SALISBURY TO RECEIVE BUT HALF NORMAL COAL SUPPLY THIS WINTER

Fuel Distribution Committee for Maryland So Advises Chamber Of Commerce.

50% CUT IN ESTIMATED TONS FOR THIS COUNTY

Shipments Received Last Year Totalled 6,360 Tons But Only 3,813 Tons Are Expected For Use This Winter—Dealers Urged To Effect An Equitable Distribution.

Salisbury is to receive only about one-half the amount of hard coal normally brought into the community each winter. This fact became known when Secretary Freeman of the Chamber of Commerce received a letter from the Fuel Administrator of Maryland advising him that the estimated number of tons of coal needed for Wicomico County had been cut nearly fifty per cent. or from 6,360 to 3,813.

The officials of the Chamber of Commerce recently made a close survey of the needs of the county and reported their findings to the Fuel Distribution Committee. The latter body had requested this survey and had called upon the Chamber for the vital figures, since this organization is the one logically in position for work of this sort.

In his letter to Mr. Freeman, W. K. Conway, secretary of the committee, states that the total amount of hard coal this State may expect before March will be very small because the greater portion of anthracite coal produced before the latter part of November will be sent to the Northwest and to those New England points which are on water routes. These shipments must be made before the waterways freeze.

Rigid economy and strict conservation must be practiced by all users of hard coal if the public is to escape unnecessary trouble and suffering this winter. The Distribution Committee urges that the people of Maryland help to the utmost. The letter from the Committee follows in full.

Mr. C. M. Freeman, Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Salisbury, Wicomico County, Maryland. Dear Sir: We herewith enclose list of communities in your county showing the amount of anthracite coal shipped to those various communities between April 1, 1921 and March 31, 1922, and also the amount of shipments that may be expected during the coal year which will end March 31, 1923.

These figures have been compiled by the anthracite operators in Pennsylvania, and are based on statistics kept by them showing amount of hard coal shipped to every anthracite burning community in the country. The figures on the expected shipments are based on an estimated production between now and March 31st, next, of approximately 600,000 tons of coal produced in the anthracite field during the last coal year, it being the plan to give each community in the country its fair proportion of the total amount of hard coal produced.

These figures may not take into account in some instances emergency needs for such uses as schools or institutions. If there should be such emergencies which would merit special attention by the anthracite operators, we want them called to our attention by you, the dealers, or anyone else who is able to give us the facts.

It should be understood clearly that for the months of September, October and, very possibly the first half of November, at least, the proportion of the total amount this State may expect before March 31st, next will be very small. This is because the greater portion of anthracite coal produced before November 15th is to be shipped to the Northwest over the

COLONEL WOODCOCK TO CONTINUE OFFICE HERE

Firm Of Woodcock & Webb Will Be Maintained—District Attorney Leaves For Baltimore. The firm of Woodcock and Webb will continue to function in the future just as it has in the past and Mr. W. C. Webb will be found in the Salisbury office at all times. Colonel Woodcock will probably be a busy man in Baltimore but he wishes to assure his friends that he will not sever his Salisbury connections in the slightest degree.

LOCAL FIREFIGHTERS GO TO DELMAR FOR TESTS

Delmar has a new fire engine. It is a Stewart Truck with Hale pump and cost in the neighborhood of $6,500. The old apparatus was nothing but a small gasoline engine drawn by hand on a small chassis. Dr. Potter, F. A. Grier, Severn Davis and Asst. Chief Kilian were representatives from the local department who were over at Delmar for the tests of the new machine on Tuesday at the request of Delmar's firefighters.

BEAUTY AND RICHNESS FEATURE FASHION SHOW

Throngs Of People Surge Upon Three Floors Of Kennerly & Mitchell's for Brilliant Opening Event

Resplendent with interior decorations that were in complete harmony with the rich color scheme of gray, the new ladies' department of Kennerly & Mitchell opened its doors to the public at a grand opening last Saturday.

Throngs of people, from towns near and far, surged through the big entrance doors to get a glimpse of "Ned" Mitchell's latest undertaking. They were confident that whatever this clothing store would be only along the best lines. Therefore the women folks were anxious to see the ladies' ready-to-wear apparel that was to rival the men's outfits this winter.

They came, they saw and they were pleased. Promptly at 2:30 o'clock the Fashion Show began. Beautiful models, there were four of them, walked slowly down the aisles of solidly banked people, to the music of an orchestra hidden among flowers on the third floor.

Miss Maybelle Griffith, prize-winning beauty of Baltimore City, led the parade and her girlish figure, wrapped in the season's smartest coats, won the praise of even the most critical of her sex. Then followed a galaxy of the fall's latest creations with sleeves hanging loosely on the arms of the other three models, Miss Ruth Griffith, Baltimore, Miss Josephine Adams and Miss Elzie Zeigler, of New York City. The beauty of form and face of these girls attracted comment all along their "line of march."

They were forced to descend by stairs to the second floor and finally to the first floor, because of the crowds of persons who struggled to get points of vantage from which to view this lustrous show. No little credit goes to Mr. Harry Allan Gill, a manufacturer of women's clothes, who staged the affair for the opening of the new ladies' department of Kennerly & Mitchell.

Perhaps the most desirable of the event may be caught from the spirit of an expression by Mr. Mitchell, himself, who enthusiastically declared "That nothing like it had ever been held in the history of the store and he was sure that it would go down as one of the most brilliant of opening events in the fashion circles of Salisbury." And the people agree with him.

MAN WHO ASSAULTED 'UMP' IS SENTENCED

Ernest Hoffman Who Attacked Umpire Known At Crisfield Gets 30 Days And $50 Fine

Baseball fans in this city were interested in a trial last week in Prince Georges Anne of Ernest Hoffman, of Crisfield, on the charge of assault upon Umpire Knowlton of the Eastern Shore Baseball League. Hoffman was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 and costs. Judge Bailey in delivering the verdict said: "Although you admit the charge and claim that you were partially under the influence of liquor, this is not the time for this Court to be lenient."

The attack occurred during a game between Crisfield and Parkley at a stage of the game when interest was running high and both teams playing tight ball. Hoffman made his way across the grounds unnoticed as the teams were changing positions and felled the arbiter with a blow that sent him to the hospital for treatment.

President Miller became incensed over the assault upon his umpire and stated that he intended to see justice carried out. The Crisfield people deplored the incident.

LEE JUSTICE SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

SENSATIONAL TRIAL IN SOMERSET COUNTY SEAT

Accused Man's Face Though Haggard And Drawn From Vigorous Attack By State's Attorneys Last Thursday Received Sentence Monday With Characteristic Expression

Found guilty of a serious charge against a young girl, eleven years of age, Lee Justice, of this city, age 55, was sentenced to serve nine years in the Maryland Penitentiary by the Court sitting at Princess Anne on Monday afternoon.

After a most sensational trial in which disclosures of a disgusting nature were made, Justice was found guilty on last Thursday in the Somerset county-seat after his attorneys had secured a change of venue from Wicomico.

The accused man, his face haggard and drawn from the harrowing and aggressive attack made on him by State's attorneys Curtis Long and Creston Beauchamp, received the judgment of prison confinement by Judge Duer, with his characteristic expressionless countenance. During the entire proceedings, there lingered across the lower half of his facial mask, a weak, thin smile as of fear and his sharp lurking eyes were all that betrayed life.

Justice was defended by lawyers Claude Bailey and A. M. Jackson, of this city. The indictment was found at the last session of the grand jury in this county but the case had been transferred to Somerset. Notwithstanding this move, many parties from this section attended the trial and the court room was filled while counsel of both sides presented their arguments.

The case was that of the State of Maryland vs. Lee Justice, charged with carnal knowledge of Ethel Collins, an eleven-year old daughter of Mrs. Clara Collins. The man was arrested on July 27th by Sheriff Farlow in Salisbury.

The warrant was issued at the request of the child's mother, Mrs. Clara Collins who occupied rooms as did Justice over White's restaurant on 4th Lane. Mrs. Collins declared that she had seen her daughter come out of the man's rooms and that upon questioning, the child had admitted improper advances having been made by Mr. Justice whom she said had been given her moving picture money.

The old church built in 1739 was beautifully decorated with Autumn leaves, golden rods, orchids and chrysanthemums. Mr. and Mrs. Miles left for New York where they will spend their honeymoon.

Officers Of Organization Are Busy Seeking Members And Arranging For Coming Affairs.

Salisbury's Cotillion Club has organized and officers of the club are busy getting members for the coming year. Last year the organization was highly successful staging several big dances. This season interest is running high and sponsors of the club are hoping to eclipse last year's hops, both in number and magnitude.

The first big affair this fall is planned for Thanksgiving. Many of the young people who are away to school are expected home for this event, other dances are expected to follow during the New Year holidays and at Easter. There were between 150 to 200 members last year and officers of the club are expecting to surpass these figures this season.

CITY'S PLANS FOR BOG DRAINING APPROVED BY HEALTH OFFICIALS

Immediate Action Against Mosquito Calculated To Squash Persistent Rumors.

COUNCIL ALLAYS FEARS OF SENATOR DISHARON

Sponsor Of Normal School Project Anxious Less Location Be Changed—Dr. Fulton Of State Board Urges Effective Campaign Which Mayor Promises To Undertake.

Plans formulated by the Mayor and City Council, in connection with City Engineer F. H. Dryden, for the drainage of the Cranberry Bog have been officially approved by the State Board of Health, according to a letter received and read at the meeting of the Council on Monday night. This fact clears the atmosphere and will do much to allay fears in regard to the locating of the Normal School in this city.

The letter from Dr. Fulton states that "the plan will go far enough to meet the necessities of the situation in the prevention of malaria, but it may be necessary next May to place age of the Cranberry Bog have been officially approved by the State Board of Health, according to a letter received and read at the meeting of the Council on Monday night. This fact clears the atmosphere and will do much to allay fears in regard to the locating of the Normal School in this city."

Further, "would be obviated if your work this year were planned to lower the water table to a greater depth. The additional cost would be less if done now than done next year."

Mayor Kennerly, when interviewed by a News reporter, said that the city authorities are making progress in the matter of eliminating the malaria mosquito and the mosquito is the cause of the out-come of the present plans. He called attention to the fact that a great deal of money may be involved in the clean-up campaign and that it is, therefore, necessary to move carefully and with forethought.

While he stated that he realizes the importance of taking care of the larger places where the anopheles mosquito breeds he also believes that if the city is to be rid entirely of malaria the individual citizen must make every effort not only to keep his own premises clear of stagnant water in shallow pools and cans and barrels, but must also co-operate with the municipal officials.

On Monday night, Senator Charles R. Disharoon went before the City Council with the plan that they use every effort to clean up the situation. A rumor was persistent in the city this week that unless a radical change in the malaria situation was effected, there would be an effort made to have the Normal School destined for Salisbury located elsewhere. This rumor, while unconfirmed, acted as a spur on the Council which has already determined to eradicate the mosquito.

Dr. John S. Fulton, State Health Officer, was in the city on Tuesday for a short visit and when interviewed by the News officer stated that while the plans so far advanced by the Mayor and City Council will prove effective in some degree, they are not so effective as they might be made. It was pointed out that the Cranberry Bog had been drained in years past for business purposes, and there is little reason why this cannot be accomplished today.

The State Health Officer is of the opinion that by lowering the water table another foot, preventative measures will be immeasurably increased and, as pointed out in his letter, it will be less expensive to do it over again.

On the whole, however, the malaria situation has taken a decided turn for the better. It is confidently believed that the Mayor and City Council, together with the Board of County Commissioners, will formulate a comprehensive plan.

CITY'S REAL ESTATE IS GOOD INVESTMENT

Auction Sale Of Lots Successful—S. Franklyn Woodcock Plans Further Sales In Near Future.

Salisbury real estate seems to be an unusually good investment. Judging from the number of auction sales of lots and from the great increase in the acreage thus knocked down to the highest bidder. In this connection, S. Franklyn Woodcock announces that he will stage another sale of the Jackson Brothers Mill Property in the near future.

More than half the lots were sold at the first sale and already four purchasers have begun building homes on the places they acquired. It is learned from authoritative sources that every lot purchased was bought by a prospective builder and that none was sold for speculative purposes.

The remaining lots, about twenty-five in number, will be put up for the choice of the highest bidder. The latter part of this month, most of them being located on Mitchell, Newton, South Division, and Center streets. They will be sold to the highest bidder, regardless of the price they bring. Commenting on this feature of the sale, Mr. Woodcock stated that the auction is absolutely fair to both buyer and seller. The only requisite is that the property must be desirably located and that the parties owning the property must not employ "bidders" for the purpose of padding in the lots when the price is not high enough. Mr. Woodcock stated that he refuses to handle such properties.

REVIEW OF CRIMINAL CASES IS COMPLETED

Judge Bailey Suspends Sentence in Two Cases During Final Court Session Last Week

Judge Bailey, sitting in the final session of the fall term of Court for Wicomico county, last week completed the review of all criminal cases when he suspended sentence upon Earl Beckett and Harrison Hutt.

Sentence had been imposed in all other cases but these which were held over in order to allow the Court to get some additional information in each instance.

In the case of Beckett, sentence was suspended for a period of four years and in the case of Hutt, it was suspended for five years during which time good behavior will play no small part in holding off definite action. There follows herewith a list of all the criminal cases, with the nature of the charge and the judgment delivered.

Thomas Perry, found guilty of carrying concealed weapons. Sentence not imposed yet.

Earle Beckett, found guilty of carrying concealed weapons. Sentence suspended for a term of four years.

Charles Beckett, found guilty of larceny and receiving stolen goods. Sentenced to Maryland Penitentiary for three years.

City's Plans For Drainage Bog Approved By Health Officials

prehensive plans that will, in the course of the next year, eliminate the anopheline mosquito from this section. In this connection, it is understood that property owners on whose lands have been found mosquito breeding places, will be asked to co-operate with the City Council on Monday night to discuss ways and means of eradicating the disease pest.

It is, of course, possible for the Council to declare any particular place a nuisance and compel the owner thereof to clean it up at his own expense subject to a heavy fine for each day the nuisance continues, but the local authorities are loth to do this except as a last resort and it is probable that some happier solution to the problem will be found Monday night.

Salisbury To Receive But Half Coal Supply

Great Lakes shipping route and to New England points which take water shipments, before these water routes are frozen. After that, communities in this section of the country will receive a much larger proportion of the production so that by the end of March each community will have received approximately the tonnage shown on the list enclosed as to be expected before the end of the present coal year.

It will be seen from these figures that each community must practice rigid economy and seek methods for the use of substitutes during the winter of the coal year, so as to make up for the 40% decrease in supply over last year which is to be expected. This economy and this use of substitutes must be borne in mind particularly until after the middle of November, as the shipments before then will be very light.

It should also be understood that probably at no time during the coal year will dealers in the various counties be able to effect an equitable distribution of hard coal unless they adhere rigidly to the policy of supplying their customers only for current needs, and permitting no one to store up while any coal bin in the community is empty. It may be that after the first of the year shipments to this section will be such that more than current needs can then be supplied, but this cannot be determined at present.

Dealers should also be given to understand that if, for any reason, they are unable to obtain from their regular shippers what they believe is a fair proportion of the coal due them for distribution to their regular customers, we are ready to cooperate with them and try to help them to secure their fair share of the fuel.

The method to be adopted in such instances is for the dealer first to get in touch with his regular shipper and find out from him why he is unable to ship a fair proportion of the coal expected. If the dealer should obtain no satisfaction from the shipper, he should then send the facts to this Committee, giving the name of the regular shipper and the reasons advanced by that shipper why the fair proportion of coal expected cannot be shipped. If the Committee then will take the matter up with the Anthracite Distribution Committee in Philadelphia and attempt to get the matter adjusted equitably.

Complete cooperation of every coal dealer in Maryland is necessary in order to prevent exorbitant prices being charged householders in the present emergency, just as complete cooperation of the householders is necessary to prevent unfair hoarding and to achieve equitable distribution.

We would appreciate it if you could without too much trouble to yourself, give us an idea each week or each two weeks, as to the price being charged householders by retail dealers for domestic sizes of hard coal. This would enable us to check up the practices of the dealers in the various counties, one against the other, and enable us more quickly to learn whether all dealers in all counties were giving us the cooperation which we must have and which we feel sure that in the present crisis the dealers will give us a matter of service to their own communities.

Very truly yours,
Md. Fuel Distribution Committee:
W. K. Conway, Secretary.

Fire Losses In City This Year $27,000

that some definite steps should be taken to halt the destruction. From a humane standpoint it is therefore the duty of every sane person to exercise particular care to prevent fires.

When a large number of persons are assembled in one building such as a school, a public institution or a factory, it is advisable that fire drills be held. Arrangements should be made to conduct such drills at irregular intervals in order that the occupants will obtain the habit of answering the alarm whenever it is sounded.

Judging from the fire loss sustained already this year, Salisbury is likely to exceed similar figures for the past few years. In 1920 the estimated loss was $40,000 and in 1921 it was $18,450. In nine months this year the total of $27,000 has been reached. It is hoped that the observance of Fire Prevention Week will serve to install methods of care and precaution into the daily habits of individuals in this community.

Property valued at more than $250,000,000 has been added to the nation's ash heap during the first eight months of the current year. In 1921 the per capita fire loss was $4.47. The business man accustomed to dealing with figures will readily comprehend what a continuation of such reckless destruction of property will mean to the business interests of the country.

Salisbury boasts of an excellent fire company, volunteer men trained in every phase of the fire fighting game and whose service in checking conflagrations is above par. Yet, fire elimination should not begin with this organization but should be regarded as a personal problem for each individual to take off by his own carelessness.

Woman's Club Hold First Fall Meeting

Adkins. The capable leader then went on to say in a short talk that her department was ready to co-operate with the various men's organizations in the city in an effort to clear up the malaria situation in the community. She also stated that several plans for cleaning up the town were under consideration.

Mrs. Benjamin named her committee to be as follows: Mrs. Charles Birchhead, Mrs. Calvert L. Estill and Mrs. Fred Webb. She mentioned the fact that the Year-Book was practically completed and would probably be in the hands of the individual members by the time of the next meeting. Mrs. Grier was not present and the official make-up of her social committee was not made known. A publicity agent has yet to be appointed by the directors.

Mrs. Branch Phillips, who is chairman of the legislative department of the Eastern Shore Federation outlined the work her unit hopes to carry through in the coming year. Miss Maria Ellegood rendered a report on the convention at Hurlock last May. Mrs. T. E. Martindale presented a very fine resume of the doings at the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs which she attended at Chautauqua, New York, last July.

The matter of selecting a location for club rooms was next taken up by the gathering. Mrs. Fred F. Adkins, a member of last year's special committee for this purpose, told of the committee's investigations and their recommendation that a lot, centrally located, be purchased as soon as possible, and construction of a house on it as soon as practical.

Members of the executive board of the Club were named as delegates to go to the District Convention at Elkton this Thursday and they were authorized to invite their associates to plan for the Spring Session to be brought to Salisbury.

The Day's Catch.

"Where's your pa?" asked the man with the brand new outing clothes. "Gone fishin'," replied the small boy.

"What does he expect to catch?" "Nothin' while he's fishin'," but maw told him he'd catch the dickens if he didn't clear out while she was house cleaning. — Washington Evening Star.

PROFUSE WERE FLORAL TRIBUTES TO MRS. ALLEN

Impressive Services Take Place On Friday Afternoon At Home Of Son, Mr. William F. Allen

Salisbury and community were shocked last Wednesday morning to learn of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Allen, an account of which appeared in The News. She was the widow of the late Albert James Allen and had been in poor health for some time. However only lately was she forced to bed in the home of her son, Mr. William F. Allen.

She had been living here since 1918 the time of her husband's death. Mrs. Allen was 75 years old and was beloved by all who knew her, because of her true christian spirit and her splendid love of home and family. She was a native of this county and one of 11 children. A brother, Samuel Twilley, was buried on the Sunday previous to her death.

Impressive funeral services were held at her late home on Camden Ave., extended, on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. They were conducted by Rev. Rhodes, a former minister of the Baptist Church here, who also laid to rest her husband in 1918. Interment was made in Parson's cemetery beside the grave of her husband. Flower tributes were profuse and many expressions of regret and deep sympathy were received by the members of the family group.

The deceased is survived by one son, Mr. Wm. F. Allen, Miss Cora Twilley, a niece and adopted daughter; four grandchildren—the Rev. Walter K. Allen, doing missionary work in Assam, a province of India; W. Fulton Allen, W. Lee Allen and Albert G. Allen, of this county; six brothers—Messrs. John Twilley, George Twilley, Fred Twilley, Frank Twilley, Lewis R. Twilley and Willis R. Twilley; and two sisters—Mrs. Mary Hearn and Mrs. Rosy Riggan.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF LATE TYASKIN LEADER

Pastors Shipley And Moore Conduct Burial Of B. H. W. Lankford, Prominent County Citizen

Apparently in the best of health, Mr. B. H. W. Lankford, well-known citizen of Tyaskin District, was stricken with a severe attack of acute indigestion on Sunday, September 24th and died several hours later.

Mr. Lankford was 58 years old and was a son of the late Dr. A. J. H. Lankford, a prominent resident of that section. His mother before her marriage was Miss Mary Brown.

The deceased was well-known in Salisbury and in surrounding territory, being recognized as a strong Republican leader in his district.

He was born in the White Haven district. In late years, he has been living at the old home place and devoting his time to farming and poultry raising. Funeral services were conducted by Pastor Moore, Methodist minister at Nanticoke and by Rev. Shipley of Salisbury, on Tuesday afternoon and interment was made in the Tyaskin cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, who prior to her marriage, was a Miss Travers, one son, Smith Lankford of Washington, D. C., and three daughters—Miss Anna Lankford, of Baltimore, Mrs. Charles E. Wilkins and Mrs. O. O. Trice, of Salisbury. One brother, Charles Lankford, of this county, and one sister, Mrs. Rufus Robertson also survive the deceased.

Mr. Twilley was 73 years old and was a native of this county. His life as one of the prominent farmers of this section was quiet and not marked by any disturbing episodes. He left three children to mourn his loss: Mrs. Ray McIntire, Mr. William Twilley and Mrs. Bounds.

He is survived by two sisters and five brothers: Mrs. Roxie Riggan, of Hebron, Mrs. Mary E. Hearn, of near Salisbury, George Twilley, of Hebron, Fred Twilley, living between Delmar and Salisbury, Frank Twilley, of near Allen, G. R. Twilley, of Quantico and L. R. Twilley, who lives on the Spring Hill road near Salisbury.

I. SPENCE CATLIN

Mr. I. Spence Catlin, age 72 years, died at his home near Fruitland early Tuesday morning, September 19th. Mr. Catlin was a well-known resident of Adkins' District, Worcester County. He formerly taught school for a number of years but was later engaged in the merchandising at Brown's school.

The deceased was a Democrat in politics and for many years had served as Democrat registration and election official.

He is survived by a widow, who before her marriage was Miss Cattie M. McGrath, daughter of the late Hooper and Annie McGrath, and six children: Mrs. Cecie Dykes, Mrs. Bertie R. Fruitland, Mr. Oscar B. Catlin, Mrs. Mae Jones of Salisbury, and Mr. W. Penn Catlin, of Oklahoma, and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Zion Wednesday afternoon amid a host of relatives and friends. The pastor Rev. Taylor officiated. The remains were laid to rest in the adjoining cemetery.

EXPERIMENTS LEAD TO FINE ARTIFICIAL SILK

Cellulose "Dope" Synthesized By English In Aeroplane Processes Said To Be Perfect

War experiments with cellulose "dope" for use on the wings of aeroplanes led to the discovery of what is said to be the most perfect artificial silk yet devised. The discovery is credited to Henry Dreyfus, who came to England from Switzerland during the war to carry out research work for the protection of aeroplanes against fire.

The success of his experiments is indicated by the fact that Belgian financiers who heretofore have been interested in the manufacture of artificial silk in that country have invested in the new process.

They say that it so far surpasses all other artificial silks that it can be compared to the genuine article. The process was evolved after three years of experiments, which consisted in subjecting aeroplane "dope" made with cotton as a base to extremely high pressure until a filament just like the strands of a silkworm were created.—New York Tribune.

LANDLADIES IN FAVOR OF THE BOOK-WRITERS

Manhattan Mistresses Of Boarding Houses Regard Authors As Brahman Caste Of Furnished Rooms

The landladies of Brooklyn, it is said, have great success in keeping persons, whose titles of nobility are warranted genuine and antique, contentedly captive in their boarding houses. And the real nobility insist of talking points sure to create interest and to help close the sale of so many cubic feet of residential space in Brooklyn Heights.

The chance to live under the same roof as the real nobility is offered with an air that might belong with an offer to obtain a presentation at the Court of St. James.

Nothing like this is offered by Manhattan landladies. They have another line, and their greatest pride is in the books that have been written or are about to be written under the roofs they rule.

Not that they have faith in mere printed matter. To rank with landladies in certain brownstone rows of this city a writer must write a book. One that is bound in stiff covers. A regularly published book. Beside this, the best magazines mean nothing. The book may be a compendium or manual of useful information, or an addition to the already extant edition of the common sense or the up-to-date barkeeper. Just so it's a book it's a big thing with women who let space and collect rents in New York.

Complaints of the comparative scarcity of bathrooms in certain stodgy old houses or the serenely met by the statement that the book writers now in possession of the second floor front have no objection to the location of the one lone bath. And behind the serenity is a fixed stare that suggests that complaint from any one in the more bourgeois and lower walks of life—from any one, in fact, who is merely of the great non-book writing public—is in poor taste. In such poor taste that the question of one's eligibility to breathe the same air and share the same bathroom with the book writers and everybody else in the house is at once raised.

To be sure, all landladies in Manhattan are not so, but some of them are. They believe book writers are the Brahman caste of furnished roomers. Or perhaps it is that they have learned that most book writers are poor bargain hunters and perfectly willing to pay at a pace-making rate for all the other rooms in the house.—New York Sun.

TOWN OF PIONEER AS WILD WEST REFORMED

Woman Mops Up On Crime And Lawlessness In Place With Bill Hart Sequel

Pioneer, wild town of the West Texas oil fields has just discovered for the first time that there is such a day in the week as Sunday.

Incidentally, this swaddling community has also found out there is such a thing as law and order, and it was a woman that taught the six-months-old city its lesson, according to the story which reached here today.

For the first time since Pioneer was founded the weekly day of rest has been observed. No liquor, no soft drinks were sold over the bars, the dancing pavilions were closed and locked. For the great majority of the resorts it was the first time the front door ever had been closed and some of the managers had to hustle about to find the necessary equipment for keeping the public outside.

Pioneer, like Topsy, grew up in the heart of the oil fields. It never had any attention from officers of the law. Everybody was too much occupied with the boom to pay the slightest heed to enforcement measures. It took its name from a gusher that came in six months ago. Then there wasn't a single house on the stretch of mesquit dotted with prairie dog holes. But with oil in sight the gambler, the bootlegger, the dance hall proprietor and habitue were not long absent. None was interfered with as the oil men had none of their own womenfolk or their children with them.

In Pioneer there developed a dictator. He regulated everything. He demanded the saloons sell real red liquor. But he was more or less of a benevolent Czar and there were fewer stabbings and shootings than are customary for this sort of community. His mandates were heeded and he carried on supreme.

So Pioneer went along in its own sweet way until last week, when Edith Zutler arrived. She looked the place over with disgust. Then she acted. She called on the prohibition enforcement officials and they sent her men and deputized her to clean up. She did a good job. The saloons and gambling houses were shut down and many of the bootleggers who had failed to take a gentle hint were arrested and sent to jail at Abilene.

As a result of Mrs. Zutler's efforts the town has been cleaned up and the oil men say they will bring their families in.

One thing which the settlers of Pioneer realize with pride today is that the quality of the town's liquor was maintained up to the very last possible moment.

Why the Poor Are Poor.

To a poor woman whose husband was in jail a woman's aid society gave some clothing and ten dollars in money.

A week after the gift had been made, a deputation of members called at the squalid home to see the results of their assistance. They found no improvement in the condition of the family.

"Well, Mrs. Downey," asked one of them, "how are you getting along?" "Fine!" said Mrs. Downey.

"Did the clothes fit, and did you find a use for the money?"

"Sure the clothes fitted fine, and the children looked so nice in them that I had all their pictures took with the money ye gave me, an' I'm goin' to have me own took to send to the auld folks in Ireland."—Everybody's Magazine.

THURSDAY, : : : : OCTOBER 5, 1922.

WE MUST SAVE COAL.

Between now and the end of March, 1923, which is considered the "coal year," Salisbury and Wicomico County will receive forty per cent less anthracite coal than is usually brought into this section during the winter. It is estimated that production during this period will approximate only about sixty per cent of the total tonnage produced during a like period last year, and therefore communities using hard coal will have their quotas reduced in proportion.

Early months in the winter will be particularly trying because the greater portion of anthracite coal mined before November 15 will be shipped to the northwest and to New England over the waterways before those waterways are frozen. After that, the communities in this section will receive a much larger proportion of the production so that by the end of March each section will have received approximately sixty per cent of the coal usually used.

Dealers all over the State are urged to adhere rigidly to the policy of supplying their customers only for current needs and permitting no one to store up while a single bin in the community is empty. Those who attempt to hoard coal will make almost inevitable the suffering of some of their neighbors, and the Fuel Committee is earnestly seeking the hearty co-operation of the public in its effort to make an equitable distribution of the available supply of anthracite coal.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the allotment of coal made to Salisbury and to various other communities in the county. If for any reason an emergency occurs, as for instance a shortage of fuel in the schools, the attention of the Committee should be immediately called to it through the Chamber of Commerce because special provisions have been made to take care of just such needs.

The public need not feel a sense of panic. With rigid curtailment of every useless fire, with the use of substitutes wherever possible, with the careful watching of necessary fires, we will get through the winter safely. Coal enough will be shipped into the community to insure reasonable security, but if the buying public starts hoarding or buying in advance of present actual needs, trouble of a grave sort is bound to result.

Complete co-operation of every dealer and of every user of coal is necessary in order to prevent the householder being charged exorbitant prices during the emergency, to prevent unfair hoarding, and to achieve equitable distribution.

All this can be accomplished and the storm can be weathered with perfect safety and no lack of comfort if every citizen in Wicomico County will think, talk and act the wise policy of conservation.

SAY IT WITH VOTES!

Say it with votes and make those votes possible by registering on Tuesday, October 10, at the voting place in the district in which you live. This is the last chance you will have to qualify before the general election in November. Mark the day and date on your calendar and then don't forget to go to the polls.

Many important issues will be decided at the November election. There are a number of proposed amendments to the Constitution of Maryland which need the intelligent consideration of every man and woman worthy of being called a Marylander.

If you fail to register and vote, you morally lose your right to complain at the way the government is administered. It is only by exercising your constitutional privilege to cast your ballot that you become, heart and soul, a citizen of this great State. It is only by voting on election day that you retain the moral right to citizenship.

There are many who will not exercise their right of franchise yet who take pleasure in condemning everything and everybody connected with the government, whether it be municipal, State, or national. People who have no voice in electing public officials, who have no voice in shaping the policies of the State, surely have no right to criticize those officials or condemn those policies.

If you are qualified to register, you should do so. If you have registered, you should not fail to vote. To fail in either case is to lay yourself open to the charge of apathy, of indifference, a charge that should never be imputed to a good citizen.

Tuesday, October 10, is the last chance you will have to register before the general election. Do your duty on that day!

CLOSE THE PORTS TO BARROOMS.

Law-breaking has always been looked upon by the brewers and distillers as their particular privilege in this country. Bootlegging is not an invention of prohibition days. It is an old practice.

When national prohibition seemed remote or improbable, the booze people bitterly opposed county option. If a county went dry, they saw to it that the law was violated and the bootlegger booted the booze in.

When states began to go dry, the booze people then said they favored county option, but not state action. Still they saw to it that booze was smuggled in over the state line.

The nation went dry. That took in a lot of territory. Now the booze people say they are for state prohibition but not national. They are always somewhere behind the procession.

The liquor people have always broken the law. Now they have found that the government itself has broken its own law. That delights them.

Always tireless in their efforts to maintain their nefarious business, the liquor people herald the fact that they have the government itself in a hopelessly illegal situation because barroom are being conducted and booze sold on United States ships at sea.

They are right about this. The government has broken its own law. But the announcement of this fact is not going to bring the booze business back.

On the other hand, the booze people are beginning to wish they hadn't mentioned it. It promises to widen the dry territory rather than widen the net.

The American Shipping Board has attempted to justify its toleration of infringement of the Federal law on American ships at sea by declaring that we cannot compete with European ships if we do not have barroom accommodations while the foreign ships do.

That brings the suggestion that disturbs the liquor people. The United States shall not admit to any of its ports any vessel under any flag that is equipped with a barroom or that retails spirituous liquors and beers.

Could that be done? There is not a nation in all the world today that can afford to suspend commerce with America. European and Asiatic countries alike are economically dependent upon commerce with America.

The Story Of Good Old Indian Summer.

Already many European countries are observing the better banking and trade conditions and the lessening jail records in the United States since prohibition went into effect. Foreign countries are seriously considering following in our footsteps. To force their ships to go dry, as we can, will only emphasize the issue in foreign lands.

It is by no means improbable that this will be the next telling step toward making the whole world dry.

EXPENSIVE ILLUMINATIONS.

Fire waste costs us nearly one and a half million dollars a day every day in the year. This immense cost is reflected in retail prices of every article of clothing, every piece of furniture, every pound of food, every pair of shoes, every bit of building material bought by the people of the United States annually. Imagine what good could be accomplished if we were to spend almost a billion dollars a year more on schools, play-grounds, parks, streets, sewers, and other municipal improvements!

Year after year this horrible waste goes on, not of necessity, not of lack of enlightenment, but, to a large extent, on account of human carelessness. Property burned is wealth destroyed. If we saw a spendthrift throw away a million dollars we would lift our hands aghast. Yet that money would go to others who would probably use it for some good. With the cost of conflagrations, the case is different. The money thus lost is lost forever.

The people of the United States are, for the most part, regarded as being highly efficient. In business they are: in the matter of "taking a chance," they are not. And for this carelessness they are taxed more than a million a day.

This tax has been growing, too. Six years ago, it was fifty per cent less than it is now. In spite of broader education, in spite of the wide-spread distribution of literature pertaining to fire prevention, in spite of the stunning lessons driven home by each great holocaust, we still go on with our merry bon fires—we still go on paying the price.

October second to ninth has been set aside as Fire Prevention Week. Read what you can about preventing fires and then put into practice the precautions called to your attention. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and the worth in this case runs into the millions.

Before you start your furnace and other fires this fall, examine your flues and chimneys. Be sure that your cellar is free from rubbish that might be lighted by a spark. Have the wiring in your home inspected to insure that insulation has not been worn through exposing the wires to inflammable materials. When you clean your yard and start burning rubbish, watch the fire. Protect your neighbors.

Remember that the fire insurance companies do not pay your losses. The public pays them. The insurance companies simply collect small premiums all over the country and they collect some of them from you. They are collectors and disbursers. It is you and your neighbors who actually bear the loss in dollars and cents, and you and your family who bear the loss in things that money cannot buy.

Make this year a fireless year. It will repay you.

CHAIN OF CLINICS TO BE SET UP IN STATE

Frederick and Elkton. The securing of competent men to head these clinics is the main hindrance to their more rapid spread throughout the State. Dr. John S. Fulton, secretary of the State Board of Health pointed out this morning.

Physicians in charge of these clinics are not recompensed by the State. The persons treated pay whatever amount they are able, and in some cases the treatment is given free.

"Very few persons accept charity at these clinics," Dr. Fulton commented. "In almost every case, regardless of their financial condition, they insist on paying a nominal fee. Due to the large number of cases treated this is a considerable amount in a year. Last year our clinics treated 6000 persons."

The cost of treatment is cut down to a considerable extent by the State buying the materials in bulk and distributing them to the various clinics. The medical plans are worked out by Dr. Robert H. Riley, chief of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases, after C. Kirkman, chief of the Bureau of Personnel and Accounts, made the business arrangements.—Baltimore News.

MARGUERITE T. WALLS

GOES TO EUROPE FOR ADVERTISING CONCERN

Miss Marguerite T. Walls of This City Wins Distinctive Promotion—A Graduate Of Deacon College.

Mr. Albert M. Walls, General Agent of the Continental Life Insurance Company, left on Friday for New York City to be with his daughter, Miss Marguerite T. Walls, until she sailed for Europe as the special London representative of the J. Walter Thompson Company. Miss Walls has just left Salisbury after a short visit with her parents and will be in London for several months studying methods in the foreign office of the firm with which she is connected.

Miss Walls is a graduate of Deacon Business College and since she was graduated in 1914 has won almost continuous promotion. For some time she was private secretary to Dr. J. H. Squires, director of Personnel of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours Company of Wilmington, and while in that city was quite prominent in social circles, being a member of the Professional Women's Club, the DuPont Country Club, and the Deacon College Club.

The first of this year she left the DuPont Company to accept a position as private secretary to one of the executives of the J. Walter Thompson Company, one of the largest advertising concerns in the United States. The fact that within such a short time she has been selected for an important position in England speaks highly for her ability and makes all the more signal the honors she herself has won.

Friends of Miss Walls will be greatly pleased at the exceptional recognition accorded her. Those who know her attribute her success not only to her extraordinary ability but as well to her fine personality.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION TO MEET

Will Celebrate Anniversary Of Organization October 18-20 In Historic First Episcopal Church

The Maryland Sunday School Association will celebrate the 30th anniversary of its organization in the old historic First Methodist Episcopal Church of Baltimore, October 18-20. The date has been moved forward from November to avoid the rains, and the best speakers have been secured for this convention.

In addition to the Conferences, which will occupy two entire forenoons and which are of inestimable value, a wonderful program has been nearly completed. Dr. G. A. Hulbert, pastor of Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church, gives one of the greatest Adult Bible Class addresses in the United States, and he will give this address as the opening and keynote of the Convention.

William H. Ridgway, the iron manufacturer of Coatsville, Pa., known to tens of thousands by his unique weekly contributions to the Sunday School Times, will open the eyes of the whole state as to the relation of business men to the Sunday School. It has just appeared that only five per cent of the members of Congress are not church members.

The Wicomico

I'd like to tell where I was born, You may not just care to know. 'Twas in the land of pork and corn, Quite near the sweet Wicomico.

I'm surely proud of that great day, And of the place that so few know, Its more than eighty years I say, And near the deep Wicomico.

This stream runs thru good Maryland soil, And is ever on the active flow, It takes delight in useful toil, This busy stream Wicomico.

When I came there my first to live, The trees along the road I know— They stood so thick they did not give A good view of the Wicomico.

But this did not stand very long, The brush and trees were had to go, I did not see that this was wrong, It cleared the way to the Wicomico.

I often think of trees and stream, And of the road I used to go, But now it seems much like a dream— Down toward the Wicomico.

I'd like to see that place once more, And walk the banks to and fro, The clean white sand along the shore, Would cheer my heart, Wicomico.

But I am old and far away, The trip too long—I cannot go, My heart is there, I'm free to say, Near the bright stream Wicomico.

O Wicomico, Wicomico! A song to thee I am would bring, My heart is bright, my love I sing, To thee, O sweet Wicomico.

Editor's Note: This poem was written by Rev. J. C. Darby, Table Rock, Neb., and sent in to the News for publication. Rev. Darby is an old native of this county and the verses above indicate the treasured memories he holds for its traditions. Many friends will be pleased to note these lines of recanted associations.

Wicomico High With Student Government

By TRACY HOLLAND President of Senior Class

Student government was introduced into the Wicomico High School last year through the efforts of Mr. C. H. Cordrey, the present principal. This mode of exercising discipline has proved to be a distinct success.

The co-operation of the pupils with the principal and teachers has made it the greatest thing that could be expected. On the initial tryout, the first mayor of our organization was, Mr. Everett Hearn, who was also president of the class of '22.

The present form of government in the school is wholly in charge of the Senior Class. The members have full charge of the routine in the halls while the students go from one class to another, and also take full charge of all rooms where students are studying. Thus they assume much of the responsibility of student control that otherwise would be occupying the attention of the principal and his corps of assistants.

Our present mayor, Miss Lucille Guillelte, is also doing all within her power to maintain student government as a successful element in the school life. The student body as a whole is in favor of it and every member is doing his or her best to make it work out to the expectations of the faculty in every respect.

Editor's Note: Personal sketches and items of interest of doings at Wicomico High will be written weekly for the News by Mr. Holland who has just won the distinction of being chosen by his classmates to lead the Class of '23.

COURT ROMANCE ENDS HAPPILY FOR COUPLE

Miss Matilda Slemmons Marries Mr. Arthur Needham, Court Reporter, in Chicago Judicial Circles.

Quietly yet impressively was the nuptial knot bound by Rev. Boyle upon Miss Matilda McCreia Slemmons and Mr. Arthur Eaton Needham, on Monday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Slemmons, 506 Camden avenue. The ceremony was executed at 11 o'clock with only the immediate members of the family present, including young Mr. Will Slemmons.

The bride was prominent among Salisbury's younger set until several years ago when she left home to enter school in Chicago. After completing her courses there she took up work in one of that city's largest courts where she met young Needham who held the position of court reporter. Evidence of the romance that followed her in the announcement of the wedding.

The happy young couple left immediately after the ceremony for Philadelphia and it is expected that they will continue on to the groom's home at Benton Harbor, Mass. After spending a short time with his parent's there, Mr. Needham plans to return to Chicago and establish a home on the shores of Lake Michigan.

EAR-MARKS OF AN AMERICAN

[Americanism, in the Manchester Guardian]

I have been startled again and again since I came to England by the readiness with which I have been recognized as an American—sometimes in spite of what an English tailor and an English barber have done to me, before I opened my mouth to speak. How do you do it? America is so vast and complex that we sometimes feel that we have no national unity. The Southerner is different from the New Englander. There is an old story of a young woman who was twenty-one before she knew that "damn Yankee" was not one word. The Middle Westerner and the Far Westerner represent still different types; and within one section there are great differences. Our communities are made up of many races.

Mark Twain's Eve, without any hesitation, called the tiger by his right name. She knew him, she said, by the stripes. We have come to think that we must have some special markings such as these. Of course, we recognize that there is a distinctive American fashion in clothes, in haircuts, and in spectacles. We value such outward uniformity, for often it is the mark of inward and spiritual unity. Something distinctively American has triumphed over the peculiarities of Slav, Italian and Greek. We are glad when young men come to us from Europe discard their old collars, buy new suits with a different cut and begin to look American. But my own experience has led me to think that you identify us by something more intimate than this.

Mr. H. G. Wells says that our women have soft cheek bones like Americans. Can it be that we men also achieve Amerindianity? I like the idea, and what a blessed word it gives us! It is true that so far as our port and presence is concerned there are two distinct groups of us. The long, lean Uncle Sam type still abounds, but he is for the most part far from the haunts of such Europeans as visit us. He is almost extinct in New England, his old home. In the great agricultural States bordering on the Mississippi, east and west, there are myriads of him scattered about. Six feet or more he is, lean, sinewy. He is, I think, the old Anglo-Saxon type. But his cheek bones—I remember it now—are, in this generation, Amerindian.

But there is another type of American, on the whole shorter than our Uncle Sam. Members of this second group are plump and pleasing. They are wide awake, too, and very cheerful. Their smooth tanned cheeks and ample though not excessive girth suggest peace, prosperity and good faith. They are to be found especially at Rotary Club luncheons at political conventions and in the offices of Big Business, but they are as ubiquitous as sparrows. They are not all business men. Some are laborers, striking for their hire. Others are doctors, lawyers, ministers or even professors. They are a hybrid race, a mingling of the races of Continental Europe. But again, they have—I remember it now—the soft cheekbones of the Amerindian.

Further reflection has convinced me that our Amerindianity appeals to the ear as well as to the eye. At first I was quite incredulous when I was told that all Americans talk alike. A Southern friend of mine visited a college in Pennsylvania and was entertained at a fraternity house. After dinner his student hosts gathered about him and said, "Now talk." "What about?" said he. "It doesn't matter," they replied. "It isn't what you say, so much as the noises you make." And yet I suppose, here in England he and his hosts would seem to make similar noises. I can only explain "his as other case of Amerindianity. The Indian had not only a war-whoop, but several other whoops. He could lift up his voice and he loved to do it. The climate made him so, and now it is having its way with his successors. We Americans always yell when we are excited or when we wish to be. I have attended some big football matches over here, and the comparative stillness of the enormous crowds amazed me. At most they give utterance to a mild, hoarse roar. At our baseball games pandemonium breaks loose at the beginning of the game and stays until it is over.

This manifestation of Americanism begins in our early youth. It is even said that we land on the planet with a yell. An English friend of mine heard his two small daughters shrieking with all their might. He rushed madly to the scene. They had recently been playing with some American children who were living near, and they explained that they had just been pretending they were little Americans. Our nasal drawl may be due to our lifelong habit of yelling. Your English voices sound throaty to us. You clip your words and make staccato noises. If you practiced yelling your voices would either be ruined or else they would be placed out of your throats; and you could not be staccato. In other words, you would develop a nasal drawl. We do not wish to show any feeling of superiority at all. Our powers are the result of the climate. They are Amerindianity. We yell as doth the wildest yell; we only yell because we must. I shall go back to America much less concerned than I was over the problem of assimilating the immigrant. Nature the Amerindian, and she will not rest until we, diverse as we are in origin, conform to the type she has fixed on for America. Already our cheekbones and our voices show that we are blood brothers.

LOCAL MARKSMEN SHOW UP WELL AT MATCHES

Quartet Of Company I Representatives Blaze Away Consistently At Targets On State Range Company I marksmen competed in the annual State rifle matches conducted at Saunders' Range near Glenburnie last week. The Wicomico representatives were: Sergt. G. E. Serman, Sergt. G. L. Downing, Corporal C. E. Tilghman and Private Oscar L. Morris.

Shooting in excellent form this quarter, while not landing any prizes, blazed away in consistent style and in no match finished below sixth although practically every company in both the First and Fifth Regiments had men on hand.

In the Baird match which was fired on Friday for the winning of which a copper shield was presented by Capt. William Baird, U. S. A., (retired), Company I finished second to Company A, Fifth Infantry. The individual scores were: Corporal Tilghman, 86; Sergt. Downing, 79; Sergt. Serman, 84; and Private Morris, 76.

In the Rosenthal match on the 200 yard range, sandbag rest, Corporal Tilghman again brought the local standards to the front by being second high shot with a score of 49 out of a possible 50. Private Oscar Morris shot in the Adjutant General's match loomed up large as the winning marksman until the 200 rapid fire event, his favorite range, was run off. But the old jim must have camped on his trail for he "squeezed the trigger" the first two times with his eye on the open instead of the peep sight, giving him an elevation of about 750 yards. Consequently both went wild.

Mrs. Reinhardt Lost Twenty-Seven Pounds

Says Her Health Was Almost Completely Wrecked By Indigestion Before She Got Tanlac.

Among the thousands of Baltimore people who have realized the remarkable reconstructive powers of Tanlac is Mrs. Margaret Reinhardt, residing at 837 South Third Street.

"For three years past," said Mrs. Reinhardt, "I have suffered almost continually with my stomach. In fact, I ate so little and had so much trouble from indigestion that I lost twenty-seven pounds in weight and became almost a physical wreck."

"I would have sudden attacks of dizziness, and I was often so short of breath on account of the gas on my stomach that I could hardly climb the steps. Every short while I would get such a terrible sick headache that I had to give up and take to my bed for a day or two. I could scarcely sleep at all, had no energy and just dragged myself through the day."

"Besides stomach trouble I had awful neuralgic pains in my neck, shoulders and arms. These pains were so bad I could scarcely use my arms, and my back also ached so bad I could hardly stoop over and straighten up. My legs also hurt me so bad that every step was torture."

"My condition was so deplorable that life seemed scarcely worth living, but my case seemed to be easy for Tanlac. I found my indigestion going away after the first few doses, and six bottles of the medicine has rid me of all my troubles and built me up twenty pounds besides. I simply feel like a new woman now and my husband and I both think Tanlac is the only medicine in the world worth while."

Tanlac is sold in Salisbury by all good druggists. Advt. 756.

It Isn't Raining Rain—

Mabel, aged six, had been making her mother's life a burden all morning and finally the poor woman, having exhausted other pleas, told her that made God very sad to see her so naughty. Presently it began to rain, and the child, looking mournfully out of the window, remarked:

"Mamma, if I'm good again, will God stop crying?"—Everybody's Magazine.

Bad Company.

A negro who had an injured head entered a doctor's office.

"Hello Sam! Got cut again, I see."

"Yes sah. I done got carved up wid a razor."

"Why don't you keep out of bad company?" said the physician, after he had dressed the wound.

"Deed I'd like to; but I ain't got 'nuff money to get a divorce."—Everybody's Magazine.

NATION GIVES ATTENTION TO FIRE PROBLEM

October 9 As Anniversary Of Great Chicago Conflagration Is Named As National Fire Prevention Day Ending Present Week Of Country-wide Observance.

On October 9, fifty-one years ago, Mrs. O'Leary of Chicago carelessly left a lighted lantern in the barn. Her cow kicked it over, setting fire to the barn and starting a conflagration which swept the city.

The Chicago fire of 1871 caused a greater loss than had any previous fire in the history of the United States. It has only been surpassed since then by the San Francisco fire of 1906. Two hundred persons lost their lives in the Chicago fire and 70,000 (about one person in every five of the population) were rendered homeless. The flames raged over two thousand acres, destroying more than 17,000 buildings and entailing a property loss of approximately one-third of the city's entire value, or about $190,000,000.

The loss in this great fire was appalling but our country suffers a greater fire loss every year at the present time. It is estimated that last year the lives of more than 15,000 persons were lost and property valued at approximately one-half billion dollars was destroyed by fires, many of them preventable.

To reduce this tremendous annual destruction it was decided eleven years ago to set aside a day to be known as National Fire Prevention Day. October 9, the anniversary of the starting of the Chicago conflagration, seemed to be the suitable date, and by proclamation of the President of the United States and many state governors, it has been observed for that purpose.

One day is such a limited time to give to the subject that a period of seven days ending October 9, has recently been set aside as Fire Prevention Week.

Nation wide attention is being given this year to the observance of the week. Governmental and state officials recognize the need and have lent their assistance to make the fire prevention movement successful. Chambers of Commerce throughout the country, at the request of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, are taking an leading part in conducting special activities designed to acquaint every man, woman and child with the necessity of personal care for the prevention of fires.

DR. SHIPLEY SPEAKS AT W. C. T. U. MEETING

Declares That Political Situation Is Anything But Encouraging And That State Is Very Wet.

The W. C. T. U. gave an informal tea at the home of Mrs. H. H. Hitch, High street, on Friday afternoon. Dr. Shipley, of the M. P. Church made an inspiring address, touching upon the political situation in the state. He said that it was anything but encouraging at the present time, and if it were possible for one place to be wetter than another, that Maryland was without doubt the wettest place on the map.

He emphasized the importance of training the youth of the present day to believe that alcohol in any form was destructive to both mental and physical efficiency, and that the fact that alcohol is a poison in whatever form taken, should be impressed upon the minds of the present generation in no less degree than during the days of the open saloon.

A musical program was also rendered, followed by the serving of refreshments. The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the Elks Home, Main street, on Monday, October 9, at 8 o'clock. This is homecoming day and all members are urged to be present.

SID VINCENT LOST TO SALISBURY MOVIE FANS

No Longer Will Arcade Theatre Resound With Calls Of Name That Has Become Quite Popular

No longer will the name of Sid Vincent be connected with the Arcade Theatre. Patrons of the place of amusement and others who have been in the habit of meeting and addressing the assistant manager by the above appellation will regret the change.

Sid Vincent came to Salisbury several months ago and presented a very entertaining little act before the foot lights. Attracted by the city and its people, he decided to stay here a while and accepted Mr. Insley's offer to help in managing of the Arcade.

Since then his courteous treatment of patrons and his live-wire activities in the local movie field have often been favorably commented upon. To lose Sid Vincent, Salisburyans will be prone to regret. But after all, their loss is partly offset by the assurance that it is only the name that will be found lacking for the popular little Englishman is merely dropping his stage name and once more assuming his right one, Sidney Robert Vincent Yates. Having decided to remain permanently in Salisbury, Mr. Yates was prompted to discard the stage cognomen and be "himself" for good and forever.

DELMAR CENTURY CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The Century Club, of Delmar, held its opening event at the club rooms on Tuesday afternoon. Each member had the privilege of inviting a guest.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Harrison Jones, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Mrs. Mamie Hastings, chairman of the music committee. The new president Mrs. G. Hall Riggins, presided.

Bitten By Big Black Snake In Corn Field

Five Foot Reptile Bites Raymond Johnson While Shucking Corn On Wright Farm Near Mardela.

On last Thursday, while shucking corn on the farm of Mr. John P. Wright, near Mardela, Raymond Johnson was bitten on the left hand by a large black snake that stealthily crept out of a large bunch of fodder.

The reptile was killed and measured five feet in length and its body was about the size of a man's wrist. Mr. Johnson's wound was treated by Dr. H. R. Mann, of Salisbury, and at latest reports is recovering rapidly from the effects of the bite.

"Batt'ries For Game Today" At The Arcade

Mechanical Scoreboard Provided By Manager Of Local Theatre To Reproduce World Series' Play.

"Play Ball." A few seconds after the worldseries contests begin in New York there will flash on the mechanical scoreboard at the Arcade Theatre an exact reproduction of the plays made the members of the Giant and Yankee teams.

The ball travels to and fro over the miniature diamond provided by the Arcade management for the benefit of its patrons. Those who come to see the World Series' games here will not be disappointed. It is interesting sport to watch this scoreboard and fans of the city are planning to be there to root hard for their favorites.

Main's Star Performers And Trained Animals To Be In Arnea—Labor Saving Devices Introduced

The circus is coming to town. On Friday, Walter L. Main's huge tent show which have just completed a successful tour England tour will set up their arenas in Salisbury and present to Salisbury people an unusual glittering array of performing artists and trained wild animals.

Children and grown-ups will be delighted to see this great organization unload its collection of equipment and amusement features on the local grounds. Walter L. Main, this fall, offers bigger and better features than ever before in the way of entertainment and everywhere his shows have been greeted by capacity crowds.

By the installation of modern labor-saving devices and the use of new and up-to-date equipment the Walter L. Main Circus this season will break all records, it is expected, in time required to erect and raise its tents. The old-timer who finds pleasure in watching the gangs of men drive the long stakes will rub his eyes in astonishment at the sight of a gasoline engine, fitted with a miniature pile-driver, sending the stakes earthward at the speed of one a minute. This same machine pulls them at night saving an hour or more of valuable time.

Gone are the old-fashioned gasoline torches. In their place the Main Circus has introduced its own electric lighting plant that furnishes light not only for the "big top", but all the side shows and the show grounds as well, yet so compact is it that the entire outfit is loaded on one wagon. The wagon and campmen will be on exhibition each day near the main entrance.

To feed the 400 employees it was found necessary to install this season an entirely new system of cooking, and the old army range has been succeeded by sixteen cookers and tables. With them it is a simple matter to prepare three meals a day and have them ready on the dot.

By a newly patented arrangement all of the big poles of the two larger tents are raised at one time and big spools unroll the canvas with a saving of much time and labor.

Horses will always be a necessity around a circus, but their work has been lightened by the use of big motor trucks that haul at one time six or more of the big dens and cages to and from the circus grounds. They come in especially useful when the circus arrives late.

In fact, every device that will save time has been installed by the Main Circus, and it is well worth a visit to the show grounds on the morning of the exhibition to see the way a modern circus erects its white city and feeds its hundreds of employees.

FIREMEN HAVE NEW CLOCK THAT REGISTERS SERVICE

In the firemen's quarters at the City Hall hangs a new clock the product of the mechanical forces of E. A. Grier Jr.'s shop on Mill street. This instrument is the only "In Service" clock south of Wilmington on the Eastern Shore. The second the big bell in the tower sounds an alarm, the clock stops. Thus when the apparatus returns from the fire, the chief has a record of the time spent away from headquarters.

ELEPHANTS WITH MAIN CIRCUS

HIGH SCHOOL'S SENIOR CLASS NAMES OFFICERS

Tracy Holland Chosen President—Miss Mildred Pope Is Class Adviser—Soccer Schedule Out

Wicomico High School's Senior Class met on Monday afternoon after the school sessions and elected its officers for the coming term. Although the contests were close due to the candidacy of several promising aspirants for each office, those elected were the unqualified choice of their schoolmates.

Tracy Holland was named to be the President of the Class of '23. Dorothy Davis was chosen Vice-president; Catherine Livingston, Corresponding Secretary; Russell Bozman, Recording Secretary; and Ruth Silverman, Treasurer. Miss Mildred Pope, head of the English Department, was chosen to be the class adviser.

Soccer at the High School got away to a good start last week when Delmar was defeated in the first county game. The coaches, Unger and Hackett, are fortunate in having a second team that is replete with promising material.

TAX LEVY STRUCK

The tax levy for 1922 was struck by the City Council at their meeting last Monday night. It will be 55 and 10, the same as last year. This means that 55% of the taxes collected will go for general expenditures and 10% to the sinking fund to take care of notes, bonds, etc. Salisbury's bonded indebtedness of $49,000 probably is the lowest of any city in the country of the same size.

HAS 83RD BIRTHDAY

PEOPLE SPEND OVER $200,000 YEARLY FOR BOTTLED SOFT DRINKS IN LOCAL TERRITORY

Two Million Bottles Of Coca Cola Distributed In Wicomico And Three Neighboring Counties From Salisbury's Modern, Sanitary Plant, Largest On The Shore.

The thirsty earth soaks up the rain. And drinks, and gapes for drink again.

To satisfy the thirst not of the earth but of the people, in this section of the country William H. Morton in 1915 brought to Salisbury a Coca-Cola bottling plant. But he only has been satisfied that thirst but he has recreated a more pronounced longing for liquid refreshments, which in turn has demanded cases and cases of bottled soft drinks.

As a result, the annual consumption of Coca-Cola in the three counties of Wicomico, Worcester, and Somerset and a part of Dorchester is now around two million bottles or about 85,000 cases. It is estimated that the people of these counties each year spend over $200,000 for bottled soft drinks alone, not taking into consideration the soda water dispensed over the fountain counters.

To meet the increasing demand for the ever-popular Coca-Cola, Mr. Morton was forced to expand his plant which was first installed in a little corrugated iron building on Railroad Ave., near Church Street. In 1919 there arose a fine modern structure of brick on the corner of Isabella St. and Railroad Ave.

Plans for the two-story building were made to conform to the ideas of Mr. Morton himself, and as a result, the arrangement of the interior makes for economy and speed in production and output. The plant is the largest on the Eastern Shore and has been adjudged to be on a standard with similar plants in Baltimore, Philadelphia, Atlanta and other large cities. Five motor trucks haul the goods to the retail trade. The plant gives employment to 15 men.

It is true that the public, as a whole, is of the opinion that bottling plants are dirty, filthy places where mixtures of carbonated water and syrup are forced into unclean bottles and capped, later to be offered to thirsty individuals as a desirable drink.

One has but to go through the Coca-Cola Bottling Company's plant here in Salisbury to have this illusion dispelled. In fact, it has been pronounced as one of the most sanitary plants in the state by pure-food inspectors from the State Department.

Just a word or two on the method of bottling and it will be seen that "germs" have no chance in this establishment. The Coca-Cola syrup comes in barrels from the main laboratories. From these barrels it is drawn into large stone jars or vats by means of an hydraulic pump.

These jars are on the second floor in the "mixing" room. From here the syrup is fed to the large bottling machines on the first floor by gravity through lines of hose. At no time is the heavy liquid touched and it is always kept free from contact with the air. Strainers at various points serve to catch any particles of foreign matter that might have got into the syrup at point of shipment. One ounce of syrup must be used in a six ounce bottle.

It is not an unusual sight to see a customer before he drinks from a bottle wipe it off carefully. And many individuals when quenching a parched throat exert a bit of mental control so that their minds are kept off the actual process of production of the "stuff."

Of course, "safety-first" is an excellent motto. Yet in the case of these Coca-Cola bottled goods, one needn't be so particular. Because the bottles, ere they receive their contents from the automatic machines, are washed and rinsed exactly 57 times. This is done by what is known as the hydro-washer. Each bottle receives 42 thorough washings with a 5% hot solution of caustic soda and no germ has ever been known to survive this treatment.

All of this procedure takes place in a long container which the bottles enter "standing on their heads" on a belt with short spikes extending upward into the glass necks. After their lengthy steam scalding, they next enter a lukewarm bath where ten rinsings are given. Five cold water "shots" up into each bottle fits it for action. From the slowly moving belt, the operator of the bottling machine next takes it to be filled and capped. At no stage is the bottle touched by the neck or head and even the caps are fed automatically into the machine so that the process is absolutely sanitary to the ninth degree.

Interesting to know is the story of how bottled soft drinks acquired the appellation "pop". When first put up on the market these bottles were filled with what was known as the old Hutchinson stopper which consisted of a cap that had a wire running through the center of it and attached to this wire on the inside of the bottle was a small rubber disk.

To remove the cap all that was necessary was to knock the small pin against something solid. This would drive the disk further down into the bottle, compressing the air, and POP! the stopper would fly off. However these bottles were very unsanitary as the rubber disks always remained in the bottle which when used over again could not be cleaned very thoroughly.

Now the Coca-Cola Company makes the bottling firms use the crown, cork stopper. The Coca-Cola Company is the original organization and only handles the syrup which is distributed to the bottling plants all over the country, 1,300 in number. Perpetual franchises are contracted for, that give to these plants the right to bottle and distribute the famous drink exclusively in any stated territory.

Mr. Morton has brought to Salisbury this valuable plant, has started at the bottom of the ladder. First, stenographer in the main office at Atlanta, he soon displayed enough ability to win him the coveted position of traveling salesman. In 1905 he opened up the bottling plant in Baltimore, which he sold in 1915, recognizing at that time the territory in Salisbury for further business. Since then, he has built up a creditable business in this section and possesses a plant quite superior to the other establishments on the Shore.

Coca-Cola has become famous as a refreshing drink to thirsty Americans. Years ago, back in the eighties to be exact, an old druggist in Atlanta, Ga., possessed the formula, Coca-Cola, for prescription as a nerve tonic. Patrons were quite loud in their praise of its stimulating powers. But the veteran apothecary unfortunately failed in business and in order to meet his obligations, he gave up his treasured formula, one of which, Coca-Cola, was quickly secured by Candler & Co., wholesale druggists.

Candler was not long in recognizing the value of the "patent medicine" and succeeding in having the drug cocaine removed from its mixture by chemists, in order to put on the market a harmless thirst-quenching drink. In 1892, the initial output of syrup under the present formula by Candler's stock company, was 25 gallons. Today, over 25,000,000 gallons of Coca-Cola syrup are distributed yearly to all parts of America.

COAL QUOTA FOR THIS STATE IS MADE KNOWN

Maryland To Receive 60 Per Cent Of Total Fuel-Used During Past Year Says Committee

Maryland will receive during the winter, that is, from April 1, 1922, to April 1, 1923, 60 per cent of the hard coal that was used in this State in the year ending April 1, 1922. This allotment was made by the anthracite advisory committee at a meeting in Philadelphia last week. The announcement was made Friday by William K. Conway, secretary of the Maryland Fuel Distribution Committee. It was brought out that during the past coal year, ending on April 1, this State got 2.02 per cent of the total output of the anthracite coal.

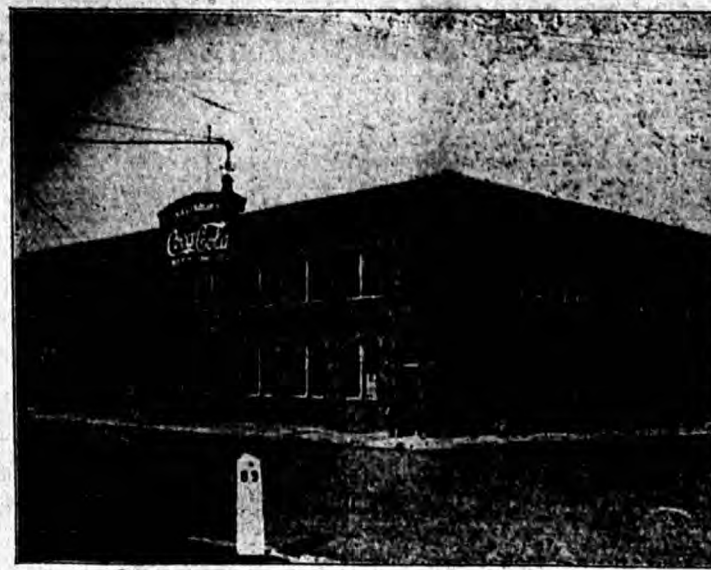

Allocations were made, on the basis of the percentage of the total production of hard coal which each State received during that year, scaled down to meet the estimated output of 60 per cent of normal for the present coal year.

This does not mean, he explained, that next week or next month Maryland is to get 60 per cent of the anthracite which came in during the corresponding period a year ago. For the first month or two every effort will be made by the operators to get into the State the largest possible quantity of coal, which depend on water freight routes that will soon be frozen up for the winter. During this period Maryland will receive little coal, but later on this will be made up.

The anthracite committee, Mr. Conway said, has the entire co-operation of the producers and retail dealers, and will probably function efficiently.

What is termed as "upset price" of $8.50 per ton at the mines has been established for hard coal. This means, it was explained, that all operators may sell anthracite as high as $8.50 without molestation, but as soon as they desire to exceed this figure, they must explain to the committee. Difficulties of mining, and other conditions may justify a higher price in some cases, and where this is found to be true the increase will be allowed.

THE SALISBURY COCA COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

Is most modern and sanitary plant on Shore, with annual production of over Two and a Half Million Bottles of soft drinks.

Should the committee find that it has not the necessary authority to deal with causes of profiteering, the authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission to withhold cars from the mines will be invoked.

A meeting of the Maryland Fuel Committee may be arranged for tomorrow morning at which Mr. Conway and Vice-Chairman O. L. Eaton can present the results of their visit to Philadelphia, with recommendations for securing an equitable distribution of coal within this state.

William Milnes Maloy, chairman of the Public Service Commission and also head of the fuel committee, will go to Western Maryland at the request of Governor Ritchie to investigate disorders resulting from fights between miners and strikers in the Georges Creek region. The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to the Governor asking protection for the region, asserted that the sheriff is unable or unwilling to cope with the situation.

Mine operators in the Maryland fields have consistently refused to recognize the unions, although many of their men are members of the United Mine Workers of America, and most of the mines have been paying the union scale of wages.

THREATENS TO SHOOT PROHIBITION AGENTS

Wife Of Charles Mitchell Comes To Rescue Of Husband When Federal Officers Find Delmar Stills.

Federal Prohibition agents were active in Delmar and vicinity, the latter part of last week. On Friday they raided the place of Charles Mitchell, a farmer living about eight miles east of Delmar.

On the property, it is said, was found 1,000 gallons of mash, two 50 gallon stills, and one 25 gal. still. Savage was tried before Magistrate Mills, of Maryland, and held for action of court under $1,000 bail.

The same evening, agents from Baltimore, Wilmington and Laurel, assisted by Mayor Thorington visited the premises of Charles Mitchell, Jr., said to be quite a notorious character in bootlegger's circles. Here they found a 10 gallon still, warm from being heated during the day.

Mitchell's wife picked up a gun and attempted to fire, but was checked by Agent Stratford, whose hand was slightly hurt in the struggle that ensued. Several drunken negroes were lying around the place.

Mitchell was arrested and arraigned before Magistrate Hearn, of Delaware who placed him in jail under $1,000 bail. His father's house was also searched but only a small quantity of mash was found and no arrest was made.

How Better Than Pills?

The question has been asked. In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they are not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

Lloyd George May Attend.
David Lloyd George, British premier, may be a visitor to the American Legion national convention in New Orleans, October 16 to 20, if the political situation in England will permit his absence from the country. The premier has received a special and urgent invitation from the Legion to be its guest at the fourth annual gathering and he has indicated that he would accept unless prevented by urgent affairs of state.

The invitation was extended through R. E. Condon of New York who has just returned from London. Before his return to the United States Mr. Condon also visited Paris, where he met representatives of seven veterans' organizations from seven allied countries. These bodies are members of the International Veterans' Federation. Each of them will send five delegates to New Orleans for the annual convention of the organization, October 13 and 14.

Half Fare to New Orleans
A railroad rate of one fare for the round trip will prevail for delegates and visitors to the American Legion national convention in New Orleans, October 16 to 20, the local convention committee has been advised by E. A. Simmons, chairman of the Legion's national transportation committee. The rate has been accepted as official by Hanford MacNider, Legion national commander.

The reduced fare, which will be effective on all railroads, will apply to members of the American Legion and its Auxiliary, widows of deceased members of the Legion and to delegates to the convention of the International Veterans' Federation which will be held the week before the Legion gathering.
Legion convention officials estimate that a crowd of 100,000 visitors will attend the national gathering as a result of the fare reduction. Several thousand Legionnaires are also expected to take advantage of the fifty per cent reduction granted on all vessels of the United States Shipping Board.

The Port of Missing Men.
Louis Mohr, 711 Tenth Street, Sioux City, Iowa, requested the American Legion to help find his brother, Walter Mohr, an ex-service man. Mohr was working on a county road crew in North Dakota in the fall of 1921 and was last heard from September 1921. He has dark red hair, blue eyes, five feet, six inches tall, weighs 155 pounds, one finger of right hand is deformed, and he is 34 years old. His mother, who lives at McLean, Neb., is worried over his long absence.

Mrs. H. E. Wright, of Lake Samish, Wash., the sister of John A. Boggs, has requested the American Legion to help find him. Property involved the latter states. Boggs enlisted in 1918 and was in Company C, replacement troop at Camp Grant, being discharged at Portland, Oregon.

Big Fight For Convention.
Fay Keiser and Happy Littleton will stage a fifteen round decision fight for the American Legion middleweight championship, during the Legion convention, October 16-20, convention headquarters has announced.
Keiser fought Bob Martin, A. E. F. heavyweight champion for the title at the Olympic games in Paris and gave the champion a close run for the belt. He has since defeated Martin at Boston and is considered a prominent contender for the heavyweight title of the world. He has also beaten Herman Miller and Ray McMillan.

Keiser has an enviable war record. As first sergeant, he led his company over the top at Montfaucon and was wounded in the shoulder shortly after being in action. He refused to return for first aid and stayed with his company, applying for treatment only after his company had attained its objective late in the evening.
Littleton's war record is also good. He served four years in the Navy as first class seaman. He was on the battleship Louisiana and served on two mine sweepers in the North Sea. While in the Navy Littleton defeated Howard Trembley, Atlantic Fleet heavyweight champion. During the last two years he has fought Joe Chip, Battling Ortega, Billy Shade, Bob Roper and C. C. Wiggins.

The bout will be staged October 16, the first day of the Legion convention, in the Louisiana Auditorium under the management of Al. Pillsbury, local fight promoter.
Typewriters For Scribes
Forty typewriters will be provided for newspaper men "covering" the American Legion national convention, October 16-20, by the Remington Typewriter Company, the convention publicity committee has been advised. Twenty-five machines will be placed in convenient hall for use of scribes filing their articles by telegraph during convention proceedings; ten typewriters will go to the press room at the Grunwald Hotel, to be used by journalists for morning newspapers and magazine writers. American Legion Auxiliary convention headquarters at the Knights of Columbus hall will be equipped with five typewriters for correspondents attending that convention.

American Educational Week
American Educational Week has been set for December 3 to 9, inclusive, it was announced today by Garland W. Powell, assistant national director of Americanism for the American Legion, which inaugurated the movement last year and is receiving the cooperation of the United States Bureau of Education and the National Education Association.

The announcement followed a conference between President Harding, Powell and John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education. Mr. Harding, in promising his full support, said he will issue a presidential proclamation, which is to be followed by similar ones from governors and mayors.
The week will be observed on a far-ger and broader scale than last year, the National Education Association and the United States Bureau of Education co-operating with the American Legion. Invitations also have been issued for the cooperation of all national organizations engaged in educational work, the chambers of commerce, clubs and civic societies.

The state and county superintendents of public schools will be requested through the United States Bureau of Education to devote the week to the American Legion's program, which will begin on Sunday, December 3, when ministers of all denominations will be urged to preach sermons, either morning or evening on the benefits of education. Mass meetings also will be held throughout the country, at which speakers supplied by the American Legion will give addresses on the subject.
A national drive will be made Monday, December 4, with the slogan "Americans all by 1927," to help immigrants become Americans, and start their education in the duties of citizenship.

The next day, Tuesday, will be devoted to patriotism, with the subjects of "universal" use of the English language in the United States, music as a nation builder, "the flag, the emblem of freedom," and "the citizens duty to vote," emphasizing the importance of the ballot box.
Better paid teachers, more school houses and the schools' influence on the coming generation will receive attention Wednesday, December 6. The next day, Thursday will be devoted to the cure of illiteracy.
The American Legion will endeavor to have every citizen adopt an illiterate to the end that illiteracy will be wiped out in this country by 1927. It will be the citizens' duty to teach the illiterate to read and write, sending the name to the American Legion for systematic follow-up educational work in Americanism.

"This day will be a declaration of war on 'Bokeism,'" Mr. Powell said. "We must not be content to teach every one to read and write, but immediately follow it up by insisting loyalty to American ideals."
An equal opportunity for all in education will be urged Friday, December 8. A nation-wide study will be made of rural and city schools in a comparative way, also of high schools and colleges.
Believing that a sick body makes a sick mind, attention will be called on Saturday, December 9, to physical education, the need of playgrounds, and the great outdoors, the country's need in developing our forests, the conservation of our soil and playgrounds for every community.

The last of the days during the week will be special ones for visiting the schools. The United States Bureau of Education will provide motion picture slides in theatres throughout the land each day, calling attention to the subjects as they arrive, and urging every citizen to visit the schools of his community.

CHILD SHOULD LEARN TO SPEAK CORRECTLY

Guidance And Correction Of Parents Needed When Child Is First Learning To Talk.

The best time to teach a child correct English is when it is learning to talk. Of course! But how many children learn to talk without ever learning the correct way, learn through their own pitiful efforts alone and without guidance or correction from their parents?
A child will learn to speak the correct English that he hears only to a certain extent. The use of pronouns the present and past tenses of some verbs are confusing even to grown people and it is not surprising that children make blunders. For instance in denoting the possessive case, one child insisted "if you say 'yours' and 'his' why don't you say 'mines'?"

The technique of speech can be taught more easily home than in school in later years at school, for the reason that the child knows no speech and does not have to "unlearn" incorrect speech as often as is the case in school. It only requires a little vigilance on the mother's part to catch and correct little slips of the tongue before they become habits of speech.

Never allow your child to use a word incorrectly. Two or three such mistakes are enough to fix the word in the child's mind.
While you are guiding your child to speak grammatically do not neglect to enlarge his vocabulary by introducing new words or several words to denote one object. Encourage him to improve upon his own sentences, making deliberate efforts to correct his own mistakes.
Big words should be no bug-bear to the child whose parents enunciate clearly and speak slowly and distinctly. A mother who slurs her speech should not be surprised if her child talks indistinctly. And the mother who talks "baby talk" to her child can expect nothing but "baby talk" in return.

A Remarkable Record.
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for colds, croup and whooping cough for most half a century and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its good qualities became better known. It is the standard and main reliance for these diseases in thousands of homes. The facts that it can always be depended upon for safe and pleasant to take are greatly in its favor when it is wanted for children.—Adv.

It is the solemn duty of every financial institution to use every means possible to protect the funds and securities entrusted to its care. To offer that feeling of absolute security is positively due the patron to justify his confidence. The bank must actually protect or it betrays. Being a firm believer that the patrons are entitled to the best, this institution has just recently installed one of the most modern Electric Burglar Alarm Systems in existence. It is most modern Electric Burglar Alarm System in existence. A most convincing argument in favor of this system is the fact that the premium on our Burglar Insurance was reduced 50 per cent immediately. With the knowledge of having a perfect equipment and a Service that has always met with popular approval, this bank continues to be in a favorable position to convince you that you should patronize it.

REGRET DEPARTURE OF REV. HERBERT D. CONE

Minister Entertain Associate At Luncheon And Adopt Resolutions Praising His Community Work

The ministers of Salisbury entertained Rev. Herbert D. Cone at luncheon Saturday noon in the Bluebird Inn. The gathering was to express the regrets of the ministers at the severance of the very pleasant relations which have existed between the churches and the pastors during the ministry of Dr. Cone in this city.

For a long time Dr. Cone was the President of the Association and under his leadership the co-operative work done by the churches during the war was successfully promoted. The church census was also taken during the time of his presidency.

The party consisted of Rev. R. A. Boyle, Rev. T. B. Peters, Rev. V. L. Edmunds, Rev. R. B. Burnett, Rev. J. T. Herson and Rev. R. L. Shipley. Each of the ministers spoke, expressing personal regret for the going of Dr. Cone and the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, we have learned that the Rev. Herbert D. Cone is about to resign the Rectory of St. Peter's Church in order to accept the repeated call of the parish of Windsor, Vermont—

We, the members of the Ministerial Association of Salisbury, Maryland, desire to convey to him our sincere regret on his departure, and our best wishes for himself and Mrs. Cone in their new field.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That we recognize and record the warm-hearted co-operation of Brother Cone in the efforts of all the churches of our city looking toward the establishing of the Kingdom of God on the earth.

That we facilitate Brother Cone on the peculiar ability and brotherly spirit which we manifest in allying the St. Peter's church, of which he was Rector, with the general interests of public affairs, and encouraging to an active partnership in efforts pertaining to civic righteousness and the common good of the community.

That we regard our appreciation of Brother Cone's deep interest and untiring efforts on behalf of the Ministerial Association while serving as President during the stressful period of the war.

That our parting prayer is that he and Mrs. Cone shall carry with them such memories of our common fellowship as shall preserve a kindly thought of the Eastern Shore, and that the Great Head of the Church shall continue His favor and blessing through all their days.

OFFICERS OF CHURCH SOCIETY INSTALLED

Pastor Shipley Preaches Special Sermon To Members Of Bethesda Christian Endeavor—Rally Oct. 4

An interesting service was held in the Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church, Sunday evening when the elected officers of the Christian Endeavor Society were formally installed. The pastor, Rev. Richard L. Shipley, preached a special sermon to the young people and the officers of the society were called to the chancel of the church for consecration to their newly assumed duties.

Those having charge of this important department of the church for the next six months are as follows: President, Miss Bettie S. Brittingham; Vice President, Mr. Robert Waller; Recording Secretary, Mildred Parker; Corresponding Secretary, Hannah Dawson; Treasurer, Norman Connolly; Secretary, Reese Wimbrow; Pianist, Miss Gladys Cleary; Assistant Pianist, Marie Brumley; Superintendent of the Intermediate Department, Ruth Powell; Superintendent of the Junior Department, Mrs. Charles E. Wilkins. The Christian Endeavor Society will resume its meetings on next Sunday evening after the summer vacation. On the evening of October 4th Mr. Carroll S. Wright of the State Union will visit the Society and a grand rally will be held in the Sunday School room of the church.

ARCHEOLOGISTS COME TO ANCIENT CHURCH

Is Discovered On British Isle Believed To Be Oldest Example Of Early Architecture

What is believed to be the oldest example of British architecture—dating about 450 B. C.—has just been uncovered on Mahee Island in Stratford Lough by the Belfast Archeological Society.

At first a pagan temple, then a Christian church, it is believed by the discoverers to have held an important place in the Celtic Church for centuries and after the Norman invasion to have been carried on by the monks from England.

For the last few centuries, however, it has been so neglected that even the site became unknown and six feet of earth had accumulated over it.

A foundation of three different periods has been found by the excavators and there are indications that in addition to the church there, at one time, existed other buildings, probably a monastery and a college. Fragments of a slab were found in the ruins bearing apparently an old Norse inscription.

Some of the letters were Runic, some Irish and some of an undetermined alphabet. Archeologists believe it is the headstone from over a former abbot's grave.—Public Ledger.

DROP IN CHILD LABOR IS SHOWN BY CENSUS

1,060,858 Boys And Girls Reported At Work, 929,367 Less Than In 1910

The decrease in the number of children between 10 and 15 years old who are at work, shown by census figures for 1920, is more apparent than real according to Dr. Alba M. Edwards, census expert of the Department of Commerce. The question of child labor remains a problem, accentuated by the Supreme Court's recent decision, despite the optimistic figures of the census of 1920.

The number of boys and girls at work in 1920, according to the statistics, compiled as of January 1 of that year, was 1,060,858, a decrease of 929,367 from the 1910 figure. But—and here is what largely unifies the encouragement of the 1920 census—the 1910 census was compiled in mid-April, when spring planting operations were at the peak, and farmers throughout the country were begging for help. In January, however, the number of farm laborers is at its lowest ebb.

"It is believed," Dr. Edwards' report states, "that when the enumeration was made in 1920 many children usually employed as farm laborers had then been at school and were not returned by the census enumerators as gainfully occupied. This appears to have been true especially in the case of children living on the farm. The enumerators' schedules show that a considerable proportion of such children were at school and were not attending school nor being gainfully occupied."

On the face of the census returns only 647,309 children of both sexes were engaged in farm work in 1920, as against 1,434,428 in 1910. But too many children were enumerated as farm laborers in 1910, according to Dr. Edwards, who pointed out that, although an increase of 34.8 per cent. occurred between 1900 and 1910 in the number of children employed on farms there was "no similar increase in the total number of persons engaged in agricultural pursuits."

The decrease in the number of child wage-earners in 1920 was widespread throughout the country. Both in cities and rural districts the figures show marked decreases. In only two classifications did their number increase—clerical occupations and "public service"—where their numbers jumped from 537 to 1,130 and 71,001 to 80,140 respectively. All States showed decreases in the proportion of boys gainfully employed, with the District of Columbia standing alone with an increase. In the proportion of girls at work, Arizona and the District of Columbia were the only units to show increases.

Child labor decreased proportionately in most of the 68 cities of over 100,000 population, only six showing increase in the proportion of boys, with three showing increase in the proportion of girls. In the cities of 25,000 to 100,000 population the proportion of working boys in 1920 was larger in the cities of over 100,000. A comparison of the girls at work shows a smaller proportion in favor of the smaller cities.

Fewer Work In Mines One of the most significant decreases in child labor was in mines and quarries. From a total of 18,090 in 1910 the total dropped to 7,191 in 1920. Curiously enough, however, the number of girls in this category rose from 71 in 1910 to 143 in 1920, the increase being largely accounted for by an increase of 70 working in coal mines.

The decreases in child labor figures Doctor Edwards attributed in part to increased legal restrictions, more stringent compulsory school attendance laws and the better enforcement of these laws.

"It is probable, also," he wrote, "that the greater popular disapproval of child labor decreased the tendency to employ children."—Evening Sun.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

LET'S NOT NAG!

By Alice Wingate Frary. Nagging is one of the surest ways of clouding the atmosphere of our homes, and we know how children thrive in happy surroundings. It is a temptation to talk endlessly about an undesirable state of affairs rather than to think and act.

One mother's problem was getting her nine-year-old son to come home from play at a stated time. Though he had a watch he would delay starting for home until the time when he ought to have reached it. When at last he came in one evening with his father, the mother said in despair, "I have talked for weeks without making the slightest impression. Do think of some way to settle Jack's tardiness!" "Jack," said his father sternly, "this must stop! Now what can you suggest to make you come home promptly?"

Jack said (whether nervously or piously his mother was not quite sure) "Oh, a pound of candy."

"Very well, come." Solemnly his father took him out into the winter dusk, walked to the drug store, and brought back a glass jar of hard candies. He placed it ceremoniously on the boy's book-case, told him at what times he might eat from it, remembering with each candy the reason for its purchase. Whether the father's unexpected attitude or pride in being entrusted with the candy worked the charm, it is hard to say, but there was no further difficulty with late home-coming.

The pleasant way of securing obedience is often more effective than the harsher way because having the child's cooperation wins but the battle. I know two adventurous youngsters who, after persisting in running away regardless of consequences, stayed within bounds for several weeks in order to earn a tiny gilt star at bedtime. Indeed a ten cent box of stars from the stationer's is a priceless help to mothers! There seems to be a peculiar happiness in having won the privilege of sticking one on a card at night, and counting those already earned.

Some mother's suffer from their children's nagging, especially when guests are present or they are in a public place. One wise mother who found all-day shopping trips with the children an occasional necessity, avoided any possibility of prolonged discussion at lunch time by deciding upon a simple, nourishing luncheon that her children liked, and invariably ordering it. The expeditions did not occur often so that there was no danger of monotony, and she saved her own nervous energy as well as her children's.

To exhort mothers never to say "Don't" seems to me sentimentally. Prompt response to a decisive "No" has an important place in child training as obedience to a positive request. After the "No" has been grasped and acted upon the positive suggestion ought to follow, but the "No" should be clearly understood first.

Above all, our children are entitled to fairness. Even parents who have their children's best interests at heart sometimes let appearances, convenience or fatigue, dull their sense of justice. A child's will is just, when a lesser unjust punishment will rankle bitterly.

UNSHAKEN TESTIMONY.

Time is the test of truth. And Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test in Salisbury. No Salisbury resident who suffers backache, or annoying urinary ills can remain unconvinced by this twice-told testimony. Mrs. Ernest Lucas, 317 Elizabeth Street, says: "I was troubled for years with weak kidneys and was confined to my bed for two weeks at a time. I also went to the hospital but got no better. My back ached severely. My hands, feet and limbs swelled and puffy sacs hung beneath my eyes. I was certainly in bad shape, and wasn't expected to get over the trouble. Finally on a friend's advice I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they saved me after everything else had failed." (Statement given July 22, 1916).

On January 8, 1921, Mrs. Lucas added: "I never fail to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for they certainly did wonders for me. I always keep them on hand and occasional use keeps my kidneys in a good healthy condition." Sixty cents at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advt.

REEDVILLE

Dr. Lewis, of Lancaster, was at Reedville High School, last week, coming over to see what could be done to relieve the congestion existing there. At the R. H. S. meeting last Friday evening, Mrs. C. E. Davis, of Fleeton, League President, appointed a committee consisting of Mr. S. Frank Atwill, Dr. L. E. Cockrell, Rev. W. R. Evans and Miss Eva Jett, of Fleeton, to look into the matter of securing additional rooms here in town, where several extra teachers could be placed at once. The large upper room at Reedville, Mr. Service Co., was proposed by Mr. Atwill, as being probably the only suitable place at this time, but was found, upon application, that it could not be occupied now. The committee hopes to accomplish something soon.

Mrs. Cockrell, and little daughter, Agnes, returned last week from Richmond. They left Miss Florence Gates somewhat improved. We were all glad to know this. She is with her sister, Mrs. Smith, and has been the recipient of so many kind and loving courtesies, so many beautiful flowers, and so much fine fruit, that she finds it hard to express her appreciation. The Mizpah Bible Class of Bethany Church, Reedville, had a Richmond florist send her an offering of their finest Asters last week.

Mrs. Clyde Parsons, spent last week in Baltimore.

Miss Merle Arnsworth, of Burgess Store, is having her first experience in teaching "the ideas to shoot" this fall and is installed in the Gullick's Corner school room, with pleasant headquarters with Mrs. Booth near by. Miss Merle was a graduate of Fairfield's High School last spring, and took the summer course at the University of Virginia.

Mrs. C. L. Talferro has been suffering very much recently from an ulcerated tooth, Dr. P. D. Brent finally removed the unruly member, and will substitute one of less act in its place. Dr. Brent has a beautiful office in the new Reedville Company building here, furnished with all up-to-date appliances for his work. Quite a number of patients have been taking their dental troubles to him.

Miss Ruby Lee Edwards, after a summer with her parents at Fleeton, left last Sunday for Fredericksburg, enroute to her school at Oak Ridge, near Charlottesville. Her sister, Miss Cornelia Edwards, did not go back to Oak Ridge this fall, but is teaching in Norfolk, going down recently.

The Plankton came in this week, having lost a wheel somewhere enroute, it was said. She did not go on down the bay as usual, but returned to Baltimore for repairs. The Eastern Shore will be sent down to take her place.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Morris Jett, Mrs. T. H. Jett, and Waring Jett, motored from this place Sunday to "Walnut Hill," in King George, for a few hours with Mrs. Mary Gouldman, and her daughter, Mrs. T. H. Jett, stayed over for the week. The others stopped in at Colonial Beach, coming home for a short call upon Prof. and Mrs. Francis Chase, of the High School there. Mrs. Chase, formerly Miss Sue Elder, of Fleeton, and Lynchburg, has many friends here, who are offering congratulations and best wishes to the newly married couple. At "Walnut Hill" were glad to hear they were all well. Miss Mae Gouldman, well-known and popular former teacher at R. H. S., is teaching near her home again this winter.

Mrs. C. E. Davis, of Fleeton, Mrs. Marion McGuigan, and Mrs. W. P. Eskridge, both of Hacks Neck, motored to Fredericksburg last week, leaving their daughters, Misses Margaret Davis, Emma McGuigan, and Ester Eskridge, at Fredericksburg Normal for the winter term.

Mrs. Mary Evans, of Fleeton, has two bright and ambitious daughters, Misses Miriam and Elizabeth Evans, both graduates of Reedville High School last spring, who are spending the winter in Baltimore attending "The Teachers Training School." To these young absentees the mother is assuring a great deal of real enjoyment, and home information for the months to come, by having sent to their each week the "News." A splendid investment. "Just like a letter from home," with sincere apology to a well-known and widely read contributor to these columns for quoting.

Miss Nell Wayland, of near Stanton, is second assistant in Reedville

High School this year and is boarding with Mrs. Albert Davis, on the church road, or probably Main street extended would be more correct. Miss Wayland is kind and considerate, and is winning the hearts of her pupils wonderfully as the days go by.

Miss Maher, first assistant in the High School, is of French-Canadian ancestry, we are told, and comes with Reedville from New York. She is domiciled for the winter with Mrs. Joe Davis, out-of-town, and over the creek near Liberty Church.

Miss Maher, is considered a fine French teacher, and with her quiet, courteous manner, is making friends in her splendid work of helping these young people of ours prepare themselves for the future battles of life.

Miss White, from Callao, and Miss Bristow, from "down the bay", both popular and attractive members of Reedville's faculty, are boarding with Mrs. Mattie Dawson, here in town.

Miss Delano, of Westmoreland, and Miss Hale, of Village, the former also of the old faculty, are with Mrs. O. Butler, in town, these with Miss Frances Carey, of Lillian, a R. H. S. graduate, who taught last winter in Norfolk, make up what we hope will prove a very competent, successful and happy personnel for conscientious and effective work at Reedville High School this winter.

Dr. L. E. Cockrell, of Reedville, made a hurried trip to Baltimore last Friday with Mr. Cleveland Harrison, of Sunnyside, who had been taken violently ill that day. An operation was performed and friends are hoping for his recovery. Mr. Harrison's wife and brother also went up with him.

Miss Tellie Haynie, one of the assistant cashiers at the Peoples Bank, Reedville, has been taking her vacation the past week, and spending it in the Homelands.

A recent card from Mrs. J. C. Fisher, left their party at Trinidad, Colo., having crossed the Rocky Mountains a day or two before. They had motored over ten thousand miles and were coming East. Had recently visited the Grand Canyon, and Petrified Forest, of Arizona. They have had a wonderful trip and will soon be home again.

Prof. and Mrs. Wornack, who arrived in Reedville, in their Dodge car, for the opening of school two weeks ago, are boarding with Mrs. Arthur Booth, just across the road from the school grounds. Mr. Wornack taught at Rocky Mount last year. He expressed surprise at finding the school building here of such inadequate size and so poorly equipped for service. School has started off with a record breaking enrollment, and teachers and pupils are adjusting themselves rapidly and getting down to work in earnest. Prof. Wornack is rapidly gaining the love and respect of the young people and we are hoping for a successful term.

THE CREDIT MEN ARE HERE

HOW WILL YOU BE RATED?

If you owe any past due accounts, pay them, do it now, so you will be well rated.

This association keeps the merchants informed at all times as to just how you pay your bills.

It is built on constructive lines.

It makes the poor but honest man's credit as good as that of the rich. It also prevents the man who does not pay his bills from getting credit.

If you have a good credit record, your trade is valuable and any merchant is glad to accommodate you.

Credit is a matter of trust.

Your honor is involved.

It is granted you on a promise to pay---your promise to pay, and you cannot afford to break that promise.

The Merchant can better afford to lose the bill than you can afford not to pay it.

Don't blame the merchant if you are refused credit.

You and you alone are to blame, for you are refused on your record and you have built that record yourself.

THE WHITE FAMILY, EARLY SHORE SETTLERS, HAVE NOBLE ANCESTRY

Interesting History Is Presented Of Various Groups—Captain Thomas W. H. White, One Of Wicomico's Oldest Citizens, Is Known As "Grand Old Man Of Eastern Shore."

The next oldest man to William Lee Laws, in Wicomico County, so far as has been ascertained is Captain Thomas W. H. White, who resides at the "White Hall Farm," on the Wicomico river not far from Salisbury. Captain White was born near the spot where he resides to-day and this same tract of land, owned by him now was in the possession of his ancestors as far back as 1627, nearly three hundred years ago.

His life has been spent upon this venerable homestead, most of it in honest toil, physical and mental, yet he has not allowed himself to grow narrow, but with age his vision has expanded, his ideas have kept pace with the growth and progress of the age. While his mind travels back with quick response to his earlier life, he can converse with knowledge and ease upon the subjects of inventions and political advancements. He contemplates with much assurance greater achievements yet to be made in this great country of ours. He has a wonderful vision of the lessons and experiences of the past, of the duties of the present and the prospect of the growth and prosperity of the next generation. Age has not put him in a groove, nor weakened his intellect nor impaired his memory, but the ability to execute and operate the great plans and purposes of his life has crept away from the passing of the years.

His labors, his toils, his deprivations and struggles of his early life have gained for him a rich harvest, in the midst of which he is resting, surrounded by all that life could desire. The environment is unusually comforting, the home is all that could be desired and he has not folded his hands as if his work is done, but has kept a vigilant eye on all his interests, and energetically directs all the affairs pertaining to his large business, at the same time there is maintained the same filial regard for his friends and he is still devoted to the interest and success, health and happiness of every member of his large family.

At the age of ninety-one years, having been born November 21st, 1831, he is styled "the grand old man of the Eastern Shore." There is a secret in his long life and this is plainly observed when he tells you how he has lived and how he has cared for himself, being in reality, the architect of own fortune. He was very frail physically in his early life and was advised by his physician and friends to "set his house in order" as he could not live much longer.

But with an indomitable and resolute spirit, supported by an unwavering faith in God, he applied reason to his habits and used the simple remedies at hand. Much time was spent in the open, dwelling among the pines, breathing the sweet pure air of the forest redolent with the abundant provisions of nature, sleeping upon an elevated gently sloping on every side, drinking the pure crystal water which flowed through the rocky strata, permeating its way from the Alleghany or Blue Ridge mountains beneath the waters of the Chesapeake Bay and gushing forth to the surface from a depth of ninety feet, in a constant stream, at his own home.

He has observed and respected the laws of nature under which he has lived and the God he has loved and served has never forsaken him. His faith is as remarkable as his long life. The political life of Captain White has been that of an ardent Democrat and while he never was ambitious for office he has had a strong influence in the council of the party for the advancement of his friends and the leaders have always been very considerate for his references and even at the last moment plans have been reversed to meet his choice in the selection of candidates for office.

He was a member of the Maryland Legislature one session and made many friends. He has high ideals politically and a man had to be loyal to get his support. He has been loyal to the leaders of his party and has striven to use his powers to give a clean, honest administration, both in county and State. He has acquired a good education by application and study.

In his palmy days he was classed with the foremost writers of the county, not only writing prose but also poetry that has been classed with the county's best productions.

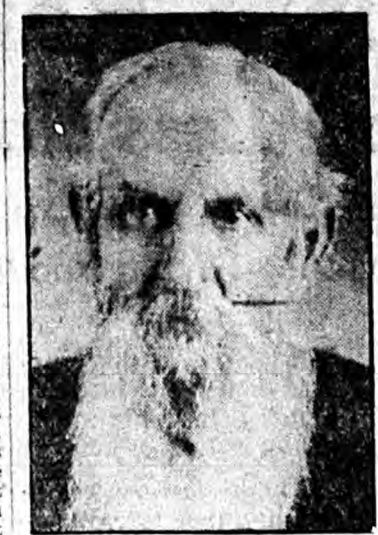

Captain White is a natural born financier and his advice and counsel to his friends, being supported by a successful life, has had a good effect upon those whose lives have been touched by his. He has always been ready and willing to aid and assist any worthy young man and has won victory for many a struggling neighbor. He has never grown selfish, and has not only gathered about him vast possessions, but has won the hearts of the people by his charity and liberality. As an entertainer he stands almost alone.

His mind runs in literary channels. His language is classical and both in speaking and writing he uses beautiful phrases. He lives in love and fear of God in whom he places his trust, his hope and his life. There is no gloom, no shadow, no fear, because he has a conscious void of offense to God and man.

Captain White has been married three times and sixteen children have been born in his home. His first wife to whom he was married September 1st, 1854 was Miss Sallie Hughes. She died in 1858. There were three children by this union, all of whom died in infancy.

His second wife was Miss Louise A. Fooks, to whom he was married February 1861 and from this marriage were five children, two are dead and three living are: Henry T. White of Washington, D. C., for many years manager of the Van Camp Packing Company, one of the largest of its kind in the world; Mrs. Jeanette Richardson, residing at the home, home, a blessing to the household. The other daughter is Mrs. Marie Banks, wife of Captain Grayville Banks, to whom fourteen children have been born, five girls and nine boys. Captain's second wife died February 1871.

He was married the third time in February 1873 to Miss Henrietta M. Malone and from this marriage eight children were born, seven of whom are now living: Capt. R. B. White vessel owner and broker of Baltimore; Purnell T. White, cashier of the Sharptown Bank of the Eastern Shore Trust Company and a member of the town council for several terms; George S. White, farmer near Salisbury; Thomas W. White, Jr., farmer near Salisbury; J. H. S. White, also farmer near Salisbury; W. H. White, merchant in Salisbury and Mrs. Pauline Insley, Salisbury.

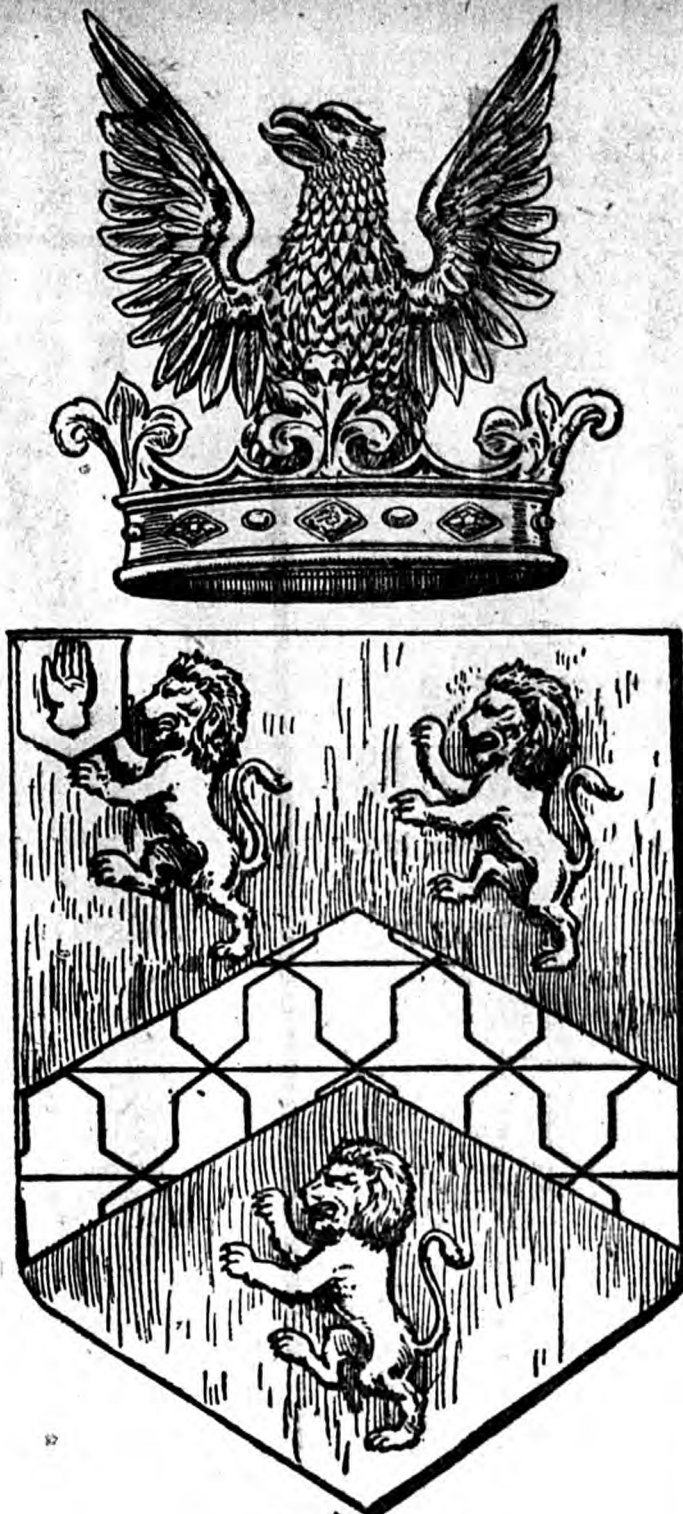

Captain White is perhaps nearer to the original White immigrants who came to this country in 1620, more than three hundred years ago than any other member of the White family since the Revolution. In fact had the opportunities come to him as they came to the colonists, no doubt he would have demonstrated even greater ability as a patriot, statesman and as a law maker than any of the illustrious family at that period of history.

The White family is said to be the oldest family in New England. William White was a member of the "Mayflower" party that came to this country in 1620. His son, the record show, was the first white child born in New England. He was called Peregrine, which means, "A pilgrim in a strange land."

William White died during the first winter together with the Governor and more than half of the colonists. He left two sons, Peregrine and Resolve, both of whom lived to be useful and important members of the colony, taking an active part in the political and religious affairs. The cradle of Peregrine is still in a good state of preservation and may be seen in Pilgrim Hall, Plymouth, Mass.

In what is known as the "Breeches" Bible, which William White brought with him to this country is recorded the birth of Peregrine, written by Mr. White on the margin of one of the leaves. On many of the fly leaves of the Bible are rare pictures, drawn by some of the men on board the Mayflower. One of which represents an Indian with his bow drawn, with the legend beneath, "Were greeted thus when we came in on shore."

Traditions claim that the White family is descended from the Earl of Mars, a Scottish chieftain who lived in the days of feudalism. While this is not a matter of authentic record, it is established that the Whites were of the gentry of Bedfordshire, and bore, by right, the coat of arms which is seen today. John White who died in 1501, was a man of large estate having bequeathed land to nine different parishes.

White

Thomas White, grandson of John White was a man of eminence, who left behind him a name and memory which are cherished to the present day. He prebendary of St. Paul's Cathedral and canon of Christ Church Oxford. These important and profitable posts, he continued to hold until his death. He was much esteemed for his Godly and practical way of preaching. He was also vicar of St. Dunstan's, Fleet Street, London. The chief feature of this street is the church, with its clock, in which the giants strike the hour. They are commemorated by Cowper in his "Table Talk."

The almshouse which he founded and endowed in 1613 in his native parish in Bristol, is still in existence and bears his name. It is perhaps that he is best remembered as the founder of old Zion College London. Its magnificent library commenced by him is still visited by students from all parts of the world. In 1676 William White was living in London, a worthy citizen while his brother John resided in Virginia.

"I had very severe attacks of indigestion," writes Mr. M. H. Wade, a farmer, of R. F. D. 1, Wade, Miss. "I would suffer for months at a time. THIRD YEAR OF MARRIED LIFE MOST DANGEROUS

Divorce Statistics Seem To Show That Most Domestic Troubles Come At That Time

The Swedish Journal, Charm, publishes an article on "The Dangerous Year of Married Life" which criticizes, after long study, have decided is the third. They arrived at this through study of the divorce statistics, which disclosed that a third, or at least a fourth of all divorces occur in the third year of marriage. After passing the third year there is every prospect that the couple will live happily ever after. But why is the third year the most dangerous? The experts answer that two years of romantic life are, as a rule enough. The hope that the romance may be continued during the following years is erroneous, unless husband and wife are able to talk their selves into an endless romance. And to this are added practical considerations. Thus, for instance, pecuniary worries may easily become the cause of divorces, for it makes, of course, a difference whether one or two persons shall be supported.

The first child, too, often makes a difference. The child, which really should bind husband and wife to each other, often separates them. And a husband who does not possess sufficient income cannot always content himself with the wife's great interest in the child, for he realizes that he no longer means everything to his wife.

Carolina granted to Henry White track of land in Pasquotank Precinct, containing about one hundred acres. Mr. White was one of the most important members of the Society of Friends, a minister and secretary to the Little River quarterly meeting. As the Friends were driven from Virginia by an act of Assembly they sought refuge in Maryland and were granted land on the Eastern Shore.

It is asserted that the Whites, came from Virginia into Maryland and established the Friends Church, or at least formed a part of that religious body, which first settled in Talbot County, and erected a meeting house on Miles River, the purchase of land not only including enough for church but for school house and grave yard.

One of the founders of Hartford, Conn. and Cambridge and Hadley, Mass. was Elder John White. He came from Chelmsford, Essex, England. John White, it is said lived in Hartford, on Governor's Street, so named because it was the home of four Governors of the State. The lengthening shadows of the famous charter oak as the sun went down rested on John White's dwelling.

The Whites have always respected the divine injunction "to increase and multiply and replenish the earth." It is said that more than five thousand persons descended from John White. Seven generations were added to the family within two hundred years. John White's son, Captain Nathaniel White was one of the founders of Middletown, Conn. He was chosen as the town's representative and the last time he was chosen he was eighty-one years old.

Longevity seems to be characteristic of the family. In 1721, Col. Thomas White of Maryland came out as a boy with the colonists to seek his fortune in this country and left his sisters in London who "did his shopping for him while he was working in the New World."

It is a matter of history that Hugh White, settled and named Whitestown, near Utica, N. Y. He and other members of the White family left the New England colony and came to Whites-town. Here they were surrounded by Indians, and it was necessary to bargain with them in some way. One day an Indian, as history gives it, called at the home of Mr. White and demanded of him that he would permit him to take with him to his wigwam a little grand-daughter, then playing about the house, promising him to bring her back in safety.

The child was entrusted to the care and keeping of this bold savage, but it was not until the approach of night, when fears of treachery had almost overcome the child's mother, that the child was returned. When the child was brought back she was gaily arrayed in Indian dress adorned with the numerous Indian ornaments. History says that this continued more than any other one thing to the strong friendship that existed for many years between the new settlers and their Indian neighbors.

The Whites served their country in Colonial wars and especially in the revolution. Samuel, John, Abijah and Asa were in the front ranks. Jonathan was commissioned colonel. Among the prominent members of the family in the early history of this country may be mentioned Bishop White, one of the founders of the American branch of the Anglican Church, and Richard Grant White, an author of national reputation.

The White Association's last annual reunion was held at Westminister, Mass., August 27th, 1902. Many then present used the opportunity to visit "Redemption Rock," on Lake Wachusett, where in 1676, John White's daughter, Mary, (Mrs. Joseph Rowlanson) was redeemed from the Indians by the general court of Boston, John Hoar of Boston being the ambassador.

King Phillips was then with the Indians, but refused his consent. A few years ago Senator Hoar purchased the Rock and placed on it the following inscription: "Upon this rock May 2, 1676 was made an agreement for the ransom of Mrs. Mary Rolandon, of Lancaster, between the Indians and John Hoar of Concord."

In a well-known print, said to be a copy of a painting in Washington, "The Landing of the Pilgrims," four chief figures are supposed to represent William White, Susannah, his wife, the babe, Peregrine in her arms and Resolve, a boy of six, clutching at her skirts.

The White family is an armigerous one, with any number of escutcheons to its credit. The one chosen for our illustration has as its supporters, three lions rampant and a hand, palm out. The demi-eagle of the crest with wings expanded is sable. The hand is a pledge of faith, sincerity and justice. The eagle and the lion are old emblems of royalty. The eagle symbolizes a man of action, occupied in high and mighty affairs and of a lofty spirit. Motto: Virtus omnia vincit—Virtue conquers all things.

Abner White came from England to the Eastern Shore of Maryland on the ship that brought the bricks with which to build Green Hill church in 1733. He assisted as architect in building that ancient edifice. He had thirteen sons. He bought what was known as the "Dashell Farm," lived and died there.

William Pinkney White, governor of Maryland, 1872, was a great-grandson of Abner White as was also Captain Henry White, father of Captain Thomas W. H. White. Captain Henry White was captain of what was known as the "Ferry Militia," a division of the State Militia. He married Sallie Ellis, whose great-grandfather was Captain John Ware, the first Indian fur dealer to trade up the Wicomico river. He built the first vessel ever built on the Wicomico River and did an extensive business both with the Indians and the whites.

Captain Henry White was among the early bay cutters and carried the first cargo of pine wood through the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal about the year 1837. Thomas, then a boy of six years accompanied him and was tagged in Philadelphia and sent home by way of New Castle, Elkton and Baltimore. When he reached Baltimore it was by his card that he was sent to Samuel White, an uncle, captain of the Baltimore police force for many years. From Baltimore he came home in a vessel.

Captain Hamilton White, Henry's brother, went West in an ox team and settled at Salem, Martin county, Illinois. Peter White, another brother resided in Philadelphia where his son, William, for many years was Comptroller of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, starting as an employee in the office.

Another brother, Dr. William White was seriously hurt on a wheat treading yard. He then abandoned farming and taught school and read medicine having as his medical instructor, Dr. Lewis Morris, of Fruitland. He later graduated at the University of Maryland and after his graduation went West and settled in Illinois and became one of the best oculists in the country, having patients both in Europe and America. He married Susan Jennings, cousin of William Jennings Bryan.

After the death of the Doctor, the widow went to Seattle, where she now lives at the age of eighty-seven years. Her daughter has been a teacher in the public schools of Seattle for a

INSECT BITES WORKMAN WHO SUES HIS COMPANY

Man And Mosquito Meet In Swamp—Former Is Disabled And Wants Compensation

Compensation of $87 for a mosquito bite was asked of the State Workmen's Compensation Board by phia, an employee of the American Dredging Company. He says near Philadelphia a mosquito bite infected his left arm and it cost him the amount of the claim before he was able to return to work.

The Company contended that while Mercovich might have been bitten by a mosquito, the mosquito was not hovering over the premises where the Company's work was going on when it made the attack. It refused to pay the $87.

Mercovich asserted the mosquito came from the swamp where he was working for the Company and that he was walking to the Company's office through the swamp at the time. He made no claim for disability.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter."—Mrs. Wm. S. HUGHES, Greenville, Delaware.

Mother and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

"BURT" SHIPLEY TO GUIDE DESTINY OF SALISBURY BALL CLUB IN 1923

Is Well-Known In Collegiate and Professional Sport Circles Of State.

PILOTEED BLUE RIDGE CHAMPIONS LAST YEAR

Peppery Leader Signs Contract For Entire Season And Consummates Deal With President Ruark And Player's Committee—Officials Very Optimistic Over Next Season.

Salisbury will have as manager of its baseball club next year, H. B. Shipley, pilot of the Blue Ridge pennant winning team, Martinsburg. Shipley signed his contract last week. Late Saturday evening at a conference between President Ruark, the player's committee and the new leader of the White Clouds, the finer details were taken into consideration and all arrangements concluded for the handling of the managerial reins in 1923.

"Burt" Shipley, as he is called, is one of the most popular baseball men in the state. An old University of Maryland star in many sports, in his college days he was classed as one of the shining lights on the state's collegiate diamonds and his ability was recognized on the gridiron as well.

Since leaving his Alma Mater, Shipley has been found active in sport programs all over the state. He has also coached at Delaware University and several times been back on his old camping ground at College Park, aiding Curly Byrd in preparing his charges for battles against Johns Hopkins and St. Johns, longtime foes of the deepest sort. This fall he is on the job again at the University and his genial personality and peppery leadership elicits a willing and enthusiastic response from State's pickin' chasers.

President Ruark and members of the Player's committee, Dr. J. Heiskell Carpenter, Dr. Riall White, Dr. A. B. Burris and Mr. S. E. Gordy, probably were first drawn to Shipley because of his excellent record in Maryland's collegiate circles. The grabbing of the Blue Ridge gonfalcon by his players at Martinsburg last season quite naturally brought Shipley into the limelight and when it was found out that he would be a free agent at the conclusion of the playing schedule, local forces began to get busy.

President Ruark, who virtually had been given unlimited powers in the signing of a new manager, approached Shipley with the proposition that he come to Salisbury next year, pilot the efforts of the White Clouds toward the capturing of the Eastern Shore League championship.

Martinsburg's proud little "Napoleon of Baseball" was agreeably struck with the idea of playing ball on the Eastern Shore and eagerly favored the change of territory. Negotiations then hinged on the salary question and for a time it appeared as if some of the conservative forces present in the Salisbury Club would exercise their influence in preventing the acquisition of a playing manager at a larger figure than was paid out last year.

However when it was pointed out that expenses were more than doubled because of unsuccessful directing of the club from the manager's end, opposition dwindled. Shipley has been signed for the entire season which eliminates any possibility of outside forces conspiring to secure his release in event of reverses to the team that might occur and for which the manager might not be at fault.

In other words, the directors of the Salisbury Baseball Club believe that they have signed a man of experience in handling a ball club and one who possesses the essential qualities of leadership. It is intended that there will not be a repetition of the so-called "street corner managing."

"Burt" Shipley is known to be a lover of clean sport and in sponsoring this at Gordy Park he will be backed to the very limit by the officials of the club. Chairman J. Heiskell Carpenter of the Player's Committee is authority for the statement that play-

SPECIAL MENTION TO LOCAL WOMEN'S CLUB

Both For Largest Representation At District Convention Thursday And Work Done Last Year

Though they had to travel the longest distance, eight members of the Wicomico Women's Club won special mention for representation at the Eastern Shore Federation's convention in Elkton last Thursday.

The Salisbury delegation had more members in its party than any other club at the convention, the exception of the home and one who were making the trip were Mrs. Walter Sheppard, Mrs. Fred P. Adkins, Mrs. Alan Benjamin, Mrs. George Cobb, Mrs. Branch Phillips, Miss Elizabeth Collier and Miss Marie Ellegood.

Mrs. Hathaway, president of the Eastern Shore Federation, praised the local organization for its work last year and said that she hoped it would keep up its good record. Mrs. Martindale's excellent paper on the General Conference held last summer at Chautauque, New York, was heard with much interest by members of the assembly. She was asked to deliver it again at the meeting of the Hurlock Club.

A WARNING

A man who would not take his home paper, sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by a neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a hive of bees and in ten minutes he looked like a warty squash. His cries reaching his father who ran to his assistance, failing to note a barb wire fence, which he ran into, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy, and ruining a pair of $5 pants. The cows took advantage of the gap in the fence and the calves chewed the tails off four nightshirts. Cheaper by far to have the paper delivered.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED AT MONDAY MEETING

Members Of Local W. C. T. U. Pleased With Present Officials And Continue Them In Office

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the Elk's Home on Monday afternoon and the following officers were re-elected: President, Mrs. J. S. Taylor; Secretary, Mrs. Albert H. Silverman; Treasurer, Mrs. Alice Adkins.

The election of Superintendents for the various departments was carried over to the next meeting. The president, Mrs. Taylor, told of her attendance at the State Convention at Walkerville, October 4th, 5th and 6th, and related the earnestness and enthusiasm which characterized this gathering of Christian women.

She stated that the convention pledged its members to stand for strict enforcement of the Volstead Act. All members were urged to conduct educational campaigns in both schools and churches against race-track gambling and to do all they could to discourage the use of tobacco among the youth of today.

It was decided to hold a rummage sale on Saturday, October 14 for the purpose of securing funds for the furnishing of a room in the Hospital Annex. Quite an amount has been voluntarily subscribed towards this cause, and every member is urged to contribute something towards raising the necessary funds.

Mrs. Alton Goss was the delegate chosen at the State Convention, to represent the Tri-County Union, in Philadelphia at the National Convention which meets in that city in November.

INTENDED VICTIM OF HOLDUP SPOILS GAME

Isaac Messick Refuses To Hand Over Money To Negroes And Calls Police Who Make Two Arrests.

A peculiar hold-up was staged Sunday night at Park and Isabella streets. About 8:30 in the evening, Mr. Isaac Messick was standing in the shadow of a tree at the corner of Isabella and Division streets when he was accosted by one of two negroes.

Upon telling them to move on and go about their business, one of the men pulled out a revolver and pointing it at Mr. Messick, said, "Give me your money." This the victim refused to do whereupon the two negroes began to run down the street.

Mr. Messick rushed into a nearby house and called the City Hall for aid. One of the city's police force immediately commandeered a passing auto and was met on the scene by the intended victim of the holdup who pointed out the direction in which the negroes ran.

Upon investigation, the police officer found William Johnson hiding behind a hedge and arrested him. Later on a revolver said to belong to Ernest Robins was found near this spot and he was also taken into custody.

CONCRETE BUILDING TO GO UP ON CIRCLE AVENUE

Despite Protests Of Residential Owners Salisbury Bazaar Will Occupy Show And Sales Rooms There.

Opposed by owners of homes on Circle Ave., there will go up at once on the south side of the thoroughfare a one and a half story concrete building to accommodate the sales and show rooms of Guy E. Long.

The plan of a regular auction house, this firm now occupies the corner of Water and Baptist streets and is known as the Salisbury Bazaar.

The land was sold by Long & Johnson, attorneys-at-law, and the City Council on Monday night granted the permit which called for the erection of the building. It is understood that several residential property owners objected to the including of Circle Ave. in the business section of the city but under the assumption that this condition would inevitably members of the Council decided to grant the permit. The building will cost about $3,000.

Property Owners Of Cranberry Tracts Pave Way For City's Drainage Project

Offers Of $500 From Dr. Graham And $100 From F.A.D. Realty Company Take Care Greater Portion Estimated Cost Of Ditches And Clearing Land—City To Provide And Maintain Water Outlets—To Start Immediately.

Property owners of the Cranberry Bog paved the way for this city's compliance with recent State Board health orders by agreeing to share the expense of the drainage project as outlined by the city engineers.

Meeting together in the City Council rooms on Monday night, the owners of large tracts in the Cranberry section actually astonished the Mayor and Council with their readiness and willingness to undergo the expense involved in ridding the bog of the mosquito breeding grounds.

That the Mayor and City Council anticipated some hesitation on the part of the land-owners was evidenced by the cautiousness with which they proceeded with the proposition at the regular meeting Monday night.

As has been his policy all along, the Mayor spoke for harmony and cooperation to be the guiding elements wherever any party was concerned in the contemplated work. Such a stand is to be commended because of the fact that it is the community's welfare which is the ultimate goal toward which all forces are striving.

After several rounds of discussion between members of the council, engineers and property owners, Dr. Samuel Graham drew a laugh when, in answer to a question by the Mayor as to how he felt on the subject of paying for the work done on his 16 or 18 acres, he replied, "Very much."

It appeared that the Mayor accepted this reply to be indicative of the general attitude of the property-owners, and he immediately elicited

LOCAL LEGION POST TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS

PILCHARD AND BOUNDS CONVENTION DELEGATES

Will Represent Post 64 At New Orleans Gathering—Plans Under Way To Bring Three Counties Under Baltimore Sub-Station, Veterans' Bureau.

Legionnaires belonging to Post 64, American Legion will hold their regular monthly meeting Friday night in the legion rooms on Main street. Last month, due to the small number of members present for the meeting it was postponed.

However a large crowd is expected out at this week's assembly. One of the things that is calculated to bring out a large number is the fact that the annual elections will be held for post commander and adjutant and their executive officers.

The Wicomico Post is one of the most active posts in the state and much interest centers on the selection of its leaders. The present commander is Samuel Adkins and under his regime the affairs of the post have been successfully carried on.

There will be two local members who will attend the national convention of the American Legion which will be held in New Orleans from October 16-20. Legionnaires S. Norris Pilchard and Marcellus Bounds are the delegates from Wicomico Post 64. The former is the 40 and 8 representative with the latter as his alternate.

Extensive preparations are being made in New Orleans for the reception of the world war veterans and the convention promises to eclipse any former gathering of soldiers. Accommodations for over 100,000 are being provided and a huge parade will feature the four days of festivity.

According to a letter from Robert M. Toulson, national liaison representative of the Fourth District, American Legion, to State Commander Benouff, the matter of eliminating Somerset, Worcester and Wicomico counties from the Norfolk Sub-station office, U. S. Veterans' Bureau, is being contemplated.

In that event the local territory would be attached to the Baltimore Sub-District. Letters regarding the change have been written to the commanders of the legion posts in the three counties and also to Vice-Commander, Dr. R. R. Norris, of Crisfield. There are many objections being offered, chief of which is the fact that contact representatives from the Norfolk office have traversed the territory and know the claimants pretty well.

MOVEMENT IS LAUNCHED TUESDAY FOR SHORE BOY SCOUT COUNCIL

Representative Leaders From Seven Counties Meet In Armory.

WOULD ORGANIZE BOYS UNDER ONE EXECUTIVE

Headquarters Will Be In Salisbury—L. A. Bennett Is Vice-President And Fred Webb Treasurer Of Important Council That Plans Big Things For Shore Scouts.

Boys on the Eastern Shore are to be organized into a number of Boy Scout troops all working together in harmony and under one general council with one purpose, namely, to train the individual boy to grow up into worthwhile manhood. This is the plan of the Boy Scout Council which was formulated on Tuesday afternoon at the Armory here when a meeting was called to order of representatives from seven different counties.

This gathering consisted of leaders from the various communities who had assembled to take up the boy problem in their respective sections. All were firm believers in the vast amount of good accomplished by the Boy Scouts of America and all were eager to inaugurate a movement here on the Shore that would result in a centralization of authority that would be responsible for a huge Boy Scout Council.

After thoroughly going over the subject, the representatives from each of the following counties was heard from: Kent, Caroline, Queen Anne, Dorchester, Talbot, Somerset, Worcester, Accomac and Wicomico. It was then voted to form a first class Council which would include the above-named counties.

Officers of the new organization were elected as follows: President, John A. Noble, of Preston; Vice-President, D. A. A. Parker, of Pocomoke; Charles F. Brougham, of Easton; L. A. Bennett, of Salisbury; Treasurer, Fred Webb, of Salisbury; Scout Commissioner, C. E. Collins, of Crisfield.

The executive board will meet within a week or ten days for the purpose of electing a scout executive who will have his headquarters in Salisbury and will take charge of the scouting on the Eastern Shore.

There are from 5,000 to 8,000 boys on the Shore of Scout age, 12 to 16, and big things are expected of the movement just launched that will eventually bring practically all of these youngsters under the high class of training provided under scout regulations. The opportunity will be great for the boys in the part of the State to receive the greatest of benefits under the guidance of such a progressive program as the one outlined this afternoon.

The installation of officers means that the other route is shortly follow and in the various towns and communities special efforts will be made immediately to enlarge the personnel of each scout troop and where there is none, some capable leader will be called upon to take steps in organizing the boys and to call for a charter.

Between six and seven o'clock while the family was at dinner with their guest, Miss Riley's car was stolen from the parking space in front of the house.

No trace of the thieves could be found. Early Tuesday morning the young lady received a call from Pocomoke stating that a traveling salesman driving along the Virginia road near Bloxom had come across a car abandoned on the roadside without any papers on it. Upon investigation, he found the owner's name and address in a card case. Miss Riley left at noon for Bloxom to bring back her machine.

The musical entertainment given by local artists aided by Mrs. Baseler, noted harpist of Philadelphia, at the "Y" auditorium last Thursday evening was a great success. CAPACITY HOUSES ARE PLEASING TO MANAGER

Excellent Photo-Plays And Vaudeville Acts Put On By Mr. Insley Bring Results

Lee Insley, manager of the Arcade Theatre, is "wearing a broad smile on his face these days". The reason is, his theatre is becoming more and more popular with Salisbury movie fans every day and for the past two weeks, capacity houses have greeted each night offering of the screen spectacles.

But the people are not paying their money for nothing, they never will. Why they go to the Arcade is not a matter of conjecture. Theatre patrons like good shows and when they get what they want, they are not slow in showing it.

The vaudeville acts for the past three weeks have been full of variety and the performers, entertaining artists. This accounts for the crowded houses on the last three nights of the week. Manager Insley, if he wants to maintain these good attendance figures, should take care that he keeps his plays and acts up to the standard from now on.

On Wednesday and Thursday of this week, Charles Ray will be seen in a delightful little play, "The Deuce of Spades." On Friday and Saturday, beautiful Katherine McDonald displays some more of her gorgeous evening gowns in "The Infidel." On Monday and Tuesday comes the big feature, "Richards." "Bartholomew in Sonny" gives a character study in a heart-throbbing story that can't be beat.

SALISBURY SHIPPERS NEED TRAFFIC EXPERT

Matter Is Brought At Chamber Of Commerce Meeting—Would Be Auditor And Claim Agent

Salisbury may soon have a traffic expert stationed in the city, if the plans broached by the Transportation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting on Monday night mature. The meeting was called by the chairman of the committee, Marvin C. Evans, and was attended by a number of the largest shippers of this community.

It is believed by employing such an expert, hundreds of dollars could be saved to shippers of this section annually. The traffic man would audit all freight bills before they were paid and would also act as claim agent for the members of the Chamber should they seek to collect damages or rebates.

Another duty of this official would be to study the freight rates affecting Salisbury and the Peninsula and to try to bring order out of the chaos existing at present. According to well informed authorities, the rates on the peninsula are entirely out of line and need drastic revision. There is, it is said, neither justice nor reason in the present rates.

Study of train schedules by the traffic man would probably mean that shippers could find how they could get their products to the city markets earlier, and in case it was deemed advisable, new schedules would be worked out and taken up with the railroad authorities.

At present, the employing of such an expert appears very favorable but definite action will not be taken at once on the matter. Naturally, the work done by the expert would be as beneficial to all the communities on the Shore as it would be to Salisbury.

County Schools Are Allotted $11,300.22

Wicomico's Share State Finds For Public Education Made Known By State Comptroller

Quarterly distribution of the State public school funds was announced last week by State Comptroller William S. Ord. This county's school tax apportionment was $11,300.22 out of a total of $508,982.50 for the entire State.

The tax is based upon the census and attendance and Wicomico led the counties of the Shore in the amount received. In addition, there is yet to be allotted a similar sum for books and supplies.

PARENT-TEACHER'S MEETING

The Parent-Teacher's Association of the Delmar, Md., Elementary School held a meeting Monday evening. There was a large attendance and discussion arose regarding the plans for an assembly room.

GUEST OF ROTARIANS

At the last meeting of the Rotary Club, Dr. Fulton, State Health Officer, was among the guests and made a short talk in which he discussed some phases of the malaria situation and went into some detail concerning the plan of the city for draining marshy ground and ponds. Rotarians Hooper Miller, Francis Dryden, and C. M. Freeman also spoke on the subject.

"Burt" Shipley To Guide Destiny of Ball Club During 1923

ers who sign their names to the 1923 contracts will have it made clear to them at the outset that they sign to play ball and not to spend the evenings and nights in riotous living. The men will be expected to be in the pink of condition at all times and strict training rules will prevail.

It is not an unknown fact that Salisbury fans are clamoring for their representatives to be in the thick of the pennant race from the start to the finish next year. The White Clouds are looking forward to a very successful season. Manager Shipley, it is predicted will bring along with him some players with whose ability he is already familiar. That there will be some college stars in the lot is a certainty. Shipley believes in the worth of the higher type of man and considers him a steady force in the make-up of a smooth-working combination of diamond artists.

CHARLES R. DENNIS

Charles R. Dennis died at his home on East Vine St., last Wednesday evening following an attack on the preceding Sunday of what was first adjudged to be acute indigestion but later diagnosed as acute Bright's Disease.

The deceased was one of the city's well-known citizens and a son of the late Levin Dennis, of Pittsville District. He spent his early days on the farm and later became a guard at the Maryland House of Correction. After being engaged in the livery business in this city for several years, he became a member of the city police force.

Mr. Dennis was held in high esteem by his associates and he was a member of the M. E. Church, South. His age was 47 years and he is survived by his widow, who before her marriage was Miss Clara Shockley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shockley, of near Zion Church. Three children—Messrs. Raymond Dennis and Dallas Dennis now located in Baltimore and Mrs. Henry Mitchell, of this city; two brothers—Messrs. Lawrence Dennis and Emory Dennis, of Delmar, and one sister, Mrs. Annie Locates, of Delmar, also survive the deceased.

Funeral services were held at his late home Saturday morning at 11 o'clock and were conducted by the Rev. John Branlon Peters. Interment was made in Parson's cemetery.

WILLIAM R. RAYNE

William R. Rayne died last Wednesday after a short illness of one week. He was 69 years old. Funeral services were held at the M. P. Church on Friday at 10 o'clock. Interment was made at Mt. Pleasant, near Powellville. He is survived by his widow and several children.

Miss Gravenor was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Thomas Gravenor and was 53 years of age. She had been a great sufferer from a complication of diseases for over seven years. During these years of suffering she was faithfully ministered unto by her sisters, Miss Ida Gravenor and Mrs. English. Until last fall the two unmarried sisters resided at the old Gravenor homestead near Spring Grove but before cold weather set in they moved with their sister.

Funeral services were conducted on Thursday afternoon by the Rev. C. E. Dutton, pastor of the Spring Grove M. E. Church. Interment in the family burying ground at the old homestead. The deceased was a daughter of William R. and Mary E. Morris late citizens of this county. She was beloved by all who knew her for her kind and gentle manner towards everyone. Funeral services were held at her late home on Sunday by Elder J. C. Mollott and interment was made in the family burial grounds on the old farm near Shoemaker's Mill. Three sisters and one brother survive. They are Miss Annie Morris, Miss Ruth Morris, Mrs. J. K. Malone and Mr. Calvin D. Morris.

William Cabell Bruce

Democratic Candidate for The United States Senate and His Pledge to the People

Outstanding features of Mr. Bruce's creed as defined to the Democratic Campaign Committee were:

The general welfare above the claims of any particular class or group of American citizens.

Equal and exact rights to all men and special privileges to none.

Immunity from all unnecessary invasions of personal liberty.

Reliance for individual well-being upon individual enterprise and energy, rather than upon government patronage.

Regulation (but not ownership) of railroads and other public utilities by the State.

The strictest degree of public economy consistent with the public necessities.

The largest measure of local self-government compatible with a vigorous national authority.

An indestructible union of indestructible States.

The sane and ordered liberty of America in preference to the iron hand of European absolutism, the deceitful dreams of European socialism and the wild and blood-guilty phantasies of European or Asiatic Bolshevism.

"If I am elected to the Senate," said Mr. Bruce, "you may rest assured that my entire political conduct will be shaped by a scrupulous measure of respect for these vital working principles."

THURSDAY, : : : OCTOBER 12, 1922.

DEFEAT INCREASED REPRESENTATION.

So essentially deep-seated is the opposition of the counties to greater representation for Baltimore City in the General Assembly that there is hardly a ripple on the surface. It can hardly be said that there is any organized opposition, for the voters of the counties are so adverse to allowing Baltimore City to have more delegates in the legislature that organization is almost useless.

The only way in which the amendment providing for increased representation can be passed, according to many of the influential citizens of this county, is by the failure of the voters to cast their ballots on election day. It is safe to assume, they believe, that almost every voter in the counties will decide against the amendment if he goes to the polls. Since a strong effort will be made to have all voters come out on November 7, there is every likelihood that the amendment will be voted down overwhelmingly outside of Baltimore City.

And there is good reason for the inherent attitude of the people of the counties of Maryland. Hundreds of years ago a man sold his birthright for a mess of pottage. He suffered from the loss, just as his descendants since him have suffered, just as they will suffer through all time. This man made a "trade" which was temporarily to his advantage, but soon proved to be to his utter loss.

So it is with the counties. If they should vote for increased representation for Baltimore City, they will lose their birthright and in return will get not even the mess of pottage. Baltimore City can give us nothing that will ever repay us for placing the balance of power of the State in her hands. Every sane, every thinking voter must realize this fact.

On the other hand, if Baltimore City should gain more representatives in the General Assembly, the inevitable outcome will be that in the future whenever the counties want anything, no matter how important, no matter how unessential, they will have to "trade" with the Baltimore City delegation. If increased representation is given the city now, the counties will, forever, lose their power in the affairs of the State. The Counties cannot afford to do this, and we are confident that they will not.

If you hold the power of the counties sacred, vote against this amendment on Tuesday, November seventh!

GERMANY LOST ONLY THE WAR.

Truly America is nothing if not magnificent. Germany can attest to that. While no country in the world is carrying more than 5,000,000,000 of worthless paper marks, the United States is the proud possessor of German paper currency to the extent of 80,000,000,000 marks, bought at an average price of $12 per thousand. Today German marks are selling at 70 cents a thousand.

Translated into American currency America has invested $960,000,000 in German money since the armistice and the investment today is worth only $56,000,000. The loss therefore rests at $904,000,000, with a strong possibility that it will increase.

Disclosures show that America has given to Germany since the end of the war more than twice the amount of gold the German government has paid in war indemnities to the entire combination of the allies up to date.

Surely greed, and the desire to get something for nothing has led the country into dangerous paths. The best country America gets out of the situation is a laugh, because indirectly the whole nation will suffer from the Saturnalia of speculation that has led down the lane of folly.

However, our big city brothers undoubtedly will hesitate before smiling again when the simple, unsuspecting countryman falls a victim to the astute gold brick swindler of the city. Germany has unloaded on the city slickers the most gigantic financial in ignis fatuus in the history of the ages. The Mississippi Bubble is a piker's game compared with it. Such national idiocy, like the wisdom of the Lord, passeth all understanding. Truly can it be said that Germany has lost nothing but the war.

Facts at hand show that the absorption of this printing phantom currency has been brought about chiefly by American citizens of German origin, which serves only to show that "sympathetic interest" in the fatherland did not end with the laying down of arms. But to this has been added greed for gold on the part of city leeches of undoubted American origin and it has created a situation that is deplorable both from a moral and financial standpoint.

Richard Lloyd Jones

HOW TO PLAY THE GAME.

In the closing game of a minor league two teams were contesting for the pennant. The bleachers were crowded with rival fans. The score was 5 to 4. The team at bat was four. The last half of the 9th inning was in play. There were two out, three men on bases, their best batter up.

He found the ball and sent it far afield. The race of the bases started. The left fielder ran desperately to get the ball. He met it in the tall grass close to the fur fence as the batter was on his way home, the three base runners before him.

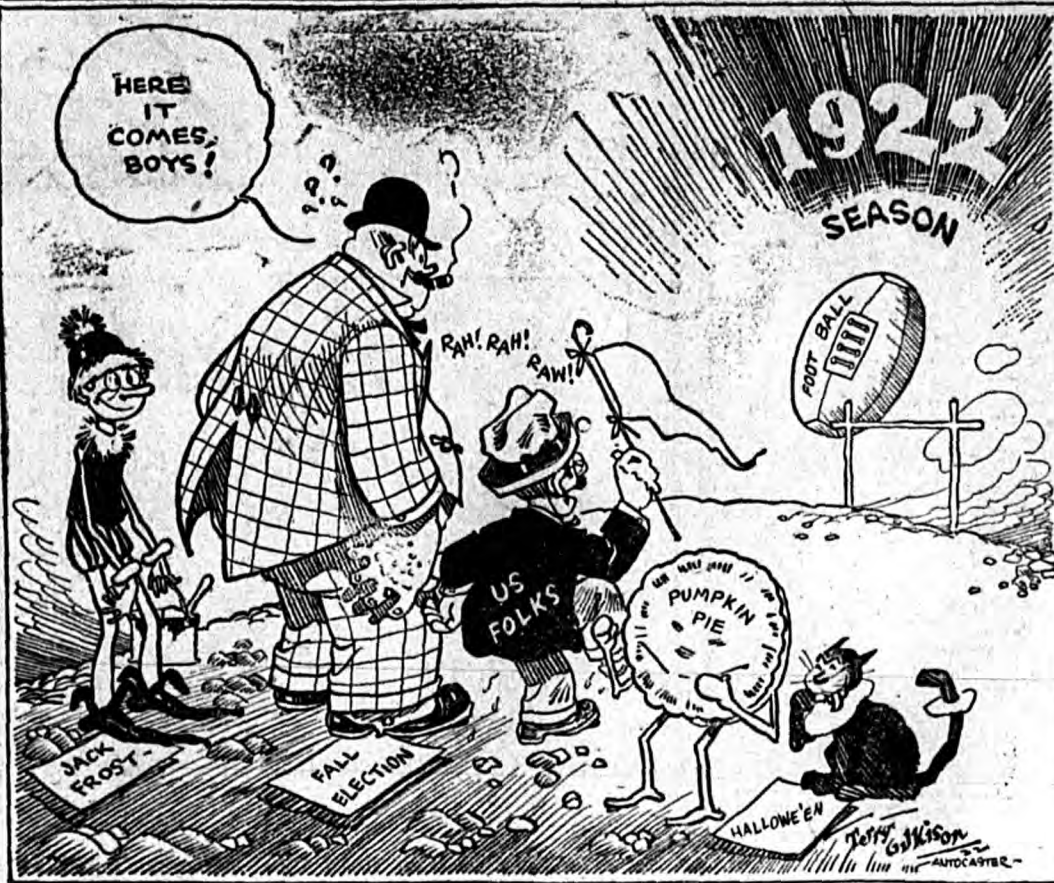

Into the tall grass the ball and the fielder fell. The grandstand rose; a hush held them. "Did he catch it?" was the thought on thousands of tongues. Out from the tall grass into which he had stumbled the fielder rose, holding high the ball. A mighty cheer arose. The four runners had touched home plate without a score. The fielder who held the ball had given his team the pennant. The cheers continued, wave after wave of cheers, until the fielder lowered his hand that held the ball and raised the other hand in protest, dropped his head with humiliation and shook it "no."

At once the thousand eyes upon him read the sign. The ball fell to earth, not into his hands. In his race in the high grass he had stumbled where instantly he could put his hands upon it. No one but himself and his God saw it.

One never-to-be-detected falsehood would give his team the victory for which through all the long hot summer they had battled. Temptation spurred him but in the nobler second thought, conscience triumphed and HE PLAYED THE GAME ON THE SQUARE.

Victory was turned into defeat. But only for the moment. The hush that came over the grandstand, as they comprehended the act, first broke into cheers for the real winners, and then, the finer consciousness and the true sportsmanship that the player, had expressed possessed his disappointed rooters. They found that VICTORY was not wrapped up in the pennant. The pennant at best was but a rag of a thing. The real victory was in playing the game on the square. And both the contending fans broke out in a cheer such as few diamond heroes have ever heard.

The fielder came in, and as he came his head lifted from its depressed pose and he faced the throng.—THEIR HERO.

The great American game is a builder of men. It is not the exhibition games that count the most. It is the game that is staged in the school ground and in the vacant lot that serves us best. The real game is played on the diamond that is not enriched by banner-bearing bleachers. The real game is played not on fields where all eyes may see. The real game is played in the far out field, in the uncut grass where ball and player meet unseen.

He who can find victory there has learned the lesson of life that the great American game has to teach. He is the player who is a MAN.

"PRICELESS MERCHANT"—THE FARMER'S REAL NAME.

By Thomas White, Jr.

In my mind, "priceless merchant" is a good name for us. We produce and deliver without price.

Everything we buy, farm implements, fertilizer, crates, boxes, barrels, is sold to us at a fixed price. We pay a fixed price for labor. For the things that we grow with the things we pay a fixed price for, we take what we can get. The price on our produce is not fixed, but we are.

For instance: I shipped 15 bushels of apples in hampers to a large city. The hampers cost $1.80. Two men who did the picking worked four hours each. Then there was the haul to the depot. In return, I got a check for $1.06 for 15 bushels of apples at 7 cents a bushel, although it cost me $2.40 to prepare them for market.

I took 50 hampers of No. 1 Irish Cabbler potatoes to Washington and had a difficult time selling them at 50 cents a hamper, after deducting one-third the freight on them. Stopping in the residential section, I found housewives paying 8 cents a pound for potatoes, or $4.80 a bushel.

It appears to the man in the city, to the consumer, that the farmer is getting rich. As a matter of fact, he cannot make expenses. I call him the "priceless merchant" because he has no price. If by hard work and study, aided by kind nature, the farmer secures a big crop, the chances are ten to one that there is no market for his products.

When you mention these conditions to the average man, he says, "You can't do any better because the law of supply and demand rules the market." Why is this law not universally applicable? Everything but farm products has a fixed price. A farmer goes to a grocery store carrying with him a basket of eggs. He pays a fixed price for everything he buys, canned goods, coffee, soap, and in return he hands his eggs over to the groceryman with the inquiry, "What will you give me for my eggs?"

That is another reason I call him the "Priceless Merchant."

Take another instance. The butcher comes down on the farm to buy a calf, a steer, or a pig. The first question the farmer asks is, "What will you give me?"

"Five or six cents a pound," replies the butcher.

The next day the farmer goes to town and buys some beef or pork at the price fixed by the butcher. Do the butchers say, "What will you give me for my beef today?" No, because that beef has a fixed price. Just as soon as farm products leave the farmer's hands, a fixed price is put on them.

Now, will you kindly tell me why we can't fix a price on a few articles just as do the other producers or manufacturers. These take the cost of production, add a few incidentals, put on a goodly percentage for profit, and in this way fix the selling price.

Take our sweet potato crop today. We, the "priceless merchants," will lose from $75 to $100 an acre on our crop. It will cost from $200 to $225 to grow an acre of potatoes. At 250 hampers per acre, selling for 50 cents per hamper, the crop will bring you $125, leaving you with a dead loss of the amount I have mentioned.

It is certainly a fact that, while we can stand a few of these things some of the time, we can't stand them always. Something must be done about farming. We are not kicking about 50 cent potatoes; I would like to see them 25 cents, so long as the things bought to produce them were on an equal basis, but the other things remain high. Hardware and farming implements are going up; everything we have for sale is going down.

Consider labor: carpenters and masons, men of trades, get 50 cents to $1.00 an hour. Farm labor is just as hard if not actually harder, yet we don't average 5 cents an hour. May the public have a heart. Don't drive the farmer off the farm. Let him remain and feed the world, and for so doing, let him at least break even and lay away a few pennies for a rainy day.

EDITORS NOTE—We are glad to be able to get one farmer's view at first hand. If others of our readers have similar experiences to relate, we shall be delighted to hear from them.

No wonder people hate the wolf in sheep's clothing. Everybody else has to wear cotton mixtures.

CLUB WOMEN GATHER AT ELKTON IN CONVENTION

Successful Assembly Of Eastern Shore Federation—Salisbury Gets 1923 Convention In April

All roads led to Elkton on October 5th, the large gathering of earnest club women who journeyed there that day assured the success of the semi-annual conventions for future times. Mrs. Robert C. Lewis, President of the Women's Club of Elkton, welcomed all most heartily and with a dress of this type looks well made up in dark blue serge, brown duvetyn or twill. A heavy canton crepe is also appropriate.

A touch of individuality is added by an embroidery design upon sleeves and skirt. This design should be of rather a large figure and may be worked in bright colors of worsted or silk. The above style is a McCall Pattern 2760.

Mrs. Daniel Miller, of Baltimore, related much about Federation Headquarters at Washington. Dr. J. Richard Bolt, of Washington, D. C., addressed the convention upon Child Welfare giving it facts in a concise and forceful manner. Then Mrs. Alfonso Boley, of Royal Oak, district Chairman of Public Welfare followed Dr. Bolt's remarks upon the subject with her own interesting views and in confidence told of her dreams of the future of this great work.

Mrs. Branch of the Pittsburgh Carnegie Institute of Fine Arts held her audience while she talked for library extension in a fascinating manner. Mrs. E. S. Newell delighted all as she too told of what books should and did mean to the people of the earth for "good books to read are good friends indeed."

Mrs. T. C. Martindale, of Salisbury, the only club woman on the Eastern Shore to go as a delegate to the National Convention at Chautauque, N. Y., read a classical report of that wonderful convention. Luncheon was served at the Howard House, and a most enjoyable feast it was, made doubly so by the cordial addresses of Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. A. J. Jones, Vice-president of the Maryland Federation. Then the charming personality of Mrs. John W. Garrett, Chairman of Fine Arts of the Maryland Federation, asserted itself when she told of her desires along the lines of musical work for her department and we hope they will work out for the great benefit of the Eastern Shore.

Mrs. Lewis R. Dick, of Philadelphia, made the assembly acquainted with Vashael Lindsay and after her reading from his poems, the audience was ready to agree also that he is nearly our greatest American poet. A farewell by Mrs. Hathway brought the second convention also to the end of a perfect day perfectly spent with the Women's Club of Elkton. Upon the cordial invitation of Mrs. Walter Sheppard, President of the Wicomico Woman's Club the convention adjourned to meet in Salisbury next April.

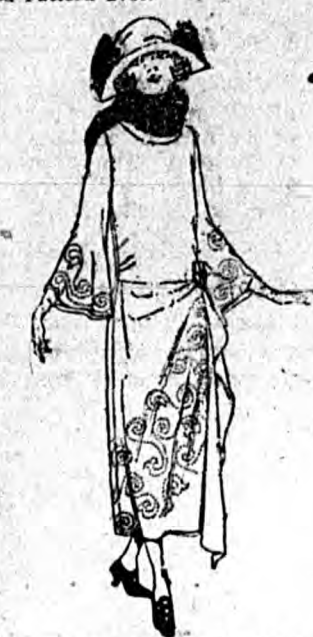

Fashiongrams From Paris

Here is the most indispensable of all dresses—the one piece street frock. Gathered up on the side and caught with an ornament or buckle. One of its greatest charms is its long straight front with a few draped lines directly below the waist.

A dress of this type looks well made up in dark blue serge, brown duvetyn or twill. A heavy canton crepe is also appropriate.

A touch of individuality is added by an embroidery design upon sleeves and skirt. This design should be of rather a large figure and may be worked in bright colors of worsted or silk.

LEE JUSTICE TO "PEN"

Sheriff Farlowe on Sunday morning took Lee Justice to Baltimore for incarceration at the Maryland Penitentiary to which institution he was sentenced last week. The Sheriff also carried up Milton Parker, 14 years old, who is to receive training at the Maryland School for Boys under a commitment by Judge Bailey.

STATE POLICE FORCE HERE NEEDS OFFICERS

Corporal Reid In Charge Local Sub-Station Only One Of Six Men Available For Duty.

For some time the local state police sub-station has been lacking in personnel. Corporal W. C. Reid, who is the officer in charge, has been without the service of any subordinates during the past month.

The local force is crippled because of the six men assigned to duty here, two are being carried on the casualty list because of accidents, two are on leave and one is on special assignment, leaving Corporal Reid on 24 hour duty at the substation.

Corporal Reid, although burdened with the extra tasks, is maintaining a very efficient substation, and answers important calls immediately by going out on the road and making the necessary investigations. It is expected that with the passing of recent examinations and tests by a score or more candidates, that the full quota (8) of officers on duty here will soon be secured.

DRINKS TWO GLASSES CIDER HITS MACHINE

Goldboro Autoist Fined $105 And Costs For Driving Under Influence of Liquor Causing Accident.

Because he drank two or three glasses of cider somewhere out in the country on Sunday afternoon and then drove into Salisbury, John W. Shewbrook, of Goldboro, Md., on Monday morning in Magistrate Jones' police court faced the traffic charge of failing to give the right of way, thereby causing an accident, and of driving under the influence of liquor. On the first count, he was fined $5.00 and costs and on the second count, $100 and costs.

Shewbrook was driving south on Locust street Sunday afternoon and was making a turn into Newton street at a high speed, when his large car, just purchased the day before, crashed into a Ford touring car, driven by Mr. E. Grant Ingersoll, badly damaging it. The occupants of the smaller car, Mrs. Rose Bannister and little child, were bruised and shaken up considerably. Corporal W. C. Reid, of the State Police and Office Cahall of the city police made the arrest.

In the larger machine were: Annie Steel, Ernest Steel, Thomas Steel and Hattie Hudson. They were not injured. Both Officer Reid, of the local state police sub-station and witnesses declared that Shewbrook failed to give the right of way and that after the accident, he appeared to be so intoxicated that he "would not listen to reason." On Sunday afternoon Judge Jones gave Mr. Shewbrook a hearing, but his manner in the court room amounted to contempt of court, and Justice Jones ordered him to jail, where he spent the night.

When questioned by the Judge whether or not he was under the influence of liquor, Shewbrook replied that he did not think he was "drunk" because he had only had two or three glasses of cider out in the country. He paid his fines with a check, after the magistrate had called up the Goldboro Bank for endorsement.

Sheriff Farlow acting on instructions from Mr. A. M. Jackson, representing Mr. Ingersoll, then served summons of distraint on Mr. Shewbrook holding his car for payment of damage to the Ford car. This matter was arranged by the principals and Mr. Jackson, and Mr. Shewbrook's car released.

DEVELOPMENT OF AUTO GENERATOR IS MARKED

Successful Regulation by "Third Brush" Type Provides Definite Charging Rate in All Speeds.

The first generators made for supplying electric current to the storage batteries on automobiles, were adaptations from the generators used at that time on Pullman cars which were belted to an axle on one of the trucks and supplied current to the car lighting batteries. They suggested the line of development for a satisfactory battery to keep the automobile storage battery charged by use of power from the car's own engine.

The first generators produced for automobile battery charging were developed by the Willard Storage Battery Company and proved very successful from the start. They were made to attach to various places on the frame of the car and were driven either by a "friction drive" wheel, silent chain or a V-shaped belt.

One of the earliest problems in connection with automobile lighting work, was the need of some form of regulator to hold the generator to some definite charging rate through all the speeds at which the car might be driven. This was necessary to avoid the dangers of undercharging and overcharging while running at slow or high speeds respectively.

In cooperation with several well-known engineers, Mr. T. A. Willard, president of the Willard Storage Battery Company devised a method to control the charging rate of such generators that has been generally accepted by most manufacturers of such equipment. The common "third brush" type of regulation was the result of the work of these men and has been used successfully ever since.

MONEY HIDDEN IN ODD PLACES FOR SAVINGS

Oldtime Gypsies Have Little Use For Banks, Preferring To Stow Away Their Hoards

Among their other queer ways, many gypsies have a magpie fashion of hiding money. Some of the younger men and women use saving banks, but the older members of the tribe still prefer to keep their wealth in quaint hiding places.

A short time ago it came out in an English police court that a gypsy had lost $5,000 from his basket in which his wares were carried. Themoney, largely in gold, had been kept tucked away under the small articles that its owners offered for sale. Doubtless he thought that no one would dream of looking for it in such a place.

On the death of Mary Anne Doe, the gypsy queen, her relations prepared to burn her cart, according to the usual custom. It had been broken up, and was just about to be fired, when sharp eyes detected the gleam of gold between two lengths of board that were nailed together. No fewer than forty sovereigns were found concealed in this strange hiding hole. Other queer "banks" are the linings of hats and coats, and hollow heels of boots, which are used for hoarding notes. Even the stuffing of the horses' harness has sometimes been used as a hiding place for gold and paper money.

will do much to clear up the others. While these losses are much less than those experienced a few years ago, they are yet far too large and add much to the discouragement of farming.

To correct this condition does not mean the expenditure of large sums of money nor does it demand long and serious conferences. However, it does necessitate constant care and cooperation with the authorities on the part of those engaged in raising hogs.

Without the germ you cannot have hog cholera. Remember then that Mr. Hog Cholera Germ has neither arms, wings or legs, nor does it own an auto or aeroplane. This being the case, if it reaches your hogs it must be carried to them.

Observe the following advice and help save that $350,000 for Maryland farmers.

Do not feed your hogs any product that might contain any bones, rinds or scraps of pork.

Do not permit any hogs to be brought to your place unless you are positive that they come from premises where there is no hog cholera infection.

If your hogs show signs of sickness do not allow them to all your veterinarian at once. If your veterinarian is not available notify your County Agent, or the U. S. Specialists in your district.

Promptly burn or bury the carcass of any animal of fowl that dies on your premises.

WOULD GO FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE

Donoho Wishes He Could Tell Every-body What a Blessing Tan-lac Was To Him

"Tanlac" has made me gain seven pounds and has been such a blessing to me I wish it was so I could go from house to house telling everybody about it," declared Harry J. Donoho, 239 Collington St., Baltimore, Md., brewer for the Globe Brewing Co.

"Three years ago the 'flu' kept me in bed three weeks and it was altogether six weeks before I could go back to work. Even then I could hardly do a thing and had to go home many a time before the day was over. My stomach was so badly out of order, and what I ate disagreed with me so terribly, I was in constant pains which nearly drew me double. My appetite left me and I got to be almost skin and bones. I suffered all the time with constipation and had the most fearful headaches and dizzy spells, and my nerves were on edge.

"I was actually astonished at what Tanlac did for me. In three days I was feeling better than I had in years. Now I have a ravenous appetite, my stomach never bothers me and all my other troubles have disappeared too. I never lose an opportunity to recommend Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. Advt. 800.

INTEREST KEEN FOR COMMUNITY FAIR EXHIBITS

Farmers Are Busy Collecting And Listing Their Displays So That Committee Expects Big Showing at Armory On November 15th—Educational Lectures Among Features.

Wicomico Pomona Grange plans several features for the Community Fair and Poultry Show which will be opened up in the Armory on November 15th and continue for three days. The affair has gradually increased in size from a small exhibit to an event that draws many people through the doors of the Armory to see all of the various displays.

All indications at present point to the fact that this year's fair will eclipse the previous ones. Farmers in the county are taking an exceptional amount of interest in the collection and classification of exhibits. Members of the fair committee in making their tours have found the exhibitors everywhere imbued with the greatest of enthusiasm for the proposed indoor show.

A booklet showing the many classes of exhibits together with entry blanks are now being distributed throughout the county for the use of those who anticipate listing agricultural, or household products, fancy work, school exhibits and poultry. Cash prizes amounting to hundreds of dollars are offered for the first, second and third choice in each class.

All articles for exhibition must be in place at the Armory by 5 o'clock P. M., Tuesday, November 14th. Exhibitors must see to the delivery of their articles at the Armory and take charge of them at the close of the exhibition. No exhibitor will be allowed to remove any article from the building until after the close of the fair. Every article, entered for competition, must have been grown on the exhibitor's premises or be the sole product of the exhibitor. If more than one exhibit of a kind is made from one farm they should be grown and cared for by the person exhibiting them, and not selected from the same plot.

An additional educational feature of the fair this year will be instructive lectures each afternoon and evening. These lectures will be given on growing of grain, the dairy, poultry and home demonstration work. For this feature of the program the committee has secured the services of F. W. Aldenburgh, Extension Agronomist; J. A. Conover, Extension Dairyman; H. W. Ricky, former extension poultryman; Miss Bertha Knight, Home Demonstration work.

Applications for entries in any department of poultry should be made to W. Lee Allen, secretary of the fair, and applications for poultry exhibits to William H. Collier, secretary of the Poultry Show.

Judges who will make the awards for the various exhibits have been named as follows: Miss Venia Keller, Miss Adice Jones, and Mrs. Marian C. Belle, of College Park; Mr. W. B. Pitts, Eastern Shore of Virginia Produce Exchange, Onley, Va.; Mr. E. L. Oswald, Snow Hill; Mr. C. Z. Keller, Princess Anne; Mr. R. B. Waite, College Park.

Perdue Auto Company Secures Ford Agency

Contracts Received Tuesday—Firm Plans Up-To-Date Service Station With Expert Mechanics

The new Ford agency in Salisbury is the D. W. Perdue Auto Company. Contracts were received by this firm on Tuesday to support this announcement. The Riverside Motor Company will no longer handle the sales of the Ford cars in this community.

With the securing of the Ford Agency for Salisbury, the D. W. Perdue Company plans to install an up-to-date service station with expert mechanics in charge. A large stock of Ford parts will also be carried by the new agents who plan to maintain an efficient and co-operative establishment for the benefit of their patrons. Additional salesmen are to be acquired to solicit new orders.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS GET QUARTERLY REPORT

Treasurer Dennis Congratulated For Figures Showing Balance Of $42,871.70 For Last Quarter.

The County Commissioners met on Tuesday and accepted the report of County Treasurer Harry Dennis for the quarter ending on September 30th. The Treasurer was congratulated for the successful report rendered which showed the total receipts to be $213,662.36 as against expenditures totaling $170,790.66. This left a balance of $42,871.70.

The new assessment is being rapidly pushed and some definite figures may be expected within a few weeks. The indications are that the total assessment of the county will not be appreciably increased by the new assessment.

The assessors are making every effort to arrive at a fair valuation but their work is handicapped by the fact that present market values are uncertain. Farmers are likely to suffer if a high assessment with corresponding high taxes is made. For their receipts on produce grown have been very low.

OPENS NEW STORE

Mr. Joseph Ulman has just opened an attractive store near the bridge on Camden avenue where he will sell cigars, cigarettes, fruits, candy, and papers. Mr. Ulman says that he will be glad to have his friends, of whom he has many, call upon him in his new quarters where they will be assured of a hearty welcome.

ASBURY SUNDAY SCHOOL ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Mr. George P. Chandler Unanimously Chosen As Superintendent For Coming Year

The annual election of Sunday School officers and teachers of the Asbury Church took place on Monday evening. Mr. George P. Chandler was unanimously elected to the chair of Superintendent. Mr. Arthur Everett Williams was chosen as Assistant Superintendent and Mr. J. Williams, Associate Superintendent.

As Superintendents of the various departments the following were elected: Beginners, Mr. J. A. V. Thoroughgood; Primary, Mrs. T. E. Martin; Junior, Mrs. J. S. Taylor; Intermediate, Mrs. George R. Hitch; Adult, Mrs. J. E. Adkins.

45 teachers were regularly elected and assigned to classes. Dr. Herson will install the new officers at the morning services next Sunday. With such a personnel in charge of the Sunday School work at the Asbury Church, all indications point to a banner year and the high calibre of the newly elected leaders is expected to arouse a deep response on the part of all who come directly or indirectly under their influence.

Salisbury Women Reflect County-Wide Sentiment In Balking At Long Skirts

Fashion's Tyranny And Folly In Fall Styles Assailed From All Sectors With Flappers And Athletic Girls Leading The Fight—Heads Of Local Women's Shops Give Views.

Tyrannical fashion from her Paris stronghold has broadcast the edict that long skirts for women shall be the style this fall and winter. Whence the country over, have let out a doleful wailing and protesting upon this folly of fashion.

In New York City, 300 clubwomen led by Mrs. A. M. Palmer heard the decree, shook their heads and began to cry. "Why should we wear long skirts?" they cried out in unison. "We won't!" Whereupon hundreds of other sisters took up the battle cry of freedom against fashion's arbitrary ultimatum.

Mrs. Palmer is president of the Rainy Day Club and for 26 years has been waging a fight for short skirts. She is now white-headed again, marching forth to put panic into Paris. Comfort, health and beauty are strong arguments in her repertoire as she casts reflections upon the binding tendencies of the long dresses and their unsanitary risks—sweeping hem that place the woman on the streets in a class with the "white-wings" and their duties in the street cleaning department.

Detrimental to the health of the girls is one of the severest accusations brought against the latest fashion on the ground that it puts the candle snuffer of condemnation upon the popular short skirts.

Why should the feminine knee be viewed as a place of exhibit rather than one of joints is a pertinent question put forth. Along with it is heard another query: "Why should hosiery only be displayed on the clothes line?"

Flappers are viewing with no small degree of anxiety their bobbed hair, which will be hopelessly at variance with the lengthy panels. Athletic girls who have been engaging in the various sports of tennis and golf and others, unhampered by trailing yards of cloth, are in despair and discuss ruefully the calamity which has come upon them and resolve to put off the evil day as long as possible.

Maryland women are aching to chant the sea-salt stanzas for the famous "Maryland My Maryland" in hopes that their forces might be marshaled by the appeal of the lines that tell of the despot's heel being upon the shores.

Not without protest will the long skirt become the new fashion for the women of Salisbury. Although no organized combat forces have been formed in this sector, still individual units are making a valiant fight. And out of the smoke of battle comes the one glaring report and that is, although local elements have been grounded they have not accepted the full demands of Dictatorship Fashion.

Conferences with the heads of the leading women's shops in Salisbury have disclosed the reluctance of the females in Wicomico county to go to the extreme in lengthening their skirts. The short ones are nasse but it is to the medium length skirt, 7 to 10 inches above the ground, that the change has been made.

Mr. Benjamin, of Benjamin's, stated that in his opinion the women folk in this community were not taking very kindly to the new fashions and although the dresses might be lowered two or three inches, practically none would be allowed to touch the ankles. "Suit and sport dresses are very little longer but the afternoon and evening gowns are being accepted with more conformity to the prevailing styles," he said.

This contention was supported by Miss Brewington, in charge of Kennerly & Mitchell's new ladies' department, who was of the belief that the medium length dress would be the most popular. Mrs. Bradley, who is head of the ladies' department at R. E. Powell & Company, affirmed the statement that Salisbury women were not adopting the lengthened hems. Interesting to note is her assertion, "that those who wore them the shortest up to this time will be the very ones to wear them the longest now."

Miss Cora Wimbrow who is responsible for the outfitting of women customers at Shockley's, agreed with the views expressed by the other experts and added that even the flappers are letting 'em down about three inches and that she expected the average length from the foot to be about eight inches.

Mrs. Ethel Miller, experienced buyer and dress-fitter at Nock Bros., thinks that if Salisbury women ever come to wearing long dresses it will only be by a slow and gradual process of evolution. She cited instances where patrons would examine garments and exclaim "Well, I don't care what other people wear, I'm not going to wear mine long." So, it shall not be done, for when a woman declares herself in such a tone, then neither heaven nor earth is going to effect a change.

In the meantime, the men are "sitting tight." "Their's not to reason why, for to object, would be to die." Ever since Eve told Adam in plain words that she intended to wear a fig leaf, it has been sort of understood that man would have no other alternative but to accept the mode of women's dress. Of course, husbands may kick strenuously against milady's extravagant tastes but in the end what does it all amount to. If she is a good diplomat, and most women are abundantly endowed with the requisite of tact, the result is always the same, it's inevitable. She gets what she wants, there's nothing else to it.

More Labor Trouble—"What's the excitement next door?" Some bill collectors are quarreling over their seniority rights.

"A grocer's representative who has been after the Gaiders for six months claims that he was shoved aside by a laundryman with a bill less than two weeks old."

LINEN CLOSETS NEED TO BE ACME OF CONVENIENCE

To closet the household linens of the moderately sized home one main closet is essential. By using this as a base of supplies with dependent closets in each bathroom to take care of the daily demand for towels, and a series of drawers or inclosed shelving convenient to or in the dining room to supply table linen, many useless steps will be avoided and the linen kept in much better and less crowded condition. A well-ordered linen closet with its geometric rows of white linens instantly bespeaks good housewifery.

A satisfactory type for the principal linen closet, which in general is most conveniently located in the second-story hall and within easy reach of the various bedrooms, is wide but shallow. The depth need not exceed 30 inches, divided into upper and lower compartments, each provided with a pair of tightly fitting doors. A sliding counterpane is located at a convenient height to form, when extended a working shelf on which the linens may be sorted. The upper compartment is equipped with shelves set at least 12 inches apart and provided with high backs and with sides tapering to the width of a narrow strip which runs across the front of the shelf to hold the piles of linen in place. Shelves open at the front permit the linen to be quickly inspected. To further facilitate the handling of linens these shelves are constructed to slide forward by means of hardwood strips working in channels grooved along the sides of the shelves. The top-most shelf, because less accessible, is fixed in place and reserved for out-of-season and rarely used linens.

One side of the lower compartment is given over to the clothes hamper, or the plan of the house allows an ideal arrangement can be made by starting the clothes chute from the floor to this cupboard. In either case, the floor of the entire lower compartment should be raised a few inches above the main floor level to insure cleanliness. Drawers and additional shelves are provided on the opposite side for blankets, curtains and the keeping of odds and ends of linen.

A very narrow space is required for the bathroom closet, the minimum dimensions which will accommodate the average towel being approximately 10 inches wide by 20 inches deep. The often unused space at the end of the built-in bathtub lends itself excellently to the requirements of a small linen closet. Beneath a series of stationary shelves is a drawer for sponges and brushes, and underneath, more shelving for a supply of cleaning fluids, powders, soaps and for storage of the usual overflow from the medicine cabinets.

A practical suggestion for the keeping of table linens and at the same time one that would enhance the attractiveness of the dining room is the combining of the linen shelving with a recessed china cabinet, the lower portion of which would be a series of drawers or shelves similar in construction to those of the main closet, and inclosed behind wood paneled doors. A drawer at the bottom serves to protect the small dishes and the centerpieces rolled on tubes. If space permits it is advisable to lay the centerpieces flat.

The supply of service linen can be adequately taken care of by means of a few drawers incorporated in the built-in kitchen or pantry dresser.

How a Baltimore Girl Recovered Her Health

Baltimore, Maryland.—"For several months I suffered with severe backache and general weakness. I could not sleep comfortably at night for pains in my back. I found your book at home one day and after reading it began at once to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very good results and some of my girl friends are taking it now. You may see this letter to help other girls. It was in your book helped me."—ROSE WADNER, 3013 Roseland Place, Baltimore, Md.

That is the thought so often expressed in letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. These women know what they have suffered, they describe their symptoms and state how they were finally made well. Just plain statements, but they want other women to be helped.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine made from medicinal roots and herbs, and without drugs, to relieve the sickness women so often have, which is indicated by backache, weak feelings, nervousness, and no ambition to get anything done or to go anywhere. It has helped many women. Why not try it?

BEST COOKIE RECIPE SELECTED OUT OF 400

America's Banner Cookie For Disabled Soldiers Is Oatmeal Product of Illinois Kitchen

America's best cookie for disabled soldiers has been chosen from the 400 recipes which have been pouring into National Headquarters of the American Legion Auxiliary the last two months. Mrs. Frederick Gehlman of Springfield, Ill., stands sponsor for it.

The national cookie recipe was chosen after weeks of conscientious sifting of and experimenting with the hundreds of recipes which were entered. Mrs. Lina R. Marks, an Indianapolis woman recognized as a Domestic Science expert, made the original choice of fifty recipes which she considered the best ones for the purpose. Many of these she tested herself before turning them over to her "flour" class, who made the final decisions from among the recipes they used in baking.

The Marks Modern Kitchen at 3311 North New Jersey street, Indianapolis, was turned into an experimental laboratory and final tests were made there. It was no easy task that these women faced, for Mrs. Marks says without reserve that every receipt sent in was first-class and received serious consideration.

Mrs. Gehlman's banner cookie is of the favored oatmeal variety and was chosen as being best adapted for convalescent boys because it has a small fat content and contains at the same time much food value in the oats and raisins. Here it is:

2 cups sugar, 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 3 cups rolled oats (ground), 1 cup lard or butter, 1 cup sour milk, 1 egg (beaten), 1 cup raisins (cut with scissor).
Process: Flour the raisins. Cream the fat in a mixing bowl, adding the sugar gradually while creaming. Add the well beaten egg, then the milk, then the dry ingredients after sifting them together, then the oats, and lastly the floured raisins. Using a teaspoon, put onto a greased and floured baking sheet. Put into a fairly hot oven (350 degrees) and leave 10 to 15 minutes.

As an alternate to the oatmeal cookie for the disabled soldiers, Mrs. Marks selected one recipe which she considers best for general use. It contains a larger percentage of fat and is therefore less well adapted to persons who are not in good health. It was sent by Mrs. A. O. Wiggins, 11 Thomas Apartments, Lima, Ohio, and its most distinctive feature is that it contains no milk.

1 cup brown sugar, 2 cups rolled oats, 2 cups flour, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 cup lard, 1/2 cup chopped raisins, 2 eggs (beaten).
Second honors in cookies for the disabled boys go to Mrs. Mary B. Snodgrass, of Highland Park, Michigan. Mrs. Marks made big "Orange Cookies" by her recipe and the class made like ones. They turned out beautifully in all sizes and the vote gave Mrs. Snodgrass second ranking without rival. This is the way her favorites are made:

1 cup sugar, 2 1/2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 cup butter, 1/2 cup orange juice, 1 orange rind (grated), 1 egg (beaten).

Process: Cream the butter with a wooden spoon, adding the sugar gradually. Add the egg, then the orange juice and rind, then the flour slowly, and baking powder lastly. Chill in a refrigerator for one-half hour or longer. Take onto a floured board, knead a little, roll out, dip in sugar, and bake for 10 to 15 minutes. Let stand a few minutes after taking from the oven, then lift with a spatula onto a plate.

Keeping in mind the limited diet prescribed for disabled men, the judges selected a "Cream Cookie" with small fat content as third-ranking. Miss Mary E. Robinson, 700 Pleasant Street, Walla Walla, Washington, is the owner of this recipe.

1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon grated nutmeg. Flour to knead dough 1 cup sour cream, 1 egg.

Process: Beat together cream, sugar and egg. Add soda (dissolved in tablespoon of cold water) and flour to make dough almost stiff enough to roll. Add baking powder to remaining flour and sift in, roll thin, sprinkle well with granulated sugar, cut and bake in moderately hot oven.

Not: Sweet cream may be used if baking powder is substituted for soda. Mrs. Charles H. Wright, of Fort Snelling, Minnesota, sent in a recipe for a cream cookie which Mrs. Marks would recommend for general use outside hospitals. She calls it "Mothers Own", implying that it is one of the valuable heirloom recipes.

1 cup granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt. Flour to knead dough, 1/2 cup butter, 2 eggs (beaten), 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 tablespoons milk.

Process: Cream with butter and sugar together, add the beaten eggs and milk and flavoring, sift in the dry ingredients to stiffen the dough, chill in refrigerator, roll out, cut and bake.

Advertising In Local Newspapers Fruitful

Globe-Wernicke Co., Large Manufacturers Of Bookcases And Office Devices, Announce Campaign

As concrete evidence that local newspaper advertising pays big dividends, The Globe-Wernicke company, manufacturers of sectional bookcases and office devices, have just announced that they will again this year repeat their advertising campaign in local newspapers wherever they have dealers.

This company found that advertising in local papers in cities where the goods are on sale and where the prospective buyer could actually see them; produced definite and satisfactory results. The decision of the Globe-Wernicke Company, the largest of its kind in the world, is another strong endorsement of local newspaper advertising.

HAWTHORNE AND HIS AMERICAN TRADITIONS

There has been at least one genius in America, a great part of whose subject matter was inherently an outgrowth of his systematic understanding of the American environment and its traditions. Hawthorne had no greater or more profitable audience than that commanded by any reputable novelist today. He did have, said Henry James, "the historic consciousness." His vision of the past was filled with definite images. As themes these images fill the notebook; the completion lies in the novels and stories—a process of artistry no less remarkable than that which leads fragments of folk-song through the Beethoven notebooks to the symphonies and sonatas. The traditions of a homogeneous people which had been accumulating for two centuries, some little leisure in which to steep himself in them—to these added an imaginative fancy that enabled him turn the fruits of his leisure into artistic creation.

Leisure and the imaginative fancy are gifts not wholly lacking to-day.

We have traditions brimming with more vitality than those of old New England. But they are not simple, and not the common heritage of a homogeneous people. Perhaps Hawthorne himself would have found it difficult to weave much fantastic imagery from the squabbles over the currency and tolls traffic which so dominate the New England of the latest economic historians. Perhaps illusion may result in a historic consciousness more profitable for the artist than truth itself.

I think not, even though the particular genius who will take the intricate truths of this later environment and transform them into the stuff of a beauty essentially and inherentially American may be very long in his coming.

How Better Than Pills?

The question has been asked. In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then they are not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

MEANS OF GETTING TO THE POINT IN SENATE

Be-Called Able And Distinguished Senators Fail To Confine Utterances To Bill In Question

It is not in the nature of a present-day Senator to say exactly what he means in clear and concise language.

If he thinks that a tariff bill is rotten he cannot express that thought in his entire satisfaction without dwelling for hours on the civilization of the Incas, the climate of Arizona, the Russian Empire, the digestive organs, Greek art, rug weaving, the League of Nations, tomato culture, the distinction between the words "among" and "between," the offensive activities of Cossack chieftains, lupus ciliopsis and thousands of other subjects, with occasional references to the tariff or the lack of tariff on fish sounds, manufactured goods, dried bread, dried peas, eggs, sausage casings, crude bristles, skeletons and kindred articles.

The Senator who is speaking then, knocks the Republican tariff, and he takes the time about it. He mentions predatory interests, lumpy streams which bear the argot of trade, the medieval and buccannery policies of the Republican party, the short-comings of the leopard as a changer of spots, narrow zealous and bigoted partisans, the mercenary greed of gigantic corporations, Great Britain's trade policies, the responsibility for the war, the American people, the American consumer, the American laborer, distinguished Senators from various States, farmers' blocks, labor blocks, distaste to the republic, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, the Constitution of the United States, Rip Van Winkle, the Grindon Club, Nelson Aldrich, in Raleigh Hotel, Europe, Manchuria, Siberia, Germany, China, Japan, Minerva, Jove, the Dark Ages, prehistoric peoples, the noble edifices erected by the Democratic party, the Versailles treaty, the wounds and sorrows of the world, Herodotus, Strabo, the plumbers trust, the building trust, the milk trust, the voice of one crying in the wilderness, the public weal, the oppression of the people, and what not. There is a great deal of it, in fact.

At the very end of this varied assortment of information which sounds less like a speech than it does like a reading of extracts from all the volumes of the Encyclopaedia Britannica including the index, the Senator comes to the point of his discourse.

The point is that the tariff is a rotten tariff, and that the people won't like it.

One of the greatest needs of the Senate is a rule which will choke, gag, strangle, smother and even kill a Senator who refuses, when important revenues and appropriations bills are under discussion to confine his utterances to those bills. Even the most rudimentary intelligence is capable of grasping the fact that the most sensible manner of disposing of a question which is under discussion is to discuss the same Senator, however, is so stupid that he can't settle a question under discussion by discussing something that has nothing to do with the question.

The so-called distinguished and able Senators, in their actions on many important matters, are comparable with the distinguished and able cook who comes down stairs in the morning to cook four eggs for her employers' breakfast, but who spends her entire day rebuking the grocer's boy of heaving his bags, swearing at the peddler for bringing no letters, making love to the plumber, polishing the stove, washing the cat, hunting through cook books for forgotten recipes and writing letters to prospective employers setting forth her distinguished and able qualities, as her calling—Saturday Evening Post.

The tired business man prefers his secretary college bred. To have her thus he will pay higher wages.

Such are the facts shown by the reports of the Chicago College Bureau of Occupations, an agency which finds jobs for the restless college boy and supplies the business world with a player who has learned that he pays to have four years of college culture behind his typewriter keys and directing the reins of his industry.

"Gone are the days when the employer turned up his nose at the college girl applying for a job and asked in preference for the graduate of a business college," said Miss Helen Bennett, manager of the bureau today.

"From what college does she come, now is one of the first questions I am asked. If I say she is not a college girl but her training has been along lines to make her valuable, I usually am told that only college girls are wanted and the receiver is hung up. This proves that the college girl has made good in industry."

The Chicago College Bureau places annually some 600 to 700 young women with salaries of from $900 to $5000 a year. Of these placed 75 per cent are college trained. The others have had some preparation as should place them on the same footing with the college girl.

"But," said Miss Bennett, "those without college training are indefinitely harder to place and do not command so high wages. A college education thus pays the girl financially. Of course, it is not a 'blue sky' investment. It takes a year or two to realize on it."

"The college girl, like all others, starts at the bottom of the ladder. But the ascent is easier to her than it is to her sister from the business college. Greek and Latin verbs, renaissance art and higher math give her a mental adaptability that help her as much in the industrial world as in other walks of life."—Baltimore News

SIGHT OF MONEY WINS OVER GOLD PROSPECTOR

Claims Owner Refuses $100,000 Security For Mine But Sells For $10,000 Actual Cash

Money is an odd sort of commodity and some persons know very little of actual cash from intimate acquaintance.

Harry Veness tells of one old source of the Klondike, a man of valuable claim after several years of dangers and hardships in the North. He came to Seattle and operators who realized the value of his holdings had tried to buy him out for $100,000, but it was no use, the prospector held on. Then came the wise man who made the deal, and for one-tenth of that sum. The stage-managed proposition was worked like this:

The operators cornered their man on the main street and induced him to accompany them to a dark little office of Marion street. There they thought they had their man in the proper frame of mind. They opened up the subject of a deal and he admitted that he had been offered $100,000.

"And you'd never sell for that?" one said, and when the miner said, "No," the would-be-purchasers went to a table near-by that was covered with a cloth and snatched the covering away. There stacked in neat rows of gold bars, was $10,000 in bright, new shiny $20 gold pieces.

"There's what we'll give you," shouted one of the operators as he saw the miner's eyes gleam. "You just sign the deed, and take the money."

And the miner, unusual to him, carried away by the sight of real coin, signed—Portland Oregonian.

BUSINESS SHOWS SLOW BUT STEADY INCREASE

Spirit Of Optimism Permeates Bradstreet's Trade Report Of Baltimore District For Last Week

Bradstreet's Trade Report of the Baltimore District for the past week is indicative of the general trend of business and industry to prosperity and normal production.

Although the facts as stated below are chiefly concerned with the immediate territory around Baltimore, yet they may be taken as a criterion of existing conditions in this section.

Slow but steady improvement features business in general, with the various lines of industry perhaps the most benefited. Price advances have become widespread and collections are better. Car shortages continue acute and there are some embargoes.

Production of bituminous coal is about normal, with prices less firm, while the anthracite situation is showing up much better.

Lumber mills are operating at full capacity but embargoes are holding up shipments especially from the South. There is said to be a demand for hardwoods while prices on all classes of lumber have advanced during the past sixty days.

Cement prices are very strong and all building materials are reported to be in demand. A good business is being done in electrical supplies more particularly during the past thirty days. Iron pipe is very scarce while porcelain material has advanced sharply. Retail trade is better than fair but as yet not quite up to normal.

Bank deposits are growing and there is reported to be a greater demand for money.

Much industrial expansion and additions are noted. The live stock market is quiet. Butter, eggs and poultry are firm. There is little actual trading in wool as receipts are light but there is a firmer undertone to the market.

Oysters are in ample supply for present trade requirements. Receipts of crab are very light as the season is drawing to a close. Wheat prices are steady, the better grades finding ready sale. Export demand for flour is quiet but there is a fair inquiry for domestic account. Corn, oats and rye are in fair call, with stocks ample and prices firm.

TELLS HOW THE EARTH LOOKS FROM THE MOON

The man in the moon could never get very thoroughly lit up by what the earth furnishes him. Explaining a new method of measuring the "earth light" on the moon and the brightness of the dark parts of fair Luna, Prof. Edward S. King, of the Harvard Observatory, told the American Astronomical Society recently that the brightness of our satellite is about ten thousand times greater than the light delivered on its surface by this dull terrestrial sphere.

"When the moon shows a thin crescent the dark portion may be clearly seen standing out against the sky. This appearance is popularly called the 'old moon in the new moon's arms,' and this dark portion," said Dr. King, "is illuminated by light reflected by the Earth, or earth light. Earth light on the moon is analogous to moonlight on the earth."

"My preliminary measures indicate that if the whole disk of the moon were lighted solely by the earth the total photographic brightness would be about ninety times greater than in other words, if the light were concentrated to a point, it would have nearly twice the illuminosity of the dog star, which is the brightest star in the sky. The brilliancy of the full moon is about ten thousand times greater. The moonlight is measured by comparing images of the moon photographed out of focus, and by this method all portions of the lunar surface at the different phases can be measured."

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for colds, croup and whooping cough for almost half a century and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its good qualities became better known. It is the standard and main reliance for these diseases in thousands of homes. The facts that it can always be depended upon and is safe and pleasant to take are greatly in its favor when it is wanted for children.—Advt.

ASSOCIATION TO HOLD TRIENNIAL CONVENTION

Delegates To Atlantic City Assembly Of Young Men's Christian Association Now Being Named

Selection of local delegates to the triennial convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of North America, to be held at Atlantic City, N. J., November 14-19, will be made during the next few weeks by the Y. M. C. A. of this city.

This convention, the 41st in the history of the organization, is recognized throughout the 2,200 Associations in the United States and Canada as in certain respects the most important. This is not only because of growth in membership and activities since the 1919 Convention in Detroit, but because special attention will be given to the organization and relationships of the general agencies—such as the State and International Committees—to the various local Associations, and to the basis of active membership in the Association. This latter subject is not a new one at these sessions but is of increasing interest because it involves the question of whether active membership should require membership in evangelical churches.

The call of the convention, signed by Alfred E. Marling, chairman, and Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary, of the International Committee, states that "probably never before have we been called together to counsel about more varied or more important issues. At these triennial conventions, the International Committee composed of some 200 delegates, representing men from all states of the Union and Provinces of Canada—is elected by the several thousands of delegates. The later also formulate policies and instructions to guide the Committee's course as general agent of the North American Associations in their work at home and in their activities in foreign countries.

The forthcoming convention will receive the reports of commissions which have been at work, some of them for several years, on matters vitally affecting the various Associations. These commissions, should approach to the churches, occupation of the field, policies and processes of raising money for the International Committee, and Army and Navy work. It is expected that the delegates sent to the forthcoming convention will be composed mostly of laymen rather than of professional officers. Delegates are chosen by vote of active members or by the board of directors of the local Associations.

The Atlantic City Convention will be the first held east of the Alleghenies since the Washington Convention in 1907. An exhibit portraying the history of the Association movement since its introduction into America in 1851 will be shown, together with motion pictures of the work of the organization in 37 countries.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

FALLING—FALLING

By Martha Gallaudet Waring

This title, so familiar to students of the Mother Play Book, by Friedrich Froebel, is the introduction to a large subject. To those who wonder that a man, as well as a philosopher, should have spent his time on a book of Nursery Plays, we have only to point out the deep psychology underlying each play.

The psychology of fear as an inheritance, an instinct, a symptom, as due to repressions, unconscious impressions, "trauma," imposed from without, has been the subject of much modern psychological discussion, so it is well sometimes to go back to beginnings and look at it simply and from a practical standpoint.

"Better a broken arm than the fear of it all one's life," says Jean-Paul Richter. "Better still to have neither" says the mother who considers every accident, and every disease that befalls her child a direct accusation that she had failed somewhere and somehow in knowledge or care.

"Falling—Falling" is a simple exercise for the child, the Mother taking her supporting hands from the child and catching him again as he begins to fall, giving him the suggestion of support, freedom and support again before the feeling of freedom turns into that of fear. I have played this with all my children when they were getting their air-bath, to their great delight.

From this point may come the first important training of the early years how to do things freely but without fear because one does them correctly and therefore safely. Show the child how to lift his feet to avoid stumbling and tripping. Show him how to open and shut doors and drawers properly, and there will be no mashed fingers. Show him the danger of all openings like stairs and windows. Teach him to go carefully up and down stairs and there will be no need for gates and bars. Show him that banisters are to hold by and that stairs may be safely descended one foot at a time, and after instruction let him do it himself until the right movement becomes a habit. Caution should be taught from the start but never fear. A child knows of fear naturally and to teach it to him is a crime against nature.

A child of twenty months was one day descending the stairs in the approved way when his hat got over his eyes and his feet slipped, but as he had been taught to do, he clung firmly to the banisters, and when we reached him was holding up his whole weight by one chubby hand, glad to be rescued, but not in the slightest degree alarmed for his safety, merely remarking by way of explaining his novel position "Baby boys' at on, got in his eyes."

The same little boy from this age up would sing himself to sleep in the dark absolutely without fear. He has been allowed to experiment in every possible way, under direction at first, then alone, and although a few unforeseen experiments have proved disastrous to property, he has fine use of himself and of material things.

This is the physical result, but there is much more to it than mere safety. His disposition is of the cheeriest. And he finds joy in everything.

CHINA'S NEW THOUGHT CHRISTIANITY'S CHANCE

Dr. John R. Mott, General Secretary International "Y" Committee Returns From Orient.

What is the character, extent and significance of that present movement in China which news dispatches have for some months been indicating as, or confusing with, a movement directed against Christianity and against Western ideals and influences?

The recent return from the Far East of Dr. John R. Mott, General Secretary of the International Committee, Y. M. C. A. has given opportunity for enlightenment on this subject from one whose experiences and relationships in the Orient give unusual value to his observations. It was Dr. Mott's fifth journey in the Far East, not counting the one which took him as member of the Root Commission twice across Siberia. He regards this last as the most timely and in possibilities the most fruitful, basing his feeling in part on the opportunity opened up by the present "new thought" movement in China, the term used not as applied in America to a cult but as indicating an intellectual manifestation.

The spirit of new thought, Dr. Mott points out, is surging in the brains of professors and students in China. There is a welter of conflicting ideas and ideals occupying them, a spirit of inquiry, a desire to revalue everything. There is no tradition or social sanction or practice, past or present, which is too sacred or binding for them to question or discard if they cannot prove its personal and social efficiency. In intensity and possibilities there has been nothing comparable to this movement, in Dr. Mott's opinion, since the Renaissance in Europe, which is transcended by the other in the number of people involved and in the variety of interests touched and exhibited. In the way of mental awakening, hunger, courage and serious purpose it is, he says, the most interesting and quickening development he has ever observed.

Dr. Mott, on his visit to China in 1896, found the so-called scholars impervious and unwilling to hear or discuss. Now there is not only an active spirit of inquiry but a determination to use any method to get at truth. There is a social passion as well as an intellectual hunger in this awakening. It makes possible almost anything from the point of view of a cause which knows its purpose and goal and is sure of its message. The situation presents a colossal problem to Christian missionaries and to the Chinese Church, but also presents the greatest opportunity these are likely to have in our day.

On our recent visit Dr. Mott found avenues being readily opened up for Christian representatives to meet the people collectively and individually. The government provides great halls for conferences; in some cases special pavilions were erected. The President of China sent for Dr. Mott, who states that within a few minutes they were in close discussion over the very heart of the Christian Gospel. The ex-President was equally responsive. Opportunities for meetings with military governors and cabinet members were frequent, and at no time was he repulsed when he turned the conversation to the Christian religion.

Dr. Mott found the same welcome in Japan, both in public and private. He was invited to an audience with the Empress—the first layman thus honored—and also had a personal meeting with the Prince Regent. He found both interested in discussing Christian principles.

As for the "anti-Christian movement," which Dr. Mott regards as exaggerated in news reports, he believes it accentuated the timeliness of the world union of Christian students represented in the conference at Peking of the World's Student Christian Federation; also of the National Christian Conference at Shanghai.

Of the students conference Dr. Mott says that in his judgment no gathering has done more to knit together the leaders of tomorrow in the East and West. The 550 delegates came from 32 countries, but it was pre-eminently an Asiatic gathering.

The National Christian Conference had about 1,200 delegates, nearly half Chinese. Dr. Mott says that the impressive thing was the character of the Chinese leadership in the discussions and the conduct of the conference. It is considered that the Chinese Christian Church is now a reality.

To Gain a Good Reputation

The way to gain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you appear. That is precisely the manner in which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained its reputation as a cure for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Every bottle that has ever been put out by the manufacturers has been fully up to the high standard of excellence claimed for it. People have found that it can be depended upon for the relief and cure of these ailments and that it is pleasant and safe to take.—Adv.

Mrs. Alice Virginia Lohner, 318 William Street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of a severe case of rheumatic pains. I suffered for three years and although I doctored and used different remedies I failed to get any relief. I was almost an invalid and every joint in my body ached and pained. My knees and limbs were swollen awfully and I could scarcely bend. I had dizzy, nervous spells and was blinded at times. The least work tired me all out. My kidneys were also disordered and caused annoyance. I was nervous and couldn't sleep nights. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills being a wonderful remedy for kidney trouble so I tried them. I used in all fourteen boxes and was cured of the trouble."

The Money You've Saved for a HOME.

Be Careful How You Spend It!

Regardless of how much money you have, it is no use if you do not know how to spend it. What you want is the BEST home that you can possibly get for your money, and to get that you must be extremely careful in choosing the lumber and other materials that will be required to build that home.

"A Pig's a pig" and "lumber is lumber" is what some folks think, but they're wrong! The wrong wood used in the wrong place, low grades of lumber used where the best grades should be used and vice versa, often reduce durability, increase cost and turn beauty into ugliness.

There are as many different kinds and grades of lumber as there are kinds and grades of anything else you buy and it always pays to buy the right kind and the right grade.

Giving advice relative to the proper materials to buy and use, how to spend building money in such a way as to get the most and the best for it, is a part of our regular service to builders.

REEDVILLE

Capt. and Mrs. James C. Fisher, Mr. Will Lynsford, who drove the Fisher sedan from Reedville to California and back again, motored in town last Thursday, and were warmly welcomed by everyone. They had a most wonderful trip. They traveled more than two months, drove through twenty-six States, covering almost twelve thousand miles and had no car trouble. All kept perfectly well and came home satisfied that no land is more wonderful, no country more beautiful, and no people finer than our own. Mrs. Fisher thinks Arizona with its Petrified Forest and Grand Canyon section, Colorado, the Badlands in Montana, and the Yellowstone Park region quite as interesting as California, with all its mild and wonderful beauty. They climbed mountains, crossed deserts and prairies, saw gold and silver mines galore, and looked on scenic wonders. We shall have to ask the travelers to write up their experiences.

Mr. T. H. Jett, home from Chinco-teague for a few days, and Miss Flora Jett, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. C. Morris Jett, to King George Saturday for a few hours at "Walnut Hill", and to bring Mrs. T. H. Jett home again. Editor W. Z. Morgan, of Warsaw, always a welcome guest, was in our midst last Saturday seeing friends.

Mr. F. C. Jett, of the Peoples Bank, Reedville, was in Baltimore last week on business. Henry Lee went along also for the day in town. Miss Rowlett, popular milliner at Reed & Rice's, was quite sick last week for several days. Dr. Cockrell was in attendance, and friends were full of sympathy. She is staying this Fall with Mrs. Lulu Butler, in her attractive bungalow.

Miss Juliette Omohundro, a recent graduate from John Hopkins, was at Lillian last week making a most welcome, though brief stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Omohundro. She has decided to continue nursing at Hopkins, instead of locating in Richmond, as she once thought of doing. Many friends gave her a hearty welcome home.

Fruit of all kinds has been very scarce here all summer. A few years ago it came, by wagon and auto, to ones down in abundant supply. Now the order is reversed, and generally one has to wait. Do you reckon the "still" has anything to do with the scarcity of the once plentiful fruit?

Mrs. L. M. Russell and daughter, Mary, of Elcton, were in Baltimore last week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Brooking, and baby, are guests of Rev. and Mrs. R. U. Brooking, at the Rectory, motoring down from Pittsburgh, a distance of four hundred and twenty-five miles in two days.

Mrs. Francis Slaughter, spent last week with Mrs. Slaughter, at Mt. Zion.

Fleeton Civic League had an oyster supper at the school house Saturday evening, October 7th. An attractive and tasty menu of oyster stewed and fried, hot rolls, pickles, coffee, etc.

Dr. and Mrs. T. S. D. Covington, of Lillian, motored over to New Kent Co. for the past week-end with Mr. Ross Covington, who has a position on the State Game Farm there. They will go to Richmond this week for the Fair. Mr. Covington will take up an exhibit from the farm.

Miss Laura O. Crowther, of "Water View," Thiboda, is attending Conference this week, motoring down with Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Wallace, of Heathsville. Mr. Wallace is not expected to return to Heathsville charge again. He has been there three years and while he loves the work and the people, he finds his strength hardly sufficient to do justice to the large field. Many old and loving friends in this section will be sorry to tell the Wallace family good bye.

Mr. J. E. Maran, Jr., of Norfolk, was here last week, visiting his father, Capt. Jas. E. Maran, at Tibitina, and other loved ones in and out of town.

Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Fisher, of "The Gablers," were away last week to Baltimore, Philadelphia, Atlantic City and other points.

With the arrival of the oyster-eating months, many of us have been enjoying that delicious bivalve both in its raw state, and as a cooked food. To quite a number however, the after-effect has been anything but enjoyable, and medical skill has frequently been required to bring back a condition of normalcy.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Perkins, with little Joe, and baby, Garnett Lee, left Reedville, Saturday, to board with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burgess, at Burgess Store, until their new home here in town is finished. They had been years on the corner here nearly three years, and had been a great addition to the social and moral atmosphere. They left "an aching void," and a neighborhood dissolved in tears. Reedville will be glad to welcome the Perkins household home again.

The Mizpah Bible Class, of Bethany, went for their annual picnic last Thursday, up to the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Mayfield Booth, on the Great Wicomico river. A large and jolly crowd, an abundant dinner, and a most delightful day was spent. Amusements features, novel and unique kept things on the alert all way. There were races for fat people and races for the leaner ones. Walking races, (Mr. George N. Reed was the there with Mr. Russell Dey a close second) running races and walking stunts with pans of feathers on the head, the prize winner bringing back the feathers. Mrs. J. P. Crowther, of Point Pleasant, is the enthusiastic teacher of Mizpah Class.

Miss Fanny Hull Robinson, was at Beverlyville last week visiting her brother, Mr. Beverly Robinson, and family. She comes and goes in comfortable, independent reliance upon her little Ford roadster, and is always a most welcome guest.

Mrs. Beverly Robinson has been away the past week in Baltimore, and elsewhere.

The Peoples Bank of Reedville, is being wired for electric lights. The current will be bought from the Reedville Company, Inc., next door.

Apologies of lights, we are again enjoying our street illumination, after a week or two of darkness which could certainly be felt. Something wrong with the engine, it was said, making repairs necessary; and we groped in darkness, save when "fair luna" beamed upon us with most welcome rays. The sidewalk is bordered with magnificent shade trees which afford comfort and beauty by day, but cast dense shadows at night. In our homes, and from our windows we let our lights so shine, (many of us) that the wayfarer might be benefited thereby. Welcome the street light! Long may they shine.

Mrs. Thomas L. Cockrell, of Melville, Lillian, accompanied Mr. George N. Reed of this town, to Richmond, this week, where they will visit Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Randolph, and also attend the State Fair. Mr. and Mrs. John Hinton will motor home with them, it is said, if Mr. Hinton is well enough. We are glad to hear he is very much improved.

The buyer was also required to provide the feed the cow consumed and carry water to her three times a day. Recently the cow horned the old man and now he is suing his son-in-law for damages.

FARMING IS BECOMING MONOPOLY OF THE WEST

Urban East Is Opposed To The Rural West Texas Leading In Production Value

With the West, and especially the Northwest, rising in embattled farm-herd, engineering agrarian movements, and organizing farm blocs with which it proposes to run the country, one rather gets the idea that farming is a monopoly held by those who live on the other side of the Mississippi. Or, to put it another way, that there are no agrarian interests outside of the great open spaces, and that the farmers' problem must necessarily be solved on a sectional basis, with the urban East opposed to the rural West.

It is for this reason that statistics showing how the agricultural wealth of the country is actually distributed are instructive and also somewhat unexpected. The Farm Journal has prepared an estimate, by States, of the value of crop and live stock production in 1922. Texas leads with an estimated production value of $265,065,000. Iowa, is second, but Illinois, which contains Chicago, is third. Missouri, containing St. Louis, is fourth. Then comes Wisconsin, and then the great manufacturing State of Ohio. And the next one, surprisingly enough is New York, with a production value of $556,651,000. The States following after New York are about evenly divided between the radical West and the conservative and manufacturing East. Indiana, is tenth, Pennsylvania is eleventh and Michigan is fourteenth.

The great commercial and manufacturing States are those of New England, the North Atlantic seaboard, and the Middle West north of Tennessee and east of the Mississippi. Offhand one would say that their interests are predominantly commercial and industrial, while those of the remainder are predominantly agricultural. But this area, which is very roughly a fifth of that of the United States, will produce, according to the estimate, nearly one-third of the total crop and live stock values for the year. The figures are $13,650,013,000 for the total and $4,284,457,000 for the nineteen States indicated.

The significance of this is at once apparent. The agrarian problem can never be treated satisfactorily if these States are left out on account. And, with the exception of Wisconsin, none of these States have followed in the train of the Western leadership. But they are not conservative because an agrarian minority is being suppressed by a manufacturing majority. In them there is rarely found an agrarian industrial division of importance. The nearest thing to the Western agrarian war which appears in such a great farming State as New York is the controversy over the daylight saving!—The News.

MAINTENANCE PROGRAM FOR FERTILITY OF SOIL

Experiments And Demonstrations Show Need Of Employment Of Several Important Factors

An adequate program for the maintenance of soil fertility should include these factors:
1. The establishment of a rotation, including a legume. 2. The conservation of farm manures. 3. The use of lime when necessary. 4. The use of fertilizers—generally a complete fertilizer for wheat, a phosphate and potash combination for corn, and the reinforcement of manure with acid phosphate.

The soundness of this program has been proven by countless soil experiments and demonstrations, and is generally recognized. Nevertheless the number of farms where such program is carried on in its entirety is few. Inability to grow clover has been largely responsible for the omission of this crop from the rotation. In Indiana, clover is grown once in a rotation of ten to twelve years as average for the State; in Ohio, once in sixteen years.

On a goodly number of farms, nevertheless, clover, alfalfa, or some legume is being grown regularly. Too often the program for permanent fertility has stopped right there. If the question was asked, does clover or alfalfa grown in the rotation maintain fertility, most farmers would answer yes. It is well known that continuous growing of grain crops without manure or fertilizers of any kind constitute a drain on soil fertility which is apparent because it can be measured in declining yields. It is not so well known, however, that alfalfa or clover, when removed as a hay crop, depletes soil fertility in the same way. Legumes fix nitrogen, but when the crop is removed from the soil, not only is all the nitrogen gained from the air taken away, but all the phosphorus potassium and a part of the nitrogen is lost from the soil. It takes nerve to plow under a good crop of clover. Yet in this way only is there an actual addition to the nitrogen content of the soil. Just what part of nitrogen legumes take from the soil and what part from the air has not been definitely proven. Recent work on the source of nitrogen for soybeans indicates that on a soil inoculated and well supplied with lime, 70% of the total nitrogen in the crop may be taken from the air, and 30% from the soil.

A four ton crop of alfalfa hay taken from the land carries with it 200 pounds of nitrogen, 18 pounds of phosphorus, and 96 pounds of potassium. Large as is this removal of nitrogen, it can be wholly or partially maintained by plowing under humus and organic matter in the form of manure, stubble, crop residues and cover crops after cultivated crops interrotation. Phosphorus and potassium sooner or later must be added in a system of permanent fertility.

Farming with legumes but without the other steps that should follow may postpone but will not obviate the use of commercial plantfood materials.

Tells Bankers of Rural Needs.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., manager of the War Finance Corp., told ten thousand national bankers at New York last week that our Federal Reserve system should be built up to properly care for agricultural and live stock needs.

U. S. FARMERS ANXIOUS TO SETTLE IN RUSSIA

Large Estates Given To Organized And Well-Equipped Groups Of American Colonists

More than 500 American farmers will be in Russia by the end of the summer, settled permanently on the land. Two hundred and eighty-four already have arrived. Negotiations are under way with the representative of 10,000 farmers and if these are successful there will be a great exodus from California of the Malheurans, a group of Tolstoyan peasants who fled from Russia in the days of the Czar and now want to return.

"Russia will only accept as immigrants persons who are equipped to make a success there," said the young man in charge of trade immigration to me. "We have 35,000 American workers registered with the Society for Technical Aid to Russia in New York who want to come here, but most of them cannot yet be received. The American skilled worker is usually a specialist, not a all-round mechanic, and we have not the machinery or mass production to enable him to succeed here."

"Only organized groups which can bring their own tools of success with them are at present allowed to come to Russia. It is harder for the industrial worker to bring a factory than it is for a farming group to bring farming machinery. So at present we are taking largely farmers."

"We won't take individual farmers, however. Conditions of village life are too hard for individual farmers to make their way. But farming communities, bringing their own machinery—for them, Russia offers a chance of a better living than they get in the United States.

"We give them large estates of the best black soil in the world. They sell out their American land, buy machinery and come over in good shape and make a success."

How do they choose their land? he was asked.

"They send first a representative to us here. He goes, for instance, to the Land Department of the Ukraine; which sends him out to the various county agents. Usually it only takes a week or two, and he only needs to look at one or two places."

"He makes complete inventory of buildings, equipment and location of streams. Then he sends word to America what things are needed—water pipes, plumbing, small electric power plant, machinery, etc."

"The farmers buy the equipment in America; their agent signs the contract with us here. Their goods come in duty free."

"What kind of a contract do they get?"

He drew out a contract. The colonists were given the land and buildings, and contracted to establish a sound farm and pay a return yearly of 10 per cent. of their crop and 8 per cent. of their hay. For the first three years this payment was not demanded, but must be put into improving the farm.

The colonists must insure the buildings and had no right to give the land to others, but in case they fail to handle it they must return it, all or part, to the Land Department. If they hired peasants to work for them they must do so in accordance with the Union of Agricultural Workers.

For 18 years they had the land on these terms, and at the end of that time they had first option on renewal, subject to any new land laws that might have arisen in the meantime. The land which they got in this way was the rich black earth of the Ukraine.

RED CROSS PUTS UP $9,739,872

Year's Budget Stresses Relief and Services at Home and Overseas.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Over $3,000,000 Allotted to the Disabled—Foreign Work Lessens.

Washington.—Expenditures totaling $9,739,872.47 for carrying through its program of services and relief during the fiscal year in the United States and overseas are authorized in the budget of the American Red Cross, effective July 1, 1922. This total is $2,735,975 less than the expenditures for the last fiscal year, when disbursements reached $12,475,847.00. It is announced at National Headquarters, in a statement emphasizing the necessity of continued support of the organization by enrollment during the annual Roll Call, November 11-November 30 inclusive. "This total for the budget is exclusive of the large financial operations of the 3,300 active Red Cross Chapters, which, it is estimated, will more than double the total.

War Veterans Have First Call
First call on Red Cross funds is for the disabled ex-service men, of whom 27,187 were receiving treatment from the Government on June 1 last. This work for veterans and their families in a wide variety of service that the Government is not authorized to render and for which it has neither funds nor facilities has the call on $3,000,000 during the current year, or about $300,000 more than was expended last year for soldier service. Adding the funds disbursed in this humanitarian work of physical reconstruction following the World War by the Chapters throughout the country will approximate a total for the current year approaching $10,000,000. This work, in the opinion of the Surgeon General's office, will not reach its peak before 1923.

Through its Chapters the American Red Cross is equipped to find the individual ex-service man, help him in his problems and difficulties, provide immediately for his necessities, and open the way for him to the Government compensation and aid to which he is entitled. The extension of this work to the families of such men proves to them that the Red Cross has lost none of its sympathy nor will to service manifested in wartime. Similarly the service goes out to the men still in the Army and Navy, 11,087 of whom were under treatment in Government hospitals on June 1, 1922.

Greater Domestic Program
This year—after five years of constructive effort during the war and after the armistice—brings with it a greater responsibility for domestic service to the American Red Cross. The budget for foreign operations, however, totals $3,404,000, but of this amount $1,834,000 is for medical relief and hospital supplies for Russia, which is a part of the gift made by the American Red Cross in 1921 to the Russian famine relief work of the American Relief Administration program. The child health service in Europe continues, moreover, and $654,000 is appropriated for this work undertaken in 1920. Other items in the stringently diminished foreign program include $200,000 to support the League of Red Cross Societies, $22,000 for nurses' training schools instituted by the Red Cross abroad, and $900,000 for liquidation of the general Red Cross foreign relief program.

Prepared for Emergencies
For disaster relief the Red Cross has set aside $750,000, and for emergencies in Chapter work $500,000 to be available for domestic, insular and foreign demands. This is more than $205,000 above last year's expenditures. For service and assistance to the 3,300 Chapters and their branches $1,203,000 is provided by the National organization.

Other budget items of importance in the domestic program include $200,000 for assistance to other organizations and education institutions for training Red Cross nurses and workers; $190,000 for Roll Call assistance furnished to Chapters; $100,000 for unforeseen contingencies.

Of the total budget less than $500,000 is allotted for management in the National organization. No cash estimate, of course, is possible to weigh the value of the service by volunteers in the Chapters.

Greatest Mother Summons Her Children

An allegorical concept of the Red Cross as a peace-time ideal is employed by the American Red Cross in a new and striking poster for its Annual Red Cross Roll Call. Spread out before the heroic size figure is the outline of the United States with a Red Cross superimposed upon it while around its borders are sketched scenes depicting the chief activities of the Red Cross today—service to disabled veterans of the World War, disaster relief and promotion of the public health. The poster is the work of Lawrence Wilbur, a New York artist and will be displayed throughout the country during the enrollment of the Red Cross membership for 1923.

GENIUS AND SELECTION

The theory that true genius always succeeds finds its best refutation in the individual lives of those geniuses who have succeeded. Coleridge died at the age of 62, yet his poetical reputation rests on the achievements of a single year. If the opportunities of those few months had been destroyed by sickness or foreign invasion, who can say that the author would ever have given us "Christabel" or "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner?" Wordsworth walked the world for 80 years in health of body and mind, but his best poetry was produced in 10. If he had been a sweated factory hand during those 10 years, working 14 hours a day in the shops of Sheffield, would he have been any greater than Ebenezer Elliott? Milton during the best decade of his life, in the prime and glory of his matured powers, wrote almost no verse. Had Cromwell's government continued and Milton fallen in harness, Latin secretary to the last, the justification of God's ways to man might have been an unfulfilled dream. "The Canterbury Tales" fit in with two years of leisure in Chaucer's life. Suppose those had not been years of leisure. Great poems have risen out of both mental and physical agony; but there are certain conditions out of which they have never risen in the life of any man since Adam.—Yale Review.

Compassion is the quality that keeps you from abusing your strength after you get a mosquito down.

CONFUCIUS HAD THE FIRST MOVIE SHOWS

Idea Recorded 500 Years Before Christ By Famous Chinese Philosopher With "Shadow Shows"

The earliest idea of a moving picture was recorded in the time of Confucius, the Chinese philosopher, who lived 500 years before Christ. At least this is the deduction drawn from his studies into the question by Will Day, a well-known figure in the English film world, who has exhibited in London a collection of relics and machines tracing the growth of the moving picture from the first primitive idea to its present form.

The "shadow shows" of the time of Confucius are the first of all known endeavors to present animated pictures. From this early time, however, there was a long period of inactivity in development, for the next record of progressive achievement is found in 1646, when Athanasius Kircher published a book in Latin entitled "Ars Magna Luce et Umbræ," in which a description and illustration is given of a moving picture which the writer had evolved with mirrors and a tallow candle for illumination.

Included in the collection is the original disc which Eadweard Muybridge used to settle the controversy between two American millionaires on the Alo Palto Racecourse as to whether the four feet of a trotting horse were off the ground at the same time.

The experiments which Muybridge carried out is said to have cost the University of Pennsylvania $40,000 but the fact was proved that a horse did actually lift all four feet simultaneously.

PIONEER SPORTSMAN KNOWN HERE BURIED

Harry D. Prettyman, one of the most prominent of South Philadelphia sportsmen and known here in Salisbury by many people, was buried last week at Laurel Hill Cemetery in Philadelphia. Prettyman was a pioneer in the building of the large and successful enterprise of Shetland Park at Broad and Bigler streets.

Philadelphia papers commented on his death as the passing of a great figure in the early days of the south Philadelphia sport development. Clean sports were always his motto and he did much to elevate the game. Mrs. G. E. Kennerly of this city is a cousin of the deceased.

Not True.—Professor—Now when two bodies in motion come together, is heat generated?—No, sir; I hit a guy yesterday and he knocked me cold.

THE SCREEN

It is not the fault of the millions of persons in this country who make the motion pictures their only form of amusement that they have almost from the beginning been chary about their praise for the cinema play as a whole. But it does seem to us that even the photoplay ought to be given credit where credit is due.

We have made an investigation and a comparison of the quality of films being shown throughout the country at this time, as alongside those exhibited a year ago, or two years ago. We were prompted to do this because of a statement made by Will H. Hays in Minneapolis a few weeks ago, in which he said, in part:

"This new programme has been under way less than six months, but the results are already showing. This season's run of photoplays will indicate plainly the results of sincere effort and desire to make better pictures."

When we started to dig out the truth about the statement, we snickered to ourselves, because we had a feeling we were going to be able to pin upon the cinema chief the brand of exaggeration, egotism and inaccuracy.

The fact of the matter is that after looking over reviews, criticism, and comment upon films written even as late as one year ago it is found that there not only is a great deal in what he says, but the evidence confronts us with the fact that today there are being exhibited in the theatres and put together in the studios a class of photoplays which, on the whole, ranks high above the class that was being turned out prior to the beginning of the present year. Naturally we are not in a position to say to just what extent the influence of the former Postmaster General has gone in the matter, but we are prepared to say that within his six months as Director General of the Photoplay there has been a remarkable betterment in the product.

This change has been most marked in the matter of the moral intent of the various pictures being made. Two years ago criticism of films were taken up to a great extent with protests against the sickening sex play stamp placed upon society dramas and the like. We find that within the year of 1922 we have not felt called upon to make a half dozen times to refer to indecency or obscenity in pictures.

This does not mean of course, that we have found any considerable number of pictures which have come up to our idea of what the ideal picture ought to be. This may best be expressed by saying that we never have seen a photoplay that was so good as we thought it ought to have been.

But it is apparent that in intent and effort, in desire and ability on the part of the producers, there is a very decided change for the better.

We have visited the New York censorship bureau to learn whether in the last few months that body has been called upon to slash into many films in order to remove the "dirt" which crept into so many films in other days. We are told that the censors' scissors have been comparatively idle for months. So that it appears the wilful desire to present objectionable matter in the films has been cut off to a great extent at the root—in the studios.

In our list of the pictures which, while not in any instance a perfect example of the photoplay art, possess the quality of sincerity and high-mindedness, and which struck most forcibly as being excellent testimony to Mr. Hays' statement of the producers' intent at least, there were such things as the Famous Players' "The Dictator" and "If You Believe It, It's So," and "Borderland." "Clarence," the Tarkington story, is now being directed by Mr. De Mille. "Our Leading Citizen," the George Ade story, was another. In the Fox list, we found "Monte Cristo" and "Nero" and "Jest Tony." We announced before that this company now was making "If Winter Comes" into a picture.

"Bon Hur" is now on the ways, in the Goldwyn studios on the Coast, and this concern has given us such pictures as "Sherlock Holmes" and "Remembrance" by Rupert Hughes which has not as yet been released to the public as well as "Hungry Hearts" and "The Christian."

There was "The Prisoner of Zenda" from the Metro Company, and "The Storm," "Human Hearts" and others by Universal. Before long the Baby Peggy film is to be presented, "Little Red Riding Hood," and "Hansel and Gretel" is on the way.

In the Vitaphone list there are "My Wild Irish Rose" and "The Prodigal Judge."

Constance Talmadge has just completed what is said to be her best picture, "East is West," sister Norma has done "The Voice From the Minitar" and at the Strand now is Hal Roach's new Harold Lloyd comedy, "Grandma's Boy." Soon George Ade's new story "Back Home and Broke" is to be seen in films and Thomas Ince will give us "Skin Deep" and "Lorna Doone," among others.

The Educational Company has some short subjects such as "The One Man Reunion" and "My Country." Madge Kennedy has finished a pretty story called "The Purple Highway," which the Kenma Company has high hopes for. Warner Brothers are making "Main Street" and one or two other screen versions of popular novels. Selznick has under way "Rupert of Hentzau" to follow its present comedy feature, "Reported Missing." And there are others and yet others.

DOUG AND MARY SLIP INTO NEW YORK CITY

Fairbanks Visit Gotham With The Hero "Doug" Busy Shooting Arrows On Roof Tops

Mary Pickford hid the arrows under the couch cushions away from that bad boy, Douglas Fairbanks. He had their suite in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel strewn with bows and arrows, for since he filmed "Robin Hood" he has taken up archery as seriously as one who earned his living by it.

"It was against my wishes that he had these around," said Mary, with a vexed shake of her golden curls, but Doug had stolen a march on her. He was up to his old tricks as soon as the photographers swarmed around the screen stars on their arrival yesterday morning from the West.

Fairbanks had posed on the roof of the hotel with a bow as Cupid, with one foot raised lyrically. Then, seizing an arrow with true Robin Hood technique, he had begun firing away. He picked as targets two ventilators on the roof of a church nearby and was more tickled at his marksmanship than William Tell was when he parted his son's hair with a shaft.

"Some men's vice is drinking," said Mary, "and others are addicted to flirting, but Douglas' vice is traveling. I told him I fully expect to die on a train or steamer. But we won't go abroad this time—no sir. I won't be dragged aboard a steamer on three days' notice, the way I was last time I fixed him. I tied him up with contracts and appointments so he can't get away."

"But," she added pensively, "you can't tell. I'm afraid it was dangerous to stay so close to the river and the shipping. If he gets the idea of going and I tell him he has all these people to see he's just as apt to say, 'Well let's take them all with us.'"

10c A YEAR

Would Make Me Lay MORE EGGS

Now that's a rather surprising statement to be made by an old hen like me, isn't it? But it's a fact and I'm going to tell you about it.

I might as well tell you that what I have in mind is a clean, warm and well ventilated poultry house for me and my friends to live and do our work in.

Now, if you were a chicken you'd be thinking of such things, too, and, believe me, you'd hold out on egg production if you were not provided with the right kind of a house to stay in.

And About That 10c a Year

The cost of a good, poultry house, such as I have in mind, is very small. Taking it for granted that you intend to keep a flock of at least 40 of us chickens on hand at all times, the cost of furnishing us with the right kind of a home would not exceed 10c per year for each of us. Wouldn't you spend a dime a year on each of us to get us to lay more eggs? There isn't space enough for me to go into further detail here, but all details and information relative to cost, plans and materials will be gladly given you if you will call on opposing candidates for the United States Senate this week is on the Eastern Shore. William Cabell Bruce the Democratic aspirant, has been on the road for about two weeks. Monday found him attending a big rally in Centerville and Tuesday he was in Easton.On Thursday, Mr. Bruce's itinerary called for a jump across the Bay to visit hosts of friends at the Frederick Fair. On Saturday night, Mr. Bruce will be one of the speakers and will certainly give a hearty endorsement of the platform upon which he is basing his fight in the U. S. Senate race.Other addresses will be made by Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough, Democratic Nominee for Congress who carried the Eastern Shore by 10,000 majority in the recent primary contest, and Hon. Robert E. Lee, chairman of the Maryland Accident Commission, and one of the most brilliant orators in the state.Democrats on the Eastern Shore seem to have high hopes of re-electing T. Alan Goldsborough to Congress from the First District. The Caroline county leader has a good record at the national capital to boast of and his friends can see nothing but whole-hearted support for him by the major-that on the fifth meeting night in any be such a meeting night and the committee in charge has decided to make this occasion a scintillating example of what the lodge is capable of putting on when it sets out to it right. Mentioning but a few items that will mark this occasion: there will be a special musical program, and a happy happiness in the air. The hall will reflect in its decorations considerable of the goblin spirit. Several other diversions are being perfected by the committee.

Members and their friends are cora really pleasant evening.COMMERCIAL COTTON GROWING HERE POSSIBLE BUT RISKY SAYS EXPERTU. S. Department Of Agriculture Agent Inspects Wicomico Soil

And Reports Findings To Local Planters At Saturday Board Meeting—Advises Experimental Stages."If with high fertilizing you succeed in producing a bale of cotton to an acre, then cotton growing mixed in with the other customary crops might be successfully attempted in this section" is the gist of the speech made before the Wicomico Board of Agriculture on Saturday afternoon by H. E. Savely of the United States Department of Agriculture.Mr. Savely who is an expert on cotton and trucking crops made a brief survey of the local fields on Friday with County Agent Cobb and then presented his views to the agriculturalists at their meeting Saturday.
He was not over-enthusiastic on the question of cotton production on a commercial scale in these counties.
Because, he said, cotton is an expensive crop to grow and a bad season may inflict a crippling loss to the individual farmer.However, it was his opinion, that cotton-growing might be advantageously experimented with in these parts, for the sandy loam soil is unquestionably suitable for the plant.
Cotton has been grown here in the past and is still cultivated on the farm of a local planter and Professor Massey has a few stalks in his garden every year for the purpose of display.
Mr. Savely in his talk outlined some of the conditions necessary for the growing of the South's popular crop.
Local conditions compared very favorably with them. The plant requires 100 days of hot weather and is a tender crop unable to stand cool weather.Put Out Small Fire time used by the local fire apparatus guished. But little damage was done.

the oyster house is in the basement.INJURED YOUTH MAKES GAME FIGHT FOR LIFECondition Of Walter Ewell Injured
Thursday Night In Auto Accident
Said To Be Better.Walter Ewell's chances for recovery from severe injuries sustained in an automobile accident last Thursday night were reported by hospital authorities yesterday as being very bright. Young Ewell who is the son of Col. Thomas Ewell, of Baltimore, is well known in Salisbury.During the summer he had been living in Cambridge and just recently he was assigned to work on the state road below Princess Anne an inspector. It was after midnight Thursday that he and Mr. Browning Roberts left Princess Anne for Salisbury in his speedy Ford roadster.About a mile south of Allen they crashed into an automobile driven by Daniel Cornish, colored, who works on Dr. Jarman's farm at the head of the creek near Allen. Cornish denied that he was driving without lights and asserted that the machine coming north approached him at terrific speed and that his right wheels were off the road when he was struck.According to the statement of Browning Roberts made to State Police Officer Reid who investigated the accident, Ewell and he were traveling along at a moderate rate of speed when the other car suddenly loomed up in front of them. After side-swiping this light Ford roadster skidded down the road for about twenty yards and then slid off crashing into a tree on the roadside.Roberts was thrown clear of the machine but Ewell was jammed up against the steering wheel and his chest crushed in and collar bone broken.
He was picked up in an unconscious condition and rushed to the Peninsula General Hospital here. At first his life was considered off but latest bulletins tell of the game fight he is putting up, with bright prospects for recovery.

BRICK COMPANY HAS FIRE

Flames late Wednesday morning did considerable damage at the plant of the Salisbury Brick Company. The alarm was sounded about half past ten and the local apparatus was out about thirty minutes. It is thought that the fire originated in a pile of sawdust from a spark.The Woman's Guild of St. Peter's dence of Mrs. M. V. Brewington, Tuesday afternoon at which time all the individual members for their co-opa rising vote of thanks for the manner in which he has conducted Legion af-

Covington gave a brief outline of his plans for the next twelve months and asked that the members be even more loyal in the future than they have in the past in the matter of attendance.
He is expected to appoint an Armistice Day committee within the near future and detailed plans for the celebration of that occasion will be made public within the next few days.Under the retiring administration, the Legion has advanced rapidly.
Comfortable quarters have been secured in the Graham building on Main Street and have been nicely furmany occasions and the whole place has taken on the air of a club. The post has done much in the way of helping the unemployed and in obtain-for men who are deserving. In addition to this, it has raised more money than was done in any preceding year and through one of its campaigns was awarded a beautiful post

WICOMICO VOTERS

AMENDMENTSFive Changes Proposed In State's Constitution Which Will Appear On Ballots November 7thWicomico county voters will find five proposed amendments to the Constitution of Maryland upon the ballots they receive on Tuesday, November 7, which they will be expected to approve or reject, when they help select a United States Senator and Congressman. Briefly summarized the proposed amendments are:

- 1.—To increase the number of Legislative districts in Baltimore city from four to six.
- 2.—The adoption of this amendment would insure increased political power for Baltimore city, in view of the fact that each legislative district in Baltimore is entitled to six members of the Legislature and a State Senator.

At this time Baltimore has 24 members of the Legislature and four Senators. This amendment provides for 36 members of the Legislature and six Senators. The adoption of this amendment would mean that Baltimore would take another stride toward political control of Maryland.3.—Prescribing the salary of the State Comptroller and the terms of the Comptroller and Treasurer.
At present the Comptroller and Treasurer are selected every two years. The proposed amendment would extend the term to four years and also proposes such salary adjustments which seem thoroughly fair and equitable.4.—Providing that all state and county officers shall hold office for four years, except Judges of the Circuit Courts, the members of the Court of Appeals from Baltimore city and the Judges of the Baltimore City Supreme Bench.This amendment contemplates a revolutionary transformation of the of Commerce, a report was made on the present structure and the need of a new one.Mr. Harper, who has been deeply interested in the navigation problems on the Wicomico river, gave a brief outline of his findings regarding the situation at the Main Street bridge.

Engineer Burroughs also added a few facts for the enlightenment of the members present. As a result, a committee was appointed by President Adkins to inform the County Commissioners of the Chamber's attitude in the matter.The sentiment of the majority of the members present resolved itself into a view that a bridge should be built that would be modern in every respect and of sufficient width of span that it would take care of all commerce in the future. Accordingly, it was suggested to the County Commissioners that a 65 ft. span was desired, of double lift leaf design and with sunken counterweights.On Tuesday afternoon the Commissioners met and discussed the question thoroughly. A committee was appointed to confer at once with State Road Engineer Mackall in regards to the many details attending the construction of the bridge. Financial assistance may be requested. On that committee were named: Messrs.
P. Burroughs, Wm. S. Gordy, Jr.,
Graham Gunby, F. P. Adkins, Harry
Dennis, and Senator Disharoon.There can be no denying of the fact that the city needs a wide span at the Main T. gap if the commercial interests of the city are going to be developed. The present old structure will probably be taken down to Wet-tup Creek and substituted for the ferry now in use there.

Orlando W. Harrison's vision for Wicomico and Worcester counties.
Berlin's prominent nurseryman outlined the details of his vision to members of the local Chamber of Commerce on Thursday night.Declaring that the young manhood of this section was drifting away from home ties and seeking employment in the cities, Senator Harrison proposed to induce these sturdy and stalwart sons of Wicomico and Worcester to settle on small farms, to own their own homes and to make a comfortable living.The farms would be 20 acres in size and would line the highway from Salisbury to Ocean City at regular intervals, not necessarily fronting on the road, but near enough to it so that the young farmers could enjoy the advantages accruing from a modern highway.Senator Harrison pointed out how the automobile had revolutionized intensive farming and cited the instance of picking the enormous crop of peaches from his orchards. Years ago, large numbers of negroes were imported from the southern States to do this work, but this year the aid of farmers within a radius of 20 miles was enlisted. They came in their servable Fords and other cars, the Senator stated, and their labor was an 100 per cent improvement over the other and furthermore the money remained in the community rather than being carried out of it.With the advent of the automobile,

MAGNETIC FEATURES IN ARCADE'S SCREEN PLAY

Betty Compson Stars In "The Green Temptation" Showing At Local Theatre Tonight and Thursday

Betty Compson in "The Green Temptation" is showing on the screen at the Arcade Theatre tonight (Wednesday) and Thursday night. Because of the popularity of this clever little actress, the picture is expected to draw big crowds during the two performances.

Miss Compson is an indefatigable worker applying herself with untiring energy and enthusiasm to the portrayal of her roles, ever willing to do whatever is required of her, despite the sacrifice or the effort involved. In her latest picture, "The Green Temptation," she set about the task of learning several intricate Parisian dances required of her in her portrayal of the colorful role of an Apache dancer. These she mastered, under the direction of Theodore Kosloff, the noted Russian ballet artist, who also plays in the picture.

Locale—The story is laid in Paris and many scenes show the intimate haunts of the notorious Apaches, their manner of living, their virtues and vices, and their gathering places in the old Roman catacombs. The story also contains sequences depicting action on the battlefields of France and in gorgeous ballrooms in French and American homes.

Characters—The three transitions of character in Genelle, the adventurous, magnetic, Parisian Apache, played by Betty Compson, the star. First she is Genelle, a typical Apache, then Coralyne, the toast of Paris as a theatrical dancer and then as an Apache, when as a Red Cross nurse on the battlefields of France, comes her regeneration and awakening to a broader viewpoint of life and humanity. The crafty leader of the Apaches Gaspard, is played by Theodore Kosloff, noted screen favorite. The other Apache, Pitou, is played by Neely Edwards. The travelling pantomime show staged by these three as an aid to their thievery. The fascinating dances by Gaspard as Harlequin and Genelle as Columbine are guests.

Miss Compson is seen in five different dances, among them being the Apache, the Dance of Death of an Amazon Warrior, and the Pantomime dance. Her costumes are gorgeous; her dancing, an artistic treat.

Other characters that make the cast practically all-star are Mahlon Hamilton, leading man, Edward Burns, Lynore Lynnard, Mary Thurman, M. Von Hardenberg, Betty Brice and Arthur Hall.

One of the best pictures brought to Salisbury this season is booked for Monday and Tuesday, Norma Talmadge's work in "Smiling Through" has won the praise of critics in all of the larger cities where this photo play has been presented.

This amendment would make it possible for any woman to hold any office occupied by members of the male sex. It is undoubtedly a fair, wise and honorable decision. Women have been enfranchised and are eligible to occupy the majority of public offices. Their enfranchisement should now be completed by placing them upon exactly the same office-holding basis as men.

Each voter in the approaching election will have an opportunity to place a cross mark after each amendment, following the words: "For the Constitution Amendment" or "Against the Constitutional Amendment." The arrangement of the five proposed amendments will be shown in the publication of the official ballot by the Board of Election Supervisors.

LOW PRICES OF FRUIT BENEFIT HOUSEWIVES

At Present Fruits And Vegetables Are Economic Foods And Should Be Bought Abundantly

There is good news for the housewife in the report which S. B. Shaw, specialist in horticulture, for the University of Maryland Extension Service, brings back from an extensive tour of the agricultural sections of the state where fall crops are being harvested and finding a none too ready market at prices satisfactory to the farmer.

The low prices at which staple fruits and vegetables, such as apples, pears, potatoes and sweet potatoes, are selling on the farm should afford an opportunity for the consumer to purchase these commodities in quantities sufficient to last several months in the opinion of Mr. Shaw.

In the apple growing sections of the State, producers are being offered $2.75 a barrel for A. grade apples of 2 1/2 inches in size and up, reports Mr. Shaw. On the Eastern Shore, he says where as fine apples as ever grew have been produced this season the best price offered the grower has been $3.00 per barrel. Keiffer pears are selling in the orchard as low as 15 cents per half bushel basket while potatoes are ranging in price from $1.00 to $1.50 per hundred pounds.

"The consumer should not miss the opportunity to buy these fruits and vegetables in quantities," says Mr. Shaw. "With comparatively little care apples may be stored in a cool dry place and kept for several months. Potatoes also may be kept under the same conditions. Sweet potatoes require a warm dry place, preferably near the furnace."

Mr. Shaw points out that a dollar bill can be stretched considerably fur-

ELECTRIC EFFECTS IN FIFTH AVENUE SHOPS

Window Displays In New York Are Alluring With Unique Schemes Of Lighting

Fifth avenue, New York is replete these days with throngs of autumn shoppers and window displays were never more alluring.

While in the past the hat and gown shops held the balance of interest, art objects in some of the more exclusive shops are getting an unusual share of attention owing to the unique way they are exhibited.

The work of an Italian sculptor is drawing large crowds as it shows an Arab in native dress. The soft folds of his burnous fashioned from white silk, are kept in motion by a concealed electric fan and a soft red light casts an oriental radiance over the figure and intensifies the desert atmosphere.

In one of the prominent jewelry shops on the avenue there is a window display of bronze statuary and fountains. A verdant rock-bound fountain in the foreground shows a bronze figure of a merry boy holding a pelican from the beak of which water pushes from the fountain. Colored electric lights play upon the water as it trickles over the bronze figure and lend an unusual charm to the scene.

UNEARTH PERJURY PLOT TO FREE LEE JUSTICE

Local Authorities Arrest Three Persons On Conspiracy Charges. Mother Of Young Girl Held.

That Lee Justice did not give up a fight for freedom until he actually landed behind the walls of the Maryland Penitentiary comes to light in a series of letters which have fallen into the hands of local authorities.

According to the police, plans were under way to have Mrs. Collins, mother of the child Justice was found guilty of having carnal knowledge of, make an oath that she had threatened her daughter so as to cause the latter to testify falsely at the trial.

For this affidavit Mrs. Collins was to receive $50 and according to the authorities, John Justice accompanied Mrs. Collins to a lawyer's office in Snow Hill. Letters said to be from the convicted man to William Bassett, a friend in this city, disclose the above actions, and are herewith printed.

Dear Friend—You will see my son Monday morning, get him to get a car and go to Snow Hill and the lawyer and ask if the girl ought to be there, if so go after her. Mrs. Collins can tell that the girl told a story to keep from getting whipped and that I am not guilty of the charge—(signed) Lee Justice.

In the same envelope was the following unsigned letter.

You get Mrs. Collins to make statement that her girl made a false statement to her and Mr. Lee Justice is not guilty of the crime he is found guilty of before the court. The lawyer business before a jury, at law at Snow Hill, there will be fifty bucks in it for her—you understand.

William Bassett, Mrs. Collins and John Justice are now in jail on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice. Sheriff Farlowe, who was instrumental in discovering the plot, secured a confession from Bassett.

POISON IVY NOT ONLY PLANT THAT POISONS

Department of Agriculture Has List Of 100 Other Plants Having Like Toxic Properties

Although poison ivy is one of the worst offenders, it frequently is blamed for poisoning caused by other plants, says D. W. Stockberger, of the United States Department of Agriculture. The department has a list of more than 100 of such plants that grow in this country, and it is probable that there are others that may be poisonous to some people. Not all of these plants are equally poisonous, and too, there is great variation in the susceptibility of persons.

Because some of these common plants are used for ornament in the home is no reason to fear them, as most persons are not affected by them and in the great majority of cases the irritation of the skin is mild. This would probably hold true of such plants as the tomato, geranium, daffodil, and many others that are known to cause skin poisoning. Such plants, though, as the nettles, are irritating to most persons.

In the long list of plants having these toxic properties are the following, which are well known, but not all of them generally known to be poisonous: Aconite, aianthus, asparagus, castor, dog fennel, lady's slipper, wild carrot, hop, lobelia, oleander, nightshade, ox-eye, daisy, parsnip, pokeweed, smartweed, primula, butternut, poison elder or poison dogwood, blood root, mullein, cocklebur, and the mustard. The pollen of the eastern lily has been known to cause irritation of the skin, but this is probably as rare as poisoning by leaves of the geranium or the carrot. Some of these plants are poisonous when taken internally, but the list has been made out on the basis of being irritating to the skin.

"MERCHANT OF VENICE" VOTED GREAT SUCCESS

Elizabeth Players Gave Salisbury People A Rare Treat In Presenting Shakespeare's Famous Play.

The Elizabethan Players scored a big triumph in the "Merchant of Venice" which they presented before the footlights in the Armory on Wednesday evening before a large and appreciative audience.

The cast of the company was admirably fitted for the production and not only did Mr. Pelletier as Shylock and Mrs. Pelletier as Portia exhibit fine pieces of character acting but they were supported in excellent style by the other artists.

Miss Mildred Matthews, accompanied by Miss Marian Dobson at the piano, rendered several vocal selections during the intermission. Much applause greeted her singing of "One Fine Day" from the light opera, "Madame Butterfly."

The committee in charge of the performance which was held under the auspices of the local "Y" was highly gratified with the way the people received the play and it is likely that other bookings from the same agency will follow in the winter.

MARYLAND NEEDS THE SMALL 20 ACRE FARM

Attention Paid Senator Harrison's Idea By Local Chamber Of Commerce Wins Editorial Comment

Considerable space has been given in the papers of the larger cities in Maryland, Delaware and eastern Pennsylvania to Senator Harrison's plans for the small farms on the Eastern Shore beginning first along the highway from Salisbury to Ocean City. After learning that the local Chamber of Commerce had interested itself in the project, a member of the editorial staff of The Baltimore Sun has this to say on the topic:

In Salisbury some progress is being made with the plans which many Maryland citizens have urged for fully utilizing the agricultural regions of the State. The Chamber of Commerce of that town has endorsed the "one-man farm" idea of State Senator Orlando W. Harrison and has appointed a committee to study the financial questions involved.

It is to be hoped that a practical start can be taken with this project. Large and sparsely cultivated holdings are worth to the community only a fraction of what they would be worth if cut up into small farms, each owned by a single farmer. Twenty acres is frequently enough to make a well-up-to-do, and, under proper conditions, it will certainly support him and his family comfortably. And the conditions for intensive farming in the neighborhood of Salisbury are admirable.

Modern farmers in the West say that the Government made a mistake in distributing its free land in 160-acre tracts. Forty acres, they contend, is enough for any one man, and that is a burden unless the farmer has much capital. Twenty acres in Maryland is easily equivalent to forty acres in Colorado or Montana, and Senator Harrison's "one-man farm" proposal for Maryland is quite in accord with the best interests of the young farmers whom he expects to interest in it. One hopes that the financial side of the question will be solved so that the proposal may be worth if cut up into small farms, each soon put into effect.

Senator France was the man who lead the filibuster in the United States Senate which caused the loss to Maryland of $3,500,000 in Federal improvements, planned to be carried out in practically every part of the state.

Attention Voters!

Senator France deserted his post in Washington to visit the Bolsheviks, Lenin and Trotsky, in Russia, at a time when Federal aid of good roads was being attacked and when a Republican Congress, during his absence, cut the good-road aid bill from $100,000,000 to $50,000,000 annually.

DAIRY PRODUCTION IS GIVEN ON LARGE MAP

Statistics Are Arranged By States And Counties For National Exhibition At St. Paul

"Are you proud of the cows in your county?" Is the question asked by the United States Department of Agriculture on a map on which is shown the average yearly production of dairy cows in practically every county in the country. This large map was shown in the department's exhibit at the National Dairy Exhibition, at St. Paul, October 7 to 14. Dairymen thus saw at a glance just how the cows at home compare with those in any other part of the United States.

The map shows that 7 counties have cows that average more than 6,000 pounds of milk a year. Three of these counties are in Washington, while Oregon, California, Nevada and Texas have one each. The exhibit also shows an analysis of the census figures made by the Department of Agriculture, in which it is brought out that the States which lead in average production per cow are those in which the highest percentage of dairy bulls are purebred. The States are marked off into four groups according to the production of the cows. Those in the first group have an average production of 4,457 pounds of milk a year and 42.6 per cent of the dairy bulls are purebred. In the first group there is one purebred dairy bull to every 10 dairy farms, while in the other groups there is only one to every 82 dairy farms.

The 48 States are arranged in the order of the percentage of the dairy bulls purebred. Arizona, where the dairy business has been of recent development, is at the head of the list with 91 per cent.

THE LORD SHALL BE MY GOD:
—If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on, so that I come again to my father's house in peace; then shall the Lord be my God.—Genesis 28: 20, 21.

SAVE THAT $350,000 A YEAR.

If estimates made by those interested in passing the Constitutional amendment providing for elections only once in every four years are correct, the State would be saved annually $350,000 by having fewer elections. On the face of it, this seems to be a strong enough reason for causing the voters to adopt this amendment when they go to the polls on November seventh.

There are other potent arguments, however, in favor of the amendment. When elections are held each year, the populace never gets quite settled down to a normal plane before the primary campaigns begin to stir up the people again. There follow several weeks of more or less active campaigning which invariably causes the development, to some extent at least, of hard feelings. Breaches made during primary fights are sometimes never healed, to the loss of both individuals and political parties.

Under the system of quadrennial elections, the primary fights for local and State offices might be just as virulent as ever, but they would not be as frequent, and during a four year period there would be a far better chance of smoothing out all wrinkles and bringing all elements into harmony than there now is. This would put an end to the annual season of unrest and would unquestionably be beneficial to the public at large.

Another argument that might be advanced in favor of the amendment, though it be theoretical and untried, is that better qualified men and women might be induced to run for public office on account of the added remuneration of two terms as compared with one and because of the increased potentiality of being able actually to accomplish something worth while. The office holder who serves for one term only doesn't always have an opportunity to display his capabilities; it is usually those who have been re-elected term after term that make a record for themselves and for the State.

In opposition to the amendment are two arguments which will, no doubt, have some influence with many voters. The first of these is that so long as we must elect our representatives to Congress every second year, the estimated saving from quadrennial elections would be materially lessened. In this connection, it is pointed out that the people would lose more or less control over their representatives by allowing them to serve for four years instead of for two and would be powerless to express themselves save once in four years.

Another argument in opposition to the "fewer elections" amendment is that among the forty-eight States of the Union there is not one that does not elect at least one branch of its legislature for every regular session of the Assembly.

Saving, even to a smaller extent than predicted, would undoubtedly be warmly welcomed by the taxpayers of the State, and it is this argument, perhaps, more than any other which will have the greatest influence on election day.

Since the members of the upper house are elected for four years, it is reasonable to suppose that delegates to the lower house could be elected for the same length term without undue danger to the Commonwealth, and the fact that other States may hold elections every year should not influence Maryland voters against taking a progressive step that will make our State the leader and the other States the followers.

As a corollary to the passage of the amendment providing for fewer elections is the passage of the amendment the purpose of which is to bring the length of term of office of the Comptroller into harmony with the new scheme of elections and appointments. If you vote for one, vote for both.

It is hard to see how the voters of Maryland could fail to grasp this opportunity of helping decrease the cost of government and thereby the burden of taxation, and at the same time taking a step that will mark Maryland as one of the leaders of the Union in administrative affairs.

MILLIONS IN GRAFT.

Fearlessly carrying on a strong campaign of pitiless publicity in which it is showing how millions, and perhaps billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money were wasted and, in some cases, openly stolen, The American Legion Weekly is beginning to open the eyes of the public as to what the World War actually cost the United States over and beyond necessary expenditures.

Out of a cursory and random examination of 17,000 out of 150,000 war contracts, the contract audit branch of the War Department has found already more than $46,000,000 to be due the Government. At the same time, it has found considerable evidence of fraud. The scandal of the billion dollar aircraft production fraud began to be noised abroad as early as August, 1918 and, though specific charges and accusations have been made in a number of cases, to date no prosecutions have been instituted.

Working for eighteen months and unearthing volumes of evidence of fraud and mismanagement, the Graham Committee of Congress made its final report in March 1921. This report brings out specifically the strongest kind of evidence of almost every variety of corruption, negligence, and fraud; yet to date, no real action has been taken on it.

Millions of dollars have been stolen, millions have been carelessly spent. The Department of Justice is, no doubt, fully cognizant of the actual state of affairs. But so far has accomplished only the following:

Contracts involving from $40,000,000 to $150,000,000 with the United States Harness Company have been voided by the President for fraud, yet there have been no indictments.

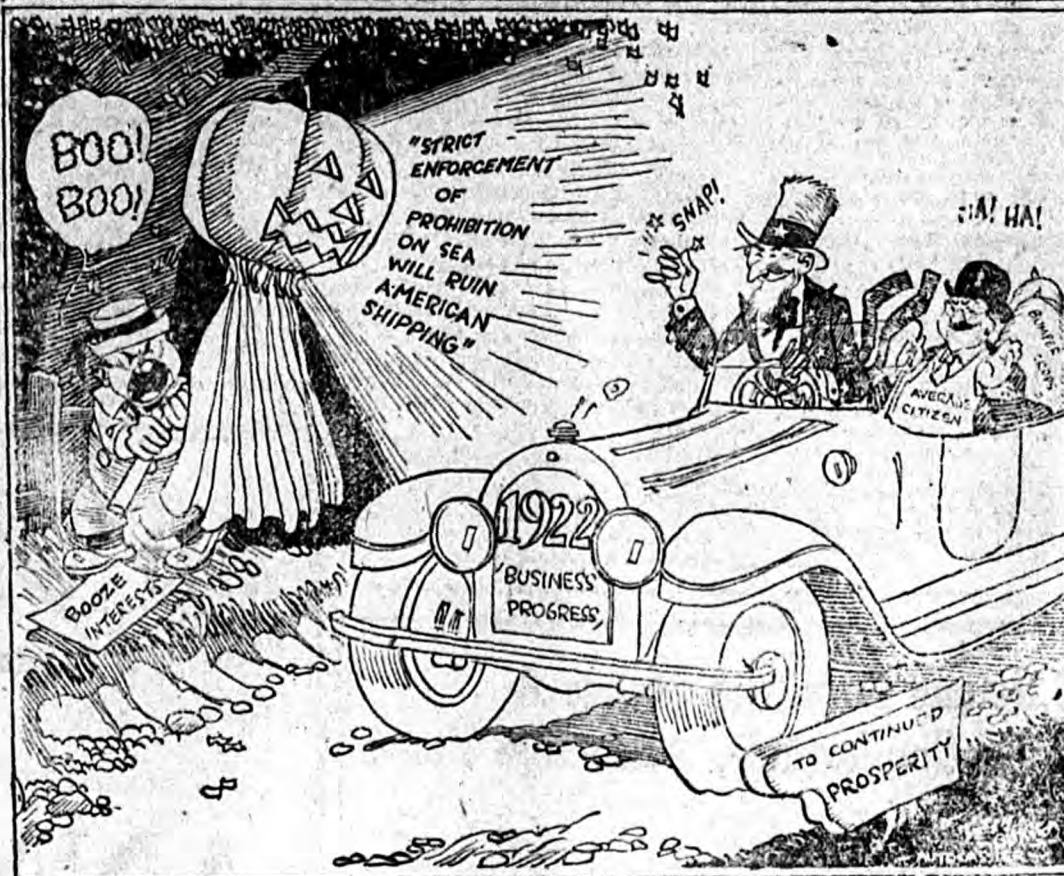

A former captain in the Motor Transport Corps has been convicted of accepting a bribe of $800 from agents for a skid-chain company and sentenced to two years in prison. At present he is at liberty, pending an appeal.

Claims for $9,000,000 have been made on seemingly unimpeachable grounds against the Lincoln Motor Company, but no suit has been instituted.

Suit has been brought for the recovery of 4,700 patents, valued at millions of dollars, sold by Francis P. Garvan, former Alien Property Custodian, for $250,000 to the Chemical Foundation, an organization of which Mr. Garvan has become president.

And this is all that has been done in the interests of the taxpayers of this country who have been mulcted of millions. What has stopped the Department of Justice from securing justice for the people whom it is supposed to represent?

Regular Hallowe'en Scare

The answer is complicated. Those on the defensive, those who have defrauded the Government, are fighting for the things that men hold most dear: money, reputation, social standing, political influence, liberty, even life itself. The defendants have spent their money lavishly while the Government has been niggardly in its appropriations to fight the war grafters. The defendants have invoked every ounce of political pressure of which they are capable, and seem thus effectively to have stopped for the time being the course of justice.

Partisan politics also enters into the matter. The Democrats at first believed the effort to unearth war expenditure scandals was a campaign trick on the part of the Republicans, and it may have been; but recent disclosures find that the Democrats are beginning to realize the truth of the charges that have been made. On the other hand, the Democrats now are caustic in their questioning of the Republican party in so long delaying the prosecution of war fraud cases and seemingly are anxious for the grafters to be brought to the bar of justice.

If the question of party can be relegated to the background for the time being, while something is done for the good of the nation as a whole, the rank and file of both great parties will give thanks for having been relieved of a distressing burden placed upon them by the conscienceless profiteers who, in the time of crisis, took advantage of the necessities of the Government and of the people for and by whom that Government exists.

ABOUT ANTS, ELEPHANTS AND US.

Zoologists, who, in simpler language, are the bug-ologists, after microscopically observing the habits and conduct of ants for years, bring us the interesting information that these busy little workers in the humbler world are by their own voluntary action the most moral of all living creatures.

The ant, they tell us, is so intelligent that we are justified in trying to describe its existence by a kind of allegorical comparison with human life.

Busy as are these minute little creatures, their females are scrupulously clean. Several times each day they better their appearance with combs and brushes. The mothers are the only ones that are allowed to eat all they want. All others, by their established law, must abstain from over eating and drinking.

Soldier ants protect both the young and those who care for the young. The mother ant is treated with all the deference of an empress.

The ants limit their sleep to just that which is their need of rest and they destroy the drone and all those who would attempt to over-indulge in leisure or luxury.

They have architects and engineers. They build houses and bridges to conform with definite plans. They have their agriculture and horticulture and have been observed to domesticate as many as 584 different kinds of creatures.

Wonderful is the story of the ant. Some of our scientists who are better zoologists than sociologists quote the old Hebrew saying of thousands of years ago, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard, consider her way," and suggest that there is much in the ant the man might well try to emulate.

Other scientists tell us to consider the elephant. The Hindoo tells us that he gets good work from that giant creature only so long as he is good to it. Should he abuse or offend it, he would lose the elephant's willingness to work and he might lose his life by incurring the elephant's ire. To appease the elephant, the Hindoo always feeds it before he himself partakes of food.

That gentleness and generosity do much to gain good work, is the moral lesson the scientist hands to us as a result of these observations.

But who wants to be either an elephant or an ant? Who would want to emulate their ways, interesting and perhaps intellectual as they appear to be?

The elephant has none of the generosity for which the scientific observer pleads. The elephant says, "Feed me first or I am likely to get mad and kick the daylight out of you." There is nothing in that sort of a spirit worth emulating.

The ant is good to its own but it wars on every other creature that it cannot subdue and use. There is nothing so very big and magnanimous about that. What is more, outside of the grotesque trick elephants in the circus ring, no scientist has ever called upon us to see or hear an animal symphony, nor have they shown us animal-made picture or gracefully formed statue. Has any one ever yet seen an elephant pause in rapture before a gorgeous sunset?

What eye at the microscope has ever seen an ant lay down its work upon its hill to hark to the song of the lark?

Whatever are man's imperfections he is not only the research student, the truth seeker, but what is finer, he is the great appreciator. To be able to appreciate the wonders of the world—that in itself is living the higher life.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY CITY WIDE CONGRESS ON OCTOBER 4TH

WHEREAS, the "Fewer Elections" Amendment to be voted upon on November 7th provides that both branches of the legislature shall be elected for two terms;

AND WHEREAS, under such a plan the people of Maryland would be powerless to express themselves upon any important State issue, save only once in four years;

AND WHEREAS, among the entire forty-eight States of the Union there is not one that does not elect at least one branch of its legislature for every regular session thereof;

AND WHEREAS, the plea of Economy advanced for this measure is grotesquely inadequate inasmuch as Congressional elections will still be held every second year, and any move to elect Representatives to the National Congress for two years will be overwhelmingly defeated by the people of the United States.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of Directors of the City-Wide Congress urges the defeat of the said "Fewer Elections" Amendment by voters on November seventh;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that copies of this resolution be sent to all of the affiliated organizations, to all other civic and labor organizations and to every newspaper published in the State.

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING AT PARK ST. HOME

Miss Lucille Horsey Becomes Bride Of Mr. George Gerlach At Noon On Saturday

One of the most beautiful weddings of the season occurred Saturday at one o'clock p. m. at the home of Mrs. K. C. Horsey, Park St., when her daughter, Lucille Gerlach, became the bride of Mr. George Gerlach, also of this city.

Preceding the ceremony, "At Dawn" was impressively sung by Mrs. James Witham, of Washington, D. C., accompanied by Miss Marian Dobson at the piano and Mrs. Albert Allen with the violin, who also played the wedding march.

Promptly at one o'clock, the bride, attractively attired in a gown of white crepe satin, embroidered in pearls with veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms, and carrying white Ophelia roses, entered on the arm of her mother, by whom she was given in marriage, and proceeded to the altar, where she was met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Cooper Smith, of Cambridge, Md.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Pauline Horsey, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of apricot taffeta, with large black picture hat, and carried Ophelia roses; and Misses Laura Bounds, Kathryn Williams and Bessie Booth, of this city, and Miss Mildred Covington, of New Church, Va., as bridesmaids, wearing bright colored taffetas and large black hats, and carrying pink Ophelia roses.

Little Miss Margaret Kelly, niece of the bride, wearing a costume was Miss Natalie Gerlach, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Immediately after the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Gould, of Cambridge, a buffet luncheon was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Gerlach left for a honeymoon trip North.

The bride's going-away costume was a dress of dark blue pique tulle, with hat to match.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Witham, of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Witham, of New Church, Va., Mrs. Covington, of New Church, Va., Miss Annie Murrill, of Pocomoke, Md., and Mrs. Hearne, of Cambridge and Miss Natalie Gerlach, of Cambridge.

TUESDAY ANNIVERSARY BIG SALISBURY FIRE

Million Dollar Loss Caused By Conflagration On October 17, 1886 That Swept Town

Tuesday was the anniversary of the great Salisbury fire of October 17, 1886. The blaze started in the stables of Mr. Frank Toadvine, Camden Ave. and Dock Street at 6:30 in the evening and raged until early the next morning.

The Fire Department was then inadequately equipped and when the volunteers took out the "old steamer" the engine failed to work. Telegraph calls were sent to Wilmington and three companies came down by train.

The burned district comprised all of what is now the business section of the town, burning from Camden Ave. north and south to High and from the pivot bridge up Main St. to Division and out north Division to the home of Mrs. Margaret Parsons. The conflagration caused a million dollar loss. Relief and aid was given the stricken town by the neighboring communities.

MARYLAND BOYS AHEAD IN JUDGING CATTLE

Harford County Agricultural Club
Team Wins First Prize At National Dairy Show

Involving the great mid-western dairy section of the country and capturing first place in the junior dairy cattle judging contest at the National Dairy Show at St. Paul, Minn., Saturday, October 7, Maryland agricultural club boys have won their second livestock judging contest of national scope and importance within a year.

While a Maryland team was successful in winning the national livestock judging contest at the South-eastern Fair at Atlanta, Ga., last October with a prize trip to Europe, the victory at St. Paul last Saturday is the first which Maryland boys have captured at the National Dairy Show. Two years ago when the Maryland team first made its appearance in the show, the team placed fourth and last year came fifth.

The Maryland team was composed of Hubert Snodgrass, Richard N. Wills and Charles Fendall Cushing, all of Harford County. They were selected to represent the state in the dairy cattle judging contest held at the Timonium State Fair during September. All the boys are members of agricultural clubs in Harford County and received their preliminary training from County Agent B. B. Derrick, Assistant County Agent, G. R. Stutz and specialists of the University of Maryland Extension Service in preparation for the Timonium contest.

Under the rules governing the contest the boys were required to place in the order of merit four specimens of each of the four dairy breeds—Guernseys, Jerseys, Holsteins and Ayrshires and to give written reasons for their selections.

The team was accompanied by P. W. Chichester, assistant state boys' club agent, and B. B. Derrick, County Agent of Harford County.

The expenses of the team to St. Paul this year were paid by contributions from livestock breeders throughout the State who were interested in the project, by Louis McLane Merryman, of Cockeysville, and by the Rockville and Harford County Fair Associations.

1856 ADVERTISEMENT IS INTERESTING CURIO

Hand-bill Got Out By I. H. A. Dulany, Pioneer, Wicomico Merchant Contained News Dispatch

"Wonderful Overthrow Of Free-soilism By The Election Of James Buchanan As President Of The United States of America" is printed on the top of what is probably the oldest advertising circular in Wicomico County. This interesting advertising sheet was distributed back in 1856 by I. H. A. Dulany who conducted a merchandise store at Apphia in that period.

The curio is now in the possession of his eldest son, Rev. H. S. Dulany, of Sharptown and is in a fair state of preservation. The "handbill" is 9 x 12 inches and has a very elaborate border set around the typed form. In the center, underneath the big black type telling of the overthrow of free-soilism, is a picture of a railroad with engine and cars, characteristic of the period's latest invention.

Underneath this curio, the merchant goes on to say: "But much to the great wonder and astonishment of dealers, that the undersigned is daily running off lots of goods, from a large and well selected assortment, just received from the great metropolis, at very moderate prices, considering the recent advance of goods."

"He flatters himself that the style and quality of his goods are such that cannot fail to attract his general trade. Having, during the present autumn, enlarged his store-house and made entirely new arrangement in the interior, which renders every part susceptible of convenience for any and all classes of goods—also giving sufficient capacity to a large number of dealers, without being crowded.

The general stock consists of "Groceries, Hardware, Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots and Shoes and Fancy Goods." The circular is signed by the owner of the store, J. H. A. Dulany.

Mr. Dulany, the pioneer merchant, was born here in Wicomico county, in early life he went into business first in Baltimore and then in Washington, later returning to this county at Toney Tank where he set up his business in 1850. The territory then however bore the name Somerset. Mr. Dulany married Miss Annie White, daughter of Captain Henry White, who lived down on the Wicomico River. There were six children: Henry S. Dulany, now at Sharptown; A. J. Dulany, of Fruitland; Joseph B. Dulany, of New York City, and one daughter, now Mrs. B. A. Austin, 1927 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

TIDES HAVE PECULIAR ACTION ABOUT ISLAND

Scientists At A Loss To Explain Rise And Fall Of Sea Around South Sea Group

The peculiarities of the tides in the Society group of islands, in the South seas, were remarked as long ago as the days of Captain Cook. In reality, the rise and fall of the sea—which seldom exceeds 15 inches—can scarcely be called tidal, for it is not influenced by the moon; high water comes invariably at midnight and noon, and at sunset and sunrise the water is always low, says a writer in Harper's.

The local belief is that these so-called tides are due to wind; it is true that the mornings are usually calm and that the breeze springs up toward midday, to die away in the late afternoon. At 11 or 12 o'clock, then, an increasing surf breaches over the low barrier of coral and causes the sheltered waters of the lagoon to rise a neat theory until one stops to think that the hours about midnight (when the tide is precisely as high as at noon) are among the calmest of the 24, and that the noon tide does not fall on days of glassy stillness.

SIMPLE RULES GIVEN FOR NORMAL WEIGHT

Persons Should Maintain Suitable Ratio Between Proteins, Carbohydrates And Fat

The road that leads to normal weight is not difficult. The fuel intake must be lessened; there should be maintained a suitable ratio between the protein, carbohydrates and fats in the foods.

The chief fuels are starches, sugars and fats. While protein is used by the body as a building material, it is also a source of energy. The chief building materials are protein, lime, iron and phosphorus. Regulating substances which should be consciously added to the diet are vitamins and laxatives. Fruits and vegetables are the most important sources of these for the obese.

When a diet for reducing is planned, the fuel may, to a considerable extent, be safely reduced. At the same time the body retains its normal need for building and regulating substances. Protein is a tissue-builder. It is needed to replace the small amount of tissue worn out daily and to maintain that which is already built. Therefore it should not be eliminated from the diet, but should be eaten in moderation. Skim milk is rich in both lime and phosphorus, while fruits and vegetables will supply iron and the various regulating substances.

Proteins are thought of, chiefly in the so-called hearty foods, such as lean meats, eggs, cheese, milk, cereals and nuts. Fats are found in cream butter, vegetable fats and oils (as olive oil), in fat meats, bacon and in meat fats, such as lard and suet; they are also found in chocolate and in some nuts. The source of carbohydrates are starches and sweet foods, such as sweets, fruits and some vegetables.—Delinctor.

MAGNETIC COMPASS IS FOUND OUT AT FAULT

Commanders Of Vessels No Longer Place Faith Instrument But Use Gyro-Compass

The ordinary magnetic compass has one great fault; its needle does not point to the north pole, but is always some distance to one side or the other of the true North line. Further, this deviation varies from year to year, and it is seldom the same in any two parts of the world.

This kind of compass, too, is liable to be upset if there are metals or magnetic substances in its neighborhood. The latest instrument carried by all great ships is called the gyro-compass. It consists for the most part of a heavy wheel turned at very high speed by an electric motor. The wheel's axle is so mounted that it can turn in any direction. If its axle can swing on its mounting, a heavy wheel rotating at high speed will point always in the same direction.

The gyro-compass is set while the ship is in harbor, and no matter how much the ship rolls, or what turns she makes, its wheel remains faithful to its original direction. Owing to its jointed mounting it does not follow the movements of the ship.

The Religion Spiller

A sap-headed young minister who went to a Western settlement to regenerate the inhabitants found himself before long rewarded for his efforts by being ridden out of the community on a rail.

GLASS STOMACH SHOWS DIGESTION OF FOODS

Testing Containers Tell If Proteins Are Digestible and Which Variety Is Best.

It is now possible to determine the digestibility of the protein in foods and whether or not it is necessary to cook them, without conducting feeding tests, thus saving much time and expense, say the specialists of the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, who have adapted a chemical method to this work. The method is carried out by the use of laboratory apparatus that might be called an artificial stomach, since by its use it is possible to imitate at least a part of the digestive processes.

The proteins to be tested, those from beans, for instance, are placed in glass containers in a dilute solution of hydrochloric acid similar to that found normally in the stomach, the proper quantity of pepsin is added, and the mixture is placed in an incubator where the temperature is kept at the same point as that of the human stomach, about 37 degrees centigrade. After a definite number of hours the contents of the container are sampled and analyzed. The digestive effect is measured by the ratio of what is known as amino nitrogen to total nitrogen. By running through cooked and uncooked protein from beans it is possible to determine which is the more easily acted upon by the chemicals in this artificial stomach and, consequently, by the stomach itself.

After the food has been acted upon by the pepsin and hydrochloric acid, it is treated with trypsin and a dilute alkaline solution, as nearly as possible like the digestive juices found in the small intestine. This second process tells the investigator what the probable digestive action on any particular food will be in the intestine.

In the human or animal body there are, of course, other factors that enter into the digestion of food or feeds, but the "artificial stomach" will tell if one protein is more digestible than another and whether it is more digestible when cooked or raw. It does not tell what kinds of proteins are contained in a food or whether the variety is sufficient for all the needs of the body.

VENETIAN PRINCESS FIRST USER OF FORK

Doye's Daughter Punished For Eating With Gold Instrument Contaminated Invention of Evil One.

Investigations made as to the exact period when people gave up eating with their fingers and resorted to forks have failed to give definite results.

It is known, however, that, in the year 1050, in Constantinople, the daughter-in-law of Orseolo, doge of Venice, used a fork to convey food from plate to mouth and thereby greatly scandalized the faithful who upon her have considered this innovation as an invention of the evil one.

Saint Peter Damien relates the affair with considerable pious indignation and, after explaining how the Venetian princess made use of a little gold fork instead of eating with her fingers, adds:

"But the Almighty Father made known to this woman how odious to Him was her vanity, and His wrath was made manifest unto her, so that, brandishing over her head the blade of divine justice, He straightway caused every part of her body to rot away."

All this for the heinous crime of using a fork! As a matter of sober fact, the doye's daughter-in-law and her husband were carried off in the great plague of 1050, among the victims of which it may safely be said, were many of the faithful who ate with their fingers.

MECHANICS USE PIANO IN LOCOMOTIVE SHOPS

Infallible Test For Discovering Cracks And Defects In Locomotives Has Been Devised

A piano seems to be out of place in a locomotive workshop, yet it has been found to play a very useful part. There is no better way of discovering cracks and defects in the different parts of the machinery than by striking the metal with a hammer and then putting the piano note which is heard with the piano must have a trained ear for music, seeing that it is his business to listen for the slightest dissonance. If the metal rings harmoniously with the piano note all is well; the faintest dissonance will be noticed by the ordinary method of hammering are at once evident when the piano test is employed. A locomotive that rings true all over, each note which it yields synchronizing properly with the same note as given by the piano, is certainly fit to take its place in service on the railway—Scientific American.

URGES DISCRETION IN HIGHWAY REGULATIONS

Bureau of Public Roads Asks For Measures To Prevent Undue Injury To Road Services.

Regulation of the character and weight of highway traffic to prevent undue injury to the highway is an administrative matter and can not be properly taken care of by detailed and arbitrary legislation. This is the conclusion of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture, based on experiments to determine the effect of all kinds of traffic on road surfaces and observations on conditions throughout the United States.

Even in a single State conditions vary to such an extent that a load which may be carried on one road without injury may cause untold damage to another. Under the average regulatory laws thus far made effective, the greatest service has not been secured from the best roads, nor the safety of the lesser capacity roadways assured. The influence of subgrade soils, tire equipment, distribution of load, the wheels, speed, and many other variables is too complex to be written into law.

The seasonal variation alone in the carrying capacity of the roadbeds, due to moisture conditions, is one of the most serious of all the causes of damage. Highway authorities therefore must be given wide discretion in traffic regulation. The bureau urges that as a solution of the problem the State highway officials of each State be given broad powers, so that traffic can be regulated to suit conditions as they exist at any particular time.

MEMORIAL TREES LINE LONG ROAD STRETCHES

People of Pennsylvania County Have Worthily Paid Tribute To Fallen War Heroes.

York County Pennsylvania, has the honor of possessing the largest stretch of road lined with memorial trees in memory of the fallen heroes in the great war in the country. The trees, numbering several thousand, have been in course of planting for two years under the auspices of the York Woman's Club. They extend in a continuous line on both sides of the Lincoln highway entirely across the county. Two tablets, at either end of the 25-mile thoroughfare, were recently unveiled and dedicated. At the extreme end of the highway, near the town of York, a tablet was dedicated to the memory of the fallen heroes. The trees have been registered with the American Forestry Association.

Every tree is marked with the name of a Pennsylvania soldier who gave his life in the war, and the trees have been registered with the American Forestry Association.

HESSIAN FLY HARMFUL FALL WHEAT PLANTING

State Entomologist Gives Safe Dates For Sowing Winter Crops—October 3-14 In Wicomico

Serious losses, running as high as twenty-five per cent of the crop in some localities have been attributed to the Hessian Fly during the past year, says E. N. Cory, State Entomologist, who cautions farmers against the safe dates for planting wheat are observed.

The safe dates for planting wheat have been calculated anew, says Mr. Cory, and correspond very closely with the actual practice of the best grain farmers in the different sections of the State. It has also been determined that the safe date for sowing wheat to avoid depredations by the Hessian Fly is identical with the average date on which wheat may be sown to secure the best development of the plant and yield of grain.

The safe wheat planting dates as calculated for the different sections of Maryland for an elevation of two hundred feet are given by Mr. Cory as follows:

Cecil, north half of Harford, ex- roll counties, Sept. 29 to Oct. 9; extreme north tip of Baltimore and Queen Anne's, lower Harford, middle Baltimore, lower half of Cecil, upper half of Frederick and Washington counties, Sept. 30 to Oct. 10; upper half of Caroline, practically all of Queen Anne's, upper Anne Arundel, lower portion of Baltimore and Carroll, all of Howard, upper tip of Montgomery, lower half of Frederick and Washington, most of Allegany and upper half of Garrett, Oct. 1 to Oct. 11; lower half of Caroline, all but southern tip Prince George's, nearly all of Mont- gomery, southern extremity of Al- legany, and southern two-thirds of Worcester, upper half of Wicomico and Dorchester, lower portion of Anne

Essay Wins Trip to Washington

Stanley Newcomb, 14 years old, of San Diego, Calif., is the boy scout who wrote an essay on "How I Can Make Highways More Safe," winning over 400,000 competitors. He gets a gold watch and a trip to Washington, from the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Arundel and Prince George's and upper half of Calvert, Oct. 3 to 13; middle portion of Worcester, upper tip of Somerset, lower half of Wicomico, Dorchester and Calvert, nearly all of Charles and upper tip of St. Mary's, Oct. 4 to 14; lower Worcester, nearly all of Somerset and St. Mary's and the southern portion of Charles, Oct. 5 to 15.

The dates should be advanced or retarded, explains Mr. Cory, as the elevation in the different sections happens to be above or below 200 feet. The dates should be one day earlier than those given for each 100 feet of elevation above 200 and one day later for each 100 feet of elevation below 200.

GREETING DAWN WITH LAUGH

One is often asked by intending emigrants whether the laughing Jackass is the wild ass of Australia or merely a joke invented for the new arrival's benefit.

The Kookaburra, as it is commonly called, is sometimes known as the Brown Kingfisher. I have never seen it fish or dive, but I have seen it dig for grubs and mussels on the banks of creeks. The mussels it breaks with its strong bill against stones.

Out back, "jacky" is regarded as the bushman's clock, for at the first streak of day this uncanny bird fills paddock and gully with homeric peals of laughter more startling than a bugle call.

Jacky's sense of fun is one of the real things in Australian bird life. I have known a pair of Jackasses to stop a serious fight between two timber-getters. The sudden outburst of merriment from above caused the two men to join in and shake hands.

Jacky is easily domesticated, and most companionable until his sense of humor is distributed; then he is much better to let him enjoy his laugh at a great distance.

In building a nest in the hollow of a dead tree Jacky takes the precaution to ringbark the approach as a protection against egg-eating ants. Not only is the Southern Kookaburra the sworn enemy of poisonous reptiles, he is also the protector of smaller birds in hatching time. Hearing a hen thrush complaining shrilly of the approach of an intruder, I once saw him jumping upon the intruder from the gum bough and seize the up-crawling culprit by the back of the neck and beat it to pulp on the stones below.

The new arrival who hears for the first time a series of shrill chinnations from a bush must accept them as a welcome from a genuine bird friend—London Mail.

Fame.

George Jones, a British painter of mediocre talent and now quite forgotten, took great pride in a fancied likeness to the Duke of Wellington and tried in degree to make up for the part. A friend who was telling the duke about it one day added that the resemblance must be very great because Jones was frequently addressed on the street as "Your Grace."

"Strange—very strange," muttered the conqueror of Napoleon. "Nobody ever addressed me as 'Mr. Jones'—Everybody's Magazine.

"Mistur" Day

It was the eleventh of November, and a dark down South was asked if he knew what was being celebrated that day.

"Suttinly, suh," he replied; "Mistur day, suh."

"Armistice day, Sam," he was corrected.

"No, suh—Mistur day, suh. You see, we were ordered tuh go over de top dat mornin', when along comes de news dat de war was over; so de Germans done mistur suh; dey done mistur."—Everybody's Magazine.

GUEST OUT WITH FACTS IN CASE

He Always Suffered, No Matter What He Ate, Says Baltimore Citizen

"I believe in helping the other fellow and I want everybody who suffers to know what that wonderful medicine did for me," said William F. Guest of 2011 Wilkins Ave., Baltimore, Md.

For about a year indigestion and stomach trouble had me in a bad fix. No matter what I ate, I always suffered afterwards. What I ate a slice of bread, it would give me trouble. Sometimes gas and bloating would pain me terribly and make my heart beat like a hammer. Pains in my hip made me suffer a whole lot, too, and I was so nervous I would jump at the least noise. At night I would roll and toss for hours, and I was just so run down and sluggish that I never had any pep or energy.

"Tanlac simply did wonders for me. Why, my appetite and digestion are excellent now, that pain in my hip has left me, my nerves are steady, I sleep like a log and just feel fine all the time. There's nothing like Tanlac for such troubles as I had."

Major Portion Of Check Secured From Maryland Tuberculosis Sanatorium Board Through Efforts Of Hon. Wm. S. Gordy Jr. To Be Used In Doubling Capacity Of Pine Bluff.

Pine Bluff Sanatorium will erect a $25,000 building sometime in the near future, using part of the money recently secured in check form from the Maryland Tuberculosis Sanatorium Board through the efforts of Hon. Wm. S. Gordy Jr. who as State Comptroller is a member of the Board of both the Sabillasville and Pine Bluff institutions.

Mr. Gordy recently presented the latter authorities with a check for $30,000 which he had succeeded in drawing out of a fund of about $100,000 that had been turned over to the Maryland Tuberculosis Sanatorium Board by the United States Government as payment for disabled soldiers treated in the Blue Ridge mountain home.

Inasmuch as the state had appropriated sufficient sums to cover the current expenses of the Sabillasville institution, the money for the soldiers came under the classification of excess fees under the state budget law. When Mr. Gordy learned of this, he requested the Governor to sanction the application of part of it to the Pine Bluff Sanatorium, inasmuch as there was no special provision by the last legislature for the local hospital.

Maryland Headquarters To Soon Announce Bundle Day For All Over The State

Reports from Constantinople, Mitylene, Athens and Salonika to Maryland Headquarters in Near East, via New York, show that the refugee situation is growing increasingly serious and that the total number of refugees may be 800,000. Food and clothing are critically needed, for not only are many of the great throngs of refugees on the islands and other places around Smyrna starving but they are in rags, some of them are naked.

To get clothing for them, Maryland Headquarters will soon announce a Bundle Day all over the state and the people of Maryland, who have been so generous in the past, says Harold P. Pellegri, state director, are asked to give old and new clothing, to these people who are suffering agonies, many of them not only physically but mentally, they having lost dear ones, in the great fire, or by the Turks.

RICHARDSON-FISHER.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher, McKemie Park, Va., when their daughter, Miss Hilda Fisher, became the bride of Mr. Orville Richardson of that place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Herman Hastings, formerly of Salisbury.

The bride wore a traveling suit of navy blue with hat to match and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The home was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants and there were about 50 guests, among whom were Mrs. L. B. Harris and Miss Mary Harris of Salisbury. After a luncheon, the couple left for Philadelphia and New York where they will spend their honeymoon later returning to McKemie Park for permanent location there.

President Of Local Club Urges Full Attendance At Noon Luncheon On Thursday

Rotarians have been urged by President Grier to be present at the Y. M. C. The noon-day meeting is necessary to allow the Governor to carry out his schedule as planned.

The local club has never held a 100% meeting and the officials are very anxious that every member be present on this occasion, both in order to meet George Lumb and to establish a new record for attendance. Letters have been mailed to each Rotarian urging co-operation and it is confidently expected that every man will be on hand Thursday.

CIRCLE AVE. BUILDING CAUSES BITTER FIGHT

Salisbury Realty Company Supports Home Owners In Protest Against Salisbury Bazaar Enterprise

Stormy sessions and sharp clashes between opposing counsel marked the hearings given by the City Council to the property owners on Circle Ave., after the latter had protested against the granting of a permit to the Salisbury Bazaar for the erection of a one and a half story concrete building on the south side of Circle Avenue.

Strenuous objections were set forth by the residents on this street who anticipated a depreciation of their home values if the proposed building was allowed to be erected and the company permitted to open up their show and sales rooms there. These owners were strong in their denunciation of the probable installation of a live-stock auction block on the property directly opposite them and which they considered would be a nuisance.

At the meeting of the Mayor and City Council on October 9th, the permit to build was granted to Mr. Guy Long, Mr. Benjamin Johnson and Mr. Curtis Long, who sold the lot to the Salisbury Bazaar Company, secured the permit.

On Thursday night at a special meeting called at the request of the property owners on Circle Ave., the matter was opened again to discussion, the Council listening to the heated arguments of both parties. Actual settlement of the affair was postponed to the regular weekly meeting on Monday night.

Attorneys Freeny and Ellegood, representing the Salisbury Realty Company were present at this assembly, together with Messrs. W. U. Dickerson, U. F. White, R. F. Dobson and J. Windsor. Mr. Benjamin Johnson presented his side of the case, saying that he and Mr. Long had purchased the lot from the Salisbury Realty Co., at their sale several years ago, and that since that time had been unable to dispose of it because the section was regarded as a business and not a residential section of the city.

Therefore, Mr. Johnson went on to say, now that he had a chance to make a sale, he could not see why he should be denied it, because a few property owners objected to what seemed to be inevitable, namely business operations on Circle Ave.

Mr. Long added to his partner's statements in a brief way, asserting that if the residents who protested against the enterprise about to be established there, wanted to make the street exclusively residential, then they could buy the lot in question and the building would be stopped. He considered his lot as an investment that could not be held a lifetime.

Mr. Ellegood spoke at length on the propriety of the granting of the permit against these people's wishes and emphasized the fact that the proposed auction sales would constitute a nuisance. Mr. Freeny requested that the Councilmen would review the situation with respect and justice to the wishes of the present home owners on the street. He acknowledged the power but not the moral right of the City Council to grant the permit.

After hearing the above discussion, President White of the Council stated that the permit to build a concrete structure on Circle Ave. would stand, but that the Salisbury Bazaar would be notified that a license would be required for it to conduct its auction sales there, the character of which might be limited by the city ordinance on that point.

WICOMICO COUNTY PROVIDES MOST GRACIOUSLY FOR ITS AGED WOMEN

Home-Like Atmosphere And Kind Associations Endear Salisbury Home For The Aged To Its Residents—Made Possible By Gifts Of Late Philanthropist, John B. Parsons.

One of the most deserving institutions of the Eastern Shore is the Salisbury Home for the Aged. No greater blessing could come to aged womanhood than the privilege of passing the closing years of life in this splendid home. We say home, because it is a home; in surroundings, in comfort, in protection and attention. No description of pen or tongue can fully describe its wonderful provisions for residents. They are not inmates, for those who live there have all the privilege of going in and out at pleasure.

There are no restrictions, and a homelike system of living exists, where each woman feels like she is a member of one great family whose interests and pleasures are mutual. Perhaps it would be better to briefly review the history of this home that the readers may get an idea of the growth of this institution from a small beginning and how the struggling efforts of a few faithful women of Salisbury attracted the attention of one of the most successful men that ever crossed the border line of Wicomico County and whose heart was yearning for the mothers of his native town.

This home originated in the minds of a few of Salisbury's noble hearted women who opened the Home in California without much money to start the good work, but with great faith and undiminished efforts. It was a success from the beginning. The first plans called for a Home for the Aged of both sexes and a few men were admitted at first, but soon this feature was dropped and women alone were admitted. This restriction at first caused some dissatisfaction, but the wisdom of the plan was soon apparent to all. Women have shared the blessing of this haven of rest for nineteen years and every year has brought added comforts and conveniences to the residents.

The efforts of the promoters of this institution attracted the attention of John B. Parsons who was born in Salisbury and whose early life was spent in his home town. After he began his very wealthy and philanthropic spirit turned toward this institution in honor of his mother, to whom he was devoted in all the years of his life. Young Parsons began work as a clerk in the stores of Salisbury when a mere boy, but when B. C. & A. railroad office was opened in Salisbury with A. J. Benjamin in charge young Parsons was made assistant.

He later went to Philadelphia and entered the street car service at a very small salary, but this was the turning point in his life. Here is a story said to be the key to his success. An aged lady was frequently traveling on his car line and to her he gave special attention and assisted her in getting on and off the car, though it is said he did not know the lady at that time, but she was the mother of the manager of a superior office.

She told of the courteous act of the young man to those higher up in authority and requested that he be rewarded for his kindness to her. He was soon promoted and in his promotion he demonstrated ability which was soon recognized and he became a valued and trusted official. Later he was chosen by the railway officials and financiers to consolidate the great railway system of Chicago, St. Paul and the North Pacific Company and after directing its affairs to a high degree of success returned to Philadelphia and was made president of the Union Traction Company of that city which position he held until his retirement. He died in 1919.

His first assistance toward the Home was to pay off the debt on the first building bought, located in that part of Salisbury known as California. Thirteen years ago he purchased and fitted up the Naylor property on the north side of Salisbury. And from 1916 until his death he provided sufficient funds annually to cover the expense of the Home.

In 1916 he purchased Lemon Hill as a new Home for the Aged, but it was not occupied until certain improvements were made. When these were completed and the Home occupied the Naylor property was still to be kept up for the use of the Home. He provided in his will that the new Home should be perfected by the income of one half of the residue of his estate with the stipulation that as soon as the accrued income should amount to seventy thousand dollars the first wing proposed should be added to the Lemon Hill property and likewise the second wing should be erected when an additional increase of seventy thousand dollars was noted. The entire income from the Trust Company is to be paid to the Trustees of the Home to be used according to their judgment. It is estimated that the income will be sufficient to improve the Lemon Hill property by 1925.

The Home has been located on the Naylor estate for thirteen years, but it has been in operation for nineteen years, during which period forty-seven aged ladies have been cared for and sheltered and in that time twenty-five have died, leaving twenty-two now being cared for by the authorities. Some of these are well and able to sew, knit and do much other light work while others are handicapped by the weight of years and are unable only to move about and take care of their rooms.

The oldest lady is Mrs. Miles Hopkins at the age of ninety-seven years. She was born in Traskin district and in early life married Isaac Hopkins and later moved to Salisbury. Her husband was town bailiff of Salisbury for six years, lighted the first lamps put on the streets of the town and also put up many hogs and geese running at large soon after the town was incorporated.

She has a vast store of knowledge relating to the early history of Salisbury and the people who lived there when she moved to the place. Her memory is good and mind very clear.

She has been in the Home nineteen years and in fact it has been said that her condition first suggested this altruistic idea for the aged. When asked for the secret of her long life she has but one reason and that is she has always been careful in her eating, never eating anything again after she had once felt ill effects from it. Her policy was never to eat in excess or to partake of very rich, heavy food. She is very active and cheerful.

The next oldest is Mrs. Sarah Hitchens, widow of Nathaniel Hitchens, who lived in Delmar fifty-one years. She is totally blind and is quietly waiting for the end of her journey. Another interesting character is Miss Ethel Fooks, aged seventy-six years. She is quite feeble but walks about the building and is especially interested in her room and in a family tree hanging upon the wall. This was made by William Hearn, of Lexington, Kentucky. It traces the Hearn family back to 1681 and cost, when completed, fifteen hundred dollars.

Another interesting personage is Mrs. Maggie Richmond, born in Nashville, Tenn., in 1850. She stated that she had lived in nine States and had been in the Home four years and was permitted to make an annual visit to Springfield, Ill., to visit her husband's people. There are many others who are very pleasant characters and all are happy and cheerful and expressed themselves as enjoying all that came their way. Everybody is kind, one toward another, and every effort is made to please as regards the table supplies and such food is prepared and served as the ladies desire.

As regards their religion several denominations are represented and they are at full liberty to attend whatever church they prefer. In the early history of the institution the town churches provided a way for those who wanted to attend, but now they are obliged to provide their own way and this expense is borne by the institution.

No one is admitted under the age of sixty years each entrant must be able at the outset to look after their room and go to the dining room for their meals and have wearing apparel enough to last two years and also bed linen. The entrance fee is two hundred and fifty dollars and this covers all expenses including a physician and nurse when sick and at death a burial at the expense of the institution. This however is made a matter of record on entering, when the applicant is required to state whether friends or relatives or the Home are expected to provide burial.

There is an infirmary provided in the building with beds for the sick and a large sun parlor. The health of these old ladies is well cared for and every effort made to keep them in the best possible condition. No one in the institution was sick from November 1921 until May 1922, a very remarkable condition. Miss Bertha Smith is in charge of the Home and to meet her is to realize her fitness. She is courteous, not only to visitors but to all in the Home. She has absolute control of the ladies and they look to her for guidance and protection. They follow her advice and instructions, because they love her knowing that she is their best friend. A feeling of confidence and congeniality pervade the entire building. Miss Smith takes pleasure in giving guests information and showing them the different characters and explaining every detail of the Home as well as the history of these who have come into the Home.

Miss Alice Johnson is the assistant and Mrs. Rachel Knauss is attendant to the very aged. They are all interested in the work and are helping carry forward a great institution. Ministers visit the Home frequently and administer sacrament in a holy way. Young people call and read to the ladies and societies and individuals aid in holding entertainments for various purposes.

Flowers to cheer the ladies are inside the building and in the yard. Every feature indicates a modern home in the best of order and every item is planned for the health and happiness of those whose fortune it is to rest here in the evening of life. Apart from the gift of Mr. Parsons

Fifteen to twenty years of building good roads lie ahead of the United States. Under the program which the country has adopted there will be built, during that time, 180,000 miles of improved highways which will constitute the Federal-aid highway system and an equal or greater mileage of State and local roads. When the great job is done, the transportation facilities of the country will far exceed those of any other nation, past or present, in the world. The highways of the ancient Romans, whose fame has come down through the centuries will pale by comparison.

Details of this vast road-building program are to be placed before the Highway Education Board at its conference in Washington, October 26 to 28, inclusive, by State Highway Engineers and officials of the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, to whom has been entrusted the work of planning and supervising the construction of Federal-aid highways. The plan will be presented to enable the Board to proceed authoritatively with its work of devising aids for schools and colleges to which road-builders of the country are turning for competent highway engineers.

Officials of the bureau place the aggregate cost of the Federal-aid program alone at about $3,000,000,000, spread over the twenty-year period. They base this estimate on an average cost of $17,000 per mile. The average cost, in turn, takes into consideration all classes of improved roadways from the cheapest to the most expensive types. Approximately one-third of the proposed system, or 60,000 miles of improved highways already are either built or building. The program is a new one. Up to comparatively recent years, road-building in the United States had been conducted without special regard to a national system. Highways had been constructed where needed without consideration whether they would link up in the most effective manner with the whole network of roads to be spread over the nation. Engineers had sought more to meet immediate and local demands than the broader requirements of the States and nation.

The present Federal-aid road-building program, officials of the bureau state, will contemplate the construction of only such roads as fit into the national program and contribute to the national system. At the same time the roads will be so selected as to serve the most important local requirements. With marked modifications, the system adopted in building the railways of the country will be borne in mind in the construction of the country's new highways. There will be main lines of highway communication between centers and thousands of miles of feeder roads, reaching back into the more sparsely settled regions and into the rich agricultural sections, to tap areas whose population and products will flow over the new system.

New roads will be planned and built—thousands of miles of them—where they will fit in most advantageously with the entire program. The bureau is continuing its research work into most efficient methods of road-building, including the character and wearing power of materials, resisting qualities of various sub-soils, etc., and has amassed a considerable store of valuable information all of which will be available for the highway engineer of to-morrow, whom the Board is seeking to have educated in practical and modern methods.

SHOULD TELL THE NEWS AND TELL IT HONESTLY

Ideal Newspaper Proprietor, Says Writer, Is One Who Is An Honest Tradesman

As a class newspaper men have an instinctive feeling that they must tell the news and tell it honestly. I am not going to pretend that this is from a double dose of original virtue vouchsafed to my profession. What I have termed an instinct, no doubt, to great extent arises from the knowledge, conscious or subconscious, that publicity is our greatest business, and that those who ignore this fact and sell adulterated wares (that is what manipulation of the press comes to) will in the end do bad and not good business.

Here I reach a very interesting point in connection with journalism. I firmly believe that the newspaper that is run as a business concern—run that is, to pay, i. e., run to sell its readers what they want to buy—is likely to be a better paper and also to serve the community better than the newspaper which has ulterior ends. The ideal newspaper proprietor, in my opinion, is the honest tradesman, the man who says, in effect, of himself and his work, "My business is to sell the public a good sound newspaper, a paper that contains nothing that has been adulterated, nothing that is a sham, nothing that is poisonous. I am the servant of the public, but I claim the right to act the part which every honorable and high-minded servant acts. I will obey my master up to a certain point, and no further. If he asks me to do a foolish thing, I may do so, because after all, the choice is his. If however, he asks me to do a low, mean or disreputable act alone a criminal thing, I must refuse and tell him plainly what I think of his order."

What the ordinary citizen desires to get from his paper is the facts, and the whole facts. Now, he may have the highest belief in Mr. So-and-So's good intentions, but he does not want to have his news colored by them, however good they may be. Still less does he want to have his news distorted by the personal likes or dislikes of a proprietor. Therefore, he greatly distrusts the newspaper owned by a man who is in the newspaper business, not as tradesman, but for ulterior objects—party objects, personal objects, or pecuniary objects, other than those derived from the direct sale of a newspaper.

American newspapers, I may say parenthetically, have come to their great position and will, I believe, continue to hold that position by the fact that they are largely owned by people who are openly and obviously engaged in the trade of selling newspapers, and who know that in the end they can do sound business only by selling "a straight and sound line of goods."—The Outlook.

Why Your Electric Light Bill May Be Higher Now!

Last Summer you only used electric light on an average of three hours each evening. But this Winter you'll use it for at least an hour around breakfast time, and probably four and a half hours during the evening.

But you CAN economize on electric current. One way is to use the right sized lamp in every fixture, and keep the lamp and shade clean. This will give you better lighting for the same amount of money. Try it.

PRESBYTERIANS PLAN $10,000,000 TEMPLE

Visions Of Great Cathedral In Nations Capital Conceived By Late Jurists To Be Realized

Plans for the erection in Washington of a great Presbyterian temple, or as an alternative a large Presbyterian building to house an auditorium and offices for other religious uses, have been announced by the Presbytery of Washington City.

The vision of a great Presbyterian cathedral was first conceived by the late John M. Harlan, justice of the United States Supreme Court, and it was said to have been the disappointment of his life that he was unable to bring his ideal to fruition.

Justice Harlan's plan, however, has been preserved by his friends and is now being carried out by the late Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, D. D., former Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly and pastor emeritus of the historic New York 5th Avenue Presbyterian Church. The church located on a part of the triangular block in the heart of the city which has been proposed as a site for the edifice, was the place of worship of several presidents and other high government officials.

As furthered by a committee of Washington pastors, the plans include a building to be erected at a cost approximately $10,000,000, to be contributed by members of the Presbyterian Church (North) from every part of the country, as a gift to the Capital City. The present Moderator of the General Assembly, it is said, has given strong approval of the proposal.

FINISHES EUROPE TOUR FOR "DRY" FOUNDATION

Itinerant Prohibitionist Finds Foreign Youth Aggressively Uprising Against Drinking Habits.

Mr. Emil J. Hohenthal has just completed a tour of Central Europe for the Prohibition Foundation. He reports the situation in that part of the world as follows: "Between the middle of February and June, 1922, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Italy and Germany have been visited to study and to aid the extension of the movement for the prohibition of the liquor traffic. Were I to sum up in a sentence or two what I see as the most hopeful and encouraging indications of success, I would unhesitatingly say, the spontaneous uprising of the youth of these countries against the drinking habits, in order that their respective nations may flourish themselves on a higher and better moral plane, thus securing a firmer economic basis than they have heretofore occupied.

"This movement among the young is apparent in all these countries and in a most aggressive form. So much so, that the older and more conservative workers are agitated and seek to restrain and hold back these enthusiastic young people, but these say we must take drastic action and tackle the job now else all is lost. The line of space permits the merest outline of the activities in these countries.

Last fall the work was organized in Austria and Czechoslovakia, and now it has been organized in Hungary and Germany. Italy is also in line with its organization. The purpose of all is National Prohibition. The demand for this is being voiced in vigorous language and with intensive work and cooperation from outside it will move steadily forward.

"The months have spent in this work have been filled with thousands of miles of travel, correspondence, conferences and public addresses. I believe the time is ripe for action, the liquor interests are united for their own protection. They are aiding the 'wet' of America to fight prohibition enforcement there, and to create antagonism to that law. The question is now international in its aspect and the Prohibition workers must combine to fight this common enemy of the people.

"As I leave these European countries to return to America, I am impressed with the grave responsibility resting upon the United States. Having put her hand to the plough she must not only not go back, but she must lend a hand to these Central European lands in this terrific conflict. These workers are courageous as any I have met, and are as resourceful and determined. They recognize that Prohibition is the only solution for the drink evil. I have suggested the slogan: 'An alcohol free nation by 1930,' and the workers have accepted it with enthusiasm and are doing their best to bring it about."

Contracting Company Gets Southern Orders

Hastings & Parsons, Local Builders, To Erect Jewish Synagogue And Parish House In North Carolina

Two large building contracts in North Carolina have been secured by Hastings & Parsons, local building contractors. The new orders, which were received from the branch office at Fayetteville, N. C., call for the erection of a Parish House at Tarboro, N. C., and a Jewish Synagogue at Greensboro, N. C. Both structures will cost in the neighborhood of $75,000.

Mr. Hastings makes trips down south about every three weeks to look after the work there. The firm has also contracted with Mr. C. W. McNeely, of Seaford, Del., for a $14,000 home of colonial style. Work on the new M. P. Church on N. Division St., is being rapidly pushed and the plastering will be done this week. It is hoped to have the church ready by the first of the year.

SCOUT ORGANIZATION CONTROLS WILD LADS

One Junior Troop Lists Among Its Good Turns The "Taming Of Three Problem Boys"

One scout troop lists among its good turns "Taming three wild lads." This troop made assets of three boys of widely different types who had proved liabilities to themselves and scouting. Here is the story: "Boy Number One—was said to be absolutely untamable. His parents had lost control. He was slack, untruthful, rebellious and downright mean. Twice he drew suspensions from the troop for escapades. We allowed three chances. He took the third. We said good-bye. After watching the troop from the outside for three months, he applied for reinstatement. His application was referred to the boys. They agreed to admit him on trial. There has been such a great improvement in his general conduct and outlook on life, that he is often pointed out as an example of good scouting.

"Boy Number Two—came from a prosperous home. He became a patrol leader. At a critical age he began imitating older boys of doubtful habits, and started drifting. With a tall, unexpected bang, he got under the ranks. The next night his entire patrol forced a committee to walk two miles to the S. M.'s home and plead his case. He was 'paroled' to them. After two weeks the S. M. hardened to persistent persuasion and made the boy admit he was under observation. Four months have passed and it looks as though this P. L. is to be our next senior patrol leader. He's cured of wildness.

"Boy Number Three—is still in the scout hospital, but is sure to recover. He was a spoiled darling. Anything his little heart desired, he got—but there was no discipline in his life. Our uniform attracted him; our hard work repelled him. He was as destructive as a boy could be, and there was no laziness in him when it came to roscality. School teachers found him hopeless so did we and he was deprived of his scout badge. This was a novel experience and somewhat shocking to him. He swaggered around and said he didn't care—but he did. Then he reached the surprising (to him) conclusion that he was on the wrong track. He has applied three times for reinstatement but the boys feel he will stand a little more treatment. Certainly he has lost his former ambition to destroy everything breakable; he has acquired some courtesy; he says he is willing to work. Probably in three or four months he will take him in again, thoroughly tamed."

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

The Uses Of Nature Material In The Home.

By Emma B. Dashley.
The little child should make nature's acquaintance as a friend and playmate and in so doing he will store up joy and peace for his after years. Knowledge of nature makes a child realize more fully his part in the infinite conception and gives him a background of beauty. Through play the child can first be introduced to the absorbing world of nature about him. The stringing of nature material in the fall is very fascinating to children because of the various colors and shapes available. Corn and peas, pumpkins and squash seeds may be gathered and strung with the joint-weed that is found in damp places and can be cut in inch lengths. This weed grows to a height of two feet, and has a black and white ring between the joints, which adds greatly to its appearance and beauty. Rose-hips, thornapples, bitter-sweet and mountain berries are very artistic strung with this joint-weed, combining one, two or three of the red with one of the green. We string them in the fields using No. 3 Sharpe's needles and No. 30 thread. Let the children wear their chains home.

Milkweed pods give much pleasure and many things can be made from them. By placing two black pins near the thick end of the pod for eyes, we make a bird with a beak. Open the pod along the side, look inside, and you see a fish with scales (seeds). The children take the contents out, and use the empty pod for a boat, putting an inch stick across the center for a seat, and sailing it on the water. Out of doors it is fun to blow some of the seeds up in the air, and try to keep them up.

Mothers can make beautiful fluffy pillows from the down of the milkweed by taking off the seeds and putting the down in a case. Do this before the down becomes too dry, or it will fly all about. The pillows are very useful, as they are soft and fluffy. Even the brown seeds may be utilized if saved. In the winter, the children and even the older people can play with them in masses on the table, making circles, squares, wreaths and other flat pictures. Still another use can be made of the pods on the branches. They can be painted blue to resemble blue-birds or other colors such as bronze, silver, or gold. Use thin oil paints. These with bitter-sweet berries, sunnycat, cat-tails, colored teasels and grasses, make a pretty winter bouquet.

Ferns and sunnycat leaves, oak and maple leaves in clusters, may be pressed in books or between sheets of newspaper and pinned on the walls at Christmas time. They brighten the rooms wonderfully. Small ferns and pressed flowers may be used for place cards or favors.

Horsechestnuts afford a great deal of amusement. To make a baby-doll use three sizes of these nuts; the small one for the head and the large one for the base. Punch a hole through the center of the middle and lower ones, and the base of the upper one. Then put a toothpick through to connect them and use half sticks for arms. Mark or pierce eyes, nose and mouth for the face. Select a large flat nut for a stool, using 3 pins for legs; or put a row of five pins on top along the edge and weave yarn in and out for a back, and we have a chair. Both nuts and cones can be used for hiding games and insipids.

In gathering nuts, look for as many of their seed houses as you can; and in opening the pods, emphasize the protection afforded by each. In this way, the children come to know more of nature and her tenderness of the species. Those pods can be amplified when the children grow older.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?
It's usually a sign of sick kidneys, especially if the kidney action is disordered, passages scanty or too frequent. Don't wait for more serious troubles. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Salisbury testimony.

John H. Connelly, 305 East Isabella Street, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and know of no better kidney remedy. Some years ago I had kidney trouble and began to suffer from an annoying kidney irregularity. My back was weak, too. I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me lasting relief. I always keep Doan's on hand and would certainly use them should I have any return of kidney trouble."

The above statement was given January 25, 1909, and on January 8, 1921, Mr. Connelly said: "Doan's Kidney Pills are an old standard remedy with me. If my kidneys get out of order the first thing I think of is Doan's, for they never fail to do the work."

A FRIEND IN NEED A FRIEND INDEED

Writes Mrs. Hardee Regarding
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Calif.—"I must tell you that I am a true friend to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken it off and on for twenty years and it has helped me change from a delicate girl to a stout, healthy woman. When I was married I was sick all the time until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in bed much of my time with pains and had to have the doctor every month. One day I found a little book in my yard with Guthrie, Oklahoma, and I read it through and got the medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and took eight bottles and used the Sanative Wash. I at once began to get stronger. I have got many women to take it just by telling them what it has done for me. I have a young sister whom it has helped in the same way it helped me. I want you to know that I am a 'friend indeed,' for you were a friend in need."

—Mrs. GEORGE HARDEE, 1043 Byram St., Los Angeles, California.

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound be a "friend indeed" to you.

five hundred of which he rapidly sold. These were the Grimes Golden variety. The fifteen hundred baskets, mixed varieties, such as Winesap's, Stayman Winesap, New York Imperial he hauled into the woods near his farm and put them on the ground about two feet deep, in a bank or pile about twelve feet wide and one hundred feet long and covered them with old sacks. He says if they rot they will not be moved, if the price advances and justifies selling them they are as convenient in the woods as in the field and better protected.

The seamer Jopps from Seaford to Baltimore, Nantuxco river route had on Sunday as traveling guests, Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Smith, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad. Mr. Smith was born and spent his early life in Southern Maryland.

Oscar Holloway who lives on a farm near St. Andrews church, four miles from here toward Laurel, Del., has been furnishing a few families here with fine strawberries since August. They are the Progressive variety and fine table fruit. He sells them for twenty-five cents per quart and they are quickly sold. The patch from which he picks the berries, as many as fifteen quarts at one time, was set out last spring and there are only two hundred and fifty plants. He cut the plants back until July and then they soon began to blossom. He expects to bring strawberries to town until Jack Frost stops him. These berries are growing within one mile of where the first strawberries were cultivated on this Peninsula.

A Fish Story

A couple of city chaps summering in the mountains overheard sufficient fish-stories to stir them to the desire to emulate the native anglers. Not having equipment, they persuaded the village storekeeper to lend them some of his own personal outfit with the understanding that any parts lost or broken would be replaced or paid for. They had been out on the lake in a boat about half an hour when one of them inquired of the other:

"What do you suppose Extra Hawkin calls that red-and-blue thing that floats around on the water?"

"Why, I believe he calls it a float or a floater or a bob or something of that nature. What made you ask such a question?"

"Well, we'll have to buy one of those. The darn thing has sunk.—Everybody's Magazine.

Beat the Coal Shortage

USE-- STORM SASH STORM DOORS STORM FRONTS

The saving in coal has been proved by experience to be almost a third.
The added comfort is about 50%.

The first frost of Winter has touched the trees, turning their leaves to red and gold, and warning us that the cold winds from the bitter North are on the way.

The shortage of coal has assumed serious proportions and the fuel districommittee of Maryland has cut Salisbury's quota of hard coal almost in half. Absolute conservation, rigid economy are imperative this winter.
No device which will make the available supply go further should be neglected. Of all the devices that will help conserve coal, none are better than:—

REEDVILLE

A very interesting meeting was held at the church last Thursday night in the interest of the school situation here. Mr. Frank Atwell, Fairfield, member of the County School Board, had been in communication with Dr. F. W. Lewis, Division Superintendent. Dr. Lewis was present, bringing Dr. Chandler, of Fredericksburg Normal, and four speakers from Richmond, Miss Louise Hooper, well-known Red Cross worker, or community nurse. Miss Vance, from the Public Health Department, Mr. G. W. Guy, Executive Secretary of the Co-operative Education Association, and Mr. Gresham, Health Department. All made good talks, including Dr. Lewis, whose advice was to go ahead, at once, with plans to erect a new school building, preferably a one-story brick structure, of ample size to accommodate the needs of the community, and one which would be erected to the place. Dr. Chandler made a splendid address. The speakers had been attending the Teachers Institute, at Henthwaite, on Thursday, and were due in Lancaster for the same purpose Friday.

Dr. Chandler was entertained at the home of Mrs. George Buttle, while in Reedville. Miss Elizabeth Muir, left this week for Norfolk enroute for Floyd Co., where she has accepted a position this winter. Miss Muir was a graduate of Reedville High School last spring and attended the Summer Normal at Farmville. She is fond of teaching and will doubtless be successful in her first experience as a real school teacher.

Miss Evelyn Covington, of Burgess' Store, and Miss Charlotte White, of Callao, who were added to the number of teachers already established at the High School here, have been getting along very well. Miss Covington teaches the High School subjects. Miss White and Miss Delano are installed in the new rooms at the Reedville Co. Inc., and with their large number of little folk, are making things lively in that section.

Mrs. J. C. Jett and daughter, Mary Virginia, and little Mabel, of Fleeton, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. Forrester, in Baltimore, for a week or two.

A number of horses have died in Sunnyside neighborhood the past few weeks, we are told. Both white and colored have met this last. Mrs. Sadie Crosswell and daughter, Mrs. Etta McDonald, and little baby girl, are here from Maryland, visiting Capt. and Mrs. T. J. Crosswell. Many old friends are giving them a warm welcome.

Miss Janie Marsh is helping in Reedville Central this week while Mrs. Perry Davis, and others take in the State Fair at Richmond. Dr. Brent and Mrs. Lela Rawlings, also motored over in the Davis car.

Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Wallace, of Heathsville, were in Reedville Tuesday, staying for supper with Mrs. T. H. Haynie.

Mr. G. N. Reed, who was in Richmond last week, came home to Reedville Friday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hinton, and little Lillian Nelson. We are glad to have Mr. Hinton home again, and are hoping he may be perfectly well in a little while.

Rev. W. R. Evans and Mr. G. N. Reed, are representing Bethany M. E. Church, South, at the annual meeting of the Virginia Conference, in Norfolk this week. Mrs. T. W. Haynie, Mrs. L. E. McGill and Mrs. Frank Haynie, of this place are also there visiting Mrs. C. E. Green, and taking in the interesting features at Epworth Church.

Rev. Mr. Evans has made many friends during his first year here, and will be heartily welcomed back.

Mrs. Will Marsh is sick today, and Mrs. L. E. McGill is at Mila, with one of Mr. Willie McGill's little girls who is also sick. We are hoping both will soon be better.

Mrs. C. E. Davis, of Fleeton, and Mrs. H. P. McNeal, of Fairport, were at Fredericksburg and Richmond, last week spending sometime with their daughters, Miss Margaret Davis, at Fredericksburg Normal School, and Miss Velma McNeal, at Westhampton College. Miss McNeal had malaria we heard, but is much better.

An aeroplane was in the creek here nearly all of last week, the aviators taking their meals at the hotel. It was a passenger machine, but air travel did not seem to appeal to the public as it did some years back. Flying at the rate of fifty cents a minute may be interesting but it is certainly dear. Mr. Russell Dey, of the Reed-ville Company, Inc., crossed the Chesapeake, going to Crisfield, we are told. Miss Lela Dey went for a shorter flying trip; also Carlisle Shelton, Colie Robinson and probably others.

Capt. Lewis Powell, of the Seaboard Co., stayed with his family here Sunday, the Blundon coming down for a net, it was said. Capt. Jack Haynie was here also.

Capt. Owen Booth, of the old Sandy Island factory, was here for Sunday with his people.

We had a badly needed rain the first of the week, also much cooler. All belated woodpiles are being replenished with both pine and oak, in anticipation of an early need. The shrill and gasping shriek of Mr. Haynie's gasoline-driven machine has been heard in town as rapidly the wood has been reduced to usable lengths. In quiet but effective opposition, works "Commodore," the self-starter, who glides down the street on his new and handsome sixty dollar bicycle, a wagon load of saws, saw horses, files, oil cans and other things bringing up the rear. Just how long it will take "Commodore" to saw sixty odd dollars' worth of wood, his two arms, and an optimistic, willing spirit furnishing the power, we can not say, but if one has patience (matching his) to wait, he will "deliver the goods," all right, at machine price. Many people here who usually burn coal will not have it to use this winter, and are preparing a larger quantity of wood instead.

Mr. B. B. Haynie after spending several months with his daughter, Miss Gertrude Haynie, in her attractive little apartment on Harlem Ave., has returned from Baltimore, and will be in the vicinity for some time, looking after his oyster interests, his horses and other things which are there. He spent Wednesday with relatives in our town. We were glad to see him.

The old Planktank has recovered from her latest injury. She must be getting mighty feeble though, for she is most always "under the weather."

Mrs. T. H. Jett, of this place, left for Baltimore last week, from which city she will go to visit Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Jett, Jr., at Mt. Airy, in the Frederick Hills.

Mrs. E. R. Perkins, with Joe and Garnett Lee, spent last Wednesday with Mrs. Carlyle Omohundro, and Mrs. Howard Rice, Reedville folk, also calling briefly upon the former neighbors. Like a bit of sunshine, and just as welcome were they. Their house up-town is going up very quickly.

STOMACH RELIEF WORTH $100 BY TAKING CAPSULES

Recently I secured some of your Little Wonder Capsules, and must state that they are rightly named 'Little Wonders' for after taking three capsules, the pain and distress left me. I stated to a relative that the result after taking the capsules was marvelous, and I would have given $100.00 if by so doing I could have found the relief that I did find in taking three of the capsules. They are certainly worth their weight in gold." Mrs. Esther A. Day, proprietor Blue Mountain House, Gile N. Y.

How Better Than Pills?

The question has been asked. In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. That they are not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. -Advt.

BETTER PROGENY WITH POULTRY BY CULLING

Late Moulters Selected From Flocks Lay More Eggs and Breed Better Pullets.

That culling the poultry flock to get rid of those birds except the vigorous, prolific layers results in noticeable improvement in the progeny is shown by recent investigations at the United States Experiment Farm, Beltsville, Md. The late moulterers selected from a flock of 100 Rhode Island Reds in the fall of 1920 laid seven more eggs per bird during their second year than the original flock as pullets. They were used as breeders the following spring, and the first Red pullets to commence laying in the fall of 1921 were found to be the offspring of these late-moulting hens. Their pullets in a period of seven months have already averaged about two dozen eggs per bird more than the original flock.

But it is not alone in number of eggs that the late-moulter's progeny excel, but also in the value of the product, as the distribution was many even, a much larger proportion of the eggs being laid during the winter months. In the last seven months the daughters of the late moulterers not only averaged two dozen eggs per bird more than the original flock, but the value of their production was, figuring at the same prices, about $1.04 per bird more during the same period. It is expected that this margin will increase during the next five months.

VETCH POPULAR CROP IN WICOMICO COUNTY

Great Value Lies in Fertilizing Possibilities and Tendency To Rot Fast When Turned Under.

Vetch is becoming a very popular crop in Wicomico County and with good reasons for its popularity.

The great value of vetch lies in its fertilizing possibilities and its tendency to rot very quickly after being turned under. One ton of vetch (hairy or winter) contains about 50 pounds of nitrogen while the roots and stubble, including the nodules, contain approximately one-quarter as much more. This makes a total yield of 62.5 pounds of nitrogen from one ton of vetch which is equal to the nitrogen in 417 pounds of vetch of soil. The interesting part of this story is that probably one-half to three-fourths of this total nitrogen is gathered from the air and not from the soil.

Common vetch, known as Oregon, summer vetch, etc., is not hardy enough to be planted in this section. Hairy vetch may be sown any time from Aug. 15 to Oct. 15 but best results are obtained when it is sown from the last part of August to the middle of September. This crop may be seeded in the spring and will allow much pasturage the first hot dry weather of our summer months does considerable damage to the crop.

Vetch has one disadvantage in that when it is seeded alone the plants lodge so badly that it is very difficult to cut. This reason is often desirable to seed a mixture of vetch and some small grain such as wheat, rye, oats or barley. The amount to sow varies somewhat but usually enough grain is sown to make a thin stand and to this is added from 20 to 30 pounds of vetch. One half bushel of wheat or one bushel of rye or oats is a very popular mixture.

If vetch is used for soiling purposes from 50 to 80 per cent. more seed should be sown for hay.

Vetch should be cut for hay from the time of full bloom until the first pods appear. If cut at this time the full crop of leaves and stems can be secured while if cut later the yield may be larger but the quality will be poorer.

Inoculation is always advisable on land that has grown no vetch as this is a very good form of insurance. Soil from land that is growing vetch may be used or one may secure artificial inoculation. Vetch will grow without inoculation, to some degree and in some cases, but better results are secured when it is inoculated. It is very seldom that nodules appear without inoculation and thus the value of vetch to receive or gather nitrogen from the air is destroyed.

HISTORY WAITS TO NAME NATION'S FIRST WOMAN SENATOR TO CAPITOL

Georgia Governor Proposes Mrs. W. H. Felton As Successor To Late Senator Tom Watson But She Cannot Be Seated. Hardwich Himself Is In Race.

Two poses of Mrs. W. H. Felton, the First Woman U. S. Senator is not yet an actuality. "In name only" seems now to be the situation in which an elderly and noble Southern woman finds herself. She likely will never be sworn in—nor will she ever appear on the floor of the Senate. She has been handed an honor, but the strings attached to it is so tight that history will have to wait before it can inscribe the first woman's name upon the Senate roll.

When Governor Hardwich of Georgia named Mrs. W. H. Felton, 87 years old, of Cartersville, Ga., to the Senate seat vacated through the death of Sen. Tom Watson, women voters of this state and the nation rejoiced and praised the act which they felt was another step for suffrage. But their joy was short lived, when events showed plainly that ultra and selfish motives had been at work.

No one here doubts the splendid nobility of Mrs. Felton. She is a fine high-minded, noble-spirited and patriotic woman. Her husband was for years a congressman, from Georgia and she was his helper—in his campaigns and at home.

The motive in naming her was not long in becoming apparent. Immediately after making a great fuss over naming Mrs. Felton, Governor Hardwich offered himself as a candidate to fill the Watson seat. The Senate is adjourned until after the November election when Georgia will elect by law a senator to fill out the unexpired Watson term. So there is no way Mrs. Felton could be sworn in—unless the Senate come here to her. There is no way she could even occupy a senatorial seat—as there will be no session until a new senator has been elected by law.

Gov. Hardwich's naming of Mrs. Felton was an appointment to serve. He merely named her as a legal filler of an appointment, not even as a sworn in officer.

The criticism which has come from the women voters of the United States has caused Gov. Hardwich to state that he will have Federal authorities here administer the oath. But would the honor go to one who is sworn in as a pure stunt hundreds of miles away from the august Senate chamber—and during a recess of that branch of our government?

Governor Hardwich may be elected to don the toga of the late Senator Watson. He may go to Washington ahead of Mrs. Felton as he planned, but his effort to make a "dayless" senator the "First Woman" is asking a great deal of future historians.

ORGANIC MATTER HELPS SOILS HOLD MOISTURE

Plan's Grow Better in Soil Rich in Organic Matter and Bacteria Activities Increase

In addition to adding plant food to the soil and improving its texture, organic matter, supplied by green-manure crops, stable manure, or in any other form, adds greatly to the moisture-holding capacity. It has been shown that while 100 pounds of sand can hold only 25 pounds of water and 100 pounds of clay 50 pounds, the same weight of humus or decaying organic matter will hold 100 pounds.

First Woman U. S. Senator is 87

Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Cartersville, Ga., appointed by Governor Hardwich to the U. S. Senate, is 87 years old and is the widow of Dr. W. H. Felton who was a member of Congress for many years. Mrs. Felton successfully managed many of her husband's campaigns.

Clay soil containing organic matter is more friable than similar soil without organic matter. When the organic matter is entirely removed the clay remains compact during freezing and thawing. When the organic matter is returned the soil crumbles after freezing, just as the original soil.

Not only do the higher plants grow better in a soil rich in organic matter, but the activities of the soil bacteria are largely dependent on the supply of decaying vegetable matter. These bacteria need food and air. Their food is the dead vegetable matter, which they break down and make available to the higher plants. Most beneficial bacteria use air, and this they find more abundantly in a soil supplied with organic matter than in stiff clays poor in it. In sandy soils there is air enough, but the addition of humus helps to hold moisture and so benefits the bacteria as well as the higher plants.

RISE OF SECTIONALISM

As the States have declined sectional self-consciousness has risen. All those factors which were relied on to destroy sectionalism, such as the development of means of transportation, expanding domestic commerce, increase of population, have in Europe been among the most important of the forces to bring about national rivalries. If this is the result in Europe it is certainly not clear that the opposite result would follow in the United States. Although political sectionalism is still a term of reproach, implying unfairness and a disregard of national interests, the section so reproved is seldom conscious that its action is adverse to the common good. We are so large and diversified a nation that it is almost impossible to see the situation except through sectional spectacles. The section either conceives of itself as an aggrieved and encircled minority, suffering from the injustice of the other sections of the nation, or it thinks of its own culture, its economic policies and well-being as best for all the nation. It thinks, in other words, of the nation in terms of itself. "I love thy rocks and rills, thy woods and templed hills," runs our American anthem. It was written by a New Englander and its scene is that of New England, not of the snowcapped mountains, the far stretches of Great Plains, or Arid America. We think sectionally and do not fully understand each other. —Yale Review.

A Remarkable Record.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for colds, croup and whooping cough for almost half a century and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its good qualities became better known. Queer Feelings

"Some time ago, I was very irregular," writes Mrs. Cora Robie, of Pikeville, Ky. "I suffered a great deal, and knew I must do something for this condition. I suffered mostly with my back and a weakness in my limbs. I would have dreadful headaches, and very queer feelings, and oh, how my head hurt! I read of and of others, who seemed to have the same troubles I had, being benefited, so I began to use it. I found it most beneficial. I took several bottles, and was made so much better I didn't have any more trouble of this kind. It regulated me."

Cardui has been found very helpful in the correction of many cases of painful female disorders, such as Mrs. Robie mentions above. If you suffer as she did, take Cardui—a purely vegetable, medicinal tonic, in use for more than 40 years. It should help you. Sold everywhere.

STATE AID IS PROMISED FOR MAIN ST. SPAN

But Funds Are Not Available Until Next Legislature Convenes.

FAVORABLE CONFERENCE IN BALTIMORE THURSDAY

War Department Not Likely To Interfere With Postponement Unless Shipping Interests Complain—Possible Tactful Hearings In Favor Of Immediate Construction.

Representatives of the State Roads Commission and the local Board of County Commissioners met Thursday in Baltimore. They discussed the matter of replacing the present Main St. span bridge. Chairman J. N. Mackall and D. C. Winebrenner, a member of the State Roads Commission, received the committee consisting of Senator Charles R. Disharoon, Comptroller William S. Gordy, Jr., F. P. Adkins, Graham Gunby, County Treasurer Harry Dennis and P. E. Burroughs.

Though permission has been secured through the Enabling Act to span the river at this point with a new bridge, the local delegation presented to the State Roads Commission the argument that inasmuch as this bridge was a connecting link on the main state road, it should therefore be regarded as a part of that system.

This state officials agreed as being true and under this ruling the rebuilding should come under the responsibility of the State. But no funds are available at this time and none will be forthcoming until after the convening of the next legislature in 1924. It was intimated that if the work could be laid off that long that the Commission would endeavor to have this bridge included in its budget.

But here again, the verdict of the War Department must be heeded and accordingly the committee went before the officer in charge of this district. He stated that the dredging would continue until the plans were completed with and would leave the bridge for further consideration provided shipping interests do not file complaints.

It is very likely that there will be some protests lodged over the postponing of the erection of a new bridge. In the first place it is argued that the old one is absolutely unsafe and unfit for traffic and that the expense of putting it in first-class condition will entail no small outlay of money. Again it is thought that commerce will be hampered by the waiting of two or three years for the much-needed wide span and that the city and county can ill afford to handicap commerce just at the time when it is receiving a powerful impetus through the dredging of the river.

That the shipping interests will suffer by the two or three years delay in erecting a modern bridge of 65 foot span is argued. Only Saturday, a large vessel carrying crushed stone for the city attempted to get up into the north end of the river, but was jammed in the present structure. The vessel was forced to withdraw and the city put to extra expense and trouble in unloading the cargo at another point.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF DELMARVIA BOY SCOUTS IN SESSION APPLIES FOR CHARTER

Organization Completed On Shore—Next Move To Be Appointment Of Scout Executive—Scouting Principles Lauded And Work In This Section Will Be Intensified.

Members of the Executive Council, Boy Scouts of America, for the Delmarvia peninsula, met in session last week at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Salisbury, and made application for a charter. The fee for the application, together with a quarter of the quota for the current year, was raised by the various chairmen present.

Dr. Mitchell explained that the organization of the counties on the Eastern Shore has been completed and that the next move will be the selection and appointment of a Scout Executive, whose work will be distributed to all parts of the Shore where there is a troupe. The appointment will probably be made in the near future. The Executive Council, realizing that the future scouting of the Shore depends upon the man selected as Scout Executive will leave no stone unturned to find exactly the right man for the office.

During the meeting, it was brought out that many people misunderstand the function and value of the Boy Scout movement. Arguments advanced against it attempt to show that it is militaristic in method and character. Nothing could be farther from the truth than this, according to Scout officials.

Scouting teaches the boy self-reliance, makes of him a better citizen, teaches him to be essentially considerate of others, instructs him in rendering aid to those who need it, develops the power of initiative and resourcefulness, and combines with all this a happy, healthful outdoor life that will, through life, make of a Scout a better man, a better citizen.

The organization is not military in thought, form or spirit, although it does instill in boys the military virtues of honor, loyalty, patriotism and obedience. The Scout movement is non-

LEGIONNAIRES TO CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY

Ex-Service Men To Gather At Big Supper On Evening Of November 11th.

VETERANS WILL MARCH TO SUNDAY SERVICES

Executive Committee Of Wicomico Post Decides At Last Meeting To Stage Minstrel Show In November And Engages Experts To Take Charge Of Entertainment

Members of the American Legion will celebrate Armistice Day this year with a supper to all legionnaires and other ex-service men on Saturday evening, November 11th, in Legion Headquarters, Graham Building, Salisbury. The hour has not yet been specifically set but will be announced at a later date, as will other details of the program.

On Sunday morning, the veterans will assemble in the local churches for a special service. Members of the local post will be in uniform and will meet at Legion Headquarters at 10:30 Sunday, November 12. Other veterans who desire to join the post will be heartily welcomed and those who do decide to fall in with the legionnaires and march to the church are also urged to wear uniform.

The supper on Saturday night will be served by a committee of ladies who will form the nucleus of the Auxiliary Post to be established here. If the plans of the present administration materialize, the Auxiliary according to a member of the committee, is open to the mothers, wives and sisters of former service men. It is believed that the establishment of an Auxiliary Post here would be of infinite value to the Legion as well as to the public at large.

The executive committee of Wicomico Post at their last meeting decided to give a minstrel show in November and a musical comedy in January. Professional entertainers have been engaged to take complete charge of each entertainment and Legion officials confidently expect to put on a show that will draw patronage from all parts of the peninsula.

DEMOCRATS STAGE LARGE RALLY WITH GOVERNOR ON PLATFORM.

Mass-Meeting At Arcade Theatre Saturday Night Well-Attended—Republican Tariff Measure Bitterly Assailed By Goldsborough While Senator France's Communistic Tendencies Were Characterized By Bruce As Dangerous.

Charging that the Republican party has enacted legislation at Washington which will prove of immense pecuniary benefit to the moneyed interests of the country, while saddling a huge burden of taxation upon the backs of the masses of American citizens; assailing the Republican Congress for the iniquitous tariff measure just passed which sets up a wall of adversity for the progress and prosperity of the American farmers and at the same time materially increased the cost of living during a period when lower costs are expected, and challenging Senator France's right to again aspire to the United States Senatorship from Maryland, Democratic speakers last Saturday night fired the opening gun of the fall campaign in Wicomico county at an enthusiastic meeting in the Arcade Theatre.

Democrats from every section of the county were present to participate in this offensive movement and an hour before the theatre doors opened at 7:30 the leaders of the party gathered in the Peninsula Restaurant for dinner. About twenty guests were seated at the table at the head of which was Governor Ritchie who was later to be the first speaker on the Arcade platform.

Maryland's executive was introduced by Chairman A. M. Jackson to an audience that almost filled the large auditorium. The Odd Fellow's band was playing on the outside of the building. Governor Ritchie opened his remarks with a humorous allusion to an occasion back in 1915 when he was forced to speak for an hour and three quarters on the stage while waiting for Governor Harrington to arrive from a nearby town. And for the first time in his career on that evening the Governor said he always felt that Salisbury audiences were in a class by themselves.

The Governor declared that the Democratic party stood for equality where every man or woman, boy or girl had an equal chance. He praised the work of the last legislature at Annapolis which reduced state taxes from 35c to 30c and mentioned the big things done by Senator Disharoon and the Hon. William S. Gordy, Jr. for this county.

He stated that in the coming elections the Democrats expected to hold their 33,000 majority of Baltimore City and that the major portion of the 16,000 independent vote there would swing their way, adding that "an independent who doesn't vote for Goldsborough and Bruce is not an independent but a partisan."

Governor Ritchie closed his remarks with the statement that "The economic prosperity of the world would be the ideal of Maryland's democratic representatives at the Capitol and that there were two things Bruce and Goldsborough would not stand for in Washington namely: Taking burden off the rich and putting it on the shoulders of the other classes and secondly, 'Newberryism' or the election of men to the Senate through the purchase of the seat with money. 'Public servants should be elected by the people and public office should not be the subject of sale or barter,' he added.

T. Alan Goldsborough was the next speaker and he contended himself with a full discussion of the Fordney-McCumber Tariff bill and its iniquities upon the working classes. He said that it would be politically unwise at this time to discuss the League of Nations as a paramount issue, but he believed that had the United States entered the League two years ago Europe would now be well on the road to economic prosperity.

The Congressman asserted that the present tariff bill gives the manufacturers in this country a chance to raise their prices and still compete with the imported goods that have such a heavy duty placed on them. Mr. Goldsborough said that people would be astounded to know that of the 15 majority members on the powerful Ways and Means committee in the House of Representatives, 12 were multi-millionaires.

In explaining the unfair duties imposed by the new Tariff Bill he brought out the fact that the duty on cotton goods alone will cost the American people yearly the colossal sum of $750,000,000 or $37.50 for every family in the land. "Never in the history of the American nation has there been a more monstrous measure passed," was Mr. Goldsborough's declaration.

Mr. Goldsborough explained the Stabilization Bill he recently introduced and which has met with approval from many of the best authorities in this and other lands. He pointed out that the rise and fall of the purchasing power of the dollar worked to the distinct disadvantage of the farmer and the laboring classes, and reiterated his belief that only by a stabilization of the dollar could continued prosperity be achieved.

Robert E. Lee, chairman of the Maryland Industrial Accident Commission was introduced as the next speaker and the young descendant of the famous old Confederate general gripped his hearers with a splendid oration. Mr. Lee said that he had not concluded that the voters of the state were giving the coming elections a sort of apathetic treatment and in support of his contention he pointed to the overflowing crowd that had filed its way down the Arcade's aisles. He emphasized the belief that never before has there been submitted to the electorate two men better fitted and tried for the important chairs in (Continued On Page Two.)

W. H. S. SOCCER TEAM SETTING DIZZY PACE

Delmar, Sharptown And Crisfield Downed By Local Booters Who Point To State Championship

The Wicomico High School soccer enthusiasts are imbued with the most optimistic feelings these days over the possibility of the local eleven capturing the Eastern Shore championship and along with it the right to play the winner on the Eastern Shore for the state soccer title.

Wicomico High has downed Delmar and Sharptown in the first contests with these rivals and expects to experience no trouble in repeating this giving it clear title to the county championship. Delmar was defeated at Gordy Park in the first game of the season by the score of 4-0. Sharptown was humbled in a warm scrap on October 13th.

Delmar is again encountered on foreign fields this Friday when Sharptown comes here to meet the local team. Last Friday, the Crisfield eleven overpowered their colors to the W.H.S. boys by the score of 4-1. The local team was not up to its best strength, William Chatham being out of the game on account of sickness and Capt. Dallas was on the sidelines nursing a fractured toe. Both of these stars will be back in the game shortly.

City's Younger Set Planning Big Things For That Evening's Enjoyment.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO ENTERTAIN AT THE "Y"

Costumes And Masks Will Be Allowed On City's Streets Provided Crowds Do Not Become Too Boisterous And Disorderly—Many Private Parties Are Being Arranged.

Next Tuesday night will be the night of nights for black cats, goblins, ghosts and all spooky things. For weeks the city's young people have been awaiting this all-eventful Halloween evening and their hopes are about to be realized.

All sorts of fantastic creatures will roam the streets and it won't be an unusual sight the next morning to see rates off their hinges and many other results of boyish pranks. Halloween gives everyone a chance to be young again and to participate in all kinds of merrymaking and merriment. City officials when approached and asked if there would be any enforcement of regulations prohibiting the promenading of masked individuals on the streets replied that no action would be taken against such parades unless the crowds became too boisterous and disorderly.

The Halloween spirit seems to be more enthusiastic and prevalent this year than ever before and it is certain that Salisbury's downtown streets will be packed and jammed with spectators and promenaders. If the conditions warrant it, Main Street will be roped off.

Parties and entertainments are being planned by various individuals and organizations. At the "Y" the Business Women's Club is planning a big reception and party for which invitations have been sent out. Modoc Council, Red Men, will give a play in their hall. A large Halloween dance will take place in the Armory with the Peacably Serenaders furnishing the music. Small parties are being prepared for by many people in their own homes.

CHILDREN RUSH FROM MOTHER INTO FLAMES

Mrs. Robinson Forced To Rescue Children Second Time Out Of Burning House In Sharptown.

Getting up to warm some water for a sick child at three o'clock last Thursday morning at her home in Sharptown, Mrs. Howard Robinson hung her dress in the oil stove and upset it. Flames immediately began to sweep over the room and Mrs. Robinson in a badly burned state tried to extinguish them on her person.

With difficulty four sleeping children were brought out of the burning building. They were aroused from their slumbers by the frantic mother and hurried outdoors but upon feeling the cold air the children, still in a dazed condition resulting from their sudden awakening, rushed back into the doomed house. Again they were rescued by the mother.

Despite the efforts of the townspeople who were roused by the alarm, nothing was saved from the conflagration. Mrs. Robinson lost all of her belongings and some money which had been sent to her by Mr. Robinson who works in New Jersey. The cottage and furniture was owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Weatherlow who lived nearby.

This is the third time that the family has been burned out and lost all belongings. Neighbors and friends of the unfortunate woman and her children came to their help with various forms of assistance.

Addresses Informal Meeting In Parsonsburg Shirt Factory—Now Touring Western Shore—Mrs. J. S. Taylor Named On Resolutions Committee Of Federation Of Republican Women At Baltimore Convention

Senator Joseph I. France began his campaign on the Eastern Shore this middle of last week and was in Wicomico county part of Thursday and Friday. He was accompanied by Charles J. Butler, Republican candidate for Congress from the First District.

Senator France met his party leaders in Salisbury on Thursday and Friday nights and expressed himself as being highly gratified with the manner in which his constituents were supporting him. Although the Senator was not prone to discuss just how large a majority he would poll in the coming election, he was very optimistic over the chances of defeating Bruce.

The Republican candidate did not include on his program any scheduled meetings or rallies while on his tour through this section. However, he addressed a number of people informally at the shirt factory in Parsonsburg on Friday.

He and Butler spoke at an enthusiastic mass meeting in Crisfield on Friday night and were highly pleased with the reception tendered them. This week they are on the Western Shore, opening up in Frederick county on Monday.

Republican women of prominence from the city and counties attended the annual State convention of the Federation of Republican Women which opened in Baltimore Monday. From 75 to 100 delegates had registered on the first day when the convention was called to order. A sister of Senator France, Mrs. William R. Nesbit, deliberated the invocation. Her presence may be on the Western Shore following in the he Federation.

Mrs. J. S. Taylor of this city was asked to serve on the resolutions committee along with Mrs. Samuel Dawson, of Montgomery county, Mrs. Lincoln Lyon, of Hare, Prince Georges and Mrs. H. G. Perring, of Baltimore.

Dr. and Mrs. Levin D. Collier have returned from a weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Horsey, Dover, Del.

LOCAL POLICE FORCE ACTIVE OVER WEEK-END

22 Law Violators Are Lodged In Jail During Last 72 Hours.

BIG RAID ON GAMING HOUSE NETS 15 MEN

Ebony-Hued Crap-Shooters Cause Wild Scramble When Police Arrive At Notorious Pool-Room On Water Street—Are Hustled Away In Peninsula Hotel Bus.

"Come?" called an ebony hued crap-shooter Saturday night. He rolled the dice out on the pool table with visions of walking away with the week's earnings of 15 mates, all "culled gents." But instead of the seven point answering his plea, four city officers in plain clothes stepped out upon the scene.

There was a wild scramble for cover in the little poolroom that stands on Water street just back of Willard's auditorium. But all exits were blocked by the police who had planned the raid carefully upon getting the tip that a "big game" was in progress.

Some of the negroes initiated the ostrich who hides his head and believes himself totally concealed. Two long, lean and lanky "dark boys" were pulled out from underneath the pool table where they had secreted themselves at the first scent of trouble. Others had sought the protection of chairs, boxes, in fact anything that happened to be near was immediately utilized for entrenchment.

A big city raid on some notorious gaming house had nothing on this affair. The prisoners were hustled out of the building into the patrol which was standing against the curb. It was the bus from Parker and Pope's garage that is used in transporting guests from the Peninsula Hotel out to the railroad station. Never before had it conveyed such a broken-hearted and despairing set of travelers.

Only one of the 15 men engaged in the crap game escaped the net. The rest were confiscated to be used as evidence. Officers Williams, Cahall, Sullivan and Sheriff Farlowe conducted the campaign against these African golf artists who the next morning paid the fine and were on their way.

Although by far the largest arrest made by members of the local police force, this was not the only one. From Saturday noon to Tuesday night 22 individuals were lodged in the county jail. Officers Cahall and Sullivan figured the precinct every case. They arrested on Saturday night Milton Bell on the charge of carrying concealed weapons and drawing a gun on another negro.

Saturday afternoon, Officers Sullivan and Cahall quietly took into custody Goldie Davis who later paid the fine of $14 on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. On Saturday night late, Sheriff Farlowe arrested Johnny Hill and Officer Sullivan arrested Charlie Hill on drunk and disorderly charges. Both paid fines amounting to $14.00 and were released.

On Sunday Vernon Hopkins, colored, was brought back from Moorestown, N. J., and lodged in the local jail, charged with the non-support of his wife in Sharptown. Lewis Burton, colored, was arrested by Policemen Cahall and Sullivan on Tuesday night, charged with the larceny of a wagon and harness from Henry King on Camden street.

Sheriff Farlowe left Monday for Baltimore where he is to deliver Robert Beauchamp over to the authorities of the Maryland Penitentiary. Beauchamp was recently sentenced to the "Pen" for two years for the shooting of Harvey Walls.

CITY OFFICIALS MUST EITHER PURCHASE WATER SYSTEM OR FACE INCREASED RATES

Representative Of Public Service Commission Outlines To Authorities "Minimum Plan" For Providing Adequate Water Supply For Fire Fighting And Private Use.

Meeting with the Mayor, City Council and special committee on Wednesday night in special session called for the purpose of discussing Salisbury's water problem, were: Mr. Louis Dalmus, president of the Salisbury Water Company and Mr. Luke Ellis, representing the Public Service Commission of Maryland.

A survey of the local water situation was presented to the body by Mr. Ellis. It was at the request of a committee recently appointed by the City Council that the Public Service Commission sent engineers down to Salisbury for the purpose of finding out just what changes and additions must be made to the present system in order to secure a supply of water that would diminish the existing fire hazards of the community and at the same time afford adequate service to all the customers and property owners.

Last April the needs of the city in regard to the water question were brought to the attention of the municipal authorities by the Underwriter's Association following a most complete and comprehensive survey in the local field. This report showed the present water system and plant to be in only

City Must Either Buy Water System Or Face Rate Increase

Mr. Dalmus, president of the water company, is quoted as being willing to undertake such changes as recommended by the Commission's expert but that a fair return must be expected on his outlay. This is taken to mean that the rates might be expected to be increased. However while the Mayor and City Council are reviewing the matter carefully, Mr. Dalmus is also giving his attention to the project and will report back here in about a week's time.

Mr. Ellis, in his brief read before the meeting last Wednesday night, asserted that approximately 10,000 additional feet of water main would be necessary to give adequate protection to the city other than the California section.

This plan for the most part called for the elimination, as far as possible, of the "dead ends" and connections made in the mains on streets intersecting or in close proximity to each other. An additional unit, comprising an electrically driven pump and two wells, according to the plan would be placed at the present plant. The total expenditure for the project, it was estimated, would be about $25,000.

Mr. Ellis stated, however, that this would only meet with the present needs and would by no means provide for the future development of the city. Should the city, at some future date, bring the water system under municipal control, it was stated that the improvements made under this plan would be permanent and could be estimated in the value of the property of the water company.

That water may be supplied to all sections of the city for use in combating fires and for home consumption, Mr. Ellis stated, the estimates differed from $100,000 to $300,000. This amount would include the installation of new and electrically driven pumps and the laying of 12 inch water mains along three or four of the principal streets.

Democrats Hold Rally Gov. Ritchie Present

Washington than Bruce and Goldborough.

He spoke of Mr. Bruce's record as a public servant in Maryland and pointed with pride to the numerous achievements which had benefited Maryland. "We did not select Mr. Bruce because we were led unthinkingly to this conclusion," he said. "The Democrats of Maryland did it deliberately, when they went over his record as a straightforward man of achievement, devoted to the service of the whole people. Mr. Lee was unstinted in his praise of Congressman T. Alan Goldborough, who was re-nominated by the Democrats of the First Congressional District by a majority of approximately 10,000 in the recent primary. Miss Konig was the fourth speaker and won herself into the favor of the many women present with her arguments over the issues concerned in the coming elections. She gave a very patriotic speech and assailed Senator France for his Bolshevistic tendencies. William Cabell Bruce brought the evening's assembly to a close with a well outlined talk of the questions before the Democratic voters. He referred to the Eastern Shore in affectionate terms and expressed his thanks for those constituents who backed him in the recent primaries. Mr. Bruce told of the effect upon the agricultural interests of the country of the Fordney Tariff Bill. But the most of his remarks consisted of attacks upon his opponent Senator France whom he spoke of as being dominated by too radical and Bolshevistic forces. He declared that Senator France had never been seriously considered in the Senate and that no policy that he had ever forwarded had been enacted into law. He ridiculed the idea of San Francisco that Russia is a sister republic and should be united with at this time. But the real issue at this time, Mr. Bruce asserted, was that of conservatism against radicalism and of Americanism against Bolshevism. In closing, he reiterated his charges that Senator France had made reckless promises to the radicals of every class and never attempted to answer this challenge.

ROTARY GOVERNOR ADDRESSES ROTARIANS

Addresses Local Club And Praises Its Accomplishments—Ladies Night At Next Thursday Meeting

"Give me a fever long enough," said Archimedes, "and I can lift the world." George Lumb, governor of the Thirty-fourth District of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, sounded this as his keynote of the speech when he was entertained at luncheon on Thursday by the local Rotarians.

In applying the quotation, the District Governor explained to the Salisbury Rotarians the purposes of International Rotary and described some of the difficulties experienced in drawing up a constitution that would be universally acceptable. Rotary has now nearly 85,000 members of almost every nationality, and the framing of a set of rules that should guide the East and West, the North and South was a gigantic task.

That this constitution has been drawn up and accepted by all countries speaks eloquently of the esteem in which Rotary and Rotary ethics are held by the nations of the world. The International Association has, undoubtedly, been a prime factor in cementing the bonds of friendship between the United States and other countries, and has led to a better understanding on both sides of the water in concluding the Governor called attention to the accomplishments of the Rotary Club of Salisbury, a record of which any club might be justly proud. Following Rotarian Lumb, Norris Longacre, of Harrisburg, described two delightful itineraries to St. Louis for the great Rotary meeting there in June. It is quite probable that several members from Salisbury will attend the convention.

President Ralph H. Grier reported to the Club that the Baltimore Rotarians are co-operating with the Salisbury organization in looking after all crippled children who have been sent to the hospitals in Baltimore for treatment from the Rotary clinic here. It was also announced that "Ladies Night" would be held on Thursday, November 2nd. Each member will bring a favor indicative of his classification. A special program is being arranged for the evening.

Nation To Celebrate Navy Day On Friday

People Are Requested To Honor United States' Sea Forces On That Day

Friday, October 27, 1922, has been designated as Navy Day. This came at the suggestion of the Navy League of the United States and received the endorsement of the Navy Department. Individuals and communities are requested to pause on that day and consider the consecration to duty of the personnel of the present sea force and the glorious services rendered to the nation by the Navy in the past.

The Navy League points out the fact that in no crisis has Uncle Sam's sea-dogs failed in their duties. The United States Navy flouted its enemies victoriously in the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, the Civil War, the Spanish American and the great World War. Today our peace and prosperity are guarded by the Navy and it lends authority to America's voice, speaking for altruism, justice and law.

YE WOULD NOT:—O that thou hadst harkened to my commandments! then had thy peace been as a river, and thy righteousness as the waves of the sea.—Isaiah 48: 18.

DON'T SELL THE COUNTY'S BIRTHRIGHT.

The very life—political, economic, social—of the counties of Maryland may be at stake, pending the results of the general election in November when at least two vitally important amendments to the State Constitution are to be voted upon.

These two amendments provide for greater representation for Baltimore City in the General Assembly. If they are passed, the counties of Maryland will necessarily suffer great loss of prestige in the law-making body of the State.

Already the delegates from Baltimore City are in position to demand from the counties far more than they should be allowed. With an increase in the number of representatives, the City would be in position to put through almost any legislation it desired, regardless of how that legislation might affect the people of the rest of the State. It would be well for the voters of the counties to remember this fact on election day and vote accordingly.

The opposition to giving Baltimore City any further influence in the Assembly is so inherently one of the characteristics of the voters of the county that there has been practically no organized objection to the amendments, most of the county people feeling that there is no chance of the amendments being passed.

In this passive, but none the less deep-seated opposition to Baltimore's entreaty, lies danger. The only way in which the amendments can be passed is in the apathy of the public being manifested to such a degree that the changes in the Constitution will be accepted by default.

Voters of Wicomico, be on the alert. When election day rolls round, go to the polls and defend your birthright. Defeat the Constitutional Amendments granting to the city of Baltimore the virtual control of the State.

SULLIVANIZING THE UNITED STATES.

"All weapons that may be concealed on the person" will be prohibited if the Anti-Weapon Law to be brought before the Congress at the next session should be passed. The law as proposed does not apply simply to pistols and revolvers, as has been supposed, but to all firearms. If the law is passed and enforced to the letter, shotguns and rifles may alike be banned, for either may be concealed on the person of someone wearing an overcoat.

The total effect of the law would be the disarming of the American people, an action diametrically opposed to the principles on which this Government is founded, for the Second Amendment to the Constitution states: "A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

Suppression of crime is not the only reason why the householder buys firearms. Consider the waste of crops annually on American farms if the inroads of various kinds of "varmints" were checked only by traps and poison. Think of the hundreds of men and women who spend a healthy, recreational week now and then hunting and try to imagine their loss in healthful, outdoor sports and pleasures.

As to crime, it is a notorious fact that criminals seem always able to provide themselves with firearms when they want them. The Federal Government has recently flooded the country with the most deadly of pistols and it cannot be imagined for a moment that each of these found its way into the hands of a law abiding citizen who would cheerfully surrender it should the Sullivan law become a national law.

It is estimated that at present the revolver supply in the hands of the public is sufficient to last the criminals of the nation 200 years, for but two or three per cent of the firearms sold is ever worn out, destroyed or seized by the authorities. The law as proposed would, in its operation, disarm the honest and leave them at the mercy of the dishonest. Pistol carrying must be eliminated in other ways, by local laws, by stirring up public sentiment, by education. It is not necessary to pass so drastic a law as that which is planned, for it would do more harm than good.

Abolish the pistol and revolver if possible, but leave to the hunters their shotguns and rifles, and leave to the rural inhabitants of this nation some means of protection from depredators, both animal and human.

KEEP WHITE AND BLUE IN OUR FLAG.

Our country with a generosity unmatched in history opened her doors to all peoples.

It is known to our Department of State that some European countries have used us, as England once used Australia—a dumping ground for misfits. Some of these undesirables responded to the better opportunity and righted themselves. Others have filled our jails and given our courts much work.

The spawn of generations of oppression, they have only suspicion of and destruction for any established order. Their passion is to destroy. They hoist the red flag of anarchy in place of the banner we venerate and that welcomed them. They early seek the franchise. With a guileless generosity we give it to them.

The Reds and the Radicals and the Bolshevik-minded had one of their typical conventions in Central Europe this summer. But they were not content to stop with Central Europe. Theirs is an organized system of propaganda and promulgation.

An American tourist met one of the American student delegates to this convention on an Austrian railway train. The boy boasted of the quota of REDS he was to bring into America in September to enter a great American college. He was one of many chosen to bring the flaming embers of Europe's discontent to inoculate no less than two hundred American colleges.

There are some things more precious than precious stones. As precious a thing as blesses the world today is our American ideal of democracy. Imperfect as is our demonstration of it, the ideal is flawless. It is not for us to leave that ideal unguarded by the roadside for any malcontent to malign or injure.

When we find anarchists and experimentalists using our institution of culture to spread their ungrateful doctrine it is time for us to act.

Regents and trustees, visitors and overseers, professors and college presidents should be mindful of the work that is going on silently and surreptitiously in our college halls to undermine the foundations that uphold our flagstaff.

Guess What They Are Talking About.

The Letter Box

A. Sufferan Mann Wants To Know What The School Board Is Going To Do About The School Situation In This County. Can You Tell Him?

Wicomico County is known for her schools—or lack of them, whatever way you want to look at the matter. Year after year, the School Board comes up with a plea for more and better facilities, and anyone who has ever visited the more prominent schools of the county does not wonder at the requests of the officials for additional equipment and additional buildings.

But are these requests based on sound reasons? Frequently we are prone to doubt it. For instance, there has been a more or less concerted effort for some time to have Salisbury as the central point for the high school pupils in the county. Other communities might have their second and third group schools, but to Salisbury should go the graduates of those for their final year.

There is something to be said in favor of the centralized high school. It gives the boys and girls from smaller towns a chance to rub elbows with those from the larger places. This idea of "cosmopolitanism" may be all right, but the greatest good the centralized high school could do would be to make the future citizens of the county acquainted with each other.

Another argument in favor of the high school at Salisbury is that better facilities, better teachers, more room, could be supplied there much more inexpensively than they could in four or five different localities. The question of expense, of course, always has great weight with the taxpayer; but it is not everything.

On the contrary, think of the number of boys and girls in those parts of the county further distant from Salisbury who would be forced to give up that last year of high school unless they could afford to move into Salisbury for the school year. How many students are there on the farms of the county whose parents would feel able to afford a year away from home simply to take a year's work in high school, work that might have been taken right in their own neighborhood.

Unless the children moved into Salisbury for the school term, they would have to take long drives every day over good roads and bad. This might be excellent in the summer, but the winter would certainly not be an alluring prospect. Besides, the children would spend on the road going to and from school hours and hours which they could put to far better advantage.

An opposite plan to a central high school at Salisbury is the creating, where necessary, of first group high schools in those communities which can best serve their surrounding territories. For example, high schools at Mardela Springs, Pittsville, Delmar, Salisbury, and Tyaskin, could serve those communities admirably. The pupils would have shorter distances to travel; they would be at home more where they could help their parents; and on the whole they would be better satisfied.

We must have more schools that is certain. Where those schools should go is a matter for the Board of Education to determine, but we hope they will not make the mistake of giving Salisbury the best of everything.

Respectfully yours,
A. SUFFERAN MANN.

Asbury Church Filled

Boosters Out In Force To Services Held Last Sunday Evening—Excellent Music Rendered

The Asbury Church was crowded to the doors on last Sunday evening when the Asbury Echo meeting was held and the congregation entered heartily into every part of the service. One can hardly imagine a more interesting service than this proved to be.

The music rendered by the Choir was out of the same song books used at the Asbury meetings and Asbury Choir of nearly fifty voices seemed to thoroughly enjoy the singing of the hymns, and the congregation proved that they had not forgotten the choruses that made the meetings of last year so successful. A very effective duet was sung by Miss Long and Professor Dashiell.

Letters were read from Dr. McCombe, Mr. Roberts, Mrs. Roberts and Professor Glase. The letters showed how greatly these folks learned to love Salisbury and the interest of the people in the reading of the letters showed what a great place the McCombe-Clase Party has in the hearts of the people of this County.

The Boosters were out in force and how they did sing their Booster Songs. Everybody enjoyed hearing the Boosters sing.

Before the close of the service Dr. Herson made a telling appeal to the people for greater consecration to the work of God and for the surrender of life of Christ and the Church. And the answer of a number of people to both of these appeals was gladdening to the heart of every man and woman present.

Financially Sound —and—
Physically Fit

The value to the community of a gas company which is financially and physically able to maintain service at all times and under the most unfavorable conditions was well illustrated during the past seven months.

With a coal strike and a rail strike combined to make all fuel deliveries a matter involving great difficulty and expense, we have met every demand which has been made upon us. There has been no curtailment and no interruption of service.

We were affected more directly by the coal shortage than many other gas companies, because ours is the water-gas method of manufacture, in which anthracite coal or coke, and not bituminous coal is used. As is generally known, the most acute shortage was in the anthracite field.

The shortage and the abnormal prices are still with us, as any householder who has recently tried to fill his coal bin can testify.

If our plant were of insufficient capacity, or in a run-down condition or if we were not able to obtain the necessary coal at the prevailing high prices, hundreds of families in Salisbury and Delmar, deprived of their normal coal supplies, would now be without fuel for heating or cooking.

Principal Pascon Business College

HOW TO CAPITALIZE.

The problem of knowing just when to capitalize words is often a stumbling block in the pathway of stenographers who are ambitious to have their work qualify them for higher positions. The use of capitals in its greatest measure a matter of taste and judgment. As a general rule, capitalize all names; including Christian and Surnames, Religious Sects; Political, Civil and Military Organizations, Holidays, Historical Events; Streets, Squares, Theatres, Halls, etc.

Perhaps the most elementary rule on capitalization is that the first word of every sentence, every complete sentence that is quoted—likewise every line of poetry, should be capitalized. It is another very elementary rule that all proper names and adjectives derived from them should be capitalized. Illustrations: United States, America, American, England, English, Jameson, Indianapolis, Brown, Henry, Caroline, etc.

In quoting the titles of articles, magazines, books, etc., the rule is that the important words should be capitalized. These words are generally understood to include the nouns, pronouns, verbs, adverbs and adjectives, and to include the conjunctions and prepositions—as well as the articles, except where they are used at the beginning of the title. Illustrations: "Business and Kingdom Come."

by Dr. Frank Crane of New York City. Let me recommend "The Pot of Basil" as a very artistic picture.

Important historical events should always be capitalized. For example: The Battle of Gettysburg was the decisive conflict of the Civil War. The Declaration of Independence was an epoch-making event in American history.

The words north, south, east and west and their derivatives should be capitalized when they refer to sections of the country. The rule is otherwise when direction is intended. For instance: I intend to visit Jacksonville on my trip south this winter. Jacksonville is one of the most interesting cities in the South. We found the Westerners to be the most hospitable people. The North as well as the South will be extremely interested in this legislation.

Where titles are used with proper names or especially as titles, they should begin with capital letters. Where they are only used as a matter of explanation, the rule does not apply. Illustrations: Colonel H. B. Johnson, President Woodrow Wilson, Professor Monroe, Judge Wharton, Dr. Frank Jones. Also: Mr. R. M. Brown, President of the Brown Manufacturing Company; Dr. J. W. Freeman, Director of the Homestead Hospital; Hon. William H. Smith, the present mayor of Chicago; James A. Freighton, one of the ablest judges in the State of Illinois. It is well to remember, however, that in the case of government of the United States, the Secretary of War, the Attorney-General, etc.

Unless personified or referred to in a special way, such words as exemplify the seasons—i. e., spring, summer, autumn or fall and winter—should not be capitalized. Correct usages: The spring rains have already played havoc with the country roads. The

It is proper to capitalize such words as college, university, school institute, seminary, church, association, etc., when used as a part of a name. Examples: Knox College, Harvard University, Fairmount Seminary, Christ Church, National Association of Cost Accountants.

Ordinarily such geographical names as river, ocean, mountain, city, county, should not be capitalized. But when they are used in connection with other words to make up proper names, they must be capitalized. As for instance, American Continent, Mississippi River, Atlantic Ocean, Rocky Mountains, New York City, etc. In such cases as the following, these geographical names are used in a general sense and are therefore not capitalized: The largest river in America is the Mississippi; from ocean to ocean, from the Atlantic to the Pacific; the city of New York; the city of Salisbury, etc.

Where "government" and "state" are used in place of the proper names themselves, it is right to capitalize them, as in such cases as these: The State will act promptly to secure remedial legislation. The Government will take steps to protect the interests of its citizens abroad. They are also capitalized in such constructions as: The State of Indiana, the American Government, the Swiss Government. It is also well to note here that the word "party" is usually capitalized when coupled with such names as Republican, Democrat, Socialist, Prohibition, Independent and the like.

Stenographers are often confronted with enumerations of items in statements, etc., and in such cases, capitals are used in the first word after the amount or quantity is stated. Illustrations: 4 lbs. Coffee.

4 lbs. Quality coffee.

1 bu. Potatoes.

1 doz. Eggs.

3 boxes Laundry soap.

Capital letters are used to begin clauses or phrases, when numbered separately or set apart, as beginning important statements, for example: "Resolved, That in order to do away with these evils, a special commission should be appointed by the President."

To be accurate about such details as capitalization is merely exemplifying the truth of the old saying, "Trifles make perfection and perfection is no trifle." It is an element of the kind of service that wins recognition and promotion. Incidentally it makes for other habits of accuracy and precision which lie at the foundation of really noteworthy success in business.

KISMET

There was a certain man, very narrow between the eyes and very much enamored of his own precious self, who became a father at the age of twenty-one. He determined at once that his son must be developed into a great man in order to be worthy of his father, and determined, also, that his son should lack for nothing and should whenever possible have advantages that other boys were denied. It followed, as a matter of course, that the child was spoiled. It grew daily more firmly fixed in the belief that it was the center of the universe and when there was effort to deny it something desired, which seldom, the child would lie on the floor and howl.

It became a little snob, and never through all its days knew an unselfish thought.

At the age of forty-five the father weighed his son in the balance and found the youngster wanting. "I have made a mistake," said he; "I have petted and coddled this kid and ruined him. He's too darned selfish for any use."

And then the fates brought the father another son and he determined to profit by his experience and try another method. The second son was never given its way. It wasn't even permitted to suspect that it had a way. When it showed signs of selfishness or temper, it was spanked for the good of its soul, and many, many times it made the acquaintance of disappointment. In fact, it led a hard life and felt abused and regretted that it had been born. If it fell and bumped its head, it was not petted and kissed, but told to hush that crying and do it quickly lest a worse thing befall it. If the neighbor's children made off with its playthings and it wept or showed signs of a desire to resort to violence, it was made to surrender its property in perpetuity and was spanked for good measure.

But despite all these precautions and this rigid training, the second son developed into a duplicate of the first and never of its own volition did an unselfish thing or thought an unselfish thought.

And the moral of that disappointment lies in store for the man who thinks a course of training can convert a common street cur into a thoroughbred colt.—Evening Sun.

FLUSHED WITH SUCCESS LOCAL PLAYERS WILL REPEAT OPERETTA ON NOVEMBER 6

Performance Of "A Modern Gypsy" Last Friday Night Enthusiastically Received By Large Audience—Principals Score Heavily With Their Singing Numbers.

Flushed with their success at the Arcade Theatre last Friday night, the "Modern Gypsy" players will give a second performance in the same auditorium on November 6th. Popular prices will prevail for this entertainment.

Mr. Hammerslough of the "Y" was highly gratified with the patronage of last Friday night when over $200 was realized for the local institution. Easton and several other nearby towns have asked that a benefit performance be given in their amusement houses but the problem of transporting the large troupe proved to be too great for such a venture.

Particular pleasing was the play given by the local talent under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Ray last Friday evening. The operetta was excellently staged with a tuneful score of songs and a delightful repertoire of dances.

The principals in the cast were clever in their respective parts and their work before the footlights at times bordered on the professional order. During the intermission Miss Mildred Matthews scored heavily with her singing of Wilson's "Carmena War Song."

Those in the main roles rounded out their performances with splendidly rendered vocal numbers. Miss Alice Elliott possessed all the requisites of a successful musical comedy star, her voice being sweet and her acting very realistic. Miss Ruth Dobson and Mr. Hammerslough sang the "Gypsy Chorus" from "Il Trovatore" and this number drew the sustained applause of the audience.

Miss Ma Belle Tomlinson was petite and captivating as Hazel Wentworth and when she won Lord Archie, played aptly by Fulton Brewington, everyone was pleased. Mr. Claude Dorman measured up to expectations in his role of Roland Gasper. Mrs. Ackley's songs were well-received and Mrs. Walter Ray also presented an attractive number.

Exceptionally refreshing were the dances of Miss Elizabeth Tilghman. Miss Dorothy Porter and Mr. Claude Dorman drew applause with their sassy dance while Miss Elizabeth Adams and Mr. Lloyd Hopkins were good in their exhibition of modern dancing in the ballroom scene. Miss Lucille Gullette and Mr. Wallace Waller won attention with their interpretation of "The Minuet." Miss Kathryn Hagan and Miss Julia Humphreys staged a pretty Japanese dance and Miss Eleanor Bonnevillie was a graceful Egyptian dancer. No little credit should go to Mr. and Mrs. Ray for assembling together such a fine performing group of chorus girls and children in the minor roles.

Mr. Hammerslough wishes that the children in the cast report at the "Y" next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the principals and High School students come that evening at 7 o'clock.

Merchants Use Decorative Art Skillfully In Displays

Salisbury Stores Creditably Reflect 20th Century Methods Of Show-room Handiwork Inviting Passers-by To Bargain Counters Within—Women Shoppers Easily Lured.

One of the first principles of decorative art is that ornament must hold a place subordinate to that of utility; and when by its exuberance, ornament interferes with utility, it is misplaced and vulgar.—George C. Mason.

Decorative art, as qualified in the above lines, is strikingly exemplified in the manner of the 20th century window dressing and show-room displays. Modern merchants have created a distinctive style of art with their skillful designing and crafty trimming of glass fronts that allure the gaze of the passer-by. Saturday night in Salisbury's downtown section finds the sidewalks jammed and thronged with shoppers. The country people are in the majority, for Saturday with them is a busy day in town when all the purchases of household supplies and clothing are to be made. Attractive store windows attract them and invite their trade.

The review of the window displays is made by the townspeople in a rather off-handed way and takes place at any time when an individual happens to pass the store. To the casual observer who might have walked down the street Saturday, the following would have been the appearance of some of the store windows as he gazed in on them.

And yet in all that decorative art, the important feature of utility has not been overlooked. For no matter how scintillating the background of colors might be or how magnetic the scheme of array, unless there stands within, an object of usefulness as well as of beauty, the attraction is dimmed.

It is no subtle appeal effected by these show windows of today but an realistic exploitation of material studies amid an atmosphere of artistic arrangement. The value of such displays is not underestimated by prosperous merchants and business men in their efforts to progress.

Salisbury business houses are creditably reflecting these tendencies and are successfully competing in their window decorations and adornments with the larger city stores that have experts engaged for these duties alone. A casual stroll down Main Street will convince the observer that decorative art with the idea of utility paramount is not conspicuous by its absence in the shops. The first principles of crafty interior displays are much in vogue.

The whole scheme of this particular kind of advertising is soundly based on the assumption that people like to look at things beautiful, which if found serviceable, they will be purchased. Guided by this modern parable, the merchant undertakes then to display to advantage that which he has to offer for sale.

And his first victims are the "females of the species." Women are natural-born shoppers. They inherited the instinct to bargain, from their representative in the Garden of Eden, who bartered for the rosy red apple temptingly displayed from the limb overhead.

So the advantage lies with the shop-owner. He recognizes the weakness of mildy and immediately seeks to profit by it. He lures her on by arousing her interest as she walks down the street. The show window is but a stepping stone to the bargain counter. Mildly wistfully views the articles on display and conjectures as to the advisability of examining them more closely. The climax is gradually approached.

Window decorators, therefore seek to "play up" their respective wares in tempting and attractive style. Their handiwork in arranging the goods is fraught with the intuitive spirit of knowing that people desire what they admire. In the ancient days of the philosophical Romans, it was Seneca who said, "Lack of desire is the greatest riches." Measuring the onlooker of human nature under this criterion we would find the "female of the species more beggarly than the male."

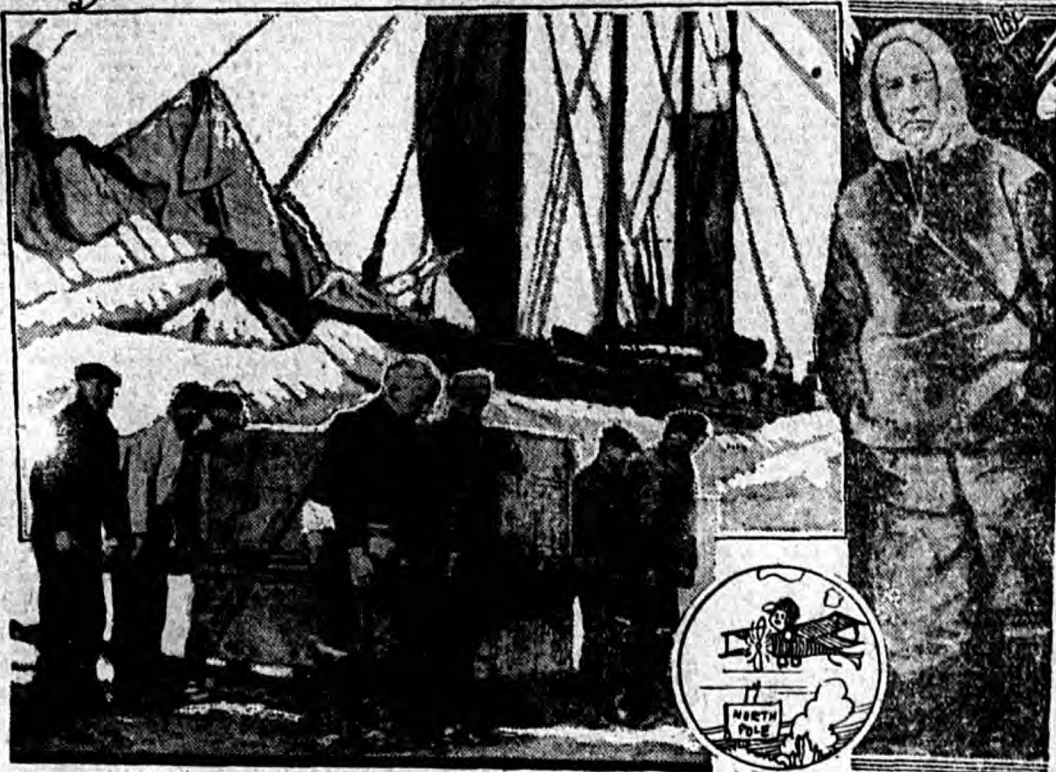

To learn the magnitude of the power of desire inherent in members of society's restless sex, one has but to watch the expression on a woman's face as she stands before a shop window that is richly endowed with exquisite creations direct from Paris fashion parlors or one that is resplendent with "lovely hats that just match." Her eyes glisten and feast on the object of her adoration and her fingers nervously twitch upon the strings of her purse. Envy of Mrs. Doe's new suit grips her. The fact that her own wardrobe is filled with beautiful clothes matters not. She wants that wonderful piece of brown broadcloth over there in the corner behind the stunning black hat and she wants it badly.

Then comes the confession of weakness and frailty in a low whisper, "Well I'll just go in and look at it." Inwardly she knows that the actual purchase is the ultimate goal.

Man is different. He knows what he wants and needs and he goes to the nearest shop and gets it. Occasionally a novelty in the window or bit of tasty haberdashery attracts his attention and suggests a purchase. Of course, Hubby upon leaving the office in the afternoon after a clash at the breakfast table the morning may notice a new type of coffee percolator in a downtown window and take it home to "wifey" as a sort of peace offering.

Indigestion - Dyspepsia -

THEY are torments easily avoided with proper care, but give them a chance and they will make life miserable. Avoiding stomach and bowel troubles is an easier matter than to effect a cure after a long period of neglect.

Agente, positive, all-vegetable laxative should be immediately taken when the stomach feels distressed and constipation threatens—such a laxative as Red Cloud Liver Berries

Indigestion or dyspepsia, so called, whether acute or chronic, are painful and distressing conditions, which in the majority of cases are the result of neglecting the bowels. Red Cloud Liver Berries, exercise and care will do much to relieve this distressing and dangerous condition.

BY INTERNATIONAL FIXED CALENDAR LEAGUE

Julius Caesar Got All Mixed Up In Cry—Augustus And Constantine Made Things Worse—Gregory Threw Away 10 Days—Unequal Dating System Is Result.

Julius Caesar, by his unscientific juggling of the calendar, has caused unnecessary confusion for centuries. The members of the International Fixed Calendar League, who advocate the adoption of a 13-month year with each month containing 28 days, and an international holiday added each year to make up the 365 days of the solar calendar.

There is really no reason why the calendar should be so broken up. League members say. In the days of the ancient Egyptians, who originated the calendar, working with the shadows of pyramids and obelisks, the calendar was arranged with 13 months of equal length, with a five day festival at the end of the year to square things up with the sun.

The reason for the pyramids and obelisks was their use in astronomy and calendar making, it is said. In 46 B. C., Julius Caesar, disatisfied with the moon-chasing calendar of his day, adopted the Egyptian system—with modifications. The Romans were superstitious about odd numbers so Julius started to do with the calendar as he had done with the world, and when he was through the equal length months were all broken up, the five-day festival was eliminated, and the months were arranged alternately with 30 and 31 days.

So pleased was the Roman Senate with Caesar's work, it immediately named the seventh month in his calendar in his honor and the system is known as the Julian calendar. First worked for a while until one of Caesar's successors, Augustus by name, changed his forebear's work in 28 B. C., and when his heavy hand was through the calendar resulted in its present state. The odd and even numbered months were changed around and arbitrarily fixed, February was given a little more liberty than the other months, and the half years were set on unequal bases—the first half getting only 181 days and the second 184.

The Roman Senate retained by changing the name of the eighth month to honor Augustus, as that was his birth month as July was Julius'. "Constantine the Great," says a League publication, "conferred the ever-welcome Sabbath rest each seventh day on Europeans, but the unequal lengths of 28 and 31-day months imposed by Julius and Augustus have since forced the Constantine weeks were set on unequal bases—the first half getting only 181 days and the second 184.

Since then we have been traveling under the Gregorian calendar. In consequence, the League complains, Gregory moved the Christian year's end (which, ever since the establishment of the Christian era, had been celebrated at Christmas) from Christmas to January 1—one week further away from nature's year's end, December 22. Russia and Greece alone did not comply with that edict, and continued as of old.

After several national and international conferences during 1922, of those interested in the new movement, a final international conference was planned to be held some time during the coming year. It will be held here at the President's call. Many representatives of world nations will attend to discuss a program which includes:

Location of the "Year Day" removal of "leap day" to be a mid-summer holiday, the best arrangement to fit the present 52 yearly weeks into permanent months "Sol" the best permanent date for Easter, the best date on which to begin the "new year" or equal month year (beginning April 1 at 1928, and the "draft recommendations concerning the above into legislative form for adoption by all nations and remit that standard bill to their respective governments to insert their national holidays therein and together make it law for their respective nations.

Practically, it is said, the revised calendar would aid in agriculture in preventing crop failures by planting at incorrect times because the calendar calls for it. It would be of value to labor and capital alike, it is claimed, and would aid industry generally. It would equalize dating systems throughout the world free about 9 per cent of monthly money now held for 30 and 31 days.—Baltimore News.

THE NEGRO MOVES NORTH

One of the most important and significant movements of the war decade was the migration of Southern negroes to the North. In 1910 the colored population north of the Mason and Dixon line and the Ohio amounted to little more than 1,000,000; in 1920 it was 1,475,000, an increase in 10 years of 47 per cent.

As a result, for the first time in the history of the country, the center of negro population has taken a northeasterly trend. This center is now in the northwest corner of Georgia.

The explanation for this movement is found in the abnormal demand for cheap labor in the North during the war and the consequent heavy migration of Southern negroes. During the recent business depression, it is said that many of these workers returned to their old homes, but that they will remain there permanently is much to be doubted.

The partial recovery of industry has brought on once again a stringent shortage of unskilled labor, a shortage which the unwise immigration laws make it impossible to relieve with workers from Europe. It is very probable then that the increasing wages which are being offered in the Northern industrial centers will again attract the colored labor from the tobacco and cotton fields.

Apparently the colored man in the United States is not destined to remain permanently segregated in one section. It was the especial adaptability of negro workers for the industrial needs of the Southern colonies which first brought them to these shores; their increasing fitness for the requirements of the industrial North is now attracting them in turn to other sections.—Baltimore News.

HEAVY FIRE LOSSES HIT UNITED STATES

Property Valued At $250,000,000 Added To Nation's Ash Heap During First Eight Months This Year

The national debt of the United States is now expressed in eleven figures. The amount of money represented by its huge total of $23,000,000,000 is beyond the bounds of human comprehension. If, however, we had started forty years ago to invest each year at six per cent compound interest a sum of money equivalent to its respective fire loss, we would now have a fund sufficient to wipe out the whole national debt.

The amount placed to the credit of this fund has increased each year at a rate altogether out of proportion to the increase in the number of citizens. In 1921 the fire loss was six times as great as in 1881, although the population was only twice as great as that of the earlier year.

If one-fifth of our exports to all of Europe during 1921 had been destroyed at sea by enemy submarines, our nation would now be engaged in war, and every industry in the country actively interested in stopping the loss. No such calamity occurred, but our nation sustained, nevertheless, a loss just as great because of fire, the largest proportion of which could have been prevented. No expensive army or navy would have been required to make this portion of the loss impossible. This enormous waste could have been prevented, however, by just a little personal care on the part of each American citizen.

To realize fully the extent of this national fire waste, it should be considered from an individual and community standpoint. In 1921 the per capita fire loss was $4.47. At this rate, the average loss to a community would be over $10,000 for each year. Such a sum of money would assist materially in improving streets, building school houses or otherwise bettering municipal conditions. When on the other hand, property valued at that amount is destroyed by fire, the nation is a permanent loser, for fire waste is an economic loss.

Property valued at more than $250,000,000 has been added to the nation's ash heap during the first eight months of the current year. This sum alone would have provided homes for 50,000 American workmen and their families.

The business man accustomed to dealing with figures will rapidly comprehend what a continuation of such reckless destruction of property will mean to the business interests of the country. The individual should also realize that this loss naturally increases the burden which he has to bear. Until each citizen considers fire prevention as a personal problem requiring his own individual carefulness, the elimination of fire waste can never be realized and this unnecessary economic loss will continue.

FOREIGN SUGAR SOURCES

More than half of the sugar consumed in the United States comes from foreign sources, reports the United States Department of Agriculture. Of the 5,632,599 short tons consumed during the year ending June 30, 1922, 1,348,190 tons were produced in the United States. Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippines supplied 1,934,553 tons and most of the remainder came from Cuba.

BUILD UP INDUSTRY

In the spring of 1921 seven farmers in a Georgia county were induced by the county extension agent to make a trial cooperative shipment of 20 pounds of surplus cream. In June, 1922, fourteen months later, according to a report made to the United States Department of Agriculture, this new farm industry had grown to the extent of 1,000 pounds shipped from that county during the month.

CONFEDERACY TO HAVE NOBLE MOUNTAIN TOMB

Eight Years Will Be Required To Carve Stone Mountain In Georgia Into Confederate Memorial

The work of carving Stone Mountain into a memorial to the Confederacy is well under way and eight years should finish the work. Thenceforth Stone Mountain, not far from Atlanta, Ga., which will stand as long as our thoughts of human affairs force, will bear to mind a movement that ended in disaster but left a heritage of steadfast courage now part of the tradition of the whole nation. Gutzon Borglum was busy with plans for the vast task before the World War interfered; now at last workmen will carve into the side of the great, monolithic story of the battles of the Civil War, the monumental works of man. Stone Mountain will perhaps bulk largest. It is 787 feet high, more than 300 feet higher than the tallest pyramid. The frieze that will run for 2000 feet across the face of the mountain will be from 300 to 400 feet high, and from a distance the effect will be that of a great army marching toward the East. Studied at all available sources the likeness of the Confederate leaders, carved in full relief, will be recognizable for miles. As the foot of the mountain will be a memorial to the women of the Confederacy, and there will be other features developed later. About the mountain are several hundred acres of land that are already being developed into a large park as a permanent setting for the mountain.

IMPORTANCE OF RESPONSIBILITY

An employer of stenographers is speaking. "That girl is a good stenographer and she will always be just that—a good stenographer. She will never be an expert stenographer and she will never qualify for a position as correspondent, as department manager, as copy writer or needed any of the other higher paid positions to which other stenographers in our employ have been promoted. And there is just one reason for this—her utter lack of a sense of responsibility. A stenographer who is slow or inaccurate can usually be started on the road to improvement. The stenographer who is deficient in spelling, or punctuation, or general education often becomes an expert through reading and study if she has the proper encouragement and a real desire to improve, but the stenographer without a sense of responsibility is practically hopeless.

Business men often complain of stenographers who fail to look up the spelling and syllabification of words when they are in doubt about them, who write figures without verifying them; and who "guess at" addresses and signatures with a blisful disregard of consequences. The "dictated but not read" stamp has been so widely ridiculed that it has been quite generally relegated to the discard. But every stenographer who has the true pride of craftsmanship has an invisible stamp of his own—a stamp which he affixes to every letter that he writes when he types his initials at the bottom of the sheet. That stamp means: "This work is done as well as I can do it." When an artist signs a picture, or when a writer signs an article, he assumes responsibility for the finished work. When a stenographer types his own initials with those of the dictator at the bottom of a letter, he signifies his willingness to share with the dictator the responsibility for that letter. The stenographers who are willing to assume responsibility for the content as well as for the appearance of the letter, stamp themselves as being ready for greater responsibility and the willingness and ability to assume heavy responsibility carry with them the opportunity for greater service and the assurance of larger rewards.

A SWEET LITTLE BABY BOY

Makes a Bright Spot in Every Home. A Comfort in Years to Come

Park Rapids, Minnesota.—"I have taken your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—when I was a girl for pains and before and after my marriage. I now have a sweet little baby boy and will send you his picture if you wish to publish it. My sisters also take your medicine and find it a great help, and I recommend it to those who suffer before their babies are born." —Mrs. Wm. JOHNSON, Box 166, Park Rapids, Minn.

To marry and arrive at middle age without children is a great disappointment to many women. Think of the joy and comfort other women have in their children as they grow older.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to bring great happiness to many families by restoring women to health. Often the childless woman is due to a run down condition of the wife, which may be helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It brought health and happiness into the home of Mrs. Johnson. Why not to yours?

KENTUCKY'S NEW CAVE IS REAL WONDERLAND

Great Onyx Is Recently Discovered Underground Region Claimed To Excel Famous Mammoth

Two and a half hours south of Louisville we leave the train at Glasgow Junction where a diminutive line takes us to Mammoth Cave, and we enter a fascinating underground world. Along the banks of Green river and in adjacent regions there are thousands of sink holes and hundreds of open caverns. Now and then a new cave is discovered, with miles of white and gleaming passageways uninjured by man.

On June 12, 1915, a hillside opening was found on the land of a local farmer, about three miles northeast of Mammoth Cave. Mr. L. P. Edwards, who is the fortunate owner, enlarged the opening and spent many memorable days in exploring this newest and finest of caverns, which he named the Great Onyx Cave. Two new levels have just been discovered, on March 15, 1922. One of them contains an onyx chamber 10 times larger than those which have previously been found.

Fortunately the formations in the Great Onyx Cave have been guarded from injury by tourists, and its walls and ceiling have not been blackened by the smoke of torches. Several hours quickly pass while one is viewing the known passageways, and there are interesting possibilities in the discovery of new ones. As we enter the cave we pass through a remarkable forest of stalactite and stalagmite columns which seem to support the roof. Some are fluted and of massive proportions, while others are only a fraction of an inch in diameter. As we advance we are dazzled by the sparkling crystals of the snow-white ceiling, on which plate gypsum is laid as if by hand.

Here and there the plates are flaking off as the new growth detaches itself. Icicle-like stalactites fringe the edge of the plate and occasionally gather in richly decorative clusters. We see a marvelous variety of pure white gypsum of various forms and stages of growth. Here it seems as if snowballs had been thrown against the ceiling, and there it is soft and fluffy with fiber gypsum like cotton. There are walls of needle gypsum, seeming to be coated with angora fur; and there are feathery frost flowers, like those which are formed by the wind and snow upon a mountain top. Most remarkable are the gypsum flowers suggesting chrysanthemums, hyacinths, lilies and roses. In no other cave have we found such a wealth of white gypsum.

We also find curtains and draperies of alabaster and onyx, suggesting delicate shawls, or resembling strips of bacon when a light is placed behind them.

THE same spirit of progress that replaced the horse with the automobile, has replaced temporary, inflammable buildings with permanent fire-proof structures.

One man has done much toward this change—your building material dealer—by heavy personal investment in slow moving, low profit stock—building materials.

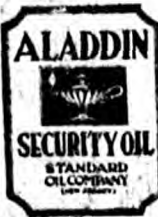

His judgment in favor of permanence is vindicated by its nation wide acceptance. His judgment on individual materials is equally good. He calls Atlas "the Standard by which all other makes are measured."

Farmers Don't HAVE To Lose Money On Their Farm Implements

"One of the greatest sources of loss to the modern farmer is the lack of care in storing farm machinery.

"The length of life of farm machinery is cut in half by storage 'under the blue sky.'

"Farm machinery which is not properly stored and properly cared for must be repaired at the season when the farmer is busiest. If implement sheds are built the machinery can be repaired and put in order during the slack times of the fall and winter. Thus one of the most annoying occurrences of the rush of harvest time may be avoided.

"Even the farm implement machinery manufacturers protest at the storing of from machinery in the open, because such outdoor storage cuts the life of machinery in half and keeps the farmer continually poor buying new machinery. To a man who does not take care of the machinery he has, more and better machinery can not be sold nor better buildings.

"Labor, money and crops are wasted by machinery worn out thru exposure to the elements.

"On many farms the annual damage incurred thru leaving machinery exposed to weather more than equals the cost of a good implement shed.

"The farmer's return from the sale of his product is so small today that he can not afford to waste anything, even his farm machinery, thru undue exposure to the weather.

"It is as important to grow crops as to save them. They can not be properly grown without the aid of good machinery in good repair.

"No investment on the farm today will return bigger profits than a sensible implement shed."

Several pretty pleasure yachts have been harrying in the creek here the past week. One came from Chicago. They are usually bound South.

Mrs. James C. Fisher, of "The Gables", was in Richmond last week attending the annual Council U. S. Daughters of 1812, at Jefferson Hotel. There were three historical prizes of five dollar each in gold, competed for: That for the best Chapter work was won by General John Smith Chapter, of Charlottesville; for the best individual work along historical lines, Mrs. Joel Minter Cochran, also of Charlottesville, was awarded the prize; while Mrs. Fisher carried off the medal for the best biography of a Naval Officer, turning over her prize to Commodore Coche's Chapter, of Petersburg, of which she is a member. A very liberal collection for the Kenmore fund, was an interesting feature of the Council. Mrs. Fisher is State Historian, and finds her work most pleasant and congenial.

Miss Margaret Davis, of Fredericksburg Normal, spent the past week-end with her home folks at Fleeton.

Miss Virginia Crowther, of Point Pleasant, is returning to Blackstone College this week. They are a little late, having to wait for the completion of the new building, which is fire-proof.

Friday afternoon of last week Reedville folk traveled Burgess Steward, following the R. H. S. Ball Team, which were playing Fairfield's Team, on the home diamond. After a fraternal hour or two the Reedville boys returned, covered with glory (to say nothing of the dust and grime of battle) and jubilant with their second victory. They realize that "he laughs best who laughs last," and are gathering roses while they may, with a score of 10 in R. H. S. favor.

Mrs. C. L. Haynie has been spending the past week in our end of town, with her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Evans, and family.

We are glad to hear that Mr. R. A. Jett, near Heathsville, who has been quite sick recently, is now able to be up again. Many friends hope his health will soon be better.

Judge Chinn, District Deputy Grand Master, and Messrs. Coggin, Lamb and Miller, of Warsaw, visited the Reedville Masonic Lodge at their meeting Thursday night. A very interesting occasion was reported. Cake and cream were served during the evening.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church, at Fleeton, is being wired for electric lights this week. Mr. Sam Butler, of the Lillian Motor Co., is doing the work, and will install the Willys-Light immediately. Mr. Butler is also wiring the Peoples Bank, here in town.

Mr. William Brookings and family have been at the Rectory, visiting Mr. Brookings' parents for sometime. They will probably remain at Fleeton this winter, as Mr. Brookings travels nearer this section than he has been doing.

A Halloween party is being prepared by the faculty of the Fleeton school. A program, costumes and treats for the children will be features.

Mrs. T. C. Slaughter, and little son, Warren Taylor, were in Baltimore for a week recently, returning to Fleeton Sunday.

"Extraneous" was shown at the Movie Hall here Thursday afternoon and evening. A large attendance, and "a very sweet and interesting picture" was the unanimous verdict. If the public would demand only such pictures as are pure, clean and elevating, the "Movie" could be a wonderful influence for good. Often they are not. Mr. Henry McFarland, of the Reed-ville postoffice, was in Fredericksburg last Saturday, taking the Civil Service examination. Mr. Elam Crosswell substituted in the P. O., until his return.

Mr. W. A. Edwards, of Fleeton, was in Baltimore the past week.

Rev. Mr. Driscoll, a former pastor of the Baptist Church here, was in Reedville Sunday morning, presenting from the pulpit at Bethany, the interests of the Children's Home Society, of Richmond. The work is inter-denominational, and should appeal to every heart.

Fishing was poor last week, calculated to give one the blues, if indeed that way. However on Sunday afternoon the welcome news was passed around that the steamers were coming in from "up the beach." They came, the Long Island, Davis, Easthampton and others whose names we did not get with "good" fags. The fish were caught Saturday morning a long way from home.

We are glad to hear that the little child of Mr. and Mrs. Wharton Humphreys, of Fairport, who was badly burned some time ago is getting better.

Reedville will be a deserted village after Monday, (October 23). Already the shadow of approaching quietude, and the absence of familiar figures is upon us. The "Blunder trial" is supposed to be on this date, and again as in January last, nearly all the men and a number of women have been summoned to appear as witnesses.

The trial will be again held in Richmond. Mr. H. C. Evans, of the Customs House, whose belongings were burned with the Commonwealth National Bank here in February 1920, was wired to report at once, and departed, in haste, for Richmond Thursday.

Friday, Commonwealth's Attorney C. S. Towles and Mr. H. T. Crowell, of this town and Mr. E. G. Crowther, of Fleeton, were also wired to come immediately. They are now enroute. "Commodore Maurv," trim and hospitable flagship of Virginia Navy, will be at Reedville Sunday morning to convey the rank and file, en masse, down to "Old Point" from whence they may entrain for the scene of action. Mr. G. N. Reed, Mr. Luther Rice, Mr. Frank C. Jett, Cashier of the Peoples Bank; John Cochrell, who was janitor of the Commonwealth's Bank when it was burned; Mrs. Shackelford, of the "Reedville House"; Mrs. McFarland, of "Muir House"; Mr. W. H. Blackwell and Mr. C. L. Gaskins, of Sunnybank. Hon. E. Hugh Smith, of Heathsville; Mr. T. H. Jett, Seaboard Co. Mrs. Raymond Lee Haynie, Mrs. J. W. Pearson, Mrs. T. W. V. and Marsh, all of this town. Mr. T. C. Slaughter, Capt. R. E. Edwards, of Fleeton. Capt. James C. Fisher, of Reedville, and many others from every section of Northumberland and many from adjoining counties are not expected to report at Richmond Monday.

The case has been postponed and held off for so long that the people have lost interest and remembering the unlooked for and unexplainable and ending of the last trial, are not expecting much from this one.

"DOING NOTHING BUT HOUSEWORK" MAKES TIRED HOUSEWIFE WALK 8 MILES A DAY

By Clever Device She Convinces Friend Husband That She Is Not A "Woman Of Leisure" And Secures Improvements
That Are Noted In All Model Homes.

A Tired Housewife who wanted to answer her husband's statement that she was a woman of leisure, since she had "nothing to do but housework" wore a pedometer to count her steps in doing her various duties about the house and proved that she actually walked eight miles a day, besides all the bending and reaching and twisting and stooping.

In the average day's work she had taken 27,840 steps. They covered a distance of nearly eight miles. At the rate she was going she could have around the world in less than ten years.

This, of course, did not include the "labor of heart and hands," but it was sufficient to call the attention of her husband to the amount of actual physical energy which was being consumed in her housework and to induce him when he made an addition to the house to include in his plan a model kitchen that would save steps.

The kitchen should be small, with no more wall space than necessary to accommodate the furniture. In country homes where the kitchen is large, the sink, stove, table, cabinet and cupboard, at least, should be placed close together. The cabinet should be put between the stove and the sink, with in reach of both water and raw materials.

Under the sink of the model house is a sanitary garbage-pail that opens with a foot-lever, which is placed to the right. The sink should hold two dish-pans, one for soapy water and one for rinsing. The upboard where the dishes are put is only a step away. A drawer in the cabinet at the left holds the kitchen silver. Other dishes are put on a wheel tray and carried to the dining-room cupboard, which is situated near the kitchen door. An important detail is to avoid a raised threshold between the kitchen and dining-room, in order that the wheel-tray may roll smoothly through.

The ice-box is placed next to the range, in order that food may be taken out of it and put on the stove with one motion. Of course the ice-box should be solid and shut out warm air.

An important small item is a kitchen stool. If the kitchen is very small this can be pushed under a table when not in use.

The tired housewife's dining-room contained a dark closet for china at the end of the room farthest from the kitchen. There was no butler's pantry and no wheel tray, and the distance between the kitchen and the closet was thirty-five feet. To serve a meal for six persons she found that she was compelled to take 350 steps to set the table.

The husband who had always said she was a woman of leisure, when confronted with the fact of this physical exertion—to say nothing of the work of thinking up and cooking the meal and washing dishes afterwards—readily consented to re-arranging the dining-room and put in a few additional articles of furniture.

In model houses the china and glassware in the dining-room are likely to be found near the kitchen door. On the other side of the kitchen door stands a sideboard. The use of a wheel tray to carry dishes to and from about 350 to 160. The tray can also be used as a serving-table while the meal is going on.

The china in the cabinet is arranged so that articles used most frequently are kept nearest at hand. Linen is placed in the sideboard.

This makes a daily saving of 570 steps, or about one-fifth of a mile. In a year this amounts to 208,050 steps or seventy-eight miles.

In the house that her and her husband had chosen, the nursery was a light, airy room with plenty of space for the baby to sleep and play; a corner room on the second floor. With the above description its advantages are ended. The bathroom was as far away as possible; the kitchen was as far away as possible; the porch where baby took his nap was as far away as possible; the living-room from which the mother had to walk to the nursery several times during the evening to attend to him was as far away as possible; the laundry was as far away as possible.

When the housewife realized this she turned the corner room on the second floor and set down three rules for the nursery:

- (1) It should be as near the bathroom, kitchen and porch as possible.
- (2) Its equipment should be arranged in order needed and in as small a working space as possible.
- (3) Labor-saving devices should be installed to meet its special needs.

The Tired Housewife, when she realized the defects of the second-floor room, re-decorated a little room on the first-floor to change it into a bedroom, and built a bathroom next to it. A small hall ran between this little room and the kitchen. Here were bathroom, nursery and kitchen all together.

The porch was nearby. In the corner of a room seven feet by eight feet can be placed the baby's bureau with the sheets, diapers, towels and gauze, and a little closet containing soap, boric acid, vaseline, talcum, medicated cotton, etc.

Near by on a stand is a white enameled bathtub, in case the bathroom is not handy. If the bathroom is near by, there need be no extra tub, but a small rubber tube which fits over the big tub and can be found in any department store. It can be filled directly from the faucet by a short rubber hose and has a little plug in the bottom to drain the water off. At one side a stretch of canvas—also fastened to the top of the regular tub—provides a place to roll the baby in a towel after his bath is over.

The Tired Housewife's next reform was to do away with the general cleaning day and clean one or two rooms every day. Her second reform was to collect her equipment and keep it all in one place; not only the brushes, brooms and dust-cloths, but soap, cleansers, floor oils and furniture finishers as well.

In the early part of the week she works on the top floor at the end of the week she cleans down-stairs so that the living rooms which are used most on Sundays may be spotless when the day comes around.

Instead of removing the lighter furniture, rugs and bric-a-brac from the room, as formerly, she disarranges the furniture as little as possible. She places the chairs on the bed or couch and covers them with a sheet. She puts china and ornaments in a drawer. She leaves the rugs on the floor and uses a vacuum cleaner. If two closets are available, it is just as well to have an up-stairs and a down-stairs cleaning closet for equipment. It is a greater saving of labor and involves little extravagance since of course every article wears twice as long.

A BOY'S POINT OF VIEW

There's no accounting for girls. To the tree climber belong the apples. Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: "I gotta stay home today, fellows." Whom mother would make mad she makes tend to the baby. Life is one whipping after another. Roof climbing offers a multitude of thrills. It's a long month that has the circus at the end. A haunted house is a thrill forever. It's better to have seen a baseball game through a knot hole than never to have seen it at all. A watcher's place is under the sofa. Perpetual penny saving is the price of a pitcher's mitt. It's always fierce weather when a fellow and a dentist gets together. Luxury, thy name is going barefoot. There's no place like the gang's cave.

Castor oil casts its terrors before it. Lots will happen in the best of letters. Amis will be kissers. In uncles there is money. They who laugh least at your remarks in company are your folks. All the world scolds a boy. Easy lies the head that rests in mother's arms.—New York Sun.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Salisbury Woman Is of Value. Many a woman's back has many aches and pains. Oftentimes 'tis the kidneys' fault. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective. Many Salisbury women know this. Read what one has to say about it. Mrs. Theodore Short, 420 East Isabella Street, says: "My kidneys were a source of annoyance to me for some time. I felt badly mornings and could hardly get started to do my housework. My back pained a great deal and I had severe headaches and weak sinking spells. The action of my kidneys was irregular. A friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills and they helped me, strengthening my back and kidneys." Price 60 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Short had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advt.

MEILL BUICK COMPANY

BALTIMORE, MD
Sept. 9, 1922.

Baltimore, Md.

Gentlemen:
We have at various times thoroughly tested many of the different motor fuels on the market to determine which fuel would give the most satisfactory results in Buick cars, and sometime ago sent samples of AMOCO-GAS, as well as other fuels, to the factory for analysis.

We quote a paragraph of the letter received from W. S. Cochrane, of the Engineering Department, who made the test.
"The AMOCO-GAS eliminates all spark rap in our motors and gives a better, smoother, low speed pull than the regular gasoline with the same high speed power. It was possible to lean up the carburetor considerably with the AMOCO, which gave better fuel economy. There is no doubt of the advantages you would gain by the use of AMOCO-GAS in your demonstrating cars."

As this confirms our tests, we do not hesitate in strongly recommending AMOCO-GAS to owners of our Buick cars.

Very truly yours,

Frequent Headaches

"I suffered with chronic constipation that would bring on very severe headaches," says Mrs. Stephen H. Kincer, of R. F. D. 1, Cripple Creek, Va. "I tried different medicines and did not get relief. The headaches became very frequent. I heard of and took it for a headache, and the relief was very quick, and it was so long before I had another headache. Now I just keep the Black-Draught, and don't let myself get in that condition."

Theodor's Black-Draught (purely vegetable) has been found to relieve constipation, and by stimulating the action of the liver, when it is torpid, helps to drive many poisons out of your system. Biliousness, indigestion, headache, and similar troubles are often relieved in this way. It is the natural way. Be natural! Try Black-Draught.
