VOL. 34, NO. 6

FROSTBURG STATE COLLEGE, FROSTBURG, MARYLAND

OCTOBER 14, 1982

Last Friday, the dedication ceremonies for Project V-III, the mining sculpture recently built here, proceeded smoothly despite Mother Nature's attempt to dampen the day's spirit. Pictured above is the artist, Andrew Leicester who said that "the human element of coal mining was emphasized (in the sculpture)—the pre-mechanical era of coal mining as opposed to mechanical extraction." He thanked the community for their helpful suggestions, and their contributions of mining artifacts. Tony Urbis, a retired local coalminer, performed the christening duties with a traditional bottle of champagne, whereupon tours of the sculpture began. A schedule of future tours can be found on page 7.

Political Speakers Scheduled

by Louise Klee

Pi Sigma Alpha, the National Political Science Honor Society, and the Political Science Department of FSC are sponsoring a series of political discussions concerning local, national, and international affairs.

On Thursday, October 21st, a Meet the Candidates night will be held in LC Room 201 from 7:30 to 9:30. Twenty Republicans and twenty Democratic candidates have been invited, including all those running for Maryland's U.S. Congressional seats, and candidates for State and local positions. Each candidate will present a short speech, which will be followed by a question and answer period. Mrs. Mona Smith of the League of Women Voters will act as moderator. Anyone planning to vote in the upcoming elections is urged to attend what will certainly be an interesting evening.

A Mid-East Crisis Lecture series is also being scheduled, featuring presentations from three very prestigious stateman.

Dr. Clovis Maksoud, ambassador to the U.S. from the Arab League, will speak on The Mid-East Crisis: The Arab State's Perspective, on Tuesday October 19, in the Lane Center 201 at 7:00. The following Tuesday, at the same time and place, a representative from the U.S. Department of State will discuss the Mid-East situation from the U.S. perspective. On Monday, November 21st at 7:00 p.m. in the Multi-Use Room, Mr. Benjamin Abileah, Consul General to the U.S. Embassy of Israel, will present Israel's position on the recent events in the Mid-East.

Frostburg is honored to receive these guests. This lecture series is a very timely one, considering the recent controversial happenings in Beirut. This chance to view the Mid-East crisis from all three perspectives will hopefully, afford the spectator a better understanding of the situation. Frostburg students, faculty, and the community are invited to attend. Admission is free.

Play Review: "A Flea In Her Ear"

by Stephen Lorre

The FSC Department of Speech and Theatre has once again produced another fine play. "A Flea in Her Ear," a French farce by Georges Feydeau, has lost nothing in the English translation, as was obvious by the roaring laughter present last weekend in Compton Auditorium.

Under the fine direction of Dr. David R. Press, the individual actors and actresses came together to form a tight company capable of handling even the most chaotic and confusing scenes. Janet Officer, as Raymonde Chandeise, and Debbie Anderson, as Lucienne Homenides de Histangua, were the leading ladies of the play, and co-conspired to write the passionate love note which was to dominate the events of the following acts. Ms. Officer performed true to form as she gave an excellent presentation of the flustered yet manipulative Raymonde. Ms. Anderson also commanded attention as the extremely feminine, somewhat-sensible Lucienne. Her actions were true to character throughout, never once slipping out of her role.

Dr. Jack Vrieze had a dual role in the play as both Victor Emmanuel Chandeise, the husband of Raymonde, and as a drunken hall porter at the hotel where the second act takes place. This presence of "twins" in the play causes quite a bit of confusion throughout the second and third Acts. Dr. Vrieze adeptly interchanged both characters as necessitated by the rapidly alternate appearances of the two roles. Dr. Vrieze exhibited fine acting ability with the ease of a professional by presenting the two opposite roles equally well.

MacGregor O'Brien, as Carlos Homindes de Histangua, the husband of Lucienne, acts the role of a jealous and easily excitable husband who, after reading the love letter addressed to Victor

Jones Convicted

by Louise Klee

Jack Ronald Jones has been convicted of kidnapping, raping, and murdering Stephanie Anne Roper, an FSC student, on April 3, 1982. Jones was convicted largely on evidence from Jerry Lee Beatty, the other defendant, who will be tried separately.

The Prosecutor C. Clark Raley is seeking death in the gas chamber for Jones, who was scheduled to be sentenced by the jury on Wednesday. The defense is asserting that Jones' judgement was impaired on the night of the murder by alcohol, marijuana, and PCP, and that he didn't know what he was doing. A psychiatrist called in by the state, however, found that Jones did know what he was doing, and that use of large quantities of drugs and alcohol did not leave him "substantially impaired."

Testimony for the defendant was presented by his wife, his father, and a prison chaplain who said that Jones had "found God." "My feelings toward others have changed from hatred to love," he wrote, "... for I am a child of God." Prosecutor George Sparling says that Jones is insincere in his remorse, because he already promised once to follow the law. On September 24, 1976, Jones asked that an eighteen month sentence for breaking into a storehouse be reduced so that he could marry the mother of his nine month old son. He wanted a chance to lead a law abiding life. The request was granted, and Jones was set free.

Prosecutors countered Jones' pathetic tale with glowing tributes to Stephanie from Frostburg faculty members. "If I had a daughter, I would want that daughter to be just like Stephanie," said Dr. Kenneth Jablon. Robert Llewellyn, associate professor of the art department, "found her to be rare... very, very highly creative, intelligent... an individual with great promise."

Stephanie had attended FSC as an art major since 1978, and was scheduled to graduate in May. Her parents received her diploma amid a standing ovation. She was active in many organizations, including CCB, the Public Relations Office, the French National Honor Society, the Art Club, and State to Date. Stephanie was nominated as Outstanding Senior. A flowering cherry blossom tree will soon be planted next to the Fine Arts building by the SGA in her honor.

World Hunger

by Leslie Chalmers

Hunger, a profoundly devastating problem, is responsible for the death of approximately 15 million people per year. Because we live in such an affluent country, starvation seems an abstraction to many of us; however, to too many people it is fatally real.

The number of hunger projects around the world have been growing rapidly in the past two decades. The awareness level to hunger cries is increasing, but people still needlessly die.

Oxfam America, a non-profit, international service agency, has requested the assistance of Frostburg State College to increase the awareness level of the world hunger problem. Since 1970, Oxfam has been involved in the aiding of relief to underdeveloped and impoverished countries in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, where hunger is ubiquitous.

As a part of the program, Oxfam encourages an annual fast for a World Harvest every Thursday before Thanksgiving, this year falling on November 18th. By having an annual fasting day, Oxfam hopes to increase the awareness and bring about a better understanding of the problem of hunger. The organization asks that people willing to participate contribute money to the program that would normally be spent on food that day.

Oxfam and Frostburg State College are asking people to participate in the project for the millions starving. By sacrificing a little, you can help. We can put an end to hunger in the world; the project starts with you.

Frostburg University?

by Louise Klee

A number of students and faculty have expressed an interest in changing Frostburg's name from 'college' to 'university.' In response to this, the College Planning Council is polling parents, students, alumnae, and the faculty to determine the extent of the support for this change.

The Council itself favors a change in designation. Dr. Marc Baer, a member of the Council, feels that "university conveys a more accurate image," considering the scope of Frostburg's academic programs and student body. He also points out that the term college more commonly refers to a two year program, or a four year institution which doesn't offer graduate courses.

Results from a poll taken during Parents' Weekend support this. Eighty-three percent of the 179 parents polled favored a change in designation. One parent said, "Frostburg seems to have the reputation of a teacher's college, but that is not so....

and when I mention FSC everyone asks 'a two year college?' Change is indicated, deservedly so!" Another parent favoring the change simply stated "Name it like it is." Most of the parents who wanted the name to remain unchanged felt this way because they thought that changing the name would mean changing the institution.

Dr. Baer says that Frostburg would not change in any way as a result of the new name. FSC does not meet the State Board of Higher Education's specific criteria for the designation 'university.' These criteria require 4000 students and a certain number of accredited programs. Frostburg cannot, and will not be able to fulfill these requirements. There are, however, other universities throughout the country, including in Maryland, which don't meet these requirements. If the students, faculty, and alumnae respond as favorably as the parents did to the proposed change, the College Planning Council will begin to work toward it.

The Council could try to achieve the designation 'University' through two channels. First, it could request that the State Board of Higher Education review its guidelines in this matter. The second possibility would involve legislative action in which a bill would be proposed in the State Congress concerning Frostburg's eligibility for university designation. The result of the various surveys will determine whether the Council takes action.

Another reason Council members give for changing FSC's name is that there is a nationwide trend to designate as university any comprehensive public institution offering graduate and undergraduate instruction to a fairly large and diverse student body. Examples in Maryland include Morgan and Towson State. Dr. Baer feels that Frostburg, as a multi-purpose institution with a strong professional emphasis, should join this trend.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

At the present time, I'm observing massive amounts of pledging activity on our beloved Frostburg State campus. I appeal to the weak minds of the pledges of the fraternities on campus to write home and explain to someone of higher intelligence than themselves (Perhaps a Green Pea) what they are up to. Perhaps they will be made to see what degenerates they're being. I am not spouting off at the mouth; I have examples. I live in Frederick, (very happily I might add) where I have witnessed Sig Taus stealing toilet paper from the bathrooms. One intelligent member of the group donned a pair of pink panties on top of his head. One night while strolling to the library I saw frats running around campus yelling their

Dear Editor,

This letter is in response to Joseph Olah's letter of Oct. 7, regarding food fighting in the cafeteria.

Mr. Olah states in his letter that "the number of food fights is inversely proportional to the quality of the food." That's a bunch of crap. People throw food in the cafeteria because it's fun—not because of the food quality. I'd love to see him work out that formula on paper.

Mr. Olah goes on to say that "Custom Management obviously does not care about the wishes of the students." Again, that's a lot of crap. Under the new man-names—What Fun! If all of this is what the route to brother loyalty and long lasting friends entails then I'm Peter Pan. Grow Up You Ass—, Your Parents Did Not Send You To College To Buy SURFACE friends. One would believe you'd figure out how dumb it is by what you have to do to belong.

One "non-hazing frat," I couldn't leave out (other than the brilliant minds behind the KZX) Ph Kappa Phi, a relatively new and illustrious group who harbours enough zeros to make a bowl of fruit loops. But to show total fairness let's talk about some of the black frats. If during the course of your day, you hear what resembles a dog barking, keep your head eye level. It's an Omega. They bark at each other. Yes they not only agement of Kathy Guyler, Custom Management has been making tremendous efforts to improve the quality of the food and to break up the monotony with a wide variety of specials. Steak and lobster will never be on the menu—be realistic! If you want better food there are ways to go about it. There is a Food Service Committee that tries to improve the quality of food in the cafeteria—if you're so concerned why don't you get involved in that instead of making lame excuses for such childishness?

One fact that severely affects the quality of your food is the terrible amount of food students digress 200 years to brand each other, but they bark as a greeting. I'm not complaining, just appealing to Frostburg students to carry Milk Bone Biscuits throw one to a barking Omega. "BOW WOW." Another simple group is Kappa Alpha Psi, they carry candy cane sticks and don red hats—Cute, right?

I graphically and sarcastically painted a picture as to how far people will go to find their niche in life—to have something to call their own say "I'm something." Some of us will do anything, others of us are content just being the people we are. It's eye opening to witness such mockery of what life is all about. Thanks for your attention.

Sincerely Yours,
An Appalled FSC Student

waste. Throwing food is a part of that waste. Recently I penned a bill in the SGA supporting Custom Management in their treatment of food throwers. You're supposed to be adults—not a bunch of stupid childish idiots. Food fighting is dumb and presents a serious inconvenience to both the mature diners in Chesapeake Hall and the Union employees who are forced to clean up afterwards.

I don't like to make an ass out of anyone, but Joe—you asked for it!

Douglass Risinger
SGA President

SURVEY

1. Please check one of the following:

A. ☐ The designation of the institution should be change to university.

B. ☐ The designation of the institution should remain college.

2. The Council would appreciate a brief explanation of why you responded as you did.

RETURN TO: Dr. Marc Baer, Dept. of History, Dunkle Hall room 109.

Off-Campus Committee

by Barb Dyker

The Off-Campus committee of the SGA had its first meeting on Thursday, October 7th. The committee is working for the interest of the off-campus students in the college community. The committee will be publishing a monthly newsletter and is working on a directory of off-campus students. We are also here to help students with off-campus grievances.

Meetings are held each Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Lane Center, in room 207-208, and anyone is welcome so please come. If you have any questions or cannot attend one of the meetings, feel free to contact chairman Barb Dyker x2880, Box No. 18, or Betsy Regeimbal x8068, Box No. 105.

Rally— On Tuesday, October 12, several black organizations on campus sponsored a demonstration denouncing the Administrations actions or lack there of concerning minority faculty and staff members. An estimated crowd of 75-80 people participated in the rally, a good turn out for such an apathetic campus, although Sherrie Howell (pictured above, right), president of BSA stated that "it was mostly underclassmen who participated, as opposed to recognized campus 'leaders'."

Draft Resisters See Registration Failing

Draft registration isn't working, according to some of the non-registrants undergoing or awaiting prosecution. "The government...can't possibly prosecute us all," said Benjamin H. Sasway of Vista, Calif. Sasway was the first indicted for non-registration, and the second to be prosecuted.

"The trials are just a desperate move to intimidate people into turning themselves in and compromising their moral and religious beliefs," said Russell Martin, another draft resister, who was registered against his will by a U.S. attorney in Iowa. "A few people are being crucified by an agency that refuses to admit defeat."

The Internal Revenue Service is helping Selective Service to enforce registration. In mid-August, IRS mailed warning letters to an initial 33,000 suspected non-registrants born in 1963, said Roscoe L. Egger Jr., Commissioner of Internal Revenue. These names were drawn from a list of 250,000 names the IRS found by checking its files with Selective Service lists of non-registrants. Egger said IRS planned to mail notices to the others, and later provide up to 200 names to Selective Service. These, he said, "will be selected on a random basis" from those who fail to register after receiving warnings mailed by IRS.

In late August, an amendment sponsored by Sen. Haya-kawa (R-CA) and Rep. Solomon (R-NY) to the Defense Authorization Bill had passed both houses of Congress and was before President Reagan. The bill would require male college students applying for grants and loans through the Government to prove that they have registered for the draft.

The current prosecutions will raise the issue of illegal selective prosecution, said Martin. "I'm going to be prosecuted not because I didn't register for the draft, but because I publicly pointed out the failure of the program and the aggressive foreign policy behind it," he said. Martin was re-elected this spring as student body president of the University of Northern Iowa, in Cedar Falls.

"[Draft registration] is a political law designed to force people into supporting policies that they would not support otherwise. It has nothing to do with national security," said Martin. "Non-registration forces a debate on foreign policy."

Other non-registrants agree. For them, non-registration is an act of conscience. "Draft registration is preparation of war," said Russell F. Ford, who was imprisoned before his trial when he refused bail. "I am not willing to sign my life over to the government that brought us Vietnam, Watergate and the Trident submarine. I am not willing to withhold my protest...until the nuclear arms race has reached its logical conclusion in a nuclear holocaust...I am defending a view that wars, like poverty and prison, are neither necessary nor inevitable. They transgress the human spirit and ought to be abolished," he said.

Illegal Student Parking

by Wayne Pulliam

Currently there is a major problem with students and visitors parking around the residence halls area. Once a small problem, it has recently grown into a major concern of campus police and college officials.

Students and visitors are supposed to park in designated parking areas. This was once a rule that wasn't really enforced by campus police, but due to the recent urge by students to park near the dorms instead of walking from the designated areas, a serious stand toward this problem is being taken by campus police.

According to campus police, "We have been instructed to ticket any car that is parked around the residence hall area, and that the price of that ticket will be 10 dollars."

Campus police really have choice but resort to these methods of controlling the traffic. Basically, the reason behind the new stricter measures is that the area surrounding the dorms must stay clear in case of a possible fire or some other form of emergency, and the area must remain clear to avoid possible delay in responding to an emergency.

Students will find that it is far cheaper to park in the designated parking areas than to have to pay costly parking violations.

SGA NOTES

The last SGA meeting was held at 8:00 in Room 201 LC on Thursday, October 7.

Members of the House Finance Committee were approved by the House. They are: Doug Ludwig, Cheri Malanick, Paul Sweeney, Dawn Bush and Chairperson Bill Burgess.

Ric Marino was installed as Westminster Hall Rep and Ed Worburton was installed as Diehl Hall Rep.

Four Bills were introduced by President Doug Risinger. The 1st, 82-1 Cafeteria Food Fighting Resolution gives SGA support to whatever measures are necessary to stop food fighting in the Cafeteria. The second Bill 82-2 will establish the Beautification Committee as an ad hoc (temporary) committee for the 82-83 year. The third Bill 82-3 will establish a Homecoming Committee as an ad hoc committee for the 82-83 year with the goal of organizing a Homecoming Parade for next fall. The final Bill 82-4 gives SGA support to the College Planning Council's attempt to change the college's status to university. All four bills will be voted on October 21st.

Three allocations were unanimously approved by the House. They are: Men's Rugby $970, Women's Rugby $513 and Colleg Center Board $1,763.60. All clubs and organizations are reminded that they must recharter themselves through the SGA before they can receive any funding.

The next SGA meeting will be held October 21st in LC 201 at 8:00 The public is welcome. Sounding Board at 8:30.

Emmanuel in Lucienne's handwriting, thunders throughout the remaining two Acts, revolver in hand. Mr. O'Brien not only offered a fine display of emotion on stage but also impressed audiences with his acting ability.

Randy Marcoz, as Roumain Tournel, increased the confusion by ardently pursuing Raymond's affections, at the hotel (of course).

Steven R. Burchard, as Camille Chandeise, Sandra Tucker, as Antoinette Plucheus, and Robert Harden, playing Tucker's husband, Etienne Plucheus, complete the household which eventually ends up at the hotel. Pandemonium ensues as each attempts to hide from the other, aided by the fine revolving stage revealing with each revolution Joseph Castor, a sleeping drunk, and the incriminated characters who attempt to hide in his room. James Hadra, as the lecherous Herr Schwarz, provided excellent comic relief in the midst of this confusion.

As with any play, certain problems were evident in "A Flea in Her Ear." Character's movements seemed lacking in purpose at times, particularly in Act I. Members of the audience reported that, occasionally, some of the players were blocked from view.

Aside from these problems, and overlooking technical difficulties (which are often the result of a limited crew), "A Flea in Her Ear" ran smoothly during all three performances. Transitions between Acts were effected quickly and well due to the concerted efforts of the stage crew. Overall, Frostburg's theatre-goers thoroughly enjoyed the first production of the year.

foreign focus

by Mary Cialella

With a charming smile and compliment, Ashok Rajan seated himself in the Lane College Center snack bar for our interview. Ashok (who calls himself "A.R." to ease communication with his peers) is a twenty-three year old graduate student from Madras, India, where he has completed an undergraduate degree in accounting and banking. This required one year of pre-university study and three years of study at Loyola, a Jesuit school.

A.R. already has a Masters degree in Business Management/Marketing and Advertising from India. He explains that what seems like a repetition of study here in the U.S. is due to the difference of emphasis in the two countries. The Frostburg State program offers him the opportunity for specific research, exemplifying the people-oriented approach of Americans, in contrast to the result-oriented emphasis he found in India. Eventually A.R. would like to work for an advertising corporation in the U.S. after obtaining a Ph.D in Advertising in this country. He wrote scripts for National TV in India, and produced a sound and light show for the Prime Minister.

The attraction to Frostburg initially came about for Shok because his brother is practicing psychiatry at the Finan Center. Not only is having family a gradualization to the culture shock process, but A.R. believes that the state of Maryland, especially Frostburg with its slower pace, is a good place to evolve into American culture. He plans to move on to D.C., stop in New York City, and end the trip in California (similar to the sea resort atmosphere of Madras that averages a "comfortable 90 to 95 degrees" and consistent sun).

Ashok claims the goal of every student in India, where there is a significant movement toward a western trend, is to do some studying in America.

As he burns a cigarette, A.R. explains that students in India are very similar to those he has encountered in Frostburg. [There has been a media impact of our culture which began with blue jeans and chewing gum.] The average student comes from the upper and middle class, though education is cheaper in India. Over in his country it is difficult to get in, rather than stay in school, Ashok commented that he could not imagine a student dropping out in India. It is admission standards and not financial problems that deter Indian students.

Dating is definitely different in India. Though women are entering the collegiate and business worlds, due to economic difficulties, they are still restricted and conventional in relationships. Females will stay at home, often at the respected wishes of their parents, or go out with girlfriends. Part of the reason for

New Sources For Aid

Commentary: "Israel's Moral Nightmare"

by Jacki Gordon

Students looking for supplemental private scholarships, grants and loans should be pleased to learn that there are over 1,350 new scholarships available through The Scholarship Bank.

According to the director of the private search service, these scholarships are primarily for undergraduates, although graduates may also apply. Students are urged to apply in the fall for these sources as most applicants apply in the spring when most of the financial aid is used up.

The Scholarship Bank cooperates with college financial aids offices and does not duplicate their work, which is concerned mostly with public sources of aid. Students may get further information from The Scholarship Bank by sending a business-sized, stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Bank at 10100 Santa Monica Blvd., No. 750, Los Angeles, CA. 90067.

I recently read an essay in TIME magazine entitled, "Israel's Moral Nightmare". It encouraged me to formulate ideas and collect my thoughts on the present situation in Lebanon. As many of you may be aware, the conditions that currently prevail there are certainly less than optimal. Recently, massacre-type killings occurred in West Beirut with innocent deaths ranging in the neighborhood of 300-800 people, according to one estimate. It has since been determined that although Lebanese Christians actually carried out the slayings, members of the Israeli government had given the go ahead orders for such an operation.

Israel has now become the recipient of worldwide criticism. This criticism has arisen so vehemently because, until recently, Israelis have been considered a morally righteous people. They have acted out of self-defense time and time again against mighty foes. Israelis have always struggled to maintain their existence. Now it seems as though Israel has become the aggressor. Morally sound, morally just, morally righteous Israel isn't acting like an underdog anymore. Israel has attacked first this time instead of waiting to be plundered. Why the worldwide criticism? Because, at best, Israel's actions have been a far cry from the "typical, moral Jewish character". The actions are not in line for a people who has been downtrodden for most of its history.

I am not stating my opinion as to whether or not I think Israel was right or wrong in backing the Lebanese Christians. I would like, however, to point out in the IRONY I find within the whole situation: Israel, because of the very fact of being morally righteous, has received worldwide condemnation for the killings in Lebanon. On the other hand, such heinous acts committed by a "non-moral" country would pass by with much less criticism and speculation. Such acts would be "more in character" with a "non-moral" nation. Isn't it ironic that the attribute of moral righteousness is now being used as the basis for universal condemnation of Israel?

Thoreau On Unemployment: An Interview

Conducted By Jorn Bramann On Oct. 10, 1982

JB: Mr. Thoreau we are glad to have you here at Frampton Hall. How do you find life on our campus?

TH: The mass of men lead lives of quiet desperation.

JB: That is what you seem to think about life in this country in general. You think that people could be better off than they are. So you recommend less work, less material consumption, more respect for the environment and more self-development among all people. You welcome high and prolonged unemployment. Can you explain why?

TH: Most men, even in this comparatively free country, through mere ignorance and mistake, are so occupied with the factions, cares and superfluously coarse labors of life that its final fruits cannot be plucked by them.

JB: But most people find it quite normal to spend their lives on the job.

TH: It is a fool's life, as they will find when they get to the end of it, if not before. This spending of the best part of one's life earning money in order to enjoy a questionable liberty during the least valuable part of it, reminds me of the Englishman who went to India to make a fortune first, in order that he might return to England to live the life of a poet. He should have gone up garrett at once.

JB: But you need to earn money, in case you get sick for example.

TH: But you are making yourselves sick, that you may lay up something against a sick day.

JB: But people want jobs also because they want to buy things.

TH: A man is rich in proportion to the number of things which he can afford to leave alone. Most of the luxuries and many of the so-called comforts of life, are not only indispensable, but positive hinderances to the elevation of mankind. Indeed, the more you have of such things the poorer you are.

JB: I have no idea why English Professors like you so much, why they think you are great. They certainly don't believe what you are saying! How do you get along with the philosophy department?

TH: They are nowadays professors of philosophy, but not Philosophers.

JB: They'll love you for that. But back to the virtues of work:

you cannot deny that things have vastly improved since the 19th century.

TH: Still, we live meanly like ants; though the fable tells us that we were long ago changed into man.

JB: Are you seniors? Can you honestly say that a worker today, with all his rights and benefits, free time, lives like an ant? Or that our college president lives like an ant?

TH: He has no time to be anything, but a machine.

JB: People may find such statements arrogant. Although, on second thought, they find more truth in it than they like to admit. Anyway, if the administration paid the slightest attention to intellectual matters on this campus, you would very quickly be categorized as a trouble maker, a subversive—too controversial for the quiet they like around here. But back to your thoughts on working. Isn't the technology which we have created a useful tool to satisfy our needs?

TH: Man has become the tool of his tools.

JB: You mean we serve technology, instead of technology serving us? The means have become the ends?

TH: We do not ride on the railroad, it rides on us. Men are not so much the keeper of herds as herds are the keeper of men. And when the former has got his house it be the house that has got him.

JB: Sounds like Marx: Men have become the appendices of their machines, and so forth. See you'd better take it easy. People may not like your Concord grapes, anyway. We don't like to be called fools, hogs, robots—even if we are. Some English Professors call you a hypocrite, anyway, an account of you're having dinners at your parent's when you were supposed to rough it in the woods.

TH: If I seem to boast more than is becoming my excuse is that I brag for humanity rather than for myself; and my shortcomings and inconsistencies do not affect the truth of my statement.

JB: And that statement is: Work less, consume less, live more?

TH: I found that by working about 6 weeks a year I could meet all the expenses of living. My greatest skill has been to want but a little.

JB: The Chamber of Commerce would classify this stuff as high treason.....

Intramural Update

by Mike Bednarcik

Going into the fourth week of the season there is no longer any undefeated team. The Believers were upset by the FUDM's on Monday 14-12 to dispell any notion the Believers had of going undefeated. They still rank tops in both Offensive and Defensive statistics. They are averaging 25 points a game while giving up a mere 8. They are led by Chesildine (56) and Hayden (51). After the Believers 9-1 are the Lagnafs 8-1 who support the leagues second leading defense giving up 10 points a game, and also the 2nd leading offense scoring 23 points a game. These two teams meet Wednesday which promises to be an interesting tilt. Also in the thick of things in the American Conference are LC-RC 8-2 paced by Sheridan (61). The Cardinals are moving up fast after a slow start are now a 6-2-1 paced by House (50) and Hopkins (44). DBX at 6-2 and DPO-Ped 6-3 are still in the hunt for a playoff spot but with only 2 positions available some good teams will not make the playoffs in the American Conference.

In the National Conference, the FUDM's are led by the "Athlete of the Week" Allgiar for his outstanding Offensive as well as defensive expertise in leading his team to a 3-0 week and a 8-1-1 overall record. They have the leagues fourth leading offense and third leading defense, scoring 20 points a game and allowing 10 a game. In second, Real Diehl 3-4-1 lost 3 tough games this week and are only a half game ahead of the Loose Ends 5-4. Real Diehl has the leagues third leading offense scoring 22 pts. a game yet are allowing almost 20 pts. a game on defense. The Loose Ends are still paced by the leagues scoring leader R. Zimmerman 103 pts. or 12 pts. a game. The rest of the league seems to be out of a possible playoff birth with Sig Tau 3-7, KOTF 2-6-1, Loompas 2-5-1, and the Knack 2-6.

There are two weeks remaining including playoffs and the 1st Annual All-star game. The All-star game will pit the National against the American Conference. The teams will be picked by the Intramural Staff and selected captains. Any rain-outs will be played the very next Sunday at 5:00 and 6:00 respectively.

The Intramural tennis tournament was held this weekend with Mike Hibben defeating Scott Bates 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 in the men's singles final. Steve Marks finished a solid third in a small but strong field. Each contestant received 25 points for entering and 15 points for each win in addition to 50, 40, 30 points for their respective finish.

This week on Oct. 19 at 5:00 will be the 1st Annual punt, pass and kick tournament. It will be held on the soccer field with 4 categories, freshman through senior for both men and women. The top two finalists of each catagory will display their talents during half-time of the football game with Duquesne on October 30th.

Bobcat Cross Country Defeats Towson

Frostburg State's cross country team defeated Towson State's harries on Oct. 6 in a close(24-31) dual meet. The competition was held on FSC's very hilly 5.25 mile course in Garrett County, a course which has spelled doom for dozen of runners over the years.

Frostburg's Rick Hoffman and John Arias provided a solid 1-2 finish, and Jack Kiley solidified FSC domination of the top spots with a fourth-place effort. Hoffman's time of 26:41 was close to the course record of 26:32, which was set in 1978. Coach Robert Lewis said that Hoffman's performance was outstanding because of the hot humid weather at race time. Other Bobcats were junior

FSC's John Herring was unable to finish due to illness and Jon Maier, another leading runner, did not complete due to an injury. Towson also was missing at least one of its better men. Coach Lewis stated that the Bobcats will expect a great race from Towson the next time the teams meet, which will be in the Mason-Dixon Conference Championships on Saturday, Oct. 23, at Rocky Gap State Park. Lewis was also proud of the FSC squad for maintaining a FSC tradition of never having lost a dual meet to Towson since the series started in 1971.

Cardiac Cats Seek Third Straight

by Teresa Romeo

The FSC football team more recently known as the "Cardiac Cats" pulled out another close one against Randolph-Macon, 24-21. In compiling a 3-1-1 record, the best since 1971, the Bobcats have won by a total of 9 points. Not one contest has been decided by more than 4 points.

This past Saturday at Randolph-Macon, Frostburg revitalized their running game. Tailback Rich Prather carried the ball 40 times for 145 yards. It was the first time Prather rushed for over 100 yards since the opening game against West Liberty (117 yds.). He also scored all three of the Bobcats' touchdowns, which gives him six for the season. For his efforts Prather was named the Co-Offensive Player of the Week in the ECAC. It is the second time in his career this honor has been bestowed upon him.

Prather's success, however, would never have been possible if not for the exceptional blocking in front of him. The offensive line, which features center

Prather ECAC Co-Offensive Player

Each week the ECAC chooses the outstanding offensive performer from the past weekends games. For the second time in his career, Rich Prather(Silver Spring-Wheaton) has been winner of the award.

Against Randolph-Macon, Prather tallied three times from one yard out to lead the Bobcats to a 24-21 victory. All told, he gained 145 yards in 40 carries, both season highs. Prather, the third leading rusher in Division III last year, now shows 455 yards on the season and appears to be hitting his stride.

Prather was named CO-Offensive Player of the Week, last year for his season-ending performance against Duquesne. He ran for 270 yards on 45 carries, scoring 3 TD's. This week Prather's performance was matched by Steve Spano of Norwich.

Kevin Robertshaw, guards Russ Lindsay and Greg Shockey, tackles John Skowronski and Dan Haight, and fullback Charlie Harris should also be commended for their tireless efforts.

Quarterback Jobie Waldt, currently ranked thirteenth in total offense in Division III, threw for 277 yards, completing 16 out of 28 passes. Waldt, who has compiled 1225 yards passing this season, needs just 34 yards to break the FSC season record.

Kevin Theis led the receiving corps with 8 receptions for 91 yards. Theis made several key receptions to keep the Bobcat scoring drives alive.

The FSC defense continued to play impressively despite injuries which kept defensive back Joe Maye (thigh) and tackle Murray Wichard (ankle) out of the game. Linebackers Howard Blank, Happy Hall and Mike Lippold led the team in tackles. The trio combined for 15, 13 and 11 tackles respectively. Lippold also kicked a 44 yd. field-goal, the longest in his career, which gave FSC their winning margin.

The special teams should also be praised for their fine play. Terry Hersh punted 4 times for an average of 40 yards. Freshman Wilbert Allen was outstanding on both punt and kickoff coverage.

Earning honors for their performances are Robertshaw as the Offensive Player of the Week, Blank as the Defensive Player of the Week, Allen as Special Teams Player of the Week and Prather as the MVP.

The Bobcats next victim will be Waynesburg. Although the Yellow Jackets are off to a slow start (2-3), the contest should be a tough one. "Although they are having a down year," stated Peterson, "they always play well against Frostburg." In 16 meetings, Waynesburg has won 14, including the last eight. The last time Frostburg won was in 1973, 26-20.

The game will begin at 1:15 and will be broadcast by WFRB on 560 AM.

Women's Field Hockey Wins

While the FSC women's field hockey team dropped their first decision of the season this past week against Towson State, 3-2 in overtime, they more than made up for it with a victory in the Pitt Invitational.

Playing Division II Slippery Rock and Division I Ohio University and Pitt, the women won all three games, by scores of 2-1, 1-0 and 2-0 in overtime respectively to win the tournament.

Now standing at 7-2 and ranked 6th in Division III, the women look to continue their winning ways against Indiana (PA), a Division II opponent, on Oct. 13th and Loyola, yet another Division I foe, on Oct. 16th.

For the Bobcats, Pam Shriver shone in goal with 22 saves in the tournament. Mitch Lewis scored both goals against Slippery Rock, while Mary Hain added a goal against Ohio and a goal and an assist against Pitt.

Barb Barrett scored the winning goal against Pitt and added an assist in the Slippery Rock game. She also scored a goal in the Towson defeat.

Athlete Of The Week

Barb Barrett is this week's recipient of the "Athlete of the Week" honors, given weekly by the Frostburg Athletic Department to the outstanding athlete.

Barrett, a midfielder on the women's field hockey team, scored the winning goal against Pitt in the Pitt Invitational, added an assist against Slippery Rock, also in the Pitt Invitational, and scored a goal in the Towson loss.

"She is always a scoring threat," coach Chris Lottes commented. "She is constantly setting us up."

Other nominated for the award were: Rich Prather-football; Lea Pfluger-women's tennis and Skip Dostal-men's soccer.

Steve Landesburg A Lack Of Enthusiasm

by Meg Baldwin

Steve Landesburg, comedian and actor, recently appeared here on stage for Parents Week-end. Most people know Landesburg from the now cancelled comedy show "Barney Miller," but he has been an entertainer for years. For those of you who didn't get a chance to see him, Landesburg captivated the audience with his usual dry, sarcastic sense of humor. His performance lasted an hour and fifteen minutes and consisted of a repertoire of jokes and imitations that kept the audience laughing. They ranged from his most popular "Jewish Cowboy," routine to "Barry White," and "Gregory Peck". Landesburg poked fun at Frostburg, and at small towns in general. He took questions from the audience about himself, the Barney Miller series, and show business in general, which was probably the best part of the show.

Basically Landesburg showed little enthusiasm during his performance. Possibly he is better on Johnny Carson, then again perhaps he just had an off night,—but I doubt it. He seemed to run out of jokes toward the end of his performance, and looked to the audience for help. Overall, Landesburg's performance was lacking in energy, but then perhaps not, every comedian can't be funny all the time.

Men's Soccer Wins

The FCS Soccer team hosted Mt. St. Mary's, the 14th ranked team in Division II, on Wednesday, Oct. 6. The Bobcats secured a thrilling 2-1 win.

Skip Dostal scored the first goal, assisted by Toni Chase. Chase then added the other goal, with Dostal assisting. Dostal has been playing extremely well for the Bobcats. "We almost can't afford to have him out," coach Kutler stated.

Saturday, Oct. 9 the Bobcats traveled to Shippensburg. The battle ended in a scoreless tie after two overtimes. The game featured an astounding 55 fouls on the two teams. "We shut them out," Kutler joked. "I thought we had the better opportunities to score, although it was pretty even statistically."

Although the tournament is lingering in the back of their minds, the Bobcats realize they must initially focus on West Liberty on Wednesday Oct. 13.

FSC's current record is 6-1-2 as they prepare to go on the road again to face West Liberty. While West Liberty may not be the best team FSC will face this year, they are a very important hurdle in the Bobcats' quest to return to the NCAA Championships. "For us to keep the NCAA Tournament in mind, we can't afford to lose to them," Kutler replied. "They play in a small field and it is very difficult to score goals. We've played some games in the past where we have dominated, yet won by a 1-0 or 2-0 score."

are a very aggressive team."

Loyola presents another difficulty for FSC—an astroturf playing surface. "We have done well on astroturf in the past, but the game is very different. Stickwork is very important," commented Lottes.

The FSC women, fresh off the weekend tournament performance, now must keep their enthusiasm and determination as they embark on a week which could see them climb higher in the national rankings.

It's The Law

Commissioner Edward P. Flanigan of the District Court of Maryland, has agreed to do a series of reminders for our readers of the offenses most common on college campus. For the past five years, the Court through Commissioner Flanigan with the cooperation of Administrative Judge Miller Bowen have conducted this series, in a campaign to educate the students. It is the desire of the Court, to make this information available in the hopes that it will keep a student from getting into trouble end ending up with a criminal record.

District Court is located in Cumberland and is open each week day from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., the phone number is 777-2105. In case of emergency, a Commissioner can be reached by calling the Frostburg Police Station at 689-3000. Court is held on the first Wednesday of every month at Frostburg City Hall at 9 a.m.

A person may not drink alcoholic beverage on public property, parking lots, shopping malls or in any parked vehicles located on any of these places. Conviction for this offense could run up to a fine of $ 100. (Commissioner Flanigan's recent article).

To disturb your neighbors by loud and unseemly noises or profanely curse, swear or use obscene language upon or near to any street or highway within the hearing of persons passing by is a criminal offense. Upon conviction, the fine can run up to $100 and up to 30 days in jail (From Commissioner Flanigan, District Court of Maryland, recent article). This is a misdemeanor and would result in a criminal record.

FOREIGN FOCUS from pg. 4 this is the arranged marriages (rather than our practice of choosing partners for love) that are still common in Indian religions. This is undoubtedly why there are no coed dorms. Marriage ages, however, are similar to ours. Incidentally, the academic performance of females excels that of the male's due to the Indian emphasis on hard work.

Religion is extremely influential in India. Not only does it affect dating and social habits, but it also affects eating habits. There is a distinct class of vegetarians (mostly Hindu) and non-vegetarians. However, the stereotypes of snake charmers, sacred cows, and kings are not so typical of Indian life.

Racism — A Stark Reality At FSC

by Wayne Pulliam

For many black students choosing to study at a predominantly white college becomes a matter of academic and social survival.

Despite desegregation mandates, the majority of the faces on this campus are white.

Our world at Frostburg is much like the larger society which remains rife with racial inequality. For blacks, the civil rights furor of the 1960's and 1970's has faded away. Blacks are now becoming quite comfortable living in a falsely attractive society which momentarily closes our noses to the stench of inequality and racial discrimination.

As a result, blacks are losing a relatively short span of time what it took the black people years to acquire. We are again finding ourselves eliminated from the mainstream of the educational process, whether we like it or not.

Ask yourself the question, "Are minorities on this campus living under a false umbrella of security? Let's face the facts, society is gradually backsliding into a form of blatant racism—that when this reign of racism starts to pour, the only thing that can stop the deluge of racism is to become united as one and form not an umbrella, but form a working institution that will help to eliminate racism and inequality.

By no means is this a black oriented issue. The issue here is human rights, not black rights, white rights, or hispanic rights, but human rights. Through this appeal for human rights comes the appeal for mass support. Power comes in numbers and through power comes immediate action.

Right here on this campus, racial inequality has risen above just a level of consciousness to a level of "this is wrong and something must be done". The issues surrounding the rise of racial discrimination on this campus stem from lack of black faculty and administrative hiring, racial slurs and remarks, slanderous comments about the intelligence of the black students and faculty to use Affirmative Action procedures in hiring. The list goes on.

These forms of racism must cease to exist, but it won't be CONT. on pg. 7

LISTEN TO THIS:

There is an alternative to compulsory military service. If you have moral, ethical, or religious objections to participation in any war or military training, you can be a conscientious objector. One can be a CO regardless of one's religion; an agnostic or atheist can make a CO claim based on deeply held, personal beliefs. The Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors is an organization engaged in a nation-wide effort to inform people about Conscientious objection and related peace issues.

We are also registering conscientious objectors with our CO card. This card simply states: "Because of my beliefs about war, I am opposed to participation in the military." Should the draft be reinstated, and this is becoming increasingly likely, a CO card could provide important documentation of your status as an objector. For more information, write to:

COMMENTARY from pg. 6 easy. The easiest way to perpetuate racism is NOT to assert the rights that we as men and women stand for.

Let's stop the gradual deterioration of this institution by racism and social and racial discrimination, and rebuild its dation through a genuine determination by students who believe in complete and absolute human rights.

The entire student population must put down the tools of prejudice and unite as one to fight an element of society that spreads a heavy fog of racism which prevents us from seeing clearly. If we stick together, one day we will be able to see clearly.

The writing is on the wall in regards to the fortune of minorities in white institutions of higher learning. The data is in, and we don't have to look into a crystal ball to find out if racial discrimination is occurring.

Racism lives, breathes, and grows on this campus. Ignorance is not bliss here. The message is loud and clear.
