the late Count Moltke, a life member of the ancient house of lords.

Count Moltke died on the night of December 19-20, 1918, a few seconds after the castle clock struck twelve.

The Danish parliament recently approved a new and increased scale of death duties, applicable to the estate of all persons who died after midnight on December 19-20.

It is contended by the count's heirs that the castle clock was fast and struck a minute too soon. The count, they say, died on December 19, and therefore his estate is exempt from the increase in the death duties.

Weavers.

A typical Scots crofter weaving with the old-fashioned hand weaving loom side by side with the very latest power-loom, giving an idea of the great gain in output and quality achieved in mechanical invention will be an interesting item at the efficiency exhibition in London, where the use of invention and effort will be shown to be of greater value than mere personal application. Not only will the productions be seen to be more quickly executed, but the worker will find the process less mechanical, strange as this may appear. What will doubtless strike all visitors is the enormous increase in efficiency in the weaving industry brought about by labor-saving machinery. It seems strange, too, that more workers are required to keep up with the efficient power-loom.—Christian Science Monitor.

Electrified Tourmaline.

The crystal, tourmaline, has very remarkable optical properties, a fact known to most people. However, few people have heard of its peculiar electrical properties. Tourmaline is capable of attracting small bits of paper and straw in much the same way as amber. This attraction is, of course, due to an electrostatic charge.

When the crystal is exposed to sunlight of a low temperature, it loses its electrical charge, but regains it upon being heated again. If it has a negative charge at first, it will have a positive charge when it is reheated.

Several other precious stones exhibit various phenomena along this line, but tourmaline is the most interesting and spectacular of all.—Popular Science Monthly.

New Silverplating Process.

More than 100 per cent increase in the output of electroplating vats is gained by the recent discovery of an English metallurgist. The method of applying the new process, as used at Sheffield in silverplating, is merely to add potassium carbonate to the plating bath, instead of neutralizing that already present by introducing barium cyanide, as is ordinarily the practice. The silver deposit obtained the new way is declared to equal, if not surpass, in quality any accomplished by the old method.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

GOOD-NATURED AND PATIENT

English Visitor Pays Tribute to Virtues He Noted as Distinguishing American People.

A while ago I published a little book on a tour I made in America during war time. I dedicated it "To the kindest people in the world," and I put the dedication in Latin to spare their blushes. Should I write another work of the same kind, I think I should dedicate it "To the most good-natured, tolerant and patient people in the world," writes Sir Arthur E. Shipley in the Outlook.

Although as the election grew imminent interest in it became keen and discussion eager, still I only once heard an acute disagreement between the supporters of the rival candidates, and this was between a husband and wife. It seemed based upon a fundamental difference of opinion on that most innocuous and unexciting fluid, milk.

As a rule the discussions were most amicable, and usually finished up, after the method of Lincoln, in a joke or a story. Their toleration equals their good humor. They bear patiently every variety of religious dogma; these are almost as numerous in the United States as are patent medicines. They quietly endure and ignore the most infernal noises. Owing to the enormous distances one has to traverse in the states, one spends a considerable part of one's time on the train and it is this reason which possibly accounts for the fact that Americans persist in talking on the cars.

Mr. Lucas has recently reminded us that Carlyle bequeathed certain books to Harvard university because of his esteem and regard for the American people—"particularly the more silent part of them." The latter exist not only in the imagination of the Chelsea philosopher. They are perhaps not very numerous, still they exist.

MEAT UNDER PERPETUAL BAN

Residents and Visitors on Island of Valamo, Finland, Must Obey Law Centuries Old.

Every day is fish day on the little Island of Valamo, Finland, 12 squares miles in area. Almost ten centuries ago monks of the Greek Catholic church embarked on Lake Ladoga to find a new home and landed on Valamo.

A fine old monastery they built and framed a law that from that day on no meat should ever be eaten on the island. Recently several members of the American Red Cross stationed at the Russian refugee camp at Viborg, made a journey to the island and were entertained at lunch in the monastery built to replace the one destroyed in 1754. The old law is still observed by the 450 monks now living there.

From the day they arrive on the island to the day they leave or die no meat is eaten by them. Husky, strong and living to a good old age, this lack of meat as food is not apparent in their build. For lunch the Americans had fish in several forms, fried, baked and in soup, but always fish.

Hunting is barred, trapping is taboo, so that temptation in the shape of meat may never come. Smoking also is banned.

No Aerial Mail for Chinese.

While Chang Tso Lin, who today dominates the north of China, was wondering just what he would do with six airplanes which he ordered from England the question of the disposal of three of them was settled for him. He was undecided whether to use them for military purposes or for the establishment of a mail service, in accordance with the terms of the contract. While debating the question he ordered three to be sent to Mukden, for possible postal use, and the remainder to Peking for military purposes. Those shipped to Mukden were loaded on flat cars and started on their way. Some distance from Tientsin they bumped a railroad bridge and were not only smashed but also put the bridge out of commission. So it looks as though those who expected to get their mail via the air route are doomed to disappointment.

Thrill Not on Program.

President Obregon of Mexico has given his sanction to bull fighting by appearing one Sunday afternoon when Rodolfo Gaona and Ernesto Pastor fought jointly. He occupied a ring-side seat. When Pastor, playing the last bull, made what appeared to be a death thrust, the President arose to leave and the band immediately struck up the national anthem. The bull, however, was not dead and started to charge. At the sound of the anthem he stopped in his tracks, lowered his head, and with Pastor standing at rigid attention not three feet from the bull's horns, the hymn was completed. A second later the bull tumbled over dead. Veteran fightgoers asserted the spectacle was the strangest ever seen in the Mexico City arena.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Then All Was Quiet.

Junior has reached the age of inquisitiveness. With grandma, he was making a social call. He noticed that the piano was not in the same position as the one at home, that theavenport was different, and that the library table was of another design and called attention to the facts in tones that all heard.

"Grandma," he said, finally, "haven't they got any more chairs?"

"Why of course they have. Now keep quiet."

"Well, why is that man sitting on the piano stool then?"

NEW MONTE CARLO IN CUBA?

Possibility That World-Famous Gambling Establishment May Be Located on the Island.

"The greatest gambling center in the world will be located in the western hemisphere if plans for 'palaces' in Cuba develop as given out," said Walter P. Harris of Havana. "Cuba is already beset with the gambling fever, and fortunes change hands there almost every day."

"Since the announcement of the prince of Monaco that he is preparing to close Monte Carlo, there have been extensive preparations for the establishment of great gambling palaces designed to attract the sporting element that now visits Monte Carlo to the 'Pearl of the Antilles.' Several villages have been surveyed with the view of locating this gambling center, but so far no definite decision has been reached."

"Gambling is already flourishing in Havana. The Casino de la Playa is a great garish temple of roulette, where wonderful dinners are served at less than cost. The profit to the house comes from the wheel. The men who take women to the Casino for dinner invariably back them at the wheel."

"The moratorium now in effect on the island has not affected the crowds at the Casino, because they are mostly composed of tourists, and the visitor is treated to the sight of a country, apparently bankrupt but gambling madly, where fortunes change hands overnight and the beggar of today may be the rich man of tomorrow."—Washington Post.

HUMAN FACE AS A BEACON

Radiometer Able to Record the "Shine" Thrown Off at a Distance of Several Miles.

Novelists that speak of a face "lighting up" put down an actual truth that few of them are aware of or intend. One of the most delicate instruments in the world, a radiometer, records the "shine" of a human face, and can do it at a distance of several miles. So delicate is the instrument that it can detect and record the glimmer of a candle half a mile away, and if there were no atmospheric obstruction it could detect the same candle 16 miles away. The instrument consists of two thin glass disks, one polished and one blackened, suspended by a quartz thread in a vacuum. Waves of radiant energy striking this instrument disturb its balance, because the bright disk reflects them, while the black one absorbs them.

While the human face to the normal eye gives out no waves of radiant energy, the fact remains that a constant flow of energy is being thrown off, and these waves travel an unknown distance. Although the radiometer is a wonderful and delicate instrument, there is a thermal couple ten times as sensitive as the radiometer and it can detect the heat of a candle 60 miles distant.

Italy to the Rescue.

Visiting a school is a doubtful pleasure. But the woman had promised to call for a friend who is known as a "tough" teacher. She waited until almost closing time before entering the school, a red brick, lumpy sort of building, not specially attractive. It looked as if she had come too soon. All eyes soon focussed on her instead of on the busy little teacher. The word "trio" was being explained to the children and volunteers were asked to stand and use the word in a sentence. And no one need expect to go home until the word was fully explained.

Little R. T. coaxed, "Come now, tell me just one little story with 'trio' in it."

Timidly, swarthy little Giuseppe raised his hand. His naturally happy face was strained in his effort to help. Then flashed a bright smile at the woman and shouted cheerfully:

"It is nearly trio clock."—New York Sun.

Go to Class by Underground Tunnels.

An underground tunnel system that has all the fascination of the catacombs, although it serves the less dramatic function of conveying heating pipes, is one of the chief attractions at Wellesley college.

It has just been completed and undergraduates are being permitted to ramble around under the 300-acre campus.

The tunnels are six feet high and wide enough for comfortable walking. Girls have found that no matter how cold the weather, it is a good plan to abandon coats when taking this long adventure. The temperature from the heating pipes is about that of a Turkish bath.

This Oil May Cure Leprosy.

The use of Chaulmoogra oil has been known for some time to have some virtue in the treatment of leprosy, and recently it has been discovered that there are a great many points of similarity between the germs of leprosy and those of tuberculosis. This has led to some government experiments in the direction of combating tuberculosis which will be conducted at Hawaii.

Iron Ore From the Alps.

A new iron ore field has been discovered in Switzerland which is estimated to contain 47,000,000 tons, which will assure to Switzerland, at prewar consumption rate, sufficient iron ore to last for 45 years. The federal council suggests a provision by the government of 1,200,000 francs upon condition that a total capital of 4,000,000 francs is raised for exploitation.

After Thorough Trial a Detroit, Mich., Man Endorses Pe-ru-na

The following letter written from Detroit, Michigan is no snap judgment expressed on the merits of Pe-ru-na, the well-known catarrh remedy, but rather a mature, sober opinion formed after a full year's trial.

This is the way Mr. Michael Fako of 908 East Palmer Avenue, in the Michigan Metropolitan, writes: "After using PE-RU-NA for about one year will say I have found it a very good medicine for catarrh. It has helped me a great deal and I am very well satisfied. I have gained in weight, eat and sleep well, my bowels are regular and better color in my face."

"PE-RU-NA has done wonders and to me is worth its weight in gold. I shall continue to use PE-RU-NA as long as I live and recommend to my friends who are troubled with catarrh."

Nothing can be more convincing than an endorsement of this nature from an actual user. There are many people in every community whose experience in using Pe-ru-na, has been identical with Mr. Fako's. It is the standby for coughs, colds, catarrh, stomach and bowel disorders and all catarrhal conditions. Put up in both tablet and liquid form. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

SOME OLD LONDON THEATERS

District of Shoreditch Had the First Building Erected for Purely Dramatic Purposes.

There was a time, shortly after the first theater was opened in London, when the opposition to the new form of entertainment was so great that an ordinance was passed by parliament for the compulsory closing of these "palaces of amusement," and making it a crime to be present as a spectator at a play.

This was in 1642, when only two theaters existed in London. The first building specially erected for dramatic purposes was built by an actor, James Burbage, at Shoreditch, in 1576, and called the Theater. A year or so later a second theater known as the Curten was opened, also at Shoreditch, and these two playhouses catered to London audiences until the suppression of the theaters.

When plays were once more permitted several new theaters opened, including the Globe, at Southwark, which was built by James Burbage, the Rose and the Blackfriars and Whitefriars theaters.

Probably the most luxurious of these early theaters was the Fortune, built by Edward Alleyn, an actor, in 1599, and so christened because it cost its owner the then fabulous sum, including the ground it stood on, of £1,320. The only illumination during the performance was that afforded by candlelight, gas being unknown until 1817, when the first performance by gaslight was given at Drury Lane.

DOCTOR SERVED COSTLY DISH

Unexpected Guests Caused Sacrifice of Blooded Pigeons to Set Forth Required Meal.

The favorite avocation of a widely known surgeon is his model farm near Chicago. It pays no profit except great pleasure. He is hospitable, always asking friends to dinner. One Sunday about noon 14 unexpected guests arrived. His wife was aghast. "My goodness," she said, "we haven't a thing to give them."

"Oh, anything will do," said the doctor. So the lady of the house consulted the cook.

"What about that crate of pigeons out in the barn?" asked the cook. "How many are there?" asked the lady.

"About eighteen," was the answer. "Well, wring their necks and fix them up."

"Dinner was served and the large platter of squabs was brought to the table."

"What's that?" exclaimed the doctor.

"Now, Fred, just go ahead and serve," said his wife.

"But what are these?" he expostulated.

"Just some pigeons we found in the barn," she answered.

Ben Franklin Took Poker Into Paris.

In Paris poker was first introduced by Benjamin Franklin, first United States ambassador, who taught members of the court that poker had dominoes beat a mile. To this day a group of white-haired Frenchmen, descendants of the club Franklin founded, meet every night at six o'clock on the first floor of the Tavern Royale and play poker, with many ejaculations and the most absorbed seriousness until it is time for dinner. They number among them two millionaires, the head of a famous dressmaking firm, a senator and a famous Socialist author, and they play with sous as chips and a limit of 50 centimes—about 7 cents at present rate of exchange—on the game.

One of Franklin's peculiarities was a contention that a flush beat a full house, and even now the majority of Frenchmen play that way.

Wood That Does Not Rot.

The wood of the mangrove tree, which is found in French Guiana, is considered by the French as a wood that will not rot. All exposure and efforts to break down its fiber in four years' experiments by the French railway service have been useless.

The grain of the wood is so close as practically to exclude all moisture. Its density is placed at 110, as against 40 for fir and 70 for oak. In addition to this closeness of fiber the mangrove has a large amount of tanning in its composition. This protects it from insects and such blights as mold and damp. While not as brittle as oak, it has twice the resistance to flexion and has about the same potency against crushing and twisting.

No Exchange.

"There's one thing about selling postage stamps," said the tired druggist.

"What is it?" asked the customer.

"There's no profit in the deal, of course, but it's one thing I sell that my customers don't bring back and want to exchange for something else."—Detroit Free Press.

Embarrassment.

"Of course," remarked Senator Sorghum, "I was proud to have a vote so overwhelmingly in my favor. And yet it has its disadvantages."

"In what way?"

"I am compelled to feel a sense of obligation toward everybody who votes for me; and a landslide makes the number so great that I can scarcely keep up with the responsibilities."

Old Superstitions.

In one of his novels, Walter Scott says it was received as the truth, "that they who are born on Christmas or Good Friday have the power of seeing spirits, and even of commanding them." He also says that "the Spaniards imputed the haggard and downcast looks of their Philip II to the disagreeable visions to which this privilege subjected him." The well-known lines of Shakespeare indicate that in his day the crowing of the cock at dawn was believed to be efficacious in driving away spirits.

Why Buried Glass Disintegrates.

The bureau of standards says that glass would slowly disintegrate when buried in moist soil. The action on the glass would be due primarily to water and alkali. The disintegrating action would vary with the composition or character of the glass and the conditions that obtained in the soil. This action would probably be extremely slow with any glass, and it would probably be centuries before some glass would be completely disintegrated.

Twenty-Toed Elephants in Demand.
Twenty-toed elephants are held in veneration throughout India, and are keenly sought by all the rajahs and maharajahs for the prosperity they are supposed to bring, says Charles Mayer, in Asia Magazine. They are guarded more carefully and quartered even more sumptuously than the white elephants of Siam, and the price they will bring is determined almost entirely by the amount the rajahs can gather together.

Only Fault They Don't Have.
We have moments of depression about our dear old ladies in the electric limousines, as they lumber down the wrong side of the street and negotiate the turns in their own independent way, when we feel that all can conscientiously say for them is that, so far as we know, they never drive when under the influence of liquor.—Ohio State Journal.

HELPFUL WORDS

From A Princess Anne Citizen

Is your back lame and painful? Does it ache especially after exertion? Is there a soreness in the kidney region?

These symptoms suggest weak kidneys.

If so there is danger in delay. Weak kidneys get weaker fast. Give your trouble prompt attention. Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Your neighbors use and recommend them. Ask your neighbor?

Read this Princess Anne testimony. Mrs. Mark P. Malcom, Antioch avenue, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills several times in the last few years and have always found them to be a reliable kidney remedy. My kidneys were out of fix and I had a lame and aching back. My kidneys didn't act right either. Doan's Kidney Pills from Smith & Co's drug store soon corrected the trouble. When any of the family have any sign of kidney complaint the first thing we think of using is Doan's Kidney Pills as we have always found them reliable."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Malcom had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Movement For Kindergarten Training

The Maryland Association for kindergarten extension is organizing a movement to extend kindergarten training to a larger number of children in the State.

There are only 3.46 per cent. of children of kindergarten age (four to six years) who are in kindergartens, and all of these kindergarten classes are in Baltimore city except one, which is in Baltimore county. Outside of Baltimore county there is not a single public kindergarten in the whole State, whereas in California, in towns under 2500 population, there are 57 kindergarten teachers and 2,037 kindergarten pupils. In towns under 2500 population in Iowa there are 59 classes, in Wisconsin 178, and in Nebraska, 62.

Should not Maryland be doing something to secure the benefits and opportunities the kindergarten affords for some of its children? United States Commissioner of Education P. P. Claxton has given us the slogan: "Let us all unite in securing kindergarten training for every child."

Every child has a right to a place in a kindergarten; for, just as the high school provides the right kind of education for boys and girls from thirteen to eighteen, so does the kindergarten provide the proper start for the little child. Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, has said:

"My faith in the kindergarten can be expressed thus: I believe in it because I believe that well guided play can be made educational and because I believe that every child has an inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, which right the kindergarten secures for him."

The following resolution was endorsed by the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Associations:

"The Board of Managers of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' Associations heartily approves the proposition to stimulate kindergarten extension to the end that every one of the nation's children may have the privileges and advantages of kindergarten education."

Why Colds Are Dangerous

It is the serious diseases that colds lead to that make them dangerous. They prepare the system for the reception and development of the germs of influenza, pneumonia, tuberculosis, diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough and measles. You are much more likely to contract these diseases when you have a cold. For that reason you should get rid of every cold as quickly as possible. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will help you. It is widely known as a cure for bad colds.

PUTTING NEW MEN TO WORK

How Progressive Towns Utilize The Ambition Of New People

The old-fashioned city was always slow to recognize new men. If a fellow moved into a place it was felt he should take a back seat for several years. Older residents felt jealous of him. When a man joined any society he was supposed to keep quiet for a time and let others have the honors.

In business organizations today the tendency is to push ahead the new members and new residents in the city and get them to working for the community as quickly as possible. In the Lincoln (Nebraska) Chamber of Commerce, for instance, when a new member is elected he is at once put on the membership committee. As a result of the haste displayed by these new members this organization secured 180 additions during the past four months.

Communities that put new residents to work promptly are apt to develop a bunch of hustlers. After a fellow has lived in a place for a time and has an assured social and business position he is apt to be reluctant to take up public work. When he first starts in and desires to make friends he is in the mood to do good community work. Let us give our new people here in Princess Anne every chance to show what they can do.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE

Plan Calls For Expenditure Of Additional $900,000 A Year

Regularly elected representatives of the teaching forces of every county in Maryland, together with a number of county superintendents and school supervisors, were in conference last Friday at the State Normal School at Towson for discussion of the educational program for 1922-23, which has been prepared by the State Board of Education.

The program was submitted by State Superintendent Albert S. Cook, who presided at the conference. Superintendent Cook gave a general outline of the program, which calls for the expenditure of approximately $900,000 more for each of the next two years than for the last two. Part of this money is to go for salaries of teachers, part for the establishment of a more adequate supervisory system, part for the equalization of educational opportunities, so that a child in a poor county may get as good an education as a child in a rich county, and part for the improvement of the school plant.

There was a general discussion of the various phases of the program, how it would affect the respective counties and how the high schools would be developed. President Henry M. Fitzhugh and Clayton Purnell, of the State Board, took part in the discussions.

A committee, composed of one member of each county organization, will meet next Saturday in the office of the State Board to further discuss some details of the program.

Hero's Body Arrives From France

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wharton, of Crisfield, have been notified of the arrival at New York of the body of their son, George Alfred Wharton, who was killed in action in France while a member of Company C, One Hundred and Twelfth Machine Gun Battalion.

He joined Company I, Maryland National Guard, in 1915, serving on the Mexican border in 1916, and later was sent to Camp McClellan, Annapolis, Ala. He was killed near Verdun on October 22, 1918. Seeing a companion fall out in "No Man's Land," he left the barrier where he was one of a machine gun crew and brought in his wounded comrade, being wounded himself so seriously that death resulted within a few hours of his removal to a hospital. His comrade recovered and is now a resident of Baltimore.

Of the several Crisfield men who died in France while in the service the body of young Wharton, who had just passed his twenty-first birthday, is the second to reach home. It is expected that final interment will be made in the Soldiers' Memorial Cemetery, at Crisfield, which is in charge of Stanley L. Cochran Post, American Legion.

Ladies To Hold Supper

The ladies of Princess Anne will hold a community supper at the new fire house Thursday evening, April 14th. The supper is to be held for the benefit of the Princess Anne Volunteer Fire Department. Everybody invited for supper which will be served from 5 to 9 o'clock.

The menu follows: Chicken salad, fried oysters, cold sliced ham, Maryland biscuits, hot rolls, pickles, coffee, ice cream and cake extra.

Good Crop Of Berries Predicted

The farmers of this section are looking forward optimistically to the strawberry crop this spring.

The outlook at present is for an increase of about 50 per cent, over last year. It is thought that the strawberry will in a large measure take the place of the tomato in this section in the future, as the tomato was a failure as a money-maker last year, whereas the strawberry was unusually profitable as a crop, yielding the growers an average of 20 cents a quart.

"The Dancin' Fool"

Brains and jazzical feet aren't confined to Broadway. Wallace Reid proves it in "The Dancin' Fool," his latest Paramount Artcraft screen offering in which he will be seen at the Auditorium next Thursday night.

Wallace has the role of "Ves" Tibble, who comes to New York to learn the jug business under his crabbed Uncle Enoch. Circumstances lead him to a cabaret, where he makes a big discovery and enters upon a sensational career that he never dreamed of before.

April the 11th has been selected as the date for the special session of the Sixty-seventh Congress, the first to be held under President Harding's administration.

One Way To Attract Customers

In a small New England town I met a druggist who makes a specialty of selling postage stamps. He says that retailing two-cent stamps for two cents each is the most profitable line in his store. These sales would be extremely unprofitable if he handled stamps grudgingly or grudgingly, saying by his manner: "Whatta you mean by bothering me to sell you postage stamps?"

But he has signs in his window telling that he has plenty of stamps, and makes a special effort to be more pleasant and accommodating and gracious about a stamp sale than at any other time. He has attracted thousands of permanent customers in that way. "A new customer is worth many dollars a year," he observes, "whether the thing that first brought him in is postage stamps, cigars or whatnot. So having enticed him in, why should I do anything to make him sorry he came?"—Fred Kelly in The Nation's Business.

Income Collections Over Half Billion

Income and profits tax collections for the March 15 installment were estimated by Secretary Mellon last Thursday to aggregate $675,000,000. To the close of business March 22, $650,000,000 had actually been deposited from the collections, Mr. Mellon said.

Mr. Mellon estimated on this basis that total revenue from income and profits taxes for the fiscal year ending June 30 would aggregate $3,050,000,000. This amount, he said, was fully up to the Treasury expectations.

SOIL-TESTING WEEK APRIL 4TH

Maryland Farmers To Get Benefit Of Free Analysis Of Land

The week of April 4 has been designated as "Soil Testing Week" in Maryland by the soil department of the University of Maryland Experiment Station and by the county agents. During that period every farmer in the State will have an opportunity to secure a free soil analysis showing the lime requirements of any fields which he desires to have tested.

From the experiences of last year the specialists of the soil department are able to point out a number of rather common mistakes which farmers make in submitting soil samples. For instance, last year some samples were received packed in muslin bags from which the tags had been torn in the mail. To correct this the specialists recommend that the number of the field from which the sample is taken together with the sender's name and address be written on a slip of paper and inclosed with the soil.

Another rather common mistake is the packing of wet soil in paper bags or cardboard boxes. Specialists point out that this should never be done, and that the soil either should be dried or packed in tin cans or cloth bags. Specialists also suggest that if the soil is thoroughly mixed a half-pint is a sufficient quantity for testing.

The following directions should be taken in taking soil samples:

With a spade or shovel dig a square hole to the depth of about six inches, lay a piece of clean paper in the bottom of the hole and then shave a thin slice from one side of the hole, allowing the soil to fall on the paper. Lift the paper and soil slice from the hole and proceed to another place in the same field and repeat the operation.

If the field is small and fairly uniform two holes will be sufficient to give a representative sample, but if the field is large and uneven it will be better to secure samples from at least four different places. The samples thus secured from different places in the same field should then be mixed together, and from the mixture a half-pint of soil should be taken for the test. This may be taken to the county agricultural agent, or it may be sent by parcel post direct to the soils' department, Maryland Experiment Station, College Park, Maryland.

Washington College Appeal

Letters have just gone out to over a thousand of the alumni of Washington College, Chestertown, appealing for support for the Two Hundredth Anniversary Endowment Campaign. For some time there has been talk of such a campaign, but the organization has just been completed.

Mr. John I. Coulbourn, of Philadelphia, a graduate of Washington College in the class of 1897, has been appointed chairman of the campaign committee. Other members of the general committee are Dr. W. H. Toulson, of Baltimore; Mr. H. S. Brown, of New York; Senator W. F. Russell, of Chestertown, and Mr. Earl Withcott, of Easton. In addition to these there are advisory committees as follows: Of the board of visitors, Judge L. W. Wickes, S. Scott Beck, Esq., and Albert D. Mackey, Esq.; of the faculty, Dr. J. S. W. Jones and Dr. Clarence P. Gould, and of the student body, W. D. Gould, Jr.

The county has been divided into eighteen districts, in each of which there is a local chairman. Most of the alumni of Washington College are located in the counties on the Eastern Shore, in Baltimore city, in Philadelphia and in New York. These regions have been organized into rather small districts, while the whole of the north and west and the whole of the south are made into one district each.

Dr. M. Bates Stephens, recently State superintendent of schools, has been selected as executive secretary of the campaign.

The present campaign is to be worked mainly among the alumni of this old institution. It is expected that the alumni will raise $60,000 which will about cover the present indebtedness. This sum, it is hoped, will be subscribed before commencement day. After the debt is thus paid, a general campaign for endowment will be begun among all who are interested, or ought to be interested, in the cause of higher education on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

Judge Robert F. Duer, of Princess Anne, is a member of the sub-committee of finance of the Washington College Alumni Association for Somerset county.

CARDINAL GIBBONS LIFE ENDED

Death Came Peacefully To The Great Churchman Last Thursday

James Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop of Baltimore, and primate of the American Catholic hierarchy, died at the Archbishop's residence last Thursday after a prolonged illness, which mainly affected his heart. He was in his eighty-seventh year. The end came peacefully at 11.33 o'clock.

Beside the Cardinal's bed stood every member of his household, and when it was seen the prelate had passed away, the priests fell to their knees and began reciting the prayers for the dead.

The Cardinal suffered a breakdown last autumn, due to too close application to diocesan affairs, and in December went to the home of Robert T. Shriver, at Union Mills, Md., for a rest. He was taken seriously ill while there, and on two occasions his life was despaired of, but his strong constitution prevailed and he was able to return to his home in Baltimore on January 3. The Cardinal, who had been showing pronounced signs of improvement ever since his return home, suffered a relapse Palm Sunday evening, soon after returning from an automobile trip. The sudden change of weather, which brought unseasonably high temperatures, had a depressing effect upon him. His fainting spells returned, and when he was put to bed it was realized he probably never again would rise.

The Cardinal's life in brief:

1834, July 23—Cardinal Gibbons born in Baltimore.

1838—Taken to Ireland by his parents.

1851—Returned to Baltimore and entered St. Charles' College, Ellicott City.

1856—Entered St. Mary's Seminary to complete studies for the priesthood.

1861, June 30—Ordained to priesthood.

1863—Transferred from assistant priest at St. Patrick's Church, Baltimore, to pastor of St. Bridget's Church, Canton.

1866—Called to Cathedral as secretary of Archbishop Spalding.

1867—Took prominent part in Second Plenary Council at Baltimore.

1868, August 16—Consecrated Bishop of Adramythum, in Partibus Infidelium, and as vicar-general of North Carolina.

1872, October 20—Transferred to Richmond, Va., as Bishop of the Richmond Diocese.

1877, October 3—Bishop Gibbons succeeded Archbishop Bayley.

1878, February—Invested with the pallium and insignia of archiepiscopal dignity.

1883—Summoned to Rome to confer with Pope Leo XIII.

1884—Presided over the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore.

1886, June 30—Celebrated twenty-fifth anniversary of ordination to the priesthood, and formally invested a Cardinal.

1887—Sailed for Rome, and on March 17 received red hat from the Pope.

1887 to 1915—Crossed the Atlantic about 25 times.

1893—Went to Rome and took part in the election of Pope Pius X, being the first American Cardinal to take part in the election of a Pope.

1911, June 30—Occasion of fiftieth anniversary of ordination to the priesthood and twenty-fifth anniversary of elevation to the Cardinalate.

1914—Went to Rome to take part in the election of the successor to Pope Pius, but arrived after the Conclave had elected Pope Benedict.

1917-1918—Active in war work.

Negro Clears White Man

Several hundred persons crowded the courtroom at Salisbury, Monday of last week to hear the case of William Materson, white, and Nimrod Westcott, colored, both of Philadelphia, charged with breaking into a garage at Delmar and stealing an automobile.

The case was tried before the court, Judges Bailey and Duer sitting. Westcott pleaded guilty and exonerated the white man, testifying the latter had accompanied him to Delmar upon Westcott's invitation. Westcott said he had promised Materson he would teach him to drive the car on their way back to Philadelphia. The negro testified that Materson did not know that the car did not belong to himself.

Members of the bar declare that it is the first case in their knowledge where a negro has taken the stand and released the white man from responsibility. Materson was exonerated and released, while Westcott was sentenced to serve six years in the penitentiary.

Death Of Mrs. J. Fred Adams

Appold and Sarah Mackenzie Appold and is survived by her husband and one son, J. Frederick Adams, Jr., and by two sisters, Miss T. Alice Appold and Mrs. George S. Campbell.

ORDER COMING BACK SLOWLY IN CENTRAL EUROPE

Huge Problems of Reconstruction
Yet to Be Solved, but Progress Is Made.

WOUNDS OF WAR ARE HEALING

To Casual Observers Distress May Seem Incurable, but Not So to One of Long Experience—Signs of Returning Order.

Vienna.—What is the position of Central Europe? Are conditions so appalling that there is no hope? Are the gloomy tales of dark despair peeped unceasingly into the eager ears of travelers, who have an only too human inclination to hear the worst, an accurate reflection of the present state and a dependable forecast of the future?

These are questions which even the traveler must ask himself, and they must occur yet more pointedly to the mind of the public, confused as it cannot help being by the conflicting accounts of superficial and haphazard observers who have some special prejudice to support, who are willing to sacrifice homely truth to the making of a smart phrase, or who may be simply too strongly influenced by first impressions without the background of extended experience necessary to give them their comparative value.

Thousands in Want.

First impressions are always vivid and they may also be accurate. In so far as hasty glimpses into the life of Central and Eastern Europe tell a story of insufficient food and clothing, of lack of work, of the misery of homelessness and of the crudities of inexperience and ignorant governments, no false ideas are created. There can be no doubt of the immense need of hundreds of thousands of people, hungry and cold through no fault of their own, willing to work if they have the chance, victims, in short, of the great convulsion which tore Europe into discordant parts as spring bursts the smooth, solid ice of rivers into ragged, crunching cakes.

Humanitarian considerations and the general good of the world demand that these people should be succored. It is abhorrent to civilization that people in one part of the world should wallow in plenty at the same moment that those in another part starve. It is dangerous to let a sore fester when it may be cured by prompt and intelligent treatment. So the enlightened world, in spite of stupid and cynical criticism, will help these people and will aid with special willingness the children and youth in whom lies the possibility of higher purpose and nobler aims than have actuated their elders, who are still linked to the cankered past.

But to the listening world there seems to come from these countries only an unvarying wail and it wishes to know if this is to be without change to the end of time. There is such a thing as becoming weary in well-doing.

Long, Close Observation.

I have had some opportunity to make comparisons and note changes, and I feel that I am in a position to answer, partly at least, some of the questions propounded at the beginning of this article, says a correspondent of the New York World. I first went into the Central European region two years ago, only a few months after the armistice, and I have either resided in or made trips to the various countries at intervals ever since. I have talked with travelers who were seeing conditions for the first time, and I have noted the reactions and judgments they have formed. Their value has depended on the intelligence and character of the observer himself. The conclusions have run through the scale from flippant exaggeration by sensation mongers of non-typical instances to the mature reflections of conscientious writers. Yet throughout the reports of all these touring chroniclers, different as they may be in personality, there runs a note of incurable wretchedness—a tableau of chaos from which no order can ever come.

This is a very natural result, for in Austria and Hungary and Germany one hears nothing from a certain class but the reiterated parrot-cry: "An impossible situation; it cannot last." One's ears are assailed with complaints about the "unjust and crushing peace" and "the fools at Paris," and the absurdities of the new nations created. The transient, hearing such talk and seeing the misery everywhere apparent, cannot well help assimilating some of the hopelessness, but if his view had been longer he would be able to put such things in true perspective. He is too close to the picture; it must be viewed in the light of years and there progress is visible.

Few Trains and Slow.

When I first went into Vienna in the early spring of 1919 I rode in on a freight train from Trieste. The train was carrying food and was guarded by American sailors. It was the only kind of train running from that direction. The only other train from any direction was a military train from Paris through Vienna to Warsaw three times a week, which was inaccessible to any but officials and persons willing to pay exorbitant bribes. Trains in every direction were practically non-existent. Railroad stations were deserted. The long, empty passenger platforms and untenanted waiting rooms seemed like remnants of a civilization which had passed.

When a train ran semi-occasionally from Vienna to Budapest the time of transit was indefinite. The train movements accorded with the vagaries of the crew. Passengers simply took a chance. They trusted themselves to the train much as they would to a life raft, hoping for the best but fearing the worst.

One train, I recall, which left Budapest took four days to reach Vienna—130 miles distant. It stopped on the prairie, it halted at whistling posts, it stopped anywhere when it got tired. There was no food aboard, and passengers bartered socks, shoes and clothing to the peasants for bread and meat, as paper money was not acceptable.

There was no railroad train to Czechoslovakia for a long time and no communication by boat along the Danube. When traffic did begin spasmodically, savage customs officials met travelers at the frontiers and treated them to bodily search for money and valuables, herding them like cattle and hurling their luggage violently about.

In Germany railroad traffic was better, but there were few trains and no through service. Such trains as did run were shamefully crowded. They were unheated and sometimes even unlighted. It was only about a year ago that one of the infrequent trains which left Vienna in the direction of Switzerland had accommodations for 350, but 800 or more crowded into it. People were jammed into it like cattle being shipped to the packing house. In fact, everywhere throughout Central Europe traveling, when possible at all, meant delay, discomfort and peril.

Improvement Is Marked.

Such was the situation in 1919, but now the improvement, which has been gradual and imperceptible perhaps to persons of a single experience, is marked. Clean, comfortable trains with dining car service run between Budapest and Vienna in about five hours; there is a through train to Berlin by way of Prague in fifteen and a half hours and other through trains with sleeping cars to Rome, Trieste and Warsaw. One has the choice of two direct routes from London to Vienna and Vienna to London by way of either Calais or Ostend. The traveler to England can even take a day coach in Vienna and not be compelled to leave it until he has to board the channel boat.

In Berlin, city ticket offices which were closed not so long ago will now sell tickets through to London, to Paris, to Rome, to Vienna or to Warsaw. A train which leaves Berlin at eight in the morning will put you into London next morning at 10:30, by way of the Hook of Holland. German sleeping accommodations, with two persons in a compartment, which were eagerly sought not long ago (and did not exist at all immediately following the armistice) are now regarded as second-class. A first class ticket calls for a whole compartment, the upper berth being unused.

There still remain imbeddicities of customs inspections and occasional rudeness; there is the annoyance of having to buy new tickets at some frontiers in the money of the country entered and there is the surprise of having Polish money refused for a fare on a train in Polish territory, but everywhere there has been amelioration of the disorganization which followed the armistice and a tending toward the normal.

If one is not too exacting or petulant he may now travel over Europe in comfort. And amazingly cheaply by American standards. Two persons who recently journeyed from London to Vienna, to Budapest, back to Vienna, to Prague, to Warsaw, to Danzig, to Berlin and to London, accomplished the trip of a month's duration at an expense for both, including hotel bills, of approximately $350.

If traffic and transportation conditions are slowly becoming better, so too are political relations improving. People who two years ago, or even one year ago, were abusing and threatening one another, have subsided into a more moderate mood. As they become a little busier they have not so much time to snarl and hate.

Signs of Returning Order.

These are some of the symptoms of order gradually, very gradually, re-establishing itself. There are still huge problems of reconstruction that must be met, difficult adjustments that must be made. There will certainly be more minor eruptions before there is a settling down, but there must be a beginning of all things, and comparing the present with what existed in the very near past, one cannot fail to remark a tangible structure emerging out of the general wreckage.

The thoughtless, who expected that the dislocations of war would be as easily remedied as washing the grime from one's hands, betray ignorance of the duration of natural processes, and the Jeremiahs whose mouths are filled with lamentation take so much joy in bemoaning the glittering shell of a dead tyranny that they fail to note the hesitating beginnings of a new freedom.

Find Old Spectacles.

Salina, Kan.—A pair of old spectacles, believed to have been lost by a Swede pioneer when this country first was settled, were found a few days ago by J. M. Spencer, near Smolan. The spectacles will be given to the Kansas State Historical society. They have double lenses. They probably were made 50 years ago.

MEN OF IMMORTAL MEMORY

Many of the Works of the Greek Philosophers, Plato and Aristotle, Are Still Preserved.

Plato (427-347 B. C.), the celebrated Greek philosopher, taught that the true source of knowledge is the reason, observes an exchange. According to his teaching, we come to consciousness through innate ideas developed by contact with the outer world through senses. He distinguished between empirical knowledge and reason, and divided philosophy into logic, metaphysics and morals. He was the first to attempt the construction of philosophic language; to develop an abstract idea of knowledge and science; to state logically the properties of matter, form, substance, accident, cause and effect, reality and appearance; to describe the divinity as a being essentially good, and tell of his moral attributes. He taught that matter is an eternal and infinite principle; that God is the supreme intelligence, incorporeal, without beginning, end or change, and that the soul of man is immortal. Aristotle (384-322 B. C.), another celebrated Greek philosopher, was the pupil of Plato and the teacher of Alexander the Great. He makes logic the instrument by which all general knowledge is obtained. He enlarged the limits of philosophy to include all sciences except history. He taught that nature is a machine, active through deity or a first cause.

Ordered Maypole Cut Down.

John Endicott was the Puritan who caused a Maypole at Salem, Mass., to be cut down. Sent to Salem by a settlement company, Endicott displayed his stern opposition to all "vain amusements" by cutting down a Maypole, which had been put up by an earlier settlement attempted at Cape Ann by Rev. John White, who had been rector of Trinity church, Rochester, England. Endicott named the place Salem, the Hebrew word for "peaceful," and lectured the people on the folly of amusements. He was a most rigid Puritan in thought and manner. Endicott was commissioned governor of the colony.

Set Out Hedge Plants.

There are few homes that could not be made more attractive by a frame setting of hedge plants, not necessarily a tall-growing hedge that would inclose the grounds, but a low-growing one to mark the boundary of the home grounds and add a certain amount of privacy.

FEW EARTHQUAKES IN 1920

But More Destruction Resulted Than in Previous Years, Says
Professor Toudorf.

Washington.—There were fewer earthquakes in the United States and throughout the world last year than in 1919, but those of a destructive character were more numerous and there also was much more volcanic activity.

Records compiled by Prof. Francis A. Toudorf, director of the seismological observatory and head of the department of geology of Georgetown university here, show 93 earthquakes were felt in the United States, compared with 97 in 1919, while reports from all parts of the world show 161 quakes were reported, as compared with 468 in 1919.

Eleven of the earthquakes last year resulted in destruction of life or property, while in the previous year only seven caused losses. The most destructive during 1920 were those at Mendoza, Argentina, and the Tepic district of Mexico, both of which occurred in December, and those reported from Mexico City and Vera Cruz, Mexico; Minas Geraes, Brazil; the island of Yap, in the Pacific ocean; Cadix, Spain; the island of Formosa, the island of Malta, Japan, Fivizzano and Giarre, Italy, and Grenada, Spain. California reported the largest number of earth tremors of any locality in the United States, in 1920, with a total of 62, while in 1919 California reported 80. The Georgetown seismographs recorded 82 quakes during the year. Some of the earthquakes reported in the United States resulted in loss of life or extensive destruction of property.

In addition to California's 62, five were felt in Utah, three each in Washington, Oregon, Missouri, Illinois and Colorado; two each in Maine, Tennessee and South Dakota, and one each in Wyoming, New Hampshire, Montana, Virginia and South Carolina.

SEEK TO RECOVER OIL NOW WASTED

Bureau of Mines Survey in California Shows 2,359,100 Barrels Could Be Saved.

WOULD BE WORTH $3,500,000

One Company Says Loss Between Well and Storage Tank Is 40,000 Barrels Monthly—Oil Lost in Seepage Along the Ditches.

Washington.—The great demand for petroleum, resulting chiefly from the increase of oil-burning devices and motor-driven vehicles, forces producers to take advantage of every opportunity to increase its production by seeking new sources of supply, and what is more important, to use new methods for saving more of the oil brought to the surface than has been retained heretofore. As in other kinds of mining, it is thought possible that a large additional recovery can be obtained at a profit by working over the wastes in certain fields and by using more economical methods of production in the future, says A. R. Elliott, assistant petroleum engineer, bureau of mines.

A survey of the oil districts of California was made by the bureau in order to ascertain whether the visible masses of wasted oil-bearing sands would be a profitable source of supply. From the data collected it is estimated that 2,359,100 barrels of oil valued at more than $3,500,000, could be obtained from the sandpiles about producing wells and from the outcroppings in the vicinity of the fields. Also, many times that amount of oil scattered over nearly the total oil-producing area might be recovered from seepage.

Wasted Through Seepage.

A paper issued by the bureau of mines in 1914 said: "It is probable that 10 or 15 per cent of the total gross production of the state has been wasted through seepage or evaporation." This represents a loss of 15,000,000 barrels of oil yearly. Probably one-quarter to one-half of this amount seeps into the ground.

As a possible means of recovering a large amount of oil from these wastes, the following should be considered, says Mr. Elliott: (1) Recovering oil left in the sand that it produced with the oil; (2) reclaiming the oil that seeps into the ground through waste in production; and (3) mining and treating the material in oil-bearing outcrops and asphalt beds that occur in certain sections of the state.

In the early days of a productive field, the rush of gas into a new well frequently sucks oil and sand with it in large quantities. Oftentimes adequate means of holding in the well are not available, and the oil is permitted to flow "wild" until the gas pressure diminishes enough to enable controlling the well. This may require days or even months, says Mr. Elliott. There being no commercial use for this oil-saturated sand, it is removed from the immediate vicinity of the well or otherwise disposed of as valueless.

Throughout many of the oil districts of California, particularly in the San Joaquin valley, a noticeable feature is the large cone-shaped mounds near each of the wells where sand is produced with the oil.

Sand Rises With Oil.

In wells where the sand is loose and fine-grained and agitated by a high gas pressure, naturally a greater amount rises to the surface with the oil. In the Sunset field, wells with high gas pressure have produced more than 5,100 tons of sand in two to four years, representing nearly two-thirds of their gross production. In the Midway field there is a well producing about 500 tons a month and wells near it with an output nearly as large. In the Kerne River and West Side Coal-lings fields the oil is of heavy gravity and, with the aid of an agitator such as air, large amounts of sand are lifted to the surface. Each well yields ten to twenty-five barrels of oil daily; the proportion of sand carried with it varies between 20 and 60 per cent, and probably averages 40 per cent of the gross production. The amount of sand per well, because of the small oil production, is small, but owing to the great number of wells in these districts the aggregate amount is large.

Where wells produce only a small amount of sand the so-called sand boxes are frequently used. The sand box is a long, narrow, open trough closed at the ends and fitted with baffles running crosswise to the flow. The oil flows slowly over the sharp baffles, the sand and emulsion settle to the bottom of the box and are shoveled out as often as necessary.

Also in the districts that produce heavy gravity oils, a convenient way of separating the sand and oil is to permit the oil to flow through long open ditches to reservoirs, where the free oil is removed by a suction pump. Evidently, great quantities of oil can be wasted through seepage along the ditches and around the reservoir. If some accurate method could be used to compare the amount of oil as it came from the well with the amount actually recovered, the difference would be surprisingly large. It is reported that the loss between the well and the field storage tank of one large producing company is approximately 40,000 barrels a month. Other companies report a proportionate amount.

NEW THEORY IN ASTRONOMY

Possibility That There is a Tail Attached to Our Earth Leads to Ingenious Suggestions.

Opposite to the sun there is a very mysterious glowing patch, which is thought to be attached to the earth as a cometlike tail.

The highest regions of our atmosphere consist of very light gases, and the impression is that some of these were driven away by the sun or by other means, and that they stream off from the earth into space just as the light gases do from the head of a large comet.

Naturally, this theory has aroused much controversy, and has led to all sorts of ingenious suggestions. One of these is that a swarm of meteors (of the kind we know as shooting stars) keeps us company through space at a distance of about a million miles, or four times the distance of the moon. But a tailed earth is an ideal vehicle for imaginative flights.

It might be argued that if our globe has a tail why should not the planets Mercury and Venus, and even Mars, have one. Well, perhaps they have, for all we know to the contrary. Our earth's tail would be much more easily seen by us because of its nearness and brightness.

Soft Beds in Ancient Days.

According to Athenaeus, effeminate gentlemen in ancient Greece sometimes slept on beds of sponge. Fashionable people in Athens slept under coverlets of dressed peacock skins, with the feathers on. Clearchus, the author of a treatise on sleep, described the bed of a Paphian prince in such a way that it is difficult to keep awake while reading it. "Over the soft mattresses," he writes "was flung an expensive short-grained Sardinian carpet. A coverlet of down texture succeeded, and upon this was cast a costly counterpane of Amorginian purple. Cushions variegated with the richest purple supported his head, while two soft Dorian pillows of pale pink gently raised his feet."

Democratic Cigar Names.

The nomenclature of the cigar trade is one of the very interesting phases of democracy, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. No agent intent upon building up a market for a 10 cent cigar ever named it for a statesman. He complimented, instead, an actor, a philanthropist, a race horse, a hypothetical Indian maiden or a supposititious Spanish grandee. To have named a 10 cent cigar for a statesman would have been to "queer" both the cigar and its involuntary patron. The people would not have stood for that sort of thing. It would have presumed a certain superiority which they would have rebuked both at the cigar stand and at the polls.

Cure for Flat Feet.

Are you flat-footed? If you don't know, the next time you take a bath, observe the impressions that your wet feet make. If your feet are normal, there will be a narrow line from heel to toe on the outside; if they are flat, the entire bottom of the foot will show.

How can you cure flat-footedness? Buy a handful of marbles, place them in two rows, and start picking them up with your toes. To do this you must curl up your toes; as a result the muscles of the feet will be exercised and thereby strengthened.—Popular Science Monthly.

Works of Art, Stolen by German Army, Reappear

London.—Numerous works of art, heirlooms and jewels stolen during the war by the Germans in occupied territory are gradually coming to light and in many cases finding their way back to their owners. The Rumanian papers publish the story of a cache of stolen works of art which the police have found in the Transylvania home of the father of a onetime Hungarian officer.

Ninety-two well known paintings, eight vases and two onyx clocks were found at the home of a mine manager, who said they had been given him by his son on his return from the war. The son was an officer in the Hungarian artillery, and had fought on the Cambrai front.

The objects d'art were found to have been taken from the chateau of the Prince de Chimay, near Cambrai, and were returned to their owner. Some of the pictures, including works of Joseph Berger, Millet and Van der Helst had been hacked out of their frames and badly damaged.

MELONS WEIGH 110 POUNDS

Grow to Mammoth Size in Egypt, According to United States Consular Report.

Washington.—One hundred and ten pound watermelons! They have 'em in Egypt. Consular reports say so, and consuls never err. But they keep 'em all at home. There is no export business.

The consul at Alexandria noted the melons in the market there, "all weighing from ten to 110 pounds and varying in price from 30 cents to $1.50."

He also noted that, while they were just "watahmellons," they had been given funny names, such as "battikh" and "nims" and "yaffawi," and that only two melons grow to the plant.

Long Chain of Family Grandmothers Broken

Arkadelphia, Ark.—A chain of grandmothers without parallel, in this section, at least, has been broken by the passing of Mrs. Emeline Eliza Riles, 82.

Before her death, two small children of Mrs. Eliza Hanson, her great-granddaughter, had six living grandmothers of whom two were great-great-grandmothers, two were great-grandmothers and two were just plain grandmothers. The oldest of the Hanson children is 34 years of age. Thus there were at one time five living generations with less than seventy-two years separating the youngest from the eldest.

The Hanson children had beside their six grandmothers, nine uncles, four great uncles, two great-great uncles, four great aunts, two great-great aunts and forty second cousins, but no first cousins.

THE SIMPLE HOME
The American people have always been pleased to think that their great President Abraham Lincoln once lived in a log cabin. It also pleases them that President Harding dwelt for a time in a simple little story and a-half cottage. It was so small that it had only two windows in its frontage, one on the first floor and one in the gable above. Just about the same little kind of shack that many plain people use now at rustic summer resorts.

A public man gains no added virtue from this plain start. But the fact that so many have risen from these simple beginnings prove that democracy is a real thing in this country. A great many of the men who were born in handsome homes have come out find fellows who have been simple and unostentatious. But it is a safeguard of our institutions that so many of our public men have climbed from small beginnings. They know what it is to work for a foothold in life. Their experience will make them sympathetic with struggling people.

ROMANCE OF THE LIVERY STABLE
Farmers who drive horses are complaining that in some towns there is no longer any livery stable where they can put up their old nag when they drive in. The time was when a livery stable was a great social institution. When young men wished to win the favor of the belles of the town the first thing was to invite them for a Sunday afternoon or evening drive.

In many moderate sized towns there would be several stables, each of which would have 50 or 60 horses champing away and switching their tails while waiting for some amorous swain or commercial traveler who might desire their services. A fellow who wanted to take his best girl out on a Sunday afternoon needed to speak for a beast at least a week ahead.

The present is sometimes called a horseless age. But a great many more horses are being used than some people think. The Ohio census of 1920, for instance, showed 810,692 of them on the farms of that state alone, not counting those used in cities and towns for trucking and pleasure purposes. Old Dobbin is not dead yet. Breeders and dealers are confident that horses are more effective at certain kinds of work than any automotive machine can be. Your best girl may want an automobile now and the Johnny on the spot salesman will perhaps demand the gas buggy. Some livery stables have been changed into garages. Others still flourish and enjoy reminiscences of the old days. They still serve as hangouts for those who enjoy good horseflesh and like to hear the cheerful stamp and merry whinny of a barnful of steeds. The horse served man faithfully for 5000 years before Henry Ford appeared on this planet.

WHY FREIGHTS ARE HIGH
A bulletin from the association of railroad executives shows some reasons why freights are high. It cites as an instance the case where a "nozzle tip" had to be changed in front of a locomotive. A boiler maker and his helper have to be summoned to open the door, because that is a boiler maker's work. A pipe man and helper have to be called to remove the boiler pipe, because that is a pipeman's work, and a machinist and his helper have to be called to remove the tip, because that is a machinist's work. It takes six men to do what formerly one man could do.

A multitude of abuses like this have grown up as the result of conditions during the war. They are brought about by the so-called "national agreements." The railroad workers have forced the roads to run in a very costly way. It has seemed in many cases that the effort was to make the work cost as much as possible.

On a certain road, for instance, the fireman makes a run of 165 miles in four hours. He lays off for a time, then fires another engine back and gets $10.90 for each run or $21.80 in all. Three runs a week, involving only 24 hours of actual running time, gives him $65.40 for the week. The rules for payment for overtime and overmiles are so arranged as to give him this liberal pay for a short week.

It does not need to be argued that such rates are far above what a man can earn in other lines of employment requiring similar ability. It is not surprising that the cost of operating the railroads is tremendous under these arrangements and that the roads have to charge very high freight and passenger rates. Even under these rates, most of the roads are not making much of anything above operating expenses. High railroad rates are a big element in the high cost of living. They will continue to be high so long as they are controlled by such extravagant working rules and so long as so many men can earn far more than they could secure in other employment.

GETTING BACK WHERE THEY BELONG
The United States Employment Service reports some relief in the housing shortage, owing to the exodus of unemployed people from the towns where they had crowded in.

In some states there have been as many as 20,000 to 30,000 farm houses vacant. Meanwhile in some cities in those States there would be a great demand for tenements and people would be badly crowded. If some of the congested workers in the big cities would get out and occupy the empty farm houses and cultivate land, some of the housing shortage would be relieved.

Many people make a mistake when they move around from one place to another in response to an offer of higher pay. If they are getting into an industry where there is a permanent chance of advancement they are justified. But shifting around for a mere temporary boom almost never pays. There are removal bills to settle and the worker is apt to drift back where he came from.

NEGLECT AND POVERTY
Many people who complain bitterly of the hardness of the times are the same ones who carelessly permit tools and household equipment to run down. Among the farmers who find fault with the government for not helping them are those who leave their tools and machinery to stand outdoors in all weathers and degenerate from rust. It would only take a few minutes longer, when they have finished with a machine, to put it under cover. The case was noted the other day of a man who complained because he could find no work to do. Yet some one who was calling at the house noticed that the screen doors were left hanging in the winter weather and in a rusty condition. This man at least could have removed his screens and by painting them could save a large bill another summer.

While much poverty is caused by misfortune, a large share of it is due to neglect, carelessness and indolence.

BACK TO SCHOOL
It has been one of the gains of a period of unemployment and falling wages that it has sent a lot of boys and girls back to school. The 1919-1920 period was a bad time for education. It was hard to keep a pupil in school when by entering a factory he might earn more than his teacher could. This disparity gave him a contempt for education. "Why study books when the manual worker gets as much pay as a college professor," was a remark frequently heard.

The future of the country depends upon the intelligence of the people. The boys and girls who leave school early will acquire no civic or community spirit, they will have no sound judgment. The economic change that reduces their pay or throws them out of work will be a blessing in disguise to those whom it persuades to go back to school.

No. 3—All that tract of land in Westover district, said county and state, adjoining the lands of Arnold Bros., Benjamin Kelley, J. S. Rue and C. Dixon, and assessed to Benjamin S. Lankford for the years of 1917 and 1918.

Order of Publication
CLARENCE P. LANKFORD, Solicitor
H. Fillmore Lankford vs. Cornelia Maddox, Ethel Maddox and others.

No. 3455 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Somerset County.
The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate in the town of Princess Anne, Maryland, of which Lazarus Maddox, late of said county, died seized.

The bill states that at the time of his death the said Lazarus Maddox was seized of a parcel of land in said town, bounded on the north by Antioch avenue, on the east by Church street, on the south by the land of John W. Brinkwell and west by the land of Lottie Justice; that the said Lazarus Maddox died intestate, many years ago, leaving as his only heirs-at-law, his two sons, named children: Lazarus Maddox, a son, who intermarried with Emma Maddox; Lottie Justice, a daughter, who intermarried with John Justice; Maria Waters, a daughter, who intermarried with Anthony B. Waters; and Frederick Maddox, a son, who intermarried with Cornelia Maddox; that the said Frederick Maddox has since died intestate, leaving surviving him his widow, Cornelia Maddox, and the following named children: Ethel Maddox, Addie Maddox, Cora Maddox, Edith Maddox, and Edith Maddox, his only heirs at law; that by deed dated the 27th day of January, 1917, in which Emma Maddox, the wife of Lazarus Maddox, the son, did not join, the said Lottie Justice and John Justice, her husband, and Lazarus Maddox, the son, conveyed to the plaintiff all their interest and estate in said parcel of land; that by deed dated the 19th day of March, 1908, the said Maria Waters and Anthony B. Waters, her husband, conveyed to the plaintiff all their interest and estate in said parcel of land; that said parcel of land is now vested in the plaintiff and the widow and heirs-at-law of the said Frederick Maddox, in the following proportions, three-fourths in the plaintiff and one-fourth in the said widow and heirs-at-law; that the said Ethel Maddox, Addie Maddox, Cora Maddox, Edith Maddox, and Edith Maddox, are infants under the age of twenty-one years; that the said Cornelia Maddox, Edith Maddox, Addie Maddox, Cora Maddox, Edith Maddox, and Edith Maddox, are non-residents of the State of Maryland; that said parcel of land is not susceptible of partition among the persons entitled to interest therein, without material loss and injury to them, and that in order to make division of said interests it will be necessary that said real estate be sold and the proceeds divided among the persons interested therein in proportion to their respective interests.

It is thereupon the 25th day of February, 1921, ordered by the subscriber, Clerk of the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be served in some newspaper published in Somerset county once in each of four successive weeks before the 30th day of March, 1921, give notice to the said absent and non-resident defendants of the object and substance of the bill, warning them and each of them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 16th day of April, 1921, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

A moving picture serial star not only has to be fearless, he also has to have a cool head and a quiet wit. No matter how unafraid an actor may be, he cannot hope to blunder his way through every stunt. A keen mind was all that saved Eddie Polo from being killed while making the third episode of his serial, "King of the Circus." He rolled over a cliff seated in a small wagon. He had to jump so as to land on a small ledge a few feet below the brow of the cliff. A fraction of a second in making the decision to jump meant life or death. Polo did it, but it gave him a cold sweat. The stunt can be seen at the Auditorium next Saturday night.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

ONE OF LEGION'S FOUNDERS

Walter H. A. Coleman, Adjutant London Post, No. 1, Organized Body in British Capital.

Although he is thousands of miles from National Headquarters, Walter H. A. Coleman, adjutant of London Post No. 1 of the American Legion, is in close touch with the entire Legion program. Mr. Coleman was one of the founders of the Legion at its first caucus in Paris and organized the post in the British capital.

Born in Philadelphia, Pa., Mr. Coleman was educated in private schools in that city and in New York. During his business experience in various departments of the Pennsylvania railroad, he lived in Philadelphia, New York City, Albany, N. Y., Indianapolis, Ind., and Bethlehem, Pa.

During the war Mr. Coleman served in the American Destroyer Flotilla, which had its base at Queenstown, Ireland. Since the war he has been connected with the United States Embassy in London.

London Post of the Legion took a leading part in decorating the graves of American soldiers buried in England Memorial Day, 1920.

HAS HUSTLING LABOR BUREAU

Nashville, Tenn., Post Tackles Hard Problem and Makes Most Efficient Showing.

In accordance with the general activity of American Legion posts in meeting the unemployment crisis as it affects the ex-service man, Nashville, Tenn., Post has tackled the situation with a considerable degree of Argonne enthusiasm.

An employment bureau has been established in charge of a Legion member, who devotes his full time to it. Both job applicants and employers seeking men are listed in a card index according to their abilities and needs.

When a man applies at the Legion headquarters for a job, he is required to fill out a blank giving the following information: Name, address, place of birth, married or single; if he is an ex-service man, if he has dependents, special training and schools attended, with the extent of the education gained.

Trade test questions are: "Can you speak any foreign language?" "Do you understand card-index system?" "Can you operate a switchboard?" "Can you use a typewriter efficiently?" "Are you good at figures?" "Can you run an automobile or truck?"

Trades included in the list of job applicants for one day were electrician, druggist, salesman, accounting clerk, bookkeeper, draftsman, insurance salesman, machinist and mattress maker.

When the job seeker has filed his application, he is given a card to show that he has registered with the Legion bureau. When he is sent to an employer in response to a call, he is given a card of introduction stating that he is sent by the Legion bureau. His original application, together with the secretary's endorsement or estimate of the man, is forwarded to the prospective employer.

By arrangement with the negro post of the Legion, the employment bureau is able to answer calls for negro labor, applicants for work being listed with the negro secretary.

The work of the employment bureau is supported by funds available in the Legion treasury from a post show given last year. Another entertainment will be given soon to raise money for further operation of the bureau.

STATE JOBS FOR VETERANS

Chairman Woman's Auxiliary Committee of New York Asserts World War Men Should Be Honored.

"If any class is favored in handing out state jobs it should be the veterans of the World War."

The speaker was Miss Ray C. Sawyer, chairman of the Women's Auxiliary Committee of the New York Department of the American Legion. Her audience was composed of members of the New York Assembly Judiciary committee. Miss Sawyer spoke before the committee in behalf of a bill to give preference to veterans in civil service employment in New York. The bill was backed by the New York Legion organization.

CONGRESS HEARS DRAMATIC PLEA FROM FILIPINO

Philippine Resident Commissioner Isuro Gabaldon

Washington. — "Must the heart of America beat only for the freedom of Ireland, of Poland and of the Czechoslovakians, and not for the independence of the Philippine Islands?"

This was the question Resident Commissioner Isuro Gabaldon of the Philippines addressed directly to the membership of the House of Representatives in a speech which was given very close attention and was frequently applauded.

"At one time," said Commissioner Gabaldon, "Congress had before it no less than thirty resolutions expressing sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people, if not actually urging England to grant independence to Ireland. At that time, also the Philippines were knocking at your door. Out of the womb of war, many European republics were born, and America has rejoiced to uphold the same. And yet the claim of the Philippines is still unheeded. Must there be exceptions, then, in international justice?"

"My plea, gentlemen of the American Congress, is that you ignore no longer the repeated requests of a deserving people for an independence that rightfully belongs to them. The granting of independence now affords the United States a golden opportunity to give to the world an unanswerable proof of its sincerity, its consistency and its altruism. It will be the greatest example of square dealing in the history of the ages."

"Do not think we are not appreciative of all you have done for us. We are. America has truly treated the Filipino people as no other nation has ever treated an alien race in all history. The high points of the American policy in the Philippines have been consistently inspired by altruism. We know that you were actuated in your labors by the desire to contribute to our own welfare."

"And we love you perhaps most of all for your solemn promise to grant us that which we hold dearer than life itself—our freedom. Independence is our national ideal. It is our all-absorbing aim. It grows stronger every hour. For the spirit of nationalism never dies. Much less can it be subdued. We believe that we can never hope to be a sturdy nation if we are to rely forever on the magnanimity of the United States."

"America's task in the Philippine Islands is finished. What you have assumed as your sacred obligation in that part of the world has been fulfilled. A people with a medieval system of institutions has been transformed into a conscious nation, imbued with all that is modern in the activities of nations. And if you give us independence our gratitude to you will increase a thousand fold; it will last forever if you keep faith with us."

"There is but one issue in the Philippine question, and that is: Is there today a stable government on the Islands? In the Jones law you promised independence upon the establishment of such a stable government. Your own Governor-General has officially reported that there is a stable government in existence today, and we also have submitted plenty of evidence to substantiate its existence. Therefore, we hope and expect America will now carry out its pledge."

This Filipino is making a Philippine hat, which is becoming quite popular with both men and women in the United States, and is usually a source of great pride to the wearer.

FILIPINO INDEPENDENCE, BUT NO GUARANTY

Pepito-Mangan Builds Up Energy That Fatigue Destroys

When you overwork, worry and strain, your system has extra work to do. If you keep it up very long, your blood simply cannot take care of all the waste. It becomes clogged with poisons.

You keep on working just the same. But when your blood becomes weakened your vitality lowers. You find it a burden to get things done. Your speed lags. You begin to feel "all in."

Then is the time to take that splendid tonic, Pepito-Mangan. Your blood needs enriching. Physicians recommend Pepito-Mangan because it builds red corpuscles and makes your blood rich and red. It cleans out all the poisons. You begin to feel better and stronger right away. It is much easier to get work done. You have renewed vitality.

Pepito-Mangan is sold in liquid and tablet form. The medicinal value is exactly the same. Take either kind you prefer. But be sure you get the genuine Pepito-Mangan—the name "Gude's" should be on the package.—Advertisement.

CATFISH CLIMB SMOOTH WALL

Certain Species Equipped With a Peculiar Suction Apparatus That Makes Fast Really Easy.

An interesting account of the climbing catfish of Colombia (Araus morosus) was published a few years ago by R. D. O. Johnson. These fish can climb, by means of suction apparatus, not only up the steeply-inclined bed of mountain torrent, but even up a smooth, vertical surface. Mr. Johnson saw some of them climb a vertical distance of 18 feet in half an hour, up a wall of rock over which trickled a thin film of water.

In connection with a recent publication of this article, G. K. Noble states that other species of fish are known to climb in the same manner. Several of these occur in the Himalaya. Nemachilus rupicola, and perhaps other species of mountain cyprinids, adhere to the rocks by means of their smooth ventral skin and enlarged lips. The silurid genera Pseudocheneis and Glyptosternum cling by means of a well-developed abdominal sucker.

The mountain torrents of the Himalaya form the nursery for many species of frogs. Their tadpoles, like the fish, have become adapted to their location; some cling by means of their lips and ventral musculature, while others possess a well-developed ventral sucker.—Scientific American.

How It Looks to One Pair of Eyes.

It is delightful to think how new everything is, spite of description. Never believe . . . that there is an old world. There is no such place, on my honor! You will find England, France, Italy, and the East, after all you have read and heard, as altogether new as if they were created by your eye, and were never sung, painted, nor bewitched—you will indeed. Why—to be sure—what were the world else? . . . Pen and ink cannot take the gloss off your eyes, nor can any man look through them as you do. I do not believe the simplest matter—sunshine or verdure—has exactly the same look to any two people in the world. How much less a human face—a landscape—a broad kingdom? Travelers are very pleasant people. They tell you what picture was produced in their brain by the things they saw. . . . How it looks to one pair of eyes; would be a good reminder pencilled on the margin of many a volume.—N. Parker Willis in Rural Letters.

"Land of the Mind." A French author once coined the phrase: "The land of the mind."

It is a realm that many of us have forgotten. There the imagery is real; there death is unknown, and the only riches are men's thoughts.

With every age it grows in splendor. Dickens, Milton, Shakespeare, Hugo—these and countless others have left their all for those who travel there.

The demands of existence have blinded some of us to the joys that lie in such travels. As children we roamed the fields of imagination, but now we believe only in the material.

Yet we call ourselves wise. The dreary nights of winter are ahead. Why not cheat them of their dreariness, and on the wings of literature journey to the Land of the Mind?—Portland Oregonian.

NO SUBSTANCE TO DREAMS

Writer Gives Reasons for Her Refusal to Have Any Belief in Common Superstitions.

The mind during sleep reminds me of a naughty child, writes Marion Holmes in the Chicago Daily News. With a normal person during waking hours reason controls it and when it seems inclined to let loose a foolish train of thought rebukes it with "Nonsense! behave yourself!" But when reason goes to sleep the mind has seasons of wild capering. It makes you do things that when awake would scorch you with blushes. It causes you to go to church dressed in your very best except your shoes and stockings, which you find you have left at home. It makes you marry a dark man with big black whiskers when you already have a perfectly satisfactory husband who is blond and smooth faced. There is nothing that it will not do uncontrolled by reason. Therefore I never have had much faith in the prophetic quality of dreams, although there are persons who pin their faith to those so-called warnings. We have heard them say. "I dreamed last night that I had lost a tooth. That means bad news," or "I dreamed of walking among ruined buildings. That means that somebody in the family is going to be ill," and, like fortune telling, the predictions that do not "make good" are forgotten.

A recurrent dream is of no importance. I have known the same stage setting with its incidents to be presented over and over in sleeping visions without ever reaching its counterpart in reality. An uncomfortable position during sleep, or the fact that you are not feeling well often occasions troubled dreams.

Aesop's Hen Was a Goose.

Some "translators" of Aesop's Fables use "hen" for "goose" in the fable about the golden egg, but the Greek of the "text" is "chen," which looks like some fountainhead of "hen" but really means "goose." The accepted translators or rather adapters, follow the familiar word of the vast majority, "goose." It must be remembered that there really is no original Aesopian text, but only some later transcriptions of what came to be regarded as the fables told by the old slave.

Missouri Lady Suffered Until She Tried Cardui.—Says "Result Was Surprising."—Got Along Fine, Became Normal and Healthy.

Springfield, Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. 'I saw after taking some Cardui . . . that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person.'"

"Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me. . . . My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

"Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui if troubled with womanly ailments. For sale everywhere. R.83

Restoring Luster of Pearls.

Although there is no method known that will positively guarantee the restoration of the luster of a pearl which has become dull through careless handling, the Ceylonese are said to have a novel way of trying to restore it. They simply feed dull pearls to chickens. After the pearls remain in the chickens' crops a few hours, the fowls are killed and the pearls removed. The light friction to which they have been subjected in the crops of the chickens is supposed to restore their luster, at least to some extent.

Gladstone's Umbrella.

Gladstone's umbrella is a catch phrase for the Gladstonian policy. When in September, 1885, Mr. Gladstone issued his manifesto to the Midlothian electors, it was said that he "opened his umbrella." ### ADVICE ON PLANTING TREES

Bulletin issued by the American Forestry Association Will Be Found to Be of Value.

The American Forestry association, Washington, has issued a bulletin entitled, "The Tree—The Memorial That Lives," written by Charles Pack, president of the association, in which are set forth instructions as to the selection of the best kinds of trees, how to secure them, prepare them, plant and care for them, and he adds a program for the ceremony of planting. This bulletin may be had for the asking. And, says Mr. Pack: "This matter of the planting and the care of trees can be readily promoted by anyone. There are a few fundamental principles underlying the various simple operations. But the entire affair is mostly a matter of the exercise of common sense. Fortunately, the majority of us can lay claim to a fair share of this quality. There are certain conditions which are met and known requirements of tree-growing that are satisfied. By a little attention to the features of tree-planting and care, anyone may make a success of tree-planting operations and, furthermore, may care intelligently for trees after they have been planted."

GOOD MOTTO FOR ANY TOWN

Excellent Spirit Shown in the Slogan "Get It Done," Recently Adopted by Kansas City.

The "get-it-done" campaign is producing an important by-product. It is speeding up business in Kansas City. The phrase sticks and makes an impression. Employee as well as employer is affected by it more or less unconsciously.

Little business matters are being attended to today that before were being put off till tomorrow. Loose ends around the store or office or factory that were allowed to accumulate are now being cleaned up. In a thousand places the effect of the advertising of these three words is showing itself.

If the thing keeps on, Kansas City will get a reputation not merely for getting things done for the municipality, but for putting a new sort of energy in its ordinary business affairs. "Get it done!"—Kansas City Star.

Improving Rural Housing.

The country life problem as a whole cannot make consistent headway in humanizing and socializing farm life, so long as the work elements of farming smother the farm home. That farm people get accustomed to the proximity of ever-present occupational things and processes, means only that hardening invades the precincts of the farm mind and soul as it invades the farm house. A rural housing social conscience will probably at no distant day transfigure living on the farm and give rural America an air of architectural grace and land-art beauty.—Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

Walnut Has Many Advantages.

Walnut is a good tree to plant along highways, because it grows its branches high, which lets in the sun and allows the rapid drying out of the road. It is immune to fungous diseases, and, with the exception of one or two caterpillars, insects will leave it alone.

On account of its peculiar taste horses and other animals will not nibble these trees; so, taking it all around, the walnut seems to be our best tree for replanting.

Advice for Tree Prunes.

Any branch which must be taken from a tree should be cut as close as possible to the trunk, and in the case of large branches make the cut first about two feet from the trunk, to take care of the splitting of the bark and then make the final cut. Paint all cuts with a suitable preservative. A very good one is pure white lead, raw linseed oil and lampblack, mixed stiff enough so it will not run. Do not use ready-mixed paints which contain a dryer.

CONGRESSMEN FAVOR FILIPINO INDEPENDENCE

Congressman Edward J. King of Illinois.

Washington.—"The appointed hour is here; let the Philippines be free." This was the keynote of a speech by Congressman Edward J. King of Illinois, (Republican) in which he reviewed the American occupation of the islands from the first day to the present time. He declared that the United States was bound to grant independence without further delay.

Congressman King is one of an increasing number of Republicans in the House who are urging quick action on Philippine independence. Mr. King is the author of a bill which provides that within one year the Philippine government, under presidential proclamation, may assemble a convention and frame a constitution.

After the constitution is ratified by the Filipino people the President may recognize the Philippine islands as "a separate and self-governing nation." The transfer of authority is to be completed within one year. Provision is made for safeguarding American investments in the Philippines and for the providing of coaling stations and submarine bases in the islands by the United States.

Word from the Philippines is that the people expect early independence and will be sorely disappointed if they do not get it.

"No nation has the right," said Congressman King "to hold another people in peonage, even though it may be argued by the professoriate that the condition is simply one of tutelage."

"A little more observance of the golden rule in national and international affairs would soon dispel that desire for exploitation, the fiercest foe of freedom in the world today."

"When we went to the Philippines we declared before the whole world that we were not actuated by any selfish desire of conquest or territorial aggrandizement, but solely by humanitarian impulses."

Congressman King called attention to the fact that Filipinos are now raising funds to erect a monument to Admiral Dewey, which he said was indirectly a tribute to the American people as well as to Dewey. He recalled the cable that Dewey had sent to President McKinley, which was as follows:

"In my opinion these people (Filipinos) are superior in intelligence and more capable of self government than the natives of Cuba, and I am familiar with both."

Congressman King then recited the preamble to the Jones law, passed August 29, 1916, and declared it was a definite pledge of independence. The preamble stated "it is as it has always been the purpose of the people of the United States to withdraw their sovereignty over the Philippine Islands and to recognize their independence as soon as a stable government can be established therein."

Congressman King stated there was no question but that the Filipinos had established the specified stable government and, therefore, it is the solemn duty of the United States to grant the promised independence.

ASKS INDEPENDENCE FOR PHILIPPINES

Francis Burton Harrison

Manila.—Francis Burton Harrison, former governor general of the Philippine Islands, offered to tender his resignation eighteen months ago upon condition that the Secretary of War recommend to President Wilson that a Filipino be appointed his successor. He made the offer while in Washington in 1919.

Discussing Philippine independence, the governor general said:

"I can see in the future a very beautiful vision. When the flag of the Philippine republic shall be hoisted, when the Stars and Stripes will come floating down to the strains of 'The Star Spangled Banner'—that flag, Old Glory, so rich in happy and honorable achievements, will be made doubly dear because it will mean that the United States will have kept its word to the people of the Philippine Islands."

HARD PLACE TO GET EDUCATION

United States Has Surprising
Number of illiterates, Say Congressional Investigators.

PAINT DISTURBING PICTURE

Millions of Immigrants in Country Can Neither Speak Nor Read English—
Committee Finds American Teachers Are Incompetent.

Washington, D. C.—The United States of America is one of the hardest places in the civilized world in which to get a good education, in the opinion of a committee of the house which has been investigating the question.

A fourth of the men of fighting age in the United States are illiterates, many children never get adequate schooling, many of the teachers are incompetent. There are millions of immigrants in the country who can neither speak nor read English, and many negro children never see the inside of a schoolroom. Thousands of schools are closed because no teacher can be obtained for the miserable salaries offered.

This disturbing picture of education in America is contained in the report of the house committee on education on the Towner bill, and abundant proof of its truth is contained in the hearings which were held in connection with the bill.

This report is surely one of the most startling indictments of our civilization which has ever issued from Capitol hill.

Facts Which Convinced Them.
Here, briefly, are some of the facts which brought the congressmen to this frame of mind:

According to the census of 1910, there were in this country 5,500,000 persons ten years of age or older who could not read or write, and the committee does not believe that conditions have improved since then. In addition to these, there were 3,500,000 persons who could not read or write English, making a total of 9,000,000 in the land of the free who were no more qualified to exercise the right of the franchise than so many Australian bushmen. The surgeon general's report showed that of the men called to service between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one, nearly 25 per cent were practically illiterate. This means that a fourth of the young manhood of the country, which is its main reliance in peace and in war, is to all intents and purposes in a state of barbarism. Former Secretary of the Interior Lane estimates that the annual cost of illiteracy to the United States is $325,500,000. The director of the bureau of mines states that if all of the miners could read and speak English a thousand lives a year would be saved.

The committee emphatically refutes the idea that illiteracy is confined to the South, and to out-of-the-way sections. It shows that while Georgia has 83,000 illiterates, New York has 480,000, and that Pennsylvania has more of them than Alabama. Neither does the idea hold good that the illiterates are chiefly negroes. There are a million more white illiterates than colored.

Of the 15,000,000 foreign-born in the United States, the committee says that 5,000,000 cannot read or write English, and that 2,000,000 cannot read or write any language.

Luck Decides Education.
The committee says that getting an education in the United States is largely a matter of luck, that the opportunity is not equal.

"In the South a large number of the negro children never see the inside of a schoolhouse," it asserts. "In the North there is hardly a city that has adequate school facilities for all its children."

The committee finds that in physical education our schools have fallen even worse than in mental education.

The "provost marshal general's report revealed the startling fact that more than one-third of the men examined for military service in the late war were disqualified by reason of physical disability," it reports. "It also stated that 90 per cent of these young men could have qualified had they been taught the simplest rules of hygiene and health. It was ignorance, gross ignorance, that in the vast majority of cases was the cause of their incompetence."

The committee finds that American teachers are utterly incompetent, that 100,000 of them are less than 20 years old, that 30,000 of them have no education beyond the eighth grade, that 200,000 of them have less than a high school education, and that 300,000 of them have no professional training whatever. It finds that the average salary paid teachers in this country is less than the wages paid scrub women or ditch diggers.—Frederic J. Haskin in Chicago Daily News.

Sawed Off Limb He Sat On.
Battle Creek, Mich.—Peter Koutargos, a Greek, twenty-six years old, was cutting down a tree in front of his boarding house. Instead of starting at the bottom, Peter climbed out on a branch and proceeded to saw it off between himself and the trunk. At the hospital, where he was taken, bleeding and bruised, examination proved that his worst injury is a fractured arm.

ASSIST IN BUILDING HOMES

Associations Through the Country Teach Thrift and at the Same Time Make Good Citizens.

Pointing out that a man who owns his own home probably will be a good citizen, C. Clinton James, president of the Building Associations' council for the District of Columbia, issued a statement showing what building associations in the district are doing to encourage home owning and thrift.

While complete figures are not available, it is estimated that the total assets of building associations in Washington will be more than $28,000,000, he announced.

"The building associations throughout the country are teaching thrift and trying to educate the public to own their own homes," Mr. James stated. "The motto of the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations is 'The American Home—the Safeguard of American Liberties.'"

"The building associations have assisted very largely in solving the housing question by assisting persons of limited means to finance the buying of their home, but the demand for loans has been much greater than the funds available," it is asserted.

While building associations are not as necessary in smaller towns as in the cities, the same idea expressed in community spirit will work out to the desired result in the end.

Give a Hand.

In every community there are successful men—men of experience, men of means. In every community there are young men who might make a success of life. They have it in them; all they lack is some one to give a hand. It may not be money they need, perhaps only an interested friend. Somebody helps whenever a young man gets started right in anything. Somewhere every successful man got a start by some one's help. To keep the world moving on an upward slope the process must be made perpetual. Each man, once started, should become a starter of others. And who starts another gets himself along at a more rapid gait. There is that in helping another that reflects not credit alone to the agent, but a bent of mind, an outlook on life, a generosity of soul, that wins a way forward for himself also.—Thrift Magazine.

Care of Eyeglasses.

To prevent the annoyance caused by the accumulation of moisture upon eyeglasses when going from a cold into a warm atmosphere, moisten the tips of the fingers and rub them over a cake of soap, then rub lens and polish as usual. One application daily is all that is necessary.

Imparting the Truth.

There can be no doubt that the proper way of conveying to my understanding a truth of which I am ignorant, or of impressing upon me a firmer persuasion of a truth with which I am acquainted, is by an appeal to my reason.—William Godwin.

PRINCESS ANNE, MD.

NOTICE

I am back in the old shop again and am prepared to do all kinds of repair work besides tire and tube vulcanizing, such as soldering, bicycle repairing and fine machine work.

Motorcycles repaired, bought and sold. Used machines always on hand and for sale.

NEW CRATE FOR Strawberry Growers

I am making a new and improved Crate—better ventilation, easier to pack in, reinforced bottom, lighter in weight—which is stronger made than those now in use and will cost you no more than the inferior crate made by others.
