ARREST TO

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

T H U R S D A Y, MAY 5, 1768.

The SPEECH of the SPEAKER of the House of Commons, when he reprimanded Philip Ward, late Mayor of the City of Oxford; John Treacher, Sir Thomas Munday, Thomas Wise, John Nicholes, John Philips, Isaac Lawrance, Richard Tawney, all of said City; Thomas Robinson, and John Brown, late Bailists of the said City; upon their Knees, at the Bar of the said House, upon Wednesday, the Tenth Day of February, 1768.

Philip Ward, John Treacher, Sir Thomas Munday, Thomas Wife, John Nicholes, John Philips, Isaac Lawrance, Richard Tawney, Thomas Robinson, John Brown;

HE Offence of which you have been guilty, has juftly brought you under the fevere Displeasure of this House. A more enormous Crime you could not well commit; since a deeper Wound could not be given to the Constitution itself, than by the open and dangerous Attempt which you have made to subvert the Freedom and Independence of this House.

The Freedom of this House is the Freedom of this Country, which can continue no longer than while the Voices of the Electors are uninfluenced by any base or venal Motive. For if Abilities and Integrity are no Recommendation to the Electors; if those who bid highest for their Voices, are to obtain them from such detestable Confiderations; this House will not be the Representatives of the People of Great-Britain. Instead of being the Guardians and Protectors of their Liberties, instead of redressing the Grievances of the Subject, This House itself will be the Authors of the worst of Grievances: They will become the venal Instruments of Power to reduce this happy Nation, the Envy and Admiration of the World, to the lowest State of Misery and Servitude. This is the abject Condition to which you have attempted to bring your Fellow-Subjects.

Many Circumstances concur to aggravate your Of-fence. The Place of your Residence was a singular Advantage. You had at all Times the Example of one of the most learned and respectable Bodies in Europe before your Eyes. Their Conduct in every Instance, but especially in the Choice of Representatives in Parliament, was well worthy your Imitation.

You are Magistrates of a great City. In such a Station, it was a Duty peculiarly incumbent upon you to watch over the Morals of your Fellow-Citizens; to keep yourselves pure from Venality; and to prevent, by your Influence, those under your Government, from being tainted by this growing and pestilential Vice. How have you abused this Trust! You yourfelves have fet the infamous Example of Prostitution, in the most public and daring Manner.

Surely you must have felt some Remorfe from the generous Disdain with which your corrupt Offer was rejected by your Representatives. They thought, and justly thought, that a Seat in this House, obtained by a free independent Choice of their Constituents, was the highest Honour to which a Subject can aspire; and that discharging their Duty, as such Representatives, was the noblest of Services. Sorry I am to say, that these Considerations do not appear to have had the least Weight with you. However, you have at last acknowledged your Guilt; and, by your Petition Yesterday, you seem conscious of the Enormity of your Offence. This House, in the Terror of its Judgments, always thinks upon Mercy; nor do they ever inflict Punishment but for the Sake of Example, and to prevent others from becoming the Objects of their Refentment.

The Cenfure passed upon you will, they hope, have that Effect. You are now the Objects of their Mercy; and are brought to the Bar to be discharged.

you be penetrated with a due Sense of their Jus-May you be penetrated with a due senie of their justice and Lenity! May you atone for your past Offence by your constant Endeavours to make a right Use of the invaluable Privileges which you enjoy as Electors; Consider these Privileges as a facred Trust reposed in you. Discharge it with Integrity.

But, before your rise from your present Posture, I do, in Obedience to the Commands of this House, RE-PRIMAND you.

PRIMAND you. Lam-now to acquaint you, that you are discharged, paying your Fees. LONDON.

The following is a Copy of a LETTER fent from the Honourable House of Representatives of this Province, to the Right Hon. the Earl of CHATHAM.

Province of the Mafacbufetts-Bay, Feb. 13, 1768. MY LORD,

THE particular Attention you were pleased to give to the Interest of the American Subjects when their Rights were in Danger; and your noble and suc-cessful Efforts in Support of them, have left in the Breasts of all, the indelible Marks of Gratitude. The Mouse of Representatives of this his Majesty's Province, having Reason to be assured, that in every In-stance of your public Conduct, you are influenced by the Principles of Virtue, and a disinterested Public Affection, beg leave to manifest to your Lordship, a Testi-mony of their full Considence in you, by imploring your repeated Aid and Patronage, at this Time, when the Cloud again gathers thick over them.

It must afford the utmost Satisfaction to the distressed Colonists, to find your Lordship to applicate the leave Colonifts, to find your Lordship so explicitly declaring your Sentiments in that grand Principle in Nature, that what a Man hath honestly acquired, is absolutely and uncontroulably his own. This Principle is established as a fundamental Rule in the British Constitution, which eminently hath its Foundation in the Laws of Nature; and confequently it is the indisputable Right of all Men, more especially of a British Subject, to be present in Person, or by Representation, in the Body where he is taxed.

But, however fixed your Lordship, and some others may be, in this cardinal Point, it is truly mortifying to many of his Majesty's free and loyal Subjects, that even in the British Parliament, that Sanctuary of Liberty and Justice, a different Sentiment seems of late to have prevailed.

Unwilling to intrude upon your Attention to the great Affairs of State, the House would only refer your Lordship to an Act passed in the Fourth Year of the Lordship to an Act passed in the Fourth Year of the present Reign, and another in the last Session of Parliament; both imposing Duties on the Americans, who were not represented, with the sole and express Purpose of raising a Revenue! What, my Lord, have the Colonists done, to forfeit the Character and Privilege of Subjects, and to be reduced in Effect to a tributary State? This House may appeal to the Nation, that the utmost Aid of the People has been chearfully given, when his Majesty required it: Often, on their own Motion, and when almost ready to-fuccumb under the Expence of defending their own Borders, their Zeal has carried them abroad, for the Honour of their So-vereign; and the Defence of his Rights: Of this, my vereign; and the Defence of his Rights: Of this, my Lord, not to mention any more, the Reduction of Louisbourg, in the Year 1745, and the Defence of his Majesty's Garrison at Annapolis, and of all Nova-Scotia, will be a standing Monument. Can there then be a Necessity for so great a Change, and in its Nature so delicate and important, that instead of having the Homes of his Majesty's Requisitions laid before their Renour of his Majesty's Requisitions laid before their Re-presentatives here, as has been invariably the Usage, the Parliament should now tax them without their Con-

The Enemies of the Colonists, for such they unfortunately have, may have represented them to his Ma-jesty's Ministers, and the Parliament, as factious, un-dutiful, disloyal: They, my Lord, are equally the Enemies of Britain: Such is your extensive Knowledge of Mankind, and the Sentiments and Disposition of the Colonies in general, that this House would freely ven-ture to rest the Character of their Constituents in your Lordship's Judgment: Surely, it is no ill Disposition in the loyal Subjects of a patriotic King, with a Decency and Firmness, adapted to their Character, to affert their Freedom. The Colonies, as this House humbly conceive, cannot be represented in the British Parliament : Their local Circumstances, at the Distance of a Thousand Leagues beyond the Seas, forbids, and will for ever render it inpracticable: This, they apprehend, was the Reason, that his Majesty's royal Predecessors saw sit to erect subordinate legislative Bodies in America, as perfectly free as the Nature of Things would admit, that their remote Subjects might enjoy that inclinable that their remote Subjects might enjoy that ineftimable Right, a Representation. Such a Legislative is constituted by the royal Charter of this Province. In this Charter, the King, for himself, his Heirs and Successors, grants to the Inhabitants all the Lands and Teritories therein described in feasible to the subject t ritories therein described, in free and common Soccage; an hold under the is ample Estate as the Crown: Together with all the Rights, Liberties, Privileges and Immunities of his natural Subjects, born wileges and Immunities of his natural Subjects, born within the Realm; of which the most effectial, is a Power invested in the General Assembly, to levy proportionable and reasonable Taxes on the Estates and Persons of the Inhabitants, for the Service of his Majesty, and the necessary Desource and Support of his Government of the Province, and the Protection and Preservation of the Inhabitants. But, though they were originally, and always, since their Settlement, have been considered as Subjects remote, they have ever cherished a warm Assection for the Mother-State, and a Regard for the Interest and Happings of their Fellow Subjects in Britain. If then the Colonies are charged Subjects in Britain. If then the Colonies are charged with the most distant Thought of an Independency, your Lordship may be assured, that with respect to the People of this Province, and it is presumed, of all the Colonies, the Charge is unjust.

Nothing would have prevailed upon the House to have given your Lordship this Trouble, but the Necessity of a powerful Advocate, when their Liberty is in Danger: Such they have more than once found you to be; and as they humbly hope they have never for-feited your Patronage, they intreat that your great Interest in the national Councils may still be employed in their Behalf, that they may be restored to the Standing of free Subjects.

That your Lordship may enjoy a firm State of Health, and long be continued a great Blessing to the Nation and her Colonies, is the ardent Wish of this

THE Subscriber purposes (and hopes to meet with proper Encouragement; as he intends following a regular fix'd Rule in all his Transactions) to dispose of, on Commission, all kinds of GOODS and MER-CHANDIZE, at PRIVATE and PUBLIC SALE, for Cash of Credit, the Commission very reasonable; let the Sum-Total be never so small sold for, the Commissions not to exceed Three per Cent. The Owners of the Goods giving in, in Writing, their Instructions, which shall be punctually adher'd to: If order'd to be sold for Cash, their Money ready, and Accounts to settle, in Two Days from the Conclusion of the Sale: If for Credit, Bonds and Notes ready to deliver in Three Days, and great Care no bad Debts are made. Goods wanted to be convey'd from any Port or District, to another, by Way of Norfolk, will be received at convenient Wharsis and Warchouses, out of the Vessels, by Cranes, and back into Vessels, in the same Order. Letters with, shall be duly answered, and one sent with the Goods, a Copy of which may be seen in the Office, or remitted to the Owners, if at any Distance, making the Trouble and Storage Expence very moderate. Any kind of Business I may be employed in, shall be, transacted most punctually. Advice from any Quarter with the Premium, lodged. Policies of Insurance shall be made out, and registered, and the same Regard paid to the Interest of the Assured, as if he himself was present; as I intend to transact all Business conformable to Instructions, and with the greatest Punctuality; and, as my Endeavours to remove many Inconveniencies Traders up the Country, and in Maryland, and elsewhere, labour under, hope to meet with their Approbation, as I am surnished with all necessary Conveniencies for storing any kind of Merchandize, &c.

william McAA.

I cannot doubt but every judicious Trader up the Country, in Maryland, &c. will think an Office of this kind, will be most proper to have their Business transacted in, a Merchant having much Business of his own on Hand, will certainly give it the Preference; whereas there will be nothing of the kind here; and I must further assure every Gentleman, who shall think proper to employ me, that they shall meet with Satisfaction.

T H U R S D A Y, MAY 5, 1768.

The SPEECH of the SPEAKER of the House of Commons, when he reprimanded Philip Ward, late Mayor mons, when he reprimanded Philip Ward, late Mayor of the City of Oxford; John Treacher, Sir Thomas Munday, Thomas Wife, John Nicholes, John Philips, Isaac Lawrance, Richard Tawney, all of said City; Johnas Robinson, and John Brown, late Bailists of the said City; upon their Knees, at the Bar of the faid Choic, upon Wednesday, the Tenth Day of February, 1768.

Philip Ward, John Treacher, Sir Thomas Munday, Thomas Wife, John Nicholes, John Philips, Isaac Lawrance, Richard Tawney, Thomas Robinson, John Brown;

HE Offence of which you have been guilty, has juffly brought you under the severe Displeasure of this House. A more enormous fince a deeper Wound could not be given to the Constitution itself, than by the open and dangerous to subvert the Freedom and Independence of this

The Freedom of this House is the Freedom of this Country, which can continue no longer than while the Voices of the Electors are uninfluenced by any base or venal Motive. For if Abilities and Integrity are no Recommendation to the Electors; if those who bid highest for their Voices, are to obtain them from such deteltable Confiderations; this House will not be the Representatives of the People of Great-Britain. Instead of being the Guardians and Protectors of their Liberties, instead of redressing the Grievances of the Subject, This House itself will be the Authors of the worst of Grievances: They will become the venal Instruments of Power to reduce this happy Nation, the Envy and Admiration of the World, to the lowest State of Misery and Servitude. This is the abject Condition to which you have attempted to bring your Fellow-Subjects.

Many Circumstances concur to aggravate your Offence. The Place of your Residence was a singular Advantage. You had at all Times the Example of one of the most learned and respectable Bodies in Europe before your Eyes. Their Conduct in every Instance, but especially in the Choice of Representatives in Parliament, was well worthy your Imitation.

You are Magistrates of a great City. In such a Station, it was a Duty peculiarly incumbent upon you to watch over the Morals of your Fellow-Citizens; to keep yourselves pure from Venality; and to prevent, by your Influence, those under your Government, from being tainted by this growing and pestilential Vice. How have you abused this Trust! You yourfelves have fet the infamous Example of Prostitution, in the most public and daring Manner.

Surely you must have felt some Remorse from the generous Difdain with which your corrupt Offer was rejected by your Representatives. They thought, and justly thought, that a Seat in this House, obtained by a free independent Choice of their Constituents, was the highest Honour to which a Subject can aspire; and that discharging their Duty, as such Representatives, was the noblest of Services. Sorry I am to say, that these Considerations do not appear to have had the least Weight with you.

However, you have at last acknowledged your Guilt; and, by your Petition Yesterday, you seem conscious of the Enormity of your Offence. This House, in the Terror of its Judgments, always thinks upon Mercy; nor do they ever inslict Punishment but for the Sake of Example, and to prevent others from becoming the Objects of their Refentment.

The Cenfure passed upon you will, they hope, have that Effect. You are now the Objects of their Mercy; and are brought to the Bar to be discharged.

May you be penetrated with a due Sense of their Juftice and Lenity! May you atone for your past Offence by your constant Endeavours to make a right Use of the invaluable Privileges which you enjoy as Electors; Confider these Privileges as a facred Trust reposed in you. Discharge it with Integrity.

But, before you rife from your present Posture, I do, in Obedience to the Commands of this House, RE-PRIMAND you.

I am now to acquaint you, that you are discharged, paying your Fees.

BOST

The following is a Copy of a LETTER fent from the Honourable House of Representatives of this Province, to the Right Hon. the Earl of CHATHAM.

Province of the Maffachufetts-Bay, Feb. 13, 1768. MY LORD,

THE particular Attention you were pleased to give to the Interest of the American Subjects when their Rights were in Danger; and your noble and fuc-cessful Efforts in Support of them, have left in the Breasts of all, the indelible Marks of Gratitude. The House of Representatives of this his Majesty's Province, having Reason to be affured, that in every In-flance of your public Conduct, you are influenced by the Principles of Virtue, and a disinterested Public Affection, beg leave to manifest to your Lordship, a Testimony of their full Considence in you, by imploring your repeated Aid and Patronage, at this Time, when the Cloud again gathers thick over them.

It must afford the utmost Satisfaction to the distressed Colonists, to find your Lordship to consider the colonists.

Colonists, to find your Lordship so explicitly declaring your Sentiments in that grand Principle in Nature, that what a Man hath bonefly acquired, is abfolutely and uncontroulably bis own. This Principle is established as a fundamental Rule in the British Constitution, which eminently hath its Foundation in the Laws of Nature; and consequently it is the indifferently between the laws of Nature. and confequently it is the indisputable Right of all Men, more especially of a British Subject, to be present in Person, or by Representation, in the Body where he is taxed.

But, however fixed your Lordship, and some others may be, in this cardinal Point, it is truly mortifying to many of his Majesty's free and loyal Subjects, that even in the British Parliament, that Sanctuary of Liberty and Justice, a different Sentiment seems of late

to have prevailed,
Unwilling to intrude upon your Attention to the great Affairs of State, the House would only refer your Lordship to an Act passed in the Fourth Year of the present Reign, and another in the last Session of Parliament; both imposing Duties on the Americans, who were not represented, with the sole and express Purpose of raising a Revenue! What, my Lord, have the Colonists done, to forfeit the Character and Privilege of Subjects, and to be reduced in Effect to a tributary State? This House may appeal to the Nation, that the utmost Aid of the People has been chearfully given, when his Majesty required it: Often, on their own Motion, and when almost ready to succumb under the Expence of defending their own Borders, their Zeal Expence of defending their own Borders, their Zeal has carried them abroad, for the Honour of their Sovereign; and the Defence of his Rights: Of this, my Lord; not to mention any more, the Reduction of Louisbourg, in the Year 1745, and the Defence of his Majesty's Garrison at Annapolis, and of all Nova-Scotia, will be a standing Monument. Can there then be a Necessity for so great a Change, and in its Nature so delicate and important, that instead of having the Honour of his Majesty's Requisitions laid before their Representatives here, as has been invariably the Usage; the Parliament should now tax them without their Confent?

The Enemies of the Colonists, for such they unfortunately have, may have represented them to his Ma-jesty's Ministers, and the Parliament, as factious, undutiful, difloyal: They, my Lord, are equally the Enemies of Britain: Such is your extensive Knowledge of Mankind, and the Sentiments and Disposition of the Colonies in general, that this House would freely venture to rest the Character of their Constituents in your Lordship's Judgment: Surely, it is no ill Disposition in the loyal Subjects of a patriotic King, with a Decency and Firmness, adapted to their Character, to affert their

The Colonies, as this House humbly conceive, cannot be represented in the British Parliament : Their local Circumstances, at the Distance of a Thousand Leagues beyond the Seas, forbids, and will for ever render it impracticable: This, they apprehend, was the Reason, that his Majesty's royal Predecessors saw fit to erect fubordinate legislative Bodies in America, as perfectly free as the Nature of Things would admit, that their remote Subjects might enjoy that ineftimable Right, a Reprefentation. Such a Legislative is constituted by the royal Charter of this Province. In this Charter, the King, for himself, his Heirs and Successors, grants to the Inhabitants all the Lands and Territories therein described, in free and common Soccage; as ample Estate as the Subjects can hold under the Crown: Together with all the Rights, Liberties, Privileges and Immunities of his natural Subjects, born within the Realm; of which the most essential, is a Power invested in the General Assembly, to levy pro-portionable and reasonable Taxes on the Estates and Persons of the Inhabitants, for the Service of his Ma-jesty, and the necessary Defence and Support of his Government of the Province, and the Protection and Preservation of the Inhabitants. But, though they were originally, and always, fince their Settlement, have been considered as Subjects remote, they have ever cherished a warm Affection for the Mother-State, and a Regard for the Interest and Happiness of their Fellow Subjects in Britain. If then the Colonies are charged with the most distant Thought of an Independency, your Lordship may be affered, that with respect to the People of this Province, and it is presumed, of all the Colonies, the Charge is unjust.

Nothing would have prevailed upon the House to have given your Lordship this Trouble, but the Neceffity of a powerful Advocate, when their Liberty is in Danger: Such they have more than once found you to be; and as they humbly hope they have never forfeited your Patronage, they intreat that your great In-terest in the national Councils may still be employed in their Behalf, that they may be restored to the Standing of free Subjects.

That your Lordship may enjoy a firm State of Health, and long be continued a great Blessing to the Nation and her Colonies, is the ardent Wish of this

Signed by the SPRAKER.

Province of the Maffachufetts-Bay, Jan. 221

HE House of Representatives of this his Majesty's Province, have had the Honour of your Letter of 7th of May laft, communicated to them by their Speaker, and thank your Lordship for your Condescen-tion, in the kind Sentiment you are pleased to express of his Majesty's good Subjects of America, and of this Province. The establishing the Harmony between Great-Britain and her Colonies, is a Subject which your Lordship has judged worthy of your particular Attention; and the Exertions which you have made for this very important Purpole, claim the most grateful Ac-knowledgments of the House. Your Sentiments are so nobly extended beyond the most distant partial Considerations, as must distinguish you as a Patron of the Colonies, a Friend to the British Constitution, and the Rights of Mankind.

Your Lordship is pleased to say, that you will not adopt a System of arbitrary Rule over the Colonies, nor do otherwise than strenuously resist, where Attempts should be made to throw off that Dependency to which the Colonies ought to fubmit. And your Lordship, with great Impartiality, adds, "not only for the Advantage of Great-Britain, but for their own real Happiness and

This House, my Lord, have the Honour heartily to join with you in Sentiment; and they speak the Lan-guages of their Constituents. So sensible are they of their Happiness and Safety, in their Union with, and Dependence upon the Mother-Country, that they would by no Means be inclined to accept of an Independency, if offered to them. But, my Lord, they intreat your Confideration, whether the Colonies have not Reason to fear some Danger of arbitrary Rule over them, when the fupreme Power of the Nation, have thought proper to impose Taxes on his Majesty's American Subjects, with the fole and express Purpose of raising a Revenue, and without their Confent. My Lord, the superintending Power of that high Court, over all his Majesty's Subjects in the Empire, and in all Cases which can consist with the fundamental Rules of the Constitution, was never questioned in this Province, nor, as the House conceive, in any other: But, in all free States, the Constitution is fixed: It is from thence that the Supreme Legislative, as well as the Supreme Executive, derives its Authority: Neither, then, can break thro' the fundamental Rules of the Conflitu-tion, without destroying their own Foundation. It is humbly conceived, that all his Majesty's happy Subjects, in every Part of his wide extended Dominions, have a just and equitable Claim to the Rights of that Conflitution, upon which Government itself is founded, and by which Sovereignty and Allegiance is ascertained and limited. Your Lordship will allow us to say, that it is an essential Right of a British Subject, ingrafted into the Constitution; or, if your Lordship will admit the Expression, a facred and unalienable natural Right, quietly to enjoy, and have the fole Disposal of his own Property. In conformity to this, the Acts of the British Parliament declare, that every Individual in the Realm, is present in his Majesty's high Court of Parliament, by himself, or his Representative of his own free Election. But, my Lord, it is apprehended, that a just and equal Representation of the Subjects, at the Diftance of a Thousand transmarine Leagues from the Metropolis, is utterly impracticable. Upon this Opinion, this House humbly conceive, his Majesty's royal Predecessors, thought it equitable to form subordinate legislative Powers in America, as perfectly free as the Nature of Things would admit, that fo their remote Subjects might enjoy a Right, which those within the Realm have ever held facred, of being taxed only by Representatives of their own free Election.

The House beg Leave to observe to your Lordship, that the Monies that shall arise by the Act for granting to his Majesty certain Duties on Paper, Glass, and other Articles, passed in the last Session of Parliament, are to be applied, in the first Place, for the Payment of the necessary Charges of the Administration of Justice, and the Support of Civil Government, in such Colonies where it shall be judged necessary; and the Residue for the defending, protecting and lecuring Colonies. They intreat your Lordship's Consideration, what may be the confequence, in some future Time, if the Crown, in Addition to its Right of appointing Governors over the Colonies, which this House chearfully recognize, should appoint them such Stipends as it should judge sit, without the Consent of the People, at their Expence. And, as the Judges of the Land here, do not hold their Commissions during good Behahere, do not hold their Commissions during good Benaviour, your Lordship will judge, whether it may not hereafter happen, that at fo great a Distance from the Throne, the Fountain of Justice, for want of an adequate Check, corrupt and arbitrary Rule may take place, even within the Colonies, which may deprive a Bench of Justice of its Glory, and the People of their Happiness and Safety.

Your Lordship's Justice and Candour will induce you to believe, that what our Enemies may have taken occasion to represent to his Majesty's Ministers and the Parliament, as an undutiful Disposition in the Colonies, is nothing more than a just and firm Attachment to their natural and constitutional Rights. It is humbly fubmitted to your Lordship, whether these Ideas are well founded. And, while this Province, and the Colonies, shall continue, in your Lordship's Judgment, to be faithful and loyal Subjects to his Majesty, they rely upon it, that your happy Influence will ever be employed to promote the Sentiments of Tenderness, as well as Justice, in the Parent-Country.

Signed by the SPEAKER.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.

Extract of a Letter from London, Feb. 18, 1768.

"We have the Satisfaction of informing you, that from the prefent Appearance of Things, the Interest of the Colonies is here considered to be more free from Enemies than for some Time past; indeed many Peo-ple affert; that those who have been the most bitter, are changing their Tone. The new Secretary of State for America, gives frong Affurances of his Good-will towards you, and we hope Time will evince Benefits to accrue from the Creation of this new Office, which by many is much exclaimed against, as an Extension of the Power of the Crown. On the other Hand, others are strongly of Opinion, that the Colonies will reap Advantage therefrom, as every Body will now know where to apply for Relief and Affiftance, which heretofore was difficult to be afcertained from whom it was to be expected. The Conduct of your neighbouring Province appears to be difpensed with. And, had not the Conduct of the Association at Boston, caused severe Reflections on them, Matters would now wear a tolerable Aspect. But we are really of the Opinion, that these People are giving a Handle to their Enemies at this Juncture, by purfuing a Measure so incompatible with their Interest.

Extract of a Letter from Fort Pitt, dated April 6, 1768.

" An Express arrived here the Night before laft, by whom we learn, that the Indians have, fince the oth of last January, murdered three Traders, at different Places, fome Distance from Detroit. One of them I have been very well acquainted with for many Year, his Name was Frederick Hambach, a German, he ferved two Campaigns in the Capacity of an Officer among the Provincial Troops, and after they were reduced, he be-came an Indian Trader. On the 9th of last January, being just arrived at his House, in an Indian Village on the Miamis River, with a new Cargo of Indian Goods, from Detroit, fix Indians, who he supposed came to trade with him, lodged in his House all Night; in the Morning they asked him some Questions about his Goods, particularly Liquors. He told them he had Plenty of every Thing they wanted, except Liquor, of which he would let them have a hearty Drink, as foon as it should come to Hand, in the Course of Trade, but had none for Sale. After finding out where the Goods were, they tomahawked him, in cold Blood, without having tafted Liquors of any Kind, or being otherwise provoked, and went afterwards to demand the Goods of a Frenchman that had them in Possession, living at about fix Miles Diftance, on the fame River, whom they compelled, by Threats, to give them up. The Expresses say, that the Goods were afterwards rescued. The other Trader, they say, was a Relation of Major Regers, and was killed at St. Joseph's, about the beginning of February last. These two Traders, already mentioned, are all that are taken Notice of in the Letters from Detroit; but the Expresses say, that they saw the Corple of another Trader, at fome Distance, on this Side Detroit, who was murdered by a Frenchman that lives intirely with the Indians. Pondiac's Gang is charged with all these late Massacres, though he is suit to have been abfent thefe fix Months paft.

" The general Opinion is, both at this Post and Detroit, that the Indians will have Scalps by Way of Revenge; it is faid there was an Indian murdered, not long ago, by white Men, near Detroit. It is thought they will not come to a Rupture. There is a grand Treaty to be held here foon, after which their real Intentions will be discovered." " Fort Pitt, April 8, 1768. Colonel Croghan is arrived, and the Indians are coming in fast to the Trea-

Yesterday arrived Capt. Winter from Montierrat, who gives us the following Particulars : That on Wednelday, the 16th of March, a Negro called on a White Woman, and told her he must have his Jacket she was making, as he was going into the Country, and afked her to let him take her Child; that it was a Pity it fhould be killed, for there would not be many White Men alive on Saturday, as the Negroes would defroy them all on Friday Night, the 12th, (being Shelah's Night, on which was to be a Grand Ball) but the Women would be spared for Wives for the Negroes. The Woman immediately lodged an Information, when the Drums beat to Arms, and the Militia, (about 100 Men) the Troops, 40; and the Sailors, with their Captains, turned out, and mounted Guard. On the 18th, they got Two great Guns, and feveral finaller, out of the Fort, and placed them at the most convenient Places, when the Negroes, finding the People on their Guard, best to drop their Delign. Fifty Soldiers from Antigua arrived; feveral Negroes were taken, who are confined on board the Vessels, and in the Fort. The 27th, one Negro hanged himfelf. The ad of April one of the Negroes received Sentence of Death, and, on the 4th, he was executed, by being laid on a Cross, and a Negro, with the Stroke of an Iron Crow, broke one Leg, a Thigh, and an Arm, then the other Side in the same Manner, and gave him then the other Side in the fame Manner, and gave him Three Strokes on the Breast before he expired, after which his Head was cut off, and his Body, with that of the Negro that hanged himself, was burnt.

On Easter Monday last, the Rev. Mr. William Dunlap, of Philadelphia, was unanimously chosen Rector of the Parish of Stratton-Major, in King and Queen County, Virginia, in the room of the late Mr. Commissary Robinson, deceased; and was presented in Form a sew Days ago, to his Honour the Presedent, by the Hon. Richard Corbin, Esq.

The Waves never rife but when the Winds blow. PROV-

SIR, OA O

S the Cause of the present ill Humour in America, and of the Refolutions taken there to purchase less of our Manufactures, does not feem to be generally under-frood, it may afford some Satis-faction to your Readers, if you, give them the following short historical State of Facts.

From the Time that the Colonies were first considered as capable of granting Aids to the Crown, down to the End of the last War, it is faid, that the constant Mode of obtaining those Aids, was by requisition made from the Crown through its Governors to the feveral Assemblies, in circular Letters from the Secretary of State, in his Majesty's Name, setting forth the Occafon, requiring them to take the Matter into confidera-tion; and expressing a Reliance on their Prudence, Duty, and Affection to his Majesty's Government, that they would grant such Sums, or raise such Numbers of Men, as were suitable to their respective Circumstances.

The Colonies being accustomed to this Method, have, from Time to Time, granted Money to the Crown, or raised Troops for its Service, in Proportion to their Abilities; and during all the last War beyond their Abilities, so that considerable Sums were returned them Yearly by Parliament, as they had exceeded their Proportion.

Had this happy Method of Requisition been continued (a Method that left the King's Subjects in those remote Countries the Pleasure of showing their Zeal and Loyalty, and of imagining that they recommended themselves to their Sovereign, by the Liberality of their voluntary Grants) there is no Doubt but all the Money that could reasonably be expected to be raifed from them in any Manner, might have been ob-tained, without the least Heart-burning, Offence, or Breach of the Harmony, of Affections and Interests, that so long subfisted between the Two Countries.

It has been thought Wisdom in a Government exer-tising Sovereignty over different Kinds of People, to have some Regard to prevailing and established Opinions among the People to be governed, wherever such O-pinions might in their Effects obstruct or promote public Measures. If they tend to obstruct public Ser-vice, they are to be changed, if possible, before we attempt to act against them; and they can only be changed by Reason and Persuasion. But if public Bufiness can be carried on without thwarting those Opinions, if they can be, on the contrary, made subhow abfurd foever fuch popular Opinions may be in their Natures.—This had been the Wifdom of our Government with Respect to raising Money in the Co-lonies. It was well known, that the Colonists univerfally were of Opinion, that no Money could be levied from English Subjects, but by their own Consent, given by themselves or their chosen Representatives. That by themselves or their chosen Representatives: That therefore, whatever Money was to be raised from the People in the Colonies, must first be granted by their Assemblies, as the Money raised in Britain is first to be granted by the House of Commons: That this Right of granting their own Money, was essential to English Liberty: And that if any Man, or Body of Men, in which they had no Representative of their chusing, could tax them at Pleasure, they could not be said to have any Property, any Thing they could call their own. But, as these Opinions did not hinder their granting Money voluntarily and amply whenever the Crown by its Servants came into their Assemblies (as it does into its Parliaments of Britain or Ireland) and demanded Aids. Therefore the Method was cheen demanded Aids; therefore that Method was chosen, rather than the hateful one of arbitrary Taxes.

I do not undertake here to support these Opinions of the Americans; they have been refuted by a late Act of Parliament, declaring its own Power :—which very Parliament, however, flew'd wifely so much tender Regard to those inveterate Prejudices, as to repeal a Tax that had militated against them. And those Prejudices are still so fixed and rooted in the Americans, that, it has been supposed, not a single Man among them has been convinced of his Error, even by that Act of Parliament.

Act of Parliament. The Person then who first projected to lay aside the accustomed Method of Requisition, and to raise Money accultomed Method of Requisition, and to raise Money on America by Stamps, seems not to have acted wisely, in deviating from that Method (which the Colonists locked upon as constitutional) and thwarting unnecessarily the fixed Prejudices of so great a Number of the King's Subjects.—It was not, however, for want of Knowledge that what he was about to do would give them great Offence; he appears to have been very sensible of this, and apprehensive that it might occasion some Disorders, to prevent or suppress which, he projected another Bill, that was brought in the same Session with the Samp-Act, whereby it was to be made lawful for Military Officers, in the Colonies, to quarter their Soldiers in private Houses. This seemed intended to awe the People into a Compliance with the other Act. to awe the People into a Compliance with the other Act. Great Opposition however being raised here against the Bill, by the Agents from the Colonies, and the Merchants trading thither, the Colonists declaring, that under such a Power in the Army, no one could look on his House as his own, or think he had a Home, when Soldiers might be thurst into it, and mixed with his Family, at the Pleasure of an Officer: That Part of his Family, at the Pleasure of an Officer: That Part of the Bill was dropt; but there still remained a Clause, when it passed into a Law, to oblige the several Assemblies to provide Quarters for the Soldiers, furnishing them with Firing, Bedding, Candles, Small-Beer, or Rum, and fundry other Articles, at the Expence of the several Provinces. And this Act continued in Force when the Stamp-Act was repealed, though if obligatory on the Assemblies, it equally militated against the American Principle above-mentioned, that Mancy is not to be raised on English Subjects without their Consent.

The Colonies nevertheless being put into high good Humour by the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, choic to avoid a fresh Dispute upon the other, it being temporary, and soon to expire, never, as they hoped, to revive again; and in the mean Time they, by various Ways, in different Colonies, provided for the quartering of the Troops, either by Acts of their own Assemblies, without taking Notice of the A of P t, or by some Variety or small Diminution, as of Salt and Vinegar, in the Supplies required by the A. Vinegar, in the Supplies required by the Act, that what they did might appear a voluntary Act of their own, and not done in Obedience to an A—of P——t which according to their Ideas of their Rights, they thought

It might have been well, if the Matter had thus paffed without Notice; but a G-r having written home an angry and aggravating Letter upon this Conduct in the Affembly of his Province, the outed P-r of the Stamp-Act, and his Adherents, then in the Opposition, raised such a Clamour against America, as being in Rebellion, and against those who had been for the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, as having thereby been Encouragers of this supposed Rebellion, that it was thought necessary to enforce the Quartering-Act by another Act of Parliments the Property of Parliments and the Parliments and the Property of Parliments and the Parl nother Act of Parliament, taking away from the Pro-vince of New-York, which had been the most explicit in its Refusal, all the Powers of Legislation, 'til it should have complied with that Act. The News of which greatly alarmed the People every where in America, as (it has been faid) the Language of fuch an Act feemed to them to be, Obey implicitly Laws made by the Parliament of Great-Britain to raife Money on you without your Confent, or you shall enjoy no Rights or Privileges at all.

At the same Time a Person lately in high Office, projected the levying more Money from America, by new Duties on various Articles of our own Manufacture, as Glass, Paper, Painters Colours, &c. appointing a new Board of Customs, and sending over a Set of Commis-sioners, with large Salaries, to be established at Boston, who were to have the Care of collecting those Duties; which were by the Act expressly mentioned to be intended for the Payment of the Salaries of Governors, Judges, and other Officers of the Crown in America; it being a pretty general Opinion here, that those Officers ought not to depend on the People there for any Part of their Support.

It is not my Intention to combat this Opinion. But perhaps it may be fome Satisfaction to your Readers, to know what Ideas the Americans have on the Subject. They fay then, as to Governors, that they are not like Princes, whose Posterity have an Inheritance in the Goremees, whole Potterly have an inheritance in the Jovernment of a Nation, and therefore an Interest in its Prosperity; they are generally Strangers to the Provinces they are sent to govern, have no Estate, natural Connection, or Relation there, to give them an Affection for the Country; that they come only to make Money as fast as they can; are sometimes Men of vicious Clarafter, and broken Fortunes. ous Characters, and broken Fortunes, fent by a Mini-fler, merely to get them out of the Way; that as they intend flaying in the Country no longer than their Government continues and purpose to leave no Family behind them, they are apt to be regardless of the Good-Will of the People, and care not what is said or thought of them after they are gone. Their Situation, at the same Time, gives them many Opportunities of being vexatious, and they are often fo, notwithflanding their Dependance on the Affemblies for all that Part of their Support that does not arife from Fees eftablished by Law; but would probably be much more fo, if they were to be supported by Money drawn from the People without their Consent or Good. Will, which is the professed Design of this new Act. That, if by Means of these forced Duties Government is to be supported in America. without the Intervention of the Affemblies. America, without the Intervention of the Alemblies, their Affemblies will foon he looked upon as ufelefs; and a Governor will not call them, as having nothing to hope from their Meeting, and perhaps fomething to fear from their Enquiries in and Remonfrances as gainft, this Mal-Administration. That thus the People will be deprived of their most effential Rights. That ple will be deprived of their most effential Rights. That it being, a present, a Governor's Interest to cultivate the Good-Will, by promoting the Welfare of the People he governor, can be attended with he Prejudice to the Mother-Country, since all the Laws he may be prevailed on to give his Assent to, are subject to Revision here, and, if reported against, by the Board of Trade, are immediately repealed by the Crown; nor dare he pass any Law contrary to his Instructions, as he holds his Office during the Pleasure of the Crown, and his Securities are liable for the Penalties of their Bonds, if he contravenes those Instructions. This is what they say to Governors. As to Judges, they alledge, that heing appointed from hence, and helding their Commissions, see during good Behaviour, as in Britain, but during Pleasure, all the Weight of Interest or Instructor.

would be thrown into one of the Scales (which ought to be held even) if the Salaries are also to be paid out of Duties raised upon the People without their Consent, and independent of their Asiemblies Approbation or Disapprobation of Ludges Behaviour. That it is true, Judges should free from all Influence; and therefore, whenever Government here will grant Commissions to able and homest Judges, during good Behaviour. missions to able and honest Judges, during good Beha-viour, the Assemblies will settle permanent and ample Salaries on them during their Commissions: But at prefent, they have no other Means of getting rid of an ig-norant or an unjust Judge (and some of scandalous Characters have, they say, been sometimes sent them) but by starving him out.

I do not suppose these Reasonings of theirs will appear here to have much Weight, I do not produce them with an Expectation of convincing your Readers, I relate them merely in pursuance of the Task I have imposed on myself, to be an impartial Historian of American Facts and Opinions.

The Colonists being thus greatly alarmed, as I faid before, by the News of the Act for abolishing the Legislature of New-York, and the Imposition of these new Duties, professedly for such disagreeable Purposes (accompanied by a new Set of Revenue Officers, with large Appointments, which gave strong Suspicions that more Buffiness of the same kind was soon to be provided for them, that they might earn these Salaries) be-gan seriously to consider their Situation, and to revolve afresh in their Minds, Grievances, which, from their Respect and Love to this Country, they had long borne; Respect and Love to this Country, they had long borne, and seemed almost willing to forget. They reslected how lightly the Interest of all America had been estimated here, when the Interest of a few Inhabitants of Great-Britain happened to have the smallest Competition with it. That thus, the whole American People were forbidden the Advantage of a direct Importation of Wine, Oil, and Fruit, from Portugal, but must take them, loaded with all the Expences of a Voyage 1000 Leagues round about, being to be landed first in England, to be re-shipped for America; Expences amounting, in War-Time, at least to 30 per Cent. more mounting, in War-Time, at least to 30 per Cent. more than otherwise they would have been charged with; and all this merely that a few Portugal Merchants in London, may gain a Commission on those Goods pasfing through their Hands. Portugal Merchants, by the bye, that can complain loudly of the smallest Hardships laid on their Trade by Foreigners, and yet, even the last Year could oppose with all their Influence, the giving Ease to their Fellow Sabjeds labouring under so heavy an Oppression!—That on a slight Complaint of a few Virginia Merchants, Nine Colonies had been referring from making Paper, Money become also. restrained from making Paper-Money, become abso-lutely necessary to their internal Commerce, from the constant Remittante of their Gold and Silver to Briof Merchants, the Interest of a particular Body of Merchants, the Interest of any small Body of British Tradesmen or Artificers, has been found; they say; to outweigh that of all the King's Subjects in the Coto outweigh that of all the King's Subjects in the Colonies. There cannot be a fironger natural Right than that of a Man's making the best Profit he can of the natural Produce of his Lands, provided he does not thereby hurt the State in general. Iron is to be found every where in America, and Beaver Furs are the natural Produce of that Country: Hats and Nails, and Steel, are wanted there as well as here. It is of no Importance to the common Welfare of the Empire, whether a Subject of the King's gets his Living by whether a Subject of the King's gets his Living by making Hats on this or that Side of the Water. Yet the Hatters of England have prevailed to obtain an Act in their own Favour, restraining that Manufacture in America, in order to oblige the Americans to send their Beaver to England to be manufactured, and purchase back the Hats; loaded with the Charges of a double Transportation. In the fame Manner have a few Nailmakers, and ftill a smaller Body of Steelmatew Nalmakers, and fill a imalier Body of Steelma-kers (perhaps there are not Half a Dozen of these in-England) prevailed totally to forbid, by an Act of Par-liament, the erecting of Slitting Mills, or Steel Fur-naces, in America, that the Americans may be obliged to take all the Nails for their Buildings, and Steel for their Tools, from these Artificers, under the same Dis-Added to these, the Americant remembered the Act authorifing the most cruel Insult that perhaps was over offered by one People to another, that of emptying our Jails into their Settlements; Scotland too, having within these Two Years, obtained the Privilege at had not before, of sending its Rogues and Village is to the Plantations. with Debt; they will not fuffer us to reftrain the Luxury of our Inhabitants, as they do that of their own, by Laws: They can make Laws to discourage or prohibit the Importation of French Superfluities; but; though those of England are as ruinous to us, as the French ones are to them, if we make a Law of that kind, they immediately repeal it. Thus they get all our Money from us by Trade, and every Profit we can any where make by our Fisheries, our Produce, or our Commerce, centers finally with them; but this does not fignify. It is Tweether to take care of our fellows. not fignify. It is Time then to take care of ourselve by the best Means in our Power. Let us unite in fo lemn Resolutions and Engagements with, and to each other, that we will give these new Officers as little Trouble as possible, by not consuming the British Manufactures on which they are to levy the Duties. Let us agree to consume no more of their expensive Gewgaws. Let us live frugally, and let us industriously manufacture what we can for ourselves: Thus we shall be able honourably to discharge the Debts we already owe them, and after that we may be able to keep some. Money in our Country, not one for the Uses of our internal Commerce, but for the Service of our gracious Sovereign, whenever he shall have occasion for it, and think proper to require it of us in the old constitutional Manner.

For, notwithstanding the Reproaches thrown out a-gainst us in the Public Papers and Pamphlets, notwithstanding we have been reviled in their Senate as Rebels and Traitors, we are truly a loyal People. Scotland has had its Rebellions, and England its Plots against the present royal Family; but America is untainted with those Crimes; there is in it scarce a Man, there is not a fingle Native of our Country, who is not firmly at-tach'd to his King by Principle and by Affection. But a new Kind of Loyalty feems to be required of us, a Loyalty to P----t; a Loyalty that is to extend, it is faid, to a Surrender of all our Properties, whenever a H ---- of C -----, in which there is not a fingle Member of our chufing, shall think fit to grant them away without our Confent; and to a patient fuffering the Loss of our Privileges as Englishmen, if we cannot fubmit to make fuch Surrender. We were feparated too far from Britain by the Ocean, but we were united to it by Respect and Love, so that we could at any Time freely have spent our Lives and little Fortunes in its Cause: But this unhappy new System of Politics tends to dissolve those Bands of Union, and to sever us for

These are the wild Ravings of the at present half-distracted Americans. To be sure, no reasonable Man in England can approve of fuch Sentiments, and, as, I faid before, I do not pretend to support or justify them; but I fincerely wish, for the Sake of the Manufactures and Commerce of Great-Britain, and for the Sake of the Strength which a firm Union with our growing Colonies would give us, that these People had never been thus needlessly driven out of their Senses.

Monday last arrived here Capt. FROST, in 43 Days from the Downs, but has brought no English Prints, except his Majesty's SPEECH on the Prorogation of the Parliament.

His MAJESTY's most Gracious SPEECH to both Houses of PARLIAMENT, on Thursday the Tenth Day of March,

My Lords and Gentlemen,

HE Readiness with which you entered into the Views I recommended to you at the opening this Sellion, and the Affiduity with which you have applied yourselves to the Dispatch of the Public Business, me great Satisfaction. At the same Time, the affec-tionate Concern you have shewn for the Welfare of your Fellow Subjects, by the falutary Laws passed for their Relief, in respect to the high Price of Provisions, cannot fail of fecuring to you their most grateful Re-

I have nothing new to communicate to you in rela-tion to foreign Affairs. The apparent Interests of the several Powers in Europe, as well as the express Assu-rances I have received from them, leave me no room Tranquillity. And, on my Part, you may reft affured, that every Measure that is consistent with the Honour of my Crown, and the Rights of my Subjects, shall be steadily directed to that most falutary Purpose.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

Your Chearfulness in granting the necessary Supplies, and your Attention to the Ease of my good Subjects in the Manner of raising them, equally demand my Acknowledgments. I see, with Pleasure, that you have been able to profecute your Plan for the Diminution of the National Debt, without laying any additional Burthen upon my People.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

As the Time limited by Law for the Expiration of this Parliament now draws near, I have resolved forth-with to issue my. Proclamation for dissolving it, and for calling a new Parliament. But I cannot do this, without having first returned you my Thanks, for the many fignal Proofs you have given of the most affectionate Attachment to my Person, Family, and Government, the most faithful Attention to the Public Service, and the most earnest Zeal for the Preservation of our excellent Conflitution. When, by the vigorous Support which you gave me during the War, I had been enabled, under the Divine Providence, to reftore to my People the Bleffings of Peace, you continued to exert yourselves, with equal Alacrity and Steadiness, in pursuing every Measure that could contribute to the Maintenance of the Public Safety and Tranquility; which you well understood could no otherwise be preferved, than by establishing, on a respectable Foundation, the Strength, the Credit, and the Commerce of the Nation. The large Supplies you have from Time to Time granted, and the wise Regulations you have made for these important Purposes, will, I am persuaded, be found to have been productive of the most beneficial Consequences.

In the approaching Election of Representatives, I doubt not but my People will give me fresh Proofs of their Attachment to the true Interest of their Country; which I shall ever receive as the most acceptable Mark of their Affection to me. The Welfare of all my Sub-jects is my first Object. Nothing therefore has ever given me more real Concern, than to fee any of them, in any Part of my Dominions, attempting to loofen those Bonds of constitutional Subordination, so essential to the Welfare of the Whole. But it is with much Satisfaction that I now fee them returning to a more just Sense of what their own Interest, no less than their Duty, indispensibly requires of them; and thereby giving me the Prospect of continuing to reign over an happy, because an united People.

Then the Lord CHANCELLOR, by bis MAJESTY's Com-mand, faid;

My Lords and Gentlemen, It is his Majesty's Royal Will and Pleasure, That this Parliament be prorogued to Thursday the Thirty-first of this Instant March, to be then here held; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued, to Thursday the Thirty-first of this Instant.

Capt. Facer informs us, that Mr. WILKES appeared publicly in London, having declared himfelf a Candidate for the City, that his Pardon was to be made out the Day after he came away, and that it was generally believed he wou'd be return'd One of the Members, by a great Majority: The following is a Copy of one of his Hand Bills:

TO THE WORTHY LIVERYMEN OF THE CITY OF LONDON.

Gentlemen, and Fellow Citizens,

IN Deference to the Opinion of fome very refrecta-ble Friends, I prefume to offer myfelf a Candidate for my native City of London, at the enfuing General Election. The Approbation you have been pleafed, on feveral Occasions, to express of my Conduct, induces me to hope, that the Address I have now the Honour of making to you, will not be unfavourably received.

" The chief Merit with you, Gentlemen, I know to be a facred Love of Liberty, and of those generous Principles, which at first gave, and have fince secured to this Nation, the great Charter of Freedom, I will yield to none of my Countrymen in this noble Zeal, which have always chara rerized Englishmen. I may which have always chara rerized Englishmen. I may appeal to my whole Conduct, both in and out of Par-liament, for the Demonstration, that such Principles liament, for the Demontration, that luch Principles are deeply rooted in my Heart, and that I have fleadily purfued the Interests of my Country, without Regard to the powerful Enemies I created, or the manifest Dangers in which I must thence necessarily be involved, and that I have fulfilled the Duties of a good Subject.

"The Two important Questions of Public Liberty, respecting General Warrants; and the Seizure of Papers, may perhaps, place me among those, who have deserved well of Mankind, by an undaunted Firmness, Perseverance, and Probity: These are the Virtues which your Ancestors never failed to exert in the same national Cause of Liberty, and the World will be actional Cause of Liberty, and the World will be actional Cause. tional Cause of Liberty, and the World will see re-newed in their Descendants on every great Call of Freedom and our Country.

" The Nature and Dignity of the Truft, Gentlement which I now folicit, ftrike me very forcibly. I feel the warmest Zeal for your Interests, and Affection for your Service. I am confcious how unequal my Abilities are, yet Fidelity and Integrity shall in some Mea-fure compensate that Deficiency, and I will endezvour, through Life, to merit the Continuance of your Approbation, the most precious Reward to which I aspire, If I am honoured with so near a Relation to you, it will be my Ambition to be useful, to dedicate myself to your Service, and to discharge with Spirit and Assiduity, the various and important Duties of the distinguished Station, in which I may be placed by the Favour of you, Gentlemen, the Livery of London. I am, with the utmost Respect,

TO THE PRINTERS.

You have at length obtained the Great C. D's laprimatur. Whether the Surmife, that the Byflander's Letters were objected to as obnoxious, be true or not, you know best.—C. Compulsion."

I must do Lord B—— the Justice to say, that the Moment he heard the Subject of Pluralities would be disagreeable to the People, he superfieded his former Instructions, and resolved to provide for his Ricad on the Civil List:—A Conduct, which one would think deserves the warmest Returns of public and private Gratitude.—Your Opposition, C. D. merits Thanks.—We will not enquire into the Motives:—They will not bear the Light.—They wrong you who think you his Enemy.——I leave then the Deserve of this Branch of the legal Prerogative in your Hands: you his Enemy. I leave then the Defence of this Branch of the legal Prerogative in your Rands:

I am Your's,
A BYSTANDER.

To the PRINTERS of the MARYLAND GAZETTE. Your injecting the following Piece, which made its Appearance in a late English Paper, will oblige your humble Servant, A CONSTANT CUSTOMER. THE Pragmatic Sanction, as it is called, or royal Proclamation, or Law lately made in Spain, must, by all rational Men, be considered as extraordinary in Every Friend to the natural and focial Rights of Mankind, must conceive the strongest Indignation at such tyrannical Proceedings towards a whole People; for, admitting the Jesuits to be Atheists, Traitors, nay Devils incarnate, still they were, as a Community, one of the Members of that national Body Politic, and ought not to have been cut off from it, without being first proved so infectiously tainted, as to warrant, in Justice, fuch an Amputation.

If a Sovereign can, by the Laws of God, Justice, or Right, dispose of any Body of his People, whom he pleases, without assigning any other Reason, than his Will, upon secret Deliberations, and for Causes known to himself; what Security has any other Part, or even the whole of his People, that he will not do the same by them? And, to tell them they must submit to this being done in Silence, under the Penalty of being treated as guilty of high Treason, and even at Will to abrogate all obstructive Laws for that Purpose, is furely exerting a Power in which no People can acquiesce, 'til every Sentiment of Justice, Right or Humanity becomes obliterated from their Minds.

The Almighty never lodged fuch a Power in the Hands of any created Being; his Divine Laws, like his Attributes, being to do Justice and love Mercy; and no human Justice can be warrantable that is not manifested to be right. The King of Spain might, with as much Propriety, order his Subjects to turn Mahometans, for Reasons that he reserves within his Breast-with forbidding them, under the Penalty of high Treason, to write, speak, or declaim on the Subject, and with a-brogating all obstructive constitutional Laws for that Purpose, by his arbitrary Proclamation; or he might as well confifcate and punish every religious Order, or every civil Community on the like Pleas, and exactly the fame Injunctions to the rest of his People concerning his

We all know the Constitution of Spain was originally Gothic, like our own, and we also know, that the pre-fent King's Father was preferred to succeed to that Throne conditionally, for the Good of the People, and the entire Prefervation of the Spanish Dominions. They had then an acknowledged Right of thinking for them-felves, but now they are told it belongs not to them to judge of, or interpret the Sovereign's Commands; which is absolutely reducing them to the Condition of the most abject of blaves.

These Jesuits have Fathers, Brothers, and Kinsmen of all Degrees, amongst all Ranks of the Spaniards, who are to require no Reasons for their Confiscation and Banishment, while all natural Affection is even demanded to be filently facrificed .- Think, Oh! my Countrymen, to what Men become subjected when their Liberties are loft. Learn to value your own, and teach your Children to do the fame, beyond Fortune or even Life.

MARYLAND LIBERTY LOTTERY MARYLAND LIBERTY LOTTERY.

THE Lower House of Assembly of Marylann, have constantly, and in effectually, hitherto, since Seventeen Hundred and Thirty-nine, RESOLVED, That his Lordship hath no Right to collect Twelve. Pence per Hogshead on Tobacco exported.

A Constitutional Tax on the People to support an Agent of the Appointment of the Lower House, has been greatly desired, frequently attented, and as often refused by the Upper House.

The Lower House of Assembly contend, That the Clerk of the Council his reasonable Reward, as well

Clerk of the Council his reasonable Reward, as well as every other Expence necessarily attending the Execution of the Powers of Government, ought to be defrayed out of the Fines, Forfeitures, Aug. CIAMENTS, and OTHER MONIES, received by the Government for the Support thereof; and, "The Sentiment being directly opposite to the Opinion of Sentiment Sentime the Upper House had, on mature Consideration, or formed upon the Subject of the Clerk of the Con-"cil's Claim," principally occasioned the Non-payment of the Public Debt for upwards of Ten Year:
The Distress of Trade for Want of a Circulating Me. dium, and the extreme Necessity of Public Creditor. compelled the Lower House to agree to an Appel to his Majesty in Council, on the Subject Matter of Difference, without the Allotment of any Public Money for that Purpose, as the only Means to settle Disputs, restore Public Credit, and lay a fure Foundation for the future Ease and Good of the Province.

A SUBSCRIPTION therefore, by RESOLVE of the Lower House, has been open'd, and Subscriptions are taken in by every Member, for maintaining an Agent, and supporting the Appeal on the Part of the People, as well as obtaining Redress of their OTHER Grievances; and, by RESOLVE also of the Lower House, as an additional Means of raising Money for the same Purposes, the following SCHEME of a LOTTERY, by which to raise ONE THOUSAND POUNDS Common Money, is submitted to the Public.

Letters from Petersbourg, dated Jan. 28, fay, "We learn from Moseow, that when M. Pfarsky, Resident of the King of Prussia, presented to her Imperial Majesty lately a Memorial folliciting the Enlargement of the Four Prisoners of State, the Empress replied, That as the had not caused them to be arrested, but upon solid Representations, and only for the Welfare of the Republic, the very same Reasons obliged her to detain them; whereby there will be more Safety for the Dyet, and greater Hope of re-citablishing the Peace of the Na-tion; instead of which, if she should consent to set them at Liberty, it would rather be abandoning the State to them, than reftoring them to it."

It is talked that Two Regiments of Foot, on the Irish Establishment, are soon to be embarked for North-A-which has usually been very great there on occasion of long Mournings.

We are informed, that an English Gentleman of Distinction, who arrived last Thursday from Calais, declared that he was detained there by the Governor a Fortnight, and not suffered to depart; all his Papers examined, and Letters opened; that he dispatched an Express to Paris, who returned with an Order for his Departure, under the King's own Hand, upon which he was permitted to go: But many others (among whom were Three German Counts, and Two English Couriess from Lord Rochford) were detained. That many Conjectures were formed, and great Unsaliness appeared ectures were formed, and great Uneafiness appeared concerning the Cause of such extraordinary Proceedings; but none, not even the Governor himself, could account for it. Some thought of the Clergy, others of the King; but all agreed that the Death of the Queen, which was expected, could not produce such an Effect.

The true Cause of which was, however, waited for with great Impatience.

A Letter from Lancathire fays, "To fuch a Degree has Faction raged here, that had all the Ships in the adjoining River, been Men of War, and had bombarded the Town, the Windows and Doors of every House, of both Parties, could not possibly appear in a more rui-nous and shattered State. But, at Preston, the Scene is still much worse, where last Week an unthinking Mob (computed at about 3000) entirely demolifhed and levelled feveral good and genteel Houses, together with the Popish Chapel. In other Places they have broke to Pieces all Sorts of Houshold Furniture; whereby great Numbers of People in that next and beautiful Town are not only reduced to the last Extremity, but also several have loft their Lives, and others are dangerously wounded and maimed in opposing them. Never, until my Heart becomes infensible of all worldly Things, will it become infensible of the unspeakable Obligations, which, as an American, I owe to the Inhabitants of the Province of Meffactusetts-Bay, for the Vigilance with which they have maintained the Liberties of the British Colonis on this Continent.

May 2. The late Speaker of the House of Representatives has received a very genteel Letter from the Speaker of the House of Burgesses in Virginia, in Answer to the circular Letter of the House, written in the last Session eneral Allembi in got to v in good Time, as their Assembly was to fit in a fe in good Time, as their Assembly was to sit in a few Days. Their Principles of Liberty, it is said, are-so well established, and the Tendency of the late Asts of Parliament imposing Duties and Taxes on the Colonies are so manifest, as to leave no Doubt but they will approve of the Measures taken, and readily concur in the Plan proposed for the Support of their Constitutional Rights. Their noble, timely and spirited Resolutions in the Year 2765, so satisfactory to the People of America, assord abundant Reason for us ever to respect that Province, and to speak of them in the same Terms in which the Honourable Gentleman is pleased politely to mention this, "as very vigilant and stedsaft Guardians of American Rights."

Let us then not despair of his Amendment, of seeing him discard some, at least, of his most disgusting Indecencies; for no one can be quite regardless of the World's Censure, who does not deserve it.—But whatever his present Resolution may be, I sear that certain Vices have enter'd too deeply into his Habit, to be subdued at once. His Self-gratulations on supposed Victory, unless they allude to his Resolution of becoming a new Man, of acquiring Knowledge in Things commendable, and casting off his Arrogance, small too rankly of that inordinate Vanity, which hath been so generally offensive. When he plumes himself upon a Triumph over Objections he has not attempted to answer, he lays aside the Mask he had prepar'd for Difgusse. The wretched Effusions of his Degret Mass, can scarce pretend to the Character of an Answer, and especially when he tells us in a Note, that his bird Letter guife. The wretched Effusions of his Doggrel Mass, can scarce pretend to the Character of an Answer, and especially when he tells us in a Note, that his third Letter was actually written, and prepar'd for the Press, the Week after C. He who acts by it, can't always be disguised, and when detected, he becomes impotent by arming every one against hims.—If Illustrations of this Remark were necessary, certain Vessyman, as well as others, cou'd furnish them.—I have, indeed, been informed, that the Exclamation "Hear him—Hear him"—is not unfrequent is the House of Commons, either to check the Forwardness of an Impertinent, or to remove the Interruption given to an agreeable to remove the Interruption given to an agreeable Speaker; but I have also heard it, in more private Affemblies, where a very rade Fellow has made an Uproar, not only with the utmost Exertions of his Voice, but with clapping his Hands, and knocking the Floor with with clapping his Hands, and knocking the Floor with his Heels, and have observed that his Turbulence generally proceeded from Tephness.—Under some Delusion, the Bysander certainly was. The Gazette was all alent—the Impressions of the Types did not vociferate—whence then the Turnult, that was to be appeared? Vain Phantasy, as light and thin of Substance as the Air! The Bysander misconceived his real Situation, and what so densive as Tephaess?—Drunk!—Oh symptome of Exhibitation from an extraordinary Bottle or Bowl, that makes a Man (very little inchaed to Decency at any Time) totally sorget his Function. To the Term Drunkenness, different Men might annex different Ideas.—Some might think, when you charge another with being drunk, that he was disabled from walking or standing.—To avoid Misconstruction, I used the Word Tassy, in which Condition, the Bysander may not only stand and walk, but dance too, and talk very—shrewdly, especially to the Women, and laugh very heartily at those Flashes of his Wit, that Modesty is apt to resent.

Who faid the Parson-was a Whoremasser? — I never heard of his keeping W.—. — They are expensive Baggages, and he is extremely frugal. — There is indeed to make the present of the present of Baggages, and he is extremely frugal.—There is indeed fomething in my former Letter, about fruest pretty Mulattos, a Phrase, that ought not to offend the Ears of him, whose Mouth has so often pronounc'd it.—It is an high Taste, and sometimes disaftrous, unless the By-flander "has been greatly belied, even by himself."—C. D. probably will never turn Father-Confessor, nor will the Byslander need his Affistance in that Character, for a Mother-Confessor will serve his Turn.

"The Parion, says he, has never yet been seen inc." Liquor, or detested with a W.—c."—The Person, who afferts this, must, to be sure, have been very long, and intimately acquainted with him; but this Person is not the Parson himself. We pretty well know, that no one here, was acquainted with him, before he caste among un except one, who nobody can imagine affects the Character of a Sage of the Law, a Canonist, and a Poet.—We know too, that he has been here but a short Time, and that his facred Name, notwithstanding the Celebrity of it, had not reach'd us before he broaght it with him. This was properly faid by Juvenal, in the Introduction to his First Satire, but applied to the Bystander's Third Letter, it is a Blynder as hig as a Bull, and shows the Tenuty of the Man's Genius, when he cannot even surnish a Matto with tolerable Propriety. But perhaps he may intend it for a modell Acknowledgment, that altho' he had written Two Letters before, he had faid nothing. I acknowledge the Weight of the Plea, and dare say it may be equally admitted they the abole Course of Fifty Letters more, should be oblige the Fublic with that Number, and so to may be on with his Auditor tantum's and numquamne reponance, to the had of the Chapter—without further demanders in perplexing the Question? No Wonder that I shou'd have employed " so many Fetches" to fathom this deep "Secret."—But let the Bystander be the Parson, or his Genius, or who you please, he has given us a pretty Argument, which shews how useful the Study of the Law is, and at the same Time recommends itof the Law is, and at the same Time recommends itself strongly to Sinners by its Convenience. must be tounded upon the Doctrine of an eminent Cafuist, who tells us, that " if a Priest be seen in any in " decent Action, we ought to account it a Deception of Sight, or Illusion of the Devil, who sometimes takes upon him the Shape of holy Men, on purpose to cause Scandal."

If I bad my Religion still to chase, deplorable indeed wou'd be my Condition, unless I had a better Guide than this Parson.—A real, sincere Christian, not only without one Virtue, but deformed all over with Vice. without one Virtue, but deformed all over with Vice, wou'd be the greatest Prodigy, and his Documents wou'd probably fail in working my Conviction, when his Actions evinced, that he never felt the Influence of one divine or moral Truth.—When Austan endea-your'd to bring the Britons in Conformity with, and a Submission to, the Jurisdiction of the Pope, they applied to an Anchorite for his Advice, who answerd, that as the Essence of Religion consisted in Love and that as the Essence of Religion consisted in Love and Union, if Austin was an holy Man, and sent of God, they shou'd follow him; but if not meek and lowly, they shou'd judge him not to be his Disciple, who taught Men to know his Yoke by the Meckness and Humility of those, who bore it. Austin having treated these People with an Haughtiness, opposite to the meek Spirit of the Christian Religion, they were deaf to all his Arguments, and their Refractoriness gave Occasion to a Prophecy, he utter'd with great Vehemence, that since they wou'd not accept the Word of Life, they wou'd suffer Death by the Hands of the Engliss;"—which was afterwards fulfilled, tho' the Power and Influence he had over the Engliss, and the implacable fluence he had over the English, and the implacable Malice he bore against those, who had impiously denied his Authority, and profanely judg'd of him from his Actions, and not his Professions, may feem to account better for the Confidence of the Prediction, and the Correspondency of the Event, than the real Sanctity of his Character, and his Pretences to Inspiration. I shou'd be very forry to see a certain Parson here, pos-fessed with the same Power and Instuence, and the fame Malignity that now harrows up his Soul, left he fhou'd turn Prophet too, and do more than declare. that he thinks it wou'd be a right Course to cut off the pre-Who the Person designed is, that he has described to be one, who, "tho' he will not allow a Dispensation, will not refuse Absolution, &c."—I fincerely declare I can't form the least Guess, because I know none, to whom the Parson can be supposed to allude, that it, in any Degree, fuits; and perhaps this Passage, for he is very ingenious in the Art of Calumny, was intended to exercise the Conjectures of the Reader, and that he expects, from their Variety, the Christian Satisfaction of bringing many under the Imputation, or his View may be to take off a little of the Odium, that attends may be to take off a little of the Odium, that attends his own Character, by attributing some of his Defects to others.—It has been observed, that it all Men were as great Philosophers, Orators and Poets, as Newton, Locke, Demosthenes, and Homer, the Terms-Philosopher, Orator and Poet, wou'd be discharged out of Language, for, tho' possitively used, they are comparatively understood.—As it wou'd be with Accomplishments, so wou'd it be with Vices, and if all Men were such as the Bystander, we should lose the Men were fuch as the Byflander, we shou'd lose the Terms Profligate, and Vicious. Hence the favourite Maxim, that " all Men are Rascals" which at least establishes a Truth, the greatest Pyrrbonian will hardly doubt, that he, who advances it, is one.

The Byflander was prudent in not attempting a methe byfacter, but wou'd have been more prudent, if he had not attempted any. None ever suspected his Strength, to be Herculean, or that any Thing wou'd be-Strength, to be Herculean, or that any Thing wou'd become cleaner from his Hands. "C. D. fays he, opens with observing, that the greatest Objection to his (the Bysander's) Dissimulation, is the Folly of it, when not concealed." After having made that, which was a Relative, a general Observation, and suppressed the Words, if he does not attempt to pick any one's Property by four Tricks, he proceeds with great Property. Pockets by foul Tricks, he proceeds with great Propriety to his Strictures.—This, fays he, is Nonfense, "or worse:" Why Nonsense? Is not Dissimulation often worse:" Why Nonsense? Is not Dissimulation often detected? Have you not yet sels this, or are you harden'd into absolute Insensibility?—Why was my Observation worse? Did'I not plainly enough express my Detestation of your Fraud? And do you think you have palliated it by adding to your other foul Tricks, one more, in misrepresenting a Passage in my Letter, in order to take Occasion, from your Supportsion, to in order to take Occasion, from your Suppression, to in order to take Occasion, from your Suppression, to vent a little impotent Slander, or a puny Witticism, and display the Extent of your Erudition, in the backney'd Story of the Spartan Boy?

I am no Advocate for Hypocristy, but yet I must tell the Byslander, that in some extremely bad Cases, it may, like Dr. Storck's Medicines, be proper.—A certain Nobleman having a Living in his Gift, Parson Fapplied to his Lordship for a Presentation, but his Lordship objected to the Parson's Pretensions, that he was not wicked enough.—Struck with Astonishment at the unexpected Imputation, how, said F.—, not was not wicked enough.—Struck with Aftonishment at the unexpected Imputation, how, faid F—, not wicked enough, my Lord! Where is the Man that can out-swear, out-lie, out-drink, or out-whore me?—

'Tis very true, replied his Lordship, you are F— a very wicked Fellow; but there is one Vice you don't practic. What can that be, faid F—;—Hypocrify, Mr: F—, Hypocrify. Your other Vices, without this, are not only hurtful to yourself, but to the World too, from the Contagion of bad Example. Turn Hypo-crite, and you'll go to the D---l, without carrying fo much Company with you.

When I reflect upon the Abolition of the Writ for burning of Heretics, I always join with Lord Hale, in his Laus Deo (Praise be to God)—The Word Heretic was of a very extensive Meaning, and, by the bye, of a very fluctuating one too. The Lollards were deem'd to be Heretics, because they thought it not meritorious to go in Pilgrimage to St. Thomas, or to St. Mary of Walfing-ham, &c. Even a Parfon, as pious and moral as the Bystander himself, might be in Danger of Comburation, were this Writ now in Force, if unhappily obnoxious to the Malice of prevailing Power, and, especially, if an officious Sidesman shou'd discover, that he carried into his Desk, or Pulpit, VOLTAIRE'S Didionnaire Philosophique, the undoubtedly a very harmless good kind of Book.—Let not then the Byflander express any more Regret, at the Loss of this Persuasive to Orthodoxy. It might indeed give him exquifite Delight to fee certain Mecreants roafted; but should the Fire be re-kindled, he is not fure, but it might, before extinguished, scorch himself.—Dr. Ayliffe says, the Canon Law reckons no less than Eighty-eight different Sorts or Species of Heresy. How many wou'd the Net of Heresy, with Glosses and Confructions overspread!

The Word flooping instead of flooping having occurr'd in my printed Letter, tho', with other Errata, it was taken Notice of in the next Paper, and the Byflander was informed by the Printers, before the Publication of his last Letter, that they would repeat, in an Adversion of his last Letter, that they would repeat, in an Adversion of his last Letter, that they would repeat, in an Adversion of his last Letter, that they would repeat, in an Adversion of his last Letter, that they would repeat, in an Adversion of his last Letter, that they would repeat his was to be intisement, the Notice; yet the literal Slip was to be in-fifted on.—What, give up the mighty Advantage! Lose so favourable an Opportunity of shewing the Extent of his Parts, and the Brilliancy of his Wit, in a a Bird of his Pounces to forego!—It was a Triumph just fuited to the Sublimity of his Genius!

The Word inseriorem, instead of superiorem, tho' the mere Mistake of the Printers, (as they have very truly and candidly acknowledg'd to the Public) who were directed to print the Bysander's Interpolation from the Note to his own Letter, has been the Source too of great Exultation.—Such Inadvertencies, he vainly hopes, may be ranked with his Misquosens, calculated for the infamous Purpose of imposing upon the Public. may be ranked with his Misquo twns, calculated for the infamous Purpose of imposing upon the Public.—
But permit me to examine this Passage of the Bystander a little more minutely, and we shall find it replete with those Ingredients, which so remarkably distinguish all his Productions, Impudence—Folly—Knavery.—Having taken Notice of inferiorem instead of superiorem, he proceeds thus; "Mark the Ingenuousness of C. D.
He first großily abuses the Bysander for a Blunder—
That Blunder is his own, and he has Grace enough to acknowledge it in the next Gazette." Here he wou'd make the Reader believe, that the Fault I found with his Quotation, from Godolphin, was his inferting inferiorem instead of fuperiorem, and then, after attempting to fix this Blunder upon me, he flatters himself, his Readers will be such blind Dupes as to believe, that my whole Charge of Interpolation being confirm Readers will be fuch blind Dupes as to believe, that my whole Charge of Interpolation, being confin'd to this fingle Word, is effectually refuted.—But, if the Reader will caft his Eye upon this Passage of my Letter, he will at once see, that I don't charge the Bystander with what he calls a Blunder of mine, but with a gross premeditated Piece of Fraud of his own, in making Godolphin speak of the Churches of Maryland, and lay down Rules for their Government, in a Book which was written before any Churches were established in the Province. before any Churches were established in the Province. It is against the general Tenor of his spurious Quotation, as far as it regards the Churches of Maryland, and not against any particular Word that my Objection lies, for that here we have him again at his old Trick of misrepresenting.—But not to dwell too long upon this Point, I will just call upon him to shew;

I. That I have grossly abused him for a Blunder, in in-ferting the Word inseriorem, for superiorem, whereas it makes no Part of my Charge, as has been fully shewn.

II. "That the Blunder was mine," whereas the direct contrary appears, by the politive Testimony of the Printers, already published.—

III. "That I acknowledge the Blunder to be my own in the next Gazette."—The Paffage in the Gazette stands thus:—"In our last Gazette, in the Papers first struck off, the following Errors in the Piece, sign'd to C. D. escat'd the Press." among which is the Error at "G. D. escap'd the Press," among which is the Error at present in Question. Now this, I apprehend, is as expressly the Acknowledgment of the Printers, as Terms cou'd make it; yet this Man says, that it was the Acknowledgment of C. D. and has the Assurance to talk D. and has the Affurance to talk about Grace, at the very Instant he was uttering so graceless a Falsehood.

Here then, Reader, we find in the space of about Three Lines, no less than Three gross palpable Strokes of our Author's Mendacity, which, with a Multitude of fimilar Inftances, already produc'd, and not even attempted to be disprov'd, may serve to shew how much he writes like a Gentleman. —After having fix'd upon me this difingenuous Blunder in the Manner we have feen, he exultingly cries out—" Who deferves the Pump and the Horse-Pond, &c."—This being a Question, improper to be decided either by you or me, I wou'd most willingly submit it to any Twelve bonest Men and competent, ludges in the Province. honest Men and competent Judges in the Province; and, Parson, to shew you, that I desire to take no Advantage of you, as a Stranger, I will give you Leave to pick them about of your own Parish.

I have again turn'd to Littleton, §. 431, and Lord Coke's Comment upon it, and can find no more than I before discover'd and declar'd in my former Letter.

His Quotation from Go. Lit. 136, was, that " an Incumbent has an actual Freehold in the Church for his Life, from which he is not removeable but by a Course of Law, according to the Practice of the Ecclefiastical

I observed before, that Co. Litt. 136, treats on the Subject of Villenage. I also before turn'd to Litt. 5, 136, and cou'd find nothing to countenance the Affertion; and I undertake to fay, that it is neither to be found in the Book, nor is the Position true.

The Substance of Litt. §, 136, is, that if "Tenants, by Frank Almoign, fail to do Divine Service, viz. to make Oxions, Prayers, Masses, and other divine Services, for the Souls of their Granters, and of their Heirs, that are dead. So, the Lord may not diffrain, because the Services referved on the Tenure are not certain, but may complain to their Ordinary or Vifitor." may complain to their Ordinary or Vintor. That the Byflander shou'd have read, and not understood Litt, wou'd not have been surprizing; but, that he shou'd insist upon his Reference to prove the Assertion in his sirst Letter, shews an invincible Power of Face. Even in the Case of this superstitious Tenure. Face.—Even in the Cale of this inperfitious Tenure, if the Services referved, were certain, the Lord might distrain.—Whether certain or uncertain, the Power of Correction might be in the King, or in a Layman, if the Visitor.—That an Incumbent is removeable by the Temporal Laws, in various Instances, it would be unnecessary to prove.

The Churches of Maryland, says he, the they exactly correspond with Lord Coke's Description of Donatives, are yet in the Ast of Assembly, mentioned as presentative. It is not a very pleasant Task to have to do with a Man, who pretends to argue, and yet will not, or cannot advance his Principles, and draw his Conclusion.

A mere Dealer in Souths and Services. not advance his Principles, and draw his Conclusions.

—A mere Dealer in Squibs and Scraps, who hopes to escape, like the Ink-Fish, in the Obscurity he contrives.—In what do our Churches correspond with the Idea of Donatives? Not, I suppose, on Account of the Patron's Foundation or Endowment, but because an Appointment has all the Effects of Presentation, Infi-Appointment has an the Effect of Presentation, infu-tution and Induction, in the Case of a Benefice Presen-tative. "The Act of Assembly, says he, speaks of them as presentative."—How so? Not surely in the Sense of Presentation, in order for Institution. Our Churches are donative, having Reyard to the Ceremon, fufficient to conflitute an Incumbency or Plenarty. They are made so by the AEI of Assembly, by which they were founded, established and endowed. Suppose the AEI to be repealed, and we shall have no Church. Had the By-flander kept up the Idea of the Church of Maryland, and not talked about the Church of England, he wou'd have avoided the strange Absurdities he has fallen into. The Bishop of London once claimed the Jurisdiction of Ordinary, upon the Bystander's Principle of Law, under which Pluralities are tenable. Upon the same Principle, a Vestry, it seems, claims the Right of Patronage, and this Principle being admitted, it might be contended, that there is not a Church or Incumbent in Maryland. When old Foundations are weaken'd, and Land-Marks remov'd, the Inconvenience of difcrepant Opinions is to be expected.

" Present to a Vestry !" What does the Infinuation acan? Do any Vestries claim the Power of Institution? The Word present, is used in the Act in a very proper Signification, tho' differently from the Import of it, when applied to Benefices Presentative. Here the By-Rander may exercise his critical Acumen with as much Self-complacency, and as much Abfurdity, as he did on the Word Admission. He may tell us, that Lord Cole defines Presentation to be the Act of the Patron, offering a Clerk to the Bishop for Institution, and insit that the Word present, must have only one Meaning annexed to it, tho capable of more, and that Meaning too which will make it Meaning too which will make it.

too which will make it Nonfense, when there is another that will make it Sense.

The Words " present, induct, or appoint, in the Act, are synonimous, a very common Thing in framing of Laws. Lord Macclessield observes, that the best Rule, in the Construction of a Statute, is to observe the Will of the Legislature. In the case of a Donative, if the Patron be disturbed, the Writ runs, that he may be permitted to present, and the peculiar Nature of the Case is afterwards set out. Sir H. Spelman observe, that if this Form shows the autient Method of Investigation. that " this Form shews the antient Method of Invelliture before the Decretals, and increasing Authority of of the Canons gained upon the Laity—that the Word present denoted no more than the Patron's sending to, or placing an Incumbent in the Church. To preject imports the fame as to give, fo that to prefent a fit Person to the Church, was all one with giving the Church, or conftituting or appointing in the Church, a fit Person.—So, in the case of a Bishop, the Words of the Writ are—that he be permitted to present.—Presentation therefore, (Selden says) when Institution was not practised, meant the same with "Donation and Institution." Investiture." Here then can be no Difficulty in fixing the Meaning of the Word Present, in our Act. The Will of the Legislature is plain, that the Minister present, without other Ceremony, shall be entitled to the Benefice. The Donation and Investiture are thereby compleated. Institution is not, nor can be practiced. tifed.—It may not be amis, however, as a Causes, to take Notice, how this Practice of Institution sprang up, and expanded itself .- When a Benefice was to be conferr'd upon a mere Layman, who, as such, was incapable of it, he was, as Blackflone observes, pre-fented to the Bishop to receive Ordination, who was at Liberty to admit or refuse him; but, when a Clerk is Orders, was to have the Benefice, he was invested by the sole Donation of the Patron, 'til about the Middle of the 12th Century, when the Pope and the Bishops endeavour'd to introduce a kind of Feodal Dominica over ecclessifical Benefices, and, in consequence thereof, began to claim and exercise the Right of Institution universally, as a spiritual Investiture." This Instance may serve to show how necessary it is for the Lasty to may serve to show how necessary it is for the Laity to be vigilant, and to resist with Firmness, the first Advances to ecclefiostical Incroachments. At first the Caust were, infidiously, faid to be-Neque Leger bumane, at been received, the Ton was changed. The Word induct, in the Act, tho it implies a pre-cedent Infitution, in the case of a Prejentative Living, is also proper in that of a Denative, in which there is no Infitution. What has been already observed, prove Donative, when conferr'd by the Patron, without he ving any Concern with the Ordinary, runs properly in this Manner: "I A. He has given us too, a most ridiculous and nonsensi-He has given us too, a most ridiculous and nonlensical Definition of an Advovoson, and had the Affurance to palm it upon Lord Coke, in high Derogation from the Respect and Veneration, which have been always paid to that great Oracle of the Law.—I thought the Office of a Definition was to explain a Subject by its Kind and Difference; but it is plain, as I observed in my former Letter, this wou'd take in his Horse, as well as an Advovoson. Show it a Man define a Square to be a Figure, contained within Lines. it wou'd be a gentle Correctional of the Square of the Corrections of the Square of the Squ contained within Lines, it wou'd be a gentle Correc-tion of his abfurd Forwardness, to tell him, that his

Square might be a Triangle. How miterably has he marr'd Mr. Pope, by his Parody. — Pope's Serjeants complimented each other with the Talents of those Two great Lawyers, Lords Cooper and Talbot, in their Profession; in whose Place the Byflander has as properly put Lords Chatham and Cambden, the former of whom is no Lawyer, and possesses a Species of Eloquence, very unsuitable to the Bar, as he modestly has put himself in the Place of Mr. Murray, the present Lord Mansfeld! Whether he felt, at the Time, any Compunction for former Scurrilities, or meant only to tickle his Vanity, by arrogating to him-felf the Wit and Elegance of Lord Manifield, is very problematical. The Byflander's Wit! No fuch Matter, Petulance and Obscenity pass for Wit with sewer People than his Vanity allows him to perceive. But he is not only a Wit, and a Poet that revels with the Muses, a sage of the Law, a Man of sacred Virtue, &c. &c. but also an inquisitive Naturalist; the having, perhaps, just been reading Dr. King's historical and chronological Account of the CONSECREATED CLOUTS, his Refearches in this Way, have been very fingular, and the extreme Eagerness of his Curiosity, at the same Time that it cou'd not but raise the Admiration of others, was enough to bring the Blush into the Cheeks of even newly imported Africans.

If the Word give, be used in the Sense of send-com-municate—in the Bible, by what Logic will the Parson prove me to be a "narrow minded Wretch," for applying it in the fame Manner, that will not prove him to be a wretched Divine. "But is there no other Idea of "giving?" Yes, but not applicable to that Passage. Why then the Question?—Why, that he might vent a little impotent Malice, and flourish with Two solen Ferses. Surely, when the Wretch wrote this Passage, he must have been something more than tipsey; he must have been strongly under the Instuence of his Inspirer ALE, for fuch an Inftance of groß Blundering, can hardly be afcrib'd to the mere Force of his natural Stu-

He speaks of Parsons, who can't read in any other Book than their sawn; but it seems, I have a Parson to deal with, who can't read even in his sawn. In return for his Prayer, I must give him my Advice—that he may strive to be more honest, decent and sober—cease his impudent Boasts of his Merit, and of the public Voice in his Favour, when he knows himself to be infamous, and the Object of universal Detestation—to such a Degree detested, that he can scarce enter the Doors of Six Families in the Province, without Intrusion and dares not even shew his Face in his sawn Parish—employ a few Hours now and then in reading his own dares not even shew his Face in bis own Parish em-Bible, tho' he shou'd neglect his favourite Dictionnairs, that he may avoid the Shame of not knowing when the Bible is quoted, whether the Reference be just or not, and of fluffling and cutting, left he flould acknowledge what is not there, or deny what is—flew fome Refect to modest Women, and cease to infult them with obscene Ribaldry; and because they discountenance it in public, infinuate that they are wanten in private.

How satisfactorily does he get over the Charge of misquoting the Act of Assembly? Not by denying it, nor by attempting to justify his pretty Argument about Right and Remedy; but by breaking out into this impotent Exclamation, which proves just as much as one of his Ballads.—"What a Distinction between the Words Petition and Diffre?" It was your Business, Mr. Bysander, when you were quoting the Act, to give the very Terms of it, and not to substitute a Word of your own, of a Signification substantially different, and then make it the Foundation of an Argument, which totally perverts the Sense of the Act.—But let us pursue him for a Moment, whilst he trips it along with his Exclamations, in the pretty mincing Style of a Chambermaid. with his Exclamations, in the pretty mincing Style of a Chambermaid. "What Stress upon the Term adjacent?" Which he inforces with this irreffible Argument. "One of the most contemptible Ideas, as "Lord Chatham faid of Virtual Representation, that Lord Chatham faid, of Virtual Representation, that ever enter'd the Head of Man!" How unbounded is this Man's Affurance! He knows the general Opinion of the Lawyers, as well as of other judicious and differential Men, to be againft his pretended Confraction of the Act, and yet has the Insolence to contradict them all, with the utmost Contempt, without being able, or even attempting to produce the least Shadow of an Argument, in Support of his Pretension.—"What a Fust to find a Bishop when the Incumbent will do as well!"—Softly—Do what i—Certify?—He can no more certify than John Nobes. If he applies, he will have just the same Credit given to him, as another would have, and no more. Well, but as to the Chancels for it is—Where are the Vestries, that would be Ordi-naries, Patrons and Incumbents? It is an old Saying, that Wits have shallow Memories, but there is another that certain very inventive Folks ought to have good ones. How has he supported his Representation of the Case between the Diffenters and the City of London? How justified his Conduct, as Principal of the Vestry, in attempting to disposses a Member of his Seat against tempting to disposes a Member of his Seat against Law, and to fill up the Vacancy by Surprise upon the Parish? How has he explain'd his tacking an Se. to a Passage from Gibson? No verbum quidem, not one Word. Perhaps, in the last Instance, he had heard of Littleton's great Knack at an Se. and so had a Mind to try his Hand, and it must be allow'd his Se. was a very pregnent one.

In a former Letter, he affert that "Sidesmen, otherwise Questmen, otherwise Vestrymen, are certain Persons chosen in each Parish, as Assistants (expressly so called in ALL the Law Books) to the " Churchwardens." In my Remarks, I gave a fuc-cinct Account of the different Offices; and now for ciner Account of the different Offices; and now for his Proof of what ALL the Law Books fay—" Go. " dolphia speaks of them as synonimous."—How !— Why, in abridging a Law Case, he says, that " the " Churchwarden's Gift of Goods without the Consent " of the Sidesmen or Vestry is void." There must be something very much amis in a Man's Brain, who can argue, that because Sidesmen and Vestrymen have a concurrent Power on one Subject, therefore they are the fame in all Respects!—Because an Acknowledge-ment before a Counsellor or a Provincial Magistrate is good, therefore a Provincial Magistrate is a Counsellor. Sidesmen were originally appointed by the Bishops to give Information of the Disorders of the Clergy and the People.—By Can. 90, they were afterwards elected by the Minister and Parishioners, or, on their Difagreement, appointed by the Ordinary. They were attendant on the Spiritual Court—they took an Oath directed by the Canons.—The Office of Vestrymen is merely temporal. It is a temporal Right, incident to Property, or chargeable Refidence, if general; if felect, is temporal also, arising from Prescription, which is of temporal Cognizance only. They are not by their Office to attend the Spiritual Court—They are bound to no Canonical Qualification.—Whether a Person be, or not, a Vestryman, is a legal Question, determinable only by the temporal Laws, and he has a legal Remedy in the temporal Courts, thou'd he be obstructed, whether by the Principal, or any other in the Exercise of his Right. I have dwelt the longer upon this Circumstance in my former Letter, not only in Consequence of my general View of shewing what Kind of Man this adventurous Byflander is, but to obviate what feems to be his Drift—to bring Vestries into the Predicament of Officers, fuberdinate to Ecclesiafical Jurif-

His Quotation from Godolphin, which I present once more to the Public, in a Note below " outdees his ufual Outdoings."usual Outdoings."—Such an impudent Attempt to impose upon the Public, raised my Indignation, and I spoke what that dictated. How wou'd the Bysander palliate the Forgery?—"A Vestry, says he, had set up a most absurd Claim to a Right of Presentation, by Lapse of Time."—What Vestry?—Is he to be allow'd to advance a new Falsehood, to justify an old one?—"Gadalahir says the King can't be beyond. -Such an impudent Attempt to be allow'd to advance a new Falsehood, to justify an old one?—"Godolphin says, the King can't be bound by Lapse of Time, and the Lord Proprietary's Name was added upon the Credit of this Syllogism, Lord B. fands loco Regis, in Respect of this Government, therefore Lord B. cannot be bound by Lapse of Time."—Is there the least Intimation given of a Syllogism in his former Paper? By what Mark is the Reader led to distinguish between the genuine Words of Godolphin and the Bysander's Intermixtures? Tell us, Mr. Bysander, if you had intended a Forgery, in what other Dress you cou'd possibly have palm'd it upon the Public?—But if you had intended bonestly, you wou'd have quoted the Passage from Godolphin just as it stands in his Book, and then applied your Syllogism. "The Proprietor's Name, says he, was added." Was nothing more added but the Proprietary's Name? If he had confined himself to the Subject of Lapse, it wou'd have been sufficient to have mention'd a common Pahave been sufficient to have mention'd a common Patron of a Donative who is not bound by Lapfe of Time. This wou'd not have ferv'd the Purpole. The Churches in Maryland were to be ROYAL Donatives; the Supremacy was the Point to be infifted upon—why? Because to be attended with the Power of Dispensation. On this Ground, the Assertion that "Pluralities are tenable " by Laws, the Effect of which no Act of Affembly can ever invalidate," was to be supported, and not a Non-Entity to be impugned. Supremacy in the Church of England (which he contends the Church of Maryland of England (which he contends the Church of Maryland to be) vefted in any other Person than the King!—
Has he not taken the Oaths? Has he forgot the 39 Articles?——I gave a Hint on this Suggestion, which seems to have been taken, and the Evasion only shews what extreme Folly and Impudence will attempt. But, says he, "strictly speaking, a Reference unless marked above, relates only to the nearest Sentence."—Let any Man but din into any Book whatever, nay, even into Man but dip into any Book whatever, nay, even into this very Byflander, wherein a Quotation is made from Burn's Preface, and he will at once fee the Falsehood and Absurdity of this Assertion.—But let his Rule be taken for granted, pray what is the nearest Sentence to his Reference mark'd below? Why it is this—"The King, or Lord Proprietary, cannot be bound by Lapse of Time, because of their Supremacy"—But the this Remark does not serve one Purpose, he seems to hope, that with a little Missepresentation, it may serve another;—if it shou'd not whiten, it may blacken.—
"The Treatise on Peerage, says he, is referred to, in the Middle of the 8th Page of a certain Composition; who wou'd think, it was meant to extend two full Pages verbatim, without any further Acknowledge-Pages verbatim, without any further Acknowledge-ment?——I understand nothing of such a Finesse to catch the Admiration of the Vulgar. When Men of no Invention and great Reading sit down to write, we must pardon long Quotations, the they may not always chuse to acknowledge the Obligation."

. The Churches in Maryland are Royal Donatives. No Donation incurs a Laple, a Laple must be ab inferiore ad superiorem. The King, or Lord Proprietary, cannot be bound by Laple of Time, because of their Supremacy." God.

When at was imputed to Termee, that his Plays had been written by Lelius and Scipio, he was so agreeably flatter'd by the Supposition, implied by the Reproach, that what he had composed was not beneath their Pens that he fuffer'd it to prevail without Contradiction that he fuffer'd it to prevail without Contradiction; and if no one was concern'd in the Parfon's Affertion, but the Perfon levelled at, I shou'd not animadvert upon the Falsehood and the Folly of the Imputation. But it may be of Use, and falls in with my Design, of exhibiting to the Public View this busy Incendiary in his just Lineaments and Complexion, and therefore I shall remark, that his Affertion is, in the first Place; false, and his Surmise that the Author, by a Finesse to catch valgar Admiration, meant to pass, for his own Invention, what was transcribed from another's Composition, is an Absurdity too gross for Folly, not in-Invention, what was transcribed from another's Composition, is an Absurdity too gross for Folly, not infuriate by the utmost Malignity, to have fallen into. The Reference, in Respect of a Quotation, is in fact mark'd above, tho' with Respect to the Page, in the Middle of it. What precedes the Mark is the Author's, and not taken from the Treatise on Peerage. How then does the Original extend thro' Two full Pages? Yet this has been afferted by the Parson! It is impossible for any one to look into the Original, without observing the Use that had been made of it; how far the Sentiments and Language of it, how far the former were ments and Language of it, how far the former were endeavour'd to be inforc'd or applied more closely to the Subject, and the latter was varied.

The Reference was made, not only for the Sake of Acknowledgement, but also (what was of more Confequence) of Authority. As the Transcript begins at the Place marked, and not before, so it stops in the Middle of the 14th Line from the Mark in that Page, and the Language is varied, whether for the better or the worle, is not the Question, before the Middle of the 14th Line. What follows in this Page is the Author's own, as is also what occurs in the next Page, 'til the Precedents are quoted, when the Original is resumed 'til the Precedents, contracted within a smaller Compass than in the Original, are set out, and then the Author proceeds, " A Reflection naturally arifes from the Inflances cited,

It is strange that a Man shou'd lay down a Rule, that a Reference, unless marked above, strictly speaking, re-lates only to the nearest Sentence, and yet found a Charge upon the Observance of that very Rule .-To guard, however, against this Absurdity, he speaks of the Middle of the Page; and, by the Manner of his Charge, being compar'd with his Rule, wou'd have an Inference drawn, that is directly falle, (that what is above the Mark of Reference, was transcrib'd from the Treatise on Peerage) for where the Mark is, there the Original is introduc'd, and not before.

To suppose, that the Author (had he not expressly declar'd what in Fact he did, that the Instances were declar'd what in Fact he did, that the Inflances were cited) intended they shou'd pass for the Product of bis own Invention, when their whole Force and Weight depended upon their not barong been invented by bim, justifies what I observed in my former Letter, that when the Parson is tipley, he attempts to pass the Excretions of his disturbed Brain, under false Quotations of Law, and under the Character of a Poet, the Compositions and under the Character of a Poet, the Compositions of others, not distinguishing what is the Subject for Invention, and what not. Every one wou'd suppose, that Transactions about the Years 1284—1295—or 1361, were not in the Time of an Author, who wrote in 1765, and, if not Forgeries, that they was not in the Time of the there were not in the Time of the Time of the there were not in the Time of t 1765, and, if not Forgeries, that they were extracted from some Memorial, and therefore that they cou'd not be intended to pass for his own Invention. The By-ftander has shewn, that a Man may invent what he has cited for Precedents; but that any one, when he cites Precedents, which are only of Weight as fach, shou'd defign to pass them as the Creatures of his Imagination, no feber Person cou'd suggest.

Had the Materials, moreover, not been of such a peculiar Nature, as to preclude all Idea that they were meant to pass as invented, the Concealment was extremely ill contrived. To intend Deceit, and yet point out-the Means of Detection, by a Reference that no one cou'd turn to, without perceiving it at first Blush, wou'd have betray'd the Folly (not to be imputed to the Parson) of an unprassifed Sinner.

How just is the Observation, that good-natur'd Men often forgive those, who injure them; but the mali-cious, never those, whom they have injur'd—that Civilities conferr'd upon the worthless, are ever produc-tive of their most malignant Enmity-too fordid not to folicit and receive Favours, too impotent to re them, too profligate to be grateful for them.

"The Querift's Question was filly"—Why? Because as I told him in my former Letter, it was too powerful for his Skill in Reasoning. But, however it might appear to a Witting, some very great Men seem to have held different Opinions upon it.——According to Sir John Davis, "An Appointment to a Donative cannot be for Years, or at WM."—Lords Hobbart and Vaughan held, "that when a Benefice is conferred, whether her Presentation. See on hy Creat the second of t and Vaughan held, "that when a Renefice is conferr'd, whether by Presentation, &c. or by Grant, the presenting or granting for a limited Time, shall not hinder the Minister's holding for Life, as in the Cases of Attornment, &c."—Lord Host gave a different Rule—"that an Act done, under a Power with an Intention to effect what would not correspond with it, would be totally void."—But why not a Vacancy? You have indeed said, that "Pluralities are tenable, notwithstanding our Act of Assembly." But what have you proved?—Declare yourself explicitly—Lay down your Principles, draw your Conclusions. I wish to bring you to the Point—You shall be fully answered, and shewn to be what you are, as ignorant as some and insolent.

"Damn'd Canon Law!"—Indeed! and in the

"Damn'd Canon Law!"——Indeed! and in the Public Street too! Oh horrid! Enough to make the Parfon swear even in Print, "damn'd crabbed perhaps" says he.——I presume the Impiety was not vented in the Day-time, or the aggravating Circumstance wou'd have been added.——"From the Judge of an Ecclafiastical Court" too!——Well, there is some Comfort in that, because we may be sure the naughty Word was not utter'd in Maryland, where, thank God, we have no such Person.——What a Pity that the Writ for Heresic-burning is abolished!——But how will the Hystander's Indignation be instant'd, when he is information.

who heard it with their Ears , that the Canons were blafphemous, ridiculous, and obscene, and that this Reproach was fuffered to pass without the Reprehension of the House.

I will now lay before the Parson, a Passage from Bo-bun's Letter upon the Abuses and Corruptions of Ecclesias-tical Courts and Jurisdictions, which I fear will be till more shocking to his pious Soul.——"I beg Leave," says my Author, "to conclude with the Words of a "late eminent Prelate of the Church of England, wix. " Dr. G. Burnet, Bishop of Sarum, who, in a familiar Dif-" courfe with me on this very Subject, freely declared, 44 That the Canon Law and Ecclepaftical Jurisdiction, were "to be fent again: And, observing me to be somewhat that the sagain: And, observing me to be somewhat that the sagain: And, observing me to be somewhat that the sagain: And, observing me to be somewhat that the sagain s 5. originally derived from HELL; and that THITHER it ought little intriguing Wretch, who attempts the Introduc-tion of it, not as a Serwant of the King of Kings, but as a Minister of the Prince of Darkness. After all, as a Minister of the Prince of Darkness. After all, however, the Judge protests, he cannot recoilect that any fuch Expression ever escaped him. But, let it however be granted, and he will have all the Comfort, which can be drawn from the Example of this decent meek-spirited conscientious Pastor, for thus is he said to have exclaim'd against a certain Vestryman, after the Defeat of his memorable Plot against the Counfellor:"G-d d--n that stiff-necked Son of a B---h. By G-d " I believe I shall make nothing of him. I wish he was "in Hell!" What Intemperance of Expression! From a Minister of the Gospel! Against one of his own Flock too, whose Soul he had in Charge! In a Public-House -Pity but he had Two Parishes !

Whether the Judge does or does not read, understand, or learn, others will determine. There are some Subjects, on which none but a Fool, with a Front of Brass, is forward in speaking, and then he is sure to expose himself. None but such a one wou'd boast of his facred Name, confign'd by Virtue and the Muse to Fame of the Favours of the Heathen God, called Phebus of his Satirical Verses, that like the Iambics of Archilochus, will drive an Adversary to Despair, and make him bang bimself, &c. &c. &c. If Self-praise, and a Contempt of the just Censures of the World, are the true Roads to Fame, her Temple is barr'd against modest Merit and real Virtue, and open only to the most flagitious Part of Mankind.

But "C. D's Evafion," which the Parfon's Cafe from Vaughan, when truly represented, will shew to be no Evafion. "If the Canon Law be made Part of the Law of this Land, then is it as much the Law of the "Land, and as well, and by the fame Authority, as any other Part of the Law of the Land."—Here the Parson itops—But the Passage proceeds thus—" and if it should not be the Law of the Land, then it hath no more Effect than a Law of Ulopia; therefore the Canon Law, in Force bere, is the Law of the Land."— The Quotation of only Part, was, I suppose, to make Amends for his former Additions; but the Trick intended, is upon the same Principle—to impose upon the Public, and deserves therefore to be exposed. What does this Case prove, but that the Canon Law, when made the Law of the Land, is what it is made to be-Common Law, if received and established by immemorial Ufagerial Ufage -- Statute Law, if enacted by the Legif-lature, and fo wou'd the Laws of France, Spain, or China be, as well the Canon Law. Has it been re-

China be, as well the Canon Law. Has it been received here? No—In the other Colonies? No—Effablished here by any legislative Act? No—It is then, as to us, the Law of Ulopia.—

"It is univerfally held, says the Bystander, that the "Canon Law is binding upon the Law, as well as the Clergy of the Realm"—Certainly, when established by immemorial Usage, or by Statute—This is only saying, that the Common and Statute Laws, are Laws.

"The Laity and Clergy of the Realm?" He does not understand the Import of his Expression, if he means understand the Import of his Expression, if he means he has made no Conclusion at all. Is Maryland in the Realm of England?—Another Specimen we have of his Scholarship, is in the Word Paramount, where he tells us, that Lord Baltimore is declared, in the Charter, Pa-us, that Lord Baltimore is declared, in the Charter, Patron Paramount. But the Charter talks no fuch Nonfense, it is the Bysander's own. Paramount is a relative Term. If Lord Baltimore is Patron Paramount, pray where are the inferior or subordinate Patrons?

Burn observes, "that after the Abolition of the Pampal Power, there was no Branch of Sovereignty, with which the Crown was more delighted, than that of Supreme Head of the Church, on the Imagination, that the Power, exercised by the Pope, was annexed to the Crown, whereas only the legal Juristian, wrested out of the Hands of our Kings, was restored to them. The Pope arrogated an Authority "reflor'd to them. The Pope arrogated an Authority fuperior, not only to the Canon, but the Municipal Laws, and our Kings feem'd to confider themselves as Popes in their Dominions. Hence one Reason why a Reformation of the Ecclesiastical Laws was not effected, their unsettled state being an Advantage to the Sovereign Power. Hence the Office of Lord Vicegerent, and after, of the High Commission Court; and

It is true a great Theologian declared, that he cou'd prove the Quakers to be Infidels— What his Topics were, whether that they would not admit

The these Infidels might afterwards have observed, when this great Man was attainted of Treajon, that their simple Assirmation would have been of more jacred Obligation upon their Confesencies than all the Oaths this Orthodox great Man took, were upon his, yet in general they are pretty moderate—

" lastly, the dispensing Power, the Civil Law being the common Municipal Law of all arbitrary States in Europe, and the most arbitrary of our Kings have the most Countenance to it. The Canon Law hath the fame Lineaments and Features, being framed to the State, both perhaps being more for the Ease of the Governing, than the Convenience of the Governed."
What were the inherent Rights of the Crown, the legal Limits of Prerogative, before Papal Usurpations had diminished the Authorities of Royalty, as well as the Privileges of the People, is a Question of great Difficulty, on which a Man of real Knowledge, with even a small Degree of Modesty, wou'd speak with great Distinction of Several Statutes were made in 25th—27th—35th of Hen. VIII.——the 3d and 4th of Ed. VI.——tit Eliz, with the View of ascertaining this Point, but none of them were carried into Execution, for the Reafon intimated by Burn.

God. c. 26. 5. 7. is, that Colletter's Abridgment, and not a diffinct one, of a very long Case of Twenty-five Pages in the Original, and which too the Bystander, as usual, has thought proper to misrepresent, though, from his Ignorance of the Subject, not to much Purpofe. The Words, extensible over all subordinate Countries and Dominions, are his own Interpolation, and he has taken Care to fet his Mark of Reference to this very Pallage, for the lonest Purpose, no Doubt, of catching the Reader's Eye and Attention to it. To obviate the Reader's Eye and Attention to it. the Impressions of his Difingenuity, it becomes necessary to state God. a little more distinctly.—" If a Parson, " fays he, or Dean in England, takes a Bifboprick in Ire-" land, the first Church is void by Cession, because " Ireland is a fubordinate Realm, and governed by the " fame Law, for, by Whitlock Juffice, there is but one Canon Law per totam Ecclefiam. Therefore wherever the Authority of the Pope extended, whether in one or divers Realms, the Cession wou'd happen. Nemo potest babere duas Militias, nec duas Dignitates, et est impossibile, quod unus Homo potest esse in duobus locis, uno tempore. The whole Spiritual Court is but one, the " Canon Law, but one. Dodderidge Just. added that the Law of the Church of England is not the Pope's Law, but extracted out of antient Canons, as well general as national. Ireland is a fubordinate Realm, and governed by the same Law, tho' before Hen. II. they were several Realms, yet the Laws of " England were proclaimed by King John, and it was made subject to the Laws of England." To Gadolphin's Abridgment it is proper to add, that the Canon Live bad both by Adoption and Statute been epablished in

If the Byflander had confined himfelf to the Expression, Church of Maryland, and kept up the Idea, proper to it, we shou'd not have been pester'd with such a Profusion of Jargon; but, shifting his Style, and with this, varying the Idea, he has fallen into the Absurdity of drawing Consequences from false Principles. the Profession of Faith, or Articles of Dostrine, the Churches agree. In respect of Discipline or Government they do not; but the Canons, contended for, are fuch as regard only the Discipline or Government of the Church tutes, the Confequence must extend much beyond what the Bysander has yet avowed. We must necessarily be subject to Episcopal Jurisdiction—Spiritual Courts, for the Exercise of it, must be established—Spiritual Judges, and the long Train of Ecclefiaftical Officers, &c. Our All of Affembly become a dead Letter.--Tither are Part of the Establishment, and wou'd be due The Clergy wou'd be liable to the Payment of first Fruits and Tenths, and to the Observance of many Duties no one has ever yet attended to-Livings wou'd be fabject to Laple—Pr wou'd be made to the Bishop; for the Charter confers only a Grant of Advowsoms and Patronages, and of the Power to erect and found Churches, without a Syllable of Exemption—a Power too, that never has been

The Case he refers to, was not understood by the Bystander, for the Rule laid down in SALKELD, that if an uninhabited Country be settled by English Sub-" jells, the Laws, which are their Birth-right, are there " in Force," does not extend to fueh, as are not con-STONE, speaking upon this very Subject, says, to the Property of a great and commercial People, the Laws of Police and Revenue, (fuch, especially, as are inforc'd by Penalties) the Mode of Maintenauce for the established Clergy—the Jurisdiction of Spiritual Courts, and a Multitude of other Provisions, are neighbor.

"ther necessary nor convenient, and therefore not in Force in the Colonies."

"Secure and maintain our Religion!"——What an Idea must this Man have of Religion, who wou'd make it depend upon Canons, and is solicitous for those only, because he weakly imagines, he cou'd hold a Plurality under them.

It wou'd be to little Purpose to enquire, what the All of 1692, and 1696, (or 1654) enacted, they having been long fince repealed, or under what extensive Privileges of Toleration this Colony was planted, and grew 'til the Revelution, or whether the Eftablishment, to which those Principles gave Way, hath promoted or stopped its Growth. But how is the Establishment of the Canon Laws to be proved? Not by the Rashness of Ignorance, or the Arrogance of Effrontery. The Ecclefiaflical Law of England, he contends, " is declared to be in full Force in all its Parts, by the Acts of 1696, and 1723." What will not this Man affert! There is not a fingle declaratory Word in either of the Acts referr'd to. That of 1696, has been long fince out of Force, and the other relates merely to free-Schools. But here his Logic is to palliate the scandalous Misrepresentation, as well as in his Quotation from Godelobin.— The Canons and Constitutions of the Church (of which some relate to Schools) are not to be infringed by the Visitors, in their Rules for the Master, Usbar, Sc. and therefore it usual be abjurd, that they should not be in full Force in all Respects. The Principle is shortly this—One Law cannot be adopted, without the whole System. " The Law of England, as Lord Bacon observes, is as much mixed as the Language; and I believe the English have as much a Right to adopt a particular Law into their Polity, as a particular Word into their Language, with-Law.) The 12 Tables were collected from the Laws of Athens and Sparta; but whoever thought, that all the Laws dead Man was intestate, tho' he left a Family, those Spiritual Worthies seized upon his Estate, on the Pretence of disposing of it for pious Uses. A Will fased the personal Estate from the Ordinary's Clutches; but, upon this Circumstance, a Pretence was fet up for drawing before him the Probate of Wills. A Writing, without more, was not furficient; but it was to be proved to be what it imported. Who was to judge of this Proof? In all Reason, the Ordinary, who had more Conscience to do Jutice, than a Layman. To prevent fubsequent Disputes, an Act was proper to be done by the Ordinary. He therefore granted Letters, which teffified the Executor's Power, and the Executor was to be accountable for his Conduct, under the Ordinary's Commission—But Prohibitions, the Jurisdiction of Equity, and the Statutes, particularly of Ed. I. Ed. III. Hen. VIII. Car. II. have reduced the Canon Law on this Head, to very little Consideration, even in England, and if our Act of 1715, by the Word Law, cou'd with any Propriety, be understood to comprehend the Canoni, Propriety, be understood to comprehend the Canoni, the Saving and Provision, in the Act, wou'd reduce them to a mere Shadow. Here, I suppose, his Logic is again to come in Aid——" Causes Matrimonial, Incontinency, Tithes, Sect are to fall under the Cognizance of the Commissary Ceneral,——For since he has Jurisdiction in Testimentary Causes, and the Canon Law is to be his Rule "how glaring an Absurdity," that he shou'd not have Cognizance of Incontinency, Tübes &c.——If this was not his Meaning: why was the Note! If this was not his Meaning; why was the Note? Why the Inference from his Citation, that the Judge and Ecclefiafical Laws, as well as the Common and Sta-tute? Why the Phrase, Ecclefiafical Judge? To shew the blind Rashness of this Man, and how little aware he was of the Confequences of his own Doctrine, I wou'd just observe, that the 127th Com has relation to the various Subjects, cognizable in the spiritual Courts, and the Commissary-General can have no Jurisdiction, except in Testamentary Causes, unless because he has Cognizance of one Matter, he meetsarily must have Jurisdiction in every other. It this be not his Meaning, nothing he has advanced is more impertinent than this Canon, which is faying a great deal.—

But how strange it is, that this Man should talk of Canons, and what they enjoin 1. By them, Physiking are and Lawyers ought to be well acquainted with the Civil Canons, and what they enjoin! By them, Pluralities are disallow'd, unless with Dispensation in Favour of Perfons of fubline Abstities, of which, without Doubt, the Dispensation is a few and the property of the Dispensation in the Committee of t Difpensation is a sufficient Proof. But where is this diffenfing Power, under which the Parson shall receive the Benefit of a Tax laid upon the People, against the express Terms of the A&? Let it even be admitted, that, before our A& of Assembly for the Establishment of Religions Worse., &c. now in Force, the Canons had been adopted here, and Pluralities had been tenable, yet when the Ad pass'd, with the Consent of the Crown, after having been framed in England, and fent hither; and thus the King and the People had concurred in a Law against Pluralities, except with the Consent and Agreement the Veffries of adjacent Parifhes, can any fober Person imagine the Act is now to be dispensed with? That a Tax imposed by the Act for one Purpose, can be diverted to another? In what would the Difference confit be tween levying Money upon the People without their Consent, and applying Money, granted by them, against the Terms of their Grant?———The Bystander was before called upon to answer these Queries, but has thought proper to decline the Task. Whenever be succeeds in it, I will venture to pronounce, that he will have the Merit of establishing the very P a neighbor the Stamp. As it feld will have the Merit of establishing the very P neiple of the Stamp-Act itself.

By the Canon Land, as well as by the Common Law, Militans Deo non implicetur secularibus Negotis—"Clerici non ponantur in secularia Officia."—(One engag'd in the Service of God, may not be intangled in secular Assa.—Clerks ought not to be put into secular Offices)——"They ought to have nothing to do with semporal Employments, especially of the Law; for it is absurd and opprobrious for them to be skilled in in Decisions of Law-Suits."—But, says Dr. Aylisse, they sit in Ecclesiastical Courts, avoiding the Opprobrium, because they are not at all skilled in the Lavon.

Blackfone observes, that the Clergy have peculiar Exemptions, and are also under peculiar Incapacitits, in order that they may not be call'd from their Duty; and his Opinion is certainly just, "that they ought to have a competent and honourable Maintenance, being an "Order of Men, separated from the rest of Mankind, "and excluded from other lucrative Professions, for their and excluded from other lucrative Professions, for their Sake."

It is notorious, that our Clergy are much better provided for than the Parochial Clergy in any other Part of the British Dominions, is Consequence of an Act of our Provincial Legislature. Such of them, as conscientiously discharge their Duty deserve, and never fail of receiving the utmost Respect and Reverence from the People. The Byflander's Suggestions will hardly a larm the Clergy. They know, their Rights are fecured by the most efficacious Sanctions, nor will they appre-hend any Design of impeaching them, because an unworthy Brother has been disappointed of a Plurality, which he endeavoured to obtain, in Defiance of Law, and by the basest Devices. They will hardly wish to see the Principle of dispensing with an Act of Assembly established, and the Rights and Privileges of their Fellow-Subjects infringed, to gratify the Avarice of one of their Order, yery much interior to most of his Brethren in Knowledge and Learning, and to all in every other estimable Quality. I am not striking at the Rights either of the Patron, or the Clergy, but defending both against the Attacks of Ignorance and Presumption; for, on the Assumption of this Principle, that the Laws, Civil and Ecclesiatical, of England, are here in full Force, it would which he endeavoured to obtain, in Defiance of Law, Ecclefiaftical, of England, are here in full Force, it wou'd be easy to demonstrate this Consequence, that we have not, and never had a fingle Benefice in Maryland, that we have neither Patron nor Incumbent .-I am, Yours,

POSTSCRIPT.

HE Byflander has had the Effrontery to affert, that the Public Voice allows him to have written "like a Scholar and a Gentleman." This extraordinary Intelligence cou'd hardly be calculated for the Information of his Readers bere; but a Stranger might be led, by fuch Confidence, to suppose, that the Parson cou'd not have had such superlative Impudence, as to tell his Readers, they had applauded, what they had condemned that they had admired his Knowledge, when they had express'd their Con-tempt of his Ignorance—had approved his Manners, when they detested his Frands. But there is a certain Figure of Speech, explained by a Monofyllable in the English Language, of which he is much enamour'd to fuch a Degree, that even his non mentiar (I will not lie) will procure no Credit to his Affertions. Wherein has he display'd his Scholarship? He has attempted nothing of the Kind, unless in his Derivation of Archilochus, in which his Ignorance has been sufficiently exposed. The most flattering Compliment that can be paid to G. D. by those who are of Opinion the Bystander has written like a Scholar and a Gentleman, is to be reckon'd a Dunce and a Blackguard Writer.—The Person he aims at, holds in the utmost Contempt his Hints of ugly Consequences. He will persist in acting upon his own Judgment, even if the Sacrifice, he insolently threatens, were Ten Times greater. He disdains to be directed by a corrupt Sycophant, who is intriguing folely for his own Interest, under the slimfy Veil of promoting the Service of his Patron, when all his Measures tend to embroil the Affairs of his great Benefactor, and to render his Government univerfally odious to the People. A due Execution of the Laws, a Counfellor may firmly support, without " betraying the Trust, or co-vertly attacking those Rights he is swern to defend," notwithstanding the base Suggestions of this restless

WILLIAM KNAPP, WATCH and CLOCK-MAKER,

MPRESSED with a grateful Sense of the Favours he has received from the Gentlemen of this, and the neighbouring Provinces, takes this Method of returning his fincere Thanks for the Countenance and Encouragement he has hitherto been honoured with; and, as he is follicitous to merit a Continuance of their Approbation, he has lately procured, at a very confiderable Expence, a complete Apparatus, for the more effectual Execution of the different Branches in his Business, without which it is impracticable to give that Satisfaction he is studious to render, and he is determined, by unremitting Assiduity, and the utmost Exertion of his Abilities, to justify and secure the Public Confidence.

It is with Concern he finds himself reduced to the disagreeable Necessity of cautioning the Public against the continued Botcheries practifed by many Pretenders to the Bufiness, whose Inabilities are too frequently experienced by the Employer, as heavy Charges inevi-tably follow, to rectify the Errors of those Tinkering Performers, and the Mechanism of the Piece is often destroyed, beyond the Power of Art to repair.

He has, of his own Make, GOLD, SILVER, and PINCHBECK WATCHES, of the best and newest Construction, finished in the genteelest Taste, some with Seconds in the Center, commonly called Stop-Watches, Eight-day and Alarum Clocks: The Qualities and Prices of all which are contrived to prevent Importation, as he flatters himfelf those Gentlemen, who have already dealt with him, can testify, and fuch as shall please to honour him with their Commands, will agreeably experience: The commendable Ardour which has been happily manifested for the Promotion of American Manufactures, induces him to hope for the Encouragement of all who are inclined to protect and countenance focial Industry amongst us; and he doubts not but they will clearly perceive the Advantages of dealing with the Maker on the Spot, where they can previously examine what they purchase, and who will engage to keep his Work in Repair, at the trifling Charge of 3 s. 6d. Annually (general Accidents excepted) He will receive and complete, with the greatest Expedition, Orders either for Watches or Clocks, made on any Principle, and agreeable to any Fathion, and will allow, in Exchange, the best Prices for old Watches and Clocks.

He will wait on any Gentleman in, or near this City, to repair their Clocks.

"The Octennial Bill for limiting the duration of Parliaments in this Kingdom, so ardently wished for, passed the House of Lords last Night; there were 54 for the Bill, and 3 against it. Above Five Thousand People attended on College Green, and when the Duke of Leinster went into his Chair, in order to return home, the Populace infifted on carrying him in it on their Shoulders, which they did, amidit the Acclamations of many hundred Spectators; they also attended the Lord Chancellor, and Dr. Lucas, home to their Houses. Those that went with the latter, had a great Number of lighted Flambeaux. This Day our worthy Lord Lieutenant (whose Conduct may ever be an Example to future Viceroys!) went to Parliament, and passed the above Bill. There was the greatest Concourse of People ever remembered, and many of the Populace attempted to draw his Coach. Addresses from all our Corporati-tions, &c. are preparing to be presented to him: The City of Dublin propose to have his Picture put up in the Tholsel. ANNAPOLIS, MAY 26.

On Tuesday last the General Assembly of this Pro-vince met here, when his Excellency HORATIO SHARPE, Esq; our Governor, opened the SESSION with the following SPEECH, wiz.

Gentlemen of the Upper and Lower Houses of Affembly, SINCE the last Seffion of Assembly, I have received Letters from Sir William Johnson, his Majesty's Superintendant of Indian Affairs in this District of Nontrease. NORTH-AM SRICA, relative to a Representation, which had been made to him, on Behalf of the MARYLAND Indians, fome of whom, are, it feems, defirous to remove to Otfiningo, and to be incorporated with the Six Nations, if they may be permitted to dispose of the Lands, which, by the Legislature of this Province, were heretofore appropriated to the Use of these Peoples Ancestors.

Together with Sir WILLIAM's Letters, I shall com-municate to you a Petition, that hath been presented to me, by several of those Indians, also the fullest Information I have been able to get, concerning their Number, and the Lands they occupy or claim, fo that you may be the better able to judge what Compensation it will be reasonable to give them for their Rights, should you think fit to repeal the Laws, by which they are at present restrained from selling the Lands they possess.

As the Person who is authorized by Sir WILLIAM

JOHNSON, as well as by the Indians, to act for them, on this Occasion, will wait here, for the result of your Deliberations, I must recommend this Business, in the first Place, to your Consideration.

Gentlemen,

The frequent Disputes, and great Confusion, occafioned in this Province, by the Lofs of Boundaries, and the Variation of the Compass, are Matters well worthy your Notice: Some Remedy for so great an Evil is in-disputably wanting, but it might perhaps be difficult to point out one adequate and unexceptionable: That a just and equitable Regard may be shewn to the Rights of all concerned, the utmost Caution and Foresight, as well as the strictest Impartiality, are requisite.

The Defects of our present Road-Laws are obvious and striking: You must be sensible what great Advantages would arise to the Community from the Public Roads.

would arise to the Community, from the Public Roads being made more direct, and kept constantly in good Repair; I hope, therefore, you will take this Matter likewise into Consideration.

I must also observe, to you, Gentlemen, that an accurate Review of the Criminal Laws made, or introduced here, feems to be highly expedient: When it becomes a Question, whether a Law is in Force, or not, a Tendernets towards Convicted Persons, they may not feem to deserve, usually takes Place, and, by that Circumstance, Encouragement is probably given to the Commission of Crimes. Let, therefore, some Criterion be established, so plain, and explicit, for determining what Criminal Laws are in Force here, that all Doubts, on this Head, may in future be prevented.

Gentlemen of both Houses,

The Proofs, I have, on all Occasions, endeavoured to give, of my Desire to promote the Welfare and Happiness of the People, over whom I have had the Honour to prefide, make it, I hope, unnecessary for me, now, to assure you, that you will always find me ready to concur with you, in every proper Measure you can propose, for the Public Good.

Yesterday Mr. TURBUT WRIGHT, was chosen Clerk of the Lower House of Assembly, to which the Governor was pleased to fignify his Approbation.

Please to give the following EPISTLE a place in your GAZETTE, and you will oblige, A CUSTOMER.

To that most Valorous and Gallant Gentleman, who siles himself A Bystander, Critic, and Censor-General, and Heir-Expectant of some very considerable Preferments in—UTOPIA.

MOST HEROIC SIR! I BEG Leave, with all that Deference and Humility, which is due to fo Great a Man, to approach and address you: And I flatter myself with the Hopes of an easier Admittance, and more kind Reception, as I honour and pay a peculiar Regard to all the Quantums and Quales, both of your Body and Mind. THE Attempts you have made, and the Feats you have done—The Politeness of your Style, and your uncommon Regard to our Laus, at the same Time that they excite my Affonishment, do also convince me that you are equally a Great Genius, and Good Citizen.—Your Courage, and your Resolution—Your Bickerings, and your Battles; but, above all, your Poetry and your Prose, have pointed you out to the Public Notice, and diffinguished you as the most extraordinary Man that has hitherto appeared amongst us.

hitherto appeared amongst us.

Your Courage, I am sensible, has been questioned by some, but the Futility of the Reseason is easily demonfirated, by challenging the most inveterate of your Adverfaries, to say—Whether they ever saw your Brated, by challenging the most inveterate of your Adverfaries, to say— Whether they ever saw your Back in the Field of Battle. No, Sir, your Blood has not yet been drawn; and, a Friend of mine says, 'tir Pity it ever should; tho' I cannot agree with him, when he adds, as the Reason of his Humanity— Because you are, all over, fore utready. Besides, Sir, were Cowardice an Ingredient in your Composition, you might very handsomely have pleaded your Charaster, as a Protection from Fighting. Your Charaster, I say, as—as—tion from Fighting.

handsomely have pleaded your Character, as a Protection from Fighting. Your Character, I say, as—as—a—a—rot it!—Why, ay,—as a Bystander. But this you feorned; and, therefore, your Reputation for Courage stands fair and unfullied. Q. E. D.

How considerable, Sir, are your Antagonist?—And yet how cheap have your Victories been?—You have not deigned to hurl at them a single Lance of so-sid Sense, or sound Argument—You have done your Business with mere Scarrilly and Annse—You have not thrown away any of the keen Arrows of Wit and Humour; and the Explosion of the greatest Gun, you have levelled at them, has not exceeded the CRACK OF

Your Dexterity in shifting your Arms, and in evading the Point in Dispute, can never be too much applauded, or sufficiently admired. Whilst you attempted to wield the Weapons of Argument and Reason, Appearances were discouraging, and your Friends were really in Pain for way. But have prove than ordinary Address, you for you. But, by a more than ordinary Address, you altered your Method of Attack, threw your Antagonists into Confusion, and, in your Imagination, at least, obtained a compleat Victory by—Railing and Rhyming.
Rhyming, Sir, is your Fort—Wield therefore that Weapon, and meddle not with Argument and Reafon, left you fhould be reduced to the fame Diffress with a certain Jesuit, who, when, in a religious Dispute, he found himself fore press'd by Reason, cry'd out, as ve-hemently as he could—O Reason! Reason! The Lord rebuke thee !

The ingenious Plain-Dealer, 'twas thought by fome, had with fo much Strength and Clearness confuted all your Affertions, and so manifestly detected and exposed your aubole Conduct, that your Antagonists, looking upon the Controversy as ended, began to cry—Pictory! But your Friends knew better, and were persuaded, that, should the other Side write an Hundred Papers, you would write an Hundred and One. In the very next Paper, you bint, Archilochos-like, at "the Blackness of his Mind and Face;" on which he disappeared, and has been no more heard of, either dreading your Satire, or dissaining your railing Rhymes. Be that as your Affertions, and so manifestly detected and exposed Satire, or diffaining your railing Rhymes. Be that as it will, he was filenced, and then

" A Fig for Plain Dealers, and eke for C. D." When Clericus charged you with having forfaken the Controversy, and call'd you back to the Bar of the Public, and to the original Points in Dispute—How easily, by the Help of a few Rhymes, did you overfet him?—You held him out to Public View, "as a Dab-Chick waddling thro' the Mire."—In fhort, made him "look dull," and, indeed, as "black as Hell;" and then, with equal Justice and Politeness, inferred,

" With fuch a Varlet to contend, No Honour's won, and gain'd, no End."

Thus, Sir, did you, by the Help of Rhyming, not only ward off this Blow, but likewise gave poor Clericus a dreadful Overthrow.

But, avorthy Sir, I would not be understood by com-mending your Rhymes, entirely to disparage your Prose. By no Means. Your Feats, even in that, are far from being inconfiderable.

When C. D. called upon you to be explicit upon the When C. D. called upon you to be explicit upon the Subject of Pluralities, your Answer (tho' a borrowed one) is admirable:—"What, upon Compulsion, HAL? If Reasons were as thick as Blackberries, I would not give one upon Compulsion." Very right, Sir,—Stick but to this Blackberry Way of Reasoning, and to your borrowed and abusive Rhymes, and the Public Voice will for over proposes you.——UNANSWERABLE. And for ever pronounce you—unanswerable. And here, as to the Charge of Borrowing, I confess, I think it makes rather for you, than against you. It is a plain Proof that you are yet in Credit, which many, very many, I assure you, thought to be intirely ruined some Time ago.

C. D. tells us, your Affertion is, that " Pluralities are tenable"—but how? "Tis plain you must have meant, either de Fasto, or de Jure. Now, that they are tenable, de Fasto, you are as willing to prove, as C. D. could wish. Nay, I am persuaded, Sir, and think I may venture to affure him, in your Name, that if he will but agree to your holding Pluralities de Fasto, you will not enter into a Controversy with him, about holdwill not enter into a Controverfy with him, about hold-

After all, I think it is to little Purpose (supposing you equal to the Task) to reason with your Antagonists on this Subject. For you may as soon storm a Castle by Logic, or persuade a Church-Cormorant to part with his Pluralities, as to be provided to the part with the pluralities, as to be provided to the is, to pelt them with Rbymes, and to "frighten" them with " ugly Statutes concerning the Supremacy," and with " ugly Statutes concerning the Supremacy," and with " ugly Consequences," not of Reason, but of Interest. The Consequence of which may be, that tho it should not make you a Friend to the " Supremacy," it may yet make the " Supremacy" a Friend to you.

How good and commendable was it in the Principal, Sir, to ask " the Consent of the Veltries," not " in Commission with the Law but as it should seem Compliance" with the Law, but as it should feem, "with the Prejudices of the People?" How noble and generous was it in him to "refign," and give up to these same "Prejudices of the People," what he could not hold by Law?

Change we now the Prospect, and take a View of C. D's Conduct. And here—What hideous Forms appear? Qua Scelerum facies? What horrid Scenes of Guilt?—He, wicked Man, was a V-str-m-n, and a C——r! This was very bad. He opposed, in the former Capacity, the Principal—He would not com-ply with "the Prejudices" of that extraordinary Gentleman, nor confent that he should hold Two PARISHES, man, nor confent that he should hold Two Parishes, against a positive Law of the Province. This was much worse. In short, he could not violate his Conscience, even to serve his Principal. This was worst of all! And now, let the impartial Public judge——Does not C. D. deserve to be severely lash'd for all this? Are any Names too bad, any Colours too black for him and his Friends? Does not their Conduct abundantly justify you (the Principal's better Half) in pronouncing your Adversaries in general, and C. D. in particular "Dunces and Blackguards"? And how justly does the "Public Voice" allow you to have written. ly does the "Public Voice" allow you to have written in like a Scholar and a Gentleman?" How, indeed, can it do Justice to fuch "a Scholar," and to fuch "a Gentleman?" And how earneitly do I wish to see fuch "a Scholar," and fuch "a Gentleman" rewarded according to his Merits?

46 Hoc juvat; et melli est; non mentiar: A grateful Sound, and pleasing to the Ear."

few friendly Advices shall now release you .- Suffer not yourself to be intoxicated, or grow giddy, by basking in the Sunshine of the "Public Voice." There is a Distemper, called by the Grecian Physicians, Abelteria, the Malignity of which, affects a Man in this Manner, viz. That the nearer to Danger he is, it makes him fancy himself in so much the greater safety.

Beware of this Diffemper.—Never aftempt to realen with your Adversaries, nor at all meddle with the Point in Dispute.—You may steer clear of it, by Railing and Rhyming, or at least, by pretending " Compulsion" Ye may, indeed, at Times, walk up to the Point, but fure presently to quit it. This will be an Argumen fure presently to quit it. This will be an Argumen of your Prudence; and that will recommend you the "Public Voice," which, whenever you attain it will give you great Pleasure. Once more, keep can of the Point in Dispute, and curse CLERICUS, by Ed Book, and Candle:—Beware, I say, beware of the Discemper call'd Abelteria. But I have said enough, a contract you how much I am. convince you, how much I am, Norfolk, in Virginia, March 23, 1768 HE Subscriber purposes (and hopes to meet with proper Encouragement, as he intends following a regular fix'd Rule in all his Transactions) to dispose of, on Commission, all kinds of GOODS and MERCHANDIZE, at PRIVATE and PUBLIC SALE, for Cash or Credit, the Commission very reasonable; let the Sum-Total be never so small fold for, the Commissions not to exceed Three per Cent. The Owners of the Goods giving in, in Writing, their Instructions, which shall be punctually adher'd to: If order'd to be sold for Cash, their Money ready, and Accounts to settle, in Two Days from the Conclusion of the Sale: If for Credit, Bonds and Notes ready to deliver in Three Days, and great Care no bad Debts are made. Goods wanted to be convey'd from any Port or District, to another, by Way of Norfolk, will be received at con-venient Wharffs and Warehouses, out of the Vessels, by Cranes, and back into Vessels, in the same Order. Letters with, shall be duly answered, and one fent with the Goods, a Copy of which may be feen in the Office, or remitted to the Owners, if at any Distance, making the Trouble and Storage Expence very moderate. Any kind of Business I may be employed in, shall be, transacted most punctually. Advice from any Quarter with the Premium, lodged. Policies of Insurance shall be made out, and registered, and the same Regard paid to the Interest of the Assured, as if he himself was present; as I intend to transact all Business conformable to Instructions, and with the greatest Punctuality; and, as my Endeavours to remove many Inconvenien cies Traders up the Country, and in Maryland, and elsewhere, labour under, hope to meet with their Approbation, as I am furnished with all necessary Conveniencies for storing any kind of Merchandize, &c.

WILLIAM M'CAA. I cannot doubt but every judicious Trader up the Country, in Maryland, &c. will think an Office of this kind, will be most proper to have their Business transacted in, a Merchant having much Business of his own on Hand, will certainly give it the Preference; whereas there will be nothing of the kind here; and I must further assure every Gentleman, who shall think proper to employ me; that they shall meet with Satisfaction.

A S a regular Intercourse by Sea, betwixt Marshad and Philadelphia, is generally thought a great Conveniency to the Trading Gentlemen of both Provinces, by giving them an Opportunity of getting the Commo-dities of each Place, from each other, with quick Dif-patch, and on fafer and easier Terms, than they could before ; the Subscriber intends to continue his Schooner, the MARYLAND-PACKET, in that Trade, agreeable to his Advertisement of September last. He hopes the Gentlemen of both Provinces will give him the Encouragement, his Desire to serve, and the Conveniency he affords them, may merit. He will receive Goods on Freight, for any Part of Maryland, on low Terms, provided the Conveniency he affords them. vided the Quantity will be sufficient to defray the Expence. The Vessel will be address'd to Bond and Byrs, Merchants in Philadelphia, who offer their Service to all the Gentlemen of Maryland, who have not an established Correspondency in Philadelphia, and will serve them with the utmost Punctuality, for the usual Commission. Orders to them, will meet with quick Dispatch, if sent to the Care of Col. Fitzhugh, at the Mouth of Patazent, to John Martin, near Oxford; or by the several Polls. The Schooner is now in Philadelphia, and it is expected she will return, and be there again, by the Middle or last of April.
