Security Made Secure

Open Letter

Realizing the controversial and always arguable nature of this subject, I am taking this opportunity to inform the College Community that, effective immediately, members of the College Security Staff will be equipped with sidearms, or service revolvers. I have authorized this step with considerable hesitation, but I am now persuaded that it offers reasonable assurance of providing more safety to persons and property on this campus and enables the Security Staff to discharge responsibilities more effectively.

Crime has increased on college campuses everywhere in recent years. Frostburg State is no exception. Just within the past year, members of our Security Staff have arrested distributors of narcotics and have had to deal with several cases of attempted rape, attempted armed robbery, serious theft, and other potentially violent crimes. They have also been confronted personally with a variety of weapons, including firearms, knives, hatchets and chains.

Most of this increase in criminal activity has been brought to the campus by persons not connected with the College. But, as the Attorney General of Maryland has reminded the administration and the security staff of another college, campus security officers have an inescapable obligation to enforce the law and to protect the lives and property of the College Community. It is only for the purpose of providing such protection that I have authorized this step.

Our security staff has become a professionally trained staff over the past several years. Each security officer has completed police training and bears a special police commission issued by the Governor. Each has a dedication to his or her professional responsibility, but each also feels a commitment to the special character of the College Community.

The conditions under which our Security Staff will bear arms have been carefully discussed and will be governed by standard police procedure and by careful liaison with my office.

WFSC: 640 A.M.

In a surprise statement release last week, WFSC announced that it would be in operation almost certainly on, if not before, September 16. All of the major hook-ups have been completed, except for the final connection which should take approximately two hours to complete—hopefully in the early part of the week of September 9.

Station Manager Don White has announced that all students interested in working for WFSC, either as a "disc jockey" or in some other capacity, should attend a meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in Lane Center room 205. With new facilities designed to allow the "disc jockey" to create many new and interesting types of shows, this year promises to be revolutionary in the field of broadcasting on FSC's campus.

Throughout the year articles will be published, and announcements released regarding various contests and giveaways to be held. Students' suggestions are encouraged and can be placed either under the door of WFSC or in WFSC's mailbox. If a student is unable to attend the organizational meeting, he should leave his name, address, and phone number at the information desk in the Lane Center and ask that it be placed in WFSC's mailbox.

"Potentializing" Lane Center

by Leanne Frieberger

This semester, College Center Board is as busy as ever. In addition to their many social responsibilities, CCB and their affiliates are hosting an annual regional conference of a world-wide organization called Association of College Unions-International, ACU-I. ACU-I's purpose centers on the spread of new, innovative ideas in the college union profession. CCB is the center of this conference because of its close involvement with Lane College Center and the college union field. However, helping with the conference is not restricted to just CCB. Student Association, Alpha Xi, Alpha Delta Chi, and Delta Alpha Iota have already agreed to participate. Of course, any other person or organization is more than welcome to become involved. Many students are needed to help because the conference, to be held from Nov. 2-4, will be large. Approximately 350 delegates from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland, and D.C. will be attending and will be lodged in Cumberland at the Holiday Inn. (Yes, the entire hotel has been reserved!)

I have mentioned a conference, but have not described what it really means or involves. It is a weekend affair during which staff and students mingle, get to know each other, discuss problems particular to their college union, and spread the word about successful campus programs. The formal schedule of events involves discussions of current issues led by experienced college union people. These discussions are collectively called sessions and delegates can attend the sessions of their choice. Thirty-one sessions will be offered during the conference, following such general themes as "The College Union and the Computer," "Outdoor Recreation," and "Programming on a Shoestring." Hopefully, sessions will help delegates gain insights in their areas of concern.

The conference also invites businesses that provide college union services to exhibit their goods. Such exhibits include movie companies, game room supply, and booking agencies. Up-and-coming entertainers pay to perform at the conference. They supply the evening's activities and at the same time, obtain new business from the exposure to new colleges.

As well as operating on a realistic level, the conference also has a philosophical level. Its theme, which is POTENTIALIZE, won't be found in Webster's, but is clear in its meaning. POTENTIALIZE symbolizes resourcefulness and energy. continued on page 4

Yoga Club Begins

An open community Yoga Club started by Dr. LaChance of the English Dept. held its first working session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, September 3, in the Mustard Seed. A small number of students, staff members and faculty wives comprised the first class which was given—as all newcomers will be while space allows—a free introductory class.

The nearly two dozen exercises primarily based upon Hatha Yoga lasted for a bit over one hour. They were structured with a sort of built-in warmup group (a half dozen or so simpler exercises that took 10-15 minutes), an intense middle group (including the cobra, lotus, bow, twist, and other classical Yoga stretches), and a tapering off series (balance postures and others) that closed the class. Those who chose to (about half of those taken through the workout) then purchased a ten dollar card good for eight such workouts and valid for a maximum of eight weeks. It is expected that (with some variation for the sake of diversity) this basic core of exercises will be presented at the Mustard Seed—or some larger room if that should become necessary—every Tuesday and Thursday evening at 7:30 and on Saturday mornings at 9:30.

Dr. LaChance first taught a mini-section of Yoga as a compliment to the perfectly continued on page 2

We're Still "Reaching"

Because of public demand, the Frostburg State College Planetarium will present again this semester its popular show 'Reach For the Moon,' the story of man's intense curiosity about Earth's only satellite; a curiosity that impelled him to undertake that now-famous lunar voyage in July of 1969.

The first half of the program contains informational sketches about the moon—why, for example, we see the moon in its different phases, and how the height of the mountains on the moon was first determined—and also discusses some of the problems encountered during the planning of project Apollo and the solutions to those problems.

The second half of the program consists of a multimedia journey to the moon. Through a media mix of over 75 NASA slides, 16 mm motion pictures, and music from the movie, "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," we have attempted to convey some of the human feeling behind the science and technology of Project Apollo, and to try to understand something of why we reach out into the unknown.

For those of you who have seen 'Reach for the Moon' and enjoyed it, we hope you will come visit us again. To all of you who did not get the opportunity to see the show and to all people new to Frostburg this semester, we would like to extend our welcome and an invitation to share 'Reach for the Moon' with you.

'Reach for the Moon' will begin September 16 and run through November 3, with public programs at 7 p.m. on continued on page 4

Public Affairs Institute Established

Frostburg State College has announced the establishment of a Public Affairs Institute to enlarge and expand the College's commitment to the community by providing services to improve the quality of area governmental institutions.

Creation of the institute has been approved by the Board of Trustees of the Maryland State Colleges. John N. Bambacus, head of the Public Affairs Internship Program and instructor of political science at the College, will direct the activities of the Institute.

In announcing the program, Dr. Nelson P. Guild, president of the College, said the purpose of the Public Affairs Institute is to bring the resources of the College into a more productive relationship with State and local communities. Specifically, it would seek to increase the effectiveness and capacity of rural people, their institutions, and their organizations in order to improve their quality of living and the achievement of of community goals.

"Such a relationship," Dr. Guild said, "would provide avenues of communications and needed technical assistance between the College and community development programs by making the resources of the College more accessible to the community."

The activities of the Institute would be concentrated in Allegany, Garrett and Washington Counties, working in cooperation with regional agencies and local governments.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

On Friday evening, August 30th, I went to the coffee-house to spend an evening listening to music. I would like to compliment Kealy on her terrific performance. The only performance of the night that I didn't care for was the IV Christian Fellowship meeting which should have taken place in another meeting room. I have spoken to some people who along with me felt that the sermons were not at all necessary. The songs themselves I didn't mind much. After all, I went to hear music. If I had planned on going to a religious service, I would have gone to the synagogue in Cumberland. One last word: 2nd Timothy Chapter 2 says to be gentle about spreading the gospel, so please follow what you preach.

Rick Gertler

Dear Editor,

Now that FSC has entered into an "exclusive" contract with Canteen Services of Cumberland, the Cokes in Dunkle Hall have gone from 10¢ to 20¢. For your extra dime you get to drink out of an aluminum can instead of a returnable glass bottle. What ever happened to the energy crisis? Perhaps now the coal being stripped from behind our campus will be used to make new soft drink cans instead of being shipped to Japan. Progress! Oh yes, might not the profits to be made by FSC from this new vending operation, be used to purchase a goat (or two) to graze around Dunkle Hall to deep down the foot-high weeds?

David Dean

Dear Editor,

I would like to inform the students at Frostburg State about the business practices of the band Beggar's Farm. Last Monday night, the Russian Club scheduled Beggar's Farm to play for a dance. At 9:00 p.m., the band cancelled leaving the Russian Club with approximately one hundred people to turn away at the door and a twenty dollar loss for room reservation. I feel that this band should not be hired for future engagements as the same situation may arise.

Sincerely,
Name Witheld

Dear Editor,

I have been looking forward to seeing the first edition of Bittersweet, the FSC literary and arts publication. Recently, however, I was informed that there won't be one this year.

The reason? Lack of funds, of course. It's easy to understand the money difficulties, since every department and organization on campus is suffering from budget cuts. This is due to the state's priorities.

But what about OUR priorities? How urgent was it to have telephones installed in every room on this campus? Does it benefit the majority of students who pay salaries of Student Association executives? These are only two examples of the careless, negligent spending of money widespread at FSC, but I'm sure others are aware of many more.

The point is that a valuable means of expression is being denied FSC students. Bittersweet welcomed the poetry, prose and art of anyone who wanted to share their work. It gave us an opportunity to read and be read. Without it, we know that much less about each other.

Ruth Kastner

Dear Editor,

As a member of the SA Budget Committee, the editors of State-To-Date have afforded me an opportunity to reply to your letter. Unfortunately, since the problems involved between Bittersweet and the SA were passed around the campus by word of mouth, the information provided you and upon which you based your letter, is untrue. I would therefore, in reply to your letter, like to inform you of the problems that caused the SA not to allocate funds to Bittersweet.

Steve Stotemyer, editor-in-chief of Bittersweet, came before the committee on September 3rd and requested $1200 to fund two issues of Bittersweet, one issue for each semester this school year. Unfortunately, the running of Bittersweet has been laid almost entirely on Mr. Stotemyer's shoulders. Although he has enough contributors to support the magazine, he has not received the necessary student support to staff and run it. As a result, he has run the magazine almost singlehandedly. He stated that he would be available to run the first issue of the magazine, but would not be able to run the second issue. As a result, with no staff to run it, Bittersweet would not have been issued the second semester. The Budget Committee felt, therefore, that an allocation could not be given to Bittersweet unless a competent staff was first compiled to carry on for Mr. Stotemyer. He agreed with the decision of the committee but felt that due to the previous lack of supportive personnel to staff Bittersweet, that such a staff could not be compiled. Due to these reasons, Bittersweet at this time will not be issued.

SA does not wish to see an end to Bittersweet. However, the SA cannot allocate money to any organization or activity that lacks the staff or processes to sustain itself, which was the situation confronting Bittersweet. I would like to add that Mr. Stotemyer had no control over this situation. We feel that if a staff is compiled to run Bittersweet, then the Budget Committee will again consider allocating funds to the magazine. We cannot allocate funds until such a staff is compiled. I hope this clarifies the situation facing Bittersweet. If you have other questions, please contact any member of SA in the SA office.

As to the other points raised in your letter, I would like to make some comments. The telephones installed in the dormitory rooms on campus were not handled by the SA, and the SA had no financial input into it. This service was much needed on campus, and did not involve any increase in student fees. The cost, I believe, is absorbed jointly by the college itself and by AS&T. Pay for SA executives applies only to the SA President, Vice-President, and Treasurer, and the amount of money involved is not large. This motion was passed only after several semesters of careful thought and debate. The House of Representatives felt that this pay was justified for two major reasons:

1) based on the large amount of work and time involved in performing the duties of these positions, and

2) based on the activities of the other state colleges concerning this issue.

A majority of SA members, even though they themselves would receive no pay for their work in SA, felt that pay for these positions was justified and therefore passed the issue.

I invite you or any other student at FSC to come into the SA office to discuss these or any other issue you may feel important to the students. Someone will be here to answer your questions or receive your ideas daily between 9 and 12 AM and off and on throughout the remainder of each day. I hope I have answered the questions you raised in your letter.

immobile zazen practice (the essential practice of Zen Buddhism) in his Introduction to Zen Buddhism which was offered last May term with the experimental courses. And because of the students' eager responsiveness (and clearly demonstrated need for) these exercises, it was decided that offering Yoga lessons independent of any introduction to Zen (which is an Ox of an entirely different no-color) would provide a much desired and needed service to the college and local community. Mrs. LaChance, an intermediate (and would-be professional) ballet dancer, assisted her husband briefly the opening night, but she is expected to play a greater part in both the demonstration of the postures and the monitoring of the students' exertions in future classes.

Open Letter

To those who were ripped off Friday night:

The women of Alpha Xi Delta wish to express their apologies to you for the lack of organization as pertaining to the beer situation. We had nothing to do with the set-up and organization. We agreed to sponsor the Blo-Out in name only so as to affiliate it to the campus and also agreed to work at the door and serving the beer. We were to receive a small remittance for our work but have decided to accept none because we feel that there should have been some sort of reimbursement to those who didn't get their beer.

Again we extend our apologies and hope it will not be held against us.

Sincerely,

The women of Alpha Xi Delta

Dear Friends,

Over the weekend I received word from The Reverend Richard Killmer, executive director, National Council of Churches' Special Ministries/ Vietnam Generation, that now is a good time to make your opinion known on the issue of amnesty for those in legal jeopardy over the Vietnam War. As you know, at the VFW Convention in Chicago, President Gerald Ford announced his plans to consider a limited immunity for "some 50,000 of our countrymen convicted, charged, under investigation or still sought for violations of the Selective Service Act or the uniform code of military justice."

President Ford has asked the Department of Defense and the Justice Department to make reports to him by September 1st on such a "case-by-case" limited amnesty.

Many religious groups and the pro-amnesty advocates have seen the "case-by-case process" to be too cumbersome and also fraught with potential inequities, particularly for the poor and minority persons standing in legal jeopardy because of the war. Thus, they have favored a "universal and unconditional amnesty" for those in legal jeopardy because of Vietnam--(Some say over 100,000 persons).

It is important that you let President Ford know your views, immediately. The decision will undoubtedly be made by the middle of September.

Short letters or public opinion telegrams are best, simply addressed, President Gerald Ford, The White House, 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20500. It is sufficient to use the "code" words that I have mentioned above to express your views, because White House staff will be taking the "pro" or "con" count, essentially.

Thank you for your interest and action on this important issue.

Most sincerely,
Rev. Richard K. McCullough

"Dollars and Sense"

by Ron Fautz, Director of Financial Aids and Placement

These are generalized questions and answers which are an attempt to respond to comments from students, faculty, and administrative staff via the recent Student Personnel survey.

Q. Who can apply for a Basic Educational Opportunity Grant?

A. Any freshman or sophomore who has not attended a post high school program before April 1, 1973 may apply. Grants (free money) up to $1050 are being awarded to students who are eligible.

Eligibility is based on family financial circumstances which document student need. There is no cost to apply and applications may be obtained in the Financial Aid Office, Gunter Hall.

Q. How much are students paid?

A. All students will be paid $2.00 per hour this year. The variable wage plan has been shelved in an effort to stretch the limited funds to as many students as possible.

Q. I am now working, when will I get paid?

A. The first payroll should result in checks arriving about Sept. 20. The next checks will arrive approximately October 4. We are now putting the system into the computer and we expect great difficulty in the transition. The main problem will be getting completed "signed" timesheets into our office by 11 a.m. on the Monday following the last day of a pay period. Timesheets must be submitted through each department. We cannot accept timesheets directly into our office.

(Note: If you have questions, complaints, or observations concerning financial aid—please bring them to our attention, or let the editor of State-to-Date know of your concern.)

Rain Rain Go Away The Jazz Band Wants to Play

The Frostburg State Jazz Ensemble under the direction of Dr. Jon Bauman, associate professor of music, was scheduled to play a concert Sunday a week ago in Constitution Park in Cumberland. Unfortunately, mother nature was not in an agreeable mood and contrary to the show business truism, the show didn't go on. However, students at FSC were treated to an outdoor practice concert the preceeding Saturday outside of Fine Arts. The 22 musicians were in superb shape, as usual. The group will be heard from again this semester on November 4th, a date to mark on your calendars, when they will present a concert of jazz in Compton.

Sager Presents Recital

Sunday, September 1st, marked the first of the Music Department's recital program. Beginning with a vocal recital, Charles Sager, associate professor of music, accompanied by Carole Lemmert, presented a wide variety of styles and characters in song. Doing such songs as Danza Danza Funcuilla Gentile by Durante, Non Piu Andrai from The Marriage of Figaro by Mozart and A Woman is a Sometime Thing from Gershwin's Porgy and Bess, Mr. Sager set a fine example and a hard act for seniors to follow in planning their senior recitals.

Music Workshop

A two-day workshop in elementary music education was recently held in Lane Center for music majors and Allegany County vocal teachers. The workshop was directed by Mrs. Wilma Salzman, a specialist in the Orff technique of music instruction.

The Orff technique of music instruction incorporates the three main ideas of speech, rhythm and movement which are developed from the fundamental patterns in a child's life. The child learns to explore the elements of music by attempting expression at his own level. This technique is not a ready-made program which can be fed into a machine of followed chronologically with a resultant "taught" child. It is a human experience which in a large measure depends on the creative and guiding ability of the instructor.

During the workshop, Mrs. Salzman guided the participants through the beginnings of music learning as experienced by young children. She used various records and films along with involving all present in games and demonstrations illustrating each idea.

Playing statues, being Indians or following the leader caused some red faces at first but later proved to show how creative some of our music majors and instructors really are. Those participating gained much from the workshop.

Music Department Joins Student Exchange Program

Three music students from St. Mary's College of the University of London's Institute of Education have joined six P.E. students and one Geography student attending classes at FSC this fall. Besides having to learn the annual ritual of registration and dropping and adding of credits, Mary Johnson, a flutist, and Peter Volpe, a trumpeter, are having to learn Dr. Bianco's system of marching "artistry". Marian McPhillips is a voice major and will be performing with the Concert Choir and other choral groups. These students would welcome opportunities for sight-seeing and visiting homes in the East on weekends and over the Thanksgiving break.

Music majors Rick Osial, Gail Hutter, Ruth Ridenour and Paula Boyd are leaving on Tuesday, Sept. 10, for St. Mary's via Paris.

Orchestra Positions

According to Mr. Thomas Yeager, the orchestra needs string players. He says that even though the pay isn't good, the experience is quite rewarding. See Find-It-Here for details.

Jensen First Exhibitor Art

Welcome back, students! New and upcoming activities will be happening in the art department. Currently, there is no show in the art gallery, but on September 15 there will be a great exhibition opening. As he starts his second year of teaching art at Frostburg, Doug Jensen will open the season with a fantastic show. With many exciting three-dimensional pieces, the show promises to be a thrilling, visual experience. Ending on the third of October, the show will make way for many other exhibitions.

Although previously overcrowded, the art department will be even more so this semester with the addition of 56 new art majors. This has created quite a problem for students trying to schedule 'studios.' Many are unable to obtain these classes because of their limitation to 11 or 12 students.

All art majors will be encouraged to attend a meeting on September 10 at 4 p.m. in the Fine Arts Gallery. At that time Mr. Wayne Carlisle of the Financial Aid Department will come to speak about the job situations and opportunities for Art Education majors and Arts & Sciences majors. Very important and very necessary, this meeting will deal with the "accountability" of the students and the college.

This is a survey of FSC student opinion with regards to WFSC. We at WFSC would like to know what type of music and groups you wish to hear. Please rate the following chart according to order of preference 1 - 11. Deposit at Info desk Lane Center.

List 3 groups you'd like to hear

Alice & Hazel

Hazel Dickens and Alice Gerrard will perform for the Symposium of the Alleghenies in the all-purpose room of the Lane College Center at 8:00 p.m. on Friday, September 13. The concert will consist of country and mountain songs, representing the old and new sounds and feelings of country music. Accompanying their songs, Hazel will play the guitar, and Alice will play the banjo, the guitar, and the autoharp.

Hazel Dickens grew up in the coal camps of West Virginia so her music reflects the experiences of miners from a locale not too remote from western Maryland. She recalls that as a small girl, she would receive a nickel to wash the face of her brother after he returned from the mines because he was too tired to do it himself. She also remembers that the women of the families fixed the "buckets" for the miners early every morning, taking care to include a special treat such as fried apple pie, knowing that that might be the last lunch pail they would fix for their men. Some of her songs recount particular mining disasters that occurred.

Alice Gerrard (who is married to and has recorded with Mike Seeger) learned the music she performs from listening to the Carter Family, Bill Monroe, the Stanley Brothers, Wilma Lee and others. She won first prize in the Old Kentucky Day Banjo Contest, Xenia, Ohio.

The two performers have played at many folk festivals, including the Newport Folk Festival, the Philadelphia Folk Festival, the Buffalo Folk Festival, the Mariposa (Toronto) Folk Festival, and the Smithsonian Festival of American Folklife. In addition, they have performed at many colleges, universities, and institutes and have appeared a number of times on television. Among their recordings are Who's That Knocking (Folkways), Hazel and Alice (Arhoolie), and Won't You Sing For Me (Rounder Records).

The concert at Frostburg State College is open to the public, and admission is free. No tickets will be required.

Festival of Frostburg

The first annual Festival of Frostburg Day will be held on campus at College Avenue and Maple Street on Saturday, September 14 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. In case of rain, it will be in Lane Center from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. This event is for the entire Frostburg Community. Individuals and organizations are invited to have displays and demonstrations of crafts and historical exhibits.

There will be food and continuous local entertainment all day including a square dance at 6:00 p.m. If you would like to be part of the entertainment, contact Mr. Steven Trechtor, 689-4247, and for an exhibit, Mr. Dick McCullough, 689-5041.

For great talent in a quiet atmosphere, attend the CCB Coffeehouse on Friday nights in the Lane Center Snack Bar at 8:00 p.m. Keely West, shown above, is one of the many entertainers of professional quality scheduled. Tryouts every Friday evening at 4:30 p.m. (Sean Crosby, Asst. Mgr. and M.C.; Bill Steele, Tech. & Mgr.)

Tutoring Program Still Alive and Well

After a summer of reevaluation and change, the tutoring program at Frostburg State College is dynamically new and improved, and ready to help all students improve their chances for academic success. The program is open to all students at no cost and is highly effective as well as quality controlled.

Despite its rather brief history, the tutoring program has significantly influenced the academic success of most of the students who have used the service. With the students who have had constant help and reinforcement in subject areas covered by individual tutors the tutoring program has been extremely effective. The current goals of the program are to increase the number of students receiving tutoring, to reduce the time between the student's request and the first session to twenty-four hours, and to increase the quality of the service by promoting initial and continued in-service training.

Of course, the core of any effective tutoring program is the tutors themselves; only they insure the efficacy of the service and its wide availability. Students who wish to tutor must have a GPA of 2.75 or better, and then are required to attend a series of rigorous training sessions which concentrate on sensitivity training, role playing, operational procedures, and writing behavioral objectives. After successfully completing the training, tutors are then certified to work in certain courses. Tutors must submit lesson plans for the work they do which are periodically reviewed by their immediate supervisors. Morris Willey is the Math-Science supervisor, Mike Eckert is the Humanities supervisor, and Mrs. Sally Donahue is the coordinator of the program. Gloria Carchedi is the student personnel manager. It is hoped that by

All segments of the campus community: faculty, staff, and students, and their families are admitted free to any public performance at the FSC Planetarium. It is advisable, however, to arrive at least twenty minutes before showtime to pick up your free tickets. introducing and enforcing these requirements, the supervisor, and Mrs. Donahue can guarantee that the quality of the tutoring at Frostburg will be consistently high.

If you are interested in any phase of the service, or if you are just curious, please drop in Dunkle 207 to talk with us. A tutoring program which is effective and easily available is necessary in a rapidly changing academic world.

Public Affairs

According to Mr. Bambacus, the process of community development involves the fundamental concept of helping people to help themselves. "The Institute will provide resources to help local communities to identify their problems, and to set goals for community improvement," Bambacus said.

Bambacus added that programs developed through the Institute would encourage maximum citizen involvement through an advisory Council on Public Affairs.

The specific objectives of the Institute are:

1. to provide for more effective institutional resource allocation through the use of interdisciplinary problem-solving techniques;
2. to provide service and technical assistance, through the implementation of short courses, seminars, and in-service training, to public officials;
3. to provide constructive service opportunities for students and faculty seeking to participate in the identification and solution of community problems;
4. to give manpower assistance, through the Public Affairs Internship Program, to agencies concerned with delivery of public services;
5. to help students develop a sense of self-worth, self-confidence, and knowledge of their capacity to have an impact on events;
6. to help people from disadvantaged communities acquire knowledge and skills that they can use in improving conditions in their own communities.

It means to develop the resources around you—such as people, money, the outdoors—and to uncover hidden ones.

This ACU-I conference is one of the largest intercollegiate events to hit FSC. It carries a significant message—to POTENTIATE—and will affect over 350 delegates from 100 institutions. We know that the ACU-I members will recognize this distinction and hope that FSC will, too.

This semester, United Campus Ministry is inviting interested students to share in an evening of personal and spiritual growth. The evening will have two separate elements. The first, held at 6:30, will be called Prayer. And it will be just that. We will not talk about or study prayer; we will involve ourselves in community prayer. This aspect of the Christian life seems most central and a part of all faith communities. There will be time for speaking of personal needs and intercessory prayer for others. Prayer will be brief, about fifteen minutes, and followed by coffee.

The second part of the evening will be Growth in Christian Life. This segment will begin at 7:00 p.m. Here, a community of persons discuss and experience various aspects of the Christian life with a view to growth. The themes covered will spring out of the needs or interest of the group. They will be looked at from both a personal and a community perspective. Where possible we will learn through doing. The Bible and the Christian heritage will be our reference point, though we will draw on contemporary and psychological insights.

You may participate in either or both segments of the evening. Anyone is welcome to attend. The only requirement is a will to grow and an interest in finding out more about the Christian faith.

Econ & BA Faculty Increase

The College has announced the appointment of four persons to the faculty of its department of economics and business administration.

The new faculty includes Thomas S. Davis, assistant professor of economics and business administration; Ms. Sharon L. Robinson, instructor of accounting; William S. Knight, visiting lecturer of accounting; and Richard E. Pesta, visiting lecturer in business administration.

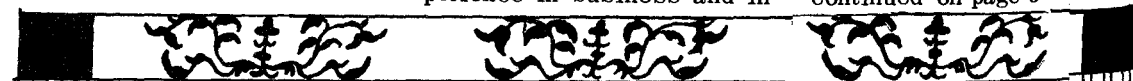

Mr. Davis joins the faculty at Frostburg State College this fall on a full-time basis after serving during the past academic year and summer session as a visiting lecturer. Prior to coming to Frostburg he taught at the University of Wyoming from 1968 through 1973.

Additionally, Mr. Davis has some twenty years of experience in business and in-

This year's Parents' Weekend will be September 21-22. The weekend will begin with a CCB Coffeehouse Friday night featuring Keeley West, Melissa Leff, and other campus talent. There will be various activities Saturday afternoon including a home football game against Towson, a soccer game, Planetarium shows, and a gymnastics show. The weekend will be highlighted Saturday evening with a semi-formal sit-down dinner, service provided by TKE, followed by a dance. Glasses will be provided for parents wishing to bring wine to dinner. A Sunday morning pancake breakfast will be provided by Alpha Xi.

Tickets for these events will be on sale Friday night from 6:00-8:00 p.m. and Saturday morning from 10:00-12:00 in the upstairs lobby of the Lane College Center. All tickets must be purchased in advance.

Please urge your parents to come and help make this Parents' Weekend successful.

TKE Hits The Bigtime

Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE), the only national fraternity at Frostburg State College, recently received two awards from the International Headquarters of TKE. Theta Chi Chapter at Frostburg received one such award several years ago for the "Most Improved Chapter." This year they received the Runner Up Award for the Top Teke Chapter for the 1973-1974 academic year in recognition of their many successes and dedication to the fraternity. This award was given to only four of the 314 active TKE chapters throughout the United States and Canada.

One of their many successes came in the field of public relations, for which Theta Chi Chapter received an award for Public Relations Achievement. TKE has worked hard over the past several years to improve its relations with the college and the community. For example, two of their annual activities are collecting for the United Fund and giving a Broadway charity benefit, in conjunction with Alpha Xi Delta. Last year the TKEs collected more money than any other organization on campus for the United Fund; and their benefit raised over $500 for Friends Aware, an organization for the mentally retarded in Cumberland.

Every spring, TKE has a Public Relations Weekend. Through the combined efforts of TKE and the Frostburg City Police, the fraternity once again excelled in its efforts to improve community relations. Under the guidance of frater Rick McFee, the TKEs began washing and waxing the cars of the Police Force. A few fraters even got a chance to drive the cars around town (unbeknownst to the police). Then they scraped and painted all the fire hydrants on Main Street. It just so happened that the colors of the fraternity are the same as those of the fire hydrants (cherry and gray). To top it all off, the TKEs cleared a baseball field for the kids in the community to use for Little League.

The fraternity has also been successful in other areas: such as updating a once antiquated pledging system, sponsoring two of the best Blo-Outs in Blo-Out history and helping to improve inter-Greek relations.

TKE has already made plans to continue on its winning ways. A Blo-out is scheduled for later in the semester; pledging will soon begin; and preparations for another charity benefit are underway. Under consideration are the continued on page 6

New Cheerleaders Chosen

On Friday, August 30, final tryouts were held for the FSC Cheerleading Squad. At this time three regulars and three alternates were chosen making a total of thirteen members on the squad. Returning members are: seniors Ted Grey and Kathy Hozik, captain; juniors Lael Jones and Jean Geis, co-captain; sophomores Jan Miller, treasurer, Debbie Conord, Nancy Bass and Kathy Black. The new members chosen were Bobbie Jones, a sophomore from Prince Georges Community College; Molly Shover, a freshman from Oxon Hill; Jeannie Dickenson, a freshman from Oxon Hill; Gail Breen, a freshman from Budlake, New Jersey; and Chris Wompler, a freshman from Frostburg.

Already the squad has sponsored a carwash and plans to hold a cheerleading clinic for local and other high schools in the state. The squad will be cheering at football, soccer, and basketball games and hopes to gain support and enthusiasm from the student body. The sponsor of the squad is Miss Paula Eoff, a dance instructor here at Frostburg.

New Field Open

Frostburg State College will open its new football field and facilities when it opens its 1974 grid campaign against Shepherd College on Saturday, September 7. Special pre-game ceremonies have been planned and the FSC Marching Band will perform. Game time is 1:30 p.m. In addition to the new playing field there will be bleacher seating for 1,500 spectators on the home side and 500 seats for visitors. A press box and a new electric scoreboard have also been put into place thanks to the efforts of several local business concerns. All members of the college community are reminded that a valid College identification card or admission ticket will be required for admission to the field. No parking or vehicular traffic will be allowed on the campus loop road. Parking will be allowed only in authorized parking areas.

In addition to the opening football game against Shepherd College on Saturday, two other athletic events are scheduled. The cross country team hosts Shepherd for a 2 p.m. meet and the varsity soccer team will host the FSC Alumni at 4 p.m.

Econ & BA Increase

from Texas Christian University in 1970.

Miss Robinson is a certified public accountant and is a member of several public accountant associations.

Mr. Knight comes to Frostburg from Jacksonville, Florida where he has held the position of professor of accounting at Edward Waters College and Jacksonville University since 1972.

His teaching career also includes positions at Louisiana Tech University, 1948 to 1972; Bowling Green University, 1947-48; University of Denver, 1946-47; and Kirkman Vocational High School in Chattanooga, Tennessee, 1944-46.

A 1942 graduate of Tennessee Technological Institute, Mr. Knight also earned a M.B.A. degree from the University of Denver in 1947 and has conducted advanced studies at Louisiana State University and Mississippi State University.

Mr. Pesta was graduated in 1946 from Rider College, received his M.B.A. degree from Bucknell University in 1970 and is currently completing studies for a Ph.D. in business at the University of Pittsburgh.

Since 1970, Mr. Pesta has taught business administration at Waynesburg College. Prior to entering the teaching profession he was employed as a sales and store manager for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

TKE

Wizard of Oz and How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying.

Recognition should also be given to Gary Thrift, President of the fraternity for two years, who received the second highest individual award presented to an undergraduate in TKE: Top Teke Runner-Up for 1973-1974.

These and other activities have helped to make TKE the best International Fraternity and Frostburg one of the best chapters in TKE. Thus Theta Chi Chapter of Tau-Kappa Epsilon not only rates at Frostburg but also in the nation.

42,000 FEET OUT OF THE INNER CITY

You simply can't measure Air Force people by ordinary standards. With your high school diploma, and free specialized training at full pay, you could be responsible for tuning a multi-million dollar jet to keep it supersonic. Or be a data processing technician who tells it where to go, or a trained photographer who takes its picture. Or be in one of over 400 technical and specialist areas in electronics, avionics, accounting, or administration. These skills have given many Air Force people careers in civilian life. And the benefits are great—free room, board, and clothing; free medical and dental care; 30-day paid vacations, and much more.
