COUNTY'S BID ACCEPTED

For Building First Section Of State Road In This County.

The County Commissioners were notified on Tuesday that their bid of $56,977.90 for five and three quarter miles of road to be built as per the specification of the State Road Commission had been accepted. Most of the bids were thrown out on account of the high prices asked for the work by the contractors. The price per mile at which the County Commissioners have agreed to build the road here is about $11,000.00.

The bid of the contractors on the road being so high caused the Commission to seriously consider the building and running a stone crushing plant to be located somewhere along the Susquehanna or other water front in easy access to the Eastern Shore by water.

Gov. Crothers in speaking of the matter says:—

"We have reached the point at which we must decide where we are 'at,' so to speak. We have given the road contractors a chance. Their bids in most cases, are beyond the ability of the state to meet them. We are committed to the improvement of our highways. If we accept the bids of the contractors, we shall overreach ourselves. We shall not be able to build the roads which we have promised."

"The crisis has been reached. We must as a state embark in road building." When I say this I must call attention to the fact that the state is committed not only to original road building, but also to the maintenance of good roads. It is not to be assumed that any good road, however well constructed, whether by the state or by private contractors, will stand the modern wear and tear of automobiles and other vehicles. In other words, the state is obligated to keep these good roads in good repair.

"I am convinced that the state can erect a stone crushing plant on one of the banks of the Susquehanna River and secure material for first road building and for subsequent repairs, cheaper than a private contractor can. We can use convict labor to operate this proposed plant."

"I have no personal or pecuniary interests in any stone quarry on the Susquehanna River. If I had an interest on either side of the river I would not advocate a state stone crushing plant. But here is the solid fact. There is no waterway in Maryland that has the same transportation facilities as the Susquehanna River, which also has an unlimited supply of rock. The railroad companies have not given as a desirable rate down the Eastern Shore and through the Central Maryland counties. We can use the steamer of the state oyster navy as tugs to haul scows laden with crushed stone from the Susquehanna to the Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland."

"I am in favor of a stone crushing plant erected by the state and supported by the state because in the first construction of improved highways and in their maintenance the state will save money."

TO BUILD JURY DAM

For Lake Humphreys; As Soon As Possible. To Avoid Unhealthy Conditions.

Since the break in the bridge and dam over Humphrey's Lake, there has been considerable discussion as to whether the Estate or the City should bear the expense of rebuilding the break. Prof. T. H. Spence, vice president of the Maryland Agricultural College, representing the heirs appeared before the Council on Monday night and explained the views of the estate on the matter.

It is understood that the estate claimed the water power is not a source of any revenue to them under present conditions, and although they would regret having to let the water stay out of the Lake, yet they would be compelled to do this and abandon the water rights rather than be compelled to go to the heavy expense of keeping the Dam in safe condition for traffic and replace the present bridge.

It is understood that if the owners should abandon the stream then the expense of repairing the break would fall upon the town.

As grave fears were felt that leaving the pond in its present condition was a menace to public health, the Council held another meeting on the subject Thursday evening. Dr. O. R. Traut, health officer for the County appeared before them and pointed out the great danger to the health of the entire community, if steps were not taken at once to flood the pond. And further stated that while a grave menace to the health in its present condition, it would become more and more so as vegetation started to grow. He recommended that steps be taken and taken at once to remedy present conditions. After considering the matter the Council passed a resolution to build a Jury Dam at the point of the break, and to do so as soon as possible. The work was to be begun on Friday and rushed through. It is proposed by this dam to hold the water in the pond high enough to flood the bottom and sides, so as to make sanitary conditions. The permanent repairs will be taken up later.

TELEPHONE SITUATION

Proposition From The Bell Company Not Favorably Considered. Council Passes Ordinance.

The Committee appointed to see the subscribers and get them to consent to the cutting out of their phones on the First of July unless the Company would make uniform rates of $15 for residential phones and $25 for business phones, have received a reply from the Diamond State Telephone Company refusing to make the rates asked for and proposing that a local company lease from them their plant here. It is understood that this is nothing more than the plan proposed sometime back by the Telephone Company to the City Council, and as a matter of fact the Diamond State made the same proposition to the Council that it did to the Committee in a separate letter. The proposition of the Phone Company seems to be one to lease the property so as to pay a dividend of 6 per cent. As to what valuation should be placed on the plant seems somewhat indefinite for while the letter on its face apparently leaves this question to be settled by a valuation to be placed on the property by expert engineers, yet it is not definite enough to make this a certainty.

There could be no possible objection to the leasing of the property by a home corporation provided that the valuation on the property is based on its actual worth and not on any fictitious figures furnished by the Corporation. It will be borne in mind that the Diamond State Telephone paid about four for one for the stock of the old Wicomico Telephone Company, and probably it charges this amount up to the capital account of the present Company. The Committee appointed to get the subscribers to discontinue their phones report that it has secured the signatures of 98 per cent of the subscribers of the phones in Salisbury and that at the same time they have all agreed to subscribe for the same number of phones in a company to be organized, if the Diamond State will not agree to make the rates at the figures named. This committee was before the City Council on Monday night and urged the Mayor and Council to take steps towards establishing a legal rate in Salisbury. It was pointed out by this committee that action on the part of the City would strengthen their hands, and would show the Bell Telephone Company that nothing would be left undone either by the citizens or the authorities to compel them to give to the users of the phones a reasonable and satisfactory rate. The Mayor recommended that the Council take action in the matter, and it was evident that this met the approval of all the councilmen present. The Council unanimously decided to pass an ordinance fixing the legal rates for phone charges in the City. That this step of the Council met with the approval of the citizens of the town, is evident from the expressions heard since action was taken. With the Council determined to exercise their power given it by the Charter to regulate the Telephone Company, and taking steps to fix a rate for phones, and the public determined upon their part that they will not be imposed upon by the Company something ought to be accomplished towards getting fair rates for Salisbury.

DORSET HAS DIFFICULTIES

State Central Committee There Decide For Old Convention Plan. One Member A Candidate, Another Said To Be With Pattison.

The Dorchester County Democratic Central Committee decided in spite of great pressure brought to bear in favor of Crawford county primaries, to have the party nomination made as heretofore by a convention. The date set for the primaries is Saturday, July 24.

The action of the committee will, it is believed, widen the break in the Democratic ranks in the county, as the advocates of the Crawford system are loud in their criticism of the committee. Many petitions had been circulated and numerous signatures secured favoring a direct vote at the primaries.

The members of the county committee are Zora R. Brinsfield, B. E. Harrington and W. Lake Robinson. Mr. Brinsfield is a close political friend of John R. Pattison, one of the local candidates for Judge of this circuit. Mr. Harrington is a brother of Emerson C. Harrington, who is said to be in combination with John R. Pattison, and Mr. Robinson is himself a candidate for clerk of the Circuit Court.—Baltimore American.

—The Very Rev. J. J. Wilkins D. D. of St. Louis, Mo., General Secretary and Financial Representative in securing the Five Million Dollars for a general clergy relief pension fund, recommended by the General Convention held in Richmond, Va., 1907, will preach in St. Peter's church Salisbury Sunday morning.

CITY WEDDINGS.

Elderidge—Adkins, Division Street. Ellis—Cooke, in Camden.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. E. S. Adkins at high noon on Wednesday, when his eldest daughter, Miss Edna Urith Adkins became the bride of Dr. John Elderidge, of Maryland Springs. The ceremony was performed by Dr. H. L. Elderidge and Dr. James Elderidge, brothers of the groom assisted by Dr. W. R. Graham, of the Methodist Protestant Church of this city.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Wilkie Adkins, as maid of honor and her two little nieces, Eleanor and Bertha Adkins, were flower girls. The wedding march was played by Miss Grace Brown, of Union Bridge, a cousin of the bride. The house was beautifully decorated with palms, potted plants and rhododendrons. The bride wore a beautiful white satin gown trimmed with Duchesse lace, and carried a shower bouquet of roses.

The marriage was witnessed only by the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

After the ceremony Caterer Phillips served a luncheon. Dr. and Mrs. Elderidge left on the afternoon train for Old Point Comfort. The bride's going away gown was a tan Razel tailored suit with hat and gloves to match. Upon their return from their wedding trip Dr. and Mrs. Elderidge will reside at Maryland Springs where Dr. Elderidge has a large practice. The wedding presents were numerous and handsome.

Miss Adkins was one of the most finished musicians in Salisbury and has been organist at the M. P. Church for several years. She was also very active in church circles and popular socially.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Fooks, of Newark, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. William Northan, of Solomon's Island, Dr. H. L. Elderidge and Miss Bessie Roberts, of Westminster, Dr. Blank, of Vienna and Dr. Wilson, of Maryland Springs.

Ellis—Cooke.

Miss Mary L. Cook, daughter of Mrs. Sallie Cook, was married Wednesday evening to Mr. Ernest H. Ellis, of the firm of John T. Ellis & Son, marble makers of this city. The ceremony took place at seven thirty o'clock at the home of the bride, Maryland Avenue and Smith Street, Rev. W. T. M. Beale officiating. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Sarah L. Cook, as maid of honor and Mr. Raymond K. Truitt was best man and the wedding march was played by Mr. O. A. White.

The marriage was witnessed by the immediate families of both. After the ceremony a reception was held. The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion with potted plants, ferns, magnolias, daisies. The bride wore a handsome gown of white silk.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis left on the night express for New York. On their return they will reside in Camden where Mr. Ellis has erected a handsome home on the Boulevard.

Land Case Decision Reversed.

In the appeal case of Chas. M. Peters and Reese C. Peters, administrators of Caroline Peters vs. Ellen Robins and son, Wm. L. Robins, the Court of Appeals reversed the decision of the lower October Court at Snow Hill where the case was tried, judgment going against the Messrs. Peters. Their attorneys, Mr. Geo. M. Cjehur and Messrs. Toadvin and Bell carried the case to the State Court of Appeals where judgment has been reversed with costs to the Peters and new trial awarded.

The dispute dates away back and involves the construction of Judge James B. Robins to his brother Littleton Robinson. There was about 35 acres of land and about $2000 in timber. The attorneys for the Robins were Wm. F. Johnson and Miles & Stanford.

POWELLVILLE STIRRED UP

Over Arrest Of Benton Kelley. Young Man Liberated On $5000 Bail. Who Cut Truitt?

Immediately after the death of Hiram Truitt which occurred at Powellville on Friday, State's Attorney Bailey, who had hurried to the scene when he heard that Truitt was dying, made a thorough investigation and Benton Kelley, son of Mr. J. W. Kelley, was arrested charged with the crime. A coroner's jury was called by Justice of the Peace W. A. Trader, of Salisbury, composed of King V. White, foreman, J. Samuel Williams, Elisha P. Morris, William T. Hanman, Wilmer S. Burbage, P. E. Powell, Henry W. Jones, Lambert T. Rayne, Horace Baker, John B. Hayman, Raymond Burbage and John W. Wilkins. The finding of the jury was that "one Benton Kelley did maliciously stab the said Hiram Truitt in the stomach with a knife thereby inflicting a mortal wound, of which mortal wound the said Hiram Truitt from the said 23d day of May, 1909, until the 28th day of May, 1909, at Wicomico County aforesaid, did languish, and languishing did live, and on which said last mentioned day, the said Hiram Truitt, of the mortal wound aforesaid died."

Truitt's death was the result of a cut inflicted by some one during a quarrel between several persons in the barber shop of Thomas Donovan. The quarrel seems to have been started between Joe Bodley, Edward Dennis and Hiram Truitt. This had quelled down when young Kelley with several companions entered, and on entering made some inquiry as to the trouble, and being informed that Bodley accused Truitt as being one of a party that had thrown brick bats at him, made the remark that they could not do that when "we boys are around." This started trouble and Dennis and Truitt started for Kelley. According to most of the witnesses Kelley seems to have been engaged with Dennis with Truitt trying to make his way to help Dennis out, when Donovan, the barber, sprang from his chair, and knocked Truitt against the wall. It was at this time that Truitt cried that he was ruined and it was found that he had been cut.

It is said that Truitt before his death swore that Kelley cut him and that Edward Dennis corroborates his statement. At a hearing before Judge Holland on the question of admitting Kelley to bail the witnesses in the case were examined and Kelley was admitted to bail under a $5000 bond. Kelley immediately gave the required bond and was given his liberty.

Mr. John W. Kelley, the father of the young man, is one of the best known men in the eastern section of the County. He was in town on the day of the hearing but was so wrought up over the trouble of his boy that he was unable to attend the hearing. Henry Kelley, brother of Benton, was present and took an active interest in the proceedings. Benton Kelley, the one charged with the crime, bears a good reputation in the community in which he lives. He is twenty four years of age but looks much younger.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS

Will Be Next On The Carpet—Maryland Is Entitled To 900.

Maryland will be entitled to 900 census enumerators. Five supervisors at $1,500 each, with a bonus of $1 added for each 100 persons enumerated in their respective districts. Twenty five or more office clerks. Four hundred enumerators for Baltimore city at 2 cents for each name they secure. Five hundred enumerators for the counties of Maryland at 2 1/2 to 3 cents for each name they secure.

The 900 enumerators in Maryland will be divided among the districts according to the requirements of each. In the rural districts the task will be more difficult and will require more time than in Baltimore and larger towns. In some cases conscientious census takers will have to tramp miles in order to add two or three names to their lists. For this reason the county men will be given more time to do their work and more money for each name secured.

FASHION GOSSIP

From New York. Artistic Picture Hats Fast Replacing The Absurd Shapes; Bronze Shoes The Latest Fad; New Princess Effects.

Ladies who have become intensely weary of the latest Paris fashion absurdities in the way of hats such as the ubiquitous peach basket shape which is really becoming to nobody, will welcome, with a sigh of relief, the very latest millinery fad in the all black hat which it has been found harmonizes beautifully with the fashionable shade for frocks, particularly the popular rose colored gowns.

Bronze Slippers, Fashionable.

Bronze shoes, slippers and ties are the newest thing in footwear, invented by Fashion, if that can be called new which is, after all, but a revival of an old style. The bronze kid appears in many forms, pumps with jany ribbon bows, strap slippers, high button boots and low cut ties. This new kind of footwear can be used for many purposes but is intended primarily for dressy wear.

Colour De Rose.

Rose color is having a tremendous popularity this summer appearing as it does not only in dresses, coats and wraps, but also in millinery, parasols, veils, purses and other accessories. In millinery, especially, rose color is all the rage. Rose pink straw is trimmed with flowers and ribbon or exactly the same shade and both white and black straws are also trimmed with this popular color.

Elaborate displays of leather goods in the new pastel shades have lately attracted especial attention in the New York shops and here too rose color has taken precedence.

New Ideas in Frocks.

All the latest models in pongee or linen gowns show effective variations of the new long waist line. This is seen not only in princess dresses but also in coat suits, the skirts of the latter ter being cut with a deep hip yoke below which the material is box pleated or set on in circular style. The newest princess frocks have a fitted corset effect, extending well below the hips and below this are box pleats or a gathered flounce effect.

The Indispensable Brassiere.

The brassiere is now as indispensable as her corset to every woman who pays any attention to the fit of her gowns. A properly made brassiere holds and moulds the figure above the corset bearing all the strain which otherwise stretches and wears the dress waist, and also preventing the ugly line at the top of the corset which often shows so distressingly across the back of the bodice.

A new style brassiere that closes in front has three small cross bones at the side of the bust which prevent the figure from spreading, and secure the fashionable trimness of line. In the back closing, surprise brassiere, there is a new model, made with a reinforcing shield under the arm, which helps both the shape and wear of the garment. Both are made by the Debervoise Co., and can be found at most corset departments in the best stores.

Lovely Summer Frocks.

A very pretty hat by no means expensive summer frock is made of rose colored linen or one of the heavy cotton fabrics, closely imitating linen. It is cut with the front panel extending down to the feet in princess style, but the side panels are cut off about half way below the hips and lengthened by a deep side pleating of the material that extends from each side of the front panel around to the back. The neck is cut out in a small square to display a lace guimpe. A touch of braiding in pink soutache outlines the square neck, trims the sleeves above long lace cuffs and heads the pleated flounce effect.

Variety Of Styles.

An immense variety of materials are used for summer frocks. Pongee is enormously popular, so also is linen, batiste, Marquisette, cotton voile, chambray, and that extremely useful fabric, foulard. The revival of foulard comes as a boon to womanhood. It is used for everything from plain morning frocks to elaborate afternoon gowns and in light shades even for dancing dresses. Lucy Carter.

Resolutions Of Respect.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father in His meriting wisdom has seen fit to remove from our earthly fellowship our beloved member, Mrs. Virginia Gordy, we, the undersigned committee of the Salisbury Chapter of the Order of The Eastern Star, for ourselves and for those whom we represent, hereby record our high appreciation of her consistent christian character; we shall miss her in our society; her voice is hushed; her seat is vacant; therefore be it

Resolved, That while we who still remain will miss her presence and aid in the general work of our society, we will remember her example of faithfulness to duty and charity to others.

Resolved, In all the spheres in which her willing spirit was exercised, she was ever helpful, ready and cheerful, and leaves to us a legacy, an example of fidelity, worthy of imitation. She has gone before to the palace of the King and shall see Him "face to face."

Resolved, That these resolutions be recorded upon the minutes of the society, and a copy of the same be sent to the family of our departed sister.

MRS. ADAD TOADVINE,
MRS. EDNA ADKINS,
MRS. LYDIA GRIER,
Com. of the O. E. S.

On May 18th, 1909, the King—our Heavenly Father—called one of our daughters to Himself and our society of "King's Daughters" is bereft of one of its noblest and sweetest members. On the above named date Mrs. Virginia Brewington Gordy, a member of the society of "Kings Daughters" of Salisbury, answered the summons of the King and left her home in this world for the "palace of the King" in heaven.

Mrs. Gordy was for many years a member of this Society and she proved herself a true daughter of the King who is "all glorious within" and whose "clothing is of wrought gold." Her name shall be remembered in all generations because her ear was ever open to the cry of the distressed and her sympathy was as boundless as human needs.

Resolved, That this society feels itself sadly bereft because of the loss of our friend and fellow-worker.

Resolved, That we extend to her bereaved husband and children our sincere sympathy and bid them to look to Him in hope who said, "I go to prepare a place for you that where I am there you may be also."

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our society and a copy of the same be sent to the family of the deceased and also published in the county papers.

MRS. L. D. COLLIER,
MRS. BELLE JONES,
MRS. W. A. COOPER.

At a called meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church South, the following resolutions were adopted:

Since our Heavenly Father has taken to Himself our dear friend and fellow worker, Mrs. Virginia Brewington Gordy, we desire to give expression to our deep sense of loss and record our high appreciation of the service she so faithfully rendered her church; and though we sorrow because her place cannot be filled in the earthly choir, we rejoice in the belief that it is her privilege to sing anthems of praise and thanks giving around the great white throne of God. Though we sadly miss her cheerful presence in our society we hope after having faithfully performed life's work, to greet her in the mansion which the Lord has prepared for all those who keep his commandments and "love his appearing."

Resolved, That we extend our profound sympathy to the bereaved ones, commending them to the God of all grace.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread on the minutes of our Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and Mite Society, and a copy be sent to the family.

MARCH THROUGH FIRE

Ceremony of a Sect of Brahmins in Honor of Gods of Fire and Water. Six thousand Hindus and a select few English officials have recently witnessed in the neighborhood of Madras a remarkable religious ceremony, the principal actors being Sohrastias, a sect of Brahmins.

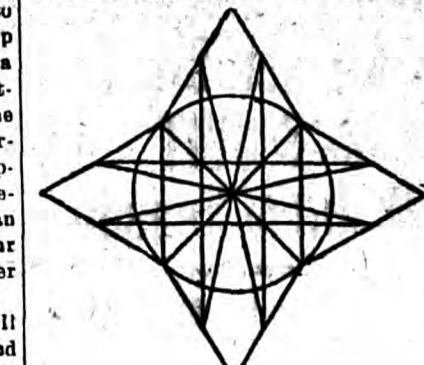

The festival was called "the march through fire," and it is appropriately enough named. The proceedings were in honor of Brahma and Vishnu, the gods of water and fire.

Preparations for the ceremony had been going on for a month. A trench twenty-three feet long and nineteen feet deep was dug, and in it a fire was kindled. At sunrise forty fanatics, who were to demonstrate their abhorrence to nature, slowly marched around the furnace bearing the curious idols. The Sohrastias were clothed in yellow tunics, and without hesitation entered the fire trench singing a hymn, the refrain of which was "Govinda! Govinda!"

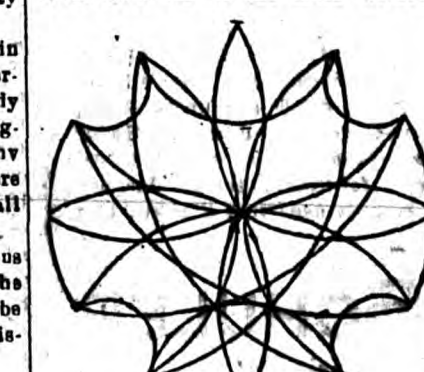

After walking around this artificial Gehenna three times they emerged apparently none the worse for their experience, and have established an unassailable claim for sanctity among their people.

Geometrical Puzzles.

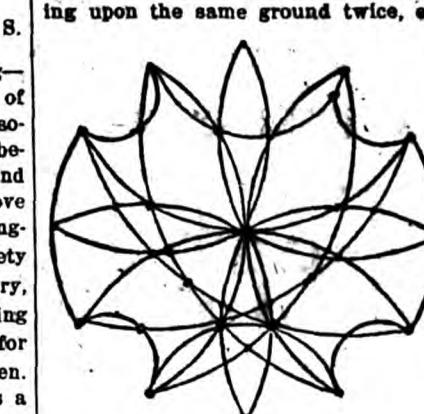

Three geometrical puzzles are shown here. The puzzle in each case is to begin at some one point and trace over all of the lines without lifting the pencil and without touching upon the same ground twice, except where two or more lines intersect, eventually returning to the starting point.

Indian Burial Methods.

The Indian method of burial was to fasten a corpse upon cross-sticks supported on poles in the ground or in the boughs of the tree-tops. Here the air and the elements silently disposed of the lifeless clay, until in a year or so but little remained to bear evidence of a tomb—perhaps some broken sticks in the top and a few scattered beads or human bones beneath the burial place. I cannot conceive of anything more pitifully gruesome than an Indian burial ground of this type. I have seen them in the fall of the year when the winds were shaking and away the platforms and wringing the leaden trees, flaunting the burial racks like signals of distress from the dead, and whistling through and over the whitening bones and neglected remains of those who had many a time withstood the tempest and storm when the breath of life stirred within them.

Long Kid Gloves Ancient.

The wearing of long kid gloves is by no means a modern fashion. As long ago as 1875 they were worn, for there is a description of a pair of white kid wedding gloves twenty-two inches long that were worn drawn in above the elbow, and a famous French authority on historical costumes states that in the time of the empire long gloves were not only fashionable but were ruinously expensive. No woman who made any aspirations to being well dressed could possibly get on with less than a new pair every day.

His Idea of Americans.

Henrik Ibsen was once asked his idea of Americans. "Well," replied Ibsen smiling, "it is my idea that the average American baby, five or six months old, sits in his mother's lap and eyes his own cradle to see if he can't invent a better one, or at least suggest some improvement."

An Astonishing Comparison.

New York city's land values are increasing faster than the total value of the entire output of all the gold and silver mines in the world.

We often hear a good-camped bull called the "pet of the farm," and children are allowed to play around him, and even ride him through the yards. This is dangerous. Many have been injured by trusting the bull too far. I have never yet seen a bull that I would trust behind my back, unless he was securely fastened.

It will require seven pounds of skin milk to equal one pound of lean beef for sustaining qualities.

For the purpose of nominating Democratic candidates for the following offices:

One Candidate for Clerk of Circuit Court.

One Candidate for Register of Wills.

Three Candidates for House of Delegates.

Three Candidates for County Commissioners.

One Candidate for Sheriff.

One Candidate for County Surveyor.

Candidates to represent Wicomico County in the State Convention to be held in Baltimore on August 11, 1909, to nominate a Candidate for Governor of the State and to nominate candidates for Judges of the Circuit.

The nomination of all candidates shall be determined by the direct vote of the members of the Democratic party, a plurality of votes to determine who shall be the Candidates for the Democratic party.

All Candidates must file with the State Central Committee, before 10 o'clock, prior to the 10th day of July, 1909, a certificate stating his name, residence and age, and office or occupation for which he seeks to be nominated, and five days thereafter he shall pay to the State Central Committee the sum of $1.00, estimated by the committee as his fair proportionate part necessary to pay the expenses.

The judges of the primaries will be furnished with directions and instructions by Murray Venable, Chairman of the State Central Committee, explaining their duties and the qualifications of voters.

JAMES T. TRUITT.
H. V. BREWINGTON.
HENRY JAMES MESSICK, Democratic State Central Committee of Wicomico County.

CANDIDATES UNDER CRAWFORD COUNTY PLAN.

The action of the State Central Committee in holding the primaries this year under the Crawford County plan has met with approval all over the County, and there is evidence that the voters in the party are preparing to take an active interest in the selection of candidates this year.

We believe that it will be to the interest of all if those who are seeking for two nominations will give the greatest possible amount of publicity to their candidacy, and in every way try to show the people what they stand for and what they propose to do if elected. The ADVERTISER will be glad to act as a medium to acquaint the people with the candidates, and also for them to get their opinions on public matters before the people, and will gladly give its columns for expressions of opinion on any or all of these matters. It is necessary now that the people have a right to cast their vote, for them to exercise this right, and it will be impossible for them to do so intelligently unless they have knowledge of the various parties seeking for their support. The people want and will demand some knowledge of the candidates and what they stand for.

There seems to be some misunderstanding in the minds of many as to the expense attached to being a candidate under the Crawford County plan and some have got the cost up to a highly ridiculous figure. A part of this misapprehension is due to the fact that the question of expense was one of the arguments used by many who were opposed to the plan. As far as can be ascertained the cost will be but a trifle to each candidate. The Judges, Clerks and other officials of the primaries are to be paid by the County. The only expense the candidates will have to bear, as we understand it, is the ballots and perhaps the rent for voting places. The cost of printing all the ballots required for the entire County should not at the greatest cost more than $50 while the rent for voting booths should not cost much more. Suppose the total cost to the candidates should reach $200, which surely ought to cover it, and that are twenty candidates—a very small number—then the cost to each will be but $10—a mere trifle.

Those who desire to be candidates have not had much red tape to contend with—ones has simply to file a certificate in writing with the State Central Committee, stating his name, his age, his office for which he seeks to be elected—this is to be done at least fifteen days before the date fixed for holding the primaries. As the primaries are to be held on July 10th, the last day any one can file his candidacy is June 25th. If any candidate wishes any extra ballots to distribute among his friends and over the County, he can get as many as he wants by application to the State Central Committee. He will be required to pay for all extra ballots; these should not cost much.

No one need to refrain from being a candidate, if we understand it correctly, on the grounds of expense, and each district that wants representation should see to it that their strongest and best qualified men file their application for the office they seek before the 25th of June.

ACTION ON TELEPHONE RATES.

The course of the City Council in deciding to fix legal rates for the use of telephone service is a move in the right direction and will meet with the wishes of the citizens in this matter. Whatever right the City has to regulate our public service corporation can be tested if the Company disputes the rates charged, and if the power the city now has is not sufficient then it will have an opportunity to go to the next legislature and get it.

Of course it is understood by all that no rates can be fixed at a figure so low as to amount to confiscation, but at the rates mentioned it is believed by several of the members of the legal fraternity, that the Company would have considerable trouble to prove confiscation of property, especially in the light of the recent history of the telephone business here. A corporation bought the old Company which was doing a business that paid dividends of ten per cent and more and were willing to pay about four for one for the stock. Before the Bell Telephone Company bought the stock, the Diamond State Telephone Company was evidently satisfied with the property and according to reports claim to have made money on it, yet when the Bell gets control of the stock it claims that it is doing business at a loss although charging more than was charged for the same service by either of the old companies.

DORCHESTER DECISION.

While the ADVERTISER has no desire to butt in the affairs of our adjoining counties, yet it can not but feel that the Democratic State Central Committee of Dorchester has made a mistake in not holding the primaries in that county under the Crawford County plan. All the Counties in the First Judicial District have a right to be interested in the contest over the vacant Judgeship, and much more confidence would be felt if it was known that the candidate which Dorchester presents to the rest of the District was the choice of the voters in his home County.

Political conventions and candidates made by them have been too much discredited to have the entire confidence of the people in respect to whether they are the real choice or not of the majority.

Chief Judge W. Laird Henry advocated a direct vote and asked that the primaries be held that way, and while we have no knowledge as to what the other candidates wanted, it is a fair presumption that some of them must have been opposed to a direct vote as it is inconceivable that the State Central Committee would have gone against the united request of the candidates, or that they would have refused Judge Henry's request if it had been a matter of indifference, even on the part of the other candidates.

STRAIGHT TALK ON BOSSISM.

Here is something worth repeating: The curse of modern political conditions is political bossism. We must have parties and we must have leadership, but neither of these necessary things requires that we shall have individual domination to the overthrow of popular rights. Organizations also must exist to carry on party government successfully. No one is more strongly in favor of organized political movements than I. But there is a wrong impression abroad as to the duty of what we call political organization. They are simply to manage the campaign, not to control the representatives elected by the people. Men elected to the Legislature should be competent to act upon legislation that is demanded by the people, without being constantly told what they should or must do. For my part I am convinced that if they were left to legislate as their judgment and conscience dictated, there would be no difficulty about the passage of measures which the people demand.

Sounds like Blankenburg, doesn't it?

It is good enough to be credited to the old war horse of Philadelphia, but it came from Governor Fort, of New Jersey, one of the latest converts to government by the people through parties instead of the government by the bosses through puppets.—Philadelphia Record.

The statement charges that somebody prosecutes these places either gratuitously or for a consideration or they could not run. Their addresses are a matter of public record. The fact that they pay the Federal tax imposed only upon those who sell liquor at retail makes a clear case. The Anti-Saloon League says that these facts which constitute a gigantic fraud upon the city and upon the state whose portion would be more than $60,000 would not be possible without connivance on the part of the officials who are ultimately responsible for the enforcement of law and the collection of revenue.

Democrats Will Use Moving Pictures in Campaign.

Moving pictures are to be utilized by Democratic Chairman Vandiver in the campaign for the proposed franchise amendment. Mr. Vandiver closed the contract Tuesday morning. The shows are to run for two months. "Details have not been worked out yet," said Mr. Vandiver when asked the particular kind of pictures he intended to have shown on the canvas in order to stir up the voters to the point where they would be induced to make their mark in the square opposite the words. "For the amendment," he declared, however, that every man in Maryland would have an opportunity to see the pictures."

The Tax Rate.

At a meeting of the County Commissioners on Tuesday the rate for taxes for the year was fixed at $1 for the County, which is the same rate as the past year. This with the State tax of 15 cents makes the tax rate County and State $1.15. The demands made upon the Commissioners for better roads has made the expenditure of large amounts of money necessary, and while many new roads have been built both under the Shoemaker Law and roads built entirely by the County and owners of property, the Commissioners have been unable to meet demands on them for better roads.

If there is any one thing that will tend to improve our County it is the building of better roads, so as to bring our farmers in closer touch with the markets, and money spent in this way is a good investment for the tax payers of the County. It is the intention of the Board to continue the work of building roads, and to take advantage of the Shoemaker law each year, which in itself will mean an expenditure of $10,000, per year. In other expenses this year has been in the building of bridges and drainage. The school receives $5,000 more than in previous years, making the amount appropriated for school purposes this year $35,000.

In view of the many roads improved and the extraordinary expenses in bridging and the larger appropriation required for school purposes, especially in the building of school houses and repairs long needed, in view of all these things the Commissioners have done remarkably well in keeping the tax rate at the present figures, and are to be congratulated upon their management of the finances of the county.

Good roads, and good schools are things that the public need and demand and they will not begrudge the money spent as long as they think they are getting value received, and the money is economically and well spent.

The assessable basis of Wisconsin county is gradually increasing every year and this year it has increased about $900,000. This is new property placed on the books. The basis of the several districts are as follows:—

Barren Creek,	$ 899,869.00
Quantico,	414,645.00
Tyaskin,	296,759.00
Pittsburg,	337,666.00
Parsons,	1,167,308.00
Dennis,	174,819.00
Trappe,	333,347.00
Nutters,	215,538.00
Salisbury,	1,333,780.00
Sharptown,	255,383.00
Delmar,	367,712.00
Nanticoke,	326,917.00
Camden,	713,692.00
Willard,	134,834.00
Total,	$6,531,064.00

Stock of Corporations, 2,176,367.00
Bonds of Corporations, 939,000.00

Total Basis, $9,636,734.00

Tax rates of $1.00 on the hundred for county purposes will bring in a revenue of $87,000.00.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Jackson attended the Commencement Exercises at Orono School, Pa., this week at which their daughter, Miss Belle McCoombs, was one of the graduates. Miss Jackson was valedictorian of the '09 class which consisted of twenty six young ladies.

—At a regular meeting of Newton Lodge No. 56 L. O. O. F., the following officers were chosen for ensuing term: N. G., E. J. O. Parsons; V. G., Samuel F. Fieldman; Secretary, Jno. G. Farlow; one year, E. W. Windsor. Jno. G. Brittingham, Sec.

—A new counterfeit $5 silver certificate has come to the attention of the Secret Service Bureau. It is of the series of 1899 (Indian head), and is a photo-mechanical production, printed on bond paper of good quality, blue ink lines having been used to imitate the silk fiber of the genuine. According to Acting Chief Moran of the Bureau, the color and workmanship of the blue seal numbers and large numerals are far from being inferior, the back of the note being especially deceptive.

—Dr. John S. Fulton, who is well known in this city, having resided here for a number of years, and a brother to Mrs. M. V. Brewington, has recently been appointed Executive Secretary of the International Congress on Hygiene. This appointment is a great compliment to Dr. Fulton, as the Government demands a very high class technical expert to take charge of this work. Dr. Fulton will sell from New York this month on a special mission for the Government abroad and will make a tour of the principal cities of England, France, Belgium, Austria and Germany.

Congratulations.

The editors of "The Times," join with the people of Somerset county, and take off their hats to the editors of the Salisbury Advertiser, congratulating those gentlemen upon the victory recently won in the Wisconsin county fight for the Crawford county system of primaries.

The Advertiser, backed by a large number of the best thinking Democrats of the county, led the fight for the adoption of the Crawford county system, and for several weeks past has devoted much space, time and hard work in its behalf. Although there is good reason to believe that a number of the organization leaders were strongly in favor of the old convention system, the Advertiser made a winning fight, and when the State Central Committee for Wisconsin county met one day this week, the announcement was made that the Crawford county system would be adopted.

This is one more case where the power of the press, fighting for right, won out in a noble struggle. The editors of The Advertiser had the courage of their convictions and we are glad to see that success has crowned their efforts.—Orisfield Times.

COW PEAS
Will Make You Rich

Sow them for hay crops—for forage crops after grain crops—on vacant land. Put Cow Peas in every available piece of land you have. They will wonderfully increase the value and productivity of your entire farm. We strongly recommend the sowing of Mixed Cow Peas. They are composed of Blacks, Whip-poor-wills, Clay, etc. The earliest growing varieties will hold up the vining varieties, and will produce much better crops of vines and larger amount of forage.

We are headquarters for Cow Peas. If your merchant can't supply you with Bolgiano's Re-cleaned Cow Peas, write to us; we will tell you where you can get them.

Good Clothes

Here is our definition of good clothes: They must be made to suit the individual and fill the requirements of the man who is to wear them. They should be made of reliable fabrics, contain a maximum amount of handiwork, perfect-fitting, stylish, shape-retaining, durable, and lastly they must be reasonable in price. To secure clothes covered by this definition, you should visit R. E. Powell & Co.'s Double Department Store and see the Spring line of suits for men and young men made by David Marx & Sons, of New York.

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectively helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have suffered with indigestion, have been cured by it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it. Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and fermenting food, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headache, dizziness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it. Ordinary peptic "dyspepsia" tablets, physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Peppin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all. Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.

Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

CHAPTER XX.

THE CALL TO ARMS.

BOTH Randolph and Carolina were deeply affected by their father's words.

"The daughter attempted to take on herself the blame for her brother's action."

"I was the older one. I might have stopped him if I had wished and should bear the burden."

"No, no, father," exclaimed the youth, his inborn self reliance prompting him to shoulder the consequences of his own mistakes. "I, and I alone, am responsible for what I did. I did not realize that it was wrong. I will not hide behind Carolina."

Carolina Langdon bore herself better than was to have been expected under the strain of the painful interview. She saw more clearly now how she had erred. She was undergoing an inward revolution that would make it impossible for her ever again to veer so far from the line of duty to her father, her family and to herself.

When Randolph had finished Carolina took up her own defense, and eloquently she pleaded the defense of many a woman who yearns for what she has not got, for what may be beyond her reach—the defense of the woman who chafes under the limitations of worldly position, of sex and of opportunity. It was the defense of an ambitious woman.

"Perhaps I ought to have been a man of the Langdon family," she exclaimed. "Father, can you not understand that I couldn't do my life away down on those plantations? You don't know what ambition is. I had to have the world. I had to have money. If I had been a man I would have tried big financial enterprises. I should have liked to fight for a fortune. You wouldn't have condemned me then. You might have said my methods were bold, but if I succeeded I would have been a great man. But just because I am a woman you think I must sit home with my knitting. No, father, the world does move. Women must have an equal chance with men, but I wish I had been a man!"

"Even then I hope you would have been a gentleman," rebuked her father sternly. "Women should have an equal chance, Carolina. They should have an equal chance for the same virtues as men, not for the same vices."

"But an equal chance," returned the girl fervently. "There, father, you have admitted what I have tried to prove. The woman with the spirit of a man, the spirit that cries to a woman, 'Advance,' 'Accomplish,' 'Be something,' 'Strike for yourself,' cannot sit idly by while all the world moves on. If it is true that I have chosen the wrong means, the wrong way, to better my lot I did it through ignorance, and

"Then if you are as sure of that you can't object to my being for Gulf City," said Langdon.

"Are you financially interested in Gulf City?" demanded Peabody.

"Senator Peabody!" exclaimed Langdon. "Don't stare up, Langdon," retorted Peabody. "That sort of thing has happened in the senate. There are often perfectly legitimate profits to be made in some regular commercial venture by a man who has inside information as to what's doing up on Capitol Hill."

"Senator Peabody," asked Langdon, "why are you so strong for Altaicola?"

"The Pennsylvania hesitated. 'Its natural advantages,' he said at last."

"The southerner shook his head. 'Oh, that's all? Well, if natural advantages are going to settle it, and not influence, go ahead and vote, and I'll just bring in a minority report for Gulf City.'"

"The boss of the senate" was in a corner now. "Confound it, Langdon, if you will have it, I am interested in Altaicola," Langdon nodded.

"That's all I wanted to know," he said. "Now you see why it's got to be Altaicola," persisted the boss.

"I don't mind telling you, then, Senator Peabody," answered Langdon calmly, "that my being for Gulf City was a bluff. I've been trying to draw you out. Gulf City is a mud bank and no more fitted to be a naval base than Keokuk, Ia. Altaicola it's got to be, for the good of the country and the honor of Mississippi."

"And one thing more, senator. I'd just like to add that not a single man connected with that committee is going to make a cent out of the deal. You get that straight?"

Inventor Davy and Love.

Sir Humphry Davy, the inventor of the Davy lamp, found love something of a delusion, if not a snare. Writing to his mother, he said, "I am the happiest of men in the hope of a union with a woman equally distinguished for virtues, talents and accomplishments."

And in a letter to his brother he expresses his rapture thus: "Mrs. Appreche has consented to marry me, and when the event takes place I shall not envy kings, princes or potentates."

The widow must have been a person possessed of great powers of fascination, for Sir Henry Holland makes mention of her as a lady who made such a sensation in Edinburgh society that even a regius professor did not think it beneath his scholarship to go down on his knees in the street to fan the ten her shoe. The sequel need not be dwelt upon further than to add that the marriage turned out to be altogether a mistake.

Ferguson and the Rabbits. Robert Ferguson, the poet, was first matriculated at St. Andrew's university in the session of 1764-5. It was the custom at this time for each bursar to take his turn in invoking "blessing" at the meals. The college table having been surfeited with an unbroken diet of rabbits in various forms of cookery, Ferguson, on being called to say grace, repeated what are now celebrated lines:

For rabbits young and for rabbits old,
For rabbits hot and for rabbits cold,
For rabbits tender and for rabbits tough,
Our thanks we render, for we've had enough!

It may be added Ferguson was not sent down, but the rabbits were "ruined."

Tooth Chatter. The Gold Tooth—Say, you'll be pulled if you keep on disturbing the peace. The Troublesome Molar—Hoorsay! I'm just aching to get out of here, you know—Puck.

Opics

When your back gives out: Becomes lame, weak or aching: Your kidneys are "in a bad way." Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. Here is local evidence to prove it:

A. R. Lohner, 318 Williams Street, Salisbury, Md., says: "I feel safe in saying that anyone who uses Doan's Kidney Pills according to directions will find relief from kidney trouble. For at least thirty years my kidneys were disordered and as I am obliged to work in a draught and do much heavy lifting, it was hard for me to escape kidney ills. My back often became very weak and lame and the kidney secretions annoyed me on account of their irregularity in passage. It was finally my good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply at White & Leonard's drug store. They brought me great relief and I have used them off and on during the past ten years with great benefit."

Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

"Love will find a way," quoted the Wise Guy. "Yes, even though it may be only a way out," added the Simple Mag.

Women Who Are Employed.

Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, stolid woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood, give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at John M. Toulson's.

Hubbub—"I saw you taking a new cook home the other day; did she stay long?" Subbubs—"Well, we kept her over three trains."

Only 25c at John M. Toulson's.

Trouble Makers Ousted.

When a sufferer from stomach trouble takes Dr. King's New Life Pills he's mighty glad to see his Dyspepsia and Indigestion fly, but more—he's tickled over his new, fine appetite, strong nerves, healthy vigor, all because stomach, liver and kidneys now work right. 25c at John M. Toulson's.

There are many imitations of DeWitt's Carbolicized Witch Hazel Salve—DeWitt's is the original. Be sure you get DeWitt's Carbolicized Witch Hazel Salve when you ask for it. It is good for cuts, burns and bruises and is especially good for Piles. Sold by all druggists.

The only noise some men make in the world comes from their exploded theories.

We do not know of any other pill that is as good as DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little liver pills—small, gentle, pleasant and sure pills with a reputation. Sold by all druggists.

Value of Human Life Lost.

One hundred and five deaths from alcoholism were reported for the State of New York for the month of September, 1907. Allowing each life to be worth $3,000—an amount said by State Commissioner of Public Health, Dr. Eugene H. Porter, to be a low estimate—drink was the direct cause of a pecuniary loss to this one State in one month of $315,000, or, at the same rate, $2,780,000 annually. This leaves entirely out of consideration 2,387 deaths from suicide and diseases like apoplexy, liver troubles, heart diseases, and pneumonia in which alcohol is admittedly a large causative or contributory factor.

Burned His Bridal.

JURY IN WRECKING

Case Near Fruitland Five Verdict After Hearing. Evidence Exonerating Dead Engineer.

The Coroner's Jury, summoned by Justice of the Peace, W. A. Trader, acting as Coroner met on Saturday and after a lengthy session placed the blame for the wreck, which resulted in the death of Engineer Edward T. West, upon three parties.

The despatcher, James A. Byrd, of Cape Charles, for not taking some steps to annul or change the order given to those trains, it being claimed that he was informed that the freight had not left the station within five minutes from the time the express was due; upon James S. Taylor, the agent at Fruitland, for not displaying the red flag—or danger signal—for five minutes after the freight had pulled out of the station at Fruitland; upon Geo. H. Cordrey, the conductor of the freight, for not taking steps to protect his train while pulling out on the main track. A great many of the employees of both trains were called to testify and copies of the orders under which both trains were running were produced. The orders read as follows: "Train No. 6 will run ahead of train No. 48 from Fruitland to Delmar."

Harry D. Renninger, assistant train master, who has been employed in various lines of railroad work, having worked his way up to his present responsible position testified at the inquest. He gave his opinion as a railroad man as to what the duties of the various parties were, and further stated that in his opinion the dead engineer was not to blame for the wreck. He also stated that the conductor of No. 6 should have notified his flagman, and should have seen that he was in the rear of his train protecting it when it was entering the main track.

The Coroner's Jury, in summing up the case, closes with "therefore the said John A. Byrd, James A. Taylor and Geo. H. Cordrey did, by their culpable and criminal negligence, cause the death of Edward T. West."

It is understood that the authorities will take up the case against the parties mentioned, and that writs will be issued for their arrest and that they will be brought to Salisbury for trial. The following gentlemen composed the coroner's jury: S. King White, foreman, Isaac F. Messick, Clarence Brewington, Jacob A. Jones, J. Edward White, John H. Dulaney, Norman C. Ford, John B. Tomlinson, Ernest L. White, Harry G. Hayman, Uriah W. Dickerson and Dr. C. R. Trinit.

States Attorney Joseph L. Bailey represented the State; Miles and Stanford represented the railroad company.

WHAT A NATIVE SON

Of Salisbury Has Accomplished—Noteworthy Career Of A Young Man.

Less than twelve years ago, twelve years September 20th next, Dayton E. McClain, then a young man began in the primary school of Salisbury what has proven to be a remarkable career as a student. Three years ago he was sent to the Grammar School and High School and to finish the course with honors. The fourth year was spent at teaching. The next four years were spent in Dickinson College in Carlisle, Penn., from which school Mr. McClain received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. The following year won for him his Master's Degree from Harvard University, and the two following years he has spent in Boston University where he has completed two courses, that in the School of Theology, and the Post Graduate course in the College of Liberal Arts. The former course entitles him to the S. T. B. Degree, and the latter the Ph. D. Degree, which he received last Wednesday, June 2nd.

For three successive years, Mr. McClain won first prize in Collegiate Oratorical Contests, and in 1906 he won first prize in both the Pennsylvania State and in the Eastern Interstate Prohibition Contests in Oratory. He has also won several prizes for scholarship in the various schools.

When the facts are considered, that in the meantime Mr. McClain has by his own efforts supported his mother, wife and two children, who have come to bless their home during these years, this is an enviable record and ought to be an inspiration to every boy who wants to be of consequence in the world.

THE CLIMAX

of perfection in farming means an elimination of the methods which make drudgery, which consume time, and which retard progress.

THE McCORMICK

eliminates all of these in that part of farming which pertains to harvesting grain and grass. Besides this, it does more—it brings to its owner contentment and satisfaction in his work, all of which creates vim and vigor, energy and enthusiasm; in other words, a new life on the farm.

The McCormick is a machine for practical purposes—it is the machine you want. Call and examine the McCormick line of harvesting machines.

PHONE DEVELOPMENTS.

New Company Organized To Await Action Of City To Enforce Old Rates.

There has been but little change in the telephone situation here in respect to reaching a satisfactory settlement of the matter. The committee appointed at the citizens meeting has broken off all negotiation with the Diamond State Company, and have incorporated a new Company, for which they asked the City Council to give them a franchise at the meeting on Tuesday. As the Company had not completed the legal organization then and were not in position to accept a franchise, the matter was held over.

In conformance with the papers of incorporation the stockholders will meet on the 16th for a formal organization. The City Council, it is understood, will be willing to grant a franchise to a new Company if it is found that it is impossible to get the Diamond State to establish fair and reasonable rates for phone service.

The new Company is incorporated with a capital of $25,000, the incorporators and directors mentioned in the charter are E. H. Walton, T. H. Mitchell, Jno. M. Toulson, A. M. Jackson, and W. A. Cooper. These gentlemen compose the committee named by the citizens.

The franchise asked did not mention any maximum rates to be charged but left this blank to be inserted in by the council as they thought best, and it is understood that should a franchise be granted the rates of $15 and $25 will be fixed as the maximum rates.

An interesting paper has been brought to light in connection with the telephone controversy, and the claim of the present Company that they were running their business at a loss here, and that is a sworn statement of the value of the plant here.

The statement was sent down in the effort to have their taxable basis reduced from $20,000 which had been the value placed upon it by the Council for the purpose of taxation. The statement follows:

HEARN REAL ESTATE

In Worcester County Re-sold To Satisfy Debts.

On Tuesday, Wm. F. Johnson, trustee, sold the real estate of Isaac N. Hearn in Worcester Co. at public sale.

The Hutt and Dale farms were sold together and purchased by Elijah C. Shockey, for $20,300.00.

The houses and lots in Snow Hill brought $4,585 and were sold to different persons. Total sales $24,885.

The Wicomico valuable real estate in Wicomico county, near Pittsville, will be sold at public sale later.

The farms had been purchased after the death of Isaac N. Hearn from his devisee, G. Ernest Hearn for $18,500 and the creditors of Isaac N. Hearn brought suit to subject the farms to the debts of Isaac N. Hearn. The case went to the Board of Appeals and it affirmed the decrees of the lower court in ordering a sale of the farms and proceeds as far as necessary from the farms and other real estate devised by Hearn should be applied to the payment of his debts.

HAVE ANOTHER WRECK

On The N. Y. P. & N. Railroad. Seventeen Cars Thrown Into Culvert.

A wash out caused by the heavy rain of the last two weeks caused the train tracks of the N. Y. P. & N. railroad one mile south of Painter, Va., to spread at 4.30 o'clock Thursday morning, D. 22, a fast freight train running North as extra 24, Conductor J. R. Carman, Engineer J. M. Holloway, was wrecked and 17 cars of perishable freight were thrown into a culvert. The cars were splintered and the wreckage piled high in the air, and the contents strewn about on the ground.

The engine and seven cars had passed over the culvert in safety when, without a moment's warning the track started spreading for a length of 30 feet. None of the train crew are known to have been injured, but a tramp stealing a ride was killed, and two other tramps, names unknown were seriously hurt. A wreck train was immediately started to the scene and is at work clearing away the debris, which has blocked all traffic.

The New York and Norfolk express was delayed three hours. Doctors were summoned to the wreck.

Science of Alcohol.

Here is what modern medical authority teaches concerning the pernicious effect of the various preparations of alcohol and other inebriating drugs on the human race. The Twentieth Century Practice of Medicine says under "Alcoholism and Drug Habits":

"There is no form of poisoning which is so wide spread and so rapidly increasing at the present time, as the series of toxic phenomena exhibited in the persons of those addicted to the excessive use of the various preparations of alcohol, opium, morphine, chloral, chloroform, ether, cocaine, and allied inebriating substances."

"There is no other kind of poisoning which so degrades brain structure and disturbs mental function, while physically degenerating bodily texture and undermining vital organs, or which is so far-reaching in its operation, transmitting as it does through two generations a great variety of brain abnormalities, mental defects and moral obliquities originally induced in the ancestral stock by the toxicating action of the poison on brain and nerve tissue."

"The more generally employed among such articles, narcotics and anaesthetics, by their characteristic influence, have the property of setting up and thus practically originating a desire for a fresh dose (drink), and at the same time of so disturbing brain-function as to induce moral perversion."

"Such substances are Alcohol (in the form of beer, wine, brandy and whiskey), opium, morphine, cocaine, chloroform and the like, the first-named, Alcohol, being a prolific inciter to breaches of human and divine law, ranging from minor offenses to the gravest misdemeanors and crimes."

Full about a century ago, there was a general belief that drunkenness was a purely voluntary condition; that men and women could get drunk or refrain from getting drunk as they chose, and that intoxication was a pastime willingly and willfully indulged in; nor is this erroneous belief even now wholly dead. The many who formerly held and the comparatively few who still cherish this opinion looked upon the whole matter of drunkenness as a mere immorality, vice, or crime; punishment in a jail, confinement in the "stocks," public denunciation, ecclesiastical excommunication, or the administration of a good whipping being in their view the proper mode of dealing with such wanton and depraved outcasts. Medical science has, therefore, set itself to investigate thoroughly the nature and properties of intoxicant action on body and brain, and the various morbid conditions which operate to render a substantial portion of human beings an easy prey to some form of that enslavement, by excessive indulgence in intoxicants, which is the most complete possession and tyranny, endured by man.

This extract from the writings of a world-renowned specialist in the treatment of beer, wine and whiskey inebriates is surely enough to arouse every man, who desires the elevation of society, to war an everlasting warfare against the soul-and-body-destroying ruin business.

Financial Investment.

A recent writer in the "Nasarene Messenger," a California paper, impressively proves that the liquor traffic is a very poor financial investment for Los Angeles, California. He says, in substance, that Los Angeles has thirty-eight cafes and restaurants where liquor is sold. It has 200 saloons, besides wholesale liquor houses and many "blind pigs." It has raised the saloon license from $75 to $100 a month. Its total revenue from drink is $275,000 a year. But when it raised the saloon and cafe license it added sixty-five men to the police force, which will cost an additional $97,000 a year, or a total of $347,000. The city has forty-two square miles of territory. The saloons are confined to about one mile square, and it requires eighty per cent. of the police for that one square mile, while the other forty-one square miles get twenty per cent. The city receives $270,000 blood money from the drinking hell and pays $216,000 for a police force to watch them.

What Governors Say.

We are glad to be able to set before our readers what the Governors of three States declare:

Governor Cummings of Iowa: "The less liquor sold the better morals."

Governor Campbell of Texas: "The saving in court expenses from decrease in crime is believed to offset the loss of revenue from closing the saloons."

Governor Burke of North Dakota: "We have had prohibition so long in North Dakota that in some counties there are no jails."

No Liquor Prescriptions.

Bone County, Missouri, voted dry some time back, and the Boone County Medical Society has pledged its members not to give liquor prescriptions for any cause.

HORSE HURRIED TO DOCTOR.

Wise Animal Knew What to Do When It Got Colic.

Bloomington, Ind.—The most sensible horse of local record was found here when the family animal of Samuel Johnson became sick with colic, and of its own accord made its way to the veterinary hospital blocks away. Dr. Eversley heard a noise in his yard and, he found the Johnson horse kneeling in pain. He treated the animal and sent it home.

BLUEBEARD ONCE WAS A REALITY

The Original Was Gilles de Laval, Marshal of France in the Year of 1492

WORSE THAN NURSERY HERO

Ciad Always in Sombre Hues, His Swallowtail Black Beard Gave Him an Uncanny Appearance—Weird Search for the Philosopher's Stone.

Bluebeard existed in reality. To be sure, he had not married seven wives, and therefore never threatened them with violent death; still, the enormities of which this original has been guilty are not surpassed by the crimes of our hero of the nursery. The original Bluebeard was Gilles de Laval, Lord of Reitz, who was made Marshal of France in 1429, and in the reigns of Charles VI. and VII. distinguished himself by his bravery against the English when they invaded France. He was born in the Castle of Machecoul, in Vendee, in 1404. There still rise the ruins of a castle, which even to-day is called in the whole neighborhood the "Bluebeard Castle," and the peasants when passing by at night make the sign of the cross. His former owner descended from one of the oldest families, belonging to the Montmorencies on his mother's side. He was married at the age of thirteen, but his wife died in the same year, and the second wife, whom he married in the following year, came to her death soon after her wedding. In 1420, at the age of sixteen, he took for his wife Catherine de Thouars, a girl of the same age, who, besides her rich dowry, increased his estates by the barony of Tiffange. A great military career opened before the young man, who fought at the side of Jeanne d'Arc in all the battles against the English, and for his patriotism and heroism he became Marshal of France. Gilles de Reitz was by no means the ugly, demonlike looking monster which the Bluebeard of the fairy tale pictures of our imagination, but rather a portly looking man of high stature and great muscular strength. Only his glossy long "blond" hair and his swallowtail "black" beard gave an uncanny impression. He was clad all in black. The reflections of this sombre costume, mingled with those of his light hair, made his beard appear of a bluish black color. Hence the surname Blue Beard, by which he is known even to-day in all those parts of Brittany, Anjou and Vendee, where the ruins of his castles are still in existence. The fortune of the marshal was immense. He owned cities, villages and towns in Brittany, in Anjou and Vendee, which brought him an annual income of 60,000 livres, more than $50,000 in our money. His personal property was estimated at $1,000,000, an immense amount in his time. But all this fortune was sacrificed to his passion for art and literature, music and the stage. The services which he rendered his country might have immortalized his name had he not forever blotted his glory by murders, impieties and debaucheries, to which he was led by his pride and ambition to outdo princes and kings in magnificence, pomp and power. In order to build up a new fortune Gilles became an alchemist. But his efforts to discover the philosopher's magic in order to learn all the secrets of heaven and earth. In dark caves, by the light of consecrated candles and the rising of incense, he would, under all kinds of magical rites and incantations, invoke the demons and even try to conjure Satan in his own person. He wrote to the Evil One letters in his own blood, renounced the safety of his soul, and sold himself to the devil. But neither the infernal spirits nor their commander would answer him. The marshal despaired at his failure. There remained but one means—the blood of innocent children must surely be a pleasing sacrifice to the devil and dispose his satanic majesty in favor of his worshipper. And thus started the series of murders which Gilles at first committed in honor of the devil, but which caused him so much pleasure that later on he killed numerous children for mere lust of cruelty. He corrupted young persons of both sexes that he might attach them to him, and afterward killed them for the sake of their blood for his charms and incantations. A terror soon spread over the whole country when everywhere children disappeared who met their death in the subterranean dungeons of "Blue Beard's" castles. Their number is estimated at from 700 to 800. At length he was arrested and, being found guilty of numerous atrocities, was sentenced, with his two accomplices, to be burned alive in a field at Nantes in 1440. Popular tradition confounds his crime and atrocities with those of the nursery Bluebeard. Indeed, the real hero of Perrault's story kills his wives, while nothing of the kind is known of Gilles, whose wife, by the way, outlived him by several years, and contracted another marriage after his death. It is, however, likely that the stories of the terrible marshal were alive in Perrault's mind when he transferred this bloody picture from the gruesome abysses of medieval fantasticalness into the purer world of the fairy tale.

Treatment for Worms.

The horse with a long-established case of worms should be given a purgative before any tonic treatment is begun. Administer four drams of aloes before breakfast or on an empty stomach. Also give a warm enema of four quarts of strong soap-suds. Follow this with a course of calomel. Sulphate of iron, two drachms; gentian, four drams; and columbo, two drams; twice daily, for a week or two. Give at the same time sound, nourishing diet and gentle regular exercise.

HAY FROM OATS.

Good Qualities of Feed From Several Crops.

The practice of making hay from oats and barley is becoming more common, especially where these crops are used as nurse crops for clover. In order to get a good quality of hay from these crops they must be cut at the right stage. If they are allowed to stand until the straw begins to turn yellow their hay value is practically lost. They should be cut earlier. This is best for two reasons: It gives a good quality of green, palatable feed, and early cutting must be done in order to give the young clover plants a chance. This grain hay should be carefully cured and mowed away, and while I do not consider it as good as timothy, yet all stock except horses like it, and will thrive on it. When the crop is grown principally for feed as it does in the Western states, the berry is allowed to mature just to the dough stage, and then straw with grain makes a fairly good feed. In Washington, where not much corn is grown, they feed wheat hay almost exclusively, and I must say their horses look much better than our corn and oat fed horses.

Ventilation of the Barn.

The ventilation of barns is a matter which deserves more attention than it receives, but I will not take time to go into details. There are frequently cracks and open spaces which serve the purpose of ventilation, but which often cause drafts, resulting in colds, rheumatism and other ailments. In like manner, the drainage around the barns should be examined, as bad results often come from imperfect drainage. Then there is the watering arrangements. All horses ought to be watered before and not after feeding. The horse's stomach is comparatively small, it only contains from seven to nine gallons, so if you feed him heavily and then water him, the result will be that a certain amount of the food will be washed down into the intestines in an undigested condition. This is a frequent cause of colic and other troubles, and can easily be obviated by watering the horse when his stomach is comparatively empty.

Sorghum Equal to Hay.

Analysis shows that considering the amount of protein and fat contained in sorghum it is about equal to timothy hay as feed. In point of the amount of nitrogen, free extract, it is about half as rich in these elements as timothy. Timothy contains 5 per cent. protein, 45 per cent. nitrogen free extract, and 3 per cent. fat. Sorghum contains 4.5 per cent. protein, 23 per cent. nitrogen free extract, and 3.25 per cent. fat.

Make the Farm Profitable.

A farm properly handled should be worth more money every year. Any system of farming that sells off in crops more than it returned means bankruptcy in a few years. You can use up soil fertility and return nothing and expect to go right on raising big crops. Look at the proposition sensible now.

Humus For Potatoes.

Potato soils should be well supplied with humus to increase their capacity for retaining water. Drouth is a serious enemy of the potato crop. Humus is best supplied by plowing under clover. If stable manure is used it should be supplied a year ahead of the potato crop.

Dispose of the Stalks.

It is a good thing to get stalks out of the way as soon as possible and begin disk, but don't get in a hurry and start turning up the ground in dry and hot weather. A piece of ground turned up in the spring wet, is hard to handle all through the season.

Weed the Orchard.

Keep the ground in the orchard and garden free from rubbish and weeds. In these many of the insect pests spend an important part of their existence, and if they are destroyed many of the pests will perish with them.

Wash For Tree Trunks.

Here is a wash for the trunks of fruit trees which it is said will keep mice and rabbits from gnawing them. To one peck of lime add, while warm, one quart of crude carbolic acid, four pounds of sulphur and one-half gallon pine tar. Stir well.

Plant Trees Apart.

An orchard with the trees far apart is more profitable than the closely set orchard after the first few years of bearing. But the distance should vary somewhat according to soil and variety planted.

Motto For Farmers.

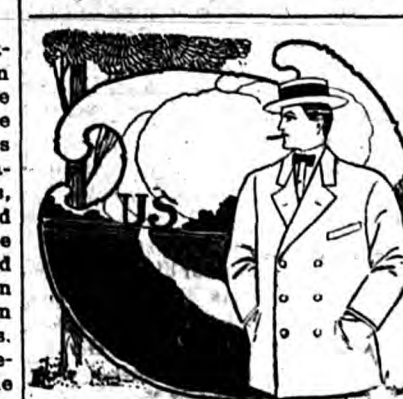

"Good Stuff Well Sold." Farmers who live up to that motto are making money in crops that others produce at a loss. Paste the words over your desk and think out the details for yourself.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out. Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scaling pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

A FAIR PRIMARY.

It is to be regretted that the question of combination should have come up in connection with the coming primaries. The people have now for the first time a right to cast a vote for the men they want nominated, and this right should not be interfered with by any effort to form combinations in the various parts of the County. If an organized effort is made by the organization to nominate any set of men for the various offices by sending the word down the line, or if any group of candidates band themselves together for the same purpose, then the people should refuse to listen and vote for those only whom they believe to be worthy of the office which they seek. Neither the organization nor the candidates should be allowed to name the ticket, but the people should decide. Let the candidates go before the people and explain their position, and give reasons why they should be trusted to serve the people, and then after all have been heard, let the democratic voters acting as a jury of the whole pass judgment. Fair play should be the motto adopted by every one, and those who are defeated at the primary election will have no complaint to make, and no reason for not stopping in and giving the successful candidate his enthusiastic support.

If however trickery and unfair play of any kind is indulged in the defeated men in the primaries will not feel so kindly towards their successful opponents. We want a fair and square primary, without manipulation, trickery or corruption and then we all want to get solidly behind the ticket nominated and give it our enthusiastic support.

It may be possible to nominate a ticket this year by manipulation but as surely as this is done an organized opposition will meet the manipulators at the next primaries and we will have a fight in the primaries that will go all the way down the line, for it is foolish and absurd to think that the people are going to stand for coercion from anybody or from any source. There can be no objection to a candidate having his opinion as to the other candidates, or to his expressing this opinion if he so desires. Nor can there be anything objectionable in the attempt of any candidate to win the support of any other candidates, but when one man attempts to trade off the votes of his friends in return for the votes of the friends for some other candidates, it is time for his friends to tell him plainly that they are glad to support him because they think he is the best man for the position, but that they are not his goods and chattels and can not be disposed of by any man or any set of men as they were personal property, and that any attempt to so dispose of them will be resisted.

The organization should keep hands off, and the candidates left with the field to themselves should play fair, and remember that the opponent of today will be the supporter of tomorrow if their ambitions are realized.

The organization has stated they intended to keep their hands off, if it becomes evident that they are not doing this then it will be time for the others to take some action in self defense and they can not be blamed for such action. What all the voters want is fair play and let the man win who is wanted by the majority of the people.

The action of the City Council on Thursday night in passing an ordinance to regulate the price of telephone service in this city seems to be just exactly the right thing to do under the present circumstances. Let us find out whether or not we can regulate this company under our charter rights, if not let us find out why not. It is the belief of many who are conversant with telephone matters that at the rate mentioned in the ordinance that the Company will be getting a fair return and more on the money invested.

LAND OF EVERGREENS

Appeal To The People Of This Section For Their Preservation.

Mr. John S. McMaster, formerly of Pocomoke City, Worcester County, Maryland, but for many years a prominent lawyer of Jersey City, has not lost his affection for the land of his birth.

He still thinks the Eastern Shore not only a "Garden Spot" on which to grow "truck for Northern markets" but also a place suggestive of the "Ever green shore" we sing about in the sacred songs. He thinks it the land of the beautiful, and that it can be so kept, if not made more so; at any rate that its natural beauty can be preserved and added to by the preservation of our evergreens.

He fully recognizes the force of an idea clad in attractive words; and in a circular headed "The Land of the Evergreens," he suggests that "this phrase be printed on picture postal of views of this section and also upon the catalogues of Real Estate dealers, and in other places. Besides attracting new comers to this section, it would tend to make the citizens of this section come to appreciate more and more the value of their Evergreens which have become almost extinct along the Atlantic Seaboard north of Sanford, Delaware." Referring to the shipment of holly, he laments the destruction of these beautiful trees and adds "if there should be any shipments of holly at all, it should be from trees far back in the woods which would likely not be seen by many people."

He suggests a remedy by "creating a favorable sentiment in the minds of the coming generations, and calls the present generation, 'tree murderers.' He insists that 'we preserve fine specimens of trees along our highways and water courses.' As relating to the preservation of holly trees in conspicuous places, he recalls that Mr. George W. Bell has a fine specimen on his place on the suburbs of North Salisbury, that money can't buy; and the vandal hand of the mercenary had better 'touch not a single bough,' when George is around.

Mr. Levin W. Dorman also has a fine tree on the highway by the side of his farm. These trees furnish fine object lessons.

The observance of Arbor Day is cultivating the spirit of tree love. The Love of the Beautiful is a more natural sentiment than the Love of the Useful. It was the primary impulse planted in humanity with the planting of trees in the Garden of Eden. The Creator did not plant a field, but planted a Garden Eastward in Eden of all manner of trees pleasant to look upon as well as good for food. It was a part of the penalty of disobedience that Adam was driven out to make the field and toil therein. It would have been the acutest affliction to have been compelled to make and toil in cities; to which, strange as it is, the vitiated tastes of men have condemned them.

It was fortunate for Adam that there were no cities. Doubtless, he would have become a reckless suicide. If he could not return to the Garden, he could bring the Garden to the field, and so can our farmers.

The love of the beautiful is well nigh, if not quite, universal. The rudest and crudest bumpkin passing along Division Street of Salisbury, will stop and gaze at the magnificent flowers decorating the Magnolia Grandiflora, or Southern Magnolia, in the yard of the M. E. Parsonage.

The "All Seeing Eye" is an eye for the beautiful. Even the trees of the forest that are not evergreen. He clothes in green the biggest part of the year. The apple or the peach in blossom with its promise of fruit "is a thing of beauty, and a joy (if not forever)" when the fruit ripens.

It was of the strawberry, with its blushing beauty fresh upon its cheeks, that some one said "possibly the Almighty could have made a better fruit, but He never has" and surely none prettier. Does not the waving wheat, the corn silk, blade and tassels, suggest nothing but acreage, and its yield, and a look for the grain market.

He, who notes the sparrow's fall, made this earth a lovely place to look at and to dwell upon. He tries still to restore to its former glory when we have despoiled and desecrated its nature temples because of our money-loving greed. It is not the love of nature, but "the love of money" which the great apostle advises us, becomes the "root" of evil growths.

Let's think a little more about the beautiful, and talk a little more about the things that God has created so wonderful / attractive.

Mr. Editor, let me ask you to promote Mr. McMaster's idea of preserving and planting the evergreens and keep our Eastern Shore as it ought to be—The Ever-Green Shore. J.

"KETCHED IN RAIN."

Got In A Coop. Novel Defense By Negro Charged With Chicken Stealing.

When Robert Allen, a young negro of Norristown, Pa., was put on the witness stand in the Criminal Court to answer the charge of chicken stealing near Willow Grove, he made this novel defense:

"You see, it was this way. Judge—I was ketchin' in de rain. De storm was frightful dat night. De lightning flashed and de thunder roared, and I wants to tell you dat I's powerful skeered of thunder storms. While I was shivering and shaking I spied dis chicken coop. I didn't know it was a chicken coop den; but when I rushed into de place to escape de storm de fool chickens cackled like dey were crazy. I tole 'em to keep quiet; I wouldn't harm 'em, and while I was arguing with 'em, de farmer came and caught me. But 'deed I wasn't after dem chickens."

His story was disbelieved by the jury, and, after being found guilty, the Court sent him to jail for six months.

County Commissioners.

The president of the Board, Mr. Win M. Cooper, reported that he was in receipt of the notice from the State Roads Commission of their acceptance of the offer of the Board to build the State Road, beginning at the end of the shell road in Salisbury District and extending to Barren Creek Mill, a distance of five and three quarter miles in all, at the bid of the Board of $56,977.90.

The Board was also requested to file bond for the faithful performance of the contract. The Board then authorized the President and Treasurer to execute the contract and file the bond.

A contract was closed with the Charles Warner Co. of Wilmington, to furnish stone for the State Road contract at fifty cents per ton f. o. b. mines.

The road engineer was authorized to contract for a Twentieth Century Grader at $135 less 20 per cent for cash.

June the 17th was set as the day for the visit of the Board to the Alms House.

GOLD IN A SAFE.

Seaford Man Purchased One At Public Auction. Found A Fortune.

Through the purchase of a small safe at a public sale over thirty years ago, Nathaniel Conway, former corner of Sussex County, who lives at Seaford, has come into a fortune.

At the time of the purchase Mr. Conway stored the safe in his stable. A few years ago he had the safe removed to his office, but being unable to open it, he moved it aside. This week he determined to find out its contents and succeeded in breaking the lock.

When the door swung open gold coins of many denominations fell to the floor. The noise attracted a large crowd and from the outside Conway could be seen gathering the gold from the floor, putting it into bags.

Mr. Conway refused to say how much gold the safe contained but says he can live the rest of his days in luxury.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

At the solicitation of many influential citizens and large taxpayers of this county, I have decided to announce my candidacy for the office of Sheriff for Wicomico County, subject to the decision of the Democratic Primaries.

—Mr. J. K. Hayman received a huge rattler from Mr. Herbert Parsons, formerly of this section, now in the lumber business in North Carolina, to be put through a process of taxidermy. Mr. Hayman has finished his work on the rattler, which looks almost as natural as though in readiness to strike. It is said that the reptile was going through the performance of swallowing a large raccoon and had about succeeded, when Mr. Parsons and a friend heard the barking of their dog and investigated the matter. The snake is 6 feet, 6 inches in length by actual measurement and about 11 or 12 inches in circumference. It will be exhibited in the show window of Higgins & Schuler.

—That old proverb that has something to say about it being a long lane that has no turn might equally well be applied to the weather. As for the rainy spell that is just at its close this is not unusual, says the weather man, and he gives some figures. "All these rainy days are not unusual for June," said he today. "Everybody thinks that it has rained some. The whole grand total of rain fallen during June is just two and three tenths inches." In June 1906, there were only a few days that it didn't rain. From the 13th to the 28th inclusive it rained continuously. Out of the 31 days in June, 1906, there were only 4 clear days. The remainder were rainy and cloudy. For the last forty years the average is 11 days of rain.

—Miss Kitty Plankette, who gives her home as New York city, fell off an electric car in Elizabeth, N. J., on October 8, 1908, when, she says, she weighed 600 pounds, and, so she asserts, in a suit brought against the Public Service Corporation, she has since lost 200 pounds as the result of the accident, to the great detriment of her value as an attraction at county fairs and the like. Miss Plankette alleges that the company's negligence was responsible for the accident, and has consequently, sued for $30,000 damages, setting forth as her main claim the loss of weight sustained and the consequent diminished profits which she commands in her profession.

—Mr. Frank Waller, while driving Mr. Claude Powell's horse yesterday around by the steamboat wharf, had a little fright by having the horse bit loose. When the steamboat blew the horse started pretty lively and as Mr. Waller pulled on the reins to stop him the bit came out which gave the horse all the power to do what it pleased. The most remarkable thing in connection with this was the fact that the horse knocked over a colored man, who works on the boat, with his feet and although both wheels ran over him he was not as much as even scared having no bruises or injuries. Some men in front of Nock Bros' Store succeeded in stopping the horse after which Mr. Waller went to ascertain if the colored man sustained any injuries.

Eat What

You want of the food you need
Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of food and more than that you need to fully digest it. You can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength. You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly. When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you. It would bankrupt us. The dollar bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

To Those About To Buy Furniture, Or Carpets, Or Rugs.

Before you actually place your orders for anything for your home, you surely want to see just as many different styles at just as wide a price-range as possible, don't you?

Well, we can show you more styles than any other store in Baltimore.

Now, please don't think this is "just newspaper claim." We really can show you more different styles of furniture, carpets, rugs, etc., and at a wider price-range than any other local establishment. Most newspaper advertising is, unfortunately, like campaign claims before an election—mere verbosity, to which no one pays much heed—but the FACTS in the present case are certainly of great importance and special interest to all who intend making any purchases for their home, and merit investigation.

And not only do we excel in the diversity of our stocks, but we give our customers the fullest protection in the matter of price, guaranteeing all our prices to be the lowest for which the same goods can be bought anywhere.

And further, we extend all who so desire the courtesy of a credit arrangement that is simple, dignified and convenient.

A Gentleman From Mississippi

By Thomas A. Wise

Novelized From the Play by Frederick R. Toombs

Copyright, 1909, by Thomas A. Wise.

CHAPTER XXI.

"IF YOU CAN'T BUY A SENATOR, THREATEN HIM."

SENATOR PEABODY was the most surprised man in Washington when he heard the junior senator from Mississippi state that no one in the committee self out of the government naval base project.

He heaped a mental anathema on the head of Stevens for saddling such a man on the senate "machine," for Langdon would of course never had been put on "naval affairs" (just now very important to the machine) without the "O. K." of Stevens, who had won a heretofore thoroughly reliable reputation as a judge of men, or of what purported to be men. The thought that at this time, of all times, there should be a man on the committee on naval affairs that could not be "handled" was sufficient to make him who revealed in the title of "boss of the senate" determine that he must get another chief lieutenant to replace Stevens, who had proved so trustworthy in the past. Stevens had lost his cunning!

As the vote of Langdon could not be secured by humbug or in exchange for favors and as it could not be "delivered," Peabody, of course, was willing to pay in actual cash for the vote. This was the final step, but one in political conspiracies of this nature—cash. But Langdon would not take cash, so Peabody had to resort to the last agency of the trained and corrupt manipulator of legislation. He would threaten.

Moreover, he knew that to make threats effective, if it is possible to do so, they must be backed up to systematically—that is, they should be made at the right time. The scene must be set, as in a play.

Senator Peabody glared at Langdon as though to convince the latter that to stand in his way would mean political destruction.

"So nobody is going to make a cent, eh? Well, I suppose you want all the profits for yourself." Turning to Stevens, who had just entered, the Pennsylvania cried:

"Do you but listen to our suddenly good friend Langdon. He wants to be the only man to make money out of the naval base. He won't listen to any other member of the naval committee making a cent out of it. Why, he—"

"Great God, sir!" exclaimed Langdon. "You are going too far, Peabody. You state what is false, and you know it, you—"

"Then you are willing that others should have their rightful share?" put in Stevens. "Oh, I understand now, senator."

"No, no, no!" cried Langdon. "You do not understand, Senator Stevens, and I must say I am ashamed to speak of you by the honorable title of senator, sir. I will not listen to any person enriching himself at the government expense, and I am your enemy, you, Peabody, and you, Stevens, beyond recall. You both know you misrepresent me."

Langdon walked over to Stevens and faced him directly.

"Do you remember, Stevens, Lorimer Hawkslee, back in wartime?"

"Yes," said Stevens, puzzled. "I remember him—a very fine gentleman."

The old planter sneered.

"Yes, a very fine gentleman! You remember he got rich out of contracts for supplies furnished to the Confederate government when it wasn't any too easy for the Confederate government to pay and when he was in that government himself. I never quite thought that the act of a gentleman, Stevens. It seemed to me to be very like dishonesty. I refused to speak to Lorimer Hawkslee in the Carroll hotel at Vicksburg, and when the people there asked me why I told them, I want to warn you, Stevens, that I'm likely to meet you some time in the Carroll hotel at Vicksburg."

Stevens backed away angrily. "I catch your insinuation, but"—he received a warning glance from Peabody and broke into a pleasant smile calculated to deceive the old planter—"this once I will overlook it because of our old friendship and the old days in Mississippi."

"You are a fine talker, Langdon," said Peabody, coming to Stevens' rescue. "But I can really see what you are driving at. You want an investigation. You think you will catch some of us with what you reformers call 'the goods,' but forget evidently the entirely simple facts that your family has invested in Alcatraz lands more heavily probably than any one else among us. You want to raise a scandal, do you? Well, go on and raise it, but remember that you will have to explain how it happened that there is $50,000 invested in the name of your son and $25,000 in the name of your daughter, Miss Carolina, not to mention a few thousands put in by the gentleman who, I am given to understand, is to be your son-in-law, Congressman Norton."

"How about that, Norton?" Peabody asked, turning to the congressman, who had followed Stevens.

"I corroborate all you've said," remarked Norton. "I can state positively that Senator Langdon knew that his money was going into Alcatraz lands, and I will swear to it if necessary, and he is as bitter as Carolina's father, feeling certain that the girl would cling to him as opposed to her parent."

Langdon made a threatening move at the congressman.

"I consider my riddance of you mighty cheap at the price," he cried.

"Come, come, Langdon," fumed Peabody. "I must get away from here to catch the midnight train. Let's get through with this character. You must realize that you cannot fight me in Washington. You must know that I can beat you any measure you want."

"I can beat you any measure you want," said Peabody.

"I can beat you any measure you want," said Peabody.

passed. I can make you a laughing-stock or a power.

"Why, my friend from Mississippi, I can even have your election to the senate contested, have a committee appointed to investigate the manner of your election, have that committee decide that you bought your way into the honorable body, the senate of the United States, and on the strength of that decision have you forfeit your seat! What a pretty heritage to hand down to posterity such a disgrace will be! Why, the very school children of the future will hear about you as 'Looter Langdon,' and their parents will tell them how particularly degrading it was for a man of your reputation to drag into your dishonest schemes your son, sir, and your daughter. For who will believe that this money was not put in these lands without your consent, without your direction, your order? Did you not sign the mortgage on which this $50,000 was raised?"

Senator Langdon waved his hand deprecatingly. "I'm learning the underhand ways of your professional politicians. I'm getting wise. I'm learning 'the game,' so I know you're bluffing me, Peabody. But you forget that the game of poker was invented in Mississippi—a native state."

"Pressing a button," Langdon summoned a servant and said: "Send in Mr. Haines. I guess I've got to have a witness for my side."

"It's no bluff," spoke Stevens as Haines entered. "Peabody can and will break you like a pipstern; he's done it to other men before you—who who tried to dispute his power. But I'll try to save you. I'll ask him to be merciful. You are not of any importance in the senate. We do not need to deal with you."

"Then why do you both spend so much time on me?" asked Langdon innocently. "Why doesn't Peabody go to Philadelphia?"

"Langdon," said Peabody, "you know my control of the senate is no piece of fiction. But I will forgive your obstinacy, even forget it."

"Look here," cried Langdon, "just because I'm a fat man don't think that I can't lose my temper." He stopped and gazed at his two colleagues.

"Now, you two men stay still one moment, and I'll tell you what really will happen tomorrow," he exploded, "and I'm only a beginner in the game that's your specialty. The naval base is going to Alcatraz!"

"Good!" simultaneously cried both Peabody and Stevens. "You're coming in with us!"

"No, I'm not, but I'll pass the bill so that nobody makes a cent, just as I said I would. I'll fool you both and make you both honest for once in spite of your natural dispositions."

Stevens and the Pennsylvania stared at each other in disgust.

"Furthermore," continued Langdon, "Alcatraz must have the base because I've known for some time that Gulf City was impossible. But some crooked senators would have made money if they'd known it, so they didn't learn it. Alcatraz, that proud arm of our great gulf, will have those battleships floating on her broad bosom and the country will be the better off, and so will the sovereign state of Mississippi—God bless it—but neither Senator Peabody of Pennsylvania nor Senator Stevens of Mississippi is going to be any better because of it. No, and if you men come to my committee room at 12:30 tomorrow noon you'll have a chance to hear how all this came about. If you are not there by that time I'll bring in a minority report in favor of Gulf City just to show you that I know how to play the game—this Washington game!"

"Come, let's go. We can do nothing with him," said Peabody to the senior senator from Mississippi.

"Well, senator, in the name of goodness, what are you going to do? How can you win for Alcatraz without letting these grafters make money out of it?" asked Haines in astonishment as the other two walked away. "What are you going to do at 12:30 tomorrow?"

Langdon turned to him and rolled his eyes toward the ceiling despairingly. "I'm blamed if I know!" he exclaimed.

Spaniards' Taste in Reading. The librarian selected a book entitled "Farming in the Ohio Valley."

"Will you give this to that young man waiting at the desk?" she said to an assistant. "He is a Spanish student learning to read English, and I think this will suit him."

"That sounds like a very unpromising subject for a student in English to tackle," a friend remarked.

"It would be uninteresting to anybody but a Spanish student," said the librarian, "but the Spaniards ran to farming literature. When training pioneers in English or any other language, something especially in the way of fiction or travel usually is recommended. But not to the Spaniards—every time out of ten it is a work on agriculture that he will make the best progress in."—New York Times.

The Philadelphia Record in the Prime of Its Strength At The Age Of 39.

That big newspaper, the Philadelphia Record, a few days ago passed the thirty-ninth milestone, and thus reached, according to modern calculations, the full prime and glory of its manhood. Still lusty with the strength and lofty ambitions of youth, it is yet steady and firmly balanced by long and varied experience, and there is today in the United States no paper more solid, careful and just in all its dealings with the public, nor at the same time any that is more alert.

Representing the opposition in a city overwhelmingly given over to the dominance of the Republican organization of the State, it nevertheless has still, as it has had for many years, the widest circulation in that city of any morning newspaper. This presents a curious problem, the only explanation of which seems to be that the Record, notwithstanding its political differences with the majority of the people of Philadelphia, is recognized by them as the best newspaper.

A CHEMICAL FACTORY

The Chemical Products of the Human Body.

In the presence of the great nervous system physicians are now like prospectors in the Klondike region. A few fine nuggets have already been collected which prove that they come from rich veins in the mountains around, and no one knows how soon some vein in them may be struck which, followed up, will yield much gold. A specimen of these golden additions to our knowledge is the fact that, among many other things, the Sympathetic actually makes drugs, or true medicine, whose presence in the blood is essential to life.

One of these is now sold over the counter like any other drug. The origin of it is from a twig of the renal (kidney) sympathetic plexus becoming at a certain early stage of development rolled on itself like a ball of twine. In time it breaks off from its parent stem, and, being enclosed in a capsule, adheres to the top of the kidney as a separate gland called the adrenal gland. These adrenals add an internal secretion to the blood whose active principle has been found to be a definite chemical substance, only 1-800 of a grain of which will uncomfortably raise the pressure of a man's blood in all the arteries of his body. This adrenalin, as it is called, is a new medicine with many valuable properties, but it is itself of such purely chemical composition that substantially like it can now be made artificially, like artificial insulin.

About two tablespoonfuls of a bitter salt like Epsom salts is daily manufactured by the liver, and then can be extracted from the bile. The bases of this salt, called taurin, are fifty-two years ago supposed by the eminent English chemist, Benzo Jones, to be like a veritable animal quinine, because he found that the taurin of the guinea pig gave both all the different chemical reactions of quinine and its spectroscopic lines as well. This substance, therefore, he regarded as our natural protective agent against invasions of the blood by micro-organisms. Since then this theory has been considerably modified by the discovery of numerous other drugs manufactured in the body which, because they can combine with acids and form salts, are called alkaloids, some of them, however, being powerful poisons. It is now generally agreed among physiologists and chemists that we daily manufacture enough poison in our alimentary canal to kill us before the day is over were it not that these poisons are neutralized by the liver and other organs before they can enter the blood and thus reach the brain and other vital parts of the nervous system.

Magic and Poison Rings.

The ring began when man thrust his finger through a hole in a pretty shell, and later learned to make rings of jet. The ring is very magical. Lord Ruthven, who helped to kill Riccio, gave Queen Mary a ring which was soveran against poison, and she generously repaid with the present of her father's wonderful jeweled dagger, of French work, no longer in existence. Whether Ruthven tooled with this magnificent weapon in the affair of Riccio or used a cheaper article is uncertain. At all events, Mary based on the ring that was an antidote to poison a charge of sorcery against Ruthven. The Judges of Jeanne d'Arc regarded with much suspicion her little ring of base metal, a gift from her parents, inscribed with the sacred names Jesus Maria.

It was usual to touch the relics of saints with rings; Jeanne d'Arc said that her ring had touched the body of St. Catherine, whether she meant of the actual saint or a relic of the saint, brought from Spain to Perlebas. The ring might contain a relic, or later, a miniature. I fear that I do not believe in the virtues or vices of poison rings. Our ancestors practically knew no poison but arsenic, and Carthaginian science can scarcely have enabled Hannibal to poison himself with a drug contained under the stone of a ring.

White Lettuce and Green Cabbage. "There is a curious difference," says a gentleman of St. Louis who spent a large part of the year in England, "between the English and ourselves in the way of growing cabbage and lettuce for the table. With us the cabbage is encouraged to form a head, and when the leaves show a disposition to spread the gardeners sometimes tie a string around the clump to make the leaves grow together. In England, on the other hand, the efforts of the growers are directed toward keeping cabbage green, and they pull the leaves apart so as to expose all portions to the light and give them a dark, rich color.

"We like our lettuce green, but the English want theirs headed up and blanched, so as to have it as white as our cabbage, in other words, they simply reverse our practice, and instead of white cabbage and green lettuce they like green cabbage and white lettuce. Of course it is only a matter of taste, but still the difference is rather curious."

How Mary Stuart Looked.

How did that fascinating witch of all time, Mary Stuart, really look? Andrew Lang thinks he knows. In the London Academy he says: "Mary was a tall, lithe beauty, with a bright pallor of complexion, very delicate, thin arched eyebrows, wide apart, a lofty brow, bright russet hair, red hazel eyes, long and narrow, with heavy white eyelids, a subtle mouth with delicate curves, a beautiful chin, and a rather long, straight nose."

The Whole Neck of the Woods. "Did your ancestors have a family tree, Mr. Maguire?" "Family tree, is it, ma'am? One of me ancestors controlled the entire timber privilege of the Garden of Eden."

Answered According to His Polity. "Sometimes," said the great humorist, "I think my jokes are so good I 'pose that's my modesty." "No," explained a friend, "that's your politeness."

CITY'S GREEN BAG

And Mayor's Recommendations Sent To The Council. Improvements.

On Monday night Mayor Harper sent in his appointments, which were as follows:

City Solicitor, E. Stanley Toadvin. Chief of Police, Woodland O. Disharoon.

Assistant Police, Jas. W. Kennerly. Night Police, James Cronch. Police Justice W. A. Trader.

Street Commissioner, G. Edward Sorman.

L. Atwood Bennett, Esq., who has been the Counsel for the city for several years sent in his resignation to Mayor Harper, and Mr. Toadvin was appointed for the vacancy. The Mayor in his message compliments highly the retiring counsel.

Mr. Toadvin, the appointee is one of the best known lawyers in the City and his appointment meets with general satisfaction. The many difficult legal propositions that come up before our Council need the best advice that can be obtained and the appointment of a man of Mr. Toadvin's recognized ability is a wise one and will give confidence to the general public that the legal end of the City is in competent hands.

All the appointments were confirmed by the Council with the exception of the police force. It is said that some of the ordinances passed by the Council have not been enforced as strictly as they should have been, and the appointments were held until some investigations were made.

We give some extracts from the Mayor's message:

I recognize that the increase in inhabitants and improvements mean a corresponding increase in responsibility, and as our citizens are rapidly increasing in number, and public improvements are keeping pace with the needs of the hour, I realize the responsibility placed upon me as Mayor of Salisbury, and you as its law making body. The questions that arise for solution should be approached with deliberation and conservatism, in order to bring about the best results for our city and its inhabitants.

We have had laid by the abutting property owners this year at least five miles of cement sidewalks. Both sides of Division Street from the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railroad to the Humphreys Mill pond; both sides of Main and Dock streets and both sides of Camden Avenue to the city limits are improved by a continuous stretch of cement pavement. This not only beautifies the respective properties in front of which it is laid, but makes travel for the pedestrians easier and gives the city prestige as one of progress and improvement.

Besides the permanent improvement there has been considerable improvement in the way of shelling several principal residence streets, and also shelling some streets in the suburban section of city that had not before been shelled, and because of these permanent improvements some sections of our city have not received the attention that they should possibly. These improvements have kept our street force very busy, and I desire to commend Street Commissioner, George E. Sorman for his faithful services in improving our streets. The grass being taken from a number of our streets would greatly enhance their appearance.

I would state at this juncture, that because of the grade of our streets having been raised and lowered in different places to conform to the newly established grades by the permanent street improvements, and because of this fact the intersecting streets cannot be properly kept until the grades of the said streets are made to conform. This matter should be taken up at once and as it appears that our Street Commissioner has about all that he can do, because of the extra responsibilities and work brought about by the taking in and improvement of new streets, I recommend the appointment of a city engineer to co-operate with our Street Commissioner for the purpose of establishing said grades to all the principal streets at least in the city, and have a permanent curb laid along said streets upon the grades so established.

This appears to me as necessary from a sanitary standpoint and will also beautify the streets, and encourage the property owners to lay cement pavements in front of their respective properties. I also recommend the appointment of a city engineer who in conjunction with the Street Commissioner can look after the streets, so that it may not be necessary to call upon the Mayor or some member of the Council every time something needs doing to the streets, but this branch of the work should be conducted by this department.

I desire to recommend the passage of proper ordinances along these lines with such regulations as may be deemed wise by our Honorable Body. An ordinance preventing the excavation on sidewalks and street crossings; this appears to me to be very important in benefiting the sanitary condition of our city; An ordinance providing that all teams drive on the right side of the street; this will be quite a benefit to our public thoroughfares that have been recently improved; An ordinance preventing any sewerage other than surface waters in the mill ponds or lakes of the city.

Because of the accident to Humphreys Mill dam, it occurs to me that now would be an opportune time for the widening of this thoroughfare, and I therefore recommend to your Honorable Body that an ordinance be passed to this end, or the same be accomplished in whatever manner may be seen fit by the Council.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB

Meeting. Reckless Driving Condemned. Pledges To Help Enforce Law.

At a meeting of the Automobile Club, held in the office of Mr. Jay Williams, the President of the Club, the question of fast and reckless driving of automobiles was taken up and thoroughly discussed. It was brought to the attention of the Club that a number of automobile owners here were driving their machines through the crowded streets at a rate that is dangerous, not only to those who drive them and use the streets for other purposes of traffic, but was a menace to drivers of automobiles as well, since in some of the short turns in our streets it is practically impossible to know when a machine is coming in an opposite direction.

Resolutions were adopted condemning reckless and fast driving on the streets of Salisbury, and further pledging the association to assist the authorities in enforcing the laws and ordinances on this subject.

The resolution adopted is as follows: Whereas, The Automobile Club of Wicomico County stands pledged to the support of the highest interest and welfare of all the people, and for the preservation of the safety of travel on the public highways, whether in town or country, and

Whereas, There has been some complaint made that some of the automobiles have been driven in Salisbury at a dangerous speed, now therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Automobile Club of Wicomico County, that we as a whole do most solemnly pledge ourselves to uphold the law and ordinances of this State and City, and to do all in our power to put an end to all reckless driving of automobiles, and to assist the officers of the law in the prosecution of anyone violating the law pertaining to motor vehicles. And be it further

Resolved, That we are opposed to reckless speeding, not only because it is dangerous to the general public but also because it is not so enjoyable and safe to the autoist. To this end we therefore pledge ourselves to use reasonable care and prudence in driving our cars, and to respect the rights and protect the safety of all other using vehicles of any sort on the public highways, whether in town or country. To this end also, be it further

Resolved, That a speed not exceeding five miles an hour shall be maintained at the intersection of Dock and Main Streets, Main and Division Streets and Division and Church Streets, in the city of Salisbury.

Mr. Jay Williams acted as chairman of the meeting and Mr. Walter Disharoon secretary.

POLITICAL CIRCLES ALIVE

Applications Being Filed. Many Candidates In The Field.

As the date for filing applications to the State Central Committee declaring their candidacy approaches much activity is seen in political circles. From all sections of the County candidates are getting ready to file their applications, and the ordinary man who does not think about the primaries wonders why it is that he has so many friends.

Wicomico Counties are noted for their hospitality and good fellowship at all times, and the nearness of an election or primary does not in the least lessen this good feeling. As this is a new deal all around some of the men seeking office seem to be at sea, as they recognize that it takes a longer arm to pull down the "plums" than it did to carry a district, but they have the satisfaction of knowing that if they do carry the primaries they will not be dealt out in a convention. Now that it is known that the cost to each candidate will be but a trifle there is no reason for anyone to grumble on that score. Judging from present indications the people will have a fair number of men to choose from, and they should be looking over the fields and finding out what they can about the character and ability of the different men, and make up their minds to vote for the man who in their opinion will best serve them, and not simply because a man has asked for their support or because a man is a good fellow and you would like to help him. Merit alone should be the rule adopted in deciding upon who we want in public office.

This is the first year that the plan of making nominations by the direct vote of the voters in the party, and they should show that they are fully competent to decide for themselves who to trust with public office. It is to be hoped that good men will announce their candidacy from every section of the County so that the voters can have some consideration to the geographical distribution of the offices as well as vote for men who they believe to be qualified to fill the office in a proper way. It will be up to the voters to loyally support the ticket that is nominated, and do all they can to bring about the ticket election this fall, as well as the duty of the managers of the party to spare no effort in bringing about the same result.

It is a good thing that the candidates must get out and make themselves known to the people all over the County, for in this way the people will get to know them, and have an interest in them, instead of waiting to be told who they are after the ticket is made out. Also it will put the men in closer touch with all sections of the County and thus give them an opportunity to find out what the people want so when they go into office they will be better prepared to carry out the wishes of the citizens.

If a district wants representation let the men in it influence some of its able and well qualified men to file their application as candidates and not leave it to a man who they themselves know is unfit to hold the office for which he is asking the support of his district and the men in the county. Under the convention in order not to offend men who got in the field as a candidate they were often given delegations to the convention and the very men who were in favor of this taking steps to see that they are not allowed to get on the ticket. This will not do now and only men qualified to fill the office should receive support or backing from anyone—but be given some good friendly advice instead. It is not meant to imply in any of this that any man who has or who will hereafter declare himself as a candidate for an office is not the proper man to nominate.—All that is wanted by Democrats is the men whom the majority of the people feel will best serve the party and the public interests.

Another fire was started in the plant of Mr. L. P. Coulbourn around the pond, and occurred in a very short time after the first. No damage was done in either case, but if the fire in the cellar of Toulson's Drug Store had occurred later in the evening, the entire upper end of Main and Division Streets would have been in danger.

—Mr. Chas. Day, who spends a few days with his parents in this city, returned to his work in Virginia the latter part of this week.

TELEPHONE NEWS

Several Plans Discussed. Franchise Not Granted.

The telephone situation still occupies a leading place in the minds of our citizens, and much seemed at times to be doing in the matter.

After the passage of the ordinance fixing $15 and $25 as the legal rates for the City, there seemed to be a disposition on the part of many to see what effect this would have on the Company, and have it tested in Court if need be before any action was taken looking towards the building of a new line. Another proposition that is supposed to have been taken—or being taken up—is the one to see if the Diamond State Telephone Company would lease their plant at a reasonable figure. On Wednesday evening a meeting of the citizens was called to take up the question of forming a new Company. Owing to the fact that very few were aware of a meeting being called there were but a small number present. After the meeting, the City Council was asked to grant the new Company a franchise to do business but the Council did not take up the matter. What will be the final result of the different plans and negotiations is hard to tell at this time. There are some who believe that the right way to solve the question is to first try to regulate the charges under the ordinance recently passed, and believe that until this is proved to be a failure nothing should be done. Others are in favor of proceeding at once to organize a new company and put it into operation at once in the belief that it is of no use to wait on the Diamond State or the slow process of a law suit if it should be necessary to enter into one.—If the plant of the Diamond State could be leased on the right basis, this would solve the whole question. There is no desire on the part of most of our citizens to have two telephone Companies operating in the City if it is possible to prevent it, and while all of them will be glad to help such a company both by subscribing stock and using their phones if it is found that the Diamond State Company refuse to be reasonable and give Salisbury a fair deal in rates. Whatever may be the final outcome of the present plans and negotiations, one thing that the citizens of Salisbury have made up their minds to do and that is that they will never submit to pay a higher rate than $15 for residential phones and $25 for business.

While there may be some differences of opinion at present as to just what is the proper step to take in order to get justice and fair treatment in rates, there is no division in the determination to resist the demands of the Telephone Company to pay a higher rate than the one agreed to, and if found necessary all will get squarely behind a new company and use it instead of the Diamond State.

Drydock And Gen Mac. Race

It is understood that assurances have been given by the owners of the paces, Drydock and Gen Mac, that the race will come off at Salisbury on July 21st, as scheduled. This is the race that was arranged after the Fair at Pocomoke last year and is for a purse of $2000, the winner to take all. The horses are well known all over the Peninsula and it is expected that one of the largest crowds that ever attended a race of this kind in this locality will be present. The Wicomico Fair Association has been working hard to get the ground and buildings in shape to accommodate the horses and crowds expected on that day. The Grand Stand, Judges Stand, Track and Stables are about completed. The track is said to be one of the best on the Shore, and record time will probably be fast when the races start.

Mr. D. C. Brown, owner of Drydock, has brought his horse up and is training him over the track. Mr. Wm. J. Hall, owner of Gen Mac, will probably not bring his horse up until about the first of July.

If the interest taken in this race is as strong as it is reported to be, there will be close to 10,000 people present to see the horses start. This interest in the race is said to be strong from Cape Charles clear up the line, as well as extending in other directions. It is expected that the railroads will make special rates and make provisions to satisfactorily handle the crowd. In addition to the race between Drydock and Gen Mac, the Fair Association is arranging to have other races on the same day.

Two Mysterious Fires.

Wednesday evening's quiet was broken twice by the shrill shrieks of the loud fire bell. The first alarm was occasioned by a fire starting in the cellar of the drug store occupied by Jas. M. Toulson. As this cellar is caused the cause of a fire there is hard to ascertain. It is said that the condition of this cellar is such as to be a menace to property in that part of the town. The cellar is in the same condition practically as it was after the fire which gutted this building several years ago. The old debris never having been cleaned up.

Another fire was started in the plant of Mr. L. P. Coulbourn around the pond, and occurred in a very short time after the first. No damage was done in either case, but if the fire in the cellar of Toulson's Drug Store had occurred later in the evening, the entire upper end of Main and Division Streets would have been in danger.

The death of Mr. Sewell R. Fields at the Johns Hopkins University last Tuesday was a great shock to his many friends. Mr. Fields was taken to Baltimore a week or two ago, being accompanied by his brother, Mr. Ray Fields. For the first few days reports to the family seemed to indicate his ultimate recovery. Although there were many eminent physicians in attendance they were unable to reach an exact cause of death, which was due to some deterioration of the blood. Mr. Fields was a son of Capt. James Fields and was highly thought of in this community. He was a hustler and soon became a partner with Mr. George Bonnds in the grocery business on Main Street. He was 84 years old. He was a member of the M. E. Church, South Sunday School under Mr. Barr, who has a very large class in this church. The deceased is survived by his father, two brothers, J. Raymond and Carol Fields, and one sister, Mrs. Ralph Murphy. Funeral services were held in the M. E. Church South, at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. W. A. Cooper and T. M. Beale will conduct these services.

The remains were taken to Shad Point Cemetery for interment, Mr. Geo. O. Hill officiating.

Girls Fight Fire, Using Their Hats.

A half dozen young ladies, picnicking in the woods at the foot of the mountain below Pen Mar, near Hagstown, Md., became heroines in the eyes of the residents of that section by helping to save the property of B. R. Barlip from destruction by fire.

With their hats the young ladies dipped up water from a run and threw it on the flames.

THE PINE BLUFF

Sanatorium Ready For Reception Of Patients Finely Located.

The Pine Bluff Sanatorium, organized and carried through to a successful end, has been finished and will soon be opened for public use. This Sanatorium Company was organized with a capital stock of $10,000 of which $5500 has been taken up and paid. Dr. Geo. Todd and some few others have been pushing it for the past three years. The buildings are situated near Cherry Hill, on a bend of the Wicomico river and in a beautiful location with magnificent pine trees surrounding them.

This movement and campaign against one of the dread diseases—tuberculosis—should be approved and aided, not only by good wishes, but by financial backing and support. This institution is one that has been needed for some time and one which should receive the proper support and patronage from the public.

The matron of the Sanatorium, having caught two large turtles this week prepared a delicious "set out" on Thursday evening to which the directors and the editors of the three papers in this town were invited. Inclement weather prevented a very large attendance.

The directors wish to have a meeting soon to take up several questions of importance. All wishing to visit this Sanatorium are very cordially invited to attend.

Middletown Farms' Fine Products.

Middletown Farms Dairies have won an enviable reputation for their Acacia Butter, for this famous brand of Butter now enjoys a large sale in New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic City, as well as in Wilmington and through out the Peninsula. In the latter city the firm has two stores and four delivery wagons in constant service. Acacia Butter is known in hundreds of families in practically every town in Delaware and the Eastern Shore.

Since the firm installed an ice plant at Middletown some months ago they have added ice cream to the products of their Dairies, and even in so short a time their ice cream has come to be known as the very highest standard of excellence, pure, wholesome and delicious. The firm makes shipments at any time and in any desired quantity to all parts of the Peninsula.

Boy's Bad Dream Started A Panic.

A little Italian boy's bad dream caused a small panic in the chapel of St. Bridget's Catholic Church, New York City, where 1200 persons were attending a mission service. The lad, who had fallen asleep in one of the rear pews, suddenly awoke and cried "Fire! Fire!"

In a moment the congregation made a rush for the doors. Father Michael Angelo, who was at the altar, cried to them that there was no fire and bailed those in the front seats; but those in the rear pews continued their rush to the street. Fortunately all reached the street in safety.

Predict Small Peach Crop.

According to Prof. T. B. Symons, State entomologist, who, with Prof. J. B. S. Norton, State pathologist, has just made a trip throughout the State, the farmers of the Eastern Shore will realize not more than 15 per cent. of their present peach crop, while in western Maryland about 50 per cent. of the crop will be saved.

This small percentage is said to be due largely to the heavy frosts during the early Spring, and also to the "peach leaf curl," which is far more prevalent this year than in the past. The spraying under the direction of the State Horticultural Department, has, however, greatly reduced the injury from the curl leaf.

If His Big Toe Wiggles Hubby Is Telling A Lie.

Envy, meany, miny, mo. Catch your husband by the toe. He it wiggles call him down. Envy, meany, miny, mo.

Lawrence, Kan., June 17.—Almet Skeesica, Ph.D., professor of physiology at the University of Kansas, has made a most important and interesting discovery.

After years of observation and experiment, Professor Skeesica affirms that whenever a man tells a lie he wiggles his great toe.

The learned Professor declares it is impossible for any man, by any exercise of will, to prevent one or the other of his big toes from wiggling when he is telling a falsehood. Reflex nervous force which the will cannot control moves the toe. This reflex force is excited by the man's subconscious radiomental activity.

But the explanation is somewhat abstract and technical. To put it plainly, the man who is falsifying thinks to himself "You know you're a liar," and then his toe wiggles.

The witty Professor Skeesica says shoes were given to man to conceal his thoughts. He adds that if all men went barefooted the race would soon be regenerated, freed of guile and falsehood; for what's the use of lying if you know you're going to be caught?

In reaching the grand truth which he gives to the world—and more particularly to the better half of mankind—the Professor made some experiments with monkeys. He found that the reflex action is stronger and more widely distributed in monkeys when they lie or are deceitful than in man. One experiment is particularly interesting.

Professor Skeesica placed a lump of sugar in a baboon's cage and went away. When he returned the sugar was gone. In angry tones he asked the baboon:

"Where is that lump of sugar?" The big ape chattered loudly, plainly trying to say "I haven't seen any sugar." While it chattered both its toes wiggled violently. But, more, the baboon, still chattering, placed the top of its thumb on the tip of its nose and wiggled its fingers.

The Professor says this wiggling can no more be controlled by the will than can blushing. No man can prevent a blush from mantling his cheeks—that is if he has not lied so much that he has forgotten how to blush.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever: nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SHEDDING TATTOOED SKIN.

How Modern Science Removes Flesh Pictures.

Here's glorious news for those persons, who yielding to a personal whim, a fad of their particular set, a youthful freak of the fancy, or what you will, had recourse to the art of the tattooer—and now bitterly regret it.

For modern science has come to the aid of those who have long sought a safe remedy for the removal of the supposedly indeleble designs they once were proud of.

Until quite recently attempts to remove tattoo marks have not only met with failure, but with failure in a distressingly disastrous form.

Criminals, who have a curious leaning toward the art which sailors worship, have discovered that an odd design upon the breast or arm may easily be used as a mark of identification and will be among the best patrons of any school for removal of artistic designs in gorgeous colors from the human skin that may be established.

Asked if there is any danger attached to the new process, the professor will say with every show of frankness—

"None in the world. The process is so simple I can easily explain it so even the novice in matters of a surgical nature may understand."

"First of all it involves the removal of the skin on which the tattoo marks are imprinted. If the design be a circular, oblong or square affair, or if it be one of those zigzag designs the Japanese are so fond of dashing off, it will be necessary to tattoo the unpunctured skin so as to cover the entire surface of the square, oblong or circle of flesh to be removed."

"The process is gone through with the use of an anesthetic and after cauterizing, that makes it insensible to the pain of the flesh. After three days the old skin will slough off."

"Everything used is harmless—nothing is employed that can be absorbed in the system. The parts are bandaged lightly. There's no inflammation, no pain. It requires but three days to heal and when the old skin peels off it's just like removing the skin from a particularly mealy, well cooked potato."

"It doesn't draw blood. For the patient the ordeal is less painful than the healing of a boil, and indefinitely less painful and annoying than having a tooth filled."

"Will it leave a scar?"
"Certainly not; not if an artist does the work."

"With proper care there is absolutely no reason why there should be any mark left to show that a varicolored design had once been a distinctive feature of the anatomy of the individual operated upon. Why the methods used by the old timers in healing wounds are responsible for many a scarred face that would otherwise be free from any noticeable blemish."

"Carbolic acid should never be used, nor should soap and water."

It will be noted the professor mentions none of the articles employed in the working out of the new discovery. He declares it would be dangerous to do so—dangerous for any amateur who might attempt to indulge in a little obliteration of his own account.

It may be news to some persons that the human skin is coarser than that of most animals—that it is, in fact, one-eighth of an inch thick, but the tattooer, who undertakes to remove marks supposed to survive time, will tell you that he knows this to be a fact.

The Princess Chimay could display a few creations of the tattooer's art which might shock even those who have read accounts of her various exploits with unconcern.

Many persons have found it profitable to be tattooed. For instance, there was a Captain Contentenus, Barnum's original tattooed man, as he was called. The Greek Albanian was advertised as the only man who ever had been tattooed from head to foot and was exploited extensively throughout the country as the most wonderful curio of his time.

It became quite the fashion to exhibit tattooed men in museums and inevitably the tattooed woman. Then came the limit—the "tattooed child," that was "born that way!" The child was the daughter of tattooed parents. Although she bore no unusual marks when she came into the world, she was actually painted artistically and exhibited as a tattooed baby—the only one in captivity, or something of that sort—when she was less than a month old.

About this time freaks for side shows were in demand and tattooed men and women became quite the fashion.

Electricity was brought into play to improve the tattooer's art. Small instruments containing from 8 to 100 needles were employed to give life and color to the most delicate designs.—New York Herald.

Artistic Depression.

Academic art, perhaps in a greater degree than art generally, has of late years entered upon a period of difficulty. Many artists have appeared in the papers as being in financial difficulties, and even some dealers, and the Royal Academies of Scotland and Ireland at least have experienced a certain amount of dislocation.—Yorkshire Post.

Prince Adalbert.

Prince Adalbert, the son of Emperor William of Germany, is 34 years old, still heart free and regarded by many as occupying a particularly warm place in the affections of his parents, perhaps because his service at sea has taken him so much away from them. He has been all over the world, and everywhere has made friends. His disposition is of the sunny character, and, comely and stalwart, he is just the lad to fill the role of hero in a romance.

Candidates For Judge Here.

Chief Judge W. Laird Henry, who is a candidate to succeed himself, and Mr. Jno. R. Pattison, of Dorchester, one of the candidates for the same office, were both in Salisbury this week. While here, both of these gentlemen saw a number of their friends. Dorchester is a storm center on the Judicial office, as there have been three candidates, and the fight there is a pretty warm one. Judge Henry advocated the use of the Crawford County plan of nomination to decide the matter, but the State Central Committee decided to hold the primaries under the old-convention system. As Wicomico has no candidate for this office, it is generally conceded that her delegates to the Judicial Convention will support the successful candidate in Dorchester primaries.

THEME:

"God is Able."

By REV. BASIL BOYS, M. A.

"Our God, whom we serve, is able to deliver us."—Daniel 3:17.

Sometimes when a great difficulty presents itself in our lives, or when we are feeling more keenly than usual the power of the great enemy of our souls and his manifold temptations, we act as if we did not fully believe in the almighty power of God, and in His being able to give us the help, the strength, the guidance, the deliverance we so sorely need.

The words of deep-trusted trust in God uttered by Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in their hour of danger should inspire us with confidence and hope. They bring before us a wonderful instance of the "ableness" of God.

The story is a familiar one; we know it well, yet it will repay further careful study and thought, for the more we contemplate the marvelous faith and confidence in God of these three men, the calmer certainty with which they confidently asserted their belief in His power to deliver them, their quiet, restful submission in the event of His not exercising that power on their behalf, the greater will be the courage and confidence and hope with which their conduct will inspire us.

From the time they first entered the presence of this Eastern despot to the critical moment when they were bound and cast into the burning fiery furnace, their trust in God, far from failing them, seemed to increase, and they left us for our endless comfort and assurance an instance of how God rewards those who thus unflinchingly lean wholly on Him.

It is improbable that any of us will ever be called upon to undergo such a severe trial of faith, but the lesson for us is that in any lesser trials, in difficult circumstances, in times when trouble comes and we are well-nigh overwhelmed by crushing sorrow, in our daily and hourly contests against the powers of evil, we must have a strong and unflinching confidence in God.

We may not be able to see how the deliverance is to come, we may be almost sure that the fiery trial has to be gone through; but then is the time to show the reality of our faith, to rest entirely upon God, and to say each one individually, "My God, whom I serve, is able to deliver me."

This is only one verse out of many where the "ableness" of God or of Jesus Christ is solemnly asserted in the Bible. In other places they are told He is "able to succor them that are tempted" (Heb. 2:18), "able to make all grace abound" (2 Cor. 9:8), "able also to save them," the uttermost that came unto God by Him" (Heb. 7:25), "able to keep from falling" (St. Jude 24), "able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think" (Eph. 3:20).

The late Dr. Joseph Parker regarded St. Paul in the last of these references as "dazzled, overwhelmed, made speechless by the infinite capacity of God to transcend all mortal prayer and finite imagination," and he suggested that the words might well be used as a kind of refrain after each petition in the prayer the apostle has just been praying.

What a splendid refrain for all the prayers we offer to God! What is our special and particular need? More holiness? More power? A greater restoration of God's pardon and forgiveness for all that is past? Or is it for quietness, confidence and self-control for the life in the present, with all its trials, anxieties, and, possibly, entanglements and difficulties? Or is it hopefulness and restfulness and trust in God for the unknown future, big with possibilities and fraught with boundless opportunities for abundant work in His service? To all and every petition let us add the words, "Able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that I ask or think."

May God enable us each one to learn the lesson of faith and trust conveyed in such a verse, or in the splendid expression of confidence and hope given expression to by Daniel's three friends. Having responded to His claims upon us for service, let us go forward, knowing that "all things work together for good to them that love God." Assured that "He is able," let us rest calmly, knowing that He will one day make plain all we cannot understand, and that in regard to all present difficult circumstances, He will either find for us a way out, or give us the needful grace and strength to bear whatever is His will. "He is able."

What we can do to-day depends on what we did yesterday.

A warning against a real danger is always the work of a friend.

The man who is unequally yoked with unbelievers, always has a heavy load.

Faith is trust with its coat off and its sleeves rolled up.

The test of relationship to Christ is obedience to him.

HORSE HURLED TO DOCTOR.

Wise Animal Know What to Do When It Got Colic.

Bloomington, Ind.—The most sensible horse of local record was found here when the family animal of Samuel Johnson became sick with colic, and of its own accord made its way to the veterinary eight blocks away. Find Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winchester, Ind.—"Four doctors told me that they could never make me regular, and that I would eventually have dropsy. I would bloat, and suffer from bearing-down pains, cramps and chills, and I could not sleep nights. My mother wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking one and one-half bottles of the Compound, I am all right again, and I recommend it to every suffering woman."—MRS. MAY DIX, Winchester, Ind.

Hundreds of such letters from girls and mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them have been received by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health by Lydia E. Another One.

"There was a new voice over the phone asking for you, Johnny," said the cashier gravely and with a shake of his head. "Another voice on the phone, another heart palpitating with fond expectancy, another victim to a young man's vanity, another

"Another spell," interrupted the bill clerk. "Another relapse into dottiness. Why don't you go and see a specialist?"

"I fear me that you are a butterfly," sighed the cashier. "The sad conclusion is borne upon me that you fit from flower to flower, slipping the sweetness of each."

"Am I to blame if they won't let me alone?" asked the bill clerk, plaintively. "If they will run after me what can I do? I can't be rough and brutal with them, it's not my nature. I suppose I might spurn them when they come too thick; but, honest, I just hate to do it."

"Don't tell me," said the cashier severely. "You're a flitter. A plain flitter."

"Just as long as you don't call me a quitter," said the bill clerk.

"I wouldn't try to make a heartless jest of it," said the cashier. "It's nothing to grin about. If I won the trifling affections of a sweet young girl I'd hang right to them until death pried me loose. That's the way I did, as a matter of fact. You ask the madam."

"I will some time," said the bill clerk. "I'm rather curious to hear what she will have to say about it. But, honest, do you think a fellow ought to stick to one?"

"He tied up to the first fellow he got a little foolish over he's a flitter, and never know it. I've got up with quite a few of 'em myself, and it seems to me that they get better all the time."

"Lothario!" said the cashier. "Think of the wretched and blighted young lives! Think of the rosy cheeks growing wan and pale over your flittering!"

"Anything to oblige," said the bill clerk. "I'll take a day of some time and think of 'em."

"He hasn't even the curiosity to ask who called him up!" said the cashier. "The fact that a trusting female is pining in his absence is nothing to him. Only one of many, I suppose."

"That's the idea," said the bill clerk, pleasantly. "I can't keep track of 'em all. Another thing. I've lost a good deal of my curiosity since I've been around this office. It's like calling four aces with a pair of deuces."

"You speak darkly and in riddles," said the cashier. "I can assure you, however, that the lady seemed anxious. She was not satisfied with the explanation that you had gone to lunch. She wanted to know how long you had been gone and when you would be back. She informed me that she was about to start downtown and would probably look in."

"Come off!" said the bill clerk, incredulously.

"Also she inquired if Saturday was the pay day in this office and she wanted to know if I wasn't your employer. I told her that I was, assured her that my confidence in the slight repulse in me would be held sacred. Johnny," the cashier demanded, seriously, "why don't you pay the poor, hard-working woman what you owe her? She has to pay her grocery and her help and she can't afford to be boarding you right along on mere promises."

"Do you mean to tell me that Mrs. Canford called up and made any such break as that?" said the bill clerk, in some agitation.

"You heard what I said, didn't you?" said the cashier. "Why don't you pay her?"

"Because I've paid her already," said the bill clerk, triumphantly. "I'm not only paid up, but I'm a week in advance. That was one time I fooled you."

"Well, she's got a level head to make you pay in advance," said the cashier.—Chicago Daily News.

Riches Found by Accident.
Peter Terreros, a mulatto, discovered by accident the Real del Monte deposits in Hidalgo, and at the end of 12 years had won $10,000,000, and a Spanish title of nobility; and to give another example, two brothers named Bolados, who earned a miserable livelihood by carrying fuel, found in a crevice opened by earthquake, an enormous block of silver worth $1,250,000.

Beware of Mind Wobbling.
To a certain degree we are the masters of our fate and the captains of our souls—as the poet says. By strong will and fidelity to ideals we can rise superior to circumstances. The trouble is that many waste time in letting their minds wobble. Get over the undecided habit of mind wobbling.

To Melt Iron in a Moment.
Heat a piece of iron (a poker will do), to white heat, then apply to it a roll of sulphur. The iron will immediately melt and run into drops. This experiment is best performed over a wash basin of water, allowing the melted iron (really sulphide of iron), to drop into the water.

A Word to the Unwile.
Beware of the "good thing" that comes to your door and tries to break in.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. POSITION.

In order that the people can vote intelligently in the coming primaries they should know for what the different men who are in the field stand.

Take the legislature for instance;
there are a number of important matters that have been occupying public attention for some time, and in all probability will be issues in the coming session of the legislature. One of these questions will be the Local Option Bill similar to the one introduced at the last session. This is a bill giving the people a right to vote on the question of whether or not intoxicating liquors shall be sold in their community. There are a number of people in this County who have decided opinions one way or another on this question and they will want to know how the men who are asking for their votes in the primaries are going to stand if nominated and elected to the legislature.

Another question will be the one of increased representation for Baltimore City. The City is going to ask for additional representation and is going to fight for it with its whole strength.
This is becoming more and more evident every day, and both parties are apparently making strong efforts to send their strongest men up this year to lead the fight, and also show that Baltimore City is represented by men from whom no public menace need be feared. The entire State will join heartily in commending a move on the part of Baltimore City to send good men to Annapolis and had this been the custom in the past the City would now find less opposition from the Counties to her demands for increased representation. As matters now stand however we do not believe that the Counties will be willing to increase the representation of Baltimore City to a size that will make that City a dominant factor in our law-making body.

One of the questions which seems likely to be taken up by the coming legislature is one that will appeal strongly at the present time to the citizens of Salisbury—and that is the formation of a Public Utility Commission. This measure will of course meet with strong opposition from the corporations of the state which do not want their affairs regulated at all.
It is believed by many that the time has come in Maryland when the public needs protection from semi-public corporations, and that at the same time the corporations need protection from ill-advised and vicious laws.
Both the public and the corporations are entitled to fair and honest treatment—the public is entitled to have telephone rates, gas and electric rates and other things which by the nature of the thing is practically a monopoly at the lowest possible rate that they can be produced for, so as to return to the corporations a fair and reasonable return on the money actually invested. These are only a few of the important measures, of which the voters should have definite knowledge as to how the candidates for the legislature will act if elected.

The importance of the office of County Commissioner has been pointed out before in the ADVERTISER, and it is necessary that men are nominated who are competent to deal with the many knotty and important questions that come up every day in the affairs of our County. Over eighty thousand dollars is collected and expended each year by the Board of County Commissioners and if incompetent men are nominated to this office, the taxpayers will have to pay the bill. Every voter should carefully consider the character and qualifications of the candidates before he decides for whom he is going to cast his ballot.

In all offices we want competent, honest and fearless men who will serve the public first, last and all the time, and it is up to the voters to see that only men who answer properly to this are elected.

WATER WAVE ON

National Brewers Association. Plans To Stem Tide Reform Of Saloons.

Brewers of the United States are in a grapple with the forces of local option and prohibition that threatens the very life of the business. This fact was not only hinted at, but openly declared before the evening sessions of the annual convention of the National Brewers' Association held recently at Atlantic City and delegates had no hesitation in expressing their belief that the present convention must take radical steps toward heading off the prohibition wave if the brewers wish to remain in business. Public business sessions and a big public meeting were held, at which attempt was made to show that the brewers are united in their attempts to cure abuses, but the greatest struggle for raising defenses against the cold water invasion is being made in secret conferences, at which every phase of the question is being discussed.

The executive meetings are being held behind closed doors and not even the lesser lights of the business are being kept informed of anything more than the common sense reached by the leaders, but enough has leaked out to have a pretty accurate line on the strenuous effort being made to stem the growing wave of prohibition.
While the delegates discussed the need of the organization in open meetings the need of brewers directing the public into the channel of saloon reform instead of leaving them to continue their big crusade for total wiping out of the saloon the powerful men of the organization are considering in secret the much deeper problem of ridding the saloon keeper of the load of political domination which is believed by many to be the real solution of the growing problem.
The American brewer will never be in a position to successfully fight the people who are now demanding total prohibition until he and his avenue of distribution, the saloonkeepers, get out of politics and place themselves in a position where they can defy the political ringmasters who are making the saloonkeeper their scapegoat," one delegate is reported to have said.

DELAWARE FARMER

Vomits Lizard. Terrible Pains In Stomach For A Year Ended By Appearance Of "Ground Puppy."

Troubled for nearly a year with terrible pains in his stomach, Clarence Thompson, a young farmer who lives at Springfield Cross Roads, vomited up a strange lizard known as a "ground puppy," last night. The appearance of the cause of distress has probably saved the man's life and there is now every probability that he will recover from the strange disease.
The animal, which has been living in his stomach all this time is most strange, and although often spoken of by old persons, has been but rarely seen in later years. Its length was about three and a half inches and its appearance is that of a miniature bull dog. With a body like a lizard its short bowed legs and curious snout and head is an exact miniature of an undersized dog from which it gets its common name in this section of "ground puppy." The animal is said to haunt field wells and muddy streams.
Thompson's troubles began last summer after a day in the hay fields, when he remembers going to a stream and lying over while he drank the water. At the time he felt a peculiar twisting in his throat, but thought little of it. In a few weeks he began to suffer excruciating pains in his stomach and from that time has passed few hours free from pain. At times the gnawing became intense and the strong, healthy man began to lose flesh and was becoming but a shadow of the robust farmer he once was. All sorts of medicines and treatments were tried with no effect and his family and friends began to believe that he was suffering from cancer or consumption.
Tuesday he was taken violently ill with intermittent pains. About noon he began to vomit. Believing that he was going to die, his friends gathered in the room when finally in the midst of one of the most tacking of the fits, he discharged the small lizard like animal from his mouth. One of the neighbors killed the thing.—Philadelphia Press.

BOLGIANO'S
RE-CLEANED
COW PEAS
Will Make You Rich

Sow them for hay crops—for forage crops after grain crops—on vacant land. Put Cow Peas in every available piece of land you have. They will wonderfully increase the value and productivity of your entire farm. We strongly recommend the sowing of Mixed Cow Peas. They are composed of Black, Whip-poor-will, Clay, etc. The upright growing varieties will hold up the vining varieties, and will produce much better crops of vines and larger amount of forage.

J. BOLGIANO & SON, Baltimore, Md.—The Agricultural Department at Washington referred me to you for Alfalfa, Cow Peas and Irish Cobbler Potatoes.

We are headquarters for Cow Peas. If your merchant can't supply you with Bolgiano's Re-cleaned Cow Peas, write to us and we will tell you where you can get them.

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have suffered with indigestion, have been sorry for it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it. Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nausea, flat, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dizziness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it.

Ordinary peptic "dyspepsia" tablets, "physicians," etc. are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Peppin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all. Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.

Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

Our Guarantee

Use to you Kodol today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say, that it has not done you any good, return this bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to best use in a family. The large bottle contains 34 times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

SEE THE STOCK OF GOMPRECHT & BENESCH

We never urge anyone to buy our goods hurriedly—we never hesitate to advise seeing the goods and learning the prices at other stores. We know that we carry larger assortments than any other Baltimore store—we know that our prices are always as low as, and often much lower than, prices elsewhere for the same articles.

We know these FACTS will prove the strongest argument in our favor, and will offer the surest inducement to purchasers to come back and buy from us.

There is one thing we do urge upon every one who reads this announcement—see our stocks and learn our prices before you purchase anything for your home elsewhere.

Perhaps you are thinking now of "looking round" today for something for your home—furniture, carpets, rugs, lace curtains, portieres, window shades and the like.

If so, be sure to inspect our assortments.

CHAPTER XXII.

LOBBYISTS—AND ONE IN PARTICULAR.

WASHINGTON HAS KNOWN MANY

lobbyists in its time, and it

striking increase in legislation that aims to restrict unlawful or improper practices in business, the awakening of the public conscience, has caused a greater demand than ever for influence at the national capital, for these restrictive measures must be either killed or emasculated to a point of uselessness by that process which is the salvation of many corrupt manipu-

Predatory corporations, predatory business associations of different sorts

representatives on the field at Washington to ward off attack by any means that brains can devise or money procure and to obtain desired favors at a cost that will leave a profitable balance for the purchaser. When commercial

favorite maxim, "The People Forget," feel that they have outwitted the latest reform movement and see "the good old days" returning, the professional

measures themselves, most stringent measures. They push these measures ahead until someone pays up, then the bills die. The lobbyist knows all about these "strike" bills, but does not frown on them. No, no. Perhaps he helped draw up one of these bills so that, with the aid of his inside knowledge of his employer's business, the measure is made to give a greater score than might otherwise have resulted. The bigger the score the bigger the fund advanced, of course, for the lobbyist to handle. All this also helps the lobbyist to secure and retain employment.

Not all the Washington lobbyists are outside of congress. The senator or congressman has unequal facilities for oiling or blocking the course of a bill. Sometimes he confines himself to the interests of his own clients, whoever they may be. But sometimes he notifies a bill that promises to be a pretty good thing for the client or of some other member if it passes. Then he begins to fight this bill so actively that he must be "let in on the deal" himself. This is very annoying to the other member, but the experience is worth something. He has learned the value of observing other people's legislation.

The outsiders (members of the "third house") and the insiders have a bond of freemasonry uniting them; they exchange information as to what members of both houses can be "reached," how they can be "got to" (through whom) and how much they want.

This information is carefully tabulated, and now prices for passing or defeating legislation can be quoted to interested parties just as the price of a carload of pork can be ascertained at

this system that leads grafting members of short experience to wonder how knowledge of their taking what is termed "the sugar" got out and became known to their associates. Did they not have pledge of absolute secrecy? Yes, but the purchaser never intended to keep the information from those of his kind. Lobbyists must be honest with each other.

Not all lobbyists are men. The woman legislative agent has been known to occupy an important position in Washington, and she does yet. She is hard to detect and frequently more principled than the men similarly en-

A woman with a measure of social standing would naturally prove the most successful as a lobbyist in Washington because of the opportunities

her position would afford her to meet people of prominence. And just such was Mrs. Cora Spangler, with whom the Langdons had been thrown in contact quite intimately since their arrival at the capital.

Pretty and vivacious, Mrs. Spangler bore her thirty-seven years with uncommon ease, aided possibly by the makeup box and the modiste. Her dinners and receptions were attended by people of acknowledged standing.

Always a lavish spender of money,

this was explained as possible because

band, Congressman Spangler of Pennsylvania. That this "fortune" had consisted largely of stock and bonds of a bankrupt copper smelting plant in Michigan remained unknown, except to her husband's family, one or two of her own relatives and Senator

Peabody, who, coming from Pennsylv-

mately.

He it was who had suggested to her that she might make money easily by cultivating the acquaintance of the new members of both houses and their family, exerting her influence in various "perfectly legitimate ways." He argued, for or against matters pending in legislation. The Standard Steel corporation kept Mrs. Spangler well supplied with funds deposited monthly to her account in a Philadelphia trust company.

She avoided suspicion by reason of her sex and her many acquaintances of undoubted rank. Senator Peabody was never invited to her home, had never attended a single dinner, reception or musicale she had given, all of which was a part of the policy they had mutually agreed on to deepen any suspicion that might some time arise

as to her relation to the Standard

Steel company. It was well known that Peabody had been put into the company by Standard Steel to look after its interests.

He had found Mrs. Spangler clearly valuable thus far as a source of information regarding the members of congress, which she obtained largely from their families. He was thus able to gain an idea of their associations, their particular interests and their aspirations in coming to congress, which proved of much use to him in forming and promoting acquaintances, all for the glory of Standard Steel.

Senator Holcomb of Missouri told

Mrs. Spangler at an afternoon tea con-siderately that he was going to vote against the ship subsidy bill. Senator

Peabody was informed of this

two hours later

by a note written in cipher.

Insurance cannot help but wonder how large a full-grown, well developed Chinese woman's foot would be compared with an American woman's. The Empress is said to have a singularly well-shaped foot that is not exactly dainty, but which it attractively arched, and so seems not so large as it perhaps is.

Among the Hakkas, or hill people, in the south of China, there are unbound feet. Here the women are somewhat larger of frame than the usual Chinese woman, but their feet are about like those of our Southern women, shorter and broader than those of the usual Northern type in the United States.

So it looks as if China is to have her new woman if the overthrow of a custom centuries old and the establishing of girls' schools are to count for anything.—New York Times.

Gas Pressure.

A manufacturer of high-grade gas ranges in Columbus, O., tells me that the gas pressure in the various states varies so much that it is impossible to regulate a range without sending an expert along with each order that perfect satisfaction may be assured. This costs money. Consequently ranges come high. And about one purchaser of such a range out of a billion understands how to regulate the flow of gas, even when the "mixers" operate as they were designed to do. There is always either too much gas or too much air. To have perfect cooking there must be an equilibrium of the two agents. If too much air the burners pop out; if too much gas the utensils are covered with soot. What you want is a royal blue flame, without a bit of white light.—New York Press.

FOOT BINDING IN CHINA.

Gratuitous Measures Enforced to Abolish This Custom.

Jealous of Western civilization and the larger life for the women of China, the ruler of that vast empire has issued an imperial edict against the binding of girls' feet. But China is enslaved to customs, and to make a law against the custom of foot binding plunges the Emperor into a sea of trouble.

What if Congress were to enact a law against the women of the United States wearing corsets? Would the women of fashion stop wearing them, especially now that smaller waists are required by the newest styles? But the Emperor has his way out, and so another edict goes forth. It says that no man shall hold an imperial or a governmental position whose wife or whose daughter has bound feet. Despite their loveless marriages, the women of China are ambitious for their husbands' political success and work quite as hard as the wives of American politicians in their interests. Moreover, the Empress of China is giving generously of her own fortune to establish schools for girls, even those affording higher education, and one of the fundamental laws governing these schools is that no girl whose feet are bound can enter.

The Empress herself is a large-footed woman who has never countenanced the custom of foot binding and who has exerted many efforts to overcome the custom, which is one of the oldest and most rigid in China.

In the past twenty years many attempts have been made by the Chinese themselves to do away with foot binding. The strongest and most gifted native writers have used their pens and their influence against it. Societies, both Christian and non-religious, have discouraged the custom. Missionaries have exerted their every effort, but to no avail, seemingly.

Arthur H. Smith, D. D., in his book, "Village Life in China," that is a veritable series of pictures, wrote: "It is well known that the greatest empire who ever sat upon the throne of China, dared not slack his authority in an attempt to put down this custom, although his father had successfully imposed upon the Chinese race the wearing of the queue as a badge of subjection."

"A quarter of a millennium of Tartar rule seems to have done absolutely nothing toward modifying the practice of foot binding in favor of the more rational practice of the governing race, except to a limited extent in the capital itself. But a few it away from Peking the old habits hold their iron sway. The only impulse toward reform of this useless and cruel custom originated with foreigners in China, and was long in making itself felt, which it is now, especially in the central part of the empire, beginning to be."

The practice of binding the feet of Chinese girls is one of the first things that foreigners learn about China. The fact that American girls "bind" their waists is one of the first things that Chinese girls hear about us. But one of the strongest traits of Chinese character is illustrated by this one custom that narrows the life and usefulness of a person. It is the innate readiness to endure and even inflict great pain and prolonged torture in maintaining a custom, even one that has no other significance than personal appearance.

A distinguished writer on Chinese customs has said: "There is no other non-religious custom peculiar to the Chinese, which is so utterly opposed to the natural instincts of mankind and yet which is at the same time so dear to the Chinese and which would be given up with more reluctance."

Female beauty cannot help but wonder how large a full-grown, well developed Chinese woman's foot would be compared with an American woman's. The Empress is said to have a singularly well-shaped foot that is not exactly dainty, but which it attractively arched, and so seems not so large as it perhaps is.

Many A Salisbury Reader Will Feel Grateful For This Information.

When your back gives out: Becomes lame, weak or aching; Your kidneys are "in a bad way," Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. Here is local evidence to prove it:

A. R. Lohner, 318 Williams Street, Salisbury, Md., says: "I feel safe in saying that anyone who uses Doan's Kidney Pills according to directions will find relief from kidney trouble. For at least thirty years my kidneys were disordered and as I am obliged to work in a draught and do much heavy lifting, it was hard for me to escape kidney ills. My back often became very weak and lame and the kidney secretions annoyed me on account of their irregularity in passage. It was finally my good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply at White & Leonard's drug store. They brought me great relief and I have used them off and on during the past ten years with great benefit."

Women Who Are Envid.

These attractive women who are lovely in face, form and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or kidney troubles show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at John M. Toulson's.

MY COUNTRY BOYS LEAD CITY BRED

City College President Says the Latter Are Awed by Their Very Environment

NOT SO WITH THE RUSTIC YOUTH

He Comes to the City with a Magnified Sense of His Own World Importance—Air of Poorest Tenement
No Worse Than That of Farmhouse.

New York City.—Dr. John H. Finley, President of the City College, in an address at the Church of the Holy Communion, told what in his opinion were the qualities which have made the lad from the country so successful in winning his way to the top in the cities. He said that the forces of nature and the majesty of great spaces give the country-bred lad a magnified sense of his own importance. Such a sense, he said, never came to the boy of the cities. Where the forces which went to make up the great city showed the city lad his own smallness and limitations.

"I have often wondered why the country boy proves so successful," said Dr. Finley. "It is not his physique, nor his intellect, nor because he has dwelt in the midst of the eternal mysteries of creation and growth. The city boy has seen the great bridges span the rivers and has talked to the men who have built those bridges. Electricity has been explained to him. He has not the awe of it as the country boy has of the bolt from the sky which has killed his friend. Who of you, born in the country, does not remember the great world beyond your horizon?"

"This is the disadvantage of the city boy—the unquiet and pettish narrowness which brings home to him that he is swallowed up in the crowd, an insignificant atom in the throng. These are the forces which shape the city boy's limitations."

"And the great spaces magnify the importance of the country boy. Is the city boy above the country boy? Is a question often asked. I know something of both, for I was born and bred in the country. The city boy is not so different from the country boy. He is better off. I have said so before, many times, and have caused unfavorable criticism in so doing. Why, the air of the poorest tenement is seldom worse than that in a farmhouse in winter."

The contests held in this city, in which 80 per cent. of all the classes must enter, show that in the most congested parts of the city the best showing is made. This is not an argument for congestion, however. This environment of the city is made by man. No feeling of majesty is inspired by it in the mind of the city boy.

My subject is the education of the city boy. And the first question is, Who is the boy? There are many answers. The doctor who attends his coming into the world and his leaving it will tell you he is a complex physical mechanism.

The lawyer gives you another answer—that the boy is an immature person, a word of the generation ahead. The politician will tell you he is a potential mischiefmaker, a human automobile. The economist says of him that he is the producer and the consumer. And the poet comes along and says the boy is some one who has come from another world, trailing a train of flowers, to the manufacturer he is the hand and to the preacher the soul.

To the teacher he is all of these, a potential producer, a hand, a brain, and a soul, a being in whom all the past converges and the future diverges.

"I once received a letter from John May, in which was inclosed a photograph of him when he was a little boy. He said: 'Take good care of that photograph, for he is a dear boy. He has much before him.' It was a great man looking back."

"GRAVEYARD OF CLERGYMEN"

The Rev. Mr. MacGregor, Late of New York, Denounces City.
Pittsfield, Mass.—The Rev. Charles F. MacGregor, assistant pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, of New York City, who accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of this city, characterized New York in the pulpit of his new charge to-day as the "graveyard of clergymen."

Mr. MacGregor mentioned specific instances in which talented men have been lost to the world after accepting New York pastorates.

Europe Wants Our Grapes.
Washington, D. C.—Vice-Consul L. H. Hunter of Geneva sends a clipping from a Swiss newspaper from which it is noted that more modern methods of grape culture are being adopted in Switzerland. The old vineyards have been abandoned by growers, in fighting which the Government has already spent $2,500,000. Now it is decided to replace the old vines with the more robust American vines. To aid the planters in the substitution the Government has voted an annual appropriation of $25,000, to extend over a period of sixty years.

Why Europe Chuckles.
The Americans cannot complain in their present financial embarrassment in the cause of Europe of a little secret chuckling, of a good deal of open headshaking and of some rather flippant comparisons of business methods. Modesty never was the strong point of our economic cousins, and their millionaires and their trusts and their record-breaking and unbreakable prosperity have been their glory since the days of the great boom.

UNCLE SAM'S WATCHFULNESS.

Trying to Protect Fast Vanishing Species and Alligators.

A century ago the waters and lands now in the possession of the United States government were the habitat of the world's biggest fish, animals and reptiles.

The buffalo was monarch of animals that roamed the plains, the seal was worth more money than any denizen of the deep, and the ferocious alligator ruled without contradiction in the swamps of the South.

The day of their native supremacy is gone, and now they would actually suffer final extermination but for the protecting hand of Uncle Sam.

The United States government has made protection of its seal fisheries an international policy; it has established a national park for the remnant of the herds of buffaloes and it will soon move to prevent the last saurian in the swamps of the South from yielding its life to the pest hunter.

It is only in late years that sentiment has grown up in favor of the alligator. That unwieldy, ugly creature was once regarded as a foe to the public order and his complete extermination at a stroke would have seemed the best thing that could happen, but the commercial uses to which the tough alligator hide can be put has made a new sentiment and soon national legislation will be invoked to restrict indiscriminate killing of the swamp king.

Not mere sentimentalism alone argues for protection of the last survivors of Uncle Sam's lower giants. The buffalo had to go from the plains in order to make way for man, but he should have been driven into herds and preserved in numbers. The killing of the seal to get the skins is a laudable and proper use of the animal, provided the killing is done with such system that the race of seals be not exterminated. So with the alligator.

Take the lives of as many as are needed for the purposes of commerce, but do it according to far-sighted wisdom.

The alligator is nearly wiped out, but the big saurian multiplies quickly and in great number, so that with only reasonable protection he would soon flourish again.

Not so long ago the swamps, rivers and bayous of Florida and other Southern States fairly abounded with the creatures. Formerly they got as far north as Georgia, but now they are only found on the southern coast line of the extreme Southern states. They are still numerous in the Everglades for the reason that it is hard to get at them there.

An early explorer says he found alligators so plentiful in Florida that once at a point where the St. John's river is half a mile wide they were packed so closely that had they kept still he could have crossed the river on their scaly backs.

As Florida began to settle, the alligators were killed off for the protection of the people. The reptiles had preying tendencies that made them a constant nuisance. Ordinarily they subsist on fish, but when hungry they did not hesitate to come inland and steal whatever came within reach of their huge tails, a blow from which would mean death of lambs, pigs and even small calves and colts.

Every time the gator attempted to cross a posse would be formed and a trail of alligator carcasses would be the outcome of a 10 days' hunt.

It was not, however, until the saurian developed commercial possibilities that the real devastation began. Trunks, traveling bags, purses and all kinds of leather novelties could be made from alligator hide. The traffic took such a sudden bound that in a short time Florida was sending north about 2,000,000 skins annually.

The favorite method of hunting was to go out at night and blind the reptile with a strong light from a lantern strapped to the head of the hunter. Thus equipped he could get within a few feet and use his heavy revolver or short gun with deadly effect. At the present time, despite the decimation, there are still enough alligators to make the business of hunting them a profitable one to hundreds of Indians and whites.

In addition to the sale of the skins there is a demand for baby gators, which are stuffed and sold.

Although the alligator is a great swimmer, he gets around on land but slowly. Yet they have been found 15 miles inland. They can live out of water for an indefinite period as long as they get plenty to drink.

The alligator is a long lived old customer, and frequently reaches the age of 150 years.

According to present plans Uncle Sam proposes to have a certain district set apart where it shall be illegal to kill the big saurians except at certain times and in regulated numbers. In this way it is hoped they will be preserved indefinitely.

The buffaloes that remain in the United States are already under protection. Only such action prevented the grand old monsters of the plains from being wiped out altogether.

Sign of Secrecy in Greece.
The rose is the emblem of secrecy in Greece, and was formerly hung over the table where guests were entertained, in token that nothing heard there was to be repeated. Hence the expression "amb rose."

Longevity Due to Hard Work.
The most remarkable thing concerning Arthur Burrows, England's oldest barister, who has just entered his ninety-sixth year, is that his longevity seems due in no small measure to hard work, says "Tit-Bits." For years he defied himself the pleasure of a day's holiday, excepting on Sundays, and even now may be seen three or four times a week at his chambers in Lincoln's Inn. Followers of the simple life point with pride to Mr. Burrows, who is a son of most homes of history.

PRaised FOR HEROISM

Salisbury Boy Rescues Young Man in Surf.

At the risk of his life, young Herman Downing, of Salisbury, performed a daring feat of heroism at Ocean City last Sunday, in diving in the surf after a young man, who had become exhausted in the water by his efforts to counteract the force of the undercurrent.

It has seldom been the lot of the crowd at Ocean City to witness such heroism, and after young Downing had manfully conquered the huge breakers and the frantic struggles of the drowning man, he succeeded in reaching one of the piles of the pier, where, he holding on to the apparently lifeless form of the young man, received a great ovation from the throats of the crowd of spectators assembled on the pier.

People, to whom young Downing was a total stranger, crowded around him and landed him to the clouds for the noble work he had so fearlessly executed, and said very emphatically that they would secure a Carnegie Medal for him.

The victim of the surf was Frank R. Clapsaddle, 17 year old son of Frank R. Clapsaddle, of 1025 N. Carey St., Baltimore. He was one of a party of ten Baltimoreans, who went to Ocean City Sunday morning for the opening of the season. While swimming near the pier, Clapsaddle was caught in an eddy formed by the counter-current of the water under the pier. The current was too strong for him, and after being nearly exhausted by his efforts, he called for help. Mr. Downing was nearest to him at the time and went to his aid.

Mr. L. L. Dirickson, of Berlin, throwing off his outer garments plunged in to the rescue of the exhausted young man, and managed to put a rope, which had been secured by Mr. B. Frank Wagaman and others, and had been tossed to Mr. Dirickson around them, by which they were hoisted to the pier.

Capt. Jones and the crew of the Life Saving Station, having responded to the call for help, with the assistance of Dr. Mosley, of Philadelphia, who was a visitor at the resort, and Dr. Townsend, of Ocean City, resuscitated young Mr. Clapsaddle.

—Mr. Wilmer S. Burbage, of Powellville, was in Salisbury, Monday.

WOMAN MURDERED

In Talbot, Nude Body Found in River. Roberts Caught in Farm House.

The authorities all over the State are straining every resource to capture Emmett E. Roberts, supposed to be a special newspaper writer and author and former newspaper correspondent in Washington, who is suspected of the brutal murder of Mrs. Edith May Thompson Woodill, formerly of Baltimore, near McDaniel, Talbot county.

The details of the crime that have been learned make the murder one of the most sensational in the annals of Maryland criminology.

The woman's body was found in a creek near her home. It was nude and had been weighted in order to keep it below the surface of the water. The skull had been crushed in with some heavy weapon, probably an oar.

Roberts Disappears.

Simultaneously with the discovery of the body after the woman had been missing several days Roberts took hasty departure from the scene of the murder.

Mrs. Woodill was 20 years old and possessed of rare beauty. She was noted among a large circle of acquaintances on the Eastern Shore for her charming manners and brilliant accomplishments.

Her home was in Los Angeles, Cal., where she went when she was married about one year ago. Last week she returned to the home of her foster-father, Capt. Charles H. Thompson, which is on a creek near McDaniel Station, on the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic railroad, in Talbot county. She was a great favorite with Captain Thompson and her husband brought her East to spend the summer on the pretty Eastern Shore farm.

Much in Her Company.

Soon after her arrival Roberts was noticed with great frequency in her company. It appeared that the pair had previously formed an acquaintanceship and they were seen together a great deal in the few days before she disappeared.

Roberts owned a little farm adjoining that of Captain Thompson and located on the same creek. He went there last month and told the neighbors that he was from Washington and was a special writer for newspapers in that city. He had a great deal of mail, and while he was apparently of a retiring and quiet disposition was generally understood to be highly intellectual.

Last Saturday Mrs. Woodill went to Easton and had some dental work done by Dr. Norman R. Smithers.

When she left Captain Thompson's she said that Roberts would see her safely home, as he was going in the same direction. She was to have met him at Royal Oak Station and to have sailed from there home.

Roberts did meet her there, but had a horse and carriage. Helping the young woman into the vehicle, he turned the horse's head toward St. Michaels and drove to that town.

When Last Seen Alive.

When they reached there Roberts sent the team to a stable and escorted Mrs. Woodill to a pier where his launch was moored. They boarded this boat and headed for the little creek that passes their homes.

The last seen of Mrs. Woodill alive was when the little launch left the St. Michaels wharf.

The explanation given by Roberts that the cause of her absence was due to a trip she had taken to Baltimore did not satisfy her relatives and they started out to make a search.

It was dusk when the first clue to a solution of the mystery of her disappearance was secured. Two of the men were thrashing through the bushes on the side of the creek and saw a light object several rods away half submerged in the water. They rowed closer and one of them detected the outlines of a human hand.

Other searches were summoned from the points on the creek where they were engaged in the hunt and several boats were soon at the place where the body was located.

The remains of the woman were almost entirely nude. She had been stripped probably after she had been murdered. The skull was crushed in, and those who viewed the corpse thought the blow must have been delivered from behind, judging from the position of the wound.

Attached to the waist of the woman was a stout cord, and to this was tied an old kettle which was filled with stones. This had been arranged by the slayer of the unfortunate woman in order to sink the body to the bottom of the creek. It would probably have been a success, but for the fact that the stream is shallow.

The shallowness of the water made it easy for the tides to carry the body close to shore and thus disclose it to the searchers.

Roberts was trapped Thursday night by the authorities of Talbot County as the home of John McQuay about ten miles from St. Michaels.

PLENTY OF CANDIDATES

Applications All in. A Fair Field For All.

The last day for filing applications of candidates, as set by the Law expired on Friday of this week. For most of the offices a good number of applications have been filed, and if all pay the assessment as required the people will have a good number of men to select from this year. The candidates and their friends are all getting busy and from now on the interest in politics will be on the increase until after the primaries. Almost every district in the County will be represented for the various offices, and the voters will not be compelled to make their choice from any one section. In several of the Districts more than one have filed their application and in several two or three for the same office. Just what the effect the candidacy of more than one from the same district will have upon the final result is hard to estimate at the present time. At the present time the candidates seem to be a little at sea and do not know just what to do but most of them are making strenuous efforts to see the people all over the County and get in touch with the voters themselves. It is said that a number of the candidates have been in town trying to get the organization interested to make their fight for them, but as yet there does not seem to be much inclination on the part of the organization to take an active part in the fight as an organization, but that they feel inclined to let the different candidates fight on and the voters to decide for the party. Whether or not this will last until the primaries are held or not is a question which is being asked by a number of the candidates. As there is no fight against the organization in the County and no one contemplating such a step it would seem to be the wisest course for them to let the candidates fight it out. There is no opposition to the organization here nor will there be unless it attempts to dictate the ticket, now is there the slightest reason for such a fight now or in the future if it does not try to be the whole thing, but if it is known that the nominations are to be influenced by organized manipulation then it is probably that those who are not fortunate enough to be in the good graces of the leaders will resent their action, and the next primaries might see a strong anti-organization fight. The complete list of applications filed with the Committee is as follows:

THEME:

"The Root of All Evil."

By REV. EDWARD O. FLAGG, D. D.
"For the love of money is the root of all evil."—1 Timothy, vi., 10.

Not money in itself proves such a curse, but the love of it. It may be made the source of all that is good.

When, however, it becomes our master instead of our servant misery untold is the consequence. Its personal as well as general harm is exemplified by the Grecian story of the woman who asked of soldiers returning from a battle the gold tipped shields which they wore. Complying with her request, she was buried beneath their weight.

The inordinate love of money is a blow at religion. In the earlier days of the faith the younger Elyse remarked: "See, how these Christians love one another." Afterward through the worship of gold rather than of Him who proclaims, "The silver and the gold are mine," when the Church increased in temporal riches there was a decadence in spiritual wealth. While the "poverty of the poor may be their destruction," it may be their salvation, particularly when associated with pious content. The choicest benedictions of Christ were showered upon the poor. They were His willing hearers and apostles. He for their sakes became poor, not having where to lay His head.

The love of money is a restriction upon the nobler aims of life. Young men often do not finish their college course, lured by the exchange. Many seek a diploma that they may better obtain a position in the way of financial advancement. The refining and elevating power of education is mainly lost sight of. While a hidden love of gain may be largely an incentive, it will usually be found that the author and inventor, the scholar, the poet and the artist love their cloister research and labor of all kinds more for the attainment of inward satisfaction than for purely worldly profit.

Consider the poverty which great thinkers and artisans have voluntarily encountered that they might benefit their age or secure that indescribable inward approval worth far more than gems or stores of gold. Devotees of wealth do not usually seek the purer fountains of human advancement. The patriot soldier has nothing in common with the mercenary. While the laborer is worthy of his hire and under the law to the priests was given the fat of the animal, yet unworthy of the royal dignity of the clerical office is he who looks more to benefits than to the high calling of God which he has assumed.

The love of money is a foe to the nobility of any human or heavenly pursuit. The office of the conscience is silenced; moral responsibility becomes a dead letter; trustees and guardians lose sight of their obligations; those appointed to protect become violators of the people's interest; all financial institutions are in constant jeopardy through the untrustworthiness of their officials. Temptation seems to dethrone reason as well as conscience; a country becomes governed by clever tricksters rather than honest statement; all fiduciary affairs, whereon negotiation depends, become the opportunity for fraudulence.

Almost every item on the calendar of criminality is traceable to the lust of wealth. While coin may be appropriated to the grandest conceivable uses, it is too often polluted to the basest; too frequently it flashes in the assassin's weapon; it nestles in the bosom of the promoter of some gigantic financial scheme or of him who sits on the bench or who is appointed the custodian of the public treasury. Retribution will surely befall those who are wedded to gold, while blessings felt to the very soul will alight upon those who with wealth appreciate their responsibility. To counterpoise an infatuation for riches we should inscribe on heart and mind in letters of gold, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Liberty Through Self-Surrender.
"Free to serve." The words were uttered by a thoughtful woman as she saw a great vessel loosed from its stays and plough its way into the ocean. The ship was made for the ocean. In the water only could it find its native element. It was in bondage until it was launched. It found its freedom in its preparedness for service.

A man is like that ship. He is not free when he is in his own, withheld from God. His truest freedom comes by submission, his emancipation by surrender; he has a man's will only when he submits his will to God's will. God's will is the ocean to him, his native element. Once in that element, once fully yielded to God, he, like the ship in the ocean, is indeed free. He is "free to serve," and serving finds his highest liberty.—Rev. G. B. F. Hallock, in Presbyterian Banner.

YOUR BACKACHE WILL YIELD

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rockland, Maine.—"I was troubled for a long time with pains in my back and side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged, and I thought I should never get well. I read a testimonial about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and thought I would try it. After taking three bottles I was cured, and never felt so well in all my life. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all my friends."—Mrs. WILL YOUNG, 6 Columbia Avenue, Rockland, Me.

Backache is a symptom of female weakness or derangement. If you have backache, don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so safely and surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Cure the cause of these distressing aches and pains and you will become well and strong.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has restored health to thousands of women.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

DEMOCRATS SHOULD VOTE.

The Democrats of this County should show that they are interested in the men who are to represent them on the ticket this fall by coming out and casting their votes for the men they think will best represent their interests after the election. As the entire county is thrown open for the nomination district lines should not be considered in the same way as they have been in the past. A voter who votes for a man simply because he comes from his district or section is not properly performing his duty to the people of the county. Qualifications and character should be the questions for each voter to settle rather than district or home pride. When the man from a district is as fully qualified as some other candidate from some other section then it is but natural and right that this man should receive the support of those who know him best, but when it is evident even to the prejudiced minds that some other will best serve the interests of the community, then district lines and home associations should be thrown away. The list of nominations is now complete and the various men should be weighed carefully before a vote is promised or pledged. The number of votes cast in the coming primaries will be a test as to whether or not the people want to make their own nominations. Under the convention system it is well known that only a very few took part in the ante-election work, and left this to those who were in the habit of making out the ticket. The voters now have the power, if they choose to exercise it, of naming the men they want, and if they appreciate this they should go to the polls and vote for their choice. A big vote will show that the Crawford County Plan, means more interest is being taken in party affairs by the voters than has been the case under the old system, and the nomination of good men will show that the people are fully qualified to do their own choosing. Every Democrat should vote and should vote after due consideration of the merits of the men who have offered to serve the people in public office. It is to be hoped that wherever it is possible that geographical distribution will be observed without loading up the ticket with weak and incompetent men. No district should limit its vote to its own borders or vote for men because they are what is usually termed "home" men nor should the voters pick out the men from any one section if good men can be found in other districts of the County. The candidates should be willing to make the voters familiar with themselves and what they stand for. It is to be remembered that if this is done now, before the primaries, that the hardest part of the work is over for the successful candidates. After the nominations were made out under the old system, it became at once necessary to make the voters familiar with the nominees, as but few had any part in nominating the ticket, but few were familiar with the men nominated, and it was imperative that they be made familiar with them and their qualifications after the nominations. Under the system of direct voting the voters will have an opportunity of knowing the men before they are nominated and this part of the work will be largely over. As the opponent in the primaries will be the supporter and worker for the successful man after the nomination, no man can afford to do anything unfair or shady. In a good, manly and fair fight the defeated men will—or at least should if they are worth anything—graciously submit to the verdict of the people and at once put their shoulder to the wheel and work for the election of the successful men. If unfair methods are adopted by any candidate, it will be sure to react upon the man using them, either at the primaries or after. And if for no other reason than the good of the party the voters should out any man who stoops to adopt them. The candidates ought, and doubtless will, remember that there is another day coming, and are committed now will surely "come home to roost." Let the candidates take—and give—in fair play, and the people will vote for the men each one thinks will prove the most acceptable official.

BOLGIANO'S RE-CLEANED COW PEAS Will Make You Rich

Sow them for hay crops—for forage crops after grain crops—on vacant land. Put Cow Peas in every available piece of land you have. They will wonderfully increase the value and productivity of your entire farm. We strongly recommend the sowing of Mixed Cow Peas. They are composed of Blacks, White-poor-wills, Clay, etc. The upright growing varieties will hold up the vining varieties, and will produce much better crops of vines and larger amount of forage.

Eat What

You want of the food you need
Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it. If you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength. You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly. When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you. It would bankrupt us.

The dollar bottle contains 2½ times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. G. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

CHAPTER XXIII.

"THE BOSS OF THE SENATE" GAINS A NEW ALLY.

MRS. SPANGLER would have been flattered herself on guessing correctly as to Senator Peabody's uneasiness had she heard in his apartment at the Louth Napoleon hotel, where he had hurriedly taken Senator Stevens on leaving the Langdon house.

Not only would the two senators lose their immense profits on the Altacoola transaction if Langdon persisted in his opposition, but they would lose as well the thousands of dollars spent by their agents in purchasing options on hundreds of acres and, where they could not get options, the land itself.

This land would be on their hands, unsalable, if the base went somewhere else. Moreover, they feared that Langdon's revolt would bring unpleasant newspaper publicity to their operations.

"There's only one course to pursue," snapped Peabody as they took off their overcoats. "That is to be prepared as best we can for the very worst and meet it in some way yet to be determined. What Langdon must try to figure out is going to do what it can be that he says he will tell us tomorrow at 12:30 if we appear. He must have something very startling up his sleeve if he makes good his assertions."

"Nor," frowned Stevens, "and my political eye-sight is far better than that of Langdon's. Un-"

"I'm going to send for the ordinary cir-

"Jake Steiner," ejaculated Stevens.

"Stevens?"

"Well, Jake," said the Pennsylvanian, "you probably know something of what's going on in the naval affairs committee."

"You mean the biggest job of the session?"

"Yes."

"Sure thing, senator. It's the work of an artist."

"The boss of the senate" smiled grimly.

"Now, suppose a committeeman named Langdon absolutely refused to sign a minority report tomorrow, with a speech that read like the Declaration of Independence?"

Steinert jerked his head forward quickly.

"You mean what would I do if I was—or if I was running the job?"

"Yes."

Steinert leaned toward Peabody.

"Where do I come in on this?" he asked suspiciously.

"Come, come, man," was the irritable reply. "I never let a few dollars stand between myself and my friends."

"All right, senator."

The lobbyist thrust himself down in his chair, puffed slowly at a cigar and gazed thoughtfully at the ceiling.

"Few years ago," he began after a minute or two, "there was a fellow who was going to" sneak about a bond issue. He had his speech all ready to read to the country that he thought a crowd of the pluto-cracy was going to get the bonds to resell to the public at advanced rates."

Well, sir, I arranged to have a "He was at the insane asylum," called that night to take him to see the president, for he was told the president sent the carriage for him. When he got out he was at the insane asylum, and I can tell you he was bundled into a padded cell in five minutes, where he stayed for three days. "He thinks he's a member of congress," I told the two huskies that handled him. "I gave 'em each a twenty case note. The doctor that signed the necessary papers got considerable more."

Stevens' gasp of amazement caused the narrator genuine enjoyment.

"I know of a certain senator who was drunk and laid away in a Turkish bath when the roll was called on a certain bill. He was a friend of Peabody's," laughed the lobbyist to the Mississippi.

"But in his case," said Stevens, "we must be very careful. Possibly some of your methods in handling the men you go after—"

"Say," interposed Steinert, "you know I don't do all pursuing, all the going after, any more than others in my business. Why, senator, some of these congressmen worry the life out of us folks that sprinkle the sugar. They accuse us of not letting 'em in on things when they haven't been fed in some time. They come down the trail like greyhounds coursing a coyote."

The speaker paused and glanced across at Peabody, who, however, was too busily engaged in writing in a memorandum book to notice him.

"Why, Senator Stevens," went on the lobbyist, "only a downer member held me up to tell me that he was strong for that proposition to give the A. K. and L. railroad grants of government timber land in Oregon. He says to me, he says: 'What 'n hell do my constituents in New England care about things way out on the Pacific coast? I'd give 'em Yellowstone National park for a freight sidin' if 'twas any use to 'em,' he says. 'So you see'—"

"I must go," broke in Stevens, rising and glancing at his watch. "It will soon be daylight."

"If you must have sleep, go, but you must be here at 9 o'clock sharp in the morning," said Peabody. "Steinert will sleep here with me. We'll all have breakfast together here in my rooms and a final consultation."

"You won't place anything really desperate, Peabody, will you? I think I'd rather—"

"Nonsense, Stevens, of course not. Our game will be to try to weaken Langdon, to prove to him in the morning that he alone will suffer, because our names are on the deeds signed by our agents. Don't you see? Whereas his daughter and son and future son-in-law actually took land in their own names."

"How clumsy!"

"Yes. Such amateurism lowers the dignity of the United States senate," Peabody answered dryly.

"But suppose Langdon does not weaken?" asked Stevens anxiously as he picked up his hat and coat.

"Then we will go into action with our guns loaded," was the reply.

Had to Bow to Custom.

The late King Oscar of Sweden was the least conventional of monarchs, but he had to bow to custom nevertheless. The king and M. Bonnier, the botanist, met as strangers while out in search of flowers near Stockholm. They were soon the best of friends, and Bonnier suggested lunch at his inn.

"Come home with me instead," said the other.

"I'm sorry," said his companion, "but I happen to be the king of this country, and this is the only place where I can entertain my friends."

good health, with its blessings, must understand, quite clearly, that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to living aright. Then the use of medicines may be dispensed with to advantage, but under ordinary conditions in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time and the California Fig Syrup Co. holds that it is alike important to present the subject truthfully and to supply the one perfect laxative to those desiring it.

Consequently, the Company's Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna gives general satisfaction. To get its beneficial effects buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

ILLNESS AND POVERTY.

Conditions Existing Together on New York's East Side.

Illness causes most of the poverty in New York. For every family brought to actual want by drunkenness there are nine households in need because their wage earners have not the bodily strength to keep up the fight for life, says the New York Times. Next to ill-health, the lack of work is blamed for most of the pressing need. In forty-six families the proportion is eighteen cases of need caused by illness, sixteen by failure of find work, four by wages so small that they will not support the household, and only two caused by intemperance.

A few years ago charity meant giving to the poor right and left, to the just and unjust alike. Then the giving became a matter of organized charity, with agents to investigate and experts to weigh the stories of suffering so that the money spent would go as far as possible, and the unworthy could not impose on the kind-hearted. This plan anticipated that the needy would come to those offering relief. Then organized charity advanced to its most recent phase.

At first the Organized Charities, working with the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, sought to reach the needy by distributing cards on the east side addressed "To Men in New York Without Homes." They advised the needy to go to the Joint Application Bureau for medical aid, employment, or railroad fares back to their homes. In the Winters of 1906 and 1907, 27,000 of these cards were distributed on the east side. There were replies to about 2 per cent of them.

Then slips were prepared as being more thorough and far reaching. They were addressed "To All Who Need Help," and offered aid in cases of idleness, illness, or suffering from the lack of shelter, clothing, or fuel. Three thousand pads, each containing ten slips, or about 30,000 in all, were distributed among the police. Last winter there were more than 500 replies. Some of the applicants merely wanted advice. Others were aided in their search for work or supplied with employment for the time. Seventy-four of the applicants told of poverty and suffering that seemed to call for aid. Their stories were investigated and relief was offered to forty-six of them. No aid was required in twenty-four instances and four of the families were not found.

Besides clothing, shoes, coal, food, and medicine, money was distributed to nineteen of the applicants. Yet the amount of cash paid out was comparatively small. Of the eighteen families brought to poverty by illness, twelve of them included children. In one, there were three adults and four little ones; in another, four men and women and three children. The care of the needy families frequently covered a period of weeks, the average length of treatment being nearly two months. The largest payment of cash was $34 to two people who were out of work. The money given to nineteen families aggregated $239.44, or an average of $12.60 for each household.

That hard luck rather than viciousness causes most of the poverty in the ebb and flow of city life is also shown by the stories of the homeless men who come to the Joint Application Bureau. Most of them are single men under 40 years of age and have been living in lodging houses. Of 606 applications in 1905 and last year only 38 traced their troubles to drink. More than 100 were looking for work. The straits of as many more were so desperate that food and shelter were offered them at once. Illness had put twenty five out of the race. With all their misfortunes however the attractions of the metropolis were such that only twelve of the 390 asked for railroad tickets to take them to their homes in other cities.

Origin of the Tooth-Brush.
Colonial diaries and letters make it plain that our unfortunate ancestors suffered much from jumping tooth-aches, swelled faces and the early loss by forcible extraction of teeth which at a later period might have been saved to render the owners many years of further service. No wonder, since the care of the teeth was little understood and that little often but negligently practised.

Toothpicks were known, tooth-brushes were not, although rough substitutes were employed, made of flattened sticks, split and pounded at one end to a stiff fibrous fringe. Tooth-brushes when first introduced were regarded as by no means important accessories to the toilet, but rather as minor luxuries and suitable for women only.

"She thinks that her husband is very economical."
"In what way?"

"He says that although he is passionately fond of cloves, he never eats but one at a time."

"Did old Hogg see the joke in placing a banana skin on the pavement?"
"Oh, yes; he tumbled all right."

It's a mighty good thing that our wives have never thought to go on strike for an eight hour day.

A lot of energy is wasted in looking for easy jobs.

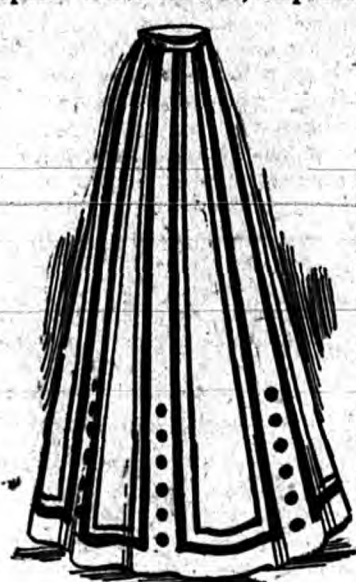

Degenerate Naples.
The Naples correspondent of a London newspaper says that the under secretary for home affairs in Italy reports that there are 100,000 people in Naples without house or even sleeping shelter, and that the worst drags of society are settled beneath the city's incomparable sky. Forty years of liberal administration had proved powerless to suppress the formidable Camorra, or the numerous other criminal associations, which were a sure obstacle to the maintenance of public order.

The following strange announcement appeared in the New York Times the other day:

WANTED.—MAN FOR DEMONSTRATION purposes on old English rack, star chamber pattern. Would have to be slightly stretched to show how rack works. Man should be short, to start with.

The announcement has to date gone without answer, because apparently, the Englishman is sufficiently conversant with the history of inquisition torture to prefer to allow the demonstration of old English racks to be made entirely by legend. The rack was an implement of torture in the days of star chamber inquisitions. From the term it self comes the modern phrase, "star chamber session," referred to a closely secretive meeting. The rack was an implement something in the shape of a bed. The victim's feet were securely strapped to one end, and his arms attached to a revolving roll at the head. Slowly the crank was then operated, stretching the victim bit by bit, until the desired confession or admission was wrung from the bed of torture.
