—BY LATE ARRIVALS AT NEW-YORK.—

NEW-YORK, September 21.

By the Anne, from Bourdeaux, we have received French papers to the 1st of August. Bourdeaux was illuminated for three nights on account of the peace.

The French emperor Buonaparte, arrived at Paris the 27th of July, from the grand army. The rejoicings and illuminations on this occasion, were the most extravagant of any thing of the kind we ever heard of.

PARIS, July 20.

YESTERDAY, at four o'clock in the afternoon, agreeably to the order of his majesty the emperor and king, his serene highness the prince arch-chancellor of the empire, repaired to the senate, in order to communicate to its members the two treaties of peace signed with Russia and Prussia.

His serene highness was received with the accustomed ceremonial, and having taken his seat, he said, "Gentlemen, the rapid course of the victories of his majesty, the emperor and king, was the certain sign of a glorious peace. Our hopes are accomplished by the two treaties of peace which I bring to the senate. His majesty would not suffer them to be made public until they were laid before you. The senate duly appreciate the delicacy of this reserve, and it will perceive therein a new proof of the devotion of our august sovereign, in maintaining the laws consecrated by custom and our laws."

"Amidst the great results which these political transactions present, there is one that will interest our liveliest affections. Devoted as you are, gentlemen, to the glory of the Imperial dynasty, with that satisfaction will you not see its splendor, continually increasing, elevate to the throne of Westphalia, a young prince, whose wisdom and courage have been signified by deeds so noble. In that, as well as in every other disposition forming these treaties, you will trace, gentlemen, the constant cares of the founder of the empire, to consolidate the great stem of which he has laid the basis. Your hearts will applaud the conceptions of a genius friendly to humanity, whose views and precautions all tend to spare the effusion of human blood. The continent may at length calculate upon a durable peace. The memorable interviews which have just taken place on the borders of the Nieman, are the pledges of long tranquillity. The tokens of mutual esteem and confidence which have been established between the sovereigns of the two most powerful nations of Europe, present warranty against which all the efforts of hatred and ambition, will henceforward prove abortive."

His serene highness having then handed the two treaties, they were read by senator Dupere, one of the secretaries.

The reading being ended, the senator Lacépède, speaker of the senate, made the following reply:

"My lord, the reading of the two treaties of peace, which his majesty the emperor and king, has been pleased, through your serene highness, to communicate to us, impresses upon the senate new sentiments of the liveliest gratitude."

"After so many harvests of glory, so many prodigies, and so much good, the senate feels more than the necessity of presenting to his imperial majesty its homage and its vows."

"We know we shall soon have the advantage, so precious for every Frenchman, of enjoying the august presence of the greatest of monarchs. But days, years, and even moments, seem like so many ages to us in just impatience."

"I then move, senators, 1st. that the senate orders transcription upon its registers of the treaty with Prussia, and of that with Russia. Secondly, that a committee be charged to draft an address expressive of the sentiments of love and respect with which the senate is so deeply affected for his imperial majesty."

The two motions of senator Lacépède, were unanimously agreed upon.

The committee appointed to frame the address, consists of his eminence Cardinal Fesch, Messrs. Lacépède, Monge, Laplace, and Semouville. They will report their report on Monday, the 27th instant.

Conformably to orders from his majesty, the emperor and king, transmitted to his serene highness the prince arch-chancellor of the empire, his excellency grand-master of the ceremonies, prescribed the aids to proclaim in Paris, the peace which has just been signed with Russia and Prussia. This public ceremony took place yesterday 24th July, as follows:

At 3 o'clock, in the evening, the heralds on horseback, attended by 24 justices of the peace, and a numerous detachment of troops, set off from the Thuileries, and proclaimed throughout Paris, the articles of the treaties concluded between his majesty the emperor of the French and king of Italy, protector of the confederation of the Rhine, and their majesties the emperor of all the Russias and the king of Prussia.

The train in all its rounds was followed by an immense concourse of people, who evinced their gladness and gratitude by the liveliest transports and cries a thousand times repeated, of vive l'empereur. In the evening there was a general illumination.

The emperor is expected here to-morrow or the day following. It is supposed he will go direct to St. Cloud.

DRESDEN, July 18.

His majesty the emperor sat off from Königsberg the 13th, at 6 o'clock in the evening, and arrived on the 14th at noon at Marienwerder, where he staid an hour. At 12 o'clock the same evening, he passed through Posen, where he remained two hours; during which he received the civil officers of the Polish government.

On the 16th, at noon, he arrived at Glogau, and on the 17th at 7 in the morning, at Bautzen, first town of the kingdom of Saxony, where he was received by the king. These two sovereigns conferred together for some time in the mansion house of the bishop; the king entered in the emperor's carriage, they arrived together at Dresden, and alighted at the palace. This day, at 6 in the morning, the emperor mounted on horseback to survey the environs of Dresden.

The sentiments which his majesty found in Saxony, are similar to those that have been expressed to him on the whole of his way in Poland; an immense concourse of people crowded together every where on his passage. [Moniteur.]

LATEST FOREIGN NEWS.

By the ships Gold Hunter, Vose, from London, and Eliza, Waterman, from Liverpool, the editor of the Mercantile Advertiser has received a regular file of London papers to the 15th August inclusive, (6 days later than any previous advices) and Lloyd's lists to the 14th.

Captain Vose informs, that business was very dull; that the British government had not taken up the affair of the Chesapeake, as they had not received any official dispatches from the American government upon that subject; that the schooner Revenge had not arrived; that there was no prospect of a peace between England and France; and that the merchants and manufacturers in England were very much averse to a war with America. Captain Vose left London the 15th, and the Downs the 21st August.

Insurance on American vessels from England to America had fallen to three guineas.

LONDON, August 12.

A mail from Gottenberg arrived yesterday. The private letters by this conveyance state, that the emperor Alexander arrived at Petersburg on the 17th ult. but that his arrival was not announced by any discharge of cannon, or any other demonstration of joy. The mail contains an account of the military operations at Stralsund to the 22d ult. but we had previously received accounts so late as the 30th, at which time the fortress had not surrendered. The German legion did duty for the first time on the 21st. On the same day Lord Cathcart left Stralsund for Rugen.

The private letters by the Tonningen mail which arrived on Monday evening, state that the recent proceedings inspire but little confidence in the adherence of Russia to the interests of Great-Britain; and indeed, the circumstances imparted by Mr. Secretary Canning in the house of commons on Monday evening, have considerably damped the hopes of those among us, who on the first blush of the subject, expected from the Russian overture a pacific result. The friendly intentions manifested towards this country in one of the articles of the treaty between Russia and France, have from circumstances which remained to be explained, been suffered to remain a dead letter in respect to us, who were the declared object of it. We cannot help observing that Buonaparte far from having lost sight of his favourite object of hostility against Great-Britain, appears by the last letters from the Continent, to be more intent than ever on the establishment of a new law of nations, securing the liberty of the seas and the independence of every flag. Whether Russia will ultimately be induced to enter into these interested views of Buonaparte against the naval supremacy of Great-Britain, is a question upon which we are at present desirous of withholding our opinion. The Continental politicians however are less backward in pronouncing their decision upon this subject; and it is even asserted that so determined is Napoleon upon the universal recognition of his favourite principle, that the French troops will remain in Germany until the full accomplishment of his object.

The passengers who came over in the last packet from Tonningen, state, that previous to the sailing of the packet, an express had arrived, with instructions for all the English ships lying at Tonningen, to proceed down the river, below the battery. This is considered as a precautionary measure to secure the shipping, in case the French should by force or stratagem, get possession of the battery which commands the navigation of the Eyder.

Dispatches were yesterday received at the admiralty from admiral Gambier, which were brought to Grimby by the Swan cutter. At the date of these, the fleet had not reached its destination, but was continuing its progress towards the Baltic.

HIS MAJESTY'S SPEECH.

Parliament was prorogued this afternoon with the following speech from his majesty's commissioners.

"My lords and gentlemen,

"We have it in command from his majesty to express the satisfaction with which he finds himself enabled to give you that recess which, after the great and diligent exertions which you have made in the dispatch of public business, must at this advanced season of the year be so particularly desirable.

"His majesty has been graciously pleased to direct us to return his thanks for the steady loyalty and attachment to his person and government, and zealous devotion to the public service, which have characterized all your deliberations, and most especially to thank you for the seasonable exertions which you have enabled him to make for the augmentation of the military force of his kingdom.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

"His majesty has commanded us to return you his warmest thanks for the supplies which you have granted with so much cheerfulness for the current year; and when he considers the provision which you have made for those contingent and unforeseen services, which the events of the war may render necessary, his majesty has the greatest satisfaction in recognizing the wisdom wherewith, in a time of extraordinary difficulties, you have anticipated the possible demands which those difficulties may occasion.

"My lords and gentlemen,

"His majesty commands us to assure you that he deeply deprecates the unfortunate issue of the war upon the Continent.

"The immense extension of the power and influence of France, and the undisguised determination of the enemy to employ the means and resources of those countries which he possesses or controls for the purpose of effecting the ruin of this kingdom, undoubtedly present a formidable view of the dangers and difficulties which this country has to encounter.

"But his majesty rests assured, that the loyal and brave people over whom he reigns are not to be daunted or disheartened.

"From the recollection of those difficulties under which his people have successfully struggled, and of those dangers which they have happily surmounted, his majesty derives the consolation of believing that the same spirit and perseverance which have hitherto remained unbroken will continue to be exerted with unabated vigour and success.

"And while his majesty commands us to repeat the assurances of his constant readiness to entertain any proposals that may lead to a secure and honourable peace, he commands us at the same time to express his confidence that his parliament and his people will feel with him the necessity of persevering in those vigorous efforts which alone can give the character of honour to any negotiation, or the prospect of security or permanency to any peace.

"His majesty, therefore, trusts that his people will always be ready to support him in any measure which may be necessary to defeat the designs of his enemies against the independence of his majesty's dominions, and to maintain against any undue pretensions, and against any hostile confederacy, those just rights which his majesty is always desirous to exercise with temper and moderation, but which, as essential to the honour of his crown and the true interest of his people, he is determined never to surrender."

DIFFERENCES WITH AMERICA.

The following resolution and circular letter have been drawn up by the American Chamber of Commerce of Liverpool.

At a general and very numerous meeting of the members of this association, held this day, it was Resolved unanimously, That the following circular letter, prefixed to this resolution, be printed, and that the vice-president (in the absence of the president) be requested to sign the same, on behalf of the American Chamber of Commerce in Liverpool, and to transmit a copy thereof to Philip Sanfom, Esq. chairman of the committee of American Merchants in London.

(CIRCULAR.)

Sir,

A meeting of the members of the American Chamber of Commerce, at this port, has been convened this day, for the purpose of taking into consideration the present serious and critical state of affairs as relating to the intercourse between the British empire and the U. S. of America.

When it is considered how essentially the vital interests of both the countries are concerned in a maintenance of the relations of amity and commerce, and particularly at the present juncture, it must be the wish of every sincere friend to his country, whether British or American, these relations should not be interrupted, unless such interruption be rendered inevitable by some imperious and irresistible necessity, arising from that regard which it is incumbent on every country to pay to its honour and its interest.

If the manufacturers and merchants of this kingdom shall be convinced that the conduct of the British government towards the U. S. of America has been, and continues, such as becomes a government desirous of preserving the relations of peace and amity; and if it should now be found that these relations cannot longer be preserved without compromising the honour and thereby sacrificing the best interests of the British empire, it is hoped there are no sacrifices or privations to which the manufacturers and merchants will not cheerfully submit, in order to prevent such consequences.

If on the contrary, the manufacturers and merchants of this kingdom shall be convinced that the intercourse, which has now subsisted for more than twenty years, between the British empire and the U. S. of America, with so many and such progressively increasing advantages to each is in danger of being interrupted by an assertion to claims, incompatible with a due regard to the equal right of both countries, or by unjust conduct on the part of either the British government, or of any person acting under its authority, it then becomes a duty to exercise that invaluable privilege, the essential bulwark of the British constitution—of respectfully making such representations to the government as the circumstances of the case may require.

And as these circumstances may be such as to render it highly important that the persons making such representations should act with promptness, and in concert, I am requested to inform you that, if such circumstances should arise, the members of the American Chamber of Commerce in Liverpool hold themselves in readiness to correspond and co-operate with the manufacturers and merchants of Great-Britain and Ireland, for the attainment of the important objects herein mentioned. I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN RICHARDSON, Vice-president.
Liverpool, August 11, 1807.

LONDON, August 7.

The following article from the Hague is, in our opinion, of much importance. It throws considerable light on the future intentions of Buonaparte relative to Turkey:—

From the Hague, July 21.—The Haerlem Journal, under the head of intelligence from Paris, states, that an eminent French general and sovereign prince is intended to be king of Greece.

August 11.

Some interesting conversation on the subject of our relations with foreign states, took place last night in the house of commons—Mr. Canning, in reply to some questions put to him by Whitbread, relating to the proffered mediation of Russia, and the dispute with America, gave all the information to the house on these important points that could have been expected. He stated that a direct communication had been received from Russia on the 2d instant, on the subject of the mediation of that power for peace; but as that communication was not accompanied by a copy of the treaty concluded with France, only a conditional answer could be given. The misunderstanding with America, he shewed, had no connection with the particular views of the present ministers, who, on entering into office, endeavoured to give full effect to the treaty concluded by their predecessors, whatever might be their sentiments respecting it; and as they had transmitted no fresh orders to our commanders in the American station, the transaction which had recently occurred could not be attributed to their instructions.

August 15.

A mail from Gottenberg arrived this morning bringing news from Gottenberg of the 7th, which state, that on the 3d admiral Gambier's fleet passed the sound saluting Cronberg castle as it passed and receiving a salute in return. A great number of English ships of war and transports are also said to have passed Gottenberg on the 5th and 6th.—They were probably the 2d and 3d expeditions. A letter from Copenhagen informs us that orders have been received by the inhabitants of the suburbs to prepare for lodging a large body of cavalry. Another bulletin has been received of the operations against Stralsund, but it is of little importance. The king of Sweden sent his proposal for an armistice in writing—it was made verbally before. But Brune replied that he could not accede to it except on the condition of Stralsund being surrendered to the French.

QUEBEC, September 3.

In consequence of the preparations for war which have been resorted to in the United States during the existing differences between that country and Great-Britain, similar measures have been recently adopted in this part of his majesty's dominions.

During the last ten days a levy of one fifth of the militia men, between the age of 18 and 50 has been effected, nearly throughout the whole province.

The zeal which has been manifested on this occasion, with the exception of here and there a few individuals, will do lasting honour to the province of Lower Canada.

PHILADELPHIA, September 23.

Extract of a letter from J. M. Forbes, Esq. consul for Hamburg, to a merchant in this city, dated Tonningen, 14th July.

"I have however great pleasure in stating I have received an official communication from his Britannic majesty's consul-general, Mr. Cockburn, by which permission is given to neutral vessels, coming from neutral places and laden with neutral cargoes and bound to the ports of Gluckstadt or Altona, to enter the Elbe and proceed to those ports, and to depart again with neutral cargoes for neutral places. The terms of the communication are general, and imply no prohibition of any merchandise except contraband of war; yet doubts have arisen, whether provisions, liquors and tobacco, excluded by previous orders, would not still find difficulty.

"On the special application by the master of a neutral vessel here laden with French wines, to the commanding officer at the mouth of the Elbe, lord Falkland permitted the vessel to go round. I have however, dispatched a boat with a letter demanding explanations on this point, and also to know if vessels cleared as are all our ships, for this place or Hamburg, if not blockaded, will be excluded, or whether they will be merely warned not to go to Hamburg, and suffered, under the general rule of blockade to proceed to the next free port. I expect an answer to-day or to-morrow, and have little doubt that it will be favourable.

"In any event, I have always an agent here, Mr. G. H. Loring, who will take charge of any consignments made to me and forward them, with the smallest possible expence, to Hamburg. I beg leave to renew to you and your friends an offer of my best services, observing that I have it in my power to make the customary advances on consignments and to give every facility which other houses give."

The MEDICAL LECTURES commence in Philadelphia on the first Monday in November next.

From the Hull Packet, of August 13.

The grand object of our expeditions, and a glorious one it is, we confidently pronounce, from information which has never yet deceived us, is solely and entirely to take possession of the island of Zealand, of Copenhagen, and of the whole Danish fleet and arsenals.

In possession of Zealand, we have the key of the Baltic, so long as it remains unfrozen, in our uncontrollable possession, and not a vessel can stir out or in without our permission. Should Buonaparte prevail upon the emperor Alexander to act hostilely to our maritime interests, with this island in our hands, we may bid defiance to all the leagues and confederacies of the powers of the Baltic.

JONESBOROUGH, (Va.) August 24.

An awful and melancholy instance of the omnipotent power of the Almighty God, in punishing with exemplary vengeance, the presumptuous wretch, who dares bid defiance to HIM, by whose permission he lives, moves, and has his existence, having just taken place here, a relation of the circumstance may not be considered uninteresting to a portion of your patrons, and perhaps may afford such a lesson, as will be the means of restraining many a wicked thought, and blasphemous expression, so often given way to, and so derogatory to the character of every human being; at least to all such as are within the power of example to reform:

A young man wished to join a company of volunteers, now enrolling themselves, for the purpose of offering their services to the President of the United States, and yesterday, being Sunday, he was at a neighbour's house, with some other young persons, a part of whom were remonstrating against his intention.—He swore he would go and join in spite of all the friends he had, and said he did not believe it was in the power of God Almighty to prevent him!—This dreadful expression had scarcely escaped his lips, when he fell a lifeless corpse at the feet of his advisers, and never breathed more! Before that period he enjoyed a perfect state of health.

NOFOLK, September 24.

COMMUNICATED.

Yesterday a meeting took place between Dr. Stark, and capt. Gordon of the Chesapeake, in consequence of a dispute on the subject of commodore Barron's conduct—several shots were exchanged without effect. The affair was terminated in the doctor's receiving a wound through the arm from lieutenant Crane, the friend of capt. Gordon.

A London paper of August 11, says, the orders for preventing aliens from quitting this country was taken off a few days ago.

A COMET,

IN appearance about the size of a fixed star of the
ond magnitude, has been seen for some evenings
l. At early star light it is nearly 35 or 40 degrees ve the western horizon, and perhaps 24 degrees S. elination. The tail looks like a dusky light rather an fire; and the comet itself has a dim aspect comed with the other stars. The tail extending di-tly opposite the situation of the sun, gives it the apearance of a shooting that way, and a superficial ob-ver is apt to suppose that it approaches that point
th a velocity quite discernable to the eye, and that declines towards the horizon faster than stars of the ne altitude. By accurate observation, however, situation with respect to the stars near it cannot perceptibly altered in one evening, and in twenty-four hours it is found to recede some minutes from at direction in the Heavens. This does not prove it is not approaching the sun, for it is the rotaon of the earth in its orbit that varies the situation
the comet in regard to the fixed stars to perception, and not the motion of the comet itself. This phenomenon will in all probability excite the attenon of persons who have the means of calculation.

tract of a letter from Amsterdam, dated in the beginning of August.

"The present emperor of Austria is in future to king of Bohemia, and the archduke Charles is to be g of Austria, the archduke Constantine, brother to exander, commander of Moldavia, Wallachia, and of Poland—the present king of Prussia to have
of his dominions restored to him; Murat, duke Berg, to be king of Poland; Jerome Buonaparte
the king of Westphalia, and to marry the daughter only child of the king of Saxony; Jean Beaumois, son of the present empress Josephine, to be g of Holland (Louis Napoleon retiring) Joseph naparte, present king of Naples, to be king of ly; and Ferdinand, the former king of Naples to restored; the present confederation of the Rhine remain, and a confederation of the North to be med under the patronage of Alexander, whose filthe emperor Napoleon is to marry, after repudi-ing his present wife." [Nat. Int.]

The Russians remark that the 27th of June, (Russian style) 9th July, of the Gregorian calendar, the day of the ratification of the treaty of peace, is the niversary of the battle of Pultawa, which was so rious and which procured so many advantages to the Russian empire. They consider this a favourable en for the continuance of the peace and friendship which has just been established between these two at empires. [Fed. Gaz.]

The British Expedition.

Captain Prince, arrived at Salem, from Ellineur, left that place on the 12th of August. The commander of the British fleet had demanded the delivery of the island of Zealand into his possession. Several letters had passed between the admiral and the crown prince. The latter had finally answered, that he would not give up the island while there was a man living to defend it. An immediate attack was expected; and on the 13th of August, when capt. P.
was coming to sea, a heavy firing was heard.

The island of Zealand is 700 miles in circumfer-ence. Copenhagen is the capital—contains about 60,000 inhabitants, and is well fortified. Ellineur is on the same island, 20 miles north of Copenhagen—contains about 6000 inhabitants. [Boston pap.]

By Tuesday's mail (says the Boston Palladium)
capt. Freeman, commander of Fort Independence, received new and positive orders not to enlist any British deserter. A similar letter has undoubtedly been addressed to every American officer.

Arrived at Baltimore, ship Bashaw, Peterfon, 75 days from Montevideo.

Business at Montevideo was in an entire state of stagnation; when capt. P. failed there were not more than three ships loading, and none discharging.
What little was done was principally with the English commissary-general, chiefly for the supply of the troops with liquors, &c. In fact it appeared that articles of every description (common ardent spirits excepted) could be procured at a much lower rate than where they originally came from. Spoke 10th July, near the line, ship Commerce, Bunker, from a whaling voyage, bound to Nantucket; off Barbadoes, spoke brig Orion, of Bath. Came into the Capes on Friday last, and anchored a short distance from the British ships. They boarded him and treated him with the utmost politeness.

Captain Kelly of the ship Pittsburg, arrived at Philadelphia from Tonningen, informs that the only reports current were, that by a supplementary article between Buonaparte and the emperor of Russia, prince Constantine was to be declared king of Poland;
and that Buonaparte had expressed his determination, of "taking under his protection" the Danish fleet.

Mr. SANSOM on the 12th ult. had an interview with Mr. CANNING, on the subject of the misunderstanding with America. The minister informed him, that he had sent to the American envoys, to know whether they had received any farther information, adding, "that if they had, our government was ready to enter into an amicable adjustment of all differences"—The answer was, "that they had received no instructions." [London paper.]

The foreign news in to-day's paper will be found interesting. The letter signed by John Richardson is ample proof of the sensibility of the British manufacturing and commercial interests to the importance of the continuation of peace with America. The general complexion, indeed, of all the articles furnished from England by the arrivals at New-York, are favourable to an amicable adjustment of differences with the United States. We find, in reality, there are still in England enlightened and just men who perceive the true interests of the British empire, and are independent and bold enough to point them out.
It is with approbation that we name lord Stanhope;
who, in the British house of lords, on the 18th of August declared, alluding to the affair of the Chesapeake, that "The subject in question was one which ought to be settled on general principles, independent of this particular occurrence, and whether individual nations were more or less powerful. By the law of nations all were equal. It was this principle which alone ought to direct and lay the foundation for any principle of general policy." The earl alluded to several other important particulars, dangerous to Great-Britain in case of a war with America.
The king of England is totally blind. [American.]

SOLICITED by a number of friends I am induced to offer my services as a candidate for the next

most of my power to promote the interest and welfare of my constituents.

—BY A LATE ARRIVAL AT NEW-YORK—

NEW-YORK, September 30.
THE LATEST.

The fast sailing ship Liverpool Packet, capt. Parfous, from Liverpool, the editors of the N. York Gazette have received London papers to the 24th August. Nothing of importance has occurred in Europe since the date of our last advices. But it was reported in London on the 23d of that month, that the British Squadron at the Island of Zealand had commenced the bombardment of Copenhagen. Gen. Parfous left Liverpool the 27th of Aug. and informs that it was reported when he failed, that the United States schooner Revenge, with dispatches from the American government, had arrived at Portsmouth.

NEW COMBINATIONS.

LONDON, August 17.

In a letter from the Elbe of August 7, it is stated that one of the secret articles of the treaty of stipulates, that if England does not accept mediation of Russia to make peace, that Russia is to attack the British possessions in India; and that the Russian forces now in the Mediterranean, are to join the Turks to expel the British from the Mediterranean.

The French troops which have served in Poland, immediately on their arrival in France, are to be ordered to repair to the coast opposite England; where they are preparing of the most extensive and formidable kind.

The French force assembling on the borders of Rhein, are said to amount to 90,000. Cattaro and Castle Nuova, held by the Russians, the Gulf of Venice, are to be restored to the French.

The command of the Russian army is given to gen. Schowden; general Baron Benningfen having been dismissed to recover his health.

The Island of Zealand is the prime seat of the Danish Monarchy, on which Copenhagen, the chief of Denmark, and Elsinore, are situated. Copenhagen is about 25 American miles south of the island; and contains (according to Pinkerton) near 100,000 inhabitants. The Danish standing force of Norway, is stated at 40,000; and the navy at 33 ships of the line. Distance across to Britain 15 miles.

Gen. Savary is to be the new French minister to Russia; and Count N. Romanzow, the Russian minister in France.

August 20.

SEIZURE OF COPENHAGEN.

Our formidable expedition in the Baltic has now fixed its destination and its object. It appears a demand was made by Mr. Jackson, the British negotiator, of the Prince Royal of Denmark, substance of which was as follows: "That in present disturbed state of the Continent, it was possible to distinguish any longer between a neutral and an enemy, but by her becoming either an ally or open foe:—That something, therefore was required beyond the ordinary presumption of the real position of every state; and that whilst the influence of an implacable enemy predominated over every power within his reach, and either checked or converted into immediate hostility every engagement or situation unfavourable to his interest, it was impossible to consider the ordinary covenants of any neutral nation either as a sufficient security for her independence, or for those who confided in her neutrality. It became the duty of England therefore, to discriminate in these circumstances, between its paramount and invariably binding upon all nations, and rights which might be suffered to relax or yield to that state of expediency in which a course of measures might involve the existence of a nation.

In this state, therefore, it was dangerous to Great-Britain, and therefore ceased to be her duty, to require any longer the neutrality of Denmark, without a sufficient pledge—that this pledge was, a permission to garrison the fortresses which commanded the passage of the Sound and the navigation of the Baltic together with the free use of the Danish ports for her shipping until such time as the pressure of circumstances ceasing, the exigency on the part of Great-Britain should likewise determine."

It is scarcely to be doubted but that the prince royal was somewhat struck with this demand. He is said, however, to have replied with great calmness and intrepidity, "that the course of conduct required of Denmark was not that of a neutral or even of an Ally, but of a Belligerent. He was bound, therefore, in all sense of dignity, to repel the demand made upon her—and it remained for England to look for her justification to the general judgment of Europe, which would determine on which side the neutrality of the two kingdoms was first violated. Denmark had now no choice but to resist; whilst England had that of honour and a retreat."

The prince immediately proceeded to Copenhagen. August 23.

With respect to the great object of rational expectation, dispatches from admiral Gambier, and the proceedings of the British fleet before Copenhagen, no fresh intelligence had been received at a late hour last night.

A letter from Yarmouth had reached the city by express, which mentions that a merchantman had put into that port bringing intelligence of her having been actually present at the commencement of the bombardment of Copenhagen, on the 12th. If it were resolved to attack the city, operations should certainly have been begun before this. Our fleet commands the whole island; its state of defence is very imperfect.

An expedition more formidable for mischief of any kind was never fitted out by this kingdom.

The foreign news of the week is not of much interest. The king of Sweden still keeps up a fruitless war in Pomerania and Stralsund still resists.

The French papers contain little news worthy of comment. All the French marshals are to be created dukes, and provided for in Germany Poland.

Dispatches were on Thursday received from gen. Frazer at Alexandria, dated May 30. He had been reinforced by 2 regiments from Sicily, the 52d and another. Provisions were abundant, and the enemy had shown no inclination to attack Alexandria, the fortifications of which had been considerably strengthened. They had collected, however, between 7 and 8000 men near Rosetta. Our prisoners at Cairo, it is said, were in general in good health, and treated with kindness. Several messages had passed between gen. Frazer and the pacha respecting them.

Sir James Craig, who is going out as commander in chief of the British colonies in North-America, we understand, will take 3 regiments with him, of which the 3d (or Old Buffs) will be one.

The Prussian ports it is asserted, are already shut against all British ships, and it is positively affirmed that Russia will do the same.

Talleyrand has resigned the situation of minister for foreign affairs to Campagny, one of the joint negotiators with lord Lauderdale. He is elevated to the dignity of vice-grand Elector of the empire. An office which to an increase of dignity joins relaxation from the detail of business. If we consider the eminent services, rendered at different times by the prince of Benevento, no honour in the power of Buonaparte to bestow will appear too great a reward. Whatever post, however, the weary politician may be promoted to fill, he will, doubtless, continue to take an active part in the Imperial councils.

The Dutch papers mention, that the king of Holland has given orders that the governor of Curacao, and those concerned with him, shall be delivered up to the supreme tribunal, and prosecuted with all the rigour of the law.

Our expedition is said to have occasioned very little impression even in those places against which it is understood to be directed. A tendency to desertion is stated to prevail among the Hanoverian troops at the island of Rugen.

Admiral Collingwood is now generally understood to have proceeded with a squadron to the Dardanelles, with a view of acting towards the Russian fleet as circumstances may require. Every account both foreign and domestic, plainly indicate the advanced formation of that hostile confederacy to which his majesty's speech refers.

STRALSUND.

Our last accounts from Stralsund are to the 2d August, at which time the siege had not been formally commenced, altho' several smart engagements had taken place between the out posts of the garrison, and the besieging army. The inhabitants had petitioned the king to restore them to the blessings of peace; but his answer was, that he would rather perish in its ruins, than submit to ignoble terms. The siege is likely to be a work of time.

The coast of the German ocean, from the frontiers of Holland to the mouth of the Elbe, is to be occupied by Dutch troops.

Buonaparte, it seems, is at last to be canonized. A monument is erecting for him at Paris, 150 feet high. One hundred feet of this elevation is already complete. And the other fifty is to be built of the cannon taken in the late campaigns against Austria, Prussia and Russia, and will be the most surprising and magnificent building of the fort in the world. The whole it is said, is to be surmounted by a colossal figure of the tyrant himself.

COPENHAGEN, August 11.

At the present moment all is conjecture, confusion and anxiety. The island is now completely encircled by the British fleet, and until yesterday, even the ministry were ignorant of the motives of its appearance or designs.

ALTONA, August 14.

This afternoon an old established commercial house here received advice by an estafetta from Stralsund (via Rosstock) that the French had been repulsed with great loss, in two attempts to take that place by assault the beginning of this week.

PARIS, August 9.

One of our journals states, that his majesty has awarded to gen. Victor the reward of his courage and his services, by elevating him to the rank of marshal of the empire.

A division of the army which is believed to be destined to shut the English out of the ports of Portugal, in the event of the court of London not accepting the mediation of Russia for the re-establishment of a maritime peace, will assemble near the Western Pyrenees. It is said that general Junot, governor of Paris, will have the command; and that his excellency will set out to-morrow, to put himself at the head of this division, which will bear the name of the Corps of Observation of La Gironde.

Dispatches have been sent by the minister of the marine to the different ports, ordering all hostilities to cease against the flags of Russia, Mecklenburgh, Prussia and Embden.

A letter from Calais dated the 7th, states, that at 3 o'clock that morning, an English flag of truce arrived at Boulogne, with a person of distinction on board who was charged with an important dispatch from the king of G. Britain to our Emperor. As yet, however, we know nothing of his arrival here, though 4 days have already elapsed.

NEW-YORK, October 2.

POSTSCRIPT.

The ship Delaware, capt. Thompson, arrived at this port yesterday in the very short passage of 35 days from Amsterdam, having performed her voyage in 61. Capt. T. has favoured the editor of the Mercantile Advertiser with Dutch papers to the 25th of August; and informs us finally that a declaration of war against G. Britain has been issued by the court of Denmark, a copy of which reached Amsterdam previous to his sailing; and that the Danish consul, in consequence of orders from count Bernstorff of the 10th of August, had stopped the sailing of all Danish vessels from Rotterdam, Amsterdam, Helvoet and Brielle.

We learn from the papers, That all British property has been confiscated at Copenhagen and Altona. The king of Denmark had retired from Copenhagen to Colding, in Jutland.

That the Crown Prince to organize the army had returned to Kiel; from whence Mr. Jackson, the English envoy, had proceeded on board the British fleet in the Danish seas, for the purpose of communicating to admiral Gambier the result of his embassy. He was detained by contrary winds from the 8th to the 11th, so that the Danes gained three days to make preparations for defence.

That the British cruisers had captured several Danish vessels employed in the Greenland trade.

That the marriage of Jerome Buonaparte with the princess Catharine of Wurtemberg was to take place at Paris on the 22d of August. He left Paris on the 19th to meet her at Mieux, a distance of about ten miles.

An article from Naples, of the 29th July, says, "a French squadron of three ships of the line, two frigates, and two brigs, have taken two English frigates near Sicily; and it was reported that the above squadron had sailed for the Levant."

HALIFAX, September 12.

This day arrived the Aeolus frigate, capt. lord Fitzroy, 27 days from Cork, bringing dispatches for the admiral, general and governor. Two regiments are coming out here from England immediately; and the regiments now here are ordered for Quebec. This augurs something; but it may be done only to provide against that which is not expected, but may possibly occur.

In a petition presented to the commander in chief, from the three deserters, for a mitigation of punishment, Ware states himself to have been born near Pipe-Creek, Frederick county, (Maryland); Strachan, at Queen's-town, Queen-Anne's county, in the same state; and Martin, in the West-Indies. That they had voluntarily and deliberately entered on board the Melampus—that they lament the crime of desertion, of which they had been guilty; and again offer their services on board any of his majesty's ships.

Boston, September 29.

We last week had a report that Ellineur was attacked on the 13th of August; but capt. Foster, who arrived here on Sunday, failed thence in the night of the 15th, to which time no attempt had been made against it, but was expected every moment; and he departed in the night from apprehensions of being detained or exposed to some inconvenience. The Danes were much exasperated against the British, and would make the best resistance in their power. People had been collected at Copenhagen and Ellineur from all other parts of the island.

When the British fleet first arrived off Ellineur, it was in a very defenceless state.

NORFOLK, September 26.

To the Editor of the Norfolk and Portsmouth Herald.

Sir,

I perceive in your paper of to-day, a communication stating, that "a meeting had taken place between Doctor STARK and Captain GORDON, in a consequence of a dispute on the subject of commodore Barron's conduct. Several shots were exchanged without effect. The affair terminated in the doctor's receiving a wound through the arm from lieutenant Crane, the friend of capt. Gordon."

It is obvious that the intention of the author of that piece was to injure my reputation, and that too in a mean and dastardly way; for although what he states is the truth, he has not stated the cause of my firing.—It is as follows:

There was a particular stipulation between the parties, which was communicated to the gentlemen when they took their ground, that if either of them fired, before they should receive the word, the friend of the gentleman fired on, should immediately shoot him.—Doctor Stark fired before the word, and I did my duty.

Writing, sir, is not my profession. I have no wish to be engaged in news-paper contentions. Should any thing further be published on this subject, I hope the authors will add their names.

As the communication was made through your paper, I expect, and have no doubt, you will have the justice to give this a place.

I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,

W. M. CRANE.

BALTIMORE, October 1.

A gentleman writing to his friend in Philadelphia, states, on the authority of a letter from France, that private mention has been made of a new and important arrangement for Europe, to wit. Europe arranged into two empires, an eastern with Alexander at its head, and western with Napoleon; each to have under its protection eight kingdoms, to wit:—under the eastern empire, the re-established kingdom of Poland with king Murat; the grand duke Constantine a king at Constantinople; Denmark its present king; Saxony its present king; Prussia its present king; Berg and Cassel, Bernadotte (this last must be an error from its place) Moldavia a king to be named, &c. Under the western empire, the dismembered empire of Austria; Hungary under prince Charles; Hanover under prince Jerome; Wirtemberg its present king; Holland prince Eugene Buonaparte, in place of king Louis abdicated; Baden its present king; Bavaria its present king; Italy king Joseph; Naples its former king. Mustapha king out of Europe, and each confederation to be strictly limited to an equal number and standing troops.

REBELLION IN IRELAND.

Letters of late dates from Ireland, represent that unfortunate country as experiencing all the horrors of a very general and deep laid revolt. It is described as being more formidable in its numbers and more regular in its plans, than any former association for the same object—viz. the emancipation of that country from the tyranny and injustice of the English government. Bank Notes.—In an action brought in the Common Pleas on Friday se'nnight, and which involved the fact of a 30l. note being stopped at the bank the same having been stolen, for James Mansfield vs. "that the Bank of England had no legal right to refuse the payment of their own notes; nor was their province to detain them from persons offering them for payment. Such a right on their part would tend to obstruct materially the commercial course of the country, when the notes of the Bank of England were so universally substituted for gold and how was every man bound to know, or in any case to inquire whether those notes, passing to him the fair and ordinary course of his business, were not honestly come by? It was his lordship's opinion, that an action would lie against the Bank, for note so stopped. [London paper.]

DENMARK, unfortunate Denmark, is doomed to all ills to aggravated wrongs and insults. Her object is peace, and her inclination and interests lead her to a just and rigid neutrality. But, amid the conflicts of two great and rival nations, the weak forms, have no option. Like Caradacus the gallant leader of the ancient Britons against the ambitious Romans, she is driven to the sea by the warlike intrusions of the French, and from the sea she is driven back by the insolent invasions of the English.—How lamentable is her situation.—How admirably calculated to excite the sympathy of all good men! France, disturbs her to shut out England, and England invades her to preserve her commercial existence. [American Citizen.]

Singular Coincidence.

An examination has been proceeding before the police of Paris, almost at the same moment that a similar inquiry was going on before the magistracy of this metropolis, on one and the same subject. A person of the name of Telfaire has been accused of blowing a certain powder into the eyes of those deemed as conspirators, which produced an inflammation, and consequently incapacitated them from serving in the army. An ointment was also found in his possession compounded for the same purpose. M. Telfaire's practice has been very extensive; 3 or 4000 conspirators have been thus inoculated with opthalmia, one half of whom are in a fair way of losing their eyesight entirely. [London paper.]

A German author, who has lately published some statistical observations respecting the state of Europe, says, that Europe contains 171,396 square German miles, of which France either governs directly or protects 38,893; that it contains 182,599,000 inhabitants, of which 37,050,000 obey France, or are under its federal system; that there are in Europe 2,549,836 soldiers, of which France can put 854,000 in movement. The total revenues of Europe he estimates at 1,173,750,000 florins, of which France receives about 700,000,000 of livres.

—BY A LATE ARRIVAL AT NEW-YORK.—

NEW-YORK, October 7.
VERY LATE FROM FRANCE.

Captain Obed. Smith, who arrived here yesterday, in 28 days from Bourdeaux, has favoured the editors of the New-York Gazette with Paris papers of August 28.

The British Squadron commenced the attack on Copenhagen the 16th of August.

The minister of worship, Portalis, died at Paris the 25th of August.

Among the passengers in the ship Eliza, are, Misses M. H. and M. V. Berthier, nieces of the Prince of Neufchatel.

Captain Smith, on the 7th ult. was boarded by the British frigate Amazon, very lately from England, and was informed that the differences between the United States and Great-Britain were settled.

Captain Gladdings, of the Indus, from Bourdeaux, informs, that the United States brig Walp, with dispatches for our ministers at Paris had arrived at L'Orient.

Extracts from Paris papers.

THE king of Westphalia, (Jerome Buonaparte) was married to the princess Catharine of Wirttemberg on Sunday, the 23d of August. The ceremony was performed in the chapel at Paris by the prince primate. Her imperial highness the princess Jerome was led by the emperor, and her majesty the empress by prince Jerome on their entrance into the chapel. The ceremony was performed in the following manner: "His highness and eminence the prince primate, officiating, followed by his clergy, &c. received their majesties at their entrance into the chapel, and presented them with the holy water. Their majesties placed themselves upon their thrones; their imperial highnesses the prince and princess Jerome, seated upon the steps of the altar, in front of the arm chair of the prince primate; the princes, princesses, &c. &c. took their places near the throne. The ministers and presidents of the high bodies of the state were placed in the chapel. The prince primate gave the nuptial blessings to the august bride and bridegroom with the usual formalities; the pall was supported by the bishop of Ghent and the Abbe de Bologne."

GENOA, August 12.

On the 9th of this month a pink put into this port from Tunis. Captain Traverso, to whom she belongs, relates, that on the 29th July, there were public rejoicings at Tunis, in order to celebrate the taking of Constantine by the Tunisians, from the Algerines. It was asserted there that the bey of Constantine himself was among the number of prisoners.

A bloody engagement has taken place between the Algerines and Tunisians, in which the latter gained a complete victory. Besides a considerable number killed and wounded, they made 7000 prisoners, and took 7 pieces of cannon. After this engagement, the Saptaya surrounded the whole Algerine army and captured all its arms, baggage, cannon, powder, stores, and 12,000 camels loaded with provisions.

DENMARK.

KIEL, August 18.

On the 13th August, Mr. Jackson declared that hostilities were going to commence. From that moment the whole city were up in arms, and preparations were making for a vigorous defence.

The garrison of Copenhagen amounts to eight thousand regular troops. The army is unfortunately on the continent, which proceeds from that fatal inclination of the powers of the continent to entertain no jealousy but against France, and to be under no apprehensions of the machinations of England. But government will find resources in the immense population of the city, and in the energetic sentiments with which all the citizens are animated. There is not a single inhabitant but has in his mouth the answer given by his royal highness to the English agent, when the latter told him that England would compensate with money all the losses that Denmark might sustain. "And with what," answered the prince, "will you compensate the loss of our honour?"

The attack commenced on the 16th. The whole army is on its march towards Fionia.

In collecting the noble speech made use of by the prince royal upon this important occasion, this phrase has not been forgotten: "If by the treason of the English the capital should, however, happen to be taken, I shall be able to do this winter what Gustavus formerly did; and the ice of the Belt will afford me a secure passage."

PROCLAMATION.

COMRADES,

After having put every thing in order, as far as circumstances and time would permit, I fly to the arms in order to employ it as speedily as possible for the safety of my dear countrymen, if events do not soon happen, which, agreeably to my wishes, may settle every thing in an honourable and pacific manner.

FREDERIC, Prince Royal.

No. II.

GLUCKSTADT, August 16.

We, Christian VII. by the grace of God, &c.

make known:

The British envoy, Jackson, having declared on the 13th of this month, that hostilities against Denmark would commence; and having at the same time asked for passports for himself and his suite, war between Denmark and England must consequently be looked upon as begun. We therefore exhort our faithful subjects every where to take up arms, for the purpose of opposing the audacious projects of the enemy, and repelling his violent aggression.

We in consequence order by the present, that all English ships, together with all English property and merchandise, be every where sequestered by the magistrates and others, and especially by the customs-house officers, in whatever place or in whatever hands and depots they may be found.

We further command that all English subjects be arrested without exception, as enemies of our kingdom and our country, until they can be conveyed out of the country.

All the magistrates and other public officers, together with their agents, are holden to execute this order with the utmost severity. It is moreover understood that all English vessels and boats which may approach the coasts, are to be considered and treated as enemies.

We further order, that all suspicious foreigners be watched with the greatest attention, and that the magistrates and their agents do use every possible means to discover the enemy's spies.

In fine, we deem it necessary to order, that under severe penalties all correspondence with British subjects be entirely put a stop to, immediately after the publication of these presents, and that no payments whatever be made to them, or for their account, until further orders.

We confide, for the rest, in the justice of our cause, in the courage and tried fidelity of our beloved subjects.

Given at Gluckstadt, the 16th August, 1807.

Signed, The Baron of Buckdorff,

J. C. MORITZ.

PARIS, August 16.

This day (Sunday) his majesty the emperor and king received a numerous deputation of the kingdom of Westphalia.

At 5 o'clock his majesty presented himself with the accustomed ceremonial, at the palace of the legislative body to open the session. His serene highness the prince vice-grand-elder having obtained his majesty's permission to administer the oath to the deputies of the legislative body named since the session of the year 14, the appeal nominal of these deputies was made by M. Lajcas, and each of them took the oath at the foot of the throne.

The appeal being ended, his majesty said, "Gentlemen, deputies from the departments to the legislative body; Gentlemen, tribunes and members of my council of state."

"Since your last session, new wars, new triumphs, new treaties of peace have changed the political face of Europe."

"If the house of Brandenburg, the first who attacked our independence, still reigns, it owes it to the sincere friendship with which I am inspired for the powerful emperor of the north."

"A French prince will reign upon the Elbe; he will know to conciliate the interests of his new subjects, with the first of his most sacred duties."

"The house of Saxony has recovered, after 50 years, the independence which it had lost."

"The people of the dutchy of Warlaw, and of the city of Dantzic, have recovered their country and their rights."

"All nations, with one general accord, are rejoicing that the malignant influence which England has exercised over the continent is destroyed for ever."

"France is united to the people of Germany by the laws of the confederation of the Rhine; to those of Spain, of Holland, of Switzerland, and of Italy, by the laws of our federative system. Our new relations with Russia are cemented by the reciprocal esteem of the two great nations."

"In all that I have done, I have had solely in view the happiness of my people, more dear to my eyes than military glory."

"I desire a maritime peace. Resentment will not have the smallest influence over my determinations.—I cannot have any against a nation the sport and victim of the parties by which it is torn, and which is kept in darkness on the situation of its own affairs as well as those of its neighbours."

"But whatever may be the issue which the decrees of Providence may assign to the maritime contest, my people will always find me the same, and I shall always find my people worthy of me."

"Frenchmen, your conduct during the latter times in which your emperor has been separated from you more than 500 leagues, has augmented my esteem and the opinion which I had conceived of your character. I have felt proud in being the first among you. If during these ten months of absence and peril, I have been present to your thoughts, the marks of love which you have given me have excited constantly my most lively emotions. All my solitudes, every thing that could have relation to the care of my own person, did not affect me in any other way than as connected with your interest, and from its importance to your future destiny. You are a good and a great people."

"I have meditated different dispositions for simplifying and perfecting our institutions."

"The nation has experienced the happiest effects from the establishment of the legion of honour. I have created several imperial titles to give a new lustre to the most distinguished of my subjects, to reward glorious services by glorious recompences, and for preventing the return of every feudal title incompatible with our constitutions."

"The accounts of my ministers of finance and of public treasure, will exhibit to you the prosperous state of our finances. My people will experience a considerable deduction from the landed contribution."

"My minister of the interior will make you acquainted with the works which have been commenced or finished; but that which remains to be done, is of still greater importance; for I wish to see in every part of my empire, even in the smallest hamlet, the comfort of the citizens and the value of the lands augmented by the effect of the general system of amelioration which I have conceived."

"Gentlemen, deputies from the departments to the legislative body, your assistance will be necessary to enable me to arrive at this great result, and I have the right to calculate constantly upon it."

August 25.

A courier extraordinary who set off from Hambourg on the 16th August, has brought intelligence that on the 13th instant Denmark declared war against England; that the prince royal who was at Copenhagen, with the king, set off from thence, and arrived on the 15th at Kiel; that the seals have been put upon all English property and upon all commercial papers and effects belonging to English subjects; that all the fortresses along the coast have been put in a state of defence; that the troops of Holstein are repairing by forced marches behind the Eyder and upon the Pionia.

The indignation against the English is at the highest pitch in Denmark. It cannot but rouse the inhabitants to the greatest energy.

The king of Denmark is happily arrived at Colding, in Jutland.

The General Count of Baudissin is commander in chief of the troops in Copenhagen.

Previous to his quitting Copenhagen, the prince royal took every measure for defending that capital; its garrison amounts to 20,000 men. The English appear to have formed a design of attacking Copenhagen, Cronenburg and Nyburg.

Three Danish regiments have contrived to get into Nyburg, in spite of the English Squadron. A strong garrison has been put into Frederiksia.

The king and the prince royal ran the greatest risk of being taken by the English cruisers in the Great-Belt. They have fortunately escaped.

Denmark will soon be in want of men and money to support the struggle, but if the Danish people second their prince, and resist this horrible oppression, the emperor of the French will not let Denmark be in want of either money or men. The history of nations affords no example of such an atrocity. Sovereigns and nations of Europe, if England, like France, had 8 or 900,000 men under arms, what would happen to you! [Moniteur.]

HANSE TOWNS.

Among the unauthenticated reports of the day, is this, that Buonaparte means to restore the Hanse Towns to their ancient importance. It is said there are to be 13 of them, that they are to keep a fleet, and that even one or perhaps two French ports are to be admitted to the league. [London paper.]

Boston, October 6.

Captain Pratt, who arrived last night, in 38 days from Amsterdam, informs, that Copenhagen was surrendered to the British on the 20th of August, without resistance. Mr. Munroe had advised that American vessels in Holland ready for sea should go north about, and others should remain a short time to see the issue of our negotiations in England.

New-York, October 8.

Capt. Latham informs that the United States frigate Constitution was in Gibraltar bay, 33 days since, taking in water, and was to sail for America in a few days.

From the Paris Argus of the 27th August.

Extract from the project of a law laid before the legislative body at Paris the 25th August, by order of the emperor.

Interest contracted for cannot exceed in civil affairs five per cent. nor in commercial affairs 6 per cent.

Legal interest in civil matters will be five per cent. and in commercial affairs six per cent. without deduction.

When it appears in the course of the lawsuit that the lender habitually demands usurious interest, the tribunal before which it is pleaded may condemn the lender to a fine which cannot exceed the half of the capital of the sums sued for.

If in the transaction there should appear to have been any swindling, the accused shall be turned over to the correctional police, and the punishment shall be, besides the aforesaid fine, an imprisonment which cannot exceed two years.

No innovation is understood to take place in the stipulations of interest by contracts or other acts made before the date of the publication of the present law.

Philadelphia, October 9.

A letter from Bourdeaux of Aug. 30, says, "there is an embargo on Portuguese vessels, and troops are marching through here daily, it is said for that country. Our markets are improving. We yesterday refused 48 sous for tolerable St. Domingo coffee. Cotton has risen very much. Louisiana was placed yesterday as high as 237 50. Pot ashes and bees wax in demand. Sugars are heavy, but as the fall approaches we expect a demand. Brandies and wines are fallen."

The French continue to insist on having the sum of 16,000,000 francs from the senate of Hamburg, for the English property which has been seized on; but the senate, unable to pay so enormous a demand, resort to every means of procrastination.

Pittsburg, September 29.

Early last week Mr. William B. Irish, deputy marshal, left this place for Beaver county, to execute several writs of Habeas Facias Possessionem, issued out of the circuit court of the United States for the district of Pennsylvania, for lands recovered by the Population company against various settlers in that county. On Wednesday the 23d inst. Mr. Irish was proceeding to the house of William Foulkes one of the persons against whom judgment had been obtained in said court, in company with Enion William, agent for the company. George Holdship, Esq. and James Hamilton; when having just entered the lane leading to Foulkes's house, three or four guns were fired from a thicket of bushes close by the road side, and two balls struck Mr. Hamilton, who fell from his horse, and expired in a few minutes—the others made their escape immediately through the woods to Greensburgh. Mr. Hamilton had that morning been put in possession of a tract of land held by contract with the company, about two miles from the place where the horrid deed was perpetrated, and no doubt but the villains knew him well when they fired at him. Some neighbours collected in the afternoon to remove the body of Mr. Hamilton; Mr. Foulkes, it is said, came to them, and expressed great sorrow at the unfortunate accident, although he had threatened a day or two before, that if the marshal should come to dispossess him, blood would be spilt on the occasion.

Mr. Irish came that evening to Beaver to get the sheriff of the county, who is also colonel of a regiment of militia, to call out a party to go in pursuit of the murderers; and only about fifteen could be collected who were willing to go, as it was believed the party was forty or fifty strong, and that they were resolutely determined that they would not let themselves be taken.

This appears to be the first blood that has been shed in pursuance of the long and doubtful contest between the warrant holders and actual settlers, for lands north of the rivers Ohio and Allegany; although individuals had often went amongst the settlers, encouraging them to hold out against the company, and to oppose the execution of the laws after the company having gained the land from time to time in the circuit court; although publications had been repeatedly made in news-papers nearly to the same tenor; yet it is believed that there never was an individual circulated or published so base and infamous a piece, as that which appeared in the Commonwealth last Wednesday, headed "ACTUAL SETTLERS," written no doubt by a person whose particular duty it is to promote obedience to the laws, rather than to encourage their open violation.

Translated for the (N. Y.) Mercantile Advertiser. LIBERTY AND INDEPENDENCE. STATE OF HAYTI.

Order of the day of the army.

Monday, August 24, 1807, 4th year.

The ceremony of the place is, in addressing yourself to his excellency the president, to give him the title of My Lord; the same title is also to be used when writing to him.

His excellency the president announces to the army news from Europe, the most happy for the state of Hayti; and he has selected from it the following extract of an official dispatch addressed to his government.

"I announce to you officially that the British government recognizes his excellency the president Henry Christophe for the chief of the government of Hayti, and that it is determined to contribute to aid and establish his supremacy."

Great quantities of powder, muskets, cartridges, boxes, woollen cloth, hats and articles of equipment of every kind, are daily arriving within our ports, and the government has the satisfaction to see that the solicitudes and its efforts for its equipment of the army are crowned with the most complete success; it will attend in a few days to fulfilling all its wants of that description.

Done at head-quarters at the Cape, 24th of August, 1807, 4th year of independence.

HENRY CHRISTOPHE.

In absence of the chief of the general staff of the state. The brigadier of the armies attached to the staff.

From a London paper of August 21.

City of London Tavern.—At a meeting of the committee of American merchants,

PHILIP SANSON, Esq. in the chair. The chairman stated, that he had received a letter from John Richardson, Esq. vice-president of the American chamber of commerce, at Liverpool, accompanying certain resolutions of that board, and their circular letter, dated the 11th inst.—the same having been read, it was Resolved unanimously, That this committee will be at all times happy to receive any communications from the American Chamber of Commerce, at Liverpool, which may have a tendency to promote the commercial intercourse between the British empire and the U. States of America; but with the knowledge that negotiations of great political importance are pending between the government of this country and the American States, they are of opinion that any interference on their part at the present moment would be improper—and this committee having no reason to believe his majesty's government to be indisposed to an amicable accommodation of the present differences, see no necessity for associations being formed in the different manufacturing towns and seaports, for the purpose of collecting information as to the prospects of a good understanding, or otherwise, between the two countries. But if it should at any time appear that the efforts of this committee can be useful in promoting cordiality and harmony between the two governments, they will be ready to do every thing in their power for the attainment of so desirable an object.

JOHN GRAY, Sec'y.

We learn by capt. Patzig, (says the New-York Gazette) from Cape Francois, that general Christophe left the Cape about the 4th of September, with 10,000 men, for Port-de-Paix, to give battle to Pétion.

Dispatches have been received by government from our ministers in London.

We are informed that it is the opinion of the president, that the rate of affairs between the two countries does not present the most agreeable aspect.

[Washington Federalist.]

The court martial appointed to try com. Barron, met on board the Chesapeake yesterday; but in consequence of the indisposition of the commodore, it was adjourned sine die. It is said that L. W. Tazewell, esq. is appointed judge advocate. He is now in Richmond, as a witness on the trial of col. Burr.

[Norfolk Herald.]

It appears, from the report of the commissioners sent out by the governor of the Ohio, that the Indians near Greenville are not hostile. The Prophet is said to preach peace; being thus taught not by man, but by the Great Spirit. Blue Jacket, in a talk addressed to the commissioners, stated as their chief complaint, that the government agent at Fort Wayne, (Mr. Wells) was disliked.

[Federal Gazette.]

A letter under the date of September 9th, from Aux-Cayes, in the Island of Saint-Domingo, informs that Gen. Yayou, who served under Petion, but who formerly conspired against him, and lately attempted to bribe his soldiers to go over to Christophe, had been put to death by his own troops; and that gen. Lamarre beat Christophe, and in all probability he will be taken prisoner, when it is supposed peace will be restored.

There is a talk of another odd fancy, (says a Hamburg paper of the 8th of August) that has taken the king of Sweden. It is rumoured that he has sold Pomerania and the island of Rugen to the English, for seventeen millions and a half of marks banco.

A gentleman, passenger in the Arcturus, arrived at New-York in 39 days from Boudeaux, informs, that the day before he sailed, he received a letter from his friend in Paris, stating that news had reached here that Copenhagen had surrendered to the British.

Captain Morris, of the brig Warren, who arrived at N. York from Bayonne, which place he left the 1st of September, informs us that an embargo was laid on all the shipping in that port on the 22d Aug. and was expected to be continued sometime—on the 10th the embargo was respected American vessels were allowed. There were in the port a great number of Portuguese. It was currently reported at Bayonne, that Copenhagen had surrendered unconditionally to the English, but was not credited.

An embargo has been laid on all Portuguese and Danish vessels in the ports of France; the former by the French government, and the latter by the Danish consul.

The ANNAPOLIS VOLUNTEER COMPANY of Infantry, are requested to meet on Saturday next, the 17th inst. at 3 o'clock, P. M. on the usual parade ground.

ELIZA:

A PATHETIC TALE.

SO stood Eliza on the wood crown'd height,
O'er MINDEN'S plain, spectatress of the fight;
Sought with bold eye, amid the bloody strife,
Her dearer self, the partner of her life;
From hill to hill the rushing host purfu'd,
And view'd his banner, or believed she view'd!
Pleas'd with the roar, with quicker tread,
Fast by her hard one lifting boy she led;
And one fair girl amid the loud alarm,
Slept on her kerchief, cradled by her arm;
While round her brows bright beams of honour dart,
And LOVE'S warm eddies circle round her heart!

Near, and more near, the intrepid beauty press'd,
Saw through the driving smoke his dancing crest;
Saw on his helm, her virgin hands inwove,
Bright stars of gold, and mystic knots of LOVE;
Heard the exulting shout—"they run! they run!"
"Great God!" she cried, "he's safe! the battle's won!"

A ball now whistles through the airy tides,
Some fury wing'd it, and some Demon guides!
Parts the fine locks her graceful head that deck,
Wounds her fair ear, and sinks into her neck;
The red stream, issuing from her azure veins,
Dyes her white veil, her ivory bosom stains;
"Ah, me!" she cried, and sinking on the ground,
Kiss'd her dear babes, regardless of the wound:
"Oh, cease not yet to beat, thou vital urn;
"Wait, gushing life—oh, wait my love's return!"
"Hoarse barks the wolf, the vulture screams from far,
"The angel PITY thuns the walks of war;
"Oh spare, ye war hounds; spare their tender age!
"On me, on me," she cried, "exhaust your rage!"
Then with weak arms her weeping babes carelessly,
And, sighing, hid them in her blood-stain'd vest.

From tent to tent the impatient warrior flies,
Fear in his heart, and frenzy in his eyes;
ELIZA's name along the camp he calls—
ELIZA echoes through the canvas walls;
Quick through the morn'ring gloom his footsteps tread,
O'er groaning heaps of dying and the dead,
Vault o'er the plain, and in the tangled wood,
Lo! dead ELIZA, weltering in her blood!

Soon hears his listening son the welcome sounds;
With open hands and sparkling eyes he bounds:
"Speak low," he cries, and gives his little hand;
"ELIZA sleeps upon the dew-cold sand;"
Poor weeping babe, with bloody fingers prest,
And tries, with pouting lips, her milkless breast!
"Alas! we both with cold and hunger quake!"
"Why do you weep?—Mamma will soon awake."

"She'll wake no more!" the hopeless mourner cried,
Upturn'd his eyes, and clasp'd his hands, and sigh'd;
Stretch'd on the ground awhile entranc'd he lay,
And press'd warm kisses on the lifeless clay;
And then up-sprung, with cold convulsive start—
And all the father kindled in his heart:
"Oh, Heaven! he cried, "my first rash vow forgive,
"THESE bind to earth—for THESE I pray to live!"
Round his chill babes he wrapp'd his crimson vest,
And clasp'd them, sobbing, to his aching breast.

Foreign Intelligence.

By the Swift, Cook, 31 days from Liverpool.

NEW-YORK, October 14.
LATEST INTELLIGENCE.

By the ship Swift, captain Cook, arrived at this port in 31 days from Liverpool, London papers to the 7th of September have been received.

The London papers contain but little on the subject of American affairs, and if we are to believe private letters from commercial houses at Liverpool, no material alteration of public opinion had taken place relative to our dispute with that country. The Revenge arrived at Falmouth on the 28th August, via Breit; and Mr. Munroe had presented the dispatches to the British government; but nothing of an official complexion had appeared in the public prints.

An embargo had been laid in England on all Danish vessels, and on all shipping bound to the Baltic. A letter from Liverpool mentions, that all American vessels loaded in the Baltic for Holland, had been seized.

His Swedish majesty had announced the blockade of the rivers Peene and Oder, and the ports of Swedish Pomerania.

LONDON, September 1.

An order of council was published in Saturday's Gazette prohibiting all vessels belonging to his majesty's subjects from entering or clearing out for any of the ports within the dominions of the king of Denmark until further orders; that a general embargo be laid on all Danish vessels in English ports; and that Danish vessels fallen in with on the high seas be detained.

The official dispatches from the commander of the expedition against Copenhagen were also published in Saturday's Gazette. It appears from the journal of the military operations, transmitted by Lord Cathcart, that very little opposition was offered to the investment of the town. In the course of eight days, the loss of the British troops, officers and soldiers, amounted to four killed and two wounded. The German legion, the returns of which are wanting, having been solely engaged in the only two affairs of importance, might have suffered more; but as in the principal of these the Danes were taken by surprise, the loss was probably not considerable. The post of Roskilde, in front of which a sharp affair took place on the 20th, fell into our possession on the 22d. The preparations for bombarding Copenhagen on the land side were considerably advanced on the 21st, and would, it was supposed, be completed in two or three days after, when, notwithstanding the failure of the recommendation made to the commanding general on that day, the garrison would be again summoned to surrender. It is obvious from the little resistance made to the advance of our army and the erection of batteries, that the amount of the Danish force in Copenhagen has been much exaggerated in the Dutch and German Journals. If general Peyman could have brought any thing like 11,000 regulars into the field, exclusive of the militia, we should not, however great the exertions and bravery of our troops, have been able to completely invest the town on the day after the disembarkation of a part only of our forces. With means so obviously inadequate to successful resistance, it is hardly to be expected that the governor of Copenhagen will resolve upon a protracted defence, and expose it to the horrors of a bombardment. We rather think that he will open a negotiation when he finds that the preparations for attacking the town on the land side are completed, and agree to the surrender of the fleet upon the terms stated in the British proclamation. It is possible, however, that for the purpose of preventing the occupation of Holstein by the French, and impressing them with an opinion that he was sincere in his resistance, and had carried it as far as possible, the crown prince (who in fact comprizes within himself all the power of the Danish government) might have determined upon sacrificing the fleet.

A report, said to be founded on letters received from Holland, is very current in the city, that the bombardment of Copenhagen commenced on the 23d ult. and was continued until the 25th, when the town and whole of the Danish navy were surrendered by capitulation.

A letter from Constantinople, dated 20th June, confirms the statement of the Mémiteur, that the Divan had resolved not to receive the new English ambassador. A message was accordingly sent to him, to prevent him from entering the capital. He also received notice that no proposition from his court would be listened to until the English had entirely evacuated Egypt, and withdrawn their cruisers from that part of the Mediterranean.

Within these few days orders have been issued for 12 sail of the line, with frigates, to be prepared for the North Seas during the winter months.

Yesterday evening the Russian frigate Sywhnay arrived in the Downs direct from St. Petersburg. The circumstance was immediately communicated to the admiralty by the Telegraph, and some importance was at first attached to the arrival of this vessel. It appears, however, that she was bound to Lisbon with the prince and princess Galitzin on board. The latter was going to Lisbon for the recovery of her health, but died upon her passage.

September 3.

Upon the landing of the troops in the island of Zealand, the commander of our sea and land forces published a proclamation declaratory of the circumstances under which it had been deemed necessary to disembark his army. It enforces the necessity of taking measures to prevent the arms of neutral powers from being turned against us. It states, "His majesty has sent negotiators to request a concurrence in such measures as can alone give security against the further mischief which the French meditate through the acquisition of the Danish navy." It defines the temporary deposit of the Danish ships of the line in one of his majesty's ports; offering the most solemn pledge that if the demand should be amicably acceded to, every ship belonging to Denmark shall at the conclusion of a general peace be restored to her, in the same condition and state of equipment as when received under the protection of the British flag. The temporary possession of Copenhagen, or of any part of the Danish territories, is not demanded, though some of the foreign papers asserted such a demand to have been made.

SURRENDER OF STRALSUND.

Intelligence has been received of the surrender of Stralsund to the French. The Swedish troops, it is said, retreated to Rugen.

September 4.

The surrender of Stralsund was hastened by the pressing importunities of the inhabitants, who almost hourly entreated his Swedish majesty to surrender the place in order to save it from the dreadful effects of a continued siege. The Swedes marched out on the 23d, and the city and fortresses were on the same day occupied by the French. The former were conveyed to the island of Rugen.

September 5.

The voyage of the Revenge was protracted in consequence of her having received orders to put into Breit before she went to England with dispatches for the American minister at Paris. She arrived at Falmouth the 28th of Aug.

The dispatches by the Revenge cutter, from America, were on Thursday presented to Mr. Canning by Mr. Munroe, the ambassador from the United States. The surgeon of the Cheapeake is arrived in the Revenge for the purpose of giving an ample description of the whole of the affair between the Leopard and that ship.

We have it from good authority to say, that the government of America, in their instructions to Mr. Munroe, have desired him positively to insist on our relinquishing the right of searching any of their vessels for men, whatever their rank or condition may be. They do not require us to give up the right of search for merchandise; but they declare they will never permit any of their vessels, whether ships of war or merchantmen, to have their men taken out after they have left their ports. Report says our ministers are only allowed four days to consider of these terms.

Government, we understand have taken up transports to carry between 2 and 3000 tons of ammunition and other military stores for another secret expedition. This quantity is proportioned to as large a force as the expedition to the Baltic.

Accounts received in the hostile disposition of Russia. British subjects were absolutely killed and insulted in the streets of Petersburg. As some compensation, however, Lord Gower had succeeded in getting the subsidy re-shipped, and as they say in Scotland, "we maun tak' the bit and the buist wi't."

If in the end we are successful in our expedition against the Danes, we do not think it practicable to maintain Zealand during the winter, even if we leave a garrison of 20,000 men in Copenhagen. Our fleet, during the stormy months, will be of but little assistance to us in such a dangerous sea as the Baltic; and the passage of the Belts must be quitted entirely—it being too dangerous for ships of war to enter. In this situation what can 20,000 English do against the force the Danes will send from Holstein? If the equinox sets in early in the year, and before we have accomplished the capture of Copenhagen, we shall consider our whole expedition as in jeopardy. (Statesman.)

September 7.

Letters have been received in town this morning from Holland, dated the 20th ult. which state that Copenhagen, together with the fleet consisting of 20 sail, surrendered after a bombardment on the 24th.

We have made every inquiry as to the truth of this report, but cannot learn any thing which induces us to place any credit in it. On the contrary we have seen letters from Hamburg of the 28th, which make no mention of the fact; and we have just learned that Dutch papers to the 2d inst. were received in town this morning, which are likewise silent on the subject. (Statesman.)

Statesman's office, 2 o'clock P. M.—We have just learned that letters are in town from Holland, of the 3d inst. which state, that all kind of communication between this country and Holland is now put a stop to; not even a passage boat is suffered to leave the Dutch ports.

It is said that Buonaparte's ministers at Vienna and St. Petersburg have exerted every possible effort to cause the commercial agents of those courts now in Great-Britain to be recalled, and also to effect the expulsion of all British agents from Austria, Russia, &c.

A detachment of the German troops under the command of general Dekken, attacked and carried the royal foundry, which is situated about 8 miles from Copenhagen. It was defended by a major, and 830 men, all of whom were made prisoners. The Danes collected a small force at a place called Roscheld, and appeared for a short time determined to make a stand; but upon the approach of our troops, they retreated with precipitation. Some gun-boats of the enemy were also compelled to retreat. Our whole loss upon these occasions consisted of two artillery men and two officers, lieut. Lions, and ensign Dickson. At the foundry our troops took possession of a great number of cannon, and a considerable quantity of ammunition.

The enemy made a sortie on the 19th of Aug. with 200 men, but were repulsed with trifling loss on our part. The army had taken 40 waggon loads of ammunition on the 18th, destined for the supply of Copenhagen, and 14 more on the 21st.

But the more important article brought by the Swan is, that the French general Brune is at Copenhagen, and busied in the defence of the place.

On Friday morning an order was sent to the Chatham division of Royal Marines, for an immediate embarkation of officers and men to proceed immediately to join the expedition to the Baltic.

The 91st regiment, which has been stationed at Killarney, &c. has set out for Cork, in order to join the 3d regiment, and proceeded direct for Canada.

We hope that as the SURGEON of the Cheapeake is come over to England he will be able to REAL the differences between the two countries.

A Dublin paper states that the Ross Island and Enniscorthy mines have for three years past afforded employment to upwards of ten thousand people; and adds that a new mine has lately been discovered on the estate of the earl of Derry, near the town of Teperary.

According to private letters received from Denmark it is confidently stated to be the general understanding, that Buonaparte made a most tempting proposition to the prince royal, in case he consented to co-operate in his views. This proposition is said to be the re-union of Sweden with Denmark and Norway, and this union to be accomplished with French troops, provided the prince regent would agree to close the Sound against our trade, and place the Danish fleet at the disposition of France. That such a proposition may have been made is extremely probable; but no assertion is hazarded, nor is any reason stated to induce a belief that the prince regent had manifested a disposition to accede to it.

An order has been sent out to the squadron in the West-Indies for the immediate capture of Santa-Cruz, St. Thomas and other Danish colonies.

Extract of a letter from Petersburg, July 31.
 "We have now got the French ambassador, gen. Savary, and suite, and lord Gower. On the 5th Aug. there is to be a grand masquerade at the palace of Peterhoff in the celebration of the peace. Every thing is to be on the first scale of magnificence. The general opinion on 'Change is, that the emperor is much displeased with the conduct of the late English government, and at present we know he is very unfriendly to the English here. How matters will end God only knows. His imperial majesty has just been down at Cronstadt inspecting the fortifications, which have been put in the strongest possible state of defence."

It affords us much satisfaction to find that the American government has not been so far influenced by the senseless clamour excited in that country, as to adopt the passions and violence of the mobs on the banks of the Chesapeake.

The letters from the fleet mention, that it was not the intention of lord Cathcart to make his final summons to the government of Copenhagen, until all his batteries were finished, and the place completely invested. This could not be effected until the 22d, and the final summons would probably be made on the 23d.

National Rank.—Upwards of 300 years ago (in 1503) that important officer called the master of the ceremonies who officiated for Julius II. ranked the powers of Europe in the following manner.

- 1 The Emp. of Germa-14 Holland,
 - ny, 15 Denmark,
 - 2 King of the Romans, 16 Republic of Venice,
 - 3 France, 17 Duke of Brittany,
 - 4 Spain, 18 Duke of Burgundy,
 - 5 Arragon, 19 Elector of Bavaria,
 - 6 Portugal, 20 Elector of Branden-
 - 7 England, 21 Elector of Saxony,
 - 8 Sicily, 22 Archduke of Auf-
 - 9 Scotland, 23 Duke of Savoy,

 - 11 Navarre, 25 Grand Duke of Flo-
 - 12 Cyprus, 26 Grand Duke of Flo-
 - 13 Bohemia, 27 Grand Duke of Flo-
- Russia, Prussia nor Sweden, do not appear in the catalogue: and the Papal sovereign, who presided over the College of princes, has now, in a manner, withdrawn from the political hemisphere.

DRESDEN, July 23.
 It is reported here, on what is believed to be good authority, that the French marshal Ney will be appointed commander in chief of the whole Saxon army; which army will be entirely new organized.

COPENHAGEN, August 18.
 Since the landing of the English upwards of twenty spies have already been apprehended, some dressed as peasants, and others in women's cloaths. Yesterday the English commenced in the road to bombard the castle and the Three Crown Battery. Their bombs are of the same description as those on the 2d April, 1801; that is most pitiful, most of them burst in the air.

Our fleet of bomb vessels were out this morning, and have done them considerable mischief. We are in high spirits, and entertain no doubt of their being defeated.

They were allowed to land undisturbed in order to surround and destroy them.—[Hamburgh Correspondent, Aug. 22.]

DENMARK, August 20.
 The Prince Royal has given orders rather to burn the fleet, in case of extremity, than to suffer them to fall into the hands of the enemy. When Mr. Jackson, it is said, gave him twelve hours to take his final resolution, he did not employ so many seconds in positively rejecting his propositions.

APPOINTMENTS.

General JOHN SHEE, of Pennsylvania, superintendent of Indian affairs to be collector of the port of Philadelphia vice gen. Muhlenburg deceased.

General JOHN MASON, of the district of Columbia, to be superintendent of Indian Affairs vice gen. Shee, appointed collector of the port of Philadelphia.

LARKIN SMITH, Esq. of Virginia, to be collector of the port of Norfolk, vice Th. NEWTON, sen. Esq. deceased.

We are desired to state, that a Stone is placed in the hands of Dr. Ott, which possesses the wonderful power of extracting poison of every kind. This Stone will be used under the direction of Dr. Weems, and without charge. It was brought from India by a gentleman of New-York, who purchased it from a native, after having seen the efficacy of its power demonstrated in extracting the poison of a scorpion that was permitted to bite the then owner. The owner of this very valuable stone, dining in company with some gentlemen who were conversing on the peculiar power of a stone owned by a lady in Virginia, related the above account, and has since most generously sent his Stone to a gentleman in town, to be used for the benefit of such of his fellow citizens as may be so unfortunate as to require it. The Stone is black, about an inch in length, and in shape somewhat like a bean. [Wash. Fed.]

The commissioners appointed by the respective states of New-York and New-Jersey to ascertain the boundary line between the two states, after being in session at Newark about nine days, have separated without coming to any determination but to disagree. The commissioners of New-Jersey presented a formal written claim to States-Island—to one half of the river at the Narrows—to Ellis's and Bedlow's Islands, and to one half of the river as far as New-Jersey extends along its shores! This is quite as much of modesty as we could well expect from New-Jersey. It is hardly necessary to observe that our commissioners decided upon an adjournment when this trifling claim was offered.

COMMUNICATION.

A standard was presented on Saturday afternoon, by Miss Mary Chafe, (daughter of the honorable S. Chafe) to the troop of "First Baltimore Hussars," commanded by captain William B. Barney, in the presence of a large and brilliant assemblage of spectators. The troop having been drawn up, in full uniform, before the house of the judge, Miss Chafe appeared in a dress of white satin, decorated in the Hussar style, wearing an elegant military cap, embroidered in gold, with nodding plumes; captain Barney advanced towards her, and saluted; when, holding the colours in her hand, she addressed him in these words:

SIR, Permit me to present you with a standard for the troop you have the honour to command. Admiring the patriot ardour displayed by the First BALTIMORE HUSSARS, I derive a high pleasure from the anticipation, that a banner, worked by my hand, will ever proudly wave where honour points and duty leads the way. Should a war, which Heaven avert, prove the only resource of our country against foreign aggression, when the trumpet sounds, may the angel of victory hover over the gallant defenders of our rights, and their achievements in the field of fame, be crowned with a glorious and lasting peace!

To which captain Barney replied: MADAM, As commander of the "FIRST BALTIMORE HUSSARS," I receive with the highest sense of patriotic gratitude the very elegant standard, you have honoured them in presenting.

In the event of a war, were any other incentive than duty necessary to their exertions in defence of their insulted country, this proof of your approbation would of itself, be a sufficient stimulus to animate their hearts with courage, and nerve their arms with strength. Be assured, that in time of danger it will ever prove their rallying point; with it they will conquer, or around it nobly perish.

Accept, madam the salutation of the troop.

Captain Barney saluted again, upon receiving the standard, and delivered it to cornet M'Kim. The troop then paraded twice before the porch, where Miss Chafe stood; the officers saluting as they passed.

The colours are richly worked in gold, on a white lustrous ground, relieved with a serpentine border of crimson velvet, and ornamented with gold fringe and tassels. The beauty of design, and execution displayed in the performance, evinces at once the taste, ingenuity and patriotism, of the fair artist. One side of the flag discovers an eye, from which its centre, rays diverge emblematical of the divinity; motto "non alius regnat," "Jehova is our king." On the reverse is exhibited, an elegant gold cypher of the United States, encircled by seventeen stars. "Motto, 'Unita virtus fortior,' "Virtue united is invincible." Each corner of the flag represents a grenade or bomb on fire.

The colours are attached to a golden arrow and suspended from the staff in the Roman style: the whole surmounted by the American Eagle, with expanded wings, grasping in its talons a silver globe, representing the world. The eagle wears a breast plate, on which, by order of the troop, the following inscription has been engraved.

"Presented by Miss Mary Chafe,"

By the arrivals from St. Thomas, we learn, that the news of the capture of Copenhagen by the British had reached that place. The British had commenced capturing Danish vessels. [Phil. pap.]

INVOCATION TO POVERTY.

[WHITTEN BY CHARLES FOX.]

OH POVERTY! of pale, consumptive hue!
If thou delight'st to haunt me still in view;
If still thy presence must my steps attend,
At least continue, as thou art—my friend!

When'er example bids me be unjust,
False to my word, or faithless to my trust,
Bid me the baneful error quickly see,
And shun the world, to find repose with thee.

When vice to wealth would turn my partial eye,
Or interest shut my ear to sorrow's cry;
Or courtiers' customs would my reason bend,
My foe to flatter, or desert my friend:
Oppose, kind POVERTY! thy temper'd shield,
And bear me off, unvanquish'd from the field.

If giddy fortune e'er return again,
With all her idle, restless, wanton train;
Her magic glass should false ambition hold,
Or Av'rice bid me put my trust in gold;—
To my relief, thou virtuous Goddess, haste,
And with thee bring thy daughters, ever chaste,
Health, Liberty, and Wisdom—sisters bright,
Whose charms can make the worst condition light!
Beneath the hardest fate the mind can cheer,
Can heal affliction, and disarm despair!
In chains, in torments, pleasure can bequeath,
And dress in smiles the tyrant hour of death.

THE CARELESS COUPLE.

JENNY is poor, and I am poor,
Yet we will wed—so say no more;
And should the harm you mention come,
As few that marry but have some,
No doubt but Heav'n will stand our friend,
And bread, as well as CHILDREN send.
So fares the hen in farmer's yard,
To live alone she finds it hard,
I've known her weary every claw,
In search of corn among the straw,
But when in quest of nicer food,
She clucks among her chirping brood;
With joy I've seen the self same hen,
That scratch'd for ONE could scratch for TEN.
These are the thoughts that make me willing To take my GILT without a shilling;
And for the self same cause, d'ye see,
JENNY's resolv'd to marry me!

THE CHINA ASTER.—

A FRAGMENT.

"I PLANTED it with my own hands," said my little sister, holding up a withered China aster, plucked up by the roots; I covered it, from the sun; I watered it night and morning—and after all, wiping her eyes with the corner of her frock, "And after all it is dead."

Alas! how many are the occurrences in life, thought I, which resemble Mary's flower! too easily believing what we wished, we adopt some trifle, and laying it, as it were, in our bosom, love it as a daughter. Fancy prints it in gay colours; increasing in beauty, we see its little leaves expand, and trace its progress with anxious solicitude, from the swelling bud to the blow; and then, when we expect to enjoy it, reality tells us, "after all it is dead."

How often does an only son engross all the care of his parents, and wind himself round every fibre of their hearts; to cherish the idol, every wish is on the stretch; to indulge it are all rarities of art and nature provided; sleepless nights and anxious days are their lot; add to! when they hope to see the end of their labours, struck by the hand of disease, or debated by the contaminating touch of vice, the agonized parents find all is dead.

And how sanguine are the expectations of those relatives and friends who possess a lovely girl, endowed with all the charms of beauty and goodness! how do they exult in her very idea! she was the solace of their calamities, and the staff of dependence for their declining years; friendship rises in her defence like a wall, and affection nourishes her like the mild spring.
Ah! to how little purpose! The canker-worm of love plays upon the delicate root of this sweet sensitive, and the scorching winds of disappointment drink up its moisture; the hands of affection and friendship are united in vain to support it; for

The deep drawn oft repeated sigh,
Hath caus'd health's blushes to decay;
The tear that moysten'd beauty's eye,
Hath worn its lustre quite away.

It languishes and dies; and regret bitterly weeping raves round the lovely fallen, and exclaims, After all, it is dead.

WILLIAM CATON

Twenty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the plantation of the late Thomas Wm. Walker, near Queen-Anne, Anne-Arundel county, on Wednesday night the 6th inst. a Negro Woman named CHARITY, a dark mulatto, about 5 feet 1 inch high, about 35 years of age, she has a broad flat face, with large thick lips, and has a habit of sucking her tongue; she is uncommonly homely, and took with her her youngest son named Moses, about 8 or 9 years of age, much darker than his mother, and at times staggers a little when he walks, from a hurt he got when an infant; they have both been seen in London-town and that neighbourhood—the said woman took with her all her clothing, consisting of a green cotton jacket, a striped country cloth petticoat, a brown rolls petticoat, a dark calico gown, a white cotton jacket and petticoat, and two oznabrig shifts: she may have changed some of her clothing in order to deceive. Whoever apprehends said woman and boy, or the woman alone, and will secure her in gaol so that I get her again, shall receive, if taken within 20 miles from home, 10 dollars, if over that distance, the above reward, and reasonable charges if brought home.

American Intelligence.

Boston, October 19.

OUR intelligence from England, relative to the concerns of this country, is rather favourable than otherwise to the continuance of peace between the two countries; for in every interview which our minister has had with the British government, no evidence whatever of an unfriendly disposition has been discovered; but, on the contrary, every mark of respect is shown to the representative of our government—and every claim, or question of right noticed and discussed with candour, frankness and deliberation. We speak from information derived through private sources; not from the interested clamours of newspaper speculation. From this state of things, we are warranted in saying, that, if an amicable adjustment of the differences, relative to the Chesapeake, and of the disputed points in the treaty, do not take place, the fault will be found on our side of the question—and to have arisen from a higher and prouder assumption of prerogative, than Great-Britain ever claimed of this, or any other country.

NEW-YORK, October 19.

It was conjectured at Gibraltar, when the Wasp and Constitution left that place, that an attempt would be made on the fortress by the French; and that the assemblage of the troops at Bayonne, was intended as a preparatory step towards that object. Great preparations were accordingly making to put the forts in the highest state of defence.

Captain Reynolds, of the ship Factor, arrived at this port yesterday, left St. Petersburg on the 9th of August, passed Copenhagen on the 22d, and left Elsinour on the 23d. Capt. R. informs, that when passing Copenhagen, he was boarded by three officers from British men of war, who were then waiting for an opportunity to get their ships into the inner roads of Copenhagen for the purpose of commencing the bombardment, the troops having been previously landed. On the 23d, when capt. Reynolds was at Elsinour, 30 miles from Copenhagen, he heard the commencement of the bombardment, as he supposed, of Copenhagen; by 10 o'clock the fire became general and tremendous, and continued till between 3 and 4 in the afternoon, when it ceased. Capt. R. having but little wind was, at 9 o'clock, where he might have heard the firing, had it re-commenced. The impression on capt. R's mind is, that Copenhagen had surrendered.

October 21.

On Monday night, about 11 o'clock, a fire broke out in a stable belonging to Mr. Archer Gifford's inn-keeper, at Newark, and before it was got under, the following property was destroyed:—2 stables, 7 horses, carriage houses and carriages, grain, &c. belonging to Mr. Gifford; Mr. O'Edo's dwelling and cooper's shop; Mrs. Goble's house, besides two other houses, partly torn down. The whole loss is estimated at 4000 dollars, the most of which was insured.

BALTIMORE, October 24.

By the arrival of the brig Happy Couple at this port, we have received our regular file of the Paris Monitor, from the 1st of August to the 4th of September, inclusive. The only article of importance from Denmark, which we notice at the first glance, furnishes intelligence from Copenhagen to the 20th of August, and from the extremity of Zealand to the 22d of the same month. It is represented that the Danes had been successful in two forties against the British on the 19th and 20th; that they commanded all the avenues leading to Copenhagen, together with such other positions as incommoded the British considerably in their approaches to the city, and compelled them to proceed with the utmost caution.

We understand that the captain of the Happy Couple reports that batteries were erected by the Danes and French on both sides of the Great Belt, with the intention of acting against the British ships which guarded that passage, and that a French army of 50,000 men were ready to pass over to Zealand at the first opportunity, to compel the British to raise the siege of the Danish capital. Part of the suburbs of Copenhagen were reported to have been burnt by order of the Danish commander Peyman. We find this corroborated in our Paris papers, by an article under the head of Kiel, August 21.

The captain is also represented to state, that Buonaparte had had a conference with the king of Spain on the confines of his kingdom, and that the French army of 40,000 men, collected in the neighbourhood of Bayonne, had marched for the reduction of Portugal.

Stralsund surrendered to the French under marshal Brune on the 20th of August, the king of Sweden having become alarmed for his situation and fled to Rugen, leaving M. Peyron, one of his aid-de-camps, to make the best terms he could with the besiegers. The inhabitants were very much terrified when the French troops entered the town; but it does not appear that general Brune suffered any violence or disorder to take place.

The circumstance of there being no account of the surrender of Copenhagen at Bourdeaux on the 12th of Sept. when capt. Lovell, of the Happy Couple, left there, furnishes ground for belief that the capital of Denmark did not yield on the 24th of August, as represented by information received at the eastward. If it had capitulated, it is highly probable that intelligence of the event would have reached Bourdeaux in 19 days after the occurrence took place. The cessation of the firing that was heard on the 24th is no proof of a surrender; for, as the editor of the New-York American Citizen very shrewdly observes, the Danish batteries were as likely to silence the fire of the British fleet as the latter were to silence the cannon of the Danes.

We have seen a letter from the Eastern Shore to a gentleman in this city, in which it is stated, that an attempt was made on the life of James Robins Esq; associate judge of Caroline and Worcester courts, as he was passing from Denton homeward. The judge received a pistol ball in his shoulder, as he was riding by a thicket, in which the assailant was secreted. Whether this act was the effect of private enmity, or a wish to rob, is unknown. The wound is not understood to be mortal, as the judge was able to proceed to the next town.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Bourdeaux, to his father in this city, dated Sept. 8, 1807.

"The emperor of France leaves no stone unturned to ruin Great-Britain. There are at present no less than 100,000 men marching through this place on their way to Portugal. I think Spain is included in their object; and shall be much surprised if the present king is not dethroned. It appears that Lucien is to be king of Navarre, which will comprehend Biscay, Navarre and Catalonia; Portugal to be given to Spain in lieu. It will not end there."

FREDERICKSBURG, (Vir.) October 21.

Melancholy and Distressing!

On Monday at 12 o'clock, the house, formerly belonging to Mrs. Carter, in this town, was discovered to be on fire. The corpse of Mr. WILLIAM STANARD, the more recent proprietor, had not been sent to its earthly home, when a sick and mourning family were driven by a new calamity, with the remains of a parent and husband, from the solitude of their sorrow, to weep under the next hospitable roof, over their complicated misfortunes.

The house was on an eminence, and a strong wind from the north-west blew the flames into the body of the town. In the course of a few hours, three of the best improved squares, with parts of two others, were stripped of all their improvements. The rapidity of the fire, the horrors of its devastation through houses highly combustible from the operation of the late drought, the consternation that prevailed destroying concert and presence of mind in most of those who were laboriously active, the incompetency of the engines to perform their offices with full effect, prevented many of the sufferers from saving a great proportion of their moveable property. The upper tobacco warehouses, with all the tobacco stored, were consumed. A flake of burning matter was thrown on the roof of the bank-house, which stood at the distance of two streets from the general conflagration; and so furious was the progress of the flame, that all the books, papers, and money in the vaults, were of necessity exposed, during the whole of the fire to its action, but have since been recovered entire. Happily no human life was lost.

This awfully afflicting event has bereft many families, some in disale, at the entrance of winter, of their only shelters, and of their all. The woes of the comfortless and of the suffering, which pervades a great part of Fredericksburg, call aloud for contributions from the opulent. The inhabitants of this town were lately liberal in their relief to the wretched of Norfolk. A plan has been organized to furnish the benevolent of the sister towns in Virginia, and of the neighbouring country, with an opportunity of enjoying that luxury which a pure bosom feels in giving charity where merit and distress combine to claim it.

At a meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Fredericksburg, on the 20th of October, 1807, agreeably to previous notice, for the purpose of taking into consideration the measures most advisable for procuring relief for the sufferers by fire on yesterday, Doctor Charles L. Carter was called to the chair; and Robert Henning was appointed secretary.

Resolved, That subscriptions be immediately opened for the relief of the sufferers by the fire of yesterday.

Resolved, That nine persons, viz. Benjamin Botts, George French, Charles L. Carter, Hugh Mercer,

John Minor, Benjamin Day, William Smock, James Smock, Robert Patton, be a standing general committee to superintend the said subscriptions, to receive the contributions, to inquire into the nature and extent of the distresses of such of the sufferers as may require aid, and to distribute the means to be acquired by the subscriptions, in such manner and in such portions as a majority of any meeting of the said committee may determine on.

WASHINGTON CITY, October 23.

Several of the British prints, in announcing the arrival of the Revenge, state the existence of a rumour that the American government had required an answer to their representations within four days, and deduce from this circumstance their anti-pacific temper. It may be satisfactory to state, that this rumour is altogether unfounded.—No such demand has been made, nor has any definite time been prescribed for receiving an answer. It is true, that a prompt answer is expected, and there can be no doubt but that, if the British ministry wish to maintain peace between the two countries, a prompt answer will be given.

[Intel.] It is always with reluctance that we record villainy in any shape; but it is with particular regret we notice the following daring assault committed within the limits of this city: on Tuesday evening, about dusk, on his return from visiting a friend in New-Jersey avenue, on the brow of the hill, Mr. Elzey Burroughs was attacked by two footpads who presented pistols on each side of him, and demanded his money; on his answering that he had none, one of them replied, "you are a liar sir; it is in a bundle of papers in your pocket;" and at the same time put his hand into Mr. B's pocket; and drawing from it a bundle of papers, took off the money in bank-notes to the amount of 2400 dollars, which he had that day received from the bank in this city.—We understand that no trace is yet discovered of the perpetrators of this outrage.

From the Virginia Argus Extra, of Tuesday Evening, October 20.

CIRCUIT COURT, TUESDAY 20.

The Chief Justice has just delivered his opinion on the motion, which has so long been agitated, for the commitment of Aaron Burr, Harmon Blennerhassett and Israel Smith, on the two charges of Treason against the United States, alleged to have been perpetrated at the mouth of Cumberland river in the State of Kentucky; and a misdemeanor, in illegally preparing and setting on foot a military expedition against the dominions of the king of Spain, with whom the United States were and still are at peace. The opinion was very long, and will be given hereafter.—It concluded on the question of treason with a decision in favour of all the persons accused; but on the subject of the misdemeanor, the result was different; Aaron Burr and Harmon Blennerhassett being committed to answer that charge, for which purpose they are to be sent for trial to the State of Ohio, in which the evidence was conceived to have proved the preparations for the expedition more explicitly than any where else.—Israel Smith was discharged.

We understand that Messrs. Burr and Blennerhassett will not give bail for their appearance in the State of Ohio, but will probably remain in confinement till their trial takes place.

The counsel for the United States entered a nolle prosequi on each of the indictments for treason against Comfort Tyler and John Smith, of Ohio.

The long session of the circuit court is at length closed.

Jersey Agricultural Report—SUMMER 1807.

HAY—Large crops, exceeding those of any late year. Some of it damaged, a great deal well got in. Bottom and low meadows escaped floods with less injury than common.

HARVESTS—WHEAT more abundant and better than any former year since the revolution. With daily showers and hot suns in harvest time, somewhat grown in places.

RYE—Plentiful and well secured, some few crops excepted.

OATS—Unusually abundant and good—More sown than usual, and what was sown is better.

FLAX—Large, thick, and well feeded—the coating not yet ascertained.

CORN—Never more promising, and seldom more planted.

BARLEY—But little sown—that little generally good.

On the whole, should Indian corn turn out as well as it promises, a more plentiful year will never have been remembered in this State.

FRUIT—No scarcity except of Apples, of which there are very few.

From the Baltimore American of Monday last.

We select the following items from our file of French papers, not having noticed their appearance in any American paper heretofore.

The inhabitants of Kiel have formed a corps to guard the coast opposite Frederickfort.

Nineteen Englishmen have been arrested at Altona.

The militia are organizing throughout the Danish kingdom for its defence.

The principal cause of the failure of the English in Egypt arose from the defection of the Mamelukes with whom they expected to form a junction. Elsi Bey, their old partisan, was dead; and not receiving the aid they expected, were totally deprived of cavalry. Another cause was, the pacification which took place among the contending beys at the very moment of the arrival of the English.

On the 10th of July a terrible fire raged in that suburb of Constantinople called Galata. A great number of houses were reduced to ashes on this occasion.

For more than a month previously to the 20th of August, there had not fallen a drop of rain in Lower Austria.

The anniversary of Buonaparte's birth day has been celebrated with great splendour in the principal cities of those parts of Germany conquered by or allied with the French.

The Russian Squadron in the Black Sea, under the orders of rear-admiral Pustocukin and which departed from Sebastopolis the latter end of May, is on the return into port.

The Danish yacht, which conveyed the king of Denmark and the prince royal across the Belt from Zealand was boarded in its passage by the captain of a British frigate, who was so amused by M. de Lindholm, aid-de-camp to his majesty, that he did not in the least suspect that the king and prince were on board.

KIEL, August 21.

Lieut. general Peyman, governor of Copenhagen, has caused to be burnt such houses in the suburbs of that place as favoured the approaches of the besieged and obstructed the operations for the defence of the place. The damage is estimated at many millions of rix-dollars. The suburbs were very fine and well built; but the inhabitants are so highly animated that the destruction of those houses does not cause the least complaint.

The English have effected their debarkment. The city is invested by land and sea. The English general Cathcart has established his head-quarters at Fredericksberg, and hostilities have commenced. The flag of truce which the English sent, was not received, and has been driven off with indignation. "You are not enemies," said general Peyman to them: "You are free-booters. Without a declaration of war, without proper motives, you come to attack us; if you have the power you may destroy us; but our lives would be rendered odious were we not to hold out against you."

On the 18th the Danes made a sortie; the English were repulsed and had 15 men killed. Two English boats used for the purpose of debarkation, have been taken by the Danish gun-boats. The bombs thrown by the British have done no damage. A corps of 10,000 men is about to be organized in the interior of the island, of which 4000 are to be troops of the line, and the remainder cultivators of the soil, who have been accustomed to the annual exercise of arms. This corps is to be under the orders of general Curtenfeld.

The students at Copenhagen, to the number of 600, have presented themselves to the grand marshal of the court as volunteers, and have resolved to conquer or die.

French and Dutch Navy.—Present state of the enemy's navy in the following ports:

The Texel.—In the Nieu Diep, 1 fail of the line bearing an admiral's flag, 5 ditto dismantled.

In the Mars Diep—2 fail of the line, 1 frigate, 2 corvettes, 2 brigs and 1 schooner; total 8, all ready for sea.

Antwerp—2 fail of the line complete, 5 ditto building.

Flushing.—In the Basin, 4 fail of the line. In the Roads, 1 frigate ready for sea.

Goree—1 frigate.

Helvodesluy—1 frigate.

Antwerp—3 two deckers complete, 5 ditto building.

In the Ems—2 gun brigs, and several small gun-boats.

Flushing—1 fail of the line in the Roads, 1 frigate and 1 brig, well manned and ready for sea.

Rochefort—5 line of battle ships, including 2 three deckers. The Calcutta equipping with all possible expedition.

Ferrol—3 line of battle ships under sailing orders. [London paper.]

From a London paper of September 7.

Private letters from the Baltic fleet, state that the Danes have taken away all the land and sea-marks near Copenhagen, by which means one of our frigates (we believe the Surveillante) got a ground near Danes, but by lightening her off some of her guns, and staving her water, she got off without much damage. In failing near Copenhagen, four of our line of battle ships have touched the wrecks of some of the vessels destroyed in Lord Nelson's attack.

Buonaparte has not yet manifested any intention to revive the old farce of the threatened invasion. According to recent observations made by our cruisers no alteration has taken place in the flotilla at Boulogne.

A considerable contraband trade has long been carried on at Fort St. George, through the medium of the American merchants, to the great detriment of our commercial interests. Some of this merchandise has lately fallen into the possession of the British cruisers.

Last week when the West-India fleet lay in the bay, a small French privateer, painted like a yacht, lurked in and remained among them, and undisturbed; she also sailed with them, and when off the Lizard made free to capture three of them, which she sent off.

From the Freeman's Friend.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE COMET.

We cannot learn that any Comet was expected this year; consequently the one now visible must be one whose period has never been ascertained, or the one which was expected in 1789, but which it is thought, has never made its appearance.

Since my last communication, we have taken several observations of the stars in the neighbourhood of the comet with a Sextant, and applied them to the Celestial Globe, as the only means in our possession by which to ascertain its situation. But it frequently happens, that the stars are not accurately marked on the Globes, consequently our observations may still be erroneous.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS some nefarious villain did, on the eighteenth day of October, instant, attempt to assassinate Judge James B. Robins, on his return from an ambuscade, fire a ball at him, which entered his right shoulder, and passed out below his right arm, and another ball which passed through the coat of his coat, and struck his ear: And whereas, it is reason to believe the said assassin is a certain John Whirlow, alias John Rigging, formerly committed to Worcester county gaol by said Judge Robins, to answer to a certain crime, and who, by two letters to said Judge Robins, threatened to assassinate him, which said Whirlow, alias Rigging, was, on the day before the perpetration of said villainy, supposed to be in Denton, inquiring when said Judge would return home: And whereas, it is the duty of the executive, in the execution of the laws, to endeavor to bring all malefactors to justice: I have therefore thought proper to issue this my proclamation, and do, by and with the advice and consent of the council, offer five hundred dollars reward, to any person or persons who shall apprehend and bring to justice the perpetrator of said offence, in lieu of the
